The California Domestic Partner Rights and Responsibilities Act [Stats. 2003, ch. 421] may impact other state laws that provide rights or protections based on family or domestic partner status, such as the California Fair Employment and Housing Act [Stats. 1980, ch. 992], the California Family Rights Act [Stats. 1991, ch. 462], and the California Insurance Equality Act [Stats. 2004, ch. 488]. Some other state laws that establish specific rights for domestic partners, such as the right to sue for negligent infliction of emotional distress or wrongful death [see Civ. Code § 1714.01; Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(a), (f)], or the right to be treated as a "stepparent" when adopting a domestic partner's child [see Fam. Code § 9000(b), (g)], may be largely redundant now. These laws, especially the ones enacted before 2004, represent legislative attempts to establish in specific contexts an equivalence between rights of spouses and rights of domestic partners that is the general rule after enactment of the California Domestic Partner Rights and Responsibilities Act [Stats. 2003, ch. 421]. However even apparently redundant laws may still have some significant features [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(f) (amended to allow a person to sue as a domestic partner for a death that occurred before January 1, 2002, if the person can establish the first six of the factors required for a domestic partnership under former Fam. Code § 297 as it read from 2002 through 2004)].

Despite the most recent amendments to the domestic partnership laws, registered domestic partners are not treated the same as spouses in all respects. For example, they are not entitled to numerous benefits provided to married couples by the federal government, such as marital benefits relating to Social Security, Medicare, federal housing, food stamps, veterans' benefits, military benefits, and federal employment benefits [Velez v. Smith (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 1154, 1173, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 642] . The prerequisites for the formation of a domestic partnership also differ from marriage, e.g., minors who wish to marry may do so with parental consent [see Fam. Code § 302], while there is no similar provision for minors who wish to register as domestic partners, and same sex couples must share a common residence before they can register as domestic partners [see Fam. Code § 297(b)(1)], while there is no similar limitation for persons who wish to marry [Velez v. Smith (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 1154, 1173, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 642] . An individual may be considered a putative spouse under Fam. Code § 2251 when the individual entered into a marriage that was void or voidable, but there is no similar provision that recognizes a putative domestic partner [Velez v. Smith (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 1154, 1172-1174, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 642 ; but see In re Domestic Partnership of Ellis & Arriaga (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1000, 1009-1012, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 401 (disagreeing with Velez and applying putative spouse doctrine to domestic partners)]..

The State Board of Equalization grants registered domestic partners the same property tax relief that is afforded to spouses, e.g., real property transfers between registered domestic partners are excluded from reassessment at full cash value for property tax purposes in the same manner that transfers between spouses are excluded [Strong v State Bd. of Equalization (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 1182, 1190-1195, 66 Cal. Rptr. 3d 657].

[d] Registration of Domestic Partnership

The Declaration of Domestic Partnership form developed by the Secretary of State must require a person wishing to become a domestic partner (1) to state that he or she meets the requirements of Family Code Section 297; (2) to provide a mailing address; (3) to consent to California court jurisdiction for a dissolution proceeding or any other proceeding related to the partners' rights and obligations, even if one or both partners leaves California; (4) to sign the form with a declaration that its representations are true; and (5) to file a form with notarized signatures with the Secretary of State. It is a misdemeanor to file an intentionally and materially false Declaration of Domestic Partnership [Fam. Code § 298(c) (operative January 1, 2005); see § 387.160 (form for Declaration of Domestic Partnership)].

Either party or both parties may indicate a change of name in the Declaration of Domestic Partnership [Fam. Code § 298(d)]. In such event, the Certificate ofRegistered Domestic Partnership issued by the Secretary of State must include the name used by each party before registration of the domestic partnership and the new name selected by each party on registration of the domestic partnership [Fam. Code § 298.5(e)]. Parties to a registered domestic partnership are not required to have the same name, neither party is required to change his or her name, and a person's name is not changed on registration as a domestic partner unless that person elects to change his or her name [Fam. Code § 298.6(a)]. A person may adopt the current last name of the other domestic partner, the last name of either domestic partner given at birth, a name that combines into a single last name all or a segment of the current last name or the last name of either domestic partner given at birth, or a hyphenated combination of last names [Fam. Code § 298.6(b)(2)].

No one who has filed a Declaration of Domestic Partnership may file a new Declaration, or enter a civil marriage with someone other than their registered domestic partner, unless the prior domestic partnership has been ended by termination, dissolution, judgment of nullity, or the other partner's death [Fam. Code § 298.5(c) (operative January 1, 2005)].

A person's reasonable, good faith belief that his or her domestic partnership was validly registered with the Secretary of State entitles that person to the rights and responsibilities of a registered domestic partner, even if the registration never occurred [In re Domestic Partnership of Ellis & Arriaga (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1000, 1003, 1008-1012, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 401 (applying putative spouse doctrine to domestic partners)].

[e] Termination of Domestic Partnership

California Superior Courts have jurisdiction over proceedings relating to dissolution and nullity of domestic partnerships and to legal separation of domestic partners. Generally, such proceedings follow the same procedures as apply in the corresponding marriage actions, and the partners have the same rights, protections, and benefits, and are subject to the same responsibilities, obligations, and duties as spouses in those actions [Fam. Code § 299(d) (operative January 1, 2005)]. However, in accordance with the consent acknowledged by domestic partners in the Declaration of Domestic Partnership form, proceedings for dissolution, nullity, or legal separation of a domestic partnership registered in California may be filed in California superior courts even if neither domestic partner is a resident of California or maintains a domicile in California [Fam. Code § 299(d) (operative January 1, 2005)].

Termination by filing a form is available for some short-term domestic partnerships, where there are no children or support issues and limited property, in a procedure modeled on the summary dissolution of marriage procedure provided in Fam. Code § 2400 et seq. The partners may file the form Termination of Domestic Partnership with the Secretary of State to terminate their partnership when all the following circumstances exist at the time of filing: (1) the notice is signed by both partners; (2) there are no children born before or after, or adopted after, registration of the domestic partnership; (3) the duration of the domestic partnership is no more than five years; (4) neither partner has any interest in real property, except for certain leases; (5) there are no unpaid obligations incurred by either or both partners after registration that exceed an amount specified by statute; (6) the total fair market value of community property assets is less than an amount specified by statute and neither partner has separate property assets in excess of that amount; (7) the partners have executed an agreement dividing their assets and liabilities; (8) the partners waive any rights to support;

(9) the partners have read a brochure prepared by the Secretary of State about terminating a domestic partnership; and (10) both partners wish to terminate the domestic partnership [Fam. Code § 299(a) (operative January 1, 2005)]. The domestic partnership will be terminated effective six months after the filing of a Notice of Termination of Domestic Partnership unless one of the partners has revoked the termination notice, and this termination will have the same effect as a judgment of dissolution [Fam. Code § 299(b) (operative January 1, 2005); see § 387.161 (form for Notice of Termination of Domestic Partnership)]. After the termination takes effect, either party may bring an action to set it aside for fraud, duress, mistake, or any other ground recognized at law or in equity, and a court may set it aside upon proof that the parties did not meet the requirements for filing of the Notice of Termination of Domestic Partnership [Fam. Code § 299(c) (operative January 1, 2005)].

[f] State Preemption of Local Domestic Partnership Laws

The provisions for state registration of domestic partners preempt any local ordinance regarding domestic partnership on and after July 1, 2000. Domestic partnerships established under local ordinance before that date remain valid, but after July 1, 2000, they are governed by state law provided that state registration occurs [Fam. Code § 299.6(a), (b)]. If state registration does not occur, the provisions of the Domestic Partner Act do not apply to the partnership [Velez v. Smith (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 1154, 1167, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 642 (registration of domestic partnership under local law does not constitute registration under Act)].

Despite state preemption, however, local jurisdictions are expressly permitted to retain or adopt ordinances, policies, or laws that offer rights within that jurisdiction or that impose duties on third parties regarding domestic partners, as defined by Fam. Code § 297 et seq., or as more broadly defined by the local jurisdiction, that are in addition to those provided under state law. These local rights may be conditioned on the partners' agreement to assume the additional obligations set forth in Fam. Code § 297 et seq. [Fam. Code § 299.6(c)].

State and local agencies may exercise their regulatory authority to implement statutes providing rights to, or imposing responsibilities on, domestic partners [Fam. Code § 297.5(h) (operative January 1, 2005)].

[4] Hospital Visitation by Domestic Partners

On and after January 1, 2000, health facilities must allow "a patient's domestic partner, the children of the patient's domestic partner, and the domestic partner of the patient's parent or child" to visit the patient, unless (1) visitors are not otherwise allowed; (2) visits by a particular person would endanger the health or safety of the patient, the staff, or another visitor, or would significantly be disruptive to the facility; or (3) the patient has expressed a preference that a particular person not visit. Health facilities, moreover, retain the right to establish reasonable restrictions on visitation."Domestic partner" for these purposes has the same meaning as that given in Fam. Code § 297 (§ 387.11[2]) [see Health & Safety Code § 1261].

[5] Gay and Lesbian Cohabitants

[a] Property Agreements

In sanctioning express and implied-in-fact contracts between nonmarital cohabitants and allowing enforcement of equitable remedies by former cohabitants in certain situations [see § 387.50 et seq.], the California Supreme Court appears to have indirectly approved the enforcement of cohabitation agreements and equitable remedies between gay and lesbian couples [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 665, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] . Willingness of the Court to apply the principles articulated in the Marvin case to same-sex cohabitants can be seen from the following:

- The Court concluded that the former Family Law Act (predecessor to the Family Code) did not govern the property rights of unmarried couples, andapplication of the Family Law Act would have excluded gay and lesbian couples because of the prohibition on same-sex marriage [see Fam. Code § 300; see also Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 665, 681, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; but cf. Fam. Code § 297 et seq. (provisions for domestic partner registration); for discussion of requirements for marriage, see Ch. 359, Marriage].

- The Court was careful to employ the term "nonmarital partners" as opposed to "putatively married persons" or any other term with primarily heterosexual connotations [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660].

- The Court did not condition the contractual options and noncontractual remedies approved in Marvin on the eligibility of the parties to marry or on the sex of the parties [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 683-684, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; cf. Kroopf v. Guffey (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 1351, 1357, 1360, 228 Cal. Rptr. 807 (domestic relations principles did not apply in action to enforce cohabitation agreement against nonresident defendant)].

- Sexual activity between consenting adults in California has, for the most part, been decriminalized.

Nevertheless, property agreements between unmarried couples of the same or of the opposite sex that are based on the performance of sexual services will be enforced only to the extent of any severable portions that are supported by independent consideration [see also Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 672, 674, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; see Bergen v. Wood (1993) 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 75 (oral agreement for companionship and hostess services, without cohabitation, are inextricably intertwined with sexual relationship and unenforceable); Whorton v. Dillingham (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 447, 452-454, 248 Cal. Rptr. 405 (oral agreement for sexual services with severable, enforceable provisions); Jones v. Daly (1981) 122 Cal. App. 3d 500, 508-509, 176 Cal. Rptr. 130 (unenforceable oral agreement inseparably based on sexual services)].

Apart from traditional contractual arrangements regarding property rights, unmarried couples of same or of the opposite sex may also use powers of attorney and powers of attorney for health care to secure for themselves the rights to manage one another's property and to be involved with one another's health care decisions [see Prob. Code §§ 4000 et seq., 4400 et seq., 4600 et seq. (Power of Attorney Law; Uniform Statutory Form Power of Attorney Act; Health Care Decisions Law)].

For further discussion of the enforceability of agreements between nonmarital partners, see § 387.50 et seq.

[b] Need for Agreement to Register Domestic Partnership

On and after January 1, 2000, unmarried couples of the same sex, or of the opposite sex who are over age 62 and eligible for Social Security benefits, who agree to be responsible for one another's basic living expenses, share a common residence, and meet other requirements, may register with the State of California as "domestic partners," as discussed in § 387.11[2]. [Fam. Code § 297 et seq. (operative until January 1, 2005)]. On and after January 1, 2005, the consequences of such registration are significantly broadened, and the requirements are modified, in particular by the elimination of the requirement for an agreement to share living expenses, as discussed in § 387.11[3] [Fam. Code § 297 et seq. (operative on and after January 1, 2005)].

It appears that elements of the registration requirement applicable before 2005 [Fam. Code § 297(b), (d) (operative until January 1, 2005); § 387.11[2]], that the parties share a common residence and have an agreement to be jointly responsible for each other's "basic living expenses" incurred during the partnership, is an implicit sanction of same sex partners entering into a binding contract that is in the nature of at least a limited property or support agreement. Note also that, while the registration statute does not expressly require a written agreement, such an agreement may have been contemplated by the Legislature, because of the enforcement rights of third parties to whom "basic living expenses" are owed and who relied on the agreement and partnership in extending credit or providing goods or services. In the absence of a writing, it would seem difficult to for a third party to establish reliance on an agreement. Therefore, the state domestic partnership statutes appear to reinforce the need for written cohabitation agreements, and lend weight to the premise that agreements for property and support should be enforceable by same sex couples if they are not otherwise entered into for an unlawful purpose.

[c] Custody of Children

The California Supreme Court has recognized in a number of cases that lesbian cohabitants may both be a child's mother, with attendant custody and support rights and obligations. In one case, the Court upheld a "second parent" adoption in which the mother of a child conceived by artificial insemination consented to the child's adoption by the mother's lesbian partner, thereby making the partner the child's "second parent" [see Sharon S. v. Superior Court (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 417, 2 Cal. Rptr. 3d 699, 73 P.3d 554] . In a subsequent case, the Court held that under the Uniform Parentage Act (Fam. Code §§ 7600-7730), a woman may be a presumed mother of a child of her lesbian partner if they agree to raise the child together, she receives the child into her home, and she holds the child out as her natural child [see Elisa B. v. Superior Court (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 108, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 46, 117 P.3d 660] . The Court has also held that when a woman provides ova to her lesbian partner so that the partner can bear a child who will be raised in their joint home, both women are considered to be the child's parents [see K.M. v. E.G. (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 130, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 61, 117 P.3d 673] . The lesbian mother of a child is also estopped from challenging the validity of a stipulated judgment declaring that she and her lesbian partner are the child's parents [see Kristine H. v. Lisa R. (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 156, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 81, 117 P.3d 690] .

The lesbian partner of a child's birth mother may file a petition to establish her parental relationship with the child who is conceived by artificial insemination from an anonymous donor [Charisma R. v. Kristina S. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 301, 307-308, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 332]. Her presumed parent status depends on affirmative findings that she received the child into her home and openly held the child out as her natural child. If the trial court finds that the woman is a presumed parent, then it should determine(1) whether the petitioner actively participated in causing the child to be conceived with the understanding that she would raise the child as her own with the birth mother, (2) whether she voluntarily accepted the rights and obligations of parenthood after the child was born, and (3) whether any one else claims to be the child's second parent [Charisma R. v. Kristina S. (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 361, 367-377, 96 Cal. Rptr. 3d 26 ; Charisma R. v. Kristina S. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 301, 309-310, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 332]. Evidence that the woman has no biological tie to the child does not rebut the presumption of the woman's parenthood [Charisma R. v. Kristina S. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 301, 310, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 332].

The petitioner is not required to receive the child in her home for a "significant period of time" to be considered a presumed parent under Fam. Code § 7611(d) [Charisma R. v. Kristina S. (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 361, 370-374, 96 Cal. Rptr. 3d 26] . The "receiving" requirement of Fam. Code § 7611(d) is a necessary formality, but not one that requires "receipt" for any particular duration [Charisma R. v. Kristina S. (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 361, 372, 96 Cal. Rptr. 3d 26] . Instead, the petitioner's receipt of the child in her home must be sufficiently unambiguous as to constitute a clear declaration regarding the nature of their relationship, but it need not continue for any specific duration. Although cohabitation for an extended period may strengthen a claim for presumed parent status, Fam. Code § 7611(d) does not require that cohabitation or coparenting continue for any particular period of time [Charisma R. v. Kristina S. (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 361, 374, 96 Cal. Rptr. 3d 26] .

[d] Tort and Civil Rights Actions

Civ. Code § 1714.01 provides that domestic partners, as defined in Fam. Code § 297, are entitled to recover damages for negligent infliction of emotional distress to the same extent as spouses under California law. Prior to the enactment of § 1714.01, case law held that an intimate gay or lesbian relationship is not included within the "close relationship" needed for recovery of tort damages for negligent infliction of emotional distress based on witnessing an injury to another person [Coon v. Joseph (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1269, 1274-1276, 237 Cal. Rptr. 873 (gay man who witnessed verbal abuse and physical assault of his gay partner lacked sufficiently close relationship, as a matter of law, to warrant recovery for injury); see Dillon v. Legg (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 728, 740-741, 69 Cal. Rptr. 72, 441 P.2d 912 (factors for negligent infliction of emotional distress: (1) nearness to scene; (2) sensory and contemporaneous observance; and (3) plaintiff and victim closely related)].

Also, courts have held that state benefits under a dental plan can be denied to nonmarital partners of gay and lesbian state employees without constituting unlawful discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation or marital status [Hinman v. Department of Personnel Administration (1985) 167 Cal. App. 3d 516, 523-530, 213 Cal. Rptr. 410 ; but see Gov. Code § 22750 et seq. (authorizing state and local public entities to offer health care coverage to domestic partners of employees and annuitants); Health & Safety Code § 1261 (visitation rights of domestic partners at health care facilities)]. For discussion of the distinction between cohabitation and marriage with respect to various tort and civil rights issues, see the discussion in § 387.31[5]-[7].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Cohabitation In General and Domestic Partnerships

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.12

§ 387.12 Unmarried Parents

Constitutional protection of the parent-child relationship extends to unmarried, as well as to married parents, and to fathers as well as to mothers [see Stanley v. Illinois (1972) 405 U.S. 645, 649-659, 92 S. Ct. 1208, 31 L. Ed. 2d 551] . Thus, the parental rights of unmarried fathers who promptly come forward to accept their parental responsibilities cannot be terminated absent a showing of unfitness [Adoption of Kelsey S. (1992) 1 Cal. 4th 816, 849, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615, 823 P.2d 1216 ; see Michael M. v. Giovanna F. (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1272, 1284-1285, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 460 (mother conceived cohabitant's child, then gave birth after marrying another man); but see Adoption of Michael H. (1995) 10 Cal. 4th 1043, 1047-1048, 1060 (clarifying Kelsey S. holding); see also In re Kyle F. (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 538, 540, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 190 (unwed father chargeable with unlawful intercourse under Penal Code § 261.5 is not necessarily disqualified from asserting right to withhold consent to adoption)]. A man who cohabits with a child's mother may assert parental rights and responsibilities with respect to the child as a presumed father based on receiving the child into his home and holding the child out as his own [see Librers v. Black (2005) 129 Cal. App. 4th 114, 123, 28 Cal. Rptr. 3d 188] . However, a woman who cohabited with the father of minor children may not seek custody and visitation rights with respect to the children as a presumed or de facto mother when the parental rights of the natural mother have not been terminated [Scott v. Superior Court (2009) 171 Cal. App. 4th 540, 544-547, 89 Cal. Rptr. 3d 843] .

For full discussion of constitutional protections for unwed parents, see Ch. 12B, Adoptions: Unmarried Minors . For discussion of issues relating to gay and lesbian parents, see § 387.11[5]. For discussion of the right of an unmarried woman to make use of procedures for artificial insemination, see Ch. 412, Paternity [see Hecht v. Superior Court (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 836, 852-855, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 275 ; cf. Kane v. Superior Court (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 1577, 1587, 44 Cal. Rptr. 2d 578 (involving right of surviving unmarried cohabitant to take custody of vials of frozen sperm willed to her)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Cohabitation In General and Domestic Partnerships

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.13

§ 387.13 Common-Law Marriage

Common-law marriage was abolished in California in 1895 [see Estate of Shipp (1914) 168 Cal. 640, 641, 144 P. 143] . Thus, the only way to contract a valid marriage in California is by complying with the statutory requirements governing "solemnization" [see Fam. Code § 300 et seq.; see also Fam. Code § 500 et seq. (confidential marriage for unmarried man and unmarried woman living together as husband and wife)]. These requirements include procuring a license, going through a ceremonial marriage conducted by an authorized person, and filing a certificate of registry of marriage [Fam. Code § 300; see also Fam. Code § 307 (religious ceremony absent clergy)]. Regardless of how long the parties live together in California and hold themselves out to the public as man and wife, a valid marriage cannot be contracted except by solemnization [see Estate of Shipp (1914) 168 Cal. 640, 641, 144 P. 143 ; Fam. Code § 300 (consent of parties alone does not constitute marriage)]. For full discussion of the formal requirements for a valid marriage, see Ch. 359, Marriage .

California recognizes a marriage contracted out-of-state as valid, if it is valid according to the laws of the place of contracting [Fam. Code § 308]. Thus, if persons coming to California have previously complied with the requirements for common-law marriage (ordinarily cohabitation with the intent to be married) in a state recognizing such marriages, the marriage of the parties will be recognized as valid in California. For further discussion of this rule, see Ch. 359, Marriage .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Cohabitation In General and Domestic Partnerships

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 387.14-387.29

[Reserved]

§§ 387.14[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Legal Effects Of Cohabitation

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.30

§ 387.30 Governing Law

The leading case defining the rights and duties of nonmarital partners during cohabitation is Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 681, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 . Statutory provisions that allow nonmarital partners to approximate the incidents of marriage include: Prob. Code § 150(b), (c) (mutual wills); Prob. Code § 5100 et seq. (joint bank accounts with rights of survivorship); Veh. Code § 4150.5 (joint ownership of motor vehicles], Civ. Code §§ 682, 683, 683.2 (joint ownership of real property); Ins. Code § 10170 (purchase of life insuranceirrevocably designating each other as beneficiary).

Statutory provisions governing the effect of cohabitation on rights and duties in a prior marriage are contained in Fam. Code § 4323 (spousal support); Fam. Code § 4057.5 (child support), and Fam. Code §§ 3011, 3020, 3040 (child custody and child visitation).

Statutory provisions prohibiting discrimination in the granting or denial of credit and in credit reporting practices based on a person's marital status are contained in 15 U.S.C. § 1691 et seq. and Civ. Code § 1812.30 et seq. Rights of unmarried parents are briefly discussed in § 387.10 et seq., and more completely discussed in Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Legal Effects Of Cohabitation

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.31

§ 387.31 Cohabitation and Marriage Contrasted

[1] Overview

Although cohabitation by unmarried persons does not give rise to the same legal effects as marriage, nonmarital partners may nevertheless acquire certain rights and incur responsibilities to each other and to third parties because of their relationship and living arrangements. The discussion that follows provides an overview of the various legal rights, remedies, and obligations that are affected by marriage, and contrasts the effect, if any, that nonmarital cohabitation would have on the same subjects. The discussion also suggests methods by which nonmarital partners may achieve some of the effects of marriage.

[2] Confidential Relationship

Married persons are ordinarily regarded as being in a "confidential relationship," which requires the courts to scrutinize their contracts, property transfers, and other business dealings carefully for evidence of unfairness to one another [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Coffin (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 139, 150, 133 Cal. Rptr. 583 ; see also Fam. Code § 721, as discussed in Ch. 122, Community Property].

Nonmarital partners, by contrast, are not considered to be in a confidential relationship merely because they live together. However, as with any two unrelated and unmarried persons, a confidential relationship may be found to exist in a particular case if one has gained the confidence of the other and purports to act or advise with the other's interest in mind [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 682 n.22, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] . In such a case, the parties' business dealings with each other will be scrutinized carefully for fairness.

For a discussion of the factors that a court will consider in finding a confidential relationship and the effect of such a relationship on the agreements of the parties, see discussion in § 387.53[3].

[3] Contractual Freedom

In addition to the restrictions imposed by their confidential relationship [see Fam. Code § 721], married persons are subject to certain limitations on their freedom to contract with each other. Briefly, married persons are forbidden to make contracts that (1) alter their "legal relations" [Fam. Code § 1620]; (2) promote dissolution of their marriage [In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 350, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323] ; or (3) waive or limit the support obligation of either spouse [see In re Marriage of Higgason (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 476, 487-488, 110 Cal. Rptr. 897, 516 P.2d 289 (disapproved on other grounds in In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 352, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323); see Fam. Code § 720; see also Ch. 225, Dissolution of Marriage: Spousal Support , and Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure 2d Ed. (Matthew Bender), Chs. 201, 210].

In contrast, nonmarital partners have great freedom to make express contracts structuring their relationship in any way they please. They may contract explicitly regarding the division of their property in the event of separation. They may contract that one partner will work while the other partner stays home and takes care of the house and that the employed partner will pay the domestic partner a salary for those services [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 674 n.10, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] . This freedom to contract allows unmarried couples to structure their relationship in accordance with their needs and desires, rather than in accordance with traditional notions of marriage. The enforceability of such agreements is discussed in detail in Part II. The drafting and preparation of express contracts between nonmarital partners is discussed in detail in Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure 2d Ed. (Matthew Bender), Ch. 200.

[4] Property Rights

In the absence of a contractual provision to the contrary, and except as otherwise provided by statute, property acquired by either spouse during marriage while domiciled in California is community property, in which each spouse has an equal one-half interest [Fam. Code §§ 751, 760; see Fam. Code §§ 721, 770, 1500, 1620]. This interest includes the right of equal management and control during the marriage [see Fam. Code §§ 1100, 1102], the right to one-half of the accumulated community property on dissolution of the marriage [see Fam. Code § 2550], the right to dispose of half of the community property by will [see Prob. Code § 6101], and the right to succeed to the other spouse's one-half of the community property if he or she dies intestate [see Prob. Code §§ 100, 6401]. For full discussion of community property rights, see Ch. 122, Community Property .

The community property laws do not apply to the property of nonmarital partners, regardless of how long they have lived together or how closely their relationship may resemble a marriage in other respects [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 681, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] . However, as discussed in § 387.50 et seq., nonmarital partners may acquire mutual rights to share in theproperty accumulated during the relationship in a variety of ways, including express agreement, implied-in-fact agreement, and quasi-contract.

[5] Tort and Contract Liability

Community property, including the earnings of each spouse, may become liable for the contracts of each spouse entered into during the marriage and for the torts of each spouse committed during the marriage [see Fam. Code §§ 900, 910, 1000; see also Ch. 222, Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation]. Although the community property laws do not apply to cohabitants and may not be used to subject the earnings of nonmarital partners to liability for the torts or contracts of the other partner [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 681, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] , in some cases other theories of liability may apply [see § 387.71].

[6] Wrongful Death

A spouse, domestic partner, or a "putative spouse" who is found by the court to have believed in good faith that the marriage was valid, has the statutory right to bring an action for damages for the wrongful death of the other spouse or domestic partner [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(a), (b), (f); see generally Levy, Golden & Sacks, California Torts, Ch. 55 (Matthew Bender); see also Fam. Code § 2251(a); Centinela Hospital Medical Center v. Superior Court (1989) 215

Cal. App. 3d 971, 975, 263 Cal. Rptr. 672 (good-faith belief in lawful marriage must be reasonable)]. The determination of good faith is based on an objective standard, namely, that a reasonable person in the same situation would have believed that he or she was lawfully married [Welch v. State of California (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 1374, 1378-1379, 100 Cal. Rptr. 2d 430 (couple made no attempt whatsoever to procure either a marriage license or formally solemnize their union; therefore a claim of good faith belief lacked any reasonable basis)].

The wrongful death action is purely statutory, and the statutes are strictly construed [see, e.g., Kunakoff v. Woods (1958) 166 Cal. App. 2d 59, 62, 332 P.2d 773] . If a person is not listed in the statute as one eligible to bring an action for wrongful death, that person has no cause of action, regardless of how close he or she was to the decedent, or how much he or she actually depended on the decedent for support. Thus, nonmarital partners who do not qualify as "domestic partners" under Family Code Section 297 do not have a cause of action for wrongful death [Garcia v. Douglas Aircraft Co. (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 890, 893, 184 Cal. Rptr. 390 (decedent's fiancee); Rosales v. Battle (2003) 113 Cal. App. 4th 1178, 1182-1185, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 13 (decedent's concubine under Mexican law)]. A limited statutory exception allows a person to sue as a domestic partner for a death that occurred before January 1, 2002, if the person can establish the first six of the factors required for a domestic partnership under former Fam. Code § 297 as it read from 2002 through 2004 [Code Civil Proc. § 377.60(f)(2)]. This exclusion of nonmarital partners from the wrongful death statute has been held not to constitute an unconstitutional denial of equal protection [Holguin v. Flores (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 428, 437-443, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 749 ; Garcia v. Douglas Aircraft Co. (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 890, 894-895, 184 Cal. Rptr. 390 ; Harrod v. Pacific Southwest Airlines, Inc. (1981) 118 Cal. App. 3d 155, 157-158, 173 Cal. Rptr. 68 ; Aspinall v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (9th Cir. 1980) 625 F.2d 325, 328] .

It should be noted, however, that minors may sue for wrongful death regardless of their relationship to the decedent, if, at the time of the decedent's death, they resided for the previous 180 days in the decedent's household and were dependent upon the decedent for at least one-half of their support [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(c)]. Thus, minors who are either the children of a nonmarital partnership or the children of one of the nonmarital partners by a former marriage are potential plaintiffs in a wrongful death action based on the death of one of the nonmarital partners. For further discussion of the procedure for bringing a wrongful death action, see Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions and Levy, Golden & Sacks, California Torts, Ch. 55 (Matthew Bender).

[7] Loss of Consortium

Since 1974, spouses have had the right to sue for loss of consortium--that is, for the loss of companionship, love, and sexual relations--when a third person intentionally or negligently injures the other spouse [Rodriguez v. Bethlehem Steel Corp. (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 382, 408-409, 115 Cal. Rptr. 765, 525 P.2d 669 ; see also Tong v. Jocson (1977) 76 Cal. App. 3d 603, 604-605, 142 Cal. Rptr. 726 ; Borer v. American Airlines, Inc. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 441, 444, 138 Cal. Rptr. 302, 563 P.2d 858 ; see generally Levy, Golden & Sacks, California Torts, Ch. 56 (Matthew Bender)]. This is a cause of action created by decisional law, rather than by statute.

However, the California Supreme Court has also held that the right to recover for loss of consortium is founded on the relationship of marriage, and absent such a relationship the right does not exist [Elden v. Sheldon (1988) 46 Cal. 3d 267, 277-279, 250 Cal. Rptr. 254, 758 P.2d 582] . In reaching this conclusion, the Court disapproved a court of appeal decision [Butcher v. Superior Court (1983) 139 Cal. App. 3d 58, 71, 188 Cal. Rptr. 503] that had held that a loss of consortium action could be maintained if the plaintiff alleged that he or she and the injured party were in a relationship that was stable and significant and the equivalent of a de facto marriage [Elden v. Sheldon (1988) 46 Cal. 3d 267, 278-279, 250 Cal. Rptr. 254, 758 P.2d 582] . The Court relied on the state's interest in promoting the responsibilities of marriage, and the difficulty of assessing the emotional, sexual, and financial relationship of the parties to determine whether their arrangement was the equivalent of a marriage, to require a legal marriage for recovery of loss of consortium damages [Elden v. Sheldon (1988) 46 Cal. 3d 267, 279, 250 Cal. Rptr. 254, 758 P.2d 582 ; see Matuz v. Gerardin Corp. (1989) 254 Cal. Rptr. 725 ; see also Zwicker v. Altamont Emergency Room Physicians Medical Group (2002) 98 Cal. App. 4th 26, 32-35, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 912 (premarital injury cannot provide basis for loss of consortium claim)].

[8] Obligation of Support

When persons marry, they contract toward each other a mutual obligation of "support" [Fam. Code § 720], as more fully discussed in Ch. 225, Dissolution of Marriage: Spousal Support . The mutual obligation of support between spouses is regarded as so important that public policy forbids any preseparation contract between the spouses in which the support obligation of either spouse is waived or limited [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Higgason (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 476, 487-488, 110 Cal. Rptr. 897, 516 P.2d 289 (disapproved on other grounds in In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 352, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323); see Fam. Code § 1612(a)(7) (premarital agreement may not contain provisions in violation of public policy); but see Fam. Code § 3580 (contract regarding support during legal separation as permitted)]. In addition, effective January 1, 2002, any premarital provision regarding spousal support, including but not limited to a waiver following termination of marriage, is not enforceable if the party against whom the support provision is enforced was not represented by independent legal counsel at the time the agreement was signed, or if the provision is unconscionable at the time of enforcement. An otherwise unenforceable support provision does not become enforceable solely because the party against whom enforcement is sought was represented by independent counsel [Fam. Code § 1612(c)]. The court may order one spouse to continue to support the other during the pendency of a proceeding to dissolve the marriage [see Fam. Code § 3600 et seq.] and in the judgment of dissolution [see Fam. Code § 4330 et seq.].

In contrast, there is no duty of support as such arising from nonmarital cohabitation because such a duty would revive, de facto, the institution of common law marriage [see Friedman v. Friedman (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 876, 883-890 ; see also Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 685 n.26, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] . Nevertheless, a duty of support between nonmarital partners may be based on contractual and equitable principles, as discussed further in Part II [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 684-685, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; Friedman v. Friedman (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 876, 883-890 (award of pendente lite "spousal support" on basis of implied contract in "Marvin" action was abuse of discretion)].

The Ninth Circuit bankruptcy panel has held that a stipulated judgment in an action for quasi-marital support is not a support or alimony obligation that is nondischargeable in bankruptcy under 11 United States Code Section 523(a)(5) [see In re Doyle (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1986) 16 C.B.C. 2d 761, 764, 15 B.C.D. 700] .

[9] Inheritance Rights

If a spouse dies intestate, all of the community property and a portion of the decedent's separate property pass to the surviving spouse [see Prob. Code §§ 100, 101, 6401, 6402, 6402.5, 6414; see also Ch. 441, Probate: Disposition Without Administration]. Beginning July 1, 2003, if a registered domestic partner dies intestate, the surviving domestic partner inherits the deceased partner's separate property in the same manner as would a surviving spouse [Prob. Code § 6401(c)]. By contrast, a nonmarital, nonregistered partner who is not related to his or her other partner is not eligible to succeed to the property of the decedent partner by intestate succession [cf. Rosales v. Battle (2003) 113 Cal. App. 4th 1178, 1184-1186, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 13 (decedent's concubine cannot inherit under California's intestacy laws despite having heir status under Mexico's intestacy laws)]. If the partners desire that neither acquire any rights in the property of the other by virtue of their relationship, the absence of intestate rights may be one reason to refrain from either marrying or registering as domestic partners.

However, if the partners desire to approximate the incidents of marriage as closely as possible without marrying, they may choose to make mutual wills [see former Prob. Code § 23 (applicable to mutual wills made before January 1, 1985); Prob. Code § 150(b), (c) (applicable to mutual wills made on or after January 1, 1985)], to put money in joint bank accounts with rights of survivorship (see § 387.33[1]) [see Prob. Code § 5100 et seq.], to hold title to motor vehicles (see § 387.33[2]) [see Veh. Code § 4150.5], and real property (see § 387.33[3]) [see Civ. Code §§ 682, 683, 683.2], as joint tenants, to purchase life insurance irrevocably designating each other as beneficiary [Ins. Code § 10170], or to provide for one another by inter vivos gifts of property.

[10] Family Allowance and Probate Homestead

Under certain circumstances, a surviving spouse may have the right to declare a probate homestead in, and to receive a family allowance from, the estate of a decedent spouse [see Prob. Code § 6520 et seq. (probate homestead); Prob. Code § 6540 et seq. (family allowance); see generally Ch. 448, Probate: Family Allowance]. Because these rights are statutory, a nonmarital partner will not be entitled to claim them on death of the other partner. If the nonmarital partners wish to make provision for each other in the event of death, they may do so by will, by executing mutual written promises that each is entitled to be paid a certain sum from the estate of the other, or by buying life insurance and designating the other person as beneficiary.

[11] Right to Administer Estate

By statute, a surviving spouse or a domestic partner is given first priority in being appointed administrator of a decedent spouse's estate if the decedent died intestate or did not name an executor in his or her will [Prob. Code §§ 8440,8460, 8461(a), 8462; see Prob. Code § 37 (definitions of "domestic partner" and "surviving domestic partner")]. A nonmarital partner who is not a "domestic partner" as defined under Family Code Section 297, unless related to his or her decedent partner and "entitled to succeed" to a portion of the decedent's estate as an heir, has no priority to administer the decedent partner's estate except under the eighteenth and last statutory category of "any other person" [Prob. Code §§ 8461, 8462].

[12] Employment Benefits

Certain employment fringe benefits, such as insurance coverage, may be offered to spouses of married persons, but not to partners of unmarried cohabitants without violating the equal protection clause of the California Constitution. For example, one court of appeal has held that gay and lesbian nonmarital partners of state employees may be denied dental benefits without unlawfully discriminating on the bases of sexual orientation and marital status. The court in that case reasoned that the denial of benefits was not based on sexual orientation because all unmarried persons were similarly treated and were denied benefits. Furthermore, the statutory distinction, conferring statutory rights on married persons that are not afforded unmarried persons, was rationally related to the legitimate state purpose of promoting marriage [Hinman v. Department of Personnel Administration (1985) 167 Cal. App. 3d 516, 523-530, 213 Cal. Rptr. 410] .

[13] Unemployment Benefits

A person who voluntarily resigns from employment and chooses to accompany his or her nonmarital partner to another location may be able to collect state unemployment insurance benefits if the resignation occurred in order to preserve the family unit established between the partners [MacGregor v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 205, 207, 207 Cal. Rptr. 823, 689 P.2d 453] . For purposes of Unemp. Ins. Code § 1256, the California Supreme Court has held that "good cause" for resignation includes the desire to preserve a nonmarital family relationship [MacGregor v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 205, 207, 207 Cal. Rptr. 823, 689 P.2d 453] . However, it appears that the duration of the relationship, the existence of one or more children of the relationship, the acknowledgment of parenthood of those children by the nonmarital partners, and the assumption of responsibilities for care and support of the children by the partners are all factors the court will consider in determining whether a family relationship exists [MacGregor v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 205, 214, 207 Cal. Rptr. 823, 689 P.2d 453] .

Unemp. Ins. Code § 1256 otherwise provides that an individual may be deemed to have left his or her most recent work with good cause if he or she leaves employment to accompany his or her spouse to a place from which it is impractical to commute to the employment. For these purposes, "spouse" includes a person to whom marriage is imminent [Unemp.

Ins. Code § 1256; Altaville Drug Store, Inc. v. Employment Development Department (1988) 44 Cal. 3d 231, 233, 236-237, 242 Cal. Rptr. 732, 746 P.2d 871] . If the marriage is not imminent, however, the employee does not have "good cause" to resign voluntarily from his or her employment [Norman v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 1, 9, 192 Cal. Rptr. 134, 663 P.2d 904] .

For further discussion of eligibility of unemployment insurance benefits, see Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 80 (Matthew Bender).

[14] Tax Impact

Some of the most important practical consequences of marriage are found in the areas of income, gift, and estate taxation. Married persons are eligible to file joint income tax returns [I.R.C. § 6013]. They are eligible for gift tax exemptions and deductions [I.R.C. § 2523], and for the marital deduction from estate tax [I.R.C. § 2056]. In contrast, nonmarital partners are given none of the tax advantages conferred on married persons. For discussion of the tax consequences of express contracts between nonmarital partners to pool earnings, to provide support, or to pay one another compensation for services, see Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure 2d Ed. (Matthew Bender), Ch. 200.

A nonmarital partner may, under some circumstances, claim his or her cohabitant and the cohabitant's children as dependents, provided they have resided in the same household for an entire year, the taxpayer has paid more than one-half their support, and certain other requirements are met [I.R.C. §§ 151(c), 152(d)(1), 152(d)(2)(H); see I.R.C. § 152(f)(3); Treas. Reg. § 1.152-1(b) (no dependency exemption if relationship illegal); L. Turnipseed (1957) 27 T.C. 758 ; Buckley v. Commissioner (1962) 37 T.C. 664 ; Ensminger v. Commissioner of Int. Rev. (4th Cir. 1979) 610 F.2d 189 , cert. denied, 446 U.S. 941 (1980) ; see also Billy L. Kieffer, Sr. v. Commissioner (1987) T.C.M. 1987-213 (taxpayer's former wife cohabited with him and looked after their children; dependency exemption allowed)]. For further discussion, see CCH Federal Tax Service.

[15] Evidentiary Privileges

When persons marry, they become entitled to assert two evidentiary privileges: (1) the privilege against disclosure of confidential marital communications [Evid. Code § 980-987]; and (2) the privilege not to testify against one's spouse or to be called as a witness against one's spouse in any proceeding in which that spouse is a party [Evid. Code § 970-973]. These privileges are discussed in Ch. 359, Marriage .

These evidentiary privileges are not included in the rules of evidence to further the discovery of the truth, but rather to protect marriage from dissension, discord,and distrust which might arise if the spouses could not confide in each other and keep each other's secrets [see People v. Peak (1944) 66 Cal. App. 2d 894, 903, 153 P.2d 464 (disapproved on other grounds in People v. Hood (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 444, 454, 82 Cal. Rptr. 618, 462 P.2d 370)]. No comparable evidentiary privileges protect confidentiality of a nonmarital relationship.

[16] Minority and Parental Authority

Marriage "emancipates" a minor and terminates parental authority [Fam. Code §§ 7002(a), 7505(b); see also discussion in Ch. 394, Parent and Child]. Likewise, marriage terminates a guardianship of the person of a minor, although guardianship of the minor's estate continues until the minor reaches 18 years of age [Prob. Code § 1600].

In contrast, unmarried cohabitation by a minor has no effect on the authority of a parent or guardian over that minor, nor does it have any impact on the contractual capacity of a minor.

[17] Obtaining Credit

State and federal law prohibit discrimination in the granting or denial of credit and in credit reporting practices based on a person's marital status [see 15 U.S.C. § 1691 et seq.; Civ. Code § 1812.30 et seq.]. The extent of protection offered nonmarital partners under these statutes and the remedies available for violations are discussed in § 387.34.

[18] Criminal Liability

In most respects the potential criminal liability of married persons and nonmarital partners is the same. Since the passage of the so-called "Consenting Adults Bill" [Stats. 1975, ch. 71], and previous ameliorative legislation, adultery, cohabitation, and adulterous cohabitation are no longer crimes in California. Fornication has never been a crime in California. Thus, marital status generally has little effect on a person's criminal liability for sexual behavior. The one major area of difference is that a married person can be prosecuted for bigamy if he or she knowingly marries while a spouse from a previous undissolved marriage is still alive [see Penal Code §§ 281-284; see also Ch. 359, Marriage]. In contrast, a person who is engaging in a nonmarital partnership, even one of long duration, is subject to no criminal penalty if he or she later marries a third person.

In one other case, marital status continues to determine criminal liability. An act of sexual intercourse with a female who is not the wife of the perpetrator constitutes "unlawful sexual intercourse" if the female is under the age of 18 years [Penal Code § 261.5], and is punishable by incarceration in the county jail or state prison [Penal Code § 264]. By its terms, this statute does not apply if the male and female are married.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Legal Effects Of Cohabitation

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.32

§ 387.32 Effect of Cohabitation by Married or Divorced Person

The Family Code and its predecessor, the Family Law Act [see former Civ. Code § 4000 et seq.], have taken fault out of most family law proceedings. Dissolution is available for irreconcilable differences [Fam. Code § 2310(a)]. Equal division of the community property is mandatory, regardless of spousal misdeeds [Fam. Code § 2550; see discussion in Ch. 222, Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation]. Evidence of acts of misconduct by a spouse is generally inadmissible in dissolution proceedings [see Fam. Code § 2335]. Thus, cohabitation by either spouse with a third party before the marriage is terminated will have no effect on the right to dissolution or the division of property.

The amount of spousal support, either temporary or permanent, will probably be affected by cohabitation. Under Fam. Code § 4323, cohabitation by a supported party creates a rebuttable presumption of a diminished need for support. The effect of this presumption is fully discussed in Ch. 225, Dissolution of Marriage: Spousal Support .

In some circumstances, the amount of child support may be affected by cohabitation [see Fam. Code § 4057.5]. For further discussion, see Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support .

Cohabitation may also have an effect on child custody and visitation rights. The court may consider the living arrangements of a parent in determining the best interests of the child, which is the basis for determining the right to custody between parents or in awarding custody to a nonparent based on detriment to the child from parental custody [see Fam. Code § 3011, 3020, 3040]. A parent's cohabitation could also be considered in connection with a proposed change of child custody. Such cohabitation could either be a positive or negative factor in the court's custody determination [see In re Reyna (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 288, 298, 126 Cal. Rptr. 138] . For full discussion of standards for custody orders and modification or termination of custody orders, see Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Legal Effects Of Cohabitation

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.33

§ 387.33 Joint Property Ownership by Unmarried Cohabitants

[1] Joint Bank Accounts

The California Multiple-Party Accounts Law [see Prob. Code § 5100 et seq.] governs multiple-party accounts without regard to the type of financial institution involved. All joint accounts are multiple-party accounts [see Prob. Code § 5132(a)]. The law applies to accounts in existence on July 1, 1990, and to accounts established after that date. Under this law, a deposit made in a bank in the names of two cohabitants made payable to the survivor is no longer presumed to be in joint tenancy, as was the case prior to July 1, 1990 [see former Fin. Code§ 825 (statutory presumption repealed operative July 1, 1990, by Stats. 1989, ch. 397)].

A signature card, passbook, contract, or instrument evidencing an account must contain substantially the following words, or words to the same effect, to create a joint account: "This account or certificate is owned by the named parties. Upon the death of any of them, ownership passes to the survivor(s)" [Prob. Code § 5203(a)(1)]. Tenancy in common accounts are created by stating: "This account or certificate is owned by the named parties as tenants in common. On the death of any party, the ownership interest of that party passes to the named pay-on-death payee(s) of that party or, if none, to the estate of that party" [Prob. Code § 5203(a)(6)]. The form language quoted above is not necessary if the contract of deposit creates substantially the same relationship between the parties as the form language does [see Prob. Code § 5203(b)].

In addition, under the Multiple Party-Accounts Law, during the lifetime of nonmarital partners having an account together, the account belongs to the parties in proportion to the net contributions by each to the sums on deposit, unless there is clear and convincing evidence of a different intent [see Prob. Code § 5301(a)]. However, each party to a multiple-party account may be vulnerable to withdrawal of the funds in the account by the other party regardless of the net contribution of the parties [see Prob. Code § 5401(a), (c)(3)], unless the terms of the account or deposit agreement provide safeguards such as the requirement of the signatures of both parties on any checks or withdrawal requests or orders [see Prob. Code § 5401(b)]. Withdrawal of funds in excess of a party's net contribution to the account will transfer ownership by way of gift, to the extent that there is no agreement, special power of attorney, or independent legal obligation that requires the withdrawing party to account for the funds [Lee v. Yang (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th

481, 491-492, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 819 (no right to reimbursement of funds withdrawn by party following broken engagement); see Prob. Code § 5301(a)]. For discussion of the effect of the California Multiple-Party Accounts Law on married couples, see Ch. 222, Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation .

[2] Joint Ownership of Automobiles

Two or more persons may be co-owners of a motor vehicle as joint tenants, partners, tenants in common, or as husband and wife owning community property [Veh. Code § 4150.5; Civ. Code § 682]. The words describing the joint owners on the certificate of ownership (title) determine whose signature is required to transfer the vehicle inter vivos and whether or not it must go through probate on the death of one of the co-owners.

If the automobile is registered to "Harriet Winter or Paul Hoffman" without an indication of community ownership or tenancy in common, the vehicle is deemed held in joint tenancy. On the death of a co-owner the interest of the decedent passes to the survivor unless a contrary intention is set forth in writing on the application for registration [Veh. Code § 4150.5(a), (b)]. However, the use of the conjunction "or" means that either of the co-owners may transfer the vehicle during the lifetime of the other without obtaining his or her signature [Veh. Code § 4150.5(a), (b)].

Survivorship rights can be combined with a requirement that the signatures of both parties are necessary for an inter vivos transfer or conveyance of the vehicle by the parties taking title in the following manner: "Harriet Winter and Paul Hoffman as joint tenants with right of survivorship" [see Veh. Code § 4150.5(c)]. If reference to joint tenancy is omitted, so that title reads "Harriet Winter and Paul Hoffman," both signatures are still required for inter vivos transfer, but the vehicle is subject to probate in the event of one party's death.

[3] Joint Ownership of Real Property

[a] In General

Unmarried cohabitants make title in one of the three following forms, if they decide to purchase real property jointly: (1) as joint tenants, (2) as tenants in common, or (3) as tenants in partnership [see Civ. Code § 682].

The discussion below is confined to a brief treatment of joint tenancy and tenancy in common, because property is not usually taken in the name of a partnership unless it is owned by a number of persons or used in a partnership business.

It is also possible to hold jointly owned property in the name of one of the cohabitants. However, the interest of the person whose name does not appear on the record title will be subject to loss if the person with record title sells the property to a bona fide purchaser for value without notice of the interest of the other cohabitant [see Huber v. Danning, (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1992) 147 B.R. 526) (cohabitant's equitable interest in shared residence lost when property sold in bankruptcy proceedings of cohabitant/debtor who held grant deed); see Civ. Code §§ 1107, 1214; see also California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 82 (Matthew Bender)].

For a general discussion of jointly held interests, see Ch. 316, Joint Tenancy and Tenancy In Common . For a more detailed discussion, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 345 (Matthew Bender).

[b] Joint Tenancy

The principal distinguishing feature of joint tenancy is the "right of survivorship," which provides that when one joint tenant dies the other automatically assumes full ownership of the property [see, e.g., Siberell v. Siberell (1932) 7 P.2d 1003] . Because a decedent's interest in joint tenancy is not subject to probate administration [Cole v. Cole (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 691, 694, 294 P.2d 494] , this form of ownership is a popular means of avoiding probate. However, the operation of the right of survivorship on the death of one of the joint tenants is a transfer subject to federal estate tax [see I.R.C. § 2040]. For discussion of estate tax treatment of joint tenancy interests, see CCH Federal Tax Service

(CCH).

In order to characterize ownership of real property as a joint tenancy, the interests of each joint tenant in the property must be identical and coextensive [E.g., Kaupe v. Kaupe (1955) 131 Cal. App. 2d 511, 513, 280 P.2d 856] . Thus, this form of tenancy should not be used unless the parties intend that each should own a half interest in the property, and desire a right of survivorship.

[c] Tenancy in Common

Tenancy in common is the other major option for ownership of real property between nonmarital partners. Ownership of real property by more than one person, if not in the form of joint tenancy, tenancy in partnership, or community property, constitutes a tenancy in common [Civ. Code §§ 685, 686].

The primary attributes of a tenancy in common are as follows:

(1) Each tenant in common owns an undivided interest in the real property [Estate of Horn (1951) 102 Cal. App. 2d 635, 639, 228 P.2d 99] .

(2) Unlike joint tenancy, there is no right of survivorship (see § 387.33[3][b]), and thus each tenant has the power to devise his or her interest in the property by will. This fact makes tenancy in common the preferred form of title for an nonmarital partner who wishes his or her interest in the real property to go to his or her children or third persons on death, rather than to the nonmarital partner. Of course, one partner's interest can be willed to the other if the testator so chooses.

(3) No tenant in common may exclude his or her cotenants from the property [see, e.g., Zaslow v. Kroenert (1946) 29 Cal. 2d 541, 548, 176 P.2d 1] .

(4) The interests of cotenants need not be equal; one nonmarital partner may, for example, own an undivided one-third interest in the property while the other owns an undivided two-thirds interest. In this way, each party's ownership interests may reflect the actual value of his or her contribution to the purchase of the property. The percentage interests of each cotenant should be set forth in the deed or other writing [see Civ. Code § 1091].

(5) The decedent's interest in real property as a tenant in common is subject to probate administration under the general rule that any property that can be disposed of by will must be administered in probate [see Estate of Heigho (1960) 186 Cal. App. 2d 360, 365, 9 Cal. Rptr. 196] .

For discussion of estate tax treatment of property held by a decedent as a tenant in common, see CCH Federal Tax Service (CCH).

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Legal Effects Of Cohabitation

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.34

§ 387.34 Credit Discrimination Against Unmarried Cohabitants--Requirement of Equal Treatment

"Credit" may be defined as the obtainment of money, property, labor, or services on a deferred-payment basis [Civ. Code § 1812.30(g)]. Both federal and state law prohibit discrimination on the basis of marital status in either extending credit or reporting credit information [see 15 U.S.C. § 1691 et seq.; Civ. Code § 1812.30 et seq.]. Thus, no unmarried person may be denied credit if his or her earnings and other property are such that a married person managing and controlling the same amount of earnings and other property would receive credit [Civ. Code § 1812.30(c)], nor may an unmarried person be offered credit on terms less favorable than those offered to a married person managing and controlling the same amount of earnings and other property [Civ. Code § 1812.30(d)].

It is not clear whether the statutory provisions above guarantee that an unmarried couple with combined earnings and other property equal to that of a married couple is entitled to equal treatment in the extension of credit to them as a couple. For example, if Todd is earning $15,000 per year and his nonmarital partner Mary is earning $10,000 per year, it has not yet been determined whether they are entitled by statute to equal treatment when they apply for a mortgage loan from Bank X, as are their married friends John and Bernice who have the same incomes. It can be argued that a refusal to lend to Todd and Mary as a couple because they are not married constitutes credit discrimination on the basis of their marital status, which is forbidden by law [see Civ. Code § 1812.30(c), (d)].

On the other hand, if Todd and John apply for credit individually, an argument may be made that John may legally get more favorable treatment than Todd. Because Todd is unmarried and because Mary is not joining in the loan application or co-signing for the loan, Todd's sole source of funds for repaying the debt is his income of $15,000. In contrast, in the absence of a contractual agreement to the contrary, the earnings of both John and Bernice are community property [see Fam. Code § 760], subject to the management and control of each spouse [Fam. Code § 1100], and liable for the contracts of either spouse made during marriage [Fam. Code §§ 910, 911]. Thus, because John has management and control over $25,000, and Todd has management and control over only $15,000, it would appear that John could legally be given more favorable treatment by a lender [see Civ. Code § 1812.30(c), (d)].

Credit agencies reporting on joint credit accounts are required to file credit information received after January 1, 1977, under the name of each person responsible for the account, or in another manner which would enable either person automatically to gain access to the credit history of the account withouthaving in any way to list or refer to the name of the other person. Agencies must also provide access to all information about the account in the name of each person responsible for the account [Civ. Code § 1812.30(e)].

For a discussion of credit reporting abuses and their particular impact on nonmarital partners, see Note, Constitutional Right of Privacy and Investigative Consumer Reports: Little Brother Is Watching You, 2 Hast. Const. L.Q. 773 (1975). For further discussion of the remedies available to a person aggrieved by consumer credit reporting practices, see Ch. 129, Consumer Credit Reporting .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Legal Effects Of Cohabitation

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 387.35-387.49

[Reserved]

§§ 387.35[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
1. Enforcement Of Express Agreements

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.50

§ 387.50 Scope of Analysis

This analysis discusses the enforcement of rights that unmarried cohabiting parties ("nonmarital partners") may acquire in relation to each other concerning property, support, and related matters, by an express agreement, when neither of them believes himself or herself to be legally married to the other. It includes a form of complaint for use in enforcing an express agreement [see § 387.160].

For a discussion of the legal effects of unmarried cohabitation generally, see §§ 387.10 et seq. and 387.30 et seq. For discussion of drafting cohabitation agreements and sample forms, see California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2d Ed. (Matthew Bender), Ch. 200.

The validity and legal effects of marriage, including out-of-state "common law" marriage, are discussed in Ch. 359, Marriage . For discussion of putative marriage, see Ch. 25, Annulment (Nullity) of Marriage and Related Spousal Rights, § 25.50 et seq.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
1. Enforcement Of Express Agreements

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.51

§ 387.51 Governing Law

The leading case recognizing the enforceability of express agreements between nonmarital partners is Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 681, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 . The general statute of limitations on an action to enforce an express written agreement is contained in Code Civ. Proc. § 337. The general statute of limitations on an express oral agreement is contained in Code Civ. Proc. § 339(1).

Statutory provisions regarding parentage, custody, and child support in nonmarital situations are contained in Fam. Code §§ 3020, 3021, 4000, 4001, 6211. The statutory provisions governing injunctions and other relief relating to harassment and domestic violence between nonmarital partners are contained in Fam. Code § 6200 et seq.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
1. Enforcement Of Express Agreements

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.52

§ 387.52 Types of Enforceable Express Agreements

[1] Agreements to Pool Earnings and Accumulations of Property

Express agreements between nonmarital partners to pool earnings and other funds and to share in the joint accumulations of property during the term of the nonmarital relationship are enforceable in California [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 674, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; Vallera v. Vallera (1943) 21 Cal. 2d 681, 685, 134 P.2d 761 ; Trutalli v. Meraviglia (1932) 215 Cal. 698, 700-701, 12 P.2d 430 ; Whorton v. Dillingham (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 447, 451, 248 Cal. Rptr. 405] . Similarly, express agreements between nonmarital partners to keep each partner's earnings and property separate, to pool some but not all of their earnings and property, or to hold property as joint tenants or tenants in common are enforceable [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 674].

The California Supreme Court has rejected the argument that an agreement to pool property and for support is unenforceable under Civ. Code § 43.5, which provides that no cause of action arises for breach of a promise of marriage. The Court considered this contention "strained" and concluded that pooling and support agreements not part of or accompanied by a promise of marriage are not barred from enforcement by § 43.5 [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 674, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] .

[2] Provisions for Support, Attorney's Fees, and Costs

The California Supreme Court has suggested that an agreement between nonmarital partners regarding property, earnings, and expenses may legitimately be coupled with a support agreement that extends even after the end of the relationship [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 674-675, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; Byrne v. Laura (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 1054, 1063, 1067, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 908 ; see also Cochran v. Cochran (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 1115, 1123-1124, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 337 (if party makes support payments as provided in agreement, statute of limitations does not begin to run until agreement is breached by failure to pay)]. When such an agreement is proven to exist, it is enforceable against the estate of the supporting party [Byrne v. Laura (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 1054, 1064, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 908 (express agreement to provide lifetime support)].

However, courts will examine the underlying consideration for the agreement; and when, for example, domestic services by the supported party constitutes the consideration for post-relationship support and the parties do not in fact cohabit, the court may refuse to recognize an agreement between nonmarital partners forsuch support [Bergen v. Wood (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 854, 857-860, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 75 ; but see Milian v. De Leon (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 1185, 1193, 226 Cal. Rptr. 831 (cohabitation not prerequisite to finding of enforceable implied property agreement)]. In one such case, the court did not address or even acknowledge the possibility that consideration other than domestic services could form the basis for such a contract, because there was no consideration present that was severable from sexual services, which cannot form the basis of consideration for a support agreement [see Bergen v. Wood (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 854, 858-860, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 75 ; see also § 387.53[2]].

The parties may also include in an express agreement a provision with respect to the payment of costs and attorney's fees in the event of litigation concerning the agreement [see Civ. Code § 1717]. Ordinarily, neither party to a lawsuit can recover attorney's fees in the absence of specific statutory authority or an express or implied agreement between the parties for such fees [Code Civ. Proc. § 1021; Prentice v. North American Guar. Corp. (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 618, 620, 30 Cal. Rptr. 821, 381 P.2d 645] . However, even in the absence of an agreement, the prevailing party is entitled as a matter of right to recover costs in any action or proceeding, except as otherwise expressly provided by statute [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1021, 1032(b)]. For a general discussion of items recoverable as costs in a civil action, see Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees .

[3] Enforcement of Out-of-State Agreements

Before a California court can entertain an action against a nonresident defendant based on an alleged breach of an express agreement with a nonmarital partner, the court must at least have limited personal jurisdiction over the defendant. Limited jurisdiction may be asserted if the following conditions are met [Henderson v. Superior Court (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 583, 590-592, 142 Cal. Rptr. 478 ; see Kroopf v. Guffey (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 1351, 1357-1358, 228 Cal. Rptr. 807 (allegations that action was based on defendant's activities in California and defendant was domiciled in California when action arose as sufficient constitutional basis for assertion of personal jurisdiction over defendant)]:

- There is a substantial nexus between the plaintiff's cause of action and the defendant's activity in California;
- The balance of convenience to the parties favors allowing the action in California; and
- The State of California has an interest in assuming jurisdiction.

For discussion of personal jurisdiction in family law proceedings generally, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure .

Applying the above test to an alleged oral agreement to pool earnings, share accumulations, and provide support, made in Florida between Florida domiciliaries and arising out of acts performed mostly in Florida and involving title to land and chattels located mainly in Florida, the court of appeal concluded that not even limited jurisdiction existed. The court noted that California has a distinct public interest in not attracting to the state and drawing into its court system controversies arising out of extramarital and nonmarital affairs carried on and concluded by nonresidents outside the state, characterizing an attempt to litigate such claims in California as the "grossest form of forum shopping" [Henderson v. Superior Court (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 583, 593-594, 142 Cal. Rptr. 478] .

In another case, the court of appeal held that California did not have personal jurisdiction over a New Jersey defendant in a breach of contract action brought by his former nonmarital partner. The plaintiff moved to New Jersey to live with the defendant, but when the relationship failed, she brought an oral contract action in California for support, medical insurance, an automobile, and other items that the defendant allegedly promised her. The court of appeal stated that the defendant did not have "minimum contacts" with California because his actions did not cause an effect in California. The alleged contract was not to be performed in California, and if breached, was breached in New Jersey. The defendant lived in New Jersey, did no business in California, and did not even travel in California [Walter v. Superior Court (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 677, 680-682, 224 Cal. Rptr. 41] .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
1. Enforcement Of Express Agreements

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.53

§ 387.53 Factors Affecting Enforceability of Express Agreements

[1] Sexual Relationship Per Se Does Not Invalidate Agreement

The fact that the parties to an otherwise enforceable agreement live together and/or engage in a sexual relationship outside of marriage will not, in and of itself, invalidate their agreement [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 670-671, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; Trutalli v. Meraviglia (1932) 215 Cal. 698, 701-702, 12 P.2d 430 (agreement between nonmarital partners as enforceable notwithstanding their "unlawful relation" and the public policy favoring marriage)]. This is true in California whether the parties to the agreement are a man and a woman, two men, or two women [see Whorton v. Dillingham (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 447, 451, 248 Cal. Rptr. 405] . Adults who voluntarily live together and engage in a sexual relationship are competent to contract respecting their earnings and property rights [Whorton v. Dillingham (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 447, 451, 248 Cal. Rptr. 405] . The principle applies even with respect to persons who live together on less than a full-time basis [see Cochran v. Cochran (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 283, 293, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 899 (evidence that parties lived together two to four days a week both before and at time they entered their Marvin agreement sufficed to raise triable issue of fact that they cohabited)].

[2] Consideration Issues

[a] Sexual Services as Invalid Consideration for Agreement

Although nonmarital partners are competent to contract between themselves, the performance of sexual services cannot form valid consideration for such a contract. Agreements between nonmarital partners are invalid and unenforceable to the extent that they rest on a consideration of sexual services [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 670-671, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] .

In determining whether particular agreements are enforceable under this rule, the courts have acknowledged that "a standard which inquires whether an agreement involves or contemplates a sexual relationship is vague and unworkable because virtually all agreements between nonmarital cohabitants involve or contemplate a mutual sexual relationship" [Whorton v. Dillingham (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 447, 451, 248 Cal. Rptr. 405] . The relevant inquiry is whether the agreement is supported by consideration independent and severable from the sexual services component [Whorton v. Dillingham (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 447, 454, 248 Cal. Rptr. 405] . Any severable part of the agreement supported by independent consideration will be enforceable [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 672, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] .

The courts have tended to define "severable" and "independent" in financial terms. If the claimed consideration consists of services for which monetary compensation is ordinarily expected, it will be severable and independent from the agreement concerning sexual services. Conversely, if the consideration consists of services "normally incident to the state of cohabitation itself," it will be inseparable from the sexual consideration and will not support an enforceable obligation [see Bergen v. Wood (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 854, 859, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 75 ; Whorton v. Dillingham (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 447, 454-455, 248 Cal. Rptr. 405] . Under this standard, a party acting as chauffeur, secretary, and bodyguard was permitted to assert these services as valid consideration for a cohabitation agreement [Whorton v. Dillingham (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 447, 454-455, 248 Cal. Rptr. 405] , while persons characterizing their services as those of "companion," "confidant," or "hostess" have been denied recovery [see Bergen v. Wood (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 854, 859-860, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 75 ; Whorton v. Dillingham (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 447, 454-455, 248 Cal. Rptr. 405 ; Jones v. Daly (1981) 122 Cal. App. 3d 500, 507-509, 176 Cal. Rptr. 130] .

In one case, a cohabitating couple "started living together by mutual agreement as Husband and Wife." An appellate court rejected the defendant's argument that the relationship was "meretricious" because he agreed to provide the plaintiff with an ownership interest in assets and to share income in exchange for her agreement to become pregnant and bear his children. Although the couple engaged in sexual relations and the plaintiff perceived this to be part of her "role," she clearly understood that this was only one aspect of their relationship, and that the overall relationship was one of mutual commitment. There was no evidence that the parties' agreement rested on an explicit and inseparable consideration of sexual services, and the court stated that "this case does not come close to establishing a meretricious relationship, either in whole or in part" [Della Zoppa v. Della Zoppa (2000) 86 Cal. App. 4th 1144, 1154, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 901] .

[b] "Homemaker" Services as Consideration

Many cohabitation arrangements resemble "traditional" marriages in that one partner provides financial support for the household while the other contributes his or her labor in a homemaking capacity. The overwhelming weight of legal authority in California holds that a promise to perform homemaking services is a lawful and adequate consideration for a contract [see, e.g., Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 670 n.5, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; Bergen v. Wood (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 854, 859, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 75 ; Taylor v. Taylor (1954) 66 Cal. App. 2d 390, 398, 152 P.2d 480 (putative spouse action)].

However, because homemaking services have traditionally been performed without monetary compensation, by women, this traditional arrangement is especially susceptible to the argument that the services are "incident to the state of cohabitation itself," making them inseparable from sexual services and thus invalid consideration to support a cohabitation agreement. Although this analysis has been criticized, and appears unsupportable under Marvin [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] and other cases, it has been used in at least one case to deny recovery to a former nonmarital partner [see Jones v. Daly (1981) 122 Cal. App. 3d 500, 508-509, 176 Cal. Rptr. 130 ; but see Bergen v. Wood (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 854, 859, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 75 (criticizing Jones as inconsistent with Marvin in this respect)].

[3] Requirement of Fair Dealing--Effect of Confidential Relationship

Generally, parties who are not married are not in a confidential relationship [cf. Fam. Code § 721 (confidential relationship between married persons); see also discussion in Ch. 122, Community Property], and if they contract with each other with regard to property, earnings, and expenses, they are presumed to be dealing at arm's length [see, e.g.,

Fernandez v. Fernandez (1961) 194 Cal. App. 2d 782, 790, 15 Cal. Rptr. 374 (case involving premarital contract)]. However, in some instances, a confidential relationship may arise between nonmarital partners, and in those instances economic transactions between them should be governed by the principles applicable to such relationships [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 682 n.22, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] . For a discussion of the existence and possible effects of a confidential relationship, see § 387.79.

In responding to a challenge to an agreement on the ground that the parties were in a confidential relationship at the time it was drafted and executed, it wouldappear there are two major bases for a defense:

- Full and fair disclosure by both parties at the time of contracting (see § 387.53[4]); and
- Representation of each party by independent counsel (see § 387.53[5]).

[4] Full and Fair Disclosure

To insure that neither party can claim that he or she was induced to transfer property or make any other promises without adequate knowledge of all relevant facts, each party to a cohabitation agreement should make a full, fair, and complete disclosure to the other of:

- His or her property, assets, and expectancies; and
- His or her intentions and expectations regarding the relationship.

Complete disclosure is an essential prerequisite to the validity of contracts between persons in a confidential relationship [see generally Corp. Code § 16403; Prob. Code § 16002; Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 3-300]. In upholding the validity of premarital contracts, the courts have often relied in part on the complete disclosure of property and assets [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 347, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P. 2d 323] . Given the fact that the California Supreme Court has opened the door to the finding of a confidential relationship between nonmarital partners in some circumstances, complete disclosure seems no less essential in the drafting of a cohabitation agreement.

[5] Representation by Independent Counsel

Representation by independent counsel during the drafting and execution of a cohabitation agreement would seem likely to support the validity of the agreement in the face of subsequent challenges. Charges of fraud, misrepresentation, or overreaching by a trusted partner would be harder to sustain if, at the time the agreement was signed, each party had the agreement scrutinized by his or her own counsel who explained its legal significance in detail [see Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 3-310(C); see also Flatt v. Superior Court (1994) 9 Cal. 4th 275, 282-285, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 537, 885 P.2d 950] .

[6] Applicability of Statute of Frauds--Writing Not Required Under Premarital Contract Statutes

Unlike premarital contracts, which must ordinarily be in writing and signed by both parties in order to be enforceable, contracts between nonmarital partners are not subject to formal requirements for their validity unless a writing is required by the statute of frauds (see § 387.53[7]) [see Fam. Code §§ 1601, 1611 (applicable to premarital agreements executed on or after January 1, 1986); for agreements executed before that date, see former Civ. Code §§ 5134, 5135]. The California Supreme Court has explicitly held that the formal statutory requirements for the validity of a premarital contract, have no application to contracts in contemplation of a common living arrangement. Compliance with these formalities is limited to contracts in contemplation of marriage in which parties agree to release or modify the property rights that would otherwise arise from marriage [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 673-674, 134 Cal. Rptr.

815, 557 P.2d 106 (construing former Civ. Code § 5133 et seq.].

[7] Applicability of General Statute of Frauds

There is no general requirement, statutory or otherwise, that cohabitation agreements be in writing in order to be enforceable. In fact, the California Supreme Court has noted that the majority of California cases enforcing agreements between nonmarital partners involved oral agreements [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 674 n.9, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] . Notwithstanding the lack of a specific statute governing these agreements, an agreement between nonmarital partners must be evidenced by a writing signed by the party against whom enforcement is sought if the subject matter of the agreement brings it within the provisions of a statute requiring specified contracts to be in writing.

Civ. Code § 1624 requires the following contracts, among others, to be evidenced by a writing signed by the party against whom enforcement is sought:

- An agreement to answer for the debt of another;
- An agreement to sell an interest in real property; and
- An agreement allowing another to act as one's agent in the sale or purchase of any interest in real property.

Furthermore, many statutes other than the general statute of frauds require contracts to be in writing [see, e.g., Lab. Code § 300, requiring an assignment of wages to be in writing].

For a comprehensive discussion of the statute of frauds, see Ch. 530, Statute of Frauds .

[8] Estoppel to Assert Statute of Frauds

When a written cohabitation agreement is required by statute due to the subject matter of the agreement (see § 387.53[9]), the defendant may be estopped from asserting the invalidity of the agreement based on the statute of frauds. Estoppel to assert the statute of frauds is available for the following reasons [Cline v. Festersen (1954) 128 Cal. App. 2d 380, 387, 275 P.2d 149 ; see Whorton v. Dillingham (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 447, 456, 248 Cal. Rptr. 405 (estoppelargument prevailed); see also Byrne v. Laura (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 1054, 1064, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 908] :

- To prevent fraud that would result from denying enforcement of a contract after one party has been induced by the other seriously to change his or her position in reliance on the contract; or
- When unjust enrichment would result if a party who received benefits of the other's performance were allowed to rely on the statute.

Estoppel situations may be easier to prove if a confidential or fiduciary relationship existed between the nonmarital partners. For discussion of confidential and fiduciary relationships between nonmarital partners, see § 387.79.

[9] Effect on Agreement of Existing Marriage to Third Party

A cohabitation agreement is not made invalid merely because one of the cohabitants is still married to another person, at least if the married parties have separated. Once a married couple has separated, subsequent earnings of each spouse are separate property, and the other spouse ordinarily cannot assert any interest in those earnings [Fam. Code § 771; see Fam. Code § 4338 (postseparation earnings may be subject to court-ordered support obligation)]. However, if a cohabitation agreement attempts to transfer community property or other property in which the other spouse has an assertable interest, the transfer may be voidable at the option of the aggrieved spouse [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 673, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] . For full discussion of management and control of community property, see Ch. 122, Community Property .

In a case involving the alleged breach of a cohabitation agreement by a party who was married to another person, the trial court sustained the defendant's demurrer to the complaint on the grounds that the agreement violated public policy because it was promotive of a dissolution of the defendant's marriage and because its terms impaired the community property rights of the defendant's wife. The appellate court reversed, holding that the complaint was sufficient to state a cause of action since it alleged that the defendant and his wife were separated when the plaintiff and defendant made the agreement. This allegation raised the possibility that the defendant's marriage was beyond redemption at the time the parties entered into the agreement so that the agreement would not be contrary to public policy, and that defendant was separated from his wife within the meaning of former Civ. Code §§ 5118 or 5119 [now see Fam. Code §§ 771, 772], so that his earnings would be his separate property [Feldman v. Nassi (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 881, 884-887, 169 Cal. Rptr. 9] . Whether the same result would be reached if a married spouse who is not separated entered into a cohabitation agreement with another person is not clear.

For a general discussion of the effects of cohabitation on the legal relations of one of the cohabitants and his or her estranged spouse, see Part I. For a discussion of the rights of a spouse in community property assets transferred by the other spouse, including any right of reimbursement to the community, see Ch. 122 Community Property and Ch. 222, Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation .

[10] Effect of Cohabitants' Subsequent Marriage to Each Other

Marriage of the parties to an express cohabitation agreement does not as such preclude enforcement of the agreement, at least with regard to property interests the parties acquired pursuant to the agreement before their marriage. In one case, for example, a trial court ruled that a couple's marriage following a period of cohabitation did not vitiate any Marvin type claim to enforce their nonmarital cohabitation agreement. But the court limited the Marvin action to income and properties owned and received prior to the couple's marriage [Della Zoppa v. Della Zoppa (2000) 86 Cal. App. 4th 1144, 1149, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 901] . Also, there may be considerations with regard to the statute of limitations in bringing an action on the agreement, as discussed further, under § 387.54[2].

Moreover, in any later proceedings for marital dissolution or legal separation, there may be issues regarding whether any property acquired jointly by the parties before the marriage was intended to be "transmuted" into community property. Furthermore, there may be issues regarding whether the community has acquired an interest in such property if community funds are used to make payments or improve the property. For further discussion, see Ch. 222, Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation .

If parties to a cohabitation agreement marry and wish to continue to be bound by the terms of their cohabitation agreement, enforcement of the agreement may be difficult. Unlike premarital agreements, cohabitation agreements are not ordinarily entered into in contemplation of marriage. Thus, it is unlikely that a nonmarital cohabitation would be held to constitute a waiver of valuable rights acquired through marriage, such as community property rights. Therefore, from a planning standpoint, parties to a cohabitation agreement who later decide to marry are often encouraged to enter into a premarital agreement that meets the requirements of premarital agreements statute.

At least one appellate court has upheld a cohabitation agreement after the marriage of the parties. The agreement created, rather than waived, rights that would arise by marriage. It provided that the couple would split their earnings and efforts, and that a parcel of property would belong to both of them. After they married, the parties deeded the property to the wife as an unmarried woman. The court held that the agreement was still enforceable and that evidence that the parties still regarded the agreement as binding supported the conclusion that the property was jointly owned [

In re Marriage of Stitt (1983) 195 Cal. Rptr. 172 ; see Watkins v. Watkins (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 651, 653, 192 Cal. Rptr. 54] .

For discussion on consolidation of causes of action related to nonmarital cohabitation with family law proceedings, see § 387.55[1].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
1. Enforcement Of Express Agreements

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.54

§ 387.54 Enforcement of Express Agreements by Civil Action

[1] Contract Actions Generally

As in the case of other valid contracts, an action for damages for breach of contract, or for other contractual remedies, may be brought to enforce the terms of a valid express cohabitation agreement. Such an action should be brought as a regular civil action, because the statutory provisions concerning family law proceedings are not generally applicable to property and support actions between nonmarital partners [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 681, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 411.10 (commencement of civil actions)]. An action for an accounting may brought as an alternative to a damages action, or combined with a damages action. A combined form of complaint seeking damages and an accounting is set forth in § 387.180.

For a more detailed discussion of procedures required in bringing a civil action on a contract, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints , Ch. 140, Contracts , and Ch. 2, Procedural Guide for Civil Actions). For discussion of theories of recovery that may be alleged in the absence of a valid, express cohabitation agreement, see § 387.70 et seq.

[2] Statute of Limitations

In general, an action on an express cohabitation agreement must be brought within the following periods after accrual of the cause of action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 312]:

- If the agreement is written, within four years [Code Civ. Proc. § 337(1)]; or

- If the agreement is oral, within two years [Code Civ. Proc. § 339(1); see Kurokawa v. Blum (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 976, 989, 245 Cal. Rptr. 463] .

For a discussion of the limitations periods applicable when equitable remedies are sought, either alone or in connection with traditional legal remedies, see § 387.80. Accrual of the cause of action is also discussed in that section.

[3] Related Remedies

In some cases, there may be other remedies in addition to an action to enforce the terms of an express cohabitation agreement that are appropriate to address a breach of the agreement. For example, if property the parties own is at issue and is capable of partition, the aggrieved party may wish to bring an action for partition of the property [see Code Civ. Proc. § 872.210]. For a discussion of procedures and forms for bringing such an action, see Ch. 397, Partition .

Similarly, if the parties' property has been lost, dissipated, or transferred by one of the parties, the other party may wish to prevent damage to his or her property interests by seeking a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction [see Civ. Code § 3420 et seq.]. For discussion and forms for use in obtaining these remedies, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

If a going business is involved, other than one requiring the use of one party's professional or vocational license, the aggrieved party may wish to secure the appointment of a receiver to take charge of the business pending determination of the action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 564; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1175 (ex parte application for appointment of receiver)]. For discussion and forms for use in obtaining appointment of receivers, see Ch. 486, Receivers .

55 of 189 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
1. Enforcement Of Express Agreements

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.55

§ 387.55 Enforcement of Express Agreement in Other Proceedings

[1] Consolidation of Nonmarital Property Issues With Family Law Matters

Although property and support issues arising between nonmarital cohabitatants are treated as ordinary civil matters and are not generally governed by the substantive or procedural provisions of the Family Code [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 681, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] , some courts may allow consolidation of such matters with matters normally handled by the family law department [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1048(a); Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 9.25 (general rule for consolidation motion); see also former Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct., Man. of Proc. for Fam. Law Dept., §§ XII-XIII (actions regarding property and support issues between nonmarital partners were required to be filed in civil department but could be consolidated with family law matter after noticed motion and jury trial waiver); cf. In re Marriage of Gagne (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 277, 285-290 (dissolution court had jurisdiction to inquire into enforceability and effect of parties' Marvin-type premarital loan agreement on family residence, as pleadings placed matter in issue)].

Consolidation should be distinguished from directly asserting a cause of action based on nonmarital cohabitation in a proceeding for marital dissolution or legal separation. That process, sometimes referred to as "tacking," has been historically permitted by some courts pursuant to local rules, although such joinder of causes in the family law petition is generally prohibited, as discussed in Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.104]. Counsel should check the local rules to ascertain the court's practice in this regard.

It should be noted that, while the family law statutes and rules are generallyinapplicable to property and support actions between nonmarital partners, other actions involving nonmarital partners are properly brought under these statutes and rules. For example, parentage, child custody, and child support proceedings are governed by the Family Code regardless of whether the parents are or have been married to each other [see Fam. Code §§ 3020, 3021, 4000, 4001, 7602; see also Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody , and Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support , and Ch. 394, Parent and Child]. The provisions of the Domestic Violence Prevention Act [Fam. Code § 6200 et seq.] also apply to nonmarital partners [Fam. Code § 6211(b); see Fam. Code § 6209; see also Ch. 293, Harassment and Domestic Violence].

[2] Consideration of Nonmarital Property Issues in Probate Proceedings

The surviving partner of a nonmarital relationship that is not a registered domestic partnership generally has no claims as an heir of the other's estate [see Prob. Code §§ 6401-6402]. When the surviving partner asserts a claim based on oral contract, it is a third-party claim adverse to the estate, and it is not cognizable in an heirship proceeding [Estate of Fincher (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 343, 349, 174 Cal. Rptr. 18 ; see Prob. Code § 9000 et seq. (creditors' claims generally)]. If, however, the parties were married at the time of the decedent's death, so that the survivor is a surviving spouse who has a right to assert his or her claim to true community property rights in an heirship proceeding, the probate court has the power to resolve claims based on alleged nonmarital agreements because, once all necessary parties are before the court, a party will not be required to sever and litigate a multifaceted claim in separate proceedings [Estate of Fincher (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 343, 349-350, 174 Cal. Rptr. 18] .

If a surviving nonmarital partner is a beneficiary under a deceased partner's will, the survivor may file a petition to determine rights under the will [Prob. Code § 11700], along with a separate petition to determine rights resulting from the nonmarital relationship [see Estate of Black (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 582, 588, 206 Cal. Rptr. 663 (decided under former Prob. Code § 1080; now see Prob. Code § 11700)]. Filing the petitions does not automatically trigger a no-contest clause in the decedent's will, unless the will provides otherwise [Estate of Black (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 582, 586, 592, 206 Cal. Rptr. 663 (decided under former Prob. Code § 1080; now see Prob. Code § 11700)].

For further discussion and forms relating to probate proceedings and to consideration of additional claims made by persons who otherwise properly invoke the jurisdiction of the probate court under Prob. Code § 11700, see California Probate Practice, Ch. 23 (Matthew Bender). For discussion of making a general creditor's claim against an estate, see California Probate Practice, Chs. 12, 13 (Matthew Bender).

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
1. Enforcement Of Express Agreements

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 387.56-387.69

[Reserved]

§§ 387.56[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
2. Enforcement Of Implied Agreements And Equitable Remedies

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.70

§ 387.70 Governing Law

The leading case recognizing the enforceability of implied agreements between nonmarital partners is Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 681, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 . There are no statutory provisions that specifically govern agreements between nonmarital partners. Contracts are generally governed by Part 2 of Division 3 of the Civil Code (Civ. Code § 1549 et seq.). Obligations in general are governed by Part 1 of Division 3 of the Civil Code (Civ. Code § 1427 et seq.). Fam. Code § 6700 governs the capacity of minors to make contracts.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
2. Enforcement Of Implied Agreements And Equitable Remedies

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.71

§ 387.71 Theories of Recovery

[1] Overview

In the absence of an express contract governing property rights (see § 387.50 et seq.), the following remedies may be available to a nonmarital partner to vindicate his or her property rights in a dispute between the parties or when the other partner dies, depending on the facts involved [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 684, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] :

(1) An action on an implied contract of the parties to pool efforts and earnings and share accumulations (see § 387.74);

(2) An action to enforce an implied partnership or joint venture agreement (see § 387.75);

(3) An action to enforce an implied agreement to own property jointly (see § 387.76);

(4) An action in quantum meruit for the reasonable value of services rendered (see § 387.77); or

(5) An action seeking the imposition of a constructive or resulting trust or an equitable lien (see § 387.78).

A nonmarital partner may also seek to enforce any other implied agreement that may be evidenced by the conduct of the parties [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 684, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; see, e.g., Schick v. Lerner (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 1321, 1325, 238 Cal. Rptr. 902 (action against attorney and others arose out of action for division of property and financial support)]. One court of appeal has even concluded that cohabitation is not a prerequisite to finding an implied agreement between unmarried persons concerning their property [Milian v. De Leon (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 1185, 1193]. However, another court of appeal has indicated that, at least in the absence of an express agreement on the subject, cohabitation is a prerequisite to an award of post-relationship support [see Bergen v. Wood (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 854, 857-858, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 75] .

[2] Impact of Marvin Decision

The major impact of the Marvin decision has been that it authorized the unmarried to use theories of implied contract and equitable remedies to vindicate their property rights against their nonmarital partners [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 684, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] . Even before Marvin, California courts had long permitted the enforcement of express oral and written contracts between nonmarital partners pertaining to property rights and compensation, so long as the furnishing of sexual services was not an inseparable part of the consideration for the contract [see, e.g., Trutalli v. Meraviglia (1932) 215 Cal. 698, 701-702, 12 P.2d 430 ; see § 387.53[2][a]].

However, before Marvin, courts ordinarily refused to examine the conduct of the parties to determine if it revealed an implied contract, or if equitable considerations justified a judicial determination of property or compensation rights [e.g., Lazzarevich v. Lazzarevich (1948) 88 Cal. App. 2d 708, 719, 200 P.2d 49 ; Oakley v. Oakley (1947) 82 Cal. App. 2d 188, 191-192, 185 P.2d 848 ; but see Keene v. Keene (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 657, 662-664, 21 Cal. Rptr. 593, 371 P.2d 329 (court was willing to entertain suit for implied or quasi-contractual recovery of compensation for services rendered)]. This approach was probably based in part on a reluctance to "encourage" nonmarital partnerships [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 682, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] , and in part on the theory that unmarried partners have no reasonable expectation of the legal benefits that attend the status of marriage [see Vallera v. Vallera (1943) 21 Cal. 2d 681, 685, 134 P.2d 761] .

In Marvin, by contrast, the California Supreme Court concluded that nonmarital partners should receive the same treatment as other unmarried adults with respect to their contract and property rights [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 682, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] . The Court noted that there is no more reason to presume that services by a nonmarital partner are contributed as a gift than there is to presume that funds used to improve the other partner's property are contributed as a gift. The Court also pointed out that granting remedies to nonmarital partners would not discourage marriage, because under prior law the defendant partner was encouraged to avoid marriage as a means of retaining ownership of all of his or her accumulated earnings. Moreover, although public policy favors fostering and promoting marriage, the perpetuation of judicial rules that result in the inequitable distribution of property accumulated during a nonmarital relationship is neither a just nor an effective way of carrying out that policy [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 683, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] .

[3] Family Law Statutes as Inapplicable

Any property or compensation rights that arise between nonmarital partners derive either from their express or implied contract, or from equitable principles [Kroopf v. Guffey (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 1351, 1357-1358, 228 Cal. Rptr. 807] . The California Supreme Court has expressly rejected the theory that the property rights of nonmarital partners are determined by reference to the statutory rights of actual or putative spouses. Thus, the provisions of the former Family Law Act or its successor provisions in the Family Code do not govern the property and support rights of parties to a nonmarital relationship [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 680-681, 680 n.18, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] .

However, as discussed in § 387.10 et seq., and § 387.55[1], the provisions of the Family Code are applicable to some issues that may arise between nonmarital partners, such as issues involving parentage, custody, and support of children, and issues involving domestic violence [see Fam. Code §§ 3020, 3021, 4000, 4001, 6211(b), 7602].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
2. Enforcement Of Implied Agreements And Equitable Remedies

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.72

§ 387.72 Express and Implied-in-Fact Contracts Compared

In general, the terms "express contract" and "implied-in-fact contract" do not denote two different kinds of contracts. The difference between express and implied-in-fact contracts lies in the type of evidence used to prove the existence of an agreement between the parties. If the agreement is stated in words, either oral or written, it is an express contract [Civ. Code § 1620]. If the agreement is proven by the acts and conduct of the parties, interpreted in the light of the subject matter and of the surrounding circumstances, it is an implied contract [Civ. Code § 1621; Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 678 n.16, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] .

Regardless of whether the contract is considered implied-in-fact or express, the obligations of the parties arise from the objective evidence of the parties' words and acts that manifest consent to the making of a promise. Thus, an implied-in-fact contract is clearly distinguished from a "quasi-contractual obligation," in which the obligation is nonconsensual and imposed in law [see Desny v. Wilder (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 715, 734-736, 299 P.2d 257 ; see also § 387.77[3]].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
2. Enforcement Of Implied Agreements And Equitable Remedies

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.73

§ 387.73 Subjects of Implied-in-Fact Contracts

[1] Not Generally Limited by Fact of Nonmarital Relationship

As with an express contract between nonmarital partners, the subject matter of an implied-in-fact contract is not generally limited by the fact that the parties arenonmarital partners [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 670-671, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; Trutalli v. Meraviglia (1932) 215 Cal. 698, 701-702, 12 P.2d 430 ; regarding express contracts, see § 387.53[1])]. For discussion of the types of property and compensation agreements that nonmarital partners may enter into and that may be enforced by the courts as implied contracts, see §§ 387.52, 387.53[2].

[2] Special Issues Regarding Post-Relationship Support Agreements

One type of implied-in-fact contract that may be difficult to enforce is a contract for post-relationship support (commonly called "palimony"). It may be difficult to prove, from the parties' conduct alone, that they had an agreement regarding one party's financial responsibility for the other following the termination of their relationship. It has also been held by at least one court that actual cohabitation, i.e., regularly shared living quarters, is a prerequisite to an award of post-relationship support, as discussed in § 387.52[2] [see Bergen v. Wood (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 854, 857-858, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 75 ; cf. Milian v. De Leon (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 1185, 1193, 226 Cal. Rptr. 831 (cohabitation not prerequisite to finding of enforceable implied property agreement)]. For discussion of alternate theories on which a claim for post-relationship support may be based, see § 387.81.

[3] Proof of Existence of Implied-in-Fact Contracts

As noted in § 387.72, an implied-in-fact contract is an agreement, the existence and terms of which are manifested by conduct [Civ. Code § 1621; see Alderson v. Alderson (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 450, 459-464, 225 Cal. Rptr. 610] . Thus, the conduct of the parties before and during the nonmarital relationship is evidence that may be used by a nonmarital partner to prove the existence and terms of an implied agreement with the other partner pertaining to property rights, support, or compensation [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 684, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557

P.2d 106] . "Clear and convincing evidence" is required to establish one partner's claim to a share of property to which title is held solely in the other partner's name [Maglica v. Maglica (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 442, 448-449, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 101 ; Tannehill v. Finch (1986) 188 Cal. App. 3d 224, 228, 232 Cal. Rptr. 749 ; see Evid. Code § 662 (presumption, rebuttable only by clear and convincing evidence, that owner of legal title to property is owner of full beneficial title)].

Conduct relevant to the existence of a particular type of implied agreement is discussed in conjunction with the various agreements below.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
2. Enforcement Of Implied Agreements And Equitable Remedies

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.74

§ 387.74 Implied Pooling Agreement

[1] Absence of Presumption For or Against

The California Supreme Court has noted that merely because a couple did not participate in a valid marriage ceremony, no inference or presumption should be drawn that the couple intended to keep their earnings and property separate and independent [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 675-676 n.11, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] . However, it is equally clear that cohabitation alone does not give a nonmarital partner the rights of a cotenant in the other partner's earnings and accumulations during the period of their relationship [see Vallera v. Vallera (1943) 21 Cal. 2d 681, 684-685, 134 P.2d 761] . Thus, both the terms and existence of an implied pooling agreement must be explicitly proven (see § 387.74[2]). The only presumption that a court may entertain in determining whether or not the parties intended a pooling agreement is that they intended to deal fairly with each other and that any property accumulated during the relationship should be divided either according to their own tacit understanding or in a fair manner [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 675-676 n.11, 682, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] .

One court of appeal has noted that the terms of an implied pooling agreement may be "very general and nonspecific" [Alderson v. Alderson (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 450, 463, 225 Cal. Rptr. 610 ; see § 387.74[2]].

[2] Proof of Implied Pooling Agreement

Evidence that may be relevant to establishing the existence or nonexistence of an implied pooling agreement between nonmarital partners during their relationship includes the following [see Garcia v. Venegas (1951) 106 Cal. App. 2d 364, 368, 235 P.2d 89] :

> (1) The reason why the parties did not marry. Did they avoid marriage to escape the permanent personal and financial commitment that marriage implies? Did they remain single only because they feared the loss of pension, or other benefits resulting from marriage? Was their relationship intended to be a trial period, that is, a prelude to possible marriage? Were they prevented from marrying because of the difficulty and expense of obtaining a divorce from a previous spouse, rather than because of intrinsic reluctance to marry? Did they believe erroneously that the doctrine of common-law marriage prevailed in California and that they were in fact married [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 675-676 n.11, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] ?

(2) The parties' banking practices. Did they maintain joint or separate checking and savings accounts? Did they pay joint bills from the same account?

(3) The parties' credit practices. Did they have joint charge accounts? Did they make joint applications for loans?

(4) The extent to which each contributed funds and services to joint projects, activities, and property acquisitions. What were the nature, duration, extent, and estimated value of those contributions?

One court of appeal upheld a claim of a nonmarital partner based on an implied contract to equally share property the couple accumulated during the relationship on the basis of the following evidence: (1) one party's testimony on the existence of the implied agreement; (2) the fact that the couple held themselves out socially, as well as otherwise, as husband and wife; (3) the fact that the couple had three children and all three took the man's surname; (4) the fact that the couple pooled their financial resources; and (5) the fact that the couple used pooled resources to purchase real property, made joint decisions regarding the property, contributed services toward the upkeep of the property, and purchased much of the property jointly as husband and wife [see Alderson v. Alderson (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 450, 461, 225 Cal. Rptr. 610] .

By contrast, evidence that unmarried persons live together, hold themselves out as married, and act as companions and confidants toward each other does not, by itself, necessarily show an implied agreement to share property. However, these facts, when taken together and in conjunction with other facts bearing more directly on an alleged arrangement to share property, may show an implied agreement to share property [Maglica v. Maglica (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 442, 457, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 101] .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
2. Enforcement Of Implied Agreements And Equitable Remedies

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.75

§ 387.75 Implied Partnership and Joint Venture Agreements

[1] Application of Partnership and Joint Venture Law to Nonmarital Relationships--Few Guidelines Established

In Marvin, the California Supreme Court sanctioned the right of a nonmarital partner to attempt to prove an implied partnership or joint venture agreement between the plaintiff and his or her nonmarital partner [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 684, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] . The Marvin plaintiff attempted to prove an express contract between herself and her nonmarital partner for the pooling of assets and sharing of accumulations, as well as for support. She did not allege any type of implied contract, particularly not an implied partnership or joint venture contract. Thus, although the Court opened the door to the enforcement of implied partnership and joint venture agreements between nonmarital partners, it did not set forth any guidelines on the extent to which partnership and joint venture law generally can govern the rights, duties, and financial arrangements of nonmarital partners in the absence of an express agreement.

One commentator has suggested that the Uniform Partnership Act [Corp. Code § 15001 et seq.] provides an attractive model for express contracts between nonmarital partners and even between married persons, because it offers structure, flexibility, and equal rights to both partners, and it requires high standards of fair dealing and accountability [see Weitzman, Legal Regulation of Marriage: Tradition and Change, 62 Cal. L. Rev. 1169, 1255-1258 (1974)]. However, this model has not been expressly adopted by the courts. For discussion of the requisites for and legal attributes of a partnership or joint venture, see Ch. 400, Partnerships: Governing Statutes , et seq.

The Marvin Court's holding that implied partnership and joint venture agreements between nonmarital partners are enforceable was based in part on the unfairness of enforcing such implied agreements between putative spouses, but not between nonmarital partners [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 677, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] . The Court cited two cases in which a putative spouse was allowed to share in certain property based on an implied partnership agreement with the other supposed spouse. In both of those cases, the claim of the putative spouse to the property in question was asserted at the end of the putative relationship on the death of the other partner [see Estate of Vargas (1974) 36 Cal. App. 3d 714, 717-718, 111 Cal. Rptr. 779 ; Sousa v. Freitas (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 660, 666, 89 Cal. Rptr. 485] . In both cases, the contest was between the legal spouse of the decedent and the putative spouse as to the percentage of property which each was entitled to inherit. The characterization of the putative relationship as an implied partnership was incidental to division of the estate between the legal and putative spouses.

[2] Effects Other Than Division of Property

Characterization of a property relationship between nonmarital partners as a partnership or joint venture may be useful for other reasons, or have other effects, than those involving distribution of the affected property on the termination of the relationship. A third party seeking to impose tort liability on both partners of a nonmarital relationship for a tort committed by one of them would at least have a plausible ground of recovery if he or she could establish an implied partnership or joint venture agreement between the nonmarital partners. Once this implied agreement has been established, the tort creditor could argue that the tort was committed in the course of partnership business, and that both the partners were jointly and severally liable [see Corp. Code §§ 15013-15015; see also § 387.75[3]]. A similar argument could be made by a contract creditor. Between the parties themselves, the proof of an implied partnership agreement might give rise to remedies for breach of fiduciary duty and for an accounting, as well as for division of existing partnership property at the end of the relationship by separation or death (see § 387.75[3]).

Although nonmarital partners may assert, as between themselves, variousthe ories, including joint venture, to recover property and compensation on the termination of their relationship, every cohabitation is not necessarily a joint venture, nor for all purposes [Planck v. Hartung (1979) 98 Cal. App. 3d 838, 842, 159 Cal. Rptr. 673 (joint venture asserted for purposes of respondeat superior)].

[3] Proof of Implied Partnership or Joint Venture Agreement

Proof of the existence of a partnership or joint venture agreement between nonmarital partners depends on the acts and conduct of the parties, and not on the use of particular words between them [see Ramos v. Pacheco (1944) 64 Cal. App. 2d 304, 308, 148 P.2d 704] . The parties need not expressly intend to create a partnership or joint venture, and they need not know the legal effect of their acts, as long as they intend to do the things that create a partnership or joint venture [e.g., California Employment Stabilization Comm'n v. Walters (1944) 64 Cal. App. 2d 554, 558, 149 P.2d 17] .

This point is illustrated by an early case involving a business enterprise between nonmarital partners [Ramos v. Pacheco (1944) 64 Cal. App. 2d 304, 308-309, 148 P.2d 704] . A man and woman had executed a written agreement whereby the woman would receive 20 percent of the net profits and a salary of $10 per week from a grocery store the parties operated. Both parties devoted their total time and energies to the development of the business. The parties then decided that no money should be withdrawn in excess of their living expenses and all profits should be invested in real property in joint tenancy or equal shares. Also, they lived together in an apartment at the store as husband and wife. In determining that the parties had created a partnership relationship in the business, the court relied on the following facts [Ramos v. Pacheco (1944) 64 Cal. App. 2d 304, 308-309, 148 P.2d 704] :

- The woman, by written agreement, was to receive a portion of the net profits of the business, in addition to her salary.

- The parties subsequently agreed that no money except living expenses would be withdrawn from the business and all profits would be invested in joint property.

- The parties lived and cohabited together, and worked together at the same tasks.

- They invested their monies so as to evidence an intention to share equally in the profits of the enterprise.

In holding that nonmarital partners are entitled to prove the existence of a partnership or joint venture agreement by reference to the conduct of the parties, the Marvin court [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 684, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] , relied on the Washington case of In re Estate of Thornton [In re Estate of Thornton (1972) 81 Wash. 2d 72, 499 P.2d 864, 865] . In Thornton, the Washington Supreme Court held that the surviving member of a nonmarital couple had presented a prima facie case that she was entitled to one-half of the decedent partner's estate by proving her partnership interest in the decedent's farm and cattle ranch. The enterprise was originally acquired by decedent and was the primary asset of his estate. The Washington court acknowledged that a contract, either express or implied, is essential to the creation of a partnership. However, direct evidence is not necessary to establish the contract. Rather, the existence of the partnership may be inferred from the facts surrounding the inception of the business and the conduct of the parties throughout its operation.

The following facts convinced the Washington court of the existence of a partnership between the decedent and his surviving nonmarital partner, entitling the surviving partner to a one-half interest in the decedent's ranch [In re Estate of Thornton (1972) 81 Wash. 2d 72, 499 P.2d 864, 867-868] :

- The parties each contributed property, labor, skill, and experience or some combination of these to the enterprise;

- The parties had shared equally in making important decisions regarding the management of the ranch; and

- The parties had lived together and benefited jointly from the profits of the business.

All three of the above elements--namely a joint interest in a common business undertaking, an understanding as to the sharing of profits and losses, and a right of joint control--are apparently essential to proof of the existence of a partnership or joint venture in the absence of an express agreement [see DeSuza v. Andersack (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 694, 700, 133 Cal. Rptr. 920 ; Connor v. Great Western Sav. & Loan Ass'n (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 850, 863, 73 Cal. Rptr. 369, 447 P.2d 609] . Although the Corporations Code provides that receipt by a person of a share of the profits of a business is prima facie evidence that he or she is a partner in the business, except when the payment consists of payment of debt, wages, an annuity, or interest [Corp. Code § 15007(4)], courts have held that absent the right of joint participation in the management and control of a business, the mere fact that one party receives benefits as consideration for services rendered or as a return on a capital contribution does not, as a matter of law, make that person a partner or joint venturer [Bank of California v. Connolly (1973) 36 Cal. App. 3d 350, 364, 111 Cal. Rptr. 468 ; see Keene v. Keene (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 657, 668, 21 Cal. Rptr. 593, 371 P.2d 329] .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
2. Enforcement Of Implied Agreements And Equitable Remedies

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.76

§ 387.76 Implied Agreement to Own Property Jointly

[1] Acquisition Through Both Parties' Contribution of Funds

Even in the absence of an express agreement, a nonmarital partner is entitled toshare in property jointly accumulated during the relationship in the proportion that his or her funds were contributed towards its acquisition [e.g., Hill v. Estate of Westbrook (1950) 95 Cal. App. 2d 599, 603, 213 P.2d 727] . Neither equal contributions nor cohabitation by the parties is required for the application of this rule. The court may find a joint tenancy and an implied agreement to divide property equally even if the parties made unequal contributions to the acquisition of the property [see Milian v. De Leon (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 1185, 1194, 226 Cal. Rptr. 831] .

The form of the remedy in a case involving jointly owned property is a suit for imposition of a resulting trust (see § 387.78[2]).

[2] Acquisition Through Contribution of Services

Although the rule was formerly otherwise [see Keene v. Keene (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 657, 664-665, 21 Cal. Rptr. 593, 371 P.2d 329] , a nonmarital partner may also acquire an interest in property accumulated during the relationship to the extent that his or her rendition of services contribute to its acquisition [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 679, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] . For example, if one partner's services benefit the other partner by making it unnecessary for him or her to pay someone else for the services, the savings "enhance the financial base" of the second partner, enabling him or her to expend funds for the acquisition of property and giving the party contributing the services an equitable interest in the property so acquired [see Bruch, Property Rights of De Facto Spouses Including Thoughts on the Value of Homemakers' Services, 10 Fam. L.Q. 101, 123 (1976)]. The remedy in that case is also the imposition of a resulting trust (see § 387.78[2]).

[3] Contributions to Property Previously Acquired by Other Party

When one nonmarital partner contributes funds, property, or services to the improvement of property already owned by the other partner, the contributing partner does not ordinarily acquire an ownership interest in the property. He or she may be entitled to recover the reasonable value of the contributions if it can be shown that they were made with the expectation of monetary reward (see § 387.77). If a right to recovery is proved, it may be enforced by an action to impose an equitable lien on the property (see § 387.78[4]).

Contributing funds or services to the improvement of the other party's property may also, in some cases, be evidence tending to show the existence of an implied partnership or joint venture agreement, giving the contributor an equal interest in the property in question. However, as discussed in § 387.75[3], other elements must also be proven before an implied partnership or joint venture agreement may be proven.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
2. Enforcement Of Implied Agreements And Equitable Remedies

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.77

§ 387.77 Recovery in Quantum Meruit for Services Rendered

[1] Theories of Recovery Summarized

The common count of quantum meruit may be pleaded to recover compensation for services rendered to a nonmarital partner based on either of two theories [see Rotea v. Izuel (1939) 14 Cal. 2d 605, 608-609, 95 P.2d 927 ; Maglica v. Maglica (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 442, 449, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 101] :

- That the parties had entered into an implied-in-fact contract for compensation (see § 387.77[2]); or

- That although there was no contract for compensation between the parties, either express or implied, failure to compensate the party performing the services would unjustly enrich the other (see § 387.77[3]).

Even before Marvin, the Supreme C ourt suggested that either of these theories of recovery was available to a nonmarital partner if he or she could comply with its specific requirements of pleading and proof [Keene v. Keene (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 657, 669, 21 Cal. Rptr. 593, 597, 371 P.2d 329] .

[2] Implied-in-Fact Contract for Compensation

[a] Nature of Contract

An implied-in-fact contract for compensation arises when one party performs for another, with expectation of payment, a special service of a character which is ordinarily charged for and the latter knowingly accepts it in circumstances negating an inference of gift. In such a case, a contract to pay the reasonable value of the services in question will be implied [Keene v. Keene (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 657, 664, 21 Cal. Rptr. 593, 371 P.2d 329] . It has also been suggested that an implied-in-fact contract to compensate for services can arise merely because one party requests another to perform certain services [see Bruch, Property Rights of De Facto Spouses Including Thoughts on the Value of Homemakers' Services, 10 Fam. L.Q. 101, 118 (1976)].

Under the previous law governing nonmarital partnerships, in the absence of an express agreement for compensation or for sharing in joint accumulations, the performance of both domestic chores and extraordinary services by a nonmarital partner was presumed to constitute a gift or a "contribution to the general living expenses of both [parties]" [Keene v. Keene (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 657, 668, 21 Cal. Rptr. 593, 371 P.2d 329] . This barrier to judicial enforcement of implied compensation contracts was removed by the Marvin case, which specifically held that contributions of services by a nonmarital partner can no longer be presumed to be a gift [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 683, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] .

[b] Proof of Contract

In order to recover compensation for services rendered on a theory of implied-in-fact contract, the nonmarital partner seeking compensation must prove the following [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 684, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] :

- That services were performed and the nature of those services;
- That they were performed with an expectation of payment; and
- The reasonable value of the services rendered (see § 387.77[2][c]).

[c] "Reasonable Value of Services"

The amount recoverable by a nonmarital partner in an action on an implied contract for compensation for services rendered is the "reasonable value" of those services, provided they were of direct benefit to the recipient [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 684, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; Maglica v. Maglica (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 442, 449, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 101] . Ordinarily, the value of services in a quantum meruit suit is a question of fact for the trier of fact [Culver Adjustment Bureau v. Hawkins Constr. Co. (1963) 217 Cal. App. 2d 143, 146, 31 Cal. Rptr. 569] . The value of services rendered may be measured by what it would cost to obtain similar services in the market place. However, at least two other measures of recovery may be proposed for computing the "reasonable value" of services rendered by one nonmarital partner for the benefit of the other.

The first alternative measure of recovery that has been proposed is that of "opportunity cost." Opportunity cost is the amount which the plaintiff partner would have earned in employment if he or she had not performed services for the benefit of the other nonmarital partner [see Bruch, Property Rights of De Facto Spouses Including Thoughts on the Value of Homemakers' Services, 10 Fam. L.Q. 101, 113 (1976)]. Such a measure of recovery might be appropriate if a partner with potential for earning a sizeable salary if regularly employed outside the home forgoes that employment and devotes his or her full time to performance of domestic tasks for the benefit of the nonmarital partnership.

A second possible measure of recovery might be the amount by which the services contributed by one nonmarital partner enhanced the lifetime earning potential of the other partner. This measure of recovery might be appropriate, for example, when one nonmarital partner used all of his or her earnings to support the other through professional school. In such a case, it might be argued that the working partner is entitled to reimbursement above and beyond the actual money contributed to the student's support.

However, it is erroneous to base a finding of the reasonable value of a plaintiff's services to a defendant's business during the period they were cohabiting on the value by which the defendant benefited as a result of those services. Ruling on that basis allows a trier of fact to improperly value the plaintiff's services as if they had purchased a de facto ownership interest in the defendant's business, even though the defendant never agreed to transfer any interest to the plaintiff [Maglica v. Maglica (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 442, 450-452, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 101] .

In determining the amount of recovery due a nonmarital partner for services rendered to the other partner, the court may set off the value of the services against any support or other benefit received from the other partner [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 684, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] .

[d] Special Problems With Domestic Services

The California Supreme Court did not distinguish between ordinary household and domestic services and extraordinary services (such as nursing care or business services) when it stated that no services by a nonmarital partner will be presumed to have been rendered as a gift [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 683, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] . However, it may be easier to prove that extraordinary services were rendered with expectation of payment, than to prove that ordinary household and domestic services were performed with the expectation of payment (see § 387.77[2][b]). Furthermore, if the relationship resembled a "traditional" marriage in that one party kept house and the other supported him or her financially, the court may find that the parties implicitly intended the services rendered to be fully compensated by the support provided during the term of the relationship [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 684, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; see also § 387.77[2][c]].

[3] Compensation to Avoid Unjust Enrichment

As discussed in § 387.77, the common count of quantum meruit may be pleaded to recover for the reasonable value of services rendered based on a defendant's quasi-contractual obligation implied in law, even if no implied compensation agreement is alleged [see Rotea v. Izuel (1939) 14 Cal. 2d 605, 608-609, 95 P.2d 927] . Nothing in the Marvin opinion expressly limits this right in the context of claims against nonmarital partners.

However, certain facts indicate that the Court may have intended quantum meruit recovery by nonmarital partners to be limited to cases in which the right to recovery is supported by an implied-in-fact contract. As judicial precedent for a nonmarital partner's recovery in quantum meruit, Marvin cited Hill v. Estate of Westbrook, in which a nonmarital partner sought recovery for services rendered to her partner [Hill v. Estate of Westbrook (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 458, 462, 247 P.2d 19] . In Hill, the California Supreme Court held that the trial court properly found that plaintiff had not sustained her burden of proving that her partner had promised to pay for her services and that she had rendered the services because of an expectation of monetary reward. To the extent Hill is relied on as the basis of anonmarital partner's right to recover in quantum meruit, it would seem that recovery should be based on an understanding between the parties. In addition, California courts have traditionally conditioned a recovery for the reasonable value of services rendered between other persons of close affinity, such as a mother and child, on a showing of circumstances that would warrant the inference that both parties expected that compensation would be made [Crane v. Derrick (1910) 157 Cal. 667, 672, 109 P. 31 ; Payne v. Bank of America (1954) 128 Cal. App. 2d 295, 304, 275 P.2d 128] .

The best argument for permitting quasi-contractual recovery under Marvin may be the Court's statement that nonmarital partners may reasonably expect that courts will fairly apportion property accumulated during their relationship, even in the absence of a tacit understanding between the partners [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 682, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] .

Recovery in quantum meruit based on quasi-contractual principles is predicated on the plaintiff's right to restitution of benefits conferred in rendering services to a defendant who would be unjustly enriched if he or she were permitted to retain those benefits. The law imposes a quasi-contractual obligation on an unjustly enriched defendant regardless of the parties' intent because good conscience dictates that under the circumstances the defendant who has been benefitted by the services should make reimbursement or restitution of the benefit received [see Desny v. Wilder (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 715, 734, 299 P.2d 257 ; Kossian v. American Nat. Ins. Co. (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 647, 650, 62 Cal. Rptr. 225 ; see also Hultin v. Taylor (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 802, 806, 86 Cal. Rptr. 285] .

In general, the right to restitution of a benefit conferred based on quasi-contractual principles arises when the defendant has been unjustly enriched through fraud, mistake, or coercion [Hultin v. Taylor (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 802, 806, 86 Cal. Rptr. 285] . For example, a putative wife has been allowed to recover the reasonable value of household services rendered because of her mistaken good faith belief in the validity of her marriage. The wife's services would not have been rendered but for her belief in the validity of the marriage and in the continuance of benefits incident to the status of marriage [see Sanguinetti v. Sanguinetti (1937) 9 Cal. 2d 95, 100-101, 69 P.2d 845] .

In cases in which the party who provided the services had no reasonable belief that he or she was legally married to the other party, the equitable considerations permitting a putative spouse to recover in quasi-contract for the reasonable value of household services rendered are not present. Persons who knowingly enter a nonmarital relationship cannot claim to have had reasonable expectations of benefits which attend the status of marriage. Furthermore, a person who has conferred a benefit on another is not entitled to restitution when the expectation of reward consists of a mistaken belief that an existing relation will continue or that a future relation will come into existence, unless the conferring of the benefit is conditioned thereon [Hultin v. Taylor (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 802, 806, 86 Cal. Rptr. 285 (quoting from Restatement of Restitution, § 58)].

Thus, a nonmarital partner who confers a substantial benefit on his or her partner would not be entitled to restitution of the benefit conferred merely because the relationship terminates shortly thereafter. The partner may only recover if the partner manifested his or her understanding either that he or she expected compensation or that the benefit was conferred on the partner on the condition that the relationship would continue. In the latter case, the condition may be stated in specific words, or it may be inferred from the circumstances [see Restatement of Restitution, § 58, comment b].

As a matter of public policy, a nonmarital partner who has expended funds to support a child, in reliance on his partner's representations that he is the child's father, may not sue the partner on an unjust enrichment theory for the return of the funds after discovering that the child is not his biological child [McBride v. Boughton (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 379, 382, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 115] . To give a former putative father the right to restitution from the child's biological parents would give priority to the former putative father's desire to be made financially whole, to the potential detriment of the child's ongoing needs [McBride v. Boughton (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 379, 389, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 115] .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
2. Enforcement Of Implied Agreements And Equitable Remedies

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.78

§ 387.78 Resulting and Constructive Trusts and Equitable Liens

[1] Nature and Uses

Certain equitable remedies may be used by nonmarital partners as an alternative to, or in conjunction with, contractual remedies. Specifically, a court may employ principles of resulting trust, constructive trust, or other additional equitable remedies, such as equitable liens to equitably divide the property of nonmarital partners [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 684 n.25, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; Nelson v. Nevel (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 132, 139, 201 Cal. Rptr. 93] . Resulting trusts, constructive trusts, and equitable liens are very much akin to each other. Their basic purposes are to identify and impress on certain property the beneficial rights that have arisen in an innocent party who in some way contributed to the acquisition, protection, or improvement of that property [see Holder v. Williams (1959) 167 Cal. App. 2d 313, 315-316, 334 P.2d 291 ; see also Keene v. Keene (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 657, 674-675, 21 Cal. Rptr. 593, 371 P.2d 329 (J. Peters dissenting)].

These equitable remedies can be used in cases in which a contractual remedy cannot be used, such as in the situation in which it is not possible to establish an express or implied agreement between the parties [see Vallera v. Vallera (1943) 21 Cal. 2d 681, 685, 134 P.2d 761] . These equitable remedies can also be used in conjunction with a contractual remedy. For example, they may be used in a casein which there is a contract by which one party has certain rights, and the court imposes a constructive trust to protect those rights on breach by the other party [see Redke v. Silvertrust (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 94, 100-101, 98 Cal. Rptr. 293, 490 P.2d 805] .

However, a bona fide purchaser without actual or constructive notice takes free of any equitable or constructive interests in real property [see Huber v. Danning, (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1992) 147 B.R. 526, 529 . Thus, the Ninth Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel held that a cohabitant's shared occupancy of her home with a debtor who held an unrecorded grant deed to the home did not impart constructive notice of the cohabitant's equitable property interest in the home to a bankruptcy trustee. Therefore, the bankruptcy trustee could avoid the constructive trust interest in the property to the extent that they are avoidable by a BFP under California law [Huber v. Danning, (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1992) 147 B.R. 526, 529 ; see 11 U.S.C. § 544(a)(3)].

[2] Resulting Trusts

[a] When Resulting Trust Arises

A resulting trust arises when a transfer of real or personal property is made to one person, and the consideration is paid by or for another. In such a case, the trust is presumed to result in favor of the person by or for whom the payment is made [see former Civ. Code § 853 (repealed operative July 1, 1987; but its repeal was not intended to disturb case law concerning resulting trusts); see also Prob. Code §§ 15002, 15003; Keene v. Keene (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 657, 665, 21 Cal. Rptr. 593, 371 P.2d 329] . It is not necessary that the person in whom the trust results pay the entire consideration for the property. A resulting trust may be established in a fractional interest in the property when the one urging the trust pays only a portion of the purchase price [Keene v. Keene (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 657, 665, 21 Cal. Rptr. 593, 371 P.2d 329] .

[b] Requirements for Resulting Trust

The specific requirements the nonmarital partner must meet in order to be entitled to a resulting trust are unclear. Prior to the decision in Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 , the California Supreme Court had ruled in Vallera v. Vallera, that, even in the absence of an express agreement to pool earnings and share equally in the joint accumulations of property during the term of the relationship, a nonmarital partner would be entitled to share in the property jointly accumulated in the proportion that his or her funds contributed toward its acquisition [Vallera v. Vallera (1943) 21 Cal. 2d 681, 685, 134 P.2d 761] . Although Vallera did not specify the theory that would permit such a recovery, it appears that the Court was relying on the doctrine of resulting trust, as evidenced by the cases the Court cited in support of the rule [see Hayworth v. Williams (1909) 102 Tex. 308, 116 S.W. 43, 45-46 ; Delamour v. Roger (1852) 7 La. Ann. 152] .

Subsequently, in Keene v. Keene, the Court considered a nonmarital partner's claim to an interest in real property acquired during the term of the relationship and standing in defendant's name. Plaintiff's claim was based on her contribution of certain services in connection with the acquisition of the property. The Court denied the claim insofar as it was based on the Vallera rule, holding that the word "funds" as used in Vallera meant cash or property of value that may be converted into cash, and excluded services [Keene v. Keene (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 657, 663-667, 21 Cal. Rptr. 593, 371 P.2d 329] .

Marvin overruled Keene on this point. It made clear that a nonmarital partner is entitled to an equitable remedy, such as a resulting trust, for services as well as funds contributed toward the acquisition of property [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 677, 684, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; see also Hyman v. Hyman (Tex. Civ. App. 1954) 275 S.W.2d 149, 151 (relying on Hayworth and stating principle that plaintiff need not show that his or her labor produced part of actual funds used to purchase property, if plaintiff shows that plaintiff and defendant were working together for a common purpose and proceeds of labor performed by them became their joint property)].

In denying the application of a resulting trust, the Court in Keene set forth two requirements for resulting trusts that are not considered in Marvin. The first is that a resulting trust cannot be predicated on contributions of funds or services to the improvement of property rather than to its acquisition [Keene v. Keene (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 657, 667, 21 Cal. Rptr. 593, 371 P.2d 329] . If contributions are made to the improvement of property, an equitable lien may be available, as discussed in § 387.78[4].

The second requirement imposed by Keene is that if services, rather than funds, are the basis of a resulting trust, the services must be rendered to the grantor of the property who then transfers the property to the grantee in whole or partial consideration for these services [Keene v. Keene (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 657, 666-667, 21 Cal. Rptr. 593, 371 P.2d 329] . This requirement was arguably overruled by the Marvin decision, which removed the distinction between funds and services, as discussed above. The requirement has also been criticized as not consistent with prior California case law [ see Comment, The Property Rights of Meretricious Spouses: The Effect of the New 'No Punishment' Policy Indicated by the Consenting Adults Bill, 16 Santa Clara Law. 783, 795 (1976)], and it is specifically not a requirement for the imposition of a resulting trust by the Second Restatement of Trusts [see Restatement of Trusts 2d, § 440, comment h].

It thus appears that a nonmarital partner may obtain a resulting trust on property held by the other partner when the following requirements are met:

(1) The defendant acquired property; and

(2) The plaintiff contributed funds or services toward the acquisition of the property.

If the contribution is in the form of services, which may be household services, a monetary value will have to be established for the services to determine the extent of the plaintiff's resulting trust in the property. An example of a situation involving nonmarital partners in which a resulting trust might be imposed is when one partner purchased a home for the partners, and the other partner's services contributed to the acquisition of funds for the downpayment by, for instance, doing the housework, which allowed the buying partner the time to acquire the funds for the downpayment. Another example is when one partner owned a house in which both partners lived, and the second partner contributed to its acquisition by making payments on the loan in excess of the rental value for the portion occupied by the second partner.

Once a resulting trust has been declared, the plaintiff has a judicially declared interest in the property standing in the name of the defendant. The plaintiff's interest can be realized by sale of the property and appropriate division of the proceeds or by having either plaintiff or defendant pay the other for his or her interest in return for clear title to the property. The plaintiff's interest in real property can be secured by recording an abstract of the judgment.

[3] Constructive Trusts

In order to fulfill the reasonable expectations of the parties to a nonmarital relationship, a court may, when appropriate, employ the principle of constructive trust [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 684, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; see Nelson v. Nevel (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 132, 139, 201 Cal. Rptr. 93 ; Hall v. Hall (1950) 98 Cal. App. 2d 209, 212, 219 P.2d 808] . A constructive trust is an equitable remedy to compel a person who has property to which he or she is not justly entitled to transfer it to the person entitled to it [Weiss v. Marcus (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 590, 600, 124 Cal. Rptr. 297 ; Bainbridge v. Stoner (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 423, 428, 106 P.2d 423 ; see Taylor v. Fields (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 653, 660, 665, 224 Cal. Rptr. 186 (no constructive trust imposed)]. By imposing a constructive trust, the one whose property has been taken is not relegated to a personal claim that might have to be shared with other creditors, but is given the right to a restoration of the property itself. Thus, the titleholder is the constructive trustee holding title to the property for the benefit of the rightful owner [Bainbridge v. Stoner (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 423, 428-429, 106 P.2d 423] . The difference between a constructive trust and a resulting trust is that a constructive trust is based on the wrongful acquisition of the property of another, whereas a resulting trust is based on acquisition of property using consideration supplied by another.

A person is a constructive or involuntary trustee of property for the person entitled to the property if he or she acquired it by fraud, accident, mistake, undue influence, the violation of a trust, or other wrongful act [Civ. Code §§ 2223, 2224]. Thus, a constructive trust may be imposed where the substantive basis of the action is that property standing in the defendant's name has been obtained through violation of a confidential relationship that raises a presumption of undue influence (see § 387.79) [see former Civ. Code § 2235; Prob. Code §§ 16002, 16004]. Prob. Code § 16004(c) provides that transaction between trustee and beneficiary, which occurs during existence of trust, or while trustee's influence with beneficiary remains, and by which trustee obtains an advantage from the beneficiary, is presumed to be violation of trustee's fiduciary duties; unlike former Civ. Code § 2235, Prob. Code § 16004(c) contains no language relating to a presumption of undue influence. Assuming that Prob. Code § 16004(c), like former Civ. Code § 2235, is relevant to nonmarital relationships, prior case law may still be viable to determine whether presumption of violation of spouse's fiduciary duties arises) [e.g., Day v. Greene (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 404, 411, 29 Cal. Rptr. 785, 380 P.2d 385] . Such breach of confidential relationship might arise in a nonmarital relationship if the defendant partner induced the plaintiff partner to give the defendant funds to invest for the plaintiff but instead invested the funds in the name of the defendant.

A constructive trust does not arise unless there is property transferred to the trustee on which the constructive trust can be fastened. Thus, although a constructive trust arises when a transfer of the title to land or a chattel or a chose in action is obtained by one of the methods mentioned above (for example, fraud), no constructive trust can be imposed if a person is induced by one of those same methods to render services after the transfer that improve the property, even though the person rendering the services is entitled to recover their value [Keene v. Keene (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 657, 665 n.5, 21 Cal. Rptr. 593, 371 P.2d 329 (quoting from Restatement of Restitution, § 160, comment i)]. A nonmarital partner in this situation may, however, have the right to an equitable lien if the services have been rendered in improving the property accumulated during the relationship (see § 387.78[4]).

A constructive trust will not be imposed if the person seeking its imposition has "unclean hands." One court of appeal refused to impose a constructive trust to enforce an alleged agreement for support against the estate of a decedent by the decedent's noncohabiting lover, because the lover knew that the decedent was married during the course of their relationship. It further found that because the lover could not obtain any relief under the parties' illegal agreement at law, no constructive trust theory was available to her [Taylor v. Fields (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 653, 666, 224 Cal. Rptr. 186] .

[4] Equitable Liens

Although an equitable lien was not specifically mentioned in Marvin as a remedy available to a nonmarital partner, it should be considered a possible equitable remedy to protect the expectations of a party to a nonmarital relationship in a case in which a resulting or constructive trust proves inadequate [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 684 n.25, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; but see Taylor v. Polackwich (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 1014, 1021, 194 Cal. Rptr. 8 (equitable remedy improper when party seeking rehabilitative award has no underlying right to relief on any theory); Marvin v. Marvin (1981) 122 Cal. App. 3d 871, 876, 176 Cal. Rptr. 555 (some recognized underlying obligation in law or equity necessary to support application of any equitable remedy; need of one party and ability of other to pay insufficient)].

In contrast with the remedy of constructive trust, which arises from a property owner's wrongdoing (§ 387.78[3]), the equitable lien remedy is imposed to prevent the owner's unjust enrichment. A person rendering services in improving or otherwise increasing the value of the property of another, who is entitled to restitution because of the fraud, duress, undue influence, or mistake of the other [see Civ. Code § 1689 (grounds for rescission and restitution)], may be entitled to an equitable lien for the value of the services or expenditures [see Restatement of Restitution, § 170, comments a, b], even though he or she would not be entitled to a constructive trust [see Keene v. Keene (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 657, 665 n.5, 21 Cal. Rptr. 593, 371 P.2d 329] . This situation might arise in a nonmarital relationship in which the plaintiff partner contributed money and labor toward improving property held in the name of the defendant partner based on the other partner's promise to share in the proceeds of the sale of the property. If, on separation of the parties, the defendant refused to acknowledge that the plaintiff had any interest in the property, the plaintiff could obtain an equitable lien on the property for the value of the money and labor that improved the property.

A nonmarital partner is also entitled to have property in the other partner's name impressed with an equitable lien if he or she is obligated on a promissory note to make payments toward the purchase of the property. In such a case, the lien may be impressed to protect the partner in the event he or she is called upon to pay any part of the debt [Beckman v. Mayhew (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 529, 534, 122 Cal. Rptr. 604] .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
2. Enforcement Of Implied Agreements And Equitable Remedies

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.79

§ 387.79 Confidential or Fiduciary Relationship

[1] Existence of Confidential Relationship

A confidential relation exists between two persons when one has gained the confidence of the other and purports to act or advise with the other's interest in mind. The prerequisite to a confidential relationship is the reposing of trust and confidence by one person in another who is cognizant of this fact [Estate of Sanders (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 607, 615, 221 Cal. Rptr. 432, 710 P.2d 232 ; Vai v. Bank of America (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 329, 337-338, 15 Cal. Rptr. 71, 364 P.2d 247] .

In general, parties who are not married are not presumed to share a confidential relationship [In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 355, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323] , and if they contract with each other with regard to property, they are presumed to be dealing at arm's length [see Fernandez v. Fernandez (1961) 194 Cal. App. 2d 782, 790, 15 Cal. Rptr. 374] . However, in some instances a confidential relationship may arise between the nonmarital partners [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 682 fn. 22, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] .

The existence of a confidential relationship may be established by testimony of one party that he or she reposed trust and confidence in the other and indicated that fact to the other party. If the testimony is disputed, various considerations about the parties' relationship may indicate whether trust and confidence was reposed, including: (1) the length and permanence of the relationship; and (2) the nature of the relationship with regard to property and business affairs, such as whether or not they commingled or shared their property. Other relevant factors may include the relative age, sophistication, and business experience of the party in whom confidence is alleged to have been reposed as compared to the other party [see Estate of Nelson (1964) 224 Cal. App. 2d 138, 141-144, 36 Cal. Rptr. 352] .

A confidential relationship should be distinguished from a fiduciary relationship, which exists when one persons controls the property of another [Vai v. Bank of America (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 329, 337-338, 15 Cal. Rptr. 71, 364 P.2d 247 ; see § 387.79[2]]. Although the two relationships frequently exist simultaneously [see Vai v. Bank of America (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 329, 338, 15 Cal. Rptr. 71, 364 P.2d 247] , a confidential relationship may exist although there is no fiduciary relationship, and vice versa [see Estate of Cover (1922) 188 Cal. 133, 143, 204 P. 583 (confidential relationship existed without fiduciary one); In re Marriage of Coffin (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 139, 150-155, 133 Cal. Rptr. 583 (confidential relationship ceased but fiduciary duties continued)].

[2] Existence of Fiduciary Relationship

No fiduciary duty is imposed by law between unmarried cohabitants [Maglica v. Maglica (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 442, 448, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 101] . However, a fiduciary duty may be undertaken by the parties' agreement, or, by one party having control over the property of the other, even if there is no confidential relationship (§ 387.79[1]) [see Maglica v. Maglica (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 442, 448-449, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 101 (clear and convincing evidence of entrustment of property or agreement to buy property together must be presented to overcome presumption of title taken solely in one party's name)]. Thus, for example, while it may be clear that the partners do not repose trust and confidence in each other,one partner may be in possession of the other partner's property, and as to that property he or she will be a fiduciary [Vai v. Bank of America (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 329, 338, 15 Cal. Rptr. 71, 364 P.2d 247 ; In re Marriage of Coffin (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 139, 150-155, 133 Cal. Rptr. 583] .

[3] Effect of Confidential or Fiduciary Relationship

The effects of a confidential and of a fiduciary relationship are essentially the same [cf. Fam. Code §§ 721(b), 1100(e) (married couples subject to "the general rules governing fiduciary relationships which control the actions of persons occupying confidential relations with each other")]. A fiduciary or a person in a confidential relationship has a duty to act in the best interest of the beneficiary or the other party to the confidential relationship, and to make full disclosure of all material facts within his or her knowledge relating to transactions in which the parties are involved or which affect them in their fiduciary or confidential relationship. If a transaction between the parties improves the fiduciary's position or allows him or her to obtain a favorable opportunity or otherwise to gain, benefit, or profit, it "may fairly be said that an unfair advantage has been obtained," and the court may nullify the transaction or grant other remedies to avoid injustice, as discussed in § 387.79[4] [see Main v. Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner, & Smith, Inc. (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 19, 31-32, 136 Cal. Rptr. 378 ; Estate of Sanders (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 607, 616, 221 Cal. Rptr. 432, 710 P.2d 232] .

[4] Remedies for Breach of Confidential or Fiduciary Relationship

If a breach of the confidential or fiduciary relationship exists because one party gained an unfair advantage over the other party (see § 387.79[3]), the injured party may have a choice of remedies. If the injured party can show that the other party obtained a contract or deed through undue influence, or that the transaction involved inadequate consideration, the contract or deed may be rescinded [see Ramos v. Pacheco (1944) 64 Cal. App. 2d 304, 148 P.2d 704] . If there is no contract or deed to be rescinded, the advantage resulting from the undue influence may be remedied by a resulting trust, a constructive trust, or an equitable lien as discussed in § 387.78.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
2. Enforcement Of Implied Agreements And Equitable Remedies

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.80

§ 387.80 Statute of Limitations

[1] Generally

An action on an oral cohabitation agreement between nonmarital partners must be brought within two years after accrual of the cause of action [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 312, 339(1)]. The two-year period applies not only to actions on express oral agreements, but also to implied-in-fact agreements [see Davies v. Krasna (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 502, 509-511, 121 Cal. Rptr. 705, 535 P.2d 1161 ; Kurokawa v. Blum (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 976, 989, 245 Cal. Rptr. 463] . Recovery under the theory of quantum meruit for the value of services performed is also governed by the two-year period [see Maglica v. Maglica (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 442, 452-454, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 101 ; Johnstone v. E & J Mfg. Co. (1941) 45 Cal. App. 2d 586, 587-588, 114 P.2d 658] .

An action based strictly in equity, such as one in which the plaintiff claims an interest in property standing in the defendant's name and acquired during the period of cohabitation and seeks to impose a resulting or constructive trust, must be brought within four years [see Potter v. Bland (1955) 136 Cal. App. 2d 125, 134, 288 P.2d 569 (resulting trust); Wrightson v. Dougherty (1936) 5 Cal. 2d 257, 264, 54 P.2d 13 (constructive trust); Pack v. Vartanian (1965) 232 Cal. App. 2d 466, 474-475, 42 Cal. Rptr. 729 (applying rule to action by putative spouse under former case law governing putative spouses); Civ. Code § 343 (four-year period for actions for relief not specified in other statutes of limitation)]. However, the nature of the right sued on, not the form of the action or the relief demanded, determines the applicability of the statute of limitations. Thus, if the primary purpose of the action is to recover money under an oral contract and the equitable remedy is merely ancillary to the perfection of plaintiff's right under the oral contract, the two-year limitation period applies [Jefferson v. J.E. French Co. (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 717, 718-719, 7 Cal. Rptr. 899, 355 P.2d 643 (holding accounting as ancillary to perfection of plaintiff's right under oral contract); see Code Civ. Proc. § 339(1)].

When an action is based on a fraudulent breach of a contractual duty, such as a violation of a confidential relationship constituting constructive fraud, a three-year period applies [see Code Civ. Proc. § 338(d); Day v. Greene (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 404, 411, 29 Cal. Rptr. 785, 380 P.2d 385 (finding that constructive fraud was substantive basis of action to impose constructive trust)], even though a breach of an oral contract may also be involved.

[2] Accrual of Cause of Action

Few cohabitation agreements are for a specified term or contain specified payment dates. Thus, there may be a question of when a cause of action on the agreement accrues and the statute of limitations begins to run [see Code Civ. Proc. § 312]. Generally, if there is an express or implied agreement, a cause of action for breach of the agreement accrues at the time the parties separate and the party having control of the property or funds fails to comply with the agreement [see Kurokawa v. Blum (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 976, 989, 245 Cal. Rptr. 463 ; Estate of Fincher (1981) 119 Cal App. 3d 343, 352, 174 Cal. Rptr. 18] . If the relationship is deemed to be in the nature of an implied partnership (see § 387.75 et seq.), the cause of action accrues at the same time [see Estate of Fincher (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 343, 353, 174 Cal. Rptr. 18] . If the agreement contemplates payment for the plaintiff's services or other contributions that are of a continuous nature during the period of the relationship, it may be inferred that payment will be made whenthe relationship ends. Thus, in this situation, the statute also begins to run when the relationship ends [Corato v. Estate of Corato (1927) 201 Cal. 155, 159-160, 255 P. 825 ; see Hill v. Estate of Westbrook (1950) 95 Cal. App. 2d 599, 604, 213 P.2d 727] .

However, even if the parties have separated, the statute of limitations will not begin to run until the obligated party refuses to perform. Thus, if the obligor continues to perform after separation, such as by paying agreed on support, there has been no breach, no cause of action has accrued, and the statute of limitations has not begin to run [Cochran v. Cochran (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 1115, 1124, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 337] .

If the promise by one of the parties is not continuous and, therefore, not of indefinite duration--for example, if one party promises to pay a lump sum at a specified time--the cause of action accrues at the time of the breach, and the statute begins to run at that time [Niles v. Rapoport & Sons (1942) 53 Cal. App. 2d 644, 650-651, 128 P.2d 50] . Thus, if reimbursement for monies contributed is to be made at the date of the death of one nonmarital partner, the cause of action does not accrue, and the statute of limitations does not begin to run, until the date of death [Hill v. Estate of Westbrook (1950) 95 Cal. App. 2d 599, 604, 213 P.2d 727] .

A cause of action for fraud based on the claim that a party to the agreement intentionally misrepresented his or her intent to comply with the terms of the agreement must be commenced within three years after the discovery of the facts constituting the fraud [Code Civ. Proc. § 338(d)]. The fact of fraud becomes immediately apparent when the parties separate and the alleged fraudulent party fails to comply with the agreement; the cause of action for fraud thus accrues at that time [Kurokawa v. Blum (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 976, 989, 245 Cal. Rptr. 463] .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
2. Enforcement Of Implied Agreements And Equitable Remedies

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.81

§ 387.81 Support and Injunctive Relief

[1] Permanent Support--Lack of Statutory or Judicial Standards

The provisions of the Family Code governing property rights and mutual support rights of married persons do not apply to nonmarital partners, as discussed in § 387.71[3] [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 681, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; see In re Marriage of Bukaty (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 143, 148, 225 Cal. Rptr. 492] . Moreover, the special family law procedural rules, including local court rules, do not apply to property and support actions between nonmarital partners [Schafer v. Superior Court (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 305, 311, 225 Cal. Rptr. 513 ; but see § 387.55[1]].

No statute authorizes a court to require one unrelated person to support another, and the California Supreme Court has reserved the issue of whether postseparation support is available to a nonmarital partner in the absence of an agreement [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 685 n.26, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] .

[2] Possible Theories for Permanent Support--Implied Agreement

Apart from an express agreement for support, which is discussed in § 387.50 et seq., it may be possible for a nonmarital partner to seek support on the basis of an implied agreement, or under one of the other theories discussed in § 387.81[3] [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 684, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; Friedman v. Friedman (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 876, 886, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 892] . It appears, however, that an implied agreement must be based on proof of something more than the relationship, need, and ability to pay. It must be founded on an ascertained agreement of the parties, manifested by conduct. There must be specific conduct from which it can be concluded that the parties agreed that they would be bound by the obligations of support that would have inured to their benefit had they been married [Friedman v. Friedman (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 876, 887-888, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 892] . This standard suggests that there must be conduct from which it may be inferred that the parties had a meeting of the minds that their relationship was to impose on them all the rights and obligations of mutual support as if they were legally married. To date, no reported decision has found any such implied agreement [see Friedman v. Friedman (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 876, 887-888, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 892 (evidence that parties took title to property jointly and filed joint tax returns insufficient); see also Schafer v. Superior Court (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 305, 310, 225 Cal. Rptr. 513 ; Marvin v. Marvin (1981) 122 Cal. App. 3d 871, 876, 176 Cal. Rptr. 555 (Marvin II)].

One court of appeal held that, at least in the absence of an express agreement, cohabitation is a prerequisite to an award of post-relationship support, and denied a claim for support brought by a party who had never lived with her nonmarital partner [see Bergen v. Wood (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 854, 857-858, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 75] .

[3] Other Theories

In Marvin I, the California Supreme Court reserved the question of whether, in the absence of an express or implied contractual obligation, a party to a nonmarital relationship might be entitled to support payments from the other party after the relationship terminates [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 684, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] . In Marvin II, the appellate court on remand held that an award of rehabilitative support cannot be made on findings that merely establish that the plaintiff needs support and that the defendant is capable of providing it. Rather, any award of support must be supported by an underlying obligation in law or equity. If the court has found that the defendant has no obligation to provide plaintiff with a reasonable sum for support and maintenance,that the plaintiff suffered no damage from the parties' nonmarital relationship or its termination, and that the defendant was not unjustly enriched and did not commit any wrongful act in regard to the relationship or its termination, the court may not create a totally new substantive right under the guise of doing equity, simply by stating that the plaintiff has a right to assistance from the defendant until the plaintiff becomes self-supporting [Marvin v. Marvin (1981) 122 Cal. App. 3d 871, 875-876, 176 Cal. Rptr. 555] . This issue of noncontractual bases for support remains unresolved, although if there are any such remedies, it appears that they will not be lightly accepted at the appellate level [see Friedman v. Friedman (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 876, 886 n.3, 890, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 892 (despite court's concern with respondent's economic situation, it regretted there was no basis on which her short-term needs could be met under existing law)].

Any possible theories probably lie within the court's equitable powers [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 685 n.25, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] . One such theory is promissory estoppel [see Restatement of Contracts § 90]. Even if no contract for future support may be inferred from the parties' conduct, one party may argue that a previous furnishing of support by the other party gave rise to an implied promise (rather than contract) that support would not be terminated without giving the supported party a reasonable opportunity to secure other means of support. If the supported party relied on this implied promise to his or her detriment--for example, by foregoing opportunities to earn income or to acquire income-producing skills--the paying party might be estopped to deny that the implied promise had been made [cf. Youngman v. Nevada Irrigation Dist. (1969) 70 Cal. 2d 240, 249, 74 Cal. Rptr. 398, 449 P.2d 462 ; Bank of California v. Connolly (1973) 36 Cal. App. 3d 350, 365, 111 Cal. Rptr. 468] . However, there must be proof that the alleged promisee, in fact, relied on the promise by acting or forebearing from acting in a certain way because of the promise [Friedman v. Friedman (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 876, 885, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 892] .

Another possibility is the related doctrine of equitable estoppel, by which a party may be estopped from denying any statement or conduct if he or she has thereby intentionally and deliberately led another to believe a particular thing to be true and to act on that belief [see Evid. Code § 623]. However, there must be a clear nexus between the statement or conduct of the party to be estopped and the subsequent conduct of the party seeking to invoke estoppel. Further, the party invoking estoppel must be ignorant of the true facts [Friedman v. Friedman (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 876, 885, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 892] .

There is a general equitable principle of implied-in-law (or quasi-) contract, under which a contract will be implied regardless of the parties' intent, if required to prevent unjust enrichment [see Youngman v. Nevada Irrigation Dist. (1969) 70 Cal. 2d 240, 250, 74 Cal. Rptr. 398, 449 P.2d 462 ; see also Note, Beyond Marvin: A Proposal for Quasi-Spousal Support, 30 Stan. L. Rev. 359, 385 (1978) (for discussion of view that court's inherent equity powers should be used to presume support agreement between parties to nonmarital relationship that approximates de facto family)]. However, it appears that California courts are unwilling to invoke this doctrine as a basis for awarding support in a nonmarital relationship [see Friedman v. Friedman (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 876, 883-890, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 892 (noting concern that such a general equitable right would have the effect of resurrecting doctrine of common law marriage in California)].

[4] Temporary Support Pendente Lite

The provisions of the Family Code governing temporary spousal support are not by their terms applicable to proceedings involving nonmarital partners [see Fam. Code § 3600; see also Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 684 n.24, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] . If a party to a nonmarital action asserts a right to support beyond the termination of the nonmarital relationship, any provision for temporary support during the pendency of the proceeding must be made in the form of a preliminary injunction [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 527; see also § 387.81[5]]. A trial court has no authority to fashion an equitable remedy to award support pending trial in any form other than the recognized provisional remedies applicable to civil actions in general [Friedman v. Friedman (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 876, 883-886, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 892 (rejecting theory of inherent equity powwer to issue temporary "order to pay money")].

The plaintiff must show that irreparable harm will result if such temporary relief is not granted and that a final judgment of damages for breach of the contract is an inadequate remedy [Friedman v. Friedman (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 876, 889-890, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 892 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 526(a)(2), (4)]. However, no reported decision has yet permitted an award of pendente lite support on this basis [see Friedman v. Friedman (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 876, 889-890, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 892 (finding that plaintiff had adequate remedy at law because, although disabled, she still had $59,000 in savings and was not yet destitute)].

[5] Injunctive Relief in General

While the provisions of the Family Code are not applicable to property and support disputes arising between nonmarital partners [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 681, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] , a nonmarital partner is entitled to seek injunctive relief of the kind available to every civil litigant during the pendency of the litigation [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527]. Such relief could include an order restraining the defendant from [Code Civ. Proc. § 526]:

- Committing waste or causing great or irreparable injury to the plaintiff; or

- Any act in violation of the plaintiff's rights that would tend to render the subsequent judgment ineffectual.

For a discussion of procedure for obtaining injunctive relief in the context of marital dissolution proceedings, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure . Procedures for obtaining injunctive relief in civil actions generally are set forth in Ch. 303, Injunctions .

As discussed in § 387.55[1], the provisions of the Domestic Violence Prevention Act [Fam. Code § 6200 et seq.], governing injunctions and other relief are applicable to nonmarital partners [Fam. Code § 6211(b)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 293, Harassment and Domestic Violence .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
2. Enforcement Of Implied Agreements And Equitable Remedies

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.82

§ 387.82 Attorney's Fees and Costs

In the absence of an agreement for recovery of attorney's fees [see Civ. Code § 1717], neither party to an action concerning the agreement can recover attorney's fees unless there is specific statutory support for such recovery [Code Civ. Proc. § 1021]. The prevailing party in a lawsuit is entitled as a matter of right to recover his or her costs, except as otherwise expressly provided by statute [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1021, 1032(b)]. For a general discussion of items recoverable as costs in a civil action, see Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
2. Enforcement Of Implied Agreements And Equitable Remedies

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 387.83-387.99

[Reserved]

§§ 387.83[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Legal Effects Of Cohabitation

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.100

§ 387.100 California Family Law

California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2d Ed. (Matthew Bender), Chs. 25, 200, 201, 210.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Legal Effects Of Cohabitation

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.101

§ 387.101 State Statutes

Joint ownership of real property. Civ. Code §§ 682, 683, 683.2

Prohibition against discrimination based on marital status. Civ. Code § 1812.30 et seq.

Effect of cohabitation on child custody and child visitation. Fam. Code §§ 3011, 3020, 3040

Effect of cohabitation on child support in prior marriage. Fam. Code § 4057.5

Effect of cohabitation on spousal support in prior marriage. Fam. Code § 4323

Purchase of life insurance irrevocably designating beneficiaries. Ins. Code § 10170

Mutual wills. Prob. Code § 150(b), (c)

Joint bank accounts. Prob. Code § 5100 et seq.

Joint ownership of vehicles. Veh. Code § 4150.5

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Legal Effects Of Cohabitation

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.102

§ 387.102 Federal Statutes

Prohibition against credit discrimination based on marital status. 15 U.S.C. § 1691 et seq.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Legal Effects Of Cohabitation

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.103

§ 387.103 Text References

California Probate Practice, Ch. 8 (Matthew Bender).

California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 345 (Matthew Bender).

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Legal Effects Of Cohabitation

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 387.104-387.119

[Reserved]

§§ 387.104[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
1. Enforcement Of Express Agreements

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.120

§ 387.120 California Family Law

California Family Law Practice and Procedure, chs. 1, 2, 200 (Matthew Bender 2d ed.).

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
1. Enforcement Of Express Agreements

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.121

§ 387.121 State Statutes

Statute of frauds, generally. Civ. Code § 1624

Statute of limitations (general) on action to enforce express written agreement. Code Civ. Proc. § 337

Statute of limitations (general) on action to enforce express oral agreement. Code Civ. Proc. § 339(1)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
1. Enforcement Of Express Agreements

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 387.122-387.139

[Reserved]

§§ 387.122[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
2. Enforcement Of Implied Agreements And Equitable Remedies

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.140

§ 387.140 California Family Law

For discussion of drafting cohabitation agreements and sample forms, see California Family Law Practice and Procedure, (Matthew Bender 2d Ed.), Chs. 200, 201

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
2. Enforcement Of Implied Agreements And Equitable Remedies

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.141

§ 387.141 State Statutes

Statute of limitations on oral cohabitation agreement. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 312, 339(2)

Provisions governing injunctions and other relief relating to harassment and domestic violence between nonmarital partners. Fam. Code § 6200 et seq.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
2. Enforcement Of Implied Agreements And Equitable Remedies

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.142

§ 387.142 Annotations

Annot., Property Rights Arising From Relationship of Couple Cohabiting Without Marriage, 3 A.L.R.4th 13 (1981).

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
2. Enforcement Of Implied Agreements And Equitable Remedies

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.143

§ 387.143 Law Reviews

Bruch, Cohabitation in the Common Law Countries a Decade After Marvin: Settled in or Moving Ahead? 22 U.C.D.L. Rev. 717 (1989).

Oldham & Caudill, A Reconnaissance of Public Policy Restrictions Upon Enforcement of Contracts Between Cohabitants, 18 Fam. L.Q. 93 (1984).

Comment, Applying Marvin v. Marvin to Same-Sex Couples: A Proposal for a Sex-Preference Neutral Cohabitation Contract Statute, 25 U.C.D. L. Rev. 1029 (1992).

Note, A More Perfect Union: A Legal and Social Analysis of Domestic Partnership Ordinances, 92 Colum. L. Rev. 1164 (1992).

Note, Taylor v. Polackwich: Property Rights of Unmarried Cohabitants--From Marvin to Equity, 14 Golden Gate L. Rev. 745 (1984).

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
2. Enforcement Of Implied Agreements And Equitable Remedies

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.144

§ 387.144 Text References

California Probate Practice, Chs. 12, 13, 23 (Matthew Bender).

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
2. Enforcement Of Implied Agreements And Equitable Remedies

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 387.145-387.159

[Reserved]

§§ 387.145[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. In General

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.160

§ 387.160 Declaration of Domestic Partnership--Secretary of State Form DP-1

[1] FORM Declaration of Domestic Partnership--Secretary of State Form DP-1

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is an illustrative reproduction of the mandatory form for use after January 1, 2005, in statewide registration of a domestic partnership in California--Declaration of Domestic Partnership (form DP-1)--which is promulgated by the California Secretary of State [see Fam. Code § 298].

The form, which is available through county clerk offices and the Secretary of State, recites that each partner meets the statutory requirements for statewide registration of a domestic partnership [Fam. Code § 297] and provides space for the partners to set forth a mailing address, which need not be the same as their common residence address. By signing this form, the partners give their consent to the jurisdiction of California courts for any proceeding related to the partner's rights and obligations even if both completely leave California [see Fam. Code § 298(c)]. The form must be signed by each partner before a notary public. Although the form does not contain a declaration under penalty of perjury, it does contain a preprinted declaration that the "representations are true, correct, and contain no material omissions of fact to our best knowledge and belief." It is a misdemeanor to file an intentionally and materially false Declaration of Domestic Partnership [Fam. Code § 298(c)].

Either party or both parties may indicate a change of name in the Declaration of Domestic Partnership [Fam. Code § 298(d)]. In such event, the Certificate of Registered Domestic Partnership issued by the Secretary of State must include the name used by each party before registration of the domestic partnership and the new name selected by each party on registration of the domestic partnership [Fam. Code § 298.5(e)].

To accomplish registration, the completed form must be mailed, along with a filing fee (the amount of which is stated on the form), to the office of the California Secretary of State, at the address listed on the form. It is recommended that the form (and filing fee) be sent by certified mail, return receipt requested (although certified mail is not required for registration).

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. In General

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.161

§ 387.161 Notice of Termination of Domestic Partnership--Secretary of State Form DP-2

[1] FORM Notice of Termination of Domestic Partnership--Secretary of State Form DP-2

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is an illustrative reproduction of the mandatory form of Notice of Termination of Domestic Partnership (form DP-2), for use after January 1, 2005, in notifying the California Secretary of State of the termination of a domestic partnership that has been registered in California when the conditions permitting termination without court action are present [see Fam. Code § 299]. The form, which is available through county clerk offices and the Secretary of State, must be signed by both domestic partners, and although it may be that both partners' signatures need not be notarized [cf. Fam. Code §§ 299(a)(1), 298(c)], it is clear that notarization of at least one of the signatures is required [Fam. Code § 298(a)(1)]. The form provides a line where the partners can include the file number under which the domestic partnership was registered if they know it.

By signing this form, the partners represent that they have read and understood a brochure prepared by the Secretary of State. They also declare that all of the conditions specified in Fam. Code § 299(a) exist.

At the bottom of the form, the partners must provide the name and address of the person to whom a copy of the filed document should be returned. If neither party effectively revokes the termination notice, the domestic partnership is terminated six months after the notice was filed. After the termination takes effect, either party may bring an action to set it aside for fraud, duress, mistake, or any other ground recognized at law or in equity, and a court may set it aside upon proof that the parties did not meet the requirements for filing of the Notice of Termination of Domestic Partnership [Fam. Code § 299(c)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. In General

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.162

§ 387.162 Revocation of Termination of Domestic Partnership--Secretary of State Form DP-3

[1] FORM Revocation of Termination of Domestic Partnership--Secretary of State Form DP-3

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is an illustrative reproduction of the mandatory form of Revocation of Termination of Domestic Partnership (form DP-3), for use in notifying the California Secretary of State that a domestic partner is revoking a notice of termination of domestic partnership that was filed with the Secretary within the previous six months [see Fam. Code § 299(b)]. The partner who is revoking must fill in the date of the previously filed termination notice and the other partner's name. Only one signature is required, but the revocation is effective only if the partner who is revoking sends a copy of the revocation to the other partner by first-class mail, postage prepaid, addressed to the other partner's last known address [Fam. Code § 299(b)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. In General

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.163

§ 387.163 Petition--Domestic Partnership--Judicial Council Form

[1] FORM Petition--Domestic Partnership--Judicial Council Form

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is an illustrative reproduction of the mandatory form of Petition for use in initiating an action for dissolution, legal separation, or nullity of a domestic partnership [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-103]. Because the substantive rights and responsibilities of the parties and the court procedures for dissolution by domestic partners generally follow the corresponding rights, responsibilities, and procedures for dissolution by married couples [Fam. Code §§ 297.5, 299(d)], there are few differences between the use of this form and the use of the corresponding form for dissolution of marriage [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-100].

The line for date of registration or equivalent should be filled in with the date the Declaration of Domestic Partnership was filed with the California Secretary of State [see Fam. Code § 297.5(k) (date of registration deemed to be date of marriage for purposes of laws made applicable to domestic partners that refer to date of marriage)]. If the parties established a legal union substantially equivalent to a California domestic partnership in another state [see Fam. Code § 299.2], then the law of that state would determine what date should be filled in as "equivalent." The block for "Residence" applies only to partnerships established out of state. If a partnership was established in California by filing the mandatory California form of Declaration of Domestic Partnership, then both partners have agreed to the jurisdiction of California courts [see Fam. Code § 298(c)].

There may be some difficulty in determining whom to declare as minor children. Children "adopted during this domestic partnership" is clear enough, but it may be less clear whether there are "children of this relationship" born either before or during the domestic partnership. Children with respect to whom a party is asking for custody, visitation, or support orders should be listed, but controversy may be anticipated until the underlying law is clarified [see Fam. Code § 297.5(d) (rights and obligations of domestic partners with respect to a child of either of them are the same as those of spouses)]. Page 2 of the form provides a box to check when a petitioner seeks a determination of parentage for children born to petitioner and respondent prior to the domestic partnership. Other orders that do not fit the categories on the form may be specified after "Other."

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. In General

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.164

§ 387.164 Response--Domestic Partnership--Judicial Council Form

[1] FORM Response--Domestic Partnership--Judicial Council Form

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is an illustrative reproduction of the mandatory form of Response for use in an action for dissolution, legal separation, or nullity of a domestic partnership [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-123]. Because the substantive rights and responsibilities of the parties and the court procedures for dissolution by domestic partners generally follow the corresponding rights, responsibilities, and procedures for dissolution by married couples [Fam. Code §§ 297.5, 299(d)], there are few differences between the use of this form and the use of the corresponding form for dissolution of marriage [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-120]. Most of the lines of this form are identical to lines on the form of Petition--Domestic Partnership (see § 387.163), and the comments on registration date, address, and minor children in relation to the Petition form are also applicable to the Response form.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. In General

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 387.165-387.179

[Reserved]

§§ 387.165[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART IV. FORMS
B. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
1. Enforcement Of Express Agreements

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.180

§ 387.180 Complaint for Breach of Express Pooling and Support Agreement [Civ. Code §§ 1620, 3300]

[1] FORM Complaint for Breach of Express Pooling and Support Agreement [Civ. Code §§ 1620, 3300]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR ACCOUNTING AND DAM-
_____ [name],	)	AGES
Defendant.	)	(Breach of Contract)
	)
	)

Plaintiff alleges:

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION (BREACH OF POOLING AGREEMENT AND ACCOUNTING)

1. Defendant is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a resident of _____ County, California.

2. On or about _____ [date], in the City of _____, County of _____, State of California, while they were living with each other, plaintiff and defendant entered into _____ [an oral or a written] agreement by the terms of which they agreed to treat as joint property the earnings and income, and all property acquired therewith, which resulted from all personal service, skill, effort, and work that each of them, thereafter, individually or jointly,performed, expended, or contributed during their relationship and while they lived with each other. The agreement was to terminate _____ [specify, e.g., when the parties ceased to live with each other and one party expressed his or her intention not to continue the relationship with the other. The parties agreed that in such an event each would account to the other for all property treated as joint property under the agreement and divide it equally between them]. [If the contract is written, add: A copy of the contract is attached to and incorporated into this complaint as "Exhibit A."]

3. Thereafter, from _____ [date], to _____ [date], plaintiff and defendant continued to live together, accumulating as joint property earnings and income, and all property acquired therewith, which resulted from all personal service, skill, effort, and work that each of them, individually and jointly, had performed, expended, or contributed during the time they lived with each other. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff and defendant ceased to live with each other, and, on or about _____ [date], plaintiff/defendant informed defendant/plaintiff that he/she had no intention of continuing to live with defendant/plaintiff.

4. The joint property acquired and accumulated pursuant to the terms of the above-alleged agreement includes as follows:

[List type and amount of property, such as the following]

a. $_____ deposited in a checking account in defendant's name at _____ [name of bank or financial institution] in _____ [city].

b. _____ [number] shares of stock in _____ [name of corporation], a _____ [state] corporation, held by plaintiff as registered owner.

c. A _____ [year and make] automobile registered in the name of defendant.

d. The entire furnishings located in the residence in which plaintiff and defendant lived at _____ [street address], City of _____, County of _____, California].

5. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that additional joint property was acquired and accumulated during the term of the agreement between plaintiff and defendant. The full extent and nature of this property are unknown to plaintiff at this time. Plaintiff will seek leave to amend this complaint to identify and describe the property when such is ascertained.

6. At the time plaintiff and defendant ceased to live with one another, and at all times since, plaintiff has had possession, custody, and control of none of the property described above [except _____ (describe property that plaintiff has retained possession, custody, and control of)], while defendant has had a retained possession, custody, and control of all of the [other] property described above, together with additional property belonging to the parties as joint property, the nature and extent of which are unknown to plaintiff at this time.

7. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff requested defendant to account for and divide equally all the joint property herein described, both known and unknown to plaintiff, but defendant failed and refused, and continues to fail and refuse, to account for any of the joint property, or to divide any portion of the joint property in defendant's control and possession with plaintiff equally, or at all.

8. Plaintiff has performed all the conditions of the agreement on his/her part to be performed [except for accounting for and dividing equally with defendant all the joint property in his/her possession, custody, and control, but plaintiff's performance of this condition is excused by defendant's failure and refusal to account for any of the property in either plaintiff's or defendant's possession, custody, or control].

9. As a proximate result of defendant's failure and refusal to account to plaintiff for any of the property in her/his possession, custody, or control as herein alleged, plaintiff has sustained damages.

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION (BREACH OF CONTRACT FOR SUPPORT)

10. Plaintiff refers to and incorporates, as though fully set forth herein, Paragraphs 1-3, inclusive, of the First Cause of Action.

11. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff and defendant further agreed [orally or in writing or in the written contract referred to in Paragraph 2 and attached hereto as Exhibit A] that _____ [specify support terms, e.g, in the event that their relationship should terminate as provided in their prior oral agreement hereinabove alleged, if one party's share of joint property was insufficient to provide him or her with an adequate means of support sufficient to provide for the party's reasonable general living expenses, and that party was without any other means to provide such support, the other party would provide such support until such time as the party could independently provide such support or for a period of one year, whichever came first]. [If the contract is written and is separate from the pooling agreement, add: A copy of the contract for support is attached to and incorporated into this complaint as "Exhibit B."]

12. At the time that plaintiff and defendant ceased to live with one another, plaintiff had no independent, adequate means to support himself/herself and to pay for his/her reasonable general living expenses. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff informed defendant of this fact and requested that defendant satisfy her/his obligation under the _____ [written or oral] agreement to supportplaintiff until such time as plaintiff was independently able to provide for his/her general living expenses.

13. In response to plaintiff's request to provide support, defendant failed and refused, and continues to fail and refuse, to perform the terms and conditions of the agreement in that defendant has not made any payments to plaintiff for plaintiff's support [since _____ (date)].

14. There is now due and unpaid to plaintiff from defendant under the agreement the sum of $_____, which is a reasonable sum to provide plaintiff with the adequate support necessary to pay his/her reasonable general living expenses from _____ [date plaintiff notified defendant of support requirements], until the date of this complaint.

15. Defendant's breach is a continuing one, and payments due to plaintiff from defendant will continue to accrue. Plaintiff will seek leave to file a supplemental complaint at the time of the trial of this action to set forth the additional amounts, if any, that have accrued under the agreement and are then due and unpaid.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

On the FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION:

1. That the court order that defendant account to plaintiff for all the joint property, earnings and income, and all property acquired therewith, which resulted from all personal service, skill, effort, and work that plaintiff and defendant, and each of them, performed, expended, or contributed during the period of their relationship and while they lived with each other;

2. That, on ascertaining the nature and extent of the property subject to the agreement between the parties, the court award plaintiff damages in the amount of one-half of the property; and

3. That, in the alternative, if plaintiff and defendant are able to stipulate to a specific division of the property subject to the agreement, the court order a division of the property pursuant to such a stipulation.

On the SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION:

1. For damages in the sum of $_____ for the support of plaintiff, together with interest therein at _____ percent per annum, and such additional sums accruing under the agreement to provide plaintiff with support and remaining due and unpaid at the time of trial.

On BOTH CAUSES OF ACTION:

1. For costs of the suit herein incurred; and

2. For such other and further relief as the court deems proper.

_____ [signature]

Attorney for Plaintiff

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the plaintiff in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters that are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for damages and an accounting for breach of an express oral or written pooling and support agreement, to be used by a nonmarital partner in an action against a copartner who has breached the agreement (see § 387.52[1]). The complaint must state whether the contract was oral or written, because a complaint on a contract is subject to a special demurrer if it cannot be ascertained from the pleading whether the contract is written, oral, or implied by conduct [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(g)]. If the agreement was in writing, a copy of it should be attached to the complaint as an exhibit.

The first cause of action alleges the failure of the defendant copartner to account for the property that was acquired or accumulated during the relationship and is in the copartner's possession, custody, or control. The second cause of action alleges the failure of the defendant to provide plaintiff with support following the termination of the relationship. The complaint prays for damages or, in the alternative, for an order for division in kind of the property that was acquired or accumulated during the relationship.

Prior to filing the complaint, counsel should ascertain whether or not local trial delay reduction rules will apply to the action. For discussion of trial delay reduction rules, see Ch. 532, Trial Court Delay Reduction .

Counsel must also ensure that the action is brought within the applicable period of limitations, as discussed in § 387.54[2]. A related discussion is set forth in § 387.80.

The Judicial Council has approved official complaint and cause of action forms for breach of contract actions generally [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12; Cal. Judicial Council Forms PLD-C-001, PLD-C-001(1)]. The use of these forms is permissive, not mandatory. Judicial Council forms may be obtained from the clerk of the court in the county where the action is to be commenced [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12].

[3] State Statutes

Statute of limitations (general) on action to enforce express written agreement. Code Civ. Proc. § 337

Statute of limitations (general) on action to enforce express oral agreement. Code Civ. Proc. § 339(1)

Complaints in general. Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10

[4] Cross References

For pleading and procedural requirements in actions for accounting, see Ch. 7, Accounting, Action for .

For pleading and procedural requirements in actions based on breach of contract, see Ch. 140, Contracts .

For allegations in a complaint and procedures to follow in obtaining preliminary injunctions generally, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART IV. FORMS
B. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
1. Enforcement Of Express Agreements

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 387.181-387.199

[Reserved]

§§ 387.181[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART IV. FORMS
B. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
2. Enforcement Of Implied Agreements And Equitable Remedies

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.200

§ 387.200 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Breach of Implied Pooling Contract or to Impress Constructive Trust [Civ. Code §§ 1621, 2224, 3300]

[1] FORM Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Breach of Implied Pooling Contract or to Impress Constructive Trust [Civ. Code §§ 1621, 2224, 3300]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____
[or other as appropriate]

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES AND TO IM-Defendant.	)	PRESS CONSTRUCTIVE TRUST
	)
	)

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Defendant is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a resident of _____ County, California.

2. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff and defendant commenced living together at _____ [street address], City of _____, County of _____, California. As part of a contract implied by the conduct of the parties, at the time plaintiff and defendant commenced living together, plaintiff gave up her/his career as a _____ [describe plaintiff's employment or career prior to entering into relationship] and devoted her/his entire skills, efforts, labors, and earnings in [describe nature of services performed by plaintiff, e.g., maintaining plaintiff's and defendant's household, assisting defendant in running his/her business (by _____ (specify tasks performed, e.g., handling correspondence and keeping the books)), and performing various services for defendant to free his/her time for pursuing business opportunities].

3. As a further part of a contract implied by the conduct between plaintiff and defendant, defendant understood that plaintiff would perform, expend, or contribute such skills, efforts, labors, and earnings on the condition that defendant would combine his/her skill, efforts, labor, and earnings with those of plaintiff and would share any property acquired as a result of those skills, efforts, labor, and earnings with plaintiff.

4. Thereafter, defendant manifested his/her assent to the condition on which plaintiff performed, expended, and contributed her/his skills, efforts, labor, and earnings as herein described by accepting the skills, efforts, labor, and earnings of plaintiff, and treating her/his skills, efforts, labor, and earnings as the joint property of both plaintiff and defendant.

5. Thereafter, in confirmation of this mutual understanding between plaintiff and defendant, plaintiff and defendant understood that all skills, efforts, labor, and earnings, and all property acquired therewith, that each party had performed, expended or contributed, were to be treated as their joint property. Each party understood that, although one party may retain title, possession, custody, or control of the joint property, he or she would account for such property to the other party at the termination of the relationship, when either party manifested an intent to discontinue living together with the other party.

6. At the time plaintiff and defendant commenced living together, and at all times during their relationship while they lived with each other, the most confidential relations existed between plaintiff and defendant and plaintiff reposed the greatest confidence and trust in defendant. Plaintiff entrusted defendant to manage and care for all the joint property acquired and accumulated during the term of the relationship, and to account for all joint property acquired and accumulated through the joint efforts of plaintiff and defendant. As a result of this confidence reposed in defendant, and of which defendant was aware, defendant did retain title, possession, custody, and control of the joint property herein described.

7. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff and defendant ceased to live with each other, and on or about _____ [date], defendant/plaintiffinformed plaintiff/defendant that he/she had no intention of continuing to live with her/him. Plaintiff thereupon requested that defendant account to her/him all of the joint property acquired and accumulated during the period in which they lived with each other.

8. As a result of the trust and confidence plaintiff reposed in defendant, plaintiff relied on defendant to perform his agreement with plaintiff and to disclose fully all of the joint property of the parties, its nature, extent, and value, and relied on defendant to divide the joint property of plaintiff and defendant in a manner that would result in a substantially equal division of the property. Defendant knew and was apprised of the trust and confidence so reposed in him/her by plaintiff.

9. In response to plaintiff's request to account for all joint property acquired and accumulated through the joint efforts of plaintiff and defendant, defendant violated the confidence plaintiff had placed in him/her and fraudulently repudiated the mutual understanding that had existed during the period in which plaintiff and defendant lived with each other by representing to plaintiff that he/she did not have in his/her possession, custody, or control any property in which plaintiff was entitled to share; by refusing, and continuing to refuse, to account for any property in his/her possession, custody, and control; and by refusing, and continuing to refuse, to disclose to plaintiff the nature, extent, and value of the joint property.

10. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that the amount of joint property acquired and accumulated during the period in which plaintiff and defendant lived with each other is extensive and includes

_____ [describe specifically property known to plaintiff]. Plaintiff will seek leave to amend this complaint to insert a complete description of these properties when such can be ascertained.

11. Because of the violation of the confidence plaintiff had placed in defendant and of the repudiation of the mutual understanding between plaintiff and defendant respecting the treatment of all property acquired and accumulated through the skills, efforts, labor, and earnings of plaintiff and defendant, and each of them, defendant should be declare by this court to be an involuntary trustee, holding one-half of the joint property, and the rents, issues, and profits therefrom in constructive trust for plaintiff with the duty to convey the same to her/him forthwith.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. That defendant be compelled to account for all joint property acquired and accumulated through the skills, efforts, labor, and earnings of plaintiff and defendant, and each of them, during their relationship;

2. That on ascertaining the nature, extent, and value of the joint property, the court order a division of the property between plaintiff and defendant, and that defendant be declared the constructive trustee of one-half of the property and be compelled to transfer legal title and possession of one-half of that property and one-half of the rents, issues, and profits therefrom to plaintiff;

3. Or, in the alternative, that the court ascertain the nature, extent, and value of the joint property and award plaintiff damages for breach of contract in the amount of one-half of the value of that property;

4. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court deems proper.

_____[signature]

Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. see § 387.160[1].]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a sample complaint in an action by a nonmarital partner against his or her copartner, in which the plaintiff alleges that he or she had an implied-in-fact agreement with the defendant to pool their efforts and earnings and share in the joint accumulations of property during the time in which they lived with each other (see § 387.70 et seq.). It also alleges that there was a confidential relationship between plaintiff and defendant in which plaintiff entrusted to defendant all care of the joint property. By failing to acknowledge or account for the joint property at the termination of the relationship, defendant violated the confidential relationship and plaintiff's trust and became the constructive trustee of one-half of the property acquired and accumulated during the relationship (see § 387.78[3]).

This complaint is designed to be used in a situation in which the plaintiff partner was financially supported by the defendant partner during their relationship, and performed domestic and other services for the defendant during that time in lieu of holding down a paying job. Because the courts distinguish between services that are ordinarily compensated with money and services that are not, and frequently find the latter to be inseparable from sexual services and thus invalid support for a cohabitation agreement, a complaint of this type should clearly set forth the types of services performed by the plaintiff, in language that distinguishes them from services of a sexual nature (see § 387.53[2]).

A complaint on a contract must specify whether the contract is written, oral, or implied by conduct, or it will be subject to a demurrer [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(g); see Ch. 140, Contracts].

For a discussion of the applicability of the equitable doctrine of constructive trust to nonmarital relationships, see § 387.78.

[3] State Statutes

Implied contract defined. Civ. Code § 1621

Creation of involuntary (constructive) trust. Civ. Code § 2224

[4] Cross References

For discussion and alternative forms for use in actions to impress constructive trusts, see Ch. 561, Trusts: Constructive Trusts .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 387 NONMARITAL COHABITATION
PART IV. FORMS
B. Enforcement Of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements
2. Enforcement Of Implied Agreements And Equitable Remedies

34-387 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 387.201

§ 387.201 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] in Quantum Meruit for Reasonable Value of Work, Labor, and Services

[1] FORM Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] in Quantum Meruit for Reasonable Value of Work, Labor, and Services

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____
[or other as appropriate]

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR MONEY
_____ [name],	)	(Quantum Meruit)
Defendant.	)
	)
	)

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Defendant is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a resident of the County of _____, California.

2. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff and defendant commenced living with each other. On or about _____ [date], the parties separated from each other without any intention of continuing their relationship.

3. During the period in which the parties lived with each other, plaintiff rendered work, labor, and services, to defendant, which work, labor, and services primarily consisted of _____ [describe specifically, e.g., housekeeping services, accounting services, and secretarial services].

4. At all times herein mentioned, plaintiff reasonably expected to be compensated for the above-described work, labor, and services to defendant, because _____ [describe basis of plaintiff's reasonable expectation, e.g., the work, labor, and services performed by plaintiff are of the type ordinarily performed for compensation, and defendant on several occasions promised to make such compensation].

5. At all times herein mentioned, the reasonable value of the work, labor, and services rendered by plaintiff exceeded the value of support plaintiff received from defendant during the term of their relationship. The total amount by which the reasonable value of the work, labor, and services rendered by plaintiff exceeded the value of support received by plaintiff is $_____.

6. No part of this sum has been paid, and there is now due and unpaid from defendant to plaintiff the sum of $_____.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For the sum of $_____;

2. For the costs of suit herein incurred; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____[signature]

Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. see § 387.160[1].]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a sample complaint in an action in which a nonmarital partner seeks to recover the reasonable value of services rendered to his or her copartner during the period of their relationship pursuant to an implied-in-fact contract for payment (see § 387.77[2]). In order to recover compensation for services rendered on a theory of implied-in-fact contract, the nonmarital partner seeking compensation must establish the following [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 684, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] :

1. That services were performed and the nature of those services;

2. That they were performed with an expectation of payment; and

3. The reasonable value of the services rendered.

For further discussion of the possibly theories of recovery in quantum meruit for services performed for the benefit of a nonmarital partner, see § 387.77.

[3] State Statutes

Complaints in general. Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10

[4] Cross References

For general discussion of pleading common counts and related forms, see Ch. 121, Common Counts .

For general discussion of contracts and related forms, see Ch. 140, Contracts .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 388.syn

§ 388.syn Synopsis to Chapter 388: NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS

§ 388.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 388.02 Cross References

§§ 388.03-388.09 [Reserved]

§ 388.10 Governing Law

§ 388.11 Types of Nonprofit Corporations

[1] Public and Mutual Benefit

[2] Owners Association

[3] Mutual Water Company

[4] Religious Corporations

[5] Eleemosynary Corporations Organized Before 1980

[6] Medical or Hospital Services and Health Care Plan Corporations

[7] Legal Services Corporation

[8] Unincorporated Associations

[9] Trade or Commerce Association Formed Before 1980

§ 388.12 Capacity to Sue and Be Sued

§ 388.13 Suspension of Corporate Powers

[1] Grounds for Suspension

[2] Voidability of Contracts During Suspension

[3] Revocation of Tax Exempt Status

[4] Reestablishment of Exemption

[5] Relief From Suspension

§ 388.14 Tort Liability

§ 388.15 Alter Ego Liability; Piercing Corporate Veil

§ 388.16 Indemnification of Corporate Agent

[1] In General

[2] Definition of Agent, Proceeding, and Expenses

[3] Availability and Scope of Indemnification

[a] In Action Other Than by Corporation or Attorney General

[b] In Action by Corporation or Attorney General

[4] Determination to Indemnify

[a] Mandatory Indemnification

[b] Permissive Indemnification

[c] Advancement of Expenses

[d] When Indemnification Invalid

[5] Insurance

[6] Special Rules for Employee Benefit Plan Fiduciaries

§ 388.17 Liability of Volunteer Directors and Officers

[1] In General

[2] Definitions

[3] Volunteers of Public Benefit Corporations

[4] Volunteers of Trade, Professional, and Labor Organizations Established as Mutual Benefit Corporations

[5] Volunteers of Tax-Exempt and Insured Nonprofit Corporations

[a] Immunity for Good Faith Acts Within Scope of Duties

[b] Tax-Exempt Status and General Liability Insurance Required

[c] When Immunity Does Not Apply

[6] Court Order to Sue Volunteer Officer or Director

[a] When Order Is Required

[b] Proceedings to Obtain Order Allowing Pleading to Be Filed

[c] Statute of Limitations Tolled

§§ 388.18-388.29 [Reserved]

§ 388.30 Directors' Standard of Care

[1] General Standard

[2] Reliance on Information and Reports

[3] Scope of Liability

§ 388.31 Authority to Bind Corporation

§ 388.32 Self-Dealing Transactions

[1] Overview

[2] By Director of Public Benefit Corporation

[a] Defined

[b] Transaction Approved or Ratified

[c] Action Against Interested Director

[i] Relief Available

[ii] Parties and Jurisdiction

[iii] Statute of Limitations

[3] By Director of Mutual Benefit Corporation

§ 388.33 Law Governing Assets in Charitable Trust

§ 388.34 Common Director Transactions

§ 388.35 Compensation of Directors and Officers

[1] Of Public Benefit Corporations

[2] Of Mutual Benefit Corporations

§ 388.36 Directors' Liability for Distributions, Loans, and Guarantees

[1] Prohibited Transactions

[2] Who May Bring Action

[3] Damages Recoverable

§ 388.37 Limitations on Corporate Loans, Guarantees, and Advances

[1] By Public Benefit Corporations

[2] By Mutual Benefit Corporations

§ 388.38 Director's Right to Inspect Books and Records

§§ 388.39-388.49 [Reserved]

§ 388.50 Definition of Member and Memberships

§ 388.51 Definition of Shares and Shareholder

§ 388.52 Members Not Required

§ 388.53 Issuance and Transfer of Memberships

[1] Eligibility

[2] Multiple or Fractional Memberships

[3] Classes of Membership

[4] Transferability of Memberships

[5] Membership Certificates or Cards Issued by Mutual Benefit Corporations

[a] Contents

[b] Replacement Certificates

[6] Securities Qualification May Be Required

§ 388.54 Termination of Membership

[1] Resignation or Expiration

[2] Expulsion, Suspension, or Termination

[a] Procedural Fairness Standard

[b] Notice Required

[c] Action Challenging Expulsion, Termination, or Suspension

[3] Change in Membership Requirements of Public Benefit Corporation

§ 388.55 Rights Regarding Fraudulent Issuance or Sale of Memberships

§ 388.56 Liability of Members Generally

[1] For Dues

[2] Limited Liability to Creditors for Corporation's Obligations

[3] Creditors' Actions to Reach Amounts Due to Corporation

§ 388.57 Liability for Distributions

[1] Liability of Members, Officers, and Directors of Public Benefit Corporation

[2] Liability of Members of Mutual Benefit Corporations

[a] Limitations on Distributions

[b] Amount of Liability on Receipt of Distribution

[c] Action to Enforce Liability

§ 388.58 Right to Inspect Membership Lists

[1] Scope and Timing of Inspection

[2] Contents of Demand

[3] Who May Exercise Right

[a] By Any Member

[b] By Authorized Number of Members

[4] Denial of Demand

[a] Proposal of Alternative Method

[b] Denial of Access if Information Sought for Purpose Unrelated to Membership

[c] Action to Compel Compliance by Single Member

[5] Petition to Set Aside Demand of Members

[a] Availability and Timing

[b] Protective Order and Order to Show Cause

[c] Final Order to Set Aside Demand

[6] Petition by Requesting Parties for Writ of Mandate to Compel Access

[7] Misuse of List

[a] Prohibited Uses

[b] Remedies for Misuse

[8] Petition to Limit Inspection on Constitutional Grounds

[9] Application to Postpone Meeting Because of Corporate Delay

§ 388.59 Right to Inspect Other Records

[1] Accounting Books, Records, and Minutes

[2] Enforcement of Inspection Rights

§§ 388.60-388.79 [Reserved]

§ 388.80 Annual Membership Meetings

§ 388.81 Electronic Meetings

§ 388.82 Special Membership Meetings

§ 388.83 Notice of Meetings

§ 388.84 Validity of Actions at Meeting

[1] Conditions for Validity

[2] Quorum

[3] Actions Taken by Ballot or Consent

§ 388.85 Proxies and Written Ballots

§ 388.86 Court-Ordered Meeting or Ballot

§ 388.87 Election of Directors by Members

[1] Nominations and Procedures

[2] Cumulative Voting

§ 388.88 Voting Rights; One Vote Per Member

§ 388.89 Members' Right to Request Results of Vote

§ 388.90 Board Meetings

§§ 388.91-388.109 [Reserved]

§ 388.110 Selection of Directors

[1] By Election

[2] By Designation or Selection

[3] Appointment by Court

§ 388.111 Removal

[1] For Cause

[2] Without Cause

§ 388.112 Filling Vacancies

§ 388.113 Provisional Director

§ 388.114 Special Restrictions on Directors of Public Benefit Corporations

§ 388.130 California Corporation Laws

§ 388.131 California Legal Forms

§ 388.132 California Points and Authorities

§ 388.133 State Statutes

[1] Capacity

[2] Definitions and General Provisions

[3] Directors' Standard of Care

[4] Indemnification of Agents

[5] Limited Liability of Volunteer Officers and Directors

[6] Members and Membership Rights

[a] Inspection Rights

[b] Issuance and Transfer

[c] Meetings and Notice of Meetings

[d] Members' Liability

[e] Termination of Membership

[f] Voting Rights

[7] Merger

[8] Selection and Removal of Directors

[9] Suspension or Forfeiture of Powers

[10] Vehicle and Other Donations

§ 388.134 Administrative Regulations

§ 388.135 Decisions

[1] Derivative Actions

[2] Election of Directors

[3] First Amendment Rights

[4] Member Rights

[5] Member Liabilities

§ 388.136 Law Reviews

§ 388.137 Text References

§ 388.150 Allegation of Capacity and Principal Place of Business [Code Civ. Proc. § 395.5]--Public Benefit Corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5004, 5140]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Legal Capacity of Corporations

[4] Venue

[5] Cross References

[6] State Statutes

[7] Decisions

§ 388.151 Allegation of Capacity and Principal Place of Business [Code Civ. Proc. § 395.5]--Mutual Benefit Corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5004, 7140]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

[4] Cross Reference

§ 388.152 Proceedings for Indemnification for Defense Expenses [Corp. Code §§ 5238(a),(d),(e)(3), 7237(a),(d),(e)(3)]--Notice of Motion in Pending or Completed Case and Supporting Declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Timing of Motion

[4] Evidentiary Showing

[5] Attorney's Fees and Costs

[6] Cross References

[7] California Points and Authorities

§ 388.153 Proceedings for Indemnification for Defense Expenses [Corp. Code §§ 5238(a),(d),(e)(3), 7237(a),(d),(e)(3)]--Order to Show Cause in Threatened Action or One in Which Corporation Is Not Party

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Personal Jurisdiction Over Corporation

[4] Cross Reference

§ 388.154 Proceedings for Indemnification for Defense Expenses [Corp. Code §§ 5238(a),(d),(e)(3), 7237(a),(d),(e)(3)]--Order [Code Civ. Proc. § 1003] Granting Motion for Indemnification for Defense Expenses

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Findings

[4] Applicable Standard of Conduct

§ 388.155 Complaint for Indemnification for Defense Expenses--Successful Defense of Underlying Claim [Corp. Code §§ 5238(d), 7237(d)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Attorney's Fees and Costs

[4] Verification

[5] Jurisdiction

[6] Cross References

§ 388.156 Complaint for Indemnification for Defense Expenses--Directors or Members Approved Indemnification [Corp. Code §§ 5238(e)(1), (2), 7237(e)(1), (2)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Attorney's Fees and Costs

[4] Cross Reference

§ 388.157 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Defendant Is Volunteer Director or Executive Officer of Public Benefit Corporation [Corp. Code § 5239]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Cross References

[5] State Statutes

§ 388.158 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Defendant Is Volunteer Director or Executive Officer of Mutual Benefit Corporation [Corp. Code § 7231.5]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Cross References

[5] California Points and Authorities

[6] Cross Reference

§ 388.159 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. 431.30(b)(2)--Defendant Is Volunteer Director or Officer of Nonprofit Corporation and Corporation Is Insured [Corp. Code § 5047.5]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Applicability of Defense

[5] Cross Reference

§ 388.160 Proceedings for Order Permitting Filing of Complaint Seeking Damages Against Volunteer Director or Officer of Nonprofit Corporation [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15]--Petition [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15(a)] and Supporting Declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Accompanying Papers

[4] Service of Petition and Proposed Pleading

[5] Response by Intended Defendant

[6] Tolling of Limitation Period on Underlying Action

§ 388.161 Proceedings for Order Permitting Filing of Complaint Seeking Damages Against Volunteer Director or Officer of Nonprofit Corporation [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15]--Notice of Hearing of Petition

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross Reference

§ 388.162 Proceedings for Order Permitting Filing of Complaint Seeking Damages Against Volunteer Director or Officer of Nonprofit Corporation [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15]--Order

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross Reference

§ 388.163 Complaint by Creditors of Corporation Against Members to Apply Membership Assessments in Satisfaction of Judgment [Corp. Code §§ 5352, 7353]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Corporation as Defendant

[4] Jurisdiction

[5] Cross Reference

§ 388.164 Allegations--By Creditor Seeking to Be Joined as Plaintiff [Code Civ. Proc. § 378; Corp. Code §§ 5352(b), 7353(b)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross Reference

§ 388.165 Complaint by Creditor of Corporation Against Members to Apply Improper Distributions in Satisfaction of Prior Claims [Corp. Code §§ 5420(b), 7420(b), (c)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Punitive Damages

[5] Liability for Fraudulent Transfer

[6] Cross Reference

§ 388.166 Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086] to Enforce Members' Right to Inspect and Copy Membership Lists and Use Them in Mailings [Corp. Code §§ 6331, 8331]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Jurisdiction and Venue

[5] Hearing and Order

[6] Cross References

[7] State Statutes

§ 388.167 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Removal of Director for Cause [Corp. Code §§ 5223, 7223]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Corporation Must Be Party

[5] Jurisdiction and Venue

[6] Cross Reference

§ 388.168 Application for Appointment of Directors [Corp. Code §§ 5220(e), 7220(e)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Where Action May Be Brought

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART I. SCOPE

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.01

§ 388.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses and contains forms relating to public benefit corporations and mutual benefit corporations, with emphasis on liability and indemnification of directors, rights of members with regard to records, voting, transfer of memberships, derivative actions and dissolution, and rights of creditors to reach assessments and improper distributions.

The chapter includes an allegation of plaintiff's capacity [see §§ 388.150-388.151]. It also includes an application for indemnification for expenses, judgment, or settlement by a corporation, director, officer, employee, or agent, either in the form of a notice of motion in a pending or completed case [see § 388.152] or an order to show cause if indemnification is related to a threatened action or one in which corporation is not a party [see § 388.153], an order for indemnification [see § 388.154], and a complaint for indemnification of expenses by a director, officer, employee, or agent who successfully defended the underlying claim [see § 388.155] or after directors or members have approved indemnification [see § 388.156].

Additionally, the chapter contains affirmative defenses for use by a defendant volunteer director or officer [see §§ 388.157-388.159], and forms for use to obtain an order allowing the filing of a complaint for money damages against a volunteer officer or director when the immunity of Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15 does not apply [see §§ 388.160-388.162].

Forms relating to creditors include a complaint by creditors of a corporation against members to apply membership assessments in ssatisfaction of judgment [see § 388.163], allegations regarding joinder of other creditors [see § 388.164], and a complaint by a creditor of the corporation against members to apply improper distributions in satisfaction of prior claims [see § 388.165].

Forms related to members' rights include a petition for writ of mandate to enforce members' right to inspect and copy membership lists and use them in mailings [see § 388.166], a complaint by members or director(s) against the corporation and one other director for removal of defendant director [see § 388.167], and an application for appointment of directors of a corporation that has not issued memberships when all the directors have resigned, died, or become incompetent, or when the initial directors were not named in the articles and all the incorporators resigned, died, or became incompetent before initial directors were elected [see § 388.168].

For a discussion and forms relating to actions for breach of charitable trusts, including a complaint to bring a member's derivative action against a director of a nonprofit corporation for breach of charitable trust, complaints and affirmative defenses for an action seeking damages or an accounting against a director for a self-dealing transaction, and a petition for court supervision of voluntary winding up of a nonprofit corporation, see Ch. 560, Trusts: Express, Public, Charitable, and Totten Trusts .

For a detailed discussion of certain types of unincorporated associations and related forms, see Ch. 110, Churches and Religious Organizations , Ch. 124, Condominiums and Other Common Interest Developments , and Ch. 61, Associations and Clubs . Rights and remedies of persons denied or expelled from membership on the basis of discrimination are discussed in Ch. 116, Civil Rights: Discrimination in Business Establishments .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART I. SCOPE

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.02

§ 388.02 Cross References

For discussion and forms relating to actions and proceedings involving unincorporated associations, see Ch. 61, Associations and Clubs .

For discussion and forms relating to actions and proceedings under the Nonprofit Religious Corporation Law, see Ch. 110, Churches and Religious Organizations .

For discussion and forms relating to prohibited bases of exclusion or expulsion from membership, see Ch. 116, Civil Rights: Discrimination in Business Establishments .

For discussion and forms relating to actions and proceedings involving common interest associations, see Ch. 124, Condominiums and Other Common Interest Developments .

For discussion and forms relating to actions and proceedings under the General Corporation Law, see Ch. 168, Corporations: Derivative Actions .

For discussion and forms relating to actions and proceedings involving charitable trusts, including those applicable to nonprofit corporations holding assets in charitable trust, see Ch. 560, Trusts: Express, Public, Charitable, and Totten Trusts .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART I. SCOPE

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 388.03-388.09

[Reserved]

§§ 388.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Scope and Definitions

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.10

§ 388.10 Governing Law

Public benefit corporations are governed by the Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation Law, Corp. Code § 5110 et seq. [see Corp. Code § 5060]. Mutual benefit corporations are governed by the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law, Corp. Code 7110 et seq. [see Corp. Code § 5059]. Corp. Code § 5000 et seq. sets forth general provisions and definitions governing all nonprofit corporations. When a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation holds assets in charitable trust, the conduct of its directors will be governed by Corp. Code § 5230 et seq., the standards of conduct applicable to nonprofit public benefit corporations with respect to the assets held in charitable trust [Corp. Code § 7238].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Scope and Definitions

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.11

§ 388.11 Types of Nonprofit Corporations

[1] Public and Mutual Benefit

A nonprofit public benefit corporation may be established for any public or charitable purpose [Corp. Code § 5111]. Its assets are deemed to be impressed with a charitable trust, by virtue of the charitable purposes set forth in the articles of incorporation [American Center For Education, Inc. v. Cavnar (1978) 80 Cal. App. 3d 476, 486, 145 Cal. Rptr. 736 ; see Corp. Code § 5130 (articles required to provide statement of public and/or charitable purpose)].

A nonprofit mutual benefit corporation may be formed for any lawful purpose. If all of a corporation's assets, however, are irrevocably dedicated to charitable, religious or public purposes and if, on dissolution, the law or the corporation's articles or bylaws require its assets to be distributed to a person or persons carrying on a charitable, religious, or public purpose or purposes, the corporation may not be formed as a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation [Corp. Code § 7111].

When a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation holds charitable assets in trust, the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law (Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.) includes several special provisions applicable only to those corporations [see Corp. Code §§ 7135 (power of court to impress charitable trust on assets of mutual benefit corporation), 7238 (director of corporation holding assets in charitable trust subject to same standards applied to director of nonprofit public benefit corporation), 7240 (corporation holding assets in charitable trust subject to examination by Attorney General), 7913 (notice to Attorney General of disposition of assets held in trust); see generally Ch. 560, Trusts: Express, Public, Charitable, and Totten Trusts].

[2] Owners Association

Typically, no person may hold more than one membership in a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation, nor may any fractional memberships be held, unless the memberships are held in an owners' association [Corp. Code § 7312]. However, the articles or bylaws of an owners' association, created in connection with any of the forms of development referred to in Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004.5, may permit a person who owns an interest, or who has a right of exclusive occupancy, in more than one lot, parcel, area, apartment, or unit to hold a separate membership in the owners' association for each such lot, parcel, area, apartment, or unit [Corp. Code § 7312(d)]. Owners' associations are discussed in Ch. 124, Condominiums and Other Common Interest Developments .

[3] Mutual Water Company

In the case of membership in a mutual water company, as defined in Corp. Code § 14300, the articles or bylaws may permit a person entitled to membership by reason of the ownership, lease, or right of occupancy of more than one lot, parcel, or other service unit to hold a separate membership in the mutual water company for each lot, parcel, or other service unit [Corp. Code § 7312(e)].

[4] Religious Corporations

A nonprofit religious corporation is governed generally by Corp. Code § 9110 et seq. A nonprofit religious corporation may be formed primarily or exclusively for any religious purposes [Corp. Code § 9111]. A corporation sole may be formed by the bishop, chief priest, presiding elder, or other presiding officer of any religious denomination, society, or church, for the purpose of administering and managing its affairs, property, and temporalities [Corp. Code § 10002]. Religious organizations are discussed in Ch. 110, Churches and Religious Organizations .

[5] Eleemosynary Corporations Organized Before 1980

Eleemosynaries organized or existing under former former Corp. Code § 10200 et seq., in effect on December 31, 1979, are deemed to be nonprofit public benefit corporations organized for charitable purposes and are subject to the Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation Law (Corp. Code § 5110 et seq.). If the corporation is organized exclusively for religious purposes, however, it is deemed to be a nonprofit religious corporation, and is subject to the Nonprofit Religious Corporation Law (Corp. Code § 9110 et seq.) [Corp. Code § 10200].

[6] Medical or Hospital Services and Health Care Plan Corporations

A nonprofit corporation may be formed as a public benefit or mutual benefit corporation for the purpose of defraying or assuming the cost of medical services [see Corp. Code § 10810 et seq.]. A corporation may be organized as a health care service plan, as defined in Health & Safety Code § 1345(f), under the laws pertaining to nonprofit public and mutual benefit corporations [see Corp. Code § 10820 et seq.].

[7] Legal Services Corporation

A nonprofit corporation may be formed as a mutual benefit corporation for the purposes of administering a system or systems of defraying the cost of professional services of attorneys [see Corp. Code § 10830 et seq.].

[8] Unincorporated Associations

A nonprofit association is an unincorporated association with a primary common purpose other than to operate a business for profit [Corp. Code § 18020(a) see Ch. 61, Associations and Clubs].

[9] Trade or Commerce Association Formed Before 1980

A nonprofit corporation that was organized for certain purposes, such as a chamber of commerce, a board of trade, and a mechanics' institute, former Corp. Code § 12000 et seq. in effect on December 31, 1979, is governed by the General Corporation Law (Corp. Code § 100 et seq.) if the corporation is organized with capital stock. It is subject to the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law (Corp. Code 7110 et seq.) if the corporation is organized without capital stock [Corp. Code § 12000].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Suits by or Against Nonprofit Corporations

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.12

§ 388.12 Capacity to Sue and Be Sued

A nonprofit corporation may be sued as provided in the Code of Civil Procedure. As a condition of its existence as a corporation, it is subject to the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure authorizing the attachment of corporate property [Corp. Code §§ 5004, 5005; see also Ch. 160, Corporations: Capacity].

A nonprofit corporation, even though it is not engaged in business but is organized for social welfare work, may maintain an action for libel without proof of special damage, if it is dependent for its support on voluntary contributions, the number and amount of which are likely to be affected by the publication on which the complaint is based [see Washburn v. Wright (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 789, 793, 68 Cal. Rptr. 224 , and related form in Ch. 61, Associations and Clubs].

For forms alleging the capacity and principal place of business of a nonprofit corporation, see §§ 388.150 and 388.151.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Suits by or Against Nonprofit Corporations

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.13

§ 388.13 Suspension of Corporate Powers

[1] Grounds for Suspension

The corporate powers, rights, and privileges of a domestic or foreign public or mutual benefit corporation that is exempt from paying franchise taxes may be suspended or forfeited, as the case may be, for failure to file the annual return or statement required under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23772 or 23774, or to pay any amount due under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23703 or 23772 on or before the last day of the 12th month following the close of its taxable year [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23775; see also Ch. 160, Corporations: Capacity].

The corporate powers, rights, and privileges of a domestic or foreign public or mutual benefit corporation also may be suspended or forfeited, as the case may be, for any of the following acts [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23301, 23301.5; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19141 (specified monetary penalty for failure to file reports required by Corp. Code § 6810 or 8810)]:

- Failure to pay any tax, penalty, or interest, or any portion thereof, which is due and payable under the Corporation Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23001 et seq.] or the administrative provisions [Rev. & Tax Code § 19001 et seq.], either at the time the return is required to be filed, or on or before the 15th day of the ninth month following the close of the taxable year, by 6:00 p.m. on the last day of the 12th month after the close of the taxable year;

- Failure to pay any tax, penalty, or interest, or any portion thereof, due and payable on notice and demand from the Franchise Tax Board, or due and payable under the Corporation Tax Law (Rev. & Tax. Code § 23001 et seq.) or the administrative provisions (Rev. & Tax Code § 19001 et seq.) by 6:00 p.m. on the last day of the 11th month following the due date of the tax; or

- Failure to file a return.

[2] Voidability of Contracts During Suspension

Every contract made while a corporation's powers are suspended or forfeited is voidable by the party other than the corporate taxpayer. The party that has the right to declare a contract to be voidable may only exercise that right in a lawsuit with respect to the contract. The rights of the parties to the contract will be affected only to the extent expressly provided by a final judgment, which will not be issued unless the corporate taxpayer has been given a reasonable opportunity to cure the voidability [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23304.1(a), 23304.5; for discussion and forms, see Ch. 160, Corporations: Capacity].

[3] Revocation of Tax Exempt Status

Any exemption that has been granted to an organization under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701 et seq. may be revoked by the Franchise Tax Board if the organization fails to to do any of the following [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23777]:

- File any return required under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23772 et seq. or pay any amount due under the Corporation Tax Law [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23703 et seq.] or Rev. & Tax. Code § 18401 et seq. on or before the last day of the 12th month following the close of the taxable year;

- Comply with Rev. & Tax. Code § 19504 (relating to powers of the Franchise Tax Board to examine records and subpoena witnesses); or

- Confine its activities to those permitted by the section under which the exemption was granted.

[4] Reestablishment of Exemption

An organization that has had its exempt status revoked may be reestablished as an exempt organization by doing all of the following [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23778]:

- Filing a new application for exemption and paying a specified filing fee [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701];

- Filing any returns, statements, or paying amounts due that were not previously submitted or paid and that resulted in the revocation; and

- If revocation occurred under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23777(c) (engaging in activities beyond the scope of the exemption), filing satisfactory proof that the organization has corrected its nonexempt activities and will operate in an exempt manner in the future, and paying any tax for the period during which the organization was not qualified for exemption.

[5] Relief From Suspension

Any organization that has been suspended or suffered the forfeiture provided for in Rev. & Tax. Code § 23775 may be revived by filing all of the following [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23776(a); see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305a (certificate of revivor) discussed in Ch. 160, Corporations: Capacity]:

- An application of revivor;

- A new application for exemption [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701], if required by the Franchise Tax Board;

- Any returns, statements, notifications, or amounts due under Rev. & Tax Code § 23772, 23774, or 23775, which were not previously submitted or paid, and which resulted in the suspension or forfeiture; and

- An information return or statement and the amounts specified under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23772 for each year, or part of a year, during the period of suspension or forfeiture in which the organization conducted any activities or received income, grants, gifts, or any other asset.

Any organization exempt from tax under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701 which has suffered the suspension provided for in Rev. & Tax. Code § 23301 or 23301.5 may be required by the Franchise Tax Board to file a new application for exemption in connection with an application for revivor [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23776(b); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Suits by or Against Nonprofit Corporations

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.14

§ 388.14 Tort Liability

Charitable immunity does not exist under California law. Thus, California nonprofit corporations and their directors, officers, employees, and agents are liable for their torts [see Frances T. v. Village Green Owners Ass'n (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 490, 503-514, 229 Cal. Rptr. 456, 723 P.2d 573 ; Raven's Cove Townhomes, Inc. v. Knuppe Development Co. (1981) 114 Cal. App. 3d 783, 799-803, 171 Cal. Rptr. 334 ; see Civ. Code § 1714(a) (everyone is liable for injuries arising from willful or negligent acts); see also Ch. 124, Condominiums and Other Common Interest Developments , and Ch. 560, Trusts: Express, Public, Charitable, and Totten Trusts].

An individual director is liable if he or she specifically authorizes, directs, or participates in the corporation's tortious conduct, or knows or reasonably should know that some hazardous condition or activity under his or her control could injure a third person, and negligently fails to take or order appropriate action to avoid the harm [Frances T. v. Village Green Owners Ass'n (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 490, 508-509, 229 Cal. Rptr. 456, 723 P.2d 573 (and cases cited therein)]. Frances T. v. Village Green Owners Assn. was an action brought by a condominium owner against a homeowners' association and its directors for damages for personal injuries inflicted by an intruder. The assault was alleged to have occurred because of the association's failure to provide adequate lighting in common areas. The association's liability was premised on its duty as a landlord and its failure to perform that duty by providing adequate lighting [Frances T. v. Village Green Owners Ass'n (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 490, 499, 503, 229 Cal. Rptr. 456, 723 P.2d 573] .

Raven's Cove Townhomes, Inc. v. Knuppe Development Co. involved liability for failure to exercise supervisory and managerial responsibilities. The members of a homeowners' association brought an action against the former board of directors of the association, who were also the developers of the townhouses, for breach of their fiduciary duties to the association in failing to properly determine operating costs and fund a maintenance reserve account. The developer-directors were held strictly liable for failing to exercise their supervisory and managerial responsibility to assess each condominium unit for adequate reserve funds for the purpose of maintenance and repair [Raven's Cove Townhomes, Inc. v. Knuppe Development Co. (1981) 114 Cal. App. 3d 783, 798-801, 171 Cal. Rptr. 334 (developer knew that bay front exposure created particular maintenance problems regarding paint and exterior trim)]. Furthermore, a potential for conflict of interest existed on the part of the developer-directors. Directors have the obligation to act with undivided loyalty and to avoid transactions that benefit the developer's interest at the expense of the association and its members [see Raven's Cove Townhomes, Inc. v. Knuppe Development Co. (1981) 114 Cal. App. 3d 783, 799, 171 Cal. Rptr. 334] . The fiduciary relationship between the directors of the association and its homeowners is analogous to that of a corporate promoter and the corporate shareholders [Raven's Cove Townhomes, Inc. v. Knuppe Development Co. (1981) 114 Cal. App. 3d 783, 800, 171 Cal. Rptr. 334] .

For a discussion of limited immunity of volunteer directors and officers, see § 388.17.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Suits by or Against Nonprofit Corporations

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.15

§ 388.15 Alter Ego Liability; Piercing Corporate Veil

The alter ego doctrine is not specifically mentioned in the Nonprofit Public or Mutual Benefit Corporation Law (Corp. Code §§ 5110 et seq., 7110 et seq.), or in the General Corporation Law (Corp. Code § 100 et seq.) [but see Corp. Code § 300(e) (disregard of corporate formalities by principals of close corporation as not to be considered in determining whether shareholders are liable for debts of corporation)]. It is an equitable doctrine [Dow Jones Co. v. Avenel (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 144, 147-148, 198 Cal. Rptr. 457] . It appears that there are no reported California cases that apply the alter ego doctrine to impose liability for an obligation of a nonprofit corporation on a person who controlled that corporation. Nevertheless, the doctrine arguably should apply in the nonprofit context to impose liability on an individual who disregards the corporate entity or uses his or her control of a nonprofit corporation for private gain or to conceal or divert assets, and it would be inherently unfair to the third party not to pierce the corporate veil [see Minifie v. Rowley (1921) 187 Cal. 481, 487, 202 P. 673 (elements necessary for application of doctrine); see also Advising California Nonprofit Corporations, § 5.63 (Cal. C.E.B. 1984)]. For discussion of the alter ego doctrine and forms relating to the procedural aspects of its application, see Ch. 161, Corporations: Alter Ego Liability .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Suits by or Against Nonprofit Corporations

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.16

§ 388.16 Indemnification of Corporate Agent

[1] In General

The Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation Law (Corp. Code § 5110 et seq.) and the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law (Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.) contain similar indemnity provisions that closely parallel the indemnity provisions in the General Corporation Law (Corp. Code § 100 et seq.) [see Corp. Code § 317 (indemnity provision in General Corporation Law); see also Ch. 167, Corporations: Directors and Management ; Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 19, § 406.08].

In general, a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation has the power to indemnify any person who was or is a party, or is threatened to be made a party, to any "proceeding" by reason of the fact that the person is or was an "agent" of the corporation, against "expenses" actually and reasonably incurred in connection with the proceeding [Corp. Code §§ 5238(b), 7237(b)].

[2] Definition of Agent, Proceeding, and Expenses

For the purposes of Corp. Code § 5238 or 7237, "agent" means any one of the following persons [Corp. Code §§ 5238(a), 7237(a)]:

(1) Anyone who is or was a director, officer, employee, or other agent of the corporation;

(2) Anyone who is or was serving at the request of the corporation as a director, officer, employee, or agent of another foreign or domestic corporation, partnership, joint venture, trust, or other enterprise; or

(3) Anyone who was a director, officer, employee, or agent of a foreign or domestic corporation that was a predecessor corporation of the corporation or of another enterprise at the request of the predecessor corporation.

The term "proceeding" is defined as any threatened, pending, or completed action or proceeding, whether civil, criminal, administrative, or investigative [Corp. Code §§ 5238(a), 7237(a)].

"Expenses" include, without limitation, attorneys' fees and any expenses of establishing a right to indemnification under Corp. Code § 5238(d) or (e)(3) or 7237(d) or (e)(3) [Corp. Code §§ 5238(a), 7237(a)].

[3] Availability and Scope of Indemnification

[a] In Action Other Than by Corporation or Attorney General

Any person who was or is a party or is threatened to be made a party to any proceeding by reason of the fact that the person is or was an agent of the corporation may be indemnified by the corporation against expenses, judgments, fines, settlements, and other amounts actually and reasonably incurred in connection with the proceeding if the person acted in good faith and in a manner he or she reasonably believed to be in the best interests of the corporation. In a criminal proceeding, the person must also have no reasonable cause to believe his or her conduct was unlawful [Corp. Code §§ 5238(b), 7237(b); see Corp. Code § 7238 (Corp. Code § 5233 as applicable to mutual benefit corporation holding assets in charitable trust)]. However, the corporation may not indemnify the person in an action by or in the right of the corporation to procure a judgment in its favor, or in an action brought under Corp. Code § 5233 (respecting self-dealing transactions) or by the Attorney General or a person granted relator status by theAttorney General for breach of duty relating to the assets held in charitable trust [Corp. Code §§ 5238(b), 7237(b)].

The termination of the proceeding by judgment, order, settlement, conviction, or on a plea of nolo contendere or its equivalent will not, of itself, create a presumption that the person did not act in good faith and in a manner that the person reasonably believed to be in the best interests of the corporation, or that the person had reasonable cause to believe that his or her conduct was unlawful [Corp. Code §§ 5238(b), 7237(b)].

[b] In Action by Corporation or Attorney General

Any person who was or is a party or is threatened to be made a party to any threatened, pending, or completed action by or in the right of the corporation, brought under Corp. Code § 5233 (regarding self-dealing transactions), or brought by the Attorney General or a person granted relator status by the Attorney General for breach of duty relating to the assets held in charitable trust, to procure a judgment in its favor by reason of the fact that the person is or was an agent of the corporation, may be indemnified by the corporation against expenses actually and reasonably incurred in connection with the defense or settlement of the action. To be entitled to indemnification, the person must have acted in good faith and in a manner he or she believed to be in the best interests of the corporation, and with the care, including reasonable inquiry, that an ordinarily prudent person in a like position would use under similar circumstances [Corp. Code §§ 5238(c), 7237(c); see Corp. Code § 7238 (Corp. Code § 5233 as applicable to mutual benefit corporation holding assets in charitable trust)].

No indemnification will be made pursuant to Corp. Code § 5238(c) or 7237(c) in the following situations [Corp. Code §§ 5238(c), 7237(c)]:

- With respect to any claim, issue, or matter as to which the person is determined to be liable to the corporation in the performance of the person's duty to the corporation. Nevertheless, the person may be indemnified if, and to the extent that, the court in which the proceeding is or was pending determines on application that, in view of all the circumstances of the case, the person is fairly and reasonably entitled to indemnity for the expenses that the court will determine;

- With respect to amounts paid in settling or otherwise disposing of a threatened or pending action, with or without court approval; or

- With respect to expenses incurred in defending a threatened or pending action that is settled or otherwise disposed of without court approval unless it is settled with the approval of the Attorney General.

[4] Determination to Indemnify

[a] Mandatory Indemnification

To the extent that an agent of a corporation has been successful on the merits in defense of any proceeding referred to in Corp. Code § 5238(b) or (c) or 7237(b) or (c) (discussed above), or in defense of any claim, issue, or matter in the proceeding, the agent must be indemnified against expenses actually and reasonably incurred by the agent in connection with the proceeding [Corp. Code §§ 5238(d), 7237(d)].

For forms of application, order to show cause, and order awarding indemnification for defense expenses, see §§ 388.152-388.154. For a form of complaint for indemnification expenses, see § 388.155.

[b] Permissive Indemnification

Except for the mandatory indemnification (discussed above), any indemnification will be made by the nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation only if authorized in a specific case, on a determination that indemnification of the agent is proper in the circumstances because the agent has met the applicable standard of conduct set forth in Corp. Code § 5238(b) or (c) or 7237(b) or (c), by one of the following [Corp. Code §§ 5238(e), 7237(e)]:

- A majority vote of a quorum consisting of directors who are not parties to the proceeding;

- Approval of the members (defined in Corp. Code § 5034), with the persons to be indemnified not being entitled to vote; or

- The court in which the proceeding is or was pending on application made by the corporation, agent, attorney, or other person rendering services in connection with the defense, whether or not the application by the agent, attorney, or other person is opposed by the corporation.

For forms of application, order to show cause, and order awarding indemnification for defense expenses, see §§ 388.152-388.154.

[c] Advancement of Expenses

Expenses incurred in defending any proceeding may be advanced by the corporation prior to the final disposition of the proceeding after the corporation receives an undertaking by or on behalf of the agent to repay the amount, unless it is determined ultimately that the agent is entitled to be indemnified [Corp. Code §§ 5238(f), 7237(f)]. Corp. Code §§ 5236(a) and 7235(a) (restrictions on corporate loans, guarantees, and advances to directors and officers) do not apply to such advances [Corp. Code §§ 5238(f), 7237(f)].

[d] When Indemnification Invalid

A provision made by a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation to indemnify its directors or officers or those of its subsidiary for the defense of any proceeding, whether contained in the articles, bylaws, a resolution of members or directors, an agreement, or otherwise, is invalid unless it is consistent with Corp. Code § 5238 or 7237 [Corp. Code §§ 5238(g), 7237(g)]. These sections, however, do not affect any right to indemnification to which persons other than the directors and officers may be entitled by contract or otherwise [Corp. Code §§ 5238(g), 7237(g)].

No indemnification or advance may be made under Corp. Code § 5238 or 7237, except as provided in Corp. Code §

5238(d) or (e)(3) or 7237(d) or (e)(3) [see § 388.16[4]], in any of the following circumstances [Corp. Code §§ 5238(h), 7237(h)]:

(1) The indemnification or advance is inconsistent with a provision of the articles, bylaws, a resolution of the members, or an agreement in effect at the time of the accrual of the alleged cause of action asserted in the proceeding in which the expenses were incurred or other amounts were paid, which prohibits or otherwise limits indemnification; or

(2) The indemnification or advance is inconsistent with any condition expressly imposed by a court approving a settlement.

[5] Insurance

A nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation has the power to purchase and maintain insurance on behalf of any agent of the corporation against any liability asserted against or incurred by the agent in the capacity of agent or arising out of the agent's status as an agent, whether or not the corporation would have the power to indemnify the agent against the liability under the provisions of Corp. Code § 5238 or 7237[Corp. Code §§ 5238(i), 7237(i)]. A public benefit corporation or a mutual benefit corporation holding assets in charitable trust, however, has no power to purchase and maintain the insurance to indemnify any agent of the corporation for a violation of the provisions with respect to self-dealing transactions described in Corp. Code § 5233 [Corp. Code §§ 5238(i), 7237(i)].

[6] Special Rules for Employee Benefit Plan Fiduciaries

Corp. Code § 5238 or 7237 does not apply to any proceeding against any trustee, investment manager, or other fiduciary of an employee benefit plan in the person's capacity as a trustee, investment manager, or other fiduciary, even though the person may also be an agent, as defined in Corp. Code § 5238(a) or 7237(a), of the employer corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5238(j), 7237(j)]. A corporation has the power to indemnify the trustee, investment manager, or other fiduciary to the extent permitted by Corp. Code § 207(f) [Corp. Code §§ 5238(j), 7237(j); see Corp. Code § 207(f) (subject to limitation in articles, corporation may indemnify and purchase and maintain insurance on behalf of fiduciaries of plans or trusts)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Suits by or Against Nonprofit Corporations

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.17

§ 388.17 Liability of Volunteer Directors and Officers

[1] In General

Nonprofit public and mutual benefit corporations have different provisions for the liability of volunteer directors and officers [see Corp. Code §§ 5239, 7231.5]. But certain terms are defined in the same manner for both types of nonprofit corporations [see § 388.17[2]].

[2] Definitions

"Volunteer" is defined as the rendering of services without compensation [Corp. Code §§ 5239(b), 7231.5(b)].

"Compensation" means remuneration whether by way of salary, fee, or other consideration for services rendered. The payment of per diem, mileage, or other reimbursement expenses to a director or executive officer does not affect that person's status as a volunteer [Corp. Code §§ 5239(b), 7231.5(b)].

The term "executive officer" includes the president, vice president, secretary, or treasurer of the corporation, or any other individual who serves in a similar capacity, who assists in establishing the policy of the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5239(c), 7231.5(c)].

[3] Volunteers of Public Benefit Corporations

A volunteer director or volunteer executive officer of a nonprofit public benefit corporation is not personally liable to a third party for monetary damages caused by the director or executive officer's negligent act or omission in the performance of that person's duties as a director or executive officer if all of the following conditions are met [Corp. Code § 5239(a); see also Corp. Code § 5239(g) (applies to acts occurring on or after January 1, 1988)]:

(1) The act or omission was within the scope of the director's or executive officer's duties;

(2) The act or omission was performed in good faith;

(3) The act or omission was not reckless, wanton, intentional, or grossly negligent; and

(4) Damages caused by the act or omission are covered pursuant to a liability insurance policy issued to the corporation, either in the form of a general liability policy, a director's and officer's liability policy, or personally to the director or executive officer.

If the damages are not covered by a liability insurance policy, the volunteer director or executive officer is not personally liable for the damages if the board of directors of the corporation and the person have made all reasonable efforts in good faith to obtain available liability insurance [Corp. Code § 5239(a)(4)]. A nonprofit public benefit corporation with an annual budget of less than $25,000 that is exempt from federal income taxation under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) makes "all reasonable efforts in good faith to obtain available liability insurance" if it makes at least one inquiry per year to purchase a general liability insurance policy with a coverage amount of at least $25,000 and that insurance is not available at a cost of less than 5 percent of the previous year's budget of the corporation [Corp. Code § 5239(h)]. For a nonprofit public benefit corporation in its first year of operation, Corp. Code § 5239(h) applies for as long as the budget of the corporation does not exceed $25,000 in its first year of operation [Corp. Code § 5239(h)].

Corp. Code § 5239 does not eliminate or limit the director or officer's liability with respect to self-dealing transactions, improper distributions, loans, and guarantees, and in any action or proceeding brought by the Attorney General [Corp. Code § 5239(e); see Corp. Code §§ 5233, 5237 (self-dealing)].

Nothing in Corp. Code § 5239 limits the liability of the corporation for any damages caused by acts or omissions of the volunteer director or executive officer [Corp. Code § 5239(d)] or creates a duty of care or basis of liability for damages or injury caused by the acts or omissions of a director or officer [Corp. Code § 5239(f)].

For a form for an affirmative defense for use by a volunteer director or officer of a public benefit corporation, see § 388.157.

[4] Volunteers of Trade, Professional, and Labor Organizations Established as Mutual Benefit Corporations

Except as provided in Corp. Code §§ 7233(dealing with transactions involving directors) and 7236 (respecting directors' liability for distributions, loans, and guarantees), there is no monetary liability on the part of, and no cause of action for damages will arise against, any volunteer director or volunteer executive officer of a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation based on any alleged failure to discharge the person's duties as a director or officer if the duties are performed in a manner that meets all of the following criteria [Corp. Code § 7231.5(a)]:

- The duties are performed in good faith;

- The duties are performed in a manner the director or officer believes to be in the best interests of the corporation; and

- The duties are performed with the care, including reasonable inquiry, that an ordinarily prudent person in a like position would use under similar circumstances.

Corp. Code § 7231.5 applies only to trade, professional, and labor organizations incorporated pursuant to the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law that operate exclusively for fraternal, educational, and other nonprofit purposes, and under the provisions of I.R.C. § 501(c)[Corp. Code § 7231.5(d)]. Corp. Code § 7231.5 does not limit the provisions of Corp. Code § 7231, describing general duties and liabilities of directors [Corp. Code § 7231.5(e)].

For a form for an affirmative defense for use by a volunteer director or officer of a mutual benefit corporation, see §

388.158.

[5] Volunteers of Tax-Exempt and Insured Nonprofit Corporations

[a] Immunity for Good Faith Acts Within Scope of Duties

Except as otherwise provided in Corp. Code § 5047.5, no cause of action for monetary damages arises against any person serving without compensation as a director or officer of a nonprofit corporation subject to the Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation Law (Corp. Code § 5110 et seq.), Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law (Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.), or Nonprofit Religious Corporation Law (Corp. Code § 9110 et seq.) on account of any negligent act or omission occurring (1) within the scope of that person's duties as a director acting as a board member, or within the scope of that person's duties as an officer acting in an official capacity; (2) in good faith; (3) in a manner that the person believes to be in the best interest of the corporation; and (4) is in the exercise of his or her policymaking judgment [Corp. Code § 5047.5(b); see Corp. Code § 5047.5(a) (declaration of legislative intent)]. For these purposes, the payment of actual expenses incurred in attending meetings or otherwise in the execution of the duties of a director or officer does not constitute compensation [Corp. Code § 5047.5(f)].

[b] Tax-Exempt Status and General Liability Insurance Required

Corp. Code § 5047.5 only applies to nonprofit corporations organized to provide religious, charitable, literary, educational, scientific, social, or other forms of public service that are exempt from federal income taxation under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) or 501(c)(6)[Corp. Code § 5047.5(d)].

In addition, the immunity applies only if the following conditions are met:

- The nonprofit corporation maintains a general liability insurance policy with an amount of coverage of at least $500,000 if the corporation's annual budget is less than $50,000, or $1,000,000, if the corporation's annual budget equals or exceeds $50,000 [Corp. Code § 5047.5(e)]; and

- The claim against the director or officer may also be made directly against the corporation, and a liability insurance policy is applicable to the claim [Corp. Code § 5047.5(e)].

If a general liability policy is found to cover the damages caused by the director or officer, no cause of action may be maintained against the director or officer [Corp. Code § 5047.5(e)].

For a form for an affirmative defense under Corp. Code § 5047.5 for use by a volunteer director or officer of a nonprofit corporation, see § 388.159.

[c] When Immunity Does Not Apply

Corp. Code § 5047.5 does not limit the liability of a director or officer for any of the following [Corp. Code § 5047.5(c)]:

- Self-dealing transactions, as described in Corp. Code § 5233 (applicable to public benefit corporations) or 9243 (applicable to religious corporations) [see Corp. Code § 7238 (Corp. Code § 5233 as applicable to mutual benefit corporation holding assets in charitable trust)];

- Conflicts of interest, as described in Corp. Code § 7233, applicable to mutual benefit corporations;

- Actions with respect to directors' liability for improper distributions, loans, and guarantees, as described in Corp. Code § 5237 (public benefit corporations), 7236 (mutual benefit corporations), or

9245 (religious corporations);

- In the case of a charitable trust, an action or proceeding against a trustee brought by a beneficiary of the trust;

- Any action or proceeding brought by the Attorney General;

- Intentional, wanton, or reckless acts, gross negligence, or an action based on fraud, oppression, or malice; or

- Actions brought under the Cartwright Act (Bus. & Prof. Code § 16700 et seq.).

Corp. Code § 5047.5 also does not apply to any volunteer director or officer who receives compensation from the corporation in any other capacity, including, but not limited to, as an employee [Corp. Code § 5047.5(i)].

Corp. Code § 5047.5 does not limit the liability of a nonprofit corporation for any negligent act or omission of a director, officer, employee, agent, or servant occurring within the scope of his or her duties [Corp. Code § 5047.5(g)], nor does it apply to any corporation that unlawfully restricts membership, services, or benefits conferred on the basis of political affiliation, age, or any characteristic listed or defined in Civ. Code § 51(b) or (e) ("Unruh Civil Rights Act"); i.e., sex, race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, disability, medical condition, marital status, or sexual orientation [Corp. Code § 5047.5(h)].

The difference between a negligent act within the scope of an officer's or director's duty and an intentional act for which the officer or director may be liable is illustrated (in the context of for-profit case law) by the nonrenewal or termination of a third party's contract with a corporation. If the officer or director votes to terminate the contract for reasons he or she believes serve the corporation's best interests, the officer or director would not be liable. However, a director or officer who, motivated by political alliances, influences the corporation to terminate a third party's contract with the corporation may be liable for intentional interference with economic advantage [see, e.g., Plate v. Sun-Diamond Growers (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 1115, 1126, 275 Cal. Rptr. 667 (officers who persuaded corporation to terminate exclusive sales representative and then left corporation, started own firm, and became exclusive representative in same area held liable and not entitled to indemnification from corporation); Mouchette v. Board of Education (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 303, 312, 266 Cal. Rptr. 1 (director of school board who, motivated by political alliances, influenced board to terminate plaintiff's contract)].

[6] Court Order to Sue Volunteer Officer or Director

[a] When Order Is Required

If a nonprofit corporation is organized to provide charitable, educational, scientific, social, or other forms of public service, and bases its federal income tax exemption on any of the Internal Revenue Code sections listed below, no cause of action may be filed against any of its volunteer officers or directors for any act or omission done while acting in the capacity of, and scope of his or her duties as, a board member or officer without first obtaining a court order allowing the complaint or other pleading that includes that claim to be filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15(a), (e)(1)]. The nonprofit corporation for which the volunteer director or officer serves must base its federal income tax exemption on one of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15(e)(1)]:

- I.R.C. § 501(c)(1) (entities organized under federal law), except any credit union;

- I.R.C. § 501(c)(4) (civic leagues and employee associations);

- I.R.C. § 501(c)(5) (labor, agricultural, or horticultural);
- I.R.C. § 501(c)(7) (clubs for pleasure or recreation); or
- I.R.C. § 501(c)(19) (armed forces or veterans' organizations).

The protection of Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15(a) applies to volunteer officers and directors of all nonprofit corporations, whether organized as public benefit, mutual benefit, or religious corporations [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15(e)(1)]. A "volunteer" may receive per diem, mileage, or other reimbursement expenses and remain a volunteer within the meaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15, but he or she cannot receive any compensation or remuneration whether by way of salary, fee, or other consideration for services rendered [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15(d)].

Unlike some of the other statutes providing immunity to volunteer officers and directors [see, e.g., Corp. Code §§ 5047.5, 5239; § 388.17[3] and § 388.17[5]], Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15 does not require the volunteer to have acted in good faith, nor is insurance, or an attempt to acquire insurance, a criterion. The volunteer receives this pre-filing protection if the act or omission was done in the scope of the volunteer office [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15(a)]. This protection does not extend to any corporationthat unlawfully restricts membership, services, or benefits conferred on the basis of political affiliation, age, or any characteristic listed or defined in Civ. Code § 51(b) or (e) ("Unruh Civil Rights Act"); i.e., sex, race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, disability, medical condition, marital status, or sexual orientation [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15(e)(2)]. Nothing in Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15 is to be construed to affect any action against the corporation for a negligent act or omission of one of its volunteer officers or directors [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15(c)].

[b] Proceedings to Obtain Order Allowing Pleading to Be Filed

To obtain the order, the plaintiff must file (1) a verified petition therefor accompanied by (2) the proposed pleading and (3) supporting affidavits (or declarations under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) stating the facts on which the liability is based [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15(a); see § 388.160]. The plaintiff has the burden of establishing that the evidence substantiates the claim [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15(a)].

Nothing in Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15 affects the plaintiff's right to discover evidence on the issue of damages [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15(a)].

[c] Statute of Limitations Tolled

The filing of the petition, proposed pleading, and accompanying affidavits tolls the running of any applicable statute of limitations until the final determination of the matter, which ruling, if favorable to the petitioning party, permits the proposed pleading to be filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15(a)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Suits by or Against Nonprofit Corporations

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 388.18-388.29

[Reserved]

§§ 388.18[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Rights and Duties of Directors

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.30

§ 388.30 Directors' Standard of Care

[1] General Standard

The general standard of care to which the directors of nonprofit public and mutual corporations are held is the same as that which is applicable to directors of commercial corporations. A director of a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation is required to perform the duties of a director, including duties as a member of any committee of the board on which the director may serve, in good faith, in a manner the director believes to be in the best interests of the corporation, and with such care, including reasonable inquiry, as an ordinarily prudent person in a like position would use under similar circumstances [see Corp. Code §§ 309(a) (commercial corporations), 5231(a) (public benefit corporations), 7231(a) (mutual benefit corporations); see also Ch. 167, Corporations: Directors and Management]. This standard applies without regard to whether the director is compensated by the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5230(a), 7231(a)].

The foregoing standard of care governs the duties of directors of public and mutual benefit corporations with regard to any acts or omissions in connection with the election, selection, or nomination of directors [Corp. Code §§ 5232(a), 7232(a)].

Actions for breach of charitable trusts held by public or mutual benefit corporations are governed by Corp. Code § 5142 or 7142, and are discussed in Ch. 560, Trusts: Express, Public, Charitable, and Totten Trusts .

[2] Reliance on Information and Reports

In performing the duties of a director of a public or mutual benefit corporation, the director may rely on information, opinions, reports, or statements, including financial statements and other financial data, prepared or presented by one of the following [Corp. Code §§ 5231(b), 7231(b)]:

- One or more officers or employees of the corporation whom the director believes to be reliable and competent in the matters presented;

- Counsel, independent accountants, or other persons regarding matters that the director believes to be within the person's professional or expert competence; or

- A committee on which the director does not serve that is composed exclusively of any (or any combination of) directors or persons described in either of the two categories listed above [see Corp. Code §§ 5231(b)(1), (2), 7231(b)(1), (2)], as to matters within its designated authority, if the director believes the committee merits confidence, and the director acts in good faith after reasonable inquiry when the circumstances so indicate.

[3] Scope of Liability

A person who performs the duties of a director of a public or mutual benefit corporation in accordance with the foregoing standard of care is not liable for any alleged failure to discharge his or her obligations as a director, including, without limitation, any actions or omissions that exceed or defeat a public or charitable purpose to which a corporation, or assets held by it, are dedicated [Corp. Code §§ 5231(c), 7231(c); see Corp. Code § 7238 (if mutual benefit corporation holds assets in charitable trust, conduct of its directors with respect to assets held in charitable trust as governed by standards of conduct applicable to directors of nonprofit public benefit corporations); see also Ch. 560, Trusts: Express, Public, Charitable, and Totten Trusts]. An exception to this limited liability exists for self-dealing transactions, as governed by Corp. Code § 5233 [see § 388.32]. For a discussion regarding investment standards [see Corp. Code §§ 5240, 5241], see Ch. 560, Trusts: Express, Public, Charitable, and Totten Trusts .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Rights and Duties of Directors

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.31

§ 388.31 Authority to Bind Corporation

A nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation is bound by any contract or conveyance, and acquires rights under the contract or conveyance whether it is executed or wholly or partly executory, if the contract or conveyance is made in the name of the corporation and is (1) authorized or ratified by the board, or (2) done within the scope of actual or apparent authority conferred by the board or within the agency power of the officer executing it, except as the board's authority is limited by law other than the Nonprofit Public Benefit or Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [Corp. Code §§ 5141(b), 7141(b); see also Corp. Code §§ 5214, 7214 (authority of officers to bind corporation, absent actual knowledge that signing officer lacked authority to execute instrument)].

No limitation on the activities, purposes, or powers of the corporation or on the powers of members, officers, or directors, or on the manner of the exercise of those powers, contained in or implied by Corp. Code §§ 6510-6721 (dissolution of nonprofit public benefit corporation) or by Corp. Code §§ 8510-8724 (dissolution of nonprofit mutual benefit corporation) may be asserted as between the corporation or member, officer or director and any third person, except in one of the following proceedings [Corp. Code §§ 5141(a), 7141(a)]:

(1) Proceedings by a member of the state to enjoin the doing or continuation of any unauthorized activities by the corporation or its officers, or both, in cases in which third parties have not acquired rights from the activities;

(2) Proceedings to dissolve the corporation; or

(3) Proceedings by the corporation or by a member suing in a representative suit against the officers or directors of the corporation for violation of their authority.

The binding effect of contracts or conveyances, and the prohibition against asserting limitations on corporate powers, are both subject to the conditions set forth in Corp. Code § 5142 or 7142 if the corporation holds assets in charitable trust [Corp. Code §§ 5141, 7141; see discussion in Ch. 560, Trusts: Express, Public, Charitable, and Totten Trusts].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Rights and Duties of Directors

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.32

§ 388.32 Self-Dealing Transactions

[1] Overview

The General Corporation Law (Corp. Code § 100 et seq.) and the Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation Law (Corp. Code § 5110 et seq.) differ greatly in their definition and treatment of self-dealing transactions [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 19, § 406.02]. Because mutual benefit corporations are organized primarily for the benefit of their members and their assets are distributed to the members on dissolution, the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law's treatment of self-dealing transactions is similar to the provisions of the General Corporation Law [compare Corp. Code §§ 7233, 7234 with Corp. Code § 310 (discussed in Ch. 167, Corporations: Directors and Management].

[2] By Director of Public Benefit Corporation

[a] Defined

The Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation Law defines a self-dealing transaction as a transaction (1) to which the public benefit corporation is a party, (2) in which one or more of its directors has a material financial interest, and (3) that does not meet the requirements of approval and fairness described in § 388.32[2][b] [Corp. Code § 5233(a); see Corp. Code § 5233(d)]. This definition does not include any of the following [Corp. Code § 5233(b)]:

(1) An action of the board fixing the compensation of a director as a director or officer of the corporation;

(2) A transaction that is part of a public or charitable program of the corporation if it is approved or authorized by the corporation in good faith and without unjustified favoritism, and results in a benefit to one or more directors because they are in the class of persons intended to be benefited by the program; or

(3) A transaction, of which the interested director or directors have no actual knowledge, and which does not exceed the lesser of 1 percent of the gross receipts of the corporation for the preceding fiscal year or $100,000.

[b] Transaction Approved or Ratified

Relief will not be granted in an action against a director of a nonprofit public benefit corporation for involvement in a self-dealing transaction if either the Attorney General or the court approved the transaction before or after it was consummated [Corp. Code § 5233(d)(1); see also 11 Cal. Code Reg. § 999.1 et seq. (Attorney General's regulations regarding approval of self-dealing transactions); Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 19, § 406.02].

Nor will relief be granted in an action against a director of a nonprofit public benefit corporation for involvement in a self-dealing transaction if the following facts are established [Corp. Code § 5233(d)(2)]:

The corporation entered into the transaction for its own benefit;

(B) The transaction was fair and reasonable as to the corporation at the time the corporation entered into the transaction;

(C) Prior to consummating the transaction the board authorized or approved the transaction in good faith by a vote of a majority of the directors not counting the vote(s) of the interested director(s), and withknowledge of the material facts concerning the transaction and the director's interest in the transaction; and

(D) Prior to authorizing or approving the transaction the board considered and determined in good faith, after reasonable investigation, that a more advantageous arrangement could not have been obtained, or the corporation could not have in fact obtained a more advantageous arrangement.

Similarly, relief will not be granted if the following facts are established [Corp. Code § 5233(d)(3)]:

(A) A committee or person authorized by the board approved the transaction in accordance with Corp. Code § 5233(d)(2), above;

(B) It was not reasonably practicable to obtain approval of the board prior to entering into the transaction; and

(C) The board, after determining in good faith that the conditions specified in (A) and (B) above were satisfied, ratified the transaction at its next meeting by a vote of a majority of directors not counting the vote(s) of the interested director(s).

In determining the presence of a quorum, interested directors may be counted as present at a meeting of the board that authorizes, approves, or ratifies a contract or transaction [Corp. Code § 5233(g)].

For a form of affirmative defense based on prior approval or ratification of a self-dealing transaction, see Ch. 560, Trusts: Express, Public, Charitable, and Totten Trusts .

[c] Action Against Interested Director

[i] Relief Available

If a self-dealing transaction with a nonprofit public benefit corporation has taken place, the court will order the interested director to do such things and pay such damages as, in its discretion, will provide the public benefit corporation with an equitable and fair remedy. The court's order must take into account any benefit received by the corporation and whether the interested director(s) acted in good faith and with intent to further the best interests of the corporation. The relief ordered by the court may include, but is not limited to, requiring the interested director to do the following [Corp. Code § 5233(h)]:

(1) Account for any profits made from the self-dealing transaction, and pay them to the corporation;

(2) Pay the corporation the value of the use of any of its property used in the self-dealing transaction; and

(3) Return or replace any property lost to the corporation as a result of the self-dealing transaction, together with any income or appreciation lost to the corporation, or account for any proceeds of sale of the property, and pay the proceeds to the corporation, together with interest at the legal rate. The court may award prejudgment interest to the extent provided in Civ. Code § 3287 or 3288. In addition, the court may, in its discretion, award exemplary damages for a fraudulent or malicious violation of Corp. Code § 5233.

For a form of complaint against a director of a nonprofit public benefit corporation or a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation holding assets in trust seeking an accounting or actual and punitive damages arising out of a self-dealing transaction, see Ch. 560, Trusts: Express, Public, Charitable, and Totten Trusts .

[ii] Parties and Jurisdiction

An action to redress a self-dealing transaction with a nonprofit public benefit corporation may be brought by the Attorney General or, if the Attorney General is joined as an indispensable party, by any of the following [Corp. Code § 5233(c)]:

(1) The corporation, or a member asserting the right in the name of the corporation in a derivative action pursuant to Corp. Code § 5710;

(2) A director of the corporation;

(3) An officer of the corporation; or

(4) Any person granted relator status by the Attorney General.

The action must be brought in the superior court of the proper county [Corp. Code § 5233(c); see Corp. Code § 5068 (defining "proper county")].

[iii] Statute of Limitations

Generally, an action to redress a director's self-dealing transaction with a nonprofit public benefit corporation must be filed within two years after written notice setting forth the material facts of the transaction and the director's interest in the transaction is filed with the Attorney General in accordance with Attorney General regulations, if any. If no such notice is filed, the action must be filed within three years after the transaction occurred. The Attorney General, however, has 10 years after the transaction occurred within which to file an action [Corp. Code § 5233(e); see 11 Cal. Code Reg. § 999.1(g) (notice of self-dealing transaction as deemed "filed" for purposes of commencement of limitation period when received at one of Attorney General's addresses list in 11 Cal. Code Reg. § 999.1(a)); see also Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 19, § 406.02].

Notwithstanding the expiration of the applicable limitation period, in any action for breach of an obligation of the corporation to an interested director, when the obligation arises from a self-dealing transaction that has not been approved in accordance with Corp. Code § 5233(d), the court may, by way of offset only, make any order authorized by Corp. Code § 5233(h) [Corp. Code § 5233(f); see 388.32[2][c][i]].

[3] By Director of Mutual Benefit Corporation

The Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law is more permissive with respect to self-dealing transactions than the Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation Law. It provides that no contract or other transaction between a corporation and one of its directors, or between a corporation and any domestic or foreign corporation, firm, or association in which one or more of its directors has a material financial interest, is either void or voidable because the director or other corporation, firm, or association is a party to the contract or transaction or is present at the meeting of the board or committee of the board that authorizes, approves, or ratifies the contract or transaction, if one of the following conditions is satisfied [Corp. Code § 7233(a); but see Corp. Code 7238 (mutual benefit corporation holding assets in charitable trust as governed by standards applicable to public benefit corporation)]:

(1) The material facts of the transaction, as well as the director's interest in the transaction, are fully disclosed to or known by the members, who approve the transaction in good faith, but any membership owned by any interested director is not entitled to vote;

(2) The material facts of the transaction and the director's interest in it are fully disclosed to or known by the board or committee, and they authorize, approve, or ratify the contract or transaction in good faith by a vote sufficient without counting the vote of an interested director, and the contract or transaction is just and reasonable to the corporation at the time it is authorized, approved, or ratified; or

(3) The person asserting the validity of the contract or transaction sustains the burden of proving that it was just and reasonable to the corporation at the time it was authorized, approved, or ratified.

A mere common directorship does not constitute a material financial interest within the meaning of the self-dealing transaction provisions. In addition, a director is not interested in a resolution fixing the compensation of another director, officer, or employee of the corporation [Corp. Code § 7233(a)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Rights and Duties of Directors

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.33

§ 388.33 Law Governing Assets in Charitable Trust

When a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation holds assets in charitable trust, the conduct of its directors will be governed by the standards of conduct applicable to nonprofit public benefit corporations with respect to the assets held in charitable trust [Corp. Code § 7238]. Thus, it follows that the procedures set forth in 11 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 999.1(a) and 999.3(a)(b) for notifying or obtaining approval of the Attorney General with respect to self-dealing transactions involving public benefit corporations will apply to mutual benefit corporations holding assets in charitable trust [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 19, § 406.02; see also Ch. 560, Trusts: Express, Public, Charitable, and Totten Trusts .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Rights and Duties of Directors

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.34

§ 388.34 Common Director Transactions

No contract or other transaction between a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation and any corporation, business corporation, or association of which one or more of its directors are directors is either void or voidable because the director(s) is/are present at the meeting of the board or committee that authorizes, approves, or ratifies the contract or transaction, if one of the following conditions is satisfied [Corp. Code §§ 5234(a), 7233(b)]:

(1) The material facts of the transaction and the director's other directorship are fully disclosed to or known by the board or committee, and they authorize, approve, or ratify the contract or transaction in good faith by a vote sufficient without counting the vote of the common director(s) or, in the case of mutual benefit corporations, the contract or transaction is approved by the members in good faith; or

(2) Regarding contracts or transactions not approved in accordance with paragraph (1), above, the contract or transaction is just and reasonable to the corporation at the time it is authorized, approved, or ratified.

The foregoing does not apply to self-dealing transactions that are governed by Corp. Code § 5233 (see § 388.32[2]) or Corp. Code § 7233(a) (see § 388.32[3]) [Corp. Code §§ 5234(b), 7233(b)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Rights and Duties of Directors

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.35

§ 388.35 Compensation of Directors and Officers

[1] Of Public Benefit Corporations

The board of directors of a nonprofit public benefit corporation has the responsibility to fix the compensation of directors, and no obligation to pay compensation is voidable simply because the person receiving the compensation participated in the decision to pay it, so long as the amount is just and reasonable to the corporation [Corp. Code § 5235(a)]. In the absence of fraud, any liability for payment of excessive compensation is limited to the amount paid that exceeds what is just and reasonable, plus interest [Corp. Code § 5235(b)].

[2] Of Mutual Benefit Corporations

There is no provision in the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law (Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.) that deals specifically with the issue of compensation of directors and officers. There are, however, two provisions that deal with transactions between the corporation and one or more of its directors that include actions involving compensation of a director.

The first provision states that no contract or other transaction between a corporation and one or more of its directors in which the director has a material financial interest is either void or voidable because the director is present at the meeting of the board that authorizes, approves, or ratifiesthe transaction, if the material facts of and the director's interest in the transaction are fully disclosed to or known by the board, the board authorizes, approves, or ratifies the transaction in good faith without counting the vote of the interested director, and the transaction is just and reasonable to the corporation at the time it is authorized, approved, or ratified [Corp. Code § 7233(a)(2)]. The resolution fixing a director's compensation is a transaction between a corporation and one or more of its directors. Thus, if such a resolution is passed in good faith by a vote of the fully informed board that is sufficient for approval without counting the votes of the interested director, and the compensation is just and reasonable to the corporation, the compensation will be upheld [Corp. Code § 7233(a)(2); see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 19, § 406.04].

The second section provides that if a transaction between a corporation and one or more of its directors is not approved in accordance with Corp. Code § 7233(a)(2), then the person who is asserting the validity of the transaction sustains the burden of proving that the compensation was just and reasonable to the corporation at the time it was authorized, approved, or ratified [Corp. Code § 7233(a)(3); see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 19, § 406.04].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Rights and Duties of Directors

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.36

§ 388.36 Directors' Liability for Distributions, Loans, and Guarantees

[1] Prohibited Transactions

Subject to the duties and liabilities of directors defined in Corp. Code § 5231 or 7231 (discussed in § 388.30), directors of public and mutual benefit corporations are jointly and severally liable to the corporation and, in the case of a mutual benefit corporation, to the creditors entitled to institute an action to assert the liability, when they approve any of the following corporate actions [Corp. Code §§ 5237(a), 7236(a)]:

(1) The making of any distribution in the case of a public benefit corporation, or the making of any improper distributions in the case of a mutual benefit corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 5420 (public benefit corporation), 7411-7414, 7420 (mutual benefit corporation), see § 388.80 et seq.];

(2) The distribution of assets after institution of dissolution proceedings, without paying or adequately providing for all known liabilities of the corporation, excluding any claims not filed by creditors within the time limits set by the court in notices given to creditors [see Corp. Code §§ 6515, 6613, 6713, 8517, 8613, 8713 (notice to creditors); see also Ch. 560, Trusts: Express, Public, Charitable, and Totten Trusts ; Ballantine and Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 19, §§ 415.02, 415.03;]; and

(3) The making of any loan or guarantee contrary to Corp. Code § 5236 or 7235 [see § 388.37].

A director who is present at a meeting of the board, or a board committee, at which an action specified in Corp. Code § 5237(a) or 7236(a) is taken and who abstains from voting is considered to have approved the action [Corp. Code §§ 5237(b), 7236(b)].

[2] Who May Bring Action

In the case of a public benefit corporation, the Attorney General may bring suit in the name of the corporation to redress all types of improper distributions [Corp. Code § 5237(c)(3)].

In the case of distributions by a mutual benefit corporation that are contrary to Corp. Code §§ 7411-7413, suit may be brought in the name of the corporation against any or all liable directors by the creditors or the head organization described in Corp. Code § 7420(c) [Corp. Code § 7236(c)(1); see also discussion of Corp. Code §§ 7411-7413, 7420(c) in § 388.57[2]]. Similarly, directors of a public benefit corporation who make a distribution prohibited by Corp. Code § 5237(a)(1) may be sued in the name of the corporation by a creditor, director, the Attorney General, or by a member in a derivative action that meets the requirements of Corp. Code § 5710 [Corp. Code § 5237(c)(1); see also § 388.57]. For a form of complaint in a derivative action that may be adapted for use by a member seeking to redress an improper distribution, see Ch. 560, Trusts: Express, Public, Charitable, and Totten Trusts .

In the case of distributions prohibited by Corp. Code § 5237(a)(2),(3) or 7236(a)(2),(3) (distributions made after dissolution proceedings have been commenced and improper loans and guarantees), suit may be brought in the name of the nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation to enforce the liability of any and all directors involved in the making of the distribution, loan, or guarantee by any creditor of the corporation whose debts or claims arose prior to the taking of the corporate action and who did not consent to it [Corp. Code §§ 5237(c)(2), 7236(c)(2)].

In the case of a mutual benefit corporation, suit regarding an improper loan or guarantee may be brought against any and all directors who are liable for the corporate action by any member at the time of the corporate action who did not consent to it, without regard to the requirements for derivative actions contained in Corp. Code § 7710 [Corp. Code § 7236(c)(3)].

For further discussion on this topic, see generally Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 19, § 406.05 (Matthew Bender).

[3] Damages Recoverable

The damages recoverable from a director of a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation are the amount of the illegal distribution, or if the illegal distribution consists of property, the fair market value of that property at the time of the distribution plus interest thereon from that date at the legal rate on judgments until paid, together with all reasonably incurred costs of appraisal or any other valuation of that property; or the loss sufferedby the corporation as a result of the illegal loan or guarantee. In an action for the benefit of creditors of a mutual benefit corporation, the damages recoverable cannot exceed the liabilities owed to the nonconsenting creditors at the time of the violation [Corp. Code §§ 5237(d), 7236(d)]. Any director sued may implead all other directors liable and compel contribution either in that action or in an independent action [Corp. Code §§ 5237(e), 7236(e)]. Directors who are liable will also be entitled to be subrogated to the rights of the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5237(f), 7236(f)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Rights and Duties of Directors

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.37

§ 388.37 Limitations on Corporate Loans, Guarantees, and Advances

[1] By Public Benefit Corporations

A nonprofit public benefit corporation may not loan any money or property to or guarantee the obligation of a director or officer, unless it is approved by the Attorney General [Corp. Code § 5236(a)]. This prohibition is subject to the following three exceptions:

- A corporation may advance money to a director or officer of the corporation or of its parent or any subsidiary for expenses reasonably anticipated to be incurred in the performance of the duties of the officer or director if, in the absence of the advance, the director or officer would be entitled to be reimbursed by the corporation, its parent, or any subsidiary for those expenses [Corp. Code § 5236(a)].

- A corporation may pay the premiums on a life insurance policy on the life of a director or officer if repayment to the corporation of the amount paid by it is secured by the proceeds of the policy and its cash surrender value [Corp. Code § 5236(b)].

- The corporation may loan money to or for the benefit of an officer for the purchase of his or her principal residence if, in the board's judgment, the loan is necessary to secure the officer's services or continued services, and the loan is secured by real property located in California [Corp. Code § 5236(c)].

[2] By Mutual Benefit Corporations

The provisions of the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law regarding corporate loans, guarantees, and advances more closely resemble the rules applicable to business corporations [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 19, § 406.05 (Matthew Bender)]. Unless prohibited by the articles or bylaws of the corporation, a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation may loan money or property to, or guarantee the obligation of, any director or officer of the corporation or of its parent, affiliate, or subsidiary, provided the following conditions are met [Corp. Code § 7235(a)]:

- The board determines the loan or guarantee may reasonably be expected to benefit the corporation;

and

- Prior to consummating the transaction or any part of it, the loan or guarantee is either approved by the members, without counting the vote of the director or officer, if a member, or approved by the vote of a majority of directors then in office, without counting the vote of the director who is to receive the loan or the benefit of the guarantee.

Notwithstanding the above requirements, a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation may advance money to a director or officer of the corporation, or of its parent, affiliate, or subsidiary, for any reimbursable expenses reasonably anticipated to be incurred in the performance of the duties of the director or officer [Corp. Code § 7235(b)].

The conditions set forth in Corp. Code § 7235(a) or (b) do not apply to credit unions, or to the payment by a corporation of premiums on a life insurance policy on the life of a director or officer, so long as repayment to the corporation is secured by the proceeds of the policy and its cash surrender value, or to loans permitted under any statute regulating any special class of corporations [Corp. Code § 7235(c)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Rights and Duties of Directors

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.38

§ 388.38 Director's Right to Inspect Books and Records

Every director has the absolute right at any reasonable time to inspect and copy all books, records, and documents of every kind and to inspect the physical properties of the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 6334, 8334]. However, although not expressly stated, a director's right of inspection may be subordinated to other statutes specifically protecting confidential or private records from inspection, and to the privacy right of the California constitution [see Chantiles v. Lake Forest II Master Homeowners Assn. (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 914, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 (holding that homeowners' association members have constitutional privacy rights in their voting decisions, even when conducted by proxy ballot, and homeowners' association director's statutory right to inspect records of association must be balanced against this privacy right)]. For discussion of the enforcement of inspection rights generally, see § 388.80 et seq..

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Rights and Duties of Directors

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 388.39-388.49

[Reserved]

§§ 388.39[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Members and Membership Rights

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.50

§ 388.50 Definition of Member and Memberships

A "member" of a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation is defined as any person who, pursuant to a specific provision of the corporations's articles or bylaws, has the right to vote for the election of directors, on a disposition of all or substantially all of the assets of the corporation, or on a merger or dissolution. In the case of a mutual benefit corporation, however, the right to vote may be governed by Corp. Code § 7132(a)(2) (permitting holders of debt securities to be granted certain voting rights) [Corp. Code § 5056(a)].

In addition, "member" means any person who is designated as a member in the corporation's articles or bylaws and, pursuant to a specific provision of the articles or bylaws, has the right to vote on changes to the articles or bylaws [Corp. Code § 5056(a)].

When a member of a corporation is not a natural person, the member may authorize in writing one or more natural persons to vote on its behalf on any or all matters that may require a vote of the members [Corp. Code § 5056(c)].

The articles or bylaws of a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation may confer some or all of the rights of a member on anyone who does not have voting rights [Corp. Code § 5056(b); see also Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 19, § 407.01 (Matthew Bender)].

Furthermore, a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation may refer to persons associated with it as members, even though those persons are not members under Corp. Code § 5056 [Corp. Code §§ 5332(a), 7333(a)]. A corporation may also benefit, serve, or assist persons who are not members under Corp. Code § 5056 for consideration, in an amount that the board determines or that is authorized or provided for in the corporation's articles or bylaws [Corp. Code §§ 5332(b), 7333(b)].

A person is not a member by viture of any rights the person has (1) as a delegate, (2) to designate or select a director or directors, or (3) as a director [Corp. Code § 5056(d)].

A "membership" refers to the rights of a member according to the articles and bylaws of a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation and by statute [Corp. Code § 5057]. A "membership certificate," as referred to in the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law, means a document evidencing a transferable property interest in the corporation [Corp. Code § 5058].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Members and Membership Rights

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.51

§ 388.51 Definition of Shares and Shareholder

As used in the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law (Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.), "shares" means the units into which the ownership interests in a business corporation or foreign business corporation are divided in the articles [Corp. Code § 5072]. "Common shares" means shares that have no preference over any other shares with respect to distribution of assets on liquidation or with respect to payment of dividends [Corp. Code § 5043]. "Shareholder" means one who is a holder of record of shares [Corp. Code § 5071].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Members and Membership Rights

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.52

§ 388.52 Members Not Required

A nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation may admit persons to membership, as provided in its articles or bylaws, or may provide in its articles or bylaws that it will have no members [Corp. Code §§ 5310(a), 7310(a)]. If there is no provision in the articles or bylaws for members, the corporation is deemed to have no members [Corp. Code § 5310(a), 7310(a)]. A corporation that has no members includes a corporation in which the directors are the only members [Corp. Code §§ 5310(c), 7310(c)].

When a corporation has no members, any action for which there is no specific provision of the Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation Law (Corp. Code § 5110 et seq.) or of the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law (Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.) applicable to a corporation that has no members and that would otherwise require approval by a majority of all members (as provided in Corp. Code § 5033) or approval by the members (as provided in Corp. Code § 5034) will require only approval of the board, notwithstanding any contrary statute or provision in the corporation's articles or bylaws [Corp. Code §§ 5310(b), 7310(b)(1)]. In the case of a mutual benefit corporation, all rights that would otherwise vest in members to share in a distribution on dissolution will vest in the directors [Corp. Code § 7310(b)(2)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Members and Membership Rights

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.53

§ 388.53 Issuance and Transfer of Memberships

[1] Eligibility

A nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation may issue memberships for no consideration or for consideration determined by the board, subject to its articles or bylaws [Corp. Code §§ 5311, 7311; see also Corp. Code §§ 5140(e), 7140(d) (corporation's power to issue memberships)].

In addition to issuing memberships, a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation may also issue, purchase, redeem, receive, take or otherwise acquire, own, sell, lend, exchange, transfer or otherwise dispose of, pledge, use, and otherwise deal in and with its memberships, bonds, debentures, notes, and debt securities [Corp. Code § 7140(d); see also Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 19, § 407.02 (Matthew Bender)].

Except as provided in its articles or bylaws, a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation may admit any person to membership [Corp. Code §§ 5313, 7315(a)]. A mutual benefit corporation, however, may not admit its subsidiary (as defined in Corp. Code § 5073) to membership [Corp. Code § 7315(b)].

[2] Multiple or Fractional Memberships

A person may hold only one membership, and may not hold any fractional memberships, except for the following [Corp. Code §§ 5312, 7312(a),(b)]:

- Two or more persons may have an indivisible interest in a single membership when authorized and under circumstances prescribedby the articles or bylaws of the corporation subject to Corp. Code § 5612 or 7612, relating to fiduciaries and coowners; and

- If the articles or bylaws provide for classes of membership and permit a person to be a member of more than one class, a person may hold a membership in one or more classes.

For mutual benefit corporations, the following exceptions to the prohibitions against multiple and fractional memberships also apply [Corp. Code § 7312(c)-(f)]:

- Any branch, division, or office of any person, not formed primarily to be a member, may hold a separate membership;

- In the case of ownership in an owners' association [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004.5], the articles or bylaws may permit a person who owns an interest, or who has a right of exclusive occupancy, in more than one lot, parcel, area, apartment, or unit to hold a separate membership in the owners association for each lot, parcel, area, apartment, or unit;

- In the case of membership in a mutual water company [see Corp. Code § 14300], the articles or bylaws may permit a person entitled to membership by reason of the ownership, lease, or right of occupancy of more than one lot, parcel, or other service unit to hold a separate membership in the mutual water company for each lot, parcel, or other service unit;

- In the case of a membership in a mobilehome park acquisition corporation [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.8 (definition)], a bona fide secured party who has, pursuant to a security interest in a membership, taken title to the membership by foreclosure, repossession, or voluntary repossession, and who is actively attempting to resell the membership to a prospective homeowner or resident of the mobilehome park, may own more than one membership.

[3] Classes of Membership

"Class" refers to those memberships that are (1) identified in the articles or bylaws as being a different type of membership; or (2) have the same rights with respect to voting, dissolution, redemption, and transfer [Corp. Code § 5041]. For these purposes, rights are considered the same if they are determined by a formula applied uniformly [Corp. Code § 5041].

A nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation may issue memberships having different rights, privileges, preferences, restrictions, or conditions, as authorized by its articles or bylaws [Corp. Code §§ 5330, 7330]. Unless the articles or bylaws of a corporation provide otherwise, all memberships have the same rights, privileges, preferences, restrictions, and conditions [Corp. Code §§ 5331, 7331].

In the case of a mutual benefit corporation, the articles may provide for one or more classes of memberships that are redeemable, in whole or in part, at the option of the corporation or the member [Corp. Code § 7332(a)]. The articles may also state the terms and conditions of the redemption, the amount of consideration for the redemption, and the time of its occurrence. However, a membership will not be redeemed if the redemption is prohibited by Corp. Code § 7410 et seq. [Corp. Code § 7332(a); see § 388.57[2]]. A corporation may create a sinking fund or similar provision, or enter into an agreement, for the redemption or purchase of its memberships to the extent permitted by law [Corp. Code § 7332(b)].

[4] Transferability of Memberships

Unless the corporation's articles or bylaws provide otherwise, and subject to Corp. Code §§ 5613 or 7613 (relating to proxies), no member of a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation may transfer a membership or any right arising from membership, with or without consideration, and all rights of membership cease on the member's death or dissolution [Corp. Code §§ 5320(a), 7320(a); but see Corp. Code § 5320(c) (section does not prohibit transfer of membership in limited equity housing cooperative provided transfer is consistent with Health & Safety Code § 33007.5, [repealed 2009; now see Civ. Code § 817]; see also Ch. 124, Condominiums and Other Common Interest Developments)].

A mutual benefit corporation may, in its articles or bylaws, provide for or authorize the board to provide for, the transfer of memberships, or of memberships within any class or classes, with or without restriction or limitation, including transfer on the death, dissolution, merger, or reorganization of a member [Corp. Code § 7320(b)]. When transfer rights have been provided, no restriction of them is binding with respect to memberships issued before the adoption of the restriction, unless the holders of the memberships being transferred voted in favor of the restriction [Corp. Code § 7320(c)].

[5] Membership Certificates or Cards Issued by Mutual Benefit Corporations

[a] Contents

A mutual benefit corporation may, although it is not required to, issue membership certificates, identity cards, or similar devices to members that serve to identify members qualifying to use the corporation's facilities or services [Corp. Code § 7313(a)]. When membership certificates are issued, they must state the following [Corp. Code § 7313(b)]:

- That the corporation is a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation that may notmake distributions to its members, except on dissolution, or, if the articles or bylaws so provide, it may not make distributions to its members during its life or on dissolution; and

- If there are restrictions on transferability, a statement that a copy of the restrictions are on file with the secretary of the corporation andare open for inspection by members on the same basis as the records of the corporation.

If the membership certificates are transferable only with consent of the corporation, or there are no membership certificates, then instead of complying with paragraph (2) above, the corporation may, or if there are no membership certificates must, give notice to the transferee of the information that would otherwise be provided by legends required by paragraph (2) above [Corp. Code § 7313(c)]. This notice must occur within a reasonable time after the corporation is first notified of the proposed transfer and before the membership is transferred on the books of the corporation [Corp. Code § 7313(c)].

[b] Replacement Certificates

If the articles or bylaws of the corporation are amended so that the required statements on the outstanding certificates are no longer accurate, the board may cancel the outstanding certificates and issue new ones conforming to the article or bylaw amendments [Corp. Code § 7313(d)], and order holders of outstanding certificates to surrender and exchange them for new certificates within a reasonable time specified by the board [Corp. Code § 7313(e)]. The board may provide that holders of certificates ordered to be surrendered are not entitled to exercise rights of membership until the certificate is surrendered and exchanged [Corp. Code § 7313(e)]. This cessation of membership rights may occur only after notice of the order to surrender is given to the holder and only until the certificate is exchanged [Corp. Code § 7313(e)].

If a certificate is alleged to be lost, stolen, or destroyed, the nonprofit mutual benefit corporation may issue a new certificate and require the owner of the lost, stolen, or destroyed certificate to give the corporation a bond or other adequate security to indemnify it against any claim that may be made against it on account of the alleged loss, theft, or destruction [Corp. Code § 7314(a)]. If the corporation refuses to replace the certificate alleged to have been lost, stolen, or destroyed, the owner of the lost, stolen, or destroyed certificate, or the owner's legal representative may bring an action in the superior court of the proper county for an order requiring the corporation, or its legal successor, to issue a new certificate [Corp. Code § 7314(b); see Corp. Code § 5068 (defining "proper county")].

[6] Securities Qualification May Be Required

The definition of "security" includes any membership in an incorporated or unincorporated association [Corp. Code § 25019]. Thus, the requirements of qualification of securities (Corp. Code § 25110 et seq.) may apply. However, memberships are exempt from qualification [see Corp. Code § 25100(j) (exempting nonprofit corporation securities); see generally Ch. 515, Securities and Franchise Regulation].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Members and Membership Rights

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.54

§ 388.54 Termination of Membership

[1] Resignation or Expiration

A member of a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation may resign at any time, but in the case of a mutual benefit corporation, the articles or bylaws may require reasonable notice before a resignation is effective [Corp. Code §§ 5340(a), 7340(a)]. The resigning member is not relieved from any obligation for charges incurred, services or benefits actually rendered, dues, and assessments or fees, or from obligations arising from contract, ownership of land, or otherwise. The corporation may enforce these obligations or obtain damages for their breach [Corp. Code §§ 5340(b), 7340(b)].

Unless renewed, memberships expire when the period of time for which they were issued has elapsed [Corp. Code §§ 5340(c), 7340(c)].

[2] Expulsion, Suspension, or Termination

[a] Procedural Fairness Standard

A nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation may not expel or suspend a member or terminate or suspend membership rights unless it follows a procedure that satisfies the requirements of Corp. Code § 5341 or 7341 [Corp. Code §§ 5341(a), 7341(a)]. An expulsion, termination, or suspension not in accordance with these requirements is void and without effect [Corp. Code §§ 5341(a), 7341(a)]. Termination of voting rights is an effective termination of membership, and thus Corp. Code § 5341 requires that the termination of voting rights by amendment of the bylaws be done in accordance with a fair and reasonable procedure and in good faith [Ferry v. San Diego Museum of Art (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 35, 40, 45-46, 225 Cal. Rptr. 258 (decided before enactment of Corp. Code § 5342; see § 388.54[3]].

An expulsion, suspension, or termination must be done in good faith and in a fair and reasonable manner [Corp. Code §§ 5341(b), 7341(b)]. A procedure is fair and reasonable when it conforms to all of the following requirements [Corp. Code §§ 5341(c), 7341(c)]:

- The provisions of the procedure are set forth in the articles or bylaws of the corporation, or copies of the provisions are sent annually to all the members as required by the articles or bylaws;

- The procedure provides the giving of 15 days' prior notice of the expulsion, suspension, or termination and the reasons for it; and

- The procedure provides an opportunity for the member to be heard, orally or in writing, at least five days before the effective date of the expulsion, suspension, or termination by a person or body authorized to decide that the proposed expulsion, suspension, or termination not take place.

While any procedure that conforms to the foregoing requirements is fair and reasonable, the court may also find other procedures to be fair and reasonable when the full circumstances of the expulsion, suspension, and termination are considered [Corp. Code §§ 5341(b), 7341(b)]. It should be noted that an expulsion, suspension, or termination based on substantive grounds that violate contractual or other rights of the member or are otherwise unlawful is not made valid by compliance with Corp. Code § 5341 or 7341[Corp. Code §§ 5341(f), 7341(f)]. A member who is expelled or suspended, or whose membership is terminated, is liable for any charges incurred, services or benefits actually rendered, and any dues, assessments, or fees incurred before the expulsion, suspension, or termination or arising from contract or otherwise [Corp. Code §§ 5341(g), 7341(g)].

[b] Notice Required

The notices required by the fair expulsion, suspension, or termination procedures may be given by any method reasonably calculated to provide actual notice. If notice is given by mail, it must be given by first-class or registered mail sent to the last address of the member shown on the corporation's records [Corp. Code §§ 5341(d), 7341(d)].

[c] Action Challenging Expulsion, Termination, or Suspension

Any action challenging an expulsion, suspension, or termination of membership must be commenced within one year after the date of the expulsion, suspension, or termination [Corp. Code §§ 5341(e), 7341(e)].

The court may order any relief, including reinstatement, that it finds to be equitable under the circumstances [Corp. Code §§ 5341(e), 7341(e)]. No vote of the members or board will be set aside solely because a person was wrongfully excluded by virtue of the challenged expulsion, suspension, or termination at the time of the vote, unless the court also finds that the wrongful expulsion, suspension, or termination was in bad faith and for the purpose, and with the effect, of wrongfully excluding the member from the vote or from the meeting at which the vote took place, so as to effect the outcome of the vote [Corp. Code §§ 5341(e), 7341(e)].

[3] Change in Membership Requirements of Public Benefit Corporation

Before any amendment of the articles or bylaws of a nonprofit public benefit corporation that would terminate all memberships or any class of memberships may be adopted, the corporation must give written notice to members not less than 45 nor more than 90 days prior to any vote by the members on the amendment. The notice must describe the effect of the amendment on the corporation and the members [Corp. Code § 5342(a),(b)]. The amendment must be approved by the members (as described in Corp. Code § 5034) [Corp. Code § 5342(c)].

"Approval by the members" means approval or ratification by affirmative vote of a majority of the votes represented and voting at a duly held meeting at which a quorum is present (which affirmative votes also constitute a majority of the required quorum) or written ballot in conformity with Corp. Code § 5513, or by affirmative vote or written ballot of any greater portion that is required by the bylaws for all or any specified membership action [Corp. Code § 5034].

The written notice need not be given at least 45 days in advance of the vote if all members entitled to vote receive a written notice prior to the vote setting forth the information described above and sign a written waiver of the 45-day notice [Corp. Code § 5342(b)].

The bylaws may impose additional requirements for termination of all memberships of any class of memberships [Corp. Code § 5342(d)]. If a member requests, the corporation must allow the member to inspect the membership list and copy all names and addresses from it or must provide the member with the names, addresses, and voting rights of all members [Corp. Code § 5342(e); see Corp. Code § 6330(a) (access to membership list, see § 388.58); see also § 388.166 (petition for writ of mandate to enforce member's access to membership list)].

Corp. Code § 5341 [see § 388.54[2]] does not apply to termination of all memberships or of any class of memberships pursuant to amendment of the articles or bylaws [Corp. Code § 5342(g); but see Ferry v. San Diego Museum of Art (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 35, 40, 45-46, 225 Cal. Rptr. 258 (decided prior to enactment of Corp. Code § 5342; termination of voting rights was effective as termination of membership, and therefore Corp. Code § 5341 requirements of fair procedure were applicable)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Members and Membership Rights

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.55

§ 388.55 Rights Regarding Fraudulent Issuance or Sale of Memberships

Nothing in the Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation Law or the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law may be construed in derogation of any rights or remedies that a creditor or member may have against any promoter, member, director, officer, or the corporation because of participation in any fraud or illegality practiced on the creditor or member by the person or by the corporation in connection with the issuance or sale of memberships or securities [Corp. Code §§ 5353, 7354]. Nor may these statutes be construed in derogation of any rights that the corporation may have by rescission, cancellation, or otherwise because of any fraud or illegality practiced on it by any person in connection with the issuance or sale of memberships or securities [Corp. Code §§ 5353, 7354].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Members and Membership Rights

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.56

§ 388.56 Liability of Members Generally

[1] For Dues

The articles or bylaws of a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation may provide for dues, assessments, or fees on the members of the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5351, 7351]. However, liability for the dues, assessments, or fees is not created merely by a provision authorizing them. Thus, a member may avoid liability for dues, assessments, or fees by promptly resigning after learning of them, unless the member is liable for them by contract or otherwise [Corp. Code §§ 5351, 7351].

A person holding a membership as executor, administrator, guardian, trustee, receiver, or in any representative or fiduciary capacity is not personally liable for any unpaid balance of the purchase price of the membership, or for any amounts owing to the corporation by the member, but the estate and funds in the hands of the fiduciary are liable for the amounts due [Corp. Code §§ 5354, 7352].

[2] Limited Liability to Creditors for Corporation's Obligations

A member of a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation is not personally liable for the debts, liabilities, or obligations of the corporation simply by virtue of his or her membership [Corp. Code §§ 5350(a), 7350(a); see, e.g., ECC Construction Inc. v. Ganson (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 572, 576, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 292 (individual homeowner members of condominium complex homeowners association who were not parties to corporation's contract to repair common areas after earthquake had no personal liability for its debts or liabilities under construction contract)]. A member is not liable for any obligation arising from membership, unless the person was admitted to membership on the person's application or with the person's consent [Corp. Code §§ 5350(b), 7350(b)].

In the case of a mutual benefit corporation, ownership of an interest in real property, when a condition of its ownership is membership in a corporation, will be considered consent to membership for the purpose of liability arising from membership [Corp. Code § 7350(c)].

[3] Creditors' Actions to Reach Amounts Due to Corporation

Before a creditor may bring an action against a member to reach and apply the liability, if any, of a member to the corporation to pay the amount due on the member's membership or otherwise due to the corporation, final judgment must have been rendered in favor of the creditor against the corporation and execution must have been returned unsatisfied, in whole or in part, unless these proceedings would be useless [Corp. Code §§ 5352(a), 7353(a); see § 388.163].

With or without reducing their claims to judgment, all creditors may intervene in any creditor's action to reach and apply unpaid amounts due the corporation, joining any and all members who owe amounts to the corporation. Several judgments may be rendered for and against the parties to the action or in favor of a receiver for the benefit of the respective parties to the action [Corp. Code §§ 5352(b), 7353(b); see § 388.164].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Members and Membership Rights

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.57

§ 388.57 Liability for Distributions

[1] Liability of Members, Officers, and Directors of Public Benefit Corporation

A nonprofit public benefit corporation is not permitted to make any distribution to members [Corp. Code § 5410]. When any person receives any distribution, he or she is liable to the corporation for the amount received, with interest on that amount at the legal rate on judgments until paid [Corp. Code § 5420(a)]. Liability under Corp. Code § 5420 does not affect a persons' liability, if any, under the Uniform Fraudulent Transfer Act (Civ. Code § 3439 et seq.) [Corp. Code § 5420(d); see Ch. 270, Fraudulent Conveyances , for discussion of Act].

The court may award punitive damages for the benefit of the corporation against any director, officer, member, or other person who caused, received, or aided and abetted in the making of the distribution with intent to defraud the corporation [Corp. Code § 5420(b)].

Suit may be brought in the name of the corporation by a creditor, a director, the Attorney General, or, subject to meeting the requirements of Corp. Code § 5710 (procedures for derivative actions), a member [Corp. Code § 5420(b)].

Any person sued under Corp. Code § 5420 may implead all other persons liable and may, in the absence of fraud by the moving party, compel contribution, either in that action or in an independent action against persons not joined in the action [Corp. Code § 5420(c)].

For a complaint by a creditor against members to apply improper distributions in satisfaction of prior claims, see § 388.165.

The prohibition against making distributions to members does not apply to the purchase of a membership in a limited equity housing cooperative (as defined in Health & Safety Code § 33007.5, [repealed 2009; now see Civ. Code § 817]; see Ch. 124, Condominiums and Other Common Interest Developments) that is organized as a public benefit corporation [Corp. Code § 5410].

[2] Liability of Members of Mutual Benefit Corporations

[a] Limitations on Distributions

In general, a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation is not permitted to make distributions, except on dissolution [Corp. Code §§ 7410, 7411(a)]. Nevertheless, a corporation may purchase or redeem memberships,subject to the requirements of Corp. Code §§ 7412, 7413, and 7414 (discussed below) [Corp. Code § 7411(b)].

A mutual benefit corporation and its subsidiaries are not permitted to make distributions if the corporation or the subsidiary making the distribution is, or as a result of the distribution would be, likely to be unable to meet its liabilities (except those whose payment is otherwise adequately provided for) as they mature [Corp. Code § 7412].

A mutual benefit corporation and its subsidiaries are not permitted to purchase or redeem memberships of the parent or subsidiary if the corporation's articles contain a provision authorized by Corp. Code § 7132(a)(4)(B) (relating to distributions of assets of subordinate corporation to head organization on dissolution) and the corporation or the subsidiary making the redemption or purchase is, or as a result of the redemption or purchase would be, likely to be unable to meet the obligations resulting from that article provision [Corp. Code § 7413; see Corp. Code § 7132(a)(4) (head organization as one under whose authority subordinate corporation is created)].

The articles or bylaws of a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation may contain additional restrictions on redemption and purchase of memberships [Corp. Code § 7414].

[b] Amount of Liability on Receipt of Distribution

When a person receives a distribution prohibited by Corp. Code §§ 7411-7414, including a payment in redemption of a membership, with knowledge of facts indicating its impropriety, he or she is liable to the corporation, and in some cases to the corporation for the benefit of the head organization, or for the benefit of all of the creditors of the corporation whose claims or debts arose before the time of the distribution and who did not consent to it, for the amount received, with interest at the legal rate on judgments until paid [Corp. Code § 7420(a),(b)]. Liability to the corporation for the benefit of the head organization or for the benefit of creditors is limited to the amount of the corporations' obligations to the head organization at the time of the violation, or to the amount of the corporation's liabilities to nonconsenting creditors at the time of the violation [Corp. Code § 7420(b)].

[c] Action to Enforce Liability

Suit may be brought in the name of the corporation to enforce the liability to creditors for a violation of Corp. Code § 7411 or 7412 against any or all persons liable. The suit is brought by one or more creditors of the corporation whose debts or claims arose prior to the time of the distribution and who have not consented to it, whether or not they have reduced their claims to judgment [Corp. Code § 7420(c)(1); see also Corp. Code § 7236(a)(1),(c)(1) (directors' liability, see § 388.57)]. Suit may also be brought in the name of the corporation to enforce the liability to the head organization for a violation of Corp. Code § 7413 against any or all persons liable. The suit is brought by any head organization that, according to the corporation's articles, is entitled to a distribution of assets on dissolution [Corp. Code § 7420(c)(2); see also Corp. Code § 7236(a)(1),(c)(1)].

Any person sued may implead all other persons liable and may, in the absence of fraud by the moving party, compel contribution, either in that action or in an independent action against persons not joined in the action [Corp. Code § 7420(d)].

For a complaint by a creditor against members to apply improper distributions in satisfaction of prior claims, see § 388.165.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Members and Membership Rights

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.58

§ 388.58 Right to Inspect Membership Lists

[1] Scope and Timing of Inspection

Unless the corporation provides a reasonable alternative, a member of a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation may do either or both of the following [Corp. Code §§ 6330(a), 8330(a)]:

- Inspect and copy the record of all the members' names, addresses, and voting rights, at reasonable times, after giving the corporation five business days' notice by written demand;

- Obtain from the secretary of the corporation, on written demand and tender of a reasonable charge, an alphabetized list of the names, addresses, and voting rights of those members entitled to vote for the election of directors, as of the most recent record date for which it has been compiled or as of a date specified by the member subsequent to the date of the demand. The alphabetized list must be made available on or before 10 business days after the demand is received, or after the date specified in the demand as the date as of which the list is to be compiled, whichever is later [Corp. Code §§ 6330(a)(2), 8330(a)(2)].

The right of inspection extends to records of each subsidiary of a corporation [Corp. Code §§ 6312, 8312]. The right includes the right to copy and make extracts [Corp. Code §§ 6311, 8311]. If the records sought are not maintained in written form, the corporation must make the records available in written form at its own expense [Corp. Code §§ 6310, 8310 ("writing" includes cathode ray tube and similar electronic communications methods)]. The rights of members provided in Corp. Code § 6310 et seq. or 8310 et seq. may not be limited by contract or by the articles or bylaws [Corp. Code §§ 6313, 8313].

The right of inspection is subject to Corp. Code § 6331 or 8331 [see § 388.58[5]], and Corp. Code § 6332 or 8332 [see § 388.58[8]; Corp. Code §§ 6330(a), 8330(a)]. For example, if a petition is filed to limit the right of inspection on constitutional grounds, the court may suspend the runningof time limits in Corp. Code § 6330(a) or 8330 [Corp. Code §§ 6332(b), 8332(b)].

[2] Contents of Demand

The demand to inspect and copy or to obtain an alphabetized list must state the purpose for which the list is requested [Corp. Code §§ 6330(a)(1),(2), 8330(a)(1),(2)].

[3] Who May Exercise Right

[a] By Any Member

These inspection rights may be exercised by any member, for a purpose reasonably related to his or her interest as a member [Corp. Code §§ 6330(b), 8330(b); see also Corp. Code §§ 6311, 8311 (inspections may be made in person or by agent or attorney)].

[b] By Authorized Number of Members

These inspection rights may also be exercised by the authorized number of members for a purpose reasonably related to their interest as members [Corp. Code §§ 6330(b), 8330(b)]. "Authorized number" means one of the following [Corp. Code §§ 5036(a)-(c)]:

(1) Except as provided in (2) or (3), below, five percent of the voting power;

(2) If (disregarding any provision for cumulative voting that would otherwise apply) the total number of votes entitled to be cast for a director is 1,000 or more, but less than 5,000, the authorized number is 2 1/2 percent of the voting power, but not less than 50; or

(3) If (disregarding any provision for cumulative voting that would otherwise apply) the total number of votes entitled to be cast for a director is 5,000 or more, the authorized number is 1/20th of one percent of the voting power, but not less than 125.

Any right that may be exercised by the authorized number may be exercised by a member with written authorizations obtained within an 11-month period from members who, in the aggregate, hold the equivalent voting power [Corp. Code § 5036(d)].

[4] Denial of Demand

[a] Proposal of Alternative Method

Within 10 days of receiving the demand, the corporation may, without providing access to or a copy of the membership list, deliver to the person or persons making the demand a written offer of an alternative method of achieving the purpose identified in the demand [Corp. Code §§ 6330(c), 8330(c)]. An alternative method that accomplishes the proper purpose set forth in the demand in a reasonable and timely manner will be deemed a reasonable alternative, unless the corporation fails to do those things it offered to do within a reasonable time after acceptance of the offer by the member [Corp. Code §§ 6330(c), 8330(c); see KQED, Inc. v. Hall (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 951, 956-958, 185 Cal. Rptr. 630 (corporation's prior review of materials to be mailed as not proper condition of alternative procedure)].

Any rejection of the offer must be in writing and must indicate the reasons the alternative method proposed by the corporation does not meet the proper purpose of the demand [Corp. Code §§ 6330(c), 8330(c)].

[b] Denial of Access if Information Sought for Purpose Unrelated to Membership

If the corporation reasonably believes that the information sought by a single member's demand will be used for a purpose unrelated to that person's interest as a member, the corporation may deny access to the list [Corp. Code §§ 6330(b)(1), 8330(b)(1)].

[c] Action to Compel Compliance by Single Member

If the corporation denies a single member access to the list, the member may institute an action under Corp. Code § 6336 or 8336 [see § 388.59[2]] to compel compliance. In that action, the court must compel compliance unless the corporation proves either (1) that the member will allow use of the information for purposes unrelated to the person's interest as a member, or (2) that the alternative method offered reasonably achieves the proper purpose set forth in the demand [Corp. Code §§ 6330(b)(1), 8330(b)(1)].

[5] Petition to Set Aside Demand of Members

[a] Availability and Timing

If the corporation, in good faith and with a substantial basis, believes the list demanded by the authorized number of members [see Corp. Code § 5036] will be used for a purpose other than one reasonably related to the member's interest as a member, or when it provides a reasonable alternative [see Corp. Code §§ 6330(c), 8330(c)], the corporation may petition the superior court of the proper county for an order setting aside the demand [Corp. Code §§ 6331(a), 8331(a); see Corp. Code § 5068 (defining "proper county")].

Except as provided in Corp. Code § 6331(c) or 8331(c) [discussed below], a petition for an order to show cause why a protective order pursuant to Corp. Code § 6331(d) or 8331(d) should not issue must be filed within 10 business days after (a) the demand by the authorized number of membersor (b) receipt of a written rejection of an offer of a reasonable alternative by the corporation, whichever is later [Corp. Code §§ 6331(b), 8331(b)].

A corporation may file the petition more than 10 business days after the demand or rejection, on a showing that the delay was caused by excusable neglect. But in no event may the petition be filed more than 30 days after demand or rejection, whichever is later [Corp. Code §§ 6331(c), 8331(c)].

The petition must be accompanied by an application for a hearing on the petition [Corp. Code §§ 6331(b), 8331(b)].

If the corporation fails to file a petition within the time allowed by Corp. Code § 6331(b) or (c), or 8331(b) or (c), whichever is applicable, or fails to obtain a protective order pursuant to Corp. Code § 6331(d) or 8331(d), the corporation must comply with the demand and it cannot bring any further action [Corp. Code §§ 6331(e), 8331(e)].

[b] Protective Order and Order to Show Cause

On the filing of the petition, the court issues a protective order staying production of the membership list until the hearing on the order to show cause. The hearing must be set not more than 20 days from the date of the filing of the petition [Corp. Code §§ 6331(b), 8331(b)]. The order to show cause must be granted unless the court finds that there is no reasonable probability that the corporation will prevail in setting aside the demand [Corp. Code §§ 6331(b), 8331(b); see Corp. Code §§ 6331(f), 8331(f) (showing required to set aside demand)].

On the return day of the order to show cause, the court may issue another protective order staying production of the list until final adjudication of the petition [Corp. Code §§ 6331(d), 8331(d)]. But to issue this protective order, the court must find that the rights of the requesting parties can reasonably be preserved and that the corporation is likely to prevail against the member [Corp. Code §§ 6331(d), 8331(d)].

[c] Final Order to Set Aside Demand

In order for the court to issue the final order setting aside the demand, the corporation must prove one of the following [Corp. Code §§ 6331(f), 8331(f)]:

- That there is a reasonable probability that the requesting parties will permit use of the membership list for a purpose unrelated to their interests as members, or

- That the method offered by the corporation is a reasonable alternative in that it reasonably achieves the proper purpose set forth in the requesting parties' demand and that the corporation intends and is able to effectuate the reasonable alternative.

In the final order, the court may, in its discretion, order an alternative mechanism for achieving the proper purposes of the requesting parties, or impose just and proper conditions on the use of the membership list that reasonably assure compliance with Corp. Code §§ 6330 or 8330 and 6338 or 8338 [Corp. Code §§ 6331(g), 8331(g); see KQED, Inc. v. Hall (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 951, 957-958, 185 Cal. Rptr. 630 (Corp. Code § 6331(g) is not authority for approving alternative procedure that permits corporation's prior review of materials to be mailed); see § 388.59[7]].

The court must award reasonable costs and expenses, including reasonable attorney's fees, to requesting parties who successfully oppose any petition or application filed [Corp. Code §§ 6331(h), 8331(h)].

[6] Petition by Requesting Parties for Writ of Mandate to Compel Access

If the corporation does not, within the time allowed, comply with a demand by the authorized number of members [see Corp. Code § 5036], or obtain a protective order staying production of the list, or a final order setting aside the demand, which is then in effect, the requesting parties may petition the superior court of the proper county for a writ of mandamus pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 compelling the corporation to comply with the demand [Corp. Code §§ 6331(i), 8331(i); see Corp. Code § 5068 (defining "proper county"); see also § 388.166].

At the hearing, the court will hear the parties summarily, by affidavit, or otherwise. No inquiry may be made in this proceeding into the use for which the authorized number seek the list [Corp. Code §§ 6331(i), 8331(i)].

The court must issue a peremptory writ of mandamus unless it appears that one of the following conditions exist [Corp. Code §§ 6331(i), 8331(i)]:

- The demand was not made by the authorized number [see Corp. Code § 5036];

- The demand has been complied with;

- The corporation offered a reasonable alternative procedure [see Corp. Code §§ 6330(c), 8330(c)] that was not rejected in writing within a reasonable time; or

- A protective or final order properly issued [see Corp. Code §§ 6331(d),(f),(g), 8330(d),(f),(g)] is then in effect.

The court must award reasonable costs and expenses, including reasonable attorney's fees, to persons granted an order under this provision [Corp. Code §§ 6331(i), 8331(i)].

[7] Misuse of List

[a] Prohibited Uses

The membership list is a corporate asset. Without the consent of the board, a membership list or any part of it may not be obtained or usedby any person for any purpose not reasonably related to a member's interest as a member. Without limiting that general rule, the following uses of a membership list or any part of it, if done without the consent of the board, are prohibited [Corp. Code §§ 6338(a), 8338(a); see Corp. Code §§ 6338(e), 8338(e) ("membership list" in this context means the record of members' names and addresses)]:

- To solicit money or property, unless the money or property will be used solely to solicit the vote of the members in an election to be held by the corporation;
- For any purpose that the user does not reasonably and in good faith believe will benefit the corporation;
- For any commercial purpose or purpose in competition with the corporation; or
- For sale to or purchase by any person.

[b] Remedies for Misuse

Any person who misuses the membership list is liable for any damage the misuse causes the corporation, and must account for and pay to the corporation any profit derived as a result of the misuse [Corp. Code §§ 6338(b), 8338(b); see also Corp. Code §§ 6331(j), 8331(j)]. The court, in its discretion, may also award exemplary damages for fraudulent or malicious misuses [Corp. Code §§ 6338(b), 8336(b)]. The corporation may also seek injunctive relief necessary to restrain misuse of a membership list or part of one [Corp. Code §§ 6338(c), 8338(c); see also Corp. Code §§ 6331(j), 8331(j); see generally Ch. 303, Injunctions].

In any action or proceeding under Corp. Code § 6338 or 8338, the court may award the corporation reasonable costs and expenses, including reasonable attorney's fees, in connection with the action or proceeding [Corp. Code §§ 6338(d), 8338(d); see also Corp. Code §§ 6331(j), 8331(j)].

[8] Petition to Limit Inspection on Constitutional Grounds

On petition of the corporation or any member, the superior court of the proper county may limit or restrict the rights of inspection set forth in Corp. Code § 6330 or 8330 when necessary to protect the rights of any member under the United States or California Constitutions [Corp. Code §§ 6332(a), 8332(a); see Corp. Code § 5068 (defining "proper county")]. The order issued will provide, insofar as possible, for alternative mechanisms by which the persons seeking access to the membership list may communicate with other members for purposes reasonably related to their interests as members [Corp. Code §§ 6332(a), 8332(a)].

If requested by the person making the petition, the court may issue a temporary order suspending the running of any time limit specified in Corp. Code § 6330 or 8330 for compliance with that section. The order may be extended, after hearing and notice, until final adjudication of the petition, whenever it appears that the petitioner may prevail on the merits, and it is otherwise equitable to do so [Corp. Code §§ 6332(b), 8332(b)].

[9] Application to Postpone Meeting Because of Corporate Delay

If the proper purpose of the person or persons making a demand for inspection is frustrated by various forms of delay resulting from actions by the corporation, the person or persons may, in the court's discretion, apply to the superior court for an order postponing any members' meeting previously noticed for a period equal to the period of the delay [Corp. Code §§ 6335, 8335]. This relief is available for the following forms of delay [Corp. Code §§ 6335, 8335]:

- Any delay by the corporation in complying with a demand beyond the time limits specified in Corp. Code § 6330 or 8330;

- Any delay caused by the filing of a petition under Corp. Code § 6331 or 8331 (petition to set aside demand) or 6332 or 8332 (petition to limit inspection on constitutional grounds); or

- Any delay caused by the proposal of an alternative method of achieving the purpose of the demand pursuant to Corp. Code § 6330(c) or 8330(c).

Members may obtain a postponement order in a proceeding brought pursuant to Corp. Code § 6331 or 8331 to set aside the demand on the filing of a verified complaint in the proper county, and after a hearing. Notice of the hearing must be given to the persons and in the manner as the court may direct [Corp. Code §§ 6335, 8335; see Corp. Code § 5068 (defining "proper county")].

The right to obtain a postponement order is in addition to any other legal or equitable remedies available to the members [Corp. Code §§ 6335, 8335].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Members and Membership Rights

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.59

§ 388.59 Right to Inspect Other Records

[1] Accounting Books, Records, and Minutes

Any member may make a written demand on the corporation at any reasonable time to inspect the accounting books and records and minutes of proceedings of the members, board, and committees of the board for a purpose reasonably related to that person's interest as a member [Corp. Code §§ 6333, 8333]. Corp. Code §§ 6320 et seq. or 8320 et seq. generally govern the records and reports required to be kept by nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporations.

[2] Enforcement of Inspection Rights

If a lawful demand for membership lists or inspection of records is refused, the superior court of the proper county, or the county where therecords in question are kept, may enforce the demand or right of inspection with just and proper conditions. Alternatively, the court may, for good cause shown, appoint one or more competent inspectors or independent accountants (1) to audit the financial statements kept in California, and investigate the property, funds, and affairs of any corporation and of any subsidiary corporation, domestic or foreign, keeping records in California; and (2) to report on them in a manner to be directed by the court [Corp. Code §§ 6336(a), 8336(a); see Corp. Code § 5068 (defining "proper county")].

Under penalty of punishment for contempt of court, all officers and agents of the corporation must produce to the appointed inspectors or accountants all books and documents in their custody or power [Corp. Code §§ 6336(b), 8336(b)].

Unless the court orders them to be paid or shared by the corporation, all expenses of the investigation or audit must be defrayed by the member asserting inspection rights [Corp. Code §§ 6336(c), 8336(c)].

In any action or proceeding under Corp. Code § 6330 et seq. or 8330 et seq. (except as required by Corp. Code § 6331 or 8331, see § 388.58[5]), if the court finds that the failure of the corporation to comply with a proper demand was without justification, the court may award the member reasonable costs and expenses, including reasonable attorney's fees [Corp. Code §§ 6337, 8337; see Moran v. Oso Valley Greenbelt Assn. (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 156, 160-161, 111

Cal. Rptr. 2d 636 (once trial court concluded that association "wrongfully" withheld directors' minutes from member, denying attorney's fees and costs without further explanation was abuse of discretion); see also Moran v. Oso Valley Greenbelt Assn. (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 1029, 1038, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 435 (trial court's award of attorney fees on remand held to be proper)].

128 of 189 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Members and Membership Rights

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 388.60-388.79

[Reserved]

§§ 388.60[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Meetings and Voting Rights

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.80

§ 388.80 Annual Membership Meetings

Meetings of members of nonprofit public and mutual benefit corporations may be held in a place within or outside of California as may be stated in or fixed in accordance with the corporation's bylaws [Corp. Code §§ 5510(a), 7510(a)]. If no other place is stated or fixed, meetings of the members are to be held at the principal executive office of the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5510(a), 7510(a)].

Members not physically present in person (or, if proxies are allowed, by proxy) at a meeting of members may do the following pursuant to electronic transmission by and to the corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 20, 21 (definitions)] or electronic video screen communication [Corp. Code §§ 5510(a), 7510(a) ; see Corp. Code §§ 5510(f), 7510(f), see § 388.81]:

- Participate in a meeting of members;
- Be deemed present in person (or, if proxies are allowed, by proxy); and
- Vote at a meeting of members, whether that meeting is to be held at a designated place or in whole or in part by means of electronic transmission by and to the corporation or by electronic video screen communication.

This procedure is applicable unless prohibited by the bylaws of the corporation. It must be authorized by the board of directors in its sole discretion, and is subject to the requirement of consent [see Corp. Code § 20(b)] and to those guidelines and procedures that the board of directors may adopt [Corp. Code §§ 5510(a), 7510(a)].

A regular meeting of the members must be held at least once in each year that directors are to be elected, and may be held from time to time as stated in or fixed in accordance with the bylaws [Corp. Code §§ 5510(b), 7510(b)].

If a corporation with members fails to hold a required regular meeting for a period of 60 days after the date designated for the meeting, or, if no date is designated, for a period of 15 months after the formation of the corporation, or for a period of 15 months after its last regular meeting, or if the corporation fails to hold a written ballot for a period of 60 days after the date designated for the ballot, then the superior court of the proper county may summarily order the meeting to be held or the ballot to be conducted on the application of a member or, in the case of a nonprofit public benefit corporation, of the Attorney General. The corporation must receive notice and an opportunity to be heard [Corp. Code §§ 5510(c), 7510(c); see Corp. Code § 5068 (defining "proper county")]. The court may issue other orders as appropriate, including orders designating the time and place of the meeting, the record date for determination of members entitled to vote, and the form for notice of the meeting [Corp. Code §§ 5510(d), 7510(d); see also Corp. Code §§ 5611, 7611 (determination of record date)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Meetings and Voting Rights

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.81

§ 388.81 Electronic Meetings

A meeting of the members may be conducted, in whole or in part, by electronic transmission by and to the corporation or by electronic video screen communication if [Corp. Code §§ 5510(f), 7510(f)]:

- The corporation implements reasonable measures to provide members in person (or, if proxies are allowed, by proxy) a reasonable opportunity to participate in the meeting and to vote on matters submitted to the members, including an opportunity to read or hear the proceedings of the meeting substantially concurrently with those proceedings; and

- When any member votes or takes other action at the meeting by means of electronic transmission to the corporation or electronic video screen communication, a record of that vote or action is maintained by the corporation.

Any request by a corporation, to a member who has provided an unrevoked consent to the use of electronic transmission by the corporation for communications under or pursuant to the Corporations Code, for consent to conduct a meeting of members by electronic transmission by and to the corporation must include a notice that "absent consent of the member pursuant to clause (b) of Section 20" of the Corporations Code, the meeting will be held at a physical location in accordance with Corp. Code § 5510(a) [Corp. Code §§ 5510(f), 7510(f); see 388.80].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Meetings and Voting Rights

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.82

§ 388.82 Special Membership Meetings

Special meetings of members may be called for any lawful purpose by the board, the chairman of the board, the president, any other persons that are specified in the bylaws, or five percent or more of the members [Corp. Code §§ 5510(e), 7510(e)].

A special meeting of members must be fixed by the board at a time not less than 35 days, nor more than 90 days days after the receipt of the request by any person entitled to call a special meeting of members [Corp. Code §§ 5511(c), 7511(c)]. If the board does not give notice within 20 days after receipt of the request, the persons entitled to call a special meeting may give the notice or the superior court of the proper county must summarily order the giving of notice, after notice to the corporation giving it an opportunity to be heard [Corp. Code §§ 5511(c), 7511(c); see Corp. Code § 5068 (defining "proper county")]. The court may issue other orders as appropriate, including orders designating the time and place of the meeting, the record date for determination of members entitled to vote, and the form of notice of the meeting [Corp. Code §§ 5511(c), 7511(c); see also Corp. Code §§ 5611, 7611 (determination of record date)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Meetings and Voting Rights

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.83

§ 388.83 Notice of Meetings

A written notice of any meeting of members at which members are required or permitted to take action must be given not less than 10 nor more than 90 days before the date of the meeting to each member who, on the record date for notice of the meeting, is entitled to vote at the meeting. If notice is given by mail, and is not mailed by first-class, registered, or certified mail, then not less than 20 days notice must be given. The notice must state the place, date, and time of the meeting, the means of electronic transmission by and to the corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 20, 21 (definitions)] or electronic video screen communication, if any, by which members may participate in the meeting, and in the case of a special meeting, the general nature of the business to be transacted, or, in the case of a regular meeting, the matters the board intends to present for action [Corp. Code §§ 5511(a), 7511(a); see also Corp. Code §§ 5611, 7611 (determination of record date)]. When directors are to be elected at a meeting, the notice must include the names of those who are nominees at the time the notice is given [Corp. Code §§ 5511(a), 7511(a)].

A court may find that notice not given in conformity with the provisions above is still valid if it was given in a fair and reasonable manner [Corp. Code §§ 5511(g), 7511(g)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Meetings and Voting Rights

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.84

§ 388.84 Validity of Actions at Meeting

[1] Conditions for Validity

The transactions of any meeting of members, however called and noticed, and wherever held, are as valid as if they took place at a meeting that was duly held after regular call and notice if the following conditions are met [Corp. Code §§ 5511(e), 7511(e)]:

- A quorum is present, either in person or by proxy; and

- Either before or after the meeting, each of the persons entitled to vote who are not present in person or by proxy signs a written waiver of notice or a consent to the holding of the meeting, or an approval of the minutes of the meeting.

[2] Quorum

Unless otherwise set by the bylaws, one third of the voting power, represented in person or by proxy, constitutes a quorum at a meeting of members [Corp. Code §§ 5512(a), 7512(a)]. If the bylaws are to be amended to increase the quorum, the amendment may be adopted only by approval of the members in accordance with Corp. Code § 5034 [Corp. Code §§ 5512(a), 7512(a); see § 388.84[3]].

When a bylaw authorizes a corporation to conduct a meeting with a quorum of less than one-third of the voting power, then the only matters that may be voted on at any regular meeting actually attended, in person or by proxy, by less than one-third of the voting power are matters about whose general nature notice was given [Corp. Code §§ 5512(b), 7512(b)].

[3] Actions Taken by Ballot or Consent

Unless prohibited by the articles or bylaws and in the case of elections of directors by cumulative voting, any action that may be taken at any regular or special meeting of members may be taken without a meeting, if the corporation distributes a written ballot to every member entitled to vote on the matter [Corp. Code §§ 5513(a), 7513(a); see Corp. Code §§ 5513(b)-(f), 7513(b)-(f) (details regarding written ballots)]. Unless otherwise provided by the articles or bylaws, and if approved by the board ofdirectors, that ballot and any related material may be sent by electronic transmission by the corporation [see Corp. Code § 20 (definition)] and responses may be returned to the corporation by electronic transmission to the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5513(a), 7513(a); see Corp. Code § 21 (definition)].

Any action required or permitted to be taken by the members may be taken without a meeting, if all members individually or collectively consent in writing to the action [Corp. Code §§ 5516, 7516].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Meetings and Voting Rights

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.85

§ 388.85 Proxies and Written Ballots

Any proxy or written ballot distributed to 10 or more members of a corporation with 100 or more members must afford an opportunity, on the proxy or written ballot, to specify a choice between approval and disapproval of each matter or group of related matters intended, at the time the proxy or written ballot is distributed, to be acted on at the meeting. The proxy or ballot must also provide, subject to reasonable specified conditions, that when the person solicited specifies a choice with respect to any matter the vote will be cast in accordance with that choice [Corp. Code §§ 5514(a), 7514(a); see also Corp. Code §§ 5613, 7613 (proxies authorized)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Meetings and Voting Rights

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.86

§ 388.86 Court-Ordered Meeting or Ballot

If for any reason it is impractical or unduly difficult for any corporation to call or conduct a meeting of its members, delegates, or directors, or otherwise obtain their consent, then the superior court of the proper county, on petition of a director, officer, delegate, member, or, in the case of a public benefit corporation, the Attorney General, may order that the meeting be called or that a written ballot or other form for obtaining the vote of members, delegates, or directors be authorized, in a manner that the court finds fair and equitable under the circumstances [Corp. Code §§ 5515(a), 7515(a); see Corp. Code §§ 5068 (defining "proper county"), 5515(b)-(d), 7515(b)-(d) (notice of meeting and contents of order)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Meetings and Voting Rights

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.87

§ 388.87 Election of Directors by Members

[1] Nominations and Procedures

When directors of public or mutual benefit corporations are to be elected by the members of the corporation, reasonable nomination and election procedures are required [Corp. Code §§ 5520, 7520(a); see also Corp. Code §§ 5617, 7616 (action to determine validity of election)]. If the corporation complies with all of the provisions applicable to a corporation with the same number of members [see Corp. Code §§ 5521-5524, §§ 7521-7524], the nomination and election procedures of that corporation will be deemed reasonable. Those provisions, however, do not prescribe the exclusive means of making available to the members reasonable procedures for nomination and election of directors. A corporation may make available to the members other reasonable nomination and election procedures given the nature, size, and operations of the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5520(b), 7520(b)].

A nomination and election procedure that does not provide the membership a fair and effective opportunity to participate in the choice or selection of the candidates or to vote for candidates other than those nominated by the nominating committee is not fair or lawful [Braude v. Automobile Club of Southern Cal. (1978) 78 Cal. App. 3d 178, 186, 144 Cal. Rptr. 169 (decided under former Corp. Code § 2236 et seq.)]. Similarly, existing directors cannot perpetuate themselves in office. There must be some reasonable means by which a candidate can solicit proxies or votes other than at his or her own expense [Braude v. Automobile Club of Southern Cal. (1978) 78 Cal. App. 3d 178, 183, 186, 144 Cal. Rptr. 169] .

Except for directors who are elected as authorized by provisions relating to delegates [see Corp. Code §§ 5152, 7152] or voting by region or geographic area [see Corp. Code §§ 5153, 7153], and after close of nominations [see Corp. Code §§ 5522, 7522], any person who qualified to be elected to the board of directors of a corporation with 500 or more members may be nominated by the following [Corp. Code §§ 5521, 7521(a),(b), (d); see also Corp. Code § 7521(c) (method for mutual benefit corporations in consumer retail business with one million or more members)]:

- Any method authorized by the bylaws, or the board;

- Petition delivered to an officer of the corporation, signed within 11 months preceding the next time directors will be elected by members representing two percent of the voting power for under 5,000 votes, and one-twentieth of one percent (but not less than 100 nor more than 500) for 5,000 or more votes; and

- Any member present, in person or by proxy, at a meeting to elect directors.

A corporation with 500 or more members may provide that, except for directors who are elected as authorized by provisions relating to delegates [see Corp. Code §§ 5152, 7152] or voting by region or geographic area [see Corp. Code §§ 5153, 7153], the articles or bylaws must set a date for the close of nominations for the board. The closing date must not be less than 50 nor more than 120 days before the day directors are to be elected [Corp. Code §§ 5522(a), 7522(a),(b)].

If more people are nominated than can be elected, nominees must have a reasonable opportunity to solicit votes and all members must have a reasonable opportunity to choose among the nominees [Corp. Code §§ 5522(b), 7522(b)]. A nominee must have a reasonable opportunity to communicate to the members the nominee's qualifications and the reasonsfor the nominee's candidacy [Corp. Code §§ 5522(c), 7522(c)]. If the number of people nominated is not more than the number of directors to be elected, those nominated and qualified may be declared to have been elected without any further action [Corp. Code §§ 5522(d), 7522(d)].

[2] Cumulative Voting

If the articles or bylaws of a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation authorize cumulative voting, every member entitled to vote at any election of directors may cumulate the member's votes and give one candidate a number of votes equal to the number of directors to be elected multiplied by the number of votes to which the member is entitled, or distribute the member's votes on the same principle among as many candidates as the member thinks fit [Corp. Code §§ 5616(a), 7615(a)].

An article or bylaw provision authorizing cumulative voting may only be repealed or amended by approval of the members [see Corp. Code § 5034; see § 388.84[3]], but repeal of the provision may require the vote of a greater proportion of the members, or of the members of any class [Corp. Code §§ 5616(a), 7615(a)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Meetings and Voting Rights

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.88

§ 388.88 Voting Rights; One Vote Per Member

Except as provided in a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation's articles or bylaws or if cumulative voting applies [see Corp. Code §§ 5615, 7615], each member is entitled to one vote on each matter submitted to a vote of the members [Corp. Code §§ 5610, 7610].

When two or more persons, whether fiduciaries, members of a partnership, joint tenants, tenants in common, husband and wife as community property, tenants by the entirety, or otherwise, hold an indivisible interest in a single membership, then, unless the secretary of the corporation is given written notice to the contrary and is furnished with a copy of the instrument or order appointing them or creating the relationship in which it is so provided, their acts with respect to voting will have the following effect [Corp. Code §§ 5612, 7612]:

- If only one votes, the act binds all.
- If more than one vote, the act of the majority binds all.

In the case of a public benefit corporation, voting agreements or voting trust agreements entered into by a member or members of a corporation, are not enforced [Corp. Code § 5614].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Meetings and Voting Rights

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.89

§ 388.89 Members' Right to Request Results of Vote

For 60 days following the conclusion of an annual, regular, or special meeting of members, upon written request from a member the corporation must forthwith inform the member of the result of any particular vote of members taken at the meeting. The information includes the number of memberships voting for, the number of memberships voting against, and the number of memberships abstaining or withheld from voting. If the matter voted on was the election of directors, the corporation must report the number of memberships, or votes if voted cumulatively, cast for each nominee for director. If more than one class or series of memberships voted, the report must state the appropriate numbers by class and series of memberships [Corp. Code §§ 6325, 8325].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Meetings and Voting Rights

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.90

§ 388.90 Board Meetings

Unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws, meetings of the board of directors may be called by the chair of the board, the president, any vice president, the secretary, or any two directors [Corp. Code §§ 5211(a)(1), 7211(a)(1); see Corp. Code § 5039.5 ("chair" includes "chairperson," "chairman," and "chairwoman")]. Regular meetings may be held without notice if the time and place of the meetings are fixed by the bylaws or the board. Special meetings may only be held on four days' notice by first-class mail or 48 hours' notice delivered personally or by telephone, including a voice messaging system, or by electronic transmission by the corporation [see Corp. Code § 20 (definition)]. The articles or bylaws may not dispense with notice of a special meeting [Corp. Code §§ 5211(a)(2), 7211(a)(2)]. Each director present and voting at a meeting has one vote on each matter presented to the board of directors for action at that meeting. No director may vote at any meeting by proxy [Corp. Code §§ 5211(c), 7211(c)]. The provisions of Corp. Code §§ 5211 and 7211 also apply to incorporators and committees of the board [see Corp. Code §§ 5211(d), 7211(d)]. For the rules governing waiver of notice, presence of quorums, and written consent without meetings, see Corp. Code § 5211(a)(3)-(8), (b) or Corp. Code § 7211(a)(3)-(8), (b).

140 of 189 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Meetings and Voting Rights

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 388.91-388.109

[Reserved]

§§ 388.91[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Selection and Removal of Directors

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.110

§ 388.110 Selection of Directors

[1] By Election

Unless they are designated or selected in accordance with Corp. Code §§ 5220(d) and 7220(d) (discussed below), directors may be elected for terms of up to four years in the case of public benefit corporations and mutual benefit corporations, as fixed in the articles or bylaws. If there is no provision in the articles or bylaws, the terms are deemed to be for one year [Corp. Code §§ 5220(a), 7220(a)]. When the corporation has no members, then the directors may be elected for terms of up to six years [Corp. Code §§ 5220(a), 7220(a)]. The articles or bylaws may provide for staggering the terms of directors by dividing the total number of directors into groups of one or more directors. The terms of office of the several groups and the number of directors in each group need not be uniform [Corp. Code §§ 5220(a), 7220(a)].

Unless the articles or bylaws provide otherwise, each director must hold office until the expiration of the term for which he or she was elected and until a successor has been elected and qualified, unless the director has been removed from office [Corp. Code §§ 5220(b), 7220(b)]. A reduction in the authorized number of directors, or any amendment reducing the number of classes of directors, does not remove any director prior to the expiration of his or her term of office, unless the reduction or any amendment also provides for the removal of one or more specified directors [Corp. Code §§ 5222(c), 7222(c)].

The articles or bylaws may not be amended to extend the term of a director. Nor may any bylaw provision increasing the terms of the directors be adopted without approval of the members [Corp. Code §§ 5220(a), 7220(a); see Corp. Code § 5034 (defining approval of members; see § 388.54[3])].

The articles or bylaws may provide for the election of one or more directors by members of any class voting as a class [Corp. Code §§ 5220(c), 7220(c)].

[2] By Designation or Selection

All or any portion of the directors authorized in the articles or bylaws of a corporation may be designated or selected by a specified designator as provided by the articles or bylaws, rather than by election [Corp. Code §§ 5220(d), 7220(d)]. Directors who hold office by virtue of designation or selection may continue in office for the term prescribed by the governing article or bylaw provision, or in the absence of a prescribed term, until the governing article or bylaw provision is amended or repealed [Corp. Code §§ 5220(d), 7220(d)].

Unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws, the entitlement to designate or select a director or directors will cease if (1) the specified designator of that director or directors has died or ceased to exist; or (2) the entitlement of the specified designator to designate is in the capacity of an officer, trustee, or other status and the office, trust, or status has ceased to exist [Corp. Code §§ 5220(d), 7220(d)].

[3] Appointment by Court

If a corporation has not issued memberships and either (1) all the directors resign, die, or become incompetent, or (2) the initial directors have not been named in the articles and all the incorporators resign, die, or become incompetent before the election of the initial directors, the superior court of any county may appoint directors of the corporation upon application by any party in interest [see Corp. Code §§ 5220(e) (nonprofit public benefit corporations), 7220(e) (nonprofit mutual benefit corporations), 9220(d) (nonprofit religious corporations), 12360(e) (consumer cooperatives)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Selection and Removal of Directors

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.111

§ 388.111 Removal

[1] For Cause

If a director of a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation is declared of unsound mind by a final order of court, convicted of a felony, or found by a final order or judgment of any court to have breached any duties to the corporation [see Corp. Code § 5230], the board may declare his or her office vacant. In addition, the bylaws may provide that a director may be removed for missing a specified number of meetings [Corp. Code §§ 5221, 7221(a)]. The board, by a majority vote of the directors who meet all of the required qualifications to be a director, may declare vacant the office of any director who fails or ceases to meet any required specification [see Corp. Code §§ 5151(c)(3), 7151(c)(3)] that was in effect at the beginning of that director's current term of office [Corp. Code §§ 5221(b), 7221(b)].

At the suit of a director or the requisite number of members, the superior court of the proper county may remove any director from office in case of fraudulent or dishonest acts or gross abuse of authority or discretion with reference to the corporation, or a breach of any duties to the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5223(a), 7223(a), (b)(1); see Corp. Code § 5068 (defining "proper county"); see also Committee to Save the Beverly Highlands Homes Association v. The Beverly Highlands Homes Association (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 1247, 1272, 1271, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 732 (suit by committee was insufficient to enable plaintiffs to obtain removal of board pursuant to Corp. Code § 7223)]. In the case of a public benefit corporation, members holding 10 percent of the voting power, or 20 members, whichever is less, are required to institute suit [Corp. Code § 5223(a); see Corp. Code § 5036(a),(e)]. In the case of a mutual benefit corporation, the lesser of 10 percent of the voting power, or 20 members if the total number of votes entitled to be cast for a director is less than 5,000, and 100 members if the total number of votes entitled to be cast for a director is 5,000 or more, are required to institute suit [Corp. Code §§ 5036(a), (e), 7223(b)(2), (3)].

The Attorney General may also bring an action, intervene in an action, and must be given notice of any action involving a public benefit corporation or any mutual benefit corporation holding assets in charitable trust [Corp. Code §§ 5223(b), 7223(c)].

For a complaint for removal of a director for cause, see § 388.167.

[2] Without Cause

Subject to Corp. Code § 5222(b) and (f) or Corp. Code § 7222(b) and (f) (discussed below), any and all directors may be removed without cause if removal is approved by one of the following methods [Corp. Code §§ 5222(a), 7222(a)]:

- In a corporation with fewer than 50 members, removal is approved by a majority of all members [see Corp. Code § 5033 ("approval of majority of all members" as majority of votes entitled to be cast)];

- In a corporation with 50 or more members, removal is approved by the members [see Corp. Code § 5034; see § 388.54[3]]; or

- In a corporation with no members, removal is approved by a majority of the directors then in office.

If an article or bylaw provision entitles a designator to designate one or more directors, any designated director may be removed without cause by the designator, unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws. Any designated director may only be removed under*Corp. Code § 5222(a)* or *Corp. Code § 7222(a)*with the written consent of the designating person or persons [Corp. Code §§ 5222(f), 7222(f)].

Unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws, the right to remove will not apply if (1) the designator entitled to that right has died or ceased to exist; or (2) the right is in the capacity of an officer, trustee, or other status and the office, trust, or status has ceased to exist [Corp. Code §§ 5222(f)(3), 7222(f)(3)].

In a corporation with members in which the articles or bylaws authorize members to cumulate their votes, unless the entire board is removed, no director may be removed if the votes cast against removal, or not consenting in writing to removal, would be sufficient to elect the director if voted cumulatively at an election at which the same total number of votes were cast (or, if the action is to be taken by written ballot, all memberships entitled to vote were voted), and the entire number of directors authorized at the time of the director's election were being elected at that time [Corp. Code §§ 5222(b)(1), 7222(b)(1)].

In a corporation with members, any director elected by the members of a class, voting as a class, pursuant to an article or bylaw provision may only be removed by the applicable vote of that class [Corp. Code §§ 5222(b)(2), 7222(b)(2)]. Similarly, any director elected by the members within a chapter or other organizational unit, region, or other geographic grouping may be removed only by the applicable vote of the members within the organizational unit or geographic grouping [Corp. Code §§ 5222(b)(3), 7222(b)(3)].

Any reduction in the authorized number of directors, or any amendment reducing the number of classes of directors, does not remove any director prior to the expiration of his or her term of office, unless the reduction or amendment also provides for the removal of one or more specified directors [Corp. Code §§ 5222(c), 7222(c)].

If a director designated pursuant to a governing article or bylaw provision [see Corp. Code §§ 5220(d), 7220(d)] is removed with or without cause, if a different person may be designated according to the article or bylaw provision, a new designation must be made [Corp. Code §§ 5222(e)(1), 7222(e)(1)]. If the governing article or bylaw provision contains no provision for designating a different person, it must be deemed repealed [Corp. Code §§ 5222(e)(2), 7222(e)(2)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Selection and Removal of Directors

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.112

§ 388.112 Filling Vacancies

Unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws of a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation, and except for a vacancy created by a removal of a director, vacancies on the board may be filled as follows [Corp. Code §§ 5224(a), 7224(a); see Corp. Code § 5032 (defining "approval by the board")]:

- By approval of the board; or

- If the number of directors in office at the time is less than a quorum, by (1) the unanimous written consent of the directors in office at that time, (2) the affirmative vote of a majority of the directors in office at that time at a meeting held pursuant to notice or waivers of notice complying with Corp. Code § 5211 or 7211 [see § 388.90] or (3) a sole remaining director.

A vacancy created by the removal of a director may be filled only by approval of the members [see Corp. Code § 5034; see § 388.54[3]], unless the articles or a bylaw approved by the members provide that the board may fill a vacancy created by removal, or unless the corporation has no members [Corp. Code §§ 5224(a), 7224(a)].

If any vacancy is not filled by the directors, then the members may elect a director to fill the vacancy [Corp. Code §§ 5224(b), 7224(b)].

When a director resigns, unless the notice specifies a later time for the effectiveness of the resignation, his or her resignation will be effective on giving written notice to the chairman of the board, the president, the secretary, or the board of directors of the corporation. If a resignation is effective at a future time, a successor may be elected to take office when the resignation becomes effective [Corp. Code §§ 5224(c), 7224(c)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Selection and Removal of Directors

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.113

§ 388.113 Provisional Director

A nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation may have an even number of directors who are equally divided and cannot agree regarding the management of the affairs of the corporation, with the result that the corporation's activities can no longer be conducted to its advantage, or that there is danger that the corporation's property, activities, or business will be impaired or lost. In this situation, the superior court of the proper county may appoint a provisional director, notwithstanding any provisions of the corporation's articles or bylaws, and whether or not an action is pending for an involuntary winding up or dissolution of the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5225(a), 7225(a); see Corp. Code § 5068 (defining "proper county")]. Action for appointment of a provisional director may brought by any director or by members holding at least 331/3 percent of the voting power [Corp. Code §§ 5225(a), 7225(a)].

If the members of a corporation are deadlocked so that they cannot elect the directors to be elected at the time prescribed for their election, the superior court of the proper county may appoint a provisional director or directors, or order other equitable relief it deems appropriate, on petition of members holding 50 percent of the voting power, notwithstanding any provisions of the articles or bylaws [Corp. Code §§ 5225(b), 7225(b)].

In the case of a public benefit corporation, or a mutual benefit corporation holding assets in charitable trust, any person bringing an action for appointment of a provisional director must give notice to the Attorney General, who may intervene, or the Attorney General may bring an action [Corp. Code §§ 5225(c), (d), 7225(c)].

A provisional director must be an impartial person, who is neither a member nor a creditor of the corporation, nor related to any other directors of the corporation or to any judge making the provisional appointment [Corp. Code §§ 5225(e), 7225(d)]. A provisional director must have all therights and powers of a director, including the right to compensation fixed by the court (unless otherwise agreed with the corporation), until the deadlock in the board or among members is broken or until the provisional director is removed by order of the court or by approval of a majority of all members in accordance with Corp. Code § 5033 [Corp. Code §§ 5225(e), 7225(d)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Selection and Removal of Directors

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.114

§ 388.114 Special Restrictions on Directors of Public Benefit Corporations

A director of a public benefit corporation must give notice to the Attorney General if his or her resignation will leave the corporation without a director in charge of its affairs [Corp. Code § 5226].

Not more than 49 percent of the directors of a public benefit corporation may be interested persons, which include the following [Corp. Code § 5227(a),(b)]:

- Any person currently being compensated by the corporation for services rendered to it within the previous 12 months, whether as a full or part-time employee, independent contractor, or otherwise, excluding any reasonable compensation paid to a director as a director; or

- Any brother, sister, ancestor, descendant, spouse, brother-in-law, sister-in-law, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, mother-in-law, or father-in-law of any person described in the first category above.

A person with standing [see Corp. Code § 5142] may bring an action to correct any violation of this requirement. The court may enter any order that will provide an equitable and fair remedy to the corporation, including an order for the election of additional directors, an order to enlarge the size of the board, or an order for the removal of directors [Corp. Code § 5227(c)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.130

§ 388.130 California Corporation Laws

Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 19, Nonprofit Corporations and Organizations (Matthew Bender).

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.131

§ 388.131 California Legal Forms

For discussion of the formation of California nonprofit corporations, and forms, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations (Matthew Bender)

For discussion of the formation of California nonprofit unincorporated associations, and forms, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 13A, Nonprofit Unincorporated Associations (Matthew Bender)

For discussion of the requirements and procedures for obtaining and maintaining tax-exempt status for nonprofit entities, and forms, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 13B, Tax-Exempt Status for Nonprofit Entities (Matthew Bender)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.132

§ 388.132 California Points and Authorities

For points and authorities for use in actions and proceedings relating to commercial corporations that may be adapted for use in the nonprofit context, see California Points and Authorities , Ch. 52, Corporations (Matthew Bender)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.133

§ 388.133 State Statutes

[1] Capacity

Nonprofit corporation subject to suit and attachment. Corp. Code §§ 5004, 5005

[2] Definitions and General Provisions

Applicability of Parts 2 and 3 of Corporations Code governing nonprofit public benefit or mutual benefit corporations. Corp. Code § 5003

Notice or written notice. Corp. Code §§ 5015, 5016

"Directors" defined. Corp. Code § 5047

"Distribution" defined. Corp. Code § 5049

"Voting power" defined. Corp. Code § 5078

[3] Directors' Standard of Care

Performance of duties of director of public benefit corporation in good faith; director reliance on competent advisors. Corp. Code §§ 5231, 7231

Standard of care governing election, selection, or nomination of directors. Corp. Code §§ 5232, 7232

Self-dealing transactions by directors; definitions and remedies. Corp. Code §§ 5233, 7233

Liability of director with interest in contract or transaction with corporation. Corp. Code §§ 5234, 7233

Responsibility for fixing compensation of directors. Corp. Code §§ 5235, 7233

Prohibitions against certain corporate loans, guarantees, and advances to directors. Corp. Code §§ 5236, 7235

Liability for improper distributions, loans, and guarantees to directors. Corp. Code §§ 5237, 7236

[4] Indemnification of Agents

Indemnification of corporation's agents; insurance. Corp. Code §§ 5238, 7237

[5] Limited Liability of Volunteer Officers and Directors

Court approval required before complaint may be filed against volunteer based on acts or omissions undertaken in scope of duty. Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15

Limited liability of volunteer directors and officers of nonprofit corporations. Corp. Code § 5047.5

Volunteer director or officer of public benefit corporation not liable to third party for act or omission undertaken in good faith in scope of duty. Corp. Code § 5239

Volunteer director or officer of trade, professional, and labor organization formed under Mutual Benefit Corporation Law not liable for acts performed in discharge of duty to corporation in good faith as reasonable person would. Corp. Code § 7231.5; but see Corp. Code §§ 7233, 7236 (exceptions)

[6] Members and Membership Rights

[a] Inspection Rights

Members' right to inspect and copy membership lists; when corporation may deny access; procedure for denial. Corp. Code §§ 6330, 8330

Petition by corporation for order setting aside demand for inspection or imposing reasonable alternative. Corp. Code §§ 6331(a)-(h), 8331(a)-(h)

Members' petition for writ of mandate to compel access. Corp. Code §§ 6331(h),(i), 8331(h),(i)

Corporation's remedies and members' liability for misuse of membership list; prohibited uses of list. Corp. Code §§ 6331(j), 6338, 8331(j), 8338

Limiting or restricting rights to membership lists to protect constitutional rights. Corp. Code §§ 6332, 8332

Members' right to inspect records of corporation. Corp. Code §§ 6333, 8333

Enforcing rights of inspection by court action. Corp. Code §§ 6336, 8336

[b] Issuance and Transfer

Class of membership defined. Corp. Code § 5041

Definitions of member, membership, and membership certificate. Corp. Code §§ 5056, 5057, 5058

Definition of shareholder, shares. Corp. Code §§ 5071, 5072

Members not required. Corp. Code §§ 5310, 7310

Issuance of memberships. Corp. Code §§ 5310-5311, 7310-7311

Multiple or fractional memberships. Corp. Code §§ 5312, 7312

Who may be member. Corp. Code §§ 5313, 7315

Transferability of memberships. Corp. Code §§ 5320, 7320

Issuance of memberships with different rights, preferences, and privileges. Corp. Code §§ 5330, 5331, 7330, 7331

Benefits to nonmembers permitted. Corp. Code §§ 5332, 7333

Issuance, contents, amendment, and surrendering of membership certificates of mutual benefit corporations. Corp. Code § 7313

Issuance of new certificate of mutual benefit corporations when certificate is lost, stolen, or destroyed. Corp. Code §

7314

Redeemable memberships of mutual benefit corporations. Corp. Code § 7332

[c] Meetings and Notice of Meetings

When meetings may or must be held. Corp. Code §§ 5510, 7510

Notice of meeting; waiver of notice. Corp. Code §§ 5511, 7511

Quorum required for meetings of public benefit corporations. Corp. Code §§ 5512, 7512

Action by written ballot; requirements and when authorized. Corp. Code §§ 5513-5515, 7513-7515

Action by written consent. Corp. Code §§ 5516, 7516

Name signed on ballot, consent, waiver, or proxy. Corp. Code §§ 5517, 7517

[d] Members' Liability

Liability of members for debts, liabilities, or obligations of corporation. Corp. Code §§ 5350, 7350

Liability of members for dues. Corp. Code §§ 5351, 7351

Procedure for creditor to bring action against member. Corp. Code §§ 5352, 7353

Liabilities with respect to fraud in issuance of memberships. Corp. Code §§ 5353, 7354

Personal liability of person holding membership in representative or fiduciary capacity. Corp. Code §§ 5354, 7352

Liability for distributions to members, which in mutual benefit corporation includes improper purchase or redemption of memberships. Corp. Code §§ 5410, 5420, 7411-7414, 7420

[e] Termination of Membership

Resignation or expiration of memberships. Corp. Code §§ 5340, 7340

Procedure for expulsion or suspension of memberships. Corp. Code §§ 5341, 7341

Procedure for change in requirements for membership in public benefit corporations. Corp. Code § 5342

[f] Voting Rights

Reasonable nomination and election procedures required. Corp. Code §§ 5520-5522, 7520-7522

Voting in general; determining record date and eligibility to vote; inspectors of elections. Corp. Code §§ 5610-5611, 5615, 7610-7611, 7614

Voting of membership held jointly or in name of two or more persons. Corp. Code §§ 5612, 7612

Proxies. Corp. Code §§ 5613, 7613

Voting trust or voting agreement by members of public benefit corporation as unenforceable. Corp. Code § 5614

Cumulative voting. Corp. Code §§ 5616, 7615

Action to determine validity of election. Corp. Code §§ 5617, 7616

[7] Merger

Merger procedure. Corp. Code §§ 6010-6019.1, 8010-8019.1

Effect of merger. Corp. Code §§ 6020-6022, 8020-8022

[8] Selection and Removal of Directors

Designation, selection, and election of directors; terms of office. Corp. Code §§ 5220, 7220

Removal of director for unsound mind or missing meetings. Corp. Code §§ 5221, 7221

Removal of director without cause. Corp. Code §§ 5222, 7222

Action for removal of director for fraudulent or dishonest acts, or gross abuse of authority. Corp. Code §§ 5223, 7223

Filling vacancies on board of directors. Corp. Code §§ 5224, 7224

Appointment of provisional directors. Corp. Code §§ 5225, 7225

Notice to Attorney General when director of public benefit corporation resigns if resignation will leave corporation without director. Corp. Code § 5226

Restrictions on numbers of interested directors of public benefit corporations. Corp. Code § 5227

[9] Suspension or Forfeiture of Powers

Contracts made with corporation during period of its suspension or forfeiture are voidable at instance of any party other than taxpayer. Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23304.1, 23304.5

Suspension or forfeiture for failure to file franchise tax return or statements required by Rev. & Tax. Code § 23772 or 23774, or to pay amounts due under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23703 or 23772. Rev. & Tax Code § 23775

Relief from suspension or forfeiture by filing application of revivor, new application for exemption, and any reports or amounts due. Rev. & Tax. Code § 23776

Revocation of exempt status for failure to file required franchise tax return, pay amounts due, comply with Rev. & Tax. Code § 19504, or confine activities to those permitted. Rev. & Tax. Code § 23777

Penalties assessed against public or mutual benefit corporations for failure to file annual statements required by Corp. Code § 6810 or 8810. Rev. & Tax. Code § 19141

[10] Vehicle and Other Donations

Nonprofit organization engaged in solicitation for charitable purposes must provide donor of motor vehicle, aircraft, or vessel with receipt containing specified information. Bus. & Prof. Code § 22930

Exclusion from compliance with dealership laws for charitable organization [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(3); Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d] that accepts donations of vehicles for resale; recordkeeping requirements. Veh. Code §§ 286(o), 1660

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.134

§ 388.134 Administrative Regulations

General provisions and definitions relating to regulation of nonprofit corporations. 11 Cal. Code Reg. § 999.1

Attorney General's regulation of public benefit corporations. 11 Cal. Code Reg. § 999.2

Attorney General's regulation of mutual benefit corporations. 11 Cal. Code Reg. § 999.3

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.135

§ 388.135 Decisions

[1] Derivative Actions

Members of nonprofit mutual benefit corporation (homeowners' association) are prohibited from instituting or maintaining action in right of corporation unless action is derivative suit [see Corp. Code § 7710]; thus, individual homeowner was without standing to sue insurer for failure to pay claim under policy held by association when association did not pursue litigation regarding nonpayment. Gantman v. United Pacific Ins. Co. (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1560, 1567-1569, 284 Cal. Rptr. 188

[2] Election of Directors

Election procedures that (1) failed to give any more than minimal legal notice of meeting at which directors were to be elected, (2) failed to disclose nominees to be voted on at meeting, and (3) made it impractical for anyone to communicate effectively with members held unfair and illegal. Braude v. Havenner (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 526, 533, 113 Cal. Rptr. 386 (decided under former Corp. Code § 2236 et seq.)

In determining challenge to corporate election, court should consider all factors bearing on validity of election and give effective direction to relief required. Braude v. Havenner (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 526, 530, 113 Cal. Rptr. 386

[3] First Amendment Rights

City ordinance unconstitutional as applied to nonprofit organizations to prohibit them from selling products constituting or carrying religious, political, philosophical, or ideological message related to their purpose without peddler's permit and to give police chief discretion to issue or deny permit; when commercial and pure speech are inextricably intertwined, entirety must be protected as noncommercial speech. Gaudiya Vaishnava Soc. v. City of San Francisco (9th Cir. 1990) 952 F.2d 1059, 1066

[4] Member Rights

Incorporated association's rule limiting membership to those primarily engaged in real estate business held anticompetitive and in violation of Cartwright Act (Bus. & Prof. Code § 16720 et seq.), and thus rule could not provide basis for denial of membership. Marin County Bd. of Realtors, Inc. v. Palsson (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 920, 940-941, 130 Cal. Rptr. 1, 549 P.2d 833

Professional society (unincorporated association) that wields monopoly power and effects significant economic and professional concerns is clothed with public interest and cannot reject applicant for membership without giving applicant fair opportunity to defend against rejection. Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 552, 561, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253

Writ of mandate is proper remedy for member of labor union (unincorporated association) to challenge suspension without fair hearing. Cason v. Glass Bottle Blowers Asso. (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 134, 140, 143-147, 231 P.2d 6

[5] Member Liabilities

Pursuant to Corp. Code § 7350(a), individual homeowner members of condominium complex homeowners association who were not parties to corporation's contract to repair common areas after earthquake had no personal liability for its debts or liabilities under construction contract. ECC Construction Inc. v. Ganson (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 572, 576, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 292

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.136

§ 388.136 Law Reviews

Facchina et al, Privileges & Exemptions Enjoyed by Nonprofit Organizations, 28 U.S.F. L. Rev. 85 (1993)

Fishman, Standards of Conduct for Directors of Nonprofit Corporations, 7 Pace L. Rev. 389 (1987)

Comment, Member Liability for Dues, Fees, Fines, and Assessments in Nonprofit Associations and Corporations, 19 U.S.F. L. Rev. 393 (1985)

Moody, State Statutes Governing Directors of Charitable Corporations, 18 U.S.F. L. Rev. 749 (1984)

Sproul, Is California's Mutual Benefit Corporation Law the Appropriate Domicile for Community Associations? 18 U.S.F. L. Rev. 695 (1984)

Comment, Review of Selected 1981 California Legislation, 13 Pac. L.J. 584 (1982)

Symposium: California Nonprofit Corporation Law, 13 U.S.F. L. Rev. 729-912 (1979)

Sloss & Becker, The Organization Affected With a Public Interest and Its Members--Justice Tobriner's Contribution to Evolving Common Law Doctrine, 29 Hastings L.J. 99 (1977)

Howland, The History of the Supervision of Charitable Trusts and Corporations in California, 13 UCLA L. Rev. 1029 (1966)

Note, Torts: Charitable Institutions: Liability for Negligence of Agents, 39 Cal. L. Rev. 455 (1951)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.137

§ 388.137 Text References

Advising California Nonprofit Corporations (Cal. C.E.B. 1984)

Marsh's California Corporation Law, Ch. XXIII (Prentice-Hall 3d ed. 1990)

Witkin, California Procedure, vols. 4-5, Pleading, §§ 75-80, 854, 1055-1061 (4th ed. 1997)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 9, Corporations, §§ 78-111, 180, 181, 222-227 (10th ed. 2005)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.150

§ 388.150 Allegation of Capacity and Principal Place of Business [Code Civ. Proc. § 395.5]--Public Benefit Corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5004, 5140]

[1] FORM Allegation of Capacity and Principal Place of Business [Code Civ. Proc. § 395.5]--Public Benefit Corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5004, 5140]

_____[Identify party, e.g. Plaintiff] _____[name of corporation] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a corporation duly organized and existing under the Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation Law of the State of California, with its principal place of business in_____[city], _____ County, California.

[2] Use of Form

This allegation of capacity and principal place of business of a nonprofit public benefit corporation [see Corp. Code § 5110 et seq.] is for use in a complaint or answer [see Corp. Code §§ 5004, 5140]. The allegation of principal place of business may be included if it is necessary to establish venue [see Code Civ. Proc. § 395.5]. However, if venue is to be established on a different basis, such as the county in which the liability arose [see Code Civ. Proc. § 395.5], the allegation of principal place of business should be omitted [see generally Ch. 571, Venue].

[3] Legal Capacity of Corporations

Although it is customary to plead corporate organization and existence to assert a corporation's capacity to be sued, the failure to affirmatively allege capacity of a corporation to sue is not a proper ground for general demurrer [Los Angeles Railway Co. v. Davis (1905) 146 Cal. 179, 180-181, 79 P. 865] . Similarly, the suspension or forfeiture of corporate powers for failure to comply with tax laws is generally raised by the other party to the litigation in the form of an affirmative defense or by motion for summary judgment [see Ch. 160, Corporations: Capacity].

[4] Venue

A nonprofit corporation may be sued in the county in which the contract is made or is to be performed, or in which the obligation or liability arises or the breach occurs, or in which the corporation's principal place of business is situated, subject to the power of the court to change the place of trial as in other cases [Code Civ. Proc. § 395.5].

[5] Cross References

For a form for specific denial of plaintiff's corporate status, see Ch. 26, Answers .

For an allegation of capacity and principal office of an unincorporated nonprofit association, see Ch. 61, Associations and Clubs

For an allegation of capacity and principal office of a church incorporated in California, see Ch. 110, Churches and Religious Organizations

For alternative allegations of venue, see Ch. 571, Venue

[6] State Statutes

Corporation subject to suit. Corp. Code § 5004

Powers of public benefit corporations. Corp. Code § 5140

[7] Decisions

Venue in class action is not based on service to particular defendant unless plaintiff, as representative of class, has personal cause of action against that defendant. General Motors Corp. v. Superior Court (1983) 141 Cal. App. 3d 966, 969-970, 190 Cal. Rptr. 742

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.151

§ 388.151 Allegation of Capacity and Principal Place of Business [Code Civ. Proc. § 395.5]--Mutual Benefit Corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5004, 7140]

[1] FORM Allegation of Capacity and Principal Place of Business [Code Civ. Proc. § 395.5]--Mutual Benefit Corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5004, 7140]

_____[Identify party, e.g., Plaintiff] _____[name of corporation] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a corporation duly organized and existing under the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law of the State of California, with its principal place of business in_____[city], _____ County, California.

[2] Use of Form

This allegation of capacity and principal place of business of a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation [see Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.] is for use in a complaint or answer [see Corp. Code §§ 5004, 7140]. For discussion of allegations of capacity and principal place of business, see the Comments to § 388.150.

[3] State Statutes

Mutual benefit corporations have powers of natural person. Corp. Code § 7140

[4] Cross Reference

For related Form, see § 388.150.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.152

§ 388.152 Proceedings for Indemnification for Defense Expenses [Corp. Code §§ 5238(a),(d),(e)(3), 7237(a),(d),(e)(3)]--Notice of Motion in Pending or Completed Case and Supporting Declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]

[1] FORM Proceedings for Indemnification for Defense Expenses [Corp. Code §§ 5238(a),(d),(e)(3), 7237(a),(d),(e)(3)]--Notice of Motion in Pending or Completed Case and Supporting Declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)
	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION FOR IN-Plaintiff,	)	DEMNIFICATION OF DEFENSE EXPENSES [,
vs.	)	SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF
_____ [name],	)	_____ (name), AND MEMOR-
Defendant.	)	ANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES]
	)	[Telephone Appearance]
	)	Date: _____
	)	Time: _____
	)	Location: _____
		Judge: _____
		Date Action Filed: _____
		Trial Date: _____

_____

To_____[name of corporation]:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on_____[date], at_____[time], or as soon thereafter as the matter can be heard, in the courtroom of [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] the above-entitled court, located at_____[name, if any, and street address of building] in_____[city], California, defendant_____[name] will, and hereby does, move for an order_____[compelling or authorizing] you to indemnify him/her for defense expenses incurred in the above-entitled_____[action or proceeding]. The motion will be made on the ground that the moving party is an agent as defined in Corporations Code Section _____[5238 or 7237], was made a defendant in the above-entitled_____[action or proceeding] because of this status, and is eligible for indemnification for his/her defense expenses under that section.

The motion will be based on this notice of motion, the attached declaration of_____[name], the attached memorandum of points and authorities, the records on file herein, and such evidence as may be presented at the hearing.

Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Defendant _____ [name]

SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF_____[name]

I,_____[name], declare:

1. I am _____[identify declarant, e.g., a member of the board of directors] of _____[name] (hereinafter "the corporation"), which is a corporation organized and existing under California's Nonprofit _____[Mutual or Public] Benefit Law and a defendant in this action. I have been a _____[specify, e.g., director] since_____[date][, serving in that capacity without compensation], and was serving in that capacity at the time of the incidents that are the basis of this action.

2. I was named as a defendant in this lawsuit by reason of the fact that I am a_____[specify, e.g., director] of defendant corporation, specifically by reason of the fact, as alleged at Paragraph _____ of the complaint, _____ [specify, e.g., that I was present at the meeting of directors on _____ (date), and voted with the majority of directors at that meeting to offer _____ [name] a three-year contract of employment as the managing officer of the corporation's hospice program].

[3. Judgment (on the merits) was entered in my favor in this matter on _____ (date). (The transcript of my testimony during the _____ (court or jury) trial is attached hereto as Exhibit "A" and made a part of this declaration.)]

4. I voted in good faith to _____ [specify action taken, e.g., approve _____'s (name) employment in that capacity] because I believed it was in the best interest's of the corporation to do so. _____ [Refer to specific portions of transcript that establish declarant's good faith and belief that the action was in the corporation's best interests, or set forth facts demonstrating declarant's good faith consideration of the decision and reasons why declarant believed it was in the corporation's best interest, e.g., After reviewing the applications of the five candidates considered by the personnel committee to be the most qualified, and meeting with each of them in person to discuss how each of them would function in the position of hospice director, it was clear to me that the position of hospice director requires extensive knowledge, stamina, awareness, sensitivity, some medical background, and great compassion. None of the other candidates had ever managed as large a hospice program as was completed by the corporation or for as long a time. Only two of the other applicants had ever managed a hospice program in California. By all objective criteria, and based on my opinion of the candidates formed at the interviews, it was clear to me that _____ (name) was the best candidate for the position and would do the best job for the corporation].

[Continue, in as many separate paragraphs as necessary, to refer to specific portions of transcript, or to set forth facts that negate any specific grounds of malicious intent or intent to benefit declarant rather than the corporation. Paragraphs 5-7 are examples not intended to be appropriate for every situation.]

5. Although I was aware that _____ (name) was under contract to plaintiff at the time, I did not intend to jeopardize plaintiff's economic prospects, or those of its clients or members, by inducing _____ [name] to breach his/her contract with plaintiff. In addition, from my work as a vice president of a bank, from consultations in that capacity with the bank's attorneys, and based on the advice of the corporation's counsel, I believed the corporation's right to hire _____ [name] was protected by the privilege of fair competition.

6. Although I have known _____ (name) socially for over 10 years, I did not intend to receive any favor or benefit for myself in voting that the corporation employ him/her; nor was the relationship a factor in my decision that he/she was the best candidate for the position.

7. Although _____ [name] is my son-in-law, I did not intend to receive any favor or benefit for myself in voting that the corporation employ him/her; nor was the relationship a factor in my decision that he/she was the best candidate for the position.

[CONTINUE]

8. In connection with the defense of this action, I have_____[incurred and become obligated to pay or paid (some of)] the following expenses: [list items and state amount of each, e.g.:

Attorney's fees	$_____
Deposition costs	$_____
Filing fees	$_____].

9. The foregoing expenses were necessary because_____[specify, e.g., the corporation's insurance policy did not provide for the defense of directors in civil actions in which the corporation was also a party].

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____[date]

_____ [signature]

MEMORANDUM
[Add memorandum supporting motion.]

Respectfully submitted,
_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Defendant _____ [name]

[2] Use of Form

This notice of motion is for use by an agent of a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 5238(a), 7237(a)] claiming that he or she is entitled to indemnity from the corporation for defense expenses incurred in an action or proceeding in which he or she was sued because of being an agent of the corporation, and in which the corporation is a party as of the time of entry of judgment [see § 388.16].

With appropriate modification, this form may be used by the attorney or any other person rendering services in connection with the defense to seek an order compelling or authorizing the corporation to provide indemnity, or by the corporation to seek an order authorizing it to provide indemnity [see Corp. Code §§ 5238(e)(3), 7237(e)(3)].

A memorandum must be filed and a copy served with this notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010].

[3] Timing of Motion

An order directing the corporation to provide indemnity for expenses incurred in a judicial (as distinguished from an administrative or investigative) proceeding may be issued by the court "in which such proceeding is or was pending" [Corp. Code §§ 5238(e)(3), 7237(e)(3)]. This language suggests that the court's power to issue the order continues indefinitely. However, when a judgment becomes final, the court that rendered it loses jurisdiction of the cause except to the extent that a statute continues the court's jurisdiction for a specific purpose. Thus, the probable meaning of the quoted language, as respects timing of the motion, is that the motion may be made after, as well as before, the judgment is entered, as long as the court retains jurisdiction of the cause, which is ordinarily until the judgment becomes final. Thereafter, a claimant for indemnification would be obliged to begin a new action [see § 388.155].

[4] Evidentiary Showing

The agent has the burden of proving that his or her conduct was within the applicable standard of Corp. Code § 5238(b) or (c) or 7237(b) or (c)[see § 388.16[3]]. The declarations in support of the motion, the judgment in favor of the agent and any findings supporting it, or any matters of which the court is requested to take judicial notice should therefore address all elements of the applicable standard [see Plate v. Sun-Diamond Growers (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 1115, 1125-1126, 275 Cal. Rptr. 667 (applying Corp. Code § 317; notwithstanding deferential standard of review, judgment against agents but in favor of corporation as establishing that agents acted in their own personal interest and not in best interests of corporation and therefor were not entitled to indemnity)].

[5] Attorney's Fees and Costs

Attorney's fees and costs incurred by the moving party in obtaining an order compelling or authorizing the corporation to provide indemnity are also subject to indemnity [see Corp. Code §§ 5238(a), 7237(a)].

[6] Cross References

For discussion and forms relating to indemnification of agents of for-profit corporations, see Ch. 167, Corporations: Directors and Management

For discussion and forms relating to noticed motions in general, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders

[7] California Points and Authorities

For a memorandum of points and authorities supporting a motion for indemnification for expenses incurred in defending a proceeding without success on the merits in the context of for-profit corporations, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 52, Corporations (Matthew Bender)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.153

§ 388.153 Proceedings for Indemnification for Defense Expenses [Corp. Code §§ 5238(a),(d),(e)(3), 7237(a),(d),(e)(3)]--Order to Show Cause in Threatened Action or One in Which Corporation Is Not Party

[1] FORM Proceedings for Indemnification for Defense Expenses [Corp. Code §§ 5238(a),(d),(e)(3), 7237(a),(d),(e)(3)]--Order to Show Cause in Threatened Action or One in Which Corporation Is Not Party
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)
_____ [name],	)
[and DOES I through_____,]	)
Defendant(s).	)	NO. _____
_____	)	ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE RE INDEMNIFICA-
_____ [name],	)	TION FOR DEFENSE EXPENSES Applicant,	)
vs.	)
_____ [name of corporation],	)
Respondent.	)
	)

To_____[name of corporation]:

YOU ARE ORDERED to appear on _____[date], at _____[time], in the courtroom of [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] the above-entitled court, located at_____[name, if any, and street address of building] in _____[city], California, to show cause, if any, why you should not be ordered to indemnify _____[name], defendant and applicant herein, for his or her defense expenses incurred in the above-entitled _____[action or proceeding] as requested in the declaration of _____[name] heretofore filed.

This order and a copy of the declaration shall be served on you by delivery of copies to an appropriate agent for service of process at least _____[number] days before the date of the hearing.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Judge of the _____ Court

[2] Use of Form

This order to show cause is for use by a corporate agent of a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 5238(a), 7237(a); see also § § 388.16[2]] to claim entitlement to receive indemnity from the corporation for defense expenses. Defense expenses may be recoverable if they were incurred in a civil action or proceeding in which the agent was sued in his or her representative capacity, but in which the corporation was not a party at the time of entry of judgment. The form may also be used by the attorney or any other person rendering services in connection with the defense, if the application is made by the attorney or other person [see Corp. Code §§ 5238(e)(3), 7237(e)(3)].

[3] Personal Jurisdiction Over Corporation

An order directing the corporation to provide indemnity will not be effective unless the court has obtained personal jurisdiction over the corporation. If the corporation is not already a party to the action or proceeding, it will be necessary to obtain jurisdiction by appropriate service of process [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1917; Tiffany Records, Inc. v. M.B. Krupp Distributors, Inc. (1969) 276 Cal. App. 2d 610, 615, 81 Cal. Rptr. 320 (personal jurisdiction in action for damages)].

One method of obtaining the necessary jurisdiction is to begin a new action and serve a summons on the corporation, but Corp. Code § 5238 or 7237 contemplates that the added expense and delay involved in a new action will be avoided by moving for an order in the action or proceeding in which the expenses subject to indemnification were incurred. An order to show cause is probably the appropriate process by which jurisdiction is obtained, since it can be used for that purpose in other contexts [see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders].

The order to show cause must be served on the corporation (not on the corporation's attorney) in the manner of serving a summons. If the corporation fails to appear at the hearing after being duly served, it will be necessary to present for filing a proof of service before going ahead with the hearing. For discussion of service of process and forms of proof of service of process, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers

[4] Cross Reference

For related Form, see § 388.152.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.154

§ 388.154 Proceedings for Indemnification for Defense Expenses [Corp. Code §§ 5238(a),(d),(e)(3), 7237(a),(d),(e)(3)]--Order [Code Civ. Proc. § 1003] Granting Motion for Indemnification for Defense Expenses

[1] FORM Proceedings for Indemnification for Defense Expenses [Corp. Code §§ 5238(a),(d),(e)(3), 7237(a),(d),(e)(3)]--Order [Code Civ. Proc. § 1003] Granting Motion for Indemnification for Defense Expenses

[Caption. As on papers previously filed.]

This matter came on for hearing on _____[date]. _____[Name], the moving party, appeared by _____[name], counsel; _____[name of corporation] _____ [appeared by _____ (name), counsel or failed to appear].

The court, having received evidence and heard the arguments of counsel, finds as follows:

[1. _____ (Name of corporation) was duly served with _____ (a notice of the motion or an order to show cause).]

2. _____[Name of corporate agent] was made a defendant in the above-entitled _____[action or proceeding] by reason of the fact that he/she is an agent of the corporation under the definition of agent in Corporations Code Section _____ [5238 or 7237].

3. The above-entitled_____[action or proceeding] is a proceeding as to which indemnification for defense expenses may be made by the corporation as provided in Corporations Code Section _____ [5238 or 7237].

4. In doing the acts or omissions that were the basis of the above-entitled _____[action or proceeding], _____[name of corporate agent] acted in good faith and in a manner that he/she believed to be in the best interests of the corporation [including such reasonable inquiry as an ordinarily prudent person would have used in similar circumstances] [in a criminal matter add: and had no reasonable cause to believe that his/her conduct was unlawful].

5. _____[Name of agent] was _____[successful or partially successful or unsuccessful] in defending on the merits, as shown by the judgment entered on _____[date].

6. _____[Name of agent] has incurred and is obligated to pay or has paid the following amounts in connection with defending the above-entitled _____[action or proceeding], which amounts are "expenses" subject to indemnification under Corporations Code Section _____ [5238 or 7237]: _____[list, identifying items and amount for each item].

[7. _____ (If claimant was not successful on the merits but did succeed with some special or technical defense, state finding that he or she adhered to the applicable standard of conduct required by Corp. Code § 5238(b) or (c) or 7237(b) or (c)).]

[8. _____ (If claimant was not successful in defending the action or proceeding, state circumstances justifying indemnification).]

9. _____[Name of agent] is entitled to indemnification from the corporation for all of the defense expenses incurred by him/her as set forth in Finding 6 above.

Good cause appearing,

IT IS ORDERED that _____[name of agent] have and recover from _____[name of corporation] the sum of $ _____ as indemnification for defense expenses pursuant to Corporations Code Section _____ [5238 or 7237].

_____[date]

_____ [signature]
Judge of the _____ Court

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by a corporate agent of a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 5238(a), 7237(a)] whose motion for an order compelling the corporation to provide indemnity is granted. This form may be used whether the motion is made on notice or on an order to show cause.

[3] Findings

Corp. Code § 5238(e) or 7237(e) implicitly requires findings as to the propriety of indemnification under the circumstances [see Plate v. Sun-Diamond Growers (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 1115, 1125-1126, 275 Cal. Rptr. 667 (applying Corp. Code § 317)]. It would seem, however, that reference to a judgment in favor of the claimant would constitute an implied finding that he or she is entitled to be indemnified because of success in defending on the merits.

[4] Applicable Standard of Conduct

The applicable standard of conduct (the fourth finding) varies depending on the nature of the action or proceeding [see Corp. Code §§ 5238(b),(c), 7237(b),(c); see § 388.16[3]].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.155

§ 388.155 Complaint for Indemnification for Defense Expenses--Successful Defense of Underlying Claim [Corp. Code §§ 5238(d), 7237(d)]

[1] FORM Complaint for Indemnification for Defense Expenses--Successful Defense of Underlying Claim [Corp. Code §§ 5238(d), 7237(d)]
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR MONEY
_____ [name of corporation],	)	(Indemnification for Defense Expenses)
Defendant.	)	[Amount demanded _____
	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Defendant_____[name of corporation] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a corporation organized and existing under the _____[specify governing law, e.g., Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation Law of California] [if foreign corporation, add: and subject to Corporations Code Section 2115], with its principal place of business in _____ County, California.

2. Plaintiff is an agent of the corporation under the definition of that term in Corporations Code Section _____ [5238 or 7237] in that _____[specify].

3. By reason of being an agent of the corporation, plaintiff was made a defendant in the _____[action or proceeding] in this court, No. _____, entitled _____.

4. Plaintiff successfully defended that _____[action or proceeding] on the merits.

5. In connection with the defense of that _____[action or proceeding], plaintiff actually and reasonably incurred and became obligated to pay, and has paid [some of] the following expenses: _____[list, identifying items and stating the amount of each item].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays for judgment as follows:

1. That plaintiff have and recover from _____[name of corporation] the sum of $ _____ as indemnification for defense expenses pursuant to Corporations Code Section _____ [5238 or 7237];

2. For costs of suit herein incurred, including reasonable attorney's fees in the amount of $ _____, pursuant to Corporations Code Section _____ [5238 or 7237]; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

VERIFICATION

I,_____[name], am the plaintiff in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____[date]

_____[signature]

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use by a corporate agent of a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 5238(a), 7237(a)] claiming that he or she is entitled to be indemnified by the corporation for defense expenses. If the expenses were actually and reasonably incurred in a civil action or proceeding in which the agent was sued because of his or her capacity as agent of the corporation, and the agent acted in good faith and in a manner reasonably believed to be in the best interests of the corporation, then the agent must be indemnified if he or she successfully defended the action or proceeding on the merits [see Corp. Code §§ 5238(b)-(d), 7237(b)-(d)].

This form may also be used if the defense expenses were incurred in a criminal proceeding or an administrative or investigative proceeding, in which case the allegation in Paragraph 3 will have to be changed accordingly.

[3] Attorney's Fees and Costs

Attorney's fees and costs incurred by the plaintiff in obtaining a judgment for indemnification are also subject to indemnity [see Corp. Code §§ 5238(a), 7237(a)].

[4] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)], verification will require any answer to be verified also,if the action is in the superior court and is not a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude a general denial except in a limited civil case, and will preclude a general denial even in a limited civil case when the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion see Ch. 26, Answers .

[5] Jurisdiction

The superior court has jurisdiction of the action, which will be classified as an unlimited civil case unless the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest, is $25,000 or less, in which case it will be classified as a limited civil case [Cal. Const. art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)].

In limited civil cases, the caption must identify the case as a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. § 422.30(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(10)], and the first page of the first paper must state whether or not the demand exceeds $10,000 [Gov. Code § 72055(a); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(9) (statement regarding amount of demand must appear "below the character of the action or proceeding")].

[6] Cross References

For alternative allegations as to agency, capacity, and residence of parties, and fictitious name allegations, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used

For alternative forms for captions and introductions, see Ch. 108, Captions and Introductions

For discussion and forms relating to the format of complaints, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints

For discussion and forms relating to FAX service and filing of papers, see Ch. 264, Fax Filing and Service of Papers

For discussion of jurisdiction in California courts in general, see Ch. 324, Jurisdiction: Subject Matter ,

For alternative forms for prayers, see Ch. 420, Prayers

For discussion and forms relating to service of summons generally, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers

For forms for allegations showing proper venue, see Ch. 571, Venue

For alternative verification forms, see Ch. 572, Verification

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.156

§ 388.156 Complaint for Indemnification for Defense Expenses--Directors or Members Approved Indemnification [Corp. Code §§ 5238(e)(1), (2), 7237(e)(1), (2)]

[1] FORM Complaint for Indemnification for Defense Expenses--Directors or Members Approved Indemnification [Corp. Code §§ 5238(e)(1), (2), 7237(e)(1), (2)]

[Caption. See § 388.155.]

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Corporate status. See § 388.155, Paragraph 1.]

2. [Plaintiff as corporate agent. See § 388.155, Paragraph 2.]

3. [Plaintiff was named in action or proceeding because he or she was agent of corporation. See § 388.155, Paragraph 3.]

4. Indemnification was approved by _____ [a majority vote of a quorum consisting of directors who are not parties to that _____ (action or proceeding) or the members (in accordance with Corporations Code Section 5034), with the persons to be indemnified not being entitled to vote the issue].

5. In connection with the defense of that _____[action or proceeding], plaintiff actually and reasonably incurred and became obligated to pay, and has paid [some of], the following expenses: _____[list, identifying items and stating the amount of each item].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays for judgment as follows:

1. That plaintiff have and recover from _____[name of corporation] the sum of $ _____ as indemnification for defense expenses pursuant to Corporations Code Section

_____ [5238 or 7237];

2. For costs of suit herein incurred, including reasonable attorney's fees in the amount of $ _____, pursuant to Corporations Code Section _____ [5238 or 7237]; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 388.155.]

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use by a corporate agent of a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 5238(a), 7237(a)] claiming that he or sheis entitled to be indemnified by the corporation for defense expenses. If the expenses were actually and reasonably incurred in a civil action or proceeding in which the agent was sued because of his or her capacity as agent of the corporation, and the agent acted in good faith andin a manner reasonably believed to be in the best interests of the corporation, then the agent must be indemnified if the directors or members of the corporation approved the indemnification [see Corp. Code §§ 5238(b), (c), (e)(1), (2), 7237(b), (c), (e)(1), (2)].

The foregoing form may also be used if the defense expenses were incurred in a criminal proceeding or an administrative or investigative proceeding, in which case the allegation in Paragraph 3 will have to be changed accordingly.

[3] Attorney's Fees and Costs

Attorney's fees and costs incurred by the plaintiff in obtaining a judgment for indemnification are also subject to indemnity [see Corp. Code §§ 5238(a), 7237(a)].

[4] Cross Reference

For related Form, see to § 388.155.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.157

§ 388.157 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Defendant Is Volunteer Director or Executive Officer of Public Benefit Corporation [Corp. Code § 5239]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Defendant Is Volunteer Director or Executive Officer of Public Benefit Corporation [Corp. Code § 5239]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant_____[name] alleges that:

1. _____[Name of defendant director or executive officer] _____[is and/or at the time of the acts or omissions complained of was] a_____[specify title, including office within definition of Corp. Code § 5239(c) if appropriate, e.g., director and the treasurer] of_____[name of corporation], a nonprofit public benefit corporation [(in its first year of operation) with an annual budget (thus far) of less than twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000)], and was serving in that capacity without compensation [except for _____ (specify any exception permitted by Corp. Code § 5239(b), e.g., payment of reimbursable expenses)].

2. The act or omission complained of was within the scope of the his/her duties as_____[specify, e.g., director], in that [specify how act or omission was within the duties of the director or executive officer].

3. The act or omission was performed in good faith.

4. The act or omission was not reckless, wanton, intentional, or grossly negligent.

[EITHER, if insurance available]

5. Any damages caused by the act or omission are compensable by insurance pursuant to a policy issued to _____ [_____ (name of corporation), in the form of _____ a (general or director's and officer's) liability policy or _____ (name of defendant volunteer director or executive officer) personally, in the form of _____ (specify, e.g., a general liability policy)].

[OR, if insurance not available]

5. The board of directors of the corporation and defendant_____[name] made all reasonable efforts to obtain liability insurance in that _____ [they contacted several insurers over a period of several months but were unable to obtain coverage at a cost that was affordable or, if corporation's budget was less than $25,000 annually: made at least one inquiry annually seeking to purchase general liability insurance coverage of at least $25,000 and that insurance was never available at a cost of less than _____ (specify amount exceeding 5 percent of corporation's previous year's budget)].

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing form of affirmative defense is for use in an answer to an action brought against a volunteer director or executive officer of a nonprofit public benefit corporation by a third party for monetary damages caused by the director's or officer's alleged negligent act or omission in the performance of that person's duties as a director or officer [see Corp. Code § 5239(a)]. This defense is applicable only to acts or omissions occurring on or after January 1, 1988 [Corp. Code § 5239(g); see § 388.17[3]].

This form may not be used in answer to an action brought against a volunteer director or executive officer (1) under Corp. Code § 5233 (relating to liability for self-dealing transactions) or 5237 (pertaining to liability for improper distributions, loans, and guarantees), or (2) by the Attorney General [Corp. Code § 5239(e)].

[3] Allegations

The foregoing form alleges (1) that the defendant is a volunteer director or executive officer of a nonprofit public benefit corporation (Paragraph 1) [see Corp. Code § 5239(b) ("volunteer" defined)]; (2) that the act or omission was within the scope of the defendant's duties as a director or executive officer (Paragraph 2) [Corp. Code § 5239(a)(1)]; (3) that the act or omission was performed in good faith (Paragraph 3) [Corp. Code § 5239(a)(2)]; (4) that the act or omission was not reckless, wanton, intentional, or grossly negligent (Paragraph 4) [Corp. Code § 5239(a)(3)]; and (5) that any damages are compensable by insurance issued to the corporation in the form of a general liability policy or a director's and officer's liability policy or to the defendant director or executive officer personally (first alternative Paragraph 5), or that reasonable efforts were made to obtain liability insurance (second alternative Paragraph 5) [see Corp. Code § 5239(a)(4)].

The allegation in second alternative Paragraph 5 regarding at least one inquiry annually is for use by a director or officer of a public benefit corporation with an annual budget of less than $25,000, which is an optional allegation in Paragraph 1. Those allegations in Paragraphs 1 and second alternative Paragraph 5 are derived from Corp. Code § 5239(h), which defines "all reasonable efforts in good faith to obtain available liability insurance" for corporations with annual budgets of less than $25,000 as making at least one inquiry per year to purchase a general liability insurance policy with a coverage amount of at least $25,000 and finding that insurance not available at a cost of less than 5 percent of the previous year's budget of the corporation (Paragraph 5). In the case of a public benefit corporation in its first year of operation, the special definition remains applicable for as long as the budget does not exceed $25,000 (see Paragraph 1) [Corp. Code § 5239(h)].

[4] Cross References

For discussions and forms relating to answers in general, see Ch. 26, Answers

For discussions and forms relating to affirmative defenses for use in answers to actions brought against directors for self-dealing transactions, see Ch. 560, Trusts: Express, Public, Charitable, and Totten Trusts

[5] State Statutes

Directors liability for self-dealing transactions. Corp. Code § 5233

Directors liability for improper distributions, loans, and guarantees. Corp. Code § 5237

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.158

§ 388.158 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Defendant Is Volunteer Director or Executive Officer of Mutual Benefit Corporation [Corp. Code § 7231.5]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Defendant Is Volunteer Director or Executive Officer of Mutual Benefit Corporation [Corp. Code § 7231.5]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant_____[name] alleges that:

1. _____[Name of defendant director or executive officer] _____[is and/or at the time of the acts or omissions complained of was] a_____[specify title, including office within definition of Corp. Code § 7231.5(c) if appropriate, e.g., director and the treasurer] of_____[name of corporation], a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation, and was serving in that capacity without compensation [except _____ (specify any exception permitted by Corp. Code § 7231.5(b), e.g., mileage reimbursement].

2. _____[Name of corporation] is qualified under Internal Revenue Code Section 501(c) as an exempt corporation and is a_____[trade or professional or labor] organization operated exclusively for_____[fraternal or educational or specify other nonprofit purpose] purposes.

3. Defendant_____[name] did the things complained of in the performance of his/her duties as_____[specify, e.g., director], which duties he/she performed in good faith, in a manner he/she believed to be in the best interests of the corporation.

4. In performing the duties that gave rise to the complaint, defendant_____[name] exercised such care, including reasonable inquiry, as an ordinarily prudent person in a like position would use under similar circumstances[, in that _____ (specify any inquiry made, e.g., defendant relied on the report of a certified appraiser)].

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing form of affirmative defense is for use in an answer to an action brought against a volunteer director or executive officer of a mutual benefit corporation for monetary damages based on the director's or officer's alleged failure to discharge the person's duties as a director or officer [see Corp. Code § 7231.5(a)]. This form may only be used by trade, professional, and labor organizations incorporated under the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law (Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.) that operate exclusively for fraternal, educational, and other nonprofit purposes, and under the provisions of I.R.C. § 501(c) [Corp. Code § 7231.5(d)].

This defense is applicable only to acts or omissions occurring on or after January 1, 1988 [Stats. 1987, ch. 1201, § 29]. It may not be used in answer to an action brought against a volunteer director or executive officer under Corp. Code § 7233 (relating to liability for self-dealing transactions) or 7236 (pertaining to liability for improper distributions, loans, and guarantees) [Corp. Code § 7231.5(a); see also Corp. Code § 7238 (Corp. Code § 5230 et seq. as governing directors' duties towards mutual benefit corporation that holds assets in charitable trust)].

[3] Allegations

The foregoing form alleges (1) that the defendant is a volunteer director or executive officer of a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation (Paragraph 1) [Corp. Code § 7231.5(a)]; (2) that the corporation is qualified under I.R.C. § 501(c) for one of the requisite purposes (Paragraph 2) [see Corp. Code § 7231.5(d)]; (3) that the defendant performed the acts complained of as part of his or her duties as a director or officer and performed them in good faith, in a manner he or she believed to be in the best interests of the corporation (Paragraph 3) [Corp. Code § 7231.5(a)(1),(2)]; and (4) that the defendant performed the duties with the care, including reasonable inquiry, that an ordinarily prudent person in a like position would use under similar circumstances (Paragraph 4) [Corp. Code § 7231.5(a)(3)].

[4] Cross References

For discussion of the business judgment rule in the context of commercial corporations, see Ch. 167, Corporations: Directors and Management

[5] California Points and Authorities

For points and authorities regarding application of the business judgment rule in the context of commercial corporations, see California Points and Authorities , Ch. 52, Corporations (Matthew Bender)

[6] Cross Reference

For a related Form, see § 388.157.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.159

§ 388.159 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. 431.30(b)(2)--Defendant Is Volunteer Director or Officer of Nonprofit Corporation and Corporation Is Insured [Corp. Code § 5047.5]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. 431.30(b)(2)--Defendant Is Volunteer Director or Officer of Nonprofit Corporation and Corporation Is Insured [Corp. Code § 5047.5]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant_____[name] alleges that:

1. _____[Name of defendant director or officer] is a director and/or officer of_____[name of corporation], a nonprofit corporation, and is serving without compensation.

[EITHER, if defendant is a director]

2. The act or omission occurred within the scope of the defendant's duties as a director acting as a board member, in that_____[specify the duty as a board member].

[OR, if defendant is an officer]

2. The act or omission was within the scope of the defendant's duties as an officer acting in an official capacity, in that_____[specify how act or omission was within scope of defendant's official capacity].

[CONTINUE]

3. The act or omission occurred in good faith in a manner the defendant believed to be in the best interests of the corporation.

4. The act or omission occurred in the exercise of the defendant's policymaking judgment.

[EITHER, if corporation's annual budget is less than $50,000]

5. The corporation's annual budget is less than $50,000, and the corporation maintains a general liability insurance policy with an amount of coverage of at least $500,000.

[OR, if corporation's annual budget equals or exceeds $50,000]

5. The corporation's annual budget equals or exceeds $50,000, and the corporation maintains a general liability insurance policy with an amount of coverage of at least $1,000,000.

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense is for use in an answer to an action brought against a volunteer director or officer of a nonprofit corporation for monetary damages based on negligence in the performance of that person's duties as a director or officer [see Corp. Code § 5047.5(b)]. It may only be used by directors and officers of nonprofit corporations organized to provide religious, charitable, literary, educational, scientific, social, or other forms of public service that are exempt from federal income taxation under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) or (c)(6) [Corp. Code § 5047.5(d)].

[3] Allegations

This form alleges that:

- The defendant is a director or officer of a nonprofit corporation serving without compensation (Paragraph 1) [see Corp. Code § 5047.5(b)].

- The defendant is a director acting within the scope of that person's duties as a director acting as a board member (first alternative Paragraph 2), or the defendant is an officer acting within the scope of that person's duties as an officer in an official capacity (second alternative Paragraph 2) [Corp. Code § 5047.5(b)(1)].

- The act or omission occurred in good faith, in a manner the defendant believed to be in the best interests of the corporation (Paragraph 3) [Corp. Code §§ 5047.5(b)(2)-(3)].

- The act or omission occurred in the exercise of the defendant's policymaking judgment (Paragraph 4) [Corp. Code § 5047.5(b)(4)].

- The corporation's annual budget is less than $50,000 and the corporation maintains a general liability insurance policy with an amount of coverage of at least $500,000 (first alternative Paragraph 5) [Corp. Code § 5047.5(e)(1)] or the corporation's annual budget equals or exceeds $50,000 and the corporation maintains a general liability insurance policy of at least $1,000,000 (second alternative Paragraph 5) [Corp. Code § 5047.5(e)(2)].

[4] Applicability of Defense

This defense may only be alleged if the claim against the director or officer may also be made directly against the corporation, and a liability insurance policy is applicable to the claim [Corp. Code § 5047.5(e)].

The defense may not be used to limit the liability of a director or officer for any of the acts listed in Corp. Code § 5047.5(c) [see § 388.17[5][c]]. The defense may not be alleged by a director or officer of a nonprofit corporation that unlawfully restricts membership, services, or benefits conferred on the basis of political affiliation, age, or any characteristic listed or defined in Civ. Code § 51(b) or (e) ("Unruh Civil Rights Act"); i.e., sex, race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, disability, medical condition, marital status, or sexual orientation [Corp. Code § 5047.5(h)]. The defense also may not be used by any volunteer director or officer who receives compensationfrom the corporation in any other capacity, including, but not limited to, as an employee [Corp. Code § 5047.5(i)].

[5] Cross Reference

See also Comments and References to § 388.157.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.160

§ 388.160 Proceedings for Order Permitting Filing of Complaint Seeking Damages Against Volunteer Director or Officer of Nonprofit Corporation [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15]--Petition [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15(a)] and Supporting Declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]

[1] FORM Proceedings for Order Permitting Filing of Complaint Seeking Damages Against Volunteer Director or Officer of Nonprofit Corporation [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15]--Petition [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15(a)] and Supporting Declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

Petition of _____ [name], Petitioner, for Order Allowing Filing of Complaint Against _____[name], Volunteer _____ Officer or Director] of Non-profit Corporation	)))))	NO. _____ PETITION FOR ORDER ALLOWING FILING OF COMPLAINT AGAINST VOLUNTEER _____ [OFFICER or DIRECTOR] OF NONPROFIT CORPORATION, AND SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF _____ [name]

Petitioner, _____[name], alleges:

1. Petitioner expects to be the plaintiff in the proposed complaint attached hereto and filed herewith.

2. The proposed complaint names [_____ (name of corporation) and]_____[name of individual] as defendant(s).

3. [Defendant] _____[name of corporation] is a nonprofit corporation organized under _____[specify status that will bring corporation within Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15, e.g., California's Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law and bases its federal income tax exemption on Internal Revenue Code Section 501(c)(7)].

4. The proposed complaint alleges causes of action against _____[name of individual] for money damages based on _____[specify, e.g., wrongful termination, sexual harassment, and interference with contract].

5. Although _____[name of individual] [is and] was, at the time of the acts or omissions complained of, _____ [specify, e.g., a member of the board of directors of _____ (name of corporation)], I do not believe the acts and omissions complained of were undertaken by _____[name of proposed individual defendant] in the scope of his/her duties as _____[specify, e.g., a member of the board of directors]. My reasons for believing the acts and omissions alleged were undertaken by the proposed defendant for his/her personal interests and not on behalf of the corporation are set forth in the proposed complaint in Paragraph(s) _____, on page(s) _____, lines _____, and in the accompanying declaration in Paragraphs _____.

6. For the reasons set forth in the supporting declaration filed and served herewith, I believe the immunity afforded by Code of Civil Procedure Section 425.15 is not applicable to provide a defense to _____[name of proposed defendant] for the acts complained of in the proposed complaint.

WHEREFORE petitioner prays for an order authorizing him/her to file a [specify if appropriate, e.g., first amended] complaint, in the form of the proposed complaint, including a cause of action for money damages against _____[name of individual defendant] and of all other proper orders.

VERIFICATION

I, _____[name], am the petitioner in the above-entitled proceeding. I have read the foregoing petition and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein set forth on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]

SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF _____[name]

I, _____[name], declare:

1. I am _____[identify declarant, e.g., the plaintiff in the proposed complaint attached hereto and served and filed herewith or other statement as appropriate].

2. The proposed [_____[specify if appropriate, e.g., first amended] complaint attached hereto, sets forth causes of action against _____[name of proposed defendant] for _____[specify, e.g., intentional interference with contract].

[Present evidence to substantiate claim, e.g.:]

3. _____[Name of proposed individual defendant] was only a director at large, and not a member of the personnel committee, the fundraising committee, the finance committee, or any other standing committee of the board. He/She did not ordinarily have any responsibility for or take any interest in personnel or fundraising matters.

4. _____[Name of proposed individual defendant] and _____ (name) were romantically involved and had been for several months before I was summarily dismissed as vice president in charge of fundraising. It was common knowledge among those of us who stayed in the office on thethird Wednesday evening each month to be available during the board of directors meetings that _____[name of proposed defendant] was attracted to _____[name of new vice president of fund raising] and desirous of establishing a romantic relationship with her. He talked about her, and often met her after the board meetings to go out to dinner. _____[Name of proposed defendant] openly and obviously lobbied the personnel director to hire _____[name of new vice president of fund raising]. Some of this lobbying occurred within my hearing in the corporate offices before the board meeting of _____[date].

5. _____[Name of proposed individual defendant] and _____[name of new vice president of fund raising] travelled together to a conference in New Orleans three weeks after _____[name of new vice president] replaced me as vice president in charge of fundraising. True and correct copies of the nonprofit corporation's bills for the corporate Master Cards of _____[name of proposed defendant] and _____[name of new vice president] are attached to the declaration of _____[name], served and filed herewith. He/She is the accounts payable clerk and custodian of those corporate records. Those bills and the cancelled corporate checks also attached to that declaration establish that _____[name of proposed defendant] and _____[name of new vice president] attended the conference in New Orleans at the corporations expense.

6. _____[Name of new vice president of fundraising] had no prior experience in either fundraising or the nonprofit sector. That lack of experience is established by the true and correct copy of her resume that is attached to the declaration of _____[name], served and filed herewith. He/She is the director of personnel and custodian of those corporate records.

[CONTINUE]

7. I believe that the facts stated in Paragraphs 3-6 of this Declaration establish that _____ [specify element of proof making immunity inapplicable, e.g., in doing the things complained of _____ (name of proposed defendant) was not acting in his capacity as a member of the board of directors], so that the immunity afforded by Code of Civil Procedure Section 425.15 is not applicable to provide a defense.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

This petition and supporting declaration are for use by a person to obtain leave from the court to file a complaint for money damages against a volunteer director or officer of a nonprofit corporation [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15]. The form may be modified to seek an order allowing the filing of a cross complaint or an amended complaint [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 422.10, 425.15; see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1324 (requirements for motions to amend pleadings)].

No claim for damages against a volunteer director or officer of a nonprofit corporation may be included in a complaint or other pleading unless the court enters an order allowing the claim to be filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15(a); see § 388.17[6][a]]. There are various immunity provisions applicable to volunteer directors and officers of nonprofit corporations, most of which are merely raised by answer or affirmative defense [see § 388.17[6][a]]. With the exception of a similar provision applicable to punitive damage claims against volunteer directors and officers of religious corporations [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.14(a), discussed in Ch. 110, Churches and Religious Organizations], Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15 is the only immunity requiring an order to file the complaint or amended complaint against the volunteer. Additionally, it is only applicable to nonprofit corporations that base their federal income tax exemption on specified Internal Revenue Code sections [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15(a),(e)(1); see § 388.17[6][a]].

The example facts in the supporting declaration in the form are based in part on Wanland v. Los Gatos Lodge, Inc. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1507, 1522-1523, 281 Cal. Rptr. 890 , a case in which the evidence of romantic involvement between the corporate officer and the person who took plaintiff's job was insufficient and too late in time to establish any unprivileged interference with contract. Counsel should state in as many paragraphs as necessary the facts that substantiate plaintiff's claim and that establish the element lacking for Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15 to apply.

[3] Accompanying Papers

This petition must be verified and must be accompanied by (1) the proposed pleading, and (2) supporting affidavits (or declarations under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) stating the facts on which the liability is based. The plaintiff has the burden of establishing that the evidence substantiates the claim [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15(a)], so the facts in the declarations should be as extensive as is necessary to carry that burden.

[4] Service of Petition and Proposed Pleading

The court must order service of the petition on the party against whom the action is proposed to be filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15(a)]. The statute is silent regarding the manner and timing of this service, so counsel should determine whether any local rule provides for service. Otherwise, the court is free to determine how service should be accomplished and also whether or not it wishes a hearing, submission of points and authorities, or argument before it rules on thematter. Counsel should be prepared to provide a form of order and/or notice of hearing to carry out the court's wishes [see § 388.161 (notice of hearing)].

[5] Response by Intended Defendant

The intended defendant may submit opposing affidavits (or declarations under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) to the court before the court makes its determination [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15(a)]. The statute is silent regarding the amount of time the intended defendant may have to submit opposing affadavits, so counsel should check to see if any local rule determines the matter.

[6] Tolling of Limitation Period on Underlying Action

The filing of the petition, proposed pleading, and accompanying affidavits tolls the running of any applicable statute of limitations until the final determination of the matter [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15(a)].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.161

§ 388.161 Proceedings for Order Permitting Filing of Complaint Seeking Damages Against Volunteer Director or Officer of Nonprofit Corporation [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15]--Notice of Hearing of Petition

[1] FORM Proceedings for Order Permitting Filing of Complaint Seeking Damages Against Volunteer Director or Officer of Nonprofit Corporation [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15]--Notice of Hearing of Petition

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

Petition of _____ [name], Petitioner, for Order Allowing Filing of Complaint Against _____ [name], Volunteer _____ [Director or Officer] of Nonprofit Corporation	)	NO. _____ NOTICE OF HEARING OF PETITION FOR ORDER ALLOWING FILING OF COMPLAINT AGAINST VOLUNTEER _____ [DIRECTOR or OFFICER] OF NONPROFIT CORPORATION Date: _____ Time: _____ Dept.: _____ Judge: _____ Action Not Filed: _____ Trial Date Not Set: _____

To _____[name of proposed defendant or other person on whom notice was ordered served]:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that _____[name of petitioner], as petitioner [and proposed plaintiff], has filed herein a petition for an order allowing him/her to file a complaint against _____[name of individual] for money damages based on _____[specify, e.g., wrongful termination, sexual harassment, and interference with contract], reference to which is made for further particulars. You are permitted to file a response to the petition on or before _____[date]. Any response should be filed _____[specify, e.g., in accordance with Local Rule 34]. The time and place of hearing of the petition has been set for _____[date], at _____[time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____[street address], _____[city].

The petition is supported by the declaration(s) of _____[name(s)],[and] the proposed complaint [and the memorandum of points and authorities] served and filed herewith, and on such evidence as may be presented at the hearing of the petition.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Petitioner

[2] Use of Form

This notice hearing of petition is for use by a person wishing to file a complaint against a volunteer director or officer of a nonprofit corporation ordinarily protected by the immunity of Code Civ. Proc § 425.15 in the event the court wishes a hearing on the petition for order allowing the filing. Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15(a) requires the court to order service of the petition on the party against whom the action is proposed to be filed, and to allow the proposed defendant to file opposing affadavits (or declarations under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) prior to making its determination. Other particulars will be determined by local rule and the court's discretion, and this form should be modified accordingly.

[3] Cross Reference

For related Form, see § 388.160.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.162

§ 388.162 Proceedings for Order Permitting Filing of Complaint Seeking Damages Against Volunteer Director or Officer of Nonprofit Corporation [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15]--Order

[1] FORM Proceedings for Order Permitting Filing of Complaint Seeking Damages Against Volunteer Director or Officer of Nonprofit Corporation [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15]--Order

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

Petition of _____ [name], Petitioner, for Order Allowing Filing of Complaint Against _____ [name], Volunteer _____ [Director or Officer] of Nonprofit Corporation	)))))	No. _____ ORDER GRANTING LEAVE TO FILE COMPLAINT

The petition of _____[name] for an order allowing him/her to file a _____[specify if appropriate, e.g., first amended] complaint against defendant _____[name] to seek monetary damages _____ [came on regularly for hearing by the court on _____ (date) or was determined by the court without a hearing]. [Continue as desired with appearances or submissions: Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name]; defendant appeared by counsel _____ [name].]

On proof made to the satisfaction of the court that the plaintiff has established evidence that substantiates that plaintiff's claim against defendant _____[name] is not barred by the immunity of Code of Civil Procedure Section 425.15,

IT IS ORDERED that the petition be, and it hereby is, granted and that plaintiff _____[name] be allowed to file a[n] [amended] complaint that includes a claim for monetary damages against defendant _____[name].
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Judge of the _____ Court

[2] Use of Form

This form is an order for use when the court has granted a petition for an order allowing the filing of a complaint for money damages against a volunteer director or officer of a nonprofit corporation. The court must determine, on the basis of the supporting and opposing affidavits (or declarations under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) presented, that the petitioner has established evidence that substantiatesthe claim, by establishing that the claim is not barred by the immunity of Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15.

[3] Cross Reference

For related forms, see §§ 388.160 and 388.161.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.163

§ 388.163 Complaint by Creditors of Corporation Against Members to Apply Membership Assessments in Satisfaction of Judgment [Corp. Code §§ 5352, 7353]

[1] FORM Complaint by Creditors of Corporation Against Members to Apply Membership Assessments in Satisfaction of Judgment [Corp. Code §§ 5352, 7353]
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR MONEY
_____ [name of corporation],	)	(To Apply Membership Assessments to Unsatisfied and_____ [names],	)	Judgment)
[and DOES I through_____,]	)	[Amount demanded _____
Defendants.	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Defendant _____[name of corporation] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a corporation organized and existing under the_____[specify governing law, e.g., Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation Law of California] [if defendant is a foreign corporation, add: and subject to Corporations Code Section 2115] with its principal place of business in _____ County, California.

2. Defendants _____[names of defendant members] are residents of _____ County,

California. [Continue to name defendant members and their residences, perhaps with a separate paragraph listing the names of members in each county.] Each of the defendants was, at the time of the act herein complained of, a member of_____[name of corporation].

[3. Defendants Doe I through Doe _____, inclusive, are sued herein under fictitious names. Their true names and capacities are unknown to plaintiff. When their true names and capacities are ascertained, plaintiff will amend this complaint by inserting their true names and capacities herein. (Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of the fictitiously named defendants is responsible in some manner for the obligations owed by defendant _____[name of corporation] to plaintiff.)]

4. Plaintiff is a creditor of defendant corporation. Defendant corporation's debt to plaintiff originated on _____[date] and is for _____[describe nature of claim]. Judgment based on the debt wasentered in favor of plaintiff against the corporation in the Superior Court of _____County, case number _____ on _____[date]. _____[A writ of execution was issued in that matter and has been returned unsatisfied in whole or in part or It would be useless to pursue execution on the judgment].

5. The member defendants, and each of them, are indebted to defendant corporation for _____[specify nature of debt, e.g., membership dues and assessments] in the following amounts [for the following membership years]:

	Name	Year	Dues/Assessment
a.	_____	_____	$ _____
	_____	_____
	____
b.	_____	_____	$ _____
	_____	_____
	____

etc.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays for judgment as follows:

1. That plaintiff recover from each of the member defendants the amount of _____[specify nature of debt, e.g., membership dues and assessments] for which each is liable to the defendant corporation;

2. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 388.155.]

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by a creditor of a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation against members to apply membership payments due the corporation in satisfaction of judgments in favor of the creditor against the corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 5352(a), 7353(a); see § 388.56[3]].

The corporation must give credit on the unpaid balance due it for amounts paid by any member in this type of action [Corp. Code §§ 5352(c), 7353(c)].

[3] Corporation as Defendant

The corporation has been named as a defendant because the action is in the nature of a creditor's suit, which is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 708.210 et seq., and in which the judgment debtor is required to be joined as a party [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.220]. Additionally, a party who must be joined but is not willing to be is generally made a defendant [see Code Civ. Proc. § 379(a)(2) (joinder as defendant of one who has claim or interest in property that is subject of action)].

[4] Jurisdiction

The superior court has jurisdiction of the action, which will be classified as an unlimited civil case unless the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest, is $25,000 or less, in which case it will be classified as a limited civil case [Cal. Const. art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 85.1, 86(a)].

In limited civil cases, the caption must identify the case as a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. § 422.30(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(10)], and the first page of the first paper must state whether or not the demand exceeds $10,000 [Gov. Code § 72055(a); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(9) (statement regarding amount of demand must appear "below the character of the action or proceeding")].

[5] Cross Reference

For related form, see § 388.155.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.164

§ 388.164 Allegations--By Creditor Seeking to Be Joined as Plaintiff [Code Civ. Proc. § 378; Corp. Code §§ 5352(b), 7353(b)]

[1] FORM Allegations--By Creditor Seeking to Be Joined as Plaintiff [Code Civ. Proc. § 378; Corp. Code §§ 5352(b), 7353(b)]

_____[Name of creditor who seeks to intervene] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a creditor of defendant corporation. Defendant corporation's debt to_____[name of creditor who seeks to intervene] is for_____[describe nature of claim] in the currently outstanding amount of $_____, which obligation originated on_____[date] and has [not] been reduced to judgment._____[Name of creditor who seeks to intervene] has a right to relief against the member defendants and his/her/its joinder is authorized by Corporations Code Section _____ [5352(b) or 7353(b)].

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for insertion in a motion or pleading by a creditor of a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation who seeks to be joined as a plaintiff in an action against members to apply membership payments due to the corporation in satisfaction of claims or judgments in favor of the creditor owing by the corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 5352(a), 7353(a); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 378 (discussed in Ch. 395, Parties)]. All creditors of the corporation, with or without reducing their claims to judgment, may intervene in any creditor's action to reach and apply unpaid amounts due the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5352(b), 7353(b)]. Several judgments may be rendered for and against the parties to the action, or in favor of a receiver for the benefit of the respective parties [Corp. Code §§ 5352(b), 7353(b); see Ch. 486, Receivers].

[3] Cross Reference

For related Form, see §§ 388.155, 388.163.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.165

§ 388.165 Complaint by Creditor of Corporation Against Members to Apply Improper Distributions in Satisfaction of Prior Claims [Corp. Code §§ 5420(b), 7420(b), (c)]

[1] FORM Complaint by Creditor of Corporation Against Members to Apply Improper Distributions in Satisfaction of Prior Claims [Corp. Code §§ 5420(b), 7420(b), (c)]
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name]	)
a Corporation, and	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	COMPLAINT FOR MONEY
Plaintiff,	)	(To Apply Improper Distributions to Unsatisfied
vs.	)	Claims)
_____ [names], [and DOES I	)	[Amount demanded _____ (exceeds through _____,] Defendants.	)	or does not exceed) $10,000]
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff is a creditor of_____[name of corporation] ("the corporation"), which is, and at all times mentioned in this complaint was, a corporation organized and existing under the_____[specify governing law, e.g., Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation Law of California]. Plaintiff brings this action on its own behalf and on behalf of and in the name of the corporation and for its benefit.

2. [Capacity and residence of defendant members. See § 388.163, Paragraph 2.]

3. [Fictitious defendants allegation. See § 388.163, Paragraph 3.]

4. Plaintiff is a creditor of the corporation [when plaintiff is a creditor of a mutual benefit corporation, add: whose _____ (debt or claim) arose prior to the time of the _____ (distribution or payment) in redemption of a membership herein complained of, and to which _____ (distribution or payment in redemption of a membership) plaintiff did not consent.] The corporation's debt to plaintiff is for_____[describe nature of claim] in the currently outstanding amount of $_____, which obligation originated on_____[date] and that has [not] been reduced to judgment.

5. On or about_____[date], the corporation made a _____ [distribution of its _____ (cash or property consisting of _____ (specify) or payment in redemption of a membership].

[EITHER, if plaintiff is a creditor of a public benefit corporation]

6. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and on that basis alleges, that the distribution alleged in Paragraph 4 of this complaint was contrary to law,in that California Corporations Code Section 5410 prohibits any distribution by a nonprofit public benefit corporation to members.

[OR, if plaintiff is a creditor of a mutual benefit corporation, and distribution was involved]

6. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and on that basis alleges, that the distribution alleged in Paragraph 4 of this complaint was contrary to law, in that the corporation is, or as a result of making the distribution will be, likely to be unable to meet its liabilities as they mature.

[OR, if plaintiff is a creditor of a mutual benefit corporation, and purchase or redemption was involved]

6. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that the_____[purchase or redemption] alleged in Paragraph 4 of this complaint was contrary to law, in that the articles of incorporation of the corporation contain a provision that, in the event of dissolution for any reason, any remaining assets must be distributed to the head organization, and the corporation making the_____[purchase or redemption] is, or as a result of making the_____[purchase or redemption] will be, likely to be unable to meet such obligation to the head organization.

[CONTINUE]

7. Defendant(s) received the_____[distribution or payment in redemption of a membership] alleged in Paragraph 4 of this complaint [if defendant is member of mutual benefit corporation, add: with knowledge of the facts indicating its impropriety.] [Continue allegation with any supporting facts.]

[EITHER, if defendant is a member of public benefit corporation]

8. As a result of the improper distribution alleged in Paragraph 4 of this complaint, each defendant is liable to the corporation for the benefit of all creditors up to the amount received by each defendant plus interest at the legal rate on judgments.

[OR, if defendant is a member of mutual benefit corporation]

8. As a result of the improper_____[distribution or payment in redemption of a membership] alleged in Paragraph 4 of this complaint, each defendant is liable to the corporation for the benefit of all creditors not consenting to the distribution up to the amount received by each defendant, plus interest thereon at the legal rate on judgments, but not exceeding $_____[sum equal to liabilities of corporation to nonconsenting creditors].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For damages in the sum of $_____, to be apportioned among the defendants according to the_____[distribution or payment in redemption of a membership] received by each defendant, and to be awarded to the corporation for the benefit of all_____[creditors or nonconsenting creditors];

2. For interest at the legal rate on the amount of the_____[distribution or payment in redemption of a membership] received by each defendant from and after_____[date];

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By:_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

[Verification, if desired. See § 388.155.]

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing form of complaint is for use by a creditor of either a public benefit corporation or a mutual benefit corporation to recover damages from members who have received improper distributions, including payments in redemption of memberships of mutual benefit corporations [see Corp. Code §§ 5420(b), 7420(b),(c); see § 388.57].

[3] Allegations

The complaint alleges (1) plaintiff's capacity as a creditor entitled to bring the action in the name of the corporation (Paragraph 1) [see Corp. Code §§ 5420(b), 7420(c)]; (2) the capacity of the defendant members (Paragraph 2); (3) the existence of fictitious defendants (optional Paragraph 3) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 474]; (4) the capacity of plaintiff as a creditor and, in the case of a creditor of a mutual benefit corporation, that the debt or claim arose prior to the making of the distribution or payment in redemption of a membership to which the creditor did not consent (Paragraph 4) [see Corp. Code §§ 5420(a),(b), 7420(c)(1)]; (5) that the corporation made a distribution or, in the case of a creditor of a mutual benefit corporation, a payment in redemption of a membership (Paragraph 5); (6) that the alleged distribution or payment in redemption of a membership was unlawful [see Corp. Code §§ 5410, 7410-7414] (alternative Paragraphs 6); (7) that the defendant received the distribution or payment in redemption of a membership and, in the case of a creditor of a mutual benefit corporation, that the defendant had knowledge of its impropriety (Paragraph 7) [see Corp. Code §§ 5420(a), 7420(b)]; and (8) the amount of liabilities to creditors (alternative Paragraphs 8) [Corp. Code §§ 5420(a), 7420(a)-(c)].

[4] Punitive Damages

When the plaintiff is a creditor of a public benefit corporation, the court may award punitive damages for the benefit of the corporation against anydirector, officer, member, or other person who caused, received, or aided and abetted in the making of any distribution [Corp. Code § 5420(b)].

[5] Liability for Fraudulent Transfer

Nothing in Corp. Code § 5420 or 7420 affects any liability a person may have under the Uniform Fraudulent Transfer Act (Civ. Code § 3439 et seq.) [Corp. Code §§ 5420(d), 7420(e); see generally Ch. 270, Fraudulent Transfers].

[6] Cross Reference

For related forms, see §§ 388.163, 388.155.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.166

§ 388.166 Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086] to Enforce Members' Right to Inspect and Copy Membership Lists and Use Them in Mailings [Corp. Code §§ 6331, 8331]

[1] FORM Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086] to Enforce Members' Right to Inspect and Copy Membership Lists and Use Them in Mailings [Corp. Code §§ 6331, 8331]
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name(s)],	)
Petitioner(s),	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	PETIITON FOR WRIT OF MANDATE
_____ [name of corporation	)	(To Compel Inspection of Membership List) and names of individual respondents, if any],	)
Respondent(s).	)
	)

Petitioner(s) allege(s):

1. Petitioner(s) is/are, and at all times herein mentioned was/were, member(s) in good standing of respondent_____[name of corporation], and [together] control_____[specify percentage of voting power in compliance with Corp. Code § 5036, e.g., five percent] of the voting power of the corporation.

2. Respondent_____[name of corporation], hereinafter called "Corporation," is, and at all times mentioned in this complaint was, a nonprofit_____[public or mutual] benefit] corporation, composed of numerous dues paying members, and_____[having its principal place of business or keeping its corporate records] in_____[city], _____ County, California. The Corporation has a present membership numbering approximately_____[number] persons.

3. Respondent_____[name], is, and at all times mentioned in this complaint was, secretary of the Corporation, and the Corporation's agent and employee. In doing the things herein alleged, respondent_____[name] was, and now is, acting within the scope of this agency.

4. Respondent_____[name], secretary of the Corporation, now has, and at all times mentioned in this complaint has had, possession and control of the membership list of the Corporation.

5. On_____[date], petitioner(s) made and served on the Corporation and respondent_____[name], secretary of the Corporation, a written demand for permission to inspect and copy the membership list of the Corporation as of _____ [the last record date for which it has been compiled or _____ (specify date)], and for necessary facilities andassistance in the course of this examination. A photostatic copy of the demand is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.

6. The Corporation and respondent_____[name], secretary of the Corporation, have refused, and continue to refuse, to permit petitioner(s) to inspect and copy the membership list, although they each have the authority to permit the inspection.

7. Respondents have not obtained a protective order staying production of the list, or a final order setting aside the demand.

8. Petitioner(s) does/do not have a plain, speedy, and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law in that pecuniary compensation would not afford adequate relief, because it would not give petitioner(s) the right to inspect and copy the Corporation's membership list, and the appropriate amount of pecuniary compensation, even if such existed, would be extremely difficult to ascertain.

[9. Petitioner(s) has/have exhausted his/her/their internal administrative remedies within the Corporation.]

WHEREFORE petitioner(s) pray(s):

1. That, on the hearing of this application and the return thereto, if any, this court issue its peremptory writ of mandate commanding respondent Corporation and respondent_____[name], secretary of Corporation, to permit petitioner(s) or his/her/their duly authorized representative to inspect and copy forthwith the membership list of Corporation as of_____[date], and to afford such facilities and assistance in the course of this inspection as the court deems proper.

2. For costs and expenses of suit herein incurred, including reasonable attorney's fees in the amount of $_____, pursuant to Corporations Code Section _____ [6331(i) or 8331(i)]; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [signature(s)]
Attorney for Petitioner(s)

VERIFICATION

I,_____[name], am [one of] the petitioner(s) in the above-entitled proceeding. I have read the foregoing petition and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to matters which are therein stated on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____[date]

_____ [signature]

CAUTION:

A petition for a writ of mandate must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086]. Proof of service on each respondent and real party in interest of a copy of a petition that seeks an alternative writ must accompany the petition when it is offered for filing except when, in its discretion and for good cause, the court has granted the application for the writ ex parte [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107; for a discussion of serving the petition, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition]. Points and authorities also customarily accompany a petition filed in a superior court, although they do not appear to be expressly required by statute. When no alternative writ is sought, proof of service of a copy of the petition need not accompany the application, but proof of service of a copy of the filed petition must be lodged with the court prior to a hearing or any action by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1088.5].

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing petition is for use by the requisite number of members [see Corp. Code § 5036] of a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation to obtain a peremptory writ of mandate to compel the corporation and its secretary to permit the members or their duly authorized representative to inspect and copy the corporation's membership list for a specified period [see Corp. Code §§ 6331(i), 8330(i); see § 388.56[6]].

[3] Allegations

The petition alleges facts showing that (1) petitioner is a beneficially interested party and petitioner (or petitioners) controls the requisite voting power (Paragraph 1) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1086; Corp. Code §§ 5036 (requisite voting power), 6331(i), 8331(i)]; (2) respondent corporation's and respondent secretary's status and capacities (Paragraphs 2-4); (3) petitioner has made a distinct and express demand on respondents to perform the duty sought to be compelled by the writ (Paragraph 5) [see Corp. Code §§ 6330(a), 8330(a)]; (4) respondents have refused to permit the inspection requested (Paragraph 6); (5) respondents have not obtained a protective order staying production of the list, or a final order setting aside the demand (Paragraph 7) [see Corp. Code §§ 6331(i), 8331(i)]; and (6) petitioner has no plain, speedy, and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law (Paragraph 8) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1086].

[4] Jurisdiction and Venue

The petition is filed in the superior court for the proper county [Corp. Code §§ 6331(i), 8331(i)]. The "proper county" means the county in which the corporation's principal office in California is located or, if the corporation has no such office, Sacramento County [Corp. Code § 5068].

[5] Hearing and Order

At the hearing, the court will hear the parties summarily, by affidavit, or otherwise. No inquiry may be made in this proceeding into the use for which the authorized number seek the list [Corp. Code §§ 6331(i), 8331(i)].

The court must issue a peremptory writ of mandamus unless it appears that one of the conditions listed in Corp. Code § 6331(i) or 8331(i) [see 388.58[6]] exists.

The court must award reasonable costs and expenses, including reasonable attorney's fees, to persons granted an order [Corp. Code §§ 6331(i), 8331(i)].

[6] Cross References

For additional discussion and forms for use in mandate proceedings, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition

[7] State Statutes

Writ of mandate. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1084-1097, 1107, 1108

Code Civ. Proc. § 307 et seq. (civil actions generally) as applicable to and as rules of practice in mandamus proceedings, except as otherwise provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1067 et seq. (review, mandamus, prohibition). Code Civ. Proc. § 1109

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.167

§ 388.167 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Removal of Director for Cause [Corp. Code §§ 5223, 7223]

[1] FORM Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Removal of Director for Cause [Corp. Code §§ 5223, 7223]
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiffs,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name of corporation],	)	COMPLAINT FOR REMOVAL OF DIRECTOR
and	)	[Corp. Code § 5223 or 7223]
_____ [names], [and DOES I	) through_____,]	)
Defendant(s).	)
	)

Plaintiff(s) allege(s):

[EITHER, if suit is brought by director(s)]

1. Plaintiff(s) is/are (a) director(s) of the corporation.

[OR, if suit is against a public benefit corporation, or a mutual benefit corporation in which total number of votes entitled to be cast for a director is less than 5,000]

1. Plaintiff(s) is/are _____ (the holder(s) of record of _____ (specify number, the lesser of at least twice the authorized number of members according to Corp. Code § 5036) percent of the voting power or twenty members) of defendant Corporation.]

[OR, if suit is against a mutual benefit corporation in which the total number of votes entitled to be cast for a director is 5,000 or more]

1. Plaintiff(s) is/are _____ (the holder(s) of record of _____ (specify number, the lesser of at least twice the authorized number of members according to Corp. Code § 5036) percent of the voting power or one hundred members) of defendant Corporation.]

[CONTINUE]

2. [Corporate status. See § 388.163, Paragraph 1.]

3. Defendant(s)_____[names(s)] is/are, and at the time of the acts complained of herein was/were, (a) director(s) of defendant corporation.

[In as many separate paragraphs as necessary, allege commission of fraudulent or dishonest acts or gross abuse of authority or discretion by defendant director(s); see Comments to this form. Paragraphs 4-7 are examples not intended to be appropriate for every situation.]

4. At a meeting of the board of directors held on_____[date], defendants_____[names] voted to approve the making of a $_____ loan by defendant corporation to defendant_____[name].

5. All defendants knew that the loan served no corporate purpose, did not provide financing for the purchase of a principal residence by an officer of the corporation in order to procure any officer's continuing services for the corporation, and would not benefit the corporation in any way.

6. All defendants knew at the time they approved the making of the loan that its sole purpose was to allow defendant_____[name of borrower] to make speculative personal business investments, that no interest payments would be required on the principal amount loaned until its maturity, and that if defendant _____'s [name of borrower] expected investment return did not materialize, the loan would not be repaid without resort to litigation against defendant_____[name of borrower] by on or behalf of the corporation.

7. On_____[date], $_____ of defendant corporation's funds were paid to_____[name of borrower] in return for which_____[name of borrower] signed a demand note payable to the corporation. No director or officer or any other person on behalf of defendant corporation has ever demanded payment of the loan, and the entire sum of $_____, with interest thereon, remains due and owing to the corporation.

[CONTINUE]

8. The_____[specify abuse complained of, e.g., loan] constitutes a violation of Corporations Code Section _____ [specify, e.g., 5236], breach of the duties of a director of a nonprofit_____[public or mutual] benefit corporation, and grounds for removal of defendant(s) as director(s) of defendant corporation.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff(s) pray(s) judgment as follows:

1. For removal of defendant(s)_____[name(s)] from the office of director of the corporation;

[2. That defendant(s) _____ (name(s)) be barred from reelection to the office of director for a period of _____ (number) years or such other period as the court prescribes;]

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [signature]
Attorney for Plaintiff(s)

[Verification, if desired. See § 388.155.]

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing form of complaint is for use by a director or directors or the requisite number of members of a nonprofit public or mutual benefit corporation to have a director removed for fraudulent or dishonest acts or gross abuse of authority or discretion [see Corp. Code §§ 5223, 7223].

[3] Allegations

The foregoing complaint alleges (1) plaintiff's capacity to sue (alternative Paragraphs 1) [see Corp. Code §§ 5223(a), 7223(b)]; (2) capacity and principal place of business for defendant corporation (Paragraph 2); (3) defendant director's capacity (Paragraph 3); (4) the fraudulent or dishonest acts or gross abuse of authority or discretion (Paragraphs 4-7) [see Corp. Code §§ 5223(a), 7223(a)]; and (5) the acts constitute a breach of statutory duties and grounds for removal (Paragraph 8).

For further discussion of who may bring such an action, see § 388.111[1]. For discussion of what constitutes an authorized number of members under Corp. Code § 5036, see § 388.58[3][b].

[4] Corporation Must Be Party

Corp. Code § 5223(a) or 7223(a) requires the corporation to be made a party to an action for removal of a director for cause. Generally, a party who must be joined but is not willing to be is made a defendant [see Code Civ. Proc. § 379(a)(2)].

[5] Jurisdiction and Venue

The complaint is filed in the superior court for the proper county [Corp. Code §§ 5223(a), 7223(a)]. The "proper county" means the county in which the corporation's principal office in California is located or, if the corporation has no such office, Sacramento County [Corp. Code § 5068].

[6] Cross Reference

For related form, see § 388.155.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 388 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

34-388 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 388.168

§ 388.168 Application for Appointment of Directors [Corp. Code §§ 5220(e), 7220(e)]

[1] FORM Application for Appointment of Directors [Corp. Code §§ 5220(e), 7220(e)]
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

Application of _____ [name], Applicant	))))	APPLICATION FOR APPOINTMENT OF DIRECTORS

Applicant alleges:

1._____[name of corporation] ("the Corporation") is a California_____[type of corporation, e.g., nonprofit public benefit or nonprofit mutual benefit or nonprofit religious or consumer cooperative] corporation, organized under the [California Nonprofit Corporation Law or Consumer Cooperative Corporation Law] and having its principal office in_____[city], California.

2. Applicant,_____[name], is a resident of_____[city or county], California, and is a party in interest in this matter by virtue of_____[describe].

3. The Corporation has not issued any memberships.

[EITHER]

4. All of the directors of the Corporation have_____[specify, e.g., resigned and/or died and/or become incompetent].

[OR]

4. The Corporation's initial directors have not been named in its articles, and all incorporators of the Corporation have_____[specify, e.g., resigned and/or died and/or become incompetent] before the election of the initial directors.

[CONTINUE]

WHEREFORE, applicant prays:

[EITHER]

1. That this court appoint directors of the corporation under the authority granted to the court by Corporations Code Section_____ [for a nonprofit public benefit corporation: 5220(e) or, for a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation: 7220(e) or, for a nonprofit religious corporation: 9220(d) or, for a consumer cooperative corporation: 12360(e)];

[OR]

1. That this court appoint_____[name(s)] as directors of the Corporation under the authority granted to the court by Corporation Code Section_____ [for a nonprofit public benefit corporation: 5220(e) or, for a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation: 7220(e) or, for a nonprofit religious corporation: 9220(d) or, for a consumer cooperative corporation: 12360(e)];

[CONTINUE]

2. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Applicant _____ [name]

[2] Use of Form

This form is an application by a "party in interest" requesting the superior court to appoint directors of a nonprofit public benefit corporation, nonprofit mutual benefit corporation, nonprofit religious corporation, or consumer cooperative corporation, that has not issued memberships, when its directors have all resigned, died, or become incompetent, or when no initial directors were named in the articles and all the incorporators have resigned, died, or become incompetent [see Corp. Code §§ 5220(e) (nonprofit public benefit corporations), 7220(e) (nonprofit mutual benefit corporations), 9220 (d) (nonprofit religious corporations), 12360(e) (consumer cooperatives); see § 388.110[3]].

The governing statutes specify that the superior court may appoint directors on "application" by any party in interest. This pleading accordingly is titled "Application" and is otherwise drafted in the general form of a petition.

[3] Allegations

This form contains the following allegations:

- That the corporation in question is a California nonprofit public benefit corporation, nonprofit mutual benefit corporation, nonprofit religious corporation, or consumer cooperative corporation, organized under the applicable California laws and having its principal office in California [Paragraph 1].

- The residence of the person making the application (referred to in this form as the "applicant,"), the fact that the applicant is a "party in interest" in the matter, and the basis for the allegation that the applicant is a party in interest [Paragraph 2]. Note that the statute does not define who qualifies as a "party in interest" for purposes of the right to bring this type of action.

- That the Corporation has not issued any memberships [Paragraph 3].

- That either (1) all of the directors of the corporation have resigned, died, or become incompetent [Paragraph 4, first alternative]; or (2) the Corporation's initial directors were not named in its articles and all incorporators of the corporation resigned, died, or become incompetent before the election of initial directors.

The form provides two alternative versions of the prayer for appointment of directors. The first simply prays for the appointment of directors in accordance with the court's statutory authority. The second requests that specific persons be appointed as directors. Although the governing statutes do not expressly authorize the applicant to request that specific persons be appointed, the court's general authority to appoint directors under the circumstances discussed here clearly includes authority to appoint specific persons requested by the applicant to that capacity if the court deems it appropriate.

[4] Where Action May Be Brought

The governing statutes provide that the superior court of any county may appoint directors upon application by any party in interest [see Corp. Code §§ 5220(e) (nonprofit public benefit corporations), 7220(e) (nonprofit mutual benefit corporations), 9220(d) (nonprofit religious corporations), 12360(e) (consumer cooperatives)]. Thus, it appears that the action may be brought in any county, without regard to the location of the nonprofit entity's offices, if any, or the residence of the applicant.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 389 NONSUIT AND MOTIONS FOR JUDGMENT

34-389 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 389.syn

§ 389.syn Synopsis to Chapter 389: NONSUIT AND MOTIONS FOR JUDGMENT

§ 389.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 389.02 Cross References

§§ 389.03-389.09 [Reserved]

§ 389.10 Governing Statutes

§ 389.11 Motion for Nonsuit

[1] Basis for Motion

[2] After Plaintiff's Opening Statement

[3] After Presentation of Plaintiff's Evidence

[4] Multiple Defendants

[5] Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings Compared

[6] Motion In Limine to Exclude All Evidence Compared

[7] Motion for Directed Verdict Compared

[8] Partial Nonsuit

[9] Determination of Motion

[10] Order on Motion

[11] Appeal of Judgment of Nonsuit

[12] Review When Motion for Nonsuit Is Denied

[13] Appeal of Expedited "Mini-Trial" Based on Offers of Proof Treated as Nonsuit

§ 389.12 Motion for Judgment

[1] Basis for Motion

[2] Rebuttal and Waiver of Rebuttal

[3] Ruling on Motion

[4] Statement of Decision

[5] Adjudication on Merits

[6] Appellate Review of Judgment

§ 389.13 Code Civ. Proc. § 1038 Motion for Defense Costs

§§ 389.14-389.29 [Reserved]

§ 389.30 State Statutes

§ 389.31 Decisions

[1] Motion for Judgment

[2] Motion for Nonsuit

[a] Appeal

[b] Nature of Motion for Nonsuit

[c] Plaintiff's Postmotion Procedure

[d] Res Ipsa Loquitur

[e] Ruling on Motion

[f] Timeliness of Motion

§ 389.32 Text References

§§ 389.33through 389.39 [Reserved]

§ 389.40 Moving Party's Checklist

§§ 389.41-389.49 [Reserved]

§ 389.50 Order Granting Judgment of Nonsuit [Code Civ. Proc. § 581c(a)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 389.51 Judgment on Motion for Judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8(a)]--By Defendant or Plaintiff

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 389 NONSUIT AND MOTIONS FOR JUDGMENT
PART I. SCOPE

34-389 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 389.01

§ 389.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses grounds and procedures for obtaining and opposing motions for nonsuit and motions for judgment and includes forms of orders for use when these motions are granted [see §§ 389.50 and 389.51].

Because a motion for nonsuit or judgment is usually made orally in open court, forms of notices of motion are not included in this chapter. However, in some cases, a written notice of motion may be given or required [see § 389.40, below]. The general forms of a notice of motion in Ch. 372, Motions and Orders, may be adapted for this purpose.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 389 NONSUIT AND MOTIONS FOR JUDGMENT
PART I. SCOPE

34-389 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 389.02

§ 389.02 Cross References

For a procedural guide and forms for use in dismissing an action on other grounds, see Ch. 212, Dismissal

176 of 189 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 389 NONSUIT AND MOTIONS FOR JUDGMENT
PART I. SCOPE

34-389 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 389.03-389.09

[Reserved]

§§ 389.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 389 NONSUIT AND MOTIONS FOR JUDGMENT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-389 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 389.10

§ 389.10 Governing Statutes

The statutes governing motions for nonsuit and motions for judgment are Code Civ. Proc. §§ 581c and 631.8, respectively.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 389 NONSUIT AND MOTIONS FOR JUDGMENT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-389 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 389.11

§ 389.11 Motion for Nonsuit

[1] Basis for Motion

A motion for nonsuit is tantamount to a demurrer to the evidence by which a defendant contests the sufficiency of plaintiff's evidence before presenting his or her own [Hamilton v. Gage Bowl, Inc. (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1706, 1710, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 819 ; see also Alpert v. Villa Romano Homeowners Assn. (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1320, 1328 (motion has effect of demurrer to evidence; it concedes truth of facts proved and contends those facts are not sufficient as matter of law to sustain plaintiff's case)]. The defendant does not, by making the motion, waive the right to present evidence if the motion is denied [Code Civ. Proc. § 581c(a)]. A defendant is entitled to a nonsuit if the trial court determines that, as a matter of law, plaintiff's evidence does not permit a jury to find in plaintiff's favor [Haley v. Casa Del Rey Homeowners Assn. (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 863, 876, 63 Cal. Rptr. 3d 514 ; Stonegate Homeowners Assn. v. Staben (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 740, 745, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 709 ; Burlesci v. Petersen (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1062, 1065, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 704 ; accord Unigard Ins. Group v. O'Flaherty & Belgum (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 1229, 1234, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 565] .

In a motion for nonsuit, only the grounds of the motion specified by defendant may be considered by the trial court [Smith v. Roach (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 893, 898, 126 Cal. Rptr. 29 ; Timmsen v. Forest E. Olson, Inc. (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 860, 868, 86 Cal. Rptr. 359] .

Motions for nonsuit are usually made orally in open court. A notice of motion may be prepared if the motion is anticipated before trial or time is available to prepare it, for example, if, by stipulation, the statement of facts set forth in plaintiff's trial brief is deemed to be plaintiff's opening statement [see Timmsen v. Forest E. Olson, Inc. (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 860, 863, 86 Cal. Rptr. 359] . In the case of an oral motion for nonsuit in a jury trial, it is common practice for counsel to ask for permission to approach the bench and to make the motion at the bench. This procedure gives the court an opportunity to excuse the jury from the courtroom.

[2] After Plaintiff's Opening Statement

The defendant may move for a judgment of nonsuit only after and not before the plaintiff has completed giving the opening statement or after the presentation of the plaintiff's evidence in a jury trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 581c(a)].

Defendant may move for nonsuit based on plaintiff's opening statement in a jury trial or a nonjury trial [Lingenfelter v. County of Fresno (2007) 154 Cal. App. 4th 198, 204, 64 Cal. Rptr. 3d 378 ; Nelson v. Specialty Records, Inc. (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 126, 141, 89 Cal. Rptr. 540 ; see Hamilton v. Gage Bowl, Inc. (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1706, 1710, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 819 ; Enterprise Leasing Corp. v. Shugart Corp. (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 737, 747 n.5, 282 Cal. Rptr. 620] . In ruling on the motion when it is made following the plaintiff's opening statement, the trial court must assume that the plaintiff can prove all the favorable facts alleged [see Cooper v. State Farm Mut. Auto Ins. Co. (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 876, 891, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 870] . A nonsuit is proper only if the court concludes that there will be no evidence that would support a judgment in the plaintiff's favor [Bresnahan v. Chrysler Corp. (1995) 32 Cal. App. 4th 1559, 1564-1565, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 446] . The court must accept as proven all of the facts that counsel expects to prove and must indulge in all the favorable inferences reasonably arising from these facts. The motion is granted only if it is clear that counsel has undertaken to state all of the facts expected to be revealed [Hamilton v. Gage Bowl, Inc. (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1706, 1710, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 819] and that those facts do not constitute a cause of action [Smith v. Roach (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 893, 897-898, 126 Cal. Rptr. 29 (reversing nonsuit granted on theory that opening statement described a defense); see Jensen v. Hewlett-Packard Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 958, 965-966, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 83 (affirming nonsuit)].

For example, nonsuit is proper when counsel fails to describe all the elements of a prima facie case [see, e.g., Nelson v. Specialty Records, Inc. (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 126, 141, 89 Cal. Rptr. 540] or reveals a complete defense [see, e.g., Russell v. Soldinger (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 633, 642, 131 Cal. Rptr. 145 ; see also Enterprise Leasing Corp. v. Shugart Corp. (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 737, 747, 282 Cal. Rptr. 620] .

If there is any substantial evidence to support a judgment in plaintiff's favor, nonsuit after plaintiff's opening statement is not proper [Willis v. Gordon (1978) 20 Cal. 3d 629, 633, 143 Cal. Rptr. 723, 574 P.2d 794] .

Courts have traditionally taken a restrictive view of the circumstances under which a nonsuit at the close of an opening statement is appropriate because nonsuit at that point takes the case away from the jury on a procedural device. Indeed, granting a nonsuit at that point is particularly dangerous because counsel rarely present such an explicit, full, and unabridged version of the plaintiff's case that the court can be sufficiently confident of the impossibility of proof of a cause of action to abruptly terminate the litigation [Galanek v. Wismar (1999) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1417, 1424, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 236] . Thus, a nonsuit at this stage is disfavored and should be denied if the statement is not plainly insufficient [Baber v. Napa State Hospital (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 213, 217, 257 Cal. Rptr. 55 ; see Galanek v. Wismar (1999) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1417, 1424, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 236 (nonsuit on opening statement disfavored and should be avoided unless there isclear and unequivocal demonstration of total lack of a cause of action by plaintiff)].

Alternatively stated, a trial court must not grant a nonsuit motion unless the plaintiff's evidence, viewed most favorably to the plaintiff, could not possibly support a jury verdict for the plaintiff [Diesel Electric Sales & Service, Inc. v. Marco Marine San Diego, Inc. (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 202, 210, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 62 ; see Bresnahan v. Chrysler Corp. (1995) 32 Cal. App. 4th 1559, 1564, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 446 (nonsuit reversed; nonsuit may not be granted unless, accepting as true both plaintiff's favorable evidence and every favorable inference that may be drawn from it, that evidence is yet insufficient to support a verdict for plaintiff)]. Even when an unartful plaintiff's opening statement is technically deficient, if there is any possibility that the evidence might support recovery, the court is encouraged to deny the motion for a nonsuit in favor of, and in reliance on, its power to direct a verdict after hearing the evidence [Beavers v. Allstate Ins. Co. (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 310, 328, 274 Cal. Rptr. 766] .

[3] After Presentation of Plaintiff's Evidence

Defendant may move for nonsuit after the plaintiff's presentation of evidence in a jury trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 581c(a)]. However, because submission of the plaintiff's case to the jury will be precluded by a successful nonsuit motion, courts grant these motions only under very limited circumstances. A trial court must not grant the motion if the plaintiff has presented evidence that would support a jury verdict in the plaintiff's favor [Espinosa v. Little Co. of Mary Hospital (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1304, 1313, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 541] .

In ruling on the motion, the court must give plaintiff's evidence all the value to which it is legally entitled, indulging in every legitimate inference that may be drawn in plaintiff's favor, disregarding any conflicting evidence, and accepting the evidence most favorable to plaintiff as true. Nonsuit is proper if the evidence viewed in this light would not be sufficient to support a jury verdict in plaintiff's favor [Nally v. Grace Community Church (1988) 47 Cal. 3d 278, 291, 253 Cal. Rptr. 97, 763 P.2d 948 , cert. denied, 490 U.S. 1007 ; Campbell v. General Motors Corp. (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 112, 117-118, 184 Cal. Rptr. 891, 649 P.2d 224 ; Ewing v. Cloverleaf Bowl (1978) 20 Cal. 3d 389, 395, 143 Cal. Rptr. 13, 572 P.2d 1155 ; see McComber v. Wells (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 512, 521, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 376] . The trial court must not weigh the evidence or consider the credibility of the witnesses in determining the sufficiency of the evidence. Rather, the court must interpret all of the evidence most favorably to the plaintiff's case and most strongly against the defendant and must resolve all presumptions, inferences, conflicts, and doubts in plaintiff's favor [Saunders v. Taylor (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 1538, 1541, 50 Cal. Rptr. 2d 395 ; see Khajavi v. Feather River Anesthesia Medical Group (2000) 84 Cal. App. 4th 32, 43, 100 Cal. Rptr. 2d 627] .

More than a mere scintilla of evidence in plaintiff's favor, however, is required to avoid a nonsuit. Substantial evidence creating a conflict for the jury to resolve is required [Nally v. Grace Community Church (1988) 47 Cal. 3d 278, 291, 253 Cal. Rptr. 97, 763 P.2d 948 ; Burlesci v. Petersen (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1062, 1065, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 704 ; see also Alpert v. Villa Romano Homeowners Assn. (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1320, 1327] .

The evidence must be sufficient to support each of the elements of plaintiff's cause of action [see, e.g., Miller v. Los Angeles County Flood Control Dist. (1973) 8 Cal. 3d 689, 703-704, 106 Cal. Rptr. 1, 505 P.2d 193 ; Mikialian v. City of Los Angeles (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 150, 165, 144 Cal. Rptr. 794] . Thus, plaintiff must produce evidence that supports a logical inference in plaintiff's favor and which does more than merely permit speculation or conjecture. Although the court may infer facts from the evidence those inferences must be logical and reasonable. They may not be illogically and unreasonably drawn, nor can inferences be based on mere possibility or flow from suspicion, imagination, speculation, supposition, surmise, conjecture or guesswork [Kidron v. Movie Acquisition Corp. (1995) 40 Cal. App. 4th 1571, 1580-1581, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 752] .

The motion must be denied if from the evidence it can logically and reasonably be inferred that sufficient facts exist to support a recovery, regardless of whether the evidence is susceptible to conflicting inferences. The court has a duty to let the case go to the jury if in the court's mind there is doubt about the inferences that may reasonably be drawn from the evidence [Espinosa v. Little Co. of Mary Hospital (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1304, 1313, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 541] .

After a motion for nonsuit in a jury trial, on plaintiff's request, the trial court must permit plaintiff to reopen the case and to introduce further evidence, because one of the objects of the motion is to provide an opportunity for plaintiff to rectify any deficiencies of proof. The court's refusal to do so is error, which requires reversal if plaintiff shows prejudice [Abreu v. Svenhard's Swedish Bakery (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 1446, 1457, 257 Cal. Rptr. 26 ; see also Alpert v. Villa Romano Homeowners Assn. (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1320, 1337 (denial of request to reopen that is accompanied by offer of proof of evidence that will cure deficiency is reversible error)]. The right to present further evidence is waived, however, unless the plaintiff both requests leave to reopen and makes an offer of proof, describing the evidence and explaining how it would cure the deficiencies [Alpert v. Villa Romano Homeowners Assn. (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1320, 1337] .

[4] Multiple Defendants

Nonsuit may be granted in favor of fewer than all defendants if there is more than one defendant in the action [Associated Oil Co. v. Mullin (1930) 110 Cal. App. 385, 391, 294 P. 421 ; see Gerard v. Ross (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 968, 981,251 Cal. Rptr. 604 (nonsuit granted in favor of one of multiple defendants in tort action)] and fewer than all the causes of action if trial is on more than one cause of action [Code Civ. Proc. § 581c(b); see Aufdemkamp v. Pierce (1935) 4 Cal. App. 2d 276, 281, 40 P.2d 599] . In a personal injury or property damage case, other defendants are precluded from referring at trial to the fault, absence from the action, or involvement of a defendant whose motion for nonsuit has been granted [Code Civ. Proc. 581c(d)].

[5] Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings Compared

A motion for nonsuit differs from a motion for judgment on the pleadings in that it is directed to the sufficiency of the evidence rather than to the sufficiency of the pleadings. Thus, if the plaintiff's opening statement fails to establish the elements of a prima facie case without varying materially from the pleadings, the proof is insufficient, and the proper motion is for nonsuit rather than for judgment on the pleadings [Nelson v. Specialty Records, Inc. (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 126, 142, 89 Cal. Rptr. 540] .

[6] Motion In Limine to Exclude All Evidence Compared

Unlike a usual motion in limine that seeks to keep particular evidence from the jury, a motion in limine to exclude all evidence seeks to terminate a trial without evidence being introduced [Mechanical Contractors Assn. v. Greater Bay Area Assn. (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 672, 676-677, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 225] . A motion to to exclude all evidence on a particular claim is the functional equivalent of a common law motion for judgment on the pleadings, or if decided in light of evidence produced during discovery, nonsuit [Aas. v. Superior Court (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 627, 634-635, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 718, 12 P.3d 1125 ; Mechanical Contractors Assn. v. Greater Bay Area Assn. (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 672, 676-677, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 225 (granting defendant's motion in limine at outset of trial to exclude all of plaintiff's evidence, in effect granted nonsuit)].

[7] Motion for Directed Verdict Compared

A motion for directed verdict may be made by either the plaintiff or defendant and usually is made at the conclusion of evidence, although it may be made at any time before the case is submitted to the jury [Gibson v. Southern Pacific Co. (1955) 137 Cal. App. 2d 337, 346, 290 P.2d 347] . The grounds of the motion, however, are the same as that of a motion for nonsuit [see Frisk v. Merrihew (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 319, 325, 116 Cal. Rptr. 781] . The standard for ruling on a motion for nonsuit and directed verdict is the same [Adams v. City of Fremont (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 243, 263, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 196] . For a complete discussion of directed verdicts, see Ch. 326A, Jury Verdicts .

[8] Partial Nonsuit

If the evidence supports granting the motion as to some but not all the issues involved in the action, the court must grant the motion as to those issues. The action then proceeds as to the issues remaining. Despite the granting of such a motion, no final judgment is entered prior to the termination of the action. The final judgment in the action, however, must, in addition to any matters determined in the trial, award judgment as the court determined on the motion for nonsuit [Code Civ. Proc. § 581c(b)].

[9] Determination of Motion

Regardless of when the motion is made, the trial court may not weigh the evidence or judge the credibility of the witnesses [Estate of Callahan (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 609, 613, 63 Cal. Rptr. 277, 432 P.2d 965 ; see Burlesci v. Petersen (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1062, 1065, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 704] . All relevant evidence, even if it is unreliable or has been erroneously admitted, must be given the credit and benefit of its full probative strength [see Estate of Callahan (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 609, 617, 63 Cal. Rptr. 277, 432 P.2d 965 ; Wickoff v. James (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 664, 668, 324 P.2d 661] .

[10] Order on Motion

If the motion is granted, the judgment will operate as an adjudication on the merits unless the court specifies otherwise [Code Civ. Proc. § 581c(c)]. The motion may be granted as to some but not all the issues in the action, in which case no final judgment is entered [see discussion under § 389.11[8], above].

Given that the judgment of nonsuit is a form of dismissal, it must be written, signed by the court, and filed in the action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 581d].

If a motion for nonsuit is denied, it may be renewed on satisfactory grounds [Totton v. Superior Court (1936) 18 Cal. App. 2d 59, 60, 62 P.2d 1383 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1008 (renewed motions)]. Subsequently, if the evidence presented by defendant corrects the defects in plaintiff's case, the denial of the motion, even if erroneous, will be viewed as harmless [Withey v. Hammond Lbr. Co. (1934) 140 Cal. App. 587, 598, 35 P.2d 1080] .

For discussion of renewing motions, see Ch. 374, Motions to Reconsider and Renewed Motions .

[11] Appeal of Judgment of Nonsuit

Because motions for nonsuit raise issues of law, the appellate court reviews the rulings on those motions de novo, employing the same standard that governs the trial court [Khajavi v. Feather River Anesthesia Medical Group (2000) 84 Cal. App. 4th 32, 43, 100 Cal. Rptr. 2d 627 ; Saunders v. Taylor (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 1538, 1541-1542, 50 Cal. Rptr. 2d 395 ; see Lund v. Bally's Aerobic Plus, Inc. (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 733, 737, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 169] .

When a nonsuit has been granted after the opening statement, the appellatecourt accepts as true all facts plaintiff asserted in plaintiff's opening statement and indulge every legitimate inference those facts support [Hoff v. Vacaville Unified School Dist. (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 925, 930, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 811, 968 P.2d 522] . A nonsuit at this early stage is disfavored and can only be upheld on appeal if, after accepting all the asserted facts as true and indulging in every legitimate inference drawn from those facts in favor of plaintiff, it can be said those facts and inferences lead inexorably to the conclusion plaintiff cannot establish an essential element of its cause of action or has inadvertently established uncontrovertible proof of an affirmative defense [Galanek v. Wismar (1999) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1417, 1424, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 236 ; Adkins v. State of California (1996) 50 Cal. App. 4th 1802, 1809, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 59 ; see Bresnahan v. Chrysler Corp. (1995) 32 Cal. App. 4th 1559, 1564-1565, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 446 (when nonsuit granted after opening statement, reviewing court must assume that plaintiff can prove all favorable facts alleged; nonsuit proper only if court concludes there will be no evidence that would support a judgment in plaintiff's favor); see also Kardly v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 479, 483, 255 Cal. Rptr. 40 (reviewing court must accept as true all of plaintiff's properly pleaded allegations and indulge in every legitimate inference in plaintiff's favor that can be drawn from evidence)].

When a nonsuit has been granted after the presentation of plaintiff's case, the appellate court will not sustain the judgment unless, interpreting the evidence most favorably to plaintiff's case and most strongly against the defendant and resolving all presumptions, inferences, and doubts in favor of the plaintiff, a judgment for defendant is required as a matter of law [Nally v. Grace Community Church (1988) 47 Cal. 3d 278, 291, 253 Cal. Rptr. 97, 763 P.2d 948 , cert. denied, 490 U.S. 1007 (affirming judgment of nonsuit); accord Wolf v. Walt Disney Pictures and Television (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1107, 1121, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 585 (also affirming judgment of nonsuit); Bromme v. Pavitt (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1487, 1496 n.2, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 608 ; see Alpert v. Villa Romano Homeowners Assn. (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1320, 1327 ; Lund v. Bally's Aerobic Plus, Inc. (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 733, 737, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 169 (appellate court may affirm nonsuit only if plaintiff's case not supported by substantial evidence and defendant is entitled to judgment as matter of law); Burlesci v. Petersen (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1062, 1065, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 704 (evidence must be evaluated in light most favorable to plaintiff and least favorable defendant; all presumptions, inferences and doubts are resolved against defendant); Goebel v. Lauderdale (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 1502, 1506, 263 Cal. Rptr. 275 (appellate court must (1) give plaintiff's evidence all value to which it is legally entitled, (2) recognize every legitimate inference that may be drawn from that evidence, and (3) disregard conflicting evidence)]. In other words, while the reviewing court's duty in most appeals is to indulge every reasonable intendment in favor of sustaining the trial court, the reverse is true when an appeal is from an order of nonsuit. In the latter case the reviewing court must view the evidence as though the judgment had been in plaintiff's favor and order a reversal if such a judgment could be sustained [Raber v. Tumin (1951) 36 Cal. 2d 654, 656, 226 P.2d 574] .

It is not necessary that there be an absence of conflict in evidence before the trial court may exercise its power to grant a nonsuit; there must be a substantial conflict in evidence to deprive the court of this power [Burlesci v. Petersen (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1062, 1065, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 704 ; Gerard v. Ross (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 968, 981, 251 Cal. Rptr. 604] . A judgment of nonsuit will not be reversed if plaintiff's proof raises nothing more than speculation, suspicion, or conjecture; but reversal is warranted if there is some substance to plaintiff's evidence on which reasonable minds could differ [Espinosa v. Little Co. of Mary Hospital (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1304, 1313, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 541 ; Alef v. Alta Bates Hospital (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 208, 214-215, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 900 ; Baxter v. Alexian Brothers Hospital (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 722, 725, 262 Cal. Rptr. 867 ; see Daum v. SpineCare Medical Group, Inc. (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 1285, 1318, 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 260 (plaintiff must produce evidence supporting at least logical inference of liability, not merely speculation or conjecture; if there is no substantial evidence of liability, appellate court must affirm the grant of a nonsuit)].

The appellate court may not weigh the evidence or consider the witnesses' credibility [Alpert v. Villa Romano Homeowners Assn. (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1320, 1327 ; Lund v. Bally's Aerobic Plus, Inc. (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 733, 737, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 169 ; McComber v. Wells (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 512, 521, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 376] . Rather, the appellate court is required to accept as true the evidence most favorable to the plaintiff, disregarding conflicting evidence. The court accepts as credible the testimony of plaintiff's witnesses [Alpert v. Villa Romano Homeowners Assn. (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1320, 1327, 1338] .

An appellate court will consider grounds not specified in a motion for nonsuit only if it is clear that the defect is one which could not have been remedied had it been called to plaintiff's attention [Lawless v. Calaway (1944) 24 Cal. 2d 81, 94, 147 P.2d 604] . Despite Lawless, there is a split of authority over whether an appellate court may consider grounds argued by the defendant, but not relied on by the trial court in granting the motion. Some courts of appeal have held that appellate review is limited to those grounds relied on by the trial court, the theory being that the appellate court only need examine those grounds which a plaintiff may have been able to correct had they been called to its attention [Alpert v. Villa Romano Homeowners Assn. (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1320, 1328 (citing cases); see also Serian Brothers, Inc. v. Agri-Sun Nursery (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 306, 312 (reviewing court should consider only grounds that were before trial court on motion for nonsuit because plaintiff should be given opportunity to correct deficiencies in his or her proof beforenonsuit is granted); Jacobs v. Freeman (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 177, 188, 163 Cal. Rptr. 680 (same)]. Other courts have taken the view that a judgment of nonsuit can be sustained on any ground specified in the motion, even if not relied on by the trial court [Alpert v. Villa Romano Homeowners Assn. (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1320, 1328 (citing cases); see also Saunders v. Taylor (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 1538, 1541-1542, 50 Cal. Rptr. 2d 395 (court may sustain granting of motion on any ground specified in motion whether or not it was ground relied on by trial court; court noted and disagreed with several appellate opinions which state that appellate court is restricted, not merely to grounds specified by moving party, but to specific ground or grounds relied on by trial court in granting motion); Jensen v. Hewlett-Packard Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 958, 971, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 83 (appellate court may affirm nonsuit on grounds trial court did not rely on in granting motion if plaintiff had notice of defect and opportunity to cure it)]. In either situation, i.e., whether the appellate court looks only at the reason or reasons stated by the trial judge in granting the motion, or at any reason advanced by the moving party in the trial court, the appellate court looks also at the problem of legal preclusion--whether, as a matter of law, there is no basis for the plaintiff's claim. In such circumstances, affirmance of the judgment of nonsuit is appropriate even if that ground was not advanced below [Alpert v. Villa Romano Homeowners Assn. (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1320, 1328] .

The appellate court's review must be based on the whole record rather than on just the excerpts chosen by the appellant.

The reviewing court may not consider only supporting evidence in isolation, disregarding all contradictory evidence [Kidron v. Movie Acquisition Corp. (1995) 40 Cal. App. 4th 1571, 1581, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d. 752 ; see also Alpert v. Villa Romano Homeowners Assn. (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1320, 1327 (appellate court reviews entire record of trial court)].

Denial of a request to reopen which is accompanied by an offer of proof of evidence that will cure the deficiency is reversible error [Alpert v. Villa Romano Homeowners Assn. (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1320, 1337] .

[12] Review When Motion for Nonsuit Is Denied

If a motion for nonsuit is denied, the case is tried on the merits, and, after trial, the moving party on appeal from the judgment asserts denial of the nonsuit motion as error, a reviewing court will review the sufficiency of the evidence to support the jury's verdict, not the sufficiency of the evidence at the time of the nonsuit motion [Lowe v. San Francisco etc. Ry. Co. (1908) 154 Cal. 573, 575-576, 98 P. 678 ; Ewing v. Gill Industries, Inc. (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 601, 613, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 640] . In reviewing the denial of a motion for nonsuit, appellate courts, like trial courts, must evaluate the evidence in the light most favorable to the plaintiff. Reversal on the denial of a motion for nonsuit is only proper when no substantial evidence exists tending to prove each element of the plaintiff's case [Wright v. Beverly Fabrics, Inc. (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 346, 351, 115 Cal. Rptr 2d 503 ; Adams v. City of Fremont (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 243, 263, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 196] .

Although no reported opinion has specifically approved the use of an extraordinary writ to review the denial of a motion for nonsuit, such review may be possible when there is no plain, speedy, and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law [see Code of Civ. Proc. §§ 1068, 1086, 1103]. The denial of a motion for nonsuit, like the denial of a motion for summary judgment and the overruling of a demurrer, is not an appealable order because it is not a final judgment on the merits. As a general rule, when an order is not appealable, but is reviewable only on appeal from a subsequent judgment, various factors, such as the expense of proceeding with a trial and prejudice resulting from delay, may operate to make that remedy inadequate [Phelan v. Superior Court (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 363, 370, 217 P.2d 951 ; Whitney's at the Beach v. Superior Court (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 258, 264, 83 Cal. Rptr. 237 (writ of mandamus properly issued to review denial of motion for summary judgment)]. Further, the motion for nonsuit is the equivalent of a demurrer [Hamilton v. City of San Diego (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 838, 843, 266 Cal. Rptr. 215] , and extraordinary writs have been issued to review orders overruling demurrers [see Harden v. Superior Court (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 630, 635-636, 642, 284 P.2d 9 (writ of prohibition granted); City of Ontario v. Superior Court (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 894, 897-898, 903, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 32 (writ of mandate granted)]. For discussion of the use of extraordinary writs to review orders overruling demurrers, see Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings, § 206.29.

[13] Appeal of Expedited "Mini-Trial" Based on Offers of Proof Treated as Nonsuit

Several trial courts have attempted to streamline trial proceedings by adjudicating a case from the bench based on offers of proof [see, e.g., Stein-Brief Group, Inc. v. Home Indemnity Co. (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 364, 369, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 3 (trial court suggested "mini-trial" as alternative to summary judgment)]; however this "unusual and unorthodox procedure," without certain precautions, may result in an unnecessary reversal of the trial court's judgment because the reviewing court must treat the case as if it were the product of a motion for nonsuit after an opening statement [Panico v. Truck Ins. Exchange (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 1294, 1296, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 638] . Where both parties and the trial judge understand a procedure to be the functional equivalent of a motion for nonsuit in a jury trial based on plaintiff's opening statement, that subjects any ensuing judgment to an extremely strict standard of review--not only must all reasonable inferences be drawn in favor of the nonmoving party, but that party must be given the opportunity to amend the opening statement so as to correct its supposed defects [Panico v. Truck Ins. Exchange (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 1294, 1299, 109Cal. Rptr. 2d 638 (case reversed, noting "moral to the story is that haste makes for a lower affirmance rate")].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 389 NONSUIT AND MOTIONS FOR JUDGMENT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-389 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 389.12

§ 389.12 Motion for Judgment

[1] Basis for Motion

After a party has completed his or her presentation of evidence in a trial by the court, the other party, without waiving his or her right to offer evidence in support of his or her defense or in rebuttal in the event the motion is not granted, may move for a judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8(a)]. This motion may also be made and granted as to any cross complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8(a)]. The purpose of the motion is to enable the trial court to dispense with the need for a party to present evidence when the opposing party has failed to sustain its burden of proof. Although the motion is generally made by a defendant at the close of a plaintiff's case, the principles apply equally to a motion by plaintiff at the close of a defendant's case [see Roth v. Parker (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 542, 549, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 250 (motion may be brought by either party although generally it is defendant who brings motion); People v. Mobil Oil Corp. (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 261, 267, 267 n.6, 192 Cal. Rptr. 155 ; see also Du Zeff's Hollywood, Inc. v. Wald (1965) 235 Cal. App. 2d 678, 679-680, 45 Cal. Rptr. 584] .

[2] Rebuttal and Waiver of Rebuttal

In ruling on the motion for judgment, the court may consider all evidence received if the party against whom the motion is made has had an opportunity to present additional evidence to rebut evidence received during the presentation of evidence deemed by the presenting party to have been adverse to him or her and to rehabilitate the testimony of a witness whose credibility has been attacked by the moving party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8(a); see also § 389.12].

If the evidence calls for rebuttal and rehabilitation and a party fails to claim that opportunity despite knowledge that it should and can do so, the opportunity is waived [see People v. Mobil Oil Corp. (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 261, 274, 192 Cal. Rptr. 155] .

[3] Ruling on Motion

The court as trier of the facts must weigh the evidence and may render a judgment in the moving party's favor or may decline to render any judgment until the close of all the evidence. The court may consider all evidence received, provided that the party against whom the motion for judgment has been made has had an opportunity to present additional evidence to rebut evidence received during the presentation of evidence deemed by the presenting party to have been adverse to him or her and to rehabilitate the testimony of a witness whose credibility has been attacked by the moving party [Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8(a)]. It is the court's job under Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8 to "weigh the evidence." This means all the pertinent evidence, not just the evidence that the parties selectively brought to the court's attention when arguing the motion [County of Contra Costa v. Humore, Inc. (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 1335, 1344] . Because Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8 authorizes a trial court to weigh evidence and make findings, the court may refuse to believe witnesses and draw conclusions at odds with expert opinion [Roth v. Parker (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 542, 550, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 250] .

When a motion for judgment is made at the close of plaintiff's case, the court may consider defensive matter included in the evidence received. The opportunity to rebut is available only if the court exercises that discretion, not if the court has heard the evidence without considering it [People v. Mobil Oil Corp. (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 261, 271-272, 192 Cal. Rptr. 155 ; see also National Farm Workers Service Center, Inc. v. M. Caratan, Inc. (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 796, 807-808, 194 Cal. Rptr. 617] .

If it appears that the evidence presented supports the granting of the motion as to some but not all the issues involved in the action, the court must grant the motion as to those issues, and the action proceeds as to the issues remaining. Despite the granting of the motion, no final judgment can be entered prior to the termination of the action, but the final judgment in the action must, in addition to any matters determined in the trial, award judgment as determined by the motion as provided by statute [Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8(b)].

[4] Statement of Decision

If judgment is rendered, the court must prepare a statement of decision if required as provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 632 and 634 [Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8(a), (b); see Ch. 529, Statement of Decision]. Accordingly, either party may request a statement of decision [Code Civ. Proc. § § 631.8(a), 632].

For discussion and forms for requesting a statement of decision, see Ch. 529, Statement of Decision .

[5] Adjudication on Merits

Unless the court specifies otherwise in its order of judgment, the judgment operates as an adjudication on the merits [Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8(c)]. The court has a limited discretion under this provision, controlled by the principles applicable to the doctrine of res judicata [see American Broadcasting Cos. v. Walter Reade-Sterling, Inc. (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 401, 406-408, 117 Cal. Rptr. 617] .

After adjudication on the merits, either party may move for a new trial [see Watt v. Kantel (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 249, 252-253, 91 Cal. Rptr. 449] .

[6] Appellate Review of Judgment

On appeal from a judgment entered under Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8, the trial court's decision will be upheld if it is supported by any substantial evidence [Rodde v. Continental Ins. Co. (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 420, 423, 152 Cal. Rptr. 500 ; Heap v. General Motors Corp. (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 824, 829-830, 136 Cal. Rptr. 304 ; see San Diego Metropolitan Transit Development Bd. v. Handlery Hotel, Inc. (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 517, 528, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 473 (appellate court applies deferential substantial evidence standard); County of Contra Costa v. Humore, Inc. (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 1335, 1343 (appellate court reviews judgment under substantial evidence rule); Wilson v. S.L. Rey, Inc. (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 234, 241, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 552] .

Consequently, when a trial court's factual finding is challenged on the ground there is no substantial evidence to sustain it, the power of the reviewing court begins and ends with the determination as to whether, on the whole record, there is substantial evidence, contradicted or uncontradicted, that will support the trial court's determination [San Diego Metropolitan Transit Development Bd. v. Handlery Hotel, Inc. (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 517, 528, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 473] .

Generally, the court's findings are liberally construed in favor of the judgment [Native Sun Investment Group v. Ticor Title Ins. Co. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1265, 1272, 235 Cal. Rptr. 34] . The appellate court views the evidence in the light most favorable to the respondents, resolving all evidentiary conflicts in favor of the prevailing party and indulging all reasonable inferences possible to uphold the trial court's findings [San Diego Metropolitan Transit Development Bd. v. Handlery Hotel, Inc. (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 517, 528, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 473] . When the appellant did not request any more specific findings than those read into the record by the trial court, the reviewing court may also resort to implied findings to uphold the judgment [Native Sun Investment Group v. Ticor Title Ins. Co. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1265, 1272, 235 Cal. Rptr. 34] .

On the other hand, when the decisive facts are undisputed, the reviewing court is confronted with a question of law and is not bound by the trial court's findings. In other words, the appellate court is not bound by the trial court's interpretation of the law based on undisputed facts, but rather is free to draw its own conclusion of law. Thus, the appellate court will exercise a de novo review when confronted with a question of law and specifically the application of the law to the facts [San Diego Metropolitan Transit Development Bd. v. Handlery Hotel, Inc. (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 517, 528, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 473] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 389 NONSUIT AND MOTIONS FOR JUDGMENT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-389 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 389.13

§ 389.13 Code Civ. Proc. § 1038 Motion for Defense Costs

A defendant as to whom an action is dismissed by the granting of a motion for nonsuit is entitled to costs [Code Civ. Proc. § 1032(a)(4), (b)].

If the action is brought under the California Tort Claims Act or is for express or implied indemnity or for contribution in any civil action, defense costs may be available when a motion for judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8 or a motion for nonsuit is granted. The award is based on the court's determination that the action was not brought with reasonable cause and in the good faith belief that there was a justifiable controversy under the facts and law that warranted the filing of the complaint, cross complaint, or complaint in intervention. The defendant or cross defendant may move for this determination when the motion for judgment or nonsuit is granted [Code Civ. Proc. § 1038].

For discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 1038, see Ch. 510, Sanctions .

For further discussion of costs and attorney's fees, see Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees .

181 of 189 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 389 NONSUIT AND MOTIONS FOR JUDGMENT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-389 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 389.14-389.29

[Reserved]

§§ 389.14[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 389 NONSUIT AND MOTIONS FOR JUDGMENT
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-389 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 389.30

§ 389.30 State Statutes

Time for motion for nonsuit. Code Civ. Proc. § 581c(a)

Order for judgment of nonsuit as adjudication on merits unless court otherwise specifies. Code Civ. Proc. § 581c(c)

In lieu of entering judgment, court as permitted to grant motion for nonsuit as to some but not all issues involved. Code Civ. Proc. § 581c(b)

In personal injury or property damage case, defendants as precluded from referring at trial to fault, absence from action, or involvement of defendant whose motion for nonsuit has been granted. Code Civ. Proc. § 581c(d)

Written order, signed by court, and filed in action as required for all dismissals ordered by court. Code Civ. Proc. § 581d

Opposing party as authorized to move for judgment after a party has completed the presentation of evidence in a trial by the court. Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8(a)

In lieu of entering judgment, court as permitted to grant motion for judgment as to some but not all issues involved. Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8(b)

Judgment granted pursuant to a motion for judgment as adjudication on the merits unless it specifies otherwise. Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8(c)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 389 NONSUIT AND MOTIONS FOR JUDGMENT
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-389 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 389.31

§ 389.31 Decisions

[1] Motion for Judgment

Purpose of Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8 is to enable trial court to dispense with need for defendant to produce evidence when court, after weighing the evidence at close of plaintiff's case, is persuaded plaintiff failed to sustain his or her burden of proof; thus, Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8 serves same purpose as does Code Civ. Proc. § 581c, which permits court to grant nonsuit in a jury trial; thus, to prevail on defendants motion for judgment, defendants had to demonstrate that plaintiff failed to sustain plaintiff's burden of proof on all theories presented. Brown v. Boren (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 1303, 1319, 88 Cal. Rptr. 2d 758

Standard of review of judgment and its underlying findings entered under Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8 is same as judgment granted after trial in which evidence was produced by both sides; findings supporting judgment are not erroneous if supported by substantial evidence; when trial court's factual finding is challenged, power of reviewing court begins and ends with determination whether, on whole record, there is substantial evidence, contradicted or uncontradicted, that will support trial court's determination; appellate court views evidence in light most favorable to respondents, resolving all evidentiary conflicts in favor of prevailing party and indulging all reasonable inferences possible to uphold trial court's findings; when decisive facts are undisputed, however, reviewing court is confronted with question of law and is not bound by trial court's findings, and appellate court will exercise de novo review when confronted with question of law and specifically application of law to facts. San Diego Metropolitan Transit Development Bd. v. Handlery Hotel, Inc. (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 517, 528, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 473

Purpose of Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8 is to enable trial court to dispense with need for defendant to produce evidence when after weighing evidence at close of plaintiff's case court is persuaded plaintiff failed to sustain its burden of proof; Section 631.8 serves same purpose as does Code Civ. Proc. § 581c, which permits court to grant motion for nonsuit in jury trial; however, unlike motion for nonsuit, Section 631.8 motion may be brought by either party; substantial evidence standard of review applies to judgment given under Section 631.8; trial court's grant of motion will not be reversed if its finding are supported by substantial evidence; because Section 631.8 authorizes trial court to weigh evidence and make findings, court may refuse to believe witnesses and draw conclusions at odds with expert opinion. Roth v. Parker (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 542, 549-550, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 250

Trial court did not err in granting one defendant's Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8 motion for judgment after court granted defendant's motion at outset of trial to try first issue of whether defendant adequately amended its release, court varied order of proof to permit defendant to proceed first, defendant presented evidence regarding issue and plaintiff declined court's invitation to present rebuttal evidence. Olsen v. Breeze, Inc. (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 608, 626, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 818

Motion for judgment allows trial court to dispense with need for defendant to produce evidence if, after weighing evidence at close of plaintiff's case, it is persuaded that plaintiff has failed to sustain its burden of proof; in weighing evidence, court may exercise its prerogatives as fact finder by refusing to believe witnesses and by drawing conclusions at odds with expert opinion. Kirk Corp. v. First American Title Co. (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 785, 806, 270 Cal. Rptr. 24

In reviewing judgment granted under Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8 in favor of defendant after plaintiff's presentation of evidence in court trial, evidence is viewed most favorably to defendant, and judgment must be supported by substantial evidence; reviewing court determines whether judgment is supported by any competent and substantial evidence; when two or more inferences can be reasonably deduced from evidence, reviewing court is without power to substitute its deduction for those of trial court. Kirk Corp. v. First American Title Co. (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 785, 806, 270 Cal. Rptr. 24

Trial court is required to weigh evidence in determining motion for judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8; if two or more inferences reasonably can be drawn from facts, appellate court as without power to substitute its deductions for those of trial court. Clark v. Rancho Santa Fe Assn. (1989) 216 Cal. App. 3d 606, 619 n.13, 265 Cal. Rptr. 41

Review of grant of motion for judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8 as governed by substantial evidence rule. Bay General Community Hospital v. County of San Diego (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 944, 949 n.1, 203 Cal. Rptr. 184 (disapproved on other grounds in County of San Diego v. State of California (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 68, 101 n.23, 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 134, 931 P.2d 312)

Substantial evidence rule applies to motions for judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8, and trial court as having properly based its findings of fact in ruling on motion on substantial evidence presented during plaintiff's case in chief. People v. Mobil Oil Corp. (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 261, 275, 192 Cal. Rptr. 155

Granting of motion for judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8 in favor of defendants as proper when plaintiff had trial at which evidence was submitted and considered and found insufficient to prove plaintiff's cause of action. Don Wilson Builders v. City of Torrance (1981) 126 Cal. App. 3d 114, 119-120, 178 Cal. Rptr. 690

Necessity of defense evidence as eliminated when motion for judgment proper. Rodde v. Continental Ins. Co. (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 420, 423, 152 Cal. Rptr. 500

Motion for judgment as proper motion after plaintiff's presentation of evidence in trial by court. Commonwealth Memorial, Inc. v. Telophase Soc'y of America (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 867, 869 n.1, 134 Cal. Rptr. 58 (motion for judgment as properly granted when plaintiff was not real party in interest in action for unlawful detainer)

Award of nominal damages to plaintiff as equivalent to judgment in favor of defendant. Du Zeff's Hollywood, Inc. v. Wald (1965) 235 Cal. App. 2d 678, 680-681, 45 Cal. Rptr. 584

[2] Motion for Nonsuit

[a] Appeal

On review of grant of nonsuit after opening statement, appellate court accepts as true all facts plaintiff asserted in opening statement and indulges every legitimate inference those facts support. Hoff v. Vacaville Unified School Dist. (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 925, 930, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 811, 968 P.2d 522

In reviewing judgment entered on grant of motion for nonsuit after close of plaintiff's case-in-chief, appellate court reviews entire record of trial court and views evidence in light most favorable to appellant; appellate court does not weigh evidence or consider credibility of witnesses; judgment cannot be sustained unless, interpreting evidence most favorably to plaintiff's case and most strongly against defendant and resolving all presumptions, inferences, and doubts in favor of plaintiff, judgment for defendant is required as matter of law; doctrine that sufficient evidentiary bases to reverse judgment of nonsuit is created by scintilla of evidence has been rejected; appellate court considers grounds which are both advanced by moving party and ruled on by trial court; split of authority exists over whether appellate court may consider grounds argued by defendant, but not relied on by trial court, in granting motion; in any event, appellate court considers whether, as matter of law, there is no basis for plaintiff's claim; in such circumstances, affirmance of judgment of nonsuit is appropriate even if that ground was not advanced below; denial of request to reopen which is accompanied by offer of proof of evidence that will cure deficiency is reversible error. Alpert v. Villa Romano Homeowners Assn. (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1320, 1327

Appellate court independently reviews trial court's decision to grant nonsuit, using same standard employed by trial court; when trial court granted defendant's motion for nonsuit following presentation of plaintiff's evidence at trial, defendant was entitled to nonsuit only if evidence presented by plaintiff was insufficient as matter of law to permit jury to find in plaintiff's favor; in deciding sufficiency of evidence, appellate court does not weigh evidence or consider witnesses' credibility; appellate court accepts evidence most favorable to plaintiff, gives that evidence all the weight to which it is legally entitled, disregards conflicting evidence, and resolves all presumptions, inferences, and doubts against defendant; appellate court may affirm nonsuit only if plaintiff's case is not supported by substantial evidence and defendant is entitled to judgment as matter of law. Lund v. Bally's Aerobic Plus, Inc. (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 733, 737, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 169

In reviewing judgment of nonsuit, appellate court accepts plaintiff's version of the facts, giving plaintiff benefit of all legitimate inferences and disregarding conflicting evidence. Lupash v. City of Seal Beach (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 1428, 1433, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 920

On review of trial court's granting of nonsuit, appellate court must resolve all conflicts in evidence and draw all reasonable inferences in plaintiff's favor. See Stapper v. GMI Holdings, Inc. (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 787, 791, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 688

Nonsuit may be granted only when, disregarding conflicting evidence on defendant's behalf and giving plaintiff's evidence all value it is legally entitled, indulging in every legitimate inference that may be drawn from that evidence, result is determination that there is no evidence of sufficient substantiality to support verdict in plaintiff's favor; neither appellate court nor trial court may weigh evidence nor consider witnesses' credibility. McComber v. Wells (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 512, 521, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 376

With regard to nonsuit after conclusion of opening statement, both trial court and appellate court must accept all facts asserted in opening statement as true and must indulge every legitimate inference that may be drawn from those facts; nonsuit on opening statement disfavored and can only be upheld on appeal if, after accepting all asserted facts as true and indulging every legitimate inference in favor of plaintiff, it can be said those facts and inferences lead inexorably to conclusion plaintiff cannot establish essential element of its cause of action or has inadvertently established uncontrovertible proof of affirmative defense. Galanek v. Wismar (1999) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1417, 1424, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 236

In reviewing grant of nonsuit, appellate court follows same rules requiring evidence to be evaluated in light most favorable to plaintiff and least favorable to defendant; all presumptions, inferences and doubts resolved against defendant; appellate court may not affirm, unless judgment for defendant is required as matter of law. Burlesci v. Petersen (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1062, 1065, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 704

Appellate courts, like trial courts, must in reviewing denial of motion for nonsuit evaluate evidence in light most favorable to plaintiff; reversal on denial of motion for nonsuit only proper when no substantial evidence exists tending to prove each element of plaintiff's case. Adams v. City of Fremont (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 243, 263, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 196

Appellate court must accept all facts asserted in opening statement as true and must indulge every legitimate inference which may be drawn from those facts; nonsuit at this early stage is disfavored and can only be upheld on appeal if, after accepting all asserted facts as true and indulging every legitimate inference in favor of plaintiff, it can be said those facts and inferences lead inexorably to conclusion plaintiff cannot establish essential element of its cause of action. Stein-Brief Group, Inc. v. Home Indemnity Co. (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 364, 369, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 3

In reviewing judgment of nonsuit, court must give plaintiff's evidence all value to which it is legally entitled, drawing every legitimate inference from evidence and disregarding conflicting evidence; plaintiff must produce evidence supporting at least logical inference of liability, not merely speculation or conjecture; if there is no substantial evidence of liability, court must affirm grant of nonsuit. Daum v. SpineCare Medical Group, Inc. (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 1285, 1318, 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 260

Nonsuit should not have been granted on basis of answer to request for admission when there was other conflicting evidence; unlike with denial of party's right to amend a response to a request for admission, where the standard of review is abuse of discretion, much stricter standard of review applies to grant of judgments of nonsuit; court's power to direct verdict is same as court's power to grant nonsuit; nonsuit or directed verdict may be granted only when disregarding conflicting evidence and giving plaintiff's evidence all value it is legally entitled to, including indulging in every legitimate inference that may be drawn from evidence, result is that there is no evidence of sufficient substantiality to support verdict in plaintiff's favor if such a verdict were given; unless it can be said as matter of law that, when so considered, no other reasonable conclusion is legally deducible from the evidence and that any other holding would be so lacking in evidentiary support that a reviewing court would reverse on appeal, or the trial court would set it aside as matter of law, a trial court is not justified in taking the case from the jury. CC-California Plaza Associates v. Paller & Goldstein (1996) 51 Cal. App. 4th 1042, 1049-1052, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 382

On appeal from order granting nonsuit, appellate court considers grounds specified by moving party unless there is incurable defect; nonsuit granted after opening statement is disfavored and can only be upheld if, accepting all asserted facts as true and indulging every legitimate inference that may be drawn from those facts in plaintiff's favor, those facts and inferences inexorably lead to conclusion that plaintiff cannot establish essential element of cause of action, or has established uncontrovertible proof of an affirmative defense. Adkins v. State of California (1996) 50 Cal. App. 4th 1802, 1809, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 59

Although judgment of nonsuit must not be reversed if plaintiff's proof raises nothing more than speculation, suspicion, or conjecture, reversal is warranted if there is some substance to plaintiff's evidence on which reasonable minds could differ; only grounds specified by moving party in support of its motion should be considered by appellate court in reviewing judgment of nonsuit. Heller v. Pillsbury Madison & Sutro (1996) 50 Cal. App. 4th 1367, 1384-1385, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 336

An appellate court in reviewing a judgment of nonsuit will review the evidence in the light most favorable to the party appealing the nonsuit. Hodges v. Mark (1996) 49 Cal. App. 4th 651, 657, 56 Cal. Rptr. 2d 700

On appeal from judgment of nonsuit, reviewing court as guided by same rule as trial court in requiring evaluation of evidence in light most favorable to plaintiff. LaMonte v. Sanwa Bank California (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 509, 517, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 861

Because motions for nonsuit raise issues of law, appellate court reviews rulings on those motions de novo employing same standard that governs the trial court; court may sustain granting of motion on any ground specified in motion whether or not it was ground relied on by trial court. Saunders v. Taylor (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 1538, 1541-1542, 50 Cal. Rptr. 2d 395 (noting and disagreeing with several appellate opinions which state that appellate court is restricted to specific ground or grounds relied on by trial court in granting motion)

In determining whether nonsuit was properly granted, reviewing court must resolve every conflict in testimony in plaintiff's favor and at same time indulge in every presumption and inference that could reasonably support plaintiff's case; rules governing granting of nonsuit, however, do not relieve plaintiff of burden of establishing elements of plaintiff's case; thus plaintiff must produce evidence that supports logical inference in plaintiff's favor and which does more than merely permit speculation or conjecture; if plaintiff produces no substantial evidence of liability or proximate cause, than granting of nonsuit proper. Westside Center Associates v. Safeway Stores 23, Inc. (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 507, 531, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 793

Plaintiff cannot prevail on appeal unless plaintiff can demonstrate substantial evidence in record to support each claim asserted; mere conjecture or nonsensical interpretations of evidence not sufficient to overturn nonsuit; rules governing granting nonsuit do not relieve plaintiff of burden of establishing elements of plaintiff's case; plaintiff must therefore produce evidence that supports logical inference in plaintiff's favor and which does more than merely permit speculation or conjecture; if plaintiff produces no substantial evidence of liability or proximate cause, then granting of nonsuit is proper; while court may infer facts from evidence, inferences must be logical and reasonable; decision about what inferences can be drawn by fact finder are questions of law for court's determination in that an inference may not be illogically and unreasonably drawn, nor can inference be based on mere possibility or flow from suspicion, imagination, speculation, supposition, surmise, conjecture or guesswork. Kidron v. Movie Acquisition Corp. (1995) 40 Cal. App. 4th 1571, 1580-1581, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 752

When motion for nonsuit was granted, reviewing court is required to evaluate evidence in light most favorable to plaintiff; court will not sustain judgment unless, interpreting evidence most favorably to plaintiff's case and most strongly against defendant and resolving all presumptions, inferences, and doubts in plaintiff's favor, judgment for defendant is required as matter of law. Unigard Ins. Group v. O'Flaherty & Belgum (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 1229, 1235, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 565

Nonsuits disfavored and appellate courts will not sustain them unless, interpreting evidence most favorably to plaintiff's case and most stronglyagainst defendant and resolving all presumptions, inferences and doubts in plaintiff's favor, judgment in defendant's favor is required as matter of law. Resolution Trust Corp. v. Rossmoor Corp. (1995) 34 Cal. App. 4th 93, 99, 40 Cal. Rptr. 2d 328

On appeal from judgment of nonsuit, reviewing court as not limited to consideration of grounds stated by trial court if defect is one which could not have been remedied had it been called to plaintiff's attention by motion. DeVaughn Peace, M.D., Inc. v. St. Francis Medical Center (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 454, 459, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 459

On motion for nonsuit, both trial and appellate courts as viewing evidence requiring higher burden of proof, such as claim for punitive damages, with that higher burden in mind. Hoch v. Allied-Signal, Inc. (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 48, 59-61, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615

Appeal from judgment of nonsuit in defendant's favor at close of plaintiff's opening statement as upheld only if, after accepting all asserted facts as true and indulging every legitimate inference in plaintiff's favor, it can be said those facts and inferences lead inexorably to conclusion that plaintiff cannot esablish essential element of cause of action or has inadvertently established uncontrovertible proof of affirmative defense. Abeyta v. Superior Court (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 1037, 1041, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 680

If plaintiff's evidence, when most favorably viewed, provides substantial evidence in support of each element of prima facie case without any affirmative defense, nonsuit as improper and to be reversed. Diesel Electric Sales & Service, Inc. v. Marco Marine San Diego, Inc. (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 202, 211, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 62

On appeal from judgment of nonsuit in favor of defendant at close of plaintiff's case, issue as whether plaintiff presented any substantial issue of fact for determination of jury, giving plaintiff's evidence all value to which it is legally entitled and indulging in every legitimate inference. Walgren v. Dolan (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 572, 575, 276 Cal. Rptr. 554 ; Harris v. Smith (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 100, 104, 203 Cal. Rptr 541

On appeal from judgment of nonsuit, reviewing court as bound by same rules governing trial court in ruling on motion for nonsuit, and only grounds specified by moving party in support of its motion as to be considered by appellate court in reviewing judgment of nonsuit. Marvin v. Adams (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 956, 960, 274 Cal. Rptr. 308 ; Acme Galvanizing Co. v. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 170, 174, 270 Cal. Rptr. 405

In reviewing judgment of nonsuit, appellate court as evaluating evidence in light most favorable to plaintiff; judgment as not sustained unless, interpreting evidence most favorably to plaintiff's case and most strongly against defendant and resolving all presumptions, inferences, and doubts in favor of plaintiff, judgment for defendant is required as matter of law; however, judgment of nonsuit as not reversed if plaintiff's proof raises nothing more than speculation, suspicion, or conjecture. Conservatorship of Everette M. (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 1567, 1573, 1574, 269 Cal. Rptr. 182

Variance between pleading and proof as not constituting error if no prejudice is shown and no objection to evidence or motion for nonsuit was made at trial. Stokes v. Henson (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 187, 196, 265 Cal. Rptr. 836

On appeal from judgment of nonsuit, reviewing court as guided by same rule as trial court, that is, evaluation of evidence in light most favorable to plaintiff. De Lima v. Magnesite Waterproofing & Refinishing (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 776, 779, 236 Cal. Rptr. 519

Reversal of judgment on nonsuit requires some substance to plaintiff's evidence on which reasonable minds could differ, and proof raising mere speculation, surmise, or conjecture is insufficient. Travelers Insurance Co. v. Lesher (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 169, 203, 231 Cal. Rptr. 791 , disapproved on other grounds, Buss v. Superior Court (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 35, 50 n.12, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 366, 939 P.2d 766)

Because motion for nonsuit is designed to call attention to correctable defects, granting motion after plaintiff's opening statement as upheld only if it is clear counsel has stated all facts. Rokos v. Peck (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 604, 611, 227 Cal. Rptr. 480

[b] Nature of Motion for Nonsuit

Motion has effect of demurrer to evidence; it concedes truth of facts proved and contends those facts are not sufficient as matter of law to sustain plaintiff's case. Alpert v. Villa Romano Homeowners Assn. (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1320, 1328

Motion for nonsuit tantamount to demurrer to evidence; it admits truth of facts proved, but denies they sustain plaintiff's case as matter of law. Stein-Brief Group, Inc. v. Home Indemnity Co. (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 364, 369, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 3 ; Adkins v. State of California (1996) 50 Cal. App. 4th 1802, 1809, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 59

Defendant is entitled to nonsuit if trial court determines that, as matter of law, evidence presented by plaintiff is insufficient to permit jury to find in plaintiff's favor. Heller v. Pillsbury Madison & Sutro (1996) 50 Cal. App. 4th 1367, 1384, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 336

Under Code Civ. Proc. § 581c, permitting court to grant nonsuit in jury trial, motion as equivalent to demurrer to evidence or motion for directed verdict. Hamilton v. City of San Diego (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 838, 843, 266 Cal. Rptr. 215

Motion for nonsuit as allowing defendant to challenge sufficiency of plaintiff's evidence; court as required to give to plaintiff's evidence all value to which it is legally entitled, indulging every legitimate inference that may be drawn from evidence in plaintiff's favor. Coats v. K-Mart Corp. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 961, 968-969, 264 Cal. Rptr. 12

[c] Plaintiff's Postmotion Procedure

Trial court's denial of plaintiff's motion to reopen after motion for nonsuit is proper when additional evidence sought to be produced by plaintiff is irrelevant or would not be sufficient to rend defendants liable as matter of law. S.C. Anderson, Inc. v. Bank of America (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 529, 538-539, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 286

Plaintiff as waiving ability to repoen and present additional evidence to cure defects after motion for nonsuit because he failed to specify what additional evidence would be presented or how additional evidence would cure defects. Consolidated World Investments, Inc. v. Lido Preferred Ltd. (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 373, 382, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 524

Plaintiff as waiving opportunity to modify or add to opening statement after motion for nonsuit. John Norton Farms, Inc. v. Todagco (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 149, 162, 177 Cal. Rptr. 215

[d] Res Ipsa Loquitur

Nonsuit as improper in medical malpractice case when evidence was sufficient to raise doctrine of res ipsa loquitur. Hale v. Venuto (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 910, 919-920, 187 Cal. Rptr. 357

[e] Ruling on Motion

Nonsuit may be granted only when, disregarding conflicting evidence on defendant's behalf and giving plaintiff's evidence all value it is legally entitled, therein indulging in every legitimate inference that may be drawn from that evidence, result is determination that there is no evidence of sufficient substantiality to support verdict in plaintiff's favor; neither appellate court nor trial court may weigh evidence nor consider witnesses' credibility. McComber v. Wells (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 512, 521, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 376

In deciding if nonsuit after opening statement is proper, trial court and reviewing court must assume plaintiff can prove all favorable facts presented in opening statement; nonsuit on opening statement disfavored and should be avoided unless there is clear and unequivocal demonstration of total lack of a cause of action by plaintiff. Galanek v. Wismar (1999) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1417, 1421, 1424, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 236

Defendant entitled to nonsuit if trial court determines evidence presented by plaintiff is insufficient as matter of law to permit jury to find in plaintiff's favor; court may not weigh evidence or consider credibility of witnesses; instead, court must accept evidence most favorable to plaintiff as true and disregard conflicting evidence; plaintiff's evidence must be given all value to which it is legally entitled, including every legitimate inference that may be drawn in plaintiff's favor; mere scintilla of evidence, however, not enough; substantial evidence creating a conflict for jury to resolve required. Burlesci v. Petersen (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1062, 1065, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 704

Defendant entitled to nonsuit if trial court determines as matter of law plaintiff's evidence insufficient to allow jury to find in plaintiff's favor. Adams v. City of Fremont (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 243, 262, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 196

Motion for nonsuit or demurrer to evidence admits facts proved to be true, but denies that they sustain plaintiff's case as matter of law. Mechanical Contractors Assn. v. Greater Bay Area Assn. (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 672, 677, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 225

In determining whether plaintiff's evidence is sufficient, court may not weigh evidence or consider credibility of witnesses; rather, evidence most favorable to plaintiff must be accepted as true and conflicting evidence must be disregarded; court must give to plaintiff's evidence all the value to which it is legally entitled, indulging every legitimate inference which may be drawn from the evidence in plaintiff's favor; substantial evidence, rather than mere scintilla of evidence, needed to create conflict for jury resolution. Heller v. Pillsbury Madison & Sutro (1996) 50 Cal. App. 4th 1367, 1384, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 336

In ruling on motion for nonsuit based on plaintiff's opening statement, trial court must assume plaintiff will be able to prove all favorable facts alleged. Aspen Enterprises, Inc. v. Bodge (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 1811, 1817, 44 Cal. Rptr. 2d 763

Defendant is entitled to nonsuit if trial court determines as matter of law that plaintiff's evidence does not permit jury to find in plaintiff's favor; in determining whether plaintiff's evidence is sufficient, court may not weight evidence or consider witness's credibility; court must accept as true the evidence most favorable to plaintiff and must disregard conflicting evidence; court must give plaintiff's evidence all value to which it is legally entitled, indulging every legitimate inference that may be drawn from evidence in plaintiff's favor; mere scintilla of evidence does not create conflict for jury's resolution; must be substantial evidence to create necessary conflict. Unigard Ins. Group v. O'Flaherty & Belgum (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 1229, 1234-1235, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 565

Nonsuit was improperly granted where trial court improperly failed to draw every inference in favor of plaintiff and improperly considered and determined credibility of plaintiff's expert witness. McNall v. Summers (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1300, 1314-1315, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 914

Nonsuit is properly granted only if, as matter of law, evidence presented by plaintiff is insufficient to permit a jury to find in plaintif's favor. Wilson v. Century 21 Great Western Realty (1993) 15 Cal. App. 4th 298, 301, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 779

In determining sufficiency of plaintiff's evidence on motion for nonsuit, evidence is not weighed and credibility of witnesses is not considered; evidence most favorable to plaintiff is accepted as true and conflicting evidence is disregarded. Campbell v. General Motors Corp. (1982) 32 Cal. 3d. 112, 118, 184 Cal. Rptr. 891, 649 P.2d 224 ; Diesel Electric Sales & Service, Inc. v. Marco Marine San Diego, Inc. (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 202, 210, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 62 ; Bolin v. San Bernardino City Unified School Dist. (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 759, 767, 202 Cal. Rptr. 416 ; Harris v. Trojan Fireworks Co. (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 830, 834-835, 202 Cal. Rptr. 440 ; Downer v. Bramet (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 837, 842, 199 Cal. Rptr. 830

Nonsuit granted on cross complaint for misappropriation of trade secrets was proper when cross complainint presented no evidence of damages specific to that dispute and relevant to applicable measure of damages. Unilogic, Inc. v. Burroughs Corp. (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 612, 627, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 741

Nonsuit was improperly granted after plaintiff's opening statement in products liability market-share theory case when plaintiff made offer of proof as to each prima facie element. Wheeler v. Raybestos-Manhattan (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 1152, 1158, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 109

In action by parents of child who suffered injuries arising from alleged medical malpractice, nonsuit at close of plaintiff's case was proper because parents had not filed tort claim against government (although claim had been filed on behalf of child), which was procedural prerequisite to filing suit. Nguyen v. Los Angeles County Harbor/UCLA Medical Center (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 729, 732-735, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 709

Trial court is not permitted to grant motion for nonsuit if evidence presented by plaintiff would support jury verdict; in reviewing plaintiff's evidence, trial court is not permitted to weigh evidence or to consider credibility of witnesses; instead, trial court is required to accept evidence most favorable to plaintiff as true, disregard conflicting evidence, and indulge every legitimate inference that may be drawn therefrom in plaintiff's favor. Marvin v. Adams (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 956, 960, 274 Cal. Rptr. 308 ; Acme Galvanizing Co. v. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 170, 173-174, 270 Cal. Rptr. 405

Nonsuit in action against title insurance company for conspiracy to defraud was improperly granted under Code Civ. Proc. § 338(d) (three-year limitation on actions for fraud). Aaroe v. First American Title Ins. Co. (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 124, 127-129, 271 Cal. Rptr. 434

In motion for nonsuit, trial court disregards conflicting evidence on behalf of defendants and gives to plaintiff's evidence all value to which it is legally entitled; neither appellate court nor lower court may weigh evidence or consider credibility of witnesses. Bell v. Sharp Cabrillo Hospital (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1034, 1043 n.10, 260 Cal. Rptr. 886 ; Delgado v. Heritage Life Ins. Co. (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 262, 275, 203 Cal. Rptr. 672 ; Morgenroth v. Pacific Medical Center, Inc. (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 521, 530, 126 Cal. Rptr. 681

Motion for nonsuit is not granted if plaintiff's evidence would support jury verdict in plaintiff's favor. Zavala v. Board of Trustees (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 1755, 1763, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 768 ; De Lima v. Magnesite Waterproofing & Refinishing (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 776, 779, 236 Cal. Rptr. 519 ; Mast v. Magpusao (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 775, 777, 225 Cal. Rptr. 689

Court is restricted to considering grounds specified by defendant when ruling on motion for nonsuit after plaintiff's opening statement. Hurn v. Woods (1982) 132 Cal. App. 3d 896, 900, 183 Cal. Rptr. 495

Nonsuit is proper when contract described in opening statement is unenforceable as contrary to public policy. Russell v. Soldinger (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 633, 642, 131 Cal. Rptr. 145

Nonsuit is proper when it is plainly evident that the facts plaintiff's counsel intends to prove will not constitute cause of action. Smith v. Roach (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 893, 898, 126 Cal. Rptr. 29

[f] Timeliness of Motion

Nonsuit after plaintiff's presentation of evidence is permitted only if no evidence of sufficient substantiality exists to support verdict for plaintiff; if existence of facts sufficient to support recovery can logically and reasonably be inferred from evidence, motion must be denied, regardless of whether evidence is also susceptible to conflicting inferences; however, proof that raises mere speculation, suspicion, surmise, guess, or conjecture is insufficient. Ashcraft v. King (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 604, 610-611, 278 Cal. Rptr. 900

Motion for nonsuit following presentation of plaintiff's evidence is properly granted when evidence is insufficient as matter of law to sustain verdict for plaintiff. Williams v. Foster (1989) 216 Cal. App. 3d 510, 522, 265 Cal. Rptr. 15

Nonsuit at completion of plaintiff's opening statement is improper when statement is not plainly insufficient as matter of law; court properly considers potential evidence in case that has been stipulated to by all parties when ruling on motion for nonsuit after plaintiff's opening statement. John Norton Farms, Inc. v. Todagco (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 149, 162-163, 171-172, 177 Cal. Rptr. 215

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 389 NONSUIT AND MOTIONS FOR JUDGMENT
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-389 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 389.32

§ 389.32 Text References

Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 7, Trial, §§ 416-429 (4th ed. 1997)

185 of 189 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 389 NONSUIT AND MOTIONS FOR JUDGMENT
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-389 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 389.33through 389.39

[Reserved]

§§ 389.33[Reserved]

186 of 189 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 389 NONSUIT AND MOTIONS FOR JUDGMENT
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST

34-389 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 389.40

§ 389.40 Moving Party's Checklist

☐ Determine if motion for nonsuit or for judgment may be made.

☐ If the sufficiency of plaintiff's evidence as described in plaintiff's opening statement in any trial or as presented by plaintiff in a jury trial is subject to challenge, prepare to file a motion for nonsuit [see Code Civ. Proc. § 581c(a)].

☐ If the sufficiency of the evidence presented by the opposing party when trial is by the court is subject to challenge, prepare to file motion for judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8(a)].

☐ Determine whether the evidence supports the granting of the motion as to some but not all the issues involved in the action [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 581c(b), 631.8(b)].

☐ Determine specific grounds for motion for nonsuit.

☐ Draft and file motion for nonsuit or judgment.

☐ Decide whether to make oral or written motion.

☐ If oral motion is to be made, consider first requesting permission to approach the bench, in order to make the motion there.

☐ Specify the grounds for the motion.

- ☐ Specify the claims of the opposing party challenged under the motion.

☐ Argue the motion.

☐ If the motion for nonsuit is granted:

- ☐ Prepare proposed order [for forms, see §§ 389.50, 389.51].
- ☐ Prepare claim for costs and reimbursements and, if entitled, a claim for attorney's fees.
- ☐ File proposed order and any request for costs.
- ☐ Argue for adoption of proposed order and granting of any request for costs.

☐ If the motion for judgment is granted:

- ☐ Consider requesting a statement of decision.
- ☐ Consider moving for new trial if judgment is not satisfactory.

☐ If motion for nonsuit is granted as to some issues.

- ☐ Make sure court record indicates clearly which issues have been nonsuited.
- ☐ Prepare for trial or other pretrial challenge on remaining issues.

☐ If motion for nonsuit or judgment is denied:

- ☐ Consider renewing the motion later, if grounds exist.
- ☐ Consider seeking appellate review of the denial.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 389 NONSUIT AND MOTIONS FOR JUDGMENT
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST

34-389 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 389.41-389.49

[Reserved]

§§ 389.41[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 389 NONSUIT AND MOTIONS FOR JUDGMENT
PART V. FORMS

34-389 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 389.50

§ 389.50 Order Granting Judgment of Nonsuit [Code Civ. Proc. § 581c(a)]

[1] FORM Order Granting Judgment of Nonsuit [Code Civ. Proc. § 581c(a)]
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)	NO. _____
Plaintiff,	)	ORDER GRANTING MOTION FOR JUDGMENT OF NONSUIT
vs.	)	Date: _____
_____ [name],	)	Time: _____
Defendant.	)	Location: _____
	)	Judge: _____
	)	Date Action Filed: _____
	)	Trial Date: _____

The motion of defendant _____[name] for an order granting judgment of nonsuit pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure Section 581c(a) on plaintiff's _____ [opening statement or presentation of evidence] was heard by the court on _____[date]. Defendant appeared by counsel _____ [name]; plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name].

Plaintiff having rested his/her case and good cause for an order for judgment of nonsuit having been shown in that _____ [specify ground argued on motion],

IT IS ORDERED, ADJUDGED, AND DECREED that the motion of defendant be, and hereby is, granted, that plaintiff take nothing by the complaint on file herein, that this order shall [not] operate as an adjudication on the merits, and that defendant recover from plaintiff his/her costs in the sum of $_____ [and attorney's fees in the sum of $_____].

Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]

Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

The form of order in [1], above, is for use in granting defendant's motion for a judgment of nonsuit pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 581c(a). Once the order is signed by the court and filed in the action, it constitutes a judgment and is effective for all purposes [see Code Civ. Proc. § 581d]. It constitutes an adjudication on the merits unless the court specifies otherwise [Code Civ. Proc. § 581c(c)].

Findings of fact are not necessary for a judgment of nonsuit [Nelson v. Specialty Records, Inc. (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 126, 142, 89 Cal. Rptr. 540] .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 389 NONSUIT AND MOTIONS FOR JUDGMENT
PART V. FORMS

34-389 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 389.51

§ 389.51 Judgment on Motion for Judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8(a)]--By Defendant or Plaintiff

[1] FORM Judgment on Motion for Judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8(a)]--By Defendant or Plaintiff
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name]	)	JUDGMENT
Defendant.	)
	)
	)

This cause came on regularly for trial on _____[date], [in _____ (Department or Division) _____ of] the above-entitled court, the Honorable _____, Judge presiding[, sitting without a jury]. Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name]; defendant appeared by counsel _____[name]. Evidence, both oral and documentary, having been presented by [both] plaintiff [and defendant]: plaintiff [and defendant] having rested; _____ [defendant or plaintiff] having moved the court for a judgment pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure Section 631.8(a); the court having weighed the evidence; _____ [describe court's action with respect to statement of decision, e.g., and the court (on request of _____ (plaintiff or defendant)) having caused to be made and filed herein its statement of decision on _____(date) or and statement of decision not having been requested or and the court makes the following statement of decision: _____],

NOW, THEREFORE, IT IS ADJUDGED, ORDERED, AND DECREED that the motion for judgment in favor of _____ [defendant or plaintiff] _____ [name] be, and the same hereby is, granted[, provided that this judgment shall not operate as an adjudication on the merits],

[EITHER]

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED, ADJUDGED, AND DECREED that plaintiff take nothing by the complaint on file herein and that defendant have and recover from plaintiff costs in the sum of $_____ [and attorney's fees in the sum of $_____].

[OR]

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED, ADJUDGED, AND DECREED that plaintiff recover from defendant as follows:

1. The sum of $_____;

[2. Interest on this sum at the rate of _____percent per annum from and and after _____(date), to and including the date hereof; this interest amounting to $_____;]

[3. Attorney's fees in the amount of $_____;] and

4. Plaintiff's costs herein incurred in the sum of $ _____.

[CONTINUE]

Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]

Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use as a judgment granting defendant's or plaintiff's motion for judgment pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8(a). The judgment granted is an adjudication on the merits unless it specifies otherwise [Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8(c)].

If a statement of decision was requested, the form includes an assertion that a statement of decision is included in the judgment itself or in a separate instrument [see Code Civ. Proc. § 632].

[3] Cross References

For forms relating to statements of decision, see Ch. 529, Statement of Decision

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 390.syn

§ 390.syn Synopsis to Chapter 390: NOTARIES PUBLIC

§ 390.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 390.02 Cross References

§§ 390.03-390.09 [Reserved]

§ 390.10 Governing Law

§ 390.11 Appointment of Notaries Public

[1] By Secretary of State

[2] Exception for Officers of U.S. Military

[3] Mandate as Remedy if Secretary of State Fails to Act

§ 390.12 Qualifications for Appointment

§ 390.13 Territorial Limitation on Power to Act as Notary Public

§ 390.14 Term of Office

§ 390.15 Application and Fees; Confidentiality of Information

§ 390.16 Course of Study

§ 390.17 Examination

§ 390.18 Investigation; Fingerprinting

§ 390.19 Refusal to Appoint

§ 390.20 Application for Name Change

§ 390.21 Official Bond and Oath

[1] Requirements

[2] Purpose of Bond

[3] Duties of County Clerk and County Recorder

[4] Recording Fee

[5] Transfer of Principal Place of Business to Another County

[6] Effect of Name Change

[7] Certified Copy as Evidence

[8] Release of Surety

§ 390.22 Duties and Powers of Notary Public

[1] Regarding Official Seal

[a] Use of Seal

[b] Security of Seal

[2] Regarding Legal Instruments and Testimony

[a] In General

[b] Presumption That Official Duty Has Been Performed

[c] Presumption That Notary's Signature Is Genuine

[d] Protest of Nonpayment or Nonacceptance as Prima Facie Evidence

[e] Proof or Acknowledgment

[f] Affidavits; Jurats

[3] To Keep Journal

[a] Single Active Journal

[b] Security of Journal

[c] Contents

[d] Loss of Journal

[e] Request for Photostatic Copy of Line Item

[f] Restrictions on Surrender of Journal

[g] Inspection by Auditor or Employer

[h] Production of Journal on Subpoena or Court Order

[4] Regarding Requests From Secretary of State

[5] To Notify Secretary of State of Change of Address

[6] To Avoid Conflicts of Interest

§ 390.23 Notary Fees

[1] When Required or Prohibited

[2] Amounts Authorized

[a] In General

[b] Acknowledgment or Proof

[c] Oath or Affirmation

[d] Change of Immigration Status

[e] Deposition

[f] Protest of Nonpayment or Nonacceptance

[g] Certifying Copy of Power of Attorney

§ 390.24 Entry of Data on Immigration Forms

§ 390.25 Notary Public Employed by Public Entity

[1] When Charging Fee for Issuing or Filing Document in Connection With Appointment Is Prohibited

[2] Payment of Expenses

[3] Remission of Fees Collected

§ 390.26 Notary Public Employed by Private Employer

[1] Agreement Regarding Expenses and Fees

[2] Limitation on Notarial Services

§ 390.27 Use of Term "Notary Public"

[1] When Authorized

[2] Advertising by Immigration Specialist

[3] When Advertising in Foreign Language; Effect of Failure to Comply

§ 390.28 Disposition of Notary Public's Records on Termination of Appointment

[1] Deposit With County Clerk

[2] Penal and Civil Liability of Notary for Failure to Comply

§ 390.29 Civil Liability for Misconduct or Neglect

§ 390.30 Statute of Limitations on Action Against Notary Public and Surety

§ 390.31 Unlawful Acts

[1] Failure to Perform Notarial Duties; Misrepresentation; Coercion; Destruction of Records

[2] In Relation to Papers Affecting Title to Residence

§ 390.32 Revocation or Suspension of Commission

[1] Grounds

[2] Hearing

[3] Effect of Resignation or Expiration of Term

[4] Procedure on Revocation of Commission

§ 390.33 Enforcement of Statutes by Secretary of State

[1] Examination of Notary Public's Books and Records

[2] Suit to Enjoin Violation

[3] Civil Penalty

§§ 390.34-390.49 [Reserved]

§ 390.50 Related Matthew Bender Publications

§ 390.51 California Constitution

§ 390.52 Federal Statutes

§ 390.53 State Statutes

[1] Acknowledgment or Proof of Written Instruments

[2] Affidavits

[3] Evidence

[a] Presumptions

[b] Prima Facie Evidence

[4] Jurat

[5] Landowners

[6] Limitation of Actions

[7] Notaries Public

[8] Signature

[9] U.S. Armed Forces

[10] Vendors and Manufacturers of Notary Seals

§ 390.54 Administrative Regulations

§ 390.55 Decisions

[1] Acknowledgments

[2] Bond

[3] Damages

[4] Disciplinary Proceedings

[5] Duties of Notary

[6] Elements of Cause of Action

[7] Evidence

[a] Customs

[b] Falsity of Certificate of Acknowledgment

[8] Jurats

[9] Liability

[a] Breach of Duty

[b] Fraud

[c] Jurat

[10] Oath

[11] Obligation of Sureties

[12] Official Misconduct

[13] Qualifications

[14] Statute of Limitations

§ 390.56 Attorney General Opinions

§ 390.57 Law Reviews

§ 390.58 Text References

§§ 390.59-390.69 [Reserved]

§ 390.70 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] Based on Notary Public's Official Misconduct or Neglect--Action by Person Injured Against Notary Public and Surety on Notary's Official Bond [Gov. Code § 8214]--False Certificate of Acknowledgment [Civ. Code §§ 1185, 1189]--General Form

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Statute of Limitations

[5] Verification

[6] Requirements for Taking Acknowledgment

[7] Presumption and Burden of Proof

[8] Perjury

[9] State Statutes

[10] Decisions

[a] Bonds

[b] False Acknowledgment

[c] Negligence

[d] Proximate Cause

[11] Cross References

§ 390.71 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Actual [Civ. Code § 3333] and Exemplary [Civ. Code § 3294(c)(3)] Damages Based on Notary Public's Official Misconduct or Neglect--Action by Purchaser of Trust Deed and Note Against Notary Public/Real Estate Broker and Surety on Notary's Official Bond [Gov. Code § 8214]--False Certificate of Acknowledgment [Civ. Code §§ 1185, 1189] of Execution of Trust Deed [Civ. Code § 2952] Pursuant to Scheme to Defraud [Civ. Code §§ 1709, 1710]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] State Statutes

[5] Decisions

[6] Cross References

§ 390.72 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] Proximately Caused by Notary's Negligence [Civ. Code § 1714; Gov. Code § 8214] in Undertaking, in Violation of Law [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 6125, 6126; Gov. Code § 8214.1(g)], to Draft Valid Formal Will--Action by Beneficiary Under Will Against Notary Resulting From Will's Being Denied Admission to Probate Because of Faulty Execution or Attestation [Prob. Code § 50]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Liability of Notary Public and Surety

[5] State Statutes

[6] Decisions

[7] Law Reviews

[8] Cross References

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART I. SCOPE

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.01

§ 390.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses the laws applicable to notaries public and contains a general form of complaint against a notary public to recover damages for a false certificate of acknowledgment [see § 390.70], a form of complaint against a notary for actual and exemplary damages for a false certificate of acknowledgment of the execution of a deed of trust pursuant to a scheme by the notary to defraud [see § 390.71], and a form of complaint against a notary for damages for negligence in drafting a will that was subsequently denied admission to probate because of improper execution or attestation [see § 390.72].

For forms of complaints for damages for fraud and negligence generally, see Ch. 269, Fraud , and Ch. 380, Negligence , respectively. For forms of complaints on a common count that may be adapted for use by a notary to recover notary fees improperly collected by another, see Ch. 121, Common Counts .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART I. SCOPE

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.02

§ 390.02 Cross References

For a discussion and forms of certificates of acknowledgment and affidavits, see Ch. 9, Acknowledgments , and Ch. 15, Affidavits, Certificates, and Declarations , respectively.

For discussion relating to penalty for perjury by a witness to an acknowledgment, see Ch. 9, Acknowledgments .

For a discussion and forms of oaths and affirmations, see Ch. 392, Oath and Affirmation .

For a discussion and forms for use in disciplinary proceedings against a notary, see Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication et seq.

For a discussion and forms relating to release of a surety, see Ch. 538, Suretyship, Bonds, and Undertakings .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART I. SCOPE

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 390.03-390.09

[Reserved]

§§ 390.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.10

§ 390.10 Governing Law

Notaries public are governed generally by Gov. Code § 8200 et seq. and by 2 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 21912 and 21914, adopted by the California Secretary of State pursuant to the authority granted by Gov. Code § 8220. There are, in addition, a number of statutes in the various codes relating to notaries public or to services performed by notaries public. For example, Civ. Code § 1180 et seq. govern acknowledgment and proof of execution of instruments, and Civ. Code §§ 1181, 1182(4), and 1183(e) authorize notaries public to take the proof or acknowledgment of instruments any place in California, outside California but within the United States, and outside the United States, respectively. Evid. Code § 1451 provides that a certificate of the acknowledgment of a writing other than a will, or a certificate of the proof of such a writing, is prima facie evidence of the facts recited in the certificate and the genuineness of the signature of each person by whom the writing purports to have been signed, if the certificate meets the requirements of Civ. Code § 1180 et seq. For a discussion and forms of acknowledgments, see Ch. 9, Acknowledgments .

Other code sections affecting notaries public are cited as appropriate throughout this Legal Background and in the Research Guide under § 390.52.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.11

§ 390.11 Appointment of Notaries Public

[1] By Secretary of State

Notaries public are appointed and commissioned by the California Secretary of State in such number as the Secretary of State deems necessary for the public convenience [Gov. Code § 8200].

The Secretary of State may also appoint and commission state, county, and public school district employees as notaries public to act for and on behalf of their employing governmental entity. A duly authorized representative of the employing governmental entity must, however, execute a certificate that the appointment is made for the purposes of the employing governmental entity [Gov. Code § 8202.5].

In addition, the Secretary of State may appoint and commission notaries public for United States military and naval reservations of the Army, Navy, Coast Guard, Air Force, and Marine Corps, wherever located in California [Gov. Code § 8203.1]. The appointment is made on the recommendation of the commanding officer of the reservation in which the notary public is to act [Gov. Code § 8203.2].

[2] Exception for Officers of U.S. Military

Apart from the foregoing statutory provisions, any officer on active duty or performing inactive duty training in the armed forces having the general powers of a notary public under 10 U.S.C. § 936 or 1044a (Pub. L. Nos. 90-632, 101-510) and any successor statutes may perform all notarial acts for any person serving in the armed forces of the United States, or their spouses, wherever the person serving or spouse may be, or for any person eligible for legal assistance under laws and regulations of the United States, wherever he or she may be, for any person serving with, employed by, or accompanying the armed forces outside the United States and outside the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands, and any person subject to the Uniform Code of Military Justice outside of the United States [Civ. Code § 1183.5].

For forms of certificates of acknowledgments and jurats for use by such officers, see Ch. 9, Acknowledgments , and Ch. 15, Affidavits, Certificates, and Declarations , respectively.

[3] Mandate as Remedy if Secretary of State Fails to Act

In enacting Gov. Code § 8200, authorizing the Secretary of State to appoint and commission notaries public in such number as the Secretary of State deems necessary for the public convenience, the Legislature contemplated that notaries public should be appointed in accordance with the need for them. Under the statute, discretion is vested in the Secretary of State as to the number to appoint and who is to be selected. Nevertheless, the statute imposes a mandatory duty to appoint notaries public. Hence, should the Secretary of State fail or refuse to exercise his or her discretion in the matter, mandate will lie to compel the Secretary of State to do so [see Hollman v. Warren (1948) 32 Cal. 2d 351, 354-356, 196 P.2d 562 (construing Gov. Code § 8200 prior to its 1967 amendment substituting "Secretary of State" for "Governor")].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.12

§ 390.12 Qualifications for Appointment

To be appointed as a notary public, a person must be a California resident and at least 18 years old [Gov. Code § 8201(a)(1), (2)]. However, to be appointed a notary public for a United States military or naval reservation in California [see discussion under § 390.11], the appointee must be a United States citizen, at least 18 years old, and a federal civil service employee at the reservation in which the person will act as notary public [Gov. Code § 8203.3]. The requirement that a notary public be a United States citizen, however, violates the equal protection clause of U.S. Const., amend. XIV [see Bernal v. Fainter (1984) 467 U.S. 216, 228, 104 S. Ct. 2312, 81 L. Ed. 2d 175 (Texas statute that did not apply to military but to all notaries)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.13

§ 390.13 Territorial Limitation on Power to Act as Notary Public

Notaries public may act as such in any part of California [Gov. Code § 8200]. But a notary public appointed for a United States military or naval reservation [see § 390.11] may be authorized to act only within the boundaries of the reservation for which he or she was appointed [Gov. Code § 8203.2].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.14

§ 390.14 Term of Office

The term of office of a notary public is four years commencing with the date specified in the commission [Gov. Code § 8204]. A notary public appointed for a United States military or naval reservation also has a four-year term of office, but the appointment terminates if the person appointed ceases to be employed as a federal civil service employee at the reservation for which he or she was appointed. In such event, the commanding officer of the reservation is required to notify the Secretary of State of the termination within 30 days thereof, and the termination of the notary public's appointment is treated as a resignation [Gov. Code § 8203.4].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.15

§ 390.15 Application and Fees; Confidentiality of Information

An applicant for appointment and commission as a notary public must complete an application form and submit his or her photograph as prescribed by the Secretary of State [Gov. Code § 8201.5]. The applicant must include, as part of the application, an application fee of $15 and a commission fee of $5 to cover the costs of administering the notary program. The application fee is nonrefundable, but the commission fee is refunded if the applicant is not appointed as a notary public [2 Cal. Code Reg. § 21912; see Gov. Code § 12197.1 (maximum application, examination, and commission fee)].

Beginning July 1, 2005, an applicant for notary public must also provide satisfactory proof that he or she has completed an appropriate course of study concerning the functions and duties of a notary public [Gov. Code § 8201(b); see Gov. Code § 8201(a)(3); see also § 390.16].

The Secretary of State may cancel a notary public's commission if a check or other remittance accepted as payment for the examination, application, commission, and fingerprint fee is not paid on presentation to the financial instititution on which the check or other remittance was drawn [see Gov. Code § 8204.1 (providing for written notice and opportunity to pay by cashier's check before cancellation)].

Except for the applicant's name and address, the information in the application is confidential and may not be divulged by an official or employee having access to it to any person other than the applicant, the applicant's authorized representative, or an employee or officer of the federal or state government, or of a local agency as defined in Gov. Code § 6252, actingin his or her official capacity. The information is to be used by the Secretary of State for the sole purpose of carrying out the duties prescribed in Gov. Code § 8200 et seq. [Gov. Code § 8201.5].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.16

§ 390.16 Course of Study

For an appointment as a notary public on or after July 1, 2005, the applicant must have satisfactorily completed a six-hour course of study approved by the Secretary of State concerning the functions and duties of a notary public [Gov. Code § 8201(a)(3), (b)(1); see Gov. Code § 8201.2]. An applicant who holds a California notary public commission and who has satisfactorily completed the six-hour course at least one time must satisfactorily complete a three-hour refresher course of study prior to reappointment as a notary public [Gov. Code § 8201(b)(2)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.17

§ 390.17 Examination

The applicant must complete a written examination prescribed by the Secretary of State to determine the applicant's fitness to exercise the functions of the office of notary public [Gov. Code § 8201(a)(4)]. This requirement also applies to applicants for appointment as a notary public in a United States military or naval reservation in California [Gov. Code § 8203.3]. The questions asked in the examination must be based on California law as set forth in the booklet on California laws relating to notaries public that is distributed by the Secretary of State [Gov. Code § 8201(a)(4)]. The questions may be answered before, and sworn to by, any notary public. The notary's fee for such service is $5 [2 Cal. Code Reg § 21914].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.18

§ 390.18 Investigation; Fingerprinting

Before granting an appointment as a notary public, the Secretary of State is required to determine that the applicant possesses the required honesty, credibility, truthfulness, and integrity to fulfill the responsibilities of the position. To assist in determining the identity of the applicant and whether the applicant has been convicted of a disqualifying crime specified in Gov. Code § 8214.1(b), the Secretary of State must require that applicants be fingerprinted [Gov. Code § 8201.1; see § 390.32[1] for discussion of Gov. Code § 8214.1(b)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.19

§ 390.19 Refusal to Appoint

The Secretary of State may refuse to appoint a person as a notary public on any of the grounds on which he or she may revoke or suspend the commission of a notary public [see Gov. Code § 8214.1]. These grounds are discussed in § 390.32[1].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.20

§ 390.20 Application for Name Change

A notary public who changes his or her name must complete an application for name change form and file that application with the Secretary of State. Information on the name change form is subject to the confidentiality provisions of Gov. Code § 8201.5 (see § 390.15). On approval of the name change form, the Secretary of State issues a commission that reflects the notary public's new name. The term of commission and commission number will remain the same [Gov. Code § 8213.6]. A willful failure to notify the Secretary of State of a name change is punishable as an infraction by a fine of up to $500 [Gov. Code § 8213.6].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.21

§ 390.21 Official Bond and Oath

[1] Requirements

Every person appointed as a notary public must execute an official bond in the sum of $10,000 [Gov. Code § 8212; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 995.440]. The bond must be in the form of a bond executed by an admitted surety insurer and not a deposit in lieu of bond [Gov. Code § 8212]. No later than 30 days after the beginning of the term prescribed in the commission, the bond must be filed, and the person must take, subscribe, and file an oath of office in the county clerk's office of the county in which the person maintains a principal place of business, as shown in the application submitted to the Secretary of State. The commission does not take effect unless this is done within the 30-day period [Gov. Code § 8213(a)].

[2] Purpose of Bond

The bond is executed for the purpose of protecting those who may suffer by the notary's dishonesty or negligence in the performance of the notary's duties [Lewis v. Agricultural Ins. Co. (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 285, 292, 82 Cal. Rptr. 509 ; Hemet Home Buildings Assn. v. Wells (1934) 3 Cal. App. 2d 65, 76-77, 39 P.2d 233 ; Hungate v. Wells (1933) 129 Cal. App. 133, 135, 18 P.2d 64 ; see also § 390.29].

[3] Duties of County Clerk and County Recorder

On the filing of the oath and bond, the county clerk is required to immediately transmit to the Secretary of State a certificate setting forth the fact of the filing and containing a copy of the official oath, personally signed by the notary public in the form set forth in the commission, and to immediately deliver the bond to the county recorder for recording [Gov. Code § 8213(a)].

The county recorder is required to record the bond and thereafter, unless specified to the contrary, mail it to the person named in the instrument and, if no person is named, to the party leaving it for recording [Gov. Code § 8213(e)].

[4] Recording Fee

The person appointed as a notary public must pay the recording fee specified in Gov. Code § 27361 [Gov. Code § 8214; see Gov. Code § 27361 (specifying graduated fee based on number of pages of document to be recorded)]. The fee may be paid to the county clerk who is required to transmit it to the county recorder [Gov. Code § 8213(d)].

[5] Transfer of Principal Place of Business to Another County

A notary public who transfers his or her principal place of business from one county to another may file a new oath of office and bond, or a duplicate of the original bond, with the county clerk of the county to which the principal place of business was transferred. A notary public who elects to make a new filing must, within 30 days of the filing, obtain an official seal [see § 390.22], which must include the name of the county to which the notary public has transferred. If the notary makes a new filing, the same filing and recording fees are applicable as in the case of the original filing and recording of the bond [Gov. Code § 8213(b)].

[6] Effect of Name Change

A notary public who submits an application for a name change to the Secretary of State [see § 390.20] must, within 30 days from the date that an amended commission is issued, file a new oath of office and an amendment to the bond with the county clerk in the county where the principal place of business is located. The amended commission with the name change does not take effect unless the filing is completed within the 30-day period. The amended commission with the name change takes effect on the date that the oath and amendment to the bond is filed with the county clerk. If the principal place of business address was changed in the application for name change, either a new or duplicate of the original bond must be filed with the county clerk with the amendment to the bond [Gov. Code § 8213(c)].

The notary public must, within 30 days of the filing, obtain an official seal [see § 390.22] that includes the name of the notary public and the name of the county to which the notary public has transferred, if applicable [Gov. Code § 8213(c)].

[7] Certified Copy as Evidence

A certified copy of the record of the official bond, together with all affidavits, acknowledgments, endorsements, and attachments, may be admitted in evidence without further proof in an action or proceeding with the same effect as the original [Code Civ. Proc. § 995.260].

[8] Release of Surety

If a surety of a notary desires to be released from responsibility on account of future acts, the release must be pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 996.110-996.150 and not by cancellation or withdrawal pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 996.310-996.360. For this purpose, the surety must make application to the superior court of the county in which the notary public's principal place of business is located, and the copy of the application and notice of hearing must be served on the Secretary of State as the beneficiary [Gov. Code § 8216]. For discussion and forms relating to release of surety, see Ch. 538, Suretyship, Bonds, and Undertakings .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.22

§ 390.22 Duties and Powers of Notary Public

[1] Regarding Official Seal

[a] Use of Seal

A notary public must provide and keep an official seal that must clearly show, when embossed, stamped, impressed, or affixed to a document, the name of the notary, the State Seal, the words "Notary Public," the name of the county in which the bond and oath of office are filed, and the date the notary public's commission expires. The seal may be circular not over two inches in diameter, or it may be a rectangular form of not more than one inch in width and two and one-half inches in length, with a serrated or milled edge border [Gov. Code § 8207; see also § 390.21[5]]. The seal of every notary public commissioned on or after January 1, 1992, must also contain the sequential identification numbers assigned by the Secretary of State to the notary and to the manufacturer or vendor [Gov. Code § 8207; see Gov. Code §§ 8207.1, 8207.2].

A notary public must authenticate all official acts with his or her official seal and may not use the seal except for the purpose of carrying out the duties and responsibilities set forth in Gov. Code § 8200 et seq. [Gov. Code § 8207; see also § 390.22[2][e]].

The seal must be affixed by a seal press or stamp that will print or emboss a seal that, under photographic methods, legibly reproduces the required elements of the seal set forth above [Gov. Code § 8207]. However, a notary acknowledgment will be deemed complete for recording purposes without a photographically reproducible official seal if the seal containing the required elements is present and legible, and the name of the notary, the county of the notary's principal place of business, the notary's telephone number, the notary's registration number, and the notary's commission expiration date are typed or printed in a manner that is photographically reproducible below, or immediately adjacent to, the notary's signature in the acknowledgment [Gov. Code § 27201.5; see Gov. Code § 27201 (requirements for recordation generally)].

A notary must obtain a certificate of authorization from the Secretary of State in order to purchase a notary stamp from an authorized vendor [see Gov. Code §§ 8207.2(d), (f), 8207.3(b), (f)]. In addition, any notary whose official seal is lost, misplaced, destroyed, broken, damaged, or is rendered otherwise unworkable must immediately mail or deliver written notice of that fact to the Secretary of State. If the notary requests a certificate of authorization to obtain a replacment seal, the Secretary must issue the certificate within five working days after receipt of the notice [Gov. Code § 8207.3(e), (f)]. Any person who willfully violates Gov. Code §§ 8207.1-8207.3 is subject to a civil penalty of up to $1,500 for each violation [Gov. Code § 8207.4(a), (c)].

A notary public's seal on a document is presumed to be genuine [Evid. Code § 1452(c), (f)].

[b] Security of Seal

The seal must be kept in a locked and secured area, under the direct and exclusive control of the notary. Failure to secure the seal is cause for the Secretary of State to take administrative action against the commission held by the notary public under Gov. Code § 8214.1 (see § 390.32) [Gov. Code § 8207].

The official seal of a notary public is the exclusive property of that notary public, and must not be surrendered to an employer on the termination of employment, whether or not the employer paid for the seal, or to any other person. The notary, or his or her representative, must destroy or deface the seal on termination, resignation, or revocation of the notary's commission [Gov. Code § 8207].

[2] Regarding Legal Instruments and Testimony

[a] In General

A notary public has the duty, when requested, to do the following:

- Demand acceptance and payment of foreign and inland bills of exchange, or promissory notes, protest them for nonacceptance and nonpayment, and, with regard only to the nonacceptance or nonpayment of bills and notes, exercise any other powers and duties that by the law of nations and according to commercial usages, or by the laws of any other state, government, or county may be performed by notaries [Gov. Code § 8205(a)(1)].

- Take the acknowledgment or proof of advance health directives, powers of attorney, mortgages, deeds, grants, transfers, and other written instruments executed by any person, and give a certificate of that proof or acknowledgment, endorsed on or attached to the instrument. The certificate must be signed by the notary public in the notarypublic's own handwriting. A notary public may not accept any acknowledgment or proof of any instrument that is incomplete [Gov. Code § 8205(a)(2)].

- Take depositions and affidavits, and administer oaths and affirmations, in all matters incident to the duties of the office, or to be used before any court, judge, officer, or board [Gov. Code § 8205(a)(3); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 2093 (empowering notaries public to administer oaths and affirmations)]. Any deposition, affidavit, oath, or affirmation must be signed by the notary public in the notary public's own handwriting [Gov. Code § 8205(a)(3)].

- Certify copies of powers of attorney under Prob. Code § 4307. The certification must be signed by the notary public in his or her own handwriting [Gov. Code § 8205(a)(4)].

[b] Presumption That Official Duty Has Been Performed

The presumption that official duty has been regularly performed [Evid. Code § 664] applies to notaries public [Ryan v. Bank of Italy Nat'l Trust & Sav. Asso., (1930) 106 Cal. App. 690, 694, 289 P. 863 ; Pardee v. Schanzlin (1906) 3 Cal. App. 597, 599, 86 P. 812 (both cases involving former Code Civ. Proc. § 1963(15), the predecessor to Evid. Code § 664)].

[c] Presumption That Notary's Signature Is Genuine

It is presumed that the signature of a notary public affixed in his or her official capacity is genuine and authorized [Evid. Code § 1453(c)].

[d] Protest of Nonpayment or Nonacceptance as Prima Facie Evidence

The protest of a notary public [see Gov. Code § 8205(a)(1), discussed under § 390.22[2]], under his or her hand and official seal, of a bill of exchange or promissory note for nonacceptance or nonpayment is prima facie evidence of the facts recited in it if it specifies any of the following [Gov. Code § 8208]:

- The time and place of presentment;
- The fact that presentment was made and the manner of presentment;
- The cause or reason for protesting the bill; and
- The demand made and the answer given, if any, or the fact that the drawee or acceptor could not be found.

[e] Proof or Acknowledgment

The proof or acknowledgment of an instrument [see Gov. Code § 8205(a)(2), discussed under § 390.22[2]] may by made before a notary public at any place (1) within California [Civ. Code § 1181], (2) outside California but within the United States [Civ. Code § 1182(4)], and (3) outside the United States [Civ. Code § 1183(e)]. If, however, the proof or acknowledgment is made before a notary public outside the United States, the notary's signature must be proved or acknowledged (1) before a judge of a court of record of the country where the proof or acknowledgment is made, (2) by any American diplomatic officer, consul general, consul, vice consul, or consular agent, or (3) by an apostille (certification) affixed to the instrument pursuant to the terms of The Hague Convention Abolishing the Requirement of Legalization for Foreign Public Documents (effected at The Hague, October 5, 1961) [Civ. Code § 1183].

The acknowledgment of an instrument must not be taken, however, unless the officer taking it has satisfactory evidence that the person making the acknowledgment is the individual who is described in and who executed the instrument [Civ. Code §§ 1185(a), 1189(a); see also Civ. Code § 1189(d) (acknowledgments provided prior to January 1, 1993, and conforming to provisions of former Civ. Code §§ 1189-1192 as valid)]. For the test to be applied in determining whether the officer who took the acknowledgment had satisfactory evidence of the identity of the person who made the acknowledgment, see § 390.70[6][a],[b].

Although taking an acknowledgment has been held to be a minsterial act that is devoid of the exercise of discretion [Vanderhoof v. Prudential Sav. & Loan Asso. (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 507, 511, 120 Cal. Rptr. 207] , a notary's failure to require the person making the acknowledgment to personally appear before the notary or to have personal knowledge or satisfactory evidence of the identity of the person who appears and makes the acknowledgment has been a frequent source of civil litigation against notaries public and their sureties when the acknowledgment proved to be false [see §§ 390.70, 390.71].

The officer taking and certifying an acknowledgment, or proof of an instrument for record, must authenticate the certificate by affixing to it his or her signature, followed by the name of his or her office, and his or her seal of office, if, by the laws of the state or country where the acknowledgment or proof is taken, or by authority of which the officer is acting, he or she is required to have an official seal [Civ. Code § 1193; see also § 390.22[1]].

The purpose of the certificate of acknowledgment is to establish the identify of the person making the acknowledgment and the genuineness of the signature affixed to the instrument [Ryan v. Bank of Italy Nat'l Trust & Sav. Asso., (1930) 106 Cal. App. 690, 693, 289 P. 863] . The certificate of acknowledgment of a writing other than a will, or a certificate of the proof of such a writing, or meeting statutory requirements, is prima facie evidence of the facts recited in the certificate and the genuineness of the signature of each person by whom the writing purports to have been signed [Evid. Code § 1451].

The requirements and statutory forms of certificates of acknowledgment are set forth in Civ. Code § 1183.5 if the acknowledgment is taken before a military officer, or in Civ. Code § 1189 for all other cases [Civ. Code § 1188; see Civ. Code § 1189(d)] (acknowledgments provided prior to January 1, 1993, valid if conforming to provisions of former Civ. Code §§ 1189-1192 [repealed by Stats. 1990, ch. 335])]. Proof and certificates of proof of execution are covered by Civ. Code § 1195 et seq. For further discussion and forms of acknowledgments, see Ch. 9, Acknowledgments .

[f] Affidavits; Jurats

As already indicated, a notary public is authorized to take affidavits and to administer oaths and affirmations [Gov. Code § 8205(a)(3)].

A jurat is a certificate of the officer who administered the oath to a person, which is added to an affidavit, stating that the person, or affiant, subscribed and swore to the affidavit before the officer [United States v. McDermott (1890) 140 U.S. 151, 153, 11 S. Ct. 746, 35 L. Ed. 391 ; Allstate Saving & Loan Assn. v. Lotito, (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d 998, 1005, 172 Cal. Rptr. 525 ; see also Palm Springs Alpine Estates, Inc. v. Superior Court (1967) 255 Cal. App. 2d 883, 888, 63 Cal. Rptr. 618] . Jurats are executed by notaries pursuant to their power under Gov. Code § 8205(a)(3) (discussed under § 390.22[2][a]).

When executing a jurat, a notary must administer an oath or affirmation to the affiant and must determine, from satisfactory evidence [see Civ. Code § 1185(b)], that the affiant is the person executing the document. The affiant must sign the document in the presence of the notary [Gov. Code § 8202(a)]. The form of a jurat is prescribed by statute [Gov. Code § 8202(b)].

As a condition to executing a jurat when the statement sworn or subscribed to is contained in a document purporting to identify the affiant and which includes the affiant's birthdate or age and a purported photograph or finger or thumbprint of the affiant, the notary public must require that the affiant verify the birthdate or age contained in the statement by showing either a certified copy of the birth certificate or an identification card or driver's license issued by the California Department of Motor Vehicles [Gov. Code § 8230]. However, for the purposes of preparing for submission of forms required by the United States Immigration and Naturalization Service, a notary public may also accept for identification any documents or declarations acceptable to the United States Immigration and Naturalization Service [Gov. Code § 8230].

For special requirements relating to the jurat of a notary public appointed by the California Secretary of State for a United States military or naval reservation, see Gov. Code § 8203.5.

For further discussion and forms of jurats, see Ch. 15, Affidavits, Certificates, and Declarations .

[3] To Keep Journal

[a] Single Active Journal

A notary public must keep one active sequential journal at a time of all official acts performed as a notary public [Gov. Code § 8206(a)(1)].

[b] Security of Journal

The journal must be kept in a locked and secured area, under the direct and exclusive control of the notary. Failure to secure the journal is cause for the Secretary of State to take administrative action against the commission held by the notary public under Gov. Code § 8214.1 (see § 390.32) [Gov. Code § 8206(a)(1)].

[c] Contents

The journal must be in addition to and apart from any copies of notarized documents that may be in the possession of the notary public and must include all of the following [Gov. Code § 8206(a)(2)]:

- Date, time, and type of each official act.

- Character of every instrument sworn to, affirmed, acknowledged, or proved before the notary.

- The signature of each person whose signature is being notarized.

- A statement as to whether the identity of a person making an acknowledgment or taking an oath or affirmation was based on satisfactory evidence [see discussion of these terms in § 390.70[6][a], [b]].

- If identity was established by satisfactory evidence under Civ. Code § 1185, the signature of the credible witness swearing or affirming to the identity of the individual or the type of identifying document, the governmental agency issuing the document, the serial or identifying number of the document, and the date of issue or expiration of the document.

- If the identity of the person making the acknowledgment or taking the oath or affirmation was established by the oaths or affirmations of two credible witnesses whose identities are proven on the presentation of any documents satisfying the requirements of Civ. Code § 1185(b)(3) or (4) (see § 390.70[6]), then the journal must contain the type of identifying documents, the identifying numbers of the documents, and the dates of issuance or expiration of the documents presented by the witnesses to establish their identity.

- The fee charged for the notarial service.

- If the document to be notarized is a deed, quitclaim deed, deed of trust affecting real property, or a power of attorney document, the notary public must require the party signing the document to place his or her right thumb print in the journal. If the right thumbprint is not available, then the notary must require the party to use his or her left thumb, or any available finger and must indicate this in the journal. If the signing party is physically unable to provide a thumbprint or fingerprint, the notary must indicate this in the journal and provide an explanation of that physical condition [Gov. Code § 8206(a)(2)(G) (not applicable to trustee's deed resulting from foreclosure under Civ. Code § 2924 or to reconveyance deed)]. A notary who fails to obtain the required thumbprint is subject to a civil penalty of up to $2,500. An action to impose the penalty may be brought by the Secretary of State in an administrative proceeding, or by any public prosecutor in superior court, and an order of judgment for the penalty is enforceable as a civil judgment [Gov. Code § 8214.23(a) (public prosecutor must inform Secretary of State of imposition of penalty)].

[d] Loss of Journal

If a sequential journal of official acts performed by a notary public is stolen, lost, misplaced, destroyed, damaged, or otherwise rendered unusable as a record of notarial acts and information, the notary public must immediately notify the Secretary of State by certified or registered mail. The notification must include the period of the journal entries, the notary public's commission number, the expiration date of the commission, and, when applicable, a photocopy of any police report that specifies the theft of the sequential journal of official acts [Gov. Code § 8206(b)].

[e] Request for Photostatic Copy of Line Item

On written request of any member of the public, the notary public must supply a photostatic copy of the line item representing the requested transaction at a cost of not more than 30 cents per page. Any such request must include the names of the parties, the type of document, and the month and year in which the document was notarized [Gov. Code § 8206(c); see also Bernd v. Eu (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 511, 519, 161 Cal. Rptr. 58 (setting forth statutory history of Gov. Code § 8206)].

[f] Restrictions on Surrender of Journal

The journal of notarial acts of a notary public is the exclusive property of that notary public, and may not be surrendered to an employer on termination of employment, whether or not the employer paid for the journal, or at any other time [Gov. Code § 8206(d)].

The notary public may not surrender the journal to any other person except as follows. The journal must be surrendered to the country clerk if the notary resigns, is disqualified or removed from office, allows his or her appointment to expire, or dies [Gov. Code §§ 8206(d), 8209]. Also, the notary must surrender the journal immediately, or as soon as possible, to a peace officer [see Penal Code §§ 830.1, 830.2, 830.3] who is investigating a criminal offense in his or her official capacity and within his or her authority, and who has reasonable suspicion to believe the journal contains evidence of a criminal offense [Gov. Code § 8206(d)]. If the peace officer seizes the journal, he or she must have probable cause as required by California and federal law, and any applicable requirements of, and exceptions to, those laws apply to a peace officer who is engaged in the search or seizure of a notary's sequential journal [Gov. Code § 8206(d),(f)]. The peace officer or relevant law enforcement agency seizing a notary journal must notify the Secretary of State by facsimile within 24 hours, or as soon as possible thereafter, of the name of the notary whose journal has been seized [Gov. Code § 8206(d)].

The notary public must obtain a receipt for the journal, and must notify the Secretary of State by certified mail within 10 days that the journal wasrelinquished to a peace officer. The notification must include the period of the journal entries, the commission number of the notary public, the expiration date of the commission, and a photocopy of the receipt. The notary public must obtain a new sequential journal. If the journal relinquished to a peace officer is returned to the notary public and a new journal has been obtained, the notary public must make no new entries in the returned journal [Gov. Code § 8206(d)].

A notary public who willfully fails to provide access to the journal when requested by a peace officer is subject to a civil penalty of up to $2,500. An action to impose the penalty may be brought by the Secretary of State in an administrative proceeding, or by any public prosecutor in superior court, and an order of judgment for the penalty is enforceable as a civil judgment [Gov. Code § 8214.21 (public prosecutor must inform Secretary of State of imposition of penalty)].

[g] Inspection by Auditor or Employer

A notary public who is an employee must permit inspection and copying of journal transactions by a duly designated auditor or agent of the notary public's employer, provided that the inspection and copying is done in the presence of the notary public and the transactions are directly associated with the business purposes of the employer [Gov. Code § 8206(d)].

The notary public, on the request of the employer, must regularly provide copies of all transactions that are directly associated with the business purposes of the employer, but may not be required to provide copies of any transaction that is unrelated to the employer's business. Confidentiality and safekeeping of any copies of the journal provided to the employer is the responsibility of that employer [Gov. Code § 8206(d)].

[h] Production of Journal on Subpoena or Court Order

The notary public must provide the journal for examination and copying in the presence of the notary public upon receipt of a subpoena duces tecum or a court order, and must certify those copies if requested [Gov. Code § 8206(e)].

[4] Regarding Requests From Secretary of State

A notary public has the duty, on written request, to furnish the Secretary of State with certified copies of the notary's journal [Gov. Code § 8205(b)(1)]. Furthermore, a notary public must respond within 30 days of receiving written requests sent by certified mail from the Secretary of State's office for information relating to official acts performed by the notary [Gov. Code § 8205(b)(2)].

[5] To Notify Secretary of State of Change of Address

A notary public must notify the Secretary of State by certified mail within 30 days as to any change in the location or address of the notary's principal place of business or residence [Gov. Code § 8213.5].

A notary public may not use a commercial mail-receiving agency or post office box as his or her principal place of business or residence, unless the notary also provides the Secretary of State with a physical street address as the principal place of residence [Gov. Code § 8213.5].

A willful failure to notify the Secretary of State of a change of address is punishable as an infraction by a fine of up to $500 [Gov. Code § 8213.5].

[6] To Avoid Conflicts of Interest

A notary public who has a direct financial or beneficial interest in a transaction may not perform any notarial act in connection with it. Anotary public has a direct financial or beneficial interest in a transaction if, in the case of a financial transaction, the notary public is named individually as a principal to the transaction, and, with respect to real property, if the notary public is named individually as a grantor, grantee, mortgagor, mortgagee, trustor, trustee, beneficiary, vendor, vendee, lessor, or lessee to the transaction. A notary public does not have a direct financial or beneficial interest in a transaction by acting in the capacity of an agent, employee, insurer, attorney, escrow, or lender for a person having a direct financial or beneficial interest in the transaction [Gov. Code § 8224; see also Chapman v. Hicks (1919) 41 Cal. App. 158, 164, 182 P. 336] .

A notary public is also prohibited from taking the acknowledgment or proof of written instruments executed by himself or herself and from taking his or her own deposition or affidavit [Gov. Code § 8224.1; see also Bank of America v. Dowdy (1960) 186 Cal. App. 2d 690, 694, 9 Cal. Rptr. 779] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.23

§ 390.23 Notary Fees

[1] When Required or Prohibited

Apparently there is no statutory requirement that a notary public actually charge a fee for his or her services. The statutory prohibition against a public officer's performing any official service without payment of the fee prescribed by law by its own terms excludes notaries public, unless the fees are required by law to be remitted to the state or to any other public agency [see Gov. Code § 6100]. The only fees required to be so remitted are those collected by a notary public who has been appointed and commissioned to act for and on behalf of the State of California, a county, or a public school district [see Gov. Code § 8202.5; § 390.25[3]].

On the other hand, the charging or collecting of fees is in certain situations prohibited. For example, Gov. Code § 8203.6 prohibits the collection of fees by a notary public appointed for a United States military or naval reservation in California for services rendered within the reservation in the capacity of a notary public. Gov. Code § 6106 provides that no notary public, acting on behalf of California or any county or city, may receive any fee or compensation for services rendered in an affidavit or application relating to the securing of a pension, or the payment of a pension voucher, or any matter relating thereto. Gov. Code § 8211(g) prohibits the collection of fees for notarizing signatures on vote-by-mail ballot identification envelopes or other voting materials. Gov. Code § 6107 prohibits the demand or receipt by a notary of any fee or compensation for a number of specified services relating to former members of the U.S. Armed Forces and provides that every failure or refusal to render the services specified on the request of a United States official or a claimant, or the claimant's guardian or attorney, renders the notary liable on his or her official bond.

[2] Amounts Authorized

[a] In General

For the fee authorized for services to be performed with respect to an examination given an applicant for appointment as a notary public and the charge authorized for supplying photostatic copies of entries in a notary public's journal, see §§ 390.17, 390.22[3].

The fees, if any charged, cannot exceed those prescribed by Gov. Code § 8211 and 8223, or are as specifically allowed by another statute or administrative regulation. Those fees are set out below.

[b] Acknowledgment or Proof

The fee for taking an acknowledgment or proof of a deed or other instrument, including the seal and the writing of the certificate, is $10 per signature [Gov. Code § 8211(a)].

[c] Oath or Affirmation

The fee for administering an oath or affirmation to one person and executing the jurat, including the seal, is $10 [Gov. Code § 8211(b)].

[d] Change of Immigration Status

The fee, exclusive of signature and verification, may not exceed $10 per individual for each set of forms relating to a change of the immigration status. If notary services are performed in relation to the set of immigration forms, additional fees may be collected pursuant Gov. Code § 8211.

This limitation applies whether or not the notary is acting as a notary, but it does not apply to an attorney, who is also a notary public, who is rendering professional services regarding immigration matters [Gov. Code § 8223].

[e] Deposition

The fee for all services rendered in connection with the taking of any deposition is the sum of $20, plus $5 for administering the oath to the witness and $5 for the certificate to the deposition [Gov. Code § 8211(c)].

[f] Protest of Nonpayment or Nonacceptance

The fee for every protest for the nonpayment of a promissory note or the nonpayment or nonacceptance of a bill of exchange, draft, or check, is $10 [Gov. Code § 8211(d)]. For serving a notice of nonpayment of a promissory note or the nonpayment or nonacceptance of a bill of exchange, draft, or check, the fee is $5 [Gov. Code § 8211(e)]. For recording a protest, the fee is $5 [Gov. Code § 8211(f)].

[g] Certifying Copy of Power of Attorney

The fee for certifying a copy of a power of attorney under Prob. Code § 4307 is $10 [Gov. Code § 8211(h)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.24

§ 390.24 Entry of Data on Immigration Forms

A notary public may enter data, provided by the client, on immigration forms provided by a federal or state agency [Gov. Code § 8233(b); for discussion of fees that may be charged, § 390.23[2][d]].

The authorization under Gov. Code § 8233(b), above, may not be construed to exempt a notary public who enters data on an immigration form at the direction of a client, or otherwise performs services of an immigration consultant from the requirements of Bus. & Prof. Code § 22440 et seq., regulating immigration consultants [Gov. Code § 8233(c); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22441 (definition of "immigration consultant")].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.25

§ 390.25 Notary Public Employed by Public Entity

[1] When Charging Fee for Issuing or Filing Document in Connection With Appointment Is Prohibited

When a notary is appointed and commissioned as an employee of the state or of a county or public school district and the certificate executed by a duly authorized representative of the employing governmental entity [see § 390.11] is filed with any state or county officer, that officer may not charge any fee for the filing or issuance of any document in connection with the appointment [Gov. Code § 8202.5].

[2] Payment of Expenses

The state, county, or school district for which a notary public is appointed and commissioned may pay from any funds available for its support the premiums on any bond and the cost of any stamps, seals, or other supplies required in connection with the appointment, commission, or performance of the duties of the notary public [Gov. Code § 8202.5].

[3] Remission of Fees Collected

Any fees collected or obtained by any notary public whose documents have been filed without charge and for whom bond premiums have been paid by the notary public's employer must be remitted by the notary public to the employing agency, which is required to deposit the funds to the credit of the fund from which the notary public's salary is paid [Gov. Code § 8202.5].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.26

§ 390.26 Notary Public Employed by Private Employer

[1] Agreement Regarding Expenses and Fees

A private employer, pursuant to an agreement with an employee who is a notary public, may pay the premiums on any bond and the cost of any stamps, seals, or other supplies required in connection with the appointment, commission, or performance of the duties of such notary public. The agreement may also provide for the remission of fees collected by the notary public to the employer, in which case any fees collected or obtained by the notary public while the agreement is in effect must be remitted by the notary public to the employer who must deposit the funds to the credit of the fund from which the notary's compensation is paid [Gov. Code § 8202.7].

[2] Limitation on Notarial Services

A private employer who has entered into an agreement with his or her notary public pursuant to Gov. Code § 8202.7 may, notwithstanding any other provision of law, limit, during the employee's ordinary course of employment, the providing of notarial services by the employee solely to transactions directly associated with the employer's business purposes [Gov. Code § 8202.8].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.27

§ 390.27 Use of Term "Notary Public"

[1] When Authorized

A notary public must not use the title "notary public" except for the purpose of rendering notarial service [Gov. Code § 8207].

[2] Advertising by Immigration Specialist

No notary public who holds himself or herself out as being an immigration specialist, immigration consultant, or any other title or description reflecting an expertise in immigration matters may advertise in any manner whatsoever that he or she is a notary public [Gov. Code § 8223(a)].

[3] When Advertising in Foreign Language; Effect of Failure to Comply

A notary public who is not an attorney and who advertises, by signs or other means of written communication other than a single desk plaque, the services of a notary public in a language other than English must post with that advertisement a notice, in both English and the other language, setting forth (1) the statement "I am not an attorney and, therefore, cannot give legal advice about immigration or any other legal matters," and (2) the fees set by statute that a notary public may charge [Gov. Code § 8219.5(a)].The Secretary of State must suspend for a period of not less than one year or revoke the commission of any notary public who fails to comply with the notice requirements of Gov. Code § 8219.5(a) or (c). On the second offense, the Secretary must revoke the notary public's commission permanently [Gov. Code § 8219.5(d)].

The litera l translation of the phrase "notary public" into its Spanish equivalent, defined as "notario publico" or "notario" is prohibited. "Literal translation" means the translation of a word or phrase from one language to another without regard to the true meaning of the word or phrase in the language that is being translated [Gov. Code § 8219.5(c)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.28

§ 390.28 Disposition of Notary Public's Records on Termination of Appointment

[1] Deposit With County Clerk

If a notary public resigns, is disqualified, is removed from office, or allows the appointment to expire without obtaining a reappointment within 30 days, all notarial records and papers must be delivered within 30 days to the clerk of the county in which the notary public's current official oath of office and bond are on file [Gov. Code § 8209].

If a notary public dies, his or her personal representative must promptly so notify the Secretary of State and deliver all notarial records and papers of the deceased to the clerk of the county in which the notary public's official oath of office and bond are on file [Gov. Code § 8209].

The records may be destroyed on court order after 10 years from the date they are deposited with the county clerk if no request for or reference to them has been made [Gov. Code § 8209].

[2] Penal and Civil Liability of Notary for Failure to Comply

A notary public who willfully refuses to deliver all notarial records and papers to the county clerk within 30 days, as required by Gov. Code § 8209, is guilty of a misdemeanor and is personally liable for damages to any person injured by such action or inaction [Gov. Code § 8209].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.29

§ 390.29 Civil Liability for Misconduct or Neglect

A notary public and the sureties on his or her official bond are civilly liable to the persons injured for all damages sustained as a result of the notary public's misconduct or neglect [Gov. Code § 8214; see also Lewis v. Agricultural Ins. Co. (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 285, 292, 82 Cal. Rptr. 509 ; Greeninger v. New Amsterdam Cas. Co. (1957) 152 Cal. App. 2d 645, 646, 313 P.2d 607 ; see §§ 390.70 and 390.71]. The misconduct or neglect must be a proximate, but not necessarily the sole, cause of the loss [Common Wealth Ins. Systems, Inc. v. Kersten (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 1014, 1033,115 Cal. Rptr. 653 ; Tutelman v. Agricultural Ins. Co. (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 914, 918-919, 102 Cal. Rptr. 296 ; McDonald v. Plumb (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 374, 377-379, 90 Cal. Rptr. 822 ; Bank of America v. Dowdy (1960) 186 Cal. App. 2d 690, 694-695, 9 Cal. Rptr. 779] .

With respect to the surety's liability, any recovery that does not exhaust the full amount of the bond does not bar a further action for other causes up to the full amount of the bond [Gov. Code § 8214].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.30

§ 390.30 Statute of Limitations on Action Against Notary Public and Surety

An action against a notary public on his or her bond or in his or her official capacity must be commenced within one year from discovery of the acts constituting the cause of action for malfeasance or misfeasance or three years from the performance of the notarial act giving rise to the action, whichever is later; however, any such action must be commenced within six years at the latest [see Code Civ. Proc. § 338(f); see also Butterfield v. Northwestern National Ins. Co. (1980) 100 Cal. App. 3d 974, 976-979, 161 Cal. Rptr. 280] .

Code Civ. Proc. § 338(f) does not apply to disciplinary proceedings against a notary by the Secretary of State [Bernd v. Eu (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 511, 515-516, 161 Cal. Rptr. 58] . Those disciplinary proceedings are discussed in § 390.32.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.31

§ 390.31 Unlawful Acts

[1] Failure to Perform Notarial Duties; Misrepresentation; Coercion; Destruction of Records

Any notary public who willfully fails to perform any duty required in connection with the keeping of the notary's journal [see Gov. Code § 8206; see also § 390.22[3]], or who willfully fails to keep the notary seal under his or her direct and exclusive control, or who surrenders the seal to any person not otherwise authorized by law to possess it, is guilty of a misdemeanor [Gov. Code § 8228.1(a); see Gov. Code § 8228.1(c) (misdemeanor penalty is not exclusive and does not affect any other relief or remedy provided by law)].

It is a misdemeanor for any person who is not a duly commissioned, qualified, and acting notary public for the State of California to (1) represent or hold himself or herself out to the public or to any person as being entitled to act as notary public, (2) assume, use, or advertise the title of notary public in such a manner as to convey the impression that the person is a notary public, or (3) purport to act as a notary public [Gov. Code § 8227.1].

It is also a misdemeanor for any person to solicit, coerce, or in any manner influence a notary public to perform an improper notarial act knowingthe act to be an improper notarial act, including any act required in connection with the keeping of the notary's journal (see § 390.22[3]) [Gov. Code § 8225(a); see Gov. Code § 8225(c) (misdemeanor penalty is not exclusive and does not affect any other relief or remedy provided by law); see also Gov. Code § 8206 (notarial journal)].

Any person who knowingly destroys, defaces, or conceals any records or papers belonging to the office of a notary public is also guilty of a misdemeanor and is civilly liable to any person injured as a result of the destruction, defacement, or concealment [Gov. Code § 8221].

For the penal and civil liability of a notary public who refuses to deliver his or her records and papers as required by statute on termination of his or her appointment, see § 390.28[2].

[2] In Relation to Papers Affecting Title to Residence

It is a felony for any person who is not a California notary to act in violation of Gov. Code § 8227.1 in relation to any document or instrument affecting title to, encumbering, or placing an interest secured by a mortgage or trust deed on realty consisting of a single-family residence with four or fewer dwelling units [Gov. Code § 8227.3]. Similarly, it is a felony for any person to make a false sworn statement to a notary public, with knowledge the statement is false, to induce the notary to perform an improper notarial act on an instrument or document affecting title to or encumbering such residential realty units [Penal Code § 115.5(b)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.32

§ 390.32 Revocation or Suspension of Commission

[1] Grounds

The Secretary of State may revoke or suspend the commission of a notary public on any of the following grounds:

- Substantial and material misstatement or omission in the application submitted to the Secretary of State to become a notary public [Gov. Code § 8214.1(a)].

- Conviction of a felony or of a lesser offense involving moral turpitude, or of a lesser offense of a nature incompatible with the duties of notary public [Gov. Code § 8214.1(b), (providing further that a conviction after a plea of nolo contendere is deemed to be a conviction within the meaning of the subdivision)].

- Revocation, suspension, restriction, or denial of a professional license, if the revocation, suspension, restriction, or denial was for misconduct based on dishonesty, or any cause substantially relating to the duties or responsibilities of a notary public [Gov. Code § 8214.1(c)].

- Failure to fully and faithfully discharge any of the duties or responsibilities required of a notary public [Gov. Code § 8214.1(d)].

- When adjudicated liable for damages in any suit grounded in fraud, misrepresentation, or violation of the state regulatory laws or in anysuit based on a failure to discharge fully and faithfully the duties as a notary public [Gov. Code § 8214.1(e)].

- Use of false or misleading advertising wherein the notary public has represented that the notary public has duties, rights, or privileges that he or she does not possess by law [Gov. Code § 8214.1(f)].

- Practice of law in violation of Bus. & Prof. Code § 6125 [Gov. Code § 8214.1(g)].

- Charging more than the fees prescribed by Gov. Code § 8200 et seq. [Gov. Code § 8214.1(h)].

- Commission of any act involving dishonesty, fraud, or deceit with the intent to substantially benefit the notary public or another, or substantially injure another [Gov. Code § 8214.1(i)].

- Failure to complete the acknowledgment at the time the notary's signature and seal are affixed to the document [Gov. Code § 8214.1(j)].

- Failure to administer the oath or affirmation as required by Gov. Code § 8205(a)(3), (see § 390.22[2]) [Gov. Code § 8214.1(k)].

- Execution of any certificate as a notary public containing a statement known to the notary public to be false [Gov. Code § 8214.1(l)].

- Violation of Gov. Code § 8223 (see § 390.27[2]) [Gov. Code § 8214.1(m)].

- Failure to submit any remittance payable on demand by the Secretary of State under Gov. Code § 8200 et seq. or failure to satisfy any court-ordered money judgment, including restitution [Gov. Code § 8214.1(n)].

- Failure to secure the sequential journal of offical acts, pursuant to Gov. Code § 8206 (§ 390.22[3][b]) or the official seal, pursuant to Gov. Code § 8207 (§ 390.22[1][b]), or willful failure to report the theft or loss of the sequential journal, pursuant to Gov. Code § 8206(b) (§ 390.22[3]) [Gov. Code § 8214.1(o)].

- Violation of Gov. Code § 8219.5 (notice required when advertisement of public is in language other than English) [Gov. Code § 8214.1(p)].

- Commission of an act in violation of Gov. Code § 6203, 8214.2, 8225, or 8227.3, or of Penal Code § 115, 470, 487, or 530.5 [Gov. Code § 8214.1(q)].

- Willful failure to provide access to the sequential journal of official acts on request by a peace officer (see § 390.22[3]) [Gov. Code § 8214.1(r)].

Other grounds for suspension or revocation of a commission are set forth in Gov. Code §§ 8217 and 8219.5 (see § 390.27[3]).

Aside from the procedures for revocation or suspension by the Secretary of State, a court in which a notary is convicted of certain crimes must revoke the notary's commission. On the conviction of a notary public for any felony or of any offense described in Gov. Code § 6203 (misdemeanor to make or give false certificate) or Gov. Code § 8200 et seq. (duties of notaries), in addition to any other penalty, the court must revoke the commission of the notary public and must require the notary public to surrender to the court his or her notary seal. The court will then forward the seal, together with a certified copy of the judgment of conviction, to the Secretary of State [Gov. Code § 8214.8].

[2] Hearing

Prior to a revocation or suspension of his or her commission, or prior to the imposition of a civil penalty [§ 390.33[3]], a notary public has a rightto a hearing conducted in accordance with the provisions of Gov. Code § 11500 et seq. This is also true when an application for a commission has been denied, except when (1) the Secretary of State has, within one year previous to the application, and after proceedings conducted in accordance with Gov. Code § 11500 et seq., denied or revoked the applicant's application or commission, or (2) the Secretary of State has entered an order pursuant to Gov. Code § 8214.4 (see § 390.32[3]) finding that the applicant has committed or omitted acts constituting grounds for suspension or revocation of a notary public's commission [Gov. Code § 8214.3].

The Notary Public Section of the Office of the Secretary of State must provide language assistance in adjudicative proceedings to the extent provided in Gov. Code 11435.05 et seq. [Gov. Code § 11435.15(a)].

For discussion and forms relating generally to administrative hearings under Gov. Code § 11500 et seq., see Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication , through Ch. 473H, Alternative Procedures for Agency Decisions . For further discussion regarding language assistance requirements, see Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication .

[3] Effect of Resignation or Expiration of Term

Notwithstanding any provision of Gov. Code § 8200 et seq. or Gov. Code § 11500 et seq., if the Secretary of State determines, after proceedings conducted in accordance with the provisions of Gov. Code § 11500 et seq., that any notary public has committed or omitted acts constituting grounds for suspension or revocation of a notary's commission, neither the notary's resignation nor the expiration of his or her commission term bars the Secretary of State from instituting, or continuing, an investigation or instituting disciplinary proceedings. On completion of those disciplinary proceedings, the Secretary of State is required to enter an order finding the facts and stating the conclusion that the facts would or would not have constituted grounds for suspension or revocation of the commission had the commission still been in effect [Gov. Code § 8214.4].

[4] Procedure on Revocation of Commission

On revocation of the commission of a notary public, the Secretary of State is required to file a copy of the revocation with the county clerk of the county in which the notary public's principal place of business is located, and the county clerk is required to note the revocation and its date on the original record of the certificate [Gov. Code § 8214.5].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.33

§ 390.33 Enforcement of Statutes by Secretary of State

[1] Examination of Notary Public's Books and Records

The Secretary of State, or a peace officer [see Penal Code §§ 830.1, 830.2, 830.3] with reasonable suspicion and acting in his or her official capacity and within his or her authority, may enforce the provisions of Gov. Code § 8200 et seq. through the examination of a notary public's books, records, letters,contracts, and other pertinent documents relating to the notary public's official acts [Gov. Code § 8228].

[2] Suit to Enjoin Violation

The Secretary of State may sue, in a court of competent jurisdiction, to enjoin any person who has engaged, or is about to engage, in any acts or practices which constitute a violation of any provision of Gov. Code § 8200 et seq. or any rule or regulation prescribed under the authority of these sections, and the court may, in such case, issue a permanent or temporary injunction or restraining order without bond. The court's order or judgment is appealable by any party to the action [Gov. Code § 8222(a)].

The court may order a person subject to such injunction or restraining order to reimburse the Secretary of State for expenses incurred in the investigation, but the Secretary of State must refund any amount received as reimbursement should the injunction or restraining order be dissolved by an appellate court [Gov. Code § 8222(b)].

[3] Civil Penalty

In addition to any commissioning or disciplinary sanction, a violation of Gov. Code § 8214.1(h), (j), or (k), or a negligent violation of Gov. Code § 8214.1(d), is punishable by a civil penalty not to exceed $750 [Gov. Code § 8214.15(b)]. The civil penalty may be imposed by the Secretary of State if a hearing is not requested pursuant to Gov. Code § 8214.3. If a hearing is requested, the hearing officer must make the determination [Gov. Code § 8214.15(c)]. Any civil penalties collected are transferred to the General Fund [Gov. Code § 8214.15(d) (legislative intent)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 390.34-390.49

[Reserved]

§§ 390.34[Reserved]

30 of 152 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.50

§ 390.50 Related Matthew Bender Publications

For a discussions and forms for use by a notary in taking an acknowledgment of the execution of a deed, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording (Matthew Bender)

For a discussion and forms for use by a notary in taking an acknowledgment of a power of attorney by an individual, corporation, partnership, or public agency, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 98, Powers of Attorney (Matthew Bender)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.51

§ 390.51 California Constitution

Oaths of office. Cal. Const., art. XX, § 3

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.52

§ 390.52 Federal Statutes

Oaths may be administered by U.S. military officers and judge advocates on active duty or performing inactive-duty training, courts martial, and judges of the United States Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces. 10 U.S.C. § 926

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.53

§ 390.53 State Statutes

[1] Acknowledgment or Proof of Written Instruments

Certificates of acknowledgment or proof. Civ. Code § 1180 et seq.

Authority of notary public to take. Civ. Code §§ 1181, 1182(4), 1183(e); Gov. Code § 8205(a)(2)

Requirement that officer taking acknowledgment have satisfactory evidence that person making acknowledgment is individual who is described in and who executed instrument; definition of "satisfactory evidence"; presumption that law was complied with; burden of proof. Civ. Code § 1185

Effect of certificate as prima facie evidence. Evid. Code § 1451

[2] Affidavits

Who may take. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2012, 2013

[3] Evidence

[a] Presumptions

Presumption that facts necessary to authorize acknowledgment, oath, or affirmation taken by officer on active duty or performing inactive duty training in U.S. Armed Forces exist. Civ. Code § 1183.5

Presumption that official duty has been regularly performed. Evid. Code § 664

Presumption that seal of nation recognized by executive power of United States or department, agency, or officer of such nation is genuine and authorized. Evid. Code § 1452(c)

Presumption that seal of notary public within any state of United States is genuine and authorized. Evid. Code § 1452(f)

Presumption that signature of notary public within any state of United States is genuine and authorized. Evid. Code § 1453(c)

[b] Prima Facie Evidence

Certificate of acknowledgment or proof of writing as prima facie evidence; exception. Evid. Code § 1451

[4] Jurat

Requirements and form for jurat. Gov. Code § 8202

[5] Landowners

Written permit to cut or remove plants from land of another as required to be signed by landowner or landowner's authorized agent and acknowledged before notary public or other person authorized to take acknowledgments. Penal Code § 384a

[6] Limitation of Actions

When action against notary or surety must be commenced. Code Civ. Proc. § 338(f)

[7] Notaries Public

Release of surety. Code Civ. Proc. § 996.110 et seq.; Gov. Code § 8216

Generally. Gov. Code § 8200 et seq.

Services required to be performed. Gov. Code § 8205

Authority to take acknowledgment or proof of writings. Gov. Code § 8205(a)(2); Civ. Code §§ 1181, 1182(4)

Authority to take depositions. Gov. Code § 8205(a)(3)

Authority to take affidavits. Gov. Code § 8205(a)(3); Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2012, 2013

Authority to administer oaths and affirmations. Gov. Code § 8205(a)(3); Code Civ. Proc. § 2093

Authority to certify copies of powers of attorney under Prob. Code § 4307. Gov. Code § 8205(a)(4)

Notary seal, requirements and use of. Gov. Code § 8207 et seq.

Civil penalties. Gov. Code § 8214.15

Bond recording fee. Gov. Code § 27361

Criminal liability for inducing notary to act concerning certain residential real property. Penal Code § 115.5(b)

[8] Signature

Requirement that notary sign certificates of acknowledgment or proof, depositions, affidavits, oaths, and affirmations in his or her own handwriting. Gov. Code § 8205(a)(2),(3)

[9] U.S. Armed Forces

Performance of notarial acts by officers of U.S. Armed Forces having general powers of notary public. Civ. Code § 1183.5

[10] Vendors and Manufacturers of Notary Seals

Duties of vendors and manufacturers; civil penalties. Gov. Code §§ 8207.2-8207.4

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.54

§ 390.54 Administrative Regulations

Fee for applying for commission as notary public. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 21912

Fee of notary before whom applicant takes examination for commission. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 21914

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.55

§ 390.55 Decisions

[1] Acknowledgments

Test applied in determining whether officer who took acknowledgment of instrument was possessed of personal knowledge of identity of person who made acknowledgment. Anderson v. Aronsohn (1919) 181 Cal. 294, 297 ; Transamerica Title Ins. Co. v. Green (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 693, 700, 89 Cal. Rptr. 915

Primary purposes of certificate of acknowledgment as being to provide prima facie evidence of truth of facts recited in certificate and to establish genuineness of signatures attached to instrument acknowledged. Bernd v. Eu (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 511, 517, 161 Cal. Rptr. 58 (citing Evid. Code § 1451); Transamerica Title Ins. Co. v. Green (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 693, 702, 89 Cal. Rptr. 915

Act of taking acknowledgment of execution of written instrument as ministerial act devoid of exercise of discretion. Vanderhoof v. Prudential Sav. & Loan Asso. (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 507, 511, 120 Cal. Rptr. 207 ; Chapman v. Hicks (1919) 41 Cal. App. 158, 164, 182 P. 336

Requisites of acknowledgment as being personal appearance of maker of instrument before officer who is to take acknowledgment, maker's acknowledgment that maker signed instrument, and officer's personal knowledge that maker is person he or she purports to be. Transamerica Title Ins. Co. v. Green (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 693, 700, 89 Cal. Rptr. 915

Reliance by officer taking acknowledgment solely on introduction by third party of purported maker of instrument as insufficient basis for personal knowledge required. Transamerica Title Ins. Co. v. Green (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 693, 700-702, 89 Cal. Rptr. 915

[2] Bond

"Surety bond" and notary's "official bond" defined. Butterfield v. Northwestern National Ins. Co. (1980) 100 Cal.

App. 3d 974, 978-979, 161 Cal. Rptr. 280

Surety bond of notary public as an official bond [Gov. Code § 8212] on which liability of surety is no greater than that of notary [Gov. Code § 8214]; when primary obligation on official bond is barred or in any legal way extinguished, surety as relieved. Breckenridge v. Mason (1967) 256 Cal. App. 2d 121, 130, 64 Cal. Rptr. 201 (disapproved on another point in Denham v. Superior Court (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 557, 563, 86 Cal. Rptr. 65, 468 P.2d 193)

Surety Contract (bond) as interpreted by same rules as apply to other contracts. Bank of America v. Dowdy (1960) 186 Cal. App. 2d 690, 693, 9 Cal. Rptr. 779

Surety bond given pursuant to requirements of particular statute as incorporating provisions of that statute. Bank of America v. Dowdy (1960) 186 Cal. App. 2d 690, 693, 9 Cal. Rptr. 779

[3] Damages

Measure of damages as including amount of principal and interest on note in action on notary's bond involving false certification of acknowledgment of execution of mortgage. Heidt v. Minor (1896) 113 Cal. 385, 389-390, 45 P. 700

[4] Disciplinary Proceedings

Negligence or gross negligence of notary as permissible ground for disciplinary action under Gov. Code § 8214.1(d). Bernd v. Eu (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 511, 518, 161 Cal. Rptr. 58

Statutes of limitation barring civil actions by aggrieved parties as inapplicable to disciplinary proceeding of state administrative agency; no time limitation statute pertaining to revocation or suspension of notary's commission as existing and hence administrative action by Secretary of State as not barred by mere passage of time. Bernd v. Eu (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 511, 515-516, 161 Cal. Rptr. 58

Certifying personal appearance and acknowledgment of person who did not appear, and failing to maintain record of transaction as required by Gov. Code § 8206, as constituting failure to fully and faithfully discharge official duties [Gov. Code § 8214.1(d)] and as justifying suspension of notary's commission. Bernd v. Eu (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 511, 515-520, 161 Cal. Rptr. 58

Notary's violation of statute prescribing requisites for taking acknowledgment as official misconduct for which notary public may be removed from office or suspended. Transamerica Title Ins. Co. v. Green (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 693, 703, 89 Cal. Rptr. 915

[5] Duties of Notary

Requirement that notary fully and faithfully discharge duties required of notary public [Gov. Code § 8214.1(d)] as encompassing due diligence inadherence to duty, as well as honesty and integrity. Bernd v. Eu (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 511, 517, 161 Cal. Rptr. 58

On assuming office, notary public as required to perform duties with honesty, integrity, diligence, and skill. Bernd v. Eu (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 511, 517, 161 Cal. Rptr. 58 ; Transamerica Title Ins. Co. v. Green (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 693, 702, 89 Cal. Rptr. 915 ; Lewis v. Agricultural Ins. Co. (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 285, 292, 82 Cal. Rptr. 509 ; Hemet Home Builders Asso. v. Wells (1934) 3 Cal. App. 2d 65, 76, 39 P.2d 233 ; Hungate v. Wells (1933) 129 Cal. App. 133, 135, 18 P.2d 64

[6] Elements of Cause of Action

To prevail in action against notary and his or her surety for damages, plaintiff as having burden of establishing (1) a duty on part of notary to plaintiff, (2) a violation of that duty, (3) that violation was a proximate cause of injury to plaintiff, and (4) nature and extent of plaintiff's damage. McDonald v. Plumb (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 374, 376, 90 Cal. Rptr. 822

[7] Evidence

[a] Customs

Trial court in cross action against notary and his surety arising out of acknowledgment of signatures which were forged as erring in admitting evidence that notaries in county customarily did not comply with requirements of Civ. Code § 1185. Transamerica Title Ins. Co. v. Green (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 693, 702-703, 89 Cal. Rptr. 915

[b] Falsity of Certificate of Acknowledgment

Evidence required to be produced by injured party to prove falsity of recitals in certificate of acknowledgment. Greenwald v. United States (1963) 223 Cal. App. 2d 434, 440-441, 35 Cal. Rptr. 772 (quoting from Luttrell v. Columbia Casualty Co. (1934) 136 Cal. App. 513, 515, 28 P.2d 1067)

[8] Jurats

Notary as unable to avoid liability for official misconduct by subterfuge of signing jurat with fictitious name. Bank of America v. Dowdy (1960) 186 Cal. App. 2d 690, 694, 9 Cal. Rptr. 779

[9] Liability

[a] Breach of Duty

Notary as liable for damages proximately caused by notary's breach of duty. Garton v. Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1980) 106 Cal. App. 3d 365, 377-378, 165 Cal. Rptr. 449

[b] Fraud

Notary's surety as liable for damages resulting from fraudulent acts of notary committed in performance of his or her duties. Lewis v. Agricultural Ins. Co. (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 285, 292, 82 Cal. Rptr. 509 (quoting from Hungate v. Wells (1933) 129 Cal. App. 133, 135, 18 P.2d 64)

[c] Jurat

Notary as not exempt from civil liability because of reliance on secretary to type appropriate jurat and secretary's failure to do so. Bernd v. Eu (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 511, 518, 161 Cal. Rptr. 58

[10] Oath

Oath prescribed by Cal. Const., art. XX, § 3, as applied to notary public as constitutional. Wirin v. Ostly (1961) 191 Cal. App. 2d 710, 712-713, 13 Cal. Rptr. 31 , cert. denied, 368 U.S. 952, 82 S. Ct. 393, 7 L. Ed. 2d 385 (1962)

[11] Obligation of Sureties

Obligation of sureties on official bond as strictissimi juris; but rule of strictissimi juris as coming into operation only after meaning of terms of bond have been ascertained. Bank of America v. Dowdy (1960) 186 Cal. App. 2d 690, 692-693, 9 Cal. Rptr. 779

[12] Official Misconduct

Notary's violation of statute prescribing requisites for taking acknowledgment as official misconduct for which injured person may recover against notary and notary's sureties on official bond. Transamerica Title Ins. Co. v. Green (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 693, 703, 89 Cal. Rptr. 915

Wrongful use by notary of notary seal as official misconduct. Bank of America v. Dowdy (1960) 186 Cal. App. 2d 690, 694, 695, 9 Cal. Rptr. 779

Affixing fictitious name to certificate of acknowledgment as official misconduct. Bank of America v. Dowdy (1960) 186 Cal. App. 2d 690, 695, 9 Cal. Rptr. 779

[13] Qualifications

Requirement that notary public be United States citizen as violative of equal protection clause of Fourteenth Amendment. Bernal v. Fainter (1984) 467 U.S. 216, 228, 104 S. Ct. 2312, 81 L. Ed. 2d 175

[14] Statute of Limitations

Former Code Civ. Proc. § 338(6) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 338(f)) as applying to actions against notary's surety so that action not brought within six-year period specified by that section, regardless of when misdeed was discovered, as barred. Butterfield v. Northwestern National Ins. Co. (1980) 100 Cal. App. 3d 974, 979, 161 Cal. Rptr. 280

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.56

§ 390.56 Attorney General Opinions

Notary public as not required to ascertain validity of title, Attorney at Law, in giving certificate of acknowledgment or jurat. 60 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 133 (1977)

Notary public as required by Gov. Code § 6100 [prior to its amendment] to charge fee for services [Gov. Code §§ 8211, 8211.5, 8211.8]. 59 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 679 (1976)

Requirements for notarial seals. 42 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 84, 85-87 (1963)

Effect of use of nonconforming notarial seals. 42 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 56, 56-59 (1963)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.57

§ 390.57 Law Reviews

Note, Torts: The Privity Rule: Liability for Injury to Intangible Interests Based on Negligent Performance of a Contract, 46 Cal. L. Rev. 851 (1958)

Comment, Notaries Public: Duty in Taking Acknowledgements: Certification Upon Personal Knowledge, 12 Cal. L. Rev. 229 (1923)

Comment, Notaries: Acknowledgment by a Party in Interest, 2 Cal. L. Rev. 335 (1914)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.58

§ 390.58 Text References

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 12, Real Property, §§ 284-291 (10th ed. 2005)

47 Cal. Jur. 3d Notaries §§ 1-11

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 390.59-390.69

[Reserved]

§§ 390.59[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART IV. FORMS

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.70

§ 390.70 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] Based on Notary Public's Official Misconduct or Neglect--Action by Person Injured Against Notary Public and Surety on Notary's Official Bond [Gov. Code § 8214]--False Certificate of Acknowledgment [Civ. Code §§ 1185, 1189]--General Form

[1] FORM Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] Based on Notary Public's Official Misconduct or Neglect--Action by Person Injured Against Notary Public and Surety on Notary's Official Bond [Gov. Code § 8214]--False Certificate of Acknowledgment [Civ. Code §§ 1185, 1189]--General Form

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name], and	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____ [name], a corporation,	)
Defendants.	)
	)
	)

Plaintiff alleges:

1. At all times herein mentioned, defendant _____ [name], hereinafter referred to as "defendant notary," was and is a duly commissioned, qualified, and acting notary public for the State of California and a resident of _____ County, California.

2. Defendant _____ [name], hereinafter referred to as "defendant surety," is, and at all times herein mentioned was, an insurance corporation, organized and existing under the laws of _____ [specify, e.g., California], with its principal place of business located in [_____ (name of city or judicial district),] _____ County, California.

3. On or about _____ [date], defendant surety executed its official bond as surety for and on behalf of defendant notary, as notary public, in the sum of $_____, in accordance with the requirements of Government Code Section 8212. Bond was given to assure the faithful performance of the official duties of defendant notary as notary public. [If the surety was not an admitted surety insurer, add: After execution of the bond, it was approved by the Honorable _____ (name), a Judge of the Superior Court of California, County of _____.] On _____ [date] the bond was filed with the County Clerk of _____ County, and, on_____ [date] it was recorded in the office of the County Recorder of that county in Book _____ of Official Records, at Page _____. The bond was in full force and effect at all times herein mentioned.

[4. _____ (Set forth facts, if any, showing that a signed and acknowledged instrument was required by plaintiff before making a detrimental change of position, e.g.: On or about _____ (date) one _____ (name) sought to borrow from plaintiff the sum of $_____, which was to be repaid _____ (specify, e.g., one year from the date the loan was made) with interest at the rate of _____ percent per annum. Plaintiff informed _____ (name of borrower) that plaintiff would loan the money only on condition that repayment of the loan with interest on the due date was guaranteed by _____ (name), _____ (describe relationship to borrower), and that execution of the guaranty had to be acknowledged by _____ (name of guarantor) before a notary public of California).]

5. _____ [Set forth facts concerning acknowledgment, e.g.: Thereafter, on or about _____ (date) _____ (name of borrower) presented to plaintiff a written guaranty, purportedly signed by _____ (name of guarantor) guaranteeing that if _____ (name of borrower) failed to repay, in whole or in part, the principal of the loan with interest on the due date, _____ (name of guarantor) would forthwith, on receiving written notice from plaintiff, pay plaintiff the unpaid amount. Affixed to the written guaranty was a Certificate of Acknowledgment executed by, and bearing the official seal of, defendant notary in which it was certified that on _____ (date) _____ (name of guarantor), had personally appeared before defendant notary, as such notary public, that _____ (name of guarantor) was proved to defendant notary on the basis of satisfactory evidence to be the person who was described in and whose name was subscribed to the written guaranty, and that _____ (name of guarantor) then and there acknowledged that he/she had executed the written guaranty. A copy of the guaranty with the Certificate of Acknowledgment affixed is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof].

6. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that the Certificate of Acknowledgment was, and is, false and that defendant notary _____ [at all times _____ (knew or should have known) that it was false or took the acknowledgment without knowing, or having satisfactory evidence that, the person making the acknowledgment was the individual who was described in and who executed the instrument].

7. Ignorant of the falsity of the Certificate of Acknowledgment and relying on the truth of its statements, plaintiff, on _____ (date) _____ [specify plaintiff's acts in reliance of false acknowledgment, e.g., delivered to _____ (name of borrower) the sum of $_____ and took in return a promissory note, dated the same day and signed by _____ (name of borrower), in which _____ (name of borrower) promised to pay to plaintiff one year from date the sum of $_____ with interest thereon atthe rate of _____ percent per annum. A copy of the promissory note is attached hereto as Exhibit B and made a part hereof].

8. _____ [Allege facts showing detriment sustained, e.g.: _____ (Name of borrower) failed to pay all or any part of the principal or interest on _____ (due date), or at any other time, and has, notwithstanding plaintiff's repeated demands, failed and refused, and continues to fail and refuse, to do so. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that _____ (name of borrower) is hopelessly insolvent and is unable to pay all or any part of the principal or interest on the note. In addition, _____ (name of guarantor) has failed and refused, and continues to fail and refuse, to pay the amount due on the note, the interest, or any part of either, on the grounds that he/she had never seen the written guaranty prior to the time he/she was asked to make good on it, that he/she did not sign it, and that he/she never appeared before defendant notary and acknowledged that he/she had signed it].

9. As a proximate result of defendant's false certificate and plaintiff's acting on it as herein alleged, plaintiff has been damaged _____ [specify, e.g., in the sum of $_____ (amount of principal), together with interest on that sum at the rate of _____ percent per annum from and after _____ (date note was executed and delivered)].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. Against defendant notary for _____ [specify, e.g., the sum of $_____ (principal) plus interest on that sum at the rate of _____ percent per annum from _____ (date) until paid];

2. Against defendant surety for the amount of the judgment against defendant notary [up to the limit of the surety's bond];

3. Against both defendants for costs of suit herein incurred by plaintiff; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By:_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the plaintiff in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing form of complaint may be used by a person to recover damages from a notary public and the notary's surety for an injury sustained as the proximate result of the official misconduct or neglect of a notary in failing to comply with statutory requirements in taking the acknowledgment of the execution of an instrument [see Civ. Code §§ 1185, 1189; Gov. Code § 8214].

[3] Allegations

A complaint against a notary public and his or her surety for damages resulting from the notary's official misconduct or neglect should allege facts showing the following:

1. Defendant notary is a duly commissioned, qualified, and acting notary public [Gov. Code §§ 8200, 8201]. This is alleged in Paragraph 1 of the foregoing form and establishes, from a pleading standpoint, the notary's duty to the public to comply with statutes when performing notarial acts.

2. The identity of the surety as a bonding or insurance company. This is alleged in Paragraph 2 of the form.

3. Defendant notary is covered by a bond [Gov. Code § 8212] issued by defendant surety. This is alleged in Paragraph 3.

4. Defendant notary performed a notarial act in his or her official capacity. Paragraph 5 alleges the making of a certificate of acknowledgment by the notary.

5. The act was wrongful (breach of duty), constituting official misconduct or neglect [Gov. Code § 8214; see Civ. Code § 1185 (duties of officer taking acknowledgment)]. This is alleged in Paragraph 6.

6. Plaintiff relied on the notarial act in making a change of position. This is alleged in Paragraph 7.

7. Plaintiff suffered detriment or loss [see Civ. Code § 3282] as a result of the wrongful act. This is alleged in Paragraph 8.

8. The notary's wrongful act was a proximate cause of plaintiff's detriment [see Civ. Code § 3333; Bank of America v. Dowdy (1960) 186 Cal. App. 2d 690, 694, 9 Cal. Rptr. 779 ; MacBride v. Schoen (1932) 121 Cal. App. 321, 322-323, 8 P.2d 888] . This is alleged in Paragraph 9.

9. Plaintiff sustained damages, that is, the measure of the detriment in terms of money [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3333]. This is also alleged in Paragraph 9.

Capacity allegations and allegations laying venue have been included (Paragraphs 1, 2), although they are not expressly required. Paragraph 1 is a combination venue/capacity/duty allegation. The statement as to defendant's residence lays venue in the county of defendant's residence [see Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a)]. If venue is not based on the place of defendant's residence, the statement as to residence may be omitted. The statement that defendant is a notary public establishes both the capacity in which defendant is being sued and his or her duty to comply with statutory requirements in the performance of his or her official acts. Paragraph 2 is a capacity/venue allegation. The statement as to the surety's corporate status and place of incorporation alleges its capacity. The paragraph also identifies the defendant as an insurance corporation. The statement as to the location of its principal place of business establishes venue [Code Civ. Proc. § 395.5] and may be omitted if venue is based on some other fact, such as the place of the notary's residence (Paragraph 1). For a discussion of venue generally and forms for use on motions to change venue, see Ch. 571, Venue . For memoranda of points and authorities supporting and opposing motions to change venue generally, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 238, Venue (Matthew Bender).

Paragraph 4 should be included if the particular instrument was expressly required by plaintiff to be signed and acknowledged by the maker and delivered to plaintiff as a condition precedent to plaintiff's change of position. Such fact, when it exists, tends to strengthen the reliance allegation (Paragraph 7) without which the false certificate would not be a proximate cause (Paragraph 9) of plaintiff's loss.

If the facts are such as to justify a claim for exemplary, or punitive, damages under Civ. Code § 3294 (for example, if the notary public intentionally embarked on a scheme to defraud plaintiff [see Civ. Code § 3294(a), (c)(3)], plaintiff should, of course, seek them. In such event, the complaint should include the allegations establishing the fraud [see § 390.71, Paragraphs 11, 13]).

[4] Statute of Limitations

For a discussion of the period of limitation applicable to an action against a notary public for damages, see § 390.30.

[5] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required, verification will require any answer to be verified also, if the action is in the superior court and is not a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude a general denial except in a limited civil case, and will preclude a general denial even in a limited civil case when the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion see Ch. 26, Answers .

[6] Requirements for Taking Acknowledgment

The requisites of an acknowledgment under Civ. Code § 1185 are the personal appearance of the maker of the instrument before the notary public, the maker's acknowledgment that he or she signed the instrument, and the notary's determination on the basis of satisfactory evidence that the person is the person he or she purports to be [see Civ. Code § 1185(a),(b); see also § 390.22[2][e]]. The form of the certificate of acknowledgment for use in all cases, except acknowledgments made before military officers, is set forth by statute [Civ. Code §§ 1188, 1189(a)(1); see Civ. Code § 1183.5 (acknowledgment made before military officer)].

"Satisfactory evidence, for purposes of establishing the identity of the person making an acknowledgment, means the absence of any information, evidence, or other circumstances that would lead a reasonable person to believe that the person making the acknowledgment is not the individual he or she claims to be and any one of the following" [Civ. Code § 1185(b)]:

(1) The oath or affirmation of a credible witness personally known to the officer, and whose identity is proven to the officer on presentation of any document satisfying the requirements of paragraph (3) or (4), below, that the person making the acknowledgment is personally known to the witness and that each of the following are true: (a) the person making the acknowledgment is the person named in the document; (b) the person making the acknowledgment is personally known to the witness; (c) it is the reasonable belief of the witness that under the circumstances it would be very difficult or impossible for that person to obtain another form of identification; (d) the person making the acknowledgment does not possess any of the identification documents named below in paragraphs (3) and (4); and (e) the witness does not have a financial interest in the document being acknowledged and is not named in the document;

(2) The oath or affirmation under penalty of perjury of two credible witnesses, whose identities are proven to the officer on presentation of any document satisfying the requirements of paragraph (3) or (4), below, that each listed above in paragraph (1) is true;

(3) Reasonable reliance on the presentation to the officer of any one of the following, if the document is current or has been issued within five years: (a) an identification card or driver's license issued by the California Department of Motor Vehicles, or (b) a passport issued by the Department of State of the United States; or

(4) Reasonable reliance on the presentation of any one of the following, if the document is current or has been issued within five years and contains a photograph and description of the person named on it, is signed by the person, bears a serial or other identifying number, and, in the event that the document is a passport, has been stamped by the United States Citizenship and Immigration Services of the Department of Homeland Security: (a) a passport issued by a foreign government; (b) a driver's license issued by a state other than California or by a Canadian or Mexican public agency authorized to issue drivers' licenses; (c) an identification card issued by a state other than California; (d) an identification card issued by any branch of the Armed Forces of the United States; (e) an inmate identification card issued on or after January 1, 1988, by the Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation, if the inmate is in custody (inmate identification cards issued prior to that date are also satisfactory evidence if the inmate is in custody), or (f) an employee identification card issued by an agency or office of the State of California or by an agency or office of a city, county, or city and county in California.

A notary public who fails to obtain the satisfactory evidence required by paragraph (1), above, or who willfully states as true any material fact that he or she knows to be false, is subject to a civil penalty of up to $10,000 [Civ. Code §§ 1185(b)(1)(B), 1189(a)(2)]. An action to impose the penalty may be brought by the Secretary of State in an administrative proceeding, or by any public prosecutor in superior court, and an order of judgment for the penalty is enforceable as a civil judgment [Civ. Code §§ 1185(b)(1)(B), 1189(a)(2) (public prosecutor must inform Secretary of State of imposition of penalty)].

[7] Presumption and Burden of Proof

An officer who has taken an acknowledgment pursuant to Civ. Code § 1185 is presumed to have operated in accordance with law [Civ. Code § 1185(c)]. The burden of proof in establishing the negligence or misconduct of the officer in any action for damages based on the officer's failure to establish the proper identity of the person making the acknowledgment is on the party who files the action [Civ. Code § 1185(d)].

[8] Perjury

Any person convicted of perjury under Civ. Code § 1185 forfeits any financial interest in the acknowledged document [Civ. Code § 1185(e)].

[9] State Statutes

Prohibition against taking acknowledgment of instrument unless officer taking it knows or has satisfactory evidence that person making acknowledgment is person who is described in and who executed instrument. Civ. Code § 1185

Forms of certificates of acknowledgment. Civ. Code §§ 1183.5 (acknowledgement taken before military officer), 1189(a) (all others); but see Civ. Code § 1189(d) (acknowledgment provided prior to January 1, 1993, and conforming to former Civ. Code §§ 1189-1192 as valid)

Surety as liable on principal's default without demand or notice. Civ. Code § 2807

Admission of certified copy of bond in evidence without further proof when bond recorded pursuant to statute. Code Civ. Proc. § 995.260

Notary's official bond, amount and form. Gov. Code § 8212

Filing bond and oath of office; recording bond. Gov. Code § 8213

Civil liability of notary and notary's surety for notary's official misconduct or neglect. Gov. Code § 8214

[10] Decisions

[a] Bonds

Official bond as surety bond applicable to acts of public officials; nature of suretyship relationship. Butterfield v. Northwestern National Ins. Co. (1980) 100 Cal. App. 3d 974, 978-979, 161 Cal. Rptr. 280

Surety bond of notary public as official bond [Gov. Code § 8212] on which liability of surety is no greater than that of notary [Gov. Code § 8214]; when primary obligation on official bond is barred or in any legal way extinguished, surety as relieved. Breckenridge v. Mason (1967) 256 Cal. App. 2d 121, 130, 64 Cal. Rptr. 201

[b] False Acknowledgment

Lack of value of forged document as not exonerating negligent notary public from liability to injured party for false notarial acknowledgment. Iselin-Jefferson Financial Co. v. United California Bank (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 886, 891-892, 129 Cal. Rptr. 670, 549 P.2d 142

Liability of notary public to person who executed instrument for taking of acknowledgment of altered instrument contrary to requirements of Civ. Code § 1185, whether notary intentionally took acknowledgment with knowledge instrument had been altered or merely did so negligently. Garton v. Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1980) 106 Cal. App. 3d 365, 377-378 (liability results whether notary intentionally took acknowledgment with knowledge instrument had been altered or merely did so negligently)

Officer in taking acknowledgment as required by Civ. Code §§ 1185, 1189 to have acknowledging party appear in person, and officer as required to certify that such party personally appeared; instrument acknowledged in violation of this rule, for example when it is acknowledged through telephone, as rendering officer liable in damages if it should turn out that acknowledgment was by imposter. McDonald v. Plumb (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 374, 376, 90 Cal. Rptr. 822

Notary public's certification that person is present when person is absent as negligence rendering notary liable on his or her bond for false certificate. Lewis v. Agricultural Ins. Co. (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 285, 292, 82 Cal. Rptr. 509

Both notary and his or her sureties as liable for official misconduct for making false certificate of acknowledgment. Bank of America v. Dowdy (1960) 186 Cal. App. 2d 690, 693, 9 Cal. Rptr. 779

Liability of notary public to grantor for false acknowledgment of deed. Greeninger v. New Amsterdam Cas. Co. (1957) 152 Cal. App. 2d 645, 646, 313 P.2d 607

Notary public as liable to person injured if false certificate of acknowledgment is proximate cause of person's loss.

Greeninger v. New Amsterdam Cas. Co. (1957) 152 Cal. App. 2d 645, 646-647, 313 P.2d 607

Liability of surety on notary's bond for false certificate of acknowledgment, irrespective of valuelessness of instrument, if notary knew acknowledgment was false and certificate of acknowledgment was made by notary for purpose of deceiving and defrauding plaintiff. Hemet Home Builders Asso. v. Wells (1934) 3 Cal. App. 2d 65, 69-80, 39 P.2d 233

Notary and his or her surety as liable for negligence of notary in taking acknowledgment or for making false certificate of acknowledgment. Hemet Home Builders Asso. v. Wells (1934) 3 Cal. App. 2d 65, 77, 39 P.2d 233

Surety on notary public's bond as liable for damages to party injured by false certificate of acknowledgment. Luttrell v. Columbia Casualty Co. (1934) 136 Cal. App. 513, 515, 28 P.2d 1067

[c] Negligence

Civil liability for negligently certifying an acknowledgment as well established, both under Gov. Code § 8214, which specifically provides for civil recovery due to official misconduct or neglect of a notary public, and under case law. Bernd v. Eu (1979) 161 Cal. Rptr. 58

Notary as grossly negligent in processing certificate of acknowledgment when she did not bother to read its contents. Bernd v. Eu (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 511, 517, 161 Cal. Rptr. 58

Notary and her surety as required to indemnify injured party if notary was negligent and negligence was proximate cause of injury. Common Wealth Ins. Systems, Inc. v. Kersten (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 1014, 1032, 115 Cal. Rptr. 653

Notary's breach of statutory duty (Civ. Code § 1185) as negligence per se. Transamerica Title Ins. Co. v. Green (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 693, 702, 89 Cal. Rptr. 915

[d] Proximate Cause

Although false notarial acknowledgment does not generally cause loss if forged instrument would have been worthless if genuine, notary as liable for loss if evidence shows that plaintiff would not have entered into transaction but for false acknowledgment. Iselin-Jefferson Financial Co. v. United California Bank (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 886, 891, 129 Cal. Rptr. 670, 549 P.2d 142

Requirement that notary's misconduct or neglect be a proximate, but not necessarily sole, cause of plaintiff's loss. Common Wealth Ins. Systems, Inc. v. Kersten (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 1014, 1033, 115 Cal. Rptr. 653 ; Tutelman v. Agricultural Ins. Co. (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 914, 918-919, 102 Cal. Rptr. 296

Proximate cause of injury as cause which, in natural and continuous sequence, produces injury, and without which injury would not have occurred; notary's wrongful act as not required to be sole cause of injury. McDonald v. Plumb (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 374, 377, 90 Cal. Rptr. 822

Necessity of showing proximate cause of loss or damage, in addition to showing that act was wrongful or negligent, in order to recover for wrongful or negligent act of notary. MacBride v. Schoen (1932) 121 Cal. App. 321, 322-323, 8 P.2d 888

[11] Cross References

For a discussion and forms of certificates of acknowledgment, see Ch. 9, Acknowledgments .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART IV. FORMS

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.71

§ 390.71 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Actual [Civ. Code § 3333] and Exemplary [Civ. Code § 3294(c)(3)] Damages Based on Notary Public's Official Misconduct or Neglect--Action by Purchaser of Trust Deed and Note Against Notary Public/Real Estate Broker and Surety on Notary's Official Bond [Gov. Code § 8214]--False Certificate of Acknowledgment [Civ. Code §§ 1185, 1189] of Execution of Trust Deed [Civ. Code § 2952] Pursuant to Scheme to Defraud [Civ. Code §§ 1709, 1710]

[1] FORM Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Actual [Civ. Code § 3333] and Exemplary [Civ. Code § 3294(c)(3)] Damages Based on Notary Public's Official Misconduct or Neglect--Action by Purchaser of Trust Deed and Note Against Notary Public/Real Estate Broker and Surety on Notary's Official Bond [Gov. Code § 8214]--False Certificate of Acknowledgment [Civ. Code §§ 1185, 1189] of Execution of Trust Deed [Civ. Code § 2952] Pursuant to Scheme to Defraud [Civ. Code §§ 1709, 1710]

[Caption. See § 390.70[1].]

Plaintiff alleges:

1. At all times hereinafter mentioned, defendant _____ [name], hereinafter referred to as "defendant notary," was and is a duly commissioned, qualified, and acting notary public for the State of California, a duly licensed real estate broker, and a resident of [_____ (name of city or judicial district),] _____ County, California.

2. [Capacity of defendant surety and location of principal place of business. See § 390.70[1], Paragraph 2.]

3, [Execution, filing, and recording of official bond. See § 390.70[1], Paragraph 3.]

4. On or about _____ [date] defendant notary, in his/her capacity as notary public, executed a Certificate of Acknowledgment, authenticated with his/her official seal, affixed to a deed of trust, certifying that on _____ [date] _____ [name of purported trustor] personally appeared before defendant notary, as notary public, that he/she was proved to defendant notary on the basis of satisfactory evidence to be the person whose name was subscribed to the deed of trust, and that he/she then and there acknowledged that he/she had executed the deed of trust. A copy of the trust deed and Certificate of Acknowledgment is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.

5. The deed of trust was purportedly given to secure payment of a promissory note, bearing _____ [specify date, e.g., the date, _____ or the same date as the deed of trust], in the principal sum of $_____, payable _____ [specify, e.g., in full two years from date] with interest at the rate of _____ percent per annum. The note was purportedly executed by the trustor of the deed of trust, as maker, in favor of _____ [name], as payee, who is the purported beneficiary named in the deed of trust.

6. By virtue of the Certificate of Acknowledgment affixed to the deed of trust, the trust deed was, on _____ [date] recorded in the office of the County Recorder of _____ County, California, in Book _____, page _____, of Official Records.

7. Thereafter, on or about _____ [date] defendant notary represented to plaintiff that the trust deed and note were a good investment and, in his/her capacity as a licensed real estate broker, solicited plaintiff to purchase them.

8. In reliance on the deed of trust, defendant notary's affixed Certificate of Acknowledgment, and the fact that the trust deed with the certificate affixed was recorded, plaintiff, on or about _____ [date] agreed to purchase the promissory note and trust deed. As a condition of the purchase, plaintiff required that the signature of the payee of the note endorsing the note over to plaintiff and the signature of the beneficiary on the assignment of the trust deed to plaintiff be acknowledged before a notary public.

9. On _____ [date], defendant notary delivered to plaintiff the promissory note, purportedly endorsed to plaintiff by the payee, and an assignment of the trust deed to plaintiff, purportedly executed by the beneficiary, each having attached to it a Certificate of Acknowledgment executed by defendant notary certifying that the person who signed the instrument personally appeared before defendant notary, as notary public, that he/she was proved to defendant notary on the basis of satisfactory evidence to be the person whose name was subscribed to the instrument, and that he/she then and there acknowledged that he/she executed the instrument. A copy of the note and certificate and a copy of the assignment and certificate are attached hereto as Exhibits B and C, respectively, and made a part hereof.

10. Relying on the certificates of acknowledgment as establishing the identity and genuineness of the signatures of the endorser/assignor on the promissory note and assignment, plaintiff _____ [e.g., paid defendant notary the purchase price agreed to].

11. The deed of trust, promissory note, and assignment were and are false in that the persons named in them as maker/beneficiary, maker/payee, and assignor, respectively, as well as the property purportedly described in the trust deed, were and are fictitious. Defendant notary, with the intent to defraud plaintiff through the use of his/her powers as a notary public, prepared the foregoing instruments, signed each in the fictitious name designated, and executed the Certificates of Acknowledgment affixed to each instrument. The certificates were false in that no one ever appeared before defendant notary at any time and acknowledged that he or she executed any of these particular instruments and, as alleged above, the signatures on each were of fictitious persons and were made by defendant notary himself/herself.

12. As a proximate result of defendant notary's fraudulent acts, as herein alleged, plaintiff has been damaged in the sum of $_____ principal, together with interest on this sum at the rate of _____ percent per annum from and after _____ [date note was executed].

13. Defendant notary, in committing the foregoing alleged acts, intentionally misrepresented the facts to plaintiff and engaged in a deceitful course of conduct with the intention of depriving plaintiff of property, and plaintiff is, therefore, entitled to an award of exemplary, or punitive, damages.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. Against defendant notary in the sum of $_____ as actual, or compensatory, damages;

2. Against defendant notary for exemplary, or punitive, damages;

3. Against defendant surety for the amount of compensatory damages awarded against defendant notary [up to the limit of the surety's bond];

4. Against both defendants for the costs of suit herein incurred by plaintiff; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By:_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

[Verification, if desired. See § 390.70[1].]

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing form of complaint may be used by a person in an action against a notary public and the notary's surety to recover actual and punitive damages from the notary public and actual damages, up to the bond limit, from defendant surety, sustained by plaintiff as a proximate result of defendant notary's scheme to defraud plaintiff by selling to plaintiff a false trust deed and promissory note. The form assumes that the scheme required for completion acts by both a notary public and a licensed real estate broker and that the notary and broker are the same person. With appropriate modifications, the form may also be used if the notary and broker are different persons and the action is against both and the surety of each. For conspiracy allegations that may, in such event, be incorporated in the foregoing form, see Ch. 126, Conspiracy .

[3] Allegations

The essential allegations of a complaint against a notary public and his or her surety for damages resulting from the notary's official misconduct or neglect are set forth in § 390.70[3]. The foregoing complaint contains these allegations.

In addition, the foregoing complaint, in Paragraphs 4-7, 9, and 11 alleges the acts undertaken by defendant notary in carrying out his or her scheme to defraud plaintiff. Paragraphs 8, 10, and 12 allege plaintiff's reliance and resulting detriment and Paragraph 13 summarizes the allegations as a basis for claiming exemplary damages. For a detailed discussion of actions based on fraud or deceit and the essential allegations of such a complaint, see Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit . For a discussion of exemplary damages and the requirements of a complaint seeking them, see Ch. 177, Damages .

[4] State Statutes

Fraud which will vitiate consent required under Civ. Code § 1567(3) to create contract. Civ. Code §§ 1571-1573

Fraud as ground for rescission of contract. Civ. Code § 1689

Actionable fraud or deceit. Civ. Code §§ 1709, 1710, 1711

Exemplary or punitive damages. Civ. Code §§ 3294, 3294.5

Measure of damages for fraud. Civ. Code §§ 3333, 3343

[5] Decisions

Notary public and his or her surety as liable for notary's official misconduct or neglect in making false certificate of acknowledgment of instrument, if certificate was a proximate cause of plaintiff's loss, even though instrument, if valid, would be uncollectible because of purported maker's insolvency or instrument is worthless because it is fictitious. See Iselin-Jefferson Financial Co. v. United California Bank (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 886, 890-892, 129 Cal. Rptr. 670, 549 P.2d 142 (false certification of acknowledgment of forged signature on guaranty agreement); Tutelman v. Agricultural Ins. Co (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 914, 917-919, 102 Cal. Rptr. 296 (false certification of acknowledgment of signatures on fictitious trust deed and assignment); Hemet Home Builders Asso. v. Wells (1934) 3 Cal. App. 2d 65, 70-80, 39 P.2d 233 (false certification of acknowledgment of signatures on fictitious trust deeds)

Notary who is guilty of negligence or intentional wrongdoing as personally liable to injured party; by reason of notary's bond, surety as also answerable to injured party. Butterfield v. Northwestern National Ins. Co. (1980) 100 Cal. App. 3d 974, 978, 161 Cal. Rptr. 280

Liability of sureties on notary public's bond for notary's misconduct in falsely certifying acknowledgment of false deeds of trust and false assignments of deed of trusts; notary and surety as liable if notary performs official act as part of scheme to defraud. Tutelman v. Agricultural Ins. Co. (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 914, 916-919, 102 Cal. Rptr. 296

Measure of damages of one who has relied on false certificate of acknowledgment of mortgage or trust deed in making loan as amount of debt and interest sought to be secured by mortgage or trust deed. Hemet Home Builders Asso. v. Wells (1934) 3 Cal. App. 2d 65, 77, 39 P.2d 233

Notary and his or her surety as liable for damages proximately resulting from false acknowledgment of deed of trust. Cole v. Ladeveze (1934) 137 Cal. App. 748, 750, 31 P.2d 447 (citing former Pol. Code § 801; now see Gov. Code § 8214)

[6] Cross References

See also § 390.70.

For a discussion and a form of complaint for use in an action against a real estate broker based on fraud, see Ch. 103, Brokers .

For a discussion and forms of complaints for use in an action based on conspiracy, see Ch. 126, Conspiracy .

For a discussion and the requirements of a complaint seeking an award of exemplary damages, see Ch. 177, Damages .

For a discussion and forms of complaint for use in actions based on fraud generally, see Ch. 269 Fraud and Deceit .

For memoranda of points and authorities supporting and opposing demurrers, motions for summary judgment, and motions for judgment notwithstanding the verdict in actions based on conspiracy, see 3 California Points and Authorities, Conspiracy.

For memoranda of points and authorities supporting and opposing demurrers and motions for new trial with respect to actual and exemplary damages claimed, see 5 California Points and Authorities, Damages, Part I.

For memoranda of points and authorities supporting and opposing demurrers and motions for judgment on the pleadings in fraud actions, see 8 California Points and Authorities, Fraud and Deceit.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 390 NOTARIES PUBLIC
PART IV. FORMS

34-390 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 390.72

§ 390.72 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] Proximately Caused by Notary's Negligence [Civ. Code § 1714; Gov. Code § 8214] in Undertaking, in Violation of Law [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 6125, 6126; Gov. Code § 8214.1(g)], to Draft Valid Formal Will--Action by Beneficiary Under Will Against Notary Resulting From Will's Being Denied Admission to Probate Because of Faulty Execution or Attestation [Prob. Code § 50]

[1] FORM Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] Proximately Caused by Notary's Negligence [Civ. Code § 1714; Gov. Code § 8214] in Undertaking, in Violation of Law [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 6125, 6126; Gov. Code § 8214.1(g)], to Draft Valid Formal Will--Action by Beneficiary Under Will Against Notary Resulting From Will's Being Denied Admission to Probate Because of Faulty Execution or Attestation [Prob. Code § 50]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____ [name],	)	(Negligence)
Defendant.	)	[Civ. Code §§ 1714, 3333; Gov. Code § 8214]
	)
	)

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff is the _____ [state relationship, e.g., sister or friend] of _____ [name], hereinafter referred to as "the decedent"[, and one of the decedent's heirs at law].

2. At all times herein mentioned, defendant was and is a duly commissioned, qualified, and acting notary public for the State of California and a resident of _____ County, California.

3. At none of the times herein mentioned was defendant an active member of the State Bar of California.

4. On our about _____ [date], defendant represented to the decedent that, as a notary public, he/she was authorized by law to draw valid wills and do all that was legally required to assure their admission to probate and that he/she had the necessary training and skill to do so. Defendant _____ [knew or should have known] that those representations were false and that there was no reasonable ground to support a belief that they were true. Defendant made the representations for the purpose of inducing the decedent to procure defendant to draw and secure the execution of decedent's will for a monetary compensation.

5. Thereafter, in reliance on defendant's representations, the decedent engaged defendant to draw decedent's will and to do all that was necessary to create a document that would be admitted to probate, and plaintiff paid defendant the sum of $_____ for this service. At the same time, the decedent instructed defendant that plaintiff was to be named _____ [the sole or a] beneficiary in the will and that she/he was to _____ [succeed to all of decedent's property or to receive _____ (describe property)] on decedent's death. Defendant orally agreed to draw a valid will according to decedent's instructions and to have it properly executed.

6. Thereafter, pursuant to the agreement and instructions, defendant prepared _____ [a document entitled _____ (e.g., Last Will and Testament) or an untitled document purporting to be the last will and testament] of _____ [name of decedent], had the decedent sign it, and affixed to the document his/her _____ [jurat or Certificate of Acknowledgment] authenticated by his/her notarial seal. A copy of the document with the affixed _____ [jurat or Certificate of Acknowledgment] and notarial seal is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.

7. The will was improperly _____ [executed or attested or other] in that defendant negligently _____ [state, e.g., failed to have the decedent subscribe his/her name to the will in the presence of two or more witnesses, or to acknowledge in the presence of two or more witnesses that he/she signed the will and that it was his/her will].

8. On _____ [date], the decedent died in _____ County, California, without having revoked or altered the terms of his/her purported will, and leaving an estate _____ [if plaintiff was to receive all or a specified sum state with an appraised value of $_____ or if plaintiff was to receive specified property state including _____ (describe property) which had an appraised value of $_____]. At all times after execution of the purported will until his/her death, the decedent believed that the will was valid and that it would, on his/her death, transfer the _____ [entire estate or the sum of $_____ or specify property] to plaintiff.

9. On _____ [date], a petition for probate of the purported will was filed in the Superior Court of California, County of _____, but, because of the infirmity alleged above, the purported will was, by order of the court dated _____ [date], denied admission to probate.

10. Subsequently, the estate was, by order of the superior court, distributed to decedent's heirs at law according to the laws of intestate succession, and, instead of receiving the _____ [entire estate or sum of $_____ or specify property], as decedent intended, _____ [plaintiff received nothing or plaintiff, as one of decedent's heirs at law, received _____ (the sum of $_____ or property having a value of $_____ or money and property, the total value of which, at the time of distribution, was $_____), which is less than what plaintiff would have received had the will been valid].

11. As a proximate result of defendant's unlawful undertaking to draw and secure the proper execution and attestation of a valid will for the decedent, naming plaintiff as _____ [the sole or a] beneficiary, and his/her negligent failure to do so, plaintiff has been damaged in the sum of $_____ [value of entire estate or of specified sum or value of property which was to have been received, less value of any amount of property received under laws of intestate succession].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For the sum of $_____;

2. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 390.70[1].]

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint may be used by the intended beneficiary, under an invalid will drafted by defendant notary public, to recover the loss sustained by reason of the will's being denied admission to probate because of its improper drafting, execution, or attestation.

[3] Allegations

A complaint for damages based on negligence must contain allegations showing (1) a duty by defendant to plaintiff, (2) a breach of that duty, (3) a loss or detriment by plaintiff, (4) the loss or detriment was the proximate result of defendant's negligence, and (5) damages (measure of the loss in terms of money) [see, e.g., Johnstone v. Panama-Pacific International Exposition Co. (1921) 187 Cal. 323, 326, 202 P.34 ; Miglierini v. Havemann (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 570, 572, 49 Cal. Rptr. 795 ; Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282, 3333; Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)]. The duty, of course, is to use due care [see, e.g., Tucker v. Lombardo (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 457, 462-463, 303 P.2d 1041] , and may arise from a contractual relation [see, e.g., Allied Properties v. John A. Blume & Associates (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 848, 853, 856-858, 102 Cal. Rptr. 259 (contract to conduct study of engineering feasibility of a small boat pier; negligence not established); Hobson v. Silvea (1920) 50 Cal. App. 35, 38, 194 P. 525 (contract as imposing on bailee duty of exercising ordinary care in preservation of bailed property)]. Both breach of duty (negligence) and proximate cause may be alleged generally [see, e.g., McMillan v. Western P.R. Co. (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 841, 845, 9 Cal. Rptr. 361, 357 P.2d 449 ; Rannard v. Lockheed Aircraft Corp. (1945) 26 Cal. 2d 149, 156-157, 157 P.2d 1] .

This complaint alleges facts showing the existence of a duty (Paragraphs 4, 5), the breach of that duty (Paragraphs 6, 7) loss (Paragraphs 9, 10), proximate cause (Paragraph 11), and damages (Paragraph 11).

[4] Liability of Notary Public and Surety

Civ. Code § 1714(a) makes every person liable for injuries resulting from the person's willful acts or from the person's want of ordinary care (i.e., negligence) in the management of his or her property or person. The statute states the general principle that a person is liable for injuries caused by his or her failure to exercise reasonable care in the circumstances, and it has been held that no exception to this fundamental principle should be made unless clearly supported by public policy [Rowland v. Christian (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 108, 112, 70 Cal. Rptr. 97, 443 P.2d 561] . Moreover, the violation of a statute imposing a duty constitutes negligence per se [Transamerica Title Ins. Co. v. Green (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 693, 702, 89 Cal. Rptr. 915] . Under the general negligence principle, liability has been imposed on a notary public for the latter's negligent performance of a contract to draft a valid will [Biakanja v. Irving (1958) 49 Cal. 2d 647, 650-651, 320 P.2d 16 ; see also, e.g., Timmsen v. Forest E. Olson, Inc. (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 860, 871, 86 Cal. Rptr. 359 (agent who violates his or her duty to use reasonable care, skill, and diligence as liable for any losses which his or her principal may sustain as the result of his or her negligence or breach of duty); Northwestern Title Security Co. v. Flack (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 134, 145, 85 Cal. Rptr. 693 (negligent preparation of title report)].

In addition, Gov. Code § 8214 provides that for the official misconduct or neglect of a notary public, the notary public and the sureties on the notary public's offical bond are liable in a civil action to the persons injured for all damages sustained. Even though the act of a notary public in undertaking to draft a will is unlawful [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 6125, 6126; Gov. Code § 8214.1(g)] and, therefore, is not included among the duties of a notary public listed in Gov. Code §§ 8200-8230 or in any other code section, the taking of acknowledgments and the execution of jurats are listed among such duties [see Gov. Code § 8205(a)(2),(3)], as is the requirement that the notary public authenticate with his or her official seal all official acts [Gov. Code § 8207]. It would, therefore, appear that if the notary public performs an authorized duty as a substitute for an act essential to create a valid will, and this substitution renders the will that the notary has undertaken to draft invalid, the notary's conduct would constitute official misconduct or neglect under Gov. Code § 8214, rendering both the notary public and the surety liable. Nevertheless, apparently neither of the two cases involving the affixing of a notarial seal to an improperly executed or attested will involved an action against the surety. Biakanja v. Irving (1958) 49 Cal. 2d 647, 320 P.2d 16 , was an action by the beneficiary named in the invalid will against the notary public only (liability imposed), and Vanderhoof v. Prudential Sav. & Loan Asso., (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 507, 120 Cal. Rptr. 207 , was an action by the beneficiary named in the invalid will against the notary public's employer (liability not imposed). Of course, in Biakanja it may be that a second action was instituted against the surety after the notary's liability was established, but that does not appear from the court's record in Biakanja.

Nevertheless, since it would appear that the surety would, to the extent of its liability under its bond, be liable under Gov. Code § 8214, and because both the notary public and the surety may be sued in the same action [see, e.g., Kane v. Mendenhall (1936) 5 Cal. 2d 749, 752-753, 56 P.2d 498 (action against broker and his surety under real estate broker's law)], counsel may wish to join the surety. If so, Paragraphs 2 and 3 of § 390.70[1] may be incorporated in the foregoing complaint.

[5] State Statutes

Practice of law by person who is not member of California State Bar, and not otherwise authorized by statute or court rule to practice law in California, is prohibited and punishable as misdemeanor. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 6125, 6126

Practice of law by notary public in violation of Bus. & Prof. Code § 6125 as ground for discipline. Gov. Code § 8214.1(g)

[6] Decisions

Undertaking to draft valid will by notary public who is not member of California State Bar as unauthorized practice of law. Biakanja v. Irving (1958) 49 Cal. 2d 647, 651, 320 P.2d 16

Notary public who drew and improperly supervised execution of will, substituting jurat for required attestation, as liable to beneficiary named in will for damages sustained as result of will's being denied admission to probate because of notary's negligence in failing to have will properly attested as required by Prob. Code § 50. Biakanja v. Irving (1958) 49 Cal. 2d 647, 648-651, 320 P.2d 16 (disapproving Buckley v. Gray (1895) 110 Cal. 339, 42 P. 900 and Mickel v. Murphy (1957) 147 Cal. App. 2d 718, 305 P.2d 993 , insofar as these cases are in conflict with foregoing rule)

Notary public as breaching no duty in taking and certifying acknowledgment of will at request of testator who believed that this would result in creating valid will, even though notary public knew it would not, since acknowledgment of execution of written instruments is ministerial act devoid of exercise of discretion and for notary to have advised testator of legal effect would have been illegal act, since it would have constituted unlawful practice of law. Vanderhoof v. Prudential Sav. & Loan Asso., (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 507, 511512, 120 Cal. Rptr. 207

[7] Law Reviews

Note, "Torts: The Privity Rule: Liability for Injury to Intangible Interests Based on Negligent Performance of a Contract," 46 Cal. L. Rev. 851 (1958)

[8] Cross References

For a discussion and forms of complaints for use in negligence actions generally, see Ch. 380, Negligence .

For memoranda of points and authorities for use in actions based on negligence, see 11 California Points and Authorities, Negligence.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 391.syn

§ 391.syn Synopsis to Chapter 391: NUISANCE

§ 391.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 391.02 Cross References

§§ 391.03through 391.09 [Reserved]

§ 391.10 Governing Statutes

§ 391.11 Definitions

[1] Nuisance

[2] Abatement of Nuisance

§ 391.12 Public Nuisance

§ 391.13 Private Nuisance

[1] Definition

[2] Requirement of Unreasonable Conduct Causing Substantial Harm

§ 391.14 Comparison of Private and Public Nuisances

§ 391.15 Permanent Nuisance

§ 391.16 Continuing Nuisance

§ 391.17 Comparison of Permanent and Continuing Nuisances

§ 391.18 Nuisance Per Se

§ 391.19 Limited Injunctive Relief Against Zoned Businesses

§ 391.20 Doctrine of Balancing of Conveniences

§ 391.21 Persons and Entities Liable for Nuisance

[1] Public Entities

[2] Successive Owners

[3] Prior Owners or Possessors of Affected Property

§ 391.22 Nuisance and Negligence

[1] Distinction Between Harm and Conduct

[2] Liability for Nuisance Without Negligence

[3] Pleading and Proof of Nuisance and Negligence

§ 391.23 Attractive Nuisance Doctrine Abolished

§ 391.24 Activities Considered Nuisances

[1] Broad Range of Possible Activities

[2] Airports

[3] Encroachments

[4] Fire Hazards

[5] Noise

[6] Diversion or Obstruction of Water Flow

[7] Odors

[8] Pollution of Air, Water, or Soil

[9] Obstruction of Streets

[10] Obscenity

[11] Gambling, Lewdness, or Prostitution

[12] Bathhouses

[13] Place Used for Keeping or Distributing Controlled Substances (Drug Houses)

[a] Definition

[b] Gang Activity

[c] Abatement by Public Official or Private Citizen

[d] Suit for Damages

§ 391.25 Activities Not Considered Nuisances

[1] Commercial Agriculture

[2] District Agricultural Associations

[3] Agricultural Processing

[4] Obstruction of Light and Air

[5] Defective or Polluting Products

[6] Sport Shooting Ranges

§ 391.26 Remedies for Permanent or Continuing Nuisances

§ 391.27 Remedies for Private Nuisances

[1] Civil Action

[2] Seeking Injunctive Relief

[3] Seeking Damages

[4] Abatement Through Self-Help

§ 391.28 Remedies for Public Nuisances

[1] Indictment or Information

[2] Civil Action or Abatement

[a] By District or City Attorney

[b] By Special District

[c] By Private Person

[3] Abatement Through Self-Help

§ 391.29 Scope of Injunction to Be Limited

§ 391.30 Defenses

[1] Nuisances Sanctioned by Statute

[2] Conduct Regulated by Public Utilities Commission

[3] Zoning Regulations

[4] Balancing of Conveniences

[5] Comparative Negligence

[6] Failure to Mitigate Damages

[7] Freedom of Speech

[8] Lessor's Consent to Nuisance Precludes Award of Damages in Action by Lessor

§ 391.31 Statute of Limitations

[1] Private Nuisance

[2] Public Nuisance

§§ 391.32-391.49 [Reserved]

§ 391.50 Related Matthew Bender Publications

§ 391.51 State Statutes

[1] Generally

[2] Activities/Conditions Not Nuisances

[3] Attorney's Fees and Costs

[4] Moral Nuisances

[5] Public Nuisance as Misdemeanor

[6] Remedies

[a] In General

[b] Abatement of Nuisances

[7] Specific Nuisances Per Se

[8] Statutes of Limitations

§ 391.52 Decisions

[1] Generally

[2] Doctrine of Balancing of Conveniences

[3] Moral Nuisance

[4] Negligence and Nuisance

[5] Nuisance Per Se

[6] Permanent or Continuing Nuisance

[7] Public Nuisance

[8] Private Nuisance

[9] Remedies

[10] Statute of Limitations

[11] Statutory Authority

[12] Types of Nuisance Actions

[a] Against Public Entities

[b] Alcoholic Beverages

[c] Class Action

[d] Criminal Nuisance

[e] Fire Hazard

[f] Noise

[g] Pollution

[h] Spite Fences

[i] Tenant-Landlord

[j] Water

[13] Zoning

§ 391.53 Law Reviews

§ 391.54 Text References

§§ 391.55through 391.69 [Reserved]

§ 391.70 Plaintiff's Checklist

[1] Facts to Be Ascertained

[2] Documents to Be Obtained

[3] Preliminary Determinations

[4] Selection of Appropriate Action

[5] Prepare Complaint for Injunction and/or Damages

§ 391.71 Defendant's Guide

[1] Facts to Be Ascertained

[2] Documents to Be Obtained

[3] Preliminary Determinations

[4] Opposition to Application for Temporary Restraining Order, Preliminary Injunction, and Permanent Injunction

[5] Drafting the Answer

§§ 391.72through 391.89 [Reserved]

§ 391.90 Complaint for Preliminary [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)] and Permanent Injunction [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 731] to Abate Private Nuisance [Civ. Code §§ 3479-3481] and for Damages [Civ. Code §§ 3294, 3333; Code Civ. Proc. § 731]--General Form

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Private and Public Nuisances

[4] Permanent and Continuing Nuisances

[5] Allegations

[a] In General

[b] Fictitiously Named Defendants

[6] Specification of Damages

[7] Verification

[8] Jurisdiction

[9] Venue

[10] Cross References

§ 391.91 Allegation--Public Nuisance [Civ. Code §§ 3479, 3480] Specially Injurious to Plaintiff [Civ. Code § 3493]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Public Nuisance

[4] Special Injury as Prerequisite

[5] Statute of Limitations

[6] Cross References

§ 391.92 Complaint for Preliminary [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)] and Permanent Injunction [Code Civ. Proc. § 526] to Abate Threatened Nuisance [Civ. Code § 3479]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Decisions

[5] Cross References

§ 391.93 Complaint for Preliminary [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)] and Permanent Injunction [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 731] to Abate Nuisance [Civ. Code § 3479]--Hazard on Nearby Property Endangering Plaintiff's Proprietary Interest

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Cross References

§ 391.94 Complaint for Temporary Writ of Injunction [Health & Safety Code § 11573; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 527(a)] and Permanent Injunction [Civ. Code § 3422; Health & Safety Code §§ 11570, 11571] to Abate Public or Private Nuisance and for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333; Health & Safety Code § 11570]--Buildings or Places Where Controlled Substances Are Manufactured, Sold, or Kept [Health & Safety Code §§ 11570-11587]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Verification

[5] Costs

[6] Temporary Writ

[7] Dismissal Restrictions

[8] Cross References

§ 391.95 Allegation of Liability for Damages for Personal Injury [Civ. Code § 3333; Code Civ. Proc. § 731] Based on Nuisance [Civ. Code § 3479]--Cause of Action Attachment to Judicial Council Form of Complaint for Personal Injury [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 391.96 Allegations--Private Nuisance [Civ. Code §§ 3479-3481]--Noise and Vibrations

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Cross References

§ 391.97 Allegations--Private Nuisance [Civ. Code §§ 3479-3481]--Air Pollution

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Cross References

§ 391.98 Allegations--Private Nuisance [Civ. Code §§ 3479-3481]--Obstruction of Public Street

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Cross References

§ 391.99 Allegations--Private Nuisance [Civ. Code §§ 3479-3481]--Diversion of Naturally Accumulated Waters Onto Plaintiff's Property

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Cross References

§ 391.100 Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Statutory Authority [Civ. Code § 3482]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 391.101 Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Business Operating in Permitted Zone [Code Civ. Proc. § 731a]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 391.102 Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--No Notice of Nuisance to Successive Owner

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 391.103 Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Statute of Limitations [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 335.1, 338(b), (c), 458]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 391.104 Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Preexisting Agricultural Use Not Nuisance [Civ. Code § 3482.5(a)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 391.105 Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Preexisting Agricultural Processing Use Not Nuisance [Civ. Code § 3482.6(a)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 391.106 Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Obstruction of Light and Air Not Nuisance

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 391.107 Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Doctrine of Balancing of Conveniences

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Cross References

§ 391.108 Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)] to Owner's Action for Damages for Creation of Nuisance by Lessee--Lawful Use Was Consented to by Owner

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART I. SCOPE

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.01

§ 391.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses and contains forms for use in nuisance actions. Included are complaint forms seeking the abatement of a private nuisance [see § 391.90], and a public nuisance [see § 391.91], a threatened nuisance [see § 391.92] and several forms specifically alleging the most common nuisances [see §§ 391.93 -391.99]. Also included are allegation forms for use in asserting, in an answer to a nuisance action, the most common affirmative defenses [see §§ 391.100 -391.108].

For forms for use in actions between adjoining landowners, see Ch. 11, Adjoining Landowners . For general forms relating to temporary restraining orders and preliminary and permanent injunctions, see Ch. 303, Injunctions . For forms relating to pollution as a nuisance, see Ch. 418, Pollution and Environmental Matters . For forms for use in nuisance actions against public entities, see Ch. 467, Public Entities and Officers: Enforcement of Judgments Against Public Entities . For forms for use in trespass actions, see Ch. 550, Trespass .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART I. SCOPE

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.02

§ 391.02 Cross References

For a discussion and forms for use in nuisance actions between adjoining landowners, see Ch. 11, Adjoining Landowners .

For a discussion of nuisance caused by airports, see Ch. 16, Airplanes and Airports .

For a form relating to, and a discussion of nuisances caused by the unlawful sale, serving, or giving away of alcoholic beverages, see Ch. 19, Alcoholic Beverages: Civil Liability .

For a complaint for nuisance caused by dogs on the property of plaintiff, see Ch. 23, Animals: Civil Liability .

For a procedural guide, forms, and a discussion of the use of injunctions generally, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

For a discussion and forms for use in public and private nuisance actions related to pollution, see Ch. 418, Pollution and Environmental Matters .

For a petition for writ of mandate to compel a municipal or county government to vacate an order revoking a business license on the ground that the business constitutes a public nuisance, see Ch. 471B, Licensing by Public Agencies .

For a discussion and forms for use in a nuisance action against a public entity, see Ch. 467, Public Entities and Officers: Enforcement of Judgments Against Public Entities .

For a discussion and forms for use in trespass actions, see Ch. 550, Trespass .

46 of 152 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART I. SCOPE

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 391.03through 391.09

[Reserved]

§§ 391.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.10

§ 391.10 Governing Statutes

Statutory provisions generally defining and providing for abatement of nuisances are found in Civ. Code §§ 3479-3503, Code Civ. Proc. §§ 731, 731.5, and Penal Code §§ 370-372.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.11

§ 391.11 Definitions

[1] Nuisance

The California legislature has defined a nuisance as anything that is injurious to health, is indecent or offensive to the senses, or is an obstruction to the free use of property, so as to interfere with the comfortable enjoyment of life or property or that unlawfully obstructs the free passage or use, in the customary manner, of any navigable lake, river, bay, stream, canal, or basin, or of any public park, square, street, or highway [Civ. Code § 3479; Penal Code § 370]. An act that affects an entire community or neighborhood or any considerable number of persons is not less a nuisance because the extent of the annoyance or damage inflicted on individuals is unequal [Penal Code § 371].

In a broader sense, the term "nuisance" is applied to a multiplicity of wrongful acts that may arise out of numerous types of tortious conduct, whether negligent, intentional, or involving ultrahazardous activities [Sturges v. Charles L. Harney, Inc. (1958) 165 Cal. App. 2d 306, 317-318, 331 P.2d 1072] . Activities that disturb or prevent the comfortable enjoyment of property are sufficient to constitute nuisances even though they do not directly damage land or prevent its use [Venuto v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 116, 126, 99 Cal. Rptr. 350] .

Although California's broad statutory definition of nuisance appears to embrace nearly any type of interference with the enjoyment of property, it does not extend to permitting recovery for a defective product under a nuisance cause of action [City of San Diego v. United States Gypsum Co. (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 575, 585-586, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 876 ; see § 391.25[5]].

[2] Abatement of Nuisance

Abatement of a nuisance is defined in Black's Law Dictionary as "the removal, stoppage, prostration, or destruction of that which causes a nuisance, whether by breaking or pulling it down, or otherwise removing, destroying, or effacing it" [Black's Law Dictionary (5th ed. 1979) at 962].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.12

§ 391.12 Public Nuisance

A public nuisance is one that affects at the same time an entire community or neighborhood or any considerable number of persons, although the extent of the annoyance or damage inflicted on individuals may be unequal [Civ. Code § 3480]. The term "public nuisance" comprehends an act or omission that interferes with the interests of the community or the health, comfort, and convenience of the general public [Venuto v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 116, 123, 99 Cal. Rptr. 350] . No lapse of time can legalize a public nuisance that amounts to an actual obstruction of a public right [Civ. Code § 3490]. For an allegation form for use in a complaint based on a public nuisance, see § 391.91.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.13

§ 391.13 Private Nuisance

[1] Definition

The legislature has defined a "private nuisance" as every nuisance not included in the definition of a public nuisance [Civ. Code § 3481; see Civ. Code § 3480 and § 391.12 regarding definition of public nuisance]. The essence of a private nuisance is an interference with the use and enjoyment of a property right. The fact that plaintiff may have suffered a personal injury or have suffered an interference with some purely personal right is not sufficient to support an action based on private nuisance; there must be an interference with the use and enjoyment of a property interest. Any interest sufficient to be dignified as a property right is sufficient to support an action based on a private nuisance. Such an interest would include a tenancy for a term, but not that of a licensee, lodger or employee [Venuto v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 116, 124-125, 99 Cal. Rptr. 350] . Mere apprehension of injury from a dangerous condition may constitute a nuisance if it interferes with the comfortable enjoyment of property [McIvor v. Mercer-Fraser Co. (1946) 76 Cal. App. 2d 247, 254, 172 P.2d 758 ; see also Lew v. Superior Court (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 866, 873, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 42] .

For a form of complaint for damages based on a private nuisance, see § 391.90.

[2] Requirement of Unreasonable Conduct Causing Substantial Harm

The interference with use and enjoyment of a property right, to constitute a nuisance, must be conduct that is unreasonable and that causes substantial harm. The general rule is that the unreasonable, unwarrantable, or unlawful use by a person of his or her own property that interferes with the rights of others is a nuisance, and that any unwarranted activity that causes substantial injury to the property of another or obstructs its reasonable use and enjoyment is a nuisance that may be abated [Hutcherson v. Alexander (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 126, 130, 70 Cal. Rptr. 366] .

In determining what is reasonable, courts look to the totality of the circumstances and attempt to balance the interests of both parties [Boccardo v. United States (N.D. Cal. 1972) 341 F. Supp. 858, 865] . Furthermore, in determining whether the harm is so unreasonable that it may constitute a nuisance, the gravity of the harm must be weighed against the utility of the defendant's conduct [Shields v. Wondries (1957) 154 Cal. App. 2d 249, 255, 316 P.2d 9] . One court has stated that people who live in organized communities must of necessity suffer some inconvenience and annoyance from their neighbors and must submit to annoyances consequent to the reasonable use of property by others. Thus, not every annoyance or disturbance is a nuisance [Schild v. Rubin (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 755, 764, 283 Cal. Rptr. 533] .

If a holding that certain conduct causes substantial harm would conflict with a prior determination by the Public Utilities Commission, then no recovery is available, because Pub. Util. Code § 1759 prohibits an award of damages that would frustrate declared policies of the commission [San Diego Gas & Elec. v. Superior Court (1996) 13 Cal. 4th 893, 903, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 724, 920 P.2d 669] . For further discussion, see § 391.30[2].

Harm that is sufficiently substantial and unreasonable to justify an award of damages may not necessarily be sufficient to justify issuance of an injunction. Circumstances in which a plaintiff in an action based on nuisance may be entitled to injunctive relief are discussed under § 391.30[4].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.14

§ 391.14 Comparison of Private and Public Nuisances

A private nuisance is a civil wrong based on a disturbance of private rights in land, whereas a public nuisance is not dependent on disturbance of any rights in land but is based on interference with rights of the community at large [Venuto v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 116, 124, 99 Cal. Rptr. 350] . On many occasions, a public nuisance will also be a private nuisance. The distinction between the two, although sometimes hard to draw, is important because it is determinative of the standing of a private party to bring an action. If the alleged nuisance is not a private nuisance to a private individual as well, that individual does not have a cause of action on account of a public nuisance unless he or she alleges facts showing special injury to himself or herself of a character different in kind, rather than degree, from that suffered by the general public [Venuto v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 116, 124, 99 Cal. Rptr. 350 ; see Civ. Code § 3493]. For example, allegations that the health of the general public and plaintiffs, as members of the public, is being injured by defendant's activity (pollution), but that the health of each plaintiff is being injured to a greater degree, merely alleges damages different in degree, but not kind, suffered by the general public and therefore is insufficient to support a private action based on a public nuisance [Venuto v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 116, 125, 99 Cal. Rptr. 350 ; see also Koll-Irvine Ctr. Prop. Owners Ass'n v. County of Orange (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 1036, 1040-1041, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 664 ; cf. Birke v. Oakwood Worldwide (2009) 169 Cal. App. 4th 1540, 1549-1550, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 602] .

If, however, the alleged nuisance is a private nuisance to a private individual as well as a public nuisance, the kind-versus-degree rule does not apply. Thus, neighbors of an apartment building that was used for the sale of illegal drugs were entitled to bring a suit for damages against the building's owners, because the activities at the building adversely affected the neighbors' use and enjoyment of their homes and was therefore a private nuisance [see Lew v. Superior Court (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 866, 873, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 42] . Similarly, the tenant of an apartment could bring suit against the owners of the apartment complex for harm caused by secondhand cigarette smoke that allegedly permeated the outdoor common areas without a showing that the tenant suffered damage different in kind from that suffered by the general public, so long as plaintiff alleged that the presence of the secondhand smoke interfered with plaintiff's use and enjoyment of the common area outdoor facilities [Birke v. Oakwood Worldwide (2009) 169 Cal. App. 4th 1540, 1551, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 602].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.15

§ 391.15 Permanent Nuisance

A nuisance is considered permanent if it is of such a character that it will presumably continue indefinitely and, as a practical matter, cannot be abated [Phillips v. City of Pasadena (1945) 27 Cal. 2d 104, 107, 162 P.2d 625] . The clearest example of a permanent nuisance is one in which the offending structure or condition is maintained as a necessary part of the operations of a public utility [Spaulding v. Cameron (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 265, 267, 239 P.2d 625 ; see also Bartleson v. United States (9th Cir. 1996) 96 F.3d 1270, 1276 (likening military artillery range to public utility for purposes of permanent nuisance)]. Nevertheless, if there is doubt regarding the permanence of the injury, a plaintiff may elect whether to treat a particular nuisance as permanent or continuing [Baker v. Burbank-Glendale-Pasadena Airport Auth. (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 862, 870, 218 Cal. Rptr. 293, 705 P.2d 866 ; see also KFC W., Inc. v. Meghrig (1994) 23 Cal. App. 4th 1167, 1180-1181, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 676] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.16

§ 391.16 Continuing Nuisance

A nuisance is considered continuing, rather than permanent, if it may be abated or discontinued at any time [Mangini v. Aerojet-General Corp. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1125, 1146, 281 Cal. Rptr. 827 ; see also KFC W., Inc. v. Meghrig (1994) 23 Cal. App. 4th 1167, 1180-1181, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 676] . Every repetition of a continuing nuisance is a separate wrong for which the injured person may bring successive actions for damages until the nuisance is abated, even though an action based on the original wrong may be barred by the statute of limitations [Phillips v. City of Pasadena (1945) 27 Cal. 2d 104, 107-108, 162 P.2d 625 ; see, e.g., Wilshire Westwood Assocs. v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 732, 744, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 562 (action to recover expenses incurred in abating contamination by gas station on property as timely because nuisance was continuing); see § 391.91[5]].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.17

§ 391.17 Comparison of Permanent and Continuing Nuisances

In determining whether a nuisance is permanent or continuing [see § 391.15], the courts do not mechanically apply the discontinued-or-abated rubric. Regardless of literal abatability, if either abatement or successive lawsuits would be inappropriate or unfair as a practical matter, the nuisance may be regarded as permanent and the plaintiff relegated to a single lawsuit, subject to a single limitation period, for all past and anticipated future harms [see Kornoff v. Kingsburg Cotton Oil Co. (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 265, 269, 271, 288 P.2d 507 ; Capogeannis v. Superior Court (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 668, 678, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 796] . Courts make this determination by considering such factors as expense, time, and legitimate competing interests [see Capogeannis v. Superior Court (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 668, 678, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 796 (citing Spaulding v. Cameron (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 265, 268, 239 P.2d 625)].

However, the courts prefer finding a continuing nuisance to protect the plaintiff from contingencies such as unforeseen future injury and the statute of limitations itself, and to encourage abatement [Baker v. Burbank-Glendale-Pasadena Airport Auth. (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 862, 870, 218 Cal. Rptr. 293, 705 P.2d 866 ; Capogeannis v. Superior Court (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 668, 678, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 796] . Thus, if it is doubtful that the injury caused by a nuisance is permanent, courts are inclined to favor the right to successive actions [see Baker v. Burbank-Glendale-Pasadena Airport Auth. (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 862, 872, 218 Cal. Rptr. 293, 705 P.2d 866 ; Mangini v. Aerojet-Gen. Corp. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1125, 1148, 281 Cal. Rptr. 827] . Furthermore, as discussed in § 391.15, if the distinction between permanent and continuing nuisance is close or doubtful, the plaintiff is permitted to elect which theory to pursue [see Capogeannis v. Superior Court (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 668, 679, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 796 ; Mangini v. Aerojet-Gen. Corp. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1125, 1145, 281 Cal. Rptr. 827 ; see also Spaulding v. Cameron (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 265, 267-269, 239 P.2d 625 ; KFC W., Inc. v. Meghrig (1994) 23 Cal. App. 4th 1167, 1180-1181, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 676] .

However, a plaintiff cannot avoid the three-year limitations period applicable to actions for a permanent nuisance simply by characterizing the action as one for a continuing nuisance. For limitations purposes, if the action is brought after the three-year limitations period has expired, a plaintiff is required to prove that the nuisance is actually a continuing nuisance rather than a permanent one by presenting substantial evidence that the injury is capable of being abated and that the cost of abatement is reasonable [Mangini v. Aerojet-Gen. Corp. (1996) 12 Cal. 4th 1087, 1090, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 272, 912 P.2d 1220] . Failure to provide evidence showing that plaintiff's property can be repaired or the damage abated at a reasonable cost by reasonable means will defeat a claim that the nuisance should be treated as a continuing nuisance [McCoy v. Gustafson (2009) 180 Cal. App. 4th 56, 85-86, 103 Cal. Rptr. 3d 37] . Expert witness testimony may be required to prove that abatement or repair can be achieved at a reasonable cost by reasonable means, and failure to designate an expert to provide such testimony can defeat an effort to prove a continuing nuisance [McCoy v. Gustafson (2009) 180 Cal. App. 4th 56, 96-101, 103 Cal. Rptr. 3d 37] .

The continuing nature of a nuisance refers to the continuing damage caused by the offensive condition, not the acts causing the offensive conduct. Thus, a nuisance may be continuing even if the defendant's offensive conduct has ended years earlier [Mangini v. Aerojet-Gen. Corp. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1125, 1147, 281 Cal. Rptr. 827] . In addition, the salient feature of a continuing trespass or nuisance is that its impact may vary over time [see Field-Escandon v. DeMann (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 228, 234, 251 Cal. Rptr. 49 ; see also Mangini v. Aerojet-Gen. Corp. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1125, 1147, 281 Cal. Rptr. 827 (holding that, assuming this test is correct statement of law, hazardous waste contamination that has migrated or spread on property continuously since it was initially dumped, and impact of which has therefore varied over time, would satisfy the Field-Escandon test)].

The distinction between continuing and permanent nuisances, irrespective of whether they are public or private nuisances, is important in determining the amount of damages recoverable, whether a plaintiff is entitled to an injunction, and when the statute of limitations commences to run. For a discussion of this aspect of nuisances, see §§ 391.26 and 391.31.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.18

§ 391.18 Nuisance Per Se

The semantics of Civ. Code § 3479 provide little guidance in ascertaining the degree of danger or harm which must be present for a condition or an activity to be considered a nuisance. If Civ. Code § 3479 is the only applicable statute, considerable judicial discretion is allowed in determining whether an alleged danger is sufficiently serious to justify abatement [City of Bakersfield v. Miller (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 93, 99, 48 Cal. Rptr. 889, 410 P.2d 393] . However, in certain areas of the law the term has been defined with more particularity. Any action or condition declared by the legislature to be a public nuisance is a nuisance per se. No proof is required, beyond the actual fact of the prescribed actions or conditions, to establish them as nuisances. No ill effects need be proved [McClatchy v. Laguna Lands Ltd. (1917) 32 Cal. App. 718, 725, 164 P. 41] . There is no need for an allegation of irreparable injury in order to obtain an injunction when the facts allege a nuisance per se [Los Angeles Brick & Clay Prods. Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1943) 60 Cal. App. 2d 478, 486, 141 P.2d 46] . In addition to the state legislature, municipal legislative bodies have the power to define the standards by which courts are to judge whether or not a nuisance exists [City of Bakersfield v. Miller (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 93, 100, 48 Cal. Rptr. 889, 410 P.2d 393] . A nuisance per se may also be found when an activity violates a local zoning ordinance [see, e.g., City of Claremont v. Kruse (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 1153, 1164-1166, 100 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1 (injunction against medical marijuana dispensary upheld as nuisance per se because dispensary violated city's local zoning laws)].

The following are examples of activities or conditions declared by the state legislature or municipal bodies to be nuisances: [see In re Application of Brambini (1923) 192 Cal. 19, 39, 218 P. 569 ; the use as dwelling units of areas zoned only for storage purposes [see City & County of San Francisco v. Padilla (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 388, 401, 100 Cal. Rptr. 223] ; the keeping and maintaining of more than five hogs [see People v. Johnson (1954) 129 Cal. App. 2d 1, 8, 277 P.2d 45] ; the use of a building for illegal gambling or prostitution [Penal Code § 11225(a); see also § 391.24[11]], or as a bathhouse that encourages or permits conduct that, according to federal guidelines, can transmit AIDS [Penal Code § 11225(b); see also § 391.24[12]]; and the use of a building for selling, serving, storing, keeping, manufacturing, or giving away a controlled substance [see Health & Safety Code § 11570; Lew v. Superior Court (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 866, 871, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 42 ; see also § 391.24[13]].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.19

§ 391.19 Limited Injunctive Relief Against Zoned Businesses

Injunctive relief is not available to private persons against a commercial enterprise or airport operating in a zone in which its operation is expressly permitted unless it is employing "unnecessary and injurious methods" of operation [Code Civ. Proc. § 731a]. Thus, an injunction may be obtained against a business operating in an appropriate zone or district only if it is proved the business employs "unnecessary and injurious methods" of operation, or if an action is commenced in the name of the people of the State of California [Code Civ. Proc. § 731a].

Code Civ. Proc. § 731a was enacted to eliminate injunctive relief when the business is operated in its appropriate zone and the only showing is an injury and nuisance to the plaintiff from the business's operation. To be entitled to an injunction, plaintiff must now show more, namely, that the defendant employed unnecessary and injurious methods in the operation of the business [Gelfand v. O'Haver (1948) 33 Cal. 2d 218, 220, 200 P.2d 790] . This statute applies only to injunctive relief sought by a private person and does not bar an action for recovery of damages [Wilson v. Interlake Steel Co. (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 229, 234, 185 Cal. Rptr. 280, 649 P.2d 922 ; Venuto v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 116, 130, 99 Cal. Rptr. 350] . For a further discussion of this statute,§ 391.30[3]. For a form asserting an affirmative defense based on this statute, see § 391.101.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.20

§ 391.20 Doctrine of Balancing of Conveniences

Once a court has determined that a defendant is a wrongdoer and that a plaintiff's property has been occupied, the court has a great deal of discretion in deciding whether the plaintiff is entitled to a mandatory injunction to abate the nuisance [see Ch. 303, Injunctions]. In reaching this decision, courts attempt to balance the conveniences of the parties and consider the following guidelines [see Loma Portal Civic Club v. American Airlines, Inc. (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 582, 588, 39 Cal. Rptr. 708, 394 P.2d 548 ; Dolske v. Gormley (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 513, 520-521, 25 Cal. Rptr. 270, 375 P.2d 174 ; Fairrington v. Dyke Water Co. (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 198, 200, 323 P.2d 1001 ; Anderson v. Souza (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 825, 841, 243 P.2d 497 ; Christensen v. Tucker (1952) 114 Cal. App. 2d 554, 559, 250 P.2d 660] :

- Doubtful cases should be decided in favor of plaintiff.

- For the court to refuse the injunction defendant must be innocent; the nuisance must not be the result of defendant's willful act.

- Plaintiff must have acted in good faith, in no way be responsible for the nuisance, and must not have delayed unnecessarily in seeking the injunction.

- The interests of third persons and the general public must be considered.

- The relative hardships on the parties must be considered; will either side suffer irreparable injuries if an injunction is or is not granted.

- The character of the interest to be protected must be considered.

- Can relief for defendant be fashioned which is no greater than necessary to protect defendant's interest; defendant should not be granted a fee interest in plaintiff's property if an easement would suffice to protect defendant's interest.

For further discussion of this doctrine, see § 391.30[4]. For a form asserting an affirmative defense based on this doctrine, see § 391.107.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.21

§ 391.21 Persons and Entities Liable for Nuisance

[1] Public Entities

Public entitles are not immune from liability based on nuisance [Nestle v. City of Santa Monica (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 920, 936-937, 101 Cal. Rptr. 568, 496 P.2d 480] . A municipality may be found liable for creating or maintaining a nuisance even though a governmental activity is involved [Phillips v. City of Pasadena (1945) 27 Cal. 2d 104, 106, 162 P.2d 625] . Nuisance actions against public entities are not barred by the immunity provisions of Gov. Code § 815 (limiting liability of public entities) to the extent that they are founded on statutes such as Civ. Code §§ 3479-3481 [Vedder v. County of Imperial (1974) 36 Cal. App. 3d 654, 661, 111 Cal. Rptr. 728] . For further discussion, see Ch. 467, Public Entities and Officers: Enforcement of Judgments Against Public Entities .

[2] Successive Owners

Every successive owner of property who neglects to abate a continuing nuisance on or in the use of the property, created by a former owner, is liable in the same manner as the person who created the nuisance [Civ. Code § 3483]. However, the successor in interest must have actual or constructive notice or knowledge of the nuisance before he or she may be held liable [see Pierce v. German Sav. & Loan Soc'y (1887) 72 Cal. 180, 183, 13 P. 478 ; Reinhard v. Lawrence Warehouse Co. (1940) 41 Cal. App. 2d 741, 746, 107 P.2d 501] . For a form asserting an affirmative defense based on lack of notice of the nuisance to a successive owner, see § 391.102.

[3] Prior Owners or Possessors of Affected Property

Nuisance does not require an invasion of real property other than one's own, and therefore a prior owner or possessor of property may be liable to a later owner of the same property for committing a nuisance [Newhall Land & Farming Co. v. Superior Court (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 334, 343, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 377 ; see also KFC W., Inc. v. Meghrig (1994) 23 Cal. App. 4th 1167, 1179, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 676 ; Wilshire Westwood Assocs. v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 732, 745-746, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 562 ; Mangini v. Aerojet-Gen. Corp. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1125, 1134, 281 Cal. Rptr. 827] . For example, an agricultural landowner was entitled to bring a nuisance action against the oil companies that formerly owned the real property for having discharged hazardous waste onto the property that was continuing to pollute the soil and groundwater [Newhall Land & Farming Co. v. Superior Court (1993) 19 Cal. App.

4th 334, 344, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 377] . The applicable statutes governing nuisance law in California [see, e.g., Civ. Code § 3479] have been construed broadly to allow an owner of property to sue for damages from a nuisance on his or her own property as well as damages from nuisances originating on neighboring property [Newhall Land & Farming Co. v. Superior Court (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 334, 343, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 377 ; see also Wilshire Westwood Assocs. v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 732, 745-746, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 562 ; Mangini v. Aerojet-Gen. Corp. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1125, 1134, 281 Cal. Rptr. 827] .

A former owner that created a nuisance on its own property cannot claim a "consent defense." Lessees being sued by their lessors are permitted this defense to avoid an absurd result. For example, if an owner leased property for the purpose of operating a quarry, it would be ludicrous to permit the owner to sue the lessee at the end of the lease term for creating the inevitable hole that was the object of the lease [see § 391.30[8]]. However, it makes no sense to extend this rule and thereby hold that an owner is not liable to a successor owner of the property for creating a nuisance on that property merely because the original owner "consented" to his or her own use of the property [Newhall Land & Farming Co. v. Superior Court (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 334, 344-345, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 377 ; see also Mangini v. Aerojet-Gen. Corp. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1125, 1138, 281 Cal. Rptr. 827] . Moreover, a former lessee that has created a nuisance on the leased property is liable as a prior possessor to subsequent owners who acquire the property and then discover the nuisance, because the subsequent owners have not consented to the nuisance [see Wilshire Westwood Assocs. v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 732, 745-746, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 562] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.22

§ 391.22 Nuisance and Negligence

[1] Distinction Between Harm and Conduct

Nuisance is not a separate tort but a species of damage occasioned by conduct that is tortious because it falls into the usual categories of tort liability. Nuisance is a field of tort liability, rather than a type of tortious conduct. It has reference to the interests invaded, to the damage as harm inflicted, but not to any particular kind of act or omission that has led to the invasion. The attempt frequently made to distinguish between nuisance and negligence is based on an entirely mistaken emphasis on what the defendant has done rather than the result which has followed, overlooking completely the well-established fact that negligence is merely one type of conduct which may give rise to a nuisance [Van Zyl v. Spiegelberg (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 367, 372-373, 82 Cal. Rptr. 689] .

[2] Liability for Nuisance Without Negligence

Although liability for a nuisance may exist without negligence, the torts of negligence and nuisance may be, and frequently are, coexisting and practically inseparable. However, a nuisance need not grow out of acts of negligence. A nuisance may be the result of skillful efforts directed toward accomplishing the desired end. The skillful efforts, however, may lack proper regard for the rights of others [Sturges v. Charles L. Harney, Inc. (1958) 165 Cal. App. 2d 306, 318, 331 P.2d 1072] . It is the injury to property itself which gives rise to liability based on nuisance, irrespective of care or lack of care. It is immaterial whether the acts were willful or negligent; the essential fact is that, whatever the cause, the result is a nuisance. The adoption of the most advanced machinery and methods of production do not justify the continuance of that which, in spite of them, remains a nuisance [Snow v. Marian Realty Co. (1931) 212 Cal. 622, 625-626, 299 P. 720] .

However, one court of appeal has concluded that nuisance liability based on a natural (as opposed to an artificial) condition of land cannot be imposed absent a finding that there was negligence in dealing with that condition see Lussier v. San Lorenzo Valley Water Dist. (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 92, 102, 106, 253 Cal. Rptr. 470 (holding that landowner not liable on nuisance theory for damage allegedly caused by accumulation of vegetation on watershed after rainstorms if no negligent conduct alleged)].

[3] Pleading and Proof of Nuisance and Negligence

Negligence need not necessarily be pleaded or proved to recover for nuisance. When both are alleged, nuisance and negligence are merely different theories of recovery for invasion of the same primary right; there is but one cause of action, although it may be stated in two counts [Van Zyl v. Spiegelberg (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 367, 372-373, 82 Cal. Rptr. 689] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.23

§ 391.23 Attractive Nuisance Doctrine Abolished

The common law doctrine of attractive nuisance imposed liablity on the possessor of land for bodily harm to young children trespassers caused by a structure or other artificial condition maintained on the land when four conditions were met [see King v. Lennen (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 340, 343, 1 Cal. Rptr. 665, 348 P.2d 98 , approving Restatement of Torts, § 339]. Under Rowland v. Christian (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 108, 70 Cal. Rptr. 97, 443 P.2d 561 , however, the liability of a possessor of property to trespassing children is no longer limited by the conditions set out in Restatement (Second) of Torts, § 339, or by the terms of other special doctrines and theories created as exceptions to a general rule barring trespassers from recovery for negligence, but is now governed by Civ. Code § 1714(a), which imposes general liability on every person for injuries occasioned to others by want of ordinary care in the management of his or her property [see Beard v. Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Ry. Co. (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 129, 135-136, 84 Cal. Rptr. 449 ; see generally Ch. 421, Premises Liability]. The attractive nuisance doctrine has, therefore, been effectively abolished in California [Smith v. Americania Motor Lodge (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 1, 7, 113 Cal. Rptr. 771] . For further discussion, see Ch. 421, Premises Liability .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.24

§ 391.24 Activities Considered Nuisances

[1] Broad Range of Possible Activities

The term "nuisance" is broad enough to encompass almost any conceivable type of interference with enjoyment or use of land or property [Stoiber v. Honeychuck (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 903, 919, 162 Cal. Rptr. 194] . The following are examples of kinds of activities and conditions which have been judged to be nuisances. This discussion is not intended to be exhaustive; rather, its purpose is to acquaint the reader with some of the more common situations giving rise to nuisance actions.

[2] Airports

Complaints for property and personal injury damages caused by operation of an airport and the resulting fumes, vibration, and noise from jet aircraft have been held to state a cause of action for nuisance [Nestle v. City of Santa Monica (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 920, 937, 101 Cal. Rptr. 568, 496 P.2d 480] . Nuisance actions against municipalities for airport operation are not barred by federal preemption [Greater Westchester Homeowners Ass'n v. City of Los Angeles (1979) 26 Cal. 3d 86, 100, 160 Cal. Rptr. 733, 603 P.2d 1329] .

Abatement of properly zoned airports is restricted by Code Civ. Proc. § 731a. Also, Code Civ. Proc. § 731b provides that proof that an airport has been in existence for three years constitutes a rebuttable presumption that the airport is not a nuisance.

For further discussion and forms, see Ch. 16, Airplanes and Airports . For a form asserting an affirmative defense based on the fact that a business is operating in a permitted zone, see § 391.101.

[3] Encroachments

The maintenance of a building which overhangs or encroaches on the premises of another constitutes a nuisance, regardless of whether or not it is due to any negligent act or omission [Kafka v. Bozio (1923) 191 Cal. 746, 748, 218 P. 753] . For further discussion and forms, see Ch. 11, Adjoining Landowners .

[4] Fire Hazards

A fire hazard constitutes a public nuisance [Vedder v. County of Imperial (1974) 36 Cal. App. 3d 654, 661, 111 Cal. Rptr. 728] . The fact that a building was constructed in accordance with all existing statutes does not immunize it from subsequent abatement as a public nuisance when it is judged to be a fire hazard using standards from statutes enacted subsequent to the erection of the building. In appropriate circumstances, a governmental agency may abate a public nuisance created by a building which is a fire hazard by demolishing the building [City of Bakersfield v. Miller (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 93, 101-103, 48 Cal. Rptr. 889, 410 P.2d 393] . For a form of complaint asserting a nuisance based on a hazard on nearby property, see § 391.93.

[5] Noise

Noise which unreasonably interferes with neighbors' comfortable enjoyment of life and property constitutes a nuisance [People v. Mason (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 348, 353-354, 177 Cal. Rptr. 284 ; see also Anderson v. Souza (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 825, 837, 243 P.2d 497] .

A legitimate business operating in a properly zoned district may be enjoined as a nuisance for creating too much noise even though it is in the business of creating sound. Thus, the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 731a that there be evidence of the employment of "unnecessary and injurious methods of operation" before an injunction may issue against a business operating in a zoned district were met, and the issuance of an injunction was affirmed, because defendant music studio used a residence for a studio, did nothing to soundproof it or adapt it to the operation of the business, left windows open, and permitted noise to emanate from the studio day and night [Gelfand v. O'Haver (1948) 33 Cal. 2d 218, 221, 200 P.2d 790] . For a form of allegation for use in a complaint based on a nuisance created by noise and vibrations, see § 391.96.

The issue of noise as a nuisance creates a clear example of the courts striving to balance the right to the comfortable enjoyment of property with the right to use property for legitimate business purposes [see § 391.52[2]]. Appellate courts are careful to scrutinize injunctions to insure that they are not overly broad and do not enjoin the conduct of an entire business, where the business is not a nuisance per se, if a lesser restriction will afford plaintiff the relief to which he or she may be entitled. Contiguous property owners must to a reasonable degree yield their desire for privacy to the general welfare which is contributed to by the operation of legitimate businesses [see Anderson v. Souza (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 825, 841, 843, 243 P.2d 497] .

Thus, an injunction totally restraining defendants from operating a private airport because of the nuisance created by the attendant noise was reversed because, although concededly a nuisance, plaintiff failed to prove the airport could not be used at all without creating a nuisance [Anderson v. Souza (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 825, 843-845, 243 P.2d 497] . Although the amplified music, foot stomping, and hand clapping coming from another defendant's restaurant and bar was properly adjudicated a nuisance, an injunction prohibiting such noise "audible anywhere in the neighborhood" was found to be overly broad. An audible level of noise is not necessarily a nuisance. The injunction should have been worded so as to permit some noise to be audible, except that which unreasonably interfered with the plaintiffs' use and enjoyment of their property [People v. Mason (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 348, 352-354, 177 Cal. Rptr. 284] .

[6] Diversion or Obstruction of Water Flow

An act of obstruction or diversion of the natural flow of water may constitute a nuisance as defined by Civ. Code § 3479 [Helix Land Co. v. City of San Diego (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 932, 949, 147 Cal. Rptr. 683] . Thus, a person creates a nuisance when he or she conducts leveling operations on his or her property without adequately preparing the hillside, resulting in an inundation of water and mud on plaintiff's property [Spaulding v. Cameron (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 265, 266, 239 P.2d 625] . A property owner who by artificial means brings water on his or her land for purposes of irrigation and allows a portion to injure adjoining land has created a nuisance [Fredericks v. Fredericks (1951) 108 Cal. App. 2d 242, 244, 238 P.2d 643] . For a form of allegations for use in a complaint based on a nuisance created by the diversion of water onto plaintiff's property, see § 391.99.

[7] Odors

The creation of smells and noxious odors that are a source of discomfort or diminish the value of neighboring property constitutes a nuisance [see Varjabedian v. City of Madera (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 285, 293-294, 142 Cal. Rptr. 429, 572 P.2d 43 (sewage treatment plant); Eaton v. Klimm (1933) 217 Cal. 362, 370, 18 P.2d 678 (asphalt mixing plant); Wade v. Campbell (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 54, 58, 19 Cal. Rptr. 173 (dairy farm)].

[8] Pollution of Air, Water, or Soil

The pollution of air, water, or soil may constitute a nuisance [see Newhall Land & Farming Co. v. Superior Court (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 334, 341, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 377 (soil and water); Helix Land Co. v. City of San Diego (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 932, 949, 147 Cal. Rptr. 683 (water); Guttinger v. Calaveras Cement Co. (1958) 160 Cal. App. 2d 460, 463, 325 P.2d 145 (air)]. For a form of allegations for use in a complaint based on a nuisance created by air pollution, see § 391.97. For further discussion and forms relating to air and water pollution, see Ch. 418, Pollution and Environmental Matters .

[9] Obstruction of Streets

The unlawful barricading of a public street may constitute a nuisance for which a person specially injured may maintain an action [Phillips v. City of Pasadena (1945) 27 Cal. 2d 104, 106, 162 P.2d 625] . For a form of allegations for use in a complaint based on a nuisance created by the obstruction of a public street, see § 391.98.

[10] Obscenity

Anything that is indecent, including conduct offensive to a community's moral sensibilities, may constitute a public nuisance, whether or not it is offensive to any of the five senses. The exhibition of obscene material, including books, magazines, films, and live performances, may be restrained as a public nuisance under the general public nuisance statutes [Civ. Code §§ 3479, 3480; Penal Code §§ 370, 371] despite the concurrent application of criminal statutes. The fact that the obscene or other indecent exhibits take place behind closed doors and are viewed only by those who choose to view them does not defeat the community's interest in regulating them [People ex rel. Busch v. Projection Room Theater (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 42, 51, 130 Cal. Rptr. 328, 550 P.2d 600] .

Abatement of this type of nuisance requires a prior judicial determination, after a full adversary hearing, of whether the material is obscene under prevailing law. Neither summary abatement nor temporary injunctive relief is constitutionally permissible as a remedy in the abatement of the sale or display of obscene material [People ex rel. Camil v. Buena Vista Cinema (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 497, 502, 129 Cal. Rptr. 315] . Further, the closing of bookstores or theaters, either temporarily or permanently, or the enjoining of the exhibition of magazines or films not specifically judicially determined to be obscene, constitutes an impermissible prior restraint in violation of U.S. Const. amends. I, XIV. Abatement must be directed to particular books or films that have been adjudged obscene rather than against the premises in which the material is sold, exhibited, or displayed [People ex rel. Busch v. Projection Room Theater (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 42, 58-59, 130 Cal. Rptr. 328, 550 P.2d 600] .

[11] Gambling, Lewdness, or Prostitution

The Red Light Abatement Law (Penal Code § 11225 et seq.) provides that every building used for the purpose of illegal gambling, lewdness, assignation, or prostitution is a nuisance that shall be enjoined, abated and prevented, whether it is a public or private nuisance [Penal Code § 11225(a)]. These provisions prescribe certain specific forms of relief not available under the general nuisance statutes, including temporary injunctions, removal and sale of fixtures, and closure of the premises for one year [Penal Code §§ 11227, 11230]. In early 1983, the California Supreme Court held that neither the Red Light Abatement Law nor the court's general equitable powers allow the imposition of damages in an action under the Red Light Abatement Law [see People ex rel. Van de Kamp v. American Art Enters., Inc. (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 328, 333-334, 188 Cal. Rptr. 740, 656 P.2d 1170] . However, the legislature later that year added Penal Code § 11230, which allows a court, in lieu of ordering a building to be closed, to order the person responsible for the nuisance to pay damages, which are to be deposited in the Restitution Fund in the State Treasury to indemnify persons filing claims as victims of crimes.

The primary purpose of the Red Light Abatement Law is to regulate houses of ill fame and similar places where acts of lewdness and prostitution are habitually practiced and carried on as a business [People v. Barbiere (1917) 33 Cal. App. 770, 775, 166 P. 812] . The term "lewdness" is not synonymous with prostitution; it includes all other immoral or degenerate conduct or conversation between persons of the opposite sex and includes the solicitation of sexual acts to be performed elsewhere [People v. Bayside Land Co. (1920) 48 Cal. App. 257, 260, 191 P. 994] . More recent cases hold that the term is broad enough to include live lewd entertainment, such as stage shows or other exhibitions featuring obscene performances, although it may not include the mere exposure of genitals [People ex rel. Hicks v. Sarong Gals (1972) 27 Cal. App. 3d 46, 50-52, 103 Cal. Rptr. 414 ; see also Mitchell v. Superior Court (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 1230, 1255, 265 Cal. Rptr. 144, 783 P.2d 731 (defining "lewd" conduct under Penal Code § 647(a) and holding that acts were clearly lewd)]. The term "lewdness" is not broad enough to bring within the purview of the Red Light Abatement Law the exhibition of obscene magazines or films in bookstores or theaters [People ex rel. Busch v. Projection Room Theater (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 42, 60, 130 Cal. Rptr. 328, 550 P.2d 600] .

An injunction issued under the Red Light Abatement Law is binding only on the parties to the action or those acting in concert with them. An injunction binding on prior operators of a nuisance will not bind assignees of those with ownership interests in the property who are not operators of the nuisance, and therefore will not bind bona fide arm's-length purchasers of the property [People ex rel. Gwinn v. Kothari (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 759, 768-769, 100 Cal. Rptr. 2d 29 ; see Penal Code §§ 11226, 11234].

[12] Bathhouses

The Red Light Abatement Law (Penal Code § 11225 et seq.) provides that every building or place used as a bathhouse that, as a primary activity, encourages or permits conduct that, according to guidelines of the federal Centers for Disease Control, can transmit AIDS is a nuisance that may be enjoined, abated, and prevented. Damages may also be recovered whether the nuisance is public or private [Penal Code § 11225(b)].

A "bathhouse" is defined as a business that, as its primary purpose, provides facilities for a spa, whirlpool, communal bath, sauna, steam bath, mineral bath, mud bath, or facilities for swimming. Activities named in the statute as included under the federal guidelines are anal intercourse, oral copulation, and vaginal intercourse [Penal Code § 11225(b)].

[13] Place Used for Keeping or Distributing Controlled Substances (Drug Houses)

[a] Definition

Every building or place used for unlawfully selling, serving, storing, keeping, manufacturing, or giving away any controlled substance, precursor, or analog specified in the Uniform Controlled Substances Act [Health & Safety Code § 11000 et seq.], and every building or place where any of those acts take place, is a nuisance that must be enjoined, abated, and prevented. Any building that meets the definition of Health & Safety Code § 11570 is a nuisance, whether the drug activity is conducted by the building's owner, a tenant of the building, a person entering the building with permission, or anyone else [Lew v. Superior Court (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 866, 871, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 42] .

[b] Gang Activity

Gang activity that obstructs residents' use of their own property, obstructs the free passage or use of public streets, and is indecent or offensive to the senses, meets the statutory standard for public nuisance [People ex rel. Gallo v. Acuna (1997) 14 Cal. 4th 1090, 1120, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 277, 929 P.2d 596 ; see also People v. Englebrecht (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 1236, 1261 (alleged gang member was not entitled to jury trial on question of gang membership, and injunction barring specified gang activities was not unconstitutionally broad)].

[c] Abatement by Public Official or Private Citizen

A district attorney, city attorney, or private citizen may maintain an action to abate and prevent a Section 11570 nuisance whenever there is reason to believe that the nuisance is kept, maintained, or exists [see Health & Safety Code § 11571]. In Los Angeles County, San Diego County, and Alameda County, a city prosecutor or city attorney may also file an unlawful detainer action to remove from the property persons in violation of controlled substance provisions [see Health & Safety Code § 11571.1].

Relief available in an abatement action includes closure of the premises pending trial, removal and sale of personal property used in maintaining the nuisance, closure of the premises for a year, and fines [Health & Safety Code § 11571 et seq.].

[d] Suit for Damages

In addition to injunctive relief, damages may be recovered for a building or place that is a nuisance because it is used to keep or distribute controlled substances, whether the nuisance is public or private [Health & Safety Code § 11570]. For example, residents of neighboring property may bring a small claims action for damages without seeking an abatement [Lew v. Superior Court (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 866, 872, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 42] .

For a form of complaint by a private citizen under Health & Safety Code § 11570, for both injunctive relief to abate a nuisance and for damages, see § 391.94.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.25

§ 391.25 Activities Not Considered Nuisances

[1] Commercial Agriculture

No agricultural activity, operation, or facility, or appurtenances thereof, conducted or maintained for commercial purposes, and in a manner consistent with proper and accepted customs and standards, as established and followed by similar agricultural operations in the same locality, shall be or become a nuisance, private or public, due to any changed condition in or about the locality, after it has been operation for more than three years if it was not a nuisance at the time it began [Civ. Code § 3482.5(a)(1); see also Rancho Viejo v. Tres Amigos Viejos (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 550, 567, 123 Cal. Rptr. 2d 479 (if agricultural activity has been ongoing for more than three years, change of ownership of land on which activity occurs within three-year period is irrelevant to application of statute)]. The language of Civ. Code § 3482.5(a)(1) does not limit its preclusive effect to nuisance actions commenced by nonagricultural plaintiffs; the statute applies broadly to bar a nuisance action brought by one commercial agricultural entity against another [Souza v. Lauppe (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 865, 874-875, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 494 (plaintiff's substitution of row crops for the different process of rice farming was changed condition within meaning of statute)]. In addition, this provision applies even if the nuisance consists of a physical invasion of neighboring property, such as might be caused by irrigation runoff, and even if the cause of action is labeled as one for trespass [Rancho Viejo v. Tres Amigos Viejos (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 550, 560-563 , 123 Cal. Rptr. 2d 479] . This statutory exclusion does not apply if the defendant obstructs the free passage or use, in the customary manner, of any navigable lake, river, bay, stream, canal, or basin, or any public party, square, street, or highway [Civ. Code § 3482.5(b); see also Civ. Code § 3482.5(c) (subdivision not invalidating other specified statutes), and (e) (defining "agricultural activity, operation, or facility, or appurtenances thereof")].

Civ. Code § 3482.5 prevails over any contrary provision of any ordinance or regulation of any city, county, city and county, or other political subdivision of the state. However, this provision does not preclude any such entity from lawfully adopting an ordinance allowing notification to a prospective homeowner that the dwelling is in close proximity to an agricultural activity, operation, facility, or appurtenances thereof and is subject to the provisions of the section consistent with Civ. Code § 1102.6a (disclosures on transfer of real property) [see Civ. Code § 3482.5(d)].

For a form asserting the affirmative defense that a preexisting agricultural use is not a nuisance, see § 391.104.

[2] District Agricultural Associations

No activity of a district agricultural association operated in compliance with Food & Agric. Code § 3001 et seq. shall be or become a private or public nuisance due to any changed condition in or about the locality, after it has been in operation for more than three years, if it was not a nuisance at the time it began. This exclusion does not apply, however, to any public nuisance action brought by a city, county, or city and county, alleging that the activities, operations, or conditions of a district agricultural association have substantially changed after more than three years from the time the activities, operations, or conditions began [Civ. Code § 3482.5(a)(2) (provision also inapplicable to activities of 52nd Dist. Agricultural Association conducted on state exposition and fair grounds)].

For a form asserting the affirmative defense that a preexisting activity of a district agricultural association is not a nuisance, see § 391.104.

[3] Agricultural Processing

No agricultural processing activity, operation, or facility, or appurtenances thereof, shall be or become a private or public nuisance due to any changed condition in or about the locality after it has been in continuous operation for more than three years [Civ. Code § 3482.6(a); see also Civ. Code § 3482.6(e) (definitions of "agricultural processing activity," "continuous operation," and "proper and accepted customs and standards")]. A nuisance action may be brought against an agricultural processing activity, operation, facility, or appurtenances thereof that has substantially increased its operations or activities after January 1, 1993, with respect to those increases in activities or operations that have a significant effect on the environment. However, for increases that have been in effect for more than three years, it is rebuttably presumed, for purposes of producing evidence, that the increase was not substantial [Civ. Code § 3482.6(b)].

The provisions of Civ. Code § 3482.6 prevail over any contrary provision of any local ordinance or regulation, except regulations adopted under Health & Safety Code § 41700 as applied to agricultural processing activities, operations, facilities, or appurtenances thereof surrounded by housing or commercial development on January 1, 1993 [Civ. Code § 3482.6(d)]. However, the provisions of Civ. Code § 3482.6 do not supersede any provision of law, other than provisions of Part Three of the Civil Code [Civ. Code § 3479 et seq.], if the agricultural processing activity, operation, facility, or appurtenances thereof, is a public or private nuisance as specifically defined or described in that provision [Civ. Code § 3482.6(c)]. The exclusionary provisions of Civ. Code § 3482.6 do not apply to any litigation pending or any cause of action accruing before January 1, 1993 [Civ. Code § 3482.6(f)].

For a form asserting the affirmative defense that a preexisting agricultural processing use is not a nuisance, see § 391.105.

[4] Obstruction of Light and Air

No structure may be considered a nuisance merely because it obstructs the passage of light and air to the building of the adjoining owner or merely because it obstructs the adjoining owner's view of neighboring property [Ingwersen v. Barry (1897) 118 Cal. 342, 343, 50 P. 536 ; Sher v. Leiderman (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 867, 875-880, 226 Cal. Rptr. 698 ; Venuto v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 116, 127, 99 Cal. Rptr. 350] . Similarly, a nuisance does not exist merely because an otherwise lawful structure built on adjacent property is considered unattractive, such as one that is viewed as being too large or ponderous [Oliver v. AT&T Wireless Servs. (1999) 76 Cal. App. 4th 521, 534-536, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 491 (unattractive appearance of otherwise lawful cellular transmission tower on adjacent property could not support action for nuisance)]. For a form of affirmative defense asserting that obstruction of light and air is not a nuisance, see § 391.106.

There are some statutory exceptions to the rule that obstruction of light and air does not constitute a nuisance. For example, Civ. Code § 841.4, the "spite fence" statute, provides that any fence or other structure in the nature of a fence unnecessarily exceeding 10 feet in height, that is maliciously erected or maintained for the purpose of annoying the owner or occupant of adjoining property, is a private nuisance [Civ. Code § 841.4; see also Wilson v. Handley (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 1301, 1309-1310, 119 Cal. Rptr. 2d 263 (row of trees planted along property line may be "structure in nature of fence," but other requirements of statute must be met to constitute private nuisance)]. In addition, under the appropriate circumstances, Pub. Res. Code § 25763 may provide a remedy if neighboring trees prevent sunlight from reaching a solar collector [see Pub. Res. Code § 25763; Sher v. Leiderman (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 867, 880-883, 226 Cal. Rptr. 698] .

[5] Defective or Polluting Products

Although California's broad statutory definition of nuisance appears to embrace nearly any type of interference with the enjoyment of property, it does not extend to permitting recovery for a defective product under a nuisance cause of action [City of San Diego v. United States Gypsum Co. (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 575, 585-586, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 876] . Thus, the deterioration of asbestos-containing building materials and the consequent release of asbestos fibers and dust did not give rise to a cause of action against the manufacturers and distributors of the materials for creation of a continuing nuisance. In response to plaintiff's argument that a manufacturer of a defective product could be liable in nuisance because "the stream of commerce can carry pollutants every bit as effectively as a stream of water," the court noted that under this theory nuisance would become a monster that would devour in one gulp the entire law of tort. Moreover, other jurisdictions considering this issue have not permitted recovery of damages for defective asbestos-containing building materials under a nuisance cause of action. The court concluded that plaintiffs had essentially pleaded a products liability action, not a nuisance action [City of San Diego v. United States Gypsum Co. (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 575, 584-586, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 876] .

Although recognizing the validity of this analysis if a plaintiff seeks damages for harm caused to the plaintiff's own property, a subsequent court of appeal opinion held that public entities, seeking abatement on behalf of the people of the state, could pursue a claim for public nuisance against lead manufacturers. In that particular case, potential liability was premised on the promotion of lead paint for use in the interior of buildings with knowledge of the hazard that this use would create, which the court recognized as different than merely producing a defective product or failing to warn of a defective product. The defendants' affirmative conduct in promoting use of the paint in an unsafe manner contributed to the creation of a hazardous condition, which could constitute a public nuisance [County of Santa Clara v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 292, 309-310, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 313] . The court held, however, that the public entities could not recover damages for harm caused to their own buildings under a nuisance theory, because that would be allowing recovery of nuisance damages for what was essentially a products liability claim [County of Santa Clara v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 292, 313, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 313] .

[6] Sport Shooting Ranges

A person who operates or uses a sport shooting range, as defined in Civ. Code § 3482.1(a), is not subject to civil liability, including liability for nuisance, arising out of noise or noise pollution, if the range is in compliance with any noise control laws or ordinances, if any, applicable to the range at the time its construction or operation was approved, or if there were no applicable laws in operation at the time the range's construction or operation was approved [Civ. Code § 3482.1(b)(1), see Civ. Code § 3482.1(c)]. A sport shooting range that was in operation and not in violation of existing law at the time of enactment of any noise control law or ordinance must be permitted to continue operating, even if the range does not conform to a new ordinance or an amendment to an existing ordinance, provided that there has been no substantial change in the nature or use of the range [Civ. Code § 3482.1(b)(2)]. Rules or regulations adopted by any state department or agency to limit noise do not apply to sport shooting ranges that are exempt from liability under Civ. Code § 3482.1 [Civ. Code § 3482.1(b)(3)].

Therefore, a person who owns or acquires real property adversely affected by a sport shooting range may not maintain a nuisance action for noise or noise pollution, if there has been no substantial change in the natureor use of the range.

However, Civ. Code § 3482.1 does not prohibit actions for negligence or recklessness in the operation of a sport shooting range, or by a person using the range [Civ. Code § 3482.1(c)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.26

§ 391.26 Remedies for Permanent or Continuing Nuisances

The distinction between continuing and permanent nuisances, whether the nuisance is public or private, is important in determining what damages may be recovered by a private person. These two types of nuisances are defined and discussed in §§ 391.15 and 391.16. If a nuisance is permanent, the plaintiff is entitled to bring only one action in which he or she may recover all damages accrued as well as anticipated future damages, including the amount of the decrease in market value of his or her property. If the nuisance is continuing and can be abated, the plaintiff is entitled to an injunction to have the nuisance abated as well as a judgment for all damages having accrued until the commencement of the action and damages for the temporary decrease in the value of the use of the property while the nuisance continues. If a continuing nuisance remains unabated, the plaintiff may bring successive actions for damages that have accrued until the commencement of each action. However, the plaintiff may not obtain a double recovery that would result from an award of both anticipated future damages as well as an injunction ordering abatement of the nuisance [Spaulding v. Cameron (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 265, 267-269, 239 P.2d 625] .

It is often difficult to classify a nuisance as either permanent or continuing. An attempt to do so may result in serious injustice to one of the parties. If plaintiff assumes the nuisance is not permanent and sues only for past damages, he or she may be met with the plea of res judicata in a later action for additional injury if the court then decides the nuisance was permanent in character from its inception. If the initial injury is slight and plaintiff delays suit until he or she has suffered substantial damage, and the court then determines that the nuisance was permanent, defendant may be able to raise the defense that the statute of limitations ran from the time of the initial injury [see § 391.91[5]]. If defendant is willing and able to abate the nuisance, however, it is unfair to award damages on the theory that it will continue [Spaulding v. Cameron (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 265, 268, 239 P.2d 625] . Therefore, in cases of uncertainty, plaintiff has the choice of treating the nuisance as either permanent or continuing. If defendant is not privileged to continue the nuisance and is able to abate it, he or she cannot complain if the plaintiff elects to bring successive actions as damages accrue until abatement takes place. On the other hand, if it appears improbable as a practical matter that the nuisance can or will be abated, the plaintiff should not be left to the troublesome remedy of successive actions but should be allowed in one action to obtain both past and anticipated future damages [Spaulding v. Cameron (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 265, 268, 239 P.2d 625] .

If time for bringing an action for a permanent nuisance has expired, a plaintiff may not bring an action for a continuing nuisance but attempt to recover damages that would only be available in an action for a permanent nuisance. In one case, for example, a plaintiff was unable to obtain refinancing on real property due to soil contamination caused by the previous owner. Because the time period for filing a claim for a permanent nuisance had expired, plaintiff sued the previous owner for a continuing nuisance and sought to recover the difference in interest paid under the original loan and what would have been paid had plaintiff been able to obtain refinancing at a lower rate. However, the court of appeal held that plaintiff could not recover such damages for a continuing nuisance. The court concluded that the interest rate differential damages were effectively a component of damages for diminution in value of the land and as such would be available only in an action for a permanent nuisance [Gehr v. Baker Hughes Oil Field Operations, Inc. (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 660, 670-671, 81 Cal. Rptr. 3d 219].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.27

§ 391.27 Remedies for Private Nuisances

[1] Civil Action

Any person whose property is injuriously affected or whose personal enjoyment is lessened by a nuisance, as defined in Civ. Code § 3479, may bring a civil action seeking either injunctive relief or damages [Code Civ. Proc. § 731; see § 391.27[2], [3]].

[2] Seeking Injunctive Relief

An injunction is the traditional method of abating a nuisance [Los Angeles Brick & Clay Prods. Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1943) 60 Cal. App. 2d 478, 486, 141 P.2d 46] . Courts have a great deal of discretion in deciding whether to grant an injunction to abate a nuisance [see § 391.52[2]].

[3] Seeking Damages

A plaintiff may bring a nuisance action that either seeks only damages as relief or seeks both damages and abatement [Cushing-Wetmore Co. v. Gray (1907) 152 Cal. 118, 119-120, 92 P. 70 ; see also Lew v. Superior Court (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 866, 872, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 42] . The amount of damages recoverable in a nuisance action is governed by Civ. Code §§ 3281 and 3333 [Coats v. Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Ry. Co. (1905) 1 Cal. App. 441, 444, 82 P. 640 ; see Ch. 177, Damages]. Civ. Code § 3281 provides that every person who suffers detriment from the unlawful act or omission of another, may recover from the person at fault a compensation in money that is called damages. Civ. Code § 3333 provides that for the breach of an obligation not arising from contract, the measure of damages is the amount that will compensate for all the detriment proximately caused thereby, whether it could have been anticipated or not.

Even in the absence of physical injury, an occupant of land is entitled to recover damages for the annoyance, discomfort, inconvenience, and mental suffering caused by a nuisance [Acadia, Cal., Ltd. v. Herbert (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 328, 337, 5 Cal. Rptr. 686, 353 P.2d 294 ; Smith v. County of Los Angeles (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 266, 287-288, 262 Cal. Rptr. 754 ; see also Lew v. Superior Court (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 866, 873, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 42 ; but see Baker v. Burbank-Glendale-Pasadena Airport Auth. (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 1602, 1610, 270 Cal. Rptr. 337 (no recovery for personal harm of emotional distress on private nuisance theory, although lack of injury to plaintiff's property was basis of holding that no private nuisance cause of action had been stated); Institoris v. City of Los Angeles (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 10, 23, 258 Cal. Rptr. 418] . In assessing the amount of damages, the court appropriately may consider the sentimental and aesthetic value of things destroyed, the plaintiff's affection for his or her possessions, and any interference with plaintiff's peace, comfort, and quiet [Griffin v. Northridge (1944) 67 Cal. App. 2d 69, 73, 153 P.2d 800] . Furthermore, if the nuisance is intentional, exemplary damages may be awarded [Stoiber v. Honeychuck (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 903, 920, 162 Cal. Rptr. 194] . Additional damages which may be allowed in a nuisance action include compensation for the depreciation in market, rental or usable value of plaintiff's realty caused by the nuisance [Ingram v. City of Gridley (1950) 100 Cal. App. 2d 815, 821, 224 P.2d 798] .

[4] Abatement Through Self-Help

A person injured by a private nuisance may abate it by removing, or, if necessary, destroying the thing that constitutes the nuisance, without committing a breach of the peace, or doing unnecessary injury [Civ. Code § 3502]. If a private nuisance results from a mere omission of the wrongdoer, and cannot be abated without entering on the wrongdoer's land, a person must give reasonable notice to the wrongdoer before entering to abate the nuisance [Civ. Code § 3503]. The fact that a nuisance has been abated does not prejudice the right of any person to recover damages for its past existence [Civ. Code § 3484; Code Civ. Proc. § 731].

Although Civ. Code §§ 3502 and 3503 establish limited right to "self-help" abatement, counsel should exercise great caution before advising a client to proceed in this manner. A court may subsequently find that the condition abated by the client did not constitute a nuisance. Furthermore, the client may go further than allowed in abating the nuisance and find himself or herself as a defendant in an action for damages. For example, after a defendant entered his neighbor's land and chopped down trees whose roots and branches encroached on his property, the neighbor obtained a judgment against the defendant for treble damages. Although the defendant would have been justified in cutting off the offending portions of the trees or in suing for damages and abatement of the nuisance, he was not justified in taking the law into his own hands even to accomplish what the neighbor-plaintiff should have done [Fick v. Nilson (1950) 98 Cal. App. 2d 683, 685, 220 P.2d 752] . In another case, defendant hired a contractor to excavate and sever the roots of a tree on plaintiffs' property that extended into defendant's yard. In their action against defendant for nuisance, negligence, and destruction of timber, plaintiffs alleged that they had had to remove the tree at their own expense because the excavation had been performed negligently and had caused the tree to become unsafe, unable to support life, and a nuisance. The court of appeal reversed and remanded summary judgment for defendant because a landowner has no absolute right to remove encroaching branches or roots from his or her property, regardless of the damage to his or her neighbor's property; the removal must be done with reasonable care and without unnecessary injury [Booska v. Patel (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 1786, 1789-1791, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 241] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.28

§ 391.28 Remedies for Public Nuisances

[1] Indictment or Information

One remedy for a public nuisance is an indictment or information [Civ. Code § 3491], which is regulated by the Penal Code [Civ. Code § 3492; compare Penal Code §§ 370, 371 (definition of public nuisance) with Civ. Code §§ 3479, 3480 (definition of public nuisance)]. Under the Penal Code, it is a misdemeanor to maintain or commit any public nuisance, the punishment for which is not otherwise described, or to willfully omit to perform any legal duty relating to the removal of a public nuisance [Penal Code § 372].

A criminal indictment or information is one remedy for abating a public nuisance, but it is not the exclusive remedy [People ex rel. Gallo v. Acuna (1997) 14 Cal. 4th 1090, 1119, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 277, 929 P.2d 596 (California Street Terrorism Enforcement and Prevention Act, Penal Code §§ 186.20 et seq., is not exclusive remedy for abating criminal street gang activity and does not preempt use of general public nuisance statutes)].

[2] Civil Action or Abatement

[a] By District or City Attorney

Another remedy for a public nuisance is civil action brought in the name of the people of the State of California to abate the nuisance. The action may be brought by either the district attorney of any county in which the nuisance exists or the city attorney of any town or city in which the nuisance exists [Code Civ. Proc. § 731; see People ex rel. Clancy v. Superior Court (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 740, 750 n.5, 218 Cal. Rptr. 24, 705 P.2d 347] .

When the state in its representative capacity prosecutes a cause of action for a public nuisance, it is confined to seeking an abatement of the public nuisance; money damages are not available to the state [Code Civ. Proc. § 731; Selma Pressure Treating Co. v. Osmose Wood Preserving Co. (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 1601, 1613, 271 Cal. Rptr. 596] . However, this limitation applies only if the state is acting in its representative capacity to protect the public interest generally. If the state has a property interest that has been injured by a nuisance, the state may, like any property owner, seek damages [Selma Pressure Treating Co. v. Osmose Wood Preserving Co. (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 1601, 1614, 271 Cal. Rptr. 596] .

A defendant has no right to a jury trial when sued by a public entity seeking equitable abatement of a public nuisance [People v. Bhakta (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 973, 978-979, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 421].

[b] By Special District

If a question arises as to whether a special district has the power to bring an action to abate a public nuisance, the grant of empowerment to bring such an action must be clear and specific [see Lamont Storm Water Dist. v. Pavich (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 1081, 1084-1085, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 288] . For example, although a mosquito abatement district has this statutory authority [see Health & Safety Code §§ 2000-2010], a storm water district does not [Lamont Storm Water Dist. v. Pavich (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 1081, 1084-1085, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 288 ; see Stats. 1984, ch. 1128, § 77].

[c] By Private Person

A private person may also bring a civil action to abate a public nuisance, but only if the nuisance is specially injurious to that private person [Civ. Code § 3493]. To have standing to bring the action, the private person must show that he or she has suffered an injury different in kind, not just degree, from that suffered by the general public [Buchanan v. Los Angeles County Flood Control Dist. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 757, 768, 128 Cal. Rptr. 770] . However, this rule does not apply to a nuisance that is a private nuisance as well as a public nuisance. In this situation, a private person does not lose his or her rights as a landowner merely because others suffer damages of the same kind, or even of the same degree [Venuto v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 116, 124, 99 Cal. Rptr. 350 ; see also Lew v. Superior Court (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 866, 873, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 42] .

In one novel case, apartment renters were held to have stated a cause of action under the federal Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act (civil RICO) (18 U.S.C.S. § 1961 et seq.) against neighbors (residents of a notoriously disruptive university housing cooperative) whose illegal drug sales and related criminal and violent activity severely affected the neighborhood. The court noted that defendant's alleged conduct ranged from "assault to vandalism," and that the complaint read more like "an enumeration of the ten plagues than a pleading in federal court." The federal court of appeals allowed the RICO claim on the ground that plaintiffs' economic leasehold interests were damaged by the type of unlawful conduct that "lies at the heart of RICO," that is, violation of drug laws [Oscar v. University Students Co-op. Ass'n (9th Cir. 1991) 939 F.2d 808, 812-814] . It is interesting to note, however, the dissenting observation that if plaintiffs' claims stated any cause of action, it would be public nuisance [see Oscar v. University Students Co-op. Ass'n (9th Cir. 1991) 939 F.2d 808, 814-815, n.2 (dissenting opinion of Rymer, J.)]. For discussion of civil RICO generally, see Ch. 565, Unfair Competition .

[3] Abatement Through Self-Help

In addition to bringing a civil action to abate a public nuisance [see § 391.28[2][c]], a private person may, under limited circumstances, abate a public nuisance by removing or, if necessary, destroying the nuisance. However, the public nuisance must be specially injurious to that private person. Moreover, the person must accomplish the removal or destruction without committing a breach of the peace or doing unnecessary injury [Civ. Code § 3495]. For a discussion of the legal perils involved in self-help abatement, see § 391.27[4].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.29

§ 391.29 Scope of Injunction to Be Limited

As a general rule, an injunction should never go beyond the necessities of the case [Anderson v. Souza (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 825, 840-841, 243 P.2d 497] . If a court orders the abatement of a nuisance, the decree should not enjoin more than the specific thing which might constitute the nuisance [Wheeler v. Gregg (1949) 90 Cal. App. 2d 348, 368-369, 203 P.2d 37] . If the operation of a legitimate business creates a nuisance, the relief granted should be directed and confined to the elimination of the nuisance, unless under the peculiar circumstances of the case the business, lawful in itself, cannot be conducted without creating a nuisance and violating the rights of contiguous property owners. Furthermore, if plaintiff seeks relief that requires the closure of a business, the burden is on plaintiff to prove that the business cannot be operated without creating a nuisance [see Anderson v. Souza (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 825, 841, 843, 243 P.2d 497] .

These principles were applied by the Supreme Court in an action in which plaintiffs sought, and obtained from the trial court, an injunction ordering the defendant to cease operations as a private airport. Although the Supreme Court agreed that plaintiffs had proved that defendant's operation constituted a nuisance, the judgment enjoining defendants from operating the airport was reversed because plaintiffs had not met their burden of proving that the airport could not be operated in a way that would not constitute a nuisance. If the imposition of limitations would have sufficed to abate the nuisance, the complete abatement of the operation of the airport would be beyond the rights of plaintiffs [Anderson v. Souza (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 825, 843-844, 243 P.2d 497] .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.30

§ 391.30 Defenses

[1] Nuisances Sanctioned by Statute

Civ. Code § 3482 provides that nothing which is done or maintained under the express authority of a statute can be deemed a nuisance. However, the exculpatory effect of Civ. Code § 3482 has been circumscribed by decisions giving a narrow construction to the statute.

A statutory sanction cannot be pleaded in justification of acts which by the general rules of law constitute a nuisance, unless the acts complained of are authorized by the express terms of the statute under which the justification is made, or by the plainest and most necessary implication from the powers expressly conferred, so that it can be fairly stated that the legislature contemplated the doing of the very act which occasions the injury [Hassell v. San Francisco (1938) 11 Cal. 2d 168, 171, 78 P.2d 1021 ; Pekarek v. City of San Diego (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 909, 918, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 22] . For example, in a case involving a child struck by a van whose driver's view was obstructed by an ice cream truck, a city was not liable to the child for creating a nuisance by permitting ice cream trucks to operate on the city streets. The language of the city ordinance authorizing the operation of ice cream trucks on city streets showed that the city council had carefully considered risks to pedestrians such as the child, but nonetheless had authorized the very conduct (sales of food from vehicles on public streets) that led to the child's injury [Pekarek v. City of San Diego (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 909, 917-918, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 22] . This requirement of "express" authorization embodied in the statute itself insures that an unequivocal legislative intent to sanction a nuisance will be effectuated, while avoiding the uncertainty that would result were every generally worded statute a source of undetermined immunity from nuisance liability [Greater Westchester Homeowners Ass'n v. City of Los Angeles (1979) 26 Cal. 3d 86, 101, 160 Cal. Rptr. 733, 603 P.2d 1329 ; see also Varjabedian v. City of Madera (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 285, 291, 142 Cal. Rptr. 429, 572 P.2d 43] .

However, although an activity authorized by statute cannot be a nuisance, the manner in which the activity is performed may constitute a nuisance [Venuto v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 116, 129, 99 Cal. Rptr. 350 ; but see Farmers Ins. Exchange v. State of California (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 494, 501 (authorizing statute need not predict precise nature of damages but need only authorize governmental action; defense of statutory authorization under Civ. Code § 3482 applies to acts done pursuant to the Emergency Services Act)].

In applying these principles, the Supreme Court has affirmed findings of liability for nuisance against cities for the noise created by an airport whose construction was sanctioned by both federal and state statutes [Greater Westchester Homeowners Ass'n v. City of Los Angeles (1979) 26 Cal. 3d 86, 100-101, 160 Cal. Rptr. 733, 603 P.2d 1329 ; but see Institoris v. City of Los Angeles (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 10, 14, 23, 258 Cal. Rptr. 418 (plaintiff no longer owned property interest claimed to be harmed by nuisance because of prescriptive aviation easement benefiting airport)] and for the smells emitted by a sewage treatment plant whose construction was authorized by state statute [Varjabedian v. City of Madera (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 285, 291-292, 142 Cal. Rptr. 429, 572 P.2d 43] .

For a form of affirmative defense asserting statutory authority for the creation of the condition allegedly constituting a nuisance, see § 391.100.

[2] Conduct Regulated by Public Utilities Commission

If a holding that certain conduct causes substantial harm would conflict with a prior determination by the Public Utilities Commission, the California Supreme Court has held that no recovery is available, because Pub. Util. Code § 1759 prohibits an award of damages that would frustrate declared policies of the commission [San Diego Gas & Elec. Co. v. Superior Court (1996) 13 Cal. 4th 893, 903, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 724, 920 P.2d 669] . The case arose in the context of an action to recover property damages allegedly caused by the presence of high-voltage electric lines near plaintiffs' property; plaintiffs alleged that the fear of electric fields led to a diminution in the value of the property. The Commission had concluded in prior proceedings, after consultation and evidentiary hearings, that the available evidence did not support a reasonable belief that electromagnetic fields of the sort caused by power lines create a substantial risk of physical harm, and that unless and until the evidence supports such a belief regulated utilities need take no action to reduce to reduce field levels from existing power lines. The Court held that the findings necessary to support a nuisance cause of action--that reasonable persons viewing the matter objectively would experience a substantial fear that the fields would cause physical harm, and would deem the invasion so serious as to outweigh the social utility of the existing power lines--would impermissibly interfere with the Commission's regulatory power [San Diego Gas & Elec. Co. v. Superior Court (1996) 13 Cal. 4th 893, 939, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 724, 920 P.2d 669] .

[3] Zoning Regulations

Whenever a city has established a zone in which certain businesses or airports are expressly permitted, except in an action to abate a public nuisance brought in the name of the people of the State of California, no person or corporation may be enjoined from the reasonable and necessary operation in such zone of any use expressly permitted in the zone, nor may the use be deemed a nuisance without evidence of the employment of unnecessary and injurious methods of operation. This provision does not apply to the regulation and working hours of refineries and similar establishments whose operation produces offensive odors [see Code Civ. Proc. § 731a]. The purpose in adopting this statute was to eliminate injunctive relief where the business is operated in its appropriate zone and the only showing is an injury and nuisance to the plaintiff caused by the operation of the business [Gelfand v. O'Haver (1948) 33 Cal. 2d 218, 220, 200 P.2d 790] . The mere fact that a commercial enterprise is conducting its business in a district zoned for its type of activity does not justify the maintenance by it of a nuisance. In order to obtain injunctive relief in a private action against nuisance-creating commercial enterprises whose activities are protected by zoning ordinances, plaintiff must show that the defendant employed "unnecessary and injurious methods" in the operation of the business. In making such a showing plaintiff is not restricted to adducing evidence of failure by defendant to pursue the methods customarily and usually employed in other similar businesses, but may also show that there are devices or more efficient management which would reduce the conduct or activity causing the nuisance and that such devices or management are available to defendant at a reasonable expense. The failure to secure such devices or management when they are available at a reasonable expense renders the conduct or activity causing the nuisance unnecessary and unreasonable [Venuto v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 116, 129

For example, despite the fact that defendant's property was properly zoned for a golf course, plaintiff was appropriately granted an injunction requiring additional fencing and a redesign of two holes in order to prevent the nuisance caused by golf balls being propelled onto plaintiff's property [Sierra Screw Prods. v. Azusa Greens, Inc. (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 358, 365-366, 151 Cal. Rptr. 799] .

Conversely, Code Civ. Proc. § 731a has been applied to deny an injunction to a plaintiff who proved defendant's drop forging plant constituted a nuisance as defined by Civ. Code § 3479. Although the court denied an injunction because it found the area was zoned for drop forging and defendant's methods of operation were reasonable and necessary, plaintiff was allowed to recover damages [McNeill v. Redington (1944) 67 Cal. App. 2d 315, 320 . For additional discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 731a, see § 391.19. For a form asserting an affirmative defense based on this statute, see § 391.101.

[4] Balancing of Conveniences

Once a court has determined a defendant is a wrongdoer and that a plaintiff's property has been occupied, the court has a great deal of discretion in deciding whether or not the plaintiff is entitled to a mandatory injunction to abate the nuisance [see Ch. 303, Injunctions]. In reaching this decision, courts attempt to balance the conveniences of the parties and consider the guidelines [see § 391.52[2]].

These guidelines were applied to deny an injunction in a case involving an encroachment on 15/100 acre of land worth $150 per acre, where the encroaching reservoir cost $7,000 to construct, served 500 people, and where damages of $762.41 were allowed. The appellate court affirmed the denial of a mandatory injunction, emphasizing the serious harm to defendant if the injunction were granted, the defendant's inadvertance and innocent mistake in constructing the reservoir, the fully compensatory nature of the damages, and the serious injury to the public if the reservoir were ordered removed [Ukhtomski v. Tioga Mut. Water Co. (1936) 12 Cal. App. 2d 726, 728-729, 55 P.2d 1251] .

The balancing of conveniences doctrine is often invoked as a defense when plaintiff seeks an injunction to vindicate technical and unsubstantial rights that will impose an unusual hardship on the public or the defendant. If a court follows this doctrine and concludes that it should deny plaintiff an injunction despite the nuisance, its action approaches an exercise of the right of eminent domain in favor of a private person. Therefore, the burden of proof is on the defendant to prove that irreparable injury would result if the injunction were to issue [Fairrington v. Dyke Water Co. (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 198, 200, 323 P.2d 1001] . For an excellent review of several cases following this doctrine, see Christensen v. Tucker (1952) 114 Cal. App. 2d 554, 559-565, 250 P.2d 660 . For additional discussion of and a form for an affirmative defense based on the doctrine of balancing of conveniences, see § 391.107 and Ch. 11, Adjoining Landowners .

[5] Comparative Negligence

Frequently a plaintiff will allege both nuisance and negligence [see § 391.22]. In such a case, defendant should consider asserting the affirmative defense of comparative negligence [see Li v. Yellow Cab Co. (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 804, 828-829, 119 Cal. Rptr. 858, 532 P.2d 1226] . Prior to Li, the rule in California was that the contributory negligence of a plaintiff was a bar to his or her recovery based on a nuisance [Curtis v. Kastner (1934) 220 Cal. 185, 191, 30 P.2d 26] .

After Li, at least one court of appeal has held that a trial court may instruct the jury on comparative negligence principles in a nuisance action alleging damages to real property if the defendant presents evidence that, if a nuisance exists, it arose because of defendant's negligence (as opposed to intentional or reckless conduct) [Tint v. Sanborn (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 1225, 1234, 259 Cal. Rptr. 902] . It has not been decided, however, whether comparative fault principles can properly be applied to a nuisance that all parties concede arose from intentional or reckless conduct, or an ultrahazardous activity as to which strict liability in tort might be applied [Tint v. Sanborn (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 1225, 1234 n.3, 259 Cal. Rptr. 902] . For further discussion of comparative negligence, and a form for asserting this affirmative defense, see Ch. 380, Negligence .

[6] Failure to Mitigate Damages

A person injured by the tortious act of another is under an active duty to use reasonable care and diligence to minimize his or her loss. He or she is not entitled to compensation for damages that could have been avoided by reasonable efforts or expense [Jarchow v. Transamerica Title Ins. Co. (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 917, 949, 122 Cal. Rptr. 470] . Therefore, if a plaintiff seeks damages allegedly caused by a nuisance and there is a possibility that plaintiff has not used reasonable efforts to mitigate damages, defendant should plead this fact as an affirmative defense [for a form asserting this affirmative defense, see Ch. 380, Negligence].

[7] Freedom of Speech

Defendant may assert First Amendment rights as an affirmative defense if the injunction sought would restrict freedom of expression. This defense is most likely applicable in cases involving "moral nuisances" [see, e.g., People ex rel. Busch v. Projection Room Theater (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 42, 58-59, 130 Cal. Rptr. 328, 550 P.2d 600] .

[8] Lessor's Consent to Nuisance Precludes Award of Damages in Action by Lessor

A landowner's consent to a particular use of the property is a defense to an action for damages brought by the landowner for creation of a nuisance by the lessee or a prior lessee [see Mangini v. Aerojet-Gen. Corp. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1125, 1138-1139, 281 Cal. Rptr. 827 (quoting from Restatement (Second) of Torts § 839)]. A successor owner is bound by a valid consent by a predecessor owner. Thus, once an original owner has lost the right to sue by authorizing construction of the nuisance, he or she can pass no right to sue to a grantee [Mangini v. Aerojet-Gen. Corp. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1125, 1139, 281 Cal. Rptr. 827] .

Consent cannot, however, impede the abatement of a public nuisance [Mangini v. Aerojet-Gen. Corp. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1125, 1139, 281 Cal. Rptr. 827] . The defense of consent is not vitiated simply because a landowner seeks damages based on special injury from a public nuisance [Mangini v. Aerojet-Gen. Corp. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1125, 1139, 281 Cal. Rptr. 827 (quoting with approval statement that in such a case, private and public nuisance both exist in a sense)].

For a form asserting the affirmative defense of consent, see § 391.108.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.31

§ 391.31 Statute of Limitations

[1] Private Nuisance

The statute of limitations for injury to real property is three years [Code Civ. Proc. § 338(b)]. This statute applies to nuisance actions based on encroachments or injury to real property [see Kafka v. Bozio (1923) 191 Cal. 746, 750-751, 218 P. 753 ; Tracy v. Ferrera (1956) 144 Cal. App. 2d 827, 828-829, 301 P.2d 905 ; O'Hair v. California Prune & Apricot Growers Ass'n (1933) 130 Cal. App. 673, 676, 20 P.2d 375] . Presumably, the two-year (one-year, prior to January 1, 2003) statute of limitations [Code Civ. Proc. § 335.1; see former Code Civ. Proc. § 340(3); Ch. 345, Limitation of Actions, § 345.14] applies if a plaintiff is suing for personal injury or wrongful death resulting from a nuisance.

A cause of action for nuisance accrues, and the statute of limitations begins to run, when damage first occurs, not when the condition causing the nuisance first is created [see Spaulding v. Cameron (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 265, 268, 239 P.2d 625 ; Meigs v. Pinkham (1910) 159 Cal. 104, 108-110, 112 P. 883] . Whether an action based on nuisance is barred by the statute of limitations frequently depends on whether the nuisance is considered permanent or continuing. If the nuisance is continuing, every repetition of the wrong creates an additional basis for liability and starts the running of a new statute of limitations. Thus, even though an action to recover the initial damages may be barred, if the nuisance is continuing rather than permanent, the injured person is entitled to bring an action for all damages occurring within the limitation period until the nuisance is abated [see Nestle v. City of Santa Monica (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 920, 937, 101 Cal. Rptr. 568, 496 P.2d 480 ; Phillips v. City of Pasadena (1945) 27 Cal. 2d 104, 107-108, 162 P.2d 625] . For example, property owners who discovered a continuing nuisance on their property caused by gasoline contamination were not barred by the statute of limitations from filing a suit to recover their costs of removing the contaminated soil because the statutory period did not begin running until the cleanup was complete and the nuisance had therefore been abated [Wilshire Westwood Assocs. v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 732, 744-745, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 562] .

However, a plaintiff cannot avoid the three-year limitations period applicable to actions for a permanent nuisance simply by characterizing the action as one for a continuing nuisance. For limitations purposes, if the action is brought after the three-year limitations period has expired, a plaintiff is required to prove that the nuisance is actually a continuing nuisance rather than a permanent one by presenting substantial evidence that the injury is capable of being abated and that the cost of abatement is reasonable [Mangini v. Aerojet-Gen. Corp. (1996) 12 Cal. 4th 1087, 1090, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 272, 912 P.2d 1220] . Failure to provide evidence showing that plaintiff's property can be repaired or the damage abated at a reasonable cost by reasonable means will defeat a claim that the nuisance should be treated as a continuing nuisance [McCoy v. Gustafson (2009) 180 Cal. App. 4th 56, 85-86, 103 Cal. Rptr. 3d 37] .

For discussion of the distinction between permanent and continuing nuisances as affecting damages, see § 391.26. For a form asserting the statute of limitations as an affirmative defense, see § 391.103.

[2] Public Nuisance

Civ. Code § 3490 provides that no lapse of time can legalize a public nuisance, amounting to an actual obstruction of public right. This provision has been construed to mean that the statute of limitations is no defense to an action brought by a public entity to abate a public nuisance [Mangini v. Aerojet-Gen. Corp. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1125, 1142, 281 Cal. Rptr. 827] .

However, in actions brought by private citizens to recover damages for special injury caused by a public nuisance, the Supreme Court has characterized the nuisance as either "continuing" or "permanent," and has used the characterization to determine whether the suit is subject to the statute of limitations [Mangini v. Aerojet-Gen. Corp. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1125, 1142-1143, 281 Cal. Rptr. 827 (distinguishing Wade v. Campbell (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 54, 60-61, 19 Cal. Rptr. 173 , which stated that defenses of laches and bar of statute of limitations were inapplicable in cases in which private parties suffered special injury from public nuisances, on ground that Wade involved a continuing nuisance); see Baker v. Burbank-Glendale-Pasadena Airport Auth. (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 862, 868-869, 218 Cal. Rptr. 293, 705 P.2d 866 (permanent nuisances subject to statute of limitations; continuing nuisance action may be brought at any time); Phillips v. City of Pasadena (1945) 27 Cal. 2d 104, 107-108, 162 P.2d 625 (same)].

In an action brought by a private citizen for damages to real property caused by a public nuisance, if the nuisance is permanent, the three-year statute of limitations in Code Civ. Proc. § 338(b) applies and begins to run when the permanent nuisance is created [Mangini v. Aerojet-Gen. Corp. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1125, 1144, 281 Cal. Rptr. 827] . As noted under § 391.31[1], for limitations purposes, if an action is brought by a private plaintiff seeking damages for a continuing nuisance after this three-year limitations period has expired, the plaintiff is required to prove that the nuisance is actually a continuing nuisance, rather than a permanent one, by presenting substantial evidence that the injury is capable of being abated and that the cost of abatement is reasonable [Mangini v. Aerojet-Gen. Corp. (1996) 12 Cal. 4th 1087, 1090, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 272, 912 P.2d 1220] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 391.32-391.49

[Reserved]

§§ 391.32[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.50

§ 391.50 Related Matthew Bender Publications

For a memorandum of points and authorities relating to the use of injunctions in the abatement of a private nuisance, see s California Points and Authorities, Ch. 116, Injunctions

For memoranda of points and authorities pertaining to actions to abate a nuisance, see s California Points and Authorities, Ch. 167, Nuisance

For memoranda of points and authorities relating to encroachments on real property, see s California Points and Authorities, Ch. 225, Trespass

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.51

§ 391.51 State Statutes

[1] Generally

Nuisance defined. Civ. Code § 3479

Private nuisance defined. Civ. Code §§ 3479-3481

Public nuisance defined. Civ. Code § 3480; Penal Code § 370

Liability of successive owner for continuing nuisance. Civ. Code § 3483

Lapse of time does not legalize public nuisance amounting to actual obstruction of public right. Civ. Code § 3490

In personal injury or property damage case, defendants are precluded from referring at trial to fault, absence from action, or involvement of defendant whose motion for summary judgment or nonsuit has been granted. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 437c(j), 581c(d)

Nuisance defined for purposes of State Housing Law (Health & Safety Code § 17910 et seq.) as nuisance defined in Civil Code or any form of nuisance recognized at common law or in equity. Health & Safety Code § 17920(k)

[2] Activities/Conditions Not Nuisances

Anything done or maintained under express authority or authority of statute is not nuisance. Civ. Code § 3482

Sport shooting range, in operation and not in violation of existing law at time of construction or of enactment of noise control ordinance, not subject to action for nuisance. Civ. Code § 3482.1

Activity of district agricultural association in operation for more than three years is not nuisance. Civ. Code §

3482.5(a)(2)

Agricultural activity, operation, facility, or appurtenance in continuous operation for more than three years is not nuisance; cause of action for public or private nuisance is available for substantial increase in activities after 1992 that has significant effect on environment. Civ. Code § 3482.6(a), (b)

Commercial agricultural enterprises in business for three years is no nuisance. Civ. Code § 3482.5

Operations of airport are permanent, not continuing, nuisance. Civ. Code § 3482.7

Airport in existence for three years is presumed not to be nuisance. Code Civ. Proc. § 731b

[3] Attorney's Fees and Costs

Award of costs, including costs of investigation, discovery, and attorney's fees, in cases in which government seeks to enjoin sale, distribution, or public exhibition of obscene matter as defined in Penal Code § 311; seeks to enjoin use of building for illegal gambling, lewdness, or prostitution or seeks to enjoin such acts under Red Light Abatement Law; seeks to enjoin use of building, or seeks to enjoin in any building unlawful sale, manufacture, service, storage, or keeping or giving away of any controlled substance as authorized by Health & Safety Code §§ 11570-11587 of the California Uniform Controlled Substances Act; or seeks to enjoin unlawful sale, service, storage, or keeping or giving away of alcoholic liquor as authorized by the Unlawful Liquor Sale Abatement Law (Penal Code §§ 11200-11207). Civ. Code § 3496

[4] Moral Nuisances

Building used for illegal gambling, lewdness, assignation, or prostitute is nuisance (Red Light Abatement Law). Penal Code §§ 11225-11235

[5] Public Nuisance as Misdemeanor

Public nuisance defined and made misdemeanor. Penal Code §§ 370-372

Public nuisance is unlawful even if damage inflicted on individuals is unequal. Penal Code § 371

Duty of district attorney or city attorney to prosecute person maintaining public nuisance on his or her property. Penal Code § 373a

[6] Remedies

[a] In General

Basis for injunctive relief against nuisance. Civ. Code §§ 3369, 3422; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 731

Specific and preventive relief is prohibited to enforce penalty law except in case of nuisance or as otherwise provided by law. Civ. Code § 3369

Damages are recoverable for nuisance. Civ. Code § 3484; Code Civ. Proc. § 731

Remedies against public nuisance. Civ. Code §§ 3491-3495; Code Civ. Proc. § 731

Private party is allowed to maintain action for public nuisance specially injurious to him or her but not otherwise. Civ. Code § 3493

Remedies against private nuisance. Civ. Code §§ 3501-3503

[b] Abatement of Nuisances

Public nuisance is appropriately abated by any public body or officer so authorized. Civ. Code § 3494

Private person is authorized to abate specially injurious public nuisance. Civ. Code § 3495

Abatement and civil action are remedies against private nuisance. Civ. Code § 3501

Abatement of private nuisance through self-help without breach of peace. Civ. Code § 3502

Reasonable notice is prerequisite for self-help abatement of private nuisance requiring entry on land. Civ. Code § 3503

Civil actions are authorized to be brought in name of people or by district attorney or city attorney to abate public nuisance. Code Civ. Proc. § 731

Limitations on abatement of industrial and commercial operation. Code Civ. Proc. § 731a

Minimum requirements for county or city nuisance abatement ordinances. Gov. Code §§ 25845 (county), 38773.5 (city)

County or city permitted to provide by ordinance that court may order owner to pay treble costs of abatement on entry of second or subsequent civil or criminal judgment within two-year period after finding that owner of property is responsible for condition that may be abated in accordance with ordinance enacted under minimum statutory requirements. Gov. Code §§ 25845.5 (county), 38773.7 (city)

Abatement of buildings potentially hazardous to life in event of earthquake. Health & Safety Code §§ 17980.1-17980.5

Enforcement agency, tenant, or tenant association permitted to seek court order appointing receiver to repair conditions in substandard building. Health & Safety Code § 17980.7

State Department of Public Health is authorized to enjoin and abate public nuisances. Health & Safety Code § 131075

Abatement of contamination caused by discharge of sewage or other waste. Health & Safety Code §§ 117585

[7] Specific Nuisances Per Se

Public nuisances under Food and Agriculture Code include infested plants, black currant, Meyer lemon plants, Caprifig trees, camelthorn, animals infected with dourine, noncomplying poultry meat, noncomplying honey. Food & Agric. Code §§ 5904, 5951-5952, 5985, 6171-6177, 7301, 9621, 25556, 29731

Alcoholic beverage in club room without license is public nuisance. Bus. & Prof. Code § 25604

Nonconforming billboards are public nuisances. Bus. & Prof. Code § 5461

Abatement of illegal on-premises advertising display. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 5499.2, 5499.3 et seq.

Nonresidential building used for manufacturing, selling, or possessing counterfeit goods is abatable nuisance. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17800 et seq.

Substantial failure by mobile home park management to provide and maintain physical improvements in common facilities in good working order and substantial violation of mobile home park rules are public nuisance. Civ. Code § 798.87(a)

Spite fence is private nuisance. Civ. Code § 841.4

Motion picture exhibiting actual intentional killing or cruelty to people or animals is nuisance Civ. Code §§ 3504 et seq.

Public nuisances under Fish and Game Code include water pollution in Trinity and Klamath River Fish and Game District, infected or diseased fish or aquatic plants in violation of law, frogs, fish reduction plant operating illegally, illegally used fishing net, improperly marked fish traps, unmarked lobster traps. Fish & Game Code §§ 5800, 6302, 6855, 7707, 8630, 9007, 9008

Weeds and rubbish are nuisance. Gov. Code §§ 39501-39588

Abandoned excavations are nuisance. Gov. Code §§ 50230-50257

Nuisances under Health and Safety Code include water works conducted in violation of law, cesspools, breeding places of pests, place used in connection with controlled substances, unlawfully operated swimming pool, deleterious food. Health & Safety Code §§ 2041, 2800.5, 4762, 11570, 106670, 116060, 116063, 111890

Building or place used for unlawful selling of controlled substance, precursor, or analog is nuisance subject to injunction, abatement, and prevention; damages may be recovered whether nuisance is public or private; who may bring action and procedure. Health & Safety Code § 11570 et seq.

Nuisances under Penal Code include signs or lights on railway tracks, sign contrary to law, building where liquor sold illegally, gambling ship, carrying concealed weapon, carrying weapons listed in Penal Code § 12120(a), machine guns, assault weapons, bombs, and other destructive devices. Penal Code §§ 369h, 556.3, 11200, 11300-11318, 12028, 12029, 12251, 12282, 12307

Nuisances under Public Resources Code include unauthorized operation of placer mine, public oil or gas well, uncontrolled fire, fire hazard on state property. Pub. Res. Code §§ 3600-3609, 3967, 4170.5, 4171-4181

Encroachment on state or county highways is nuisance. Sts. & Hy. Code §§ 723, 1484

Prohibited sign, signal, device, or light on public highway is public nuisance subject to removal or abatement. Veh. Code § 21467

[8] Statutes of Limitations

Lapse of time does not legalize public nuisance amounting to actual obstruction of public right. Civ. Code § 3490

Two-year statute of limitations for action for personal injury. Code Civ. Proc. § 335.1; see former Code Civ. Proc. § 340(3) (one year, prior to 2003)

Three-year statute of limitations for action for trespass on or injury to real property. Code Civ. Proc. § 338(b)

Three-year statute of limitations for action for injury to personal property. Code Civ. Proc. § 338(c)

Manner of pleading statute of limitations as defense. Code Civ. Proc. § 458

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.52

§ 391.52 Decisions

[1] Generally

Court exercising discretion in denying injunction is almost exercising right of eminent domain in favor of private person. Fairrington v. Dyke Water Co. (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 198, 200, 323 , P.2d 1001

Any person whose property is injuriously affected or whose personal enjoyment is lessened by nuisance is entitled to maintain action for damages or abatement. Phillips v. City of Pasadena (1945) 27 Cal. 2d 104, 106, 162 P.2d 625

Duty to place guards and lights on obstruction in highway. Stockton Auto. Co. v. Confer (1908) 154 Cal. 402, 405-406, 97 P. 881

Structure is not nuisance merely because it obstructs passage of light and air to adjoining building. Ingwersen v. Barry (1897) 118 Cal. 342, 343, 50 P. 536

No liability of successive owner for nuisance created by former owner in absence of notice. Pierce v. German Sav. & Loan Soc'y (1887) 72 Cal. 180, 183, 13 P. 478 ; Reinhard v. Lawrence Warehouse Co. (1940) 41 Cal. App. 2d 741, 746, 107 P.2d 501

Manufacturer of defective product is not liable in nuisance; deterioration of asbestos-containing building materials did not constitute continuing nuisance. City of San Diego v. United States Gypsum Co. (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 575, 584-586, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 876

Owner of property is permitted to sue former owner or lessee for damages caused by nuisance created on owner's property; nuisance is not required to originate on neighboring property. Newhall Land & Farming Co. v. Superior Court (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 334, 343, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 377 ; Mangini v. Aerojet-General Corp. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1125, 1138 ; see also KFC W., Inc. v. Meghrig (1994) 23 Cal. App. 4th 1167, 1179, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 676 ; Wilshire Westwood Assocs. v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 732, 745-746, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 562

Plaintiff's having acquired or improved land after nuisance interfering with it has come into existence is not in itself sufficient to bar plaintiff's action; this conduct is one factor to be considered in determining whether nuisance is actionable. Hellman v. La Cumbre Golf & Country Club (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1224, 1231, 8 Cal. Rptr. 293

Otherwise lawful construction that interferes with neighbor's light, air, and view is neither public nor private nuisance if builders did not act with malice. Wolford v. Thomas (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 347, 359-360, 235 Cal. Rptr. 422

Defendants' misconduct consisting of omission rather than affirmative actions does not preclude nuisance liability. Stoiber v. Honeychuck (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 903, 920, 162 Cal. Rptr. 194

Statutory definition of nuisance pursuant to Civ. Code § 3479 is broad enough to encompass almost any conceivable type of interference with enjoyment or use of land or property. Stoiber v. Honeychuck (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 903, 919, 162 Cal. Rptr. 194

Physical interference with enjoyment of land or condition constituting danger to neighborhood is nuisance. Buchanan v. Los Angeles County Flood Control Dist. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 757, 768, 128 Cal. Rptr. 770

When personal discomfort is basis of nuisance action, test of liability is effect of alleged interference on comfort of normal persons of ordinary sensibilities in community. Venuto v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 116, 126, 99 Cal. Rptr. 350

Adoption of most approved applicances and methods of production does not justify continuance of that which, in spite of them, remains a nuisance. Venuto v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 116, 126, 99 Cal. Rptr. 350

Property owner has constitutional right to have issue of whether property constitutes public nuisance determined by due process. Leppo v. City of Petaluma (1971) 20 Cal. App. 3d 711, 717, 97 Cal. Rptr. 840

Unwarranted activity causing substantial injury to property of another or obstructing its reasonable use and enjoyment is nuisance which may be abated; even lawful use of one's property is nuisance if part of general scheme is to annoy neighbor and if main purpose of use is to prevent neighbor from reasonable enjoyment of neighbor's property. Hutcherson v. Alexander (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 126, 130 70 Cal. Rptr. 366

Violation of penal statute is not nuisance unless acts would constitute nuisance in absence of statute. Stegner v. Bahr & Ledoyen, Inc. (1954) 126 Cal. App. 2d 220, 231, 272 P.2d 106

Nuisance as anything which obstructs free use of property so as to interfere with its comfortable enjoyment. Los Angeles Brick & Clay Prods. Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1943) 60 Cal. App. 2d 478, 486

[2] Doctrine of Balancing of Conveniences

Trial court properly considered present use and nature of land in ascertaining whether or not there is irreparable injury. Brown Derby Hollywood Corp. v. Hatton (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 855, 860, 40 Cal. Rptr. 848, 395 P.2d 896

Proof of irreparable injury is necessary element of defense based on balancing of conveniences. Fairrington v. Dyke Water Co. (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 198, 200, 323 P.2d 1001

Owners of property contiguous to commercial enterprises are required to reasonable degree to suffer reasonable inconvenience for general welfare. Anderson v. Souza (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 825, 843-844, 243 P.2d 497

Impropriety of enjoining entire business when business not nuisance per se, if lesser restriction will afford plaintiff relief to which he or she is entitled. Anderson v. Souza (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 825, 841, 243 P.2d 497

Substantial harm is required in action for nuisance; gravity of harm is weighed against utility of defendant's conduct. Shields v. Wondries (1957) 154 Cal. App. 2d 249, 255, 316 P.2d 9

[3] Moral Nuisance

Provisions of Red Light Abatement Law (Penal Code § 11225 et seq.) do not authorize award of damages against owner of property used for purposes prohibited by law. People ex rel. Van de Kamp v. American Art Enters., Inc. (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 328, 332, 188 Cal. Rptr. 740, 656 P.2d 1170

Complaint by law enforcement officer for injunction under Civ. Code §§ 3479, 3480 against operator of bookstore and theater displaying obscene material stated cause of action, but abatement, if granted, must be directed to particular book or film, not to premises. People ex rel. Busch v. Projection Room Theater (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 42, 58-59, 130 Cal. Rptr. 328, 550 P.2d 600

First Amendment right to free speech is not infringed by closure of theater as public nuisance, since closure was reasonable exercise of police power pursuant to Penal Code § 11230. People ex rel. Sorenson v. Randolph (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 183, 189-190, 160 Cal. Rptr. 69

Exhibit of obscene films is subject to restraint under public nuisance statutes. People ex rel. Camil v. Buena Vista Cinema (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 497, 500-501, 129 Cal. Rptr. 315

[4] Negligence and Nuisance

Nuisance resulting from merely negligent conduct. Coates v. Chinn (1958) 51 Cal. 2d 304, 307-308, 332 P.2d 289

Instruction to jury on comparative negligence principles in nuisance action alleging damages to real property was proper because defendant claimed that if nuisance existed, it arose because of plaintiff's negligence. Tint v. Sanborn (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 1225, 1234, 259 Cal. Rptr. 902

Plaintiff seeking recovery under theories of private nuisance and negligence has but one cause of action. Van Zyl v. Spiegelberg (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 367, 372-373, 82 Cal. Rptr. 689

Although nuisance may exist without negligence, negligence and nuisance frequently coexist and are practically inseparable. Sturges v. Charles L. Harney, Inc. (1958) 165 Cal. App. 2d 306, 318, 331 P.2d 1072

Nuisance results from nonnegligent skillfully directed efforts not having due regard for rights of others. Sturges v. Charles L. Harney, Inc. (1958) 165 Cal. App. 2d 306, 318, 331 P.2d 1072

[5] Nuisance Per Se

City's ordinance prohibiting signs on property adjacent to freeways and declaring placement or maintenance of signs adjacent to freeways nuisance was authorized by Gov. Code § 38774(a); compliance with zoning law procedures was unnecessary. City of Escondido v. Desert Outdoor Adver., Inc. (1973) 8 Cal. 3d 785, 787-790, 106 Cal. Rptr. 172, 505 P.2d 1012

Declaration that nonconforming billboards were public nuisances and authorization of injunctive relief were within state's police power. People ex rel. Dept. of Transportation v. Ad Way, Inc. (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 309, 314

City has power to pass general office regulations to prevent nuisances. People v. Johnson (1954) 129 Cal. App. 2d 1, 6, 277 P.2d 45

Operation of quarry was not nuisance per se. Morton v. Superior Court (1954) 124 Cal. App. 2d 577, 581, 269 P.2d 81

Blasting in populated area that causes injury is tortious and open to injunction under designation of nuisance per se. Alonso v. Hills (1950) 95 Cal. App. 2d 778, 783, 214 P.2d 50

Allegation of irreparable injury is unncessary for injunction when facts allege nuisance per se. Los Angeles Brick & Clay Prods. Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1943) 60 Cal. App. 2d 478, 486, 141 P.2d 46

[6] Permanent or Continuing Nuisance

All damages, both past and prospective, are recoverable if nuisance is permanent; only damages accrued at commencement of action are recoverable if nuisance is temporary. Kornoff v. Kingsburg Cotton Oil Co. (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 265, 268-269, 288 P.2d 507

In cases of uncertainty regarding whether nuisance is permanent or continuing, plaintiff has election of treating nuisance as either permanent or not. Spaulding v. Cameron (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 265, 268, 239 P.2d 625 ; see also KFC W., Inc. v. Meghrig (1994) 23 Cal. App. 4th 1167, 1180-1181, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 676

Remedy for continuing nuisance, one which can be abated, is successive actions for damages accrued until commencement of each action. Spaulding v. Cameron (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 265, 267, 239 P.2d 625

Only one action is allowed for recovery of both past and anticipated future damages caused by permanent nuisance. Spaulding v. Cameron (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 265, 267, 239 P.2d 625

Clearest example of permanent nuisance is one where offending structure or condition maintained as necessary part of operations of public utility. Spaulding v. Cameron (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 265, 267, 239 P.2d 625

Nuisance is considered permanent when of such character that it will presumably continue indefinitely. Phillips v. City of Pasadena (1945) 27 Cal. 2d 104, 107, 162 P.2d 625

Nuisance is continuing if it may be discontinued at any time; every repetition of continuing nuisance is separate wrong for which injured person may bring successive actions for damages until nuisance abated, even though action based on original wrong may be barred. Phillips v. City of Pasadena (1945) 27 Cal. 2d 104, 107-108, 162 P.2d 625

[7] Public Nuisance

City's suggestion that "hard rock" concerts are per se public nuisance, justifying their exclusion from concert hall because of their content, was erroneous. Cinevision Corp. v. City of Burbank (9th Cir. 1984) 745 F.2d 560, 572

Public nuisance is species of catch-all criminal offense, and suit to abate public nuisance may trigger criminal prosecution of owner of property. People ex rel. Clancy v. Superior Court (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 740, 750, 218 Cal. Rptr.

24, 705 P.2d 347

To state cause of action based on public nuisance, private party must show injury to person or property different in kind from that suffered by general public. Frost v. City of Los Angeles (1919) 181 Cal. 22, 24-25, 183 P. 342 ; see also Koll-Irvine Ctr. Prop. Owners Ass'n v. County of Orange (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 1036, 1040-1041, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 664

Homeowners' allegations that fences built on public right-of-way blocked sight lines for drivers entering and exiting their garage, thereby causing fear of hitting pedestrian or otherwise being in vehicle collision, stated special injury sufficient to support claim for public nuisance. Kempton v. City of Los Angeles (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 1344, 1349, 81 Cal. Rptr. 3d 852

Special injury requirement was satisfied by allegation that plaintiff incurred costs as consequence of being required by local air pollution control district to test property to determine extent of hazardous substances deposited on land by prior possessor. Mangini v. Aerojet-General Corp. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1125, 1143

Municipality generally has power to provide by ordinance for summary abatement of public nuisance and for recovery of abatement costs; in absence of statute or ordinance permitting recovery of abatement costs, costs are borne by public as whole and are not recoverable from tortfeasor whose negligence created need for service. City of Los Angeles v. Shpegel-Dimsey, Inc. (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1009, 1017-1018, 244 Cal. Rptr. 507

Code Civ. Proc. § 731, general provision permitting government entities to abate public nuisance, does not authorize government to recover costs of abatement. City of Los Angeles v. Shpegel-Dimsey, Inc. (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1009, 1019, 244 Cal. Rptr. 507

Civ. Code § 3493, providing that private person may maintain action for public nuisance if it is specially injurious to that person, but not otherwise, provides no authority for public entity, whose utility poles and related property were damaged by fire that spread from defendant's premises, to recover damages for "specially injurious" public nuisance. City of Los Angeles v. Shpegel-Dimsey, Inc. (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1009, 1020, 244 Cal. Rptr. 507 (pointing out, however, that Pub. Util. Code § 10251 authorizes municipalities to sue to recover all damages sustained as result of negligent injury to facility or equipment)

Allegations of maintenance of liquified petroleum gas storage facility near home were not sufficient to state cause of action for public nuisance when no showing made of special damage to plaintiff different than to others in vicinity. Brown v. Petrolane, Inc. (1980) 102 Cal. App. 3d 720, 726-727, 162 Cal. Rptr. 551

Validity of county ordinance defining public nuisance; field of defining public nuisance was not preempted by legislature; communal ranch was subject to equitable relief in form of injunction and demolition order for violation of county health ordinance. People v. Wheeler (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 282, 285-296, 106 Cal. Rptr. 260 (Wheeler's Ranch)

Violations of city planning code are public nuisance. City & County of San Francisco v. Padilla (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 388, 401, 100 Cal. Rptr. 223

Term "public nuisance" means act or omission that interferes with interest of community or comfort and convenience of general public and includes interference with public health, comfort, and convenience. Venuto v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 116, 123, 99 Cal. Rptr. 350

Remedies against public nuisance (that is, redress for wrong to community) are by indictment or information, civil action, or abatement; remedy by civil action is ordinarily properly left to appointed representative of community and properly maintained by private person only if public nuisance is specially injurious to him or her. Venuto v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 116, 123, 99 Cal. Rptr. 350 ; see Civ. Code §§ 3491, 3493; Code Civ. Proc. § 731

Ownership of land on which public nuisance maintained does not, of itself, make owner indispensable party defendant in action to abate nuisance. People v. Superior Court (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 167, 170, 81 Cal. Rptr. 555

[8] Private Nuisance

Unlawful barricading of public street is nuisance for which person specially injured may maintain action. Phillips v. City of Pasadena (1945) 27 Cal. 2d 104, 106, 162 P.2d 625 ; see also Brown v. Rea (1907) 150 Cal. 171, 174, 88 P. 713

Law relating to private nuisances as one of degree; use that would be reasonable under one set of facts as possibly unreasonable under another. Hassell v. San Francisco (1938) 11 Cal. 2d 168, 170, 78 P.2d 1021

Tenant has sufficient property interest to acquire standing to bring action against landlord based on nuisance. Stoiber v. Honeychuck (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 903, 920, 162 Cal. Rptr. 194

Private person affected by private nuisance has standing to bring action for abatement. Buchanan v. Los Angeles County Flood Control Dist. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 757, 768, 128 Cal. Rptr. 770

Essence of private nuisance is interference with use and enjoyment of land and without it, fact of personal injury or of interference with some purely personal right is not enough for private nuisance. Venuto v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 116, 124-125, 99 Cal. Rptr. 350

[9] Remedies

In determining availability of injunctive relief, court must consider interests of third persons and of general public. Loma Portal Civic Club v. American Airlines, Inc. (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 582, 588, 39 Cal. Rptr. 708, 394 P.2d 548

Even in absence of physical injury, occupant of land is entitled to recovery of damages for discomfort and annoyance and for mental suffering occasioned by fear for safety proximately caused by nuisance. Acadia, Cal., Ltd. v. Herbert (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 328, 337, 5 Cal. Rptr. 686, 353 P.2d 294

In action to recover damages caused by nuisance, plaintiff is entitled to recover for personal discomfort and annoyance without proving any damage to plaintiff's property. Judson v. Los Angeles Suburban Gas Co. (1910) 157 Cal. 168, 171-172, 106 P. 581

Propriety of maintaining action for damages caused by nuisance without seeking abatement. Cushing-Wetmore Co. v. Gray (1907) 152 Cal. 118, 119-120, 92 P. 70

Prevention or abatement of nuisance is accomplished by injunction. McCarthy v. Gaston Ridge Mill & Mining Co. (1904) 144 Cal. 542, 545, 78 P. 7

Complaint to abate threatened nuisance must allege probable and imminent danger, not necessarily inevitable injury. Nicholson v. Getchell (1892) 96 Cal. 394, 395-396, 31 P. 265

When considering whether party may recover for future damages consisting of depreciation of property as consequence of nuisance, court must presume that party will comply with terms of valid court order to abate nuisance. Alexander v. McKnight (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 973, 978, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 453

Red Light Abatement Act (Penal Code § 11225 et seq.) does not authorize judgment enjoining person from engaging in sex-related businesses. People v. Louden (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 1147

Damages are not recoverable for potential, future injuries arising from threat of nuisance, although prospective nuisance may be enjoined if danger probable and imminent. Helix Land Co. v. City of San Diego (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 932, 950-951, 147 Cal. Rptr. 683

Court is not authorized to abate nuisance injurious to plaintiff's business and to defer judgment on issue of past damages in order to consider evidence accumulated after nuisance. Hutcherson v. Alexander (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 126, 134-136, 70 Cal. Rptr. 366

Injunction to restrain defendants from maintaining nuisance and money damages for past annoyance, inconvenience, and discomfort is not double recovery. Mock v. Shulman (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 263, 269-270, 38 Cal. Rptr. 39

Remedy of injunction is drastic, and if issuance would work inequitable burden on defendant and injured party may be adequately compensated in damages, court appropriately exercises discretion in refusing injunction. Baglione v. Leue (1958) 160 Cal. App. 2d 731, 734, 325 P.2d 471 ; see also Heilbron v. Fowler Switch Canal Co. (1888) 75 Cal. 426, 17 P. 535

Weight of authority in California recognizes rule that if encroachment does not irreparably injure plaintiff, was innocently made, and cost of removal is great compared to inconvenience to plaintiff by continuance of encroachment, court may deny injunction and compel plaintiff to accept damages. Christensen v. Tucker (1952) 114 Cal. App. 2d 554, 559, 250 P.2d 660

Damages recoverable for nuisance include depreciation in market, rental or usable value of realty. Ingram v. City of Gridley (1950) 100 Cal. App. 2d 815, 821, 224 P.2d 798

In determining damages for nuisance, sentimental and aesthetic value of things destroyed, owner's affection for his or her possessions, and peace, comfort, and quiet are proper considerations. Griffin v. Northridge (1944) 67 Cal. App. 2d 69, 73, 153 P.2d 800

Impropriety of denying mandatory injunction based on relative hardship when defendant acted with full knowledge of plaintiff's rights and with understanding of consequences. Morgan v. Veach (1943) 59 Cal. App. 2d 682, 690, 139 P.2d 976 (affirming injunction requiring building to be moved by defendant who deliberately violated building restrictions)

To obtain relief at law for nuisance, plaintiff is obligated to prove damage. O'Hair v. California Prune & Apricot Growers Ass'n (1933) 130 Cal. App. 673, 675, 20 P.2d 375

[10] Statute of Limitations

Statute of limitations on permanent nuisance runs from time nuisance is created. Phillips v. City of Pasadena (1945) 27 Cal. 2d 104, 107, 162 P.2d 625

Statute of limitations does not bar action for nuisance when defendant's conduct continuous to time of trial. Vowinckel v. N. Clark & Sons (1932) 216 Cal. 156, 164-165, 13 P.2d 733

Cause of action for nuisance accrues when damage occurs, not when condition causing nuisance first created. Meigs v. Pinkham (1910) 159 Cal. 104, 108-110, 112 P. 883

Statute of limitations on nuisance claim involving continuous and repeated property damage incident to public improvement does not begin to run until situation has stabilized. Lee v. Los Angeles County Metro. Transp. Auth. (2003) 107 Cal. App. 4th 848, 857-858, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 444

[11] Statutory Authority

City was not liable to child struck by van whose driver's view was obstructed by ice cream truck on grounds of creating nuisance by permitting ice cream trucks to operate on city streets; language of city ordinance authorizing operation of ice cream trucks on city streets showed that city council had carefully considered risks to pedestrians such as child, but nonetheless had authorized very conduct (sales of food from vehicles on public streets) that led to child's injury. Pekarek v. City of San Diego (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 909, 917-918, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 22

Activity authorized by statute is not nuisance; but manner in which activity is performed possibly constitutes nuisance. Venuto v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 116, 129, 99 Cal. Rptr. 350

Construction of state highway under statutory authority is no nuisance. Lombardy v. Peter Kiewit Sons' Co. (1968) 266 Cal. App. 2d 599, 605, 72 Cal. Rptr. 240

Activity of releasing water from reservoir carried out as express power of district is no nuisance. Larson v. Santa Clara Valley Water Conservation Dist. (1963) 218 Cal. App. 2d 515, 526, 32 Cal. Rptr. 875

[12] Types of Nuisance Actions

[a] Against Public Entities

Nuisance action against city for maintaining noisy airport is not precluded by federal preemption or by Civ. Code § 3482 providing that nothing done under authority of statute is nuisance. Greater Westchester Homeowners Ass'n Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (1979) 26 Cal. 3d 86, 94-102, 160 Cal. Rptr. 733, 603 P.2d 1329

Gov. Code § 815 (immunity of public entity) does not bar nuisance actions against public entities to extent founded on Civ. Code § 3479 (defining nuisance) or other applicable statutory provision. Nestle v. City of Santa Monica (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 920, 937, 101 Cal. Rptr. 568, 496 P.2d 480

Municipality is liable for creating or maintaining nuisance even though governmental activity involved. Phillips v. City of Pasadena (1945) 27 Cal. 2d 104, 106, 162 P.2d 625

Gov. Code § 815 (immunity of public entity) does not bar nuisance action against public entity founded on Civ. Code §§ 3479-3481 (public and private nuisance). Vedder v. County of Imperial (1974) 36 Cal. App. 3d 654, 661, 111 Cal. Rptr. 728

State's barricading street in subdivision that formerly provided pedestrian and vehicular access to ocean was not public or private nuisance to owners of property in subdivision who failed to establish that barricade damaged them in manner different from public and failed to establish that they had at any time private right to drive across beach. Roark v. State of Cal. ex rel. Dept. Parks & Recreation (1971) 20 Cal. App. 3d 155,158

[b] Alcoholic Beverages

Furnishing of alcoholic beverages to minor subsequently injured in automobile accident is not private nuisance. Cory v. Shierloh (1981) 29 Cal. 3d 430, 436-437, 174 Cal. Rptr. 500, 629 P.2d 8

Unlawful sale of liquor, of itself, is not nuisance under Civ. Code § 3479. People v. Robin (1943) 56 Cal. App. 2d 885, 889, 133 P.2d 436

[c] Class Action

Class action is inappropriate to enjoin public nuisance. Diamond v. General Motors Corp. (1971) 20 Cal. App. 3d 374, 378-383, 97 Cal. Rptr. 639 (action to enjoin industrial corporations from discharging pollutants and to enjoin sale and registration of motor vehicles in Los Angeles County)

[d] Criminal Nuisance

Maintaining criminal nuisance of continuing nature on one's property subjects offender to multiple prosecutions and convictions under criminal statutes. Dapper v. Municipal Court (1969) 276 Cal. App. 2d 816, 818-819, 81 Cal. Rptr. 340

Definition of street obstruction as public nuisance in Penal Code § 370 is limited to unreasonable obstructions, and, as so construed, is constitutional. Pain v. Municipal Court (1968) 268 Cal. App. 2d 151, 153-154, 73 Cal. Rptr. 862

[e] Fire Hazard

Maintenance of fire hazard sufficiently extreme to menace public health and safety constitutes public nuisance within meaning of Civ. Code § 3480; if such condition exists, public entity has right to abate nuisance summarily, particularly in face of emergency. City of Los Angeles v. Shpegel-Dimsey, Inc. (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1009, 1017, 244 Cal. Rptr. 507

Fire hazard is nuisance. Vedder v. County of Imperial (1974) 36 Cal. App. 3d 654, 661, 111 Cal. Rptr. 728 ; People v. Oliver (1948) 86 Cal. App. 2d 885, 889, 195 P.2d 926

[f] Noise

Noise from bar and restaurant in residential area caused by loud music, foot stomping, and handclapping was public nuisance, but injunction against permitting noise audible anywhere in neighborhood was overbroad. People v. Mason (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 348, 351-354, 177 Cal. Rptr. 284

[g] Pollution

Odor from sewage treatment plant was nuisance. Varjabedian v. City of Madera (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 285, 293-294, 142 Cal. Rptr. 429, 572 P.2d 43

Odor, dust, and noise emanating from operation of asphalt mixing plant was nuisance. Eaton v. Klimm (1933) 217 Cal. 362, 370, 18 P.2d 678

Smoke, sand and cement blown onto plaintiff's building during construction of defendant's building was nuisance. Snow v. Marian Realty Co. (1931) 212 Cal. 622, 623-624, 299 P. 720

Act of pollution, obstruction, or diversion of water is nuisance under Civ. Code § 3479. Helix Land Co. v. City of San Diego (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 932, 949, 147 Cal. Rptr. 683

Dust, odors and sounds arising from defendant's dairy was nuisance. Wade v. Campbell (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 54, 58, 19 Cal. Rptr. 173

Air pollution was nuisance. Guttinger v. Calaveras Cement Co. (1958) 160 Cal. App. 2d 460, 463, 325 P.2d 145

[h] Spite Fences

Malicious intent is necessary for finding wall erected as spite fence. Haehlen v. Wilson (1936) 11 Cal. App. 2d 437, 441-442, 54 P.2d 62

[i] Tenant-Landlord

Landowners were not liable for tenant's underground gas tank leaks that caused soil contamination on plaintiff's property; landowner's liability to third party for nuisance created by tenant and unknown to the landowner is limited, with landowner under no duty to perform rigorous type of inspection necessary to prevent such leak. Resolution Trust Corp. v. Rossmoor Corp. (1995) 34 Cal. App. 4th 93, 98-100, 40 Cal. Rptr. 2d 328

Lessor was not liable to third party for continuing nuisance created by tenant, absent either active participation by the landowner in creation of nuisance or other negligent conduct; liability for nuisance requires some form of active participation that is intentional, reckless, negligent, or involves an ultrahazardous activity. Resolution Trust Corp. v. Rossmoor Corp. (1995) 34 Cal. App. 4th 93, 98-100, 40 Cal. Rptr. 2d 328

Nuisance liablity is not precluded by existence of contractual relationship between tenant and landlord. Stoiber v. Honeychuck (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 903, 919, 162 Cal. Rptr. 194

[j] Water

Defendant's leveling operations, which did not adequately prepare hillside and resulted in inundation of plaintiff's property with mud, were nuisance. Spaulding v. Cameron (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 265, 266, 239 P.2d 625

Act of pollution, obstruction, or diversion of water is nuisance under Civ. Code § 3479. Helix Land Co. v. City of San Diego (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 932, 949, 147 Cal. Rptr. 683

Complaint alleging creation of fill on adjoining property causing surface water to be diverted from its natural course onto plaintiff's property and causing mud and rock to flow onto plaintiff's properties alleged creation and maintenance of nuisance. Sturges v. Charles L. Harney, Inc. (1958) 165 Cal. App. 2d 306, 317, 331 P.2d 1072

Property owner who by artificial means brings water on land for purposes of irrigation and allows portion to injure land of adjoining owner is liable for damages; injunction is appropriate to abate nuisance. Fredericks v. Fredericks (1951) 108 Cal. App. 2d 242, 244, 238 P.2d 643

[13] Zoning

Purpose in adopting Code Civ. Proc. § 731a (injunction in industrial or commercial zones or airports) was to eliminate injunctive relief if business operated in appropriate zone and only showing is injury and nuisance to plaintiff caused by business's operation; legitimate business operating in properly zoned district was properly enjoined as nuisance for creating too much noise even though in business of creating sound. Gelfand v. O'Haver (1948) 33 Cal. 2d 218, 220, 200 P.2d 790

Operator of golf course at location zoned for such use was properly enjoined to redesign two fairways so that golf balls would no longer land on plaintiff's adjacent business property. Sierra Screw Prods. v. Azusa Greens, Inc. (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 358, 364-371, 151 Cal. Rptr. 799

Mere fact that commercial enterprise conducting its business in district zoned for its type of activity did not justify maintenance by it of nuisance. Venuto v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 116, 130, 99 Cal. Rptr. 350

Code Civ. Proc. § 731a denies injunctive relief to private persons whenever commercial enterprise operates within legally defined area under express permit and does not employ unnecessary and injurious methods of operation. Christopher v. Jones (1964) 231 Cal. App. 2d 408, 411, 41 Cal. Rptr. 828

Injunction denied, but damages granted, against drop forging plant operating in properly zoned area. McNeill v. Redington (1944) 67 Cal. App. 2d 315, 318-319, 154 P.2d 428

Location of plaintiffs' residences in area zoned by city for semi-industrial purposes did not justify creation or continuance by defendant of private nuisance. Fendley v. City of Anaheim (1930) 110 Cal. App. 731, 735-736, 294 P. 769

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.53

§ 391.53 Law Reviews

Note, Baker v. Burbank-Glendale-Pasadena Airport Authority: The California Approach to Inverse Condemnation and Nuisance, 17 Pac. L.J. 981 (1986)

Comment, Remedies for Intangible Intrusions: The Distinction Between Trespass and Nuisance Actions Against Lawfully Zoned Businesses in California, 17 U.C. Davis L. Rev. 389 (1983)

Note, Hazardous Wastes: Preserving the Nuisance Remedy, 33 Stan. L. Rev. 675 (1981)

Comment, Metromedia, Inc. v. City of San Diego: Aesthetics, The First Amendment, and The Realities of Billboard Control, 9 Ecol. L.Q. 295 (1981)

Bell and Bell, Airport Noise: Legal Developments and Economic Alternatives, 8 Ecol. L.Q. 607 (1980)

Polinsky, Resolving Nuisance Disputes: The Simple Economics of Injunctive and Damage Remedies, 32 Stan. L. Rev. 1075 (1980)

Oglesby, Porno Non Est Pro Bono Publico: Obscenity as a Public Nuisance in California, 4 Hastings Const. L.Q. 385 (1977)

Comment, Obstruction of Sunlight as a Private Nuisance, 65 Cal. L. Rev. 94 (1977)

Comment, Can an Adult Theater or Bookstore Be Abated as a Public Nuisance in California? 10 USF L. Rev. 115 (1975)

Comment, Restricting the Public Display of Offensive Materials: The Use and Effectiveness of Public and Private Nuisance Actions, 10 USF L. Rev. 232 (1975)

Berger, The California Supreme Court--A Shield Against Governmental Overreaching: Nestle v. City of Santa Monica, 9 Cal. West. L. Rev. 199 (1973)

Comment, Governmental Nuisance Liability: An Inadequate Remedy for Aircraft Noise, 9 Cal. West. L. Rev. 310 (1973)

Note, Torts: Liabilty of Public Entity for Nuisance, 61 Cal. L. Rev. 648 (1973)

Bryson and Macbeth, Public Nuisance, the Restatement (Second) of Torts, and Environmental Law, 2 Ecol. L.Q. 241 (1972)

Trumbull, Private Environmental Legal Action, 7 USF L. Rev. 27 (1972)

Comment, Sounding Brass: Military Aircraft Noise Pollution, 2 Ecol. L.Q. 159 (1972)

Comment, We May Yet Have a Quiet Environment: The New California Airport Noise Regulations, 12 Santa Clara Lawyer 79 (1972)

Berger and Fadem, A Noisy Airport Is a Damned Nuisance!, 3 Southwestern U. (LA) L. Rev. 39 (1971)

Note, California Code of Civil Procedure Section 731(a): Denial of Private Injunctive Relief From Air Pollution, 22 Hastings L.J. 1401 (1971)

Berger, Nobody Loves an Airport, 43 So. Cal. L. Rev. 631 (1970)

Comment, Oil and Gas Development and Production in California as Restricted by Conservation, Nuisance and Zoning Regulations, 5 UCLA L. Rev. 503 (1958)

Steinberg, Rights Under California Law of the Individual Injured by Air Pollution, 27 So. Cal. L. Rev. 405 (1954)

Hubbard, McMahon, Paulden, Van Ryn, Oil and Gas in California: The Constitutional Necessity of Recognizing Correlative Rights in Regulating Production to Prevent Surface Nuisances, 4 Hastings L.J. 173 (1953)

Note, Nuisance --Private Nuisances-- Injunction and Damages, 26 So. Cal. L. Rev. 338 (1953)

Note, Equity--Overhanging Branches as a Nuisance--Right to Injunctive Relief and Damages, 24 So Cal. L. Rev. 199 (1951)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.54

§ 391.54 Text References

s Personal Injury: s Actions, s Defenses, s Damages, Vol. 21, Nuisance (Matthew Bender)

Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 2, Jurisdiction, §§ 300, 303; vol. 3, Actions, §§ 549-554; vol. 4, Pleading, §§ 47-49, vol. 6, Provisional Remedies, § 307, vol. 9, Appeal, §§ 255, 284 (4th ed.)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 13, Equity, §§ 133-173 (10th ed. 2005)

58 Am. Jur. 2d, Nuisances, pp. 545-841

15 Am. Jur. Pleading and Practice Forms, Nuisances, pp. 1-55

47 Cal. Jur. 3d, Nuisances

14 Cal. Practice, Nuisance, Chapter 240

California Attorney's Damages Guide, 1974 California CEB, Ch. 6

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 391.55through 391.69

[Reserved]

§§ 391.55[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.70

§ 391.70 Plaintiff's Checklist

NOTE:
The following procedural guide is for use in actions to abate and recover damages for nuisances. It is, however, illustrative only of procedures commonly utilized. Any given case may require procedures not set forth here. For a list of essential allegations in a complaint for damages for and to enjoin an encroachment, see Ch. 11, Adjoining Landowners . For a procedural checklist and forms for use in obtaining injunctive relief generally, see Ch. 303, Injunctions . For a procedural checklist for bringing actions against public entities and employees, see Ch. 467, Public Entities and Officers: Enforcement of Judgments Against Public Entities .

[1] Facts to Be Ascertained

NOTE:
Not all of the following facts will be ascertainable from the client in the initial interview. Subsequent interviews may be required or it may be necessary to ascertain the facts from others, including the potential defendant(s), by use of discovery proceedings. The following facts, although not necessarily in the order indicated, are required to enable counsel to determine whether there is a basis for a cause of action for nuisance, and if so, to enable counsel to determine the type of relief to seek and then to prepare the complaint.

1. Facts relating to plaintiff.

a. Name, address, and telephone number of plaintiff.

b. Capacity of plaintiff (such as minor, adult, trustee, conservator, guardian, executor, partnership, domestic corporation, or foreign corporation).

c. Any personal or property damages sustained to date by plaintiff.

d. Additional facts, as desired, relating to plaintiff's stability and financial solvency (such as employment status, prior residences, credit, bank, and personal references).

NOTE:
If preliminary injunctive relief is being sought, it is vital that counsel warn his or her client of the client's ultimate potential liability on two bonds: first, the bond which may be required before issuance of a temporary restraining order and, second, the bond which will be required if a preliminary injunction is issued [see Code Civ. Proc. § 529]. Counsel should inform the client of this ultimate risk in applying for preliminary injunctive relief, make certain that the client can assume the risk given the nature of the potential liability involved in the case, and then write the client a letter confirming this aspect of the interview.

2. Facts relating to potential defendants.

a. Name and address of each potential defendant.

In an action for nuisance, potential defendants are:

(1) Any person, including a corporation or other legal entity, public or private, maintaining a nuisance.

(2) Any person, including a corporation or other legal entity, public or private, proposing to do an act, by himself or herself or through agents and employees, which will result in the creation of a nuisance.

(3) Any agent or employee of a person or entity who has created or participated in the creation or maintenance of a nuisance.

b. Capacity of each potential defendant (such as minor, adult, trustee, conservator, guardian, executor, partnership, domestic corporation, or foreign corporation).

c. Occupation, including name and address of employer, of each individual defendant.

3. Facts relating to witnesses.

a. Name, address, and telephone number of each witness to the defendants' conduct or threats, and of each person to whom any of the parties might have spoken, including name of the employer of each such witness or person.

b. Background personal information about each witness, such as age and occupation.

4. Facts relating to potential cause of action.

a. The property interest of plaintiff, if any, and a description of the premises.

b. The property interest of defendant, if any, and a description of the premises.

c. Relative location of the property of plaintiff and defendant.

d. Particular acts or omissions by defendant which caused or threatened to cause injury to plaintiff, including [see § 391.24]:

(1) Dates and times of such conduct or threats;

(2) Place;

(3) Description of what has occurred to date; and

(4) Reasons why such conduct or threats will result in irreparable injury to plaintiff, if injunctive relief is sought.

e. Character of the area in which defendant's activity took place, and zoning restrictions, if any [see § 391.30[3]].

f. Whether or not defendant was acting pursuant to a permit or other official sanction.

g. Elements of resulting injury to plaintiff and plaintiff's property interest.

h. Whether defendant's actions affect an entire community or neighborhood or a considerable number of persons. If so, what facts show that plaintiff has received injury different in kind, as opposed to degree, from that suffered by others [see § 391.14].

i. Request, if any, by plaintiff to defendant that defendant refrain from doing act complained of.

j. Whether or not plaintiff was in possession of his property when defendant's wrongful act occurred.

k. Date(s) of harm.

l. Damages sustained by plaintiff.

[2] Documents to Be Obtained

NOTE:
Not all of the following documents wil be obtainable from the client in the initial interview. Subsequent interviews may be required, or, where circumstances will permit it, they might be mailed to the attorney. It might, however, be necessary to obtain the documents from someone other than the client. If the contents of any document must be proved at trial, the document itself must be presented unless secondary evidence is admissible [see Evid. Code § 1520 et seq.].

1. Written statements, if any, of parties or witnesses, including correspondence between plaintiff and defendant regarding the nuisance.

2. Diagrams, photographs, maps, or other descriptions of property or conduct involved.

3. When plaintiff claims a personal injury, authorization for release of medical information signed by plaintiff.

4. Any document tending to show the items or amounts of damage, including bills, receipts, cancelled checks, medical records, and medical reports.

5. Documents showing that other residents have also complained of defendant's activity. For example:

a. Letters.

b. Police reports showing citizens' complaints.

NOTE:
Certain local police records may be examined and copied under the Public Records Act [Gov. Code § 6250 et seq.; see Gov. Code § 6254(f); for a discussion of the Public Records Act, see DeMeo, s California Deposition and Discovery Practice, Vol. 1, P 2.13(4)(a), Vol. 4, P 16.22(4)].

6. Personal memoranda of plaintiff concerning the nuisance, such as journals, diaries, notes, and letters.

[3] Preliminary Determinations

1. Jurisdiction.

a. Action for injunction.

An action seeking permanent injunctive relief is in the jurisdiction of the superior court and is not a limited civil action [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(8)].

b. Action for damages only.

If the action is for damages only and the amount sought is $25,000 or less, the action is a limited civil case within the jurisdiction of the superior court. If the amount sought is over $25,000, jurisdiction is in the superior court as other than a limited civil case [Cal. Const. art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 32.5, 85, 86(a)(1)].

c. Action for injunction and damages.

If the action is for a permanent injunction it must be brought in the superior court even though it also seeks damages in an amount below the monetary jurisdiction of superior court [see Silverman v. Greenberg (1938) 12 Cal. 2d 252, 254, 83 P.2d 293] .

2. Venue.

If injury to real property is claimed, the proper county for trial of an action for nuisance is the county where the property is located [Code Civ. Proc. § 392(a)(1)]. Otherwise, the proper county is the county in which the injury occurred or in which the defendant resides [Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a)].

3. Factors to be considered for any cause of action.

a. Financial solvency of possible defendants.

b. Difficulties, if any, involved in obtaining jurisdiction over the various defendants.

c. Difficulties, if any, in proving liability.

4. Whether the client may abate the nuisance by self-help.

CAUTION:
The abatement of a nuisance through self-help may subject the client to liability if the condition is subsequently judged not to have been a nuisance, or if the client commits a breach of the peace or does unnecessary injury while abating the nuisance [see Civ. Code § 3502; § 391.27[4]].

Under limited circumstances, a private person may abate either a private or public nuisance through self-help without the need of a lawsuit [see Civ. Code §§ 3495, 3502, 3503; see also §§ 391.27[4], 391.28[2][c]].

[4] Selection of Appropriate Action

1. Actions based on nuisance [Civ. Code § 3479].

a. Private action to abate private nuisance and/or for compensatory and/or punitive damages. See § 391.90 and § 391.52[8]. See also Civ. Code §§ 3479-3481.

b. Private action to abate public nuisance specially injurious to plaintiff and/or for compensatory and/or punitive damages. See §§ 391.90 and 391.91 and § 391.91[9]. See also Civ. Code §§ 3479, 3480, and 3493.

c. Private action to abate nuisance per se. See § 391.52[5].

d. Private action to abate threatened nuisance. See § 391.92.

e. Public action to abate public nuisance. This may be the only alternative for abatement of a public nuisance which is not a private nuisance as to the client and does not cause special injury to the client different in kind, rather than degree, from that suffered by the general public [see Venuto v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 116, 124, 99 Cal. Rptr. 350] . In such a case, or when the damages may be de minimus and the client is unable or unwilling to bear the litigation expense, counsel should advise the client to request the district attorney or city attorney to bring an action to enjoin the nuisance [see Code Civ. Proc. § 731].

2. Additional or alternative counts.

a. Count based on negligence [Civ. Code § 1714(a)].

When defendant's conduct is negligent, a separate count based on negligence may be included in the complaint along with a count based on nuisance [Van Zyl v. Spiegelberg (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 367, 372-373, 82 Cal. Rptr. 689 ; see § 391.22; see also Ch. 380, Negligence].

b. Count for intentional or negligent infliction of emotional distress.

In addition to property damages and personal injuries, damages may be recovered for intentional or negligent interference with the mental or emotional tranquility of the plaintiff [see Stoiber v. Honeychuck (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 903, 921-922, 162 Cal. Rptr. 194] . Neither physical impact nor physical injuries need to be proved [see Molien v. Kaiser Found. Hosps. (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 916, 930, 167 Cal. Rptr. 831, 616 P.2d 813 ; see generally Ch. 362, Mental Suffering and Emotional Distress].

c. Count for trespass [for procedure and forms see Ch. 550, Trespass].

d. Action based on strict liability for ultrahazardous activity [for procedures and forms, see Ch. 256, Explosives].

e. Action for inverse condemnation if defendant is a public entity having the power of eminent domain [for forms and procedures, see Ch. 247, Eminent Domain].

[5] Prepare Complaint for Injunction and/or Damages

1. Injunction to abate nuisance.

For a detailed procedural guide for obtaining a temporary restraining order and/or a preliminary injunction and/or a permanent injunction, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

CAUTION:
On granting an injunction the court must require the applicant to post a bond [Code Civ. Proc. § 529]. The client should be advised of this requirement before proceeding with the action and the necessary arrangements made prior to the application being presented to the court. Counsel seeking injunctive relief should also carefully investigate local practice and the local rules of court for specific additional requirements governing the granting of such relief in the court from which it is sought.

2. Essential allegations.

The allegations that should be included in a complaint seeking the abatement of a nuisance and damages are as follows:

a. Plaintiff's proprietary interest in, and location of, the property affected by the nuisance [see § 391.90[1], Paragraph 1].

b. Name, capacity, and proprietary interest of defendant, if any, in property on which nuisance is located [see § 391.90[1], Paragraph 2].

c. Fictitious name allegations, if appropriate [see § 391.90[1], Paragraph 3].

d. Agency allegations, if appropriate [see § 391.90[1], Paragraph 4].

e. Relative locations of plaintiff's and defendant's properties [see see § 391.90[1], Paragraph 5].

f. Actions of defendant creating the nuisance [see § 391.90[1], Paragraph 6].

g. Effects of defendant's actions on plaintiff's property interest falling within the statutory definition of nuisance [see Civ. Code § 3479; see § 391.90[1], Paragraph 7].

h. Plaintiff's request, and defendant's refusal, to abate the nuisance [see § 391.90[1], Paragraph 8].

i. Defendant's continued maintenance of the nuisance against plaintiff's will [see § 391.90[1], Paragraph 9].

j. Nature and amount of damages suffered by plaintiff [see § 391.90[1], Paragraph 10].

k. Necessity for a multiplicity of suits unless an injunction is granted [see § 391.90[1], Paragraph 11].

l. Irreparable injury to plaintiff unless an injunction is granted [see § 391.90[1], Paragraph 12].

m. Lack of a plain, speedy, or adequate remedy at law and the express authority for an injunction [see § 391.90[1], Paragraph 13].

n. If plaintiff seeks punitive damages pursuant to Civ. Code § 3294, the willful, oppressive, and malicious nature of defendant's conduct [see § 391.90[1], Paragraph 14].

3. Special allegations depending on nature of nuisance and relief sought.

a. Public nuisance.

A private person alleging a count based on a public nuisance must allege in what way the nuisance is specially injurious to him or her [see Civ. Code § 3493; § 391.14; see § 391.91].

b. Nuisance per se.

Ordinarily, the only necessary allegation of a nuisance per se is the existence of the acts or conditions defined by a statute as constituting a nuisance. There is no need to allege any damages, irreparable injury, multiplicity of suits, or lack of a plain, speedy, or adequate remedy at law [see Los Angeles Brick & Clay Prods. Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1943) 60 Cal. App. 2d 478, 486, 141 P.2d 46 ; McClatchy v. Laguna Lands Ltd. (1917) 32 Cal. App. 718, 725, 164 P. 41 ; see also § 391.52[5]]. Some statutes defining a nuisance may set out additional requirements that should also be pleaded [see, e.g., Penal Code § 11226 (requiring a private person filing a complaint under the Red Light Abatement Law be a citizen of California and resident of the county in which the alleged nuisance is located)].

4. Subscription.

The complaint must be signed by at least one attorney of record in the attorney's individual name (or by the party if he or she is not represented). It must also state the signer's address and telephone number [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)].

5. Verification.

Verification [Code Civ. Proc. § 446] is required if plaintiff seeks a temporary restraining order or a preliminary injunction on a complaint instead of on affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)]. If relying on a verified complaint instead of affidavits (or declarations), counsel must plead evidentiary facts that would entitle plaintiff to the relief sought [see E.H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1 ; Finnie v. Town of Tiburon (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1, 15, 244 Cal. Rptr. 581] . Otherwise, verification is not required, but verification of the complaint requires the defendant to file a verified answer [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446] and precludes use of a general denial [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For a form of verification, see § 391.90[1]. For further discussion of the effect that verifying a complaint has on the answer, see Ch. 26,

Answers .

6. Summons.

a. Use of the form of summons adopted by the California Judicial Council is mandatory [Gov. Code § 68511; see Cal Rules of Court, Rule 1.31(a)]. Copies may be obtained from court clerks.

b. For a form of summons and procedures for service, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.71

§ 391.71 Defendant's Guide

NOTE:
The following guide is illustrative only of procedures commonly utilized. Any given case may require procedures not set forth here. The purpose of this guide is to enumerate the steps taken by counsel for defendant prior to trial of an action to abate a nuisance or for damages or both. Counsel defending against an application for injunc tive relief should carefully investigate local practice and the local rules of court for particular requirements governing opposition to injunctive relief. For a procedural check-list and forms for use in opposing injunctive relief generally, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

[1] Facts to Be Ascertained

1. General facts.

a. Name, address, and telephone number of defendant.

b. Capacity of defendant (such as minor, adult, trustee, conservator, guardian, executor, partnership, domestic corporation, or foreign corporation).

NOTE:
Defendant's capacity generally will be revealed by the complaint. Nevertheless, counsel will wish to confirm the allegation with his client and of course, if the capacity is not disclosed by the complaint, to ascertain it.

c. Additional facts, as desired, relating to defendant's stability and financial solvency (such as employment status, prior residences, and credit, bank, and personal references).

d. Occupation, including name and address of employer, of plaintiff.

e. Capacity of plaintiff.

2. Facts required for the answer.

a. Date, manner, and place of service.

b. Allegations of complaint.

Ascertain which of the facts alleged in the complaint are true, which are false, and of which defendant does not know the truth or falsity.

3. Facts relating to possible affirmative defenses.

NOTE:
A list of possible affirmative defenses is set out in § 391.71[5]. The following facts should be obtained to determine their possible applicability.

a. Is there express statutory authority for the condition complained of [see Civ. Code § 3482]?

b. Did plaintiff consent to the condition complained of?

c. Was there any contributory negligence on the part of plaintiff?

d. Does defendant have a valid permit for the activities creating the alleged nuisance?

e. Is the district in which the alleged nuisance is located zoned for defendant's activity [see Code Civ. Proc. § 731a]?

f. If defendant is operating an airport, commercial agricultural activity, district agricultural association, or agricultural processing activity, operation, or facility, has defendant been doing so for more than three years [see Civ. Code §§ 3482.5(a), 3482.6(a); Code Civ. Proc. § 731b]?

4. Facts relating to possible cross complaint [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 426.30, 428.10-428.80]. Ascertain facts, if any, that might constitute the basis of a cross complaint against plaintiff, a codefendant, or both, or some person or entity not yet a party to the action, or against both the plaintiff, or a codefendant, and others. See generally Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints .

[2] Documents to Be Obtained

NOTE:
If the contents of any document must be proved at trial, the document itself must be presented unless secondary evidence is admissible [see Evid. Code § 1520 et seq.].

1. Written statements, if any, of parties or witnesses, including correspondence between plaintiff and defendant regarding the alleged nuisance.

2. Diagrams, photographs, maps, or other descriptions of the property or conduct involved.

3. Personal memoranda of defendant concerning the alleged nuisance, such as journals, diaries, notes, and letters.

4. Zoning permit.

5. License to carry on trade or business.

6. Any document which would tend to prove any affirmative defense [see § 391.71[5]].

[3] Preliminary Determinations

1. Jurisdiction of the subject matter.

See § 391.70[3], and Ch. 324, Jurisdiction: Subject Matter . If the court lacks subject matter jurisdiction, counsel should consider the following:

a. Demurrer [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(a); see Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings].

b. Motion to have the action transferred to the proper court in California, if any, having jurisdiction of the subject matter [Code Civ. Proc. § 396; see Ch. 571, Venue].

2. Jurisdiction over defendant.

Jurisdiction over the defendant attaches on proper service of the summons [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.50(a); see also Ch. 323, Jurisdiction: Personal]. If proper jurisdiction of the defendant has not been attained, counsel should consider a motion to quash service of summons [Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(a)(1); for a discussion of personal jurisdiction and forms for use in making a motion to quash, see s California Points and Authorities, Ch. 167, Jurisdiction].

3. Venue.

a. See § 391.70[3], and Ch. 571, Venue .

b. If the court in which the action has been filed is not the proper court for the trial [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 392-402], counsel may move for an order transferring the action to the proper court [Code Civ. Proc. § 396b]. If the defendant has not answered, demurred, or otherwise filed a response and the motion to transfer is denied, the court must allow the defendant time to move to strike, demur, or otherwise plead [Code Civ. Proc. § 396b(e)]. Counsel may also move for a change of venue or place of trial on any of the grounds enumerated in Code Civ. Proc. § 397. For procedure and forms, see Ch. 571, Venue , for memoranda of points and authorities, see s California Points and Authorities, Ch. 238, Venue .

NOTE:
The motion for change of venue, whether made on the ground that the court in which the action was filed is not the proper court or made on any other grounds, should not be confused with a motion to transfer a case from a court lacking, to a court having, jurisdiction of the subject matter under Code Civ. Proc. § 396, discussed under Paragraph (1)(b), above.

4. Defects in complaint.

Counsel may wish to file a demurrer if the complaint is subject to any of the defects enumerated in Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10. For a discussion of, and forms for use in filing demurrers, see Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings . For memoranda of points and authorities relating to demurrers, see s California Points and Authorities, Ch. 71, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings .

[4] Opposition to Application for Temporary Restraining Order, Preliminary Injunction, and Permanent Injunction

See Ch. 303, Injunctions , for a discussion of, procedural check-list for, and forms for opposition to applications for this type of relief.

[5] Drafting the Answer

1. For a discussion of and forms to use in drafting the answer [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30], see Ch. 26, Answers .

2. Affirmative Defenses

In response to a complaint seeking the abatement of a nuisance, counsel should consider asserting the following affirmative defenses [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]:

a. Express statutory authority [Civ. Code § 3482; see §§ 391.30[1], 391.100].

b. Zoning regulations [Code Civ. Proc. § 731a; see §§ 391.30[3], 391.101].

c. No notice to successive owner [see §§ 391.21[2], 391.102].

d. Statute of limitations [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 335.1, 338(b), (c); see former Code Civ. Proc. § 340(3); see also § 391.31; see § 391.103; Ch. 345, Limitation of Actions].

e. Preexisting airport or agricultural use [Civ. Code § 3482.5(a)(1) (commercial agricultural activity), (2) (activity of district agricultural association, Civ. Code § 3482.6 (agricultural processing facility); Code Civ. Proc. § 731b (airport); see also § 391.25[1]; see § 391.104].

f. Obstruction of light and air not nuisance [see §§ 391.25[4], 391.106].

g. Balancing of conveniences [see §§ 391.20, 391.107].

h. Failure to mitigate damages [see § 391.30[6]; for a form for asserting this affirmative defense, see Ch. 380, Negligence].

i. Freedom of speech [see § 391.30[7]].

j. Comparative Negligence [see §§ 391.22, 391.30[5]; see generally Ch. 380, Negligence].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 391.72through 391.89

[Reserved]

§§ 391.72[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART V. FORMS

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.90

§ 391.90 Complaint for Preliminary [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)] and Permanent Injunction [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 731] to Abate Private Nuisance [Civ. Code §§ 3479-3481] and for Damages [Civ. Code §§ 3294, 3333; Code Civ. Proc. § 731]--General Form

[1] FORM Complaint for Preliminary [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)] and Permanent Injunction [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 731] to Abate Private Nuisance [Civ. Code §§ 3479-3481] and for Damages [Civ. Code §§ 3294, 3333; Code Civ. Proc. § 731]--General Form

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES AND PRELIMIN-
_____ [name], and DOES 1	)	ARY AND PERMANENT INJUNCTION
through _____,	)	(Nuisance)
Defendants.	)
	)

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff is, and at all times herein mentioned was, the _____ [specify proprietary interest, e.g., owner] and in possession and control of certain real property consisting of land and _____ [describe improvements, e.g., a single family house] at _____ [address], _____ County, California, and more particularly described as follows: _____ [give legal description].

2. Defendant _____ [name] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, the _____ [specify proprietary interest or other capacity, e.g., owner and in possession and control of certain real property consisting of land and _____ (describe improvements, e.g., a bar and restaurant) at

_____ (address), _____ County, California, and more particularly described as follows: _____ (give legal description)].

3. The true names or capacities, whether individual, corporate, associate, or otherwise, of defendants DOE I through DOE _____ [roman numeral, e.g., V] are unknown to plaintiff, who therefore sues such defendants by such fictitious names, and will amend this complaint to show their true names and capacities when ascertained. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of the defendants designated as a DOE is responsible in some manner for the nuisance herein referred to [add when seeking damages: and thereby proximately caused injuries and damages to the plaintiff as herein alleged].

4. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that at all times herein mentioned each of the defendants was the agent and employee of each of the remaining defendants, and in doing the things hereinafter alleged, was acting within the course and scope of such agency and employment.

5. Plaintiff's property and the property of defendants, and each of them, are _____ [describe relative locations, e.g., adjoining each other at plaintiff's north and defendants' south boundaries].

6. At all times herein mentioned, and since _____ [date], defendants, and each of them, have occupied, used, and maintained their premises in such a manner that _____ [allege facts demonstrating nuisance, e.g., loud music, hand clapping, foot stomping and other noises emanate from defendants' bar and restaurant on a daily basis between 2 P.M. and 2 A.M.].

7. The aforementioned occupation, use, and maintenance of the property of defendants constitutes a nuisance within the meaning of Section 3479 of the Civil Code, in that it _____ [specify basis of nuisance, e.g., is injurious to plaintiff's health and interferes with the comfortable enjoyment of plaintiff's property].

8. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff gave notice to defendants, and each of them, of the damage caused by the nuisance, and requested its abatement, but defendants, and each of them, have refused, and continue to refuse, to abate the nuisance.

9. Defendants, and each of them, have threatened to and will, unless restrained by this court, continue to maintain the nuisance and continue the acts complained of, and each and every act has been, and will be, without the consent, against the will, and in violation of the rights of plaintiff.

[EITHER]

10. As a proximate result of the nuisance created by the defendants, and each of them, plaintiff has been, and will be, damaged in the sum of $_____ which is necessary to _____ [specify damage to be corrected, e.g., replace fallen ceiling tiles in plaintiff's house].

[AND/OR]

10. As a [further] proximate result of the nuisance, the value of plaintiff's property has been diminished by $_____. Unless the nuisance is abated, plaintiff's property will be progressively further diminished in value.

[AND/OR]

10. As a [further] proximate result of the nuisance created by defendants, and each of them, plaintiff has been hurt and injured in his/her health, strength, and activity, sustaining injury to his/her nervous system and person, all of which injuries have caused, and continue to cause, plaintiff great mental, physical, and nervous pain and suffering. [Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that such injuries will result in some permanent disability to him/her.] As a result of such injuries, plaintiff has suffered general damages in an amount according to proof.

[AND/OR]

10. As a [further] proximate result of the nuisance created by defendants, and each of them, plaintiff has incurred [, and will continue to incur,] medical and related expenses in an amount according to proof.

[AND/OR]

10. As a [further] proximate result of the nuisance created by defendants, and each of them, plaintiff's earning capacity has been greatly impaired, both in the past and present, in an amount according to proof.

[CONTINUE]

11. Unless defendants, and each of them, are restrained by order of this court, it will be necessary for plaintiff to commence many successive actions against defendants, and each of them, to secure compensation for damages sustained, thus requiring a multiplicity of suits, and plaintiff will be daily threatened with _____ [specify damage caused by nuisance, e.g., loud music, hand clapping, foot stomping, and other noises from the property of defendants, and each of them].

12. Unless defendants, and each of them, are enjoined from continuing their course of conduct, plaintiff will suffer irreparable injury in that _____ [specify irreparable injury, e.g., the usefulness and economic value of plaintiff's property will be substantially diminished and plaintiff will be deprived of the comfortable enjoyment of his/her property];

13. Plaintiff has no plain, speedy, or adequate remedy at law, and injunctive relief is expressly authorized by Sections 526 and 731 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

[14. In maintaining the nuisance, defendants, and each of them, are acting with full knowledge of the consequences and damage being caused to plaintiff, and their conduct is willful, oppressive and malicious; accordingly, plaintiff is entitled to punitive damages against defendants, and each of them.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendants, and each of them, as follows:

1. For a preliminary and a permanent injunction enjoining defendants, and each of them, and their agents, servants, and employees, and all persons acting under, in concert with, or for them from _____ [specify each act, course of conduct, and condition defendants are to be prohibited from doing, commencing, continuing, or maintaining, e.g., emitting any noise from their premises sufficiently loud to disturb plaintiff's comfortable enjoyment of plaintiff's property].

2. For general damages according to proof;

3. For _____ [specify special damages, if any, e.g., the reasonable cost of replacing fallen ceiling tiles in plaintiff's house in the sum of $_____];

[4. For punitive damages;]

5. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

6. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the plaintiff in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

This general form of complaint is for use in seeking a preliminary and permanent injunction for the abatement of a private nuisance as well as for damages. The victim of a nuisance is entitled to both damages and an injunction, an injunction being the traditional method of abating a nuisance [Los Angeles Brick & Clay Prods. Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1943) 60 Cal. App. 2d 478, 486, 141 P.2d 46] . For a discussion and forms for use in seeking a temporary restraining order as well as an injunction and/or damages, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

[3] Private and Public Nuisances

A nuisance is anything which is injurious to health, is indecent or offensive to the senses, or an obstruction to the free use of property, so as to interfere with the comfortable enjoyment of life or property, or which unlawfully obstructs the free passage or use, in the customary manner, of any navigable lake, or river, bay, stream, canal, or basin, or any public park, square, street, or highway [Civ. Code § 3479; Penal Code § 370]. A public nuisance is one which affects at the same time an entire community or neighborhood, or any considerable number of persons, al though the extent of the annoyance or damage inflicted on individuals may be unequal [Civ. Code § 3480]. Every nuisance that is not a public nuisance is a private nuisance [see Civ. Code § 3481]. For a general discussion of public and private nuisances, see § 391.11.

This form is for use in asserting a cause of action based on a private nuisance. A private person may not assert a cause of action based on a public nuisance unless he or she alleges facts showing special injury to himself or herself of a character different in kind, rather than degree, from that suffered by the general public [Venuto v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 116, 124, 99 Cal. Rptr. 350 ; see Civ. Code § 3493]. For an allegation of the requisite special injury for insertion in this complaint to permit a private plaintiff to assert a cause of action based on a public nuisance, see § 391.91.

[4] Permanent and Continuing Nuisances

A nuisance is considered permanent when it is of such a character that it will presumably continue indefinitely and, as a practical matter, cannot be abated. A nuisance is considered continuing, rather than permanent, if it may be abated or discontinued at any time. Every repetition of a continuing nuisance is a separate wrong for which the injured person may bring successive actions for damages until the nuisance is abated, even though an action based on the original wrong may be barred by the statute of limitations [Phillips v. City of Pasadena (1945) 27 Cal. 2d 104, 107-108, 162 P.2d 625 ; see § 391.15].

It is often difficult to categorically classify a nuisance as either permanent or continuing. However, the distinction between the two is important in determining the amount of damages recoverable, whether or not a plaintiff is entitled to an injunction, and when the statute of limitations commences to run [see § 391.26].

In cases of uncertainty, the plaintiff has the election of treating the nuisance as either permanent or continuing [Spaulding v. Cameron (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 265, 268, 239 P.2d 625 ; Mangini v. Aerojet-Gen. Corp. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1125, 1145, 281 Cal. Rptr. 827] . This complaint assumes plaintiff has chosen, at least at the initial pleading stage, to treat the nuisance as continuing. This alternative, unlike that of asserting a permanent nuisance, allows plaintiff to seek abatement of the nuisance and may avoid possible statute of limitations problems. Should the court determine the nuisance is permanent and deny an injunction for that reason, plaintiff would then be able to obtain the future damages which he or she would be denied if the court had found the nuisance to be continuing and granted an injunction [see Spaulding v. Cameron (1952) 38 Cal2d 265, 268, 239 P.2d 625 ; see also § 391.26].

[5] Allegations

[a] In General

This complaint alleges the following:

- Plaintiff's proprietary interest and location of his or her property (Paragraph 1) [see Civ. Code § 3479; Venuto v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 116, 126, 99 Cal. Rptr. 350 ; § 391.11[1]].

- Defendants' proprietary interests and location of their property (Paragraph 2); although some nuisances may not involve defendants' property, such as the obstruction of a public street [see Civ. Code § 3479; see also § 391.98], most do.

- Fictitious names of defendants (Paragraph 3) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 474; see also § 391.90[5][b]].

- Agency relationship of defendants (Paragraph 4) [see Ch. 427, Principal and Agent].

- Relative locations of plaintiff's and defendants' properties (Paragraph 5); (6) actions of defendants creating nuisance (Paragraph 6) [see Civ. Code § 3479].

- Effects of defendants' actions on plaintiff falling within the statutory definition of nuisance (Paragraph 7) [see Civ. Code § 3479; see also § 391.11[1]].

- Plaintiff's request that defendants abate the nuisance (Paragraph 8) [see § 391.20].

- Defendants' continued maintenance of the nuisance against plaintiff's will (Paragraph 9).

- Nature and amount of damages (Paragraph 10) [see § 391.90[6]; see also §§ 391.26, 391.27; see generally Ch. 177, Damages].

- Necessity for a multiplicity of suits unless an injunction is granted (Paragraph 11) and irreparable injury to plaintiff unless an injunction is granted (Paragraph 12) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 526; see generally Ch. 303, Inunctions].

- Lack of a plain, speedy or adequate remedy at law and the express authority foran injunction (Paragraph 13) [Code Civ. Proc. § 731].

- For use as an optional paragraph when plaintiff seeks punitive damages, the willful, oppressive, and malicious conduct of defendants warranting punitive damages (Paragraph 14) [Civ. Code § 3294].

[b] Fictitiously Named Defendants

When the plaintiff is ignorant of the name of a defendant, he or she must state that fact in the complaint and designate this defendant by any name (Paragraph 3) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 474]. The purpose of this allegation is to enable a plaintiff to bring an action against the fictitiously named defendant before it is barred by the statute of limitations [Austin v. Massachusetts Bonding & Ins. Co. (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 596, 602, 15 Cal. Rptr. 817, 364 P.2d 681] . However, even though fictitious defendants are named, the statute of limitations is not tolled if no cause of action is alleged against them [Williams v. Goodman (1963) 214 Cal. App. 2d 856, 861-862, 29 Cal. Rptr. 877] . Therefore, even when a plaintiff thinks he knows and has named all appropriate defendants, it is a good practice for this paragraph to be included and for the charging allegations in the complaint to refer to "defendants, and each of them." This paragraph and the suggested charging allegation are not mandatory and may be deleted at counsel's discretion [see also Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used].

[6] Specification of Damages

In an action to recover damages for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded for this cause of action [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

Otherwise, the amounts claimed as damages for anything other than personal injury or wrongful death (for example, property damage) must be alleged [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)] or an equivalent statement must be included, for example, a statement that the damages for a particular loss or harm sustained [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282] are not known and that leave will be sought to amend the complaint to state the exact amount when ascertained. If this is done, counsel must remember to seek leave to amend the complaint to so state before judgment.

No claim for punitive damages may state an amount sought regardless of the nature of the case or whether it is a limited civil case [Civ. Code § 3295(e)].

For discussion of and forms for requesting and stating the amount of damages sought when they are not stated in the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.11, 425.115], see Ch. 177, Damages , and Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments .

[7] Verification

Verification [Code Civ. Proc. § 446] is required if plaintiff seeks a temporary restraining order or a preliminary injunction on a complaint instead of on affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)]. If relying on a verified complaint instead of affidavits (or declarations), counsel must plead evidentiary facts that would entitle plaintiff to the relief sought [see E.H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1 ; Finnie v. Town of Tiburon (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1, 15, 244 Cal. Rptr. 581] . For discussion, a procedural checklist, and additional forms necessary in order to obtain a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

Otherwise, verification is not required, but verification of the complaint requires the defendant to file a verified answer [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446] and precludes use of a general denial [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion of the effect that verifying a complaint has on the answer, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[8] Jurisdiction

An action seeking permanent injunctive relief is in the jurisdiction of the superior court and is not a limited civil case [see Cal. Const. art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(8), 580(b)(2)].

[9] Venue

In an action for injuries to real property, the county in which the property is located is the proper county for the trial of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 392(a)(1)].

[10] Cross References

For forms for, and a discussion of, nuisances between adjoining landowners, see Ch. 11, Adjoining Landowners

For alternative allegations as to agency, capacity, and residence of parties, and fictitious name allegations, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used

For alternative forms of captions and introductions, see Ch. 108, Captions and Introductions

For forms of preliminary and permanent injunctions and a procedural guide relating to injunctions, see Ch. 303, Injunctions

For forms relating to pollution as a nuisance, see Ch. 418, Pollution and Environmental Matters

For alternative forms of prayers and verifications, see Ch. 420, Prayers and Ch. 572, Verification , respectively

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART V. FORMS

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.91

§ 391.91 Allegation--Public Nuisance [Civ. Code §§ 3479, 3480] Specially Injurious to Plaintiff [Civ. Code § 3493]

[1] FORM Allegation--Public Nuisance [Civ. Code §§ 3479, 3480] Specially Injurious to Plaintiff [Civ. Code § 3493]

The nuisance affects, at the same time, a considerable number of persons in that _____ [specify, e.g., it blocks all public access to Main Street]; but it causes special injury to plaintiff in that _____ [specify injury to plaintiff different in kind from that suffered by others, e.g., the construction of barriers and gates by defendant across Main Street blocks all means of ingress and egress to and from plaintiff's property which abuts on and lies on both sides of Main Street].

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use in a complaint by a private person seeking a preliminary and permanent injunction for the abatement of a public nuisance and/or compensatory and/or punitive damages based on a public nuisance. If this allegation is added after Paragraph 7 in § 391.90[1], the complaint will state a cause of action based on a public nuisance. When uncertain whether the nuisance is public or private, counsel may wish to plead both private and public nuisances in alternative counts using §§ 391.90[1] and 391.91[1]. For a discussion and comparison of private and public nuisances, see § 391.91[9].

The hypothetical facts used in this allegation are from a case holding that the obstruction of a public road constitutes a public nuisance and, when the obstruction blocks all means of access to a person's property, that person has suffered special injury sufficient to give him or her standing to sue for abatement of the public nuisance [Tucker v. Watkins (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 327, 331, 59 Cal. Rptr. 453] .

[3] Public Nuisance

A public nuisance is one which affects at the same time an entire community or neighborhood, or any considerable number of persons, although the extent of the annoyance or damage inflicted on individuals may be unequal [Civ. Code § 3480]. A private person may maintain an action for a public nuisance if it is specially injurious to himself or herself, but not otherwise [Civ. Code § 3493].

[4] Special Injury as Prerequisite

When a public nuisance is not also a private nuisance as to a private individual, he or she does not have a cause of action based on the public nuisance unless he or she alleges facts showing special injury to himself or herself in person or property of a character different in kind, rather than degree, from that suffered by the general public [Venuto v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 116, 124, 99 Cal. Rptr. 350 ; see § 391.14].

[5] Statute of Limitations

One advantage to bringing a private action based on a public nuisance is that there is no statute of limitations applicable to a public nuisance [see § 391.91[9]]. No lapse of time can legalize a public nuisance amounting to an actual obstruction of public right [Civ. Code § 3490]. Furthermore, neither the defense of laches nor the defense of the statute of limitations may be asserted against a private person bringing an abatement action to stop a continuing public nuisance from which he or she is suffering special injury [Wade v. Campbell (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 54, 60-61, 19 Cal. Rptr. 173 ; see § 391.91[5]].

[6] Cross References

See also § 391.90

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART V. FORMS

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.92

§ 391.92 Complaint for Preliminary [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)] and Permanent Injunction [Code Civ. Proc. § 526] to Abate Threatened Nuisance [Civ. Code § 3479]

[1] FORM Complaint for Preliminary [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)] and Permanent Injunction [Code Civ. Proc. § 526] to Abate Threatened Nuisance [Civ. Code § 3479]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR PRELIMINARY AND PER-
_____ [name], and DOES 1	)	MANENT INJUNCTION
through _____,	)	(Threatened Nuisance)
Defendants.	)	[Civ. Code § 3479; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 527(a)]
	)

_____

1. [Capacity and residence of plaintiff. See § 391.90[1], Paragraph 1.]

2. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 391.90[1], Paragraph 2.]

3. [Fictitious name allegation. See § 391.90[1], Paragraph 3.]

4. [Agency allegation, if appropriate. See § 391.90[1], Paragraph 4.]

5. [Relative location of plaintiff's and defendants' properties. See § 391.90[1], Paragraph 5.]

[6. The area in which plaintiff resides is in the location of a growing community, which is part business and part residential.]

7. Defendants, and each of them, plan and threaten _____ [specify threatened action, e.g., to construct and operate an asphalt plant] on their property.

8. _____ [Allege additional facts demonstrating that threatened actions will create a nuisance, e.g., The prevailing winds in proximity to the properties of plaintiff and defendants are from the northwest, and defendants' intended site of operation is located in a northwest direction from plaintiff's residence].

9. _____ [Allege specific manner in which threatened action will create a nuisance, e.g., Any operation of business comparable to defendants' planned operation will cause noxious and malodorous gases, fumes, and other contaminants to pollute the air in the vicinity of and over plaintiff's property] proximately resulting in the interference of plaintiff's [, and plaintiff's family's,] comfortable enjoyment of life and property, will be injurious to the health of plaintiff [and that of his/her family], and will result in the creation of a nuisance as defined by Section 3479 of the Civil Code.

10. Unless defendants, and each of them, are enjoined from _____ [specify, e.g., constructing and operating the proposed asphalt plant], plaintiff will suffer irreparable injury in that _____ [specify irreparable injury, e.g., the usefulness and economic value of plaintiff's property will be substantially diminished and plaintiff will be deprived of the comfortable enjoyment of his/her property].

11. Plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law for the threatened nuisance in that _____ [specify facts in addition to those previously alleged which tend to demonstrate the inadequacy of any legal remedy, especially monetary damages, which plaintiff might pursue, e.g., the threatened air pollution will cause a significant health hazard to plaintiff or it will be impossible for plaintiff to determine the precise amount of damage which he/she will suffer if defendants' threatened conduct is not restrained] and injunctive relief is authorized by Section 526 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendants, and each of them, as follows:

1. For a preliminary and a permanent injunction enjoining defendants, and each of them, and their agents, servants, and employees, and all persons acting under, in concert with, or for them, from _____ [specify act, course of conduct, and/or condition defendants are to be prohibited from doing, e.g., constructing and operating an asphalt plant on defendants' premises];

2. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification. See § 391.90.]

CAUTION:

This complaint must either be verified or accompanied by affidavits (or declarations under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) in support of the allegations of the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)]. If relying on a verified complaint instead of affidavits (or declarations), counsel must plead evidentiary facts that would entitle plaintiff to the relief sought [see E. H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1 ; San Juan Gold Co. v. San Juan Ridge Mut. Water Ass'n (1939) 34 Cal. App. 2d 159, 174, 93 P.2d 582] .

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use in seeking a preliminary and permanent injunction to prevent the creation of a threatened nuisance. A complaint seeking the abatement of a threatened nuisance must allege facts showing the danger is probable and imminent [Helix Land Co. v. City of San Diego (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 932, 950-951, 147 Cal. Rptr. 683 , citing Nicholson v. Getchell (1892) 96 Cal. 394, 396, 31 P. 265] . For discussion and forms for use in also seeking a temporary restraining order, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

[3] Allegations

The complaint alleges the following:

- Capacity and residence of the parties (Paragraphs 1 and 2).
- Fictitious names of defendants (Paragraph 3) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 474 and § 391.90[5][b]].
- Agency relationship of defendants (Paragraph 4) [see generally Ch. 427, Principal and Agent].
- Relative locations of plaintiff's and defendants' properties (Paragraph 5).
- General nature of neighborhood (Paragraph 6) [to be used when the nature of the neighborhood helps establish defendants' threatened actions as a nuisance].
- Threatened actions of defendants which would create a nuisance (Paragraph 7).
- Additional facts demonstrating how the threatened actions will create a nuisance (Paragraph 8).
- Probable effects of defendants' threatened actions that fall within the statutory definition of nuisance (Paragraph 9) [see Civ. Code § 3479 and § 391.11[1]].
- Facts showing why defendants' conduct will constitute irreparable injury (Paragraph 10) [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526(a)(2), 527(a); see E. H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1] .
- Facts showing why plaintiff lacks a plain, speedy, or adequate remedy at law and the express authority for an injunction (Paragraph 11) [see Civ. Code §§ 3422(1)-(3), 3479; Code Civ. Proc. § 526(a)(4)-(6)].

[4] Decisions

Prospective nuisance as enjoinable only on allegation of facts showing danger is probable and imminent. Helix Land Co. v. City of San Diego (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 932, 950-951, 147 Cal. Rptr. 683

[5] Cross References

See also § 391.90

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART V. FORMS

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.93

§ 391.93 Complaint for Preliminary [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)] and Permanent Injunction [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 731] to Abate Nuisance [Civ. Code § 3479]--Hazard on Nearby Property Endangering Plaintiff's Proprietary Interest

[1] FORM Complaint for Preliminary [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)] and Permanent Injunction [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 731] to Abate Nuisance [Civ. Code § 3479]--Hazard on Nearby Property Endangering Plaintiff's Proprietary Interest

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAIN T FOR PRELIMINARY AND PER-
_____ [name], and DOES 1	)	MANENT INJUNCTION
through _____,	)	(Nuisance)
Defendants.	)	[Civ. Code § 3479; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 527(a), 731]
	)

_____

1. [Capacity and residence of plaintiff. See § 391.90[1], Paragraph 1.]

2. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 391.90, Paragraph 2.]

3. [Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 391.90[1], Paragraph 3.]

4. [Agency allegation, if appropriate. See § 391.90[1], Paragraph 4.]

5. [Relative location of plaintiff's and defendants' properties. See § 391.90[1], Paragraph 5.]

6. At all times herein mentioned, and since on or about _____ [date], defendants, and each of them, have _____ [allege acts or omissions creating hazard threatening plaintiff's proprietary interest, e.g., stored on their property, in close proximity to the property of plaintiff, gasoline-soaked rags and other flammable material]. The resulting condition has created a _____ [specify nature of hazard, e.g., fire] hazard extremely dangerous to the property of plaintiff.

7. This _____ [specify nature of hazard, e.g., fire] hazard is an obstruction to the free use of plaintiff's property, interferes with his/her comfortable enjoyment of life and property, and constitutes a nuisance under Section 3479 of the Civil Code.

8. Unless the nuisance created by defendant is abated and defendant enjoined and ordered to remove the alleged _____ [specify nature of hazard, e.g., fire] hazard, the health, well-being, and comfortable enjoyment of life and property of plaintiff [and plaintiff's family] will suffer irreparable damage.

9. Plaintiff has no plain, speedy, or adequate remedy at law, and injunctive relief is authorized by Sections 526 and 731 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

10. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff gave notice to defendants, and each of them, requesting the abatement of the alleged nuisance and the _____ [specify nature of hazard, e.g., fire] hazard created by it, but defendants, and each of them, have refused, and continue to refuse, to abate the nuisance.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendants, and each of them, as follows:

1. For a preliminary and a permanent injunction ordering defendants, and each of them, to _____ [specify requested relief, e.g., remove all gasoline-soaked rags and other combustible material from their premises].

2. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification. See § 391.90[1].]

CAUTION:

This complaint must either be verified or accompanied by affidavits (or declarations under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) in support of the allegations of the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)]. If relying on a verified complaint instead of affidavits (or declarations), counsel must plead evidentiary facts that would entitle plaintiff to the relief sought [see E. H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1 ; San Juan Gold Co. v. San Juan Ridge Mut. Water Ass'n (1939) 34 Cal. App. 2d 159, 174, 93 P.2d 582] .

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use in seeking a preliminary and permanent injunction ordering the abatement of a nuisance created by a hazard on nearby property endangering plaintiff's proprietary interest. The complaint does not seek damages, but merely the abatement of the nuisance. For a form seeking both abatement and damages, see § 391.90[1]. For a discussion and forms for use in also seeking a temporary restraining order, see Ch. 303, Injunctions . The hypothetical facts used in the example were modified and taken from People v. Oliver (1948) 86 Cal. App. 2d 885, 195 P.2d 926 .

[3] Allegations

The complaint alleges the following:

- Capacity and residence of the parties (Paragraphs 1 and 2).
- Fictitious names of defendants (Paragraph 3) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 474 and § 391.90[5][b]].
- Agency relationship of defendants (Paragraph 4) [see generally Ch. 427, Principal and Agent].
- Relative locations of plaintiff's and defendants' properties (Paragraph 5);
- Description of actions of defendants creating a hazard dangerous to plaintiff's property (Paragraph 6).
- Manner in which defendants' actions constitute a nuisance pursuant to Civ. Code § 3479 (Paragraph 7) [see § 391.11[1]].
- Irreparable injury to plaintiff unless an injunction is granted and the nuisance abated (Paragraph 8) [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526(a)(2), 527(a); see E. H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1] .
- Plaintiff's lack of a plain, speedy, or adequate remedy at law and the authority for an injunction (Paragraph 9) [see Civ. Code §§ 3422(1)-(3), 3479; Code Civ. Proc. § 526(a)(4)-(6)].
- Plaintiff's notice to defendant and request that the nuisance be abated (Paragraph 10) [see § 391.20].

[4] Cross References

See also § 391.90

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART V. FORMS

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.94

§ 391.94 Complaint for Temporary Writ of Injunction [Health & Safety Code § 11573; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 527(a)] and Permanent Injunction [Civ. Code § 3422; Health & Safety Code §§ 11570, 11571] to Abate Public or Private Nuisance and for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333; Health & Safety Code § 11570]--Buildings or Places Where Controlled Substances Are Manufactured, Sold, or Kept [Health & Safety Code §§ 11570-11587]

[1] FORM Complaint for Temporary Writ of Injunction [Health & Safety Code § 11573; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 527(a)] and Permanent Injunction [Civ. Code § 3422; Health & Safety Code §§ 11570, 11571] to Abate Public or Private Nuisance and for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333; Health & Safety Code § 11570]--Buildings or Places Where Controlled Substances Are Manufactured, Sold, or Kept [Health & Safety Code §§ 11570-11587]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name]	)
Plaintiff	)	No. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR TEMPORARY WRIT OF IN-
_____ [name(s)] [and DOES 1	)	JUNCTION AND PERMANENT INJUNCTION through _____],	)	[Civ. Code §§ 3333, 3422; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, Defendant(s).	)	527(a); Health & Safety Code §§ 11570-11587]
	)

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a citizen of California resident in _____ County, which is the county in which the nuisance that is the subject of this complaint exists.

2. Defendant _____ [name] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, the _____ [ specify proprietary interest, e.g., owner or lessor or agent of the owner] of the building in which the nuisance exists.

[3. Defendant _____ (name) is, and at all times herein mentioned was, the person conducting or maintaining the nuisance that is the subject of this complaint.]

[4. Fictitious name allegation. See § 391.90, Paragraph 3.]

[5. Agency allegation, if appropriate. See § 391.90, Paragraph 4.]

6. At all times herein mentioned, and since _____ [date], defendants, and each of them, have occupied, used, and maintained the premises at _____ [address], _____ [city], _____ [county] for the purpose of unlawfully selling, serving, storing, keeping, manufacturing, or giving away a controlled substance, precursor, or analog, as specified in Health & Safety Code §§ 11000-11651, [namely, _____ (specify),] and the building is a _____ [public or private] nuisance pursuant to Section 11570 of the Health & Safety Code.

7. Defendants have threatened to and will, unless restrained by this court, continue to maintain the nuisance and continue the acts complained of, in violation of the rights of plaintiff.

[EITHER]

8. As a proximate result of the nuisance created by the defendants, plaintiff has been, and will be, damaged in the sum of $_____ because _____ [specify, e.g., plaintiff's property has diminished in value because of its proximity to the nuisance, which poses a hazard of explosion because of the chemical manufacturing process maintained within the property].

[AND/OR]

9. As a [further] proximate result of the nuisance, plaintiff has been hurt and injured in his/her health, strength, and activity, sustaining injury to his/her nervous system and person, all of which injuries have caused, and continue to cause, plaintiff great mental, physical, and nervous pain and suffering. [Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that such injuries will result in some permanent disability to him/her.] As a result of these injuries, plaintiff has suffered general damages in an amount according to proof.

[AND/OR]

10. As a [further] proximate result of the nuisance created by defendants, and each of them, plaintiff has incurred[, and will continue to incur,] medical and related expenses in an amount according to proof.

[CONTINUE]

11. Plaintiff has no plain, speedy, or adquate remedy at law, and injunctive relief is expressly authorized in Sections 11570-11587 of the Health & Safety Code.

[12. In maintaining the nuisance, defendants, and each of them, are acting with full knowledge of the consequences and damage being caused to plaintiff, and their conduct is willful, oppressive, and malicious; accordingly, plaintiff is entitled to punitive damages against defendants in the sum of $_____.]

[ADD, if desired]

13. A temporary writ of injunction to close the premises is necessary in this case to abate and prevent the _____ [continuance or recurrence] of this nuisance.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendants as follows:

1. For a preliminary and permanent injunction enjoining defendants and their agents, servants, employees, and all persons acting under, in concert with, or for them from unlawfully selling, serving, storing, keeping, manufacturing, or giving away a controlled substance, precursor, or analog, as specified in Sections 11000-11651 of the Health & Safety Code, in the building described above.

[2. For a temporary writ of injunction to close the premises;]

3. For general damages _____ [in the sum of $_____ or in an amount within the jurisdiction of this court];

4. For _____ [specify special damages, if any, e.g., the diminution in value of plaintiff's property because of the nuisance];

[5. For punitive damages (in the sum of $_____);]

6. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

7. For such other relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification. See § 391.90.]

[2] Use of Form

This complaint for injunctive relief is for use by a person who is affected by the maintenance of a building or other place that is a nuisance because it is used for the purpose of unlawfully selling, serving, storing, keeping, manufacturing, or giving away a controlled substance, precursor, or analog, as specified in Health & Safety Code §§ 11000-11651 [Health & Safety Code §§ 11570-11587]. A private citizen resident in the county, as well as the district attorney or city attorney, may maintain an action to enjoin, abate, and prevent such a nuisance and to recover damages therefor [Health & Safety Code §§ 11570, 11571].

[3] Allegations

The complaint alleges the following:

- Capacity and residence of the parties (Paragraphs 1-3).

- Fictitious names of defendants (optional Paragraph 4) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 474 and § 391.90[5][b]].

- Agency relationship of defendants (optional Paragraph 5) [see generally Ch. 427, Principal and Agent].

- Actions of defendants in maintaining a nuisance by selling, serving, storing, keeping, manufacturing, or giving away of controlled substances (Paragraph 6) [see Health & Safety Code §§ 11570, 11571].

- Defendants' threatened continued maintenance of the nuisance (Paragraph 7);

- Nature and amount of damages (alternative Paragraphs 8-10) [see § 391.90[6]].

- Lack of plain, speedy, adequate remedy at law and express statutory authority for injunction (Paragraph 11) [Health & Safety Code §§ 11570, 11571; see Health & Safety Code §§ 11570-11587].

- An optional request for punitive damages for use when it is alleged that the defendant acted with malice or oppression (Paragraph 12) [Civ. Code § 3294(a)].

- Optional request for temporary writ of injunction (Paragraph 13) [see Health & Safety Code §§ 11573-11574].

[4] Verification

The complaint for abatement of a nuisance brought pursuant to Health & Safety Code §§ 11570, 11571 must be verified when brought by a private citizen [Health & Safety Code § 11572].

[5] Costs

If the existence of the nuisance is established in the action, plaintiff's costs are a lien on the building or place [Health & Safety Code § 11579]. If the court finds no reasonable ground or cause for the action, however, the costs are taxed against the plaintiff [Health & Safety Code § 11578].

[6] Temporary Writ

If the existence of the nuisance is shown in the action to the satisfaction of the court or judge, the court or judge must allow a temporary writ of injunction to abate and prevent the continuance or recurrence of the nuisance [Health & Safety Code § 11573]. If the writ is granted, the court will require an undertaking from the applicant to the effect that the applicant will pay to the defendant enjoined such damages, not exceeding a specified amount, as the defendant sustains by reason of the injunction if the court finally decides that the applicant was not entitled to the injunction [Health & Safety Code § 11573]. Protective orders are available to protect witnesses to the existence of the nuisance from threats of violence [see Health & Safety Code § 11573.5(a)]. A temporary writ issued after a hearing may include an order for closure of the premises pending trial, but reasonable notice and an opportunity to be heard must be provided all tenants who may be affected by the order [see Health & Safety Code § 11573.5(b), (c)]. In addition, the court must order the defendant to provide relocation assistance to any tenant ordered to vacate the premises because of closure, provided the tenant was not actively involved in the nuisance activity [see Health & Safety Code § 11573.5(d)].

The remedies provided in Health & Safety Code § 11573.5 are in addition to any other existing remedies for nuisance abatement actions, including, but not limited to, capital improvements to the property such as security gates, improved interior or exterior lighting, security guards, posting of signs, owner membership in neighborhood or local merchant associations, attending property management training programs, and making cosmetic improvements to the property [Health & Safety Code § 11573.5(f)(1)].

At all stages of an action brought under Health & Safety Code § 11570 et seq., the court has equitable powers to order steps necessary to remedy the problem and enhance the abatement process [Health & Safety Code § 11573.5(f)(2)].

[7] Dismissal Restrictions

Once a complaint is filed by a private citizen, it cannot be dismissed by him or her or for want of prosecution, except on a sworn statement made by the citizen and his or her attorney setting forth the reasons why the action should be dismissed, and by dismissal ordered by the court [Health & Safety Code § 11576].

[8] Cross References

For forms of temporary restraining orders, orders to show cause, and preliminary and permanent injunctions, see Ch. 303, Injunctions

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART V. FORMS

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.95

§ 391.95 Allegation of Liability for Damages for Personal Injury [Civ. Code § 3333; Code Civ. Proc. § 731] Based on Nuisance [Civ. Code § 3479]--Cause of Action Attachment to Judicial Council Form of Complaint for Personal Injury [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12]

[1] FORM Allegation of Liability for Damages for Personal Injury [Civ. Code § 3333; Code Civ. Proc. § 731] Based on Nuisance [Civ. Code § 3479]--Cause of Action Attachment to Judicial Council Form of Complaint for Personal Injury [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12]

SHORT TITLE: CASE NUMBER:

_____ _____
_____

_____ [specify number, e.g., FIRST] CAUSE OF ACTION--Nuisance (Civ. Code § 3479)

ATTACHMENT TO COMPLAINT

Plaintiff _____ [name] alleges that:

NUI-1. At all times herein mentioned _____ [describe area] was a _____ [specify public area, e.g., public park or square or highway] in _____ County, California, and open to public travel and use.

NUI-2. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff _____ [name] was lawfully in the _____ [specify public area, e.g., public park or square or highway] which was at that time _____ [specify general activity being conducted by defendants, e.g., undergoing excavation and construction work by defendants].

NUI-3. Prior to _____ [date], defendants, and each of them, _____ [specify acts causing nuisance, e.g., caused large unguarded excavations to be created, permitted large mounds of debris to accumulate and to remain unprotected and unmarked in the pathways of the public area, obstructed an extensively used walkway in the public area, permitted large amounts of stone, asphalt, and other debris to remain strewn in the pathway of pedestrians lawfully using the open thoroughfare,] and, in general, committed acts and omissions constituting the creation of a nuisance within the meaning of Section 3479 of the Civil Code.

NUI-4. As a proximate result of the statutory violation and maintenance of the nuisance, plaintiff, on _____ [date], _____ [describe accident, e.g., fell and struck his/her head on a piece of excavated material,] suffering the injuries and damages alleged.

Page _____

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use in an action seeking damages for personal injuries based on a nuisance created by defendants. In addition to the count basedon nuisance as set forth in this form, counsel may wish to include in the complaint an additional count, using the Judicial Council General Negligence Attachment [Cal. Judicial Council Form PLD-PI-001(2)], based on the negligence of defendants in creating the conditions causing the accident [see Ch. 380, Negligence].

The form is designed as a cause of action to be attached to the Judicial Council form of complaint for damages resulting from personal injury [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.45(c); Cal. Judicial Council Form PLD-PI-001]. For instructions and a filled-in example of the Judicial Council complaint form, see Ch. 380, Negligence . The paragraphs of this form must be numbered consecutively beginning with one, and must be preceded with one or more identifying letters derived from the title of the cause of action [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.45(c)]. The paragraphs in this form are lettered "NUI" as derived from the title "Nuisance." The form should be prepared in the format prescribed by Cal. Rules of Ct., Title 2, Div. 2, Ch. 1, which includes a requirement that the lines on the page be numbered consecutively [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.45]. For discussion of format requirements under Cal. Rules of Ct., Title 2, Div. 2, Ch. 1, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints .

For general information relating to the use of Judicial Council complaint forms, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints . These forms are available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. Noninteractive versions in PDF format also are available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

If the Judicial Council complaint for personal injury is not used, this form may be adapted for use in a complaint drafted by counsel. Use of the Judicial Council pleading forms is optional [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.35(b)].

[3] Cross References

For a related form, see § 391.90

For forms for use in actions for personal injury damages based on the liability of the possessor of land, see Ch. 421, Premises Liability

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART V. FORMS

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.96

§ 391.96 Allegations--Private Nuisance [Civ. Code §§ 3479-3481]--Noise and Vibrations

[1] FORM Allegations--Private Nuisance [Civ. Code §§ 3479-3481]--Noise and Vibrations

1. At all times herein mentioned, and since _____ [date], defendants, and each of them, have conducted, and now conduct, a _____ [describe business, e.g., bar and restaurant business] under the name _____ on their premises.

2. At all times herein mentioned, and since _____ [date], defendants, and each of them, have conducted their business in such a manner as to constitute a private nuisance, as defined by Sections 3479-3481 of the Civil Code, in that _____ [specify acts constituting nuisance, e.g., between the hours of _____ [time] and _____ [time] daily, defendants, and each of them, have caused and permitted such loud music, foot stomping and hand clapping that the noise and vibrations disturb plaintiff, prevents him/her from sleeping, prevents the use of his/her patio] and is generally injurious to plaintiff's health, is offensive to the senses, is an obstruction to the free use of plaintiff's property and interferes with plaintiff's comfortable enjoyment of life and property.

[3. Defendants, and each of them, are creating the nuisance as the result of unnecesary, unreasonable, and injurious methods of operation of their business.]

[2] Use of Form

These allegations are for use in a complaint seeking compensatory [Civ. Code § 3333; Code Civ. Proc. § 731] and/or punitive [Civ. Code § 3294] damages and/or a preliminary [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)] and/or permanent [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 731] injunction for the abatement of a private nuisance [Civ. Code §§ 3479-3481] created by noise and vibrations from defendant's business premises. They should be inserted in place of Paragraphs 6 and 7 in § 391.90[1].

The facts used in the example were modified and taken from People v. Mason (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 348, 177 Cal. Rptr. 284 . For a discussion of noise as a nuisance, see § 391.52[12][f]. For a form and discussion of the possible defense that the business is being conducted in an area specifically zoned for that business, see §§ 391.30[3] and 391.101.

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges the following:

- The nature of the specific business being conducted by defendants on their premises (Paragraph 1);

- The specific type of conduct or activity causing the nuisance and its effect on plaintiff's comfortable enjoyment of his or her life and property (Paragraph 2) [Civ. Code §§ 3479-3481]; and

- As an optional paragraph for use when defendants conduct a business in a zoned district, that the nuisance results from unnecessary, unreasonable, and injurious methods of operation of defendants' business (Paragraph 3) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 731a; see § 391.30[3]].

[4] Cross References

For related forms, see § 391.90

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART V. FORMS

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.97

§ 391.97 Allegations--Private Nuisance [Civ. Code §§ 3479-3481]--Air Pollution

[1] FORM Allegations--Private Nuisance [Civ. Code §§ 3479-3481]--Air Pollution

1. At all times herein mentioned, and since _____ [date], defendants, and each of them, have conducted, and now conduct, a _____ [describe business, e.g., cement manufacturing business] under the name _____ on their premises.

2. At all times herein mentioned, and since _____ [date], defendants, and each of them, have conducted their business in such a manner as to constitute a private nuisance, as defined by Sections 3479-3481 of the Civil Code, in that _____ [specify acts constituting nuisance, e.g., their cement plant emits large quantities of dust, chemicals, and other contaminants into the air which are carried by the natural winds and air currents onto plaintiff's premises and collect on the flower beds, entrance way, and building] and are generally injurious to plaintiff's health, are offensive to the senses, and interfere with plaintiff's comfortable enjoyment of life and property.

[3. Defendants, and each of them, are creating the nuisance as the result of unnecessary, unreasonable, and injurious methods of operation of their business.]

[2] Use of Form

These allegations are for use in a complaint seeking compensatory [Civ. Code § 3333; Code Civ. Proc. § 731] and/or punitive [Civ. Code § 3294] damages and/or a preliminary [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)] and/or permanent [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 731] injunction for the abatement of a private nuisance [Civ. Code §§ 3479-3481] created by air pollution from defendant's business premises. They should be inserted in place of Paragraphs 6 and 7 in § 391.90[1].

The facts used in the example were modified and taken from a case affirming a finding that a cement plant emitting dust and chemicals which were deposited on plaintiffs' property constituted a nuisance [see Guttinger v. Calaveras Cement Co. (1958) 160 Cal. App. 2d 460, 461-462, 325 P.2d 145] . For a discussion of both water and air pollution as a nuisance, see § 391.24[8] and Ch. 418, Pollution and Environmental Matters . For a form and discussion of the possible defense that the business is being conducted in an area specifically zoned for that business, see §§ 391.30[3] and 391.101.

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges the following:

- The nature of the specific business being conducted by defendants on their premises (Paragraph 1);

- specific type of conduct or activity causing the nuisance and its effect on plaintiff's comfortable enjoyment of his or her life and property (Paragraph 2) [Civ. Code §§ 3479-3481]; and

- As an optional paragraph for use when defendants conduct a business in a zoned district, that the nuisance results from unnecessary, unreasonable, and injurious methods of operation of defendants' business (Paragraph 3) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 731a; see also sect; 391.30[3]].

[4] Cross References

See also §§ 391.90 and 391.96

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART V. FORMS

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.98

§ 391.98 Allegations--Private Nuisance [Civ. Code §§ 3479-3481]--Obstruction of Public Street

[1] FORM Allegations--Private Nuisance [Civ. Code §§ 3479-3481]--Obstruction of Public Street

1. At all times herein mentioned plaintiff's premises fronted on _____ [name of street], a public street which had been used by plaintiff and the public continuously until _____ [date]. _____ [Name of street], is located within _____ [city], _____ County, California.

2. On or about _____ [date], defendants, and each of them, barricaded _____ [name of street] and forcibly prevented, and do now forcibly prevent, plaintiff and the public generally from traveling over or using _____ [name of street].

3. Plaintiff is specially damaged by this barricade in that he/she is deprived of the right of ingress and egress to and from his/her premises in both directions from _____ [name of street].

[2] Use of Form

These allegations are for use in a complaint seeking compensatory [Civ. Code § 3333; Code Civ. Proc. § 731] and/or punitive [Civ. Code § 3294] damages and/or a preliminary [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)] and/or permanent [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 731] injunction for the abatement of a private nuisance [Civ. Code §§ 3479-3481] created by the obstruction of a public street. To complete the complaint, these allegations should be inserted in place of Paragraphs 5-7 of § 391.90[1]. Paragraph 2 of § 391.90[1] should also be omitted. For a discussion of the obstruction of a public street as a nuisance, see § 391.24[9].

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges the following: (1) the name and location of the public street on which plaintiff's property fronts (Paragraph 1); (2) defendants' obstruction of the public street (Paragraph 2) [see Civ. Code § 3479]; (3) the obstruction prevents ingress and egress to plaintiff's property, a special injury (Paragraph 3) [see Civ. Code § 3493; Brown v. Rea (1907) 150 Cal. 171, 174, 88 P. 713 ; see also § 391.14].

[4] Cross References

See also §§ 391.90 and 391.96

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART V. FORMS

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.99

§ 391.99 Allegations--Private Nuisance [Civ. Code §§ 3479-3481]--Diversion of Naturally Accumulated Waters Onto Plaintiff's Property

[1] FORM Allegations--Private Nuisance [Civ. Code §§ 3479-3481]--Diversion of Naturally Accumulated Waters Onto Plaintiff's Property

1. Plaintiff's property and the property of defendant[s, and each of them], are _____ [describe relative locations, e.g., adjoining each other at plaintiff's north and defendant's south boundaries].

2. At all times mentioned herein, and since _____ [date], defendant[s, and each of them], have occupied, used, and maintained their premises so that _____ [allege facts demonstrating nuisance, e.g., through defendant's construction and maintenance of a drainage ditch, water that had naturally accumulated in a pond on defendant's land now flows onto plaintiff's land].

3. The aforementioned occupation, use, and maintenance of the property of defendant[s, and each of them], constitutes a nuisance within the meaning of Section 3479 of the Civil Code, in that it _____ [specify basis of nuisance, e.g., interferes with plaintiff's comfortable enjoyment of his property].

[2] Use of Form

These allegations are for use in a complaint seeking compensatory damages [Civ. Code § 3333; Code Civ. Proc. § 731], punitive damages, if appropriate [Civ. Code § 3294], and preliminary [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)] and permanent [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 731] injunctive relief for the abatement of a private nuisance [Civ. Code §§ 3479-3481] created by the diversion of water onto plaintiff's land. To complete the complaint, these allegations should be inserted in place of Paragraphs 5-7 of § 391.90[1].

When water is caused to flow onto the land of another that would not naturally flow thereon, that is an invasion and injury to the right of property and a nuisance per se, and its continuance or maintenance may be enjoined [Galbreath v. Hopkins (1911) 159 Cal. 297, 301, 302, 113 P. 174] . This complaint uses the diversion of naturally accumlating waters as the factual example warranting relief. With appropriate modification the complaint may be used for other types of wrongful flowing [see § 391.24[6]].

Negligence and nuisance are very similar concepts; negligence is one type of conduct that might give rise to a nuisance. If recovery of damages is sought under the same state of facts but under different theories of recovery (private nuisance and negligence), there is but one cause of action [Van Zyl v. Spiegelberg (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 367, 372-375, 82 Cal. Rptr. 689] . For discussion and forms of allegations for use in seeking to recover for damages caused by water based on a negligence theory, see Ch. 421 Premises Liability .

This form is adapted from the fact situation in Galbreath v. Hopkins (1911) 159 Cal. 297, 113 P. 174 .

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges (1) the relative locations of plaintiff's and defendant's properties (Paragraph 5), (2) actions of defendants creating a nuisance (Paragraph 6) [see Civ. Code § 3479], and (3) the effects of defendant's actions on plaintiff falling within the statutory definition of nuisance (Paragraph 7).

[4] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 391.90 and 391.96

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART V. FORMS

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.100

§ 391.100 Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Statutory Authority [Civ. Code § 3482]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Statutory Authority [Civ. Code § 3482]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], DEFENDANT ALLEGES the actions and conditions complained of by plaintiff are expressly authorized by _____ [specify statutory authority] and may not be judged a nuisance as Section 3482 of the Civil Code provides that nothing done or maintained under the express authority of a statute can be deemed a nuisance.

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense is for insertion in an answer to a complaint based on nuisance when the condition complained of was created pursuant to express statutory authority. This defense is based on Civ. Code § 3482 which provides that nothing done or maintained under the express authority of a statute can be deemed a nuisance. The exculpatory effect of Civ. Code § 3482 has been circumscribed by decisions giving a narrow construction to the statute [see, e.g., Greater Westchester Homeowners Ass'n v. City of Los Angeles (1979) 26 Cal. 3d 86, 100-101, 160 Cal. Rptr. 733, 603 P.2d 1329] . For a more complete discussion of this defense, see § 391.30.

If more than one affirmative defense is set forth in the answer, each defense must be separately stated [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(g)] and numbered [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.112(1)]. If the complaint sets forth more than one one cause of action, the affirmative defense must refer to the cause of action it is intended to answer [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(g)].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART V. FORMS

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.101

§ 391.101 Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Business Operating in Permitted Zone [Code Civ. Proc. § 731a]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Business Operating in Permitted Zone [Code Civ. Proc. § 731a]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], DEFENDANT ALLEGES that defendant is a business operating in an area zoned for the type of business conducted by defendant and, pursuant to Section 731a of the Code of Civil Procedure, it may not be enjoined or restrained from reasonable and necessary operation in its present location.

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense is for insertion in an answer to a complaint seeking an injunction against an alleged nuisance created by a business or airport operating in an area zoned for such use. Except in an action to abate a public nuisance brought in the name of the people of the State of California, no such business may be enjoined from reasonable and necessary operation in such zone, nor may it be deemed a nuisance without evidence of the employment of unnecessary and injurious methods of operation [Code Civ. Proc. § 731a]. For a more complete discussion of this defense, see § 391.30[3].

[3] Cross References

See also § 391.100

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART V. FORMS

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.102

§ 391.102 Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--No Notice of Nuisance to Successive Owner

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--No Notice of Nuisance to Successive Owner

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], DEFENDANT ALLEGES he/she is the successive owner of the subject property and, prior to being served with the complaint in this action, had no notice or knowledge of the alleged nuisance.

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense is for insertion in an answer to a complaint based on nuisance when the defendant is a successive owner of the property and had no notice of the alleged nuisance. Although Civ. Code § 3483 provides for the liability of a successive owner for a nuisance created by a former owner, an exception has been judicially created when the successive owner had no actual notice or knowledge of the nuisance [see Pierce v. German Sav. & Loan Soc'y (1887) 72 Cal. 180, 183, 13 P. 478 ; Reinhard v. Lawrence Warehouse Co. (1940) 41 Cal. App. 2d 741, 746, 107 P.2d 501] . For a discussion of this defense, see § 391.21[2].

[3] Cross References

See also § 391.100

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART V. FORMS

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.103

§ 391.103 Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Statute of Limitations [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 335.1, 338(b), (c), 458]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Statute of Limitations [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 335.1, 338(b), (c), 458]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], DEFENDANT ALLEGES that the action is barred by the provisions of _____ [if action based on nuisance creating personal injury, allege Section 335.1 or, if action based on injury to real property, allege Section 338(b) or, if action based on injury to personal property, allege Section 338(c)] of the Code of Civil Procedure.

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense is for use in an answer to a complaint not filed within the applicable period of limitation. For a discussion of the application of statutes of limitations to nuisances, see § 391.31.

[3] Cross References

See also § 391.100

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART V. FORMS

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.104

§ 391.104 Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Preexisting Agricultural Use Not Nuisance [Civ. Code § 3482.5(a)]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Preexisting Agricultural Use Not Nuisance [Civ. Code § 3482.5(a)]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges:

[EITHER, if agricultural activity is for commercial purposes] that the agricultural _____ [activity or operation or facility] complained of

1. Was, at all material times, _____ [conducted or maintained] for commercial purposes, and in a manner consistent with proper and accepted customs and standards, as established and followed by similar agricultural operations in the same locality;

2. Began operation on or about _____ [date], more than three years ago; and, therefore,

3. Pursuant to Section 3482.5(a)(1) of the Civil Code, may not be or become a nuisance due to any changed condition in or about the locality.

[OR, if activity is of a district agricultural association]

that the activity complained of

1. Was, at all material times, activity of a district agricultural association that is operated in compliance with Section

3001 et seq. of the Food and Agricultural Code, that commenced operation on or about _____ [date], a period of more than three years prior to the commencement of this action;

2. Was not a nuisance at the time it began; and, therefore,

3. Pursuant to Section 3482.5(a)(2) of the Civil Code, may not be or become a nuisance due to any changed condition in or about the locality.

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense is for insertion in an answer to a complaint contending that the defendant's commercial agricultural activity, operation, or facility constitutes a nuisance. The first alternative of the defense is based on Civ. Code § 3482.5(a)(1), which excludes, under specified conditions, an agricultural activity, operation, or facility, or appurtenances thereof, conducted or maintained for commercial purposes from being or becoming a nuisance. The second alternative of the defense is based on Civ. Code § 3482.5(a)(2), which similarly excludes activity of a district agricultural association that is operated in compliance with Food & Agric. Code § 3001 et seq. For further discussion of this defense, see § 391.25[1].

[3] Cross References

See also § 391.100

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART V. FORMS

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.105

§ 391.105 Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Preexisting Agricultural Processing Use Not Nuisance [Civ. Code § 3482.6(a)]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Preexisting Agricultural Processing Use Not Nuisance [Civ. Code § 3482.6(a)]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST) SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges that the alleged nuisance complained of by plaintiff,

1. Was, at all material times, an agricultural processing _____ [activity or operation or facility or appurtenances thereof] because it was [describe activity, e.g., a facility for the canning of fruits and vegetables];

2. Was, at all material times, _____ [conducted or maintained] for commercial purposes, and in a manner consistent with compliance with all applicable state and federal statutes and regulations governing its operation with respect to the condition or effect alleged to be a nuisance;

3. Began operation on or about _____ [date], which is more than three years ago, was not a nuisance on that date, and has been in operation for more than 30 days per year since that date;

4. Has not substantially increased its operations or activities after January 1, 1993;

5. Is not a public or private nuisance as specifically defined or described in any provision of law other than Civ. Code § 3479 et seq.; and, therefore,

6. Pursuant to Section 3482.6(a) of the Civil Code, may not be or become a private or public nuisance due to any changed condition in or about the locality.

[2] Use of Form

These affirmative defense allegations are for insertion in an answer to a complaint contending that the defendant's commercial agricultural processing activity, operation, facility, or appurtenances thereof is a nuisance. These allegations are based on Civ. Code § 3482.6, which excludes a commercial agricultural processing activity, operation, facility, or appurtenances thereof from being or becoming a nuisance, if it has been in continuous operation for more than three years, was not a nuisance at the time it began operating, and has not substantially increased its operations after January 1, 1993 [Civ. Code § 3482.6(a), (b)]. This defense is not available for any litigation pending or any cause of action accruing before January 1, 1993 [Civ. Code § 3482.6(f)]. For further discussion of this defense, see § 391.25.

[3] Cross References

See also § 391.100

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART V. FORMS

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.106

§ 391.106 Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Obstruction of Light and Air Not Nuisance

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Obstruction of Light and Air Not Nuisance

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges that the alleged nuisance complained of by plaintiff consists of the mere obstruction of the view and the passage of light and air to plaintiff's property. Such a condition may not be considered a nuisance.

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense is for insertion in an answer to a complaint alleging that defendant's obstruction of light and/or air and/or view constitutes a nuisance. For further discussion of this defense, see § 391.25[4].

[3] Cross References

See also § 391.100

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART V. FORMS

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.107

§ 391.107 Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Doctrine of Balancing of Conveniences

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Doctrine of Balancing of Conveniences

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges:

1. In creating the condition alleged by plaintiff to be a nuisance, defendant acted innocently and in good faith in that _____ [specify facts demonstrating good faith, e.g., defendant relied on a surveyor licensed by the State of California and on maps and boundary descriptions that showed the property on which the building is located to belong to defendant. At no time until after the completion of the building was defendant informed that the subject land belonged to plaintiff].

2. In seeking an injunction for abatement of the alleged nuisance, plaintiff is seeking to protect a technical and unsubstantial right. The alleged nuisance does no irreparable injury to plaintiff, but, in fact, creates damages of a de minimis nature which can be fully compensated by damages. The alleged nuisance does not adversely affect any existing use of plaintiff's land in that _____ [specify facts demonstrating de minimus injury to plaintiff, e.g., defendant's building is built on two inches of plaintiff's land, 15 feet away from the closest edge of plaintiff's driveway and 25 feet away from the closest edge of plaintiff's house].

3. The issuance of an injunction ordering the abatement of the alleged nuisance would impose a hardship on defendant greatly disproportionate to that imposed on plaintiff by the continuance of the alleged nuisance in that _____ [specify facts demonstrating relative hardship, e.g., the cost of moving defendant's house would be at least $ _____, whereas the damage to plaintiff caused by allowing defendant's house to remain where it was built is de minimus].

[4. After defendant's creation of the alleged nuisance, plaintiff delayed more than _____ (specify number, e.g., eight) years before notifying defendant of the alleged nuisance and seeking legal relief.]

[5. The issuance of an injunction ordering the abatement of the alleged nuisance would be contrary to the interest of third persons and the general public in that _____ (specify facts demonstrating interests of third persons and general public, e.g., defendant's building is used as a "half-way house" for recovering drug addicts and an injunction ordering abatement of the alleged nuisance would force the closure of this needed facility).]

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense is for insertion in an answer to a complaint seeking an injunction ordering the abatement of an alleged nuisance. Once plaintiff has proved that defendant is a wrongdoer, the doctrine of balancing of conveniences may be invoked to convince the court not to issue an injunction based on a weighing of the relative conveniences and hardships of the parties. For a discussion of the guidelines followed by courts when this doctrine is invoked, see § 391.20.

[3] Allegations

This form alleges the following:

- The defendant acted innocently and in good faith in creating the alleged nuisance (Paragraph 1) [see Dolske v. Gormley (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 513, 520-521, 25 Cal. Rptr. 270, 375 P.2d 174] ;

- Damages to plaintiff are de minimis, and, in fact, plaintiff is seeking to protect a technical and unsubstantial right (Paragraph 2) [see Fairrington v. Dyke Water Co. (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 198, 200, 323 P.2d 1001 ; Christensen v. Tucker (1952) 114 Cal. App. 2d 554, 559-564, 250 P.2d 660] ;

- Disproportionate hardship would result from issuance of an injunction (Paragraph 3) [see Dolske v. Gormley (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 513, 521, 25 Cal. Rptr. 270, 375 P.2d 174] ;

- If applicable, delay by plaintiff in notifying defendant and seeking relief (Paragraph 4) [see Dolske v. Gormley (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 513, 521, 25 Cal. Rptr. 270, 375 P.2d 174] ; and

- If applicable, interests of third persons and the general public favor denial of the injunction (Paragraph 5) [see Loma Portal Civic Club v. American Airlines, Inc. (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 582, 588, 39 Cal. Rptr. 708, 394 P.2d 548 ; see also Restatement of Torts §§ 933, 942].

[4] Cross References

See also § 391.100

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 391 NUISANCE
PART V. FORMS

34-391 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 391.108

§ 391.108 Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)] to Owner's Action for Damages for Creation of Nuisance by Lessee--Lawful Use Was Consented to by Owner

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)] to Owner's Action for Damages for Creation of Nuisance by Lessee--Lawful Use Was Consented to by Owner

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], DEFENDANT ALLEGES that use of the property by defendant, as [prior] lessee of _____ [plaintiff or plaintiff's predecessor], was at all times lawful and authorized by the lease.

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense is for insertion in an answer to a complaint for damages alleging that a lessee or a prior lessee of the plaintiff's land created a nuisance. For further discussion of this defense, see § 391.30[8].

[3] Cross References

See also § 391.100

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 392 OATH AND AFFIRMATION

34-392 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 392.syn

§ 392.syn Synopsis to Chapter 392: OATH AND AFFIRMATION

§ 392.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 392.02 Cross References

§§ 392.03through 392.09 [Reserved]

§ 392.10 Governing Law

§ 392.11 Definitions

[1] Oath

[2] Affidavits and Declarations Under Penalty of Perjury Contrasted

§ 392.12 Power to Administer Oaths

§ 392.13 When Oath Is Required

§ 392.14 Witness's Capacity to Take Oath Required

§ 392.15 Form of Administering Oath to Witness

§ 392.16 Form of Taking Oath by Witness

§ 392.17 Affirmation

[1] By Witness

[2] Written Affirmation by Nonwitness

§ 392.18 Objections to Witness's Oath or Failure to Take Oath

§ 392.19 Perjury

§§ 392.20through 392.39 [Reserved]

§ 392.40 State Constitution

§ 392.41 State Statutes

[1] Afirmation

[2] Authority to Administer Oath

[3] Oaths and Affirmations Generally

[4] Oath as Including Affirmation

[5] Oath Required to be Taken

[6] Perjury

§ 392.42 Decisions

[1] Power to Administer Oaths

[2] Form of Oath

[3] Capacity to Take Oath

[4] Validity of Oath

[5] Objections to Adequacy of Oath

[6] When Oath Required

[7] Perjury

§ 392.43 Text References

§§ 392.44through 392.59 [Reserved]

§ 392.60 Oath of Witness in Action or Proceeding--Statutory Form [Code Civ. Proc. § 2094(a)(1)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 392.61 Affirmation of Witness in Action or Proceeding--Statutory Form [Code Civ. Proc. § 2094(a)(2)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 392.62 Unsworn Written Affirmation in Lieu of Oath Required of Person Appointed to Discharge Duties in Particular Action, Proceeding, or Matter [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.6]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 392 OATH AND AFFIRMATION
PART I. SCOPE

34-392 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 392.01

§ 392.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses the administration and taking of oaths and affirmations generally, requirements as to the form of oaths and affirmations, and the capacity of a witness to testify under oath.

It includes a form of oath [see § 392.60] and a form of affirmation for use by a witness in an action or proceeding [see § 392.61], and a general form of unsworn written affirmation in lieu of a required oath for use by a person appointed to discharge specific duties [see § 392.62].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 392 OATH AND AFFIRMATION
PART I. SCOPE

34-392 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 392.02

§ 392.02 Cross References

- For forms of affidavits and declarations under penalty of perjury in general, see Ch. 15, Affidavits, Certificates, and Declarations

- For forms of letters of guardians and conservators containing written affirmations, see Ch. 280, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Appointment of Guardians , and Ch.281, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Appointment of Conservators

- For forms of letters of executors and administrators containing written affirmations, see Ch. 442, Probate: Initiating Probate Administration ,

- For a form of oath of a receiver, see Ch. 486, Receivers

- For a discussion of taking the testimony of a witness, see Ch. 551, Trial

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 392 OATH AND AFFIRMATION
PART I. SCOPE

34-392 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 392.03through 392.09

[Reserved]

§§ 392.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 392 OATH AND AFFIRMATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-392 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 392.10

§ 392.10 Governing Law

Oaths and affirmations of witnesses are governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2093, 2094 and Evid. Code § 710.

Written affirmations for persons performing specific duties are governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.6.

Oaths required for persons holding particular offices or performing specific duties are governed by Cal. Const., art. XX, § 3 and by the statutes pertaining to those offices or duties [see § 392.41[5], below].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 392 OATH AND AFFIRMATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-392 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 392.11

§ 392.11 Definitions

[1] Oath

Although there is no statutory definition of "oath," the use of that term in other statutory language indicates that an oath is a solemn declaration making a promise or swearing as to the truth of testimony given [see, e.g., Evid. Code § 751; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 2094].

Generally, the term "oath" includes the terms "affirmation" and "declaration" [Civ. Code § 14; Code Civ. Proc. § 17]. Use of the term "oath" in specific statutes also often includes the term "affirmation" [see, e.g., Corp. Code § 16; Elec. Code § 335; Health & Safety Code § 17].

The difference between an oath and an affirmation is one of form, based originally on religious beliefs including those concerning the propriety of making an oath invoking the name of a deity. In common usage, a witness taking an oath swears by God or some deity that he or she is telling the truth, whereas a witness making an affirmation affirms, without swearing to any deity, that he or she is telling the truth [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2094].

[2] Affidavits and Declarations Under Penalty of Perjury Contrasted

Affidavits or declarations under penalty of perjury, unlike oaths or affirmations by witnesses, officers, or others giving oral promises, are writings, and verify the truth of written, rather than oral, statements. An affidavit is a written declaration under oath, made without notice to the adverse party [Code Civ. Proc. § 2003]. A declaration under penalty of perjury is a written statement declaring under penalty of perjury, rather than swearing by oath, that a written statement is true [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5].

For discussion and forms relating to affidavits and declarations under penalty of perjury, see Ch. 15, Affidavits, Certificates, and Declarations .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 392 OATH AND AFFIRMATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-392 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 392.12

§ 392.12 Power to Administer Oaths

Every court, every judge, or retired judge, or clerk of any court, every justice or retired justice, and every notary public, and every officer or person authorized to take testimony in any action or proceeding or to decide on evidence, is authorized to administer oaths or affirmations [Code Civ. Proc. § 2093; see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 128(a)(7), 177(4), 179; Gov. Code §§ 1225, 8205(a)(3)].

Shorthand reporters certified under Bus. & Prof. Code § 8020 et seq. may also administer oaths [Code Civ. Proc. § 2093].

Members of the Legislature, executive officers, county officers and their deputies, former judges other than those retired for disability or against whom a formal disciplinary proceeding was pending at the time of retirement or resignation, and mayors also have the general power to administer oaths and affirmations [Gov. Code §§ 1225, 24057, 40603].

In addition, particular persons are often authorized by statute to administer oaths in connection with their particular functions or duties [see, e.g., Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 6049(a), 6052 (state bar board of governors and committee members); Gov. Code § 11528 (officers of state agencies); Ins. Code § 734 (state insurance commissioner)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 392 OATH AND AFFIRMATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-392 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 392.13

§ 392.13 When Oath Is Required

Prior to testifying in any action or proceeding, a witness is required to take an oath or make an affirmation or declaration, except that a child under the age of 10 or a dependent person with a substantial cognitive impairment may, in the court's discretion, be required only to promise to tell the truth [Evid. Code § 710; for further discussion, see § 392.14].

Receivers, jurors, interpretors for witnesses, and executors and adminstrators of estates, among others, must take oaths swearing that they will perform their duties as requried [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 232(b), 567; Evid. Code § 751; Prob. Code § 8403].

Persons holding specific public offices are also required to take oaths swearing to perform their duties according to specified standards [see, e.g., Gov. Code §§ 1360, 18151, 18153, 24102].

In addition, oaths may be required by statute for special proceedings. For example, jurors at coroners' inquests and workers' compensation judges in workers' compensation proceedings are required to take oaths [Code Civ. Proc. § 236; Lab. Code § 5312].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 392 OATH AND AFFIRMATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-392 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 392.14

§ 392.14 Witness's Capacity to Take Oath Required

A witness is required to take an oath prior to giving his or her testimony, except that a child under the age of 10 may, in the court's discretion, be required only to promise to tell the truth [Evid. Code § 710].

There are no statutes specifically providing who has the capacity to take an oath for the purposes of testifying in an action or proceeding. Nevertheless, a person will be disqualified as a witness if he or she is incapable of understanding his or her duty to tell the truth [Evid. Code § 701(a)(2)]. A witness must have an understanding, prior to taking the oath, of the nature and obligation of the oath [People v. Watrous (1935) 7 Cal. App. 2d 7, 10, 45 P.2d 380 (overruled on other grounds in People v. Burton (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 328, 352, 11 Cal. Rptr. 65, 359 P.2d 433 ; decided prior to the enactment of Evid. Code § 701)]. No particular religious belief or conviction is necessary, however, to having the capacity to take an oath [see People v. Burton (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 328, 341-342, 11 Cal. Rptr. 65, 359 P.2d 433 , quoting from People v. Lamb (1953) 121 Cal. App. 2d 838, 845, 264 P.2d 126] .

Extreme youth is not per se sufficient to disqualify a witness [People v. Watrous (1935) 7 Cal. App. 2d 7, 10, 45 P.2d 380 (overruled on other grounds in People v. Burton (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 328, 352, 11 Cal. Rptr. 65, 359 P.2d 433); see Evid. Code § 700 (every person irrespective of age is qualified to be witness)]. A child under the age of ten may possess sufficient understanding of the nature of an oath and sufficient moral sensibility to have the capacity to take an oath as a competent witness [see People v. Burton (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 328, 341, 11 Cal. Rptr. 65, 359 P.2d 433 ; People v. Lamb (1953) 121 Cal. App. 2d 838, 845, 264 P.2d 126] . A child need not have a detailed knowledge of the nature of the oath, as long as he or she realizes that some evil will follow if he or she does not tell the truth [People v. Burton (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 328, 341-342, 11 Cal. Rptr. 65, 359 P.2d 433 ; People v. Lamb (1953) 121 Cal. App. 2d 838, 845, 264 P.2d 126] . Whether or not a child is competent to be a witness and therefore to take an oath is within the discretion of the trial judge [People v. Trolinder (1953) 121 Cal. App. 2d 819, 823, 264 P.2d 601 ; People v. O'Connor (1941) 44 Cal. App. 2d 301, 304, 112 P.2d 279] . However, the oath may not be dispensed with in the case of a child witness, even if in camera testimony is otherwise authorized [In re Heather H. (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 91, 95-96, 246 Cal. Rptr. 38] .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 392 OATH AND AFFIRMATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-392 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 392.15

§ 392.15 Form of Administering Oath to Witness

Code Civ. Proc. § 2094 provides that an oath, affirmation, or declaration in an action or a proceeding may be administered by obtaining an affirmative response to one of the of the following:

- "You do solemnly state that the evidence you shall give in this issue (or matter) shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, so help you God" [Code Civ. Proc. § 2094(a)(1)].

- "You do solemnly state, under penalty of perjury, that the evidence that you shall give in this issue or matter shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth." [Code Civ. Proc. § 2094(a)(2)].

As an alternative to the two forms prescribed in Code Civ. Proc. § 2094(a), the court may administer an oath, affirmation, or declaration in an actionor proceeding in a manner that is calculated to awaken the person's conscience and impress the person's mind with the duty to tell the truth. The court must satisfy itself that the person testifying understands that his or her testimony is being given under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2094(b)].

It is appropriate for the court to give a modified version of the statutory forms of oath or affirmation set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 2094(a), when it is satisfied that a particular witness would accept a different form as being more solemn or obligatory. Nevertheless, a court does not abuse its discretion by administering one of the statutory forms of oath or affirmation unless it can be shown that the court was informed that the witness regarded some other form of oath as being more obligatory or that the witness did not consider the usual form to be at all obligatory [see People v. Green (1893) 99 Cal 564, 569-570, 34 P. 231 (decided under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2094)].

The purpose of requiring a witness to give an oath is to prevent perjury, and the form of oath given is less important than its effectiveness in preventing perjury [see Clifton v. Superior Court (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 245, 254, 86 Cal. Rptr. 612] .

The administration of an oath without the words "oath," "swear," "depose," or "so help you God" is merely an irregularlity of form; it does not render the oath invalid [see People v. Brown (1954) 125 Cal. App. 2d 83, 88, 269 P.2d 918 ; People v. Parent (1903) 139 Cal. 600, 601, 73 P. 423] . Nevertheless, the witness must at least be asked to swear or affirm that he or she will tell the truth [People v. Portlock (1931) 118 Cal. App. 566, 567-568, 5 P.2d 920] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 392 OATH AND AFFIRMATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-392 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 392.16

§ 392.16 Form of Taking Oath by Witness

A witness must express his or her "affirmative response" to the one of the statutory forms of oath or affirmation when it is administered [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2094(a); see also discussion in § 392.15]. Although it is better practice for a witness to give his or her affirmative response audibly, he or she is not required to do so, and in certain circumstances a deliberate nod may be equally expressive of assent [People v. Thomas (1967) 65 Cal. 2d 698, 708, 56 Cal. Rptr. 305, 423 P.2d 233 , cert. denied, 389 U.S. 868 (decided under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2094); People v. O'Connor (1941) 44 Cal. App. 2d 301, 304-305, 112 P.2d 279 (decided under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2094)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 392 OATH AND AFFIRMATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-392 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 392.17

§ 392.17 Affirmation

[1] By Witness

As defined by common usage, an oath involves a person's formal invocation of an accepted deity to witness that person's sincere intention to do what he or she says. An affirmation, by contrast, is solemn declaration of the same intent by a person who conscientiously objects to the taking of an oath [see also § 392.11[1]]. Given these definitions, a witness may make an affirmation or declaration, in lieu of an oath, by giving an affirmative response to the statutory form of affirmation set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 2094(a)(2). This form of affirmation, as distinguished from the form of oath set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 2094(a)(1), does not invoke God but calls for a witness to tell the truth under penalty of perjury [see also discussion in § 392.15].

[2] Written Affirmation by Nonwitness

Whenever an oath is required to be taken by a person appointed to discharge specific duties, such as an executor, administrator, guardian, conservator, appraiser, receiver, or elisor, an unsworn written affirmation may be made in lieu of taking the oath [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.6].

The written affirmation must commence "I solemnly affirm," must state the substance of the other matter required by the oath and the date and place of execution, and must be subscribed by the person making the affirmation [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.6].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 392 OATH AND AFFIRMATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-392 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 392.18

§ 392.18 Objections to Witness's Oath or Failure to Take Oath

Generally, any objections to the form or manner of an oath taken by a witness are waived if not made at the time the witness testifies, or at least during trial or before the verdict, while the defect is capable of being remedied [People v. Haeberlin (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 711, 716, 77 Cal. Rptr. 553 ; Estate of Wilson (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 523, 526, 253 P.2d 1011 ; Estate of Da Roza (1947) 82 Cal. App. 2d 550, 555-556, 186 P.2d 725] . Such objections are therefore improperly made for the first time on appeal or on a motion for new trial [Trigueiro v. Skow (1937) 24 Cal. App. 2d 253, 256, 74 P.2d 836 ; see also People v. Lamb (1953) 121 Cal. App. 2d 838, 847, 264 P.2d 126] .

If a witness testifies without taking an oath and no objection is made at the time because that fact was not discovered until after the verdict, the verdict may be set aside. If the fact that no oath was administered is known at the time, however, objection is waived if not made prior to the verdict [Trigueiro v. Skow (1937) 24 Cal. App. 2d 253, 256, 74 P.2d 836] .

When an objection is made to the form or manner of an oath or the failure to take an oath, every presumption will be made in favor of the regularity of the proceedings in trial court [People v. O'Connor (1941) 112 P.2d 279] . For example, the mode that a witness adopts in taking an oath will be presumed to be the one that accords with his or her belief, as long as no objection is made at the time the oath is taken [see People v. Parent (1903) 139 Cal. 600, 601-602, 73 P. 423] . Similarly, even when the record shows no affirmative answer on the partof a witness at the time the oath was administered, it will not be assumed that the court permitted the witness to testify without his or her assent to the oath, whether by nodding or otherwise [People v. O'Connor (1941) 44 Cal. App. 2d 301, 304-305, 112 P.2d 279] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 392 OATH AND AFFIRMATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-392 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 392.19

§ 392.19 Perjury

Every person who, having taken an oath that he or she will testify, declare, depose, or certify truly before any competent tribunal, officer, or person, in any of the cases in which such an oath may by California law be administered, willfully and contrary to that oath states as true any material matter which he or she knows to be false, is guilty of perjury [Penal Code § 118(a)].

It is no defense to a prosecution for perjury that the oath was administered or taken in an irregular manner, or that the person accused of perjury did not go before, or was not in the presence of, the officer purporting to administer the oath, if the accused caused or procured the officer to certify that the oath had been taken or administered [Penal Code § 121].

A person will not be convicted of perjury when proof of falsity rests solely on contradiction by testimony of a single person other than the alleged perjurer. Proof of falsity may be established, however, by direct or indirect evidence [Penal Code § 118(b)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 392 OATH AND AFFIRMATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-392 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 392.20through 392.39

[Reserved]

§§ 392.20[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 392 OATH AND AFFIRMATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-392 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 392.40

§ 392.40 State Constitution

Public utilities commission authorized to administer oaths. Cal. Const., art. XII, § 6

Oath of office of state officers and employees. Cal. Const., art. XX, § 3

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 392 OATH AND AFFIRMATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-392 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 392.41

§ 392.41 State Statutes

[1] Afirmation

Unsworn written affirmation in lieu of oath. Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.6

Affirmation of witnesses. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2094

[2] Authority to Administer Oath

Secretary of Board of Examiners of Veterinary Medicine. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4805

State Bar Board of Governors and committees. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 6049(a), 6052

Contractors' State License Board. Bus. & Prof. Code § 7009

Licensed land surveyor. Bus. & Prof. Code § 8760

Member of State Athletic Commission. Bus. & Prof. Code § 18845(a)

Officers of armed forces. Civ. Code §§ 1183.5, 1201

Courts, judges, justices, and certain former judges. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 128(a)(7), 177(4), 179, 2093; Gov. Code § 1225

Court clerk. Code Civ. Proc. § 2093

Officer or person authorized to take testimony or decide on evidence in any action or proceeding. Code Civ. Proc. § 2093

Notary public. Code Civ. Proc. § 2093; Gov. Code § 8205

Department of Education officers. Educ. Code § 60

Member of Legislature. Gov. Code § 1225

Certain officers of state agencies in proceedings authorized by those agencies. Gov. Code § 11528

State comptroller may designate person to administer oath. Gov. Code § 12403

Representative of state personnel board. Gov. Code § 18671

County officers. Gov. Code § 24057

Mayor. Gov. Code § 40603

President of Board of Pilot Commissioners. Harb. & Nav. Code § 1155

State Insurance Commissioner. Ins. Code § 734

Naval guard and naval militia officers. Mil. & Vet. Code § 16

State Water Rights Board member. Water Code § 1080

Reclamation Board officer or member. Water Code § 8585

Witness is disqualified if incapable of understanding duty to tell truth. Evid. Code § 701(a)(2)

[3] Oaths and Affirmations Generally

Form of administering oath generally. Code Civ. Proc. § 2094(a)

Discretion of court to modify general form of administering oath. Code Civ. Proc. § 2094(b)

Shorthand reporters certified under Bus. & Prof. Code § 8020 et seq. Code Civ. Proc. § 2093

Secretary of Senate and Chief Clerk of Assembly. Gov. Code § 9191.5

Public Utilities Commission and designated employees. Pub. Util. Code § 311

[4] Oath as Including Affirmation

Oath includes affirmation. Bus. & Prof. Code § 20; Civ. Code § 14; Code Civ. Proc. § 17; Corp. Code § 16; Educ. Code § 76; Elec. Code § 335; Fish & Game Code § 60; Fin. Code § 16; Harb. & Nav. Code § 17; Health & Safety Code § 17; Ins. Code § 17; Lab. Code § 16; Mil. & Vet. Code § 15; Penal Code § 7; Pub. Res. Code § 16; Pub. Util. Code § 15; Rev. & Tax Code § 17; Sts. & Hy. Code § 17; Unemp. Ins. Code § 16; Veh. Code § 16; Water Code § 16; Welf. & Inst. Code § 16

[5] Oath Required to be Taken

Attorney on admission to bar. Bus. & Prof. Code § 6067

Receiver before commencing duties. Code Civ. Proc. § 567

Juror and alternate juror. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 232(b), 234

Party filing cost memorandum in civil action. Cal Rules of Ct., Rule 3.177(a)(1)

Member of county central committee. Elec. Code §§ 7210, 7408

Witness in court proceeding. Evid. Code § 710

Interpreter at trial. Evid. Code § 751

Failure to take oath by public officer is misdemeanor. Gov. Code § 1303

Public officer appointed, nominated, or commissioned by governor. Gov. Code § 1360

Public disaster service employees. Gov. Code § 3102

Person appointed to state position other than civil service. Gov. Code § 18151

Civil service employee on appointment. Gov. Code § 18153

County deputy. Gov. Code § 24102(c)

Juror at coroner's inquest. Code Civ. Proc. § 236

City officer. Gov. Code § 36507

Court reporter. Gov. Code § 69946

Member of Harbor Commission. Harb. & Nav. Code §§ 4042, 6055

Port Commissioner. Health & Safety Code §§ 6243, 6833

Workers' compensation judge in compensation proceedings. Lab. Code § 5312

Member of grand jury. Penal Code § 911

Officer taking charge of jurors. Penal Code §§ 1121, 1128

Officer on return of property taken under warrant. Penal Code § 1537

Personal representative. Prob. Code §§ 8403, 8852

Special administrator. Prob. Code § 8542

Person on appointment as guardian. Prob. Code § 2300

Member of county board of public welfare. Welf. & Inst. Code § 18103

[6] Perjury

Definition of perjury. Penal Code § 118

Irregularity in oath is no defense to perjury. Penal Code § 121

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 392 OATH AND AFFIRMATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-392 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 392.42

§ 392.42 Decisions

[1] Power to Administer Oaths

When statute authorized court to administer particular oath, oath administered by clerk in open court and under court's direction constitutes oath administered by court. Oaks v. Rodgers (1874) 48 Cal. 197, 200-201 (interpretation of Stats. 1862, ch. CXXI)

Officer administering oath is proper person to certify oath. Dunn v. Ketchum (1869) 38 Cal. 93, 99

When statute requires affidavit to be made or oath to be administered and certified, but does not designate particular officer before whom act may be performed, act may be done before any officer having general authority under state law to administer and certify oaths. Dunn v. Ketchum (1869) 38 Cal. 93, 99

Deputy county clerk has authority to administer oaths, pursuant to Gov. Code § 24057. People v. Brown (1954) 125 Cal. App. 2d 83, 88, 269 P.2d 918

Deputy county clerk is ex officio clerk of superior court and, as such, has power to administer oaths to witnesses under Code Civ. Proc. § 2093. People v. Collins (1907) 6 Cal. App. 492, 501, 92 P. 513 ; see also Tate v. Superior Court (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 925, 929, 119 Cal. Rptr. 835

[2] Form of Oath

Although it is better practice for witness to voice his or her reply when oath is read, Code Civ. Proc. § 2094 requires only that witness express assent, and in certain circumstances deliberate nod may be equally expressive of assent. People v. Thomas (1967) 65 Cal. 2d 698, 708, 56 Cal. Rptr. 305, 423 P.2d 233 , cert. denied, 389 U.S. 868

Omission of words "so help me God" is irregularity in form, not substance, of oath, and is no defense to prosecution for perjury. People v. Parent (1903) 139 Cal. 600, 601, 73 P. 423

Usual form of oath is discretionary with court. People v. Green (1893) 99 Cal. 564, 569-570, 34 P. 231

Court did not abuse discretion in administering usual form of oath to witness when it was not at least informed that witness regarded some other form as more obligatory, or that he or she did not consider the usual form as at all obligatory. People v. Green (1893) 99 Cal. 564, 570, 34 P. 231

Legislature has having power to prescribe form of oaths for state officers. Cohen v. Wright (1863) 22 Cal. 293, 310

Former Code Civ. Proc. § 2096 excused nondeist from affirming belief in God as prerequisite to serving on grand jury, even though Penal Code § 911 prescribes oath for grand jury members that contains words "so help me God." People v. Cohen (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 298, 306, 90 Cal. Rptr. 612

Administration or taking of oath without words "oath," "swear," or "depose" is no defense to prosecution for perjury. People v. Brown (1954) 125 Cal. App. 2d 83, 88, 269 P.2d 918

No authority exists to require that assent to taking oath be audibly given. People v. O'Connor (1941) 44 Cal. App. 2d 301, 305, 112 P.2d 279

Administering oath substantially same as that prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 2094 before voir dire is not prejudicial error, although different form of oath might normally be given. People v. O'Connor (1941) 44 Cal. App. 2d 301, 304, 112 P.2d 279

Form of oath was insufficient when child witness was asked if she would tell truth and would call on God to witness that she told truth but she was not asked to swear or affirm that she would tell truth. People v. Portlock (1931) 118 Cal. App. 566, 567-568, 5 P.2d 920

[3] Capacity to Take Oath

Child under age of ten possessing sufficient intelligence, understanding, and ability to receive and fairly accurately recount his or her impressions, and having sufficient understanding of nature of oath and moral sensibility to realize that he or she should tell truth and is likely to be punished for falsehood, is competent to testify as witness. People v. Burton (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 328, 341, 11 Cal. Rptr. 65, 359 P.2d 433 (decided under Code Civ. Proc. § 1880, now repealed)

No religious belief or conviction is necessary to have capacity to take oath, and child is not required to have detailed knowledge of nature of oath, as long as child understands evil will follow if he or she does not tell truth. People v. Burton (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 328, 341-342, 11 Cal. Rptr. 65

Question of whether or not child is competent to be witness is within discretion of trial judge; his or her conclusion regarding qualification is final on appeal unless there is affirmative showing of abuse of discretion. People v. Trolinder (1953) 121 Cal. App. 2d 819, 823, 264 P.2d 601

Question of competency of child witness regarding whether or not child appreciates meaning of oath is matter of discretion of trial court; determination as undisturbed on appeal. People v. O'Connor (1941) 44 Cal. App. 2d 301, 304, 112 P.2d 279

Statutory requirement that witness be sworn before testifying implies requirement that witness have some understanding, before oath is administered, of nature and obligation thereof. People v. Watrous (1935) 45 P.2d 380

(overruled on other grounds in People v. Burton (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 328, 352, 11 Cal. Rptr. 65, 359 P.2d 433); People v. Lamb (1953) 121 Cal. App. 2d 838, 844, 264 P.2d 126 (cases decided prior to enactment of former Evid. Code § 701(b), now Evid. Code § 701(a)(2), requiring witness to understand duty to tell truth)

[4] Validity of Oath

Purpose of requiring oath is to prevent perjury, and declaration by person before magistrate that statements were true constituted oath for purposes of perjury even if person was not formally sworn. Clifton v. Superior Court (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 245, 254, 86 Cal. Rptr. 612

Hearing considered one continuous session so that when witness who has been sworn is recalled to stand, reminding witness that he or she has already been sworn is sufficient, and reswearing witness is unnecessary. People v. Haeberlin (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 711, 716, 77 Cal. Rptr. 553

California Legislature has indicated liberal policy in determining whether or not compliance with formalities in taking oath has been had; manifested intent with which act such as taking oath is done weighs more heavily than strict observance of act's ceremonial aspects. People v. Walker (1967) 247 Cal. App. 2d 554, 562, 55 Cal. Rptr. 726 , cert. denied, 389 U.S. 824

Oath given by witness before grand jury on date of witness's first appearance is binding on witness for duration of proceeding; swearing in witness on succeeding days is unnecessary. People v. Sagehorn (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 138, 154

When officer with authority to administer oaths certified that oath had been taken, evidence is sufficient to support conclusion that oath was administered. People v. Brown (1954) 125 Cal. App. 2d 83, 88, 269 P.2d 918

Every presumption is in favor of regularity of proceedings in trial court, and although record shows no affirmative answer on part of witness when taking oath, it cannot be assumed that court permitted witness to testify without his or her assent to oath, whether by nodding or otherwise. People v. O'Connor (1941) 44 Cal. App. 2d 301, 304-305, 112 P.2d 279

[5] Objections to Adequacy of Oath

When witness had difficulty with her speech and nodded rather than giving audible response to oath administered by court clerk, any inadequacy of oath-taking was waived by failure to object and by taking witness on cross examination. People v. Thomas (1967) 65 Cal. 2d 698, 708, 56 Cal. Rptr. 305, 423 P.2d 233 , cert. denied, 389 U.S. 868

Mode that witness adopts in taking oath is presumed to be one that accords with his or her belief and if at time of taking oath witness makes no objection to form of administration, takes oath, and testifies, witness is not allowed later to escape penalty of perjury by claiming oath was improperly administered. People v. Parent (1903) 139 Cal. 600, 601-602, 73 P. 423

Objection to defect of not being sworn or defect in manner of administering oath is similar to objection to defect in form of question asked during proceeding, in that such objection must have been raised at time whendefect could have been easily cured. People v. Haeberlin (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 711, 716, 77 Cal. Rptr. 553

Objection that evidence is not admissible because witness has not been sworn is waived if not made when evidence is offered or at least while defect is capable of being remedied. Estate of Wilson (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 523, 526, 253 P.2d 1011

Failure to challenge or object to child's qualifications to testify constitutes implied waiver which precludes raising of point on appeal. People v. Lamb (1953) 121 Cal. App. 2d 838, 847, 264 P.2d 126

Objection that witness has not been properly sworn is improper grounds for new trial, since such objection must be made during trial, before verdict, or at some time while defect is capable of being remedied. Estate of Da Roza (1947) 82 Cal. App. 2d 550, 556, 186 P.2d 725

In administrative proceeding, permitting person to testify without being sworn is not jurisdictional matter but at most judicial error, which cannot be taken advantage of except by timely objection. Tennant v. Civil Service Com. (1946) 77 Cal. App. 2d 489, 498, 175 P.2d 568

When witness testifies without having been sworn, verdict is set aside if error is not discovered until after verdict, but if fact of error is known at time of testimony, failure to object to testimony when given precludes objection after verdict. Trigueiro v. Skow (1937) 24 Cal. App. 2d 253, 256, 74 P.2d 836

[6] When Oath Required

In child custody proceedings, report by probation officer must be presented in affidavit form or otherwise under oath. Fewel v. Fewel (1943) 23 Cal. 2d 431, 436, 144 P.2d 592 ; Dahl v. Dahl (1965) 237 Cal. App. 2d 407, 414, 46 Cal. Rptr. 881

[7] Perjury

False statement made under oath administered by notary is basis for charge of perjury. People v. Walker (1967) 247 Cal. App. 2d 554, 559, 55 Cal. Rptr. 726 , cert. denied, 389 U.S. 824

Conviction of perjury under Penal Code § 118 requires proof that defendant (1) took oath that he or she would testify, declare, depose, or certify truly before (2) competent tribunal or person, (3) that oath was taken in case in which oath may be lawfully administered, and (4) that he or she willfully and contrary to oath stated as true some material fact which he or she knew was false. People v. Walker (1967) 247 Cal. App. 2d 554, 559, 55 Cal. Rptr. 726 , cert. denied, 389 U.S. 824 (decided prior to 1980 and 1989 amendments to Penal Code § 118)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 392 OATH AND AFFIRMATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-392 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 392.43

§ 392.43 Text References

Witkin, California Procedure, Vol. 7, Trial, § 158 (4th ed. 1997)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, Vol. 14, Wills and Probate, §§ 446-450 (10th ed. 2005)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 392 OATH AND AFFIRMATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-392 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 392.44through 392.59

[Reserved]

§§ 392.44[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 392 OATH AND AFFIRMATION
PART IV. FORMS

34-392 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 392.60

§ 392.60 Oath of Witness in Action or Proceeding--Statutory Form [Code Civ. Proc. § 2094(a)(1)]

[1] FORM Oath of Witness in Action or Proceeding--Statutory Form [Code Civ. Proc. § 2094(a)(1)]

You do solemnly state that the evidence you shall give in this _____ [issue or matter]shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, so help you God.

[The person testifying takes the oath by expressing his or her assent, audibly if possible, by saying "I do," "Yes," or an equivalent to the foregoing statement.]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is the form of oath normally administered [People v. Green (1893) 99 Cal. 564, 569-570, 34 P. 231 (form of oath discretionary with court)] to a witness in an action or proceeding, by a judge, retired judge, clerk, or other person authorized to take testimony [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2093, 2094 see also Evid. Code § 710].

For discussion regarding the court's discretionary power to administer an alternative form of oath or affirmation, see §§ 392.15, 392.17[1].

Although it is better practice for the witness to voice his or her reply when oath is read, Code Civ. Proc. § 2094 requires only that the witness express an affirmative response, and in certain circumstances, a deliberate nod may be equally expressive of assent [People v. Thomas (1967) 65 Cal. 2d 698, 708, 56 Cal. Rptr. 305, 423 P.2d 233 , cert. denied, 389 U.S. 868 ; see discussion in § 392.16].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 392 OATH AND AFFIRMATION
PART IV. FORMS

34-392 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 392.61

§ 392.61 Affirmation of Witness in Action or Proceeding--Statutory Form [Code Civ. Proc. § 2094(a)(2)]

[1] FORM Affirmation of Witness in Action or Proceeding--Statutory Form [Code Civ. Proc. § 2094(a)(2)]

You do solemnly state, under penalty of perjury, that the evidence that you shall give in this issue or matter shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

[The person testifying makes the affirmation by expressing his or her assent, audibly if possible, by saying "I do," "Yes," or an equivalent to the foregoing statement.]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is the usual form of affirmation, also termed a declaration, made by a witness in an action or proceeding who chooses to affirm, rather than swear, that he or she will tell the truth [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2094 and discussion in §§ 392.15, 392.17[1]].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 392 OATH AND AFFIRMATION
PART IV. FORMS

34-392 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 392.62

§ 392.62 Unsworn Written Affirmation in Lieu of Oath Required of Person Appointed to Discharge Duties in Particular Action, Proceeding, or Matter [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.6]

[1] FORM Unsworn Written Affirmation in Lieu of Oath Required of Person Appointed to Discharge Duties in Particular Action, Proceeding, or Matter [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.6]

AFFIRMATION

I solemnly affirm _____ [state substance of required oath, e.g., that I will perform the duties of personal representative according to law].

Executed on _____, [date], at _____ [place].

_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

The form of affirmation in [1], above, is for use by any person appointed to discharge specific duties in a particular action, matter, or proceeding who is required by law to take an oath relating to those duties [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.6].

Persons who might use this oath include, but are not limited to, executors and administrators of estates [Prob. Code § 8542], guardians and conservators [Prob. Code § 2300], appraisers, receivers, and elisors [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.6].

In lieu of taking the required oath, such person may choose to make a written affirmation, as in this form. The affirmation must commence "I solemnly affirm," must state the substance of the required oath and the date and place of execution, and must be signed by the person making the affirmation [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.6].

The affirmation example given in this form is found in the Judicial Council form of letters for a decedent's estate [see Ch. 442, Probate: Initiating Probate Administration ,]. Judicial Council forms of letters of guardianship and conservatorship also contain affirmations as prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.6 [see Ch. 280, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Appointment of Guardians , and Ch. 281, Guardianship and Conservatorship:Appointment of Conservators].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 393.syn

§ 393.syn Synopsis to Chapter 393: OIL AND GAS

§ 393.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 393.02 Cross References

§§ 393.03-393.09 [Reserved]

§ 393.10 Governing Law

§ 393.11 Nature of Landowner's Oil and Gas Interest

[1] Interest Extends to Exclusive Right to Drill and Retain Substances

[2] Oil and Gas in Place Doctrine Rejected

§ 393.12 Conveyance of Landowner's Oil and Gas Rights

[1] Interest Constitutes Estate in Real Property

[2] Rights of Profit a Prendre and Incorporeal Hereditament

[a] Interests Are Similar

[b] Nature of Estate Depends on Duration

[3] Conveyance By Lease

[4] Conveyance By Assignment

[5] Rule Against Perpetuities

[a] Uniform Statutory Rule Applies in California

[b] Landowner's Executive Right

[c] Landowner's Reservation of Oil and Gas Rights

§ 393.13 Oil and Gas Leases

[1] "Habendum" or Term Clause

[a] Duration of Term

[b] Common Provisions

[c] Automatic Expiration

[2] Surrender Clause

[a] Basic Rule

[b] Reduction of Rent Does Not Mean Royalty

[c] Acts Constituting the Commencement of Drilling

[3] Payment of Rental for Privilege of Delayed Drilling

[a] As Alternative to Drilling

[b] "Unless" Type Provision Distinguished From "Drill or Pay" Type Provision

[c] Action to Collect Rent or to Quiet Title

[d] Notice of Default

[4] Community Leases

[a] Royalties Are Shared

[b] Interests Created

[c] Effect of Conveyance of Land on Royalty

[d] Surrender of Lands Subject to Lease

§ 393.14 Royalty Interest of Landowner-Lessor

[1] Analogous to Rent

[a] Similarities Between "Rent" and "Royalty"

[b] Terms "Rent" and "Royalty" Not Always Synonymous

[2] Assignment Unlimited as to Duration

[a] Effect of Assignment

[b] Assignees' Implied Right of Entry

[c] Landowner's Reservation of Executive Right

[3] Assignment Is Limited to Existing Lease

[a] Grant of a Fractional Interest

[b] No Right of Entry in Assignees

[4] Interest Created Depends on Intent

§ 393.15 Overriding Royalty Interest of Lessee

[1] Creation of Interest

[2] Assignment of Interest

§ 393.16 Rights of Cotenants

[1] Consent Is Not Required to Produce Oil and Gas

[2] Accounting Is Required

[3] Deduction for Expenses

§ 393.17 Surface Interests

[1] Lessee's or Assignee's Implied Right to Possession for Production

[a] Right of Entry

[b] Permissible Extent of Use

[2] Landowner's Development Rights

[3] Regulation of Well Spacing

[a] Waste Prevention; Public Nuisances

[b] Slant Drilling Is Permitted When Surface Is Unavailable

§ 393.18 Subsurface Interests

[1] Slant Drilling Is Prohibited

[2] Actions to Enjoin Trespass and for Conversion of Oil and Gas

[a] Permissible Actions

[b] Single Cause of Action for Trespass

[c] Parties

[d] Measure of Damages

[e] Statute of Limitations

§ 393.19 Oil and Gas Liens

[1] Creation of Lien

[2] Amount of Lien

[3] Date Lien Arises

[4] Extent of Lien

[5] Statement of Lien Must Be Recorded

[6] Notice of Lien Claim to Oil or Gas Purchaser

[7] Bond to Release Lien

[a] Recording Requirement

[b] Other Requirements of Bond

[8] Preference and Priority

[9] Enforcement

§ 393.20 Abandonment of Right to Remove Oil and Gas

[1] Profit a Prendre Is Subject to Abandonment

[2] Description as Fee Estate Refers Merely to Duration

[3] Justification for Permitting Abandonment

[4] Required Findings

§ 393.21 Termination of Interests in Oil and Gas

[1] Quitclaiming Lessee's Interest in Expired or Abandoned Lease

[a] Demand for Deed

[b] Action for Damages for Failure to Quitclaim Interest

[c] Demand Is Limited to Certain Mineral Rights

[d] Relationship to Other Law and Statutory Rights to Clear Title Is Still Intact

[2] Action to Terminate Lessee's Right of Entry or Occupation

[a] By Owner of Fee Interest in Surface

[b] Action Is Limited to Lands in Certain Urban Areas

[c] Requirements for Terminating Right of Entry or Occupation

[d] Qualification of Judgment

[e] Certain Agreements Are Unaffected by Judgment

[f] Waiver of Action in Lease Is Against Public Policy

[3] Action to Terminate Dormant Mineral Rights

[a] Brought By Real Property Owner

[b] Venue and Procedural Requirements

[c] Mineral Rights Are Not Subject to Action

[d] Dormant Mineral Right

[e] Notice of Intent to Preserve Mineral Right

[f] Effect of Termination

[g] Nonexclusive Remedy

§§ 393.22-393.39 [Reserved]

§ 393.40 Related Matthew Bender Publications

[1] California Legal Forms

[2] California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice

[3] Oil and Gas Law

[4] The Law of Oil and Gas Leases

[5] Energy Law and Transactions

[6] Other Matthew Bender Oil and Gas Publications

§ 393.41 State Statutes

[1] Conveyance of Oil and Gas Interests

[2] Oil and Gas Liens

[3] Quiet Title Actions

[4] Quitclaiming Interest in Expired or Abandoned Mineral Leases

[5] Regulation of Oil and Gas

[6] Termination of Dormant Mineral Rights

[7] Termination of Lessee's Right of Entry or Occupation

§ 393.42 Federal Statutes

§ 393.43 Decisions

[1] Abandonment of Oil and Gas Rights

[2] Community Leases

[3] Cotenants

[4] Federal Preemption

[5] Landowner's Oil and Gas Interest

[6] Oil and Gas Leases

[7] Oil and Gas Lien Act

[8] Rental for Delayed Drilling

[9] Royalty Interests

[10] Rule Against Perpetuities

[11] Subsurface Trespass

[12] Surrender Clauses

[13] Taxation of Oil and Gas Interests

[14] Termination of Lessee's Right of Entry or Occupation

[15] Well Spacing Regulation

§ 393.44 Law Reviews and Periodicals

§ 393.45 Text References

§§ 393.46-393.59 [Reserved]

§ 393.60 Demand for Quitclaim Deed of Lessee's Interest in Minerals Covered by Terms of Expired or Abandoned Oil and Gas Lease or for Notice of Surrender or Termination Covering Expired or Abandoned Portion of Lessee's Interest in Minerals [Civ. Code § 883.140(b)]--By Lessor to Lessee

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 393.61 Complaint to Quiet Title [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 760.020(a), 761.020] and for Damages and Forfeiture [Civ. Code § 883.140(c)] With Respect to Expired or Abandoned Oil and Gas Lease--By Lessor Against Lessee Who Failed to Give Quitclaim Deed or Notice of Surrender or Termination Covering Terminated Interest [Civ. Code § 883.140(b)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Seeking Relief Against Personal Representatives and Successors

[4] Allegations

[5] Verification

[6] Jurisdiction

[7] Venue

[8] Service of Process

[9] Attorney's Fees

[10] Costs and Forfeiture

[11] Limitation of Action

[12] Lis Pendens

[13] Cross References

§ 393.62 Complaint to Terminate Dormant Mineral Right [Civ. Code § 883.210]--By Owner of Real Property Against Owner of Mineral Right

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Seeking Relief Against Personal Representatives and Successors

[4] Allegations

[5] Verification

[6] Jurisdiction; General Procedure

[7] Cross References

§ 393.63 Notice by Owner of Mineral Right to Owner of Real Property of Intent to Preserve Mineral Right [Civ. Code § 883.230]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Description of Real Property

[4] Acknowledgment

[5] Cross References

§ 393.64 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Breach of Oil and Gas Lease That Requires Lessee to Pay Delayed Drilling Rental--By Landowner-Lessor Against Lessee--Judicial Council Contract Complaint With Breach of Contract Cause of Action Attachment [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12; Cal. Judicial Council Forms PLD-C-001, PLD-C-001(1)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Judicial Council Trial Court Forms

[4] Filling Out Forms

[5] Verification

[6] Cross References

§ 393.65 Complaint for Accounting--Against Cotenant for Royalties From Oil and Gas Production

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Jurisdiction

[5] Venue

[6] Interest

[7] Verification

§ 393.66 Complaint for Temporary Restraining Order, Preliminary Injunction [Code Civ. Proc. § 527], Permanent Injunction [Civ. Code § 3422; Code Civ. Proc. § 526], and Damages [Code Civ. Proc. § 3493/4] for Subsurface Trespass and Conversion of Oil and Gas From Slant Drilling of Well--By Landowner Against Adjoining Property Owner or Lessee

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Verification or Affidavits Required

[5] Jurisdiction

[6] Venue

[7] Service Required Before Hearing on Injunction Following Temporary Restraining Order

[8] Damages

[9] Statute of Limitations

[10] Certification re Notice

[11] Cross References

§ 393.67 Complaint for Termination of Oil and Gas Lessee's Right of Entry to or Occupation of Surface Land in Certain Urban Areas [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.030(a)]--By Landowner Against Lessee

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Termination Limited to Certain Urban Areas

[5] Jurisdiction in Superior Court

[6] Venue

[7] Verification

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART I. SCOPE

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.01

§ 393.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses interests in oil and gas, including the following:

- The right to drill for and produce oil and gas [see § 393.11].
- Conveyance of oil and gas rights [see § 393.12].
- Oil and gas leases [see § 393.13].
- Royalty interests [see §§ 393.14, 393.15].
- Rights of cotenants [see § 393.16].
- Surface and subsurface interests [see §§ 393.17, 393.18].
- Oil and gas liens [see § 393.19].
- Abandonment and termination of oil and gas interests [see §§ 393.20, 393.21].

The chapter contains forms for use in actions involving oil and gas, including the following:

- A demand for a lessee's quitclaim or surrender [see § 393.60] and a complaint to quiet title and for damages and forfeiture [see § 393.61] for the lessee's failure to surrender or quitclaim an interest covered by an expired or abandoned oil and gas lease.
- A complaint to terminate a dormant mineral right [see § 393.62] and a notice of intent to preserve a mineral right [see § 393.63].
- A Judicial Council form of contract complaint with breach of contract cause of action attached for use in an action for delayed drilling rentals [see § 393.64].

- A complaint for an accounting of royalties by one cotenant against another cotenant [see § 393.65].

- A complaint for injunctive relief and damages for subsurface trespass and conversion of oil and gas obtained from a well that was slant drilled [see § 393.66].

- A complaint for termination of an oil and gas lessee's right of entry to or occupation of the surface of land in certain urban areas [see § 393.67].

For discussion of acquiring oil and gas leases from the United States or California, and of federal and state regulation of oil and gas production, see Regulation Of The Gas Industry (Matthew Bender).

For detailed coverage of the transactional side of oil and gas law in California, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 36, Oil and Gas Rights and Leases (Matthew Bender).

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART I. SCOPE

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.02

§ 393.02 Cross References

For discussion and forms relating to actions for accounting in general, see Ch. 7, Accounting, Action for

For discussion and forms relating to actions for declaratory relief, see Ch. 182, Declaratory Relief

For discussion of and forms relating to actions for wrongful death, see Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions

For discussion and forms relating to injunctive relief in general, see Ch. 303, Injunctions

For discussion and forms relating to landlord-tenant issues in general, see Ch. 330, Landlord and Tenant: General Introduction , et seq.

For discussion and forms that can be adapted for use in enforcing oil and gas liens, see Ch. 361, Mechanics' Liens

For discussion and forms relating to mines and minerals in general, see Ch. 363, Mining .

For discussion and forms relating to issues involved in environmental litigation, see Ch.418, Pollution and Environmental Matters

For discussion and forms relating to actions to quiet title in general, see Ch. 482, Quieting Title

For discussion and forms relating to actions for trespass in general, see Ch. 550, Trespass

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART I. SCOPE

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 393.03-393.09

[Reserved]

§§ 393.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.10

§ 393.10 Governing Law

Interests in oil and gas are governed primarily by common law rules [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 650-651, 52 P.2d 237] .

Termination of an oil and gas lessee's right of entry to or occupation of the surface is governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 772.010-772.060. Oil and gas leases with regard to public lands are governed by Pub. Res. Code §§ 6801-6879 and oil and gas leases by public agencies are covered in Pub. Res. Code §§ 7051-7062.

The surrender or quitclaim of a lessee's interest in an expired or abandoned mineral right lease, such as an oil and gas lease, is covered in Civ. Code §§ 883.110-883.140. Actions to terminate a dormant interest in oil and gas are governed by Civ. Code §§ 883.210-883.270. Actions to quiet title are governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 760.010-765.060. Damages for subsurface trespass are governed by *Code Civ. Proc. § 349*3/4.

Oil and gas liens are governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1203.50-1203.66. The production of oil and gas is regulated in California by Pub. Res. Code §§ 3000-3865.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.11

§ 393.11 Nature of Landowner's Oil and Gas Interest

[1] Interest Extends to Exclusive Right to Drill and Retain Substances

The owner of land does not have an absolute title to oil and gas in place as corporeal real property, but possesses the exclusive right to drill for oil and gas and to retain all substances brought to the surface [Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 117, 43 P.2d 788] . A landowner's unqualified and absolute title to oil and gas attaches after these substances have been reduced to possession [Bernstein v. Bush (1947) 29 Cal. 2d 773, 778, 177 P.2d 913] .

[2] Oil and Gas in Place Doctrine Rejected

Because of the practical difference between oil and gas and solid minerals, the Supreme Court of California has rejected the theory, known as the "oil and gas in place doctrine," that oil and gas in place beneath the surface of the land constitutes an estate in definite corporeal real property. Solid minerals remain in place beneath the surface of the land, while oil and gas, because of their fugacious and vagrant nature, may be drawn from beneath the surface of other lands as well as from below the property on which a well has been drilled [Gerhard v. Stephens (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 864, 878, 69 Cal. Rptr. 612, 442 P.2d 692] .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.12

§ 393.12 Conveyance of Landowner's Oil and Gas Rights

[1] Interest Constitutes Estate in Real Property

Although the oil and gas in place doctrine has been rejected [see § 393.11[2]], interests in oil and gas are estates in real property that may be conveyed separately and apart from a grant of the surface title [see Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 649, 52 P.2d 237] .

[2] Rights of Profit a Prendre and Incorporeal Hereditament

[a] Interests Are Similar

When the surface owner transfers his or her exclusive right to drill for and produce oil and gas, the right granted to a lessee or assignee is a profit a prendre. A profit a prendre, which is the right to remove a part of the substance of the land, is an interest in real property in the nature of an incorporeal hereditament [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 649, 52 P.2d 237 ; Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 118, 43 P.2d 788] .

The term "corporeal hereditament" generally refers to tangible real property. An incorporeal hereditament is a right stemming from a corporeal thing. When it relates to land, an incorporeal hereditament constitutes a limited estate or interest in land [Gerhard v. Stephens (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 864, 878 n. 7, 69 Cal. Rptr. 612, 442 P.2d 692] .

Although a profit a prendre is very similar to an incorporeal hereditament, the two interests are not identical. For example, a landowner's assignment of royalties that is limited to the duration of an existing lease creates in the assignee an incorporeal hereditament in real property, but it does not contemplate the grant of profit a prendre. The term "profit a prendre" refers solely to the right to remove a part of the substance of the land or, in the context of oil and gas law, the right to drill for and produce oil and gas. Under the circumstances referred to by example, an operating lessee holds the profit a prendre. A royalty assignee does not intend to attempt operation, and is given no right of entry for such purpose [see La Laguna Ranch Co. v. Dodge (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 132, 138, 114 P.2d 351 ; see also § 393.14[3][b]].

[b] Nature of Estate Depends on Duration

The profit a prendre is an estate in real property whether it is unlimited as to duration or limited to a term of years. When the profit is unlimited in duration, it is a freehold interest, an estate in fee, and real property orreal estate. If it is granted for a term of years, the profit is a chattel real, which although it is not real property, is an estate or interest in real property [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 649, 52 P.2d 237 ; Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 120, 43 P.2d 788 ; see Cal-Cut Pipe & Supply, Inc. v. Haradine Petroleum, Inc. (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 359, 372, 110 Cal. Rptr. 666] . The courts' description of a profit a prendre as a fee estate refers merely to the duration of the estate [see Gerhard v. Stephens (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 864, 883, 69 Cal. Rptr. 612, 442 P.2d 692 ; see also § 393.20[2]].

[3] Conveyance By Lease

Under the usual oil and gas lease, the owner confers on the lessee for the term of the lease an exclusive right of profit to drill for and produce oil and gas. For this privilege, the lessee returns to the lessor a rent or royalty measured by a fraction of the oil produced. In addition to the right to receive royalty, the lessor has a reversionary interest in the right to drill for and produce oil and gas, dependent on the termination of the leasehold [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 649, 651, 52 P.2d 237 ; see § 393.13 for additional discussion of leases].

For detailed coverage of oil and gas leases, including a complete lease form, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 36, Oil and Gas Rights and Leases.

[4] Conveyance By Assignment

A landowner may also convey his or her oil and gas rights by means of an assignment of royalty. When the owner intends to convey both a percentage of his or her royalty and the right to enter the land for production, the assignees become tenants in common with the landowner [see § 393.14[2]]. When the owner intends to assign merely fractional shares of production, however, the assignees' rights are limited to receipt of royalties [see § 393.14[3]]. In any case, the parties' intention is controlling in determining the extent of an assignment [La Laguna Ranch Co. v. Dodge (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 132, 138, 114 P.2d 351 ; see § 393.14[4]].

[5] Rule Against Perpetuities

[a] Uniform Statutory Rule Applies in California

The Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities has been enacted by the California Legislature [Prob. Code § 21200 et seq.]. This statutory rule supersedes the common law rule against perpetuities [Prob. Code § 21201], although the statutory rule generally parallels the common law rule. The statute provides that a nonvested property interest is invalid unless one of the following conditions is satisfied [Prob. Code § 21205]:

- When the interest is created, it is certain to vest or terminate no later than 21 years after the death of an individual then alive; or

- The interest either vests or terminates within 90 years after its creation.

The lives of individuals selected to govern the time of vesting may not be so numerous or so situated that evidence of their deaths is likely to be unreasonably difficult to obtain [Prob. Code § 21230].

California appellate decisions interpreting the effect of the rule on oil and gas conveyances are not uniform [compare Keville v. Hollister Co. (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 203, 207, 105 Cal. Rptr. 238 , with Dallapi v. Campbell (1941) 45 Cal. App. 2d 541, 545, 114 P.2d 646 ; see Williams and Meyers, Oil And Gas Law, Ch. 3, Oil and Gas Conveyancing, §§ 323, 335 (Matthew Bender)].

[b] Landowner's Executive Right

In one court of appeal decision, the court held that an executive interest in the mineral estate, which is the exclusive right reserved by the grantor to execute leases to secure exploration and development of minerals, did not violate the rule against perpetuities [Keville v. Hollister Co. (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 203, 205 n. 1, 207, 105 Cal. Rptr. 238 ; see § 393.14[2][c]]. The court reasoned that an executive interest is a general power of appointment that vests on creation because it is presently exercisable [Keville v. Hollister Co. (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 203, 207, 105 Cal. Rptr. 238] . In an earlier case, however, one court found that an executive interest reserved by the grantor of subdivision lots violated the rule against perpetuities [Dallapi v. Campbell (1941) 45 Cal. App. 2d 541, 545, 114 P.2d 646] . The court in Keville distinguished Dallapi by noting that the power of appointment in Dallapi was special instead of general, and therefore was not presently exercisable [Keville v. Hollister Co. (1972) 105 Cal. Rptr. 238 ; for additional discussion of these decisions, see Williams and Meyers, Oil And Gas Law, Ch. 3, Oil and Gas Conveyancing, § 323 (Matthew Bender)].

[c] Landowner's Reservation of Oil and Gas Rights

In one case, the court of appeal held that a deed reserving the grantor's oil and gas rights for a fixed period, and so long thereafter as oil and gas may be produced, was invalid under the rule against perpetuities [Victory Oil Co. v. Hancock Oil Co. (1954) 125 Cal. App.2d 222, 230-231, 270 P.2d 604] . In another case, however, the court of appeal held that a grantor's reservation of oil and gas rights, to expire in 20 years or later if production continued in paying quantities, did not violate the rule against perpetuities [Rousselot v. Spanier (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 238, 242, 131 Cal. Rptr. 438] . The court in Rousselot reasoned that the effect of the deed was to give the grantees a fee simple estate in the real property, subject to an incorporeal or nonpossessory interest to be enjoyed by the grantor for a determinable period. The court noted that the grantee's interest was vested immediately,and that expiration of the grantor's profit a prendre did not create a new estate in violation of the rule against perpetuities [Rousselot v. Spanier (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 238, 241, 131 Cal. Rptr. 438 ; see [2], above]. The decision in Victory Oil was distinguished on its facts and on the basis of later California appellate cases that more specifically defined a profit a prendre [see Rousselot v. Spanier (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 238, 242-243, 131 Cal. Rptr. 438 ; for additional discussion of these decisions, see Williams and Meyers, Oil And Gas Law, Ch. 3, Oil and Gas Conveyancing, § 335 (Matthew Bender)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.13

§ 393.13 Oil and Gas Leases

[1] "Habendum" or Term Clause

[a] Duration of Term

The habendum clause governs the term of an oil and gas lease. Although determination of a lease's term requires consideration of all provisions, the habendum clause controls the period that the lease is to run, in the absence of later specific wording that would compel a different conclusion [Montana-Fresno Oil Co. v. Powell (1963) 219 Cal. App. 2d 653, 659, 33 Cal. Rptr. 401] .

[b] Common Provisions

The most common modern habendum clause states that the lease remains in force for a certain number of years and so long thereafter as oil or gas, or either of them, is produced on the land by the lessee [see Brown and Brown, The Law Of Oil And Gas Leases, Ch. 5, The "Habendum" or Term Clause, § 5.01 (Matthew Bender); see also California Legal Forms, Ch. 36, Oil and Gas Rights and Leases § 36.200 (Matthew Bender)]. Some leases require "production in paying quantities" for the term to extend beyond the fixed period [see, e.g., Valer Oil Co. v. Souza (1960) 182 Cal. App. 2d 790, 792, 6 Cal. Rptr. 301] . The language providing for continuance of the lease after the definite term is often designated as a "thereafter" clause [Montana-Fresno Oil Co. v. Powell (1963) 219 Cal. App. 2d 653, 659, 33 Cal. Rptr. 401 ; see Dabney v. Edwards (1935) 5 Cal. 2d 1, 12, 53 P.2d 962 ; see also Lough v. Coal Oil, Inc. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 1518, 1528-1532, 266 Cal. Rptr. 611 (lease that was not profitable over 51 months expired by its own terms for failure to produce in paying quantities)].

[c] Automatic Expiration

A lease with the habendum clause's "and so long thereafter" phrase creates a determinable fee interest in a profit a prendre that terminates on the happening of the event named in the terms of the instrument. The habendum clause dominates the period that the lease runs, so that unless it is modified by other provisions, all rights of the lessee automatically cease at the fixed time if there is no production to extend the lease. No notice is required to effect termination [see Montana-Fresno Oil Co. v. Powell (1963) 219 Cal. App. 2d 653, 666, 33 Cal. Rptr. 401 ; Valer Oil

Co. v. Souza (1960) 182 Cal. App. 2d 790, 798, 6 Cal. Rptr. 301 ; for discussion of a lessor's rights with regard to expired or abandoned leases, see §§ 393.21[1][b], 393.60, 393.61].

[2] Surrender Clause

[a] Basic Rule

The usual surrender clause contained in an oil and gas lease permits the lessee to extinguish a lease by surrendering it in whole or in part. Under this clause, the lessee may be able to retain the portion of leased acreage that appears most promising while eliminating the obligations of rentals, protection, exploration, and development with respect to the portion that appears least promising [Beverly Hills Oil Co. v. Beverly Hills Unified Sch. Dist. (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 603, 608, 70 Cal. Rptr. 640] .

[b] Reduction of Rent Does Not Mean Royalty

As used in the surrender clause of an oil and gas lease, the term "rent" has been defined as compensation for the lessee's privilege of delayed drilling, even if a lease inadvertently omits a "drill or pay" clause. Under such circumstances, the words "rent" and "royalty" are not synonomous, and the latter refers to the share of production reserved by the landowner-lessor [see Beverly Hills Oil Co. v. Beverly Hills Unified Sch. Dist. (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 603, 610-611, 70 Cal. Rptr. 640 ; see also [3][b], below, and § 393.14[1][b]].

[c] Acts Constituting the Commencement of Drilling

Work preparatory to drilling may be sufficient to constitute the commencement of drilling, but such preliminary work must be something more than a pretense. The following acts constitute the beginning of drilling operations [Butler v. Nepple (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 589, 595, 6 Cal. Rptr. 767, 354 P.2d 239] :

- The location of wells;
- The hauling of lumber;
- The erection of derricks;
- Provision for a water supply;
- The moving of machinery; and
- Other, similar acts preliminary to the beginning of the actual drilling.

To constitute the beginning of drilling operations, the above work must be performed with the bona fide intention to proceed thereafter with actualdrilling operations prosecuted with reasonable diligence toward the completion of the well [Butler v. Nepple (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 589, 595, 6 Cal. Rptr. 767, 354 P.2d 239] . The failure to prosecute drilling operations with reasonable diligence after the original preparatory work has been done, however, is evidence that the commencement of the well was not done in good faith [Butler v. Nepple (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 589, 597, 6 Cal. Rptr. 767, 354 P.2d 239] .

[3] Payment of Rental for Privilege of Delayed Drilling

[a] As Alternative to Drilling

Two types of oil and gas lease provisions, known as the "unless" type and the "drill or pay" type [see [b], below], provide for the payment of rental as an alternative to the obligation to drill or commence drilling [Butler v. Nepple (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 589, 594, 6 Cal. Rptr. 767, 354 P.2d 239] . Under both types of leases, the lessee must either commence drilling within a certain time or pay rental, but the consequences of the lessee's failure, and the remedies available to the lessor, are different [see [3][c], below].

[b] "Unless" Type Provision Distinguished From "Drill or Pay" Type Provision

Under an "unless" provision, the lease is automatically forfeited or terminated unless the lessee either drills or pays the rental, as provided in the lease. When a lease contains a "drill or pay" provision, however, the lease is not forfeited or terminated by the failure to comply with its terms, but on the failure to drill or commence drilling as required, the obligation to pay rental becomes absolute as an alternative requirement [Butler v. Nepple (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 589, 594, 6 Cal. Rptr. 767, 354 P.2d 239] . The main difference between the "drill or pay" type of lease and the "unless" type is that the former contains terms requiring payment of rent when drilling operations are not commenced within the time specified, while the latter provides for termination of the lease when the lessee fails to drill within the time limit and also fails, as an alternative, to pay delay rentals [Walston v. Flintridge Oil Co. (1955) 133 Cal. App. 2d 660, 662, 284 P.2d 895] .

[c] Action to Collect Rent or to Quiet Title

Under a "drill or pay" lease, the lessor may bring an action to enforce the payment of delayed drilling rentals [Richfield Oil Corp. v. Bloomfield (1951) 103 Cal. App. 2d 589, 590-591, 229 P.2d 838 ; see Walston v. Flintridge Oil Co. (1955) 133 Cal. App. 2d 660, 662, 284 P.2d 895 ; see also § 393.64]. When a lease contains an "unless" provision, however, the lessee is not obligated to pay delayed drilling rentals because the lease terminates automatically at the lessee's option not to commence drilling or to pay rent. Thus, a lessor may not bring an action for delayed drilling rentals under an "unless" type of lease [Fritsch v. Fisher (1957) 151 Cal. App. 2d 732, 734-735, 312 P.2d 21] .

However, the lessor under an "unless" type of lease may maintain a quiet title action to free his or her estate of the lessee's expired oil and gas interest [see Richfield Oil Corp. v. Bloomfield (1951) 103 Cal. App. 2d 589, 591-592, 229 P.2d 838 ; see also §§ 393.60, 393.61]. The lessor may also bring an action for forfeiture of $150 and for damages resulting from a lessee's failure to quitclaim or surrender and interest covered by an expired oil and gas lease [see Civ. Code § 883.140(b), (c); see also §§ 393.21[1][b], 393.60, 393.61].

[d] Notice of Default

When a "drill or pay" lease contains a provision requiring notice of the lessee's default for the failure to commence drilling or to pay rent, notice of default is indispensable before the lessor's action to enforce the payment of rent. A notice of default provision in an "unless" lease, however, does not create a condition precedent to termination of the lease, because the lease automatically expires when the lessee fails to commence drilling operations within the time specified and also fails to exercise the privilege of paying delay rentals in advance. Thus, notice of default need not precede an action to quiet title against a lessee's interest in an "unless" type of oil and gas lease that has expired and a provision that requires such notice has no effect on termination [Richfield Oil Corp. v. Bloomfield (1951) 103 Cal. App. 2d 589, 591-592, 229 P.2d 838] .

[4] Community Leases

[a] Royalties Are Shared

Under a community lease, several landowners lease their respective lots as one tract, with the sole and exclusive right in the lessee to drill for and produce oil on any part of it. Each owner shares proportionately in the royalties irrespective of the lot or lots on which oil is discovered. Thus, the owners of lots on which no well is drilled share equally the fruits of the common venture with the lessors whose land proves productive [Tanner v. Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1942) 20 Cal.

2d 814, 818, 129 P.2d 383] .

[b] Interests Created

By executing a community lease, a lessor assigns or conveys to his or her colessors a percentage interest in all oil produced on his or her land by the lessee during the lease's continuance. In consideration for this transfer, the other lessors execute mutual assignments. The royalty transferred by each landowner to his or her colessors is an incorporeal hereditament in gross [see § 393.12]. A grantee's interest in the oil produced onthe property of one of the colessors is entirely separate and distinct from the royalty interest retained in oil that might be produced from his or her own premises. The only connection between the two interests is that the pro rata assignment of royalty by one of the lessors is the consideration for the other lessors' conveyances [Tanner v. Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 814, 820, 129 P.2d 383] .

[c] Effect of Conveyance of Land on Royalty

The royalty reserved by an individual lessor in oil produced from his or her land passes to a grantee of the fee as an incident of the conveyance, unless reserved by the deed. The incorporeal hereditament owned by the grantor in oil produced from the land of colessors, however, does not follow the conveyance of the lessor's land. This royalty interest in a community lease can only be conveyed by a specific transfer [Tanner v. Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 814, 820, 129 P.2d 383] .

[d] Surrender of Lands Subject to Lease

Community oil leases commonly provide for the apportionment of benefits among all owners notwithstanding the surrender by the lessee of any of the lands subject to the lease. A unilateral surrender by the lessee under such a provision does not terminate the right of the owners of surrendered premises to continue to share in the royalties accruing under the community lease [Tanner v. Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 814, 821, 129 P.2d 383 ; First Nat. Bank v. Standard Oil Co. (1928) 91 Cal. App. 705, 708, 267 P. 548] . A bilateral agreement executed for the purpose of surrendering certain lands also does not change the rights and obligations of the lessors among themselves with respect to the remaining lots under the lease when the agreement indicates an intention to affect only the relationship between the lessors, collectively, and the lessee [see Tanner v. Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 814, 821, 822, 129 P.2d 383] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.14

§ 393.14 Royalty Interest of Landowner-Lessor

[1] Analogous to Rent

[a] Similarities Between "Rent" and "Royalty"

The royalty that a lessee renders to a lessor for the right to drill for and produce oil and gas is analogous to rent. The right to receive future rents and royalties is an incorporeal hereditament, which is an interest in land that may be conveyed [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 651, 52 P.2d 237 ; Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 124, 43 P.2d 788 ; see § 393.12[2]].

When a landowner conveys drilling rights to a lessee in exchange for the right to receive a portion of the oil and gas produced, the landowner's royalty interest, like the right to receive rent under other kinds of leases, flows from the agreement of the parties. The character of the lessor's relationship with the lessee and the nature of royalty payments as compensation for use of the land are not changed by the fact that the oil and gas would have been the lessor's personal property if the lessor had produced the minerals directly instead of entering a lease [Atlantic Oil Co. v. Los Angeles County (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 585, 601, 72 Cal. Rptr. 886, 446 P.2d 1006] .

[b] Terms "Rent" and "Royalty" Not Always Synonymous

Although the terms "royalty" and "rent" are frequently used interchangeably, the meaning of these words is not the same in every context. When discussing the principle that oil and gas leases generally create an interest in real property that is a profit a prendre, or in the nature of an incorporeal hereditament, courts have often stated that a landowner's royalty is analogous to rent [see Atlantic Oil Co. v. County of Los Angeles (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 585, 600-601, 601 n. 13, 72 Cal. Rptr. 886, 446 P.2d 1006 ; Beverly Hills Oil Co. v. Beverly Hills Unified Sch. Dist. (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 603, 613-614, 70 Cal. Rptr. 640 ; see [a], above].

However, the term "rent" has also been defined as consideration for the privilege of delayed drilling under an oil and gas lease [see Beverly Hills Oil Co. v. Beverly Hills Unified Sch. Dist. (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 603, 608, 70 Cal. Rptr. 640 ; see also § 393.13[2][b]]. Thus, the context in which the word "rent" is used should be considered before assuming that it means "royalty" or a share of production reserved by the landowner.

[2] Assignment Unlimited as to Duration

[a] Effect of Assignment

When a landowner makes an assignment of his or her royalty interest that is not limited to the duration of a particular lease, the landowner-assignor becomes a tenant in common with the assignees of percentage interests in the right to drill for and produce oil and gas [see § 393.16]. The assignee of an oil and gas royalty that is not limited to the duration of a particular lease has a right in the nature of a profit a prendre, which constitutes an interest or estate in real property [see Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 125, 43 P.2d 788 ; Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 651-652, 52 P.2d 237 ; see also § 393.12[2]].

[b] Assignees' Implied Right of Entry

The assignees of perpetual oil and gas rights possess implied rights of entry for the production of oil and gas equally with the lessor-landowner who retains a partial interest in the oil and gas to be produced. The right of entry arises as an incident to the grant of an estate in the oil and gasrights, and exists whether or not the assignment agreement is silent as to production rights. The assignee, however, takes an interest subject to existing leases of which he or she has actual or constructive notice, and thus, the right of entry is not absolute [Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 125, 126, 43 P.2d 788] . The right of entry may not effectively arise until expiration of a production lease existing at the time of the royalty assignment [see Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 654, 52 P.2d 237] .

[c] Landowner's Reservation of Executive Right

When making an assignment of a percentage of his or her oil and gas rights that creates a cotenancy, the landowner may properly reserve the exclusive right and power to lease the land for drilling and production [see § 393.16]. This reserved power is sometimes referred to as the executive right [see Hollister Co. v. Cal-L Exploration Corp. (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 713, 721, 102 Cal. Rptr. 919 ; see § 393.12[5][b]].

[3] Assignment Is Limited to Existing Lease

[a] Grant of a Fractional Interest

The landowner-lessor does not intend in every case to make his or her royalty assignee a cotenant in the exclusive right to drill for oil and gas. Rather, the owner may grant merely a fractional interest in his or her reserved royalty, an interest that is not intended to endure beyond the limits of an existing lease. Under this type of grant, termination of the lease to which the royalties pertain results in the loss of the assignees' royalty interest created under it [see La Laguna Ranch Co. v. Dodge (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 132, 137, 140, 114 P.2d 351 (applying these rules to assignment of lessee's overriding royalty)].

[b] No Right of Entry in Assignees

An assignment of royalties that is limited to an existing lease creates in the assignee an incorporeal hereditament in real property, but it does not contemplate the grant of a profit a prendre--the right to remove a part of the substance of the land [see § 393.12[2]]. The assignee under these circumstances does not intend to attempt operation and is not given a right of entry for this purpose. Rather, the landowner retains exclusive drilling rights (unless conveyed to an operating lessee), and the holders of royalty interests contemplate nothing more than the receipt of their shares of the oil and gas production under a particular lease [see La Laguna Ranch Co. v. Dodge (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 132, 138, 114 P.2d 351] .

[4] Interest Created Depends on Intent

The extent of an assignee's interest when the surface owner makes an assignment of royalty interests depends on the intention of the parties involved [see La Laguna Ranch Co. v. Dodge (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 132, 137, 138, 114 P.2d 351] . An intent to limit an assignment of oil royalty to a particular lease should be clearly and unequivocally indicated [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 653, 52 P.2d 237] . Conversely, in the absence of a clear indication of intent, the courts will not construe royalty interests created for the duration of a specific oil and gas lease as granting the right to enter for purposes of production or as creating a tenancy in common in the profit a prendre for that purpose [La Laguna Ranch Co. v. Dodge (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 132, 138, 114 P.2d 351] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.15

§ 393.15 Overriding Royalty Interest of Lessee

[1] Creation of Interest

The term "overriding royalty" is applied generally to a fractional interest in the production of oil and gas that is created from the lessee's estate or interest. An overriding royalty may be created either by (1) reserving a portion of the production when the original lessee subleases his or her interest, or (2) a grant when the original lessee conveys a fractional share to a third person. Thus, an overriding royalty is essentially the same as a royalty, except that the latter is created by the landowner-lessor instead of the lessee [see La Laguna Ranch Co. v. Dodge (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 132, 135, 114 P.2d 351] .

[2] Assignment of Interest

Essentially the same principles govern assignments of both overriding royalties and royalties. Thus, an operating lessee may assign an interest in the profit a prendre that is intended to make the assignee a tenant in common of the entire leasehold estate. The lessee may, however, intend to retain the operating rights contained in the profit a prendre and to convey merely a fractional share of the oil and gas produced, in the form of an overriding royalty. In any case, the parties' intention is controlling [La Laguna Ranch Co. v. Dodge (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 132, 138, 114 P.2d 351 ; see § 393.14[4]].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.16

§ 393.16 Rights of Cotenants

[1] Consent Is Not Required to Produce Oil and Gas

A tenant in common has the right to produce oil and gas without the consent of the other cotenants, provided that the tenant does not exclude the other cotenants [see § 393.14[2]]. Because an estate in oil and gas rights cannot be enjoyed except through the oil's removal, it is not considered waste for a cotenant to drill for and produce the oil and gas. It is reasoned that fugacious substances such as oil and gas could be lost entirely through drilling operations on other lands if the owners do notdiligently seek to possess them [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 655, 52 P.2d 237] .

[2] Accounting Is Required

The producing cotenant must account to the other cotenants for their respective percentages of the profits. An accounting is required because the exclusive working by one cotenant may exhaust the oil and gas, and the uncertainty of the prospective value of the property may render it impossible to make a just partition [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 655, 656, 52 P.2d 237 ; see § 393.65].

[3] Deduction for Expenses

The interests of the nonproducing cotenants are generally subject to a charge or deduction for their proportion of drilling and operation expenses. When the cotenancy interests have been granted with the understanding and agreement that they will not be subject to the expenses, however, the general rule is controlled by the parties' agreement, express or necessarily implied, and the other units must bear the full expense of production [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 657, 52 P.2d 237] . Doubts as to whether or not cotenancy interests are subject to production charges must generally be resolved by a construction of the cotenancy instruments as a whole, considered in light of the circumstances under which the instruments were executed [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 658, 52 P.2d 237] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.17

§ 393.17 Surface Interests

[1] Lessee's or Assignee's Implied Right to Possession for Production

[a] Right of Entry

The grantee of the right to drill for and produce oil has a right to such possession of the surface as is necessary and convenient for the exercise of the profit, but he or she has no general estate in the surface [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 649-650, 52 P.2d 237] . When it is apparent from the granting instrument as a whole that a right of profit a prendre is intended, the instrument need not contain express provision for a right of entry to drill for and produce oil. The right of entry is incident to the grant and exists without express mention [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 650, 52 P.2d 237] .

[b] Permissible Extent of Use

When a landowner reserves or conveys oil and mineral rights in a specific tract of land, the surface area may be subjected only to such burdens as are reasonably necessary to the full enjoyment of the mineral estate in the particular parcel. The surface area may not be burdened by installations or fixtures designed to serve oil producing facilities not located on the parcel. In addition, the surface owner may not deprive the owner of the oil and mineral estate of his or her rights in the entire parcel by subsequently subdividing the surface area [Wall v. Shell Oil Co. (1962) 209 Cal. App. 2d 504, 513, 25 Cal. Rptr. 908] .

[2] Landowner's Development Rights

Society has an interest in development by both the owner of oil rights and the owner of the surface. Even though the right of the landowner subject to a prior oil and mineral estate is subordinate, he or she may exercise and develop the ownership rights to the fullest, although this exercise may to some degree affect the rights of the oil and mineral owner. The surface owner's exercise, however, may not unreasonably interfere with or prevent the enjoyment of the lessee's oil rights [Wall v. Shell Oil Co. (1962) 209 Cal. App. 2d 504, 516-517, 25 Cal. Rptr. 908] .

[3] Regulation of Well Spacing

[a] Waste Prevention; Public Nuisances

To prevent waste and to promote safe and orderly oil field operations, the Legislature has enacted rules regulating the spacing of oil wells [Pub. Res. Code §§ 3600-3609; Richfield Oil Corp. v. Crawford (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 729, 737-738, 249 P.2d 600] . Wells that are located within 100 feet of an outer boundary of a parcel of land, within 100 feet of a public street, road, or highway, or within 150 feet of another well are declared to be public nuisances [Pub. Res. Code § 3600]. This provision applies only to the surface location of oil wells [Richfield Oil Corp. v. Crawford (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 729, 738, 249 P.2d 600] .

[b] Slant Drilling Is Permitted When Surface Is Unavailable

When a parcel of property contains one or more acres of land and substantially all of the surface is unavailable for the surface location of oil or gas wells, the legislation permits slant drilling from an outside surface location [see Pub. Res. Code § 3606]. However, a person wishing to slant drill would be required to obtain drilling rights from the owner of these rights in the affected parcels [see § 393.18[1]].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.18

§ 393.18 Subsurface Interests

[1] Slant Drilling Is Prohibited

The surface owner's exclusive right to drill for and produce oil from beneath the surface of his or her land does not include the authority to sink a well at such an angle that it goes beyond the surface boundariesof the property, if extended downward, and intercepts oil and gas from beneath the surface of a neighboring owner. In exercising the right to drill on his or her property, the surface owner who drills the first well in a particular location undoubtedly draws from the oil strata underlying the surface of adjoining owners a considerable portion of the oil, gas, and other hydrocarbons that might be intercepted and brought to the surface by wells sunk on adjoining properties. In rejecting the doctrine of oil and gas in place, however, the courts did not intend to establish a rule that would enable anyone owning a surface location to extend or to drill a well or to bottom a well so as to capture oil and gas anywhere other than beneath his or her own surface location [A.E. Bell Corp. v. Bell View Oil Synd. (1938) 24 Cal. App. 2d 587, 595, 596, 76 P.2d 167 ; see §§ 393.11[2], 393.17[3][b]].

[2] Actions to Enjoin Trespass and for Conversion of Oil and Gas

[a] Permissible Actions

A landowner or lessee commits a trespass when he or she extends an oil well beyond the surface boundaries of his or her property without having obtained, from adjoining owners, the right to slant drill. Adjoining owners or other persons injured by the subsurface trespass may maintain an action for injunctive relief to stop the trespass. These persons may also bring an action for damages from the conversion of the oil and gas [A.E. Bell Corp. v. Bell View Oil Synd. (1938) 24 Cal. App. 2d 587, 603, 610, 76 P.2d 167 ; see Pacific Western Oil Co. v. Bern Oil Co. (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 60, 66, 87 P.2d 1045 ; Stafford v. Union Oil Co. (1959) 173 Cal. App. 2d 307, 313, 343 P.2d 380 ; see also § 393.66]. The question of whether a well was intentionally or unintentionally drilled at a slant is immaterial, except as it relates to the measure of damages, because the trespass arises from extending the well without permission [Union Oil Co. v. Mutual Oil Co. (1937) 19 Cal. App. 2d 409, 413, 65 P.2d 896 ; see [d], below].

[b] Single Cause of Action for Trespass

Notwithstanding the continuing character of an act of trespass, there may be only one cause of action for any such act [*Code Civ. Proc. § 349*3/4]. This provision means that there may be only one suit for the cause of action then existing and arising from the act of trespass, including the original unlawful entry and the continuing presence of the well and removal of oil. Thus, subsequent acts of trespass by different persons create new causes of action even though the later production involves the same well [see Shell Oil Co. v. Richter (1942) 52 Cal. App. 2d 164, 169-171, 125 P.2d 930] .

[c] Parties

Any person who is injured by the trespass or conversion of oil and gas, including a landowner, lessor, lessee, or royalty owner, is entitled to bring an action for injunctive relief or damages. All other persons having an interest in the property, whether ownership or otherwise, may properly be joined as plaintiffs or defendants [see A.E. Bell Corp. v. Bell View Oil Synd. (1938) 24 Cal. App. 2d 587, 603, 604, 76 P.2d 167] .

[d] Measure of Damages

When oil or gas has been extracted by a person without right but asserting a claim of right in good faith or acting under an honest mistake of law or fact, the measure of damages is the value of the oil or gas at the time of extraction, without interest, after deducting all costs of development, operation, and production, including taxes and interest on all expenditures from the date thereof [*Code Civ. Proc. § 349*3/4].

However, when a well is intentionally diverted beneath adjoining property, the party committing the trespass must pay the value of the oil and gas converted without any deduction for expenses incurred in bringing it to the surface [Pacific Western Oil Co. v. Bern Oil Co. (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 60, 73, 87 P.2d 1045] .

[e] Statute of Limitations

An action for injunctive relief or damages with respect to an underground trespass from an oil or gas well drilled from a surface location on land other than property in which the aggrieved party has some right, title, or interest, must be commenced within 180 days after it accrues [*Code Civ. Proc. § 349*3/4(a)]. The same limitation applies to an action for conversion or for the taking or removing of oil or gas by means of such a well [Code Civ. Pro c. § 3493/4(b)].

When the trespass is committed by means of a new well on which drilling commenced after September 15, 1935, and the act was knowingly and intentionally committed, the cause of action does not accrue until discovery of the act by the aggrieved party. In all other cases, whether the well was drilled before or after September 15, 1935, the cause of the action accrues 10 days after the time when the well was first placed on production [*Code Civ. Proc. § 349*3/4]. This provision means that the action accrues 10 days after a well is placed on production in such a manner as to give rise to a cause of action on account of the removal of oil, or gas, because the act of removal is specifically made a part of the continuing trespass, the relief of which is limited to the one action [Shell Oil Co. v. Richter (1942) 52 Cal. App. 2d 164, 169, 125 P.2d 930] .

The purpose of the time limits in *Code Civ. Proc. § 349*3/4 is to secure a speedy determination of the rights of parties when wells trespass onto adjoining lands, in order to serve the public interest in the use and conservation of oil and to prevent a multiplicity of unnecessary suits. The statute was designed to determine speedily whether or not those in charge of wells had a right to operate them in the manner in which they weredrilled, and not to settle any controversy as to which persons are entitled to possession of the wells or how long they might remain in possession. Thus, the time limit in *Code Civ. Proc. § 349*3/4 is placed on, and is based on, an existing cause of action, and in no way appears intended to bar any future cause of action that did not then exist [Shell Oil Co. v. Richter (1942) 52 Cal. App. 2d 164, 170, 125 P.2d 930] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.19

§ 393.19 Oil and Gas Liens

[1] Creation of Lien

Under the Oil and Gas Lien Act [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1203.50-1203.66], an oil and gas lien arises in favor of any person who, under contract with the owner of any oil or gas leasehold, performs any labor or furnishes any material or services used or employed, or furnished to be used or employed, in the drilling or operating of any oil or gas well on the leasehold [Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.52]. A lien also arises when labor, services, or materials relate to the constructing, assembling, or repairing of any material furnished to be so used or employed [Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.52]. In adddition, these liens arise whether or not the material is incorporated in or becomes a part of the completed oil or gas well [Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.52]. A lien also arises in favor of subcontractors [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.54].

[2] Amount of Lien

The amount of the lien includes the sum due for labor performed, or materials or services furnished within six months before the date of recording the statement of lien as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.58, including, without limitation, shipping and mileage charges connected therewith, and interest from the due date [Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.52].

[3] Date Lien Arises

The oil or gas lien arises on the date the first item of material or services is furnished or the date the first labor for which a lien is claimed is performed [Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.56].

[4] Extent of Lien

Liens created under Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.52 [see [1], above] extend to all of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.53(a)-(c)]:

- The oil and gas leasehold;

- All oil and gas wells located on the leasehold;
- All oil and gas produced from the wells; and
- All materials and fixtures owned by the leasehold owners and used or furnished for use in drilling or operating a well.

However, liens do not extend to any royalty interests, overriding interests, and production payments created by an instrument recorded before the date that materials or services were first furnished, or labor was first performed, and for which a lien is claimed [Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.53(a), (c)]. Oil and gas liens also do not extend to work done after production has ceased, such as removal of unused and abandoned pipelines from an abandoned oil field [Coates v. Shell Western E & P, Inc. (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 904, 912-915, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 187] .

[5] Statement of Lien Must Be Recorded

Every person claiming an oil or gas lien must record a verified statement setting forth all of the following information [Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.58]:

- The itemized amount claimed;
- The dates on which labor was performed or material or services were furnished;
- The name of the leasehold owner, if known;
- The name of the claimant and his or her mailing address;
- A description of the leasehold; and
- If the claimant is a subcontractor, the name of the person for whom the labor was immediately performed or the material or services were immediately furnished.

To be effective, the statement must be recorded within six months after the date the labor was performed or the material or services were furnished. The statement must be recorded in the office of the county recorder for the county in which the leasehold, or some part of the leasehold, is situated [Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.58].

[6] Notice of Lien Claim to Oil or Gas Purchaser

Nothwithstanding anything in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1203.50-1203.66 to the contrary, a lien in oil or gas, or the proceeds of sale, is not effective against any purchaser until written notice of the claim has been delivered to the purchaser [Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.59]. The notice must include the following information [Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.59]:

- The claimant's name and address;
- The amount for which the lien is claimed; and
- A description of the leasehold on which the lien is claimed.

The notice must be delivered personally to the purchaser or by registered letter or certified mail. On receipt of notice, the purchaser must withhold payments, to the extent of the lien amount claimed, until delivery of written notice that the claim has been paid. The withheld funds must be used for payment of the lien judgment on foreclosure. The lien claimant must give written notice, within 10 days, that the claim has been paid [Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.59].

[7] Bond to Release Lien

[a] Recording Requirement

The lessor or owner of the property, or the contractor or subcontractor through whom liens are claimed, may record a bond with the county recorder [Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.60(a)]. When recorded, the bond takes the place of the property against which any claim for lien referred to in the bond is asserted. At any time within the period provided for enforcement in Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.61, any lien claimant may sue on the bond [Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.60(b); see [9], below].

[b] Other Requirements of Bond

A bond filed under Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.60 must do all of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.60(a)]:

- Describe the property on which liens are claimed;
- Refer to the liens in a manner sufficient to identify them;
- Be payable to the lien claimants in an amount equal to 150 percent of the amount of the claimed liens;
- Be executed by the party recording it, as principal, and by a corporate surety authorized to execute such bonds, as surety; and
- Be conditioned so that, in the event the liens are proven, the principal and surety will pay to the obligees named, or their assigns, the amounts of the liens, including costs.

[8] Preference and Priority

On compliance with the recording requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.58 [see [5], above], the lien will be preferred to all other titles, charges, liens, or encumbrances that may attach to or on any of the property after the date the oil or gas lien arises [Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.56; see [3], above]. Liens for the performance of labor will be preferred to all other oil and gas liens. Otherwise, oil and gas liens arising on the same property under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1203.50-1203.66 have equal standing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.57].

[9] Enforcement

An oil and gas lien is enforced in the same manner as provided in Civ. Code §§ 3082-3267 [Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.61]. An enforcement action must be filed within 180 days from the time of recording the lien. If proceedings to enforce the lien are not prosecuted to trial within two years after commencement, the court may in its discretion dismiss the case for want of prosecution. A dismissal for want of prosecution, unless expressly made without prejudice, or a judgment that no lien exists is equivalent to cancellation and removal of the lien from the record [Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.61].

For additional discussion and forms relating to enforcement of liens under Civ. Code §§ 3082-3267 that can be adapted for enforcement of oil and gas liens, see Ch. 361, Mechanics' Liens .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.20

§ 393.20 Abandonment of Right to Remove Oil and Gas

[1] Profit a Prendre Is Subject to Abandonment

A profit a prendre, which is a lessee's or an assignee's right to drill for and produce oil and gas [see § 393.12[2]] can be abandoned, similarly to an easement or other incorporeal hereditament [Gerhard v. Stephens (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 864, 877, 882, 69 Cal. Rptr. 612, 442 P.2d 692 ; see Civ. Code §§ 883.110-883.270 (abandonment of mineral rights)]. A profit a prendre is subject to abandonment even though early California appellate court decisions classified a perpetual profit a prendre as a fee simple estate in real property [Gerhard v. Stephens (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 864, 883, 69 Cal. Rptr. 612, 442 P.2d 692 ; see Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 649, 52 P.2d 237] .

[2] Description as Fee Estate Refers Merely to Duration

Ordinarily, a fee simple interest in real property may not be abandoned, but the description of a perpetual profit a prendre as a fee refers merely to the duration of the estate. California appellate courts have referred to a perpetual profit as a fee estate to distinguish it from a profit held for a term of years. The courts have also recognized that the holder of a profit to remove oil and gas enjoys no definitive possessory ownership of these substances until they are severed from the realty and reduced to possession. Thus, as an incorporeal rather than a corporeal interest, a profit a prendre can be abandoned, regardless of its duration [see Gerhard v. Stephens (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 864, 883, 885, 886, 69 Cal. Rptr. 612, 442 P.2d 692] .

[3] Justification for Permitting Abandonment

The California Supreme Court has justified the rule permitting abandonment of a perpetual right to remove oil and gas by noting that the right reverts to the surface estate, thereby freeing the land of its burden and permitting the owner more complete utilization and enjoyment of the property [Gerhard v. Stephens (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 864, 887, 69 Cal. Rptr.612, 442 P.2d 692] .

[4] Required Findings

In general, a finding of abandonment requires nonuse of the right accompanied by unequivocal and decisive acts clearly showing anintention to abandon. The question of abandonment must be decided by the trier of fact [Gerhard v. Stephens (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 864, 890, 891, 69 Cal. Rptr. 612, 442 P.2d 692] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.21

§ 393.21 Termination of Interests in Oil and Gas

[1] Quitclaiming Lessee's Interest in Expired or Abandoned Lease

[a] Demand for Deed

When the term of any oil, gas, or other mineral right lease has expired, or a lease has been abandoned, the lessor, his or her successor in interest, heirs, or grantees may demand a deed quitclaiming the lessee's interest in the land and minerals covered by the lease [Civ. Code § 883.140(b); see Civ. Code § 883.140(a) (defining "lessee" and "lessor"); see also § 393.60]. Within 30 days after this demand, the lessee, his or her assignee, or other successor in interest must execute, acknowledge, and deliver, or cause to be recorded, a quitclaim deed. When the expiration or abandonment of a lease covers less than the entire interest of the lessee, the lessee must execute, acknowledge, and deliver a notice of surrender or termination or other appropriate instrument covering the interest that has expired or been abandoned [Civ. Code § 883.140(b)].

[b] Action for Damages for Failure to Quitclaim Interest

A lessee or successor in interest who fails to execute the deed, instrument, or notice required by Civ. Code § 883.140(b) within 30 days after the lessor's demand [see [a], above] is liable to the lessor for all damages sustained by the lessor as a result of the failure, including, but not limited to, court costs and reasonable attorney's fees in an action to clear title to the lessor's interest. In addition, the lessee must forfeit the sum of $150 [Civ. Code § 883.140(c); see § 393.61].

[c] Demand Is Limited to Certain Mineral Rights

As used in the statutory scheme for quitclaiming the lessee's interest in an abandoned lease, the term "mineral right" means an interest in minerals, regardless of character, whether fugacious or nonfugacious, organic or inorganic, that is created by grant or reservation, regardless of form, whether a fee or lesser interest, mineral, royalty, or leasehold, absolute or fractional, corporeal or incorporeal, and includes express and implied appurtenant surface rights [Civ. Code § 883.110].

The lessor's right to demand a quitclaim from the lessee of an abandoned lease does not apply to a mineral right reserved to the United States or to an oil or gas lease, mining claim, or other mineral right of a person entitled pursuant thereto, to the extent provided in Civ. Code § 880.240 (specification of interests that are not subject to expiration) [Civ. Code § 883.120(a)]. Similarly, the lessor's right to demand a quitclaim is also inapplicable to a mineral right of the state or a local public entity, or of any other person, to the extent provided in Civ. Code § 880.240 [Civ. Code § 883.120(b)].

[d] Relationship to Other Law and Statutory Rights to Clear Title Is Still Intact

The lessor's ability to demand a quitclaim from the lessee of an abandoned lease does not limit or affect the common law governing abandonment of a mineral right or any other procedure provided by statute for clearing an abandoned mineral right from title to real property [Civ. Code § 883.130].

[2] Action to Terminate Lessee's Right of Entry or Occupation

[a] By Owner of Fee Interest in Surface

When a right of entry or occupation provided by a mining rights lease, including a community lease, for the production of oil, gas, or other hydrocarbons encumbers all or part of the surface or surface zone of leasehold lands, any person who owns a fee interest in the surface may bring an action in superior court to terminate the right as to all or some described portion of the surface and surface zone in which the person owns an interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.030(a); see § 393.67]. The term "surface zone" means the zone that lies above a plane that is 500 feet below the land's surface [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.020(a)].

[b] Action Is Limited to Lands in Certain Urban Areas

The action created by Code Civ. Proc. § 772.030(a) applies only to lands within a city in any county with a population exceeding 4,000,000, or with a population of more than 700,000 and less than 710,000, as determined by the 1960 Federal Decennial Census [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.010].

[c] Requirements for Terminating Right of Entry or Occupation

The court may render a judgment terminating a lessee's right of entry or occupation of the surface and surface zone, subject to those conditions that the court deems fair and equitable, if the evidence shows that all of the following requirements have been satisfied:

- The document that created the leasehold interest was originally executed more than 20 years before filing the action, regardless of any amendments to the document. However, if any amendment was entered expressly for the purpose of waiving, limiting, or rearranging surface rights of entry and occupation by the lessee, the 20-year period must be computed as if the document had been originallyexecuted on the date of the amendment's execution [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.040(a)];

- The subject land is not presently occupied by any of the following:

  - A producing oil or gas well or well bore [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.040(b)(1)];

  - A well or well bore being utilized for injection of water, gas, or other substance into geologic substrata as an aid to oil or gas production or to ameliorate subsidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.040(b)(2)];

  - A well or well bore being utilized for the disposal injection of waste oil well brine and by-products [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.040(b)(3)]; or

- A well or well bore being utilized for the production of water for use in oil field injection, waterflood, and pressure maintenance programs [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.040(b)(4)]; and

- Termination of the right of entry or occupation in the manner requested by plaintiff, or subject to conditions imposed by the court, would not significantly interfere with the right of the lessee, under the lease, to continue operations for the continued production of oil from leasehold strata beneath the surface zone in a practical and economic manner, utilizing production techniques that are appropriate to the leasehold area, consistent with good oil field practice. In addition, termination would not significantly interfere with the lessee's right, under the lease, to gather, transport, and market the oil [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.040(c)].

When the evidence shows that termination of the right of entry would significantly interfere with the lessee's right to continue to produce oil in a practical and economic manner, utilizing appropriate production techniques consistent with good oil field practice, and to gather, transport, and market the oil, the right may not be terminated. Such evidence establishes an absolute defense to the complaint [Butcher v. Okmar Oil Co. (1977) 65 Cal. App. 3d 972, 975, 135 Cal. Rptr. 713 (decided under former Code Civ. Proc. § 751.3, substantially reenacted as Code Civ. Proc. §§ 772.010-772.060)].

[d] Qualification of Judgment

The court may qualify the judgment terminating the surface and surface zone right of entry or occupation so as to provide for limited surface and surface zone easements that the lessee may continue to enjoy within the subject land [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.050(a)].

In addition, a judgment may be conditioned on the relocation of pipelines, roadways, equipment, or lease facilities in a manner that will effectively free the land for surface use, while safeguarding continued oil and gas operations in a practical and economic manner [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.050(b)]. A judgment with any of these conditions must require payment of relocation costs by the plaintiff. However, the plaintiff is entitled to a setoff against the costs to the extent of any benefit to the lessee resulting from the installation of new equipment or material. The plaintiff bears the burden of proving that any benefit accrued to the lessee [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.050(b)].

[e] Certain Agreements Are Unaffected by Judgment

A judgment rendered in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. §§ 772.010-772.060 may not change or affect the terms or operation of any valid unit agreement or valid operating agreement that comes within the provisions of Pub. Res. Code § 3301 (authorizing cooperative development of oil or gas to prevent waste) or Pub. Res. Code § 3321 (mandating unit production to arrest or ameliorate subsidence) [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.030(b)].

[f] Waiver of Action in Lease Is Against Public Policy

It is against public policy for any oil or gas lease, at its inception, to provide for the waiver of any rights created by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 772.010-772.060. In addition, it is against public policy for rights under those provisions to be waived by amendment to any oil or gas lease within 20 years after the date of its execution by a plaintiff or the plaintiff's predecessor in interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.060].

[3] Action to Terminate Dormant Mineral Rights

[a] Brought By Real Property Owner

The owner of real property subject to a mineral right may bring an action under Civ. Code §§ 883.210-883.270 to terminate the mineral right if it is dormant [Civ. Code § 883.210; see § 393.62]. Subject to Civ. Code § 880.370 (five-year grace period to record notice of intent to preserve interest if time for filing expired before, on, or within five years after operative date of statute), Civ. Code §§ 883.210-883.270 apply to all mineral rights, whether executed or recorded before, on, or after January 1, 1985 [Civ. Code § 883.270].

[b] Venue and Procedural Requirements

An action to terminate a mineral right must be brought in the superior court of the county where the real property subject to the mineral right is located. The action must be brought in the same manner and subject to the same procedure as an action to quiet title (Code Civ. Proc. §§ 760.010-765.060), to the extent applicable [Civ. Code § 883.240; for discussion and forms relating to quiet title actions, see Ch. 482, Quieting Title].

[c] Mineral Rights Are Not Subject to Action

In an action to terminate a dormant mineral right, the term "mineral right" has the same meaning and is subject to the same exceptions as in the statutory scheme for quitclaiming the lessee's interest in an abandoned lease [Civ. Code §§ 883.110, 883.120; see [1][c], above].

[d] Dormant Mineral Right

For the purpose of Civ. Code §§ 883.210-883.270, a mineral right is dormant if all of the following conditions are satisfied for the 20-year period immediately preceding commencement of the action to terminate the mineral right [Civ. Code § 883.220]:

- There is no production of the minerals and no exploration, drilling, mining, development, or other operations that affect the minerals, whether on or below the real property's surface or on other property, whether or not unitized or pooled with the real property;

- No separate property tax assessment is made of the mineral right or, if made, no taxes are paid on the assessment; and

- No instrument creating, reserving, transferring, or otherwise evidencing the mineral right is recorded [see Civ. Code §§ 883.230(a), 883.250; see also [e], below].

A mineral right is not dormant if (1) a notice of intent to preserve the mineral right is recorded within the 20-year period immediately preceding commencement of the termination action or (2) a late notice of intent is recorded in accordance with Civ. Code § 883.250 after commencement of the action to terminate [Civ. Code § 883.230(c); see [e], below].

[e] Notice of Intent to Preserve Mineral Right

An owner of a mineral right may at any time record a notice of intent to preserve the mineral right [Civ. Code § 883.230(a); see § 393.63]. In lieu of the statements of the character of the interest claimed, the record location of the documents evidencing the mineral rights claimed, and the legal description of the real property in which the interest is claimed as otherwise required by Civ. Code § 880.330(b) (contents of notice), and notwithstanding Civ. Code § 880.340 (form of notice) or other provisions in Civ. Code §§ 880.020-887.090 (marketable record title), a notice of intent to preserve a mineral right may refer generally and without specificity to any or all mineral rights claimed by claimant in any real property situated in the county [Civ. Code § 883.230(b)].

In an action brought to terminate a mineral right, the court will permit the mineral right's owner to record a late notice of intent to preserve the mineral right as a condition of the action's dismissal, on payment into court for the benefit of the real property's owner, the litigation expenses attributable to the mineral right, or portion of the right, for which the notice is recorded. "Litigation expenses" means recoverable costs and expenses reasonably and necessarily incurred in preparation for the action, including a reasonable attorney's fee [Civ. Code § 883.250].

[f] Effect of Termination

A terminated mineral right is unenforceable and deemed to have expired. A court order terminating a mineral right is, for all purposes, equivalent to a conveyance of the mineral right to the real property's owner [Civ. Code § 883.260].

[g] Nonexclusive Remedy

Nothing in Civ. Code §§ 883.210-883.270 limits or affects the common law governing abandonment of a mineral right or any other procedure provided by statute for clearing an abandoned mineral right from title to real property [Civ. Code § 883.130].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 393.22-393.39

[Reserved]

§§ 393.22[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.40

§ 393.40 Related Matthew Bender Publications

[1] California Legal Forms

For detailed discussion of the transfer, assignment, and development of oil and gas interests in California, inluding coverage of the basic steps necessary to lease oil and gas interests as well as a complete lease document, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 36, Oil and Gas Rights and Leases (Matthew Bender)

For transactional coverage of the major types of natural resources, with a focus on the basic procedures that must be followed under state and federal law when establishing a timber operation, negotiating and executing a water supply contract, or staking a claim to a mine, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 36A, Mining Claims, Timber Interests, and Water Rights (Matthew Bender)

[2] California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice

For coverage of mineral ownership generally, including the respective rights of surface owners and mineral owners, and the environmental protection laws applicable to mineral development, see Manaster & Selmi, California Environmental Law And Land Use Practice, Ch. 82, Mineral Development (Matthew Bender)

[3] Oil and Gas Law

For detailed coverage of all aspects of oil and gas interests, see Williams & Meyers, Oil And Gas Law (Matthew Bender), including, for example, the following materials:

- Ch. 1, A Brief Introduction to Scientific and Engineering Backround of Oil and Gas Law
- Ch. 2, Nature of Interests in Oil and Gas.

- Ch. 3, Oil and Gas Conveyancing
- Ch. 6, The Oil and Gas Lease--Express Provisions.
- Vol. 7, Oil and Gas Forms
- Vol. 8, Manual of Oil and Gas Terms

[4] The Law of Oil and Gas Leases

For complete coverage of oil and gas leases, see Brown & Brown, The Law Of Oil And Gas Leases (Matthew Bender), including, for example, the following chapters:

- Ch. I, Introduction
- Ch. II, Who May Make a Lease
- Ch. III, Consideration and Granting Clause
- Ch. IV, Description
- Ch. V, The "Habendum" or Term Clause
- Ch. VI, The Royalty Clauses
- Ch. VII, The Drilling and Rental Clause
- Ch. X, Operational Rights and Restrictions
- Ch. XI, The Assignment Clause
- Ch. XVII, Special Clauses in Leases and Assignments

[5] Energy Law and Transactions

For all aspects of energy law, including state and federal regulations of energy transactions, see Muchow & Mogel, Energy Law And Practice (Matthew Bender), including, for example, the following chapters:

- Ch. 1, The U.S. Energy Industry.
- Ch. 3, Federal Regulation of Energy Transactions.
- Ch. 4, State Utility Commission Regulation of Energy Transactions.
- Ch. 5, State Regulation of Oil and Gas Production.
- Ch. 20, Oil and Gas Contracts.
- Ch. 34, Oil and Gas Accounting.

- Ch. 41, State and Local Taxation of Oil and Gas.
- Ch. 120, Energy and the Environment.

[6] Other Matthew Bender Oil and Gas Publications

American Gas Association, Regulation Of The Gas Industry (Matthew Bender)

Kramer and Martin, The Law Of Pooling And Unitization (Matthew Bender)

Rocky Mountain Mineral Law Foundation, Law Of Federal Oil And Gas Leases(Matthew Bender)

Polevoi and Smith, Federal Taxation Of Oil And Gas Transactions (Matthew Bender)

Crumbley, Oil, Gas & Energy Quarterly (Matthew Bender)

Southwestern Legal Foundation, Annual Institute On Oil And Gas Law And Taxation (Matthew Bender)

Southwestern Legal Foundation, Oil And Gas Reporter (Matthew Bender)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.41

§ 393.41 State Statutes

[1] Conveyance of Oil and Gas Interests

Registration and penal provisions governing telephonic sellers, including sellers of certain oil and gas interests. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17511-17511.10

Rule against perpetuities. Prob. Code § 21200 et seq.

[2] Oil and Gas Liens

Oil and Gas Lien Act. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1203.50-1203.66

Oil and gas liens provided by Oil and Gas Lien Act are enforced in same manner as provided in Civ. Code §§ 3082-3267. Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.61(a)

[3] Quiet Title Actions

Generally. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 760.010-765.060

Quiet title remedy provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 760.010-764.070 is not exclusive. Code Civ. Proc. § 760.020

Superior court has jurisdiction in actions to quiet title. Code Civ. Proc. § 760.040

Venue in quiet title actions is in county in which property or some part of property is located. Code Civ. Proc. § 760.050(a)

Contents and verification of complaint. Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020

Unknown defendants. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 762.020(a), 762.060(a)

Facts regarding unknown, uncertain, or contingent claims are required to be in complaint. Code Civ. Proc. § 762.020(b)

Plaintiff is required to name as defendants persons having adverse claims. Code Civ. Proc. § 762.060(b)

Service of process in quiet title actions. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 763.010-763.040

Judgment in quiet title actions. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 764.010-764.080

[4] Quitclaiming Interest in Expired or Abandoned Mineral Leases

Demand for quitclaim of lessee's interest when lease expired or abandoned. Civ. Code § 883.140(b)

Lessee who fails to quitclaim interest is liable for damages, including court costs and reasonable attorney's fees. Civ. Code § 883.140(c)

Lessee is required to quitclaim or surrender interest covered by expired or abandoned lease within 30 days of lessor's demand. Civ. Code § 883.140(b)

Action for forfeiture of $150 and for damages resulting from lessee's failure to quitclaim or surrender interest covered by expired or abandoned oil and gas lease. Civ. Code § 883.140(c)

[5] Regulation of Oil and Gas

Recordation of oil and gas leases. Civ. Code § 1219

Regulation of production in general. Pub. Res. Code § 3000 et seq.

Authorization of cooperative development of oil or gas to prevent waste. Pub. Res. Code § 3301

Mandatory unit production to arrest or ameliorate subsidence. Pub. Res. Code § 3321

Regulation of well spacing. Pub. Res. Code §§ 3600-3609

Oil and gas leases with respect to public lands. Pub. Res. Code §§ 6801-6873

[6] Termination of Dormant Mineral Rights

"Mineral right" defined. Civ. Code § 883.110

Exemptions to termination action. Civ. Code § 883.120

General provisions for terminating dormant mineral rights. Civ. Code §§ 883.210-883.270

Dormant mineral right described. Civ. Code §§ 883.220, 883.230(c)

Procedure. Civ. Code § 883.240

Notice of intent to preserve mineral right. Civ. Code §§ 883.230, 883.250

Effect of termination. Civ. Code § 883.260

Termination action is applicable to mineral rights whenever excuted or recorded. Civ. Code § 883.270

[7] Termination of Lessee's Right of Entry or Occupation

Action limited to lands in certain urban areas. Code Civ. Proc. § 772.010

Term "surface zone" defined. Code Civ. Proc. § 772.020(a)

Any person who owns fee interest in surface is entitled to bring action to terminate lessee's right of entry or occupation. Code Civ. Proc. § 772.030(a)

Action to terminate lessee's right must be brought in superior court. Code Civ. Proc. § 772.030(a)

Certain agreements unaffected by judgment. Code Civ. Proc. § 772.030(b)

Requirements for terminating right of entry or occupation. Code Civ. Proc. § 772.040(a)-(c)

Qualification of and conditions on judgment. Code Civ. Proc. § 772.050

Waiver of rights created by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 772.010-772.060 in lease is against public policy. Code Civ. Proc. § 772.060

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.42

§ 393.42 Federal Statutes

Liability for oil spill pollution. 33 U.S.C. § 2701 et seq.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.43

§ 393.43 Decisions

[1] Abandonment of Oil and Gas Rights

Right to drill for and produce oil and gas is similar to easement or other incorporeal hereditament and thus, subject to abandonment. Gerhard v. Stephens (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 864, 883, 69 Cal. Rptr. 612, 442 P.2d 692

[2] Community Leases

When community lease does not restrict use to which surrendered lot may be put or provide for forfeiture of lessor's interest in community production, lessor is permitted to produce oil on adjacent land that has been surrendered from community lease even though lessor's activities decrease profits of cotenants. Tanner v. Olds (1946) 29 Cal. 2d 110, 115-116, 173 P.2d 6

In action seeking declaration that community oil and gas lease has terminated, lot owners who are entitled to share royalties on any oil that might be produced are indispensable parties. Southern Cal. Title Clearing Co. v. Laws (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 586, 590, 83 Cal. Rptr. 8

[3] Cotenants

Producing cotenant is required to account to other cotenants for their respective percentages of profits. Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 655, 656, 52 P.2d 237

[4] Federal Preemption

When state regulation affects ability of Federal Energy Regulatory Commission to regulate transportation and sale of natural gas comprehensively and to achieve objective of Natural Gas Act (uniformity of regulation) or presents prospect of interference with federal regulatory power, state law is preempted even though collision between regulations may not be inevitable consequence. Schneidewind v. ANR Pipeline Co. (1988) 485 U.S. 293, 310, 108 S. Ct. 1145, 99 L. Ed. 2d 316 (statute regulating issuance of securities by public utility transporting natural gas was preempted)

15 U.S.C. § 717 et seq., former § 3313 et seq. (repealed January 1, 1993), preempts authority of state (Mississippi) oil and gas board to require production company, in periods of slack demand, to purchase from all owners ratably in proportion to their various shares in common pool rather than only from owners who were also well operators, since ratable requirement would conflict with federal interest in protecting consumers by ensuring low prices. Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp. v. Oil & Gas Bd. (1986) 474 U.S. 409, 414-425, 106 S. Ct. 709, 88 L. Ed. 2d 732

[5] Landowner's Oil and Gas Interest

Court's description of perpetual profit a prendre as fee estate refers merely to duration of estate. Gerhard v. Stephens (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 864, 883, 69 Cal. Rptr. 612, 442 P.2d 692

When granted to lessee or assignee, right to drill for and produce oil and gas is profit a prendre, which is right to remove part of substance of the land. Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 649, 52 P.2d 237

Interest in oil and gas is subject to conveyance separately and apart from grant of surface title. Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 649, 52 P.2d 237

Landowner does not have absolute title to oil and gas in place but possesses exclusive right to drill for oil and gas and to retain all substances brought to the surface. Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 117, 43 P.2d 788

Conveyance of land "ex of mining rights" conveys land subject only to existing oil and gas lease, not with perpetual right to drill. Lough v. Coal Oil, Inc. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 1518, 1525-1527, 266 Cal. Rptr. 611

[6] Oil and Gas Leases

Construction by trial court of oil lease provision without consideration of extrinsic evidence is reversible error. Southern Pacific Land Co. v. Westlake Farms, Inc. (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 807, 815-817, 233 Cal. Rptr. 794

Habendum clause is modifiable by other lease provisions. Southern Pacific Land Co. v. Westlake Farms, Inc. (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 807, 818-825, 233 Cal. Rptr. 794

Oil and gas leases ordinarily contain clause permitting lessee to cease operations and to surrender lease if lessee no longer considers it possible to continue operations profitably. La Laguna Ranch Co. v. Dodge (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 132, 140, 114 P.2d 351

When used in surrender clause of oil and gas lease, term "rent" means consideration for privilege of delayed drilling. Beverly Hills Oil Co. v. Beverly Hills Unified Sch. Dist. (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 603, 608, 70 Cal. Rptr. 640

[7] Oil and Gas Lien Act

Oil and Gas Lien Act's [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1203.50-1203.66] definitions in Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.51(b) of oil and gas leasehold owner includes person holding any interest in legal or equitable title or both to any leasehold for oil or gas purposes and is not limited to actual owner in conventional sense. Cal-Cut Pipe & Supply, Inc. v. Haradine Petroleum, Inc. (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 359, 369, 110 Cal. Rptr. 666

Definitions of term "owner" in Oil and Gas Lien Act [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1203.50-1203.66] is required to be liberally construed in plaintiff's favor under Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.66. Cal-Cut Pipe & Supply, Inc. v. Haradine Petroleum, Inc. (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 359, 370, 110 Cal. Rptr. 666

Legislature intended that phrase "person holding any interest in the title to any leasehold for oil or gas purposes" used in defining owner under Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.51(b) should include a person who holds an interest less than title in an oil and gas leasehold. Cal-Cut Pipe & Supply, Inc. v. Haradine Petroleum, Inc. (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 359, 371, 110 Cal. Rptr. 666

Grantee of right to drill for and produce oil, which is a profit a prendre or incorporeal hereditament, has an interest in title making him or her "owner" under Code Civ. Proc. § 1203.51(b) for purposes of enforcing liens for furnishing materials and services under Oil and Gas Lien Act [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1203.50-1203.66]. Cal-Cut Pipe & Supply, Inc. v. Haradine Petroleum, Inc. (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 359, 372, 110 Cal. Rptr. 666

[8] Rental for Delayed Drilling

Action for delayed drilling rentals is not proper when lease contains "unless" type of provision automatically terminating lease unless lessee commences drilling or pays rent. Fritsch v. Fisher (1957) 151 Cal. App. 2d 732, 734-735, 312 P.2d 21

Demurrer to complaint in action seeking delayed drilling rentals was properly sustained when oil and gas lease was "unless" type. Walston v. Flintridge Oil Co. (1955) 133 Cal. App. 2d 660, 663, 284 P.2d 895

Notice of lessee's default is not required to effect termination of "unless" type lease before quiet title action because lease automatically expires when lessee fails to commence drilling or pay delayed drilling rental. Richfield Oil Corp. v. Bloomfield (1951) 103 Cal. App. 2d 589, 590-591, 229 P.2d 838

Notice of default provision has no effect on automatic termination in "unless" type of oil and gas lease. Richfield Oil Corp. v. Bloomfield (1951) 103 Cal. App. 2d 589, 590-591, 229 P.2d 838

[9] Royalty Interests

Assignment of overriding royalty by lessee conveys to assignee only the right to receive percentage of oil produced from wells bottomed under land to which lease pertained. Federal Oil Co. v. Brower (1950) 36 Cal. 2d 367, 369-370, 224 P.2d 4

Term "overriding royalty" refers to fractional interest in production of oil and gas that is created from lessee's estate or interest either by reservation or grant to third party. La Laguna Ranch Co. v. Dodge (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 132, 135, 114 P.2d 351

Extent of assignee's interest under assignment of royalty or overriding royalty depends on intention of parties involved. La Laguna Ranch Co v. Dodge (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 132, 137, 138, 114 P.2d 351

Royalty that lessee renders to lessor for right to drill for and produce oil and gas, analogous to rent and right to receive future royalties, is incorporeal hereditament that may be conveyed. Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 651, 52 P.2d 237

[10] Rule Against Perpetuities

Grantor's reserved right to drill for and produce oil and gas, which is profit a prendre, was a present possessory interest that vested from the time it was first created and thus was not created in violation of rule against perpetuities codified in former Civ. Code § 715.2 (now see Prob. Code §§ 21201, 21205-21208, 21230). Rousselot v. Spanier (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 238, 241, 131 Cal. Rptr. 438

Expiration of profit a prendre because oil and gas no longer found in paying quantities leaves grantees with their estate free of the burden and does not create new estate in violation of rule against perpetuities. Rousselot v. Spanier (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 238, 241, 131 Cal. Rptr. 438

Exclusive executive interest in mineral estate, which is the right to execute leases to secure exploration and development of minerals, reserved by grantor does not violate former Civ. Code § 715.2 (rule against perpetuities) (now see Prob. Code §§ 21201, 21205-21208, 21230) because interest constitutes general power of appointment that vests immediately. Keville v. Hollister Co. (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 203, 205-206 n.1, 207, 105 Cal. Rptr. 238

Deed excepting and reserving to grantors all oil and gas and continuing interest for period of 20 years and so long thereafter as oil and gas may or shall be produced makes termination of production a dubious, uncertain event in violation of former Civ. Code § 715.2 (rule against perpetuities) (now see Prob. Code §§ 21201, 21205-21208, 21230). Victory Oil Co. v. Hancock Oil Co. (1954) 125 Cal. App. 2d 222, 230-231, 270 P.2d 604

[11] Subsurface Trespass

Causing subsurface migration of oil field wastewater into a mineral estate (the groundwater pore space) without that landowner's consent constituted continuing trespass. Starrh & Starrh Cotton Growers v. Aera Energy LLC (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 583, 592, 63 Cal. Rptr. 3d 165

Injection of wastewater into well constitutes a trespass to mineral estate; damages are fair market cost of disposal of wastewater at other availablesites. Cassinos v. Union Oil Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1770, 1778-1789, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 574

*Code Civ. Proc. § 349*3/4 prohibiting more than one cause of action for an act of underground trespass does not bar cause of action based on act constituting new trespass. Shell Oil Co. v. Richter (1942) 52 Cal. App. 2d 164, 171, 125 P.2d 930

Award of costs of well to defendant in connection with injunctive relief in favor of plaintiff to enjoin subsurface trespass is not supported by *Code Civ. Proc. § 349*3/4, which deals solely with measure of damages when plaintiff seeks award of damages. Union Oil Co. v. Domengeaux (1939) 30 Cal. App. 2d 266, 272, 86 P.2d 127

Injunction is properly granted to stop subsurface trespass from oil well that deviates materially from the perpendicular due to slant drilling when plaintiffs have suffered damages, even though a specific amount is not sought, and the continuing trespass threatens future damages. Union Oil Co. v. Domengeaux (1939) 30 Cal. App. 2d 266, 270-272, 86 P.2d 127

Landowner's exclusive right to drill for and produce oil and gas from beneath surface of his or her land does not include authority to sink well at such an angle that it goes beyond surface boundaries of property, if extended downward, and intercepts oil and gas from subsurface of neighboring owner. A.E. Bell Corp. v. Bell View Oil Synd. (1938) 24 Cal. App. 2d 587, 595, 596, 76 P.2d 167

Action for subsurface trespass and conversion of oil and gas is authorized. A.E. Bell Corp. v. Bell View Oil Synd.

(1938) 24 Cal. App. 2d 587, 603, 610, 76 P.2d 167

[12] Surrender Clauses

Surrender of profit a prendre under surrender clause is effective without any additional consent of lessor, unless clause specifically states otherwise; surrender clause is not interpreted to allow lessor at any time to withhold acceptance and thus defeat lessee's right to surrender property, when this interpretation would effectively nullify parties' surrender provision. Kennecott Corp. v. Union Oil Co. (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1179, 1188, 1190, 242 Cal. Rptr. 403

[13] Taxation of Oil and Gas Interests

Right to drill for and extract oil and gas from land is interest in real property under Rev. & Tax Code § 104 that is subject to property taxation. Atlantic Oil Co. v. Los Angeles County (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 585, 595-596, 72 Cal. Rptr. 886, 446 P.2d 1006

Although classified as an incorporeal hereditament and an interest in land under general concepts of property law, the right to receive royalties as not considered real property under Rev. & Tax Code § 104 for purposes of property taxation. Atlantic Oil Co. v. Los Angeles County (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 585, 595, 72 Cal. Rptr. 886, 446 P.2d 1006

Taxable value of oil and gas property was purchase price pursuant to Rev. & Tax. Code§ 110 even though "proved" oil and gas reserves as defined by the applicable State Board of Equalization Rule [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 468] had not been established, because purchaser failed to establish different value by preponderance of the evidence. California Minerals, L.P. v. County of Kern (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 1016, 1029, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1

Taxation of oil "at the market price at the well" means that costs of transportation and processing are deductible before percentage of royalties iscalculated. Atlantic Richfield Co. v. State of California (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 533, 541-543, 262 Cal. Rptr. 683

[14] Termination of Lessee's Right of Entry or Occupation

Statutory provisions authorizing action to terminate oil and gas lessee's right of entry to or occupation of surface [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 772.010-772.060] is not unconstitutional impairment of contractual obligations under U.S. Const., Art I, § 10 or Cal. Const., Art I, § 9, and is also not unconstitutional denial of substantive due process under U.S. Const., Amend. XIV or Cal. Const., Art I, § 15. Donlan v. Weaver (1981) 118 Cal. App. 3d 675, 683, 173 Cal. Rptr. 566

Code Civ. Proc. §§ 772.010-772.060, which are reenactments of former Code Civ. Proc. § 751.3, are applicable retroactively to authorize termination of rights of entry or occupation under oil and gas leases executed both before and after effective date of statute. Donlan v. Weaver (1981) 118 Cal. App. 3d 675, 679, 173 Cal. Rptr. 566

Code Civ. Proc. §§ 772.010-772.060, providing for action to terminate lessee's right of entry to or occupation of leasehold surface, are intended to eliminate right of entry or occupation that affects and encumbers surface areas no longer utilized or needed for conduct of leasehold operations. Donlan v. Weaver (1981) 118 Cal. App. 3d 675, 679-680, 173 Cal. Rptr. 566

[15] Well Spacing Regulation

Well spacing statutes [Pub. Res. Code §§ 3600-3609] are constitutional on their face but unconstitutional as applied to certain wells when application would not afford adequate means of protection as substitute for the right to drill an offset well. Bernstein v. Bush (1947) 29 Cal. 2d 773, 780, 177 P.2d 913

Writ of mandate is not proper to compel issuance of permit under well spacing statutes [Pub. Res. Code §§ 3600-3609] because there is no requirement that prospective drillers obtain permit or that state oil and gas supervisor issue permit before commencement of drilling. Bernstein v. Bush (1947) 29 Cal. 2d 773, 781, 177 P.2d 913

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.44

§ 393.44 Law Reviews and Periodicals

Abbott & Boyd, Money for Nothing-- Shut-in Royalty Clauses in Oil and Gas Leases, 16 E. Min. L. Inst. 493-532 (1997).

Conine, Crude Oil Royalty Valuation: The Growing Controversy Over Posted Prices and Market Value, 43 Rocky Mtn. Min. L. Inst. 18.1-18.36 (1997).

Sykes, Hidden Provisions of Oil and Gas Leases or "You Can't Fool Me---There Ain't No Sanity Clause," 17 E. Min. L. Inst. 467-511 (1997).

Watson, The Deductibility of Postproduction Costs in Determining Royalty and Overriding Royalty Under Nonfederal Leases, 48 Inst. on Oil & Gas L. & Tax'n 6.1-6.60 (1997).

Leahy, Oil Royalty Valuation Issues: The Lessor's Perspective, 47 Inst. on Oil & Gas L. & Tax'n 7.1-7.49 (1996).

Bishop, Arbitration of Oil and Gas Disputes: Recent Developments and Innovative Techniques, 47 Inst. on Oil & Gas L. & Tax'n 4.1-4.55 (1996).

Martin & Webre, Gas Royalty Issues: Who, What, How, and When? Valuation and Payment in Today's Market, 46 Inst. on Oil & Gas L. & Tax'n 2.1-2.26 (1995).

Fambrough, When an Oil and Gas Lease Terminates, 42 Oil & Gas Tax Q. 615-625 (1994).

Fambrough, Negotiating an Oil and Gas Lease, 42 Oil & Gas Tax Q. 381-409 (1994).

Lynch, The "Perfect" Oil and Gas Lease (an Oxymoron), 40 Rocky Mtn. Min. L. Inst. 3.1-3.43 (1994).

Hollingsworth, California Gas: a Brief History and Recent Events, 21 Alta. L. Rev. 86-106 (1993).

Hardwick & Hayes, Gas Royalty Issues Arising From Direct Gas Marketing, 43 Inst. on Oil & Gas L. & Tax'n 11.1-11.75 (1992).

Shaw, California "Paying Quantities" Law and Current Statutory Law Affecting Idle Oil and Gas Wells, 10 Cal. Real. Prop. J. 34-42 Summ. 2 (1992).

Maxwell, Appropriate Damages for Breach of Implied Covenants on Oil and Gas Leases, 42 Inst. on Oil & Gas. L. & Tax'n 7.1-.35 (1991).

Note, "Not on My Beach": Local California Initiatives to Prevent Onshore Support Facilities for Offshore Oil Development, 38 Hastings L.J. 957 (1987)

Every, The Questionable Status of Certain Retail Petroleum Marketers Under the Petroleum Marketing Practices Act, 39 Bus. Law. 1655 (1984)

Comment, Offshore Federalism: Evolving Federal-State Relations in Offshore Oil and Gas Development, 11 Ecology L.Q. 401 (1984)

Comment, The Surreptitious Geophysical Survey: An Interference With Prospective Advantage, 15 Pacific L.J. 381 (1984)

Comment, Liability for Transnational Pollution Arising From Offshore Oil Development: A Methodological Approach, 10 Ecology L.Q. 641 (1983)

Comment, The Oil and Gas Lease in California: Still a Landlord-Tenant Relationship? 13 Pacific L.J. 485 (1981)

Comment, "Coastal Zone Impacts of Offshore Oil and Gas Development: An Accomodation Through the California Coastal Act of 1976," 8 Pacific L.J. 783 (1977)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.45

§ 393.45 Text References

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 7, Constitutional Law, §§ 615-617; vol. 8, Constitutional Law, §§ 1278-1279; vol. 12, Real Property, §§ 20, 38, 66, 140, 298, 305-311, 331-332, 517-526, 565-566, 568-573, 576-580, 590, 594, 770, 882 (10th ed. 2005)

58 C.J.S., Mines and Minerals, §§ 95, 195-279

38 Am. Jur. 2d, Gas and Oil, §§ 1-227, 285-340

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 393.46-393.59

[Reserved]

§§ 393.46[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART IV. FORMS

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.60

§ 393.60 Demand for Quitclaim Deed of Lessee's Interest in Minerals Covered by Terms of Expired or Abandoned Oil and Gas Lease or for Notice of Surrender or Termination Covering Expired or Abandoned Portion of Lessee's Interest in Minerals [Civ. Code § 883.140(b)]--By Lessor to Lessee

[1] FORM Demand for Quitclaim Deed of Lessee's Interest in Minerals Covered by Terms of Expired or Abandoned Oil and Gas Lease or for Notice of Surrender or Termination Covering Expired or Abandoned Portion of Lessee's Interest in Minerals [Civ. Code § 883.140(b)]--By Lessor to Lessee

TO: _____ [name of lessee, lessee's assignee, or other successor in interest]

The oil and gas lease, dated _____ [date], between _____ [name], lessee, and _____ [name], lessor, covering _____ [describe leased land, e.g., Lots 12-14 of the Scars Tract on Westbinder Road in Los Angeles, California], has _____ [by its terms expired or been abandoned] as of _____ [date]. Thus, _____ [your interest or the portion of your interest covered by the above lease] in the land and minerals as lessee has terminated.

As _____ [lessor or the lessor's heir or the lessor's grantee or the lessor's successor in interest], the undersigned demands that you execute, acknowledge, and deliver [, or cause to be recorded,] a _____ [deed quitclaiming all of your interest in the lands and minerals covered by the terms of the lease or if expiration or abandonment covers less than lessee's entire interest, notice or other appropriate instrument of surrender or termination covering the portion of your interest] that has _____ [expired or been abandoned], as required by Civil Code Section 883.140(b).

Your failure to comply with the requirements of Civil Code Section 883.140(b) will make you liable to the undersigned, under this provision, for damages resulting from your refusal, including court costs and reasonable attorney's fees, and in addition, will cause you to forfeit the sum of $150.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By:_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Lessor['s Successor in Interest] _____ [name]

_____ [date]

[2] Use of Form

The form of demand in [1], above, may be used by a lessor under an oil and gas lease when seeking the lessee's agreement that his or her interest in the leased land and minerals [Civ. Code § 883.110] has expired or been abandoned. Within 30 days after a lessor's demand, the lessee or his or her successor in interest must execute, acknowledge, and deliver, or cause to be recorded, a deed quitclaiming his or her interest in an oil and gas lease that has expired or been abandoned [Civ. Code §§ 883.110-883.140]. When the expiration or abandonment covers less than the entire interest of the lessee in the leased land and minerals, the lessee must execute, acknowledge, and deliver a notice of surrender or termination or other appropriate instrument covering the interest that has expired or been abandoned [Civ. Code § 883.140(b); see § 393.21[1]]. The lessor may bring an action for damages when a lessee fails to quitclaim or surrender an expired or abandoned interest [Civ. Code § 883.140(c); see § 393.61; see also § 393.21[1][b]].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART IV. FORMS

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.61

§ 393.61 Complaint to Quiet Title [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 760.020(a), 761.020] and for Damages and Forfeiture [Civ. Code § 883.140(c)] With Respect to Expired or Abandoned Oil and Gas Lease--By Lessor Against Lessee Who Failed to Give Quitclaim Deed or Notice of Surrender or Termination Covering Terminated Interest [Civ. Code § 883.140(b)]

[1] FORM Complaint to Quiet Title [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 760.020(a), 761.020] and for Damages and Forfeiture [Civ. Code § 883.140(c)] With Respect to Expired or Abandoned Oil and Gas Lease--By Lessor Against Lessee Who Failed to Give Quitclaim Deed or Notice of Surrender or Termination Covering Terminated Interest [Civ. Code § 883.140(b)]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name(s) of known defendant(s)], [if unknown defendants are included, add:; and all persons unknown, claiming any legal or equitable right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the property described in the complaint adverse to plaintiff's title, or any cloud on plaintiff's title thereto] [; and DOES I-_____, inclusive],	)	COMPLAINT TO QUIET TITLE AND FOR DAMAGES AND FORFEITURE
Defendant(s).	)

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff is the sole owner of real property located in _____ County, California, and described as follows: _____ [set forth legal description, including street address or common designation, if any].

2. The basis of plaintiff's title is _____ [describe basis of plaintiff's title, e.g., a deed from _____ (name of grantor) granting the above-described property in fee simple to plaintiff, dated _____, and recorded in the Official Records of the County of _____, Book/Reel _____, page/image _____].

3. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff['s predecessor in interest] as lessor and defendant _____ [name] ['s predecessor in interest] as lessee entered into an oil and gas lease. A copy of the lease is attached to this complaint as Exhibit "A" and made a part of this complaint.

[4. Defendants DOES I-_____, inclusive, are sued herein under fictitious names. Their true names and capacities are unknown to plaintiff. When their true names and capacities are ascertained, plaintiff will amend this complaint by inserting their true names and capacities herein. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of these fictitiously named defendants claim some right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the above-described property adverse to plaintiff's title; and that their claims, and each of them, constitute a cloud on plaintiff's title to that property.]

[5. If "all persons unknown" are named as defendants, allege: The defendants herein named as "all persons unknown, claiming any legal or equitable right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the property described in the complaint adverse to plaintiff's title, or any cloud on plaintiff's title thereto" (hereinafter sometimes referred to as "the unknown defendants") are unknown to plaintiff. These unknown defendants, and each of them, claim some right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the previously described property adverse to plaintiff's title; and their claims, and each of them, constitute a cloud on plaintiff's title to that property.]

[6. If the claim or share or quantity of the claim of a named defendant is unknown, uncertain, or contingent, allege: The _____ (claim or quantity of the claim) of defendant(s) _____ (name(s)) is _____ (unknown or uncertain or contingent). If the lack of knowledge, uncertainty, or contingency is caused by a transfer to an unborn or unascertained person or class member, or by a transfer in the form of a contingent remainder, a vested remainder subject to defeasance, an executory interest, or a similar disposition, allege: _____ (Name), age _____, is the person who would be entitled to an adverse interest if _____ (describe contingency) had occurred before the commencement of this action. If that person is subject to a legal disability, allege: He/She is subject to _____ (specify legal disability).]

7. The lease between plaintiff['s predecessor in interest] as lessor and defendant(s)['(s) predecessor(s) in interest] as lessee provided that _____ [describe provisions on which plaintiff bases expiration or abandonment, e.g., if drilling operations were not commenced within one year from the date of the lease, it would terminate as to both parties, unless, before the expiration of one year, the lessee paid to the lessor a certain sum as rental, which would cover the privilege of deferring the commencement of drilling operations for a period of one year].

8. The lease _____ [expired or was abandoned] on or about _____ [date], because _____ [state facts showing expiration or abandonment, e.g., defendant(s) failed to commence drilling or to pay delayed drilling rental before _____ (date) the date on which the lease would automatically expire if defendant(s) failed to take either action]. As a result of the _____ [expiration or abandonment] of the lease, _____ [defendant(s)'(s) entire interest or the portion of defendant(s)'(s)interest covered by the lease] in the above-described property and minerals has _____ [expired or been abandoned].

9. On _____ [date], plaintiff served on defendant(s) a demand that defendant(s) execute, acknowledge, and deliver [, or cause to be recorded,] a _____ [deed quitclaiming all of his/her/their interest as lessee in the lands and minerals covered by the terms of the lease or notice or other appropriate instrument of surrender or termination covering the portion of his/her/their interest as lessee] that had _____ [expired or been abandoned], as required by Civil Code Section 883.140(b).

10. Although more than 30 days have passed since defendant(s) was/were served with plaintiff's demand, defendant(s) has/have failed and refuse(s) to execute, acknowledge, and deliver[, or cause to be recorded,] a _____ [quitclaim deed or notice or other appropriate instrument of surrender or termination] covering his/her/their interest under the lease.

11. Plaintiff is seeking to quiet title against the claims of defendant(s) as follows: defendant(s) _____ [name(s) of the named defendant(s)], who claim(s) some right, title, estate, lien, or interest in and to the lands of plaintiff hereinbefore described, based on the lease described in Paragraph 3 [_____ (continue with whichever are applicable:; the claims of the successor defendants described in Paragraph _____; the claims of all unknown defendants described in Paragraph 5, whether or not the claim or cloud is known to plaintiff; and the unknown, uncertain, or contingent claim, if any, of _____ (name) more fully described in Paragraph 6)]. Claim(s) of defendant(s) is/are without any right whatever and defendant(s) has/have no right title, estate, lien, or interest whatever in the above-described property, or any part of that property[, except the following: _____ (set forth any claims of which plaintiff admits the validity,.e.g., the utility easement held by Pacific Gas and Electric Company)].

12. Plaintiff seeks to quiet title as of _____ [date]. [If requested determination date is other than date of filing complaint, allege: Plaintiff seeks a determination as of this date because _____ (specify reason, e.g., the lease automatically expired on this date as a result of defendant(s)'(s) failure to commence drilling or pay rental)].

13. As a proximate result of defendant(s)'(s) refusal to execute, acknowledge, and deliver[, or cause to be recorded,] a _____ [quitclaim deed or notice or other appropriate instrument of surrender or termination], plaintiff has suffered damages, as follows: _____ [specify, e.g., Plaintiff has been forced to delay negotiations for leasing the land, at a loss of $_____. In addition, plaintiff has incurred and will continue to incur court costs and expenses for attorney's fees in the prosecution of this action].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant [s, and each of them], as follows:

1. For a judgment that plaintiff is the owner in fee simple of the property and that defendant(s) has/have no interest in the property adverse to the plaintiff's [under the lease dated _____];

2. For damages in the sum of $_____;

3. For forfeiture of the sum of $150 to plaintiff by defendant(s);

4. For reasonable attorney's fees;

5. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

6. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By:_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff_____ [name]

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the plaintiff in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters that are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]
_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a complaint that may be used in an action to quiet title [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.010 et seq.] against an oil and gas lease that has expired or been abandoned [see Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020 (required contents of complaint)]. The complaint seeks damages and a forfeiture resulting from the lessee's failure to quitclaim or surrender his or her interest that has terminated due to the expiration or abandonment. A lessor may bring a quiet title action to free his or her estate of the lessee's expired or abandoned oil and gas interest [see Richfield Oil Corp. v. Bloomfield (1951) 103 Cal. App. 2d 589, 592, 229 P.2d 838 ; see § 393.13[3][c]; see also Ch. 482, Quieting Title]. For example, the lessor may seek to quiet title when the lease contains a "drill or pay" [see Walston v. Flintridge Oil Co. (1955) 133 Cal. App. 2d 660, 662, 284 P.2d 895 ("Unless" type of lease as distinguished from "drill or pay" type)] provision and the lessee has failed to commence drilling or pay rental within the required time, causing the lease to automatically terminate [see § 393.13[3][c]]. A lessor may combine an action for damages and forfeiture with the quiet title action when a lessee under an oil and gas lease that has expired or been abandoned fails or refuses to quitclaim or surrender his or her interest covered by the lease within 30 days after the lessor'sdemand [see Civ. Code § 883.140(b), (c); see § 393.60; see also § 393.21[1][b]].

For discussions regarding who must be named as defendants in a quiet title action and the statutory designations for particular classes of defendants, see Ch. 482, Quieting Title . A plaintiff who intends to name unknown persons as defendants may wish to obtain a title report before commencing the action, because an examination of the record title and an inspection of the property will be necessary [see Code Civ. Proc. § 762.060(b)]. Also, the court may order plaintiff to obtain a title report and keep it available for inspection and copying by the parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.040(b)].

[3] Seeking Relief Against Personal Representatives and Successors

The form in [1], above, does not contain allegations regarding defendants who are personal representatives [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(a)] or heirs and intestate or testate successors [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(b)] of persons known or believed by the plaintiff to be deceased. If those defendants are necessary in your particular situation, use the appropriate allegations from Ch. 482, Quieting Title , Form 1.

[4] Allegations

The complaint in [1], above, alleges the following:

- Plaintiff's ownership of real property and a legal description of the property, including street address or common designation, if any (Paragraph 1) [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(a), (b)];

- The basis of plaintiff's title in the property (Paragraph 2) [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(b)];

- The entering of an oil and gas lease by plaintiff and defendant, or their predecessors in interest, and a description of the provisions on which plaintiff bases expiration or abandonment (Paragraphs 3 and 7);

- Fictitious and unknown defendants, if appropriate (Paragraphs 4 and 5) [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 760.060 (rules governing civil actions generally are applicable in quiet title actions), 762.060(a) (designation of unknown defendants)];

- The fact that a defendant's claim is unknown, contingent, or uncertain (Paragraph 6) [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.060(b)];

- Facts showing expiration or abandonment of the lease and the date of termination (Paragraph 8);

- Plaintiff's service on defendant of demand for quitclaim or surrender and the date of service (Paragraph 9) [Civ. Code § 883.140(b); see § 393.60];

- Defendant's failure to quitclaim or surrender the expired or abandoned interest in the land and mineral rights within 30 days after plaintiff's demand (Paragraph 10) [Civ. Code § 883.140(b)];

- The adverse claims to plaintiff's title against which a determination is sought (Paragraph 11) [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(c)];

- The date on which plaintiff requests the determination to be effective, and if other than the date of filing the complaint, the reason for requesting a different date (Paragraph 12) [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(d)]; and

- Plaintiff's damages, including court costs and attorney's fees, resulting from defendant's refusal to quitclaim or surrender his or her interest (Paragraph 13) [Civ. Code § 883.140(c)].

[5] Verification

A quiet title complaint must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020].

[6] Jurisdiction

The superior court has jurisdiction of quiet title actions [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.040(a)], including complete jurisdiction over the parties to the action and the property described in the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.040(b)]. The action is not a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. § 580(b)(3)].

[7] Venue

Subject to the court's power to transfer actions, the proper county for trial of a quiet title action with regard to real property is the county in which the property, or some part of the property, is located [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.050(a); see Civ. Code § 883.240].

[8] Service of Process

In quiet title actions, the form, content, and manner of service is the same as in civil actions generally [Code Civ. Proc. § 763.010(a)]. The court must order service by publication in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 415.50 if, on affidavit, it appears to the court's satisfaction that plaintiff has used reasonable diligence to ascertain the identity and residence of and to serve summons on the persons named as unknown defendants and persons joined as testate or intestate successors of a person known or believed to be dead [Code Civ. Proc. § 763.010(b)]. Nothing in Code Civ. Proc. § 763.010 authorizes service by publication on any person named as an unknown defendant who is in open and actual possession of the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 763.010(c)].

The conditions governing service by publication are set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 763.020 and the contents of that service are set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 763.030. Before hearing a case in which it has ordered service by publication, the court must require proof that the summons has been served, posted, and published as required, and that the notice of pendency of action has been filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 763.040].

For a complete discussion of service of summons, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

[9] Attorney's Fees

In an action requesting forfeiture and for damages resulting from the lessee's failure to quitclaim or surrender an expired or abandoned interest, the lessor may recover reasonable attorney's fees to be fixed by the court [Civ. Code § 883.140(c)].

[10] Costs and Forfeiture

In an action to clear title to a lessor's interest following the lessee's failure to quitclaim or surrender an expired or abandoned interest, the lessor may recover court costs. The lessee will also be required to forfeit $150 to the lessor [Civ. Code § 883.140(c)].

[11] Limitation of Action

A statute of limitations does not run against a plaintiff seeking to quiet title while he or she is in possession of the property [Muktarian v. Barmby (1965) 63 Cal. 2d 558, 560, 47 Cal. Rptr. 483, 407 P.2d 659] . When the plaintiff is out of possession, however, the court must refer to the underlying theory of relief to determine which statute applies, because no statute of limitations specifically governs quiet title actions [see Muktarian v. Barmby (1965) 63 Cal. 2d 558, 560, 47 Cal. Rptr. 483, 407 P.2d 659] . For example, no action for the recovery of real property, or the possession of real property, can be maintained unless it appears that the plaintiff, or his or her predecessor, was seised or possessed of the property in question within five years before the action's commencement [Code Civ. Proc. § 318]. For additional discussion of statutes of limitations, see Ch. 345, Limitations of Actions .

[12] Lis Pendens

Immediately on commencing a quiet title action, which occurs by the filing of the complaint, the plaintiff must file a lis pendens in the office of the county recorder of each county in which any real property described in the complaint is located [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.010(b)]. The lis pendens gives constructive notice of the pendency of the action to subsequent purchasers or encumbrancers [Code Civ. Proc. § 405.24]. For forms of lis pendens, see Ch. 348, Lis Pendens .

[13] Cross References

For additional discussion and forms relating to quiet title actions in general, see Ch. 482, Quieting Title .

For additional comments and cross references, see §§ 393.60, 393.62, 393.63, and 393.64.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART IV. FORMS

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.62

§ 393.62 Complaint to Terminate Dormant Mineral Right [Civ. Code § 883.210]--By Owner of Real Property Against Owner of Mineral Right

[1] FORM Complaint to Terminate Dormant Mineral Right [Civ. Code § 883.210]--By Owner of Real Property Against Owner of Mineral Right

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name(s) of known defendant(s)], [if unknown defendants are included, add:; and all persons unknown, claiming any legal or equitable right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the property described in the complaint adverse to Plaintiff's title, or any cloud on Plaintiff's title thereto] [; and DOES I-_____, inclusive],	)	COMPLAINT TO TERMINATE DORMANT MINERAL RIGHT
Defendant(s).	)

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Plaintiff's ownership of real property. See § 393.61, Paragraph 1.]

2. [Basis of plaintiff's title. See § 393.61, Paragraph 2.]

3. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff['s predecessor in interest] as purchaser of the above-described real property and defendant _____ [name] ['s predecessor in interest] as grantor of that property entered into an agreement to reserve _____ [all or a portion] of the oil and gas interest in that real property. A copy of that agreement is attached to this complaint and marked Exhibit "A" and made a part of this complaint.

[4. Fictitious name allegations, if appropriate. See § 393.61, Paragraph 4.]

[5. If "all persons unknown" are named as defendants, see § 393.61, Paragraph 5.]

[6. If the claim or share or quantity of the claim of a named defendant is unknown, uncertain, or contingent, see § 393.61, Paragraph 6.]

7. For the period of 20 years immediately preceding commencement of this action, there has been no production of the minerals and noexploration, drilling, mining, development, or other operation that affects the minerals, whether on or below the surface of the real property or on any other property.

8. For the period of 20 years immediately preceding commencement of this action, no _____ [separate property tax assessment has been made of the mineral right or taxes have been paid on the separate property tax assessment of the mineral right].

9. For the period of 20 years immediately preceding commencement of this action, no instrument creating, reserving, transferring, or otherwise evidencing the mineral right has been recorded.

10. Plaintiff is seeking to quiet title against the claims of defendant(s) as follows: the dormant mineral rights of defendant(s) _____ [name(s) of the named defendant(s)], arising from the agreement described in Paragraph 3 [_____ (continue with whichever are applicable:; the claims of the successor defendants described in Paragraph _____; the claims of all unknown defendants described in Paragraph 5, whether or not the claim or cloud on plaintiff's title is known to plaintiff; and the unknown, uncertain, or contingent claim, if any, of _____ (name) more fully described in Paragraph 6)]. Claim(s) of defendant(s) is/are without any right whatever and defendant(s) has/have no right, title, estate, lien, or interest whatever in the above-described property, or any part of that property[, except the following: _____ (set forth any claims of which plaintiff admits the validity,.e.g., the utility easement held by Pacific Gas and Electric Company)].

11. Plaintiff seeks to terminate the mineral right as of _____ [date]. [If requested determination date is other than date of filing complaint, allege: Plaintiff seeks a determination as of this date because _____ (specify reason, e.g., it is 20 years from the date of the last evidence of an exercise of the mineral right that is the subject of this action)].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant[s, and each of them], as follows:

1. For a judgment that the above-described mineral right of defendant(s) is dormant and thereby terminated, unenforceable, and deemed to have expired and that defendant(s) has/have no interest in the property adverse to the plaintiff's interest;

2. For costs of suit herein incurred;

3. For reasonable attorney's fees; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By:_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

[Verification. See § 393.61].

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a complaint that may be used to bring an action to terminate [Civ. Code § 883.120 (exemption from termination)] dormant mineral rights [Civ. Code §§ 883.220, 883.230] in a parcel of real property. An action to terminate a dormant mineral right is brought in the same manner and is subject to the same procedure as an action to quiet title, to the extent applicable [Civ. Code § 883.240(b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 760.010 et seq. (quiet title actions); see also Civ. Code § 883.270 (applicability of action regardless when executed or recorded)].

A mineral right may have been created by a lease in a number of ways, including through a land sale agreement that reserved oil and gas rights to the grantor, and may be dormant if specified conditions have occurred for the 20 years immediately preceding the action [see Civ. Code § 883.220]. The owner of real property subject to a dormant mineral right, such as a right to the oil and gas interest in real property, may bring an action to terminate that right [Civ. Code § 883.210; see § 393.21[3]].

By terminating the dormant mineral right, the property owner property may clear clouds on his or her title and make the property more marketable. A mineral right will not be dormant and subject to termination if either a notice of intent to preserve the mineral right has been filed or a late notice of intent is filed after the action to terminate the mineral right has been commenced [Civ. Code §§ 883.230(c), 883.250; see § 393.21[3][c], [d]; see also Texaco, Inc. v. Short (1982) 454 U.S. 516, 518-540, 102 S. Ct. 781, 70 L. Ed. 2d 738 (Indiana statute terminating dormant mineral right after 20 years when owner of mineral right did not record notice of intent to preserve mineral right as constitutional)].

[3] Seeking Relief Against Personal Representatives and Successors

This form does not contain any allegations regarding defendants who are personal representatives [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(a)] or heirs and intestate or testate successors [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(b)] of persons known or believed by the plaintiff to be deceased. If those defendants are necessary in your particular situation, use the appropriate allegations from Ch. 482, Quieting Title , Form 1.

[4] Allegations

The complaint in [1], above, alleges the following:

- The adverse claims to the title of plaintiff, including the basis of the mineral rights sought to be terminated (Paragraphs 3-6, 10) [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(c)];

- The conditions prerequisite to declaring a mineral right dormant (Paragraphs 7-9) [Civ. Code § 883.220]; and

- The date on which plaintiff requests the determination to be effective and, if other than the date of filing the complaint, the reason for requesting a different date (Paragraph 10) [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(d)].

[5] Verification

A complaint to quiet title must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020].

[6] Jurisdiction; General Procedure

An action to terminate a mineral right must be brought in the superior court of the county where the real property subject to the mineral right is located and is brought in the same manner and is subject to the same procedure as an action to quiet title, to the extent applicable [Civ. Code § 883.240; for discussion and procedures required by Code Civ. Proc. § 760.010 et seq. (quiet title action), see Ch. 482, Quieting Title].

[7] Cross References

For discussion and forms relating to mineral rights generally, see Ch. 363, Mining .

For additional comments and cross references, see § 393.61.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART IV. FORMS

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.63

§ 393.63 Notice by Owner of Mineral Right to Owner of Real Property of Intent to Preserve Mineral Right [Civ. Code § 883.230]

[1] FORM Notice by Owner of Mineral Right to Owner of Real Property of Intent to Preserve Mineral Right [Civ. Code § 883.230]

Recording at request of,
and to be returned when recorded to:

_____

[name and address of party or attorney filing notice]

_____

Space above this line for recorder's use

NOTICE OF INTENT TO PRESERVE MINERAL RIGHT

You are hereby notified that the undersigned owner of mineral rights in the real property located at _____ [set forth legal description or street address or common designation, if any] intends to preserve those mineral rights and that they shall not become dormant within the meaning of Civil Code Sections 883.210-883.270.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

State of _____,)
County of _____.)
_____)

On _____ [date], before me, _____ [name and title of officer], personally appeared _____ [name(s)], _____ [personally known to me or proved to me on the basis of satisfactory evidence] to be the person(s) whose name(s) is/are subscribed to this instrument, and acknowledged to me that he/she/they executed this instrument in his/her/their authorized capacity/capacities, and that by his/her/their signature(s) on the instrument the person(s), or the entity on behalf of which the person(s) acted, executed the instrument.

WITNESS my hand and official seal.

Signature: _____ .....(Seal)

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by the owner of a mineral right to record his or her intent to preserve that mineral right. If a notice of intent to preserve a mineral right is recorded within the 20 years immediately preceding commencement of an action to terminate the mineral right, that right is not dormant and cannot be terminated [Civ. Code §§ 883.230, 883.260]. With appropriate modification, the form may be adapted for use as a late notice of intent, which may be filed after a termination action has been commenced on payment of the plaintiff's litigation expenses [see Civ. Code § 883.250; see also § 393.21[3][d]].

[3] Description of Real Property

In lieu of the statement of the character of the interest claimed and the record location of the documents evidencing the mineral and in lieu of the legal description of the real property in which the interest is claimed as otherwise required by Civ. Code § 880.330(b) (contents of notice) and notwithstanding Civ. Code § 880.340 (form of notice) or other provisions in Civ. Code § 880.020 et seq., a notice of intent to preserve a mineral right may refer generally and without specificity to any or all mineral rights claimed by claimant in any real property situated in the county [Civ. Code § 883.230(b)].

[4] Acknowledgment

The form includes the required form of acknowledgment [see Civ. Code §§ 1188, 1189(a); but see Civ. Code § 1198(d) (acknowledgments provided before January 1, 1993, and conforming to provisions of former Civ. Code §§ 1189-1192, as valid)]. Whether the notice must be executed and acknowledged in the same manner as an acknowledgment of a conveyance of real property is unclear. However, acknowledgment is generally required to record instruments and is recommended [see Gov. Code § 27287]. For additional discussion and alternative forms of acknowledgments, see Ch. 9, Acknowledgments .

[5] Cross References

For additional comments and cross references, see §§ 393.61, 393.62.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART IV. FORMS

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.64

§ 393.64 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Breach of Oil and Gas Lease That Requires Lessee to Pay Delayed Drilling Rental--By Landowner-Lessor Against Lessee--Judicial Council Contract Complaint With Breach of Contract Cause of Action Attachment [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12; Cal. Judicial Council Forms PLD-C-001, PLD-C-001(1)]

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Breach of Oil and Gas Lease That Requires Lessee to Pay Delayed Drilling Rental--By Landowner-Lessor Against Lessee--Judicial Council Contract Complaint With Breach of Contract Cause of Action Attachment [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12; Cal. Judicial Council Forms PLD-C-001, PLD-C-001(1)]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a filled in reproduction of the Judicial Council form of complaint for contract actions [Cal. JC Form PLD-C-001], to which a Judicial Council breach of contract cause of action has been attached [Cal. JC Form PLD-C-001(1); see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12(a)]. Use of the Judicial Council form is optional [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 1.30(b), 1.35] and it may be used in any action for damages [see Civ. Code § 3300 (measure of dameges for breach of contract); see also Civ. Code § 3287(a) (recovery of prejudgment interest on sum certain or capable of being made certain)] for breach of an oil and gas lease provision, termed "drill or pay," requiring payment of rental for the privilege of delaying the commencement of drilling. Under a lease containing a "drill or pay" provision, the lease is not forfeited or terminated by the failure to comply with its terms, but on the failure to commence drilling as required, the obligation to pay rental becomes absolute as an alternative requirement [Butler v. Nepple (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 589, 594, 6 Cal. Rptr. 767, 354 P.2d 239 ; see § 393.13[3][b]]. The lessor may bring an action to enforce the payment of delayed drilling rentals [Richfield Oil Corp. v. Bloomfield (1951) 103 Cal. App. 2d 589, 590-591, 229 P.2d 838 ; see § 393.13[3][c]].

In contrast to the "drill or pay" type, an "unless" type of oil and gas lease provides for automatic termination unless the lessee either commences drilling or pays delayed drilling rental within certain specified limits. A lessor may not bring an action to collect rentals under an "unless" type of lease, but may maintain an action to quiet title against the lessee's expired interest [see Richfield Oil Corp. v. Bloomfield (1951) 103 Cal. App. 2d 589, 592, 229 P.2d 838 ; see also § 393.61].

These forms are available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. Noninteractive versions in PDF format also are available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

For general information relating to the use of Judicial Council complaint forms, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints .

[3] Judicial Council Trial Court Forms

Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12(a) requires that the Judicial Council develop and approve official forms for use in California trial courts for any complaint, cross complaint, or answer in any action based on personal injury, property damage, wrongful death, unlawful detainer, breach of contract, or fraud. The Judicial Council must also develop and approve an official form for use as a statement of damages in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.11 and 425.115 [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12(b)].

[4] Filling Out Forms

For a detailed explanation of filling out the Judicial Council forms of contract complaint and breach of contract cause of action generally, see the Comments to that form in Ch. 140, Contracts .

[5] Verification

Counsel may attach a verification to this complaint if desired [see § 393.61]. Although verification of this complaint is not required, verification will require any answer to be verified also, if the action is in the superior court and is not a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude a general denial except in a limited civil case, and will preclude a general denial even in a limited civil case when the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[6] Cross References

For discussion of and forms relating to breach of contract in general, see Ch. 140 Contracts .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART IV. FORMS

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.65

§ 393.65 Complaint for Accounting--Against Cotenant for Royalties From Oil and Gas Production

[1] FORM Complaint for Accounting--Against Cotenant for Royalties From Oil and Gas Production

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	COMPLAINT FOR ACCOUNTING
Defendant.	)
	)
	)

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff is the sole owner of real property located in _____ County, California, and described as follows: _____ [set forth legal description, including street address or common designation, if any]. Plaintiff's ownership rights include the right to drill for and produce oil and gas.

2. _____ [Defendant _____ (name) is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a resident of _____ County, California or allege other basis of venue as appropriate].

[3. Plaintiff is ignorant of the true names and capacities of defendants sued herein as DOES I-_____, inclusive, and therefore sues these defendants by such fictitious names. Plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of the fictitiously named defendants is responsible in some manner for the occurrences herein alleged and that each of the fictitiously named defendants has an interest with respect to an accounting in this action.]

4. Defendant is a cotenant with plaintiff by virtue of _____ [specify transaction creating cotenancy, e.g., the assignment to defendant of _____ (specify amount, e.g., one-half) of plaintiff's royalty interest in all oil and gas produced from the property owned by plaintiff, together with the right of entry onto the property for purposes of production. A copy of the agreement making the assignment, dated _____, is attached as Exhibit A and made a part of this complaint].

5. _____ [Between _____ (date), and _____ (date), or Beginning on or about _____ (date),] defendant _____ [describe defendant's actions that necessitated accounting, e.g., collected all royalties from the property under an oil and gas lease entered into on or about _____ (date), between defendant and _____ (name of lessee)]. The royalties were taken and appropriated by defendant without plaintiff's knowledge and consent.

6. The amount received as royalties by defendant is unknown to plaintiff[, but plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that the amount exceeds the sum of $_____].

7. Plaintiff has demanded an accounting of the royalties collected by defendant, but defendant has failed and refused, and continues to fail and refuse, to render an accounting.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For an accounting between plaintiff and defendant;

2. For the amount found to be due from defendant to plaintiff as a result of the accounting [and interest on that amount from and after _____ (date)];

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

[Verification, if desired. See § 393.61[1].]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for use in an action for an accounting. In this case, the action is brought by a cotenant of an interest in oil and gas against a producing cotenant who has collected the entire amount of royalties. The producing cotenant must account to the other cotenants for their respective percentages of the profits [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 655, 656, 52 P.2d 237 ; see § 393.16[2]; see also discussion and forms relating to accounting actions in general in Ch. 7, Accounting, Action for].

[3] Allegations

The complaint in [1], above, alleges the following:

- Plaintiff's ownership of land, together with rights to drill for and produce oil and gas (Paragraph 1);

- Defendant's identity and capacity and basis of venue (Paragraph 2);

- Fictitious names of defendants, if appropriate (Paragraph 3);

- The creation of a cotenancy between plaintiff and defendant, including a copy of any agreement (Paragraph 4);

- Defendant's collection of royalties under circumstances necessitating an accounting and without plaintiff's knowledge and consent (Paragraph 5) [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 655, 656, 52 P.2d 237 ; Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 125, 43 P.2d 788 ; see La Laguna Ranch Co. v. Dodge (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 132, 137-138, 114 P.2d 351] ;

- The absence of knowledge as to the amount received by defendant and, if appropriate, the amount received based on plaintiff's information and belief (Paragraph 6) [see Whann v. Doell (1923) 192 Cal. 680, 684, 221 P. 899 ; St. James Church of Christ Holiness v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County (1955) 135 Cal. App. 2d 352, 359, 287 P.2d 387 ; Raymond v. Independent Growers, Inc. (1955) 133 Cal. App. 2d 154, 160, 284 P.2d 57] ; and

- Plaintiff's demand for an accounting and defendant's failure and refusal (Paragraph 7) [see Wooster v. Nevills (1887) 73 Cal. 58, 60, 14 P.390] .

[4] Jurisdiction

Although an accounting may be taken in a limited civil case where necessary to preserve the property or rights of any party to the case, an action for an accounting is in the jurisdiction of the superior court and is not a limited civil case [see Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(8)].

[5] Venue

An action for an accounting may be tried in the county of the defendant's residence [see Code Civ. Proc. § 395]. When plaintiff in one cause of action seeks, in addition to an accounting, other relief, the main relief sought determines the character of the action for venue purposes [Neet v. Holmes (1942) 19 Cal. 2d 605, 611-612, 122 P.2d 557 ; for additional discussion of venue, see Ch. 571, Venue].

[6] Interest

Generally, when an accounting is required to arrive at a sum justly due, interest is not allowed to accrue before the date of judgment [Schmidt v. Waterford Winery, Ltd. (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 28, 34-35, 1 Cal. Rptr. 874] . An exception to the general rule may exist, however, when the amount due is a liquidated amount that could be ascertained before judgment [see Civ. Code § 3287(a); Schmidt v. Waterford Winery Ltd. (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 28, 34-35, 1 Cal. Rptr. 874] . Thus, the particular facts of a case may support a request for interest prior to judgment, if at some point the amount of damages becomes certain or capable of being made certain by calculation. For further discussion of interest on damages, see Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.140 et seq.

[7] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required, verification will require any answer to be verified also, if the action is in the superior court and is not a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude a general denial except in a limited civil case, and will preclude a general denial even in a limited civil case when the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 26, Answers .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART IV. FORMS

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.66

§ 393.66 Complaint for Temporary Restraining Order, Preliminary Injunction [Code Civ. Proc. § 527], Permanent Injunction [Civ. Code § 3422; Code Civ. Proc. § 526], and Damages [Code Civ. Proc. § 3493/4] for Subsurface Trespass and Conversion of Oil and Gas From Slant Drilling of Well--By Landowner Against Adjoining Property Owner or Lessee

[1] FORM Complaint for Temporary Restraining Order, Preliminary Injunction [Code Civ. Proc. § 527], Permanent Injunction [Civ. Code § 3422; Code Civ. Proc. § 526], and Damages [Code Civ. Proc. § 3493/4] for Subsurface Trespass and Conversion of Oil and Gas From Slant Drilling of Well--By Landowner Against Adjoining Property Owner or Lessee

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	COMPLAINT FOR TEMPORARY RESTRAINING
Defendant.	)	ORDER, PRELIMINARY AND PERMANENT IN-)	JUNCTIONS, AND DAMAGES FOR SUBSUR-
	)	FACE TRESPASS AND CONVERSION

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff is the sole owner of real property located in _____ County, California, and described as follows: _____ [set forth legal description, including street address or common designation, if any].

2. As sole owner of the above-described property, plaintiff has the exclusive right to drill for and produce oil and gas from the subsurface that falls within the boundaries of plaintiff's land, extended directly downward.

3. _____ [Defendant is the owner or Plaintiff alleges on information and belief that defendant is the oil and gas lessee] of real property located _____ [describe location in relationship to plaintiff's property, e.g., directly adjacent to plaintiff's property on the northern boundary] and described as follows: _____ [set forth legal description, including street address or common designation, if any].

[4. Plaintiff is ignorant of the true names and capacities of defendants sued herein as DOES I-_____, inclusive, and therefore sues these defendants by such fictitious names. Plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of the fictitiously named defendants is responsible in some manner for the occurrences herein alleged, and that plaintiff's damages as herein alleged were proximately caused by their conduct.]

5. Beginning on or about _____ [date], and continuing to the present time, defendant wrongfully and unlawfully _____ [specify defendant's wrongful acts, e.g., commenced the drilling of an oil and gas well _____ (into or that threatens to invade) the subsurface of plaintiff's land and produced oil and gas from a well that was bottomed beneath the surface of plaintiff's land].

[6. In committing the trespass beneath plaintiff's land, defendant did not assert a claim of right in good faith or act under an honest mistake of law or fact. The act of trespass was knowingly and intentionally committed.]

[EITHER, if trespass is allegedly unintentional]

7. The well drilled into the subsurface of plaintiff's property by defendant was first placed on production on or about _____ [date].

[OR, if trespass is knowingly and intentionally committed]

7. Plaintiff did not discover defendant's subsurface trespass until _____ [date].

[CONTINUE]

8. On or about _____ [date], [and a number of times since then,] plaintiff has demanded that defendant stop his/her wrongful conduct described above. Defendant has refused and still refuses to refrain from his/her conduct.

9. Defendant's wrongful conduct, unless and until enjoined and restrained by order of this court, will cause great and irreparable injury to plaintiff in that _____ [specify facts showing great and irreparable injury, e.g., defendant will (continue drilling beneath the surface of plaintiff's land without right and, if oil and gas are found,) remove oil and gas from the oil strata lying beneath plaintiff's property, in violation of plaintiff's exclusive right].

10. Plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law for the injuries _____ [currently being suffered or that are threatened] because _____ [specify facts showing inadequacy of legal remedy, e.g., plaintiff will be forced to institute a multiplicity of suits to obtain adequate compensation for his/her injuries].

11. As a proximate result of defendant's [knowing and intentional] acts of trespass, [including the wrongful removal and conversion of oil and gas,] plaintiff has suffered damages _____ [in the sum of $_____ or in an amount unknown to plaintiff. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that the amount exceeds the sum of $_____].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

1. For an order requiring defendant to show cause, if any, why he/she should not be enjoined as hereinafter set forth, during the pendency of this action;

2. For a temporary restraining order, a preliminary injunction, and a permanentinjunction, all enjoining defendant, and his/her agents, servants, and employees, and all persons acting under, in concert with, or for them:

a. From _____ [specify acts to be prohibited, e.g., constructing, maintaining, or operating any oil or gas well or from taking oil, gas, or other hydrocarbon substances from a well that extends beneath the surface of plaintiff's land];

b. To _____ [specify acts to be commanded, e.g., at his/her own cost and expense, immediately fill, plug, and permanently abandon any well drilled by him/her that extends beneath the surface of plaintiff's land, complying with all laws of the State of California in so doing, and doing all other acts necessary to protect the oil and gas producing zones beneath the land;

3. For damages in the sum of $_____, plus damages in such further sums as may be sustained and as are ascertained before final judgment herein;

4. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification. See § 393.61[1]].

CERTIFICATION RE NOTICE

I hereby certify that _____ [on _____ (date), I informed defendant of what time and where the foregoing application for a temporary restraining order would be made or in good faith I attempted to inform defendant of what time and where the foregoing application for a temporary restraining order would be made, by _____ (specify efforts), but I was unable to do so or notice to defendant of the foregoing application for a temporary restraining order should not be required because _____ (specify)].

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]
_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for use in an action for a temporary restraining order, preliminary injunction, permanent injunction [see Civ. Code § 3422; Code Civ. Proc. § 526 (grounds for injunction); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1151], and damages for subsurface trespass due to slant drilling for oil and gas. A person may not extend, drill, or bottom an oil and gas well anywhere other than beneath the surface of his or her own property, without having obtained the right to do so from the surface owner [see A.E. Bell Corp. v. Bell View Oil Synd. (1938) 24 Cal. App. 2d 587, 595, 596, 76 P.2d 167 ; see also § 393.18[1]]. Landowners or other persons injured by a subsurface trespass from adjoining landowners or their lessees may maintain an action for injunctive relief to stop the trespass and for damages for the conversion of oil and gas produced from the offending well [A.E. Bell Corp. v. Bell View Oil Synd. (1938) 24 Cal. App. 2d 587, 603, 610, 76 P.2d 167 ; see Pacific Western Oil Co. v. Bern Oil Co. (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 60, 66, 87 P.2d 1045 ; see also § 393.18[2]].

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges the following:

- Plaintiff's ownership of real property and a description of it (Paragraph 1);

- Plaintiff's exclusive right to drill for and produce oil and gas from the subsurface (Paragraph 2) [Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 117, 43 P.2d 788] ;

- Defendant's identity and capacity as owner or lessee of neighboring property (Paragraph 3) [see A.E. Bell Corp. v. Bell View Oil Synd. (1938) 24 Cal. App. 2d 587, 603, 610, 76 P.2d 167] ;

- Fictitious names of defendants (Paragraph 4);

- Defendant's act of subsurface trespass and conversion of oil and gas (Paragraph 5) [Union Oil Co. v. Mutual Oil Co. (1937) 19 Cal. App. 2d 409, 413, 65 P.2d 896] ;

- If appropriate, the fact that defendant's act was committed knowingly and intentionally (Paragraph 6) [Pacific Western Oil Co. v. Bern Oil Co. (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 60, 73, 87 P.2d 1045] ;

- The date the offending well was first placed on production or, if trespass was allegedly knowingly and intentionally committed by means of a new well on which drilling commenced after September 15, 1935, the date of discovery of the subsurface trespass (Paragraph 7) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 349 3/4];

- Defendant's refusal of plaintiff's demands to stop the acts of trespass (Paragraph 8);

- Facts showing great and irreparable injury from defendant's conductunless restrained (Paragraph 9) [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526(a)(2), 527(c)(1); see E.H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1] ;

- Facts showing the absence of an adequate remedy at law (Paragraph 10) [see Civ. Code § 3422(1)-(3); Code Civ. Proc. § 526(a)(4)-(6)]; and

- Plaintiff's damages from the trespass, including the value of oil and gas produced (Paragraph 11) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 349 3/4; Pacific Western Oil Co. v. Bern Oil Co. (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 60, 73, 87 P.2d 1045] .

[4] Verification or Affidavits Required

Verification [Code Civ. Proc. § 446] is required if plaintiff seeks a temporary restraining order or a preliminary injunction on a complaint instead of on affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)]. If relying on a verified complaint instead of affidavits (or declarations), counsel must plead evidentiary facts that would entitle plaintiff to the relief sought [see E.H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1 ; Finnie v. Town of Tiburon (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1, 15, 244 Cal. Rptr. 581] . For discussion, a procedural checklist, and additional forms necessary in order to obtain a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

Otherwise, verification is not required, but verification of the complaint requires the defendant to file a verified answer [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446] and precludes use of a general denial [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion of the effect that verifying a complaint has on the answer, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[5] Jurisdiction

An action seeking permanent injunctive relief is in the jurisdiction of the superior court and is not a limited civil case except as otherwise provided by statute [see Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(8), 580(b)(2)].

[6] Venue

Subject to a court's power to transfer actions and proceedings, the superior court in the county where the real property that is the subject of the action, or some part of the real property, is situated is the proper county for trial for injuries to real property [see Code Civ. Proc. § 392(a)(1)].

[7] Service Required Before Hearing on Injunction Following Temporary Restraining Order

In case a temporary restraining order (TRO) is granted without notice in the contingency [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(c)], the party who obtained the TRO must, within five days from the date the order is issued or two days before the hearing, whichever is earlier, serve on the opposing party all of the following:

- A copy of the complaint if not previously served;
- The order to show cause stating the date, time, and place of the hearing;
- Any affidavits to be used in the application; and
- A copy of the memorandum in support of the application.

The court may for good cause, on the applicant's motion or on its own motion, shorten the time required for service on the opposing party [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(d)(2)]. When the matter first comes up for hearing, if the party who obtained the TRO is not ready to proceed, or if the party has failed to serve copies of the documents as required, the court will dissolve the TRO [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(d)(3)].

On the applicant's filing of an affidavit that the opposing party could not be served within the required time, the court may reissue any TRO previously issued. The reissued order must be made returnable [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(d)(1)], with the time for hearing measured from the date of reissuance [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(d)(5)].

For discussion of the procedure for obtaining a TRO, including the requirements of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1150 (preliminary injunctions), see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

[8] Damages

Plaintiff may request an injunction against the trespass and damages for the resulting conversion of the oil and gas because legal and equitable remedies may be sought in the same action [see Pacific Western Oil Co. v. Bern Oil Co. (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 60, 66, 87 P.2d 1045] . When the subsurface trespass is unintentional, in computing damages production expenses must be deducted from the value of oil and gas wrongfully converted [see Code Civ. Proc. § 349 3/4]. However, when the trespass is intentional, defendant must pay the value of the oil and gas converted, without any deduction for expenses [Pacific Western Oil Co. v. Bern Oil Co. (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 60, 73, 87 P.2d 1045 ; see § 393.18[2][d]].

[9] Statute of Limitations

An action for subsurface trespass and conversion of oil and gas must be commenced within 180 days after it accrues [Code Civ. Proc. § 349 3/4]. When a knowing and intentional trespass is committed by means of a new well on which drilling commenced after September 15, 1935, the cause of action does not accrue until discovery of the act by the aggrieved party. In all other cases, the cause of action accrues 10 days after the time when the well is first placed on production [see Code Civ. Proc. § 349 3/4; see also § 393.18[2][e]].

[10] Certification re Notice

No temporary restraining order will be granted without notice to the opposing party unless the applicant or the applicant's attorney certifies one of the following to the court under oath [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(c); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1200-3.1207 (requirements for ex parte applications)]:

- That within a reasonable time before the application the applicant informed the opposing party or the opposing party's attorney at what time and where the application would be made;

- That the applicant in good faith attempted but was unable to inform the opposing party and the opposing party's attorney, specifying the efforts made to contact them; or

- That for reasons specified the applicant should not be required to so inform the opposing party or the opposing party's attorney.

The requirement for certification as to notice does not apply to an order issued under the Family Code [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(g)].

[11] Cross References

For discussion and forms relating to injunctive relief in general, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

For discussion and forms relating to trespass to real property in general, see Ch. 550, Trespass .

For memoranda of points and authorities supporting and opposing the issuance of preliminary injunctions, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 116, Injunctions .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 393 OIL AND GAS
PART IV. FORMS

34-393 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 393.67

§ 393.67 Complaint for Termination of Oil and Gas Lessee's Right of Entry to or Occupation of Surface Land in Certain Urban Areas [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.030(a)]--By Landowner Against Lessee

[1] FORM Complaint for Termination of Oil and Gas Lessee's Right of Entry to or Occupation of Surface Land in Certain Urban Areas [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.030(a)]--By Landowner Against Lessee

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	COMPLAINT FOR TERMINATION OF RIGHT
Defendant.	)	OF ENTRY OR OCCUPATION
	)
	)

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff is the owner of a fee interest in the surface of real property located in the City of _____ in _____ County, and described as follows: _____ [set forth legal description, including street address or common designation, if any].

[2. Plaintiff is ignorant of the true names and capacities of defendants sued herein as DOES I-_____, inclusive, and therefore sues these defendants by such fictitious names. Plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of the fictitiously named defendants is responsible in some manner for the occurrences herein alleged.]

3. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff['s predecessor in ownership] entered into a written agreement, entitled _____ [specify, e.g., "Oil and Gas Lease"], with defendant['s predecessor in interest]. A copy of the agreement is attached to this complaint as Exhibit A and made a part of this complaint.

[4. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff('s predecessor in ownership) and defendant('s predecessor in interest) entered into an amendment of the agreement expressly for the purpose of _____ (waiving or limiting or rearranging) the lessee's surface right(s) of _____ (entry and/or occupation). A copy of the amendment is attached to this complaint as Exhibit B and made a part of this complaint.]

5. The agreement[, as amended,] granted defendant['s predecessor in interest] _____ [specify rights granted under lease, including surface rights, e.g., the exclusive right to drill for and extract oil and gas from, andto store the oil and gas on, the land, including all rights necessary and convenient thereto, together with rights of way for passage over, on, and across the land for any or all of the above purposes. (Defendant was given sole and exclusive possession of the land, except for rights reserved by the lessor)].

[6. Under the terms of the agreement, (as amended,) plaintiff('s predecessor in ownership) reserved _____ (specify surface rights, if any, reserved by lessor, e.g., the right to occupy the land or to lease it for agricultural, horticultural, or grazing uses, which were to be carried on subject to, and without interference with, the rights or operations of the lessee).]

[EITHER, if seeking termination as to entire surface]

7. The land held by defendant under the lease is not presently occupied by a producing oil or gas well, a well or well bore being used for the injection of water or the disposal injection of waste or by-products, or a well or well bore being used for the production of water for oil field purposes.

[OR, if seeking termination as to only a portion of surface]

7. A portion of the land held by defendant under the lease, consisting of _____ [specify or describe portion, as appropriate, e.g., Lots 12, 14, and 15], is not presently occupied by a producing oil or gas well, a well or well bore being used for the injection of water or the disposal injection of waste or by-products, or a well or well bore being used for the production of water for oil field purposes.

[CONTINUE]

8. Termination of the defendant's right of _____ [entry to and/or occupation of] the surface and surface zone of the _____ [entire leased property or portion of the leased property described in Paragraph 7], in the manner requested by plaintiff, would not significantly interfere with defendant's rights under the lease to continue production of oil from leasehold strata beneath the surface zone in a practical and economic manner and to gather, transport, and market the oil.

[9. Plaintiff is willing to relocate pipelines, roadways, equipment, or lease facilities in a manner that will effectively free the land for surface use, while safeguarding continued oil and gas operations in a practical and economic manner.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

1. For a judgment terminating defendant's right of _____ [entry to and/or occupation of] the surface and surface zone of the described property;

2. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By:_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

[Verification, if desired. See § 393.61.]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a complaint that may be used to obtain, in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. §§ 772.010-772.060[see also Donlan v. Weaver (1981) 118 Cal. App. 3d 675, 683, 173 Cal. Rptr. 566] , termination of a lessee's right of entry to or occupation of all or part of the surface and surface zone [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.020(a) (surface zone defined)] of lands under an oil and gas leasehold. Any person who owns a fee interest in the surface may bring an action to terminate the lessee's right of entry or occupation when (1) the lease or its latest amendment affecting the right of entry is more than 20 years old, (2) the land to be freed of the interest is not occupied by a producing well, and (3) termination of the right will not significantly interfere with the lessee's continued production [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 772.030(a), 772.040(a)-(c); see Butcher v. Okmar Oil Co. (1977) 65 Cal. App. 3d 972, 974, 135 Cal. Rptr. 713 (decided under former Code Civ. Proc. § 751.3, substantially reenacted as Code Civ. Proc. §§ 772.010-772.060); see also § 393.21[2]].

[3] Allegations

The complaint in [1], above, alleges the following:

- Plaintiff's ownership of a fee interest in the surface of the real property, the city and county in which the property is located, and a description of the property (Paragraph 1) [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 772.010, 772.030(a)];

- Fictitious names of defendants, if appropriate (Paragraph 2);

- Execution of an oil and gas lease between plaintiff and defendant, or their predecessors, including the date on which it was entered, which must be more than 20 years before filing the action Paragraph 3) [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.040(a)];

- Execution of an amendment, if any, expressly for the purpose of waiving, limiting, or rearranging the lessee's surface rights, and the date of the amendment, which must be more than 20 years before filing the action (Paragraph 4) [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.040(a)];

- Rights granted to the defendant lessee under the agreement (Paragraph 5) [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.030(a)];

- Rights to the surface, if any, reserved by the plaintiff landowner (Paragraph 6);

- The absence of a producing well or well bore on the subject land or portion of the land (alternative forms of Paragraph 7) [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.040(b)];

- The absence of significant interference with the lessee's continued production if the right is terminated (Paragraph 8) [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.040(c)]; and

- Plaintiff's willingness to relocate defendant's ancillary facilities in a manner that will free the surface while safeguarding continued production (Paragraph 9) [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.050(b)].

[4] Termination Limited to Certain Urban Areas

The action to terminate a right of entry or occupation is limited to lands within a city in any county with a population exceeding 4,000,000, or with a population of more than 700,000 and less than 710,000, as determined by the 1960 Federal Decennial Census [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.010]. In the past, this apparently meant that the action was limited to land located within cities in Los Angeles and Orange Counties.

[5] Jurisdiction in Superior Court

An action to terminate a right of entry or occupation must be filed in superior court [Code Civ. Proc. § 772.030(a)].

[6] Venue

The county in which the real property that is the subject of the action, or some part of the property, is situated is the proper county for trial of an action for recovery of real property, or of an estate or interest therein, or for the determination in any form, of the right or interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 392(a)(1)].

[7] Verification

Verification of the complaint in [1], above, is not required, but verification of the complaint requires that the defendant file a verified answer [Code Civ. Proc. § 446] and precludes a general denial [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 394.syn

§ 394.syn Synopsis to Chapter 394: PARENT AND CHILD

§ 394.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 394.02 Cross References

§§ 394.03-394.09 [Reserved]

§ 394.10 Statutory Definition and Scope of Parent-Child Relationship

§ 394.11 Constitutional Protection of Parent-Child Relationship

§ 394.12 Age of Majority

§ 394.13 Meaning of "Parent"

§ 394.14 Presumed Fathers and Other Fathers

§ 394.14A Presumed Mothers

§ 394.15 In Loco Parentis, De Facto Parentage, and Similar Doctrines

§ 394.16 Maternal Surrogacy Birth Arrangements

§§ 394.17-394.29 [Reserved]

§ 394.30 Parents' Right to Custody of Child

[1] Scope and Nature of Right

[2] Comparative Rights of Mothers and Fathers

[3] Rights of Surviving or Remaining Parent

§ 394.31 Residence of Child

§ 394.32 Marriage of Child

§ 394.33 Name of Child

§ 394.34 Property and Earnings of Child

[1] Child's Right to Property

[2] Parents' Right to Child's Earnings and Services

[3] Earnings From Entertainment, Artistic, or Sports Contracts

§ 394.35 Parents' Duties

[1] Control of Children

[2] Child Support

[a] Duty of Support

[b] Proceedings in Which Child Support May Be Ordered

[c] Amount of Support

§ 394.36 Termination of Parental Authority

§ 394.37 Support of Parents

[1] Adult Child's Duty to Support Parent in Need

[2] Civil Action to Enforce Duty

[3] Petition for Relief From Duty on Ground of Abandonment

§§ 394.38-394.49 [Reserved]

§ 394.50 Power of State to Limit Parental Authority

§ 394.51 Education of Child

§ 394.52 Employment of Child

§ 394.53 Discipline of Child

§ 394.54 Medical Care and Treatment of Child

[1] Requirement That Parents Provide Treatment

[2] Effect of Parents' Religious Beliefs

[3] Parental Consent; Delegation

[4] When Parental Consent Is Not Required

[5] Access to Minor's Health Care Records

§ 394.55 Caregiver's Authorization of School Enrollment and Medical Care

[1] Affidavit

[2] Third-Party Liability

§ 394.56 Child Abduction

§§ 394.57-394.69 [Reserved]

§ 394.70 Proceeding for Dissolution of Marriage, Nullity of Marriage, or Legal Separation

§ 394.71 Other Marital Custody Proceedings

§ 394.72 Nonmarital Custody Proceedings

[1] Need for Nonmarital Custody Orders

[2] Uniform Parentage Act

[3] Habeas Corpus

[4] Equitable Action

[5] Domestic Violence Prevention Act

§ 394.73 Nonparents and Custody Proceedings

[1] No General Jurisdiction

[2] Proceedings That May Be Initiated by Nonparents

[a] Guardianship

[b] Juvenile Court Dependency

[c] Domestic Violence Prevention Act Proceeding

[d] Termination of Parental Rights and Adoption

[e] Uniform Parentage Act Proceeding

[f] Action for Abuse of Parental Authority

[3] Custody Awards to Nonparents in Proceedings Initiated by Others

§ 394.74 Jurisdiction to Grant Visitation Rights

[1] Rights of Parents

[2] Rights of Nonparents

[a] Generally

[b] Rights of Grandparents

[c] Rights of Relatives of Deceased Parent

[3] Effect of Adoption

§ 394.75 Jurisdictional Conflict

[1] Concurrent Jurisdiction

[2] Exclusive Jurisdiction of Juvenile Court

[3] Juvenile Court Orders on Termination of Jurisdiction

§ 394.76 Federal Court Jurisdiction

§§ 394.77-394.99 [Reserved]

§ 394.100 Background and Need for Multijurisdictional Child Custody Standards

[1] Adoption of Original Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction Act

[2] Parental Kidnapping Prevention Act of 1980

[a] Introduction

[b] Summary of Special Terms Under PKPA

[3] Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act

[a] Introduction

[i] Rationale for Development of UCCJEA and Operative Date

[ii] UCCJEA Features That Aid in Resolving Jurisdictional Issues

[A] Home State Priority

[B] Clarification of Emergency Jurisdiction

[C] Exclusive Continuing Jurisdiction in Decree State

[D] Specification of Covered Custody Proceedings

[E] "Best Interests" Language Eliminated

[F] Custody Jurisdiction Harmonized With UIFSA

[G] Creation of Custody Enforcement Mechanism

[b] Summary of Special Terms Under UCCJEA

§ 394.101 Preemption by PKPA; No Federal Court Jurisdiction

§ 394.102 Framework for Analyzing Multijurisdiction Child Custody Questions

§ 394.103 Proceedings to Which PKPA and UCCJEA Apply

[1] Custody Determinations Under PKPA

[2] Custody Determinations, Proceedings, and Decrees Under UCCJEA

§ 394.104 Territorial Scope and International Application of PKPA and UCCJEA

[1] Application to States

[2] Application to Indian Tribes

[3] International Application

§ 394.105 Exclusivity of UCCJEA in California

§ 394.106 Personal Jurisdiction and Physical Presence Not Required

§ 394.107 Jurisdiction to Make Initial Custody Decree

[1] Summary of Basic Grounds Under UCCJEA and PKPA

[a] UCCJEA

[b] PKPA

[c] Former Law Compared

[2] Home State Jurisdiction Preferred Under UCCJEA and PKPA

[a] Home State Rule Stated

[i] UCCJEA

[ii] PKPA

[b] Preference for Home State Jurisdiction

[c] Nature of Six-Month Requirement

[i] In General

[ii] Construction of Six-Month Requirement

[3] "Significant Connection and Substantial Evidence" Jurisdiction Distinguished

[a] Rule Stated

[i] UCCJEA and Former UCCJA Compared

[ii] PKPA and UCCJEA Compared

[b] Construction of Significant Connection and Substantial Evidence

[i] Significant Connection

[ii] Substantial Evidence

[iii] Related Timing Issues

[c] Use of "Best Interests of Child" Standard in Exercising Jurisdiction

[i] No "Best Interests" Language in UCCJEA

[ii] Former UCCJA Compared to UCCJEA

[iii] PKPA Compared to UCCJEA

[4] Temporary Emergency Jurisdiction

[5] California Is More Appropriate Forum Because of Inconvenient Forum or Unjustified Conduct

[6] Jurisdiction in No Other State

[a] Rule Stated

[i] UCCJEA

[ii] PKPA

[b] Former UCCJA Compared

[7] Effect of Stipulation or Acquiescence to Jurisdiction

§ 394.108 Temporary Emergency Jurisdiction

[1] Under UCCJEA

[a] Nature of Emergency

[i] Overview of Rule

[ii] Construction Under Case Law

[b] Duration of Order

[i] Current Rules

[A] No Prior Custody Case Commenced or Determination Made

[B] When Prior Custody Case Has Been Commenced or Determination Made

[ii] Construction Under Case Law

[c] Court's Duty to Communicate With Other Court

[d] Party's Duty to Advise Court of Other Proceedings

[e] Special Domestic Violence Considerations

[2] Under PKPA

§ 394.109 Simultaneous Proceedings in Other States

[1] Under UCCJEA

[a] Overview of Rule

[i] Rule Stated and Implications

[ii] Construction Under Case Law

[b] Court's Duty to Inquire About Other State's Proceedings and Take Appropriate Action

[i] In General

[A] Need to Examine Court Documents and Other Information From Parties

[B] Construction of Court's Communication Duty

[ii] Rule in Modification Cases

[iii] Rule When Both Modification and Enforcement Sought

[2] Under PKPA

§ 394.110 Jurisdiction to Modify Prior Custody Decree

[1] Bases for Modification Jurisdiction in California

[a] Modification of Prior California Decree

[i] When California Has Exclusive, Continuing Jurisdiction

[ii] When California Lacks Exclusive, Continuing Jurisdiction

[iii] Former UCCJA Compared

[b] Modification of Another State's Decree

[i] UCCJEA

[ii] PKPA

[2] Treatment of Specific Modification Issues

[a] Proceeding Brought by Noncustodial Parent in Decree State

[b] What Constitutes "Leaving" Decree State

[c] Modifying State's Review of Decree State's Initial Assumption of Jurisdiction

§ 394.111 Declining Jurisdiction in Inconvenient Forum

[1] Introduction

[2] Standards for Inconvenient Forum

[3] Conditional Stay of Proceedings

[4] Special Rule for Dissolution Cases

[5] Payment of Costs and Attorney's Fees

§ 394.112 Declining Jurisdiction Based on Unjustifiable Conduct (Unclean Hands)

[1] General Rule and Exceptions

[2] Special Rule in Domestic Violence Cases

[3] Court's Authority to Fashion Remedies

[4] Payment of Costs and Attorney's Fees

§ 394.113 Binding Effect of California Custody Decree

§ 394.114 General Procedure Under UCCJA

[1] Notice

[a] Persons Entitled to Notice

[b] Manner of Giving Notice

[2] UCCJEA Declaration

[3] Joinder of Additional Parties

[4] Appearance of Parties

[a] Appearance and Limited Immunity

[b] Order for Personal Appearance

[5] Calendar Priority

[6] Submission of Child's Birth Certificate to Court

[7] Taking Testimony in Another State

[8] Communication Between Courts

[9] Request for Evidentiary Matter Between Courts; Preservation of Records

[a] Interstate Evidentiary Procedures

[b] Duty to Preserve and Forward Records

[10] Registration and Enforcement of Out-of-State Decree

[11] Procedure for Modification of Out-of-State Decree

[12] Appellate Review

§§ 394.115-394.129 [Reserved]

§ 394.130 Related Titles From LEXIS Publishing

[1] California Family Law

[2] California Legal Forms

§ 394.131 Federal Statutes

§ 394.132 State Statutes

[1] Abduction of Child

[2] Child Custody Proceedings

[3] Venue

[4] Visitation

[5] Minors

[6] Parental Control

[7] Support of Indigent Parent

[8] Support Proceedings

[9] Uniform Parentage Act

§ 394.133 Decisions

[1] Abduction of Child

[2] Constitutional Issues

[3] Federal Jurisdiction

[4] Parental Rights

[5] Interstate and International Custody Jurisdiction

[a] Parental Kidnapping Prevention Act (PKPA)

[b] Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act (UCCJEA)

[c] Former Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction Act (UCCJA)

§ 394.134 Law Reviews

§§ 394.135-394.149 [Reserved]

§ 394.150 Notice to Employer to Pay Minor's Earnings to Parent [Fam. Code § 7503]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 394.151 Parents' Relinquishment of Earnings of Minor [Fam. Code § 7504]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§§ 394.152-394.159 [Reserved]

§ 394.160 Petition to Enforce Parental Duty of Support--By Relative on Behalf of Minor Child [Fam. Code § 4000]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 394.161 Petition to Enforce Child's Duty to Support Parent in Need [Fam. Code §§ 4400, 4403(a)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Attorney's Fees

§ 394.162 Proceedings by Abandoned Child for Relief From Duty to Support Parent in Need--Petition [Fam. Code §§ 4410, 4411]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Jurisdiction and Venue

[4] Required Allegations

[5] Citation and Service

§ 394.163 Proceedings by Abandoned Child for Relief From Duty to Support Parent in Need--Notice of Pendency of Proceeding [Fam. Code § 4413]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 394.164 Proceedings by Abandoned Child for Relief From Duty to Support Parent in Need--Order [Fam. Code § 4414]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 394.165 Petition to Enforce Duty of Support by Parent on Behalf of Adult Indigent Child [Fam. Code §§ 3910(a), 4000]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§§ 394.166-394.169 [Reserved]

§ 394.170 Petition for Custody and Support of Minor Children--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-260

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 394.171 Response to Petition for Custody and Support of Minor Children--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-270

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 394.172 Relative of Deceased Parent's Petition for Visitation [Fam. Code § 3102]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 394.173 Grandparents' Petition for Visitation [Fam. Code § 3104]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Service

[4] Venue

§ 394.174 Request to Register Out-of-State Custody Order--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-580

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 394.175 Petition to Modify Registered Decree

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 394.176 Request for Hearing Regarding Registration of Out-Of-State Custody Decree--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-585

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART I. SCOPE

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.01

§ 394.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses the nature and scope of the parent and child relationship. Governing principles, including constitutional protection of the relationship is considered in Part A [see § 394.10 et seq.]. Part A also covers the general rights and duties arising from the parent-child relationship [see § 394.30 et seq.].

Related forms include:

- Notice directing an employer to pay a minor's earnings to a parent [see § 394.150].
- Parents' relinquishment of a minor's earnings [see § 394.151].
- Petition to enforce a parent's duty to support a minor child [see § 394.160].
- Petition to enforce a child's duty to support a parent in need [see § 394.161].
- Petition by an abandoned child for relief from the duty to support a parent in need [see § 394.162], notice of pendency of proceeding [see § 394.163], and order [see § 394.164].
- Petition to enforce parent's duty to support an indigent adult child [see § 394.165].

Part B discusses child custody proceedings, including the various proceedings under California law in which child custody may be determined, along with discussion of jurisdiction to determine custody under the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act (UCCJEA) and Parental Kidnaping Prevention Act (PKPA) [see § 394.70 et seq.].

Related forms include:

- Petition for custody and support of minor children [see § 394.170].

- Response to that petition [see § 394.171].

- Petition for visitation by relative of a deceased parent [see § 394.172].

- Petition for grandparent visitation [see § 394.173].

- Request to register sister-state custody decree [see § 394.174] and a petition to modify a registered sister-state custody decree [see § 394.175].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART I. SCOPE

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.02

§ 394.02 Cross References

Establishing the parent-child relationship as a matter of legal record is discussed in Ch. 412, Paternity . The nature of an adoptive relationship and termination of parental rights are considered, respectively, in Ch. 12, Adoptions: Nature and Effect , and Ch. 12A, Adoptions: Termination ofParental Rights . Juvenile court dependency proceedings are discussed in Ch. 328, Juvenile Courts: Dependency Proceedings .

Child custody and visitation issues in the context of a proceeding for marital dissolution or legal separation, as well as standards by which child custody is to be determined in disputes between parents and nonparents, are discussed in Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody . For discussion of enforcing child custody and visitation awards under the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act (UCCJEA), as well as discussion of remedies for child abduction under the Hague Convention on International Child Abduction, see Ch. 260, Family Law Enforcement: Foreign Judgments .

For discussion of child support issues in dissolution and separation proceedings, including an explanation of the statewide uniform child support guideline, see Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support .

For discussion of minors' torts and contracts, see Ch. 367A, Minors: Tort Actions and Ch. 365,. Minors: Contract Actions .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART I. SCOPE

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 394.03-394.09

[Reserved]

§§ 394.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
1. Parents and Children

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.10

§ 394.10 Statutory Definition and Scope of Parent-Child Relationship

The parent-child relationship means the legal relationship existing between a child and his or her natural or adoptive parents incident to which the law confers or imposes rights, privileges, duties, and obligations. It includes both the mother-child and the father-child relationship [Fam. Code § 7601].

The above definition is a part of the Uniform Parentage Act (UPA) [Fam. Code § 7600 et seq.]. The UPA abolished the legal status of illegitimate child in California. In this regard, the UPA broadly states that the parent-child relationship extends equally to every child and to every parent, regardless of the marital status of the parents [Fam. Code § 7602]. With regard to rights of children, California law does not substantively differentiate between children on the basis of the marital status of their parents [cf. Prob. Code § 6453, discussed in Ch. 412, Paternity (different evidentiary burden under intestacy law)]. However, with regard to parents, the broad proclamation of Fam. Code § 7602 is not consistently carried forth in the UPA and other California law. All parents do not have the same rights, regardless of marital status and regardless of gender. There are a number of areas of California law in which the statutory rights of unmarried fathers may be less than those of mothers and married fathers. For further discussion, see § 394.14.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
1. Parents and Children

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.11

§ 394.11 Constitutional Protection of Parent-Child Relationship

A parent's interest in the companionship, care, custody, and management of his or her children is a cognizable and substantial right that extends to all parents, and is within the protection of the federal due-process and equal-protection clauses. Thus, absent a powerful, countervailing state interest, the parent-child relationship must be protected [Stanley v. Illinois (1972) 405 U.S. 645, 649-659, 92 S. Ct. 1208, 31 L. Ed. 2d 551 ; see U.S. Const. amend. XIV; In re Kieshia E. (1993) 6 Cal. 4th 68, 76, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 775, 859 P.2d 1290 ; see also Carmel-by-the-Sea v. Young (1970) 85 Cal. Rptr. 1, 466 P.2d 225 (canvassing cases finding constitutionally protected rights in family relationship); In re Phillip B. (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 796, 801, 156 Cal. Rptr. 48 (family relationship within protection of federal constitutional right to privacy)].

Constitutional protection of the parent-child relationship extends to unmarried, as well as to married parents, and to fathers as well as to mothers [see Stanley v. Illinois (1972) 405 U.S. 645, 651-652, 92 S. Ct. 1208, 31 L. Ed. 2d 551 ; see also Fam. Code § 7602 (Uniform Parentage Act extends to every child and every parent, regardless of marital status of parents)]. All parents are entitled to a hearing on matters that affect their parental rights [In re Reyna (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 288, 303, 126 Cal. Rptr. 138] . Nevertheless, some legal classifications of parents based on gender and marital status have been accepted by both the United States and California Supreme Courts.

Gender-based distinctions cannot be justified on the theory that there is a fundamental difference between maternal and paternal relations and that a mother bears a closer relationship with a child than does a father [Caban v. Mohammed (1979) 441 U.S. 380, 388-389, 99 S. Ct. 1760, 60 L. Ed. 2d 297] . Nevertheless, disparate statutory treatment of fathers and mothers and of married and unmarried fathers does not violate equal protection per se [Lehr v. Robertson (1983) 463 U.S. 248, 265-268, 103 S. Ct. 2985, 77 L. Ed. 2d 614 ; Quilloin v. Walcott (1978) 434 U.S. 246, 255-256, 98 S. Ct. 549, 54 L. Ed. 2d 511 ; cf. Tuan Anh Nguyen v. INS (2001) 533 U.S. 53, 121 S. Ct. 2053, 2057-2058, 150 L. Ed. 2d 115 (federal statute that provides different citizenship requirements for persons born abroad to unwed parents depending on whether mother or father is citizen parent, does not violate equal protection)]. Equal protection is violated only if a statute is applied disparately to persons who are, in fact, similarly situated with regard to their relationship with the child. An unwed father must "come forward" to participate in the rearing of his children to come within the protection of the equal protection clause [Lehr v. Robertson (1983) 463 U.S. 248, 265-268, 103 S. Ct. 2985, 77 L. Ed. 2d 614 ; Caban v. Mohammed (1979) 441 U.S. 380, 392, 99 S. Ct. 1760, 60 L. Ed. 2d 297 ; Adoption of Kelsey S. (1992) 1 Cal. 4th 816, 849-850, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615, 823 P.2d 1216] . When there is no existing personal relationship between biological father and child, the father's mere desire to establish such a relationship does not invoke a fundamental liberty interest protected by the due process clause [see Dawn D. v. Superior Court (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 932, 942-944, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 871, 952 P.2d 1139] .

Under some circumstances, the scope of due process depends on the prior conduct of the parent. If an unwed father demonstrates a full commitment to the responsibilities of parenthood by coming forward to participate in the rearing of his child, his interest acquires substantial protection under the due process clause. At that point, it may be said that he acts as a father toward his children. But the mere existence of a biological link does not merit equivalent protection. The significance of the biological connection is that it offers the natural father an opportunity that no other male possesses to develop a relationship with his offspring. If he graspsthat opportunity and accepts some measure of responsiblity for the child's future, he may enjoy the blessings of the parent-child relationship. If he fails to do so, the Constitution does not automatically protect his interests [Lehr v. Robertson (1983) 463 U.S. 248, 261-262, 103 S. Ct. 2985, 77 L. Ed. 2d 614 ; Adoption of Kelsey S. (1992) 1 Cal. 4th 816, 849-850, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615, 823 P.2d 1216] . For example, a father who had not executed a voluntary declaration of paternity or taken any other steps to formalize his role as the child's father before a dependency petition was filed had not sufficiently and timely demonstrated a full commitment to his parental responsibilities to merit constitutional protection [see In re Jesusa V. (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 588, 610-611, 10 Cal. Rptr. 3d 205, 85 P.3d 2] . The fact that an alleged biological father is effectively prevented from establishing a relationship with the child by the child's mother will not necessarily change this result, if he otherwise has no recognized basis for asserting paternity [see Dawn D. v. Superior Court (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 932, 942-944, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 871, 952 P.2d 1139 (biological father took parenting classes and built home addition for child, but was prevented from helping to rear child by mother, who was married to another man throughout period of child's conception and birth and only briefly lived with biological father while separated from husband)].

Therefore, statutes that do not treat all parents equally may be unconstitutional as applied to the particular parent who is adversely affected [see Adoption of Kelsey S. (1992) 1 Cal. 4th 816, 850-851, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615, 823 P.2d 1216] .

For a general consideration of California's statutory distinctions regarding fathers, see § 394.14. For further consideration of the constitutionality of disparate treatment in custodial rights, see § 394.30. For further consideration of disparate treatment with regard to standing to bring a paternity action, see Ch. 412, Paternity . For further discussion of disparate treatment with regard to termination of parental rights and consent to adoption, see Ch. 12A, Adoptions: Termination of Parental Rights . For a general consideration of procreational rights of incarcerated fathers, see Ch. 359, Marriage .

Courts have also recognized that children have a fundamental independent right in belonging to a family unit [In re Marilyn H. (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 295, 306, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 544, 851 P.2d 826 ; see Adoption of Kay C. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 741, 749, 278 Cal. Rptr. 907] . However, one court has held that this fundamental right does not belong to an adopted child because adoption is a right bestowed by statute [Adoption of Kay C. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 741, 754, 278 Cal. Rptr. 907 ; see also Louden v. Olpin (1981) 118 Cal. App. 3d 565, 567-569, 173 Cal. Rptr. 447 (constitutional right is not reciprocal to child to extent of allowing court to compel parental visitation)]. The rights of children transcend the biological parent-child relationship. They are not simply chattels belonging to the parent, but havefundamental interests of their own that may diverge from the interests of the parent [In re Jasmon O. (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 398, 419, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 85, 878 P.2d 1297] . These include the fundamental right to be protected from abuse and neglect and to have a home placement that is stable and permanent, and that allows the caretaker to make a full emotional commitment to the child. Therefore, the interests of the parents and the child must be balanced [In re Marilyn H. (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 295, 306, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 544, 851 P.2d 826] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
1. Parents and Children

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.12

§ 394.12 Age of Majority

A minor is an individual who is under 18 years of age. The period of minority is calculated from the first minute of the day on which the individual is born to the same minute of the corresponding day completing the period of minority [Fam. Code § 6500; see In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 813, 843-850, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 373, 855 P.2d 391] . The age of majority was changed from 21 as of March 4, 1972. References in instruments, such as wills and trusts, that were executed before that date are to be construed as referring to an age of majority of 21 years [Fam. Code § 6502(a)(1)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
1. Parents and Children

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.13

§ 394.13 Meaning of "Parent"

The scope of persons who are included within the term "parent" depends on the particular matter at issue. The legislature is presumed to specify the intended meaning of "parent" if it wishes to enlarge or restrict the ordinary meaning of the term [see In re Jodi B. (1991) 227 Cal. App. 3d 1322, 1326-1328, 278 Cal. Rptr. 242 (surveying numerous statutory provisions in which term is defined)]. Otherwise, it is assumed that it refers to one on whom the status has been legally conferred, that is, a natural or adoptive parent [In re Jodi B. (1991) 227 Cal. App. 3d 1322, 1327-1328, 278 Cal. Rptr. 242 ; see Fam. Code §§ 8616, 9305 (adoptive parents have all rights and are subject to all duties of parent-child relationship); In re Jason V. (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 1168, 1171, 280 Cal. Rptr. 562 (ordinary meaning of "parent" cannot be disputed and does not include relative acting as legal guardian)].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
1. Parents and Children

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.14

§ 394.14 Presumed Fathers and Other Fathers

The Uniform Parentage Act removed the legal distinction between legitimate and illegitimate children. However, it did not remove all distinctions between their fathers. The UPA recast those situations by which a child was legitimate under prior law as "presumptions" of paternity [see Fam. Code § 7611; cf. former Civ. Code §§ 195, 215, 230; former Evid. Code §§ 621, 661, prior to repeals and amendments made by Stats. 1975, ch. 1244].

The presumptions of paternity are considered in detail in Ch. 412, Paternity . For the most part, they arise from a marital relationship, evenif the marriage was void or voidable, or if it did not occur until after the birth of the child, or if it terminated before the birth of the child [see Fam. Code §§ 7540, 7611(a)-(c)]. A presumption that is not connected in some way to marriage is that arising from the father's receiving the child into his home and openly holding out the child as his natural born child [Fam. Code § 7611(d)]. There is also a presumption relating toa child in utero after the death of a person whose genetic material was used for posthumous conception of the child [see Fam. Code § 7611(f); for discussion, see Ch. 412, Paternity]. In addition, with limited exception, the mere execution of a voluntary declaration by the mother of a child and a man, both of who agree is the father of the child, has the same force and effect as a paternity judgment [see Fam. Code §§ 7573].

In the context of a paternity action, the presumptions of paternity do have an evidentiary function [see Fam. Code § 7612, discussed in Ch. 412, Paternity]. However, in other areas of the law, the presumptions of paternity also have a substantive classification function. Certain rights are extended to, or withheld from a man who alleges that he is, or is alleged to be, the biological father of a child depending on whether he can qualify as a presumed father under Fam. Code § 7611.

For example, only a presumed father has a right equal to the mother's with regard to the custody, services, and earnings of a child [Fam. Code §§ 3010(a) (custody), 7500(a) (services and earnings); see In re Zacharia D. (1993) 6 Cal. 4th 435, 449, 451, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 751, 862 P.2d 751] . In some cases, the presumptions of paternity also determine whether or not a man has standing to bring a paternity action to establish his own paternity [see Fam. Code §§ 7630, 7631; Michael M. v. Giovanna F. (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1272, 1278, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 460 ; see also Librers v. Black (2005) 129 Cal. App. 4th 114, 124-127, 28 Cal. Rptr. 3d 188 (mother's live-in boyfriend had standing under Fam. Code § 7630 to bring paternity proceeding, based on presumption that he was child's natural father, which was established by his receipt of child into his home and his openly holding her out as his natural child); Miller v. Miller (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 111, 120, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 797 (man who was child's biological father and who had received child into his home and held her out as his own had standing to pursue paternity claim under Fam. Code § 7611(d) even though child's mother was married to another man at time child was conceived and born); but see Lisa I. v. Superior Court (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 605, 610, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 927 (man's claim that he is child's biological father is insufficient to give him statutory standing under Fam. Code § 7630 to establish his paternity when he does not qualify as a presumed father under any provision of Fam. Code § 7611)]. Presumptions of paternity affect the determination of the parent-child relationship for purposes of intestate succession [see Prob. Code § 6450 et seq., discussed in Ch. 412, Paternity], and the right to custody and reunification services with regard to a child adjudged a dependent of the juvenile court [In re A.A. (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 771, 779-789, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 755 ; In re Zacharia D. (1993) 6 Cal. 4th 435, 447-454, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 751, 862 P.2d 751 ; see In re Sarah C. (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 964, 971-972, 975-976, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 414 ; see also Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 361.2, 361.5; but cf. In re Julia U. (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 532, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 920 (father who was prevented by Department of Social Services action from contact with child, and thus, possibility of becoming presumed father, was deprived of fundamental due process right and entitled to reversal of juvenile court order terminating parental rights)]. And, a father's statutory rights with regard to termination of parental rights and adoption depend on whether or not he can meet one of the presumptions of paternity [see Fam. Code §§ 7662, 7664, 8604, 8605; Adoption of Kelsey S. (1992) 1 Cal. 4th 816, 844-850, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615 P.2d1216, discussed in Ch. 12A, Adoptions: Termination of Parental Rights ; see also In re Kyle F. (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 538, 542, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 190 (unwed father's rights regarding adoption of his child depend on whether he is presumed or natural father)].

Each such substantive use of the presumptions of paternity creates disparate treatment between fathers and mothers, and between presumed and "nonpresumed" fathers. This, in turn, raises constitutional questions (see § 394.11). Substantive classifications based on the presumptions are particularly suspect because whether or not a man can qualify as a presumed father is usually within the effective control of the mother. She can refuse to marry him, thereby leaving only the option of receiving the child into his home and openly holding out the child as his natural child. But she may also be able to prevent him from receiving the child into his home, for example, by placing the child for adoption [see Adoption of Kelsey S. (1992) 1 Cal. 4th 816, 847, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615, 823 P.2d 1216] ; cf. Dawn D. v. Superior Court (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 932, 942-944, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 871, 952 P.2d 1139 (mother who lived with biological father when child conceived returned to live with husband when child born and deprived father of chance to be "presumed father"); Barkaloff v. Woodward (1996) 47 Cal. App. 4th 393, 399, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 167 (mother stipulated to paternity judgment with man other than with whom she lived when her child was born). For further discussion, of the constitionality of substantive applications of the presumptions of paternity, see Ch. 412, Paternity .

The presumptions of paternity of Fam. Code § 7611 are reflections of policy as to which fathers should be legally favored [see In re Jesusa V. (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 588, 603, 10 Cal. Rptr. 3d 205, 85 P.3d 2 (although more than one individual may fulfill statutory criteria that give rise to presumption of paternity under Fam. Code § 7611, there can be only one presumed father; competing presumptions of paternity must be reconciled under Fam. Code § 7612)]. They are unaffected by the biological realities. A man's parentage of a child may be undisputed and legally proven, but he may nevertheless fail to be a presumed father [see In re A.A. (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 771, 788-789, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 755 (determination in dependency case that one man is child's biological father does not necessarily defeat another man's presumed father status under Fam. Code § 7611); see also Craig L. v. Sandy S. (2004) 125 Cal. App. 4th 36, 45-53, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 606 (when mother and her husband permitted biological father to receive child into his home and hold child out as his child, biological father may assert rebuttablepresumption of paternity provided by Fam. Code § 7611(d), husband may assert rebuttable presumption of paternity provided by Fam. Code § 7611(a), and court must decide under Fam. Code § 7612 which presumption should prevail)]. Conversely, even if biological paternity is denied and legally disproved, a man may still be deemed to be a presumed father [see In re Jesusa V. (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 588, 604-606, 10 Cal. Rptr. 3d 205, 85 P.3d 2 (nonbiological father's presumption of paternity under Fam. Code § 7611(d) not necessarily defeated by biological father's competing claim to be child's presumed father); In re Nicholas H. (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 56, 58-59, 63-64, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 146, 46 P.3d 932 (man's presumed father status under Fam Code § 7611(d) not necessarily rebutted under Fam. Code § 7612(a) by admission that he is not child's biological father); see also Adoption of Kelsey S. (1992) 1 Cal. 4th 816, 823 n.3, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615, 823 P.2d 1216 ; Miller v. Miller (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 111, 119, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 797 ; but see In re T.R. (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 1202, 1211-1212, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 215 (court denied stepfather's request for presumed father status under Fam. Code § 7611(d), because of his history of molesting children, conduct which was fundamentally inconsistent with role of a parent)]. Courts are not bound to accord determinative weight to biology, but must weigh all relevant factors in determining which of two rebuttably presumed fathers will qualify as the child's presumed father [In re Jesusa V. (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 588, 607-608, 612, 10 Cal. Rptr. 3d 205, 85 P.3d 2 ; see Lisa I. v. Superior Court (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 605, 610-611, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 927 (child's biological father, who has no relationship with child and who has failed to make substantial efforts to establish parent-child relationship or to provide for child's support does not have constitutional liberty interest in opportunity to develop a relationship with the child)].

A valid declaration of paternity signed and filed by the biological father has the force of a judgment under Fam. Code § 7573, which trumps another man's presumed father status under Section 7611(d) [Kevin Q. v. Lauren W. (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 1119, 1124, 1133, 1136-1141, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 477] . A court does not have the discretion to ignore or treat as a rebuttable presumption a voluntary declaration of paternity [Kevin Q. v. Lauren W. (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 1119, 1138, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 477] because it is not a mere presumption that may be weighed against competing Section 7611 presumptions under Fam. Code § 7612(b) [Kevin Q. v. Lauren W. (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 1119, 1141, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 477] .

There is an evidentiary presumption of paternity arising from blood test evidence [see Fam. Code § 7555, discussed in Ch. 412, Paternity], but it does not bestow general presumed-father status on a man so proven to be the biological father because it is not included in the presumptions of Fam. Code § 7611. Even a judgment of paternity in a paternity action does not bestow presumed-father status on a man who cannot otherwise meet one of the presumptions of paternity [see Adoption of Michael D. (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 122, 131 n.3, 256 Cal. Rptr. 884 (adjudged father cannot block adoption by withholding consent unless he otherwise qualifies as presumed father); see also Fam. Code § 7660; see also In re Joshua R. (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 1020, 1025-1036, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 241 (alleged father unable to qualify as presumed father, and trial court found that biological paternity was irrelevant as reunification would not benefit child; therefore alleged father could not obtain either family reunification services or custody)].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
1. Parents and Children

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.14A

§ 394.14A Presumed Mothers

A woman is presumed to be the natural mother of a child if the child is in utero after the death of the decedent and the following conditions are satisfied [Fam. Code § 7650(b); Prob. Code § 249.5]:

(a) The decedent, in writing, specified that her genetic material would be used for the posthumous conception of a child of the decedent, subject to the following:

(1) The specification was signed by the decedent and at least one competent witness.

(2) The specification could be revoked or amended only by a writing, signed by the decedent and at least one competent witness.

(3) The person designated by the decedent to use the genetic material was either of the following:
(A) The spouse or registered domestic partner of the decedent, as of the decedent's date of death.

(B) Some other person named in the specification as approved by the decedent to be the person designated by the decedent to use the genetic material for posthumous conception.

(b) The child or the child's representative has given written notice by certified mail, return receipt requested, that the decedent's genetic material was available for the purpose of posthumous conception. The notice must have been given to a person who had the power to control the distribution of either the decedent's property or death benefits payable by reason of the decedent's death, within four months of the date of issuance of a certificate of the decedent' s death or entry of a judgment determining the fact of the decedent's death, whichever event occurred first.

(c) The child was in utero using the decedent's genetic material and was in utero within two years of the date of issuance of a certificate of the decedent's death or entry of a judgment determining the fact of the decedent's death, whichever event occurred first. This does not apply to a child who shares all of his or her nuclear genes with the person donating the implanted nucleus as a result of the application of somatic nuclear transfer technology commonly known as human cloning.

The California Supreme Court has held that under Fam. Code § 7611(d), a woman may be a presumed mother of a child of her lesbian partner if they have agreed to raise the child together, she receives the child into her home, and she holds the child out as her natural child [Elisa B. v. Superior Court (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 108, 113, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 46, 117 P.3d 660 ; see Charisma R. v. Kristina S. (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 361, 370-374, 96 Cal. Rptr. 3d 26 (domestic partner of birth mother is not required to receive child in her home for "significant period of time" to be considered presumed parent under Fam. Code § 7611(d))]. Although a child can have only one natural mother, this does not mean that a child cannot have two parents, bothof whom are mothers [Elisa B. v. Superior Court (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 108, 117-118, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 46, 117 P.3d 660] . This result is now possible under the domestic partnership statutes, specifically Fam. Code § 297.5(d), which provides that the rights and obligations of registered domestic partners with respect to a child of either of them are the same as those of spouses. The Court has also recognized in an adoption case that a child can have two mothers [Sharon S. v. Superior Court (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 417, 2 Cal. Rptr. 3d 699, 73 P.3d 554] .

A registered domestic partner of the birth mother is entitled to bring a petition under Fam. Code § 7611(d) to establish her parental relationship with a child born to the birth mother by artificial insemination from an anonymous donor. The court must determine first, whether the petitioner is a presumed parent of the child under Fam. Code § 7611(d), and then, whether this is an appropriate action in which to rebut the presumption that the petitioner is the child's parent [Charisma R. v. Kristina S. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 301, 309, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 332] . Presumed parent status depends on affirmative findings that the petitioner received the child into her home and openly held the child out as her natural child. If the trial court finds that the petitioner is a presumed parent, then it should determine (1) whether the petitioner actively participated in causing the child to be conceived with the understanding that she would raise the child as her own with the birth mother, (2) whether she voluntarily accepted the rights and obligations of parenthood after the child was born, and (3) whether any one else claims to be the child's second parent [Charisma R. v. Kristina S. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 301, 309-310, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 332] . Evidence that the petitioner has no biological tie to the child does not rebut the presumption of the petitioner's parenthood [Charisma R. v. Kristina S. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 301, 310, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 332] . Moreover, the fact that the birth mother opposes presumed parent status for the petitioner does not control the determination of whether presumed parent status arises under Fam. Code § 7611(d). Such a rule would be contrary to the public policy in favor of a child having two parents rather than one, and might implicate the constitutional rights of the person seeking presumed parent status and of the child in the establishment of the parent-child relationship [Charisma R. v. Kristina S. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 301, 310, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 332] .

When a woman provides ova to her lesbian partner so that the partner can bear a child who will be raised in their joint home, both women are considered to be the child's parents [K.M. v. E.G. (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 130, 134, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 61, 117 P.3d 673] . An egg donor's genetic relationship with the resulting child constitutes evidence of a mother-child relationship under the Uniform Parentage Act, and the circumstance that her partner gave birth to the child also constitutes evidence of a mother-child relationship. Thus, both women are mothers of the child under the UPA [K.M. v. E.G. (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 130, 142-143, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 61, 117 P.3d 673] .

The Supreme Court has also held that the lesbian mother of a child is estopped from challenging the validity of a stipulated judgment declaring that she and her lesbian partner are the child's parents. Because the mother invoked the jurisdiction of the court to determine the child's parentage under the UPA, stipulated to the issuance of a judgment, and enjoyed the benefits of that judgment, it would be unfair to the partner and the child to permit the mother to challenge the validity of that judgment. It would also contravene the public policy that favors a child having two parents rather than one [Kristine H. v. Lisa R. (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 156, 166, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 81, 117 P.3d 690] .

A woman who has cared for a child and treated the child as her own may be granted presumed mother status under Fam. Code § 7611(d) when the child's birth mother is deceased [In re Salvador M. (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 1353, 1357-1358, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 705 (although most case law has focused on definition of presumed father, legal principles concerning presumed father status apply equally to woman who is seeking presumed mother status)].

Any interested party may bring an action at any time for the purpose of determining the existence or nonexistence of the mother-child relationship presumed under Fam. Code § 7611(d) [Elisa B. v. Superior Court (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 108, 113, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 46, 117 P.3d 660 (district attorney brought action to establish that former lesbian partner of child's birth mother was child's presumed mother and thus obligated to pay support for child); Wynn v. Superior Court (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 346, 350, 353-355, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 86 (child is necessarily interested party in proceeding to determine biological mother and may bring action to adjudicate parentage); but see Scott v. Superior Court (2009) 171 Cal. App. 4th 540, 544-547, 89 Cal. Rptr. 3d 843 (woman who had intimate relationship with father of minor children did not have standing to join parents' UPA action to seek custody and visitation rights as presumed or de facto mother when parental rights of natural mother had not been terminated)].

In a mother's action for custody and visitation rights to her biological child, who has been raised by the biological father and his wife, the wife is not entitled to be joined as a party nor is she entitled to bring a separate action to be declared the child's presumed mother. The wife is not the child's presumed mother under either Fam. Code § 7611(a) by virtue of being married to the child's father, or under Fam. Code § 7611(d) because she received the child into her home and held him out as her own child. The presumptions set forth in Fam. Code § 7611 do not apply in maternity cases when the child's birth mother is present and asserts legal parenthood. Because the child's natural father was known and present in the action, the child could have only one additional parent. Cases in which the courts have applied Fam. Code § 7611 to recognize a presumed mother have all involved circumstances in which there was no competing claim to be the child's mother or second parent. When both the child's biological father and biological mother have identified themselves and come forward to assert their legal parentage, it is not appropriate to invoke a gender-neutral reading of the paternity presumptions to provide the child with another mother [Amy G. v. M.W. (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 1, 16, 47 Cal. Rptr. 3d 297].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
1. Parents and Children

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.15

§ 394.15 In Loco Parentis, De Facto Parentage, and Similar Doctrines

In loco parentis (in place of parent) is a common-law doctrine that has beenhistorically applied in some contexts to impose certain parental obligations and confer certain parental benefits on persons other than parents. The term in loco parentis refers to any person who has put himself or herself in the situation of a lawful parent by assuming the obligations incident to the parental relationship without going through the formalities necssary to the establishment of a legal relationship of parent and child. It embodies the two ideas of assuming the parental status and discharging the parental duties [Estate of Teddy (1963) 214 Cal. App. 2d 113, 119, 29 Cal. Rptr. 402] .

Some older cases have stated or implied that one standing in loco parentis is entitled to all the rights of a parent [see Trudell v. Leatherby (1931) 212 Cal. 678, 682, 300 P. 7 (overruled on other grounds in Gibson v. Gibson (1971) 3 Cal. 3d 914, 923, 92 Cal. Rptr. 288, 479 P.2d 648); Loomis v. State of California (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 820, 823, 39 Cal. Rptr. 820] . However, more recent cases have generally been unwilling to broaden the meaning of "parent" in a statute unless clearly intended by the Legislature [see, e.g., In re Jodi B. (1991) 227 Cal. App. 3d 1322, 1325-1330, 278 Cal. Rptr. 242 (stepparent not entitled to reunification services as "parent" within meaning of juvenile dependency law).

A de facto parent is a person who has assumed, for a substantial period and on a day-to-day basis, the role of parent, fulfilling both the child's physical and psychological needs [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.502(a)(4); In re B.G. (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 679, 692-693, 114 Cal. Rptr. 444, 523 P.2d 244 (foster parents, as de facto parents, may appear as parties in juvenile court proceedings); In re A.A. (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 771, 779, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 755 (use of word "parent" in dependency statutes does not include de facto parents); see also In re Jacob E. (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 909, 919, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 15 (juvenile court did not abuse discretion in refusing to find grandmother was de facto parent, where while child lived with her, grandmother acted contrary to role of parent); Clifford S. v. Superior Court (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 747, 751-756, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 333 (de facto parent lacks standing to appeal denial or adequacy of reunification services)]. Arguably, requests for de facto status should be liberally granted [see In re Ashley P. (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 23, 27, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 383] . However, de facto parents have express rights as parties only in juvenile court dependency proceedings [see In re Rachael C. (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 1445, 1452-1453, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 473

(and cases cited); see also In re Hirenia C. (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 504, 513, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 443] .

As with in loco parentis, there has been a judicial reluctance to extend de facto parentage into other areas [see In re Jamie G. (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 675, 684, 241 Cal. Rptr. 869 (de facto parents not entitled to reunification services under juvenile court dependency law)]. There is no procedure by which one can be declared a de facto parent, thereby becoming entitled to all of the rights and obligations of the parent-child relationship [cf. Fam. Code § 8616 (adoptive parent has all such rights and obligations)].

Other similar and novel doctrines to extend parental rights to nonparents have also met with little success in California courts. Courts have rejected concepts of "equitable parentage" [see In re Marriage of Lewis & Goetz (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 514, 519-520 250 Cal. Rptr. 30] and "functional parenthood" [see Nancy S. v. Michele G. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 831, 840-841, 279 Cal. Rptr. 212] . Deference to the Legislature in the area of extension of parental rights into nontraditional areas is clearly the current view of the California judiciary [see Nancy S. v. Michele G. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 831, 841-842, 279 Cal. Rptr. 212 ; Curiale v. Reagan (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1597, 1600-1601, 272 Cal. Rptr. 520 ; In re Marriage of Lewis & Goetz (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 514, 519-520, 250 Cal. Rptr. 30] .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
1. Parents and Children

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.16

§ 394.16 Maternal Surrogacy Birth Arrangements

Couples who desire but who are unable to bear children are increasingly turning to the use of surrogates, often paying substantial sums of money in exchange for a lacking function of the birth process. The parties enter into a contract under which a surrogate mother agrees to provide the function and renounce any parental rights that she might otherwise be entitled to in exchange for monetary consideration. The California Supreme Court, in Johnson v. Calvert, upheld the basic validity and enforceablilty of surrogacy contracts against the argument that they are in violation of public policy [Johnson v. Calvert (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 84, 95, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 494, 851 P.2d 776 ; cf. In re Baby M (1988) 109 N.J. 396, 537 A.2d 1227, 1246-1248] .

Two kinds of surrogate arrangements have come before the California courts. One involves in vitro fertilization, in which a woman's egg is removed from her body, fertilized in a laboratory using sperm provided by the intended father, and then implanted into the uterus of the surrogate, who carries the fetus and then gives birth to the child [see Johnson v. Calvert (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 84, 105, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 494, 851 P.2d 776 (Kennard, J., dissenting)]. The egg is usually that of the woman who is the intended mother, and the sperm that of the intended father; but both egg and sperm could also come from anonymous donors and be fertilized in vitro for implantation in the surrogate's uterus, as in one reported decision [In re Marriage of Buzzanca (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 1410, 1413, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 280] . This arrangement has been called "gestational surrogacy" [see In re Marriage of Moschetta (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1218 1222, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 893] .

The other arrangement involves the artificial insemination of the surrogate with the sperm of the intended father using the surrogate's egg [see In re Marriage of Moschetta (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1218, 1221-1222, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 893 (calling this arrangement "traditional surrogacy"); Adoption of Matthew B. (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1239, 1252, 284 Cal. Rptr. 18] . The two arrangements differsignificantly in that with in vitro fertilization, the surrogate is not genetically related to the child. With artificial insemination in which the intended father's sperm fertilizes the surrogate's egg, the surrogate is the child's true biological mother [see In re Marriage of Moschetta (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1218, 1222, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 893] .

This difference means that if the surrogate later changes her mind and refuses to fulfill her obligations under the contract, a different body of law applies depending on what type of surrogacy is at issue. With regard to gestational surrogacy, the California Supreme Court resolved the issue as one of parentage (maternity) under the Uniform Parentage Act [see Fam. Code § 7650] affected by principles of contract law but outside of the scope of adoption law [see Johnson v. Calvert (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 84, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 494, 851 P.2d 776] . In vitro fertilization and gestational surrogacy are discussed further in Ch. 412, Paternity.

In contrast, with artificial insemination, the parental rights of the father's wife can only arise by adoption. Therefore, the rights of the parties must be resolved under the adoption statutes [In re Marriage of Moschetta (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1218, 1222, 1228-1231, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 893 ; Adoption of Matthew B. (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1239, 1255-1259, 284 Cal. Rptr. 18] . Surrogacy arrangements that require adoption are discussed in Ch. 12, Adoptions: Nature and Effect .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
1. Parents and Children

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 394.17-394.29

[Reserved]

§§ 394.17[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
2. Parental Rights and Duties

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.30

§ 394.30 Parents' Right to Custody of Child

[1] Scope and Nature of Right

The most basic of parents' rights with respect to their children is the right to custody [see Odell v. Lutz (1947) 78 Cal. App. 2d 104, 106, 177 P.2d 628 ; In re Phillip B. (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 796, 801, 156 Cal. Rptr. 48] . The right to custody embraces the sum of parental rights with respect to the rearing of a child, including the child's care, the right to the child's services and earnings [see Fam. Code § 7500, discussed in § 394.34, the right to direct the child's activities, the right to make decisions regarding the control, education, and health of the child [Burge v. City & County of San Francisco (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 608, 617, 262 P.2d 6 ; see Fam. Code §§ 3003, 3006 (legal custody includes right of parent to ake decisions relating to health, education, and welfare of child)], and the right, as well as the duty, to prepare the child for additional obligations, which includes the teaching of moral standards, religious beliefs, and elements of good citizenship [see Wisconsin v. Yoder (1972) 406 U.S. 205, 233, 92 S. Ct. 1526, 32 L. Ed. 2d 15] .

The right of a fit and proper parent to his or her child's custody, while once expressed as somewhat in the nature of a property right [see Turner v. Turner (1959) 167 Cal. App. 2d 636, 642, 334 P.2d 1011] , is more properly characterized as a principle of parental autonomy [see In re Phillip B. (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 796, 801, 156 Cal. Rptr. 48] . Under this principle, a child may not be taken from the custody of a fit parent simply because the child might be better off in a nonparental custodial setting [see Stanley v. Illinois (1972) 405 U.S. 645, 651-658, 92 S. Ct. 1208, 31 L. Ed. 2d 551] .

Parents who are petitioning to terminate their child's guardianship, claiming that they are now able to adequately care for the child and are therefore entitled to regain custody of their child, do not have a constitutional right to have the guardianship terminated and the child returned to their custody. A parent's constitutional right against judicial interference with the parent's day-to-day child rearing decisions applies to a fit parent who has custody of the child. When parents do not have custody and are not participating in the day-to-day parenting of the child, they are not entitled to the constitutional protections afforded to parents acting in that role. The test for determining whether the guardianship should be terminated is the best interest of the child [Guardianship of L.V. (2006) 136 Cal. App. 4th 481,

484, 489, 491-497, 38 Cal. Rptr. 3d 894] .

[2] Comparative Rights of Mothers and Fathers

The mother of an unemancipated minor child, and the father, if presumed to be the father under Fam. Code § 7611, are equally entitled to the custody of the child [Fam. Code § 3010(a)]. Therefore, the statutory custodial rights of fathers depend on whether a father can meet one of the presumptions of paternity [see In re Zacharia D. (1993) 6 Cal. 4th 435, 449, 451, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 751, 862 P.2d 751 ; see also § 394.14; Ch. 412, Paternity (discussion of presumptions of paternity)]. If so, his rights are equal to the mother's [In re Kyle F. (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 538, 542, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 190] ; if not, the statute gives the mother a superior claim to custody.

The constitutionality of this distinction is questionable if the father has come forward immediately after the birth of the child to assert and exercise his custodial rights [see Lehr v. Robertson (1983) 463 U.S. 248, 103 S. Ct. 2985, 77 L. Ed. 2d 614 ; Caban v. Mohammed (1979) 441 U.S. 380, 392, 99 S. Ct. 1760, 60 L. Ed. 2d 297 ; In re Zacharia D. (1993) 6 Cal. 4th 435, 450-451, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 751, 862 P.2d 751 ; Adoption of Kelsey S. (1992) 1 Cal. 4th 816, 849-850, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615, 823 P.2d 1216] . For related discussion, see § 394.11.

Otherwise, Fam. Code § 3040(a)(1) provides that in a custody dispute between parents, there is no gender preference. Under prior law, it was held that the former Family Law Act predecessor statute [see former Civ. Code § 4600] could not constitutionally be limited to fathers of legitimate children [see In re Reyna (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 288, 297, 126 Cal. Rptr. 138] .

[3] Rights of Surviving or Remaining Parent

If one parent is dead, is unable or refuses to take custody, or has abandoned the child, the other parent is entitled to custody of the child [Fam. Code § 3010(b); see People v. Ryan (1999) 76 Cal. App. 4th 1304, 1314-1315, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 160 (father both refused to take custody of and abandoned child)]. The right to custody is immediate, so that the surviving parent may exercise the incidents of the right without first obtaining a custody order from the court [see Guardianship of Donaldson (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 477, 485-486, 223 Cal. Rptr. 707] .

The priority of a parent to the custody of his or her child (absent proof of detriment to the child) as against a nonparent is set forth in Fam. Code §§ 3040 and 3041, and is discussed in detail in Ch. 223 Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
2. Parental Rights and Duties

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.31

§ 394.31 Residence of Child

The residence of a parent with whom an unmarried, unemancipated minor maintains his or her place of abode is the residence of the child [Gov. Code § 244(d); see also Welf. & Inst. Code § 17.1]. The residence of an unmarried, unemancipated minor cannot be changed by his or her own act [Gov Code § 244(e); see Fam. Code § 7050(e)(15) (effect of emancipation)]. If a child's parents are divorced, the term "residence" as it applies to the child is subject to several possible interpretations depending on the context. For example, it may have a specialized meaning for insurance purposes [Kibbee v. Blue Ridge Ins. Co. (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 53, 61-63, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 294 (involving homeowner's insurance policy)].

A parent entitled to the custody of a child has a right to change the residence of the child, subject to the power of the court to restrain a removal that would prejudice the rights or welfare of the child [Fam. Code § 7501; see In re Marriage of LaMusga (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 1072, 1101, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 356, 88 P.3d 81 (factors court should consider when deciding whether to modify custody order in light of custodial parent's proposed change of residence)]. Restraint on removal of a child from the court's jurisdiction is discussed in Ch. 223 Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
2. Parental Rights and Duties

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.32

§ 394.32 Marriage of Child

Parental authority, including the right to custody ceases if a minor child marries [Fam. Code § 7505(b)]. Therefore, an unmarried minor may marry only with the consent in writing of one or both parents and a court order [Fam. Code § 302]. A parent may have his or her minor child's marriage annulled if proper consent was not obtained for the child's marriage [see Fam. Code § 2210(a)]. The purpose of the statutes providing for parental control over the marriage of their minor children is to permit parents to exercise the control and discipline over their children to which they are entitled because of the right to custody [Turner v. Turner (1959) 167 Cal. App. 2d 636, 641-642, 334 P.2d 1011 (minor child's marriage may be annulled if parental consent was obtained by fraud)].

For further discussion of parental consent to a child's marriage and annullment, see Ch. 25, Annulment (Nullity) of Marriage and Related Spousal Rights .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
2. Parental Rights and Duties

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.33

§ 394.33 Name of Child

The rule giving the father, as against the mother, a primary right to have his child bear his surname has been abolished in California. The sole consideration when parents contest a surname is the child's best interest [In re Marriage of Schiffman (1980) 28 Cal. 3d 640, 647, 169 Cal. Rptr. 918, 620 P.2d 579 (disapproving expressions to the contrary in In re Trower (1968) 260 Cal. App. 2d 75, 77, 66 Cal. Rptr. 873 ; In re Worms (1967) 252 Cal. App. 2d 130, 134-135, 60 Cal. Rptr. 88 ; Montandon v. Montandon (1966) 242 Cal. App. 2d 886, 889-892, 52 Cal. Rptr. 43 ; In re Larson (1947) 81 Cal. App. 2d 258, 262, 183 P.2d 688)].

In determining the child's best interests, the length of time that the child has used a surname is to be considered. If the time is negligible because the child is very young, other facts may be controlling. For instance, the effect of a name change on preservation of the father-child relationship, the strength of the mother-child relationship, and the identification of the child as part of a family unit are all pertinent. The symbolic role that a surname other than the natural father's may play in easing relations with a new family if the custodial mother remarries should be balanced against the importance of maintaining the biological father-child relationship. The embarrassment or discomfort that a child may experience when he or she bears a surname different from the rest of the family should be evaluated [In re Marriage of Schiffman (1980) 28 Cal. 3d 640, 647, 169 Cal. Rptr. 918, 620 P.2d 579] .

A court may order that a child's name on the birth certificate be the hyphenated surnames of both parents, but that the child use the name of only one of the parents [see In re Marriage of Douglass (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 1046, 1054-1056, 252 Cal. Rptr. 839] . The mother's surname is not of less importance if it was the surname of a former husband rather than a birth-given surname [In re Marriage of McManamy & Templeton (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 607, 611, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 216 (finding insufficient evidence to support change of child's name from the mother's surname, as recorded on birth certificate, to hyphenation of mother's and father's surnames)].

A petition to change a child's name may be filed in the superior court of the county where the child resides. The petition may be filed by either of the child's parents, by the child's guardian, or by a near relative or friend of the child as provided in Family Code Section 7638 if both of the child's parents are dead and the child does not have a guardian [

Code Civ. Proc. § 1276(a)]. If neither parent has signed the petition, it must specify the names and addresses of the parents if living (or, if neither parent is living, the names and addresses of the child's near relatives), if known to the person proposing the name change [Code Civ. Proc. § 1276(b)]. If only one parent signs the petition, it must specify the other parent's address, if known [Code Civ. Proc. § 1276(c)]. The petition must specify the child's present name, his or her place of birth and current residence, and the reason for the proposed name change [Code Civ. Proc. § 1276(a)]. For general discussion and forms for use in petitioning for a change of name, see Ch. 377, Name, Change of.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
2. Parental Rights and Duties

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.34

§ 394.34 Property and Earnings of Child

[1] Child's Right to Property

A parent, as such, has no control over the property of the child [Fam. Code § 7502; see Emery v. Emery (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 421, 432, 289 P.2d 218] . However, under the Probate Code, parents are generally entitled to receive money and property belonging to their child, subject to a duty to account to the child on reaching the age of majority [Prob. Code § 3300]. Money and property not exceeding $5,000 in value may be paid or delivered to a parent entitled to custody to be held in trust until the child reaches the age of majority [Prob. Code § 3401]. For larger amounts, property may be transferred to a custodian for the benefit of a minor under the California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act [Prob. Code § 3900 et seq.]. Other fiduciary arrangements, such as a formal trust or guardianship of estate may also be used [see Prob. Code §§ 1501, 1514]. Under all of these arrngements, a parent may serve in a fiduciary capacity with regard to the minor's property.

A court may direct that an allowance be made to a parent from a child's property for the child's past or future support, on proper conditions, if it is for the child's benefit [Fam. Code § 3902].

A parent cannot validly consent to a peace officer's search of the child's personal property over the child's objections, and if a search is made, it is in violation of the Fourth Amendment [In re Scott K. (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 395, 403-404, 155 Cal. Rptr. 671, 595 P.2d 105] .

[2] Parents' Right to Child's Earnings and Services

A child's earnings are treated differently from other property with regard to the rights of parents. The mother of an unemancipated minor child, and the father, if presumed to be the father under Fam. Code § 7611, are equally entitled to the services and earnings of the child [Fam. Code § 7500(a)]. For discussion of possible constitutional implications of providing different rights to fathers who do not qualify as "presumed" fathers, see §§ 394.11 and 394.14.

The employer of a minor must pay the minor's earnings to the minor until the parent entitled to the earnings gives the employer notice that he or she claims the earnings [Fam. Code § 7503; see § 394.150]. There is authority that the word "earnings" is broader in scope than merely wages or salary and can encompass income derived from other sources, such as a sole proprietorship [see In re Marriage of Imperato (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 432, 437, 119 Cal. Rptr. 590] .

If one parent is dead, is unable or refuses to take custody, or has abandoned the child, the other parent is entitled to the services and earnings of the child [Fam. Code § 7500(b)].

The right to a minor child's earnings is dependent on the right to ustody and control of the child. Therefore, if the parents are separated, only the custodial parent has a right to the child's services and earnings [see Watkins v. Clemmer (1933) 129 Cal. App. 567, 574-575, 19 P.2d 303 ; see also Fam. Code § 771]. The rights of a parent who has joint legal custody [see Fam. Code § 3003] but not joint physical custody [see Fam. Code § 3004] have not been determined.

The parent may relinquish to the child the right to receive the child's earnings [see § 394.151]. Abandonment by the parent is presumptive evidence of that relinquishment [Fam. Code § 7504]. Relinquishment is also effected by the emancipation of the minor, either partial or complete [Fam. Code § 7050(b); Slater v. California State Auto. Asso. (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 375, 376-377, 19 Cal. Rptr. 290] .

If parents do receive their child's earnings during minority, the child has no right to claim a return of those earnings unless the child can show that he or she was emancipated from the parents and entitled to his or her own earnings. The burden is on the child to show that he or she was in fact emancipated by some legally recognized act of emancipation. In the absence of such a showing, the presumption is that no relinquishment by the parents took place and that the minor's earnings legally belonged to the parents [Smith v. Smith (1918) 38 Cal. App. 388, 397, 176 P. 382] . For further discussion, see Ch. 245, Emancipation of Minors .

If a third person commits a tort against a minor child and the child suffers a loss of earnings, the parents of the child have a cause of action against the third person to recover for the loss of the child's earnings and services that have economic value [see Baxter v. Superior Court (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 461, 463-466, 138 Cal. Rptr. 315, 563 P.2d 871] .

[3] Earnings From Entertainment, Artistic, or Sports Contracts

There is an exception to the general rule that parents are entitled to an unmarried minor's earnings if the child's earnings are derived from an entertainment, artistic, or sports contract. In any court order approving the contract, the court must require that at least 15 percent of the minor's gross earnings under the contract be set aside by the minor's employer and placed in a trust account in a bank, savings and loan, or similar financial institution, as prescribed by statute, and preserved for the minor's benefit [Fam. Code §§ 6752(b), (d), 6753(a)]. For further discussion of minors' entertainment industry contracts, see Ch. 365 Minors: Contract Actions .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
2. Parental Rights and Duties

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.35

§ 394.35 Parents' Duties

[1] Control of Children

A parent is responsible to the state for the well-being of his or her child [Turner v. Turner (1959) 167 Cal. App. 2d 636, 642, 334 P.2d 1011] andhas a duty to rear and discipline the child [Emery v. Emery (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 421, 429-430, 289 P.2d 218 ; see § 394.53 (limitations on discipline)]. For purposes of the crime of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, a parent has the duty to exercise reasonable care, supervision, protection, and control over a minor child [Penal Code § 272; see Williams v. Garcetti (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 561, 567-579, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 341, 853 P.2d 507 (statute expresses traditional parental duty and is not unconstitutionally vague or overbroad; however criminal liability requires gross or culpable departure from required standard of care)]. For discussion of parental liability for the torts of their children, Ch. 367A, Minors: Tort Actions.

[2] Child Support

[a] Duty of Support

The father and mother of a minor child have an equal responsibility to support their child in the manner suitable to the child's circumstances [Fam. Code § 3900]. This duty of support usually terminates when the child reaches the age of majority (18), but continues as to an unmarried child age 18 or older who is a full-time high school student, and who is not self-supporting, until the time when the child finishes high school or attains the age of 19 years, whichever occurs first [Fam. Code § 3901]. The duty of support may be continued past the age of majority by agreement [Fam. Code § 3587], or in the case of a child who is incapacitated from earning a living and without sufficient means [Fam. Code § 3910]. The duty of support under all of these circumstances is discussed further in Ch. 224 Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support .

[b] Proceedings in Which Child Support May Be Ordered

Child support may be ordered in various California proceedings involving the welfare of children. It may be ordere in a proceeding for dissolution of marriage, nullity of marriage or for legal separation of the parties, as discussed in Ch. 224 Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support [Fam. Code § 2010(c)].

Under Fam. Code § 4000, if a parent willfully fails to provide support for his or her child, the other parent or the child by a guardian ad litem may bring an action against the parent to enforce the duty. This statute provides general jurisdiction for the court to consider whether or not a duty of support exists, and to make appropriate child support orders if it determines that there is a duty. It is available regardless of the marital status of the parents. The proceeding might be used to obtain child support for a child who is not receiving public assistance and whose custodial parent refuses to seek child support from the noncustodial parent. For a form for use in such an action, see § 394.160[1].

The Family Code also provides jurisdiction for the county, through its district attorney or other local child support agency, to obtain child support orders [see Fam. Code §§ 4002, 17400 et seq.]. Enforcement of support through the district attorney or other local child support agency is considered in Ch. 259, Family Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Enforcement of Support .

A child support order may also be made in a proceeding to determine parentage under the Uniform Parentage Act [Fam. Code § 7637; see Fam. Code § 7614, as discussed in Ch. 412, Paternity]. A defendant charged with criminal child neglect or abandonment under Penal Code § 270 may have proceedings or sentence suspended by agreeing to a bonded child support order [Penal Code § 270b].

The Uniform Interstate Family Support Act (UIFSA-- Fam. Code § 4900 et seq.) provides procedures for interstate establishment of support orders, as well as for the enforcement of existing foreign support orders. UIFSA is considered in detail in Ch. 259, Family Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Enforcement of Support.

Guardianship law provides no express authority for a guardian of the person of a child to obtain an order for child support from a parent [cf. Prob. Code § 2422 (authorizing converse, that is, order that child be supported solely from guardianship estate notwithstanding existence of person legally obligated to support child)]. However, it has been held that the appointment of a guardian does not prevent the court from ordering parent to provide support for his or her child [see In re Marriage of O'Connell (1978) 80 Cal. App. 3d 849, 856, 146 Cal. Rptr. 26 ; see also Fam. Code § 4000)].

[c] Amount of Support

Regardless of the proceeding in which child support is at issue, the amount of support must be determined under the statewide uniform child upport guideline [see Fam. Code § 4050 et seq.]. For comprehensive treatment of the guideline, see Ch. 224 Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
2. Parental Rights and Duties

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.36

§ 394.36 Termination of Parental Authority

The authority of a parent over a child ceases on (1) the appointment, by a court, of a guardian of the person of a child; (2) the marriage of the child; or the child's attaining majority [Fam. Code § 7505]. The emancipation of a child also terminates most parental authority and obligations [see Fam. Code § 7050]. For further discussion, see Ch. 245, Emancipation of Minors .

Termination of parental authority is not the same as termination of parental rights or freeing a child from parental custody and control [see Fam. Code § 7800 et seq.]. The latter terminates the parent-child relationship for all purposes [see Fam. Code § 7803]. Termination of parental rights is considered in Ch. 12A, Adoptions: Termination of Parental Rights .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
2. Parental Rights and Duties

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.37

§ 394.37 Support of Parents

[1] Adult Child's Duty to Support Parent in Need

Except as otherwise provided by law, an adult child must, to the extent of his or her ability, support a parent who is in need and unable to maintain himself or herself by work [Fam. Code § 4400; see also Fam. Code § 4401 (promise of adult child to pay for necessaries previously furnished to needy parent is binding)]. This duty is strictly a creation of statute; there is no common law duty on adult children to protect and care for their aging parents [People v. Heitzman (1994) 9 Cal. 4th 189, 212, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 236, 886 P.2d 1229] . However, the duty is cumulative and not in substitution for any other duty [Fam. Code § 4402].

The purpose of this statutory duty is to protect the public from the burden of supporting people who have children who are able to support them [People v. Heitzman (1994) 9 Cal. 4th 189, 210, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 236, 886 P.2d 1229] . Nevertheless, the statute creates no liability to a public agency for reimbursement of support provided to an indigent parent [County of San Bernardino v. Simmons (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 394, 398, 296 P.2d 329 ; Freitas v. County of Contra Costa (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 163, 172 n.8, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 406] . Further, the statute does not create a duty on an adult child to act to prevent elder abuse, if the child is not the caretaker of the parent [People v. Heitzman (1994) 9 Cal. 4th 189, 210-212, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 236, 886 P.2d 1229 ; see Penal Code § 368(a)].

A married person's obligation to support an indigent parent is a community obligation for which the person is not required to reimburse the community. An individual has an obligation under Fam. Code § 4400 to support an indigent parent to the extent the individual is able, and such an obligation imposed by statute is a "debt" within the meaning of Fam. Code § 910, which provides that the community estate is liable for a debt incurred by either spouse before or during marriage [In re Marriage of Leni (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 1087, 1096-1098, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 886].

[2] Civil Action to Enforce Duty

A parent, or the county on behalf of the parent, may bring an action against the child to enforce the duty of support [Fam. Code § 4403(a)(1)]. If the county furnishes support to a parent, the county has the same right as the parent to whom the support was furnished to secure reimbursement and obtain continuing support [Fam. Code § 4403(a)(2)]. However, the right of the county to proceed on behalf of the parent or to obtain reimbursement is subject to any limitation otherwise imposed by California law [Fam. Code § 4403(b)]. The court may order the child to pay the county reasonable attorney's fees and court costs in a proceeding by the county [Fam. Code § 4403(c)].

In determining the amount to be ordered for support, the court must consider the following circumstances of each party [Fam. Code § 4404]:

- Earning capacity and needs.
- Obligations and assets.
- Age and health.
- Standard of living.
- Other factors the court deems just and equitable.

The court retains jurisdiction to modify or terminate an order for support if justice requires [Fam. Code § 4405].

For a form of petition to enforce an adult child's duty to support a parent in need, see § 394.161.

[3] Petition for Relief From Duty on Ground of Abandonment

An adult child may file a petition in the county where a parent of the child resides requesting that the court make an order freeing the petitioner from the obligation otherwise imposed by law to support the parent. If the parent does not reside in this state, the petition must be filed in the county where the adult child resides [Fam. Code § 4410].

The court must relieve an adult child of the obligation to support his or her parent only if the petition alleges and the court finds all of the following [Fam. Code § 4411]:

(1) The child was abandoned by the parent when the child was a minor;

(2) The abandonment continued for a period of two or more years before the time the child attained the age of 18 years; and

(3) During the period of abandonment the parent was physically and mentally able to provide support for the child.

For a form of petition to obtain relief from the duty to support a parent, see § 394.162.

On the filing of the petition, the clerk must set the matter for hearing by the court and must issue a citation, stating the time and place of the hearing. The citation is to be directed to the parent and to the parent's conservator, if any, or, if the parent is deceased, to the personal representative of the parent's estate. At least five days before the date of the hearing, the citation and a copy of the petition must be personally served on each person to whom it is directed, in the same manner as provided by law for the service of summons [Fam. Code § 4412; see Code Civ. Proc. § 415.10 et seq.]. For a form for use to give notice of the proceeding, see § 394.163.

If the parent is a California resident, the court does not have jurisdiction to make an order until 30 days after the county counsel, or the district attorney in a couty not having a county counsel, of the county in which the parent resides has been served with notice of the pendency of the proceeding [Fam. Code § 4413].

If at the hearing the court determines that the requirements for relief are satisfied, the court must make an order that the petitioner is relieved from the obligation otherwise imposed by law to support the parent [Fam. Code § 4414(a)]. Such an order also releases the petitioner with respect to any state law under which a child is required to do any of the following [Fam. Code § 4414(b)]:

(1) Pay for the support, care, maintenance, and the like of a parent.

(2) Reimburse the state or a local public agency for furnishing the support, care, maintenance, or the like of a parent.

For a form of court order granting relief from the duty to support a parent, see § 394.164.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
2. Parental Rights and Duties

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 394.38-394.49

[Reserved]

§§ 394.38[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
3. Limits on Parental Authority

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.50

§ 394.50 Power of State to Limit Parental Authority

Although parents have very wide discretion in the control that they exercise over their children, the discretion is not absolute. A state's interest in the well-being of children is a sufficient interest to justify state intervention in the parent-child relationship, through exercise of its police powers [see Cal. Const., art. XI, § 7], to safeguard the child's health, development, and well-being [Prince v. Commonwealth of Massachusetts (1944) 321 U.S. 158, 166-167, 64 S. Ct. 438, 88 L. Ed. 645 ; In re Phillip B. (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 796, 801, 156 Cal. Rptr. 48] . The most dire way in which a state may use its supervisory power to interfere with the parent-child relationship is in proceedings to permanently sever the parent-child relationship by "freeing the child from parental custody and control" [see Fam. Code § 7800 et seq.], or in current terminology, by terminating parental rights [see Fam. Code § 7664]. These proceedings are considered in Ch. 12, Adoptions: Nature and Effect .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
3. Limits on Parental Authority

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.51

§ 394.51 Education of Child

As a general rule, a parent has the right to educate a child as he or she chooses [see Burge v. City & County of San Francisco (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 608, 617, 262 P.2d 6] . However, a state has the power reasonably to regulate all schools, to require that children of proper age attend school, to require that certain subjects essential to good citizenship be taught, and to require that nothing be taught that is inimical to the public welfare [Pierce v. Society of Sisters (1925) 268 U.S. 510, 534, 45 S. Ct. 571, 69 L. Ed. 1070] .

In California, state law controls the types of schooling or private instruction that a child must receive, the number of hours that a child must attend school, and the curriculum that a child must be taught while at school [see Educ. Code §§ 48200 et seq., 48293, 48400 et seq., 51200 et seq., 51500 et seq.]. There are alternatives, however, to traditional public school instruction that parents may seek for their children. For example, a child may be enrolled in work experience education courses [Educ. Code §§ 49113, 51760 et seq.], or in private school [Educ. Code § 48222], or may receive instruction from a private tutor [Educ. Code § 48224].

In addition, there are several statutory exemptions from the compulsory education attendance regulations [see Educ. Code §§ 48200 et seq., 48410 et seq.]. There is an available exemption if it is necessary for the minor child to work full time in order to support himself or herself [Educ. Code § 49130] if the child has obtained a certificate of proficiency [Educ. Code § 48412], or if the child has obtained a work permit [Educ. Code § 48230].

It is also possible for a child to be exempt from compulsory attendance on constitutional grounds. The state's regulatory power is subject to balancing process if it impinges on fundamental rights and interests, such as those protected by the free exercise clause of the First Amendment, and the traditional interest of parents regarding the religious upbringing of their children [Wisconsin v. Yoder (1972) 406 U.S. 205, 214, 92 S. Ct. 1526, 32 L. Ed. 2d 15] . Thus, a child may be exempted from the compulsory education laws if school attendance would interfere with the practice of a legitimate religious belief and the fundamental interest of parents to guide the religious future and education of their children, so long as the parental decision will not jeopardize the health or safety of the child or have a potential for significant social burdens [Wisconsin v. Yoder (1972) 406 U.S. 205, 233-234, 92 S. Ct. 1526, 32 L. Ed. 2d 15] .

There is now a statutory form by which a caregiver with whom a child resides may enroll the child in school and consent to school-related medical care on behalf of the child without express written authorization from a parent [see Fam. Code §§ 6550, 6552]. For further discussion, see § 394.55.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
3. Limits on Parental Authority

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.52

§ 394.52 Employment of Child

The employment of children is subject to extensive state regulation. There are restrictions not only on the number of hours and time periods in which a child may work, but also on the types of work or occupations in which children may engage [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11701 et seq.; Educ. Code § 49100 et seq.; Lab. Code §§ 1285 et seq., 1390 et seq.]. For example, children under the age of 16 may not work in certain designated activities or occupations that are deemed dangerous to the health, safety, or morals of a minor [see Lab. Code §§ 1294, 1294.1]. The laws are designed to protect minors against overwork and exposure to dangerous, immoral, or unhealthful conditions [56 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 248, 249-50 (1973)] . Although a parent may consent to the employment of a child in a prohibited occupation, the superior power of the state precludes the child's employment, despite the wishes of the parent [Prince v. Commonwealth of Massachusetts (1944) 321 U.S. 158, 168-170, 64 S. Ct. 438, 88 L. Ed. 645] .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
3. Limits on Parental Authority

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.53

§ 394.53 Discipline of Child

A parent has the duty to rear and discipline his or her child and is permitted much discretion in exercising this parental duty [see Emery v. Emery (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 421, 429-430, 289 P.2d 218] . A parent in the exercise of this authority may lawfully inflict reasonable corporal punishment without being liable for battery [People v. Whitehurst (1992) 9 Cal.App. 4th 1045, 1050, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 33] and commit other acts, such as confining a child to his or her room, that would be tortious if directed toward third persons [Gibson v. Gibson (1971) 3 Cal. 3d 914, 921, 92 Cal. Rptr. 288, 479 P.2d 648] .

However, the parents' discretion regarding the control and discipline of a child does not include the right either willfully or negligently to inflict personal injuries on a child beyond the limits of reasonable parental discipline. A child, like any other person, has a right to freedom from such willful or negligent injuries. A parent may incur civil liability to a child for willful or malicious torts, as well as for negligent torts [see Gibson v. Gibson (1971) 3 Cal. 3d 914, 921-923, 92 Cal. Rptr. 288, 479 P.2d 648 ; Emery v. Emery (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 421, 429-430, 289 P.2d 218] . Whether corporal punishment falls within the parameters of a parent's right to discipline involves considerations of both the necessity for the punishment and whether the amount of punishment was reasonable or excessive [People v. Whitehurst (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 1045, 1050, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 33] .

In addition, the willful infliction on a child of cruel or inhuman punishment or injury resulting in a traumtic condition is a felony [Penal Code § 273d]. The word "willful" within this context does not require a specific intent to violate the law or cause a traumatic condition. It merely requires a purpose or willingness to commit the act in question [People v. Atkins (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 348, 358, 125 Cal. Rptr. 855] . The jury must be instructed on the proper scope of a parent's right to discipline by corporal punishment [People v. Whitehurst (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 1045, 1049-1052, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 33] .

It is also a crime for a parent or any person willfully to cause or permit a child to suffer or to inflict unjustifiable physical pain or mental suffering on a child, and it is a crime for any person having the care or custody of a child willfully to cause or permit the person or health of the child to be injured or willfully to cause or permit a child to be placed in a situation in which its person or health is endangered [Penal Code § 273a]. The word "willful" within this context does not require a criminal intent but merely requires conduct amounting to a reckless, gross, or culpable departure from the ordinary standard of due care for a child's well-being. It requires a departure from the conduct of an ordinarily prudent person under the same circumstances [see People v. Peabody (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 43, 48-49, 119 Cal. Rptr. 780 ; see also People v. Pointer (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 1128, 1134-1135, 199 Cal. Rptr. 357 ; People v. Hernandez (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 888, 894-895, 168 Cal. Rptr. 898] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
3. Limits on Parental Authority

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.54

§ 394.54 Medical Care and Treatment of Child

[1] Requirement That Parents Provide Treatment

The right of custody includes the right of parents to make decisions regarding the health of their children [see Burge v. San Francisco (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 608, 617, 262 P.2d 6] . This right is not unlimited, however, because parents also have a duty to see that their chld receives proper medical attendance or other remedial care. If parents fail to provide their children with adequate medical care, the state may intervene [In re Phillip B. (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 796, 801, 156 Cal. Rptr. 48 ; see Penal Code § 270 (parent who willfully fails to provide medical care for child may be guilty of misdemeanor)].

However, because the state should usually defer to the wishes of the parents, it has a serious burden of justification before abridging parental authority by substituting its judgment for that of the parents. Several relevant factors must be taken into consideration before a state insists on medical treatment rejected by the parents. The state should examine (1) the seriousness of the harm that the child is suffering or is substantially likely to suffer; (2) the evaluation for the treatment by the medical profession; (3) the risks involved in medically treating the child; and (4) the expressed preference of the child. The underlying consideration is the child's welfare and whether the child's best interests will be served by the medical treatment [In re Phillip B. (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 796, 802, 156 Cal. Rptr. 48] .

[2] Effect of Parents' Religious Beliefs

The religious beliefs of parents may prohibit the parents from seeking all or certain types of medical treatment for a child. Thus, questions may arise concerning the extent to which the parents may follow their religious beliefs without violating the duty of care owed to their children, and the propriety of state interference with those religious beliefs.

A parent is criminally liable for child neglect for the failure to provide medical attendance or "other remedial care" for his or her child [Penal Code § 270; see also Welf. & Inst. Code § 300(b) (juvenile court dependency jurisdiction on grounds of willful failure to provide medical treatment)]. Under this criminal statute, if a parent provides the child with teatment by spiritual means through prayer alone in accordance with the tenets and practices of a recognized church or religious denomination, by a duly accredited practitioner thereof, that treatment constitutes "other remedial care" [Penal Code § 270; see also Penal Code § 11165.2 (child abuse and neglect reporting); Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 300(b), 16509.1, 18950.5 (limited recognition in juvenile court dependency proceedings of parents' right to provide spiritual treatment through prayer alone)].

However, the California Supreme Court has held that prayer treatment under Penal Code § 270 shields parents only from misdemeanor liability for fiscal nonsupport. It does not exempt parents from prosecution under manslaughter [see Penal Code § 192(b)] and felony child-endangerment statutes [see Penal Code § 273a(1)] designed to protect children from serious injury [Walker v. Superior Court (1988) 47 Cal. 3d 112, 126, 138,253 Cal. Rptr. 1, 763 P.2d 852 (prayer treatment of child is insufficient if risk of serious illness or physical harm is present); see People v. Rippberger (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1667, 1686-1687, 283 Cal. Rptr. 111] .

Also, it is generally accepted that a state does have the authority to order certain medical care or treatment of a minor over the religious objections of parents. For example, a state may require the vaccination of children against disease over the objections of parents [see Citizens for Parental Rights v. San Mateo County Bd. of Education (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 1, 12, 124 Cal. Rptr. 68] .

[3] Parental Consent; Delegation

As a general proposition, parental consent is required for the provision of medical services to a child because minors may disaffirm their own contracts to acquire such services [Ballard v. Anderson (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 873, 878, 95 Cal. Rptr. 1, 484 P.2d 1345 ; see Aubel v. Sosso (1925) 72 Cal. App. 57, 60, 236 P. 319] . Disaffirmance of contracts is discussed in Ch. 365, Minors: Contract Actions . However, the parent or guardian of a minor, as well as certain caregivers, may authorize in writing an adult into whose care a minor has been entrusted to consent to medical care or dental care, or both, for the minor [Fam. Code § 6910; see Fam. Code §§ 6901, 6902 (medical and dental care defined); for discussion of authority of caregivers of a minor, see § 394.55]. Either parent may delegate the right to consent if both parents have legal custody. Otherwise, only the parent with legal custody may delegate [see Fam. Code § 6903]. Legal custody is discussed in Ch. 223 Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody .

There is now a statutory form by which a caregiver with whom a child resides may consent to medical treatment for the child without express written authorization from a parent [see Fam. Code §§ 6550(a), 6552 (form)]. Such a caregiver, if a relative of the minor, may also authorize another adult into whose care a minor is entrusted to consent to medical or dental care [Fam. Code § 6910]. For further discussion, see Caregiver's Authorization of School Enrollment and Medical Care, below.

[4] When Parental Consent Is Not Required

An emancipated minor may consent to medical, dental, or psychiatric care without parental consent, knowledge, or liability [Fam. Code § 7050(e)(1); see also Ch. 245, Emancipation of Minors]. Further, a number of statutes provide that a minor may consent to particular medical treatment, procedures, and services, and that the consent of the minor's parent is not necessary in those situations [see Fam. Code § 6920]. Such a consent given by a minor may not be disaffirmed because of minority [Fam. Code § 6921].

A minor who is at least 15 years old, living separate and apart from his or her parents, regardless of the length of separation, and managing his or her own financial affairs, regardless of the source, may consent to medical or dental care [Fam. Code § 6922(a)]. Theprovider may, with or without the consent of the minor, advise the parent of the treatment given or needed if the provider has reason to know the whereabouts of the parent, on the basis of information given by the minor [Fam. Code § 6922(c)].

A minor who is at least 12 years of age may consent to mental health treatment or counseling, except convulsive therapy, psychosurgery, or psychotropic drugs [Fam. Code § 6924(f); see Welf. & Inst. Code § 5325(f), (g) (convulsive therapy and psychosurgery defined)], on an outpatient basis, if (1) the minor, in the opinion of the attending professional person, is mature enough to participate intelligently in the outpatient services and (2) the minor either (a) would present a danger of serious physical or mental harm to self or others without the treatment or counseling or (b) is the alleged victim of incest or abuse [Fam. Code § 6924(b)].

Other situations in which a minor may consent to medical treatment include the following:

1. Medical care related to the prevention or treatment of pregnancy, except sterilization [Fam. Code § 6925], but including abortion [American Academy of Pediatrics v. Lungren (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 307, 356, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 210, 940 P.2d 797 (upholding right on grounds of constitutional right to privacy)]. For further discussion of a minor's right to abortion, see Ch. 4, Abortion and Birth Control Methods .

2. Medical care related to the diagnosis or treatment of an infectious, contagious, or communicable disease, such as venereal disease, as long as the disease or condition is one that is required by law to be reported to a local health officer, or a related sexually transmitted disease, as may be determined by the state Director of Health Services [Fam. Code § 6926 (minor must be at least 12 years of age); see Health & Safety Code §§ 120130, 120500].

3. Medical care related to the diagnosis or treatment and collection of medical evidence regarding an alleged rape or sexual assault [Fam. Code §§ 6927 (rape victim must be at least 12 years of age), 6928].

4. Medical care and counseling related to the diagnosis and treatment of a drug-related or alcohol-related problem [Fam. Code § 6929(b) (minor must be at least 12 years of age); but cf. Fam. Code § 6929(g) (requiring physician's disclosure to parent or legal guardian of medical information concerning child's treatment of drug or alcohol-related problem when parent or guardian has sought medical care and counseling for that problem)].

5. HIV (Acquired Immunity Deficiency Syndrome antibody) test [Health & Safety Code § 121020(a)(1) (minor must be at least 12 years of age)].

Implicit in all of these minor-consent statutes is the requirement that the minor be of sufficient maturity to give an informed consent to the treatment or procedure. A minor of any age who is unable to convince competent medical authorities that he or she has the requisite understanding and maturity to give an informed consent will be denied nonemergency treatment unless the consent of a parent is obtained [see Ballard v. Anderson (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 873, 883, 95 Cal. Rptr. 1, 484 P.2d 1345] .

A minor who by statute does not need parental consent to obtain medical treatment cannot dissaffirm the agreement for treatment because of minority [see Fam. Code § 6921], and therefore is responsible for the costs of the treatment [see 57 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 28, 29 (1974)] . Unless the statute that expressly grants the minor the power to receive treatment without parental consent specifically excepts the parents from responsibility for payment [see, e.g., Fam. Code §§ 6922(b), 6924(e), 6926(b), 6929(d)], the parents are also liable for the costs incurred. Parents are required to furnish their minor children with necessities, and medical care is a necessity that comes within the parents' responsibility [see 57 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 28, 29-30 (1974) ; see also Bauman v. San Francisco (1940) 42 Cal. App. 2d 144, 161-163, 108 P.2d 989] .

[5] Access to Minor's Health Care Records

The issue of who has the authority to consent to medical treatment of the minor also determines who has a right to inspect the minor's health care records [see Health & Safety Code §§ 123110(a), 123115(a)]. The right to inspect health care records in the possession of the hospital, physician, or other health care provider includes a right to copies of any or all of those records [Health & Safety Code § 123110(b)]. A minor who has the right to consent to his or her own medical treatment is entitled to inspect his or her records pertaining only to the type of health care to which he or she is authorized to consent [Health & Safety Code § 123110(a)].

Notwithstanding these statutory provisions and any other provision of law, access to a child's medical and dental records may not be denied to a parent because that parent is not the child's custodial parent [Fam. Code § 3025]. However, Fam. Code § 3025 does not establish an absolute right of noncustodial parental to access to such records; that is, it does not necessarily override other legal principles or privileges that may preclude parental access to such records [see In re Daniel C.H. (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 814, 827, 269 Cal. Rptr. 624] . Thus, for example, a parent may be denied access to the records and testimony of a child's psychotherapist, based on the psychotherapist-patient privilege [see generally Evid. Code § 1010 et seq.] if disclosure will harm the therapeutic relationship or have a detrimental effect on the child [In re Daniel C.H. (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 814, 827-828, 269 Cal. Rptr. 624 ; see Health & Safety Code § 123115(a)(2)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
3. Limits on Parental Authority

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.55

§ 394.55 Caregiver's Authorization of School Enrollment and Medical Care

[1] Affidavit

Fam. Code §§ 6550 and 6552 provide for a "caregiver's authorization affidavit," which if validly executed by the caregiver as required by statute, authorizes a caregiver who is 18 years of age or older to enroll a child in school and consent to school-related medical care [see Fam. Code § 6550(h)(3) ("school-related medical care" defined)] on behalf of the minor [see Fam. Code §§ 6550(a), 6552 (form)]. If the caregiver is also a qualified relative (as defined) [see Fam. Code § 6550(h)(2)], proper execution gives the caregiver the same rights to authorize medical and dental care for the child that are given to a legally appointed guardian of the person of a minor [Fam. Code § 6550(a); see Prob. Code § 2353 (guardian's right to authorize medical treatment for ward)]. This includes authorization for mental health treatment, subject to certain Probate Code limitations [Fam. Code § 6550(a); see Prob. Code § 2356].

A caregiver's authorization affidavit is invalid unless it substantially contains, in not less than 10-point boldface type or a reasonable equivalent and enclosed in a box with 3-point rule lines, a warning to the effect that if any of the statements in the affidavit are incorrect, the affiant will be committing a crime punishable by a fine, imprisonment, or both [Fam. Code § 6550(g); see Fam. Code § 6552].

Unfortunately, "caregiver" is not a term that is expressly defined in the statutes [see Fam. Code § 6550(h) (definitions)]. However, it is clear from the statutes and from the statutory text of the affidavit that the child must live with the caregiver [see Fam. Code §§ 6550(f), 6552 (introductory statement that "minor named below lives in my home")]. However, if the child stops living with the caregiver, the caregiver must notify any school, health care provider, or health care service plan that has been given the affidavit [Fam. Code § 6550(f)].

No parental signature is required [see Fam. Code §§ 6550, 6552]. However, the text of the affidavit requires the caregiver to state either or both of the following: (1) that he or she has advised the parent or parents or other person having legal custody of the child of the caregiver'sintent to authorize medical care, and has received no objection; or (2) that he or she is unable to contact the parent or parents or other person having legal custody of the child to give notice of the intended authorization. Both statements may be necessary if notice has been given to one parent and the other cannot be contacted [see Fam. Code § 6552 (line 6)]. The decision of a caregiver to consent to or to refuse medical or dental care for a child is superseded by any contravening decision of the parent or other person having legal custody of the child, provided the decision of that parent or person does not jeopardize the life, health, or safety of the child [Fam. Code § 6550(b)].

Note that commencing January 1, 1997, a caregiver who is a child's relative and who meets the requirements of Fam. Code § 6550 for authorizing medical and dental care, may give written authorization to another adult into whose care the child is entrusted to consent to medical or dental care for the child [Fam. Code § 6910; see § 394.54[3], for discussion of delegating consent for medical care]. For related forms of authorizations by caregivers, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 100A, Form Nos. 100A.20 100A.21 (Matthew Bender).

[2] Third-Party Liability

No person [see Fam. Code § 6550(h)(1) ("person" defined)] who acts in good faith reliance on a caregiver's authorization affidavit to provide medical or dental care, without actual knowledge of facts contrary to those stated on the affidavit, is subject to criminal liability or to civil liability to any person, or is subject to professional disciplinary action, for the reliance if the applicable portions of the affidavit are completed. This immunity applies even if medical or dental care is provided to a child against the wishes of the parent or other person having legal custody of the child as long as the person providing the medical or dental care has no actual knowledge of the wishes of that parent or person [Fam. Code § 6550(c)]. A person who relies on the affidavit has no obligation to make any further inquiry or investigation [Fam. Code § 6550(d)]. However, nothing in Fam. Code § 6550 relieves an individual from liability for violations of other provisions of law [Fam. Code § 6550(e)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
3. Limits on Parental Authority

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.56

§ 394.56 Child Abduction

Penal Code § 277 et seq. provide criminal sanctions for persons, including parents, who take, conceal, entice away, detain, keep, or otherwise wrongfully withhold access to a child by the rightful custodian [see Penal Code §§ 278-280]. Thus, one parent may not necessarily unilaterally take his or her child from the other parent based on a right to custody arising solely from parental status rather than from a court order; see People v. Ryan (1999) 76 Cal. App. 4th 1304, 1316-1317, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 160 (father lost his right to custody of child through abandonment, followed by unlawful detention and concealment in violation of former Penal Code § 278).

Parental acts done with the intent to endanger or injure the child are in excess of parental authority and are not entitled to immunity from prosecution. A parent who confines his or her child with the intent to endanger the child's health and safety or for an unlawful purpose may be prosecuted for false imprisonment People v. Checketts (1999) 71 Cal. App. 4th 1190, 1195, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 491] . For further discussion of these criminal abduction statutes, see Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Ch. 142 (Matthew Bender 2d ed.).

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. The Parent-Child Relationship
3. Limits on Parental Authority

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 394.57-394.69

[Reserved]

§§ 394.57[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody Proceedings
1. Custody Proceedings Under Family Code

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.70

§ 394.70 Proceeding for Dissolution of Marriage, Nullity of Marriage, or Legal Separation

In a proceeding for dissolution of marriage, nullity of marriage, or for legal separation of the parties, the court has subject matter jurisdiction to inquire into, and render any judgment, and make orders that are appropriate concerning the custody of minor children of the marriage [Fam. Code § 2010(b); see also Fam. Code § 3022]. Custody jurisdiction other matters within a such a proceeding are discussed in Ch. 223 Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody Proceedings
1. Custody Proceedings Under Family Code

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.71

§ 394.71 Other Marital Custody Proceedings

Without filing a proceeding for dissolution of marrage or legal separation, a husband or wife may bring an action for the exclusive custody of the children of the marriage. The court may, during the pendency of the action or at the final hearing or afterwards, make any orders regarding the support, care, custody, education, and control of the children as may be just and in accordance with the natural rights the parents and the best interests of the children. The order may be modified or terminated at any time thereafter as the natural rights of the parties and the best interests of the children may require [Fam. Code § 3120]. The court may order one party to the action to pay the other party's attorney's fees and costs [see Fam. Code § 3121]. For a form for use to bring such an action, see § 394.170.

A married person may also obtain temporary custody and visitation orders under the Domestic Violence Prevention Act [see Fam. Code §§ 6252(b), 6323, 6340(a)]. For further discussion, see § 394.72[5], and Ch. 293, Harassment and Domestic Violence .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody Proceedings
1. Custody Proceedings Under Family Code

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.72

§ 394.72 Nonmarital Custody Proceedings

[1] Need for Nonmarital Custody Orders

An unmarried parent with the actual physical custody of his or her child might need judicial approval of the actual custody arrangement. A custody order might be essential if the other parent claims the right of custody [see Fam. Code § 3010(a)] and is threatening to unilaterally take the child [see Penal Code § 277]. Conversely, a biological unmarried noncustodial parent might need to obtain formal custody or visitation rights.

For these situations, there is no general statutory nonmarital custody proceeding by which a parent may obtain custody or visitation orders withregard to his or her own children regardless of marital status. Further, in the context of considering the rights of nonparents, it has been held that jurisdiction to adjudicate custody depends on some other proceeding that is properly before the court in which custody is at issue [Curiale v. Reagan (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1597, 1600, 272 Cal. Rptr. 520] .

Nevertheless, the right of a parent to the custody of his or her child is fundamental and constitutionally protected, regardless of marital status [Stanley v. Illinois (1972) 405 U.S. 645, 657-659, 92 S. Ct. 1208, 31 L. Ed. 2d 551 ; see § 394.11]. Thus, it would seem that state law must provide a forum for the determination of child custody matters between parents, regardless of marital status.

The two common procedures that have been used for this purpose have been the Uniform Parentage Act [Fam. Code § 7600 et seq.] and writ of habeas corpus [Penal Code § 1473 et seq.]. It is also possible that a parent may petition the court to exercise its equitable jurisdiction to determine the custody of a child (see [4], below).

[2] Uniform Parentage Act

Custody and visitation orders may be obtained in a proceeding under the Uniform Parentage Act, Fam. Code § 7600 et seq. (UPA) [see Fam. Code §§ 7604 (pendente lite custody and visitation orders), 7637 (judgment in UPA action may include custody and visitation orders)]. Therefore, an unmarried mother may bring a parentage action for the purpose of obtaining custody and visitation orders [see Fam. Code § 7630(a)]. A man may also bring a paternity action under the UPA for the purpose of establishing his own paternity, which would then also produce custody and visitation orders [see Fam. Code §§ 7630, 7631]. Paternity actions are considered, and forms are provided, in Ch. 412, Paternity .

Historically, there has been no bar to bringing a paternity action even if there was no actual dispute as to who was the father of the child. The parties simply stipulated to a judgment of paternity and proceeded with the contested issues, such as custody and visitation [see Adoption of Pierce (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 316, 318, 85 Cal. Rptr. 104] . Once paternity has been adjudicated, the court has continuing jurisdiction under the UPA to issue and modify custody and visitation orders [Fam. Code § 7642]. Thus, the UPA has filled the need for a generally available nonmarital custody proceeding.

The enactment of provisions for paternity establishment by execution of a voluntary declaration of paternity created some uncertainty concerning the court's jurisdiction under the UPA to issue custody and visitation orders on the basis of that declaration [see Fam. Code § 7570 et seq.]. However, statutes now clarify that, with limited exception, a completed voluntary paternity declaration that has been filed with the Department of Social Services establishes the paternity of a child, has the same force and effect as a paternity judgment, and "shall be recognized as a basis for the establishment of an order for child custody, visitation, or child support" [Fam. Code §§ 7573, 7644]. Nevertheless, to obtain such orders on the basis of the declaration, it appears that a court proceeding must be initiated.

The Judicial Council has approved a petition for child custody, visitation, and child support (without seeking a parentage judgment) that may be used in any of the following situations [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-260; § 394.170]:

a. The parents are married to each other and no action is pending in any court for dissolution, legal separation, or nullity.

b. The parents have signed a Voluntary Declaration of Paternity and no action regarding the children has been filed in any other court. For a complete discussion of voluntary declarations of paternity, see Ch. 412, Paternity .

c. The parents are not married and have legally adopted a child together.

d. The petitioner and respondent in the proceeding have been determined to be the parents in juvenile or governmental child support case.

[3] Habeas Corpus

A person who is entitled to the physical custody of a child may enforce his or her right as against one wrongfully withholding the child by petition for writ of habeas corpus [In re M. (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 783, 789, 122 Cal. Rptr. 531, 537 P.2d 363 ; see Penal Code § 1473 et seq.]. Habeas corpus proceedings are commonly used as a way of enforcing an existing custody order [see, e.g., Rose v. Superior Court (1948) 86 Cal. App. 2d 173, 174, 194 P.2d 568] .

However, the proceeding may also be used by an unmarried parent to obtain custody and visitation orders with regard to a child who is not subject to an existing order, but is in the actual physical custody and control of someone else, including the other parent [see, e.g., In re M. (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 783, 786-787, 122 Cal. Rptr. 531, 537 P.2d 363 (child retained by other parent after visitation)]. It would seem that habeas corpus is not available to a parent with the actual physical custody of the child as a way to formalize a de facto custody arrangement.

Other persons with a claim to the custody of the child may join as parties [In re Reyna (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 288, 304-305, 126 Cal. Rptr. 138] . Federal habeas corpus is not available as a remedy in child custody matters [Lehman

v. Lycoming County Children's Services (1982) 458 U.S. 502, 513-516, 102 S. Ct. 3231, 73 L. Ed. 2d 928] . Habeas Corpus is discussed further, and forms are provided, in Ch. 292, Habeas Corpus.

[4] Equitable Action

There is a line of older cases that stand for the proposition that California courts have inherent equitable power to determine the custody of children residing in the state without express statutory authority [see Titcomb v. Superior Court (1934) 220 Cal. 34, 40, 29 P.2d 206 ; Stout v. Pate (1953) 120 Cal. App. 2d 699, 702-704, 261 P.2d 788 ; Foy v. Foy (1937) 23 Cal. App. 2d 543, 546, 73 P.2d 618] . These cases all arose in the context ofinterstate custody disputes, and their express jurisdictional holdings are no longer controlling because of the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction Act, and its successor, the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act [see Plas v. Superior Court (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 1008, 1013, 202 Cal. Rptr. 490 (decided under former UCCJA); see Fam. Code § 3400 et seq.; see also § 394.100 et seq.].

However, the California Supreme Court has noted that California has at least eight separate proceedings in which custody questions can be litigated, one of which is this general equitable action [see In re B.G. (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 679, 696, 114 Cal. Rptr. 444, 523 P.2d 244 , citing Bodenheimer, The Multiplicity of Child Custody Proceedings--Problems of California Law, 23 Stan. L. Rev. 703, 704-705 (1971)]. Subsequent courts continue to adhere to this proposition [see, e.g., Guardianship of Donaldson (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 477, 488, 223 Cal. Rptr. 707 ; In re Marriage of Jenkins (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d 767, 775, 172 Cal. Rptr. 331] .

Although it appears to have rarely been done, a parent should be able to bring an equitable action for custody of or visitation with his or her own children, regardless of marital status, if there is no other appropriate forum. In addition, the Judicial Council has approved a petition for custody and support for use by unmarried parents that appears to have been based, at least in part, on this equitable principle, but requires that the parties have executed a voluntary declaration of paternity before bringing the petition--so that parentage is not in issue [see § 394.170; Fam. Code § 7573]. Voluntary declarations of paternity are discussed in detail in Ch. 412, Paternity .

[5] Domestic Violence Prevention Act

Under the Domestic Violence Prevention Act (DVPA), an emergency protective order may be obtained that includes, among other orders, an order for temporary care and control of "any minor child of the endangered person and the person against whom the order is sought," and there is no indication that these individuals must be in a marital relationship for this purpose [Fam. Code § 6252(b)].

However, it is somewhat unclear whether nonemergency custody orders can presently be obtained by unmarried parents using the DVPA alone. Prior law permitted a court in a DVPA proceeding to issue a temporary custody order to unmarried parents. A statute authorized the court to issue such an order after notice and a hearing with respect to a "minor child of the petitioner and the respondent " [former Code Civ. Proc. § 547(a)]. When the Family Code was adopted and incorporated the DVPA, however, it did not retain this language (italicized). Instead, Fam. Code § 6323(a)(1) provides that, subject to Fam. Code § 3064 (limitations on ex parte custody orders) a court may issue an ex parte order determining the temporary custody of a minor child on the conditions the court determines to a party who has established a parent and child relationship under Fam. Code § 6323(a)(2). There is no indication that the Legislature, in adopting the revised language, intended to preclude unmarried parents from using the DVPA to secure temporary custody orders, particularly when the Law Revision Commission comments indicate that the statute restates existing law without substantive change [L. Rev. Comm'n Comments to Fam. Code § 6323]. Nevertheless, a 1996 case in which an unmarried, nonparent was precluded from obtaining visitation of a child under the DVPA included language suggesting that unmarried parties--parents or not--may not use the DVPA to obtain either custody or visitation orders. Although the appellate court in that case was construing the visitation provisions of a prior version of Fam. Code § 6323(a), it included the statement: "[t]he only proceedings to determine custody or visitation under the DVPA are those allowed by [Fam. Code §§] 6323 and 6340, and we have already decided that those proceedings are limited to situations where the parties are married" [Barkaloff v. Woodward (1996) 47 Cal. App. 4th 393, 399, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 167] . It would appear, nevertheless, that the more correct focus is, and has been, on the status of the party seeking the custody order as a parent, rather than on the marital status of the parties [see Fam. Code § 6323(a); but see Fam. Code § 6346 (permitting party who has filed UPA action to seek custody or visitation order under UPA after notice and hearing under Fam. Code § 6346)].

In addition, even if unmarried parents are still technically permitted to seek nonemergency custody orders under the DVPA, the DVPA's focus on granting "temporary" custody orders--such as those incidental to other protective orders--does not make it a preferred vehicle for seeking longer term custody orders. Therefore, an unmarried parent who is the victim of domestic violence must initiate a different proceeding to obtain permanent custody and visitation orders.

For discussion of limitations on the court's jurisdiction in DVPA proceedings involving nonparents, see § 394.73[2][c], below.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody Proceedings
1. Custody Proceedings Under Family Code

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.73

§ 394.73 Nonparents and Custody Proceedings

[1] No General Jurisdiction

There is no general statutory procedure by which a nonparent can obtain parental rights, such as custody and visitation, with regard to a child. Recent efforts to judicially extend parental rights to nonparents, through such doctrines as in loco parentis, de facto parenthood, equitable estoppel, and functional parenthood, discussed in § 394.15, have been rejected in deference to the Legislature [see Nancy S. v. Michele G. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 831, 835-842, 279 Cal. Rptr. 212 ; Curiale v. Reagan (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1597, 1599-1601, 272 Cal. Rptr. 520 ; In re Marriage of Lewis & Goetz (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 514, 519-520, 250 Cal. Rptr. 30] . Thus, if there is a general equitable action for custody, as discussed in*§ 394.72[4]*, it is unlikely that nonparents would have standing to bring the action. Nevertheless, there are proceedings that may be initiated by a nonparent to obtain the custody of a child, as discussed in [2], below.

[2] Proceedings That May Be Initiated by Nonparents

[a] Guardianship

The most common proceeding by which nonparents obtain custody of a child is probably the probate guardianship [see Prob. Code § 1500 et seq.; but cf. Guardianship of Olivia J. (2000) 84 Cal. App. 4th 1146, 1161, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 364 (because of strong preference for parental custody and heavy burden nonparent must carry of demonstrating that parental custody is detrimental to child, petition for guardianship is intrusive and limited remedy that may not be easily adapted to achieving goal of protecting child from psychological harm and maintaining petitioner's relationship with child)]. A nonparent who seeks custody of a child lacks standing to initiate a custody proceeding under the Family Code. A guardianship petition under the Probate Code is the only judicial means for a nonparent to obtain custody when the parents have not initiated a custody proceeding [Scott v. Superior Court (2009) 171 Cal. App. 4th 540, 546, 89 Cal. Rptr. 3d 843] .

A petition for appointment of a guardian may be filed by a relative or other person on behalf of the child [Prob. Code § 1510]. A guardianship is commonly used to provide for the custody and care of a child if neither parent is able or willing to have custody, such as if both parents are deceased, or have left the child in the care and custody of a nonparent, for whatever reason. Whether a guardianship petition may be used by a nonparent solely to obtain visitation, rather than custody, is unclear [see Guardianship of Olivia J. (2000) 84 Cal. App. 4th 1146, 1161, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 364 (court expressly did not reach issue of whether, when, and in accordance with what legal standard, guardianship petition may be used as forum for nonparent to obtain visitation rights over objection of parent)].

For discussion of guardianship of minors, see Ch. 280, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Appointment of Guardians , through Ch. 290H, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Termination of Guardianships and Conservatorships .

[b] Juvenile Court Dependency

A nonparent who seeks the involuntary removal of a child from parental custody because of alleged parental misconduct should proceed by requesting the county to file a petition to bring the child within the dependency jurisdiction of the juvenile court under Welf. & Inst. Code § 300 et seq. A guardianship is inappropriate to adjudicate parental unfitness because it does not provide for parental reunification services, to which most parents are entitled under juvenile dependency jurisdiction [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 361.5; see also Prob. Code § 1513(c)]. If the child is removed from parental custody, there is a statutory preference for out-of-home placement with a relative [Welf. & Inst. Code § 361.3]. For further discussion of juvenile court dependency law, see Ch. 329, Juvenile Courts: Dependency Proceedings .

[c] Domestic Violence Prevention Act Proceeding

A nonparent may be a party to a proceeding under the Domestic Violence Prevention Act (DVPA) [see, e.g., Polin v. Cosio (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 1451, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 714 ; see also Fam. Code §§ 6211 (defining "domestic violence" in terms that could include nonparents both as perpetrators and victims), 6301]. However, a party who has not established a parent and child relationship under Fam. Code § 6323(a)(2) may not be granted custody or visitation rights in a proceeding under the DVPA [Fam. Code § 3021(e); see Barkaloff v. Woodward (1996) 47 Cal. App. 4th 393, 399, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 167] . Nevertheless, a court may make appropriate custody and visitation orders under the Uniform Parentage Act (UPA) [Fam. Code § 7600 et seq.] after notice and a hearing, when the party who has requested custody or visitation has not established a parent and child relationship but has taken steps to establish that relationship by filing an action under the UPA [Fam. Code § 6346; see Ch. 412, Paternity].

[d] Termination of Parental Rights and Adoption

A nonparent may file a petition to declare a child free from parental custody and control (terminate parental rights) under Fam. Code § 7800 et seq. [see Fam. Code § 7841 (petition may be filed by "any interested person")]. The most likely ground for such a proceeding is parental abandonment for six months [see Fam. Code § 7822; In re Robert D. (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 391, 393-394, 198 Cal. Rptr. 801] . Although the primary purpose of this proceeding is to free the child for adoption [see Fam. Code § 7800], there is no absolute requirement that the petition be brought in support of a pending adoption [see In re Marcel N. (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 1007, 1011-1013, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 240] . If parental rights are terminated, the court must either appoint a guardian for the child or refer the child for adoptive placement [Fam. Code § 7893]. For further discussion of termination of parental rights, see Ch. 12A, Adoptions: Termination of Parental Rights .

Adoption itself is a way for nonparents to obtain custody of a child [see Fam. Code § 8616]. However, the court has no statutory power to deny the adoption, yet order the child to remain in the custody of the prospective adoptive parents. If the adoption is denied because parental consent is required and not given, the child must be returned to the birth parent unless that would be detrimental to the child [Fam. Code § 8804 (c); see Fam Code § 3041; but see Adoption of Kelsey S. (1992) 1 Cal. 4th 816, 851, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615, 823 P.2d 1216 (suggesting but not deciding that even if parent is entitled to prevent adoption by withholding consent, court may determine custody of child)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 12B, Adoptions: Unmarried Minors .

If adoption is denied because the court finds the prospective adoptive home to be unsuitable, the care and custody of the child is given to a publicagency [Fam. Code § 8805]. If the petitioners withdraw the petition or dismiss the proceeding, or a public agency recommends that the petition be denied, the agency must recommend a suitable plan for the child and appear in court on behalf of the child [Fam. Code § 8004(a)].

[e] Uniform Parentage Act Proceeding

Nonparents have some standing to bring an action under the Uniform Parentage Act [see Fam. Code § 7630(b), (c)]. However, these situations are limited to determinations of the existence of a father-child relationship. A nonparent generally has no standing under the UPA to obtain custody orders in his or her own behalf [Curiale v. Reagan (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1597, 1599-1600, 272 Cal. Rptr. 520 ; accord West v. Superior Court (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 302, 306, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 160] . Nevertheless, after a party has taken steps to establish a parent-child relationship by filing an action under the Uniform Parentage Act, a court may make appropriate custody and visitation orders pursuant to the UPA after notice and a hearing under Fam. Code § 6346 (a provision of the DVPA), despite the fact that the party requesting custody or visitation has not established a parent-child relationship under Fam. Code § 6323(a)(2) [Fam. Code § 6346].

[f] Action for Abuse of Parental Authority

There is in the Family Code a civil action for abuse of parental authority, which may be brought by the child, by the child's relative within the third degree, or the supervisors of the county in which the child resides. If the abuse is established, the child may be freed from the parent's dominion and the duty of support and education may be enforced [Fam. Code § 7507]. This action is seldom, if ever, brought because parental abuse is addressed under juvenile court dependency jurisdiction [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 300 et seq.].

[3] Custody Awards to Nonparents in Proceedings Initiated by Others

Fam. Code § 3040 provides for a parental preference in awarding custody, but also allows the court to grant custody to a nonparent [see Fam. Code § 3040(a)(2),(3)]. Fam. Code § 3041 allows custody to be granted to a nonparent on a finding that parental custody would be detrimental to the child.

These statutes are within Part 2 of Division 8 of the Family Code. This Part applies to the following proceedings [Fam. Code § 3021]:

(1) Dissolution of marriage, nullity of marriage, or legal separation (see Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody);

(2) For exclusive custody under Fam. Code § 3120 (see § 394.71);

(3) Under the Domestic Violence Prevention Act [Fam. Code § 6200 et seq.]; and

(4) Under the Uniform Parentage Act [Fam. Code § 7600 et seq.].

As noted in [2], above, nonparents have no or limited standing to bring any of these proceedings. However, if any of these proceedings is properly before the court, having been initiated by a proper party, a nonparent who has or claims custody of the child may apply to be joined as a party [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.154(b)]. Custody may then be granted to the nonparent on a finding of detriment under Fam. Code § 3041 and according to the order of preference in Fam. Code § 3040 [see H.S. v. N.S. (2009) 173 Cal. App. 4th 1131, 1137-1143, 93 Cal. Rptr. 3d 470 ; see also Stever v. Stever (1936) 6 Cal. 2d 166, 168-170, 56 P.2d 1229] . Grants of custody or visitation to a nonparent under the DVPA, however, seem unlikely, in view of Fam. Code § 3021(e), which precludes nonparents from seeking such orders in DVPA proceedings (see [2][c], above).

For further discussion of the parental preference doctrine, see Ch. 223 Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody . For discussion of visitation rights of nonparents, see § 394.73[2].

It should be noted that in a proceeding for dissolution of marriage, nullity of marriage, or legal separation, and in a marital action for exclusive custody, jurisdiction is limited to "children of the marriage" [Fam. Code §§ 2010(b), 3120], that is, children for whom each party is a natural or adopted parent. Thus, in such an action, the court might award custody of a child of parties H and W to nonparent G on a finding that parental custody would be detrimental to the child, but would have no jurisdiction to grant custody of the child of W alone to anyone, including to H [see Perry v. Superior Court (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 480, 484-485, 166 Cal. Rptr. 583] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody Proceedings
1. Custody Proceedings Under Family Code

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.74

§ 394.74 Jurisdiction to Grant Visitation Rights

[1] Rights of Parents

In making an order for custody, the court must grant reasonable visitation rights to a parent unless it is shown that such visitation would be detrimental to the best interests of the child [Fam. Code § 3100(a)].

This statute is made expressly applicable in the Family Code to the following proceedings [Fam. Code § 3021]: (1) for dissolution of marriage, nullity of marriage, and legal separation; (2) in a marital action for exclusive custody [Fam. Code § 3120]; (3) in a proceeding under the Uniform Parentage Act [see Fam. Code § 7637]; (4) in a proceeding under the Domestic Violence Prevention Act; and (5) a proceeding to determine custody or visitation in an action brought by the district attorney or other local childsupport agency pursuant to Fam. Code § 17404 [see Fam. Code §§ 6323, 6340(a); but see Fam. Code §§ 3021(e), 6323 (generally precluding grant of visitation rights to party who has not established parent-child relationship under Fam. Code § 6323(a)(2)); Barkaloff v. Woodward (1996) 47 Cal. App. 4th 393, 398-399, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 167 (holding that visitation order under DVPA is authorized only when parties are in marital relationship)]. However, visitation is undoubtedly within the constitutionally protected fundamental right of parentage. This right does not depend on marital status and may not be abridged by statute absent a powerful countervailing state interest [see Stanley v. Illinois (1972) 405 U.S. 645, 649-659, 92 S. Ct. 1208, 31 L. Ed. 2d 551 ; see also Clarke v. Clarke (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 259, 262, 217 P.2d 401 ; Feist v. Feist (1965) 236 Cal. App. 2d 433, 436, 46 Cal. Rptr. 93 (visitation rights are natural right of parenthood)]. Thus, it would seem that visitation may not be denied to a noncustodial parent (absent the requisite showing), regardless of the procedural stance in which the matter comes before the court [see Gadbois v. Superior Court (1981) 126 Cal. App. 3d 653, 655-656, 179 Cal. Rptr. 19] . In fact, there may be a parental right to invoke the court's equitable jurisdiction to grant visitation even if there is no other custody or child-related proceeding before the court [see § 394.72[4]].

The standards for determining the appropriateness and scope of visitation are discussed in Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody .

[2] Rights of Nonparents

[a] Generally

Fam. Code § 3100(a) provides that, in the discretion of the court, reasonable visitation rights may be granted to any other person who has an interest in the welfare of the child. Fam. Code § 3104 provides special jurisdiction for a grandparent to petition for visitation, even if there is no other proceeding pending in which child custody and visitation is at issue, and Fam. Code § 3103 amplifies further on the standards applicable to grandparent visitation, as discussed in [b], below. Fam. Code § 3102 provides for visitation to specified relatives of a deceased parent, as discussed in [c], below. Fam. Code § 3101 expressly provides jurisdiction to grant visitation rights (but not joint custody [In re Marriage of Lewis & Goetz (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 514, 517-518, 250 Cal. Rptr. 30]) to a stepparent despite the fact that the court otherwise has no jurisdiction in marital proceedings over a child who is not a "child of the marriage" [see Fam. Code §§ 2010(b), 3120; Perry v. Superior Court (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 480, 483-485, 166 Cal. Rptr. 583] .

Fam. Code § 3100(a) does not provide general authority, jurisdiction, or standing for a nonparent to bring an independent action for visitation with a child [see White v. Jacobs (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 122, 124, 243 Cal.Rptr. 597 ; In re Marriage of Lewis & Goetz (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 514, 518, 250 Cal. Rptr. 30 (stepparent); Curiale v. Reagan (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1597, 1600, 272 Cal. Rptr. 520 (parent's lesbian partner); accord West v. Superior Court (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 302, 306, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 160 (former lesbian partner of child's biological mother)]. There must be some separate proceeding before the court in which custody is at issue and to which Fam. Code § 3100(a) applies [see Curiale v. Reagan (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1597, 1600, 272 Cal. Rptr. 520] .

Fam. Code § 3100(a) applies in the Family Code Proceedings enumerated in Fam. Code § 3021, set forth in [1], above, except that a party who has not established a parent and child relationship under Fam. Code § 6323(a)(2) may not be granted visitation (or custody) rights in a proceeding under the DVPA [Fam. Code § 3021(e); Fam. Code § 6323(a); but see Fam. Code § 6346 (permitting party who has filed UPA action to seek custody or visitation order under UPA after notice and hearing under Fam. Code § 6346)]. For other proceedings, such as guardianship [Prob. Code § 1500 et seq.], termination of parental rights-adoption [Fam. Code § 7800 et seq.], habeas corpus [see In re Reyna (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 288, 297, 126 Cal. Rptr. 138] , and juvenile court dependency [Welf. & Inst. Code § 300 et seq.], it may be that any right to visitation must be found in the specific law applicable to those proceedings [but see White v. Jacobs (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 122, 124, 243 Cal. Rptr. 597 (noting that predecessor statute, former Civ. Code § 4601, applied in any proceeding in which child custody was at issue); see also Reeves v. Bailey (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 1019, 1024-1026, 126 Cal. Rptr. 51 (visitation rights to grandparents in adoption proceeding under authority of former Civ. Code § 4601)].

Except for DVPA proceedings, nonparental visitation may be granted under Fam. Code § 3100(a) in any of the enumerated proceedings whether or not there is an actual custody dispute between the parents [see In re Marriage of Gayden (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 1510, 1516 n.2, 280 Cal. Rptr. 862 ; Fam. Code § 3021(e)]. A nonparent may move to be joined as a party to the proceeding as a way of petitioning for visitation rights [Fam. Code § 2021; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.154(b)], apparently even after judgment has been entered [see In re Marriage of Gayden (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 1510, 1513, 280 Cal. Rptr. 862] . However, one court has found that the death of a party to a dissolution proceeding after judgment terminates any right of a nonparent to invoke the court's modification jurisdiction to obtain visitation [see In re Marriage of Jenkins (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d 767, 769, 172 Cal. Rptr. 331 ; but see Fam. Code § 3102, discussed in [c], below].

[b] Rights of Grandparents

Under Fam. Code § 3103, grandparents may be granted reasonable visitation with a minor child of a party to any of the proceedings enumerated in Fam. Code § 3021 (see [1], above) if the court determines that visitation by the grandparent is in the best interest of the child.

In addition, Fam. Code § 3104 provides special jurisdiction for the court to grant visitation to a grandparent if there is no other proceeding pending regarding the child. A petition for visitation under this section may not be filed while the natural or adoptive parents are married, unless one or more of the following circumstances exist [Fam. Code § 3104(b); see In re Marriage of Harris (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 210, 223-230, 17 Cal. Rptr. 3d 842, 96 P.3d 141 (Fam. Code § 3104 does not violate federal or California Constitutions, either on its face or as applied)]:

(1) The parents are currently living separately and apart on a permanent or indefinite basis.

(2) One of the parents has been absent for more than one month without the other spouse knowing the whereabouts of the absent spouse.

(3) One of the parents joins in the petition with the grandparents.

(4) The child is not residing with either parent.

(5) The child has been adopted by a stepparent.

At any time that a change of circumstances occurs such that none of these circumstances exist, a parent may move the court to terminate grandparental visitation and the court must grant the termination [Fam. Code § 3104(b); see Lopez v. Martinez, (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 279, 285-286, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 71 (stepparent adoption was "change of circumstances" under Fam. Code § 3104 that required automatic termination of grandparent visitation at request of child's natural and adoptive parents)].

When there is no allegation or finding that the parent is unfit, and the parent agrees to some visitation, a court order establishing a grandparent visitation schedule over the parent's objection infringes on the parent's fundamental parenting right to make decisions about the care, custody, and control of his or her children [see Kyle O. v. Donald R. (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 848, 862-863, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 476 ; Punsly v. Ho (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 1099, 1105, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 139 (citing Troxel v. Granville (2000) 530 U.S. 57, 120 S. Ct. 2054, 147 L. Ed. 2d 49) but see Fenn v. Sherriff (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1466, 1470, 1473-1494, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 185 (parents' fundamental due process right to make decisions concerning care, custody, and control of children does not preclude state from ever ordering grandparent visitation over objection of two fit parents)]. There is a presumption that a fit parent acts in the best interest of his or her children [In re Marriage of Harris (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 210, 230, 17 Cal. Rptr. 3d 842, 96 P.3d 141] , and deference should be given to the parent's decision regarding the amount of visitation or even preference for a "less structured and more normal and spontaneous manner of visitation" [Kyle O. v. Donald R. (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 848, 863, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 476] .

For a form of petition for use for this purpose, see § 394.173. For further discussion of grandparent visitation within a proceeding for dissolution of marriage, see Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody .

[c] Rights of Relatives of Deceased Parent

If a parent of an unemancipated minor child is deceased, the children, siblings, parents, and grandparents of the deceased parent may be granted reasonable visitation with the child during the child's minority on a finding that visitation would be in the best interests of the child [Fam. Code § 3102(a)]. Note that stepparents are not entitled to visitation under Fam. Code § 3102 if the parent through whom they are connected to the child is deceased. Adoption by a person other than the child's stepparent or grandparent bars or terminates these visitation rights [Fam. Code § 3102(c); see [3], below].

When there is no allegation that the surviving parent is unfit, a court order establishing visitation with relatives of a deceased parent over the surviving parent's objection will unconstitutionally infringe on the surviving parent's fundamental right to make decisions about the care, custody, and control of his or her child [see, e.g., Zasueta v.

Zasueta (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 1242, 1254-1255, 126 Cal. Rptr. 2d 245 (grandparents); Herbst v. Swan (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 813, 814, 820, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 836 (adult sibling) but see Fenn v. Sherriff (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1466, 1470, 1473-1494, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 185 (parents' fundamental due process right to make decisions concerning care, custody, and control of children does not preclude state from ever ordering grandparent visitation over objection of two fit parents)]. For discussion of the standards under which the court will determine whether visitation with relatives of a child's deceased parent is in the best interests of the child, see Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody .

Fam. Code § 3102 applies in the proceedings enumerated in Fam. Code § 3021 (see [1], above). However, before the enactment of the Family Code, this statutory right of visitation was not part of the former Family Law Act [see former Civ. Code § 197.5]. Jurisdiction under the statute did not depend on there being some separate proceeding in which custody of the child was at issue, such as one for dissolution of marriage. Rather, a relative could bring an independent action for visitation under the statute regardless of the marital status at death of the deceased parent through whom the right arose [see Roquemore v. Roquemore (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 912, 913, 80 Cal. Rptr. 432] . The Law Revision Commission in its Comment to Fam. Code § 3102 states that the section continues former Civ. Code § 197.5 without substantive change [see also Fam. Code § 2]. Therefore, the rights granted by the statute would not depend on there also being jurisdiction under one of the proceedings enumerated in Fam. Code § 3021 [cf. White v. Jacobs (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 122, 124, 243 Cal. Rptr. 597 ; see also In re Marriage of Jenkins (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d 767, 773-774, 172 Cal. Rptr. 331 (death of a parent terminates any right of nonparent to invoke the court'smodification jurisdiction in pending proceeding to obtain visitation rights)]. For a form for a petition for visitation under Fam. Code § 3102, see § 394.172.

[3] Effect of Adoption

Adoption terminates any rights of the supplanted birth parents to visitation with the child [Marckwardt v. Superior Court (1984) 150 Cal. App. 3d 471, 475, 198 Cal. Rptr. 41 ; see Younger v. Younger (1895) 106 Cal. 377, 380, 39 P. 779] .

Visitation to nonparents on the death of a parent under Fam. Code § 3102 (see [2][c], above) is not available if the child has been adopted by a person other than the child's stepparent or grandparent. Any such visitation rights granted before the adoption of the child automatically terminate if the child is adopted by a person other than the child's stepparent or grandparent [Fam. Code § 3102(c)]. The statute is nondiscretionary, and visitation must be terminated if it applies. There is no discretion to reinstitute it under Fam. Code § 3100(a) [Huffman v. Grob (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 1153, 1157, 218 Cal. Rptr. 659] . Because by its terms Fam. Code § 3102(c) excepts from its application any case in which the child has been adopted by a person other than the child's stepparent or grandparent, a court may order grandparent visitation under section 3102 following the death of a parent even when a stepparent adoption has occurred [Fenn v. Sherriff (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1466, 1474-1475, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 185] .

There is no similar provision in the Family Code that addresses the effect of adoption on nonparental visitation rights granted under the authority of other statutes, including Fam. Code §§ 3100 (general authority), 3101 (stepparents), and 3103 and 3104 (grandparents) [see Fenn v. Sherriff (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1466, 1474-1476, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 185 (nothing in Fam. Code § 3104 or legislative history suggests Legislature intended limitations in Fam. Code § 3104(b) to apply to grandparent petitions for visitation under Fam. Code § 3102, and by plain terms of § 3104(b), limitations apply only to petition for visitation under § 3104)]. Visitation granted to a de facto parent in juvenile court dependency proceedings is not automatically terminated if the child is adopted [In re Hirenia C. (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 504, 517-520, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 443] .

In one case, the adoption of a child by maternal grandparents did not terminate visitation rights previously granted to the paternal grandparents because the adoption did not change the child's living arrangements from those in effect when visitation was granted and should not affect the visitation rights [Reeves v. Bailey (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 1019, 1024-1026, 126 Cal. Rptr. 51] . This reasoning might also preclude automatic termination of nonparental visitation if the child is adopted by a stepparent [see Roquemore v. Roquemore (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 912, 914-916, 80 Cal. Rptr. 432] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody Proceedings
1. Custody Proceedings Under Family Code

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.75

§ 394.75 Jurisdictional Conflict

[1] Concurrent Jurisdiction

If two or more courts in California have concurrent jurisdiction, the general rule is that the court first assuming jurisdiction retains it to the exclusion of all other courts in which the action might have been initiated. Thus, the court in California that first makes a custody order retains exclusive jurisdiction over custody, and no other court in California has jurisdiction. For example, a court cannot appoint a guardian of the person of a minor if another court in California has made an earlier custody award in a dissolution proceeding [Greene v. Superior Court of San Francisco (1951) 231 P.2d 821] . However, if circumstances change or the child moves to a different county within the state, a motion for change of venue, made in the county of original jurisdiction, may be appropriate [Greene v. Superior Court (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 307, 312, 231 P.2d 821 ; see Ferreira v. Ferreira (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 824, 843, 109 Cal. Rptr. 80, 512 P.2d 304] .

For discussion of custody jurisdiction as between courts of different states, see § 394.100 et seq.

[2] Exclusive Jurisdiction of Juvenile Court

One exception to the rule that the first court to assume jurisdiction generally retains jurisdiction is that the juvenile court has exclusive jurisdiction over certain custody matters. Custodial issues regarding minors adjudged dependent children of the juvenile court may only be determined by the juvenile court [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 302(c); Dupes v. Superior Court (1917) 176 Cal. 440, 441-442, 168 P. 888 (juvenile court jurisdiction over minors supersedes jurisdiction of all other courts relating to custody of minors who are properly subject to jurisdiction of juvenile court)]. No other division of the superior court may hear proceedings under the Family Code regarding the custody of a dependent minor [Welf. & Inst. Code § 304; see In re William T. (l985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 790, 797, 799-800, 218 Cal. Rptr. 420 (superior court with concurrent jurisdiction over related custody matters involving minor may not seek to enforce custody orders that conflict with orders properly issued by juvenile court)].

However, juvenile courts have been called on to scrutinize cases involving custody to ensure that dependency jurisdiction is not being sought to finance a custody battle between parents at public expense. One appellate court has recommended that particular attention be paid to stipulated petitions based on allegations by a parent that a child is suffering "serious emotional damage" in order to bring the case within the court's jurisdiction [In re John W. (1996) 41 Cal. App. 4th 961, 976, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 899] .

It is improper for the juvenile court to continue to exercise jurisdiction over an orphan child if different relatives are seeking custody or guardianship or adoption. Because there are no issues of parental rights and familyreunification involved, juvenile court jurisdiction is inappropriate other than to issue emergency temporary custody orders. After issuing such an order, the juvenile court must then terminate its jurisdiction so as to allow the matter to be determined in a guardianship or adoption proceeding under the general jurisdiction of the superior court and according to the standards of the Family Code [In re Vanessa P. (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 1763, 1770-1771, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 760] .

[3] Juvenile Court Orders on Termination of Jurisdiction

The juvenile court may terminate its jurisdiction over a dependent minor and transfer its custody and visitation order to the general jurisdiction of the superior court [Welf. & Inst. Code § 362.4; see In re Jennifer R. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 704, 711-713, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 759] . Such a transfer on termination of jurisdiction is sometimes referred to as an "exit order" [see In re Katherine M. (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 91, 96, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 298 , disapproved on other grounds in In re Chantal S. (1996) 13 Cal. 4th 196, 204, 212, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 866, 913 P.2d 1075] . However, it is more properly termed a custody or visitation order on termination of jurisdiction. If there was another marital or paternity proceeding concerning the minor, the juvenile court's order must be filed in that proceeding [Welf. & Inst. Code § 362.4]. If no other proceeding was filed or is pending relating to the custody of the child, the juvenile court order may be used as the sole basis for opening a file with an assigned case number in the superior court in the county in which the custodial parent resides. Thereafter, the parties may move to modify the order in the superior court proceeding in which it was filed [Welf. & Inst. Code § 362.4; In re Michael B. (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 1698, 1704-1705, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 290 ; see In re Jennifer R. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 704, 712-714, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 759] .

The custody provisions of the Family Code do not apply to these juvenile court orders unless the legislature has expressly so provided [In re Chantal S. (1996) 13 Cal. 4th 196, 206-207, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 866, 913 P.2d 1075 ; see Fam. Code § 3021 (proceedings to which custody provisions of Family Code apply do not include juvenile court proceedings); but cf. In re Maribel T. (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 82, 85-86, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 631 (order restricting removal of child from state erroneously failed to comply with requirements of Fam. Code § 3024)]. Thus, the juvenile court may require, as part of its order, that a parent's custody or visitation rights be conditioned on participation in counseling or psychotherapy, and the limitations on such an order set forth in Fam. Code § 3190 do not apply [In re Chantal S. (1996) 13 Cal. 4th 196, 206-211, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 866, 913 P.2d 1075] . The period of the order need not be limited to one year [cf. Fam. Code § 3190(a)]; however, once the matter is transferred to the family law court, any party may move to modify the order [In re Chantal S. (1996) 13 Cal. 4th 196, 213, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 866, 913 P.2d 1075] .

For discussion of court-ordered parental counseling, see Ch. 223 Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody .

For further discussion of juvenile dependency proceedings, see Ch. 328, Juvenile Courts: Dependency Proceedings .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody Proceedings
1. Custody Proceedings Under Family Code

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.76

§ 394.76 Federal Court Jurisdiction

There is no federal court jurisdiction to issue child custody decrees [Ankenbrandt v. Richards (1992) 504 U.S. 689, 112 S. Ct. 2206, 119 L. Ed. 2d 468, 482] . Federal habeas corpus is also not available as a remedy in child custody matters [Lehman v. Lycoming County Children's Services (1982) 458 U.S. 502, 513-516, 102 S. Ct. 3231, 73 L. Ed. 2d 928] .

There is also a federal court doctrine of equitable abstention, because the subject matter of domestic relations cases has traditionally been considered an area of state interest [see, e.g., Coats v. Woods (9th Cir. 1987) 819 F.2d 236, 236-237 , cert. denied, 484 U.S. 802 ; Peterson v. Babbitt (9th Cir. 1983) 708 F.2d 465, 466] . Under this doctrine, a federal court will refuse to exercise jurisdiction based on the principle that federal courts should decline jurisdiction of cases concerning domestic relations if the primary issue concerns the status of parent and child, or husband and wife [see Peterson v. Babbitt (9th Cir. 1983) 708 F.2d 465, 466] . However, the United States Supreme Court has limited the scope ofdomestic relations abstention to situations in which related issues are pending in other proceedings in state court [Ankenbrandt v. Richards (1992) 504 U.S. 689, 112 S. Ct. 2206, 119 L. Ed. 2d 468, 483-484] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody Proceedings
1. Custody Proceedings Under Family Code

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 394.77-394.99

[Reserved]

§§ 394.77[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody Proceedings
2. Interstate and International Jurisdictional Conflicts

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.100

§ 394.100 Background and Need for Multijurisdictional Child Custody Standards

[1] Adoption of Original Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction Act

Before 1974, the basis for jurisdiction over a child's custody depended only on the state's substantial interest in the child's welfare [see Sampsell v. Superior Court (1948) 32 Cal. 2d 763, 780, 197 P.2d 739] . Under this standard, more than one state could and did assume jurisdiction over the custody of the same child with the obvious actual and potential conflicts between the rulings of the courts in different states [see Moniz v. Moniz (1956) 142 Cal. App. 2d 527, 528-529, 298 P.2d 710 ; Stout v. Pate (1953) 120 Cal. App. 2d 699, 701, 261 P.2d 788 ; Stout v. Pate (1953) 209 Ga. 786, 75 S.E.2d 748 , cert. denied in both cases, 347 U.S. 968 (1954)] .

The potential for obtaining a "reversal" of a custody decree in one state by a judgment in another state, along with the ease of migration between states and countries, led to detriment to many children involved in custody disputes. The national response was the development of a uniform act, designed to be enacted in all states, so that each state would be required to follow the same rules to determine its jurisdiction to make custody orders. This act became known as the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction Act, referred to as the UCCJA throughout the remainder of this Subpart. The UCCJA was enacted in California in 1973 [Stas. 1973, ch. 693] and has been enacted, in some form, by all 50 states and the District of Columbia [see In re Joseph D. (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 678, 681 n.1, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 574] . California's UCCJA was, however, repealed, operative January 1, 2000, and superseded by the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act (UCCJEA) [see Fam. Code § 3400 et seq.].

Prior to its repeal, the UCCJA contained the following statement of its purposes [former Fam. Code § 3401(a)]:

(1) To avoid jurisdiction competition and conflict with courts of other states in matters of child custody, which have in the past resulted in the shifting of children from state to state with harmful effects on their well-being;

(2) To promote cooperation with the courts of other states to the end that a custody decree is rendered in the state that can best decide the case in the interest of the child;

(3) To assure that litigation concerning the custody of a child ordinarily takes place in the state with which the child and his or her family have the closest connection and where significant evidence concerning his or her care, protection, training, and personal relationships is most readily available, and that courts in California decline the exercise of jurisdiction if the child and his or her family have a closer connection with another state;

(4) To discourage continuing controversies over child custody in the interest of greater stability of home environment and of secure family relationships for the child;

(5) To deter abductions and other unilateral removals of children undertaken to obtain custody awards;

(6) To avoid relitigation of custody decisions of other states in California insofar as feasible;

(7) To facilitate the enforcement of custody decrees of other states;

(8) To promote and expand the exchange of information and other forms of mutual assistance between the courts of California and those of other states concerned with the same child; and

(9) To make uniform the law of those states that enact it.

The UCCJA was required to be construed to promote these general purposes [former Fam. Code § 3401(b)].

The successor to the UCCJA, the UCCJEA, is to be construed according to similar general purposes [see, e.g., Fam. Code § 3461].

[2] Parental Kidnapping Prevention Act of 1980

[a] Introduction

The UCCJA did not resolve all problems of multiple assumptions of jurisdiction and parental child abductions. Therefore, in 1980--long prior to the adoption by California and many other jurisdictions of the current Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act (UCCJEA; see [3], below)--Congress passed the Parental Kidnapping Prevention Act (hereafter, the PKPA) [28 U.S.C. § 1738A] in an attempt to compel states to extend full faith and credit to another state's custody determinations that complied with the rules of the PKPA. In its Declaration of Purpose behind the PKPA, Congress reiterated essentially the same concerns expressed earlier by the drafters of the former UCCJA [see Pub. Law 96-611, § 7].

The United States Supreme Court has stated that Congress' intent in enacting the PKPA was to extend the requirements of the Full Faith and Credit Clause to custody determinations. While some states had adopted the UCCJA, a number of states originally refused to adopt it or adopted it with modifications, resulting in an absence of national standards. Thepurpose of the PKPA, therefore, was to provide for nationwide enforcement of custody orders made in accordance with the UCCJA [Thompson v. Thompson (1988) 484 U.S. 174, 181, 108 S. Ct. 513, 98 L. Ed. 2d 512] .

[b] Summary of Special Terms Under PKPA

The PKPA expressly defines a number of specialized terms, which are summarized hereafter [see 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(b)]. These terms are more fully discussed in context in the remainder of this Part, and it is useful to compare them with similar (or substantially similar) terms defined under the UCCJEA which are set forth in [3][b], below, [see Fam. Code § 3402].

Under the PKPA [see 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(b)]

1. "Child" means a person under 18 years old.

2. "Contestant" means a person, including a parent or grandparent, who claims a right to custody of, or visitation with, a child.

3. "Custody determination" means a judgment, decree, or other order of a court providing for the custody of a child, and includes permanent and temporary orders, and initial orders, and modifications.

4. "Home State" means the state in which, immediately preceding the time involved, the child lived with his or her parents, a parent, or a person acting as parent, for at least six consecutive months, and in the case of a child less than six months old, the state in which the child lived from birth with any of such persons. Periods of temporary absence of any of such persons are counted as part of the six-month or other period.

5. "Modification" and "modify" refer to a custody or visitation determination that modifies, replaces, supersedes, or otherwise is made subsequent to, a prior custody or visitation determination concerning the same child, whether made by the same court or not.

6. "Person acting as a parent" means a person, other than a parent, who has physical custody of a child and who has either been awarded custody by a court or claims a right to custody.

7. "Physical custody" means actual possession and control of a child.

8. "State" means a state of the United States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, or a territory or possession of the United States.

9. "Visitation determination" means a judgment, decree, or other order of a court providing for the visitation of a child, and includes permanent and temporary orders and initial orders and modifications.

[3] Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act

[a] Introduction

[i] Rationale for Development of UCCJEA and Operative Date

Differences in specific provisions of the PKPA and the UCCJA resulted in further loss of uniformity in jurisdictional rules among the states, due to inconsistent interpretations of the UCCJA and technical difficulties in applying the PKPA [Commissioner's Prefatory Note to UCCJEA, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 650 (1999)]. Therefore, another uniform act, known as the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act, was developed to provide clearer standards for original jurisdiction over child custody, to enunciate a standard for continuing jurisdiction, to clarify modification jurisdiction, and to harmonize the law on simultaneous proceedings, clean hands, and forum non conveniens [Commissioner's Prefatory Note to UCCJEA, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 650 (1999)]. This Act, referred to as the UCCJEA throughout this chapter, also included uniform enforcement procedures intended to accomplish for custody and visitation determinations the same uniformity that occurred in interstate child support following development of the Uniform Interstate Family Support Act [Commissioner's Prefatory Note to UCCJEA, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 650 (1999); for discussion of UIFSA and UCCJEA enforcement procedures, see Ch. 260, Family Law Enforcement: Foreign Judgments].

Although the UCCJEA does not contain a formal statement of its purposes, they are similar to those expressed in the UCCJA and the PKPA, that is, to avoid jurisdictional competition and conflict between states, to promote cooperation between courts so that a custody decree will be rendered in the state that can best decide the matter in the child's interest, to discourage use of the interstate system for custody controversies, to deter child abductions, to avoid relitigation of custody decisions, and to facilitate enforcement of custody decrees [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 101, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 657 (1999); see Fam. Code § 3461].

According to its drafters, the UCCJEA resolves a number of problematic jurisdictional aspects of the UCCJA and the PKPA, as summarized in [ii], below [see Commissioner's Prefatory Note to UCCJEA, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 650-651 (1999)].

By the beginning of 2000, the UCCJEA--which was first promulgated in 1997--had been adopted in 15 states [Alabama, Alaska, Arkansas, California, Connecticut, Iowa, Maine, Minnesota, Montana, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, Tennessee, and Texas]. and had been introduced in eight additional states [Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Missouri, New York, Virginia, and Washington].

The UCCJEA was enacted in California, with minor modifications from the original act, and became operative, January 1, 2000 [Stats. 1999, ch.867]. A motion or other request for relief made in child custody proceeding or to enforce a child custody determination that was commenced before January 1, 2000, is governed by the law in effect at the time motion or other request was made [see Fam. Code § 3465]. Conversely, a motion filed on or after January 1, 2000, will be governed by the UCCJEA [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA, § 405, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 706 (1999)].

[ii] UCCJEA Features That Aid in Resolving Jurisdictional Issues

[A] Home State Priority

Both the UCCJEA and PKPA prioritize home state jurisdiction. Under the PKPA, full faith and credit cannot be given to an initial child custody determination that is based on "significant state connections" unless there is no "home state"; therefore, "home state" jurisdiction is prioritized [see 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(c)]. Under the former UCCJA, a custody determination based on "significant connections" might have required enforcement even if enforcement would be denied under the PKPA, because the UCCJA authorized four independent bases of jurisdiction, without prioritization. Under the UCCJEA, "home state" jurisdiction is prioritized [see Fam. Code § 3421; Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 201, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 672 (1999); see also In re A.C. (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 854, 861-862, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 431 (Mexico did not lose its "home state" jurisdiction over child who came to California for medical care)].

[B] Clarification of Emergency Jurisdiction

Under the UCCJA, it was unclear whether emergency jurisdiction could be exercised only to protect a child on a temporary basis until a court with appropriate jurisdiction issued a permanent order, or whether there was no time limit on a custody determination based on emergency jurisdiction. Also, it was unclear whether situations involving domestic violence directed against a parent or sibling of a child were sufficient to invoke emergency jurisdiction. Under the UCCJEA, emergency jurisdiction is exercised only to protect a child on a temporary basis, although an emergency custody order can sometimes become permanent. In addition, a domestic violence protective order that contains a custody determination is enforceable only if it complies with the PKPA and the UCCJEA [see Fam. Code § 3424; Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 204, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 678 (1999)].

Emergencies under the UCCJEA generally involve sexual or physical abuse. Unsubstantiated allegations are insufficient to invoke a court's emergency jurisdiction. The finding of an emergency may be made only after an evidentiary hearing, although a juvenile court can detain the child before that hearing [In re A.C. (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 854, 864, 30

Cal. Rptr. 3d 431] .

[C] Exclusive Continuing Jurisdiction in Decree State

Except in cases involving temporary emergency jurisdiction [see Fam. Code § 3424], a California court that has made a child custody determination consistent with the UCCJEA provisions for initial [see Fam. Code § 3421] or modification [see Fam. Code § 3423] jurisdiction has exclusive, continuing jurisdiction over the determination unless one of two events occurs [Fam. Code § 3422(a)]. First, if a California court or a court of another state determines that the child, the child's parents, and any person acting as a parent are no longer residents of California, then the California court will no longer have jurisdiction [Fam. Code § 3422(a)(2); see In re Marriage of Nurie (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 478, 511, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 200 (party may have more than one residence, and decree state retains jurisdiction until party abandons all residential ties with that state; judicial determination that all parties no longer reside in decree state is required to divest that state of continuing exclusive jurisdiction)]. Second, if a California court determines that the child, the child and one parent, or the child and a person acting as a parent no longer have any significant connection with California and that substantial evidence concerning the child's care, protection, training, and personal relationships is no longer available in California, then the California court will no longer have jurisdiction [Fam. Code § 3422(a)(1)].

The UCCJEA takes a strict "first in time" approach to jurisdiction [In re Marriage of Nurie (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 478, 491, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 200] . In general, once the court of an appropriate state [Fam. Code § 3421(a)] has made a child custody determination, that court has exclusive continuing jurisdiction [Fam. Code § 3422(a)]. A court of another state cannot modify the child custody determination [Fam. Code §§ 3421(b), 3422(a), 3423, 3446(b)] and must enforce that determination [Fam. Code §§ 3443, 3445, 3446, 3448, 3453; In re Marriage of Nurie (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 478, 491, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 200] . For further discussion of exclusive and continuing jurisdiction under the UCCJEA, see § 394.110[1].

Similarly, under the PKPA, full faith and credit must be given to a custody determination made by an original decree state pursuant to its continuing jurisdiction so long as the state has jurisdiction under its own laws and remains the residence of a child or contestant [see 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(a), (c)(2)(E), (d)].

By contrast, under the former UCCJA, it was unclear whether or for how long a custody-decree-granting state retained exclusive continuing jurisdiction to modify a decree. Furthermore, the UCCJA offered no guidance on determining whether or when a state with continuing jurisdiction had relinquished jurisdiction [see Fam. Code § 3422; Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 202, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 674-675 (1999)].

[D] Specification of Covered Custody Proceedings

Under the UCCJA, the definition of custody proceeding was ambiguous, so that states did not agree on whether the UCCJA applied to neglect, abuse, dependency, wardship, guardianship, termination of parental rights, or protection from domestic violence proceedings. Under the UCCJEA, virtually all proceedings that can involve custody of or visitation with a child, except for adoption proceedings, are expressly included within the definition of "custody determination" [see Fam. Code § 3402(c),(d); Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 102, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 659 (1999)].

[E] "Best Interests" Language Eliminated

Under the former UCCJA, a state court could not assume custody jurisdiction on the basis of "significant connection" and "substantial evidence" without a finding that doing so was in a child's best interests. The UCCJA scheme wasdesigned to promote a child's best interests, but the "best interests" language was not intended to be an invitation to address the merits of a custody dispute in the jurisdictional determination or to otherwise provide that "best interests" considerations should override jurisdictional determinations, or provide an additional jurisdictional basis. Under the UCCJEA, the term "best interests" has been eliminated, toclearly distinguish between jurisdictional and substantive standards relating to child custody and visitation [see Commissioner's Prefatory Note to UCCJEA, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 652 (1999); In re Marriage of Nurie (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 478, 491, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 200 ; but cf. 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(c) (retaining "best interests" language)]. For discussion of "best interests" as a substantive standard for custody determinations, see Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody .

[F] Custody Jurisdiction Harmonized With UIFSA

Many provisions of the UCCJA were not in conformity with the later-enacted Uniform Interstate Family Support Act [see Fam. Code § 4900 et seq.; for discussion of UIFSA see Ch. 260, Family Law Enforcement: Foreign Judgments]. UCCJEA provisions, by contrast, have been harmonized with UIFSA provisions, to further the goal of making of the law of interstate family proceedings as uniform as possible [see Commissioner's Prefatory Note to UCCJEA, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 652 (1999)].

[G] Creation of Custody Enforcement Mechanism

Neither the PKPA nor the UCCJA provides specific remedies or procedures for interstate enforcement of child custody and visitation orders [see Commissioner's Prefatory Note to UCCJEA, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 652 (1999)]. Thus, prior to the development of the UCCJEA, enforcement procedures differed widely from state to state, and lack of uniform procedures increased the cost of interstate enforcement actions by necessitating counsel in each state, decreasing the certainty of outcomes, and resulting in long, drawn out actions [see Commissioner's Prefatory Note to UCCJEA, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 652 (1999)].

The UCCJEA provides several remedies for uniform enforcement of custody determinations [see Commissioner's Prefatory Note to UCCJEA, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 653 (1999)]. First, there is a simple procedure for registering a custody determination in another state that should be particularly useful in international custody cases. Second, there is a swift remedy along the lines of habeas corpus that should enable prompt enforcement of violations of custody and visitation arrangements. Third, there is an extraordinary remedy, a warrant to take physical possession of a child, available to enforcing courts. Finally, there is a clarified role provided for public authorities, such as prosecutors, in the enforcement process [see generally Fam. Code §§ 3442, 3443, 3445, 3446, 3451, 3455]. These enforcement remedies are discussed in Ch. 260, Family Law Enforcement: Foreign Judgments .

[b] Summary of Special Terms Under UCCJEA

The UCCJEA expressly defines a number of specialized terms, which are summarized hereafter [see Fam. Code § 3402]. These terms are more fully discussed in context in the remainder of this chapter. For a listing of similar terms under the PKPA, see § 394.100[2][b].

Under the UCCJEA [see Fam. Code § 3402]:

1. "Abandoned" means left without provision for reasonable and necessary care or supervision.

2. "Child" means an individual who has not attained 18 years of age.

3. "Child custody determination" means a judgment, decree, or other order of a court providing for the legal custody, physical custody, or visitation with respect to a child. The term includes a permanent, temporary, initial, and modification order. The term does not include an order relating to child support or other monetary obligation of an individual.

4. "Child custody proceeding" means a proceeding in which legal custody, physical custody, or visitation with respect to a child is an issue. The term includes a proceeding for dissolution of marriage, legal separation of the parties, neglect, abuse, dependency, guardianship, paternity, termination of parental rights, and protection from domestic violence, in which the issue may appear. The term does not include a proceeding involving juvenile delinquency, contractual emancipation, or enforcement under Fam. Code § 3441 et seq. [cf. Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 102, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 659 (1999) (noting that cases involving Hague Convention on International Child Abduction are not listed in definition, because custody is not determined in such proceeding; but Hague cases are included in UCCJEA enforcement provisions, as discussed in Ch. 260, Family Law Enforcement: Foreign Judgments)].

5. "Commencement" means the filing of the first pleading in a proceeding.

6. "Court" means an entity authorized under the law of a state to establish, enforce, or modify a child custody determination.

7. "Home state" means the state in which a child lived with a parent or a person acting as a parent for at least six consecutive months immediately before the commencement of a child custody proceeding. In the case of a child less than six months of age, the term means the state in which the child lived from birth with any of the persons mentioned. A period of temporary absence of any of the mentioned persons is part of the period.

8. "Initial determination" means the first child custody determination concerning a particular child.

9. "Issuing court" means the court that makes a child custody determination for which enforcement is sought under Fam. Code § 3400 et seq.

10. "Issuing state" means the state in which a child custody determination is made.

11. "Modification" means a child custody determination that changes, replaces, supersedes, or is otherwise made after a previous determination concerning the same child, whether or not it is made by the court that made the previous determination.

12. "Person" means an individual, corporation, business trust, estate, trust, partnership, limited liability company, association, joint venture, or government; governmental subdivision, agency, or instrumentality; public corporation; or any other legal or commercial entity. This definition assures that the UCCJEA applies when the state is the moving party in a custody proceeding or has legal custody of a child [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA, § 102, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 659 (1999)].

13. "Person acting as a parent" means a person, other than a parent, who: (1) has physical custody of the child or has had physical custody for a period of six consecutive months, including any temporary absence, within one year immediately before the commencement of a child custody proceeding; and (2) has been awarded legal custody by a court or claims a right to legal custody under California law [see also Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 102, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 659-660 (1999) (explaining that California courts apply California law in deciding whether someone is "person acting as a parent," and need not undertake choice-of-law analysis to determine whether individual claiming such status has standing to seek custody)].

14. "Physical custody" means the physical care and supervision of a child.

15. "State" means a state of the United States, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, the United States

Virgin Islands, or any territory or insular possession subject to the jurisdiction of the United States.

16. "Tribe" means an Indian tribe or band, or Alaskan Native village, that is recognized by federal law or formally acknowledged by a state.

17. "Warrant" means an order issued by a court authorizing law enforcement officers to take physical custody of a child (see Ch. 260, Family Law Enforcement: Foreign Judgments).

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody Proceedings
2. Interstate and International Jurisdictional Conflicts

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.101

§ 394.101 Preemption by PKPA; No Federal Court Jurisdiction

The PKPA preempts state law on the issue of jurisdiction by a state to render a valid custody decree [People v. Superior Court (Smolin) (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 758, 770, 225 Cal. Rptr. 438, 716 P.2d 991 , rev'd on other grounds, California v. Superior Court of California (1987) 482 U.S. 400, 107 S. Ct. 2433, 96 L. Ed. 2d 332 ; In re Marriage of Newsome (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 949, 958, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 555 ; Wallace v. Superior Court (1993) 15 Cal. App. 4th 1182, 1184, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 157 ; Adoption of Zachariah K. (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1025, 1036, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 423 ; Rogers v. Platt (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1204, 1211, 245 Cal. Rptr. 532] .

However, the PKPA does not provide for federal court jurisdiction over child custody jurisdictional disputes. It is up to the courts of the various states to construe and apply the PKPA to determine which state has jurisdiction [see Thompson v. Thompson (1988) 484 U.S. 174, 187, 108 S. Ct. 513, 98 L. Ed. 2d 512] .

Thus, there is no further remedy if the courts of two jurisdictions construe the PKPA differently so that each concludes that it is the proper jurisdiction to make the custody determination [see Rogers v. Platt (D.C. Cir. 1987) 814 F.2d 683, 684-685 (conflicting orders from California and District of Columbia courts, but no federal court jurisdiction to resolve)]. However, as an increasing number of states, like California [see Fam. Code § 3400 et seq.], adopt the UCCJEA--which utilizes principles more closely aligned with those of the PKPA--there may be fewer circumstances in which construction of the PKPA is needed or in which PKPA preemption becomes an issue. The UCCJEA was drafted specifically to address and eliminate inconsistencies in state court interpretations of the UCCJA and the PKPA [see Commissioner's Prefatory Note to UCCJEA, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 650 (1999)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody Proceedings
2. Interstate and International Jurisdictional Conflicts

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.102

§ 394.102 Framework for Analyzing Multijurisdiction Child Custody Questions

The PKPA requires one state to extend full faith and credit to a child custody determination made by another state if the determination is made consistently with the provisions of the PKPA [28 U.S.C. § 1738A(a)]. A state child custody determination is consistent with the PKPA if (1) the state has jurisdiction under its own laws and (2) the exercise of jurisdiction is proper under the jurisdictional rules of the PKPA [28 U.S.C. § 1738A(c)].

Therefore, a state's jurisdiction in a child custody dispute involving multiple jurisdictions depends on resolution of the following three questions:

> (1) Does the state have jurisdiction under its general child custody laws that must be applied in all cases, regardless of whether there is a multi-jurisdictional dispute?
>
> (2) Does the state have jurisdiction under its version of the UCCJA or UCCJEA?
>
> (3) Would the exercise of jurisdiction under state law conflict with the PKPA?

If the issue is whether California may assume jurisdiction over the matter, there must first be a proper basis for jurisdiction under some proceeding, for example a proceeding under the Family Code, a guardianship, or juvenile court dependency. Then, there must also be jurisdiction under California's UCCJEA. Then, the provisions of California law relied on to assume jurisdiction (general law and UCCJEA) must be scrutinized against the PKPA to ensure that there is no conflict, although there is now little, if any, likelihood of conflict with the PKPA when California has jurisdiction under the UCCJEA.

If the issue is whether California must extend full faith and credit to a custody determination made by another state, the same three questions must be addressed, looking to the law of that state for the answers to the first two. Those laws must then be evaluated in light of the PKPA.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody Proceedings
2. Interstate and International Jurisdictional Conflicts

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.103

§ 394.103 Proceedings to Which PKPA and UCCJEA Apply

[1] Custody Determinations Under PKPA

The PKPA applies to "child custody determinations" as defined [see 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(a)]. A "custody determination" means a judgment, decree, or other order of a court providing for the custody or visitation of a child. It includes permanent and temporary orders, and initial orders and modifications [28 U.S.C. § 1738A(b)(3)]. This broad and unlimited definition, viewed in light of the purposes of the PKPA, indicates that its scope extends at least to all proceedings covered by the UCCJA [see Adoption of Zachariah K. (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1025, 1034, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 423 (and cases cited therein; PKPA applies to adoptions)], and to its successor statute, the UCCJEA [see Commissioner's Prefatory Note to UCCJEA, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 650-651 (1999)].

[2] Custody Determinations, Proceedings, and Decrees Under UCCJEA

The UCCJEA provides grounds for a California court's exercise of jurisdiction over a "child custody determination" [Fam. Code §§ 3421-3424]. It is the exclusive method in California for determining the proper forum in child custody proceedings involving other jurisdictions [In re Jaheim B. (2009) 169 Cal. App. 4th 1343, 1348, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 504] . As used in the UCCJEA, "child custody determination" means a judgment, decree, or other order of a court providing for legal custody, physical custody, or visitation with a child, including a permanent, temporary (see § 394.108), initial (see § 394.107[1]), or modification (see § 394.110) order. It does not include an order relating to child support or other monetary obligation of an individual [Fam. Code § 3402(c)].

Under the UCCJEA, a "child custody proceeding" means a proceeding in which legal custody, physical custody, or visitation with respect to a child is an issue. It includes a proceeding for dissolution of marriage, legal separation of the parties, neglect, abuse, dependency, guardianship, paternity, termination of parental rights, and protection from domestic violence, in which the issue may appear [Fam. Code § 3402(d)]. The term does not include a proceeding involving enforcement under the UCCJEA [see Fam. Code § 3441 et seq.], juvenile delinquency, or contractual emancipation [Fam. Code § 3402(d)]; or an adoption proceeding or a proceeding to authorize emergency medical care for a child [Fam. Code § 3403].

Thus, nearly all proceedings in which custody is at issue are included within the scope of the UCCJEA [In re Jaheim B. (2009) 169 Cal. App. 4th 1343, 1348, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 504 (dependency action is "child custody proceeding" subject to UCCJEA); Brossoit v. Brossoit (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 361, 367 n.2, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 919 (UCCJA applies in guardianship proceedings); In re Gloria F. (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 576, 582, 260 Cal. Rptr. 706 (UCCJA applies in proceedings to declare minor free of parental custody and control)] .

Adoption proceedings are generally governed by other laws, such as the Interstate Compact on the Placement of Children (see Ch. 12B, Adoptions: Unmarried Minors) or the Uniform Adoption Act (1994), although the UCCJEA may sometimes apply under the UAA in states that adopt the UAA (but California has not) [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 103, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 660-661 (1999); see Fam. Code § 3403 (adoptions not covered); for California adoption proceedings, cf. former Fam. Code § 3402(c) (former UCCJA definition of "custody proceeding" did not expressly include or exclude adoption); Adoption of Zachariah K. (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1025, 1032-1034, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 423 (former UCCJA applies to proceeding to withdraw parental consent to adoption); Souza v. Superior Court (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 1304, 1309-1310, 238 Cal. Rptr. 892 (former UCCJA applies to adoption proceedings)]. Proceedings for emergency medical care of children are not custody proceedings, and are governed by applicable state laws [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 103, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 661 (1999); see Fam. Code § 3403].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody Proceedings
2. Interstate and International Jurisdictional Conflicts

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.104

§ 394.104 Territorial Scope and International Application of PKPA and UCCJEA

[1] Application to States

"States" within the meaning of the PKPA include the 50 states of the United States, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and the territories and possessions of the United States [28 U.S.C. § 1738A(b)(8)]. Similarly, under the UCCJEA, "state" means a state of the United States, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, the United States Virgin Islands, or any territory or insular possession subject to the jurisdiction of the United States [Fam. Code § 3402(o)]. Therefore, the custody decrees of Puerto Rico, for example, are entitled to full faith and credit, if made in conformity with the PKPA and UCCJA or UCCJEA, despite the fact that Puerto Rico has not enacted either act [see In re Marriage of Zierenberg (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1436, 1443-1444, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 238] .

[2] Application to Indian Tribes

The PKPA does not make reference to members of Native American tribes, but the UCCJEA does. Under the UCCJEA, a "tribe" means is an Indian tribe or band, or Alaskan Native village, that is recognized by federal law or formally acknowledged by a state [Fam. Code § 3402(p)]. A California court must treat a tribe as if it were a state of the United States when applying the jurisdictional provisions of the UCCJEA [Fam. Code § 3404(b); see Fam. Code §§ 3400 et seq.]. A child custody determination made by a tribe under factual circumstances in substantial conformity with the jurisdictional standards of the UCCJEA [see Fam. Code §§ 3400 et seq.] must be recognized and enforced under the enforcement provisions of the UCCJEA [Fam. Code § 3404(c); see Fam. Code § 3441 et seq].

However, a child custody proceeding that pertains to an Indian child as defined in the Indian Child Welfare Act [25 U.S.C. § 1901 et seq.] is governed by the ICWA, and is not subject to the UCCJEA to the extent that the ICWA governs the proceeding [see Fam. Code § 3404(a)]. If the ICWA requires that a case be heard in a tribal court, then ICWA provisions determine jurisdiction [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 104, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 662 (1999)].

[3] International Application

The provisions of the UCCJEA have international application to child custody proceedings and determinations of other countries [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 105, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 662 (1999); see Fam. Code § 3405]. A California court must treat a foreign country as if it were a state of the United States when making jurisdictional determinations [Fam. Code § 3405(a)]. Furthermore, a child custody determination made in a foreign country under factual circumstances in substantial conformity with the jurisdictional standards [see Fam. Code §§ 3400-3430] of the UCCJEA must be recognized and enforced under the enforcement provisions [see Fam. Code §§ 3441-3457] of the UCCJEA [Fam. Code § 3405(b); In re Marriage of Nurie (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 478, 487, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 200 (Pakistan) ; In re Marriage of Sareen (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 371, 375, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 687 (India) ; In re Marriage of Paillier (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 461, 470, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 459 (France)] .

A California court need not apply the UCCJEA if the child custody law of a foreign country violates fundamental principles of human rights [Fam. Code § 3405(c)]. In determining violations of human rights, the court's scrutiny should be on the child custody law of the foreign country and not on other aspects of the foreign country's legal system. Also, the court should invoke this option to not apply the UCCJEA in only the most egregious cases [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 105, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 662 (1999)].

Finally, it would appear that a custody decree of a foreign country that does not conform to the jurisdictional rules of the PKPA and UCCJEA is not enforceable in California as a matter of comity. Under principles of international comity, courts of one country generally will give effect to the judgments of a court of a foreign nation if the foreign court has proper jurisdiction, and enforcement does not prejudice the rights of the enforcing country's citizens or violate its domestic public policy [cf. In re Stephanie M. (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 295, 313-314, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 595, 867 P.2d 706 (decided under UCCJEA's predecessor statute, UCCJA (former Fam. Code § 3400 et seq.)); see Ch. 260, Family Law Enforcement: Foreign Judgments , for discussion of Hague Convention].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody Proceedings
2. Interstate and International Jurisdictional Conflicts

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.105

§ 394.105 Exclusivity of UCCJEA in California

Apart from the PKPA (see §§ 394.101-394.102), the UCCJEA is the exclusive method in California for determining subject matter jurisdiction in custody cases [In re Jaheim B. (2009) 169 Cal. App. 4th 1343, 1348, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 504 ; In re Marriage of Sareen (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 371, 375, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 687 (UCCJEA applies to international custody disputes as well as interstate disputes); In re S.W. (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 1501, 1508, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 665 (UCCJEA applies to dependency proceedings)].

The provisions of the UCCJA supersede any contrary decisional and statutory law [Plas v. Superior Court (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 1008, 1013, 202 Cal. Rptr. 490 (contrary law superseded by UCCJEA's predecessor statute, UCCJA, former Fam. Code § 3400 et seq.)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody Proceedings
2. Interstate and International Jurisdictional Conflicts

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.106

§ 394.106 Personal Jurisdiction and Physical Presence Not Required

If a court has subject matter jurisdiction under the UCCJEA, then physical presence of, or personal jurisdiction over, a parent or a child is not necessary for a court to make a binding child custody determination [Fam. Code § 3421(c); see Fam. Code § 3406 (binding effect of child custody determination); In re Marriage of Nurie (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 478, 487, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 200 (UCCJEA does not provide for jurisdiction by reason of presence of parties or by stipulation, consent, waiver, or estoppel); see also § 394.114[1] (notice requirements)].

A parent may appear and fully participate in a UCCJEA proceeding without submitting to the personal jurisdiction of the court. He or she may seek and oppose all orders related to custody and visitation, including restraining orders, such as stay-away orders and restraints on personal conduct [Fam. Code § 3409(a); cf. In re Marriage of Fitzgerald & King (1995) 39 Cal. App. 4th 1419, 1428-1429, 46 Cal. Rptr. 2d 558 (appearance of parent does not confer personal jurisdiction; decided under UCCJA, former Fam. Code § 3400 et seq.); In re Marriage of Torres (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 1367, 1380, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 344 (in filing request for child support, out-of-state wife made general appearance and voluntarily submitted to court's general jurisdiction; decided under UCCJA); see § 394.114[4] (appearance and limited immunity)].

However, a person who is subject to personal jurisdiction in California on a basis other than physical presence in the state is not immune from service of process in California [Fam. Code § 3409(b); see § 394.114[4] (appearance and limited immunity)].

Neither physical presence of a party or child, nor personal jurisdiction over a party or a child, is by itself sufficient to confer jurisdiction on a California court to make acustody determination [Fam. Code § 3421(c); cf. former Fam. Code § 3403(b), (c) (jurisdictional requirements under UCCJA); In re Marriage of Arnold & Cully (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 499, 503-504, 271 Cal. Rptr. 624 (physical presence); In re Marriage of Ben-Yehoshua (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 259, 264, 154 Cal. Rptr. 80 (physical presence); both cases decided under former law]. Furthermore, neither the presence of minimum contacts nor service within California will confer jurisdiction [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 201, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 673 (1999)]. Also, because jurisdiction to make a custody determination is subject matter jurisdiction, an agreement of the parties to confer jurisdiction on a court that would not otherwise have jurisdiction under the UCCJEA is not effective [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 201, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 673 (1999)].

The jurisdictional requirements for an initial child custody determination under the UCCJEA [see Fam. Code § 3421(a)], plus the notice and hearing requirements of the UCCJEA [see Fam. Code § 3425; see also § 394.114[1] (notice)], are all that is necessary to satisfy due process [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 201, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 673 (1999)]. The requirements for an initial custody determination are subject to the UCCJEA requirements for temporary emergency jurisdiction [Fam. Code § 3421(a)], which permit a California court to take emergency jurisdiction over a child who is present in the state, in order to enter a temporary order to protect the child [Fam. Code § 3424(a); see § 394.108 (temporary emergency jurisdiction)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody Proceedings
2. Interstate and International Jurisdictional Conflicts

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.107

§ 394.107 Jurisdiction to Make Initial Custody Decree

[1] Summary of Basic Grounds Under UCCJEA and PKPA

[a] UCCJEA

Under the UCCJEA, an "initial determination" is the first child custody determination concerning a particular child [Fam. Code § 3402(h)]. Except as otherwise provided in the UCCJEA provisions for temporary emergency jurisdiction [see Fam. Code § 3424], a California court has jurisdiction to make an initial child custody determination only if any of the following are true [Fam. Code § 3421(a), (b)]:

1. California is the home state of the child on the date of the commencement of the proceeding, or was the home state of the child within six months before the commencement of the proceeding and the child is absent from California but a parent or person acting as a parent continues to live in California.

2. A court of another state does not have home state jurisdiction under paragraph one above [Fam. Code § 3421(a)(1)], or a court of the home state of the child has declined to exercise jurisdiction on the ground that California is the more appropriate forum under the UCCJEA provisions for inconvenient forum [see Fam. Code § 3427; § 394.111], or declining jurisdiction based on unclean hands [see Fam. Code § 3428; § 394.112], and both of the following are true:

a. The child and the child's parents, or the child and at least one parent or a person acting as a parent, have a significant connection with California other than mere physical presence.

b. Substantial evidence is available in California concerning the child's care, protection, training, and personal relationships.

3. All courts having jurisdiction under paragraph one [Fam. Code § 3421(a)(1)] or paragraph two [Fam.

Code § 3421(a)(2)] above have declined to exercise jurisdiction on the ground that a California court is the more appropriate forum to determine the custody of the child under the UCCJEA provisions for inconvenient forum [see Fam. Code § 3427; § 394.111] or declining jurisdiction based on unclean hands [see Fam. Code § 3428; § 394.112].

4. No court of any other state would have jurisdiction under the criteria specified in Paragraph 1 [Fam. Code § 3421(a)(1)], Paragraph 2 [Fam. Code § 3421(a)(2)], or Paragraph 3 [Fam. Code § 3421(a)(3)], above [Fam. Code § 3421(a)(4)].

The UCCJEA additionally provides that physical presence of, or personal jurisdiction over, a party or a child is not necessary or sufficient to make a child custody determination [Fam. Code § 3421(c)].

For related discussion of emergency jurisdiction, see § 394.108. For discussion of a court's assumption of jurisdiction on the basis of "continuing jurisdiction," see § 394.110[1].

[b] PKPA

Under the PKPA, a "child custody determination" or "visitation determination" [see 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(b)(3), (9)] in the form of an "initial order" (not otherwise defined) [see 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(b)(3)], made by a state court is consistent with the provisions of the PKPA only if [see 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(c)]

1. The state court has jurisdiction under the law of that state; and

2. One of the following conditions is met:

a. The state (i) is the home state of the child on the date of the commencement of the proceeding or (ii) had been the child's home state within six months before the date of the commencement of the proceeding and the child is absent from such State because of his removal or retention by a contestant or for other reasons, and a contestant continues to live in such State;

b. It appears that no other state would have jurisdiction under subparagraph (a); and it is in the best interest of the child that a court of that state assume jurisdiction, because (i) the child and the child's parents, or the child and at least one contestant, have a significant connection with the state other than mere physical presence in the state and (ii) there is available in the state substantial evidence concerning the child's present or future care, protection, training, and personal relationships;

c. The child is physically present in the state and (i) the child has been abandoned or (ii) it is necessary in an emergency to protect the child because the child has been subjected to or threatened with mistreatment or abuse; or

d. It appears that no other State would have jurisdiction under any of the above grounds, or another state has declined to exercise jurisdiction on the ground that the state whose jurisdiction is in issue is the more appropriate forum to determine the custody or visitation of the child, and it is in the best interest of the child that the court assume jurisdiction.

For related discussion of emergency jurisdiction, see § 394.108. For discussion of a court's assumption of jurisdiction on the basis of "continuing jurisdiction," see § 394.110[1] [see 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(c)(2)(E), (d)].

[c] Former Law Compared

Under California's former UCCJA, jurisdiction to make a child custody determination by initial decree had to be based on one or more of the following grounds: (1) home state jurisdiction; (2) significant connection and substantial evidence; (3) emergency protection of the child; or (4) jurisdiction in no other state [see former Fam. Code § 3403(a)].

There was no express priority of these jurisdictional grounds under the UCCJA. Accordingly, a case that was decided shortly after California adopted the UCCJA in 1973 found that if any one of these grounds were present, California had jurisdiction under its law. However, better reasoned subsequent cases have held there was a preference for home state jurisdiction and that the home state was the "presumptively correct forum" [In re Marriage of Newsome (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 949, 957, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 555 ; see Plas v. Superior Court (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 1008, 1014, 202 Cal. Rptr. 490 ; Hafer v. Superior Court (1981) 126 Cal. App. 3d 856, 866, 179 Cal. Rptr.132] . This was true even if there were no case pending in the home state [Hafer v. Superior Court (1981) 126 Cal. App. 3d 856, 862, 179 Cal. Rptr. 132] .

[2] Home State Jurisdiction Preferred Under UCCJEA and PKPA

[a] Home State Rule Stated

[i] UCCJEA

Under Fam. Code § 3421(a)(1), a California court has jurisdiction to make an initial child custody determination if California is the "home state" of the child on the date of the commencement of the proceeding, or was the home state of the child within six months before the commencement of the proceeding and the child is absent from California but a parent or person acting as a parent continues to live in California.

As used in the UCCJEA, "home state" means the state in which, immediately preceding the time involved, the child lived with his or her parents, a parent, or a person acting as parent, for at least six consecutive months, and in the case of a child less than six months old, the state in which the child lived from birth with any of such persons. Periods of temporary absence of any of such persons are counted as part of the six-month or other period [Fam. Code § 3402(g)].

[ii] PKPA

Similarly, under the PKPA, a valid basis for a child custody or visitation determination made by a state court is that (1) the state court had jurisdiction under state law, and (2) that state (a) is the home state of the child on the date of the commencement of the proceeding, or (b) had been the child's home state within six months before the date of the commencement of the proceeding and the child is absent from the state because of his or her removal or retention by a contestant or for other reasons, and a contestant continues to live in that state [28 U.S.C. § 1738A(c)(1), (2)].

As used in the PKPA, "home state" means the state in which, immediately preceding the time involved, the child lived with his or her parents, a parent, or a person acting as parent, for at least six consecutive months, and in the case of a child less than six months old, the state in which the child lived from birth with any of such persons. Periods of temporary absence of any of such persons are counted as part of the six-month or other period [28 U.S.C. § 1738A(b)(4)].

[b] Preference for Home State Jurisdiction

Under the UCCJEA, home state jurisdiction to make an initial child custody determination is given priority over other jurisdictional bases, such as "significant connection and substantial evidence" jurisdiction [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 201, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 672 (1999); In re Marriage of Nurie (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 478, 489, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 200 (state with absolute priority to render initial child custody determination is child's home state)].

Thus, the UCCJEA is in harmony with the PKPA [28 U.S.C. § 1738A], which allows full faith and credit to be given to an initial custody determination made by a state with "significant connection" jurisdiction only if no home state exists [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 201, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 672 (1999); see 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(c)]. Note that the UCCJEA's predecessor, the UCCJA, provided four concurrent bases of jurisdiction [see former Fam. Code § 3403(a)], which resulted in conflicts between state and federal law after the PKPA was enacted.

[c] Nature of Six-Month Requirement

[i] In General

Both the UCCJEA and PKPA define "home state" in terms of a child having lived in a state for at least six consecutive months immediately preceding the commencement of a custody proceeding (see definitions in § 394.100) [see 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(b)(4), (c)(2)(A); Fam. Code §§ 3402(g), 3421(a)(1)]. In addition, when a child is absent from his or her home state, both the UCCJEA and PKPA permit jurisdiction to lie in that state's courts (on the basis of "home state" jurisdiction), if that state "had been the child's home state within six months before the commencement of the proceeding," and--in the case of the UCCJEA--the child's parent (or person acting as a parent) still lives in the state, or--in the case of the PKPA--a "contestant" still lives in the state [see 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(c)(2)(A); Fam. Code § 3421(a)(1)].

A Commissioner's Comment to the former UCCJA notes that the six-month period was selected in order to have a definite and certain test that, at the same time, is based on the reasonable assumption of fact that most American children are integrated into a community after living there for six months. Home-state jurisdiction includes the six-month period after the child is no longer in the home state to permit proceedings in that state during that period. That period was included in the former act to protect a custodial claimant if another claimant has removed the child from the jurisdiction.The UCCJA clearly intended that the custodian remaining in the state, by acting promptly, may bring proceedings in his or her own state [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJA § 3, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 144 (1988)]. This comment appears to remain valid with respect to the UCCJEA [see Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 101, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 659 (1999) (noting that, while the definition of "home state" in UCCJEA was worded slightly differently from that in UCCJA, no substantive change was intended)].

Under the UCCJEA, the provision for extended six-month home state jurisdiction focuses on the status of a parent or person acting as a parent who remains behind when a child is absent from the home state, and requires no inquiry into reasons why the child is absent or has been removed [see Fam. Code § 3421(a)(1); cf. former Fam. Code § 3403(a)(1) (state "had been the child's home state within six months before commencement of the proceeding and the child is absent ... because of removal or retention by a person claiming custody of the child or for other reasons, and a parent or person acting as parent continues to live in this state")]. This provision for extended six-month home state jurisdiction differs slightly from the PKPA, which requires a determination that a child has been removed "by a contestant or for other reasons" [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 201, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 672 (1999); see 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(c)(2)(A); for discussion of effects of eliminating "contestants" from the UCCJEA's jurisdictional standards, see § 394.110[1] (exclusive and continuing jurisdiction)]. If there is any distinction between these two requirements [Theoretically, a parent might still live in the state, but the contest might be between the other parent and a nonparent, neither of whom continues to live in the state; but it is unlikely that a state would be asked to take jurisdiction unless someone who was actually contesting custody lives in the state, and even more unlikely that a court would construe the UCCJEA to take jurisdiction in such a case], it appears that of the PKPA must prevail, based on a case decided under former law [see Adoption of Zachariah K. (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1025, 1036, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 423] .

[ii] Construction of Six-Month Requirement

California's version of the UCCJEA did not become operative until January 1, 2000. However, there is case law construing the six month requirement of "home state" jurisdiction under the PKPA and former UCCJA, and a certain proportion of cases tried under (and governed by) the former law will continue to be reported for some time [see Fam. Code § 3465 (motion or other request for relief made in child custody proceeding or to enforce child custody determination that was commenced before January 1, 2000, is governed by law in effect at time motion or request was made)]. This existing and growing body of case law may constitute persuasive precedent with respect to corresponding custody determinations made, modified, or enforced under the current UCCJEA, at least until the UCCJEA is interpreted at the appellate level. Therefore, the discussion that follows should be viewed in the light of its potential application in current matters arising under the UCCJEA.

One issue addressed in the cases concerns the resolution of the location of a home state when two states both nominally meet the six-month criteria. This issue might arise in the case of a child who has been removed to another state from his or her original home state. In one case, for example, a mother left Puerto Rico, the place of marital domicile, and came to California with the children. The father commenced custody proceedings within six months of the date on which the children were removed. The mother waited for six months, and then commenced proceedings in California. But in this situation, the original home state is the appropriate jurisdiction. The rule under both the PKPA and the former UCCJA has been that if two states both have proper jurisdiction, the second in time must defer to the first [28 U.S.C. § 1738A(g); former Fam. Code § 3406(a); see In re Marriage of Zierenberg (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1436, 1442-1443, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 238 ; § 394.109], a principle also carried forward in the UCCJEA [Fam. Code § 3426(a)]. Thus, because of the six-month requirement, the filing in the original state will always be first. The original home state will have jurisdiction for six months after removal, and the subsequent home state will not have jurisdiction until those six months have passed [see In re Marriage of Zierenberg (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1436, 1442-1443, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 238] . For this reason, proof of the exact date on which a child is removed from a jurisdiction is crucial.

In another case, California properly assumed initial jurisdiction over a child custody dispute as the child's home state, even though the mother had taken the child to Pakistan when he was five months old and he was in Pakistan on the date he turned six months of age. Because the trip began as a "temporary absence," the time the child spent in Pakistan before the mother informed the father that she would not return to California was properly considered part of the child's period of residence in California [In re Marriage of Nurie (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 478, 494 n.12, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 200] .

A California court is not precluded from exercising jurisdiction due to pending custody proceedings in another state or country when this other state or country has not been the child's home state for the required six-month period [In re Marriage of Sareen (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 371, 376-377, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 687 (pertinent question is not whether other state or country has jurisdiction under its own laws for custody proceeding but whether jurisdiction substantially complies with UCCJEA)]. A parent may not take a child to another jurisdiction, file a premature custody proceeding, and then use the time the child remains in that jurisdiction pending resolution of the petition to meet the six-month home state period, either in that custody proceeding or as a defense to the other parent's competing custody proceeding in another state [In re Marriage of Sareen (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 371, 380, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 687 (to do so would condone blatant forum shopping)].

With respect to measuring six months in relation to when a proceeding "commences," one case suggested that the six-month period may be measured from the date on which a custody order is entered, rather than when the proceeding was initiated by filing [see Peery v. Superior Court (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 1085, 1093 n.2, 219 Cal. Rptr. 882 (claiming there is conflict in cases regarding whether filing date or date of determination controls for purposed deciding whether there is home-state jurisdiction)]. However, cases that were cited as in conflict on the point all addressed "significant connection/substantial evidence" jurisdiction (see [3], below). Moreover, it seems inappropriate to construe the words of the PKPA (and UCCJEA) "date of the commencement of the proceeding" [28 U.S.C. § 1738A(c)(2)(A); Fam. Code § 3421(a)(1)] or those of the former UCCJA "time of the commencement of the proceeding" [former Fam. Code § 3403(a)(1)] as referring to any point in time after the proceeding is initiated by filing [see Adoption of Zachariah K. (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1025, 1035, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 423 (subject matter jurisdiction either exists or does not exist at time action is commenced)]. Therefore, it appears that the date of filing rather than the date of when an order is entered is more appropriate for measuring purposes[see Haywood v. Superior Court (2000) 77 Cal. App 4th 949, 955, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 182 (because child was unborn when her mother initiated California action, California was not child's home state "at the commencement" of proceeding); cf. Fam. Code § 3402(e) ("commencement" defined as filing of first pleading in a proceeding)].

The nature of the claim advanced by the person asserting custody is another issue that has arisen. Under the PKPA and former UCCJA (and, presumably, the UCCJEA) a custody claim by a person acting as parent must at least be a colorable one, that is, one that is advanced in good faith on some plausible legal theory. A colorable claim may arise from a natural relationship with the child, from a legal relinquishment of custody by a parent, or through state intervention by a state agency or court. In the absence of one of these bases, there is no provision in law by which an unrelated person may unilaterally take custody of a child in derogation of the right to custody of the child's natural parent [Rogers v. Platt (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1204, 1212-1213, 245 Cal. Rptr. 532 ; see Adoption of Zachariah K. (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1025, 1037, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 423] .

Cases have also considered the meaning of the term "to live with" in the context of the six-month requirement. To "live with" a parent or person acting as a parent has been said to require a deliberate manifestation to share a common place with the person during a substantial period of the time involved [see Rogers v. Platt (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1204, 1212-1213, 245 Cal. Rptr. 532 (temporary surrender of child for adoption)]. Such a manifestation is not established if a parent gives up custody of a child temporarily with the intent of surrendering the child for adoption, even though no legal consent to adoption is ever executed [Rogers v. Platt (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1204, 1212-1213, 245 Cal. Rptr. 532] . One case suggests that the "lived with" requirement encompasses the legal concept of domicile, that is, the intent to permanently reside in a particular place, but this view is open to question as there is nothing in the language and purpose of the PKPA and UCCJA that suggests such a requirement [see Cole v. Superior Court (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 265, 272, 218 Cal. Rptr. 905 ; cf. Plas v. Superior Court (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 1008, 1016, 202 Cal. Rptr. 490 (Commissioners' Note to UCCJA states that significant connection/substantial evidence jurisdiction cannot be based on intent to establish domicile alone)]. The facts of the case [see Cole v. Superior Court (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 265, 269, 218 Cal. Rptr. 905] , involved the kind of conduct that the law was designed to prevent, that is, the unilateral removal of a child from the state of residence [see former Fam. Code § 3401(a)(5)].

[3] "Significant Connection and Substantial Evidence" Jurisdiction Distinguished

[a] Rule Stated

[i] UCCJEA and Former UCCJA Compared

Under the UCCJEA, even if California is not a child's "home state" [Fam. Code § 3421(a)(1)], California may exercise custody jurisdiction on the basis of "significant connection and substantial evidence" if a court of another state does not have home state jurisdiction, or a court of the home state of the child has declined to exercise jurisdiction on the ground that California is the more appropriate forum under the UCCJEA provisions for inconvenient forum [see Fam. Code § 3427; see also § 394.111], or declined jurisdiction based on unclean hands [see Fam. Code § 3428; see also § 394.112], and both of the following are true [Fam. Code § 3421(a)(2)]:

1. The child and the child's parents, or the child and at least one parent or a person acting as a parent, have a significant connection with California other than mere physical presence; and

2. Substantial evidence is available in California concerning the child's care, protection, training, and personal relationships.

Under the current UCCJEA, this "significant connection" jurisdiction differs from its predecessor statute, the UCCJA, in four important ways [see Fam. Code § 3421(a)(2)]. First, the UCCJEA eliminates "best interest of the child" language (see [c][i], below). Second, the UCCJEA bases jurisdiction on "significant connections" between the child, the child and one parent, or the child and a person acting as a parent. Third, the UCCJEA permits a "significant connection" state to assume jurisdiction only when there is no home state or when a home state determines that a significant connection state would be a more appropriate forum. And fourth, the UCCJEA takes into consideration "substantial evidence" relating to the child's past, as well as present and future, care [see Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 201, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 672-673 (1999)].

[ii] PKPA and UCCJEA Compared

Under the PKPA, a state court may exercise custody jurisdiction on the basis of a "significant connection and substantial evidence" only if all of the following apply [28 U.S.C. § 1738A(c)(2)(B)]:

1. The state court otherwise has jurisdiction under its own law;

2. It appears that no other state would have "home state" jurisdiction;

3. It is in the child's best interests that the state assume jurisdiction because:

a. The child and the child's parents, or the child and at least one contestant, have a significant connection with the state, other than mere physical presence in the state; and

b. There is available in the state substantial evidence concerning the child's present or future care, protection, training, and personal relationships.

The PKPA's version of "significant connection and substantial evidence" jurisdiction closely resembles that of the current UCCJEA. Like the current UCCJEA, for example, the PKPA also requires a "significant connection" to be exercised only when no other state would have "home state" jurisdiction, and be based on contacts other than mere physical presence in the state [compare 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(c)(2)(B) with Fam. Code § 3421(a)(2)].

However, the PKPA, unlike the current UCCJEA, retains a reference to a child's "best interests." Nevertheless, as discussed in [c], below, this does not appear to bedirected to an assessment of the merits of a particular custody arrangement.

In addition, the PKPA, unlike the current UCCJEA, retains language (like that of the former UCCJA) that refers to a "child's present or future care, protection," and the like, as opposed to looking not only at present and future, but also at, past care and protection--which the current UCCJEA appears to do [compare 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(c)(2)(B) with Fam. Code § 3421(a)(2)(B); former Fam. Code § 3403(a)(2)].

[b] Construction of Significant Connection and Substantial Evidence

[i] Significant Connection

Cases that have construed the PKPA and former UCCJA may prove instructive in applying the new UCCJEA, although the UCCJEA now more closely follows the PKPA in a number of areas. One of these concerns the effect of physical presence in a state. Both the PKPA and UCCJEA recite that "mere physical presence" does not establish a "significant connection." This principle is consistent with a case holding that the mere act of a parent in bringing a child to California in violation of a foreign custody decree does not establish a significant connection, especially because the law (here, the former UCCJA) was designed to prevent the violation of foreign custody decrees [Neal v. Superior Court (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 847, 850, 148 Cal. Rptr. 841] .

The first case in California to consider the existence of significant connections found them in a child's family ties [Smith v. Superior Court (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 457, 464, 137 Cal. Rptr. 348 (child's home state was Oregon, but California had significant connections based on presence of numerous relatives; decided before enactment of PKPA, and exemplifying problems with UCCJA that led to PKPA); cf. Guardianship of Donaldson (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 477, 491, 223 Cal. Rptr. 707 (illustrating that even after PKPA was enacted, California courts did not immediately grasp its significance; thus, California court recognized Illinois' right to assume significant connection/substantial evidence jurisdiction under UCCJA, even though California was child's home state; court did not even mention existence of PKPA)].

Another appellate court found a significant connection between the child and the state, because of the amount of time the child spent in California [Peery v. Superior Court (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 1085, 1093, 219 Cal. Rptr. 882 (also finding "home state" jurisdiction)]. Similary, when a child was born in California and had only lived in that state, she had a "significant connection" with California, even though she was not yet born when the custody proceeding was initially filed [Haywood v. Superior Court (2000) 77 Cal. App 4th 949, 956, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 182] .

By contrast, a California trial court was found to lack "significant connection" jurisdiction when children who had lived in California for approximately four years had lived in another state for over three years [In re Marriage of Newsome (1998) 68 Cal.App. 4th 949, 959, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 555] . Thus, while it is difficult to discern "bright line" rules from these cases, it appears that the courts will look at not only the amount of time a child has spent in a particular state, but also at the nature of the contacts the child has had with other family members and in becoming established in that state.

[ii] Substantial Evidence

Under the UCCJEA and PKPA, there must be available in a state that assumes "significant connection/substantial evidence" jurisdiction substantial evidence concerning the child's care, protection, training, and personal relationships in that state [28 U.S.C. § 1738A(c)(2)(B); Fam. Code § 3421(a)(2)]. Relevant evidence might include school records and teachers, medical evidence and reports of doctors, probation reports and other court records from prior disputes [In re S.W. (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 1501, 1510-1511, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 665 (substantial evidence concerning children's care, protection, training, and personal relationships shown)]. The interest of the child is served if the forum has optimum access to relevant evidence about the child and family. This jurisdictional ground requires maximum rather than minimum contact with the state [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJA § 3, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 145 (1988); see Guardianship of Donaldson (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 477, 490, 223 Cal. Rptr. 707] .

Determination of the availability of substantial evidence within the state depends on the particular issues that are in dispute. For example, if the key issue in controversy is the fitness of the noncustodial parent to exercise visitation rights, substantial evidence on this issue may be more readily available in the state in which the noncustodial parent resides [Allison v. Superior Court (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 993, 999, 160 Cal. Rptr. 309 , criticized on other grounds in Kumar v. Superior Court (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 689, 699 n.12, 186 Cal. Rptr. 772, 652 P.2d 1003] .

[iii] Related Timing Issues

Courts have considered at least two timing issues that pertain to the exercise of "significant connection and substantial evidence" jurisdiction. The first issue pertains to the timing of the exercise of jurisdiction as between two states that have concurrent jurisdiction on the basis of significant connections and substantial evidence [see Adoption of Zachariah K. (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1025, 1037, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 423] . In such a case, it has been held that the PKPA requires deference to the first state to exercise its jurisdiction on this basis [see 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(g); Adoption of Zachariah K. (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1025, 1037, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 423 ; see also former Fam. Code § 3406(a) (similar provision under former UCCJA)]. For further discussion, see § 394.109.

A separate issue has concerned whether "significant connections and substantial evidence" are to be determined as of the time of commencement of the proceeding or as of the hearing on the issue. The better rule seems clearly to be that subject matter jurisdiction either exists or does not exist at the time the action is commenced. Otherwise an absconding parent is encouraged to purposely delay a custody determination in order to gain time to establish significant contact with the state [see Adoption of Zachariah K. (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1025, 1035, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 423 ; Plas v. Superior Court (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 1008, 1015 n.5, 202 Cal. Rptr. 490 ; but see In re Marriage of Hopson (1980) 110 Cal. App. 3d 884, 894-895, 168 Cal. Rptr. 345] .

[c] Use of "Best Interests of Child" Standard in Exercising Jurisdiction

[i] No "Best Interests" Language in UCCJEA

California's UCCJEA [Fam. Code § 3400 et seq.] governs jurisdiction over child custody and visitation orders, not substantive issues relating to custody and visitation awards. Therefore, the UCCJEA does not make use of the phrase "best interests of the child" [Commissioner's Prefatory Note to UCCJEA, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 652 (1999); In re Marriage of Nurie (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 478, 491, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 200] .

[ii] Former UCCJA Compared to UCCJEA

The UCCJEA's predecessor, the former UCCJA [see former Fam. Code § 3400 et seq], precluded the exercise of jurisdiction based on "significant connection and substantial evidence" unless it was in a child's best interests [see former Fam. Code § 3403(a)]. However, according to the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, although the UCCJA was designed to promote the best interests of children, the "best interest" language in the UCCJA's jurisdictional provisions was never intended to invite courts to address the merits of custody disputes when making jurisdictional determinations, to allow "best interests" considerations to override jurisdictional determinations, or to provide an additional basis for jurisdiction under the UCCJA [Commissioner's Prefatory Note to UCCJEA, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 652 (1999)]. Therefore, the term "best interests" was intentionally eliminated from the UCCJEA, to clearly distinguish between jurisdictional and substantive standards relating to custody and visitation [Commissioner's Prefatory Note to UCCJEA, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 652 (1999)].

[iii] PKPA Compared to UCCJEA

The PKPA, unlike the UCCJEA, still provides that a state court cannot assume jurisdiction based on "significant connection and substantial evidence" unless it is in the best interests of the child to do so. But this language is not directed to the merits of the underlying dispute over who should have custody, but to the propriety of the court hearing the custody matter because specified criteria either have or have not been met [see 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(c)(2)(B)].

[4] Temporary Emergency Jurisdiction

Under the UCCJEA, a California court has temporary emergency jurisdiction if a child is present in California and the child has been abandoned or it is necessary in an emergency to protect the child because the child, or a sibling or parent of the child, is subjected to or threatened with mistreatment or abuse [see Fam. Code § 3424(a); In re C. T. (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 101, 107, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 897] . Generally, a temporary emergency order issued by a California court remains in effect only until another state court that has home state or exclusive, continuing jurisdiction to make or modify a custody determination for the child is able to enter a custody order [see Fam. Code § 3424(b)]. However, in some cases, if California later becomes the child's home state, a temporary emergency order issued by a California court will become a permanent child custody determination [see Fam. Code § 3424(b)].

If simultaneous proceedings for a child custody determination and a temporary emergency child custody order are commenced in California and another state, then the two state courts must communicate to determine how best to resolve the emergency situation [see Fam. Code § 3424(d)].

The PKPA also provides for jurisdiction to make a custody determination if a child is physically present in a state and either has been abandoned or it is necessary in an emergency to protect the child because of actual or threatened mistreatment or abuse [see 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(c)(2)(C)]. For further discussion of temporary emergency jurisdiction under the UCCJEA and PKPA, see § 394.108.

[5] California Is More Appropriate Forum Because of Inconvenient Forum or Unjustified Conduct

The UCCJEA provides for jurisdiction in California if all the states that otherwise would have "home state" or "significant connection" jurisdiction decline to exercise jurisdiction because California is a more appropriate forum under Fam. Code § 3427 (inconvenient forum, as discussed in § 394.111), or under Fam. Code § 3428 (unjustifiable conduct, as discussed in § 394.112) [Fam. Code § 3421(a)(3); see Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 201, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 673 (1999)].

Similarly, under the PKPA, a state may exercise jurisdiction if (1) it has jurisdiction under its own laws, (2) another state has declined to exercise jurisdiction on the ground that the state whose jurisdiction is in issue is the more appropriate forum to determine custody or visitation, and (3) it is in the child's best interest that the court assume jurisdiction [28 U.S.C. § 1738A(c)(2)(D)].

[6] Jurisdiction in No Other State

[a] Rule Stated

[i] UCCJEA

Under the UCCJEA, California may exercise initial custody jurisdiction if no court of any other state would have jurisdiction under the "home state," "significant connection and substantial evidence," or "more appropriate forum" grounds set forth in Fam. Code § 3421(a) [Fam. Code § 3421(a)(4)].

Unlike the PKPA and former UCCJA, however, the UCCJEA no longer makes reference to "best interest of the child." For a related discussion of the elimination of this phrase, see [3][c], above.

[ii] PKPA

Under the PKPA, a state may exercise jurisdiction if (1) it has jurisdiction under its own laws, (2) it appears that no other state would have jurisdiction under the "home state," "significant connection and substantial evidence," or "more appropriate forum" grounds set forth in Title 28 United States Code Section 1738A(c)(2), and (3) it is in the child's best interest that the court assume jurisdiction [28 U.S.C. § 1738A(c)(2)(D)].

[b] Former UCCJA Compared

Under the former UCCJA, a state could assume custody jurisdiction if it was in the best interest of the child that the court do so, and if one of the following conditions existed [Former Fam. Code § 3403(a)(4)]:

1. It appeared that no other state would have jurisdiction under prerequisites substantially in accordance with the other (UCCJA) grounds for jurisdiction; or

2. Another state had declined to exercise jurisdiction on the ground that the state now requested to take jurisdiction was the more appropriate forum to determine the custody of the child.

The Commissioner's Comment explained that this ground for jurisdiction, which was subsidiary in nature, was to be resorted to only if no other state could or would assume jurisdiction under the other criteria of the UCCJA

[Commissioner's Comment to UCCJA § 3, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 145 (1988); see In re Marriage of Fox (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 862, 873, 225 Cal. Rptr. 823] .

Unlike the current UCCJEA or PKPA, California's former UCCJA provided that under this jurisdictional basis, California could assume jurisdiction based solely on the physical presence in California of the child, or of the child and a contestant [Former Fam. Code § 3403(b)].

[7] Effect of Stipulation or Acquiescence to Jurisdiction

Neither the UCCJEA nor the PKPA, or the former UCCJA, address the issue of whether a court may exercise custody jurisdiction on the basis of parties entering into a stipulation, or by one or both parties merely acquiescing to the court's assumption of jurisdiction in a particular matter. Strictly speaking, it would appear that parties may not, as such, through their action (by stipulation) or inaction (by acquiescence), confer custody jurisdiction on a court where it otherwise does not exist under the UCCJEA or PKPA, given that these statutes are the expression of a strong policy of creating a framework for the consistent exercise of jurisdiction on a national scale. In support of this view has been the general rule under the former UCCJA, namely, that subject matter jurisdiction may not be conferred simply by the consent of the parties [see In re Marriage of Nurie (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 478, 487, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 200 ; In re Jaheim B. (2009) 169 Cal. App. 4th 1343, 1348, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 504 ; Adoption of Zachariah K. (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1025, 1035, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 423 ; In re Marriage of Arnold & Cully (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 499, 504, 271 Cal. Rptr. 624 ; In re Marriage of Hopson (1980) 110 Cal. App. 3d 884, 891-892, 168 Cal. Rptr. 345 ; In re Marriage of Ben-Yehoshua (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 259, 263, 154 Cal. Rptr. 80] .

However, courts have not always strictly applied this rule in child custody cases. It has been held that normal principles of res judicata apply to the determination of subject matter jurisdiction under the former UCCJA [Souza v. Superior Court (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 1304, 1311, 238 Cal. Rptr. 892] . If a party had notice and the opportunity to be heard and either participated in the proceeding or consented to the decree, there should be no right to attack the jurisdiction of the decree state in another state [Peery v. Superior Court (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 1085, 1093-1097, 219 Cal. Rptr. 882 (parent was validly served and allowed default to be entered in California without raising issue of subject matter jurisdiction under UCCJA); see In re Marriage of Torres (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 1367, 1380, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 344 ; see § 394.114[1]]. Another appellate court enforced a noncustodial parent's stipulation to California modification jurisdiction, viewing the stipulation not as conferring jurisdiction, but as removing the decree state's last significant contact with the case (the noncustodial parent's continuing residence there) [Daves v. Daves (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 97, 107-108, 218 Cal. Rptr. 879 ; see § 394.110]. It was perhaps significant that the courts of the decree state had held the stipulation to be valid and thereafter declined to exercise further jurisdiction.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody Proceedings
2. Interstate and International Jurisdictional Conflicts

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.108

§ 394.108 Temporary Emergency Jurisdiction

[1] Under UCCJEA

[a] Nature of Emergency

[i] Overview of Rule

A California court has temporary emergency jurisdiction if a child is present in California and has been abandoned, or it is necessary in an emergency to protect the child because the child, or a sibling or parent of the child, is subjected to or threatened with mistreatment or abuse [Fam. Code § 3424(a); In re Jaheim B. (2009) 169 Cal. App. 4th 1343, 1349, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 504 ; In re Marriage of Paillier (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 461, 470, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 459 ; In re C. T. (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 101, 107, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 897] . A California court may take temporary emergency jurisdiction to protect a child even though California can claim neither "home state" nor "significant connection and substantial evidence" jurisdiction [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 204, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 677 (1999); see In re Jaheim B. (2009) 169 Cal. App. 4th 1343, 1350-1351, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 504 (juvenile court had emergency jurisdiction because child was present in California when neglect occurred and court's action was necessary to protect child from immediate harm, even though child did not have home state under UCCJEA); § 394.107[1]]. Furthermore, a California court's duty to enforce and not modify a child custody determination of another state is subordinate to the need to enter a temporary emergency order to protect a child [see Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 204, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 677 (1999)].

A custody determination made under the emergency jurisdiction provisions of the UCCJEA is normally only a temporary order, because the purpose of the order is only to protect the child until a state with UCCJEA jurisdiction (on a nonemergency basis) can make a custody determination [In re Marriage of Paillier (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 461, 470, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 459 ; Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 204, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 677 (1999)]. However, a juvenile court in a dependency proceeding may continue to exercise its emergency jurisdiction as long as the reasons underlying the dependency exist [In re Jaheim B. (2009) 169 Cal. App. 4th 1343, 1349-1350, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 504 (emergency jurisdiction can properly continue beyond detention hearing when risk of harm creating emergency is ongoing)].

Under the UCCJEA, a California court may not assume temporary emergency jurisdiction on the basis of "neglect." Instead, emergency jurisdiction requires "mistreatment or abuse" [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 204, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 678 (1999)].

Generally, an emergency protective order that contains a child custody determination is enforceable in other states if it complies with the UCCJEA and the PKPA [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 204, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 678 (1999)]. However, an order issued after the assumption of temporary emergency jurisdiction is entitled to interstate enforcement and modification only if there has been notice and a reasonable opportunity to be heard, in accordance with the noticeprovisions [see Fam. Code § 3425; In re C. T. (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 101, 107-109, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 897] of the UCCJEA [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 204, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 678 (1999)].

[ii] Construction Under Case Law

California cases that have interpreted provisions for emergency jurisdiction have construed the PKPA and California's former UCCJA. Although California's current UCCJEA is worded somewhat differently than its predecessor and now includes references to a child's siblings with respect to the need for protection from mistreatment or abuse, these cases may offer insight in construing the current statutes [compare Fam. Code § 3424(a) with former Fam. Code § 3403(a)(3)].

With respect to defining the circumstances of an "emergency" that justifies a court's exercise of jurisdiction, both the current UCCJEA and former UCCJA make reference not only to a child's actual or threatened mistreatment or abuse, but also to that of a child's parent. And the current UCCJEA extends this to a child's sibling. The PKPA, by contrast, refers only to the child [compare Fam. Code § 3424(a) with 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(c)(2)(C); former Fam. Code § 3403(a)(3)]. This variance, however, would not seem to be in conflict with the PKPA. Because the ground extends to children who are threatened with mistreatment or abuse, it would seem consistent to provide that a home in which domestic violence is directed against a parent or sibling also places the child at risk [see Cole v. Superior Court (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 265, 271, 218 Cal. Rptr. 905 (allegations of violence directed at parent and stepsibling would support finding that child is in danger)]. Thus, these additions in the UCCJEA should not be federally preempted [cf. People v. Superior Court (Smolin) (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 758, 770, 225 Cal. Rptr. 438, 716 P.2d 991 , rev'd on other grounds, California v. Superior Court of California (1987) 482 U.S. 400, 107 S. Ct. 2433, 96 L. Ed. 2d 332] .

Invocation of emergency jurisdiction is reserved for extraordinary circumstances [see In re Marriage of Paillier (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 461, 470-473, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 459 (inappropriate exercise of court's temporary emergency jurisdiction)]. The emergency provision retains and reaffirms parens patriae jurisdiction, usually exercised by a juvenile court, which a state must assume if a child requires immediate protection. This jurisdiction exists if a child has been abandoned, or in emergency cases of child neglect. If there is child neglect without emergency or abandonment, jurisdiction on this basis does not exist [In re Joseph D. (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 678, 688, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 574 ; see Hafer v. Superior Court (1981) 126 Cal. App. 3d 856, 864-865, 179 Cal. Rptr. 132 ; In re Marriage of Schwander (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 1013, 1020-1021, 145 Cal. Rptr. 325 ; see also Commissioner's Comment to UCCJA § 3, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 145 (1988)]. However, if the potential for immediate harm is presented, emergency jurisdiction will lie. If the validity of allegations related to abandonment or neglect is uncertain, the very possibility that the allegations may be true is sufficient for a court to assume emergency jurisdiction [In re Joseph D. (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 678, 688, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 574] .

One court has held that California may take emergency jurisdiction and enter an interim custody order on the basis of allegations of a threatened abduction. Such an allegation was characterized as a threatened mistreatment of the child, creating emergency jurisdiction under the PKPA and (now former) UCCJA [People v. Beach (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 955, 970, 240 Cal. Rptr. 50] .

[b] Duration of Order

[i] Current Rules

[A] No Prior Custody Case Commenced or Determination Made

If there is no previous child custody determination that is enforceable under the UCCJEA and a child custody proceeding has not been commenced in a court of a state having UCCJEA jurisdiction under Fam. Code §§ 3421-3423, inclusive (regarding initial, exclusive and continuing, and modification jurisdiction), then a California custody determination made under the UCCJEA provisions for temporary emergency jurisdiction [see Fam. Code § 3424] remains in effect until an order is obtained from a court of a state that does have UCCJEA jurisdiction under Fam. Code §§ 3421-3423, inclusive [Fam. Code § 3424(b)].

However, a temporary emergency order issued by a California court becomes a final custody determination if (1) the order so provides, (2) California becomes the child's home state, and (3) a child custody proceeding has not been or is not commenced in a court of a state having UCCJEA jurisdiction under Fam. Code §§ 3421-3423, inclusive [Fam. Code § 3424(b)].

[B] When Prior Custody Case Has Been Commenced or Determination Made

If there is a previous child-custody determination that is enforceable under the UCCJEA, or a child custody proceeding has been commenced in a court of a state with UCCJEA jurisdiction under Fam. Code §§ 3421-3423, inclusive (regarding initial, exclusive and continuing, and modification jurisdiction), any California court order issued on the basis of UCCJEA temporary emergency jurisdiction must specify an adequate time period within which the moving party may obtain an order from that other state's court (that has UCCJEA jurisdiction under Fam. Code §§ 3421-3423, inclusive) [Fam. Code § 3424(c); In re Marriage of Paillier (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 461, 473, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 459 ; In re C. T. (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 101, 109-110, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 897] . The California order issued in California remains in effect until an order is obtained from the other state within the period specified, or the period expires [Fam. Code § 3424(c)].

The other state court might choose to decline jurisdiction on the basis that California is a more convenient forum if it concludes that California is in a better position to address the safety of the person who obtained the temporary emergency order or the safety of the child [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 204, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 678 (1999); see Fam. Code § 3427].

For discussion of the duty of a California court with UCCJEA jurisdiction to communicate with another state's court to determine the duration of an emergency order issued by that court, see [c], below.

[ii] Construction Under Case Law

The current UCCJEA sets forth detailed criteria by which to determine the duration of a temporary emergency custody order [Fam. Code § 3424(b), (c); see [i], above]. Case law that construes the former UCCJA may offer insight in construing the current statutes [compare Fam. Code § 3424(b), (c) with former Fam. Code § 3403(a)(3)].

For example, it has been held that an interim (that is, temporary) custody order is valid and enforceable even if the court subsequently determines that it does not have or should not further exercise jurisdiction [see People v. Beach (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 955, 970, 240 Cal. Rptr. 50] .

In addition, consistent with both the current UCCJEA and former UCCJA, courts have held that if if another state has proper jurisdiction under the UCCJA, emergency jurisdiction is a short-term, limited jurisdiction. It does not encompass jurisdiction to make permanent custody determinations, or to modify a custody decree of a court with continuing jurisdiction [In re Marriage of Paillier (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 461, 473, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 459 ; In re Joseph D. (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 678, 690-693, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 574 ; see In re Stephanie M. (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 295, 310 n.5, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 595, 867 P.2d 706] . The court may make temporary orders only for such time as is necessary to allow a party to initiate appropriate proceedings in the state with regular jurisdiction under the UCCJA (or now, under the UCCJEA). It must communicate with the court with continuing jurisdiction, and defer to that court until such time as it declines to exercise its jurisdiction [In re Joseph D. (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 678, 690-694, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 574 (while juvenile court could hold hearing to determine if emergency existed and issue temporary orders, it could not conduct dispositional hearing and exercise ongoing dependency jurisdiction over child who was subject to valid jurisdiction of another state); cf. Fam. Code § 3424].

Under the former UCCJA, as under the current UCCJEA [see Fam. Code § 3424(b), (c)] if there is no such other state with proper jurisdiction, a court exercising emergency jurisdiction may make all such orders and dispositions as are proper under its own jurisdiction [In re Stephanie M. (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 295, 310 n.5, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 595, 867 P.2d 706] .

[c] Court's Duty to Communicate With Other Court

A California court that has been asked to exercise temporary emergency jurisdiction, on being informed that a child custody proceeding has been commenced in, or a child custody determination has been made by, a court of a state having UCCJEA jurisdiction under Fam. Code §§ 3421-3423, inclusive (regarding initial, exclusive and continuing, and modification jurisdiction), must immediately communicate with the other court [Fam. Code § 3424(d); see § 394.114[8] (communication between courts); In re C. T. (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 101, 110-111, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 897] .

Similarly, if a California court is exercising jurisdiction pursuant to Fam. Code §§ 3421-3423, inclusive, on being informed that a custody proceeding has been commenced in, or a child custody determination has been made by, a court of another state under a statute similar to the California statute for temporary emergency jurisdiction, it must immediately communicate with the court of the other state to (1) resolve the emergency, (2) protect the safety of the parties and the child, and (3) determine a period for the duration of the temporary order [Fam. Code § 3424(d); see Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 204, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 678 (1999); § 394.114[8] (communication between courts)].

[d] Party's Duty to Advise Court of Other Proceedings

The general pleading rules for UCCJEA jurisdiction [see Fam. Code § 3429] apply to proceedings for temporary emergency child custody orders, and must be strictly followed. Therefore, a person seeking a temporary emergency custody order must inform a California court of any other child custody proceedings that concern the child [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 204, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 678 (1999)].

[e] Special Domestic Violence Considerations

California's version of the UCCJEA contains a special provision with respect to temporary emergency jurisdiction that is not taken from the model UCCJEA [see UCCJEA § 204, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 676-677 (1999)]. This provision states [Fam. Code § 3424(e)]: "It is the intent of the Legislature in enacting [Fam. Code § 3424(a)] that the grounds on which a court may exercise temporary emergency jurisdiction be expanded. It is further the intent of the Legislature that these grounds include those that existed under [former Fam. Code] § 3403 as that section read on December 31, 1999, particularly including cases involving domestic violence."

Former Fam. Code § 3403, a part of California's now-repealed UCCJA [see former Fam. Code § 3400 et seq.], contained the UCCJA's jurisdictional requirements, and authorized four concurrent bases of jurisdiction ("home state," "significant connections and substantial evidence," "emergency protection of the child," and "jurisdiction in no other state") that also mentioned consideration of "the best interest of the child." Former Fam. Code § 3403(a)(3), which dealt directly with emergency jurisdiction, and which is the only provision of that section that mentions cases involving domestic violence, authorized jurisdiction when "[t]he child is physically present in this state and (A) the child has been abandoned or (B) it is necessary in an emergency to protect the child because the child has been subjected to or threatened with mistreatment or abuse or is otherwise neglected or dependent. For the purposes of this subdivision, 'subjected to or threatened with mistreatment or abuse' includes a child who has a parent who is a victim of domestic violence, as defined in [Fam. Code] § 6211."

The Legislature's intentions as expressed in Fam. Code § 3424(e) regarding "expanded grounds for exercise of temporary emergency jurisdiction"under the UCCJEA are presently unclear and remain subject to further judicial or legislative clarification. One possible interpretation is that the courts are authorized to assume temporary emergency jurisdiction on any of the four jurisdictional grounds permitted by the former UCCJA when a case involves domestic violence and a child's safety and well-being is of paramount importance, but other narrower interpretations are also possible.

[2] Under PKPA

Under the PKPA, a court may make a child custody or visitation determination if (1) the court has jurisdiction under its own laws, and (2) the child is physically present in the state and either (a) has been abandoned, or (b) it is necessary in an emergency to protect the child because the child has been subjected to or threatened with mistreatment or abuse [28 U.S.C. § 1738A(c)(1),(2)(C)].

In interpreting this provision, the Commissioners have commented, that under the PKPA, a temporary emergency child custody order that is based on neglect alone, without a finding of mistreatment or abuse, is not entitled to federal enforcement in other states [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 204, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 678 (1999)].

Like the UCCJEA, the PKPA does not subjugate emergency jurisdiction to "home state" jurisdiction [see 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(c)(2)(C); Fam. Code § 3424]. Thus, for example, in making an initial decree, there is no conflict between the PKPA and UCCJEA (or the former UCCJA) with regard to emergency jurisdiction.

Unlike the UCCJEA--which defines an "emergency" not only in terms of a child's abandonment or need for protection from actual or threatened mistreatment or abuse, but also in terms of a sibling's or parent's need for such protection--the PKPA speaks only in terms of the child [see 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(c)(2)(C); Fam. Code § 3424(a)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody Proceedings
2. Interstate and International Jurisdictional Conflicts

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.109

§ 394.109 Simultaneous Proceedings in Other States

[1] Under UCCJEA

[a] Overview of Rule

[i] Rule Stated and Implications

Except as otherwise required with respect to temporary emergency jurisdiction under the UCCJEA (see § 394.108), a California court may not exercise jurisdiction under the UCCJEA if, at the time of the commencement of the proceeding, a proceeding concerning the custody of the child has been commenced in a court of another state having jurisdiction substantially in conformity with the UCCJEA [see Fam. Code § 3400 et seq.], unless the proceeding has been terminated or is stayed by the court of the other state because a California court is a more convenient forum under the inconvenient forum provisions of the UCCJEA [Fam. Code § 3426(a); see Fam. Code § 3427].

Under the UCCJEA, simultaneous proceedings are not a significant issue, because if there is another home state, a California court cannot exercise "significant connection and substantial evidence" jurisdiction in order to make an initial child custody determination [see Fam. Code § 3421; see also § 394.107], and if there is another state with exclusive and continuing jurisdiction [see Fam. Code § 3422], a California court cannot exercise concurrent jurisdiction [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 206, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 681 (1999)]. However, in a case in which no home state exists, no state has exclusive and continuing jurisdiction, and California and another state both have "significant connection and substantial evidence' jurisdiction, then a California court must not assume jurisdiction if a child custody proceeding has already been commenced in another state [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 206, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 681 (1999). In this situation, the UCCJEA retains the "first in time" rule of its predecessor statute, the UCCJA (see Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 206, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 681 (1999); former Fam. Code § 3406(a))].

[ii] Construction Under Case Law

Cases have considered the effect of pending or simultaneous proceedings between states, primarily in the context of the former UCCJA. These cases may provide insight in understanding the current UCCJEA.

Courts have held that if jurisdiction is proper in two states, the second in time must defer to the first as long as the first is properly exercising its jurisdiction [In re Marriage of Torres (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 1367, 1375, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 344 ; see In re Marriage of Zierenberg (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1436, 1442, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 238] .

Once a pending proceeding results in a custody order, the proceeding is no longer "pending" for purposes of first-in-time deference [see In re Marriage of Steiner (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 363, 370, 152 Cal. Rptr. 612 , criticized, other grounds, in Kumar v. Superior Court (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 689, 699 n.12, 186 Cal. Rptr. 772, 652 P.2d 1003] . At that point, the question becomes whether the decree state has continuing jurisdiction as of the time when another state is asked to assume jurisdiction over the matter [see In re Marriage of Zierenberg (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1436, 1443, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 238 ; see also Kumar v. Superior Court (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 689, 699, 186 Cal. Rptr. 772, 652 P.2d 1003] . Similarly, a proceeding is not pending if it has abated because of the death of a parent who is a party [see In re Janette H. (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1421, 1429-1430, 242 Cal. Rptr. 567 (death of party to California dissolution of marriage proceeding abated that proceeding)].

[b] Court's Duty to Inquire About Other State's Proceedings and Take Appropriate Action

[i] In General

[A] Need to Examine Court Documents and Other Information From Parties

Except as otherwise required with respect to temporary emergency jurisdiction under the UCCJEA (see § 394.108), a California court, before hearing a child custody proceeding, must examine the court documents and other information supplied by the parties pursuant to their UCCJEA declarations [Fam. Code § 3426(b); see Fam. Code § 3429]. If the court determines that a child custody proceeding has been commenced in a court in another state having jurisdiction substantially in accordance with the UCCJEA, the California court must stay its proceeding and communicate with the court of the other state [Fam. Code § 3426(b); see Fam. Code § 3410; § 394.114[8] (communication between courts)]. If that other court does not determine that the California court is a more appropriate forum, the California court must dismiss its proceeding [Fam. Code § 3426(b)].

[B] Construction of Court's Communication Duty

Cases have construed a court's duty to communicate with another court on determining that other proceedings are pending, primarily in the context of the former UCCJA. However, this case law may offer insight concerning the requirements of current law.

Courts have held that communication and consultation with another state in which proceedings are pending is not discretionary; it is mandatory [In re Joseph D. (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 678, 693, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 574.] . This duty comports with the purpose of the (now former) UCCJA and UCCJEA to promote cooperation with the courts of other states to the end that a custody decree is rendered in the state that can best decide the case in the interests of the child [In re Aisha B. (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 1030, 1034, 254 Cal. Rptr. 116 ; Guardianship of Donaldson (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 477, 491, 223 Cal. Rptr. 707 ; see Fam. Code § 3426(b); former Fam. Code § 3401(a)(2)].

[ii] Rule in Modification Cases

In a proceeding to modify a child custody determination, a California court must determine whether a proceeding to enforce the determination has been commenced in another state. If a proceeding to enforce a child custody determination has been commenced in another state, the court may do any of the following [Fam. Code § 3426(c)]:

1. Stay the proceeding for modification pending the entry of an order of a court of the other state enforcing, staying, denying, or dismissing the proceeding for enforcement.

2. Enjoin the parties from continuing with the proceeding for enforcement.

3. Proceed with the modification under conditions it considers appropriate.

[iii] Rule When Both Modification and Enforcement Sought

If simultaneous proceedings are commenced for modification and enforcement of a child custody determination, then a California court with exclusive, continuing jurisdiction to modify a California custody determination may stay the modification proceeding, enjoin the parties from continuing with the enforcement proceeding in the other state, or proceed with modification of the determination under whatever conditions it considers appropriate [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 206, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 681 (1999)].

Note that, although the PKPA [28 U.S.C. § 1738A] requires a court of another state to enforce a custody determination made consistently with the PKPA, the enforcement duty is subject to modification of the custody determination by a state with power to modify under the PKPA. Therefore, this provision of the UCCJEA is consistent with the PKPA [see Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 206, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 681 (1999)]. For further discussion of modification jurisdiction, see § 394.110. For further discussion of enforcement procedures, see Ch. 260, Family Law Enforcement: Foreign Judgments .

[2] Under PKPA

Under the PKPA, a court must not exercise jurisdiction in any proceeding for a custody or visitation determination that is commenced during the pendency of another state's proceeding, if the court of that other state is exercising jurisdiction consistently with the provisions of the PKPA to make a custody determination [28 U.S.C. § 1738A(g)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody Proceedings
2. Interstate and International Jurisdictional Conflicts

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.110

§ 394.110 Jurisdiction to Modify Prior Custody Decree

[1] Bases for Modification Jurisdiction in California

[a] Modification of Prior California Decree

[i] When California Has Exclusive, Continuing Jurisdiction

A court that has continuing subject matter jurisdiction over a child custody proceeding retains the power to issue further orders in that proceeding, including orders to modify custody or visitation. As discussed hereafter, the UCCJEA and PKPA set forth specific criteria by which to determine whether a court has continuing jurisdiction.

Under the UCCJEA, except with respect to the exercise of temporary emergency jurisdiction [see Fam. Code § 3424], a California court that has made a custody determination consistent with the UCCJEA provisions for initial or modification proceedings [see Fam. Code §§ 3421, 3423], retains exclusive, continuing jurisdiction to modify that determination [Fam. Code § 3422(a)].

However, California's exclusive, continuing jurisdiction will end if either of the following occurs [Fam. Code § 3422(a)]:

1. A California court determines that neither the child, nor the child and one parent, nor the child and a person acting as a parent have a significant connection with California and that substantial evidence is no longer available in California concerning the child's care, protection, training, and personal relationships [compare Fam. Code § 3422(a) with UCCJEA § 202, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 673 (1999) (model UCCJEA, which provides that jurisdiction will continue until court "determines that neither the child, the child's parents, and any person acting as a parent do not have a significant connection with [California]")]; or

2. A California court or a court of another state determines that the child, the child's parents, and any person acting as a parent do not presently reside in California.

The language in subparagraph (2) is intended to have the same meaning as similar language in the PKPA and the Uniform Interstate Family Support Act [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 202, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 674 (1999); see Ch. 260, Family Law Enforcement: Foreign Judgments (UIFSA)].

With respect to the "significant connection" aspect in subparagraph (1), a California court retains its exclusive, continuing jurisdiction over a custody determination for as long as the child, the child and a parent, or the child and a person acting as a parent continue to have a significant connection with California and there is substantial evidence in California regarding the child [see In re Marriage of Nurie (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 478, 512, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 200 (statute unambiguously gives decree state sole power to decide whether jurisdiction has been lost on this basis); see also § 394.107[3]]. Even if the child acquires a new home state, California's jurisdiction continues, and only the California court may decide whether the relationship between the child and a parent or person remaining in California has become so attenuated that significant connections and substantial evidence no longer support jurisdiction [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 202, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 674 (1999); In re Marriage of Nurie (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 478, 512, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 200 (relevant inquiry is not which jurisdiction has most evidence or most significant connection to child, but whether California has so thoroughly lost connection that exercise of its jurisdiction would be unreasonable)]. According to a Commissioner's comment, under the UCCJEA, a person seeking to modify a custody determination must obtain an order from the original decree state to the effect that it no longer has jurisdiction, if any of the parties still reside in the original decree state [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 202, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 674 (1999)].

With respect to the residency aspect, California loses its jurisdiction if the child, the parents, and all persons acting as parents physically leave California in order to live elsewhere [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 202, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 674 (1999)]. In the UCCJEA, the phrase "do not presently reside" is not used in the sense of technical domicile. Thus, any state court can make the determination that another state court has lost jurisdiction because none of the parties are still living in the other state [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 202, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 674-675 (1999); see In re Marriage of Nurie (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 478, 511, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 200 (party may have more than one residence, and decree state retains jurisdiction until party abandons all residential ties with that state; judicial determination that all parties no longer reside in decree state is required to divest that state of continuing exclusive jurisdiction)].

Jurisdiction attaches when a proceeding commences. Thus, if all parties move out of California after a modification or other proceeding is commenced, but before the proceeding is concluded, then California will retain jurisdiction, unless the California court decides that another state court would be a more convenient forum [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 202, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 675 (1999); see Fam. Code § 3427].

Once a California court loses jurisdiction, the California court cannot modify its own child custody determination unless it has jurisdiction under the standards for initial jurisdiction (see [ii], below). Also, the California court cannot modify the custody determinations of another state court that has acquired exclusive, continuing jurisdiction [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 202, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 675 (1999)]. If all the parties leave California, jurisdiction is not reestablished merely by the return of the noncustodial parent, or by the fact that California again becomes the child's home state [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 202, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 675 (1999)].

By providing specific rules for continuing jurisdiction [Fam. Code § 3422], the UCCJEA addresses and seeks to eliminate the confusion that existed under its predecessor statute, the UCCJA [Former Fam. Code § 3400 et seq], after the enactment of the PKPA. The PKPA requires that states give full faith and credit to custody determinations made by an original decree state pursuant to the decree state's continuing jurisdiction, so long as the decree state has jurisdiction under its own law and remains the residence of the child or any contestant [see Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 202, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 674 (1999); 28 U.S.C. § 1738(d)]. The UCCJEA actually narrows the PKPA's continuing jurisdiction provisions by eliminating continuing jurisdiction when a "contestant" remains in the original decree state. Thus, under the UCCJEA, if only a grandparent or other third party claiming a right to visitation remains in the original decree state, then there will be no continuing jurisdiction [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 202, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 675 (1999)].

[ii] When California Lacks Exclusive, Continuing Jurisdiction

A California court that has made a child custody determination and does not have exclusive, continuing jurisdiction under the UCCJEA [see Fam. Code § 3422 (discussed in [i], above)] may modify that determination onlyif the court has jurisdiction under the UCCJEA to make an initial custody determination [Fam. Code § 3422(b); see Fam. Code § 3421]. For discussion of grounds for making an initial custody determination, see § 394.107.

For discussion of a California court's ability to issue a temporary order enforcing visitation provisions of another state's custody decree, despite the California court's absence of modification jurisdiction [see Fam. Code § 3444], see Ch. 260, Family Law Enforcement: Foreign Judgments .

[iii] Former UCCJA Compared

The former UCCJA lacked express provisions concerning continuing jurisdiction and continuing residence of a contestant in the decree state. Under the former law, a state could not modify the decree of another state unless (1) it appeared to the court of the modifying state that the decree state no longer had jurisdiction under jurisdictional prerequisites substantially in accordance with the UCCJA or had declined to assume jurisdiction to modify the decree, and (2) the modifying state did have jurisdiction [Former Fam. Code § 3414(a)].

Because the PKPA preempts state law [In re Marriage of Pedowitz (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 992, 999-1000, 225 Cal. Rptr. 186] , to the extent that there was a conflict between the above provisions and those of the PKPA, the more specific requirements of the federal law were held to control [see DeBoer v. DeBoer (1993) 509 U.S. 1301, 1302-1303, 114 S. Ct. 1, 125 L. Ed. 2d 755 (in denial of application for federal stay in "Baby Jessica" adoption case, statement by United States Supreme Court Justice Stevens that Michigan Supreme Court gave "comprehensive and thoughtful explanation" of governing rules of law in In re Clausen (1993) 442 Mich. 648, 502 N.W.2d 649 , which held that PKPA compelled Michigan to give full faith and credit to Iowa decree denying adoption, and that Michigan could not exercise modification jurisdiction based on best interests of child)]. However, in Kumar v. Superior Court [Kumar v. Superior Court (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 689, 186 Cal. Rptr. 772, 652 P.2d 1003] , the California Supreme Court construed the UCCJA to essentially conform to the PKPA [Kumar v. Superior Court (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 689, 699-702, 186 Cal. Rptr. 772, 652 P.2d 1003 ; see In re Stephanie M. (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 295, 314-315, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 595, 867 P.2d 706] . The Court in Kumar held that the point of focus must first be on whether the decree state has continuing jurisdiction. It explained that one state could not modify a child custody order of another state that continues to have jurisdiction, even if the state may have had jurisdiction were it an initial proceeding. If there were no continuing jurisdiction, then analysis would begin under (what later became--and later was subsequently repealed) Fam. Code § 3403 to determine whether the state in which a proceeding was commenced had jurisdiction [Kumar v. Superior Court (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 689, 696, 698-699, 186 Cal. Rptr. 772, 652 P.2d 1003 ; see Zenide v. Superior Court (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 1287,1295, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 703 ; In re Janette H. (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1421, 1430-1431, 242 Cal. Rptr. 567] .

Cases also found that it was of no import whether the decree state's continuing jurisdiction had been presently invoked. Accordingly, even if there was no presently pending proceeding in the decree state, California could not assume modification jurisdiction until the decree state considered that it no longer had jurisdiction [McArthur v. Superior Court (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 1287, 1293, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 296] .

[b] Modification of Another State's Decree

[i] UCCJEA

Under the UCCJEA, except as otherwise provided in the UCCJEA regarding temporary emergency jurisdiction [see Fam. Code § 3424], a California court may not modify a child custody determination made by a court of another state unless a California court has jurisdiction to make an initial determination on the basis of "home state" [Fam. Code § 3421(a)(1)] or "significant connection/substantial evidence" [Fam. Code § 3421(a)(2)] jurisdiction and either of the following determinations is made [Fam. Code § 3423]:

1. The court of the other state determines that it no longer has exclusive, continuing jurisdiction under the UCCJEA [see Fam. Code § 3422], or that a California court would be a more convenient forum under the UCCJEA provisions for inconvenient forum [see Fam. Code § 3427]; or

2. A California court or a court of the other state determines that the child, the child's parents, and any person acting as a parent do not presently reside in the other state.

These are the only two situations in which a California court will have modification jurisdiction. Significantly, if any of the parties remain in the other state, only the court of the other state may determine that it no longer has exclusive, continuing jurisdiction over the custody order [Fam. Code § 3422(a)(1)]. However, if all of the parties have moved away from the other state, then either the California court or the court of the other state may determine that exclusive, continuing jurisdiction no longer exists [Fam. Code § 3422(a)(2)]. Procedures for modification of out-of-state custody determinations are further discussed in § 394.114[11].

If a California court learns that a child custody modification proceeding has been commenced in California simultaneously with a child custody enforcement proceeding in another state, the California court may stay the modification proceeding, enjoin the parties from continuing the enforcement proceeding, or proceed with modification, as appropriate [Fam. Code § 3426(c)]. For further discussion of simultaneous proceedings commenced in other states, see § 394.109.

[ii] PKPA

Under the PKPA, a court may modify a determination of the custody of a child made by a court of another state, if [28 U.S.C. § 1738A(f)]:

1. It has jurisdiction to make such a child custody determination; and

2. The court of the other state no longer has jurisdiction, or it has declined to exercise such jurisdiction to modify such determination.

Similarly, a court may not modify a visitation determination made by a court of another state unless the court of the other state no longer has jurisdiction to modify that determination or has declined to exercise jurisdiction to modify such a determination [28 U.S.C. § 1738A(h)].

These provisions must also be read in connection with the PKPA's provisions for continuing jurisdiction, which contemplate that a decree state's jurisdiction will continue as long as the court has jurisdiction under its own state law and the state remains the residence of the child and any contestant [28 U.S.C. § 1738A(d)].

[2] Treatment of Specific Modification Issues

[a] Proceeding Brought by Noncustodial Parent in Decree State

Cases have considered whether a noncustodial parent who remains in the state whose court has continuing jurisdiction over custody, because of having issued a custody decree, may seek to modify that decree when the custodial parent and child have moved to a different state. This issue has particularly arisen with respect to visitation situations. While the controlling criteria for continuing jurisdiction and modification are currently set forth (for California purposes) in the UCCJEA and PKPA, as discussed in [1], above, preexisting cases may provide insight in applying current law.

For example, it has been held that a noncustodial parent with whom a child is visiting in the decree state is not permitted, except in compelling circumstances, to use the occasion to divest the other parent of custody by obtaining a custody modification in the decree state. To permit such a modification would place a premium on the abuse of the right of visitation and make it difficult for parties to agree on the free movement of the child from one parent to another [In re Marriage of Kern (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 402, 408, 150 Cal. Rptr. 860 ; see Bergen v. Bergen (3d Cir. 1971) 439 F.2d 1008, 1015 ; see also Ferreira v. Ferreira (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 824, 829, 109 Cal. Rptr. 80, 512 P.2d 304] .

The situation is different if the resident noncustodial parent's visitation rights are being frustrated by the custodial parent in the other jurisdiction. Under these circumstances, it has been held that a court of the decree state court may properly exercise its continuing jurisdiction to address the matter [Pieri v. Superior Court (1991) 1 Cal. App. 4th 114, 119-122, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 742] .

[b] What Constitutes "Leaving" Decree State

Courts have been asked to consider whether particular absences out of state constituted leaving the decree state, for purposes of determining whether a decree state retained continuing jurisdiction (see [1][a], above) to modify the decree.

One court, for example, refused to apply then current principles respecting parties who had left the state with respect to a child who had been made a dependent of a California juvenile court under Welf. & Inst. Code § 300. The court held that a California juvenile court may place a dependent child out of state [see Fam. Code § 7901, art. 5(a) (Interstate Compact on the Placement of Children)] without losing continuing jurisdiction over the child, even if both parents had also leave the state [In re Gloria F. (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 576, 585-586, 260 Cal. Rptr. 706 (but holding that court should have considered yielding jurisdiction to more convenient forum)].

The effect of a parent's temporary absence has also been considered. One court, for example, refused to find that a noncustodial parent's seven-month absence from the decree state had terminated the state's continuing jurisdiction. The parent had returned to the decree state at the time when the California court had to determine its own jurisdiction [In re Marriage of Ratshin (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 974, 978-980, 192 Cal. Rptr. 891] . In contrast, another court refused to accept the case as controlling and concluded that under the express language of the PKPA, the issue had to be resolved according to the meaning of "residence" under the PKPA [see 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(d)]. The court held that residency is lost under the PKPA unless there was an intent to return to the decree state at the time of the temporary absence [In re Marriage of Pedowitz (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 992, 1001-1002, 225 Cal. Rptr. 186] .

[c] Modifying State's Review of Decree State's Initial Assumption of Jurisdiction

An ongoing issue in interjurisdictional custody disputes has been the treatment that a modifying state should give to the decree of another jurisdiction that, in the view of the modifying state, was entered through the improper exercise of initial jurisdiction by the decree state. A number of cases have considered this issue, and while they were decided prior to California's enactment of the UCCJEA, they may serve as some authority in applying current law.

Preliminarily, note that both PKPA and the former UCCJA may be construed to permit "second look" review of another state's jurisdictionaldetermination. Under the PKPA, a custody determination of another state is entitled to full faith and credit only if it is made consistently with its provisions [28 U.S.C. § 1738A(a)]. Under the former UCCJA, a state had to recognize and enforce a custody decree of another state only if that court had assumed jurisdiction under jurisdictional prerequisites substantially in accordance with the UCCJA, or that was made under factual circumstances meeting the jurisdictional standards of the UCCJA [Former Fam. Code § 3413].

The UCCJEA contains similar language [see Fam. Code 3443(a)], but no reported California cases have yet construed this portion of it.

California courts, however, earlier construed the former UCCJA as giving California the right to modify another state's decree if California determined that the decree state was not entitled to assume jurisdiction under the UCCJA [In re Marriage of Fox (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 862, 869, 872, 225 Cal. Rptr. 823 (finding no initial jurisdiction in decree state); In re Marriage of Hopson (1980) 110 Cal. App. 3d 884, 893-894, 168 Cal. Rptr. 345 (finding no modification jurisdiction in state that had modified decree of another state)]. However, one California court has severely criticized another state for taking a second look at California's initial assumption of jurisdiction and denying full faith and credit to the California decree [Peery v. Superior Court (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 1085, 1093-1097, 219 Cal. Rptr. 882] . Another court has stated that the only orderly procedure to avoid a conflict of state rulings was to require one asserting lack of jurisdiction to challenge the assumption of jurisdiction by direct attack (for example, appeal) in that proceeding [Souza v. Superior Court (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 1304, 1310-1311, 238 Cal. Rptr. 892] .

These cases indicate that the PKPA and former UCCJA did not wholly succeed in achieving the goal of eliminating jurisdictional conflict in child custody cases. And it remains to be seen whether courts will apply the UCCJEA in a manner that will now ameliorate this issue. In light of this dilemma, it is perhaps unfortunate that Congress did not provide in the PKPA for federal court jurisdiction to resolve interstate custody jurisdictional issues [see Thompson v. Thompson (1988) 484 U.S. 174, 187, 108 S. Ct. 513, 98 L. Ed. 2d 512] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody Proceedings
2. Interstate and International Jurisdictional Conflicts

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.111

§ 394.111 Declining Jurisdiction in Inconvenient Forum

[1] Introduction

The issue of inconvenient forum may arise in at least two contexts. First, it may arise in the context of whether California has jurisdiction to make an initial or modification order in a custody matter [see Fam. Code §§ 3421, 3423; 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(c)(2)(D)]. In that context, the question is typically whether some other state is an inconvenient forum so as to justify California's exercise of jurisdiction under the statutory criteria of the UCCJEA. For discussion of California's assumption of jurisdiction and application of those criteria, see §§ 394.107 and 394.110.

The issue also may arise if California, as the state with otherwise proper jurisdiction under the UCCJEA and PKPA, declines to exercise that jurisdiction. The UCCJEA sets forth specific criteria for declining jurisdiction on the ground of inconvenient forum [Fam. Code § 3427(a)], and these are discussed hereafter.

A court should decline jurisdiction as an inconvenient forum only if there is concurrent jurisdiction elsewhere [In re Marriage of Nurie (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 478, 514, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 200] .

[2] Standards for Inconvenient Forum

A California court that has jurisdiction to make a child custody determination may decline to exercise its jurisdiction at any time if it determines that it is an inconvenient forum under the circumstances and that a court of another state is a more appropriate forum [Fam. Code § 3427(a)]. The issue of inconvenient forum may be raised on motion of a party, the court's own motion, or request of another court [Fam. Code § 3427(a)].

Before determining whether it is an inconvenient forum, a California court must consider whether it is appropriate for a court of another state to exercise jurisdiction [Fam. Code § 3427(b)]. For this purpose, the court must allow the parties to submit information and must consider all relevant factors, including [Fam. Code § 3427(b)]

1. Whether domestic violence has occurred and is likely to continue in the future and which state could best protect the parties and the child.

2. The length of time the child has resided outside California.

3. The distance between the California court and the court in the state that would assume jurisdiction.

4. The degree of financial hardship to the parties in litigating in one forum over the other [cf. UCCJEA § 207, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 682 (1999) (model UCCJEA refers to "the relative financial circumstances of the parties" for this factor)].

5. Any agreement of the parties as to which state should assume jurisdiction.

6. The nature and location of the evidence required to resolve the pending litigation, including testimony of the child.

7. The ability of the court of each state to decide the issue expeditiously and the procedures necessary to present the evidence.

8. The familiarity of the court of each state with the facts and issues in the pending litigation.

The list of factors that a California court may consider in determining whether another state is in a better position to make a particular child custody determination is not meant to be exclusive [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 207, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 683 (1999)].

If domestic violence is a factor, the California court should consider whether the parties are located in different states because one party is a victim of domestic violence or child abuse, and should also consider which of the two states can best protect a victim from further violence or abuse [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 207, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 683 (1999)]. If distance is a factor, the court may decide to alleviate the problems by employing the communication [see Fam. Code § 3411 (taking testimony in another state); see also § 394.114[7]] and cooperation [see Fam. Code § 3412 (cooperation between courts); see also § 394.114[9]] provisions of the UCCJEA [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 207, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 683 (1999)]. If expeditious resolution is a factor, the California court may consider the different procedural and evidentiary laws of the two states and the flexibility of court dockets [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 207, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 683 (1999)]. Also, if one state court has jurisdiction to decide all the legal issues surrounding a family, e.g., custody and support issues, or custody of children living in different states, it is desirable to determine that the court of that state is the most convenient forum [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 207, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 683 (1999)].

Note that the Commissioner's Comment to the former UCCJA states that the purpose of the inconvenient forum provisions is to encourage judicial restraint in exercising jurisdiction whenever another state appears to be in a better position to determine custody of a child. It serves as a second check on jurisdiction once jurisdiction has been found to be proper. The provisions are a particular application of the inconvenient forum principle, recognized in most states by judicial law, adapted to the special needs of child custody cases. Judicial restrictions or exceptions to the inconvenient forum rule made in some states do not apply to this statutory scheme, which is limited to child custody cases. These provisions stress interstate judicial communication and cooperation. If there is doubt as to which is the more appropriate forum, the question may be resolved by consultation and cooperation among the courts involved [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJA § 7, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 234 (1988)].

[3] Conditional Stay of Proceedings

If a California court determines that it is an inconvenient forum and that a court of another state is a more appropriate forum, it must stay the proceedings on condition that a child custody proceeding be promptly commenced in another designated state and may impose any other condition that the court considers just and proper [Fam. Code § 3427(c)].

If a California court decides that it is an inconvenient forum for a child custody proceeding, it may not simply dismiss the action and leave the case in limbo. Instead, the California court must direct the parties to commence a child custody proceeding in the state that the California court has determined to be the more convenient forum [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 207, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 683 (1999)]. The California court may impose other conditions as well, for example, it may issue temporary custody orders, actually dismiss the case if the custody proceeding is not commenced in the other state, or it may order a resumption of jurisdiction if the other state court refuses to take the case [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 207, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 683 (1999)].

Before determining whether to decline or retain jurisdiction, a California court may communicate with a court of another state [see Fam. Code § 3410; see also § 394.114[8]] and exchange information regarding the assumption of jurisdiction by either court [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 207, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 683 (1999)].

[4] Special Rule for Dissolution Cases

A California court may decline to exercise its UCCJEA jurisdiction if a child custody determination is incidental to an action for dissolution of marriage or another proceeding while still retaining jurisdiction over the dissolution of marriage or other proceeding [Fam. Code § 3427(d)].

[5] Payment of Costs and Attorney's Fees

If it appears to the court that it is clearly an inappropriate forum, the court may require the party who commenced the proceeding to pay, in addition to the costs of the proceeding in California, necessary travel and other expenses, including attorney's fees, incurred by the other parties or their witnesses. Payment would be made to the clerk of the court for remittance to the proper party [Fam. Code § 3427(e)].

This provision does not appear in the model UCCJEA [see UCCJEA § 207, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 682-683 (1999)], but appeared in both the model UCCJA [see UCCJA § 7(g), 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 234 (1988)], and the California version of the UCCJA [see former Fam. Code § 3407(g)]. The provision was eliminated from the UCCJEA because a court that has jurisdiction under the UCCJEA cannot be a "clearly inappropriate forum" [see Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 207, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 683 (1999)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody Proceedings
2. Interstate and International Jurisdictional Conflicts

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.112

§ 394.112 Declining Jurisdiction Based on Unjustifiable Conduct (Unclean Hands)

[1] General Rule and Exceptions

Except as otherwise provided in the UCCJEA regarding the exercise of temporary emergency jurisdiction [see Fam. Code § 3424] or by any other California law, a California court generally must decline to exercise its jurisdiction over a custody matter if it acquired jurisdiction as the result of the "unjustifiable conduct" of a person seeking to invoke the court'sjurisdiction [Fam. Code § 3428(a)]. "Unjustifiable conduct" is not expressly defined in the UCCJEA, but it appears to be substantially equivalent to the term "unclean hands."

Despite the general rule, however, a court need not decline jurisdiction if at least one of the following is true [Fam. Code § 3428(a)]:

1. The parents and all persons acting as parents have acquiesced in the exercise of jurisdiction.

2. A court of the state otherwise having jurisdiction under the UCCJEA provisions for initial, exclusive and continuing, and modification jurisdiction inclusive [see Fam. Code §§ 3421, 3422, 3423] determines that California is a more appropriate forum under the UCCJEA provisions for inconvenient forum [see Fam. Code § 3427].

3. No court of any other state would have jurisdiction under the criteria specified in the UCCJEA provisions for initial, exclusive and continuing, and modification jurisdiction inclusive [see Fam. Code §§ 3421, 3422, 3423; cf. In re Marriage of Fox (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 862, 874-875, 225 Cal. Rptr. 823 (jurisdiction may not be declined because of unclean hands unless there is another state that also has jurisdiction to make custody determination)].

The import of this rule is that when a parent acts reprehensibly by improperly removing, secreting, retaining, or restraining a child, that parent will not receive an advantage, because the UCCJEA requires a California court to decline to exercise jurisdiction that is inappropriately invoked by a party [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 208, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 684 (1999)]. For example, if a parent abducts a child prior to the issuance of a child custody determination and establishes a new home state for the child, the new home state should decline to hear the case under the unclean hands doctrine [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 208, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 684 (1999); see Fam. Code § 3428].

On the other hand, if a party acquiesces in the court's jurisdiction despite the wrongful conduct, by either filing a pleading that submits to the court's jurisdiction or by not filing in the court that would otherwise have UCCJEA jurisdiction, then the court may hear the case [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 208, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 685 (1999)]. Similarly, if the other exceptions to declining jurisdiction are met (as set forth above), the court may hear the case [see Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 208, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 685 (1999)].

In analyzing the conduct at issue, note that a technical illegality or wrong will not necessarily constitute unjustifiable conduct. For example, as a Commissioner's Comment explains, if a parent violates a joint custody decree by fleeing with a child to escape domestic violence, then an inquiry should be made before dismissing the case on the basis of unclean hands [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 208, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 684 (1999)], and there is a special rule in California for domestic violence cases [see Fam. Code § 3428(d)], as discussed in [2], below. Also, the unjustifiable conduct must create jurisdiction; so if the court otherwise has exclusive and continuing jurisdiction, a party's wrongful conduct will not, as such, divest the court of jurisdiction--although that conduct may otherwise be sanctionable or remediable in some fashion by the court [cf. Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 208, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 685 (1999)].

Under case law decided before enactment of the UCCJEA, a court could decline to apply the "clean hands" doctrine if there had been misconduct of both parties [In re Walker (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 217, 225-228, 39 Cal. Rptr. 243] . In addition, the doctrine was held inapplicable to a court's determination of whether to retain jurisdiction if a child had moved to another state and the custodial parent had been frustrating visitation [Bosse v. Superior Court (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 440, 444-445, 152 Cal. Rptr. 665] . It was also held that the doctrine could not be applied to assume jurisdiction as against a parent who was defending against jurisdiction in California in a proceeding filed by the other parent [In re Marriage of Ben-Yehoshua (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 259, 268, 154 Cal. Rptr. 80] . The continuing validity of these holdings is presently unclear, particularly because the UCCJA currently requires that a court decline jurisdiction if its jurisdiction has been achieved through unjustifiable conduct, unless one of the enumerated exceptions exists [Fam. Code § 3428(a)].

[2] Special Rule in Domestic Violence Cases

In making a determination under the UCCJEA provisions for declining jurisdiction based on a person's unjustifiable conduct [see Fam. Code § 3428], a court must not consider as a factor weighing against the petitioner any taking of the child, or retention of the child after a visit or other temporary relinquishment of physical custody, from the person who has legal custody, if there is evidence that the taking or retention was a result of domestic violence against the petitioner, as defined in Fam. Code § 6211 [Fam. Code § 3428(d)]. This provision does not appear in the model UCCJEA [see UCCJEA § 208, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 683 (1999)]. However, it is essentially the same as a provision that created a domestic violence exception to the application of the clean hands doctrine under California's version of the UCCJEA's predecessor statute, the UCCJA [cf. former Fam. Code § 3408(f)].

[3] Court's Authority to Fashion Remedies

If a California court declines to exercise its jurisdiction on the basis of unjustifiable conduct [see Fam. Code § 3428(a)], it may fashion an appropriate remedy to ensure the safety of the child and prevent a repetition of that conduct, including staying the proceeding until a child custody proceeding is commenced in a court having jurisdiction under the UCCJEAprovisions for initial, exclusive and continuing, and modification jurisdiction, inclusive [Fam. Code § 3428(b); see Fam. Code §§ 3421, 3422, 3423].

One appropriate remedy in a case involving a party's unjustifiable conduct might be for the California court to notify the nonoffending parent and provide foster care until the child can be returned to the parent [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 208, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 685 (1999)]. Another might be for the California court to stay the proceeding and order that a custody proceeding be commenced in a state that has UCCJEA jurisdiction, if a retention of California jurisdiction is needed to prevent a repetition of the unjustifiable conduct or to ensure the child's safety [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 208, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 685 (1999)]. However, the California court is not making a forum non conveniens analysis, and if there is unjustifiable conduct, the court must decline jurisdiction [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 208, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 685 (1999)].

[4] Payment of Costs and Attorney's Fees

If a court dismisses a petition or stays a proceeding because it declines to exercise its jurisdiction on the basis of unjustifiable conduct hands [see Fam. Code § 3428(a)], it must assess against the party seeking to invoke its jurisdiction necessary and reasonable expenses including costs, communication expenses, attorney's fees, investigative fees, expenses for witnesses, travel expenses, and child care during the course of the proceedings, unless the party from whom fees are sought establishes that the assessment would be clearly inappropriate [Fam. Code § 3428(c); cf. former Fam. Code § 3408(e)].

The assessed costs and fees should be paid to the respondent who established that jurisdiction was based on unjustifiable conduct [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 208, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 685 (1999)]. The court may not assess fees, costs, or expenses against the state of California unless authorized by law other than the UCCJEA [Fam. Code § 3428(c)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody Proceedings
2. Interstate and International Jurisdictional Conflicts

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.113

§ 394.113 Binding Effect of California Custody Decree

A child custody determination made by a California court that had UCCJEA jurisdiction [see Fam. Code § 3421 et seq.; see also §§ 394.107-394.110] binds all persons who have been served in accordance with California law or notified in accordance with UCCJEA standards for notice to persons outside California [see Fam. Code § 3408] or who have submitted to the jurisdiction of the court, and who have been given an opportunity to be heard [Fam. Code § 3406]. As to those persons, the determination is conclusive as to all decided issues of law and fact except to the extent the determination is modified [Fam. Code § 3406].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody Proceedings
2. Interstate and International Jurisdictional Conflicts

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.114

§ 394.114 General Procedure Under UCCJA

[1] Notice

[a] Persons Entitled to Notice

Before a child custody determination is made under the UCCJEA, Fam. Code § 3425 requires that notice and an opportunity to be heard must be given to the following persons [Fam. Code § 3425(a); cf. Fam. Code § 3425(b) (UCCJEA does not govern enforceability of child custody determination made without notice or opportunity to be heard)]:

1. To all persons entitled to notice under California law as in child custody proceedings between California residents;

2. To any parent whose parental rights have not been previously terminated; and

3. To any person having physical custody of the child.

Persons whose rights have not been terminated or who have physical custody of the child must be given notice in order for the custody determination to be afforded full faith and credit under the PKPA [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 205, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 679 (1999); see 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(e)]. In addition, a parent's right to notice of custody proceedings affecting his or her child is constitutionally compelled, and a custody order made in the absence of such notice is invalid [see McDowell v. Orsini (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 951, 961-962, 127 Cal. Rptr. 285] .

For discussion of the manner in which persons entitled to notice must be given notice, see [2], below.

[b] Manner of Giving Notice

Under Fam. Code § 3408, notice may be given in a manner prescribed for service of process by California law or by the law of the state in which the service is made [Fam. Code § 3408(a)]. Likewise, proof of service maybe made as prescribed by California law or by the law of the state in which the service is made [Fam. Code § 3408(b)]. If special service or notice rules, such as service by a peace officer in a case involving domestic violence, are available in either state, then they can be employed [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 108, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 664 (1999)].

Although notice must be given in a manner reasonably calculated to give actual notice, it may be by publication if other means are not effective [Fam. Code § 3408(a); see In re Marriage of Nurie (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 478, 509, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 200 (actual notice is not required; notifying party's attorney of record in open court satisfies statutory notice requirement)].

Foreign countries usually have their own service and notice rules that must be followed, despite the fact that foreign countries are treated as states under the UCCJEA [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 108, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 664 (1999); see Fam. Code § 3405(a); see also Ch. 260, Family Law Enforcement: Foreign Judgments (discussion of Hague Convention)].

Notice is not required for the exercise of UCCJEA jurisdiction with respect to a person who submits to the jurisdiction of the court [Fam. Code § 3408(c)].

[2] UCCJEA Declaration

Every party in a custody proceeding in his or her first pleading or in an affidavit (or declaration under penalty of perjury) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5] attached to that pleading must give certain information, if reasonably ascertainable, under oath concerning the child's present location and the places where the child has lived and the names and addresses of the persons with whom the child has lived for the past five years [Fam. Code § 3429(a)]. However, in cases involving domestic violence or child abuse, any addresses of the child and the party who is alleging violence or abuse are confidential and are not to be disclosed in the pleading or affidavit, if the addresses are unknown to the other party [Fam. Code § 3429(a)].

The pleading or affidavit must also give information under oath concerning other custody or custody-related proceedings involving the child [Fam. Code § 3429(a)] It must state whether the party [Fam. Code § 3429(a)]

1. Has participated as a party, witness, or in any other capacity in any other proceeding regarding custody or visitation of the child.

2. Knows of any proceeding that could affect the current proceeding, e.g., proceedings involving custody enforcement, domestic violence, protective orders, termination of parental rights, and adoptions.

3. Knows the name and address of any person not a party to the proceeding who has physical custody of the child or claims custody or visitation rights to the child.

If the party has information regarding related proceedings or other involved persons, then the party must supply additional information, such as case numbers, nature of the proceedings, names and addresses, in the sworn pleading or affidavit [Fam. Code § 3429(a), (c)]. Related proceedings include more than just custody proceedings, for example, compliance with the Interstate Compact on the Placement of Children [Fam. Code § 7901], and criminal child abuse prosecutions involving a parent [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 209, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 687 (1999)]. The Judicial Council form of Declaration Under Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction Act is set forth in Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure .

If the required information is not furnished, the court may stay the proceeding until the information is furnished [Fam.

Code § 3429(b)]. If the information is not furnished, the court nevertheless has jurisdiction to hear the case [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 209, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 687 (1999)].

The court may examine the parties under oath as to details of the information furnished and as to other matters pertinent to the court's jurisdiction and the disposition of the case [Fam. Code § 3429(c)]. Each party has a continuing duty to inform the court of any custody proceedings concerning the child in California or any other state that could affect the current proceeding [Fam. Code § 3429(d); see In re Marriage of Nurie (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 478, 510, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 200 (statute does not specify remedy for party's failure to comply with continuing disclosure obligations, and does not require first-in-time court to relinquish jurisdiction)].

[3] Joinder of Additional Parties

The obligation to join a party and the right to intervene as a party in a child custody proceeding under the UCCJEA are governed by California law as in child custody proceedings between residents of California [Fam. Code § 3425(c)]. For a general discussion of custody proceedings, see Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody . For discussion of joinder, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure .

[4] Appearance of Parties

[a] Appearance and Limited Immunity

A party to a child custody proceeding, including a modification proceeding, or a petitioner or respondent in a proceeding to enforce or register a child custody determination, is not subject to personal jurisdiction in California for another proceeding or purpose solely by reason of having participated in, or having been physically present for the purpose of participating in, the custody proceeding or the custody enforcement or registration proceeding [Fam. Code § 3409(a)]. "Participate" is meant to be read broadly. For example, if jurisdiction is proper under Fam. Code § 3421 et seq., a party or respondent should be able to request custody without this constituting a request for affirmative relief that waives the person's objections to personal jurisdiction [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 109, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 665 (1999)].

A person who is subject to personal jurisdiction in California on a basis other than physical presence is not immune from service of process in California [Fam. Code § 3409(b)]. A person from outside California who appears in a custody proceeding or custody enforcement proceeding will not have immunity if he or she is otherwise subject to California jurisdiction [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 109, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 665 (1999)]. For example, if a child support obligor moves away from California, he or she will be subject to California jurisdiction for purposes of child support enforcement for as long as the child or the support obligee remains in California [see Fam. Code § 4909(a); see also Ch. 260, Family Law Enforcement: Foreign Judgments (UIFSA)]. Thus, should the support obligor return to California to enforce the visitation aspects of a custody order, he or she will not be immune from California efforts to collect past-due child support [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 109, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 665-666 (1999)].

A party present in California who is subject to the jurisdiction of another state is not immune from service of process allowable under the laws of the other state [Fam. Code § 3409(b)]. Thus, a party present in California who is subject to the jurisdiction of another state may be served with process to appear in the other state, if service is allowed under the laws of the other state [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 109, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 666 (1999)].

The immunity granted by Fam. Code § 3409(a) does not extend to civil litigation based on acts that are committed by an individual while present in California that are unrelated to the individual's participation in a UCCJEA proceeding [Fam. Code § 3409(c)].

[b] Order for Personal Appearance

The court may order a party to a California child custody proceeding who is in California to appear before the court in person with or without the child [Fam. Code § 3430(a)]. Also, the court may order any nonparty who is in California and who has physical custody or control of the child to appear in person with the child [Fam. Code § 3430(a); see Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 210, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 688 (1999)].

If a party to a child custody proceeding whose presence is desired by the court is outside California, the court may order that a notice given pursuant to the UCCJEA standards for notice to persons outside California [see Fam. Code § 3408; [1][b], above] include a statement directing the party to appear in person with or without the child and informing the party that failure to appear may result in a decision adverse to the party [Fam. Code § 3430(b)]. If a party to a child custody proceeding who is outside California is directed to appear or desires to appear personally before the court with or without the child, the court may require another party to pay reasonable and necessary travel and other expenses of the party and the child [Fam. Code § 3430(d)].

The court may enter any orders necessary to ensure the safety of the child and any person ordered to appear [Fam. Code § 3430(c)]. If safety is a major concern, for example, in cases that involve child abuse or domestic violence, the court may arrange for a party's testimony to be taken in another state, rather than order the party to appear with the child [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 210, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 688 (1999)].

[5] Calendar Priority

If a question is raised in a child custody proceeding regarding the existence of or the exercise of jurisdiction under the UCCJEA, the question, on the request of a party, must be given priority on the calendar and handled expeditiously [Fam. Code § 3407; cf. former Fam. Code § 3425 (under UCCJA, "case" must be given priority and expedited)]. It is the jurisdictional question, not the entire custody case, that must be expedited [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 107, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 664 (1999)].

[6] Submission of Child's Birth Certificate to Court

Fam. Code § 3140, which requires that a child's birth certificate be submitted to the court in any custody proceeding in which one or both parents have not appeared, was expressly made applicable to the former UCCJA [former Fam. Code § 3400 et seq.; see former Fam. Code § 3415]. Operative January 1, 2000, the UCCJA was repealed and replaced with the UCCJEA [see Stats. 1999, ch. 867] and no express reference to Section 3140 was included. However, Section 3140 operates to determine whether a child is a missing person, and uses language of general applicability to custody matters, so it apparently still applies to proceedings under the UCCJEA.

[7] Taking Testimony in Another State

In addition to other available procedures, a party to a child custody proceeding may offer, by deposition or other means allowable in California for testimony taken in another state, the testimony of witnesses who are located in another state, including the testimony of the parties and the child [Fam. Code § 3411(a)]. The court on its own motion may order that the testimony of a person be taken in another state, and may prescribe the manner and terms on which the testimony is taken [Fam. Code § 3411(a)].

A California court may permit an individual residing in another state to be deposed or to testify before a designated court or other location in that state by telephone, audiovisual means, or other electronic means [Fam. Code § 3411(b); see In re Marriage of Nurie (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 478, 509 n.15, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 200 (telephone appearance is discretionary; court does not abuse its discretion by denying such request to party withholding child from home state in violation of court order)]. A California court must cooperate with other state courts in designating an appropriate location for the deposition or testimony [Fam. Code § 3411(b)]. Documentary evidence transmitted from another state to a California court by technological means that do not produce an original writing may not be excluded from evidence on an objection based on the means of transmission [Fam. Code § 3411(c)].

[8] Communication Between Courts

A California court may communicate with a court in another state concerning a proceeding arising under the UCCJEA [Fam. Code § 3410(a)]. Communication is authorized regarding any proceeding arising under the UCCJEA, including a proceeding arising in a foreign tribunal or tribal court [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 110, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 667 (1999)]. Communication may occur by telephonic conference, on-line electronic communication, or by any other method of communication [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 110, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 667 (1999)].

The court may allow the parties to participate in the communication; if the parties are not able to participate in the communication, they must be given the opportunity to present facts and legal arguments before a decision on jurisdiction is made [Fam. Code § 3410(b)]. The parties' participation in the communication may amount to a hearing if an opportunity to present facts and jurisdictional arguments exists [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 110, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 667 (1999)].

Communication between courts on schedules, calendars, court records, and similar matters may occur without informing the parties, and a record need not be made of this type of communication [Fam. Code § 3410(c)]. Matters of cooperation between courts [see Fam. Code § 3412; [9], below] do not require a record to be made [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 110, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 667 (1999)].

However, with respect to all other communication under Fam. Code § 3410, a record must be made of the communication, and the parties must be informed promptly of the communication and granted access to the record [Fam. Code § 3410(d)]. For the purposes of Fam. Code § 3410, "record" means information that is inscribed on a tangible medium or that is stored in an electronic or other medium and is retrievable in perceivable form]. Fam. Code § 3410(e); In re C. T. (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 101, 111-112, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 897] . A record is meant to include notes of a court reporter who listened to a conference call, an electronic recording of a telephone call, a memorandum or electronic record of a communication between courts, or a memorandum or electronic record made by a court after a communication between courts [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 110, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 667 (1999)].

Note that certain provisions of the UCCJEA require communication between courts in order to resolve jurisdictional questions [see, e.g., Fam. Code § 3424(d), 3426(b)]. For related discussion, see §§ 394.107[4], 394.108[1][c].

[9] Request for Evidentiary Matter Between Courts; Preservation of Records

[a] Interstate Evidentiary Procedures

A California court may request the appropriate court of another state to do all of the following [Fam. Code § 3412(a)]:

1. Hold an evidentiary hearing.

2. Order a person to produce or give evidence pursuant to procedures of the other state.

3. Order that an evaluation be made with respect to the custody of a child involved in a pending proceeding [cf. Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 112, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 669 (1999) (UCCJEA takes no position on admissibility of custody evaluation conducted in another state)].

4. Forward to the California court a certified copy of the transcript of the record of the hearing, the evidence otherwise presented, and any evaluation prepared in compliance with the request.

5. Order a party to a child custody proceeding or any person having physical custody of the child to appear in the proceeding with or without the child.

On request of a court of another state, a California court may hold a hearing or enter any of the orders described above [see Fam. Code § 3412(a)], that is, a California court may hold an evidentiary hearing or enter the same orders that it may request from a court of another state [see Fam. Code § 3412(b)].

Travel and other necessary and reasonable expenses incurred at the request of a court of another state [see Fam. Code § 3412(a), (b)] may be assessed against the parties in accordance with California law [Fam. Code § 3412(c); cf. former Fam. Code § 3420(a) (costs may be assessed "against the parties, or, if necessary, ordered paid by the state")]. Expenses are intended to be out-of-pocket costs, not overhead costs [Commissioner's Comment to UCCJEA § 112, 9 Uniform Laws Annotated 669 (1999)].

[b] Duty to Preserve and Forward Records

A California court must preserve the pleadings, orders, decrees, records of hearings, evaluations, and other pertinent records with respect to a child custody proceeding until the child attains 18 years of age [Fam. Code § 3412(d)]. Upon appropriate request by a court or law enforcement official of another state, the California court must forward a certified copy of those records [Fam. Code § 3412(d)].

[10] Registration and Enforcement of Out-of-State Decree

A child custody determination of another state may be registered in California, with or without a simultaneous request for enforcement, bysending a request for registration, two certified copies of the custody order, and other supporting documents to the appropriate California court [Fam. Code § 3445(a); for a form of request, see § 394.174; see also Ch. 260, Family Law Enforcement: Foreign Judgments]. The UCCJEA does not specify which court is "the appropriate court," but under the former UCCJA the custody order could be filed in the clerk's office of any California superior court [see former Fam. Code § 3416(a))]. A registered child custody determination of another state must be recognized and enforced by a California court [Fam. Code § 3446(b)]. However, registration is not required for enforcement of any child custody determination made in substantial conformity with the UCCJEA [see Fam. Code § 3443(a)].

A proceeding to enforce a child custody determination of another state is commenced by filing a verified petition with certified copies of the custody orders to be enforced and any registration attached [Fam. Code § 3448(a); see Ch. 260, Family Law Enforcement: Foreign Judgments]. In addition, a party may request a California court to issue a temporary order to enforce a visitation schedule or visitation provisions of a child custody determination of another state [Fam. Code § 3444(a); see Ch. 260, Family Law Enforcement: Foreign Judgments].

If a person violates a custody determination of another state, making it necessary to enforce the order in California, he or she may be required to pay reasonable expenses incurred by the party entitled to custody, including costs, communication expenses, attorney's fees, investigative fees, expenses for witnesses, travel expenses, and child care [see Fam. Code §§ 3450(b), 3452(a)].

[11] Procedure for Modification of Out-of-State Decree

Under the UCCJEA [Fam. Code § 3400 et seq.], California will normally enforce, rather than modify, a child custody determination made by a sister state [Fam. Code §§ 3423, 3443; see § 394.110]. A California court may not modify a child custody determination made by a sister state unless the child, both of the child's parents, and any person acting as a parent have all moved away from the sister state, or unless a court of the sister state determines that it no longer has exclusive and continuing jurisdiction or that it is an inconvenient forum [Fam. Code §§ 3422, 3423].

Thus, if any of the parties remain in the sister state, the party seeking to modify the sister-state decree must first obtain an order from the sister-state court to the effect that it no longer has jurisdiction (for discussion, see § 394.110). Then, if a California court has jurisdiction under the UCCJEA provisions for initial jurisdiction [Fam. Code § 3421; see § 394.107[1]], it may modify the decree. If none of the parties remain in the sister state, a California court may modify a sister-state decree if it has jurisdiction under the requirements for initial jurisdiction [Fam. Code § 3421; see § 394.107[1]]. For a form of petition to modify a registered decree, see § 394.175. Procedures for enforcement of sister-state orders are discussed further in Ch. 260, Family Law Enforcement: Foreign Judgments.

The PKPA [28 U.S.C. § 1738A] also provides for modification of an out-of-state decree, as described in § 394.110[1][b][ii], as did the former UCCJA [Former Fam. Code § 3400 et seq.; see Lough v. Superior Court (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 136, 142-143, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 250] . However, the UCCJA did not provide a specific procedure under which a court in one state could exercise its jurisdiction to modify a custody determination made by another state. Therefore, states that have adopted the UCCJA may follow their own procedural rules in establishing sister-state judgments as their own state judgments prior to modification.

[12] Appellate Review

Although an order making a jurisdictional determination under the UCCJEA may be final and appealable, appeal is seldom an adequate remedy in any child custody matter because of the significant time required for resolution. Based on practice under the former UCCJA, it appears that appellate courts will generally respond favorably to extraordinary writ petitions as a way of obtaining timely review of determinations under the UCCJEA [see Zenide v. Superior Court (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 1287, 1293, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 703 (decided under former law)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody Proceedings
2. Interstate and International Jurisdictional Conflicts

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 394.115-394.129

[Reserved]

§§ 394.115[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.130

§ 394.130 Related Titles From LEXIS Publishing

[1] California Family Law

For discussion and forms concerning the rights and liabilities arising from the parent and child relationship, including child custody matters, see Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Chs. 30-35, 142 (Matthew Bender 2d ed.)

For discussion and forms concerning child support, see Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Chs. 40-42 (Matthew Bender 2d ed.)

[2] California Legal Forms

For legal forms relating to forms in this part, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 100, Control, Custody, and Support of Minors

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.131

§ 394.131 Federal Statutes

Federal prosecution for interstate flight to avoid state felony prosecution. 18 U.S.C. § 1073

Custody proceedings under Indian Child Welfare Act of 1978. 25 U.S.C. §§ 1901-1963

Parental Kidnapping Prevention Act. 28 U.S.C. § 1738A

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.132

§ 394.132 State Statutes

[1] Abduction of Child

Abduction or enticement of child from parent as forbidden. Civ. Code § 49(a)

Submission of child's birth certificate and determination that child is not missing person in custody proceedings. Fam. Code § 3140

Criminal penalties for abduction or detention of minor child by person not having right to custody. Penal Code §§ 277, 278, 278.5, 279, 784.5

[2] Child Custody Proceedings

Equal custody rights of mother and presumed father; either parent as entitled to custody if other parent is dead, is unable or refuses to take custody, or abandons child. Fam. Code § 3010

Authority of court to determine custody of child during child's minority. Fam. Code §§ 3021, 3022

Money sanctions for making false accusations of child abuse or neglect during custody proceedings. Fam. Code § 3027

Effect of abuse convictions, restraining orders, and criminal protective orders on custody determinations. Fam. Code §§ 3030-3031

Temporary and ex parte custody orders. Fam. Code §§ 3060-3064

Parent's action for exclusive custody without dissolution of marriage or legal separation. Fam. Code § 3120

Court's authority to order one party to exclusive custody action to pay other party's attorney's fees and costs [Fam.

Code § 3121]

Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act (UCCJEA). Fam. Code § 3400 et seq.

[3] Venue

Change of venue if parties have moved from county rendering decree. Code Civ. Proc. § 397.5

[4] Visitation

Authority of court to grant visitation rights to parents and others. Fam. Code § 3100

Stepparent visitation. Fam. Code § 3101

Visitation rights of relatives of deceased parent. Fam. Code § 3102

Grandparent visitation. Fam. Code §§ 3103, 3104

[5] Minors

Minors as persons under 18 years of age. Fam. Code § 6500

"Age of majority" and similar references construed. Fam. Code § 6502

[6] Parental Control

Mother and presumed father of minor child as equally entitled to services and earnings of child; either parent as entitled to services and earnings of child if other parent is dead, is unable or refuses to take custody, or has abandoned child. Fam. Code § 7500

Custodial parent as entitled to change child's residence. Fam. Code § 7501

Parents as without control over child's property. Fam. Code § 7502

Parental claim for child's wages. Fam. Code § 7503

Relinquishment of parental control. Fam. Code § 7504

Cessation of parental authority. Fam. Code § 7505

Action for abuse of parental authority. Fam. Code § 7507

[7] Support of Indigent Parent

Duty of adult child to support indigent parents. Fam. Code §§ 4400-4405

Relief from duty to support parent who abandoned child. Fam. Code §§ 4410-4414

Criminal penalty for failure to support indigent parent as required by law. Penal Code § 270c

[8] Support Proceedings

Civil suit to enforce parents' obligation to support minor child. Fam. Code §§ 3900, 4000

[9] Uniform Parentage Act

Uniform Parentage Act. Fam. Code § 7600 et seq.

Definition of parent and child relationship. Fam. Code § 7601

Parents' marital status as irrelevant to existence of parent and child relationship. Fam. Code § 7602

Methods of establishing parent and child relationship. Fam. Code § 7610

Conditions when man presumed to be natural father. Fam. Code § 7611

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.133

§ 394.133 Decisions

[1] Abduction of Child

Contempt judgment against mother for violating child custody order is civil, rather than criminal, and does not preclude prosecution on double jeopardy grounds for child stealing under Penal Code § 278.5. People v. Batey (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 1281, 1288-1289, 228 Cal. Rptr. 787

Court's judgment holding father in civil contempt for failure to return child after scheduled visitation period does not bar subsequent criminal action pursuant to Penal Code § 278.5 for same conduct. People v. Derner (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 588, 591-593, 227 Cal. Rptr. 344

Father who removed his child from country by deceiving mother during visitation period was guilty of concealment or detention of child in violation of court order pursuant to Penal Code § 278.5 and felony false imprisonment under Penal Code §§ 236 and 237. People v. Rios (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 445, 450-452, 222 Cal. Rptr. 913

Parents state cause of action under Civ. Code § 49 for abduction of teenage daughter by uncle when parents alleged that uncle interfered with parental relationship, inflicted emotional distress, induced daughter to remain away, and had sexual relationship with her. Surina v. Lucey (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 539, 543-545, 214 Cal. Rptr. 509

[2] Constitutional Issues

Parent lacks authority to consent to peace officer's search of child's personal property over child's objections; search made pursuant to faulty consent is violation of Fourth Amendment. In re Scott K. (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 395, 403-404, 155 Cal. Rptr. 671, 595 P.2d 105

[3] Federal Jurisdiction

Divorced mother's 42 U.S.C. § 1983 action against former husband and various governmental defendants, alleging wrongful deprivation of child custody in violation of liberty interest, was properly dismissed by federal district court on ground of equitable abstention. Coats v. Woods (9th Cir. 1987) 819 F.2d 236, 236-237

Federal diversity jurisdiction exists over tort action between former spouses in which noncustodial parent alleged interference with visitation rights. McIntyre v. McIntyre (9th Cir. 1985) 771 F.2d 1316, 1317-1320

Social worker who brought dependency proceeding is entitled to absolute immunity in father's 42 U.S.C. § 1983 civil rights action for interference with right to child custody; conciliation court counselors is entitled to quasi-judicial immunity for actions in providing counseling to father. Meyers v. Contra Costa County Dep't of Social Services (9th Cir. 1987) 812 F.2d 1154, 1155-1159

[4] Parental Rights

Fundamental right of parenting is personal in nature only in regard to parent; parental delegation of duties regarding child rearing, care, discipline, and education that jeopardize child's health or safety is subject to limitations by state. Johnson v. Department of Social Services (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 878, 885-886, 177 Cal. Rptr. 49

[5] Interstate and International Custody Jurisdiction

[a] Parental Kidnapping Prevention Act (PKPA)

Probable application of full faith and credit provisions of PKPA to formerly valid California child custody order is irrelevant in habeas corpus proceeding challenging California father's threatened extradition to foreign state on kidnapping charges. State of California v. Superior Court (Smolin) (1987) 482 U.S. 400, 407-409, 107 S. Ct. 2433, 96 L. Ed. 2d 332

[b] Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act (UCCJEA)

UCCJEA takes strict "first in time" approach to jurisdiction. In re Marriage of Nurie (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 478, 491, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 200

UCCJEA is exclusive method in California for determining proper forum in child custody proceedings involving other jurisdictions. In re Jaheim B. (2009) 169 Cal. App. 4th 1343, 1348, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 504 ; In re Marriage of Sareen (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 371, 375, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 687

Dependency action is "child custody proceeding" subject to UCCJEA. In re Jaheim B. (2009) 169 Cal. App. 4th 1343, 1348, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 504

UCCJEA applies to international as well as interstate custody disputes. In re Marriage of Sareen (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 371, 375, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 687

UCCJEA does not provide for jurisdiction by reason of presence of parties or by stipulation, consent, waiver, or estoppel. In re Marriage of Nurie (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 478, 487, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 200

State with absolute priority to render initial child custody determination is child's home state. In re Marriage of Nurie (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 478, 489, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 200

California court is not precluded from exercising jurisdiction due to pending custody proceedings in another state or county that has not been child's home state for required six-month period. In re Marriage of Sareen (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 371, 376-377, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 687

California court has temporary emergency jurisdiction if child is present in California and has been abandoned or is threatened with mistreatment or abuse. In re Jaheim B. (2009) 169 Cal. App. 4th 1343, 1350-1351, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 504 ; In re Marriage of Paillier (2006) 155 Cal. App. 4th 461, 470, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 459

Relevant evidence of child's "significant connection" with state may include school records and teachers, medical evidence and reports of doctors, probation reports, and other court records from prior disputes. In re S.W. (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 1501, 1510-1511, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 665

Mexico does not lose "home state" jurisdiction over child who comes to California for medical care. In re A.C. (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 854, 861-862, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 431

[c] Former Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction Act (UCCJA)

CAUTION:

These cases were decided under the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction Act (UCCJA), which was repealed, January 1, 2000, and replaced on and after that date by the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act (UCCJEA; Fam. Code § 3400 et seq.).

Former Civ. Code § 5155(3) (now see Fam. Code § 3406) procedure is mandatory, not discretionary, and requiring trial court informed of competing action to consult with other state to determine most appropriate forum for custody decision. In re Aisha B. (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 1030, 1033, 254 Cal. Rptr. 116

Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 (sanctions for bad faith actions or tactics that are frivolous or solely intended to cause unnecessary delay) applies only to California trial court proceedings, so trial court as having no supervisory and management authority to impose sanctions against out-of-state attorney for bringing child custody action in another state, when attorney is neither party to, nor attorney of record in, pending California action. County of Imperial v. Farmer (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 479, 484-486, 252 Cal. Rptr. 382

Trial court as properly refusing to modify Virginia custody decree established in California when Virginia unequivocally asserted continuing jurisdiction over custody by terms contained in decree. In re Janette H. (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1421, 1430-1431, 242 Cal. Rptr. 567

California court in stepparent adoption as required to apply UCCJA and stay or dismiss proceeding in view of pending Hawaii action to modify visitation, when Hawaii court rendered original custody decree and elected to take modification jurisdiction and notice of modification action was given. Souza v. Superior Court (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 1304, 1310-1312, 238 Cal. Rptr. 892

California trial court as improperly declining to recognize and enforce husband's Lebanese custody decree under UCCJA, when wife was given reasonable notice and opportunity to be heard in Lebanese proceedings prior to its entry of final decree. In re Marriage of Malak (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 1018, 1025-1029, 227 Cal. Rptr. 841

California as lacking jurisdiction over custody dispute when child was born and raised in France, both parents lived with child as family in France, and child has been in California for four months before custody proceedings were filed. Plas v. Superior Court (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 1008, 1017, 202 Cal. Rptr. 490

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.134

§ 394.134 Law Reviews

Scott, Pluralism, Parental Preference, and Child Custody, 80 Cal. L. Rev. 615 (1992)

Comment, Homosexual Parenting: Child Custody and Adoption, 22 U.C. Davis L. Rev. 1009 (1989)

Comment, Recognizing Constitutional Rights of Custodial Parents: The Primacy of the Post-Divorce Family in Child Custody Modification Proceedings, 35 UCLA L. Rev. 677 (1988)

Note, Thompson v. Thompson: The Jurisdictional Dilemma of Child Custody Cases Under the Parental Kidnapping Prevention Act, 16 Pepp. L. Rev. 409 (1989)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 394.135-394.149

[Reserved]

§§ 394.135[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART IV. FORMS
A. Control of Minor's Earnings

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.150

§ 394.150 Notice to Employer to Pay Minor's Earnings to Parent [Fam. Code § 7503]

[1] FORM Notice to Employer to Pay Minor's Earnings to Parent [Fam. Code § 7503]

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN: That _____ [names], parents of the minor _____ [name], claim the earnings of _____ [name of minor] under Family Code Section 7503. You are directed to hereafter pay the earnings of _____ [name of minor] directly to _____ [names of parents].

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name of one parent]

_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name of other parent]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is form is for use by parents to give a minor's employer notice that the parents are claiming the earnings of the child. Until this notice is given, the employer must pay the earnings directly to the minor [see Fam. Code § 7503]. For further discussion, see § 394.34[2].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART IV. FORMS
A. Control of Minor's Earnings

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.151

§ 394.151 Parents' Relinquishment of Earnings of Minor [Fam. Code § 7504]

[1] FORM Parents' Relinquishment of Earnings of Minor [Fam. Code § 7504]

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN: That _____[names of parents], parents of the minor _____ [name], relinquish their right to control and receive the earnings of _____ [name] under Family Code Section 7504. You are directed to hereafter pay the earnings of _____ [name] directly to him.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name of one parent]

_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name of other parent]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use by parents to give a minor's employer notice that the parents are relinquishing their right to receive the minor's earnings [see Fam. Code § 7404]. For further discussion, see § 394.34[2].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART IV. FORMS
A. Control of Minor's Earnings

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 394.152-394.159

[Reserved]

§§ 394.152[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART IV. FORMS
B. Duty of Support

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.160

§ 394.160 Petition to Enforce Parental Duty of Support--By Relative on Behalf of Minor Child [Fam. Code § 4000]

[1] FORM Petition to Enforce Parental Duty of Support--By Relative on Behalf of Minor Child [Fam. Code § 4000]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name of child], a minor,	)
Petitioner,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name of person from whom	)	PETITION TO ENFORCE PARENTAL DUTY OF support is sought],	)	SUPPORT
Respondent.	)
	)

_____

1. Petitioner _____ [name], is a minor and brings this action by _____ [name], his/her guardian ad litem by appointment of this court.

2. Respondent _____ [name], is petitioner's _____ [e.g., natural father], and as such, has a duty to support petitioner in a manner suitable to his/her circumstances.

3. Despite this duty, _____ [name] has willfully failed to provide support for petitioner.

4. Petitioner is currently under the primary physical custody of _____ [name], his/her _____ [e.g., mother], who has failed and refused to take steps to enforce _____ [name]'s duty of support.

5. Petitioner is/is not currently receiving public assistance under the Family Economic Security Act of 1982, Welfare and Institutions Code Section 11200 et seq. [Petitioner intends/does not intend to apply for such assistance.]

WHEREFORE, Petitioner prays for orders of court as follows:

1. Requiring _____ [name of respondent] to pay child support for the benefit of petitioner in such amounts and under such terms as are required by the statewide uniform child support guideline, Family Code Section 4050 et seq.

2. For costs of suit herein incurred, including reasonable attorney's fees;

3. For such other and further relief as the court deems proper.

_____ [date]

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Petitioner _____ [name]

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the guardian ad litem for petitioner in the above-entitled proceeding. I have read the foregoing petition and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein stated on information and belief, and, as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a petition for use by a relative of a child to obtain child support on behalf of the child from a parent under Fam. Code § 4000. The premise of the form is that there is a child who is in need of support from one parent, but the other parent has taken no steps to obtain support. In such a case, the child by a guardian ad litem may bring an action against the parent to enforce the parent's duty of support [Fam. Code § 4000; see Code Civ. Proc. § 372 (appointment of guardian ad litem)]. For forms for use to obtain the appointment of a guardian ad litem, see Ch. 291, Guardians Ad Litem .

Fam. Code § 4000 also authorizes one parent to seek child support from the other. This form may be adapted for that use if there is no other applicable proceeding between the parents, such as one for dissolution of marriage or to establish paternity, in which child support may be ordered. For further discussion, see § 394.35[2][b].

The person from whom support is sought must be served. The other parent should also be served, whether or not the child is in the physical custody of that parent. If the child is receiving AFDC or other publicbenefits, the district attorney or other local child support agency of the county providing assistance must also be served [see In re Marriage of Mena (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 12, 19, 260 Cal. Rptr. 314 ; see also Fam. Code § 4004 (disclosure of receipt or intent to apply for public assistance)].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART IV. FORMS
B. Duty of Support

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.161

§ 394.161 Petition to Enforce Child's Duty to Support Parent in Need [Fam. Code §§ 4400, 4403(a)]

[1] FORM Petition to Enforce Child's Duty to Support Parent in Need [Fam. Code §§ 4400, 4403(a)]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Petitioner,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	PETITION TO ENFORCE DUTY OF SUPPORT
Respondent.	)
	)
	)

Petitioner _____ [name], alleges:

1. Petitioner _____ [name] is the _____ [biological or adoptive] _____ [father or mother] of respondent and is in need and unable to maintain himself/herself by work because _____ (state facts that establish petitioner's inability to maintain himself/herself by work].

2. Respondent is a resident of _____ County, California.

3. Petitioner's economic resources _____ [describe source and amount, e.g., consist of SSI benefits of $_____ per month) or are set forth in the attached Income and Expense Declaration, which is incorporated by reference as though fully set forth at this point]. His/her resources are insufficient to provide for his/her reasonable needs.

4. Under Family Code Section 4400, respondent has a duty to provide support to petitioner, and currently has the ability to do so. Despite this duty and ability, respondent has failed and refused to provide any support for petitioner.

5. The sum of $_____ per month is reasonably required for petitioner's support and maintenance.

6. Petitioner does not have sufficient funds with which to pay attorney's fees or the costs of this action.

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays judgment against respondent as follows:

1. That respondent be ordered to pay petitioner the sum of $_____ per month for petitioner's support and maintenance;

2. For costs of suit herein incurred, including reasonable attorney's fees; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [date]

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Petitioner _____ [name]

[Verification. See § 394.160[1]]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a petition is for use in an action by an indigent parent to enforce the statutory duty of support owed by an adult child [see Fam. Code §§ 4400, 4403]. For further discussion, see § 394.37.

The petition alleges, in pertinent part, (1) petitioner's standing as an indigent parent (Paragraph 1) [see Fam. Code §§ 4400, 4403], (2) the basis for the amount of support requested (Paragraphs 3, 5) [see Fam. Code § 4404], and (3) respondent's failure and refusal to fulfill his or her duty of support (Paragraph 4).

[3] Attorney's Fees

An action under Fam. Code § 4403 to enforce a duty to support a parent in need may be brought by the county [Fam. Code § 4403(a)(1), (2)], and the county may be awarded attorney's fees [Fam. Code § 4403(c)]. There is no express statutory authority for an award of attorney's fees to a private party.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART IV. FORMS
B. Duty of Support

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.162

§ 394.162 Proceedings by Abandoned Child for Relief From Duty to Support Parent in Need--Petition [Fam. Code §§ 4410, 4411]

[1] FORM Proceedings by Abandoned Child for Relief From Duty to Support Parent in Need--Petition [Fam. Code §§ 4410, 4411]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Petitioner,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	PETITION FOR RELIEF FROM DUTY TO SUP-
Respondent.	)	PORT PARENT
	)
	)

Petitioner _____ [name] alleges:

1. Petitioner _____ [name] was born on _____ [date], and is the adult child of _____ [name of parent] ("the parent").

2. The parent resides in _____ County, California.

3. While petitioner was a minor, he/she was abandoned by the parent on or about _____ [date], in that _____ [set forth facts showing actual desertion with an intent to sever the parent and child relationship, e.g., the parent contributed no support to and had no contact with petitioner after his/her divorce from petitioner's mother. This abandonment continued for a period of _____ [specify duration of at least two years] before the time petitioner reached the age of eighteen years.

4. During the period when petitioner was abandoned, the parent was physically and mentally able to support petitioner but failed to do so.

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays for an order of this court as follows:

1. That petitioner be freed from all obligation imposed by law to pay for the support, care, maintenance, and the like of _____ [name of parent];

2. That petitioner be freed from all obligation imposed by law to reimburse the State of California or a local public agency for furnishing support, care, maintenance, or the like to _____ [name of parent]; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [date]

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Petitioner _____ [name]

[Verification. See § 394.160[1]]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a petition for use by adult child seeking to be freed from the obligation of supporting his or her parent on the ground that he or she was abandoned during minority by the parent [Fam. Code § 4410]. Though denominated a petition by the statute, it would most likely be used as a response in a proceeding initiated by the parent or county under Fam. Code § 4403 to impose the duty of support (see § 394.161). Absent an affirmative step to seek support, there would seem to be no reason to petition for relief from the duty.

For further discussion, see the § 394.37[3]. For additional related forms, see §§ 394.163-394.164 (notice and order).

[3] Jurisdiction and Venue

All jurisdiction under the Family Code is in the superior court [Fam. Code § 200]. The petition is to be filed in the county where the parent resides, or in the county where the adult child resides if the parent is not a California resident [Fam. Code § 4410]]

[4] Required Allegations

The petition must include all of the following allegations [Fam. Code § 4411]:

- While petitioner was a minor, he or she was abandoned by the parent;
- The abandonment continued for a period of two or more years before petitioner reached the age of

18; and

- During the period of abandonment, the parent was physically and mentally able to support petitioner.

[5] Citation and Service

On the filing of the petition, the clerk must set the matter for hearing and issue a citation directed to the parent, or the parent's conservator or personal representative. The citation must be served at least five days before the hearing [Fam. Code § 4412].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART IV. FORMS
B. Duty of Support

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.163

§ 394.163 Proceedings by Abandoned Child for Relief From Duty to Support Parent in Need--Notice of Pendency of Proceeding [Fam. Code § 4413]

[1] FORM Proceedings by Abandoned Child for Relief From Duty to Support Parent in Need--Notice of Pendency of Proceeding [Fam. Code § 4413]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Petitioner,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	NOTICE OF PENDENCY OF PROCEEDING FOR Respondent.	)	RELIEF FROM DUTY TO SUPPORT PARENT
	)
	)

To _____ [name], _____ [County Counsel or District Attorney] of the County of _____, State of California:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN of the pendency of the above-entitled proceeding, in which _____ [name of petitioner], the petitioner in the proceeding, seeks to be freed from the obligation otherwise imposed by law under Family Code Section 4410 to support _____ [name of parent], his/her parent. A hearing has been set in this matter for _____ [date], at _____ [time], _____ [Department or Division] _____, located at _____ [address].

_____ [date]

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Petitioner _____ [name]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a notice of a proceeding under Fam. Code § 4410 for relief from the legal obligation to support an indigent parent. If the parent resides in California, such a notice must be served on the county counsel of the county where the parent resides. If there is no county counsel for the parent's county of residence, it must be served on the district attorney of the county. The court lacks jurisdiction to make an order freeing the petitioner from the legal obligation to support the parent until the notice has been properly served and 30 days have elapsed since the date of service [Fam. Code § 4413].

For further discussion, see § 394.162.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART IV. FORMS
B. Duty of Support

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.164

§ 394.164 Proceedings by Abandoned Child for Relief From Duty to Support Parent in Need--Order [Fam. Code § 4414]

[1] FORM Proceedings by Abandoned Child for Relief From Duty to Support Parent in Need--Order [Fam. Code § 4414]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Petitioner,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	ORDER OR RELIEF FROM DUTY TO SUPPORT
Respondent.	)	PARENT
	)
	)

This matter came on regularly for hearing on _____ [date], in _____ (Department or Division) _____ of the above-entitled court, the Honorable _____ [name], Judge, presiding. Petitioner appeared by his/her attorney _____ [name]. _____ [Name of parent and/or conservator, or personal representative] appeared by his/her attorney _____ [name]. [_____ (Name of county counsel or district attorney) appeared for the office of the _____ (county counsel or district attorney) of _____ County, California.] Evidence, both oral and documentary, having been presented, and the cause having been argued and submitted for decision, and _____ [the court(, on request of _____ (petitioner or defendant), having caused to be made and filed herein its statement of decision or a statement of decision not having been requested],

IT IS ORDERED, ADJUDGED, AND DECREED that petitioner is freed from the obligation imposed by law to pay for the support, care, maintenance, and the like of _____ [name of parent], his/her parent, and from the obligation to reimburse the State of California or any local agency for the support, care, maintenance, and the like of _____ [name of parent].

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]

Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is an order is for use by an adult child who has filed a petition to be freed from the obligation to support his or her parent, on the ground that the parent abandoned him or her for a period of two years or more during his or her minority [see Fam. Code §§ 4410, 4411]. If, on hearing, the court determines that the allegations in the petition are true, it must make an order relieving the petitioner from the obligation otherwise imposed by law to support the parent [Fam. Code§ 4414(a)]. Such an order also releases the petitioner with respect to any state law under which a child is required to pay for the support, care, maintenance, and the like of a parent, or to reimburse the State of California or a local public agency for providing support, care, maintenance, or the like to the parent [Fam. Code § 4414(b)].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART IV. FORMS
B. Duty of Support

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.165

§ 394.165 Petition to Enforce Duty of Support by Parent on Behalf of Adult Indigent Child [Fam. Code §§ 3910(a), 4000]

[1] FORM Petition to Enforce Duty of Support by Parent on Behalf of Adult Indigent Child [Fam. Code §§ 3910(a), 4000]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____
[or other as appropriate]

_____ [name],	)
Petitioner,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name of person from whom support is sought],	)	PETITION TO ENFORCE PARENTAL DUTY TO SUPPORT ADULT INDIGENT CHILD
Respondent.	)
	)

_____

1. Petitioner, _____ [name], is the _____ [e.g., father] of _____ [name of adult indigent child], born _____ [date], and who has reached the age of majority (hereinafter, "the child"). The child resides with petitioner as a member of his/her household.

2. Respondent _____ [name], is the child's _____ [e.g., mother].

3. _____ [name of child] is incapacitated from earning a living and without sufficient means because _____ [state facts that establish that child meets standard of Fam. Code § 3910, e.g., he/she is physically disabled and confined to a wheel chair and requires 24 hour custodial supervision and care, and is unable to work].

4. The child's economic resources _____ [consist of _____ (e.g., SSI benefits of $_____ per month) or are set forth in the attached Income and Expense Declaration, which is incorporated by reference as though fully set forth at this point]. His/her resources are insufficient to provide for his/her reasonable needs.

5. Petitioner currently assists with the support of the child by _____ [e.g., maintaining the child as a member of petitioner's household at no cost to the child and by providing and paying all costs associated with the care of the child].

6. Under Family Code Section 3910, respondent has a duty to maintain the child, and currently has the ability to do so. Despite this duty and ability, respondent has failed and refused to provide any support for the child.

7. The child _____ [is or is not] currently receiving public assistance under the Family Economic Security Act of 1982, Welfare and Institutions Code Section 11200 et seq. [The child _____ (intends or does not intend) to apply for such assistance.]

WHEREFORE, Petitioner prays for orders of court as follows:

1. Requiring _____ [name of respondent] to pay support for the benefit of the child in such amounts and under such terms as the court deems proper;

2. For costs of suit herein incurred, including reasonable attorney's fees;

3. For such other and further relief as the court deems proper.

_____ [date]

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Petitioner _____ [name]

[Verification. See § 394.160 .]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a petition for use to bring an action under Fam. Code § 4000 to enforce a parent's duty under Fam. Code § 3910 to support an adult child who is incapacitated from earning a living and without sufficient means ("adult indigent child"). It is designed for use by the parent with whom the child resides to obtain support from the other parent. Such a petition may also be brought by the child through a guardian ad litem [Fam. Code § 4000]. For a form for a petition for the appointment of a guardian ad litem, see Ch. 291, Guardians ad Litem .

70 of 153 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART IV. FORMS
B. Duty of Support

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 394.166-394.169

[Reserved]

§§ 394.166[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART IV. FORMS
C. Custody and Visitation

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.170

§ 394.170 Petition for Custody and Support of Minor Children--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-260

[1] FORM Petition for Custody and Support of Minor Children--Cal. Judicial Council Form 1296.80

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is an illustrative version of the Judicial Council's approved form of Petition for Custody and Support of Minor Children [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-260]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

This form is intended for use by the parent of a minor child to obtain orders for child custody, visitation, and child support, as follows:

a. The parents are married to each other and no action is pending in any court for dissolution, legal separation, or nullity.

b. The parents have signed a Voluntary Declaration of Paternity and no action regarding the children has been filed in any other court. Although the form does not recite that the parents who signed the voluntary declaration are unmarried, that appears to be its intent, given the nature and use of the voluntary paternity declaration [see Fam. Code §§ 7571(a), 7573, 7644; see also Ch. 412, Paternity].

c. The parents are not married and have legally adopted a child together.

d. The petitioner and respondent in the proceeding have been determined to be the parents in juvenile or governmental child support case.

A notice on the form clarifies that the underlying action being brought will not terminate a marriage or establish a parental relationship.

In general, given the existence in California of widely available remedies for child custody, visitation, and support in traditional family law (including parentage) proceedings, there has been little modern need to institute a separate legal proceeding to secure custody, visitation, and support orders. However, the proceeding contemplated by this form fills a gap for those married parents who do not wish to bring a traditional dissolution, legal separation, or nullity proceeding (and who do not need domestic violence protective orders), but who are in need of custody, visitation, and support orders [cf. Fam. Code § 3120 (independent action for exclusive custody and associated support orders, as discussed in § 394.71)]. And, it enables unmarried persons who have signed a voluntary declaration of paternity or have adopted a child together to obtain such orders without having to bring a traditional parentage or other action [see generally Fam. Code §§ 7573, 7644; see also Ch. 412, Paternity].

Although the form makes reference to only three statutes [Fam. Code §§ 3120, 3400 (title of UCCJEA); Fam. Code § 3900 (parental duty of support)], it appears also to be applicable to actions under Family Code §§ 7573, and 7644 [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.110 (references to statutes and rules listed in lower right hand corner of form are advisory only)].

In using this form of petition, a completed declaration under the UCCJEA must be attached [see Fam. Code §§ 3400 et seq., 3409]. For an approved form of the UCCJEA declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-105] that this petition form requires, see Ch. 220, Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide .

In addition, if the petition alleges that a voluntary declaration of paternity has been signed, a copy of the declaration must be attached. Also, a completed Income and Expense Declaration or Financial Statement (Simplified) must be attached [see Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-150, FL-155]. The form, additionally, alludes to the use of attachments when there is insufficient space on the form to list such matters as the proposed visitation schedule [Cal. Judicial Council form FL-341], details of supervised visitation [Cal. Judicial Council form FL-341(A)], a request for child abduction prevention orders and child abduction prevention orders [Cal. Judicial Council forms FL-312, FL-341], a proposed holiday schedule [Cal. Judicial Council form FL-341(C)], a request for additional orders regarding child custody [Cal. Judicial Council form FL-341(D)], or a request for a joint legal custody order [Cal. Judicial Council form FL-341(E)] (see Paragraph 5).

A blank form of Response to Petition for Custody and Support of Minor Children [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-270] must be served on the respondent at the time of serving the petition [see § 394.171]. The Judicial Council's form of "Summons (Uniform Parentage--Petition for Custody and Support)" must be served as well [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-210]. For an illustrated form of this summons, see Ch. 412, Paternity .

Paragraph 6 of the form contains checkoff boxes by which the petitioner may request that attorney's fees be paid either by one of the parties, or that each party pay his or her own fees [Fam. Code § 3121 (court's authority to order one party to exclusive custody action to pay other party's attorney's fees and costs); see Fam. Code § 7644(b) (authorizing appropriate orders, in action based on voluntary paternity declaration, under Fam. Code § 7637, which permits "ordering any other matter in the best interest of the child"); cf. Fam. Code § 3452 (award of costs, fees, and expenses to prevailing party in enforcement action under UCCJEA); former Civ. Code § 4370 (authorizing fee awards in any proceeding under former Family Law Act, which included action for exclusive custody)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART IV. FORMS
C. Custody and Visitation

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.171

§ 394.171 Response to Petition for Custody and Support of Minor Children--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-270

[1] FORM Response to Petition for Custody and Support of Minor Children--Cal. Judicial Council Form 1296.81

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is an illustrative version of the approved Judicial Council form of Response to Petition for Custody and Support of Minor Children [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-270]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

This form is intended for use in responding to a Petition for Custody and Support of Minor Children [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-260] that has been served on the respondent along with a summons [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-210; see also Ch. 412, Paternity]. Its allegations mirror those of the petition [see § 394.170]. Within 30 days after the summons and petition have been served on the respondent, a copy of the completed response form must be served on the petitioner (or, if the petitioner is represented, on his or her counsel), and the original response form, along with proof of service, must be filed with the court.

As in the case of the petition, the response requires certain attachments, including a completed UCCJEA declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-105]. In addition, either an Income and Expense Declaration or Financial Statement (Simplified) [see Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-150, FL-155] should be attached. For illustrative, filled-in versions of those forms, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure . In addition, the following should be attached depending on the circumstances:

- If the response alleges that a voluntary declaration of paternity has been signed, a copy of the declaration [paragraph 2(b)].

- If the respondent proposes a schedule for visitation, a Child Custody and Visitation Attachment [Cal. Judicial Council form FL-311; paragraph 5(c)(1); see also Cal. Judicial Council form FL-341 (Child Custody and Visitation Order Attachment)].

- If the respondent requests supervised visitation, Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-341(A).

- If the respondent requests child abduction prevention orders, Cal. Judicial Council forms FL-312, FL-341(B).

- If the respondent proposes a holiday schedule, Cal. Judicial Council form FL-341(C) or other attachment.

- If the respondent requests additional orders regarding child custody, Cal. Judicial Council form FL-341(D) or other attachment.

- If the respondent requests joint legal custody orders, Cal. Judicial Council form FL-341(E) or other attachment.

For further discussion, see § 394.170.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART IV. FORMS
C. Custody and Visitation

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.172

§ 394.172 Relative of Deceased Parent's Petition for Visitation [Fam. Code § 3102]

[1] FORM Relative of Deceased Parent's Petition for Visitation [Fam. Code § 3102]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Petitioner,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	PETITION FOR VISITATION
Respondent.	)
	)
	)

Petitioner, _____ [name], alleges:

1. Petitioner is the _____ [specify family relationship, e.g., the matrnal grandparent] of the minor child _____ [name], born _____ [date].

2. _____ [Name of surviving parent is the _____ [mother or father] of the above-named child.

3. _____ [Name of deceased parent], the _____ [father or mother] of the above-named child, petitioner's _____ [e.g., son], is deceased, having died on _____ [date].

4. Both before and after the death of _____ [name], petitioner visited regularly with the child.

Petitioner has a warm and caring relationship with the child, and it is in the best interests of the child that this relationship continue.

5. _____ [Allege facts indicating why court order is required to compel visitation, e.g., On _____ (date), the child's mother informed petitioner that she disapproved of petitioner's interaction with the child, and that she would no longer permit petitioner to have any visitation or other contact of any kind with the child].

6. A completed declaration under the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act is attached.

WHEREFORE, Petitioner prays for orders of this court as follows:

1. For an order of this court granting petitioner visitation with the child at such times and under such conditions to be determined.

2. For costs and reasonable attorneys' fees incurred in bringing this petition.

3. And for such other relief as the court deems proper.

_____ [date]

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Petitioners _____ [names]

[Verification. See § 394.160.]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a petition under Fam. Code § 3102 for visitation rights with a child. This statute provides for visitation for the family of a deceased parent. The petition may be filed by the children, siblings, parents, or grandparents of the deceased parent [see Fam. Code § 3102(a)].

This form is based on the assumption that prior law, which allowed relatives of a deceased parent to seek visitation whether or not another proceeding concerning custody of the child was pending before a court, has not been changed by the Family Code [see former Civ. Code § 197.5; Roquemore v. Roquemore (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 912, 913, 80 Cal. Rptr. 432] . For further discussion, see § 39.74[2].

Note that the respondent in this instance is the surviving parent who has custody of the child. As with any petition involving custody or visitation, a completed UCCJEA declaration should be attached [see Fam. Code §§ 3400 et seq., 3429].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART IV. FORMS
C. Custody and Visitation

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.173

§ 394.173 Grandparents' Petition for Visitation [Fam. Code § 3104]

[1] FORM Grandparents' Petition for Visitation [Fam. Code § 3104]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Petitioner,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	PETITION FOR GRANDPARENT VISITATION
Respondent.	)
	)
	)

Petitioners _____ [names], allege:

1. Petitioners are the _____ [paternal or maternal grandparents of _____ [name of grandchild], hereinafter referred to as "the child."

2. The mother of the child is _____ [name]; the father of the child is _____ [name]. The parents _____ [are or are not] currently married to each other.

3. _____ [Allege contents of any current court order regarding custody of child, or lack of any current court order, e.g., There is currently no court order in effect regarding the legal or physical custody of the child, or granting vistiation rights with the child to anyone].

4. _____ [Allege current physical custodial status of child, including county of residence or domicile, e.g., The child is in the actual physical custody of the mother, and is currently residing with her in _____ County, California].

[5. If parents are currently married to each other allege one or more of the following: The parents are currently living separately and apart from each other on a permanent or indefinite basis. OR The child's _____ (e.g., father) has been absent for more than one month without the _____ (e.g., mother's) knowing of his/her whereabouts. OR _____ (name), the child's _____ (e.g., mother), joins in this petition. OR The child is not residing with either parent.]

6. _____ [Allege facts establishing preexisting relationship between the grandparents and grandchild, that has engendered a bond, e.g., For the first six years of her life, the child lived in the home of petitioners. During that time, petitioners were the primary care givers and custodians of the child while both parents were working. After the child no longer resided in petitioners' home, petitioners maintained regular contact with the child through frequent visitation, including taking the child on a vacation every summer. As a result of this relationship, a bond was engenderedbetween petitioners and the child such that a continued relationship among them is in the best interests of the child].

7. _____ [Allege facts indicating why court order is required to compel visitation, e.g., On or about _____ (date), the child's mother informed petitioners that she disapproved of petitioners' interaction with the child, and that she would no longer permit petitioners to have any visitation or other contact of any kind with the child].

[8. Allege need for order requiring parents to pay costs associated with visitation, if applicable, e.g., Petitioners are persons of limited financial resources, as shown by the attached Income and Expense Declaration, and are unable to entirely bear the costs related to visitation with the child.]

9. A completed declaration under the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act is attached.

WHEREFORE petitioners pray for relief as follows:

1. For an order of this court granting petitioners visitation with the child at such times and under such conditions to be determined.

[2. For an order requiring _____ (name of parent) to pay the costs related to the requested visitation.]

3. For costs and reasonable attorneys' fees incurred in bringing this petition.

4. And for such other relief as the court deems proper.

_____ [date]

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Petitioners _____ [names]

[Verification. See § 394.160.]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use by grandparents to petition for a visitation order with their grandchild if there is no other proceeding pending in which custody of the grandchild is at issue [see Fam. Code § 3104; cf. White v. Jacobs (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 122, 124, 243 Cal. Rptr. 597 (under prior law, no jurisdiction to grant visitation to grandparents unless child custody was pending in other proceeding)]. It may be adapted for use to petition for visitation within a pending proceeding, such as one for dissolution of marriage [see Fam. Code § 3103]. For further discussion of jurisdiction to grant visitation to grandparents, see § 39.74[2][b].

If the parents are married, one or more of the conditions set forth in Fam. Code § 3104(b) should be alleged (see paragraph 5). The petition should also allege facts showing a preexisting relationship between the grandparents and the grandchild that has engendered a bond such that visitation is in the best interests of the child [Fam. Code § 3104(a)(1)] (see paragraph 6).

If petitioners are unable to bear the costs of visitation, for example, airfare to transport the child across the country, costs related to the visitation may be requested [see Fam. Code § 3104(i)] (see paragraph 8). In this case, the Judicial Council Form of Income and Expense Declaration [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-150] should be attached. For an example, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure .

Note that the respondent in this instance is the surviving parent who has custody of the child.

As with any petition involving custody or visitation, a completed UCCJEA declaration should be attached [see Fam. Code §§ 3400 et seq., 3429].

[3] Service

If the petition is filed independently, the petitioner must give notice of the petition by service of summons and a copy of the petition to each of the parents of the child, any stepparent, and any person who has physical custody of the child, by personal service under Code Civ. Proc. § 415.10 [Fam. Code § 3104(c)]. If the petition is filed within a pending proceeding, the petitioner must give notice to the same persons by certified mail, return receipt requested, postage prepaid, to the person's last known address, or to the attorneys of record of th parties to the proceeding [Fam. Code § 3103(c)].

[4] Venue

Nothing in Fam. Code § 3104 indicates in what county the petition may be filed. The preferred venue is probably the county of the child's domicile. This form alleges that domicile.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART IV. FORMS
C. Custody and Visitation

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.174

§ 394.174 Request to Register Out-of-State Custody Order--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-580

[1] FORM Request to Register Out-of-State Custody Order--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-580

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is an illustration of the Judicial Council form used torequest that a California court register an out-of-state custody order. Use of the Judicial Council form is optional. The form combines the request for registration of the order with a notice or registration and clerk's certificate of mailing.

This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge. It may be filed separately from (and before) any pleadings to enforce or modify the order, or at the same time as such pleadings are filed. Note that, pursuant to statute, the request for registration may also be in the form of a "letter or other document requesting registration" [Fam. Code § 3445(a)(1); see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-580].

Under the UCCJEA, an out-of-state custody order may be registered in California, "with or without a simultaneous request for enforcement" by sending all of the following to the appropriate California court [Fam. Code § 3445(a)]:

1. A letter or other document requesting registration;

2. Two copies, including one certified copy, of the order sought to be registered, and a statement under penalty of perjury that to the best of the knowledge and belief of the person seeking registration the order has not been modified; and

3. Except in cases requiring confidentiality because of domestic violence [see Fam. Code § 3429], the name and address of the person seeking registration and any parent or person acting as a parent who has been awarded custody or visitation in the decree.

Although this registration procedure is found within a statutory provision that anticipates eventual enforcement of the order after registration [Fam. Code § 3445(a)], it also appears applicable with respect to bringing a modification proceeding after registration. A companion statute, in fact, may contemplate this, because it provides that a California court must recognize and enforce, but may not modify, a registered child custody determination of a court of another state--except in accordance with the UCCJEA standards set forth in Fam. Code § 3421 et seq. [see Fam. Code § 3446(b)].

After the order is registered, the court is required to send notice of the registration to the persons whose names and addresses were set forth in the registration request and provide them with an opportunity to contest the registration. A person seeking to contest the validity of the registered order must request a hearing within 20 days after service of the notice. For an optional Judicial Council form for requesting a hearing, see § 394.176.

If a hearing is held, the court must confirm the registered order unless the contestant establishes at least one of the grounds set forth in Fam. Code § 3445(d) (the issuing court's lack of UCCJEA jurisdiction; that the decree has been vacated, stayed or modified; or the contestant was not afforded proper notice in the underlying proceeding). In addition, the registered order will be confirmed as a matter of law if a timely request for a hearing is not made. Confirmation of a registered order, whether by operation of law or after notice and a hearing, precludes further contest of the order regarding any matter that could have been asserted at the time of registration [Fam. Code § 3445(b)-(f)].

For related discussion of registering a sister-state custody order for the purpose of enforcement, see Ch. 260, Family Law Enforcement: Foreign Judgments .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART IV. FORMS
C. Custody and Visitation

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.175

§ 394.175 Petition to Modify Registered Decree

[1] FORM Petition to Modify Registered Sister-State Custody Decree

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Petitioner,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	PETITION TO MODIFY REGISTERED SISTER-
_____ [name],	)	STATE CUSTODY DECREE
Respondent	)	[Code Civ. Proc. § 1913; Fam. Code §§ 3423, 3445, 3446(b)]
	)
	)

Petitioner alleges:

1. Petitioner _____[name] is the _____ [e.g., mother] of the _____[name of child], a minor, born _____[date], in _____[place of birth].

2. Respondent, _____[name] is the _____ [e.g., father] of the above-named child.

3. Petitioner and respondent were married at the times of the child's conception and birth. Thereafter, they were divorced by a decree of _____[name and state of court] dated _____. The child was determined to be a child of the marriage in the decree of divorce.

4. Under the above decree of divorce, _____ [specify custody and visitation provisions of decree, e.g.,

petitioner was granted primary physical custody of the child, subject to respondent's right to exercise "reasonable" visitation. Respondent's visitation rights are not further expressed or enumerated]. There have been no modifications of that judgment to date.

5. Thereafter, both parties permanently left the state of _____[decree state]. Petitioner and the child moved to California on _____[date], and California has been the continuous residence and domicile of the child since that time. California is now the child's home state within the meaning of the Parental Kidnapping Prevention Act (Title 28 of the United States Code, Section 1738A(b)(4), (c)(2)(A)), and the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act (Sections 3402(g) and 3421(a)(1) of the California Family Code).

6. Respondent moved to _____[state of current residence] on _____[date], and no longer retains any domicile or residence in, or significant contacts with, the state of _____[decree state]. _____[Decree state], therefore, no longer has continuing jurisdiction under the Parental Kidnapping Prevention Act (Title 28 United States Code, Section 1738A(d)), and the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act (Section 3423 of the California Family Code).

7. _____ [Specify facts supporting modification of custody decree, e.g., On _____ (date), Respondent called petitioner and requested that the child be sent to Minnesota for a period of two months during Summer vacation. Petitioner is willing to grant the custodial period as requested, but only if the current custody and visitation order is modified to require respondent to return the child to petitioner's custody on or before _____ (date), thereby giving Petitioner an enforceable right to resume physical custody as of that date].

8. Petitioner has registered two copies of the above sister-state custody decree, at least one of which is certified, with the clerk of this court as provided by Section 3445 of the California Family Code. This registered decree _____ [has been confirmed without a hearing by operation of law under Section 3445(e) of the California Family Code or has been confirmed after court hearing under Section 3445(d) of the California Family Code and a certified copy of this court's confirmation order is attached or has not yet been confirmed, and petitioner will seek leave to amend this petition hereafter to set forth the circumstances of confirmation and will provide the court with a certified copy of any confirmation order issued hereafter].

9. A completed declaration under the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act is attached.

10. Petitioner has insufficient funds to pay the amount reasonable necessary for the cost of maintaining this proceeding and for attorney's fees. Respondent has the ability to pay these amounts.

WHEREFORE, Petitioner prays judgment as follows:

1. For an order modifying the _____[decree state] custody order of _____[date], to provide _____ [specify, e.g., that respondent may have the temporary physical custody of the child from _____ (date), through _____ (date), inclusive, and that petitioner shall have physical custody at all other times];

2. For an order requiring respondent to pay the cost of round-trip airfare from California to _____[state of Respondent's residence];

3. For reasonable attorney's fees;

4. For costs of suit herein incurred;

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____[date]

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Petitioner _____ [name]

[Verification. See form in § 394.160.]

[2] Use of Form

The form of petition in [1], above is for use to to petition to modify a sister-state custody decree under the UCCJEA and PKPA after it has been established of record in California [see Fam. Code §§ 3445, 3446(b); for a form of request to register the sister-state decree, see § 394.174, above]. Although the UCCJEA does not specify a procedure for modifying a sister-state custody decree, the procedures set forth for enforcement by means of petition [see Fam. Code § 3448] suggest, by parity of reasoning, that a similar process would be appropriate for modification proceedings. In addition, the Code of Civil Procedure permits an action or special proceeding to be brought to establish a sister-state judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1913(a); Hamilton v. Superior Court (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 418, 422, 112 Cal. Rptr. 450] . Once so established, California then generally has the same right to modify the judgment as the court that rendered it [see Leverett v. Superior Court of Alameda County (1963) 222 Cal. App. 2d 126, 130-132, 34 Cal. Rptr. 784] , subject to the jurisdictional requirements of the PKPA and UCCJEA for custody modification [see 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(f); Fam. Code § 3423].

The situation contemplated by this petition involves divorced parents, neither of whom continues to reside in the state that issued the divorce decree and custody order. The child and one parent now live in California, and that parent wants to modify the custodial arrangement. The circumstances are now such that California has modification jurisdiction under the UCCJEA and PKPA [see 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(f); Fam. Code § 3423]. For purposes of illustration, it is assumed that California has become the child's "home state." The PKPA and UCCJEA permit a child's new home state (see § 394.107) to assume jurisdiction over the custody of a child if the decree state no longer has continuing jurisdiction [Fam. Code § 3423(b); 28 U.S.C. § 1738A(f); Lough v. Superior Court (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 136, 142-143, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 250] . Other possible bases for the exercise of California jurisdiction are set forth in § 394.110, and this form may be modified accordingly to allege additional or alternative bases.

As with any petition involving custody or visitation, a completed UCCJEA declaration should be attached [see Fam. Code §§ 3400 et seq., 3429]. For further discussion of modification jurisdiction under the PKPA and UCCJEA, see § 394.110.

Counsel should also prepare a summons for use with the petition. The general civil summons [Cal. Judicial Council Form 982(a)(9)] appears most appropriate for this purpose, rather than the standard family law summons, because the family law summons is directed to dissolution proceedings and contains restraining orders that would not necessarily apply in the context of interstate custody proceedings. The Judicial Council form of summons is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 394 PARENT AND CHILD
PART IV. FORMS
C. Custody and Visitation

34-394 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 394.176

§ 394.176 Request for Hearing Regarding Registration of Out-Of-State Custody Decree--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-585

[1] FORM Request for Hearing Regarding Registration of Out-Of-State Custody DecreeBCal. Judicial Council Form FL-585

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is the Judicial Council form of Request for Hearing Regarding Registration of Out-Of-State Custody Decree [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-585], approved for optional use. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

At least one of the boxes in paragraph 2.a., 2.b., or 2.c. should be checked, inasmuch as the court must confirm the registered order unless a person contesting registration establishes one of the grounds stated in these paragraphs [see Fam. Code § 3445(d)].

Counsel should obtain a hearing date from the court and fill in paragraph 1, accordingly. A request for hearing to contest registration must be filed within 20 days of receipt of the notice of registration. Failure to timely contest registration will result in the registration of the out-of-state order being confirmed in California by operation of law [see Fam. Code § 3445(c), (e)].

See also § 394.174[2].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 395.syn

§ 395.syn Synopsis to Chapter 395: PARTIES

§ 395.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 395.02 Cross References

§§ 395.03-395.09 [Reserved]

§ 395.10 Governing Law

§ 395.11 Joinder and Intervention Distinguished

§ 395.12 Capacity and Standing to Sue Distinguished

[1] Capacity to Sue

[2] Standing to Sue

[3] Objecting to Lack of Capacity

[4] Objecting to Lack of Standing

[5] Standing Established by Law

§ 395.13 Definitions

[1] Joinder of Parties

[2] Proper Parties

[3] Necessary Parties

[4] Indispensable Party

§ 395.14 Purpose of Joinder Statutes

§ 395.15 Permissive Joinder of Plaintiffs

[1] Nature of Permissive Joinder

[2] When Permitted

[3] Single or Separate Judgment

[4] Jurisdictional Limits and Classification of Civil Actions

§ 395.16 Permissive Joinder of Defendants

[1] When Permissible

[2] Doubt as to Liability

§ 395.17 Separate Trials and Protective Orders

§ 395.18 Discretionary Joinder of Omitted Party

§ 395.19 Compulsory Joinder

[1] When Required

[2] Complete Relief

[3] Impair Nonparty's Ability to Protect Interest

[4] Substantial Risk That Party Will Be Subject to Inconsistent Obligations

[5] Relevance of Cases Decided Prior to 1971 Amendment of Code Civ. Proc. § 389

[6] Cases Decided Under Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 19, as Persuasive Authority

[7] Failure to Join

§ 395.20 Joinder in Cross Action

§ 395.21 Procedure

[1] Permissive Joinder of Party

[2] Compulsory Joinder of New Party

[3] Joinder of Omitted Party

[4] Unwilling Plaintiff

[5] Objections to Joinder, Misjoinder, and Nonjoinder

[6] Plaintiff's Obligation to Amend Pleadings

§ 395.22 Review

§§ 395.23-395.29 [Reserved]

§ 395.30 Governing Law

§ 395.31 Definition

§ 395.32 Purpose

§ 395.33 Types of Intervention

§ 395.34 Permissive Intervention

[1] Who May Intervene

[2] Direct Interest

[3] Consequential Interest

[4] Consequential Interest Becoming Direct

[5] Right to Intervene

§ 395.35 Mandatory Intervention

§ 395.36 Time to Intervene

§ 395.37 Effect of Intervention

§ 395.38 Procedures

[1] Mode of Intervention

[2] Pleadings by Intervenor

[3] Pleadings in Opposition to Intervention

[4] Failure to Object

§ 395.39 Review

§§ 395.40-395.49 [Reserved]

§ 395.50 Related Matthew Bender Publications

§ 395.51 State Statutes

[1] Joinder of Parties

[2] Specific Statutory Authorization

§ 395.52 California Rules of Court

§ 395.53 Decisions

[1] Real Party in Interest

[2] Voluntary Intrusion Into Lawsuit

[3] Joinder of Parties Generally

[4] Compulsory Joinder

[a] Classification of Parties

[i] Generally

[ii] Proper Parties

[iii] Necessary Parties

[iv] Indispensable Parties

[b] When Absence Would Impair Ability to Protect Interest

[c] When Action Affects Undetermined Interest of Omitted Party

[d] When Affirmative Relief Sought Affecting Others

[e] When Complete Relief Cannot Be Accorded

[f] When Not Required

[g] When Parties Subject to Inconsistent Obligations

[5] Permissive Joinder

[a] Joint Tortfeasors

[b] New Party Defendant

[c] New Party Plaintiff

[d] When Not Permitted

[6] Procedures for Joinder

[a] Amendment of Complaint

[b] Court's Own Motion

[c] Cross Complaint

[d] Ex Parte Application

[e] Noticed Motion for Order Compelling Joinder

[7] Procedures for Objecting to Joinder, Misjoinder, or Nonjoinder

[a] Demurrer

[b] Protective Order

[c] Separate Trials

[8] Resulting Effect of Joinder or Nonjoinder

[9] Review

[10] Statute of Limitations

[11] Venue

[12] Waiver of Object to Misjoinder

§ 395.54 Law Reviews

§ 395.55 Text References

§§ 395.56-395.59 [Reserved]

§ 395.60 Related Matthew Bender Publications

§ 395.61 State Statutes

[1] Intervention

[2] Specific Statutory Authorization

§ 395.62 Decisions

[1] Appeal

[2] Attorney's Fees

[3] Consequential Interest

[4] Consequential Interest Becoming Direct

[5] Direct Interest

[6] Dismissal of Action

[7] Grounds for Intervention

[8] Independent Status of Intervenor

[9] Mode of Intervention

[10] Procedural Requirements

[11] Purpose of Allowing Intervention

[12] Right to Intervene--Determination

[13] Time of Intervention

§ 395.63 Law Reviews

§ 395.64 Text References

§§ 395.65-395.69 [Reserved]

§ 395.70 Plaintiff's Joinder of New Party

[1] Permissive Joinder of Plaintiff Under Code Civ. Proc. § 378

[a] Preliminary Determinations

[b] Procedural Determinations

[i] Jurisdiction and Classification of the Case

[ii] Grounds for Joinder

[c] Procedures for Joinder

[2] Permissive Joinder of Defendant Under Code Civ. Proc. § 379

[a] Preliminary Determinations

[b] Procedural Determinations

[i] Preliminary Considerations

[ii] Procedural Considerations

[iii] Grounds for Joinder

[c] Procedures for Joinder

[3] Compulsory Joinder

[a] Procedural Determinations

[i] Preliminary Considerations

[ii] Grounds for Joinder

[b] Procedures for Joinder

[4] Preparation, Service, and Filing of Papers

[a] Notice of Motion to Amend

[b] Complaint and Amended Complaint

§ 395.71 Defendant's Joinder of New Party

[1] Preliminary Determinations

[a] Procedural Determinations

[i] Preliminary Considerations

[ii] Grounds for Joinder of New Party

[b] Procedures for Joining New Party

[2] Preparation, Service, and Filing of Papers

[a] Motion to Compel Joinder

[b] Cross Complaint

§ 395.72 Omitted Party Seeking Joinder

[1] Compulsory Joinder

[a] Procedural Determinations

[i] Jurisdiction

[ii] Grounds for Joining Pending Action

[b] Procedures for Application for Joinder

[2] Joinder of Party Having Interest in Property

[a] Procedural Determinations

[i] Jurisdiction

[ii] Grounds For Joining Pending Action Under Code Civ. Proc. § 389.5

[b] Procedures for Application for Joinder

[3] Preparation, Service, and Filing of Papers

§§ 395.73-395.79 [Reserved]

§ 395.80 Defendant's Objection to Misjoinder

[1] Permissive Joinder of New Party Plaintiff

[2] Permissive Joinder of New Party Defendant

[3] Compulsory Joinder of New Party by Plaintiff

[4] Compulsory Joinder of New Party by Defendant

[5] Compulsory Joinder of New Party by Omitted Party

[6] Joinder of Party Having Interest in Property

[7] Procedures for Objecting to Misjoinder

[8] Preparation, Service, and Filing of Papers

[a] Answer

[b] Demurrer

[c] Motion for Severance

§ 395.81 Defendant's or Plaintiff's Objection to Joinder

[1] Permissive Joinder of New Party Plaintiff

[2] Permissive Joinder of New Party Defendant

[3] Compulsory Joinder of New Party by Plaintiff

[4] Compulsory Joinder of New Party by Defendant

[5] Compulsory Joinder of New Party by Omitted Party

[6] Joinder of Party Having Interest in Property

[7] Procedures for Objecting to Joinder

[8] Preparation, Service, and Filing of Papers

§ 395.82 Defendant's Objection to Nonjoinder

[1] Compulsory Joinder of New Party by Plaintiff

[2] Compulsory Joinder of New Party by Defendant

[3] Compulsory Joinder of New Party by Omitted Party

[4] Joinder of Party Having Interest in Property

[5] Procedures for Objecting to Nonjoinder

[6] Preparation, Service, and Filing of Papers

[a] Answer

[b] Demurrer

§§ 395.83-395.89 [Reserved]

§ 395.90 Intervenor's Guide

[1] Preliminary Determination of Nature of Prospective Intervenor's Interest in Action

[2] Time of Intervention

[3] Alternative Procedures Available

[4] Mode of Intervention

[5] Preparation, Service, and Filing of Papers

§ 395.91 Opposing Party's Guide

[1] Preliminary Determinations

[2] Objecting to Intervention

§§ 395.92-395.99 [Reserved]

§ 395.100 Proceedings for Leave to Amend Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a)] to Bring in New Party--Permissive Joinder by Plaintiff of Party Plaintiff [Code Civ. Proc. § 378]--Notice of Motion

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Accompanying Papers

[4] Related Uses

[5] Cross References

§ 395.101 Proceedings for Leave to Amend Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a)] to Bring in New Party--Permissive Joinder by Plaintiff of Party Plaintiff [Code Civ. Proc. § 378]--Supporting Declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 395.102 Proceedings for Leave to Amend Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a)] to Bring in New Party--Permissive Joinder by Plaintiff of Party Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 379]--Notice of Motion

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Accompanying Papers

[4] Requirements for Joinder in Negligence Action

[5] Related Uses

[6] Cross References

§ 395.103 Proceedings for Leave to Amend Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a)] to Bring in New Party--Permissive Joinder by Plaintiff of Party Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 379]--Supporting Declaration

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 395.104 Proceedings for Leave to Amend Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a)] to Bring in New Party--Compulsory Joinder by Plaintiff of Party Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 389]--Notice of Motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Accompanying Papers

[4] Related Uses

[5] Cross References

§ 395.105 Proceedings for Leave to Amend Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a)] to Bring in New

Party--Compulsory Joinder by Plaintiff of Party Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 389]--Supporting Declaration

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 395.106 Proceedings for Leave to Amend Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a)] to Bring in New Party--Permissive [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 378, 379] or Compulsory [Code Civ. Proc. § 389] Joinder by Plaintiff of Party Plaintiff or Defendant--Order Granting Motion

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 395.107 Proceedings for Order Compelling Joinder of Omitted Party [Code Civ. Proc. § 389]--By Defendant or Omitted Party--Notice of Motion

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Accompanying Papers

[4] Cross References

§ 395.108 Proceedings for Order Compelling Joinder of Omitted Party [Code Civ. Proc. § 389]--By Defendant or Omitted Party--Supporting Declaration

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 395.109 Proceedings for Order Compelling Joinder of Omitted Party [Code Civ. Proc. § 389]--By Defendant or Omitted Party--Order Granting Motion

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 395.110 Proceedings for Order Compelling Joinder of Omitted Party as Plaintiff or Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 389.5]--By Omitted Person Having Interest in Property--Notice of Motion

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Accompanying Papers

[4] Alternative Procedures

[5] Cross References

§ 395.111 Proceedings for Order Compelling Joinder of Omitted Party as Plaintiff or Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 389.5]--By Omitted Person Having Interest in Property--Supporting Declaration

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 395.112 Proceedings for Order Compelling Joinder of Omitted Party as Plaintiff or Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 389.5]--By Omitted Person Having Interest in Property--Order Granting Motion

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§§ 395.113-395.119 [Reserved]

§ 395.120 Proceedings for Order Granting Leave to Intervene in Pending Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 387]--Notice of Motion

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Accompanying Papers

[4] Alternative Procedures

[5] Filing Fees

[6] Cross References

§ 395.121 Proceedings for Order Granting Leave to Intervene in Pending Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 387]--Declaration in Support of Motion

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Alternate Uses

[4] Cross References

§ 395.122 Proceedings for Order Granting Leave to Intervene in Pending Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 387]--Order

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Necessity for Complaint in Intervention

[4] Cross References

§ 395.123 Proceedings for Order Granting Leave to Intervene in Pending Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 387]--Ex Parte Application, Declaration, and Order

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Requirement for Affidavit or Declaration

[4] Text References

[5] Cross References

§ 395.124 Proceedings for Order Granting Leave to Intervene in Pending Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 387]--Application for Order to Show Cause Why Leave Should Not Be Granted to File a Complaint in Intervention

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Accompanying Papers

[4] Filing Fees

[5] Cross References

§ 395.125 Proceedings for Order Granting Leave to Intervene in Pending Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 387]--Order to Show Cause Why Leave Should Not Be Granted to File Complaint in Intervention

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Order to Show Cause Distinguished

[4] Cross References

§ 395.126 Proceedings for Order Granting Leave to Intervene in Pending Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 387]--Order Granting Oral Application for Leave to Intervene

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 395.127 Complaint in Intervention [Code Civ. Proc. § 387]--General Form

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Requirements for Complaint in Intervention

[4] Cross References

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART I. SCOPE

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.01

§ 395.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses and contains forms related to:

- Joinder of parties to a pending action, and forms for use in bringing additional parties into a pending action [see § 395.110 et seq., for forms, see § 395.100 et seq.].

- Intervention of parties in a pending action [see § 395.30 et seq., for forms, see § 395.120 et seq.].

The forms relating to joinder of parties are:

- Notices of motions by plaintiff for leave to amend the complaint to bring in a new party under the statutes governing permissive [see §§ 395.100 and 395.102] or compulsory joinder [see § 395.104], with supporting declarations [see §§ 395.101, 395.103, and 395.105], and an order permitting plaintiff to amend the complaint [see § 395.106].

- Notice of motion by a defendant or omitted party to compel joinder [see § 395.107], with a supporting declaration [see § 395.108] and order directing plaintiff to join the omitted party [see § 395.109].

- Notice of motion by a party having an interest in property for an order permitting joinder [see § 395.110], with a supporting declaration [see § 395.111], and an order [see § 395.112].

The forms relating to intervention are:

- Notice of motion for order granting leave to intervene [see § 395.120], with supporting declaration [see § 395.121], and order granting leave to intervene [see § 395.1 22].

- Ex parte application, declaration, and order granting leave to intervene [see § 395.123].

- Application for order to show cause why intervention should not be granted [see § 395.124].
- Order to show cause why intervention should not be granted [see § 395.125].
- Order granting oral application for leave to intervene [see § 395.126].
- Complaint in intervention [see § 395.127].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART I. SCOPE

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.02

§ 395.02 Cross References

- For forms of special demurrers raising the objection of lack of capacity to sue, see Ch. 3, Abatement of Actions, § 3.30 et seq.

- For a form of affirmative defense that the plaintiff lacks capacity to sue, see Ch. 3, Abatement of Actions, § 3.30 et seq.

- For forms of demurrers raising the objection of misjoinder of parties, see Ch. 3, Abatement of Actions, 3.70 et seq.

- For forms for use in a proceeding for an order substituting a representative for a deceased party, see Ch. 21, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings .

- For a caption of a complaint to quiet title by adverse possession naming known and unknown defendants, see Ch. 13, Adverse Possession .

- For allegations raising the defense that the plaintiff assignor is not the real party in interest, see Ch. 60, Assignments .

- For captions and allegations in pleadings by, on behalf of, and against unincorporated associations and members, see Ch. 61, Associations and Clubs .

- For notice of motion and order for leave to file a cross complaint to bring in a new party, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints .

- For a form of general demurrer raising the objection that the plaintiff lacks standing to sue, see Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings .

- For forms for use in proceedings for appointment of a guardian ad litem for a minor or incompetent person, see Ch. 291, Guardians ad Litem .

- For forms for use in actions in interpleader generally, see Ch. 314, Interpleader .

- For a notice of appeal on order denying intervention, see Ch. 42, Appeal: Notice of Appeal, § 42.80[4].

- For form of complaint in intervention for use in proceedings in intervention for removal of a trustee, see Ch. 560, Trusts: Express, Public, Charitable, and Totten Trusts .

- For forms for use in proceedings in intervention by an insurance carrier in worker's compensation action, see Ch. 577, Workers' Compensation .

- For additional and alternative forms for use in actions involving joinder of parties, see Ch. 3, Abatement of Actions , Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions , and Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints .

- For discussions, forms, and procedural guides concerning demurrers and motions to strike, see Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings , and Ch. 375, Motions to Strike: Pleadings , and Ch. 376, Motions to Strike: Anti-SLAPP . For discussions, forms, and procedural guides concerning motions generally, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART I. SCOPE

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 395.03-395.09

[Reserved]

§§ 395.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.10

§ 395.10 Governing Law

The requirement that actions be prosecuted in the name of the real party in interest is set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 367, subject to statutory exceptions [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc §§ 369, 1368.3].

Proceedings for bringing additional parties into a pending action are governed by the Code of Civil Procedure. Permissive joinder of a new party plaintiff is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 378 and permissive joinder of a new party defendant by Code Civ. Proc. § 379. Compulsory joinder is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 389. Discretionary joinder of an omitted party having an interest in property is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 389.5. Intervention is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 387. Proceedings for substituting new parties are governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 368.5 (transferee of interest generally), 366.30 et seq. (continuation of action on plaintiff's death), and 366.40 et seq. and 366.50 (continuation of action on defendant's death); interpleader by Code Civ. Proc. § 386; and substituting new names for fictitious names by Code Civ. Proc. § 474. A new party may also be brought into a pending action by cross complaint, which is governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 428.10-428.80. In addition, there are a number of specific statutes authorizing joinder of parties and intervention [see Research Guide at § 395.50 et seq.].

Permissive joinder of parties is governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 378, 379, and 382. Cross complaints are governed generally by Code Civ. Proc. § 428.10 and joinder of cross complainants and cross defendants is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 428.20. Compulsory joinder of parties is governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 389, 389.5. Amended and supplemental pleadings are governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 464, 472, and 473(a).

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.11

§ 395.11 Joinder and Intervention Distinguished

Joinder of parties is the act of uniting as parties to an action all persons who have the same rights or against whom rights are claimed as coplaintiffs or codefendants [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 378, 379, 379.5, 389, 389.5]. Intervention is the procedure by which a third person, not originally a party to the action, but claiming an interest in the subject matter of the action, enters into the case through a complaint in intervention in order to protect a right or interpose a claim [see Code Civ. Proc. § 387].

A person who is required to be joined in an action under Code Civ. Proc. § 389 may also have a right to intervene under Code Civ. Proc. § 387 if he or she has a sufficient interest in the subject matter of the action before the court, and counsel may choose to have a party brought into the action under either or both statutes [Crofton v. Young (1941) 48 Cal. App. 2d 452, 455-456, 119 P.2d 1003] . In addition, a person having an interest in real or personal property that is the subject of the action before the court may apply to the court to be made a party by amendment of the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 389.5].

A person may be so situated that he or she may become a party either by joinder under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 389, 389.5 or by intervention under Code Civ. Proc. § 387. In such a situation, the determination of whether to proceed under the joinder statutes or by way of intervention may be based on whether the omitted party can adequately plead his or her case within the framework of the existing pleadings. If so, he or she may move for an order compelling joinder; if not, he or she may seek leave to intervene and file a new complaint in intervention setting forth the allegations in his or her own terms.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.12

§ 395.12 Capacity and Standing to Sue Distinguished

[1] Capacity to Sue

Capacity to sue is the right to come into court [Parker v. Bowron (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 344, 351, 254 P.2d 6 ; Friendly Village Community Assn., Inc. v. Silva & Hill Constr. Co. (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 220, 224, 107 Cal. Rptr. 123 ; see also Klopstock v. Superior Court (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 13, 18-19, 108 P.2d 906] . All persons have the capacity to sue unless limited by statute. This includes corporations, unincorporated associations, partnerships, and public entities [see Code Civ. Proc. § 369.5(a) (unincorporated associations and partnerships); Corp. Code § 207 (granting corporations all the powers of a natural person in carrying out their business activities); Gov. Code § 945 (public entities)].

Minors, insane or incompetent persons, and persons for whom a conservator has been appointed, for example, lack capacity to sue in that they are generally required to sue through a guardian or conservator of their estate or a guardian ad litem appointed by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 372; see also Klopstock v. Superior Court (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 13, 18, 108 P.2d 906] . The appointment of the guardian, conservator, or guardian ad litem should be alleged in the complaint. For discussion and forms relating to appointment of conservators and guardians, see Ch. 280, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Appointment of Guardians , and Ch. 281, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Appointment of Conservators . For discussion and forms relating to the appointment of guardians ad litem, see Ch. 291, Guardians ad Litem .

For further discussion of lack of capacity to sue, see Ch. 3, Abatement of Actions, § 3.30 et seq.

[2] Standing to Sue

Whereas capacity to sue goes to the right of a person to come into court, standing to sue goes to the issue of the right of a person who has capacity to sue to sue for relief on the cause of action alleged [see Parker v. Bowron (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 344, 351, 254 P.2d 6 ; American Alternative Energy Partners II v. Windridge, Inc. (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 551, 559, 49 Cal Rptr. 2d 686 ; Friendly Village Community Assn., Inc. v. Silva & Hill Constr. Co. (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 220, 224, 107 Cal. Rptr. 123] . Statute requires that, subject to statutory exceptions [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc §§ 369, 1368.3 (discussed in § 395.12[5])], every action must be prosecuted in the name of the real party in interest [Code Civ.

Proc. § 367].

The real party in interest is one having an actual and substantial interest in the subject matter of the action and who would be benefitted or injured by the judgment in the action [County of Alameda v. State Bd. of Control (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1096, 1103, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 487 , quoting Friendly Village Community Assn., Inc. v. Silva & Hill Constr. Co. (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 220, 225, 107 Cal. Rptr. 123 ; see Redevelopment Agency v. Commission on State Mandates (1996) 43 Cal. App. 4th 1188, 1197, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 100 (real party in interest generally defined as any person or entity whose interest will be directly affected by proceeding; real party in interest may be entity in whose favor act complained of operates); Ventura County Ry. Co. v. Hadley Auto Transport (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 878, 880, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 362 (real party in interest is person possessing right sued on according to substantive law)]. If the cause of action alleged shows an invasion of plaintiff's legally protected interests under the substantive law, nothing further is required. But, if the cause of action exists in favor of some person other than the plaintiff, the plaintiff is not the real party in interest, and he or she, although having the legal capacity to sue, lacks standing to sue on the cause of action pleaded [Pillsbury v. Karmgard (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 743, 756, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 491 ; Torres v. City of Yorba Linda (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 1035, 1041, 1043, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 400 ; Friendly Village Community Assn., Inc. v. Silva & Hill Constr. Co. (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 220, 224, 107 Cal. Rptr. 123 ; see Schmier v. Supreme Court (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 703, 707-708, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 580 (lack of standing)].

For example, an individual plaintiff facing the prospect of retroactive application of a statute has a strong interest in defeating retroactivity and has the requisite standing to raise that issue, whereas consumer/taxpayer/citizens plaintiffs who are only slightly and academically concerned with that issue lack standing to raise it [Quackenbush v. Superior Court (1997) 60 Cal. App. 4th 454, 464-465, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 271 (relating to Proposition 213, the Personal Responsibility Act of 1996, adding Civ. Code §§ 3333.3, 3333.4)].

[3] Objecting to Lack of Capacity

The objection that the plaintiff lacks capacity to sue is a plea in abatement [Parker v. Bowron (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 344, 351, 254 P.2d 6] that is raised by a special demurrer when the lack of capacity appears on the face of the complaint or from matter of which the court must or may take judicial notice [see Evid. Code §§ 451, 452], or by answer when the lack of capacity does not so appear and must be shown by extrinsic evidence [see Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(b)]. It is a technical objection and must be pled specifically. Thus an affirmative defense or demurrer that contains a general assertion that plaintiff has not stated a cause of action is insufficient [Color-Vue, Inc. v. Abrams (1996) 44 Cal. App. 4th 1599, 1604, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 443] . For discussion and forms of demurrer and affirmative defense based on lack of capacity to sue, see Ch. 3, Abatement of Actions, § 3.30 et seq.]. If the court sustains an objection for lack of capacity to sue, leave to substitute a party or entity having the requisite capacity may be granted by the court [American Alternative Energy Partners II v. Windridge, Inc. (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 551, 559, 49 Cal Rptr. 2d 686] .

Failure to object by demurrer or answer constitutes a waiver of the objection [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.80(a)] and cannot, therefore, be urged for the first time on appeal [Parker v. Bowron (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 344, 351, 254 P.2d 6 (involving predecessor statutes); see American Alternative Energy Partners II v. Windridge, Inc. (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 551, 559, 49 Cal Rptr. 2d 686 (waiver in absence of appropriately raised objection)]. Once a plea in abatement is waived a court will rarely be justified in permitting the defense to be made later. However, in the unusual circumstance when a corporation announces that it does not intend to pay its delinquent taxes, a trial court may properly relieve a defendant from defendant's waiver and permit the defendant to assert the corporation's lack of capacity to sue [Color-Vue, Inc. v. Abrams (1996) 44 Cal. App. 4th 1599, 1604 n.5, 1605, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 443 (defendant's waiver of plea not relieved; when suspension of corporate powers occurred after time to demur or answer had passed, defendants should have moved court for leave to file amended answer asserting plea)].

[4] Objecting to Lack of Standing

The objection that the plaintiff lacks standing to sue is normally raised by the filing of a general demurrer to the complaint alleging that the complaint fails to state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action [see Code Civ Proc. § 430.10(e)] in that it shows on its face that plaintiff lacks standing to sue for the reason specified in the demurrer [see Friendly Village Community Assn., Inc. v. Silva & Hill Constr. Co. (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 220, 224, 107 Cal. Rptr. 123 ; see also Sacramento County Fire Protection Dist. v. Sacramento County Assessment Appeals Bd. (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 327, 331, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 215 (standing to sue goes toexistence of cause of action; demurrer can be used to challenge standing); for a form of general demurrer on this ground, see Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings]. If the complaint states a cause of action in someone, but not in the plaintiff, a general demurrer for failure to state a cause of action will be sustained [Parker v. Bowron (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 344, 351, 254 P.2d 6 ; Ventura County Ry. Co. v. Hadley Auto Transport (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 878, 880, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 362 ; see Klopstock v. Superior Court (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 13, 19, 108 P.2d 906 ; Schmier v. Supreme Court (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 703, 707, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 580] . If it further appears that the complaint cannot be amended to state a cause of action in the plaintiff, the demurrer is properly sustained without leave to amend [see Friendly Village Community Assn., Inc. v. Silva & Hill Constr. Co. (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 220, 225-226, 107 Cal. Rptr. 123] . Conversely, if the plaintiff can amend the complaint to substitute for plaintiff the real party in interest, plaintiff should be allowed to do so, so long as the amended complaint does not introduce a wholly different cause of action [see Klopstock v. Superior Court (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 13, 19-22, 108 P.2d 906 (amendment of complaint in a derivative action on behalf of a corporation to substitute for the nominal party plaintiff, who had no standing to sue, the nominal party having standing to sue, and adding an allegation of her capacity)]. Amendments to substitute a plaintiff with standing for one who is not a real party in interest are freely allowed [Charpentier v. Los Angeles Rams Football Co. (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 301, 308, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 115] .

A complaint that fails to disclose the right to sue is not only subject to a general demurrer (or to a motion for judgment on the pleadings) [see discussion in Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings], but may also be challenged at trial by an objection to the introduction of any evidence [Parker v. Bowron (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 344, 351, 254 P.2d 6] , or by a motion for nonsuit [see Pillsbury v. Karmgard (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 743, 757-758, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 491] , or on appeal, despite a failure to demur [Parker v. Bowron (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 344, 351, 254 P.2d 6 ; see also Klopstock v. Superior Court (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 13, 18, 108 P.2d 906 ; Color-Vue, Inc. v. Abrams (1996) 44 Cal. App. 4th 1599, 1604, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 443 (lack of standing not waived by failure to timely object; lack of standing can be raised at any time, even for first time on appeal)]. However, despite the rule that a failure to state of cause of action may be raised at any time during the trial and also on appeal, standing to sue is not a jurisdictional requirement, and reversal on appeal of a judgment in favor of a person lacking standing is justified and required only if the error complained of was of a prejudicial nature resulting in a miscarriage of justice [In re Eugene W. (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 623, 631, 105 Cal. Rptr. 736 (no prejudice when complaint showed that plaintiff, who sued in individual capacity, was a county child welfare worker who, in that capacity, had standing to sue and defendant received notice and attended hearings)].

[5] Standing Established by Law

A person who otherwise would lack standing to sue on a claim or to enforce the rights of another may be authorized to do so by statute [see Code Civ. Proc. § 367] or by case law, or by both, in which case the complaint should allege the facts establishing the right to sue. The following are examples:

(1) A person expressly authorized by statute to sue [Code Civ. Proc. § 369(a)(4)], which includes the following:

(a) A personal representative of a decedent's estate [Code Civ. Proc. § 369(a)(1); see Prob. Code § 58];

(b) A trustee of an express trust [Code Civ. Proc. § 369(a)(2); see Wolf v. Mitchell,

Silberberg & Knupp (1999) 76 Cal. App. 4th 1030, 1033, 1035-1040, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 792] ;

(c) A person with whom, or in whose name, a contract is made for the benefit of another, except for a person on whom a power of sale has been conferred under a deed of trust or mortgage [Code Civ. Proc. § 369(a)(3)]. A trustee holding a power of sale under a deed of trust or mortgage may, however, sue to exercise a trustee's powers and duties under Civ. Code § 2920 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 369(b)];

(d) An association established to manage a common interest development has standing to sue its own name as the real party in interest in matters pertaining to enforcement of the governing documents and some property damage [Code Civ. Proc. § 1368.3; see Windham at Carmel Mountain Ranch Association v. Superior Court (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1162, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 834] ;

(e) A receiver may sue in his or her own name as receiver [Code Civ. Proc. § 568]. For discussion of actions by receivers and when court authorization to sue is required, as well as forms for use by a receiver to obtain court authorization to sue, see Ch. 486, Receivers ;

(f) A shareholder who asserts a cause of action of the corporation in a derivative suit [see Corp. Code § 800(b); see also Klopstock v. Superior Court (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 13, 16, 108 P.2d 906] . For a discussion of derivative actions and forms for use in these actions, see Chs. 160, Corporations: Capacity , and 168, Corporations: Derivative Actions .

(2) The assignee of a properly assigned claim may maintain an action on the claim in his or her own name. For discussion and a form of complaint on an assigned claim, see Ch. 60, Assignments .

(3) A subrogee may sue in his or her own name on a subrogated claim [see generally Code Civ. Proc. § 368.5; Casey v. Overhead Door Corp. (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 112, 121, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 603] .For discussion and and forms for suing on subrogated claims, see Ch. 536, Subrogation .

(4) A person suing on behalf of a class, in which case the plaintiff must allege facts showing the action is a proper class suit and justifying his or her represenation of the other members of the class [see Code Civ. Proc. § 382; City of San Jose v. Superior Court (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 447, 457-464, 115 Cal. Rptr. 797, 525 P.2d 701 ; La Sala v. American Sav. & Loan Assn. (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 864, 871-872, 97 Cal. Rptr. 849, 489 P.2d 1113] . For discussion of class actions and forms for use in these actions, see Ch. 120, Class Actions .

(5) An association suing on behalf of its members when: (a) its members would otherwise have standing to sue in their own right; (b) the interests it seeks to protect are germane to the organization's purpose; and (c) neither the claim asserted nor the relief requested requires the participation of individual members in the lawsuit [Driving Sch. Ass'n of Cal. v. San Mateo Union High Sch. Dist (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1513, 1517

(6) A limited partner who asserts a cause of action of the limited partnership in a derivative suit [see Wallner v. Parry Professional Bldg., Ltd. (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 1446, 1449-1450, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 834 ; for discussion, see Ch. 404, Partnerships: Actions Between Limited Partners and Partnerships, § 404.24].

A citizen of California is an "interested person" within the meaning of Gov. Code §§ 54960 and 54960.1 and thus has standing to sue a legislative body of a local agency as provided in those sections for violations of the Ralph M. Brown Act [McKee v. Orange Unified School District (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 1310, 2 Cal. Rptr. 3d 774] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.13

§ 395.13 Definitions

[1] Joinder of Parties

Joinder of parties is the act of uniting as parties to an action, as either coplaintiffs or codefendants, all persons who have the same rights or against whom rights are claimed [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 378, 379, 379.5, 389, 389.5].

[2] Proper Parties

Proper parties are those parties who have some interest in the action, whose rights it will be convenient to settle in the same action, and who may be joined under the rules of permissive joinder [General Ins. Co. v. Whitmore (1965) 235 Cal. App. 2d 670, 674 ; see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 378, 379].

[3] Necessary Parties

"Necessary parties" is a term that is infrequently used since the amendment in 1971 (operative in 1972) of the joinder statutes. As formerly defined, necessary parties are those persons who are interested in a cause of action in that they might possibly be affected by the decision, or whose interests in the subject matter or transaction are such that it cannot be finally and completely settled without them. Their interests are so separable, however, that although they should normally be joined in the action, a valid judgment may be rendered between the parties before the court without affecting the interests of the nonjoined parties [see Bank of California v. Superior Court (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 516, 523, 106 P.2d 879] . As currently used, the term "necessary party" appears to be a party that should have been joined as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a) and was not; yet, the court was able to proceed to make a valid judgment between the parties present without seriously affecting the interests of the nonjoined parties [see Camp v. Board of Supervisors (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 334, 354, 176 Cal. Rptr. 620 ; Noguera v. Monterey County Unified Sch. Dist. (1980) 106 Cal. App. 3d 64, 73, 164 Cal. Rptr. 808 ; see also County of San Joaquin v. State Water Resources Control Bd. (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 1144, 1149, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 277 (Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a) sets out a definition of persons who ought to be joined if possible, sometimes referred to as necessary parties)]. A person joined as a party pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a) is also deemed a "necessary" party [Countrywide Home Loans, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 785, 791, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 63] .

In making the determination whether a case should proceed without an absent party, a court must consider and weigh the following factors: (1) the extent to which a judgment may prejudice the absent party or the parties already before the court; (2) the extent to which the prejudice may be lessened or avoided by protective provisions in the judgment; (3) whether a judgment rendered in the person's absence will provide an adequate remedy to the parties before the court; and (4) whether, if the action is dismissed for nonjoinder, the plaintiff will have an adequate remedy elsewhere [Code Civ. Proc. § 389(b)]. Courts have considerable discretion in considering and weighing the factors relevant to a determination of whether a case should proceed without an absent party [Las Virgenes Educators Assn. v. Las Virgenes Unified School Dist. (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 1, 8 , citing County of San Joaquin v. State Water Resources Control Bd. (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 1144, 1154, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 277] .

[4] Indispensable Party

A party is indispensable whenever the court finds that in the absence of a party required to be joined under the provisions of Code Civ. Proc.§ 389(a), it would be preferable to dismiss the action without prejudice, the absent party being thus regarded as indispensable [Code Civ. Proc. § 389(b); see Cook v. Superior Court (2008) 161 Cal. App. 4th 569, 574, 73 Cal. Rptr. 3d 895 ; County of San Joaquin v. State Water Resources Control Bd. (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 1144, 1149, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 277 ; for a discussion of persons required to be joined see § 395.19]. As intended by Code Civ. Proc. § 389(b), a party is indispensable only in the conclusory sense that he or she is indispensable because he or she cannot be made a party to the action and it is determined that in his or her absence it would be preferable to dismiss the action rather than retain it [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Code Civ. Proc. § 389; People ex rel. Lungren v. Community Redevelopment Agency (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 868, 875, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 786 ; for discussion of factors relevant to determining whether to dismiss or continue an action in the absence of the required party, see also § 395.19[7]]. However, decisional law often blurs this distinction and refers to those parties required to be joined in an action by the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a) as "indispensable" [see Kraus v. Willow Park Public Golf Course (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 354, 364, 140 Cal. Rptr. 744 ; Vanoni v. County of Sonoma (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 743, 747, 115 Cal. Rptr. 485 ; see also Harboring Villas Homeowners Assn. v. Superior Court (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 426, 428-429, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 646] .

Whether a party qualifies as indispensable is ordinarily treated as a matter where the trial court has a large measure of discretion in weighing factors of practical realities and other considerations [T.G. Oceanside, L.P. v. City of Oceanside (2007) 156 Cal. App. 4th 1355, 1365, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 320 ; Kaczorowski v. Mendocino County Bd. of Supervisors (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 564, 568, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 14 ; County of San Joaquin v. State Water Resources Control Bd. (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 1144, 1151-1154, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 277] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.14

§ 395.14 Purpose of Joinder Statutes

The purpose of joinder statutes (Code Civ. Proc. §§ 378, 379, 389, 389.5) is to continue to carry out the policies developed by the equity courts of avoiding piecemeal litigation and multiplicity of suits by compelling or permitting joinder of those persons needed for a complete settlement of a controversy [see Bank of California v. Superior Court (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 516, 520, 106 P.2d 879] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.15

§ 395.15 Permissive Joinder of Plaintiffs

[1] Nature of Permissive Joinder

California law provides for the permissive joinder of all parties in one action as plaintiffs if (1) they assert any right to relief jointly, severally, or in the alternative, in respect of or arising out of the same transaction, or occurrence, or series of transactions or occurrences, and any question of law or fact common to all these persons will arise in the action; or (2) they have a claim, right, or interest adverse to the defendant in the property or controversy which is the subject of the action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 378; State Farm Fire & Casualty Co. v. Superior Court (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 1093, 1112-1113, 53 Cal. Rptr. 2d 229 ; Coleman v. Twin Coast Newspaper, Inc. (1959) 175 Cal. App. 2d 650, 653-654, 346 P.2d 488] .

All plaintiffs who have joined in a cause of action need not be interested as to every cause of action or as to all relief prayed for. Judgment may be given for one or more of the plaintiffs according to their respective rights to relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 378(b)].

[2] When Permitted

In determining whether or not joinder should be permitted, the California courts have looked to see if there is a common question of law or fact arising out of the same transaction, or in the subject of the action [Parmely v. Boone (1939) 35 Cal. App. 2d 517, 519, 96 P.2d 164] .

Joinder of plaintiffs is permitted if any factual relationship exists between alleged claims that arise out of the same transaction or series of transactions. To be joined as plaintiffs in a lawsuit, the plaintiffs must satisfy two requirements [State Farm Fire & Casualty Co. v. Superior Court (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 1093, 1112-1113, 53 Cal. Rptr. 2d 229] :

- They must allege the same transaction or occurrence and
- A common legal or factual question.

For example, joinder, at least as far as the pleadings were concerned, was found proper when 165 individual plaintiffs alleged claims arising out of an earthquake against two insurers and their separately named agents based on the insurers' alleged systematic practice in deceiving their policy holders concerning purchase of their earthquake insurance [State Farm Fire & Casualty Co. v. Superior Court (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 1093, 1112-1114, 53 Cal. Rptr. 2d 229] .

Joinder has also been held to be permissible in a taxpayers' suit for refunds of taxes paid, since the same question of law is involved, and the parties, if successful, would be entitled to the same relief [People's Federal Savings and Loan Association v. State Franchise Tax Board (1952) 110 Cal. App. 2d 696, 699-700, 243 P.2d 902] . In an action to recover usurious interest and damages, it was held proper to join both the insolvent corporation which paid the alleged usurious interest and it receivers [North v. Cecil B. DeMille Productions, Inc. (1934) 2 Cal. 2d 55, 57, 39 P.2d 199] . Purchasers of securities sold in violation of the Corporate Securities Act can be permitted to join in an action for money had and received [Parmely v. Boone (1939) 35 Cal. App. 2d 517, 519, 96 P.2d 164] .

Persons who have sustained personal injuries in the same accident may bring a single action against the tortfeasor [Emery v. Pacific Employers Ins. Co. (1937) 8 Cal. 2d 663, 666, 67 P.2d 1046] . It has been held that it was proper to join two plaintiffs in a cause of action for false imprisonment arising out of the same transaction when it was alleged that the defendants committed the acts complained of at the same time and place, and with the same persons present [Peters v. Bigelow (1934) 137 Cal. App. 135, 140-142, 30 P.2d 450] .

[3] Single or Separate Judgment

Although all the plaintiffs are joined in a single complaint and are seeking the samerelief, a joined plaintiff may seek either a single judgment or aseparate judgment regarding his or her own particular cause of action [see North v. Cecil B. DeMille Productions, Inc. (1934) 2 Cal. 2d 55, 57, 39 P.2d 199 (insolvent corporation and its receivers joined as parties to recover usurious interest charged on loans); Emery v. Pacific Employers Ins. Co. (1937) 8 Cal. 2d 663, 666, 67 P.2d 1046 (persons who have sustained personal injuries in same accident may bring single action against tortfeasor, each plaintiff recovering on own cause of action); see also State Farm Fire & Casualty Co. v. Superior Court (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 1093, 1113-1114, 53 Cal. Rptr. 2d 229 (while not every plaintiff may have been victimized by same claims handling practice, that is matter that can be resolved during discovery and trial court retains right to sever particular plaintiffs claims to prevent prejudice to insurers)]. A party who subsequently joins an action as a plaintiff seeking a single judgment is bound by that judgment [Jaffe v. Albertson Co. (1966) 243 Cal. App. 2d 592, 606-607, 53 Cal. Rptr. 25 (real estate broker joined in action by prospective buyer to seek specific performance of sale of property as bound by judgment of court that no contract of sale)].

[4] Jurisdictional Limits and Classification of Civil Actions

The following case authorities were issued when the jurisdictional amount of a case would determine whether the matter was to be heard in a municipal court or a superior court. With the complete unification of trial courts in the state into superior courts, the following cases may be helpful in determining issues relative to classification of a case as a limited or unlimited civil case [see Ch. 324, Jurisdiction: Subject Matter Jurisdiction, § 324.60 et seq.].

Joinder is proper in a complaint in which plaintiffs' causes of action arise out of the same transaction when each plaintiff seeks damages within the jurisdictional limits of the court although the aggregate of the amounts demanded by the plaintiffs exceeds the jurisdictional amount permissible for an individual case [Colla v. Carmichael U--Drive Autos, Inc., (1930) 111 Cal. App. 784, 111 Cal. App. Supp. 784, 294 P. 378 Moreover, the superior court would have jurisdiction over all joined plaintiffs in an action in which all the plaintiffs seek the same relief, but only some of them seek damages within the jurisdictional limits of the court and others seek recovery in amounts less than the prescribed amount normally necessary for the court to have jurisdiction [Emery v. Pacific Employers Ins. Co. (1937) 8 Cal. 2d 663, 667-669, 67 P.2d 1046] .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.16

§ 395.16 Permissive Joinder of Defendants

[1] When Permissible

All persons may be joined in one action as defendants if there is asserted against them any right to relief jointly, severally, or in the alternative, in respect of or arising out of the same transaction, occurrence, or series of transactions or occurrences, and if any question of law or fact common to all of these persons will arise in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 379(a)(1); see Colusa Air Pollution Control Dist. v. Superior Court (1991) 226 Cal. App. 3d 880, 885, 277 Cal. Rptr. 110] . For example, it is permissible to join as defendants in a negligence action two physicians who had separately treated plaintiff for the same injury at different times and places [see Kraft v. Smith (1944) 24 Cal2d 124, 128-130, 148 P.2d 23] . All persons may also be joined as defendants when there is asserted against them a claim, right, or interest adverse to them in property, or a controversy which is the subject of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 379(a)(2)]. For example, both the primary and excess insurers can be joined as defendants in an action to recover loss of the same subject matter and interest [see Fageol T. & C. Co. v. Pacific Indemnity Co. (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 731, 754, 56 P.2d 498] .

It is not necessary that each defendant be interested as to every cause of action or as to all relief prayed for. Judgment may be given against one or more defendants according to their respective liabilities [Code Civ. Proc. § 379(b); see Colusa Air Pollution Control Dist. v. Superior Court (1991) 226 Cal. App. 3d 880, 885-886, 277 Cal. Rptr. 110 ; Hege v. Worthington, Park, & Worthington (1962) 209 Cal. App. 2d 670, 681, 26 Cal. Rptr. 132] .

[2] Doubt as to Liability

If the plaintiff is in doubt as to the person from whom he or she is entitled to redress, he or she may join two or more defendants, with the intent that the question as to which, if any, of the defendants is liable, and to what extent, may be determined between the parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 379(c)]. When the plaintiff seeks to join several parties as defendants in a cause of action for a tort, the plaintiff may seek damages on grounds that the injuries sustained arose out of the joint actions of the defendants, independently concurrent actions, or successive actions [Landau v. Salam (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 901, 903, 95 Cal. Rptr. 46, 484 P.2d 1390 (permissible to join defendants in action for injuries sustained in two separate and unrelated accidents when plaintiff claimed that he was uncertain which of the two incidents caused him to be permanently injured); Lambert v. Southern Counties Gas Co. (1959) 52 Cal. 2d 347, 353-354, 340 P.2d 608] .

In order to join defendants under Code Civ. Proc. § 379(c), the plaintiff must plead facts showing the basis of a reasonable uncertainty, or a fair doubt as to the alternative or quantitative liability of defendants [Landau v. Salam (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 901, 906-907, 95 Cal. Rptr. 46, 484 P.2d 1390 (by pleading an injury, negligence on part of defendants, and doubt as to which is liable, plaintiff had brought himself within joinder provision)].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.17

§ 395.17 Separate Trials and Protective Orders

When parties have been joined under Code Civ. Proc. § 378 or 379, the court may make such orders as may appear just to prevent any party frombeing embarrassed, delayed, or put to undue expense [Code Civ. Proc. § 379.5].

The court may order separate trials [Code Civ. Proc. § 379.5; see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 579, 1048(b); see also Pfefferle v. Lastreto (1962) 206 Cal. App. 2d 575, 579

For a discussion, forms, and procedures concerning severance of actions, see Ch. 125, Consolidation, Severance, and Coordination of Actions .

The court may also make any other order as the interests of justice may require, such as a protective order [Code Civ. Proc. § 379.5; see Landau v. Salam (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 901, 908 n.9, 95 Cal. Rptr. 46, 484 P.2d 1390] . Discussions of protective orders relating to discovery, which might give some guidance in seeking protective orders pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 379.5, are in Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions, Ch. 194, Discovery: Interrogatories, Ch. 195, Discovery: Inspection of Tangible Evidence, Ch. 196, Discovery: Requests for Admissions.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.18

§ 395.18 Discretionary Joinder of Omitted Party

The court may order an omitted party to be brought into an action by amendment whenever the omitted party to an action for the recovery of real or personal property has an interest in the subject matter of the action and makes application to the court to be made a party [Code Civ. Proc. § 389.5].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.19

§ 395.19 Compulsory Joinder

[1] When Required

A person who is subject to service of process and whose joinder will not deprive the court of jurisdiction over the subject matter of the action must be joined as a party in the action if [Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)]:

- In the party's absence complete relief cannot be accorded among those already parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(1); see [2], below]; or

- A person claims an interest relating to the subject of the action and is so situated that the disposition of the action in his or her absence may:

  - As a practical matter, impair or impede his or her ability to protect that interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(2)(i)]; or

  - Leave any of the persons already parties subject to a substantial risk of incurring double, multiple, or otherwise inconsistent obligations by reason of his or her claimed interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(2)(ii)].

Joint tortfeasors with joint and several liability are not necessary parties under Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a), but rather are permissive parties whose joinder is governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 378 and 379 [Countrywide Home Loans, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 785, 794, 796-798, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 63)].

[2] Complete Relief

A person must be joined as a party if in his or her absence complete relief cannot be accorded among those already parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(1)]. The complete relief clause of Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a) focuses not on whether complete relief can be afforded all possible parties to the action, but on whether complete relief can be afforded the parties named in the action [Deltakeeper v. Oakdale Irrigation District (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 1092, 1101, 115 Cal.

Rptr. 2d 244 , citing Countrywide Home Loans, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 785] .

For example, in an action by an environmental group against the California Coastal Commission for a writ of mandate to set aside the decisions of the regional commission authorizing a condominium project, the developer of the condominiums was required to be joined under Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(1) in that, in his absence, he would not be bound by any judgment adversely affecting his permit and would be free to collaterally attack any such judgment [see Sierra Club, Inc. v. California Coastal Commission (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 495, 501, 157 Cal. Rptr. 190] .

On the other hand, in an action for fraud, negligent misrepresentation, and general negligence in which plaintiff sought compensatory and punitive damages, joinder of absentees was held not necessary under Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(1) for plaintiff to obtain complete relief when, assuming plaintiff prevailed, plaintiff's damages could be ascertained and judgment rendered. Although some of the absentees participated in the alleged fraudulent scheme, joinder of joint tortfeasors is not necessary for a plaintiff to obtain complete relief [Countrywide Home Loans, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 785, 793-794, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 63] .

[3] Impair Nonparty's Ability to Protect Interest

Joinder must occur if a person claims an interest relating to the subject of the action and is so situated that the disposition of the action in his or her absence would, as a practical matter, impair or impede his or her ability to protect that interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(2)(i); see In re Marriage of Lugo (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 427, 433, 217 Cal. Rptr. 74 (requiring written notice of action to suspend or reduce child support to county that provided financial assistance to child)].

For example, an action by a former federal employee in seeking a writ of mandate to compel the Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board to vacate its decision denying him unemployment benefits required the joining of the United States since it had a direct pecuniary interest in the outcome of the litigation, because a judgment compelling an award ofbenefits would fall upon federal funds [Conrad v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 237, 241, 120 Cal. Rptr. 803 ; cf. Countrywide Home Loans, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 785, 795-796, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 63 (under facts, joinder under Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(2)(i) held not required to protect absentees' interests)].

The controlling test for determining whether a person is an indispensable party has been stated in two ways. First, where the plaintiff seeks some type of affirmative relief which, if granted, would injure or affect the interest of a third person not joined, that third person is an indispensable party [Save Our Bay, Inc. v. San Diego Unified Port Dist. (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 686, 692, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 847 , citing Bank of California v. Superior Court (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 516, 522, 106 P.2d 879] . Second, the same rule has been stated to be that a person is an indispensable party if his or her rights must necessarily be affected by the judgment [Save Our Bay, Inc. v. San Diego Unified Port Dist. (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 686, 692, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 847 ; citing Hartman Ranch Co. v. Associated Oil Co. (1937) 10 Cal. 2d 232, 262, 73 P.2d 1163] . For factors to determine whether a party is indispensable, see discussion in [7], below.

[4] Substantial Risk That Party Will Be Subject to Inconsistent Obligations

Finally, a party is required to be joined in a pending action if, in his or her absence, any disposition of the action would leave any of the persons already parties in the action subject to substantial risk of incurring multiple or inconsistent obligations by reason of his or her claimed interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(2)(ii)]. For example, an assignee of chose in action would be required to be joined in an action for declaration of rights under a fire insurance policy in order to protect the defendant insurance company from future loss [Greco v. Oregon Mut. Fire Ins. Co. (1961) 191 Cal. App. 2d 674, 687, 12 Cal. Rptr. 802 ; cf. Countrywide Home Loans, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 785, 796-798, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 63 (under facts, joinder under Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(2)(ii) held not required to protect defendants)].

The determination of the existence of a "substantial risk" requires more than a theoretical possibility of the absent party's asserting a claim that would result in multiple liability. The risk must be substantial as a practical matter [Union Carbide Corp. v. Superior Court (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 15, 21, 201 Cal. Rptr. 580, 679 P.2d 14 ; accord Countrywide Home Loans, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 785, 796, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 63 ; Harboring Villas Homeowners Assn. v. Superior Court (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 426, 430, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 646] . Thus, in an action under the Cartwright Act (Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 16700-16758), it was held that joinder as parties of all persons in the chain of distribution of industrial gas from defendants to plaintiffs was not required because there was no showing that any intermediary indirect purchasers existed or that there was a danger of multiple recovery under the facts of the case [Union Carbide Corp. v. Superior Court (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 15, 21-24, 201 Cal. Rptr. 580, 679 P.2d 14 ; see Countrywide Home Loans, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 785, 796, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 63 (because absentee assigned all its rights and interests to plaintiff there was virtually no risk it would pursue claim against defendants; thus, absentee's joinder not required); see also Harboring Villas Homeowners Assn. v. Superior Court (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 426, 428, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 646 (at demurrer stage in construction defect action by homeowners association against developer, secured lenders for each condominium unit held not indispensable parties because pleadings did not demonstrate substantial risk of multiple liability sufficient to require additional parties be joined in complaint)].

[5] Relevance of Cases Decided Prior to 1971 Amendment of Code Civ. Proc. § 389

Cases decided before the 1971 amendment to Code Civ. Proc. § 389 (operative July 1, 1972) appear to be good law in so far as they relate to the compulsory joinder of parties in an action pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a) who are subject to the court's service of process [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Code Civ. Proc. § 389]. For example, persons whose interests, rights, or duties will inevitably be affected by any judgment rendered in an action are required to be joined in that action. Typical of these persons are those who have undetermined interests in the same property or in a particular trust fund, when one of them seeks, in an action, to recover the whole, fix his or her share, or recover that portion claimed by him or her. Also typical of persons required to be joined in an action are those whose interests would be affected or injured by the granting of some type of affirmative relief sought by plaintiff in a pending action [see Bank of California v. Superior Court (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 516, 521-522, 106 P.2d 879] . For cases illustrating types of persons required to be joined in an action, see the Research Guide under Decisions, § 395.53 et seq.. Cases holding that persons such as these, or others required to be joined under Code Civ. Proc. § 389 before 1971 should not, however, be relied on for authority that the court cannot proceed in the absence of such a party [see discussion in [7], below].

[6] Cases Decided Under Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 19, as Persuasive Authority

Code Civ. Proc. § 389 tracks the language of its federal counterpart, Fed Rules Civ. Proc., Rule 19. Thus, it is appropriate to use federal precedents as a guide to the application of Code Civ. Proc. § 389 [Countrywide Home Loans, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 785, 791-792, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 63] .

[7] Failure to Join

If a person described in Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(1) or (2) cannot be made a party, the court must determine whether in equity or good conscience the action should proceed among the parties before it or be dismissed without prejudice, the absent party being regarded as indispensable [Code Civ. Proc. § 389(b); see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment and Advisory Committee's Notes to § 389; County of San Joaquin v. State Water Resources Control Bd. (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 1144, 1151, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 277 ; Vanoni v. County of Sonoma (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 743, 747, 115 Cal. Rptr. 485 ; see also Silver v. Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transportation Authority (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 338, 349, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 287 (nonjoined employees found to be indispensable parties); but see Welch v. Bodeman, (1986) 176 Cal. App. 3d 833, 839 (relying on case law decided prior to effective date of 1971 amendment to Code Civ. Proc. § 389, and holding that trial court can be said to lack subject matter jurisdiction when absence of a truly indispensable party precludes court from rendering effective judgment between parties before it)].

In determining which course of action to follow, the court must examine the circumstances and consider certain factors, including [Code Civ. Proc. § 389(b)]:

> (1) To what extent a judgment rendered in the person's absence might be prejudicial to him or her or those who are already parties;
>
> (2) The extent to which, by protective provisions in the judgment, by the shaping of relief, or by other measures, the prejudice can be lessened or avoided;
>
> (3) Whether or not a judgment rendered in the person's absence will be adequate; and
>
> (4) Whether or not the plaintiff or cross complainant will have an adequate remedy if the action is dismissed for nonjoinder.

For example, a trial court's dismissal of an action for failure to join the Agua Caliente Band of Cahuilla Indians was reversed when under facts court concluded that (1) the public interest was sufficiently important to provide an exception to the general application of rule that an action challenging a contract should be dismissed if a party to the contract cannot be joined, (2) there would be no remedy available if the action was dismissed for nonjoinder, and (3) adequate judgment could be rendered in the Tribe's absence [see People ex rel Lungren v. Community Redevelopment Agency (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 868, 880-885, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 786 (agreement between redevelopment agency and Tribe relating to casino)]. Similarly, an action challenging the validity of a contract properly proceeded without the nonjoined indispensable party (the United States, which was a party to the contract) when the plaintiffs would have been left without a remedy had their suit been dismissed [see Vanoni v. Countyof Sonoma (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 743, 747, 115 Cal. Rptr. 485] . In another example, the appellate court has declined to reverse a judgment that directly affected the affairs of a partnership and the respective shares of all partners, including percentages owned by nonjoined limited partners, when the issue of nonjoinder was not raised until appeal, and the absentee's interests were not inequitably affected because they were not bound by the judgment, and could protect their interests by relitigating the matter, and their interests were not adversely affected by the judgment [see Kraus v. Willow Park Public Golf Course (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 354, 369-370, 140 Cal. Rptr. 744] .

The first factor in Code Civ. Proc. § 389(b), that is, to what extent a judgment rendered in the person's absence might be prejudicial to him or her or those who are already parties, is essentially the same assessment that must be made under Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a) in determining whether a party's absence would impair or impede that party's ability to protect his or her interests, and determining whether proceeding to judgment would subject existing parties to inconsistent obligations [People ex rel Lungren v. Community Redevelopment Agency (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 868, 880, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 786 ; see also Save Our Bay, Inc. v. San Diego Unified Port Dist. (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 686, 692, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 847 (for discussion, see § 395.19)].

The statute directs the court to consider all four factors listed in Code Civ. Proc. § 389(b) in making its determination as to whether the action should proceed in the absence of a party. No one factor listed in Code Civ. Proc. § 389(b) is ranked above another factor. A trial court's determination whether in equity and good conscience an action should proceed or should be dismissed is based on the particular facts posed in a particular case after evaluating all of the factors listed in Code Civ. Proc. § 389(b). Depending on the particular case, a trial court might well decide that although three factors favor dismissing the action, the strength of a fourth factor indicates the action should proceed, or vice versa [County of San Joaquin v. State Water Resources Control Bd. (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 1144, 1149, 1151-1153, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 277 ; cf. Silver v. Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transportation Authority (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 338, 349, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 287 (court's broad discretion regarding weighing of factors)]. Moreover, the trial court's determination under Code Civ. Proc. § 389(b) involves the balancing of competing considerations at a particular point in time and the determination is not revisited in light of subsequent events [County of San Joaquin v. State Water Resources Control Bd. (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 1144, 1149, 1155 n.8, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 277 (when trial court dismissed action finding that adequate remedy existed in pending federal action, and state subsequently asserted Eleventh Amendment immunity against new complaints filed both in that federal court action and a new federal court lawsuit, plaintiffs' argument on appeal that they lacked an adequate remedy in the federal court action was rejected)].

If a judgment is obtained without an indispensable party in a situation in which the court is not aware of the existence of that party, sufficient grounds may exist for a court in equity to set aside the judgment [see In re Olivia A. (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 237, 241-243, 226 Cal. Rptr. 382 (setting aside judgment if parties fraudulently concealed existence of indispensable party)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.20

§ 395.20 Joinder in Cross Action

A defendant in an action may join any person as a cross complainant or cross defendant, whether or not such person is already a party to the action, if, had the cross complaint been filed as an independent action, the joinder of that party would have been permitted by the statutes governing joinder of parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 428.20; see Roylance v. Doelger (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 255, 262, 19 Cal. Rptr. 7, 368 P.2d 535;] . For a discussion, forms, and procedures relating to cross complaints, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints ; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 428.10.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.21

§ 395.21 Procedure

[1] Permissive Joinder of Party

In an action where all of the proper parties have not been joined, a plaintiff or cross complainant may join those persons who would have been permitted to be joined in the original complaint or cross complaint [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 378, 379, discussed in §§ 395.15 -395.16]. A party seeking to add a nonjoined party after the complaint or cross complaint has been filed may amend the pleading by joining the desired party. This may be done as a matter of course any time before the answer or demurrer is filed or after demurrer and before the trial of the relevant issue [Code Civ. Proc. § 472; Gross v. Department of Transportation (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 1102, 1104, 226 Cal. Rptr. 49] . A party may also seek leave of the court to amend the pleadings to add a nonjoined party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a); see also §§ 395.100 -395.107 for forms]. For a discussion, forms, and procedures relating to amended and supplemental pleadings, see Ch. 21, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings .

[2] Compulsory Joinder of New Party

When in an action there are omitted parties who under Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a) would be required to be joined in a complaint or cross complaint [see discussion in § 395.19], and are not joined, the complaint or cross complaint is required to state their names, if known to the pleader, and the reasons why they are not joined [Code Civ. Proc. § 389(c)]. If the complainant determines that a party is required to be joined in the action, he or she may seek to join the omitted party by filing an amended pleading bringing in the new party. For applicable procedures, see discussion in § 395.21; see also § 395.104 for form.

Either the plaintiff or the defendant in an action may move the court to compel joinder of an omitted party by filing a notice of motion for an order bringing in the omitted party as a new party plaintiff or defendant under the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 389 [see De La Beckwith v. Superior Court (1905) 146 Cal. 496, 498, 80 P. 717 ; see also § 395.107]. The court, on learning that a party required to be joined under Code Civ. Proc. § 389 has not been joined, must order that party joined, if feasible [Code Civ. Proc. § 389; see Conrad v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 237, 241, 120 Cal. Rptr. 803] .

[3] Joinder of Omitted Party

An omitted party may move the court to be made a party to an action under either Code Civ. Proc. § 389 or 389.5. The omitted party may do this by either notice of motion for an order bringing him or her in as a new party or by an ex parte application [see Cuneo v. Superior Court (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 452, 454, 28 Cal. Rptr. 791 (notice of motion); Muller v. Robinson (1959) 174 Cal. App. 2d 511, 514, 345 P.2d 25 (ex parte application); see §§ 395.107 -395.112].

[4] Unwilling Plaintiff

If the consent of anyone who should have been joined as a plaintiff under the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 389 cannot be obtained, he or she may be made a party defendant in the action. Plaintiff, in joining the unwilling party as a defendant must state the reasons for doing so in the complaint [see Code Civ. Proc. § 382; see also Weingand v. Atlantic Savings & Loan Assn. (1970) 1 Cal. 3d 806, 818 (corporation as unwilling plaintiff in stock holder's derivative suit); Estate of Kuebler v. Superior Court (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 500, 503-504, 146 Cal. Rptr. 481 (heir as unwilling plaintiff in action affecting estate)].

[5] Objections to Joinder, Misjoinder, and Nonjoinder

The defendant may raise the matter of defect of parties (nonjoinder) or misjoinder of a party by demurrer when the defect or misjoinder appears from the face of the complaint or from matter of which the court must take judicial notice [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430.10(d), 430.30(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 430.70]. The defendant may raise the objection by answer when the defect or misjoinder is not apparent on the face of the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.30(b)].

The defendant should object to the failure to join a party or the matter may be waived if the court finds that the absentee's interests have not been inequitably affected [see Kraus v. Willow Park Public Golf Course (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 354, 369-370, 140 Cal. Rptr. 744 ; see also Jordan v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 449, 469, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 333 ; Ferraro v. Southern Cal. Gas Co. (1980) 102 Cal. App. 3d 33, 45, 162 Cal. Rptr. 238] . The contention that indispensable parties were not joined may be raised at anytime, although if raised for the first time on appeal, relief will be available only if the trial court was unable to render an effective judgment between the parties before it [County of Alameda v. State Bd. of Control (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1096, 1105 n.5, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 487 ; see Bank of California v. Superior Court (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 516, 522, 106 P.2d 879 ; Kraus v. Willow Park Public Golf Course (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 354, 369-370, 140 Cal. Rptr. 744] . See Ch. 3, Abatement of Actions , Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions , and Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings .

Any party may object to another party's motion for joinder of a party by seeking leave of the court to amend the complaint to bring in the new party or for an order compelling joinder by filing a memorandum of points and authorities in opposition to the moving party's motion. See California Points and Authorities, Ch. 168, Parties (Matthew Bender) for forms of memoranda of points and authorities opposing joinder of a new party.

[6] Plaintiff's Obligation to Amend Pleadings

Regardless of who is the moving party (defendant or omitted party), the court, in granting the application for joinder of an absent party, will require the plaintiff to amend his or her pleading to include the new party either as a plaintiff or defendant [see Abbot Kinney Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 52, 59, 346 P.2d 385 ; Irwin v. City of Manhattan Beach (1964) 227 Cal. App. 2d 634, 638, 38 Cal. Rptr. 875] .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.22

§ 395.22 Review

Appeals from orders granting or denying joinder of a new party are not specifically authorized by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 904.1 or 904.2. However, current decisional law appears to sanction the seeking of immediate review by extraordinary writ of orders by the trial court in either granting or denying joinder of a party required to be joined pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 389. Historically, an order by a trial court joining a party to a pending action was not appealable until reviewed on appeal from an adverse final judgment [see Wiseman v. Sklar (1930) 104 Cal. App. 369, 378, 285 P. 1081] . More recently, however, parties seeking immediate review of an order compelling joinder have been successful in proceeding by way of a petition for a writ of mandate [see Peerless Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 358, 363, 85 Cal. Rptr. 679 ; see also People v. Superior Court (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 167, 172, 81 Cal. Rptr. 555 (petitioner sought writ of prohibition, but court granted writ of mandate, deeming it more appropriate remedy)].

Similarly, an order of a trial court denying joinder of a party required to be joined pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 389 was generally not appealable except on review after final judgment [Bank of California, Nat'l Asso. v. Superior Court of San Francisco (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 516, 520. However, the courts, in some instances, had allowed the order to be attacked by a petition for writ of prohibition [see Ambassador Petroleum Co. v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County (1930) 208 Cal. 667, 670 (court suggested a conditional writ of prohibition as appropriate remedy); see also Morrow v. Superior Court of Kings County (1935) 9 Cal. App. 2d 16, 19 Currently, a petition for a writ of mandate to compel joinder appears to be an accepted procedure to attack a trial court's order denying joinder under Code Civ. Proc. § 389 [see Bank of Orient v. Superior Court (1967) 67 Cal. App. 3d 588, 599, 136 Cal. Rptr. 741] .

Although contrary authority exists, it has been held that the trial court's determination under Code Civ. Proc. § 389(b) whether an action should proceed among the parties before it, or should be dismissed without prejudice, is reviewed by the appellate court for abuse of discretion [County of San Joaquin v. State Water Resources Control Bd. (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 1144, 1151-1153, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 277 (rejecting Save Our Bay, Inc. v. San Diego Unified Port Dist. (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 686, 692, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 847 , which applied the standard of de novo review); see also Kaczorowski v. Mendocino County Bd. of Supervisors (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 564, 568, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 14 (abuse of discretion); Silver v. Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transportation Authority (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 338, 348, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 287 (abuse of discretion); People ex rel Lungren v. Community Redevelopment Agency (1997) 56 Cal.

App. 4th 868, 875, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 786 (applying federal rule under which abuse of discretion is standard of review, except to extent determination whether party's interest is impaired involves question of law, in which case review is de novo)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 395.23-395.29

[Reserved]

§§ 395.23[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Intervention

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.30

§ 395.30 Governing Law

The right to intervene in a pending action and the requirements of filing and serving a complaint in intervention are governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 387.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Intervention

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.31

§ 395.31 Definition

Intervention as applied to matters of civil law, means that a third party is permitted to become by complaint a party to an action pending between other persons, either by joining the plaintiff in claiming what is sought by the complaint, by uniting with the defendant in resisting the claims of the plaintiff, or by demanding anything adversely to both the plaintiff and thedefendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 387(a); see also In re Estate of Ghio (1910) 157 Cal. 552, 559-560, 108 P. 516 ; Mylan Laboratories Inc. v. Soon-Shiong (1999) 76 Cal. App. 4th 71, 77, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 111] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Intervention

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.32

§ 395.32 Purpose

The purposes of intervention are to obviate delay, avoid multiplicity of suits, and protect the interests of those who will be affected by the judgment [People v. Superior Court (Good) (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 732, 736, 131 Cal. Rptr. 800, 552 P.2d 760 ; Voyce v. Superior Court (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 479, 485-486, 127 P.2d 536 ; In re Baby Girl A. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1611, 1618, 282 Cal. Rptr. 105] .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Intervention

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.33

§ 395.33 Types of Intervention

California law now provides two types of intervention, permissive and mandatory [see Code Civ. Proc. § 387(a), (b)]. Permissive intervention is now governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 387(a), which is basically the same provision as former Code Civ. Proc. § 387 [see § 395.34]. Mandatory intervention is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 387(b), which apparently requires the court to grant leave to the moving party to file a complaint in intervention whenever he or she has an unconditional right to intervention by another statute, or has an interest in the property or transaction which is the subject of the action and is so situated that any disposition in the action would, in his or her absence, impair or impede his or her ability to protect that interest [see discussion in § 395.35].

In certain situations, other procedures have the effect of permitting intervention. For example, a limited partner served on behalf of the partnership filed an answer and "intervened" through a cross complaint [see Kobernick v. Shaw (1977) 70 Cal. App. 3d 914, 918-920, 139 Cal. Rptr. 188] . A nonparty might be able to intervene to set aside a default judgment [see, e.g., Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. v. Gerlach (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 299, 305, 128 Cal. Rptr. 396 (defendant's creditor sought intervention only to put plaintiff to its proof rather than being allowed default judgment); Linder v. Vogue Investments, Inc. (1966) 239 Cal. App. 2d 338, 340-343, 48 Cal. Rptr. 633 (limited partner concurrently moved to intervene and set aside default)]. One who is aggrieved by a judgment, that is, one whose rights or interests are injuriously affected by the judgment, may become a party of record and obtain a right to appeal by moving to vacate the judgment pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 663. The interest must be immediate, pecuniary, and substantial, and not nominal or a remote consequence of the judgment [County of Alameda v. Carleson (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 730, 736-737, 97 Cal. Rptr. 385, 488 P.2d 953] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Intervention

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.34

§ 395.34 Permissive Intervention

[1] Who May Intervene

Any person, who has an interest in the matter in litigation, or in the success of either of the parties, or an interest against both, may intervene in the action or proceeding providing the application is timely [Code Civ. Proc. § 387(a)]. The interest must be of such a direct or immediate character that the intervenor will either gain or lose by the direct legal operation and effect of the judgment [Bechtel v. Axelrod (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 390, 393, 125 P.2d 836 ; People v. City of Long Beach (1960) 183 Cal. App. 2d 271, 275, 6 Cal. Rptr. 658 ; see Truck Ins. Exchange v. Superior Court (1997) 60 Cal. App. 4th 342, 436, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 255 (interest in litigation must be direct and immediate); Redevelopment Agency v. Commission on State Mandates (1996) 43 Cal. App. 4th 1188, 1197-1198, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 100 (court abused its discretion in denying application of State of California Department of Finance (DOF) to intervene as indispensable party in administrative mandamus proceedings when application met standard for discretionary intervention under Code Civ. Proc. § 387(a) in that DOF had interest against success of city in its subvention (that is, reimbursement) claim to recover state funds for particular housing costs incurred by city; DOF has duty to supervise financial policies of state)].

Presented with a motion for intervention, the court must determine whether the intervener has established (1) it has a direct interest in the lawsuit; (2) intervention would not enlarge the issues raised by the original parties; and (3) the intervener would not "tread on the rights of the original parties to conduct their own lawsuit" [Bame v. City of Del Mar (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 1346, 1364, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d. 183 , quoting Lincoln National Life Ins. Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 1411, 1422, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 397 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 387].

A trial court has broad discretion in determining whether to permit intervention [Hinton v. Beck (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 1378, 1387, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 612 ; City of Malibu v. California Coastal Com. (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 897, 902 ; US Ecology, Inc. v. State of California (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 113, 139, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 689 , citing People v. Superior Court (Good) (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 732, 737, 131 Cal. Rptr. 800] .

[2] Direct Interest

A person has a direct interest justifying intervention in litigation when the judgment in the action either adds to or detracts from his or her legal rights without reference to rights and duties not involved in the litigation [Royal Indem. Co. v. United Enterprises, Inc. (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 194, 204, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 481 ; Continental Vinyl Products Corp. v. Mead Corp. (1972) 27 Cal. App. 3d 543, 549, 103 Cal. Rptr. 806 ; Olson v. Hopkins (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 638, 643, 75 Cal. Rptr. 33] . For example, a subrogee would have a right to intervene in an injured party's cause of action against an alleged tortfeasor [see Ventura County Employees' Retirement Association v. Pope(1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 938, 947-955, 151 Cal. Rptr. 695] ; or a nonprofit corporation composed of parents could properly intervene in an action concerning the desegregation of the school district since the reassignment of students would have a direct social, educational, and economic effect on the reassigned students and their parents [Bustop v. Superior Court (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 66, 70-71, 137 Cal. Rptr. 793] . Where parties seeking intervention have identical interests but can only speculate on the type of damage involved, and the party already litigating the matter is an able advocate of his/her and the other party's position, intervention may be denied [City of Malibu v. California Coastal Com. (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 897, 902 .

For further examples of persons who have a direct interest in an action and therefore may properly intervene, see § 395.62[5].

[3] Consequential Interest

The courts, however, will deny intervention under Code Civ. Proc. § 387(a) whenever they determine that the asserted interest is indirect, consequential, or remote in that the threatened injury or benefit will not inevitably result from the judgment, but rather from the consequences of the judgment [Royal Indem. Co. v. United Enterprises, Inc. (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 194, 212, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 481 ; Jersey Maid Milk Products Co. v. Brock (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 661, 664-665, 91 P.2d 599 ; Mary R. v. B & R Corp. (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 308, 314-315, 196 Cal. Rptr. 871] . For example, a major shareholder of a bankrupt corporation would have only a consequential interest in an action being prosecuted by the trustee in bankruptcy since the asserted interest of the shareholder would be in enhancing the value of the stock, an indirect benefit flowing from the success of the suit [Continental Vinyl Products Corp. v. Mead Corp. (1972) 27 Cal. App. 3d 543, 553, 103 Cal. Rptr. 806] . An unsecured creditor of a defendant would have only a consequential interest not justifying intervention in an action involving a defendant who would be rendered unable to pay the owed debt in the event the suit was lost [Olson v. Hopkins (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 638, 642-644, 75 Cal. Rptr. 33] . Additionally, an insurer who denies coverage and refuses to defend does not have a direct interest in litigation between the plaintiff and its insured to justify intervention [Hinton v. Beck (2009) 176 Cal. App.4th 1378, 1384, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 612]. For further examples of prospective intervenors having only consequential interests, see § 395.62[3].

[4] Consequential Interest Becoming Direct

A consequential interest can convert to a direct interest. For example, failure by a general partner or officers of a corporation to exercise good faith in defending a suit against it would justify intervention by a limited partner or shareholder [Kobernick v. Shaw (1977) 70 Cal. App. 3d 914, 918, 139 Cal. Rptr. 188 ; Eggers v. National Radio Co. (1929) 208 Cal. 308, 313 . The impossibility of asserting a position that should be presented in the litigation would justify intervention by the federal government regarding federal fiscal policy involved in an action [County of San Bernardino v. Harsh California Corp. (1959) 52 Cal. 2d 341, 346-347, 340 P.2d 617] , or the state may intervene in an action to dissolve a corporation to protect the interest of shareholders not available to assert their interests which may escheat [In re Mercantile Guaranty Co. (1965) 238 Cal. App. 2d 426, 437, 48 Cal. Rptr. 589] . For further examples of consequential interests which may convert to direct interests, see § 395.62[4].

[5] Right to Intervene

A determination that an interest is direct and not consequential does not establish the right to intervene. Rather, the court must find that the interest is one which is proper to be determined in the action in which the intervention is sought [Isaacs v. Jones (1898) 121 Cal. 257, 261-262, 53 P. 793] . Whether in a particular case intervention should be allowed is best determined by a consideration of the facts and circumstances of the case and the decision is ordinarily left to the sound discretion of the trial court [Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. v. Gerlach (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 299, 302, 128 Cal. Rptr. 396] . Its determination cannot be reversed on appeal unless it is arbitrary in the sense that it is not supported by any substantial basis in the record [In re Yokohama Specie Bank (1948) 86 Cal. App. 2d 545, 554, 195 P.2d 555] . A denial of intervention even when a direct interest is shown by those seeking to intervene is proper when the interests of the original litigants in conducting their own lawsuit on their own terms outweigh the intervenor's concerns of potential delay and multiplicity of actions [People v. Superior Court (Good) (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 732, 737, 131 Cal. Rptr. 800, 552 P.2d 760] . The courts have suggested that the right of intervention should be governed by a test within the two extremes of the loose test applied to permissive joinder and the strict test of the indispensable party rule, so that not only indispensable parties, but necessary or proper parties may be permitted to intervene [Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. v. Gerlach (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 299, 302, 128 Cal. Rptr. 396] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Intervention

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.35

§ 395.35 Mandatory Intervention

A court must permit a party to file a complaint in intervention when the law confers an unconditional right to intervene [Code Civ. Proc. § 387(b)]. For example, Code Civ. Proc. § 389.5 gives an omitted party the right to apply to a court to be made a party to a pending action whenever he or she has an interest in the property that is the subject of the action before the court [see Allen v. Pitchess (1973) 36 Cal. App. 3d 321, 330, 111 Cal. Rptr. 658 (omitted parties permitted to intervene)]. For examples of other statutes specifically authorizing intervention, see § 395.60 et seq.

Additionally, a court must permit a party to intervene whenever he or she claims an interest relating to the property or transaction that is the subject of the action and is so situated that the disposition of the action without his or her presence would impair or impede the party's ability to protect that interest which cannot be adequately represented by the existing parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 387(b)]. It appears that a party who has a direct pecuniary interest in the subject matter in litigation must be permitted to intervene [see Redevelopment Agency v. Commission on State Mandates (1996) 43 Cal. App. 4th 1188, 1197-1198, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 100 (court erred in denying application of State of California Department of Finance (DOF) to intervene under Code Civ. Proc. § 387(b) and abused itsdiscretion in denying discretionary intervention under Code Civ. Proc. § 387(a) when DOF had interest against success of city in its subvention (that is, reimbursement) claim to recover state funds for particular housing costs incurred by city, disposition of the action in DOF's absence could impair its ability to protect its interest in the subject matter of the action and because of peculiar role of State of California Commission on State Mandates (Commission) as a quasi-judicial agency adjudicating claims against state, Commission could not be said to have adequately represented all interests of DOF even though its staff agreed with DOF's position on the merits); see also Coalition for Fair Rent v. Abdelnour (1980) 107 Cal. App. 3d 97, 114-116, 165 Cal. Rptr. 685] . For discussion of what constitutes the interest necessary to intervene under Code Civ. Proc. § 387(a), see §§ 395.34[2] and [4].

A nonparty's interest in preserving the attorney-client privilege to prevent a document subject to the privilege from being used in the litigation between the parties, however, is not an interest that requires intervention under Code Civ. Proc. § 387(b). Intervention as a party was not intended to be used as a means by which a nonparty can assert the attorney-client privilege and there is no need to intervene to become an actual party to the lawsuit to be able to assert the privilege. Rather, the nonparty can assert the privilege under Evid. Code § 954 as long as the nonparty was the client or other authorized person [Mylan Laboratories Inc. v. Soon-Shiong (1999) 76 Cal. App. 4th 71, 78-80, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 111] .

Code Civ. Proc. § 387(b) is similar to compulsory joinder under Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a) [see § 395.10 et seq.]. If a nonparty meets the qualifications for compulsory intervention, the fact that such intervention would add to the complexity of the action or adversely affect the original parties does not provide grounds for barring intervention [California Physicians' Service v. Superior Court (1980) 102 Cal. App. 3d 91, 96, 162 Cal. Rptr. 266] .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Intervention

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.36

§ 395.36 Time to Intervene

The right to intervene is dependent upon the prospective intervenors making timely application [Code Civ. Proc. § 387(a), (b)]. Intervention is possible, if otherwise appropriate, even after judgment [Mallick v. Superior Court (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 434, 437, 152 Cal. Rptr. 503] . An application for leave to file a complaint in intervention is timely when made after a motion for a new trial is granted and the cause is still at issue [Eggers v. National Radio Co. (1929) 208 Cal. 308, 312, 281 P. 58] .

A nonparty who has a direct interest in the action may also intervene by moving to set aside a default judgment within six months after its entry [Code Civ. Proc. § 473 (third paragraph); see also Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. v. Gerlach (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 299, 301-303 128 Cal. Rptr. 396] . Intervention after a default judgment may not be allowed, however, if the intervenor fails to diligently pursue the remedy under Code Civ. Proc. § 473 [Drinnon v. Oliver (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 571, 585-586, 101 Cal. Rptr. 120 , disapproved on other grounds in Johnson & Johnson v. Superior Court (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 243, 255 n.7, 211 Cal. Rptr. 517, 695 P.2d 1058] . If the default judgment rendered is void on its face, the default judgment may be set aside, even if the motion is made by the intervening party after the six-month period is over [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(d); Ryerson v. Riverside Cement Co. (1968) 266 Cal. App. 2d 789, 793-794, 72 Cal. Rptr. 595] .

The relevant statute granting the unconditional right to intervene in a particular situation must be consulted to determine whether it addresses the timeliness issue [Mar v. Sakti Internat. Corp. (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 1780, 1784, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 388] . If it does not, it should be deemed to refer the issue back to the discretionary standard of Code Civ. Proc. § 387. If the statute provides a standard of timeliness, both the right and the statute are to be treated as incorporated in Code Civ. Proc. § 387(b) [Mar v. Sakti Internat. Corp. (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 1780, 1784, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 388 (adopting employer's right to intervene to recover workers' compensation sums in employee's action against third party "at any time before trial on the facts" as standard of timeliness of application to intervene)].

The applicable statute of limitations may affect the right to intervene. For example, the one-year statute of limitations of Code Civ. Proc. § 340(c) governing the filing of suits seeking damages in a tort action is applicable to subrogees. If the action is timely filed, subrogee may intervene even after the period of limitation has run [Ventura County Employees'

Retirement Association v. Pope (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 938, 955, 151 Cal. Rptr. 695] . By contrast, even though a wrongful death action is timely filed by some of a decedent's heirs, an omitted heir who wishes to intervene in the action must also file an application to intervene within the limitations period if that heir is asserting a new cause of action [Andersen v. Barton Memorial Hospital, Inc. (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 678, 681 (construing Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5, former § 377 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60 et seq.))].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Intervention

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.37

§ 395.37 Effect of Intervention

An intervenor becomes an actual party to a suit on order of the court authorizing intervention [Corridan v. Rose (1955) 137 Cal. App. 2d 524, 528, 290 P.2d 939] . The intervening party is regarded as either a plaintiff or a defendant, depending on the party for whose success he or she seeks to intervene [Timberidge Enterprises, Inc. v. City of Santa Rosa (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 873, 879, 150 Cal. Rptr. 606] . On becoming a party in the action, the intervenor must take the case as he or she finds it. The newly joined party cannot take advantage of ordinary procedural irregularities that the original parties have either expressly or impliedly waived, since intervention must not retard the principal suit, delay the trial of the action, nor change the position of the parties [Hospital Council of Northern Cal.v. Superior Court (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 331, 336, 106 Cal. Rptr. 247] . However, on becoming a party, the intervenor has the same procedural rights and remedies as do the original parties and where timely, or otherwise appropriate, may object to the jurisdiction of the court or object that the complaint does not state a cause of action, demand a jury trial, or move to disqualify a judge [Hospital Council of Northern Cal. v. Superior Court (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 331, 337 n.6, 106 Cal. Rptr. 247 ; see Hausmann v. Farmers Ins. Exchange (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 611, 617, 29 Cal. Rptr. 75 ; see also Adoption of Lenn E. (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 210, 218-219, 227 Cal. Rptr. 63] . Moreover, the intervenor can obtain the same affirmative relief which he or she could properly achieve by cross complaint if he or she were an original party [Marc Bellaire, Inc. v. Fleischman (1960) 185 Cal. App. 2d 591, 595, 8 Cal. Rptr. 650] .

Counsel should note that an intervening plaintiff generally must accede to the original plaintiff and plaintiff's attorney in the prosecution of the case unless the intervenor can show the court that the original plaintiffs are not pursuing the conduct of the case to their and intervenor's best interests [see Mann v. Superior Court (1942) 53 Cal. App. 2d 272, 280, 127 P.2d 970] .

If the intervenor has entered the action as a defendant, the complaint in intervention may be considered as an answer and the original parties need not file a responsive pleading [see Drinkhouse v. Van Ness (1927) 202 Cal. 359, 371, 372, 260 P. 869] .

Whether or not the intervenor can continue to carry on an action after the plaintiff has voluntarily dismissed the suit under Code Civ. Proc. § 581 may depend on the nature of the complaint in intervention. An intervenor who seeks only to resist the plaintiff's cause of action cannot deprive that party of the privilege of a voluntary dismissal [Klinghoffer v. Barasch (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 258, 261-262, 84 Cal. Rptr. 350] . However, if the intervenor's complaint in intervention constitutes a request for affirmative relief or a cross complaint or claims adversely to both the original parties, the intervenor's right to have the issues determined cannot be affected by the dismissal of the plaintiff's action [Farmer v. Union Oil Co. (1977) 75 Cal. App. 3d 42, 44-45 n.1, 141 Cal. Rptr. 848 ; Voyce v. Superior Court (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 479, 488, 127 P.2d 536] .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Intervention

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.38

§ 395.38 Procedures

[1] Mode of Intervention

A nonparty may apply to the court to file a complaint in intervention by way of notice of motion [see Bowles v. Superior Court (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 574, 588-589, 283 P.2d 704] ; or by ex parte application [see Allen v. California Water & Tel. Co. (1947) 31 Cal. 2d 104, 107, 187 P.2d 393] . An intervenor may also apply for an order to show cause why leave to intervene should not be granted [Thorman v. Dome Producing etc. Co. (1942) 50 Cal. App. 2d 201, 202, 122 P.2d 927] . A formal motion for intervention is not required and the application for leave to intervene may be made informally and authorized by an ex parte order [Adoption of Lenn E. (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 210, 217, 227 Cal. Rptr. 63] .

Whether intervention is permissive or mandatory, a petition to seek leave is required; without permission from the court, a party lacks any standing to the action. Though a party may assert it holds unconditional right to intervention, that right is not absolute. A court must initially determine if the petition is timely; this exercise of discretion is solely a judicial function, which may not be delegated to a clerk [Lohnes v. Astron Computer Products (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 1150, 1153, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 34] .

[2] Pleadings by Intervenor

An intervenor must file a complaint in intervention stating facts sufficient, if true, to constitute cause for intervention [Hausmann v. Farmers Ins. Exchange (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 611, 615, 29 Cal. Rptr. 75 ; see discussion in § 395.34]. However, the court should not apply rigid tests to the complaint in intervention in determining the sufficiency of the pleading [Thorman v. Dome Producing etc. Co. (1942) 50 Cal. App. 2d 201, 203, 122 P.2d 927] .

[3] Pleadings in Opposition to Intervention

An objection to the lack of an intervenor's standing to appear may be made by a general demurrer [Timberidge Enterprises, Inc. v. City of Santa Rosa (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 873, 880, 150 Cal. Rptr. 606] . An original party to an action may also move to strike the complaint in intervention on grounds that it fails to state facts sufficient to justify intervention [Jersey Maid Milk Products Co. v. Brock (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 661, 662, 91 P.2d 599] . If the intervenor seeks affirmative relief, the affected party becomes a defendant and may file a cross complaint [see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints].

[4] Failure to Object

A party must make a timely and appropriate objection to intervention or the matter will be considered waived and may not be raised on appeal [Watson v. Collins (1962) 204 Cal. App. 2d 27, 30-32, 21 Cal. Rptr. 832 (objection not timely); Traweek v. Draper (1956) 143 Cal. App. 2d 119, 121-122, 299 P.2d 391 (answer went to the cause of action of intervenor rather than grounds for intervention)].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Intervention

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.39

§ 395.39 Review

An order denying intervention is a final determination against the prospective intervenor and is effective immediately as a final judgment[Dollenmayer Bowles v. Pryor (1906) 150 Cal. 1, 3, 87 P. 616 ; Bame v. City of Del Mar (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 1346, 1363, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 183 ; see Bowles v. Superior Court (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 574, 582, 283 P.2d 704 (denial is appealable, but declining to dismiss proceeding based on writ of prohibition in interest of justice)]. The denial of leave to intervene can be appealed only on this issue, the unsuccessful intervenor having no right to appeal from a judgment ultimately rendered in an action in which intervention was sought [County of Alameda v. Carleson (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 730, 736 . A party whose complaint in intervention is stricken may also appeal immediately, since the judgment as to that party is final [see Jersey Maid Milk Products Co. v. Brock (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 661, 662, 91 P.2d 599] .

If the trial court refuses to assume jurisdiction over the request to intervene, the prospective intervenor may immediately seek a writ of mandate [Mallick v. Superior Court (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 434, 439, 152 Cal. Rptr. 503 ; see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition].

A prospective intervenor denied leave to intervene must appeal from this determination, or a subsequent independent action based on the same theory will be barred [Berman v. Aetna Casualty & Surety Co. (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 908, 912, 115 Cal. Rptr. 566] . However, if a party was denied the right under Code Civ. Proc. § 663 to vacate a judgment that was incorrect or had erroneous conclusions of law, that party has standing to appeal the judgment in the case since it made itself a party to the case [County of Alameda v. Carleson (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 730, 736-738, 97 Cal. Rptr. 385, 488 P.2d 953] .

A successful intervenor has the same right to appeal after final judgment as does an original party if aggrieved by any order of the court [Corridan v. Rose (1955) 137 Cal. App. 2d 524, 528-530, 290 P.2d 939] . A party opposing intervention may not appeal an order permitting intervention until after final judgment [Adoption of Lenn E. (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 210, 217, 227 Cal. Rptr. 63 ; Sanders v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 661, 669-670, 126 Cal. Rptr. 415] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Intervention

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 395.40-395.49

[Reserved]

§§ 395.40[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.50

§ 395.50 Related Matthew Bender Publications

For memoranda of points and authorities in support of or opposition to intervention or joinder, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 16, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings ; Ch. 71, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings ; Ch. 124, Intervention ; Ch. 168, Parties (Matthew Bender)

For memoranda of points and authorities related to forms in this chapter, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 16, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings , Ch. 71, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings , and Ch. 168, Parties (Matthew Bender)

Moore's Federal Practice, Chs. 19, 20, 24 (3d ed. Matthew Bender)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.51

§ 395.51 State Statutes

[1] Joinder of Parties

Permissive joinder of plaintiffs. Code Civ. Proc. § 378

Permissive joinder of defendants. Code Civ. Proc. § 379

Unwilling plaintiff made defendant. Code Civ. Proc. § 382

Compulsory joinder of parties. Code Civ. Proc. § 389

Joinder of person having interest in property. Code Civ. Proc. § 389.5

Environmental pollution actions. Code Civ. Proc. § 388

Actions as to be prosecuted in name of real party in interest, except as provided by statute [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. §§ 369, 1368.3 (actions by personal representative or trustee, and association established to manage common interest development)]. Code Civ. Proc. § 367

Substitution of parties on death, disability, or devolution of interest. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 368.5, 375, 377.20 et seq.

Separate trials of joined parties. Code Civ. Proc. § 379.5

Interpleader actions. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 386-386.6

Intervention in pending actions. Code Civ. Proc. § 387

Joinder of party having interest in property. Code Civ. Proc. § 389.5

Jurisdiction over party. Code Civ. Proc. § 410.50

Issuance of summons. Code Civ. Proc. § 412.10

Contents of summons. Code Civ. Proc. § 412.20

Summons for corporations. Code Civ. Proc. § 412.30

Service of amended complaint. Code Civ. Proc. § 471.5

Cross complaints. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 428.10-428.80

Amended and supplemental pleadings. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 464, 472, 473(a)

Adding true name of fictitious defendant. Code Civ. Proc. § 474

[2] Specific Statutory Authorization

Bringing in new party by cross complaint. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 428.10(b), 428.20

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.52

§ 395.52 California Rules of Court

Request for accommodation by party with disability. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.100

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.53

§ 395.53 Decisions

[1] Real Party in Interest

Person who invokes judicial process lacks standing if he or she, or those whom he or she represents, does not have a real interest in ultimate adjudication because he or she has neither suffered nor is about to suffer any injury of sufficient magnitude reasonably to assure that all of relevant facts and issues will be adequately presented; when enforcement of a rule may cause irreparable injury, only injured party may attack its constitutionality by action to enjoin its enforcement; writ of mandate is granted only when necessary to protect substantial right and only when it shows that some substantial damage will be suffered by petitioner if writ is denied. Schmier v. Supreme Court (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 703, 707-708, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 580

Ordinarily, trustee is real party in interest when cause of action is prosecuted on behalf of trust; exception to this rule, however, permits trust beneficiary to bring an action against third parties who actively participate in trustee's breach of trust. Wolf v. Mitchell, Silberberg & Knupp (1999) 76 Cal. App. 4th 1030, 1033, 1036-1040, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 792

Complaint filed by party who lacks standing is subject to demurrer; complaint filed by party lacking standing fails to state cause of action by particular named plaintiff, inasmuch as claim belongs to one other than plaintiff; more accurately stated rationale would be there is defect in parties, since party named as plaintiff is not real party in interest. Charpentier v. Los Angeles Rams Football Co. (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 301, 307, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 115

Code Civ. Proc. § 367 provides general rule that actions must be pursued in name of real party in interest; there is exception, however, when party transfers its interest in pending action to another; in those circumstances, action or proceeding may be continued in name of original party, or court may allow person to whom transfer is made to be substituted in action or proceeding; thus, when plaintiffs' settlement with defendant included assignment by defendant to plaintiffs of indemnity rights, if any, against remaining non-settling defendants, trial court erred in refusing to allow plaintiffs to pursue defendant's cross-complaint for indemnity. Casey v. Overhead Door Corp. (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 112, 121, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 603

Except as otherwise provided by statute, every action must be prosecuted in name of real party in interest; purpose of statute is to save defendant, against whom judgment may be obtained, from further harassment or vexation at hands of other claimants to same demand. Keru Investments, Inc. v. Cube Co. (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1412, 1424, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 744 .

Primary purpose underlying requirement that action be brought in name of real party in interest (Code Civ. Proc. § 367) as being to protect defendant from multiplicity of suits and further annoyance and vexation at hands of other claimants to same demand. Vaughn v. Dame Construction Co. (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 144, 149, 272 Cal. Rptr. 261

Purpose of Code Civ. Proc. § 367, requiring that actions be prosecuted in name of real party in interest, as being to protect defendant from multiplicity of actions predicated on same gravamen and to preserve to that defendant all personal defenses and counterclaims available. Kaley v. Catalina Yachts (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1187, 1195, 232 Cal. Rptr. 384

Trial court as having power to allow an amendment to a complaint so long as it does not affect the substantial rights of the parties; amendment bringing in new party plaintiff proper if it does not change merits of case or liability of the defendants. Polk & Hensley v. Coffin & Swain (1858) 9 Cal. 56, 58

[2] Voluntary Intrusion Into Lawsuit

Corporation, by voluntarily intruding into lawsuit in which it was not a named party, as thereby consenting to court's jurisdiction over its corporate being and as bound by adjudications made in case. California Concrete Co. v. Beverly Hills Savings & Loan Assn. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 260, 267-268, 261 Cal. Rptr. 484

[3] Joinder of Parties Generally

New entity resulting from reorganization by Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation of insolvent institution insured by it as separate and distinct from former institution and as required to be named party if it is to be made part of any lawsuit involving its assets; if it wishes to become party to lawsuit involving assets and obligations of old institution, it must take appropriate procedural measures to intervene; alternatively, insolvent institution that has been named defendant, if it is no longer legally responsible for claim involved in lawsuit, may apply for order substituting new institution in as proper defendant; plaintiff as also able to amend complaint to substitute new entity in as proper defendant; if none of these things is done and new entity voluntarily intrudes itself into lawsuit, it has consented to jurisdiction of court over it and is bound by adjudications made in case. California Concrete Co. v. Beverly Hills Savings & Loan Assn. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 260, 267-268, 261 Cal. Rptr. 484

When additional party plaintiff, joining in suit brought before statute of limitations has run against original plaintiff, seeks to enforce independent right, amended pleading does not relate back, so as to render substitution permissible or to preclude defense of statute of limitations. Basin Construction Corp. v. Department of Water & Power (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 819, 826, 245 Cal. Rptr. 178

Joinder of parties as authorized by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 378, 379 (permissive joinder) should be liberally construed as permitting joinder in one action whenever possible and practicable to allow settlement of all matters of controversy between parties in furtherance of statutes. See Coleman v. Twin Coast Newspaper, Inc. (1959) 175 Cal. App. 2d 650, 653, 346 P.2d 488 (joinder of parties plaintiff); Kraft v. Smith (1944) 24 Cal. 2d 124, 130, 148 P.2d 23 (joinder of parties defendant)

Plaintiff as bringing himself or herself within Code Civ. Proc. § 379(c) (permissive joinder of defendants) by pleading injury, negligence by successive tortfeasors, and doubt as to which is liable, without otherwise having to expressly allege any factual nexus connecting or associating pleaded claim against the several defendants. Landau v. Salam (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 901, 906-908, 95 Cal. Rptr. 46, 484 P.2d 1390 (distinguishing between joinder under other subdivisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 379)

Sustaining demurrer without leave to amend complaint and dismissing action without leave to amend as abuse of discretion when plaintiff, by amending complaint, can set forth more specific information and demonstrate reasonable uncertainty as to respective liability of defendants. Landau v. Salam (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 901, 909, 95 Cal. Rptr. 46, 484 P.2d 1390

Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 19 as guide to application of Code Civ. Proc. § 389 as amended in 1971. Conrad v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 237, 120 Cal. Rptr. 803

Action commences as to parties added to action pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 389 at time they are joined. Warren v. Atchison, T. and S.F. Ry. Co. (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 24 , but see Taylor v. Sanford (1962) 203 Cal. App. 2d 330, 347, 21 Cal. Rptr. 697

It is for reason of equity and convenience, and not because it is without power to proceed, that court should not proceed with case when it determines that "indispensable party" is absent and cannot be joined. Kraus v. Willow Park Public Golf Course (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 354, 364, 140 Cal. Rptr. 744

Trial court as having power to allow an amendment to a complaint so long as it does not affect the substantial rights of the parties; amendment bringing in new party plaintiff proper if it does not change merits of case or liability of the defendants. Polk & Hensley v. Coffin & Swain (1858) 9 Cal. 56, 58

[4] Compulsory Joinder

[a] Classification of Parties

[i] Generally

Necessary party as party that should have been joined as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a) and was not, however, court able to proceed to make valid judgment between parties present without seriously affecting interest of nonjoined parties. See Camp v. Board of Supervisors (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 334, 354

Indispensable party as party in whose absence complete relief could not be accorded to existing parties in action, or by reason of claimed interest relating to subject of action was so situated that disposition of action in his or her absence might impair his or her ability to protect that interest or leave persons already parties subject to substantial risk of incurring inconsistent obligations. Sierra Club, Inc. v. California Coastal Commission (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 495, 501-502, 157 Cal. Rptr. 190

Proper parties as those parties having some interest in action and whose rights it will be convenient to settle in same action. General Ins. Co. v. Whitmore (1965) 235 Cal. App. 2d 670, 674, 674

Proper parties as not always necessary or indispensable parties. Everfresh, Inc. v. Goodman (1955) 131 Cal. App. 2d 818, 820, 281 P.2d 560

[ii] Proper Parties

Bankrupt as proper party plaintiff when trustee in bankruptcy has abandoned cause of action. See Wood v. Lowe

(1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 296, 300, 114 Cal. Rptr. 69

Necessary and proper parties in actions involving trusts. Hebbard v. Colgrove (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 1017, 1026-1028, 105 Cal. Rptr. 172

Owner of leased property as proper but not indispensable party in action between lessee and sublessees over renewal of sublease. Jones v. Feichtmeir (1949) 95 Cal. App. 2d 341, 345

Plaintiff who has obtained leave to amend complaint generally as proper in adding new party defendant without special permission from trial court when new party is a proper party, nature of the action not materially changed, and purpose of amendment being complete disposition of matter before court. Louvall v. Gridley (1886) 70 Cal. 507, 508

[iii] Necessary Parties

The Department of General Services, Office of Administrative Hearings (OAH) was not a necessary party, let alone an indispensable one, in an autistic minor's action challenging a decision that affirmed the termination of funding for the educational portion of the minor's "In-Home Discrete Trial Program"; therefore, the trial court abused its discretion in dismissing the minor's petition for peremptory writ of administrative mandamus. The contracts between the Department of Developmental Services (DDS) and OAH unequivocally demonstrated that OAH was DDS' designee with respect to the fair hearing procedure of the Lanterman Developmental Disabilities Services Act (Welf. & Inst. Code, § 4500 et seq.). The minor could be accorded complete relief among those who were already parties without the need to join OAH. Moreover, OAH would suffer no harm from the minor's failure to join it as a party. Hayes v. State Dept. of Developmental Services (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 1523, 1533-34, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 363

The complete relief clause of Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a) focuses not on whether complete relief can be afforded all possible parties to the action, but on whether complete relief can be afforded the parties named in the action. Deltakeeper v. Oakdale Irrigation District (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 1092, 1101, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 244 , citing Countrywide Home Loans, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 785

Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a) sets out definition of persons who ought to be joined ifpossible, sometimes referred to as necessary parties. Silver v. Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transportation Authority (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 338, 348-349, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 287

In action for fraud, negligent misrepresentation, and general negligence in which plaintiff sought compensatory and punitive damages, joinder of absentees held not necessary under Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(1) and (2); Code Civ. Proc. § 389(b) addresses treatment of indispensable parties; joint tortfeasors with joint and several liability are not necessary parties, but rather permissive parties whose joinder governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 378 and 379. Countrywide Home Loans, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 785, 791, 791 n.3, 793-798, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 63

As defined by Code Civ. Proc. § 389, nonjoined heir is not indispensable party to wrongful death action; omitted heirs, however, are necessary parties toa wrongful death action. Ruttenberg v. Ruttenberg (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 801, 808, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 78

Land developers as necessary rather than indispensable parties in taxpayer's suit to enjoin county from approving subdivision development in violation of state zoning and planning laws in action which did not seek to cancel or suspend approval of those nonjoined land developers whose subdivisions had been previously approved, though they were slightly affected by action in that ongoing subdivision proceedings would be affected until resolution of issue. Camp v. Board of Supervisors (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 334, 354, 176 Cal. Rptr. 620

Probationary employees of school district that was taken over by unified school district as necessary rather than indispensable parties in action by secondary school teachers improperly terminated by new unified school district without offering employment to them. Noguera v. North Monterey County Unified Sch. Dist. (1980) 106 Cal. App. 3d 64, 73, 164 Cal. Rptr. 808

[iv] Indispensable Parties

When California Coastal Commission issued permit for project after conducting de novo proceeding following approval of project by local board of supervisors subject to California Environmental Quality Act (Pub. Res. Code § 21000 et seq.), and person opposed to project filed petition for mandamus and injunctive relief naming local board but not Commission as party, Commission was indispensable party as matter of law since (1) once Commission conducted its de novo examination, local board was no longer plaintiff's adversarial opponent; (2) if court had entered judgment against local board, that judgment would not bind Commission and would be vulnerable to collateral attack by Commission; and (3) judgment without Commission would not be complete determination of controversy nor would it be either effective or adequate under Code Civ. Proc. § 389(b)(3). Kaczorowski v. Mendocino County Bd. of Supervisors (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 564, 569-571, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 14 (trial court did not abuse its discretion in finding that there was failure to join indispensable party and, since statute of limitations had expired, Commission could no longer be made party to action, resulting in denial of petition for writ of mandate)

Courts have considerable discretion in considering and weighing factors in Code Civ. Proc. § 389(b) relevant to determination of whether case should proceed without absent party; in action for declaratory and injunctive relief brought by school teacher and educators association against school district, board, and principal, arising from principal's action in changing citizenship grades given to three students after complaint by student's parents, dismissal of action was not required based on failure to join parents of affected students as necessary parties under section 389(b) when, although parents had interest in matter, (1) matter was moot as to parents since students had already received benefit of grade change; (2) risk of multiple liability was hypothetical; (3) school district ably represented parents' interests; and (4) since question of whether students would be entitled to join honor society and attend field trip had already been decided, case was primarily addressed to scope of district's authority and only incidentally adjudicated interests of students and parents . Las Virgenes Educators Assn. v. Las Virgenes Unified School Dist. (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 1, 7

In mandate proceeding, trial court properly declined to reach petitioners' claims that county agency's payment of Social Security contributions for certain employees, and related income taxes, amounted to unconstitutional grants of extra compensation and gifts of public funds, because petitioners failed to join employees from whom recoupment would be sought, and those employees were indispensable parties; no Code Civ. Proc. § 389(b) factor for determining whether action should proceed among parties before it, or should be dismissed without prejudice is necessarily more important than another; section 389(b) refers to determination "in equity and good conscience"; trial court has substantial discretion with regard to weighing those factors to determine whether to proceed with action when, absent particular party, matter cannot be completely adjudicated. Silver v. Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transportation Authority (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 338, 348-349, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 287

At demurrer stage in construction defect action by homeowners association against developer, secured lenders for each condominium unit held not indispensable parties because pleadings did not demonstrate substantial risk of multiple liability sufficient to require additional parties be joined in complaint; "substantial risk" within meaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 389(2)(a)(ii) means more than theoretical possibility of absent party's asserting claim that would result in multiple liability; risk must be substantial as practical matter. Harboring Villas Homeowners Assn. v. Superior Court (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 426, 428-430, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 646

Indian tribe that had sovereign immunity held not to be indispensable party in action by Attorney General against community redevelopment agency challenging agency's contract with tribe under which agency would transfer real property to tribe for use in tribe's gaming operations in exchange for share of gaming proceeds; although interests of tribe and agency under agreement were not identical, tribe's object in litigation, i.e., establishing that agency acted lawfully in entering into agreement, would duplicate that of agency and would be adequately represented by agency; public interest in obtaining some level of review of agency's actions in transferring property and placing it beyond reach of state's police power is sufficiently important to provide exception to general application of rule under Code Civ. Proc. § 389 that action challenging contract should be dismissed if party to contract cannot be joined; moreover, with regard to fourth factor in Code Civ. Proc. § 389(b), no remedy will be available to Attorney General once contract takes effect and property is transferred; in equity and good conscience, trial court's dismissal of action for failure to join tribe cannot be affirmed. People ex rel Lungren v. Community Redevelopment Agency (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 868, 870, 877-885, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 786 (distinguishing cases that state that party to contract is always indispensable party to suit to set aside that contract)

When plaintiff seeks some type of affirmative relief which, if granted, would injure or affect third person's interest not joined, that third person is indispensable party; State of California, Department of Finance (DOF) should have been named in city's petition for writ of administrative mandamus seeking to overturn the State of California Commission on StateMandates' decision that city not entitled to reimbursement ("subvention") from state funds for particular housing costs incurred by city when relief requested by city, subvention of state funds, would certainly injure or effect interests of DOF; DOF was real party in interest and indispensable party under Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a). Redevelopment Agency v. Commission on State Mandates (1996) 43 Cal. App. 4th 1188, 1196-1198, 51 Cal Rptr. 2d 100

Trial court's granting summary judgment in District's favor for failure to join indispensable party affirmed on appeal when petition for writ of mandate only named (1) third party as petitioner, (2) lead agency District that certified EIR as respondent and (3) city in which project located as real party in interest, but failed to name either landowner whose land had to be acquired to complete project who was indispensable party or any fictitiously named Does; District, as neither developer nor landowner, cannot be expected to represent landowner's interests, thus making landowner indispensable party to proceedings. Save Our Bay, Inc. v. San Diego Unified Port Dist. (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 686, 690, 692, 699, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 847

Plaintiff's children, who had beneficial interest in promissory note, were not indispensable parties to plaintiff's action on note, since they were not assignees and could not sue on note. Niederer v. Ferreira (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1485, 1496, 234 Cal. Rptr. 779

County providing AFDC to mother was indispensable party in action to terminate father's parental rights since county, as assignee of mother's right to support, had right to seek reimbursement from father for AFDC payments and this right would be terminated if father's parental rights were terminated. In re Olivia A. (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 237, 241-243, 226 Cal. Rptr. 382

In action brought to establish constructive trust on proceeds from sale of property, defendant's husband who had equitable interest in property was not indispensable. Martin v. Kehl (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 228, 243, 193 Cal. Rptr. 312

Failure to join indispensable party is not jurisdictional defect and when case has been tried without objection to absence of party and claim of indispensable party raised for first time on appeal, underlying considerations of rule of indispensable party of avoiding piecemeal litigation and multiplicity of suits is of little consequence since judicial and litigant resources necessary to litigation have already been expended. Martin v. Kehl (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 228, 243, 193 Cal. Rptr. 312

Reorganization trustee as indispensable party under Code Civ. Proc. § 389 in action by officers and directors of corporation involved in reorganization proceedings under federal Bankruptcy Act. Miller v. R.K.A. Management Corp. (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 460, 467, 160 Cal. Rptr. 164

All limited partners as indispensable parties in suit to dissolve and wind up affairs of partnership. Kraus v. Willow Park Public Golf Course (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 354, 369, 140 Cal. Rptr. 744

Former federal employer as indispensable party to action by former employee against Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board seeking recovery of unemployment benefits since award of benefits would fall on federal funds budgeted for support of employer. Conrad v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 237, 240-241, 120 Cal. Rptr. 803

[b] When Absence Would Impair Ability to Protect Interest

Persons authorized to appeal granting of permit by Board of Permit Appeals as real parties in interest and required to be joined in action by grantees of permit in action for writ of prohibition restraining board from taking any action on appeal other than upholding previously granted permit. Ursino v. Superior Court (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 611, 616-617, 114 Cal. Rptr. 404

[c] When Action Affects Undetermined Interest of Omitted Party

Legal representative of estate in administration as required party in derivative suit filed by executor of estate of decendant's heir's on behalf of decedent's estate to recover monies alleged to have been wrongfully taken by decedent's brothers. Klopstock v. Superior Court of San Francisco (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 13, 16

Persons having undetermined interest in same property or trust fund as required to be joined in action by one of them seeking to recover all, to fix his or her share, or to recover claimed portion in property or trust fund since judgment in favor of one claimant would necessarily affect rights of others. Bank of California v. Superior Court (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 516, 521, 106 P.2d 879

Corporation, or its trustee, if adjudged bankrupt, as required to be joined in representative action brought on its behalf by stockholders or officers of corporation, since its rights, not those of nominal plaintiff, are to be litigated, and corporation or trustee would be impaired or impeded in its ability to protect its interests if not joined in the action. Miller v. R.K.A. Management Corp. (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 460, 467, 160 Cal. Rptr. 164 ; see also Beyer v. Juno Oil Co. (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 11, 27-28, 265 P.2d 1 ; Keeler v. Schulte (1957) 47 Cal. 2d 801, 803-804, 306 P.2d 430

Partial assignees or subrogees as required to be joined in action when assignee or subrogee has substantial interest in claim of plaintiff. Bank of Orient v. Superior Court (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 588, 595 ; Taylor v. Sanford (1962) 203 Cal. App. 2d 330, 347 ; Space Properties, Inc. v. Tool Research Co. (1962) 203 Cal. App. 2d 819, 828

Spouse as required party in action to foreclose mechanic's lien on property held as tenants in common. Frank Pisano & Associates v. Taggart (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 1, 22-24, 105 Cal. Rptr. 414

Beneficiaries of trust as required to be joined as parties in action by trustee which involves his or her relations with beneficiaries, or relations of beneficiaries between themselves. De Olazabal v. Mix (1937) 24 Cal. App. 2d 258, 261 ; see also Lake v. Dowd (1929) 207 Cal. 290, 293-294 ; Toomey v. Toomey (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 317, 319, 89 P.2d 634

Partial owners of property as required to be joined in action for partition. Solomon v. Redona, (1921) 52 Cal. App. 300, 306

[d] When Affirmative Relief Sought Affecting Others

Party as required to be joined in action by plaintiff seeking some type of affirmative relief which, if granted, would injure or affect interest of third person, since complete relief cannot be accorded to those already parties. Bank of California v. Superior Court (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 516, 522, 106 P.2d 879

Owners and holders of parent oil leases as required to be joined in action by lessors against sublessees for forfeiture of lease. Hartman Ranch Co. v. Associated Oil Co. (1937) 10 Cal. 2d 232, 73 P.2d 1163

United States as party required to be joined in action by former employee seeking unemployment insurance benefits. Conrad v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 237, 241-242, 120 Cal. Rptr. 803

Unions and contractors as required to be parties to an action enjoining construction of public works until civil rights complied with since plaintiff sought relief which, if granted, would injure or affect interest of absent parties and court unable to grant complete relief in their absence. Covarrubias v. James (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 129, 132-135, 98 Cal. Rptr. 257

All parties to contract as required to be joined in action to rescind contract. Holder v. Home Sav. & Loan Asso., (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 91, 107

Grantees of deeded property as required to be joined in action to set aside deed on ground of illegality of granting deed. Noble v. Merchants Nat. Realty Corp. (1967) 248 Cal. App. 2d 48, 51, 56 Cal. Rptr. 253

Permittee in action to revoke permit as required to be joined. Irwin v. City of Manhattan Beach (1964) 227 Cal. App. 2d 634, 636-637, 38 Cal. Rptr. 875

Alleged improper user of water as required to be joined in action by water customer to enjoin water company from supplying water to user. Thomson v. Talbert Drainage Dist. (1959) 168 Cal. App. 2d 687, 690, 336 P.2d 174

Union as required to be joined by plaintiff in action against association of tile contractors to prohibit association from enforcing contract provision requiring it and union hired to do tile work from using particular construction method. Miracle Adhesives Corp. v. Peninsula Tile Contractors' Asso. (1958) 157 Cal. App. 2d 591, 593

Cab company as required to be joined in action by rival cab company to set aside Board of Permit Appeals decision permitting one company to operate certain number of cabs. Greif v. Dullea (1944) 66 Cal. App. 2d 986, 994

[e] When Complete Relief Cannot Be Accorded

In mandate proceeding, trial court acted within its discretion in finding employees on whose behalf county agency (MTA) made Social Security contributions, and from whom recoupment would be sought, were indispensable parties and due to nonjoinder of indispensable parties trial court properly declined to reach petitioners' claims that payments amounted to unconstitutional grants of extra compensation and gifts of public funds; if it were determined payments were illegal gifts of public funds, MTA might be subject to inconsistent judgment in later proceeding against MTA employees, who were not parties to action and who would not be collaterally estopped from arguing payments were proper; thus, determination in this proceeding that payments were illegal would not achieve complete adjudication of dispute, and would result in multiplicity of litigation. Silver v. Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transportation Authority (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 338, 348-350, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 287

Code Civ. Proc. § 389, as revised in 1971, limits compulsory joinder to those situations where absence of person may result in substantial prejudice to that person or to parties already before the court; section 389 conforms substantially to

Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 19 and cases relating to federal rule are relevant. People ex rel Lungren v. Community Redevelopment Agency (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 868, 874-875, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 786

Environmental group seeking to set aside permit for construction of condominiums by regional commission must join developer of project since in his absence complete relief could not be accorded to parties already in case since developer not bound by decision and would be free to collaterally attack any judgment. See Sierra Club, Inc. v. California Coastal Commission (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 495, 501, 157 Cal. Rptr. 190

[f] When Not Required

In fraud, negligent misrepresentation, and general negligence action seeking compensatory and punitive damages, joinder of absentees held not necessary under Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(1) for plaintiff to obtain complete relief when, assuming plaintiff prevailed, plaintiff's damages could be ascertained and judgment rendered; joinder also not required under Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(2)(i) when one absentee sought to be joined could not claim any interest that might be harmed by litigation, interests of other absentees sought to be joined would not be sufficiently affected and defendants would present adequate defense concerning those other absentees; moreover, joinder not required under Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(2)(ii) as to absentee who assigned all its rights and interest to plaintiff because no risk existed that such absentee would pursue claim against defendants. Countrywide Home Loans, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 785, 793-798, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 63

Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(2) requires joinder of party only if nonparty is claiming interest relating to subject of action, not if nonparty merely has such interest; joinder of State of California was properly denied when requested only by plaintiff in bad faith insurance action in which defendant claimed preemption of state action by federal statute. Hartenstine v. Superior Court (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 206, 222, 241 Cal. Rptr. 756

Persons whose interests not prejudiced in concrete way by judgment rendered in absence of joinder are not required to be joined under Code Civ. Proc. § 389. Van Atta v. Scott (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 424, 451-452, 166 Cal. Rptr. 149, 613 P.2d 210 (judges; questioned on other grounds in In re York (1995) 9 Cal. 4th 1133, 1143, 40 Cal. Rptr. 2d 308, 892 P.2d 804); Serrano v. Priest (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 728, 750-753, 135 Cal. Rptr. 345, 557 P.2d 929 (governor and legislature); Alta Loma School Dist. v. San Bernardino County Com. (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 542, 550, 177 Cal. Rptr. 506 (state)

Proper parties are not always necessary or indispensable and not required to be joined in pending action if complete determination of controversy can be made without prejudice to rights of omitted parties, for example beneficiaries of trust. Bowles v. Superior Court (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 574, 582-584, 283 P.2d 704 ; Hebbard v. Colgrove (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 1017, 1026-1027, 105 Cal. Rptr. 172

Necessary parties should normally be made parties, yet if their interests are separable, they are not required to be brought into pending action. Bank of California v. Superior Court (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 516, 521, 523-524, 106 P.2d 879 (legatees in action contesting validity of will); Camp v. Board of Supervisors (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 334 (developers in action to enjoin construction); Noguera v. North Monterey County Unified Sch. Dist. (1980) 106 Cal. App. 3d 64, 164 Cal. Rptr. 808 (part-time teachers in action contesting failure to hire teachers in disincorporated district)

Generally, courts will not order new parties defendant to be brought into action against plaintiff's will unless presence of such new parties is necessary to determination of action. Ambassador Petroleum Co. v. Superior Court (1930) 208 Cal. 667, 671, 284 P. 445 (lessors in action by state to enjoin statutory nuisance caused by lessees); Goldsworthy v. Dobbins (1952) 110 Cal. App. 2d 802, 807, 243 P.2d 883 (holder of second deed of trust in action for specific performance on contract for sale of realty)

[g] When Parties Subject to Inconsistent Obligations

Substantial risk requires more than theoretical possibility that absent party's claim would result in multiple liability-risk must be substantial as practical matter. Las Virgenes Educators Assn. v. Las Virgenes Unified School Dist (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 1, 8

"Substantial risk" within meaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(2)(ii), means more than theoretical possibility of absent party's asserting claim that would result in multiple liability; risk must be substantial as practical matter. Countrywide Home Loans, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 785, 796, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 63 ; accord Harboring Villas Homeowners Assn. v. Superior Court (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 426, 428-430, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 646

Assignee of chose in action must be joined in action for declaration of rights under fire insurance policy in order to protect defendant from future annoyance or loss. Greco v. Oregon Mut. Fire Ins. Co. (1961) 191 Cal. App. 2d 674, 687, 12 Cal. Rptr. 802

Former wife of plaintiff's husband as required to be joined in action for damages against telephone company for listing omitted party as "Mrs. Warner" since if relief granted and phone company discontinued listing it would subject itself to possible further action by omitted party in which present plaintiff might not be named as defendant. Warner v. Pacific Tel. & Tel. Co. (1953) 121 Cal. App. 2d 497, 501, 263 P.2d 465

Mutual debtor is required party in action by one creditor for money received by defendant for benefit of mutual debtor since if plaintiff should prevail, debtor would not be bound by judgment and defendant subject to further loss. Nau v. Santa Ana Sugar Co. (1926) 79 Cal. App. 685, 695

[5] Permissive Joinder

[a] Joint Tortfeasors

Joint tortfeasors with joint and several liability are not necessary parties under Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a), but rather permissive parties whose joinder governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 378 and 379. Countrywide Home Loans, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 785, 794, 796-798, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 63

[b] New Party Defendant

Joinder of two independent and successive tortfeasors as defendants in single cause of action as proper if plaintiff pleads facts showing he or she entertains reasonable doubt as to which defendant is liable for injuries, or extent to which each defendant may be liable. Landau v. Salam (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 901, 904-905, 95 Cal. Rptr. 46, 484 P.2d 1390 ; Kraft v. Smith (1944) 24 Cal. 2d 124, 127

Plaintiff as properly joining in single cause of action two or more parties defendant for injuries to property when plaintiff alleges right to relief arising out of same transaction and doubt as to which defendants should be held liable for damages sustained. See Lambert v. Southern Counties Gas Co. (1959) 52 Cal. 2d 347, 353, 340 P.2d 608

Procedure afforded by Code Civ. Proc. § 379(c) of joining as parties defendant when plaintiff has doubts as to their liability as available to plaintiff on showing that injury for which recovery is sought was proximately caused by negligence of one or more persons and there exists reasonable uncertainty requiring determination of some factual or legal issue in respect to alternative or quantitative liability. Kraft v. Smith (1944) 24 Cal. 2d 124, 130-131, 148 P.2d 23

Joinder of third party's insurer as party defendant as proper when plaintiff in action to recover on insurance policies is insured by two or more insurers separately in respect to same subject and interest. See Fageol Truck & Coach Co. v. Pacific Indem. Co., 18 Cal. 2d 748, 751

Joinder of parties defendant by plaintiff as proper if there exists both right to relief by plaintiff against defendants arising out of same transaction and common questions of law and fact are involved. Kane v. Mendenhall (1936) 5 Cal. 2d 749, 755, 56 P.2d 498

Plaintiff as being able to join as parties defendant in wrongful death action driver of automobile which struck and injured victim, and receiving hospital and attending doctor for subsequent negligent medical treatment, and to bring separate cause of action against hospital and doctor solely for their own negligent acts. See Helling v. Lew (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 434, 439, 104 Cal. Rptr. 789

Plaintiff insurance company as properly joining as parties defendant in action for determination of rights and liabilities under public liability insurancepolicy, its insured, alleged tortfeasor, his family, two other alleged tortfeasors, their families and insurers, and plaintiff, in personal injury suit against three tortfeasors, along with two hundred other Does allegedly injured. General Insurance Co. v. Whitmore (1965) 235 Cal. App. 2d 670, 674-675, 45 Cal. Rptr. 556

Joinder of either plaintiff's or defendant's insurer as party defendant as proper in action to recover on policy when benefits of contract run directly to injured plaintiff as member of public. Zak v. State Farm etc. Ins. Co. (1965) 232 Cal. App. 2d 500, 505, 42 Cal. Rptr. 908 ; Grier v. Ferrant (1944) 62 Cal. App. 2d 306, 312-313

Joinder of principal and surety as defendants in one cause of action. Dreher v. Fidelity & Casualty Co. (1957) 148 Cal. App. 2d 695, 700, 307 P.2d 407 ; see also Rodabaugh v. Kauffman (1921) 53 Cal. App. 676, 682, 200 P. 747 (debtor and guarantor of promissory note)

Plaintiff's joinder of persons as parties defendant as proper when defendants have interest adverse to plaintiff in property or controversy which is subject of action. See Lawler v. Gleason (1955) 130 Cal. App. 2d 390, 394, 279 P.2d 70

Joinder of defendants by plaintiff as proper when one defendant offset payment to plaintiff of increased installation costs caused by faulty specifications of motors built by other defendant for plaintiff to sell to first defendant, and plaintiff is uncertain which defendant might be liable for resultant losses in transaction. Dallman Supply Co. v. Sweet (1948) 86 Cal. App. 2d 780, 783, 195 P.2d 864

Joinder as proper of defendant driver for negligence and defendant Los Angeles County for failure to protect public from dangerous and defective highway conditions when plaintiff in doubt as to recovery from either defendant, or both. Morris v. Duncan (1936) 14 Cal. App. 2d 635, 639, 58 P.2d 669

[c] New Party Plaintiff

Receiver of corporation, having equitable title over property of corporation as proper party plaintiff in action by corporation to recover usurious interest paid to defendant. North v. Cecil B. DeMille Productions, Inc. (1934) 2 Cal. 2d 55, 57-58, 39 P.2d 199

Joinder of party plaintiff after statute of limitations had passed is proper when general set of facts were not altered and defendants were not prejudiced. Citizens Assn. for Sensible Development of Bishop Area v. County of Inyo (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 151, 160, 217 Cal. Rptr. 893

Numerous employees of defendant corporation and members of employees' families were properly joined as plaintiffs under Code Civ. Proc. § 378 in action for damages alleging injuries from exposure to hazardous chemicals in one location over period of years. Anaya v. Superior Court (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 228, 233, 206 Cal. Rptr. 520

Real estate broker as proper party plaintiff to action by prospective buyer to seek specific performance on contract of sale of certain property. Jaffe v. Albertson Co. (1966) 243 Cal. App. 2d 592, 606, 53 Cal. Rptr. 25

Joinder of 78 plaintiffs as proper in action for damages based on conspiracy and fraud of defendants in sale of houses to veterans. Adams v. Albany (1954) 124 Cal. App. 2d 639, 646-647, 269 P.2d 142

Joinder of 13 plaintiffs as proper in action arising out of same series of alleged misrepresentations by realty sellers which presented questions of law and fact concerning misrepresentations common to all parties. Aldrich v. Transcontinental Land etc. Co. (1955) 131 Cal. App. 2d 788, 796, 281 P.2d 362

Joinder of several parties in action for refunds of taxes paid as proper when same question of law is involved, and the parties, if successful, will be entitled to same relief, differing only as to amount of refund. People's Federal Savings and Loan Association v. State Franchise Tax Board (1952) 110 Cal. App. 2d 696, 699-700, 243 P.2d 902

Joinder of plaintiffs as proper when there exists both common interest in subject of action and any question of law or fact common to all plaintiffs. Parmely v. Boone (1939) 35 Cal. App. 2d 517, 519, 96 P.2d 164

Taxpayers challenging validity of assessment and to recover taxes paid under protest as properly joined in one cause of action. DeMille v. County of Los Angeles (1938) 25 Cal. App. 2d 506, 508, 77 P.2d 905

All persons having interest in certain property may be joined in single action as parties plaintiff for damages to property. Union Oil Co. v. Domengeaux (1939) 30 Cal. App. 2d 266, 274, 86 P.2d 127

Joinder of two parties as plaintiffs as proper when relief sought arises out of same transaction, whether jointly or severally, and there exists common question of law or fact. Peters v. Bigelow (1934) 137 Cal. App. 135, 140, 30 P.2d 450

Joinder of separate owners of two parcels of land as proper plaintiffs when lease of land was single instrument covering both parcels of land and intent of lease was to treat lots as one parcel in action to cancel lease in action to quiet title. Garrison v. Hogan (1931) 112 Cal. App. 525, 531-533, 297 P. 87

Joinder of five plaintiffs as proper in action for damages arising out of same automobile collision when each plaintiff prayed for separate award since collision of two automobiles was transaction out of which questions of law and fact common to all injured plaintiffs arose. Colla v. Carmichael U--Drive Autos, Inc. (1930) 111 Cal. App. Supp. 784, 294 P. 378

[d] When Not Permitted

Impermissible to join as new party plaintiff, after statute of limitations has run, person enforcing independent right. Phoenix of Hartford Ins. Companies v. Colony Kitchens (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 140, 146, 128 Cal. Rptr. 893 ; Bartalo v. Superior Court (1975), 51 Cal. App. 3d 526, 533

Persons who do not meet requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 379(a) or (c) as not proper parties defendant. Hoag v. Superior Court (1962) 207 Cal. App. 2d 611, 618, 620, 24 Cal. Rptr. 659

Persons who do not meet requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 378(a) as not proper parties plaintiff. Coleman v. Twin Coast Newspaper, Inc. (1959) 175 Cal. App. 2d 650, 653-654, 346 P.2d 488

[6] Procedures for Joinder

[a] Amendment of Complaint

Court as allowing plaintiff leave to amend complaint to add new party plaintiff if amendment does not affect substantial rights of existing parties. Pruitt v. Fontana (1956) 143 Cal. App. 2d 675, 684, 300 P.2d 371 (disapproved on other grounds in Mattei v. Hopper (1958) 51 Cal. 2d 119, 126, 330 P.2d 625)

Person as becoming party to action only in one of ways provided by law; if not named as party in original complaint, any proper person as permitted to be brought in by amendment of complaint under Code Civ. Proc. § 473, or to be designated by fictitious name on proper allegation in complaint to that effect under Code Civ. Proc. § 474. Nissan v. Barton (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 76, 78-79, 84 Cal. Rptr. 36

Court as required to allow plaintiff leave to amend complaint to bring in new party required to be joined under Code Civ. Proc. § 389. Curtis v. Nye & Nissen (1927) 86 Cal. App. 507, 513, 261 P. 747

Court as allowing plaintiff leave to amend complaint to add new party defendant if person proper party within meaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 379. W.H. Marston Co. v. Kochritz (1926) 80 Cal. App. 352, 357, 251 P. 959

[b] Court's Own Motion

Court may on own motion order joinder of party required to be joined. Loock v. Pioneer Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1935) 4 Cal. App. 2d 245, 249, 40 P.2d 526 ; Curtis v. Nye & Nissen (1927) 86 Cal. App. 507, 513, 261 P. 747

[c] Cross Complaint

Defendant is generally authorized to file cross-complaint against concurrent tortfeasor for partial indemnity even when such concurrent tortfeasor was not named defendant in original complaint; tortfeasor merely permissive party to action against another with like liability and defendant-indemnitee will simply join indemnitor by cross-complaint. Countrywide Home Loans, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 785, 797-799, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 63

Cross complaint as proper in naming as sole cross defendants new third parties to action. Roylance v. Doelger (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 255, 262, 19 Cal. Rptr. 7, 368 P.2d 535

Cross complaint as not proper joinder when it alleges distinct and independent cause of action rather than cause of action arising out of same transaction or subject. Alexander v. Superior Court (1959) 170 Cal. App. 2d 54, 56, 338 P.2d 502

[d] Ex Parte Application

Trial court as allowing omitted party required to be joined under Code Civ. Proc. § 389 to make ex parte application for order compelling joinder. Muller v. Robinson (1959) 174 Cal. App. 2d 511, 513, 345 P.2d 25

[e] Noticed Motion for Order Compelling Joinder

Noticed motion for order compelling joinder as permitted procedure by original party in joining party required to be joined under Code Civ. Proc. § 389. See De La Beckwith v. Superior Court (1905) 146 Cal. 496, 498, 80 P. 717

Court as allowing omitted party who was required to be joined to file notice of motion for order compelling joinder. Cuneo v. Superior Court (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 452, 454-455, 28 Cal. Rptr. 791 ; Wilson v. Frakes (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 580, 581-583, 3 Cal. Rptr. 434

[7] Procedures for Objecting to Joinder, Misjoinder, or Nonjoinder

[a] Demurrer

Demurrer as proper procedure for objecting to plaintiff's failure to join party required to be joined in action. Tuller v. Superior Court (1932) 215 Cal. 352, 355, 10 P.2d 43

Standing to sue goes to existence of cause of action, i.e., whether plaintiff has right to relief in court; demurrer can be used to challenge standing. Sacramento County Fire Protection Dist. v. Sacramento County Assessment Appeals Bd. (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 327, 331, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 215

[b] Protective Order

Protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 379(b), or motion for severance under Code Civ. Proc. § 1048, as remedy rather than demurrer when joinder under Code Civ. Proc. § 379(c) works inconvenience to particular defendant. Landau v. Salam (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 901, 908 n.9, 95 Cal. Rptr. 46, 484 P.2d 1390

[c] Separate Trials

Trial court as having discretion to order separate trials between plaintiff and separate defendants as general rule in civil action against two or more defendants. Pfefferle v. Lastret (1962) 206 Cal. App. 2d 575, 579 ; Ellsworth v. United States Metals Corp., (1952) 110 Cal. App. 2d 727, 729

Order granting separate trials as properly limited to cases where it appears that such joinder may embarrass party or delay trial of action. Westphal v. Westphal (1943) 61 Cal. App. 2d 544, 548, 143 P.2d 405

[8] Resulting Effect of Joinder or Nonjoinder

Indispensable party is not bound by judgment in action in which party was not joined. Inland Counties Regional Center, Inc. v. Office of Administrative Hearings (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 700, 706, 238 Cal. Rptr. 422

Failure to raise indispensable party issue at trial precludes raising it on appeal; failure to join indispensable party is not jurisdictional defect. McKeon v. Hastings College (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 877, 888

Court has no jurisdiction to grant relief against indispensable parties who are not joined. Welch v. Bodeman (1986) 176 Cal. App. 3d 833, 839

Failure to join party that should have been joined does not warrant outright denial of petition for mandamus, but as rather to be resolved by directing petitioner to amend petition to include party. Haller v. Burbank Community Hospital Foundation (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 650, 659, 197 Cal. Rptr. 45

Failure to join indispensable party as not jurisdictional defect in fundamental sense; even in absence of an indispensable party, court still has power to render decision as to parties before it. See Ferraro v. Southern Cal. Gas Co. 102 Cal. App. 3d 33, 44, 162 Cal. Rptr. 238

Nonjoined parties though required to be joined as not affected by judgment rendered between parties to suit and as able to protect their interests by relitigating matter. Kraus v. Willow Park Public Golf Course (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 354, 370, 140 Cal. Rptr. 744

Order granting leave to plaintiffs to amend complaint to join newly named defendants as tantamount to order joining them in action. Warren v. Atchison, T. and S.F. Ry. Co. (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 24, 40, 96 Cal. Rptr. 317

Dismissal of action by plaintiff after new party ordered joined by court as improper. Wilson v. Frakes (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 580, 583 (joined party lessee of land owned by true owner and entered into agreement whereby named defendant would farm land and share equally in crops grown)

[9] Review

Writ of mandate as permissible procedure for seeking review of order by trial court denying order to compel joinder. Bank of Orient v. Superior Court (1967) 67 Cal. App. 3d 588, 599, 136 Cal. Rptr. 741 ; but see Bank of California v. Superior Court (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 516, 527, 106 P.2d 879 (order of court denying joinder cannot be attacked on application for writ of prohibition)

Writ of mandate as permissible procedure for seeking review of order by trial court compelling joinder of new party. Peerless Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 358, 363, 85 Cal. Rptr. 679 ; see also People v. Superior Court (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 167, 172, 81 Cal. Rptr. 555

[10] Statute of Limitations

Failure of individual plaintiff to join his partners in his successful action to recover fee for finding lender as not requiring reversal even though statute of limitations has since run on claim. Tyrone v. Kelley (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 1, 14, 106 Cal. Rptr. 761, 507 P.2d 65 (defendants failed to object and defense was same under either plaintiff)

Where an amendment does not add a new defendant, but simply corrects a misnomer by which an old defendant was sued, case law recognizes an exception to the general rule of no relation back. Whether a plaintiff may amend the complaint to change a party's description or characterization after the statute of limitations has run depends on whether the misdescription or mischaracterization is merely a misnomer or defect in the description or characterization, or whether it is a substitution or entire change of parties. In the former case an amendment will be allowed; in the latter, it will not be allowed. Further, the allowance of amendment and relation back to avoid the statute of limitations does not depend on whether the parties are technically or substantially changed; rather the inquiry is as to whether the nature of the action is substantially changed. Hawkins v. Pacific Coast Building Products, Inc. (2005) 124 Cal. App. 4th 1497, 1503-1504, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 453

Amendment of complaint after statue of limitations has run to drop one party to action and add another who until that time was not party to proceeding as generally not permitted. Chitwood v. County of Los Angeles (1971) 14 Cal. App. 3d 522, 525, 92 Cal. Rptr. 441 ; Stephens v. Berry (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 474, 478, 57 Cal. Rptr. 505

Statue of limitations usually affects only defendants added for first time after it has run and is affirmative defense available to parties added in this manner. Worthington v. Kaiser Foundation Health Plan, Inc. (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d

435, 446-448, 87 Cal. Rptr. 272 ; see Orloff v. Metropolitan Trust Co. (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 484, 489, 110 P.2d 396 ; see also Sierra Club, Inc. v. California Coastal Commission (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 495, 503, 157 Cal. Rptr. 190

[11] Venue

When case proper for joinder and one of defendants is resident of county where action is brought, change of venue as not permitted to be granted on motion of another defendant who is nonresident. Dallman Supply Co. v. Sweet (1948) 86 Cal. App. 2d 780, 785, 195 P.2d 864

[12] Waiver of Object to Misjoinder

Failure to object to defect in pleadings, such as misjoinder of parties, by demurrer or answer waives objection. Jordan v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 449, 469, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 333

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.54

§ 395.54 Law Reviews

Flickinger, Standing in Racial Gerrymandering Cases, 49 Stanford L. Rev. 381 (1997)

Blasko, Crossley & Lloyd, Standing to Sue in the Charitable Sector, 28 U.S.F. L. Rev. 37 (1993)

Comment, Civil Procedure; Intervention, 9 Pac. L.J. 356 (1978)

Yeazell, Intervention and the Idea of Litigation: A Commentary on the Los Angeles School Case, 25 UCLA L. Rev. 244 (1977)

McCoid, A Single Package for Multiparty Disputes, 28 Stan. L. Rev. 707 (1976)

McCoid, "A Single Package for Multiparty Disputes," 28 Stan. L. Rev. 707 (1976)

Comment, "Right to Recover for Loss of Consortium," 63 Cal. L. Rev. 323 (1975)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.55

§ 395.55 Text References

Witkin, California Procedure, Vol. 4, Pleading, §§ 103 et seq., 155-192 (4th ed. 1997)

Arnold, Commencing Civil Actions in California, Ch. 3, Pleadings, Parties, Actions, and Issues, §§ 3.05-3.08; Ch. 4, Jurisdiction, §§ 4.01-4.03; Ch. 9, Acquiring Jurisdiction of the Parties, §§ 9.01-9.08

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 395.56-395.59

[Reserved]

§§ 395.56[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Intervention

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.60

§ 395.60 Related Matthew Bender Publications

For form of memorandum of points and authorities in support of intervention by a creditor or shareholder in an action for involuntary dissolution, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 52, Corporations

For form of memorandum of points and authorities in support of intervention in an action to set aside a default judgment see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 70, Default and Default Judgments

For forms of memoranda of points and authorities in support of and in opposition to intervention by a nonparty into a pending action, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 124, Intervention

Moore's Federal Practice, Ch. 24 (3d ed. Matthew Bender)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Intervention

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.61

§ 395.61 State Statutes

[1] Intervention

Permissive intervention by nonparty. Code Civ. Proc. § 387(a)

Mandatory intervention by nonparty. Code Civ. Proc. § 387(b)

[2] Specific Statutory Authorization

Joinder of party having interest in property. Code Civ. Proc. § 389.5

Third-party claimant in personal property that is attached. Code Civ. Proc. § 488.090

Third-party claimant in personal property subject to claim and delivery. Code Civ. Proc. § 514.050

Third-party claimant in property levied on. Code Civ. Proc. § 720.010 et seq.

Intervention by persons challenging the validity of agency acts regarding community development. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860-870

Intervention by claimant to interest in property subject to eminent domain. Code Civ. Proc. § 1250.230

Intervention by Attorney General in proceeding re escheat property. Code Civ. Proc. § 1421

Intervention by creditor to reach unpaid subscription of shareholder. Corp. Code § 414

Intervention by dissenting shareholder in action for appraisal of stock. Corp. Code § 1304(a)

Intervention by dissenting shareholder or creditor in corporation dissolution proceedings. Corp. Code § 1800(c)

Intervention by employer or employee in action against third party. Lab. Code § 3853

Third party permitted to contest will. Prob. Code § 8270

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Intervention

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.62

§ 395.62 Decisions

[1] Appeal

Order denying intervention as appealable. Knight v. Alefosio (1984) 158 Cal. App. 3d 716, 720, 205 Cal. Rptr. 42 ; Mallick v. Superior Court (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 434, 439, 152 Cal. Rptr. 503 (mandamus also proper remedy when trial court refuses to assume jurisdiction); Berman v. Aetna Casualty & Surety Co. (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 908, 912, 115 Cal. Rptr. 566

Appeal from order denying motion to intervene as not ousting court of jurisdiction to try main case. Olson v. Hopkins (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 638, 644-645, 75 Cal. Rptr. 33

[2] Attorney's Fees

Interests of an intervenor are relevant only to its right to intervene and have no relevance to its right to attorney's fees, absent statutory or contractual rights thereto. Big Bear Mun. Water Dist. v. Bear Valley Mutual Water Co. (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 363, 386, 254 Cal. Rptr. 757 (intervenor was party to action but not party to contract (consent judgment) authorizing award of attorney's fees to prevailing party)

[3] Consequential Interest

As a successful party under Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5, a law firm's interest in a fee award would be directly and adversely affected if a final judgment issued prior to a motion for fees. The firm would forever lose the right to collect fees from the opposing party under § 1021.5. Thus, the firm had a sufficiently direct and immediate interest to permit intervention and a motion for an award of fees under § 1021.5. Lindelli v. Town of San Anselmo (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 1499, 1500-1501, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 707

Interest of lawyer seeking to protect right to fees payable out of litigation as consequential one. Meadow v. Superior Court (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 610, 615, 30 Cal. Rptr. 824, 381 P.2d 648

Principal municipal customer of water company suing others for declaration of itswater rights as having only consequential interest not justifying intervention. Allen v. California Water & Tel. Co. (1947) 31 Cal. 2d 104, 109, 187 P.2d 393

Intervention as properly denied to the wife of a defendant claiming potential threat to her community interest in marital property if defendant loses and execution is levied on the assets. Bechtel v. Axelrod (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 390, 392-393, 125 P.2d 836

Where issue involved in litigation is not within the scope of the California PublicEmployment Relations Board's exclusive jurisdiction, it has no direct or immediate interest in the action, and thus was properly denied the opportunity to intervene. California Assn. of Professional Scientists v. Schwarzenegger (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 371, 381-382, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 354

Court properly denied intervention where would-be intervenors failed to allege a tangible harm absent intervention, as opposed to a political or philosophical interest. City and County of San Francisco v. State of California (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 1030, 1044, 27 Cal. Rptr. 3d 722

Right of an attorney to intervene as a party in his client's action, for purpose of settling a dispute between him and his client as to attorneys' fees for services rendered in the same action, is limited to those specific actions wherein, by virtue of the contract of employment between the attorney and client, the former is given a specific present interest in the subject matter of the action, which interest might be jeopardized by the client's discharge of his original attorney and the employment of another to prosecute the action. Brown v. Superior Court (2004) 116 Cal. App. 4th 320, 330, 9 Cal. Rptr. 3d 912

Investigative administrative body's interest in overbroad effect of ancillary gag order and order sealing court records was only consequential interest in dismissed underlying action. Mary R. v. B & R Corp. (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 308, 314-315, 196 Cal. Rptr. 871

Trial court's refusal to permit intervention by football league management council in action regarding production of a team member's medical records as proper when council had no direct interest requiring protection and when same counsel already represented both the council and a party to the action. National Football League Management Council v. Superior Court (1983) 138 Cal. App. 3d 895, 904 n.3, 188 Cal. Rptr. 337

Insurer as not entitled to intervene in personal injury action against hospital, doctor, and others, since cause of action in tort is not property or transaction within Code Civ. Proc. § 387 (allowing for intervention of persons who, inter alia, claim an interest relating to property or transaction which is the subject of the action). California Physicians' Service v. Superior Court (1980) 102 Cal. App. 3d 91, 96, 97, 162 Cal. Rptr. 266

Interest as consequential and thus insufficient for intervention when relief sought in action does not directly affect prospective intervenor's interest although result of action may indirectly benefit or harm him or her; thus an unsecured creditor of a defendant who will be rendered unable to pay debt if he loses lawsuit is held to have only consequential interest not justifying intervention in litigation. Olson v. Hopkins (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 638

Potential subrogee as having only consequential interest. Hausmann v. Farmers Ins. Exchange (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 611, 615, 29 Cal. Rptr. 75

Owner of property adjoining a parcel, the subject of a quiet title action to determine oil and gas rights, as not having a direct interest permitting intervention in action. People v. City of Long Beach (1960) 183 Cal. App. 2d 271, 275, 6 Cal. Rptr. 658

Insurer who refused to defend except on reservation of rights as having only consequential interest not justifying intervention in an action against insured. Corridan v. Rose (1955) 137 Cal. App. 2d 524, 530-531, 290 P.2d 939

Owner of land adjoining parcel subject to eminent domain proceeding who claims that her property will be depreciated by the work of improvement as having only consequential interest not justifying intervention in proceeding. Alhambra v. Jacob Bean Realty Co. (1934) 138 Cal. App. 251, 252-253, 31 P.2d 1052

County seeking to acquire right-of-way for public street as having only consequential interest not justifying intervention in quiet title action to determine ownership of abandoned railroad rights-of-way in which private parties and a city are claimants. Faus v. Pacific Elec. Ry. Co. (1955) 134 Cal. App. 2d 352, 359-361, 285 P.2d 1017

Contingent beneficiary of trust seeking to intervene in divorce action between other persons in order to establish illegitimacy of a prior beneficiary to prevent his taking under trust and thus to establish the right of attempting intervenor to take as not permitted to do so because beneficiary's interest in divorce was consequential and not direct. Bernheimer v. Bernheimer (1948) 87 Cal. App. 2d 242, 246-247, 196 P.2d 813 ; see In re Marriage of Williams (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 507, 511-512, 161 Cal. Rptr. 808 (mother and sister of deceased parent)

[4] Consequential Interest Becoming Direct

United States as permitted to intervene in action involving imposition of local taxes when otherwise it would have been impossible for anyone to assert the fiscal policy of the federal government involved in federal statute at the heart of litigation. County of San Bernardino v. Harsh California Corp. (1959) 52 Cal. 2d 341, 346-347, 340 P.2d 617

Equitable-beneficial owner of property as proper intervenor in an action in which the trustee-legal owner refuses to defend his title or claims adversely to the beneficiary. Elms v. Elms (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 681, 685, 52 P.2d 223

Shareholders as proper parties to intervene in action against corporation when corporation's officers and board of directors fail in good faith to defend it in suit. Eggers v. National Radio Co. (1929) 208 Cal. 308, 313 ; Thorman v. Dome Producing & Developing Co. (1942) 50 Cal. App. 2d 201, 202-203, 122 P.2d 927

Corp. Code § 15526 [repealed Jan. 1, 2010; see Corp. Code § 15534], providing that limited partner is not proper party to proceedings by or against limited partnership, as not barring limited partner's right to intervene in an action against limited partnership when general partner refuses to defend. Kobernick v. Shaw (1977) 70 Cal. App. 3d 914, 918, 139 Cal. Rptr. 188 ; Linder v. Vogue Invest. Inc. (1966) 239 Cal. App. 2d 338, 340

Judgment creditor of insured as proper intervenor in action by insurance company for declaration of nonliability on fire policy on grounds that insured started fire when insured judgment proof, the creditor's only possibility of satisfying judgment was defendant insured's success in action, and insured defaulted in bad faith by refusing to litigate. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. v. Gerlach (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 299, 303-305, 128 Cal. Rptr. 396

State as proper intervenor in action to dissolve corporation to protect the interest of shareholders not available to assert their interests when those interests mayescheat. In re Mercantile Guaranty Co. (1965) 238 Cal. App. 2d 426, 437, 48 Cal. Rptr. 589

[5] Direct Interest

Because the validity or invalidity of same-sex marriages under current California law involves only a pure question of law, couples who are not formal parties to this action are in no different position than if this question of law had been presented and resolved in an action involving some other same-sex couple rather than in an action in which the legal arguments regarding the validity of such marriages have been vigorously asserted not only by the city officials who authorized and registered such marriages but also by various amici curiae representing similarly situated same-sex couples. Lockyer v. City and County of San Francisco (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 1055, 1115, 17 Cal. Rptr. 3d 225, 95 P.3d 459

Proper to permit purported class of defrauded investors to intervene in action by the People against individuals and corporations seeking injunctive relief, civil penalties, and restitution to investors in connection with alleged oil drilling contract fraud. People v. Superior Court (Good) (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 732, 736, 131 Cal. Rptr. 800, 552 P.2d 760

Assignees as successors in interest permitted to intervene. Dabney v. Philleo (1951) 38 Cal. 2d 60, 68, 237 P.2d 648 (assignees purchased heir's interest in share of estate)

When insurer might be subject to direct action under Ins. Code § 11580 by judgment creditor who has or will obtain default judgment in third party action against insured, intervention by insurer is appropriate; trial court, therefore, abused its discretion in denying insurer's right to intervene in action by owners of personal property against insured moving and storage company that allegedly lost owners' property; court also rejected claim that insurer could not assert defenses of its insured, which was suspended as corporation for failure to pay taxes, distinguishing Truck Ins. Exchange v. Superior Court (1997) 60 Cal. App. 4th 342, 346-349, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 255 , on basis that here insurer had not paid loss for which insured had right to recover from property owners but rather sought to intervene to protect its own interests in any action brought against it under Ins. Code § 11580; if insurer did not intervene, property owners would be able to obtain unopposed default judgment and then would be able to bring direct action against insurer for payment of that default judgment, which would have result of punishing insurer for something it did not do, since insurers have no control over solvency or corporate vitality of their insureds. Reliance Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2000) 84 Cal. App. 4th 383, 386

Insurer that had accepted defense of claims against insured, asserting reservation of rights, held to have sufficiently direct interest in action brought by two other insurers against insured seeking to rescind their policies so as to justify insurer's intervention on insured's behalf in that action when all insurers issued general comprehensive liability policies to insured for successive policy periods, and insured could not defend suit because insured's corporate status had been suspended for failure to file state tax returns; at some point insurer may have right to assert claims for contribution from other two insurers for cost of defending and/or indemnifying insured; under circumstances, outcome of present action will have direct and substantial effect on insurer's right to seek equitable contribution, even though that right may not have ripened; if insurer was not allowed to intervene, default judgments rescinding other insurance policies would bar insurer from pursuing equitable contribution from other two insurers in any action for equitable contribution. Truck Ins. Exchange v. Superior Court (1997) 60 Cal. App. 4th 342, 346-349, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 255

Redwood preservation league that donated land to state for "state park purposes" had direct and substantial interest in subsequent action brought by neighboring lumber company to dispute park boundary; intervention was proper because of substantial probability of detrimental impact on league's interests (interests in continuing to receive contributions from members for acquisition of lands for park preservation and in ensuring that restrictive language in deed is carried out). Simpson Redwood Co. v. State of California (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1192, 1200-1201, 242 Cal. Rptr. 447

Maternal grandparents had right to intervene and oppose adoption petition filed by paternal grandparents, when child's mother was murdered by child's father whose conviction and death sentence was on appeal at time of adoption proceeding. Adoption of Lenn E. (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 210, 220, 227 Cal. Rptr. 63

When statute exists specifically to protect public from hazard to its health and welfare that would allegedly occur without that statute, members of public have right to intervene because they have substantial interest in protection and benefit provided by statute. People ex rel. Rominger v. County of Trinity (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 655, 662-663, 195 Cal. Rptr. 186

Employee as having unconditional right to intervene in action filed by employer to recover damages for personal injuries, and intervention timely even though filed after expiration of one-year limitation since employer had filed within limitation period. Jordan v. Superior Court (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d 202, 207, 172 Cal. Rptr. 30

Party as entitled to intervene in representative capacity on behalf of users and consumers of services in class action. Mallick v. Superior Court (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 434, 436, 152 Cal. Rptr. 503

Subrogee as having right of action in injured party's cause of action, and if that cause of action has been timely filed, subrogee may intervene. Ventura County Employees' Retirement Association v. Pope (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 938, 947-955, 151 Cal. Rptr. 695

School district as having standing, and LAFCO as not having standing, to intervene on defendant's side in action by real estate developers to invalidate city policy that "school impact fees" may be charged where new subdivisions threaten to overload existing school facilities. Timberidge Enterprises, Inc. v. City of Santa Rosa (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 873, 880-885, 150 Cal. Rptr. 606

Nonprofit corporation composed of parents as proper party to intervene in action involving desegregation of school district since reassignment of students would have direct social, educational, and economic impact on students reassigned and their parents. Bustop v. Superior Court (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 66, 70-71, 137 Cal. Rptr. 793

Assignee of note and trust deed as entitled to intervene in action by city to collect onfaithful performance bond when contractor failed to perform work and defaulted on promissory note. See Berman v. Aetna Casualty & Surety Co. (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 908, 912, 115 Cal. Rptr. 566 (however, prospective intervenor failed to timely appeal judgment denying right to intervene)

Judgment creditors as having been granted leave to intervene in injunction commenced against sheriff to enjoin execution sale. Allen v. Pitchess (1973) 36 Cal. App. 3d 321, 326, 111 Cal. Rptr. 658 (intervention under joinder, Code Civ. Proc. § 389.5)

Division of Labor Law Enforcement as assignee of employee's claim against his employer for wages permitted to intervene. Marc Bellaire, Inc. v. Fleischman (1960) 185 Cal. App. 2d 591, 595, 8 Cal. Rptr. 650

[6] Dismissal of Action

Plaintiff in intervention as not entitled to carry on action on her complaint in intervention after dismissal of main action by plaintiff notwithstanding fact that she had been granted leave to intervene prior to dismissal when prior to dismissal she had not filed any pleading and had only obtained leave to file pleading and orders extending time within which to plead. Klinghoffer v. Barasch (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 258, 261-262, 84 Cal. Rptr. 350

[7] Grounds for Intervention

Not every interest in the outcome of litigation gives to its possessor right to intervene in lawsuit. Interest must be direct and not consequential, and it must be interest which is proper to be determined in action in which intervention is sought. Isaacs v. Jones (1898) 121 Cal. 257, 261, 53 P. 793

Presented with motion for intervention, court must determine whether intervenor has established (1) it has direct interest in lawsuit; (2) intervention would not enlarge issues raised by original parties; and (3) intervenor would not tread on rights of original parties to conduct their own lawsuit. Bame v. City of Del Mar (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 1346, 1364, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 183

Insurer disputing coverage of underlying claim was not entitled to intervene in products liability action against insured because insurer does not have sufficiently direct interest in lawsuit, intervention would enlarge scope of lawsuit to include issues necessary to determine coverage, and insured and insurer seek different factual resolutions of issues relevant to coverage. Kuperstein v. Superior Court (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 598, 600-601, 251 Cal. Rptr. 385

Environmental organization was entitled to intervene in action by state to preempt county's enactment of pesticide ordinances because intervenor had direct and immediate interest in lawsuit, intervenor's complaint raised no new legal or factual issues to be decided by trial court, and original parties' interest in litigating case on their own terms did not outweigh interest of environmental organization in intervening to protect its members' health and well-being. People ex rel. Rominger v. County of Trinity (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 655, 664-665, 195 Cal. Rptr. 186

Government entity has no greater authority to intervene in litigation of others than any other party. Mary R. v. B & R Corp. (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 308, 314, 196 Cal. Rptr. 871

Right to intervene in action under Code Civ. Proc. § 387(a) as requiring interest of direct and immediate character greater than that possessed by simple creditor of party. See Olson v. Hopkins (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 638, 641-644, 75 Cal. Rptr. 33 (discussing cases under former Code Civ. Proc. § 387)

Interest justifying intervention as being of such direct or immediate character intervenor will either gain or lose by direct legal operation and effect of judgment. People v. City of Long Beach (1960) 183 Cal. App. 2d 271, 275, 6 Cal. Rptr. 658

[8] Independent Status of Intervenor

Intervenor has independent cause of action against defendant and not is limited by every procedural decision made by plaintiff, and thus may move to disqualify judge, or to object to jurisdiction of court or to pleadings on ground of failure to state cause of action; intervenor is also entitled to trial on merits despite plaintiff's waiver by failure to pursue litigation. Deutschmann v. Sears, Roebuck & Co. (1982) 132 Cal. App. 3d 912, 915

[9] Mode of Intervention

Ex parte application. Allen v. California Water & Tel. Co. (1947) 31 Cal. 2d 104, 107, 187 P.2d 393 ; Adoption of Lenn E. (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 210, 217, 227 Cal. Rptr. 63 ; Marc Bellaire, Inc. v. Fleischman (1960) 185 Cal. App. 2d 591, 595, 8 Cal. Rptr. 650

Cross complaint as proper mode of intervention by intervenor, a limited partner seeking to intervene to defend suit against limited partnership when general partner failed to defend it. Kobernick v. Shaw (1977) 70 Cal. App. 3d 914, 919, 920, 139 Cal. Rptr. 188

Hearing on notice. Muller v. Robinson (1959) 174 Cal. App. 2d 511, 515, 345 P.2d 25 ; see Bowles v. Superior Court (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 574, 588-589, 283 P.2d 704

[10] Procedural Requirements

Necessary interest for intervention as being in matter in litigation in suit as originally brought. Jersey Maid Milk Products Co. v. Brock (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 661, 663, 664, 91 P.2d 599 ; People v. Brophy (1942) 49 Cal. App. 2d 15, 34, 120 P.2d 946

Regardless of whether intervention is permissive or mandatory, a petition to seek leave is required; without permission from the court a party lacks any standing to the action. Lohnes v. Astron Computer Products (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 1150, 1153, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 34

Necessity for complaint in intervention to state sufficient facts to constitute cause for intervention. Hausmann v. Farmers Ins. Exchange (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 611, 615, 29 Cal. Rptr. 75

[11] Purpose of Allowing Intervention

Purpose of allowing intervention is to protect others potentially affected by judgment, thus obviating delay and multiplicity of suits; intervener becomes party to action with all of same procedural rights and remedies of original parties. Montgomeryv. Bio-Med Specialties, Inc. (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 1292, 1296, 228 Cal. Rptr. 709

[12] Right to Intervene--Determination

Trial court possesses discretion to deny intervention even when a direct interest is shown by the would-be intervenors if the interests of the original litigants outweigh the intervenor's concerns of potential delay and multiplicity of actions. People v. Superior Court (Good) 17 Cal. 3d 732, 737, 131 Cal. Rptr. 800, 552 P.2d 760

Court ruling on motion to intervene balances desirability of intervention to protect a direct interest against normal right of original parties to litigation to "conduct their lawsuit on their own terms" and potential of unduly extending litigation. County of San Bernardino v. Harsh California Corp. (1959) 52 Cal. 2d 341, 346, 340 P.2d 617

Owners of land within irrigation district whose property would be burdened with taxes to finance bonded indebtedness of district sought intervention in action to validate those bonds were denied right to intervene by trial court on basis that intervention would have introduced unnecessary collateral matter into lawfuit. La Mesa etc. Irr. Dist. v. Halley (1925) 195 Cal. 739, 742, 235 P. 999

Determination that interest is direct and not consequential does not of itself establish right to intervene; interest must be one "which is proper to be determined in the action in which the intervention is sought." Isaacs v. Jones (1898) 121 Cal. 257, 261

Where issue involved in litigation is not within the scope of the California Public Employment Relations Board's exclusive jurisdiction, it has no direct or immediate interest in the action, and thus was properly denied the opportunity to intervene. California Assn. of Professional Scientists v. Schwarzenegger (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 371, 381-382, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 354

Court properly denied intervention where would-be intervenors failed to allege a tangible harm absent intervention, as opposed to a political or philosophical interest. City and County of San Francisco v. State of California (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 1030, 1044, 27 Cal. Rptr. 3d 722

Court has discretion to permit intervention if nonparty's interest in litigation is direct and immediate, issues to be decided in case will not be increased by intervention, and reasons supporting intervention are stronger than those raised by parties against it. Truck Ins. Exchange v. Superior Court (1997) 60 Cal. App. 4th 342, 351, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 255

Trial court lacks discretion not to allow substitution of trustee in bankruptcy for plaintiff who has filed bankruptcy petition; however, although bankrupt's cause of action for personal injuries becomes part of bankruptcy estate when bankruptcy petition is filed, bankrupt is not divested of right to continue to prosecute action until bankruptcy trustee intervenes and substitutes in action as real party in interest. Kaley v. Catalina Yachts (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1187, 1194-1195, 1195 n.7, 232 Cal. Rptr. 384

Intervention is properly permitted only if petitioner shows fact which satisfies requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 387(a). See Socialist Workers Etc. Committee v. Brown (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 879, 891

Trial court did not abuse discretion in denying right to intervene pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 387. Squire v. City and County of San Francisco (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 974, 978-979, 91 Cal. Rptr. 347

Motion to intervene was properly denied when it constituted attempt to relitigate matters already finally adjudicated, motion was not timely, and appellate court was not furnished with record sufficient to allow proper inquiry into alleged merits. Reber v. Beckloff (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 341, 342-343, 85 Cal. Rptr. 807

Right to intervene under Code Civ. Proc. § 387(a) is not absolute. Muller v. Robinson (1959) 174 Cal. App. 2d 511, 515, 345 P.2d 25

Insurer that has paid collision claim and become subrogated to rights of its insured is denied right to intervene to assert rights in action prosecuted by insured if trial court concludes that permitting intervention would prejudice the conduct of the litigation by interjecting the issue of insurance. Corridan v. Rose (1955) 137 Cal. App. 2d 524, 530-531, 290 P.2d 939

Trial court is vested with discretion in drawing balance and its determination cannot be reversed on appeal unless arbitrary in sense that not supported by any substantial basis. In re Yokohama Specie Bank (1948) 86 Cal. App. 2d 545, 554, 195 P.2d 555

[13] Time of Intervention

Application for leave to file a complaint in intervention was timely when made after motion for new trial granted and cause was still at issue. Eggers v. National Radio Co (1929) 208 Cal. 308, 312

Trial court did not abuse its discretion denying insurer's motion to intervene when insurer had taken no steps to participate in litigation until several years had passed and the parties had already reached a settlement; although insurer had a direct and immediate interest in the lawsuit, it was not entitled to intervene when it had consistently denied coverage and denied its insured a defense in the lawsuit. Noya v. A.W. Coulter Trucking (2006) 143 Cal. App. 4th 838, 842, 49 Cal. Rptr. 3d 584

Timeliness is hardly reason to bar intervention when direct interest is demonstrated and real parties in interest have not shown any prejudice other than being required to prove their case. Truck Ins. Exchange v. Superior Court (1997) 60 Cal. App. 4th 342, 351, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 255 (motion made on eve of plaintiff obtaining default judgment)

Complaint in intervention, like any other complaint, is subject to affirmative defense based on applicable statute of limitations and, if it asserts new cause of action, application for leave to intervene must be filed within pertinent limitations period. Basin Construction Corp. v. Department of Water & Power (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 819, 825, 245 Cal. Rptr. 178

When employer or its insurer files timely action against tortfeasor to recover workers' compensation paid to injured employee, employee may intervene to recover damages for personal injury even if complaint in intervention is not filed withinstatute of limitations. Home Insurance Co. v. Southern Cal. Rapid Transit District (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 522, 523-524, 241 Cal. Rptr. 858

Complaint in intervention of workers' compensation insurer was properly dismissed on ground that plaintiffs in underlying third-party tort action had failed to serve and return summons within statutory three-year period under former Code Civ. Proc. § 581. Chambers v. Santa Cruz City School Dist. (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 518, 522-524, 238 Cal. Rptr. 356

Denial of party's application to intervene was proper when party had been involved in suit from outset, and had previously filed amicus brief, but did not attempt to intervene until after summary judgment motion had been fully argued and trial court had indicated its intent to grant motion. Northern Cal. Psychiatric Society v. City of Berkeley (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 90, 109, 223 Cal. Rptr. 609

Period of limitation under Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 applied to individual claim of heir seeking to intervene in wrongful death action that was otherwise filed within period of limitation and required that application for leave to intervene be filed within period if complaint in intervention asserts new cause of action. Andersen v. Barton Memorial Hospital, Inc. (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 678, 682

Person not party to action as originally commenced or tried may be permitted to intervene even after judgment by moving to vacate judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 663 when trial court draws incorrect conclusions of law or renders erroneous judgment on basis of uncontroverted facts. Simac Design, Inc. v. Alciati (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 146, 152-153, 154 Cal. Rptr. 676

Intervention is possible anytime, if otherwise appropriate, even after judgment and after appeal perfected. Mallick v. Superior Court (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 434, 437, 152 Cal. Rptr. 503 (issue of intervention not a matter embraced in or affected by the judgment)

Reversible error of trial court in allowing intervention after entry of default judgment when intervenor was not diligent in pursuing remedy. Drinnon v. Oliver (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 571, 585-586, 101 Cal. Rptr. 120

Right to intervene in action after default or default judgment entered. Linder v. Vogue Investments, Inc. (1966) 239 Cal. App. 2d 338, 343, 48 Cal. Rptr. 633

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Intervention

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.63

§ 395.63 Law Reviews

Note, When a Permissive Intervenor Impairs the Plaintiff's Control, 35 Hastings L.J. 707 (1984)

Comment, "Civil Procedure; intervention," 9 Pacific L.J. (1978)

Yeazell, "Intervention and the Idea of Litigation: A Commentary on the Los Angeles School Case," 25 UCLA L. Rev. 256 (1977)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Intervention

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.64

§ 395.64 Text References

California Civil Procedure Before Trial, Vol. 3, Ch. 61, Intervention (Cal. CEB 3d ed. 2000)

Witkin, California Procedure, Vol. 4, Pleading, § 193 et seq. (4th ed. 1997)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Intervention

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 395.65-395.69

[Reserved]

§§ 395.65[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST
A. Joinder of Parties
1. Parties Seeking Joinder

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.70

§ 395.70 Plaintiff's Joinder of New Party

[1] Permissive Joinder of Plaintiff Under Code Civ. Proc. § 378

[a] Preliminary Determinations

☐ Does the omitted party meet the requirements for joinder of a party plaintiff [Code Civ. Proc. § 378; see § 395.70[1][b][ii], below]?

☐ Will joinder avoid unnecessary duplication?

☐ Will close cooperation with other plaintiffs enhance or impair ability to present client's case in the light most persuasive to his or her interest?

☐ Will joinder unnecessarily confuse and complicate the issues?

☐ Will joinder result in a higher jurisdictional classification than counsel desires because the amount of damages sought or particular relief desired by a party is not available in a limited civil case [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86]?

☐ Will joinder bring in an unpopular or unsympathetic plaintiff who may alienate the jury and endanger client's ability to obtain a favorable verdict?

☐ Will joinder give rise to a conflict of interest between plaintiffs, e.g., driver and passenger in a personal injury suit?

[b] Procedural Determinations

[i] Jurisdiction and Classification of the Case

☐ Will the court have jurisdiction over the subject matter of the action?

☐ Does the amount of damages sought classify the action as a limited or unlimited civil case?

☐ Does the type of relief sought classify the action as a limited or unlimited civil case?

☐ Will the court be able to grant the particular relief sought?

[ii] Grounds for Joinder

☐ Does the omitted party have a right to relief jointly, severally, or in the alternative, arising out of the same transaction or occurence or series of transactions or occurrences, and is there a question of law or fact common to the parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 378(a)(1)]; or ☐ Does the omitted party have a claim, right, or interest adverse to the defendant which is the subject of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 378(a)(2)]?

[c] Procedures for Joinder

☐ Include party in original complaint [for a discussion, forms, and procedures, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints];

☐ Amend the complaint as a matter of course before the answer or demurrer is filed or after the demurrer and before trial of the issue of law thereon [Code Civ. Proc. § 472]; or ☐ File a notice of motion for leave to amend the complaint joining new party plaintiff who consents to joinder [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a); see § 395.100 for form].

[2] Permissive Joinder of Defendant Under Code Civ. Proc. § 379

[a] Preliminary Determinations

☐ Does the omitted party meet the requirements for joinder of a party defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 379; see § 395.70[2][b][iii]]?

☐ Have all potential defendants and the extent of their possible liability been ascertained?

☐ Will the omitted party be able to adequately respond to the judgment of the court?

☐ Will joinder of the omitted party enhance plaintiff's ability to obtain a favorable verdict through evidence which reinforces plaintiff's assertion of wrongdoing?

☐ Will joinder of the omitted party impair plaintiff's ability to obtain a favorable verdict by providing defendants an opportunity to negate force and effect of plaintiff's case?

[b] Procedural Determinations

[i] Preliminary Considerations

☐ Will omitted party be subject to service of process [see Code Civ. Proc. § 410.50]?

☐ Will the court in which relief is sought have jurisdiction over the subject matter of the action, or in the case of a unified trial court, will the case be a limited civil case or otherwise [see Cal. Const., art. VI, §§ 5(a), 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85-86]?

☐ Has the statute of limitations already run, thus, possibly preventing joinder of a new party defendant [see Orloff v. Metropolitan Trust Co. (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 484, 489, 110 P.2d 396] ?

[ii] Procedural Considerations

☐ Will joining the omitted party provide an opportunity to file action in more favorable judicial territory [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 392-402; Ch. 571, Venue]?

☐ Will joining the omitted party provide an opportunity for more advantageous discovery procedures and evidentiary admissions [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2016 et seq. (Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq. operative July 1, 2005); Ch. 190-200, Discovery]?

☐ Will joining of omitted party affect plaintiff's desire to have or avoid a jury trial [see Cal. Const., art. I, § 16; Code Civ. Proc. § 592; Ch. 322, Juries and Jury Selection]?

☐ Will joining of omitted party provide an opportunity for any defendant to file cross complaints against plaintiff, other defendants, or plaintiffs, thus confusing the issues and leading to plaintiff's loss of control of the case [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 428.10-428.80; Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints]?

[iii] Grounds for Joinder

☐ Would omitted party be subject to a claim against him or her of any right to relief jointly, concurrently, severally, or in the alternative, arising out of the same transaction or occurence, or series of transactions or occurences, with a question of law or fact common to all parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 379(a)(1)]; or

☐ Would omitted party be subject to a claim, right, or interest adverse to him or her in the subject of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 379(a)(2)]; or

☐ Does the plaintiff have a doubt as to the person from whom he or she is entitled to redress [Code

Civ. Proc. 379(c)]?

[c] Procedures for Joinder

☐ Include party in original complaint [for a discussion, forms, and procedures, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints];

☐ Amend the complaint as a matter of course before the answer or demurrer is filed or after the demurrer and before trial of the issue of law thereon [Code Civ. Proc. § 472]; or ☐ File a notice of motion for leave to amend the complaint joining new party defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a); see § 395.102 for form].

[3] Compulsory Joinder

[a] Procedural Determinations

[i] Preliminary Considerations

☐ Will omitted party be subject to service of process [see Code Civ. Proc. § 410.50]?

☐ Will the court in which relief is sought have jurisdiction over the subject matter of the action, or in the case of a unified trial court, will the case be a limited civil case or otherwise [see Cal. Const., art. VI, §§ 5(a), 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85-86]?

☐ Has the statute of limitations already run, thus possibly preventing joinder of a new party defendant [see Orloff v. Metropolitan Trust Co. (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 484, 489, 110 P.2d 396] ?

[ii] Grounds for Joinder

☐ Will the omitted party's absence prevent the court from providing complete relief to those already parties to the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(1)]; or

☐ Is the omitted party, by reason of his or her claimed interest in the subject of the action, so situated that in his or her absence the disposition, as a practical matter, might impair or impede his or her ability to protect that interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(2)(i)]; or

☐ Will the disposition of the action in the omitted party's absence leave any of the persons already parties to the action subject to substantial risk of incurring double, multiple, or otherwise inconsistent obligations by reason of the omitted party's claimed interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(2)(ii)]?

[b] Procedures for Joinder

☐ Include party in original complaint [for a discussion, forms, and procedures, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints];

☐ Amend the complaint as a matter of course before the answer or demurrer is filed or after the demurrer and before trial of the issue of law thereon [Code Civ. Proc. § 472]; or ☐ File a notice of motion for leave to amend the complaint joining new party [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a); see § 395.104 for form].

[4] Preparation, Service, and Filing of Papers

[a] Notice of Motion to Amend

A notice of motion may be required to obtain leave to amend the complaint to bring in a new party.

☐ Prepare the notice of motion with the appropriate number of copies [see §§ 395.100, 395.102, and 395.104 for forms].

☐ State the grounds on which joinder is sought as appropriate [see § 395.70[1][b][i] (permissive joinder of new party plaintiff), § 395.70[2][b][iii] (permissive joinder of new party defendant), and § 395[3][a][ii] (compulsory joinder of new party)].

☐ Prepare supporting declaration with the appropriate number of copies [see §§ 395.101, 395.103, and 395.105].

☐ Prepare supporting memorandum of points and authorities with the appropriate number of copies [see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 168, Parties , for forms of supporting memoranda of points and authorities].

☐ Prepare order granting motion for leave to amend complaint [§ 395.106].

☐ File original copies of all moving papers with the clerk and pay filing fee.

☐ Serve each counsel or party in pro per in the action with separate copies. For a discussion, forms, and procedures for preparation, service, and filing of papers, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

[b] Complaint and Amended Complaint

Plaintiff may include another person as party defendant, or amend the complaint as a matter of course or by leave of the court [see § 395.70[1][c] (permissive joinder of new party plaintiff); § 395.70[2][c] (permissive joinder of new party defendant); § 395.70[3][b] (compulsory joinder of new party), above]. For a discussion, forms, and procedures for the preparing and filing of complaints, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints . For a discussion, forms, and procedures for amending and filing of amended complaints, see Ch. 21, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST
A. Joinder of Parties
1. Parties Seeking Joinder

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.71

§ 395.71 Defendant's Joinder of New Party

[1] Preliminary Determinations

[a] Procedural Determinations

[i] Preliminary Considerations

☐ Will omitted party be subject to service of process [see Code Civ. Proc. § 410.50]?

☐ Will the court in which relief is sought have jurisdiction over the subject matter of the action, or in the case of a unified trial court, will the case be a limited civil case or otherwise [see Cal. Const., art. VI, §§ 5(a), 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85-86]?

☐ Has the statute of limitations already run, thus possibly preventing joinder of a new party [see Orloff v. Metropolitan Trust Co. (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 484, 489, 110 P.2d 396] ?

[ii] Grounds for Joinder of New Party

☐ Will the omitted party's absence prevent the court from providing complete relief among the parties already parties to the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(1)]; or

☐ Is the omitted party, by reason of his or her claimed interest in the subject of the action, so situated that in his or her absence the disposition, as a practical matter, might impair or impede his or her ability to protect that interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(2)(i)]; or

☐ Will the disposition of the action in the omitted party's absence leave any of the persons already parties to the action subject to substantial risk of incurring double, multiple, or otherwise inconsistent obligations by reasons of the omitted party's claimed interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(2)(ii)]?

[b] Procedures for Joining New Party

☐ File a notice of motion for an order compelling plaintiff to bring in a new party [Code Civ. Proc. § 389; see § 395.107 for form]; or ☐ File a cross complaint bringing in a new party under the provisions of compulsory joinder [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 389 (joinder of parties), 428.10(b), 428.20 (filing of cross complaints)].

[2] Preparation, Service, and Filing of Papers

[a] Motion to Compel Joinder

☐ Prepare, file, and serve the notice of motion to compel joinder of a new party [see § 395.107 for form] and accompanying papers in the manner prescribed in § 395.70[4].

[b] Cross Complaint

☐ Defendant may file a cross complaint bringing in a new party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 428.20]. For a discussion, forms, and procedures for preparing and filing of a cross complaint, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST
A. Joinder of Parties
1. Parties Seeking Joinder

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.72

§ 395.72 Omitted Party Seeking Joinder

[1] Compulsory Joinder

[a] Procedural Determinations

[i] Jurisdiction

☐ Will the court in which relief is sought have jurisdiction over the subject matter of the action, or in the case of a unified trial court, will the case be a limited civil case or otherwise [see Cal. Const., art. VI, §§ 5(a), 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85-86]?

[ii] Grounds for Joining Pending Action

☐ Will the omitted party's absence prevent the court from providing complete relief among those already parties to the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(1)]; or

☐ Is the omitted party, by reason of his or her claimed interest in the subject of the action, so situated that in his or her absence the disposition, as a practical matter, might impair or impede his or her ability to protect that interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(2)(i)]; or

☐ Will the disposition of the action in the omitted party's absence leave any of the persons already parties to the action subject to substantial risk of incurring double, multiple, or otherwise inconsistent obligations by reason of the omitted party's claimed interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(2)(ii)]?

[b] Procedures for Application for Joinder

☐ File a notice of motion for an order compelling joinder as a new party plaintiff or defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 389; see § 395.107 for form].

[2] Joinder of Party Having Interest in Property

[a] Procedural Determinations

[i] Jurisdiction

☐ Will the court in which relief is sought have jurisdiction over the subject matter of the action, or in the case of a unified trial court, will the case be a limited civil case or otherwise [see Cal. Const., art. VI, §§ 5(a), 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85-86]?

[ii] Grounds For Joining Pending Action Under Code Civ. Proc. § 389.5

☐ Does the omitted party have an interest in the recovery of real or personal property which is the subject of the action; or

☐ Does the omitted party have an interest in the determination of conflicting claims concerning real or personal property which is the subject of the action?

[b] Procedures for Application for Joinder

☐ File a notice of motion for an order permitting joinder as a new party plaintiff or defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 389.5; see § 395.110 for form].

[3] Preparation, Service, and Filing of Papers

☐ Prepare, file, and serve the notice of motion by an omitted party to compel or permit joinder [see §§ 395.110 and 395.111 for forms], and accompanying papers in the manner described in § 395.70[4].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST
A. Joinder of Parties
1. Parties Seeking Joinder

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 395.73-395.79

[Reserved]

§§ 395.73[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST
A. Joinder of Parties
2. Parties Objecting to Misjoinder, Joinder, or Nonjoinder

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.80

§ 395.80 Defendant's Objection to Misjoinder

[1] Permissive Joinder of New Party Plaintiff

For a list of considerations in determining whether to object to misjoinder, see § 395.70[1][a] and [b].

[2] Permissive Joinder of New Party Defendant

For a list of considerations in determining whether to object to misjoinder, see § 395.70[2][a] and [b].

[3] Compulsory Joinder of New Party by Plaintiff

For a list of considerations in determining whether to object to misjoinder, see § 395.70[3][a].

[4] Compulsory Joinder of New Party by Defendant

For a list of considerations in determining whether to object to misjoinder, see § 395.71[1].

[5] Compulsory Joinder of New Party by Omitted Party

For a list of considerations in determining whether to object to misjoinder, see § 395.72[1][a].

[6] Joinder of Party Having Interest in Property

For a list of considerations in determining whether to object to misjoinder, see § 395.72[2][a].

[7] Procedures for Objecting to Misjoinder

A defendant may object to misjoinder by:

☐ Answer [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.30(b)]. For a discussion, forms, and procedures concerning answers, see Ch. 26, Answers .

☐ Demurrer [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430.10(d), 430.30(a), 430.70]. For a discussion, forms, and procedures for preparing demurrers, see Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings .

☐ Motion for Severance [Code Civ. Proc. § 379.5]. For a discussion, forms, and procedures relating to severance of actions, see Ch. 125, Consolidation, Severance, and Coordination of Actions .

NOTE:

To prevent any party joined under the provisions governing permissive joinder of parties [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 378, 379] from being embarassed, delayed, or put to undue expense, the court may order, and counsel should seek, any order as the interests of justice may require [Code Civ. Proc. § 379.5].

[8] Preparation, Service, and Filing of Papers

[a] Answer

☐ Prepare, serve, and file the appropriate answer for objecting to misjoinder. For a discussion, forms, and procedures, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[b] Demurrer

☐ Prepare demurrer with accompanying supporting memorandum [see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 71, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings] in accordance with the Code of Civil Procedure and the California Rules of Court [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430.10(d), 430.30(a), 430.70; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1113(a), 3.1320]. For a discussion, forms, and procedures, see Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings .

[c] Motion for Severance

☐ Prepare motion for severance with accompanying memorandum of points and authorities [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 379.5, 579, 1048(b); California Points and Authorities, Ch. 168, Parties].

For a discussion, forms, and procedures, see Ch. 125, Consolidation, Severance, and Coordination of Actions .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST
A. Joinder of Parties
2. Parties Objecting to Misjoinder, Joinder, or Nonjoinder

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.81

§ 395.81 Defendant's or Plaintiff's Objection to Joinder

[1] Permissive Joinder of New Party Plaintiff

For a list of considerations in determining whether to oppose motion for leave to amend complaint, see § 395.70[1][b].

[2] Permissive Joinder of New Party Defendant

For a list of considerations in determining whether to oppose motion for leave to amend complaint, see § 395.70[2][a][ii]

[3] Compulsory Joinder of New Party by Plaintiff

For a list of considerations in determining whether to oppose motion for leave to amend complaint, see § 395.70[3][a].

[4] Compulsory Joinder of New Party by Defendant

For a list of considerations in determining whether to oppose motion compelling joinder, see § 395.71[1].

[5] Compulsory Joinder of New Party by Omitted Party

For a list of considerations in determining whether to oppose motion compelling joinder, see § 395.72[1][a].

[6] Joinder of Party Having Interest in Property

For a list of considerations in determining whether to oppose permitting joinder, see § 395.72[2][a].

[7] Procedures for Objecting to Joinder

A defendant may object to joinder by filing a memorandum in opposition to the motion for leave to amend the complaint to bring in a new party, or for an order compelling joinder of an omitted party. For forms of memoranda in opposition to joinder, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 168, Parties .

NOTE:

To prevent any party joined under the provisions governing permissive joinder of parties [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 378, 379] from being embarrassed, delayed, or put to undue expense, the court may order separate trials, or any other order as the interests of justice may require [Code Civ. Proc. § 379.5]

[8] Preparation, Service, and Filing of Papers

For a discussion, forms, and procedures in preparing, filing, and serving amemorandum in opposition to bringing in a new party, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST
A. Joinder of Parties
2. Parties Objecting to Misjoinder, Joinder, or Nonjoinder

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.82

§ 395.82 Defendant's Objection to Nonjoinder

[1] Compulsory Joinder of New Party by Plaintiff

For a list of considerations in determining whether to object to nonjoinder, see § 395.70[3][a].

[2] Compulsory Joinder of New Party by Defendant

For a list of considerations in determining whether to object to nonjoinder, see § 395.71[1].

[3] Compulsory Joinder of New Party by Omitted Party

For a list of considerations in determining whether to object to nonjoinder, see § 395.72[1][a].

[4] Joinder of Party Having Interest in Property

For a list of considerations in determining whether to object to nonjoinder, see § 395.72[2][a].

[5] Procedures for Objecting to Nonjoinder

A defendant may object to nonjoinder by:

- Answer [Code Civ. Proc. 430.30(b)]. For a discussion, forms, and procedures concerning answers, see Ch. 26, Answers .

- Demurrer [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430.10(d), 430.30(a), 430.70]. For a discussion, forms, and procedures for preparing demurrers, see Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings .

NOTE:

Defendant may also file a notice of motion for an order compelling joinder [see § 395.107 for form] or a cross complaint bringing in a new party [see § 395.71[1][b]].

[6] Preparation, Service, and Filing of Papers

[a] Answer

☐ Prepare, file, and serve answer objecting to misjoinder. For a discussion, forms, and procedures, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[b] Demurrer

☐ Prepare demurrer with accompanying memorandum [see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 71, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings] in accordance with the Code of Civil Procedure and the California Rules of Court [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430.10(d), 430.30(a), 430.70; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1113(a), 3.1320]. For a discussion, forms, and procedures, see Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings .

127 of 153 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST
A. Joinder of Parties
2. Parties Objecting to Misjoinder, Joinder, or Nonjoinder

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 395.83-395.89

[Reserved]

§§ 395.83[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST
B. INTERVENTION

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.90

§ 395.90 Intervenor's Guide

[1] Preliminary Determination of Nature of Prospective Intervenor's Interest in Action

☐ Determine whether or not the intervenor may intervene under Code Civ. Proc. § 387(a) in that he or she has an interest in:

☐ The matter in litigation;

☐ The success of either plaintiff or defendant; or ☐ Against both the plaintiff and defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 387(a); see § 395.34].

☐ Determine whether or not the intervenor has a right to mandatory intervenion in that he or she:

☐ Has an unconditional right to intervene conferred upon him or her by law; or ☐ Claims an interest relating to the property or transaction which is the subject of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 387(b); see § 395.35].

☐ Determine whether or not the intervenor has grounds to intervene under Code Civ. Proc. § 387(a) in that:

☐ He or she has a direct interest of such a character that the intervenor will either gain or lose by the direct legal operation of the judgment [see § 395.34[2]]; or

☐ He or she has a consequential interest converted into a direct interest [see § 395.34[4]].

☐ If mandatory intervention is sought, determine whether or not the ability of the intervenor to protect his or her interest would be impaired or impeded by the disposition of the action when the interest could not be adequately represented by the existing parties [see § 395.35].

☐ Any provision of law confers an unconditional right to intervene; or

☐ The ability of the person seeking intervention to protect his or her claimed interest in the property or transaction which is the subject of the action would be impaired or impeded by the disposition of the action when that interest could not be adequately represented by the existing parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 387(b); see § 395.35].

[2] Time of Intervention

☐ Determine at what stage in the proceedings intervention is to be made.

☐ Determine whether or not any applicable statute of limitations would affect nonparty's right to intervene. For example:

☐ The one-year statute of limitations governing tort actions [see Code Civ. Proc. § 340].

☐ Intervention under Code Civ. Proc. § 387 must be timely [see § 395.36].

[3] Alternative Procedures Available

☐ Determine whether or not nonparty has authority to proceed under other applicable statutes, for example:

☐ Third parties who claim an interest in personal property that is either:

☐ Attached [Code Civ. Proc. § 488.090];

☐ Subject to claim and delivery [Code Civ. Proc. § 514.050]; or ☐ Levied on [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.010 et seq.].

☐ Nonparties challenging the validity of agency acts in regard to community development [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860-870].

☐ Claimants to interest in property subject to eminent domain [Code Civ. Proc. § 1250.230].

☐ Nonparties having an interest in an action involving a corporation, for example:

☐ Creditor seeking to reach unpaid subscription of shareholder [Corp. Code § 414];

☐ Dissenting shareholder in action for appraisal of stock [Corp. Code § 1304(a)]; and ☐ Dissenting shareholder or creditor in corporation dissolution proceedings [Corp. Code § 1800(c)].

☐ Employer or employee in action against third party [Lab. Code § 3853].

☐ Nonparties ability to move, to set aside default judgments that affect their interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b), (d); see Ch. 489, Relief From Judgments and Orders].

☐ Nonparties ability to move to vacate judgments that affect their interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 663; see also Ch. 371, Motions After Trial].

☐ Determine whether or not the nonparty may be joined under the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 378, 379, 389, 389.5, for example:

☐ A nonparty's interest in the pending action may enable him or her to join another nonparty against whom he or she has a related claim.

☐ Other persons may share the nonparty's interest in the matter in litigation and the nonparty may wish to join them [see § 395.10 et seq. for discussion of joinder].

☐ Determine whether the nonparty may intervene in a class action, for example:

☐ A nonparty who is a member of a class that is involved in a pending action may wish to intervene [see Code Civ. Proc. § 382; Mallick v. Superior Court (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 434, 437-438, 152 Cal. Rptr. 503] .

☐ A nonparty's interest in the matter in litigation may be shared by numerous other persons, thereby entitling him or her to use a complaint in intervention as the basis of bringing a class action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 382; Eggers v. National Radio Co. (1929) 208 Cal. 308, 311-312, 281 P. 58 ; see also Ch. 120, Class Actions].

☐ Determine whether the nonparty may join in a pending action under other theories, for example:

☐ Substitution of parties [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 368.5, 375, 377.20 et seq.; see also Ch. 21, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings, § 21.27, and Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions]; and ☐ Interpleader [see Code Civ. Proc. § 386; see also Ch. 314, Interpleader].

[4] Mode of Intervention

Determine whether the nonparty should intervene by:

☐ Notice of motion [see [5], below, and §§ 395.120-395.122 for forms].

☐ Ex parte application [see [5], below, and § 395.123 for form].

☐ Ex parte application for order to show a cause why intervention should not be granted [see [5], below, and §§ 395.124, 395.125 for forms].

☐ Oral ex parte application [see [5], below, and § 395.126 for form].

☐ Alternative procedures [see [3], above].

[5] Preparation, Service, and Filing of Papers

☐ To intervene by notice of motion:

☐ Prepare proposed complaint in intervention [see § 395.127 for form; for discussion of the requirements for a complaint in intervention, see § 395.38[2].

☐ Prepare a notice of motion for leave to file a complaint in intervention [see § 395.120 for form].

☐ Prepare a declaration in support of the motion [see § 395.121 for form].

☐ Prepare a memorandum in support of the motion [see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 124, Intervention].

☐ Prepare an order granting leave to intervene [see § 395.122 for form].

☐ File the original copy with the clerk of the court and pay the appropriate filing fee, if any, at the time the papers are presented to the clerk [Gov. Code § 70612; see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders , for procedure and forms].

☐ Serve the papers on the attorneys for both the plaintiff and the defendant in accordance with the Code of Civil Procedure [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 413.10-417.40; see also Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

☐ Follow further procedures for noticed motions [see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders].

☐ To intervene by ex parte application:

☐ Prepare a proposed complaint in intervention [see § 395.127 for form].

☐ Prepare a declaration, memorandum, and an order in support of or granting leave to intervene [see § 395.123 for form].

☐ Present the papers to the appropriate court [see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders].

☐ If granted, serve the papers in accordance with the Code of Civil Procedure [see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

☐ See Ch. 372, Motions and Orders , for discussion of procedure on ex parte application.

☐ To intervene by ex parte application for order to show cause, see §§ 395.124, 395.125 for forms and number 2, above.

☐ To intervene by an oral ex parte application, the intervenor must prepare the appropriate papers, file, and serve as outlined in numbers 1 and 2, above [see § 395.126 for form].

☐ To intervene by cross complaint, the intervenor must prepare, file, and serve the appropriate papers as outlined in 1 and 2, above [for forms and procedures, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST
B. INTERVENTION

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.91

§ 395.91 Opposing Party's Guide

[1] Preliminary Determinations

See § 395.90[1] -[5] for matters to be considered in determining whether intervenor has made a proper and timely application for leave to file a complaint in intervention.

[2] Objecting to Intervention

☐ If intervenor proceeds by way of noticed motion, prepare, file, and serve a memorandum in opposition to the motion for leave to intervene.

☐ If the intervenor has obtained leave to intervene by an ex parte application:

☐ Prepare, serve, and file a general demurrer in accordance with the Code of Civil Procedure [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430.10(e), 430.50; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1113(a), 3.1320; for forms and procedures, see Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings]; or ☐ Prepare, serve, and file a motion to strike in the appropriate manner [see Code Civ. Proc. § 435; see also Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings].

☐ If an order to show cause why intervention should not be granted is issued, prepare, serve, and file in the appropriate manner an affidavit or declaration, along with a supporting memorandum in opposition to intervention [see § 395.38[3]].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST
B. INTERVENTION

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 395.92-395.99

[Reserved]

§§ 395.92[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART V. FORMS
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.100

§ 395.100 Proceedings for Leave to Amend Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a)] to Bring in New Party--Permissive Joinder by Plaintiff of Party Plaintiff [Code Civ. Proc. § 378]--Notice of Motion

[1] FORM Proceedings for Leave to Amend Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a)] to Bring in New Party--Permissive Joinder by Plaintiff of Party Plaintiff [Code Civ. Proc. § 378]--Notice of Motion

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)	NO. _____
Plaintiff,	)	NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION TO AMEND COMPLAINT TO BRING IN NEW PARTY PLAINTIFF
vs.	)
_____ [name],	)	Date: _____
Defendant.	)	Time: _____
	)	Dept: _____
	)	Judge: _____
	)	Date Action Filed: _____
		Trial Date: _____

_____

To _____ [name], defendant, and to _____ [name], his/her attorney of record:

[EITHER]

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____ [street address], _____ [city], _____ [specify party, e.g., plaintiff] will move for an order granting plaintiff leave to amend the complaint herein to bring _____ [name] into this action as a party plaintiff. The motion will be made on the grounds that (1) the amendment is and will be in furtherance of justice, and (2) _____ [name of new party] has a right to relief against the defendant in this action arising out of the same _____ [transaction or occurrence or series of transactions or series of occurences] and there exists a common question of law or fact in that _____ [specify particular ground, e.g., the new party is a person seeking damages for personal injury arising out ofthe same incident involving the same defendant].

[OR]

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____ [street address], _____ [city], plaintiff will move for an order granting plaintiff leave to amend the complaint herein to bring _____ [name] into this action as a party plaintiff. The motion will be made on the grounds that (1) the amendment is and will be in furtherance of justice, and (2) _____ [name of new party] has a _____ [claim or right or interest] adverse to the defendant in the _____ [property or controversy] which is the subject of the action herein.

The motion will be based on this notice of motion and the proposed amended complaint, on the declaration of _____ [name] and the memorandum served and filed herewith, on the papers and records and file herein, and on such oral and documentary evidence as may be presented at the hearing on the motion.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

[2] Use of Form

The notice of motion in [1], above, is for use by a plaintiff to secure a court order permitting the plaintiff to amend his or her complaint, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a), to bring in a new party plaintiff under the provisions for permissive joinder of plaintiffs [Code Civ. Proc. § 378] when leave of the court is being sought in futherance of justice. However, plaintiff may amend the complaint bringing in the new party as a matter of course before the answer or demurrer is filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 472]. If such is the case, a notice of motion would not be necessary. This form would be used when the nonjoined plaintiff wishes to join in plaintiff's action.

If the motion is made on the ground that the omitted party has a right to relief against the defendant arising out of the same transaction [Code Civ. Proc. § 378(a)(1)], the first alternative ground (2) should be used. If the motion is on ground that the omitted party has an interest adverse to the defendant in property or in the controversy which is the subject of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 378(a)(2)], the second alternative ground (2) should be used.

Counsel should insert where indicated the specific factual grounds supporting joinder, for example, that the new party is a person seeking damages for personal injury arising out of the same incident involving the same defendant [see Emery v. Pacific Employers Ins. Co. (1937) 8 Cal. 2d 663, 666, 67 P.2d 1046] .

For further examples of permissive joinder of parties plaintiff, see § 395.10 et seq. and § 395.50 et seq. for Research Guide to this part, above. For a discussion, forms, and procedures relating to amendment of pleadings, see Ch. 21, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings .

[3] Accompanying Papers

A supporting memorandum must be filed and a copy served with the motion in [1], above [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010]. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

[4] Related Uses

With appropriate modifications, this form may be used to request request leave to amend a cross complaint. In that case, Code Civ. Proc. § 428.20 would also provide the authority for the motion. A cross complainant could be joined if, had the cross complaint been filed as an independent action, the joinder would have been permitted by Code Civ. Proc. § 378 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 428.20].

[5] Cross References

For forms of notice of motion, declaration, and order granting or denying motion, and related papers for general use, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders

For forms and discussion of amended pleadings generally, see Ch. 21, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings

For memoranda in support of and in opposition to permissive joinder of a new party plaintiff, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 168, Parties

For memoranda in support of and in opposition to joinder of a new party plaintiff, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 16, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings

For memoranda in support of and in opposition to demurrers for misjoinder of parties plaintiff, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 71, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings

California Civil Procedure Before Trial, vol. 1, Ch. 21, Determining, Joining, and Naming Parties, § 21.10 (Cal. CEB 3d ed. 2000)

Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 4, Pleading, §§ 160, 175-178, 301, 304 (4th ed. 1997)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART V. FORMS
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.101

§ 395.101 Proceedings for Leave to Amend Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a)] to Bring in New Party--Permissive Joinder by Plaintiff of Party Plaintiff [Code Civ. Proc. § 378]--Supporting Declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]

[1] FORM Proceedings for Leave to Amend Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a)] to Bring in New Party--Permissive Joinder by Plaintiff of Party Plaintiff [Code Civ. Proc. § 378]--Supporting Declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)
	)	NO. _____
	)	DECLARATION OF
	)	_____ [name] IN SUPPORT OF
_____ [name],	)	MOTION
Plaintiff,	)	FOR LEAVE TO AMEND
vs.	)	COMPLAINT TO BRING IN
_____ [name],	)	NEW PARTY PLAINTIFF
Defendant.	)	Date: _____
	)	Time: _____
	)	Dept: _____
	)	Judge: _____
	)	Date Action Filed: _____
	)	Trial Date: _____

_____

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., the plaintiff in the above-described action].

2. This declaration is in support of plaintiff's motion to amend his/her complaint bringing in _____ [name] as a new party plaintiff to this action.

3. _____ [Set forth nature of plaintiff's action and existing parties, e.g., Plaintiff's action is for damages against _____ (name), defendant arising from personal injuries sustained in an automobile accident].

[EITHER, if relief is sought under Code Civ. Proc. § 378(a)(1)]

4. _____ [Name of omitted party] has a right against _____ [name], defendant, in this action because _____ [state facts showing that omitted party has a right to relief jointly, severally, or in the alternative against the defendant arising out of the same transaction or occurrence, or series of transactions or occurrences, e.g., he/she was a pedestrian injured in the same automobile accident involving the plaintiff, and by the same person, _____ (name), who is the defendant in this action, at the same time and in the same manner _____ (state further relevant facts)]. The common question of _____ [specify question(s) of law or fact, e.g., defendant's negligence] will arise in this action.

[OR, if relief is sought under Code Civ. Proc. § 378(a)(2)]

4. _____ [Name of omitted party] has a right against _____ [name], defendant, in this action because _____ [state facts showing that omitted party has a right, claim, or interest adverse to the defendant in the property or controversy which is the subject of the action e.g., it is a corporation in receivership of which _____ (name), plaintiff, has been appointed receiver and is the injured party in fact, having paid to _____ (name), defendant in this action, the usurious interest demanded by defendant and which plaintiff seeks to recover in this action _____ (state further relevant facts)].

[CONTINUE]

5. _____ [Name of omitted party] wishes to be joined as a plaintiff in this action as indicated in his/her declaration in support of this motion.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

The declaration in [1], above, is for use by an attorney, or the plaintiff, in support of a motion pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a) by plaintiff for leave to amend his or her complaint to bring in a new party plaintiff. For a form of notice of motion and motion for leave to amend to complaint to bring in new party plaintiff, see § 395.100. Code Civ. Proc. § 2009 authorizes a party to use an affidavit to support the motion, and Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5 authorizes a declaration under penalty of perjury in lieu of an affidavit. If the motion is made under Code Civ. Proc. § 378(a)(1) on the ground that the omitted party has a right to relief against the defendant arising out of the same transaction or occurrence, or series of transactions or occurrences, the first alternative Paragraph 4 should be used. If the motion is made under Code Civ. Proc. § 378(a)(2) on the ground that the omitted party has a claim, right, or interest adverse to the defendant in the property or controversy which is the subject of the action, the second alternative Paragraph 4 should be used. Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5 authorizes a declarationunder penalty of perjury, as in the above form, in lieu of an affidavit. For a form of affidavit, see Ch. 15, Affidavits, Certificates, and Declarations .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART V. FORMS
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.102

§ 395.102 Proceedings for Leave to Amend Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a)] to Bring in New Party--Permissive Joinder by Plaintiff of Party Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 379]--Notice of Motion

[1] FORM Proceedings for Leave to Amend Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a)] to Bring in New Party--Permissive Joinder by Plaintiff of Party Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 379]--Notice of Motion

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)
	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION TO Plaintiff,	)	AMEND COMPLAINT TO BRING IN NEW
vs.	)	PARTY DEFENDANT
_____ [name],	)	Date: _____
Defendant.	)	Time: _____
	)	Dept: _____
	)	Judge: _____
	)	Date Action Filed: _____
		Trial Date: _____

_____

To _____ [name], defendant, and to _____ [name], his/her attorney of record:

[EITHER]

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____ [street address], _____ [city], plaintiff will move for an order granting plaintiff leave to amend the complaint herein to bring _____ [name] into this action as a party defendant. The motion will be made on the grounds that (1) the amendment is and will be in furtherance of justice, and (2) _____ [name of plaintiff] has a right to relief against the omitted party in the action herein arising out of the same _____ [transaction or occurrence or series of transactions or series of occurrences] and there exists a common question of law or fact in that _____ [specify the particular ground, e.g., that the new party is liable as guarantor for the debt of the defendant on a promissory note] [, and (3) _____ (name of plaintiff) has a doubt as to the person from whom he/she is entitled to seek redress].

[OR]

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____ [street address], _____ [city], plaintiff will move for an order granting plaintiff leave to amend the complaint herein to bring _____ [name] into this action as a party defendant. The motion will be made on the grounds that (1) the amendment is and will be in furtherance of justice, and (2) _____ [name of plaintiff] has a _____ [claim or right or interest] adverse to the omitted party in the _____ [property or controversy] which is the subject of the action herein [, and (3) _____ (name of plaintiff) has a doubt as to the person from whom he/she is entitled to seek redress].

The motion will be based on this notice of motion and the proposed amended complaint, on the declaration of _____ [name] and the memorandum served and filed herewith, on the papers and records and file herein, and on such oral and documentary evidence as may be presented at the hearing on the motion.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use by plaintiff to secure a court order permitting plaintiff to amend his or her complaint, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 473, to bring in a new party defendant under the provisions of permissive joinder of defendants, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 379, when leave of the court is being sought in furtherance of justice. However, plaintiff may amend the complaint bringing in the new party as a matter of course before the answer or demurrer is filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 472]. In that case, a notice of motion would not be necessary.

If the motion is made on the ground that the plaintiff has a right to relief against the new party arising out of the same transaction [Code Civ. Proc. § 379(a)(1)], the first alternative ground (2) should be used. If the motion is made on the ground that the plaintiff has an interest adverse to the new party in the property or the controversy which is the subject of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 379(a)(2)], the second alternative ground (2) should be used. If the motion is on grounds that plaintiff is in doubt as to who is liable--defendant, the new party, or both--then the additional ground (3) should be used [Code Civ. Proc. § 379(c)].

Counsel should insert where indicated the specific factual grounds supporting joinder, for example, that the new party is liable as a guarantor on a promissory note made by the defendant [see Rodabaugh v. Kauffman (1921) 53 Cal. App. 676, 682, 200 P. 747] . For further examples of permissive joinder of parties defendant, see § 395.10 et seq. and §

395.50 et seq. for Research Guide. For a discussion, forms, and procedures relating to amendment of pleadings, see Ch. 21, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings .

[3] Accompanying Papers

A supporting memorandum must be filed and a copy served with the foregoing motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010].

[4] Requirements for Joinder in Negligence Action

In joining two or more defendants under Code Civ. Proc. § 379(a), plaintiff must show a nexus between defendants. However, when joining additional defendants pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 379(c), plaintiff need only set forth facts showing an injury, negligence of two or more defendants or successive or concurrent tortfeasors, and doubt as to who is liable, either one of the defendants, or both, and to what extent [Landau v. Salam (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 901, 904-905, 95 Cal. Rptr. 46, 484 P.2d 1390] .

[5] Related Uses

With appropriate modifications, this form may be used to support a motion for leave to amend a cross complaint. In that case, Code Civ. Proc. § 428.20 would also provide the authority for the motion. A cross complainant could be joined if, had the cross complaint been filed as an indepedent action, the joinder would have been permitted by Code Civ. Proc. § 378 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 428.20].

[6] Cross References

For forms of notice of motion, declaration, and order granting or denying motion, and related papers for general use, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders

For forms and discussion of amended pleadings generally, see Ch. 21, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings

For memoranda of points and authorities in support of and in opposition to permissive joinder of a new party defendant, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 168, Parties

For memoranda of points and authorities in support of and in opposition to joinder of a new party defendant, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 16, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings

For memoranda of points and authorities in support of and in opposition to demurrers for misjoinder of parties defendant, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 71, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings

California Civil Procedure Before Trial, vol. 1, Ch. 21, Determining, Joining, and Naming Parties, § 21.11 (Cal CEB 3d ed. 2000)

Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 4, Pleading, §§ 160, 180-189, 191-192, 297 (4th ed. 1997)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART V. FORMS
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.103

§ 395.103 Proceedings for Leave to Amend Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a)] to Bring in New Party--Permissive Joinder by Plaintiff of Party Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 379]--Supporting Declaration

[1] FORM Proceedings for Leave to Amend Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a)] to Bring in New Party--Permissive Joinder by Plaintiff of Party Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 379]--Supporting Declaration

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)
	)	NO. _____
	)	DECLARATION OF
	)	_____ [name] IN SUPPORT OF
_____ [name],	)	MOTION FOR LEAVE TO Plaintiff,	)	AMEND COMPLAINT TO BRING
vs.	)	IN NEW PARTY DEFENDANT
_____ [name],	)	Date: _____
Defendant.	)	Time: _____
	)	Dept: _____
	)	Judge: _____
	)	Date Action Filed: _____
	)	Trial Date: _____
	)

_____

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., the plaintiff in the above-described action].

2. This declaration is in support of plaintiff's motion to amend his/her complaint bringing in _____ [name] as a new party defendant to this action.

3. _____ [Set forth nature of plaintiff's action and existing parties, e.g., Plaintiff's action is for damages against _____ (name), defendant for personal injury sustained in an automobile accident].

[EITHER, if relief is sought under Code Civ. Proc. § 379(a)(1)]

4. _____ [Name of plaintiff] has a right against _____ [name], defendant, in this action because _____ [state facts showing that plaintiff has a right to relief jointly, severally, or in the alternative against the omitted party arising out of the same transaction or occurrence, or series of transactionsor occurrences, e.g., he/she is the owner of the automobile driven by _____ (name), defendant in this action, which struck plaintiff causing plaintiff to be injured _____ (state further relevant facts)]. The common question(s) of _____ [specify common questions of law or fact] will arise in this action.

[OR, if relief is sought under Code Civ. Proc. § 379(a)(2)]

4. _____ [Name of plaintiff] has a right against _____ [name of omitted party] in this action because _____ [state facts showing that plaintiff has a right, claim, or interest adverse to the omitted party in the property or controversy which is the subject of the action, e.g., _____ (name of omitted party), sheriff of this county, accepted payment from _____ (name), defendant, as tender in redemption of the property which is the subject of the action, an amount inadequate to meet the price paid for, thereby making _____ (name of omitted party) a proper party in this action for declaratory relief to determine plaintiff's interest in the property in question. _____ (State further relevant facts)].

[ADD, if plaintiff in doubt as to liability under Code Civ. Proc. § 379(c)]

5. _____ [Name of plaintiff], however, is in doubt as to the person from whom he/she is entitled to redress in that _____ [state facts showing that plaintiff entertains a doubt as to the defendant, the omitted party, or both, and to what extent each is liable, e.g., _____ (name of omitted party) may be quantitatively or alternately liable as a successive wrongdoer to plaintiff for personal injuries sustained by the negligent operation of an automobile by _____ (name), defendant, and/or by the negligent maintenance of property by _____ (name of omitted party) in that _____ (state further relevant facts)].

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

The declaration in [1], above, is for use by an attorney, or the plaintiff, in support of a motion pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a) by plaintiff for leave to amend his or her complaint to bring in a new party defendant. Code Civ. Proc. § 2009 authorizes a party to use an affidavit to support the motion, and Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5 authorizes a declaration under penalty of perjury in lieu of an affidavit. If the motion is made under Code Civ. Proc. § 379(a)(1) on the ground that the plaintiff has a right to relief against the omitted party arising out of the same transaction or occurrence, or series of transactions or occurrences, the first alternative Paragraph 4 should be used. If the motion is made under Code Civ. Proc. § 379(a)(2) on the ground that the plaintiff has claim, right, or interest adverse to the omitted party in the property or controversy which is the subject of the action, the second alternative Paragraph 4 should be used. If the plaintiff is in doubt as to the person from whom plaintiff is entitled to redress, the added Paragraph 5 should be used in addition to either of the alternative Paragraphs 4. For a form of notice of motion and motion to amend complaint to bring in new party defendant, see § 395.102.

[3] Cross References

For a form of notice of motion and motion to amend complaint to bring in new party defendant, see § 395.102.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART V. FORMS
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.104

§ 395.104 Proceedings for Leave to Amend Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a)] to Bring in New Party--Compulsory Joinder by Plaintiff of Party Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 389]--Notice of Motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010]

[1] FORM Proceedings for Leave to Amend Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a)] to Bring in New Party--Compulsory Joinder by Plaintiff of Party Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 389]--Notice of Motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)
	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION TO Plaintiff,	)	AMEND COMPLAINT TO BRING IN NEW
vs.	)	PARTY DEFENDANT
_____ [name],	)	Date: _____
Defendant.	)	Time: _____
	)	Dept: _____
	)	Judge: _____
	)	Date Action Filed: _____
		Trial Date: _____

_____

To _____ [name], defendant, and to _____ [name], his/her attorney of record:

[EITHER]

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____ [street address], _____ [city], plaintiff will move for an order granting plaintiff leave to amend the complaint herein to bring _____ [name] into this action as a party defendant [if party to be joined is plaintiff who will not consent, add: pursuant to Section 382 of the Code of Civil Procedure]. The motion will be made on the grounds that (1) the amendment is and will be in furtherance of justice, and (2) in the absence of _____ [name of omitted party], complete relief cannot be accorded among those already parties in that _____ [specify particular ground, e.g., the omitted party is a limited partner required to be joined in an action to dissolve partnership]. _____ [Name of omitted party] is a person who is subject to service of process and whose joinder will not deprive this court of jurisdiction over the subject matter of this action.

[OR]

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____ [street address], _____ [city], plaintiff will move for an order granting plaintiff leave to amend the complaint herein to bring _____ [name] into this action as a party defendant [if party to be joined is plaintiff who will not consent, add: pursuant to Section 382 of the Code of Civil Procedure]. The motion will be made on the grounds that (1) the amendment is and will be in furtherance of justice, and (2) _____ [name of omitted party] claims an interest relating to the subject of the action and is so situated that the disposition of the action in his/her absence may _____ [as a practical matter impair or impede his/her ability to protect that interest or leave _____ (specify party to the action) subject to substantial risk of incurring double, multiple, or otherwise inconsistent obligations by reason of his/her claimed interest] in that _____ [specify particular ground, e.g., the omitted party is a limited partner required to be joined in an action to dissolve partnership]. _____ [Name of omitted party] is a person who is subject to service of process and whose joinder will not deprive this court of jurisdiction over the subject matter of this action.

[CONTINUE]

The motion will be based on this notice of motion and the proposed amended complaint, on the declaration of _____ [name] and the memorandum of points and authorities served and filed herewith, on the papers and records and file herein, and on such oral and documentary evidence as may be presented at the hearing on the motion.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use by plaintiff to secure a court order permitting plaintiff to amend his or her complaint, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a), to bring in a new party under the provisions of compulsory joinder of parties [see Code Civ. Proc. § 389] when leave of the court is being sought in furtherance of justice. Plaintiff may amend the complaint bringing in the new party as a matter of course before the answer or demurrer is filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 472].

If the motion is made on the ground that in the absence of the omitted party complete relief cannot be accorded among those already parties [see Code Civ.Proc. § 389(a)(1)], the first alternative ground (2) should be used. If the motion is made on the ground that the omitted party claims an interest relating to the subject of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(2)], the second alternative ground (2) should be used with the appropriate alternative ground [Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(2)(i) or (ii)].

The form is for use in joining a defendant. It may also be used to join as a defendant pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 382 a plaintiff whose consent to joinder cannot be obtained.

Counsel should insert where indicated the specific factual grounds supporting joinder, for example, that the omitted party is a limited partner required to be joined in an action to dissolve the partnership [Kraus v. Willow Park Public Golf Course (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 354, 369, 140 Cal. Rptr. 744] . For further examples of compulsory joinder of parties, see § 395.19 and § 395.50 et seq. for Research Guide.

[3] Accompanying Papers

A supporting memorandum must be filed and a copy served with the motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010]. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

[4] Related Uses

With appropriate modifications, the form may be used to request leave to amend a cross complaint. In that case, Code Civ. Proc. § 428.20 would also provide the authority for the motion. A cross complainant could be joined if, had the cross complaint been filed as an independent action, the joinder would have been permitted by Code Civ. Proc. § 378 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 428.20].

[5] Cross References

For forms of notice of motion, declaration, and order granting or denying motion, and related papers for general use, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders

For forms and discussion of amended pleadings generally, see Ch. 21, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings

For memoranda in support of and in oppositon to compulsory joinder of a new party, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 168, Parties

For memoranda in support of and in opposition to joinder of a new party see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 16, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings

For memoranda in support of and in opposition to demurrers for misjoinder or nonjoinder of parties, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 71, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings

California Civil Procedure Before Trial, vol. 1, Ch. 21, Determining, Joining, and Naming Parties, §§ 21.7-21.9 (Cal CEB 3d ed. 2000)

Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 4, Pleading, §§ 158-159, 171-174, 190 (4th ed. 1997)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART V. FORMS
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.105

§ 395.105 Proceedings for Leave to Amend Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a)] to Bring in New Party--Compulsory Joinder by Plaintiff of Party Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 389]--Supporting Declaration

[1] FORM Proceedings for Leave to Amend Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a)] to Bring in New Party--Compulsory Joinder by Plaintiff of Party Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 389]--Supporting Declaration

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)
	)	NO. _____
	)	DECLARATION OF
	)	_____ [name] IN SUPPORT
_____ [name],	)	OF MOTION FOR LEAVE TO Plaintiff,	)	AMEND COMPLAINT TO
vs.	)	BRING IN NEW PARTY
_____ [name],	)	Date: _____
Defendant.	)	Time: _____
	)	Dept: _____
	)	Judge: _____
	)	Date Action Filed: _____
	)	Trial Date: _____
	)

_____

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., the plaintiff in the above-described action].

2. This declaration is in support of plaintiff's motion to file an amended complaint bringing in _____ [name] as a new party defendant to this action.

3. _____ [Set forth nature of plaintiff's action and existing parties, e.g., The action filed by plaintiff is an action brought by him/her against the general partners of the partnership to dissolve the partnership and to seek a declaration as to the rights and liabilities of the various partners or other allegations as appropriate].

[EITHER, if relief is sought under Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(1)]

4. _____ [Name of omitted party] has a right against _____ [name of plaintiff or defendant] because _____ [state facts showing that in the absence of omitted party, complete relief cannot be accorded among those already parties, e.g., he/she is a limited partner in the partnership and a final decree in the action for dissolution cannot be had that disposes of all the questions involved in the ultimate disposition of the partnership property, its assets, or liabilities in that _____ (state further relevant facts)].

[OR, if relief is sought under Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(2)(i)]

4. _____ [Name of omitted party] has a right against _____ [name of plaintiff or defendant] because _____ [state facts showing that omitted party claims an interest relating to the subject of the action and is so situated that the disposition of the action in his/her absence may, as a practical matter, impair or impede his/her ability to protect that interest, e.g., he/she is a limited partner and therefore required to be joined in an action for dissolution of the partnership to assure, that in the disposition of partnership property or accounting of partnership assets, his/her proportionate share of the property or assets will be correctly apportioned since in his/her absence the property may be disposed of in a manner that would impair or impede his/her ability to protect his/her interest in the property. _____ (State further relevant facts)].

[OR, if relief is sought under Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(2)(ii)]

4. _____ [Name of omitted party] has a right against _____ [name of plaintiff or defendant] because _____ [state facts showing that omitted party claims an interest relating to the subject of the action and is so situated that the disposition of the action may, as a practical matter, leave _____ (name of existing party subject to substantial risk of incurring double, multiple, or inconsistent obligations, e.g., he/she is a limited partner and therefore required to be joined in an action for dissolution of the partnership's property and assets including his/her share. Since these may be insufficient to meet the liabilities of the partnership, any disposition in the action in the absence of him/her would leave _____ (name of existing party) subject to further liability in that _____ (state further relevant facts)].

[ADD, if omitted party is nonconsenting plaintiff]

5. _____ [Name of omitted party] would not consent to be a plaintiff in this action. _____ [Specify attempt to obtain consent]. Therefore this motion is being made to add _____ [name of omitted party] as a party defendant pursuant to Section 382 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

The declaration in [1], above, is for use by an attorney or the plaintiff in support of a motion by plaintiff for leave to amend his or her complaint to bring in a new party defendant under the provisions of compulsory joinder [Code Civ. Proc. § 389]. Code Civ. Proc. § 2009 authorizes a party to use an affidavit to support the motion, and Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5 authorizes a declaration under penalty of perjury in lieu of an affidavit. If the motion is made under Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(1) on the ground that complete relief cannot be accorded among those already parties in the omitted party's absence, the first alternative Paragraph 4 should be used. If the motion is made under Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(2)(i) on the ground that the omitted party has an interest in the subject of the action and as a practical matter the disposition of the action in his or her absence will impair the ability to protect that interest, the second alternative Paragraph 4 should be used. If the motion is made under Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a)(2)(ii) on the ground that the omitted party's interest in the subject of the action may subject him or her to substantial risk of incurring double, multiple, or otherwise inconsistent obligations should the action be disposed in his or her absence, the third alternative Paragraph 4 should be used.

Optional Paragraph 5 should be used if the moving party is seeking to add as a defendant, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 382, a plaintiff who will not consent to be joined.

For a related form of notice of motion and motion to amend complaint to bring in new party defendant under the provisions of compulsory joinder, see § 395.104.

[3] Cross References

For a related form of notice of motion and motion to amend complaint to bring in new party defendant under the provisions of compulsory joinder, see § 395.104.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 34: Newspapers thru Parties-Chs. 386-396
Chapter 395 PARTIES
PART V. FORMS
A. Joinder of Parties

34-395 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 395.106

§ 395.106 Proceedings for Leave to Amend Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a)] to Bring in New Party--Permissive [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 378, 379] or Compulsory [Code Civ. Proc. § 389] Joinder by Plaintiff of Party Plaintiff or Defendant--Order Granting Motion

[1] FORM Proceedings for Leave to Amend Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a)] to Bring in New Party--Permissive [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 378, 379] or Compulsory [Code Civ. Proc. § 389] Joinder by Plaintiff of Party Plaintiff or Defendant--Order Granting Motion

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)
	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	ORDER
Plaintiff,	)	Date: _____
vs.	)	Time: _____
_____ [name],	)	Dept: _____
Defendant.	)	Judge: _____
	)	Date Action Filed: _____
	)	Trial Date: _____
	)

_____

The motion of _____ [name], plaintiff, for an order granting leave to amend his/her complaint to bring in a new party _____ [plaintiff or defendant] came on regularly for hearing by the court on _____ [date]. Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name]; defendant appeared by counsel _____ [name].

On proof made to the satisfaction of the court that the motion ought to be granted,

IT IS ORDERED that the motion be, and hereby is, granted as follows:

[EITHER, if new party plaintiff]

The motion is granted and plaintiff is granted leave to amend his/her complaint herein to join into this action _____ [name of new party] as a new party plaintiff.

[OR, if new party defendant]

The motion is granted and plaintiff is granted leave to amend his/her complaint herein to join into this action _____ [name of new party] as a new party defendant. Summons is to be issued thereon, and plaintiff is to serve _____ [name of new party] with a copy of the summons and a copy of the amended complaint within _____ days from the date of this order.

[CONTINUE]

Dated: _____.

_____ [name]
Judge of the _____ Court

[2] Use of Form

