A natural parent and child relationship may also be established pursuant to Prob. Code § 249.5, which provides that for purposes of determining rights to property to be distributed upon the death of a decedent, a child of the decedent conceived after the death of the decedent from the decedent's genetic material is deemed to have been born in the lifetime of the decedent, and after the execution of all of the decedent's testamentary instruments, if the child or his or her representative proves by clear and convincing evidence that specified conditions are satisfied [Prob. Code § 249.5].

Thus, while the inheritance rights of children do not directly depend on the marital status of their parents, the evidentiary burden that a child mustbear to establish the father-child relationship depends on whether paternity is presumed under the UPA, a determination as to which the marital status of the parents is highly significant [see Fam. Code §§ 7540, 7611, discussed in § 412.31 and*§ 412.32[1]*]. This evidentiary distinction has been upheld on equal protection grounds against the argument that it impermissibly discriminates between legitimate and illegitimate children [Estate of Sanders (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 462, 476-477, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 536 (construing former Prob. Code § 6408); see Lalli v. Lalli (1978) 439 U.S. 259, 268-276, 99 S. Ct. 518, 58 L. Ed. 2d 503] .

Despite the permissive "may" in the statute, it provides the exclusive grounds for considering claims of paternity in heirship proceedings. One alleging to be the child (or father) of the decedent is not entitled to the administration of blood/genetic tests to determine paternity in probate proceedings unless one of the conditions of Prob. Code § 6453(b) applies [Estate of Sanders (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 462, 469-478, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 536 (construing former Prob. Code § 6408; see stats. 1993, ch. 529)].

It should be noted that the legitimate public policy concern behind the limitations of Prob. Code § 6453 have been ameliorated significantly by technological advances in the area of DNA testing to determine paternity (see Pt. C). It is no longer necessary to rely on dubious testimony (that the decedent cannot rebut) to establish paternity post-mortem [see Estate of Sanders (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 462, 477 n.22, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 536] . Nevertheless, one court has refused to modify the statutory rule judicially, finding that the argument is more appropriately addressed to the legislature [Estate of Sanders (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 462, 476-477, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 536 (construing former Prob. Code § 6408)].

There are additional limitations that apply if the child is the decedent. If a child is born out of wedlock, neither a parent nor a relative of a parent inherits from or through the child on the basis of the parent-child relationship unless (1) the parent or a relative of the parent acknowledged the child; and (2) the parent or a relative of the parent contributed to the support or the care of the child [Prob. Code § 6452; see Prob. Code § 6414(a)]. For this purpose, the acknowledgment may be oral; it need not be made in a witnessed writing [Lozano v. Scalier (1996) 51 Cal. App. 4th 843, 848, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 346 (oral acknowledgment to family and friends made before child's birth was sufficient)].

A child who is conclusively presumed to be the child of a marriage under Fam. Code § 7540 cannot inherit by intestacy from a man who (rather than the mother's husband) is alleged to be the actual biological father of the child [Estate of Cornelious (1984) 35 Cal. 3d 461, 464-467, 198 Cal. Rptr. 543, 674 P.2d 245] .

For decedents who died before January 1, 1985, rights to intestate succession, including the rules for determining the parent-child relationship, are to be determined under former Prob. Code § 255 [see Prob. Code§ 6414(a)]. For a discussion of intestate succession in the case of adopted children, see General Introduction to Ch. 12, Adoptions: Nature and Effect.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust LawIntestacyDescent & DistributionFamily LawParental Duties & RightsNonmarital ChildrenInheritance RightsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityUniform Parentage ActFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityDefensesRes JudicataFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityPresumptionsGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityPresumptionsRebuttals

61 of 128 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Parentage Determinations

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 412.15- 412.29

[Reserved]

§§ 412.15[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Presumptions of Paternity

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.30

§ 412.30 General Applicability and Constitutionality of Presumptions of Paternity

At various places in the Family Code, certain "presumptions of paternity" are set forth [see Fam. Code §§ 7540 (presumption arising from marriage and cohabitation during conception), 7555 (presumption arising from genetic tests), 7611 (presumptions under UPA); see also Fam. Code § 7576 (presumption arising from declaration; executed on or before December 31, 1996); cf. Fam. Code § 7573 (effect of declaration executed on and after January 1, 1997)]. In a paternity action, these presumptions have an evidentiary function; that is, they affect the burden of proof as to whether a particular man is or is not the father of the child [Fam. Code § 7612(a); see § 412.32[7]].

However, in paternity and in other areas of the law, some presumptions of paternity also have a substantive classification function. Certain rights are extended to, or withheld from a man who alleges that he is, or is alleged to be, the biological father of a child depending on whether he can qualify as a presumed father under one of the presumptions of Fam. Code § 7611. For example, the presumptions of paternity are used to create statutory substantive classes of fathers with regard to custodial rights [Fam. Code § 3010; see In re Zacharia D. (1993) 6 Cal. 4th 435, 449, 451, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 751, 862 P.2d 751] , rights to a child's services and earnings [Fam. Code § 7500], standing to bring a paternity action to establish one's own paternity [Fam. Code §§ 7630, 7631; Michael M. v. Giovanna F. (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1272, 1278, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 460] , the determination of the parent-child relationship for purposes of intestate succession [Prob. Code § 6453], a father's rights with regard to termination of parental rightsand adoption [Fam. Code §§ 7660, 7662, 8604, 8605; Adoption of Kelsey S. (1992) 1 Cal. 4th 816, 844-850, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615, 823 P.2d 1216 ; In re Kyle F. (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 538, 542, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 190] , and the right to custody and reunification services with regard to a child adjudged a dependent of the juvenile court [In re Jesusa V. (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 588, 604-606, 10 Cal. Rptr. 3d 205, 85 P.3d 2 ; In re Zacharia (1993) 6 Cal. 4th 435, 447-454, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 751, 862 P.2d 751 ; see Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 361.2, 361.5].

This substantive classification function has made the presumptions of paternity the subject of constitutional scrutiny on several occasions because, as such, they can conflict with the constitutional right of a fatherto rear his own biological children [see Stanley v. Illinois (1972) 405 U.S. 645, 649-659, 92 S. Ct. 1208, 31 L. Ed. 2d 551 ; In re Jesusa V. (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 588, 604-608, 612, 10 Cal. Rptr. 3d 205, 85 P.3d 2] . These constitutional issues are discussed generally in Ch. 394, Parent and Child, Pt. I, and specifically in Ch. 394, Parent and Child, Pt. II (custody); Ch. 12A, Adoption: Termination of Parental Rights ; Ch. 328, Juvenile Courts: Dependency Proceedings (reunification); and in § 412.70[1] (standing under UPA).

The presumptions of paternity of Fam. Code § 7611 are reflective of public policy as to which fathers should be legally favored [see In re Jesusa V. (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 588, 603, 10 Cal. Rptr. 3d 205, 85 P.3d 2 (though more than one person may fulfill criteria for presumption of paternity under Fam. Code § 7611, there can be only one presumed father; competing presumptions of paternity must be reconciled under Fam. Code § 7612)]. They are unaffected by the biological realities. A man's parentage of a child may be undisputed and legally proven, but he may nevertheless fail to be a presumed father [see In re A.A. (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 771, 788-789, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 755 (determination in dependency case that one man is child's biological father does not necessarily defeat another man's presumed father status under Fam. Code § 7611)]. Conversely, even if biological paternity is denied and legally disproved, a man may still be deemed to be a presumed father [Adoption of Kelsey S. (1992) 1 Cal. 4th 816, 823 n.3, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615, 823 P.2d 1216 ; see In re Jesusa V. (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 588, 604-606, 10 Cal. Rptr. 3d 205, 85 P.3d 2 ; In re Nicholas H. (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 56, 58-59, 63-64, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 146, 46 P.3d 932 ; see also Dawn D. v. Superior Court (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 932, 942-944, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 871, 952 P.2d 1139 (mother who lived with biological father when child conceived but returned to live with husband before child's birth deprived father of chance to be "presumed father"); see also In re Zacharia (1993) 6 Cal. 4th 435, 450 n.18, 453, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 751, 862 P.2d 751] . Courts are not bound to accord determinative weight to biology, but must weigh all relevant factors in determining which of two rebuttably presumed fathers will qualify as the child's presumed father [In re Jesusa V. (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 588, 607-608, 612, 10 Cal. Rptr. 3d 205, 85 P.3d 2 ; Librers v. Black (2005) 129 Cal. App. 4th 114, 123, 28 Cal. Rptr. 3d 188 (after Jesusa V., it is absolutely clear that biology is not determinative factor in resolving paternity disputes under Uniform Parentage Act); see Lisa I. v. Superior Court (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 605, 611, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 927 (child's biological father who has no relationship with child and who has failed to make substantial efforts to establish parent-child relationship or to provide for child's support has no constitutional liberty interest in opportunity to develop relationship with child)].

Neither the evidentiary presumption of paternity arising from genetic test evidence [see Fam. Code § 7555, discussed in § 412.33], nor a judgment of paternity in a paternity action bestow general presumed-father status on a man proven to be the biological father because they are not included in the presumptions of Fam. Code § 7611 [see Adoption of Michael D. (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 122, 129-132, 256 Cal. Rptr. 884] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityBurdens of ProofFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceGenetic TestsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityPresumptionsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Presumptions of Paternity

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.31

§ 412.31 Presumption That Husband Is Father of Child Conceived During Marriage and Cohabitation

[1] Scope of Presumption

Fam. Code § 7540 provides that the child of a wife cohabiting with her husband who is not impotent or sterile is "conclusively" presumed to be a child of the marriage. This presumption is incorporated into Fam. Code § 7611, and therefore confers a favored status on married men and their children whenever the presumptions of Fam. Code § 7611 are used to create a statutory substantive classification (see § 412.30).

The presumption applies if marriage and cohabitation coexist at the time of conception, not the time of birth [see Brian C. v. Ginger K. (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 1198, 1203, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 294 ; City and County of San Francisco v. Strahlendorf (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 1911, 1914, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 817 ; see In re Elijah V. (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 576, 586-587, 25 Cal. Rptr. 3d 774 (husband was child's presumed father under Fam. Code § 7540 when child was born within 276 days of his parents' last physical cohabitation)], and the husband is not impotent or sterile [see Jackson v. Jackson (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 245, 247-248, 60 Cal. Rptr. 649, 430 P.2d 289 ; § 412.31[2]].

The presumption was once truly conclusive for all purposes, and as such, it has been treated as a substantive rule of law rather than simply as an evidentiary presumption [see Brian C. v. Ginger K. (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 1198, 1203-1204, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 294 ; Vincent B. v. Joan R. (1981) 126 Cal. App. 3d 619, 623, 179 Cal. Rptr. 9] . It now is subject to a limited statutory right of rebuttal by blood/genetic-test evidence [see Fam. Code § 7541 (still referring to "blood tests," but incorporating by reference statutes now requiring "genetic" tests);§ 412.31[2]].

[2] Rebutting Presumption With Blood/Genetic-Test Evidence

Notwithstanding the use of the word "conclusive" in Fam. Code § 7540, if the court finds that the conclusions of all the experts, as disclosed by evidence based on tests performed under the Uniform Act on Blood Tests to Determine Paternity [see Fam. Code § 7550 et seq.; Pt. C] are that the husband is not the father of the child, the question of the husband's paternity must be resolved accordingly [Fam. Code § 7541(a)]. California's version of the Uniform Act now provides for "genetic" rather than simply "blood" testing in such cases [see, e.g., Fam. Code § 7551] but Fam. Code § 7541, which incorporates the Act by reference, still refers only to "blood" testing. Section 7541 further provides that a notice of motion for "blood tests"--which presumably now includes the genetic tests authorized by the Act--may be brought, within the statutory period, by one of the following persons:

- The husband, who is the otherwise conclusively presumed father of the child [Fam. Code § 7541(b)];

- The mother of the child, but only if another man has filed an affidavit with the court acknowledging paternity of the child [Fam. Code § 7541(c)];

- A man who qualifies as a presumed father under one of the other presumptions of Fam. Code § 7611, but only for the purpose of establishing his paternity [Fam. Code § 7541(b)]; or

- The child through or by his or her guardian ad litem [Fam. Code § 7541(b)].

Therefore, the presumption is not conclusive for all purposes, but is actually rebuttable, but only by blood/genetic-test evidence, authorized by statute (as opposed to tests simply ordered at a court's request), and only by those (above) who are granted standing by statute to move for the tests [see Dawn D. v. Superior Court (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 932, 937 n.4, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 871, 952 P.2d 1139 (discussing presumption in general, which did not apply to that case because married couple was not cohabiting at time of conception); Miller v. Miller (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 111, 119, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 797 ; Rodney F. v. Karen M. (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 233, 240, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 399 (court-ordered blood test that was not authorized by the statute could not rebut presumption)]. The presumption remains conclusive with regard to other persons, such as a local child support agency attempting to establish paternity and a child support obligation [see Fam. Code § 7634; Fam. Code §§ 17400, 17402, 17404 (discussed in § 412.31[3]]. A man alleging himself to be the actual biological father of a child born to a married woman, but who cannot meet any of the presumptions of paternity [see In re R. (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 636, 647-651, 119 Cal. Rptr. 475, 532 P.2d 123 ; In re Elijah V. (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 576, 585-586, 25 Cal. Rptr. 3d 774] also lacks standing to challenge the presumption. Such an alleged father may only have his paternity established by blood/genetic tests with the cooperation of someone who has standing: for example, the husband, the mother, or the child's guardian ad litem.

Rebuttal by blood/genetic test evidence is also not available if conception was by artificial insemination [see Fam. Code § 7613] or if the wife, with the consent of the husband, conceived by means of a surgical procedure [Fam. Code § 7541(e)].

The motion for tests must be brought no later than two years from the child's date of birth [Fam. Code § 7541(b),(c)]. It must be supported by a declaration stating the factual basis for placing the issue of paternity before the court [Fam. Code § 7541(d)]. This limitation period has been ignored in cases in which courts have found constitutional reasons not to apply the presumption [see, e.g., Alicia R. v. Timothy M. (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 1232, 1236-1238, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 868 ; County of Orange v. Leslie B. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 976, 980 n.3, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 797 ; In re Melissa G. (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 1082, 1084 ; § 412.31[3]].

[3] Constitutionality

The conclusive presumption of Fam. Code § 7540 has been subjected to numerous constitutional attacks because it deprives some alleged biological fathers and their children of the opportunity to establish aparent-child relationship unless a third person contests the husband's paternity [see Fam. Code § 7541(b),(c);§ 412.31[2]]. The constitutional challenges are based on the due process and equal protection clauses of the U.S. Const., amend. XIV, which have been held to protect the essential rights to conceive and to rear one's children [Stanley v. Illinois (1972) 405 U.S. 645, 651, 92 S. Ct. 1208, 31 L. Ed. 2d 551 ; In re R. (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 636, 647-649, 119 Cal. Rptr. 475, 532 P.2d 123] .

In a decision without a majority opinion, the United States Supreme Court has upheld the constitutionality of the statute [see Michael H. v. Gerald D. (1989) 491 U.S. 110, 109 S. Ct. 2333, 105 L. Ed. 2d 91 (alleged biological father and guardian ad litem for child sought determination of paternity over opposition of mother and husband, who were still married and living together and with child in family unit)]. However, five justices refused to foreclose the possibility that a natural father might ever have a constitutionally protected interest in his relationship with a child whose mother was married to and cohabiting with another man at the time of the child's conception and birth [see Michael H. v. Gerald D. (1989) 491 U.S. 110, 133-136, 156-163, 109 S. Ct. 2333, 105 L. Ed. 2d 91 (opinions of Stevens, J., concurring in judgment, Brennan, J., joined by Blackmun, J. and Marshall, J., dissenting, and White, J., dissenting); see also Michael M. v. Giovanna F. (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1272, 1284-1285 n.8, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 460 (concluding that opinion of Scalia, J., is not majority opinion and notcontrolling on question of scope of constitutionally protected interest in parent-child relationship)]. However, one justice concurred in the judgment of constitutionality as applied to the facts of the case because, under his view of California law that is now found in Fam. Code § 3100, the alleged biological father could still pursue visitation rights [see Michael H. v. Gerald D. (1989) 491 U.S. 110, 133-136, 109 S. Ct. 2333, 105 L. Ed. 2d 91 (opinion of Stevens, J., concurring in judgment); see former Civ. Code § 4601, now Fam. Code § 3100(a) (reasonable visitation rights may be granted to nonparent having interest in welfare of child); but see White v. Jacobs (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 122, 124, 243 Cal. Rptr. 597 (former Civ. Code § 4601 applies only to proceedings in which custody of minor child is at issue, and thus provides no general authority for action by grandparent for visitation rights; decided before grandparents were given right to proceed with their own separate action under Fam. Code § 3104); Vincent B. v. Joan R. (1981) 126 Cal. App. 3d 619, 627-628, 179 Cal. Rptr. 9 (visitation by alleged biological father as not in best interests of child)].

The California Supreme Court has also had occasions to address the constitutionality of the conclusive presumption of Fam. Code § 7540 against due-process challenges. The Court's approach has been to balance the interests of the biological father and child in establishing the parent-child relationship against the legitimate interests of the state in family stability and the welfare of the child. Under this balancing test, the Court has found the conclusive presumption to be constitutional as applied toan action by the alleged biological father and guardian ad litem for the child over the opposition of the conclusively presumed father. The mother was married to and living with the presumed father at the time of conception and birth, but subsequently was divorced from him and married the alleged biological father. The alleged biological father sought to establish his paternity in order to terminate the presumed father's visitation rights [Michelle W. v. Ronald W. (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 354, 358-359, 216 Cal. Rptr. 748, 703 P.2d 88] . Under these facts, the Court found that the interests of the biological father were overridden by the state's interests [Michelle W. v. Ronald W. (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 354, 362-363, 216 Cal. Rptr. 748, 703 P.2d 88] . The Court has also upheld the presumption as applied to the inheritance rights of one claiming to be the biological child of the deceased parent [Estate of Cornelious (1984) 35 Cal. 3d 461, 466-467, 198 Cal. Rptr. 543, 674 P.2d 245 ; see § 412.14].

However, the California Supreme Court held the presumption to be an unconstitutional violation of due process as conclusively applied to a child who was a ward of the juvenile court and whose mother and her husband were both deceased. Under these circumstances, the Court found that there was no legitimate state interest of preserving the family unit at issue, and that the alleged biological father could not constitutionally be precluded from attempting to establish a parent-child relationship [In re R. (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 636, 647-651, 119 Cal. Rptr. 475, 532 P.2d 123] .

Appellate courts have also applied this balancing test with varying results. The presumption has been found to be unconstitutional as applied to the biological father of a child who had no ongoing, or any, relationship with her mother's husband. The mother and her husband had separated only eight days after the child's birth, and the mother subsequently married the biological father. The child had lived in that family household with a sister with whom she was emotionally and psychologically bonded. Recognition of the conclusive presumption might have had the effect of separating the custody of the sisters. Under these circumstances, the interest of the state in preserving the family relationship was best served by the nonapplication of the presumption [In re Melissa G. (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 1082, 1089, 261 Cal. Rptr. 894] . Similary, an appellate court found that application of the conclusive presumption violated the due process clause of the federal constitution with respect to a biological father whose child was not born into an "extant marital family," but into a family that consisted of himself, the child, and her mother for the first year of the child's life, and who visited the child thereafter following his breakup with the child's mother. In that instance, even though the child's mother was cohabiting with her husband at the time of the child's conception and was still legally married to him at and after the child's birth, the estrangement of the spouses shortly after the child's conception and during her first year, the husband's nonassertion of any paternity interest until seeking to reunite with his wife, and the biological father's assumption of parentalresponsibilities and receipt of the child into his home militated against applying the conclusive presumption [Brian C. v. Ginger K. (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 1198, 1217-1218, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 294] .

In contrast, the presumption has been upheld to preserve the husband's relationship with the child, even though his nonpaternity was conclusively shown by blood tests, and the marriage to the mother had been dissolved. The court stressed that the familial relationship between the presumed father and the child does not necessarily terminate on dissolution of the marriage [Susan H. v. Jack S. (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 1435, 1442-1444, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 120] .

Courts have even refused to apply the presumption conclusively in cases in which nobody's constitutional rights appear to have been raised. In County of Orange v. Leslie B. [County of Orange v. Leslie B. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 976, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 797] , the alleged biological father attempted to rely on the conclusive presumption to defend a district attorney's action to establish his paternity and for child support. The mother had been married to another man at the time of conception, but they had long been divorced, the ex-husband had not known of the existence of the child until he was made a defendant to the action, and he was excluded from possible paternity by blood tests. On these facts, the court refused to apply the conclusive presumption, finding that the public interest was best served by avoiding the presumption [County of Orange v. Leslie B. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 976, 979-983, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 797 ; see also Comino v. Kelley, (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 678, 683-685, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 728 (in which court undertook balancing test and then "refused to apply" conclusive presumption without mentioning any constitutional basis for refusal)]. The court undertook the constitutional balancing test to reach its result, even though no individual party asserted a constitutional violation [County of Orange v. Leslie B. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 976, 979-983, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 797 ; see Welf. & Inst. Code § 11478.2 ("public interest," not child, is district attorney's client in paternity and support proceeding); see also Alicia R. v. Timothy M. (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 1232, 1237, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 868 (noting language in County of Orange v. Leslie B. that balancing test should be use to determine whether not applying presumption violates due process rights of putative father (court's emphasis)). But the due process right protected by the balancing test is the right of biological parent and child to a relationship with each other. A due process right not to have a parent-child relationship with one's biological offspring is a novel proposition]. The court stated that although the presumption is "conclusive," it should not be applied if its underlying policies would not be furthered by its application [County of Orange v. Leslie B. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 976, 980, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 797 ; see also Alicia R. v. Timothy M. (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 1232, 1237-1238, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 868] .

It also appears that, if the presumption does not apply, the time and standing limitations of Fam. Code § 7541(b) and*(c)* (§ 412.31[2]) on motions for blood/genetic tests also do not apply. Courts have ignored the statutory limitations on when and by whom a motion for such tests may be brought to rebut the presumption if application of the presumption is not supported by the balancing test [see Alicia R. v. Timothy M. (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 1232, 1236-1238, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 868 ; In re Melissa G. (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 1082, 1084 ; cf. County of Orange v. Leslie B. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 976, 980 n.3, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 797 (blood tests administered [voluntarily] long after statutory limitation period [two years] in action brought by party [district attorney] who has no statutory standing to move for blood testing; court didn't reach issue because limitation period had run before statute was enacted)].

In another case, the court avoided the constitutional issues and held that a husband may be estopped from relying on the presumption if he has at all times asserted his nonpaternity and recognized the paternity of another man, and has allowed the child to reside with the other man and to form bonds with him and his extended family [Guardianship of Ethan S. (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 1403, 1415-1417, 271 Cal. Rptr. 121] .

[4] Establishing Marriage and Cohabitation

A presumption is an assumption of fact that the law requires to be made from another fact or group of facts established in the action [Evid. Code § 600(a)]. Therefore, the presumption of paternity of Fam. Code § 7540 does not apply until the preliminary facts of marriage and cohabitation at the time of conception are established [see County of San Diego v. Brown (1978) 80 Cal. App. 3d 297, 303, 145 Cal. Rptr. 483 ; Louis v. Louis (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 851, 854-855, 86 Cal. Rptr. 834] . The person alleging the nonapplication of the presumption has the burden of proving the preliminary fact of impotence or sterility, which would defeat the presumption [see Vincent B. v. Joan R. (1981) 126 Cal. App. 3d 619, 624, 179 Cal. Rptr. 9] . "Sterility" has been given a strict interpretation in at least one reported decision. In that instance, the appellate court limited a finding of sterility to cases in which, by a preponderance of the evidence, a party can demonstrate that the presumed father could not produce live sperm at the time of conception. Thus, although a husband's sperm count was shown to be so low that there was only a remote possibility he could have fathered the subject child, the court held that as long as there was any sperm count at all, the husband did not meet the definition of being "sterile" [In re Marriage of Freeman (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 1437, 1449, 53 Cal. Rptr. 2d 439] .

If the parties were married but were not cohabiting during the entire period of possible conception, evidence is admissible to establish that conception during the limited period of cohabitation was impossible [Jackson v. Jackson (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 245, 247-248, 60 Cal. Rptr. 649, 430 P.2d 289 ; see Louis v. Louis (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 851, 854-855, 86 Cal. Rptr. 834 ; see also Brian C. v. Ginger K. (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 1198,1204-1205, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 294 (conclusive presumption not applied when there has been no substantive cohabitation)]. In this situation, the presumption that the husband is the father of a child born during, or within 300 days after termination of, the marriage may apply [see Fam. Code § 7611(a), discussed in § 412.32[1]].

"Cohabiting" means living together in a marital household and sharing day-to-day life [Steven W. v. Matthew S. (1995) 33 Cal. App. 4th 1108, 1115, 39 Cal. Rptr. 2d 535 ; see Kusior v. Silver (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 603, 612-613 n.3, 7 Cal. Rptr. 129, 354 P.2d 657] . Evidence of lack of sexual relations is irrelevant [Vincent B. v. Joan R. (1981) 126 Cal. App. 3d 619, 623, 179 Cal. Rptr. 9] . Conversely, the fact that the spouses, though not living together, continued to have sexual relations, is insufficient to establish cohabitation and invoke the presumption [Kusior v. Silver (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 603, 612, 7 Cal. Rptr. 129, 354 P.2d 657 ; Steven W. v. Matthew S. (1995) 33 Cal. App. 4th 1108, 1114-1115, 39 Cal. Rptr. 2d 535] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidenceInferences & PresumptionsGeneral OverviewEvidenceInferences & PresumptionsRebuttal of PresumptionsEvidenceScientific EvidenceBlood & Bodily FluidsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityDefensesStatutes of LimitationsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceBlood TestsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceGenetic TestsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityPresumptionsGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Presumptions of Paternity

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.32

§ 412.32 Presumptions of Family Code Section 7611

[1] Child Born During or Within 300 Days of Marriage

A man is presumed to be the natural father of a child if he and the child's natural mother are or have been married to each other, and the child is born during the marriage or within 300 days after the marriage was terminated by death,annulment, declaration of invalidity, or decree of dissolution of marriage or legal separation [Fam. Code § 7611(a); see Fuss v. Superior Court (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 556, 561, 279 Cal. Rptr. 46 ; see also Adoption of Marie R. (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 624, 628, 145 Cal. Rptr. 122] . This presumption differs from the conclusive presumption of Fam. Code § 7540 in that it does not require cohabitation by the parties during the period of possible conception [see Michael M. v. Giovanna F. (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1272 ; 1282 n.6, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 460] . Therefore, this presumption appears to apply if the parties were married but not cohabiting at the time of conception, so long as the child is born during the marriage or within 300 days of termination [see generally Dawn D. v. Superior Court (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 932, 937, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 871, 952 P.2d 1139] .

When a mother and her husband have allegedly permitted the child's biological father to receive the child into his home and hold the child out as his child, the presumption of Fam. Code § 7540 is not "conclusive." Instead, the biological father may assert the rebuttable presumption of paternity provided by Fam. Code § 7611(d), the husband may assert the rebuttable presumption of paternity provided by Fam. Code § 7611(a), and the court must decide under Fam. Code § 7612 which presumption shall prevail [Craig L. v. Sandy S. (2004) 125 Cal. App. 4th 36, 45-53, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 606] .

[2] Invalid Marriage Before Birth

A man is presumed to be the natural father of a child if, before the child's birth, he and the child's natural mother attempted to marry each other by a marriage solemnized in apparent compliance with law, although the attempted marriage is or could be declared invalid and either of the following is true:

- If the attempted marriage is voidable only by court order [see Fam. Code § 2210], the child is born during the attempted marriage or within 300 days after its termination by death, annulment, declaration of invalidity, or decree of dissolution of marriage [Fam. Code § 7611(b)(1)]; or

- If the attempted marriage is void and invalid without a court order [see Fam. Code §§ 2200, 2201], the child is born within 300 days after termination of cohabitation [Fam. Code § 7611(b)(2)].

Validity of marriage and void and voidable marriages are discussed in Ch. 25, Annulment (Nullity) of Marriage and Related Spousal Rights .

[3] Valid or Invalid Marriage After Birth

A man is presumed to be the natural father of a child if, after the child's birth, he and the child's natural mother have married or attempted to marry each other by a marriage solemnized in apparent compliance with law, although the attempted marriage is void or voidable, and either of the following is true:

- With his consent he is named as the child's father on the child's birth certificate [Fam. Code § 7611(c)(1); see In re Kiana A. (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 1109, 1116, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 669] ; or

- He is obligated to support the child under a written voluntary promise or by court order [Fam. Code § 7611(c)(2)].

[4] Reception Into Home

A man is presumed to be the natural father if he receives the child into his home and openly holds out the child as his natural child [Fam. Code § 7611(d); see In re Nicholas H. (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 56, 58, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 146, 46 P.3d 932 ; Brian C. v. Ginger K. (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 1198, 1221, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 294 ; see also Elisa B. v. Superior Court (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 108, 113, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 46, 117 P.3d 660 (any interested party may also bring action at any time for purpose of determining existence or nonexistence of mother-child relationship presumed under Fam. Code § 7611(d); Kevin Q. v. Lauren W. (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 1119, 1133, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 477 (there are no time limits or standing requirements for challenging or asserting Fam. Code § 7611(d) presumption); Librers v. Black (2005) 129 Cal. App. 4th 114, 124-127, 28 Cal. Rptr. 3d 188 (mother's live-in boyfriend was child's presumed father based on his receipt of child into his home and his openly holding her out as his natural child); In re Salvador M. (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 1353, 1357-1359, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 705 (admission of child's sister that she was not child's biological mother did not rebut presumption of maternity in her favor); In re Kiana A. (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 1109, 1116-1117, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 669 (evidence demonstrated rebuttable presumption that man was child's presumed father under Fam. Code § 7611(d), when man took child into his home, held her out as his natural child, provided necessities of life, and acted toward her as parent); but cf. Scott v. Superior Court (2009) 171 Cal. App. 4th 540, 544-547, 89 Cal. Rptr. 3d 843 (woman who had intimate relationship with father of minor children did not have standing to join parents' UPA action to seek custody and visitation rights as presumed or de facto mother when parental rights of natural mother had not been terminated); In re Tanis H. (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 1218, 1229, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 380 (plaintiff who lived with mother while pregnant, but in whose home child never lived after birth, did not qualify as presumed father on basis of "receipt of child into his home")].

The father must actually receive the child in his home, although it may be that the child's physical presence in the home for any period, no matter how brief, is sufficient [see Adoption of Kelsey S. (1992) 1 Cal. 4th 816, 828, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615, 823 P.2d 1216 ; In re M. (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 783, 795, 122 Cal. Rptr. 531, 537 P.2d 363 ; Charisma R. v. Kristina S. (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 361, 370-374, 96 Cal. Rptr. 3d 26 (domestic partner of birth mother is not required to receive child in her home for "significant period of time" to be considered presumed mother under Fam. Code § 7611(d)); but see Miller v. Miller (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 111, 118, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 797 (plaintiff's marriage to child's mother after child was born and living with them were insufficient to show reception into home); In re Spencer W. (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 1647, 1653, 56 Cal. Rptr. 2d 524 (plaintiff male was unemployed and supported by the mother, who paid for apartment where they resided); In re Sarah C. (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 964, 972-973, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 414 (refusing to find reception)].

For example, a father meets the elements of the statutory presumption when the child lives part-time with the father and part-time with the mother, the father has been involved with the child since birth and has bonded with the child, and the father has provided financially for the child's needs and has held himself out as the child's father [In re A.A. (2003)7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 755] .

Other factors courts look at is whether the man actively helped the mother in prenatal care, paid pregnancy and birth expenses commensurate with his ability to do so, promptly took legal action to obtain custody of the child, and sought to have his name placed on the birth certificate. Courts also consider whether and how long the man cared for the child, whether there is unequivocal evidence that he acknowledged the child, the number of people to whom he acknowledged the child, whether he provided for the child after the child no longer resided with him, whether he pursued completion of the required paperwork if the child needed public benefits, and whether his care was merely incidental [In re T.R. (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 1202, 1211, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 215] .

There is no doctrine of "constructive receipt," by which the presumption would be established without actual receipt if the father is prevented from receiving the child into his home by the mother's acts, such as placing the child for adoption [Adoption of Kelsey S. (1992) 1 Cal. 4th 816, 825-830, 823 P.2d 1216 ; In re Kyle F. (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 538, 542, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 190] . However, a father in this situation may have certain constitutional protections [see In re Jerry P. (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 793, 795, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 123] . For discussion, see*§ 412.30* and Ch. 12, Adoptions: Nature and Effect .

A valid declaration of paternity signed and filed by the biological father has the force of a judgment under Fam. Code § 7573, which trumps another man's presumed father status under Section 7611(d) [Kevin Q. v. Lauren W. (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 1119, 1124, 1133, 1136-1141, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 477] . A court does not have the discretion to ignore or treat as a rebuttable presumption a voluntary declaration of paternity [Kevin Q. v. Lauren W. (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 1119, 1138, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 477] ; it is not a mere presumption that may be weighed against competing Section 7611 presumptions under Fam. Code § 7612(b) [Kevin Q. v. Lauren W. (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 1119, 1141, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 477] .

[5] Vietnamese Refugee Child

A man is presumed to be the natural father of a child if the child was born and resides in a nation with which the United States engages in an Orderly Departure Program, or a successor program, and the man acknowledges that he is the father of the child in a declaration under penalty of perjury as specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5 [Fam. Code § 7611(e) (operative only until January 1, 1997)]. The Orderly Departure Program was developed by an informal agreement with Vietnam under the aegis of the United Nations. It does not appear that this presumption would apply to children from any other country.

[6] Child In Utero After Death

A man is presumed to be the natural father of a child if the child is in utero after his death and the following conditions are satisfied [Fam. Code § 7611(f); Prob. Code § 249.5]:

(a) The man, in writing, specified that his genetic material would be used for the posthumous conception of a child of his, subject to the following:

(1) The specification was signed by the man and at least one competent witness.

(2) The specification could be revoked or amended only by a writing, signed by the man and at least one competent witness.

(3) The person designated by the man to use the genetic material was either of the following:
(A) His spouse or registered domestic partner, as of his date of death.

(B) Some other person named in the specification as approved by the man to be the person designated by him to use the genetic material for posthumous conception.

(b) The child or the child's representative has given written notice by certified mail, return receipt requested, that the man's genetic material was available for the purpose of posthumous conception. The notice must have been given to a person who had the power to control the distribution of either the man's property or death benefits payable by reason of his death, within four months of the date of issuance of a certificate of the death or entry of a judgment determining the fact of the death, whichever event occurred first.

(c) The child was in utero using the man's genetic material and was in utero within two years of the date of issuance of a certificate of the man's death or entry of a judgment determining the fact of the death, whichever event occurred first. This does not apply to a child who shares all of his or her nuclear genes with the person donating the implanted nucleus as a result of the application of somatic nuclear transfer technology commonly known as human cloning.

[7] Rebutting Presumptions

Although more than one individual may fulfill the statutory criteria that give rise to a presumption of paternity under Fam. Code § 7611, there can be only one presumed father [In re Jesusa V. (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 588, 603, 10 Cal. Rptr. 3d 205, 85 P.3d 2] . How the competing presumptions are to be reconciled is set forth in Fam. Code § 7612(b), which provides that when two or more presumptions arise under Fam. Code § 7610 or Fam. Code § 7611 that conflict with each other, or if the presumption under Fam. Code § 7611 conflicts with a claim under Fam. Code § 7610, the presumption which on the facts is founded on the weightier considerations of policy and logic controls.

The presumptions set forth in Fam. Code § 7611 affect the burden of proof and may be rebutted in an appropriate action only by clear and convincing evidence [Fam. Code § 7612(a); see Comino v. Kelley (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 678, 685, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 728 (burden is on party opposing operation of presumption)]. However, the plaintiff has the burden of proving the elements or foundational facts with respect to each presumption. The opponent may introduce evidence tending to prove the foundational facts are not present or that the presumed fact is not true, or both [In re Spencer W. (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 1647, 1653, 56 Cal. Rptr. 2d 524] .

The presumptions are rebutted by a judgment establishing paternity of the child by another man [Fam. Code § 7612(c); Barkaloff v. Woodward (1996) 47 Cal. App. 4th 393, 399, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 167 ; see In re A.A. (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 771, 788-789, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 755 (determination in dependency case that one man is child's biological father does not necessarily defeat another man's presumed father status under Fam. Code § 7611)]. But the presumptions are not necessarily rebutted by blood test results that exclude the presumed father as the actual biological father [see In re Jesusa V. (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 588, 604-606, 10 Cal. Rptr. 3d 205, 85 P.3d 2 (nonbiological father's presumption of paternity under Fam. Code § 7611(d) not necessarily defeated by biological father's competing claim to be child's presumed father); In re Nicholas H. (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 56, 70, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 146, 46 P.3d 932 (man's presumed father status under Fam. Code § 7611(d) not necessarily rebutted under Fam. Code § 7612(a) by admission that he is not biological father); see also In re Raphael P. (2002) 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 610 (when there is only one man seeking to establish paternity based on having received child into his home, genetic evidence that man is not child's biological father will not necessarily rebut presumption)]. Moreover, Fam. Code § 7612 does not contemplate a "reflexive rule that biological paternity [will] rebut the Fam. Code § 7611 presumption[s] in all cases, without concern for whether rebuttal [is] appropriate in the particular circumstances" [In re Jesusa V. (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 588, 607-608].

With respect to the presumption arising under Fam. Code § 7611(d)--for reception of a child into a man's home and openly holding the child out as his own--the California Supreme Court has held that this presumption is not necessarily rebutted when a presumed father seeks parental rights but admits that he is not the child's biological father. In particular, the rebuttal provision of Fam. Code § 7612(a) was not intended to apply when no other man claims parental rights and the child would be rendered fatherless by rebuttal of the presumption. Those circumstances are not "an appropriate action" in which to apply the rebuttal provision. Instead, the Supreme Court has suggested, the Legislature intended for the rebuttal provision to apply in an action in which "another candidate is vying for parental rights and seeks to rebut a [Fam. Code] section 7611(d) presumption in order to perfect his claim, or in which a court decides that the legal rights and obligations of parenthood should devolve upon an unwilling candidate" [In re Nicholas H. (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 56, 70, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 146, 46 P.3d 932 (man does not lose status as presumed father by admitting he is not biological father); see In re Kiana A. (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 1109, 1118-1119, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 669 (though results of genetic testing constitute clear and convincing evidence, it does not follow that evidence will rebut presumption in every case; rather, Fam. Code § 7611 seeks to protect presumptions of paternity once they have arisen, from being set aside except on clear and convincing evidence and only in appropriate case); cf. In re Karen C. (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 932, 938, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 677 (mother does not lose status as presumed mother by admitting she is not biological mother)]. The Court has clarified that biological paternity by a competing presumed father does not necessarily defeat a nonbiological father's presumption of paternity under Fam.Code § 7612(a) [In re Jesusa V. (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 588, 606]. The court must consider whether rebuttal of the presumption is appropriate given the circumstances of the case. For related discussion, § 412.32[8].

The party seeking to rebut one or more of these presumptions must have standing to do so [see generally Fam. Code § 7630; Dawn D. v. Superior Court (1998) 17 Cal.4th 932, 937-938, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 871, 952 P.2d 1139 (unwed, alleged biological father who was not presumed father lacked standing to rebut presumption arising from birth of child during marriage, and had no due process right to establish personal relationship with child)]. For discussion of scientific evidence to establish paternity or nonpaternity, see Part C, § 412.50 et seq.

For discussion of the use of other evidence, see Evidence in Part D, § 412.70 et seq.

[8] Conflicting Presumptions

When the evidence shows that more than one man satisfies criteria giving rising to a presumption of paternity, the trial court must weigh the competing presumptions [see Fam. Code § 7612(b)]. Thus, if two or more conflicting presumptions under Fam. Code § 7610 or § 7611 arise, the presumption that on the facts is founded on the weightier considerations of policy and logic controls [Fam. Code § 7612(b); see In re Nicholas H. (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 56, 63, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 146, 46 P.3d 932 (court's conclusion that man does not lose status as presumed father by admitting he is not biological father is supported by Fam. Code § 7612(b)); Brian C. v. Ginger K. (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 1198, 1220, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 294] . In determining the weightier considerations of policy and logic, an existing father-child relationship is to be preserved over biological ties. Thus, a man who receives the child into his home and openly holds out the child as his own should be adjudged the father, even if another man is indisputably the child's actual biological father [In re Jesusa V. (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 588, 607-608, 612, 10 Cal. Rptr. 3d 205, 85 P.3d 2 (award of presumed father status to stepfather, rather than biological father, best comported with state's interest in preserving integrity of family and child's welfare); In re Kiana A. (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 1109, 1118-1121, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 669 (in applying paternity presumptions, extant father-child relationship is to be preserved at cost of biological ties); Steven W. v. Matthew S. (1995) 33 Cal. App. 4th 1108, 1116-1117, 39 Cal. Rptr. 2d 535] . The presumption based on public acknowledgment and reception into the home has also been found to be based on weightier considerations of public policy than the presumption based on birth during marriage [Steven W. v. Matthew S. (1995) 33 Cal. App. 4th 1108, 1115-1117, 39 Cal. Rptr. 2d 535 ; see Adoption of Marie R. (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 624, 636-637, 145 Cal. Rptr. 122 (dissenting opinion), or than the presumption based on marriage to the child's mother after the child's birth and being consensually named on the child's birth certificate [In re Kiana A. (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 1109, 1117-1118, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 669 (evidence clearly supported conclusion that presumption of man who received child into his home was entitled to greater weight than that of man who married child's mother after child's birth)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidenceInferences & PresumptionsGeneral OverviewEvidenceInferences & PresumptionsConflicting PresumptionsEvidenceInferences & PresumptionsExceptionsStatutory PresumptionsEvidenceInferences & PresumptionsRebuttal of PresumptionsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityPresumptionsGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityPresumptionsRebuttals

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Presumptions of Paternity

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.33

§ 412.33 Presumption Arising From Blood/Genetic Test Results

The Uniform Act on Blood Tests to Determine Paternity is codified in California in Fam. Code § 7550 et seq. Operative January 1, 1998, except for the name of the act, which remains the same, the provisions of the Act, including those concerning presumptions, now refer to the broad term "genetic," rather than simply "blood," testing. Under the Act, there is a rebuttable presumption of paternity based on blood test results, affecting the burden of proof, if the court finds that the paternity index, as calculated by the experts qualified as examiners of genetic markers, is 100 or greater [Fam. Code § 7555(a)]. This presumption is not included in Fam. Code § 7611; therefore, it does not entitle the man toward whom the presumption points to presumed father status under other laws that substantively distinguish presumed fathers from other fathers (see § 412.30).

"Genetic markers" mean separate genes or complexes of genes identified as a result of genetic tests [Fam. Code § 7555(b)(1)]. "Paternity index" means the commonly accepted indicator for denoting the existence of paternity. It expresses the relative strength of the test results for and against paternity. The paternity index, computed using results of various paternity tests following accepted statistical principles, must be in accordance with the method of expression accepted at the International Conference on Parentage Testing at Airlie House, Virginia, May 1982, sponsored by the American Association of Blood Banks [Fam. Code § 7555(b)(2)].

The paternity index is not the probability that the man tested is the father. Rather, it involves the probability that a cross between the man and the mother would produce an offspring with the child's phenotypes and the corresponding probability for a random selection of genes from the male population [County of El Dorado v. Misura (1995) 33 Cal. App. 4th 73, 79, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 908] .

In enacting the original version of this uniform act, the Legislature stated its intention to standardize the process by which paternity is established in order to achieve a greater degree of equity and consistency in paternity determinations. It found that the science of genetic testing had advanced to the degree that paternity determinations resulting from this testing are so reliable that the burden of proof should be shifted to the putative father [see Stats. 1986, ch. 629, § 1].

The presumption may be rebutted by a preponderance of the evidence [Fam. Code § 7555(a); see County of Sonoma v.

Grant W. (1986) 232 Cal. Rptr. 471] . The statute does not specify what classes of evidence may be used to rebut the presumption. However, both scientific and nonscientific evidence has been approved. For example, the opponent of the presumption may attack the testing procedure or attempt to prove a paternity index of below 100. Or the man may attempt to show that he is infertile or did not have sex with the mother during the period of conception [City and County of San Francisco v. Givens (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 51, 56, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 859 (defendant successfully rebutted presumption by presenting "clear and convincing" evidence that he did not have access to mother during period of conception)]. Or he might attempt to prove that another man had sex with the mother and also has a high paternity index, which would raise a competing or inconsistant presumption. However, evidence that the mother had multiple sexual partners during the time of conception, without any blood-test evidence that does not exclude one or more other men, does nothing to rebut the presumption [County of El Dorado v. Misura (1995) 33 Cal. App. 4th 73, 83-84, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 908] .

For further discussion of genetic-test evidence, see Part C, § 412.50 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidenceInferences & PresumptionsGeneral OverviewEvidenceInferences & PresumptionsRebuttal of PresumptionsEvidenceScientific EvidenceBlood & Bodily FluidsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceBlood TestsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceGenetic TestsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityPresumptionsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Presumptions of Paternity

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.34

§ 412.34 Presumption of Paternity by Declaration

[1] Federal Compulsion

Federal law requires states to have in effect, as a condition of receiving federal funds for certain public assistance programs benefiting dependent children [see 42 U.S.C. §§ 601, 654(20) (as amended by Pub. L. No. 105-33)], a hospital-based program for the voluntary acknowledgment of paternity during the period immediately before or after the birth of a child [42 U.S.C. § 666(a)(5)(C); see P.L. 103-66, § 13721(c) (effective date)]. Voluntary acknowledgment must create a presumption of paternity [see 42 U.S.C. § 666(a)(5)(D)] that forms a basis for obtaining a child support order without further proceedings to establish paternity [see 42 U.S.C. § 666(a)(5)(E)].

[2] Legislative Findings and Declaration of Purpose

The California Legislature initially crafted a voluntary paternity declaration in its 1993 and 1994 sessions. Subject to a provision for rebuttal by means of blood or genetic testing, the child of a woman and man who executed the declaration (on and after January 1, 1995) was "conclusively presumed" to be the man's child; and this express presumption had "the same force and effect as the presumption under [Fam. Code § 7540]" [Stats. 1993, ch. 1240; Stats. 1994, ch. 1269; former Fam. Code §§ 7571(d) (now see Fam. Code § 7576(a)), 7574 (form), 7575 (rebuttal)].

In enacting this presumption, the Legislature the following findings and declarations:

> There is a compelling state interest in establishing paternity for all children. Establishing paternity is the first step toward a child support award, which, in turn, provides children with equal rights and access to benefits, including, but not limited to, social security, health insurance, survivors' benefits, military benefits, and inheritance rights. Knowledge of family medical history is often necessary for correct medical diagnosis and treatment. Additionally, knowing one's father is important to a child's development [Fam. Code § 7570(a)].
>
> A simple system allowing for establishment of voluntary paternity will result in a significant increase in the ease of establishing paternity, a significant increase in paternity establishment, an increase > in the number of children who have greater access to child support and other benefits, and a significant decrease in the time and money required to establish paternity due to the removal of the need for a lengthy and expensive court process to determine and establish paternity and is in the public interest [Fam. Code § 7570(b)].

Later legislation, operative January 1, 1997, recast the provisions for the voluntary paternity declaration by removing the express "conclusive presumption" language. Instead, with limited exception, a voluntary declaration that is executed on after that date and that has been filed with the Department of Child Support Services is simply deemed to "establish the paternity of a child and shall have the same force and effect as a judgment of paternity issued by a court of competent jurisdiction" [Fam. Code § 7573]. However, as discussed in § 412.34[7], the new legislation authorizes a motion for genetic tests in order to set aside the declaration, and a special "rebuttable presumption" provision applies to minors who execute the declaration. In addition, declarations executed on or before December 31, 1996, are still subject to a formulation of the law that includes the "conclusive presumption" language [Fam. Code §§ 7575, 7576, 7577]. The discussion hereafter makes reference to both current and former law, accordingly.

[3] Declaration of Paternity

On and after January 1, 1995, voluntary declarations of paternity must be made available for all live births to unmarried mothers in California [Fam. Code § 7571(a)]. Before the mother leaves the birth facility, the person responsible for registering live births [see Health & Safety Code § 102405] must provide the declaration form to her, and must attempt to provide it to the man identified by her as the natural father, together with the written materials described in Fam. Code § 7572. Hospital staff must witness the signatures of the parents signing a voluntary declaration of paternity, and must forward the signed declaration to the Department of Child Support Services within 20 days of the date the declaration was signed. A copy of the declaration must be made available to each of the attesting parents [Fam. Code § 7571(a)].

A showing that the name of a man claiming to be a child's father is on the birth certificate is prima facie proof that he signed a voluntary declaration of paternity. Once this man provides such prima facie proof of having signed a voluntary declaration of paternity, he is entitled to rely on the presumption of Evid. Code § 664 that official duty has been regularly performed, namely, the hospital staff's witnessing of the parents signing of the declaration, to establish that the document was properly filed. It is then the burden of the party contesting the existence of the declaration to disprove this fact [In re Raphael P. III (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 716, 736-738, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 610] .

If the declaration is not registered by the person responsible for registering live births at the hospital, it may be completed by the attesting parents, notarized, and mailed to the Department of Child Support Services at any time after the child's birth [Fam. Code § 7571(d)]. The declaration form must be made available without charge at all local child support agency offices, offices of local registrars of births and deaths, courts, and county welfare departments in the state [Fam. Code § 7571(f)]. Staff in these offices must witness the signatures of parents who wish to sign a voluntary declaration of paternity, and are responsible for forwarding the signed declaration to the Department of Child Support Services within 20 days of the date the declaration was signed [Fam. Code § 7571(f)]. In addition, publicly funded or licensed health clinics, pediatric offices, Head Start programs, child care centers, social services providers, prisons, and schools may offer parents the opportunity to sign a voluntary declaration of paternity, provided that the requirements of Fam. Code § 7571 are met [Fam. Code § 7571(j),(k)].

Any agency or organization that is required to offer parents the opportunity to sign a voluntary declaration of paternity must also identify parents who are willing to sign, but were unavailable when the child was born. It must contact these parents within 10 days and offer the parent the opportunity to sign [Fam. Code § 7571(k)].

The local child support agency must pay $10 to birthing hospitals and other entities providing prenatal services for each completed declaration of paternity that is filedwith the Department of Child Support Services, as long as the local child support agency and the entity have entered into a written agreement that specifies the terms and conditions for the payment as required by federal law [Fam. Code § 7571(c)]. To be paid for their services, prenatal clinics must ensure that the voluntary declaration of paternity form is witnessed and forwarded to the Department of Child Support Services within 20 days of the date the declaration was signed [Fam. Code § 7571(e)].

The Department of Child Support Services and local child support agencies must publicize the availability of these voluntary declarations of paternity. The local agency must make the declaration and written materials prescribed by Fam. Code § 7572(a) available on request to any parent and to any agency or organization that is required to offer parents the opportunity to sign a voluntary declaration of paternity. The agency must provide qualified staff to answer parents' questions about the declaration and the process of establishing paternity [Fam. Code § 7571(h)].

Copies of a declaration and any recissions filed with the Department of Child Support Services may be made available only to the parents, the child, the local child support agency, the county welfare department, the county counsel, the State Department of Health Services, and the courts [Fam. Code § 7571(i)].

The Department of Child Support Services must develop written materials to assist providers and parents in complying with the requirements regarding the voluntary declaration of paternity [Fam. Code § 7572(a)]. The written materials for parents must be attached to the declaration and contain the following information [Fam. Code § 7572(b)]:

> (1) A signed voluntary declaration of paternity that is filed with the Department of Child Support Services legally establishes paternity.
>
> (2) The legal rights and obligations of both parents and the child that result from the establishment of paternity.
>
> (3) An alleged father's constitutional rights to have the issue of paternity decided by a court, to notice of any hearing on the issue of paternity, to have an opportunity to present his case to the court (including a right to present and cross-examine witnesses), to have an attorney represent him, and to have an attorney appointed to represent him if he cannot afford one in a paternity action filed by a local child support agency.
>
> (4) That by signing the declaration, the father is voluntarily waiving his constitutional rights.

Parents must also be given oral notice of these rights and responsibilities. This notice may be given by use of audio- or video-recorded programs developed by the Department of Child Support Services, to the extent permitted by federal law [Fam. Code § 7572(c)]. The Department must make available, free of charge, to hospitals, clinics, local registrars of births and deaths, and other places of birth any and all informational and training materials for the program provided for under Fam. Code § 7570 et seq., as well as the paternity declaration form [Fam. Code § 7572(d)]. The Department may adopt regulations necessary to implement these provisions [Fam. Code § 7572(e)].

[4] Effect of Declaration

Except as discussed here and in § 412.34[7], a completed voluntary declaration of paternity (executed on or after January 1, 1997) that has been filed with the Department of Child Support Services establishes a child's paternity and has the same force and effect as a judgment for paternity issued by a court of competent jurisdiction. The voluntary declaration must be recognized as a basis for establishing an order for child custody, visitation, or child support [Fam. Code § 7573; see § 412.34[5]; cf. In re Liam L. (2000) 84 Cal. App. 4th 739, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 13 (voluntary declaration of paternity gives male signatory presumed father status in dependency proceeding); but see County of Los Angeles v. Pattinson (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 1337, 1343, 126 Cal. Rptr. 2d 350 (voluntary declaration of paternity may be basis for child custody order, but underlying statutory scheme does not in and of itself determine child custody);

Fam. Code §§ 7575, 7576, 7577 (rescission, motion to set aside, blood/genetic testing; declaration executed on or before December 31, 1996, declaration of minors)].

Either parent may rescind the declaration by filing a rescission form with the Department of Child Support Services within 60 days of the date of execution of the declaration by the attesting father or attesting mother, whichever signature is later, unless a court order for custody, visitation, or child support has been entered in an action in which the parent seeking to rescind was a party. The form must include a declaration under penalty of perjury completed by the person filing the form certifying that a copy of the form was sent by mail requiring a return receipt to the other person who signed the voluntary declaration of paternity. A copy of the return receipt must be attached to the rescission form when filed with the Department of Child Support Services [Fam. Code § 7575(a)].

A declaration that is signed by a parent who is a minor does not establish paternity until 60 days after both parents have reached the age of 18 years or are emancipated, whichever occurs first [Fam. Code § 7577(a)]. A parent who signs a declaration when he or she is a minor may rescind the declaration at any time up to 60 days after reaching the age of 18 or becoming emancipated, whichever occurs first [Fam. Code § 7577(b)]. Such a declaration creates a rebuttable presumption of paternity until the date that it conclusively establishes paternity [Fam. Code § 7577(c)], and is admissible as evidence in any civil action to establish the paternity of the minor parent named in it [Fam. Code § 7577(d)].

Special provisions apply to declarations signed on or before December 31, 1996. The child of a man and a woman who executed such a declaration is conclusively presumed to be the man's child, and the declaration must be recognized as the basis for establishing an order for child custody or support [Fam. Code § 7576(a), (b); see § 412.34[5]]. The presumption may be rebutted by any person by requesting blood or genetic tests [Fam. Code § 7576(d); see § 412.34[7]]. Other provisions for blood testing in connection with persons executing a declaration on or after January 1, 1997, are discussed in § 412.34[7].

[5] Proceedings Involving Declaration

The UPA now contains special provisions for an action based on the declaration [see Fam. Code § 7644]. The Judicial Council form of petition to establish parental relationship includes an allegation that parentage has been established by voluntary declaration [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-200 (formerly prescribed by Cal. Rules of CL., Rule 1296.60]; see § 412.130]. In addition, the Judicial Council has created a separate form by which to petition for child custody, visitation, and child support (without seeking a parentage judgment) that may be used either by parents who have signed a voluntary declaration of paternity, or who are married and have not brought another family law action [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-260; see Ch. 394, Parent and Child]. The district attorney or other local child support agency may also bring an action for child support based on the declaration, and the Judicial Council is required to develop forms and procedures to bring the action [see Fam. Code § 17412].

Also, in any action filed a district attorney or other local child support agency ("the local child support agency") to establish paternity and a child support obligation [see Fam. Code §§ 17400, 17404], the agency must provide the mother and the alleged father the opportunity to voluntarily acknowledge paternity by signing a paternity declaration before the hearing or trial in which paternity is at issue. The agency may afford the defendant an opportunity to enter into a stipulation for judgment of paternity after an action for paternity has been filed in place of the voluntary declaration of paternity [Fam. Code § 17410 (discussed in Ch. 259, Family Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Support Enforcement)].

[6] Contents of Declaration

The voluntary declaration of paternity must be executed on a form developed by the Department of Child Support Services [Fam. Code § 7574(a)]. It must contain the mother's and father's names and signatures, the child's name and birthdate, and the name and signature of the person who witnessed the mother's and father's signatures [Fam. Code § 7574(b)(1)-(4), (7)].

It must also contain a statement by the mother that she has read and understands the written materials described in Fam. Code § 7572, that the man who has signed the declaration is the only possible father, and that she consents to establishing paternity by signing the declaration [Fam. Code § 7574(b)(5)]. It must contain a statement by the father that he has read and understands the written materials described in Section 7572, that he understands that by signing the declaration he is waiving his rights as described in those materials, that he is the child's biological father, and that he consents to establishing paternity by signing the declaration [Fam. Code § 7574(b)(6)].

[7] Rebutting Presumption

[a] Declaration Signed in 1997 or Later

With respect to voluntary declarations signed on or after January 1, 1997, a local child support agency, the child's mother or the man who signed the declaration as the child's father may file a notice of motion for genetic tests in an action to determine the existence or nonexistence of the father and child relationship pursuant to Fam. Code § 7630, or in an action to establish an order for child custody, visitation, or child support based on the voluntary declaration of paternity. The notice of motion must be filed within two years of the child's date of birth [Fam. Code § 7575(b)(3)(A); see In re J.L. (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 1010, 1019-1025, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 27 (man claiming to be child's biological father had standing under Fam. Code § 7575(b)(3)(A) to seek paternity test and to move to set aside voluntary declaration of paternity filed by mother's boyfriend); see also § 412.31[2]]. The local child support agency's authority to file a motion for genetic tests is limited to those circumstances in which there is a conflict between a voluntary acknowledgement of paternity or a conflict between two or more voluntary acknowledgements of paternity [Fam. Code § 7575(b)(3)(B)]. The notice of motion must be supported by a declaration under oath submitted by the moving party, stating the factual basis for putting the issue of paternity before the court [Fam. Code § 7575(b)(4)].

If a court finds that the conclusions of all of the experts based on the results of genetic tests performed pursuant to Fam. Code § 7550 et seq. are that the man who signed the voluntary declaration of paternity is not the child's father, the court may set aside the declaration, unless the court determines that denial of the action to set aside the voluntary declaration of paternity is in the best interest of the child, after consideration of all of the following factors [Fam. Code § 7575(b)(1); see In re William K. (2008) 161 Cal. App. 4th 1, 10-11, 73 Cal. Rptr. 3d 737 (court refused to set aside voluntary declaration of paternity filed by one man on motion of another man who was shown by genetic testing to be child's biological father when court found that setting aside declaration was not in child's best interests and that the biological father was not a presumed father because he had done nothing to assert his parental responsibilities or to secure child's custody)]:

(A) The age of the child.

(B) The length of time since the execution of the voluntary declaration of paternity by the man who signed the voluntary declaration.

(C) The nature, duration, and quality of any relationship between the man who signed the voluntary declaration and the child, including the duration and frequency of any time periods during which the child and the man who signed the voluntary declaration resided in the same household or enjoyed a parent-child relationship.

(D) The request of the man who signed the voluntary declaration that the parent-child relationship continue.

(E) Notice by the biological father of the child that he does not oppose preservation of the relationship between the man who signed the voluntary declaration and the child.

(F) The benefit or detriment to the child in establishing the biological parentage of the child.

(G) Whether the conduct of the man who signed the voluntary declaration has impaired the ability to ascertain the identity of, or get support from, the biological father.

(H) Additional factors deemed by the court to be relevant to its determination of the best interest of the child.

If the court denies the action, the court must state on the record the basis for the denial of the action and any supporting facts [Fam. Code § 7575(b)(2)].

[b] Pre-1997 Declarations

Special provisions apply to declarations signed on or before December 31, 1996. The "conclusive" presumption that a man executing such a declaration is the child's father may be rebutted by requesting blood or genetic tests. The notice of motion for these tests must be supported by a declaration under oath submitted by the moving party, stating the factual basis for placing the issue of paternity before the court. The motion must be made within three years from the date of execution of the declaration by the attesting father or the attesting mother, whichever signature is later. The two-year statute of limitations specified in Fam. Code § 7541(b) is not applicable for purposes of this provision [Fam. Code § 7576(d)]. In any action to rebut the presumption, a voluntary declaration of paternity is admissible as evidence to determine the paternity of the child named in the declaration [Fam. Code § 7576(c)].

[8] Action or Motion to Set Aside Declaration

The mother, the man who signed the declaration, or a local child support agency may also file an action or motion to set aside the declaration on any of the grounds described in, and within the time limits specified by, Code Civ. Proc. § 473 [see County of Los Angeles v. Pattinson (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 1337, 1345-1346, 126 Cal. Rptr. 2d 350 (county has standing to bring motion to set aside voluntary declaration)]. The man who signed the declaration must be made a party to any proceeding to set the voluntary declaration aside [County of Los Angeles v. Pattinson (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 1337, 1343-1345, 126 Cal. Rptr. 2d 350] . If the action or motion is based on fraud or perjury, the act must have induced the defrauded parent to sign the declaration [Fam. Code § 7575(c)(1)]. If the action or motion to set aside a judgment is required to be filed within a specified time period under Code Civ. Proc. § 473, the period within which the action or motion to set aside a voluntary declaration of paternity must be filed will commence on the date that the court makes an initial order for custody, visitation, or child support based on a voluntary declaration of paternity [Fam. Code § 7575(c)(1)].

Hearing procedures to set aside a voluntary declaration of paternity are described in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.350. Under that rule, a person who has signed a voluntary declaration of paternity and who seeks to set it aside must file a completed Judicial Council form of Request for Hearing and Application to Set Aside Voluntary Declaration of Paternity [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.350(b); see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-280; see § 412.143]. The court clerk, on receipt of the completed form, must assign a case number and schedule a court date, which must be no earlier than 31 days after the filing date, and no later than 45 days after the filing date [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.350(c)]. The moving party must serve, either by personal service or mail, the request for hearing and a blank Judicial Council form of Responsive Declaration to Application to Set Aside Voluntary Declaration of Paternity on the other person who signed the paternity declaration [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.350(d); see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-285; see § 412.144]. If a local child support agency is providing services in the case, the moving party must also serve a copy of the request for hearing on the agency [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.350(d)]. A court's decision on the set aside action or motion is required to be set forth on the Judicial Council form of Order After Hearing on Motion to Set Aside Voluntary Declaration of Paternity. If the court orders the declaration set aside, the court clerk must mail a copy of the order to the Department of Child Support Services in order to ensure that the paternity declaration is purged from the records [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.350(e); see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-290; see § 412.145].

The parent seeking to set aside the declaration has the burden of proof [Fam. Code § 7575(c)(2)]. Any order for custody, visitation, or child support remains in effect until the court determines that the declaration should be set aside, subject to the court's power to modify these orders as otherwise provided by law [Fam. Code § 7575(c)(3)].

If the declaration is thus set aside (pursuant to Family Code Section 7575(c)(1)), the court must order the mother, child, and alleged father to submit to blood or genetic tests. If it finds that the conclusions of all the experts, as disclosed by the evidence based on the blood or genetic tests, are that the alleged father is not the child's father, it must resolve the question of paternity accordingly. If the alleged father is not excluded as a possible father, the court must resolve the question of paternity as otherwise provided by law. If the alleged father is ultimately determined to be the child's father, any child support that accrued under an order based on the declaration remains due and owing [Fam. Code § 7575(c)(5)]. These statutory provisions do not restrict a court from acting as a court of equity [Fam. Code § 7575(c)(4)]. Note that pleadings in any such subsequent proceedings that involve the parties and child named in a voluntary declaration of paternity must be filed in the court file that was initiated by the filing of the Request for Hearing and Application to Set Aside Voluntary Declaration of Paternity [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.350(f)].

[9] Limits on Health Care Provider Liability

No health care provider is subject to any civil, criminal, or administrative liability for any negligent act or omission relative to the accuracy of the information provided, or for filing a declaration of paternity with the appropriate state or local agencies [Fam. Code § 7571(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidenceInferences & PresumptionsGeneral OverviewEvidenceInferences & PresumptionsRebuttal of PresumptionsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityFather's AcknowledgmentFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityUniform Parentage ActFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityPresumptionsGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityPresumptionsRebuttals

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Presumptions of Paternity

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.35

§ 412.35 Child Conceived by Artificial Insemination

If a woman is artificially inseminated with the semen of a man who is not her husband, her husband is treated in law as the natural father of the child thereby conceived [Fam. Code § 7613(a)]. The objective of the artificial insemination statute is to establish two legal parents for the child [Alexandria S. v. Pacific Fertility Medical Center, Inc. (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 110, 126, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 23] . The artificial insemination must have been conducted under the supervision of a licensed physician and surgeon and with the consent of the woman's husband [Fam. Code § 7613(a)]. As discussed futher below, the husband's written consent is sufficient to establish his paternity, even if his signature on the consent form has not been certified [AlexandriaS. v. Pacific Fertility Medical Center, Inc. (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 110, 126, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 23] .

The donor of semen provided to a licensed physician or to a licensed sperm bank for use in artificial insemination or in vitro fertilization of a woman other than the donor's wife is treated as if he were not the natural father of the child [Fam. Code § 7613(b)]. To be a donor under section 7613(b), a man must provide semen to a physician to artificially inseminate a woman other than his wife. If the man provides his semen for the exclusive use of himself and his wife, section 7613(b) does not apply to exclude him as the child's natural father [Robert B. v. Susan B. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1109, 1113-1114, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 785] .

These rules operate as a conclusive presumption of the husband's and not the donor's paternity of a child born as a result of artificial insemination if the conditions are met [see Fam. Code § 7541(e)(2),(3) (rebuttal of husband's paternity by blood test evidence does not apply to artificial insemination)].

The husband's consent must be in writing and signed by both the husband and wife [Fam. Code § 7613(a)]. The physician and surgeon must certify the signatures and the date of the insemination and retain the husband's consent as part of the medical record. The consent must be kept confidential in a sealed file. However, the physician's failure to follow these procedures does not affect the father-child relationship [Fam. Code § 7613(a); Alexandria S. v. Pacific Fertility Medical Center, Inc. (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 110, 126, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 23 ; cf. Shin v. Kong (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 498, 504-506, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 304 (husband does not have tort cause of action against his former wife's physician who performed artificial insemination without husband's consent; Fam. Code § 7613 is inapplicable because it is limited to determination of identity of child's father, and does not address physician's liability)]. Certification of the signatures is immaterial to the issue of consent of the husband, but may be relevant if a party claims a signature is not authentic [Alexandria S. v. Pacific Fertility Medical Center, Inc. (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 110, 126, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 23] . All papers and records pertaining to the insemination, whether part of the permanent record of a court or held by the supervising physician or elsewhere, are subject to inspection only by order of the court on good cause shown [Fam. Code § 7613(a); see Johnson v. Superior Court (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 1050, 1067-1069, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 864 (parentswere entitled to order compelling sperm donor's deposition and to order for production of donor's medical records in parents' action against sperm bank arising from alleged transmission of serious disease to child from sperm donor)].

The requirements that the semen be donated to and the insemination be under the supervision of a licensed physician and surgeon must be met. If the semen is provided and the woman inseminated privately, the presumption does not operate and the donor may establish his paternity of the child [Jhordan C. v. Mary K. (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 386, 391-397, 224 Cal. Rptr 530 (rejecting constitutional challenge to physician requirement)].

For discussion of the artificial insemination of an unmarried woman, see*§ 412.13[3]*. For discussion of the applicability of Fam. Code § 7613 to surrogacy birth arrangements in which a surrogate mother is artificially inseminated with the sperm of the intended father, see Ch. 12, Adoptions: Nature and Effect .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacySurrogacyAssisted Reproduction Parentage

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Presumptions of Paternity

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 412.36- 412.49

[Reserved]

§§ 412.36[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Blood and Genetic Testing for Parentage

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.50

§ 412.50 Order for Blood/Genetic Tests

[1] Governing Law

The Uniform Act on Blood Tests to Determine Paternity is codified in California in Fam. Code § 7550 et seq. and governs the use of scientific tests to determine parentage. Operative January 1, 1998, except for the name of the Act, which remains the same, the provisions of the Act now refer to the broad term "genetic," rather than simply, "blood," testing [see, e.g., Fam. Code § 7551]. "Genetic tests" means any genetic test that is generally acknowledged as reliable by accreditation bodies designated by the United States Secretary of Health and Human Services [Fam. Code § 7551].

[2] Court Order for Testing

In any civil action or proceeding in which paternity is a relevant fact, the court must order the mother, child, and alleged father to submit to genetic tests on the motion of any party to the action made at a time so as not to delay the proceedings unduly. Also, the court may order such tests on its own initiative, or on suggestion made by or on behalf of any person who is involved [Fam. Code § 7551].

The court may only order tests of the persons specifically mentioned in the statute; that is, the mother, the child, and the alleged father. Tests of other persons may not be ordered [William M. v. Superior Court (1990) 275 Cal. Rptr. 103 (in decision under predecessor statute, parents of deceased putative father not subject to order for blood tests); Estate of Sanders (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 462, 468, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 536 (mothers of deceased putative father's other children not subject to order for blood tests); see Fam. Code § 7551].

Taken in its context, the term "alleged father" as used in the statute appears to mean the man actually charged by the petition or complaint with being the father of the child, rather than any other man later injected into the case as one with whom the mother had sexual intercourse during the period of possible conception. On the other hand, the statutes do not expressly exclude tests of other men, and that evidence is therefore admissible [Huntingdon v. Crowley (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 647, 652, 51 Cal. Rptr. 254, 414 P.2d 382 (construing substantively identical predecessor statute)].

The request for an order for genetic tests must be made within a reasonable time before the hearing. What constitutes a reasonable time is left to the discretion of the trial court, which should take into consideration the facilities for examination. The requirement of early application for the test is intended to permit the results to become known before the trial. Early application also permits the taking of additional tests if the accuracy of the first test is questioned [Huntingdon v. Crowley (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 647, 651-652, 51 Cal. Rptr. 254, 414 P.2d 382] . In one case, by waiting until his petition for presumptive father status was denied and requesting genetic testing on appeal, a man waived the right to request genetic testing [In re Kiana A. (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 1109, 1118, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 669] .

For forms for use with regard to a motion for genetic testing, see§§ 412.136-412.138.

[3] Administrative Order by Local Child Support Agency

When support enforcement services are being provided by the local child support agency in a support enforcement action (see Ch. 259, Family Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Support Enforcement), the support agency may issue an administrative order requiring the mother, child, and alleged father to submit to genetic testing in any civil action or proceeding in which paternity is a relevant fact and the issue of paternity is contested [Fam. Code § 7558(a),(b)].

The order may be issued only if one of the following conditions exists [Fam. Code § 7558(b)]:

- The person alleging paternity has signed a statement under penalty of perjury that contains facts establishing a reasonable possibility of the requisite sexual conduct between the mother and the alleged father;

- The person denying paternity has signed a statement under penalty of perjury that contains facts establishing a reasonable possibility of the nonexistence of the requisite sexual contact between the parties;

- The alleged father has filed an answer in the action or proceeding and has requested that genetic tests be performed; or

- The mother and the alleged father agree, in writing, to submit to genetic tests.

The support agency may not order an individual to submit to genetic tests if that individual has been found to have good cause for failing to cooperate in the determination of paternity pursuant to statute [Fam. Code § 7558(c) (referring to Welf. & Inst. Code § 11477)].

The support agency must pay the costs of any genetic tests that the agency orders. The county may obtain a court order for reimbursement from the alleged father if paternity is established [Fam. Code § 7558(d)].

Any person who has been ordered by the support agency to submit to genetic tests may file a noticed motion with the court in the action or proceeding in which paternity is a relevant fact, seeking relief from the agency's order. The court must resolve the issue of whether genetic tests should be ordered as provided in Fam. Code § 7551 [Fam. Code § 7558(e)].

If a person refuses to submit to the tests after receiving the support agency's order and fails to seek the court's relief from the order either before the scheduled tests or within 10 days after the tests are scheduled, the court may resolve the question of paternity against that person or may enforce the support agency's order if the rights of others or the interest of justice so require [Fam. Code § 7558(e)]. The person's refusal to submit to the tests is admissible in evidence in any proceeding to determine paternity if a noticed motion for relief is not filed with the court within the timeframe specified. This rule does not apply if the person had good cause for failing to cooperate in determining paternity as provided by statute [Fam. Code § 7558(c),(e) (referring to Welf. & Inst. Code § 11477)].

If the original test result creates a rebuttable presumption of paternity under Fam. Code § 7555 and the result is contested, the support agency must order an additional test only on request of and advance payment by the contestant [Fam. Code § 7558(f);§ 412.30].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawChild SupportObligationsEnforcementGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceBlood TestsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceGenetic TestsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityPresumptionsGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityPresumptionsRebuttals

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Blood and Genetic Testing for Parentage

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.51

§ 412.51 Exclusionary and Inclusionary Functions; Probability of Paternity

Blood or genetic tests can conclusively exclude a particular person as the biological parent of the child [see Jackson v. Jackson (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 245, 248, 60 Cal. Rptr. 649, 430 P.2d 289 ; Everett v. Everett (1984) 150 Cal. App. 3d 1053, 1065, 201 Cal. Rptr. 351] . This function is called the exclusionary factor. However, blood or genetic testing cannot conclusively establish paternity [County of El Dorado v. Misura (1995) 33 Cal. App. 4th 73, 78, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 908] . The obverse of the exclusionary factor, sometimes referred to as the inclusionary result, is the finding that an individual cannot be excluded as the father of the child. Among those not excluded, blood or genetic testing yields a "probability of paternity" result, which is the statistical finding that there is a given numerical probability that the man is actually the child's father. The probability of paternity is expressed as a percent of 100 [see County of Sonoma v. Grant W. (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1439, 1446] . However, the probability of paternity must take into account the nongenetic or "soft" evidence in the case [see County of El Dorado v. Misura (1995) 33 Cal. App. 4th 73, 80, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 908 (explanation of how laboratories convert soft evidence into statistics based on number of mother's sexual partners during possible period of conception)]. Therefore, an expert is unqualified to state that any single figure is a man's probability of paternity because such a statement requires an estimation of the strength of the other evidence in the case, an estimation that the expert is in no better position to make than the trier of fact [County of El Dorado v. Misura (1995) 33 Cal. App. 4th 73, 81, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 908] . For further discussion of the relationship between scientific evidence and other evidence, see*§ 412.84[1]*.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidenceScientific EvidenceGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceGenetic Tests

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Blood and Genetic Testing for Parentage

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.52

§ 412.52 What Tests Must Be Ordered

[1] The Human Leukocyte Antigen (HLA) Test

There are many different kinds of scientific tests that have been used to determine paternity. The development of paternity testing technology as of 1984 is discussed in some detail in Everett v. Everett [see Everett v. Everett (1984) 150 Cal. App. 3d 1053, 1062-1075, 201 Cal. Rptr. 351 ; see also D Isputed Paternity Proceedings, chs. 5-8 (Matthew Bender)].

The Uniform Act on Blood Tests to Determine Paternity does not name any particular genetic test or specify which tests may be ordered but does define "genetic tests" as "any test that is generally acknowledged as reliable by accreditation bodies designated by the United States Secretary of Health and Human Services" [Fam. Code § 7551]. One test that has been scientifically and legally accepted, and that is most commonly used currently in California is blood test known as the Human Leukocyte Antigen (HLA) test [see Cramer v. Morrison (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 873, 877-878, 153 Cal. Rptr. 865 (HLA test briefly explained)] . This test must be ordered if a timely request is made by a party [Everett v. Everett (1984) 150 Cal. App. 3d 1053, 1066-1067, 201 Cal. Rptr. 351 ; County of Fresno v. Superior Court (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 133, 137, 138, 154 Cal. Rptr. 660 ; see § 412.50].

[2] Additional Blood Tests

The HLA test can exclude 78 percent of males wrongfully accused as fathers. When it is combined with six other blood group systems [see Everett v. Everett (1984) 150 Cal. App. 3d 1053, 1065, 201 Cal. Rptr. 351 (explaining blood grouping systems)], the exclusionary factor increasesto 93 percent, depending on racial distinctions and variations [County of Sonoma v. Grant W. (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1439, 1445-1446] . Therefore, the possibility that a man can be excluded as the father is increased if additional tests are performed; conversely, the failure of additional tests to result in exclusion increases the probability of paternity [see Everett v. Everett (1984) 150 Cal. App. 3d 1053, 1067, 201 Cal. Rptr. 351] .

Additional testing must be ordered by the court on proper motion absent extreme hardship [Everett v. Everett (1984) 150 Cal. App. 3d 1053, 1064, 201 Cal. Rptr. 351] . This is true whether the test is one that has obtained general scientific acceptance or one that has yet to be developed or fully accepted in the scientific community [Everett v. Everett (1984) 150 Cal. App. 3d 1053, 201 Cal. Rptr. 351 ; but see Fam. Code § 7551 (now providing that "genetic" tests that may be ordered means any genetic test that is generally acknowledged as reliable by accreditation bodies designated by Secretary of U.S. Health and Human Services)].

However, because of the number of possible tests that might be ordered, the court must strike a balance between the costs involved, the danger of harassment, the inconvenience to the parties on the one hand, and the increased ability to determine paternity based on the cumulative effect of the results from a number of tests on the other hand. If an objection is made to a request for a specific test, the party seeking the test must make a minimal showing that the probative value of the result will outweigh the financial burden and inconvenience to the party sought to be tested. If the showing is not made, the trial court may properly reject the request. Repeated requests for additional blood tests that are designed to annoy, harass, or embarrass a party, rather than to produce reliable scientific evidence, may also be denied by the court [Everett v. Everett (1984) 150 Cal. App. 3d 1053, 1067, 201 Cal. Rptr. 351] .

[3] DNA Testing

In the not-too-distant future, the HLA blood test may be supplanted by the DNA (deoxyribonucleic acid) typing process as the primary scientific tool to establish paternity. Some counties in California have already replaced the HLA tests with DNA tests for paternity determinations.

DNA typing is based on the principle that each individual (except for identical twins) has a unique configuration of DNA in virtually every nucleated cell in his or her body. Half of the DNA in these cells is inherited from each parent. In a paternity dispute, the identity of the mother is usually known. DNA is taken from the child, the mother, and the alleged father. If half of the child's DNA pattern matches the mother, the other half must match the alleged father for paternity to be possible [see In re Paternity of J.L.K. (1989) 151 Wis. 2d 566, 445 N.W. 2d 673, 674] .

If the alleged father does match half of the child's DNA, the frequency of the alleged parent's matching pattern is determined by reference to major racial group databases. Probability of paternity and paternity index calculations are then performed [see People v. Barney (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 798, 805, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 731] . The science of DNA testing is explained further in People v. Barney [People v. Barney (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 798, 806-810, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 731] , People v. Axell [People v. Axell (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 836, 844-848, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 411] , and in, D Isputed Paternity Proceedings, Ch. 13 (Matthew Bender).

Unlike the HLA test, DNA testing can be performed on any human tissue or fluid that contains cells with nuclei [see People v. Barney (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 798, 806, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 731 ; People v. Axell (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 836, 845 n.1, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 411] , not just on blood. However, it is commonly performed on blood. Note that amendments to the Uniform Act on Blood Tests to Determine Paternity, operative January, 1998, require "genetic testing," [Fam. Code § 7551] and while the amendments make no express reference to DNA testing, it appears likely that the Act requires the court to order DNA testing in a paternity action on a timely motion by a proper party [but see Estate of Sanders (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 462, 468-478, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 536 discussed in § 412.14 (post-mortem DNA testing may not be ordered in heirship proceeding)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidenceScientific EvidenceDNAFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceBlood TestsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceGenetic Tests

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Blood and Genetic Testing for Parentage

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.53

§ 412.53 Court-Appointed Expert Examiners

Under the Uniform Act on Blood Tests to Determine Paternity [Fam. Code § 7550 et seq.], the required "genetic tests" must be performed by a laboratory approved by an accreditation body that has been approved by the Secretary of the United States Department of Health and Human Services [Fam. Code § 7552]. This general statement of expert qualifications, operative January 1, 1998, replaced the provision that "experts qualified as examiners of blood types shall be appointed by the court" [See prior version of Fam. Code § 7552]. However, the operative section, Fam. Code § 7552, still provides that any party or person at whose suggestion the tests were ordered may demand that other experts, qualified as examiners of blood types, perform independent tests under order of the court, the results of which may be offered in evidence. The number and qualifications of the experts are determined by the court [Fam. Code § 7552].

Nothing in the Uniform Act prevents any party to the action from producing other expert evidence on blood tests [Fam. Code § 7557]. However, if the physician making the tests was not appointed by the court, the tests are not conclusive proof of nonpaternity [Lyons v. Scott (1960) 181 Cal. App. 2d 787, 788, 5 Cal. Rptr. 529] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidenceScientific EvidenceBlood & Bodily FluidsEvidenceTestimonyExpertsCourt-Appointed ExpertsGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceBlood Tests

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Blood and Genetic Testing for Parentage

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.54

§ 412.54 Blood/Genetic Test Results

[1] Service and Declaration of Custodian

A copy of the results of all genetic tests performed under Fam. Code § 7552 or Fam. Code § 7558 must be served on all parties, by any methodof service authorized under Code Civ. Proc. § 1010 et seq., except personal service, no later than twenty days before any hearing in which the test results may be admitted into evidence. The test results must be accompanied by a declaration under penalty of perjury of the custodian of records or other qualified employee of the laboratory that conducted the tests, stating in substance each of the following [Fam. Code § 7552.5(a)]:

(1) The declarant is the duly authorized custodian of the records or other qualified employee of the laboratory, and has authority to certify the records.

(2) A statement that establishes in detail the chain of custody of all genetic samples collected, including the date on which the sample was collected, the identity of each person from whom a genetic sample was collected, the identity of the person who performed or witnessed the collecting of the genetic samples and packaged them for transmission to the laboratory, the date on which the genetic samples were received by the laboratory, the identity of the person who unpacked the samples and forwarded them to the person who performed the laboratory analysis of the genetic sample, and the identification and qualifications of all persons who performed the laboratory analysis and published the results.

(3) A statement that establishes that the procedures used by the laboratory to conduct the tests for which the test results are attached are used in the laboratory's ordinary course of business to ensure accuracy and proper identification of genetic samples.

(4) The genetic test results were prepared at or near the time of completion of the genetic tests by personnel of the business qualified to perform genetic tests in the ordinary course of business.

If a genetic test reflects a paternity index of 100 or greater, the copy of the test results mailed to the parties must be accompanied with a voluntary declaration of paternity form and information prepared according to Fam. Code § 7572 [Fam. Code § 7552.5(d)].

[2] Objection to Admissibility

The fact that a particular genetic test must be ordered does not make its results automatically admissible as evidence. The results are still subject to the rules of evidence, and their admissibility depends on a showing of relevance and the laying of an adequate foundation in the forum of a pretrial evidentiary hearing [Everett v. Everett (1984) 150 Cal. App. 3d 1053, 1068, 201 Cal. Rptr. 351 ; cf. County of Alameda v. Risby (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 1425, 1428-1430, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 333 (stipulation to admissibility of blood tests not violative of public policy); § 412.54[3]].

However, the genetic test results must be admitted into evidence at the hearing or trial to establish paternity, without the need for foundation testimony of authenticity and accuracy, unless any party files a written objection to the test results with the court and serves it on all other parties. Filing and service must be accomplished no later than five days before the hearing or trial at which paternity is at issue [Fam. Code § 7552.5(b)]. If a written objection is filed and served within the specified time, the experts appointed by the court must be called by the court as witnesses to testify to their findings and are subject to cross-examination by the parties [Fam. Code § 7552.5(c)].

[3] Scientific Foundation

The standard for admissibility of evidence based on developing scientific technology in California is the Kelly-Frye test [Estate of Sanders (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 462, 476 n.18, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 536 ; see People v. Kelly (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 24, 130 Cal. Rptr. 144, 549 P.2d 1240 ; Frye v. United States (D.C. Cir. 1923) 293 F. 1013 ; see People v. Leahy (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 587, 591, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 663, 882 P.2d 321 (Kelly-Frye test reaffirmed)]. This test requires a preliminary showing of general acceptance of a new technology in the relevant scientific community; the witness furnishing the testimony must be properly qualified as an expert to give an opinion on the subject; and the proponent of the evidence must demonstrate that correct procedures were used in the particular case [People v. Kelly (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 24, 30, 130 Cal. Rptr. 144, 549 P.2d 1240] . The HLA test is well established under this standard [see County of Sonoma v. Grant W. (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1439, 1445-1446, 232 Cal. Rptr. 471] . If a particular test is admissible, the Uniform Act on Blood Tests to Determine Paternity makes the statistical probability of paternity admissible to show the probability of the alleged father's paternity [see Fam. Code § 7554(b)]. For further discussion, see*§ 412.52*.

To date, no California court has directly addressed the admissibility of DNA testing in the paternity context [cf. In re Paternity of J.L.K. (1989) 151 Wis. 2d 566, 445 N.W. 2d 673 (finding DNA testing admissible under state statute; no Frye foundational hearing required); Alexander v. Alexander (1988) 42 Ohio Misc. 2d 30, 34, 537 N.E. 2d 1310 (DNA tests admitted in heirship proceeding; judicial notice that accuracy and infallibility of DNA test are "nothing short of remarkable")]. One court of appeal has at least suggested that DNA testing has sufficiently advanced to be used in paternity proceedings, but, in the absence of legislative action, declined to apply it in an heirship proceeding brought by one alleging to be the child of the deceased [Estate of Sanders (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 462, 476, n. 18, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 536] . However, operative January 1, 1998, the Uniform Act requires "genetic testing" [Fam. Code § 7551], and while the Act makes no express reference to DNA testing, it seems highly probable--subject to further construction of this term by courts or clarification by statute--that DNA testing would be included within the ambit of the Act's permissible standard, namely, "any genetic test that is generally acknowledged asreliable by accreditation bodies designated by the United States Secretary of Health and Human Services" [Fam. Code § 7551].

Under preexisting case law, a defendant may stipulate to the admissibility of blood tests, even if not represented by counsel at the time of the stipulation. By so stipulating, the defendant waives any right to object to the admissibility of the test results under the Kelly-Frye test. However, the defendant may still present foundation evidence to attack the weight to be given to the test results [County of Alameda v. Risby (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 1425, 1428-1430, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 333] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidenceAuthenticationChain of CustodyEvidenceScientific EvidenceBlood & Bodily FluidsEvidenceScientific EvidenceDaubert StandardEvidenceScientific EvidenceDNAEvidenceTestimonyExpertsKelly-Frye ProcessFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceGenetic Tests

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Blood and Genetic Testing for Parentage

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.55

§ 412.55 Effect of Experts' Conclusions

If the court finds that the conclusions of all the experts, as disclosed by the evidence based on the tests, are that the alleged father is not the father of the child, the question of paternity must be resolved accordingly [Fam. Code § 7554(a)]. However, the case law has held that trier of fact cannot make a finding of paternity based solely on expert testimony and blood test results [County of El Dorado v. Misura (1995) 33 Cal. App. 4th 73, 79, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 908] . If the tests show a probability of paternity (see Exclusionary and Inclusionary Functions; Probability of Paternity), or if the experts disagree in their findings or conclusions, the question of the alleged father's paternity must be submitted on all the evidence [Fam. Code § 7554(b)]. The court has the discretion to exclude evidence if its probative value is substantially outweighed by the probability that its admission will require undue consumption of time or create substantial danger of undue prejudice, of confusing the issues, or of misleading the jury [Fam. Code § 7554(b); see Evid. Code. § 352].

The results of genetic tests may produce a paternity index of such significance so as to give rise to a rebuttable presumption that the man tested is the father of the child [see Fam. Code § 7555]. This presumption is discussed further in § 412.33.

The statistical result of the test, expressed as the probability of paternity in relation to 100 percent (see Exclusionary and Inclusionary Functions; Probability of Paternity, above) may not be admitted through the testimony of a laboratory technologist whose knowledge is limited to blood typing [Alinda V. v. Alfredo V. (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 98, 101, 177 Cal. Rptr. 839 ; see County of El Dorado v. Misura (1995) 33 Cal. App. 4th 73, 81] . For discussion of the other evidence that may be presented in a paternity action, see*§ 412.84*.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidenceRelevanceConfusion, Prejudice & Waste of TimeFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceBlood TestsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceGenetic Tests

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Blood and Genetic Testing for Parentage

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.56

§ 412.56 Refusal to Comply With Order for Tests

If a party refuses to submit to court-ordered genetic tests, the court may resolve the question of paternity against that party or enforce its order if the rights of others and the interests of justice so require [Fam. Code § 7551; see County of El Dorado v. Schneider (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1263, 1269-1283, 237 Cal. Rptr. 51 (predecessor statute found constitutional against father's contentions that it violated due process and right to trial by jury)]. In addition, a party's refusal to submit to court-ordered genetic tests is admissible in evidence in any proceeding to determine paternity [Fam. Code § 7551].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawPaternity & SurrogacyGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceGenetic Tests

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Blood and Genetic Testing for Parentage

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.57

§ 412.57 Compensation of Experts

The compensation of each expert witness appointed by the court must be fixed at a reasonable amount and paid as the court orders. The court may order that it be paid by the parties in such proportions and at such times as it prescribes, or that the proportion of any party be paid by the county and that, after payment by the parties or the county or both, all or part or none of it be taxed as costs in the action [Fam. Code § 7553].

If the defendant is indigent and the child and mother are receiving public assistance, the compensation of the appointed experts must be fixed by the court and ordered paid by the county. The court cannot order prepayment by the indigent because a required prepayment could lead to serious deprivation of defenses available to the indigent defendant. The costs of the test may be later taxable to either party or the county, as discussed above [Michael B. v. Superior Court (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 1006, 1010, 150 Cal. Rptr. 586 ; see also Little v. Streater (1981) 452 U.S. 1, 9-17, 101 S. Ct. 2202, 68 L. Ed. 2d 627] .

Fees of experts not appointed by the court, but called by the parties, are paid by the party calling them, and in such case, only ordinary witness fees may be taxed as costs in the action [Fam. Code § 7557].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesCosts & Attorney FeesCostsWitnessesEvidenceTestimonyExpertsCourt-Appointed ExpertsGeneral OverviewEvidenceTestimonyExpertsCourt-Appointed ExpertsCompensation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Blood and Genetic Testing for Parentage

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.58

§ 412.58 Effect of Stipulations

The parties may stipulate as to the taking of blood/genetic tests to avoid the necessity of a motion. However, a stipulation that the conclusions of two out of three experts will be binding on the court is not to be given effect without prior court approval, even if it is agreed to by the child's guardian ad litem. Such a stipulation has the effect of depriving the child of his or her day in court, and therefore, is beyond the power of the guardian ad litem to make. It also deprives the court of jurisdiction given to it by law to admit all evidence applicable to a cause and to render judgment accordingly [Berry v. Chaplin (1946) 74 Cal. App. 2d 652, 657-660, 169 P.2d 442 ; see Robinson v. Wilson (1974) 44 Cal. App. 3d 92, 100-106, 118 Cal. Rptr. 569 (discussing Berry and cases cited therein)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceBlood TestsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceGenetic Tests

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Blood and Genetic Testing for Parentage

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 412.59- 412.69

[Reserved]

§§ 412.59[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. The Parentage Action

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.70

§ 412.70 Who May Bring Paternity Action

[1] For Child With Presumed Father

An action to declare the existence of the father-child relationship based on a presumption that arises from the parents' marriage or attempted marriage [see Fam. Code § 7611(a)-(c), discussed in § 412.30 et seq.] may be brought at any time by the child, the child's natural mother, the presumed father, an adoption agency to whom the child has been relinquished, or a prospective adoptive parent of the child [Fam. Code § 7630(a)(1)]. Those same parties may also bring an action to declare the nonexistence of the father-child relationship based on those presumptions, but only within a reasonable time after obtaining knowledge of the relevant facts. If the presumption is rebutted, paternity of the child by another man may be determined in the same action if the other man has been made a party [Fam. Code § 7630(a)(2); see Robert J. v. Leslie M. (1997) 51 Cal. App. 4th 1642, 1646, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 905 (under Fam. Code § 7630(a)(2), only presumed father may seek declaration of nonpaternity); but see Said v. Jegan (2007) 146 Cal. App. 4th 1375, 1382-1385, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 661 (man's status as alleged father, because he was named as father on child's birth certificate, gives him standing to bring action to determine nonexistence of paternity; specifically disagreeing with Robert J. v. Leslie M.)].

The child's mother has standing to claim that a man is the child's presumed father under Fam. Code § 7611(c) or*(d)*, even if the man is not a party to the action [Gabriel P. v. Suedi D. (2006) 141 Cal. App. 4th 850, 862, 46 Cal. Rptr. 3d 437] . A man who is not the child's presumed father through marriage lacks standing to bring a paternity action to challenge the presumed father status of the birth mother's husband under Fam. Code § 7611(c) [Gabriel P. v. Suedi D. (2006) 141 Cal. App. 4th 850, 858, 46 Cal. Rptr. 3d 437] .

Any interested party may bring an action for the purpose of determining the existence or nonexistence of the father-child relationship presumed under Fam. Code § 7611(d), which involves receipt of the child into the father's home and acknowledgment of paternity [Fam. Code § 7630(b); Brian C. v. Ginger K. (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 1198, 1221, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 294 ; see discussion in § 412.32[4]]. Thus, for example, when a child was not "born into" an "extant marital family" and the biological father, mother, and child lived as a family for approximately one year after the child's birth, the biological father had attained presumed father status on the basis of "receiving the child into the father's home," and therefore had statutory standing under Fam. Code § 7630(b) to bring an action to establish his paternity of the child [Brian C. v. Ginger K. (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 1198, 1221, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 294] . If the mother has placed the child for adoption, a man who alleges that he, rather than the presumed father, is the father of the child may bring an action for the purpose of declaring that he is the natural father of the child [Fam. Code § 7631 (inapplicable in case of presumption arising from marriage and cohabitation under Fam. Code § 7540)]. Paternity actions in the context of adoption proceedings are discussed further in Ch. 12A, Adoptions: Termination of Parental Rights .

Any interested party may bring an action at any time for the purpose of determining the existence or nonexistence of the father and child relationship presumed under Fam. Code § 7611(f), which involves a child conceived with the man's genetic material and in utero after the man's death [Fam. Code § 7630(b); see Prob. Code § 249.5 (prescribing conditions under which presumption arises)].

Except in the situations discussed above, a man who alleges that he and not the presumed father is the actual father of the child has no statutory standing to bring a paternity action under the UPA for a declaration of his own paternity [see Michael M. v. Giovanna F. (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1272, 1278, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 460] . However, this limitation on standing has been found to be constitutionally inadequate on some facts. An unwed biological father who attempts to create a relationship with his child promptly on the child's conception or birth has a constitutionally protected interest in that relationship [Adoption of Kelsey S. (1992) 1 Cal. 4th 816, 838, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615, 823 P.2d 1216 ; In re J.L. (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 1010, 1023-1025, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 27 ; Gabriel P. v. Suedi D. (2006) 141 Cal. App. 4th 850, 859-860, 46 Cal. Rptr. 3d 437 ; In re Baby Boy V. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 1108, 1118, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 198 ; Michael M. v. Giovanna F. (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1272, 1278-1280, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 460 ; but see Dawn D. v. Superior Court (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 932, 937-938, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 871, 952 P.2d 1139 (unwed, alleged biological father who was not presumed father lacked standing to rebut presumption arising from birth of child during marriage, and had no due process right to establish personal relationship with child)]. If the child has not been placed for adoption but is being reared in an existing family unit, the alleged biological father's rights must be balanced against the interests of the family and the state in preserving family integrity. If the child is conceived by a married woman who is cohabiting with her husband at the time of the child's conception, the presumption of Fam. Code § 7540 (that the husband is the father of the child) outweighs the rights of another man who alleges that he is actually the father, and a bar to standing is appropriate [see Michael M. v. Giovanna F. (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1272, 1282-1284, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 460 ; see also cases construing constitutionality of this presumption, discussed in § 412.31[3]]. However, if the mother marries another man after conception, it is the presumption of Fam. Code § 7611(a) that applies (husband is father of child born during marriage). The husband is in the same position as any stepfather, being married to a woman who has had children by another man. This common situation offends no public policy that would protect the marriage from interference by the actual parent. In this case, the balance swings the other way, and the alleged biological father may not be denied standing to bring an action to establish his paternity and right to a parent-child relationship [Michael M. v. Giovanna F. (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1272, 1284-1285, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 460] .

By contrast, an unwed, alleged biological father who is not a presumed father may not seek to rebut the presumption of Fam. Code § 7611(a) (husband is father of child born during marriage) when a child is born to a married woman who remains married both when the child is conceived and when it is born, and who lives with the alleged father only for a matter of weeks, even if conception occurs during that interval andthe man later desires to establish a relationship with the child. In such a circumstance,the alleged father has neither legal standing nor any constitutionally protected due process "liberty" interest in establishing a relationship with the child, despite his desire to do so [Dawn D. v. Superior Court (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 932, 942-944, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 871, 952 P.2d 1139 ; but cf. Brian C. v. Ginger K. (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 1198, 1221, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 294 (alleged biological father who was presumed father based on receipt of child into home had standing to establish paternity, despite facts that child's mother cohabited with husband at time of child's conception and remained married to him)].

[2] For Child With No Presumed Father

An action to determine the existence of the father-child relationship with respect to a child who has no presumed father (see Part B) or whose presumed father is deceased may be brought by the following [Fam. Code § 7630(c)]:

- The child or personal representative of the child;
- The state Department of Child Support Services;
- The mother or the personal representative or parent of the mother if the mother has died or is a minor; or
- A man alleged or alleging himself to be the father, or the personal representative or a parent of the alleged father if the alleged father has died or is a minor [see, e.g., Librers v. Black (2005) 129 Cal. App. 4th 114, 124-127, 28 Cal. Rptr. 3d 188 (mother's live-in boyfriend had standing under Fam. Code § 7630 to bring paternity proceeding, based on presumption that he was child's natural father, which was established by his receipt of child into his home and his openly holding her out as his natural child; but see Lisa I. v. Superior Court (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 605, 610-611, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 927 (man's claim that he is child's biological father is insufficient to give him statutory standing under Fam. Code § 7630 to establish his paternity when he does not qualify as a presumed father under any provision of Fam. Code § 7611)].

A party to an assisted reproductive agreement may bring an action at any time to establish a parent-child relationship consistent with the intent expressed in that agreement [Fam. Code § 7630(e)]. For purposes of this provision, an "assisted reproduction agreement" means a written contract that includes a person who intends to be the legal parent of a child or children born through assisted reproduction and that defines the terms of the relationship between the parties to the contract [Fam. Code § 7606(b)].

The action must be consolidated with a proceeding under Fam. Code § 7662 (termination of parental rights of alleged father over child who is subject of adoption proceeding) [Fam. Code § 7630(d)(2)]. One court has construed this language to permit termination of parental rights under Fam. Code § 7630(c), even if there is no adoption proceeding pending and no proceeding has been filed for termination of parental rights under Fam. Code § 7662 [In re Shereece B. (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 613, 621, 282 Cal. Rptr. 430 (decided under predecessor statute)]. The parental rights of the alleged natural father are determined as set forth in Fam. Code § 7664. The consolidated action must be heard in the court in which the termination proceeding is filed, unless the court in which the paternity action is filed finds, by clear and convincing evidence, that transferring the action to the other court poses a substantial hardship to the petitioner. Mere inconvenience does not constitute a sufficient basis for a finding of substantial hardship. If the court determines there is a substantial hardship, the consolidated action must be heard in the court in which the paternity action is filed [Fam. Code § 7630(d)(3)]. For further discussion of termination of parental rights under the UPA, see Ch. 12A, Adoptions: Termination of Parental Rights .

If any prospective adoptive parent who has physical custody of the child, or any licensed California adoption agency that has legal custody of the child, has not been joined as a party to an action to determine the existence of a father-child relationship, or an action for custody by the alleged natural father, the court must join the prospective adoptive parent or licensed California adoption agency as a party on application or on its own motion, without the necessity of a motion for joinder [Fam. Code § 7630(e)(1)].

If a man brings an action to determine paternity and custody of a child who he has reason to believe is in the physical or legal custody of an adoption agency, or of one or more persons other than the child's mother who are prospective adoptive parents, then he must serve his entire pleading on and give notice of all proceedings to the adoption agency or the prospective adoptive parents, or both [Fam. Code § 7630(e)(2)].

If a child has no presumed father when the action is brought by a man alleging himself to be the father, the mother's marriage to another man before the child is born does not require that the action be dismissed [see Fam. Code § 7633 (action may be brought before birth of child); see also § 412.73]. However, the rebuttable presumption that a child born during the marriage is the child of the husband [Fam. Code § 7611(a)] then attaches, and the plaintiff is required to carry the burden of rebutting the presumption [Fuss v. Superior Court (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 556, 561-563, 279 Cal. Rptr. 46] .

[3] Local Child Support Agency

The local child support agency may bring an action under the UPA to determine the existence or nonexistence of the father-child relationship in any case in which it believes the action to be appropriate [Fam. Code § 7634]. The agency might proceed, for example, in a case of criminal nonsupport for a child. The responsible support agency is required to take action to establish, modify, and enforce child support orders when a child is receiving public assitance, in the context of which a final determination of parentage may be made as an incident to obtaining an order for support [see Fam. Code §§ 17400(a), 17404(a)]. Further, in any action or proceeding brought by a local child support agency to establish parentage, the court must enter a judgment establishing parentage if the parties file a written stipulation that is accompanied by a written advisement and waiver of rights signed by the defendant [Fam. Code § 17414]. A judgment establishing paternity entered in such an action is determinative of the paternity issue. Parties to the litigation and those in privity with them areprecluded by the principles of res judicata and collateral estoppel from relitigating the issue [see Robert J. v. Leslie M. (1997) 51 Cal. App. 4th 1642, 1647-1648, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 905] . Once paternity has been established by a judgment, the public policies of maintaining parent-child relationships and ensuring the finality of paternity judgments have been held significantly important to preclude persons, other than the child, who were not parties or privies to the paternity action, from relitigating the paternity issue [see Guardianship of Claralyn S. (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 81, 85, 195 Cal. Rptr. 646] .

An action brought by the responsible child support agency for the support of a minor child may be prosecuted in the name of the county on behalf of the minor [Fam. Code § 17406(a)]. However, the support agency represents the public interest in bringing an action under the Uniform Parentage Act. No attorney-client relationship is created between the agency and any person (such as the mother or child) by virtue of the acts of the agency in carrying out the statutory duties [Fam. Code § 17406]. For further discussion of actions brought by the local child support agencies, see Ch. 259, Family Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Support Enforcement .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJusticiabilityStandingGeneral OverviewEvidenceInferences & PresumptionsGeneral OverviewEvidenceInferences & PresumptionsRebuttal of PresumptionsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityUniform Parentage ActFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityPresumptionsGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityPresumptionsRebuttals

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. The Parentage Action

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.71

§ 412.71 Other Parties to Action

[1] Child Whose Parentage Is at Issue

By statute, a child 12 years of age or older must be made a party to the action [Fam. Code § 7635(a)]. Therefore, if a child who is 12 or older is not joined, the failure to join the indispensable party deprives the court of jurisdiction, and a judgment made under these circumstances is void [Perez v. Department of Health (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 923, 927, 138 Cal. Rptr. 32] .

Joinder is not mandatory for a child under 12 years of age [Fam. Code § 7635(a)]. However, the subsequent judgment may not be res judicata with regard to the child [County of Shasta v. Caruthers (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1838, 1843-1844, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 18 ; see Ruddock v. Ohls (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 271, 276-277, 154 Cal. Rptr. 87 , discussed in § 412.72; see also Weir v. Ferreira (Estate of Kelm) (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 1509, 1516, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 33 (if parentage determination was made as part of marital dissolution, it may be challenged by subject child)]. Therefore, consideration should always be given to making the child a party regardless of the nonmandatory language [compare Fam. Code § 7570(a) (Legislature's declaration of policy favoring child's right to know who is actual biological father) with Comino v. Kelley (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 678, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 728 (in which judgment of paternity was entered despite absence of any scientific evidence of paternity)]. One court has gone so far as to question whether a child's interests can ever be adequately represented if the child is not a party to the action [County of Shasta v. Caruthers (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1838, 1847, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 18] .

[2] Other Parties

The natural mother, each man presumed to be the father under Fam. Code § 7611, and each man alleged to be the natural father may be made parties to a paternity action, and must be given notice of the action and an opportunity to be heard [Fam. Code § 7635(b)]. The court has discretion to align the parties as plaintiffs and defendants [Fam. Code § 7635(c)].

Whether the provision permitting any alleged natural father to be made a party authorizes the defendant in a paternity action brought by the mother or child or both to file a cross-complaint against another man alleging that man to be the father is not clear. Under prior law, it was held that such a cross-complaint was improper because the defendant had no cause of action against the other man [Alexander v. Superior Court (1959) 170 Cal. App. 2d 54, 56-57, 338 P.2d 502] .

In addition to the potential parties discussed above, de facto parents are proper parties to paternity actions [Perez v. Department of Health (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 923, 926-927, 138 Cal. Rptr. 32 ; see also In re Reyna (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 288, 305, 126 Cal. Rptr. 138] . A "de facto parent" is a person who, on a day-to-day basis, assumes the role of parent, seeking to fulfill both the child's physical needs and his or her psychological need for affection and care [In re B.G. (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 679, 692 n.18, 114 Cal. Rptr. 444, 523 P.2d 244 ; Perez v. Department of Health (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 923, 926, 138 Cal. Rptr. 32] .

In any proceeding in which child support is at issue, a county that has provided financial assistance to a custodial parent is an indispensable party [In re Marriage of Mena (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 12, 19, 260 Cal. Rptr. 314 ; In re Marriage of Lugo (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 427, 430, 432-433, 217 Cal. Rptr. 74 ; see Fam. Code § 7637 (support orders in paternity judgment)]. For a discussion of support orders in general, see Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support . For a discussion of the parties to a paternity action brought by the district attorney or other child support agency, see Ch. 259, Family Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Support Enforcement .

The parents of a deceased alleged father may not be made parties defendant to a paternity action [William M. v. Superior Court (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 447, 451-452, 275 Cal. Rptr. 103] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePartiesJoinderIndispensable PartiesFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceGeneral OverviewPublic Health & Welfare LawSocial SecurityAssistance to FamiliesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. The Parentage Action

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.72

§ 412.72 Effect of Prior Agreement of Parents or Judgment of Nonpaternity

A child has rights independent of the mother to establish a parent-child relationship with the father and to enforce the father's duty of support [County of Shasta v. Caruthers (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1838, 1841, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 18] . Therefore, the UPA provides that regardless of its terms, an agreement between an alleged or presumed father and the mother or child does not bar an action under the Uniform Parentage Act to establish the existence or nonexistence of a parent-child relationship [Fam. Code § 7632].

The interests of a parent in proving paternity may be, but are not necessarily coextensive with the interests of a child to have paternity determined and child support provided. Therefore, a prior judgment of nonpaternity, or a prior dismissal with prejudice, is not necessarily res judicata with regard to a child who was not a party to the prior action [County of Shasta v. Caruthers (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1838, 1841-1849, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 18 (agreement effected by dismissal with prejudice of UPA action does not bar child's rights and subsequent paternity action initiated by district attorney under Welfare and Institutions Code); Ruddock v. Ohls (1979) 91 Cal.App. 3d 271, 277-279, 154 Cal. Rptr. 87 (involving judgment of nonpaternity in dissolution proceeding); Everett v. Everett (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 65, 69, 129 Cal. Rptr. 8 (stipulated judgment under prior paternity law)]. The person asserting the binding effect of the judgment has the burden of showing that the child was a party to the action or that the child's interests were adequately advanced and protected in the prior proceeding [Ruddock v. Ohls (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 271, 277-279, 154 Cal. Rptr. 87 ; Everett v. Everett (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 65, 69, 129 Cal. Rptr. 8] .

A minor's paternity claim is not a claim that may be compromised by the minor's parents. Therefore, a court-approved compromise between the alleged father and the minor's mother is not a bar to a later action to establish paternity [Ernest P. v. Superior Court (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 234, 236-238, 168 Cal. Rptr. 438 (involving release of alleged father from all claims relating to paternity of minor in exchange for one-time cash payment); but see Everett v. Everett (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 65, 69, 129 Cal. Rptr. 8 (dicta that court approval would have cured defect in judgment of nonpaternity entered in action to which child was not party)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawChild SupportObligationsEnforcementGeneral OverviewFamily LawParental Duties & RightsDutiesGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityUniform Parentage ActFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityDefensesRes Judicata

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. The Parentage Action

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.73

§ 412.73 When Action May Be Brought

An action to declare the existence or nonexistence of a father-child relationship may be brought before the birth of the child [Fam. Code § 7633; see Civ. Code § 43.1 (child conceived but not yet born deemed existing person as necessary to protect its interests in event of its subsequent birth)]. An order or judgment may be entered in that action before the child's birth, but enforcement of that order or judgment is stayed until the child's birth [Fam. Code § 7633].

An action to declare the existence of a presumed father-child relationship after the birth of the child may be brought at any time [Fam. Code § 7630(a)(1)], but an action to declare the nonexistence of the relationship may only be brought within a reasonable time after obtaining knowledge of the relevant facts [Fam. Code § 7630(a)(2); see 42 U.S.C. § 666(a)(5)(A) (federal law effectively prohibits states from imposing limitation period before child reaches age 18)]. There are no express statutory limitations on when an action to declare the existence or nonexistence of the mother-child relationship may be brought, but the above rules probably apply by analogy [see Fam. Code § 7650 (insofar as practical, father-child rules apply to mother-child relationship)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityDefensesStatutes of Limitations

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. The Parentage Action

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.74

§ 412.74 Jurisdiction and Venue

[1] Subject-Matter Jurisdiction and Venue

Jurisdiction of any proceeding under the Family Code is in the superior court [Fam. Code § 200]. An action under the Uniform Parentage Act must be brought in any county in which the child resides or is found, in which a licensed California adoption agency maintains an office if that agency brings the action, or if the father is deceased, in any county in which proceedings for probate of his estate have been or could be commenced [Fam. Code § 7620(b)].

Rules for venue for paternity actions brought as part of a support enforcement proceeding by a child support agency (see Ch. 259, Family Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Support Enforcement) are set forth in Fam. Code § 17400(n) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 394 (no right to change of venue)].

Jurisdiction of misdemeanor criminal actions for nonsupport under Penal Code § 270 is in the superior court of the county within which the actions giving rise to the charge were committed [Penal Code § 1462.2]. It has been held that the fact that parentage is an issue that may have to be determined in such a case does not deprive these courts of their jurisdiction [In re Clarke (1957) 149 Cal. App. 2d 802, 808, 309 P.2d 142 ; see Lyons v. Municipal Court (1977) 75 Cal. App. 3d 829, 836-837, 142 Cal. Rptr. 449] .

[2] Personal Jurisdiction

The court must have personal jurisdiction in any action that seeks to fasten a parent-child relationship on the defendant, as opposed to one that seeks to declare the nonexistence of the relationship [Hartford v. Superior Court (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 447, 453-457, 304 P.2d 1 (construing prior law)]. Further, personal jurisdiction is required in order to impose a child support obligation on a defendant [see, e.g., Kulko v. California Superior Court (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 514, 520, 138 Cal. Rptr. 586, 564 P.2d 353 , overruled on other grounds, Kulko v. Superior Court (1978) 436 U.S. 84, 101, 98 S. Ct. 1690, 56 L. Ed. 2d 132 ; Titus v. Superior Court (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 792, 799, 100 Cal. Rptr. 477] .

The UPA provides that a person who has sexual intercourse in California, or causes conception with the intent to become a legal parent by assisted reproduction in California, thereby submits to the jurisdiction of its courts as to an action brought under the UPA with respect to a child who may have been conceived by that act of intercourse or assisted reproduction [Fam. Code 7620(a); see County of Humboldt v. Harris (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 857, 861-864, 254 Cal. Rptr. 49 (predecessor statute upheld as meeting constitutional minimum-contacts requirement)]. For purposes of this provision, "assisted reproduction" means conception by any means other than sexual intercourse [Fam. Code § 7606(a)]. If personal jurisdiction over the defendant is to be established on the basis of intercourse, the complaint should allege that the child was conceived in California or conceived by an act of sexual intercourse that took place in California.

The following acts have been found to be insufficient contact to subject a nonresident to jurisdiction in a parentage action [Bartlett v. Superior Court (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 72, 75-77, 150 Cal. Rptr. 25 ; but see In re Marriage of Hattis (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1162, 1174 n.9, 242 Cal. Rptr. 410 (disagreeing with Bartlett's rejection of "effects test")]:

- Causing a California resident to become pregnant;
- Traveling to California and visiting with the mother during courtship and pregnancy;
- Sending the alleged mother to California when she was pregnant;
- Paying a doctor bill in California in connection with the pregnancy.

[3] Juvenile Court Jurisdiction

In proceedings to declare a child a dependent of the juvenile court, the court has a duty to inquire about the identity and address of all presumed or alleged fathers of the child. The inquiry is to be made at the detention hearing, or as soon thereafter as practicable, and the fact that a man claiming to be the father is present at the hearing will not relieve the court of its duty. If a man appears in the dependency action after receiving the notice described below, and files a parentage action under Fam. Code § 7630 or 7631, the juvenile court must determine if he is the father. The juvenile court's jurisdiction to hear the parentage action is exclusive after a dependency petition has been filed and until the time the petition is dismissed, dependency is terminated, or parental rights are terminated under Welf. & Inst. Code § 366.26 or Fam. Code § 7800 et seq. [Welf. & Inst. Code § 316.2(a),(d),(e)].

The juvenile court's inquiry regarding paternity must include at least all of the following, as the court deems appropriate [Welf. & Inst. Code § 316.2(a)]:

1. Whether a judgment of paternity already exists;

2. Whether the mother was married or believed she was married at the time of conception of the child or at any time thereafter;

3. Whether the mother was cohabiting with a man at the time of conception or birth of the child;

4. Whether the mother has received support payments or promises of support with respect to the child or in connection with her pregnancy;

5. Whether any man has formally or informally acknowledged or declared his possible paternity of the child, including by signing a voluntary declaration of paternity;

6. Whether paternity tests have been administered and the results, if any; and

7. Whether any man otherwise qualifies as a presumed father under Fam. Code § 7611, or any other provision of the Family Code.

If, after the court inquiry, one or more men are identified as an alleged father, each of these men must be provided notice at his last and usual place of residence by certified mail (return receipt requested) alleging that he is or could be the father of the child. The notice must state that the child is the subject of dependency proceedings [Welf. & Inst. Code § 300 et seq.] and that the proceedings could result in the termination of parental rights and adoption of the child. The Judicial Council form designated by statute must be included with the notice [Welf. & Inst. Code § 316.2(b) (requiring use of Judicial Council form Paternity-Waiver of Rights (JV-505))]. The court may determine that the failure of an alleged father to return the certified mail receipt is not good cause to continue a hearing [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 316.2(c) (referring to Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 355, 358, 360, 366.21, or 366.22)].

Note that nothing in Welf. & Inst. Code § 316.2 precludes the juvenile court from terminating a father's parental rights even if he appears at the hearing and files an action under under Fam. Code § 7630 or 7631 [Welf. & Inst. Code § 316.2(b)].

For further discussion of dependency proceedings, see Ch. 328, Juvenile Courts: Dependency Proceedings .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJurisdictionPersonal Jurisdiction & In Rem ActionsIn Personam ActionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJurisdictionPersonal Jurisdiction & In Rem ActionsIn Personam ActionsMinimum ContactsFamily LawChild SupportVenueFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityUniform Parentage Act

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. The Parentage Action

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.75

§ 412.75 Guardian ad Litem

[1] Appointment for Any Minor Party

A minor who is a party to a paternity action must be represented by a guardian ad litem appointed by the court [Fam. Code § 7635(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 372-373; see also § 412.149 (Application and Order for Appointment of Guardian Ad Litem of Minor)]. This rule applies whether the minor is the child whose paternity or nonpaternity is sought to be established, or a parent or alleged parent [Jeffrey S. II v. Jeffrey S. (1977) 76 Cal. App. 3d 65, 69-70, 142 Cal. Rptr. 625 ; see Poaster v. Superior Court (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 948, 950, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 582] . The fact that a minor's parent purports to act as the minor's guardian in the proceeding does not eliminate the need to appoint a guardian ad litem to represent the minor's interests [Berg v. Traylor (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 809, 821, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 140 ; In re D.D. (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 646, 653, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 578 (as matter of law, guardian ad litem must be appointed for minor who is party to proceeding)].

A guardian ad litem who is a relative of the child need not be represented by counsel [Fam. Code § 7635(a); cf. J.W. v. Superior Court (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 958, 962, 968-969, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 527 (under pre-1995 version of statute, nonattorney parent-party who was proceeding in propria persona could be appointed guardian ad litem for child, but could not proceed in pro per in that capacity)]. The county public guardian may be appointed for a minor defendant, and presumably also for a minor child whose paternity is at issue [see Poaster v. Superior Court (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 948, 952-954, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 582 ; see also Prob. Code § 2920 (notice requirements)]. When the parent's personal interests in the proceeding differ from the minor's interests, the court should appoint a guardian ad litem [Berg v. Traylor (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 809, 821-822, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 140; Williams v. Superior Court (2007) 147 Cal. App. 4th 36, 50-53, 54 Cal. Rptr. 3d 13 (minor's parent does not have right to select guardian ad litem when parent has conflict of interest with minor)]. If more than one individual seeks appointment as guardian ad litem, the court must select the guardian who will best protect the minor's interests [Williams v. Superior Court (2007) 147 Cal. App. 4th 36, 54, 54 Cal. Rptr. 3d 13].

[2] Role of Guardian ad Litem

A guardian ad litem is not a party to an action, but is the representative of a party [Williams v. Superior Court (2007)

147 Cal. App. 4th 36, 54, 54 Cal. Rptr. 3d 13 ; J.W. v. Superior Court (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 958, 964, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 527] . Although the court is, in effect, the guardian of the minor party, and the person appointed as guardian ad litem is an officer and agent of the court, appointment of a guardian ad litem is more than a bare technicality. The guardian is bound to protect or defend the action and to protect the rights of the minor. He or she may not make admissions against the minor or waive any of the minor's material rights, and the minor is not bound by the admissions of the guardian that sacrifice the minor's property or legal rights. Thus, any acts or concessions that apparently waive or surrender any materialright of the minor will be set aside unless they are shown to be beneficial, or at least nonprejudicial, to the rights and interests of the minor [Robinson v. Wilson (1974) 44 Cal. App. 3d 92, 100-101, 118 Cal. Rptr. 569 ; see In re Christina B. (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 1441, 1452-1454, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 918] .

Once a guardian ad litem is appointed, the action may not thereafter be compromised, settled, or dismissed without court approval [see Prob. Code § 3500 (minors' compromises)]. Thus, the appointment of a guardian ad litem is to ensure that the interests of the child will be fully and fairly considered [County of Shasta v. Caruthers (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1838, 1847, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 18] .

The child's guardian ad litem may move for blood/genetic tests to rebut the otherwise conclusive presumption of Fam. Code § 7540, that a child born to a woman who was married and cohabiting with her husband at the time of conception is a child of the marriage [see Fam. Code § 7541(b); see also Fam. Code § 7575(c)]. For further discussion, see*§ 412.31*.

A minor, accompanied by a duly appointed guardian ad litem, may appear without counsel (see § 412.76[1]) for the limited purpose of obtaining domestic violence protective orders [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1153; see § 412.81[5]].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawGuardiansGeneral OverviewFamily LawGuardiansAppointmentFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. The Parentage Action

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.76

§ 412.76 Representation by Counsel

[1] Indigent Parents

As a matter of due process, an indigent defendant in a paternity action is entitled to appointed counsel if the state is appearing as a party or appearing on behalf of the mother or child. It is fundamentally unfair for the state to intervene on behalf of the mother and child and not protect the rights of the father [Salas v. Cortez (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 22, 26-34, 154 Cal. Rptr. 529, 593 P.2d 226 ; County of Tulare v. Ybarra (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 580, 582, 192 Cal. Rptr. 49] . However, if given notice of the right to appointed counsel, an indigent who permits entry of default waives the right [County of Mendocino v. Ted S. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 1202, 1206-1207, 266 Cal. Rptr. 452] .

In a reverse paternity action (that is, one in which the plaintiff alleges that he is the father of the child), due process may require that an indigent defendant, whose father-child relationship will be severed if the plaintiff is successful, be provided with counsel. However, any right to counsel must be determined on a case-by-case basis, balancing the defendant's interests and possible adverse consequences against the interests of the state [Guardianship of Ethan S. (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 1403, 1412-1414, 271 Cal. Rptr. 121 (finding no right to counsel if defendant has had no actual parent-child relationship, but relies only on presumption that issue of wife cohabiting with her husband is child of the marriage)].

Alternatively, indigent parties may be referred to the local child support agency for proceedings to establish paternity and child support as provided by statute [J.W. v. Superior Court (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 958, 972-973, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 527 ; see Fam. Code § 17400 et seq., discussed in Ch. 259, Family Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Support Enforcement].

Even though the paternity defendant is entitled to appointed counsel, the issue of compensation for his counsel remains unresolved. Several courts of appeal have refused to require compensation of appointed counsel for indigent civil litigants at public expense [see County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (1980) 102 Cal. App. 3d 926, 929, 162 Cal. Rptr. 636 (in action for reimbursement of welfare benefits brought under former Welf. & Inst. Code § 11350, Legislature did not authorize expenditure of public monies for appointment of counsel); Littlefield v. Superior Court (1979) 160 Cal. Rptr. 175 (no statutory authority under Gov. Code § 27706 for appointment of public defender to represent paternity defendant)]. Thus, it has been held that appointed counsel for a paternity defendant must serve gratuitously (pro bono publico) absent legislative authorization of payment of fees from public funds [County of Tulare v. Ybarra (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 580, 586, 192 Cal. Rptr. 49] . However, at least one court of appeal has held that counsel may not be involuntarily conscripted to represent indigent paternity defendants pro bono on the ground that it is a denial of equal protection of the law. The court distinguished some of the previous cases on the basis that they had not discussed the constitutionality of a specific plan to conscript counsel [Cunningham v. Superior Court (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 336, 340-352, 356, 222 Cal. Rptr. 854 (action both to establish paternity and to recoup public assistance payments)].

If the indigent defendant later appeals the court's determination of paternity and reimbursement obligations, the defendant is entitled to a Wende review [see People v. Wende (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 436, 158 Cal. Rptr. 839, 600 P.2d 1071] . Under a Wende review, the appellate court must conduct an independent review of the trial record to determine whether any arguable factual or legal issues exist, even though the defendant's appointed counsel submits a brief that raises no specific issues or describes the appeal as frivolous [County of Madera v. Jacobson (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 569, 571, 573, 239 Cal. Rptr. 602] .

[2] For Child

In any initial or subsequent proceeding, if custody of, or visitation with, the child is at issue, the court may appoint private counsel to represent the interests of the child, if it determines that it would be in the best interests of the child [Fam. Code § 7635(d); see Fam. Code § 3150 et seq. (appointment of counsel in custody proceedings, discussed in § 412.75[1] above]. Appointment of counsel is now discretionary rather than mandatory for a child-party [see Fam. Code § 7635(d)]. Also, although the statute is limited to custody and visitation disputes [see Fam. Code § 7635(d)], presumably the court may still appoint counsel if paternity is at issue, and the other parties have interests that may be in conflict with the child's.

Counsel appointed to represent the child must be compensated in an amount to be determined by the court [Fam. Code § 3153(a); see Fam. Code § 7635(d); J.W. v. Superior Court (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 958, 971-972, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 527] . The amount is to be paid by the parties, in proportions as the court deems just [Fam. Code § 3153(a)], or by the county if both parties together are financially unable to pay all or a portion of the cost [Fam. Code § 3153(b)].

[3] Orders for Attorney's Fees and Costs

The court may order reasonable fees for counsel, experts, and the child's guardian ad litem, and other costs of the action and pretrial proceedings,including blood tests, to be paid by the parties (except a government entity) in proportion and at times determined by the court [Fam. Code § 7640]. Such an order may be made even after a notice of appeal is filed [see Sherry H. v. Thomas B. (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 1500, 1502-1503, 250 Cal. Rptr. 830] .

Bills for pregnancy, childbirth, and genetic testing are admissible as evidence without third-party foundation testimony, and constitute prima facie evidence of the costs incurred for those services [Fam. Code § 7604.5].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureCounselAppointmentsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. The Parentage Action

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.77

§ 412.77 Application for Change of Child's Name

An application to change the of name of the child for whom a parent-child relationship is established under the UPA may be included with the petition filed under the UPA. The application and procedure for change of name must conform to the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1275 et seq., which govern proceedings for a change of name [Fam. Code § 7638]. Notice of and hearing on the application for the name change must be conducted in accord with the notice and hearing provisions of the UPA [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1277(d), 1278(c); see Fam. Code § 7638]. For discussion and forms for use to apply for a change of name, see Ch. 377, Name, Change of.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawName ChangesProceduresFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. The Parentage Action

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.78

§ 412.78 Notice of Action

[1] Notice To Respondents or Defendants

Formal notice of the action is given a respondent or defendant by serving him or her with a copy of the summons and a copy of the petition or complaint [see Code Civ. Proc. § 413.10 et seq.]. The Judicial Council has adopted a mandatory proof of service form for use when serving the Judicial Council Petition to Establish the Parental Relationship [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-200], which is also used in other family law and domestic violence proceedings (Form DV-140), as discussed in Ch. 293, Harassment and Domestic Violence .

[2] Notice to Nonparties

[a] Persons Entitled to Notice

The natural mother, each man presumed to be the father under Fam. Code § 7611, and each man alleged to be the natural father must be given notice of the action and an opportunity to be heard [Fam. Code § 7635(b)]. Each of these persons may or may not be made parties to the action, but they must be given notice even if they are not made parties [see Fam. Code § 7635(b)]. If the child is receiving public assistance, the district attorney of the county providing support must be given notice [In re Marriage of Mena (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 12, 18-19, 260 Cal. Rptr. 314 ; In re Marriage of Lugo (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 427, 432-434, 217 Cal. Rptr. 74 ; § 412.71[2]].

[b] Who Must Give Notice

The Uniform Parentage Act does not specify who is to give the required notice to nonparties. It appears that the logical person to give notice would be the party who injects the name of the nonparty into the case. Thus, if the petition or complaint alleges that a named person other than a party to the action is the child's natural mother, presumed father, or alleged father, notice to the nonparty of the action should be given by the plaintiff. Conversely, if a person is named for the first time in the answer, it would appear that defendant should give the notice to him or her. But if a man not a party to the action is presumed to be the father under the provisions of Fam. Code § 7611 and for some reason is not named in either pleading, it is unclear as to who must give that party notice of the action.

[c] Manner of Giving Notice

The notice to a nonparty of a petition or complaint to establish a parental relationship must be given in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure for service of process in a civil action, except that publication or posting of the notice of the proceeding is not required. Proof of service must be filed with the court before the petition is heard [Fam. Code §§ 7635(b), 7666; see Code Civ. Proc. § 417.10 et seq. (proof of service)]. Service of process is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 412.10 et seq. Those sections suggest that the notice to a nonparty be in writing, contain the title of the court and the names of the parties to the action, and be reasonably calculated to give actual notice to the party to be served that an action has been filed [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 412.20 (contents of summons), 413.30 (manner of service in cases not otherwise covered)]. The notice should be attached to a copy of the petition, and should be served on the person in the same manner as a summons and complaint [see Code Civ. Proc. § 415.10 et seq. (manner of service of summons)]. An illustrative notice is set forth in § 412.135.

If a person identified as the natural father or possible natural father cannot be located or his whereabouts is unknown or cannot be ascertained, the court may issue an order dispensing with notice to such person [Fam. Code § 7666(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProceduresPleading & PracticeService of ProcessMethodsGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticeService of ProcessMethodsPublicationFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityUniform Parentage ActPublic Health & Welfare LawSocial SecurityAssistance to FamiliesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. The Parentage Action

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.79

§ 412.79. Response of Nonparties Wishing to Be Heard

Fam. Code § 7635(b) requires that the natural mother, each man presumed to be the father under Fam. Code § 7611, and each man alleged to be the natural father be given an opportunity to be heard, in a paternity action, even if they are not made parties to the action. However, the UPA does not provide any vehicle by which a nonparty may be heard.

A man who alleges that he, and not the plaintiff or defendant is the father of the child and wishes to establish his own paternity should either move for joinder as a party under Code Civ. Proc. § 389 or request leave to intervene under Code Civ. Proc. § 387. A nonparty who wishes to be heard, for example, as to the best interests of the child, but does not seek any affirmative relief in his or her own right might move for an order requiring that he or she be given notice of all subsequent proceedings in the action.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureParties Joinder General OverviewFamily LawPaternity & Surrogacy General OverviewFamily LawPaternity & Surrogacy Establishing Paternity General Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. The Parentage Action

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.80

§ 412.80 Submission of Child's Birth Certificate to Court

In proceedings under the Uniform Parentage Act, the requirements of Fam. Code § 3140 apply [Fam. Code § 7603]. Under that section, if one or both of the parents have not appeared, and there is no proof of personal service on the absent parent or parents, a certified copy of the child's birth certificate must be submitted to the court [Fam. Code § 3140]. The court must forward the birth certificate to the appropriate law enforcement agency to determine whether the child has been reported missing or abducted [Fam. Code § 3140(a)]. The court may waive these requirements for good cause [Fam. Code § 3140(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawPaternity & SurrogacyGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyBirth CertificatesGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityUniform Parentage Act

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. The Parentage Action

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.81

§ 412.81 Pendente Lite Orders

[1] Child Support and Expenses of Birth

[a] Power to Order

Under paternity cases decided before the enactment of the Uniform Parentage Act in 1976 [Stats. 1075, ch. 1244], it was permissible for a court to make pendente lite orders for support and medical expenses incident to the child's birth if the plaintiff made a preliminary showing by a preponderance of the evidence that the defendant was the father of the child [Carbone v. Superior Court (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 768, 770-772, 117 P.2d 872 (decided under former Civ. Code § 196a, which formerly was basis of paternity action); see Thurmond v. Superior Court (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 836, 837-838, 59 Cal. Rptr. 273, 427 P.2d 985 (involving motion for order for expenses of birth)]. Although such an order implied a finding of the existence of the father-child relationship, it was not considered res judicata, and thus not determinative of the issue of paternity at trial, because the proceeding and the evidence presented on a motion for a pendente lite order is not as complete as that required at trial [Carbone v. Superior Court (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 768, 772, 117 P.2d 872 ; see Guay v. Superior Court (1957) 147 Cal. App. 2d 764, 768, 305 P.2d 990 (also decided under former Civ. Code § 196a)].

If a defendant denies paternity and no evidence is presented at the hearing on the issue, support pendente lite may not be ordered; there is no preponderance of the evidence in the plaintiff's favor. An order that is made solely because the defendant cannot be excluded as the father by blood tests is improper [Hodge v. Gould (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 806, 808, 79 Cal. Rptr. 245] .

Under the UPA, there is no express provision for a pendente lite support order [see Fam. Code § 7637 (support order may be included in judgment or order that determines parent-child relationship)]. Thus, it appears that the continued validity of a right to a pendente lite support order based on a preliminary showing of paternity by a preponderance of the evidence is open to question under the UPA. Nevertheless, courts have continued to issue temporary support orders before final adjudication of the issue of paternity [see, e.g., Thomas B. v. Superior Court (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 255, 259, 220 Cal. Rptr. 577 ; City and County of San Francisco v. Superior Court (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 87, 89-91, 150 Cal. Rptr. 45 (decided after enactment of UPA, but based on prior law and without consideration of effect of UPA)].

Under a provision of the Domestic Violence Prevention Act [Fam. Code § 6200 et seq.], the court may, after notice and hearing, order a respondent in a domestic violence proceeding who is a presumed father to pay any amount necessary for the support and maintenance of a child who is in the custody of the petitioner, if such an order would otherwise be authorized in an action under the UPA [Fam. Code § 6341(a); see Fam. Code § 7611 (presumption of paternity), discussed in Pt. B]. A domestic violence support order is without prejudice in any UPA action [Fam. Code § 6341(b)]. Thus, because the domestic violence support order may be issued without an adjudication of paternity, it may be argued by implication that the legislature recognizes the validity of temporary support orders preliminary to a final paternity determination.

For discussion of the factors that determine the amount of child support under the statewide uniform child support guideline [Fam. Code § 4050 et seq.], and for forms for use in obtaining child support, see Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support .

[b] Limitations on Discovery of Alleged Father's Financial Information

Fam. Code § 3552 requires parties in proceedings involving child support to produce income tax returns for the purpose of awarding child support. In construing prior law [see former Civ. Code § 4700.7, 4721(d)], one appellate court held that the right to discovery of tax returns in a paternity action does not attach until the issue of paternity is finally adjudicated [Thomas B. v. Superior Court (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 255, 264-265, 220 Cal. Rptr. 577] . For this purpose, "final adjudication" refers to the determination made at trial, notwithstanding any appeal [Sherry H. v. Thomas B. (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 1500, 1503, 250 Cal. Rptr. 830] . Further, no financial records are discoverable for the purpose of orderingpendente lite support in a paternity action until a prima facie showing of paternity has been made [Thomas B. v. Superior Court (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 255, 265, 220 Cal. Rptr. 577] .

[c] Bifurcation of Temporary and Permanent Support and Paternity Issues

The court must bifurcate the issue of paternity, both prima facie and the final adjudication, from the issue of support, both temporary and permanent. Thus, the paternity action must be conducted in four stages [Thomas B. v. Superior Court (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 255, 265, 220 Cal. Rptr. 577] :

- A prima facie showing of paternity for purposes of pendente lite support.
- A determination of an appropriate temporary support order.
- The final adjudication of paternity.
- A determination of permanent support.

Each of these issues must be determined at a separate hearing [Thomas B. v. Superior Court (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 255, 265, 220 Cal. Rptr. 577] .

[2] Temporary Custody and Visitation Orders

During the pendency of any proceeding under the UPA, the court may make an order determining the temporary custody of the child who is the subject of the proceeding [Fam. Code § 3022; see Fam. Code § 3021(f) (applicability of general custody provisions of Family Code to proceedings under UPA)]. The court may also issue an order determining the right of a party to visit with the child on the conditions that the court determines [Fam. Code § 6323(a)(1); see Fam. Code §§ 7710, 7720(a) (incorporating Domestic Violence Prevention Act temporary custody and visitation statutes into UPA); see also Gadbois v. Superior Court (1981) 126 Cal. App. 3d 653, 656-657, 179 Cal. Rptr. 19 (finding right to pendente lite visitation under what is now Fam. Code § 3100, which applies in UPA action through Fam. Code § 3021(e))]. The order may be issued either ex parte [Fam. Code §§ 6323(a)(1), 7710; see Fam. Code § 240] or after notice and hearing [Fam. Code §§ 6340(a), 6346, 7720(a)].

A court may also order pendente lite relief consisting of an award of custody or the grant of reasonable visitation rights if it finds:

- Based on blood/genetic tests authorized by Fam. Code § 7541, a parent-child relationship exists between the child and a man other than the mother's husband [Fam. Code § 7604(a); see Fam. Code § 7540].

- Custody or visitation would be in the best interests of the child [Fam. Code § 7604(b)].

For further discussion of the procedures for obtaining custody orders, including investigation and mediation, and for forms for use in obtaining custody and visitation orders, see Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody .

[3] Mutual Restraining Orders on Removing Child From State

In any action under the Uniform Parentage Act, the summons must contain a temporary restraining order restraining all parties from removing any child for whom the action seeks to establish a parent-child relationship from the state without the prior written consent of the other party or an order of the court [Fam. Code § 7700; see Fam. Code § 231 et seq.]. The restraining order is set forth in the Judicial Council Summons.

Under this provision, a parent may not remove the child from the state once the petition has been filed, without a court order or the written permission of the other party; but it does not provide that a child who is already residing in another state when the petition is filed must be returned to California [Sarah B. v. Floyd B. (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 938, 944, 71 Cal. Rptr. 3d 923]. This form is included in § 412.130.

[4] Orders Restraining Domestic Violence

During the pendency of the proceeding, the court may issue ex parte domestic violence protective orders [see Fam. Code § 6218] and any other ex parte order authorized under the Domestic Violence Prevention Act [Fam. Code § 7710; see Fam. Code § 6320 et seq. (ex parte domestic violence orders)]. Domestic violence protective and restraining orders may also be issued after notice and hearing [Fam. Code § 7720(a); see Fam. Code § 6340 et seq.]. Mutual protective orders may not be issued unless the standards of Fam. Code § 6305 are met [Fam. Code § 7720(b)]. For further discussion of domestic violence protective orders, including mutual protective orders, see Ch. 293, Harassment and Domestic Violence .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawChild SupportGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportObligationsGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportProceduresFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityUniform Parentage Act

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. The Parentage Action

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.82

§ 412.82 Privilege Against Self-Incrimination

Penal Code § 270 makes parents criminally liable for willful child neglect. Whether the crime is a misdemeanor or a felony depends on whether there has been a final adjudication of paternity of which the defendant has notice [Penal Code § 270]. Therefore, a parent may be prosecuted for acts done before paternity is judicially established [Smith v. Superior Court (1980) 110 Cal. App. 3d 422, 425, 168 Cal. Rptr. 24] .

For this reason, in the absence of a tender of use immunity for past conduct [see People v. Superior Court (Kaufman) (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 421, 428, 115 Cal. Rptr. 812, 525 P.2d 716] , the alleged father in a paternity action cannot be required, because of the privilege against self-incrimination, to answer questions through discovery that might establish the element of parenthood for purposes of a subsequent criminal prosecution. The admissions would be a link in the chain of evidence tending to establish guilt of a criminal offense [Gonzales v. Superior Court (1980) 117 Cal. App. 3d 57, 64-72, 178 Cal. Rptr. 358 (questions concerning sexual relations with mother and prior earnings); Smith v. Superior Court (1980) 110 Cal. App. 3d 422, 425, 168 Cal. Rptr. 24 (questions about facts that would give rise to conclusive presumption of paternity of Fam. Code § 7540)]. The same privilege undoubtedly extends to any testimony at trial.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Criminal Law & ProcedureInterrogationMiranda RightsSelf-Incrimination PrivilegeFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. The Parentage Action

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.83

§ 412.83 Trial

[1] Trial by Jury

In older cases, courts have stated that paternity is a legal issue to be tried by a jury, while the amount of support should be tried by the court [Van Buskirk v. Todd (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 680, 685-686, 75 Cal. Rptr. 280 ; Kyne v. Kyne (1940) 38 Cal. App. 2d 122, 133, 100 P.2d 806] . One court, in dictum, stated that a jury trial is a matter of right [Van Buskirk v. Todd (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 680, 685, 75 Cal. Rptr. 280] . However, more recently, several courts have rejected this proposition and held that there is no constitutional or statutory right to a jury trial in a paternity action [County of Sutter v. Davis (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 319, 322-332, 285 Cal. Rptr. 736 ; County of Butte v. Superior Court (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 555, 557-559, 258 Cal. Rptr. 516 ; County of El Dorado v. Schneider (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1263, 1278-1283, 237 Cal. Rptr. 51 (actions by district attorney under Welf. & Inst. Code)].

[2] Burden of Proof

In a disputed paternity action, the burden of proving the defendant to be the father of the child is on the plaintiff. But proof need only be by a preponderance of the evidence [Walsh v. Palma (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 290, 293, 201 Cal. Rptr. 142 ; see Rivera v. Minnich (1987) 483 U.S. 574, 575, 107 S. Ct. 3001, 97 L. Ed. 2d 473 , (Pennsylvania statute requiring application of "preponderance of evidence" standard as complying with Fourteenth Amendment Due Process Clause); see also Evid. Code § 500 (party has burden of proof as to facts essential for his or her claim)]. While the unsupported testimony of the mother is sufficient for this purpose [Huntingdon v. Crowley (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 647, 651, 51 Cal. Rptr. 254, 414 P.2d 382] , blood or genetic test results now are most commonly presented to carry to burden of proof (see Part C and § 412.84[1]). If the mother is unable to testify, paternity may be proved by circumstantial evidence alone [Foster v. Gray (1962) 203 Cal. App. 2d 434, 436-437, 21 Cal. Rptr. 429] . The preponderance of evidence standard applies equally if the paternity action is prosecuted by the district attorney for the benefit of a public entity [Walsh v. Palma (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 290, 295, 201 Cal. Rptr. 142] .

If there is a rebuttable presumption that a man is a presumed father [see Fam. Code § 7611, discussed in Part B], the burden is on the party opposing operation of the presumption to rebut it by clear and convincing evidence [Comino v. Kelley (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 678, 685, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 728 ; see Fam. Code § 7612(a)]. However, if the presumed father is opposing operation of the presumption, the presumption has the affect of both shifting the burden of proof and raising the standard of proof. For example, if the plaintiff proves that the mother and the defendant were married at the time of birth, the defendant is the presumed father [see Fam. Code § 7611(a)] and has the burden of proving nonpaternity by clear and convincing evidence [Fam. Code § 7612(a)].

If the defendant establishes by a preponderance of evidence that some other man is presumed to be the father, by, for instance, establishing that the plaintiff and the other man were married at the time of birth, the burden of proof will then be on the plaintiff to establish, by clear and convincing evidence, that the other man is not the father. If the plaintiff meets this burden, the plaintiff must then prove that the defendant is the father by a preponderance of the evidence [Walsh v. Palma (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 290, 294, 201 Cal. Rptr. 142] . In this case, there is no shift of the burden of proof to the defendant, but rather different standards that must be borne by the plaintiff to prove the different issues in the case.

If a defendant denying paternity relies on the conclusive presumption that another man is the father because he was married to and cohabiting with the wife at the time of the conception [see Fam. Code § 7540; see also County of Orange v. Leslie B. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 976, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 797] , the defendant does not have the burden of establishing that the husband was not impotent or sterile at the time of conception [S.D.W. v. Holden (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 313, 315-317, 80 Cal. Rptr. 269] . Rather, the burden is on the plaintiff to rebut the presumption by motion for blood test evidence under Fam. Code § 7541 [see Fam. Code § 7541(a) (court may determine husband's nonpaternity based on blood-test evidence)].

[3] Closed Proceedings; Confidential Records

Notwithstanding any other law concerning public hearings and records, any hearing or trial under the UPA may be held in closed court without the admission of any person other than those necessary to the action or proceeding [Fam. Code § 7643(a)]. The party who wants the hearing closed should so move the court.

All papers and records, other than the final judgment, pertaining to the action or proceeding, whether part of the permanent record of the court or of a file in any public agency or elsewhere, are subject to inspection only in exceptional cases on order of the court for good cause shown [Fam. Code § 7643(a)]. However, all papers and records pertaining to the action or proceeding that are part of the permanent record of the court are subject to inspection by the parties to the action and their attorneys [Fam. Code § 7643(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsGeneral OverviewConstitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental RightsCriminal ProcessRight to Jury TrialEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofGeneral OverviewEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofAllocationFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityBurdens of ProofFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceBlood TestsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceGenetic Tests

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. The Parentage Action

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.84

§ 412.84 Evidence

[1] Relationship Between Blood/Genetic Tests and Other Evidence

Today, most paternity cases are resolved on the basis of the results of blood/genetic tests alone (see Part C). Unless the defendant elects to attack the scientific validity of the test and its results, a test showing a highpaternity index may really be dispositive [see Fam. Code § 7555, discussed in § 412.33].

However, no matter how high the paternity index, the results of such tests, alone, cannot support a judgment of paternity [County of El Dorado v. Misura (1995) 33 Cal. App. 4th 73, 79, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 908] . The plaintiff must first prove the fact of intercourse between the mother and the defendant-alleged father within the time period of possible conception. Unless the trier of fact finds that intercourse occurred, the scientific evidence has no probative value and may be discounted [see Everett v. Everett (1984) 150 Cal. App. 3d 1053, 1064, 1068-1073, 201 Cal. Rptr. 351 ; see also Evid. Code § 403]. For this reason, the question of paternity must be resolved on the basis of all of the evidence presented, and not just on the results of blood/genetic tests [see Fam. Code § 7554].

[2] Mother's Sexual Intercourse With Other Men

In an action to establish that the defendant is the father of a child, the defendant may introduce evidence that the mother had sexual intercourse with another man or other men during the period in which, in the ordinary course of nature, the child must have been conceived. This evidence is admissible to prove affirmatively that someone other than the defendant is the child's father and not just for the purpose of impeaching the testimony of the mother [Huntingdon v. Crowley (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 647, 650-651, 51 Cal. Rptr. 254, 414 P.2d 382 ; see Crosat v. Paige (1957) 147 Cal. App. 2d 385, 389, 305 P.2d 121] . However, evidence of intercourse with other men, without any blood/genetic test evidence not excluding one or more other men as the father, does not rebut the presumption of paternity arising from an paternity index of 100 or higher established by such tests [County of El Dorado v. Misura (1995) 33 Cal. App. 4th 73, 83-84, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 908 ; see Fam. Code § 7555, discussed in § 412.33].

Proof of the fact that the mother had sexual intercourse with a man other than defendant during the probable period of conception does not, of course, require a judgment for the defendant as a matter of law. Rather, it is merely a circumstance to be considered in determining the child's parentage. Paternity, like any other fact, must be proved by the evidence [Girardin v. Hall (1958) 156 Cal. App. 2d 709, 711-712, 320 P.2d 163] .

Unless admitted by the mother or the alleged partner, the evidence necessary to establish intercourse will obviously be circumstantial. In such a case, two circumstances must be established [Huntingdon v. Crowley (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 647, 657-660, 51 Cal. Rptr. 254, 414 P.2d 382] :

- An opportunity for sexual intercourse between the mother and the other man.
- A disposition or inclination on their part to engage in intercourse.

However, it is an invasion of the mother's right to privacy to seek to discover the mother's sexual relations with other men for periods other than three months before, through three months after, the likely date of conception. There is no governmental interest that outweighs the mother's right of privacy even though the information sought may be relevant for discovery purposes [Fults v. Superior Court (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 899, 902-905, 152 Cal. Rptr. 210 ; see also Gallina v. Antonelli (1963) 220 Cal. App. 2d 63, 65, 33 Cal. Rptr. 570 (evidence of mother's conduct during period before conception is inadmissible)]. Similarly, whether the alleged father was involved with other women at the time the child was conceived is immaterial, and objections to questions to establish the fact are properly sustained [Felts v. Betts (1957) 153 Cal. App. 2d 812, 819, 315 P.2d 73] .

[3] Normal Duration of Pregnancy

Expert evidence or judicial notice as to the normal duration of pregnancy is admissible to establish the likelihood that the child was conceived as a result of an act of intercourse on a specific day [see Louis v. Louis (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 851, 855, 86 Cal. Rptr. 834 ; see also Estate of McNamara (1919) 181 Cal. 82, 89-91, 183 P. 552] .

[4] Polygraph Tests

Evidence obtained by polygraph tests of the alleged father or mother is normally inadmissible in a paternity action. However, a stipulation to admit polygraph evidence was upheld in one case in which the parties and the court decided that the trial would probably depend on which party was believed, with little corroborating evidence on either side [see Robinson v. Wilson (1974) 44 Cal. App. 3d 92, 102, 118 Cal. Rptr. 569] .

[5] View of Child

It is proper for the trier of fact to view the child in a paternity action to detect any resemblance to the alleged father. However, the court, as trier of fact, has the discretion to refuse to view the child if it does not believe the view would be probative [Gallina v. Antonelli (1963) 220 Cal. App. 2d 63, 66, 33 Cal. Rptr. 570] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidenceScientific EvidenceBlood & Bodily FluidsEvidenceScientific EvidencePolygraphsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceGenetic TestsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityPresumptionsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. The Parentage Action

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.85

§ 412.85 Effect of Judgment

The judgment or order of the court in a parentage action under the UPA determining the existence or nonexistence of the parent-child relationship is determinative for all purposes except for actions brought for child neglect under Penal Code § 270 [Fam. Code § 7636].

A judgment establishing paternity entered in an action brought by the county for reimbursement of public assistance is determinative of the issue of parentage even regarding persons who are not parties or privies in theaction [Guardianship of Claralyn S. (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 81, 85, 195 Cal. Rptr. 646] . And a prior judgment declaring paternity that is issued by the court of a sister state having jurisdiction over the parties is res judicata and protected by the full faith and credit clause of the United States Constitution from collateral attack in the courts of another state. Therefore, if such a judgment exists, the defense of nonpaternity cannot be raised subsequently in a California paternity action [County of San Diego v. Hotz (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 605, 608-610, 214 Cal. Rptr. 658 ; Craig v. Superior Court (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 675, 680-682, 119 Cal. Rptr. 692] .

However, res judicata arising from a prior judgment of nonpaternity is not a favored defense in a paternity action because the establishment of a parent-child relationship is the most fundamental right a child possesses. A future action is not barred unless the record demonstrates, without doubt, that another court previously intended to and actually did adjudicate the issue of paternity [D.P. v. Stewart (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 244, 249, 234 Cal. Rptr. 420] . Further, a judgment of nonpaternity is not necessarily res judicata with regard to a child who is not a party to the action [Ruddock v. Ohls (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 271, 277-279, 154 Cal. Rptr. 87 (involving judgment of nonpaternity in dissolution proceeding); see § 412.72].

For a form for use as a judgment of paternity, see*§ 412.140*.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsRes JudicataConstitutional LawRelations Among

GovernmentsFull Faith & CreditFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityDefensesRes Judicata

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. The Parentage Action

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.86

§ 412.86. Orders in Judgment

[1] All Orders in Best Interests of Child, Including Support, Custody, and Visitation

The judgment or order, in addition to determining parentage, may contain any other provision directed against the appropriate party to the proceeding, concerning the duty of support, the custody and guardianship of the child, visitation privileges with the child, the furnishing of bond or other security for the payment of the judgment, or any other matter in the best interest of the child. The judgment or order may direct the father to pay the reasonable expenses of the mother's pregnancy and confinement [Fam. Code § 7637; see Adoption of Rebecca B. (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 193, 198 n.4, 137 Cal. Rptr. 100 ; In re Reyna (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 288, 295-296, 126 Cal. Rptr. 138 ; but see Louden v. Olpin (1981) 118 Cal. App. 3d 565, 567-569, 173 Cal. Rptr. 447 (child has no right to compel parent to visit)]. The court may order support payments to be made to the mother; the clerk of the court; or a person, corporation, or agency designated to administer them for the benefit of the child under the court's supervision [Fam. Code § 7641(b)].

In cases in which the local child support agency is not providing child support services pursuant to Fam. Code § 17400, and to the extentrequired by federal law, and subject to applicable confidentiality provisions of state or federal law, any judgment for paternity or order for child support must include a provision requiring the child support obligor and obligee to file with the court the following information [Fam. Code § 4014(b)]:

- Residential and mailing address;
- Social Security number;
- Telephone number;
- Driver's license number;
- Name, address, and telephone number of the employer; and

- Any other information prescribed by the Judicial Council.

The judgment or order must specify that each parent is responsible for providing his or her own information, that the information must be filed with the court within 10 days of the order, and that new or different information must be filed with the court within 10 days after any event that causes a change in the previously provided information [Fam. Code § 4014(b)]. The Judicial Council is required to develop forms for providing this information [Fam. Code § 4014(d) (forms must be developed so as not to delay implementation of statewide child support registry, and be available no later than 30 days before its implementation)]. In cases in which the local child support agency is not providing child support services pursuant to Fam. Code § 17400, once the state child support registry is operational, any judgment for paternity and any order for child support must include a provision requiring the obligor and obligee to file and keep updated this information with the child support registry [Fam. Code § 4014(c)].

[2] Attorney's Fees and Costs

The judgment may include orders for the payment of attorney's fees and costs, including the costs of blood tests, experts and the child's guardian ad litem, to be paid by the parties (except a government entity) in proportions and at times determined by the court [Fam. Code § 7640; § 412.86[2]; see also White v. Marciano (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 1026, 1034, 235 Cal. Rptr. 779 ; Stebbins v. Imerman (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 942, 947-948, 98 Cal. Rptr. 865] . Under Fam. Code § 7640, the court has the discretion to award attorney's fees for proceedings on the issues of custody, visitation, and support that occur after paternity has been established and/or after judgment [Robert J. v. Catherine D. (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 1392, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 104] .

[3] Orders Restraining Domestic Violence

A judgment entered in a proceeding under the UPA may include a protectiveorder [see Fam. Code § 6218] and any other restraining order as provided by the Domestic Violence Prevention Act [Fam. Code § 7730; see Fam. Code § 6360 et seq.]. For further discussion of orders under the Domestic Violence Prevention Act, see Ch. 293, Harassment and Domestic Violence .

[4] New Birth Certificate; Change of Child's Name

If judgment or order is issued in the paternity proceeding that is at variance with the child's birth certificate, the court must order that a new birth certificate be issued, as prescribed in (what is now) Health & Safety Code § 102725 et seq. [Fam. Code § 7639]. The statute continues to refer to former Health & Safety Code § 10450 et seq., which were renumbered in the reorganization of the Health and Safety Code operative January 1, 1996 [see Stats. 1995, ch. 415]. If an application for change of the child's name has been filed with the petition [see Fam. Code § 7638, discussed in § 412.77], the decree changing the child's name may be included in or entered along with the judgment of paternity [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1275 et seq.].

[5] Termination of Parental Rights

One court has stated, in dicta, that the language that is now found in Fam. Code § 7637(a), that a judgment or order may contain any provision in the best interests of the child, authorizes termination of parental rights in any judgment or order determining the existence or nonexistence of the parent-child relationship [In re Shereece B. (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 613, 621, 282 Cal. Rptr. 430] . Whether termination of parental rights is authorized in any UPA action other than one in support of a pending adoption [see Fam. Code § 7660 et seq.] is open to question. For a discussion of termination of parental rights, see Ch. 12A, Adoptions: Termination of Parental Rights .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureJudgmentsGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild CustodyVisitationGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild CustodyVisitationAwardsStandardsBest Interests of ChildFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyBirth CertificatesGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyBirth CertificatesAlterationsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityPaternity Registries

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. The Parentage Action

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.87

§ 412.87 Modification of Judgment or Order

The court has continuing jurisdiction to modify a judgment or order made under the Uniform Parentage Act [Fam. Code § 7642]. Thus, a child support order made in a paternity action is modifiable after judgment, as is any other child support order [County of Los Angeles v. Patrick (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1246, 1250, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 665 (order modifying child support is appealable as order after final judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 904.1(b))]. However, the doctrine of res judicata prevents relitigation of the issue of parentage in a proceeding to modify a support order [De Weese v. Unick (1980) 102 Cal. App. 3d 100, 104, 162 Cal. Rptr. 259] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsRes JudicataFamily LawChild SupportObligationsModificationGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityUniform Parentage ActFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityDefensesRes Judicata

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. The Parentage Action

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.88

§ 412.88 Enforcement of Support Obligation

If existence of the father-child relationship is declared, or paternity or a duty of support has been acknowledged or adjudicated under the UPA, the obligation of the father may be enforced in the same or other proceedings by any of the following: (1) the mother; (2) the child; (3) the public authority that has furnished or may furnish the reasonable expenses of pregnancy, confinement, education, support, or funeral; or (4) any other person, including a private agency, to the extent that the person has furnished or is furnishing these expenses [Fam. Code § 7641(a); see Van Buskirk v. Todd (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 680, 686, 75 Cal. Rptr. 280] .

Willful failure to obey the judgment or order of the court is a civil contempt of the court. All remedies for the enforcement of judgments, including imprisonment for contempt, apply [Fam. Code § 7641(c)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 258, Family Law Enforcement: General Enforcement Principles and Remedies .

An unmarried man who expends funds to support a child in reliance on the mother's representation that he is the child's father, may not sue the mother on an unjust enrichment theory for the return of the funds after discovering that the child is not his biological offspring [McBride v. Boughton (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 379, 391, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 115] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureSanctionsContemptCivil ContemptFamily LawChild SupportGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportObligationsEnforcementGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. The Parentage Action

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.89

§ 412.89 Vacating Judgment of Paternity

A judgment establishing paternity may be set aside or vacated on motion by the previously established mother of a child, the previously established father of a child, the child, or the legal representative of any of these persons if genetic testing indicates that the previously established father of the child is not the child's biological father [Fam. Code § 7646(a)]. This provision does not apply if the child is presumed to be a child of the marriage under Fam. Code § 7540 [Fam. Code § 7646(b)].

The motion must be brought within a two-year period, commencing with the date on which the previously established father knew or should have known of a judgment that established him as the child's father, or commencing with the date the previously established father knew or should have known of the existence of an action to adjudicate the issue of paternity, whichever is first [Fam. Code § 7646(a)(1)]. The motion must be brought within a two-year period, commencing with the date of the child's birth if paternity was established by a voluntary declaration of paternity [Fam. Code § 7646(a)(2)]. A court may not order genetic testing to determine whether to set aside a paternity judgment when the request to set aside the judgment is time-barred. A court does, however, have equitable power to order genetic testing after the expiration of the two-year period, but only if extrinsic fraud is shown [County of Orange v. Superior Court (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 1253, 1260-1262, 66 Cal. Rptr. 3d 689].

Any genetic testing used to support the motion must be conducted in accordance with Fam. Code § 7552. The court may order genetic testing to assist it in determining whether the previously established father is the child's biological father, either at the request of any person authorized to make the motion or on the court's own motion [Fam. Code § 7647.7].

The court may appoint a guardian ad litem for the child to represent the child's best interests [Fam. Code § 7647.5].

If the court finds that the conclusions of all of the experts, based on the results of the genetic tests, indicate that the previously established father is not the child's biological father, it may, nevertheless, deny the motion if it determines that denial is in the child's best interests after considering (1) the child's age; (2) the length of time since entry of the judgment establishing paternity; (3) the nature, duration, and quality of any relationship between the previously established father and the child, including the duration and frequency of any time periods during which the child and thepreviously established father resided in the same household or enjoyed a parent-child relationship; (4) the request of the previously established father that the parent-child relationship continue; (5) notice by the child's biological father that he does not oppose preservation of the relationship between the previously established father and the child; (6) the benefit or detriment to the child in establishing the child's biological parentage; (7) whether the conduct of the previously established father has impaired the ability to ascertain the identity or, or get support from, the biological father; and (8) additional factors the court deems relevant to its determination of the child's best interest [Fam. Code § 7648]. If the court denies the motion, it must state on the record the basis for the denial and any supporting facts [Fam. Code § 7648.1].

A court may not issue an order setting aside or vacating a judgment establishing paternity if (1) the judgment was made or entered by a tribunal of another state, even if enforcement of that judgment is sought in this state, or (2) the judgment was made or entered in this state and genetic tests were conducted before entry of judgment that did not exclude the previously established biological father as the child's biological father [Fam. Code § 7648.3].

If the court grants a motion to set aside or vacate a paternity judgment, it must also vacate any order for child support and arrearages issued on the basis of that judgment. However, the previously established father has no right to reimbursement for any amount of support paid before the motion was granted [Fam. Code § 7648.4].This provision enables a declared father to challenge a paternity decree, but also safeguards the child. Allowing a declared father to seek reimbursement from the mother might adversely affect the mother's ability to provide financially for the child. In enacting this provision, the legislature was aware of the harm that paternity fraud inflicts on a declared father, but sought to balance the competing interests of a declared father and a child, and concluded that a right of reimbursement should not be permitted [County of Los Angeles v. James (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 253, 258-259, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 880].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentMotions to VacateFamily LawChild SupportObligationsGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. The Parentage Action

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 412.90-412.109

[Reserved]

§§ 412.90[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.110

§ 412.110 California Points and Authorities

For memoranda relating to appointment of guardian ad litem, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 106, Guardianship and Conservatorship

For memoranda relating to use of temporary restraining orders, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 116, Injunctions

For memoranda relating to proceedings under Uniform Parentage Act, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 171, Paternity

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawGuardiansAppointmentFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityUniform Parentage Act

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.111

§ 412.111 California Family Law

For further discussion and forms relating to parentage actions, see California Family Law Practice and Procedure 2d ed., Ch. 31, Establishing Parentage (Matthew Bender)

For discussion and forms relating to child custody and visitation rights, see California Family Law Practice and Procedure 2d ed., Ch. 33, Custody and Visitation Orders (Matthew Bender)

For discussion and forms relating to orders for child support, see California Family Law Practice and Procedure 2d ed., Ch. 41, Child Support Orders (Matthew Bender)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawChild CustodyVisitationGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.112

§ 412.112 State Statutes

[1] Blood/Genetic Tests

Discovery statute authorizing physical examination as not affecting blood tests to determine paternity under Uniform Act on Blood Tests to Determine Paternity. Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.010(a)

Use of blood/genetic test to rebut presumption that husband is father of child conceived by wife while cohabiting with husband. Fam. Code § 7541(b), (c)

Uniform Act on Blood Tests to Determine Paternity. Fam. Code § 7550 et seq.

[2] Guardian ad Litem

Guardian ad litem generally. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 372-374.5

Appointment of guardian ad litem for child who is party to action to establish parental relationship. Fam. Code § 7635(a)

[3] Protective Orders

Standard mutual restraining orders against removal of child from state. Fam. Code § 7700

Use of ex parte protective orders to prevent domestic violence. Fam. Code § 7710

Use of noticed protective orders to prevent domestic violence. Fam. Code § 7720

Inclusion of protective orders in judgment. Fam. Code § 7730

Violation of restraining orders or exclusion orders obtained pursuant to Family Code as misdemeanor. Penal Code § 273.6

[4] Inheritance Rights

Ruled determining who is natural parent for purposes of intestate succession. Prob. Code § 6453

[5] Issuance of Birth Certificate

Issuance of birth certificate in conformance with judgment or order of court. Fam. Code § 7639

Amendment of birth certificate. Health & Safety Code §§ 102725, 102750, 102755

[6] Jurisdiction

Jurisdiction of superior court in Family Code proceedings. Fam. Code § 200

Jurisdiction of state courts over person having sexual intercourse in state, or causing conception with intent to become legal parent by assisted reproduction in state, with respect to action to establish parental relationship. Fam. Code § 7620(a)

Jurisdiction of juvenile court to decide paternity issues. Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 316.2, 903.41(b)

[7] Parent and Child Relationship

Unborn child as person. Civ. Code § 43.1

Mother and presumed father of minor child as equally entitled to custody of child. Fam. Code § 3010

Uniform Parentage Act. Fam. Code § 7600 et seq.

[8] Presumptions Regarding Paternity

Circumstances under which man presumed to be natural father. Fam. Code § 7611

Child of wife cohabiting with husband who is not impotent or sterile as presumed to be child of marriage. Fam. Code § 7540

Establishment of paternity by declaration. Fam. Code § 7570 et seq.

[9] Custody of Child

Application of Fam. Code § 3140, requiring submission of child's birth certificate in certain custody matters, to proceedings under Uniform Parentage Act. Fam. Code § 7603

[10] Support of Child

Parental duty to support minor child. Fam. Code § 3900

Parent's duty of support as extending to unmarried child who has attained age 18, is full-time high school student, and is not self-supporting, until child either completes high school or turns 19. Fam. Code § 3901(a)

Action for support of minor child. Fam. Code § 4000

Judgment for payment of child support in paternity proceeding. Fam. Code § 7637

Obligation of father to pay child support when existence of father and child relationship declared; failure to obey order for payment of support as civil contempt. Fam. Code § 7641

Father's written promise to support child. Fam. Code § 7614

Criminal liability for willful failure to support minor child. Penal Code § 270

Determination of paternity in action initiated by district attorney to enforce duty of child support. Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 11350, 11350.1, 11475.1

Enforcement by district attorney of duty of child support; administration of state plan for securing child support and determining paternity. Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 11475-11489

Child Support Delinquency Reporting Act. Fam. Code § 4700 et seq.

[11] Venue

County in which child resides, in which licensed California adoption agency maintains an office if agency brings action, or in which probate proceedings of deceased father brought as proper county for trial. Fam. Code § 7620

County in which child resides as proper county for trial in action to enforce obligation of support under Fam. Code § 3900. Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureSanctionsContemptGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureSanctionsContemptCivil ContemptFamily LawChild SupportObligationsEnforcementCriminal PenaltiesFamily LawGuardiansAppointmentFamily LawParental Duties & RightsDutiesSupport of ChildrenFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityUniform Parentage ActFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceBlood TestsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceGenetic Tests

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.113

§ 412.113 Decisions

[1] Actions Brought by Alleged Father to Establish Paternity

Former Civ. Code §§ 7006(c) and 7010 as granting natural father right to bring action to establish parent and child relationship and on determination of that relationship to secure order compelling visitation privileges provided visitation in best interests of child. Griffith v. Gibson (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 465, 471, 142 Cal. Rptr. 176

[2] Actions Prosecuted by District Attorney

[a] Action for Support Prosecuted in Name of County

Welf. & Inst. Code § 11350 as not violating noncustodial parent's constitutional right to equal protection of the law. City and County of San Francisco v. Thompson (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 652, 659, 218 Cal. Rptr. 445

An agreement for entry of judgment or stipulated agreement for paternity or support between unrepresented defendant and district attorney as voidable if unrepresented defendant can establish that he or she was not advised by district attorney of right to trial on questions of paternity and ability to support and that he or she was unaware of these rights and would not otherwise have executed agreement. Countyof Los Angeles v. Soto (1984) 35 Cal. 3d 483, 492, 198 Cal. Rptr. 779, 674 P.2d 750 ; County of Alameda v. Mosier (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 757, 759, 201 Cal. Rptr. 550

In action brought by county on behalf of child under Welf. & Inst. Code § 11350.1 to determine paternity, to obtain support and reimbursement of public assistance, child as not indispensable party and failure to join child as formal party to action as not rendering default judgment against defendant void. County of Tulare v. Boggs (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 236, 240-243, 194 Cal. Rptr. 80

[b] Child Not Receiving Public Assistance

District attorney as authorized by Welf. & Inst. Code § 11475.1 to oppose modification of child and spousal support order on behalf of spouse not receiving public assistance. Worth v. Superior Court (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 1150, 1154-1155, 255 Cal. Rptr. 304

[3] Blood Tests

HLA test results indicating that there was 85.95 percent probability of defendant's paternity as totally indecisive and as determining little more than that defendant not excluded as possible father; it was equally valid to infer that defendant was not father as to infer that he was father. County of Ventura v. Marcus (1983) 139 Cal. App. 3d 612, 618-619, 189 Cal. Rptr. 8

In action brought against defendant for child support and to establish paternity, results of HLA blood test as admissible to show biologically that defendant could not be father or that defendant biologically within class that could be father, but not admissible to show that defendant is father. Alinda V. v. Alfredo V. (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 98, 101, 177 Cal. Rptr. 839

In action brought against defendant for child support and to establish paternity, statistical result of HLA blood test stating there was 98.95 percent probability of defendant's paternity as inaccurate and not entitled to any substantial evidentiary weight when evidence presented by medical technologist whose knowledge of case limited to blood typing, and when technologist did not know extent or nature of other evidence to be introduced at trial and was unable to weigh evidence and make mathematical determination of probability of paternity. Alinda V. v. Alfredo V. (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 98, 101, 177 Cal. Rptr. 839

Amendment to former Evid. Code § 621, which permits use of blood tests in certain cases to rebut otherwise conclusive presumption that issue of wife cohabiting with husband, who is not impotent or sterile, is child of marriage, as constitutional and not violating due process of law or equal protection. In re Marriage of B. (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 524, 531-533, 177 Cal. Rptr. 429

Use of HLA blood test to determine paternity in criminal prosecution for welfare fraud as approved because of scientifically reliable results. Shults v. Superior Court (1980) 113 Cal. App. 3d 696, 699, 170 Cal. Rptr. 297

Trial court in civil paternity action as having no discretion to deny additional, independent blood tests (HLA analysis) on timely demand pursuant to former Evid. Code § 893, and moving party as not required to show good cause for more sophisticated and exact test. County of Fresno v. Superior Court (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 133, 137-138, 154 Cal. Rptr. 660

In civil paternity action, blood test result showing 47 percent probability that defendant is father of child as not legally excluding paternity and not meaning that plaintiffs had failed to prove paternity by preponderance of evidence. County of Fresno v. Superior Court (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 133, 136-137, 154 Cal. Rptr. 660

Human Leukocyte Antigen (HLA) test results showing very high probability that defendant was father of child as relevant evidence not made inadmissible by any statute and as admissible to prove paternity, provided (1) plaintiff proves general medical acceptability of test results for such purpose, and (2) probative value of such evidence not outweighed by prejudicial effect, if any, of admitting it. Cramer v. Morrison (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 873, 879-888, 153 Cal. Rptr. 865

Motion to compel mother and child to submit to blood test by purported father seeking to contest paternity 10 years after divorce, as improper without some showing of facts revealing extrinsic fraud or mistake. Brown v. Superior Court (1979) 98 Cal. App. 3d 633, 636, 159 Cal. Rptr. 604

In paternity action brought by district attorney against indigent defendant on behalf of mother and child receiving public assistance, compensation of court-appointed expert on blood tests as to be fixed by court and to be paid by county subject to being later taxable to parties as costs pursuant to former Evid. Code § 894 and court as unable to order prepayment for blood tests by indigent defendant. Michael B. v. Superior Court (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 1006, 1010, 150 Cal. Rptr. 586

In paternity action brought by district attorney against indigent defendant on behalf of mother and child receiving public assistance, trial court as in error in failing to appoint experts on defendant's motion for blood tests, when trial court ordered district attorney to make arrangements for blood tests and, on defendant's objection, ordered counsel for defendant to make arrangements for defendant's blood tests. Michael B. v. Superior Court (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 1006, 1010, 150 Cal. Rptr. 586

[4] Burden of Proof

Pennsylvania statute requiring application of "preponderance of evidence" standard of proof in civil paternity cases as complying with Due Process Clause of U.S. Const., amend. XIV. Rivera v. Minnich (1987) 483 U.S. 574, 576, 107 S. Ct. 3001, 97 L. Ed. 2d 473

Preponderance of evidence as standard of proof whether or not burden of proof has shifted by effect of rebuttable presumption or action is prosecuted by district attorney for benefit of public entity. Walsh v. Palma (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 290, 293, 295, 201 Cal. Rptr. 142

[5] Confidentiality of Procedures and Documents

Former judge in paternity action, who had filed declaration of prejudice, as having jurisdiction to order file designated confidential under former Civ. Code § 7014, because purpose of statute is to protect privacy of parties, and child protected rather than prejudiced by order. Louden v. Olpin (1981) 118 Cal. App. 3d 565, 569, 173 Cal. Rptr. 447

[6] Construction of Uniform Parentage Act With Other Laws

In action brought by county to establish paternity and obtain reimbursement for child support (Welf. & Inst. Code § 11350.1), when district attorney obtained appointment of guardian ad litem under former Civ. Code § 7008, complaint treated as action for support under Welf. & Inst. Code § 11350.1 and not converted to action for declaration of parentage under Uniform Parentage Act. D.G. v. Superior Court (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 535, 542, 161 Cal. Rptr. 117

[7] Establishment of Parent and Child Relationship Under Uniform Parentage Act

[a] Maternity

Under Fam. Code § 7611(d), woman may be presumed mother of child of her lesbian partner if they agree to raise child together, she receives child into her home, and she holds child out as her natural child; as child's presumed mother, she has obligation to support child. Elisa B. v. Superior Court (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 108, 113, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 46, 117 P.3d 660

When woman provides ova to her lesbian partner so that partner can bear child who will be raised in their joint home, both women are considered to be child's parents. K.M. v. E.G. (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 130, 134, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 61, 117 P.3d 673

Registered domestic partner of birth mother is entitled to bring petition under Fam. Code § 7611(d) to establish her parental relationship with child born to birth mother by artificial insemination from anonymous donor; fact that birth mother opposes presumed parent status for petitioner does not control determination of whether presumed parent status arises under Fam. Code § 7611(d). Charisma R. v. Kristina S. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 301, 310, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 332

[b] Paternity

Child's mother has standing to claim that man is child's presumed father under Fam. Code § 7611(c) or*(d)*, even if man is not party to action. Gabriel P. v. Suedi D. (2006) 141 Cal. App. 4th 850, 862, 46 Cal. Rptr. 3d 437

[8] Equal Protection and Due Process Considerations

Former Prob. Code § 255 (child's intestate succession rights dependent on establishment of parent and child relationship) as valid constitutional means of encouraging marriage and discouraging birth of illegitimate children. Estate of Ginochio (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 412, 415, 418-419, 117 Cal. Rptr. 565

[9] Fees and Costs

After jury found defendant to be father of plaintiff's child, and plaintiff then applied for additional child support and attorney fees, trial court as having continuing jurisdiction to award child support and attorney's fees under former Civ. Code § 7013; jury trial as determining paternity only and issue of child support and attorney's fees as still remaining. Silva v. Weiss (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 214, 215, 186 Cal. Rptr. 846

[10] Guardian ad Litem

Court as not abusing its discretion in denying parent's motion to vacate appointment of present guardian ad litem and appoint parent as guardian ad litem in action to establish paternity. D.G. v. Superior Court (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 535, 538-546, 161 Cal. Rptr. 117

Order of preference for appointment of guardian ad litem under Code Civ. Proc. § 372 or former Civ. Code § 7006 as left to discretion of trial court, and mother of child as not statutorily entitled to special preference. D.G. v. Superior Court (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 535, 545-546, 161 Cal. Rptr. 117

[11] Mother's Sexual Relations With Other Men

In action brought by county to establish paternity of defendant, testimony of mother that defendant and other man were only two possible fathers as impeached by mother's former sworn statement on welfare application that other man was only possible father, and court as not required to credit her testimony as to lack of intercourse with anyone else. County of Ventura v. Marcus (1983) 139 Cal. App. 3d 612, 617, 189 Cal. Rptr. 8

In paternity action, interrogatories asking mother about sexual relationships for period of one year before and one year after time of conception, when mother's answer stated she had no sexual relations with anyone other than defendant for three-month period both before and after date of conception, and there was no showing that interrogatories likely to turn up material information, as constitutionally overbroad because their utility did not outweigh mother's right of privacy. Fults v. Superior Court (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 899, 904-905, 152 Cal. Rptr. 210

In paternity action, interrogatories asking mother about sexual relationships for period of one year before and one year after time of conception as not objectionable on grounds of relevancy because answers might enable defendant to establish that mother had relationships with men other than alleged father. Fults v. Superior Court (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 899, 902, 152 Cal. Rptr. 210

[12] Pendente Lite Orders

In paternity action brought by man alleging paternity and seeking pendente lite order for child visitation rights pursuant to former Civ. Code § 4601, denial of visitation rights as error when trial court had not make preliminary determination of paternity or nonpaternity or whether visitation would be detrimental to best interests of child. Gadbois v. Superior Court (1981) 126 Cal. App. 3d 653, 657, 179 Cal. Rptr. 19

In action to establish paternity of illegitimate child, court as permitted to make pendente lite orders for support, medical and hospital expenses, and attorney's fees, but plaintiff as first required to establish defendant to be father of child by preponderance of evidence. Hodge v. Gould (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 806, 808, 79 Cal. Rptr. 245

During pendency of paternity action, on proper showing, court as having power to order alleged father to pay reasonable sums for medical expenses of mother and child support, even though parentage denied by defendant. Thurmond v. SuperiorCourt (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 836, 838, 59 Cal. Rptr. 273, 427 P.2d 985 ; Richter v. Superior Court (1963) 214 Cal. App. 2d 821, 823, 29 Cal. Rptr. 826 ; Carbone v. Superior Court (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 768, 770, 117 P.2d 872

[13] Personal Jurisdiction

Necessity for personal jurisdiction over defendant in paternity action. Hartford v. Superior Court (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 447, 453, 304 P.2d 1

[14] Presumptions of Paternity

Legislative declaration contained in former Evid. Code § 621, that issue of wife cohabiting with husband who is not impotent or sterile is conclusively presumed to be child of marriage, as really not a presumption but rule of substantive law. Ferguson v. Ferguson (1981) 126 Cal. App. 3d 744, 746, 179 Cal. Rptr. 108

In county action to compel nonimpotent black defendant to pay child support for child conceived by defendant's

Caucasian wife while living with defendant, trial court as not in error in refusing to recognize racial impossibility exception to conclusive presumption of child's legitimacy under former Evid. Code § 621 because theory unsupported by scientific evidence and racial difference dicta no longer followed in California. County of San Diego v. Brown (1978) 80 Cal. App. 3d 297, 301-302, 145 Cal. Rptr. 483

Social policy considerations such as upholding integrity of family, protecting child from stigma of illegitimacy, protecting welfare of child, and keeping child off welfare as enabling Legislature to enact conclusive presumption under former Evid. Code § 621. County of San Diego v. Brown (1978) 80 Cal. App. 3d 297, 303, 145 Cal. Rptr. 483

Conclusive presumption of paternity as not violating due process because there is rational connection between ultimate fact presumed and facts actually proved, and because social policy interests of state override private interests of defendant seeking to deny paternity. County of San Diego v. Brown (1978) 80 Cal. App. 3d 297, 304-308, 145 Cal. Rptr. 483

Conclusive presumption of paternity as not violating due process rights of defendant alleged to be father of child conceived by defendant's wife while living with him when blood tests are inconclusive and there are no reasonable alternative means to determine paternity. County of San Diego v. Brown (1978) 80 Cal. App. 3d 297, 305-306, 145 Cal. Rptr. 483

[15] Effect of Presumptions Relating to Paternity

One presumed to be father as presumptively entitled to custody for purposes of Penal Code § 278, prohibiting child abduction by one not entitled to custody, without judicial determination of paternity. People v. Johnson (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 1021, 1025-1026, 199 Cal. Rptr. 231

[16] Res Judicata

Doctrines of res judicata and collateral estoppel pertaining to issue of child's paternity as not properly invoked against grandparent who was party or privy in prior actions; public policies of maintaining parent-child relationships and ensuring finality of paternity judgments as properly prevailing over doctrines of res judicata and collateral estoppel. Guardianship of Claralyn S. (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 81, 85, 195 Cal. Rptr. 646

Judgments of paternity and child support obtained pursuant to statute later held unconstitutional because it permitted entry of final judgment against noncustodial parent based on out-of-court agreement, without notice and opportunity to be heard, and in absence of voluntary and intelligent waiver of parent's constitutional rights (Welf. & Inst. Code § 11476.1) as res judicata because of strong public interest in finality of such judgments. County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 988, 992-993, 177 Cal. Rptr. 70

Compromise of minor's paternity claim entered into by mother and alleged father as not effective to bar later action to establish paternity. Ernest P. v. Superior Court (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 234, 240, 168 Cal. Rptr. 438

Doctrine of res judicata as preventing relitigation of issue of paternity in proceeding to modify support order. De Weese v. Unick (1980) 102 Cal. App. 3d 100, 104, 162 Cal. Rptr. 259

Paternity determination made during dissolution proceedings as res judicata, in absence of extrinsic fraud or extrinsic mistake, when father aware of true facts but failed to contest paternity at time of dissolution. Brown v. Superior Court (1979) 98 Cal. App. 3d 633, 636, 159 Cal. Rptr. 604

[17] Right to Counsel

When county public defender refused indigent defendant's case and no private attorney offered to represent defendant gratuitously, court as in error for not appointing counsel and for dismissing case. County of Tulare v. Ybarra (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 580, 582, 192 Cal. Rptr. 49

[18] Statutes of Limitation

In action brought by mother to establish paternity and for child support, child as real party in interest and laches not imputed to child during minority; statute of limitations on paternity aspect of action as tolled during minority and father's duty of support as continuing obligation not affected by statute of limitations. Perez v. Singh (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 870, 872, 97 Cal. Rptr. 920

[19] Support of Child

Liability for support of illegitimate child as mutual obligation of both father and mother. Stargell v. Stargell (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 504, 507, 69 Cal. Rptr. 715

[20] Visitation Rights

Fact that child was conceived out of wedlock while father was adult and mother was minor and father's subsequent admission of paternity implied his admission of statutory rape as insufficient grounds for denial of visitation on basis of clean hands doctrine. In re Brandie W. (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 110, 114, 203 Cal. Rptr. 537

Natural father whose paternity is not presumed under the provisions of former Civ. Code § 7004 as still entitled to visitation rights provided such visitation in bestinterests of child. Griffith v. Gibson (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 465, 469, 471, 142 Cal. Rptr. 176

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidenceInferences & PresumptionsRebuttal of PresumptionsEvidenceScientific EvidenceBlood & Bodily FluidsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityUniform Parentage ActFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityBurdens of ProofFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityDefensesRes JudicataFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityDefensesStatutes of LimitationsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceBlood TestsHealthcare LawTreatmentReproductive TechnologyArtificial Insemination

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.114

§ 412.114 Attorney General Opinions

County as not required to pay costs of providing court-appointed counsel for indigent defendants in paternity actions. 64 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 257 (1981)

Under former Civ. Code § 248 and Welf. & Inst. Code § 11350.1, county as permitted to be named plaintiff in bringing action to obtain child support, whether or not case involves welfare funds. 59 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 18 (1976)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawPaternity & SurrogacyGeneral OverviewPublic Health & Welfare LawSocial ServicesLegal Aid

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.115

§ 412.115 Law Reviews

Comment, Father Knows Best--But Which Father? California's Presumption of Legitimacy Loses Its Conclusiveness: "Michael H. v. Gerald D." and Its Aftermath, 25 Loy. L.A.L. Rev. 275 (1991)

Kaye, DNA Paternity Possibilities, 24 Fam. L.Q. 279 (1990)

Comment, DNA Fingerprinting and Paternity Testing, 2 U.C. Davis L. Rev. 609 (1989)

Kopytoff, Surrogate Motherhood: Questions of Law and Values, 22 U.S.F. L. Rev. 205 (1988)

Comment, Protecting the Opportunity Interest of the Unwed Fathers of Newborn Infants Placed for Adoption: Does California's Statute Go Far Enough? 25 Cal. W.L. Rev. 123 (1988-1989)

Carbone, The Role of Contract Principles in Determining the Validity of Surrogacy Contracts, 28 Santa Clara L. Rev. 581 (1988)

Wheeler, A Father's Right to Know His Child: Can it Be Denied Simply Because the Mother Married Another Man? 20 Loy. L.A.L. Rev. 705 (1987)

Survey, Women and California Law, Part I, B: Child Custody, 16 Golden Gate U.L. Rev. 555 (1986)

Note, Redefining Mother: A Legal Matrix for New Reproductive Technologies, 96 Yale L.J. 187 (1986)

Comment, In Vitro Fertilization: Third Party Motherhood and the Changing Definition of Legal Parent, 17 Pac. L.J. 231 (1985)

Bird, Surrogate Parenthood: Hers? Yours? Ours? 2(2) Cal. St. B.J. 20 (1982)

Peterson, A Few Things You Should Know About Paternity Tests (But Were Afraid to Ask), 22 Santa Clara L. Rev. 667 (1982)

Comment, Surrogate Motherhood in California: Legislative Proposals, 18 San Diego L. Rev. 341 (1981)

Note, Eugenic Artificial Insemination: A Cure for Mediocrity? 94 Harv. L. Rev. 1850 (1981)

Sutton, The Lesbian Family: Rights in Conflict Under the California Uniform Parentage Act, 10 GGU L Rev 1007 (1980)

Comment, Paternity Testing With the Human Leukocyte Antigen System: A Medicolegal Breakthrough, 20 Santa Clara L Rev 511 (1980)

Annas, Fathers Anonymous: Beyond the Best Interests of the Sperm Do nor, 14 Fam. L.Q. 1 (1980)

Schmidt, Immigration Benefits for Children Born Out of Wedlock and for Their Natural Fathers: A Survey of the Law, 16 San Diego L. Rev. 11 (1978)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawParental Duties & RightsGeneral OverviewFamily LawParental Duties & RightsNonmarital ChildrenGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacySurrogacyAgreementsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacySurrogacyAssisted Reproduction ParentageHealthcare LawTreatmentReproductive TechnologyArtificial Insemination

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.116

§ 412.116 Text References

Disputed Paternity Proceedings (5th ed)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawPaternity & SurrogacyGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.117

§ 412.117 Annotations

"Admissibility, weight, and sufficiency of Human Leukocyte Antigen (HLA) tissue typing tests in paternity cases," 37 A.L.R.4th 167 (1985)

"Right of indigent defendant in paternity suit to have assistance of counsel at state expense," 4 A.L.R.4th 363 (1981)

"Proof of husband's impotency or sterility as rebutting presumption of legitimacy," 84 A.L.R.3d 495 (1978)

"Posthumous illegitimate child as 'child' entitled to survivor's benefits under § 216 of the Social Security Act (42 USCS § 416)," 36 A.L.R. Fed. 166 (1978)

"Determination of paternity of child as within scope of proceeding under Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act," 81 A.L.R.3d 1175 (1977)

"Legitimation by marriage to natural father of child born during mother's marriage to another," 80 A.L.R.3d 219 (1977)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawChild SupportObligationsEnforcementGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportObligationsEnforcementInterstate EnforcementUniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support ActFamily LawParental Duties & RightsNonmarital ChildrenGeneral OverviewFamily LawParental Duties & RightsNonmarital ChildrenSocial Security BenefitsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 412.118-412.129

[Reserved]

§§ 412.118[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART IV. FORMS

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.130

§ 412.130 Petition to Establish Parental Relationship and Summons With Standard Restraining Order [Fam. Code § 7630]--Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-200, FL-210

[1] FORMS Petition to Establish Parental Relationship and Summons With Standard Restraining Order [Fam. Code § 7630]--Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-200, FL-210

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Forms

These forms are illustrative versions of the Judicial Council forms of Petition to Establish Parental Relationship and Summons (with standard restraining order), for use in a proceeding to establish a parental relationship under the Uniform Parentage Act [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-200, FL-210; see Fam. Code §§ 7630 (father-child relationship), 7650 (mother-child relationship)]. The Summons form is designated as "adopted," and therefore is mandatory for use. The Petition form is designated as "approved," and therefore is optional. However, former Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1215(b) provided that the only pleading permitted by a petitioner to establish a parental relationship was the petition prescribed by former Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1296.60 (now Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-200), except for an action filed by the district attorney or other local child support agency in actions filed under Fam. Code § 17400 et seq. Effective January 1, 2003, Rule 1215 was amended, and the replacement rule [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.108] dropped this language. However, for all practical purposes, the "mandatory" use of both the forms of Summons and Petition has been established, except in public agency actions to establish parentage and support, which are discussed in Ch. 259, Family Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Support Enforcement . These forms are available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

The Judicial Council form of Summons with standard restraining order [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-210] prohibits either party from removing the child from the state without the prior written consent of the other parent or an order of the court [see Fam. Code § 7700, discussed in § 412.81[3]; see also Fam. Code § 231 et seq.].

This form is filled out to illustrate the situation in which the petition is filed by a man who alleges that he is the father of the child and is entitled to parental rights, including custody and visitation [see Fam. Code § 7630(c), discussed in § 412.70[2]].

The petition may also be brought by the mother against a man whom she alleges is the father of the child for a determination of paternity and child support, or by an adoption agency to whom the child has been relinquished or a prospective adoptive parent of the child [see Fam. Code § 7630(a), discussed in § 412.70[1]]. However, a mother in such a situation should consider contacting the public support agency who is authorized to bring the proceeding, whether or not the child is receiving public assistance [see Fam. Code § 17400 et seq.]. Paternity actions brought by the district attorney or other support agency are discussed in Ch. 259, Family Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Support Enforcement .

If the basis for the petitioner's claim is that a voluntary declaration of paternity has been signed, the box in Paragraph 5 must be marked (Item5(c)), and a copyof the declaration must be attached. For discussion of the effect of a voluntary declaration of paternity, see§ 4112.34 [see Fam. Code § 7571].

For a form of petition for child custody, visitation, and child support that does not seek to establish a parentage judgment, but which may be used either by parents who have signed a voluntary declaration of paternity, or who are married and have not brought another family law action, see Ch. 394, Parent and Child [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-260]. The Summons form illustrated above must also be used with that petition [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-210].

[3] Jurisdiction and Venue

The petition must be filed in the superior court [see Fam. Code § 200] of the county where the child resides or in which a licensed California adoption agency maintains an office if that agency brings the action [Fam. Code § 7620(b)(1),(2)]. If the father is deceased, the petition may be filed in any county where proceedings for probate of his estate have been or could be commenced [Fam. Code § 7620(b)(3)].

[4] When Petition Should Be Filed

The action may be filed before the child is born [see Fam. Code § 7633], and indeed, should definitely be filed before birth if the mother has stated her intention to place the child for adoption [see Adoption of Kelsey S. (1992) 1 Cal. 4th 816, 849, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615, 823 P.2d 1216 , discussed in Ch. 12A, Adoptions: Termination of Parental Rights, § 12A.15]. The Judicial Council form of Declaration Under Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act [see Fam. Code § 3429] must be attached (see item 6).

[5] Child Support

If paternity is determined, a child support order will be issued according to the statewide uniform child support guideline [see Fam. Code § 4050 et seq., discussed in Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support]. Therefore, the plaintiff should complete and attach the Judicial Council form of Income and Expense Declaration [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-150] (item 12). For an example, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide .

[6] Service

The petition is to be served on the respondent together with the illustrated Summons with restraining order on the reverse side [Fam. Code §§ 7635(b), 7666(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 413.10 et seq. (service of summons)]. In addition, a blank Response to Petition to Establish Parental Relationship must be served with the complaint [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-220; see § 412.132].

The entire package--complaint, summons, standard restraining order, blank answer, and supporting documents--should be served on the defendant, and a Judicial Council Proof of Service filed with the clerk [see Cal. Judicial Council Form DV-140]. A copy of the Petition and its attachments, Summons, all supporting documents, and blank Response, should be served on the respondent. Proof of service should be made using Cal. Judicial Council Form DV-140, Proof of Service (Family Law, Domestic Violence Prevention, Uniform Parentage). An illustrated version of this form is set forth in Ch. 293, Harassment and Domestic Violence . For further discussion of notice, see*§ 412.78*.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureVenueIndividual DefendantsCivil ProcedureVenuePublic OfficialsFamily LawAdoptionGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild CustodyEnforcementUniform Child Custody Jurisdiction & Enforcement ActFamily LawChild SupportObligationsComputationGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportObligationsEnforcementGeneral OverviewFamily LawParental Duties & RightsTermination of RightsGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityUniform Parentage ActFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityGeneral OverviewPublic Health & Welfare LawSocial SecurityAssistance to FamiliesGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART IV. FORMS

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.131

§ 412.131 Petition to Establish Nonpaternity--By Presumed Father of Child Born During Marriage [Fam. Code §§ 7611(a), 7630(a)(2)]

[1] FORM Petition to Establish Nonpaternity--By Presumed Father of Child Born During Marriage [Fam. Code §§ 7611(a), 7630(a)(2)]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Petitioner,	)
vs.	)
_____ [name of mother],	)
_____ [name of alleged father, if any],	)	NO. _____
	)	PETITION TO ESTABLISH NONPATERNITY and	)
	)
_____ [name of child],	)
Respondents.	)
	)
	)

Petitioner alleges:

1. Respondent _____ [name of mother] and the child reside together at _____ [street address and city], California.

2. Petitioner and respondent _____ [name of mother] were married on or about

_____ [date], and were separated on or about _____ [date], and a final judgment of dissolution in proceeding number _____ [case number of dissolution proceeding] was entered on _____ [date], in [name of court where judgment of dissolution entered, e.g., the Superior Court of _____County, California].

3. On _____ [date during marriage or within 300 days of entry of judgment of dissolution], respondent _____ [name of mother] gave birth to respondent _____ [name of child] hereinafter referred to as "the child."

4. Without petitioner's knowledge or consent, respondent _____ [name of mother] had petitioner's name listed as the father on the child's birth certificate.

5. By virtue of the provisions of Section 7611, Subdivision (a) of the Family Code, petitioner is the presumed father of the child but is, in fact, not the father of the child.

6. During the period of conception, petitioner and respondent _____ (name of mother) were separated. Respondent _____ (name of mother) was cohabiting with respondent _____ (name of alleged father) at _____ (street address and city), California. Petitioner is informed and believes and thereon alleges that respondent _____ (name of alleged father) is, in fact, the father of the child.

7. Petitioner is informed and believes and thereon alleges that respondent _____ (name of alleged father) has denied, and continues to deny, his paternity of the child, has refused, and continues to refuse, to accept the child into his home or acknowledge the child as his, and has refused, and continues to refuse, to provide respondent _____ (name of mother) with any funds for the support, maintenance, and education of the child.

8. With full knowledge of the above-alleged facts, respondent _____ (name of mother) has nevertheless demanded from petitioner funds with which to provide for the support, maintenance, and education of the child and has stated that unless petitioner pays, she will "turn the matter over to the District Attorney."]

WHEREFORE, Petitioner prays judgment:

1. Declaring that he is not the father of the child.

[2. Declaring that respondent _____ [name of alleged father] is the father of the child, if the evidence so establishes.]

3. For costs of suit herein incurred.

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.
_____ [date]

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Petitioner _____ [name]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a petition for use to initiate a proceeding under the Uniform Parentage Act to declare the nonexistence of a parent-child relationship [see Fam. Code §§ 7630(a)(2) (action to determine nonexistence of father-child relationship), 7650 (action to determine nonexistence of mother-child relationship)]. The Judicial Council has not yet adopted a form for use in bringing such an action, and therefore this form should be used until it does so. Because the Judicial Council has recast its general (non-district attorney) form for bringing a parentage action as a petition, instead of a complaint, as of January 1, 1999 (see § 412.130), this form is also cast as a petition.

The form alleges that the petition and the respondent petitioner were marriedbut separated before the child was conceived. But because the child was born before their marriage was dissolved, the respondent petitioner must rebut the presumption, based on the marriage, that he is the father of the respondent mother's child [see Fam. Code § 7611(a), discussed in § 412.32[1]]. The form may be adapted for use to rebut other presumptions of paternity arising from other facts. For further discussion of considerations relevant to actions under the UPA, see the Comments to see § 412.130.

[3] Parties

In addition to the mother, an alleged father and the child have been named as respondents in the proceeding [see Fam. Code § 7635(a) (child may be party to action)]. The child should be made a party so that a judgment of nonpaternity will have res judicata effect with regard to any subsequent paternity proceeding that may be brought by the child [see Ruddock v. Ohls (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 271, 277-279, 154 Cal. Rptr. 87 , discussed in § 412.72].

If an alleged father has been identified, he may be made a party, but must be given notice of the action [Fam. Code § 7635(b); see § 412.135]. His paternity may be adjudged in the action if he has been made a party [Fam. Code § 7630(a)(2)].

[4] When Action Must Be Brought

An action to declare the nonexistence of a parent-child relationship that is presumed by virtue of the marriage or attempted marriage of the parents may be brought only within a reasonable time after obtaining knowledge of the relevant facts [Fam. Code § 7630(a)(2)]. However, an action to determine the nonexistence of a relationship that is presumed because thealleged father has received the child into his home may be brought at any time [Fam. Code § 7630(b); see Fam. Code § 7611(d)].

[5] Verification

All complaints or petitions brought under the Family Code must be verified [Fam. Code § 212; see Code Civ. Proc. § 446].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawParental Duties & RightsConsentGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyBirth CertificatesGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyBirth CertificatesNamed FatherFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityFather's AcknowledgmentFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityUniform Parentage ActFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityDefensesRes JudicataFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityPresumptionsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART IV. FORMS

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.132

§ 412.132 Response to Petition to Establish Parental Relationship--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-220

[1] FORM Response to Petition to Establish Parental Relationship--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-220

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is an illustration of the Judicial Council form of Response to Petition to Establish Parental Relationship under the Uniform Parentage Act [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-220; see Fam. Code § 7630 (action to determine father-child relationship), 7650 (action to determine mother-child relationship)]. The Response form is designated as "approved," and therefore is optional. However, former Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1215(c) provided that the only pleading permitted by a respondent to respond to an action to establish a parental relationship was this response form [former Cal. Judicial Council Form 1296.65 (now Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-220)], except for an action filed by the district attorney or other local child support agency in actions filed under Fam. Code § 17400 et seq. Effective January 1, 2003, Rule 1215 was amended, and the replacement rule [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.108] dropped this language. However, for all practical purposes, the "mandatory" use of the form has been established in private actions. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

The response may be used to deny the allegations of the petition, to assert affirmative defenses, or to admit the parental relationship and either request or agree to child custody, visitation, or support. Possible affirmative defenses are set forth in see §§ 412.133 and 412.134.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawChild CustodyGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityUniform Parentage Act

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART IV. FORMS

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.133

§ 412.133 Affirmative Defenses to Petition to Establish Paternity--Mother Cohabiting With Husband at Time of Conception [Fam. Code § 7540]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defenses to Petition to Establish Paternity--Mother Cohabiting With Husband at Time of Conception [Fam. Code § 7540]

AS A [if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, respondent alleges that:

1. _____ [Petitioner mother or name of mother if she is not Petitioner] was cohabiting with her husband _____ [name of husband], during the period from_____ [date], through _____ [date], the period of time during which the child who is the subject of this action could have been conceived.

2. During all of the above-mentioned period, _____ [name of husband] was not impotent or sterile.

3. _____ [Name of husband] is conclusively presumed to be the father of the child referred to in the Petition herein.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a defense for use in respondent's response to a Petition to establish a father and child relationship brought under the UniformParentage Act (Fam. Code § 7600 et seq.) [see Fam. Code § 7630 (action to determine father-child relationship)]. The defense sets up the facts necessary to establish the conclusive presumption that the husband is the father of a child born to a married woman, if the spouses were cohabiting at the time of conception and the husband is not impotent or sterile [see Fam. Code § 7540, discussed in § 412.31.

This affirmative defense may be inserted in Item 7 of the Judicial Council form of Response to Petition to Establish Parental Relationship [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-220]. An illustrative form of the Response is set forth in § 412.132.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePleading & PracticeDefenses, Demurrers & ObjectionsAffirmative DefensesGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityUniform Parentage ActFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityDefensesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART IV. FORMS

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.134

§ 412.134 Affirmative Defenses to Petition to Establish Paternity--Sexual Intercourse With Other Men

[1] FORM Affirmative Defenses to Petition to Establish Paternity--Sexual Intercourse With Other Men
AS A [if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, respondent alleges that between _____ [date] and _____ [date], the period of time during which the child who is the subject of this action could have been conceived, petitioner mother engaged in acts of sexual intercourse with _____ [name or names of persons; or if names are not known, a certain person or persons, the names of whom respondent is ignorant, but petitioner mother well knows].

[2] Use of Form

This form is a defense for use in respondent's response to a petition to establish a father and child relationship brought under the Uniform Parentage Act (Fam. Code § 7600 et seq.) [see Fam. Code § 7630 (action to determine father-child relationship)]. The defense alleges that someone other than himself is the child's father.

This affirmative defense may be inserted in Item 7 of the Judicial Council form of Response to Petition to Establish Parental Relationship [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-220]. An illustrative form of the Response is set forth in § 412.132.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePleading & PracticeDefenses, Demurrers & ObjectionsAffirmative DefensesGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityUniform Parentage ActFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityDefensesGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART IV. FORMS

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.135

§ 412.135 Notice of Paternity Action [Fam. Code §§ 7635(b), 7666]

[1] FORM Notice of Paternity Action [Fam. Code §§ 7635(b), 7666]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF_____

_____ [name],	)
Petitioner,	)
	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
	)	NOTICE OF PATERNITY ACTION
_____ [name],	)
Respondent.	)
	)
	)

_____

To:_____ [name of person being given notice]
YOU ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED that on _____ [date], a petition was filed in the above-entitled court by _____ [name of plaintiff] as petitioner against_____ [name of respondent] as respondent, for the purpose of seeking a declaration that respondent is the natural father of the minor child therein named. A copy of that petition is attached to this notice.
You are served with this notice as the_____ [specify status of person being noticed e.g., presumed father of the minor child therein named], and are entitled to an opportunity to be heard in the case.

This notice is given under the provisions of Section 7635(b) of the California Family Code.
_____ [date]

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Petitioner _____ [name]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a notice to a nonparty that a proceeding has been filed to determine the existence or nonexistence of a parent-child relationship under the Uniform Parentage Act. Notice of the action must be given to the natural mother, each man presumed to be the father under Fam. Code § 7611, and each man alleged to be the natural father, whether or not they are parties to the action [Fam. Code § 7635(b), discussed in § 412.78[2]].

[3] Manner of Giving Notice

Notice of the proceeding must be given in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure for the service of process in a civil actionin California, except that publication or posting of the notice is not required [Fam. Code § 7666(a)]. Provisions for service of process are found in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 413.10-417.40.

The notice should be accompanied by a copy of the petition [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.10-415.40].

Proof of giving notice must be filed with the court [Fam. Code § 7666(a)]. Provisions for proof of service are found in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 417.10-417.40. If a person identified as the natural father or possible natural father cannot be located, or his whereabouts are unknown or cannot be ascertained, the court may issue an order dispensing with notice to such person [Fam. Code § 7666(b)].

For a general discussion and forms relating to service of process and proof of service, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

[4] Nonparty's Response

Fam. Code § 7635(b) requires that a nonparty be given an opportunity to be heard in the action but does not specify the manner in which this requirement can be met. Therefore, a nonparty could file a notice of motion for an order requiring that he or she be joined as a petitioner or respondent under Code Civ. Proc. § 389, or seek to intervene under Code Civ. Proc. § 387. For discussion and forms relating to joinder of parties and intervention, see Ch. 395, Parties .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProceduresPleading & PracticeService of ProcessMethodsGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticeService of ProcessMethodsPublicationCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticeService of ProcessProofGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresPartiesJoinderGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityUniform Parentage Act

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART IV. FORMS

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.136

§ 412.136 Proceedings for Order to Require Parties to Submit to Genetic Tests [Fam. Code § 7551]--Notice of Motion

[1] FORM Proceedings for Order to Require Parties to Submit to Genetic Tests [Fam. Code § 7551]--Notice of Motion

_____ [name],	)	NO. _____
Petitioner,	)	NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION FOR ORDER REQUIRING GENETIC TESTS
vs.	)	Date: _____
_____ [name],	)	Time: _____
Respondent.	)	Location: _____
	)	Judge: _____
	)	Date Action Filed: _____
	)	Trial Date: _____

To _____ [identify party, e.g., respondent] _____ [name] and to his/her attorney of record:
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division)] _____ of this court, located at _____ [street address], _____ [city], _____ [specify party, e.g., petitioner] will, and hereby does, move for an order appointing experts to examine the blood or other genetic material of the following persons:
1. _____ [Name of child], the minor whose paternity is in issue;

2. Petitioner; and

3. Respondent

for the purpose of determining the _____ [blood groupings or specify other genetic indicia acknowledged as reliable by accreditation bodies designated by the United States Secretary of Health and Human Services] of these persons in connection with the claim that _____ [petitioner or respondent] is the father of the minor and to require those persons to submit to the collection from them of blood or other genetic material for testing on dates, times, and places as the court may direct. The motion will be made on the ground that these tests are reasonably necessary to resolve the paternity issue and are authorized by statute.
The motion will be based on this notice of motion, [on the declaration(s) of _____ [name(s)] and] the memorandum of points and authorities served and filed herewith, on the records and file herein, and on such evidence as may be presented at the hearing of the motion.
_____ [date]

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for _____ [party's status and name]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a notice of motion for an order for genetic tests in a civil action or proceeding in which paternity is at issue [see Fam. Code § 7551 (order for genetic tests), discussed in § 412.50]. The motion is for use by either the petitioner or the respondent in the action. It requests tests for the child whose paternity is the subject of the action, the mother, and the alleged father.

This form is captioned for use in a paternity proceeding under the Uniform Parentage Act. It may be adapted for use in another kind of proceeding by a party who is moving for genetic tests to rebut the presumption that the husband is the father of a child born to a married woman, if the spouses were cohabiting at the time of conception and the husband was not then impotent or sterile [Fam. Code § 7540, discussed in § 412.31]. The presumption is subject to a limited right of rebuttal [see Fam. Code § 7541(a),(e), discussed in § 412.31[2]]; however, the right to rebut, if it exists, is not limited to UPA paternity proceedings, but may be raised in other contexts in which the husband's paternity may be relevant. For example, the husband himself might make such a motion in a proceeding for dissolution of marriage in which he contests that he is actually the father of a child conceived during marriage [see Fam. Code § 7541(b)].

[3] Time for Making Motion and Service

The motion must be made at a time so as not to delay the proceedings unduly, and presumably in time to have the tests completed before trial [Fam. Code § 7551]. If it is made to rebut the presumption of Fam. Code § 7540, it must be made not later than two years from the child's birth [Fam. Code § 7541(b),(c)].

The notice of motion must be filed and served at least 16 court days before the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)]. If service is by mail, the 16-day period is increased by five calendar days if the place of mailing and the address are within California, 10 calendar days if the address is outside California but within the United States, and 20 calendar days if the address is outside of the United States [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)]. If service is by facsimile transmission, express mail, or other method of overnight delivery, the 16-day period is increased by two calendar days [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)]. The 16-day period may be shortened by court order made on the court's own motion, or on application for an order shortening time supported by a declaration showing good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(b)].

Proof of service of the moving papers must be filed no later than five calendar days before the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(c)]. The moving papers may not be rejected for filing on the ground that they were not submitted in a timely manner. If the court, in its discretion, refuses to consider a late-filed paper, the minutes or order must indicate that fact [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(d)]. A paper that is submitted before the close of the clerk's office to the public on the day the paper is due is considered to be timely filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(e)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePleading & PracticePleadingsGeneral OverviewEvidenceInferences & PresumptionsRebuttal of PresumptionsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityUniform Parentage ActFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceGenetic TestsPublic Health & Welfare LawSocial SecurityAssistance to FamiliesGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART IV. FORMS

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.137

§ 412.137 Proceedings for Order to Require Parties to Submit to Genetic Tests [Fam. Code § 7551]--Supporting Declaration

[1] FORM Proceedings for Order to Require Parties to Submit to Genetic Tests [Fam. Code § 7551]--Supporting Declaration

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF_____

	)
	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	DECLARATION OF_____ [name]
Petitioner,	)	IN SUPPORT OF MOTION FOR GENETIC TESTS
vs.	)	Date: _____
_____ [name],	)	Time: _____
Respondent.	)	Location: _____
	)	Judge: _____
	)	Date Action Filed: _____
	)	Trial Date: _____

_____

I,_____ [name], declare:
1. I am the _____ [petitioner or respondent] in the above-entitled action. I am seeking an order requiring genetic tests based on the following facts.
2. I had sexual intercourse on numerous occasions with respondent _____ [name of alleged father] during the period from _____ [date], to _____ [date], and I conceived the child _____ [name of child] on or about _____ [date of conception] as a result of this sexual intercourse.
3. During the above period, I did not have sexual intercourse with any man other than respondent _____ [name of alleged father].
2. During the period from _____ [date], to _____ [date], when the child

_____ [name of child] was conceived by my [former] wife _____ [name of mother], I was living with my [former] wife _____ [name of mother] at _____ [address]. During the above-mentioned period, [state factual basis for placing issue of paternity before the court, e.g., I did not have sexual intercourse with my wife or I was told by my wife that she was participating in an extramarital affair with another man (whose identity she would not reveal) and that she believed that she was pregnant by this man].
2. During the period from _____ [date] to _____ [date], when the child _____ [name of child] was conceived by _____ [name of mother], I did not engage in any act of sexual intercourse with _____ [name of mother]. [I have not had sexual intercourse with _____ [name of mother] since _____ [date] or I have never had sexual intercourse with _____ [name of mother].
3. During the period from _____ [date] to _____ [date], when the child _____ [name of child] was conceived by _____ [name of mother], I observed _____ [name of mother] in the company of _____ [name(s) of other man or men] on numerous occasions, and I was told by _____ [name of informant], _____ [identity of informant, e.g.,, sister of _____ (name of mother)] that _____ [name of mother] was sexually involved with the above-mentioned man/men. I therefore believe that _____ [name(s) of other man or men] may be the father of the child _____ [name of child].

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]
_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a declaration for use in support of a motion for an order requiring genetic tests in a civil action or proceeding in which paternity is at issue [see Fam. Code § 7550 et seq. (Uniform Act on Blood Tests to Determine Paternity)].

The declaration is required in any proceeding concerning the presumption of paternity under Fam. Code § 7540. In such a case, a notice of motion for the test must be supported by a declaration under oath submitted by the moving party that states the factual basis for placing the issue of paternity before the court [Fam. Code § 7541(d)].

The form contains sample fact situations that may be used by a petitioner mother seeking to prove respondent is the father, by a respondent who is an alleged father seeking to prove he is not the father, or by a husband or ex-husband of a mother seeking to prove he is not the father.

For general forms of supporting declarations, see Ch. 15, Affidavits, Certificates, and Declarations , and Ch. 372, Motions and Orders . See also Comments to*§ 412.136*.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceBlood TestsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceGenetic TestsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityPresumptionsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART IV. FORMS

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.138

§ 412.138 Order for Genetic (Parentage) Testing--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-627

[1] FORM

Order for Genetic (Parentage) Testing--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-627

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is the Judicial Council form of order requiring genetic tests. Because the form is "adopted" rather than "approved," its use is mandatory [see Introductory Statement to California Rules of Court; Gov. Code § 68511]. It may be used in any proceeding in which paternity is at issue [see Fam. Code § 7551 (order for genetic tests), discussed in § 412.50].

The order appoints the experts who are to conduct the tests, and lists their names and addresses (line 2). On line 4 ("Other"), it sets the date by which the test results are to be reported to the court and to the parties [see Fam. Code § 7551 (motion for genetic tests must be made at a time so as not to delay proceedings unduly)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawPaternity & SurrogacyGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceGenetic Tests

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART IV. FORMS

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.139

§ 412.139 Declaration in Support of Motion for Pendente Lite Support, Hospital and Medical Expenses, Attorney's Fees, and Costs

[1] FORM Declaration in Support of Motion for Pendente Lite Support, Hospital and Medical Expenses, Attorney's Fees, and Costs

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF_____

	)
	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	DECLARATION OF_____ [name]
Petitioner,	)	IN SUPPORT OF MOTION FOR PENDENTE LITE
vs.	)	SUPPORT, HOSPITAL AND MEDICAL EX-
_____ [name],	)	PENSES, ATTORNEY'S FEES AND COSTS
Respondent.	)	Date: _____
	)	Time: _____
	)	Location: _____
	)	Judge: _____
		Date Action Filed: _____
		Trial Date: _____

_____

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am the petitioner in the above-entitled action. I am seeking an order requiring respondent, pending determination of this action, to pay (1) hospital and medical expenses incurred in giving birth to _____ [name of child], hereinafter referred to as "the child," in the sum of $_____; (2) child support to be determined under the statewide uniform child support guideline; and (3) attorney's fees and court costs incurred to date in the sums of $_____ and $_____, respectively. In support of this application, I declare:

1. I have incurred hospital and medical expenses in connection with the birth of the child in the sum of $_____[, of which I have paid the sum of $_____ (amount), leaving a balance due in the sum of $_____].

2. The child is in my custody, and resides with me at _____ [street address and city], California.
3. A current Income and Expense Declaration _____ [is currently on file in this matter or will be filed not less than 15 days before the above-noted hearing date].
4. Petitioner has incurred attorney's fees and court costs to date in the sums of $_____ and $_____, respectively, [none of which has been paid].
5. I am informed and believe, and thereon state that respondent has a net monthly disposable income, as computed under the statewide uniform child support guideline, in excess of $_____ per month and is financially well able to pay the expenses, child support, fees, and costs herein requested.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]
_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Petitioner

[2] Use of Form

This form is a declaration for use in obtaining a pendente lite order requiring the respondent in a proceeding under the Uniform Parentage Act [Fam. Code § 7600 et seq.] to pay pendente lite child support, medical and hospital expenses incurred by the mother during pregnancy, and attorney's fees and costs. For discussion of the availability of pendente lite orders under the Uniform Parentage Act and the preliminary showing of probable paternity that is required [see Carbone v. Superior Court (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 768, 770-772, 117 P.2d 872] , see*§ 412.81[1][a]*.

[3] Judicial Council Forms

A request for a pendente lite order is made by an application for an order to show cause if the defendant has not appeared in the action. If the defendant already has appeared in the action, a request for temporary support may be made by noticed motion, rather than order to show cause.

Judicial Council forms adopted for use in proceedings under the Family Code (including UPA proceedings) should be used [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-300 (Order to Show Cause), Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-301 (Notice of Motion), and Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310 (Application for order and Supporting Declaration)]. Examples of these forms are set forth in Ch. 220, Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide . These forms are available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

There is also a Judicial Council form of Attached Declaration for use to set forth lengthier declarations, such as the one in this form [see Judicial Council form MC-031]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[4] Income and Expense Declaration

The Judicial Council form of Income and Expense Declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-150] should be filed in any proceeding at which child support is at issue. For a illustrative filled-in form of income andexpense declaration, see Ch. 220, Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide . A copy of the income and expense declaration is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[5] Amount of Child Support

The amount of support will be determined under the statewide uniform child support guideline [Fam. Code § 4055 et seq.] based on the information for the parties' respective income and expense declarations. For discussion of the guideline, see Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support , and Kirkland, Lurvey Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Vol. 2, Ch. 41, 2d Ed. (Matthew Bender).

[6] California Points and Authorities

For a memorandum of points and authorities in support of pendente lite orders for support, medical and hospital expenses, and attorney's fees and costs in a paternity action, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 171, Paternity

[7] Cross References

For additional discussion and forms of notice of motion and orders to show cause, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawChild SupportObligationsComputationGuidelinesFamily LawChild SupportObligationsTypesGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportObligationsTypesMedical SupportFamily LawChild SupportObligationsTypesTemporary SupportFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityUniform Parentage Act

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART IV. FORMS

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.140

§ 412.140 Judgment Establishing Parentage, With Support, Custody, and Other Orders--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-250

[1] FORM

Judgment Establishing Parentage, With Support, Custody, and Other Orders--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-250

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form an illustrative version of the mandatory Judicial Council form of Judgment, for use in an action under the Uniform Parentage Act [Fam. Code § 7630; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-250]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[3] Orders Included in Judgment

The judgment may contain provisions relating to any matter in the best interests of the child, including support, custody, visitation, and payment of pregnancy-related expenses [Fam. Code § 7637, discussed in § 412.86]. This judgment form contemplates the use of a variety of other Judicial Council forms to set forth these other provisions. If the judgment contains original or modified personal conduct restraining orders, counsel should check the appropriate box in Paragraph 1, as well as listing their expiration date [see generally Fam. Code § 6200 et seq.]. The orders must be set out in a Judicial Council form designed for use in connection with transmission of information to the California Law Enforcement Telecommunications System (CLETS). Accordingly, it is suggested that form DV-130, Restraining Order After Hearing (CLETS) be attached to the judgment form [see ch. 293, Harassment and Domestic Violence]. In addition, in Paragraph 1 of the judgment, counsel must specify which section or sections of the attachment contain the personal conduct restraining orders.

When provisions for child custody or visitation are contained in the judgment, the box for Paragraph 4(a) must be marked, and counsel must attach a completed Judicial Council form of Child Custody and Visitation Order Attachment [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-341], Stipulation for Order for Child Custody and/or Visitation of Children [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-355], along with any other appropriate documents as specified. If provisions for child support are contained in the judgment, the box for Paragraph 5(a) must be marked, and counsel must attach a completed Judicial Council form of Child Support Information and Order Attachment [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-342] or Stipulation to Establish or Modify Child Support and Order [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-350], along with any other appropriate documents. In addition, the Judicial Council forms of Notice of Rights and Responsibilities--Health Care Costs and Reimbursement Procedures and Information Sheet on Changing a Child Support Order must be attached to the judgment [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-192]; and, within 10 days of the issuance of the judgment, both parties must complete and file with the court a Child Support Case Registry Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-191].

If either party signed a Voluntary Declaration of Paternity, or if there is a prior judgment of parentage against either party in a family support, juvenile, or adoption court case, those must also be attached.

Finally, if either party appeared in the action and waived essential due process rights in order to conclude the action, after being advised of those rights, the Judicial Council form of Advisement and Waiver of Rights re Establishment of Parental Relationship must be attached for each waiving party [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-235; see § 412.142].

To the extent that the court has made orders that are contained in the preprinted provisions of the form, they may be listed under Paragraph 3(i), and continued on an attachment if there is insufficient space on the form to set them forth.

For related discussion of the use of Judicial Council forms in giving notice of the entry of judgment, see Ch. 220, Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-190 (notice of entry of judgment form)].

[4] Statement of Decision

On the request of any party appearing at trial, the court must issue a statement of decision explaining the factual and legal basis for its decision as to each of the controverted issues at trial specified in the request [Code Civ. Proc. § 632]. For further discussion and forms, see Ch. 529, Statement of Decision .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild CustodyVisitationAwardsStandardsBest Interests of ChildFamily LawChild SupportObligationsGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportObligationsModificationGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityPaternity RegistriesFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityUniform Parentage Act

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART IV. FORMS

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.141

§ 412.141 Declaration for Default or Uncontested Judgment--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-230

[1] FORM

Declaration for Default or Uncontested Judgment--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-230

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is an illustrative version of the mandatory Judicial Council form of Declaration for Default or Uncontested Judgment, for use in uncontested parentage proceedings [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-230]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

Use of this form contemplates that the party seeking judgment will not appear before the court unless ordered to do (see Paragraph 2). It may be used both in the situation in which a respondent has defaulted, or in which a respondent has filed a response but the parties have stipulated that the matter may proceed as uncontested. Paragraph 6 contains check-off boxes to indicate which situation applies. Any stipulation to proceed as an uncontested matter must be attached to the form. Although the form does not currently make reference to it, the Judicial Council form of Stipulation for Entry of Judgment re Establishment of Parental Relationship would apparently be appropriate to attach [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-240; see § 412.142]. In addition, if this form is used pursuant to a stipulation of the parties, the Judicial Council form of Advisement and Waiver of Rights re Establishment of Parental Relationship must be attached [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-235; see § 412.142].

The Judicial Council form of Judgment (Uniform Parentage), including any required attachments for that form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-250; see § 412.140], must be submitted with this form. Check-off boxes in this form for Paragraphs 7-12, which identify various types of orders, should be marked to correspond with orders proposed in the Judgment form. If child support is being requested, counsel must also attach a completed Income and Expense Declaration or Financial Statement (Simplified), unless a current version is on file with the court [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-150, FL-155]. In addition, if a voluntary declaration of paternity has been signed, the appropriate box in Paragraph 5 should be marked and a copy of the declaration, if available, should be attached to this form.

For a general discussion of procedures in default or other uncontested proceedings under the Family Code, including the requirements for submitting self-addressed, postage paid envelopes, see Ch. 220, Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProceduresPretrial JudgmentsDefaultGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresPretrial JudgmentsDefaultDefault JudgmentsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART IV. FORMS

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.142

§ 412.142 Stipulation for Entry of Judgment and Advisement and Waiver of Rights re Establishment of Parental Relationship--Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-235, FL-240

[1] FORM

Stipulation for Entry of Judgment and Advisement and Waiver of Rights re Establishment of Parental Relationship--Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-235, FL-240

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Forms

Illustrated above are reproductions of the Judicial Council forms of Stipulation for Entry of Judgment re Establishment of Parental Relationship and of Advisement and Waiver of Rights re Establishment of Parental Relationship, for use in uncontested parentage proceedings [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-235, FL-240]. Although only the Stipulation form is designated as "Adopted," and therefore mandatory (while the Advisement is merely "approved") both forms should be used, without substitution of other forms. These forms are available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

These forms are designed for use in connection with the Judicial Council forms of Judgment (Uniform Parentage) and Declaration for Default or Uncontested Judgment (Uniform Parentage) [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-230, FL-250]; see §§ 412.140-412.141]. Accordingly, if the parties have stipulated regarding specific issues, the corresponding orders in the Judgment would need to be completed (along with all required attachments for the judgment), and counsel would mark the check-off boxes for those orders on the Stipulation form (Paragraphs 3-8). Any additional orders that are the subject of a stipulation may be referenced under Paragraph 9 of the Stipulation form, and set out there (if space permits), or by an attachment. See also the Comments to*§ 412.141*.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePretrial JudgmentsDefaultGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePretrial JudgmentsDefaultDefault JudgmentsFamily LawParental Duties & RightsGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART IV. FORMS

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.143

§ 412.143 Request for Hearing and Application to Set Aside Voluntary Declaration of Paternity [Fam. Code § 7575; Code Civ. Proc. § 473]--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-280

[1] FORM Request for Hearing and Application to Set Aside Voluntary Declaration of Paternity [Fam. Code § 7575; Code Civ. Proc. § 473]--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-280

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a reproduction of the Judicial Council form of Request for Hearing and Application to Set Aside Voluntary Declaration of Paternity that has been adopted for mandatory use [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-280]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

This form is for use in setting up a hearing for the purpose of obtaining a court order to set aside a voluntary declaration of paternity and to order genetic tests to determine parentage [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.350]. The basis for the set aside would be any of the grounds specifically described in Code Civ. Proc. § 473--such as, for example, mistake of fact or of law--and including fraud or perjury [see Fam Code § 7575(c); Code Civ. Proc. § 473].

The form requires that the grounds for relief be stated (Paragraph 8), and that specific facts in support of the relief requested be set out (Paragraph 12). Note that particular attention should be paid to whether or not there is already on file a judgment or order of paternity, child support, visitation or child custody based on the voluntary declaration of paternity. If there is, then the items in Paragraph 10 must be addressed; but if there is no such order or judgment, Paragraph 10 would be left blank and the items in Paragraph 11 addressed. Detailed instructions for completing the form are set forth in pages 3-5 of the form.

The court clerk, on receipt of the completed form, must assign a case number and schedule a court date, which must be no earlier than 31 days after the filing date, and no later than 45 days after the filing date [Cal. Rules of Court, Rule 5.350(c)]. The moving party must serve, either by personal service or mail, the request for hearing and a blank Judicial Council form of Responsive Declaration to Application to Set Aside Voluntary Declaration of Paternity on the other person who signed the paternity declaration [Cal. Rules of Court, Rule 5.350(d); see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-285; see § 412.144]. If a local child support agency is providing services in the case, the moving party must also serve a copy of the request for hearing on the agency [Cal. Rules of Court, Rule 5.350(d)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentExcusable Neglect & MistakesMistakeFamily LawChild SupportGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportObligationsGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceGenetic Tests

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART IV. FORMS

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.144

§ 412.144 Responsive Declaration to Application to Set Aside Voluntary Declaration of Paternity [Fam. Code § 7575; Code Civ. Proc. § 473]--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-285

[1] FORM Responsive Declaration to Application to Set Aside Voluntary Declaration of Paternity [Fam. Code § 7575; Code Civ. Proc. § 473]--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-285

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a reproduction of the Judicial Council form of ResponsiveDeclaration to Application to Set Aside Voluntary Declaration of Paternity that has been adopted for mandatory use [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-285; see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.350]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

This form is for use by a person who signed a voluntary declaration of paternity to respond to an application to set aside the declaration by the other person who signed the declaration. It is also for use by a district attorney or other local child support agency who is providing services in the case to respond to an application to set aside a voluntary declaration of paternity. This form provides check-off boxes by which the responding party may indicate either consent or refusal to consent to setting aside the voluntary declaration of paternity. Note that in either case, the responding party must also set out facts in support of the response made (Paragraph 4).

According to the form instructions, the responding party must file the completed form and any attachments with the court clerk at least 10 court days before the hearing. A copy of the completed form must be served on the moving party. The Judicial Council form of Information Sheet for Service of Process [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-611] is referred to in this form for its explanation of service of process.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART IV. FORMS

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.145

§ 412.145 Order After Hearing on Motion to Set Aside Voluntary Declaration of Paternity [Fam. Code § 7575; Code Civ. Proc. § 473]--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-290

[1] FORM Order After Hearing on Motion to Set Aside Voluntary Declaration of Paternity [Fam. Code § 7575; Code Civ. Proc. § 473]--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-290

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a reproduction version of the Judicial Council form of Order After Hearing on Motion to Set Aside Voluntary Declaration of Paternity that has been adopted for mandatory use [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-290; see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.350]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

This form is for use in setting forth a court's order after a hearing on the issue of whether or not a voluntary declaration of paternity should be set aside under Fam Code § 7575(c)--which permits a motion or action to set aside the declaration for any of the causes specifically enumerated in Code Civ. Proc. § 473, and including fraud or perjury. If the voluntary declaration is set aside, the specific grounds for the set aside must be set forth on the form (Paragraph 3), and genetic testing ordered (Paragraph 4). If genetic testing is ordered, the date by which the testing is to be completed must be set forth (Paragraph 4), as well as a court date for further hearing on the test results (Paragraph 6). Note that if a preexisting order for child support, custody, or visitation based on the voluntary declaration existed in the matter, the court must indicate whether such an order remains in effect or is modified (Paragraph 7). Any additional orders may be set forth in Paragraph 9, "Other."

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawChild CustodyVisitationGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportObligationsGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART IV. FORMS

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.146

§ 412.146 Notice of Motion to Set Aside Judgment of Paternity; Declaration in Support of Motion to Set Aside Judgment of Paternity; Information Sheet for Completing Notice of Motion to Set Aside Judgment of Paternity [Fam. Code § 7646]--Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-272, FL-273, FL-274

[1] FORM Notice of Motion to Set Aside Judgment of Paternity; Declaration in Support of Motion to Set Aside Judgment of Paternity; Information Sheet for Completing Notice of Motion to Set Aside Judgment of Paternity [Fam. Code § 7646]--Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-272, FL-273, FL-274

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a reproduction of the Judicial Council forms of Notice of Motionto Set Aside Judgment of Paternity, Declaration in Support of Motion to Set Aside Judgment of Paternity, and Information Sheet for Completing Notice of Motion to Set Aside Judgment of Paternity, which have been adopted for mandatory use [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-272, FL-273, FL-274]. These forms are available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

These forms are for use in requesting an order setting aside a judgment of paternity when genetic testing indicates that the previously established father of a child is not the child's biological father [see Fam. Code § 7646(a)]. The motion may be filed by the previously established mother of the child, the previously established father of the child, or the child [see Fam. Code § 7646(a)].

The motion must specify the child's legal name, age, county of residence, and residence address [Fam. Code § 7647(a)(2)(A); see Paragraph 1 of Declaration]. It must also specify the names, mailing addresses, and counties of residence, or, if deceased, the date and place of death of, the previously established father, the previously established mother, the biological mother and father, the child's guardian (if any), the person who has physical custody of the child, and the child's guardian ad litem if one has been appointed [Fam. Code § 7647(a)(2)(B); see Paragraph 2 of Declaration].

The motion must be supported by a declaration stating that the person filing the motion believes the previously established father is not the child's biological father and the specific reasons for this belief [Fam. Code § 7647(a)(2)(C); see Paragraph 3 of Declaration]. The moving party is not required to present evidence of a paternity test indicating that the previously established father is not the child's biological father in order to bring the motion [Fam. Code § 7647(a)(2)(C)]. However, in order to grant the motion, the court must find that the conclusions of the expert under Fam. Code § 7552, as supported by the evidence, are that the previously established father is not the child's biological father [Fam. Code § 7647(a)(3)]. Any genetic testing used to support the motion must be conducted in accordance with Fam. Code § 7552 [Fam. Code § 7647.7].

The motion must include a proof of service on the previously established mother, the previously established father, the local child support agency that is providing services to the child, and the child's guardian ad litem (if any) [Fam. Code § 7647(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePleading & PracticeMotion PracticeGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentGeneral OverviewFamily LawGuardiansAppointmentFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyProof of PaternityEvidenceGenetic Tests

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART IV. FORMS

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.147

§ 412.147 Response to Notice of Motion to Set Aside Judgment of Paternity [Fam. Code § 7646]--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-276

[1] FORM Response to Notice of Motion to Set Aside Judgment of Paternity [Fam. Code § 7646]--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-276

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a reproduction of the Judicial Council form of Response to Noticeof Motion to Set Aside Judgment of Paternity, which has been adopted for mandatory use [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-276]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

This form may be used by the previously established mother, the previously established father, or a local child support agency that is providing services to the child, to respond to a motion to set aside a judgment, order, or decree previously entered in a court of this state that establishes paternity [see Fam. Code §§ 7645(b)-(d), 7647(b)].

Paragraph 4 of the form should be checked if the motion is incomplete, for example, because it is not supported by the required declaration or does not include all of the information that must be specified for the child, the parents of the child, the child's guardian, and any person who has physical custody of the child [see Fam. Code § 7647(a)].

Paragraph 5 of the form should be checked if the motion is untimely. The motion must be brought within a two-year period, commencing with the date on which the previously established father knew or should have known of a judgment that established him as the child's father, or commencing with the date the previously established father knew or should have known of the existence of an action to adjudicate the issue of paternity, whichever is first [Fam. Code § 7646(a)(1)]. The motion must be brought within a two-year period, commencing with the date of the child's birth if paternity was established by a voluntary declaration of paternity [Fam. Code § 7646(a)(2)].

Paragraph 6 of the form should be checked if the motion is improper. For example, a motion to set aside a judgment of paternity may not be used to terminate an adoption [see Fam. Code § 7648.8] or to set aside a judgment establishing paternity with regard to a child conceived by artificial insemination under Fam. Code § 7613 or a child conceived under a surrogacy agreement [see Fam. Code § 7648.9]. It also may not be used to set aside a judgment entered in an action for marital dissolution, legal separation, or nullity [see Fam. Code § 7645(b)].

The appropriate boxes in Paragraph 7 should be checked to indicate the facts in support of the Response.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePleading & PracticeMotion PracticeGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentIndependent ActionsFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART IV. FORMS

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.148

§ 412.148 Order After Hearing on Motion to Set Aside Judgment of Paternity [Fam. Code § 7646]--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-278

[1] FORM Order After Hearing on Motion to Set Aside Judgment of Paternity [Fam. Code § 7646]--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-278

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a reproduction of the Judicial Council form of Order After Hearingon Motion to Set Aside Judgment of Paternity, which has been adopted for mandatory use [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-276]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

Paragraph 1 should be completed to indicate the persons who were present at the hearing. Box (j) of Paragraph 5 should be checked if a judgment of nonpaternity is granted. Box (k) of Paragraph 5 should be checked if the motion is denied, and the reasons for the denial should be specified in Paragraphs 6 and 7. Any additional orders should be specified in Paragraph 9.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 35: Partition thru Paternity-Chs. 397-412
Chapter 412 PATERNITY
PART IV. FORMS

35-412 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 412.149

§ 412.149 Application and Order for Appointment of Guardian Ad Litem of Minor--Family Law [Fam. Code § 7635]--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-935

[1] FORM Application and Order for Appointment of Guardian Ad Litem of Minor--Family Law [Fam. Code § 7635]--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-935

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a reproduction of the Judicial Council form of Application and Order for Appointment of Guardian Ad Litem of Minor--Family Law, which has been approved for optional use [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-935]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis[(R)] Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format is also available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

This form should be used to apply for the appointment of a guardian ad litem for a minor who is a party to a paternity action [see Fam. Code § 7635(a); see also § 412.75[1]]. A child who is 12 years of age or older must be made a party to the action, and a child who is under 12 years of age may be made a party to the action [Fam. Code § 7635(a)].

The court may appoint a guardian ad litem for a minor on an ex parte application [Williams v. Superior Court (2007) 147 Cal. App. 4th 36, 47, 54 Cal. Rptr. 3d 13].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 413.syn

§ 413.syn Synopsis to Chapter 413: PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES

§ 413.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 413.02 Cross References

§§ 413.03-413.09 [Reserved]

§ 413.10 Scope of Analysis

§ 413.11 Governing Law

§§ 413.12-413.29 [Reserved]

§ 413.30 Governing Statutes

§ 413.31 Terminology Used in This Part

§ 413.32 "Hiring" Defined

§ 413.33 Duties of Hirer/Lessee

[1] Care, Repair, and Expenses

[2] Use for Particular Purpose

[3] Return

§ 413.34 Duties of Letter/Lessor

[1] In General

[2] Strict Liability or Warranty

§ 413.35 Recovery on Lessor's Default

§ 413.36 Products of Thing Hired

§ 413.37 Termination of Hiring

[1] In General

[2] Premature Termination by Letter/Lessor

[3] Premature Termination by Hirer/Lessee

[4] Hirer's Obligation on Premature Termination

§ 413.38 Lessor's Options on Lessee's Default

§§ 413.39-413.49 [Reserved]

§ 413.50 Leases Governed by Division 10

[1] Date of Lease Contract

[2] Form of Lease; "Lease" and "Goods" Defined

[3] Security Interests Excepted

[4] Finance Leases Included

§ 413.51 Other Laws Applicable to Leases Within Division 10

[1] In General

[2] Certificate of Title Laws

[3] Consumer Protection Laws Applicable to Consumer Leases

[4] Fraudulent Conveyance Laws

[5] Division 9 of the Commercial Code

[6] Civil Code Governs Unconscionability

§ 413.52 Definitions

[1] "Buyer in Ordinary Course of Business"

[2] "Buying"

[3] "Conforming"

[4] "Fault"

[5] "Installment Lease Contract"

[6] "Leasehold Interest"

[7] "Lessee"

[8] "Lessee in Ordinary Course of Business"

[9] "Lessor"

[10] "Lessor's Residual Interest"

[11] "Present Value"

[12] "Purchase"

[13] "Sublease"

§§ 413.53-413.69 [Reserved]

§ 413.70 Offer and Acceptance

§ 413.71 Firm Offers

§ 413.72 Sufficiency of Lease Contract

§ 413.73 Statute of Frauds for Leases

[1] Writing Generally Required

[2] Substitutes for Writing

[a] Part Performance

[b] Judicial or Testimonial Admission

[3] Determining Term of Lease Subject to Exception

§ 413.74 Parol Evidence to Interpret Lease Contact

§ 413.75 Course of Performance as Aid to Interpretation

§ 413.76 Modification, Rescission, and Waiver

[1] In General

[2] Retraction of Waiver Regarding Executory Portion

[3] Waiver or Renunciation of Rights After Default

§§ 413.77-413.89 [Reserved]

§ 413.90 "Finance Lease," "Supplier," and "Supply Contract" Defined

§ 413.91 Lessee as Beneficiary of Warranties Under Supply Contract

§ 413.92 Warranties by Lessor Are Limited

§ 413.93 Finance Lease Gives Lessee Risk of Loss

§ 413.94 Finance Lease as Irrevocable After Acceptance of Goods

§§ 413.95-413.109 [Reserved]

§ 413.110 Creation of Express Warranties by Lessor

§ 413.111 Warranties Given by Lessor

[1] Against Interference or Infringement

[2] Implied Warranty of Merchantability

[3] Implied Warranty of Fitness for Particular Purpose

§ 413.112 Disclaimer or Modification of Warranties

§ 413.113 Rule of Construction Applicable to Warranties

§ 413.114 Notices Required to Be Given by Lessee

[1] Breach of Warranty of Infringement

[2] Breach of Warranty for Which Lessor Is Answerable

§§ 413.115-413.129 [Reserved]

§ 413.130 Identification of Goods to Lease

§ 413.131 Insurable Interests

§ 413.132 Risk of Loss

§ 413.133 Effect of Default on Risk of Loss

§ 413.134 Casualty to Identified Goods

§§ 413.135-413.149 [Reserved]

§ 413.150 Lease Generally Effective Against Purchasers and Creditors

§ 413.151 Transfer of Interests Under Lease

[1] When Permitted

[2] Other Party's Remedies

[3] Construing Scope of Transfer

§ 413.152 Subsequent Lessee From Lessor

[1] Extent of Interest Acquired

[2] Subsequent Lessee in Ordinary Course of Business

§ 413.153 Buyer or Sublessee From Lessee

[1] Extent of Interest Acquired

[2] Buyer or Sublessee in Ordinary Course of Business

§ 413.154 Lien of Repairer of Leased Goods

§ 413.155 Rights of Lessee's Creditors

§ 413.156 Rights of Lessor's and Seller's Creditors

§ 413.157 Leased Goods as Fixtures

[1] Permitted; Exceptions

[2] Priority of Lessor's Interest

[3] Lessor's Interest Subordinate to Construction Loan

[4] Determination of Priority in Other Situations

[5] Lessor's or Lessee's Right to Remove Fixtures

§ 413.158 Leased Goods as Accessions

[1] When Lessor's or Lessee's Interest Superior

[2] When Lessor's and Lessee's Interests Are Subordinate

[3] Removal of Accessions

§§ 413.159-413.169 [Reserved]

§ 413.170 Right to Assurances

§ 413.171 Anticipatory Repudiation

[1] Aggrieved Party's Options

[2] Retraction

§ 413.172 Substituted Performance When Agreed Performance Impracticable

§ 413.173 Impossibility

§ 413.174 Lessee's Rights on Receipt of Notice of Delay or Allocation

§§ 413.175-413.189 [Reserved]

§ 413.190 Determining Whether Default Exists

§ 413.191 Remedies

[1] Governed by Agreement and Division 10

[2] Various Remedies Available

[3] Not Barred by Rescission, Rejection, or Return

[4] Cumulative and Optional

[5] Under Lease Covering Real Property and Goods

§ 413.192 Notices of Default or Enforcement Not Required

§ 413.193 Permissible Limitations on Damages

§ 413.194 Liquidated Damages

§ 413.195 Lessee's Right of Reimbursement for Justified Nondelivery

§ 413.196 Right of the Parties on Cancellation, Termination, or Rescission

§ 413.197 Statute of Limitations

§ 413.198 Market Rent

[1] Formula for Calculation

[2] Evidence to Establish

§ 413.199 Action Against Third Party Who Injures Goods Identified to Lease

§§ 413.200-413.219 [Reserved]

§ 413.220 Lessee's Remedies for Rejected Goods or Repudiation

§ 413.221 Lessee's Security Interest in Rejected Goods

§ 413.222 Lessee's Remedies for Breach of Warranty

§ 413.223 Lessee's Remedies for Other Defaults of Lessor

§ 413.224 Requirements for Lessee's Rejection

[1] Timeliness

[2] Particularity

[3] Installment Contract

[4] Duties Toward Rejected Goods

[a] Lessee's General Duties

[b] Merchant Lessee's Duties

[c] Good Faith Standard

[d] Reimbursement for Expenses

[e] Rights of Purchaser

§ 413.225 Lessor's Right to Cure

§ 413.226 Lessee's Revocation of Acceptance

[1] When Acceptance Occurs

[2] Effect of Acceptance

[3] Requirements for Revocation of Acceptance

§ 413.227 Cover

§ 413.228 Lessee's Measure of Damages

§ 413.229 Lessee's Incidental Damages

§ 413.230 Lessee's Consequential Damages

§ 413.231 Lessee's Right to Specific Performance or Related Remedy

§ 413.232 Lessee's Rights on Lessor's Insolvency

§§ 413.233-413.249 [Reserved]

§ 413.250 Lessor's Remedies

[1] In General

[2] Goods Not Previously Identified to Lease Contract

[3] Take Possession of Goods Previously Delivered

[4] Refuse Delivery on Lessee's Insolvency

[5] Stopping Delivery of Goods in Transit

[6] Disposing of Goods

§ 413.251 Lessor's Measure of Damages

[1] Lessor's Election

[2] After Disposing of Goods

[3] When Lessor Retains Goods

[4] Recovery of Rent

[5] Lessor's Incidental Damages

[6] Loss of or Damage to Residual Interest

§§ 413.252-413.269 [Reserved]

§ 413.270 State Statutes

[1] Nature of Contract for Hiring

[2] Prohibited Transactions

[3] Rights and Duties of Hirer/Lessee

[4] Rights and Duties of Letter/Lessor

§ 413.271 Decisions

[1] In General

[2] Characterization of Transaction

[3] Duties and Responsibilities of Letter/Lessor

[4] Duties of Hirer/Lessee

[5] Liablity of Successors

§ 413.272 Law Reviews

§ 413.273 Text References

§§ 413.274-413.289 [Reserved]

§ 413.290 California Legal Forms

§ 413.291 Federal Statutes

§ 413.292 Federal Regulations

§ 413.293 State Statutes

[1] Applicable Law

[2] Definitions

[3] Finance Leases

[4] Formation and Construction of Lease Contract

[5] Remedies in General

[6] Remedies of Lessee on Default by Lessor

[7] Remedies of Lessor on Default by Lessee

[8] Repudiated, Substituted, and Excused Performance

[9] Risk of Loss

[10] Sales and Use Tax

[11] Third Parties Affected by Lease

[12] Warranties

§ 413.294 Law Reviews

§§ 413.295-413.309 [Reserved]

§ 413.310 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Breach of Contract of Bailment [Civ. Code § 1925]--By Letter (Lessor) Against Hirer (Lessee)--For Rent Due on Thing Hired--General Form

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Interest on Damages

[5] Attorney's Fees

[6] Jurisdiction

[7] Venue

[8] Verification

[9] Cross References

[10] State Statutes

[11] Decisions

§ 413.311 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Breach of Contract of Bailment [Civ. Code § 1925]--By Letter (Lessor) Against Hirer (Lessee)--Rent Due on Thing Hired--Hiring Terminated Before Agreed Time [Civ. Code § 1935]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] State Statutes

[5] Decisions

[6] Cross References

§ 413.312 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code §§ 3300, 3308] for Breach of Personal Property Lease--By Lessor Against Lessee--Rent Due and for Prospective Rent for Balance of Original Term [Civ. Code § 3308]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] State Statutes

[5] Decisions

[6] Text References

[7] Cross References

§ 413.313 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Breach of Contract of Bailment [Civ. Code § 1925]--By Letter (Lessor) Against Hirer (Lessee)--Nonrepair of [Civ. Code § 1929], Misuse of [Civ. Code § 1930], Nonpayment of Rent Due on, and Nondelivery of Thing Hired [Civ. Code § 1958]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] State Statutes

[5] Decisions

[6] Text References

[7] Cross References

§ 413.314 Affirmative Defense--Leased Property Had No Rental Value and Was Unfit for Purpose for Which Leased [Civ. Code § 1955]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

[4] Cross References

§ 413.315 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries Based on Negligence [Civ. Code §§ 1714(a), 1955]--By Lessee Against Lessor--Dangerous Chattel Leased

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Specifications of Damages

[5] Venue

[6] State Statutes

[7] Decisions

[8] Text References

[9] Cross References

§ 413.316 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries Based on Negligence [Civ. Code §§ 1714(a), 1955]--By Lessee Against Lessor--Defective Invalid Walker

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] California Points and Authorities

[5] State Statutes

[6] Decisions

[7] Cross References

§ 413.317 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Breach of Personal Property Lease--By Lessee (Hirer) Against Lessor (Letter)--Covenant of Quiet Enjoyment [Civ. Code §§ 1927, 1955]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Caption

[5] State Statutes

[6] Text References

[7] Cross References

§ 413.318 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Breach of Personal Property Lease--By Lessee (Hirer) Against Lessor (Letter)--Recovery of Cost of Necessary Repairs [Civ. Code § 1957]--Property Restored to Operation

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Caption

[5] State Statutes

[6] Decisions

[7] Cross References

§ 413.319 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Breach of Personal Property Lease--By Lessee (Hirer) Against Lessor (Letter)--Recovery of Cost of Necessary Repairs [Civ. Code § 1957]--Property Not Restored to Operation

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 413.320 Affirmative Defense--Repairs Necessitated by Misuse of Bailed Chattel [Civ. Code § 1930]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 413.321 Affirmative Defense--Repairs Incidental to Use of Leased Chattel [Civ. Code § 1956]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

[4] Cross References

§§ 413.322-413.339 [Reserved]

§ 413.340 Complaint for Recovery of Rent and of Security Paid [Com. Code § 10508(a)(2)] and for Damages [Com. Code §§ 10508(a)(3), 10518-10520]--By Lessee Against Lessor--After Lessee's Rightful Rejection of Defective Goods [Com. Code §§ 10509-10514]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] "Discovery" and "Notify" Defined

[5] Limitations on Choice of Venue in Consumer Lease

[6] Substantially Similar Lease

[7] Statute of Limitations

[8] State Statutes

[9] Cross References

§ 413.341 Complaint for Recovery of Rent and of Security Paid [Com. Code § 10508(a)(2)] and for Damages [Com. Code §§ 10508(a)(3), 10518-10520]--By Lessee Against Lessor--After Lessor's Repudiation [Com. Code § 10402]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Caption

[4] Allegations

[5] Modification for Lessor's Revocation of Firm Offer

[6] State Statutes

[7] Cross References

§ 413.342 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Recovery of Rent and of Security Paid [Com. Code § 10508(a)(2)] and for Damages [Com. Code §§ 10508(a)(3), 10518-10520]--By Lessee Against Lessor--After Lessee's Justifiable Revocation of Acceptance [Com. Code §§ 10515-10517]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Caption

[4] Allegations

[5] State Statutes

[6] Cross References

§ 413.343 Complaint for Specific Performance [Com. Code § 10521(a)] and for Damages [Com. Code §§ 10520, 10521(b)]--By Lessee Against Lessor--After Lessor's Repudiation or Failure to Deliver Conforming Goods [Com. Code § 10508(b)(2)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] State Statutes

[5] Cross References

§ 413.344 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages for Breach of Implied Warranty [Com. Code §§ 10508(d), 10519(d), 10520]--Fitness for Particular Purpose [Com. Code § 10213]--By Lessee Against Lessor

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Caption

[4] Allegations

[5] Other Remedies to Consider

[6] State Statutes

[7] Cross References

§ 413.345 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages for Breach of Express Warranty [Com. Code §§ 10519(d), 10520]--Based on Description of Goods [Com. Code §§ 2313(1)(b), 10210(a)(2)]--By Lessee Under Finance Lease Against Supplier [Com. Code § 10209]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Continuing Obligations to Lessor

[4] Caption

[5] Allegations

[6] Modification of Allegations for Lease and Sublease

[7] Cross References

§ 413.346 Allegation--Lessor's Extension and Revocation of Firm Offer to Lease [Com. Code § 10205]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Offer by Merchant Lessee

[5] Revocation of Firm Offer for Consumer Lease

§ 413.347 Affirmative Defense--Lease Is Finance Lease [Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

§ 413.348 Complaint for Rent and Damages [Com. Code §§ 10527-10530, 10532] for Default [Com. Code § 10523]--By Lessor Against Lessee

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Lessor's Action for Possession of Goods

[5] State Statutes

[6] Cross References

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART I. SCOPE

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.01

§ 413.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses and contains forms for use in actions involving hirings of personal property, also called bailments for hire and personal property leases. This chapter covers both hirings or personal property leases entered into or first effective between the parties before January 1, 1990, which are governed by the Civil Code [see Civ. Code § 3300 et seq.; see also §§ 413.30 -413.38, 413.310 -413.321], and personal property lease effective after that date, which are governed by Division 10 of the California Commercial Code [see Com. Code 10101 et seq.; see also §§ 413.50 -413.251, 413.340 -413.348].

For a discussion and forms relating to deposits and discussion and forms relating to loans for use, see Ch. 93, Bailments . For discussion and forms relating to actions by third parties involving bailments, see Ch. 93, Bailments , or, if the liability of an automobile owner for the negligence of an operator under Veh. Code § 17150 et seq. is involved, see Ch. 82, Automobiles: Causes of Action § 82.16.

This chapter includes analysis for Division 10 actions involving formation and construction of lease contracts [see § 413.70 et seq.], finance leases [see § 413.90 et seq.], warranties [see § 413.110 et seq.], identification of goods to lease and risk of loss [see § 413.130 et seq.], effect of lease contracts on third parties [see § 413.150 et seq.], repudiated, substituted, and excused performance [see § 413.170 et seq.], remedies in general [see § 413.190 et seq.], lessor remedies on default by lessor [see § 413.220 et seq.], and lessor remedies on default by lessee [see § 413.250 et seq.]. Forms are included for these actions [see 413.380 et seq.].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)General OverviewContracts LawThird PartiesGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsBailmentsContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral OverviewTortsPremises Liability & PropertyLessees & LessorsLiabilities of LessorsNegligenceGeneral OverviewTortsTransportation TortsMotor VehiclesPersonal VehiclesTortsVicarious LiabilityBailees

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART I. SCOPE

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.02

§ 413.02 Cross References

For discussion and forms concerning leases subject to the Vehicle Leasing Act (Civ. Code § 2985.7-2990), the federal Consumer Leasing Act (15 U.S.C. §§ 1667-1667e) or Regulation M (12 C.F.R. Part 213), see Ch. 90, Automobiles: Vehicle Leasing Act

For discussion of the measure of damages for unlawful motor vehicle subleasing, see Ch. 90, Automobiles: Vehicle Leasing Act

For discussion and forms relating to deposits, see Ch. 93, Bailments ,

For discussion and forms relating to loans for use, see Ch. 93, Bailments ,

For discussion and forms relating to actions by third parties involving bailments, see Ch. 93, Bailments , or if liability of automobile owner for negligence of operator under Veh. Code §§ 17150-17159 is involved, see Ch. 82, Automobiles: Causes of Action § 82.16

For discussion and forms relating to automobile rentals for less than 30 days entered into on or after January 1, 1989, see Ch. 93, Bailments ,

For discussion of advertising practices prohibited by Bus. & Prof. Code § 17500 et seq., see Ch. 14, Advertising

For discussion of the federal Consumer Leasing Act (15 U.S.C. § 1667 et seq.) and Regulation M (12 C.F.R. Part 213), the Rees-Levering Motor Vehicle Sales and Finance Act (Civ. Code § 2981 et seq.), and the Vehicle Leasing Act (Civ. Code § 2985.7 et seq.) and related forms, see Ch. 89, Automobiles: Sales and Financing Under the Rees-Levering Act and Ch. 90, Automobiles: Vehicle Leasing Act

For discussion and a form relating to rental of passenger vehicles for periods of less than 30 days, see Ch. 93, Bailments ,

For discussion of Division 9 of the Commercial Code and related forms, see Ch. 503, Sales: Secured Transactions

For discussion of the Consumers Legal Remedies Act (Civ. Code § 1750 et seq.), see Ch. 504, Sales: Consumers Legal Remedies Act

For discussion of Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et seq. (unfair competition) and related forms, see Ch. 565, Unfair Competition ,

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Banking LawConsumer ProtectionConsumer LeasingGeneral OverviewBanking LawConsumer ProtectionConsumer LeasingLiabilityCommercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)RemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsBailmentsTortsTransportation TortsMotor VehiclesPersonal VehiclesTortsVicarious LiabilityBailees

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART I. SCOPE

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 413.03-413.09

[Reserved]

§§ 413.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. In General

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.10

§ 413.10 Scope of Analysis

This chapter discusses and contains forms for use by the parties to personal property leases.

The first analysis discusses bailments for hire [see § 413.30 et seq.].

The second analysis discusses Division 10 of the Commercial Code (Com. Code § 10101 et seq. [see § 413.50 et seq.]).

Generally, a personal property lease made or first effective between the parties before January 1, 1990, is considered a bailment for hire [see U.C.C. Comment to Com. Code § 10103(a)(10)], while a lease contract first made or effective between the parties on or after January 1, 1990, is governed by Division 10. However, the parties to a lease contract made or first effective between them prior to January 1, 1990, can agree in writing that the lease contract, or any extension, amendment, modification, renewal, or supplement, be governed by Division 10 [Com. Code § 10600].

This chapter does not address the following consumer protection laws, although they also govern personal property leases:

- Civ. Code § 1936, which governs automobile rentals for less than 30 days and is discussed in Ch. 93, Bailments .

- The Vehicle Leasing Act (Civ. Code § 2985.7 et seq.), which is discussed in Ch. 89, Automobiles: Sales and Financing Under the Rees-Levering Act .

- The federal Consumer Leasing Act (15 U.S.C. § 1667 et seq.) and related Regulation M (12 C.F.R. Part 213), both of which are discussed in Ch. 89, Automobiles: Sales and Financing Under the Rees-Levering Act .

However, automobile rentals and vehicle leases first made or effective on or after January 1, 1990, are subject to both the applicable consumer protection laws and Division 10 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 10104(a)(3); see Com.

Code § 10104(b) (in event of conflict, consumer protection law prevails)]. In addition, consumers leases, whether bailments or subject to Division 10, are also subject to the federal Consumer Leasing Act (15 U.S.C. § 1667 et seq.) and related Regulation M (12 C.F.R. Part 213), if the lease [15 U.S.C. § 1667(1), (3)]:

- Is made by a lessor who is regularly engaged in making, offering, or arranging consumer leases;
- Imposes a total contractual obligation of $25,000 or less on the lessee; and
- Has a term in excess of four months.

For discussion, see § 413.51[3].

For discussion of a lessor's strict liability in tort [see Price v. Shell Oil Co. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 245, 253-254, 85 Cal. Rptr. 178, 466 P.2d 722 (doctrine applicable to commercial lessors of personal property in the same manner as it is applicable to sellers)], see Ch. 460, Products Liability .

Other types of bailments, specifically deposits and loans for use, are addressed in Ch. 93, Bailments. Chapter 93 also addresses third parties' rights and actions involving bailments, and Ch. 82, Automobiles: Causes of Action addresses the liability of an automobile owner for the negligence of an operator under Veh. Code § 17150 et seq.

Transactions that appear to be personal property leases may be disguised security interests or installment sales contracts. Security interests governed by Division 9 of the Commercial Code are discussed in Ch. 503, Sales: Secured Transactions . Installment sales governed by Division 2 of the Commercial Code are discussed in Ch. 500, Sales: Sales Under the Commercial Code [see Com. Code § 2612(1) (defining "installment contract" within Division 2)]. Retail installment sales of goods for family, personal, or household purposes are governed by the Unruh Act, also known as the Retail Installment Sales Act (Civ. Code § 1801 et seq.) and by provisions of the federal Truth in Lending Act (15 U.S.C. § 1601 et seq.), both of which are discussed in Ch. 501, Sales: Retail Installment Sales . Cases pointing out the distinctions between true leases, installment sales, and security interests are collected in the Research Guide in § 413.270 et seq. [see also § 413.50[3]; and Ch. 500, Sales: Sales Under the Commercial Code , and Ch. 503, Sales: Secured Transactions].

For a discussion and forms relating to the bailment of personal property with common carriers and warehousemen, see Ch. 109, Carriers , and Ch. 213, Documents of Title . The innkeepers' lien is covered in Ch. 297, Hotels and Motels . The topic of liens is covered generally in Ch. 342, Liens and Wage Preferences. The mechanics' lien is covered in Ch. 361, Mechanics' Liens . Lost or unclaimed property is covered in Ch. 355, Lost and Unclaimed Property .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Banking LawConsumer ProtectionConsumer LeasingGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)General OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)DefaultGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsBailmentsContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsPersonal PropertyTortsPremises Liability & PropertyLessees & LessorsLiabilities of LessorsNegligenceGeneral OverviewTortsTransportation TortsGeneral OverviewTortsTransportation TortsMotor VehiclesPersonal VehiclesTortsVicarious LiabilityBailees

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. In General

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.11

§ 413.11 Governing Law

Bailments for hire, sometimes called "hirings," are governed by Civ. Code §§ 1925 et seq. and 1955 et seq.

Division 10 of the Commercial Code (Com. Code § 10101 et seq.) governs lease contracts that are first made or that first become effective between the parties on or after January 1, 1990. Division 10 also governs any lease contract first made or that first became effective between the parties prior to January 1, 1990, or to any extension, amendment, modification, renewal, or supplement of or to the lease contract, if the parties to that leasespecifically agree in writing that the lease contract, as extended, amended, modified, renewed, or supplemented, will be governed by Division 10 [Com. Code § 10600].

The federal Consumer Leasing Act (15 U.S.C. § 1667 et seq.) and Regulation M (12 C.F.R. Part 213) govern consumer leases within that Act's definition [see § 413.10].

A particular lease may also be governed by other consumer protection laws or may involve questions governed by a particular certificate-of-title law. These other laws are set forth in § 413.51, although most of them are equally applicable whether the lease is governed by Division 10 or is a bailment [see § 413.10].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Banking LawConsumer ProtectionConsumer LeasingGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)General OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsBailmentsContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. In General

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 413.12-413.29

[Reserved]

§§ 413.12[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.30

§ 413.30 Governing Statutes

Hirings are governed by Civ. Code §§ 1925 et seq. and 1955 et seq.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.31

§ 413.31 Terminology Used in This Part

Civ. Code § 1925 et seq. refer to "hirings," the "letter," and the "hirer." Civ. Code § 1955 et seq. refer to "personal property leases," the "lessor," and the "lessee." A letter is the lessor; and the hirer is the lessee. In this chapter, when discussing a particular statute or duty or relationship based on that statute, the terminology of that statute will be used. Otherwise, the terms lessor and lessee will be used.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.32

§ 413.32 "Hiring" Defined

A hiring is a contract by which one gives to another the temporary possession and use of property, other than money for reward, and the latter agrees to return it to the former at a future time [Civ. Code § 1925; see Credit Managers' Assn. v. Brubaker (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 1587, 1592-1593, 285 Cal. Rptr. 417 (money loaned by chief executive officer to company for its use in automated teller machines it operated could not be "hiring" but was regular loan as defined by Civ. Code § 1914)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.33

§ 413.33 Duties of Hirer/Lessee

[1] Care, Repair, and Expenses

The hirer (lessee) of a thing must use ordinary care for its preservation in safety and in good condition [Civ. Code § 1928]. The hirer of a thing must repair all deteriorations or injuries to the thing hired occasioned by his or her want of ordinary care [Civ. Code § 1929]. Except as otherwise agreed by the lessor and lessee, a lessee of personal property must bear all expenses concerning the thing that might naturally be foreseen to attend it during its use by the lessee. All other expenses must be borne by the lessor [Civ. Code § 1956].

For a form of complaint for use by a letter against a hirer that includes causes of action for nonrepair and misuse of a thing hired, see § 413.313.

[2] Use for Particular Purpose

When a thing is let for a particular purpose, the hirer must not use it for any other purpose. A hirer who uses the thing let for another purpose is liable to the letter for all damages resulting from that use, or the letter may treat the contract as rescinded by the unauthorized use [Civ. Code § 1930].

[3] Return

At the expiration of the term for which personal property is leased, the lessee must return it to the lessor at the place contemplated by the parties at the time of leasing; or, if no particular place was contemplated by them, at the place at which it was at that time [Civ. Code § 1958].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)Contracts LawTypes of ContractsBailmentsContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease Agreements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.34

§ 413.34 Duties of Letter/Lessor

[1] In General

Except as otherwise agreed by the lessor (letter) and the lessee in lease agreements for a term of more than 20 days, one who leases personal property must deliver it to the lessee, secure his or her quiet enjoyment of the property against all lawful claimants, put it into a condition fit for the purpose for which he or she leases it, and repair all deteriorations of the property not occasioned by the fault of the lessee and not the natural result of its use [Civ. Code § 1955; see Civ. Code § 1927 (quiet enjoyment); see also Baker v. Gibson (1939) 14 Cal. 2d 59, 65, 92 P.2d 796] .

For a form of complaint for use by a lessee against a lessor for breach of the covenant of quiet enjoyment, see § 413.317.

[2] Strict Liability or Warranty

If a lessor or letter who is in the business of leasing supplies a defective product, the doctrine of strict liability in tort applies, which has generally supplanted older actions based on warranty and negligence [Price v. Shell Oil Co. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 245, 253-254, 85 Cal. Rptr. 178, 466 P.2d 722 ; Fakhoury v. Magner (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 58, 63-64, 101 Cal. Rptr. 473] . For forms and discussion of strict products liability, see Ch. 460, Products Liability . The theory of express warranty may be applicable in somesituations [see, e.g., Pau v. Yosemite Park and Curry Co. (9th Cir. 1991) 928 F.2d 880, 887 (statements in brochure advertising rental bikes and stating that particular trail was safe cycling area as express warranty that bikes were safe, and became part of bargain); see generally Ch. 502, Sales: Warranties].

Under the former standard, still applicable to a lessor or letter who is not in the business of leasing, Civ. Code § 1955 required the lessor to exercise reasonable care to inspect a chattel manufactured by a third person before turning it over to lessee and to make it safe for its intended use or disclose its actual condition to the bailee [McNeal v. Greenberg (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 740, 742, 255 P.2d 810] . The lessor's warranty was not an absolute one, but rather a warranty that he or she had exercised reasonable care to ascertain that the chattel was safe and suitable for the purpose for which it was hired [McNeal v. Greenberg (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 740, 742, 255 P.2d 810 ; Tierstein v. Licht (1959) 174 Cal. App. 2d 835, 841, 345 P.2d 341 ; but see Triple C Leasing, Inc. v. All-American Mobile Wash (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 244, 250, 134 Cal. Rptr. 328 (lessor permitted, in accordance with Com. Code § 2316, to provide in lease that no warranties of merchantability or fitness for particular purpose, express or implied, are created)]. The warranty that the article furnished was safe and suitable applied to the article itself and to incidental articles connected with it and necessary to its proper use [Fisher v. Pennington (1931) 116 Cal. App. 248, 251, 2 P.2d 518] . The standard required the lessor from time to time to inspect the articles it kept for hire in the same manner that any reasonably careful person would in view of nature of article and use to which it is to be put [McNeal v. Greenberg (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 740, 742, 255 P.2d 810] .

For complaints for use to recover damages for personal injury from a lessor, see §§ 413.315 and 413.316. For discussion and forms relating to warranties by a lessor under Commercial Code, Division 10, which may be adapted for application to a lease entered into before January 1, 1989, see § 413.50 et seq. For forms relating to warranties of merchantability and fitness for particular purpose under Commercial Code, Division 2, see Ch. 502, Sales: Warranties .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)General OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)Formation & ConstructionWarrantiesContracts LawSecured TransactionsApplication & ConstructionLeasesContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral OverviewTortsPremises Liability & PropertyLessees & LessorsLiabilities of LessorsNegligenceGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.35

§ 413.35 Recovery on Lessor's Default

If a lessor fails to fulfill his or her obligations, as prescribed by Civ. Code § 1955, the lessee, after giving the lessor notice to do so, if this notice can conveniently be given, may expend any reasonable amount necessary to make good the lessor's default, and may recover this amount from the lessor [Civ. Code § 1957]. The hirer in this situation may also terminate the hiring [see Civ. Code § 1932(1) (discussed in § 413.37[3])].

For complaints for use by a lessee against a lessor to recover the cost of necessary repairs, see §§ 413.318 and 413.319. For related affirmative defenses for use by the lessor, see §§ 413.320 and 413.321.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)Contracts LawTypes of ContractsBailmentsContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease Agreements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.36

§ 413.36 Products of Thing Hired

The products of a thing hired, during the hiring, belong to the hirer [Civ. Code § 1926].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.37

§ 413.37 Termination of Hiring

[1] In General

The hiring of a thing terminates (1) at the end of the term agreed on; (2) by the mutual consent of the parties; (3) by the hirer acquiring a title to the thing hired superior to that of the letter; or (4) by the destruction of the thing hired [Civ. Code § 1933].

If the hiring of a thing is terminable at the pleasure of one of the parties, it is terminated by notice to the other of his or her death or incapacity to contract. In other cases it is not terminated thereby [Civ. Code § 1934].

[2] Premature Termination by Letter/Lessor

The letter (lessor) of a thing may terminate the hiring and reclaim the thing before the end of the term agreed on (1) when the hirer uses or permits a use of the thing hired in a manner contrary to the agreement of the parties, or (2) when the hirer does not, within a reasonable time after request, make repairs that he or she is bound to make [Civ. Code § 1931].

[3] Premature Termination by Hirer/Lessee

The hirer (lessee) of a thing may terminate the hiring before the end of the term agreed on when the letter does not, within a reasonable time after request, fulfill his or her obligations, if any, to place and secure the hirer in the quiet possession of the thing hired, or to put it into good condition, or to repair it [Civ. Code § 1932(1)]. The hirer of a thing may also terminate the hiring before the end of the term agreed on when the greater part of the thing hired, or that part which was and which the letter had at the time of the hiring reason to believe was the material inducement to the hirer to enter into the contract, perishes from any other cause than the want of ordinary care of the hirer [Civ. Code § 1932(2)].

[4] Hirer's Obligation on Premature Termination

When the hiring of a thing is terminated before the time originally agreed on, the hirer must pay the due proportion of the hire for the use he or she has actually made of the thing, unless this use is merely nominal, and of no benefit to the hirer [Civ. Code § 1935].

The parties to a personal property lease may provide in the lease agreement that if the lessor terminates the lease because of a breach by the lessee, the lessor is entitled to recover from the lessee the worth at the timeof the termination (i.e., the present value), of the excess, if any, of the amount of rent and charges equivalent to the rent reserved in the lease for the balance of the stated term, or any shorter period of time over the reasonable rental value of the property for the same period [Civ. Code § 3308; Newco Leasing, Inc. v. Hull (1985) 167 Cal. App. 3d Supp. 1, 4-5 , 213 Cal. Rptr. 202 ; see Puritan Leasing Co. v. August (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 451, 456, 128 Cal. Rptr. 175, 546 P.2d 679 (acceleration without discounting rent for unexpired term is invalid)]. The lease may also provide that unless this remedy is exercised by the lessor within a specified time, the right to exercise it is barred [Civ. Code § 3308].

The lessor's rights under the lease agreement are cumulative to all other rights or remedies now or hereafter given to the les sor by law, or by the terms of the lease; provided, however, that the election of the lessor to exercise the remedy described in the foregoing paragraph is binding on the lessor and excludes recourse thereafter to any other remedy for rental or charges equivalent to rental or damages for breach of covenant to pay rent or charges accruing after the termination [Civ. Code § 3308; see Puritan Leasing Co. v. August (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 451, 460, 128 Cal. Rptr. 175, 546 P.2d 679 (Civ. Code § 3308 by its own terms is not exclusive)].

For a form of complaint by a letter against a hirer for rent due after premature termination by the hirer, see § 413.311. For a related form of affirmative defense for use by the hirer, see § 413.314.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)Contracts LawPerformanceDischarges & TerminationsContracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsBailmentsContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsTortsPremises Liability & PropertyLessees & LessorsLiabilities of LessorsNegligenceGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.38

§ 413.38 Lessor's Options on Lessee's Default

Although a provision in a lease allowing the lessor, on the lessee's default in payment to accelerate payments due under the lease, with or without cancelling the lease, and to hold the lessee for the entire rent for the unexpired term are invalid as an attempt to fix liquidated damages, clauses that allow the lessor to repossess the chattel, to sell it or to relet it, and then to recover any deficiency between the proceeds of sale or reletting and the present value of the rent due for the unexpired term are valid because they are not unjust. The measure of recovery under the approved type of clause is the same as that allowed to a lessor of real property or to a secured party under Division 9 of the Commercial Code [Puritan Leasing Co. v. August (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 451, 456-462, 128 Cal. Rptr. 175, 546 P.2d 679 ; Triple C Leasing, Inc. v. All-American Mobile Wash (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 244, 251, 134 Cal. Rptr. 328] . Also, if an action for recovery under the approved type of clause is commenced after the property has been sold or relet, damages by then are liquidated [Puritan Leasing Co. v. August (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 451, 462-463, 128 Cal. Rptr. 175, 546 P.2d 679] .

A lessor of real property faced with a lessee's repudiation or abandonment may (1) accept the surrender and terminate further obligations of either party to the lease; (2) rest on the lease and sue for each installment as it becomes due; or (3) on notice to the lessee, reenter or repossess the premises, relet it for the lessee's account, and sue to recover the excess of the total rent reserved over the amount realized by the reletting [Puritan Leasing Co. v. August (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 451, 457, 128 Cal. Rptr. 175, 546 P.2d 679] . Even if the lease does not expressly provide for them, the same options are available to a lessor of personal property based on traditional principles governing breach of a lease [Industrial Leasing Corp. v. Lawson (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 1098, 1102, 197 Cal. Rptr. 291 (lease provision at issue authorized repossession and sale, but not recovery of deficiency remaining thereafter; relying on Puritan Leasing Co. v. August (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 451, 457-458, 128 Cal. Rptr. 175, 546 P.2d 679 , which implied the same result as dicta in upholding a lease provision)].

When goods subject to a lease are surrendered, abandoned, or repossessed and sold by the lessor, the standards of commercially reasonable conduct in the sale of repossessed goods applicable under Divisions 2 and 9 of the Commercial Code do not apply [Industrial Leasing Corp. v. Lawson (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 1098, 1103, 197 Cal. Rptr. 291] . However, traditional principles obligating the lessor to mitigate its damages do apply, and thus require some effort to expose the goods to a market [Industrial Leasing Corp. v. Lawson (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 1098,

1102-1103, 197 Cal. Rptr. 291] .

For a form of complaint for use by a lessor to recover a deficiency or damages based on rents for the unexpired lease term, see § 413.312. For a general form of complaint for use by a letter against a hirer for rent due, see § 413.310. For a related form of affirmative defense for use by the hirer, see § 413.314.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)General OverviewContracts LawSecured TransactionsApplication & ConstructionLeasesContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 413.39-413.49

[Reserved]

§§ 413.39[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
1. In General

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.50

§ 413.50 Leases Governed by Division 10

[1] Date of Lease Contract

Division 10 [Com. Code § 10101 et seq.] applies to all lease contracts that are first made or that first become effective between the parties on or after January 1, 1990. Division 10 does not apply to any lease contract first made or that first became effective between the parties prior to January 1, 1990, or to any extension, amendment, modification, renewal, or supplement of or to the lease contract, unless the parties to the lease contract specifically agree in writing that the lease contract, as extended, amended, modified, renewed, or supplemented, shall be governed by Division 10 [Com. Code § 10600].

As used in Division 10, "lease contract" means the total legal obligation that results from the lease agreement as affected by Division 10 and any other applicable rules of law. It includes a sublease contract [Com. Code § 10103(a)(12)]. The term "lease agreement" is used in Division 10 to mean the bargain, with respect to the lease, of the lessor and the lessee in fact as found in their language or by implication from other circumstances including course of dealing or usage of trade or course of performance as provided in Division 10. Unless the context clearly indicates otherwise, the term includes a sublease agreement [Com. Code § 10103(a)(11)].

At common law, a lease of personal property is a bailment for hire [see U.C.C. Comment to Com. Code § 10103(a)(10)]. Bailments for hire and thus personal property leases entered into before January 1, 1990, are governed by Civ. Code §§ 1925 et seq. and 1955 et seq., discussed in § 413.30 et seq. Moreover, those provisions also apply to leases that are subject to Division 10 and, in the event of a conflict, will prevail over Division 10 [see Com. Code § 10104(a)(3), (b)].

[2] Form of Lease; "Lease" and "Goods" Defined

Division 10 applies to any transaction, regardless of form, that creates a lease [Com. Code § 10102; see discussions in §§ 413.50[4] and 413.51[3]]. Unless the context otherwise requires, for purposes of Division 10, "lease" means a transfer of the right to possession and use of goods for a term in return for consideration, but a sale, including a sale on approval or a sale or return, or retention or creation of a security interest is not a lease. Unless the context clearly indicates otherwise, the term includes a sublease [Com. Code § 10103(a)(10); see Com. Code § 1201(36) (defining "security interest," discussed in § 413.50[3])].

Unless the context otherwise requires, "goods" in Division 10 means all things that are movable at the time of identification to the lease contract, or are fixtures, but the term does not include money, documents, instruments, accounts, chattel paper, general intangibles, or minerals or the like, including oil and gas, before extraction. The term also includes the unborn young of animals [Com. Code § 10103(a)(8); see Com. Code § 10309, discussed in § 413.157].

[3] Security Interests Excepted

Retention or creation of a security interest is not a lease within the purview of Division 10 [Com. Code § 10103(a)(10)]. A security interest is defined generally as an interest in personal property or fixtures that secures payment or performance of an obligation [Com. Code § 1201(b)(35)]. Security interests, including leases intended as security and security interests disguised as leases, are governed by Division 9 of the Commercial Code (Com. Code § 9101 et seq.) [see U.C.C. Comment to Com Code §§ 10101, 10103(a)(10)]. Division 9 is discussed in Ch. 503, Sales: Secured Transactions .

Whether a transaction creates a lease or security interest is determined by the facts of each case [Com. Code § 1203(a); see, e.g., Interpool Ltd. v. Char Yigh Marine (Panama) S.A. (9th Cir. 1989) 890 F.2d 1453, 1459-1461 (applying California law; discussing all criteria, of which intent of parties was most important)]. However, the facts and circumstances must be reexamined at each renewal of the lease, because it is possible for a transaction that first creates a lease to later create a security interest [U.C.C. Comment to Com. Code § 10103(a)(10)].

A transaction creates a security interest if the consideration the lessee is to pay the lessor for the right to possession and use of the goods is an obligation for the term of the lease not subject to termination by the lessee, and one or more of the following apply [Com. Code § 1203(b); see Com. Code § 1203(e) (remaining economic life of goods is to be determined with reference to facts and circumstances at time transaction is entered into)]:

- The original term of the lease is equal to or greater than the remaining economic life of the goods;

- The lessee is bound to renew the lease for the remaining economic life of the goods or is bound to become the owner of the goods;

- The lessee has an option to renew the lease for the remaining economic life of the goods for no additional consideration or nominal additional consideration on compliance with the lease agreement; or

- The lessee has an option to become the owner of the goods for no additional consideration or nominal additional consideration on compliance with the lease agreement.

For purposes of Com. Code § 1203, additional consideration is not nominal if (1) when the option to renew the lease is granted to the lessee, the rent is stated to be the fair market rent for the use of the goods for the term of the renewal determined at the time the option is to be performed, or (2) when the option to become the owner of the goods is granted to the lessee, the price is stated to be the fair market value of the goods determined at the time the option is to be performed. Additional consideration is nominal if it is less than the lessee's reasonably predictable cost of performing under the lease agreement if the option is not exercised [Com. Code § 1203(d)]. "Reasonably predictable" is to be determined with reference to the facts and circumstances at the time the transaction is entered into [Com. Code § 1203(e)].

A transaction does not create a security interest merely because it provides for one or more of the following [Com. Code

§ 1203(c)]:

- The present value of the consideration the lessee is obligated to pay the lessor for the right to possession and use of the goods is substantiallyequal to or is greater than the fair market value of the goods at the time the lease is entered into [see Com. Code § 1201(b)(28); see also Com. Code § 10103(a)(21) ("present value" defined, discussed in § 413.52[11])];

- The lessee assumes risk of loss of the goods, or agrees to pay taxes, insurance, filing, recording, or registration fees, or service or maintenance costs with respect to the goods;

- The lessee has an option to renew the lease or to become the owner of the goods;

- The lessee has an option to renew the lease for a fixed rent that is equal to or greater than the reasonably predictable fair market rent for the use of the goods for the term of the renewal at the time the option is to be performed; or

- The lessee has an option to become the owner of the goods for a fixed price that is equal to or greater than the reasonably predictable fair market value of the goods at the time the option is to be performed.

In the case of a motor vehicle or trailer [see Veh. Code §§ 415, 630 (definitions)] that is not to be used primarily for personal, family, or household purposes, a transaction does not create a security interest merely because it provides that the amount of rental payments may be increased or decreased by reference to the amount realized by the lessor on sale or disposition of the vehicle or trailer [Com. Code § 1203(c)(7)].

[4] Finance Leases Included

Division 10 applies to finance leases, but they are subject to many separate rules and considerations, which are discussed in Subpart C [see Com. Code § 10103(a)(7) (defining "finance lease")]. Finance leases differ from leases disguised as security interests in that they are the product of a three-party transaction between the supplier or manufacturer, the lessee, and the lessor. The manufacturer and the lessee may negotiate their transaction first, as a sale or as a lease. The three-party transaction may be structured as a sale and finance lease or as a lease and sublease [U.C.C. Comment to Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)]. In other contexts, such as tax and accounting, the term finance lease has been used to connote different types of lease transactions, including some that would be excluded from the purview of Division 10 as disguised secured transactions [U.C.C. Comment to Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)]. The definition of a finance lease is set forth in § 413.90 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)General OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)Formation & ConstructionGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)PerformanceCommercial Law (UCC)Secured Transactions (Article 9)General OverviewContracts LawSecured TransactionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawSecured TransactionsApplication & ConstructionLeasesContracts LawTypes of ContractsBailmentsContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
1. In General

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.51

§ 413.51 Other Laws Applicable to Leases Within Division 10

[1] In General

The general definitions and principles of construction and interpretation in Division 1 [Com. Code § 1101 et seq.] apply throughout Division 10 [Com. Code § 10103(d)].

A lease, although subject to Com. Code § 10101 et seq., also is subject to any of the following that apply to that lease [Com. Code § 10104(a)]:

- California certificate of title statute, including the provisions of the Vehicle Code that require registration of a vehicle or boat and provisions of the Health and Safety Code that require registration of a mobilehome or commercial coach.

- Certificate of title statute of another jurisdiction [see § 413.51[2]].

- Consumer law of California, both decisional and statutory, including, to the extent that they apply to a consumer lease transaction, Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et seq. (unfair competition, discussed in Ch. 565, Unfair Competition ,), Bus. & Prof. Code § 17500 et seq. (prohibited advertising practices, discussed in Ch.14, Advertising), and Pt. 4 of Division 3 of the Civil Code (Civ. Code § 1738 et seq.).

In case of conflict between the provisions of Division 10, other than Com. Code §§ 10105, 10304(c) (discussed in § 413.153[1]), and 10305(c) (discussed in Buyer or Sublessee from Lessee § 413.153[1]), and any law referred to in Com. Code § 10104(a), the provisions of that law control [Com. Code § 10104(b)].

Failure to comply with any applicable law has only the effect specified in that law [Com. Code § 10104(c)].

[2] Certificate of Title Laws

A lease that is subject to Com. Code § 10101 et seq. also is subject to the certificate of title laws of California or any other applicable jurisdiction [Com. Code § 10104(a)(1), (2)]. Subject to the provisions of Com. Code §§ 10304(c) and 10305(c) (discussed in §§ 413.152[1] and 413.153[1]), with respect to goods covered by a certificate of title issued under a statute of California or of another jurisdiction, compliance and the effect of compliance or noncompliance with a certificate of title statute are governed by the law (including the conflict of laws rules) of the jurisdiction issuing the certificate until the earlier of (1) surrender of the certificate or (2) four months after the goods are removed from that jurisdiction and thereafter until a new certificate of title is issued by another jurisdiction [Com. Code § 10105]. Com. Code §§ 10105, 10304(c), and 10305(c) are exceptions to the general conflict rule of Division 10 that when there is aconflict between Division 10 and another law mentioned in Com. Code § 10104(a), the other law prevails [Com. Code § 10104(b)].

[3] Consumer Protection Laws Applicable to Consumer Leases

For purposes of Division 10, unless the context otherwise requires, "consumer lease" means a lease that a lessor regularly engaged in the business of leasing or selling makes to a lessee who is a natural person and takes under the lease primarily for a personal, family, or household purpose [Com. Code § 10103(a)(5)]. Note that the California definition of consumer lease differs from the Uniform Commercial Code definition, which like the federal Consumer Leasing Act [15 U.S.C. § 1667 et seq.] excludes leases with a total contractual obligation in excess of $25,000.

A consumer lease that is subject to Division 10 is also subject to California consumer protection laws [Com. Code § 10104(a)(3)], as well as federal consumer protection laws. Federal law includes the Consumer Leasing Act, which is a part of the federal Truth in Lending Act and applies to lessors who are regularly engaged in leasing, offering to lease, or arranging to lease under a consumer lease [15 U.S.C. § 1667(3)]. A consumer lease under the federal Consumer Leasing Act is a contract in the form of a lease or bailment for the use of personal property by a natural person for a period of time exceeding four months and for a total contractual obligation not exceeding $25,000, primarily for personal, family or household purposes, whether or not the lessee has the option to purchase or otherwise become the owner of the property at the expiration of the lease [15 U.S.C. § 1667(1)]. However, a consumer lease does not include a credit sale as defined in 15 U.S.C. § 1602(g), nor does it include a lease for agricultural, business, or commercial purposes or to a government or governmental agency or instrumentality or to an organization [15 U.S.C. § 1667(1)]. Pursuant to authority of 15 U.S.C. § 1604, the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve promulgated Regulation M (12 C.F.R. Part 213) to implement the federal Consumer Leasing Act. The federal Consumer Leasing Act and Regulation M are discussed in Ch. 90, Automobiles: Vehicle Leasing Act .

In addition to the unfair competition and advertising statutes [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17200 et seq. (unfair competition, discussed in Ch. 565, Unfair Competition, § 565.10 et seq.), Bus. & Prof. Code § 17500 et seq. (prohibited advertising practices, discussed in Ch. 14, Advertising)], California consumer law that might be applicable in a particular situation includes the following [Com. Code § 10104(a)(3)]:

- The Consumers Legal Remedies Act (Civ. Code § 1750 et seq.), which is discussed in Ch. 504, Sales: Consumers Legal Remedies Act .

- Civ. Code § 1936, which governs rental, lease, or hire of a passenger vehicle from a rental company for a period of less than 30 days and is discussed in Ch. 93, Bailments .

- The Rees-Levering Motor Vehicle Sales and Finance Act (Civ. Code § 2981 et seq.) and the Vehicle Leasing Act (Civ. Code § 2985.7 et seq.), both of which are discussed in Ch. 89, Automobiles: Sales and Financing Under the Rees-Levering Act .

A choice of law provision in a consumer lease is not enforceable unless it provides for the lease to be governed by the law of a jurisdiction in which (1) the lessee resides at the time the lease agreement becomes enforceable or within 30 days thereafter, (2) the goods are to be used, or (3) the lease is executed by the lessee [Com. Code § 10106(a)]. Similarly, a judicial forum chosen by the parties to a consumer lease is not enforceable unless it is in a county in which (1) the lessee in fact signed the lease, (2) the lessee resides at the commencement of the action or resided at the time the lease contract became enforceable, or (3) the goods are permanently stored [Com. Code § 10106(b)].

Consumer contracts and consumer contract guaranties are governed by the Consumer Contract Awareness Act of 1990 (Civ. Code § 1799.200 et seq.) and by Fin. Code § 757. A consumer contract is one signed by a natural person and prepared by the seller either [Civ. Code § 1799.201(a), (b)]:

- For the sale of goods or services that are purchased primarily for personal, family, or household purposes; or

- For extension of credit, the proceeds of which are used primarily for personal, family, or household purposes [Civ. Code § 1799.201(a), (b)].

For discussion of the Act as applied to depository and banking services, including safe deposit rentals and personal property safekeeping or storage agreements, see Ch. 95, Banks, Deposits, and Checks . For discussion of the Act as applied to consumer contract guaranties, see Ch. 538, Suretyship, Bonds, and Undertakings .

[4] Fraudulent Conveyance Laws

Except as otherwise provided in Division 10 [see, e.g., Com. Code § 10308 (discussed in § 413.156)], each provision of Division 10 applies whether the lessor or a third party has title to the goods, and whether the lessor, the lessee, or a third party has possession of the goods, notwithstanding any statute or rule of law that possession or the absence of possession is fraudulent [Com. Code § 10302; see Civ. Code § 3440.1(k) (excepting from Civ. Code § 3440 et seq. transfers pursuit to leases); Com. Code § 6103(c)(14) (excepting from Com. Code § 6101 et seq. transfers of property immediately leased back to transferor)].

[5] Division 9 of the Commercial Code

Division 9 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 9101 et seq.] applies tosecurity interests created by contract, including a lease, intended as security [Com. Code 9109(a)(1)].

A security interest arising under Com. Code § 10508(e) (see discussion in § 413.221) is subject to Division 9; however, until the debtor obtains possession of the goods, all of the following apply [Com. Code § 9110]:

- The security interest is enforceable, even if Com. Code § 9203(b)(3) has not been satisfied (setting conditions that generally must be satisfied in order to enforce a security interest against the debtor and third parties with respect to collateral).

- Filing is not required to perfect the security interest.

- The rights of the secured party after default by the debtor are governed by Division 2 [see Com. Code § 2101 et seq.; for discussion, see Ch. 500, Sales: Sales Under the Commercial Code] or Division 10.

- The security interest has priority over a conflicting security interest created by the debtor.

Division 9 is discussed in Ch. 503, Sales: Secured Transactions .

[6] Civil Code Governs Unconscionability

California did not enact the Uniform Commercial Code section governing unconscionability. In California, Civ. Code § 1670.5 (discussed in Ch. 140, Contracts) applies to all contracts including commercial ones [see A & M Produce Co. v. FMC Corp. (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 473, 484-485, 186 Cal. Rptr. 114 (applying Civ. Code § 1670.5 to transaction otherwise governed by Division 2)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Banking LawConsumer ProtectionConsumer LeasingGeneral OverviewBanking LawConsumer ProtectionTruth in LendingGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)General OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)DefaultGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Secured Transactions (Article 9)General OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Secured Transactions (Article 9)Application & ConstructionDefinitionsGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Secured Transactions (Article 9)PerfectionChoice of LawCertificates of TitleCommercial Law (UCC)Secured Transactions (Article 9)PriorityGeneral OverviewContracts LawDebtor & Creditor RelationsContracts LawTypes of ContractsBailmentsContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral OverviewTransportation LawPrivate VehiclesVehicle RegistrationGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
1. In General

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.52

§ 413.52 Definitions

[1] "Buyer in Ordinary Course of Business"

Unless the context otherwise requires, "buyer in ordinary course of business" means a person who in good faith and without knowledge that the sale to him or her is in violation of the ownership rights or security interest or leasehold interest of a third party in the goods buys in ordinary course from a person in the business of selling goods of that kind, but does not include a pawnbroker [Com. Code § 10103(a)(1)].

[2] "Buying"

Unless the context otherwise requires, "buying" may be for cash or by exchange of other property or on secured or unsecured credit, and includes acquiring goods or documents of title under a preexisting contract for sale, but does not include a transfer in bulk or as security for or in total or partial satisfaction of a money debt [Com. Code § 10103(a)(1)].

[3] "Conforming"

Unless the context otherwise requires, "conforming" goods or performance under a lease contract means goods or performance that are in accordance with the obligations under the lease contract [Com. Code § 10103(a)(4)].

[4] "Fault"

Unless the context otherwise requires, "fault" means wrongful act, omission, breach, or default [Com. Code § 10103(a)(6)].

[5] "Installment Lease Contract"

Unless the context otherwise requires, "installment lease contract" means a lease contract that authorizes or requires the delivery of goods in separate lots to be separately accepted, even though the lease contract contains a clause "each delivery is a separate lease" or its equivalent [Com. Code § 10103(a)(9)].

[6] "Leasehold Interest"

Unless the context otherwise requires, "leasehold interest" means the interest of the lessor or the lessee under a lease contract [Com. Code § 10103(a)(13)].

[7] "Lessee"

Unless the context otherwise requires, "lessee" means a person who acquires the right to possession and use of goods under a lease. Unless the context clearly indicates otherwise, the term includes a sublessee [Com. Code § 10103(a)(14)].

[8] "Lessee in Ordinary Course of Business"

Unless the context otherwise requires, "lessee in ordinary course of business" means a person who in good faith and without knowledge that the lease to him or her is in violation of the ownership rights or security interest or leasehold interest of a third party in the goods leases in ordinary course from a person in the business of selling or leasing goods of that kind; but "lessee in ordinary course of business" does not include a pawnbroker [Com. Code § 10103(a)(15)]. "Leasing" may be for cash or by exchange of other property or on secured or unsecured credit, and includes acquiring goods or documents of title under a preexisting lease contract, but does not include a transfer in bulk or as security for or in total or partial satisfaction of a money debt [Com. Code § 10103(a)(15)].

[9] "Lessor"

Unless the context otherwise requires, "lessor" means a person who transfers the right to possession and use of goods under a lease. Unless the context clearly indicates otherwise, the term includes a sublessor [Com. Code § 10103(a)(16)].

[10] "Lessor's Residual Interest"

Unless the context otherwise requires, "lessor's residual interest" means the lessor's interest in the goods after expiration, termination, or cancellation of the lease contract [Com. Code § 10103(a)(17)].

[11] "Present Value"

Unless the context otherwise requires, "present value" means the amount as of a date certain of one or more sums payable in the future, discounted to the date certain. The discount is determined by the interest rate specified by the parties if the rate was not manifestly unreasonable at the time the transaction was entered into; otherwise, the discount is determined by a commercially reasonable rate that takes into account the facts and circumstances of each case at the time the transaction was entered into [Com. Code §§ 1201(b)(28), 10103(a)(21)].

[12] "Purchase"

Unless the context otherwise requires, "purchase" includes taking by sale, lease, mortgage, security interest, pledge, gift, or any other voluntary transaction creating an interest in goods [Com. Code § 10103(a)(22)].

[13] "Sublease"

Unless the context otherwise requires, "sublease" means a lease of goods the right to possession and use of which was acquired by the lessor as a lessee under an existing lease [Com. Code § 10103(a)(23)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)Contracts LawThird PartiesGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsBailmentsContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease Agreements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
1. In General

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 413.53-413.69

[Reserved]

§§ 413.53[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
2. Formation And Construction Of Lease Contract

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.70

§ 413.70 Offer and Acceptance

Unless otherwise unambiguously indicated by the language or circumstances, an offer to make a lease contract must be construed as inviting acceptance in any manner and by any medium that is reasonable in the circumstances [Com. Code § 10206(a)]. If the beginning of a requested performance is a reasonable mode of acceptance, an offeror who is not notified of acceptance within a reasonable time may treat the offer as having lapsed before acceptance [Com. Code § 10206(b); see Com. Code § 1202(d) (for the definition of "notify," see § 413.340)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Form, Formation & ReadjustmentOffer & Acceptance

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
2. Formation And Construction Of Lease Contract

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.71

§ 413.71 Firm Offers

An offer by a merchant to lease goods to or from another person in a signed writing that by its terms gives assurance it will be held open is not revocable, for lack of consideration, during the time stated or, if no time is stated, for a reasonable time, but in no event may the period of irrevocability exceed three months [Com. Code § 10205]. Any term of assurance on a form supplied by the offeree must be separately signed by the offeror [Com. Code § 10205].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
2. Formation And Construction Of Lease Contract

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.72

§ 413.72 Sufficiency of Lease Contract

A lease contract may be made in any manner sufficient to show agreement, including conduct by both parties that recognizes the existence of a lease contract [Com. Code § 10204(a)]. An agreement sufficient to constitute a lease contract may be found although the moment of its making is undetermined [Com. Code § 10204(b)].

Although one or more terms are left open, a lease contract does not fail for indefiniteness if the parties have intended to make a lease contract and there is a reasonably certain basis for giving an appropriate remedy [Com. Code § 10204(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
2. Formation And Construction Of Lease Contract

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.73

§ 413.73 Statute of Frauds for Leases

[1] Writing Generally Required

A consumer lease is not enforceable by way of action or defense unless it is in writing [Com. Code § 10201(a)(2); see Com. Code § 10103(a)(5) (discussed in § 413.51[3], above, defining "consumer leases")]. A lease contract that is not a consumer lease, and under which payments, excluding payments for options to renew or buy, total $1,000 or more is not enforceable by way of action or defense unless it is in writing [see Com. Code § 10201(a)(1)].

The writing must be signed by the party against whom enforcement is sought or by that party's authorized agent, sufficient to indicate that a lease contract has been made between the parties and to describe the goods leased and the lease term [Com. Code § 10201(a)(2)]. Any description of leased goods, or of the lease term, is sufficient and satisfies Com. Code § 10201(a)(2), whether or not it is specific, if it reasonably identifies what is described [Com. Code § 10201(b)]. A writing is not insufficient because it omits or incorrectly states a term agreed on, but the lease contract is not enforceable under Com. Code § 10201(a)(2) beyond the lease term and the quantity of goods shown in the writing [Com. Code § 10201(c)].

[2] Substitutes for Writing

[a] Part Performance

A lease contract that does not satisfy the requirements of Com. Code § 10201(a), but which is valid in other respects, is enforceable if the goods are to be specially manufactured or obtained for the lessee and are not suitable for leaseor sale to others in the ordinary course of the lessor's business, and the lessor, before notice of repudiation is received and under circumstances that reasonably indicate that the goods are for the lessee, has made either a substantial beginning of their manufacture or commitments for their procurement [Com. Code § 10201(d)(1)].

A lease contract that does not satisfy the requirements of Com. Code § 10201(a), but which is valid in other respects, is enforceable with respect to goods that have been received and accepted by the lessee [Com. Code § 10201(d)(3)].

[b] Judicial or Testimonial Admission

A lease contract that does not satisfy the requirements of Com. Code § 10201(a), but which is valid in other respects, is enforceable if the party against whom enforcement is sought admits in that party's pleading, testimony, or otherwise in court that a lease contract was made. Then, the lease contract is enforceable to the extent of the quantity of goods admitted [Com. Code § 10201(d)(2)].

[3] Determining Term of Lease Subject to Exception

If enforcement of a lease contract is sought pursuant to one of the exceptions in Com. Code § 10201(d), and there is a writing signed by the party against whom enforcement is sought, or by that party's authorized agent, specifying the lease term, the term of the lease contract is the term specified [Com. Code § 10201(e)(1)].

If enforcement of a lease contract is sought pursuant to Com. Code § 10201(d), and the party against whom enforcement is sought admits a lease term in pleading, testimony, or otherwise in court, the term of the lease contract is the term admitted [Com. Code § 10201(e)(2)].

If enforcement of a lease contract is sought pursuant to one of the exceptions in Com. Code § 10201(d), and there is no writing or admission relating to the lease term, the lease contract is enforceable for a reasonable term [Com. Code § 10201(e)(3)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawFormationExecutionContracts LawStatutes of FraudsGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesGeneral OverviewEvidenceDocumentary EvidenceWritingsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
2. Formation And Construction Of Lease Contract

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.74

§ 413.74 Parol Evidence to Interpret Lease Contact

Terms with respect to which the confirmatory memoranda of the parties agree or which are otherwise set forth in a writing intended by the parties as a final expression of their agreement with respect to the terms included in that writing may not be contradicted by evidence of any prior agreement or of a contemporaneous oral agreement, but they may be explained or supplemented as follows [Com. Code § 10202]:

- By course of dealing or usage of trade or by course of performance; and

- By evidence of consistent additional terms unless the court finds the writing to have been intended also as a complete and exclusive statement of the terms of the agreement.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)Application & ConstructionGap-Filler ProvisionsCommercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Form, Formation & ReadjustmentParol EvidenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawContract InterpretationParol EvidenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawSales of GoodsForm, Formation & ReadjustmentParol EvidenceEvidenceDocumentary EvidenceParol Evidence

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
2. Formation And Construction Of Lease Contract

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.75

§ 413.75 Course of Performance as Aid to Interpretation

If a lease contract involves repeated occasions for performance by either party with knowledge of the nature of the performance and opportunity for objection to it by the other, any course of performance accepted or acquiesced in without objection is relevant to determine the meaning of the lease agreement [Com. Code § 1303(a), (d)]. The express terms of a lease agreement and any course of performance, as well as any course of dealing and usage of trade, must be construed whenever reasonable as consistent with each other, but if that construction is unreasonable, express terms control course of performance, course of performance controls both course of dealing and usage of trade, and course of dealing controls usage of trade [Com. Code § 1303(e)].

Subject to the provisions of Com. Code §§ 2209 and 10208 on modification and waiver, course of performance is relevant to show a waiver or modification of any term inconsistent with the course of performance [Com. Code § 1303(f)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)Contracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
2. Formation And Construction Of Lease Contract

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.76

§ 413.76 Modification, Rescission, and Waiver

[1] In General

An agreement modifying a lease contract needs no consideration to be binding [Com. Code § 10208(a)]. A signed lease agreement that excludes modification or rescission except by a signed writing may not be otherwise modified or rescinded, but, except as between merchants, such a requirement on a form supplied by a merchant must be separately signed by the other party [Com. Code § 10208(b)]. Although an attempt at modification or rescission does not satisfy the requirements of Com. Code § 10208(b), it may operate as a waiver [Com. Code § 10208(c)].

[2] Retraction of Waiver Regarding Executory Portion

A party who has made a waiver affecting an executory portion of a lease contract may retract the waiver by reasonable notification received by the other party that strict performance will be required of any term waived, unless the retraction would be unjust in view of a material change of position in reliance on the waiver [Com. Code § 10208(d)].

[3] Waiver or Renunciation of Rights After Default

Any claim or right arising out of an alleged default or breach of warranty maybe discharged in whole or in part without consideration by a written waiver or renunciation signed and delivered by the aggrieved party [Com. Code § 10107].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Form, Formation & ReadjustmentStatutes of FraudsExceptionsMerchant RuleContracts LawFormationExecutionContracts LawTypes of ContractsExecutory ContractsContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
2. Formation And Construction Of Lease Contract

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 413.77-413.89

[Reserved]

§§ 413.77[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
3. Provisions Applicable Only To Finance Leases

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.90

§ 413.90 "Finance Lease," "Supplier," and "Supply Contract" Defined

Unless the context otherwise requires, "finance lease" means a lease in which the following occurs [Com. Code § 10103(a)(7); see also § 413.50[4]]:

- The lessor does not select, manufacture, or supply the goods;

- The lessor acquires the goods or the right to possession and use of the goods in connection with the lease; and

- One of the following occurs:

  - The lessee receives a copy of the contract by which the lessor acquired the goods or the right to possession and use of the goods before signing the lease contract;

  - The lessee's approval of the contract by which the lessor acquired the goods or the right to possession and use of the goods is a condition to effectiveness of the lease contract;

  - The lessee, before signing the lease contract, receives an accurate and complete statement designating the promises and warranties, and any disclaimers of warranties, limitations or modifications of remedies, or liquidated damages, including those of a third party, such as the manufacturer of the goods, provided to the lessor by the person supplying the goods in connection with or as part of the contract by which the lessor acquired the goods or the right to possession and use of the goods; or

  - The lessor, before the lessee signs the lease contract, informs the lessee in writing (1) of the identity of the person supplying the goods to the lessor, unless the lessee has > selected that person and directed the lessor to acquire the goods or the right to possession and use of the goods from that person, (2) that the lessee is entitled under this division to the promises and warranties, including those of any third party, provided to the lessor by the person supplying the goods in connection with or as part of the contract by which the lessor acquired the goods or the right to possession and use of the goods, and (3) that the lessee may communicate with the person supplying the goods to the lessor and receive an accurate and complete statement of those promises and warranties, including any disclaimers and limitations of them or of remedies.

In Division 10 unless the context otherwise requires, "supplier" means a person from whom a lessor buys or leases goods to be leased under a finance lease [Com. Code § 10103(a)(24)]. Additionally, "supply contract" means a contract under which a lessor buys or leases goods to be leased [Com. Code § 10103(a)(25)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawSales of GoodsDamages & RemediesSeller's Damages & RemediesLimitation & ModificationGeneral OverviewContracts LawThird PartiesGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
3. Provisions Applicable Only To Finance Leases

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.91

§ 413.91 Lessee as Beneficiary of Warranties Under Supply Contract

The benefit of a supplier's promises to the lessor under the supply contract and of all warranties, whether express or implied, including those of any third party provided in connection with or as part of the supply contract, extends to the lessee to the extent of the lessee's leasehold interest under a finance lease related to the supply contract, but is subject to the terms of the warranty and of the supply contract and all defenses or claims arising from the supply contract [Com. Code § 10209(a)]. However, this extension of a benefit of the supplier's promises and of warranties to the lessee does not modify the rights and obligations of the parties to the supply contract, whether arising from the contract or otherwise [Com. Code § 10209(b)(1)]. Nor does the extension of the benefit of a supplier's promises and of warranties to the lessee impose any duty or liability under the supply contract on the lessee [Com. Code § 10209(b)(2)].

Any modification or rescission of the supply contract by the supplier and the lessor is effective between the supplier and the lessee unless, before the modification or rescission, the supplier has received notice that the lessee has entered into a finance lease related to the supply contract [Com. Code § 10209(c)]. If the modification or rescission is effective between the supplier and the lessee, the lessor is deemed to have assumed, in addition to the obligations of the lessor to the lessee under the lease contract, promises of the supplier to the lessor and warranties that were so modified or rescinded as they existed and were available to the lessee before modification or rescission [Com. Code § 10209(c)].

In addition to the foregoing extension of the benefit of the supplier's promises and warranties to the lessee under a finance lease, the lessee retains all rights that the lessee may have against the supplier that arise from any agreement between the lessee and the supplier or from any other law [Com. Code § 10209(d)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsExpress WarrantiesContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
3. Provisions Applicable Only To Finance Leases

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.92

§ 413.92 Warranties by Lessor Are Limited

By definition, a finance lease is one in which, before signing the lease contract, the lessee must have been informed in writing of any and all promises and warranties, and any disclaimers of warranties, limitations or modifications of remedies, or liquidated damages, including those of a third party, provided to the lessor by the person supplying the goods in connection with or as part of the contract by which the lessor acquired the goods or the right to possession and use of the goods [Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)]. The statutory implied warranties of merchantability and fitness for a particular purpose do not apply to a finance lease [Com. Code §§ 10212(a), 10213].

In a finance lease, the lessor does not make the warranty against infringement otherwise provided for by Com. Code § 10211(b) [Com. Code § 10211(b)]. Furthermore, a lessee who furnishes specifications to a lessor or a supplier, as is generally the case in a finance lease [see Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)] must hold the lessor and the supplier harmless against any claim by the way of infringement or the like that arises out of compliance with the specifications [Com. Code § 10211(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)Application & ConstructionDamagesContracts LawSales of GoodsDamages & RemediesBuyer's Damages & RemediesLimitation & ModificationGeneral OverviewContracts LawSales of GoodsDamages & RemediesSeller's Damages & RemediesLimitation & ModificationGeneral OverviewContracts LawSales of GoodsWarrantiesMerchantabilityContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesDamagesGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesDamagesLiquidated DamagesContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesWarranties

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
3. Provisions Applicable Only To Finance Leases

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.93

§ 413.93 Finance Lease Gives Lessee Risk of Loss

In most other leases, unless otherwise agreed by the parties, the risk of loss remains with the lessor. In a finance lease, risk of loss passes to the lessee [Com. Code § 10219(a); see § 413.293[9]]. In the case of delivery or tender of nonconforming goods that gives rise to a right of rejection, under a finance lease the risk of loss will remain with the supplier, until cure or acceptance [Com. Code § 10220(a)(1); see § 413.133].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawSales of GoodsPerformanceRisk of LossContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesRisk of Loss

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
3. Provisions Applicable Only To Finance Leases

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.94

§ 413.94 Finance Lease as Irrevocable After Acceptance of Goods

In the case of a finance lease that is not a consumer lease, the lessee's promises under the lease contract become irrevocable and independent on the lessee's acceptance of the goods [Com. Code § 10407(a); but see Com. Code § 10407, Official UCC Comment; see also § 413.342 (lessee may still have right to revoke acceptance)]. Except under a consumer finance lease, Com. Code § 10407 requires the lessee to perform even if the lessor's performance after acceptance is not in accordance with the lease contract [see, e.g., 15 U.S.C. § 1666i (barring consumer obligation to pay for defective goods)]. The lessee may, however, have and pursue a cause of action against the lessor, such as one for breach of certain limited warranties under Com. Code §§ 10210 and 10211(a) [Com. Code § 10407, Official UCC Comment]. Generally, Com. Code § 10407 also negates any right of set-off the lessee might otherwise have with respect to rent still due under the lease contract [see Com. Code § 10508(f) (set-off); Com. Code § 10407, Official UCC Comment].

A promise that has become irrevocable and independent under Com. Code § 10407(a) is effective and enforceable between the parties, and by or against third parties including assignees of the parties [Com. Code § 10407(b)(1)]. Once a promise has become irrevocable and independent under Com. Code § 10407(a), it is not subject to cancellation, termination, modification, repudiation, excuse, or substitution without the consent of the party to whom the promise runs [Com. Code § 10407(b)(2)].

The effect of Com. Code § 10407 is that lease promises do not become irrevocable until acceptance of the goods, and only then may the promises be enforced by an assignee. However, when a lease is assigned, it becomes subject to Com. Code § 9403, which governs the rights of an assignee meeting its requirements and allows enforcement of a waiver-of-defenses clause in the lease even if the clause would not otherwise be enforceable under Com. Code § 10407. In other words, once there is an assignment to one who qualifies for holder in due course status under Com. Code § 9403, that section imposes additional rules beyond those of Com. Code § 10407. Thus, the lessee, like the maker of a negotiable instrument, bears the risk of putting into the stream of commerce documents that appear regular on their face but have underlying flaws [Wells Fargo Bank Minn. v. B.C.B.U. (2006) 143 Cal. App. 4th 493, 499-501, 49 Cal. Rptr. 3d 324 (lease was enforceable by assignee against lessee that signed acknowledgment of acceptance of leased goods before goods actually were delivered, even though lease subsequently was rescinded and goods never were delivered)]. For additional discussion of the effect of Com. Code § 9403 generally, see Ch. 503, Sales: Secured Transactions, § 503.28[3].

Com. Code § 10407 does not affect the validity under any other law of a covenant in any lease contract making the lessee's promises irrevocable and independent on the lessee's acceptance of the goods [Com. Code § 10407(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)Formation & ConstructionGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)Formation & ConstructionWarrantiesCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)PerformanceContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesWarranties

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
3. Provisions Applicable Only To Finance Leases

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 413.95-413.109

[Reserved]

§§ 413.95[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
4. Warranties

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.110

§ 413.110 Creation of Express Warranties by Lessor

Express warranties by the lessor are created as follows: (1) any affirmation of fact or promise made by the lessor to the lessee that relates to the goods and becomes part of the basis of the bargain creates an express warranty that the goods will conform to the affirmation or promise; (2) any description of the goods that is made part of the basis of the bargain creates an express warranty that the goods will conform to the description; or (3) any sample or model that is made part of the basis of the bargain creates an express warranty that the whole of the goods will conform to the sample or model [Com. Code § 10210(a)].

It is not necessary to the creation of an express warranty that the lessor use formal words, such as "warrant" or "guarantee," or that the lessor have a specific intention to make a warranty, but an affirmation merely of the value of the goods or a statement purporting to be merely the lessor's opinion or commendation of the goods does not create a warranty [Com. Code § 10210(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)Formation & ConstructionWarranties

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
4. Warranties

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.111

§ 413.111 Warranties Given by Lessor

[1] Against Interference or Infringement

There is in a lease contract a warranty that for the lease term no person holds a claim to or interest in the goods that arose from an act or omission of the lessor, other than a claim by way of infringement or the like, which will interfere with the lessee's enjoyment of its leasehold interest [Com. Code § 10211(a)].

Except in a finance lease, there is in a lease contract by a lessor who is a merchant regularly dealing in goods of the kind, a warranty that the goods are delivered free of the rightful claim of any person by way of infringement or the like [Com. Code § 10211(b)].

A lessee who furnishes specifications to a lessor or a supplier shall hold the lessor and the supplier harmless against any claim by the way of infringement or the like that arises out of compliance with the specifications [Com. Code § 10211(c)].

[2] Implied Warranty of Merchantability

Except in a finance lease, a warranty that the goods will be merchantable is implied in a lease contract if the lessor is a merchant with respect to goods of that kind [Com. Code § 10212(a)]. To be merchantable, goods must be at least such as [Com. Code § 10212(b)]:

- Pass without objection in the trade under the description in the lease agreement;
- In the case of fungible goods, are of fair average quality within the description;
- Are fit for the ordinary purposes for which goods of that type are used;
- Run, within the variation permitted by the lease agreement, of even kind, quality, and quantity within each unit and among all units involved;

- Be adequately contained, packaged, and labeled as the lease agreement may require; and

- Conform to any promises or affirmations of fact made on the container or label [Com. Code § 10212(b)].

Other implied warranties may arise from course of dealing or usage of trade [Com. Code § 10212(c)].

[3] Implied Warranty of Fitness for Particular Purpose

Except in a finance lease, if the lessor at the time the lease contract is made has reason to know of any particular purpose for which the goods are required and that the lessee is relying on the lessor's skill or judgment to select or furnish suitable goods, there is in the lease contract an implied warranty that the goods will be fit for that purpose [Com. Code § 10213].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)Formation & ConstructionWarrantiesContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesWarranties

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
4. Warranties

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.112

§ 413.112 Disclaimer or Modification of Warranties

Words or conduct relevant to the creation of an express warranty and words or conduct tending to negate or limit a warranty must be construed wherever reasonable as consistent with each other [Com. Code § 10214(a)]. However, subject to the provisions of Com. Code § 10202 on parol or extrinsic evidence, negation or limitation is inoperative to the extent that the construction is unreasonable [Com. Code § 10214(a)].

Subject to Com. Code § 10214(c), to exclude or modify the implied warranty of merchantability or any part of it the language must mention "merchantability," be by a writing, and be conspicuous [Com. Code § 10214(b)]. Subject to Com. Code § 10214(c), to exclude or modify any implied warranty of fitness the exclusion must be by a writing and be conspicuous [Com. Code § 10214(b)]. Language to exclude all implied warranties of fitness is sufficient if it is in writing, is conspicuous, and states, for example, "There is no warranty that the goods will be fit for a particular purpose" [Com. Code § 10214(b)].

Notwithstanding Com. Code § 10214(b), but subject to Com. Code § 10214(d), unless the circumstances indicate otherwise, all implied warranties are excluded by expressions like "as is," or "with all faults," or by other language that in common understanding calls the lessee's attention to the exclusion of warranties and makes plain that there is no implied warranty, if in writing and conspicuous [Com. Code § 10214(c)(1)]. Notwithstanding Com. Code § 10214(b), but subject to Com. Code § 10214(d), if the lessee before entering into the lease contract has examined the goods or the sample or model as fully as desired or has refused to examine the goods, there is no implied warranty with regard to defects that an examination ought in the circumstances to have revealed [Com. Code § 10214(c)(2)]. Also, notwithstanding Com. Code § 10214(b), but subject to Com. Code § 10214(d), an implied warranty may also be excluded or modified by course of dealing, course of performance, or usage of trade [Com. Code § 10214(c)(3)].

To exclude or modify a warranty against interference or against infringement, or part of it, the language must be specific, be by a writing, and be conspicuous, unless the circumstances, including course of performance, course of dealing, or usage of trade, give the lessee reason to know that the goods are being leased subject to a claim or interest of any person [Com. Code § 10214(d); see Com. Code § 10211 (warranty against infringement or interference)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawSales of GoodsForm, Formation & ReadjustmentFormationModification, Rescission & WaiverContracts LawSales of GoodsWarrantiesMerchantabilityContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesWarranties

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
4. Warranties

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.113

§ 413.113 Rule of Construction Applicable to Warranties

Warranties, whether express or implied, must be construed as consistent with each other and as cumulative, but if that construction is unreasonable, the intention of the parties determines which warranty is dominant [Com. Code § 10215]. In ascertaining that intention the following rules apply [Com. Code § 10215]:

- Exact or technical specifications displace an inconsistent sample or model or general language of description.

- A sample from an existing bulk displaces inconsistent general language of description.

- Express warranties displace inconsistent implied warranties other than an implied warranty of fitness for a particular purpose.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)WarrantiesFitnessCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)Formation & ConstructionWarrantiesContracts LawSales of GoodsWarrantiesFitness

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
4. Warranties

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.114

§ 413.114 Notices Required to Be Given by Lessee

[1] Breach of Warranty of Infringement

If tender has been accepted under a lease other than a consumer lease and the lessee receives notice of litigation for infringement or the like, the lessee, within a reasonable time after receipt of the notice, must notify the lessor or be barred from any remedy over for liability established by the litigation [Com. Code § 10516(c)(2), (f); see Com. Code § 10211 (warranty against infringement)]. Com. Code § 10516(c) applies to any obligation of a lessee to hold the lessor or the supplier harmless against infringement or the like [Com. Code § 10516(e)].

[2] Breach of Warranty for Which Lessor Is Answerable

If a lessee is sued for breach of a warranty or other obligation for which a lessor or a supplier is answerable, the lessee may give the lessor or the supplier, or both, written notice of the litigation [Com. Code § 10516(d)(1)]. If the notice states that the person notified may come in and defend and that if the person notified does not do so, then that person will be bound in any action against that person by the lessee by any determination of fact common to the two litigations, and unless the person notified after seasonable receipt of the notice does come in and defend, that person is so bound [Com. Code § 10516(d)(1)].

If a lessee is sued for breach of a warranty or other obligation for which a lessor or a supplier is answerable over, the lessor or the supplier may demand in writing that the lessee turn over control of the litigation, including settlement, if the claim is one for infringement or the like or else be barred from any remedy over [Com. Code § 10516(d)(2)]. If the demand states that the lessor or the supplier agrees to bear all expense and to satisfy any adverse judgment, then unless the lessee after seasonable receipt of the demand does turn over the control the lessee is so barred [Com. Code § 10516(d)(2)].

Com. Code § 10516(d) applies to any obligation of a lessee to hold the lessor or the supplier harmless against infringement or the like [Com. Code § 10516(e)].

For forms for notice that may be adapted for use by lessees, see Ch. 502, Sales: Warranties .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)Formation & ConstructionWarrantiesContracts LawBreachGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesWarranties

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
4. Warranties

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 413.115-413.129

[Reserved]

§§ 413.115[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
5. Identification Of Goods To Lease And Risk Of Loss

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.130

§ 413.130 Identification of Goods to Lease

Identification of goods as goods to which a lease contract refers may be made at any time and in any manner explicitly agreed to by the parties [Com. Code § 10217]. In the absence of explicit agreement, identification occurs at the following times [Com. Code § 10217]:

- If the lease contract is for a lease of goods that are existing and identified, when the lease contract is made.

- If the lease contract is for a lease of goods that are not existing and identified, when the goods are shipped, marked, or otherwise designated by the lessor as goods to which the lease contract refers.

- If the lease contract is for a lease of unborn young of animals, when the young are conceived.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)Formation & ConstructionContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
5. Identification Of Goods To Lease And Risk Of Loss

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.131

§ 413.131 Insurable Interests

A lessee obtains an insurable interest when existing goods are identified to the lease contract even though the goods identified are nonconforming and the lessee has an option to reject them [Com. Code § 10218(a)]. If a lessee has an insurable interest only by reason of the lessor's identification of the goods, the lessor, until default or insolvency or notification to the lessee that identification is final, may substitute other goods for those identified [Com. Code § 10218(b); see Com. Code § 1202(d) (definition of "notify"; see also § 413.340)].

Notwithstanding a lessee's insurable interest under Com. Code §§ 10218(a) and (b), the lessor retains an insurable interest until an option to buy has been exercised by the lessee and risk of loss has passed to the lessee [Com. Code § 10218(c)].

Nothing in Com. Code § 10218 impairs any insurable interest recognized under any other statute or rule of law [Com. Code § 10218(d)].

The parties may agree that one or more of them has an obligation to obtain and pay for insurance covering the goods and may also agree which of them shall be the beneficiary of the proceeds of the insurance [Com. Code § 10218(e)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)Formation & ConstructionCasualty & Risk of LossContracts LawSales of GoodsPerformanceInsurable Interest & Identification

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
5. Identification Of Goods To Lease And Risk Of Loss

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.132

§ 413.132 Risk of Loss

Except in the case of a finance lease, risk of loss is retained by the lessor and does not pass to the lessee [Com. Code § 10219(a)]. In the case of a finance lease, risk of loss passes to the lessee [Com. Code § 10219(a)].

Subject to the provisions on the effect of default on risks of loss [see, e.g., Com. Code § 10220], if risk of loss is to pass to the lessee and the time of passage is not stated, the following rules apply:

- If the lease contract requires or authorizes the goods to be shipped by carrier and it does not require delivery at a particular destination, the risk of loss passes to the lessee when the goods are duly delivered to the carrier [Com. Code § 10219(b)(1)(A)].

- If the lease contract requires or authorizes the goods to be shipped by carrier and it does require delivery at a particular destination and the goods are duly tendered there while in the possession of the carrier, the risk of loss passes to the lessee when the goods are duly so tendered there as to enable the lessee to take delivery [Com. Code § 10219(b)(1)(B)].

- If the goods are held by a bailee to be delivered without being moved, the risk of loss passes to the lessee on acknowledgment by the bailee of the lessee's right to possession of the goods [Com. Code § 10219(b)(2)].

- In any case not covered by the foregoing, the risk of loss passes to the lessee on the lessee's receipt of the goods if the lessor, or, in the case of a finance lease, the supplier, is a merchant; otherwise the risk passes to the lessee on tender of delivery [Com. Code § 10219(b)(3)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawSales of GoodsPerformanceRisk of LossContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesRisk of Loss

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
5. Identification Of Goods To Lease And Risk Of Loss

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.133

§ 413.133 Effect of Default on Risk of Loss

If risk of loss is to pass to the lessee, the time of passage is not stated, and a tender or delivery of goods that fail to conform to the lease contract gives a right of rejection, the risk of their loss remains with the lessor, or, in the case of a finance lease, the supplier, until cure or acceptance [Com. Code § 10220(a)(1)].

If risk of loss is to pass to the lessee, the time of passage is not stated, and the lessee rightfully revokes acceptance, he or she, to the extent of any deficiency in his or her effective insurance coverage, may treat the risk of loss as having remained with the lessor from the beginning [Com. Code § 10220(a)(2)].

Whether or not risk of loss is to pass to the lessee, if the lessee as to conforming goods already identified to a lease contract repudiates or is otherwise in default under the lease contract, the lessor, or, in the case of a finance lease, the supplier, to the extent of any deficiency in his or her effective insurance coverage may treat the risk of loss as resting on the lessee for a commercially reasonable time [Com. Code § 10220(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)Formation & ConstructionCasualty & Risk of LossContracts LawSales of GoodsPerformanceRisk of LossContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesRisk of Loss

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
5. Identification Of Goods To Lease And Risk Of Loss

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.134

§ 413.134 Casualty to Identified Goods

If a lease contract requires goods identified when the lease contract is made, and the goods suffer casualty without fault of the lessee, the lessor, or the supplier before delivery, or the goods suffer casualty before risk of loss passes to the lessee pursuant to the lease agreement or Com. Code § 10219, the lease contract is avoided if the loss is total [Com. Code § 10221(1)]. However, if, under the foregoing circumstances, the loss is partial or the goods have deteriorated to the extent that they no longer conform to the lease contract, the lessee may demand inspection and at his or her option either treat the lease contract as avoided or, except in a finance lease, accept the goods with due allowance from the rent payable for the balance of the lease term for the deterioration or the deficiency in quantity but without further right against the lessor [Com. Code § 10221(2)]. The Uniform Commercial Code allows a lessee under a consumer finance lease to accept part of the goods with allowance for the destroyed or deteriorated goods. This right was deleted from the California version at the request of leasing associations [see Standby Committee on Uniform Commercial Code Article 2A, California State Bar Assoc., The California Amendments to U.C.C. Article 2A (1987) (hereinafter cited as "State Bar Report")].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)General OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)DefaultLessee & Lessor DefaultCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)Formation & ConstructionCasualty & Risk of LossContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesRisk of Loss

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
5. Identification Of Goods To Lease And Risk Of Loss

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 413.135-413.149

[Reserved]

§§ 413.135[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
6. Effect Of Lease Contract On Third Parties

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.150

§ 413.150 Lease Generally Effective Against Purchasers and Creditors

Except as otherwise provided in Division 10 [see, e.g., Com. Code §§ 10307, 10308 (discussed in §§ 413.155 and 413.156)], a lease contract is effective and enforceable according to its terms between the parties, against purchasers of the goods, and against creditors of the parties [Com. Code § 10301; see also Com. Code § 10407(d) (finance leases, discussed in § 413.94)]. Generally, Division 10 applies whether the lessor or a third party has title to, or possession of, the goods and notwithstanding the fraudulent conveyance statutes [see Com. Code § 10302, discussed in § 413.51[4]].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawSales of GoodsTitle, Creditors & Good Faith PurchasersGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
6. Effect Of Lease Contract On Third Parties

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.151

§ 413.151 Transfer of Interests Under Lease

[1] When Permitted

Except as provided in Com. Code § 9407 (generally permitting assignments and transfers of interests under leases; for discussion, see Ch. 60, Assignments) and Com. Code § 10303(c) (discussed below), a provision in a lease agreement that (1) prohibits the voluntary or involuntary transfer of an interest of a party under the lease contract or of the lessor's residual interest in the goods, or (2) makes such a transfer an event of default, gives rise to the rights and remedies provided in Com. Code § 10303(d) (discussed in § 413.151[2]), but a transfer that is prohibited or is an event of default under the lease agreement is otherwise effective [Com. Code § 10303(b); see also Com. Code § 10407(b) (finance leases, discussed in § 413.94)]. A voluntary or involuntary transfer includes a transfer by sale, sublease, creation or enforcement of a security interest, or attachment, levy, or other judicial process [Com. Code § 10303(b); see Com. Code § 10303(a) (defining "creation of a security interest")]. Transfers prohibited by the lease contract give rise to specified rights and remedies, including, if applicable, damages, cancellation of the lease contract, or an injunction against the transfer [Com. Code § 10303(d)(1), (2); see also Com. Code § 10501].

In a consumer lease, to prohibit the transfer of an interest of a party under a lease contract, or to make a transfer an event of default, the language of prohibition must be specific, in writing, and conspicuous [Com. Code § 10303(g)]. A provision in the lease agreement is not enforceable if it either (1) prohibits a transfer of a right to damages for default with respect to the whole lease contract or of a right to payment arising out of the transferor's due performance of the transferor's entire obligation, or (2) makes such a transfer an event of default. For purposes of Com. Code § 10303(d) (discussed in § 413.151[2]), such a transfer is not a transfer that materially impairs the prospect of obtaining return performance by, materially changes the duty of, or materially increases the burden or risk imposed on, the other party to the lease contract [Com. Code § 10303(c)].

[2] Other Party's Remedies

If a transfer is made, and the making of the transfer is an event of default under a lease agreement, then the party to the lease contract not making the transfer, unless that party waives the default or otherwise agrees to the transfer, has the rights and remedies provided in Division 10 of the Commercial Code and, except as limited by Division 10, the rights and remedies provided in the lease agreement [Com. Code §§ 10303(d)(1), 10501(b)].

In any other case, if a transfer is made that either (1) is prohibited under a lease agreement, or (2) materially impairs the prospect of obtaining returnperformance by, materially changes the duty of, or materially increases the burden or risk imposed on, the other party to the lease contract, and the party not making the transfer does not agree at any time to the transfer in the lease contract or otherwise, then except as limited by contract, both of the following consequences ensue [Com. Code §§ 10303(d)(2)]:

- The transferor is liable to the party not making the transfer for damages caused by the transfer to the extent that the damages could not reasonably be prevented by the party not making the transfer.

- A court having jurisdiction may grant other appropriate relief, including cancellation of the lease contract or an injunction against the transfer.

[3] Construing Scope of Transfer

A transfer of "the lease" or of "all my rights under the lease" or a transfer in similar general terms is a transfer of rights. Unless the language or the circumstances, such as a transfer for security, indicate the contrary, the transfer is a delegation of duties by the transferor to the transferee; and acceptance by the transferee constitutes a promise by the transferee to perform those duties. This promise is enforceable by either the transferor or the other party to the lease contract [Com. Code § 10303(e)].

Unless otherwise agreed by the lessor and the lessee, a delegation of performance does not relieve the transferor as against the other party of any duty to perform or any liability for default [Com. Code § 10303(f)]. A right to damages for default with respect to the whole lease contract or a right arising out of the transferor's due performance of the transferor's entire obligation can be assigned despite agreement otherwise [see Com. Code § 10303(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)General OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)Formation & ConstructionGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Secured Transactions (Article 9)Attachment of Security InterestsGeneral OverviewContracts LawSecured TransactionsApplication & ConstructionLeasesContracts LawSecured TransactionsThird Party RightsGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesLessor's Remedies & RightsRight to Residual Interests

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
6. Effect Of Lease Contract On Third Parties

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.152

§ 413.152 Subsequent Lessee From Lessor

[1] Extent of Interest Acquired

Subject to the provisions of Com. Code § 10303 (discussed in § 413.151), a subsequent lessee from a lessor of goods under an existing lease contract obtains, to the extent of the leasehold interest transferred, the leasehold interest in the goods that the lessor had or had power to transfer, and, except as provided in Com. Code §§ 10304(b) and 10527(d), takes subject to the existing lease contract [Com. Code § 10304(a)]. A lessor with voidable title has power to transfer a good leasehold interest to a good faith subsequent lessee for value, but only to the extent set forth in the preceding sentence [Com. Code § 10304(a)]. When goods have been delivered under a transaction of purchase the lessor has that power even though (1) the lessor's transferor was deceived as to the identity of the lessor; (2) the delivery was in exchange for a check that is later dishonored; (3) it was agreed that the transaction was to be a "cash sale"; or (4) the delivery was procured through fraud punishable as larcenous under the criminal law [Com. Code § 10304(a)].

A subsequent lessee from the lessor of goods that are subject to an existing lease contract and are covered by a certificate of title issued under a California statute or one of another jurisdiction takes no greater rights than those provided both by Com. Code § 10304 and by the certificate-of-title statute [Com. Code § 10304(c); see also § 413.51[2]].

[2] Subsequent Lessee in Ordinary Course of Business

A subsequent lessee in the ordinary course of business from a lessor who is a merchant dealing in goods of that kind to whom the goods were entrusted by the existing lessee of that lessor before the interest of the subsequent lessee became enforceable against that lessor obtains, to the extent of the leasehold interest transferred, all of that lessor's and the existing lessee's rights to the goods and takes free of the existing lease contract [Com. Code § 10304(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawNegotiable InstrumentsNegotiationDeliveryContracts LawNegotiable InstrumentsTransfersContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
6. Effect Of Lease Contract On Third Parties

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.153

§ 413.153 Buyer or Sublessee From Lessee

[1] Extent of Interest Acquired

Subject to the provisions of Com. Code § 10303 (discussed in § 413.151), a buyer or sublessee from the lessee of goods under an existing lease contract obtains, to the extent of the interest transferred, the leasehold interest in the goods that the lessee had or had power to transfer and, except as provided in Com. Code §§ 10305(b) and 10511(d), takes subject to the existing lease contract [Com. Code § 10305(a)]. A lessee with a voidable leasehold interest has power to transfer a good leasehold interest to a good faith buyer for value or a good faith sublessee for value, but only to the extent set forth in the preceding sentence [Com. Code § 10305(a)]. When goods have been delivered under a transaction of lease the lessee has that power even though (1) the lessor was deceived as to the identity of the lessee; (2) the delivery was in exchange for a check that is later dishonored; or (3) the delivery was procured through fraud punishable as larcenous under the criminal law [Com. Code § 10305(a)].

A buyer or sublessee from the lessee of goods that are subject to an existing lease contract and are covered by a certificate of title issued under a California statute or one of another jurisdiction takes no greater rights than those provided both by Com. Code § 10305 and by the certificate-of-title statute [Com. Code § 10305(c); see also § 413.51[2]].

[2] Buyer or Sublessee in Ordinary Course of Business

A buyer in the ordinary course of business or a sublessee in the ordinary course of business from a lessee who is a merchant dealing in goods of that kind to whom the goods were entrusted by the lessor obtains, to theextent of the interest transferred, all of the lessor's and lessee's rights to the goods, and takes free of the existing lease contract [Com. Code § 10305(b); see Mercedes-Benz Credit Corporation v. Johnson (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 53, 58-59, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 396 (because lessor did not "entrust" car to auto dealer who leased it for personal use only, purchaser did not acquire superior title as good faith purchaser); see also Com. Code § 10103(a)(1) discussed in § 413.52[1]].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawSales of GoodsPerformanceGeneral OverviewContracts LawSales of GoodsPerformanceBuyer's RightsContracts LawTypes of ContractsBona Fide PurchasersContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
6. Effect Of Lease Contract On Third Parties

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.154

§ 413.154 Lien of Repairer of Leased Goods

If a person in the ordinary course of his or her business furnishes services or materials with respect to goods subject to a lease contract, a lien on those goods in the possession of that person given by statute or rule of law for those materials or services takes priority over any interest of the lessor or lessee under the lease contract or Division 10 unless the lien is created by statute and the statute provides otherwise or unless the lien is created by rule of law and the rule of law provides otherwise [Com. Code § 10306]. As used in Division 10, and unless the context otherwise requires, "lien" means a charge against or interest in goods to secure payment of a debt or performance of an obligation, but the term does not include a security interest [Com. Code § 10103(a)(18)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)General OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
6. Effect Of Lease Contract On Third Parties

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.155

§ 413.155 Rights of Lessee's Creditors

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 10306 (repairer's lien), a creditor of a lessee takes subject to the lease contract [Com. Code § 10307(a)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
6. Effect Of Lease Contract On Third Parties

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.156

§ 413.156 Rights of Lessor's and Seller's Creditors

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 10306 (repairer's lien) and Com. Code §§ 10307(c) and 10308 (discussed below), a creditor of a lessor takes subject to the lease contract unless the creditor holds a lien that attached to the goods before the lease contract became enforceable [Com. Code § 10307(b)].

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code §§ 9317, 9321, and 9323 (concerning priorities of secured parties; for discussion, see Ch. 503, Sales: Secured Transactions), a lessee takes a leasehold interest subject to a security interest held by a creditor of the lessor [Com. Code § 10307(c)].

A creditor of a lessor in possession of goods subject to a lease contract may treat the lease contract as void if as against the creditor retention of possession by the lessor is fraudulent or void under any statute or rule of law. Retention of possession in good faith and current course of trade by the lessor for a commercially reasonable time after the lease contract becomes enforceable is not fraudulent or void [Com. Code § 10308(a)]. The word "void" does not appear in the Uniform Commercial Code version, but was added to conform to California law [see State Bar Report 8]. Nothing in Division 10 impairs the rights of creditors of a lessor if the lease contract is made under circumstances that, under any statute or rule of law apart from Division 10, would constitute the transaction a fraudulent transfer or voidable preference [Com. Code § 10308(b)].

A creditor of a seller may treat a sale or an identification of goods to a contract for sale as void if as against the creditor retention of possession by the seller is fraudulent under any statute or rule of law. Retention of possession of the goods pursuant to a lease contract entered into by the seller as lessee and the buyer as lessor in connection with the sale or identification of the goods is not fraudulent if the buyer bought for value and in good faith [Com. Code § 10308(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Secured Transactions (Article 9)PriorityLiensCommercial Law (UCC)Secured Transactions

(Article 9)PriorityPurchasers & Perfected Secured PartiesGeneral OverviewContracts LawDebtor & Creditor RelationsContracts LawDefensesGeneral OverviewContracts LawSecured TransactionsAttachment of Security InterestsEnforceabilityContracts LawSecured TransactionsPerfection & PriorityPriorityCreditor PrioritiesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
6. Effect Of Lease Contract On Third Parties

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.157

§ 413.157 Leased Goods as Fixtures

[1] Permitted; Exceptions

Under Division 10 no lease exists of ordinary building materials incorporated into an improvement on land. But a lease governed by Division 10 may be of goods that are fixtures or may continue in goods that become fixtures [Com. Code § 10309(b)]. Division 10 does not prevent creation of a lease of fixtures pursuant to real estate law [Com. Code § 10309(c)]. In Com. Code § 10309, goods are "fixtures" when they become so related to particular real estate that an interest in them arises under real estate law [Com. Code § 10309(a)(1)].

[2] Priority of Lessor's Interest

The interest of a lessor of fixtures has priority over a conflicting interest of an encumbrancer or owner of the real estate in the following situations [Com. Code § 10309(d); see Com. Code § 10309(a)(1), (5) (defining "fixture filing" and "encumbrance")]:

- If the lease is a purchase money lease [see Com. Code § 10309(a)(3) (defining "purchase money lease")], the conflicting interest of the encumbrancer or owner arises before the goods become fixtures, a fixture filing covering the fixtures is filed before the goods become fixtures or within 20 days thereafter, and the lessee has an interest of record in the real estate or is in possession of the real estate [but see Com. Code § 10309(e) (discussed in § 413.157[3])].

- If a fixture filing covering the fixtures is filed before the interest of the encumbrancer or owner is of record, the lessor's interest has priority over any conflicting interest of a predecessor in title of the encumbrancer or owner, and the lessee has an interest of record in the real estate or is in possession of the real estate [see Com. Code § 10309(a)(2) (defining "fixture filing")].

- If the fixtures are readily removable factory or office machines, readily removable equipment that is not primarily used or leased for use in the operation of the real estate, or readily removable replacements of domestic appliances that are goods subject to a consumer lease.

- If the conflicting interest is a lien on the real estate obtained by legal or equitable proceedings after the lease contract is enforceable.

- If the encumbrancer or owner has consented in writing to the lease or has disclaimed an interest in the goods as fixtures.

- If the lessee has a right to remove the goods as against the encumbrancer or owner. If the lessee's right to remove terminates, the priority of the interest of the lessor continues for a reasonable time.

In Com. Code § 10309, a "fixture filing" is the filing, in the office where a record of a mortgage on the real estate would be recorded, of a financing statement covering goods that are or are to become fixtures and conforming to the requirements of Com. Code § 9502(a), (b) [Com. Code § 10309(a)(2)]. A lease is a "purchase money lease" unless the lessee has possession or use of the goods or the right to possession or use of the goods before the lease agreement is enforceable [Com. Code § 10309(a)(3)]. "Encumbrance" includes real estate mortgages and other liens on real estate and all other rights in real estate that are not ownership interests [Com. Code § 10309(a)(5)].

Com. Code § 10309 reflects changes from the Uniform Commercial Code version to conform to former Com. Code § 9313 (now see Com. Code § 9501 et seq.) [see State Bar Report 8].

[3] Lessor's Interest Subordinate to Construction Loan

Notwithstanding Com. Code § 10309(d)(1) but otherwise subject to Com. Code § 10309(d), the interest of a lessor of fixtures, including the lessor's residual interest, is subordinate to the conflicting interest of an encumbrancer of the real estate under a construction mortgage recorded before the goods become fixtures if the goods become fixtures before the completion of the construction [Com. Code § 10309(e)]. In Com. Code § 10309, a mortgage is a "construction mortgage" to the extent it secures an obligation incurred for the construction of an improvement on land including the acquisition cost of the land, if the recorded writing so indicates [Com. Code § 10309(a)(4)]. To the extent given to refinance a construction mortgage, the conflicting interest of an encumbrancer of the real estate under a mortgage has this priority to the same extent as the encumbrancer of the real estate under the construction mortgage [Com. Code § 10309(e)].

[4] Determination of Priority in Other Situations

In situations not within Com. Code § 10309(d) or (e), priority between the interest of a lessor of fixtures, including the lessor's residual interest, and the conflicting interest of an encumbrancer or owner of the real estate who is not the lessee is determined by the priority rules governing conflicting interests in real estate [Com. Code § 10309(f)]. For a form of complaint seeking declaratory relief regarding the removability of fixtures, see Ch. 332, Landlord and Tenant: The Tenancy .

It should be noted, also, that nothing in Division 10 prevents subordination by agreement by any person entitled to priority [Com. Code § 10311].

[5] Lessor's or Lessee's Right to Remove Fixtures

If the interest of a lessor has priority over all conflicting interests of all owners and encumbrancers of the real estate, the lessor or the lessee may (1) on default, expiration, termination, or cancellation of the lease agreement but subject to the lease agreement and Division 10, or (2) if necessary to enforce his or her other rights and remedies under Division 10, remove the goods from the real estate, free and clear of all conflicting interests of all owners and encumbrancers of the real estate [Com. Code § 10309(g)]. A lessor or lessee who removes fixtures pursuant to Com. Code § 10309 must reimburse any encumbrancer or owner of the real estate who is not the lessee and who has not otherwise agreed for the cost of repair of any physical injury, but not for any diminution in value of the real estate caused by the absence of the goods removed or by any necessity of replacing them. A person entitled to reimbursement may refuse permission to remove until the party seeking removal gives adequate security for the performance of this obligation [Com. Code § 10309(g)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Secured Transactions (Article 9)Application & ConstructionDefinitionsCollateralGoodsFixturesCommercial Law (UCC)Secured Transactions (Article 9)PriorityAccessions & FixturesGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Secured Transactions (Article 9)PriorityLiensContracts LawSecured TransactionsPerfection & PriorityPriorityAccessions & FixturesGeneral OverviewContracts LawSecured TransactionsPerfection & PriorityPriorityAccessions & FixturesFixtures & CropsContracts LawSecured TransactionsPerfection & PriorityPriorityAccessions & FixturesMechanics' LiensTortsPremises Liability & PropertyLessees & LessorsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
6. Effect Of Lease Contract On Third Parties

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.158

§ 413.158 Leased Goods as Accessions

[1] When Lessor's or Lessee's Interest Superior

Goods are "accessions" when they are installed in or affixed to other goods [Com. Code § 10310(a)]. The interest of a lessor or a lessee under a lease contract entered into before the goods became accessions is superior to all interests in the whole except as stated in Com. Code § 10310(d) [Com. Code § 10310(b)].

The interest of a lessor or a lessee under a lease contract entered into at the time or after the goods became accessions is superior to all subsequently acquired interests in the whole except as stated in Com. Code § 10310(d), but is subordinate to interests in the whole existing at the time the lease contract was made unless the holders of those interests in the whole have in writing consented to the lease or disclaimed an interest in the goods as part of the whole [Com. Code § 10310(c)].

[2] When Lessor's and Lessee's Interests Are Subordinate

The interest of a lessor or a lessee under a lease contract described in Com. Code § 10310(b) or (c) is subordinate to the interest of a buyer in the ordinary course of business or a lessee in the ordinary course ofbusiness of any interest in the whole acquired after the goods became accessions [Com. Code § 10310(d)(1)]. The interest of a lessor or a lessee under a lease contract described in Com. Code § 10310(b) or (c) is also subordinate to the interest of a creditor with a security interest in the whole perfected before the lease contract was made to the extent that the creditor makes subsequent advances without knowledge of the lease contract [Com. Code § 10310(d)(2)].

[3] Removal of Accessions

When under Com. Code § 10310(b) or (c) and (d) a lessor or a lessee of accessions holds an interest that is superior to all interests in the whole, the lessor or the lessee may (1) on default, expiration, termination, or cancellation of the lease contract by the other party but subject to the provisions of the lease contract and Division 10, or (2) if necessary to enforce his or her other rights and remedies under Division 10, remove the goods from the whole, free and clear of all interests in the whole [Com. Code § 10310(e)]. A lessor or lessee who removes fixtures pursuant to Com. Code § 10310(e) must reimburse any holder of an interest in the whole who is not the lessee and who has not otherwise agreed for the cost of repair of any physical injury but not for any diminution in value of the whole caused by the absence of the goods removed or by any necessity for replacing them. A person entitled to reimbursement may refuse permission to remove until the party seeking removal gives adequate security for the performance of this obligation [Com. Code § 10310(e)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Secured Transactions (Article 9)PriorityAccessions & FixturesGeneral OverviewContracts LawSecured TransactionsPerfection & PriorityPriorityGeneral OverviewContracts LawSecured TransactionsPerfection & PriorityPriorityAccessions & FixturesGeneral OverviewContracts LawSecured TransactionsPerfection & PriorityPriorityAccessions & FixturesAccessionsContracts LawSecured TransactionsPerfection & PriorityPriorityCreditor PrioritiesGeneral OverviewContracts LawSecured TransactionsPerfection & PriorityPriorityPurchasers & Perfected Secured PartiesGeneral OverviewContracts LawSecured TransactionsPerfection & PriorityPriorityPurchasers & Perfected Secured PartiesBuyers & Lessees in Ordinary Course of Business

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
6. Effect Of Lease Contract On Third Parties

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 413.159-413.169

[Reserved]

§§ 413.159[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
7. Repudiated, Substituted, And Excused Performance

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.170

§ 413.170 Right to Assurances

A lease contract imposes an obligation on each party that the other's expectation of receiving due performance will not be impaired [Com. Code § 10401(a)]. If reasonable grounds for insecurity arise with respect to the performance of either party, the insecure party may demand in writing adequate assurance of due performance. Until the insecure party receives that assurance, if commercially reasonable the insecure party may suspend any performance for which he or she has not already received the agreed return [Com. Code § 10401(b)].

A repudiation of the lease contract occurs if assurance of due performance adequate under the circumstances of the particular case is not provided to the insecure party within a reasonable time, not to exceed 30 days after receipt of a demand by the other party [Com. Code § 10401(c)].

Between merchants, the reasonableness of grounds for insecurity and the adequacy of any assurance offered must be determined according to commercial standards [Com. Code § 10401(d)]. Acceptance of any nonconforming delivery or payment does not prejudice the aggrieved party's right to demand adequate assurance of future performance [Com. Code § 10401(e)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)General OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)Lease ContractsPriority & Rights in GoodsContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
7. Repudiated, Substituted, And Excused Performance

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.171

§ 413.171 Anticipatory Repudiation

[1] Aggrieved Party's Options

If either party repudiates a lease contract, other than a consumer lease, with respect to a performance not yet due under the lease contract, the loss of which performance will substantially impair the value of the lease contract to the other, the aggrieved party may (1) for a commercially reasonable time, await retraction of repudiation and performance by the repudiating party; (2) make demand for adequate assurance pursuant to Com. Code § 10401 and await assurance of future performance adequate under the circumstances of the particular case; or (3) resort to any right or remedy for default under the lease contract or Division 10, even though the aggrieved party has notified the repudiating party that the aggrieved party would await the repudiating party's performance and assurance and has urged retraction [Com. Code § 10402(a)]. In addition, whether or not the aggrieved party is pursuing one of the foregoing remedies, the aggrieved party may suspend performance or, if the aggrieved party is the lessor, proceed in accordance with the provisions of Division 10 on the lessor's right to identify goods to the lease contract notwithstanding default or to salvage unfinished goods [Com. Code § 10402(a)(3); see Com. Code § 10524 (disposition of goods)].

The rights and remedies of the parties to a consumer lease in connection with a repudiation of that lease shall be determined under other laws, and Com. Code § 10402 shall not affect the applicability or interpretation of those laws [Com. Code § 10402(b); see § 413.51[3]]. Com. Code § 10402(b) has no counterpart in the Uniform Commercial Code [see State Bar Report 9].

[2] Retraction

Until the repudiating party's next performance is due, the repudiating party can retract the repudiation unless, since the repudiation, the aggrieved party has canceled the lease contract or materially changed the aggrieved party's position, or otherwise indicated that the aggrieved party considers the repudiation final [Com. Code § 10403(a)]. Retraction may be by any method that clearly indicates to the aggrieved party that the repudiating party intends to perform under the lease contract and includes any assurance demanded under Com. Code § 10401 [Com. Code § 10403(b)].

Retraction reinstates a repudiating party's rights under a lease contract with due excuse and allowance to the aggrieved party for any delay occasioned by the repudiation [Com. Code § 10403(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Breach, Repudiation & ExcuseAnticipatory RepudiationCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)PerformanceContracts LawBreachAnticipatory RepudiationGeneral OverviewContracts LawPerformanceSubstantial Performance

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
7. Repudiated, Substituted, And Excused Performance

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.172

§ 413.172 Substituted Performance When Agreed Performance Impracticable

If without fault of the lessee, the lessor, and the supplier, the agreed berthing, loading, or unloading facilities fail or the agreed type of carrier becomes unavailable or the agreed manner of delivery otherwise becomes commercially impracticable, but a commercially reasonable substitute is available, the substitute performance must be tendered and accepted [Com. Code § 10404(a)].

If the agreed means or manner of payment fails because of domestic or foreign governmental regulation, the lessor may withhold or stop delivery or cause the supplier to withhold or stop delivery unless the lessee provides a means or manner of payment that is commercially a substantial equivalent [Com. Code § 10404(b)(1)]. If delivery has already been taken and the agreed means or manner of payment fails because of domestic or foreign governmental regulation, payment by the means or in the manner provided by the regulation discharges the lessee's obligation unless the regulation is discriminatory, oppressive, or predatory [Com. Code § 10404(b)(2)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Breach, Repudiation & ExcuseSubstituted PerformanceCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)General OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)PerformanceContracts LawBreachAnticipatory RepudiationGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
7. Repudiated, Substituted, And Excused Performance

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.173

§ 413.173 Impossibility

Subject to Com. Code § 10404 on substituted performance, delay in delivery or nondelivery in whole or in part by a lessor or a supplier who complies with Com. Code § 10405(2) and (3) is not a default under the lease contract if performance as agreed has been made impracticable by the occurrence of a contingency the nonoccurrence of which was a basic assumption on which the lease contract was made, or by compliance in good faith with any applicable foreign or domestic governmental regulation or order, whether or not the regulation or order later proves to be invalid [Com. Code § 10405(1)].

If the causes mentioned in Com. Code § 10405(1) affect only part of the lessor's or the supplier's capacity to perform, the lessor or supplier must allocate production and deliveries among its customers but at its option may include regular customers not then under contract for sale or lease as well as its own requirements for further manufacture [Com. Code § 10405(2)]. The lessor or supplier may so allocate in any manner that is fair and reasonable [Com. Code § 10405(2)].

The lessor must notify the lessee seasonably and in the case of a finance lease the supplier must seasonably notify the lessor and the lessee, if known, that there will be delay or nondelivery and, if allocation is required under Com. Code § 10405(2), of the estimated quota thus made available for the lessee [Com. Code § 10405(3); see Com. Code § 1202(d) (definition of "notify"; see also § 413.340)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Breach, Repudiation & ExcuseExcuse From PerformanceContracts LawPerformanceImpossibility of PerformanceGeneral OverviewContracts LawPerformanceImpossibility of PerformanceImpracticabilityContracts LawSales of GoodsBreach, Repudiation & ExcuseExcuse From Performance

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
7. Repudiated, Substituted, And Excused Performance

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.174

§ 413.174 Lessee's Rights on Receipt of Notice of Delay or Allocation

If the lessee receives notification of a material or indefinite delay or an allocation justified under Com. Code § 10405 (discussed in § 413.173), the lessee may by written notification to the lessor as to any goods involved, and with respect to all of the goods if under an installment lease contract the value of the whole lease contract is substantially impaired, (1) terminate the lease contract, or, (2) except in a finance lease, modify the lease contract by accepting the available quota in substitution, with due allowance from the rent payable for the balance of the lease term for the deficiency but without further right against the lessor [Com. Code § 10406(a); see Com. Code § 10510 (substantial impairment in installment lease)]. On termination of a lease contract, all obligations that are still executory on both sides are discharged but any right based on prior default or performance survives [Com. Code § 10505(b)]. The Uniform Commercial Code allows a lessee under a consumer finance lease to modify the lease for delay or allocation [see Com. Code § 10406, Official UCC Comment]. This consumer option was deleted from the California version at the request of leasing associations [see State Bar Report 9].

If the lessee, after receipt of a notification from the lessor under Com. Code § 10405, fails to modify the lease agreement within a reasonable time not exceeding 30 days, the lease contract lapses with respect to any deliveries affected [Com. Code § 10406(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)General OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)PerformanceContracts LawContract ModificationsGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsExecutory ContractsContracts LawTypes of ContractsInstallment Contracts

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
7. Repudiated, Substituted, And Excused Performance

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 413.175-413.189

[Reserved]

§§ 413.175[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
8. Remedies In General

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.190

§ 413.190 Determining Whether Default Exists

Whether the lessor or the lessee is in default under a lease contract is determined by the lease agreement and Division 10 [Com. Code § 10501(a)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)DefaultRemediesContracts LawRemediesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
8. Remedies In General

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.191

§ 413.191 Remedies

[1] Governed by Agreement and Division 10

If the lessor or the lessee is in default under the lease contract, the party seeking enforcement has rights and remedies as provided in Division 10, and, except as limited by Division 10, as provided in the lease agreement [Com. Code § 10501(b)]. Except as otherwise provided in Division 10, the lease agreementmay include rights and remedies for default in addition to or in substitution for those provided in Division 10, and may limit or alter the measure of damages recoverable under Division 10 [Com. Code § 10503(a)].

[2] Various Remedies Available

If the lessor or the lessee is in default under the lease contract, the party seeking enforcement may reduce the party's claim to judgment, or otherwise enforce the lease contract by self-help or any available judicial procedure or nonjudicial procedure, including administrative proceedings, arbitration, or the like, in accordance with Division 10 [Com. Code § 10501(c)]. The scope of procedures listed in Com. Code § 10501(c) is consistent with the scope of procedures available to a foreclosing secured party under former Com. Code § 9501(1) (now see Com. Code § 9601 et seq.) [Com. Code § 10501, Official UCC Comment].

Rights and remedies for material misrepresentation or fraud include all rights and remedies available under Division 10 for default [Com. Code § 10505(d)].

Rights and remedies on default by the lessor or the lessee with respect to any obligation or promise collateral or ancillary to the lease contract are not impaired by Division 10 [Com. Code § 10503(d)].

[3] Not Barred by Rescission, Rejection, or Return

Neither rescission nor a claim for rescission of the lease contract nor rejection or return of the goods may bar or be deemed inconsistent with a claim for damages or other right or remedy [Com. Code § 10505(e)].

[4] Cumulative and Optional

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 1305, Division 10, or the lease agreement, the rights and remedies referred to in Com. Code § 10501(b) and (c) are cumulative [Com. Code § 10501(d)].

Resort to a remedy provided under Division 10 or in the lease agreement is optional unless the remedy is expressly agreed to be exclusive. If circumstances cause an exclusive or limited remedy to fail in its essential purpose, or provision for an exclusive remedy is unconscionable, remedy may be had as provided in Division 10 [Com. Code § 10503(b)].

[5] Under Lease Covering Real Property and Goods

If the lease agreement covers both real property and goods, the party seeking enforcement may proceed under Com. Code § 10501 et seq. as to the goods, or under other applicable law as to both the real property and the goods in accordance with that party's rights and remedies in respect of the real property, in which case Com. Code § 10501 et seq. do not apply [Com. Code § 10501(e)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Secured Transactions (Article 9)DefaultGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationMaterial MisrepresentationContracts LawSales of GoodsDamages & RemediesSeller's Damages & RemediesLimitation & ModificationUnconscionable LimitationsContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
8. Remedies In General

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.192

§ 413.192 Notices of Default or Enforcement Not Required

Except as otherwise provided in Division 10 [see, e.g., Com. Code § 10517(d)] or the lease agreement, the lessor or lessee in default under the lease contract is not entitled to notice of default or notice of enforcement from the other party to the lease agreement [Com. Code § 10502].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)DefaultRemediesContracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
8. Remedies In General

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.193

§ 413.193 Permissible Limitations on Damages

Consequential damages may be liquidated under Com. Code § 10504, or may otherwise be limited, altered, or excluded unless the limitation, alteration, or exclusion is unconscionable [Com. Code § 10503(c)]. Limitation, alteration, or exclusion of consequential damages for injury to the person in the case of consumer goods is prima facie unconscionable, but limitation, alteration or exclusion of damages when the loss is commercial is not prima facie unconscionable [Com. Code § 10503(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)Application & ConstructionDamagesCommercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)RemediesLimitation & ModificationUnconscionable LimitationsContracts LawSales of GoodsDamages & RemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawSales of GoodsDamages & RemediesBuyer's Damages & RemediesLimitation & ModificationGeneral OverviewContracts LawSales of GoodsDamages & RemediesSeller's Damages & RemediesLimitation & ModificationGeneral OverviewContracts LawSales of GoodsDamages & RemediesSeller's Damages & RemediesLimitation & ModificationLiquidated DamagesContracts LawSales of GoodsDamages & RemediesSeller's Damages & RemediesLimitation & ModificationUnconscionable Limitations

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
8. Remedies In General

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.194

§ 413.194 Liquidated Damages

Damages payable by either party for default, or any other act or omission, including indemnity for loss or diminution of anticipated tax benefits or loss or damage to the lessor's residual interest, may be liquidated in the lease agreement subject to and in compliance with Civ. Code § 1671 [Com. Code § 10504(a)]. If the liquidated damage provision in the lease agreement does not comply with Com. Code § 10504(a), remedy may be had as provided in Division 10 [Com. Code § 10504(b)]. For further discussion of Civ. Code § 1671, see Ch. 177, Damages .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)Application & ConstructionDamagesCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)DefaultRemediesContracts LawRemediesLiquidated Damages

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
8. Remedies In General

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.195

§ 413.195 Lessee's Right of Reimbursement for Justified Nondelivery

If the lessor justifiably withholds or stops delivery of goods because of the lessee's default or insolvency [see Com. Code §§ 10525, 10526, discussed at § 413.250[3] -[5]], the lessee is entitled to restitution of any amount by which the sum of his or her payments exceeds (1) the amount to which the lessor is entitled by virtue of a liquidated damage provision in the lease agreement, or (2) in the absence of a liquidated damage provision, 20 percent of the then present value of the total rent the lessee was obligated to pay for the balance of the lease term, or, in the case of a consumer lease, that amount or $500, whichever is less [Com. Code § 10504(c)].

A lessee's right to restitution under Com. Code § 10504(c) is subject to offset to the extent the lessor establishes a right to recover damages under the provisions of Division 10, other than Com. Code § 10504(a) (validity of liquidated damage provision) [Com. Code § 10504(d)(1)]. A lessee's right to restitution is also subject to offset to the extent of the amount or value of any benefits received bythe lessee directly or indirectly by reason of the lease contract [Com. Code § 10504(d)(2)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)Application & ConstructionDamagesContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesDamagesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
8. Remedies In General

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.196

§ 413.196 Right of the Parties on Cancellation, Termination, or Rescission

Unless the context requires otherwise, in Division 10, "cancellation" occurs when either party puts an end to the lease contract for default by the other party [Com. Code § 10103(a)(2)]. On cancellation of the lease contract, all obligations that are still executory on both sides are discharged, but any right based on prior default or performance survives, and the cancelling party also retains any remedy for default of the whole lease contract or any unperformed balance [Com. Code § 10505(a)].

Unless the context requires otherwise, in Division 10, "termination" occurs when either party pursuant to a power created by agreement or law puts an end to the lease contract otherwise than for default [Com. Code § 10103(a)(26)]. On termination of the lease contract, all obligations that are still executory on both sides are discharged but any right based on prior default or performance survives [Com. Code § 10505(b)].

Unless the contrary intention clearly appears, expressions of "cancellation," "rescission," or the like of the lease contract may not be construed as a renunciation or discharge of any claim in damages for an antecedent default [Com. Code § 10505(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)DefaultRemediesContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
8. Remedies In General

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.197

§ 413.197 Statute of Limitations

An action for default under a lease contract, including breach of warranty or indemnity, must be commenced within four years after the cause of action accrued [Com. Code § 10506(a)]. In a lease contract that is not a consumer lease, by the original lease contract the parties may reduce the period of limitation to not less than one year [Com. Code § 10506(a)]. The prohibition on reduction of the limitation period in a consumer lease is not part of the Uniform Commercial Code, but only appears in the California version [State Bar Report 9]. Com. Code § 10506(a) is similar to Com. Code § 2725(1), except that it does not incorporate the prohibition on the parties' extension of the limitation period [Com. Code § 10506(a), Official UCC Comment].

A cause of action for default accrues when the act or omission on which the default or breach of warranty is based is or should have been discovered by the aggrieved party, or when the default occurs, whichever is later [Com. Code § 10506(b)]. A cause of action for indemnity accrues when the act or omission on which the claim for indemnity is based is or should have been discovered by the indemnified party, whichever is later [Com. Code § 10506(b)].

If an action commenced within the time limited by Com. Code § 10506(a) is terminated in a manner that leaves available a remedy by another action for the same default or breach of warranty or indemnity, the other action may be commenced after the expiration of the time limited and within six months after the termination of the first action unless the termination resulted from voluntary discontinuance or from dismissal for failure or neglect to prosecute [Com. Code § 10506(c)].

Com. Code § 10506 does not alter the law on tolling of the statute of limitations [Com. Code § 10506(d)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)DefaultGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesStatutes of LimitationsContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesBreachGeneral

OverviewGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime Limitations

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
8. Remedies In General

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.198

§ 413.198 Market Rent

[1] Formula for Calculation

Damages based on market rent are determined according to the rent for the use of the goods concerned for a lease term identical to the remaining lease term of the original lease agreement and prevailing at the times specified in Com. Code §§ 10519 and 10528 [Com. Code § 10507(a); see Com. Code §§ 10519(b), 10528; § 413.251[3] (damages based on market rent)]. If evidence of rent for the use of the goods concerned for a lease term identical to the remaining lease term of the original lease agreement and prevailing at the times or places described in Division 10 is not readily available, the rent prevailing within any reasonable time before or after the time described, or at any other place, or for a different lease term that in commercial judgment or under usage of trade would serve as a reasonable substitute for the one described, may be used, making any proper allowance for the difference, including the cost of transporting the goods to or from the other place [Com. Code § 10507(b)].

[2] Evidence to Establish

Evidence of a relevant rent prevailing at a time or place or for a lease term other than the one described in Division 10 offered by one party is not admissible unless and until he or she has given the other party notice the court finds sufficient to prevent unfair surprise [Com. Code § 10507(c)]. If the prevailing rent or value of any goods regularly leased in any established market is in issue, reports in official publications or trade journals or in newspapers or periodicals of general circulation published as the reports of that market are admissible in evidence. The circumstances of the preparation of the report may be shown to affect its weight but not its admissibility [Com. Code § 10507(d)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesDamagesGeneral OverviewEvidenceHearsayExceptionsMarket Reports & Commercial PublicationsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
8. Remedies In General

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.199

§ 413.199 Action Against Third Party Who Injures Goods Identified to Lease

If a third party so deals with goods that have been identified to a lease contract as to cause actionable injury to a party to the lease contract, the lessor has a rightof action against the third party [Com. Code § 10531(a)(1)].

The lessee has a right of action against a third party if that third party so deals with goods that have been identified to a lease contract as to cause actionable injury to the lessee and if the lessee (1) has a security interest in the goods; (2) has an insurable interest in the goods; or (3) bears the risk of loss under the lease contract or has since the injury assumed that risk as against the lessor and the goods have been converted or destroyed [Com. Code § 10531(a)(2)].

If at the time of the injury the party plaintiff did not bear the risk of loss as against the other party to the lease contract and there is no arrangement between them for disposition of the recovery, his or her suit or settlement, subject to his or her own interest, is as a fiduciary for the other party to the lease contract [Com. Code § 10531(b)]. Either party with the consent of the other may sue for the benefit of whom it may concern [Com. Code § 10531(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawSales of GoodsPerformanceInsurable Interest & IdentificationContracts LawSecured TransactionsThird Party RightsGeneral OverviewContracts LawThird PartiesGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesRisk of Loss

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
8. Remedies In General

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 413.200-413.219

[Reserved]

§§ 413.200[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
9. Lessee's Remedies On Default By Lessor

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.220

§ 413.220 Lessee's Remedies for Rejected Goods or Repudiation

If a lessor fails to deliver the goods in conformity to the lease contract [see Com. Code § 10509] or repudiates the lease contract [see Com. Code § 10402], or a lessee rightfully rejects the goods [see Com. Code § 10509] or justifiably revokes acceptance of the goods [see Com. Code § 10517], then with respect to any goods involved, and with respect to all of the goods if under an installment lease contract the value of the whole lease contract is substantially impaired [see Com. Code § 10510], the lessor is in default under the lease contract and the lessee may do the following [Com. Code § 10508(a)]:

- Cancel the lease contract;
- Recover so much of the rent and security as has been paid and is just under the circumstances;
- Cover and recover damages as to all goods affected whether or not they have been identified to the lease contract, or recover damages for nondelivery [see Com. Code §§ 10519, 10520 (damages for nondelivery)]; and
- Exercise any other rights or pursue any other remedies provided in the lease contract.

The foregoing remedies are cumulative. Division 10 rejects any doctrine of election of remedy. Determining if one remedy bars another in a particular case is a function of whether the lessee has been put in as good a position as if the lessor had fully performed the lease agreement [U.C.C. Comment to Com. Code § 10508(a)].

Note that a special rule has been created regarding the lessee's recovery of rent and security that have been paid under an installment lease. Recovery is limited to what is just under the circumstances [U.C.C. Comment to Com. Code § 10508(a)].

If a lessor fails to deliver the goods in conformity to the lease contract or repudiates the lease contract, the lessee may also (1) recover goods that have been identified, or (2) in a proper case, obtain specific performance or replevy the goods [Com. Code § 10508(b); see Com. Code § 10521 (specific performance, detention, and replevin)]. Each of the lessee's alternative remedies for recovery of goods is cumulative with respect to the remedies listed in Com. Code § 10508(a) [Com. Code § 10508(b), Official UCC Comment].

Subject to the provisions of Com. Code § 10407 (discussed in § 413.94), a lessee, on notifying the lessor of the lessee's intention to do so, may deduct all or any part of the damages resulting from any default under the lease contract from any part of the rent still due under the same lease contract [Com. Code § 10508(f)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Breach, Repudiation & ExcuseAcceptance of GoodsRevocation of AcceptanceGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)Formation & ConstructionFormationCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)PerformanceContracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesDamagesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
9. Lessee's Remedies On Default By Lessor

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.221

§ 413.221 Lessee's Security Interest in Rejected Goods

On rightful rejection or justifiable revocation of acceptance, a lessee has a security interest in goods in the lessee's possession or control for any rent and security that has been paid and any expenses reasonably incurred in their inspection, receipt, transportation, and care and custody, and may hold those goods and dispose of them in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner, subject to the provisions of Com. Code § 10527(e) [Com. Code § 10508(e)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawSecured TransactionsApplication & ConstructionLeasesContracts LawThird PartiesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
9. Lessee's Remedies On Default By Lessor

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.222

§ 413.222 Lessee's Remedies for Breach of Warranty

If a lessor has breached a warranty, whether express or implied, the lessee may recover damages [Com. Code § 10508(d)]. Except as otherwise agreed, the measure of damages for breach of warranty is the present value at the time and place of acceptance of the difference between the value of the use of the goods accepted and the value if they had been as warranted for the lease term, unless special circumstances show proximate damages of a different amount, together with incidental and consequential damages, less expenses saved in consequence of the lessor's default or breach of warranty [Com. Code § 10519(d)].

For discussion of notices that the lessee is required to give the lessor if the lessee is sued for breach of warranty or other obligation for which the lessor or supplier is answerable, see § 413.114.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)Application & ConstructionDamagesContracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawThird PartiesGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesWarranties

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
9. Lessee's Remedies On Default By Lessor

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.223

§ 413.223 Lessee's Remedies for Other Defaults of Lessor

If a lessor is otherwise in default under a lease contract, the lessee may exercise the rights and pursue the remedies provided in the lease contract, which may include a right to cancel the lease, and in Com. Code § 10519(c) (discussed in § 413.220) [Com. Code § 10508(c)].

For discussion of notices that the lessee is required to give the lessor if the lessee is sued for breach of warranty or other obligation for which the lessor or supplier is answerable, see discussion in § 413.114.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)DefaultLessee & Lessor DefaultContracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
9. Lessee's Remedies On Default By Lessor

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.224

§ 413.224 Requirements for Lessee's Rejection

[1] Timeliness

Subject to the provisions of Com. Code § 10510 on default in installment lease contracts, if the goods or the tender or delivery fail in any respect to conform to the lease contract, the lessee may reject or accept the goods or accept any commercial unit or units and reject the rest of the goods [Com. Code § 10509(a)]. Rejection of goods is ineffective unless it is within a reasonable time after tender or delivery of the goods and the lessee seasonably notifies the lessor [Com. Code § 10509(b); see Com. Code § 1202(d) (definition of "notify"); see also § 413.340].

In Division 10 unless the context otherwise requires, "commercial unit" means a unit of goods that by commercial usage is a single whole for purposes of lease and division of which materially impairs its character or value on the market or in use. A commercial unit may be a single article, as a machine, or a set of articles, as a suite of furniture or a line of machinery, or a quantity, as a gross or carload, or any other unit treated in use or in the relevant market as a single whole [Com. Code § 10103(a)(3)].

[2] Particularity

In rejecting goods, a lessee's failure to state a particular defect that is ascertainable by reasonable inspection precludes the lessee from relying on the defect to justify rejection or to establish default if the lessor or the supplier could have cured the defect if the lessee stated it seasonably [Com. Code § 10514(a)(1); see Com. Code § 10513 (cure by lessor)]. A lessee's failure to particularize a defect precludes the lessee's reliance on that defect between merchants if the lessor or the supplier after rejection has made a request in writing for a full and final written statement of all defects on which the lessee proposes to rely [Com. Code § 10514(a)(2)].

A lessee's failure to reserve rights when paying rent or other consideration against documents precludes recovery of the payment for defects apparent in the documents [Com. Code § 10514(b)].

[3] Installment Contract

Under an installment lease contract, a lessee may reject any delivery that is nonconforming if the nonconformity substantially impairs the value of that delivery and cannot be cured or the nonconformity is a defect in the required documents. However, if the nonconformity does not fall within Com. Code § 10510(b) and the lessor or the supplier gives adequate assurance of its cure, the lessee must accept that delivery [Com. Code § 10510(a)].

Whenever nonconformity or default with respect to one or more deliveries substantially impairs the value of the installment lease contract as a whole there is a default with respect to the whole. But the aggrieved party reinstates the installment lease contract as a whole if the aggrieved party accepts a nonconforming delivery without seasonably notifying of cancellation or brings an action with respect only to past deliveries or demands performance as to future deliveries [Com. Code § 10510(b); see Com. Code § 1202(d) (definition of "notify"); see also § 413.340].

[4] Duties Toward Rejected Goods

[a] Lessee's General Duties

Except as otherwise provided with respect to goods that threaten to decline in value speedily [see Com. Code § 10511, discussed in § 413.224[4][b]], and subject to any security interest of a lessee, the lessee, after rejection of goods in the lessee's possession, must hold them with reasonable care at the lessor's or the supplier's disposition for a reasonable time after the lessee's seasonable notification of rejection [Com. Code § 10512(a)(1); see Com. Code § 1202(d) (definition of "notify"); see § 413.340)]. If the lessor or the supplier gives no instructions within a reasonable time after notification of rejection, the lessee may store the rejected goods for the lessor's or the supplier's account, or ship them to the lessor or the supplier, or dispose of them for the lessor's or the supplier's account with reimbursement in the manner provided in Com. Code § 10511, but the lessee has no further obligations with regard to goods rightfully rejected [Com. Code § 10512(a)(2), (3)]. Action by the lessee pursuant to Com. Code § 10512(a) is not acceptance or conversion [Com. Code § 10512(b)].

[b] Merchant Lessee's Duties

In Division 10 unless the context otherwise requires, "merchant lessee" means a lessee that is a merchant with respect to goods of the kind subject to the lease [Com. Code § 10103(a)(20)]. A person may satisfy the requirement of dealing in goods of the kind subject to the lease as lessor, lessee, seller, or buyer [Com. Code § 10103(a)(20), Official UCC Comment].

Subject to any security interest of a lessee, if a lessor or a supplier has no agentor place of business at the market of rejection, a merchant lessee, after rejection of goods in his or her possession or control, must follow any reasonable instructions received from the lessor or the supplier with respect to the goods [Com. Code § 10511(a); see Com. Code § 10508(e) (lessee's security interest)]. In the absence of those instructions, a merchant lessee must make reasonable efforts to sell, lease, or otherwise dispose of the goods for the lessor's account if they threaten to decline in value speedily. Instructions are not reasonable if on demand indemnity for expenses is not forthcoming [Com. Code § 10511(a)].

[c] Good Faith Standard

In complying with Com. Code § 10511 or 10512, the lessee is held only to good faith. Good faith conduct in this context is neither acceptance or conversion nor the basis of an action for damages [Com. Code § 10511(c)].

[d] Reimbursement for Expenses

If a merchant lessee or any other lessee disposes of goods, he or she is entitled to reimbursement either from the lessor or the supplier or out of the proceeds for reasonable expenses of caring for and disposing of the goods and, if the expenses include no disposition commission, to any commission that is usual in the trade, or if there is none, to a reasonable sum not exceeding 10 percent of the gross proceeds [Com. Code § 10511(b)].

[e] Rights of Purchaser

A purchaser who purchases in good faith from a lessee pursuant to Com. Code §§ 10511 or 10512 takes the goods free of any rights of the lessor and the supplier even though the lessee fails to comply with one or more of the requirements of Division 10 [Com. Code § 10511(d)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)General OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)DefaultLessee & Lessor DefaultContracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawSecured TransactionsApplication & ConstructionLeasesContracts LawTypes of ContractsBona Fide PurchasersContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesDamagesGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesInstallment Lease Contracts

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
9. Lessee's Remedies On Default By Lessor

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.225

§ 413.225 Lessor's Right to Cure

If any tender or delivery by the lessor or the supplier is rejected because it is nonconforming and the time for performance has not yet expired, the lessor or the supplier may seasonably notify the lessee of the lessor's or the supplier's intention to cure and may then make a conforming delivery within the time provided in the lease contract [Com. Code § 10513(a)]. If the lessee rejects a nonconforming tender that the lessor or the supplier had reasonable grounds to believe would be acceptable with or without money allowance, the lessor or the supplier may have a further reasonable time to substitute a conforming tender if he or she seasonably notifies the lessee [Com. Code § 10513(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)DefaultLessee & Lessor DefaultContracts LawRemediesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
9. Lessee's Remedies On Default By Lessor

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.226

§ 413.226 Lessee's Revocation of Acceptance

[1] When Acceptance Occurs

Acceptance of goods occurs after the lessee has had a reasonable opportunity to inspect the goods and the lessee signifies or acts with respect to the goods in a manner that signifies to the lessor or the supplier that the goods are conforming or that the lessee will take or retain them in spite of their nonconformity [Com. Code § 10515(a)(1)]. Acceptance also occurs after the lessee has had a reasonable opportunity to inspect the goods and the lessee fails to make an effective rejection of the goods [Com. Code § 10515(a)(2); see Com. Code § 10509(b) (rejection)].

Acceptance of a part of any commercial unit is acceptance of that entire unit [Com. Code § 10515(b); see Com. Code § 10103(a)(3) (defining "commercial unit"), discussed in § 413.224[1]].

[2] Effect of Acceptance

A lessee must pay rent for any goods accepted in accordance with the lease contract, with due allowance for goods rightfully rejected or not delivered [Com. Code § 10516(a)]. A lessee's acceptance of goods precludes rejection of the goods accepted. In the case of a finance lease, other than a consumer lease in which the supplier assisted in the preparation of the lease contract or participated in negotiating the terms of the lease contract with the lessor, acceptance made with knowledge of a nonconformity cannot be revoked because of it [Com. Code § 10516(b)]. The exception in Com. Code § 10516(b) for finance leases that are consumer leases is not found in the Uniform Commercial Code, and was added to conform to existing California law [State Bar Report 9]. The exception preventing revocation of acceptance made with knowledge of a nonconformity with respect to a finance lease is not inequitable because the lessee still has a direct claim against the supplier [Com. Code § 10516(b), Official UCC Comment; see Com. Code § 10209(a), (d) (benefit of supplier's promises and warranties to lessor inuring to lessee); see also Com. Code § 10517(a)(2) (revocation of acceptance made without knowledge of nonconformity to finance lease)].

In the case of a lease that is not a finance lease, acceptance made with knowledge of a nonconformity cannot be revoked because of it unless the acceptance was on the reasonable assumption that the nonconformity would be seasonably cured. Acceptance does not of itself impair any other remedy provided by Division 10 or the lease agreement for nonconformity [Com. Code § 10516(b)].

If a tender has been accepted under a lease other than a consumer lease, within a reasonable time after the lessee discovers or should have discovered any default, the lessee must notify the lessor and the supplier, if any, or be barred from any remedy against the party not notified [Com. Code § 10516(c)(1), (f)].

In a lease other than a consumer lease, once tender has been accepted, the burden is on the lessee to establish any default [Com. Code § 10516(c), (f)].

[3] Requirements for Revocation of Acceptance

Except in the case of a finance lease, a lessee may revoke acceptance of a lot or commercial unit whose nonconformity substantially impairs its value to the lessee if he or she has accepted it on the reasonable assumption that its nonconformity would be cured and it has not been seasonably cured [Com. Code § 10517(a)(1); see Com. Code § 10103(a)(3) (defining "commercial unit"), discussed in § 413.224[1]]. A lessee may also revoke acceptance of a lot or commercial unit whose nonconformity substantially impairs its value to the lessee if he or she has accepted it without discovery of the nonconformity if the lessee's acceptance was reasonably induced either by the lessor's assurances or, except in the case of a finance lease, by the difficulty of discovery before acceptance [Com. Code § 10517(a)(2); see Com. Code § 1202(c) (definition of "discover"); see also § 413.340]. In Division 10, unless the context otherwise requires, "lot" means a parcel or a single article that is the subject matter of a separate lease or delivery, whether or not it is sufficient to perform the lease contract [Com. Code § 10103(a)(19)].

Except in the case of a finance lease that is not a consumer lease, a lessee may revoke acceptance of a lot or commercial unit if the lessor defaults under the lease contract and the default substantially impairs the value of that lot or commercial unit to the lessee [Com. Code § 10517(b)].

If the lease agreement so provides, the lessee may revoke acceptance of a lot or commercial unit because of other defaults by the lessor [Com. Code § 10517(c)].

Revocation of acceptance must occur within a reasonable time after the lessee discovers or should have discovered the ground for it and before any substantial change in condition of the goods which is not caused by the nonconformity [Com. Code § 10517(d)]. Revocation is not effective until the lessee notifies the lessor [Com. Code § 10517(d); see Com. Code § 1202(d) (definition of "notify"); see also § 413.340].

A lessee who revokes acceptance has the same rights and duties with regard to the goods involved as if the lessee had rejected them [Com. Code § 10517(e)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)DefaultLessee & Lessor DefaultContracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
9. Lessee's Remedies On Default By Lessor

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.227

§ 413.227 Cover

After default by a lessor under the lease contract of the type described in Com. Code § 10508(a), or, if agreed, after other default by the lessor, the lessee may cover by making any purchase or lease of or contract to purchase or lease goods in substitution for those due from the lessor [Com. Code § 10518(a); see Com. Code § 10508(a), discussed in § 413.220]. Except as otherwise provided with respect to damages liquidated in the lease agreement or otherwise determined pursuant to agreement of the parties [see Com. Code §§ 1302(a), 10503], if a lessee's cover is by a lease agreement substantially similar to the original lease agreement, and the new lease agreement is made in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner, the lessee may recover from the lessor as damages (1) the present value, as of the date of the commencement of the term of the new lease agreement, of the rent under the new lease agreement applicable to that period of the new lease term that is comparable to the then-remaining term of the original lease agreement minus the present value as of the same date of the total rent for the then remaining lease term of the original lease agreement, and (2) any incidental or consequential damages less expenses saved in consequence of the lessor's default [Com. Code § 10518(b)].

If a lessee's cover is by lease agreement that for any reason does not qualify for treatment under Com. Code § 10518(b), or is by purchase or otherwise, the lessee may recover from the lessor as if the lessee had elected not to cover and Com. Code § 10519 governs [Com. Code § 10518(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)Application & ConstructionDamagesCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)DefaultRemediesContracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawSales of GoodsDamages & RemediesBuyer's Damages & RemediesLimitation & ModificationGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
9. Lessee's Remedies On Default By Lessor

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.228

§ 413.228 Lessee's Measure of Damages

Except as otherwise provided with respect to damages liquidated in the lease agreement or determined by agreement of the parties [see Com. Code §§ 1302(a), 10503], if a lessee elects not to cover or a lessee elects to cover and the cover is by lease agreement that for any reason does not qualify for treatment under Com. Code § 10518(b) (discussed in § 413.227), or is by purchase or otherwise, the measure of damages for nondelivery or repudiation by the lessor or for rejection or revocation of acceptance by the lessee is the present value as of the date of the default of the then market rent minus the present value as of the same date of the original rent, computed for the remaining lease term of the original lease agreement together with incidental and consequential damages, less expenses saved in consequence of the lessor's default [Com. Code § 10519(a); see Com. Code § 10508(a) (default by lessor, discussed in § 413.220)].

Market rent is to be determined as of the place for tender or, in cases of rejection after arrival or revocation of acceptance, as of the place of arrival [Com. Code § 10519(b)].

Except as otherwise agreed, if the lessee has accepted goods and given notification [see Com. Code § 10516(c) (discussed in § 413.226[2])], the measure of damages for nonconforming tender or delivery or other default by a lessor is the loss resulting in the ordinary course of events from the lessor's default as determined in any manner that is reasonable together with incidental and consequential damages, less expenses saved in consequence of the lessor's default [Com. Code § 10519(c)]. This measure of damages applies if the goods have beenaccepted and acceptance is not revoked [Com. Code § 10519(c), Official UCC Comment].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)DefaultRemediesContracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
9. Lessee's Remedies On Default By Lessor

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.229

§ 413.229 Lessee's Incidental Damages

Incidental damages resulting from a lessor's default include expenses reasonably incurred in inspection, receipt, transportation, and care and custody of goods rightfully rejected or goods the acceptance of which is justifiably revoked, any commercially reasonable charges, expenses, or commissions in connection with effecting cover, and any other reasonable expense incident to the default [Com. Code § 10520(a)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)DefaultRemediesContracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawSales of GoodsDamages & RemediesBuyer's Damages & RemediesIncidental Damages

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
9. Lessee's Remedies On Default By Lessor

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.230

§ 413.230 Lessee's Consequential Damages

Consequential damages resulting from a lessor's default include any loss resulting from general or particular requirements and needs of which the lessor at the time of contracting had reason to know and which could not reasonably be prevented by cover or otherwise [Com. Code § 10520(b)(1)].

Consequential damages resulting from a lessor's default also include injury to person or property proximately resulting from any breach of warranty [Com. Code § 10520(b)(2)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)Application & ConstructionDamagesCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)DefaultRemediesContracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesCompensatory DamagesConsequential Damages

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
9. Lessee's Remedies On Default By Lessor

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.231

§ 413.231 Lessee's Right to Specific Performance or Related Remedy

Specific performance may be decreed if the goods are unique or in other proper circumstances [Com. Code § 10521(a)]. A decree for specific performance may include any terms and conditions regarding payment of the rent, damages, or other relief that the court deems just [Com. Code § 10521(b)].

A lessee has a right of replevin, detinue, sequestration, claim and delivery, or the like for goods identified to the lease contract if after reasonable effort the lessee is unable to effect cover for those goods or the circumstances reasonably indicate that the effort will be unavailing [Com. Code § 10521(c); see Com. Code § 10217 (identification of goods to contract)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)RemediesBuyer's RemediesReplevin & Specific PerformanceCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)DefaultRemediesContracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesSpecific PerformanceContracts LawSales of GoodsDamages & RemediesBuyer's Damages & RemediesReplevin & Specific Performance

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
9. Lessee's Remedies On Default By Lessor

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.232

§ 413.232 Lessee's Rights on Lessor's Insolvency

Subject to Com. Code § 10522(b) and even though the goods have not been shipped, a lessee who has paid a part or all of the rent and security for goods identified to a lease contract on making and keeping good a tender of any unpaid portion of the rent and security due under the lease contract may recover the goods identified from the lessor if the lessor becomes insolvent within 10 days after receipt of the first installment of rent and security [Com. Code § 10522(a)]. A lessee acquires the right to recover goods identified to a lease contract only if they conform to the lease contract [Com. Code § 10522(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)DefaultRemediesContracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawSales of GoodsPerformanceInsurable Interest & IdentificationContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesInstallment Lease Contracts

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
9. Lessee's Remedies On Default By Lessor

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 413.233-413.249

[Reserved]

§§ 413.233[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
10. Lessor's Remedies On Default By Lessee

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.250

§ 413.250 Lessor's Remedies

[1] In General

If a lessee wrongfully rejects or revokes acceptance of goods or fails to make a payment when due or repudiates with respect to a part or the whole, then, with respect to any goods involved, and with respect to all of the goods if under an installment lease contract the value of the whole lease contract is substantially impaired [see Com. Code § 10510], the lessee is in default under the lease contract and the lessor may (1) cancel the lease contract [see Com. Code § 10505(a)]; (2) proceed respecting goods not identified to the lease contract [see Com. Code § 10524]; (3) withhold delivery of the goods and take possession of goods previously delivered [see Com. Code § 10525]; (4) stop delivery of the goods by any bailee [see Com. Code § 10526]; (5) dispose of the goods and recover damages [see Com. Code § 10527], or retain the goods and recover damages [see Com. Code § 10528], or in a proper case recover rent [see Com. Code § 10529 (recovery of rent)]; and (6) exercise any other rights or pursue any other remedies provided in the lease contract [Com. Code § 10523(a)].

The foregoing remedies are cumulative. Division 10 rejects any doctrine of election of remedy. To determine if one remedy bars another in a particular case is a function of whether the lessee has been put in as good a position as if the lessor had fully performed the lease agreement [U.C.C. Comment to Com. Code § 10523(a)].

If a lessor does not fully exercise a right or obtain a remedy to which the lessor is entitled under Com. Code § 10523(a), the lessor may recover the loss resulting in the ordinary course of events from the lessee's default as determined in any reasonable manner, together with incidental damages, less expenses saved in consequence of the lessee's default [Com. Code § 10523(b)].

If a lessee is otherwise in default under a lease contract, the lessor may exercise the rights and pursue the remedies provided in the lease contract, which may include a right to cancel the lease. In addition, unless otherwise provided in the contract, if the default substantially impairs the value of the lease contract to the lessor, the lessor may exercise the rights and pursue the remedies provided in Com. Code § 10523(a) or (b). Alternatively, if the default does not substantially impair the value of the contract to the lessor, the lessor may recover as provided in Com. Code § 10523(b) [Com. Code § 10523(c); see also Com. Code§ 10501(a)-(c) (contract may provide for different or additional defaults and remedies)].

[2] Goods Not Previously Identified to Lease Contract

A lessor aggrieved under Com. Code § 10523(a) or (c)(1) or, if agreed, by other default by the lessee, may (1) identify to the lease contract conforming goods not already identified if at the time the lessor learned of the default they were in the lessor's or the supplier's possession or control, and (2) dispose of goods [see Com. Code § 10527(a)] that demonstrably have been intended for the particular lease contract even though those goods are unfinished [Com. Code § 10524(a)]. If the goods are unfinished, in the exercise of reasonable commercial judgment for the purposes of avoiding loss and of effective realization, an aggrieved lessor or the supplier may either complete manufacture and wholly identify the goods to the lease contract or cease manufacture and lease, sell, or otherwise dispose of the goods for scrap or salvage value or proceed in any other reasonable manner [Com. Code § 10524(b)].

[3] Take Possession of Goods Previously Delivered

After a default by the lessee under the lease contract [see Com. Code §§ 10523(c)(1), 10525(a)] or, if agreed, after other default by the lessee, the lessor has the right to take possession of the goods [Com. Code § 10525(b)]. If the lease contract so provides, the lessor may require the lessee to assemble the goods and make them available to the lessor at a place to be designated by the lessor that is reasonably convenient to both parties [Com. Code § 10525(b)]. Without removal, the lessor may render unusable any goods employed in trade or business, and may dispose of goods on the lessee's premises [Com. Code § 10525(b); see Com. Code § 10527 (lessor's right to dispose of goods)].

The lessor may proceed under Com. Code § 10525(b) without judicial process if that can be done without breach of the peace, or the lessor may proceed by action [Com. Code § 10525(c)].

[4] Refuse Delivery on Lessee's Insolvency

If a lessor discovers the lessee to be insolvent, the lessor may refuse to deliver the goods [Com. Code § 10525(a)].

[5] Stopping Delivery of Goods in Transit

A lessor may stop delivery of goods in the possession of a carrier or other bailee if the lessor discovers the lessee to be insolvent and may stop delivery of carload, truckload, planeload, or larger shipments of express or freight if the lessee repudiates or fails to make a payment due before delivery, whether for rent, security, or otherwise under the lease contract, or for any other reason the lessor has a right to withhold or take possession of the goods [Com. Code § 10526(a)].

In pursuing its remedies under Com. Code § 10526(a), the lessor may stop delivery until (1) receipt of the goods by the lessee; (2) acknowledgment to the lessee by any bailee of the goods, except a carrier, that the bailee holds the goods for the lessee; or (3) such an acknowledgment to the lessee by a carrier via reshipment or as a warehouse [Com. Code § 10526(b)].

To stop delivery, a lessor must notify the bailee in a manner that enables the bailee by reasonable diligence to prevent delivery of the goods [Com. Code § 10526(c)(1)]. After notification, the bailee must hold and deliver the goods according to the directions of the lessor, but the lessor is liable to the bailee for any ensuing charges or damages [Com. Code § 10526(c)(2)]. A carrier who has issued a nonnegotiable bill of lading is not obliged to obey a notification to stop received from a person other than the consignor [Com. Code § 10526(c)(3)].

[6] Disposing of Goods

After a default by a lessee under the lease contract [see Com. Code § 10523(a), (c)(1)] or after the lessor refuses to deliver or takes possession of goods [see Com. Code §§ 10525, 10526], or, if agreed, after other default by a lessee, the lessor may dispose of the goods concerned or the undelivered balance of those goods by lease, sale, or otherwise [Com. Code § 10527(a)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)DefaultRemediesCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Application & ConstructionCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Bills of LadingContracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawSecured TransactionsApplication & ConstructionLeasesContracts LawTypes of ContractsInstallment ContractsTortsPremises Liability & PropertyLessees & LessorsLiabilities of LessorsGeneral OverviewTortsVicarious LiabilityBaileesTransportation LawCarrier Duties & LiabilitiesDamages

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
10. Lessor's Remedies On Default By Lessee

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.251

§ 413.251 Lessor's Measure of Damages

[1] Lessor's Election

If the lessor's disposition is by lease agreement that for any reason does not qualify for treatment under Com. Code § 10527(b), or is by sale or otherwise, the lessor may recover from the lessee as if the lessor had elected not to dispose of the goods and Com. Code § 10528 governs [Com. Code § 10527(c)].

[2] After Disposing of Goods

Except as otherwise provided with respect to damages liquidated in the lease agreement [see Com. Code § 10504] or as otherwise determined pursuant to agreement of the parties [see Com. Code §§ 1302(a), 10503], if the disposition is by lease agreement substantially similar to the original lease agreement and the new lease agreement is made in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner, the lessor may recover all of the following from the lessee as damages [Com. Code § 10527(b)]:

- Accrued and unpaid rent as of the date of the commencement of the term of the new lease agreement;

- The present value, as of the same date, of the total rent for the then remaining lease term of the original lease agreement minus the present value, as of the same date, of the rent under the new lease agreementapplicable to that period of the new lease term that is comparable to the then remaining term of the original lease agreement; and

- Any incidental damages allowed under Com. Code § 10530, less expenses saved in consequence of the lessee's default.

A subsequent buyer or lessee who buys or leases from the lessor in good faith for value as a result of a disposition under Com. Code § 10527 takes the goods free of the original lease contract and any rights of the original lessee even though the lessor fails to comply with one or more of the requirements of Division 10 [Com. Code § 10527(d)].

The lessor is not accountable to the lessee for any profit made on any disposition. A lessee who has rightfully rejected or justifiably revoked acceptance shall account to the lessor for any excess over the amount of the lessee's security interest [Com. Code § 10527(e); see Com. Code § 10508(e)].

[3] When Lessor Retains Goods

Except as otherwise provided with respect to damages liquidated in the lease agreement [see Com. Code § 10504] or as otherwise determined pursuant to agreement of the parties [see Com. Code §§ 1302(a), 10503], if a lessor elects to retain the goods or a lessor elects to dispose of the goods and the disposition is by lease agreement, that for any reason does not qualify for treatment under Com. Code § 10527(b), or is by sale or otherwise, the lessor may recover the following from the lessee as damages for a default [see Com. Code § 10523(a), (c)(1)], or, if agreed, for other default of the lessee [Com. Code § 10528(a)]:

- Accrued and unpaid rent as of the date of default if the lessee has never taken possession of the goods, or, if the lessee has taken possession of the goods, as of the date the lessor repossesses the goods or an earlier date on which the lessee makes a tender of the goods to the lessor;

- The present value as of the date determined under Com. Code § 10523(c)(1) of the total rent for the then remaining lease term of the original lease agreement minus the present value as of the same date of the market rent at the place where the goods are located computed for the same lease term; and

- Any incidental damages allowed under Com. Code § 10530, less expenses saved in consequence of the lessee's default.

If the measure of damages provided in Com. Code § 10528(a) is inadequate to put a lessor in as good a position as performance would have, the measure of damages is the present value of the profit, including reasonable overhead, the lessor would have made from full performance by the lessee, together with any incidental damages allowed under Com. Code § 10530, due allowance for costs reasonably incurred and due credit for payments or proceeds of disposition [Com. Code § 10528(b)].

[4] Recovery of Rent

After default by the lessee under the lease contract [see Com. Code § 10523(a), (c)(1)] or, if agreed, after other default by the lessee, if the lessor complies with Com. Code § 10529(b), the lessor may recover rent from the lessee as damages [Com. Code § 10529(a)]. For goods accepted by the lessee and not repossessed by or tendered to the lessor and for conforming goods lost or damaged after risk of loss passes to the lessee [see Com. Code § 10219], the lessor may recover all of the following [Com. Code § 10529(a)(1)]:

- Accrued and unpaid rent as of the date of entry of judgment in favor of the lessor;

- The present value as of the same date of the rent for the then remaining lease term of the lease agreement; and

- Any incidental damages allowed under Com. Code § 10530, less expenses saved in consequence of the lessee's default.

For goods identified to the lease contract when the lessor has never delivered the goods or has taken possession of them, or the lessee has tendered them to the lessor, if the lessor is unable after reasonable effort to dispose of them at a reasonable price or the circumstances reasonably indicate that that effort will be unavailing, the lessor may recover all of the following [Com. Code § 10529(a)(2)]:

- Accrued and unpaid rent as of the date of entry of judgment in favor of the lessor;

- The present value as of the same date of the rent for the then remaining lease term of the lease agreement; and

- Any incidental damages allowed under Com. Code § 10530, less expenses saved in consequence of the lessee's default.

Except as provided in Com. Code § 10529(c), the lessor must hold for the lessee for the remaining lease term of the lease agreement any goods that have been identified to the lease contract and are in the lessor's control [Com. Code § 10529(b)]. The lessor may dispose of the goods at any time before collection of the judgment for damages obtained pursuant to Com. Code § 10529(a). If the disposition is before the end of the remaining lease term of the lease agreement, the lessors' recovery against the lessee for damages is governed by Com. Code §§ 10527 or 10528, and the lessor will cause an appropriate credit to be provided against a judgment for damages to the extent that the amount of the judgmentexceeds the recovery available pursuant to Com. Code §§ 10527 or 10528 [Com. Code § 10529(c)].

Payment of the judgment for damages obtained pursuant to Com. Code § 10529(a) entitles the lessee to the use and possession of the goods not then disposed of for the remaining lease term of the lease agreement and in accordance with [Com. Code § 10529(d)].

After a default by the lessee under the lease [see Com. Code § 10523(a), (c)(1)] or, if agreed, after other default by the lessee, a lessor who is held not entitled to rent under Com. Code §§ 10529 must nevertheless be awarded damages for nonacceptance under Com. Code § 10527 or 10528 [Com. Code § 10529(e)].

[5] Lessor's Incidental Damages

Incidental damages to an aggrieved lessor include any commercially reasonable charges, expenses, or commissions incurred in stopping delivery, in the transportation, care, and custody of goods after the lessee's default, in connection with return or disposition of the goods, or otherwise resulting from the default [Com. Code § 10530].

[6] Loss of or Damage to Residual Interest

In addition to any other recovery permitted by Division 10, the lessor shall be entitled to recover from the lessee an amount that will fully compensate the lessor for any loss of or damage to the lessor's residual interest in the goods caused by the default of the lessee [Com. Code § 10532]. Com. Code § 10532 has no counterpart in the Uniform Commercial Code, although the Official UCC Comment to Com. Code § 10525 acknowledge a lessor's common law right to protect its reversionary interest.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)Application & ConstructionDamagesContracts LawSales of GoodsDamages & RemediesBuyer's Damages & RemediesIncidental DamagesContracts LawSales of GoodsDamages & RemediesSeller's Damages & RemediesConsequential DamagesActions for PriceContracts LawSecured TransactionsDefaultGeneral OverviewContracts LawSecured TransactionsDefaultForeclosure & RepossessionEnforcementContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesDamagesGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesDamagesIncidental DamagesContracts

LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesDamagesLiquidated DamagesContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsPersonalty LeasesLessor's Remedies & RightsRight to Dispose

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code
10. Lessor's Remedies On Default By Lessee

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 413.252-413.269

[Reserved]

§§ 413.252[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.270

§ 413.270 State Statutes

[1] Nature of Contract for Hiring

Hiring defined. Civ. Code § 1925

Products of thing hired during term of hiring as belonging to hirer. Civ. Code § 1926

When hiring of thing terminates. Civ. Code § 1933

When death or incapacity of party to hiring effects termination thereof. Civ. Code § 1934

[2] Prohibited Transactions

Unlawful motor vehicle subleasing, damages for, defined. Civ. Code § 3343.5, Pen. Code §§ 570-574

[3] Rights and Duties of Hirer/Lessee

Hirer of thing is required to use ordinary care. Civ. Code § 1928

Hirer of thing is required to repair all deteriorations or injuries occasioned by his or her want of ordinary care. Civ. Code § 1929

Hirer of thing hired for particular purpose is bound thereby. Civ. Code § 1930

Hirer of thing is permitted to prematurely terminate hiring. Civ. Code § 1932

Hirer is required to pay apportioned rent on premature termination of hiring. Civ. Code § 1935

Lessee of personal property is required to bear expenses concerning it as might naturally be foreseen to attend it during its use. Civ. Code § 1956

Lessee is entitled to be reimbursed for expenditures necessitated by lessor's failure to meet his or her duties. Civ. Code § 1957

Place where lessee of personal property is required to return object leased. Civ. Code § 1958

[4] Rights and Duties of Letter/Lessor

Letter is bound to hirer by warranty of quiet possession. Civ. Code § 1927

Letter of thing for hire may prematurely terminate hiring. Civ. Code § 1931

Duties of lessor. Civ. Code § 1955

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)Lease ContractsGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsBailmentsTortsPremises Liability & PropertyLessees & LessorsLiabilities of LessorsNegligenceGeneral OverviewTortsTransportation TortsMotor VehiclesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.271

§ 413.271 Decisions

[1] In General

Bailment generally is defined as delivery of thing to another for some special purpose or object, on contract, express or implied, to conform to objects or purposes of delivery. Windeler v. Scheers Jewelers (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 844, 850, 88 Cal. Rptr. 39 ; Greenberg Bros., Inc. v. Ernest W. Hahn, Inc. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 529, 531, 54 Cal. Rptr. 770 ; H.S. Crocker Co., Inc. v. McFaddin (1957) 148 Cal. App. 2d 639, 643, 307 P.2d 429 ; compare Rochester Capital Leasing Corp. v. K & L Litho Corp. (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 697, 702, 91 Cal. Rptr. 827 (defining loan)

Hiring creates contract of bailment. Dickson v. Southern Cal. Edison Co. (1955) 136 Cal. App. 2d 85, 87, 288 P.2d 310

Hold over doctrine of real estate leases does not apply to hiring of personalty, and mere act of retaining possession of personal property does not imply renewal of contract in absence of agreement thereto by parties. Hayward Lbr. & Inv. Co. v. Const. Prod. Corp. (1953) 117 Cal. App. 2d 221, 228, 255 P.2d 473

[2] Characterization of Transaction

Determination whether transaction was installment sale or lease is unnecessary because resale and deficiency clause gave lessee/buyer same rights it would have under Division 2 of Commercial Code or under Civ. Code § 3308. W W Leasing Unlimited v. Torok Exploration, Etc. (9th Cir. 1978) 575 F.2d 1259, 1261 (applying California law)

When initial negotiations were between lessee and manufacturer, which recommended financing lessor to lessee to arrange financing, transaction was financing lease; whether there is privity between manufacturer and lessee sufficient to establish privity for purposes of warranties is question of fact to be determined from totality of circumstances, not just from "paper transaction." U. S. Roofing, Inc. v. Credit Alliance Corp. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1431, 1441-1442, 1445, 279 Cal. Rptr. 533 (upholding jury verdict finding privity and lessee's revocation of acceptance after reasonable repairs failed to achieve conformity)

If financing lessor validly disclaimed all warranties and lessee revoked acceptance as to manufacturer for defects [see Com. Code §§ 2608, 2711], lessee's consequential damages recoverable from manufacturer [Com. Code § 2715] include amount of deficiency it owed to financing lessor that repossessed equipment and sold it. U. S. Roofing, Inc. v. Credit Alliance Corp. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1431, 1454, 279 Cal. Rptr. 533

Lease that gives lessee option to purchase at price that is more than nominal is a true lease rather than security interest; trial court's finding that option price was more than nominal had to be upheld when evidence was equivocal. Triple C Leasing, Inc. v. All-American Mobile Wash (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 244, 249, 134 Cal. Rptr. 328

Substance rather than form or terminology is determinative of transaction; lease that was part of sale and leaseback was actually loan from buyer/lessor to seller/lessee at usurious (11.5% then) rates. Rochester Capital Leasing Corp. v. K & L Litho Corp. (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 697, 702, 91 Cal. Rptr. 827

Loan is delivery of money to another under contract to return at future time some equivalent amount with or without additional sum agreed for its use. Rochester Capital Leasing Corp. v. K & L Litho Corp. (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 697, 702, 91 Cal. Rptr. 827

[3] Duties and Responsibilities of Letter/Lessor

Lessor is required to mitigate its damages. W W Leasing Unlimited v. Torok Exploration, Etc. (9th Cir. 1978) 575 F.2d 1259, 1261 (applying California law); Industrial Leasing Corp. v. Lawson (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 1098, 1103, 197 Cal. Rptr. 291

Disclaimer of warranties by financing lessor is not per se unconscionable, but is to be tested under Com. Code § 2316; if financing lessor has validly disclaimed all warranties and goods conform to lease, lessee cannot revoke acceptance as to lessor, but must look to manufacturer or supplier for its remedy. U. S. Roofing, Inc. v. Credit Alliance Corp. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1431, 1450-1451, 1452-1453, 279 Cal. Rptr. 533

Lessor of automobile has right under Civ. Code §§ 1929 and 3268 to make lessee liable by contract for loss or damage to automobile from any cause. Truta v. Avis Rent A Car System, Inc. (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 802, 817, 238 Cal. Rptr. 806 ; but see Civ. Code § 1936 (specifying limits to renter's liability under agreements entered into on or after January 1, 1989 and discussed in Ch. 93, Bailments, § 93.100 et seq.)

[4] Duties of Hirer/Lessee

Civ. Code § 1955 is inapplicable to damage caused by collisions other than collisions caused by defective leased chattel. Truta v. Avis Rent A Car System, Inc. (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 802, 817, 238 Cal. Rptr. 806 ; see Civ. Code § 1936 (governing vehicle rentals entered into on or after January 1, 1989)

Hirer of crane and operator was liable for damage to crane at job site by flood waters during nonworking hours when hirer was negligent in failing to notify operator of peril until it was too late to save equipment. Bigge Drayage Co. v. Frazier-Davis Constr. Co. (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 403, 407-409, 74 Cal. Rptr. 827

Civ. Code § 1955 (duties of letter) becomes part of hiring contract if it can be reasonably so construed. Sproul v. Cuddy (1955) 131 Cal. App. 2d 85, 93, 280 P.2d 158 (case interpreting disclaimer of liability on bailment for hire)

No possible conflict found between Civ. Code §§ 1714 (liability for negligence or tort) and 1955 (duties of letter), each of which defines different obligations of owner of property; each of them has equal force and dignity, and both must be read together. Monroe v. East Bay Rental Service (1952) 111 Cal. App. 2d 574, 576, 245 P.2d 9

[5] Liablity of Successors

Whether or not party who took possession of leased equipment and made lease payments intended to assume lease obligation is question of fact to be determinedby intent of parties; express assumption is not required. Enterprise Leasing Corp. v. Shugart Corp. (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 737, 745-747, 282 Cal. Rptr. 620

Lessor stated claim for restitution (to avoid unjust enrichment) against defendant that had taken possession of equipment and was making lease payments when lessor's lack of knowledge prevented it from asserting its rights regarding assignment of lease. Enterprise Leasing Corp. v. Shugart Corp. (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 737, 748-749, 282 Cal. Rptr. 620

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Admiralty LawCollisionsLiabilityLimitations on LiabilityCommercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)Application & ConstructionDamagesContracts LawSecured TransactionsApplication & ConstructionLeasesContracts LawTypes of ContractsBailmentsTortsPremises Liability & PropertyLessees & LessorsLiabilities of LessorsNegligenceGeneral OverviewTortsPremises Liability & PropertyLessees & LessorsLiabilities of LessorsNegligenceDuty to RepairGeneral OverviewTortsTransportation TortsMotor VehiclesPersonal VehiclesTortsVicarious LiabilityBailees

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.272

§ 413.272 Law Reviews

Mooney, Personal Property Leasing: A Challenge, 36 Bus. Law. 1605 (1981)

Comment, Selected Problems in California Chattel Leasing, 13 UCLA L. Rev. 125 (1965)

Note, Air Law--Liability of Bailee of Aircraft for Negligent Destruction--Application of Federal Civil Air Regulations, 25 S. Cal. L. Rev. 119 (1951)

Goldin, The Doctrine of Res Ipsa Loquitur in Aviation Law, 18 S. Cal. L. Rev. 124 (1944) (bailments)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)Lease ContractsGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsBailments

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.273

§ 413.273 Text References

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 13, Personal Property, §§ 156-167, 187-194 (10th ed. 2005)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 413.274-413.289

[Reserved]

§§ 413.274[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.290

§ 413.290 California Legal Forms

For discussion and forms for personal property leases, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 53, Personal Property Leasing (Matthew Bender)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.291

§ 413.291 Federal Statutes

Consumer Leasing Act. 15 U.S.C. § 1667 et seq.

Consumer lease defined. 15 U.S.C. § 1667(1)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Banking LawConsumer ProtectionConsumer LeasingGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.292

§ 413.292 Federal Regulations

Regulation M; consumer leasing. 12 C.F.R. Part 213

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.293

§ 413.293 State Statutes

[1] Applicable Law

Unconscionability of lease terms. Civ. Code § 1670.5

Consumers Legal Remedies Act. Civ. Code § 1750 et seq.; see Com. Code § 10104(a)(3)

Bailments for hire and personal property leases entered into before January 1, 1990. Civ. Code §§ 1925 et seq., 1955 et seq.; see Com. Code § 10104(a)(3)

Rental, lease, or hire of passenger vehicle from rental company for period of less than 30 days. Civ. Code §§ 1936, 1936.1; see Com. Code § 10104(a)(3)

Rees-Levering Motor Vehicle Sales and Finance Act. Civ. Code § 2981 et seq.; see Com. Code § 10104(a)(3)

Vehicle Leasing Act. Civ. Code § 2985.7 et seq.; see Com. Code § 10104(a)(3)

Security interests are governed by Division 9, not Division 10. Com. Code §§ 1201(b)(35) (defining "security interest"), 10103(a)(10) (defining "lease")

Division 9 (Com. Code § 9101 et seq.) applies to security interests created by contract, including lease, intended as security. Com. Code § 9109(a)(1)

Lessee's security interest in rejected goods under Com. Code § 10508(e) is subject to Division 9. Com. Code § 9110

Finance leases are governed by Division 10. Com. Code § 10103(a)(7) (defining "finance lease")

California certificate of title statutes, including Vehicle Code and Health and Safety Code provisions that require registration of vehicles, boats, and mobilehomes, also apply to leases within Division 10. Com. Code §§ 10104(a)(1), 10105

Certificate of title statutes of other jurisdictions also apply to leases within Division 10. Com. Code §§ 10104(a)(2), 10105

Consumer protection laws (such as Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17200 et seq., 17500 et seq.; Civ. Code § 1738 et seq.) apply to consumer leases within Division 10. Com. Code § 10104(a)(3)

In case of conflict between Division 10 (other than Com. Code §§ 10105, 10304(c), and 10305(c)) and any other law referred to in Com. Code § 10104(a), other law is controlling. Com. Code § 10104(b)

Time for which compliance and effect of compliance or noncompliance with certificate of title statute are governed by law of jurisdiction issuing certificate. Com. Code § 10105

Enforceability of choice of law and choice of forum provisions in consumer leases. Com. Code § 10106

Except as provided in Com. Code § 10308, Division 10 applies notwithstanding other law holding that possession or absence of possession is fraudulent. Com. Code § 10302

Division 10 governs leases first made or effective on or after January 1, 1990, and others if parties agree to be governed by Division 10. Com. Code § 10600

[2] Definitions

"Buyer" defined. Com. Code §§ 2103(1)(a), 10103(c)

"Good faith" defined. Com. Code § 1201(b)(20)

"Receipt of goods" defined. Com. Code §§ 2103(1)(c), 10103(c)

"Seller" defined. Com. Code §§ 2103(1)(d), 10103(c)

"Merchant" defined. Com. Code §§ 2104(1), 10103(c)

"Between merchants" defined. Com. Code §§ 2104(3), 10103(c)

"Sale" defined. Com. Code §§ 2106(1), 10103(c)

"Sale on approval" defined. Com. Code §§ 2326, 10103(c)

"Sale or return" defined. Com. Code §§ 2326, 10103(c)

"Entrusting" defined. Com. Code §§ 2403(3), 10103(c)

"Account" defined. Com. Code §§ 9102(a)(2), 10103(c)

"Chattel paper" defined. Com. Code §§ 9102(a)(11), 10103(c)

"Consumer goods" defined. Com. Code §§ 9102(a)(23), 10103(c)

"Document" defined. Com. Code §§ 9102(a)(30), 10103(c)

"General intangible" defined. Com. Code §§ 9102(a)(42), 10103(c)

"Instrument" defined. Com. Code §§ 9102(a)(47), 10103(c)

"Mortgage" defined. Com. Code §§ 9102(a)(55), 10103(c)

"Pursuant to commitment" defined. Com. Code §§ 9102(a)(68), 10103(c)

"Buyer in ordinary course of business" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(1)

"Buying" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(1)

"Cancellation" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(2)

"Commercial unit" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(3)

"Conforming" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(4)

"Consumer lease" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(5)

"Fault" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(6)

"Finance lease" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)

"Goods" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(8)

"Installment lease contract" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(9)

"Lease" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(10)

"Lease agreement" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(11)

"Lease contract" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(12)

"Leasehold interest" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(13)

"Lessee" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(14)

"Lessee in ordinary course of business" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(15)

"Lessor" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(16)

"Lessor's residual interest" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(17)

"Lien" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(18)

"Lot" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(19)

"Merchant lessee" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(20)

"Present value" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(21)

"Purchase" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(22)

"Sublease" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(23)

"Supplier" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(24)

"Supply contract" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(25)

"Termination" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(26)

"Fixtures" defined. Com. Code § 10309(a)(1)

"Fixture filing" defined. Com. Code § 10309(a)(2)

"Purchase money lease" defined. Com. Code § 10309(a)(3)

"Construction mortgage" defined. Com. Code § 10309(a)(4)

"Encumbrance" defined. Com. Code § 10309(a)(5)

"Accessions" defined. Com. Code § 10310(a)

[3] Finance Leases

Lessee under finance lease is beneficiary of warranties under supply contract. Com. Code § 10209

Limitations on warranties by lessor under finance lease. Com. Code §§ 10210(b), 10213

Lessee who furnishes specifications is required to hold lessor and supplier harmless against any claim by way of infringement or like that arises out of compliance with specifications. Com. Code § 10211(c)

Finance lease places risk of loss on lessee; or, on delivery or tender of nonconforming goods, risk of loss remains with supplier until cure or acceptance. Com. Code §§ 10219(a) (on lessee), 10220(a)(1) (on supplier)

Finance lease is irrevocable after acceptance of goods. Com. Code § 10407

[4] Formation and Construction of Lease Contract

Course of performance is aid to interpretation of lease contact. Com. Code § 1303

Waiver or renunciation of rights after default. Com. Code § 10107

Statute of frauds applicable to leases. Com. Code § 10201

Parole evidence to interpret lease contact. Com. Code § 10202

Sufficiency of lease contract. Com. Code § 10204

Offers, firm offers, and acceptance. Com. Code § 10205, 10206

Modification, rescission, and waiver. Com. Code § 10208

[5] Remedies in General

Determining whether default exists. Com. Code § 10501(a)

Various remedies available. Com. Code §§ 10501(c), 10503(d), 10505(d)

Remedies are cumulative and optional. Com. Code §§ 10501(d), 10503(b)

Remedies under lease covering real property and goods. Com. Code § 10501(e)

Notices of default or enforcement not required. Com. Code § 10502

Remedies are governed by agreement and Division 10. Com. Code § 10503(a)

Permissible limitations on damages. Com. Code § 10503(c)

Liquidated damages. Com. Code § 10504(a), (b)

Lessee's right of reimbursement for justified nondelivery. Com. Code § 10504(c), (d)

Right of parties on cancellation, termination, or rescission. Com. Code § 10505

Remedies are generally not barred by rescission, rejection, or return. Com. Code § 10505(e)

Statute of limitations. Com. Code § 10506

Market rent. Com. Code § 10507

Action against third party who injures goods identified to lease. Com. Code § 10531

[6] Remedies of Lessee on Default by Lessor

Lessee's remedies for rejected goods or repudiation. Com. Code § 10508(a), (b), (f)

Lessee's remedies for other defaults of lessor. Com. Code § 10508(c)

Lessee's remedies for breach of warranty. Com. Code §§ 10508(d), 10519(4)

Lessee's security interest in rejected goods. Com. Code § 10508(e)

Requirements for lessee's rejection; lessee's duties with respect to rejected goods. Com. Code §§ 10509-10512, 10514

Lessor's right to cure. Com. Code § 10513

What constitutes acceptance. Com. Code § 10515

Requirements for and effect of lessee's revocation of acceptance. Com. Code §§ 10516, 10517

Cover. Com. Code § 10518

Lessee's measure of damages; incidental and consequential damages. Com. Code §§ 10519, 10520

Lessee's right to specific performance or related remedy. Com. Code § 10521

Lessee's rights on lessor's insolvency. Com. Code § 10522

[7] Remedies of Lessor on Default by Lessee

Lessor's remedies in general. Com. Code § 10523

Lessor's right to identify goods to lease contract. Com. Code § 10524

Lessor's right to refuse delivery to insolvent lessee. Com. Code § 10525(a)

Lessor's right to take possession of goods previously delivered. Com. Code § 10525(b), (c)

Lessor's right to stop delivery of goods in transit. Com. Code § 10526

Lessor's right to dispose of goods. Com. Code § 10527

Lessor's measures of damages; election; recovery of rent; incidental damages; loss of or damage to residual interest. Com. Code §§ 10528-10530, 10532

[8] Repudiated, Substituted, and Excused Performance

Right to assurances. Com. Code § 10401

Anticipatory repudiation; retraction of anticipatory repudiation. Com. Code §§ 10402, 10403

Substituted performance when agreed performance impracticable. Com. Code § 10404

Impossibility defined; lessor's or supplier's duty to allocate. Com. Code § 10405

Lessee's rights on receipt of notice of delay or allocation. Com. Code § 10406

[9] Risk of Loss

Identification of goods to lease. Com. Code § 10217

Insurable interests. Com. Code § 10218

Risk of loss. Com. Code § 10219

Effect of default on risk of loss. Com. Code § 10220

Casualty to identified goods. Com. Code § 10221

[10] Sales and Use Tax

"Acquisition sale and leaseback," as defined, executed on or after January 1, 1991, and before January 1, 1995, is neither sale nor purchase for purposes of sales and use tax. Rev. & Tax. Code § 6010.65

[11] Third Parties Affected by Lease

Lease generally effective against purchasers and creditors. Com. Code §§ 10301, 10302

Transfer of interests under lease generally permitted. Com. Code §§ 10303(b), (c), 10307

Other party's remedies after transfer. Com. Code § 10303(d)

Assignment of rights and delegation of duties. Com. Code §§ 10303(e), (f)

Extent of interest acquired from lessor by subsequent lessee. Com. Code § 10304

Extent of interest acquired from lessee by buyer or sublessee. Com. Code § 10305

Lien of repairer of leased goods. Com. Code § 10306

Rights of creditors of parties to lease. Com. Code § 10307

Rights of lessor's and seller's creditors. Com. Code § 10308

Leased goods as fixtures. Com. Code § 10309

Leased goods as accessions. Com. Code § 10310

[12] Warranties

Creation of express warranties by lessor. Com. Code § 10210

Lessor gives warranties against interference or infringement. Com. Code § 10211

Implied warranty of merchantability. Com. Code § 10212

Implied warranty of fitness for particular purpose. Com. Code § 10213

Disclaimer or modification of warranties. Com. Code § 10214

Rule of construction applicable to warranties. Com. Code § 10215

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)Application & ConstructionDamagesCommercial Law (UCC)Secured Transactions (Article 9)PerfectionChoice of LawGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Secured Transactions (Article 9)PerfectionChoice of LawCertificates of TitleContracts LawBreachAnticipatory RepudiationGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionBreach of WarrantyContracts LawContract InterpretationParol EvidenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawDebtor & Creditor RelationsContracts LawFormationOffersIrrevocable OffersContracts LawPerformanceTender & DeliveryContracts LawRemediesSpecific PerformanceContracts LawSales of GoodsDamages & RemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawSales of GoodsPerformanceGeneral OverviewContracts LawSales of GoodsPerformanceRisk of LossContracts LawSales of GoodsWarrantiesFitnessContracts LawSecured TransactionsApplication & ConstructionLeasesContracts LawSecured TransactionsDefaultForeclosure & RepossessionEnforcementContracts LawTypes of ContractsBailmentsContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral OverviewEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsRule Application & InterpretationInsurance LawMotor Vehicle InsuranceCancellation & RenewalEstoppel & Waiver of InsurersTransportation LawWater TransportationLicensing & RegistrationTransportation LawWater TransportationMaintenance & Safety

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.294

§ 413.294 Law Reviews

Flick, Uniform Commercial Code: Leases on Personal Property, 45 Bus. Law. 2331 (1990)

Rohwer, Equipment Leases--Warranty Rights and Remedies of Lessees, 21 Pac. L.J. 1 (1989)

Note, Division 10 of the California Commerical Code: California Personal Property Lease Law Codified, 20 Pac. L.J. 869 (1989)

Alces, Surreptitious and Not-So-Surreptitious Adjustment of the UCC: An Introductory Essay, 39 Ala. L. Rev. 559 (1988)

Bayer, Personal Property Leasing: Article 2A of the Uniform Commercial Code, 43 Bus. Law. 1491 (1988)

Benfield, Lessor's Damages Under Article 2A After Default by the Lessee as to Accepted Goods, 39 Ala. L. Rev. 915 (1988)

Boss, The History of Article 2A: A Lesson For Practitioner and Scholar Alike, 39 Ala. L. Rev. 575 (1988)

Cooper, Identifying a Personal Property Lease Under the UCC, 49 Ohio St. L.J. 195 (1988)

Gordon, Flying Into Blue Sky: Aircraft Leasebacks as Securities, 35 UCLA L. Rev. 779 (1988)

Harris, The Rights of Creditors Under Article 2A, 39 Ala. L. Rev. 803 (1988)

Huddleson, Old Wine in New Bottles: UCC Article 2A--Leases, 39 Ala. L. Rev. 615 (1988)

Kripke, Some Dissonant Notes About Article 2A, 39 Ala. L. Rev. 791 (1988)

Miller, Consumer Leases Under Uniform Commercial Code 2A , 39 Ala. L. Rev. 957 (1988)

Mooney, The Mystery and Myth of "Ostensible Ownership" and Article 9 Filing: A Critique of Proposals to Extend Filing Requirements to Leases, 39 Ala. L. Rev. 683 (1988)

Rapson, Deficiencies and Ambiguities in Lessors' Remedies Under Article 2A: Using Official Comments to Cure Problems in the Statute, 39 Ala. L. Rev. 875 (1988)

Sigman and Turner, Preface to the California Report on Article 2A (With Some Thoughts About Participation in the Legislative Process), 39 Ala. L. Rev. 975 (1988)

Report of the Uniform Commercial Code Committee of the Business Law Section of the State Bar of California on Proposed California Commercial Code Division 10 (Article 2A) (Senate Bill 1580, as Amended September 11, 1987), 39 Ala. L. Rev. 979 (1988)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)General OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)General OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)DefaultLessee & Lessor DefaultCommercial Law (UCC)Leases (Article 2A)DefaultRemediesContracts LawTypes of ContractsLease AgreementsGeneral OverviewSecurities LawBlue Sky LawsGeneral OverviewTortsBusiness TortsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 413.295-413.309

[Reserved]

§§ 413.295[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.310

§ 413.310 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Breach of Contract of Bailment [Civ. Code § 1925]--By Letter (Lessor) Against Hirer (Lessee)--For Rent Due on Thing Hired--General Form

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Breach of Contract of Bailment [Civ. Code § 1925]--By Letter (Lessor) Against Hirer (Lessee)--For Rent Due on Thing Hired--General Form

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____ [name], [and DOES I	)	(Breach of Contract)
through _____,]	)	[Amount demanded _____
Defendant(s).	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

[1. Plaintiff is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the state of _____ (authorized to transact, and transacting, intrastate business in California), with its principal place of business (in California) in _____ County (or allege other capacity and residence of plaintiff as appropriate).]

2. Defendant _____ [name] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a resident of _____ County, California [or allege other capacity and residence].

[3. Plaintiff is ignorant of the true names and capacities of defendant sued herein as DOES I through

_____, and therefore sues these defendants by such fictitious names. Plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained. (Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of these fictitiously named defendants is responsible in some manner for the occurrences herein alleged, and that plaintiff's injuries as herein alleged were proximately caused by the acts or omissions of each of them.)]

[4. At all times herein mentioned, defendants DOES I through _____ were the agents, servants, and employees of their codefendants, and in doing the things hereinafter alleged were acting in the scope of their authority as such agents, servants, and employees, and with the permission and consent of their codefendants.]

[5. Defendant entered into the hiring that is the subject of this action in order to use the _____ (specify type of goods, e.g., piano) primarily for personal, family, or household purposes. (Thus, this action is subject to the venue provisions of Section _____ [specify any applicable consumer venue provision, e.g., 1812.10 of the Civil Code].)]

[EITHER, if agreement is oral]

6. On _____ [date], defendant hired from plaintiff _____ [describe chattel hired, e.g., a piano] for _____ [the period between _____ (date) and _____ (date) or a period of _____ (specify, e.g., six months)] for which defendant orally promised to pay plaintiff _____ [a total rental of $_____ or the sum of $_____ (per _____ (specify, e.g., month)) as rental or a reasonable rental]. [Add any other relevant terms, e.g., In addition, defendant also promised to pay personal property taxes on the thing let and to maintain insurance on it.]

[OR, if agreement is written]

6. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff and defendant entered into a contract in writing, a copy of which is attached as Exhibit "A" and incorporated by reference. In accordance with the terms of this contract, defendant hired from plaintiff _____ [describe chattel hired, e.g., a piano] for _____ [the period between _____ (date) and _____ (date) or a period of _____ (specify, e.g., six months)] for which defendant promised to pay plaintiff _____ [a total rental of $_____ or the sum of $_____ (per _____ (specify, e.g., month)) as rental or a reasonable rental]. [Add any other relevant terms, e.g., In addition, defendant also promised to pay personal property taxes on the thing let and to maintain insurance on it.]

[CONTINUE]

[7. The reasonable rental value of the property hired by defendant is the sum of $_____ (per _____ [specify, e.g., month]).]

8. Defendant [has] had possession of the _____ [describe chattel hired, e.g., a piano] for _____ [specify, e.g., six months], and has paid no rent to plaintiff [except the sum of $_____, for which credit on the account was given] [add any other sums in addition to rent, e.g., nor has defendant paid the personal property taxes or maintained the insurance. Plaintiff was required to pay taxes in the sum of $_____ and to buy insurance at a cost of$_____]. There is now due, owing, and unpaid from defendant to plaintiff the sum of $_____.

9. On or about _____ [date], demand was made on defendant for payment of the aforementioned sum, but defendant has failed, refused, and neglected, and continues to fail, refuse, and neglect, to pay the same, all to plaintiff's damage in the sum of $_____.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

1. For compensatory damages in the sum of $_____;

2. For interest on the sum of $_____ at [the legal rate or the rate of _____ percent per annum] from and after _____ [date on which amount of damages was capable of being made certain or date on which action was filed, whichever is appropriate];

3. For costs of suit herein incurred [including reasonable attorney's fees as authorized by Section 1717 of the Civil Code]; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the plaintiff in the above entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein stated on information and belief, and, as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]
_____ [signature]

CAUTION:

In all actions and proceedings that are subject to Civ. Code § 1812.10 (Unruh Act) or 2984.4 (Rees-Levering Motor Vehicle Sales and Finance Act), and in all limited civil cases that are subject to Code Civ. Proc. § 395(b) (consumer obligations for goods, services, loans, or extensions of credit intended primarily for personal, family, or household use), facts showing that the action has been commenced in the proper court for the trial of the action or proceeding, and showing that the action is subject to the provisions of Civ. Code § 1812.10 or 2984.4, or Code Civ. Proc. § 395(b), must be set forth in the complaint, verified by the oath of the plaintiff or of his or her attorney, or in an affidavit (or declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) of the plaintiff or of his or her attorney filed with the complaint. When the affidavit or declaration is filed with the complaint, a copy of it must be served with the summons. If the complaint, affidavit, or declaration is not so filed, unless the court permits a later filing of the affidavit or declaration, the action must be dismissed without prejudice [Civ. Code §§ 1812.10(c), 2984.4(c); Code Civ. Proc. § 396a(a); see also Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used , Ch. 89, Automobiles: Sales and Financing Under the

Rees-Levering Act , and Ch. 501, Sales: Retail Installment Sales].

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for general use by a lessor in an action against the hirer (lessee) to recover damages for the breach of a contract of bailment after the hirer has failed to pay the agreed rent for the thing hired. The terms "hiring" and "hired" in the form may be changed to "lease" and "leased."

[3] Allegations

The complaint alleges:

- Plaintiff's capacity and principal place of business, if necessary (optional Paragraph 1).
- Defendant's residence and capacity (Paragraph 2).
- The hiring and the agreed rent (alternative Paragraphs 6) [see Civ. Code § 1925 (hiring defined)].
- The amount due (Paragraph 8).
- Defendant's failure to pay that rent (Paragraph 8).
- Plaintiff's demand for the rent (Paragraph 9).
- The fact that defendant did not respond to plaintiff's demand (Paragraph 9).

Paragraph 5 is only necessary in an action that is subject to a special venue provision [see, e.g., Civ. Code §§ 1812.10 (Unruh Act), 2984.4 (Rees-Levering Motor Vehicle Sales and Finance Act); Code Civ. Proc. § 395(b)].

Paragraph 7 is necessary only if no rental rate was specified by the parties [see Caron v. Andrew (1955) 133 Cal. App. 2d 412, 417, 284 P.2d 550] .

If plaintiff or defendant is doing business under a fictitious name, see § 413.340 for an allegation regarding the capacity to sue under that name.

[4] Interest on Damages

The prayer includes a request for interest on damages, although failure to request interest does not preclude interest from being awarded [Sanders v. City of Los Angeles (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 252, 263, 90 Cal. Rptr. 169, 475 P.2d 201] . Interest may accrue at a rate specified in the contract or at the legal rate [Civ. Code §§ 3287, 3289]. Interest accrues from the date when the amount of damages was certain, or capable of being made certain [Civ. Code § 3287(a)].

[5] Attorney's Fees

In an action on a contract that specifically provides for the award of attorney's fees and costs incurred to enforce the contract, the prevailing party may recover reasonable attorney's fees as an element of the costs of suit, not as damages [Civ. Code § 1717; see Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees].

[6] Jurisdiction

The superior court has jurisdiction of the action, which will be classified as an unlimited civil case unless the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest, is $25,000 or less, in which case it will be classified as a limited civil case [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(1)].

In limited civil cases, the caption must identify the case as a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. § 422.30(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(10)], and the first page of the paper must state whether or not the demand exceeds $10,000 [Gov. Code § 70613(b); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(9) (statement regarding amount of demand must appear "below the character of the action or proceeding")].

[7] Venue

Subject to Code Civ. Proc. § 395(b), an action founded on a contractual obligation may be brought in the county where any defendant resides at the commencement of the action. If a defendant has contracted to perform the obligation in a particular county, the action may be brought in the county where the obligation is to be performed or in the county where the contract in fact was entered into. The county in which the obligation is incurred is deemed to be the county in which it is to be performed unless there is a special contract in writing to the contrary [Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a)].

In an action arising from an offer or provision of goods, services, loans or extensions of credit intended primarily for personal, family or household use, other than an obligation described in Civ. Code § 1812.10 (in the Unruh Retail Installment Sales Act [Civ. Code § 1801 et seq.]; for discussion, see Ch. 501, Sales: Retail Installment Sales) or Civ. Code § 2984.4 (in the Rees Levering Motor Vehicle Sales and Finance Act [Civ. Code § 2981 et seq.]; for discussion, see Ch. 89, Automobiles: Sales and Financing Under the Rees Levering Act), or in an action arising from a transaction consummated as a proximate result of either an unsolicited telephone call made by a seller engaged in the business of consummating transactions of that kind or a telephone call or electronic transmission made by the buyer or lessee in response to a solicitation by the seller, the superior court in the county where the buyer or lessee in fact signed the contract, or where the buyer or lessee resided at the time the contract was entered into, or where the buyer or lessee resides at the commencement of the action, is the proper court for the trial of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 395(b); see Fontaine v. Superior Court (CashCall, Inc.) (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 830, 838-840, 96 Cal. Rptr. 3d 607 (statute applies to action by or against consumer, and if any defendant in consumer's action is individual, that is irrelevant to application of statute)].

A corporation or association may be sued in the county where the contract is made or is to be performed, where the obligation or liability arises or where the breach arises, or in the county where the corporation's principal place of business is situated, subject to the power of the court to change the place of trial as in other cases [Code Civ. Proc. § 395.5]. The last act necessary to the validity of a contract, usually the act constituting acceptance, or the place where the obligation arises, is the place the contract is made for purposes of Code Civ. Proc. § 395.5 [Jhirmack Enterprises, Inc. v. Superior Court (1979) 96 Cal. App. 3d 715, 723, 158 Cal. Rptr. 192] .

[8] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)], verification will require any answer to be verified in an unlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will alsopreclude the defendant from using a general denial in an unlimited civil case, and will preclude a general denial in a limited civil case if the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[9] Cross References

For alternative allegations of agency, capacity, residence of parties, and fictitious name allegations, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used

For alternative forms for captions and introductions, see Ch. 108, Captions and Introductions

For discussion and forms relating to the format of complaints, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints

For discussion of damages recoverable in contract actions generally, see Ch. 140, Contracts ; and Ch. 177, Damages

For forms and discussion involving hiring of real property, see Ch. 334, Landlord and Tenant: Claims for Damages

For discussion of jurisdiction in California courts in general, see Ch. 324, Jurisdiction: Subject Matter

For alternative forms for prayers, see Ch. 420, Prayers

For discussion and forms relating to service of summons generally, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers

For allegations showing proper venue, see Ch. 571, Venue

For alternative forms of verification, see Ch. 572, Verification

[10] State Statutes

Hirings in general. Civ. Code §§ 1925-1935

Bailment of personalty. Civ. Code §§ 1955-1959

[11] Decisions

Liability of bailee for rental value of bailed chattel when no agreed amount specified as reasonable rental value. Caron v. Andrew (1955) 133 Cal. App. 2d 412, 417, 284 P.2d 550 (case of bailment contract implied in fact)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.311

§ 413.311 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Breach of Contract of Bailment [Civ. Code § 1925]--By Letter (Lessor) Against Hirer (Lessee)--Rent Due on Thing Hired--Hiring Terminated Before Agreed Time [Civ. Code § 1935]

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Breach of Contract of Bailment [Civ. Code § 1925]--By Letter (Lessor) Against Hirer (Lessee)--Rent Due on Thing Hired--Hiring Terminated Before Agreed Time [Civ. Code § 1935]

[Caption. See § 413.310.]

[1. Capacity and residence of plaintiff. See § 413.310, Paragraph 1.]

2. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 413.310, Paragraph 2.]

[3. Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.310, Paragraph 3.]

[4. Agency allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.310, Paragraph 4.]

[5. Consumer lease and venue, if appropriate. See § 413.310, Paragraph 5.]

6. On _____ [date], at _____ [city], _____ County, California, plaintiff as letter and defendant as hirer entered into a written agreement of hiring by which defendant hired of plaintiff and plaintiff let to defendant a _____ [describe thing hired, e.g., hospital bed], for a period of _____ [number] days, for the purpose of _____ [describe use contemplated, e.g., defendant's caring for his mother, who was ill]. [The agreed rental for the _____-day term was $_____.] [Either party had the right to terminate the hiring prior to the agreed term by giving the other party _____ -days notice.] Defendant further agreed _____ [specify other provisions of hiring agreement relative to termination of agreement prior to term, e.g., that if the hiring was terminated prior to the end of the _____-day term, he/she would pay the proportionate amount of the agreed rental]. A copy of the agreement is attached as Exhibit "A" and made a part of this complaint.

7. On _____ [date], and before the termination date agreed on, the hiring was terminated by reason of _____ [specify, e.g., the fact that defendant's mother died and the parties mutually agreed to terminate the hiring]. During the period between _____ [date of agreement] and _____ [date of premature termination of hiring], defendant actually used the _____ [describe thing hired, e g., bed], and received benefit from it; defendant's use was not merely nominal.

8. At the time of termination of the hiring plaintiff requested of defendant that he/she pay the sum of $_____ per day for the hire, for the period of _____ [number] days during which the _____ [describe thing hired, e.g., bed] was actually beneficially used by defendant. The sum is a reasonable sum to be paid for the use of _____ [describe thing hired, e.g., bed] during that period. Defendant failed and refused to pay this sum, or any sum for the use, and continues to fail and refuses to do so althoughplaintiff has made due demand on him/her for payment. By reason thereof plaintiff has been damaged in the sum of $_____.

[Prayer. See § 413.310.]

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 413.310.]

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use by a letter in an action against a hirer to recover damages based on the proportion of the term for which the hirer actually used the thing hired [Civ. Code § 1935 (discussed in the Introduction under--Hirer's Obligation on Premature Termination)] before the hiring was terminated prior to the end of the term originally specified [see Civ. Code §§ 1931-1934 (see § 413.37)].

The terms "hiring," "hirer," "letter," and "hired" in the foregoing form may be changed to "lease," "lessee," "lessor," and "leased."

[3] Allegations

The complaint alleges:

- The hiring and its relevant terms (Paragraph 6) [see Civ. Code § 1925 ("hiring" defined)].
- The early termination of the hiring (Paragraph 7) [see Civ. Code §§ 1931-1934].
- Defendant's beneficial use of the thing hired prior to the early termination, and the fact that the use was not nominal (Paragraph 7) [Civ. Code § 1935].
- The basis for calculation and demand for the proportionate rent being sought (Paragraph 8).

- Defendant's continued failure to pay the proportionate rent (Paragraph 8).

[4] State Statutes

Premature termination of hiring by letter as permissible. Civ. Code § 1931

Hirer of thing as permitted to prematurely terminate hiring. Civ. Code § 1932

Termination of hiring by mutual consent of the parties. Civ. Code § 1933(2)

Termination of hiring by hirer's acquisition of title to thing hired superior to that of the letter. Civ. Code § 1933(3)

Termination of hiring by destruction of the thing hired. Civ. Code § 1933(4)

Termination of hiring that is terminable at pleasure of one party. Civ. Code § 1934]

Apportionment of rent on premature termination of hiring. Civ. Code § 1935

[5] Decisions

Regardless of its expressed terms, any contract of bailment as permitted to be terminated at any time by mutual consent of parties. Rackliff v. Coronet Construction Co. (1958) 157 Cal. App. 2d 419, 424, 321 P.2d 50

[6] Cross References

For a related form, see § 413.310.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.312

§ 413.312 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code §§ 3300, 3308] for Breach of Personal Property Lease--By Lessor Against Lessee--Rent Due and for Prospective Rent for Balance of Original Term [Civ. Code § 3308]

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code §§ 3300, 3308] for Breach of Personal Property Lease--By Lessor Against Lessee--Rent Due and for Prospective Rent for Balance of Original Term [Civ. Code § 3308]

[Caption. See § 413.310.]

[1. Capacity and residence of plaintiff. See § 413.310, Paragraph 1.]

2. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 413.310, Paragraph 2.]

[3. Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.310, Paragraph 3.]

[4. Agency allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.310, Paragraph 4.]

[5. Consumer lease and venue, if appropriate. See § 413.310, Paragraph 5.]

6. On _____ [date], at _____ [city], _____ County, California, plaintiff as lessor and defendant as lessee entered into a written lease agreement, a copy of which is attached as Exhibit "A" and made a part hereof. In accordance with the terms of this lease, plaintiff was to lease _____ [specify type of goods, e.g., approximately $25,000 worth of restaurant equipment, which is listed with particularity in Appendix A of the lease agreement,] to defendant for a[n initial] term of _____ [specify time period, e.g., three years], commencing on _____ [date], at a monthly rent of $_____. The first month's rent was payable on or before _____ [date]. Thereafter monthly rental payments were due on or before the _____ day of each month. [Add any relevant terms, other than provisions regarding lessor's remedies, e.g., In addition, defendant also promised to pay personal property taxes on the thing let and to maintain insurance on it.]

7. Plaintiff performed all obligations that he/she was required to perform under the lease agreement in that on _____ [date], plaintiff _____ [allege facts showing plaintiff's performance up to the time of defendant's default, e.g., delivered the goods to defendant's business premises on _____ (date). Defendant accepted the goods].

8. On or about _____ [date], defendant defaulted in its obligations under the lease agreement by _____ [describe nature of defendant's breach, e.g., failing and refusing to make any further payments required by the lease agreement].

[9. The lease agreement provides that when defendant is in default, plaintiff _____ (specify any lease provision on which plaintiff is relying to authorize the actions taken or recovery sought, e.g., may terminate the lease if defendant does not cure an event of default within 30 days after demand to do so. Further, the lease provides, at Paragraph _____ that if plaintiff terminates the lease because of a breach by defendant, plaintiff is entitled to recover from defendant the worth at the time of the termination, of the excess, if any, of the amount of rent and charges equivalent to the rent reserved in the lease for the balance of the stated term, or any shorter period of time over the reasonable rental value of the property for the same period).]

[10. On _____ (date), plaintiff notified defendant that defendant was in default under the lease for failure to make the rental payments due _____ (dates), and demanded that defendant pay the arrearages, which amounted to $_____, by _____ (date), or plaintiff would terminate the lease and take further actions authorized by the lease agreement. A copy of that notice is attached hereto marked Exhibit "B" and made a part hereof. On _____ (date), defendant had not paid the arrearages, and plaintiff terminated the lease by notice to defendant. A copy of the notice of termination (along with the acknowledgment of receipt of that notice signed by defendant on _____ (date),) is attached hereto marked Exhibit "C" and made a part hereof.]

[11. On or about _____ (date), _____ (describe plaintiff's repossession, if any, and what disposition plaintiff made of the goods, e.g., plaintiff took possession of the goods after causing them to be removed from defendant's premises. After publishing advertisements in local papers for three months, and inquiring of five brokers in used restaurant equipment, plaintiff _____ (sold or relet) the goods that were the subject of the lease to a third party for (if relet, specify terms, e.g., three years, commencing on _____ (date), at a monthly rent of) $_____.]

12. _____ [At the time plaintiff terminated the lease defendant had or Defendant has] paid no rent to plaintiff [except the sum of $_____, for which credit on account was given] [add any other sums in addition to rent, e.g.,; nor has defendant paid the personal property taxes or maintained the insurance. Plaintiff was required to pay taxes in the sum of $_____ and to buy insurance at a cost of $_____]. There is now due, owing, and unpaid from defendant to plaintiff the sum of $_____ [and plaintiff will continue to suffer damages based on unpaid rentals].

13. As a direct and proximate result of defendant's breach of the lease, plaintiff has suffered damages in the amount of $_____ [specify basis for calculation, if desired, e.g., which is the present value, at the time plaintiff terminated the lease, calculated using a discount rate of 11.7 percent, of the excess of the amount of rent and charges reserved in the lease for the balance of the stated term, over the reasonable rental value of the property for the same period].

[Prayer. See § 413.310.]

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 413.310.]

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use by a lessor in an action against a lessee to recover damages based on the Civ. Code § 3308 formula (discussed in the Introduction under § 413.37[4]), or pursuant to some other provision in a lease [see Puritan Leasing Co. v. August (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 451, 457-458, 128 Cal. Rptr. 175, 546 P.2d 679] , or pursuant to traditional leasing principles [see Industrial Leasing Corp. v. Lawson (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 1098, 1102, 197 Cal. Rptr. 291 ; see also § 413.38].

[3] Allegations

The complaint alleges:

- The formation of the lease and its relevant terms (Paragraphs 6 and 9).
- Plaintiff's performance under the lease (Paragraph 7) [see Civ. Code § 1955 (duties of lessor)].
- Defendant's breach of the lease (Paragraph 8).
- The amount of damages based on unpaid rent that accrued prior to termination of the lease or that rental arrearages will continue to accrue (Paragraph 12) [see Civ. Code § 3308].
- Other damages, based on rent for the balance of the stated term (Paragraph 13) [see Civ. Code § 3308; Puritan Leasing Co. v. August (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 451, 457-458, 128 Cal. Rptr. 175, 546 P.2d 679 ; Newco Leasing, Inc. v. Hull (1985) 167 Cal. App. 3d Supp. 1, 4-5 , 213 Cal. Rptr. 202] .

The calculation of damages used in the bracketed portion of Paragraph 13 is based on Civ. Code § 3308, but other measures, such as the present value of the rent for the remaining lease term less the proceeds of sale, could be used instead [see, e.g., Industrial Leasing Corp. v. Lawson (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 1098, 1102-1103, 197 Cal. Rptr. 291] .

A lease provision supporting damages for the balance of the lease term (Paragraph 9) is not necessary [see Industrial Leasing Corp. v. Lawson (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 1098, 1102, 197 Cal. Rptr. 291] . Nor is it necessary, unless the lease agreement so provides, that the lessor have terminated the lease (Paragraph 10) [see Puritan Leasing Co. v. August (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 451, 457-458, 462-463, 128 Cal. Rptr. 175, 546 P.2d 679] .

Paragraph 11 is only necessary if defendant surrendered the goods or plaintiff repossessed them and sold or relet the goods in question [see Industrial Leasing Corp. v. Lawson (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 1098, 1102-1103, 197 Cal. Rptr. 291 (sale)].

[4] State Statutes

Recovery of present value of excess rent reserved for balance of stated term remaining after lessor's termination for lessee's breach of lease over reasonable rental value of property for same period as authorized by provision in lease. Civ. Code § 3308

[5] Decisions

Lessor required to mitigate its damages. W W Leasing Unlimited v. Torok Exploration, Etc. (9th Cir. 1978) 575 F.2d 1259, 1261 (applying California law); Industrial Leasing Corp. v. Lawson (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 1098, 1103, 197 Cal. Rptr. 291

Interest saved by lessor that prepaid loan with which it financed purchase of leased property as required to be deducted from deficiency owed by lessee after lessor's repossession and resale of lease property. W W Leasing Unlimited v. Torok Exploration, Etc. (9th Cir. 1978) 575 F.2d 1259, 1261 (applying California law)

Not sale price, but market price of leased property that lessor repossessed and resold as required to be used to calculate deficiency owed by lessee. W W Leasing Unlimited v. Torok Exploration, Etc. (9th Cir. 1978) 575 F.2d 1259, 1261 (applying California law)

Lease provision allowing lessor to repossess chattel, to sell it or to relet it, and then to recover any deficiency between proceeds of sale or reletting and present value of rent due for unexpired term as valid. Puritan Leasing Co. v. August (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 451, 457, 460, 128 Cal. Rptr. 175, 546 P.2d 679 ; Triple C Leasing, Inc. v. All-American Mobile Wash (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 244, 251, 134 Cal. Rptr. 328

On termination of personal property lease before end of term, damages under Civ. Code § 3308 equivalent to rent reserved for remainder of term as required to be discounted to their present value as of date of termination. Newco Leasing, Inc. v. Hull (1985) 167 Cal. App. 3d Supp. 1, 4-5 , 213 Cal. Rptr. 202

When goods subject to lease are repossessed and sold by lessor, standards of commercially reasonable conduct in sale of repossessed goods applicable under Divisions 2 and 9 of Commercial Code are not applicable; however, traditional principles obligating lessor to mitigate its damages do apply. Industrial Leasing Corp. v. Lawson (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 1098, 1102-1103, 197 Cal. Rptr. 291

Notice of sale of repossessed goods under former Com. Code § 9504(3) (now see Com. Code §§ 9611-9614) was not required to be given if transaction was true lease rather than security interest. Triple C Leasing, Inc. v. All-American Mobile Wash (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 244, 248, 134 Cal. Rptr. 328

[6] Text References

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 13 Personal Property, § 192 (10th ed. 2005)

[7] Cross References

See also Comments and References to § 413.310.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.313

§ 413.313 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Breach of Contract of Bailment [Civ. Code § 1925]--By Letter (Lessor) Against Hirer (Lessee)--Nonrepair of [Civ. Code § 1929], Misuse of [Civ. Code § 1930], Nonpayment of Rent Due on, and Nondelivery of Thing Hired [Civ. Code § 1958]

[1] FORM Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Breach of Contract of Bailment [Civ. Code § 1925]--By Letter (Lessor) Against Hirer (Lessee)--Nonrepair of [Civ. Code § 1929], Misuse of [Civ. Code § 1930], Nonpayment of Rent Due on, and Nondelivery of Thing Hired [Civ. Code § 1958]

[Caption. See § 413.310.]

Plaintiff alleges:

[1. Capacity and residence of plaintiff. See § 413.310, Paragraph 1.]

2. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 413.310, Paragraph 2.]

[3. Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.310, Paragraph 3.]

[4. Agency allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.310, Paragraph 4.]

[5. Consumer lease and venue, if appropriate. See § 413.310, Paragraph 5.]

6. [Oral or written agreement for hiring. See § 413.310, Paragraph 6.]

[7. Reasonable rental rate. See § 413.310, Paragraph 7.]

8. As part of this agreement defendant promised _____ [use as many of the following as are applicable: to maintain the _____ (describe thing hired, e.g., motor scraper with rubber tires) in a good state of repair, to properly use, store, and care for it, and to return it to plaintiff at the expiration of that time in the same condition in which it was received, reasonable wear excepted; and/or not to use or to permit the use of the _____ (describe thing hired, e.g., scraper) for any purpose other than _____ (specify limitation on use, e.g., scraping dirt off rocks to prepare them for blasting); and/or to return the _____ (describe thing hired, e.g., scraper) to plaintiff at _____ (specify location)].

9. Defendant received the _____ [describe thing hired, e.g., motor scraper] from plaintiff in good condition of repair on _____ [date] and thereafter used it continuously to and includ ing _____ [date], when _____ [defendant returned it to plaintiff as required by the agreement or plaintiff discovered the misuse hereinafter alleged, rescinded the agreement and retook possession of the _____ (describe thing hired, e.g., scraper) or plaintiff terminated the agreement for defendant's failure to make repairs demanded by plaintiff as hereinafter alleged and retook possession of the _____ (describe thing hired, e.g., scraper) or defendant notified plaintiff that it was no longer needed, informed plaintiff that the _____ (describe thing hired, e.g., scraper) was located at _____ (specify place different from the place at which parties had agreed the scraper was to be redelivered), and demanded that plaintiff arrange to take possession from there].

10. Defendant, in disregard of the agreement, did not take reasonable or proper care of the _____ [describe thing hired, e.g., scraper], or use it in a careful, reasonable, or proper manner during the term, but so carelessly and negligently cared for the property that it became broken, damaged, and otherwise injured and deteriorated, and specifically _____ [describe nature of damage or deterioration, e.g., the water pumps were damaged, the heads were cracked, seals and gaskets were damaged, the cutting bits were completely worn down and ruined, the tires were badly torn and cut, the rotor bits were broken and worn, and the motor was damaged by reason of failure to change the oil and oil filters]. All these deteriorated and unrepaired parts were in a good state of repair and operating condition when the _____ [describe thing hirerd, e.g., scraper] was delivered to defendant.

11. During the term of the hiring, defendant, used the _____ [describe thing hired, e.g., scraper] in a manner and for a purpose other than for _____ [specify purpose for which let, e.g., scraping dirt off rocks], to wit: _____ [describe type of misuse, e.g., defendant used it to break up rocks]. _____ [If deterioration and disrepair have been previously alleged: Part of the deterioration and bad state of repair resulted from defendant's misuse of the _____ (describe thing hired, e.g., scraper) for a purpose other than the purpose agreed on or, specify consequences of misuse: As a result of defendant's misuse of the _____ (describe thing hired, e.g., scraper) it became broken, damaged, and otherwise injured and deteriorated, and specifically _____ (describe nature of damage or deterioration, as alleged in Paragraph 10)].

12. Plaintiff demanded of defendant [both orally and in writing] that defendant _____ [repair the _____ (describe thing hired, e.g., scraper) and put it in as good state of repair and condition as it was when defendant received it, save for normal wear (that would have occurred had it been used only for the agreed purpose) *and/o*r return the _____ (describe thing hired, e.g., scraper) to _____ (specify agreed place of return) (in as good a condition of repair as when received by defendant)]. Defendant failed and refused to comply with this/these demand(s). On _____ [date], plaintiff took possession of the _____ [describe thing hired, e.g., scraper] at _____ [specify location] [and expended the sum of $_____ to transport it to _____ (the place where defendant agreed to return it). $_____ is a reasonable sum for transportation].

[EITHER, if damage or deterioration was repaired and plaintiff lost use of thing during repairs, include Paragraphs 13 and 14]

13. Because of defendant's failure and refusal to repair the _____ [describe thing hired, e.g., scraper], or to cause it to be repaired, plaintiff was forced to have the repairs made, and to transport the _____ [describe thing hired, e.g., scraper] to and from the place of repair. As a result, plaintiff necessarily incurred an indebtedness of $_____ for the repairs, and expended the further sum of $_____ for transportation, all to plaintiff's damage in the sum of $_____. $_____ is a reasonable sum for transportation.

14. As a further result of defendant's _____ [misuse of and/or failure to maintain and repair] the _____ [describe thing hired, e.g., scraper], and the damage caused thereby and repairs made necessary thereby, plaintiff lost the use of the _____ [describe thing hired, e.g., scraper] for a period of _____ (number] days while it was being repaired. The reasonable value of the use of the _____ [describe thing hired, e.g., scraper] to plaintiff was and is the sum of $_____ per day. The period of _____ [number] days was a reasonable period within which to make the repairs. As a result of the loss of use plaintiff was further damaged in the sum of $_____.

[OR, if damages or deterioration was not repaired]

13. Had defendant _____ [used the _____ (describe object hired, e.g., scraper) as promised and/or maintained the _____ (describe object hired, e.g., scraper) in a good state of repair, as promised], the value of it would now be $_____. The value of the _____ [describe object hired, e.g., scraper] has now been deteriorated and depreciated to the sum of $_____ [specify amount substantially less due to misuse or nonrepair].

[CONTINUE]

15. Defendant failed and refused to pay plaintiff the rental for the _____ [describe thing hire, e.g., scraper] for the period of the hiring as heretofore alleged, in the sum of $_____, for the period commencing on _____ [date] and ending on _____ [date], the day on which plaintiff took possession thereof, and still fails and refuses to pay the rental, or any part thereof, although demand for payment has been duly made, to plaintiff's further damage in the sum of $_____.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

1. For damages for nonrepair of the thing hired in the sum of $_____ [and interest on that sum at _____ (the legal rate or the rate of _____ percent per annum) from and after _____(date on which amount of damages was capable of being made certain or date on which action was filed, whichever is appropriate)];

2. For damages for misuse of the thing hired in the sum of $_____ [and interest on that sum at _____ (the legal rate or the rate of _____ percent per annum) from and after _____(date on which amount of damages was capable of being made certain or date on which action was filed, whichever is appropriate)];

3. For damages for nonpayment of the rent due on the thing hired in the sum of $_____ [and interest on that sum at _____ (the legal rate or the rate of _____ percent per annum) from and after _____ (date on which amount of damages was capable of being made certain or date on which action was filed, whichever is appropriate)];

4. For damages for nondelivery of the thing hired in the sum of $_____ [and interest on that sum at _____ (the legal rate or the rate of _____ percent per annum) from and after _____(date on which amount of damages was capable of being made certain or date on which action was filed, whichever is appropriate)];

5. For costs of suit [,including reasonable attorney's fees as authorized by Section 1717 of the Civil Code,] herein incurred; and

6. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [signature]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 413.310.]

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use by a letter in an action against a hirer for the recovery of damages for the breach of a contract of bailment occasioned by the letter's nonrepair of the thing hired [Civ. Code § 1929], and/or misuse of the thing hired [Civ. Code § 1930], and/or nonpayment of the rent due on the thing hired, and/or failure of the letter to return the thing hired to the place contemplated by the parties at the time of the hiring [Civ. Code § 1958].

The terms "hiring," "hirer," "letter," and "hired" in the foregoing form may be changed to "lease," "lessee," "lessor," and "leased."

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges:

- The specific terms of the agreement of the parties, if any, with respect to repair [see Civ. Code § 1929], limitations on the use of the thing hired [see Civ. Code § 1930], and the place of return (Paragraph 8) [see Civ. Code § 1958].

- Plaintiff's delivery of the thing hired to defendant in good condition [see Civ. Code § 1955] and defendant's continuous use of it until its return at the end of the term or other earlier abandonment or termination (Paragraph 9) [see Civ. Code §§ 1930-1931, 1033, 1935 (grounds for lessor's rescission or early termination)].

- Defendant's nonrepair (Paragraph 10).

- Defendant's misuse of the property (Paragraph 11).

- Plaintiff's demands for repair and return to the agreed location (Paragraph 12).

- Defendant's failure to comply with the demand for return to the agreed location and expenditures required to be incurred by plaintiff to have the property transported there (Paragraph 12).

- Defendant's refusal to comply with the demand for repairs (Paragraphs 12) [see Pugh-Miller Drilling Co. v. Main Oil Co. (1929) 98 Cal. App. 297, 300, 276 P. 1043] . Either (1) the cost of repairs made by plaintiff (first alternative paragraph 13) and the rental income lost during the repair period (Paragraph 14), or (2) the depreciation in value of the property due to the misuse or nonrepair (second alternative paragraph 13).

- The reasonable or agreed rental still owed by defendant to plaintiff (Paragraph 15).

If repairs included replacement parts, first alternative Paragraph 13 and Paragraph 14 should be modified accordingly [see Awalt v. Mercer, Fraser Co. (1955) 130 Cal. App. 2d 853, 858-859, 279 P.2d 1001] .

[4] State Statutes

Hirer is required to repair deteriorations occasioned by his or her want of ordinary care. Civ. Code § 1929

Hirer is liable for misuse of thing hired. Civ. Code § 1930

Lessee is required to return thing hired at end of lease. Civ. Code § 1958

[5] Decisions

When bailee fails to return chattel to agreed place, bailor as entitled to rent until it takes possession. Rackliff v. Coronet Construction Co. (1958) 157 Cal. App. 2d 419, 423-424, 321 P.2d 50

In every bailment, whether lucrative or not, bailor as entitled, and bailee as bound, to carry out purpose of bailment within terms expressly or impliedly agreed on by parties; bailee who departs from those terms as liable to bailor for any loss or damage in respect of thing bailed which occurs as result thereof, irrespective of any want of due care on his part, in absence of any ratification on part of bailor. Sperisen v. Heynemann (1957) 149 Cal. App. 2d 228, 231, 308 P.2d 436

Bailee for hire as required to use ordinary care for safety and preservation of thing hired; when hired chattel is damaged due to hirer's neglect and repair is not possible, bailor as entitled to recover cost of replacement. Awalt v. Mercer, Fraser Co. (1955) 130 Cal. App. 2d 853, 858-859, 279 P.2d 1001

Hirer as required to show that letter failed to make repairs after letter was given notice that repairs were necessary before he or she is able to recover amount expended therefor under Civ. Code §§ 1955-1957. Pugh-Miller Drilling Co. v. Main Oil Co. (1929) 98 Cal. App. 297, 300, 276 P. 1043

Measure of compensation to which plaintiff bailor is entitled, in absence of proof of negligence, as reasonable value of use of thing bailed in work contemplated by parties and to which it was in fact put by defendant bailee, taking into consideration its condition and capacity and character of such work. McFayden v. Town of Calistoga (1925) 74 Cal. App. 378, 382, 240 P. 523

[6] Text References

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 13, Personal Property, §§ 159, 161, 162, 164-166, 189, 191 (10th ed. 2005)

[7] Cross References

For discussion and case relating to other type of bailments that may amplify the duties of care and measures of damage, see Ch. 93, Bailments

See also Comments and References to § 413.310.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.314

§ 413.314 Affirmative Defense--Leased Property Had No Rental Value and Was Unfit for Purpose for Which Leased [Civ. Code § 1955]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Leased Property Had No Rental Value and Was Unfit for Purpose for Which Leased [Civ. Code § 1955]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant admits, denies, and alleges:

1. Answering Paragraph(s) _____ [number(s)] of plaintiff's complaint, defendant admits that the _____ [describe property leased] referred to was leased on or about _____ [date], and alleges that the _____ [describe property leased] was not in a condition to perform the work for which it was leased, a condition which was unknown to defendant and could not be ascertained by a reasonable examination; immediately on learn ing of the condition of the _____ [describe property leased], defendant notified plaintiff of its unfitness for use.

2. Answering Paragraph(s) _____ [number(s)] of plaintiff's complaint, defendant denies that the rental value of the property leased by him/her is or was the sum of $_____ per month; and alleges that the _____ [describe property leased] had no rental value whatsoever.

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense is for use in an answer to an action brought by a lessor of personal property against a lessee for breach of the lease. The ground of the affirmative defense is that the consideration for the lease contract failed because the thing leased was unfit for the use intended and, therefore, had no rental value [see Civ. Code § 1955 (see § 413.34)].

[3] State Statutes

Party seeking to avoid contract as having burden of proving failure of consideration. Civ. Code § 1615

Duties of lessor. Civ. Code § 1955

[4] Cross References

See also Comments and References to §§ 413.310 and 413.313.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.315

§ 413.315 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries Based on Negligence [Civ. Code §§ 1714(a), 1955]--By Lessee Against Lessor--Dangerous Chattel Leased

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries Based on Negligence [Civ. Code §§ 1714(a), 1955]--By Lessee Against Lessor--Dangerous Chattel Leased

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____ [name], [and DOES I	)	(Negligence)
through _____,]	)	[Amount demanded _____
Defendant(s).	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Defendant _____ [name] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of _____ (, authorized to transact, and transacting, intrastate business in California), with its principal place of business (in California) in _____ County, California [or allege other capacity and residence].

[2. Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.310, Paragraph 3.]

[3. Agency allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.310, Paragraph 4.]

4. On or about _____ [date], and for a long time prior thereto, defendant operated a business for profit in _____ [city], _____ County, California; in the operation of this business, defendant, among other things, let, rented, and leased to the general public, for hire, certain items of mechanical equipment, including _____ [describe dangerous instrumentalities leased, e.g., rotary plows], hereinafter described.

5. A _____ [describe device leased, e.g., rotary plow] is a mechanical device _____ [describe parts and functions, e.g., with a gasoline driven motor; affixed to this device is a series of prongs to which are attached blades, the purpose of which is to dig into and plow the ground on which the device is being operated].

6. On or about _____ [date], in _____ [city], _____ County, California, plaintiff leased and received from defendant a _____ [describe device, e.g., rotary plow], and at that time and place paid to defendant the amount of money demanded by him for the rental of the _____ [describe device, e.g., rotary plow].

7. A _____ [describe device, e.g., rotary plow] of the type supplied by defendant to plaintiff is a dangerous device when placed in the hands and control of persons unskilled in the proper management and control thereof, which fact defendant well knew and of which fact plaintiff was ignorant.

8. When plaintiff leased the _____ [describe device, e.g., rotary plow] he/she was ignorant of the dangerous character of the device and presumed, and had a right to presume, that defendant would not permit him/her to get in harm's way, or be injured or killed, or that defendant would not do or fail to do anything likely to cause injury or death. Defendant negligently and carelessly leased the _____ [describe device, e.g., rotary plow] to plaintiff without proper inquiry or investigation concerning plaintiff's competency or ability to safely operate the device, and without any warning to plaintiff that the device was a dangerous instrumentality when operated by a person ignorant of the proper management and control thereof.

9. While plaintiff was operating the device to the best of his/her skill and ability on or about _____ [date], and because of plaintiff's ignorance of the proper operation of the device and because of plaintiff's lack of skill and knowledge as to the proper management thereof, and because of the negligence and carelessness of defendant in failing to warn plaintiff of the dangerous qualities of the device, plaintiff was unable to control the device and as a result thereof it went out of control and inflicted on plaintiff the following injuries: _____ [describe].

10. As a proximate result of the negligence of defendant plaintiff was injured in his/her health, strength, and activity, sustaining injury to his or her body and shock and injury to his or her nervous system, all of which injuries have caused and continue to cause plaintiff great mental, physical, and nervous pain and suffering, all to his or her damage and detriment.

11. As a further proximate result of the negligence of defendant, plaintiff has incurred, and will continue to incur, medical and related expenses. The full amount of medical expenses is not known to plaintiff at this time, and plaintiff will amend this complaint to state the full amount when it becomes known, or on proof thereof.

12. At the time of the injuries, plaintiff was _____ [employed or employable] in his or her usual occupation [as a _____ (specify)]. As a further proximate result of the negligence of defendant, and by reason of the injuries suffered by him/her, plaintiff was prevented from attending to that occupation from _____ [date] through _____ [_____ (date) or the present], and thereby lost earnings. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and on that information and belief alleges, that he/she will continue to be prevented from attending to _____ [that occupation or any occupation] for a period in the future, and will thereby lose further earnings.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

1. For general damages;

2. For damages for past and future medical expenses;

3. For damages for past and future loss of earnings;

4. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 413.310.]

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use by a lessee against a lessor to recover damages for personal injuries caused by the lessor's negligence in leasing a dangerous chattel [see Civ. Code §§ 1714(a), 1955; see also § 413.34[2]].

[3] Allegations

The form alleges the following:

- Defendant's residence and capacity (Paragraph 1).
- That defendant is in the business of leasing this type of equipment, and has been for some time (Paragraph 4).
- The type of instrumentality leased (Paragraph 5).
- That plaintiff leased the device from plaintiff and paid the rent (Paragraph 6).
- That the item leased is dangerous in the hands of unskilled persons (Paragraph 7).
- That defendant knew of the danger (Paragraph 7).
- That plaintiff did not know of the danger (Paragraph 7).
- Plaintiff's reliance that defendant would warn of any dangers and defendant's failure to do so (Paragraph 8).
- That the leased property caused plaintiff injury because it was dangerous (Paragraph 9).
- Plaintiff's physical injuries (Paragraph 10).

- Plaintiff's medical expenses (Paragraph 11).
- Plaintiff's lost wages (Paragraph 12).

[4] Specifications of Damages

In an action brought to recover damages for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded for this cause of action [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

Otherwise, the amounts claimed as damages must be alleged [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(a)(2)] or an equivalent statement must be included, for example, a statement that the damages for a particular loss or harm sustained [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282] are not known and that leave will be sought to amend the complaint to state the exact amount when ascertained. If this is done, counsel must remember to seek leave to amend the complaint to so state before judgment.

No claim for punitive damages may state an amount sought regardless of the nature of the case [Civ. Code § 3295(e)].

For discussion of and forms for requesting and stating the amount of damages sought when they are not stated in the complaint, see Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.40 et seq., and Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.11, 425.115].

[5] Venue

A personal injury action based on negligence may be brought in the county where the injury occurs or where the defendants, or some of them, reside at the commencement of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a)].

[6] State Statutes

Duties of lessor. Civ. Code § 1955

[7] Decisions

Letter as not responsible for damage caused by the negligence or other wrongful acts of third persons who are not its agents or employees nor acting as independent contractors of its choice in carrying out work that letter had contracted to perform on bailed property. Continental Mfg. Corp. v. Underwriters at Lloyds London (1960) 185 Cal. App. 2d 545, 550, 9 Cal. Rptr. 115

Tortfeasor as liable notwithstanding existence of contract; basis of this liability as superior knowledge possessed by owner of dangerous character of leased chattel. Monroe v. East Bay Rental Service (1952) 111 Cal. App. 2d 574, 576, 578, 245 P.2d 9 ; Fisher v. Pennington (1931) 116 Cal. App. 248, 250-251, 2 P.2d 518

[8] Text References

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 13, Personal Property, §§ 187-190 (10th ed. 2005)

42 Cal. Jur. 3d Leases of Personal Property §§ 20-22

8 C.J.S., Bailments, §§ 41-45, 97

[9] Cross References

For discussion of damages recoverable in tort actions generally, see Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.40 et seq.

For discussion and alternative forms of allegations of negligence and personal injuries, see Ch. 380, Negligence

For a discussion of strict liability in tort for defective products, see Ch. 460, Products Liability

See also Comments and References to §§ 413.310 and 413.316.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.316

§ 413.316 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries Based on Negligence [Civ. Code §§ 1714(a), 1955]--By Lessee Against Lessor--Defective Invalid Walker

[1] FORM Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries Based on Negligence [Civ. Code §§ 1714(a), 1955]--By Lessee Against Lessor--Defective Invalid Walker

[Caption. See § 413.315.]

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 413.315, Paragraph 1.]

[2. Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.310, Paragraph 3.]

[3. Agency allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.310, Paragraph 4.]

4. _____ [Describe plaintiff's prior medical condition, e.g., Prior to the times herein mentioned plaintiff had undergone an operation for fusion of the head of the right femur and was confined to his/her home convalescing from the operation; because of the condition, plaintiff was unable to bear any weight on his/her right leg].

5. On _____ [date], defendant furnished to plaintiff an invalid walker in consideration of an agreed monthly charge. The walker was in an unsafe and dangerous condition, and the unsafe and dangerous condition of the walker was the proximate consequence of the carelessness and negligence of defendant, its agents, and employees. As a result and consequence of that carelessness and negligence, plaintiff, while exercising due care and caution, and while attempting to use the walker for the purpose and in the manner for which it was intended, was caused to and did fall on the floor.

6. As a proximate result of the neglect and carelessness on the part of defendant, and the fall, plaintiff suffered the following injuries: _____ [describe]. By reason of the above plaintiff has suffered damages [in the sum of $_____].

7. Plaintiff is a _____ [employment of plaintiff] and was so employed at the time of the operation referred to and earning a salary of $_____ per _____ [specify period, e.g., month] and, is capable of earning that sum as a _____ [describe employment of plaintiff]. As a result of the injuries referred to plaintiff's temporary disability will be extended for a period of at least _____ [specify] and he or she will be unable to engage in any gainful employment during this period of time. Plaintiff will be damaged on account of this disability in a sum that cannot be determined at this time, and plaintiff asks leave of court to insert the correct amount when ascertained.

8. By reason of these injuries, it was necessary for plaintiff to, and he or she did, employ physicians and surgeons to diagnose and treat the injuries for which plaintiff has incurred reasonable and necessary expense[of $_____], and it will be necessary for plaintiff to continue to employ physicians and surgeons to treat these injuries for a long time to come, to plaintiff's damage in a sum that cannot be determined at this time, and plaintiff asks leave of court to insert the correct amount when ascertained. By reason of these injuries, it was necessary for plaintiff to have x-rays taken, and to obtain medical and surgical supplies, and plaintiff thereby incurred reasonable and necessary expenses [of $_____] for the x-rays and medical and surgical supplies. By reason of these injuries it will be necessary for plaintiff to employ a nurse for a period of _____ [specify]; there will be a reasonable and necessary expense of employing the nurse; plaintiff will be damaged on account of the employment of the nurse in a sum that cannot be determined at this time, and plaintiff asks leave of court to insert the correct amount when ascertained.

[Prayer. See § 413.315.]

_____ [signature]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 413.310.]

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use by a lessee in an action against a lessor to recover damages for personal injuries caused by the lessor's negligence in renting a defective chattel. This form is appropriate if the defendant is not a commercial lessor. The doctrine of strict liability in tort applies to a commercial lessor or letter in the business of leasing who supplies a defective product [Price v. Shell Oil Co. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 245, 253-254, 85 Cal. Rptr. 178, 466 P.2d 722 ; Fakhoury v. Magner (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 58, 63-64, 101 Cal. Rptr. 473] , and has generally supplanted the older actions on warranty and negligence. For forms and discussion of strict products liability, see Ch. 460, Products Liability .

[3] Allegations

This form alleges:

- plaintiff's particular condition (Paragraph 4).
- That plaintiff leased the equipment from defendant (Paragraph 5).
- That the equipment was unsafe (Paragraph 5); (4) that the dangerous condition of the equipment was caused by defendant's negligence (Paragraph 5).

- That the equipment malfunctioned while plaintiff was using it in the manner and for the purpose for which it was intended (Paragraph 5).

- plaintiff's injury (Paragraph 6).

- Plaintiff's loss of earning capacity (Paragraph 7); and (8) plaintiff's medical treatment and expenses (Paragraph 8).

[4] California Points and Authorities

For memoranda of points and authorities related to products liability, see California Points and Authorities , Ch. 190, Products Liability

[5] State Statutes

Duties of lessor. Civ. Code § 1955

[6] Decisions

Failure of brakes to operate on newly purchased tractor as sufficient basis for inference that brakes were defective at time of delivery of vehicle and that reasonable inspection would have discovered defect. McNeal v. Greenberg (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 740, 745, 255 P.2d 810

Supplier of scaffold as liable for injuries resulting from defect therein when there is breach of duty to use ordinary care in supplying equipment. Hyde v. Russell & Russell, Inc. (1959) 176 Cal. App. 2d 578, 582-583, 1 Cal. Rptr. 631

[7] Cross References

For forms and discussion involving products liability, see Ch. 460, Products Liability

See also Comments and References to §§ 413.310, 413.315.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.317

§ 413.317 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Breach of Personal Property Lease--By Lessee (Hirer) Against Lessor (Letter)--Covenant of Quiet Enjoyment [Civ. Code §§ 1927, 1955]

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Breach of Personal Property Lease--By Lessee (Hirer) Against Lessor (Letter)--Covenant of Quiet Enjoyment [Civ. Code §§ 1927, 1955]

[Caption. See § 413.310.]

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 413.315, Paragraph 1.]

[2. Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.310, Paragraph 3.]

[3. Agency allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.310, Paragraph 4.]

4. On _____ [date], at _____ [city], _____ County, California, plaintiff and defendant entered into _____ [an oral or a written] agreement by which plaintiff leased from defendant a _____ [describe thing leased, e.g., tractor], for _____ [the period between _____ (date) and _____ (date) or a period of _____ [specify, e.g., six months] for which plaintiff agreed to pay defendant _____ [a total rental of $_____ or the sum of $_____ (per _____ [specify, e.g., month]) as rental or a reasonable rental]. [Attached hereto marked Exhibit "A" and made a part hereof is a copy of that agreement.]

5. By the terms of the agreement defendant undertook to secure to plaintiff the quiet possession of the _____ [describe thing leased, e.g., tractor] during the term of the lease against all persons lawfully claiming the same.

[6. Plaintiff leased the _____ (describe thing leased, e.g., tractor) from defendant to use it _____ (describe purpose, e.g., in the performance of certain construction work plaintiff had contracted to do). Defendant knew that this was the purpose for which plaintiff leased the _____ (describe thing leased, e.g., tractor)].

7. Pursuant to the agreement, on _____ [date], plaintiff took possession of the _____ [describe thing leased, e.g., tractor], and endeavored to use it pursuant to the agreement.

8. Plaintiff was not able to use or possess the _____ [describe thing leased, e.g., tractor], but on and after _____ [date], was prevented from doing so by _____ [describe act interfering with or preventing quiet enjoyment of subject of lease, e.g., the seizure of the _____ (describe thing leased, e.g., tractor) pursuant to a writ of execution against defendant, as judgment creditor].

9. As a result of defendant's failure to secure to plaintiff the quiet possession of the _____ [describe thing leased, e.g., tractor] during the term of the lease, plaintiff _____ [describe damages, e.g., had to lease another tractor at a cost of $_____].

[10. As a further result of defendant's failure to secure to plaintiff the quiet possession of the _____ (describe thing leased, e.g., tractor), and the damage caused thereby and substitute lease made necessary thereby, plaintiff lost the use of the _____ (describe thing leased, e.g., tractor) for a period of _____ (number) days while a replacement was being sought. The reasonable value of the use of the _____ (describe thing leased, e.g., tractor) to plaintiff was and is the sum of $_____ per day. The period of _____ (number) days was a reasonable period within which to find and obtain possession of a replacement. As a result of the loss of use plaintiff was further damaged in the sum of $_____ during the period after plaintiff lost possession of the _____ (describe thing leased, e.g., tractor) and before a replacement was obtained, representing net income lost on the contracts under which plaintiff was obligated to others.]

[Prayer. See § 413.310.]

_____ [signature]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 413.310.]

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use by a lessee or hirer in an action against a lessor or letter to recover damages for the breach of contract occasioned by the lessor's or letter's failure to perform its covenant of quiet enjoyment [Civ. Code §§ 1927, 1955].

[3] Allegations

This form alleges:

- The formation of the agreement (Paragraph 4).
- The covenant of quiet enjoyment (Paragraph 5) [Civ. Code §§ 1927, 1955].

- That plaintiff took possession of the property (Paragraph 7).

- That plaintiff was deprived of possession and/or use of the property in a manner that was a breach of the covenant of quiet enjoyment (Paragraph 8).

- Plaintiff's damages (Paragraphs 9 and 10). Paragraphs 6 and 10 are optional and may be used to allege any consequential damages [see Civ. Code § 3300].

[4] Caption

The caption in see § 413.310 may be adapted for use in the foregoing form by changing the statutes cited beneath the title of the form to Civ. Code §§ 1927, 1955, 3300.

[5] State Statutes

Warranty of quiet possession. Civ. Code § 1927

Lessor's duty to secure quiet possession. Civ. Code § 1955

[6] Text References

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 13, Personal Property, §§ 187, 188 (10th ed. 2005)

[7] Cross References

See also Comments and References to § 413.310.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.318

§ 413.318 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Breach of Personal Property Lease--By Lessee (Hirer) Against Lessor (Letter)--Recovery of Cost of Necessary Repairs [Civ. Code § 1957]--Property Restored to Operation

[1] FORM Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Breach of Personal Property Lease--By Lessee (Hirer) Against Lessor (Letter)--Recovery of Cost of Necessary Repairs [Civ. Code § 1957]--Property Restored to Operation

[Caption. See § 413.310.]

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 413.315, Paragraph 1.]

[2. Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.310, Paragraph 3.]

[3. Agency allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.310, Paragraph 4.]

4. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff leased from defendant a _____ [describe personal property, e.g., backhoe] to be used in certain construction work being done by plaintiff.

5. Immediately after plaintiff took possession of the _____ [describe personal property, e.g., backhoe], plaintiff discovered that it was defective and in a state of disrepair to the extent that it would not perform the work for which it was leased.

6. Plaintiff immediately advised defendant of the unfitness of the _____ [describe personal property, e.g., backhoe] and demanded that it be repaired, but defendant failed and refused to do so.

7. Plaintiff undertook to and did make the repairs necessary to make the _____ [describe personal property, e.g., backhoe] suitable for the purpose for which it was leased and in so doing expended the sum of $_____.

8. Thereafter plaintiff demanded reimbursement of that sum from defendant, but defendant has at all times refused to pay the sum, or any amount, to plaintiff.

9. Because of defendant's failure to pay for the cost of the repairs, or to repair the _____ [describe personal property, e.g., backhoe], plaintiff has been damaged in the sum of $_____.

[10. Consequential damages. See § 413.317, Paragraph 10.]

[Prayer. See § 413.310.]

_____ [signature]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 413.310.]

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use by a lessee or hirer in an action against a lessor or letter for damages for breach of a personal property lease occasioned by defendant's failure to repair the chattel rented and refusal to reimburse plaintiff for the costs of necessary repairs [Civ. Code § 1957].

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges:

- That plaintiff leased the chattel from defendant and the purpose for which plaintiff leased it (Paragraph 4).
- Plaintiff's discovery of the chattel's unfitness (Paragraph 5).
- That plaintiff notified defendant of the problem and demanded that defendant repair it (Paragraph 6) [see Civ. Code § 1957].
- Defendant's refusal or failure to make the repairs (Paragraph 6) [see Civ. Code § 1957].
- That plaintiff made the necessary repairs (Paragraph 7).
- That plaintiff demanded reimbursement from defendant (Paragraph 8) [see Civ. Code § 1957].
- Defendant's failure or refusal to reimburse plaintiff (Paragraph 8).
- Plaintiff's damages (Paragraphs 9 and 10).

[4] Caption

The caption in see § 413.310 may be adapted for use in this form by changing the statutes cited beneath the title of the form to Civ. Code §§ 1957, 3300.

[5] State Statutes

Lessor's duty of fitness. Civ. Code § 1955

Reimbursement of lessee advancing amount necessary to cover lessor's default. Civ. Code § 1957

[6] Decisions

Sole remedy for breach of warranty provided for in Civ. Code § 1955 (duties of lessor), in cases involving unfitness of chattel to perform work or purpose for which leased, as that contained in Civ. Code § 1957. Holmes Packaging Mach. Corp. v. Bingham (1967) 252 Cal. App. 2d 862, 869, 60 Cal. Rptr. 769

Hirer who repairs chattel without first giving letter chance to do so and who pays rent for period during which it lost use of thing hired while repairs were being made as waiving any claim to compensation for "down time" during repairs. Rackliff v. Coronet Construction Co. (1958) 157 Cal. App. 2d 419, 425-426, 321 P.2d 50

[7] Cross References

See also Comments and References to §§ 413.310, 413.313.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.319

§ 413.319 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Breach of Personal Property Lease--By Lessee (Hirer) Against Lessor (Letter)--Recovery of Cost of Necessary Repairs [Civ. Code § 1957]--Property Not Restored to Operation

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Breach of Personal Property Lease--By Lessee (Hirer) Against Lessor (Letter)--Recovery of Cost of Necessary Repairs [Civ. Code § 1957]--Property Not Restored to Operation

[Caption. See § 413.310.]

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 413.315, Paragraph 1.]

[2. Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.310, Paragraph 3.]

[3. Agency allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.310, Paragraph 4.]

4. On or about _____ [date], at _____ [city], _____ County, California, plaintiff leased from defendant a _____ [describe personal property leased, e.g., crane] for _____ [describe purpose of hiring, e.g., moving, lifting, and loading material at _____ (name) shipyard].

5. Plaintiff on or about that date caused the _____ [describe personal property leased, e.g., crane] to be removed from defendant's place of business at _____ [city], _____ County, California, to the _____ [e.g., shipyard] for use.

6. Immediately after moving the _____ [describe personal property leased, e.g., crane] to the site of the operation, plaintiff [through his agents and employees], endeavored to put it in operation. The _____ [describe personal property leased, e.g., crane] at all times failed to operate properly. After giving defendant notice and opportunity to repair, and on request of defendant, plaintiff made repeated efforts to repair _____ [describe personal property leased, e.g., crane] in order to make it operate properly.

7. Plaintiff expended the approximate sum of $_____ in time and materials in his or her attempt to put the _____ [describe personal property leased, e.g., crane] in operation. Despite plaintiff's efforts, the _____ [describe personal property leased, e.g., crane] was in such a condition of disrepair that it would still not operate properly, so that it had to be removed from the job site at which it was rented to perform. [This removal was made on orders of the contractor supervising the work.]

8. Plaintiff has been damaged in the sum of $_____ for the time and materials expended as aforesaid.

[Prayer. See § 413.310.]

_____ [signature]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 413.310.]

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use by a lessee/hirer in an action against a lessor/letter for damages for the breach of a personal property lease occasioned by defendant's failure to maintain the chattel in a proper state of repair, and when plaintiff has expended sums of money in unsuccessfully attempting to repair the chattel [see Civ. Code § 1957].

[3] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 413.310, 413.313, and 413.318.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.320

§ 413.320 Affirmative Defense--Repairs Necessitated by Misuse of Bailed Chattel [Civ. Code § 1930]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Repairs Necessitated by Misuse of Bailed Chattel [Civ. Code § 1930]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges that:

When plaintiff removed the _____ [describe object leased, e.g., crane] from defendant's place of business it operated properly and was in a condition of good repair; and if it later failed to operate properly or later came into a state of disrepair, this failure to operate properly and state of disrepair were wholly caused by the careless, negligent, and improper use and treat ment of the _____ [describe object leased, e.g., crane] by the plaintiff.

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense is for use in an answer to a complaint by a lessee/hirer against a lessor/letter for recovery of the cost of repairs. The lessor alleges in the answer that the repairs were necessitated by the lessee's misuse of the bailed chattel [see Civ. Code § 1930].

[3] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 413.310, 413.313, 413.318 -413.319.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.321

§ 413.321 Affirmative Defense--Repairs Incidental to Use of Leased Chattel [Civ. Code § 1956]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Repairs Incidental to Use of Leased Chattel [Civ. Code § 1956]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges that:

If any work was done and time and materials used, or any of them furnished in connection with the use of the _____ [describe property leased, e.g., crane], they were of a minor nature, and only as incidental maintenance and service that is reasonably consequent in the normal use of that equipment. [Plaintiff agreed to perform all incidental maintenance and servicing of the _____ (describe property leased, e.g., crane) at his/her own cost and expense.]

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense is for use in an answer to a complaint by a lessee against a lessor for recovery of the cost of repairs. The lessor alleges in the answer that the repairs were merely incidental to the use of the bailed chattel, and thus the responsibility of the lessee [see Civ. Code § 1956].

[3] State Statutes

Lessee's liability for ordinary expense in connection with use of bailed property. Civ. Code § 1956

[4] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 413.310, 413.313, 413.318 -413.319.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Bailments For Hire

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 413.322-413.339

[Reserved]

§§ 413.322[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART IV. FORMS
B. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.340

§ 413.340 Complaint for Recovery of Rent and of Security Paid [Com. Code § 10508(a)(2)] and for Damages [Com. Code §§ 10508(a)(3), 10518-10520]--By Lessee Against Lessor--After Lessee's Rightful Rejection of Defective Goods [Com. Code §§ 10509-10514]

[1] FORM Complaint for Recovery of Rent and of Security Paid [Com. Code § 10508(a)(2)] and for Damages [Com. Code §§ 10508(a)(3), 10518-10520]--By Lessee Against Lessor--After Lessee's Rightful Rejection of Defective Goods [Com. Code §§ 10509-10514]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
[doing business under the fictitious name of	)
_____ (name),]	)	NO. _____
Plaintiff,	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
vs.	)	[Amount demanded _____
_____ [name],	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
[a corporation,]	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
[and DOES I through _____,]	)
Defendant(s).	)
	)

Plaintiff alleges:

[1. Plaintiff is, and at all times herein mentioned was, an individual residing in _____ County, California and therein doing business doing under the fictitious name of _____ (name), and, with respect to that name, has filed the statement and published the notice as required by Sections 17910 through 17919 of the Business and Professions Code (or allege other capacity and residence of plaintiff as appropriate).]

[2. At all times herein mentioned, defendant _____ (name) is, and was, a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the state of _____(, authorized to transact, and transacting, intrastate business in California), with its principal place of business (in California) in _____ County (or allege other capacity and residence of defendant as appropriate).]

[3. Plaintiff is ignorant of the true names and capacities of defendant sued herein as DOES I through _____, and therefore sues these defendants by those fictitious names. Plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained. (Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of such fictitiously named defendants is responsible in some manner for the occurrences herein alleged, and that plaintiff's injuries as herein alleged were proximately caused by the acts or omissions of each of them.)]

[4. At all times herein mentioned, defendants DOES I through _____ were the agents, servants, and employees of their codefendants, and in doing the things hereinafter alleged were acting in the scope of their authority as agents, servants, and employees, and with the permission and consent of their codefendants.]

[5. Plaintiff is a merchant engaged in the _____ (describe type of goods that are subject of lease and plaintiff's status in dealing with them as buyer, seller, lessor, or lessee, e.g., retail sale and lease of computer equipment).]

[6. Defendant is a merchant engaged in _____ (specify type of business and type of good, e.g., the development, manufacture, sale, and lease of computer hardware and software for business, governmental, and personal applications).]

7. On _____ [date], plaintiff and defendant entered into a written agreement for the lease of _____ [specify type of goods, e.g., one mainframe and 23 desktop computers, and software] for an initial lease term of _____ [specify time period, e.g., three years], commencing on _____ [date]. A copy of the lease agreement is attached as Exhibit "A" and made a part of this complaint. That lease agreement required _____ [describe method of shipment or delivery and any special provision in the contract specifying what constitutes acceptance, e.g., defendant to deliver and install the computers and the software at plaintiff's place of business and to make one of its representatives available for three business days after delivery for testing and instructional purposes. Delivery under the contract was not to occur until the completion of successful installation and testing of the equipment and software]. The only performance required of plaintiff under the lease agreement prior to _____ [state triggering event, e.g., completion of successful installation, testing, and instruction] was _____ [describe, e.g., the payment of the sum of $_____ to defendant as security and for the first month's rent].

[If lease involved is a consumer lease, ADD]

8. Plaintiff entered into the lease agreement with defendant to use the _____ [specify type of goods, e.g., security and alarm system] primarily for personal, family, or household purposes.

[CONTINUE]

9. Plaintiff performed all obligations that he/she/it was obligated to perform under the lease agreement [prior to _____ (relevant time, usually time lessee discovered lessor's default, e.g., discovery of the defects in the goods)] in that on _____ [date], plaintiff _____ [allege facts showing plaintiff's performance, e.g., paid defendant the sum of $_____ as security and for the first month's rent].

10. On or about _____ [date], defendant _____ [allege facts showing delivery or nondelivery and describe nonconformity, e.g., delivered all the equipment and software to plaintiff's business premises, and installed it, but on testing, the equipment would not perform many of the functions it was required by the lease agreement to be capable of performing. Without the ability to perform those functions, the equipment could not be used by plaintiff for the purposes for which it was leased].

11. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff notified defendant _____ [show means of notification, e.g., by phone, and then by confirming letter dated _____ (date), a copy of which is attached hereto marked Exhibit "B" and made a part hereof,] of the defects described in Paragraph 10, specifically that _____ [describe defects with particularity required by Com. Code § 10514, e.g., the computers would not perform any of the bookkeeping and accounting functions; they could not be used to compose documents of more than 20 pages in length; and significant document damage occurred without explanation].

12. Defendant _____ [state whether or not defendant made any attempts to cure; describe any attempts by lessor to cure and extent of their failure, e.g., acknowledged the defects previously alleged, but after several attempts over a two-week period commencing one week after the delivery date specified in the lease agreement, failed to cure them within a reasonable time].

13. By _____ [show means of notification, e.g., letter dated _____ (date), a copy of which is attached hereto marked Exhibit "C" and made a part hereof], plaintiff notified defendant that plaintiff was invoking his/her/its right to reject the goods described in Paragraph 7 on the basis of the defects described in Paragraph 10 and defendant's failure to cure those defects or deliver substitute goods within a reasonable time.

[14. Plaintiff _____ (describe a merchant plaintiff's compliance with duties regarding rightfully rejected goods required by Com. Code § 10511(a) , e.g., received no instructions from defendant or any representative or agent of defendant with respect to the rejected goods in plaintiff's possession. Plaintiff had no duty to attempt in good faith to sell, lease, or otherwise dispose of those goods because they are not perishable and do not threaten to decline in value speedily).]

15. Plaintiff _____ [describe what plaintiff did with the goods and any proceeds of their disposition, e.g., stored the equipment for three weeks awaiting instructions from defendant. When no instruction were forthcoming, plaintiff disposed of the goods through a broker in goods of that kind. Plaintiff has retained the net proceeds on disposition as partial satisfaction its security interest].

[EITHER, if plaintiff covered by lease]

16. On _____ [date], [if plaintiff claims cover lease is substantially similar to original lease, add: in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner,] plaintiff entered into a new lease agreement with a third party for _____ [describe brand name, model number, capacity, weight, or other characteristics to be compared to determine substantial similarity or commercially reasonable substitute. If lease of same goods was not possible, continue with explanation, e.g., 23 IBM desktop computers, model 1200, two IBM 6300 mainframe computers, and accompanying software(. At the time of defendant's default, the computers that were the subject of the lease between plaintiff and defendant were the most advanced and "user friendly" models on the market. The IBM models were the most nearly comparable capacity)]. The new lease is for a term _____ [of _____ (specify, e.g., three years) or equal to the term of the lease between plaintiff and defendant] [, and contains _____ (the same options to renew or specify number and term, e.g, options to renew for a total of three more years)]. [The new lease contains an option to purchase.] The new lease commenced on _____ [date] and provides for rent of $_____ per _____ [specify interval, e.g., month].

[OR, if plaintiff covered by purchase]

16. On _____ [date], plaintiff entered into an agreement with a third party to purchase _____ [describe type and quantity of goods subject to purchased, e.g., a used mainframe computer and software] as [partial] cover for the goods described in Paragraph 7.

[OR, if plaintiff has not covered]

16. Plaintiff has not obtained substitute goods by lease or purchase or contract to purchase or otherwise.

[CONTINUE]

17. As a direct and proximate result of defendant's breach of the lease, plaintiff has suffered damages in the amount of $_____. _____ [That amount reflects expenses saved as a consequence of the default or Defendant's breach of the lease did not result in any saving of expenses to plaintiff].

[18. As a further direct result of defendant's breach of the lease, plaintiff was caused to incur the following commercially reasonable charges, expenses, and commissions (in connection with effecting cover and) incident to the default: _____ (list, e.g.,

Storage for 21 days	$_____
Transportation for substitute goods	$_____
Disposition commission	$_____
Total	$_____

_)]

[19. As a further direct result of defendant's breach of the lease, plaintiff suffered consequential loss and damage in the sum of $_____, representing _____ (describe, e.g., fees paid to outside contractors, until substitute goods were delivered, for the work that would have been done byplaintiff's employees if the leased goods had not been defective). Defendant knew at the time the lease agreement was executed that plaintiff _____ (specify, e.g., would have to make alternative arrangements to have these functions performed (until plaintiff obtained cover) if defendant did not deliver conforming goods by _____ (date)), and these expenditures could not reasonably be prevented.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

1. For actual damages in the sum of $_____;

2. For return of rent and security paid to defendant in the sum of $_____ [less $_____ realized on disposition of the goods];

[3. For incidental damages in the sum of $_____;]

[4. For consequential damages in the sum of $_____;]

5. For interest at the _____ [rate of _____ percent per annum or legal rate] on the sum of $_____ from and after _____ [date on which amount of damages was capable of being made certain or date on which action was filed, whichever is appropriate];

6. For costs of suit herein incurred [including reasonable attorney's fees as authorized by Section 1717 of the Civil Code]; and

7. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [signature]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 413.310.]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for damages and return of rent and security paid is for use by a lessee who has rightfully rejected nonconforming goods [Com. Code §§ 10508, 10509-10514, 10518-10520]. This complaint is only applicable if the lessee had not accepted the goods when he or she discovered their defects [see Com. Code § 10515 (acceptance occurs after lessee has had reasonable opportunity to inspect goods)]. Acceptance of goods by the lessee precludes resort to the remedy of rejection [Com. Code § 10516(b)]. For discussion of lessee's remedies with regard to accepted goods, see § 413.226; see also § 413.342.

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges (1) plaintiff's capacity to sue (Paragraph 1). This allegation is not necessary if plaintiff is a natural person who is not using a fictitious business name; but if plaintiff is a legal entity or is doing business under a fictitious name, failure to allege capacity to sue or compliance with Bus. & Prof. Code § 17910 et seq. is grounds for demurrer to the complaint [see Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(b); Rivers v. Beadle (1960)183 Cal. App. 2d 691, 700-701, 7 Cal. Rptr. 170 (fictitious name)]. Similarly, the allegation of (2) defendant's capacity and residence (Paragraph 2) may not be necessary if defendant is a natural person and defendant's residence or place of business is not used as the basis for venue [see Code Civ. Proc §§ 395(a), 395.5; see also § 413.310].

Also included are allegations regarding fictitious defendants and their agency relationship with the named defendant (Paragraphs 3, 4).

Paragraphs 5 and 6 are for use only if plaintiff or defendant, respectively, is a merchant with respect to goods of the kind subject to the lease [see Com. Code § 10103(a)(20)]. A lessee's status as a merchant may derive from its dealing in goods of the kind subject to the lease as lessor, lessee, seller, or buyer [U.C.C. Comment to Com. Code § 10103(a)(20)]. A merchant lessee has specific duties with respect to rejected goods [Com. Code §§ 10511(a), 10514(a)(2); see discussions in § 413.224[2] and [4]]. The lessor's status as merchant is mainly germane in the contexts of firm offers [ see Com. Code § 10205,; see § 413.71; see also § 413.346] and consumer leases.

If counsel uses optional Paragraph 8 to allege that the lease involved is a consumer lease, Paragraph 6 must also be used [see Com. Code § 10103(a)(5) (defining consumer lease as one from lessor regularly engaged in business of leasing or selling)]. A party who is a merchant is also charged with the amount of knowledge or skill particular to the practices or goods involved [Com. Code §§ 2104(1), 10103(c) (applicable definition of "merchant")].

This form then alleges:

- The execution of a written lease agreement and gives details pertinent to the goods involved and to any relevant provisions for delivery and acceptance (Paragraph 7) [see Com. Code § 10201(a)(1) (all consumer leases and other leases under which payments, excluding payments for options to renew or buy, total $1,000 or more must be in writing)].

- Plaintiff's performance and payment of rent and security (Paragraph 9) [see Com. Code § 10508(a)(2)].

- Delivery of nonconforming goods and discovery of the defects (Paragraph 10) [Com. Code § 10509(a); see Com. Code § 10510 (additional requirements for rightful rejection of nonconforming delivery under installment lease)].

- Plaintiff's seasonable notification to defendant of the existence of the defects, describing those defects in detail (Paragraph 11) [see Com. Code § 10514].

- Whether defendant made any attempt to cure the defects, and if so, the extent to which those attempts proved unsuccessful within a reasonable period of time (Paragraph 12) [see Com. Code §§ 10510, 10513].

- Plaintiff's seasonable notification to defendant of its rejection of the nonconforming goods (Paragraph 13) [see Com. Code §§ 10509, 10510].

Paragraph 14, alleging compliance with instructions or disposal of perishable goods, will only be necessary if plaintiff is a merchant in goods of the kinds subject to the lease, but it must be modified if the goods involved are perishable [see Com. Code § 10511(a)]. Paragraph 15 describes what plaintiff did with the rejected goods and any proceeds from their disposition [see Com. Code §§ 10508(e), 10511(b), (c), 10512, 10527(e)].

Alternative Paragraphs 16 allege whether or not plaintiff arranged for substitute goods, and if so, what those arrangements were. The decision to cover is a commercial judgment, not a statutory mandate [see Com. Code § 10503(b) (remedies optional unless expressly stated otherwise); see also Com. Code § 10518(a), Official UCC Comment]. Whether a cover lease is substantially similar is ultimately a question of fact [see U.C.C. Comment to Com. Code § 10518(b) (discussed in § 413.340[6])].

Paragraph 17 alleges plaintiff's actual damages. If plaintiff covered by a qualifying substantially similar lease, actual damages will be the present value, as of the date of commencement of the new lease, of the rent under the new lease agreement applicable to that period of the new lease term that is comparable to the then-remaining term of the original lease agreement minus the present value as of the same date of the total rent for the then remaining term of the original lease [Com. Code § 10518(b)]. In all other situations, or if plaintiff elects that measure, actual damages will be the present value, as of the date of default, of the difference between the then market rent and the original rent, computed for the remaining term of the original lease. Market rent is determined as of the place for tender, or in the case of rejection after arrival or revocation of acceptance, as of the place of arrival [see Com. Code §§ 10518(c) (election), 10519(a), (b) (formula)]. For purposes of calculating damages pursuant to Com. Code § 10519(a), the date of default must be distinguished from the date of an event of default. An event of default under a lease agreement becomes a default only after the expiration of any relevant time period and compliance with any notice requirements imposed by Division 10 or the lease agreement [Com. Code § 10519(a), Official UCC Comment]. Similarly, it must be determined whether, as a matter of fact or law, the event of default was waived, cured, or suspended [Com. Code § 10519(a), Official UCC Comment]. Because the determination whether a cover lease is substantially similar is a question of fact [see Com. Code § 10518(b), Official UCC Comment (discussed in § 413.340[6])], if plaintiff covered by lease and there is some question whether it will be held substantially similar or not, the amount of actual damages alleged should be based on the measure that will result in the greater recovery.

Paragraphs 18 and 19 allege plaintiff's incidental and consequential damages, respectively [see Com. Code § 10520]. Paragraphs 17-19 may be inappropriate in a particular case if the lease agreement involved has a liquidated damage provision or limits consequential damages [see Com. Code §§ 10503(c), 10504 (see §§ 413.193 and 413.194)].

If the claim is payable in a foreign currency, or calculable by conversion to or from a foreign currency, additional allegations should be added setting forth that fact. Otherwise, the claim is made in United States dollars [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.6(a); for discussion of and a form for a judgment applicable to the Uniform Foreign-Money Claims Act (Code Civ. Proc. § 676 et seq.), see Ch. 177, Damages , and Ch. 318, Judgments].

[4] "Discovery" and "Notify" Defined

The general definitions and principles of construction and interpretation in Division 1 (Com. Code § 1101 et seq.) apply throughout Division 10 [Com. Code § 10103(d)].

"Discover" or "learn" or a word or phrase of similar import refers to knowledge rather than to reason to know. A person "knows" or has "knowledge" of a fact when he or she has actual knowledge of it [Com. Code § 1202(b), (c)]. A person has "notice" of a fact when any of the following occurs [Com. Code § 1202(a)]:

- He or she has actual knowledge of it;
- He or she has received a notice or notification of it; or
- From all the facts and circumstances known to him or her at the time in question, he or she has reason to know that it exists.

A person "notifies" or "gives" a notice or notification to another by taking such steps as may be reasonably required to inform the other in ordinary course whether or not the other actually comes to know of it [Com. Code § 1202(d)]. A person "receives" a notice or notification either when (a) it comes to his or her attention, or when (b) it is duly delivered at the place of business through which the contract was made or at any other place held out by him or her as the place for receipt of such communications [Com. Code § 1202(e); see also Com. Code § 1202(f) (receipt of notice by person within organization who is conducting particular transaction)].

[5] Limitations on Choice of Venue in Consumer Lease

If a consumer lease is involved, a judicial forum chosen by the parties to that lease is not enforceable unless it is in a county in which (1) the lessee in factsigned the lease, (2) the lessee resides at the commencement of the action or resided at the time the lease contract became enforceable,or (3) the goods are permanently stored [Com. Code § 10106(b); see also § 413.310 for discussion of other venue requirements of consumer protection statutes].

[6] Substantially Similar Lease

The term "substantially similar lease" is not defined in Division 10. Whether or not a lease is substantially similar must be determined on a case by case basis from the totality of the circumstances. Factors for comparison include (1) the term of the new lease; (2) the presence or absence of options to purchase or renew; (3) the lessor's representations, warranties, and covenants to the lessee, as well as those provided by the lessee to the lessor; and (4) the services, if any, to be provided by the lessor or by the lessee. All these factors allocate cost and risk between the lessor and the lessee and thus affect the amount of rent to be paid [U.C.C. Comment to Com. Code §§ 10518(b), 10527(b)]. In the case of a lessee seeking cover, the similarity of the goods must also be considered. If the same goods are not available for lease in the market place, for instance because lessor's equipment was the most modern of its type at the time of default, a new lease of a commercially reasonable substitute could still qualify as substantially similar [U.C.C. Comment to Com. Code § 10518(b)].

The goods and each element of the agreement are not to be compared separately. Rather, after examining the similarity of the goods and the agreement, and taking the factors as a whole, the finding of whether a lease is substantially similar is to be made, not with scientific precision, but as a function of economics and a sense of commercial judgment [U.C.C. Comment to Com. Code §§ 10518(b), 10527(b)].

[7] Statute of Limitations

An action for default under a lease contract, including breach of warranty or indemnity, must be commenced within four years after the cause of action accrued [Com. Code § 10506(a)]. In a lease contract that is not a consumer lease, by the original lease contract the parties may reduce the period of limitation to not less than one year [Com. Code § 10506(a)]. A cause of action for default accrues when the act or omission on which the default or breach of warranty is based is or should have been discovered by the aggrieved party, or when the default occurs, whichever is later [Com. Code § 10506(b)].

Com. Code § 10506 does not alter the law on tolling of the statute of limitations, nor does it apply to causes of action that have accrued before January 1, 1990, the operative date of Division 10 [Com. Code § 10506(d); Stats. 1988, ch. 1368, § 18; see Stats. 1988, ch. 1359, § 11 (operative date)].

[8] State Statutes

Requirements for discharge, in whole or in part, of claim or right arising out of an alleged default without consideration. Com. Code § 10107

Determining whether default exists. Com. Code § 10501(a)

Lease contract as permitted to vary remedies available under Division 10. Com. Code §§ 10501(b), 10503(a)

Various remedies available. Com. Code §§ 10501(c), 10503(d), 10505(d)

Remedies as cumulative and optional. Com. Code §§ 10501(d), 10503(b)

Remedies as governed by agreement and Division 10. Com. Code § 10503(a)

Permissible limitations on damages. Com. Code § 10503(c)

Liquidated damages. Com. Code § 10504(a), (b)

Lessee's right of reimbursement for justified nondelivery. Com. Code § 10504(c), (d)

Right of parties on cancellation, termination, or rescission. Com. Code § 10505

Statute of limitations. Com. Code § 10506

Market rent. Com. Code § 10507

Lessee's remedies for failure to deliver conforming goods or repudiation. Com. Code § 10508(a), (b), (e), (f)

Lessee's remedies for breach of warranty. Com. Code §§ 10508(d), 10519(d)

Lessee's security interest in rejected goods or goods with respect to which acceptance has been revoked. Com. Code § 10508(e)

Requirements for lessee's rejection; lessee's duties with respect to rejected goods. Com. Code §§ 10509-10512, 10514

Lessor's right to cure. Com. Code § 10513

Lessee as required to pay for goods accepted in accordance with lease contract with due allowance for goods rightfully rejected or not delivered. Com. Code § 10516(a)

Acceptance of goods as precludes their rejection. Com. Code § 10516(b)

Cover. Com. Code § 10518

Lessee's measure of damages; incidental and consequential damages. Com. Code §§ 10519, 10520

[9] Cross References

For discussion and forms relating to the Division 2 provisions from which the Division 10 provisions were mainly derived, see Ch. 500, Sales: Sales Under the Commercial Code .

See also Comments and References to §§ 413.310 and 413.341.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART IV. FORMS
B. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.341

§ 413.341 Complaint for Recovery of Rent and of Security Paid [Com. Code § 10508(a)(2)] and for Damages [Com. Code §§ 10508(a)(3), 10518-10520]--By Lessee Against Lessor--After Lessor's Repudiation [Com. Code § 10402]

[1] FORM Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Recovery of Rent and of Security Paid [Com. Code § 10508(a)(2)] and for Damages [Com. Code §§ 10508(a)(3), 10518-10520]--By Lessee Against Lessor--After Lessor's Repudiation [Com. Code § 10402]

[Caption. See § 413.340.]

Plaintiff alleges:

[1. Capacity and residence of plaintiff, if necessary. See § 413.340, Paragraph 1.]

[2. Capacity and residence of defendant, if necessary. See § 413.340, Paragraph 2.]

[3. Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.340, Paragraph 3.]

[4. Agency allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.340, Paragraph 4.]

[5. Plaintiff's status as merchant with respect to kind of goods that are subject of lease. See § 413.340, Paragraph 5.]

[6. Defendant's status as merchant with respect to kind of goods that are subject of lease. See § 413.340, Paragraph 6.]

7. [Formation of lease and relevant obligations of each party. See § 413.340, Paragraph 7].

8. [Plaintiff's performance. See § 413.340, Paragraph 8].

9. On or about _____ [date], defendant _____ [allege facts showing defendant's repudiation, e.g., informed plaintiff by telephone that it would not deliver the goods in accordance with the lease].

[10. On or about _____ (date), plaintiff _____ (state means of communication, e.g., spoke with defendant's _____ (title and name of person) by phone, and then sent the letter dated _____ (date), a copy of which is attached hereto marked Exhibit "B" and made a part hereof,) _____ (urging defendant to retract its repudiation and/or notifying defendant that plaintiff would await defendant's performance).]

[11. On or about _____ (date), by _____ (show means of notification, e.g., letter dated _____ (date), a copy of which is attached hereto marked Exhibit "B" and made a part hereof,) plaintiff demanded that defendant supply adequate assurances that defendant would perform its obligations under the lease in a timely manner. (Defendant acknowledged receipt of Exhibit "B" on _____ (date). A copy of the signed acknowledgment is attached hereto marked Exhibit "C" and made a part hereof.)]

[12. On or about _____ (date), (by the letter dated _____ (date), a copy of which is attached hereto marked Exhibit "D" and made a part hereof,) plaintiff notified defendant that plaintiff was cancelling the lease because of defendant's repudiation (and failure to provide adequate assurances).]

13. [Other actions taken by plaintiff to cover or not. See § 413.340, alternative Paragraphs 16].

14. [Damages calculated under Com. Code § 10518(b) or Com. Code § 10519. See § 413.340, Paragraph 17].

[15. Incidental damages. See § 413.340, Paragraph 18.]

[16. Consequential damages. See § 413.340, Paragraph 19.]

[Prayer. See § 413.340.]

_____ [signature]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 413.310.]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for damages and recovery of rent and security paid is for use by a lessee after the lessor has repudiated the lease agreement [Com. Code §§ 10402, 10508, 10518-10520]. The measure of damage (Paragraph 14) will vary depending on whether plaintiff covered by substantially similar lease, or did not cover or covered other than by a substantially similar lease, or just choose the "market" measure of damages (Paragraph 13) [Com. Code §§ 10518-10519].

This form is not applicable if the lease involved is a consumer lease, because the rights and remedies of the parties to a consumer lease in connection with a repudiation of that lease are determined under other laws, and Com. Code § 10402 shall not affect the applicability or interpretation of those laws [Com. Code § 10402(b); see § 413.51[3]].

[3] Caption

The caption from see § 413.340 may be used in this complaint, except that the statutes cited in the brackets beneath the title of the form must be changed to Com. Code §§ 10508, 10518-10520, 10402.

[4] Allegations

Paragraph 9 alleges defendant lessor's repudiation of the lease [see Com. Code § 10402]. This gives the plaintiff lessee several options, including (1) waiting for retraction of the repudiation and the lessor's performance (Paragraph 10); (2) demanding adequate assurance pursuant to Com. Code § 10401 and awaiting assurance of future performance adequate under the circumstances of the particular case (Paragraph 11); or (3) resorting to any right or remedy for default under the lease contract or Division 10 (Paragraphs 12-13) [see Com. Code § 10505 (rights of parties after cancellation)], even though the aggrieved party has notified the repudiating partythat the aggrieved party would await the repudiating party's performance and assurance and has urged retraction [Com. Code § 10402(a); see § 413.17[1]].

[5] Modification for Lessor's Revocation of Firm Offer

By using Paragraph 6, deleting Paragraphs 7-9, and replacing them with Paragraphs 3-5 and 8 of see § 413.346, this form may be modified for use when a merchant lessor has revoked a firm offer [Com. Code § 10205; see also Comments and References to see § 413.346]. Paragraphs 7 and 9 of see § 413.346 (regarding acceptance, commencement of performance, or detrimental reliance) may or may not be appropriate in a particular situation [see § 413.346].

[6] State Statutes

"Cancellation" defined. Com. Code § 10103(a)(2)

Waiver or renunciation of rights after default. Com. Code § 10107

Modification, rescission, and waiver. Com. Code § 10208

Right to assurances. Com. Code § 10401

Anticipatory repudiation; retraction of anticipatory repudiation. Com. Code §§ 10402, 10403

Determining whether default exists. Com. Code § 10501(a)

Various remedies available. Com. Code §§ 10501(c), 10503(d), 10505(d)

Right of parties on cancellation, termination, or rescission. Com. Code § 10505

Remedies as generally not barred by rescission, rejection, or return. Com. Code § 10505(e)

Lessee's remedies for rejected goods or repudiation. Com. Code § 10508(a), (b), (f)

[7] Cross References

See also Comments and References to §§ 413.310 and 413.340.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART IV. FORMS
B. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.342

§ 413.342 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Recovery of Rent and of Security Paid [Com. Code § 10508(a)(2)] and for Damages [Com. Code §§ 10508(a)(3), 10518-10520]--By Lessee Against Lessor--After Lessee's Justifiable Revocation of Acceptance [Com. Code §§ 10515-10517]

[1] FORM Complaint for Recovery of Rent and of Security Paid [Com. Code § 10508(a)(2)] and for Damages [Com. Code §§ 10508(a)(3), 10518-10520]--By Lessee Against Lessor--After Lessee's Justifiable Revocation of Acceptance [Com. Code §§ 10515-10517]

[Caption. See § 413.340.]

Plaintiff alleges:

[1. Capacity and residence of plaintiff, if necessary. See § 413.340, Paragraph 1.]

[2. Capacity and residence of defendant, if necessary. See § 413.340, Paragraph 2.]

[3. Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.340, Paragraph 3.]

[4. Agency allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.340, Paragraph 4.]

[5. Plaintiff's status as merchant with respect to kind of goods that are subject of lease. See § 413.340, Paragraph 5.]

[6. Defendant's status as merchant with respect to kind of goods that are subject of lease. See § 413.340, Paragraph 6.]

7. [Formation of lease and relevant obligations of each party. See § 413.340, Paragraph 7].

[8. Consumer lease. See § 413.340, Paragraph 8.]

[9. This lease is a "finance lease" within the meaning of Section 10103(a)(7) of the Commercial Code in that defendant neither selected, manufactured, nor supplied the goods, and acquired the goods or the right to possession and use of the goods in connection with the lease. In addition, _____ (complete with applicable alternative under Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)(C), e.g., plaintiff selected the supplier and directed defendant to purchase the goods from the supplier; defendant informed plaintiff in writing that she may have rights under the contract evidencing defendant's purchase of the goods, and advised plaintiff in writing to contact the supplier for a description of any such rights). (If true for consumer finance lease involved, continue: The supplier _____ (assisted in the preparation of the lease contract and/or participated in negotiating the terms of the lease contract with defendant).)]

10. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff accepted the _____ [specify type of goods, e.g., bus] at _____ [place of arrival, e.g., defendant's plant in Fresno, California].

[EITHER, if lease is not a finance lease (other than a consumer finance lease in which supplier assisted in preparing or participated in negotiating the lease contract) and lessee knew of nonconformity at time of acceptance, but accepted goods on reasonable assumption that nonconformity would be seasonably cured (see Com. Code §§ 10516(b), 10517(a)(1))]

11. When plaintiff took delivery of the _____ [specify type of goods, e.g., bus], he/she/it knew that the gas tank leaked, but plaintiff accepted delivery because _____ [describe basis for reasonable assumption that nonconformity would be seasonably cured e.g., defendant told plaintiff that defendant would repair the leak free of charge if plaintiff would bring the bus in to defendant's service department any time within the following two weeks. Plaintiff has purchased or leased several buses from defendant over a six-year period and defendant had always corrected problems that arose on or shortly after delivery without charging plaintiff for the repairs. Plaintiff assumed defendant's conduct with respect to this leak would conform to its past practice].

[OR, if lessee did not know of nonconformity at time of acceptance because acceptance was reasonably induced by lessor's assurances (see Com. Code § 10517(a)(2))]

11. Plaintiff did not make an inspection of the _____ [specify type of goods, e.g., bus] prior to accepting it. Plaintiff did not make any inspection because _____ [state reason, e.g., defendant assured plaintiff the bus had been inspected by defendant's personnel the day before and was free of any defects].

[OR, if lease is not a finance lease and lessee did not know of nonconformity at time of acceptance because of difficulty of discovering it (see Com. Code § 10517(a)(2))]

11. At the time of acceptance, plaintiff made a reasonable inspection of the _____ [specify type of goods, e.g., bus]. The inspection consisted of _____ [describe, e.g., driving the bus on city streets and highways for approximately 30 minutes]. No defects, malfunctions, or abnormalities were apparent from the inspection].

[OR, if lessor defaulted under the lease contract and the default substantially impaired the value of that lot or commercial unit to the lessee (see Com. Code § 10517(b))]

11. On or about _____ [date of notice of revocation alleged in Paragraph 17], defendant defaulted under the lease contract in that _____ [describe act(s) constituting default, including contract provision(s) violated].

[AND/OR, if lease agreement provides for revocation because of other defaults by lessor (see Com. Code § 10517(c))]

12. The lease contract provides that plaintiff may revoke acceptance of the _____ [describe good(s) subject to lease, e.g., bus] because of the defendant's default as follows: _____ [state specific contract provision(s) permitting plaintiff to revoke acceptance because of certain defaults of lessor]. On or about _____ [date of notice of revocation alleged in Paragraph 17], defendant defaulted under the lease contract in that _____ [describe act(s) constituting default, including contract provision(s) violated].

[CONTINUE]

[EITHER, if plaintiff discovered nonconformity and notified lessor, and if finance lease or supplier is involved]

13. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff _____ [describe nonconformity and plaintiff's discovery of it, e.g., filled the gas tank for the first time. The tank ruptured when it was filled]. [If not finance lease, add: On or about _____ (date), plaintiff notified defendant _____ (show means of notification, e.g., by letter, a copy of which is attached hereto marked Exhibit "B" and made a part hereof,) of the existence of the defect.] [If finance lease, add: On _____ (date), plaintiff also notified _____ (name of supplier) by _____ (show means of notification, e.g., letter, a copy of which is attached hereto marked Exhibit "B" and made a part hereof,) of the existence of the defect.]

[AND/OR]

14. [Defendant's failure to seasonably cure. See § 413.340, Paragraph 12.]

[CONTINUE]

15. The _____ [describe defect, e.g., weakness in the gas tank or other default] substantially impaired the value of the _____ [good(s) subject to lease, e.g., bus] to plaintiff, in that _____ [allege facts establishing that nonconformity or other default substantially impaired value, e.g., it made the bus unsafe and/or impossible to drive].

16. [Plaintiff's performance to this point. See § 413.340, Paragraph 9.]

17. On or about _____ [date of notice of revocation alleged in Paragraph 18], there had been no substantial change in the condition of the _____ [specify type of goods subject to lease, e.g., bus] compared to the condition it was in when plaintiff accepted it, other than that caused by the nonconformity, in that _____ [describe primary characteristics of substantially same condition or limited use of goods by plaintiff, e.g., it had only been driven at moderate speeds on city streets and highways for 350 miles].

18. By _____ [show means of notification, e.g., letter dated _____ (date), a copy of which is attached hereto marked Exhibit "C" and made a part hereof], plaintiff notified defendant that plaintiff was invoking his/her right to revoke acceptance of the _____ [specify type of goods, e.g., bus] [continue if goods were in defendant's possession: and informed defendant that plaintiff would not accept possession of the bus after defendant's latest attempt to repair it]. [Defendant acknowledged receipt of Exhibit "C" on _____ (date

). A copy of the signed acknowledgment is attached as Exhibit "D" and incorporated by reference]

[19. Merchant plaintiff's compliance with duties required by Com. Code § 10511(a). See § 413.340, Paragraph 14.]

20. [Plaintiff's disposition of goods and any proceeds of their disposition. See § 413.340, Paragraph 15].

21. [Whether or not plaintiff covered, and if so, how. See § 413.340, alternative Paragraphs 16].

22. [Plaintiff's actual damages. See § 413.340, Paragraph 17.]

[23. Incidental damages. See § 413.340, Paragraph 18.]

[24. Consequential damages. See § 413.340, Paragraph 19.]

[Prayer. See § 413.340.]

_____ [signature]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 413.310.]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for damages and return of rent and security paid is for use by a lessee who has justifiably revoked acceptance because of nonconforming goods or other default that substantially impairs the value of a lot or commercial unit to the lessee, or if the lease agreement so provides, for other defaults by the lessor [Com. Code §§ 10508, 10515-10520]. The lessee under a finance lease, other than a consumer finance lease that the supplier assisted in preparing or participated in negotiating (Paragraph 9), has only one ground for revocation of acceptance: that he or she did not know of the nonconformity at the time of acceptance because acceptance was reasonably induced by the lessor's assurances [see Com. Code §§ 10516(b), 10517(a)(2)]. The nonconformity referred to here is with respect to the lease agreement, as opposed to the supply contract [see Com. Code § 10516(b), Official UCC Comment]. If this ground exists for revocation of acceptance under a finance lease, revocation of acceptance is not prohibited by Com. Code § 10407, at least when the finance lease involved does not also create a security interest [Com. Code §§ 10407, 10516, Official UCC Comment (citing General Elec. Credit Corp. v. Ger-Beck Mach. Co. (3rd Cir. 1986) 806 F.2d 1207, 1208-1211 , with respect to possible exception when lease creates security interest); but see Com. Code § 10407(c) (validity of provision in lease barring revocation of acceptance)]. Limiting the right of a lessee under a finance lease to revoke acceptance to one ground is not considered inequitable because the lessee still has a direct claim against the supplier [see Com. Code § 10209(a);Comment to Com. Code § 10516(b)]. The lessee may also have a cause of action against the lessor based on other principles of law or equity, such as fraud, duress, and the like [see Com. Code § 1103(b), 10103(d); U.C.C. Comment to Com. Code § 10407]. More often, a lessee under a finance lease will prefer to pursue its remedies against the supplier for any defects in the leased goods [see § 413.345].

This form should not be used or should be modified if the lease agreement provides different remedies for nonconformity [see Com. Code §§ 10501(b), 10503(a), 10516(b)].

[3] Caption

The caption from see § 413.340 may be used in this complaint, except that the statutes cited in the brackets beneath the title of the form must be changed to Com. Code §§ 10508, 10515-10520.

[4] Allegations

See § 413.347 or the discussion in § 413.90 for discussion of what constitutes a finance lease.

In addition to the allegations incorporated by reference from see § 413.340, this complaint alleges:

- Plaintiff's acceptance of the goods (Paragraph 10) [see Com. Code § 10519(b) (market rent after revocation of acceptance is determined at place of arrival)]; and

- Whether or not plaintiff knew of the nonconformity at the time of acceptance (first alternative Paragraph 11) [Com. Code §§ 10516(b), 10517(a)(1)], and if not, why not (second and third alternative Paragraphs 11) [Com. Code § 10517(a)(2)]. If plaintiff did not discover the nonconformity until after acceptance.

Paragraph 12 should be used to allege discovery of the nonconformity and plaintiff's notification to the lessor, and, in the case of a finance lease, to the supplier, of the existence of the nonconformity [Com. Code § 10516(c)(1), (f); see Com. Code § 10103(a)(24); U.C.C. Comment to Com. Code § 10516(c)(1) (supplier is one from whom lessor buys or leases goods to be leased under finance lease; thus not all sellers or lessors of goods to be leased are required to be given notice of default as suppliers)]. If plaintiff revoked acceptance because of lessor's default under the lease contract, as opposed to accepting nonconforming goods, this complaint alleges that the lessor has defaulted under the lease contract (third alternative Paragraph 11) [Com. Code § 10517(b)]. If applicable, the complaintalso alleges that the lease agreement provides that lessee may revoke acceptance of a lot or commercial unit because of other defaults by the lessor (Paragraph 12) [Com. Code § 10517(c)].

This complaint also alleges:

- That the nonconformity or other default substantially impairs the value of the lease to the lessee (Paragraph 14) [Com. Code § 10517(a), (b)].

- That there had been no substantial change in the condition of the goods that is not caused by the nonconformity (Paragraph 16) [Com. Code § 10517(d)].

- The lessee's formal notification to the lessor of revocation (Paragraph 18) [Com. Code § 10517(d); see also § 413.340].

- A merchant lessee's duties with respect to the goods, which must be modified if the goods involved are perishable (Paragraph 19) [see Com. Code §§ 10511, 10512 (lessee's duties and options with respect to rejected goods), 10517(e) (lessee who revokes acceptance has same rights and duties with respect to goods involved as if lessee had rejected them)].

[5] State Statutes

Benefit of supplier's promises and warranties to lessor under supply contract inures to lessee under finance lease. Com. Code § 10209(a), (d)

When acceptance occurs. Com. Code § 10515(a)

Acceptance of part of commercial unit is acceptance of that entire unit. Com. Code § 10515(b)

Acceptance of goods under finance lease (other than consumer finance lease that supplier assisted in preparing or participated in negotiating) with knowledge of nonconformity bars revocation. Com. Code § 10516(b)

Acceptance made with knowledge of nonconformity under lease that is not finance lease is revocable if based on reasonable assumption that nonconformity would be seasonably cured. Com. Code § 10516(b)

Acceptance itself does not bar any other remedy provided by Division 10 or lease agreement for nonconformity. Com. Code § 10516(b)

Except under consumer lease, lessee who accepted tender is required to notify lessor and supplier with reasonable time after lessee discovers or should have discovered default, or else remedy against party not notified is barred. Com. Code § 10516(c)(1), (f); see Com. Code § 1202(c) (defining "discover")

Except under consumer lease, lessee who has accepted tender has burden of proving lessor's default. Com. Code § 10516(c)(3), (f)

Except in case of finance lease, lessee is entitled to revoke acceptance of lot or commercial unit whose nonconformity substantially impairs its value to lessee if acceptance was made on reasonable assumption that nonconformity would be seasonably cured and it has not been seasonably cured. Com. Code § 10517(a)(1)

Lessee is entitled to revoke acceptance of lot or commercial unit whose nonconformity substantially impairs its value to lessee if acceptance was made without discovery of nonconformity and was reasonably induced by lessor's assurances. Com. Code § 10517(a)(2)

Except in case of finance lease, lessee is entitled to revoke acceptance of lot or commercial unit whose nonconformity substantially impairs its value to lessee if acceptance was made without discovery of nonconformity and was reasonably induced by difficulty of discovery before acceptance. Com. Code § 10517(a)(2)

Lessee is entitled to revoke acceptance of lot or commercial unit if lessor defaults under the lease contract and default substantially impairs value of lot or commercial unit to lessee. Com. Code § 10517(b)

Lessee is entitled to revoke acceptance of lot or commercial unit because of other defaults of lessor if lease agreement so provides. Com. Code § 10517(c)

Revocation must be made within reasonable time after lessee discovers or should have discovered ground for it, and before any substantial change in condition of goods that is not caused by nonconformity. Com. Code § 10517(d)

Revocation is not effective until lessee notifies lessor. Com. Code § 10517(d); see Com. Code § 1202(d) (defining "notify")

Lessee who revokes acceptance has same rights and duties with respect to goods involved as if lessee had rejected them. Com. Code § 10517(e)

[6] Cross References

See also Comments and References to §§ 413.310, 413.340, 413.347.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART IV. FORMS
B. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.343

§ 413.343 Complaint for Specific Performance [Com. Code § 10521(a)] and for Damages [Com. Code §§ 10520, 10521(b)]--By Lessee Against Lessor--After Lessor's Repudiation or Failure to Deliver Conforming Goods [Com. Code § 10508(b)(2)]

[1] FORM Complaint for Specific Performance [Com. Code § 10521(a)] and for Damages [Com. Code §§ 10520, 10521(b)]--By Lessee Against Lessor--After Lessor's Repudiation or Failure to Deliver Conforming Goods [Com. Code § 10508(b)(2)]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
[doing business under the fictitious name of	)
_____ (name),]	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE
_____ [name],	)	AND DAMAGES
[a corporation,]	)
[and DOES I through _____,]	)
Defendant(s).	)
	)

Plaintiff alleges:

[1. Capacity and residence of plaintiff, if necessary. See § 413.340, Paragraph 1.]

[2. Capacity and residence of defendant, if necessary. See § 413.340, Paragraph 2.]

[3. Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.340, Paragraph 3.]

[4. Agency allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.340, Paragraph 4.]

[5. Plaintiff's status as merchant with respect to kind of goods that are subject of lease. See § 413.340, Paragraph 5.]

[6. Defendant's status as merchant with respect to kind of goods that are subject of lease. See § 413.340, Paragraph 6.]

7. [Formation of lease and relevant obligations of each party. See § 413.340, Paragraph 7].

[8. Consumer lease. See § 413.340, Paragraph 8.]

[EITHER, if defendant repudiated lease]

9. On or about _____ [date], defendant _____ [allege facts showing defendant's repudiation, e.g., informed plaintiff by telephone that it would not deliver the goods in accordance with the lease].

[10. Plaintiff's request that defendant retract repudiation and/or plaintiff's notification that it will await defendant's performance. See § 413.341, Paragraph 10.]

[OR, if defendant failed to perform]

9. Under the terms of the lease, the goods were to be delivered to plaintiff on or before _____ [date]. When delivery had not been made by _____ (date) plaintiff telephoned defendant['s _____ (title of officer and name)] and demanded delivery of the goods in accordance with the terms of the lease. By letter dated _____ (date), a copy of which is attached as Exhibit "B," plaintiff again demanded delivery of the goods in accordance with the terms of the lease.

[CONTINUE]

[11. Plaintiff's demand for adequate assurances. See § 413.341, Paragraph 11.]

12. Defendant has failed and refused and continues to fail and refuse to deliver the goods to plaintiff in accordance with the terms of the lease.

13. [Plaintiff's performance. See § 413.340, Paragraph 9.]

14. At all times herein mentioned, defendant was, and is now, able to complete its performance under the lease contract in that _____ [allege specific facts establishing defendant's ability to perform, e.g., defendant is the owner and in possession of all materials necessary to complete the manufacture of the goods described in Paragraph 7. Defendant is not experiencing any labor unrest or work stoppage that would interfere with its performance of the lease contract].

15. Plaintiff is able and willing to perform [the balance of] its obligations under the lease contract in that _____ [allege specific facts establishing plaintiff's ability to perform, e.g., plaintiff has obtained the insurance it is required to provide covering the goods that are the subject of the lease. Plaintiff has sufficient funds on hand to pay its rental obligations under the lease contract for the two months after delivery and according to projected income analysis, plaintiff will earn net income every month sufficient to pay the following month's rental].

16. Plaintiff has not obtained substitute goods by lease or purchase or contract to purchase or otherwise because _____ [allege facts showing the uniqueness of the goods or other circumstances warranting specific performance and inadequacy of plaintiff's remedy at law, e.g., although plaintiff has contacted five other manufacturers in the last month in an attempt to find substitute goods of comparable quality and reliability, no comparable goods are available]; therefore, plaintiff has no plain, speedy, or adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law, and damages, if awarded, cannot be properly ascertained and would be inadequate as compensation to plaintiff for the detriment suffered as a result of defendant's breach.

17. At the time the lease contract described in Paragraph 7 was entered into, the goods that are the subject of the lease _____ [set forth criteria establishing that the lease is just, fair, and reasonable, e.g., were reasonably worth $_____, and the present value on that date of the total rental payments that plaintiff is obligated to make to defendant during the initial term of the lease is $_____]; thus, the lease agreement is just, fair, and reasonable as to the defendant, and the consideration therefor accruing to defendant is adequate.

[18. If plaintiff wishes to allege damages in lieu of specific performance, which in this case would amount to the present value as of the date of default of the then market rent minus the present value as of the same date of the original rent, computed for the remaining term of the original lease (see Com. Code § 10519(a), (b)), see § 413.340, Paragraph 17, but add allegation at beginning that those damages are being sought in the event specific performance is denied.]

[19. Plaintiff's incidental damages. See § 413.340, Paragraph 18.]

[20. Plaintiff's consequential damages. See § 413.340, Paragraph 19.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

1. That the court decree specific performance of the agreement described in Paragraph 7 [or, in the alternative, for actual damages in the sum of $_____ and for return of rent and security paid to defendant in the sum of $_____];

2. That defendant be ordered to [complete the manufacture of, and] deliver to plaintiff the goods described in Paragraph 7;

[3. For incidental damages in the sum of $_____;]

[4. For consequential damages in the sum of $_____;]

5. For interest at the _____ [rate of _____ percent per annum or legal rate] on the sum of $_____ from and after _____ [date on which amount of incidental and consequential damages were capable of being made certain or date on which action was filed, whichever is appropriate];

6. For costs of suit herein incurred [including reasonable attorney's fees as authorized by Section 1717 of the Civil Code]; and

7. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [signature]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification. See § 413.310.]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for use by a lessee to seek specific performance after the lessor's repudiation or failure to deliver conforming goods [Com. Code §§ 10508(b)(2), 10521]. The goods need not have been identified to the lease contract in order for the lessee to obtain specific performance, but they must be unique or there must be "other proper circumstances" [Com. Code § 10521(a)]. If the goods have been identified to the lease contract, and after reasonable effort the lessee is unable to effect cover for those goods or the circumstances reasonably indicate that the effort will be unavailing, the lessee has a right of replevin, detinue, sequestration, claim and delivery, or the like [Com. Code § 10521(c); see Com. Code § 10217 (identification of goods to contract)]. This form uses a factual example in which the goods are not yet completely manufactured, so in the absence of a lease provision specifying otherwise, it is not likely that they have been identified to the lease [see Com. Code § 10217]. This form has used the criteria of Com. Code § 10521(c), that after reasonable effort the lessee is unable to effect cover, as a way of demonstrating that the goods are unique or that other proper circumstances exist for granting specific performance (Paragraph 16). Cases interpreting Com. Code § 2716, from which Com. Code § 10521 is derived, seem to support that interpretation [see, e.g., Gerwin v. Southeastern Cal. Assn. of Seventh Day Adventists (1971) 14 Cal. App. 3d 209, 220, 92 Cal. Rptr. 111] .

[3] Allegations

In addition to the allegations incorporated by reference from see §§ 413.340 and 413.341, this form is a complaint alleges:

- Defendant's repudiation and plaintiff's response to it (first alternative Paragraph 9 and Paragraph 10), or defendant's failure to deliver the goods at the time required by the lease (second alternative Paragraph 9).

- That at the time the complaint was filed, defendant still had not delivered the goods (Paragraph 12).

- Defendant's ability to specifically perform (Paragraph 14) [see Civ. Code §§ 3390(3) (specific performance will not be granted if defendant cannot lawfully perform), 3394 (specific performance of sale of property will not be granted unless defendant can give clear title); Dixon v. Salvation Army (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 463, 467, 191 Cal. Rptr. 111] .

- Plaintiff's present ability to perform its obligations under the lease (Paragraph 15).

- The uniqueness of the goods or other proper circumstances for specific performance [Com. Code § 10521(a)] and the inadequacy of plaintiff's remedy at law (Paragraph 16) [see Palo Alto-Menlo Park Yellow Cab Co. v. Santa Clara County Transit Dist. (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 121, 133, 135 Cal. Rptr. 192 ; Korabek v. Weaver Aircraft Corp. (1944) 65 Cal. App. 2d 32, 40, 149 P.2d 876] .

- That the lease agreement is just, fair, and reasonable as to the defendant, and the consideration accruing to defendant is adequate (Paragraph 17) [see Civ. Code § 3391].

For further discussion and cases relating to the necessary allegations in a complaint for specific performance, see Ch. 528, Specific Performance .

[4] State Statutes

Identification of goods to lease contract as may be made at any time and in any manner explicitly agreed to by parties. Com. Code § 10217

In absence of agreement, if lease contract is for goods that are existing and identified, identification occurs when lease contract is made. Com. Code § 10217(1)

In absence of agreement, if lease is for goods that are not existing and identified, identification occurs when the goods are shipped, marked, or otherwise designated by lessor as goods to which lease contract refers. Com. Code § 10217(2)

In absence of agreement, if lease is for unborn young of animals, identification occurs when young are conceived. Com. Code § 10217(3)

Lessee as entitled to specific performance after lessor's repudiation or failure to deliver conforming goods if goods are unique or under other proper circumstances. Com. Code §§ 10508(b)(2), 10521(a)

Decree for specific performance as properly including any terms and conditions regarding payment of rent, damages, or other relief that the court deems just. Com. Code § 10521(b)

Lessee as entitled to right of replevin, detinue, sequestration, claim and delivery, or like for goods identified to lease contract if after reasonable effort lessee is unable to effect cover for those goods or circumstances reasonably indicate that effort will be unavailing. Com. Code § 10521(c)

Even though goods have not been shipped, lessee who has paid part or all of rent and security for conforming goods that have been identified to lease, on making and keeping good tender of unpaid rent and security due under lease, as entitled to recover identified goods from lessor who becomes insolvent within 10 days after receipt of first installment of rent and security. Com. Code § 10522

[5] Cross References

For discussion and forms relating to claim and delivery, which is the equivalent of replevin, see Ch. 119, Claim and Delivery

See also Comments and References to §§ 413.310, 413.340, and 413.341.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART IV. FORMS
B. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.344

§ 413.344 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages for Breach of Implied Warranty [Com. Code §§ 10508(d), 10519(d), 10520]--Fitness for Particular Purpose [Com. Code § 10213]--By Lessee Against Lessor

[1] FORM Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages for Breach of Implied Warranty [Com. Code §§ 10508(d), 10519(d), 10520]--Fitness for Particular Purpose [Com. Code § 10213]--By Lessee Against Lessor

[Caption. See § 413.340.]

Plaintiff alleges:

[1. Capacity and residence of plaintiff, if necessary. See § 413.340, Paragraph 1.]

[2. Capacity and residence of defendant, if necessary. See § 413.340, Paragraph 2.]

[3. Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.340, Paragraph 3.]

[4. Agency allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.340, Paragraph 4.]

[5. Plaintiff's status as merchant with respect to kind of goods that are subject of lease. See § 413.340, Paragraph 5.]

[6. Defendant's status as merchant with respect to kind of goods that are subject of lease. See § 413.340, Paragraph 6.]

7. On or about _____ [date], at [_____ (plaintiff's or defendant's) _____ (describe place, e.g., equipment yard in] _____ [city], California, plaintiff negotiated with defendant for the lease of _____ [describe goods, e.g., a water well drilling rig]. Plaintiff informed defendant that he/she _____ [describe plaintiff's particular needs, e.g., was acting as contractor on a job for which he/she expected to have to drill to a depth of 1800 feet, and expected to have to drill through some rock]. Plaintiff asked defendant which of defendant's _____ [describe goods, e.g., rigs] would be suitable for that job. Defendant showed plaintiff the _____ [describe goods, e.g., Model H2FST drilling rig], which later became the subject of the lease.

8. [Formation of lease and relevant obligations of each party. See § 413.340, Paragraph 7].

[9. Consumer lease. See § 413.340, Paragraph 8.]

10. At the time the lease was executed by the parties, defendant knew of the particular purpose for which plaintiff required the goods that were subject to the lease because plaintiff had expressly informed defendant of that purpose in requesting the goods. Defendant also knew that plaintiff was relying on defendant's _____ [skill or judgment or both] to _____ [select or furnish or both] suitable goods. Thus, there was created an implied warranty that the goods were fit for plaintiff's particular purpose.

11. Defendant breached the implied warranty in that plaintiff did not receive suitable goods, and the goods plaintiff received were not fit for the particular purpose for which they were required, specifically _____ [describe breach, e.g., the drill would not function at depths in excess of 1400 feet, and the bits furnished by defendant broke often when drilling through rock].

12. Plaintiff discovered the breach of warranty on or about _____ [date]. On _____ [date], plaintiff notified defendant of the breach by _____ [show means of notification, e.g., phone, and then by confirming letter dated _____ (date), a copy of which is attached hereto marked Exhibit "B" and made a part hereof]. [Plaintiff demanded that defendant _____ (repair the goods so that they or replace the goods with ones that) conformed to the warranty.]

[13. Description and failure of any attempts by defendant to repair or replace the goods. See § 413.340, Paragraph 12.]

14. As a proximate result of the breach of warranty by defendant, plaintiff has been damaged in the amount of $_____ [, which is the present value at the time and place plaintiff accepted the goods of the difference between the value of the goods accepted and the value if they had been as warranted for the lease term].

[15. Incidental damages. See § 413.340, Paragraph 18.]

[16. Consequential damages. See § 413.340, Paragraph 19.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

1. For actual damages in the sum of $_____;

[2. For incidental damages in the sum of $_____;]

[3. For consequential damages in the sum of $_____;]

[4. For interest at the _____ (rate of _____ percent per annum or legal rate) on the sum of $_____ from and after _____ (date on which amount of damages was capable of being made certain or date on which action was filed, whichever is appropriate)];

5. For costs of suit herein incurred [including reasonable attorney's fees as authorized by Section 1717 of the Civil Code]; and

6. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [signature]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 413.310.]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for use by a lessee to recover damages from a lessor for breach of an implied warranty of fitness for a particular purpose, and is not appropriate if the lease involved is a finance lease [see Com. Code § 10213].

[3] Caption

The caption from see § 413.340 may be used in this complaint, except that the statutes cited in the brackets beneath the title of the form must be changed to Com. Code §§ 10213, 10508, 10519-10520.

[4] Allegations

In addition to the allegations incorporated by reference from see § 413.340, this form alleges:

- That plaintiff informed defendant of his or her special requirements for the goods and relied on defendant to select or furnish suitable goods (Paragraphs 7, 10).

- The conclusion that this resulted in the creation of an implied warranty of fitness for a particular purpose (Paragraph 10) [Com. Code §§ 10204(a), 10213].

- Breach of the warranty (Paragraph 11) [see U.C.C. Comment to Com. Code § 10508(c) (breach of warranty may not rise to level of default unless breach is material or unless otherwise provided in lease agreement)].

- The date of plaintiff's discovery of the breach of the warranty and plaintiff's notification to defendant (Paragraph 12) [Com. Code § 10516(c)(1)].

- Plaintiff's damages (Paragraph 14) [Com. Code § 10519(d)]. The measure of damages alleged in Paragraph 14 is the present value at the time and place of acceptance of the difference between the value of the use of the goods accepted and the value if they had been as warranted for the lease term. However, that measure may be displaced if special circumstances show proximate damages of a different amount. In addition, plaintiff may have incidental and consequential damages, less expenses saved in consequence of the lessor's default or breach of warranty [Com. Code § 10519(d)].

[5] Other Remedies to Consider

The nonconformity may be substantial enough to justify revocation of acceptance [see Com. Code §§ 10515-10517 (see § 413.226; see also § 413.342].

Rights and remedies for material misrepresentation or fraud include all rights and remedies available under Division 10 for default [Com. Code § 10505(d)].

[6] State Statutes

Requirements for discharge, in whole or in part, of claim or right arising out of an alleged breach of warranty without consideration. Com. Code § 10107

Creation of express warranties by lessor. Com. Code § 10210

Warranty of quiet possession. Com. Code § 10211(a)

Warranty against infringement in lease other than finance lease. Com. Code § 10211(b)

Lessee under finance lease who furnishes specifications to lessor is required to hold lessor and supplier harmless from against claims of infringement. Com. Code § 10211(c)

Implied warranty of merchantability in lease other than finance lease. Com. Code § 10212(a), (b)

Course of dealing or usage of trade may give rise to other implied warranties. Com. Code § 10212(c)

Implied warranty of fitness for particular purpose in lease other than finance lease. Com. Code § 10213

Construction and interpretation of disclaimer or modification of warranties. Com. Code § 10214(a)

Rules of construction applicable to warranties. Com. Code § 10215

Notices required to be given by lessee regarding breach of warranties. Com. Code § 10516(c)-(f)

[7] Cross References

For discussion and forms relating to the Division 2 provisions from which the warranty provisions of Division 10 were mainly derived, see Ch. 502, Sales: Warranties

See also Comments and References to §§ 413.310 and 413.340.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART IV. FORMS
B. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.345

§ 413.345 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages for Breach of Express Warranty [Com. Code §§ 10519(d), 10520]--Based on Description of Goods [Com. Code §§ 2313(1)(b), 10210(a)(2)]--By Lessee Under Finance Lease Against Supplier [Com. Code § 10209]

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages for Breach of Express Warranty [Com. Code §§ 10519(d), 10520]--Based on Description of Goods [Com. Code §§ 2313(1)(b), 10210(a)(2)]--By Lessee Under Finance Lease Against Supplier [Com. Code § 10209]

[Caption. See § 413.340.]

Plaintiff alleges:

[1. Capacity and residence of plaintiff, if necessary. See § 413.340, Paragraph 1.]

[2. Capacity and residence of defendant, if necessary. See § 413.340, Paragraph 2.]

[3. Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.340, Paragraph 3.]

[4. Agency allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.340, Paragraph 4.]

[5. Plaintiff's status as merchant with respect to kind of goods that are subject of lease. See § 413.340, Paragraph 5.]

[6. Defendant's status as merchant with respect to kind of goods that are subject of lease. See § 413.340, Paragraph 6.]

7. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff and _____ [name], hereinafter referred to as "Lessor," negotiated for the lease of _____ [describe goods, e.g., a water well drilling rig], which Lessor would purchase and lease to plaintiff. Lessor neither selected, manufactured, or supplied the _____ [describe goods, e.g., rig]. [Plaintiff selected defendant as the supplier and directed Lessor to purchase the _____ (describe goods, e.g., rig) from defendant.] Plaintiff described his/her requirements [and furnished specifications] to Lessor. Specifically, plaintiff informed Lessor that he/she _____ [describe plaintiff's particular needs, e.g., was acting as contractor on a job for which he/she expected to have to drill to a depth of 1800 feet, and expected to have to drill through some rock].

8. On or about _____ [date], _____ [plaintiff and/or Lessor] negotiated with defendant for Lessor's purchase of _____ [describe goods, e.g., the water well drilling rig]. Defendant showed _____ [plaintiff and/or Lessor] the _____ [describe goods, e.g., Model H2FST drilling rig], which eventually became the subject of the lease. During the course of the negotiations, a particular description of the goods was made part of the basis of the bargain between defendant and Lessor as a result of _____ [allege how description was incorporated, e.g., defendant's showing plaintiff and Lessor] a _____ [describe form and contents of description, e.g., brochure of the manufacturer available at defendant's premises. The brochure stated that the Model H2FST drilling rig wasreliable to a depth of 2100 feet, and could drill through all types of rock encountered in California]. Thus, that description constituted an express warranty. A true copy of that description is attached hereto marked Exhibit "A" and made a part hereof.

9. On _____ [date], Lessor acquired the _____ [describe goods, e.g., Model H2FST drilling rig] from defendant in connection with the lease. A copy of the contract between Lessor and defendant, hereinafter referred to as "the supply contract," is attached hereto marked Exhibit "B" and made a part hereof.

10. _____ [Allege manner in which Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)(C) was satisfied, e.g., Plaintiff received a copy of the supply contract before signing the lease contract.]

11. On _____ [date], Lessor entered into a written lease agreement with plaintiff for the lease of the _____ [specify type of goods, e.g., drilling rig] for an initial lease term of _____ [specify time period, e.g., three years], commencing on _____ [date]. A copy of the lease agreement is attached hereto marked Exhibit "C" and made a part hereof.

[12. Consumer lease allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.340, Paragraph 8.]

13. Defendant breached the express warranty in that _____ [describe breach, e.g., the drill would not function at depths in excess of 1400 feet, and the bits furnished by defendant broke often when drilling through rock]. As a result of this breach, plaintiff did not in fact receive goods as warranted by defendant.

14. Plaintiff discovered the breach of warranty on or about _____ [date]. On _____ [date], plaintiff notified defendant of the breach by _____ [show means of notification, e.g., phone, and then by confirming letter dated _____ (date), a copy of which is attached hereto marked Exhibit "D" and made a part hereof]. [Plaintiff demanded that defendant _____ (repair the goods so that they or replace the goods with ones that) conformed to the warranty.] [On _____ (date), plaintiff also notified Lessor of the breach by _____ (show means of notification, e.g., letter dated _____ (date), a copy of which is attached hereto marked Exhibit "E" and made a part hereof).]

[15. Description and failure of any attempts by defendant to repair or replace the goods. See § 413.340, Paragraph 12.]

[16. Plaintiff's actual damages. See § 413.344, Paragraph 14.]

[17. Incidental damages. See § 413.340, Paragraph 18.]

[18. Consequential damages. See § 413.340, Paragraph 19.]

[Prayer. See § 413.344.]

_____ [signature]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 413.310.]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for use by a lessee under a finance lease to recover damages from the supplier for breach of an express warranty arising from a description that was made the basis of the bargain [see Com. Code § 10209(a) (supplier's warranties and promises to lessor as inuring to benefit of lessee); see also Com. Code §§ 2313(1)(b), 10210(a)(2) (warranties based on description)]. The lessor is not a defendant. This form is not appropriate, or will have to be modified, if the supply contract limits, modifies, or excludes any warranties or remedies or contains a provision liquidating damages [see Com. Code § 10209(a) and U.C.C. Comment thereto].

The rights asserted by this form may not be the only rights the lessee has against the supplier, because in addition to the extension of the benefits under the supply contract, the lessee retains all rights and remedies that the lessee may have against the supplier that arise from any agreement between the lessee and the supplier or from any other law [Com. Code § 10209(d)].

[3] Continuing Obligations to Lessor

In the case of a finance lease that is not a consumer lease, once the lessee has accepted the goods, the lessee must continue to perform its obligations to the lessor under the lease [see Com. Code § 10407 (see § 413.94; see also § 413.342].

[4] Caption

The caption from see § 413.340 may be used in this complaint, except that the statutes cited in the brackets beneath the title of the form must be changed to Com. Code §§ 10209, 10210, 10213, 10519, 10520.

[5] Allegations

This form alleges:

- The negotiations between plaintiff and the lessor (Paragraph 7).

- The fact that the lessor neither selected, manufactured, nor supplied the goods (Paragraph 7) [Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)(A)].

- That plaintiff selected defendant as supplier and directed the lessor to purchase the goods from defendant (Paragraph 7, optional bracketed allegation) [Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)(C)(iv)].

- The negotiations between the lessor and defendant for the supply contract (Paragraph 8).

- The description of the goods that provides the basis for the express warranty (Paragraph 8) [Com. Code §§ 2313(1)(b), 10210(a)(2)].

- The lessor's acquisition of the goods in connection with the lease (Paragraph 9) [Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)(B)].

- The execution of the supply contract (Paragraph 9).

- The remaining criteria to establish that the lease involved is a finance lease (Paragraph 10) [see Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)(C) (see § 413.347 and § 413.90)].

- The execution of the lease (Paragraph 11).

- Defendant's breach of the express warranty (Paragraph 13).

- Plaintiff's discovery of the breach of the warranty and notification to defendant (Paragraph 14) [Com. Code §§ 2607(3), 10516(c)(1)].

- Plaintiff's damages (Paragraphs 16-18) [Com. Code §§ 2714(2), (3), 2715, 10519(d), 10520]. Note that the measure of damages alleged in Paragraph 16 may be displaced if special circumstances show proximate damages of a different amount [Com. Code §§ 2714(2), 10519(d)].

[6] Modification of Allegations for Lease and Sublease

A lessor under a finance lease need not become owner of the goods that are the subject of the lease. The lease will still qualify as a finance lease if the lessor leases the goods from the supplier and then subleases them to the plaintiff [see Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)(B), (24), (25); U.C.C. Comment to Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)]. If plaintiff's lessor is the defendant's lessee, the allegations of this form will have to be modified to reflect that fact.

[7] Cross References

See also Comments and References to §§ 413.310, 413.340, and 413.344.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART IV. FORMS
B. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.346

§ 413.346 Allegation--Lessor's Extension and Revocation of Firm Offer to Lease [Com. Code § 10205]

[1] FORM Allegation--Lessor's Extension and Revocation of Firm Offer to Lease [Com. Code § 10205]

[1. Plaintiff's status as merchant with respect to kind of goods that are subject of lease. See § 413.340, Paragraph 5.]

[2. Defendant's status as merchant with respect to kind of goods that are subject of the firm offer. See § 413.340, Paragraph 6.]

3. On or about _____ [date], _____ [describe course of negotiations leading up to extension of firm offer, e.g., defendant's sales representative met with plaintiff and discussed plaintiff's requirements for _____ (describe goods that will be subject of lease, e.g., buses or passenger vans to be used in plaintiff's airport shuttle business). Defendant's representative took the information regarding plaintiff's requirements and told plaintiff that he/she would forward a formal offer to lease the necessary equipment to plaintiff].

4. On or about _____ [date], defendant _____ [allege facts showing making and terms of firm offer, e.g., sent plaintiff a document, a copy of which is attached hereto marked Exhibit "A" and made a part hereof, which listed the _____ (describe goods that are subject of firm offer, e.g., passenger vans and buses) defendant was willing to lease to plaintiff for three years, with the right to renew the lease annually for three consecutive years, and giving plaintiff the option to purchase the _____ (describe goods, e.g., equipment) after the fourth year for $_____. Annual lease payments would be $_____. Page 3 of the document states that in order for plaintiff to take delivery of the vehicles by _____ (date), plaintiff would have to accept the offer on or before _____ (date)].

5. _____ [Allege that firm offer was signed by defendant and describe assurances that it was not revocable, e.g., Exhibit "A" was signed by defendant('s _____ (title and name of officer) and stated that it _____ (was not revocable or would be held open (if offer stated time period for which or date until which it would be held open, add here, e.g., for 30 days))].

[If lease involved is a consumer lease, ADD]

[6. _____ (Defendant was aware or Plaintiff told defendant) that plaintiff intended to use the _____ (specify type of goods, e.g., car) for personal, family, or household purposes.]

[CONTINUE]

[7. On _____ (date), plaintiff _____ (allege facts showing plaintiff's expressions of acceptance, commencement of performance, and/or detrimental reliance, e.g., wrote defendant that he/she would acceptdefendant's offer as soon as he/she had found drivers for the increased service and had obtained permission from the Airport Commission for the increased service. Between _____ (date) and _____ (date), plaintiff expended $_____ in application and licensing fees to the Airport Commission to increase its service at the Los Angeles Airport. By _____ (date), plaintiff had entered into contracts with six additional drivers, had paid $_____ to place those drivers on its insurance policy, and had paid an additional $_____ to properly include the new drivers under its licenses and bonds. Plaintiff had also expended $_____ in advertising and promotions introducing its expanded service).]

8. On _____ [date], and _____ [prior to _____ (date), the date on which defendant's offer described in Paragraphs 3 and 4 became revocable or within a reasonable time after defendant's assurances that the offer described in Paragraphs 3 and 4 would be held open], defendant withdrew its offer to lease the goods described in Paragraphs 3 and 4 _____ [describe any special consequences of revocation, e.g.; the goods were necessary for plaintiff to commence its expanded service on the dates advertised].

[9. On _____ (date), and _____ (prior to the date on which defendant's offer became revocable or within a reasonable time after defendant's assurances that the offer would be held open), plaintiff accepted defendant's offer to lease _____ (describe goods that will be subject of lease, e.g., three buses and two passenger vans) in accordance with the terms of Exhibit "A" by _____ (specify means of acceptance, e.g., mailing a letter of acceptance, a copy of which is attached hereto marked Exhibit "B" and made a part hereof, to defendant's Fresno office).]

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by a plaintiff lessee to allege that defendant, a merchant lessor, extended a firm offer to lease to plaintiff and then withdrew that offer [see Com. Code § 10205].

For a discussion of how a complaint by a lessee for recovery of rent, security paid, and damages after the lessor's repudiation may be modified to allege revocation of a firm offer, see § 413.341.

The firm offer allegations (Paragraphs 1-5, 8) may be used in place of the lease contract formation allegations in any of the lessee's complaints. For instance, they could be used in see § 413.341 (lessor's repudiation) or see § 413.343 (specific performance) [see, e.g., § 413.341]. The other allegations from this form may be used in any other form whenever it is appropriate in a particular case.

[3] Allegations

This form alleges:

- Defendant's status as a merchant (Paragraph 2) [see Com. Code § 10205].

- The primary negotiations of the parties (Paragraph 3).
- The making of the firm offer and its terms (Paragraph 4).
- That the firm offer was signed by defendant and stated that it would not be revoked (Paragraph 5) [see Com. Code § 10205].
- Defendant's revocation of the offer before its expiration (Paragraph 8).

Plaintiff's detrimental reliance on the irrevocability of the offer (Paragraph 7) is not necessary to establish a firm offer under Com. Code § 10205. It is added here in case plaintiff also wants to rely on the theory of promissory estoppel [Allied Grape Growers v. Bronco Wine Co (1989) 203 Cal. App. 3d 432, 442, 249 Cal. Rptr. 872 (considering statute of frauds issue, but holding promissory estoppel applicable to transaction governed Commercial Code by virtue of Com. Code § 1103); see Duesenberg & King, BENDER'S U.C.C. SERVICE, SALES & BULK TRANSFERS, § 4.03[2] (1988) (noting that Com. Code § 2205, on which Com. Code § 10205 is based, has not displaced doctrine of promissory estoppel, and discussing different requirements of each)]. Paragraph 9 is also optional, except when plaintiff lessee seeks specific performance rather than damages [see Civ. Code § 3384 et seq.].

[4] Offer by Merchant Lessee

Although this form involves a firm offer extended by a merchant lessor to a lessee who may or may not be a merchant, merchant lessees can also make firm offers to lease [Com. Code § 10205].

[5] Revocation of Firm Offer for Consumer Lease

It is not clear what the consequences of a merchant lessor's revocation of a firm offer for a consumer lease are (Paragraph 6). Revocation seems akin to repudiation; and under California law the rights and remedies of the parties to a consumer lease in connection with a repudiation of that lease are determined under the applicable consumer law, not under Division 10 [see Com. Code § 10402(b); see § 413.51[3]].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART IV. FORMS
B. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.347

§ 413.347 Affirmative Defense--Lease Is Finance Lease [Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Lease Is Finance Lease [Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges that:

1. The lease described in Paragraph _____ of the complaint herein is a "finance lease" within the meaning of Section 10103(a)(7) of the Commercial Code in that defendant neither selected, manufactured, nor supplied the goods that are the subject of the lease, and acquired _____ [those goods or the right to possession and use of those goods] in connection with that lease. In addition,

[CHOOSE one or more of the following, as applicable (see Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)(C)(i)-(iv))] plaintiff received a copy of the contract evidencing defendant's _____ [purchase or lease] of the goods on or before signing the lease contract [described in the complaint].

[AND/OR]

plaintiff's approval of the contract evidencing defendant's _____ [purchase or lease] of the goods was a condition to effectiveness of the lease contract [described in the complaint].

[AND/OR]

before signing the lease contract [described in the complaint], plaintiff received an accurate and complete statement designating the promises and warranties, and any disclaimers of warranties, limitations or modifications of remedies, or liquidated damages, including those of a third party provided to defendant by the person supplying the goods in connection with or as part of the contract by which defendant _____ [purchased or leased] the goods.

[AND/OR]

before signing the lease contract [described in the complaint], _____ [plaintiff selected the supplier and directed defendant to _____ (purchase or lease) the goods from that supplier or defendant informed plaintiff in writing of the identity of the supplier]; defendant informed plaintiff in writing that he/she is entitled to the promises and warranties, including those of any third party, provided to defendant by the person supplying the goods in connection with or as part of the contract by which defendant _____ [purchased or leased] the goods; and defendant advised plaintiff in writing that plaintiff may contact the supplier for a description of any such rights.

[CONTINUE, if appropriate]

[2. The supplier did not assist in the preparation of the lease contract (between plaintiff and defendant). Nor did the supplier participate in negotiating the terms of that lease contract with defendant.]

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by a lessor to invoke the defense that the lease involved is a finance lease [see Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)]. It is phrased as if the lessee is the plaintiff and the lessor alone is the defendant. It will have to be modified if the supplier is also the defendant to make clear which defendant is being referred to by a particular allegation. For Uniform Commercial Code Comments that may aid in construing the definition of a finance lease, see the discussions in §§ 413.50[4] and 413.90.

This affirmative defense would most likely be asserted by a lessor in response to a lessee's action based on revocation of acceptance [see § 413.342], or to an action in which the lessee claims the lessor has breached a warranty that lessors do not give in finance leases [see, e.g., Com. Code § 10211(b), (c) (warranty against infringement); see also § 413.344 (complaint for breach of implied warranty of fitness for particular purpose)].

[3] Allegations

This form is based on the components of the definition of "finance lease." That definition has three requirements. The initial sentence of Paragraph 1 alleges the requirements of Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)(A) and (B). The last sentence tracks the four alternatives for meeting the third requirement, that of Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)(C) [see Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)(C)(i)-(iv)]. The fourth alternative, Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)(C)(iv), itself imposes two requirements if the lessee selected the supplier and directed the lessor to purchase the goods from that supplier. If the lessee has not selected the supplier in this manner, the following requirements must be satisfied:

- The lessor must inform the lessee in writing of the identity of the supplier [Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)(C)(iv)(aa)];

- The lessor must inform the lessee in writing that the lessee may have rights under the contract by which the lessor acquired the goods or the right to possession and use of the goods [Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)(C)(iv)(bb)]; and

- The lessor must advise the lessee in writing that the lessee may contact the supplier for a description of any such rights [Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)(C)(iv)(cc)].

Optional Paragraph 2 is for use only with see § 413.342. It relates to Com. Code § 10516(b), and is appropriate only if plaintiff is a lessee under a finance lease that is also a consumer lease and has revoked acceptancethat was made with knowledge of the nonconformity [see Com. Code § 10516(b); see § 413.226[2]].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 413 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASES
PART IV. FORMS
B. Personal Property Leases Under The Commercial Code

36-413 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 413.348

§ 413.348 Complaint for Rent and Damages [Com. Code §§ 10527-10530, 10532] for Default [Com. Code § 10523]--By Lessor Against Lessee

[1] FORM Complaint for Rent and Damages [Com. Code §§ 10527-10530, 10532] for Default [Com. Code § 10523]--By Lessor Against Lessee
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
[a corporation,]	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES FOR DEFAULT
_____ [name],	)	[Amount demanded _____
[doing business under the fictitious name of	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
_____ (name),]	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
[and DOES I through _____,]	)
Defendant(s).	)
	)

Plaintiff alleges:

[1. At all times herein mentioned, plaintiff _____ (name) is, and was, a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the state of _____, (authorized to transact, and transacting, intrastate business in California) with its principal place of business (in California) in _____ County (or allege other capacity and residence of plaintiff as appropriate).]

[2. Defendant is, and at all times herein mentioned was, an individual residing in _____ County, California and therein doing business under the fictitious name of _____ (name), and, with respect to that name, has filed the statement and published the notice as required by Sections 17910 through 17919 of the Business and Professions Code (or allege other capacity and residence of defendant as appropriate).]

[3. Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.340, Paragraph 3.]

[4. Agency allegation, if appropriate. See § 413.340, Paragraph 4.]

[5. Plaintiff is a merchant engaged in _____ (specify type of business and type of good, e.g., the business of buying, selling, and leasing new and used restaurant equipment).]

[6. Defendant is a merchant engaged in the _____ (describe type of goods that are subject of lease and plaintiff's status in dealing with them as buyer, seller, lessor, or lessee, e.g., retail sale and lease of office furniture and cafeteria equipment).]

[If lease involved is a consumer lease, ADD]

7. Defendant entered into the lease agreement that is the subject of this action in order to use the _____ [specify type of goods, e.g., computer] primarily for personal, family, or household purposes. [Thus, this action is subject to the provisions of Section _____ (specify any applicable consumer venue provision, e.g. 395(b) of the Code of Civil Procedure).]

[CONTINUE]

8. On _____ [date], plaintiff and defendant entered into a written agreement under the terms of which plaintiff was to lease _____ [specify type of goods, e.g., approximately $25,000 worth of restaurant equipment, which is listed with particularity in Appendix A of the lease agreement,] to defendant for a[n initial] term of _____ [specify time period, e.g., three years], commencing on _____ [date], at a monthly rent of $_____. The lease agreement required to pay to defendant by _____ [date], the sum of $_____ as security for the performance of his/her obligations under the lease and to pay the first month's rent by _____ [date]. Thereafter monthly rental payments were due on or before the _____ day of each month. A copy of the lease agreement is attached as Exhibit "A" and made a part of this complaint.

[9. The lease provided for the goods to be delivered to defendant in _____ (number) installments _____ (describe quantity and type of goods to be delivered in any installments due to be delivered before the date of default or otherwise relevant, e.g.: the freezers, ovens, and tables were to be delivered first on _____ (date).]

10. Plaintiff performed all obligations that he/she was required to perform under the lease agreement in that on _____ [date], plaintiff _____ [allege facts showing plaintiff's performance up to the time of defendant's default, and if relevant, facts from which it can be determined whether or not the goods had been identified to the lease at the time the default or casualty occurred, e.g., entered into a contract with _____ (name) for the manufacture of the goods. Plaintiff performed all obligations that he/she was required to perform under the manufacturing contract and instructed the manufacturer to deliver the finished goods to defendant's restaurant. The first installment of goods was delivered to(, and accepted by,) defendant on

_____ (date)].

[11. When defendant notified plaintiff on _____ (date) of the _____ (defects in or nonconformity of) the _____ (goods or specify commercial lot or item, e.g., freezer), plaintiff caused it to be repaired; and at the time of defendant's default it was functioning properly when maintained and operated in accordance with the manufacturer's instructions for the purpose for which it was intended.]

12. On or about _____ [date], defendant defaulted in its obligations under the lease agreement by _____ [describe nature of defendant's breach, e.g., failing and refusing to make any further payments required by the lease agreement].

[13. Defendant employed the leased goods in its _____ (trade or business).]

[14. The lease agreement provides that when defendant is in default and plaintiff so demands, defendant, at his/her expense, is required to assemble the goods and deliver them to a reasonably convenient location designated in plaintiff's demand. By letter dated _____ (date), a copy of which, along with the acknowledgment of its receipt signed by plaintiff on _____ (date), is attached hereto marked Exhibit "B," plaintiff demanded that defendant assemble the goods and deliver them to _____ (address).]

15. On or about _____ [date], _____ [describe how and whether manufacture, goods in transit, or deliveries were stopped and whether and how possession was returned to plaintiff (see Com. Code §§ 10524-10527), e.g., plaintiff took possession of the (first installment of the) goods after causing them to be removed from defendant's premises (and instructed the manufacturer to complete the manufacture of the remaining goods, but to deliver them to plaintiff, rather than to defendant)].

[If lessor retained or regained possession of the goods, allege whether and what disposition the lessor made of the goods: EITHER, if plaintiff relet the goods]

16. Plaintiff [if plaintiff claims cover lease is substantially similar to original lease, add: in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner,] disposed of the goods that were the subject of the original lease between plaintiff and defendant by leasing them to a third party for a lease term _____ [equal to the term of the lease between plaintiff and defendant or specify term, e.g., two years] [, and granting the new lessee _____ (the same renewal options or specify number and term, e.g., options to renew for a total of three more years)]. [The new lease grants the new lessee an option to purchase.] The new lease commenced on _____ [date] and provides for rent of $_____ per _____ [specify interval, e.g., month]. [The other terms and conditions of the new lease are substantially the same as those of the original lease (and it was negotiated based on plaintiff's standard lease form)].

[OR, if plaintiff sold the goods]

16. _____ [After identifying the goods to the lease, on or On] _____ [date], plaintiff sold the [completed] [unfinished] goods that were _____ [the subject of or identified to] the lease between plaintiff and defendant to a third party[,even though they were unfinished,] [as _____ (scrap or salvage)] for $_____.

[OR, if plaintiff elected not to dispose of the goods]

16. Plaintiff has not disposed of the goods[; they remain part of plaintiff's inventory] [; and plaintiff continues to hold them for defendant].

[OR, if plaintiff was unable to dispose of the goods]

16. Although plaintiff _____ [describe attempts to dispose of goods, e.g., showed the goods to 12 prospective buyers, lessees, and agents over a nine-month period], plaintiff has been unable to dispose of the goods [add reasons if known and desired, e.g., because they were made to defendant's specifications and are not readily convertible to other settings]; plaintiff continues to hold the goods for defendant.

[CONTINUE]

17. As a direct and proximate result of defendant's breach of the lease, plaintiff has suffered damages in the amount of $_____[, which sum reflects deduction of _____ (the security deposit paid by defendant and/or expenses saved as a consequence of the default)] [and will continue to suffer damages based on unpaid rent for the remaining term of the lease]. [Defendant's breach of the lease did not result in any saving of expenses to plaintiff.]

[18. As a further direct result of defendant's breach of the lease, plaintiff was caused to incur the following commercially reasonable charges, expenses, and commissions (in connection with effecting the return and/or disposition of the goods) incident to the default: _____ (list, e.g.,

Penalty paid to manufacturer	$_____
Transportation for return of goods	$_____
Disposition commission	$_____
Total	$_____

)]

[19. As a further direct result of defendant's default in performance of its obligations under the lease(, specifically its obligation to repair and maintain them in good condition, subject only to normal wear and tear), plaintiff suffered _____ (loss of and/or damage to) the value of its residual interest in the good in the sum of $_____.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

1. For actual damages in the sum of $_____ or according to proof;

[2. For incidental damages in the sum of $_____;]

3. For interest at the _____ [rate of _____ percent per annum or legal rate] on the sum of $_____ from and after _____ [date on which amount of damages was capable of being made certain or date on which action was filed, whichever is appropriate];

4. For costs of suit herein incurred [including reasonable attorney's fees as authorized by Section 1717 of the Civil Code]; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [signature]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification. See § 413.310.]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for use by a lessor to recover damages and/or rent from a defaulting lessee. The default may consist of wrongful rejection or revocation of acceptance of goods, failure to make a payment when due, repudiation, or any other default specified by the lease agreement. The lessor's remedies are cumulative, up to the point at which the lessor has been put in as good a position as if the lessee had fully performed the lease agreement [Com. Code § 10523; see Com. Code § 10523, Official UCC Comment; see also Com. Code § 10501(a)-(c) (contract may provide for different or additional defaults and remedies)]. In terms of a lessor's remedies, finance leases are not treated any differently under Division 10 than other leases [see Com. Code § 10523, Official UCC Comment, No. 16].

The applicable measure of damages will depend on whether the goods were completed, identified to the lease, or accepted by the lessee at the time of the default (Paragraphs 9-12) [see Com. Code § 10523(a)(2)-(4), 10524-10526]; whether the lessee retained possession or the lessor had or obtained possession of the goods (Paragraphs 13-15) [see Com. Code §§ 10525, 10526], and finally, whether the lessor disposed of the goods, and if so, how (Paragraphs 16) [see Com. Code §§ 10527-10529]. The lessor is not required to dispose of the goods. That is a function of commercial judgment to which no sanctions are attached [Com. Code § 10523(a), Official UCC Comment]. The damage allegations of this form will not be appropriate if the lease agreement involved has a liquidated damage provision [see Com. Code §§ 10503(c), 10504 (see §§ 413.193 and 413.194, respectively)].

[3] Allegations

This form alleges:

- Plaintiff's capacity as a domestic corporation or a foreign corporation authorized to transact intrastate business in California (Paragraph 1) [see Corp. Code §§ 191, 2105, 2203(c)];

- Defendant's capacity and residence (Paragraph 2).

- Allegations regarding fictitious defendants and their agency relationshipwith the named defendant (Paragraphs 3, 4).

Paragraphs 5 and 6 are for use only if plaintiff or defendant, respectively, is a merchant with respect to goods of the kind subject to the lease [see Com. Code § 10103(a)(20)]. The lessor's status as merchant is mainly germane in the contexts of firm offers [see Com. Code § 10205, see § 413.71)]. A party who is a merchant is also charged with the amount of knowledge or skill particular to the practices or goods involved [Com. Code §§ 2104(1), 10103(c) (applicable definition of "merchant"); see also § 413.310]. If counsel uses optional Paragraph 7 to allege that the lease involved is a consumer lease, Paragraph 5 must also be used, because a consumer lease by definition is one from lessor regularly engaged in business of leasing or selling [Com. Code § 10103(a)(5)]. For discussion of venue in actions against consumer lessees, see §§ 413.310 and 413.340.

This form further alleges:

- The execution of a written lease agreement and pertinent details to the goods involved and to any relevant provisions (optional Paragraph 7) [see Com. Code § 10201(a)(1) (all consumer leases and other leases under which payments, excluding payments for options to renew or buy, total $1,000 or more must be in writing)].

- That the lease is an installment lease, with a description of the installments (optional Paragraph 9) [Com. Code § 10103(a)(9); see Com. Code §§ 10510(b), 10523(a) (default as to whole of installment lease)].

- Plaintiff's performance of any obligations required of it prior to the time of defendant's default (Paragraph 10 and optional Paragraph 11).

- Defendant's default (Paragraph 12) [see Com. Code § 10523; see also Com. Code § 10525(a) (discovery of lessee's insolvency as entitling lessor to refuse to deliver goods)].

Optional Paragraph 11 is necessary only if plaintiff wishes to rebut some claim of defendant's with respect to a nonconformity or its cure [see, e.g., Com. Code § 10513].

Optional Paragraph 13 is only necessary if plaintiff is using Paragraph 15 to allege that without removing the goods from defendant's premises, he or she rendered them unusable. The lessor has the right to do that only to goods employed in trade or business [Com. Code § 10525(b)].

Optional Paragraph 14 is only necessary if the lease had a "crate and delivery" clause, and plaintiff made demand pursuant to it [Com. Code § 10525(b) and U.C.C. Comment; see also Clark Equipment Co. v. Armstrong Equipment Co. (5th Cir. 1970) 431 F.2d 54, 57 , cert. denied, 402 U.S. 909 (1971) (enforcing such clause by injunction when goods were in five states)].

Paragraph 15 alleges the status and possession of all the goods that were to be the subject of the lease, and how that possession and status were achieved. In addition to the options whose initiation is reflected in the allegations of optional Paragraphs 13 and 14, possible allegations in Paragraph 15 include:

- The lessor's identifying to the lease conforming goods not already identified. This option is only available if, at the time the lessor learned of the default, the goods were in the lessor's or the supplier's possession or control [Com. Code § 10524(a)(1); see Com. Code § 10217 (see § 413.130)];

- If the goods are unfinished, the lessor's completing or ceasing their manufacture [Com. Code § 10524(b)];

- The lessor's refusal to deliver goods after learning of the lessee's insolvency [Com. Code § 10525(a)];

- The lessor's taking possession of the goods without judicial process if that can be done without breach of the peace, or initiating judicial action for possession [Com. Code § 10525(c); see U.C.C. Comment to Com. Code § 10523(a), No. 13 (action for possession does not bar later recovery of damages)];

- The lessor's stopping delivery of goods in transit [Com. Code § 10526; see § 413.250[5]];

- The lessee's compliance with a "crate and delivery" clause or other effective tender back to the lessor [see Com. Code §§ 10525(b), 10529(a)];

- The lessee's retention of possession, whether or not after failure to comply with a demand or instructions for return [see Com. Code § 10529(a)]; and/or

- Some loss of or damage to the goods after risk of loss had passed to the lessee [see Com. Code § 10529(a); see also Com. Code §§ 10219-10221 (see § 413.293[9]), 10525(b) (lessor's right to retake possession on lessee's default)].

Paragraph 16 is not appropriate if the lessee retained possession of the leased goods. Otherwise, alternative Paragraphs 16 allege plaintiff's disposition, if any, of the goods, that were identified to or the subject of the lease [see Com. Code §§ 10523(a)(5), 10524(a)(2), (b), 10525(b), 10527(a)]. The manner of disposition of the goods, as described below, will determine what measure of damages (Paragraph 17) applies:

(1) If plaintiff relet the goods (first alternative Paragraph 16) under a lease thatwas substantially similar to defendant's lease and that lease was made in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner, the measure of damages is (a) accrued and unpaid rent as of the date of the commencement of the term of the new lease agreement, plus (b) the present value, as of the same date, of the total rent for the then remaining lease term of the original lease agreement minus the present value, as of the same date, of the rent under new lease agreement applicable to that period of the new lease term that is comparable to the then-remaining term of the original lease agreement, and (c) any incidental damages allowed under Com. Code § 10530, less expenses saved in consequence of the lessee's default [Com. Code § 10527(b)]. Note that this measure of damages does not require the lessor to account to the lessee for any profit the lessor makes on the disposition of the goods [Com. Code § 10527(d)]. This rule is consistent with the fact that the lessee has no equity of redemption to be protected [Com. Code § 10527(d), Official UCC Comment].

(2) If the new lease is not substantially similar (first alternative Paragraph 16), if the lessor disposes of the goods by sale or otherwise (second alternative Paragraph 16), if the lessor does not dispose of the goods but does not hold them for the lessee (third alternative Paragraph 16), or if lessor relets under a substantially similar lease but nevertheless elects "market damages," the lessor's measure of damages is (a) accrued and unpaid rent as of the date of default if the lessee has never taken possession of the goods, or, if the lessee has taken possession of the goods, as of the date the lessor repossesses the goods or an earlier date on which the lessee makes a tender of the goods to the lessor, (b) the present value as of the date determined under Paragraph 1 of the total rent for the then remaining lease term of the original lease agreement minus the present value as of the same date of the market rent at the place where the goods are located computed for the same lease term, and (c) any incidental damages allowed under Com. Code § 10530, less any expenses saved in consequence of the lessee's default [Com. Code § 10528(a)]. If this measure of damages is not adequate to put the lessor in as good a position as performance would have, lessor may recover the present value of the profit, including reasonable overhead, the lessor would have made from full performance by the lessee, together with any incidental damages allowed under Com. Code § 10530, less due allowance for costs reasonably incurred and due credit for payments or proceeds of disposition [Com. Code § 10528(b)].

(3) If the lessee accepted the goods and they were neither repossessed by nor effectively tendered back to the lessor or if conforming goods were lost or damaged after risk of loss passes to the lessee (Paragraph 15), the applicable measure of the lessor's damages is (a) accrued and unpaid rent as of the date of entry of judgment in favor of the lessor, (b) the present value as of the same date of the rent for the then remaining lease term of the lease agreement, and (c) any incidental damages allowed under Com. Code § 10530, less expenses saved in consequence of the lessee's default [Com. Code § 10529(a)(1)]. If any of the damaged goods remain in lessor's possession, the lessor must hold them for the lessee for the remaining lease term in order to recover the rental measure of damages [Com. Code § 10529(b)].

(4) If goods identified to the lease contract were never delivered to the lessee or the lessor or has taken possession of them or the lessee has effectively tendered them back to the lessor and the lessor is unable after reasonable effort to dispose of them at a reasonable price or the circumstances reasonably indicate that such an effort will be unavailing and holds them for the lessee for the remaining term of the lease (fourth alternative Paragraph 16), the lessor's damages are (a) accrued and unpaid rent as of the date of entry of judgment in favor of the lessor, (b) the present value as of the same date of the rent for the then remaining lease term of the lease agreement, and (c) any incidental damages allowed under Com. Code § 10530, less any expenses saved in consequence of the lessee's default [Com. Code § 10529(a)(2), (b)].

With respect to subparagraphs (1) and (2), above, note that whether a new lease is substantially similar is ultimately a question of fact [see U.C.C. Comment to Com. Code § 10527(b); see also § 413.340]. Under subparagraphs (3) and (4), above, the lessor may dispose of the goods before collecting a judgment for damages pursuant to those measures. If that disposition occurs before the end of the original lease term, an adjustment is made [see Com. Code § 10529(c); see also § 413.251[4]].

Paragraph 19 alleges any incidental damages the lessor may have [Com. Code § 10530]; and Paragraph 19 alleges any damage to the lessor's residual interest in the leased goods [Com. Code § 10532].

[4] Lessor's Action for Possession of Goods

The lessor's resort to judicial process to recover possession of the leased goods does not bar it from later recovering damages [Com. Code § 10525(c); see Com. Code § 10523(a), Official UCC Comment, No. 13]. If the lessee has possession of the goods, the lessor may still recover a judgment based on the rental measure of damages [see Com. Code § 10529(a); see also § 413.348[3], Paragraph (3)], but because of the lessee's insolvency, or in order to relet the goods at a higher return, the lessor may still prefer to recover possession of the leased goods. Ordinarily, claim and delivery would be the appropriate form of action for return of possession; however, if the property must be assembled or has become accessions or fixtures, an injunction requiring the lessee to remove or assemble or disassemble the goods and return them may be a more appropriate form of relief [see Clark Equipment Co. v. Armstrong Equipment Co. (5th Cir. 1970) 431 F.2d 54, 57 , reh'g denied, 402 U.S. 909 (1971) (decided under U.C.C. § 9503; granting injunction in diversity action even though detinue action would havebeen proper under law of forum state because property was situated in five states)].

A lessor may use the first 15 paragraphs of this complaint as part of a complaint for claim and delivery or for an injunction. For forms for use in those actions, see Ch. 119, Claim and Delivery , and Ch. 303, Injunctions .

[5] State Statutes

Lessor's remedies in general. Com. Code § 10523

Lessor's right to identify goods to lease contract. Com. Code § 10524

Lessor's right to dispose of goods. Com. Code §§ 10524(a)(2), (b), 10525(b), 10527

Lessor's right to complete or cease manufacture of unfinished goods. Com. Code § 10524(b)

Lessor's right to refuse delivery to insolvent lessee. Com. Code § 10525(a)

Lessor's right, without removal, to render unusable any goods employed in trade or business and to dispose of them on lessee's premises. Com. Code § 10525(b)

Lessor's right to take possession of goods previously delivered. Com. Code § 10525(b), (c)

Lessor's right to stop delivery of goods in transit. Com. Code § 10526

Lessor's measures of damages; election; recovery of rent; incidental damages; loss of or damage to residual interest. Com. Code §§ 10528-10530, 10532

[6] Cross References

See also Comments and References to §§ 413.310 and 413.340.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 414.syn

§ 414.syn Synopsis to Chapter 414: PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE

§ 414.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 414.02 Cross References

§§ 414.03-414.09 [Reserved]

§ 414.10 Governing Statutes

§ 414.11 Medical Board of California

§§ 414.12-414.29 [Reserved]

§ 414.30 Governing Statutes

§ 414.31 Division of Licensing

§ 414.32 The Physician's and Surgeon's Certificate

§ 414.33 Conduct Authorized by Physician's and Surgeon's Certificate

§ 414.34 Conduct Prohibited Without Proper Certificate

[1] Practice of Healing Arts

[2] Representing Self as Physician

§ 414.35 Exemptions to Certification Requirement

[1] Out-of-State or Otherwise Unlicensed Physicians

[2] Commissioned Officer in Armed Forces

[3] Limited Exemptions for Holders of Certificates in Allied Healing Arts

[4] Modes of Treatment Not Requiring Certification

[5] Practice of Medicine as Part of Medical or Postgraduate Training

[6] Service in Case of Emergency

[a] General Exemption From License Requirement

[b] Natural Disaster Exemption

[7] Physician Traveling With Sports Team

§ 414.36 Unauthorized Practice of Medicine Involving Religious Aspect

§ 414.37 Basic Requirements for Certification

[1] Written Examination

[2] Requirements for Admission to Examination

[3] Approval of Medical Schools

§ 414.38 Special Requirements for Graduates of Foreign Medical Schools

[1] Applicability in General

[2] Noncitizens Wishing to Participate in Certain Programs

[3] United States Citizens or Prospective Citizens

[4] Substitute Credit for Postgraduate Education and Training

§ 414.39 Certification Based on Reciprocity

[1] In General

[2] Reciprocity Requirements

[3] Investigation of Educational Qualifications

[4] Diplomate Certificate by National Board of Medical Examiners

§ 414.40 Causes and Procedure for Denial of License

[1] In General

[2] Causes Justifying Revocation or Suspension of License

[3] For Unprofessional Conduct

[4] For Registration as Sex Offender

[5] For Subverting or Attempting to Subvert Licensing Examination

§ 414.41 Probationary Certificate

§ 414.41A Reapplication After Denial

§ 414.42 Judicial Review of Adverse Action by Division of Licensing

[1] In General

[2] Action by Applicant in Case of Failure to Approve School

§§ 414.43-414.59 [Reserved]

§ 414.60 Governing Statutes

§ 414.61 Division of Medical Quality

§ 414.62 Medical Quality Review Committees and Panels

§ 414.63 Causes for Discipline

[1] In General

[2] Criminal Conviction as Unprofessional Conduct

[3] Conviction of Offense Substantially Related to Practice of Medicine

[a] In General

[b] Scope of Inquiry After Conviction Is Established

[4] Conviction Involving Drugs or Alcohol

[a] In General

[b] Effect of Record of Conviction

[5] Unprofessional Conduct Involving Drugs or Alcohol Not Requiring Conviction

[a] In General

[b] Violation of Statute or Regulation Regulating Dangerous Drugs or Controlled Substances

[c] Prescribing or Furnishing Regulated Drugs to Addicts

[d] Dispensing or Prescribing Dangerous Drugs Without Examination or Medical Indication

[e] Personal Misuse of Drugs or Alcohol

[f] Excessive Prescribing or Administering of Drugs or Treatment

[g] Intractable Pain Treatment Exception

[6] Failure to Follow Infection Control Guidelines

[7] Sexual Abuse of Patient

[8] Insurance Fraud

[9] Gross Negligence

[10] Violations of Cosmetic and Outpatient Protection Act

[11] Cloning Human Beings

[12] Falsifying Medical Documents

[13] Fraud or Deception Concerning Identity or Professional Credentials

[14] Failure to Use Own or Approved Fictitious Name

[15] Misuse of Title Indicating Right to Practice

[16] False Advertising or Procurement

[17] Employing, Aiding, or Abetting Unlicensed Persons in Medical Practice

[18] Employment of Fee Arrangements With Acupuncturists

[19] Unprofessional Conduct Involving Treatment or Referral of Patients

[20] Regular Practice in Hospitals Not Having Certain Rules

[21] Violating Moscone-Knox Professional Corporation Act

[22] Testimony as Expert Witness in Medical Malpractice Action

[23] Discipline Against a Licensee in Another State

[24] Moral Turpitude

[a] In General

[b] Establishing Moral Turpitude

[25] Failure to Provide Service Under National Health Services Corps Program

§ 414.64 Practice in Profession as Not Controlling Standard

§ 414.65 Requirement of Nexus With Practice of Medicine

[1] In General

[2] Limits to Nexus Requirement

§ 414.66 Types of Disciplinary Action

[1] In General

[2] Suspension

[3] Probation and Conditional Stay of Penalty

[4] Public Letter of Reprimand

[5] Interim Discipline

[6] Protection of Public and Rehabilitation as Factors in Assessment of Discipline

[7] Severity of Discipline Not Dependent on Injury to Patient

[8] Criminal Penalties

[9] Injunctive Relief

§ 414.67 Public Nature of Disciplinary Proceedings

§ 414.68 Action in Case of Mental or Physical Illness

[1] In General

[2] Proceedings Available

[3] Diagnostic Examination

[4] Proceedings in Closed Session

[5] Restriction of Right to Practice

[6] Procedure if Proceedings to Restrict Right to Practice Not Initiated After Examination

[7] Reinstatement of Right to Practice

§ 414.69 Disciplinary Proceedings for Unprofessional Conduct

[1] Application of Administrative Procedure Act

[2] Prosecuting Authority

[3] Authority and Duties of Board

[a] In General

[b] Investigation of Possible Unprofessional Conduct

[4] Professional Competency Examination

[a] Reasonable Cause to Doubt Ability to Practice Skillfully and Safely

[b] Procedure for Ordering Examination

[c] Administration of Examination

[d] Action on Completion of Examination

[5] Proceedings for Interim Order

[a] In General

[b] Notice Requirements

[c] Hearing on Petition for Interim Order

[d] Accusation

[e] Written Decision

[f] Relief From Interim Order

[6] Proceedings to Impose Final Discipline

[a] In General

[b] Delegation of Authority by Board

[c] Assistance of Experts

[d] Division of Medical Quality Panels

[i] In General

[ii] Medical Quality Hearing Panel

[iii] Assistance by Experts

[iv] Transmittal of Proposed Decisions or Interim Orders

[v] Complainant's Statement

§ 414.70 Procedural Rights of Accused

[1] Criminal Precedents Not Governing

[2] Essential Fairness and Due Process Requirements

[a] In General

[b] Personal Jurisdiction and Notice Requirements

[c] Right to Counsel

§ 414.71 Evidence at Hearing

[1] In General

[2] Criminal Limitations of Evidence Not Applicable

[3] Seizure of Patients' Medical Records as Evidence

[a] In General

[b] Documents Subject to Inspection

[c] Deadline for Providing and Returning Requested Documents

[d] Penalties for Failure to Comply With Request

[4] Applicability of Exclusionary Rule

[5] Right to Present Mitigating Evidence

[6] Use of Compelled Diagnostic Examination as Evidence

[7] Failure of Accused to Call Witness

[8] Expert Testimony

§ 414.72 Defenses

[1] Entrapment

[2] Laches

§ 414.73 Evidentiary and Procedural Irregularities as Curable on Mandamus

§ 414.74 Reinstatement of Certificate or Modification of Penalty

[1] In General

[2] Petition and Hearing

[3] Granting Reinstatement or Modification

[4] Restrictions on Authority to Grant Reinstatement or Modification

[5] New Petition Within Two Years of Denial of Reinstatement or Modification

§ 414.75 Judicial Review

[1] Mandate as Proper Procedure

[2] Calendar Preference on Review

[3] Independent Review by Reviewing Court

[4] Limited Right to Introduce New Evidence

[5] Restricted Standard of Review of Decision Imposing Penalty

[6] Stay of Operation of Division's Order

[7] Review of Superior Court's Decision

[8] Application for Injunction in Federal Court

§§ 414.76-414.89 [Reserved]

§ 414.90 California Points and Authorities

§ 414.91 State Statutes

[1] Denial of License

[2] Qualifying for License

[3] Requirement of License and Exemptions

§ 414.92 Decisions

[1] Conduct Authorized by Physician's and Surgeon's Certificate

[2] Conduct Prohibited Without Proper Certificate

[a] Practice of Healing Arts

[b] Representing Oneself as Physician

[3] Exemptions to Certification Requirement

[a] Limited Exemption for Holders of Certificates in Allied Healing Arts

[b] Service in Case of Emergency

[4] Judicial Review of Adverse Action by Division of Licensing

§ 414.93 Attorney General Opinions

§ 414.94 Law Reviews

§§ 414.95-414.109 [Reserved]

§ 414.110 California Points and Authorities

§ 414.111 State Statutes

[1] Administrative Law Judges

[2] Causes for Discipline

[3] Conduct of Proceedings

[4] Duties and Powers of Relevant Authority

[5] Reporting Misconduct to Medical Board

[6] Review of Disciplinary Action

[7] Types of Discipline

[a] Criminal and Injunctive Action by Division

[b] Discipline Affecting Right to Practice

§ 414.112 Administrative Regulations

§ 414.113 Decisions

[1] Evidence at Hearing

[a] Applicability of Exclusionary Rule

[b] Diagnostic Examination

[c] Expert Testimony

[d] Seizure of Patients' Medical Records

[2] Findings Supporting Decision

[3] Grounds for Discipline

[a] In General

[b] Employing, Aiding, or Abetting Unlicensed Persons in Medical Practice

[c] False Advertising

[d] Falsifying Medical Documents

[e] Gross Negligence

[f] Incompetence

[g] Moral Turpitude

[i] Establishing Moral Turpitude

[ii] Relevance of Moral Turpitude

[h] Requirement of Nexus With Practice of Medicine

[4] Judicial Review

[a] Appellate Court Review of Superior Court Decision

[b] Restricted Standard for Review of Decision Imposing Penalty

[c] Statute of Limitations

[d] Substantial Evidence Test Applied by Appellate Courts

[5] Types of Disciplinary Action

[a] Penalties

[b] Probation or Conditional Stay of Penalty

§ 414.114 Attorney General Opinions

§ 414.115 Law Reviews

§§ 414.116-414.129 [Reserved]

§ 414.130 Investigation by Panel of Division of Medical Quality

§ 414.131 Hearing

§ 414.132 Reinstatement of Certificate or Modification of Penalty

§ 414.133 Judicial Review

§§ 414.134-414.149 [Reserved]

§ 414.150 Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086] to Set Aside Administrative Decision

[Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; Gov. Code § 11523] of Medical Board of California [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2087, 2230(a)]--Denial of License or Admission to Licensing Examination

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Alternative Writ Procedure

[4] Noticed Application Procedure

[5] Allegations

[6] Grounds for Finding Decision Invalid

[7] Standard of Review

[8] Evidence Not Produced at Hearing

[9] Time for Filing Petition

[10] Venue

[11] Verification

[12] Attorney's Fees

[13] Cross References

[14] California Points and Authorities

[15] State Statutes

§§ 414.151-414.169 [Reserved]

§ 414.170 Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086] to Set Aside Administrative Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; Gov. Code § 11523; Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2230(a), 2337]--Discipline for Unprofessional Conduct

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Evidence Not Produced at Hearing

[5] Standard of Review

[6] Stay of Operation

[7] Trial Setting Preference

[8] State Statutes

[9] Decisions

[10] Cross References

§ 414.171 Allegation--For Petition of Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086] to Set Aside Administrative Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; Gov. Code § 11523; Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2230(a), 2337]--Discipline for Unprofessional Conduct--Remand for Redetermination of Penalty Proper Because Board's Findings Partially Overturned

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Remand if Decision Partially Overturned

[4] Cross References

§ 414.172 Allegation--For Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086] to Set Aside Administrative Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; Gov. Code § 11523; Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2230(a), 2337]--Discipline for Unprofessional Conduct--Penalty Imposed as Excessive

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Restricted Standard of Review for Penalty Determination

[4] Penalty Excessive in Light of Good Faith

[5] Cross References

§ 414.173 Allegation--For Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086] to Set Aside Administrative Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; Gov. Code § 11523; Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2230(a), 2337]--Discipline for Unprofessional Conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230]--Failure to Show That Conduct Is Related to Practice of Medicine

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART I. SCOPE

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.01

§ 414.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses the licensing of physicians and surgeons [see § 414.10 et seq., § 414.30 et seq.]. It includes discussion of the requirement of having a license in order to practice medicine and exemptions to that requirement, as well as discussion of the requirements for obtaining a license.

This chapter includes a petition for a writ of mandate to review the administrative decision of the relevant authorities to deny an application for a physician's and surgeon's certificate or for admission to the licensing examination [see § 414.150]. For allegations stating reasons why action against a petitioner for unprofessional conduct is improper, see §§ 414.170 -414.172.

This chapter also discusses the grounds and procedures for disciplining holders of a physician's and surgeon's certificate for unprofessional conduct [see § 414.60 et seq.]. It includes a petition for a writ of mandate to review a decision to discipline a medical licensee for unprofessional conduct [see § 414.170], as well as specific allegations in support of this petition [see §§ 414.171 -414.173].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirements

127 of 187 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART I. SCOPE

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.02

§ 414.02 Cross References

For forms alleging entitlement to treble damages when defendant is not licensed, see Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.10 et seq.

For discussion, forms amd a procedural checklist relating to ordinary mandate, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition

For discussion and forms relating to administrative hearings conducted under the Administrative Prodedure Act (Gov. Code § 11500 et seq.) and judicial review of such hearing by mandate, see Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication , et seq., and Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationJudicial ReviewGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART I. SCOPE

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 414.03-414.09

[Reserved]

§§ 414.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. In General

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.10

§ 414.10 Governing Statutes

Statutory provisions governing the practice of medicine are set out in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2000-2521, which collectively are known and cited as the Medical Practice Act [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2000]. Provisions relating to the administration of the Medical Practice Act are set out in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2000-2022. General definitions and provisions relating to the practice of medicine are set out in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2030-2041. Requirements for licensing as a physician and surgeon are set out in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2050-2154 and 2170-2186. Provisions relating to causes and proceedings against physicians and surgeons or applicants for licensing as physicians and surgeons for unprofessional conduct are set out in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2220-2337. Other statutes relevant to proceedings for unprofessional conduct are the provisions governing administrative trials generally, as set out in Gov. Code § 11500 et seq., which are explicitly made applicable to unprofessional conduct proceedings by Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230. Provisions relating to judicial review of administrative trials by means of mandate proceedings are set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. In General

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.11

§ 414.11 Medical Board of California

Bus. & Prof. Code § 2001 provides that there is within the Department of Consumer Affairs a Medical Board of California, which consists of 15 members, seven of whom are public members. The Governor appoints 13 members to the board, subject to confirmation by the Senate, five of whom must be public members. The Senate Rules Committee and the Speaker of the Assembly each appoint a public member [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2001]. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2001 becomes inoperative on July 1, 2010, and, as of January 1, 2011, is repealed, unless a later enacted statute, which becomes effective on or before January 1, 2011, deletes or extends the dates on which it becomes inoperative and is repealed [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2001]. On and after January 1, 2006, any reference to an investigation by the Board or one of its divisions will be deemed to refer to an investigation directed by employees of the Department of Justice [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2006 (inoperative on July 1, 2010, and as of January 1, 2011, repealed, unless later enacted statute, that becomes operative on or before January 1, 2011, deletes or extends dates on which it becomes inoperative and is repealed)].

Unless otherwise expressly provided, the term "board" as used in the Medical Practice Act means the Medical Board of California [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2002]. This part follows the statutory usage in referring to the Medical Board of California. Thus, unless otherwise indicated, whenever the term "board" appears in this Part, it means Medical Board of California.

Protecting the public is the Board's highest priority in exercising its licensing, regulatory, and disciplinary functions. Whenever the protection of the public is inconsistent with other interests sought to be promoted, protecting the public is paramount [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2001.1].

The Medical Board of California formerly consisted of a Division of Medical Quality and a Division of Licensing [former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2003]. The authority and responsibilities of the former Division of Licensing are discussed in § 414.30 et seq. As of January 1, 2008, the Divisions of Medical Quality and Licensing are folded into the Medical Board [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2002].

The Attorney General acts as legal counsel for the board for judicial and administrative proceedings [Bus. & Prof. Code

§ 2020, inoperative on July 1, 2010, and, as of January 1, 2011, repealed, unless later enacted statute, which becomes effective on or before January 1, 2011, deletes or extends dates on which it becomes inoperative and is repealed].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirements

131 of 187 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. In General

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 414.12-414.29

[Reserved]

§§ 414.12[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Licensing

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.30

§ 414.30 Governing Statutes

The licensing and regulation of physicians is governed by Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2000-2433. License requirements for practicing medicine and exemptions to those requirements are governed by Bus. & Prof. Code § 2050 et seq. The qualifications for receiving a license, and the licensing examination, are governed by Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2080-2186.

Special requirements for graduates of foreign medical schools are governed by Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2100-2120 and requirements for a reciprocity certificate are governed by Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2135-2153.

Instances of unprofessional conduct and rules governing proceedings against persons accused of unprofessional conduct are set out in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2220-2319. Authorization of the Board to deny a physician's and surgeon's certificate for unprofessional conduct as provided in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2220-2319 is set out in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2221.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Licensing

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.31

§ 414.31 Division of Licensing

As of January 1, 2008, the Division of Licensing was folded into the Medical Board [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2002].

The Division of Licensing was a division of the Medical Board of California [former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2003; see § 414.11]. The Division of Licensing had the responsibility for the following: (1) approving graduate and undergraduate medical education programs; (2) approving clinical internship and special programs and hospitals for such programs; (3) developing and administering the physician's and surgeon's licensure examination; (4) issuing licenses and certificates under the board's jurisdiction; (5) administering the board's continuing medical education program; and (6) administering the student loan program [former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2005]. The Board now has responsibility for all of the following:

- Approving undergraduate and graduate medical education programs [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2004(f)].

- Approving clinical clerkship and special programs and hospitals for undergraduate and graduate medical education programs [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2004(g)].

- Issuing licenses and certificates under the Board's jurisdiction [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2004(h)].

- Administering the Board's continuing medical education program [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2004(i)].

References to the former Division of Licensing in the statutes and regulations, and in this chapter should now be read to refer to the Board. (References throughout this chapter will be changed as pages are replaced in the future.)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Licensing

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.32

§ 414.32 The Physician's and Surgeon's Certificate

The Board is required to issue one form of certificate to all physicians and surgeons licensed by the board, which is designated as a physician's and surgeon's certificate [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2050]. The terms "license" and "certificate" as used in the Medical Practice Act are deemed to be synonymous [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2040]. The term "licensee," as used in the Medical Practice Act, means the holder of a physician's and surgeon's certificate or podiatrist's certificate, as the case may be, who is engaged in the professional practice authorized by the certificate under the jurisdiction of the appropiate board, [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2041].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Licensing

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.33

§ 414.33 Conduct Authorized by Physician's and Surgeon's Certificate

The physician's and surgeon's certificate authorizes the holder to use drugs or devices in or on human beings and to sever or penetrate the tissues of human beings and to use any or all other methods in the treatment of diseases, injuries, deformities, and other physical and mental conditions [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2051]. A person properly licensed to practice in the healing arts is entitled to use natural healing methods, despite the fact that there is no statutory provision for licensing naturopaths [Oosterveen v. Board of Medical Examiners (1952) 112 Cal. App. 2d 201, 205-206, 246 P.2d 136 (interpreting former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2137, now Bus. & Prof. Code § 2051)].

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, a person issued a physician's and surgeon's certificate by the Medical Board of California pursuant to the provisions of the Medical Practice Act is entitled to the use of the initials M.D. [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2055].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Licensing

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.34

§ 414.34 Conduct Prohibited Without Proper Certificate

[1] Practice of Healing Arts

Practicing, attempting to practice, advertising, or holding oneself out as practicing any system or mode of treating the sick or afflicted, or diagnosing, treating, operating for, or prescribing for any ailment, blemish, deformity, disease, disfigurement disorder, injury, or other mental or physical condition of any person without a valid certificate entitling the practitioner to engage in such practice is a public offense. [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2052].

The reference to any other mental or physical condition in the prohibition against unlicensed diagnosing, treating, operating, or prescribing for specified conditions was held not to be unconstitutionally overbroad in context of the rest of the language of the statute and the entire statutory scheme governing the healing arts [Bowland v. Municipal Court (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 479, 494, 134 Cal. Rptr. 630, 556 P.2d 1081 (decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2141; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2052)]. The use of drugs without a proper license is not an essential element of the crime of practicing medicine without a license [People v. Cochran (1922) 56 Cal. App. 394, 396, 205 P. 473 (decided under former Medical Practice Act of 1913, now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2052)].

The fact that an unlicensed person has had training rendering him or her competent to practice does not render such practice proper [Magit v. Board of Medical Examiners (1961) 57 Cal. 2d 74, 85, 17 Cal. Rptr. 488, 366 P.2d 816 (disciplinary action against licensee who employed unlicensed persons; decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2392, now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2264)]. Nor is practice by an unlicensed person rendered proper by supervision by a licensee or consultation with a licensee [O'Reilly v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 381, 388, 58 Cal. Rptr. 7, 426 P.2d 167 , cert. denied, 390 U.S. 944, 88 S. Ct. 1019, 19 L. Ed. 2d 1132 ; Magit v. Board of Medical Examiners (1961) 57 Cal. 2d 74, 84, 17 Cal. Rptr. 488, 366 P.2d 816 (supervision) (both cases decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2392; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2264, which defines employment of unlicensed persons to practice medicine as unprofessional conduct)].

It is possible for a person to violate Bus. & Prof. Code § 2052 even if the person never sets foot in California--for example, by prescribing medication over the Internet [see Hageseth v. Superior Court (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 1399, 1405-1424, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 385] .

For a discussion of the legal consequences to a licensee of employing or aiding and abetting an unlicensed person in the practice of medicine, see § 414.113[3][b].

[2] Representing Self as Physician

In addition to prohibiting specified conduct constituting the actual performance of a healing art without a proper certificate, the Medical Practice Act also provides that any person who uses in any sign, business card, or letterhead, or in an advertisement, the words "doctor" or "physician," the letters or prefix "Dr.," the initials "M.D.," or any other terms or letters indicating or implying that he or she is a physician, surgeon, or practitioner under the Medical Practice Act or any other law, or that he or she is entitled to practice under any law, or who represents or holds himself or herself out as a physician and surgeon, physician, surgeon, or practitioner under the terms of the Medical Practice Act or any other law, without having at the time a valid, unrevoked, and unsuspended certificate as a physician and surgeon under the Medical Practice Act is guilty of a misdemeanor [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2054(a); see also Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2274-2278 (use of initials without proper authorization as unprofessional conduct)]. Thus, for instance, a graduate of a foreign medical school who had practiced medicine in other states but was not licensed in California had no first amendment right to use the initials M.D. in advertising material for a school for physicians and dental assistants which he conducted [Lawton v. Board of Medical Examiners (1956) 143 Cal. App. 2d 256, 261-262, 299 P.2d 362 (decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2142, now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2054)].

However, the holder of a valid, unrevoked and unsuspended certificate to practice podiatric medicine may use the phrases "doctor of podiatric medicine," "doctor of podiatry," and "podiatric doctor," or the initials "D.P.M." without being in violation of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2054(a) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2054(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Licensing

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.35

§ 414.35 Exemptions to Certification Requirement

[1] Out-of-State or Otherwise Unlicensed Physicians

Unless otherwise required by federal law or regulation, no board under Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 500-4979 (healing arts) that licenses physicians and surgeons may require a person to obtain or maintain any license to practice a profession or render services in the State of California if one of the following applies [Bus. & Prof. Code § 715]:

- The person practices a profession or rendering services exclusively as an employee of a department, bureau, office, division, or similarly constituted agency of the federal government, and provides medical services exclusively on a federal reservation or at any facility wholly supported and maintained by the United States government.

- The person practices a profession of rendering services solely pursuant to a contract with the federal government on a federal reservation or at any facility wholly supported and maintained by the United States government.

- The person practices a profession or rendering services pursuant to, or as part of a program or project conducted or administered by a department, bureau, office, division, or similarly constituted agency of the federal government which by federal statute expressly exempts persons practicing a profession or rendering services as part of the program or project for state laws requiring licensure.

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Division of Licensing or the Division of Medical Quality may deny issuance of a license to an applicant or take disciplinary action against the holder of a California license for acts or omissions committed by the applicant or licensee in the course of professional practice or rendering services described in Bus. & Prof. Code § 715 if the acts or omissions committed by the applicant or licensee constituted ground for denial or discipline under California law governing licensees or applicants for licensure and were not authorized, exempted, or rendered inconsistent by federal statute [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 716].

Subject to the provisions of the State Civil Services Act, a person licensed to practice medicine in another state who meets the statutory requirements for application (discussed below) and who registers with and is approved by the Division of Licensing, may be appointed to the medical staff in a state institution and, under the supervision of a California-licensed physician and surgeon, may engage in the practice of medicine on persons under the jurisdiction of a state institution [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2072]. When an adequate number of qualified resident physicians cannot be recruited from intern staffs in California, a person licensed to practice medicine in another state who meets the statutory requirements for application (discussed below) and who registers with and is approved by the Division of Licensing, may be employed on the resident medical staff within a county general hospital and, under the supervision of a California-licensed physician and surgeon may engage in the practice of medicine on persons within the county institution [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2073]. The person may not be so employed for more than two years, and at the end of the two-year period, the person must have been issued a physician's and surgeon's certificate by the board to continue the employment [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2072, 2073].

A practitioner licensed in another state or country who is engaged in actual consultation with a California licensee, as an invited guest of the California Medical Association or the California Podiatric Medical Association, or one of their component county societies, or of an approved medical or podiatric medical school or college for the sole purpose of engaging in professional education through lectures, clinics, or demonstrations, if the physician is, at the time of the consultation, lecture, or demonstration a licensed physician and surgeon or a licensed doctor of podiatric medicine in the state or country in which he or she resides. The practitioner may not open an office, appoint a place to meet patients, receive calls from patients within the limits of this state, give orders, or have ultimate authority over the care or primary diagnosis of a patient who is located in California [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2060].

A person licensed to practice medicine in another jurisdiction who is academically eminent may engage in a limited practice of medicine in a medical school under a special faculty permit provided specific eligibility requirements are met [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2168 et seq.].

[2] Commissioned Officer in Armed Forces

A physician and surgeon who is not licensed in California but who is a commissioned officer on active duty in the medical corps of any branch of the United States armed forces may engage in the practice of medicine as part of a residency, fellowship, or clinical training program if all the following conditions are met [Bus. & Prof. Code § 718]:

- The residency, fellowship, or clinical training program is conducted by a branch of the armed forces at a health facility on a federal reservation and limited in enrollment to military physicians on active duty in the medical corps of a branch of the United States armed forces.

- The residency, fellowship, or clinical training program, as part of its program, contracts with or affiliates with a similar program in or at a health facility not on a federal reservation to offer specific courses or training not available at the facility located on the federal reservation.

- The officers enrolled in the program restrict their practice only to patients who are seen as part of their duties in the program.

- The compensation received by the officers enrolled in the program is limited to their regular pay and allowances as commissioned officers.

- The officers enrolled in the training programs or portions of training programs not conducted on a federal reservation must register with the Division of Licensing of the Medical Board of California on a form provided by the division.

[3] Limited Exemptions for Holders of Certificates in Allied Healing Arts

The practice of a person who is licensed, certified, or registered under any provision of law relating to the healing arts other than the practice of medicine is not limited by the Medical Practice Act as long as such person is engaged in his or her authorized practice [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2061]. Thus, for instance, a chiropractic license entitles the holder to perform certain acts of the chiropractic healing art without holding a physician's and surgeon's certificate. Such a license, however, does not authorize treatment without a physician's and surgeon's certificate beyond the scope of the license [Crees v. Board of Medical Examiners (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 195, 210, 28 Cal. Rptr. 621 (decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2141; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2052)].

A chiropractor who performs acts outside the scope of his or her chiropractic license without a physician's and surgeon's certificate is guilty of practicing medicine without a license even if he or she did not hold himself or herself out as a doctor of medicine [Crees v. Board of Medical Examiners (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 195, 211, 28 Cal. Rptr. 621 (decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2141; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2052)].

[4] Modes of Treatment Not Requiring Certification

A number of other modes of practice are specifically exempt from the licensing requirements of the Medical Practice Act. These are:

- Giving nutritional advice, as long as giving such advice does not amount to conduct of the sort prohibited without a license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2068; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2052 (specifying practice prohibited without certificate)];

- Testing and guidance programs in schools, colleges, and universities, and physical fitness tests given by public and private agencies in connection with employment or renewal of licenses or permits [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2062];

- Treatment by prayer [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2063];

- Domestic administration of home remedies [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2058]; and

- Obtaining blood specimens by skin puncture to perform blood glucose testing as part of monitoring a minor child in accordance with Health & Safety Code § 1241(b)(6) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2058(b)].

Unlicensed medical assistants who have received an instructor's certificate showing satisfactory completion of appropriate training may engage in certain specified treatments on written specific authorization and under supervision of a licensed physician who is physically present in the treatment facility during administration of the treatment [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2069, 2070].

[5] Practice of Medicine as Part of Medical or Postgraduate Training

Nothing in the Medical Practice Act may be construed to prevent a regularly matriculated student undertaking a course of professional instruction in an approved medical school, or to prevent a foreign medical student who is enrolled in an approved medical school and clinical training program in this state, or to prevent students enrolled in a program of supervised clinical training under the direction of an approved medical school pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 2104 (discussed under § 414.38[3]) from engaging in the practice of medicine whenever and wherever prescribed as a part of his or her course of study [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2064].

Unless otherwise provided by law, no postgraduate trainee, intern, resident, postdoctoral fellow, or instructor may engage in the practice of medicine, or receive compensation for it, or offer to engage in the practice of medicine unless he or she holds a valid, unrevoked, and unsuspended physician's and surgeon's certificate issued by the Medical Board of California [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2065].

A graduate of an approved medical school, who is registered with the Division of Licensing and who is enrolled in a postgraduate training program approved by the Division of Licensing, however, may engage in the practice of medicine whenever and wherever required as part of the program under the following conditions [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2065]:

- A graduate enrolled in an approved first-year postgraduate training program may engage in the practice of medicine for a period not to exceed one year whenever and wherever required as part of the training program, and may receive compensation for that practice.

- A graduate who has completed the first year of postgraduate training may, in an approved residency or fellowship, engage in the practice of medicine whenever and wherever required as part of that residency or fellowship, and may receive compensation for that practice. The resident or fellow can qualify for, take, and pass the next succeeding written examination for licensure given by the Division of Licensing, or qualify for and receive a physician's and surgeon's certificate by one of the other methods specified by the Medical Practice Act (see discussion in §§ 414.38, 414.39). If the resident or fellow fails to receive a license to practice medicine under the Medical Practice Act within one year from the commencement of the residency or fellowship, or if the Division of Licensing denies his or her application for licensure, all privileges and exemptions under Bus. & Prof. Code § 2065 automatically cease.

A foreign medical graduate may engage in the practice of medicine whenever and wherever required as part of a clinical service program when the graduate is registered with the Division for clinical service and is participating in the program as part of an approved postgraduate training program [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2066(a)]. A graduate may so practice until the receipt of his or her physician's and surgeon's certificate. If the graduate fails to pass the examination and receive a certificate by the end of the graduate's third year of postgraduate training, or if the Division of Licensing denies his or her application for licensure, all privileges and exemptions under Bus. & Prof. Code § 2066 automatically cease [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2066(b)]. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2066 does not preclude a foreign graduate from qualifying under other exemptions [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2066(c)].

[6] Service in Case of Emergency

[a] General Exemption From License Requirement

Service in case of emergency is not prohibited by the Medical Practice Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2058]. An emergency situation for the purpose of this exemption is defined as a case in which ordinary medical practitioners of the schools provided for by statute who have proper diplomas and have submitted themselves to proper examinations are not readily available [People v. Lee Wah (1886) 71 Cal. 80, 82, 11 P. 851 (interpreting former Stats. 1875-1876, p. 792, as amended Stats. 1877-1878, p. 918, now Bus. & Prof. Code § 2058); Newhouse v. Board of Osteopathic Examiners (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 728, 735, 324 P.2d 687 (interpreting former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2144, now Bus. & Prof. Code § 2058)]. Services of an emergency character have also been defined as services rendered to afford temporary relief until services of a regular practitioner can be secured. An emergency situation does not exist when there is time and opportunity to summon a qualified physician [People v. Mangiagli (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 935 (interpreting former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2144, now Bus. & Prof. Code § 2058)]. A case in which a patient's condition was given up as hopeless by established schools of practice does not constitute an emergency for purpose of exemption from the licensing requirement [People v. Lee Wah (1886) 71 Cal. 80, 82, 11 P. 851 (interpreting former Stats. 1875-1876 p. 792, as amended Stats. 1877-1878 p. 918, now Bus. & Prof. Code § 2058)].

[b] Natural Disaster Exemption

Nothing in Bus. & Prof. Code § 700 et seq., the statutes regulating and licensing health care practitioners, applies to a health care practitioner licensed in another state or territory of the United States who offers or provides health care for which he or she is licensed, provided that the following circumstances exist [Bus. & Prof. Code § 900(a)]:

- The health care is provided only during a state of emergency as defined in Gov. Code § 8558(b);
- The emergency overwhelms the response capabilities of California health care practitioners; and
- The Director of the Emergency Medical Services Authority has requested the practitioner to provide emergency medical services.

A "state of emergency" exists for purposes of this exemption when there are duly proclaimed conditions constituting extreme peril to public safety. Examples of possible causes include the following [Gov. Code § 8558(b)]:

- Air pollution.
- Fire.
- Flood.
- Storm.
- Epidemic.
- Riot.
- Drought.
- Sudden and severe energy shortage.
- Plant or animal infestation or disease.
- The Governor's warning of an earthquake or volcanic prediction.
- Earthquake.

[7] Physician Traveling With Sports Team

A physician and surgeon licensed to practice medicine in another state or country is exempt from licensure requirements while practicing medicine in California if both of the following conditions are met [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2076(a)]:

- The physician has an oral or written agreement with a sports team to provide general or emergency medical care to the team members, coaching staff, and families traveling with the team for a specific sporting event to take place in California.
- Except as provided in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2058 or 2060, the physician may not provide care or consultation to any person residing in California, other than a team member, member of the coaching staff or member of a family traveling with the team.

The exemption remains in force while the physician is traveling with the team, but no longer than 10 days per individual sporting event [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2076(b); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2076(c) regarding granting of additional time for exemption].

A physician exempt from licensure requirements under Bus. & Prof. Code § 2076 is not authorized to practice medicine at a health care clinic or facility, including an acute care facility [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2076(d)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsLicensesHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Licensing

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.36

§ 414.36 Unauthorized Practice of Medicine Involving Religious Aspect

Nothing in the Medical Practice Act is to be construed to interfere in any way with the practice of religion [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2063]. Nevertheless, the Medical Board of California may regulate bona fide religious practices that constitute the practice of medicine when those practices are dangerous [see Board of Medical Quality Assurance v. Andrews (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 1346, 1355-1358, 260 Cal. Rptr. 113 ("healing church" that offered medical therapy involving long-term fasting enjoined from providing further medical treatments, notwithstanding fact that bodily purification through fasting was purportedly major tenet of church's religion); but see Northrup v. Superior Court (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 276, 283, 237 Cal. Rptr. 255 (upholding practice of midwifery without certificate on ground that midwifery was pursuant to bona fide tenet of religious faith)].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Licensing

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.37

§ 414.37 Basic Requirements for Certification

[1] Written Examination

All applicants for the physician's and surgeon's certificate must take the examination provided for in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2170 et seq., unless provisions of the Medical Practice Act provide otherwise [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2170(a)].

The licensing examinations must be designed to ascertain the applicant's fitness to practice medicine [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2171]. Applicants for a physician's and surgeon's certificate must pass an examination in biomedical sciences and clinical sciences, as determined by the Division of Licensing. Applicants must also pass an examination designed to test biomedical sciences and clinical sciences determined by the Division to be essential for the unsupervised practice of medicine [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2183; see Marquez v. Medical Bd. of California (2010) 182 Cal. App. 4th 548, 556-560, 105 Cal. Rptr. 3d 835 (Board had duty to establish passing score)]. The examination must be in writing, unless otherwise provided [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2171].

The examination must be conducted in the English language. On submission of satisfactory proof from the applicant that he or she is unable to meet the requirements of the examination in English, the Division of Licensing may allow the use of an interpreter, either to be present in the examination room or thereafter to interpret and transcribe the answers of the applicant. The Division in its discretion may select an examinee's interpreter or approve the selection of an interpreter by the examinee. The expenses of the interpreter will be paid by the examinee [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2173].

Examinations for a physician's and surgeon's certificate may be conducted by the Division of Licensing under a uniform examination system, and the Division may make arrangements with organizations furnishing examination material as it may deem desirable [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2176]. The Division may, in its discretion, designate other written examinations for a physician's and surgeon's certificate that the division determines are equivalent to any other written examination for a physician's and surgeon's certificate conducted by the division [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2176].

[2] Requirements for Admission to Examination

The Division of Licensing may approve every school that substantially complies with the requirements of Bus. & Prof.

Code § 2000 et seq. Graduates of approved medical schools are deemed to meet the medical curriculum requirements of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2089 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2084].

To show that he or she has met the requirements for certification, the applicant must document that he or she has successfully completed all of the following:

- A curriculum extending over a period of at least four academic years, or 32 months of actual instruction, in a medical school located in the United States or Canada approved by the Division of Licensing, or in a medical school located outside those territories that otherwise meets the requirements of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2089 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2089; see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 2082 (contents of application for licensure)].

- A postgraduate training program, approved by the Division, that lasts at least one year and includes at least four months of general medicine [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2096].

If an applicant has matriculated in more than one medical school, the applicant must have matriculated in the medical school awarding the degree of doctor of medicine or its equivalent for at least the last full academic year of medical education received prior to the granting of the degree [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2089].

An applicant need not have completed the first year of postgraduate training required by Bus. & Prof. Code § 2096 before issuance of a license in another state, however, if the applicant has completed this requirement before application is made to the Division of Licensing for a reciprocity certificate [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2143].

[3] Approval of Medical Schools

The Division of Licensing may approve every school that complies with the requirements for resident courses of professional instruction [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2084; see, e.g., Lopez v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 693, 696-697, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 22 (Department of Licensing may but need not approve substantially complying school); see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 2063 (licensing and regulatory provisions of Medical Practice Act not to be construed so as to discriminate against any school of medicine or surgery)]. The medical curriculum for all applicants must provide adequate instruction in the areas specified by statute [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2089]. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2089.5 sets forth the standards of adequate clinical instruction in the subjects specified by Bus. & Prof. Code § 2089. The Division may consider the quality of the resident courses of instruction required for certification [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2084].

Nothing in the Medical Practice Act is to be construed to discriminate against any particular school of medicine or surgery, school or college of podiatric medicine, or any other treatment [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2063]. This applies primarily to the administration of the provisions governing the licensing and regulation of medicine, however, and does not modify any other specific sections that do not call for interpretation [Oosterveen v. Board of Medical Examiners (1952) 112 Cal. App. 2d 201, 210, 246 P.2d 136 (interpreting former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2146; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2063)].

Graduates of colleges of osteopathy or osteopathic medicine that meet the standards for approval as professional training courses are entitled to be certified as physicians and surgeons. The refusal to certify graduates of osteopathic colleges as physicians and surgeons regardless of their individual qualifications constitutes a denial of the equal protection of the laws as guaranteed by the federal and state constitutions [D'Amico v. Board of Medical Examiners (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 1, 24, 112 Cal. Rptr. 786 P.2d 10; see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 2064.2 (medical school or clinical training program prohibited from denying access to elective clerkships or preceptorships solely on basis that student is enrolled in osteopathic medical school)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Education LawInstructionCurriculaGovernmental AuthorityEducation LawInstructionCurriculaStandardsHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Licensing

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.38

§ 414.38 Special Requirements for Graduates of Foreign Medical Schools

[1] Applicability in General

The provisions of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2100 et seq. (discussed below) apply to all applications of graduates of medical schools located outside the United States or Canada. These applicants must otherwise comply with the provisions of the Medical Practice Act, except when those provisions are in conflict with, or inconsistent with, the provisions of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2100 et seq. [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2100].

[2] Noncitizens Wishing to Participate in Certain Programs

Provisions for graduates of foreign medical schools who are not citizens of the United States but are legally admitted to the United States and who wish to participate in postgraduate studies in approved medical schools, or fellowship programs in medical specialties at approved hospitals, or who wish to become faculty members of medical schools in this state are set forth in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2111-2115.

[3] United States Citizens or Prospective Citizens

Alternative means of licensure for United States citizens who have graduated from foreign medical schools are set out in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2102, 2103 [see Review of Selected 1974 California Legislation, 6 Pac. L.J. 142 (former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2193.71 (now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2103) provided new means of licensing graduates of medical schools located outside United States and Canada who are American citizens, in addition to means provided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2193.5 (now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2102))]. However, only U.S. citizens may be licensed under Bus. & Prof. Code § 2103, whereas those who may be licensed under Bus. & Prof. Code § 2102 include both applicants who are U.S. citizens and those who have filed a declaration of intention to become U.S. citizens, a petition for naturalization, or a comparable document [See Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2102, 2103].

The requirements for these applicants to be certified are as follows [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2102(a)-(d)]:

- Completion in a medical school of a resident course of professional instruction equivalent to that required by Bus. & Prof. Code § 2089 [see § 414.37[2]] and documentation showing final and successful completion of the course. The Division need not, however, evaluate for equivalency any course work obtained at a medical school disapproved by it.

- Certification by the Educational Commission for Foreign Medical Graduates, or its equivalent. This requirement applies to all subject applicants who did not pass the written examination before June 1, 1986.

- Satisfactory completion of the postgraduate training required by Bus. & Prof. Code § 2096. An applicant must have:

  - Substantially completed the required professional instruction.

  - Made application to the Division.

  - Passed steps 1 and 2 of the written examination in specific subjects before commencing any postgraduate training in California. The Division has some discretion in authorizing remedial training.

- Pass the written examination as provided in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2170 (see --Basic Requirements for Certification--Written Examination, above). If an applicant has not satisfactorily completed at least two years of approved postgraduate training, the applicant must also pass the clinical competency written examination.

Alternative special certification requirements set out in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2103 for United States citizens who have graduated from a medical school outside the United States or Canada include [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2103(d) (qualifying examination), (e) (supervised clinical training)]:

- Attainment of a score satisfactory to an approved medical school on a qualifying examination acceptable to the Division.

- Successful completion of one academic year of supervised clinical training in a program approved by the Division pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 2104 (approved supervised clinical training programs in hospitals for students intending to apply for licensure under Bus. & Prof. Code § 2103) or successful completion of a one-year supervised clinical internship operated by a medical school pursuant to Stats. 1972, ch. 85, as amended Stats. 1973, ch. 888 (supervised clinical internship programs by medical schools; provisions now repealed).

The requirement of completing a one-year supervised clinical training program set out in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2103(e) appears to be separate from the requirement of satisfactory completion of one-year clinical service in a hospital in the United States or Canada which the Division approves for first-year postgraduate training set out in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2103(f), discussed below.

Training received in the academic year of supervised clinical training approved pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 2104 will be considered as part of the total academic curriculum for purposes of meeting the requirements of Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2089 and 2089.5 (curriculum, clinical instruction, and affiliation requirements) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2103(e)(1)].

An applicant who has passed the basic science and English language examinations required for certification by the Educational Commission for Foreign Medical Graduates may present evidence of those passing scores along with a certificate of completion of one academic year of supervised clinical training in a program approved by the Division pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 2104 in satisfaction of the formal certification requirements of Bus. & Prof. Code 2102(b) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2103(e)(2)].

Bus. & Prof. Code § 2103 sets out no special requirement that the applicant pass an oral and comprehensive clinical examination in addition to the normal written licensure examination.

[4] Substitute Credit for Postgraduate Education and Training

To meet the requirements for licensure set forth in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2089 and 2089.5, the Division of Licensing may require the applicant to successfully complete additional education and training [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2107(b)]. In determining the content and duration of the required additional education and training, the division considers the applicant's medical education and performance on standardized national examinations, and may substitute approved postgraduate training in lieu of specified undergraduate requirements [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2107(b)]. Postgraduate training substituted for undergraduate training is in addition to the year of postgraduate training required by Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2102 and 2103 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2107(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Education LawInstructionCurriculaGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewImmigration LawNaturalizationAdministrative ProceedingsApplications

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Licensing

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.39

§ 414.39 Certification Based on Reciprocity

[1] In General

Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2135-2153 provide for the granting of certificates based on reciprocity to applicants who are already certified to practice medicine and surgery in another state or Canada and who meet those additional requirements specified in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2135-2154. There is no provision requiring an applicant who meets the conditions set forth in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2135 et seq. to take the entire written examination required under Bus. & Prof. Code § 2170 et seq. (discussed under § 414.37[1]) in order to receive a certificate based on reciprocity. However, Bus. & Prof. Code § 2135 requires that an applicant who is not a graduate of a properly accredited medical school take and pass the clinical competency written examination, be certified by a specialty board approved by the American Board of Medical Specialties or approved by the Division pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 651(h), or satisfactorily completed at least two years of approved postgraduate training [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2135(d)].

[2] Reciprocity Requirements

An application received from an applicant who has practiced medicine with an unrestricted license in a state or states or in Canada, or as a member of the active military, United States Public Health Services, or other federal program for four or more years, is reviewed and processed pursuant to the reciprocity requirements of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2135 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2135(f); but see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2151 (different requirements applicable if applicant is diplomate of National Board of Medical Examiners)].

The Division of Licensing must issue a physician's and surgeons's certificate on reciprocity to an applicant who meets all of the following requirements [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2135]:

- The applicant holds an unlimited license as a physician and surgeon in another state or states, or in a Canadian province or Canadian provinces, issued after successful completion of a resident course of professional instruction equivalent to that required in California and after passing a written examination recognized as equivalent in content to that administered in California;

- The applicant held an unrestricted license to practice medicine in another state or a Canadian province, or as a member of the active military, United States Public Health Services, or other federal program, for at least four years, not including time spent in an approved postgraduate training program or clinical fellowship;

- The applicant has not been the subject of disciplinary action by any medical licensing authority or the subject of adverse judgments or settlements resulting from a medical practice evidencing a pattern of negligence or incompetence;

- The applicant is certified by a specialty board approved by the American Board of Medical Specialties or approved by the Division pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 651(h), or satisfactorily completes at least two years of approved postgraduate training, or passes the clinical competency written examination; and

- The applicant has not committed acts forbidden by Bus. & Prof. Code § 475 et seq. or Bus. & Prof. Code § 2220 et seq.

The California Supreme Court found a former version of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2135 unconstitutional as a denial of equal protection [D'Amico v. Board of Medical Examiners (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 1, 23-24, 112 Cal. Rptr. 786, 520 P.2d 10 (provisions precluding graduates of colleges of osteopathy from licensure despite individual qualifications improper classification)]. Apparently, the present version of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2135 has resolved the constitutional infirmity by not precluding any class of graduates from licensure.

[3] Investigation of Educational Qualifications

The Division of Licensing may make an independent investigation of the educational qualifications and the ability and standing of the applicant. If, after this investigation and any other or further examination or investigation the Division may see fit to make on its own part, it is found that the applicant does not meet the requirements for medical licensure, then the Division may deny licensure [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2144].

[4] Diplomate Certificate by National Board of Medical Examiners

Nothwithstanding any other provision of law, the Division of Licensing may issue a physician's and surgeon's certificate to a diplomate of the National Board of Medical Examiners provided the following requirements are met [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2151]:

- The standard of the National Board of Medical Examiners on the date the diplomate certificate was issued was in no degree or particular less than that which was required for a physician's and surgeon's certificate under the provisions of the Medical Practice Act on the same date.

- The applicant files an application in compliance with Bus. & Prof. Code § 2080 et seq. (setting out basic requirement for licensure). The applicant may not, however, be required to comply with any provision of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2080 et. seq., above, inconsistent with Bus. & Prof. Code § 2151.

- The application is accompanied by the fee required in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2435 (fee schedule).

- The applicant satisfies the division that the diplomate certificate was procured without fraud or misrepresentation.

- The applicant has not committed any acts or crimes constituting grounds for denial of a certificate under Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 480 or 2220 et seq. [see discussion in § 414.63].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationAccreditationHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Licensing

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.40

§ 414.40 Causes and Procedure for Denial of License

[1] In General

For a discussion of the conduct of proceedings against an applicant for licensure, see § 414.69[1].

For a discussion of the procedure governing the conduct of administrative trials, see Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication , et seq.

[2] Causes Justifying Revocation or Suspension of License

The Board may deny a physician's and surgeon's license to any applicant guilty of any cause that would subject a licensee to revocation or suspension of license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2221(a)]. For a full discussion of the provisions specifying when a licensee's certificate may be revoked or suspended, see the discussion in § 414.63.

[3] For Unprofessional Conduct

The Board may deny a license to any applicant found guilty of unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2221(a)]. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2087 (discussed under § 414.92[4]) similarly provides that the provisions governing enforcement of professional standards set forth in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2220 et seq. apply to review by the court of the division's decision in any case in which an applicant is denied admittance to an examination or a certificate on grounds of unprofessional conduct [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2087].

Notwithstanding Bus. & Prof. Code § 2221(a), the Board may issue a certificate to an applicant who has committed minor violations that the Board deems, in its discretion, do not merit the denial of a certificate or require probationary status, and may concurrently issue a public letter of reprimand [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2221.05(a)]. The public letter of reprimand must be purged three years from the date of issuance [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2221.05(b)].

For a more detailed discussion of the provisions applicable to the enforcement of professional standards, see the discussion in § 414.63.

[4] For Registration as Sex Offender

The Board must deny a license to an applicant required to register as a sex offender pursuant to Penal Code § 290, except for an applicant required to register as a sex offender pursuant to Penal Code § 290 solely because of a misdemeanor conviction under Pen. Code § 314 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2221(d)].

[5] For Subverting or Attempting to Subvert Licensing Examination

Bus. & Prof. Code § 496 provides that a board may deny, suspend, revoke, or otherwise restrict a license on the ground that an applicant or licensee has violated Bus. & Prof. Code § 123 pertaining to subversion of licensing examinations [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 477(a) ("board" as including "division"); see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 123 (subversion or attempted subversion of examination as misdemeanor and as ground for civil liability)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Criminal Law & ProcedurePostconviction ProceedingsSex OffendersGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Licensing

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.41

§ 414.41 Probationary Certificate

The Board in its sole discretion, may issue a probationary certificate to an applicant subject to terms and conditions, including, but not limited to, any of the following conditions of probation [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2221(a)]:

- Practice limited to a supervised, structured environment where the licensee's activities are supervised by another physician.
- Total or partial restrictions on drug prescribing privileges for controlled substances.
- Continuing medical or psychiatric treatment.
- Ongoing participation in a specified rehabilitation program.
- Enrollment and successful completion of a clinical training program.
- Abstention from the use of alcohol or drugs.
- Restrictions from engaging in certain types of medical practice.
- Compliance with all provisions of the Medical Practice Act.
- Payment of the cost of probation monitoring.

The Board may modify or terminate the terms and conditions imposed on the probationary license on receipt of a petition from the licensee [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2221(b)].

Enforcement and monitoring of the probationary conditions are under the jurisdiction of the Board in conjunction with the administrative hearing procedures established pursuant to Gov. Code §§ 11371, 11372, 11373, and 11529 and the review procedures set forth in Gov. Code § 2335 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2221(c)].

Notwithstanding Bus. & Prof. Code § 2221(a), discussed above, the Board may issue a certificate to an applicant who has committed minor violations that the Board deems, in its discretion, do not merit the denial of a certificate or require probationary status, and may concurrently issue a public letter of reprimand [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2221.05(a)]. The public letter of reprimand must be purged three years from the date of issuance [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2221.05(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Licensing

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.41A

§ 414.41A Reapplication After Denial

An applicant is not eligible to reapply for a physician' s and surgeon's certificate for a minimum of three years from the effective date of the final decision or action regarding the denial of the application. However, the Board, in its discretion and for good cause demonstrated, may permit reapplication after not less than one year has elapsed from the effective date of the final decision or action regarding the denial [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2221(e)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Licensing

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.42

§ 414.42 Judicial Review of Adverse Action by Division of Licensing

[1] In General

If any medical school is not approved by the Division of Licensing or any applicant for censure is rejected by it, then the school or the applicant may commence an action in the superior court, as provided in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2019 (venue for legal proceedings against board), against the division to compel it to approve the school or to issue the applicant a certificate or for any other appropriate relief. If the applicant is denied a certificate on the grounds of unprofessional conduct, the provisions contained in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2220 et seq. (governing causes and procedures for imposing discipline for unprofessional conduct) apply. In such an action, the court proceeds under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 (providing for review of administrative decisions by writ of mandate), except that the court may not exercise its independent judgment on the evidence. The action must be speedily determined by the court and takes precedence over all pending matters except criminal cases, applications for injunction, or other matters to which special precedence may be given by law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2087].

The provision prohibiting the trial court from exercising an independent judgment on the evidence requires a court reviewing an action by the Division of Licensing to apply the substantial evidence test, which is ordinarily applied by the appellate courts [Savelli v. Board of Medical Examiners (1964) 229 Cal. App. 2d 124, 131-132, 40 Cal. Rptr. 171 , cert. denied, 380 U.S. 934, 85 S. Ct. 940, 13 L. Ed. 2d 821 (interpreting former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2174; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2087)].

One court of appeal reviewing the denial of a physician's and surgeon's certificate to a petitioner has stated categorically that when the administrative action under review is the denial of a permit, license, or certificate, as distinguished from the suspension or revocation of a permit, license, or certificate previously granted, the trial court should not reweigh the evidence, and its sole function is to determine from a review of the record whether there is sufficient evidence to sustain the ruling of the board [see Akopiantz v. Board of Medical Examiners (1956) 146 Cal. App. 2d 331, 334, 304 P.2d 52 (case decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2174; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2087)].

[2] Action by Applicant in Case of Failure to Approve School

The proper recourse for an applicant denied a license because he or she did not graduate from a medical school approved by the Division of Licensing is an action to compel the division to approve the school [Mann v. Board of Medical Examiners (1947) 31 Cal. 2d 30, 41-42, 187 P.2d 1 ; Savelli v. Board of Medical Examiners (1964) 229 Cal. App. 2d 124, 138-139, 40 Cal. Rptr. 171 , cert. denied, 380 U.S. 934, 85 S. Ct. 940, 13 L. Ed. 2d 821 (cases interpreting former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2174; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2087)].

An applicant cannot argue on seeking a review by mandate that occasional isolated admissions of graduates from a school which had previously been disapproved constitutes a de facto approval of the school by the division. The formal and deliberate action by the division in disapproving a school can only be nullified by an equally formal and deliberate action of approval, which action must be established by a clear, convincing and unequivocal showing [Mann v. Board of Medical Examiners (1947) 31 Cal. 2d 30, 39, 187 P.2d 1] .

For a more detailed discussion of administrative mandate proceedings, see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , et seq. See also the discussion in § 414.133.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsEvidenceGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Licensing

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 414.43-414.59

[Reserved]

§§ 414.43[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.60

§ 414.60 Governing Statutes

Statutory provisions relating to the enforcement of professional standards, including the imposition of discipline for unprofessional conduct, are set out in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2220-2319. Provisions specifying causes for discipline for unprofessional conduct are set out in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2234-2291 and 2305. Provisions relating to types of action that may be taken against a licensee for unprofessional conduct are set out in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2306, 2311, 2312, 2314, and 2315. Provisions relating to types of action that may be taken against a licensee in case of mental or physical illness are set out in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 820-828. Provisions for reinstatement of a license or modification of a penalty after discipline has been imposed for unprofessional conduct are set out in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2307. Provisions relating to the conduct of disciplinary investigations and proceedings are set out in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2225, 2230, 2330-2337, and Gov. Code §§ 11370 et seq. and 11529. Provisions setting forth the consequences of the suspension or revocation of a physician and surgeon's license to practice medicine by another state or a federal government agency, which is reported to the National Practitioners Data Bank, are set forth in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2310.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsFederal GovernmentClaims By & AgainstHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.61

§ 414.61 Division of Medical Quality

As of January 1, 2008, the Division of Medical Quality was folded into the Medical Board [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2002]. The Division of Medical Quality formerly had responsibility for the following [former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2004]:

- The enforcement of the disciplinary and criminal provisions of the Medical Practice Act (Bus. & Prof. Code § 2000 et seq.).

- The administration and hearing of disciplinary actions.

- Carrying out disciplinary actions appropriate to findings made by a medical quality review committee [see § 414.62], the Division, or an administrative law judge.

- Suspending, revoking, or otherwise limiting certificates after the conclusion of disciplinary actions.

- Reviewing the quality of medical practice carried out by physician's and surgeon's certificate holders under the jurisdiction of the Board [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2220 et seq. (defining unprofessional conduct and providing for disciplinary proceedings against licensees guilty of unprofessional conduct)].

- Regulating the practice of medicine from California into another state or country without meeting the legal requirements of that state or country for the practice of medicine. This becomes operative on the implementation of a proposed registration program described in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2052.5 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2234(g)].

The Medical Board now has responsibility for all of the following:

- Enforcement of the disciplinary and criminal provisions of the Medical Practice Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2004(a)].

- Administration and hearing of disciplinary actions [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2004(b)].

- Carrying out disciplinary actions appropriate to findings made by a panel or an administrative law judge [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2004(c)].

- Suspending, revoking, or otherwise limiting certificates after the conclusion of disciplinary actions [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2004(d)].

- Reviewing the quality of medical practice carried out by physician and surgeon certificate holders under the Board's jurisdiction [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2004(e)].

References to the former Division of Medical Quality in the statutes and regulations, and in this chapter, should now be read to refer to the Board. (References throughout this chapter will be changed as pages are replaced in the future.)

The Medical Board of California is the only licensing board authorized to investigate or commence disciplinary actions related to licensed physicians and surgeons [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2220.5]. On and after January 1, 2006, any reference in the statutes to an investigation by the Board or one of its divisions, including the Division of Medical Quality, will be deemed to refer to an investigation directed by employees of the Department of Justice [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2006 (inoperative on July 1, 2010, and as of January 1, 2011, repealed, unless later enacted statute, that becomes operative on or before January 1, 2011, deletes or extends dates on which it becomes inoperative and is repealed)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.62

§ 414.62 Medical Quality Review Committees and Panels

The Legislature has created a system of medical quality review committees under the jurisdiction of the Board to initiate a continuing review of the quality of medical practice by physician's and surgeon's certificate holders and to undertake such remedial or disciplinary functions as are specified by the Legislature and as appropriate for the public and the licensee [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2330 et seq.; Gov. Code § 11529].

Unless otherwise indicated, the term "committee" is used in this subpart to mean a medical quality review committee and the expression "panel" is used to mean a panel of a medical quality review committee.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.63

§ 414.63 Causes for Discipline

[1] In General

A general statement of what constitutes unprofessional conduct for which a licensee may be disciplined is contained in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2234. In addition to other provisions of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2220 et seq., unprofessional conduct includes, but is not limited to, the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2234]:

- Violating or attempting to violate, directly or indirectly, or assisting in or abetting the violation of, or conspiring to violate, any provision of the Medical Practice Act;
- Gross negligence;
- Repeated negligent acts;
- Incompetence;
- The commission of any act involving dishonesty or corruption that is substantially related to the qualifications, functions, or duties of a physician and surgeon; and
- Any action or conduct that would have warranted the denial of a certificate.

A physician and surgeon is not subject to discipline pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 2234(b), (c), or (d) solely on the basis that the treatment or advice rendered to a patient is alternative or complementary medicine, including the treatment of persistent Lyme Disease, if that treatment or advice meets all of the following requirements [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2234.1(a)]:

(1) It is provided after informed consent and a good-faith prior examination of the patient, and medical indication exists for the treatment or advice, or it is provided for health or well-being.

(2) It is provided after the physician and surgeon has given the patient information concerning conventional treatment anddescribing the education, experience, and credentials of the physician and surgeon related to the alternative or complementary medicine he or she practices.

(3) It does not cause a delay in, or discourage traditional diagnosis of, a condition of the patient.

(4) It does not cause death or serious bodily injury to the patient.

For these purposes, "alternative or complementary medicine" means health care methods of diagnosis, treatment, or healing not generally used but which provide a reasonable potential for therapeutic gain in a patient's medical condition that is not outweighed by the risk of the health care method [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2234.1(b)].

The fact that former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2361 (now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2234) does not limit instances of unprofessional conduct to those that are specified in the Business and Professions Code does not render the statute unconstitutionally vague or overbroad, since a physician as a medical expert can be expected to know what sort of conduct is unbecoming to a member of his or her profession even without the guidance of a code that specifies proscribed behavior [Shea v. Board of Medical Examiners (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 564, 574-575, 146 Cal. Rptr. 653] .

Unprofessional conduct within the meaning of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2234 must relate to conduct that indicates an unfitness to practice medicine. Accordingly, physician participation in executions is not unprofessional conduct [Thorburn v. Department of Corrections (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 1284, 1291-1293, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 584] .

[2] Criminal Conviction as Unprofessional Conduct

Conviction of the following types of offenses constitutes unprofessional conduct:

- Any offense substantially related to the qualifications, functions, or duties of a physician or surgeon [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 490, 2236(a); see also 16 Cal. Code Reg. § 1360 (substantial relationship criteria)];

- Violation of any federal or state statute or regulation regulating dangerous drugs or controlled substances [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2237(a)]; and

- One felony or more than one misdemeanor conviction involving specified narcotic drugs, dangerous drugs, controlled substances, or alcohol [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2239(a)].

For a discussion of the types of criminal offenses for which discipline may be imposed if the accused has sustained a conviction, see § 414.63[3] and [4].

A guilty plea or plea of nolo contendere is deemed a conviction within the meaning of the statutes defining conviction as unprofessional conduct [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2236(d), 2237(a), 2239(b)]. Thus, discipline maybe imposed based on a plea of guilty, despite later expungement of the criminal record. The focus is on the physician's conduct, not the criminal consequences of that conduct [Krain v. Medical Board (1999) 71 Cal. App. 4th 1416, 1420-1422, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 586] .

Appropriate discipline may be ordered, or a license denied, by the Division of Licensing for unprofessional conduct based on a conviction of any of the offenses set out in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2236(a), 2237(a), and 2239(a) when the time for appeal has elapsed or the judgment ordering conviction has been affirmed on appeal. Discipline may also be ordered when an order granting probation is made suspending the imposition of sentence, irrespective of a subsequent order under Penal Code § 1203.4 (authorizing court to permit withdrawal of guilty plea after successful completion of court imposed probation) allowing the licensee to withdraw his or her plea of guilty and enter a plea of not guilty, setting aside the verdict, or dismissing the accusation, complaint, information, or indictment [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2236.1(d)(1), 2237(b), 2239(b)].

Thus, intentional dishonesty in committing a crime demonstrates moral unfitness to practice medicine that satisfies both the constitutional nexus requirement and the substantial relatedness requirement set out by Bus. & Prof. Code § 490, which is identical to that set out by Bus. & Prof. Code § 2236(a) [Windham v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 461, 469-471, 163 Cal. Rptr. 566] . The fact that the intentional dishonesty was directed against the government in a setting unrelated to the practice of medicine rather than against patients does not negate the existence of the required nexus [Windham v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 461, 470, 163 Cal. Rptr. 566] .

[3] Conviction of Offense Substantially Related to Practice of Medicine

[a] In General

The conviction of any offense substantially related to the qualifications, functions, or duties of a physician and surgeon constitutes unprofessional conduct within the meaning of the Medical Practice Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2236(a)].

The California Code of Regulations provides that a crime is substantially related to the qualifications, functions, or duties of a licensed physician or surgeon if to a substantial degree it evidences present or potential unfitness of a licensed physician or surgeon inconsistent with the public health, safety, or welfare [16 Cal. Code Reg. § 1360]. Neither statutory nor case law give a precise definition of what constitutes substantial relatedness to the qualifications, functions, or duties of a physician and surgeon. However, Bus. & Prof. Code § 2236(a) appears to set forth a requirement of a nexus between the crime of which the accused was convicted and thepractice of medicine; this requirement is similar to the constitutional nexus requirement. For a discussion of the constitutional nexus requirement, see discussion under § 414.113[3][h] [see Windham v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 461, 469-471, 163 Cal. Rptr. 566 (interpreting Bus. & Prof. Code § 490, which permits suspension or revocation of professional license on ground of conviction of crime only if crime is substantially related to qualifications, functions, and duties of profession for which license was issued, and noting that Bus. & Prof. Code § 2236(a) now has comparable nexus requirement)]. For a full treatment of the relationship between acts showing the licensee's moral character and the licensee's fitness to practice, see the discussion under § 414.113[3][g].

[b] Scope of Inquiry After Conviction Is Established

The record of conviction of an offense substantially related to the practice of medicine but not involving narcotics, dangerous drugs, controlled substances, or alcohol is conclusive evidence only of the fact that the conviction occurred [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2236(a)].

The Division may inquire into the circumstances surrounding the commission of the crime to determine if the conviction is for an offense substantially related to the qualifications, functions, or duties of a physician and surgeon, or to fix the degree of discipline [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2236(b); see also 16 Cal. Code Reg. § 1360.1 (rehabilitation criteria for suspensions or revocations)].

[4] Conviction Involving Drugs or Alcohol

[a] In General

The conviction of a charge of violating any federal statutes or regulations or any statute or regulation of the State of California regulating dangerous drugs or controlled substances constitutes unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code §

2237(a)]. Similarly, more than one misdemeanor or any felony involving the use, consumption, or self-administration of any controlled substance, any of the dangerous drugs specified in Bus. & Prof. Code § 4211 (defining dangerous drugs), alcoholic beverages, or any combination thereof, constitutes unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2239(a)].

[b] Effect of Record of Conviction

The record of conviction of any of the offenses specified in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2237(a) and 2239(a) is deemed conclusive evidence of unprofessional conduct within the meaning of the Medical Practice Act [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2237(a), 2239(b)]. In disciplinary proceedings based on conviction of a drug violation, there is no constitutional requirement that an independent nexus be shown between the conviction and the accused'sfitness to practice medicine [Weissbuch v. Board of Medical Examiners (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 924, 929, 116 Cal. Rptr. 479 (interpreting former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2384; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2237); see § 414.113[3][h]].

Because the record of conviction is conclusive evidence of unprofessional conduct, a physician's petition for a writ of mandate to review a board order imposing discipline on this ground will be denied when the petition does no more than challenge the conviction [Leslie v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 117, 119-120, 285 Cal. Rptr. 501] . The physician's appeal of the order denying the writ may result in the imposition of sanctions against appellant by the court of appeal for bringing a frivolous and meritless appeal if the appeal, like the writ petition, merely challenges the conviction [Leslie v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 117, 121-122, 285 Cal. Rptr. 501] .

The legislative classification involving dangerous drugs and controlled substances that sets physicians apart from other professionals is immune from a claim of denial of equal protection because special treatment of physicians by the Legislature as regarding narcotics abuse is justified by the central role that physicians play in the state's drug regulating scheme [see Weissbuch v. Board of Medical Examiners (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 924, 928-929, 116 Cal. Rptr. 479] .

[5] Unprofessional Conduct Involving Drugs or Alcohol Not Requiring Conviction

[a] In General

In addition to providing that a criminal conviction involving drug abuse constitutes unprofessional conduct [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2237(a), 2239(a)], the Medical Practice Act sets forth a number of specific types of conduct involving the use of drugs that it defines as unprofessional conduct without requiring a criminal conviction [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2238, 2241, 2242].

[b] Violation of Statute or Regulation Regulating Dangerous Drugs or Controlled Substances

The violation of any federal or state statute or regulation regulating dangerous drugs or controlled substances is defined as unprofessional conduct, without a requirement that there have been a criminal conviction [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2238].

[c] Prescribing or Furnishing Regulated Drugs to Addicts

A physician and surgeon may prescribe, dispense, or administer prescription drugs, including prescription controlled substances, to an addict under the physician's treatment for a medical condition for a purpose other than maintenance on, or detoxification from, prescription drugs or controlled substances [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2241(a)], and for purposes of maintenance on, or detoxification from, prescription drugs or controlled substances only as prescribed by statute [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2241(b); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2241(c); Health & Safety Code §§ 11215, 11217, 11217.5, 11218, 11219, 11220]. Nothing in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2241(b) authorizes a physician and surgeon to prescribe, dispense, or administer dangerous drugs or controlled substances to a person he or she knows or reasonably believes is using or will use the drugs or substances for a nonmedical purpose [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2241(b)].

For these purposes, "addict" is defined as a person whose actions are characterized by craving in combination with one or more of the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2241(d)(1)]:

- Impaired control over drug use.
- Compulsive use.
- Continued use despite harm.

However, a person whose drug-seeking behavior is primarily due to the inadequate control of pain is not an addict [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2241(d)(2)].

Prescription drugs or controlled substances may be administered or applied by a physician and surgeon, or by a registered nurse acting under his or her instruction and supervision, under the following circumstances:

- Emergency treatment of a patient whose addiction is complicated by the presence of incurable disease, acute accident, illness, or injury, or the infirmities attendant upon age [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2241(c)(1)].
- Treatment of addicts in state-licensed institutions where the patient is kept under restraint and control, or in city or county jails or state prisons [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2241(c)(2)].
- Treatment of addicts as provided for by Health & Safety Code § 11217.5 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2241(c)(3); White v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 699, 709, 180 Cal. Rptr. 516] .

The requisite elements for addiction to a drug, as contemplated by former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2391 (now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2241) are [Elder v. Bd. of Medical Examiners (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 246, 276, 50 Cal. Rptr. 304 , cert. denied, 385 U.S. 1001 (1967)] :

- Emotional dependence on the drug in the sense that the user experiences a compulsive need to continue using the drug;
- Tolerance to the effects of the drug, leading the user to require increasingly larger and more potent doses; and
- Physical dependence so that the user suffers withdrawal symptoms if deprived of his or her dosage.

[d] Dispensing or Prescribing Dangerous Drugs Without Examination or Medical Indication

Prescribing, dispensing, or furnishing dangerous drugs, as defined in Bus. & Prof. Code § 4022 (discussed below) without a good-faith prior examination and medical indication constitutes unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2242(a)]. No licensee, however, will be found to have committed unprofessional conduct within the meaning of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2242 if, at the time the drugs were prescribed, dispensed, or furnished, any of the following applies [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2242(b)]:

- The licensee was a designated physician and surgeon or podiatrist serving in the absence of the patient's physician and surgeon or podiatrist, as the case may be, provided that the drugs were prescribed,dispensed, or furnished only as necessary to maintain the patient until the return of his or her practitioner, but in any case no longer than 72 hours;

- The licensee transmitted the order for the drugs to a registered nurse or to a licensed vocational nurse in an inpatient facility if (A) the practitioner had consulted with the registered nurse or licensed vocational nurse who had reviewed the patient's records, and (B) the practitioner was designated as the practitioner to serve in the absence of the patient's physician and surgeon or podiatrist, as the case may be;

- The licensee was a designated practitioner serving in the absence of the patient's physician and surgeon or podiatrist, as the case may be, and was in possession of or had utilized the patient's records and ordered the renewal of a medically indicated prescription for an amount not exceeding the original prescription in strength or amount or for more than one refilling.

- The licensee was acting in accordance with Health & Safety Code § 120582, regarding providing antibiotics to the sexual partner of a patient with a chlamydia infection.

A dangerous drug is defined as any drug unsafe for self-use in humans or animals. A dangerous drug includes any drug or device that bears the legend: "Caution: Federal law prohibits dispensing without prescription," "Rx only," or words of similar import, as well as any drug that by federal or state law can be lawfully dispensed only on prescription or furnished pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 4006 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4022].

Medical indication for prescribing a drug, for the purposes of former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2399.5 (now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2242), means the existence of symptoms or the presence of satisfying evidence that suggests to the physician the need for or advisability of prescribing the use of a dangerous drug [Whitlow v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 248 Cal. App. 2d 478, 482, 56 Cal. Rptr. 525] .

Both a good faith prior examination and medical indication are required before prescribing or dispensing a dangerous drug, and the licensee may be disciplined for prescribing, dispensing, or furnishing dangerous drugs if either one of the requirements is not met [White v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 699, 704, 180 Cal. Rptr. 516 (statutory amendment substituting phrase "prior examination and medical indication" for "prior examination or medical indication" negated earlier case law)].

The language of former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2399.5 (now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2242) is sufficiently definite to provide a constitutionally satisfactory standard of conduct for the medical profession [Whitlow v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 248 Cal. App. 2d 478, 482, 56 Cal. Rptr. 525] .

For discussion of administration of controlled substances in treatment for intractable pain, see § 414.63[5][g].

[e] Personal Misuse of Drugs or Alcohol

The use of, prescribing for, or administering to himself or herself of any controlled substance, or the use of any of the drugs specified in Bus. & Prof. Code § 4022 (defining dangerous drugs, discussed under § 414.63[5][d]), or of alcoholic beverages to the extent or in such manner as to be dangerous or injurious to the licensee or to any other person or to the public, or to the extent that such use impairs the ability of the licensee to practice medicine safely, constitutes unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2239(a)].

Driving an automobile while under the influence of alcohol constitutes use of alcohol in such manner as to be dangerous to the licensee or to any other person or to the public and may therefore be the basis of disciplinary action against a licensee under Bus. & Prof. Code § 2239(a) if the conduct is shown to have a possible effect on the quality of the licensee's medical practice. The felony conviction or two misdemeanor convictions involving alcohol that Section 2239 also defines as unprofessional conduct is not required [see Grannis v. Board of Medical Examiners (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 551, 560-562, 96 Cal. Rptr. 863 (interpreting former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2390; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2239)].

No licensee may practice medicine while under the influence of any narcotic drug or alcohol to such an extent as to impair his or her ability to conduct the practice of medicine with safety to the public and his or her patients. Such conduct constitutes unprofessional conduct and is a misdemeanor [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2280; see also Bus. & Prof. Code 2315 (punishment for misdemeanors)]. For discussion of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2315, see § 414.66[8].

Business and Professions Code section 2354 does not permit disciplinary action against a physician's license to practice medicine based solely on the physician's failure to complete a substance abuse diversion program successfully. When a physician "flunks out" of a diversion program, the Medical Board is authorized to file an accusation charging any acts committed before, during, or after the physician"s agreed-upon participation in the diversion program [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2354] (inoperative on July 1, 2008, and, as of January 1, 2009, is repealed, unless a later enacted statute enacted before January 1, 2009, deletes or extends the dates on which it becomes inoperative and is repealed [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2358]); see Medical Bd. of Cal. v. Superior Court (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 163, 172, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 403] . It must then prove impairment or unprofessional conduct by clear and convincing evidence. Where the circumstances of the physician's termination from the diversion program do not otherwise evidence unprofessional conduct or impairment by this standard, the Board does not have authority to revoke or suspend a license based on the failure to complete the diversion program [Medical Bd. of Cal. v. Superior Court (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 163, 172-183, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 403] .

[f] Excessive Prescribing or Administering of Drugs or Treatment

Repeated acts of clearly excessive prescribing, furnishing, dispensing, or administering of drugs or treatment, repeated acts of clearly excessive use of diagnostic procedures, or repeated acts of clearly excessive use of diagnostic or treatment facilities as determined by the standard of the community of licensed physicians and surgeons is unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 725(a)]. That conduct may be the basis for disciplinary action [see Glover v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 203, 205, 282 Cal. Rptr. 137 (license revoked for excessive prescribing and gross negligence)]. However, pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 2241.5, no physician and surgeon in compliance with the California Intractable Pain Treatment Act will be subject to disciplinary action for lawfully prescribing or administering controlled substances in the course of treatment of a person for intractable pain [Bus. & Prof. Code § 725(d); see § 414.63[5][g]]. Further, a physician or surgeon who has a medical basis for prescribing, furnishing, dispensing, or administering dangerous drugs or prescription controlled substances is not subject to disciplinary action or prosecution under Bus. & Prof. Code § 725 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 725(c)]. In addition, a physician who engages in repeated acts of clearly excessive prescribing or administering of drugs or treatment is guilty of a misdemeanor and is subject to a fine and imprisonment [Bus. & Prof. Code § 725(b) (prescribing fine of $100 to $600 and/or imprisonment of 60-180 days)].

[g] Intractable Pain Treatment Exception

Under the Intractable Pain Treatment Act (Bus. & Prof. Code § 2241.5; hereinafter referred to as "the Act"), a physician and surgeon may prescribe for, or dispense or administer to, a person under his or her treatment for a medical condition dangerous drugs or prescription controlled substances for the treatment of pain or a condition causing pain, including, but not limited to, intractable pain [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2241.5(a)]. No physician and surgeon will be subject to disciplinary action for prescribing, dispensing, or administering dangerous drugs or prescription controlled substances in accordance with Bus. & Prof. Code § 2241.5 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2241.5(b)].

However, Bus. & Prof. Code § 2241.5 does not affect the power of the Board to take disciplinary action described in Section 2227 against a physician and surgeon who does any of the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2241.5(c); see Bus.

& Prof. Code § 2227 (permitted disciplinary actions by Board)]:

- Violates Bus. & Prof. Code § 2234(b), (c), or (d) regarding gross negligence, repeated negligent acts, or incompetence.

- Violates Bus. & Prof. Code § 2241 regarding treatment of an addict [see [c], above].

- Violates Bus. & Prof. Code § 2242 regarding performing an appropriate prior examination and the existence of a medical indication for prescribing, dispensing, or furnishing dangerous drugs [see [d], above].

- Violates Bus. & Prof. Code § 2242.1 regarding prescribing on the Internet.

- Fails to keep complete and accurate records of purchases and disposals of substances listed in the California Uniform Controlled Substances Act [Health & Safety Code § 11000 et seq.] or controlled substances scheduled in the federal Comprehensive Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Act of 1970 [21 U.S.C. § 801 et seq.], or pursuant to the federal Comprehensive Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Act of 1970. A physician and surgeon must keep records of purchases and disposals of these controlled substances or dangerous drugs, including the date of purchase, the date and records of the sale or disposal of the drugs by the physician and surgeon, the name and address of the person receiving the drugs, and the reason for the disposal or the dispensing of the drugs to the person, and must otherwise comply with all state record keeping requirements for controlled substances.

- Writes false or fictitious prescriptions for controlled substances listed in the California Uniform Controlled Substances Act or scheduled in the federal Comprehensive Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Act of 1970.

- Prescribes, administers, or dispenses in violation of Bus. & Prof. § 2000 et seq., or in violation of Health & Safety Code §§ 11150 et seq. or 11210 et seq.

A physician and surgeon must exercise reasonable care in determining whether a particular patient or condition, or the complexity of a patient's treatment, including, but not limited to, a current or recent pattern of drug abuse, requires consultation with, or referral to, a more qualified specialist [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2241.5(d).

Nothing in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2241.5 prohibits the governing body of a hospital from taking disciplinary actions against a physician and surgeon pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 809.05, 809.4, and 809 regarding peer review [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2241.5(e)].

[6] Failure to Follow Infection Control Guidelines

The Board and the Board of Podiatric Medicine must investigate and may take disciplinary action, including, but not limited to, revocation or suspension of licenses, against certain physicians and surgeons and all others licensed or regulated by the board, or by the Board of Podiatric Medicine, whichever is applicable. These include health care providers, who, except for good cause, knowingly fail to protect patients by failing to follow infection control guidelines of the applicable board, thereby risking transmission of blood-borne infectious diseases. In so doing, the boards must consider referencing the standards, regulations, and guidelines of the State Department of Health Services developed pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 1250.11, and the standards, guidelines, and regulations pursuant to the California Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1973 (Lab. Code § 6300 et seq.) for preventing the transmission of HIV, Hepatitis B, and other blood-borne pathogens in health care settings. As necessary, the Board and the Board of Podiatric Medicine must consult with the Board of Dental Examiners, the Board of Registered Nursing, and the Board of Vocational Nursing and Psychiatric Technicians to encourage appropriate consistency in the implementation of this statute [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2221.1(a)].

[7] Sexual Abuse of Patient

The commission of any act of sexual abuse, misconduct, or relations with a patient that is substantially related to the qualifications, functions, or duties of a physician constitutes unprofessional conduct and grounds for disciplinary action [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 726; see also Gromis v. Medical Board (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 589, 595 n.3, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 452 (Bus. & Prof. Code § 726 does not violate due process)]. However, Section 726 does not apply to sexual contact between a physician and surgeon and his or her spouse or person in an equivalent domestic relationship when that physician and surgeon provides medical treatment, other than psychotherapeutic treatment, to his or her spouse or person in an equivalent domestic relation [Bus. & Prof. Code § 726].

A physician-patient sexual relationship, by itself, is insufficient to merit discipline [Gromis v. Medical Board (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 589, 599, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 452] . The appropriateness of discipline under Bus. & Prof. Code § 726 must be determined on a case-by-case basis [Gromis v. Medical Board (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 589, 597-598, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 452] . The key issue is whether under the circumstances the physician's sexual conduct bears some relationship to the physician's qualifications, functions, or duties [Gromis v. Medical Board (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 589, 597-598, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 452 ; but see Atienza v. Taub (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 388, 394 n.3, 239 Cal. Rptr. 454 (malpractice case suggesting in dictum that only sexual conduct under guise of treatment would serve as grounds for discipline under the statute)]. Mere findings that an intimate relationship arose out of the physician-patient relationship and that the relationship caused injury to the patient are insufficient, by themselves, to support the legal conclusion that a physician-patient sexual relationship had a bearing on the physician's functions and duties [see Gromis v. Medical Board (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 589, 598, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 452] . Discipline might be appropriate, however, if the physician took advantage of his or her status as the patient's physician to induce the patient into the relationship, or if the sexual relationship caused the physician's judgment to be compromised [see Gromis v. Medical Board (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 589, 598-600, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 452 (remanding case for determination of these issues)].

The provisions of former Evid. Code § 1103(2) (now see Evid. Code § 1103(b)), concerning use of evidence regarding a complaining witness' reputation and sexual conduct, apply in disciplinary proceedings brought against a physician for acts in violation of Bus. & Prof. Code § 726 [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 727].

[8] Insurance Fraud

A licensee is subject to professional discipline, including license suspension or revocation, for fraudulent misconduct relating to insurance claims [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 810(a)]. Knowingly presenting or causing to be presented a false or fraudulent insurance claim constitutes unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 810(a)(1)]. In addition, it is unprofessional conduct to knowingly prepare, make, or subscribe any writing, with intent to present or use the writing, or to allow it to be presented or used in support of, a false or fraudulent insurance claim [Bus. & Prof. Code § 810(a)(2)].

Engaging in any conduct prohibited by Ins. Code § 1871.4 (workers' compensation fraud) or Penal Code § 550 (insurance fraud) constitutes cause for revocation or suspension of a license to practice medicine [Bus. & Prof. Code § 810(b)].

[9] Gross Negligence

Gross negligence constitutes unprofessional conduct [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2234(b)]. Gross negligence is shown by either extreme departure from ordinary medical practice or want of even scant care. Willful misconduct is not required. Testimony by a medical expert may be used to establish extreme departure from ordinary medical practice [Yellen v.

Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 1040, 1058, 220 Cal. Rptr. 426 ; Gore v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1980) 110 Cal. App. 3d 184, 196, 167 Cal. Rptr. 881 (interpreting former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2361; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2234)].

Expert opinion testimony evaluating the negligent conduct of another physician who treated the licensee's patient may be precluded as irrelevant to the issue of the licensee's own negligence, because such testimony cannot prove or disprove the licensee's own competence [see Glover v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 203, 208-209, 282 Cal. Rptr. 137 (licensee attempted to introduce expert testimony concerning other physician's conduct to establish standard of practice)].

[10] Violations of Cosmetic and Outpatient Protection Act

Under the Cosmetic and Outpatient Surgery Patient Protection Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2216 et seq.], effective July 1, 2000, it is unprofessional conduct for a physician and surgeon to perform procedures in any outpatient setting except in compliance with Bus. & Prof. Code § 2216, unless the setting has a minimum of two staff persons on the premises, one of whom must either be a licensed physician and surgeon or a licensed health care professional with current certification in advanced cardiac life support (ACLS), as long as a patient is present who has not been discharged from supervised care [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2216.1].

Furthermore, it is unprofessional conduct for a physician and surgeon to fail to provide adequate security by liability insurance, or by participation in an interindemnity trust, for claims by patients arising out of surgical procedures performed outside of a general acute care hospital as defined in subdivision (a) of Section 1250 of the Health and Safety Code [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2216.2(a)].

Finally, failure to comply with the administrative mandates listed in Business & Professions Code § 2240 constitutes unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2240(f)].

[11] Cloning Human Beings

A violation of Health & Safety Code § 24185, relating to human cloning, constitutes unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2260.5]. Health & Safety Code § 24185 provides that:

- No person may clone a human being or engage in human reproductive cloning.

- No person may purchase or sell an ovum, zygote, embryo, or fetus for the purpose of cloning a human being.

For the purposes of Health & Safety Code § 24185, "clone" means the practice of creating or attempting to create a human being by transferring the nucleus from a human cell from whatever source into a human egg cell from which the nucleus has been removed for the purpose of, or to implant, the resulting product to initiate a pregnancy that could result in the birth of a human being [Health & Safety Code § 24185(c)]. "Human reproductive cloning" means the creation of a human fetus that is substantially genetically identical to a previously born human being [Health & Safety Code § 24185(c)(3)].

[12] Falsifying Medical Documents

Knowingly making or signing any certificate or other document directly or indirectly related to the practice of medicine or podiatry that falsely represents the existence or nonexistence of a state of facts constitutes unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2261]. Intent to deceive is not a necessary element of a violation of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2261. All that is required is that the licensee knew that the facts represented in the document were false. Thus, a mistaken belief by a licensee that there was no impropriety in representing facts in an official document that he or she knew to be false is not a defense to a violation of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2261 [see Brown v. State Department of Health (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 548, 558-559, 150 Cal. Rptr. 344 (licensee believed pursuant to erroneous advice that he was entitled to bill for certain services under Medi-Cal program that he did not in fact perform; case decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2411, recodified at Bus. & Prof. Code § 2261)].

Presentation of fabricated evidence of malpractice insurance to a hospital requiring such insurance, in order to maintain a position on the hospital's staff, is a violation of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2261 [see Foster v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1991) 227 Cal. App. 3d 1606, 1610, 278 Cal. Rptr. 117] .

Altering or modifying the medical record of any person with fraudulent intent, or creating any false medical record with fraudulent intent, constitutes unprofessional conduct. The Division may impose a civil penalty of $500 for such conduct, in addition to any other disciplinary action [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2262].

The provisions of Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 580-585 relating to frauds of medical records, degrees, certificates, and transcripts are not affected by the provisions of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2220-2319 (enforcement of professional standards), including the provisions of Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2261 and 2262. Insofar as any act is a crime within the scope of Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 580-585, such provisions control over the provisions of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2220 et seq., including the provisions set out in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2261 and 2262 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2290].

[13] Fraud or Deception Concerning Identity or Professional Credentials

A board may revoke, suspend, or otherwise restrict a license on the ground that the licensee secured the license by fraud, deceit, or knowing misrepresentation of a material fact or by knowingly omitting to state a material fact [Bus. & Prof. Code § 498]. On referral from the Division, the Senior Assistant Attorney General of the Health Quality Enforcement Section is required to initiate action against any licensee who obtains a certificate by fraud or misrepresentation, including a reciprocity certificate that is based on a certificate that was obtained by fraud or mistake [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2235; see also Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2135-2153 (reciprocity certificates); see § 414.39[1]].

The following conduct in connection with obtaining or aiding another in obtaining fraudulent documentation of the right to practice is also unprofessional conduct:

- The purchase, sale, or barter of any medical or podiatric degree, diploma, certificate, affidavit, transcript, or other evidence made or purported to be made, pursuant to any laws regulating the licensure of persons under the Medical Practice Act or any preceding medical practice act, or for use in connection with the granting of any certificate or diplomas, or attempting to or conspiring to violate Bus. & Prof. Code § 2287 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2287];

- The purchase, procurement, or altering in any material regard, with fraudulent intent, a diploma, certificate, affidavit, transcript, or other evidence required for the issuing of any certificate or diploma that has been purchased, fraudulently issued, counterfeited, or materially altered, or attempting to or conspiring to violate Bus. & Prof. Code § 2287 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2287];

- Signing or issuing or causing to be signed or issued any certificate authorized by the Medical Practice Act by any licensee not a member or authorized official of the board [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2291];

- The impersonation of, or acting as proxy for, any applicant in any examination required under the Medical Practice Act for a certificate [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2288; see § 414.37[1]]; and

- The impersonation of another licensed practitioner or the permitting or allowing another person to use one's certificate to engage in the practice of medicine or podiatric medicine [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2289].

[14] Failure to Use Own or Approved Fictitious Name

Both anonymous advertising of practice of medicine and advertising or holding oneself out as a medical practitioner under an unapproved assumed name are prohibited by the Medical Practice Act [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2272, 2285].

Any advertising of the practice of medicine in which the licensee fails to use his or her own name or approved fictitious name constitutes unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2272]. The requirement in Bus. & Prof. Code. § 2272 to use one's "own" name requires use of the name under which the physician was licensed. A physician may be disciplined for using another name without notifying the Medical Board, even if adoption of the new name is adopted through nonfraudulent usage [Lin v. Medical Bd. of California (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 39, 43-44, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 221 ($250 fine reasonable)].

The use of any fictitious, false, or assumed name, or any name other than his or her own by a licensee either alone, in conjunction with a partnership or group, or as the name of a professional corporation, in any public communication, advertisement, sign, or announcement of his or her practice without a fictitious name permit obtained pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 2415 constitutes unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2285; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2415 (governing issuance and revocation of physician's fictitious name permit)]. However, Bus. & Prof. Code § 2285 does not apply to licensees who contract with, are employed by, or are on the staff of any clinic licensed by the State Department of Health Services under Health & Safety Code § 1200 et seq. or any medical school approved by the Division or a faculty practice plan connected with such a medical school [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2285]. A person licensed in the healing arts who is employed by an entity that does business under a fictitious name is subject to discipline for practicing under an assumed name [Garvai v. Board of Chiropractic Exmrs. (1963) 216 Cal. App. 2d 374, 378, 31 Cal. Rptr. 187 (decided under the Chiropractic Initiative Act, § 10(a), proscribing use of fictitious names by chiropractors, but language specifically made applicable to physicians)].

[15] Misuse of Title Indicating Right to Practice

The use by a licensee of any certificate, letter, letters, word, words, term, or terms either as a prefix, affix, or suffix indicating that he or she is entitled to engage in a medical practice for which he or she is not licensed constitutes unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2274(a)]. Nothing in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2274 can be construed to prohibit a physician and surgeon from using the designations specified in section 2274 if the physician and surgeon has been issued a retired license under Bus. & Prof. Code § 2439 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2274(b)].

Unless a person authorized under the Medical Practice Act to use the title "Doctor" or the prefix "Dr." holds a physician's and surgeon's certificate, the use of such title, letters, or prefix, without further indicating the type of certificate held, constitutes unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2278].

Any person who held a physician's and surgeon's certificate under the jurisdiction of the of Osteopathic Medical Board of California and a degree of Doctor of Medicine issued by a medical school located in the state at any time prior to September 30, 1962, and approved by either the Osteopathic Medical Board of California or the Medical Board of California at the time that such degree was issued, who applied in writing to the Medical Board of California for permission to utilize his or her degree of doctor of medicine, will be authorized to use the term of suffix "M.D.," and such use will not constitute unprofessional conduct, as long as such person advised both boards, in writing, that he or she has elected to use such term or suffix and further has elected not to use the term or suffix "D.O." In the event of such an election, the use of the term or suffix "D.O." constitutes unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2275].

Unless the holder of any certificate provided for under the Medical Practice Act has been granted the degree of doctor of osteopathy after the completion of a full course of study as prescribed by an approved osteopathic medical school in accordance with the applicable provisions of the Business and Professions Code, the use of the term or suffix "D.O." constitutes unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2276].

[16] False Advertising or Procurement

Bus. & Prof. Code § 17500 generally prohibits any advertising that is untrue or misleading and that is known or in the exercise of reasonable care should have been known to be untrue or misleading to the disseminator of the advertising. This statute is set forth and discussed generally in Ch. 14, Advertising.

Any advertising in violation of Bus. & Prof. Code § 17500 constitutes unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2271; see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 651 (restricting content of advertisements)]. A licensee who uses an expression with a double meaning in advertising may not escape the charge of misleading or deceptive advertising by claiming that since he or she meant them, the words were true [Smulson v. Board of Dental Examiners (1941) 47 Cal. App. 2d 584, 590, 118 P.2d 483 (decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 1680(11), now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 1680(h), proscribing deceptive advertising by dentists)].

The employment of runners, cappers, steerers, or other persons to procure patients constitutes unprofessional conduct, except as otherwise allowed by law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2273]. This unprofessional conduct is a public offense, subject to stringent criminal penalties (discussed under § 414.66[8]) [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2314(b), 2315(b)].

[17] Employing, Aiding, or Abetting Unlicensed Persons in Medical Practice

The employing, directly or indirectly, the aiding, or the abetting of any unlicensed person or any suspended, revoked, or unlicensed practitioner to engage in the practice of medicine or any other mode of treating the sick or afflicted that requires a license to practice constitutes unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2264; see also § 414.92[2]]. A licensee must have known that a person whom he or she employed was engaging in practice that requires a license in order to be guilty of unprofessional conduct [Barrett v. Board of Osteopathic Exmrs. (1935) 4 Cal. App. 2d 135, 138-139, 40 P.2d 923 (decided under former Medical Practice Act § 14(7a); now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2264)].

The fact that the unlicensed persons whom the accused employed or aided and abetted in practicing medicine were physicians who, though they lacked California licenses, had training that enabled them to practice competently, does not exculpate the accused licensee [Magit v. Board of Medical Examiners (1961) 57 Cal. 2d 74, 85, 17 Cal. Rptr. 488, 366 P.2d 816 (decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code 2392; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2264)].

The fact that a licensee supervised unlicensed persons whom he or she is accused of employing or aiding or abetting in practice or that such unlicensed persons consulted with the licensee does not render the unauthorized medical practice proper [Magit v. Board of Medical Examiners (1961) 57 Cal. 2d 74, 84, 17 Cal. Rptr. 488, 366 P.2d 816 (supervision of unlicensed persons); O'Reilly v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 381, 388, 58 Cal. Rptr. 7, 426 P.2d 167 , cert. denied, 390 U.S. 944 (1968) (decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2392; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2264)].

Although former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2665 (now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2630) provides that a physical therapist's aide may engage in certain practices that would otherwise require a license under the orders, directions, and supervision of a licensee, a hospital director is subject to discipline for employing an unlicensed practitioner when he or she does not attempt to provide the supervision required for unlicensed persons engaging in such practices [O'Reilly v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 381, 388, 58 Cal. Rptr. 7, 426 P.2d 167 , cert. denied, 390 U.S. 944 (1968) (decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2392; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2264)].

[18] Employment of Fee Arrangements With Acupuncturists

A licensed physician and surgeon or a licensed podiatrist, or a group of physicians and surgeons or podiatrists, or a medical or podiatry corporation must not share in any fee charged by an acupuncturist or receive any consideration from or on behalf of such acupuncturist for any referral or diagnosis [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2284(a)].

A licensed physician and surgeon or podiatrist must not employ more than one acupuncturist, and a group of physicians and surgeons or podiatrists, or a medical or podiatry corporation must not employ more than one acupuncturist for every 20 practitioners in such a group or corporation [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2284(b), (c)].

[19] Unprofessional Conduct Involving Treatment or Referral of Patients

Violation of any provision of Health & Safety Code § 1400 et seq., relating to the unlawful referral of patients to extended care facilities, constitutes unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2255]. Intentional violation of Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 5326.2-5326.8, inclusive, relating to the rights of involuntarily confined inpatients, also constitutes unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2256].

The following types of conduct relating to the treatment of cancer constitute unprofessional conduct:

(1) The violation of any provisions of Health & Safety Code § 1700 et seq., relating to the treatment of cancer, or any violation of an injunction or a cease and desist order issued under such provisions [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2252];

(2) Failure to inform a patient by means of a standardized written summary, as developed by the Department of Public Health on the recommendation of the Cancer Advisory Council, in layman's language and in a language understood by the patient, of alternative efficacious methods of treatment that may be medically viable, including surgical, radiological, or chemotherapeutic treatments or combinations thereof, when the patient is being treated for any form of breast cancer [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2257; Health & Safety Code § 1704.5]. Prior to the performance of a biopsy, it must be noted on the patient's chart that the patient has been given the written summary [Health & Safety Code § 1704.5]; and

(3) The violation of former Health & Safety Code § 1708.5 (repealed by its own terms on January 1, 1985) relating to the use of laetrile or amygdalin with respect to cancer therapy [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2258].

Failure to comply with the Reproductive Privacy Act, Health & Safety Code § 123460 et seq. in performing, assisting, procuring or aiding, abetting, attempting, agreeing, or offering to procure an illegal abortion constitutes unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2253(a)].

It is unprofessional conduct to violate Health & Safety Code § 25956, which provides that it is unlawful for any person to use any aborted product of human conception, other than fetal remains, for any type of scientific or laboratory research or for any other kind of experimentation or study, except to protect or preserve the life and health of the fetus. "Fetal remains" as used in Health & Safety Code § 25956 means a lifeless product of conception regardless of the duration of pregnancy. A fetus will not be deemed to be lifeless for the purposes of Health & Safety Code § 25956 unless there is an absence of a discernible heartbeat [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2254; Health & Safety Code § 25956].

Willful failure to comply with the requirements of Welf. & Inst. Code § 14191 et seq. and the regulations promulgated thereunder, relating to informed consent for sterilization procedures, constitutes unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2250].

The willful, unauthorized violation of professional confidence constitutes unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2263]. The willfulness requirement of this rule requires some design or intent to do injury, or a conscious disregard of duty. The rule was never intended to seal the lips of the physician against any and all disclosure regardless of harmless character, nor was it intended to embrace disclosure of facts not connected with the practice of the profession [McPheeters v. Board of Medical Examiners (1930) 103 Cal. App. 297, 301, 284 P. 938 (interpreting former Medical Practice Act § 14(2); now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2263)].

[20] Regular Practice in Hospitals Not Having Certain Rules

The regular practice of medicine in a licensed general or specialized hospital having five or more physicians and surgeons on the medical staff constitutes unprofessional conduct if the hospital does not have rules, established by the board of directors thereof, that govern the operation of the hospital and that include all of the following provisions [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2282]:

(1) Provision for the organization of physicians and surgeons licensed to practice in California who are permitted to practice in the hospital into a formal medical staff with appropriate officers and bylaws and with staff appointments on an annual or biennial basis;

(2) Provision that membership on the medical staff must be restricted to physicians and surgeons and other licensed practitioners competent in their respective fields and worthy in professional ethics. In this respect, the division of profits from professional fees in any manner will be prohibited and any such division will be cause for exclusion from the staff;

(3) Provisions that the medical staff will be self-governing with respect to the professional work performed in the hospital, that the medical staff will meet periodically and review and analyze at regular intervals their clinical experience, and that the medical records of patients will be the basis for such review and analysis; and

(4) Provision that adequate and accurate medical records be prepared and maintained for all patients.

The regular practice of medicine in a licensed general or specialized hospital having fewer than five physicians and surgeons on the medical staff constitutes unprofessional conduct if the hospital does not have rules, established by the board of directors thereof, that govern the operation of the hospital and that include, among other provisions, all of the provisions stated in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2282(b), (d), listed above [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2283].

The Division of Medical Quality or the Senior Assistant Attorney General of the Health Quality Enforcement Section may inspect a licensed general or specialized hospital and require reports therefrom to determine if the hospital has adopted and is complying with the provisions of Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2282 and 2283, discussed above. They may inspect medical staff and patient hospital medical records subject to the provisions of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2225 (physician-patient privilege does not apply to investigations or proceedings under Medical Practice Act; names of patients affected as required to be kept confidential until proceedings are instituted). Notwithstanding Bus. & Prof. Code § 2224 (delegation of authority by Division), the Division's authority under Bus. & Prof. Code § 2226 must be delegated only to a licensed physician and surgeon [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2226].

[21] Violating Moscone-Knox Professional Corporation Act

It will constitute unprofessional conduct for any licensee to violate, to attempt to violate, directly or indirectly, to assist in or abet the violation of, or to conspire to violate any provision or term of Corp. Code § 13400 et seq. (Moscone-Knox Professional Corporation Act) or of any rules and regulations duly adapted under those sections [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2286].

[22] Testimony as Expert Witness in Medical Malpractice Action

The Board may discipline a physician for unprofessional conduct even though the actual misconduct does not constitute the practice of medicine or cause harm to individual patients, as long as the misconduct relates to the physician's fitness or competence to practice medicine. Conceivably, such misconduct would include court testimony given on behalf of a plaintiff or defendant as to the appropriate standard of medical care and whether the defendant has breached that standard [see Austin v. American Ass'n of Neurological Surgeons (7th Cir. 2001) 253 F.3d 967, 971-974 ; Joseph v. D.C. Bd. of Medicine (D.C. App. 1991) 587 A.2d 1085, 1086-1091] . Whether the court testimony in a particular malpractice suit may be found to constitute misconduct would depend upon all the relevant circumstances [87 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 48 (2004)] .

[23] Discipline Against a Licensee in Another State

The revocation, suspension, or other discipline by another state of a license or certificate to practice medicine issued by the state, or the revocation, suspension, or restriction of the authority to practice medicine by any agency of the federal government, to a licensee under the Medical Practice Act will constitute grounds for disciplinary action for unprofessional conduct against the licensee in California [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2305]. Bus. & Prof. Code § 141(a) permits state licensing boards generally to impose discipline based on a disciplinary action taken by another state, a federal agency or another country. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2305, which is the more specific statute, did not impliedly repeal § 141. The two can be reconciled by treating § 2305 as an exception to, but not a replacement of, § 141. Since § 2305 requires disciplinary action against a licensee based on discipline imposed by another state, but only if the other jurisdiction's action would have been grounds for discipline in California. When the basis of the other state's action would not have been grounds for discipline in California, then § 141 can be applied [Medical Board v. Superior Court (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 1001, 1004-1005, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 381] .

The broad language of the Bus. & Prof. Code § 2305 does not limit its application only to professional discipline imposed after a full hearing on the merits. The statue applies by its terms to any discipline imposed by another state on the holder of a license or certificate to practice medicine issued by that state, and thus includes acquiescence by signing a consent decree to disciplinary action without any admission of the charges brought by the foreign jurisdiction [Marek v. Board of Podiatric Medicine (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 1089, 1096, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 474] .

[24] Moral Turpitude

[a] In General

In amending the Medical Practice Act in 1980, the Legislature repealed former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2383 (conviction of felony or of misdemeanor involving moral turpitude) and replaced it with Bus. & Prof. Code § 2236 (conviction of crime substantially related to practice of medicine as unprofessional conduct; see § 414.63[3]). Thus, there are no longer any provisions in the Medical Practice Act that require a finding of moral turpitude to support a finding that a licensee is guilty of unprofessional conduct. A showing that the accused demonstrated moral turpitude in committing a crime, however, may satisfy the substantial relatedness requirement of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2236(a) by showing that the licensee is morally unfit to practice medicine [Windham v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 461, 469-471, 163 Cal. Rptr. 566 (interpreting Bus. & Prof. Code § 490, which provides that professional license may only be suspended for conviction of crime substantially related to practice of profession for which license was granted, and noting that former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2383 (now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2236) contains identical provisions regarding practice of medicine)].

Similarly, there is no constitutional requirement that conduct by a licensee involve moral turpitude in order to be the basis for discipline [Windham v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 461, 466, 163 Cal. Rptr. 566] . A showing of moral turpitude that establishes the licensee's moral unfitness to practice medicine, however, may establish the constitutionally required nexus between the accused's conduct and the practice of medicine, just as it may establish the nexus with regard to conviction of a crime required by Bus. & Prof. Code § 2236(a) [see Windham v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 461, 470, 163 Cal. Rptr. 566 (intentional dishonesty as showing lack of moral character and satisfying finding of unfitness to practice); Matanky v. Board of Medical Examiners (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 293, 305, 144 Cal. Rptr. 826 ; see also § 414.113[3][h]].

A finding of moral turpitude made in addition to the finding that the accused was guilty of unprofessional conduct may also be used as a factor in determining the appropriate penalty to be imposed [see Yakov v. Board of Medical Examiners (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 67, 69, 75, 64 Cal. Rptr. 785, 435 P.2d 553 ; Matanky v. Board of Medical Examiners (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 293, 301-302, 144 Cal. Rptr. 826] .

[b] Establishing Moral Turpitude

Determination of whether or not certain conduct involves moral turpitude is an ultimate conclusion to be drawn from undisputed facts. It is therefore a question of law, which may be independently taken up by the appellate courts [Yakov v. Board of Medical Examiners (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 67, 74 n.7, 64 Cal. Rptr. 785, 435 P.2d 553 ; Matanky v. Board of Medical Examiners (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 293, 303, 144 Cal. Rptr. 826] .

Moral turpitude has variously been defined in such broad terms as baseness, vileness, or depravity. However, the question of whether an accused's acts involved moral turpitude cannot be determined in the abstract, but depends on whether such acts demonstrate the accused's unfitness to practice [Yakov v. Board of Medical Examiners (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 67, 73 n.5, 64 Cal. Rptr. 785, 435 P.2d 553 ; see § 414.113[3][h]].

The physician's motivation in engaging in the misconduct of which he or she is accused is crucial for a finding of moral turpitude. Thus, the Supreme Court has found that the furnishing of dangerous drugs without a prescription did not involve moral turpitude when surrounding circumstances showed that the accused was not acting for personal gain [Yakov v. Board of Medical Examiners (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 67, 73-74, 64 Cal. Rptr. 785, 435 P.2d 553 (decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2391.5; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2238 (violation of drug law as unprofessional conduct))].

Conviction of a criminal offense by itself, without evidence concerning the circumstances surrounding the offense, is evidence of moral turpitude only if the minimum elements for conviction of the offense necessarily involve moral turpitude, so that a conviction cannot be had without proof of facts involving moral turpitude. Investigation into the circumstances surrounding the committing of an offense that does not necessarily involve moral turpitude, however, may show that it was committed by acts involving moral turpitude [Lorenz v. Board of Medical Examiners (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 684, 687, 298 P.2d 537 ; Matanky v. Board of Medical Examiners (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 293, 302, 144 Cal. Rptr. 826] .

Crimes involving fraud or intentional dishonesty for personal gain involve moral turpitude, whatever other sorts of conduct the concept may include [Matanky v. Board of Medical Examiners (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 293, 303, 144 Cal. Rptr. 826] .

[25] Failure to Provide Service Under National Health Services Corps Program

On referral by the National Health Services Corps to the Attorney General of the United States of any physician or surgeon who fails to provide service as a general practitioner or physician and surgeon as required pursuant to the grant agreement entered into between the physician and surgeon and the National Health Services Corps program [see 42 U.S.C.S. § 254d] or the federal loan insurance program [see 42 U.S.C.S. § 294], the Medical Licensing Board must review the facts and circumstances of the default and take appropriate disciplinary action when the board determines that the licensee has committed unprofessional conduct in violation of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2234 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2430].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Criminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesSex CrimesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersSurgeonsHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & SuspensionHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationPeer ReviewGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentFailures to Disclose & WarnTreatment OptionsInsurance LawMalpractice InsuranceGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceStandards of CareGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.64

§ 414.64 Practice in Profession as Not Controlling Standard

When the law sets a standard for proper professional conduct, the standard exacted by law is controlling over practice in the profession [Brown v. State Department of Health (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 548, 556, 150 Cal. Rptr. 344 (decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2411; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2261)]. Testimony regarding the practice in the profession is not material to the standard exacted by law [see Stevenson v. State Bd. of Medical Examiners (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 433, 438, 88 Cal. Rptr. 815 (decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2392; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2264); but see Gore v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1980) 110 Cal. App. 3d 184, 196, 167 Cal. Rptr. 881 (testimony by medical expert may be used to establish extreme departure from ordinary medical practice in gross negligence case, interpreting former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2361; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2234)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesStandards of CareGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersDoctors & PhysiciansHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & SuspensionTortsNegligenceProofCustomMedical Customs

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.65

§ 414.65 Requirement of Nexus With Practice of Medicine

[1] In General

The state has plenary power to regulate the practice of medicine [Mann v. Board of Medical Examiners (1947) 31 Cal. 2d 30, 41, 187 P.2d 1] . However, this power is subject to constitutional limits. The right to practice medicine is a property right of the highest character [Rinaldo v. Board of Medical Exmrs. (1935) 5 Cal. App. 2d 345, 352, 42 P.2d 724] . It is a right that is sufficiently precious to surround it with a panoply of legal protections [Yakov v. Board of Medical Examiners (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 67, 75, 64 Cal. Rptr. 785 . 435 P.2d 553] .

The purpose of revoking a physician's license is to protect the public, not to punish the physician. The board can achieve a legitimate punitive purpose only by seeking criminal prosecution [Yakov v. Board of Medical Examiners (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 67, 73 n.6, 64 Cal. Rptr. 785, 435 P.2d 553 ; Watson v. Superior Court (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 1407, 1416, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 715] .

Thus, one court has held that when a physician's professional development is unaffected and the patient community is not placed in jeopardy, private acts of a physician are his or her own business and may not be the basis of discipline [Grannis v. Board of Medical Examiners (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 551, 561-562, 96 Cal. Rptr. 863 , disapproved by Watson v. Superior Court (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 1407, 1422, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 715 ; see Morrison v. State Board of Education (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 214, 239, 82 Cal. Rptr. 175, 461 P.2d 375]. Similarly, the question of whether a licensee's conduct demonstrated moral turpitude is limited to the effect of the licensee's actions on the quality of his or her services [Yakov v. Board of Medical Examiners (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 67, 73 n.6, 64 Cal. Rptr. 785, 435 P.2d 553 ; see § 414.113[3][g][i]; see also Watson v. Superior Court (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 1407, 1424, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 715 (driving while intoxicated demonstrates unwillingness to obey laws against such conduct and constitutes serious breach of duty to society)].

Statutes declaring a specific course of conduct to be unprofessional conduct are similarly subject to the nexus requirement in their application. Thus, the proscription against the use or administration of alcoholic beverages to an extent dangerous to himself or herself, to any person and to the public in former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2390 (now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2239(a)) is only a linguistic abstraction until given content by reference to fitness for the performance of the vocation of medicine [Grannis v. Board of Medical Examiners (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 551, 561-562, 96 Cal. Rptr. 863] . However, the existence of a nexus does not require a finding of an actual, adverse impact on the past day-to-day practice of medicine, but may be satisfied by a potential for such adverse impact in the future [Watson v. Superior Court (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 1407, 1416, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 715].

The California Code of Regulations provides that for the purposes of denial, suspension, or revocation of a license, certificate, or permit, a crime or act will be considered to be substantially related to the qualifications, functions, or duties of a person holding a license, certificate or permit under the Medical Practice Act if to a substantial degree it evidences present or potential unfitness of the person to perform the functions authorized by the license, certificate, or permit in a manner consistent with the public health, safety, or welfare [16 Cal. Code Reg. § 1360].

[2] Limits to Nexus Requirement

The fact that a physician's technical competence or skill has not been impeached will not prevent the physician from being subject to disciplinary action when his or her moral character is in dispute [Matanky v. Board of Medical Examiners (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 293, 305, 144 Cal. Rptr. 826] . Thus, intentional dishonesty demonstrates a lack of moral character and satisfies a finding of unfitness to practice medicine, in view of the extent to which the relationship between physician and patient is based on trust and confidence in the physician's honesty and integrity [Foster v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1991) 227 Cal. App. 3d 1606, 1610, 278 Cal. Rptr. 117 ; Windham v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 461, 470, 163 Cal. Rptr. 566] .

Filing intentionally false income tax returns and filing intentionally fraudulent medicare claims alleging services not performed have both been found to satisfy the nexus requirement by showing moral unfitness to practice medicine [Windham v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 461, 469, 163 Cal. Rptr. 566 ; Matanky v. Board of Medical Examiners (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 293, 305-306, 144 Cal. Rptr. 826] . In addition, the submission of false proof of malpractice insurance to a hospital that required all of its physicians to be insured has been found to satisfy the nexus requirement [see Foster v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1991) 227 Cal. App. 3d 1606, 1610, 278 Cal. Rptr. 117] . Similarly, a physician's plea of guilty to solicitation of subornation of perjury, which has as its hallmark an act of dishonesty, has been found substantially related to the individual's qualifications as a physician [see Krain v. Medical Board (1999) 71 Cal. App. 4th 1416, 1425, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 586] .

Similarly, an instance of unprofessional conduct need not be related to present unfitness to practice to warrant imposing discipline. One court of appeal upheld imposition of discipline for abuse of alcohol to such an extent as to be dangerous to the public, as manifested by two drunk driving violations, when expert testimony during the hearing showed that the accused suffered from a condition of alcoholism that might at some future date render him unfit to practice [see Grannis v. Board of Medical Examiners (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 551, 562-563, 96 Cal. Rptr. 863] .

Another court of appeal has held that a misdemeanor conviction resulting from the accused's having made a homosexual proposition in a public restroom was sufficiently related to the practice of an internist, many of whose patients were male, to warrant the imposition of discipline [see McLaughlin v. Board of Medical Examiners (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 1010, 1014-1016, 111 Cal. Rptr. 353] .

No independent nexus need be shown between the practice of medicine and a criminal conviction involving drugs to warrant the imposition of discipline, since the Legislature was constitutionally permitted to determine that in light of the crucial role played by physicians in the distribution of drugs, misuse of drugs by physicians represents a particular danger to the public that justifies special regulation [Weissbuch v. Board of Medical Examiners (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 924, 929, 116 Cal. Rptr. 479] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesStandards of CareGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersDoctors & PhysiciansHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & SuspensionHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationPeer ReviewGeneral OverviewTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityHealthcare Providers

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.66

§ 414.66 Types of Disciplinary Action

[1] In General

A licensee whose matter has been heard by an administrative law judge of the Medical Quality Hearing Panel as designated in Gov. Code § 11371, or whose default has been entered, and who is found guilty may suffer any of the following, in accordance with the provisions of the Medical Practice Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2227]:

- Have his or her license revoked on order of the Board;
- Have his or her right to practice suspended for a period not to exceed one year on order of the Board [§ 414.66[2]];
- Be placed on probation on order of the Board [§ 414.66[3]];
- Be publicly reprimanded by the Board; or
- Have any other action taken in relation to discipline as part of an order of probation, as the Board or administrative judge may deem proper.

[2] Suspension

If a person's right to practice medicine is suspended, he or she must not engage in the practice of medicine during the term of the suspension. On the expiration of the term of suspension, the certificate will be reinstated, unless the licensee during the term of suspension is found to have engaged in the practice of medicine in California. In that event the Board will revoke the licensee's certificate to engage in the practice of medicine [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2306].

[3] Probation and Conditional Stay of Penalty

The authority of the California Medical Board, or the California Board of Podiatric Medicine to discipline a licensee by placing him or her on probation includes, but is not limited to, the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2228]:

- Requiring the licensee to obtain additional professional training and to pass an examination on the completion of the training. The examination may be written or oral, or both, and may be a practical or clinical examination, or both, at the option of the Board or administrative law judge.

- Requiring the licensee to submit to a complete diagnostic examination by one or more physicians and surgeons appointed by the Board. If such an examination is ordered, the Board will receive and consider any other report of a complete diagnostic examination given by one or more physicians and surgeons of the licensee's choice.

- Restricting or limiting the extent, scope, or type of practice of the licensee, including requiring notice to applicable patients that the licensee is unable to perform the indicated treatment, when appropriate.

- Providing the option of alternative community service in cases other than violations relating to quality of care, as defined by the Board.

Each physician and surgeon placed on probation by the Board will be subject to the Board's Probation Surveillance Compliance Program and will be required to fully cooperate with representatives of the Board and its investigative personnel. Cooperation includes submission to laboratory testing for the purpose of determining the existence of alcohol, narcotics, other controlled substances, and/or dangerous drugs in his or her system. The tests will be made at the times and places required by the Board or its duly authorized representative. Any monetary fees incurred as a result of the laboratory tests will be borne by the physician-probationer [16 Cal. Code Reg. § 1358].

One court of appeal upheld an order by the Board imposing the taking of an educational course as a condition of staying the suspension of a physician's license [Gore v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1980) 110 Cal. App. 3d 184, 189-190, 199, 167 Cal. Rptr. 881] .

[4] Public Letter of Reprimand

The Board by stipulation or settlement with the affected physician and surgeon, may issue a public letter of reprimand after it has conducted an investigation or inspection, rather than filing or prosecuting a formal accusation. The public letter of reprimand, at the discretion of the Board, may include a requirement for specified training or education. The affected physician and surgeon must indicate agreement or nonagreement in writing within 30 days of formal notification by the Board of its intention to issue the letter. The Board, at its option, may extend the response time. Use of a public reprimand is limited to minor violations and is issued under guidelines established by regulations of the Board. A public letter of reprimand may be disclosed to an inquiring member of the public [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2233].

[5] Interim Discipline

The administrative law judge of the Medical Quality Hearing Panel established pursuant to Gov. Code § 11371, sitting alone, may issue an interim order suspending a license, or imposing drug testing, continuing education, supervision of procedures, or other license restrictions when it appears that the licensee has violated, or is about to violate, the provisions of the Medical Practice Act or is unable to practice safely due to a mental or physical condition, and that permitting a licensee's continued practice of medicine may endanger the public health, safety, or welfare [Gov. Code § 11529(a)]. These orders may be issued ex parte, under specified circumstances [see Gov. Code § 11529(b)]. For discussion of interim orders, see § 414.69[5].

[6] Protection of Public and Rehabilitation as Factors in Assessment of Discipline

Protection of the public is the highest priority for the Medical Board of California, the California Board of Podiatric Medicine, and administrative law judges of the Medical Quality Hearing Panel in exercising its disciplinary authority [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2229(a)].

In exercising his or her disciplinary authority, an administrative law judge of the Medical Quality Hearing Panel, whenever possible, must take action that is calculated to aid in the rehabilitation of the licensee, or when, due to a lack of continuing education or other reasons, restrictions on scope of practice is indicated, to order restrictions as are indicated by the evidence [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2229(b); see also Kenneally v. Lungren (9th Cir. 1992) 967 F.2d 329, 334 (Division of Medical Quality was not obligated under Bus. & Prof. Code § 2229(b) to accept physician's settlement offer)].

It is the intent of the Legislature that the Medical Board of California, the California Board of Podiatric Medicine, and the enforcement program will seek out those licensees who have demonstrated deficiencies in competency and then take those actions as are indicated, with priority given to those measures, including further education, restrictions from practice, or other means that will remove those deficiencies. When rehabilitation and protection are inconsistent, protection must be paramount [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2229(c)].

[7] Severity of Discipline Not Dependent on Injury to Patient

The severity of the discipline that may be imposed on the physician does not depend on whether patients have been injured by the physician's illegal medical practices [Bryce v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 1471, 1475, 229 Cal. Rptr. 483] .

[8] Criminal Penalties

Unless it is otherwise expressly provided, any person, whether licensed under the Medical Practice Act or not, who violates any provision of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2220 et seq. (unprofessional conduct and discipline) is guilty of a misdemeanor [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2314(a)]. Except as otherwise provided by law, any person found guilty of a misdemeanor for violation of the Medical Practice Act will be punished by a fine of $200 to $1200, or by imprisonment of 60 to 180 days, or by both [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2315(a)].

A person, whether licensed under the Medical Practice Act or not, who violates Bus. & Prof. Code § 2273 (employment of runners, cappers, steerers, or other persons to procure patients) is punishable on a first conviction by imprisonment in the county jail for up to one year. A second or subsequent conviction is punishable by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than one year or by imprisonment in the state prison for 16 months or 2 or 3 years, or by a fine not exceeding $10,000, or by both the fine and imprisonment [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2314(b), 2315(b)].

The Supreme Court has held that notwithstanding the provisions now contained in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2314 and 2315, violations of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2220 et seq. are not criminal violations, unless the statute violated expressly so provides. The Court reasoned that former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2426, which contained the provisions now contained in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2314 and 2315, discussed above, was meant only to set the proper punishment for those violations that are expressly described ascriminal violations, and does not mean that violations that are merely described as unprofessional conduct are misdemeanors [People v. Superior Court (Douglass) (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 428, 432, 434-435, 155 Cal. Rptr. 704, 595 P.2d 139 (prescribing, administering, or furnishing dangerous drugs without prior examination or medical indication as not constituting misdemeanor)]. It is not clear, however, how the 1980 amendments to the Medical Practice Act, pursuant to which provisions for punishment are no longer obtained in the same section that declares that violation of Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2220-2319 constitutes a misdemeanor, but are set forth in a separate section, affects the validity of this holding [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2314(a) (violation of statute as misdemeanor), 2315(a) (punishment for misdemeanor)].

[9] Injunctive Relief

Bus. & Prof. Code § 2311 provides that the superior court of any county may issue an injunction or other appropriate restraining order on application of the Board or of 10 persons licensed as physicians and surgeons or podiatrists in California whenever any person has engaged in or is about to engage in any acts or practices that constitute or will constitute an offense against the provisions of the Medical Practice Act. Proceedings for obtaining such relief under Bus. & Prof. Code § 2311 are governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 525 et seq.

The Board is required to seek an injunction against any physician and surgeon within its jurisdiction if it has reasonable cause to believe that allowing that person to continue to engage in the practice of medicine would endanger the public safety, health, or welfare [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2312].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationPresiding OfficersDuties & PowersGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsAdministrative BoardsGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsLicensesHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersDoctors & PhysiciansHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & SuspensionHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationPeer ReviewGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.67

§ 414.67 Public Nature of Disciplinary Proceedings

Any matter heard pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 2227(a) (see § 414.66[1]), except for warning letters, medical review or advisory conferences, professional competency examinations, continuing education activities, and cost reimbursement associated with them agreed to with the Board and successfully completed by the licensee, or other matters made confidential or privileged by existing law, is deemed public, and will be made available to the public by the board pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 803.1 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2227(b); see, e.g., Fulton v. Medical Bd. of Cal., 183 Cal. App. 4th 1510, 1514-1517, 2010 Cal. App. LEXIS 555, 6-12 (Board required to publish information about actions initiated while individual licensed to practice in California, and update disclosures even if person no longer licensed in California)].

Bus. & Prof. Code § 2027 requires the Board to post on the Internet any information required to be disclosed pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 803.1. Thus, pursuant to their plain language, former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2027(a)(8) [now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2027(a)(9)] and Bus. & Prof. Code § 803.1(a)(3) require the Board to post on the Internet information regarding periods of probation imposed by the Board on a licensee [Szold v. Medical Bd. of Cal. (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 591, 595-599, 25 Cal. Rptr. 3d 665] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersDoctors & PhysiciansHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

155 of 187 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.68

§ 414.68 Action in Case of Mental or Physical Illness

[1] In General

The Medical Practice Act no longer provides specifically for action regarding physicians who are suffering from debilitating mental or physical illness. Instead, Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 820-828 provide generally for action by the appropriate licensing agency in case of debilitating mental or physical illness by any licensed practitioner of the healing arts. As used in Bus. & Prof. Code § 820 et seq. with reference to persons holding licenses as physicians and surgeons, licensing agency means a panel of the Division of Medical Quality [Bus. & Prof. Code § 825].

[2] Proceedings Available

Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 820 and 822 set out the proceedings for acting in case a licentiate is suffering from debilitating mental or physical illness. The licensing agency may proceed against a licentiate under either Bus. & Prof. Code § 820 or 822, or under both sections [Bus. & Prof. Code § 824].

[3] Diagnostic Examination

Whenever it appears that any person holding a license, certificate, or permit in the healing arts regulated by the Business and Professions Code may be unable to practice his or her profession safely because the licentiate's ability to practice is impaired due to mental illness, or to physical illness affecting competency, the licensing agency may order the licentiate to be examined by one or more physicians and surgeons or psychologists designated by the agency. The report of the examiners must be made available to the licentiate and may be received as direct evidence in proceedings conducted pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 822 (discussed under § 414.68[5]) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 820; Kees v. Medical Board (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 1801, 1802-1814, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 112 (upholding constitutionality of Bus. & Prof. Code § 820 with respect to right to privacy); Alexander D. v. State Bd. of Dental Examiners (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 92, 98, 99, 282 Cal. Rptr. 201 (upholding constitutionality of Bus. & Prof. Code § 820 with respect to due process rights)]. The licentiate's failure to comply with an order issued under Bus. & Prof. Code § 820 constitutes grounds for the suspension or revocation of the licentiate's certificate or license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 821].

A court order for more than one psychiatric examination may be an invasion of the licentiate's constitutional right to privacy unless the Board makes a showing of good cause for the additional examination [Kees v. Medical Board (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 1801, 1814-1815, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 112] .

[4] Proceedings in Closed Session

Notwithstanding the provisions of Gov. Code § 11120 et seq. relating to public meetings, the licensing agency may convene in closed session to consider any evidence relating to the licentiate's mental or physical illness obtained pursuant to the proceedings under Bus. & Prof. Code § 820 (examination procedure). The licensing agency may only convene in closed session to the extent that it is necessary to protect the privacy of a licentiate [Bus. & Prof. Code § 827].

[5] Restriction of Right to Practice

If a licensing agency determines that its licentiate's ability to practice his or her profession safely is impaired because the licentiate is mentally ill, or physically ill to an extent that affects competency, the licensing agency may take action by one of the following methods [Bus. & Prof. Code § 822]:

- Revoking the licentiate's certificate or license.
- Suspending the licentiate's right to practice.
- Placing the licentiate on probation.
- Taking such other action in relation to the licentiate as the licensing agency in its discretion deems proper.

[6] Procedure if Proceedings to Restrict Right to Practice Not Initiated After Examination

If the licensing agency determines, pursuant to proceedings conducted under Bus. & Prof. Code § 820 (diagnostic examination), that there is insufficient evidence to bring an action against the licentiate pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 822 (restriction of right to practice), then all licensing agency records of the proceedings, including the order for the examination, investigative reports, if any, and the report of the physicians and surgeons or psychologists, must be kept confidential and are not subject to discovery or subpoena. If no further proceedings are conducted to determine the licentiate's fitness to practice during a period of five years from the date of the determination of the licensing agency of the proceeding pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 820, then the licensing agency must purge and destroy all records pertaining to the proceedings. If new proceedings are instituted during the five-year period against the licentiate by the licensing agency, the records, including the report of the physicians and surgeons or psychologists, may be used in the proceedings and must be available to the respondent pursuant to the provisions of Gov. Code § 11507.6 (request for discovery in administrative proceedings) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 828].

The proceedings under Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 821 and 822 (discussed under § 414.68[5]) must be conducted in accordance with Gov. Code § 11500 et seq. (administrative trials), and the licensing agency and the licentiate have all the rights and powers granted by these provisions [Bus. & Prof. Code § 826]. Analogous statutory provisions contained in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230 are discussed in § 414.69[1]. For detailed discussion of the Administrative Procedure Act, see Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication et seq.

[7] Reinstatement of Right to Practice

Notwithstanding any other provisions of law, reinstatement of a licentiate against whom action has been taken pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 822 (discussed under § 414.68[5]) is governed by the procedures set out in Bus. & Prof. Code §

820 et seq. [Bus. & Prof. Code § 823]. For a discussion of reinstatement or modification of penalty after discipline has been imposed for unprofessional conduct rather than for debilitating illness, see the discussion under § 414.74.

In reinstating a certificate or license that has been revoked or suspended under Bus. & Prof. Code § 822, the licensing agency may impose terms and conditions to be complied with by the licentiate after the certificate or license has been reinstated. The authority of the licensing agency to impose terms and conditions includes, but is not limited to, the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 823]:

- Requiring the licentiate to obtain additional professional training and to pass an examination on the completion of the training.

- Requiring the licentiate to pass an oral, written, practical, or clinical examination, or any combination thereof to determine his or her present fitness to engage in the practice of his or her profession.

- Requiring the licentiate to submit to a complete diagnostic examination by one or more physicians and surgeons or psychologists appointed by the licensing agency. If the licensing agency requires the licentiate to submit to such an examination, the licensing agency must receive or consider any other report of a complete diagnostic examination given by one or more physicians and surgeons or psychologists of the licentiate's choice.

- Requiring the licentiate to undergo continuing treatment.

- Restricting or limiting the extent, scope, or type of practice of the licentiate.

The licensing agency may not reinstate a revoked or suspended certificate or license until it has received competent evidence of the absence or control of the condition that caused its action and until it is satisfied that with due regard for the public health and safety the person's right to practice his or her profession may be safely reinstated [Bus. & Prof. Code § 822].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsEvidenceGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.69

§ 414.69 Disciplinary Proceedings for Unprofessional Conduct

[1] Application of Administrative Procedure Act

All proceedings against a licensee or applicant for licensure for unprofessional conduct must be conducted in accordance with Gov. Code § 11500 et seq., which govern administrative trials generally [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230(a); see Gov. Code § 11373(a)]. For a general discussion of administrative trials, see Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication , et seq.

[2] Prosecuting Authority

Proceedings against a licensee or applicant for licensure for unprofessional conduct will be prosecuted by the Senior Assistant Attorney General of the Health Quality Enforcement Section [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230; Gov. Code § 12529(a)].

[3] Authority and Duties of Board

[a] In General

Except as otherwise provided by law, the Board may take action against all persons guilty of violating the provisions of the Medical Practice Act. The Board must enforce the provisions of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2220 et seq., which define instances of unprofessional conduct and provide for disciplinary action (see discussions under §§ 414.111[2] and 414.113[5]) against physician's and surgeon's certificate holders. The Board also has all the powers granted by the Medical Practice Act for this purpose [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2220]. The Board is required to take action against any licensee who is charged with unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2234].

[b] Investigation of Possible Unprofessional Conduct

The powers granted to the Board for the purpose of enforcing and administering the provisions of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2220 et seq. include, but are not limited to, the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2220]:

- Investigating complaints from the public, from other licensees, from health care facilities, or from a division of the board, that a physician and surgeon may be guilty of unprofessional conduct.

- Investigating the circumstances of practice of any physician and surgeon when there have been any judgments, settlements, or arbitration awards requiring the physician and surgeon or his or her professional liability insurer to pay an amount in damages in excess of a cumulative total of $30,000 with respect to any claim that injury or damage was proximately caused by the physician's and surgeon's error, negligence, or omission.

- Investigating the nature and causes of injuries when an unusually high number of judgments, settlements, or arbitration awards is reported against a physician and surgeon.

Board investigators have the authority of peace officers while engaged in exercising the powers granted or performing the duties imposed on them in investigating the laws or commencing any criminal prosecution arising from any such investigation [Bus. & Prof. Code § 160; Bradley v. Medical Board (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 445, 457-458, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 483] . When a physician is suspected of improperly prescribing drugs, an investigation may be surreptitious and include undercover operatives posing as "patients" making false representations [Bradley v. Medical Board (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 445, 458, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 483 ; see also § 414.63[5][d]].

On and after January 1, 2006, any reference to an investigation by the Board or one of its divisions, including the Division of Medical Quality, will be deemed to refer to an investigation directed by employees of the Department of Justice [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2006 (inoperative on July 1, 2010, and as of January 1, 2011, repealed, unless later enacted statute, that becomes operative on or before January 1, 2011, deletes or extends dates on which it becomes inoperative and is repealed)]. As of January 1, 2008, the Division of Medical Quality was folded into the Medical Board [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2002]. References to the former Division of Licensing in statutes and regulations, and in this chapter, should now be read to refer to the Board. (References throughout this chapter will be changed as pages are replaced in the future.)

[4] Professional Competency Examination

[a] Reasonable Cause to Doubt Ability to Practice Skillfully and Safely

A physician may be ordered to undergo a professional competency examination if, after investigation and review by a medical expert designated by the Board, there is reasonable cause to believe that the physician is unable to practice medicine with reasonable skill and safety to patients. Reasonable cause is demonstrated by one or more of the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2292(a)]:

- A single incident of gross negligence.

- A pattern of inappropriate prescribing.

- An act of incompetence or negligence causing death or serious bodily injury.

- A pattern of substandard care.

[b] Procedure for Ordering Examination

On referral from the Board, the matter of requiring a physician to take a professional competency examination will be drafted and presented by the Senior Assistant Attorney General of the Health Quality Enforcement Section, or by his or her designee, by way of a written petition detailing the reasonable cause. The petition must contain all conclusions and facts on which the presumption of reasonable cause is based. A copy of the petition will be served on the physician, who may file written opposition to the petition within 45 days after service. Service of the petition and any orders must be in accordance with the methods of service authorized by Gov. Code § 11505(c) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2292(b)]. For discussion of Gov. Code § 11505(c), see Ch. 473A, Commencing Agency Adjudication, § 473A.11[9].

The panel will review the petition and any opposition paper from the physician, or the panel may hold a hearing in accordance with the provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act to determine if reasonable cause exists regarding the circumstances specified in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2292(a) (discussed under § 414.69[4][a]). The physician may be represented at the hearing by the person of his or her choice. If the panel is satisfied that reasonable cause exists concerning the circumstances specified in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2292(a), the panel must issue an order compelling the physician to undergo an examination of professional competence as measured by community standards. "Community standards" means the statewide standards of the community of licensees. Failure to comply with the order duly served on the physician constitutes unprofessional conduct for purposes of disciplinary proceedings [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2292(d); see Smith v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 316, 320-329, 248 Cal. Rptr. 704 (upholding constitutionality of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2292].

[c] Administration of Examination

The professional competency examination is in the form of an oral clinical examination, and is administered by three physician examiners selected by the Board or its designee, who must test for medical knowledge specific to the physician's specialty or specific suspected deficiency. The examination must be audio recorded [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2293(a)].

Competency examinations must be conducted under a uniform examination system, and for that purpose, the Board may make arrangements with organizations furnishing examination material as deemed desirable [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2293(g)].

[d] Action on Completion of Examination

A failing grade from two of the examiners constitutes the failure of an examination. In the event of a failure, the board must supply a true and correct copy of the audio recording of the examination to the unsuccessful examinee [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2293(b)].

Within 45 days following receipt of the audio recording of the examination, a physician who fails the examination may request a hearing before the administrative law judge as designated in Gov. Code § 11371 [see § 414.69[6][b]] to determine whether he or she is entitled to take a second examination [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2293(c)]. If the physician timely requests a hearing concerning the right to reexamination, the hearing will be held in accordance with the Administrative Procedure Act. On a finding that the examination or procedure is unfair or that one or more of the examiners manifested bias toward the examinee, a reexamination will be ordered [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2293(d)].

If the examinee fails the examination and is not afforded the right to reexamination, the Board may take action pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230 (disciplinary proceedings as governed by Gov. Code § 11500, which set out procedures for administrative trials generally) by directing that an accusation be filed charging the examinee with incompetency under Bus. & Prof. Code § 2234(d) [see § 414.111[2]]. The modes of discipline are set out in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2227 (discussed in § 414.66[1]) and 2228 (discussed under § 414.66[3]) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2293(e)]. Findings and conclusions reported by the examiners may be received in the administrative hearing on the accusation. The passing of the examination will constitute prima facie evidence of present competence in the area of coverage of the examination [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2293(f)].

If the Board proceeds pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2292 and 2293, and the physician passes the professional competency examination, the Board is precluded from filing an accusation of incompetency based solely on the circumstances giving rise to the reasonable cause for the examination [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2294(a)]. If the Board determines there is insufficient cause to file an accusation based on the examination results, then all agency records of the proceedings, including the petition and order for the examination, investigative reports, if any, reports of staff or outside medical consultants, and reports of examiners, must be kept confidential and are not subject to discovery or subpoena [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2294(b)]. If no further proceedings are conducted to determine the physician's fitness to practice during a period of five years from the date of the petition under Bus. & Prof. Code § 2292, the agency must purge and destroy all records pertaining to the proceedings [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2294(c)].

[5] Proceedings for Interim Order

[a] In General

The administrative law judge as designated in Gov. Code § 11371(a) [§ 414.69[6][b]] may issue an interim order suspending a license, or imposing drug testing, continuing education, supervision of procedures, or other license restrictions. Interim orders may be issued only if the affidavits in support of the petition show that the licensee has engaged in, or is about to engage in, acts or omissions constituting a violation of the Medical Practice Act or the appropriate practice act governing each allied health profession, or is unable to practice safely due to a mental or physical condition, and that permitting the licensee to continue to engage in the profession for which the license was issued will endanger the public health, safety, or welfare [Gov. Code § 11529(a)].

Interim disciplinary orders will be issued only after a hearing, unless it appears from the facts shown by affidavit that serious injury would result to the public before the matter can be heard on notice [Gov. Code § 11529(b)].

The interim order provided for by Gov. Code § 11529 does not limit the authority to seek injunctive relief provided for in the Business and Professions Code [Gov. Code § 11529(i); see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2311 (injunction to restrain violation of Medical Practice Act), 2312 (injunction to prevent endangerment of public health, safety, or welfare)].

[b] Notice Requirements

Except as provided in Gov. Code § 11529(c) (discussed below), the licensee must receive at least 15 days' prior notice of the hearing, which notice must include affidavits and all other information in support of the order [Gov. Code § 11529(b)].

If an interim order is issued without notice, the administrative law judge, who issued the order must cause the licensee to be notified of the order, including affidavits and all other information in support of the order by 24-hour delivery service. That notice must include the date of the hearing on the order, which must not be later than 20 days from the date of issuance. The order will be dissolved unless the requirements of Gov. Code § 11529(a) are satisfied [Gov. Code § 11529(c)].

[c] Hearing on Petition for Interim Order

At the hearing conducted pursuant to Gov. Code § 11529, the licentiate, at a minimum, must have the following rights [Gov. Code § 11529(d)]:

- To be represented by counsel;

- To have a record made of the proceedings, copies of which may be obtained by the licentiate on payment of any reasonable charges associated with the record;

- To present written evidence in the form of relevant declarations, affidavits, and documents; the administrative law judge's discretion to permit testimony is identical to a superior court judge's discretion at an injunction hearing under Code Civ. Proc. § 527; and

- To present oral argument.

Consistent with the burden and standards of proof applicable to a preliminary injunction entered under Code Civ. Proc. § 527, the court must grant the interim order when, in the exercise of its discretion, it concludes the following [Gov. Code § 11529(e)]:

- There is a reasonable probability that the petitioner will prevail in the underlying action; and

- The likelihood of injury to the public in not issuing the order outweighs the likelihood of injury to the licensee in issuing the order.

The Legislature intended to substitute the standard governing the issuance of a preliminary injunction under Code Civ. Proc. § 527 for the "clear and convincing evidence" standard as the standard for granting an interim order [Stats. 1993, ch. 1267, § 58 (expressly overturning Silva v. Superior Court (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 562, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 577)]. However, the Legislature also intended that the standard of proof applicable to an accusation filed in connection with a petition for an interim order continue to be clear and convincing evidence [Stats. 1993, ch. 1267, § 58].

[d] Accusation

If an interim order is issued, an accusation must be filed and served pursuant to Gov. Code §§ 11503 and 11505 within 15 days of the date on which the parties to the hearing on the interim order have submitted the matter; otherwise, the interim order will be dissolved [Gov. Code § 11529(f)]. For discussion of the requirements of Gov. Code §§ 11503 and 11505, see Ch. 473A, Commencing Agency Adjudication .

On service of the accusation, the licensee will have all of the rights and privileges available under Gov. Code § 11500 et seq. If the licensee requests a hearing on the accusation, the Board must provide the licensee with a hearing within 30 days of the request, unless the licensee stipulates to a later hearing, and a decision within 15 days of the date the decision is received from the administrative law judge, or the Board will nullify the interim order previously issued, unless good cause can be shown by the Division for a delay [Gov. Code § 11529(f)].

Any accusation filed against a licensee pursuant to Gov. Code § 11503 must be filed within three years after the Board, or a division of the board, discovers the act or omission alleged as the ground for disciplinary action, or within seven years after the act or omission alleged as the ground for disciplinary action occurs, whichever occurs first [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230.5(a)]. However, an accusation filed against a licensee pursuant to Gov. Code § 11503 alleging the procurement of a license by fraud or misrepresentation is not subject to this limitation period [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230.5(b)].

An accusation alleging unprofessional conduct based on incompetence, gross negligence or repeated negligent acts is not subject to this limitation period on proof the licensee intentionally concealed the incompetence, gross negligence, or repeated negligent acts [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230.5(c)]. If the alleged act or omission involves a minor, the seven-year limitations period and the 10-year limitations period are tolled until the minor reaches the age of majority [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230.5(d)]. The limitations period is also tolled during any period if material evidence necessary for prosecuting or determining whether a disciplinary action would be appropriate is unavailable to the Board due to an ongoing criminal investigation [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230.5(f)]. An accusation alleging sexual misconduct must be filed within three years after the Board or a division of the board discovers the act or omission, or within 10 years after the act or omission occurs, whichever occurs first. This applies to a complaint alleging sexual misconduct received by the Board on and after January 1, 2002 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230.5(e)].

[e] Written Decision

When an interim order is issued, a written decision will be prepared within 15 days of the hearing by the administrative law judge, including findings of fact and a conclusion articulating the connection between the evidence produced at the hearing and the decision reached [Gov. Code § 11529(g)].

[f] Relief From Interim Order

Notwithstanding the fact that interim orders issued pursuant to Gov. Code § 11529 are not issued after a hearing as otherwise required by Gov. Code § 11500 et seq., interim orders so issued will be subject to judicial review pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5. The relief that may be ordered is limited to a stay of the interim order [Gov. Code § 11529(h)]. For discussion of proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5, see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , et seq.

Interim orders issued pursuant to Gov. Code § 11529 are final interim orders and, if not dissolved pursuant to Gov. Code § 11529(c) or (f) [§ 414.69[5][b] and [d]], may only be challenged administratively at the hearing on the accusation [Gov. Code § 11529(h); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2335(b)].

[6] Proceedings to Impose Final Discipline

[a] In General

All adjudicative hearings and proceedings relating to the discipline or reinstatement of licensees of the Medical Board of California, including licensees of allied health agencies within the jurisdiction of the Board, that are heard pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act must be conducted by an administrative law judge as designated in Gov. Code § 11371, sitting alone if the case is so assigned by the agency filing the charging pleading. [Gov. Code § 11372(a)]. Proceedings relating to interim orders are heard in accordance with Gov. Code § 11529 [Gov. Code § 11372(b); see also § 414.69[5]].

All adjudicative hearings and proceedings conducted by an administrative law judge must be conducted under the terms and conditions set forth in the Administrative Procedure Act, except as provided in the Medical Practice Act [Gov. Code § 11373].

[b] Delegation of Authority by Board

The Board may delegate the authority under the Medical Practice Act to conduct investigations and inspections and to institute proceedings to the executive director of the Board or other personnel as set forth in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2020 (enabling Board to appoint executive director, investigators, legal counsel, medical consultants, and other assistance as deemed necessary to carry provisions of Medical Practice Act into effect, and designating Attorney General as legal counsel for Board for any judicial and administrative proceedings). Section 2020 becomes inoperative on July 1, 2010, and is repealed as of January 1, 2011, unless a later enacted statute, which becomes effective on or before January 1, 2011, deletes or extends the dates on which it becomes inoperative and is repealed. The Board, however, may not delegate its authority to take final disciplinary action against a licensee as provided in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2227 (providing for types of discipline of licensees) and other provisions of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2220 et seq., and may not delegate any authority of the Senior Assistant Attorney General of the Health Quality Enforcement Section, and may not delegate any powers vested in the administrative law judges Office of Administrative Hearings, as designated in Gov. Code § 11371 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2224]. Disciplinary hearings may be conducted by a panel of the Board or an administrative law judge as designated in Gov. Code § 11371 [see § 414.69[6]].

[c] Assistance of Experts

The Board or the Health Quality Enforcement Section of the Office of the Attorney General may establish panels or lists of experts as necessary to assist them in their respective duties. When the Board or the Health Quality Enforcement Section seeks expert assistance or witnesses, and the use of voluntary services is impractical, they may retain experts to assist them, and to prepare and present testimony as appropriate, at prevailing market rates. The Board is responsible for establishing policies and procedures for the selection and use of those experts [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2332(a)].

[d] Division of Medical Quality Panels

[i] In General

As of January 1, 1994, any reference to a medical quality review committee was deemed a reference to a panel of the Division of Medical Quality [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2332(c)]. As of January 1, 2008, any reference to the Division of Medical Quality is deemed a reference to the California Medical Board [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2002]. For purposes of exercising disciplinary authority, the term "agency itself," as used in the Administrative Procedure Act, means any panel appointed by the Board pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 2008 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230(b)]. The decision or order of a panel imposing any disciplinary action pursuant to the Medical Practice Act and the Administrative Procedure Act is final [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230(b)].

[ii] Medical Quality Hearing Panel

There is within the Office of Administrative Hearings a Medical Quality Hearing Panel, consisting of no fewer than five full-time administrative law judges [Gov. Code § 11371(a)]. When the medically related case workload exceeds the capacity of the members of the panel, additional judges are requested to be added to the panels as appropriate. When this workload overflow occurs on a temporary basis, the Director of the Office of Administrative Hearings supplies judges from the Office of Administrative Hearings to adjudicate the cases [Gov. Code § 11371(b)].

[iii] Assistance by Experts

The administrative law judges of the panel have panels of experts available. The panels of experts are appointed by the Director of the Office of Administrative Hearings, with the advice of the Medical Board of California. These panels of experts may be called as witnesses by the administrative law judges of the panel to testify on the record about any matter relevant to a proceeding and are subject to cross examination by all parties. The administrative law judge may award reasonable expert witness fees to any person or persons serving on a panel of experts, to be funded from the Contingent Fund of the Medical Board of California [Gov. Code § 11371(c)].

[iv] Transmittal of Proposed Decisions or Interim Orders

All proposed decisions and interim orders of the Medical Quality Hearing Panel designated in Gov. Code § 11371 must be transmitted to the executive director of the board, or the executive director of the Board of Podiatric Medicine as to the licensees of that board, within 48 hours of filing [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2335(a)]. All interim orders are final when filed [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2335(b)]. A proposed decision must be acted on by the Medical Board or any panel appointed pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 2008, or the Board of Podiatric Medicine, as the case may be, in accordance with Gov. Code § 11517, except that all of the following apply to proceedings against licensees [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2335(c)]:

- When considering a proposed decision, the Board or panel and the California Board of Podiatric Medicine will give great weight to the findings of fact of the administrative law judge, except to the extent those findings of fact are controverted by new evidence.

- The Board's staff or the staff of the California Board of Podiatric Medicine will poll the members of the Board or panel or of the California Board of Podiatric Medicine by written mail ballot concerning the proposed decision. The mail ballot must be sent within 10 calendar days of receipt of the proposed decision, and poll each member on whether the member votes to approve the decision, to approve the decision with an altered penalty, to refer the case back to the administrative law judge for the taking of additional evidence, to defer final decision pending discussion of the case by the panel or Board as a whole, or not to adopt the decision. No party to the proceeding, including employees of the agency that filed the accusation, and no person who has a direct or indirect interest in the outcome of the proceeding or who presided at a previous stage of the decision, may communicate directly or indirectly, upon the merits of a contested matter while the proceeding is pending, with any member of the panel or board, without notice and opportunity for all parties to participate in the communication. The votes of a majority of the Board or of the panel, and a majority of the California Board of Podiatric Medicine, are required to approve the decision with an altered penalty, to refer the case back to the administrative law judge for the taking of further evidence, or to nonadopt the decision. The votes of two members of the panel or Board are required to defer final decision pending discussion of the case by the panel or board as a whole. If there is a vote by the specified number to defer final decision pending discussion of the case by the panel or Board as a whole, provision must be made for that discussion before the 90-day period specified in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2335(c)(3) expires, but in no event will that 90-day period be extended.

- If a majority of the Board or of the panel, or a majority of the California Board of Podiatric Medicine vote to do so, the Board or the panel or the California Board of Podiatric Medicine must issue an order of nonadoption of a proposed decision within 90 calendar days of the date it is received by the Board. If the Board or the panel or the California Board of Podiatric Medicine does not refer the case back to the administrative law judge for the taking of additional evidence or issue an order of nonadoption within 90 days, the decision will be final and subject to review under Bus. & Prof. Code § 2337. Members of the Board or of any panel or of the California Board of Podiatric Medicine who review a proposed decision or other matter and vote by mail as provided in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2335(c)(2) must return their votes by mail to the board within 30 days from receipt of the proposed decision or other matter.

- The Board or the panel or the California Board of Podiatric Medicine must afford the parties the opportunity to present oral argument before deciding a case after nonadoption of the administrative law judge's decision.

- A vote of a majority of the Board or of a panel, or a majority of the California Board of Podiatric Medicine, are required to increase the penalty from that contained in the proposed administrative law judge's decision. No member of the Board or panel or of the California Board of Podiatric Medicine may vote to increase the penalty except after reading the entire record and personally hearing any additional oral argument and evidence presented to the panel or board.

For discussion of actions authorized under Gov. Code § 11517, see Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication , et seq.

[v] Complainant's Statement

Complainants against licensees of the board, including licensees of allied health boards within the jurisdiction of the board, and of the Board of Podiatric Medicine, who are subject to formal disciplinary proceedings must be notified of the actions proposed to be taken against the licensee. This notification is provided only to complainants who are known to the boards [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2330].

Complainants must be given an opportunity to provide a statement to the deputy attorney general from the Health Quality Enforcement Section who is assigned the case. These statements may not be considered by a panel of the division, the Board of Podiatric Medicine, or other board for purposes of adjudicating the case to which the statement pertains, but may be considered by the division or those boards after the case is finally adjudicated for purposes of setting generally applicable policies and standards [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2330].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime LimitationsHealthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersDoctors & PhysiciansHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersSurgeonsHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewInsurance LawMalpractice InsuranceSettlementsTortsNegligenceActionsGeneral OverviewTortsProcedureStatutes of LimitationsGeneral OverviewTortsProcedureStatutes of LimitationsAccrual of ActionsContinuous TortsTortsProcedureStatutes of LimitationsTollingDisabilities

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.70

§ 414.70 Procedural Rights of Accused

[1] Criminal Precedents Not Governing

Disciplinary proceedings are civil in nature, without overhanging criminal penalties [White v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 699, 707, 180 Cal. Rptr. 516] . Thus, such proceedings are not subject to criminal precedents [Lax v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d 669, 676, 172 Cal. Rptr. 258] .

The double jeopardy provisions of the U.S. Const., amend. V, do not prohibit the board from charging previous criminal violations in a disciplinary accusation based on a statute that a criminal conviction constitutes unprofessional conduct [Petrucci v. Board of Medical Examiners (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 83, 88, 117 Cal. Rptr. 735] . Nor does the acquittal of a licensee on criminal charges bar a subsequent disciplinary proceeding against the licensee based on the same or similar acts as those on which the criminal charges were based [Stuck v. Board of Medical Examiners (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 751, 757-758, 211 P.2d 389] .

The rule regarding compulsory joinder in criminal cases, which states that, when the prosecution was or should have been aware of more than one offense involving the same course of action, all such offenses must be prosecuted in a single proceeding unless good cause is shown for doing otherwise, and does not apply in disciplinary proceedings [Petrucci v. Board of Medical Examiners (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 83, 87-88, 117 Cal. Rptr. 735 (alternate ground that offenses in question were separate and therefore not subject to compulsory joinder rule in any case)].

The prohibition against ex post facto laws is not applicable to medical disciplinary proceedings [Furnish v. Board of Medical Examiners (1957) 149 Cal. App. 2d 326, 331, 308 P.2d 924, 309 P.2d 493 , cert. denied, 355 U.S. 827, 78 S. Ct. 37, 2 L. Ed. 2d 40] .

[2] Essential Fairness and Due Process Requirements

[a] In General

Despite the fact that criminal precedents are not applicable at an administrative hearing, a disciplinary hearing by the board is required to conform to essential fairness and due process standards [White v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 699, 705, 180 Cal. Rptr. 516] . The courts have recognized that whatever its purpose, a disciplinary proceeding has a punitive character, since the agency can prohibit the accused from practicing his or her profession [Shively v. Stewart (1966) 65 Cal. 2d 475, 480, 55 Cal. Rptr. 217, 421 P.2d 65 (case's specific holding that accused is entitled to same right as criminal defendant to prehearing discovery invalidated by subsequent enactment of Gov. Code §§ 11507.5-11507.7, governing discovery in administrative proceedings); see also Yakov v. Board of Medical Examiners (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 67, 73 n.6, 64 Cal. Rptr. 785, 435 P.2d 553 (unavoidable punitive effect of disciplinary procedure)].

At the hearing the licensee has the right to present legal and factual issues in a deliberate and orderly manner, to call witnesses and present exhibits, and to rebut evidence presented [White v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 699, 705, 180 Cal. Rptr. 516 ; see King v. Board of Medical Examiners (1944) 65 Cal. App. 2d 644, 651-652, 151 P.2d 282 (denial of licensee's right to present defense at proceedings before Board; order by Board revoking license made on little or no evidence as abuse of discretion)]. The Board has the burden of proof in disciplinary matters [Sunseri v. Board of Medical Examiners (1964) 224 Cal. App. 2d 309, 317, 36 Cal. Rptr. 553 , disapproved on other grounds in Kirby v. Alcoholic Bev. etc. Appeals Bd. (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 1009, 1020, 87 Cal. Rptr. 908] .

[b] Personal Jurisdiction and Notice Requirements

A citation to appear at the time and place of the hearing, reasonable notice of the hearing, and opportunity to be heard, is sufficient to confer jurisdiction over the licensee's person on the disciplinary authority. The licensee's actual presence at the hearing is not necessary [Rinaldo v. Board of Medical Exmrs. (1935) 5 Cal. App. 2d 345, 351, 42 P.2d 724 (case decided before enactment of Gov. Code § 11500 et seq., relating to administrative trials)]. Under the Administrative Procedure Act, these requirements are met and the Medical Board thus acquires personal jurisdiction over the licensee by serving the licensee with the accusation pursuant to Gov. Code § 11505 and with the notice of defense form pursuant to Gov. Code § 11506. The licensee can then file the latter with the board to, among other things, request a hearing [Vo v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 820, 825-826, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 127 ; Stuck v. Board of Medical Examiners (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 751, 755, 211 P.2d 389 ; see Gov. Code §§ 11505, 11506].

Gov. Code § 11503 provides that a hearing to determine whether a right, authority, license, or privilege should be revoked, suspended, limited, or conditioned must be initiated by filing an accusation. The accusation must be a written statement of charges that sets forth in concise ordinary language the acts or omissions with which the respondent is charged, to the end that the respondent will be able to prepare his or her defense. It must specify the statutes and rules that the respondent is alleged to have violated, but may not consist merely of charges phrased in the language of such statutes and rules. Gov. Code § 11505 governs service of the accusation and Gov. Code § 11509 governs the notice required for an administrative hearing. Gov. Code §§ 11503, 11505 and 11509 are explicitly made applicable to disciplinary proceedings against physicians through Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230 [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230, discussed under § 414.69[1])].

For a discussion of notice requirements at administrative hearings generally, see Ch. 473A, Commencing Agency Adjudication .

Under the liberal rules of administrative pleading, notice to the licensee need only inform him or her of the substance of the charge and afford the basic, appropriate elements of due process. An accusation informing the licensee of the statute that the licensee is charged with violating, and the conduct for which the licensee is charged with violating it, sufficiently informs the licensee of the substance of the charge [Shea v. Board of Medical Examiners (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 564, 576, 146 Cal. Rptr. 653] . When the statute under which the licensee is accused is necessarily general in scope, such as a statute mandating discipline for conviction of a crime involving moral turpitude, the licensee is entitled to have the accusation supplemented with a specific charge [see Bernstein v. Board of Medical Examiners (1962) 204 Cal. App. 2d 378, 382, 22 Cal. Rptr. 419 (case decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2383; now see Bus. & Prof. Code 2236)].

Prior to the enactment of Gov. Code §§ 11503, 11505, and 11509 (discussed above), the courts had established the rule that an accusation that follows the language of the statute under which the licensee is accused is sufficient to give the disciplinary authority jurisdiction, provided that the language of the statute is specific enough to advise the accused of the particular kind of unprofessional conduct of which he or she is accused [Smulson v. Board of Dental Examiners (1941) 47 Cal. App. 2d 584, 589, 118 P.2d 483 ; Anderson v. Board of Medical Examiners (1931) 117 Cal. App. 113, 114-115, 3 P.2d 344 (violation of statute proscribing licensee's aiding and abetting unlicensed person in practicing medicine)]. Under this rule, an accusation based on conduct that constitutes a criminal offense need not allege all facts necessary to a criminal complaint if it follows the wording of a sufficiently specific statute [Suckow v. Alderson (1920) 182 Cal. 247, 251, 187 P. 965 (criminal abortion); Tapley v. Abbott (1931) 111 Cal. App. 397, 399, 295 P. 911 (cases decided before enactment of Gov. Code §§ 11500-11529)].

It is not clear whether the traditional rule with respect to the sufficiency of an accusation phrased in terms of a statute proscribing specific conduct is still valid in view of the provision contained in Gov. Code § 11503 that the accusation may not consist merely of charges phrased in the language of the statute under which it is brought. However, Gov. Code § 11503 also states that the accusation is a statement of charges that must set forth in ordinary and concise language the acts or omissions with which the respondent is charged. Further, the basic notice requirement under the liberal rules of administrative pleading is satisfied if the accused is informed of the substance of the charges against him or her [see Gov. Code § 11503; Shea v. Board of Medical Examiners (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 564, 576, 146 Cal. Rptr. 653] . Thus, an accusation phrased in the language of a statute that is specific enough to inform a licensee of the conduct of which he or she is accused is probably still sufficient under present law.

The accused may also submit himself or herself to the jurisdiction of the Division or committee if that forum has jurisdiction of the subject matter. Subject matter jurisdiction over unprofessional conduct by physicians and surgeons is vested in the Division by the Medical Practice Act [see Stuck v. Board of Medical Examiners (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 751, 755-756, 211 P.2d 389] . Subject matter jurisdiction over unprofessional conduct by physicians and surgeons is similarly vested in the medical quality review committees by Bus. & Prof. Code § 2330 et seq. (discussed in § 414.69[6][d][i]).

Since the Division is a tribunal of special jurisdiction, the accusation should set forth the Division's jurisdiction [see Stuck v. Board of Medical Examiners (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 751, 755, 211 P.2d 389] .

[c] Right to Counsel

The licensee has a due process right to be represented by counsel at disciplinary proceedings, but this does not give the licensee the right to have a decision imposing discipline overturned because of retained counsel's alleged incompetence, as in a criminal proceeding [White v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 699, 707, 180 Cal. Rptr. 516] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsRight to HearingGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsRight to HearingDue ProcessConstitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental RightsProcedural Due ProcessDouble JeopardyConstitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental RightsCriminal ProcessAssistance of CounselHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.71

§ 414.71 Evidence at Hearing

[1] In General

Rules relating to evidence at administrative hearings are set out in Gov. Code § 11513. For a discussion of these rules, see Ch. 473F, Agency Adjudication Hearings .

[2] Criminal Limitations of Evidence Not Applicable

The rules of pleading and the rules limiting the effect of evidence in criminal cases do not apply to medical disciplinary proceedings [Suckow v. Alderson (1920) 182 Cal. 247, 251, 187 P. 965] . Thus, the hearing authority may rely on admissions of a party, even in absence of independent evidence, to support a finding with respect to charges of unprofessional conduct [Shakin v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 102, 110, 62 Cal. Rptr. 274 , appeal dismissed, 390 U.S. 410 (1968)] .

The prohibition on conviction based on uncorroborated testimony of accomplices is also not applicable to medical disciplinary proceedings [Suckow v. Alderson (1920) 182 Cal. 247, 251, 187 P. 965 ; Marlo v. Board of Medical Examiners (1952) 112 Cal. App. 2d 276, 282, 246 P.2d 69] .

The Division has no due process duty to produce key prosecution witnesses at the prior criminal trial for the licensee to cross examine in a proceeding to discipline the licensee for a criminal conviction that constitutes unprofessional conduct [Lax v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d 669, 676, 172 Cal. Rptr. 258] .

Polygraph evidence offered to prove the truthfulness of controverted testimony by the licensee is properly excluded from administrative disciplinary hearings [Aengst v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1980) 110 Cal. App. 3d 275, 282-283, 167 Cal. Rptr. 796] .

[3] Seizure of Patients' Medical Records as Evidence

[a] In General

There is no privilege under Evid. Code § 990 et seq. (physician-patient privilege) in a proceeding brought by a public entity to determine whether a right, authority, license, or privilege should be revoked, suspended, terminated, limited, or conditioned [Evid. Code § 1007; see Evid. Code § 994 (establishing privilege)].

Notwithstanding Bus. & Prof. Code § 2263 (willful violation of professional confidence as unprofessional conduct) and any other provision of law making a communication between a physician and surgeon or podiatrist and his or her patients a privileged communication, these provisions will not apply to investigations or proceedings conducted under the Medical Practice Act. Members of the Medical Board of California, the Senior Assistant Attorney General of the Health Quality Enforcement Section, members of the California Board of Podiatric Medicine, and deputies, employees, agents, and representatives of the board or the Board of Podiatric Medicine and the Senior Assistant Attorney General of the Health Quality Enforcement Section must keep in confidence during the course of investigations the names of any patients whose records are reviewed and may not disclose or reveal, except as is necessary during the course of the investigation, those names unless and until proceedings are instituted. The board's, the Board of Podiatric Medicine's and the Senior Assistant Attorney General of the Health Quality Enforcement Section's authority to examine records of patients in the office of a physician and surgeon or podiatrist is limited to records of patients who have complained to the board or the Board of Podiatric Medicine about the licensee [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2225(a)].

One court of appeal, however, has held that the physician-patient privilege established by Evid. Code § 990 et seq. creates a zone of privacy that is protected by Cal. Const., art. I, § 1, and has set out certain procedural requirements that the board must meet before it can subpoena patient medical records from a hospital pursuant to a medical disciplinary investigation [see Board of Medical Quality Assurance v. Gherardini (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 669, 680-681, 156 Cal. Rptr. 55] . Another court of appeal held that when the constitutionally protected privacy interests of absent patients coincide with the interests of the doctor, the doctor must be permitted to speak for them. Thus, when the interests of the physician are also implicated, he or she has standing to assert the patients' privacy interests [Wood v. Superior Court (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 1138, 1145, 212 Cal. Rptr. 811 (investigation of alleged improper prescription practices)]. To safeguard patients' rights, certain constraints on the Board's actions must be made. [Wood v. Superior Court (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 1138, 1149-1150, 212 Cal. Rptr. 811] :

- The patient must be notified of any proposed examination of the patient's medical records.

- If the patient does not waive his or her privacy interest, the Board must demonstrate that the particular records are relevant and material to its inquiry.

- The Board must specify the factual justification for its action, so that the court can independently assess the substantiality of the likelihood of improper practices by the physician.

[b] Documents Subject to Inspection

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Attorney General and his or her investigative agents, and investigators and representatives of the board or the Board of Podiatric Medicine, may inquire into any alleged violation of the Medical Practice Act or any other federal or state law, regulation, or rule relevant to the practice of medicine or podiatric medicine, whichever is applicable, and may inspect documents relevant to those investigations in accordance with the following procedures [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2225(b)]:

- Any document relevant to an investigation may be inspected, and copies may be obtained, when patient consent is given;

- Any document relevant to the business operations of a licensee, and not involving medical records attributable to identifiable patients, may be inspected and copied when relevant to an investigation of a licensee.

In all cases in which documents are inspected or copies of those documents are received, their acquisition or review must be arranged so as not to unnecessarily disrupt the medical and business operations of the licensee or of the facility where the records are kept or used [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2225(c)]. Searches conducted of the office or medical facility of any licensee may not interfere with the recordkeeping format or preservation needs of any licensee necessary for the lawful care of patients [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2225(e)].

[c] Deadline for Providing and Returning Requested Documents

If documents are requested from licensees in accordance with Section 2225 by the Attorney General or his or her agents or deputies, or investigators of the Board or the Board of Podiatric Medicine, they must be provided within 15 days of receipt of the request, unless the licensee is unable to provide the documents within this time period for good cause, including, but not limited to, physical inability to access the records in the time allowed due to illness or travel. Failure to produce requested documents or copies, after being informed of the required deadline, constitutes unprofessional conduct. The Board may use its authority to cite and to fine a physician and surgeon for any violation of Section 2225, which remedy is in addition to any other authority of the Board to sanction a licensee for a delay in producing requested records [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2225(d)].

The Board, the California Board of Podiatric Medicine, and the Attorney General must return any original documents to the licensee from whom they were obtained within seven calendar days [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2225.3].

[d] Penalties for Failure to Comply With Request

A licensee who fails or refuses to comply with a request for medical records of a patient, which is accompanied by that patient's written authorization for release of records to the Board, within 15 days of receiving the request and authorization must pay to the Board a civil penalty of $1,000 per day for each day that the documents have not been produced after the 15th day, unless the licensee is unable to provide the documents within this time period for good cause [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2225.5(a)]. A licensee who fails or refuses to comply with a court order issued in the enforcement of a subpoena, mandating the release of records to the Board must pay to the board a civil penalty of $1,000 per day for each day that the documents have not been produced after the date by which the court order requires the documents to be produced, unless it is determined that the order is unlawful or invalid. [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2225.5(b)(1)]. The licensee is guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine payable to the Board not to exceed $5000. The fine will be added to the licensee's renewal fee if it is not paid by the next succeeding renewal date [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2225.5(b)(2)]. Any statute of limitations applicable to the filing of an accusation by the Board will be tolled during the period the licensee is out of compliance with the court order and during any related appeals [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2225.5(b)].

Multiple acts by a licensee in failing to comply with the court order for release of records are punishable by a fine of up to $5000, imprisonment in county jail for up to six months, or by both fine and imprisonment [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2225.5(c)].

A failure or refusal by the licensee to comply with a court order, issued in the enforcement of a subpoena, mandating the release of records to the Board constitutes unprofessional conduct and is grounds for suspension or revocation of his or her license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2225.5(d)]. Imposition of these civil penalties must be in accordance with the Administrative Procedure Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2225.5(e)].

[4] Applicability of Exclusionary Rule

Since Proposition 8 was enacted by means of a voters' initiative in June 1982, it is not clear to what extent the exclusionary rule is still applicable in California [see Cal. Const., art. I, § 28(d)]. For a discussion of the overall effect of Proposition 8 on the applicability of the exclusionary rule, see 1 Erwin, Millman, Monroe, Sevilla, Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Division III, Search and Seizure (Matthew Bender). Even if the exclusionary rule is still viable in California overall, it is not clear to what extent it is applicable to medical disciplinary cases. In a case involving disbarment of an attorney, the Supreme Court has held that whether or not the exclusionary rule should be applied must be worked out on a case by case basis, by applying a balancing test that gives consideration to the social consequences of applying the exclusionary rule and the effects thereof on the integrity of the judicial process [Emslie v. State Bar (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 210, 229, 113 Cal. Rptr. 175, 520 P.2d 991] . One court of appeal has applied the test set out in Emslie to a medical disciplinary proceeding and declined to apply the exclusionary rule. This court held in the same case that under the facts before it the accused licensee would not be able to assert the exclusionary rule vicariously on behalf of his patients even if the rule were applicable [see Pating v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 608, 621-625, 182 Cal. Rptr. 20] .

[5] Right to Present Mitigating Evidence

All relevant evidence is admissible to an administrative hearing, including mitigating evidence to be considered for purposes of setting the penalty [White v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 699, 705, 180 Cal. Rptr. 516 ; see Gov. Code § 11513(b), (c) (admissibility of evidence at administrative proceedings)].

However, a licensee who is accused of having been convicted of a crime pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2237 (drug conviction), 2239 (drug or alcohol related conviction), or any other statute that provides that a conviction constitutes a sufficient basis for disciplinary action may not present evidence attacking the conviction on which the accusation is based [Lax v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d 669, 675, 172 Cal. Rptr. 258] .

If the licensee is charged with being convicted of a crime substantially related to the qualifications, functions, and duties of a physician under Bus. & Prof. Code § 2236, the record of conviction is conclusive evidence only that the conviction occurred and the Division is expressly authorized to consider the circumstances surrounding the crime in order to determine the degree of discipline to be imposed, or to determine whether the conviction is for an offense that meets the substantial relation requirement set forth in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2236(b) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2236(b)]. One appellate court, however, has held that the ostensible attempt of a licensee to show that his conduct had not demonstrated moral turpitude, by giving testimony as to the circumstances of his criminal offense that substantially contradicted the facts alleged in the information on which he was convicted, was merely an attempt to improperly impeach the judgment in which he had been convicted under the guise of presenting mitigating evidence [Matanky v. Board of Medical Examiners (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 293, 302, 144 Cal. Rptr. 826 (decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2383, now Bus. & Prof. Code § 2236)]. Furthermore, if the penalty actually imposed is mild in relation to the offense charged, the licensee may have no basis for complaining that evidence in mitigation was not considered [White v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 699, 706, 180 Cal. Rptr. 516 (straight probation for prescribing drugs to addicts without medical indication)].

[6] Use of Compelled Diagnostic Examination as Evidence

If the Division orders a licensee to be examined by a psychiatrist because of apparent mental illness to such an extent as to impair the licensee's ability to practice medicine safely, the report of the examining psychiatrist may be received as direct evidence in a proceeding to determine fitness to practice. The report must also be made available to the licensee [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 820].

If the Division orders a complete diagnostic examination by one or more physicians appointed by the Division as a condition of probation or of reinstatement of a licensee previously found to be mentally ill to such an extent as to impair his or her ability to practice medicine safely, the Division must receive and consider any other report of a complete diagnostic examination given by one or more physicians of the licensee's choice [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 823(c)

(reinstatement after finding of debilitating mental illness), 2228(b) (probation)].

[7] Failure of Accused to Call Witness

Indulgence of any presumption unfavorable to the accused because the accused has failed to call any witnesses is not permissible [Sunseri v. Board of Medical Examiners (1964) 224 Cal. App. 2d 309, 317, 36 Cal. Rptr. 553 , disapproved on other grounds in Kirby v. Alcoholic Bev. etc. Appeals Bd. (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 1009, 1020, 87 Cal. Rptr. 908] .

[8] Expert Testimony

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no expert testimony in matters brought by the Medical Board may be permitted by any party unless the following information is exchanged in written form with counsel for the other party, as ordered by the Office of Administrative Hearings [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2334(a)]:

(1) A curriculum vitae setting forth the expert's qualifications.

(2) A brief narrative statement of the general substance of the testimony the expert is expected to give, including any opinion testimony and its basis.

(3) A representation that the expert has agreed to testify at the hearing.

(4) A statement of the expert's hourly and daily fee for providing testimony and for consulting with the party who retained the expert's services.

This exchange of the information must be completed at least 30 calendar days before the commencement date of the hearing [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2334(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsEvidenceGeneral OverviewEvidenceDocumentary EvidenceWritingsGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesDoctor-Patient PrivilegeGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesDoctor-Patient PrivilegeScopeEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsPreliminary QuestionsAdmissibility of EvidenceGeneral OverviewEvidenceScientific EvidencePolygraphsEvidenceTestimonyGeneral OverviewEvidenceTestimonyExpertsGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & SuspensionHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationPatient ConfidentialityGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationPeer ReviewGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.72

§ 414.72 Defenses

[1] Entrapment

A licensee may raise the defense of entrapment, as long as the defense does not amount to an attempt to impeach a conviction when a statute provides that the conviction constitutes a sufficient basis for administrative disciplinary action [Patty v. Board of Medical Examiners (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 356, 364, 107 Cal. Rptr. 473, 508 P.2d 1121 ; Lax v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d 669, 675, 172 Cal. Rptr. 258 ; see Matanky v. Board of Medical Examiners (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 293, 302, 144 Cal. Rptr. 826 (licensee as not entitled to present evidence impeaching judgment in which licensee was convicted when statute provides that record of conviction is evidence only of fact that conviction occurred and does not provide that conviction is per se sufficient basis for discipline; decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2383; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2236)]. However, the defense of entrapment does not apply when the licensee harbored a preexisting intent to commit the act of which he or she is accused, even though he or she may have committed the act because of solicitation of a decoy [Kolnick v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 80, 86, 161 Cal. Rptr. 289] .

The fact that a duly authorized undercover police officer made verbal misrepresentations in soliciting a licensee to engage in unprofessional conduct does not provide a basis for overturning imposition of discipline, nor is there any requirement that the officer obtain specific authorization from his or her superior before making such verbal misrepresentations [Kolnick v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 80, 85, 161 Cal. Rptr. 289] .

For a discussion of the law relating to entrapment, see Erwin, Millman, Monroe, Sevilla, and Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 73, Defenses and Justifications (Matthew Bender).

[2] Laches

There is no statute of limitations as such that is applicable to disciplinary proceedings [Windham v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 461, 474, 163 Cal. Rptr. 566] . If the licensee raises the defense of laches, criticism of delay by the board in commencing disciplinary proceedings is to be premised on the time when the board learned or should have learned of the facts on which the accusation is based [Gore v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1980) 110 Cal. App. 3d 184, 193, 167 Cal. Rptr. 881 (date of court approval of malpractice settlement as measuring date in disciplinary action based on gross negligence under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2361; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2234)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Criminal Law & ProcedureDefensesEntrapmentGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersDoctors & PhysiciansHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & SuspensionTortsProcedureStatutes of LimitationsAccrual of ActionsDiscovery Rule

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.73

§ 414.73 Evidentiary and Procedural Irregularities as Curable on Mandamus

The failure of any of the hearing authorities within the Medical Board of California to properly consider relevant evidence, and other procedural irregularities, may be cured if the licensee received a full and fair hearing before the superior court, in which the court reached an independent judgment based on the relevant evidence [see Cooper v. State Bd. of Medical Examiners (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 242, 246-247, 217 P.2d 630 ; Bernstein v. Board of Medical Examiners (1962) 204 Cal. App. 2d 378, 385, 22 Cal. Rptr. 419 (alternate grounds for finding licensee's contentions of procedural irregularities meritless are discussed in both cases); see also § 414.133].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewRemediesMandamusHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersDoctors & PhysiciansHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.74

§ 414.74 Reinstatement of Certificate or Modification of Penalty

[1] In General

A physician found guilty of unprofessional conduct whose license has been revoked or suspended, or who has been placed on probation, may petition the Division of Medical Quality for reinstatement or modification of penalty, including modification or termination of probation, after a period of not less than the following minimum periods have elapsed from the effective date of the decision ordering the disciplinary action [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2307]:

(1) At least three years for reinstatement of a license revoked for unprofessional conduct, except that the division may, for good cause shown, specify in a revocation order that a petition for reinstatement may be filed after two years;

(2) At least two years for early termination of probation of three years or more; or

(3) At least one year for modification of a condition, or reinstatement of a license revoked for mental or physical illness, or termination of probation of less than three years.

A petition for modification or termination of probation or a petition for reinstatement of a revoked certificate must be filed on a form provided by the Division [16 Cal. Code Reg. § 1359(a)]. Consideration will be given to the petition only when a formal request for the petition has been filed in the Division's office in Sacramento at least 30 days before a regular meeting of the division or appropriate medical quality review panel [16 Cal. Code Reg. § 1359(b)].

The petition may be heard by a panel of the division. The division may assign the petition to an administrative law judge designated in Gov. Code § 11371. After a hearing on the petition, the administrative law judge provides a proposed decision to the division of the California Board of Podiatric Medicine, as applicable. The proposed decision must be acted on in accordance with Bus. & Prof. Code § 2335 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2307; see § 414.69[6][d][iv]].

For discussion of reinstatement of a licentiate against whom disciplinary action has been taken pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 822, based on the licentiate's physical or mental illness, see § 414.68[7].

[2] Petition and Hearing

The petition must be accompanied by at least two verified recommendations from physicians and surgeons licensed by the board who have personal knowledge of the activities of the petitioner since the disciplinary penalty was imposed, and must state such facts as may be required by the Division [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2307]. The authority hearing the petition may consider all activities of the petitioner since the disciplinary action was taken, the offense for which the petitioner was disciplined, the petitioner's activities during the time the certificate was in good standing, and the petitioner's rehabilitative efforts and general reputation for truth and professional ability [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2307; see also 16 Cal. Code Reg. § 1360.2 (rehabilitation criteria)]. The hearing may be continued from time to time as the administrative law judge designated in Gov. Code § 11371 finds necessary [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2307].

[3] Granting Reinstatement or Modification

The hearing authority reinstating a certificate or modifying a penalty may recommend the imposition of any terms and conditions as it deems necessary [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2307].

[4] Restrictions on Authority to Grant Reinstatement or Modification

No petition may be considered while the petitioner is under sentence for any criminal offense, including any period during which the petitioner is on court-imposed probation or parole [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2307]. Furthermore, no petition may be considered while there is an accusation or petition to revoke probation pending against the person [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2307].

[5] New Petition Within Two Years of Denial of Reinstatement or Modification

Any petition for reinstatement filed within a period of two years from the effective date of the prior decision, following a hearing of such a petition, may be denied by the Division without hearing or argument [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2307].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.75

§ 414.75 Judicial Review

[1] Mandate as Proper Procedure

Gov. Code § 11523, which is made applicable to disciplinary proceedings against physicians and surgeons by Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230, provides that judicial review of a decision of an administrative agency may be had by filing a petition for writ of mandate in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure [Gov. Code § 11523; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230(a) (Gov. Code § 11500 et seq. as governing physicians' disciplinary procedures)]. Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 explicitly provides for judicial review of a final administrative order or decision made as the result of a proceeding in which a hearing is required to be given. In enacting Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5, the Legislature in effect ratified the remedy of administrative mandamus, which the courts had previously created to meet the need for judicial review of state agencies [Grant v. Board of Medical Examiners (1965) 232 Cal. App. 2d 820, 826, 43 Cal. Rptr. 270] . In framing this judicial remedy, the Supreme Court has declared and adhered to the proposition that a mandate proceeding is the proper method of inquiring into the propriety of the official acts of a board such as the Medical Board of California [see Dare v. Board of Medical Examiners (1943) 21 Cal. 2d 790, 795, 136 P.2d 304] .

For a complete discussion of review of administrative decisions or orders by mandate, see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , et seq.

[2] Calendar Preference on Review

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, superior court review of a decision revoking, suspending, or restricting a license takes preference over all other civil actions in the matter of setting the case for hearing or trial. The hearing or trial must be set no later than 180 days from the filing of the action. Further continuance are granted only on a showing of good cause [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2337].

[3] Independent Review by Reviewing Court

The trial court's duty in reviewing the disciplinary decision of the appropriate hearing authority is to undertake an independent review of the evidence on which the finding of unprofessional conduct is based [Yakov v. Board of Medical Examiners (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 67, 69, 64 Cal. Rptr. 785, 435 P.2d 553] .

[4] Limited Right to Introduce New Evidence

Although the trial court reviewing a decision of the board may exercise its independent judgment on the evidence and is not bound by the record before the board, the scope of review on mandate is not equivalent to an unqualified trial de novo wherein the litigant may present a skeleton showing in the lower forum and reserve the real showing on the merits in the superior court [Dare v. Board of Medical Examiners (1943) 21 Cal. 2d 790, 795, 136 P.2d 304 (decided before enactment of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5, governing administrative mandate); Shakin v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 102, 111, 62 Cal. Rptr. 274 , appeal dismissed, 390 U.S. 410, 88 S. Ct. 1112, 19 L. Ed. 2d. 1272 (1968)] . Thus the petitioner may introduce additional evidence for the court's consideration in a mandate proceeding only if it appears that the petitioner could not in the exercise of reasonable diligence have obtained or introduced such evidence to the authority that made the decision, or if the evidence was improperly excluded at the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e); Shakin v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 102, 110-111, 62 Cal. Rptr. 274 , appeal dismissed, 390 U.S. 410, 88 S. Ct. 1112, 19 L. Ed. 2d. 1272 (1968)] .

[5] Restricted Standard of Review of Decision Imposing Penalty

The trial court's independent review is limited to a review of the findings that would justify discipline in the first instance. Propriety of the penalty imposed by the Division once discipline is found to be warranted is vested in the discretion of the Division, to be overturned only in case of manifest abuse [Magit v. Board of Medical Examiners (1961) 57 Cal. 2d 74, 87, 17 Cal. Rptr. 488, 366 P.2d 816 ; Williamson v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 1343, 1347, 266 Cal. Rptr. 520] . Thus, consideration of evidence of rehabilitation by the licensee since he or she engaged in the conduct for which discipline was imposed is within the discretion of the Division when such evidence was used to determine the penalty [Windham v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 461, 472, 163 Cal. Rptr. 566 (decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2383, conviction of felony as unprofessional conduct; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2236)].

Revocation of a physician's license for employing trained but unlicensed physicians to practice medicine, in violation of former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2392 (now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2264) was overturned with language suggesting that any penalty more severe than probation would be excessive, when the accused had acted in the good faith belief that such employment was proper [see O'Reilly v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 381, 388, 58 Cal. Rptr. 7, 426 P.2d 167 , cert. denied, 390 U.S. 944, 88 S. Ct. 1019, 19 L. Ed. 2d 1132 (1968) ; Magit v. Board of Medical Examiners (1961) 57 Cal. 2d 74, 88, 17 Cal. Rptr. 488, 366 P.2d 816] .

A case may also be remanded to the Division for redetermination of penalty when the Division has imposed a single penalty for more than one count of misconduct and a significant number of the counts are found not to be supported by the evidence. The cases that were remanded in this manner involved the severe penalties of revocation or suspension of the accused's license [see O'Reilly v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 381, 389, 58 Cal. Rptr. 7, 426 P.2d 167 , cert. denied, 390 U.S. 944, 88 S. Ct. 1019, 19 L. Ed. 2d 1132 (1968) (remand after penalty found too severe for one of two counts); Cooper v. State Bd. of Medical Examiners (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 242, 252, 217 P.2d 630] . However, the case need not be remanded for redetermination of penalty even when some of the counts for which the penalty was imposed were vacated on appeal when the Division imposed a separate penalty for each of the counts [Grannis v. Board of Medical Examiners (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 551, 563, 96 Cal. Rptr. 863 (penalty of revocation, stayed by Board subject to conditions)].

The Supreme Court remanded a case to the Board for redetermination of penalty even though the underlying finding that the accused was guilty of providing dangerous drugs without a prescription was supported by the evidence when the board's additional finding of moral turpitude, not required for the unprofessional conduct finding, was not supported by the evidence, and it was not clear to what extent the board's decision to revoke the accused's license was based on the overturned finding [Yakov v. Board of Medical Examiners (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 67, 69, 74, 64 Cal. Rptr. 785, 435 P.2d 553 (case decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2399.5; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2242)]. However, a court may not remand a case, when a physician's license has been revoked, for redetermination of penalty on it own finding that the physician had shown no moral turpitude when the Division did not make and rely on an affirmative finding of moral turpitude in making its decision to revoke the accused's license [see Collins v. Board of Medical Examiners (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 439, 444-445, 105 Cal. Rptr. 634] .

[6] Stay of Operation of Division's Order

A court may stay any administrative order or decision of an agency that issues licenses pursuant to those sections of the Business and Professions Code that concern the healing arts pending the judgment of the Court in an administrative mandate proceeding, or until either notice of appeal from the Court's judgment has been filed or the time for filing such notice has expired, whichever comes first. However, to issue such a stay, the court must be satisfied that (1) the public interest will not suffer thereby, and (2) the agency is unlikely to prevail ultimately on the merits [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(h)(1)].

A mere prima facie showing of a possible viable defense, which, if accepted by the reviewing court would cause that court to reach a different decision, does not satisfy the requirement that the agency must be unlikely to prevail on the merits. There must be a preliminary assessment of the merits of the licensee's petition and a conclusion that the licensee is likely to obtain relief therein [Board of Medical Quality Assurance v. Superior Court (1980) 114 Cal. App. 3d 272, 276, 170 Cal. Rptr. 468 ; see Medical Bd. of California v. Superior Court (1991) 227 Cal. App. 3d 1458, 1461-1462, 278 Cal. Rptr. 247 ; see Medical Bd. of California v. Superior Court (1991) 227 Cal. App. 3d 1458, 1461-1462, 278 Cal. Rptr. 247] .

The fact that Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(h) imposes a stricter standard for staying the decision of an agency that regulates the healing arts than Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(g) imposes for staying decisions of other agencies does not constitute an unconstitutional denial of equal protection. Such a stricter standard bears a rational relationship to the unusually sensitive relationship between the physician and the public and his or her patients [Board of Medical Quality Assurance v. Superior Court (1980) 114 Cal. App. 3d 272, 276, 278, 170 Cal. Rptr. 468] .

[7] Review of Superior Court's Decision

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, review of the superior court's decision on revocation, suspension, or restriction of a license must be by petition for an extraordinary writ [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2337; Leone v. Medical Board (2000) 22 Cal. 4th 660, 663-670, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 61, 995 P.2d 191 (Bus. & Prof. Code § 2337 is only method of obtaining appellate court review of superior court decision and does not violate Cal. Const., art. VI, § 11)].

[8] Application for Injunction in Federal Court

A physician may bring a civil rights action in federal district court to enjoin an administrative license revocation proceeding if the proceeding violates the physician's federal constitutional rights. In such a case, however, the federal court may invoke the Younger abstention doctrine and dismiss the civil rights action if all three prongs of the test set forth in Middlesex County Ethics Committee v. Garden State Bar Ass'n (1982) 457 U.S. 423, 425, 102 S. Ct. 2515, 73 L. Ed. 2d 116 , are met, unless one of the recognized exceptions to Younger is present [Kenneally v. Lungren (9th Cir. 1992) 967 F.2d 329, 331 , cert. denied, 506 U.S. 1054, 113 S. Ct. 979, 122 L. Ed. 2d 133 (1993) ; see Younger v. Harris (1971) 401 U.S. 37, 91 S. Ct. 746, 27 L. Ed. 2d 669] . The three-part Middlesex test requires federal courts to examine (1) the nature of the state proceedings in order to determine whether the proceedings implicate important state interests, (2) the timing of the request for federal relief in order to determine whether there are ongoing state proceedings, and (3) the ability of the federal plaintiff to litigate its federal constitutional claims in the state proceedings [Middlesex County Ethics Committee v. Garden State Bar Ass'n (1982) 457 U.S. 423, 435, 102 S. Ct. 2515, 73 L. Ed.

2d 116 ; Kenneally v. Lungren (9th Cir. 1992) 967 F.2d 329, 331 , cert. denied, 506 U.S. 1054, 113 S. Ct. 979, 122 L. Ed. 2d 133 (1993)] . To determine whether an exception to Younger is present, the court must also examine whether the proceeding demonstrates bad faith, harassment, or some other extraordinary circumstances that would make abstention inappropriate [Kenneally v. Lungren (9th Cir. 1992) 967 F.2d 329, 331 , cert. denied, 506 U.S. 1054, 113 S. Ct. 979, 122 L. Ed. 2d 133 (1993)] .

In the context of a California physician's challenge to a federal district court's abstention under Younger, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, analyzing the third prong of the Middlesex test, rejected a claim that California's procedural framework for review of agency decisions denies physicians a meaningful opportunity for review of federal constitutional claims. The court determined that under the administrative mandate procedure provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5, a p hysician has a meaningful opportunity to present constitutional claims for independent judicial review before the Medical Board's decision becomes effective [Kenneally v. Lungren (9th Cir. 1992) 967 F.2d 329, 333 , cert. denied, 506 U.S. 1054, 113 S. Ct. 979, 122 L. Ed. 2d 133 (1993)] . Notwithstanding the validity of the procedural framework, however, demonstrated bias by the Board might provide an exception making Younger abstention improper [see Kenneally v. Lungren (9th Cir. 1992) 967 F.2d 329, 334-335 , cert. denied, 506 U.S. 1054, 113 S. Ct. 979, 122 L. Ed. 2d 133 (1993) (no bias found under facts of case)].

For discussion of civil rights actions, see Ch. 112, Civil Rights: Government-Funded Programs and Activities . For discussion of the Younger abstention doctrine, see Moore' S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 122 (3rd ed. Matthew Bender).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsRight to HearingGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewAdministrative RecordRemandsAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewRemediesMandamusHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationJudicial ReviewGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & SuspensionHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationPeer ReviewGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 414.76-414.89

[Reserved]

§§ 414.76[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Licensing

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.90

§ 414.90 California Points and Authorities

For memoranda for use in proceedings concerning the licensing and regulation of physicians, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 176, Physicians and Surgeons: Licensing and Professional Discipline (Matthew Bender)

For memoranda for use in mandate proceedings generally, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 150, Mandate and Prohibition (Matthew Bender)

For memoranda for use in mandate proceedings to review administrative decisions made as the result of an adjudicatory hearing, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 195, Public Administrative Law (Matthew Bender)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsLicensesHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Licensing

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.91

§ 414.91 State Statutes

[1] Denial of License

Noncompliance with child or family support order as ground for nonissuance or nonrenewal of professional license. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 31, 6143.5(a)

Judicial review. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2087

Unprofessional conduct. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2221 et seq.

[2] Qualifying for License

Graduates of domestic medical schools. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2080 et seq.

Graduates of foreign medical schools. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2100 et seq.

Reciprocity certificate. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2135 et seq.

Licensing examination. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2170 et seq.

[3] Requirement of License and Exemptions

Issuance of oral and maxillofacial surgery permit to licensed physician and surgeon. Bus. & Prof. Code § 1638

Form of certificate. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2050

Requirement of license and practice authorized. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2051-2055

Exemptions from licensing requirement. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2059 et seq.

For verification of license, entitlement to rely on licensing information as displayed on Board's Internet web site, including issuance and expiration dates of any license issued by Board. Bus. & Prof. Code § 3779

Recovery of treble damages, and costs and attorney's fees at discretion of court, when unlicensed person causes injury or damage to another while providing goods or performing services for which specified licenses are required. Code Civ. Proc. § 1029.8

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Licensing

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.92

§ 414.92 Decisions

[1] Conduct Authorized by Physician's and Surgeon's Certificate

Physicians and surgeons, osteopaths, chiropractors, and licensed drugless practitioners are entitled to use natural healing methods despite statute forbidding licensing of naturopaths. Oosterveen v. Board of Medical Examiners (1952) 112 Cal. App. 2d 201, 205, 246 P.2d 136 (interpreting former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2137; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2051)

[2] Conduct Prohibited Without Proper Certificate

[a] Practice of Healing Arts

Prohibition of former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2141 (now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2052) against diagnosis, treatment of operating, or prescribing for any physical or mental condition without certificate was not unconstitutionally overbroad in context of entire section and scheme for regulating healing arts. Bowland v. Municipal Court (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 479, 494, 134 Cal. Rptr. 630, 556 P.2d 1081

Practice of medicine by unlicensed person is not rendered proper by consultation with licensed physician. O'Reilly v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 381, 388, 58 Cal. Rptr. 7, 426 P.2d 167 , cert. denied, 390 U.S. 944, 88 S. Ct. 1019, 19 L. Ed. 2d 1132 (decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2392; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2264; employing unlicensed person to practice medicine is unprofessional conduct)

Practice of medicine by unlicensed person is not made proper by fact that such person had training making him or her competent to practice medicine, or fact that unlicensed person was supervised by licensed physician. Magit v. Board of Medical Examiners (1961) 57 Cal. 2d 74, 85, 17 Cal. Rptr. 488, 366 P.2d 816 (decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2392, now Bus. & Prof. Code § 2264)

California had jurisdiction to prosecute physician who resided in Colorado under Bus. & Prof. Code § 2052 for practicing medicine in California without California license based on facts that physician prescribed medication over Internet and medication was sent to California resident. Hageseth v. Superior Court (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 1399, 1405-1424, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 385

Former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2053 clearly created criminal liability for one whose unlicensed and unlawful diagnosis willfully causes risk of great bodily harm. People v. Brown (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 918, 932, 285 Cal. Rptr. 824

Preoperative and postoperative care were capable of putting patient at risk of great bodily harm and serious illness for purposes of former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2053 [now see Bus. & Prof Code § 2052]. People v. Brown (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 918, 926-931, 285 Cal. Rptr. 824

Allegation that defendant used drugs is unnecessary to state offense of practicing medicine without license, since use of drugs is not an essential element of statutory violation. People v. Cochran (1922) 56 Cal. App. 394, 396, 205 P. 473 (decided under provisions of former Medical Practice Act of 1913, contained in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2052)

[b] Representing Oneself as Physician

Graduate of out-of-state medical school who had practiced in other state and conducted school for medical and dental assistants in California, but who was not licensed as physician and surgeon in California, improperly used M.D. initial in advertising material by school, and had no First Amendment right to use M.D. initials without California physician's certificate. Lawton v. Board of Medical Examiners (1956) 143 Cal. App. 2d 256, 261-262, 299 P.2d 362 (decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2142; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2054)

[3] Exemptions to Certification Requirement

[a] Limited Exemption for Holders of Certificates in Allied Healing Arts

Chiropractic license entitles holder to perform certain acts in practice of his or her particular healing art without holding physician's and surgeon's certificate, but does not authorize treatment beyond scope of chiropractic license without physician's and surgeon's certificate. Crees v. Board of Medical Examiners (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 195, 210, 28 Cal. Rptr. 621 (decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2141; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2052)

Chiropractor who has no physician's and surgeon's certificate and who performs procedure or does act forbidden by Medical Practice Act except by one holding physician's license violated act even though he or she does not hold himself or herself out as doctor of medicine. Crees v. Board of Medical Examiners (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 195, 211, 28 Cal. Rptr. 621 (decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2141; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2052)

Creation of limited defense to former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2141 (now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2052 (prohibiting practice of medicine without license)) by Chiropractic Act does not make basic prohibition in that statute unconstitutionally vague. Crees v. Board of Medical Examiners (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 195, 215, 28 Cal. Rptr. 621

Chiropractor is not entitled under Chiropractic Act to use drugs or medical preparations or sever or penetrate human tissue; plasma transfusion and hypodermic injection done for purpose of treatment of ailment are not within permissible practice of chiropractor. People v. Mangiagli (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 935

[b] Service in Case of Emergency

Emergency situation in which treatment without license warranted is defined as a case in which ordinary medical practitioners of schools provided for by statute who have proper diplomas and have submitted themselves to proper examinations are not readily available. People v. Lee Wah (1886) 71 Cal. 80, 82, 11 P. 851 (interpreting former Stats. 1875-1876, p. 792, as amended Stats. 1877-1878, p. 98; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2058); Newhouse v. Board of Osteopathic Examiners (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 728 (interpreting former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2144; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2058)

Case in which patient's condition was given up by established schools did not constitute emergency situation so as to permit practice by unlicensed person. People v. Lee Wah (1886) 71 Cal. 80, 81-82, 11 P. 851 (interpreting former Stats. 1875-1876, p. 792, as amended Stats. 1877-1878, p. 918; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2058)

Emergency situation justifying practice of medicine without license did not exist when time and opportunity to summon qualified physician existed. People v. Mangiagli (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 935 (decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2144; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2058)

Services of emergency character are services rendered to afford temporary relief until services of regular practitioner could be secured. People v. Mangiagli (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 935 (decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2144; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2058)

[4] Judicial Review of Adverse Action by Division of Licensing

Action to compel board to approve school from which applicant graduated was proper action for applicant who has been denied license due to failure to graduate from approved school. Mann v. Board of Medical Examiners (1947) 31 Cal. 2d 30, 41-42, 187 P.2d 1 ; Savelli v. Board of Medical Examiners (1964) 229 Cal. App. 2d 124, 138, 40 Cal. Rptr. 171 , cert. denied, 380 U.S. 934, 85 S. Ct. 940, 13 L. Ed. 2d 821 (cases decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2174; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2087)

Formal and deliberate action of board in disapproving school was not nullified by occasional isolated admission of graduates of school, mostly under exceptional circumstances; such nullification was required to be by action as formal and deliberate as action of disapproval and established by strongest kind of showing--clear, convincing, and unequivocal; no such thing as de facto or qualified approval. Mann v. Board of Medical Examiners (1947) 31 Cal. 2d 30, 39, 187 P.2d 1

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsAdministrative BoardsHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Licensing

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.93

§ 414.93 Attorney General Opinions

Lawful limitations on medical services and orders performable by physician's assistant. 71 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 296 (1988)

Homecare companions are not lawfully authorized to administer controlled substances or engage in nasogastric tube or gastrostomy feeding. 71 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 190 (1988)

Certified Acupuncturist is not permitted to use initials "O.M.D." or the title "Oriental Medical Doctor," without more, in advertising acupuncture practice. 71 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 54 (1988)

Marriage, family, and child counselors have statutory authority to construct, administer, and interpret "psychological tests" within course of practice and in fields of competence as established by education, training, and experience. 67 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 278 (1984)

Certified registered nurse anesthetist is permitted by law to administer regional anesthetic when ordered by physician, dentist, podiatrist, or clinical psychologist acting within scope of license, but not pursuant to "standardized procedure." 67 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 122 (1984)

Reciprocity provisions of the Medical Practice Act. 67 Cal. Op. Att'y Gen. 98 (1984)

Registered nurses are not authorized to prescribe, furnish, or administer medications under standardized procedure. 64 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 240 (1981)

Vocational nurses working in blood banks are permitted to perform skin puncture and venipuncture for collecting whole blood on authorization from any physician and surgeon or dentist provided that nurses have had instructions from physician and surgeon or prescribed course and have demonstrated competence in blood withdrawal procedure. 59 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 112 (1976)

Chiropractor is not entitled to practice art of anything but chiropractic, but as entitled to use concepts of anatomy, bacteriology, diagnosis, physiology, chemistry, hygiene, physiotherapy, and dietetics in limited and circumscribed manner, as long as employment of such concepts does not exceed limits of chiropractic practice. 59 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 420 (1976)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirementsHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Licensing

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.94

§ 414.94 Law Reviews

Comment, Unnecessary Hysterectomy: The Lack of Informed Consent, 13 Golden Gate U.L. Rev. 573 (1983)

Mizuno, The Physician's Assistant and the Problem of Statutory Authorization, 7 U.C. Davis L. Rev. 413 (1974)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirementsHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & SuspensionHealthcare LawTreatmentPatient ConsentGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentPatient ConsentInformed Consent

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Licensing

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 414.95-414.109

[Reserved]

§§ 414.95[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.110

§ 414.110 California Points and Authorities

For memoranda for use in mandate proceedings generally, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 150, Mandate and Prohibition (Matthew Bender)

For memoranda for use in proceedings concerning licensing and regulation of physicians, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 176, Physicians and Surgeons: Licensing and Professional Discipline (Matthew Bender)

For memoranda for use in mandate proceedings to review administrative decisions made as the result of adjudicatory hearings, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 195, Public Administrative Law (Matthew Bender)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsLicensesHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirementsHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.111

§ 414.111 State Statutes

[1] Administrative Law Judges

Official or judicial notice of matters by administrative law judge. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2231

Designation of administrative law judge to hear disciplinary proceedings. Gov. Code § 11371

[2] Causes for Discipline

Noncompliance with child or family support order as ground for nonissuance or nonrenewal of professional license. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 31, 6143.5; Welf & Ins. Code § 11350.6

Mental illness or physical illness affecting competency. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 820, 822

Unprofessional conduct in general. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2234

Conditions under which alternative or complementary medicine is not cause for discipline. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2234.1

Specific instances of unprofessional conduct. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2234-2291, 2305

[3] Conduct of Proceedings

Reinstatement. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 823, 2307

Conduct of proceedings under Administrative Procedure Act. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230; Gov. Code § 11500 et seq.

Professional competency examination required in case of reasonable doubt concerning ability to practice. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2292-2294

Authorities presiding at disciplinary hearing. Gov. Code § 11372(a)

[4] Duties and Powers of Relevant Authority

Duties of Medical Board with regard to discipline. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2004

Delegation of authority by Board. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2224

[5] Reporting Misconduct to Medical Board

Report by coroner on discovery of potential gross negligence or incompetence by physician. Bus. & Prof. Code § 802.5

Reports by prosecuting authorities and other court officials concerning felony proceedings against physician. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 803.5, 803.6

Any medical or podiatric society, licensed or certified health facility, defined state agency, or local government agency that receives complaints or other adverse information about physician and surgeon or podiatric doctor from public must inform complainant that Medical Board of California or Board of Podiatric Medicine is only authority that may take disciplinary action against license of named licensee, and provide address and toll-free telephone number of applicable state board. Civ. Code § 43.96(a)

Immunity of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2318 and Civ. Code § 47 applies to complaints and information made or provided to board pursuant to Civ. Code § 43.96(a). Civ. Code § 43.96(b)

[6] Review of Disciplinary Action

Trial preference for superior court review of imposition of discipline. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2337

Judicial review of imposition of discipline. Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5

Review of proposed decision. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2335(c)

[7] Types of Discipline

[a] Criminal and Injunctive Action by Division

Enjoining unprofessional conduct. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2311, 2312

Criminal penalties for unprofessional conduct. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2314, 2315

[b] Discipline Affecting Right to Practice

Types of discipline. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2227, 2228

Rehabilitative and protective policies underlying discipline. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2229

Effect of practicing with suspended license. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2306

Interim discipline. Gov. Code § 11529

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewRemediesInjunctive ReliefGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsAdministrative BoardsHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirementsHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.112

§ 414.112 Administrative Regulations

(Former) Division of Medical Quality. 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1355-1356.3

Impaired Physician Program. 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1357-1357.8

Probation and reinstatement of suspended or revoked certificates. 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1358-1360.2

Disciplinary guidelines. 16 Cal. Code Reg. § 1361

Advertising and standards of practice. 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1363, 1364

Citations and fines. 16 Cal. Code Reg. § 1364.10 et seq.

Public letters of reprimand. 16 Cal. Code Reg. § 1364.20 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirementsHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.113

§ 414.113 Decisions

[1] Evidence at Hearing

[a] Applicability of Exclusionary Rule

Exclusionary rule was not applicable to disciplinary proceeding when board investigator showed no bad faith in accepting evidence that was given voluntarily by division. Pating v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 608, 625, 182 Cal. Rptr. 20

Vicarious right physician might have to assert patients' privacy rights under exclusionary rule in face of seizure of medical records without subpoena was extinguished when patients consent to introduction of records into evidence; extinguishment of physician's vicarious right applied retroactively to seizures before patients consented. Pating v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 608, 621, 182 Cal. Rptr. 20

[b] Diagnostic Examination

Federal pleadings filed by physician were available for use against physician to illustrate physician's abnormal state of mind, for purposes of establishing cause for diagnostic examination under Bus. & Prof. Code § 820. Alexander D. v. State Bd. of Dental Examiners (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 92, 98-99, 282 Cal. Rptr. 201

[c] Expert Testimony

Medical board's disqualification of experts offered at disciplinary hearing to revoke license of physician who employed alternative therapies for children suffering from attention deficit and hyperactivity disorder (ADHD) or adults suffering from wide assortment of hard-to-diagnose symptoms rendered his disciplinary hearing fundamentally unfair, particularly when standard of care was obfuscated by Kelly-Frye standards of admissibility, and required remand to board. Sinaiko v. Superior Court (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1133, 1140-1146, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 371

[d] Seizure of Patients' Medical Records

Pursuant to Evid. Code § 1007, physician-patient privilege was inapplicable to investigative proceeding to determine whether medical license should be revoked, suspended, terminated, limited, or conditioned. Board of Medical Quality Assurance v. Hazel Hawkins Memorial Hospital (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 561, 566, 185 Cal. Rptr. 405

In investigation of professional conduct of doctor whose clinical and admitting privileges had been revoked by hospital, denial of petition of Division of Medical Quality to compel hospital and its administrator to comply with Division's subpoena of patient medical records was improper because (1) Division had authority to make inquiry, (2) demand was specific and limited, (3) patients' medical records were relevant, and (4) patients' right to privacy was safeguarded. Board of Medical Quality Assurance v. Hazel Hawkins Memorial Hospital (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 561, 565, 185 Cal. Rptr. 405

Investigator's acceptance without subpoena of medical records of patients of accused, which were voluntarily offered by accused's former associates, was not unreasonable seizure of records. Pating v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 608, 623, 182 Cal. Rptr. 20

Physician-patient privilege established by Evid. Code § 990 et seq. created zone of privacy protected by California Constitution; showing of (1) waiver and (2) good cause as required to be shown before subpoena may be issued compelling disclosure of medical records. Board of Medical Quality Assurance v. Gherardini (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 669, 680-681, 156 Cal. Rptr. 55

[2] Findings Supporting Decision

Decision by former Board of Medical Quality Assurance (now Medical Board of California) not required to include findings as to penalty imposed. Williamson v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 1343, 1346, 266 Cal. Rptr. 520 (construing Gov. Code § 11518)

[3] Grounds for Discipline

[a] In General

Board was unable to revoke physician's certificate, or otherwise discipline physician, unless it could prove by clear and convincing evidence that physician's conduct was so unprofessional that he or she had to be disciplined to protect public. Bonner v. Sisters of Providence Corp. (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 437, 445, 239 Cal. Rptr. 530

[b] Employing, Aiding, or Abetting Unlicensed Persons in Medical Practice

Employing unlicensed person to practice medicine violative of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2264; additional finding of aiding and abetting licensed person unnecessary to establish violation. Khan v. Medical Board (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 1834, 1841-1843, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 385

Physician subject to discipline for allowing person in family practice clinic to give injections. Bryce v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 1471, 1474-1476, 229 Cal. Rptr. 483

Physician subject to discipline for authorizing physician assistants to prescribe medication on presigned, blank prescription forms. Bryce v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 1471, 1474-1476, 229 Cal.

Rptr. 483

[c] False Advertising

Placing names of unlicensed medical personnel on office door of physician violated Bus. & Prof. Code § 17500; violation of statute was misdemeanor not requiring finding of criminal intent, therefore physician's negligence in causing false public statement was sufficient to establish violation. Khan v. Medical Board (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 1834, 1845-1846, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 385

[d] Falsifying Medical Documents

Mistake of law was no defense when certification made assertions that were false and known by licensee to be false. Brown v. State Department of Health (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 548, 558-559, 150 Cal. Rptr. 344

Intent to deceive not necessary element for violation of former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2411, now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2261 (providing that knowingly signing any certificate or document related to practice of medicine that represents as true facts known to be false), as long as signer had knowledge of falsity of document. Brown v. State Department of Health (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 548, 554-555, 150 Cal. Rptr. 344

[e] Gross Negligence

Uncontradicted expert testimony of two physicians unequivocally indicating that licensee's treatment constituted extreme departure from acceptable standard of medical care provided sufficient basis for professional discipline. Glover v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 203, 207-208, 282 Cal. Rptr. 137

In proceeding for suspension of medical license, based on death of patient under anesthesia, failure of surgeon to take and record patient's vital signs every five minutes when it was common practice in most hospitals do so constituted gross negligence, even though some hospitals allowed recordation every 15 minutes. Kearl v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1986) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1040, 1053-1054, 236 Cal. Rptr. 526

Gross negligence is defined as want of even scant care or extreme departure from ordinary standard of conduct; use of disjunctive indicates alternative elements of gross negligence, that is, both need not be present to establish gross negligence. Kearl v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1986) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1040, 1052-1053, 236 Cal. Rptr. 526

[f] Incompetence

Incompetence does not arise from single, honest failing in performance of duties; however, finding of incompetence was supportable based on actions involving only one patient, when there were several acts or decisions by physician that were improper. Kearl v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1986) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1040, 1055, 1056, 236 Cal. Rptr. 526

[g] Moral Turpitude

[i] Establishing Moral Turpitude

Moral turpitude includes crimes involving fraud or intentional dishonesty for personal gain, whatever else it may mean;

no moral distinction exists between defrauding individual and defrauding government. Matanky v. Board of Medical Examiners (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 293, 303, 144 Cal. Rptr. 826 (filing fraudulent medicare claims for services not rendered)

[ii] Relevance of Moral Turpitude

Moral turpitude in committing crime showed moral unfitness to practice medicine, thus establishing nexus with practice of medicine. Windham v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 461, 469-471, 163 Cal. Rptr. 566 (interpreting nexus requirement and Bus. & Prof. Code § 490)

Finding of moral turpitude not required to impose discipline for unprofessional conduct as defined by those sections of the Business and Professions Code describing specific instances of unprofessional conduct without requiring a finding of moral turpitude. Collins v. Board of Medical Examiners (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 439, 444, 105 Cal. Rptr. 634 (various drug violations)

[h] Requirement of Nexus With Practice of Medicine

Driving while intoxicated demonstrates unwillingness to obey laws against such conduct and constitutes serious breach of duty to society, thereby constituting nexus to practice of medicine. Watson v. Superior Court (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 1407, 1424, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 715

Nexus exists between two or more misdemeanor convictions involving consumption of alcoholic beverages and physician's fitness to practice medicine, so that imposing discipline on physician's license pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 2239(a) does not violate due process and equal protection clauses of state and federal constitutions. Further, conclusive presumption of unprofessional conduct from convictions in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2239(a) does not violate licensee's right to due process of law. Griffiths v. Superior Court (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 757, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445

Trial court erred in granting writ of mandamus directing Medical Board to set aside disciplinary action imposed against physician under Bus. & Prof. Code § 141, based on disciplinary action against physician in Wisconsin, on ground that Board exceeded its jurisdiction by imposing discipline on basis of Bus. & Prof. Code § 141 and could only impose discipline based on Wisconsin action under Bus. & Prof. Code § 2305, which is more specialized statute and mandates disciplinary action after discipline by another state only when discipline would be grounds for discipline in California, only after finding that Wisconsin action would be grounds for discipline in California; Bus & Prof. Code § 2305 should not be construed to impliedly repeal Bus & Prof. Code § 141, but only prevails over Bus & Prof. Code § 141 when both apply; and when Bus & Prof. Code § 141 can apply when § 2305 does not, as it did not in instant case. Medical Board v. Superior Court (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 1001, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 381

Intentional dishonesty, especially involving moral turpitude, satisfies finding of unfitness to practice; physician subject to disciplinary action notwithstanding technical competence or skill when moral character is in dispute. Matanky v. Board of Medical Examiners (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 293, 305, 144 Cal. Rptr. 826 (alternate ground that filing of intentionally false medicare claims for personal gain related to professional activities of physician in any case)

Right to practice medicine is property right of highest character, entitled to protection by safeguards as law has thrown around it, but Legislature has authority under general police power to protect public health, safety, or morals, and to provide for dismissal from medical profession of all persons whose principles, practices, and character render them unfit to remain in it with this object in view. Rinaldo v. Board of Medical Exmrs. (1935) 5 Cal. App. 2d 345, 352, 42 P.2d 724

[4] Judicial Review

[a] Appellate Court Review of Superior Court Decision

Bus. & Prof. Code § 2337 makes petition for extraordinary writ only method for obtaining appellate review of superior court decisions in administrative mandate proceedings reviewing physician discipline decisions by Medical Board of California. Leone v. Medical Board (2000) 22 Cal. 4th 660, 663-664, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 61, 995 P.2d 191

[b] Restricted Standard for Review of Decision Imposing Penalty

Case remanded to board for redetermination of penalty when board imposed single penalty of 90 days' suspension for two violations, and Supreme Court determined that penalty for one violation was too severe and it was impossible to determine to what extent board relied on overturned violation to impose penalty. O'Reilly v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 381, 389, 58 Cal. Rptr. 7, 426 P.2d 167 , cert. denied, 390 U.S. 944, 88 S. Ct. 1019, 19 L. Ed. 2d 1132 (1968)

Uncertainty as to questions of federal preemption and good faith of accused licensee in employing practitioners not licensed in State of California but working in California under federal exchange program precluded any punishment greater than probation by board. O'Reilly v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 381, 388, 58 Cal. Rptr. 7, 426 P.2d 167 , cert. denied, 390 U.S. 944, 88 S. Ct. 1019, 19 L. Ed. 2d 1132 (1968) (decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2392 (now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2264), employing unlicensed person to practice medicine)

Case remanded to board for redetermination of penalty when board had originally imposed severe penalty of license revocation pursuant to finding of two instances of unprofessional conduct, and one finding was not supported by evidence. Cooper v. State Bd. of Medical Examiners (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 242, 252, 217 P.2d 630

Propriety of penalty imposed by board is matter vested in board's discretion; board's decision regarding penalty not disturbed by reviewing court unless manifest abuse of discretion has taken place. Williamson v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 1343, 1347, 266 Cal. Rptr. 520

[c] Statute of Limitations

Licensee whose untimely petition for writ of mandate to review revocation proceeding failed to survive demurrer based on Gov. Code § 11523 (30-day statute of limitations) could not attack revocation collaterally by later petition challenging conditions on license reinstatement; licensee's claim that underlying revocation hearing was unconstitutional was still barred by Gov. Code § 11523, whether or not order sustaining demurrer had res judicata or collateral estoppel effect. Miller v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 1371, 1376-1377, 238 Cal. Rptr. 915

[d] Substantial Evidence Test Applied by Appellate Courts

Appellate court's review of trial court's decision on mandamus was limited to determining whether credible, competent evidence supports trial court's judgment. Conflicts in evidence required to be resolved in favor of trial court's decision. Yakov v. Board of Medical Examiners (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 67, 69, 72, 64 Cal. Rptr. 785, 435 P.2d 553

On appeal from judgment in administrative mandate proceeding, appellate court required to determine, after independent judgment review, whether trial court's findings are supported by substantial evidence and are correct on matters of law. Yellen v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 1040, 1058, 220 Cal. Rptr. 426

Court of appeal on review is not bound by characterization given to evidence by ALJ or agency, but looks to entire record to determine if basis for permissibly imposing discipline exists. Brown v. State Department of Health (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 548, 557, 150 Cal. Rptr. 344

[5] Types of Disciplinary Action

[a] Penalties

Board did not abuse its discretion in permanently revoking license of physician based on factual findings citing seven individual instances of illegally prescribing drugs, three incidences of falsifying medical records to cover up illegal prescribing, personal abuse of drugs by physician, and prior instances of discipline. Williamson v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 1343, 1347-1348, 266 Cal. Rptr. 520

Board did not abuse its discretion in permanently revoking license, because in determining what discipline to impose, Board may take into account defendant's attitude toward offense and his or her character as evidenced by his or her behavior and demeanor at trial. Yellen v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 1040, 1059-1060, 220 Cal. Rptr. 426

[b] Probation or Conditional Stay of Penalty

Imposition of condition that physician pass oral clinical examination prior to reinstatement of license was within discretion of Board of Medical Quality Assurance. Bryce v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 1471, 1475-1476, 229 Cal. Rptr. 483

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesDoctor-Patient PrivilegeGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesDoctor-Patient PrivilegeScopeEvidencePrivilegesDoctor-Patient PrivilegeWaiverHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & SuspensionHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationPatient ConfidentialityGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationPeer ReviewGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceActionsGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceProofCustomExpert TestimonyTortsNegligenceProofCustomMedical CustomsTortsNegligenceStandards of CareGeneral OverviewTortsProcedureStatutes of LimitationsAccrual of ActionsDiscovery Rule

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.114

§ 414.114 Attorney General Opinions

Performance of contract between group of radiologists and physicians for imaging services when agreement provides that (1) group will charge each patient a fee, (2) fees will be transmitted to physicians, (3) physicians will pay stipulated amounts to the group for the services, and (4) total amounts paid by physicians will be independent of, but increase will be proportionately less than, total fees collected from patients violated Bus. & Prof. Code § 650. 73 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 321 (1990)

Payment of fee by professional corporation to which physicians refer patients for performance of pulmonary and cardiac stress tests, to referring physician for preparing evaluation report of patient's test data violated Bus. & Prof. Code § 650, when no legitimate reason existed for report. 70 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 65 (1987)

Physician may refer patients to clinical laboratory in which he or she owns limited partnership interest if several requirements are fulfilled. 68 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 28 (1985)

Board of Medical Quality Assurance may retain complaint found to be without merit that is required to be purged from licensee's central file pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 800(b) in separate files. 59 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 363 (1976)

Licensed physician and surgeon who is principal officer, sole shareholder, or owner of business supplying womens' face creams and cosmetics was not engaged in unprofessional conduct; licensed physician and surgeon is entitled to engage in any legitimate business except pharmacy. 55 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 117 (1972)

Agreement in which hospital received fifty percent of physician's net income was illegal [Bus. & Prof. Code § 650]; physician working under direct control of hospital was not able to practice under fictitious name. 55 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 103 (1972)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirementsHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.115

§ 414.115 Law Reviews

Comment, Professional-Client Sex: Is Criminal Liability an Appropriate Means of Enforcing Professional Responsibility, 40 UCLA L. Rev. 1275 (1993)

Sax, Curbing Health Care Fraud, 6(10) Cal. Law. 25 (1986)

Goldberg, The Physician-Patient Privilege--An Impediment to Public Health, 16 Pac. L.J. 787 (1985)

Note, The State of California Law in Hospital Peer Review Cases, 13 Sw. U.L. Rev. 337 (1982)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirementsHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & SuspensionHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationPeer ReviewGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationPeer ReviewStatutes

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 414.116-414.129

[Reserved]

§§ 414.116[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.130

§ 414.130 Investigation by Panel of Division of Medical Quality

1. Investigation may be triggered by:

a. Complaints from the public, from other licensees, from health care facilities, or from any division of the Medical Board of California [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2220(a)].

b. Malpractice judgment, settlement, or arbitration award in which the physician is required to pay more than $30,000 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2220(b)].

c. An unusually high number of claims for compensation filed against any one licensee [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2220(c)].

2. No statute of limitations as such [Windham v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 461, 474, 163 Cal. Rptr. 566] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersDoctors & PhysiciansHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirementsHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & SuspensionTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityHealthcare ProvidersTortsProcedureAlternative Dispute Resolution

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.131

§ 414.131 Hearing

1. Conducted by Panel of Board or by administrative law judge in accordance with Gov. Code § 11500 et seq. (administrative trials) and prosecuted by Senior Assistant Attorney General of Health Quality Enforcement Section [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230(a); see § 414.69[1]].

2. Transmittal of proposed decision to executive director of board after filing; deadline for action by panel or board [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2335(a); see also § 414.[6][d][iv]].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.132

§ 414.132 Reinstatement of Certificate or Modification of Penalty

1. Petition for reinstatement of revoked or suspended certificate, or modification of penalty, may be made to Board within applicable period specified in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2307, but no such petition considered while petitioner is under criminal sentence, or while there is an accusation or petition to revoke probation pending against the person [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2307].

2. Hearing by panel of division or administrative law judge; hearing authority may consider petitioner's activities since discipline was imposed, petitioner's rehabilitative efforts, petitioner's general reputation for truth and professional ability, and nature of offense for which petitioner was disciplined [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2307].

3. Petition for reinstatement, or modification of penalty, that is filed within two years after a previous petition was denied may be denied without hearing or argument by Board [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2307].

For further discussion of reinstatement or modification of penalty after discipline has been imposed, see § 414.132.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationPresiding OfficersDuties & PowersGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime LimitationsHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirementsHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.133

§ 414.133 Judicial Review

1. Petition for writ of mandate is proper procedure to obtain judicial review [Grant v. Board of Medical Examiners (1965) 232 Cal. App. 2d 820, 826, 43 Cal. Rptr. 270 ; Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230(a) (Gov. Code § 11500 et seq. applicable to proceedings for unprofessional conduct); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; (administrative mandate); Gov. Code § 11523 (review of administrative adjudicatory decisions under applicable provisions of Code of Civil Procedure)].

2. Standard of review.

Imposition of discipline.

a. Determination that discipline is appropriate--independent judgment test [Yakov v. Board of Medical Examiners (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 67, 69, 64 Cal. Rptr. 785, 435 P.2d 553] .

b. Imposition of particular penalty--discretion of relevant hearing authority will not be overturned unless manifest abuse [Magit v. Board of Medical Examiners (1961) 57 Cal. 2d 74, 87, 17 Cal. Rptr. 488, 366 P.2d 816 ; Windham v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 461, 473, 163 Cal. Rptr. 566] .

For further discussion of judicial review of action by the Board, see § 414.133.

3. Appellate court review of superior court decision in administrative mandate proceedings reviewing physician discipline decisions by Medical Board can only be had by petition for extraordinary writ [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2337; Leone v. Medical Board (2000) 22 Cal. 4th 660, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 61, 995 P.2d 191] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewStandards of ReviewGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawLitigation & Administrative ProceedingsJudicial ReviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirementsHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

181 of 187 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 414.134-414.149

[Reserved]

§§ 414.134[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART V. FORMS
A. Licensing

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.150

§ 414.150 Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086] to Set Aside Administrative Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; Gov. Code § 11523] of Medical Board of California [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2087, 2230(a)]--Denial of License or Admission to Licensing Examination

[1] FORM Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086] to Set Aside Administrative Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5Gov. Code § 11523] of Medical Board of California [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2087, 2230(a)]--Denial of License or Admission to Licensing Examination
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Petitioner,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	PETITION FOR WRIT OF MANDATE TO SET
_____ California Medical	)	ASIDE
Board,	)	_____ [specify, e.g.,
Respondent.	)	DENIAL OF LICENSE]
	)

Petitioner respectfully represents:

1. Petitioner is, and at all times herein-mentioned was, a resident of _____ County, California.

2. On or about _____ [date], petitioner _____ [successfully took the examination required for licensure as a physician and surgeon or applied to respondent Division of Licensing for admission to the examination for a physician's and surgeon's certificate]. _____ [A copy of petitioner's application is included in the transcript of the hearing subsequently held by petitioner (see item no. 6, below) which is attached as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference or A copy of petitioner's application is attached as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference].

[EITHER, if petitioner is seeking licensure as a new physician]

2. Petitioner meets all of the requirements for _____ [admission to the certification examination or receiving a physician's and surgeon's certificate] in that petitioner has successfully completed the courses of preprofessional and professional training required for licensure as a physician and surgeon at schools approved by respondent division and has satisfactorily completed a one-year postgraduate training program at a hospital approved by respondent division.

[OR, if petitioner is seeking a certificate based on reciprocity]

2. Petitioner is presently licensed to practice medicine in the state of _____ [specify state] and meets all requirements for _____ [receiving a certificate based on reciprocity or admission to the oral and comprehensive examination administered to applicants for a reciprocity certificate who are not exempt from such examination].

3. Respondent is the Medical Board of California, and is an administrative agency of the State of California charged by law with the duty of implementing the provisions of Business and Professions Code Sections 2050 through 2075, and Sections 2220 through 2317, insofar as they relate to the granting or denial of a physician's and surgeon's certificate, and of determining eligibility of applicants for receiving a physician's and surgeon's certificate.

4. Under Business and Professions Code Sections 2004, 2084, 2087, and 2221, respondent has discretion to determine whether on the facts cause exists for _____ [denying a physician's and surgeon's certificate or rejecting an application for admission to the certification examination], and particularly whether _____ [specify alleged facts constituting cause for denial of license or of admission to the examination, e.g., that an applicant has been convicted of a crime substantially related to the practice, qualifications, and functions of a physician and surgeon].

5. Pursuant to Business and Professions Code Section 2230, Government Code Sections 11500 and 11529, and the decisional law of this state, respondent division is required to hold a hearing and take evidence in its proceedings for the determination of those facts.

6. On _____ [date], at _____ [specify place of hearing], a hearing was held to receive evidence on the issue of whether or not cause exists for _____ [denying petitioner a physician's and surgeon's certificate or rejecting petitioner's application for admission to the certification examination]. Petitioner attended the hearing.

7. On _____ [date], petitioner received respondent's decision and order finding that _____ [specify findings, e.g., petitioner was guilty of unprofessional conduct in that petitioner has been convicted of a crime substantially related to the practice, qualifications, and functions of a physician]. Pursuant to its findings respondent ordered that _____ [petitioner be denied a physician's and surgeon's certificate or petitioner's application for admission to the certifying examination be rejected or petitioner be granted a physician's and surgeon's certificate subject to the following conditions _____ (specify conditions to which certification is subject)]. A copy of the notice of decision is attached as Exhibit _____ and incorporated by reference.

8. _____ [A verbatim transcript of the record of the hearing, containing the evidence received, is contained in Exhibit A or The substance of the evidence at the hearing is as follows: _____ (describe substance of evidence)].

9. Respondent's decision and order are invalid for the following reasons:

[In subparagraphs that follow, state reasons why decision is invalid, such as the following]

a. At the hearing the _____ [committee or panel or hearing officer or administrative law judge] found that _____ [state all findings]. Respondent does not have authority to deny petitioner _____ [admission to the examination or an unrestricted physician's and surgeon's certificate] based on any of these findings because such findings do not show that _____ [specify statutory ground for action taken, e.g., the crime of which petitioner was convicted was substantially related to the practice, qualifications, or functions of a physician and surgeon] or that any other grounds exist for respondent's action.

b. The evidence received at the hearing does not support the finding for the following reasons: _____ [specify, e.g., the evidence as to the circumstances surrounding the committing of the crime do not show that the crime was one which is substantially related to the practice, qualifications, and functions of a physician and surgeon].

c. _____ [In this and following subparagraphs, allege any other reasons for invalidity of decision under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5, such as action by respondent without or in excess of authority, denial of a fair hearing, or abuse of discretion established by a failure to proceed as required by law or failure of the findings to support the decisions. For examples of such allegations, see the petition for writ of mandate to review an administrative decision in Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions].

[10. If appropriate, add: Petitioner has relevant evidence which _____ (petitioner could not in the exercise of reasonable diligence produce at the hearing because _____ (specify why evidence could not be produced) or was excluded from the hearing on the purported ground that _____ (specify). Exclusion of this evidence from the hearing was improper in that _____ (specify why exclusion was improper)). The substance of this evidence is as follows: _____ (summarize evidence). This evidence shows that _____ (state what evidence will show, e.g., the criminal offenses of which petitioner was convicted were mere youthful indiscretions and that petitioner's subsequent record shows that petitioner is not unfit to practice medicine by reason of having committed such youthful indiscretions).]

[11. If petitioner is claiming attorney's fees under Gov. Code § 800, add: As an incident of bringing and maintaining this proceeding, petitioner has become, and is, obligated personally to pay to his or her attorney, _____ (name), attorney's fees _____ (exceeding $7,500 or in the sum of $_____).]

12. Petitioner has exhausted all of his or her administrative remedies, as alleged above, and the decision of respondent has become final insofar as respondent is presently concerned.

13. Petitioner has no plain, speedy, or adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law in that the law provides no other means by which petitioner can require respondent to set aside its decision.

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays judgment as follows:

[1. If alternative writ procedure is used, add: For an alternative writ of mandate directing respondent to set aside its order of _____ (date), denying petitioner _____ (a physician's and surgeon's certificate or admission to the certification examination) and to _____ (reconsider whether petitioner is entitled to be _____ (certified as a physician and surgeon or admitted to the certification examination) or _____ (issue petitioner a physician's and surgeon's certificate or admit petitioner to the certification examination)) or in the alternative to show cause why a peremptory writ of mandate to the same effect should not be issued.]

2. For a peremptory writ of mandate _____ [set out terms of proposed peremptory writ at length as in Paragraph 1 of this prayer, omitting words relating to order to show cause];

[3. For reasonable attorney's fees, in addition to any other relief granted or other costs awarded;]

4. For costs of suit herein incurred [add, if appropriate: including $_____ for preparation of administrative record]; and

5. For such other further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By:_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Petitioner _____ [name]

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the petitioner in the above-entitled proceeding. I have read the foregoing petition and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters that are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

CAUTION:

This petition must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086]. If an alternative writ is sought proof of service of a copy of the petition on each respondent and real party in interest must accompany the petition when it is offered for filing, except when, in its discretion and for good cause, the court has granted the application for the writ ex parte [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107]. When no alternative writ is sought, such proof of service need not accompany the application for a writ at the time of filing, but proof of service of a copy of the filed petition must be lodged with the court prior to a hearing or any action by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1088.5]. Memoranda also customarily accompany a petition for writ of mandate filed in superior court, although the statutes do not contain any language expressly requiring them [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a) (re notices of motion); see also discussion and forms in Ch. 417, Points and Authorities].

[2] Use of Form

This form is a petition for a writ of mandate for use by an applicant for a physicians's and surgeon's certificate to obtain judicial review of an administrative decision to deny the applicant admission to the examination or a physician's and surgeon's certificate.

In an action by an applicant who has been denied a license for unprofessional conduct or has been denied admission to the licensing examination, the court proceeds under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5, which provides for administrative mandate to inquire into the validity of any final administrative order or decision made as the result of a proceeding in which a hearing was required [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2087; Savelli v. Board of Medical Examiners (1964) 229 Cal. App. 2d 124, 132, 40 Cal. Rptr. 171 , cert. denied, 380 U.S. 934, 85 S. Ct. 940, 13 L. Ed. 2d 821] .

The petitioner may proceed by either the alternative writ procedure or the noticed application procedure, as described below.

For a more detailed discussion of petitions for writs of mandate to review administrative decisions, see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , et seq.

[3] Alternative Writ Procedure

If petitioner proceeds by the alternative writ procedure, he or she should prepare a petition, an order for issuance of an alternative writ (if local rules and practice so require), and an alternative writ of mandate. He or she must serve a copy of the petition on each respondent and real party in interest, and file the petition along with proof of service [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1107]. At the time of filing the petition, the alternative writ is deposited, but not filed, with the clerk of the court. Five days after the filing of the petition, the court must examine the papers on file and either issue or decline toissue the alternative writ. During the five-day period, the respondent or real party in interest may file a memorandum of points and authorities in opposition to the issuance of the writ, and serve a copy of the memorandum on the petitioner [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1107].

If the court decides to issue the alternative writ, the judge either signs the order for issuance or signs the writ itself. A copy of the writ is then served on respondent and real party in interest in the same manner as a summons [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1096]. The alternative writ commands the respondent to either do the specified act or to appear at a time and place specified in the writ and show cause why a peremptory writ of mandate ordering respondent to do the act should not be issued [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1087].

For a form for an alternative writ of mandate, see Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions .

[4] Noticed Application Procedure

If petitioner follows the noticed application procedure, he or she should prepare a petition and a notice fixing a time, at least 10 days after the notice, and a place for hearing the petition [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1088]. Copies of these papers are then served on the respondent and real party in interest and the petition and notice are then filed along with proof of service [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1107]. Respondent or real party in interest may file points and authorities in opposition to the petition within five days after the filing of the petition [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1107]. No alternative writ is issued under the noticed application procedure. Instead, the court hears the petition and respondent's answer, if any, on the date fixed by the notice for the hearing. If the court determines that issuance of a writ of mandate is proper, it issues or orders issued, the peremptory writ [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1086, 1088, 1089, 1094].

For a form for a notice of application for a writ of mandate, see Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions .

[5] Allegations

The petition alleges:

- Capacity and residence of petitioner (Paragraph 1).

- Facts showing petitioner's beneficial interest in administrative decision by respondent which petitioner is questioning [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086; see Grant v. Board of Medical Examiners (1933) 232 Cal. App. 2d 820, 828, 43 Cal. Rptr. 270]. (Paragraph 2) .

- Capacity of respondents (Paragraph 3).

- The discretionary authority of respondent to determine whether cause exists to refuse to admit petitioner to the physician's and surgeon's licensing examination [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a); Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2004, 2084, 2087, 2221] (Paragraph 4).

- That a hearing was required to be held and evidence taken [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a); Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230; Gov. Code §§ 11500-11528] (Paragraph 5).

- Facts regarding the holding of the hearing (Paragraph 6).

- Reasons for the invalidity of the decision [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b); discussion under § 414.150[6]] (Paragraph 9).

- When appropriate, the nature of any additional relevant evidence that could not, in the exercise of reasonable diligence, have been produced at the administrative hearing, or was improperly excluded from the hearing by respondents [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e)] (Paragraph 10).

- When appropriate, the amount of attorney's fees claimed under Gov. Code § 800 [see discussion under § 414.150[12]] (Paragraph 11).

- Exhaustion of administrative remedies [see Abelleira v. District Court of Appeal (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 280, 291-296, 109 P.2d 942] (Paragraph 12) .

- Petitioner's lack of a speedy, plain, or adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1086] (Paragraph 13).

For a detailed discussion of the essential allegations of a petition for writ of mandate to review an administrative decision, see Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions, § 474C.90[2] et seq.

[6] Grounds for Finding Decision Invalid

The decision of an administrative agency made as a result of an evidentiary hearing required by law may be invalid under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 for any of the following reasons [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b); see also Paragraph 9]:

- The agency proceeded without, or in excess of, jurisdiction, as for instance when a division of the Division of Licensing acted to the detriment of a licensee or applicant for licensure as a physician and surgeon for reasons other than those prescribed by law.

- Petitioner was denied a fair hearing [see King v. Board of Medical Examiners (1944) 65 Cal. App. 2d 644, 651, 151 P.2d 282] .

- The agency abused its discretion. Abuse of discretion by the agency is established if (1) the agency did not proceed in the manner required by law, (2) the decision is not supported by the findings made by the agency at the hearing, or (3) the findings are not supported by the evidence received at the hearing.

[7] Standard of Review

The trial court may not exercise its independent judgment in reviewing the decision to deny the applicant a license or refuse to admit petitioner to the licensing examination for cause, but must apply the substantial evidence test [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2087; Savelli v. Board of Medical Examiners (1964) 229 Cal. App. 2d 124, 132, 40 Cal. Rptr. 171 , cert. denied, 380 U.S. 934, 85 S. Ct. 940, 13 L. Ed. 2d 821] .

The determination of whether or not petitioner's conduct showed moral turpitude, however, is a question of law, to be decided on the basis of undisputed facts, which may be independently decided by the courts regardless of which standard is applicable in reviewing fact findings of the division [see Yakov v. Board of Medical Examiners (1968) 64 Cal. Rptr. 785 n.7, 435 P.2d 553] .

[8] Evidence Not Produced at Hearing

Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e) provides that when the court finds that there is relevant evidence that, in the exercise of reasonable diligence, could not have been produced or that was improperly excluded at the hearing before respondent, it may enter judgment remanding the case to be reconsidered in light of such evidence, or in cases in which the court is authorized by law to exercise its independent judgment on the evidence, the court may admit such evidence at the hearing on the writ without remanding the case. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2087 provides that in cases of license denial, the trial court is not authorized to exercise its independent judgment on the evidence in a mandate proceeding. Thus, although there are no cases on the point, it appears that a petitioner who has evidence that was not produced at the hearing but that satisfies the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e) is entitled only to a remand of the case to the division, and may not introduce the evidence at the hearing before the trial court.

[9] Time for Filing Petition

When judicial review pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is sought of a decision made pursuant to a proceeding conducted under Gov. Code §§ 11500 et seq. (governing administrative proceedings), the petition for writ of mandate must be filed within 30 days after the last day on which reconsideration can be ordered [Gov. Code § 11523; see Gov. Code § 11521 (reconsideration)].

[10] Venue

Legal proceedings against the Medical Board of California must be instituted in Sacramento, San Francisco, Los Angeles, or San Diego. The office of the board is required to be in Sacramento, and the board is authorized to establish suboffices in San Francisco, Los Angeles, and San Diego, or the environs of these cities. The board may also establish such suboffices as it deems necessary [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2019].

[11] Verification

A petition for a writ of mandate must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086].

[12] Attorney's Fees

If the action of respondents was the result of arbitrary or capricious action or conduct by a public entity or an officer thereof, in his or her official capacity, petitioner may collect reasonable attorney's fees, computed at $100 per hour, but not to exceed $7,500, from the public entity, if petitioner is personally obligated to pay such fees, in addition to any other relief granted or other costs awarded [see Gov. Code § 800] (Paragraph 11).

[13] Cross References

For discussion, forms, and a procedural checklist guide relating to ordinary mandate proceedings, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition

For discussion and forms relating to administrative hearings conducted under the Administrative Procedure Act and judicial review of such hearing by writ of mandate, see Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication , et seq.

[14] California Points and Authorities

For memoranda for use in mandate proceedings generally, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 150, Mandate and Prohibition (Matthew Bender)

For memoranda for use in mandate proceedings to review administrative decisions made by a division of the Medical Board of California concerning licensing of physicians, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 176, Physicians and Surgeons: Licensing and Professional Discipline (Matthew Bender)

For memoranda for use in mandate proceedings to review an administrative decision made as the result of an adjudicatory hearing, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 195, Public Administrative Law (Matthew Bender)

[15] State Statutes

Review of denial of physician's and surgeon's certificate or admission to licensing examination. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2087

Denial of physician's and surgeon's certificate for unprofessional conduct. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2220 et seq.

Proceedings for denial of physician's and surgeon's certificate governed by Gov. Code § 11500 et seq. (administrative trials). Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230

Issuance of writ of mandate generally. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1084-1086

Form of writ. Code Civ. Proc. § 1087

Alternative writ and notice procedure. Code Civ. Proc. § 1088

Answer to alternative writ or notice. Code Civ. Proc. § 1089

Administrative mandate. Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5

Service of writ. Code Civ. Proc. § 1096

Proof of service of petition; opposing points and authorities. Code Civ. Proc. § 1107

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART V. FORMS
A. Licensing

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 414.151-414.169

[Reserved]

§§ 414.151[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART V. FORMS
B. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.170

§ 414.170 Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086] to Set Aside Administrative Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; Gov. Code § 11523; Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2230(a), 2337]--Discipline for Unprofessional Conduct

[1] FORM Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086] to Set Aside Administrative Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; Gov. Code § 11523; Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2230(a), 2337]--Discipline for Unprofessional Conduct

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name]	)
Petitioner,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
California Medical Board,	)	PETITION FOR WRIT OF MANDATE TO SET
Respondent(s).	)	ASIDE ORDER IMPOSING DISCIPLINE
	)
	)

Petitioner respectfully represents:

1. Petitioner is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a resident of _____ County, California.

2. Petitioner is now, and at all times herein mentioned was, the holder of a valid physician's and surgeon's certificate duly issued by the Medical Board of California.

3. Respondent is the Medical Board of California, and is an administrative agency of the State of California charged by law with the duty of implementing the provisions of Business and Professions Code Sections 2220 through 2319 and of investigating and hearing cases of possible unprofessional conduct by holders of the physician's and surgeon's certificate and imposing discipline, including suspension or revocation of the certificate, on holders of the certificate who have been found guilty of unprofessional conduct.

4. Under Business and Professions Code Sections 2004 and 2220, respondent has discretion to determine on the facts whether or not cause exists for imposing discipline on a physician for unprofessional conduct, and particularly whether _____ [specify alleged facts constituting cause for imposition of discipline, e.g., a licensee has been convicted of a crime substantially related to the practice, qualifications, and functions of a physician and surgeon].

5. [Requirement of a hearing. See § 414.150, Paragraph 5.]

6. On _____ [date], at _____ [specify place of hearing], a hearing was held to receive evidence on the issue of whether or not cause exists for disciplining petitioner for unprofessional conduct. Petitioner attended the hearing.

7. On _____ [date], petitioner received respondent's decision and order finding petitioner guilty of unprofessional conduct on the ground that _____ [specify ground for finding of guilt, e.g., petitioner was convicted of a crime substantially related to the practice, qualifications, and functions of a physician]. Pursuant to its findings of fact, respondent ordered that _____ [specify nature of penalty, e.g., petitioner be placed on probation for _____ (state duration of probation), subject to the following conditions _____ (specify conditions of probation, including any restrictions on extent, type, or scope of practice)]. A copy of the notice of decision is attached as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference.

8. [Transcript of hearing record or statement of substance of evidence. See § 414.150, Paragraph 8.]

9. Respondent's decision and order are invalid for the following reasons:

[In subparagraphs that follow, state reasons why decision is invalid, such as the following:]

a. The _____ [identify, e.g., administrative law judge] found that _____ [state all findings]. Respondent does not have the authority to impose professional discipline on petitioner based on any of these findings because such findings do not show that _____ [specify statutory basis for action taken, e.g., the crime for which petitioner was convicted was substantially related to the practice, qualifications, or functions of a physician and surgeon] or that any other grounds exist for respondent's action.

b. [Allegation that evidence does not support findings. See § 414.150, Paragraph 9(b).]

c. [Other allegations of invalidity under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5. See § 414.150, Paragraph 9(c).]

10. [Offer of additional evidence not introduced at hearing. See § 414.150, Paragraph 10. If seeking to introduce additional evidence before the trial court on review, state reasons why evidence cannot be heard by respondent on reconsideration.]

[11. If petitioner seeks a stay of operation of the order or decision, add: For the reasons stated in Paragraph 9 of this petition (if appropriate, add and in light of the additional evidence summarized in Paragraph 10 of this petition) it is unlikely that respondent will prevail ultimately on the merits in this proceeding, and the public interest would not be hurt by a stay of the operation of respondent's decision and order pending the outcome of this proceeding in that

_____ (specify reasons why public interest would not be hurt by stay, e.g., petitioner's continuing to practice medicine during the course of these proceedings would not represent a danger to his/her patients or to the public).]

12. [Allegation supporting claim of attorney's fees. See § 414.150, Paragraph 11.]

13. [Allegation that petitioner has exhausted all administrative remedies. See § 414.150, Paragraph 12.]

14. [Allegation that petitioner has no adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law. See § 414.150, Paragraph 13.]

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays judgment as follows:

1. [If alternative writ procedure is used add, For an alternative writ of mandate directing respondent to set aside its order of _____ (date), _____ (revoking or suspending or restricting or describe any other conditions imposed on petitioner's right to practice medicine) petitioner's right to practice medicine and to _____ (reconsider whether petitioner's right to practice medicine should be _____ (revoked or suspended or restricted or subject to _____ (describe conditions)) or reinstate petitioner's full rights to practice medicine as they existed before that order was issued) or in the alternative to show cause why a peremptory writ of mandate to the same effect should not be issued.]

2. For a peremptory writ of mandate _____ [set out terms of proposed peremptory writ at length as in Paragraph 1 of this prayer, omitting words relating to order to show cause];

[3. If petitioner seeks a stay of operation of the administrative order or decision, state: For an order restraining respondent from giving effect to its order of _____ (date), _____ (specify effect of order, as in Paragraph 1) until further order of this court and to show cause why operation of that order should not be stayed pending judgment in this proceeding;]

4. For reasonable attorney's fees, in addition to any other relief granted or other costs awarded;

5. For costs of suit herein incurred [add if appropriate: including $_____ for preparation of administrative record]; and

6. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By:_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Petitioner _____ [name]

[Verification. See § 414.150.]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a petition for writ of mandate for use by a holder of a physician's and surgeon's certificate to obtain review of an administrative decision by the Medical Board to revoke or suspend the holder's certificate, or otherwise discipline the holder for unprofessional conduct. Administrative mandate is the procedure to be used when the decision to impose discipline for unprofessional conduct is the result of an evidentiary hearing required by law. For further discussion, see § 414.75[1].

The petitioner may proceed by either the alternative writ procedure or the noticed application procedure, see § 414.150.

For a detailed discussion of petitions for writ of mandate to review administrative decisions, see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , et seq.

Bus. & Prof. Code § 2337 mandates review of final decisions by the superior court through use of a petition for an extraordinary writ.

[3] Allegations

This petition alleges:

- Capacity and residence of petitioner (Paragraph 1).

- Facts showing petitioner's beneficial interest in the administrative decision by respondent of which petitioner is complaining [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1086; Grant v. Board of Medical Examiners (1965) 232 Cal. App. 2d 820, 827, 43 Cal. Rptr. 270] (Paragraph 2) .

- Capacity of respondents (Paragraph 3).

- The discretionary authority of respondent Medical Board to determine whether cause exists to discipline petitioner for unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2004, 2220; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a)] (Paragraph 4).

- That a hearing was required to be held and evidence taken [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a); Gov. Code § 11500 et seq.] (Paragraph 5).

- Facts regarding the holding of the hearing (Paragraph 6).

- Reasons for the invalidity of the decision [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b); discussion under see § 414.150[6]] (Paragraph 9).

- When appropriate, the nature of any additional relevant evidence that could not, in the exercise of reasonable diligence, have been produced at the administrative hearing, or was improperly excluded from the hearing by respondents [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e); Shakin v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 102, 110-111, 62 Cal. Rptr. 274 , appeal dismissed, 390 U.S. 410, 88 S. Ct. 1112, 19 L. Ed. 2d 1272 (1968)] (Paragraph 10).

- If petitioner seeks a stay, an allegation that respondent is unlikely to prevail on the merits and that sty of respondent's decision will not harm the public interest [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(h)(1)] (Paragraph 11).

- When appropriate, the amount of attorney's fees claimed under Gov. Code § 800 [see see § 414.150[12]] (Paragraph 12).

- Exhaustion of administrative remedies [see Abelleira v. District Court of Appeal (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 280, 291-296, 109 P.2d 942] (Paragraph 12) .

- Petitioner's lack of a speedy, plain, or adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1086] (Paragraph 14).

For a more detailed discussion of the essential allegations of a petition for writ of mandate to review an administrative decision, see Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions, § 474C.90[2] et seq.

[4] Evidence Not Produced at Hearing

The trial court may hear evidence that was not presented at the hearing only if (1) petitioner could not have produced the evidence at the hearing in the exercise of reasonable diligence, or (2) the evidence was improperly excluded from the hearing by the Division or hearing authority [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e); Shakin v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 102, 110-111, 62 Cal. Rptr. 274 , appeal dismissed, 390 U.S. 410, 88 S. Ct. 1112, 19 L. Ed. 2d 1272 (1968) ; Paragraph 11].

The court may also remand the case to the Board for consideration of any evidence not presented at the hearing that satisfied requirements (1) and (2), above [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e)].

[5] Standard of Review

The trial court reviewing the decision of the Medical Board to discipline the holder of a physician's and surgeon's certificate for unprofessional conduct must exercise its independent judgment of the evidence in determining whether petitioner was properly subject to discipline in the first instance [see Yakov v. Board of Medical Examiners (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 67, 69, 64 Cal. Rptr. 785, 435 P.2d 553 ; discussion in § 414.75[3]]. However, if it finds that petitioner was properly subject to discipline, the trial court may not overturn the penalty imposed by the Board unless the Board has shown a manifest abuse of discretion in determining the penalty [Magit v. Board of Medical Examiners (1961) 57 Cal. 2d 74, 87, 17 Cal. Rptr. 488, 366 P.2d 816 ; Windham v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 461, 473, 163 Cal. Rptr. 566 ; see § 414.113[4][b]].

[6] Stay of Operation

Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(h)(1) provides that a stay of an order by an agency charged with regulating the healing arts may not be imposed or continued unless the court is satisfied that (1) the public interest shall not suffer, and (2) the agency is unlikely to prevail ultimately on the merits [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(h)(1), (2); Board of Medical Quality Assurance v. Superior Court (1980) 114 Cal. App. 3d 272, 276, 170 Cal. Rptr. 468] . More than a mere showing that the accused has a possible viable defense is needed to meet the requirement of satisfying the court that the Board is unlikely to prevail on the merits [Board of Medical Quality Assurance v. Superior Court (1980) 114 Cal. App. 3d 272, 276, 170 Cal. Rptr. 468 ; see Medical Bd. of California v. Superior Court (1991) 227 Cal. App. 3d 1458, 1461-1462, 278 Cal. Rptr. 247] .

The requirements for a stay of an order or decision by the Medical Board of California are more stringent than those for a stay of orders or decisions of most other agencies. Thus, Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(g) provides only that no stay of the order or decision of an agency not covered by Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(h) may be issued if the court is satisfied that it is against the public interest. This disparity of requirements was held not to be a violation of the equal protection principles of either the California or federal constitutions [see Board of Medical Quality Assurance v. Superior Court (1980) 114 Cal. App. 3d 272, 276, 170 Cal. Rptr. 468 (construing powers of Board of Medical Quality Assurance, the predecessor of Medical Board of California)].

Proof of service of a copy of the application for a stay on the respondent must accompany the application [see Code Civ.

Proc. § 1094.5(h)(1)].

[7] Trial Setting Preference

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, superior court review of a decision revoking, suspending, or restricting a license will take preference over all other civil actions in the matter of setting the case for hearing or trial. The hearing or trial in the matter may be set no later than 180 days from the filing of the action. A showing of good cause is required for the granting of a further continuance [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2337].

[8] State Statutes

Causes for discipline and types of discipline that may be imposed. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2221 et seq.

Disciplinary proceedings by medical quality panels. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2330-2337; Gov. Code §§ 11371 et seq., 11529

Introduction on mandate of evidence not presented at administrative hearing. Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e)

[9] Decisions

Trial court has duty on mandate to undertake independent review of evidence before disciplinary authority. Yakov v. Board of Medical Examiners (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 67, 69, 64 Cal. Rptr. 785, 435 P.2d 553

Independent review of evidence before disciplinary authority by trial court in reviewing disciplinary authority's decision on mandate does not amount to full trial de novo in which litigant may present skeleton case before lower tribunal and save full case for relitigation on review. Dare v. Board of Medical Examiners (1943) 21 Cal. 2d 790, 795, 136 P.2d 304 (decided before enactment of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5); Shakin v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 102, 110-111, 62 Cal. Rptr. 274 , appeal dismissed, 390 U.S. 410, 88 S. Ct. 1112, 19 L. Ed. 2d 1272 (1968)

Trial court's independent review of disciplinary decision of Division by trial court limited to review of findings that would justify discipline in first instance; propriety of penalty imposed once discipline found to be justified as vested in discretion of Division, subject to be overturned in case of manifest abuse. Windham v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 461, 473, 163 Cal. Rptr. 566

[10] Cross References

For a related form, see § 414.150.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART V. FORMS
B. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.171

§ 414.171 Allegation--For Petition of Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086] to Set Aside Administrative Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; Gov. Code § 11523; Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2230(a), 2337]--Discipline for Unprofessional Conduct--Remand for Redetermination of Penalty Proper Because Board's Findings Partially Overturned

[1] FORM Allegation--For Petition of Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086] to Set Aside Administrative Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; Gov. Code § 11523; Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2230(a), 2337]--Discipline for Unprofessional Conduct--Remand for Redetermination of Penalty Proper Because Board's Findings Partially Overturned

If _____ [any of the counts for which respondent found petitioner guilty of unprofessional conduct or any findings that respondent made, regardless of whether such findings were necessary for respondent's decision] are found to be invalid, this case should be remanded to respondent for redetermination of penalty, even if respondent's basic decision that petitioner was guilty of some unprofessional conduct is found to be valid because [if appropriate, state: respondent imposed its penalty for all of the counts together and] it is impossible to determine the extent to which respondent relied on those findings which have been found to be invalid in determining which penalty to impose on petitioner.

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use in a petition for writ of mandate to review the administrative decision of the Medical Board to revoke or suspend a physician's license or impose other discipline. It may be inserted as a subparagraph of Paragraph 9 in see § 414.170.

This allegation states that the case should be remanded to the Board for redetermination of penalty if any of the findings of the Board are found to be invalid, even if enough findings are found valid to support the Board's basic decision that petitioner is guilty of some unprofessional conduct, because it is impossible to determine the extent to which the Board relied on the invalid findings in determining the penalty [see O'Reilly v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 381, 389, 58 Cal. Rptr. 7, 426 P.2d 167 , cert. denied, 390 U.S. 944, 88 S. Ct. 1019, 19 L. Ed. 2d 1132 (1968) ; Cooper v. State Bd. of Medical Examiners (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 242, 252, 217 P.2d 630] . The allegation may be made to support an argument for remand stated in the alternative, along with more direct attacks on the Board's finding that petitioner was guilty of unprofessional conduct.

For a discussion of the restricted standard of review of the penalty imposed once the basic decision to impose discipline has been upheld, see § 414.172[3].

[3] Remand if Decision Partially Overturned

Cases have been remanded for redetermination of penalty in the following circumstances: (1) when the findings of guilt as to some but not all of the counts of unprofessional conduct with which petitioner was charged were found to be invalid, and the Board had imposed the penalty for all of the counts taken together [Cooper v. State Bd. of Medical Examiners (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 242, 252, 217 P.2d 630] ; and (2) when the Board, in addition to finding that petitioner had engaged in unprofessional conduct, made a finding that petitioner's conduct showed moral turpitude and the additional finding of moral turpitude was found to be invalid [Yakov v. Board of Medical Examiners (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 67, 69, 75, 64 Cal. Rptr. 785, 435 P.2d 553] .

However, remand was not required, even though some of the counts on which the respondent had found petitioner guilty were overturned, when the respondent had imposed a separate penalty for each count [Grannis v. Board of Medical Examiners (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 551, 563, 96 Cal. Rptr. 863] . Nor may a trial court remand the case for redetermination of penalty on its own finding that petitioner has shown no moral turpitude when the board had made no affirmative finding that petitioner had shown moral turpitude in making its decision [Collins v. Board of Medical Examiners (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 439, 444-445, 105 Cal. Rptr. 634] .

[4] Cross References

For a related form, see § 414.172.

186 of 187 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART V. FORMS
B. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.172

§ 414.172 Allegation--For Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086] to Set Aside Administrative Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; Gov. Code § 11523; Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2230(a), 2337]--Discipline for Unprofessional Conduct--Penalty Imposed as Excessive

[1] FORM Allegation--For Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086] to Set Aside Administrative Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; Gov. Code § 11523; Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2230(a), 2337]--Discipline for Unprofessional Conduct--Penalty Imposed as Excessive

If any findings that are supported by evidence do show that _____ [specify statutory ground for action taken, e.g., petitioner employed or aided and abetted unlicensed persons in practicing medicine] respondents' imposing the penalty of _____ [specify penalty, e.g., _____ (revocation or suspension) of petitioner's physician's and surgeon's certificate or other penalty] was a manifest abuse of discretion because such penalty is clearly excessive in light of _____ [specify circumstances which show penalty to be excessive, e.g., petitioner's good faith belief that he/she was entitled to employ such unlicensed physicians under existing law].

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use in a petition for writ of mandate to review the administrative decision of the Medical Board to revoke or suspend a physician's license or impose other discipline. It may be inserted as a subparagraph of Paragraph 9 in see § 414.170.

This allegation states that even if petitioner was guilty of the unprofessional conduct with which he or she was charged, the penalty imposed is excessive, and that imposition of such an excessive penalty was manifest abuse of discretion [see O'Reilly v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 381, 388, 58 Cal. Rptr. 7, 426 P.2d 167 , cert. denied, 390 U.S. 944, 88 S. Ct. 1019, 19 L. Ed. 2d 1132 (1968) ; Magit v. Board of Medical Examiners (1961) 57 Cal. 2d 74, 88, 17 Cal. Rptr. 488, 366 P.2d 816] . This allegation may be made to support an argument for remand stated in the alternative along with more direct attacks on the finding that petitioner was guilty of unprofessional conduct.

[3] Restricted Standard of Review for Penalty Determination

Unlike the determination of whether petitioner is guilty of unprofessional conduct in the first place, determination of the penalty once guilt has been established is within the discretion of the Medical Board. The penalty imposed will be overturned only in case of manifest abuse of discretion by the Board [see Magit v. Board of Medical Examiners (1961) 57 Cal. 2d 74, 87, 17 Cal. Rptr. 488, 366 P.2d 816] .

[4] Penalty Excessive in Light of Good Faith

The Supreme Court has overturned orders suspending a physician's license and held that any penalty more severe than probation would be inappropriate when the physician, although guilty of unprofessional conduct in employing qualified but unlicensed persons to practice medicine, had believed in good faith that he was permitted to employ such persons [O'Reilly v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 381, 388, 58 Cal. Rptr. 7, 426 P.2d 167 , cert. denied, 390 U.S. 944, 88 S. Ct. 1019, 19 L. Ed. 2d 1132 (1968) ; Magit v. Board of Medical Examiners (1961) 57 Cal. 2d 74, 88, 17 Cal. Rptr. 488, 366 P.2d 816] .

For a further discussion of judicial review of the penalty imposed by the Division, see § 414.75[5].

[5] Cross References

For a related form, see § 414.171.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 414 PHYSICIANS: LICENSING AND DISCIPLINE
PART V. FORMS
B. Professional Discipline

36-414 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 414.173

§ 414.173 Allegation--For Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086] to Set Aside Administrative Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; Gov. Code § 11523; Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2230(a), 2337]--Discipline for Unprofessional Conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230]--Failure to Show That Conduct Is Related to Practice of Medicine

[1] FORM Allegation--For Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086] to Set Aside Administrative Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; Gov. Code § 11523; Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2230(a), 2337]--Discipline for Unprofessional Conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2230]--Failure to Show That Conduct Is Related to Practice of Medicine

Respondent has ordered that _____ [petitioner's physician's and surgeon's certificate be _____ (revoked or suspended) or specify other penalty] for _____ [specify statutory grounds, e.g., use of alcohol to an extent dangerous to himself/herself, to the public, or to any other person]. Respondent has no authority to discipline petitioner on this ground because there has been no showing that the quality of petitioner's services to his/her patients is, or will in the future be, affected by such conduct, and such conduct is neither of such a nature as to call petitioner's moral character into question nor otherwise related to the practice of medicine.

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use in a petition for writ of mandate to review the administrative decision of the Medical Board to discipline a physician. It may be inserted as a subparagraph of Paragraph 9 in see § 414.170.

It alleges that the Board is without authority to discipline petitioner because there was no showing that petitioner's alleged misconduct affects his or her qualification or ability to practice medicine. A physician cannot be disciplined for unprofessional conduct unless the physician's conduct affects his or her qualification or ability to practice medicine [Grannis v. Board of Medical Examiners (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 551, 561-562, 96 Cal. Rptr. 863 ; see 16 Cal. Code Reg. § 1360; Yakov v. Board of Medical Examiners (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 67, 73, 64 Cal. Rptr. 785, 435 P.2d 553] . However, the requirement of showing relatedness to qualification or ability to practice may be satisfied by a showing of moral unfitness in view of the importance of integrity and trust to the physician-patient relationship as well as by a showing of technical incompetence or unfitness [see Matanky v. Board of Medical Examiners (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d

293, 305, 144 Cal. Rptr. 826] . The requirement may also be satisfied by a finding that a possible future unfitness to practice may result from petitioner's conduct [see Grannis v. Board of Medical Examiners (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 551, 563, 96 Cal. Rptr. 863] . There need be no separate showing of relatedness to petitioner's qualification or ability to practice medicine if petitioner is found guilty of violating any of the statutes defining unprofessional conduct involving drugs, since in view of the importance of physicians in the dissemination of drugs the Legislature was entitled to conclude that sanctions of physicians for drug related offenses is warranted [see Weissbuch v. Board of Medical Examiners (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 924, 929, 116 Cal. Rptr. 479] .

For further discussion of the requirement that the physician's conduct be related to the physician's fitness to practice medicine in order to be the basis for imposing discipline, see § 414.[3][h].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 415.syn

§ 415.syn Synopsis to Chapter 415: PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE

§ 415.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 415.02 Cross References

§§ 415.03-415.09 [Reserved]

§ 415.10 Governing Law and Definitions

§ 415.11 Negligence

[1] Pleading Medical Negligence

[2] Res Ipsa Loquitur

[3] Standard of Care

[a] Generally

[b] Specialists Versus General Practitioners

[c] Expert Testimony

[4] Duty of Care

[a] To Patient

[b] To Third Persons

[5] Selection of Method of Diagnosis or Treatment

§ 415.12 Violation of Statute

§ 415.13 Informed Consent

[1] Basis for Battery or Negligence Action

[2] Scope of Disclosure

[3] Causation

[4] Continuing Duty to Warn

[5] Medical Experimentation

[6] Disclosure of Physician's Personal Interests

[7] Limitations on Duty to Obtain Consent

[a] In General

[b] Emergencies

[c] Discretion to Withhold Disturbing Information

[d] Patient's Request Not to Be Informed

[8] Effectiveness of Signed Consent Form

§ 415.14 Vicarious Liability of Physicians for Acts of Agents

§ 415.15 Statutory Limitations on Liability

[1] Natural Course of Condition or Treatment

[2] Nonaction on Unsolicited Referral From Diagnostic Clinic

[3] Emergency Obstetrical Services

[4] Good Faith Reliance on Health Care Decision

[a] Nonliability

[b] Changes in Applicable Law Effective July 1, 2000

[c] Requirements for Nonliability Applicable Before July 1, 2000

[d] Requirements for Nonliability Applicable on or After July 1, 2000

[e] Continued Validity of Forms Valid Under Prior Law

[5] Immunity of Medical Professional Society

[6] Immunity of Hospital

[7] Natural Death Act

[8] Health Care Decisions Law

[9] Administration of Immunizing Agents

[10] Emergency Situations

[a] Scene of Emergency

[b] Rescue Teams

[c] Athletic Events or Contests

[d] Emergency Care for Complications on Request of Another Licensee

[e] Refusal to Render Emergency Treatment

[11] Compliance With Competent Adult Patient's Refusal of Medical Treatment

[12] Immunity for Reporting Child Abuse

[13] Indemnity Provided by Hospital to Nonemployees for Peer Review Activities

§ 415.16 Comparative Negligence

§ 415.17 Wrongful Life/Wrongful Birth Actions

§ 415.18 Strict Liability Inapplicable to Medical Malpractice

§ 415.19 Conversion

§ 415.20 Battery

§ 415.21 Psychotherapist's Liability for Patient's Violent Acts

§ 415.22 Sexual Contact by Psychotherapist

[1] Professional Negligence

[2] Statutory Liability

[a] Basis of Action

[b] Sexual Contact Defined

[c] Definitions of Psychotherapy and Psychotherapist

[d] Limitations on Discovery and Admission of Evidence

§ 415.23 Contract Actions

§§ 415.24-415.39 [Reserved]

§ 415.40 Notice of Intent to Commence Action

§ 415.41 Settlement Prior to Service of Complaint

§ 415.42 Actions by Minors: Preference in Setting Trial Date

§§ 415.43 [Reserved]

§ 415.44 Security for Costs

§ 415.45 Declaratory Relief

§ 415.46 Claims Arising Under Medicare Act

§ 415.47 Statute of Limitations

[1] Professional Negligence

[2] Effect of Notice Requirement on Statute of Limitations

[3] Actions by Minors for Prenatal Injuries

[a] In General

[b] Constitutionality of Statutory Accrual Date

[4] Battery Actions

[5] Contract Actions

§ 415.48 Separate Trial of Statute of Limitations Defense

§ 415.49 Damages

[1] In General

[2] Noneconomic Losses

[3] Evidence of Collateral Benefits and Subrogation

[4] Periodic Payment of Future Damages

[5] Punitive Damages

§ 415.50 Judgment Lien

§ 415.51 Arbitration

§ 415.52 Fees by Plaintiffs' Attorneys

§§ 415.53-415.69 [Reserved]

§ 415.70 Forms of Discovery

§ 415.71 California Deposition and Discovery Practice

§ 415.72 California Rules of Court

§ 415.73 State Statutes

[1] Arbitration

[2] Attorney's Fees

[3] Consent to Medical Treatment

[a] Emergencies

[b] Medical Experimentation

[c] Minors and Incompetents

[4] Damages

[5] Declaratory Relief

[6] Emergency Medical Services

[7] Independent Contractor

[8] Judgment Lien

[9] Limitations on Liability

[a] Emergencies

[b] Non-Emergencies

[10] Negligence

[a] Generally

[b] Res Ipsa Loquitur

[c] Violation of Statute

[d] Professional Negligence

[e] Statutory Duties

[11] Notice of Intent to Commence Action

[12] Punitive Damages

[13] Security for Costs

[14] Settlement Offer

[15] Sexual Contact

[16] Statute of Limitations

[17] Summary Judgment

§ 415.74 Decisions

[1] Arbitration

[2] Attorney's Fees

[3] Battery

[4] Comparative Negligence

[5] Contract Actions

[6] Damages

[7] Duty of Care

[a] To Patient

[b] To Third Persons

[8] Emotional Distress

[9] Evidence

[10] Expert Testimony

[a] In General

[b] Emergency Medical Coverage

[11] Informed Consent

[a] Generally

[b] Causation

[c] Continuing Duty to Warn

[d] Release from Duty to Disclose

[12] Liability

[13] Negligence

[a] Generally

[b] Causation

[c] Pleading Medical Negligence

[d] Selection of Method of Diagnosis or Treatment

[e] Standard of Care

[i] Generally

[ii] Specialists Versus General Practitioner

[f] Violation of Statute

[14] Notice of Intent to Commence Action

[15] Paramedics

[16] Patient Instruction

[17] Psychotherapists

[18] Res Ipsa Loquitur

[a] In General

[b] Requirement of Expert Testimony

[19] Special Verdicts

[20] Statute of Limitations

[a] In General

[b] Commencement of Limitation Period

[i] One-Year Period

[ii] Three-Year Period

[c] Minors

[d] Notice of Intention to Commence Action

[e] Public Entities

[f] Retroactivity

[g] Tolling

[i] In General

[ii] Foreign Body Exception

[iii] Intentional Concealment

[h] Wrongful Death

[21] Statutory Duty

[22] Statutory Limitations on Liability

[23] Treatment Generally

[24] Vicarious Liability

[25] Wrongful Birth and Wrongful Life Actions

§ 415.75 Attorney General Opinions

§ 415.76 Law Reviews

§ 415.77 Text References

§§ 415.78-415.89 [Reserved]

§ 415.90 Notice of Intention to Commence Action Against Health Care Provider [Code Civ. Proc. § 364]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Form of Notice

[4] Method of Service

[5] Time for Service

[6] Unnamed Defendants

[7] Effect of Failure to Comply

[8] State Statutes

[9] Decisions

§ 415.91 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries Based on Medical Negligence [Civ. Code § 1714]--By Patient Against Physician--Judicial Council Complaint for Personal Injury with General Negligence Attachment--Cal. Judicial Council Forms PLD-PI-001, PLD-PI-001(2)

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Notice Requirements

[4] Filling Out Complaint Form

[a] In General

[b] Specification of Amount of Damages

[5] Filling Out General Negligence Attachment

[6] Verification

[7] Cross References

[8] State Statutes

[a] Commencing Action

[b] Damages

[c] Health Care Provider

[d] Professional Negligence

[9] Decisions

§ 415.92 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] Based on Medical Negligence [Civ. Code § 1714(a)]--Personal Injury--By Patient Against Physicians and Physicians' Employees--General Form

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Notice Requirement

[5] Specification of Amount of Damages

[6] Decisions

[7] Cross References

§ 415.93 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] Based on Medical Negligence [Civ. Code § 1714(a)]--Combined Wrongful Death Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60] and Survival Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30]--By Personal Representative of Decedent Against Physician--General Form

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Wrongful Death Action

[4] Survival of Actions

[5] Joinder or Consolidation of Actions

[6] Allegations

[7] State Statutes

[8] Decisions

[9] Cross References

§ 415.94 Proceedings for Order Permitting Filing of Amended Pleading Seeking Punitive Damages Against Health Care Provider [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13]--Notice of Motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010] and Supporting Declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Time for Making Motion

[4] Supporting Declarations and Affidavits

[5] State Statutes

[6] Decisions

[7] Cross References

§ 415.95 Proceedings for Order Permitting Filing of Amended Pleading Seeking Punitive Damages Against Health

Care Provider [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13]--Order [Code Civ. Proc. § 1003] Granting Motion

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 415.96 Amendment to Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.10, 425.13, 471.5] for Damages [Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3333] for Personal Injuries [Civ. Code § 3282] Based on Medical Negligence [Civ. Code § 1714(a)]--To Claim Punitive Damages [Civ. Code § 3294; Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Pleading Punitive Damages

[4] State Statutes

[5] California Rules of Court

[6] Cross References

§ 415.97 Allegation--Physician's Duty to Warn Patient of Treatment--Related Hazards Ascertained After Treatment Rendered

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Duty to Warn

[4] Statute of Limitations

[5] State Statutes

§ 415.98 Allegation--Physician's Failure to Obtain Patient's Informed Consent--Action in Negligence

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Causation

[4] State Statutes

[5] Decisions

§ 415.99 Allegations for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries Based on Negligence [Civ. Code § 1714]--By Patient Against Physician, Physician's Employees, Hospital and Hospital Employees--Injury to Patient While

Under Anesthesia--Res Ipsa Loquitur

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Judicial Council Pleading Forms

[4] Res Ipsa Loquitur

[5] State Statutes

[6] Decisions

§ 415.100 Allegations--Personal Injury Caused by Physician's Performance of Unauthorized Treatment

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Judicial Council Pleading Forms

[4] Notice of Intent to Commence Action

[5] Damages

[6] State Statutes

§ 415.101 Allegation--Plaintiff's Failure to Discover Negligent Cause of Injury Due to Continuing Physician-Patient Relationship With Defendant

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

[4] Decisions

§ 415.102 Answer to Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries Based on Medical Negligence [Civ. Code § 1714]--Plaintiff's Comparative Negligence--Cal. Judicial Council Form PLD-PI-003

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

[4] Decisions

§ 415.103 Request for Judgment Ordering That Future Damages Be Paid in Periodic Payments [Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Timeliness

[4] Definitions

[5] State Statutes

[6] Decisions

§ 415.104 Judgment Ordering Payment of Future Damages by Periodic Payments [Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 415.105 Petition to Modify Judgment Ordering That Future Damages Be Paid in Periodic Payments--Death of Judgment Creditor [Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7(c)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 415.106 Order Modifying Payment of Future Damages After Death of Judgment Creditor [Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7(c)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

§ 415.107 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Sexual Contact [Civ. Code § 43.93]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Procedure

[5] Therapeutic Deception

[6] Cross References

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART I. SCOPE

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.01

§ 415.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses and contains forms for use in actions against physicians and other health care providers for professional negligence, and against physicians in particular for rendering services without consent or for breach of contract regarding a particular result of treatment. This chapter includes a form of notice required prior to commencement of actions based on professional negligence [see § 415.90]. It also includes a sample of the Judicial Council form of complaint for personal injury with an attachment for general negligence [see § 415.91], a general form of complaint for malpractice based on negligence [see § 415.92], a form of complaint based on negligence for wrongful death combined with a survival action [see § 415.93], forms for use in securing a court order granting leave to amend a complaint to allege punitive damages [see §§ 415.94 -415.92.7], and forms of allegations pertaining to the physician's failure to warn the patient of dangers ascertained subsequent to treatment [see § 415.97], to the physician's failure to obtain informed consent to treatment [see § 415.98], to use of the res ipsa loquitur doctrine to prove defendant's negligence [see § 415.99], and to the physician's performance of unauthorized treatment [see § 415.100], and to relief from the one-year statute of limitations based on the continuing physician-patient relationship [see § 415.101].

This chapter also contains a sample of the Judicial Council form of answer alleging plaintiff's comparative negligence [see § 415.102], and forms relating to the option of periodic rather than lump-sum payment of future damages [see §§ 415.103 -415.106].

For forms for use in actions against hospitals for medical malpractice, see Ch. 295, Hospitals . For forms for use in actions against dentists for medical malpractice, see Ch. 209, Dentists .

The discussion and forms in this chapter refer primarily to malpractice on the part of physicians and surgeons. However, current statutes enacted pursuant to the Medical Injury Compensation Reform Act of 1975 (Stats. 1975, 2d Ex. Sess., chs. 1, 2) which govern procedural aspects of medical negligence actions, apply equally to all health care providers as defined by these statutes. For an enumeration of the statutes enacted or amended pursuant to the 1975 act that relate to medical negligence actions, and for a definition of "health care provider," see § 415.10.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesDoctor-Patient PrivilegeWaiverGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersDoctors & PhysiciansHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersSurgeonsHealthcare LawTreatmentPatient ConsentInformed ConsentTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityHealthcare ProvidersTortsNegligenceDefensesComparative NegligenceGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceProofGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART I. SCOPE

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.02

§ 415.02 Cross References

For discussion and forms relating to abortion and sterilization operations, see Ch. 4, Abortion and Birth Control Methods .

For discussion and forms relating to arbitration, see Ch. 30, Using Alternative Dispute Resolution , et seq..

For discussion and forms relating to informed consent and battery by a physician, see Ch. 58, Assault and Battery .

For discussion and forms relating to medical malpractice actions against dentists, see Ch. 209, Dentists .

For discussion and forms relating to wrongful death actions, see Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions .

For discussion and forms relating to actions against owners and operators of ambulances, see Ch. 246, Emergency Vehicles .

For discussion and forms relating to medical malpractice actions against hospitals and hospital employees, see Ch. 295, Hospitals .

For discussion and forms relating to the confinement and medical treatment of mentally disordered persons, see Ch. 304, Insane and Other Incompetent Persons .

For discussion and forms related to insurance for hospital and medical expenses, see Ch. 308, Insurance .

For forms relating to civil actions by minors, proceedings under Prob. Code § 1444 (court consent to medical care of minor when parent or guardian whose consent is required for such care is unavailable) and actions by parents for personal injuries of a minor child, see Ch. 367A, Minors: Tort Actions , and Ch. 394, Parent and Child , respectively.

For discussion and forms relating to negligence actions generally, see Ch. 380, Negligence .

For discussion and forms relating to ostensible agency and the liability of a principal for the acts of an agent, see Ch. 427, Principal and Agent .

For discussion, a procedural guide, and forms relating to actions against public health care facilities and employees under the California Tort Claims Act, see Ch. 464, Public Entities and Officers: California Tort Claims Act .

For discussion and forms relating to the use of expert witnesses, see Ch. 551, Trial .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Business & Corporate LawAgency RelationshipsAuthority to ActApparent AuthorityGeneral OverviewBusiness & Corporate LawAgency RelationshipsDuties & LiabilitiesNegligent Acts of AgentsGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersDoctors & PhysiciansHealthcare LawTreatmentPatient ConsentGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentPatient ConsentInformed ConsentTortsIntentional TortsAssault & BatteryGeneral OverviewTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityHealthcare ProvidersTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART I. SCOPE

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 415.03-415.09

[Reserved]

§§ 415.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Liability

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.10

§ 415.10 Governing Law and Definitions

The substantive principles of medical malpractice actions based on negligence are governed, as in other negligence actions, by Civ. Code § 1714(a). Certain immunities from actions based on negligent rendering of medical services are provided by Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2395-2398, 2727.5, and 2861.5; Civ. Code §§ 43.9 and 1714.8; Gov. Code §§ 845.6, 855.6, 855.8, and 856.6; Health & Safety Code §§ 429.36, 1317, and 7190.5; and Veh. Code § 165.5.

Reporting requirements pertaining to arbitration or settlement awards are set forth by Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 801-803.2.

In 1975, the Medical Injury Compensation Reform Act was passed in response to escalating malpractice premium costs [Stats. 1975, 2d Ex. Sess., chs. 1, 2]. Several statutes governing procedural aspects of medical professional negligence actions against physicians and other health care providers were enacted or amended pursuant to the act. These include Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146, limiting attorney's fees; Civ. Code §§ 3333.1 and 3333.2, relating to proof and recovery of damages; Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5, the statute of limitations; Code Civ. Proc. § 364, providing a 90 day notice period before commencing the action; Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7, governing the periodic payment of future damages; Code Civ. Proc. § 674.7, pertaining to judgment liens; and Code Civ. Proc. § 1295, governing the arbitration of medical malpractice claims. In addition, Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13, enacted in 1987 [Stats. 1987, ch. 1498, § 7], forbids including a claim for punitive damages in a complaint or other pleading against a health care provider and prescribes the procedure for claiming such damages.

The statutes in the Medical Reform Act define the terms "health care provider" and "professional negligence" as follows:

"Health care provider" means any person licensed or certified pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 500-4905 (practitioners of healing arts, including veterinarians), or licensed pursuant to the Osteopathic Act [Stats. 1923, p. xciii, Deering's Bus. & Prof. Code Appendix II, West's Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 3600-1-3600-5], or the Chiropractic Initiative Act [Stats. 1923, p. lxxxviii, Deering's Bus. & Prof. Code Appendix I, West's Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 1000-1-1000-20], or licensed pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 1200 et seq. (health facilities, including hospitals). "Health care provider" includes the legal representative of a health care provider. Medical students and other medical professionals who are authorized to practice in California, but who are specifically exempt from license or certificate requirements, are considered health care providers subject to MICRA [Chosak v. Alameda County Medical Center (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 549, 567, 63 Cal. Rptr. 3d 184 (MICRA statute of limitations applicable to action against optometry student)]. Similarly, an unlicensed social worker who is registered with the appropriate agency and working toward licensure is a health care provider under MICRA [Prince v. Sutter Health Central (2008) 161 Cal. App. 4th 971, 974, 74 Cal. Rptr. 3d 750].

"Professional negligence" means a negligent act or omission to act by a health care provider in the rendering of professional services, which act or omission is the proximate cause of a personal injury or wrongful death, provided that the services are within the scope of services for which the provider is licensed and which are not within any restriction imposed by the licensing agency or licensed hospital. For these purposes, "personal injury" covers only injury that impairs the well-being or mental or physical health of the plaintiff, and the term does not cover purely economic injury [Vazquez de Mercado v. Superior Court (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 711, 715-716, 55 Cal. Rptr. 3d 889] .

The provisions of MICRA do not apply to a judgment rendered in an action based on failure to summon medical assistance pursuant to Gov. Code § 845.6 (prisoner in need of immediate medical care) and medical malpractice, even though plaintiff's case also included theories of professional negligence, if plaintiff pleaded and pursued the failure to summon medical care theory [Flores v. Natividad Med. Ctr. (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1106, 1116, 238 Cal. Rptr. 24] .

In addition to the statutes noted above, Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 801-803.2 govern reporting requirements for reporting judgments or arbitration awards of any amount, as well as settlements in excess of $30,000, arising from any type of medical malpractice action.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime LimitationsHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityHealthcare ProvidersTortsNegligenceGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsCausation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Liability

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.11

§ 415.11 Negligence

[1] Pleading Medical Negligence

Medical negligence, like other negligence actions, may be pleaded in general terms. It is sufficient, at least with respect to withstanding a general demurrer, to allege that certain treatment was negligently administered by defendant to plaintiff's damage without alleging in what respect the treatment may have been deficient [Stafford v. Shultz (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 767, 774, 270 P.2d 1] .

The essential allegations in a medical negligence action which should be pleaded are the physician-patient relationship giving rise to the physician's duty of care, defendant's act or omission which breached the duty of care, the element of causality between that act or omission and plaintiff's resultant injury, and actual damages [see Stafford v. Shultz (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 767, 774-775, 270 P.2d 1 ; Keene v. Wiggins (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 308, 312, 138 Cal. Rptr. 3] .

Any distinction that may exist between professional and ordinary negligence has no bearing on the substantive standard of conduct governing a health care provider's actions. A health care provider's medical expertise and skill is merely a factor that affects the standard of care governing a negligence action, and a single set of facts therefore cannot give rise to separate and distinct claims for ordinary and professional negligence [Flowers v. Torrance Mem'l Hosp. Med. Ctr. (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 992, 998-1001 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 685, 884 P.2d 142] .

[2] Res Ipsa Loquitur

In order to recover in a medical negligence action, the plaintiff must establish that defendant's act or omission was the actual and proximate cause of the injuries complained of [Keen v. Prisinzano (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 275, 279, 100 Cal. Rptr. 82] . It is common in malpractice actions that plaintiff is unable to testify directly as to the defendant's conduct due to partial or total unconsciousness. In such cases, the doctrine of res ipsa loquitor may be applied to create an inference that the proximate cause of plaintiff's injury was some negligence on the part of the defendant [see Clark v. Gibbons (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 399, 410, 58 Cal. Rptr. 125, 426 P.2d 525] .

The doctrine of res ipsa loquitur applies when the plaintiff establishes that (1) his or her injury is the kind that would not ordinarily occur in the absence of someone's negligence, (2) the injury was caused by an agency or instrumentality in the exclusive control of the defendant, and (3) no voluntary conduct by plaintiff was a responsible cause of the injury [Evid. Code § 646; Bardessono v. Michels (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 780, 788, 788 n. 5, 91 Cal. Rptr. 760, 478 P.2d 480] .

For a general discussion of the res ipsa loquitur doctrine, see Ch. 380, Negligence . For a thorough discussion of the doctrine's application in medical malpractice actions, see Ch. 295, Hospitals .

For a form of allegation relating to the use of the res ipsa loquitur doctrine in proving medical negligence, see § 415.99.

[3] Standard of Care

[a] Generally

Physicians are held to that degree of skill, knowledge, and care ordinarily possessed and exercised by members of the medical profession under similar circumstances [Bardessono v. Michels (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 780, 788, 91 Cal. Rptr. 760, 478 P.2d 480] . This standard applies equally to both the diagnosing and treatment of a patient's condition [Carmichael v. Reitz (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 958, 975, 95 Cal. Rptr. 381] .

[b] Specialists Versus General Practitioners

Specialists are held to the standard of care ordinarily exercised by other specialists in the same field of medicine [Quintal v. Laurel Grove Hosp. (1964) 62 Cal. 2d 154, 159-160, 41 Cal. Rptr. 577, 397 P.2d 161 ; Carmichael v. Reitz (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 958, 975-976, 95 Cal. Rptr. 381] .

Accordingly, a general practitioner's conduct is analyzed by the standard of care exercised by other prudent general practitioners. In the event that the general practitioner attempts a specialized diagnosis or treatment, his or her conduct is first evaluated by whether or not a reasonable general practitioner, taking into consideration such factors as the patient's mental and emotional condition and known financial situation, would have brought in a specialist [Sinz v. Owens (1949) 33 Cal. 2d 749]. If so, the general practitioner may then be found liable for negligence in failing to refer, and the treatment of the patient is then analyzed according to the standard of care required of specialists in the field [Simone v. Sabo (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 253, 257-258, 231 P.2d 19] . The standard of care which would have been applied by a reasonable general practitioner under the circumstances must be established by expert testimony [Seneris v. Haas (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 811, 829, 291 P.2d 915] .

[c] Expert Testimony

The appropriate standard of care in a malpractice action must be established by expert testimony unless the conduct required by the particular circumstances is within common lay knowledge [Folk v. Kilk (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 176, 185, 126 Cal. Rptr. 172] . However, when a duty to disclose is imposed by statute or regulation, it is prejudicial error to require a jury to determine the standard of care governing that duty exclusively from expert testimony [Daum v. SpineCare Med. Group, Inc. (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 1285, 1294, 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 260] . The defendant's own testimony may be used to establish a prima facie case of negligence [Robinson v. Pediatric Affiliates Med. Group, Inc. (1979) 98 Cal. App. 3d 907, 910, 159 Cal. Rptr. 791] .

To testify as an expert, a witness need not be a medical doctor or a specialist in the particular area of medicine under inquiry. The test for qualification is whether or not the witness has sufficient professional knowledge, learning, and experience pertaining to the subject and the applicable standard of care to allow him or her to testify with authority [Seneris v. Haas (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 811, 833, 291 P.2d 915 ; Chadock v. Cohn (1979) 96 Cal. App. 3d 205, 208-209, 157 Cal. Rptr. 640] . For example, a psychiatrist with some clinical experience in surgery and infectious diseases was held competent to give expert testimony on the issue of whether or not a plastic surgeon was negligent in failing to administer antibiotics to a patient receiving a breast implant [Miller v. Silver (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 652, 659-661,

226 Cal. Rptr. 479] .

An expert need not be practiced in the same geographic area as the defendant to be qualified to testify, so long as he or she can testify to the practice in a similar community [Sinz v. Owens (1949) 33 Cal. 2d 749, 753, 205 P.2d 3 ; see, e.g., Avivi v. Centro Medico Urgente Medical Center (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 463, 470-472, 71 Cal. Rptr. 3d 707 (doctor in Israel could testify in suit brought in Southern California as to standard of care for treating broken arm)].

For further discussion of the qualifications and testimony of expert witnesses, see Ch. 551, Trial .

[4] Duty of Care

[a] To Patient

The existence of an express or implied physician-patient relationship gives rise to the physician's duty to exercise reasonable care toward the patient. This duty is determined on a case-by-case basis and varies with the relationship of the parties, the foreseeability of harm stemming from the physician's conduct, and the degree of reliance the patient may reasonably be expected to place on the physician's opinion. For example, no physician-patient relationship and resultant duty of care arise when a physician examines a person solely for the purpose of making a report to a workers' compensation insurance carrier and does not offer or intend to treat the person examined [Keene v. Wiggins (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 308, 313, 138 Cal. Rptr. 3 ; see also Felton v. Schaeffer (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 229, 234-235, 238, 279 Cal. Rptr. 713 (physician hired by employer to examine job applicant solely for purposes of preemployment physical examination had no duty of care to patient with regard to misdiagnosis that resulted in lost job opportunity)].

For discussion regarding a psychotherapist's duty of care to suicidal patients, see Ch. 304, Insane and Other Incompetent Persons .

[b] To Third Persons

Because a physician's duty of care usually extends only to the physician's patient, a party who is not a patient of the physician, but is seeking to recover from the physician for negligence, must establish some basis for imposing a duty on the physician that extends to that party [see Shin v. Kong (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 498, 503-504, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 304] . In one case, for example, the husband of a patient was unable to establish a legal basis for recovering from the patient's physician for his actions in artificially inseminating the patient without the husband's consent, because the husband was not the physician's patient and there was no other cognizable basis for imposing a duty on the physician that would extend to the husband [see Shin v. Kong (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 498, 504-512, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 304] .

Under limited circumstances, a duty of care may extend beyond the physician-patient relationship. A physician may be liable to a third party for the failure to warn the patient or the third party about a health condition of the patient that might bring about a lapse of consciousness [Myers v. Quesenberry (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 888, 890, 894, 193 Cal. Rptr. 733 (person injured by driver in diabetic coma may recover from physician who failed to warn diabetic not to drive while medically uncontrolled)]. Physicians and surgeons are required by statute to report the names of patients 14 years of age or older who have been diagnosed as having a disorder that may bring about a lapse of consciousness [Health & Safety Code § 410(a)]. A violation of the statute creates a rebuttable presumption of negligence and may give rise to liability to third parties for injury caused by the patient's affliction [see Lopez v. Southern Cal. Permanente Med. Group (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 673, 680, 171 Cal. Rptr. 527] .

Several cases have discussed whether a psychotherapist may be liable for professional negligence to a person who is not the therapist's patient. In one case, for example, the court of appeal held that a psychotherapist owes no duty of care to the parent of an adult patient arising from the therapist's treatment of the patient regarding allegedly false recovered memories of childhood sexual abuse [Trear v. Sills (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 1341, 1343, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 281] .

Absent an assumption of duty, the duty of psychotherapists to exercise due care generally runs to the patients who hire them [Trear v. Sills (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 1341, 1348, 1350, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 281] . Although the court in that case recognized that harm to a falsely accused abuser would be foreseeable [see Trear v. Sills (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 1341, 1346-1348, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 281] , the court concluded that foreseeability alone was insufficient and that imposing a duty that runs to the parent would create a divided loyalty in the therapist, who would be unable to properly explore the possibility that the patient's problems were related to repressed memories of childhood abuse for fear of liability to the alleged abuser [Trear v. Sills (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 1341, 1350-1352, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 281] . The court also stressed, however, that its holding was limited to treatment of adult patients, because treatment of a minor child raises additional concerns as to who actually hired the therapist and whether a duty might run to a parent on that basis [Trear v. Sills (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 1341, 1344 n.4, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 281] . Other cases have imposed a duty on psychotherapists that runs to third parties. For discussion of a psychotherapist's duty to warn third persons of a patient's violent behavior, see Ch. 304, Insane and Other Incompetent Persons .

One California court of appeal has held that a health care provider who treats a patient with a communicable disease has a duty to warn the patient or the patient's family of the dangers of contagion [Reisner v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1195, 1197-1198, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 518] . In that case, a 12-year-old girl was given a blood transfusion and the following day her doctor learned that the blood had been tainted with the HIV virus. The doctor failed to notify the girl or her family, however, even though he continued to treat her. Three years later, the girl started dating the plaintiff and the two began having sex. Two years after that, the doctor told the girl that she had AIDS, and the girl then told her boyfriend. One month later, the girl died, and shortly thereafter the plaintiff learned he was HIV-positive. The plaintiff sued the doctor and others for negligence, but the trial court granted summary judgment for the defendants on the grounds that they owed no duty to the plaintiff [Reisner v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1195, 1197-1198, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 518] . The court of appeals reversed, concluding that because of the special relationship between a physician and patient, a doctor has a duty to control the conduct of a patient or warn the patient or members of the patient's family of the risks of certain behavior when harm to a third person is reasonably foreseeable [Reisner v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1195, 1198-1199, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 518] . Under the facts of that case, it made no difference to the court that the identity of the third party was unknown and in fact unknowable at the time the tainted blood was discovered. It was reasonably foreseeable that as the girl grew into maturity she would engage in intimate relations that would pose a great health risk to her partners, whoever those partners happened to be [Reisner v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1195, 1200-1201, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 518] .

The Supreme Court has held that a physician may owe a duty to a nonpatient who suffers emotional distress as a direct victim of the physician's negligence toward a patient, if injury to that person as a result of the negligence is reasonably foreseeable [Molien v. Kaiser Found. Hosps. (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 916, 923, 167 Cal. Rptr. 831, 616 P.2d 813 (husband may recover for emotional distress suffered because of misdiagnosis by physician that wife had venereal disease); see also Marlene F. v. Affiliated Psychiatric Med. Clinic, Inc. (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 583, 590-591, 257 Cal. Rptr. 98, 770 P.2d 278 (mother may recover for emotional distress suffered as result of son's molestation by therapist, when therapist had been hired to counsel both mother and son regarding family emotional problems); for general discussion of negligent infliction of emotional distress and specific discussion of who is a direct victim, see Ch. 362, Mental Suffering and Emotional Distress]. However, a health care provider has no duty to third persons for economic damages suffered because of the provider's negligence toward a patient [St. Francis Med. Ctr. v. Superior Court (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 668, 239 Cal. Rptr. 765 (mother of deceased patient who is not entitled to bring wrongful death action may not recover from health care provider for economic loss incurred because of need to care for deceased's children); see Martinez v. County of Los Angeles (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 884, 231 Cal. Rptr. 96] .

When a physician's advice and care to a patient is directly related to the delivery of a healthy child, that child is tantamount to a foreseeable third party beneficiary of the contract between physician and patient to whom the courts have found that a duty of care is owed. Arguably, it would ignore the realities of modern obstetrical practice to deny an infant, as the intended beneficiary of that contractual relationship, independent protection against that same incompetent medical advice and care. Therefore, because the failure to properly diagnose, test, or disclose alternatives and reasonably foreseeable risks and benefits of treatment will usually result in physical injury to the fetus alone, as opposed to the mother, it is reasonable that a cause of action for negligence belong to the infant [see Hegyes v. Unjian Enters., Inc. (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1103, 1118-1119, 286 Cal. Rptr. 85 (dictum; minor's unsuccessful action for damages for preconception negligence against tortfeasor responsible for injuries to plaintiff's mother before plaintiff's conception)]. For discussion of causes of action for wrongful life and wrongful birth, see § 415.17.

A physician may also be liable to a person who is not a patient of the physician, if the person is examined by the physician, and in the course of the examination the person is injured due to the negligence of the physician [Mero v. Sadoff (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1466, 1478, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 769] . In one case, for example, the plaintiff had suffered a workers'compensation injury and was examined by a non-treating doctor at the request of the self-insured employer. During the course of the examination, the plaintiff alleged that she was injured when she was strapped into a mechanism that caused her body to be contorted into damaging positions [Mero v. Sadoff (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1466, 1470, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 769] . Although no patient-physician relationship was established, the court of appeals held that the doctor could be liable to the plaintiff for negligence in causing injuries to the plaintiff, just as the doctor would be liable to a person who was a paying customer of the doctor [Mero v. Sadoff (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1466, 1477, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 769] .

[5] Selection of Method of Diagnosis or Treatment

In the absence of an express agreement regarding the outcome of treatment, a physician is not required to guarantee specific results or a cure [Custodio v. Bauer (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 303, 312, 59 Cal. Rptr. 463 ; see § 415.23]. Therefore, an error of judgment in choosing among various approved methods of diagnosis or treatment does not give rise to liability for negligence as long as reasonable care was exercised in making the selection [Barton v. Owen (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 484, 502, 139 Cal. Rptr. 494] . Similarly, the existence of variance in medical opinion regarding the desirability of one particular procedure over another does not establish that the determination to use one of the procedures is negligence [Meier v. Ross Gen. Hosp. (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 420, 434, 71 Cal. Rptr. 903, 445 P.2d 519] . However, despite the presence of multiple treatment options, a physician may be liable for performing a surgery that was unnecessary under the appropriate standard of care [see Tortorella v. Castro (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 1, 13, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 853 (unnecessary surgery is inherently injurious)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawFamily Relationships & TortsTort LiabilityGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersDoctors & PhysiciansTortsNegligenceGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceDutyAffirmative Duty to ActFailure to ActTortsNegligenceDutyForeseeability of InjuryTortsNegligenceProofGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceProofCustomMedical CustomsTortsNegligenceProofElementsTortsNegligenceProofViolations of LawStatutesTortsNegligenceStandards of CareGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceStandards of CareAppropriate StandardGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceStandards of CareReasonable CareGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceStandards of CareSpecial CareGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceStandards of CareSpecial CareHighly Skilled Professionals

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Liability

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.12

§ 415.12 Violation of Statute

Specific duties on the part of physicians and other health care providers have been created by statute. For example, Health & Safety Code § 103900(l) requires physicians to report persons diagnosed as having disorders marked by lapses of consciousness, Health & Safety Code § 120250 requires the reporting of infectious disease, Penal Code § 11161 creates a duty to report injuries inflicted in violation of a penal statute, and Penal Code § 11166 requires health care practitioners or other persons suspecting an incidence of child abuse to contact a police department, sheriff's department, county probation department (if designated to receive mandated reports), or county welfare department.

In addition to certain criminal penalties that attach to a physician's violation of these statutes, civil liability may also arise pursuant to Evid. Code § 669, which provides that violation of a statute may give rise to a rebuttable presumption of a failure to exercise due care under certain circumstances [see Landeros v. Flood (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 399, 413, 131 Cal. Rptr. 69, 551 P.2d 389 (failure to report child abuse)].

Evid. Code § 669 provides that the failure of a person to exercise due care is presumed if: (1) the person violated a public statute, ordinance, or regulation; (2) the violation proximately caused death or injury; (3) the death or injury resulted from an occurrence the nature of which the law was designed to prevent; and (4) the victim belongs to the class of persons for whose protection the law was adopted [Evid. Code § 669(a)]. The plaintiff propounding a jury instruction based on the rebuttable presumption must demonstrate that the four elements of Evid. Code § 669 are met. The first and second elements, although normally questions of fact for the jury, may be resolved by the court as a matter of law when reasonable minds could not differ as to whether a violation of the law actually occurred or whether the violation proximately caused the plaintiff's injuries. The third and fourth elements must be determined by the court as a matter of law [see Traxler v. Varady (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 1321, 1328, 1329, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 297 (request for jury instruction under Evid. Code § 669 properly denied if proximate cause not established)].

A trial court commits reversible error if an applicable statute, ordinance, or regulation designed to protect the plaintiff establishes a duty of care that was breached, but the trial court refuses to instruct the jury on that statute, ordinance, or regulation and the application of the negligence per se doctrine and requires them to rely only on expert opinion testimony [Galvez v. Frields (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 1410, 1423-1424, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 50 (in wrongful life action, trial court committed reversible error by refusing to instruct jury on regulations governing alpha-fetoprotein testing, which detects neural tube defects in fetus)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLegislationTypes of StatutesHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceProofViolations of LawGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceProofViolations of LawOrdinancesTortsNegligenceProofViolations of LawStatutes

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Liability

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.13

§ 415.13 Informed Consent

[1] Basis for Battery or Negligence Action

Subject to certain exceptions, a physician has the duty to inform the patient in lay terms of the dangers inherently and potentially involved in a proposed medical procedure and to obtain the patient's informed consent prior to performing the procedure [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 243, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] . When a duty to disclose is imposed by statute or regulation, it is prejudicial error to require a jury to determine the standard of care governing that duty exclusively from expert testimony [Daum v. SpineCare Med. Group, Inc. (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 1285, 1294, 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 260] . Depending on the facts, the failure to obtain such consent may give rise to either an action for battery or professional negligence.

The physician's performance of a treatment which is substantially different from that for which consent was obtained, or the physician's intentional misrepresentation of the treatment to be performed, gives rise to a battery action [see Nelson v. Gaunt (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 623, 635, 178 Cal. Rptr. 167] .

For further discussion of the battery theory, see § 415.20. For forms relating to a medical battery action, see §§ 415.92 and 415.98.

On the other hand, the physician's failure to use due care in evaluating what information to disclose to the patient, or in determining whether or not the patient has comprehended the explanation, gives rise to an action for negligence [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 240-241, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] .

An action based on lack of informed consent may not be brought against a consultant specialist who never examined the patient personally and whose professional function was confined to rendering advice and guidance to a clinician who consulted the specialist on the patient's behalf [Townsend v. Turk (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 278, 283-287, 266 Cal. Rptr. 821] . A consultant's violation of the duty to provide adequate information to a treating physician would, however, fall within a cause of action based on basic negligence [see Townsend v. Turk (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 278, 287, 266 Cal. Rptr. 821] .

A physician is not necessarily immune from liability for failure to obtain informed consent merely because the physician eventually refers a patient to another physician for treatment. In one case, for example, a physician who examined the plaintiff and recommended her for surgery to be performed by another doctor was liable for failing to obtain informed consent. However, the referring physician in that case was more than merely a referring physician, because he was also the owner of the surgical medical group that performed the surgery, which effectively made him the employer of the doctor who actually performed the surgery. In addition, the referring physician was the one who made the diagnosis and discussed the treatment options with the patient, and he was the one who informed the performing surgeon of which procedures to perform [Quintanilla v. Dunkelman (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 95, 118-119, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 557 ; see also Wilson v. Merritt (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 1125, 1135-1137, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 630 (question of fact existed as to whether physician who evaluated and advised patient owed duty to obtain informed consent for procedure to be performed by another doctor)].

An action based on lack of informed consent may not be brought against a consultant specialist who never examined the patient personally and whose professional function was confined to rendering advice and guidance to a clinician who consulted the specialist on the patient's behalf [Townsend v. Turk (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 278, 283-287]. A consultant's violation of the duty to provide adequate information to a treating physician would, however, fall within a cause of action based on basic negligence [see Townsend v. Turk (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 278, 287].

A physician is not necessarily immune from liability for failure to obtain informed consent merely because the physician eventually refers a patient to another physician for treatment. In one case, for example, a physician who examined the plaintiff and recommended her for surgery to be performed by another doctor was liable for failing to obtain informed consent. However, the referring physician in that case was more than merely a referring physician, because he was also the owner of the surgical medical group that performed the surgery, which effectively made him the employer of the doctor who actually performed the surgery. In addition, the referring physician was the one who made the diagnosis and discussed the treatment options with the patient, and he was the one who informed the performing surgeon of which procedures to perform [Quintanilla v. Dunkelman (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 95, 118-119 ; see also Wilson v. Merritt (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 1125, 1135-1137 (question of fact existed as to whether physician who evaluated and advised patient owed duty to obtain informed consent for procedure to be performed by another doctor)].

For specific disclosure and consent requirements relating to treatment of a patient with a DMSO preparation, see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4211.5.

For a form of allegation relating to the physician's failure to obtain an informed consent, see § 415.100.

[2] Scope of Disclosure

The scope of required disclosure is measured by the amount of knowledge each patient needs to make an informed choice. All facts which are not commonly appreciated and which are material to the patient's decision should be explained [McKinney v. Nash (1981) 120 Cal. App. 3d 428, 440, 174 Cal. Rptr. 642] . Thus, the physician need not discuss relatively minor risks inherent in common procedures when it is common knowledge that such risks rarely occur, other than to determine whether or not the treatment is contraindicated for the particular patient [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 244, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] .

In a medical malpractice action based on lack of informed consent, the plaintiff must prove that the undisclosed information was material [see Mathis v. Morrissey (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 332, 345-347, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 819 (rejecting jury instruction shifting burden to defendant)]. The test of materiality is objective; that is, whether or not a reasonable person in the patient's position would regard the information as significant when deciding whether to accept or reject the recommended procedure. Materiality may be expanded beyond the objective standard if the physician knows or should know of a patient's unique concerns or lack of familiarity with medical procedure which requires further explanation [Truman v. Thomas (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 285, 291, 165 Cal. Rptr. 308, 611 P.2d 902] . Whether or not the minimal disclosure of objectively material information has been made may be determined by the jury without expert testimony. Therefore, expert testimony is not required at trial to establish the duty to disclose risks of death, serious injury, or serious complications [Betterton v. Leichtling (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 749, 754, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 644] . Whether or not proper exercise of care would require disclosure beyond the minimal level, however, must be analyzed by expert witnesses [Jamison v. Lindsay (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 223, 230, 166 Cal. Rptr. 443 ; see also Betterton v. Leichtling (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 749, 755-756, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 644 (if beyond knowledge of lay witnesses, expert testimony required to demonstrate that additional, particular risk existed under particular facts)].

When a patient alleges that a physician had a heightened duty of disclosure because the patient suffered from a medical condition which made surgery more risky, expert testimony is necessary to establish that the patient in fact suffered from that condition [Jambazian v. Borden (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 836, 849, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 768] . The Jambazian court affirmed a summary judgment in favor of a surgeon who failed to disclose that diabetes heightened the risk of harm associated with post-surgical infection, since the surgeon's evidence indicated that the patient was not diabetic, and the patient's evidence to the contrary consisted solely of his own declaration that he suffered from the disease [Jambazian v. Borden (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 836, 849, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 768] .

The duty to disclose material information may require the physician to reveal the existence of various schools of thought regarding a specific course of treatment. A physician, however, need not discuss various schools of thought if such information is not material. It is error for a trial court to give jury instructions that would impose liability on a physician as a matter of law for the failure to anticipate and reveal the fact that some medical care providers may later disagree with the treating physician's medical recommendation [see Mathis v. Morrissey (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 332, 344-345, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 819 ; see also Parris v. Sands (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 187, 193, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 800 (trial court properly refused jury instruction that stated physician had duty to disclose existence of differing schools of thought regarding diagnosis and treatment); Traxler v. Varady (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 1321, 1332, 1329, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 297 (instruction properly refused when plaintiff did not show that there were divergent schools of thought concerning any of the decisions made by her treating physicians)].

Regardless of whether a procedure involves treatment or a diagnostic test, the patient must be apprised not only of the risks inherent in the procedure prescribed, but also the risks of a decision not to undergo the treatment, and the probability of a successful outcome of the treatment. If the procedure is risk-free, the physician need only conform to competent medical practice to obtain the patient's consent. If the patient declines the risk-free procedure, the physician must also advise the patient of all material risks of which a reasonable person would want to be informed before deciding not to undergo the procedure. If the test or treatment is risky, the physician should always explain the potential consequences of declining to follow the recommended course of action [Truman v. Thomas (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 285, 292, 165 Cal. Rptr. 308, 611 P.2d 902 ; see also Moore v. Preventive Medicine Medical Group, Inc. (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 728, 223 Cal. Rptr. 859] .

A physician who recommends a particular treatment must disclose an alternative treatment only if disclosure of that particular alternative procedure is required to meet the standard of care established within the medical profession [Spann v. Irwin Memorial Blood Centers (1995) 34 Cal. App. 4th 644, 658, 40 Cal. Rptr. 2d 360] . Moreover, a physician is not liable for failing to disclose the existence of a treatment that cannot legally be administered in the state of California, because an illegal alternative is not "available" within the meaning of the rule given in Cobbs v. Grant [Schiff v. Prados (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 692, 694, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 171] .

The duty to inform a patient concerning the risks and benefits of treatment or nontreatment is only triggered when the physician actually recommends treatment or diagnostic tests [Munro v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 977, 986, 263 Cal. Rptr. 878 ; Scalere v. Stenson (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 1446, 1449-1450, 260 Cal. Rptr. 152] . If a physician believes that a patient is progressing satisfactorily and requires no treatment, there can be no liability under a theory that the physician failed to disclose material facts necessary for the patient to evaluate his or her condition properly and to seek appropriate care [see Scalere v. Stenson (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 1446, 1449-1453, 260 Cal. Rptr. 152] . Negligent failure to advise a patient to pursue a potentially necessary course of treatment, however, is actionable under ordinary medical negligence standards [Vandi v. Permanente Med. Group, Inc. (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 1064, 1069-1070, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 463 ; Scalere v. Stenson (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 1446, 1453, 260 Cal. Rptr. 152 ; Jamison v. Lindsay (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 223, 231, 166 Cal. Rptr. 443] .

Prior to the performance of a nonemergency hysterectomy, physicians and surgeons must provide specific information to the patient and obtain verbal and written consent for the procedure [Health & Safety Code § 1690]. The information required to be given includes advice that the patient may withhold or withdraw consent to the procedure at any time before the hysterectomy without affecting her right to future care or treatment, and without jeopardizing any right to federal or state funded program benefits; a description of the surgery involved in the procedure and any available alternatives; advice that the procedure is considered irreversible and results in infertility; and a description of the benefits and advantages, as well as the discomforts and risks involved [see Health & Safety Code § 1690(a)(1)-(5)]. Failure of a physician or surgeon to follow the informed consent procedures constitutes unprofessional conduct within the meaning of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2000 et seq. [Health & Safety Code § 1691].

[3] Causation

Plaintiff must establish a causal relation between the physician's failure to inform and the injury suffered. This element is established if a reasonable person in plaintiff's position would have refused to consent to treatment had he or she been properly informed of the risks [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 245, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] . Therefore, it is not plaintiff's burden to establish that he or she would not have consented to the surgery even if adequately informed; this assertion is a defense as to which the defendant has the burden of proof [Warren v. Schecter (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 1189, 1207, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 573 ; see also Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 245, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] . Plaintiff does not have the burden to establish that he or she would not have consented to the surgery even if adequately informed; this assertion is a defense as to which the defendant has the burden of proof [Warren v. Schecter (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 1189, 1207, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 573 (citing Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 245, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1)].

[4] Continuing Duty to Warn

A physician has a duty to warn a patient of dangerous effects of treatment when, subsequent to treatment, the physician obtains actual knowledge of the danger. Thus, a physician who places a prosthetic device such as a contraceptive shield in a patient has a continuing duty to warn the patient about dangers regarding the device that are ascertained subsequent to insertion [Tresemer v. Barke (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 656, 669, 672, 150 Cal. Rptr. 384 ; see § 415.97].

[5] Medical Experimentation

No person may be subjected to any medical experiment unless an informed consent is first obtained from the subject [Health & Safety Code § 24175(a)]. Thus, if a patient agrees to the implantation of a fixation device in his back, the defendant's failure to inform the patient of the experimental nature of the device and of the implantation surgery may amount to negligence per se [Daum v. SpineCare Med. Group, Inc. (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 1285, 1294, 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 260 (trial court erred in refusing plaintiff's request for jury instruction on negligence per se where plaintiff presented sufficient evidence that injury resulted from the kind of occurrence the Protection of Human Subjects in Medical Experimentation Act, Health & Safety Code § 24170 et seq., was designed to prevent; where plaintiff, as patient in clinical investigation, was within class of persons for whose protection laws were enacted; and where plaintiff's evidence of three different statutory and regulatory violations was substantial]. Under certain circumstances, consent may be given by an authorized person other than the subject [Health & Safety Code § 24175(b)-(e)]. Specific guidelines for obtaining consent are contained in Health & Safety Code § 24173. The statute provides for civil liability up to $25,000 for willful failure to obtain consent prior to experimentation, and up to $10,000 for negligent failure, in addition to a subject's rights to recover damages under any other applicable law [Health & Safety Code § 24176].

Informed consent conforming to the requirements of Health & Safety Code § 24173 must also be obtained from any patient prior to the administration of experimental drugs [Health & Safety Code §§ 11525, 11530].

[6] Disclosure of Physician's Personal Interests

A physician seeking a patient's consent for a medical procedure must, to satisfy his or her duty to the patient and to obtain the patient's informed consent, disclose personal interests unrelated to the patient's health, whether research or economic, that may affect his or her medical judgment [Moore v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 120, 129, 131-132, 271 Cal. Rptr. 146, 793 P.2d 479] .

A physician's failure to disclose personal interests may give rise to a cause of action for performing medical procedures without informed consent or breach of fiduciary duty [Moore v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 120, 129, 132, 271 Cal. Rptr. 146, 793 P.2d 479] . For example, a physician who made a medically indicated decision to recommend removal of a patient's spleen, and who knew that he would reap financial benefit from the scientific use of the removed spleen, was held to be subject to an action for breach of fiduciary duty, or lack of informed consent, based on the physician's failure to disclose that fact when he recommended the splenectomy to the patient [see Moore v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 120, 132, 271 Cal. Rptr. 146, 793 P.2d 479] .

[7] Limitations on Duty to Obtain Consent

[a] In General

Although the law regards a patient's right to make an intelligent decision about medical treatment as paramount, there are situations in which the physician's duty to disclose is reduced or eliminated. Disclosure is not required when it is evident that the patient cannot evaluate the data, such as in emergencies or when the patient is a minor or incompetent [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 243, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] .

[b] Emergencies

Emergency situations provide an exception to the requirement of obtaining informed consent. Pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 2397, a licensed health care provider is not liable for civil damages for injury or death caused in an emergency situation occurring in the licensee's office or in a hospital, on account of a failure to inform a patient of possible risks if the failure is caused by either (1) the patient's unconsciousness [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2397(a)(1)]; (2) a need for immediate treatment and insufficient time to inform the patient fully [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2397(a)(2)]; or (3) a need for immediate treatment, a patient's legal incapacity to consent, and insufficient time to obtain consent from a person authorized to give such consent [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2397(a)(3)].

The term "emergency situation occurring in the licensee's office" as used in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2397 is defined as a situation occurring in an office used by a licensee for the examination and treatment of patients that, if not immediately diagnosed and treated, would lead to serious disability or death [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2397(c)(2)].

The term "emergency situation occurring in a hospital" as used in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2397 means a situation occurring in any part of the hospital that requires immediate services for alleviation of severe pain, or immediate diagnosis and treatment of unforseeable medical conditions that would lead to serious disability or death [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2397(c)(3)].

Bus. & Prof. Code § 2397 applies only to actions for damages for injuries or death arising from a failure to inform, and not to actions arising from negligence in rendering or failing to render treatment [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2397(b)]. For a discussion of immunity from negligence in diagnosing and treatment in emergency situations, see § 415.15[10].

[c] Discretion to Withhold Disturbing Information

A patient's particular emotional and mental state may be taken into consideration by a physician in determining the scope of disclosure. Disclosure may thus be limited when the physician reasonably determines that the information would upset the patient to the extent that the patient would be unable to weigh dispassionately the risks of refusing treatment [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 246, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1 ; Slater v. Kehoe (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 819, 826, 113 Cal. Rptr. 790] .

[d] Patient's Request Not to Be Informed

A patient's request that he or she not be informed regarding a medical procedure relieves the physician of the duty to disclose [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 245, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] . However, the physician is not obligated to comply with such a request [Aden v. Younger (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 662, 675, 129 Cal. Rptr. 535] .

[8] Effectiveness of Signed Consent Form

Although a physician may defend on the grounds of a signed consent form, a signed consent form is not necessarily conclusive proof of informed consent. The adequacy of a written consent form is a factual issue for the jury [Quintanilla v. Dunkelman (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 95, 115-116, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 557] .

In one case, for example, a Spanish-speaking patient had signed a pre-surgery consent form written in Spanish. She testified that she did not read Spanish, that she was rushed through the pre-surgery admissions procedures and told to "sign here" and "initial there," and that neither the examining physician nor the surgeon had adequately explained what procedures were going to be performed. Under those circumstances, the court upheld a jury verdict for the plaintiff [Quintanilla v. Dunkelman (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 95, 115-118, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 557] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentFailures to Disclose & WarnGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentPatient ConsentGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentPatient ConsentInformed ConsentHealthcare LawTreatmentPatient ConsentRight to Refuse TreatmentTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityHealthcare ProvidersTortsNegligenceActionsGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceProofCustomMedical Customs

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Liability

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.14

§ 415.14 Vicarious Liability of Physicians for Acts of Agents

Under the doctrine of respondeat superior, a physician may be liable for the independent negligence of medical personnel assisting the physician during treatment or surgery. This liability may be imposed even when such personnel are not employees of the physician, but rather are employees of the hospital in which the medical procedure is taking place, when there is proof that the physician exercised actual control or direction over the conduct causing the injury [see Truhitte v. French Hosp. (1981) 128 Cal. App. 3d 332, 348, 180 Cal. Rptr. 152] . For discussion of the standard of care applicable in actions for malpractice of hospital employees and forms for use in such actions, see Ch. 295, Hospitals .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesApparent Agency & Respondeat SuperiorGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesApparent Agency & Respondeat SuperiorRespondeat SuperiorHealthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesFacility LiabilityGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesFacility LiabilityHospitalsTortsVicarious LiabilityAgentsNegligence

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Liability

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.15

§ 415.15 Statutory Limitations on Liability

[1] Natural Course of Condition or Treatment

No health care provider is liable for professional negligence or malpractice for any occurrence or result solely on the basis that the occurrence or result was caused by the natural course of a disease or condition, or was the natural or expected result of reasonable treatment rendered for the disease or condition. However, this rule does not limit liability for a failure to inform of the risks of treatment or risks of declining treatment, or for negligent diagnosis or treatment or negligent failure to diagnose or treat [Civ. Code § 1714.8(a)].

For definitions of health care provider and professional negligence, see § 415.10.

[2] Nonaction on Unsolicited Referral From Diagnostic Clinic

A health care provider who receives an unsolicited referral arising from a test performed by a multiphasic screening unit is not liable for any act of professional negligence as the result of such a referral, including the failure to refer, examine, or treat the person referred by the screening unit [Civ. Code § 43.9(a)]. The health care provider receives such immunity, however, only if he or she either notifies the screening unit of the desire not to evaluate the results or to take further action on them or returns the results within 21 days. Furthermore, if the health care provider determines that the results indicate a substantial risk of serious illness or death, the provider must make a reasonable effort to notify the person tested of the presumptive finding within 14 days of receipt of the results [Civ. Code § 43.9(c)].

Civ. Code § 43.9 does not provide immunity if, at the time of the unsolicited referral, there exists either a physician-patient relationship or health care contract between the provider and the person referred, or if a provider-patient relationship is established following receipt of the unsolicited referral [Civ. Code § 43.9(b)].

A "multiphasic screening unit," as used in Civ. Code § 43.9, means a facility that does not prescribe or treat patients but performs diagnostic testing only.

For definitions of "health care provider" and "professional negligence," see § 415.10.

[3] Emergency Obstetrical Services

A physician who serves on an on-call basis to a hospital emergency room and who in good faith renders emergency obstetrical services to a woman while serving on-call is not liable for any civil damages as a result of any negligent act or omission by him or her in rendering the emergency obstetrical services. However, this immunity does not apply to acts or omissions constituting gross negligence, recklessness, or willful misconduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2395.5(a)].

The protection of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2395.5(a) does not apply to a physician in any of the following cases [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2395.5(b)]:

- Consideration, in any form, was provided to the physician for serving, or the physician was required to serve, on an on-call basis to the hospital emergency room. In either event, the protection of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2395.5(a) does not apply unless the hospital expressly, in writing, accepts liability for the physician's negligent acts or omissions.

- The physician had provided prior medical diagnosis or treatment to the same patient for a condition having a bearing on or relevance to the treatment of the obstetrical condition that required emergency services.

- Before rendering emergency obstetrical services, the physician had a contractual obligation or agreement with the patient, another physician, or a third-party payer on the patient's behalf to provide obstetrical care for the patient, or the physician had a reasonable expectation of payment for the emergency services provided to the patient.

Except as provided in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2395.5(b), nothing in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2395.5 will be construed to affect or modify the liability of the hospital for ordinary or gross negligence [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2395.5(c)].

[4] Good Faith Reliance on Health Care Decision

[a] Nonliability

Subject to any limitations stated in a durable power of attorney for health care, and subject to certain Probate Code provisions, a health care provider is not subject to criminal prosecution, civil liability, or professional disciplinary action for relying on a health care decision of a patient's attorney-in-fact under certain circumstances.

For complete discussion of durable powers of attorney, see Ch. 427, Principal and Agent .

[b] Changes in Applicable Law Effective July 1, 2000

The Health Care Decisions Law [Prob. Code § 4600 et seq.], effective July 1, 2000, repealed, revised, and renumbered many provisions regarding durable powers of attorney for health care under the Power of Attorney Law. For example, until July 1, 2000, the limitations of reliance on a health care decision are found in Probate Code §§ 4722, 4723, 4724, 4725, and 4726. On or after July 1, 2000, the limitations are found in Probate Code §§ 4680-4690. Also, until July 1, 2000, the definition of "health care decision" can be found at Prob. Code § 4612. On or after July 1, 2000, the definition can be found at Prob. Code § 4617.

[c] Requirements for Nonliability Applicable Before July 1, 2000

Until July 1, 2000, a health care provider is not subject to criminal prosecution, civil liability, or professional disciplinary action, if the health care provider relies on a health care decision and both of the following requirements are satisfied [Prob. Code § 4750(a)]:

- The health care provider believes in good faith that the attorney-in-fact who made the decision is authorized under Prob. Code § 4700 et seq. to make that decision; and

- The health care provider believes in good faith that the decision is not inconsistent with the desires of the patient as expressed in the durable power of attorney for health care or otherwise made known to the health care provider, and, if the decision is to withhold or withdraw health care necessary to keep the patient alive, the health care provider has made a good faith effort to determine the desires of the patient to the extent that the patient is able to convey those desires to the health care provider and the results of the efforts are made a part of the patient's medical records.

However, even if these requirements are met, a health care provider may be subject to criminal prosecution, civil liability, or professional disciplinary action for relying on a health care decision to the same extent as would be the case if the patient, having had the capacity to give informed consent, had made the health care decision on his or her own behalf under like circumstances [Prob. Code § 4750(a)].

Nothing in Prob. Code § 4700 et seq. authorizes a health care provider to do anything illegal [Prob. Code § 4750(b)]. Notwithstanding the health care decision of the attorney-in-fact designated by a durable power of attorney for health care, the health care provider is not subject to criminal prosecution, civil liability, or professional disciplinary action for failing to withdraw health care necessary to keep the patient alive [Prob. Code § 4750(c)].

[d] Requirements for Nonliability Applicable on or After July 1, 2000

On or after July 1, 2000, a health care provider acting in good faith and in accordance with generally accepted health care standards applicable to the health care provider is not subject to civil or criminal liability or to discipline for unprofessional conduct for any actions in compliance with the Health Care Decisions Law, including, but not limited to, any of the following [Probate Code § 4740]:

- Complying with a health care decision of a person apparently having authority to make a health care decision for a patient, including a decision to withhold or withdraw health care;

- Declining to comply with a health care decision of a person based on a belief that the person then lacked authority to make that decision;

- Complying with an advance health care directive and assuming that the directive was valid when made and had not been revoked or terminated; and

- Declining to comply with an individual health care instruction or health care decision, in accordance with Probate Code §§ 4734-4736.

[e] Continued Validity of Forms Valid Under Prior Law

Nothing in the Health Care Decisions Law affects the validity of any durable power of attorney for health care executed on a printed form that was valid under the prior law, regardless of whether the execution occurred before, on, or after July 1, 2000 [Prob. Code § 4665(e)].

[5] Immunity of Medical Professional Society

No monetary liability arises against any medical professional society or its members, agents, and employees for referring a member of the public to any professional member of the society, or for acts of negligence committed by a professional to whom the person was referred, so long as no malice was present in the referral and the referral was made at no cost added to the initial referral fee [Civ. Code § 43.95(a)]. However, this immunity is not available if the medical society, while making a referral to a professional member of that society, fails to disclose the nature of any disciplinary decision or pending action of which it has actual or constructive knowledge taken by a state licensing agency. This duty of disclosure does not operate if the proceeding results in no disciplinary action being taken [Civ. Code § 43.95(b)]. A medical professional society, for the purposes of Civ. Code § 43.95, includes a medical organization having as members at least 25 percent of the eligible persons or licentiates in the geographic area served by the particular society, and medical organizations that have been established to provide free assistance to needy patients. If the professional society has less than 100 members, it must have as members at least a majority of the eligible persons or licentiates in the geographic area served by the particular society [Civ. Code § 43.95(a)].

[6] Immunity of Hospital

No monetary liability or cause of action for damages, other than economic or pecuniary damages, arises against any hospital for any action taken on the recommendation of its medical staff, or against any other person or organization for any action taken or restriction imposed that is required to be reported pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 805 (reporting denial, removal, or restriction of staff privileges), provided that the action or restriction is reported in accordance with Bus. & Prof. Code § 805. This immunity does not apply to an action knowingly and intentionally taken for the purpose of injuring a person affected by the action or infringing on a person's rights [Civ. Code § 43.97].

[7] Natural Death Act

The Natural Death Act (Health & Safety Code § 7185 et seq.) recognizes the right of adults to control decisions regarding the use of life-sustaining procedures in instances of a terminal condition or permanent unconscious condition [Health & Safety Code § 7185.5(a)]. The Natural Death Act was repealed by the Health Care Decisions Law, effective July 1, 2000 [see § 415.15[8]]. However, nothing in the Health Care Decisions Law affects the validity of an advance health care directive that was executed before July 1, 2000, and was valid under the Natural Death Act. [Prob. Code § 4665(d), (e)].

Pursuant to the Natural Death Act, adults may execute a declaration authorizing the withdrawal or withholding of life-sustaining treatment in a terminal situation [Health & Safety Code § 7186.5(a); see Health & Safety Code §§ 7186.5(b) (required form of declaration), 7193.5(a) (instrument executed before January 1, 1992, must "substantially" comply with Health & Safety Code § 7186.5(a))].

In the absence of knowledge to the contrary, a physician or other health care provider may presume that a declaration complies with the Natural Death Act and is valid [Health & Safety Code § 7192]. No physician or health care provider who acts in accordance with a properly executed directive and withdraws life-sustaining procedures is subject to civil or criminal liability for so doing [see Health & Safety Code § 7190.5].

A physician or other health care provider who is unwilling to comply with the terms of a patient's declaration under the Natural Death Act must take all reasonable steps as promptly as practicable to transfer care of the patient to another physician or health care provider who is willing to comply with the terms of the declaration [Health & Safety Code § 7190; see also Health & Safety Code § 7191(a) (willful failure to transfer patient as required by Health & Safety Code § 7190 is misdemeanor)].

The provisions of the Natural Death Act do not provide immunity for any affirmative act or omission to end life other than the allowance of the natural process of dying as provided in the Act [see Health & Safety Code § 7191.5(g); see also Health & Safety Code § 7191 (specified misconduct concerning preparation and execution of declaration as basis for criminal prosecution)]. It is not clear, however, that any civil or criminal liability will attach even in the absence of a properly executed directive, because the Natural Death Act does not represent the exclusive basis for terminating life support equipment in California [see Barber v. Superior Court (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 1006, 1016-1022, 195 Cal. Rptr. 484 (physician who removed respirator, and subsequently withdrew intravenous tubes providing hydration and nourishment, from comatose patient after family's request held not subject to prosecution for murder)].

[8] Health Care Decisions Law

The Health Care Decisions Law (Probate Code § 4600 et seq.), effective July 1, 2000, was enacted to replace the Natural Death Act (former Health & Safety Code § 7185 et seq.) [see § 415.15[7]] and provisions regarding durable powers of attorney for health care under the Power of Attorney Law. This law recognizes the right of adults to control decisions regarding the use of life-sustaining procedures [Probate Code § 4650(a)]. Pursuant to the Uniform Health Care Decisions Act (Probate Code § 4670 et seq.), adults having capacity may give an individual health care instruction, oral or written [Probate Code § 4670]. A written advance health care directive may also include individual health care instructions [Probate Code §§ 4670, 4672]. A written advance health care directive must include a date of execution, a signature, and an acknowledgement by a notary public or two witnesses [Probate Code § 4673(a)]. A directive or power of attorney may be created electronically, but to be effective it must be acknowledged by a notary public and otherwise meet the requirements for a written directive, and if it contains a digital signature, that signature must meet certain statutory specifications [Prob. Code § 4673(b)].

As an alternative to creating a power of attorney, a patient may designate an adult as a surrogate to make health care decisions by personally informing the supervising health care provider [Probate Code § 4711]. The designation of a surrogate must be promptly recorded in the patient's health care record and is effective only during the course of treatment or illness or during the stay in the health care institution during which the designation is made, or for 50 days, whichever period is shorter [Probate Code § 4711].

A physician or health care provider who withdraws life-sustaining procedures in accordance with such an individual health care instruction is not subject to civil or criminal liability for doing so [see Probate Code §§ 4656, 4740].

A health care provider or health care institution that declines to comply with an individual health care instruction or health care decision must promptly so inform the patient, if possible, and any person then authorized to make health care decisions for the patient. Unless the patient or the person then authorized to make health care decisions for the patient refuses assistance, the health care provider or health care institution must immediately make all reasonable efforts to assist in the transfer of the patient to another health care provider or institution that is willing to comply with the instruction or decision [Probate Code § 4736(b)].

Nothing in the Health Care Decisions Law affects the validity of an advance health care directive that was executed before July 1, 2000, and was valid under prior law. Also, nothing in the Health Care Decisions Law affects the validity of any durable power of attorney for health care executed on a printed form that was valid under the prior law, regardless of whether the execution occurred before, on, or after July 1, 2000 [Prob. Code § 4665(d), (e)].

[9] Administration of Immunizing Agents

Any licensed health professional voluntarily participating in the National Influenza Program of 1976 is shielded from civil liability for negligence in the administration of the vaccine. This immunity extends to injuries caused by any residual effects of the vaccine [Gov. Code § 856.6].

Similarly, Health & Safety Code § 120455 provides that no person may be held liable for any injury caused by ordinary negligence in the administration of a vaccine or other immunizing agent to a minor, including injuries from residual effects, if the immunization is either required by state law or given as part of an outreach program pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 3395 et seq., and the act or omission do es not constitute willful misconduct or gross negligence. Thus, a court of appeal has held that a physician who administered a DPT vaccine to an infant could only be held liable for gross negligence or willful misconduct under former Health & Safety Code § 429.36 (now Health & Safety Code § 120455) [Salasguevara v. Frye (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 330, 341-342, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 40] . The court of appeal concluded that the statutes governing childhood vaccinations clearly evidenced a legislative intent that all pre-school children receive immunizations and that such was sufficient to meet the criteria that the immunization be "required by law" [Salasguevara v. Frye (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 330, 341-342, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 40] .

[10] Emergency Situations

[a] Scene of Emergency

No licensed health care provider who in good faith renders emergency care at the scene of an emergency shall be civilly liable as a result of any negligent acts or omissions in rendering such care [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2395].

"The scene of an emergency" as used in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2395 includes but is not limited to the emergency rooms of hospitals in the event of a medical disaster [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2395].

"Medical disaster" as used in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2395 means a duly proclaimed state of emergency or local emergency declared pursuant to the California Emergency Services Act (Gov. Code §§ 8550-8668) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2395].

For purposes of emergency immunity, an "emergency" is an exigency of so pressing a character that some kind of action must be taken [Bryant v. Bakshandeh (1991) 226 Cal. App. 3d 1241, 1247, 277 Cal. Rptr. 379 ; Kearns v. Superior Court (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 1325, 1328, 252 Cal. Rptr. 4] . The test for determining the existence of an emergency is an objective one of whether the facts establish the existence of an emergency under this definition [Breazeal v. Henry Mayo Newhall Mem'l Hosp. (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1329, 1341, 286 Cal. Rptr. 207] . In determining whether a patient's condition constitutes an emergency, the trier of fact must consider the gravity, the certainty, and the immediacy of the consequences to be expected if no action is taken. Beyond observing that these are the relevant considerations, however, the variety of situations that would qualify as emergencies under any reasonable set of criteria is too great to admit of anything approaching a bright line rule as to just how grave, how certain, and how immediate these consequences have to be [Breazeal v. Henry Mayo Newhall Mem'l Hosp. (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1329, 1338, 286 Cal. Rptr. 207] .

Bus. & Prof. Code § 2395, by its terms, immunizes from liability only emergency care that has been rendered "in good faith." In some cases, the treating physician's "good faith" must be resolved before it can be determined whether the immunity applies. In such cases, the trier of fact must determine whether the physician asserting the immunity had a reasonable, good faith belief that he or she was responding to an emergency situation when he or she performed the requested procedures, or whether, under the circumstances, a physician acting in good faith would have reasonably concluded his or her immediate assistance was not required because no emergency existed [Bryant v. Bakshandeh (1991) 226 Cal. App. 3d 1241, 1247, 277 Cal. Rptr. 379 (reversing summary judgment because issue of good faith was material and unresolved)]. However, the good faith belief that an emergency existed extends only to the subjective belief of the physician while actually providing treatment to the patient. The physician is not required to prove that prior to arriving at the scene, the physician held a good faith belief that he or she was responding to an emergency [Reynoso v. Newman (2005) 126 Cal. App. 4th 494, 500, 24 Cal. Rptr. 3d 5] .

Bus. & Prof. Code § 2395 does not preclude the application of immunity in general hospital emergency situations occurring outside the emergency room, but, in such situations, immunity is limited to voluntary physicians who owe no legal duty to aid the patient [McKenna v. Cedars of Lebanon Hosp. (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 282, 286, 155 Cal. Rptr. 631 ; Colby v. Schwartz (1978) 78 Cal. App. 3d 885, 892, 144 Cal. Rptr. 624] . Thus, on the one hand, immunity applies to a physician if the physician did not have a preexisting duty of professional care to the patient [Perkins v. Howard (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 708, 714-715, 283 Cal. Rptr. 764 (construing Bus. & Prof. Code § 2396)]. Immunity does not require that the injured party be a complete stranger to the assisting physician; all it requires is that there be no current patient-physician relationship [Perkins v. Howard (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 708, 718, 283 Cal. Rptr. 764] . On the other hand, immunity does not apply to physicians who render emergency aid as part of their normal course of practice [Breazeal v. Henry Mayo Newhall Mem'l Hosp. (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1329, 1333 n.3, 286 Cal. Rptr. 207 (construing Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2395 and 2396)]. The statutory immunity also applies to a physician who happens to be in the hospital and available to provide intraoperative assistance if unexpected complications arise during surgery being performed by another physician [Kearns v. Superior Court (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 1325, 1329, 252 Cal. Rptr. 4] .

Immunity under Bus. & Prof. Code § 2395 does not apply to a physician who is the owner of a medical facility and who renders emergency aid to a scheduled patient at that facility. Such a physician has a preexisting professional, ethical, and pecuniary interest in the patient's care, even if the physician is not directly responsible for the patient's treatment; the physician in such a situation is not a volunteer for purposes of the Good Samaritan statutes [Street v. Superior Court (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1397, 1403, 274 Cal. Rptr. 595] .

[b] Rescue Teams

Immunity against liability arising from the acts or omissions of rescue teams making a good faith effort to resuscitate a person in immediate danger of death is provided by two separate statutes. Veh. Code § 165.5 provides such immunity when rescue teams operate in conjunction with an emergency vehicle [see Veh. Code § 165 for definition of emergency vehicle], shielding the operators of the vehicle and the rescue team itself. Health & Safety Code § 1317 applies to rescue teams operating in health care facilities, and protects the team and the health care facility and its officers, nurses, employees, and staff members. "Rescue team" as used in both Health & Safety Code § 1317 and Veh. Code § 165.5 means a special group of physicians and surgeons, nurses and employees who have been trained in cardiopulmonary resuscitation and have been designated to attempt resuscitation of persons in immediate danger of loss of life in emergency situations [see Health & Safety Code § 1317; Veh. Code § 165.5]. Under Veh. Code § 165.5, volunteers are also included in the definition.

[c] Athletic Events or Contests

No licensed health care provider who in good faith and without compensation provides voluntary emergency medical assistance to a participant in a community college or high school athletic event or contest, at the site of the event or contest, or during transportation to a health care facility, for an injury suffered in the course of such event or contest, shall be civilly liable for any ordinarily negligent acts or omissions in rendering the services [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2398].

[d] Emergency Care for Complications on Request of Another Licensee

A licensed health care provider is not civilly liable for negligence in the good faith rendering of emergency medical care at the request of another licensee for medical complications arising from prior care by another licensee [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2396]. Immunity under Bus. & Prof. Code § 2396 does not apply to a physician who is the owner of a medical facility and who renders emergency aid to a scheduled patient at that facility [Street v. Superior Court (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1397, 1403, 274 Cal. Rptr. 595] .

For general discussion of emergency care immunity, see § 415.[10][a].

[e] Refusal to Render Emergency Treatment

Emergency care must be provided to any person requesting such care for any condition in which the person is in danger of loss of life or serious injury or illness, at any health care facility licensed under Health & Safety Code § 1250 et seq. that maintains an emergency department for treatment of the public, when such health facility has appropriate facilities and qualified personnel available to provide the emergency treatment [Health & Safety Code § 1317(a)].

However, no health facility, its employees, nor any physician and surgeon, dentist, clinical psychologist, or podiatrist will be held liable in any action arising out of a refusal to render those emergency services if the refusal is based on the determination, exercising reasonable care, that the person seeking the services is not suffering from an emergency medical condition or that the health facility does not have the appropriate facilities or qualified personnel available to render the services [Health & Safety Code § 1317(c)].

In no event can the provision of emergency services and care be based on, or affected by, a patient's ethnicity, citizenship, age, preexisting medical condition, insurance status, economic status, or ability to pay for medical services, or any other characteristic listed or defined in Civ. Code § 51(b) or (e), except to the extent that a circumstance such as age, sex, preexisting medical condition, or physical or mental disability is medically significant to the provision of appropriate medical care to the patient [Health & Safety Code § 1317(b); see also Health & Safety Code § 1317.3(c) (licensed hospital must require that its "on call" physicians cannot refuse emergency calls on discriminatory basis)].

[11] Compliance With Competent Adult Patient's Refusal of Medical Treatment

An adult person of sound mind has the right, in the exercise of control over his or her own body, to determine whether or not to submit to lawful medical treatment [Bouvia v. Superior Court (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 1127, 1137, 225 Cal. Rptr. 297 ; Bartling v. Superior Court (1984) 163 Cal. App. 3d 186, 193-195, 209 Cal. Rptr. 220] . The right to control one's own medical treatment predates the Natural Death Act [Health & Safety Code § 7185 et seq., repealed and replaced, effective July 1, 2000, by the Health Care Decisions Law (Probate Code § 4600 et seq.)], and does not depend on it [Bartling v. Superior Court (1984) 163 Cal. App. 3d 186, 195, 209 Cal. Rptr. 220] . Rather, the right to refuse medical treatment is basic and fundamental and recognized as a part of the right of privacy protected by both the state (Cal. Const. art. I, § 1) and federal constitutions [Bouvia v. Superior Court (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 1127, 1137, 225 Cal. Rptr. 297 ; see Donaldson v. Lungren (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 1614, 1619-1620, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 59] . This right also derives from the legal doctrine of informed consent to medical treatment, a logical corollary of which is that a patient possesses the right not to consent and to refuse treatment [see Donaldson v. Lungren (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 1614, 1620, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 59 ; see also § 415.13]]. Consequently, neither criminal nor civil liability will attach to treating physicians and hospitals that honor a competent, informed patient's refusal of medical service in whole or in part [see Bouvia v. Superior Court (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 1127, 1145, 225 Cal. Rptr. 297 ; Bartling v. Superior Court (1984) 163 Cal. App. 3d 186, 197, 209 Cal. Rptr. 220] . Indeed, a hospital or physician may be subject to civil liability for failure to comply with a competent adult patient's instruction to terminate life-sustaining treatment [see Bartling v. Glendale Adventist Med. Ctr. (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 961, 966-967, 229 Cal. Rptr. 360 (action dismissed because hospital's legal right to follow patient's instruction was not clear at time of patient's hospitalization)].

A patient may refuse treatment even though withholding of treatment creates a life-threatening situation. Moreover, the right to refuse treatment or life-sustaining measures is not limited to those who are terminally ill [see Donaldson v. Lungren (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 1614, 1620, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 59] . However, an individual has no constitutional, statutory, or common law right to a death assisted by private individuals or the state [Donaldson v. Lungren (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 1614, 1622-1623, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 59 (affirming dismissal of action for declaratory and injunctive relief relating to dying plaintiff's desire for premortem cryogenic suspension that would render him, in statutory effect, dead)].

[12] Immunity for Reporting Child Abuse

No health practitioner who reports a known or suspected instance of child abuse will be civilly or criminally liable for any report required or authorized by the Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act (Penal Code § 11164 et seq.) [Penal Code § 11172(a)]. This immunity applies even if the practitioner acquired the knowledge or reasonable suspicion of child abuse or neglect outside of his or her professional capacity or outside the scope of employment [Penal Code § 11172(a)]. Thus, medical practitioners enjoy absolute immunity from civil liability for reporting suspected child abuse or neglect [Storch v. Silverman (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 671, 675-679, 231 Cal. Rptr. 27] . The fact that a particular report was "authorized," rather than "required," by the Child Abuse and Neglect Act does not diminish the immunity conferred by Penal Code § 11172(a) [Ferraro v. Chadwick (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 86, 95, 270 Cal. Rptr. 379] .

Immunity under Penal Code § 11172(a) extends even to situations in which the medical practitioner maliciously and knowingly submits a false report of child abuse or neglect with the intent to vex, annoy, and harass an innocent party [Storch v. Silverman (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 671, 681, 231 Cal. Rptr. 27] . The immunity also protects hospitals from suit under a respondeat superior theory when employee physicians report child abuse [Storch v. Silverman (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 671, 681-682, 231 Cal. Rptr. 27] .

The immunity for reporting child abuse or neglect extends to conduct giving rise to the obligation to report, such as the collection of data, or the observation, examination, or treatment of the suspected victim or perpetrator of child abuse, performed in a professional capacity or within the scope of employment, as well as for the act of reporting [Krikorian v. Barry (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1211, 1223, 242 Cal. Rptr. 312] . In addition, the immunity extends to activity after the report of suspected child abuse is made, such as subsequent contact with child protective or law enforcement agencies that are statutorily entitled to receive and investigate reports of child abuse [Ferraro v. Chadwick (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 86, 92, 95, 270 Cal. Rptr. 379] .

[13] Indemnity Provided by Hospital to Nonemployees for Peer Review Activities

The board of directors of a local hospital district has the authority to agree to indemnify a nonemployee member of the medical staff for damages and costs associated with being named a defendant in a civil action directly arising out of opinions rendered, statements made, or actions taken as a necessary part of participation in the medical peer review activities of the hospital district [Health & Safety Code § 32128(b)]. However, this indemnification cannot generally extend to indemnification for punitive or exemplary damages. In addition, if the nonemployee incurs liability for punitive or exemplary damages, the nonemployee is liable to the hospital for any costs incurred in providing legal representation to the nonemployee [Health & Safety Code § 32128(b)].

Despite this provision generally precluding indemnification for punitive damages, a hospital district may agree to pay a judgment for punitive or exemplary damages if the board of directors, in its discretion, determines that: (1) the judgment is based on opinions rendered, statements made, or actions taken as a necessary part of participation in the medical peer review activities of the district; (2) when the nonemployee staff member rendered the opinions, made the statements, or took the actions giving rise to the liability, the nonemployee staff member was acting in good faith, without actual malice, and in the apparent best interests of the district; and (3) payment of the claim or judgment against the nonemployee staff member would be in the best interests of the hospital district [Health & Safety Code § 32128(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesEmergency Care NegligenceGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesFacility LiabilityGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawGood Samaritan LawsHealthcare LawInsurancePreexisting ConditionsHealthcare LawTreatmentEnd-of-Life DecisionsGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentEnd-of-Life DecisionsAdvance DirectivesHealthcare LawTreatmentEnd-of-Life DecisionsLife SupportHealthcare LawTreatmentEnd-of-Life DecisionsLifesaving TreatmentHealthcare LawTreatmentPatient ConsentGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentPatient ConsentInformed ConsentHealthcare LawTreatmentPatient ConsentRight to Refuse TreatmentTortsNegligenceProofCustomMedical Customs

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Liability

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.16

§ 415.16 Comparative Negligence

Under the doctrine of comparative negligence, a plaintiff's failure to follow the reasonable advice and instructions of the physician regarding the patient's condition may result in a reduction of the damages award in a negligence action against the physician to the extent that the failure contributed to the plaintiff's injuries [see LeMons v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 869, 874 n.5, 875, 148 Cal. Rptr. 355, 582 P.2d 946 ; Li v. Yellow Cab Co. (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 804, 828-829, 119 Cal. Rptr. 858, 532 P.2d 1226 (establishing the comparative negligence doctrine)]. Expert testimony is required regarding the proximate effect of a plaintiff's actions on the aggravation of a medical condition except when plaintiff's negligence is obvious as a matter of common sense [Barton v. Owen (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 484, 506, 139 Cal. Rptr. 494] .

For further discussion of comparative negligence, see Ch. 380, Negligence . For a form of answer alleging the affirmative defense of the plaintiff's comparative negligence, see § 415.102.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersDoctors & PhysiciansTortsNegligenceDefensesComparative NegligenceGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceProofGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Liability

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.17

§ 415.17 Wrongful Life/Wrongful Birth Actions

Wrongful life actions, which are brought by a child, and wrongful birth actions, brought by the parents, are based on identical allegations of damages incurred as the result of a defendant's negligent or intentional conduct that causes the birth of an unwanted or damaged child. Nationally, the law governing such actions is unsettled. In California, courts have cautiously allowed both types of actions but have restricted the recovery in wrongful life cases to special medical damages that are readily ascertainable and clearly traceable to a defendant's negligence [see Turpin v. Sortini (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 220, 237, 182 Cal. Rptr. 337, 643 P.2d 954 ; Johnson v. Superior Court (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 869, 889, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 650 (neither general damages nor damages for lost earnings recoverable in action against sperm bank and screening physicians); see also Gami v. Mullikin Medical Center (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 870, 881-883 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 819 (recovery of special damages in wrongful life action permitted regardless of whether negli gence occurred before or after conception)].

In actions for wrongful birth, however, lower courts have allowed parents of both healthy and damaged children to recover the usual damages allowable under established tort principles on a proper finding of medical malpractice [Stills v. Gratton (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 698, 709, 127 Cal. Rptr. 652 ; Custodio v. Bauer (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 303, 325, 59 Cal. Rptr. 463] . Under the same tort principles, defendants may prove any offsets for benefits conferred and amounts chargeable to plaintiffs under the duty to mitigate damages [Stills v. Gratton (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 698, 709, 127 Cal. Rptr. 652] .

Wrongful life cases should be distinguished from actions in which damages are sought for injuries to the mother resulting from a physician's malpractice in performing contraceptive procedures, abortions, prenatal care, or delivery [see, e.g., Seneris v. Haas (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 811, 291 P.2d 915 ; Tresemer v. Barke (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 656, 150 Cal. Rptr. 384 ; Kritzer v. Citron (1950) 101 Cal. App. 2d 33, 224 P.2d 808] .

Wrongful life and wrongful birth cases are also distinguishable from actions brought by a child for prenatal or birth-related injuries [see, e.g., Segura v. Brundage (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 19, 153 Cal. Rptr. 777] .

For a form of complaint for a wrongful life action based on defendant's failure to inform of a substantial risk that the child would be born with genetic defects, see Ch. 367A, Minors: Tort Actions .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawFamily Relationships & TortsWrongful LifeHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersDoctors & PhysiciansHealthcare LawTreatmentWrongful BirthTortsNegligenceActionsWrongful BirthGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceActionsWrongful BirthRemedies

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Liability

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.18

§ 415.18 Strict Liability Inapplicable to Medical Malpractice

The rule that strict liability does not apply to transactions in which the primary purpose is the provision of services applies to cases based on the negligent rendering of medical services as well. There is no strict liability for damages if the patient's injuries result from ingestion of a medication prescribed by the physician, as long as the drug was prescribed in connection with the medical services rendered and not for the purpose of sale alone [Carmichael v. Reitz (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 958, 978-979, 95 Cal. Rptr. 381] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityHealthcare ProvidersTortsStrict LiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Liability

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.19

§ 415.19 Conversion

A patient generally does not have an ownership interest in biological materials excised from his or her body by a physician, and an action for conversion based on the appropriation of such materials for use in research without the patient's prior consent will not lie [Moore v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 120, 136-137, 271 Cal. Rptr. 146, 793 P.2d 479] . Use of organic materials without informed consent, however, may be actionable in tort on a "lack of informed consent" or "breach of fiduciary duty" theory. For further discussion, see § 415.13[6].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawTreatmentPatient ConsentGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentPatient ConsentInformed ConsentTortsIntentional TortsConversionDefenses

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Liability

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.20

§ 415.20 Battery

A physician's performance of treatment to which the patient has not consented constitutes a battery. The consent required under this rule must be a properly informed consent to the treatment that is performed [Nelson v. Gaunt (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 623, 634-635, 178 Cal. Rptr. 167] . For an analysis of informed consent, see § 415.13.

The basis of a medical malpractice action based on battery is the physician's intentional deviation from the consent of the patient. This intent is demonstrated when the physician obtains consent to one type of treatment and subsequently performs a substantially different treatment for which consent was not obtained [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 239, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1 ; Ashcraft v. King (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 604, 613, 278 Cal. Rptr. 900] . A physician's withholding of material information or misrepresentation regarding a proposed treatment will also support a battery action if the patient is thereby prevented from comprehending the full scope of the treatment actually performed [Nelson v. Gaunt (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 623, 635, 178 Cal. Rptr. 167] . The availability of a battery action based on withholding of information, however, depends on the extent of the nondisclosure. The failure to disclose a remote risk inherent to the treatment to which the patient consented and which was actually performed does not demonstrate the requisite intentional deviation from consent, and the action should be brought for negligence rather than battery [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 240-241, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] .

Because performing a medical procedure without informed consent is not the same thing as performing that procedure with no consent at all, and the latter forms the basis for an action for battery, a party seeking to hold a physician liable for battery must obtain a specific jury finding that no consent was given if a special verdict form is used at trial. A finding that no informed consent was given is insufficient, as such a finding does not preclude the conclusion that uninformed consent was given [Saxena v. Goffney (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 316, 326-327, 71 Cal. Rptr. 3d 469].

Failure to obtain express consent to each particular act which may be included in a treatment does not constitute battery if the acts performed are customary aspects of the treatment or operation. Thus consent to an operation is deemed to include consent to the removal of an organ or body tissue which is a normal incident to the procedure [Rainer v. Community Mem'l Hosp. (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 240, 256, 95 Cal. Rptr. 901] .

Actions that are within the scope of a patient's consent, even if the patient expected the physician to do more, cannot be the basis of a battery action. The patient's sole remedy under those circumstances is to attempt to prove medical negligence [Conte v. Girard Orthopaedic Med. Group, Inc. (2003) 107 Cal. App. 4th 1260, 1268-1269, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 855] . In one case, for example, a physician performing shoulder surgery on the plaintiff decided during the surgery not to insert a biodegradable screw needed to properly correct the condition, fearing that the screw would cause the damaged bone fragments to fall apart. The plaintiff claimed that because surgery to repair the condition had to be performed within a few weeks if it was going to be performed at all, he consented only to shoulder surgery that would repair his shoulder condition, not to surgery that turned out to be diagnostic without repair. However, the court of appeals concluded that because the doctor did less, rather than more, than that to which the plaintiff had consented, the plaintiff had no action for battery [Conte v. Girard Orthopaedic Med. Group, Inc. (2003) 107 Cal. App. 4th 1260, 1268, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 855] .

Although a patient or his or her representative may give consent to a general course of treatment, it is possible for that consent to be made conditional, but a physician is not personally liable for battery for failing to abide by the condition unless the physician knows of the condition [Piedra v. Dugan (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 1483, 1498, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 36] . In one case, for example, the parents of an infant signed a hospital admission form that included general consent to treatment for their child, but the child's mother specified that no drugs were to be administered without her knowledge and consent. However, a physician who administered drugs to the child without obtaining further consent from the child's parents was not liable for battery, because neither the parents nor the hospital staff had informed the physician of the condition the parents had placed on their consent to the child's treatment. Because battery is an intentional tort, the physician could not have the requisite intent without knowledge of the condition [Piedra v. Dugan (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 1483, 1498, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 36] .

To be liable for performing a medical procedure while failing to abide by a known condition imposed by the patient, the doctor must have intended to perform the procedure without abiding by the condition. Negligent failure to abide by the condition is an insufficient basis for liability for battery [Dennis v. Southard (2009) 174 Cal. App. 4th 540, 544, 94 Cal. Rptr. 3d 559 (approving intent requirement imposed in CACI No. 530B)].

When it is impracticable to obtain consent during an emergency in which immediate action is necessary to prevent death or serious harm to the patient, the physician may perform unauthorized treatment or extend the scope of surgery without incurring liability for battery [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2395-2397; Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 243, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1 ; Wheeler v. Barker (1949) 92 Cal. App. 2d 776, 781,208 P.2d 68] . For further analysis of a physician's immunity from liability in emergency situations, see § 415.15.

For forms relating to medical battery, see §§ 415.92 and 415.98.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawParental Duties & RightsConsentGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentPatient ConsentGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentPatient ConsentConsent by Guardians & ParentsHealthcare LawTreatmentPatient ConsentInformed ConsentTortsIntentional TortsAssault & BatteryGeneral OverviewTortsIntentional TortsAssault & BatteryElements of BatteryTortsIntentional TortsDefensesConsentTortsIntentional TortsDefensesIntent

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Liability

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.21

§ 415.21 Psychotherapist's Liability for Patient's Violent Acts

In some situations, a psychotherapist may have duties to third persons relating to a patient's violent acts [see Civ. Code § 43.92; Barry v. Turek (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 1241, 1244-1246, 267 Cal. Rptr. 553 ; see also Tarasoff v. Regents of University of Cal. (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 425, 431 (decided prior to enactment of Civ. Code § 43.92)]. For a discussion and form based on this duty, see Ch. 304, Insane and Incompetent Persons .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Liability

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.22

§ 415.22 Sexual Contact by Psychotherapist

[1] Professional Negligence

In a case in which a physician initiated a sexual relationship with his patient during the time he was treating her for a physical disorder, the court held that because the physician did not initiate the relationship under the guise of treatment of the patient there was no cause of action for professional negligence [Atienza v. Taub (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 388, 393-394, 239 Cal. Rptr. 454] . In dicta, the court appeared to be saying that such a showing would be necessary for a psychiatrist to be liable for medical negligence as well [Atienza v. Taub (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 388, 393 n. 2, 239 Cal. Rptr. 454] . The same court subsequently reaffirmed this rule in a sexual misconduct action against a psychiatrist but held that this requirement could be satisfied without an express representation that the sexual activity was part of the patient's treatment [McNall v. Summers (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1300, 1313, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 914] . Thus, the McNall court concluded that a patient presented a viable claim when she was alleged that a psychiatrist initiated sexual contact in response to the patient's statement that she was sad and needed someone to care for her, and the patient's expert witness testified that the psychiatrist had mishandled the so-called "transference phenomenon" by taking advantage of a vulnerable patient whose feelings for other people had been displaced onto him [McNall v. Summers (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1300, 1313, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 914] . As discussed in § 415.22[2], however, such a showing is not necessary to state a cause of action against a psychotherapist under Civ. Code § 43.93 for injury caused by sexual contact [see Civ. Code § 43.93(b) (providing that therapeutic deception is only one of three possible bases for liability)].

The spouse of a patient who allegedly was the victim of sexual misconduct on the part of a psychotherapist was barred from maintaining an action against the psychotherapist in Smith v. Pust (1993) 19 Cal. App.4th 263, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 364 . The Smith court held that the patient's husband failed to state viable claims for negligence, bad faith, or intentional or negligent infliction of emotional distress. The court reasoned that the suit was, in essence, a claim for alienation of affections and criminal conversation, causes of action that were abolished long ago. The court held that a professional duty of care arises only if (1) there is a professional relationship between the plaintiff and the defendant; and (2) there is a meaningful connection between that relationship and the alleged misconduct. In this case, the court determined that the husband failed to meet either of these requirements. The court also analyzed the case under principles applicable to claims for negligent infliction of emotional distress and concluded that the husband had no cause of action because he was neither a "bystander" to the alleged improper conduct nor a direct victim of that conduct. Finally, the Smith court rejected the claim for intentional infliction of emotional distress on the basis that the therapist's actions were not directed toward the patient's husband [Smith v. Pust (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 263, 272-274, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 364] .

[2] Statutory Liability

[a] Basis of Action

A patient or former patient has a cause of action against a psychotherapist for sexual contact under Civ. Code § 43.93 for injury caused by sexual contact with the psychotherapist if the contact occurred [Civ. Code § 43.93(b)]:

- During the period the patient was receiving psychotherapy from the psychotherapist,
- Within two years following termination of therapy, or
- By means of therapeutic deception.

The patient may recover damages from a psychotherapist who is found liable for sexual contact [Civ. Code § 43.93(c)].

For the purposes of Civ. Code § 43.93, a therapeutic relationship exists during the time the patient or client is rendered professional service by the therapist [Civ. Code § 43.93(a)(4)], and "therapeutic deception" means a representation by a psychotherapist that sexual contact with the psychotherapist is consistent with or part of the patient's or former patient's treatment [Civ. Code § 43.93(a)(5)]. Because the statute provides for a cause of action for sexual contact, even without therapeutic deception, if the contact occurred during the period the patient was receiving psychotherapy or within two years following termination of therapy [see Civ. Code § 43.93(b)(1), (2)], it appears that therapeutic deception as an independent ground would only be necessary if the sexual contact occurred more than two years following termination of therapy.

It is not a defense to the action that sexual contact with a patient occurred outside a therapy or treatment session or that it occurred off the premises regularly used by the psychotherapist for therapy or treatment sessions [Civ. Code § 43.93(c)].

No cause of action under Civ. Code § 43.93 exists between spouses within a marriage [Civ. Code § 43.93(c)].

[b] Sexual Contact Defined

For the purposes of Civ. Code § 43.93, sexual contact means the touching of an intimate part of another person. "Intimate part" and "touching" have the same meanings as defined in Penal Code § 243.4. Penal Code § 243.4(f) defines "intimate part" to mean the sexual organ, anus, groin, or buttocks of any person, and the breast of a female.

It is not entirely clear what constitutes a touching for purposes of Civ. Code § 43.93 because there are two definitions of "touches" in Penal Code § 243.4 [see Penal Code § 243.4(d)(2), (e)]. The narrower of these two definitions would seem certain to be applied under Civ. Code § 43.93. Under this definition, applicable in cases of felony sexual battery, "touches" means physical contact with the skin of another person, whether accomplished directly or through the clothing of the person committing the offense [Penal Code § 243.4(e)]. Penal Code § 243.4 also contains a broader definition of "touches," applicable in specified sexual battery cases. This definition of "touches" includes physical contact with another person, whether accomplished directly, through the clothing of the person committing the offense, or through the victim's clothing [Penal Code § 243.4(d)(2)]. This broader definition did not exist in 1987, when Civ. Code § 43.93 was enacted, so it is somewhat doubtful that a court would apply it for purposes of Civ. Code § 43.93. Sexual contact under Civ. Code § 43.93 includes sexual intercourse, sodomy, and oral copulation [Civ. Code §

43.93(a)(3)].

[c] Definitions of Psychotherapy and Psychotherapist

For the purposes of Civ. Code § 43.93, "psychotherapy" means the professional treatment, assessment, or counseling of a mental or emotional illness, symptom, or condition [Civ. Code § 43.93(a)(1)]. "Psychotherapist" means a physician and surgeon specializing in the practice of psychiatry, a psychologist, a psychological assistant, a marriage and family therapist, a registered marriage and family therapist intern or trainee, an educational psychologist, an associate clinical social worker, or a licensed clinical social worker [Civ. Code § 43.93(a)(2)].

[d] Limitations on Discovery and Admission of Evidence

In an action for sexual contact, evidence of the plantiff's sexual history is not subject to discovery and is not admissible as evidence except if either (1) the plaintiff claims damage to sexual functioning; or (2) the defendant requests a hearing prior to conducting discovery and makes an offer of proof of the relevancy of the history, and the court finds that the history is relevant and the probative value of the history outweighs its prejudicial effect [Civ. Code § 43.93(d)]. Evid. Code § 1106, prohibiting use of sexual history evidence in sexual harassment, assault, and battery cases, is inapplicable in a case arising under Civ. Code § 43.93 [see Patricia C. v. Mark D. (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 1211, 1216-1218, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 71 (dictum)].

The court shall allow the discovery or introduction as evidence only of specific information or examples of the plaintiff's conduct that are determined by the court to be relevant. The court's order shall detail the information or conduct that is subject to discovery [Civ. Code § 43.93(d)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersDoctors & PhysiciansTortsIntentional TortsIntentional Infliction of Emotional DistressGeneral OverviewTortsIntentional TortsInterference With Personal RelationshipsGeneral OverviewTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityHealthcare ProvidersTortsNegligenceActionsGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceActionsNegligent Infliction of Emotional DistressGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Liability

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.23

§ 415.23 Contract Actions

Recovery for a physician's malpractice may be allowed on a theory of breach of warranty or contract as well as negligence or battery. In order to recover in a contract action, the plaintiff must prove both the existence of an express contract in which the physician clearly promises a particular result or cure and the patient's reliance on the promise in giving consent to treatment [Jamison v. Lindsay (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 223, 234, 166 Cal. Rptr. 443] . A physician's general statement that treatment will bring a good result does not give rise to a breach of contract/warranty action if the opposite occurs [see McKinney v. Nash (1981) 120 Cal. App. 3d 428, 442, 174 Cal. Rptr. 642] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawBreachCauses of ActionBreach of WarrantyContracts LawTypes of ContractsGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersDoctors & PhysiciansTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityHealthcare Providers

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Liability

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 415.24-415.39

[Reserved]

§§ 415.24[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Procedure

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.40

§ 415.40 Notice of Intent to Commence Action

No action based on a health care provider's professional negligence may be commenced unless the defendant has been given at least 90 days prior notice of the intention to commence the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 364(a)]. A plaintiff is expected to take adequate steps which would be likely to result in actual notice to the defendant. Checking a defendant's address in public records available from the Medical Board of California, current written communications from a physician to a patient bearing a letterhead showing an address, a patient's firsthand knowledge based on visits to the physician's office, current listings and advertisements in professional and telephone directories, and available on-line legal and medical research providers, are all generally reliable sources for determining where Code Civ. Proc. § 364(a) notice may be directed [Derderian v. Dietrick (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 892, 900, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 800] . For a form of notice, see § 415.90.

For definitions of health care provider and professional negligence, see § 415.10.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Procedure

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.41

§ 415.41 Settlement Prior to Service of Complaint

Whenever, prior to the service of a complaint on a defendant in a medical malpractice action, a demand for settlement or offer to compromise is made on a patient's behalf, the demand or offer must be accompanied by an authorization to disclose medical information to persons or organizations insuring, responsible for, or defending professional liability that the medical practitioner may incur. The authorization must be in accordance with Civ. Code § 56.11 and must authorize disclosure of that information necessary to investigate issues of liability and extent of potential damages in evaluating the merits of the demand for settlement or offer to compromise. Notice of any request for medical information made pursuant to this authorization must be given to the patient or to his or her legal representative. The notice must describe the inclusive subject matter and the dates of the materials requested and shall authorize the patient or the patient's legal representative to receive, on request, copies of the information at his or her own expense. The required authorization does not waive or limit any applicable privileges set forth in the Evidence Code except for the disclosure of medical information subject to the patient's authorization, nor does it authorize a representative of any person from whom settlement has been demanded to communicate in violation of the physician-patient privilege with a treating physician except for the medical information request. These requirements are independent of the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 364 [Civ. Code 56.105]. For discussion of the requirements of Civ. Code § 56.11, see Ch. 429, Privacy . For discussion and forms relating to settlement in general, see Ch. 520, Settlement and Release .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureSettlementsGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersGeneral OverviewTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityHealthcare ProvidersTortsProcedureSettlementsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Procedure

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.42

§ 415.42 Actions by Minors: Preference in Setting Trial Date

A civil action to recover damages for wrongful death or personal injury is entitled to preference on the motion of any party to the action who is under the age of 14 years unless the court finds that the party does not have a substantial interest in the case as a whole [Code Civ. Proc. § 36(b)]. On the granting of a motion for preference under Code Civ. Proc. § 36(b), a party in an action based on a health care provider's alleged professional negligence, as defined in Code Civ. Proc. § 364, must receive a trial date not sooner than six months and not later than nine months from the date that the motion is granted [Code Civ. Proc. § 36(g)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawFamily Relationships & TortsWrongful Death & SurvivalChildrenHealthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Procedure

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 415.43

[Reserved]

§§ 415.43[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Procedure

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.44

§ 415.44 Security for Costs

Whenever a personal injury complaint is filed against a licensed health care provider in an action for either professional negligence or performance of professional services without consent, the defendant may move the court within six months after service of summons for an order requiring the plaintiff to furnish security for costs of defense. The security may take the form of a written undertaking with at least two sufficient sureties in a sum not to exceed $500, or a deposit of such sum or equivalent security approved by the court with the court clerk [Code Civ. Proc. § 1029.6].

When more than one defendant is named, the undertaking shall be increased up to $500 for each additional defendant in whose favor the undertaking is ordered, not to exceed a total of $1,000 [Code Civ. Proc. § 1029.6(c)].

The motion for security precludes a motion for summary judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 1029.6(e)]. Conversely, any party filing a motion for summary judgment is barred from moving for security for costs [Code Civ. Proc. § 1029.6(f)].

Code Civ. Proc. § 1029.6 does not apply to actions commenced in small claims court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1029.6(b)].

For a complete discussion of the procedural requirements and the hearing of the motion relating to security for costs, see Ch. 295, Hospitals . For forms relating to security for costs, see Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees .

For definitions of health care provider and professional negligence, see § 415.10.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Procedure

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.45

§ 415.45 Declaratory Relief

Code Civ. Proc. § 1062.5 provides for an action for a declaration of rights and duties under the Medical Injury Compensation Reform Act of 1975 (see § 415.10) by any insurer who issues liability policies for professional negligence to health care providers, by any health care provider covered by such a policy, or any potentially aggrieved person. Such actions are given precedence over all others except those in which the state is a party, whether in trial court or on appeal [Code Civ. Proc. § 1062.5]. The remedy provided is cumulative, and is not to be construed as restricting any remedy established for the benefit of any party to the action by any other provision of law, or as precluding any party from obtaining additional relief based on the same facts [Code Civ. Proc. § 1062.5].

For definitions of health care provider and professional negligence, see § 415.10.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesFacility LiabilityGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersGeneral OverviewInsurance LawClaims & ContractsDeclaratory ReliefGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Procedure

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.46

§ 415.46 Claims Arising Under Medicare Act

If a claim brought against a health care provider or health maintenance organization arises under the Federal Medicare Act [see 42 U.S.C.S. § 1395 et seq.], that claim must first go through a multilevel administrative review process in accordance with the regulations of the Secretary of Health and Human Services, after which judicial review may be pursued in federal district court [see 42 U.S.C.S. §§ 405(g), 1395ff(b); 42 C.F.R. § 405.701 et seq.; McCall v. PacifiCare of Cal., Inc. (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 412, 416-417, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 271, 21 P.3d 1189] . A claim "arises under" the Medicare Act if both the standing and substantive basis for the presentation of the claim is the Medicare Act or if the claim is "inextricable intertwined" with a claim for Medicare benefits [Heckler v. Ringer (1984) 466 U.S. 602, 615, 104 S. Ct. 2013, 80 L. Ed. 2d 622 ; McCall v. PacifiCare of Cal., Inc. (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 412, 417, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 271, 21 P.3d 1189] . However, a claim that is "wholly collateral" to a claim for benefits under the Act is not subject to the administrative process, and a claimant need not exhaust administrative remedies if the claimant makes a colorable showing that an erroneous denial of benefits would cause injury that could not be remedied by the later payment of benefits [Heckler v. Ringer (1984) 466 U.S. 602, 618, 104 S. Ct. 2013, 80 L. Ed. 2d 622 ; McCall v. PacifiCare of Cal., Inc. (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 412, 417-418, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 271, 21 P.3d 1189] .

Because the Medicare Act provides for reimbursement of covered claims for services that are reasonable and necessary to diagnose or treat illness or injury, a claim that, at bottom, seeks reimbursement or payment for medical services is "inextricably intertwined" with a Medicare claim and is subject to the Medicare administrative process [McCall v. PacifiCare of Cal., Inc. (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 412, 425, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 271, 21 P.3d 1189] . However, a Medicare provider may violate state common law or statutory duties owed to Medicare beneficiaries in a way that is unrelated to Medicare coverage determinations. A claim under state law that does not seek such reimbursement or payment under the Act, but only incidentally refers to a denial of benefits, is not preempted by the Medicare procedures [McCall v. PacifiCare of Cal., Inc. (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 412, 425, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 271, 21 P.3d 1189] .

For example, a health care provider may negligently fail to use ordinary care in treating a Medicare beneficiary, fail to advise the beneficiary properly about his or her condition or appropriate treatment options, whether or not those treatment options are covered by Medicare, or fail to provide appropriate referrals to a specialist. Thus, without regard to the issue of coverage under the Act, a beneficiary may be prevented from seeking appropriate treatment even at his or her own expense. Claims brought under state law for these negligent acts or omissions, none of which necessarily implicates a coverage determination or falls within the scope of the Medicare administrative review process, are not preempted [McCall v. PacifiCare of Cal., Inc. (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 412, 425-426, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 271, 21 P.3d 1189 , disapproving Redmond v. Secure Horizons, PacifiCare, Inc. (1997) 60 Cal. App. 4th 96, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 174 ; see also Zolezzi v. PacifiCare of Cal. (2003) 105 Cal. App. 4th 573, 585-587, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 526 (application of state arbitration disclosure statute to dispute between patient and health care plan regarding plan's failure to authorize surgery was not preempted)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawManaged HealthcareHealth Maintenance OrganizationsPublic Health & Welfare LawSocial SecurityMedicareGeneral OverviewPublic Health & Welfare LawSocial SecurityMedicareProvidersReimbursementGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Procedure

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.47

§ 415.47 Statute of Limitations

[1] Professional Negligence

An action against a health care provider for professional negligence must be commenced within three years after the date of injury, or one year after the plaintiff discovers, or through the use of reasonable diligence should discover, the injury, whichever occurs first [Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5; Steingart v. Oliver (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 406, 412, 243 Cal. Rptr. 678] . The three-year period is tolled on proof of fraud, intentional concealment, or the presence of a foreign body inserted into the injured person that has no therapeutic or diagnostic purpose or effect [Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5; see Graham v. Hansen (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 965, 974, 180 Cal. Rptr. 604] .

Unlike the three-year maximum limitations period, which may be tolled only under one of these three specified statutory provisions, the one-year discovery limitations period may be tolled by non-MICRA statutory tolling provisions [Belton v. Bowers Ambulance Serv. (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 928, 930-935, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 107, 978 P.2d 591] . For example, Code Civ. Proc. § 352.1, which provides a two-year extension for filing a suit that accrues while a plaintiff is incarcerated, applies to the one-year MICRA limitations period, although it cannot be used to extend the three-year limitations period [Belton v. Bowers Ambulance Serv. (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 928, 930-935, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 107, 978 P.2d 591 (disapproving Hollingsworth v. Kofoed (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 423, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 808 to extent it suggests otherwise)]. Similarly, the tolling provision for insanity found in Code Civ. Proc. § 352 applies to the one-year limitations period [Alcott Rehab. Hosp. v. Superior Court (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 94, 101, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 807] , as does the tolling provision of Code Civ. Proc. § 351 applicable when a defendant is out of the state [Kaplan v. Mamelak (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 637, 643, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 861].

The foreign body exception delays the start of the medical malpractice statute of limitations until the patient discovers, or through reasonable diligence should have discovered, the foreign body itself and its role as the negligent cause of his or her suffering [Ashworth v. Mem'l Hosp. (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 1046, 1051, 1062, 254 Cal. Rptr. 104] . This tolling continues even though the plaintiff has filed an earlier action based on other forms of malpractice occurring during the same medical treatment when the earlier action has been dismissed without prejudice [Ashworth v. Mem'l Hosp. (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 1046, 1051, 1063-1064, 254 Cal. Rptr. 104] . One court of appeal has held that the foreign body exception applies only to medically inserted objects that have no therapeutic or diagnostic purpose and that are left in the patient's body. Thus, the exception does not apply when a doctor fails to remove an entire foreign body that causes a puncture wound for which the patient is seeking treatment [Wallace v. Hibner (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 1042, 1047, 217 Cal. Rptr. 748] .

The intentional-concealment exception applies when the defendant is guilty of fraudulently concealing facts that would inform a patient of his or her injury or its negligent cause. The exception does not come into play, whatever the lengths to which a defendant has gone to conceal its wrongs, if a plaintiff is on notice of a potential claim. Furthermore, the exception cannot be stretched to encompass a nonparty expert witness' refusal voluntarily to give counsel an opinion on a party's conduct [Barber v. Superior Court (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1076, 1083, 285 Cal. Rptr. 668] .

The three-year period is triggered by the beginning of the harmful effect of the wrongful act, rather than the date when the act occurred [Steingart v. White (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 406, 412, 243 Cal. Rptr. 678 ; Tresemer v. Barke (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 656, 665, 672, 150 Cal. Rptr. 384] . Damage may be manifested, for the purpose of commencing the three-year period, without concurrent recognition or understanding of the damage by the plaintiff [Marriage & Family Ctr. v. Superior Court (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1647, 1654-1655, 279 Cal. Rptr. 475] . Moreover, it is not necessary that the plaintiff have discovered the negligent cause of the injury at the time the injury first manifests [Arredondo v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (2005) 131 Cal. App. 4th 614, 618-619, 31 Cal. Rptr. 3d 800 ; see Garabet v. Superior Court (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 1538, 1549-1551, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 800] . A cause of action for failure to obtain informed consent accrues not when a disclosed inherent complication occurs, but when a undisclosed complication occurs [Warren v. Schecter (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 1189, 1202, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 573 (citing Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 240-241, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1)]. However, as noted, this rule only applies in failure to inform cases and does not apply in other types of malpractice cases. For example, the occurrence of complications that had been discussed prior to the treatment can trigger the running of the statute of limitations in cases in which the patient alleges that the treatment was performed negligently or should not have been performed at all [Garabet v. Superior Court (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 1538, 1550-1551, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 800] .

The one-year period begins when the plaintiff discovers, or with reasonable diligence should discover, the injury, meaning in this instance the discovery of both the harmful effect and the fact that it was caused by someone's negligence [Steingart v. Oliver (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 406, 412, 243 Cal. Rptr. 678 ; Christ v. Lipsitz (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 894, 897, 160 Cal. Rptr. 498] . The one-year period begins to run no later than the time the plaintiff learns, or should have learned, the facts, as opposed to the legal theories and remedies, relevant to the claim [Gutierrez v. Mofid (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 892, 898, 218 Cal. Rptr. 313, 705 P.2d 886] . In addition, the limitations period begins running as to all potential defendants when the plaintiff suspects medical negligence on the part of someone. It is not necessary that the plaintiff suspect a particular physician for the statute to begin running as to that physician or any other physician who may have been negligent [Knowles v. Superior Court (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 1290, 1298-1301, 13 Cal. Rptr. 3d 700] .

The degree of diligence required by a plaintiff is reduced during continuance of the physician-patient relationship [Stafford v. Shultz (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 767, 778, 270 P.2d 1 ; see Unjian v. Berman (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 881, 886-887, 256 Cal. Rptr. 478] . For example, the fact that a patient realizes that he or she is apparently not recovering normally from a medical procedure does not, as a matter of law, cause the one-year period to commence, at least if the physician-patient relationship is continuing [Gilbertson v. Osman (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 308, 317-318, 229 Cal. Rptr. 627] . Moreover, the statute does not begin to run merely because the plaintiff seeks a second opinion based on suspicions that the plaintiff's treating physician may have been doing something wrong, if the second opinion physician allays the plaintiff's concerns, by indicating that the medical treatment the plaintiff has been receiving is fine, and the plaintiff then continues to be treated by the original physician [Kitzig v. Nordquist (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1384, 1392-1396, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 762] .

However, the limitations period may begin to run if, despite reliance on the physician's judgment during the professional relationship, the plaintiff obtains actual knowledge of the injury and its negligent cause [Sanchez v. South Hoover Hosp. (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 93, 96, 99, 132 Cal. Rptr. 657, 553 P.2d 1129] . Moreover, when a plaintiff has actual or constructive knowledge of the facts underlying a malpractice claim, the one-year limitation period is not delayed, suspended, or tolled on the basis that an attorney told the plaintiff that there was no legal remedy [Gutierrez v. Mofid (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 892, 896-902, 218 Cal. Rptr. 313, 705 P.2d 886] .

At trial on the issue, it is not entirely clear which party bears the burden of proving when a plaintiff in a medical malpractice suit discovered, or through the use of reasonable diligence should have discovered, the facts constituting the alleged malpractice for purposes of applying the one-year limitations period of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5. Traditionally, most courts applying discovery provisions have held that the plaintiff bears the burden of showing that the suit was brought within the requisite time after discovery occurred, and that has been the case when applying the one-year limitations period of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 [see, e.g., Christ v. Lipsitz (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 894, 898, 160 Cal. Rptr. 498] . However, the California Supreme Court held in 1999 that when applying a similar discovery provision of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.6(a) to an attorney malpractice action, the burden or proof falls on the defendant [Samuels v. Mix (1999) 22 Cal. 4th 1, 5, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 273, 989 P.2d 701] . The Supreme Court in that opinion held that although the burden of proving discovery usually falls on the plaintiff when applying other discovery rules, such as the common law discovery rule, the burden when applying Code Civ. Proc. § 340.6(a) falls instead on the defendant. The Court reached this conclusion primarily because that particular statutory discovery rule is technically an element of the affirmative statute of limitations defense, rather than an exception used by a plaintiff to argue for a delay in accrual of the applicable limitations period [Samuels v. Mix (1999) 22 Cal. 4th 1, 10, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 273, 989 P.2d 701 ; see Evid. Code § 500 (party generally has burden of proof as to each essential fact of claim or deense that party asserts)]. Although the Supreme Court in that case did not specifically address the medical malpractice statute of limitations, the pertinent language of the two statutes is virtually identical, suggesting that the Court would reach the same conclusion and impose the burden of proof on a medical malpractice defendant that asserts that the action was barred by the one-year limitations period.

If a patient states a cause of action against a physician that is not based on professional negligence, Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 is not the controlling statute of limitations [Nelson v. Gaunt (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 623, 635-636, 178 Cal. Rptr. 167] . In one case, for example, plaintiffs brought suit after doctors in a fertility clinic allegedly stole human genetic materials from plaintiffs, such as eggs that had been frozen for future use, and sold the materials without authorization. The court of appeal held that the statute of limitations provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 did not apply to plaintiffs' causes of action alleging the intentional torts of fraud, intentional infliction of emotional distress, and conversion. The court, noting that the Legislature had specifically limited application of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 to occasions of "professional negligence," concluded that the intentional and malicious conduct alleged by plaintiffs was qualitatively different from mere negligence [Unruh-Haxton v. Regents of University of California (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 343, 355-356, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 146].

Similarly, if a complaint is based on allegations that a health care provider was convicted of felony elder abuse under Pen. Code § 368, the applicable statute of limitations is Code Civ. Proc. § 340.3, the special statute for crime victims, rather than Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5. The willful nature of criminal conduct in violation of Pen. Code § 368 means that the actionable conduct goes beyond the scope of professional negligence and therefore beyond the scope of MICRA [Guardian N. Bay, Inc. v. Superior Court (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 963, 977-978, 114 Cal. Rptr. 2d 748] .

Different limitation time periods may be applicable if the malpractice action is brought against a public employee. Under these circumstances, both Gov. Code § 945.6 (the statute of limitations for actions against public entities under the Tort Claims Act) and Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 (the statute of limitations for medical malpractice actions) apply with equal force. Thus, for example, if the plaintiff files a claim under the Tort Claims Act against the physician, and the plaintiff receives notice of rejection of that claim pursuant to Gov. Code § 913, a court action must be filed within six months or the action will be barred under Gov. Code § 945.6, even though the action is filed within the one-year limitation period of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 [Anson v. County of Merced (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1195, 1199, 1202,

249 Cal. Rptr. 457 ; see also discussion in Ch. 464, Public Entities and Officers: California Tort Claims Act]. Similarly, a plaintiff suing a public entity or employee for medical malpractice must meet the three-year limitations period of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5, and failure to do so will provide a limitations defense for the defendant even if the plaintiff's action is otherwise timely under the Government Claims Act [Roberts v. County of Los Angeles (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 474, 481, 96 Cal. Rptr. 3d 60].

The limitations period of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 is also inapplicable to an equitable indemnity action brought by an insurance company against physicians being sued for medical malpractice by the party to whom the insurance company paid a claim [Preferred Risk Mut. Ins. Co. v. Reiswig (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 208, 213 n.2, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 187, 980 P.2d 895] .

[2] Effect of Notice Requirement on Statute of Limitations

Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d) provides that, if the notice of intention to commence an action required under Code Civ. Proc. § 364(a) is served within 90 days of the expiration of the applicable statute of limitations, the time for commencement of the action is extended 90 days from the service of the notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d)]. The required notice, and therefore the 90-day extension, apply only in negligence causes of action [Noble v. Superior Court (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1189, 1192-1194, 237 Cal. Rptr. 38 (Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d) does not extend limitation period for battery cause of action)]. However, the extension may be applied even if the applicable statute of limitations is a statute of limitations that falls outside of MICRA, so long as the action is based on a health care provider's professional negligence [Preferred Risk Mut. Ins. Co. v. Reiswig (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 208, 211-212, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 187, 980 P.2d 895] .

For example, the Supreme Court, in applying the general one-year personal injury limitations period of former Code Civ. Proc. § 340(3) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 335.1 (two-year statute of limitations)) in an equitable indemnity action against a health care provider, held that the non-MICRA limitations period may be tolled for 90 days pursuant to the notice provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d), if the claim for indemnity is based on the health care provider's professional negligence [Preferred Risk Mut. Ins. Co. v. Reiswig (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 208, 218, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 187, 980 P.2d 895] .

The notice requirement in Code Civ. Proc. § 364 and its relationship to the statute of limitations have posed interpretive problems for the courts. Following the adoption of Code Civ. Proc. § 364 in 1975, appellate courts began to take differing positions on the operation of Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d). All of the courts concluded that the limitation period was tolled during Code Civ. Proc. § 364(a)'s 90-day waiting period regardless of when during the limitation period the notice of intent to sue was served [Woods v. Young (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 315, 330, 279 Cal. Rptr. 613, 807 P.2d 455] . The courts disagreed, however, on the length of the extended time. One line of authority held that the period could be extended by 180 days [see Gomez v. Valley View Sanitorium (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 507, 509-510, 151 Cal. Rptr. 97 ; see also Estrella v. Brandt (9th Cir. 1982) 682 F. 2d 814, 818-819 ; Paxton v. Chapman Gen. Hosp., Inc. (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 110, 115, 230 Cal. Rptr. 355] . The other line of authority maintained that the period could be extended only 90 days [see Braham v. Sorenson (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 367, 371, 174 Cal. Rptr. 39 ; see also Grimm v. Thayer (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 866, 870, 233 Cal. Rptr. 687 ; Gilbertson v. Osman (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 308, 317, 229 Cal. Rptr. 627 ; Hilburger v. Madsen (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 45, 52, 222 Cal. Rptr. 713 ; Banfield v. Sierra View Local Dist. Hosp. (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 444, 459-460, 177 Cal. Rptr. 290] . The two lines of authority diverged on the issue of whether plaintiffs were entitled to a 90-day tolling period, under Code Civ. Proc. § 356, reflecting the time during which Code Civ. Proc. § 364(a) prohibited the commencement of the action, in addition to the 90-day extension explicitly provided under Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d) [see Woods v. Young (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 315, 322, 279 Cal. Rptr. 613, 807 P.2d 455] .

In Woods v. Young, the California Supreme Court resolved the split concerning interpretation of Code Civ. Proc. § 364 by formulating a new rule: service of the notice of intent to sue pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 364(a) tolls the one-year statute of limitations only when the notice is served during the last 90 days of the one-year period [Woods v. Young (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 315, 330, 279 Cal. Rptr. 613, 807 P.2d 455] .

The Court in Woods stated that this construction of Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d) was necessary to effectuate legislative intent. The Court noted that the Legislature's goal in enacting Code Civ. Proc. § 364 was to encourage negotiated resolution of medical malpractice disputes outside the formal litigation process [Woods v. Young (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 315, 325, 279 Cal. Rptr. 613, 807 P.2d 455] . Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d), literally applied, would require a medical malpractice plaintiff serving notice in the last 90 days of the statute of limitations to commence the lawsuit in the same period of time during which Code Civ. Proc. § 364(a) precluded the plaintiff from filing suit [Woods v. Young (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 315, 325, 279 Cal. Rptr. 613, 807 P.2d 455] . The Woods court opined that such a literal construction of Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d) would produce incongruous results, and would not be the best way to effectuate the purpose of the statute [see Woods v. Young (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 315, 325, 279 Cal Rptr. 613, 807 P.2d 455] . The Court concluded that the legislative purpose of the statute would be best served by construing Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d) as tolling (rather than extending) for 90 days the one-year statute of limitations under Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 when the notice of intent to sue is served during, but not before, the last 90 days of the limitation period [Woods v. Young (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 315, 325, 328, 279 Cal. Rptr. 613, 807 P.2d 455] .

For purposes of calculating the time for bringing the action, the day of service of the notice is excluded from consideration [see Woods v. Young (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 315, 326 n.3, 279 Cal. Rptr. 613, 807 P.2d 455] . Thus, for example, if a plaintiff serves the notice of intent to sue on the last day of the one-year limitation period (day 365), the plaintiff has one day after the 90-day waiting period to file the complaint [Woods v. Young (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 315, 326 n.3, 279 Cal. Rptr. 613, 807 P.2d 455] . By way of further example, if a plaintiff serves the notice of intent to sue on the 300th day of the one-year period, the plaintiff has 66 days after the 90-day waiting period to file the complaint [see Woods v. Young (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 315, 326, 326 n.3, 279 Cal. Rptr. 613, 807 P.2d 455] .

The Court in Woods addressed the one-year limitation period set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5, without commenting on the possible effects of Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d) on the three-year period of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 [Woods v. Young (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 315, 319 n.1, 279 Cal. Rptr. 613, 807 P.2d 455] . That issue was subsequently addressed in Russell v. Stanford Univ. Hosp. (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 783, 785, 791, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 97, 937 P.2d 640 , in which the court held that the three-year statute of limitations, Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5, is "tolled" rather than "extended" for 90 days whenthe plaintiff gives notice of intent to sue in the last 90 days of the statutory period. The Russell court concluded that the same rule applies to the three year statute of limitations as applies to the one year statute for the reasons expressed in Woods, and as a matter of statutory construction. According to the court, this construction of Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d) effectuates the legislative purpose of the provision and avoids the possibility that plaintiffs' attorneys will confront the professional dilemma addressed in Woods--that is, choosing between (1) preserving the plaintiff's cause of action by violating the 90-day notice period under Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d), thereby invoking potential disciplinary proceedings by the State Bar, and (2) forfeiting the client's cause of action, without significant impact on the legislative goal of establishing a strict outside time limit for commencing negligence actions against health care providers. While the court acknowledged that one effect of this decision might conceivably be to extend the time for commencing a claim 90 days beyond the tree year statute of limitations, it ruled that on balance the legislative interest in promoting negotiated resolution of medical malpractice disputes must be deemed overriding [Russell v. Stanford Univ. Hosp. (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 783, 790, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 97, 937 P.2d 640] .

In ruling on the construction of Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d), the California Supreme Court stated that, out of considerations of public policy and fairness to litigants who might have relied on contrary rules announced in prior appellate cases, its holding would only apply prospectively to complaints filed 90 days after the case became final [Woods v. Young (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 315, 330-331, 279 Cal. Rptr. 613, 807 P.2d 455] . Apparently, then, the rule only applies to complaints filed on or after August 3, 1991 [see Woods v. Young (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 315, 331, 279 Cal. Rptr. 613, 807 P.2d 455 (decided April 4, 1991)]. With respect to cases in which the complaint was filed on or before August 2, 1991, plaintiffs will have the benefit of the former rule that permitted extension of the one-year limitation period if the notice of intent to sue was served at any time during the one-year limitation period. Consequently, even in cases in which the notice of intent was filed more than 90 days before the end of the one-year limitation period, the plaintiff will have the advantage of 90-day tolling [Woods v. Young (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 315, 331, 279 Cal. Rptr. 613, 807 P.2d 455] .

The prospectivity directive of Woods has been interpreted to apply only to Woods' primary holding that the extension allowed by Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d) is available only when the notice of intention to sue is served during the final 90 days of the applicable limitation period. Under this interpretation, the prospectivity directive does not apply to the secondary holding in Woods, which limits the maximum filing period to the period of limitation plus 90 days [Barber v. Superior Court (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1076, 1081-1082, 285 Cal. Rptr. 668 ; see Woodsv. Young (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 315, 330 n.6, 331, 279 Cal. Rptr. 613, 807 P.2d 455] .

If a 90-day notice of intent to sue is given prior to the final 90 days of the limitations period, the plaintiff cannot toll the statute of limitations by giving a second notice of intent to sue within the final 90 days of the limitations period [Bennett v. Shahhal (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 384, 390, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 272] . In such a case, the original notice, although it does not extend the limitations period, fully achieves the legislative objective of providing time for the negotiated settlement of disputes [Bennett v. Shahhal (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 384, 390, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 272] . A second notice does not toll the limitations period even if the plaintiff may have experienced or discovered additional injuries after the first notice was given [Bennett v. Shahhal (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 384, 391-392, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 272] .

If a defendant is sued as a Doe because his or her name is unknown to plaintiff at the time of filing the complaint, the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 364 do not apply to the defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 364(e)]. Therefore, if the identity of a Doe defendant is not actually known, a plaintiff is not required to file a notice of intent to sue with that defendant prior to amending a timely-filed complaint to name that defendant [Camarillo v. Vaage (2003) 105 Cal. App. 4th 552, 566-568, 130 Cal. Rptr. 2d 26] . In addition, if a plaintiff has filed a timely notice of intent to sue with known codefendants, a plaintiff is not additionally required to file an actual complaint against other unknown Doe defendants within the applicable limitations period to preserve the right to sue those defendants [Camarillo v. Vaage (2003) 105 Cal. App. 4th 552, 570-571, 130 Cal. Rptr. 2d 26 (attorneys who filed timely notice of intent did not commit malpractice by failing to also file complaint against doctor whose identity was unknown)]. If the plaintiff properly serves a named codefendant with a notice of intent to sue, the time for commencement of suit against a Doe defendant is extended for the same period as for suit against the named defendant [Grimm v. Thayer (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 866, 870-871, 233 Cal. Rptr. 687 , disapproved on other grounds, Woods v. Young (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 315, 328 n.4, 279 Cal. Rptr. 613, 807 P.2d 455)].

If a defendant is actually known to the plaintiff and is served with a notice of intent to sue, the limitations period is extended by 90 days even if that defendant is not named in the original complaint, but is instead subsequently substituted in for a Doe defendant. If the amendment naming that defendant is made before expiration of the limitations period as extended by the 90 days, the amendment is timely as to that defendant [Davis v. Marin (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 380, 386-387, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 896] .

If a plaintiff has actual knowledge of the identities of the treating physician or physicians, a notice under Code Civ. Proc. § 364(a) given to the hospital where the medical care was provided is insufficient to extend the limitation period under Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d) as to the unnamed physicians [Godwin v. City of Bellflower (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1625, 1632, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 524] . Furthermore, notice to the hospital is insufficient to extend the limitation period governing claims against the treating physicians even if the notice identifies those physicians [Hanooka v. Pivko (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 1553, 1560, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 70] .

Although actual notice of the intent to sue may be required by a court if the issue is whether or not the plaintiff took reasonable steps to provide a particular defendant with notice by providing notice to defendant's purported principal, actual notice is not required, as a general rule, to toll a limitations period under Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d) [Silver v. McNamee (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 269, 285-286] . In one case, for example, the court of appeal ruled that a plaintiff giving notice under Code Civ. Proc. § 364 had tolled the statute of limitations for 90 days when he complied with statutory requirements governing service of process by mail prior to expiration of the limitations period. The court in that case held that the notices were effectively served when properly addressed to the out-of-state defendant and placed in the mail in compliance with the applicable statutes. Under those circumstances, actual notice to the defendant within the limitations period was not required [Silver v. McNamee (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 269, 279-286 (rejecting argument that Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a) delayed effective date of mailed service by 10 days)].

The one-year limitations period contained in Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 may not be extended on the basis of an attorney's excusable neglect in providing the notice of intention to sue required by Code Civ. Proc. § 364 [Hanooka v. Pivko (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 1553, 1560, 1563, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 70] .

The notice provision of Code Civ. Proc. § 364 is discussed in § 415.40.

For definitions of health care provider and professional negligence, see § 415.10.

[3] Actions by Minors for Prenatal Injuries

[a] In General

As a general rule, actions brought by or on behalf of minors for prenatal injuries or injuries sustained in the course of birth must be brought within six years of the minor's birth [Code Civ. Proc. § 340.4]. The limitation period set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 allowing a complaint to be filed prior to a child's eighth birthday is extended by Code Civ. Proc. § 12a if the child's eighth birthday occurs on a day following a holiday [Tran v. Fountain Valley Cmty. Hosp. (1997) 51 Cal. App. 4th 1464, 1466, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 91] . However, in a medical malpractice action for prenatal injuries, the limitation period is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 rather than by Civ. Code § 340.4 [Young v. Haines (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 883, 894, 226 Cal. Rptr. 547, 718 P.2d 909] .

Actions by minors must be commenced within three years from the date of the alleged wrongful act except for actions by minors under the full age of six years, which must be commenced within three years or prior to the minor's eighth birthday, whichever provides a longer period [Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5; see also Young v. Haines (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 883, 897-901, 226 Cal. Rptr. 547, 718 P.2d 909 (noting that minors may have equal protection challange to Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5); Aronson v. Superior Court (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 294, 296, 236 Cal. Rptr. 347] . Service of a Code Civ. Proc. § 364(a) intent to sue notice during the last 90 days of this three-year limitations period will toll the statute of limitations for 90 days [Newman v. Burnett (1997) 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 175] .

The time limitation is also tolled for any period during which the minor's parent or guardian and insurer or health care provider have committed fraud or collusion in the failure to bring the professional negligence action [Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5].

In addition, minors may invoke the general tolling provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 under which the three-year period may be tolled by proof of fraud, intentional concealment, or the presence of a foreign body that had no theraputic or diagnostic purpose [Young v. Haines (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 883, 897-901, 226 Cal. Rptr. 547, 718 P.2d 909] . Although the statute does not expressly say so, it is clear that in order to toll the three-year period the intentional concealment must be by the health-care provider [Aronson v. Superior Court (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 294, 296 n.2, 236 Cal. Rptr. 347] .

A claim that a physician negligently failed to report suspected child abuse is a claim for professional negligence that is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 and is not subject to the general tolling rule that would otherwise apply during a person's minority [David M. v. Beverly Hosp. (2005) 131 Cal. App. 4th 1272, 1278-1279, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 649] .

As noted above, when a medical malpractice action is brought against a public entity, the action is subject to the provisions of the Tort Claims Act. Thus, when the plaintiff is a minor and a timely claim has been filed with and rejected by the public entity, the six-month period for filing a medical malpractice action under Gov. Code § 945.6 applies even when a longer period for bringing the action against a non-public health care provider might be allowed under Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 [Martell v. Antelope Valley Hosp. Med. Ctr. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 978, 981-983, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 329] . In one case, for example, a tort action brought on behalf of a minor was untimely when brought over seven years after the claim against the public entity was filed and rejected, even though the action may have been timely under Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5, and even though plaintiffs had earlier filed a timely action that had later been dismissed without prejudice [Martell v. Antelope Valley Hosp. Med. Ctr. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 978, 981-983, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 329] .

As noted in § 415.47[1], a medical malpractice action brought against a public entity is subject to the provisions of the Tort Claims Act. Therefore, if the plaintiff is a minor and a timely claim has been filed with and rejected by the public entity, the six-month period for filing a medical malpractice action under Gov. Code § 945.6 applies even if a longer period for bringing the action against a non-public health care provider might be allowed under Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 [Martell v. Antelope Valley Hosp. Med. Ctr. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 978, 981-983, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 329] . In one case, for example, a tort action brought on behalf of a minor was untimely because it was brought over seven years after the claim against the public entity was filed and rejected, even though the action may have been timely under Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 and even though the plaintiffs had earlier filed a timely action that had later been dismissed without prejudice [Martell v. Antelope Valley Hosp. Med. Ctr. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 978, 981-983, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 329] .

[b] Constitutionality of Statutory Accrual Date

One California court of appeal has held that Code Civ. Proc. 340.5 violates a minor's right to equal protection because it contains different accrual dates for minors' and adults' causes of action, without a rational basis for so doing [Torres v. County of Los Angeles (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 325, 334, 257 Cal. Rptr. 211] . Under Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5, an adult's cause of action may accrue either from the "date of injury" or from the time "the plaintiff discovers, or through the use of reasonable diligence should have discovered the injury." A minors' cause of action, by contrast, accrues from the date of the "wrongful act," rather than from the injury, and Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 contains no comparable provision permitting accrual when the plaintiff discovers, or through the use of reasonable diligence should have discovered, the injury [Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5].

The court's finding of unconstitutionality arose in a case involving the application of the accrual date in Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 to determine when the 90-day (now six-month) period for tort claims commenced against a governmental health care provider [see Gov. Code § 911.2 (tort claim for injury must be brought within 6 months after accrual of cause of action); see also Gov. Code § 901 (for determining time limit prescribed by Gov. Code § 911.2, date of accrual is date on which cause of action would be deemed to have accrued within meaning of statute of limitations that would be applicable if there were no special government tort claims requirement)]. The plaintiff in the case was a minor who allegedly suffered harm before and during childbirth.

The application of the Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 accrual date placed minors such as the plaintiff in Torres at a disadvantage, because accrual for minors on the "date of the alleged wrongful act" would in many cases take place earlier than accrual for adults on the "date of injury." The court noted that when harm occurs prenatally or in childbirth, the "wrongful act" may only be revealed to have caused an injury to the minor months or even years later, as the child grows and develops [Torres v. County of Los Angeles (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 325, 334, 257 Cal. Rptr. 211] .

The court of appeal found it difficult to see how discrimination against minor malpractice plaintiffs vis-'a-vis adults through different accrual dates would rationally relate to any ascertainable legislative goal [Torres v. County of Los Angeles (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 325, 334, 257 Cal. Rptr. 211] . It refused to apply the "wrongful act" accrual provision of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 to determine the starting point for the (then) 90-day government tort claims period under Gov. Code 911.2. Instead, the court held that for purposes of the government tort claim statutes, a minor's medical malpractice cause of action against a government defendant would accrue when the minor's parent or guardian knew or should have known through the exercise of reasonable diligence that a negligent wrongful act of medical care caused the child's injuries [Torres v. County of Los Angeles (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 325, 335, 257 Cal. Rptr. 211] .

Although it is not clear that the court of appeal's finding of unconstitutionality concerning the different accrual dates would prevent a court from applying the accrual dates in a case directly involving Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5, rather than a government tort claims statute, it seems unlikely that the difference between the statute of limitations and the claims statute is sufficient to serve as a basis for distinguishing the result in Torres. The Supreme Court denied review in the court of appeal case, and has, in the past, generally declined to address the issue of whether Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 unconstitutionally favors adults over minors [see Young v. Haines (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 883, 897 n.10, 226 Cal. Rptr. 547, 718 P.2d 909 ; Steketee v. Lintz, Williams & Rothberg (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 46, 54 n.4, 210 Cal. Rptr. 781, 694 P.2d 1153] .

Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5's constitutionality was also called into question in the Ninth Circuit decision of Katz v. Children's Hosp. of Orange County (9th Cir. 1994) 28 F.3d 1520 . The Katz court concurred in the Torres court's equal protection analysis and found no basis for limiting Torres to cases involving Gov. Code § 911.2. In order to avoid the constitutional problem concerning the different accrual dates, the Katz court interpreted the words "wrongful act" in Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 as "injury" for purposes of applying the statute's three-year limitations period. This ruling allows a minor's claim to be brought within the three years of the date of injury, but prevents the limitations period from being extended by the discovery rule [Katz v. Children's Hosp. of Orange County (9th Cir. 1994) 28 F.3d 1520, 1533] .

[4] Battery Actions

Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 was amended by the Medical Injury Compensation Reform Act, and now applies only to actions based on professional negligence. Since professional negligence refers to negligent acts or omissions, Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 probably does not apply to actions based on battery. The statute of limitations in a battery action is one year and commences immediately on the commission of the battery [Code Civ. Proc. § 340.3; see Ch. 58, Assault and Battery].

[5] Contract Actions

Actions against physicians or other medical personnel based on breach of contract or warranty are governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 337, which creates a four-year limitation period for actions based on written instruments, or Code Civ. Proc. § 339(1), creating a two-year period for agreements not based on a writing.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsPleading & ProofGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime LimitationsHealthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesGeneral OverviewTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceActionsGeneral OverviewTortsProcedureStatutes of LimitationsGeneral OverviewTortsProcedureStatutes of LimitationsAccrual of ActionsGeneral OverviewTortsProcedureStatutes of LimitationsAccrual of ActionsDiscovery RuleTortsProcedureStatutes of LimitationsTollingGeneral OverviewTortsProcedureStatutes of LimitationsTollingDisabilitiesTortsProcedureStatutes of LimitationsTollingEquitable Estoppel

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Procedure

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.48

§ 415.48 Separate Trial of Statute of Limitations Defense

In an action against a physician or surgeon, dentist, registered nurse, dispensing optician, optometrist, registered physical therapist, podiatrist, licensed psychologist, osteopath, chiropractor, clinical laboratory bioanalyst, clinical laboratory technologist, veterinarian, or a licensed hospital as the employer of such person, based on such person's alleged professional negligence, or for rendering professional services without consent, or for error or omission in such person's practice, if the answer pleads a statute of limitations defense, a separate trial on that issue must be granted prior to trial on other issues. If the statute of limitations issue is resolved in favor of plaintiff, the remaining issues are then tried. The motion for separate trial may be made by any party or by the court itself [Code Civ. Proc. § 597.5].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePretrial MattersSeparate TrialsGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesDefensesGeneral OverviewTortsProcedureStatutes of LimitationsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Procedure

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.49

§ 415.49 Damages

[1] In General

The general measure of damages for the breach of an obligation not arising from contract, except when otherwise provided by statute, is the amount that will compensate for all the detriment proximately caused by the breach, whether anticipated or not [Civ. Code § 3333]. In actions based on failure to obtain informed consent, a plaintiff is entitled to recover not only for the undisclosed complications but also for the disclosed complications, on the theory that plaintiff would not have consented to any surgery had the true risk been disclosed, and therefore would not have suffered those complications either [Warren v. Schecter (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 1189, 1204, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 573] .

In actions based on professional medical negligence, however, certain statutory restrictions apply to the amount of damages recoverable [see Civ. Code § 3333.2].

[2] Noneconomic Losses

In any action for injury against a health care provider based on professional negligence, the injured plaintiff is entitled to recover noneconomic losses to compensate for pain, suffering, inconvenience, physical impairment, disfigurement, and other nonpecuniary damage [Civ. Code § 3333.2(a)]. Recovery for noneconomic losses in such actions, however, may not exceed $250,000 [Civ. Code § 3333.2(b)].

The $250,000 recovery limit in Civ. Code § 3333.2(b) does not constitute a single aggregate limit on a defendant's liability for all legal proceedings arising from a single act of professional negligence. Instead, the $250,000 limit applies to each separate and independent claim based on a negligent act. For example, when a claim for loss of consortium, a separate and independent claim from a spouse's claim for personal injury, is joined with a spouse's claim for physical injuries in an action for medical malpractice, each spouse is entitled to recover up to $250,000 for his or her separate noneconomic losses [Atkins v. Strayhorn (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1380, 1394-1396, 273 Cal. Rptr. 231] .

The $250,000 limit on noneconomic damages applies in actions brought by survivors of malpractice victims who initiate suits for wrongful death [Yates v. Pollock (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 195, 199, 239 Cal. Rptr. 383] . In such actions, the wrongful death claim is merely derivative of the deceased patient's claim for personal injuries, and is joint, single, and indivisible; consequently, the total aggregate recovery of noneconomic damages by all wrongful death plaintiffs in a single action cannot exceed $250,000 [Yates v. Pollock (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 195 ; see Atkins v. Strayhorn (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1380, 1395, 273 Cal. Rptr. 231] .

The court of appeal has held that the $250,000 limit on noneconomic damages does not apply to a plaintiff who recovers for a common law battery based on the physician's performing a surgery to which the plaintiff expressly did not consent. This type of battery is an intentional tort that is not a species of negligence and falls outside the scope of Civ. Code § 3333.2 [Perry v. Shaw (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 658, 661, 668-670, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 70 ; see generally § 415.20].

If an employer entity, such as a medical partnership group, is vicariously liable for the professional malpractice of a physician employed by the entity, the cap on noneconomic damages applies to any damages awarded against the employer [Lathrop v. HealthCare Partners Med. Group (2004) 114 Cal. App. 4th 1412, 1424, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 668] . Under the doctrine of respondeat superior, regardless of whether the employee is also sued, the vicarious liability of the employer is wholly derived from the liability of the employee, and any defenses available to the employee also inure to the benefit of the employer [Lathrop v. HealthCare Partners Med. Group (2004) 114 Cal. App. 4th 1412, 1423, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 668] .

If an award of noneconomic damages includes future noneconomic damages to be paid according to a periodic payment schedule, the statutory cap applies only to the present value of the award for future damages [Salgado v. County of Los Angeles (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 629, 643, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 46, 967 P.2d 585] . For discussion of the periodic payment of a future damages award, see § 415.49[4].

The $250,000 limit on noneconomic damages applies to an action for equitable indemnity brought against a health care provider by a third party [Western S.S. Lines, Inc. v. San Pedro Gen. Hosp. (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 100, 111, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 263, 876 P.2d 1062] . Thus, the damage cap applied in an action against a hospital by a ship owner, in which the ship owner had settled a maritime worker's claim for substandard medical care by the ship's medical staff and sought indemnity based on aggravation of the worker's injuries when he was later admitted to the defendant hospital. The ship owner argued unsuccessfully that the damages sought were economic in nature because they would provide reimbursement for money paid out in settling the worker's claim.

Civ. Code § 3333.2 may also apply to a claim brought under the federal Emergency Medical Treatment and Active Labor Act (EMTALA), a statute that is designed generally to prevent hospitals that have entered into Medicare provider agreements from inappropriately transferring or refusing to treat patients requiring emergency medical treatment [see 42 U.S.C.S. § 1395dd; see also Barris v. County of Los Angeles (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 101, 113, 83 Cal. Rptr. 2d 145, 972 P.2d 966] . Under EMTALA, a civil claim may be brought based either on the failure to provide an appropriate medical screening examination within the capabilities of the hospital's emergency department or, if the patient is determined to have an emergency medical condition, on the failure to provide medical treatment required to stabilize the patient's condition. A hospital may not transfer or discharge a patient unless the patient's condition has stabilized or other statutory requirements have been met [see 42 U.S.C.S. § 1395dd(b), (c), (d)(2)(A)]. When a successful suit is brought, the statute also specifically provides for recovery of "those damages available for personal injury under the law of the State in which the hospital is located" [42 U.S.C.S. § 1395dd(d)(2)(A)].

Based on the damage provision and the intent of Congress when enacting the statute, the California Supreme Court has held that the cap on noneconomic damages of Civ. Code § 3333.2 applies to actions brought under EMTALA when the cap would apply if the claim were brought under state law [Barris v. County of Los Angeles (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 101, 113, 83 Cal. Rptr. 2d 145, 972 P.2d 966] . Since a plaintiff bringing a failure to stabilize claim under EMTALA must necessarily prove that "the hospital did not, within its available staff and facilities, provide a patient known to be suffering from an emergency medical condition with medical treatment necessary to assure, within reasonable medical probability, that no deterioration of the condition would likely occur," these claims are "based on professional negligence" and therefore subject to the provisions of Civ. Code § 3333.2 [Barris v. County of Los Angeles (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 101, 113-114, 20 Cal. 4th 101, 114, 83 Cal. Rptr. 2d 145, 972 P.2d 966] . For further discussion of EMTALA and analogous state statutes, see Ch. 295, Hospitals .

Special methods for computing noneconomic damages must be employed if the jury finds the plaintiff to be comparatively negligent, or if multiple defendants are held liable for noneconomic damages. If the plaintiff is comparatively negligent, the court must, before applying Civ. Code § 3333.2, reduce the jury's noneconomic damage award by the percentage of the plaintiff's fault. If what remains exceeds $250,000, the award is further reduced to that amount [Atkins v. Strayhorn (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1380, 1391-1393, 273 Cal. Rptr. 231 ; McAdory v. Rogers (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1273, 1276-1281, 264 Cal. Rptr. 71] . With respect to multiple defendants, Proposition 51 (Civ. Code §§ 1431-1431.5) requires, in actions for personal injury and wrongful death, that noneconomic damages be apportioned severally, according to comparative fault; consequently, for defendants whose liability is limited by MICRA, the $250,000 cap on noneconomic damages under Civ. Code § 3333.2 must be applied to an noneconomic damage award before reduction of noneconomic damages based on each defendant's share of comparative fault [Mayes v. Bryan (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 1075, 1101, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 14 ; Gilman v. Beverly Cal. Corp. (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 121, 126-130, 283 Cal. Rptr. 17 ; see Civ. Code § 1431.2(a)]. However, when adjusting damages to account for the comparative fault of nonparties who are not subject to MICRA, a noneconomic damage award should be reduced prior to applying the $250,000 cap [Francies v. Kapla (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 1381, 1387-1389, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 501] .

One appellate court has developed a hypothetical to illustrate the interrelationship between comparative fault principles, Proposition 51, and Civ. Code § 3333.2. In this hypothetical, a jury awards a plaintiff $1 million in noneconomic damages and apportions fault 25 percent to plaintiff, 25 percent to a drug company that is not a "health care provider" under MICRA, 40 percent to Dr. A, and 10 percent to Dr. B. Applying comparative fault principles, plaintiff's negligence reduces the $1-million verdict to $750,000. Then, applying Proposition 51, the drug company is severally liable for 25 percent of the verdict, or $250,000. Finally, applying Civ. Code § 3333.2, the health care providers' total liability is $250,000, with 80 percent being apportioned to Dr. A and 20 percent to Dr. B [Gilman v. Beverly Cal. Corp. (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 121, 129 n.10, 283 Cal. Rptr. 17] .

For definitions of health care provider and professional negligence, see § 415.10.

[3] Evidence of Collateral Benefits and Subrogation

In an action for personal injury against a health care provider based on professional negligence, the defendant may elect to introduce evidence of any amount payable as a benefit to the plaintiff as the result of the injurypursuant to the United States Social Security Act, any state or federal income disability or workers' compensation act, any health, sickness, or income-disability insurance, accident insurance that provides health care benefits or income-disability insurance, or any contract or agreement of any group, organization, partnership, or corporation to cover the costs of any health care services [Civ. Code § 3333.1(a)].

If defendant so elects, the plaintiff may introduce evidence of any amount that plaintiff has paid or contributed toward any benefits introduced by the defendant [Civ. Code § 3333.1(a)].

No source of collateral benefits introduced pursuant to Civ. Code § 3333.1(a) may recover any amount against the plaintiff, nor may it be subrogated to the rights of the plaintiff against a defendant [Civ. Code § 3333.1(b)]. However, this is not always the case, because some benefit providers, such as the Medi-Cal program, have a statutory right to recover from third-party tortfeasors [see, e.g., Hernandez v. California Hosp. Med. Ctr. (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 498, 506, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 97] . For further discussion of these lien rights, see Ch. 177, Damages .

A defendant's evidence of collateral benefits presented pursuant to Civ. Code § 3333.1, even collateral payment of all damages, does not constitute summary judgment proof that the plaintiff sustained no damages such that the plaintiff may not prosecute the action. Instead, it is for the jury to decide how to apply the evidence of collateral payments when calculating damages [Hernandez v. California Hosp. Med. Ctr. (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 498, 506, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 97] .

Although evidence of the amount of any insurance or disability benefits received by the plaintiff is admissible under Civ. Code § 3333.1, that statute does not provide a right to introduce evidence of the taxability of those benefits. Allowing such evidence would invite undue jury speculation on how tax liability might affect the plaintiff's future income [Cox. v. Superior Court (2002) 98 Cal. App. 4th 670, 675, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 45] .

For definitions of health care provider and professional negligence, see § 415.10.

[4] Periodic Payment of Future Damages

Professional negligence actions against health care providers are governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7, which provides that either party may request the superior court to enter a judgment ordering that money damages or the equivalent for future damages be paid in whole or in part by periodic payments rather than by a lump-sum payment, if the future damages portion of the award equals or exceeds $50,000 [Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7(a)].

A party's request for periodic payment of future damages pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7 must be made prior to the entry of any judgment in the action [Craven v. Crout (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 779, 784, 209 Cal. Rptr. 649 ; see Fein v. Permanente Med. Group (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 137, 156, 211 Cal. Rptr. 368, 695 P.2d 665] . If the defendant has put the plaintiff on notice at the pleading stage of his or her intention to seek periodic future damages and requested the trial court to instruct the jury to designate the portion of the damages that was attributable to future damages, a formal request for periodic payment of future damages made following delivery of the verdict is not untimely [see Gorman v. Leftwich (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 141, 152-153, 266 Cal. Rptr. 671] . A jury award of lump-sum damages in a malpractice award cannot be modified by the court to allow periodic payment of future damages under Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7 if the jury has not identified the amount of damages subject to periodic payment and the defendant's request for periodic payment was not made until after the judgment was entered [Craven v. Crout (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 779, 783-785, 209 Cal. Rptr. 649] .

A court is not required to order periodic payments of damages for future loss of earnings attributable to the period by which plaintiff's life expectancy was diminished as result of defendant's negligence [Hurlbut v. Sonora Cmty. Hosp. (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 388, 405-406, 254 Cal. Rptr. 840] . For example, if a plaintiff's expected work life without the injury would be from ages 18 to 65 years and the negligence of the defendant shortens that expected work life to ages 18 to 30 years, the court could order the "future loss of earnings" damages for years 31 to 65 to be paid out in a lump sum [see Hurlbut v. Sonora Cmty. Hosp. (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 388, 406, 254 Cal. Rptr. 840] .

The court's periodic payment schedule is not dependent on, nor need it directly correspond to, a plaintiff's life expectancy. Instead, life expectancy is one of several factors for the court to consider in structuring a periodic payment schedule [Atkins v. Strayhorn (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1380, 1397, 273 Cal. Rptr. 231 ; see also Salgado v. County of Los Angeles (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 629, 650, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 46, 967 P.2d 585 (trial court did not abuse discretion in ordering that periodic payments be made in equal installments over period corresponding to average life expectancy of plaintiff); but see Holt v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 871, 882-883, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 752 (error for trial court to structure payment schedule that did not conform to evidence of plaintiff's expected losses)]. The court may also consider, for example, the plaintiff's immediate needs and the likelihood that the plaintiff's anticipated future expenses or losses will be incurred in a period of time shorter than the plaintiff's projected life expectancy [see Atkins v. Strayhorn (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1380, 1397-1398, 273 Cal. Rptr. 231 ; cf. Holt v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 871, 882, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 752 (abuse of discretion to order payment schedule for medical expenses that was 15 years shorter than life expectancy because all evidence indicated that medical expenses would be constant throughout plaintiff's life)].

When periodic payment of future damages will be utilized, the plaintiff is entitled to receive, over time, the equivalent in current dollars of the amount plaintiff would have received in an immediate lump-sum award at the time of judgment, including the amount the award would have yielded if prudently invested [Salgado v. County of Los Angeles (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 629, 646, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 46, 967 P.2d 585 ; Hrimnak v. Watkins (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 964, 973-974, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 514 ; see also Atkins v. Strayhorn (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1380, 1398-1400, 273 Cal. Rptr. 231 (present value is basis for evaluating plaintiff's entitlement to prejudgment interest and expert witness fees); Schneider v. Kaiser Found. Hosps. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1311, 1314, 1320, 264 Cal. Rptr. 227 (present value is basis for determining attorney's contingency fee)]. Thus, if the award of future damages is $240,000, the plaintiff is entitled to receive periodic payments totaling $240,000 plus the amount $240,000 would yield if prudently invested at the time of judgment [Salgado v. County of Los Angeles (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 629, 646, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 46, 967 P.2d 585] . To eliminate confusion, when future damages are sought, juries should be instructed to determine the amount in current dollars paid at the time of judgment, and absent such an instruction, awards of future damages are considered to be stated in terms of their present or current value unless the record clearly establishes otherwise [Salgado v. County of Los Angeles (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 629, 646-647, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 46, 967 P.2d 585] .

If a defendant against whom a judgment has been rendered must post an undertaking to stay the judgment pending appeal under Code Civ. Proc. § 917.1, the amount of the undertaking is calculated under that statute using the lump sum present value of the entire judgment, not using some lesser amount based on the payments that might otherwise actually be payable during the appeal under a periodic payment schedule created under Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7 [Leung v. Verdugo Hills Hospital (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 205, 208-209, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 203].

If a pre-trial settlement is reached with some defendants, a trial court, in applying the settlement amount to offset the amount recovered at trial from nonsettling defendants, may allocate the entire settlement amount to past damages. The court is not required to apportion the settlement amount between past damages and future damages that will be paid in periodic payments under Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7 [Deocampo v. Ahn (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 758, 772-773, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79] .

For definitions and forms relating to periodic payment of future damages, see §§ 415.103 -415.106.

As a condition to authorizing periodic payments, the court must require the judgment debtor who is not adequately insured to post security adequate to assure full payment of such damages awarded by the judgment. On termination of the periodic payments, the court must order the return of this security, or as much as remains, to the judgment debtor [Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7(a)]. Although a defendant may purchase an annuity to fund the periodic payments for which the defendant is liable, the defendant may not obtain an immediate satisfaction of judgment for doing so. A defendant is entitled to an immediate satisfaction of judgment only by paying the present cash value of the judgment [Holt v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 871, 880-881, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 752] .

If the court finds that the judgment debtor has exhibited a continuing pattern of failing to make the payments as specified by the court in the order, the judgment debtor will be held in contempt of court and, in addition to the periodic payments, be ordered to pay the judgment creditor all damages caused by the failure to make the payments, including court costs and attorney's fees [Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7(b)(2)].

[5] Punitive Damages

No claim for punitive damages against a health care provider may be included in a complaint or other pleading unless the court enters an order allowing an amended pleading that includes a claim for punitive damages to be filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13]. The court may allow the filing of an amended pleading claiming punitive damages on a motion by the party seeking the amended pleading and on the basis of the supporting and opposing affidavits presented, if the plaintiff has established that there is a substantial probability that he or she will prevail on the punitive damages claim under Civ. Code § 3294 [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13].

In determining whether a plaintiff has satisfied this standard, a trial court may not independently assess the evidence supporting the punitive damage claim in order to determine whether the claim should go to the jury. Instead, the statutory standard is met if the plaintiff states a viable claim for punitive damages and shows that the claim is supported by competent, admissible evidence [College Hosp. Inc. v. Superior Court (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 704, 719, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 882 P.2d 894] .

The court may not grant a motion allowing the filing of an amended pleading that includes a claim for punitive damages if the motion for such an order is not filed within the earlier of either (1) two years after the complaint or initial pleading is filed, or (2) nine months before the date the matter is first set for trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(b) (definition of health care provider); see also §§ 415.94 -415.96]. The "date the matter is first set for trial" is the initial trial date, not the date of the trial setting conference [Brown v. Superior Court (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 989, 992-994, 274 Cal. Rptr. 442] .

There is an implied exception to nine-month limitation of Code of Civ. Proc. § 425.13 when it is necessary to protect a plaintiff's right to a preferential trial date, and the defendant received or had a reasonable opportunity to conduct discovery regarding the punitive damages claim [Looney v. Superior Court (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 521, 536, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 182] . A similar exception has been allowed when a "fast track" trial court sets trial to begin in less than nine months [see Goodstein v. Superior Court (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 1635, 1645, 50 Cal. Rptr. 2d 459] . In those cases, a trial court may relieve a plaintiff from complying with the nine-month limitation period if the plaintiff can show by a preponderance of the evidence that: (1) plaintiff was unaware of facts or evidence necessary to make a proper motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13 more than nine months prior to the first trial date; (2) plaintiff made a diligent, reasonable, and good-faith effort to discover such necessary facts or evidence more than nine months prior to the first assigned trial date; (3) after the trial date was assigned, plaintiff made a diligent, reasonable, and good-faith effort to complete necessary discovery; (4) plaintiff filed a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13 as soon as reasonably practicable after completing such discovery, but within two years after filing the original complaint; and (5) defendant will suffer no surprise or prejudice by reason of the shortened time period and will be given every reasonable opportunity to complete all necessary discovery in order to prepare to meet the punitive damages allegations [Goodstein v. Superior Court (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 1635, 1645, 50 Cal. Rptr. 2d 459] . In order to apply this narrow exception, a trial court must make specific findings showing that plaintiff has met each of the five steps [Goodstein v. Superior Court (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 1635, 1645, 50 Cal. Rptr. 2d 459 ; see, e.g., Freedman v. Superior Court (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 198, 206-207, 82 Cal. Rptr. 3d 563 (assuming test applied, plaintiff failed to meet either of first two steps)].

The language in Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a) making the provisions of the section applicable to actions "arising out of the professional negligence of a health care provider" does not make the provisions inapplicable to causes of action identified as intentional torts rather than as negligence. If an injured party seeks punitive damages for an injury that is directly related to the professional services provided by a health care provider acting in its capacity as such, the action is one arising out of professional negligence, and the party must comply with Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a) [Central Pathology Serv. Med. Clinic, Inc. v. Superior Court (1992) 3 Cal. 4th 181, 191-192, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 208, 832 P.2d 924 , disapproving, Bommareddy v. Superior Court (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1017, 272 Cal. Rptr. 246] .

For example, a cause of action against a health care provider for fraud or intentional infliction of emotional distress predicated on the manner in which the health care provider performed and communicated the results of medical tests is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13 because the injury arose out of the manner in which professional services are provided [Central Pathology Serv. Med. Clinic, Inc. v. Superior Court (1992) 3 Cal. 4th 181, 192-193, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 208, 832 P.2d 924] .

Similarly, a cause of action predicated on a physician's alleged fraud in conspiring with an employer to deprive employees of workers' compensation benefits by providing substandard medical treatment and advice is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13, because the alleged fraud related directly to the manner in which the physician rendered professional services [Davis v. Superior Court (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 623, 627, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 6] .

An allegation of sexual battery in the course of rendering gynecological services is also directly related to the manner in which the gynecological services were rendered, and so Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13 requires a motion for leave to amend supported by evidence before a claim for punitive damages may be pleaded [Cooper v Superior Court (1994) 56 Cal. App. 4th 744, 751-752, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 674 (not in conflict with arguably contradictory dictum in Central Pathology Serv. Med. Clinic, Inc. v. Superior Court (1992) 3 Cal. 4th 181, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 208, 832 P.2d 924)].

Because MICRA only applies to professional negligence that causes personal injury or wrongful death, Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13 only applies when the claim seeks damages for such injury or death [Vazquez de Mercado v. Superior Court (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 711, 715-716, 55 Cal. Rptr. 3d 889 ; see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5(2)]. For these purposes, "personal injury" covers only injury that impairs the well-being or mental or physical health of the plaintiff, and the term does not cover purely economic injury [Vazquez de Mercado v. Superior Court (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 711, 715-716, 55 Cal. Rptr. 3d 889] .

An actual doctor-patient relationship is not required to enforce application of the procedural requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13, so long as the defendant was acting in the capacity of a health care provider at the time of the allegedly tortious acts. Therefore, the statute applied to a claim brought against a sperm bank and the doctors that performed the genetic screening on the donor, because the collection, processing, and testing of sperm for use in artificial insemination requires the exercise of professional expertise and judgment [Johnson v. Superior Court (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 869, 885-886, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 650] . Similarly, the statute applied to claims against a medical group made up of licensed physicians that provided health facility outpatient services under contract with a health care service plan, even though the allegedly actionable conduct occurred while the medical group was reviewing the medical necessity of the plaintiff's request for new prosthetics. The court rejected the plaintiff's argument that the medical group's conduct did not arise out of professional negligence because it was performing its contractual duties as a utilization review organization for the health care service plan at the time, noting that the group was required to exercise medical judgment and apply clinical standards in performing those duties [Palmer v. Superior Court (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 953, 966-967, 972, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 252] .

In College Hosp. Inc. v. Superior Court (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 704, 719, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 882 P.2d 894 , the California Supreme Court articulated the standard of proof for a plaintiff to amend a complaint to state a punitive damages claim under Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a). According to the Court, the plaintiff must state facts in the proposed amended complaint that are legally sufficient to support a punitive damages claim and must produce evidence in the form of supporting affidavits that reveals the actual existence of a triable claim. The Court further stated that substantiation of a proposed punitive damages claim occurs only when the factual recitals are made under penalty of perjury and set forth competent admissible evidence within the personal knowledge of the declarant. The Court noted that its approach was largely consistent with the "prima facie" approach formulated by the courts of appeal in Hung v. Wang (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 908, 931, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 113 , and other cases that have followed its analysis [College Hosp., Inc. v. Superior Court (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 704, 719-720 n.6, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 882 P.2d 894] .

For a general discussion of the availability of punitive damages in tort actions, see Ch. 177, Damages .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesDamagesPunitive DamagesCivil ProcedureRemediesJudgment InterestGeneral

OverviewTortsDamagesGeneral OverviewTortsDamagesCompensatory DamagesLost IncomeGeneral OverviewTortsDamagesConsortium DamagesSpousesTortsDamagesPunitive DamagesGeneral OverviewTortsDamagesPunitive DamagesAward CalculationsGeneral OverviewTortsProcedureSettlementsMultipartiesPartial SettlementsTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesApportionmentTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesAward Calculations

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Procedure

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.50

§ 415.50 Judgment Lien

A certified copy of a money judgment issued pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7, if recorded with the county recorder, creates a judgment lien on the judgment debtor's real property [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.320(a)(2)]. Unless the money judgment is satisfied or the judgment lien is released, a judgment lien created under Code Civ. Proc. § 697.320 continues for 10 years from the date of its creation. Its duration may be extended any number of times by recording during the time it is in existence a certified copy of the judgment in the manner provided for its initial recording. This rerecording extends the duration of the judgment lien until 10 years from the date of the rerecording [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.320(b)].

A judgment lien created under Code Civ. Proc. § 697.320 is a lien for the amount of the installments as they mature under the terms of the judgment, plus accrued interest and the costs as they are added to the judgment pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 685.010-685.110, and less the amount of any partial satisfactions, but does not become a lien for any installment until it becomes due and payable under the terms of the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.350(c)].

For additional discussion of liens based on and satisfaction of installment judgments, see Ch. 318, Judgments .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesJudgment LiensGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersGeneral OverviewReal Property LawNonmortgage LiensJudgment Liens

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Procedure

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.51

§ 415.51 Arbitration

Pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1295, contracts for medical services may contain provisions binding the parties to arbitration of any dispute as to the professional negligence of a health care provider in providing services pursuant to the contract. Specific language requirements and a boldface notice of the arbitration provision to be placed above the patient's signature line are designated by Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(a), (b). The United States Supreme Court's decision in Allied-Bruce Terminix Cos., Inc. v. Dobson [Allied-Bruce Terminix Cos., Inc. v. Dobson (1995) 513 U.S. 265, 115 S. Ct. 834, 130 L. Ed. 2d 753 (Federal Arbitration Act preempts state law that seeks to invalidate arbitration agreements)] throws into question whether a contract lacking the warning required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(c) is unenforceable. For further discussion, see Ch. 32, Contractual Arbitration: Agreements and Compelling Arbitration .

Once signed by the parties, such contracts govern all subsequent open-book account transactions for medical services for which the contract was signed until or unless rescinded by written notice within 30 days of signature [Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(c)]. Such contracts are not limited to covering treatment provided contemporaneously to their signing; the agreements may also apply to future treatment of similar problems over the course of the physician-patient relationship [Gross v. Recabaren (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 771, 777-778, 253 Cal. Rptr. 820] . The opened or closed nature of a book account turns on the parties' expectations of further transactions between them [Gross v. Recabaren (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 771, 778, 253 Cal. Rptr. 820] .

An arbitration agreement signed by one physician may be invoked by a second physician who treated the first physician's patient, but never signed the agreement [Michaelis v. Schori (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 133, 139, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 380] . The Michaelis court held that an arbitration agreement that a patient signed during prenatal treatment rendered by one doctor applied to the patient's malpractice claim against another doctor who allegedly was negligent during the patient's delivery.

If the patient is a minor child, a parent may bind both the child and the other parent to arbitrate claims related to medical service for the child [see Bolanos v. Khalatian (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1586, 1591, 283 Cal. Rptr. 209 (mother, by signing agreement, bound unborn child and child's nonsignatory father); see also Pietrelli v. Peacock (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 943, 948, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 688 (arbitration agreement signed by obstetrical patient is binding upon subsequently conceived child)]. If the patient is a minor who receives treatment relating to pregnancy, she is bound by an arbitration agreement that she signed, even if the agreement was not signed by her parents [Michaelis v. Schori (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 133, 138, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 380] .

Contracts complying with the requirements set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(a)-(c) may not be voided as adhesive, unconscionable, or otherwise improper [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(e)]. However, a patient who has signed a properly constructed agreement may attack its binding effect on the limited ground that the contract was not entered into knowingly and voluntarily [Ramirez v. Superior Court (1980) 103 Cal. App. 3d 746, 755-756, 163 Cal. Rptr. 223] .

A retroactive agreement to arbitrate malpractice claims arising out of past medical treatment is not entitled to the presumption of validity contained in Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(e). However, such an agreement may be enforced if it is not unconscionable and does not contain terms that are beyond the reasonable expectations of an ordinary person [Coon v. Nicola (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 1225, 1234, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 846] . Applying this test, the Coon court determined that an arbitration agreement was binding when its retroactive provision had to be separately initialed by the patient and was signed during a post-operative office visit under circumstances in which the patient had an opportunity to question its terms.

A contract that is not subject to the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(a)-(c) because the organization is one described in Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(f) is still enforceable if the notice requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(f) have been complied with [Herbert v. Superior Court (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 718, 726-727, 215 Cal. Rptr. 477] . If a patient expressly contracts to submit to arbitration any dispute concerning medical malpractice, and the agreement fully complies with Code Civ. Proc. § 1295, it is deemed to apply to all medical malpractice claims arising out of the services contracted for, whether the claims are asserted by the patient or by a third party [Gross v. Recabaren (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 771, 781, 253 Cal. Rptr. 820 (loss of consortium claim by patient's spouse subject to arbitration agreement); Mormile v. Sinclair (1994) 21 Cal. App. 4th 1508, 1514, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 725 (same); Michaelis v. Schori (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 133, 138, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 380 (arbitration agreement signed by obstetrical patient is binding upon unborn child's nonsignatory father)].

Court of appeal opinions are in disagreement over whether a person before his or her death may legally bind other family members to arbitrate subsequent wrongful death claims. One line of cases holds that an enforceable agreement requiring the arbitration of claims, if covering the tortious act that is the basis of the wrongful death action, requires that the wrongful death action be submitted to arbitration even if the plaintiffs were not signatories to the arbitration agreement [see, e.g., Herbert v. Superior Court (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 718, 722-727, 215 Cal. Rptr. 477 ; Hawkins v. Superior Court (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 413, 416-419, 152 Cal. Rptr. 491]. However, another line of cases holds that, while a person may have the authority to bind minor children to arbitrate claims brought after the person's death, a person does not generally have the authority to bind a spouse or adult children to arbitrate his or her claims, including wrongful death claims [see, e.g., Ruiz v. Podolsky (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 227, 238-247, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 828 (review granted Oct. 14, 2009; adult children not bound); Rhodes v. California Hospital Medical Center (1978) 76 Cal. App. 3d 606, 608-610, 143 Cal. Rptr. 59 (spouse not bound); see also Baker v. Birnbaum (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 288, 291-294, 248 Cal. Rptr. 336 (husband's loss of consortium claim not subject to arbitration)]. Those cases note that a wrongful death action in California is separate and distinct from any cause of action that the decedent may have had had he or she survived, and a decedent generally has no authority to bind adult family members to arbitrate their personal claims [see, e.g., Ruiz v. Podolsky (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 227, 238-247, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 828 (review granted Oct. 14, 2009)]. The issue is currently pending before the California Supreme Court [see Ruiz v. Podolsky (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 227, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 828 (review granted Oct. 14, 2009)].

As noted above, in order to allow a patient sufficient time to confirm that a waiver of the right to a jury trial is made knowingly and voluntarily, Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(c) requires that the patient be given 30 days after signing the agreement to decide whether to rescind an agreement to arbitrate [Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(c)]. However, if the patient dies within this 30-day period, the agreement to arbitrate will generally be unenforceable as the person signing the agreement did not have the full statutory period to reconsider whether to rescind [Rodriguez v. Superior Court (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 1461, 1469-1470, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 728]. Although not entirely settled, an exception to that rule might be available if an arbitration agreement expressly provides a procedure for rescission on behalf of a nonpatient minor child who might otherwise be bound by a parent's signature. Thus, for example, if an agreement expressly states that a guardian appointed for a minor child following the death of the child's parent may exercise the right to rescind, the arbitration agreement might be enforceable in the event the child's guardian does not timely exercise this right. Under those circumstances, the equitable tolling doctrine might be used to extend the time for the guardian to act to exclude any period before the guardian was appointed, as well as any additional time between the appointment and the time the guardian learned or reasonably should have learned of the arbitration agreement [see Rodriguez v. Superior Court (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 1461, 1472, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 728].

If the arbitration agreement meets the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 1295, the parties may agree to arbitrate all future claims, even those stemming from treatment for different injuries [Reigelsperger v. Siller (2007) 40 Cal. 4th 574, 579, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 887, 150 P.3d 764] . A doctor's communications with a patient's insurer about the patient's medical records, done at the request of the patient, comes within the provision of medical services, and disputes about the propriety and scope of the communications are covered by an arbitration agreement meeting the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 1295 [Titolo v. Cano (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 310, 317-319, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 616].

Awards under arbitration agreements are not necessarily bound by the limits of Civ. Code § 3333.2(b), which places a $250,000 cap on noneconomic damages in medical malpractice suits. The Fourth Appellate District Court of Appeal has held that Civ. Code § 3333.2 does not preclude an arbitration award of punitive damages when the patient's claim is based on fraud, willful neglect, and malicious acts, and that punitive damages that may be asserted in court may also be asserted under the arbitration clauses in Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(a) and (b) when the issue is submitted by the patient or with the consent of both parties [Baker v. Sadick (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 618, 627, 208 Cal. Rptr. 676] . The First Appellate District has gone even further, and has held that unless specifically required under the terms of the arbitration agreement to act in conformity with rules of law, an arbitration award may be based on broad principles of justice and equity, without regard to any limit imposed by Civ. Code § 3333.2(b), and generally will be immune from judicial review [Nogueiro v. Kaiser Found. Hosps. (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 1192, 1194-1195, 250 Cal. Rptr. 478] .

Certain reporting requirements pertaining to judgments, arbitration awards, and settlement agreements have been established by Bus. & Prof. Code § 801 et seq. For example, insurers must send to the Medical Board of California, the Osteopathic Medical Board, or the California Board of Podiatric Medicine a complete report if a licensee of the particular board is involved in a settlement of over $30,000 or an arbitration award or civil judgment of any amount, whether or not vacated by a settlement after entry of a judgment that was not reversed on appeal, of a claim or action for damages for death or personal injury caused by the licensee's alleged negligence, error, or omission in practice, or by his or her rendering of unauthorized professional services [Bus. & Prof. Code § 801.01(a)(1), (b)(1); see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 801.01(a)(2)]. Awards or settlements exceeding $3,000 must be reported by any insurer issuing a professional liability policy to certain other health care providers [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 801(a)]. Similar reports are required from uninsured health care providers [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 801.01(b)(2), 802].

The period of limitation to enforce an agreement to arbitrate a medical malpractice claim is the four-year period of Code Civ. Proc. § 337 [Meyer v. Carnow (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 169, 173-174, 229 Cal. Rptr. 617 (noting that action must be brought within shorter period if provided for by agreement or if reasonable to require shorter period)].

The Knox-Keene Health Care Service Plan Act of 1975, codified beginning at Health & Safety Code § 1340, has separate arbitration provisions that apply to health care service plans [see Health & Safety Code § 1363]. However, the provisions of that Act do not apply to separate arbitration agreements between a participating physician and his or her patient if the physician is neither an agent nor an employee of the health care service plan [Hollister v. Benzl (1999) 71 Cal. App. 4th 582, 587, 83 Cal. Rptr. 2d 903 (participating physician was independent contractor of medical group that was itself contractor of health care service plan)].

For forms relating to arbitration clauses and the stay or dismissal of actions based on such clauses, see Chs. 30-39, Alternative Dispute Resolution . For further discussion of arbitration clauses in medical services contracts, see Ch. 209, Dentists , and Ch. 295, Hospitals , respectively.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAlternative Dispute ResolutionGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureAlternative Dispute ResolutionArbitrationsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureAlternative Dispute ResolutionArbitrationsFederal Arbitration ActArbitration AgreementsContracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsArbitration ClausesInsurance LawClaims & ContractsArbitrationInternational Trade LawDispute ResolutionArbitrationTortsProcedureAlternative Dispute Resolution

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Procedure

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.52

§ 415.52 Fees by Plaintiffs' Attorneys

An attorney may not contract for or collect a contingency fee for representing any person seeking damages in connection with an action for injury or damages against a health care provider based on such person's alleged professional negligence in excess of the following limits [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146(a)]:

- Forty percent of the first $50,000 recovered,
- Thirty-three and one-third percent of the next $50,000 recovered,
- Twenty-five percent of the next $500,000 recovered, and
- Fifteen percent of any amount on which the recovery exceeds $600,000.

These limitations apply regardless of whether the recovery is by settlement, arbitration, or judgment, or whether the person for whom the recovery is made is a responsible adult, an infant, or a person of unsound mind [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146(a)]. A trial court does not have the power to award extraordinary attorney's fees under Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146 [Hathaway v. Baldwin Park Cmty. Hosp. (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 1247, 1253, 231 Cal. Rptr. 334] . Furthermore, a client may not waive the provisions of Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146 by agreeing to pay fees in excess of the statutory limits [Fineberg v. Harney & Moore (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 1049, 1055, 255 Cal. Rptr. 299] . An attorney who, knowing that a waiver is illegal, nevertheless obtains a waiver of the statutory fee limits from a client may be subject to an action for malpractice, fraud, or to recover money had and received [see Schultz v. Harney (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 1611, 1620-1624 (although attorney's actions were taken before court adjudication that waiver of statutory limits was ineffectual, client had malpractice cause of action against attorney for obtaining waiver from client, as well as action to recover money had and received, and although not pleaded properly, a fraud cause of action may also have been available)].

An attorney representing several plaintiffs in a wrongful death case based on professional negligence must apply the fee scale in Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146(a) to the judgment as a whole. The attorney may not compute fees separately on each plaintiff's share of the award [Yates v. Law Offices of Samuel Shore (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 583, 590, 280 Cal. Rptr. 316] .

Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146 fixes the maximum allowable contingent fee for a medical malpractice action as a whole, including an appeal, and the limitation may not be avoided by charging separate fees for segments of the case or by charging both contingent and hourly fees [see Yates v. Law Offices of Samuel Shore (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 583, 591-592, 280 Cal. Rptr. 316 (attorney is prohibited from charging in excess of statutory formula for hourly fees of attorney he associated to handle appeal)].

The 1987 amendment to Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146, which increased the maximum contingency fee in medical malpractice lawsuits resulting in recoveries greater than $200,000, operates prospectively only. The original 1975 version of Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146, not the 1987 amendment to Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146, sets the maximum fee in cases in which the contingency-fee agreement for legal representation was entered into before the effective date of the 1987 amendment (January 1, 1988), even if settlement and fee distribution took place after the effective date of the amendment [Wienholz v. Kaiser Found. Hosps. (1989) 217 Cal. App. 3d 1501, 1503, 267 Cal. Rptr. 1 ; see also former Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146 (allowing fee of 10 percent on recoveries over $200,000)].

The constitutionality of the contingency fee limitations of Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146 has been upheld by the California Supreme Court, which rejected the contentions that the limitations constituted a denial of due process, violation of equal protection, or violation of the separation of powers doctrine [Roa v. Lodi Med. Group, Inc. (1985) 37 Cal. 3d 920, 933, 211 Cal. Rptr. 77, 695 P.2d 164 ; see also Fineberg v. Harney & Moore (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 1049, 1054-1055, 255 Cal. Rptr. 299 (Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146 does not deprive client of right to counsel)].

"Professional negligence" within the meaning of Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146 may include conduct that is an intentional departure from professional standards. In addition to an action for professional malpractice or negligence, that conduct might be the basis for a tort action not within the scope of Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146. For example, when a psychiatrist purposefully abuses the therapist-patient relationship to satisfy his or her own personal desires, the patient may maintain both an action for professional malpractice or negligence and an action for an intentional tort [see Waters v. Bourhis (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 424, 433-435, 220 Cal. Rptr. 666, 709 P.2d 469] .

The fee limitations of Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146 do not apply when a plaintiff knowingly chooses to proceed under two or more causes of action, including one that is not within the professional negligence definition of Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146, and obtains a recovery that is based on the cause of action not grounded in professional negligence. An attorney representing a client with both types of causes of action who seeks to collect a larger attorney fee than is authorized by Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146 must specifically advise the client of the pros and cons of alternative litigation strategies, including potential attorney fees, and obtain the client's consent to pursue the claims under both causes of action [Waters v. Bourhis (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 424, 436-438, 220 Cal. Rptr. 666, 709 P.2d 469] .

As used in Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146, "recovered" means the net sum recovered after deducting any disbursements or costs incurred in connection with prosecution or settlement of the claim. Costs of medical care incurred by plaintiff and the attorney's office-overhead costs or charges are not deductible disbursements or costs for such purpose [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146(c)(1)].

A contingency fee contract for representation against a health care provider in connection with an action for professional negligence must be in writing and must contain a statement of the maximum limits set forth by Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146, and must also state that the attorney and client may negotiate a lower rate [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6147(a), (a)(5)].

If the award is to be made in periodic payments pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7, the court shall place a total value on the payments based on the projected life expectancy of the plaintiff and include this amount in computing the total award from which attorney's fees are calculated [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146(b)]. The appropriate measure of the recovery, for purposes of determining the contingent fee, is the present value of the future periodic payments, not the arithmetical sum of all future payments required by the award [Schneider v. Kaiser Found. Hosps. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1311, 1314, 1320, 264 Cal. Rptr. 227] . If the future periodic payments are to be made from an annuity purchased by the defendant from a third-party insurance company, the cost of this annuity to the defendant typically is the best measure of present value [see Schneider v. Kaiser Found. Hosps. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1311, 1314, 1319-1320, 264 Cal. Rptr. 227] . If a plaintiff will recover both a lump-sum award and future periodic payments, the preferable approach is to satisfy the attorney's fee out of the lump-sum payment if possible, rather than out of the future periodic payments [Deocampo v. Ahn (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 758, 774-775, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesCosts & Attorney FeesAttorney Expenses & FeesStatutory AwardsTortsDamagesCosts & Attorney FeesGeneral OverviewTortsDamagesCosts & Attorney FeesContingent Fees

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Procedure

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 415.53-415.69

[Reserved]

§§ 415.53[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.70

§ 415.70 Forms of Discovery

For forms of interrogatories for use in malpractice actions, see Bender's Forms of Discovery, Ch. 128, Medical History, and Ch. 147, Physicians (Matthew Bender)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsInterrogatoriesForm

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.71

§ 415.71 California Deposition and Discovery Practice

For discussion relating to discovery in medical malpractice actions, see DeMeo, California Deposition and Discovery Practice, Vol. 1, §§ 24.31, 24.40, 28.05[5]; Vol. 3, § 62.20[4] (Matthew Bender)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.72

§ 415.72 California Rules of Court

Use of Judicial Council trial court pleading form in complaint for personal injury, property damage, or wrongful death.
Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.45

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.73

§ 415.73 State Statutes

[1] Arbitration

Duty of malpractice liability insurer or uninsured physician to report arbitration awards of any amount or settlements exceeding specified amounts from malpractice claims. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 801-802

Requirements for and validity of arbitration provision in contract between patient and licensed health care provider for medical services. Code Civ. Proc. § 1295

[2] Attorney's Fees

Limitation of attorney's contingency fee in action against health care provider for professional negligence. Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146

[3] Consent to Medical Treatment

[a] Emergencies

Abrogation of consent requirement in emergency situations. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2397

[b] Medical Experimentation

Informed consent to medical experimentation by human subject. Health & Safety Code § 24173

Informed consent to administration of experimental drugs. Health & Safety Code §§ 111525, 11530

[c] Minors and Incompetents

Parent or guardian's authorization of adult to whom minor is entrusted to consent to medical treatment of minor. Fam. Code § 6910

Consent by minor 15 years of age or older living apart from parent or guardian and managing own financial affairs to medical treatment. Fam. Code § 6922

Consent of minor 12 years of age to mental health treatment or counseling. Fam. Code § 6924(b)

Consent by unmarried minor to furnishing of medical treatment related to prevention or treatment of pregnancy. Fam. Code § 6925

Consent by minor 12 years of age or older to medical treatment for infectious, contagious, or communicable disease. Fam. Code § 6926

Consent by minor rape victims to medical diagnosis and treatment. Fam. Code § 6927

Consent by sexually assaulted minors to medical treatment. Fam. Code § 6928

Consent by minor to furnishing of medical treatment and counseling relating to drug or alcohol-related problem. Fam. Code § 6929

Consent by married minor to furnishing of medical care. Fam. Code §§ 7002(a), 7050(e)(1)

Consent by minor on active duty with armed services to furnishing of medical care. Fam. Code §§ 7002(b), 7050(e)(1)

Authorization of physician to take skeletal X-rays of minor without obtaining consent for purpose of diagnosing child abuse or neglect syndrome. Penal Code § 11171

Consent by legal guardian to medical treatment and performance of surgery on ward. Prob. Code § 2353

Consent to medical treatment of conservatee not adjudicated to lack capacity to give informed consent. Prob. Code § 2354

Consent to medical treatment of conservatee adjudicated to lack capacity to give informed consent. Prob. Code § 2355

Court ordered medical treatment of ward or conservatee on petition of guardian or conservator. Prob. Code § 2357

Authorization of medical treatment for incompetent adults without conservators. Prob. Code §§ 3200-3211

[4] Damages

Measure of damages for breach of obligation not arising from contract is amount which will compensate plaintiff for all detriment proximately caused by defendant's conduct whether or not such detriment was anticipated. Civ. Code § 3333

Admissibility of amount payable to plaintiff under insurance plan or disability or compensation act in personal injury action based on professional negligence of health care provider. Civ. Code § 3333.1

Limitation of plaintiff's recovery for noneconomic losses in action for personal injury based on professional negligence of health care provider. Civ. Code § 3333.2

Provision for payment of future damages exceeding or equaling $50,000 in periodic installments in action for personal injury based on professional negligence of health care provider. Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7

[5] Declaratory Relief

Action for declaration of rights and duties arising from the rendering of professional health care services is provided for any malpractice insurer, insured physician, or other medical personnel. Code Civ. Proc. § 1062.5

[6] Emergency Medical Services

Matters to be considered by trier of fact and requirements of expert medical witnesses testifying in action for damages involving claim of negligence against physician and surgeon providing emergency medical coverage for general acute-care hospital emergency department. Health & Safety Code § 1799.110

[7] Independent Contractor

Rebuttable presumption that physician under contract to nonprofit community care clinic is independent contractor. Lab. Code § 2750.6

[8] Judgment Lien

Judgment pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7 (providing for periodic payment of future damages) is lien on real property of judgment debtor. Code Civ. Proc. § 674.7

[9] Limitations on Liability

[a] Emergencies

Good-faith rendering of professional medical services at the scene of an emergency creates immunity from liability for negligence. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2395

Immunity from liability for emergency treatment for medical complications arising from treatment by another health care provider rendered at request of such other health care provider. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2396

Immunity from liability for emergency treatment rendered to participant in community college or high school athletic event or contest. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2398

Immunity from liability for negligence for licensed nurses rendering treatment at scene of emergency. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2727.5

Immunity from liability for negligence for licensed vocational nurses rendering medical treatment at scene of emergency. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2861.5

Immunity granted to health care facility and its owners, operators, staff, and employees against liability arising from negligence of rescue team operating on premises to resuscitate persons in immediate danger of death. Health & Safety

Code § 1317

Immunity from liability granted to health care facility, its employees, and any physician, dentist, clinical psychologist, or podiatrist for refusal to render emergency treatment when due care is exercised in determining that patient is not suffering from emergency medical condition or that appropriate facilities or qualified personnel are unavailable. Health & Safety Code § 1317(c)

Immunity from liability for emergency services provided in state of emergency pursuant to request by public official. Bus. & Prof. Code § 900, Gov. Code § 8659

Immunity granted to owners and operators of emergency vehicles, and rescue teams operating in conjunction with the vehicles, against liability for negligent acts and omissions by such rescue team while attempting to resuscitate person in immediate danger of death. Veh. Code § 165.5

[b] Non-Emergencies

Immunity against actions arising from health care provider's receipt of unsolicited referral from multiphasic screening unit, including the failure to examine or treat on basis of such referral. Civ. Code § 43.9

Immunity granted to hospital against actions arising from hospital's negligence in taking action upon the recommendation of its medical staff. Civ. Code § 43.97

Immunity against actions arising as result of any occurrence or result caused solely by natural course of disease or condition. Civ. Code § 1714.8

Limited immunity from liability resulting from good faith reliance on health care decision of patient's attorney in fact. Prob. Code § 4750(a) (repealed and replaced by Prob. Code § 4740, effective July 1, 2000)

Immunity of public entity or public employee against liability for injury caused by failure to make any or adequate physical or mental examination of any person for purpose of determining whether such person has condition constituting hazard to health and safety. Gov. Code § 855.6

Immunity of public entity or public employee against liability for injury resulting from diagnosing or failing to diagnose mental illness or addiction. Gov. Code § 855.8

Immunity from liability for negligence of licensed health professionals voluntarily participating in National Influenza Program of 1976. Gov. Code § 856.6

Immunity from liability of any person for negligent acts or omissions in administering vaccine or other immunizing agents to a minor as required by state law or given as part of an outreach program pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 120400. Health & Safety Code § 120455

Immunity of physician against liability for withholding or withdrawing life support devices in accordance with patient directive. Health & Safety Code § 7190.5 (repealed as of July 1, 2000); Probate Code §§ 4665(e), 4740 (effective July 1, 2000)

Immunity from civil or criminal liability for physician or surgeon who discloses results of AIDS test to person believed to be spouse of patient. Health & Safety Code § 121015

Immunity of physician or surgeon for reporting patient diagnosed as having disorder characterized by lapses of consciousness. Health & Safety Code § 103900(f)

[10] Negligence

[a] Generally

General principles of liability for negligence. Civ. Code § 1714(a)

[b] Res Ipsa Loquitur

Operation of res ipsa loquitur presumption. Evid. Code § 646

[c] Violation of Statute

Rebuttable presumption of failure to exercise due care arising from violation of statute. Evid. Code § 669

[d] Professional Negligence

Definitions of health care provider and professional negligence for purpose of medical malpractice actions. Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146; Civ. Code §§ 1714.8, 3333.1-3333.2; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 340.5, 364, 667.7, 1029.6, 1295

[e] Statutory Duties

Duty of physician or surgeon to report patients 14 years of age or older diagnosed as having disorders marked by lapses of consciousness. Health & Safety Code § 103900(a)

Duty of physician, nurses, and other persons learning of an outbreak of a communicable, infectious, or contagious disease to report that fact to public health officer. Health & Safety Code § 120245

Duty of physician to report any person under his or her care who is suffering from any self-inflicted wound, or a wound or injury inflicted by a deadly weapon or in violation of penal law. Penal Code § 11161

Duty of physician to report known or reasonably suspected instances of child abuse or neglect ascertained while acting in a professional capacity. Penal Code § 11164 et seq.

Duty of physician to make specified disclosures and obtain written consent before treating patient with DMSO preparation. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4211.5

Duty of physician to provide information about available prostate cancer diagnostic procedures to patients possessing certain risk factors. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2248.

[11] Notice of Intent to Commence Action

Notice of intention to commence against health care provider based on professional negligence. Code Civ. Proc. § 364

Service of notice in medical malpractice actions. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020

[12] Punitive Damages

Prohibition against claiming punitive damages in complaint or other pleading against health care provider, and procedure for claiming. Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13

[13] Security for Costs

Plaintiff is required to furnish security for costs of defense in action against health care provider for professional negligence. Code Civ. Proc. § 1029.6

[14] Settlement Offer

Demand for settlement or offer to compromise in medical malpractice action prior to service of complaint is required to be accompanied by authorization to disclose medical information to those insuring or defending defendant. Civ. Code § 56.105

[15] Sexual Contact

Cause of action against psychotherapist for sexual contact. Civ. Code § 43.93

[16] Statute of Limitations

Statute of limitations in action by minor against physician for prenatal injuries or injuries suffered in course of birth. Civ. Code § 340.4

Statute of limitations governing battery action. Code Civ. Proc. § 340.3

Statute of limitations in actions against health care providers for professional negligence. Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5

Separate trial of statute of limitations defense prior to other issues in professional negligence actions against health care providers. Code Civ. Proc. § 597.5

[17] Summary Judgment

Motion for summary judgment by defendant in action based on professional negligence precludes, or is precluded by, motion for security for costs of defense pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1029.6. Code Civ. Proc. § 1029.6(e), (f)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesEmergency Care NegligenceGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesEmergency Care NegligenceDefenses & LiabilitiesHealthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesFacility LiabilityGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesGovernmental & Nonprofit LiabilityGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesIndependent Contractor LiabilityHealthcare LawActions Against

Healthcare WorkersGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersDoctors & PhysiciansHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersSurgeonsHealthcare LawTreatmentEnd-of-Life DecisionsLife SupportHealthcare LawTreatmentFailures & Refusals to TreatGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentPatient ConsentGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentPatient ConsentInformed ConsentTortsDamagesCosts & Attorney FeesContingent FeesTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceActionsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.74

§ 415.74 Decisions

[1] Arbitration

Wife of physician was bound to arbitration provision in husband's contract for professional liability insurance when prosecuting claims against insurer, because wife had accepted insurer's defense of claims brought against her in conjunction with defense provided to husband in malpractice claim, had affirmatively agreed to insurer's settlement of malpractice claims, and had, through attorney, initially invoked arbitration clause herself, although had subsequently withdrawn request for arbitration. NORCAL Mut. Ins. Co. v. Newton (2000) 84 Cal. App. 4th 64, 81-82, 100 Cal. Rptr. 2d 683

Arbitration agreement signed by patient was binding on patient's nonsignatory spouse. Mormile v. Sinclair (1994) 21 Cal. App. 4th 1508, 1514, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 725

Arbitration agreement signed by obstetrical patient was binding on unborn child's nonsignatory father. Michaelis v. Schori (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 133, 139, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 380

Arbitration agreement signed by one physician could not be invoked by second physician who treated first physician's patient but never signed agreement. Michaelis v. Schori (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 133, 139, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 380

Minor who receives treatment relating to pregnancy was bound by arbitration agreement that she signed, even if agreement was not signed by her parents. Michaelis v. Schori (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 133, 138, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 380

Retroactive agreement to arbitrate malpractice claims arising out of past medical treatment is enforceable if it is not unconscionable and does not contain terms that are beyond reasonable expectations of ordinary person. Coon v. Nicola (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 1225, 1234, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 846

Failure by signatory to read arbitration agreement does not make agreement invalid, in absence of fraud, coercion, or excusable neglect. Bolanos v. Khalatian (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1586, 1590, 283 Cal. Rptr. 209

Malpractice plaintiff, who had asserted rights and benefits under group prepaid health plan after she had apparently withdrawn from plan, was estopped from denying application of binding arbitration required by health plan; medical provider was not required to challenge and examine continuing eligibility of each purportedly covered member to maintain arbitration rights. Avina v. Cigna Healthplans of Cal. (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 1, 3, 259 Cal. Rptr. 105

In medical malpractice claim against physician and hospital, physician who, as hospital employee, accepted patients through enrollments in hospital's prepaid health care plan was bound to arbitration agreement between hospital and enrollees even though he had not signed that agreement. Harris v. Superior Court (1986) 188 Cal. App. 3d 475, 477-479, 233 Cal. Rptr. 186

[2] Attorney's Fees

Attorney's fees limitations of Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146 are not applicable when plaintiff knowingly chooses to proceed under two or more causes of action, including one that is not within professional negligence definition of Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146, and obtains recovery based on cause of action not grounded in professional negligence. Waters v. Bourhis (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 424, 436-437, 220 Cal. Rptr. 666, 709 P.2d 469

Attorney representing client with multiple causes of action, including one not based on Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146 definition of professional negligence, who seeks to collect larger fee than authorized by Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146, is required specifically to advise client of pros and cons of alternative litigation strategies, including potential attorney fees, and obtain client's consent to pursue both types of causes of action. Waters v. Bourhis (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 424, 437-438, 220 Cal. Rptr. 666, 709 P.2d 469

Constitutionality of Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146, with respect to contingency fee limitations on attorneys representing medical malpractice plaintiffs, was upheld against attack on grounds of denial of due process, violation of equal protection, and violation of separation of powers doctrine. Roa v. Lodi Med. Group, Inc. (1985) 37 Cal. 3d 920, 933, 211 Cal. Rptr. 77, 695 P.2d 164

Attorney who gets waiver from client for attorney's fee limits found in Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146 for representation in medical malpractice claim knowing that waiver is illegal may be subject to action for malpractice, for fraud, or to recover money had and received. Schultz v. Harney (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 1611, 1620-1624, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 276

[3] Battery

Liability for battery arises when physician either fails to properly explain proposed procedure or performs substantially different treatment from that for which consent was obtained. Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 239-241, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1 ; Cline v. Lund (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 755, 768, 107 Cal. Rptr. 629

Physician committed battery by performing breast augmentation, to which plaintiff had expressly not consented, during surgery for excess skin removal following weight loss. Perry v. Shaw (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 658, 662, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 70

Trial court's refusal to instruct jury on tort of battery was harmless error if jury by its verdict on plaintiff's informed consent theory must have found either that plaintiff consented to treatment or that plaintiff's consent was implied under circumstances. Traxler v. Varady (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 1321, 1334, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 297

Defendant physician who had permission to operate on plaintiff on condition that he used family-donated blood, but who violated condition and used blood from hospital's general supply, was liable for battery; plaintiff's condition for treatment was not merely "collateral." Ashcraft v. King (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 604, 613-614, 278 Cal. Rptr. 900

For purposes of battery action, patient's consent to administration of drug prescribed for therapeutic purpose was not vitiated by fact that prescribing physician intentionally misrepresented to patient that drug was designed for different therapeutic purpose. Freedman v. Superior Court (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 734, 738-739, 263 Cal. Rptr. 1

Consent to tubal ligation after birth only on condition that baby was born without any abnormalities was conditional consent sufficient to support cause of action for battery when tubal ligation performed after birth of child with genetic disorder. Grieves v. Superior Court (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 159, 165, 203 Cal. Rptr. 556

Consent to administration of violence by psychiatrists for therapeutic purpose was vitiated by allegations that violence was in fact administered for improper nontherapeutic purposes. Rains v. Superior Court (1984) 150 Cal. App. 3d 933, 941, 198 Cal. Rptr. 249

Performance of unauthorized surgery due to mistake of fact as to identity of patient constituted technical battery but did not support award of punitive damages when no malice demonstrated. Ebaugh v. Rabkin (1972) 22 Cal. App. 3d 891, 895, 99 Cal. Rptr. 706

[4] Comparative Negligence

Instruction to jury that physician not liable for injuries proximately resulting from negligent failure of patient to follow reasonable instructions regarding treatment was prejudicial error when no evidence indicated such negligence by plaintiff. LeMons v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 869, 874-875, 148 Cal. Rptr. 355, 582 P.2d 946 (severed facial nerve resulting in paralysis); Bolen v. Woo (1979) 96 Cal. App. 3d 944, 952, 158 Cal. Rptr. 454 (treatment of infected foot)

Expert testimony is required to establish contributory negligence by plaintiff in medical malpractice cases. Barton v. Owen (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 484, 506, 139 Cal. Rptr. 494

[5] Contract Actions

Recovery for malpractice is allowed on theory of breach of warranty or contract when plaintiff proves existence of express contract in which physician promises particular result or cure and patient relies on promise in giving consent to treatment. McKinney v. Nash (1981) 120 Cal. App. 3d 428, 442, 174 Cal. Rptr. 642 ; Jamison v. Lindsay (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 223, 234, 166 Cal. Rptr. 443 (dicta)

In malpractice action based on breach of warranty, jury instruction that an element of physician's contract to perform tubal ligation was physician's affirmation of characteristic result of sterility was prejudicially erroneous; discussion of characteristics of procedure did not constitute express promise necessary to support breach of warranty action. Depenprock v. Kaiser Found. Health Plan, Inc. (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 167, 171, 144 Cal. Rptr. 724

Complaint alleging physician's breach of contract was able to withstand general demurrer when complaint permitted finding that physician and plaintiff agreed in writing physician would sterilize plaintiff in return for reasonable fee, and that physician failed to perform resulting in actual damages to plaintiff. Custodio v. Bauer (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 303, 315-316, 59 Cal. Rptr. 463

[6] Damages

Cap on noneconomic damages provided by Civil Code § 3333.2 applies to claim for failure to provide stabilizing treatment brought under federal Emergency Medical Treatment and Active Labor Act, 42 U.S.C.S. § 1395dd. Barris v. County of Los Angeles (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 101, 116-117, 83 Cal. Rptr. 2d 145, 972 P.2d 966

Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13's threshold requirement for punitive damages claims against health care providers requires plaintiff to show that claim is supported by competent, admissible evidence, but not giving trial court authority to independently assess evidence. College Hosp. v. Superior Court (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 704, 719, 722-727, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 882 P.2d 894

Damages ceiling contained in Civ. Code § 3333.2(b) applies to third-party action against health care provider for equitable indemnity. Western Steamship Lines, Inc. v. San Pedro Peninsula Hosp. (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 440C

Claim for punitive damages in action against health care provider is subject to Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a) if injury that is basis for claim was caused by conduct that was directly related to rendition of professional services. Central Pathology Serv. Med. Clinic, Inc. v. Superior Court (1992) 3 Cal. 4th 181, 191-193, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 208, 832 P.2d 924 ; see also Delaney v. Baker, 20 Cal. 4th 23, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 610, 971 P.2d 986 (1999)

Civ. Code §§ 3333.1, 3333.2 not unconstitutional denial of due process or equal protection; periodic payment of future damages is mandatory under Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7, but reversal is not required if defendant failed to request special findings designating damages as prior to award or future. Fein v. Permanente Med. Group (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 137, 155-178, 211 Cal. Rptr. 368, 695 P.2d 665

Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7 (future payments of future damages) is not unconstitutional denial of due process or equal protection. American Bank & Trust Co. v. Community Hospital (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 359, 369-370, 373, 204 Cal. Rptr. 671, 683 P.2d 670

Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7 (future payments of future damages) requires jury to determine what portion of damages award constitutes future damages, but authorizing court to fashion periodic payment schedule; courts well advised to use special verdict procedure of Code Civ. Proc. § 625 to fashion payment schedule. American Bank & Trust Co. v. Community Hospital (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 359, 376-377, 204 Cal. Rptr. 671, 683 P.2d 670

Damages for fear of contracting AIDS from surgeon not available absent evidence that patient will probably develop disease. Kerins v. Hartley (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 1062, 1074, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 172

Fraud claim against physician was covered by Code Civ. Proc. 425.13, requiring special court order to seek punitive damages in action against health care provider. Davis v. Superior Court (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 623, 627, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 6

Motion by defendant for periodic payment, made after delivery of general verdict by jury, is timely if defendant has provided in responsive pleadings notice that enables plaintiffs to plan evidence on issue of future damages. Gorman v. Leftwich (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 141, 152-153, 266 Cal. Rptr. 671

Trial court's unexplained refusal to provide special verdict form requested by defendant to obtain jury verdict regarding gross amount of future medical, hospital, surgical, and rehabilitation damages sustained by plaintiff was abuse of discretion. Gorman v. Leftwich (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 141, 150, 266 Cal. Rptr. 671

Trial court may consider trial testimony and supplementary post-verdict testimony to determine gross damages and to fashion schedule of periodic payments based thereon if jury returns only present value verdict. Gorman v. Leftwich (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 141, 150, 266 Cal. Rptr. 671

Hospital's failure to exercise reasonable care in reviewing competency of its staff physicians was "professional negligence" within meaning of Civ. Code § 3333.2(c)(2); noneconomic damages recoverable for such negligence was therefore limited to $250,000. Bell v. Sharp Cabrillo Hosp. (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1034, 1051, 260 Cal. Rptr. 886

Trial court was required to grant defendant's request for postverdict interrogatory on allocation of damages, pursuant to Civ. Code § 3333.2. Semsch v. Henry Mayo Newhall Mem'l Hosp. (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 162, 169-170, 216 Cal. Rptr. 913

Although Civ. Code § 3333.1 was not applicable to medical malpractice action because injury occurred prior to effective date of section 3333.1, trial court's ruling admitting evidence of plaintiff's receipt of Social Security disability benefits was within its discretion given its careful weighing of potential prejudicial effect of evidence against its relevance and probative value. Lafayette v. County of Los Angeles (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 547, 552-553, 208 Cal. Rptr. 668

Trial court did not abuse discretion in medical malpractice action by admitting evidence that plaintiff's illegitimate child was born two months before surgery at issue, because existence and cause of plaintiff's depression, allegedly caused by surgery, were contested damage issues. Lafayette v. County of Los Angeles (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 547, 553, 208 Cal. Rptr. 668

Allegation of intentional tort of battery is insufficent to warrant award of punitive damages; allegation and occurrence of oppression, fraud, or malice is necessary to support punitive damages. Grieves v. Superior Court (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 159, 166-168, 203 Cal. Rptr. 556

In medical malpractice action, imposition of Medi-Cal lien by State Department of Health Services for costs of treatment furnished to plaintiffs was not prohibited by Civ. Code § 3333.1, relating to admissibility of evidence and recovery of amount payable to plaintiff from certain collateral sources in personal injury actions against health care providers. Brown v. Stewart (1982) 129 Cal. App. 3d 331, 333-340, 181 Cal. Rptr. 112

Inadequacy of damages award was proper basis for granting new trial based on trial judge's analysis of plaintiff-patient's continuing medical problems, current and future pain for which no treatment was prescribed, and drastic change in lifestyle of plaintiff and her family due to physical suffering. Truhitte v. French Hosp. (1981) 128 Cal. App. 3d 332, 351, 180 Cal. Rptr. 152

Punitive damages are not recoverable in malpractice action based on battery when physician acted under good-faith mistake of fact. Ebaugh v. Rabkin (1972) 22 Cal. App. 3d 891, 895, 99 Cal. Rptr. 706

[7] Duty of Care

[a] To Patient

Obstetrician owes duty to both mother and fetus such that injury to fetus due to obstetrician's negligence during delivery may breach duty to mother, permitting her to recover damages for emotional distress as "direct victim" rather than as "bystander." Burgess v. Superior Court (1992) 2 Cal. 4th 1064, 1075-1076, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615, 831 P.2d 1197

Essential element of malpractice action is establishment of physician's duty to patient. Stafford v. Shultz (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 767, 774, 270 P.2d 1 ; Keene v. Wiggins (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 308, 313, 138 Cal. Rptr. 3

Physician owes no duty of care to patient concerning physician's evaluation of patient's medical condition if evaluation was solely for purposes of preemployment physical examination, examination was conducted at request of employer, patient did not seek medical treatment or advice from physician, and patient did not seek or decline medical treatment in reliance on evaluation. Felton v. Schaeffer (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 229, 234-235, 279 Cal. Rptr. 713

Duty of care owed by physician to patient arises in context of physician's effort to accomplish purpose for which physician is employed. Atienza v. Taub (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 388, 391, 239 Cal. Rptr. 454

Pathologists have no duty to disclose pathological analyses or conflicting pathology reports directly to patient or treating physician, but only to physician who refers tissue specimen. Mahannah v. Hirsch (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1520, 1527-1528, 237 Cal. Rptr. 140

Physician is not under duty to continue heroic life support measures once proven ineffective. Barber v. Superior Court (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 1006, 1017-1019, 195 Cal. Rptr. 484

[b] To Third Persons

Psychotherapist has duty of care to mother of minor patient if therapist undertakes to treat mother and minor patient for their intra-family difficulties by providing psychotherapy to both; duty of care is breached if therapist sexually molests child. Marlene F. v. Affiliated Psychiatric Med. Clinic, Inc. (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 583, 590-591, 257 Cal. Rptr. 98, 770 P.2d 278

Psychotherapist has duty to diagnose and warn third person of risk of danger of harm by psychotherapist's patient; duty extends to child of woman harmed by patient, who witnessed event and was mentally distressed by it. Hedlund v. Superior Court (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 695, 700-701, 705-706, 194 Cal. Rptr. 805, 669 P.2d 41 (decided before 1985 enactment of Civ. Code § 43.92, limiting duties of therapists)

Physician's duty of care extends to husband of woman negligently misdiagnosed as having venereal disease, when reasonably forseeable that husband would suffer distress as result of negligence. Molien v. Kaiser Found. Hosps. (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 916, 923, 930, 167 Cal. Rptr. 831, 616 P.2d 813

Professional practitioner incurs duty to protect third person threatened by practitioner's patient when practitioner determines, or should determine, existence of serious risk to such third person. Tarasoff v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 425, 431, 131 Cal. Rptr. 14, 551 P.2d 334 (decided before 1985 enactment of Civ. Code § 43.92, limiting duties of therapists)

Physician is liable to person who is not patient of physician, if person is examined by physician and, in course of examination, person is injured due to negligence of physician. Mero v. Sadoff (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1466, 1477, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 769

Health care provider who treats patient with communicable disease has duty to warn patient or patient's family of dangers of contagion. Reisner v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1195, 1198-1199, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 518

Fact that patient had on several occasions displayed inappropriate and offensive sexual behavior toward hospital workers was insufficient to put psychotherapist on notice, for purposes of defeating therapist's statutory immunity under Civ. Code § 43.92, that patient presented serious threat of physical violence. Barry v. Turek (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 1241, 1246, 267 Cal. Rptr. 553

Cause of action for negligent infliction of emotional distress resulting from defendant's malpractice is permitted for father of stillborn child; father is direct victim to whom physician owed duty of care. Sesma v. Cueto (1981) 129 Cal.

App. 3d 108, 116, 181 Cal. Rptr. 12

[8] Emotional Distress

Parent stated cause of action for negligent infliction of emotional distress against therapist who molested son in course of professional relationship involving parent and child. Marlene F. v. Affiliated Psychiatric Med. Clinic, Inc. (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 583, 592, 257 Cal. Rptr. 98, 770 P.2d 278

Husband of patient erroneously diagnosed as having venereal disease was allowed to maintain action for negligent infliction of emotional distress; physician's duty of care extended to husband when it was reasonably forseeable that he would suffer distress as result of negligent diagnosis. Molien v. Kaiser Found. Hosps. (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 916, 923, 930, 167 Cal. Rptr. 831, 616 P.2d 813

Damages for fear of contracting AIDS from surgeon are not available absent evidence that patient will probably develop disease. Kerins v. Hartley (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 1062, 1074, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 172

Patient's spouse not able to maintain action for negligent or intentional infliction of emotional distress against psychotherapist who engaged in sexual relations with patient. Smith v. Pust (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 263, 272, 273-274, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 364

Doctor or hospital was potentially liable to parents of psychiatric patient for negligent infliction of emotional distress damages caused by breach of duty to parents arising out of physician-patient relationship or assumed by hospital or doctor; assumed duty to parents possibly arose from use of parents as active instrumentalities in patient's treatment. Jacoves v. United Merch. Corp. (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 88, 109, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 468

No cause of action for negligent infliction of emotional distress accrues based on "bystander" theory of liability unless plaintiff is present at scene of injury-producing event at time it occurs and is then aware that it is causing injury to victim. Wright v. City of Los Angeles (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 318, 350, 268 Cal. Rptr. 309

No cause of action for negligent infliction of emotional distress accrues in absence of contemporaneous observance by plaintiff of infliction of injury. Hurlbut v. Sonora Cmty. Hosp. (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 388, 396-397, 254 Cal. Rptr. 840

Trial court properly sustained physician's demurrer to patient's cause of action for intentional infliction of emotional distress alleging physician had initiated sexual relations while he was treating patient for physical disorder because sexual relationship between them was outside scope of patient-physician relationship and patient's allegation that physician seduced her into having sexual relations and an affair was barred by Civ. Code § 43.5(c), which abolishes any cause of action for seduction of person over age of legal consent. Atienza v. Taub (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 388, 394-395, 239 Cal. Rptr. 454

No cause of action for negligent infliction of emotional distress accrues if infant suffers injuries at birth because of physicians' purportedly negligent prenatal treatment and infant's parents fail to allege that physicians' conduct was directed at parents and elicited serious emotional response. Martinez v. County of Los Angeles (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 884, 893, 231 Cal. Rptr. 96

Evidence of physician's custom and habits concerning willingness to provide care without payment was admissible in action alleging that physician had performed unnecessary surgery only for purposes of payment and had thereby intentionally inflicted emotional distress. Tillery v. Richland (1984) 158 Cal. App. 3d 957, 968-969, 205 Cal. Rptr. 191

Negligent misdiagnosis of child by health professional may as matter of law cause forseeable emotional distress to parent, but parent must plead circumstances of knowledge of seriousness of improperly diagnosed condition. Accounts Adjustment Bureau v. Cooperman (1984) 158 Cal. App. 3d 844, 848, 204 Cal. Rptr. 881

Whether or not fetus is person for purposes of bringing wrongful death action is not determinative of issue of whether or not prospective mother has relationship with fetus sufficient to sustain action for emotional distress arising from witnessing medically caused stillbirth. Sesma v. Cueto (1981) 129 Cal. App. 3d 108, 115, 181 Cal. Rptr. 12

Mother's sensory perception of birth of fetus during labor states cause of action for emotional distress based on malpractice of attending physician. Johnson v. Superior Court (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 1002, 1006, 177 Cal. Rptr. 63

Father of stillborn infant had cause of action for negligent infliction of emotional distress when he learned of death by his own observation of cessation of life in the fetus. Austin v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 354, 358, 152 Cal. Rptr. 420

Failure of diagnosis leading to death of child did not constitute "event" causing death for purposes of supporting mother's action for infliction of emotional distress under rule of Dillon v. Legg (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 728, 69 Cal. Rptr. 72, 441 P.2d 912 ; witnessing of death alone was insufficient. Jansen v. Children's Hosp. Med. Ctr. (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 22, 24, 106 Cal. Rptr. 883

[9] Evidence

In medical malpractice action claiming injury and damages from psychologist-patient sexual contact, trial court has discretion to admit evidence of plaintiff's sexual history for purpose of determining proximate cause, but only to limited extent history is relevant and its probative value outweighs its prejudicial effect. Patricia C. v. Mark D. (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 1211, 1213, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 71

Evidence of medical malpractice defendant's competence or skill (or lack thereof), whether proven by reputation, opinion, or specific acts, is not admissible to prove defendant was negligent on particular occasion. Hinson v. Clairemont Cmty. Hosp. (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 1110, 1120, 1122, 267 Cal. Rptr. 503

In malpractice action in which defendant admitted negligence at some time during treatment of plaintiff, defendant's inability to produce plaintiff's medical records created inference of guilt which had probative value outweighing possible prejudicial effect. Thor v. Boska (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 558, 565-567, 113 Cal. Rptr. 296

Evidence of physician's taking a course on performing a diagnostic procedure which he had omitted to perform on plaintiff was related to plaintiff's probable condition at time of treatment and thus admissible under exception to rule excluding evidence of subsequent precautions. Wilson v. Gilbert (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 607, 615, 102 Cal. Rptr. 31

[10] Expert Testimony

[a] In General

Hospitalized patient who was considered fall risk and required walker and assistance to walk fell after nurse assisted plaintiff out of hospital bed and onto walker, but then left plaintiff standing there in order to do something else; plaintiff was not required to present expert testimony on standard of care or breach of duty, as plaintiff's risk of falling due to his physical limitations was within sphere of common knowledge and obvious to laymen, and nurse was engaged in routine, nontechnical task of assisting plaintiff with short walk to bathroom. Massey v. Mercy Medical Center Redding

(2009) 180 Cal. App. 4th 690, 696-697, 103 Cal. Rptr. 3d 209

In medical malpractice action, when considering declarations of medical experts in order to rule on defendant's motion for summary judgment, declarations of plaintiff's experts are to be liberally construed and any doubts as to propriety of granting motion are to be resolved in favor of plaintiff. Powell v. Kleinman (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 112, 125-126, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 618

Patient must present expert testimony to establish existence of medical condition that gave rise to heightened duty of disclosure on part of surgeon. Jambazian v. Borden (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 836, 849, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 768

Jury may rely on its own common knowledge in determining whether failure to remove foreign object from patient's body during surgery violated standard of care. Gannon v. Elliot (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 1, 6, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 86

Fact that defendant's expert witness has same malpractice insurer as defendant did not disqualify witness; witness's direct or indirect pecuniary interest in litigation did not provide basis for disqualification. Mathis v. Morrissey (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 332, 348, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 819

Designation of defendant as expert witness pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2034.210 is precondition to discovering current medical opinion of defendant concerning care provided. County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1446, 1455, 274 Cal. Rptr. 712

Test for whether expert witness has sufficient medical expertise to offer competent medical testimony on causation in particular case is whether witness has sufficient skill or experience in particular field so that testimony would be likely to assist jury in search for truth. Salasguevara v. Wyeth Labs., Inc. (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 379, 385 , 271 Cal. Rtpr. 780

Party in malpractice case is permitted to call as witness expert designated by another party who has been deposed. Salasguevara v. Wyeth Labs., Inc. (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 379, 387, 271 Cal. Rptr. 780

Test used in determining whether medical expert is qualified to testify to standard of care of community. Jutzi v. County of Los Angeles (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 637, 651-652, 242 Cal. Rptr. 74

In medical malpractice action by breast implant patient, psychiatrist, by virtue of medical education and internship training, possessed ability to research role that prophylactic antibiotics play in implant patients, even though psychiatrist lacked credentials to permit giving expert testimony concerning surgical techniques in highly specialized field of plastic surgery. Miller v. Silver (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 652, 661, 226 Cal. Rptr. 479

Podiatrist was qualified to testify in malpractice action despite different medical background from defendant when he demonstrated extensive education, training, and experience regarding particular injury and medical standards at issue. Chadock v. Cohn (1979) 96 Cal. App. 3d 205, 208-209, 157 Cal. Rptr. 640

Opinion of duly licensed and practicing physician who is not specialist in field under inquiry, but who has knowledge of appropriate standard of care, is competent expert witness. Evans v. Ohanesian (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 121, 128, 112 Cal. Rptr. 236 ; Cline v. Lund (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 755, 766, 107 Cal. Rptr. 629

[b] Emergency Medical Coverage

Because proper standard of care in medical malpractice action is standard existing at time alleged malpractice occurred, requirement of Health & Safety Code § 1799.110(c) that testifying medical expert have substantial experience in emergency medical coverage within "last five years" is measured from date of alleged malpractice, not from date of trial. Petrou v. South Coast Emergency Group (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 1090, 1094, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 64 .

Physician ws not qualified to testify regarding diagnosis and treatment rendered by emergency room physician because proposed expert witness was not emergency room physician and had not acted as such within last five years. Zavala v. Board of Trs. (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 1755, 1762-1763, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 768

Admission to evidence, over party's objection, of expert testimony by nonemergency physician concerning standard of care in provision of emergency services does not constitute reversible error if party's objection was on general competency grounds, rather than on specific statutory ground set forth in Health and Safety Code § 1799.110, and if independent and competent evidence from other witnesses, substantially similar to expert's testimony, made admission of expert testimony harmless error in any event. Atkins v. Strayhorn (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1380, 1390-1391, 273 Cal. Rptr. 231

Health & Safety Code § 1799.110 is strictly construed, following statute's literal and plain meaning; testimony of expert is properly excluded if expert does not have requisite experience in emergency care. Sigala v. Goldfarb (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1450, 1455-1456, 266 Cal. Rptr. 96

Fact that expert may have intimate knowledge of emergency room physician's duties was insufficient to qualify expert for purposes of Health & Safety Code § 1799.110, which requires expert to have actual experience in emergency care. Sigala v. Goldfarb (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1450, 1455-1456, 266 Cal. Rptr. 96

Action that does not implicate negligent care by emergency physician (for example, action based on hospital's alleged failure to provide essential hospital services) is not subject to expert testimony restrictions set forth in Health & Safety Code § 1799.110(c). Baxter v. Alexian Bros. Hosp. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 722, 726, 262 Cal. Rptr. 867

Erroneous bar on expert witness's testimony, made pursuant to misapplication of Health & Safety Code § 1799.110(c) by trial court, justified reversal of entire judgment if bar was sole cause of entry of judgment against party who sought to call witness. Baxter v. Alexian Bros. Hosp. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 722, 726, 262 Cal. Rptr. 867

In action against county for alleged medical malpractice in rendering emergency medical services in treating plaintiff's injury, trial court's preclusion of plaintiff's expert medical witnesses, who did not have recent experience working in hospital emergency room, from testifying that emergency room physician in treating plaintiff's injury fell below standard of care was proper under Health & Safety Code § 1799.110(c). Jutzi v. County of Los Angeles (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 637, 646, 242 Cal. Rptr. 74

Health & Safety Code § 1799.110(c) (standard for expert testimony in action for damages involving claim of negligence against physician and surgeon providing emergency medical coverage) applys to any suit involving claim of negligent emergency treatment by hospital emergency room physician, whether or not that physician is named as defendant. Jutzi v. County of Los Angeles (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 637, 646-647, 649, 651, 242 Cal. Rptr. 74

"Emergency medical coverage," although not defined in Health & Safety Code § 1799.110(c), is apparently synonymous with term "emergency medical care," defined in Health & Safety Code § 1799.110(b) as those medical services required for immediate diagnosis and treatment of medical conditions that, if not immediately diagnosed and treated, could lead to serious physical or mental disability or death; "could," as used in statute, requires only possibility, not certainty, that serious physical or mental disability or death will result. Jutzi v. County of Los Angeles (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 637, 647, 648, 242 Cal. Rptr. 74

In determining whether witness is qualified to testify as medical expert concerning claim of negligent treatment rendered by emergency room physician, trial court is required under Evid. Code §§ 400 and 405 to determine as

"preliminary fact" whether treatment given constituted emergency medical coverage. Jutzi v. County of Los Angeles (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 637, 647-648, 651, 242 Cal. Rptr. 74

In action against county for alleged medical malpractice in rendering emergency medical services in treating plaintiff's injury, trial court did not err in allowing defense expert witness, a specialist in emergency medicine who had supervised a hospital's emergency department and who was aware of standard of care in community through professional contacts with other emergency room specialists, including contacts through his membership in American College of Emergency Physicians, to testify that it was consistent with community standard of care for emergency room physician to treat fracture like plaintiff's if physician was qualified to do so by particular training and experience and justifiably felt comfortable in undertaking treatment; although policy of hospitals at which expert had worked was to refer injury like plaintiff's to orthopedic specialist, expert testified that this was not uniform practice throughout county. Jutzi v. County of Los Angeles (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 637, 651-653, 242 Cal. Rptr. 74

[11] Informed Consent

[a] Generally

Duty to inform includes advising patient of risks involved in declining test or treatment when patient indicates intent to decline risk-free procedure. Truman v. Thomas (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 285, 292, 165 Cal. Rptr. 308, 611 P.2d 902 ; Jamison v. Lindsay (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 223, 230, 166 Cal. Rptr. 443

Expert testimony is required to determine whether or not proper exercise of care requires disclosure beyond explanation of known serious risk. Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 244, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1 ; Jamison v. Lindsay (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 223, 230, 166 Cal. Rptr. 443

Patient is required to present expert testimony to establish existence of medical condition that gave rise to heightened duty of disclosure on part of surgeon. Jambazian v. Borden (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 836, 849, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 768

Trial court properly refused jury instruction that stated physician had duty to disclose existence of differing schools of thought regarding diagnosis and treatment. Parris v. Sands (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 187, 193, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 800

Doctrine of informed consent was inapplicable as matter of law to physician who acted as consultant specialist, who never examined patient personally, and whose professional function was confined to rendering advice and guidance to clinician who consulted him on plaintiff's behalf. Townsend v. Turk (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 278, 287, 266 Cal. Rptr. 821

Duty to inform patient of potential risks in refusing to undergo diagnostic tests applies to physician who recommends patient see a specialist if physician will have no further contact with patient. Moore v. Preventive Med. Med. Group, Inc. (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 728, 223 Cal. Rptr. 859

Knowing and intentional representation by physician that substance can be safely administered when in fact substance was illegal and dangerous gave rise to action in fraud as well as malpractice. Nelson v. Gaunt (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 623, 636, 178 Cal. Rptr. 167

No duty to disclose material information relating to postoperative care if that care did not involve any particular treatment or test. Jamison v. Lindsay (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 223, 230-231, 166 Cal. Rptr. 443

Physician's failure to disclose low probability risk inherent to cosmetic surgery gave rise to cause of action in negligence rather than intentional misrepresentation when risk occurred. Stone v. Foster (1980) 106 Cal. App. 3d 334,

347, 164 Cal. Rptr. 901

Court properly refused to instruct jury that physician had failed to obtain informed consent as matter of law when substantial evidence demonstrated that plaintiff's injury was due to remote risk which had not been disclosed, and jury had been informed properly regarding standard governing disclosure of such risks. Slater v. Kehoe (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 819, 826-827, 113 Cal. Rptr. 790

Physician is not permitted to minimize known dangers of procedure in order to induce patient's consent. Berkey v. Anderson (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 790, 803-804, 82 Cal. Rptr. 67

[b] Causation

Causal connection between physician's failure to disclose and patient's injury is required to support negligence action; causality established if reasonable person in patient's situation would have refused consent if properly informed. Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 245, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1

[c] Continuing Duty to Warn

Physician has continuing duty to warn patient of risks arising from treatment performed by physician of which physician subsequently becomes aware. Tresemer v. Barke (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 656, 669-672, 150 Cal. Rptr. 384

[d] Release from Duty to Disclose

Disclosure is not required when physician can demonstrate to reasonable person that disclosure would so upset patient as to render patient unable to objectively weigh risks of refusing treatment. Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 246, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1 ; Slater v. Kehoe (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 819, 826, 113 Cal. Rptr. 790 (dicta)

Patient's request to remain uninformed provides defense in malpractice action for nondisclosure. Aden v. Younger (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 662, 675, 129 Cal. Rptr. 535

Physician is allowed to withhold information when patient obviously lacks capacity to evaluate; rule is applicable to minors and incompetents. Slater v. Kehoe (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 819, 825-826, 113 Cal. Rptr. 790

[12] Liability

Neither criminal nor civil liability attaches to physician or hospital in honoring competent, informed adult patient's refusal of medical services. Bouvia v. Superior Court (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 1127, 1145, 225 Cal. Rptr. 297

[13] Negligence

[a] Generally

"Professional negligence" under Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146(c)(3) is negligent act or omission to act by health care provider in rendering of professional services that is proximate cause of personal injury or wrongful death, provided that services are within scope of service for which provider is licensed and not within any restriction imposed by licensing agency or licensed hospital; restriction imposed by licensing agency or licensed hospital refers to acts outside capacity for which health care provider is licensed. Waters v. Bourhis (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 424, 435-436, 220 Cal. Rptr. 666, 709

P.2d 469 (psychiatrist performing open heart surgery is example of act outside license capacity)

Act by health care provider that violates a professional rule of conduct created by licensing agency or hospital is not necessarily restricted act within meaning of Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146(c)(3). Waters v. Bourhis (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 424, 435-436, 220 Cal. Rptr. 666, 709 P.2d 469

Definition of "professional negligence" in Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146(c)(3) includes certain intentional departures from professional standards; psychiatrist's purposefully abusing therapist-patient relationship by initiating sexual relationship with patient is basis for action for professional negligence; conduct serving as basis for action for professional negligence also serves as basis for action for intentional tort. Waters v. Bourhis (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 424, 433-435, 220 Cal. Rptr. 666, 709 P.2d 469

Because legislature has defined professional negligence of health care providers as negligent act or omission to act in rendering professional services, which act or omission is proximate cause of personal injury or wrongful death, provided that services are within scope of services for which provider is licensed (Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146(c)(3) [see also Civ. Code §§ 3333.1(c)(2), 3333.2(c)(2); Code Civ. Proc. §§ 340.5(2), 364(f)(2), 667.7(e)(4)]), action for professional negligence of physician is required to arise out of breach of duty of care owed to patient by physician within scope of patient-physician relationship. Atienza v. Taub (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 388, 392, 239 Cal. Rptr. 454

Physician who induces patient to enter sexual relationship is liable for professional negligence medical malpractice only if physician engaged in sexual conduct on pretext that it was necessary part of treatment for which patient had sought out physician; complaint alleging that physician initiated sexual relationship with patient while treating her for industrial injury, but not alleging that she was induced to have sexual relations with physician in furtherance of her treatment, fails to state cause of action for professional negligence medical malpractice. Atienza v. Taub (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 388, 391-394, 239 Cal. Rptr. 454

Physician or nurse may err in judgment or to be unsuccessful in treatment of patient without incurring liability for malpractice if due care otherwise exercised. Fraijo v. Hartland Hosp. (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 331, 341 n. 8, 343, 160 Cal. Rptr. 246

Liability for negligence is properly based on inference that more prompt diagnosis and treatment could have prolonged patient's life even if no cure could have resulted. Pulvers v. Kaiser Found. Health Plan, Inc. (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 560, 565-566, 160 Cal. Rptr. 392

[b] Causation

In action based on failure to warn of risk of developing aseptic necrosis from prednisone, district court erred in concluding that doctor's duty to warn depended on whether doctors in community would have customarily provided warnings in same situation; whether or not prednisone use was prevalent in treatment of asthma was not directly relevant to whether or not reasonable person in plaintiff's position would have consented to treatment with it after considering risk; on remand, district court must resolve issues of what risk plaintiff faced and whether or not reasonable person would have consented to treatment. Hutchinson v. United States (9th Cir. 1988) 841 F.2d 966, 967

Damages for fear of contracting AIDS from surgeon are not available in absence of evidence that patient will probably develop disease. Kerins v. Hartley (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 1062, 1074, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 172

Lack of probable causal relationship bars recovery for recurrence of cancer following negligently administered chemotherapy, but patient may recover for impairment of bone marrow that precluded use of chemotherapy to treat recurrence. Duarte v. Zachariah (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 1652, 1658, 1664, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 88

Physician whose malpractice causes injury requiring further medical treatment is subject to liability for malpractice of subsequent treating physician. Maxwell v. Powers (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 1596, 1607, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 62

Civ. Code § 1714.8(a), creating liability for negligent failure to diagnose or treat medical condition, does not undermine requirement of Wrongful Death Act (former Code Civ. Proc. § 377; now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60 et seq.) that wrongful death must be caused by defendants's conduct; thus, defendant's negligent conduct after plaintiff had survival rate of less than 50 percent due to cancer di not cause wrongful death. Bromme v. Pavitt (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1487, 1507-1509, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 608

"Lost chance" causation standard is unavailable in California because incompatible with traditional and more rigorous "more probable than not" proximate causation standard and with public policy considerations. Dumas v. Cooney (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 1593, 1606-1613, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 584 (delayed diagnosis of preexisting medical condition)

If defendant's negligent treatment of injured person is proximate cause of person's subsequent death, failure of others to protect person from harm does not supersede cause of death and protect defendant from liability. Wright v. City of Los Angeles (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 318, 348, 268 Cal. Rptr. 309

Medical care provider's negligence is proximate cause of patient's injuries if provider negligently fails to perform diagnostic procedures indicated by patient's condition and thus fails to properly diagnose and treat patient, and patient's resulting injuries are more extensive or severe than they would have been if prompt diagnosis and treatment had been given. Wright v. City of Los Angeles (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 318, 347-348, 268 Cal. Rptr. 309

Less than 50 percent probability that defendant's omission caused patient's harm did not meet reasonable medical probability test of proximate cause. Simmons v. West Covina Med. Clinic (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 696, 702-703, 260 Cal. Rptr. 772

Defendant physician has burden of proving, by preponderance of evidence, extent of damages resulting from his malpractice as opposed to innocent cause when injury is not readily susceptible to allocation between two causes. Stone v. Foster (1980) 106 Cal. App. 3d 334, 347, 164 Cal. Rptr. 901

Plaintiff is required to present expert testimony that injury resulting from treatment of foot injury would not have occurred but for defendant's negligence. Bolen v. Woo (1979) 96 Cal. App. 3d 944, 956, 158 Cal. Rptr. 454

Causal connection between physician's conduct and plaintiff's injury from negligent injection was not present when physician did not administer or supervise injection and was not informed of complications in time to prevent ensuing injury. Frantz v. San Luis Med. Clinic (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 34, 40, 146 Cal. Rptr. 146

Expert testimony is required to prove that alleged failure to exercise due care was proximate cause of condition underlying patient's complaint unless result is matter within common knowledge of layman. Keen v. Prisinzano (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 275, 279, 100 Cal. Rptr. 82 ; Deckard v. Sorenson (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 305, 308, 2 Cal. Rptr. 121

Refusal to instruct jury that plaintiff must prove exact cause of injury when more than one probable cause is present is proper when action is not based on res ipsa loquitur doctrine. Wilson v. Gilbert (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 607, 612, 102 Cal. Rptr. 31

Physician's erroneous interpretation of X rays resulting in improper treatment of fracture was proximate cause of patient's resultant disability. Keen v. Prisinzano (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 275, 281, 100 Cal. Rptr. 82

[c] Pleading Medical Negligence

In medical malpractice action, plaintiff must allege professional relationship giving rise to duty of care, governing standard of care, defendant's act or omission breaching standard, causality, and damages. Frantz v. San Luis Med. Clinic (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 34, 39, 146 Cal. Rptr. 146

[d] Selection of Method of Diagnosis or Treatment

Variance in medical opinion concerning desirability of one procedure over another does not establish that choice of one such treatment is negligence. Meier v. Ross Gen. Hosp. (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 420, 434, 71 Cal. Rptr. 903, 445 P.2d 519 ; Clemens v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 1, 13, 87 Cal. Rptr. 108

Absent expert testimony showing that defendant's method of diagnosis was medically accepted alternative method of diagnosing patient with plaintiff's medical history and symptoms, trial court's instruction to jury on CACI No. 506 was given in error, although error was harmless as evidence supported finding that doctor was not negligent. Ayala v. Arroyo Vista Family Health Center (2008) 160 Cal. App. 4th 1350, 1359-1362, 73 Cal. Rptr. 3d 486

Jury instruction that physician may select one method of diagnosis over another without incurring liability when there is no universally accepted method, was inapplicable to situation in which physician is choosing among actual diagnoses based on alternative beliefs concerning patient's condition. Jamison v. Lindsay (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 223, 233, 166 Cal. Rptr. 443

Incorrect choice among several approved methods of diagnosis or treatment does not constitute negligence if physician exercised reasonable care in making decision. Barton v. Owen (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 484, 502, 139 Cal. Rptr. 494

[e] Standard of Care

[i] Generally

Health care provider is not subject to separate and distinct claims for professional and ordinary negligence based on same conduct. Flowers v. Torrance Mem'l Hosp. Med. Ctr. (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 992, 995, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 685, 884 P.2d 142

In applying usual physician malpractice rules to veterinarian malpractice case, testimony that another veterinarian would not have treated horse with Oxytetracycline, as did defendants, did not establish that defendants acted below standard of care. Williamson v. Prida (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 1417, 1425-1426, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 868

In achieving purpose for which physician is employed, physician must have degree of learning and skill ordinarily possessed by practitioners of medical profession in same locality and exercise ordinary care in applying that learning and skill to treatment of patient. Atienza v. Taub (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 388, 391, 239 Cal. Rptr. 454

Physician or surgeon must possess degree of learning and skill ordinarily possessed by practitioners of medical profession in same locality and exercise ordinary care in applying that learning and skill to treatment of patient. Keen v. Prisinzano (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 275, 279, 100 Cal. Rptr. 82

Taping of child's hand for intravenous fluids breached proper standard of care when taping impaired circulation and resulted in partial amputation. Robinson v. Pediatric Affiliates Med. Group, Inc. (1979) 98 Cal. App. 3d 907, 910-911, 159 Cal. Rptr. 791

Instruction that physician's conduct should be found to constitute negligence if not approved by respectable minority of neurosurgeons in same year as actions took place was prejudicial error; proper standard is that degree of skill, knowledge, and care ordinarily possessed and exercised by members of medical profession under similar circumstances. Hubbard v. Calvin (1978) 83 Cal. App. 3d 529, 532, 147 Cal. Rptr. 905

Physician's failure to timely administer test for plaintiff's sinusitis condition which led to brain abcess did not constitute negligence as matter of law when expert testimony differed on whether failure was breach of standard practice. Barton v. Owen (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 484, 499, 139 Cal. Rptr. 494

Testimony by expert witness (vascular surgeon) that defendant physician had failed to follow standard medical practice in county at time of treatment by improperly performing vascular surgery and by failing to administer an arteriogram prior to surgery was sufficient to support verdict of professional negligence. Wilson v. Gilbert (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 607, 612, 102 Cal. Rptr. 31

[ii] Specialists Versus General Practitioner

Duty of care owed by general practitioner is determined by reference to conduct of other general practitioners under similar circumstances; due care includes duty to refer if reasonable general practitioner would have done so. Seneris v. Haas (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 811, 829, 291 P.2d 915 ; Sinz v. Owens (1945) 33 Cal. 2d 749, 758-759, 205 P.2d 3

Specialist is only required to exercise in diagnosis and treatment that reasonable degree of skill and knowledge possessed and exercised by other specialists under same or similar circumstances. Carmichael v. Reitz (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 958, 975-976, 95 Cal. Rptr. 381

[f] Violation of Statute

Failure to report diagnosis of epilepsy as required by former Health & Safety Code § 410(1) (now see Health & Safety Code § 103900(a)) creates rebuttable presumption of negligence under Evid. Code § 669(b); presumption is rebutted by proof that person violating statute acted with ordinary prudence. Lopez v. Southern Cal. Permanente Med. Group (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 673, 680, 171 Cal. Rptr. 527

[14] Notice of Intent to Commence Action

Counterclaim of malpractice which exceeds jurisdictional amount of small claims court gave original defendant right to continuance of small claims action in order to comply with 90 day notice requirement of Code Civ. Proc. § 364. Clark v. Superior Court (1980) 113 Cal. App. 3d 865, 869, 169 Cal. Rptr. 898

[15] Paramedics

Paramedic, arriving at location of fight and finding patient lying on ground, has duty to make examination sufficient to determine whether patient has symptoms of any serious injuries that may likely result from fight, and to treat those symptoms or to take patient to hospital for treatment. Wright v. City of Los Angeles (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 318, 346, 268 Cal. Rptr. 309

Paramedic has duty to provide medical services in manner that is not grossly negligent or performed in bad faith. Wright v. City of Los Angeles (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 318, 345, 268 Cal. Rptr. 309

[16] Patient Instruction

Neither hospital nor treating physician is liable for following competent patient's instruction to withdraw treatment; no prior judicial approval is necessary. Bartling v. Superior Court (1984) 163 Cal. App. 3d 186, 197, 209 Cal. Rptr. 220

[17] Psychotherapists

Patient was able to maintain sexual misconduct action against psychotherapist in absence of express representation by psychotherapist that sexual activity was part of treatment. McNall v. Summers (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1300, 1313, 30 Cal.Rptr. 2d 914

Psychiatrist has duty to warn subsequent treating therapist that patient presented suicide risk. Gross v. Allen (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 354, 362, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 429

Patient's spouse was unable to bring tort action against psychotherapist who engaged in sexual relations with patient. Smith v. Pust (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 263, 272, 273-274, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 364

[18] Res Ipsa Loquitur

[a] In General

Res ipsa loquitur doctrine in medical malpractice actions is applicable when (1) accident is of kind that does not ordinarily occur in absence of negligence; (2) accident is caused by instrumentality or agency in exclusive control of defendant; and (3) accident is not due to any voluntary conduct on part of plaintiff. Bardessono v. Michels (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 780, 788 n.5, 91 Cal. Rptr. 760, 478 P.2d 480 ; Ybarra v. Spangard (1944) 25 Cal. 2d 486, 489, 154 P.2d 687

Special responsibility owed to patient by physician and patient's necessary dependence on physician are policy considerations supporting application of res ipsa loquitur doctrine. Bardessono v. Michels (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 780, 789, 91 Cal. Rptr. 760, 478 P.2d 480 ; Cline v. Lund (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 755, 762, 107 Cal. Rptr. 629

In action tried under res ipsa loquitur theory, jury was able to rely on its own common knowledge in determining whether failure to remove foreign object from patient's body during surgery violated standard of care. Gannon v. Elliot (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 1, 6, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 86

Res ipsa loquitur doctrine is applicable even when cause of injury is unknown and when there is no direct evidence of defendant's conduct, so long as there is reasonable and logical inference that defendant was negligent and that such negligence caused the injury. Hale v. Venuto (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 910, 919-920, 187 Cal. Rptr. 357

Res ipsa was inapplicable in action against anesthesiologist for atrophy of testicle following hernia surgery when vascular damage caused solely by surgeon was probable cause of condition. McKinney v. Nash (1981) 120 Cal. App. 3d 428, 440, 174 Cal. Rptr. 642

In medical negligence cases, defendant may remove consideration of res ipsa presumption from case by introducing evidence establishing that treatment administered by defendant was not proximate cause of injury. Frantz v. San Luis Med. Clinic (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 34, 44, 146 Cal. Rptr. 146

Fact that harmful consequence of treatment is rare is not sufficient in itself to establish that when such rare event occurs it is result of negligence by defendants. Contreras v. St. Luke's Hosp. (1978) 78 Cal. App. 3d 919, 931, 144 Cal. Rptr.

647

Res ipsa doctrine was not applicable when uncontradicted evidence established that physician's failure to run additional throat culture tests before performance of tonsillectomy was not breach of good medical practice. Folk v. Kilk (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 176, 187, 126 Cal. Rptr. 172

Application of res ipsa loquitur in cases where uncommon complication develops is proper only when demonstrated, in light of past experience, that such occurrence is more likely the result of negligence than not. Slater v. Kehoe (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 819, 831, 113 Cal. Rptr. 790

[b] Requirement of Expert Testimony

Procedure was commonplace and did not require expert testimony to establish negligence as cause. Kerr v. Bock (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 321, 323-324, 95 Cal. Rptr. 788, 486 P.2d 684 (failure to warn patient not to lift leg after operation removing part of bone); Bardessono v. Michels (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 780, 790, 91 Cal. Rptr. 760, 478 P.2d 480 (injections of cortisone and anesthetic); Wolfsmith v. Marsh (1959) 51 Cal. 2d 832, 833-834, 337 P.2d 70 (injections of sodium pentathol)

Expert testimony is required to establish negligence element of res ipsa loquitur doctrine unless procedure is relatively commonplace and simple. Bardessono v. Michels (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 780, 790, 91 Cal. Rptr. 760, 478 P.2d 480

Procedure was complex and required expert testimony to establish negligence as only possible cause. Tomei v. Henning (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 319, 322, 62 Cal. Rptr. 9, 431 P.2d 633 (hysterectomy); McKinney v. Nash (1981) 120 Cal. App. 3d 428, 436, 174 Cal. Rptr. 642 (hernia repair); O'Connor v. Bloomer (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d 385, 391, 172 Cal. Rptr. 128 (duties of assistant surgeons during heart surgery)

[19] Special Verdicts

Judgment was properly entered for defendant on special verdict in which jury failed to find on defendant's negligence, but found absence of proximate cause. Contreras v. Goldrich (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 1431, 1434, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 394

[20] Statute of Limitations

[a] In General

Statute of limitations is not tolled by complaint to state disciplinary board. Kleefeld v. Superior Court (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1680, 1685, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 12

Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 creates two separate statutes of limitations, both of which must be satisfied if plaintiff is to timely file medical malpractice action: plaintiff must file within one year after first discovering injury and negligent cause of injury; and plaintiff must file within three years after first experiencing harm from injury. Dolan v. Borelli (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 816, 824-825, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 714 (affirming dismissal)

Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5, statute of limitations applicable to medical malpractice claims, does not violate equal protection rights guaranteed by U.S. Const. amend. XIV, and Cal. Const. art. I, § 7. Donabedian v. Manzer (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1021, 1027, 232 Cal. Rptr. 325

Provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5, that time for commencement of medical malpractice action shall be three years after date of injury or one year after plaintiff discovers, or through use of reasonable diligence should have discovered, injury, whichever occurs first, applies generally to adults and minors alike and fixes outside limit for suit to three years after date of injury; common law delayed-discovery rule was not retained in Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5. Donabedian v. Manzer (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1021, 1026, 232 Cal. Rptr. 325

Medical malpractice action must satisfy both limitations periods under Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5; action is barred either if brought more than one year after plaintiff becomes aware of physical manifestation of injury and its negligent cause, or if brought more than three years after plaintiff becomes aware of physical manifestation of injury regardless of awareness of negligent cause, except when one or more of three specified exceptions apply to toll three-year period. Hills v. Aronsohn (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 753, 757-762, 758 n.3, 199 Cal. Rptr. 816

Statute of limitations period for medical malpractice actions is governed exclusively by three-year/one-year periods under Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5; plaintiff's incompetence does not provide exception to statute. Fogarty v. Superior Court (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 316, 319-320, 172 Cal. Rptr. 594

[b] Commencement of Limitation Period

[i] One-Year Period

Physician's failure to disclose facts pertaining to negligent treatment did not affect one-year discovery limitation period under tolling provision of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 when plaintiff had actual knowledge of injury despite nondisclosure. Sanchez v. South Hoover Hosp. (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 93, 96, 99, 132 Cal. Rptr. 657, 553 P.2d 1129

One-year limitations period of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 began to run only after exploratory surgery determined negligent cause of plaintiff's throat pain, despite earlier suspicions that pain may have been caused by anesthetic intubation during pelvic surgery. Artal v. Allen (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 273, 280-281, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 458

Reasonableness of plaintiff's belated discovery of defendant's negligence is question of law when reasonable minds can draw only one conclusion from evidence. Rose v. Fife (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 760, 770, 255 Cal. Rptr. 440

In malpractice action arising from injuries caused by plaintiff's use of intrauterine birth control device (IUD), one-year statute of limitations began to run when plaintiff had reasonable suspicion that she had been harmed by defendant physician's prescribed use of IUD. Rose v. Fife (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 760, 768-770, 255 Cal. Rptr. 440

Statute of limitations begins to run when plaintiff has notice or information of circumstances to put reasonable person on inquiry, or has opportunity to obtain knowledge from sources open to investigation. Enfield v. Hunt (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 302, 308, 208 Cal. Rptr. 584 ; Christ v. Lipsitz (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 894, 898, 160 Cal. Rptr. 498

Excessive pain from surgery and physician's statement that he should have performed different type of operation did not put patient on actual or constructive notice of basis for malpractice. Kilburn v. Pineda (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 1046, 1049-1050, 187 Cal. Rptr. 548

Dismissal for failure to file claim within one year after discovery of injury pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 was proper despite plaintiff's contention that she was not aware viable cause of action existed until 24 months after malpractice, when plaintiff had discovered injury within days of its occurrence; knowledge of injury, rather than its legal significance, begins running of limitations period. Graham v. Hansen (1981) 128 Cal. App. 3d 965, 972-973, 180 Cal. Rptr. 604

Trial court properly granted defendant's motion for nonsuit on ground that action was barred by one-year statute of limitations prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 when plaintiff offered no evidence regarding time of discovery of negligence. Burgon v. Kaiser Found. Hosps. (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 813, 821, 155 Cal. Rptr. 763

[ii] Three-Year Period

Damage is manifested for purposes of commencing three-year limitations period when damage has become evidenced in some significant fashion, whether or not patient actually becomes aware of injury. Marriage & Family Ctr. v. Superior Court (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1647, 1654, 279 Cal. Rptr. 475

Entry of summary judgment, based on plaintiff's purported failure to commence action within three years after date of injury, was improper when nothing in record established date of plaintiff's injury as matter of law; injury occurred when "appreciable harm" first suffered by plaintiff. Mason v. Marriage & Family Ctr. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 537, 542-546, 279 Cal. Rptr. 51

Three-year limitation period begins when patient observes some significant physical manifestation of harm. Hills v. Aronsohn (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 753, 759, 199 Cal. Rptr. 816

[c] Minors

Differing accrual dates for malpractice actions brought by minors and those brought by adults violate constitutional right to equal protection. Katz v. Children's Hosp. of Orange County (9th Cir. 1994) 28 F.3d 1520, 1529, 1533

Minor's malpractice claim accrues on date of injury. Katz v. Children's Hosp. of Orange County (9th Cir. 1994) 28 F.3d 1520, 1529, 1533

Minor has at least three years from date of wrongful act to bring action, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5, regardless of when he or she attains majority or discovers injury. Steketee v. Lintz, Williams & Rothberg (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 46, 57, 210 Cal. Rptr. 781, 694 P.2d 1153

Whether plaintiff is minor or adult under Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 (limiting actions for medical malpractice) is determined by his or her age at time of wrongful act. Steketee v. Lintz, Williams & Rothberg (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 46, 52-53, 210 Cal. Rptr. 781, 694 P.2d 1153

Medical malpractice action based on negligent treatment of minor accrues on discovery of negligence by minor's parents, rather than on later discovery by minor. Whitfield v. Roth (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 874, 885, 112 Cal. Rptr. 540, 519 P.2d 588

Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5, not former Civ. Code § 29 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 340.4), was statute of limitations governing action by 10-year-old quadriplegic boy who alleged that his physical disability was proximately caused by professional negligence in and about circumstances of his birth. Donabedian v. Manzer (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1021, 1023-1025, 232 Cal. Rptr. 325

Three-year period of limitation in Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 is applicable whether minor brings action as victim of medical malpractice or brings wrongful death action as heir of one whose death was caused by medical malpractice. Ferguson v. Dragul (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 702, 707-708, 232 Cal. Rptr. 79

Limitation period of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 for minors, permitting action before eighth birthday, was not applicable to action against drug manufacturer. Dillashaw v. Ayerst Labs., Inc. (1983) 141 Cal. App. 3d 35, 41-42, 190 Cal. Rptr.

68

Malpractice action based on negligence during birth process, which allegedly caused minor plaintiff's cerebral palsy, is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5, the later and more specific statute applicable to medical malpractice actions, rather than former Civ. Code § 29 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 340.4). Knox v. Superior Court (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 782, 784-785, 189 Cal. Rptr. 800

Statute of limitations in action by minor based on physician's failure to administer prenatal test for Down's Syndrome is tolled by parent's failure to exercise reasonable care in discovering injury. Call v. Kezirian (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 189, 195-196, 185 Cal. Rptr. 103

[d] Notice of Intention to Commence Action

Non-treating, non-consulting physicians who are independent contractors of corporate medical group are not vicariously liable for injuries sustained by patient of corporation while being treated by physician assistant, regardless of whether names of physicians may have been included on door or appointment cards of corporation. Armato v. Baden (1999) 71 Cal. App. 4th 885, 896, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 294

Notic e to hospital was insufficient to extend limitation period governing claims against individual treating physicians. Hanooka v. Pivko (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 1553, 1560, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 70

One-year limitations period contained in Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 is not extended on basis of attorney's excusable neglect in providing notice of intention to sue required by Civ. Code § 364. Hanooka v. Pivko (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 1553, 1560, 1563, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 70

Although Gov. Code § 945.6 rather than Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 controlled in medical malpractice action against county doctor, action is not barred even though not filed within six months from rejection of claim if notice of intention to commence action was timely served under Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d), thus extending expiration of limitation period. Anson v. County of Merced (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1195, 1204-1205, 249 Cal. Rptr. 457

[e] Public Entities

Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 does not relieve litigant of duty to comply with time limits and requirements imposed by Government Tort Claims Act. Torres v. County of Los Angeles (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 325, 333, 257 Cal. Rptr. 211

Medical malpractice action against county doctor brought after claim rejected under Gov. Code § 913 was required to be filed within six-month limitation period of Gov. Code § 945.6, even though action would be timely under one-year limitation period of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 for medical malpractice actions. Anson v. County of Merced (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1195, 1199, 1202, 249 Cal. Rptr. 457

Time for commencement of statutory period for filing claim under Gov. Code § 911.2 against public entity (hospital district) for medical malpractice is coextensive with that for commencement of period of limitation under Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5. Donabedian v. Manzer (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1021, 1028, 232 Cal. Rptr. 325

[f] Retroactivity

Statutes of limitations, being procedural, are normally applied retroactively to accrued causes of action, but court must inquire whether, in given case, retrospective application violates due process; if time left to file suit is reasonable, no such constitutional violation occurs, and statute is applied as enacted; if no time is left, or only unreasonably short time remains, statute cannot be applied at all; whether time left in which to sue is reasonable is question of law. Aronson v. Superior Court (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 294, 297-298, 236 Cal. Rptr. 347

[g] Tolling

[i] In General

Tolling provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 (suspending limitation period on proof of fraud, intentional concealment, or presence of therapeutically useless foreign object in plaintiff) are applicable only to three-year period, not to one-year period. Sanchez v. South Hoover Hosp. (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 93, 102, 132 Cal. Rptr. 657, 553 P.2d 1129 ; Graham v. Hansen (1981) 128 Cal. App. 3d 965, 974, 180 Cal. Rptr. 604

[ii] Foreign Body Exception

"Foreign body" tolling provision of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 is inapplicable when object intentionally inserted for therapeutic purpose, even though object has no therapeutic effect and results in injury to plaintiff. Trantafello v. Medical Ctr. of Tarzana (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 315, 320, 227 Cal. Rptr. 84

Foreign body exception of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 is applicable only to medically inserted objects that have no therapeutic or diagnostic purpose and that are left in patient's body. Wallace v. Hibner (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 1042, 1047, 217 Cal. Rptr. 748

Silicone intentionally injected into plaintiff for therapeutic purpose, with her consent, did not toll three-year limitation period in Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5; "foreign body" exception in that section is applicable only to situation in which defendant negligently leaves nontherapeutic foreign body in plaintiff's person without plaintiff's awareness. Hills v. Aronsohn (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 753, 763-765, 199 Cal. Rptr. 816

[iii] Intentional Concealment

Under Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5, intentional concealment of negligence by defendant doctor, medical clinic, and hospital district, tolled outer time limit for initiating action by either adult or minor. Donabedian v. Manzer (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1021, 1027, 232 Cal. Rptr. 325

"Intentional concealment" tolling provision of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 requires more than lack of informed consent or mere continuation of prior nondisclosure. Trantafello v. Medical Ctr. of Tarzana (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 315, 321, 227 Cal. Rptr. 84

[h] Wrongful Death

Amended complaint filed by decedent's husband for wrongful death based on medical malpractice of defendants related back to original complaint for loss of consortium filed by both husband and wife. Lamont v. Wolfe (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 375, 379-380, 190 Cal. Rptr. 874

[21] Statutory Duty

Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act (Penal Code § 11164 et seq.), requiring medical practitioners to report known or suspected cases of child abuse, takes precedence over physician-patient or psychotherapist-patient privilege. People v. Stritzinger (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 505, 512-514, 194 Cal. Rptr. 431, 668 P.2d 738

[22] Statutory Limitations on Liability

Physician who administered childhood vaccinations to infant was liable only for gross negligence and willful misconduct under former Health & Safety Code § 429.36 (now see Health & Safety Code § 120455). Salasguevara v. Frye (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 330, 340-342, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 40

Good Samaritan statute (Bus. & Prof. Code § 2395) extends immunity to staff physician of hospital who treats another doctor's patient at same hospital in response to medical emergency. Burciaga v. St. John's Hosp. (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 710, 712, 232 Cal. Rptr. 75

Definition of scene of emergency under Bus. & Prof. Code § 2395 (former Bus. & Prof. Code § 2144) includes nonemergency room areas of hospital, but immunity for emergency treatment in hospital is limited to physicians volunteering services. McKenna v. Cedars of Lebanon Hosp. (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 282, 286, 155 Cal. Rptr. 631

Good Samaritan statute (Bus. & Prof. Code § 2395, formerly Bus. & Prof. Code § 2144) limits immunity to physicians called on to render emergency services in absence of preexisting duty to aid patient. Colby v. Schwartz (1978) 78 Cal. App. 3d 885, 892, 144 Cal. Rptr. 624

[23] Treatment Generally

Adult patient of sound mind has right to refuse any medical treatment or service, even if treatment may save or prolong patient's life. Bouvia v. Superior Court (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 1127, 1137, 225 Cal. Rptr. 297

[24] Vicarious Liability

Vicarious liability of physician for acts of nurses or other assistants is question of fact to be determined by general rules of agency. Quintal v. Laurel Grove Hosp. (1964) 62 Cal. 2d 154, 166-168, 41 Cal. Rptr. 577, 397 P.2d 161 ; Truhitte v. French Hosp. (1981) 128 Cal. App. 3d 332, 348, 180 Cal. Rptr. 152

Non-treating, non-consulting physicians who are independent contractors of corporate medical group are not vicariously liable for injuries sustained by patient of corporation while being treated by physician assistant, regardless of whether names of physicians may have been included on door or appointment cards of corporation. Armato v. Baden (1999) 71 Cal. App. 4th 885, 896, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 294

Private surgeon was not vicariously liable for negligence of hospital nurses occurring during preoperative procedure when surgeon exercised no control or supervision over nurses. Truhitte v. French Hosp. (1981) 128 Cal. App. 3d 332, 346, 180 Cal. Rptr. 152

Negligence of anesthesiologist did not give rise to vicarious liability of surgeon. Marvulli v. Elshire (1972) 27 Cal. App. 3d 180, 184-187, 103 Cal. Rptr. 461 ; Kennedy v. Gaskell (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 244, 247-250, 78 Cal. Rptr. 753

Surgeon was not vicariously liable for negligence of nurses occuring during post or preoperative care. Sherman v. Hartman (1955) 137 Cal. App. 2d 589, 596, 290 P.2d 894

[25] Wrongful Birth and Wrongful Life Actions

Child may recover special damages in wrongful life action regardless of whether negligence occurred before or after conception. Gami v. Mullikin Med. Ctr. (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 870, 881, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 819

Physician's failure to provide expectant mother with genetic test that would, according to expert medical testimony, have had only a 20-percent probability of detecting risk of particular birth defect was insufficient basis for wrongful birth action by mother and wrongful life action by child born with defect; 20-percent probability fell far short of requisite reasonable medical probability standard of causation. Simmons v. West Covina Med. Clinic (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 696, 702-703, 260 Cal. Rptr. 772

Trial court properly sustained demurrer to wrongful life action by child of incompetent and institutionalized mother when plaintiff suffered no legally cognizable injury as consequence of defendant's failure to supervise mother's sexual activity or prevent her pregnancy. Foy v. Greenblott (1983) 141 Cal. App. 3d 1, 14, 190 Cal. Rptr. 84

To recover damages for wrongful birth action based on physicians' failure to provide contraceptive devices and failure to diagnose pregnancy in time for an abortion, plaintiff must prove that she would have consented to contraceptive care and abortion had such care been offered, and that care would have been effective. Foy v. Greenblott (1983) 141 Cal. App. 3d 1, 13, 190 Cal. Rptr. 84 (dicta)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesDoctor-Patient PrivilegeElementsFamily LawFamily Relationships & TortsWrongful Death & SurvivalGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesDefensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesEmergency Care NegligenceGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesStandards of CareGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesStandards of CareMedical Malpractice ActionsHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersDoctors & PhysiciansHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentFailures & Refusals to TreatGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentFailures to Disclose & WarnGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentPatient ConsentGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentPatient ConsentInformed ConsentTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceProofCustomMedical CustomsTortsNegligenceProofViolations of LawStandards of CareTortsNegligenceStandards of CareSpecial CareChildrenTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsCausation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.75

§ 415.75 Attorney General Opinions

Application of Health & Safety Code § 410 (now see Health & Safety Code § 103900) reporting requirements to state physicians. 67 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 256 (1984)

Medical and nonmedical practitioners are required by child abuse reporting law to report care for specified conditions, such as pregnancy in child under 14. 67 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 235 (1984)

Providers of services under federally funded state alcohol and drug abuse programs are precluded by federal law from reporting child abuse information except on the conditions specified by federal law. 67 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 225 (1984)

Private physician is not liable in medical malpractice suit for breach of confidential physician-patient relationship if physician reports to county health department the occurrence of communicable disease in a patient who is a food handler, even if patient is subsequently stopped from working. 58 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 904 (1975)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesDoctor-Patient PrivilegeElementsEvidencePrivilegesDoctor-Patient PrivilegeExceptionsHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersDoctors & PhysiciansTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityHealthcare Providers

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.76

§ 415.76 Law Reviews

Note, Central Pathology Service Medical Clinic, Inc. v. Superior Court: Statute Limiting Punitive Damages for the Professional Negligence of Health Care Providers Including Intentional Torts, 30 San Diego L. Rev. 621 (1993)

Comment, Letting Daddy Die: Adopting New Standards for Surrogate Decisionmaking, 39 UCLA L. Rev. 503 (1992)

Comment, The Due Process of Dying, 79 Calif. L. Rev. 1121 (1991)

Note, Moore v. Regents of the University of California: Doctor, Tell Me Moore!, 23 Pac. L.J. 267 (1991)

Bovbjerg, Legislation on Medical Malpractice: Further Developments and a Preliminary Report Card, 22 U.C. Davis L. Rev. 499 (1989)

Kinney and Wilder, Medical Standard Setting in the Current Malpractice Environment: Problems and Possibilities, 22 U.C. Davis L. Rev. 421 (1989)

Alexander, Death by Directive, 28 Santa Clara L. Rev. 67 (1988)

Morreim, Cost Containment and the Standard of Medical Care, 75 Calif. L. Rev. 1719 (1987)

Comment, Suicidal Competence and the Patient's Right to Refuse Lifesaving Treatment, 75 Calif. L. Rev. 707 (1987)

Note, Barber v. Superior Court: Removing Food and Water From a Terminally Ill, Comatose Patient--Who Decides? 17 Sw. U.L. Rev. 109 (1987)

Note, The Suicide Trap: Bouvia v. Superior Court and the Right to Refuse Medical Treatment, 21 Loy. L.A.L. Rev. 219 (1987)

Comment, Symposium: Issues in Procreational Autonomy, 37 Hastings L.J. 697-1006 (1986)

Schultz, From Informed Consent to Patient Choice: A New Protected Interest, 95 Yale L.J. 219 (1985)

Comment, Withholding Food and Water From a Patient--Should It Be Condoned in California? 16 Pac. L.J. 877 (1985)

Nussbaum, Awarding Punitive Damages in Medical Malpractice Arbitration, 20 Cal. W.L. Rev. 312 (1984)

Shulman, Death With Dignity: The Courts Enforce Public Policy, 18 Bev. Hills B.J. 236 (1984)

Dahlquist, Common Knowledge in Medical Malpractice Litigation: A Diagnosis and Description, 14 Pac. L.J. 133 (1983)

Comment, A Proposed Amendment to the California Natural Death Act to Assure the Statutory Right to Control Life Sustaining Treatment Decisions, 17 U.S.F. L. Rev. 579 (1983)

Note, California Code of Civil Procedure Section 340.5: The Discovery Rule Codified? 13 Sw. U.L. Rev. 759 (1983)

Note, A Structural Analysis of the Physician-Patient Relationship in No-Code Decisionmaking, 93 Yale L.J. 362 (1983)

Note, Professional Obligation and the Duty to Rescue: When Must a Psychiatrist Protect His Patient's Intended Victim? 91 Yale L.J. 1430 (1982)

Moss and Brown, Dilemma in the Delivery Room, 16 Bev. Hills B.J. 35 (1981)

Note, Curlender v. Bio Science Laboratories: Filling the Wrongful Life Vacuum, 9 U.S.F. L. Rev. 113 (1981)

Trotzig, The Defective Child and the Actions for Wrongful Life and Wrongful Birth, 14 Fam. L.Q. 15 (1980)

Comment, Wrongful Life: A Misconceived Tort, 15 U.C. Davis L. Rev. 447 (1981)

Note, Good Samaritans and Hospital Emergencies, 54 S. Cal. L. Rev. 417 (1981)

Vogel and Delgado, To Tell the Truth: Physician's Duty to Disclose Medical Mistakes, 28 UCLA L. Rev. 52 (1980)

Franklin and Mais, Tort Law and Mass Immunization Programs: Lessons From the Polio and Flu Episodes, 65 Calif. L. Rev. 754 (1977)

Comment, The Impact of Arbitration on Medical Malpractice: Madden v. Kaiser Foundation Hospitals, 10 Loy. L.A.L. Rev. 613 (1977)

Comment, Informed Consent to Immunization: The Risks and Benefits of Individual Autonomy, 65 Cal. L. Rev. 1286 (1977)

Stone, The Tarasoff Decisions: Suing Psychotherapists to Safeguard Society, 90 Harv. L. Rev. 358 (1976)

Zaslow, Informed Consent in Medical Practice, 22(3) Prac. Law. 13 (1976)

Comment, Physicians' Liability: The Sale and Insertion of a Dalkon Shield, 11 Cal. W. L. Rev. 347 (1975)

Shore, Selection of a Viable Medical Negligence Case, 8 Bev. Hills B.J. 59 (1974)

Comment, Res Ipsa Loquitur: Its Place in Medical Malpractice Litigation, 8 U.S.F. L. Rev. 343 (1973)

Note, Informed Consent and the Patient's Right to "No": Cobbs v. Grant, 6 Loyola L. Rev. 384 (1973)

Comment, Medical Malpractice: The Locality Rule in Relation to BAJI 6.00 and Sinz v. Owens, 7 U.S.F. L. Rev. 163 (1972)

Comment, Res Ipsa Loquitur in California Medical Malpractice Cases--A Presumption or Inference, 1 Pac. L.J. 637 (1970)

Note, The Doctor in Court: Impartial Medical Testimony, 40 S. Cal. L. Rev. 728 (1967)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesDamagesPunitive DamagesFamily LawFamily Relationships & TortsWrongful LifeHealthcare LawTreatmentEnd-of-Life DecisionsGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentEnd-of-Life DecisionsLifesaving TreatmentHealthcare LawTreatmentPatient ConsentRight to Refuse TreatmentHealthcare LawTreatmentWrongful BirthTortsDamagesCompensatory DamagesMedical ExpensesTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceActionsWrongful BirthGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceProofRes Ipsa LoquiturGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.77

§ 415.77 Text References

Goldsmith, Medical Malpractice: Guide to Medical Issues (Matthew Bender)

Levy, Golden & Sacks, California Torts, Ch. 31 (Matthew Bender)

Louisell, Williams, and Kramer, Medical Malpractice (Matthew Bender)

Witkin, California Evidence (2d ed.), §§ 260-271, 278-279-A

Witkin, California Procedure, Vol. 4, Pleading, §§ 549-550, 552, 559-561, 575 (4th ed. 1985)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, Vol. 6, Torts, §§ 774-800 (9th ed. 1988)

36 Cal. Jur. 3d, Healing Arts and Institutions, §§ 148-197

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersDoctors & PhysiciansTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityHealthcare Providers

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 415.78-415.89

[Reserved]

§§ 415.78[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART IV. FORMS

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.90

§ 415.90 Notice of Intention to Commence Action Against Health Care Provider [Code Civ. Proc. § 364]

[1] FORM Notice of Intention to Commence Action Against Health Care Provider [Code Civ. Proc. § 364]

_____ [name of physician or other health care provider]
_____ [address]
_____ [date]

Dear _____ [name]:

This letter shall serve as notice, in accordance with Section 364 of the Code of Civil Procedure, that _____ [name of plaintiff] will file suit against you for damages resulting from the _____ [personal injury or wrongful death] of _____ [name of patient]. The legal basis of this action will be _____ [specify basis, e.g., the negligent failure to properly diagnose and treat _____ (name of patient) for infectious hepatitis].

_____ [Name of plaintiff] will allege and provide the following losses and injuries as a proximate result of the aforementioned professional negligence: _____ [specify facts regarding the injuries and damages suffered].

Sincerely,
_____ [name]
Attorney for _____ [name]

[2] Use of Form

This form of notice may be used to inform a physician or other health care provider of a plaintiff's intent to commence an action against him or her for professional negligence, in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 364.

For definitions of health care provider and professional negligence, see § 415.10.

[3] Form of Notice

No particular form of notice is required, but the notice must inform the defendant of the legal basis of the claim and the type of loss sustained, specifying the nature of the injuries suffered. [Code Civ. Proc. § 364(b)].

[4] Method of Service

The notice may be served in the manner prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020 [Code Civ. Proc. § 364(c)]. Although compliance with these provisions for manner of service is not mandatory, a plaintiff who does not comply with those provisions must show that defendant received actual notice [Jones v. Catholic Healthcare West (2007) 147 Cal. App. 4th 300, 307-308, 54 Cal. Rptr. 3d 148] . For discussion relating to service of papers, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

[5] Time for Service

The notice must be served 90 days prior to the commencement of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 364(a)]. If the plaintiff provides the notice in the last 90 days of the applicable statute of limitations, that statute is tolled for 90 days [see Russell v. Stanford Univ. Hosp. (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 783, 791, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 97, 937 P.2d 640 (three year statute of limitations); Woods v. Young (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 315, 328, 279 Cal. Rptr. 613, 807 P.2d 455 ; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d)]. For discussion of the effect of the notice requirement on the statute of limitations, see § 415.47[2].

[6] Unnamed Defendants

The 90-day notice need not be given to defendants whose names are unknown to plaintiff at the time of filing the complaint and who are identified in it by a fictitious name as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 474 [Code Civ. Proc. § 364(e)]. For purposes of the statute of limitations, however, if plaintiff properly serves notice on named codefendants, the time for commencing the action against any "Doe" defendant is tolled 90 days just as it is for suit against the named codefendants [Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d); Grimm v. Thayer (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 866, 870-871, 233 Cal. Rptr. 687 ; see Woods v. Young (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 315, 328, 328 n.4, 279 Cal. Rptr. 613, 807 P.2d 455 (disapproving Grimm to extent that it is inconsistent with holding that Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d) tolls, rather than extends, statutory period if plaintiff gives notice in last 90 days of statutory period)].

If the identity of a Doe defendant is not actually known, a plaintiff is not required to file a notice of intent to sue with that defendant prior to amending a timely-filed complaint to name that defendant [Camarillo v. Vaage (2003) 105 Cal. App. 4th 552, 566-568, 130 Cal. Rptr. 2d 26] . In addition, if a plaintiff has filed a timely notice of intent to sue with known codefendants, a plaintiff is not additionally required to file an actual complaint against other unknown Doe defendants within the applicable limitations period to preserve the right to sue those defendants [Camarillo v. Vaage (2003) 105 Cal. App. 4th 552, 570-571, 130 Cal. Rptr. 2d 26 (attorneys who filed timely notice of intent did not commit malpractice by failing to also file complaint against doctor whose identity was unknown)].

If, however, a plaintiff has actual knowledge of the identities of the treating physician or physicians, a notice under Code Civ. Proc. § 364(a) given to the hospital where the medical care was provided is insufficient to extend the limitation period under Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d) as to the unnamed physicians [Godwin v. City of Bellflower (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1625, 1632, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 524] .

[7] Effect of Failure to Comply

Failure to comply with Code Civ. Proc. § 364 does not invalidate any proceedings of any court in California, nor does it affect the jurisdiction of the court to render a judgment therein. However, failure to comply with the notice requirement by any attorney at law is grounds for professional discipline. The State Bar of California must investigate and take appropriate action in any such cases brought to its attention [Code Civ. Proc. § 365].

Because failure to comply with the notice requirement is not jurisdictional, the failure to allege each injury suffered in the notice does not prevent a plaintiff from including that injury as a basis for a cause of action in the lawsuit subsequently filed, if the cause of action is not otherwise barred by the statute of limitations [Edwards v. Superior Court (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 172, 180, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 838] .

[8] State Statutes

90 days' notice is prerequisite to medical malpractice action based on professional negligence. Code Civ. Proc. § 364

Attorney's failure to serve 90 days' notice is grounds for professional discipline. Code Civ. Proc. § 365

[9] Decisions

Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d) tolls three-year statute of limitations for 90 days if notice of intent to sue is given in last 90 days of three-year period. Russell v. Stanford Univ. Hosp. (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 783, 791, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 97, 937 P.2d 640

Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d) tolls one-year statute of limitations for 90 days if notice of intent to sue is given in last 90 days of one-year period. Woods v. Young (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 315, 328, 330-331, 279 Cal. Rptr. 613, 807 P.2d 455 (holding applies prospectively only, to actions filed on or after August 3, 1991; older actions governed by rule that 90-day tolling applies regardless of when notice was given)

Notice pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 364 that discloses claim that, if not paid or otherwise resolved, will result in litigation, activates notice and defense-waiver provisions of Tort Claims Act (Gov. Code §§ 910.8, 911, 911.3). Phillips v. Desert Hosp. Dist. (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 699, 701-702, 707-708, 709, 263 Cal. Rptr. 119, 780 P.2d 349

Although Gov. Code § 945.6 rather than Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 controlled in medical malpractice action against county doctor, action was not barred even though not filed within six months from rejection of claim because notice of intention to commence action was timely served under Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d), thus extending expiration of limitation period 90 days from service of notice. Anson v. County of Merced (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1195, 1204-1205, 249 Cal. Rptr. 457

Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d), affording 90-day extension of limitation period in actions based on health care provider's professional negligence, was not applicable in action for battery. Noble v. Superior Court (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1189, 1192-1194, 237 Cal. Rptr. 38

Filing notice of intention to commence action based on health care provider's professional negligence pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 364(a) did not constitute filing late claim for purposes of invoking waiver of defense of untimely filing of claim under Gov. Code § 911.3, at least when notice of intention does not include or set forth any matters required by Gov. Code § 910 to be enumerated on face of claim. Lutz v. Tri-City Hosp. (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 807, 812, 224 Cal. Rptr. 787

Failure to give notice as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 364 does not invalidate cause of action, but is grounds for professional discipline of attorney. Toigo v. Hayashida (1980) 103 Cal. App. 3d 267, 269, 162 Cal. Rptr. 874

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART IV. FORMS

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.91

§ 415.91 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries Based on Medical Negligence [Civ. Code § 1714]--By Patient Against Physician--Judicial Council Complaint for Personal Injury with General Negligence Attachment--Cal. Judicial Council Forms PLD-PI-001, PLD-PI-001(2)

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries Based on Medical Negligence [Civ. Code § 1714]--By Patient Against Physician--Judicial Council Complaint for Personal Injury with General Negligence Attachment--Cal. Judicial Council Forms PLD-PI-001, PLD-PI-001(2)

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use by a patient seeking damages based on negligence from a physician. It consists of the Judicial Council approved form of complaint for personal injury, property damage, and wrongful death combined with the form of attachment for a cause of action for general negligence [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.45]. The current forms were revised effective January 1, 2007. Use of these forms is optional [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12].

These forms are available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. Noninteractive versions in PDF format also are available at www.lexisone.com at no charge. For general information relating to the use of Judicial Council complaint forms, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints .

[3] Notice Requirements

An action based on a health care provider's professional negligence may not be commenced until the plaintiff has given defendants 90 days notice of the intent to commence such an action [Code Civ. Proc. § 364]. For a form of notice complying with this requirement, see § 415.90. A copy of the notice may be attached to the complaint.

For definitions of health care provider and professional negligence as used in Code Civ. Proc. § 364, see § 415.10.

[4] Filling Out Complaint Form

[a] In General

This three-page Judicial Council complaint form must always be filed with one or more cause of action attachments. The Judicical Council approved cause of action attachment based on general negligence is included in this form. When counsel seeks exemplary damages in addition to compensatory damages, the exemplary damages attachment must also be included [see Ch. 177, Damages].

For complete instructions on filling out this complaint form, see Ch. 380, Negligence .

[b] Specification of Amount of Damages

In an action for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded for this cause of action [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

Otherwise, the amounts claimed as damages for anything other than personal injury or wrongful death (for example, property damage) must be alleged [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)] or an equivalent statement must be included, for example, a statement that the damages for a particular loss or harm sustained [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282] are not known and that leave will be sought to amend the complaint to state the exact amount when ascertained. If this is done, counsel must remember to seek leave to amend the complaint to so state before judgment.

The pleading of punitive damages in a complaint or other pleading against a health care provider is restricted [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13; see also Civ. Code § 3295(e) (no claim for punitive damages may state an amount sought)]. For discussion of these restrictions and the procedure for claiming punitive damages, see §§ 415.49[5], 415.94 -415.96.

For discussion of and forms for requesting and stating the amount of damages sought when they are not stated in the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.11, 425.115], see Ch. 177, Damages , and Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments .

[5] Filling Out General Negligence Attachment

The rule that negligence may be pleaded in general terms applies to medical malpractice actions [Landeros v. Flood (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 399, 408, 131 Cal. Rptr. 69, 551 P.2d 389] . It is thus sufficient, at least with respect to a general demurrer, to allege that certain treatment was negligently administered by the defendant to the plaintiff's damage without having to allege in what respect the treatment may have been deficient [Stafford v. Shultz (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 767, 774, 270 P.2d 1] .

The complaint alleges:

- The existence of a physician-patient relationship, express or implied, that gives rise to the physician's duty to exercise that degree of skill and care deemed proper by other reasonable practitioners under similar circumstances (Paragraph GN-1a). [see Keene v. Wiggins (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 308, 313, 138 Cal. Rptr. 3 ; see also Felton v. Schaeffer (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 229, 234-235, 279 Cal. Rptr. 713] .

- Negligence on the part of defendant in rendering professional services to plaintiff (Paragraph GN-1b) [see Civ. Code §§ 1714, 3333, 3333.2(c)(2)].

- Plaintiff's injuries caused by defendants' negligence [see Civ. Code §§ 3282, 3283, 3333].

- Plaintiff's damages [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3333, 3333.2; Myers v. Stephens (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 104, 120, 43 Cal. Rptr. 420 ; for a discussion of general and special damages in tort actions generally, see Ch. 177, Damages].

[6] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)], verification will require any answer to be verified in an unlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude the defendant from using a general denial in an unlimited civil case, and will preclude a general denial in a limited civil case if the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion see Ch. 26, Answers .

[7] Cross References

For forms and discussion relating to actions against dentists based on medical malpractice, see Ch. 209, Dentists

For forms and discussion relating to actions against hospitals based on medical malpractice, see Ch. 295, Hospitals

For discussion of jurisdiction in California courts in general, see Ch. 324, Jurisdiction: Subject Matter ,

For forms relating to negligence actions generally, see Ch. 380, Negligence

For discussion and forms relating to service of summons generally, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers

For alternative forms of verification, see Ch. 572, Verification

For a comprehensive procedural guide that chronologically outlines all the procedures in a typical civil action brought in a California state court, see Ch.2, Procedural Guide for Civil Actions

[8] State Statutes

[a] Commencing Action

Statute of limitations in actions against health care providers based on professional negligence. Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5

Notice of intention to file professional negligence action against health care provider. Code Civ. Proc. § 364

Security for costs in medical malpractice actions. Code Civ. Proc. § 1029.6

[b] Damages

"Damages," as used in law, means money compensation for detriment suffered by person from unlawful act or omission of another. Civ. Code § 3281

"Detriment" means loss or harm suffered in person or property. Civ. Code § 3282

Measure of damages in noncontractual action. Civ. Code § 3333

Evidence of collateral benefits in medical malpractice action. Civ. Code § 3333.1

Limitations on recovery of noneconomic losses. Civ. Code § 3333.2

Statement of amount of damages claimed in complaint. Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)

Request for and statement of damages in cases in which amount of damages claimed must not be stated. Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11

[c] Health Care Provider

Defined. Civ. Code §§ 3333.1(c)(1), 3333.2(c)(1); Code Civ. Proc. §§ 340.5(1), 364(f)(1)

[d] Professional Negligence

Defined. Civ. Code §§ 3333.1(c)(2), 3333.2(c)(2); Code Civ. Proc. §§ 340.5(2), 364(f)(2)

[9] Decisions

Health care provider is not subject to separate and distinct claims for professional and ordinary negligence based on same conduct. Flowers v. Torrance Mem'l Hosp. Med. Ctr. (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 992, 995, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 685, 884 P.2d 142

Standard of care and skill required of physicians. McCurdy v. Hatfield (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 492, 495, 183 P.2d 269 ; Lawless v. Calaway (1944) 24 Cal. 2d 81, 86, 147 P.2d 604 ; Lamb v. Moore (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 819, 823, 3 Cal. Rptr. 507 ; Norden v. Hartman (1955) 134 Cal. App. 2d 333, 337, 285 P.2d 977

Professional negligence is limited to negligence occurring during physician's rendering of professional services. Murillo v. Good Samaritan Hosp. (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 50, 56-57, 160 Cal. Rptr. 33

Foundation of all liability for person's willful and negligent acts is Civ. Code § 1714 (now Civ. Code § 1714(a)), declaring that everyone is responsible, not only for result of his or her willful acts, but also for injury occasioned to another by his or her want of ordinary care or skill in management of his or her property or person, except so far as the latter has, willfully or by want of ordinary care, brought the injury on himself or herself. Tresemer v. Barke (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 656, 667, 150 Cal. Rptr. 384

In medical malpractice action, plaintiff is required to establish duty owed by defendant, breach of that duty, proximate cause of injury and damages. Frantz v. San Luis Med. Clinic (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 34, 39, 146 Cal. Rptr. 146

Causal connection between physician's failure to exercise proper standard of care and plaintiff's injury is required in medical malpractice actions. Marvin v. Talbott (1963) 216 Cal. App. 2d 383, 385-386, 30 Cal. Rptr. 893

Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 4, Pleading, §§ (4th ed. 1997)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART IV. FORMS

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.92

§ 415.92 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] Based on Medical Negligence [Civ. Code § 1714(a)]--Personal Injury--By Patient Against Physicians and Physicians' Employees--General Form

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] Based on Medical Negligence [Civ. Code § 1714(a)]--Personal Injury--By Patient Against Physicians and Physicians' Employees--General Form

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____ [names], and DOES 1	)	(Medical Malpractice)
through _____,	)	[Amount demanded _____
Defendants.	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff is ignorant of the true names and capacities of defendants sued herein as DOES 1-_____, inclusive, and therefore sues these defendants by such fictitious names. Plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained. [Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges that each of the fictitiously named defendants is negligently responsible in some manner for the occurrences herein alleged, and that plaintiff's injuries as herein alleged were proximately caused by the negligence of these defendants.]

2. At all times herein mentioned, defendant(s) _____ [name (s)] and DOES 1-10, and each of them, were physicians and surgeons licensed to practice medicine and perform surgery under the laws of the State of California and were engaged in the practice of medicine in _____ [city], California.

3. At all times herein mentioned, defendant(s) _____ [name (s)] and DOES 11-20, and each of them, were the agents and employees of defendants _____ [named physician (s)] and DOES 1-10, and, in doing the things hereinafter alleged, were acting in the scope of their agency and employ ment and with the permission and consent of defendants _____ [named physician (s)] and DOES 1-10.

[EITHER]

4. _____ [Specify nature of plaintiff's employment of physician, e.g., On or about _____ [date], plaintiff employed defendant _____ (name) to diagnose and treat a medical complaint then suffered by plaintiff]. Pursuant to this employment, defendants rendered professional services in the diagnosis, treatment, and care of plaintiff [for his/her condition].

[OR]

4. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff employed defendant _____ [name] to give plaintiff a physical examination for the purpose of ascertaining the state of plaintiff's health and diagnosing any possible diseases or physical conditions. Pursuant to this employment, defendant rendered professional services in examining plaintiff.

[CONTINUE]

5. From and after the time of the employment, defendants, and each of them, so negligently failed to exercise the proper degree of knowledge and skill in examining, diagnosing, treating, and caring for plaintiff that plaintiff was caused to suffer the injuries and damages hereinafter alleged.

6. As a proximate result of the negligence of defendants, and each of them, plaintiff suffered _____ [specify plaintiff's injuries, including exacerbation of the original malady and the need for subsequent remedial treatment, if any e.g., an exacerbation of plaintiff's asbestosis to the point that hospitalization was required to treat it due to defendant's failure to render a timely diagnosis], and as a result suffered great physical and emotional pain and suffering.

7. As a proximate result of the negligence of defendants, and each of them, plaintiff has sustained injury to his/her health, strength, and activity, all of which injuries have caused, and continue to cause, plaintiff great mental, physical, and nervous pain and suffering. [Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that such injuries will result in some permanent disability to him/her.] As a result of such injuries, plaintiff has sustained general damages.

8. As a further proximate result of the negligence of defendants, and each of them, plaintiff has incurred [and will continue to incur] medical, hospital, and related expenses, all to his/her special damage.

[9. As a further proximate result of the negligence of the defendants, and each of them, plaintiff was prevented from attending to his/her usual occupation as _____ (specify occupation) from _____ [date] _____ (specify, e.g., to _____ [date] or through the present, and will continue to be so prevented for an indefinite time in the future), all to his/her further damage.]

10. On _____ [date], plaintiff, pursuant to the provisions of Section 364 of the Code of Civil Procedure, caused to be served on defendants a notice of plaintiff's intention to commence this action. A copy of the notice is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For general damages according to proof.

2. For medical, hospital, and related expenses according to proof.

3. For loss of earnings according to proof.

4. For costs of suit herein incurred.

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

[Verification, if desired. see § 415.91.]

CAUTION:
No complaint or other pleading against a health care provider may include a claim for punitive damages [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(b) (definition of health care provider)]. For the procedure for making a claim for punitive damages, see §§ 415.49[5], 415.94 -415.96.

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint may be used by a patient in an action against a physician and the physician's employees to recover damages for personal injuries caused by the negligent rendering of medical services.

[3] Allegations

The rule that negligence may be pleaded in general terms applies to medical malpractice actions [Landeros v. Flood (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 399, 408, 131 Cal. Rptr. 69, 551 P.2d 389] . It is thus sufficient, at least with respect to a general demurrer, to allege that certain treatment was negligently administered by the defendant to the plaintiff's damage without having to allege in what respect the treatment may have been deficient [Stafford v. Shultz (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 767, 774, 270 P.2d 1] .

The complaint alleges:

- The existence of a physician-patient relationship, express or implied, which gives rise to the physician's duty to exercise that degree of skill and care deemed proper by other reasonable practitioners under similar circumstances (Paragraph 4) [see Keene v. Wiggins (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 308, 313, 138 Cal. Rptr. 3 ; see also Felton v. Schaeffer (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 229, 234-235, 279 Cal. Rptr. 713] ,

- Negligence on the part of defendants in rendering professional services to plaintiff (Paragraph 5) [see Civ. Code §§ 1714, 3333, 3333.2(c)(2)],

- Plaintiff's injuries as proximately caused by defendants' negligence (Paragraph 6) [see Civ. Code §§ 3282, 3283, 3333],

- Plaintiff's damages (Paragraphs 7-9) [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3333, 3333.2; Myers v. Stephens (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 104, 120, 43 Cal. Rptr. 420 ; for a discussion of general and special damages in tort actions generally, see Ch. 177, Damages], and

- Service of the 90-day notice of intention to file suit (Paragraph 10) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 364; and discussion in § 415.92[4]].

[4] Notice Requirement

An action based on a health care provider's professional negligence may not be commenced until the plaintiff has given defendants 90 days notice of the intent to commence such an action [Code Civ. Proc. § 364]. For a form of notice complying with this requirement, see § 415.90. A copy of the notice may be attached to the complaint.

The terms "health care provider" and "professional negligence," as used in Code Civ. Proc. § 364, are defined in Code Civ. Proc. § 364(f), discussed in § 415.10.

[5] Specification of Amount of Damages

For a discussion of the specification of damages in a complaint, see § 415.91.

For forms and discussion of procedures relating to use in ascertaining the specific amount of damages sought in personal injury or wrongful death actions, see Ch. 177, Damages .

[6] Decisions

Sufficiency of general allegations of negligence in malpractice actions. Rannard v. Lockheed Aircraft Corp. (1945) 26 Cal. 2d 149, 157, 157 P.2d 1 ; Guilliams v. Hollywood Hosp. (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 97, 100-101, 114 P.2d 1 ; Abos v. Martyn (1939) 31 Cal. App. 2d 705, 707, 88 P.2d 797

[7] Cross References

For alternative allegations as to capacity and residence of parties, fictitious name allegations, and agency allegations, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used

For alternative forms of captions and introductions, see Ch. 108, Captions and Introductions

For discussion and forms relating to the format of complaints, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints

For discussion and forms relating to damages and pleading damages, see Ch. 177, Damages

For alternative forms of prayers, see Ch. 420, Prayers

For forms of allegations showing proper venue, see Ch. 571, Venue

For a related form, see § 415.91.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART IV. FORMS

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.93

§ 415.93 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] Based on Medical Negligence [Civ. Code § 1714(a)]--Combined Wrongful Death Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60] and Survival Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30]--By Personal Representative of Decedent Against Physician--General Form

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] Based on Medical Negligence [Civ. Code § 1714(a)]--Combined Wrongful Death Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60] and Survival Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30]--By Personal Representative of Decedent Against Physician--General Form

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
as _____ [specify capacity, e.g.,	)	NO. _____
Personal Representative of the Estate] of	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____ [name], Deceased,	)	(Wrongful Death and Negligence)
Plaintiff,	)	[Amount demanded _____
vs.	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
_____ [name], [and DOES 1	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE] through _____,]	)
Defendant(s).

Plaintiff alleges:

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION
(Wrongful Death)

1. The person(s) listed below is/are entitled to bring an action for the wrongful death of _____ [name of decedent] (hereinafter "decedent") pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure Section 377.60, based on his/her/their relationship to decedent, as follows:

Name(s)	Relationship(s) to Decedent
_____	_____
_____	_____
_____	_____

[_____ (If one or more persons are required by statute to establish additional facts, such as that there is no surviving spouse, domestic partner, child, or issue of deceased child, or that the person was dependent on decedent, in order to be entitled to bring a wrongful death action, specify facts that satisfy applicable requirement).]

2. Plaintiff _____ [name of personal representative] is the duly appointed, qualified, and acting personal representative of the estate of decedent, and brings this action on behalf of all of the above-listed persons entitled to bring a cause of action for the wrongful death of decedent.

[3. Fictitious name allegation. See § 415.92, Paragraph 1.]

4. At all times herein mentioned, defendant _____ [name] was a physician and surgeon licensed to practice medicine and perform surgery under the laws of the State of California, and was engaged in the practice of medicine in _____ [city], California.

5. On or about _____ [date], the decedent _____ [state facts establishing creation of physician-patient relationship, e.g., was experiencing great physical pain and suffering and on that date visited defendant in his/her office and employed him/her to diagnose and treat the decedent's medical complaint. Pursuant to this employment, defendant undertook to diagnose the decedent's illness and to treat and care for the decedent].

6. From and after the time of the employment, defendant negligently failed to exercise the proper degree of knowledge and skill in examining, diagnosing, treating, and caring for the decedent as hereinafter described.

7. _____ [Specify what decedent's illness or condition was and generally how it was misdiagnosed or improperly treated, e.g.: At all times herein mentioned, the decedent was suffering _____ (specify illness or condition, e.g., from cancer of the uterus). Defendant nevertheless incorrectly diagnosed the decedent's condition as _____ (specify, e.g., a tubal pregnancy)].

8. As a proximate result of the negligence of the defendant [and of his/her subsequent failure and refusal to treat and care for, and his/her abandonment of, the decedent with knowledge of the decedent's worsening condition,] as herein alleged, the decedent died on or about _____ [date] from _____ [specify, e.g., cancer of the uterus].

9. _____ [Describe relationship of decedent and entitled person(s), e.g., At and prior to the time of the decedent's death, the _____ [name(s)] lived with the decedent and was/were totally dependent on him/her for his/her/their support and maintenance. At all times prior to his/her death, the decedent was a faithful, loving, and dutiful _____ (specify relationship, e.g., husband and father or wife and mother)].

10. As a proximate result of the negligence of the defendant as herein alleged, and of the decedent's death, the _____ [name(s)] has/have been deprived of the decedent's society, comfort, attention, services, and support to his/her/their damage.

11. As a further proximate result of the negligence of the defendant, as herein alleged, and of the death of the decedent, _____ [plaintiff or state name of person incurring expense] has incurred funeral and burial expenses.

12. On _____ [date], plaintiff gave defendant(s) written notice of his/her intention to commence this action. A copy of the notice is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
(Survival Action Based on Negligence)

13. Plaintiff incorporates Paragraphs 2-8 inclusive, and 12 of the First Cause of Action.

14. As a further proximate result of the negligence of the defendant as herein alleged, the decedent incurred expenses prior to his/her death for medical treatment and related expenses to his/her damage.

15. As a further proximate result of the negligence of the defendant as herein alleged, the decedent incurred a loss of earnings prior to his/her death to his/her damage.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For general damages according to proof;

2. For funeral and burial expenses according to proof;

3. For medical and related expenses according to proof;

4. For loss of earnings incurred prior to death according to proof;

5. For interest on all economic damages in the legal amount from _____ [date of decedent's death] to the date of judgment;

6. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

7. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

CAUTION:
No complaint or other pleading against a health care provider may include a claim for punitive damages [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(b) (definition of health care provider)]. For the procedure for making a claim for punitive damages, see §§ 415.49[5], 415.94 -415.96.

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use in a wrongful death action against a physician brought by the personal representative of a deceased patient, on behalf of persons entitled to bring such an action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60 et seq.]. The wrongful death cause of action may also be modified for use in an action brought directly by the statutorily specified persons.

The form also includes a cause of action for negligence, which cause of action survives the decedent's death, to recover the damages that the decedent would have been entitled to recover had he or she lived [see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30 et seq.].

[3] Wrongful Death Action

When the death of a person is caused by the wrongful act or negligence of another, certain persons, or the decedent's personal representative on their behalf, may bring an action for damages against the person causing the death and any other person responsible (or against the personal representatives of such persons) [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60]. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60 permits decedent's surviving spouse, domestic partner, children, and issue of deceased children to bring a wrongful death action without qualification, and permits others to bring an action under specified circumstances. For forms of allegations establishing that specific classes of persons are entitled to bring a wrongful death action, including allegations that are required of plaintiffs who are not the decedent's surviving spouse, domestic partner, children, or issue of deceased children, see Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions .

In a wrongful death action, damages may be awarded that, under all the circumstances of the case, may be just, but may not include damages recoverable under Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34 (survival actions). The court must determine the respective rights in an award of the persons entitled to assert the cause of action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.61; see Canavin v. Pacific Sw. Airlines (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 512, 529-537, 196 Cal. Rptr. 82] . For further discussion of wrongful death actions, see Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions .

[4] Survival of Actions

A cause of action that survives the death of the person entitled to commence an action or proceeding passes to the decedent's successor in interest, subject to Prob. Code § 7000 et seq. (governing succession to property of decedents), and an action may be commenced by the decedent's personal representative or, if none, by the decedent's successor in interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30]. In an action or proceeding by a decedent's personal representative or successor in interest on the decedent's cause of action, the damages recoverable are limited to the loss or damage that the decedent sustained or incurred before death, including any penalties or punitive or exemplary damages that the decedent would have been entitled to recover had the decedent lived, and do not include damages for pain, suffering, or disfigurement [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34]. For further discussion of survival actions, see Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions .

[5] Joinder or Consolidation of Actions

A survival action under Code Civ. Proc § 377.30 may be joined with a wrongful death action arising out of the same wrongful act or neglect [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.62(a)]. In addition, a wrongful death action and a survival action under Code Civ. Proc § 377.31 (survival of pending actions) arising out of the same wrongful act or neglect may be consolidated for trial as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1048 [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.62(b)].

[6] Allegations

For purposes of both causes of action, the complaint alleges:

- The capacity of the plaintiff, as personal representative, to maintain the action on behalf of the entitled persons (First Cause of Action) and the estate (Second Cause of Action) (Paragraphs 2 and 13) [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.30, 377.60];

- The identity of defendant as a physician and surgeon and the city in which he or she practices medicine (Paragraphs 4 and 13) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a) and Ch. 571, Venue (if the wrongful act or omission occurred in a county or judicial district other than that in which the defendant practices medicine and the complaint is to be filed in the other county or district, or if venue is to be based on defendant's residence, the location in which the act or omission occurred or defendant lives should be alleged to show that venue has been properly laid)];

- The creation of the physician-patient relationship which gave rise to the defendant's duty to use due care in diagnosing, treating, and caring for the decedent (Paragraphs 5 and 13) [see Civ. Code § 3333];

- Defendant's breach of duty (Paragraphs 6 and 13) [see Civ. Code § 3333];

- The actual illness or condition from which the decedent was suffering and generally how it was misdiagnosed or improperly treated (Paragraphs 7 and 13);

- Decedent's death as a proximate result of the defendant's breach of duty (Paragraphs 8 and 13) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 377(a)]; and

- Service of the 90-day notice of intention to file suit (Paragraphs 12 and 13) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 364].

With respect only to the wrongful death action, the complaint further alleges:

- The identity of persons entitled to bring a wrongful death cause of action and the basis for entitlement (Paragraph 1) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60];

- Additional facts regarding the relationship between the entitled persons and the decedent, such as the dependency of these persons on the decedent for financial and emotional support (Paragraph 9) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60];

- The detriment suffered by the entitled persons as a proximate result of defendant's breach of duty (Paragraphs 8 and 10) [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282, 3333; see also Bond v. United Railroads of San Francisco (1911) 159 Cal. 270, 286, 113 P. 366 ; Canavin v. Pacific Sw. Airlines (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 512, 520-521, 527, 196 Cal. Rptr. 82] ; and

- Funeral and burial expenses (these expenses are recoverable in wrongful death actions provided this does not result in double recovery) (Paragraph 11) [see Patterson v. Sharp (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 990, 1000, 89 Cal. Rptr. 396 ; Francis v. Sauve (1963) 222 Cal. App. 2d 102, 124, 34 Cal. Rptr. 754 ; see also Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions].

With respect only to the survival action, the complaint further alleges damage and loss sustained by decedent prior to death as proximate result of defendant's negligence (Paragraphs 14 and 15) [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282, 3333; Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34].

In addition, the prayer seeks prejudgment interest under Civ. Code § 3288, which provides that in an action for the breach of an obligation not arising from contract, and in every case of oppression, fraud, or malice, interest may be given at the discretion of the jury. Civ. Code § 3288 permits discretionary prejudgment interest for unliquidated tort claims, and such interest in a wrongful death action may be awarded in the discretion of the jury on economic damages, such as loss of household services or earning capacity, as well as funeral and related expenses sustained prior to the date of the verdict or judgment, but not on intangible noneconomic damages such as mental and emotional injury [Canavin v. Pacific Sw. Airlines (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 512, 525-528, 196 Cal. Rptr. 82] .

[7] State Statutes

Survival of actions. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30 et seq.

Actions for wrongful death. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60 et seq.

[8] Decisions

Allegation of official capacity as administrator is sufficient if it states that plaintiff is duly appointed, qualified, and acting administrator of decedent's estate. Collins v. O'Laverty (1902) 136 Cal. 31, 33, 68 P. 327

Allegation of official capacity as executor is sufficient if it states that letters testamentary were issued to executor who is duly qualified and acting executor of decedent's will. Vragnizan v. Savings Union Bank & Trust Co. (1916) 31 Cal. App. 709, 715

Personal representative must plead that there are persons entitled to wrongful death action under statute in order to maintain wrongful death action. Guidera v. Lapiana (1921) 52 Cal. App. 460, 462, 199 P. 557

Nature of judgment and division among entitled persons. Canavin v. Pacific Sw. Airlines (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 512, 529-537, 196 Cal. Rptr. 82

Right to trial by jury in wrongful death action. Canavin v. Pacific Sw. Airlines (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 512, 531-532, 196 Cal. Rptr. 82

Admission by doctor that prescribed treatment was useless. Smith v. Shankman (1962) 208 Cal. App. 2d 177, 186, 25 Cal. Rptr. 195

Incorrect diagnosis of pregnancy resulting in delay of necessary operation for removal of tumor. Stephenson v. Kaiser Found. Hosps. (1962) 203 Cal. App. 2d 631, 635-636, 21 Cal. Rptr. 646 ,

[9] Cross References

For alternative forms of captions, introduction, and allegations when the action is brought by the decedent's personal representative or by all of the decedent's heirs, see Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions

For related forms, see §§ 415.91 and 415.92.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART IV. FORMS

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.94

§ 415.94 Proceedings for Order Permitting Filing of Amended Pleading Seeking Punitive Damages Against Health Care Provider [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13]--Notice of Motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010] and Supporting Declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]

[1] FORM Proceedings for Order Permitting Filing of Amended Pleading Seeking Punitive Damages Against Health Care Provider [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13]--Notice of Motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010] and Supporting Declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)	NO. _____
Plaintiff,	)	NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION TO AMEND PLEADING, SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF _____ [name], AND MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
vs.	)
_____ [name],	)
Defendant.	)
	)	Date: _____
	)	Time: _____
	)	Dept.: _____
	)	Judge: _____
		Date Action Filed: _____
		Trial Date: _____

_____

To defendant _____ [name] and to his/her attorney of record:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____ [street address], _____ [city], plaintiff will, and hereby does, move for an order allowing him/her to file _____ [a _____ (specify number to differentiate from any other amendments, e.g., first) amended complaint or an amendment to the complaint], a copy of which is attached hereto, for the purpose of adding a claim for punitive damages as authorized by Civil Code Section 3294. The motion will be made on the ground that in doing the things alleged in the complaint herein, defendant acted with _____ [malice or oppression or fraud or any combination of these] as _____ [that term is or those terms are] defined in Civil Code Section 3294(c) and that if the amendment is allowed there is a substantial probability that plaintiff will prevail on his/her claim for punitive damages.

The motion will be based on this notice of motion, on the _____ [affidavit(s) or declaration(s)] of _____ [name(s)] and the memorandum of points and authorities set forth below, on the records and file herein, and on such evidence as may be presented at the hearing of the motion.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for _____ [moving party]

SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF _____ [name]

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., an attorney at law duly admitted to practice before all the courts of the State of California and the attorney of record herein for plaintiff or other statement as appropriate].

2. This is an action _____ [specify the subject matter and issues of the action, specifically referring to pleadings or other documents on file, and summarizing or attaching portions of those pleadings or documents as exhibits, when appropriate].

3. _____ [Set forth evidentiary facts or sources establishing a substantial probability that plaintiff will prevail on his or her claim for punitive damages, e.g., On _____ [date], plaintiff received answers to his/her first set of interrogatories to defendant _____ (name), and on _____ [date], plaintiff received responses to his/her first set of requests for admissions to defendant _____ (name). Answers to interrogatories 20-25 of that first set (attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof), and responses to requests for admissions 10-25 of that second set (attached hereto as exhibit B and made a part hereof) show that defendant _____ (specify despicable conduct that is admitted by the answers and responses and which shows malice, oppression, or fraud, e.g., willfully and in conscious disregard of plaintiff's rights, without any warning or explanation, totally abandoned his/her treatment of plaintiff after plaintiff was bedridden and unable to seek other medical treatment on his/her own)].

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]
_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
[Add memorandum of points and authorities supporting motion]

[2] Use of Form

This form of notice of motion and supporting declaration is for use by a plaintiff to move to amend the complaint to add a claim for punitive damages against a health care provider. No claim for punitive damages against a health care provider may be included in a complaint or other pleading unless the court enters an order allowing an amended pleading that includes a claim for punitive damages to be filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(b) (definition of health care provider)].

A memorandum of points and authorities is required to be served with this form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010].

[3] Time for Making Motion

To claim punitive damages against a health care provider, a plaintiff must file a motion for an order to amend the complaint to add the punitive damage claim within two years after the complaint or initial pleading is filed, or not less than nine months before the date the matter is first set for trial, whichever is earlier [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a)].

[4] Supporting Declarations and Affidavits

This motion must be supported by affidavits (or declarations under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) [see Code Civ. Proc. 425.13(a)]. The example of supporting declaration in this form is by the plaintiff's attorney, identifying parts of the record that support the claim for punitive damages. The motion may also be supported by additional or other declarations, given by plaintiff and potential witnesses, if any, and setting forth facts showing that defendant's conduct was malicious, oppressive, or fraudulent within the meaning of Civ. Code § 3294(c) and, hence, that there is a substantial probability that plaintiff will prevail on the punitive damages claim. The argument that the facts which are set forth constitute malice, oppression, or fraud, which are the grounds for an award of punitive damages [see Civ. Code § 3294], would be made in the accompanying memorandum of points and authorities.

[5] State Statutes

Procedure for claiming punitive damages from health care provider. Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a)

Definition of health care provider. Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(b)

[6] Decisions

Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13's threshold requirement for punitive damage claims against health care providers requires plaintiff to show that claim is supported by competent, admissible evidence, but does not give trial court authority to assess evidence independently. College Hosp. v. Superior Court (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 704, 719, 722-727, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 882 P.2d 894

Claim for punitive damages in action against health care provider is subject to Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a) if injury that is basis for claim was causedby conduct that was directly related to rendition of professional services. Central Pathology Serv. Med. Clinic, Inc. v. Superior Court (1992) 3 Cal. 4th 181, 191-193, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 208, 832 P.2d 924

Identifying cause of action as "intentional tort" as opposed to "negligence" does not itself remove claim from requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a); allegations identifying nature and cause of plaintiff's injury must be examined to determine whether nature and cause of injury are directly related to manner in which professional services provided. Central Pathology Serv. Med. Clinic, Inc. v. Superior Court (1992) 3 Cal. 4th 181, 192, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 208, 832 P.2d 924

Causes of action against physicians for fraud and intentional infliction of emotional distress are subject to requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a) when plaintiff's claim emanates from manner in which physicians performed and communicated results of medical tests. Central Pathology Serv. Med. Clinic, Inc. v. Superior Court (1992) 3 Cal. 4th 181, 192-193, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 208, 832 P.2d 924

To prevail on punitive damages claim, plaintiff must establish, pursuant to Civ. Code § 3294, malice, oppression, or fraud by clear and convincing evidence; any prima facie case required by Code of Civ. Proc. § 425.13 as required to meet that standard. Looney v. Superior Court (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 521, 539, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 182

[7] Cross References

For discussion and forms relating to damages and pleading damages, see Ch. 177, Damages

For discussion, procedures, and forms for use in making motions generally, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders

For related forms,see §§ 415.95 and 415.96.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART IV. FORMS

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.95

§ 415.95 Proceedings for Order Permitting Filing of Amended Pleading Seeking Punitive Damages Against Health Care Provider [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13]--Order [Code Civ. Proc. § 1003] Granting Motion

[1] FORM Proceedings for Order Permitting Filing of Amended Pleading Seeking Punitive Damages Against Health Care Provider [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13]--Order [Code Civ. Proc. § 1003] Granting Motion

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	ORDER
Defendant.	)
	)
	)

_____

The motion of plaintiff for an order authorizing plaintiff to file an amended complaint against defendant _____ [name] to add a claim for punitive damages came on regularly for hearing by the court on _____ [date]. Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name]; defendant appeared by counsel _____ [name].

On proof made to the satisfaction of the court that the plaintiff has established that there is a substantial probability that the plaintiff will prevail on the claim pursuant to Civil Code Section 3294,

IT IS ORDERED that the motion be, and it hereby is, granted and that plaintiff _____ [name] be allowed to file an amended complaint which includes a claim for punitive damages against defendant _____ [name].
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

This form of order is for use when the court has granted plaintiff's motion for an order allowing plaintiff to file an amended pleading that adds a claim for punitive damages against a health care provider [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(b) (definition of health care provider)].

[3] Cross References

For related forms,see §§ 415.94 and 415.96

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART IV. FORMS

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.96

§ 415.96 Amendment to Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.10, 425.13, 471.5] for Damages [Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3333] for Personal Injuries [Civ. Code § 3282] Based on Medical Negligence [Civ. Code § 1714(a)]--To Claim Punitive Damages [Civ. Code § 3294; Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13]

[1] FORM Amendment to Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.10, 425.13, 471.5] for Damages [Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3333] for Personal Injuries [Civ. Code § 3282] Based on Medical Negligence [Civ. Code § 1714(a)]--To Claim Punitive Damages [Civ. Code § 3294; Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	AMENDMENT TO COMPLAINT
_____ [name],	)	[Amount demanded _____
[and DOES 1 through _____,]	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
Defendants.	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)
	)

Plaintiff amends his/her complaint herein by _____ [specify, e.g., deleting and adding paragraph 6 on page _____, lines _____, and adding paragraph 16 on page _____, line _____, and adding to the prayer a request for an award of punitive damages, as follows:

[SET FORTH amendments, for example:]

Paragraph 6 of the complaint is deleted and the following is substituted in its place:

6. From and after the time of the employment, defendant negligently failed to exercise the proper degree of knowledge and skill in examining, diagnosing, treating, and caring for _____ [plaintiff or the decedent], as hereinafter alleged, and did thereafter, with notice and knowledge of _____ [plaintiff's or the decedent's] worsening and critical condition, refuse to give _____ [plaintiff or the decedent] treatment and care, and did in fact abandon _____ [plaintiff or the decedent] after he/she was bedridden and helpless, notwithstanding the employment and notice and knowledge of _____ [plaintiff's or the decedent's] condition.

Paragraph 16 is added as follows:

16. In refusing to treat and care for _____ [plaintiff or the decedent], after having undertaken to do so and with notice and knowledge of _____ [plaintiff's or the decedent's] worsening and critical condition, and in the abandonment of _____ [plaintiff or the decedent], defendant acted both maliciously, in that defendant's conduct was despicable and was carried on with a willful and conscious disregard of the _____ [plaintiff's or decedent's] rights and safety, and oppressively in that defendant's conduct was despicable and subjected _____ [plaintiff or the decedent] to cruel and unjust hardship in conscious disregard of the _____ [defendant's or decedent's] rights, thereby entitling plaintiff to an award of punitive damages.

The prayer is amended to add a new paragraph 6 as follows and to renumber existing paragraphs 6 and 7 to 7 and 8, respectively:

6. Exemplary or punitive damages.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use to amend a complaint in a medical malpractice action to allege and pray for punitive damages when the court grants the motion to amend [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a); see § 415.92.5], and does not, in its order granting the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a); see § 415.92.6], order the filing of an amended complaint [see Code Civ. Proc. § 471.5]. If an amended complaint is required, the complaint should be entirely redrafted and the amendments incorporated in the amended pleading. An amendment to a complaint should be executed in the same manner as the complaint and, hence, if the complaint was verified, the amendment to the complaint should also be verified.

[3] Pleading Punitive Damages

No claim for punitive damages may state an amount or amounts [Civ. Code § 3295(e)].

[4] State Statutes

When punitive damages may be allowed. Civ. Code § 3294

Punitive damage claims in actions against health care providers. Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a)

Definition of health care provider. Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(b)

Requirements of amended complaint or amendment to complaint. Code Civ. Proc. § 471.5

[5] California Rules of Court

Requirements for amending pleadings. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1324

[6] Cross References

For discussion, procedures, and forms for use in amending pleadings generally, see Ch. 21, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings

For related forms,see §§ 415.94 and 415.95

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART IV. FORMS

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.97

§ 415.97 Allegation--Physician's Duty to Warn Patient of Treatment--Related Hazards Ascertained After Treatment Rendered

[1] FORM Allegation--Physician's Duty to Warn Patient of Treatment--Related Hazards Ascertained After Treatment Rendered

On or about _____ [date], defendant _____ [name of physician] treated plaintiff by _____ [specify treatment rendered, e.g., inserting a contraceptive intrauterine device for the purpose of birth control]. Subsequent to treatment, defendant learned that _____ [specify risk ascertained by defendant, e.g., the intrauterine device used by plaintiff had been found to cause pelvic inflammatory disease] and that this risk constituted a hazard to plaintiff's health and safety, but defendant negligently failed to warn plaintiff of the hazard.

[2] Use of Form

This form of allegation may be incorporated into either the general form of complaint for negligence set forth in § 415.92, or the general negligence attachment to the Judicial Council form of complaint for personal injury set forth in § 415.91. The allegation may be used by a plaintiff who has suffered injury as the result of a physician's failure to warn of a health hazard related to treatment or services rendered by the physician of which the physician acquires knowledge after such treatment or services are rendered.

[3] Duty to Warn

A physician owes a duty of care to a patient to warn of dangerous effects of a medical procedure when, subsequent to the performance of the procedure, the physician acquires actual knowledge of the danger. This duty arises from the imposed continuing status of the physician-patient relationship when the risk stems from services rendered pursuant to that relationship [see Tresemer v. Barke (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 656, 669, 672, 150 Cal. Rptr. 384] .

[4] Statute of Limitations

Medical malpractice actions are governed by the statute of limitations provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 [see §

415.47]. In an action brought for personal injuries resulting from the use of an intrauterine device, for example, the one-year statute of limitations period relating to discovery of the injury does not commence to run upon insertion of the device, but rather upon plaintiff's discovery that the placement of the device by defendant is the cause of the injury [see Tresemer v. Barke (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 656, 664-665, 150 Cal. Rptr. 384] .

[5] State Statutes

Statute of limitations period in actions against health care providers for professional negligence. Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART IV. FORMS

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.98

§ 415.98 Allegation--Physician's Failure to Obtain Patient's Informed Consent--Action in Negligence

[1] FORM Allegation--Physician's Failure to Obtain Patient's Informed Consent--Action in Negligence

On or about _____ [date], defendant proposed to treat plaintiff by [specify treatment proposed by defendant, e.g., performing a bilateral hernioplasty]. Defendant negligently failed to disclose a material risk of the procedure to plaintiff which was [specify risk, e.g., that postoperative swelling of the testicles might occur due to bleeding], and thus plaintiff's consent to the procedure was not a fully informed one. Had plaintiff been adequately informed of all material risks of _____ [specify the procedure], he/she would not have consented to the procedure.

[2] Use of Form

This form of allegation may be incorporated as Paragraph 5 of the complaint set forth in § 415.92. It may be used by a plaintiff in an action for professional negligence to recover for injuries incurred during a procedure which was performed without plaintiff's having been fully informed of the material risk of harm which did occur. An action based on lack of informed consent should be brought in negligence rather than battery when the physician's failure to inform the patient of material risks does not prevent the patient from comprehending the nature of the procedure, but rather prevents a complete weighing of the risks of the treatment [see § 415.13].

[3] Causation

In order to state a cause of action in negligence based on a physician's failure to disclose the risks inherent in a proposed treatment, the plaintiff must allege that such undisclosed information was material to his or her decision whether to undergo or refuse the treatment. Materiality is defined as that information which would be regarded as significant to the decision by a reasonable person in similar circumstances [Truman v. Thomas (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 285, 292, 165 Cal. Rptr. 308, 611 P.2d 902] . Furthermore, the plaintiff must establish a causal connection between the physician's failure to disclose and plaintiff's injuries by alleging that, had an adequate disclosure been made, plaintiff would have refused the treatment which caused the injury [Cobbs v. Grant, (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 245, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] .

[4] State Statutes

Duty of physician to make certain disclosures and obtain written consent before treating patient with DMSO preparation. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4211.5

[5] Decisions

In action based on failure to warn of risk of developing aseptic necrosis from prednisone, district court erred in concluding that doctor's duty to warn depended on whether doctors in community would have customarily provided warnings in same situation; whether or not use of prednisone was prevalent in treatment of asthma was not directly relevant to whether or not reasonable person in plaintiff's position would have consented to treatment with it after considering risk; on remand, district court must resolve issues of what risk plaintiff faced and whether or not reasonable person would have consented to treatment. Hutchinson v. United States (9th Cir. 1988) 841 F.2d 966, 967

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART IV. FORMS

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.99

§ 415.99 Allegations for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries Based on Negligence [Civ. Code § 1714]--By Patient Against Physician, Physician's Employees, Hospital and Hospital Employees--Injury to Patient While Under Anesthesia--Res Ipsa Loquitur

[1] FORM Allegations for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries Based on Negligence [Civ. Code § 1714]--By Patient Against Physician, Physician's Employees, Hospital and Hospital Employees--Injury to Patient While Under Anesthesia--Res Ipsa Loquitur

1. At all times herein mentioned, defendants _____ [names of physicians employed by hospital], _____ [name of plaintiff's private physician], and DOES 1-20, and each of them, were physicians and surgeons licensed to practice medicine under the laws of the State of California.

2. At all times herein mentioned, defendants _____ [names of physicians employed by hospital] and DOES 1-20 were employed by defendant _____ [name of hospital operator] at _____ [name of hospital] and were acting within the course and scope of their employment with the permission and consent of defendant _____ [name of hospital].

3. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff was admitted to the hospital as a patient for _____ [specify surgical procedure, e.g., a tonsillectomy] to be performed by defendant _____ [name of plaintiff's physician]. At that time and place, defendant _____ [name of hospital operator] undertook to care for plaintiff and to provide the operating room, surgical equipment, and surgical assistants for plaintiff's operation.

4. On or about _____ [date], defendant _____ [plaintiff's physician] performed the _____ [specify surgical procedure, e.g., tonsillectomy] on plaintiff with the assistance of defendants _____ [names of assisting physicians, nurses, and operating room personnel employed by hospital] and DOES 1-20. During the entire course of the surgery, plaintiff was rendered unconscious by an anesthetic administered to plaintiff by defendant _____ [name of anesthesiologist employed by hospital] and DOES 1-20. Defendants, and each of them, had exclusive control and custody of plaintiff's person and all instrumentalities used during the surgery.

5. Defendants, and each of them, failed to exercise the degree of knowledge and skill proper in their profession and so negligently and unskillfully performed and assisted during plaintiff's _____ [specify surgical procedure, e.g., tonsillectomy] and so negligently and unskillfully cared for plaintiff during surgery that, as a proximate result, _____ [specify adverse result, e.g., plaintiff's vocal chords, which functioned normally prior to the surgery, were paralyzed].

[If defendant hospital operator is a public entity and/or defendant physicians and nurses employed by the hospital are public employees, add Paragraphs 6 and 7]

6. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff presented to _____ [name of governmental entity] by _____ [delivering or mailing] a claim to the _____[clerk or secretary or auditor] for the injuries, disability, losses and damages suffered and incurred by him/her by reason of the above-described occurrence, all in compliance with the requirements of Section 905 of the Government Code. A copy of the claim is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.

7. On or about _____ [date], _____ [name of governmental entity] _____ [rejected the claim in its entirety or allowed the claim in the amount of $_____ and rejected it as to the remainder or failed to act on the claim within the period of 45 days after its presentation, and the claim was thus deemed rejected under the provisions of Section 912.4 of the Government Code at the expiration of the 45-day period, to wit, on _____ (date)].

[2] Use of Form

These allegations are for use by a plaintiff alleging negligence on the part of a physician, hospital, and medical assistants under the theory of res ipsa loquitur. Court decsions have relied on and upheld res ipsa loquitur in situations in which the patient's injuries occurred while he or she was under anesthesia during surgery [see Ybarra v. Spangard (1944) 25 Cal. 2d 486, 490-491, 154 P.2d 687] . Therefore these allegations have been designed to describe such circumstances. For further discussion, see § 415.99[4].

[3] Judicial Council Pleading Forms

Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12 requires that the Judicial Council develop and approve official forms for use in California trial courts for any complaint, cross complaint, or answer in any action based on personal injury, property damage, wrongful death, unlawful detainer, breach of contract, or fraud. Use of these forms is optional [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12]. If counsel is using the Judicial Council complaint form for negligence, the allegations in this form may be adapted for use in an attachment to that form [see § 415.92].

[4] Res Ipsa Loquitur

In situations in which plaintiff is unable to offer direct proof of defendants' negligence due to unconsciousness or other lack of awareness of defendants' conduct, the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur is traditionally employed to create a presumption that defendants' negligence proximately caused plaintiff's injuries. The doctrine is applicable when plaintiff establishes that [Bardessono v. Michels (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 780, 788, 788 n. 5, 91 Cal. Rptr. 760, 478 P.2d 480] :

- The injuries are the type which do not ordinarily occur in the absence of negligence,

- The injuries were caused by an agency or instrumentality in the exclusive control of the defendant, and

- No voluntary conduct on plaintiff's part was a cause of the injuries.

When plaintiff is unable to identify the particular instrumentality or person in control of the instrumentality which caused the injuries due to unconsciousness at the time of injury, he or she may invoke the res ipsa presumption against all persons who had actual control or the right to control over the plaintiff's body or an instrumentality which might have caused the injuries [Ybarra v. Spangard (1944) 25 Cal. 2d 486, 492-494, 154 P.2d 687] . For further discussion of the operation and application of the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur in medical malpractice actions, see § 415.11[2] and Ch. 295, Hospitals .

[5] State Statutes

Judicial doctrine of res ipsa loquitur is presumption affecting burden of producing evidence. Evid. Code § 646

[6] Decisions

Res ipsa loquitur is applicable in cases where patient is partially as well as totally unconscious. Clark v. Gibbons (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 399, 411, 58 Cal. Rptr. 125, 426 P.2d 525

Inference of negligence arising under res ipsa doctrine is dispelled with regard to a particular physician only when evidence establishes as matter of law that physician is free from negligence. Leonard v. Watsonville Community Hosp. (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 509, 514, 305 P.2d 36

Required elements of res ipsa loquitur. McKinney v. Nash (1981) 120 Cal. App. 3d 428, 435, 174 Cal. Rptr. 642 ; Frantz v. San Luis Med. Clinic (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 34, 43, 146 Cal. Rptr. 146

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART IV. FORMS

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.100

§ 415.100 Allegations--Personal Injury Caused by Physician's Performance of Unauthorized Treatment

[1] FORM Allegations--Personal Injury Caused by Physician's Performance of Unauthorized Treatment

1. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff underwent _____ [specify treatment, e.g., surgery to remove plaintiff's uterus] [at _____ (name of hospital)].

[EITHER]

2. During performance of _____ [specify treatment, e.g., the hysterectomy], defendant, without the consent or knowledge of plaintiff, _____ [specify acts which constituted intentional deviation from plaintiff's consent, e.g., removed plaintiff's appendix, an organ which is not removed as a normal incident to a hysterectomy].

[OR]

2. Defendant failed to inform plaintiff of the nature of the proposed treatment specifically, _____ [specify facts demonstrating defendant's failure to inform and/or misrepresentation of the nature of the treatment, e.g., by failing to inform plaintiff that a hysterectomy involved removal of the uterus resulting in sterility].

[2] Use of Form

These allegations are for use by a plaintiff in a medical battery action against a physician based on performance of unauthorized treatment. Lack of authorization may be based on either the physician's performance of a procedure which was substantially different from that to which the patient consented, on the physician's failure to disclose significant inherent risks of the procedure, or on misrepresentation of the risks [see Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 239-241, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] . For further discussion of medical battery, see § 415.20.

When the action is based on the physician's failure to inform of inherent risks of treatment rather than performance of a procedure different than that consented to, the trial court may consider that the facts pleaded give rise to a negligence rather than battery action. Therefore, counsel should consider including these allegations in a complaint based on negligence if the facts indicate this to be appropriate. For further discussion of the distinction between negligence and battery theories arising from a failure to inform, see § 415.13.

[3] Judicial Council Pleading Forms

Use of the Judicial Council forms for any complaint, cross complaint, or answer in any action based on personal injury, property damage, or wrongful death is optional [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12]. These allegations may be incorporated into a standard form of complaint for medical malpractice [see § 415.92]. Alternatively, the allegations may be incorporated into either an intentional tort or general negligence attachment to a Judicial Council form for personal injury as appropriate [see § 415.100[2]].

For a filled-out example of the Judicial Council intentional tort attachment, see Ch. 58, Assault and Battery . For general information regarding the use of Judicial Council complaint forms, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints .

These forms are available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. Noninteractive versions in PDF format also are available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[4] Notice of Intent to Commence Action

Battery actions are not governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 364, which requires 90 days notice to a health care provider of the plaintiff's intent to sue, since the statute applies only to actions brought for professional negligence [see Code Civ. Proc. § 364]. It may be advisable to file such notice, however, since the trial court may consider that the facts pleaded give rise to an action for negligence rather than battery. This is particularly true when the case is based on the physician's failure to inform the patient of the nature of the treatment proposed, since it is only the degree of significance of the undisclosed information which determines whether the action sounds in battery or negligence [see Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 239-240, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1 ; see also § 415.20]].

Failure to comply with the notice provision of Code Civ. Proc. § 364 does not invalidate the proceedings of the court, although it does provide grounds for professional discipline [Code Civ. Proc. § 365].

Because failure to comply with the notice requirement is not jurisdictional, the failure to allege each injury suffered in the notice does not prevent a plaintiff from including that injury as a basis for a cause of action in the lawsuit subsequently filed, if the cause of action is not otherwise barred by the statute of limitations [Edwards v. Superior Court (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 172, 180, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 838] .

[5] Damages

In an action based on technical battery, the defendant is liable for all damages proximately resulting from the battery, regardless of whether or not the procedure was performed in accordance with the proper standard of care or whether or not the damages could have been anticipated [Berkey v. Anderson (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 790, 803, 82 Cal. Rptr. 67] . Furthermore, the defendant may be liable for punitive damages on proof of malice, fraud, or oppression [Civ. Code § 3294]. However, a physician is not liable for punitive damages when he or she performs unauthorized surgery due to a good-faith mistake of fact; for example, an accidental error as to the identity of the patient [see Ebaugh v. Rabkin (1972) 22 Cal. App. 3d 891, 895, 99 Cal. Rptr. 706] .

The $250,000 limit on noneconomic damages imposed by Civ. Code § 3333.2 does not apply to a plaintiff who recovers for a common law battery based on the physician's performing a surgery to which the plaintiff expressly did not consent. This type of battery is an intentional tort that is not a species of negligence and falls outside the scope of Civ. Code § 3333.2 [Perry v. Shaw (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 658, 661, 668-670, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 70 ; see § 415.20].

[6] State Statutes

Duty of physician to make certain disclosures and obtain written consent before treating patient with DMSO preparation. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4211.5

Exemplary damages in actions based on battery. Civ. Code § 3294

Statute of limitations governing battery. Code Civ. Proc. § 340.3

Judicial Council trial court pleading forms. Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART IV. FORMS

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.101

§ 415.101 Allegation--Plaintiff's Failure to Discover Negligent Cause of Injury Due to Continuing Physician-Patient Relationship With Defendant

[1] FORM Allegation--Plaintiff's Failure to Discover Negligent Cause of Injury Due to Continuing Physician-Patient Relationship With Defendant

On or about _____ [date], plaintiff discovered that the cause of his/her injuries was _____ [specify negligent acts or omissions of defendant physician which caused the injury, e.g., a failure to properly diagnose plaintiff's ulcer]. Plaintiff made this discovery _____ [specify circumstances surrounding discovery, e.g., during emergency treatment for stomach bleeding]. Until the time of the discovery, plaintiff was under the professional care of _____ [name of defendant] and, as a result of plaintiff's justifiable reliance on defendant's judgment and care, plaintiff failed to seek other medical advice or treatment to ascertain the true cause of his/her condition. The failure to discover the negligent cause of the injuries prior to _____ [date of discovery] was therefore reasonable and not due to any lack of diligence on the part of plaintiff.

[2] Use of Form

This form of allegation may be incorporated into the complaint set forth in § 415.92. It may be used by a plaintiff in an action based on professional negligence in order to raise the issue of justifiable belated discovery extending the one-year statute of limitations period under Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 [see § 415.47[1]].

The issue of delayed discovery is also applicable to actions brought on behalf of minors for personal injuries suffered before or during birth [see Civ. Code § 340.4; see also § 415.47[3]]. For a form and discussion of actions brought on behalf of minors for such injuries, see Ch. 295, Hospitals , and Ch. 367A, Minors: Tort Actions .

[3] State Statutes

Statute of limitations governing actions brought on behalf of minors for prenatal injuries or injuries suffered during birth. Civ. Code § 340.4

Statute of limitations governing actions brought against health care providers for professional negligence. Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5

[4] Decisions

Degree of diligence required of plaintiff to discover negligent cause of injury is diminished during continuance of physician-patient relationship. Sanchez v. South Hoover Hosp. (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 93, 102, 132 Cal. Rptr. 657, 553 P.2d 1129

In order to raise issue of delayed discovery, plaintiff's complaint must state when discovery was made, circumstances surrounding the discovery, andfacts which demonstrate that failure to make earlier discovery was reasonable and not result of plaintiff's failure to act. Dujardin v. Ventura County Gen. Hosp. (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 350, 356, 138 Cal. Rptr. 20

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART IV. FORMS

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.102

§ 415.102 Answer to Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries Based on Medical Negligence [Civ. Code § 1714]--Plaintiff's Comparative Negligence--Cal. Judicial Council Form PLD-PI-003

[1] FORM Answer to Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries Based on Medical Negligence [Civ. Code § 1714]--Plaintiff's Comparative Negligence--Cal. Judicial Council Form PLD-PI-003

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This Judicial Council form of answer may be used in response to a complaint seeking damages based on a physician's negligence in rendering professional services. The answer sets forth the affirmative defense of a plaintiff's comparative negligence in causing the injuries complained of.

For a discussion of the use of the comparative negligence doctrine in medical malpractice cases, see § 415.16.

For discussion relating to the comparative negligence doctrine generally, and for detailed instructions on completing the Judicial Council form of answer, see Ch. 380, Negligence .

These forms are available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. Noninteractive versions in PDF format also are available at www.lexisone.com at no charge. For general information relating to the use of Judicial Council complaint forms, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints .

[3] State Statutes

Use of Judicial Council forms of pleading. Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12

[4] Decisions

Comparative negligence is possible defense to liability for medical negligence when proximate cause between plaintiff's own conduct and ensuing injuries established. LeMons v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 869, 874-875, 148 Cal. Rptr. 355, 582 P.2d 946 ; Bolen v. Woo (1979) 96 Cal. App. 3d 944, 952, 158 Cal. Rptr. 454

Election to have future damages, if any, paid out in periodic payments under Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7 is properly pleaded as affirmative defense in answer. Gorman v. Leftwich (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 141, 152, 266 Cal. Rptr. 671

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART IV. FORMS

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.103

§ 415.103 Request for Judgment Ordering That Future Damages Be Paid in Periodic Payments [Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7]

[1] FORM Request for Judgment Ordering That Future Damages Be Paid in Periodic Payments [Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	REQUEST THAT FUTURE DAMAGES BE PAID
_____ [name],	)	BY PERIODIC PAYMENTS
Defendant.	)	[Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7]
	)
	)

_____

TO THE HONORABLE _____ [name of judge], JUDGE OF THE ABOVE ENTITLED COURT:

_____ [Name of plaintiff or defendant], as the _____ [plaintiff or defendant] in the above-entitled action, respectfully requests that the court enter a judgment ordering that money damages or its equivalent for future damages of _____ [name of plaintiff] be paid in whole or in part by periodic payments rather than by a lump-sum payment.

[_____ (Name of plaintiff or defendant) also requests that the court stay the clerk's entry of judgment until a periodic payment schedule has been formulated.]

_____ [signature]
Attorney for _____ [Plaintiff or Defendant]

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by either plaintiff or defendant in an action against a health care provider based on professional negligence to request that the court enter a judgment ordering that the future damages of the judgment creditor be paid by periodic payments rather than by a lump-sum payment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7(a)]. Periodic payments may not be ordered for future damages amounting to less than $50,000 [Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7(a)]. The form includes an optional request, which may be used in a jury trial, that the court stay entry of judgment until a periodic payment schedule has been formulated [see Craven v. Crout (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 779, 784, 209 Cal. Rptr. 649 (trial court lacks jurisdiction to grant motion for periodic payment after jury's lump-sum judgment has been entered)].

[3] Timeliness

The request for periodic payment of future damages pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7 must be made prior to the entry of any judgment in the action. In a jury trial, whether a party moves for periodic payment of future damages before or immediately after the rendition of the jury verdict, the party should at the same time request that the court stay the clerk's entry of judgment until a periodic payment schedule has been formulated [Craven v. Crout (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 779, 784, 209 Cal. Rptr. 649] .

If the defendant has put the plaintiff on notice at the pleading stage of his or her intention to seek periodic payment of future damages and requested the trial court to instruct the jury to designate the portion of the damages that was attributable to future damages, a formal request for periodic payment of future damages made following delivery of the verdict is not untimely [see Gorman v. Leftwich (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 141, 152-153, 266 Cal. Rptr. 671] .

[4] Definitions

As used in the statute, "future damages" include damages for future medical treatment, care or custody, loss of future earnings, loss of bodily function, or future pain and suffering of the judgment creditor [Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7(e)(1)].

As used in the statute, "periodic payments" means the payment of money or delivery of other property to the judgment creditor at regular intervals [Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7(e)(2)].

For definitions of "health care provider" and "professional negligence," see § 415.10.

[5] State Statutes

Request for periodic payment of future damages in actions against health care providers based on professional negligence is authorized when future damages award equals or exceeds $50,000. Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7

[6] Decisions

Lump-sum jury award of damages in malpractice action is not modifiable by court to allow periodic payments for future damages pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7 if jury did not identify amount of damages subject to periodic payment and defendant's request for periodic payment was made after entry of judgment. Craven v. Crout (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 779, 783-785, 209 Cal. Rptr. 649 ,

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART IV. FORMS

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.104

§ 415.104 Judgment Ordering Payment of Future Damages by Periodic Payments [Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7]

[1] FORM Judgment Ordering Payment of Future Damages by Periodic Payments [Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	JUDGMENT THAT FUTURE DAMAGES BE
_____ [name],	)	PAID IN PERIODIC PAYMENTS
Defendant.	)	[Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7]
	)
	)

The request of _____ [name of plaintiff or defendant] for a judgment ordering that payment of future damages be made by periodic payments rather than by a lump-sum payment came before this court on _____ [date].

The court finds that the award of future damages in the above-entitled action _____ [equals or exceeds] the amount of $50,000 provided by Section 667.7 of the Code of Civil Procedure as a prerequisite for a judgment of periodic payments.

IT IS ORDERED as follows:

1. That $_____ is the dollar amount of each periodic payment to be paid to _____ [name (s) of judgment creditor (s)] the judgment creditor(s) in the above-mentioned action, to compensate for future damages.

2. The interval between payments shall be _____ [specify interval, e.g., one month].

[EITHER]

3. The total number of payments shall equal _____.

[OR]

3. The period of time over which the payments shall be made is _____ [specify time, e.g., 20 years].

_____ [signature]
Judge of the _____ Court

[2] Use of Form

This form of judgment is for use in an action against a health care provider for professional negligence when the award for future damages equals or exceeds $50,000. Either party in the action may request the payment of such damages to be paid in periodic payments rather than by a lump-sum payment [Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7].

In entering such a judgment, the court must make a specific finding as to the dollar amount of periodic payments which will compensate the judgment creditor for such future damages [Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7(a)]. The judgment must specify the recipient or recipients of the payments, the dollar amounts of the payments, the intervals between payments, and the number of payments or the period of time over which payments shall be made [Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7(b)(1)].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART IV. FORMS

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.105

§ 415.105 Petition to Modify Judgment Ordering That Future Damages Be Paid in Periodic Payments--Death of Judgment Creditor [Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7(c)]

[1] FORM Petition to Modify Judgment Ordering That Future Damages Be Paid in Periodic Payments--Death of Judgment Creditor [Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7(c)]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	PETITION FOR MODIFICATION OF JUDGMENT
_____ [name],	)	[Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7(c)]
Defendants.	)
	)
	)

TO THE HONORABLE _____ [name of judge], JUDGE OF THE ABOVE ENTITLED COURT:

_____ [Name of petitioner] respectfully represents:

1. On _____ [date], the above-entitled court entered a judgment ordering the payment of future damages by periodic payments to _____ [name of deceased judgment creditor], a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit "A".

2. On or about _____ [date], _____ [name of deceased judgment creditor] died at _____ [city], _____ [state]. A copy of the death certificate is attached hereto as Exhibit "B".

3. At the time of the death of _____ [name of deceased judgment creditor], there remained a balance of $_____ in money damages for loss of future earnings to be paid by _____ [name of judgment debtor], the judgment debtor in the above-entitled action.

4. At the time of the death of _____ [name of deceased judgment creditor], _____ [name of petitioner] was owed a legal duty of support by _____ [name of deceased judgment creditor] by virtue of the fact that _____ [specify relation of petitioner to judgment creditor, e.g., petitioner is the surviving minor child of _____ (name of deceased judgment creditor)].

WHEREFORE, _____ [name of petitioner] hereby petitions the court to order that the balance of the above-mentioned judgment be paid to _____ [name of petitioner].
Dated: _____ [date].

_____ [signature]
Petitioner
_____[signature]
Attorney for Petitioner

[2] Use of Form

This form of petition is for use in requesting that a judgment ordering the periodic payment of future damages be modified due to the death of the judgment creditor. The modification is allowed to require continued payment of money damages awarded for loss of future earnings only, to persons to whom the judgment creditor owed a duty of support, as provided by law, immediately prior to death [Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7(c)].

The petition may be filed by any such party in interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7(c)].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART IV. FORMS

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.106

§ 415.106 Order Modifying Payment of Future Damages After Death of Judgment Creditor [Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7(c)]

[1] FORM Order Modifying Payment of Future Damages After Death of Judgment Creditor [Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7(c)]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	ORDER MODIFYING JUDGMENT OF PAY-Defendant.	)	MENT OF FUTURE DAMAGES
	)
	)

The petition of _____ [name of petitioner] came on regularly for hearing before this court on _____ [date]. Petitioner appeared by counsel _____ [name of attorney] [Specify other appearance, if any].

On proof made to the satisfaction of the court that the petition ought to be granted,

IT IS ORDERED that the judgment awarding future damages in the above-entitled action be modified and that the unpaid future damages for loss of earnings be awarded [and apportioned] as follows: _____ [specify parties to whom payments are awarded and the amount of payment to each party].
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]

Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

This form of order is for use in modifying a judgment ordering the periodic payment of future damages.

[3] State Statutes

Modification of order awarding periodic payment of damages for loss of future earnings upon death of judgment creditor. Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7(c)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 415 PHYSICIANS: MEDICAL MALPRACTICE
PART IV. FORMS

36-415 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 415.107

§ 415.107 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Sexual Contact [Civ. Code § 43.93]

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Sexual Contact [Civ. Code § 43.93]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff(s),	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES FOR SEXUAL CONTACT
_____ [name], [and DOES 1	)
through _____,]	)	[Amount demanded _____ (exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
Defendant(s).	)
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

1. At all times mentioned herein, defendant _____ [name] and DOES 1-10, and each of them, were _____ [specify profession considered to be a psychotherapist under Civ. Code § 43.93, e.g., physician and surgeon specializing in the practice of psychiatry] with offices at _____ [street address] _____ County, California.

2. Defendants DOES 1 through _____, inclusive, are sued herein under fictitious names. Their true names and capacities are unknown to plaintiff. When their true names and capacities are ascertained, plaintiff will amend this complaint by inserting their true names and capacities herein.

[3. (Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that) (A)t all times herein mentioned each of the defendants was the agent and employee of each of the remaining defendants, and in doing the things hereinafter alleged was acting within the course and scope of such agency and employment.]

4. Plaintiff was receiving psychotherapy from defendants _____ [names] and DOES 1-10, and each of them from _____ [date] until _____ [date].

5. On or about _____ [date], [and thereafter _____ (specify)] defendant _____ [name] made sexual contact with plaintiff in that _____ [specify form of sexual contact as defined in Civ. Code § 43.93, e.g., defendant had sexual intercourse with plaintiff].

[6. Defendant represented to plaintiff that the sexual contact was _____ (consistent with or part of) plaintiff's treatment.]

7. As a proximate result of the acts of defendant[s, and each of them], plaintiff suffered emotional distress and mental suffering. [Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that such injuries will result in some permanent disability to him/her.] As a result of such injuries, plaintiff has suffered general damages.

[8. As a further proximate result of the acts of defendant(s, and each of them), plaintiff has incurred and will continue to incur medical and related expenses.]

[9. As a further proximate result of the acts of defendant(s, and each of them), plaintiff's earning capacity has been greatly impaired, both in the past and present.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For general damages,

[2. For medical and related expenses according to proof,]

[3. For loss of earnings according to proof,]

4. For costs of suit herein incurred, and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

[Verification, if desired, see § 415.91.]

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use by a patient or former patient of a psychotherapist in an action pursuant to Civ. Code § 43.93 for damages against the psychotherapist for sexual contact. Under this section, "psychotherapist" means a physician and surgeon specializing in the practice of psychiatry, a psychologist, a psychological assistant, a marriage and family therapist, a registered marriage and family therapist intern or trainee, an educational psychologist, an associate clinical social worker, or a licensed clinical social worker [Civ. Code § 43.93(a)(2)]. For further discussion, see § 415.22.

[3] Allegations

The complaint alleges:

- The defendant is a psychotherapist within the meaning of Civ. Code § 43.93(a)(2) (Paragraph 1);

- The plaintiff was receiving psychotherapy from the defendant (Paragraph 4) [Civ. Code § 43.93(a)(2)];

- The psychotherapist had sexual contact, as defined in Civ. Code § 43.93(a)(3), with the plaintiff (Paragraph 5);

- If applicable, there was therapeutic deception--that is, the defendant represented that the sexual contact was consistent with or part of the plaintiff's treatment (Paragraph 6) [Civ. Code § 43.93(a)(5); see § 415.22[2][a]];

- The plaintiff's general damages (Paragraph 7); and

- Special damages, if any (Paragraphs 7-9).

[4] Procedure

Because the various procedural requirements of MICRA (such as filing a notice of intention to commence an action against a health care provider and the restriction on alleging punitive damages) apply to actions for professional negligence [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 364(a) (notice of intention) and 425.13 (punitive damages); for discussion of the procedure required in medical malpractice actions, see §§ 415.40 et seq., 415.92], it is not clear whether those procedures would have to be followed by an attorney filing an action for sexual contact unless the action is combined with an action for professional negligence and the defendant falls within the MICRA definition of a health care provider [see definitions in Code Civ. Proc. § 364(f)(1), 411.30(a); see also Waters v. Bourhis (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 424, 433-435, 220 Cal. Rptr. 666, 709 P.2d 469 (possible bases for action against psychiatrist based on sexual conduct before enactment of Civ. Code § 43.93); for discussion of the actions covered by MICRA, see generally § 415.10].

On one hand, the cause of action provided for by Civ. Code § 43.93 does not require any allegation of negligent conduct, and seems essentially to impose strict liability [see Civ. Code § 43.93(b)]. However, the California Supreme Court has noted that out-of-state decisions have held that sexual conduct may give rise to a medical malpractice action based on negligence as well as on intentional misconduct [see Waters v. Bourhis (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 424, 433, 220 Cal. Rptr. 666, 709 P.2d 469] .

Until it is clear whether or not such actions are subject to MICRA, counsel may be wel-advised to comply with the procedural requirements to avoid any procedural challenges to the action. A more appropriate context in which to challenge the applicability of MICRA to such actions may be in the limitations on recovery of damages and on the amounts of attorney's fees available [see Waters v. Bourhis (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 424, 436-438, 220 Cal. Rptr. 666, 709 P.2d 469 (discussing effect of recovery in action seeking recovery under both MICRA and non-MICRA causes of action, and concluding that recovery under non-MICRA theories eliminates limitation on amount of attorney's fees recoverable imposed by Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146)].

[5] Therapeutic Deception

Civ. Code § 43.93 lists therapeutic deception as one of three alternative conditions under which a cause of action for sexual contact may arise [see Civ. Code § 43.93(b)]. Therapeutic deception is defined as a representation by the psychotherapist that sexual contact with the psychotherapist is consistent with or part of the patient's or former patient's treatment [Civ. Code § 43.93(a)(5)]. Because the statute provides for a cause of action for sexual contact, even without therapeutic deception, if it occurred during the period the patient was receiving psychotherapy or within two years following termination of therapy [see Civ. Code § 43.93(b)(1), (2)], it appears that therapeutic deception as an independent ground would only be necessary if the sexual contact occurred more than two years following termination of therapy.

[6] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 415.92, 415.95, and 415.96.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 416 PHYSICIANS: MEMBERSHIP ON HOSPITAL STAFFS OR IN PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS

36-416 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 416.syn

§ 416.syn Synopsis to Chapter 416: PHYSICIANS: MEMBERSHIP ON HOSPITAL STAFFS OR IN PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS

§ 416.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 416.02 Cross References

§§ 416.03-416.09 [Reserved]

§ 416.10 Governing Law

§ 416.11 Arbitrary Deprivation of Membership Prohibited

[1] Common Law Fair Procedure Requirement

[2] Right to Practice Profession Fully

[3] Substantive and Procedural Aspects of Common Law Fair Procedure Requirement

§ 416.12 Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

§ 416.13 Fair Procedure

[1] Statutory Requirements for Public Hospitals

[2] Fair Procedure Requirements for Private Institutions

[a] Notice and Hearing

[b] Formal Proceedings Not Required

[c] Discovery

[d] Voir Dire

[e] Limited Right to Confront Accusers

[f] Right to Attorney at Board's Discretion

[g] Separation of Investigative and Adjudicatory Functions

[h] Notice and Hearing Not Required if Not Requested

[i] Decision May Not Rest on Ex Parte Evidence

[j] Bylaws May Allocate Burden of Proof

[3] Hearing on Review No Substitute for Fair Procedure

§ 416.14 Substantive Rationality

[1] Right to Membership Subject to Reasonable Rules

[2] General Requirement That Rules Be Substantively Reasonable

[a] Requirement of Medical Malpractice Insurance Permitted

[b] Discrimination Based on Type of Professional Degree Prohibited

[c] Requirement of Nexus

[d] Vague and Ambiguous Rules

[i] In General

[ii] Official Interpretation of Ambiguous Rule

[e] Rules That Are Contrary to Public Policy

[3] Standards for Qualification or Competence

[a] In General

[b] Ability to Work With Others as Necessary Qualification

[4] Requirement of Existing Cause

§ 416.15 Hospital Peer Review Proceedings Under Bus. & Prof. Code § 809 et seq.

[1] Purpose; Applicability

[2] Notice

[3] Hearing Panel

[4] Discovery

[5] Continuances

[6] Hearing

[7] Exhaustion of Remedies

§ 416.16 Proceedings to Obtain Relief From Membership Decision

[1] Exhaustion of Internal Remedies as Prerequisite

[2] When Exhaustion of Internal Remedies Excused

[3] Appropriate Proceedings for Obtaining Judicial Review

[4] Standard of Review

[a] Hospital Review Boards

[b] Other Professional Organizations

[c] Scope of Judicial Review of Institution's Rules

[5] Types of Relief Available

§ 416.17 Damages for Intentional Interference With Right to Practice Profession

[1] In General

[2] Justification of Interference

[3] Requirement of Exhaustion of Internal Remedies

[4] Requirement of Prior Favorable Determination

[a] In General

[b] Prior Favorable Determination Not Required When Basic Due Process Denied

[5] Immunities From Tort Actions

[a] Qualified Immunity for Members of Staff or Committee

[b] Qualified Immunity for Professional Society

[6] Privileged Communications

[7] Statute of Limitations

§ 416.18 Exculpatory Clause Not Enforceable

§ 416.19 Antitrust Liability for Interference With Right to Practice Medicine

§ 416.40 Related Matthew Bender Publications

§ 416.41 State Statutes

[1] Grounds for Exclusion or Expulsion

[2] Immunities

[3] Mandate Action

[4] Public Hospitals

[a] Generally

[b] Procedural Requirements for Membership Determinations

[c] Rules and Standards

§ 416.42 Decisions

[1] Antitrust

[2] Arbitrary Deprivation of Membership Prohibited

[a] Basis of Common Law Right to Procedural Fairness

[b] Right to Fully Practice Profession

[c] Substantive and Procedural Aspects of Common Law Procedural Fairness

[3] Damages for Intentional Interference With Right to Practice Profession

[a] In General

[b] Immunities From Tort Actions

[i] Qualified Immunity for Members of Staff or Committee

[ii] Privileged Communications

[iii] Malice

[c] Justification of Interference

[d] Requirement of Exhaustion of Internal Remedies

[e] Requirement of Prior Favorable Determination

[i] In General

[ii] Prior Favorable Determination Not Required When Due Process Denied

[f] Statute of Limitations

[4] Evidence

[5] Exculpatory Clause Not Enforceable

[6] Fair Procedure

[a] Exhaustion of Internal Remedies as Prerequisite

[b] Formal Procedures Not Needed

[c] Limited Right to Confront Accusers

[d] Notice and Hearing

[e] Right to Attorney at Board's Discretion

[f] Right to Copy Medical Records

[g] Substantial Evidence Requirement

[h] Hearing on Review No Substitute for Fair Procedure

[7] Federal Civil Rights Claims

[8] Peer-Review Process

[9] Proceedings to Obtain Relief From Membership Decision

[a] Appropriate Actions to Obtain Judicial Review

[b] Scope of Judicial Review of Institution's Rules

[c] Standard of Review

[d] Statute of Limitations

[e] Types of Relief Available

[10] Substantive Rationality

[a] General Requirement That Rules Be Substantively Reasonable

[i] In General

[ii] Rules That Are Contrary to Public Policy

[iii] Vague and Ambiguous Rules

[iv] Official Interpretation of Ambiguous Rule

[b] Requirement of Existing Cause

[c] Right to Memership Subject to Reasonable Rules

[d] Standards for Qualification or Competence

[i] In General

[ii] Ability to Work With Others as Necessary Qualification

§ 416.43 Law Reviews

§ 416.60 Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086] to Review Administrative Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5] of Health Care Facility or Professional Society to Revoke or Deny Membership Privileges

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Alternative Writ Procedure

[4] Noticed Application Procedure

[5] Allegations

[6] Allegation of Exhaustion of Internal Remedies

[7] Review of Hearing Decision Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5

[8] Simple Mandate Proceedings if No Hearing Provided

[9] Attorney's Fees

[10] Venue

[11] Verification

[12] State Statutes

[13] Decisions

[14] Cross References

§ 416.61 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Intentional Interference With Right to Practice Profession

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Lack of Justification for Defendant's Conduct

[5] Allegation of Exhaustion of Internal Remedies

[6] Allegation That Adverse Membership Decision Was Previously Set Aside by Court

[7] Statute of Limitations

[8] Venue

[9] Punitive Damages

[10] Prayer

[11] Verification

[12] State Statutes

[13] Decisions

[a] Damages for Intentional Interference With Right to Practice Profession

[b] Exculpatory Clause Not Enforceable

[c] Immunity From Tort Actions for Members of Staff or Committee

[d] Justification for Interference

[e] Requirement of Exhaustion of Internal Remedies

[f] Requirement of Prior Favorable Determination

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 416 PHYSICIANS: MEMBERSHIP ON HOSPITAL STAFFS OR IN PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS
PART I. SCOPE

36-416 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 416.01

§ 416.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses and contains forms for use in actions involving exclusion or expulsion of physicians from membership on hospital staffs or other professional organizations. The forms in this part include a petition for writ of administrative mandate for use by a physician who has been wrongfully excluded or expelled from membership on a hospital medical staff or professional association [see § 416.60] and a complaint for use by a physician who has been wrongfully excluded or expelled from membership on a hospital staff or professional association in an action for damages for intentional interference with the physician's right to practice his or her profession [see § 416.61].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersDoctors & PhysiciansHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationHospital PrivilegesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 416 PHYSICIANS: MEMBERSHIP ON HOSPITAL STAFFS OR IN PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS
PART I. SCOPE

36-416 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 416.02

§ 416.02 Cross References

For discussion and forms regarding physician licensing and discipline, see Ch. 414, Physicians: Licensing and Discipline .

For discussion and forms regarding physicians and medical malpractice, see Ch. 415, Physicians: Medical Malpractice .

For discussion and forms relating to due process rights in cases involving deprivation of membership in associations and clubs generally, see Ch. 61, Associations and Clubs .

For discussion and forms relating to hospitals generally, see Ch. 295, Hospitals .

For discussion and forms relating to actions for injunctions, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

For discussion, forms, and a procedural checklist relating to ordinary mandate proceedings, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition .

For discussion and forms relating to judicial review of administrative decisions under administrative mandate, see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewRemediesInjunctive ReliefHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersDoctors & PhysiciansHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityHealthcare Providers

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 416 PHYSICIANS: MEMBERSHIP ON HOSPITAL STAFFS OR IN PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS
PART I. SCOPE

36-416 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 416.03-416.09

[Reserved]

§§ 416.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 416 PHYSICIANS: MEMBERSHIP ON HOSPITAL STAFFS OR IN PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

36-416 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 416.10

§ 416.10 Governing Law

The subject of a physician's right to procedural and substantive protections from arbitrary exclusion or expulsion from membership on a hospital staff or professional organization is governed primarily by case law. Specific points, however, are covered by statute. The statutory rules governing administrative mandate are set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5. Specific grounds on which hospitals are either expressly permitted to or prohibited from excluding or expelling a physician from membership on a hospital medical staff are set out in Health & Safety Code §§ 1316 and 1319. The authorization of a public hospital to establish reasonable rules and standards, including standards for admission of a physician onto its medical staff is set out in Health & Safety Code § 32128. Statutory requirements for procedures in a public hospital to exclude or expel a physician from the public hospital's medical staff are set out in Health & Safety Code §§ 32150-32155. Qualified immunity from monetary liability for individual members of a hospital or professional society's committee charged with determining whether a physician should be excluded or expelled from membership is provided in Civ. Code §§ 43.7 and 43.91(a). Qualified immunity from monetary damages for any communication of information to a hospital or professional organization or an appropriate committee of such an institution that is intended to aid in evaluation of the qualification, fitness, character or insurability of a physician is set out in Civ. Code §§ 43.8 and 43.91(b). An absolute privilege for publications made in any legally authorized proceeding that is reviewable by mandate is set out in Civ. Code § 47(b).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersDoctors & PhysiciansHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationHospital PrivilegesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationHospital PrivilegesProfessional Review

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 416 PHYSICIANS: MEMBERSHIP ON HOSPITAL STAFFS OR IN PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

36-416 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 416.11

§ 416.11 Arbitrary Deprivation of Membership Prohibited

[1] Common Law Fair Procedure Requirement

A physician's right to practice his or her profession fully is subject to reasonable rules and regulations promulgated by hospitals and professional associations, pursuant to which such institutions may deny or expel a physician from membership [see Kronen v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1965) 237 Cal. App. 2d 289, 307, 46 Cal. Rptr. 808 (private assoication); Wyatt v. Tahoe Forest Hospital Dist. (1959) 174 Cal. App. 2d 709, 714, 345 P.2d 93 (public hospitals)]. However, hospital staffs and professional associations must render their decisions concerning membership rights of physicians in accordance with minimal requisites of fair procedure dictated by established common law principles when denial of such membership rights would impair the physician's right to fully practice his or her profession [see Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 549-550, 554, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II); Ascherman v. Saint Francis Memorial Hosp. (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 507, 511, 119 Cal. Rptr. 507 (Ascherman II)].

In the case of a public hospital, the obligation to adhere to fair procedures in making membership determinations rests on the public nature itself of the hospital. A public hospital's character as a public institution imposes an actual, although implied,limitation on its authority to restrict arbitrarily the use of the hospital by the public, whether physician or patient [Wyatt v. Tahoe Forest Hospital Dist. (1959) 174 Cal. App. 2d 709, 714, 345 P.2d 93] . In addition, the procedures by which public hospitals may make a determination to deny membership to or expel a physician from membership are governed by Health & Safety Code §§ 32150-32155, while the substantive grounds on which an adverse membership determination may be made by a public hospital must be authorized by the broad powers granted to such public hospitals under Health & Safety Code § 32128 to establish regulations and standards. For a discussion of the procedural protections that public hospitals are required to provide for physicians before rendering an adverse membership determination, see § 416.13.

In the case of private hospitals and private professional organizations who by virtue of their position in the profession have the power to deprive a physician of the right to fully practice his or her profession by depriving the physician of membership, the obligation to adhere to the principles of common law fair procedure is based on the theory that such institutions have fiduciary responsibilities growing out of their public service functions [Pinsker v. Pacific Coast

Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 550-554, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II) (professional organizations); see Miller v. Eisenhower Medical Center (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 614, 626-627, 166 Cal. Rptr. 826, 614 P.2d 258 (requirements extended to private hospitals)]. Dismissal from a residency at a private hospital has also been held to come under the common law fair procedure requirement when the residency is a prerequisite for entrance into a specialty, although the requirement has not been extended to denial of an application for a private hospital residency [Ezekial v. Winkley (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 267, 272-278, 142 Cal. Rptr. 418, 572 P.2d 32] .

[2] Right to Practice Profession Fully

A physician has a legally defensible interest in membership on a hospital staff or in a professional society when deprivation of membership would deprive the physician of the right to practice his or her profession fully [Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 554, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II)]. The courts have generally spoken of impairment of the physician's right to fully practice his profession in terms of impairment of a substantial economic interest [Ezekial v. Winkley (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 267, 272, 142 Cal. Rptr. 418, 572 P.2d 32] . However, it need not be shown that membership is economically necessary for the physician. The Supreme Court has held that a practitioner's right to practice his or her profession fully was denied, even though the practitioner would have been able to make a good living in his field of practice without the membership, when the membership of which the practitioner was deprived was necessary for the practitioner to reach maximum potential achievement and recognition in his field of practice [Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Soc. of Orthodontists (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 160, 166, 81 Cal. Rptr. 623, 460 P.2d 495 (Pinsker I)]. One court of appeal has upheld a physician's interest in being admitted to a hospital staff despite the fact that the physician had staff privileges at other hospitals and made no showing of substantial, significant, or irreparable injury to his practice as a result of the fact that his application for membership was denied, but rath er admitted that he was seeking admission to membership largely for reasons of personal convenience. The court held that under the circumstances of the case the requirement that denial of membership would impair the physician's right to fully practice his profession was satisfied. The court's only comment on the evidence of impairment of the complaining physician's right to fully practice his profession in the case before it was that the mere existence of other hospitals may not be sufficient to prevent impairment of a substantial economic interest with the advent of comprehensive health planning [Ascherman v. Saint Francis Memorial Hosp. (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 507, 509, 511, 119 Cal. Rptr. 507 (Ascherman II)]. It need not be shown that the affected institution has monopoly power over professional opportunities in order to establish an interest in membership [Ascherman v. San Francisco Medical Society (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 623, 650, 114 Cal. Rptr. 681 (AschermanI)]. However, the fact that denial of membership would effectively preclude thephysician from either entering or realizing his or her full potential achievement and recognition in a specialty may establish an interest in membership [Ezekial v. Winkley (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 267, 272-278, 142 Cal. Rptr. 418, 572 P.2d 32 ; Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Soc. of Orthodontists (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 160, 166, 81 Cal. Rptr. 623, 460 P.2d 495 (Pinsker I)].

A partial exclusion from staff privileges at a hospital that substantially effects a physician's income merits procedural protection just as does revocation of full staff membership [Applebaum v. Board of Directors (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 648, 658, 163 Cal. Rptr. 831] . Similarly, a physician may not be summarily excluded from participation on an emergency room call roster, while being permitted to exercise other staff privileges. The essential nature of a qualified physician's right to use hospital facilities is a property interest directly related to the pursuit of his or her livelihood, and is a fundamental interest requiring due process and fair procedure [Bergeron v. Desert Hospital Corp. (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 146, 150-152, 270 Cal. Rptr. 397 (whether attribute of staff membership is property right depends on whether, and to what extent, attribute benefits staff member, not on label hospital has given it)].

Further, "delistment" from the roster of a managed care provider's network of health care providers entitles a physician to procedural protections, including the right not to be expelled from membership for reasons that are arbitrary, capricious or contrary to public policy, since managed care providers control substantial economic interests [Ambrosino v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. (N.D. Cal. 1995) 899 F. Supp. 438 ; see Potvin v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 936, 947-948, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 202 (petition for review pending as this release goes to press)].

[3] Substantive and Procedural Aspects of Common Law Fair Procedure Requirement

The courts have come to use the expression "common law fair procedure" to designate the obligations imposed on hospitals and professional organizations when making adverse membership determinations, rather than using the expression "due process" as was done in earlier cases, in order to emphasize the nonconstitutional character of these obligations. However, the obligations constituting "common law fair procedure," when the expression is used in this sense, include not only the requirement that the procedure by which the adverse membership decision was arrived at be fair, but also the requirement that that a decision to exclude or expel a physician be substantively rational and based on cause [Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 550, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II) (procedural fairness); Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Soc. of Orthodontists (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 160, 166, 81 Cal. Rptr. 623, 460 P.2d 495 (Pinsker I) (substantive cause for rejection)]. Thus, when a private association is legally required to refrain from arbitrary action, the association's action must be both substantively rational and procedurally fair. The essence of the concept is that the action cannot be arbitrary or capricious. It is more appropriate to refer to this standard in terms of "fair procedure" in a nonconstitutional sense rather than due process in the constitutional sense. The essence of the right is one of fairness. But, essentially, there is no real difference between fair procedure and due process rights. The distinction lies in the origin, rather than in the extent, of the protection afforded to the individual [Gill v. Mercy Hospital (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 889, 897, 903, 245 Cal. Rptr. 304] . The requirements of fair procedure and of substantive rationality are discussed separately under §§ 416.13, 416.14.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Constitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental RightsProcedural Due ProcessGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationHospital PrivilegesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationHospital PrivilegesRestrictions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 416 PHYSICIANS: MEMBERSHIP ON HOSPITAL STAFFS OR IN PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

36-416 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 416.12

§ 416.12 Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

A doctor who challenges the propriety of a hospital's denial or withdrawal of staff privileges must pursue internal remedies afforded by the hospital to a final decision on the merits before resorting to the courts for relief. The exhaustion doctrine is not a matter of judicial discretion; the remedy must be exhausted before the courts will act [Sahlolbei v. Providence Healthcare, Inc. (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 1137, 1146, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 598 ; Unnamed Physician v. Board of Trustees (2001) 93 Cal. App.4th 607, 619-620, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 309] . However, the remedies must be provided the physician before the physician's privileges can be terminated, and the failure to provide a pre-termination hearing renders the internal remedies inadequate and makes it unnecessary for the physician to exhaust them [Sahlolbei v. Providence Healthcare, Inc. (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 1137, 1146-1155, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 598] .

These requirements apply for physicians suspended or terminated from networks of medical providers as well [see, e.g., Lee v. Blue Shield of California (2007) 154 Cal. App. 4th 1369, 1373, 65 Cal. Rptr. 3d 612 (exhaustion of administrative remedy under Bus. & Prof. Code § 809 et seq., commonly referred to as "809 hearing," was prerequisite to physician's recovery of damages for wrongful suspension and termination as physician for medical provider network)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewReviewabilityExhaustion of RemediesCivil ProcedureJusticiabilityExhaustion of RemediesAdministrative RemediesHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationHospital PrivilegesRestrictionsHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationJudicial ReviewExhaustion of Remedies

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 416 PHYSICIANS: MEMBERSHIP ON HOSPITAL STAFFS OR IN PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

36-416 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 416.13

§ 416.13 Fair Procedure

[1] Statutory Requirements for Public Hospitals

The board of directors of a public hospital must adopt reasonable rules and regulations, or bylaws, providing for appellate review of any action, decision, or recommendation of the medical staff affecting the professional privileges of any member of, or applicant for membership on, the medical staff. This appellate review must be conducted consistent with the requirements of Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.4. The board's decision rendered after appellate review is final. Nothing in this section abrogates the obligation of the hospital and the medical staff to comply with the requirements of Bus. & Prof. Code § 809 et seq. The board of directors may order that the hearing held pursuant to Health & Safety Code §§ 32150-32155 (hearing procedures in membership determinations) be held in private or executive sessions, provided that an applicant or medical staff member whose staff privileges are a direct subject of a hearing may request a public hearing. Deliberations of the board of directors with respect to matters pertaining to Health & Safety Code §§ 32150-32155 may be held in executive session [Health & Safety Code § 32155; for discussion of Bus. & Prof. Code § 809 et seq., see § 416.15, below].

[2] Fair Procedure Requirements for Private Institutions

[a] Notice and Hearing

A basic ingredient of the fair procedure required under the common law is that an individual who will be adversely affected by a decision be afforded some meaningful opportunity to be heard in his or her defense [Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 555, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II)]. Fair hearing includes ample notice, opportunity to hear and cross examine witnesses and to present evidence [Gill v. Mercy Hospital (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 889, 897, 904, 245 Cal. Rptr. 304] . One court of appeal articulated the elements of the legal protections that a private hospital must provide before depriving a physician of staff privileges as follows [Ascherman v. San Francisco Medical Society (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 623, 648-649, 114 Cal. Rptr. 681 (Ascherman I) (dicta)]:

- A hearing before the board must be provided.

- The physician should be given notice that a hearing is available to him or her.

- He or she should be given notification far enough in advance of the hearing to allow him or her to prepare an adequate defense.

- In conjunction with such notice, a physician whose privileges are being revoked or who is being denied reappointment should be provided a written statement of the charges against him or her. Such statement should be sufficient to apprise the physician of the specific charges against him or her.

- A physician who is being denied initial appointment to a hospital staff should be provided a written statement specifying the reasons his or her application is being denied.

- The physician should have the right to call his or her own witnesses.

The articulation of the elements of the common law fair procedure requirement adopted by the court of appeal in Ascherman I was subsequently quoted in its entirety by the Supreme Court in support of the Court's holding that membership determinations by private hospitals are of such a nature as to be subject to judicial review under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 (administrative mandate) [Anton v. San Antonio Community Hosp. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 802, 815-816 n. 12, 140 Cal. Rptr. 442, 567 P.2d 1162 (Anton I) (holding abrogated on unrelated point by legislative enactment of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(d) in 1978)]. Since neither the Anton I nor the Ascherman I cases dealtspecifically with all of the elements of required procedural fairness set out in the statement adopted by those cases, it is not clear to what extent this statement represents binding authority and to what extent it represents dicta. However, the courts in both cases apparently intended the statement to serve as a persuasive guideline as to the procedures that a private hospital must follow in making a membership determination.

A professional society was held not to have satisfied the common law fair procedure requirements by merely investigating a physician's case and denying the physician's application for membership on the basis of information disclosed by the investigation, when this process did not give the physician an opportunity to respond [Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 555, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II)]. A threshold requirement for application for hospital staff membership based on which a hospital declined to consider a physician's application without formally rejecting it, thus denying the physician the opportunity to respond normally provided for by the hospital bylaws in case of rejection, constituted a denial of fair procedure [Ascherman v. Saint Francis Memorial Hosp. (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 507, 509, 514, 119 Cal. Rptr. 507 (Ascherman II)]. A statement of reasons for denying membership may fall short of satisfying the notice requirement with respect to subsequent inquiry into matters outside of the scope of the reasons stated [see Miller v. Eisenhower Medical Center (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 614, 628, 632-634, 166 Cal. Rptr. 826, 614 P.2d 258] .

[b] Formal Proceedings Not Required

The hearing that must be provided need not encompass all of the aspects of a formal judicial or quasi-judicial trial [Anton v. San Antonio Community Hosp. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 802, 815-816 n.12, 140 Cal. Rptr. 442, 567 P.2d 1162 (Anton I) (holding abrogated on unrelated point by legislative enactment of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(d) in 1978); but see Huang v. Board of Directors (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 1286, 1295, 270 Cal. Rptr. 41 (procedure must afford affected party with fair opportunity to present his or her position)]. Rather, initial responsibility is placed on the hospital or professional organization to devise practical methods of providing notice and an opportunity to defend. When these methods are devised, the nature of the tendered issue should determine whether mere written response by the adversely affected physician is sufficient to provide a meaningful opportunity to respond to charges, or whether an appearance by the physician and a more extensive hearing are required [Ezekial v. Winkley (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 267, 278-279, 142 Cal. Rptr. 418, 572 P.2d 32] . The courts remain available to afford relief, however, if the hospital or professional organization abuses its discretion in devising methods of providing notice and an opportunity to respond [Pinsker v.

Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 556, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II)]. Some instances in which methods of procedure established by hospitals or professional organizations were found to be inadequate are set out under § 416.13[2][a].

[c] Discovery

No formal right to discovery exists in an administrative hearing not subject to the Administrative Procedure Act. However, "fair procedure" requires disclosure of all evidence forming the basis of the charges and any other evidence made available to the hearing panel [Gill v. Mercy Hospital (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 889, 907, 245 Cal. Rptr. 304] .

[d] Voir Dire

The right to fair procedure includes the right to impartial adjudicators [Rosenblit v. Superior Court (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1434, 1448, 282 Cal. Rptr. 819] . A physician is entitled to a meaningful opportunity through voir dire to determine the potential bias of members of the hearing panel [Rosenblit v. Superior Court (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1434, 1448-1449, 282 Cal. Rptr. 819 (secret unreported voir dire conducted by panel members themselves is inadequate)].

[e] Limited Right to Confront Accusers

According to persuasive dicta by the Supreme Court and one court of appeal, since a private hospital board has no subpoena power, a physician applying for or seeking to retain staff privileges at a private hospital has no right to confront and cross examine persons who have made adverse statements pertaining to the physician unless those persons testify at the hearing. However, in making its decision, the board cannot rely on evidence that was not produced at the hearing, and it cannot rely on ex parte communications that were not made known to the physician [Anton v. San Antonio Community Hosp. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 802, 815-816 n.12, 140 Cal.Rptr. 442, 567 P.2d 1162 (Anton I) (holding abrogated on unrelated point by legislative enactment of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(d) in 1978); Ascherman v. San Francisco Medical Society (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 623, 648-649, 114 Cal. Rptr. 681 (Ascherman I); § 416.13[2][a], for discussion of the legal import of this dicta]. This point is illustrated by the procedures followed by the hospital in Goodstein v. Cedars-Sinai Medical Center [Goodstein v. Cedars-Sinai Medical Center (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 1257, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 577] . Although the peer review committee had a firm policy not to disclose to the physician the sources of information that first led it to investigate and meet with the physician, the initial complaint merely triggered a review by the committee. Only after the committee determined that there is a legitimate cause for concern did it request a meeting with the physician. At that meeting the physician had ample opportunity to respond. Only after the committee concluded that there was cause for concern that psychiatric evaluation and drug testing were requested, based on its evaluation of the information gleaned dring that meeting [Goodstein v. Cedars-Sinai Medical Center (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 1257, 1264-1267, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 577 (physician's refusal to comply with request resulted in suspension of hospital privileges)].

Public hospitals, unlike private hospitals or professional organizations, do have subpoena power [see Health & Safety Code § 32154]. Thus, although there is no case on point, it appears that the right of a physician who has been denied or expelled from staff membership in a public hospital to confront his or her accuser is not limited as is that of a physician who has been deprived of membership by a private institution.

[f] Right to Attorney at Board's Discretion

According to persuasive dicta by the Supreme Court and one court of appeal, the hospital board has discretion to determine whether counsel may attend the hearing andparticipate in the proceedings. The courts in those cases stated in further dicta that participation of counsel would probably not be necessary unless the hospital's attorney is used in the proceedings or the extreme nature of the charges involved indicated that representation by an attorney would be advantageous. The courts further stated that such a limitation would not preclude the physician from consulting an attorney prior to a hearing even though the attorney was not allowed to participate in the hearing itself [Anton v. San Antonio Community Hosp. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 802, 815-816 n.12, 140 Cal. Rptr. 442, 567 P.2d 1162 (Anton I) (holding abrogated on unrelated point by legislative enactment of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(d) in 1978); Ascherman v. San Francisco Medical Society (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 623, 648-649, 114 Cal. Rptr. 681 (Ascherman I); see § 416.13[2][a], for discussion of the legal import of this dicta].

[g] Separation of Investigative and Adjudicatory Functions

A party is not denied an impartial adjudicator merely because an administrative entity performs both the functions of prosecutor and judge. Overlapping investigatory, prosecutorial, and adjudicatory functions do not necessarily deny a fair hearing and are common before most administrative boards. By the very nature of internal administrative peer review process, a hospital or one of its representatives is likely to be involved in the initiation and prosecution of charges, including any appeal process [Hongsathavij v. Queen of Angels etc. Medical Center (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 1123, 1142-1143, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 695 ; see Weinberg v. Cedars-Sinai Medical Center (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 1098, 1112-1114, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 6 (private hospital); Applebaum v. Board of Directors (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 648, 658, 163 Cal. Rptr. 831] . In Applebaum the court found that the facts showed sufficient probability of foreclosure of fairness to overturn the hospital's membership determination when the accusing physician was included in the investigatory panel, there was a substantial overlap of membership between the investigatory committee and the committee charged with adjudicating the membership determination, and the relationships among the various committees involved in the proceedings made an impartial determination by the appeal committee unlikely [Applebaum v. Board of Directors (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 648, 659-660, 163 Cal. Rptr. 831] . However, the existence of an overlap of membership between the original investigatory committee and an ad hoc committee later formed to review an adverse membership determination made by an independent committee does not constitute grounds for overturning the hospital's membership determination [Miller v. National Medical Hospital (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 81, 90-91, 177 Cal. Rptr. 119 ; see also Hongsathavij v. Queen of Angels etc. Medical Center (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 1123, 1142, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 695 (fact that no one involved in process hd any overlapping membership in both adjudicatory body and reviewing appeal board was indication of lack of bias or practical probability of unfairness)].

[h] Notice and Hearing Not Required if Not Requested

In setting out the minimal fair hearing requirement, the Supreme Court in Pinsker II added in dicta that a professional association need not engage in a meaningless procedure if the physician does not care to know the reasons for or to contest the institution's decision. Thus, the Court stated that it is permissible for an association to initially reject an applicant without explanation, as long as the association clearly indicates that it will inform the applicant of the reasons for the exclusion and afford an opportuntity to respond if the applicant desires it [Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 555 n.13, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II)].

[i] Decision May Not Rest on Ex Parte Evidence

According to persuasive dicta by the Supreme Court and one court of appeal, the basis for the decision must come from substantial evidence that was produced at the hearing. Thus, the board cannot rely on ex parte communications that were not made known to the physician [Anton v. San Antonio Community Hosp. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 802, 815-816 n.12, 140 Cal. Rptr. 442, 567 P.2d 1162 (Anton I) (holding abrogated on unrelated point by legislative en actment of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(d) in 1978); Ascherman v. San Francisco Medical Society (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 623, 648-649, 114 Cal. Rptr. 681 (Ascherman I); § 416.13[2], for discussion of the legal import of this dicta see also Goodstein v. Cedars-Sinai Medical Center (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 1257, 1266-1267, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 577 (emphasizing notice and opportunity given to physician before suspending his privileges for possible substance abuse problems in dismissing physician's charge that hospital's policy of nondisclosure of source or substance of complaints that triggered investigation was unfair)].

[j] Bylaws May Allocate Burden of Proof

An institution may set out bylaws placing on the applicant both the burden of coming forward with evidence of his or her qualification and the ultimate burden of proof at the institutional hearing on the application for membership, as long as the bylaws taken as a whole contemplate a substantial showing by the charging committee in support of its allegations, and provide adequate notice of charges and a fair opportunity to respond to them [Anton v. San Antonio Community Hosp. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 802, 828-830, 140 Cal. Rptr. 442, 567 P.2d 1162 (Anton I) (holding abrogated on unrelated point by legislative enactment of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(d) in 1978); see Rosenblit v. Superior Court (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1434, 1449, 282 Cal. Rptr. 819] .

[3] Hearing on Review No Substitute for Fair Procedure

A full hearing on the merits on review by the trial court of a professional association's determination to reject an application for membership is no substitute for fair procedure that has been found lacking in the association's initial determination [Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 557, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsRight to HearingGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsRight to HearingStatutory RightAdministrative LawAgency InvestigationsScopeSubpoenasEvidenceTestimonyExaminationCross-ExaminationGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationHospital PrivilegesProfessional ReviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationHospital PrivilegesRestrictionsHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationJudicial ReviewGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationPeer ReviewOrganizationsHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationPeer ReviewStatutes

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 416 PHYSICIANS: MEMBERSHIP ON HOSPITAL STAFFS OR IN PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

36-416 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 416.14

§ 416.14 Substantive Rationality

[1] Right to Membership Subject to Reasonable Rules

A licensed practitioner may be excluded from a professional society if he or she fails to fulfill reasonable requirements of the society [see Kronen v. Pacific Coast Soc. of Orthodontists (1965) 237 Cal. App. 2d 289, 305-307, 46 Cal. Rptr. 808] . These requirements may include standards of profesional qualification [see Pinsker v. PacificCoast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 560, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II)]. An association may expel members for (1) violation of established rules of the association that have been subscribed or assented to by members and that provide for expulsion as penalty, or (2) conduct that clearly violates the objects of the asociation, which would thwart those objects or bring the association into disrepute if the conduct were persisted in [Smith v. Kern County Medical Asso. (1942) 19 Cal. 2d 263, 270, 120 P.2d 874] . Similarly, the right to practice in a hosptial has been held to be subject to reasonable rules [Wyatt v. Tahoe Forest Hospital Dist. (1959) 174 Cal. App. 2d 709, 714, 345 P.2d 93] .

[2] General Requirement That Rules Be Substantively Reasonable

Expulsion or exclusion from public or private hospital staff may not rest on a rule that is substantively capricious, contrary to public policy, or unreasonably susceptible of arbitrary or discriminatory application [Miller v. Eisenhower Medical Center (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 614, 626, 627, 166 Cal. Rptr. 826, 614 P.2d 258 ; Gaenslen v. Board of Directors (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 563, 568, 232 Cal. Rptr. 239] .

A hospital's requirement that an applicant for staff membership submit three letters of recommendation from current staff members has been held to be substantively unreasonable [Ascherman v. Saint Francis Memorial Hosp. (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 507, 509, 512-514, 119 Cal. Rptr. 507 (Ascherman II)]. However, operation of a closed staff for a hospital's radiology department has been held to be both reasonable and within the authority of a public hospital district pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 32121(i) (granting broad powers to public hospital districts in running of health care facilities), despite the fact that such a policy necessarily denies radiologists who do not have an exclusive contract with the hospital the right to use the hospitals radiological facilities [Centeno v. Roseville Community Hospital (1979) 107 Cal. App. 3d 62, 70-72, 167 Cal. Rptr. 183] . Similarly, violation of a local medical society rule proscribing continued practice at a specific hospital has been held to justify expulsion [Smith v. Kern County Medical Asso. (1942) 19 Cal. 2d 263, 266, 269-270, 120 P.2d 874] .

[a] Requirement of Medical Malpractice Insurance Permitted

The rules of a health facility may include provisions that require every member of the medical staff to have professional liability insurance as a condition to being on the medical staff of the health facility [Health & Safety Code § 1319 (abrogating prior case law to contrary)].

[b] Discrimination Based on Type of Professional Degree Prohibited

The rules of a health facility may not discriminate on the basis of whether the staff member holds an M.D. (allopatic medicine), D.O. (osteopathic medicine) or D.P.M. (podiatry) degree [Health & Safety Code § 1316(a)].

[c] Requirement of Nexus

A hospital's bylaws must be read so as to require a demonstrable nexus between the activities or professional conduct cited as the basis for the adverse membership decision and established professional standards or aims of the hospital's medical staff [Miller v. Eisenhower Medical Center (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 614, 628, 166 Cal. Rptr. 826, 614 P.2d 258 ; Miller v. National Medical Hospital (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 81, 93, 177 Cal. Rptr. 119] . Thus, a hospital's bylaw requirement that a staff member be able to work with others is substantively rational only when it is so construed that a denial of staff membership to a physician based on this rule requires a showing that the physician's inability to work with others in a hospital setting is such as to present a real and substantial danger that patients treated by the physician might receive other than high quality medical care at the hospital [Miller v. Eisenhower Medical Center (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 614, 628, 629, 166 Cal. Rptr. 826, 614 P.2d 258] . The hospital must come forward with evidence of a concrete and specific nature directed toward establishing a link between the applicant's conduct and an effect on the quality of the applicant's patient care [Miller v. Eisenhower Medical Center (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 614, 629, 632-633, 166 Cal. Rptr. 826, 614 P.2d 258] . It appears, however, that the required nexus need not always be between the conduct complained of and the quality of medical care provided by the physician. Thus, a hospital can properly suspend the staff privileges of a physician who has been convicted of conspiracy to murder his wife because such a crime is incompatible with the aims and goals of the hospital as well as with a physician's responsibility to alleviate suffering and uphold the dignity and sanctity of human life [Miller v. National Medical Hospital (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 81, 93, 177 Cal. Rptr. 119] .

[d] Vague and Ambiguous Rules

[i] In General

Hospital districts may not adopt standards for exclusion of physicians from use of their hospitals that are so vague and ambiguous as to provide substantial danger of arbitrary discrimination in their application [Rosner v. Eden Township Hospital Dist. (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 592, 598, 25 Cal. Rptr. 551, 375 P.2d 431] . A rule that only physicians whose background and training assures that patients receive the best possible medical care has been held to be too vague and uncertain to be permissibly used as a basis for exclusion of an applicant from hospital staff privileges [Wyatt v. Tahoe Forest Hospital Dist. (1959) 174 Cal. App. 2d 709, 715, 345 P.2d 93] . On the other hand, a rule requiring physicians to provide "high quality" patient care is not void for vagueness [Gaenslen v. Board of Directors (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 563, 569, 232 Cal. Rptr. 239] . A requirement for granting hospital staff privileges that is reasonable in itself may be impermissible as a basis for excluding a physician from such privileges when it is couched in such vague and ambiguous terms that it sets out no adequate standards for application, and authorizes the hospital to apply the requirement in a manner going beyond the scope of the reasonable basis for the requirement [see Martino v. Concord Community Hosp. District (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 51, 58, 60, 43 Cal. Rptr. 255] .

However, the effect of ambiguity in a professional association's rule may be cured if the association gives an applicant for membership a timely and adequate explanation of the rule [see Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 559-560, 560 n.19, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II)].

[ii] Official Interpretation of Ambiguous Rule

When an association gives a timely and adequate explanation of a rule that is ambiguous on its face, the physician may not challenge the association's official interpretation [Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 560, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II)]. Despite the seemingly absolute wording of this holding, it seems unlikely that the court meant to say that a timely and adequate explanation would render a rule immune from any attack at all, even if the rule as interpreted in the hospital or society's explanation is substantively irrational. The precise issue of what effect, if any, a timely and adequate explanation would have on an attack for substantive irrationality was not before the court in Pinsker II, since in other parts of the opinion the court had held that the rule as interpreted by the society was substantively rational. In a later case, the Supreme Court declined to follow a hospital's official interpretation of a rule which would have rendered the rule irrational, without addressing the effect of timely and adequate explanation by the hospital [see Miller v. Eisenhower Medical Center (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 614, 628, 630-633, 166 Cal. Rptr. 826, 614 P.2d 258] . The most reasonable interpretation of the holding in Pinsker II seems to be that a timely and adequate explanation by the hospital or professional association merely resolves a rule's ambiguity, and therefore entitles the hospital or professional organization to defend that rule as it has interpreted it, without having to defend against alternative interpretations offered by the physician.

[e] Rules That Are Contrary to Public Policy

A hospital or association rule may apparently be denied enforcement if it is contrary to public policy; the court may, however, enforce the rule if it can be construed in such a manner that it does not violate public policy [see Bernstein v. Alameda etc., Med. Assn. (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 241, 246-247, n.5, 293 P.2d 862] .

[3] Standards for Qualification or Competence

[a] In General

Professional associations may impose standards of qualification for membership that are higher than those imposed for obtaining a license to practice the profession generally. In particular, an association devoted to a professional specialty may require an applicant to have taken courses that concentrate on the specialty in question [Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 560, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II)]. Requiring an applicant for staff membership in a hospital to take an examination as a condition of acceptance of the application is a reasonable method of determining the applicant's competence, provided that the requirement is drawn up with sufficient specificity to permit the identification of standards by which the requirement may be reviewed, and is limited to those areas of medicine in which the applicant will practice at the hospital [Martino v. Concord Community Hosp. District (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 51, 58, 60, 43 Cal. Rptr. 255 ; see also § 416.14[2][d]]. An expert supervisor's judgment as to a resident's competence is entitled to be given great weight on judicial review [Ezekial v. Winkley (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 267, 278-279, 142 Cal. Rptr. 418, 572 P.2d 32] .

[b] Ability to Work With Others as Necessary Qualification

A hospital may set out a requirement for admission to staff membership that an applicant be temperamentally able to work with others, provided that the requirement is so construed that denial of membership on that basis requires some positive evidence of a connection between the inability to work with others and the quality of medical care that the applicant would provide to the hospital's patients [Miller v. Eisenhower Medical Center (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 614, 628, 629, 166 Cal. Rptr. 826, 614 P.2d 258] . Exclusion or expulsion of a physician from membership on the grounds of inability to get along with others may be particularly suspect when the finding that the physician was unable to get along with others was based on evidence that the physician frequently criticized the quality of medical care provided in his community [see Rosner v. Eden Township Hospital Dist. (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 592, 598, 25 Cal. Rptr. 551, 375 P.2d 431 (scope of overall holding narrowed by Miller v. Eisenhower Medical Center (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 614, 628, 629, 166 Cal. Rptr. 826, 614 P.2d 258 ; see also § 416.14[2][c]]. It may be possible to satisfy the requirement of a connection between the physician's inability to work with others and the quality of medical care provided by the physician by showing that a derogation of quality of medical care may result in the future even without a showing that any particular patient suffered [Marmion v. Mercy Hospital and Medical Center (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 72, 87-88, 193 Cal. Rptr. 225 (involving medical resident and not clarifying whether broad statement of rule could be applied to hospital staff member)].

The requirement of showing a connection between inability to work with others and the quality of medical care delivered by the physician does not apply in the case of a medical resident dismissed from a hospital [Marmion v. Mercy Hospital and Medical Center (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 72, 86-87, 193 Cal. Rptr. 225 (alternate ground that requirement was satisfied in any case)].

[4] Requirement of Existing Cause

Exclusion of a physician from the staff of a public hospital must be for existing cause. Thus, a public hospital may not exclude a physician with an unrevoked license who is in good standing merely because of past misconduct that made the physician subject to professional discipline [Wyatt v. Tahoe Forest Hospital Dist. (1959) 174 Cal. App. 2d 709, 714, 345 P.2d 93] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLegislationVaguenessHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationHospital PrivilegesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationHospital PrivilegesRestrictionsHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 416 PHYSICIANS: MEMBERSHIP ON HOSPITAL STAFFS OR IN PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

36-416 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 416.15

§ 416.15 Hospital Peer Review Proceedings Under Bus. & Prof. Code § 809 et seq.

[1] Purpose; Applicability

The California Legislature enacted Bus. & Prof. Code § 809 et seq. for the purpose of opting out of federal legislation passed to encourage physicians to engage in effective peer review. These sections delegate to the private sector the responsibility to provide fairly conducted peer review in accordance with due process, including notice, discovery and hearing rights and defines what constitutes minimum due process requirements for the review [Mileikowsky v. Tenet Healthsystem (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 531, 557, 27 Cal. Rptr. 3d 171 ; Unnamed Physician v. Board of Trustees (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 607, 622, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 309] . These rights and requirements applyto hospitals extending privileges to doctors, and also apply to health care service plans [Lee v. Blue Shield of California (2007) 154 Cal. App. 4th 1369, 1373-1374, 65 Cal. Rptr. 3d 612].

Bus. & Prof. Code § 809 provides generally that peer review, fairly conducted, is essential to preserving the highest standards of medical practice and peer review not conducted fairly results in harm both to patients and healing arts practitioners by limiting access to care. It recognizes not only the balance between the rights of the physician to practice his or her profession and the duty of the hospital to ensure quality care, but also the importance of a fair procedure, free of arbitrary and discriminatory acts [Mileikowsky v. Tenet Healthsystem (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 531, 557, 27 Cal. Rptr. 3d 171 ; Unnamed Physician v. Board of Trustees (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 607, 616-617, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 309] .

Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.1 et seq. deal with the right of a physician to a hearing after adverse action has been proposed. The procedural rights in these sections apply whether the adverse action is initiated by a peer review body or by a governing body [Sahlolbei v. Providence Healthcare, Inc. (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 1137, 1147-1148, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 598]. These hearings, known as "809 hearings," apply only to proposed terminations and suspensions taken for a medical disciplinary cause or reason [Lee v. Blue Shield of California (2007) 154 Cal. App. 4th 1369, 1374, 65 Cal. Rptr. 3d 612 ; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.1(a)], which is defined as that aspect of a physician's competence or professional conduct that is reasonably likely to be detrimental to patient safety or to the delivery of patient care [Bus. & Prof. Code § 805(a)(6)].

The procedure in Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.1 et seq. only applies to final proposed actions for which a report is required to be filed under Bus. & Prof. Code § 805 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.1(a)]. A report must be filed with the state agency having jurisdiction over a practitioner whose staff privileges are terminated for a medical disciplinary cause or reason [Bus. & Prof. Code § 805(b)(2)]. "Medical disciplinary cause or reason" is conduct reasonably likely to be detrimental to patient safety or to the delivery of patient care [Bus. & Prof. Code 805(a)(6)].

[2] Notice

A physician who is the subject of a final proposed action of a peer review body, i.e., a body composed of members of the hospital medical staff [Bus. & Prof. Code § 805(a)(1)(A)], is entitled to written notice of the action [Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.1(a)]. A peer review body includes a health care service plan [Bus. & Prof. Code § 805(a)(1)(B)]. Further, if a peer review body proposes to terminate a physician's membership in the organization for "a medical disciplinary cause or reason" [Bus. & Prof. Code § 805(b)(1)], or if it immediately suspends the physician on the ground that its failure to do so may result in "an imminent danger to the health" of a patient [Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.5(a)], the physician is entitled to notice and an administrative hearing [Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.1(b)]. The notice must inform the physician of the right to request a hearing on the action [Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.1(b)(3)]. "Final proposed action" is "the final decision or recommendation of the peer review body after informal investigatory activity or prehearing meetings, if any" [Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.1(a)].

Providing a hearing after a decision to terminate staff privileges rather than before is a failure to comply with Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.1 et seq. [Sahlolbei v. Providence Healthcare, Inc. (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 1137, 1148-1151, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 598 (hospital's termination of physician's staff privileges without hearing failed to comply with § 809.1 et seq. even though hospital provided hearing later)].

[3] Hearing Panel

The hearing must be held, as determined by the hospital or plan, before a trier of fact, which must be an arbitrator or arbitrators selected by a process mutually acceptable to the physician and the hospital or plan, or before a panel of unbiased individuals who gain no direct financial benefit from the outcome, who have not acted as an accuser, investigator, fact-finder, or initial decision-maker in the same matter. The panel must include, when feasible, an individual practicing the same specialty as the physician [Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.2(a)].

The panel may select a hearing officer to preside at the hearing, but is not required to do so [Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.2(b)]. If a hearing officer is selected to preside at a hearing held before a panel, the hearing officer must gain no direct financial benefit from the outcome, may not act as a prosecuting officer or advocate, and is not entitled to vote [Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.2(b)].

The physician may voir dire panel members and challenge the impartiality of the members. Challenges are to be ruled on by the presiding officer, who is the hearing officer, if one has been selected [Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.2(c)].

[4] Discovery

The parties have discovery rights and remedies if either party fails to comply with the discovery process.

The parties have the right to inspect and copy any documentary information relevant to the charges in the opposing party's possession or control, subject to specified restrictions. The hearing panel considers and rules on any request for access to information, and may impose any safeguards the protection of the peer review process and justice requires. A party's failure to provide the requested information at least 30 days before the hearing constitutes good cause for a continuance [Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.2(d)]. The statute provides for the right to "inspect and copy," but does not state that there is a duty to produce the requested documents.

At the request of either side, the parties will exchange lists of witnesses expected to testify and copies of all documents expected to be introduced at the hearing. A party's failure to exchange witness lists and copies of documents at least 10 days before the hearing begins constitutes good cause for a continuance [Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.2(f)].

The only procedural consequence of failure to provide information requested under Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.2(d) is that it constitutes good cause for a continuance. Thus, while the failure to provide requested documentation may have also substantive consequences, the only procedural sanction specifically allowed is a continuance of the hearing. There is no authority to terminate a hearing prematurely for failure to producerequested documentation. A physician's noncooperation in discovery is not a reason for the hospital or plan to terminate the proceeding or to terminate the physician [Lee v. Blue Shield of California (2007) 154 Cal. App. 4th 1369, 1377, 65 Cal. Rptr. 3d 612 (terminating physician's provider status for failing to cooperate in discovery was equivalent to terminating him for medical incompetency because effect of termination sanction was to let stand plan's proposed termination or suspension based on alleged medical incompetency, which was the cause of request for hearing in first place)]. The decision as to when to terminate the 809 hearing must be made by the hearing panel in the course of the 809 hearing itself, after affording the physician notice and an opportunity to be heard [Lee v. Blue Shield of California (2007) 154 Cal. App. 4th 1369, 1377, 65 Cal. Rptr. 3d 612].

[5] Continuances

Continuances may be granted by the presiding officer on a showing of good cause [Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.2(g)]. However, a hearing must commence within 60 days after receipt of a request for hearing and be completed within a reasonable time, after a physician receives notice of a final proposed action or an immediate suspension or restriction of clinical privileges, unless the presiding officer issues a written decision finding that the licentiate failed to comply with discovery [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.2(d), (e); see also [4], above] in a timely manner or consented to the delay [Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.2(g)]. The parties are bound by any additional notice and hearing provisions contained in any applicable professional society or medical staff bylaws which are not inconsistent with Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.1 et seq. [Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.6(a)].

[6] Hearing

In the hearing, the parties have the following procedural rights [Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.3(a)(1)-(5)]:

- To be provided with all of the information made available to the trier of fact.
- To have a record made of the proceedings, copies of which may be obtained by the physician on payment of any reasonable charges associated with the preparation of the record.
- To call, examine, and cross-examine witnesses.
- To present and rebut evidence determined by the arbitrator or presiding officer to be relevant.
- To submit a written statement at the close of the hearing.

When the hearing is requested by a physician, the hospital or plan bears the burden of persuading the hearing panel by a preponderance of the evidence that the action or recommendation is reasonable and warranted [Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.3(b)(3)]. At the conclusion of the hearing, the parties have the right to a written decision and to be informed of the procedure for appealing the decision, if one exists [Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.4(a)(1), (2)]. If a peer review body fails to take action in response to a direction from the hospital's or health care plan's governing body, the governing body itself can take action against a physician. Any such action must comply fully with the procedures and rules applicable to peer review proceedings established by Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 809.1-809.6, inclusive [Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.05(c)].

A decision to prematurely terminate a hearing convened under the authority of Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.2 lets stand the final proposed action of the peer review body that was the cause of the request for a hearing, which is a decision on the merits. A decision on the merits is consigned to the trier of fact, and the hearing officer may not vote on the merits [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.2(a), (b); see discussion in [3], above].

[7] Exhaustion of Remedies

Before a physician can seek damages for the wrongful suspension or wrongful termination of hospital staff privileges or a provider contract, the physician must exhaust the 809 hearing remedy, including seeking judicial review of the hearing decision should the suspension or termination be upheld [Lee v. Blue Shield of California (2007) 154 Cal. App. 4th 1369, 1376, 1378, 65 Cal. Rptr. 3d 612 (trial court should have treated physician's cause of action for declaratory relief as petition requesting court to issue writ of mandate ordering provider network to vacate its decision terminating his provider status for failure to cooperate with 809 hearing and to reinstate 809 proceedings)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsRight to HearingDue ProcessAdministrative LawAgency AdjudicationImpartialityGeneral OverviewConstitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental RightsProcedural Due ProcessGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationPeer ReviewGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 416 PHYSICIANS: MEMBERSHIP ON HOSPITAL STAFFS OR IN PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

36-416 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 416.16

§ 416.16 Proceedings to Obtain Relief From Membership Decision

[1] Exhaustion of Internal Remedies as Prerequisite

The general California rule is that a party must exhaust all available and adequate internal remedies offered by a public agency or private association with fiduciary duties that has excluded a party from membership before seeking relief in the courts [see Abelleira v. District Court of Appeal (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 280, 292, 109 P.2d 942 (public agencies); Holderby v. Internat. Union etc. Engrs. (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 843, 846, 291 P.2d 463 (private associations)]. The applicability of this requirement has generally been aknowledged in cases in which physicians sought relief from an adverse membership decision that was allegedly made in violation of common law fair procedure requirements [see Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 476-477, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410 (dicta that requirement applies to private associations and hospitals in review of membership decision); Martino v. Concord Community Hosp.District (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 51, 56, 43 Cal. Rptr. 255 (but holding rule excused with respect to public hospital under facts before it)].

Moreover, even when the physician has exhausted the appropriate administrative remedies, if, on review of the final administrative decision, the court sets aside that decision because of unfair hearing practices and remands the case for further proceedings, the physician must proceed again to a final administrative decision before seeking redress in the courts [Kumar v. National Medical Enterprises, Inc. (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 1050, 1055-1056, 267 Cal. Rptr. 452] .

A physician who has exhausted the internal remedies provided by the hospital that made the adverse membership determination but who has failed to raise the issue of denial of fair procedure at his or her hearing despite the fact that the hospital's bylawsprovided for means of raising this issue in an internal appeal from the hearing is precluded from raising the issue during judicial revew of the hospital's determination [Anton v. San Antonio Community Hospital (1982) 132 Cal. App. 3d 638, 648, 183 Cal. Rptr. 423 (Anton II)].

[2] When Exhaustion of Internal Remedies Excused

The requirement that a physician exhaust internal remedies before seeking judicial review is excused when the remedies are not available or when the institution has failed to inform the physician of the availability of the remedy [Martino v. Concord Community Hosp. District (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 51, 56, 43 Cal. Rptr. 255 (unavailability of remedy); see Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 478, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410 (failure to inform as to existence of remedy in damage action after adverse membership decision)]. So, too, a physician need not exhaust administrative remedies against a hospital when further pursuit is futile [Joel v. Valley Surgical Center (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 360, 369, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 247 (resolution of dispute after commencement of administrative process, but prior to its completion, through settlement awarding physician maximum benefit he or she could have been afforded administratively)].

A physician is not precluded from attacking the validity of the institution's procedural bylaws for the first time in his or her action for judicial review of the institution's adverse membership determination when the institution's internal appeal procedure provided no authority for the panel hearing the appeal to invalidate institutional bylaws [Anton v. San Antonio Community Hosp. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 802, 828-829, 140 Cal. Rptr. 442, 567 P.2d 1162 (Anton I)]. By contrast, exhaustion of administrative remedies will not be excused if the physician's challenge is merely based on the ground that the institution did not follow its procedural bylaws [Bollengier v. Doctors Medical Center (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1115, 1127-1128, 1129-1130, 272 Cal. Rptr. 273] .

An ambiguous statement to the physician that the institution's action could be appealed, when the physician had never been given a hearing, does not, as a matter of law, constitute sufficient notice of the availability of an adequate internal remedy, so as to sustain a demurrer to the petition for mandate for failure to exhaust internal remedies. Furthermore, a physician need not engage in an idle pursuit of internal remedies, even if procedures for these remedies are available and have been properly noticed, when the organization has made it clear at the outset that it will rule against the physician. A physician who has requested a hearing and received no response to his or her request need not pursue further internal remedies in order to invoke the court's jurisdiction [Haller v. Burbank Community Hospital Foundation (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 650, 657-658, 197 Cal. Rptr. 45] .

[3] Appropriate Proceedings for Obtaining Judicial Review

A physician who has been deprived of staff or association membership without due process by an institution that is required by law to provide due process may seek relief in administrative mandamus proceedings [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.8 (nothing in Sections 809 to 809.7, inclusive, affects availability of judicial review under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5)]. If the physician has received a hearing before the adverse determination, administrative mandate pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is the proper proceeding for seeking relief [Anton v. San Antonio Community Hospital (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 802, 813-817, 140 Cal. Rptr. 442, 567 P.2d 1162 (Anton I; holding abrogated on unrelated point by 1978 legislative enactment of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(d)); Avol v. Hawthorne Community Hospital (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 101, 108-109, 184 Cal. Rptr. 914 ; but see Miller v. Eisenhower Medical Center (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 614, 618, 166 Cal. Rptr. 826, 614 P.2d 258 (pre-Anton case brought as ordinary mandate proceeding)]. If the professional organization has not provided a hearing, simple mandate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 is the appropriate procedure [Haller v. Burbank Community Hospital Foundation (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 650, 655, 658, 197 Cal. Rptr. 45] . If the petitioner has petitioned for the wrong type of mandate under the circumstances of the case, the court should treat the petition as if it were the correct type [Anton v. San Antonio Community Hosp. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 802, 813-814, 140 Cal. Rptr. 442, 567 P.2d 1162 (Anton I; petition improperly asking for Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 mandate treated as petition for Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 mandate); Haller v. Burbank Community Hospital Foundation (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 650, 655, 197 Cal. Rptr. 45 (petition improperly asking for Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 mandate treated as petition for Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 mandate)].

Actions to enjoin a physician's exclusion from membership have also been upheld as proper [see Ascherman v. San Francisco Medical Society (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 623, 114 Cal. Rptr. 681 (Ascherman I)]. However, the holding of the Supreme Court in Anton v. San Antonio Community Hosp. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d802, 813-817, 140 Cal. Rptr. 442, 567 P.2d 1162 (Anton I) (holding abrogated on unrelated point by legislative enactment of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(d) in 1978) (discussed above) and language in Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 484, 485, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410 , indicate that mandamus is now the preferred procedure. In holding that a physician must have the institution's determination to exclude him or her from membership set aside before he or she may file an action for damages against the institution, the Court in Westlake refers only to mandamus as the proper proceeding for setting aside the institution's determination.

For discussion, procedural guides, and forms pertaining to administrative mandate and injunctions generally, see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , et seq., and Ch. 303, Injunctions , respectively. For discussion and forms for use in mandate proceedings generally, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition . For discussion of actions to review membership decisions of unincorporated associations generally, see Ch. 61, Associations and Clubs .

[4] Standard of Review

[a] Hospital Review Boards

Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(d) states that notwithstanding the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(c) (governing standard of review for administrative mandate generally), in cases arising from private hospit al boards, or boards of directors of districts organized pursuant to the Local Health Care District Law, set out in Health & Safety Code §§ 32000-32492, abuse of discretion is established if the court determines that the findings are not supported by substantial evidence in light of the whole record. Under this standard, a reviewing court must uphold a hospital review committee's decision unless the findings are so lacking in evidentiary support as to render them unreasonable [Gaenslen v. Board of Directors (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 563, 569, 232 Cal. Rptr. 239 ; see Hongsathavij v. Queen of Angels Hollywood Presbyterian Medical Center (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 1123, 1135-1136, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 695 (review cannot focus exclusively on judicial review committee's decision when hospital's bylaws provide that committee's decision be reviewed by governing board that issues final administrative decision)]. However, in all cases in which the petition alleges discriminatory actions prohibited by Health & Safety Code § 1316 (discrimination based on type of degree prohibitied; see § 416.14[2][b]) and the plaintiff makes a preliminary showing of substantial evidence in support of allegation, the court must exercise its independent judgment on the evidence, and abuse of discretion is established if the court determines that the findings are not supported by the weight of the evidence.

In examining a hospital board's decision, the superior court must determine two issues [Weinberg v. Cedars-Sinai Medical Center (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 1098, 1106-1107, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 6 ; Hongsathavij v. Queen of Angels/Hollywood Presbyterian Medical Center (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 1123, 1136, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 695 ; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b)-(d)]:

- First, the court must determine whether the governing body applied the correct standard in conducting its review.

- Second, after determining as a preliminary matter that the governing body used the correct standard, the court must determine whether there was substantial evidence to support the governing body's decision.

When an appellate court is reviewing a quasi-judicial decision of a governing body of a private hospital, the function of the appellate court is the same as that of the trial court in conducting the review. Hence, in applying the substantial evidence standard, the appellate court should review the entire record to determine whether the decision is supported by substantial evidence [Gill v. Mercy Hospital (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 889, 897, 245 Cal. Rptr. 304] .

When reviewing a finding by the trial court that a physician received a fair hearing, an appellate court exercises its independent judgment. The ultimate determination of whether administrative proceedings were fundamentally fair is a question of law to be decided on appeal. The appellate court must conduct a de novo review of the administrative record in order to evaluate fairness [Rosenblit v. Superior Court (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1434, 1442-1444, 282 Cal. Rptr.

819] .

[b] Other Professional Organizations

Since Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(d) applies only to decisions by hospital boards, the scope of review of decisions by other types of professional organizations is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(c), which provides that in cases in which the court is authorized to exercise its independent judgment on the evidence, abuse of discretion is established if the court determines that the findings are not supported by the weight of the evidence; and in all other cases, abuse of discretion is established if the court determines that the findings are not supported by substantial evidence in light of the whole record. Although there is no case dealing directly with the standard to be applied in reviewing a membership decision by a professional organization other than a hospital board, the general rule is that when an administrative decision affects a right which has been legitimately acquired or is vested, and when that right is of a fundamental nature, the court is required to exercise its independent judgment on the evidence [Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 32, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29] . A vested right is one already posessed by the individual. Thus, in cases involving an agency's initial determination whether an individual qualifies to enter a profession or trade the courts have generally upheld the agency decision unless it lacks substantial evidentiary support. However, once the agency has initially exercised its expertise and determined that an individual fulfills the requirements to practice his or her profession, the agency's subsequent revocation of the license calls for an independent judicial review of the factsunderlying any such administrative decision [Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 136, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242 (citing Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Soc. of Orthodontists (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 160, 166-167, 81 Cal. Rptr. 623, 460 P.2d 495 (Pinsker I), which affirms common law right to procedural fairness in case involving membership in professional organization as example of initial agency decision as to whether person qualifies to enter profession)]. It is probable that this distinction applies also to membership decisions by private professional organizations, so that a decison to exclude a physician who is applying for membership will be reviewed under the substantial evidence test, while a decision to expel a physician who is already a member from membership will be reviewed under the independent judgmenttest.This assumption is supported by Ezekial v. Winkley (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 267, 272-273, 142 Cal. Rptr. 418, 572 P.2d 32 , which holds in connection with an issue unrelated to the scope of judicial review, that membership in an association once attained is a valuable interest that cannot be arbitrarily withdrawn and notes that the character of an existing membership as a valuable interest comports with the broader rule stated in ixby that one on whom an important privilege has already been conferred may enjoy legal protections not available to an applicant for the same benefit. The assumption is also supported by the holding in Anton v. San Antonio Community Hosp. 19 Cal. 3d 802, 825, 140 Cal. Rptr. 442, 567 P.2d 1162 (Anton I), that membership on a hospital staff is both fundamental and vested within the meanings of Bixby and Strumsky and that denial of a normally routine reappointment to such membership must be reviewed under the independent judgment test. Although the specific holding of Anton I was abrogated by the enactment of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(d) (discussed under § 416.16[4][a]) Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(d) applies only to hospitals and would not prevent an application of the reasoning supporting the Anton I holding to cases involving expulsion from membership in a professional organization.

[c] Scope of Judicial Review of Institution's Rules

When a professional society rule on the basis of which a physician's application for membership was rejected is challenged as arbitrary, the scope of judicial review is limited to determining whether the standard or rule is reasonable, comports with the legitimate goals of the society and the rights of the individual and public, and is not contrary to established public policy [Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 558, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II)]. Matters of policy involved in the adoption of bylaws, codes of ethics, and resolutions of rules in conformity with established codes of ethics are questions for the membership itself and are not debatable in court absent a showing that the policy is in violation of the law [Smith v. Kern County Medical Asso. (1942) 19 Cal. 2d 263, 270-271, 120 P.2d 874] .

[5] Types of Relief Available

If the court determines that the institution's membership determination was substantively irrational, the physician may be entitled to an order compelling his or her admission or reinstatement to membership [see Rosner v. Eden Township Hospital Dist. (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 592, 599, 25 Cal. Rptr. 551, 375 P.2d 431] . However, if in a case of denial rather than expulsion from membership the court finds that procedural fairness was denied, relief may be limited to an order requiring the institution to reconsider the physician's membership in accord with fair procedure [Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 557, n.17, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II)]. If a physician has been expelled from membership in a hospital in which he or she had previously held membership pursuant to a hearing that is held to have been unfair, however, the court may order him or her to be reinstated pending a proper hearing [Applebaum v. Board of Directors (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 648, 660-661, 163 Cal. Rptr. 831] .

Cases have been remanded to the institution for reconsideration of the membership decision in the following circumstances:

- When a physician was expelled from a local medical association based on a finding that he had committed seven separate rules violations, but five of these findings were overturned during subsequent review, and the institution had imposed only one penalty for all of the original seven findings of violation [Bernstein v. Alameda, etc. Med. Assn. (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 241, 252-253, 293 P.2d 862] .

- When the main evidence considered by the hospital in denying a physician's application for staff membership did not support the hospital's determination and real doubt existed as to whether the hospital would have made the same determination based on some peripheral evidence that was also considered [Miller v. Eisenhower Medical Center (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 614, 628, 634-635, 166 Cal. Rptr. 826, 614 P.2d 258] .

Code of Civil Procedure Section 425.16 sets out a procedure for striking complaints in harassing lawsuits that are commonly known as SLAPP suits (strategic lawsuits against public participation), which are brought to challenge the exercise of constitutionally protected free speech rights. This procedure may be available in a lawsuit brought by a hospital staff physician arising out of a disciplinary recommendation by the hospital's peer review committee under Bus. & Prof. Code § 809 et seq. [See Kibler v. N. Inyo County Local Hosp. Dist. (2006) 39 Cal. 4th 192, 197-203, 46 Cal. Rptr. 3d 41, 138 P.3d 193 (hospital was entitled under Code Civ. Proc. § 425.16(e)(2) to file special motion to strike plaintiff's complaint as SLAPP suit)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewRemediesInjunctive ReliefAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewRemediesMandamusAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewReviewabilityExhaustion of RemediesAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewStandards of ReviewSubstantial EvidenceCivil ProcedureJusticiabilityExhaustion of RemediesGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJusticiabilityExhaustion of RemediesAdministrative RemediesHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationJudicial ReviewGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationJudicial ReviewExhaustion of RemediesHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationJudicial ReviewSubstantial EvidenceHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationPeer ReviewGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 416 PHYSICIANS: MEMBERSHIP ON HOSPITAL STAFFS OR IN PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

36-416 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 416.17

§ 416.17 Damages for Intentional Interference With Right to Practice Profession

[1] In General

An institution that arbitrarily deprives a physician of the right to membership may be liable for damages in an action based on intentional interference with the physician's right to pursue his or her profession [Willis v. Santa Ana etc. Hospital Assn. (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 806, 810, 26 Cal. Rptr. 640, 376 P.2d 568] . In order to establish liability in such an action, the physician must show that the intentional interference with his or her right to pursue the practice of medicine was done unlawfully or by lawful means without sufficient justification. The existence of such justificationis determined by balancing the importance of the activity interfered with to society and the parties involved against the importance of permitting the interference, rather than by applying precise standards [Willis v. Santa Ana etc. Hospital Assn. (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 806, 810, 26 Cal. Rptr. 640, 376 P.2d 568 (allegations that defendants conspired to deny physician of highest qualifications access to hospital facilities in order to restrain competition and deprive physician of practice stated valid cause of action); Mateo-Woodburn v. Fresno Community Hospital & Medical Center (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 1169, 1184, 270 Cal. Rptr. 894] .

The Cartwright Act, Bus. & Prof. Code § 16720 et seq., which proscribes unlawful restraint of trade, applies to professions [Cianci v. Superior Court (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 903, 916-925, 221 Cal. Rptr. 575, 710 P. 2d 375 , overruling Willis v. Santa Ana etc. Hospital Assn. (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 806, 26 Cal. Rptr. 640, 376 P. 2d 568] . For discussion of the Cartwright Act, see Ch. 565, Unfair Competition .

[2] Justification of Interference

Interference with a physician's right to practice medicine does not give rise to liability, even if it is intentional, if the interference is reasonable and justified [Letsch v. Northern San Diego County Hosp. Dist. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 673, 677, 55 Cal. Rptr. 118] . For example, a hospital's determination to operate its radiology department on a closed staff basis, thus depriving physicians who had no exclusive contract with the hospital of the right to use the hospital's radiology facilities, was held to be reasonable and therefore did not give rise to liability on the part of the hospital [Letsch v. Northern San Diego County Hosp. Dist. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 673, 677, 55 Cal. Rptr. 118 ; see also Mateo-Woodburn v. Fresno Community Hospital & Medical Center (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 1169, 1182-1188, 270 Cal. Rptr. 894 (similar situation involving anesthesiologists)]. The vested rights of a staff physician in an adjudicatory one-on-one setting, in which his or her professional or ethical qualifications for staff privileges are in question, take on a different quality and character when considered in light of a rational, justified policy decision by a hospital to reorganize the method of delivery of certain medical services. This is true even though the structural change results in the exclusion of particular physicians from certain services. If the justification is sufficient, the physician's vested rights give way to public and patient interest in improving the quality of medical services [Mateo-Woodburn v. Fresno Community Hospital & Medical Center (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 1169, 1185, 270 Cal. Rptr. 894] . A judicial determination on mandamus review or in an action for injunction ordering the hospital or professional organization to admit or reinstate the physician would necessarily entail a finding that the institution's action was not justified. Although there is no case on point, it would appear that if the physician has satisfied the requirement set out under § 416.17[4], and obtained a court order setting aside the institution's determination beforeinitiating the tort action, the finding of lack of justification entailed in such an order would be binding in the subsequent tort action under the doctrine of collateral estoppel.

[3] Requirement of Exhaustion of Internal Remedies

The requirement that the physician exhaust available and adequate internal remedies offered by the institution that made the adverse membership decision before seeking relief in the courts, which is discussed under § 416.16[1], applies to actions for damages for interference with the right to practice a profession as well as actions to have the institution's membership decision set aside [Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 476-477, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410 (but requirement excused under facts before court); Bartschi v. Chico Community Memorial Hospital (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 502, 508, 187 Cal. Rptr. 61] .

[4] Requirement of Prior Favorable Determination

[a] In General

If the hospital or professional organization informed the physician of its reasons for excluding him or her from membership and of his or her right to respond, the institution's action will be considered proper for purposes of an action by the physician for damages unless the determination has been set aside in an appropriate judicial review proceeding [Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 483, 484, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410] . Thus, a physician seeking damages for exclusion or expulsion from membership must ordinarily pursue a successful mandamus action or action for injunction to have the exclusion or expulsion set aside before initiating the tort action. This prior action need not actually result in an order compelling the affected institution to admit or reinstate the physician. Thus, for instance, an order compelling the institution to grant a proper hearing will remove the presumption that the institution's determination was proper and enable the physician to pursue his or her tort action without further delay [Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 484, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410 ; see discussion under § 416.16[5]]. When a physician has filed an action for damages without first satisfying the requirement of having the hospital's action set aside on review, the complaint in such an action could conceivably be treated as a petition for mandamus to review the hospital's action [Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 484, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410 (dictum); see § 416.16[5]].

[b] Prior Favorable Determination Not Required When Basic Due Process Denied

When the institution denies the physician the basic procedural protection to which he or she is entitled in making the determination to exclude or expel, the physician need not first seek to have the determination set aside, but may immediately initiate an action for damages. Denial by a hospital of a physician's application for membership without either informing the physician of the reasons for its action or notifying the physician of a right to respond to charges against him or her constitutes a denial of basic procedural protection that discharges the requirement that the determination be judicially set aside before the physician may sue for damages [Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 478, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410] . However, the Westlake court also suggested in dicta that in cases in which the hospital has failed to provide a proper hearing the physician must at least obtain a court order compelling the hospital to hold a proper hearing before he or she may proceed in tort [Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 484-485 n.9, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410 ; see § 416.17[4][a]]. Although it is not entirely clear from the case, it appears that whether a failure on the part of the hospital to provide proper procedural protections will excuse the prior favorable termination requirement for a subsequent tort action depends on whether the denial is sufficiently basic to deprive the hospital's action of its quasi-judicial character.

[5] Immunities From Tort Actions

[a] Qualified Immunity for Members of Staff or Committee

Civ. Code § 43.7(b) provides, in part, that there shall be no monetary liability on the part of, and no cause of action shall arise against any of the following types of committee or board members for any of the actions included in the list that follows, if such committee or board member acts without malice, has made a reasonable effort to obtain the facts of the matter as to which he or she acts, and acts in the reasonable belief that the action taken by him or her is warranted by the facts known to him or her after such reasonable effort to obtain the facts [see Civ. Code § 43.7(b)]:

- Any professional society, any member of a duly appointed committee of a medical specialty society, any member of a duly appointed committee of a state or local professional society, or any duly appointed member of a committee of a professional staff of a licensed hospital (provided that the staff operates pursuant to written bylaws that have been approved by the governing board of the hospital), for any act or proceeding undertaken or performed within the scope of the functions of any such committee that is formed to maintain the professional standards of the society established by its bylaws, or

- Any member of any peer review committee composed chiefly of physicians and surgeons whose purpose is to review the quality of medical services rendered by physicians and surgeons, for any act or proceeding undertaken or performed in reviewing the quality of medical services rendered by physicians and surgeons, or

- Any member of the governing board of a hospital in reviewing the quality of medical services rendered by its staff members.

"Medical specialty society" as the term is used in Civ. Code § 43.7(b) means an organization having as members at least 25 percent of the eligible physicians within a given professionally recognized medical specialty in the geographic area served by the particular society. "Professional society" as the term is used in Civ. Code § 43.7(b) includes medical organizations having as members at least 25 percent of the eligible persons or licentiates in the geographic area served by the particular society or, if the society has less than 100 members, having as members at least a majority of the eligible persons or licentiates in the geographic area served [Civ. Code § 43.7(b)]. Civ. Code § 43.7(b) may not be construed to confer immunity from liability on any quality assurance committee established in compliance with Welf. & Inst. Code § 4070 or hospital [Civ. Code § 43.7(e); Axline v. St. John's Hospital & Health Center (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 907, 913, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 385] . The immunities afforded by Civ. Code § 43.7 do not affect the availability of an absolute privilege that may be afforded by Civ. Code § 47 (discussed under § 416.17[6]) [Civ. Code § 43.8]. In addition to the absolute immunity set out in Civ. Code § 43.7(b), a qualified immunity for members of professional society committees formed to maintain established professional standards of the society is set out in [Civ. Code § 43.91]. When the institution has failed to provide the accused physician with a hearing, particularly when the insititution's bylaws called for such a hearing, and made no real effort to investigate the accused pysician's qualifications for membership, questions of fact may be raised as to whether the qualified privilege set out in Civ. Code § 43.7 may be lost because the individuals protected by the privilege were not acting pursuant to written bylaws or without malice, and had not made reasonable efforts to ascertain the facts [Ascherman v. San Francisco Medical Society (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 623, 663, 114 Cal. Rptr. 681 (Ascherman I)].

The qualified immunity conferred on those charged with the investigation of the competence of applicants for membership and of existing members of a hospital staff furthers the interest of the public and hospitals in having competent physicians and surgeons on the hospital staff. Therefore, for example, a physician acting as a proctor during surgery is not liable for failing to intervene in an operation in which a patient suffers injuries as a result of the negligence of the surgeons [Clarke v. Hoek (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 208, 220-221, 219 Cal. Rptr. 845 ; see Ch. 295, Hospitals , Ch. 380, Negligence].

[b] Qualified Immunity for Professional Society

Civ. Code § 43.7(b) provides for qualified immunity for professional societies in the same terms and under the same conditions as those set out in that statute for qualified immunity for staff or committee members. See the discussion under § 416.17[5][a].

[6] Privileged Communications

Under Civ. Code § 47(b), a privileged publication includes a publication made, inter alia, in the initiation or course of any proceeding authorized by law and reviewable pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1084-1097 (mandate) [Civ. Code § 47(b)]. Since proceedings by a hospital or professional organization concerning membership are reviewable under mandamus proceedings, the privilege set out in Civ. Code § 47(b) applies to such proceedings [see Long v. Pinto (1981) 126 Cal. App. 3d 946, 950, 179 Cal. Rptr. 182 ; see also Slaughter v. Friedman (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 149, 156, 185 Cal. Rptr. 244, 649 P.2d 886 (former clause 4 as perhaps added to Civ. Code § 47(b) to abrogate prior case law holding absolute privilege not applicable to private hospital proceedings under previously exisitng language of Code Civ. Proc. § 47(b); Dorn v. Mendelzon (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 933, 941-943, 242 Cal. Rptr. 259] . For a discussion of the appropriateness of mandate proceedings to provide judicial review of membership determinations by hospitals and professional associations, see discussion under § 416.16[3].

The absolute privilege set out in Civ. Code § 47(b) does not apply to any actions taken by the hospital or its staff members, and therefore does not insulate individual staff members from liability for the membership determination itself [Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 482, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410] . The privilege also does not apply to a communication made in a judicial proceeding knowingly concealing the existence of an insurance policy [Civ. Code § 47(b)(3)].

The privilege applies to a communication concerning job performance or qualifications of an applicant for employment, based on credible evidence, and made without malice, by a current or former employer of the applicant to, and at the request of, a prospective employer, provided that the communication does not relate to constitutionally protected speech or other activity, or protected acts relating to labor disputes [Civ. Code § 47(c); see Code Civ. Proc. § 527.3].

Civ. Code § 47(c) grants a privilege to any publication or broadcast made, without malice, to a person interested therein (1) by one who is also interested, or (2) by one who stands in such relation to the person interested as to afford a reasonable ground for supposing the motive for the communication innocent, or (3) who is requested by the person interested to give such information [see Dorn v. Mendelzon (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 933, 941-943, 242 Cal. Rptr. 259 (communication concerning physician'spersonnel records made by administrator of hospital at which physician had previously worked to another hospital, pursuant to its request, interested in assessing qualifications and fitness of physician as proposed staff member)].

In addition to the privilege afforded by Civ. Code § 47 (discussed above), there is no monetary liability on the part of, and no cause of action for damages may arise against, any person or professional society on account of the communication of information in the possession of the person or professional society to any hospital, hospital medical staff, or professional society when such communication is intended to aid in the evaluation of the qualification, fitness, character, or insurability of a practitioner of the healing arts. The immunities afforded by Civ. Code § 43.8 do not affect the availability of any absolute privilege that may be afforded by Civ. Code § 47 (discussed above) [Civ. Code § 43.8; see Dorn v. Mendelzon (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 933, 943-944, 242 Cal. Rptr. 259 ; see also Civ. Code § 43.91(b) (qualified immunity for communication of information intended to aid in evaluation of qualification, fitness or character of member or applicant to member of professional society committee)].

[7] Statute of Limitations

An action for damages for intentional interference with the right to practice medicine is an action on a property right, and is therefore governed by the two year statute of limitations set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 339(1) [Edwards v. Fresno Community Hosp. (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 702, 705, 706, 113 Cal. Rptr. 579] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJusticiabilityExhaustion of RemediesGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime LimitationsHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersDoctors & PhysiciansHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationHospital PrivilegesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationJudicial ReviewGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationPeer ReviewGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationPeer ReviewOrganizationsLabor & Employment LawWrongful TerminationRemediesReinstatement

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 416 PHYSICIANS: MEMBERSHIP ON HOSPITAL STAFFS OR IN PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

36-416 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 416.18

§ 416.18 Exculpatory Clause Not Enforceable

An exculpatory clause in an institution's bylaws purporting to provide that a member or applicant waives his or her rights to personal redress is contrary to public policy and unenforceable [Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 480, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsExculpatory ClausesHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationHospital PrivilegesJudicial ReviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationHospital PrivilegesProfessional ReviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationHospital PrivilegesRestrictionsTortsNegligenceDefensesExculpatory ClausesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 416 PHYSICIANS: MEMBERSHIP ON HOSPITAL STAFFS OR IN PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

36-416 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 416.19

§ 416.19 Antitrust Liability for Interference With Right to Practice Medicine

Because trade or commerce within the meaning of the Cartwright Act includes professions, a physician may recover damages under Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 16700-16770 for unlawful restraint of his or her right to practice medicine [Cianci v. Superior Court (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 903, 916-925, 221 Cal. Rptr. 575, 710 P.2d 375 , overruling Willis v. Santa Ana etc. Hospital Assn. (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 806, 809-810, 26 Cal. Rptr. 640, 376 P.2d 568] . The type of activity prohibited by the Cartwright Act includes agreements not to make referrals or exclusion of a physician from a local corporateclinic that effectively prevent the excluded physician from practicing medicine in a local market [see Cianci v. Superior Court (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 903, 221 Cal. Rptr. 575, 710 P.2d 375] . However, if the basis of the Cartwright claim is a quasi-judicial decision, such as the decision of a review committee to deny hospital privileges, the state antitrust action is barred unless and until the quasi-judicial decision has been overturned by the grant of a writ of mandate [Mir v. Little Co. of Mary Hosp. (9th Cir. 1988) 844 F.2d 646, 651 (considering pendent state claim, and relying on Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 484, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410)].

If there is a sufficient nexus between the local activity and interstate commerce, a federal antitrust claim may be stated [McLain v. Real Estate Bd. of New Orleans, Inc. (1980) 444 U.S. 232, 242, 100 S. Ct. 502, 62 L. Ed. 2d 441 ; Pinhas v. Summit Health, Ltd. (9th Cir. 1989) 894 F.2d 1024, 1031-1033 , aff'd, 500 U.S. 322, 111 S. Ct. 1842, 114 L. Ed. 2d 366, 376-377 (1991) ; see Mitchell v. Frank R. Howard Memorial Hosp. (1989) 853 F.2d 762, 764-766 (factors necessary to establish interstate impact); see also Mir v. Little Co. of Mary Hosp. (9th Cir. 1988) 844 F.2d 646, 649-650 (four-year limitation period for federal antitrust claim as not tolled during pendency of state court action for mandate, injunction, and damages)].

Use of the peer-review process to prevent a physician from competing in a particular market may also give rise to antitrust liability on the part of the physicians initiating and taking part in the process [Patrick v. Burget (1988) 486 U.S. 94, 104-106, 108 S. Ct. 1658, 100 L. Ed. 2d 83 ; Pinhas v. Summit Health, Ltd. (9th Cir. 1989) 894 F.2d 1024, 1031-1033 , aff'd on other grounds, 500 U.S. 322, 111 S. Ct. 1842, 114 L. Ed. 2d 366, 376-377 (1991)] . However, federal law immunizes peer-review action taken in the reasonable belief that it was in the furtherance of quality health care [42 U.S.C.S. § 11112(a); see Patrick v. Burget (1988) 486 U.S. 94, 105 n.8, 108 S. Ct. 1658, 100 L. Ed. 2d 83 (considering Oregon peer-review statutes; actions complained of occurred before enactment of 42 U.S.C.S. § 11112(a), but also consisted of anticompetitive behavior in addition to peer review)]. The Health Care Quality Improvement Act (42 U.S.C.S. §§ 11101-11152; hereinafter "HCQIA") became effective on November 14, 1986. Any "injury" caused by a peer review investigation for purposes of modifying a physician's staff privileges is in the action taken in light of the investigation [see 42 U.S.C.S. § 11151(10)(c)]. If the action is immune, any claims based on the investigation from which it derives are also immune [Austin v. McNamara (9th Cir. 1992) 979 F.2d 728, 737] . In Austin, the plaintiff's staff privileges were summarily suspended three days after HCQIA became effective, based on results of an investigation completed several months before, that had recommended only a 6-month monitoring. The action was held immunized [Austin v. McNamara (9th Cir. 1992) 979 F.2d 728, 737] . A simiar standard would immunize peer-review actions from liability under the Cartwright Act [see Civ. Code § 43.7 (discussedunder § 416.17[5][a]); see also 42 U.S.C.S. § 11115(a) (preserving other immunities)].

Restraints of trade are discussed in Ch. 565, Unfair Competition .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawAntitrust ActionsPhysiciansHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationHospital PrivilegesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationHospital PrivilegesProfessional ReviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationPeer ReviewGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationPeer ReviewStatutes

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 416 PHYSICIANS: MEMBERSHIP ON HOSPITAL STAFFS OR IN PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

36-416 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 416.40

§ 416.40 Related Matthew Bender Publications

For memoranda of points and authorities for use in actions involving deprivation of membership in associations and clubs, see California Points and Authorities, ch. 22, Associations and Clubs

For memoranda of points and authorities for use in actions for injunctive relief, see California Points and Authorities, ch. 116, Injunctions

For memoranda of points and authorities for use in mandate proceedings, see California Points and Authorities, ch. 150, Mandate and Prohibition (Matthew Bender)

For memoranda of points and authorities for use in administrative mandate proceedings, see California Points and Authorities, ch. 195, Public Administrative Law (Matthew Bender)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 416 PHYSICIANS: MEMBERSHIP ON HOSPITAL STAFFS OR IN PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

36-416 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 416.41

§ 416.41 State Statutes

[1] Grounds for Exclusion or Expulsion

Licensed health facility rules and regulations as prohibited from discriminating on basis of whether staff member holds M.D. (allopathic medicine), D.O. (osteopathy) or D.P.M. (podiatry) degree, within scope of staff member's licensure. Health & Safety Code § 1316(a)

Licensed health facility as permitted to require every staff member to carry professional liability insurance. Health & Safety Code § 1319 (abrogating prior case law to contrary)

[2] Immunities

Qualified immunity from monetary liability of members of professional or specialty society, hospital staff, or peer review committee. Civ. Code § 43.7(b)

Qualified immunity for communication of information evaluating practitioner of healing arts. Civ. Code § 43.8

Immunity from defamation actions for publications made in quasi-judicial proceedings. Civ. Code § 47(b)

Immunity from liability for communication made without malice to interested person (1) by one who is also interested, or (2) by one who stands in such relation to person interested as to afford reasonable ground for supposing motive for communication innocent, or (3) who is requested by person interested to give information. Civ. Code § 47(c)

[3] Mandate Action

Administrative mandate procedure. Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5

Standard of judicial review of administrative decisions by hospital boards. Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(d)

[4] Public Hospitals

[a] Generally

Creation and administration of public hospitals. Health & Safety Code §§ 32000-32492

[b] Procedural Requirements for Membership Determinations

Hearing required to make final decision on public hospital's membership determination. Health & Safety Code §§ 32150, 32155

Subpoena power of public hospital review board or hearing officer in staff membership hearing. Health & Safety Code § 32154

[c] Rules and Standards

Authorizations for public hospitals to set out rules and standards. Health & Safety Code § 32128

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationJudicial ReviewGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationPeer ReviewGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationPeer ReviewOrganizationsHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationPeer ReviewStatutes

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 416 PHYSICIANS: MEMBERSHIP ON HOSPITAL STAFFS OR IN PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

36-416 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 416.42

§ 416.42 Decisions

[1] Antitrust

Statute requiring hospitals to maintain peer-review system does not involve sufficiently active state supervision to confer state action immunity from federal antitrust liability on physician participants who used review process to reduce competition from plaintiff; state court review of hospital committee's decision as falling far short of satisfying active supervision requirement. Patrick v. Burget (1988) 486 U.S. 94, 104-106, 108 S. Ct. 1658, 100 L. Ed. 2d 83 (Oregon statute) ; Pinhas v. Summit Health, Ltd. (9th Cir. 1989) 894 F.2d 1024, 1028-1030 , aff'd on other grounds, 500 U.S. 322, 111 S. Ct. 1842, 114 L. Ed. 2d 366, 376-377 (1991) (Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 805, 2001-2006; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1094.5)

Physician seeking to state federal antitrust cause of action was not required to prove that absence of his or her services would have drastic effect on interstate commerce, but only that peer-review proceedings affect entire staff and thus hospital's interstate commerce. Pinhas v. Summit Health, Ltd. (9th Cir. 1989) 894 F.2d 1024, 1032 , aff'd, 500 U.S. 322, 111 S. Ct. 1842, 114 L. Ed. 2d 366, 376-377 (1991)

Physicians' "refusal to cover" for other staff and alleged public attacks was insufficient to state cause of action for conspiracy to restrain trade [15 U.S.C.S. § 1]; even if acts did state claim for conspiracy, standard for determining violation as rule of reason, not "per se" rule. Austin v. McNamara (9th Cir. 1992) 979 F.2d 728, 738

Physicians' "refusal to cover" for other staff and alleged public attacks on plaintiff amounted only to limited and informal restraint against single competitor in single hospital and did not cause any injury to competition, which is required to state claim under §§ 1 and 2 of Sherman Act [15 U.S.C.S. § 1 (restraint of trade); maintenance of monopoly over neurosurgical practice in Santa Barbara]. Austin v. McNamara (9th Cir. 1992) 979 F.2d 728, 739

Physician's claim for violation of § 2 of Sherman Act [15 U.S.C.S. § 2] by maintaining monopoly over neurosurgical practice in Santa Barbara is insufficient if based only on defendants' "refusal to cover" for plaintiff and alleged public attacks on plaintiff, because acts caused no injury to competition. Austin v. McNamara (9th Cir. 1992) 979 F.2d 728, 739

If basis of Cartwright claim is quasi-judicial decision, such as decision of review committee to deny hospital privileges, state antitrust action is barred unless and until quasi-judicial decision has been overturned by grant of writ of mandate. Mir v. Little Co. of Mary Hosp. (9th Cir. 1988) 844 F.2d 646, 651 (considering pendent state claim); Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 484, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410

Trade or commerce within meaning of Cartwright Act includes professions; thus, physician may recover under Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 16700-16770 for unlawful restraint of his or her right to practice medicine. Cianci v. Superior Court (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 903, 916-925, 221 Cal. Rptr. 575, 710 P.2d 375 (overruling Willis v. Santa Ana etc. Hospital Assn. (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 806, 809-810, 26 Cal. Rptr. 640, 376 P.2d 568)

[2] Arbitrary Deprivation of Membership Prohibited

[a] Basis of Common Law Right to Procedural Fairness

Common law fair procedure requirement as applying to private as well as public hospitals. Miller v. Eisenhower Medical Center (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 614, 626-627, 166 Cal. Rptr. 826, 614 P.2d 258 (applying requirement to private hospitals, but stating that in applying fair procedure requirement, court was not holding that rules for staff admission to public hospitals apply equally to private hospitals); Wyatt v. Tahoe Forest Hospital Dist. (1959) 174 Cal. App. 2d 709, 714, 345 P.2d 93 (public hospitals)

Dismissal by private hospital from residency that is prerequisite for entrance into specialty as coming under common law fair procedure requirement; but requirement as not extended to denial of an application for a private hospital residency. Ezekial v. Winkley (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 267, 272-274, 142 Cal. Rptr. 418, 572 P.2d 32

Hospital staffs and professional associations as required to comply with common law principles of fair procedure in rendering decisions concerning membership rights of physicians when denial of such membership rights would impair physician's right to fully practice profession. Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Soc. of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 550, 554, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II); Ascherman v. Saint Francis Memorial Hosp. (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 507, 511512, 119 Cal. Rptr. 507 (Ascherman II)

Requirements of common law fair procedure apply to cases involving membership decisions by professional societies when association has fiduciary responsibility by virtue of important public role. Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 549, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II)

[b] Right to Fully Practice Profession

Life insurance company-managed care provider may not delist physician from networks of health care providers without providing fair procedure, since managed care provider controls substantial economic interest affecting physician. Ambrosino v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. (N.D. Cal. 1995) 899 F. Supp. 438

Impairment of physician's right to fully practice his profession is understood in terms of impairment of a substantial economic interest. Ezekial v. Winkley (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 267, 272, 142 Cal. Rptr. 418, 572 P.2d 32

Fact that denial of membership would effectively preclude physician from either entering or realizing full potential achievement and recognition in specialty establishes interest in membership. Ezekial v. Winkley (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 267, 272-278, 142 Cal. Rptr. 418, 572 P.2d 32 ; Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 160, 166, 81 Cal. Rptr. 623, 460 P.2d 495 (Pinsker I)

Deprivation of physician's right to membership in private organization without adhering to requirements of common law fair procedure is improper when deprivation impairs physician's right to fully practice profession. Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 554, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II)

Showing that membership is economically necessary for physician, or even that denial of membership will deprive the physician of an opportunity to make good living, is not necessary to establish physician's protected interest when physician will not be able to realize maximum potential achievement and recognition in field of practice if membership is denied. Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 160, 166, 81 Cal. Rptr. 623, 460 P.2d 495 (Pinsker I)

Depriviation of right to fully practice medicine was shown despite fact that physician had staff privileges at other hospitals and made no showing of substantial, significant, or irreparable injury to practice resulting from denial of application for membership. Ascherman v. Saint Francis Memorial Hosp. (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 507, 509, 511, 119 Cal. Rptr. 507 (Ascherman II)

Mere existence of other hospitals where physician may practice is not necessarily sufficient to prevent impairment of a substantial economic interest with advent of comprehensive health planning. Ascherman v. Saint Francis Memorial Hospital (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 507, 509, 511, 119 Cal. Rptr. 507 (Ascherman II)

Showing that hospital or professional organization has monopoly power over professional opportunities is not necessary to establish interest in membership. Ascherman v. San Francisco Medical Society (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 623, 650, 114 Cal. Rptr. 681 (Ascherman I)

[c] Substantive and Procedural Aspects of Common Law Procedural Fairness

Common law procedural fairness requirement imposed on hospitals and private organizations involved with public interest entails two separaterequirements: (1) procedure by which adverse membership decision was arrived at be fair, and (2) decision to exclude or expel a physician be substantively rational and based on cause. Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 550, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II) (procedural fairness); Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 160, 166, 81 Cal. Rptr. 623, 460 P.2d 495 (Pinsker I) (substantive cause for rejection)

Trial court erroneously denied physician's petition for writ of mandate to set aside revocation of staff membership and clinical privileges at hospital, where presiding officer at fair hearing had fatal appearance of bias caused by financial conflict of interest resulting from long-standing and continuous relationship with hospital, even though he did not serve as fact finder, participate in deliberations, or issue decision recommending action by administrative board, because, as permitted in bylaws, he provided key rulings on admissibility of evidence and access to information and ruled on challenge to his own appointment as hearing officer, which was upheld by board itself. However, hearing panel which rendered decision was not improperly constituted because its members had all served on hearing panel in physician's suspension proceeding, because all panel members were subjected to voir dire and were confident in their ability to decide revocation issue fairly and independently of previous decision, even if physician had challenged practicability and fairness of that decision, and absent additional evidence that panel members could not be impartial, their service in prior matter did not, standing alone, disqualify them from participating in proceeding. Yaqub v. Salinas Valley Memorial Healthcare System (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 474, 483-486, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 780

Physicians not entitled to due process prior to termination of their medical staff privileges, where hospital's policy decision to change system of delivery of certain services from open staff system to closed system with exclusive provider was quasi-legislative and not adjudicative. Major v. Memorial Hospitals Association (1999) 71 Cal. App. 4th 1380, 1399-1411, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 510 (systemic and organization problems associated with anesthesiology department motivated closure, rather than intent to specifically exclude any particular physician or group of physicians)

Hospital's primary duty is to its patients to ensure competence of its medical staff and, therefore, hospital is free to establish and enforce selection and review procedures so long as they do not result in arbitrary or discriminatory practices. Rhee v. El Camino Hospital Dist. (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 477, 489, 501, 247 Cal. Rptr. 244

Violation of hospital's bylaws concerning physician discipline is not denial of due process unless violation in some way deprived physician of adequate notice or opportunity to be heard before impartial judges. Rhee v. El Camino Hospital Dist. (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 477, 497, 247 Cal. Rptr. 244

[3] Damages for Intentional Interference With Right to Practice Profession

[a] In General

Action for intentional interference with right to practice lawful profession by unlawful means or by lawful means absent sufficient justification. Willis v. Santa Ana Community Hospital Asso. (1962) 26 Cal. Rptr. 640, 376 P.2d 568

Existence of justification for purposes of action for intentional interference with right to practice lawful calling is determined by balancing importance to society and party of activity interfered with against importance of permitting interference; determination is not made by applying precise standards. Willis v. Santa Ana etc. Hospital Assn. (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 806, 810, 26 Cal. Rptr. 640, 376 P.2d 568

Allegation stating that defendants denied physician of highest qualifications access to hospital as result of conspiracy designed to restrain competition and deprive physician of practice in order to benefit competing members of conspiracy stated valid cause of action for intentional interference with right to pursue lawful profession. Willis v. Santa Ana etc. Hospital Assn. (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 806, 810, 26 Cal. Rptr. 640, 376 P.2d 568

Trial court properly granted hospital's motion for summary judgment that no triable issues of fact existed as to physician's cause of action for intentional interference with practice of profession based on hospital's failure to grant him staff privileges in cardiology, where evidence did not support conclusion that hospital failed to deal with physician's application for staff membership in fair, good faith manner, where there was no evidence of conspiracy intended to interfere with plaintiff's right to practice his profession, and where there was no evidence of actual interference with physician's right or ability to pursue his profession. O'Byrne v. Santa Monica-UCLA Medical Center (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 797, 812-814, 114 Cal. Rptr. 2d 575

[b] Immunities From Tort Actions

[i] Qualified Immunity for Members of Staff or Committee

Civ. Code § 43.8 affords qualified privilege to any communication of information intended to aid in evaluating physician's qualifications, character, and fitness to institutions such as hospitals and peer-review committees who have strong interest in receiving such information. Dorn v. Mendelzon (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 933, 943-944, 242 Cal. Rptr. 259

Fact questions as to whether qualified privilege for staff and governing board members set out in Civ. Code § 43.7 may have been lost because individuals protected by privilege were not acting pursuant to written bylaws or without malice, and had not made reasonable efforts to ascertain facts, presented when institution failed to provide accused physician with a hearing as provided for by bylaws and made no real effort to investigate accused physician's qualifications for membership. Ascherman v. San Francisco Medical Society (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 623, 663, 114 Cal. Rptr. 681 (

Ascherman I)

[ii] Privileged Communications

Absolute privilege to commit libel or slander in official proceeding set out in former Civ Code § 47(2) (now see Civ. Code § 47(b)) is limited to statements and communications not applying to actions taken by hospital inquasi-judicial proceedings. Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 482, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410

Privilege conferred by former Civ. Code § 47(2) (now see Civ. Code § 47(b)) is absolute and unaffected by existence of malice. Dorn v. Mendelzon (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 933, 941, 242 Cal. Rptr. 259

Any publication in connection with Board of Medical Quality Assurance proceedings is clothed with absolute privilege set forth in former Civ. Code § 47(2) (now see Civ. Code § 47(b)) as having been made in course of official proceeding, and proceedings are reviewable by writ of mandate. Dorn v. Mendelzon (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 933, 941, 242 Cal. Rptr. 259

Privilege conferred by former Civ. Code § 47(2) (now see Civ. Code § 47(b)) is not defeated by asserting different tort theory to libel or slander based on same protected communication. Dorn v. Mendelzon (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 933, 943, 242 Cal. Rptr. 259

[iii] Malice

Once qualified privilege is shown to be applicable, plaintiff in defamation action has burden or producing evidence of malice. Dorn v. Mendelzon (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 933, 944, 242 Cal. Rptr. 259

Malice is established by showing that publication was motivated by hatred or ill will towards plaintiff or by showing that defendant lacked reasonable grounds for belief in truth of publication and therefore acted in reckless disregard of plaintiff's rights. Dorn v. Mendelzon (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 933, 945, 242 Cal. Rptr. 259

[c] Justification of Interference

Interference with physician's right to practice medicine does not give rise to liability, even though intentional, if interference is reasonable and justified. Letsch v. Northern San Diego County Hosp. Dist. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 673, 677, 55 Cal. Rptr. 118

Hospital's determination to operate radiology department on closed staff basis, thereby depriving physicians who had no exclusive contract with hospital of right to use hospital's radiology facilities, is reasonable and therefore does not give rise to liability on part of hospital. Letsch v. Northern San Diego County Hosp. Dist. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 673, 677, 55 Cal. Rptr. 118

[d] Requirement of Exhaustion of Internal Remedies

Physicians who sought consolidated hearing, rather than separate hearings, to contest recommendation of medical executive committee of hospital to terminate their clinical privileges and medical staff membership, failed to exhaust internal remedies when bylaws of medical executive committee provided for appeal to hospital board of directors if judicial review committee hearing did not go in physicians' favor, physicians did not make such an appeal, and physicians failed to demonstrate likelihood of irreparable harm if separate hearings were held. Eight Unnamed Physicians v. Medical Executive Committee (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 503, 510-515, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 100

Requirement that physician exhaust available and adequate internal remedies before seeking relief in courts applies to actions for damages for interference with right to practice profession as well as actions to have the institution's membership decision set aside. Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 476-477, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410 (but requirement excused under facts); Bartschi v. Chico Community Memorial Hospital (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 502, 508, 187 Cal. Rptr. 61

Physician was entitled to seek an injunction to secure his statutory right to a pre-termination hearing under Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.1 et seq. without first pursuing hospital's internal remedy, which was post-termination hearing, because hospital's failure to afford him pre-termination hearing did not comply with § 809.1 et seq., which required hearing before his staff privileges were revoked. Sahlolbei v. Providence Healthcare, Inc. (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 1137, 1146-1155, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 598

[e] Requirement of Prior Favorable Determination

[i] In General

Order requiring hospital to reinstate wrongfully terminated member is not required for subsequent action for damages as long as hospital's decision to expel member has been set aside in appropriate judicial review proceeding. Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 484 n.9, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410 (dictum)

Setting aside of quasi-judicial action adverse to applicant or member by hospital on appropriate review by courts is prerequisite to action for damages for allegedly wrongful expulsion or exclusion. Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 484, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410

[ii] Prior Favorable Determination Not Required When Due Process Denied

Prior favorable termination of action to set aside defendant's adverse decision was not required for action seeking damages for allegedly wrongful dismissal from hospital staff when hospital took its action without stating reasons to aggrieved person and failed to inform aggrieved person of existing right to respond to charges. Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 478, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410

[f] Statute of Limitations

Damages action for intentional interference with right to practice medicine governed by two year statute of limitations set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 339(1), since right to practice profession is property right. Edwards v. Fresno Community Hosp. (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 702, 705, 706, 113 Cal. Rptr. 579

[4] Evidence

Although uncorroborated hearsay evidence, by itself, cannot support administrative finding, hearsay evidence together with other reliable evidence does so. Gill v. Mercy Hospital (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 889, 910, 245 Cal. Rptr. 304

Evidence admissible in administrative mandamus proceeding by doctor to reinstate his provisional nephrology privileges at private hospital. Bonner v. Sisters of Providence Corp. (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 437, 444, 239 Cal. Rptr. 530

In administrative mandamus proceeding by doctor to reinstate his provisional nephrology privileges at private hospital, trial court erred in admitting into evidence record of disciplinary proceedings by Board of Medical Quality Assurance, which determined that no cause for disciplinary action against doctor existed, because facts in dispute before trial court were whether doctor's patient care met standard required by hospital, whereas board's proceedings had not been concerned with doctor's ability to meet and maintain those standards; because administrative law judge conducting those proceedings did not hear same witnesses or have before him all evidence considered by hospital's committees, board's proceedings were irrelevant to issue of doctor's ability or fitness to comply with or meet hospital's standards for medical staff privileges and were therefore inadmissible. Bonner v. Sisters of Providence Corp. (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 437, 444, 446, 239 Cal. Rptr. 530

[5] Exculpatory Clause Not Enforceable

Exculpatory clause in hospital bylaws providing that each member or applicant waived right of personal redress violates public policy and therefore does not bar aggrieved person's access to courts. Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 480, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410

[6] Fair Procedure

[a] Exhaustion of Internal Remedies as Prerequisite

Physician need not exhaust administrative remedies against hospital when parties' dispute is resolved after commencement, but prior to completion, of administrative process through settlement awarding physician maximum benefit he or she could have been afforded administratively. Joel v. Valley Surgical Center (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 360, 369, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 247

"Futility" exception to exhaustion of remedies requirement is inapplicable if governing board has not taken position on physician's challenges to alleged procedural defects and factual disputes prevent resolution of challenges as matter of law. Bollengier v. Doctors Medical Center (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1115, 1130-1131, 272 Cal. Rptr. 273

Aggrieved person must exhaust internal remedies before seeking judicial relief. Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 476-477, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410 (but requirement excused under facts); Anton v. San Antonio Community Hospital (Anton II) (1982) 132 Cal. App. 3d 638, 648, 183 Cal. Rptr. 423

Association or hospital that failed to inform aggrieved person of existence of internal remedies barred from relying on failure to exhaust remedies in court action following decision to take adverse action. Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 478, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410

[b] Formal Procedures Not Needed

Common law fair hearing requirement of some meaningful opportunity to be heard in defense does not require formal proceedings, but places initial responsibility on hospital or professional organization to devise practical methods of providing notice and opportunity to defend; nature of tendered issue determines whether mere written response or appearance by aggrieved person and more extensive hearing required. Ezekial v. Winkley (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 267, 278-279, 142 Cal. Rptr. 418, 572 P.2d 32

Fair procedure in professional society action to exclude or expel does not compel procedures with formality of court trial, and minimum requirements depend on action contemplated and effect of action on the individual. Hackethal v.

California Medical Assn. (1982) 138 Cal. App. 3d 435, 442, 187 Cal. Rptr. 811

[c] Limited Right to Confront Accusers

Physician has no right to confront and cross examine persons who have made adverse statements of a physician unless they testify at hearing since hospital board has no subpoena power. Ascherman v. San Francisco Medical Society (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 623, 648, 114 Cal. Rptr. 681 (Ascherman I) (citing sister state case as persuasive dicta)

Board not permitted to rely on evidence not produced at hearing, or on ex parte communications not made known to the physician in making its decision. Ascherman v. San Francisco Medical Society (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 623, 648-649, 114 Cal. Rptr. 681 (Ascherman I) (citing sister state case as persuasive dicta)

[d] Notice and Hearing

Opportunity to be heard in defense is basic ingredient of fair procedure required under common law. Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 555, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II)

Statement of reasons for rejecting application for membership in association and opportunity to respond is not required if not sought by applicant; rejection permissible as long as association indicates it will provide reasons and opportunity to respond on request. Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 555 n. 13, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II)

Investigation of applicant's case and basing of denial of application on information disclosed by investigation, without affording applicant opportunity to respond, does not satisfy requirements of procedural fairness. Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d, 541 (Pinsker II)

Whether letter of rejection referring to items in applicant's application materials is reason for rejection fully satisfied requirement of proper notice with respect to inquiry at subsequent hearing regarding matters outside scope of matters stated in letter as doubtful. Miller v. Eisenhower Medical Center (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 614, 628, 632-634, 166 Cal. Rptr. 826, 614 P.2d 258

Fact that physician was able to present lengthy defense at hearing did not excuse hospital's failure to provide adequate notice of charges against physician. Rosenblit v. Superior Court (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1434, 1446, 282 Cal. Rptr. 819

Failure to give probationary physician formal notice of issue included in review committee's decision to deny hospital privileges did not violate due process when committee's finding on that issue was not necessary to its decision. Rhee v. El Camino Hospital Dist. (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 477, 487, 496-497, 247 Cal. Rptr. 244

Adequate notice of charges and reasonable opportunity to respond, to confront and cross examine accusers, to examine and refute evidence, and to present defense, is basic to due process and fair procedure in expulsion proceeding against member of professional medical society. Hackethal v. California Medical Assn. (1982) 138 Cal. App. 3d 435, 442, 187 Cal. Rptr. 811

[e] Right to Attorney at Board's Discretion

Whether counsel may attend the hearing and participate in proceedings is within discretion of hospital board. Anton v. San Antonio Community Hosp. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 802, 815-816 n.12, 827, 140 Cal. Rptr. 442, 567 P.2d 1162 (Anton I ) (holding abrogated on unrelated point by legislative enactment of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(d) in 1978)

Neither due process nor requirement of fair hearing is violated when hospital does not permit doctor to be represented by counsel at factual peer-review hearing. Gill v. Mercy Hospital (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 889, 901, 245 Cal. Rptr. 304 .

Purpose of peer-review process is to resolve intraprofessionally matters bearing on physician's competency and conduct; to this end, affected physician is entitled to be represented at peer-review committee meeting by another physician on medical staff or from local professional society; purpose of peer-review proceeding is to review highly technical documents and medical reports dealing with doctor's performance in area in which experts in same field can arrive at decision without controversial and contentious atmosphere that would likely be created by participation of attorneys. Gill v. Mercy Hospital (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 889, 902, 245 Cal. Rptr. 304

[f] Right to Copy Medical Records

Physician has right to make copies of medical records relating to those cases for which his or her professional judgment is at issue. Rosenblit v. Superior Court (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1434, 1446-1447, 282 Cal. Rptr. 819

[g] Substantial Evidence Requirement

Court declined to uphold hospital's adverse membership determination on basis of evidence brought up at administrative hearing but clearly outside main thrust of administrative inquiry, when main evidence on which determination was based was held inadequate to support determination. Miller v. Eisenhower Medical Center (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 614, 628, 634-635, 166 Cal. Rptr. 826, 614 P.2d 258

Basis of decision must come from substantial evidence produced at hearing. Ascherman v. San Francisco Medical Society (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 623, 648-649, 114 Cal. Rptr. 681 (Ascherman I) (citing sister state case as persuasive dicta)

[h] Hearing on Review No Substitute for Fair Procedure

Hearing on merits at trial reviewing association's decision does not cure failure by association to provide opportunity to be heard since trial judge lacks association's expertise and courts should not routinely undertake to interfere in internal affairs of private associations in first instance. Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 557, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II)

[7] Federal Civil Rights Claims

Claim for violation of 42 U.S.C.S. § 1983, 1985, or 1986 based on denial of hospital privileges by review committee was barred by res judicata effect of denial of petition for writ of mandate because same primary right was subject of both actions. Mir v. Little Co. of Mary Hosp. (9th Cir. 1988) 844 F.2d 646, 651-652

[8] Peer-Review Process

Trial court properly sustained health care service plan's demurrer to physician's action in contract and tort for damages against plan for allegedly wrongfully suspending him from its network of medical providers on grounds of medical incompetency, when physician concededly failed to exhaust administrative remedy under Bus. & Prof. Code § 809 et seq., but court erred in sustaining demurrer to cause of action for declaratory relief and should have treated it as petition requesting court to issue writ of mandate ordering plan to vacate its decision terminating physician's provider status for physician's alleged failure to cooperate with 809 hearing, and reinstate 809 proceedings. Lee v. Blue Shield of California (2007) 154 Cal. App. 4th 1369, 1376-1379, 65 Cal. Rptr. 3d 612

In action challenging hospital hearing officer's authority to suspend peer review proceedings that resulted in termination of physician's staff privileges, trial court properly denied physician's writ upholding hearing officer's authority under Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.2 and hospital's bylaws adding further detail to statutory procedures, where hearing officer's conclusion that he had power to suspend hearing based on physician's conduct was in line with relevant statutes and bylaws as interpreted by hospital's appellate review body, and his decision that rules permitted termination of hearing when practitioner was repeatedly disruptive, disdainful of hearing officer's authority, and flagrantly violated rules pertaining to discovery and documentary exhibits was not clearly erroneous or unreasonable, and was affirmed by appellate review body; and where hearing officer did not abuse his discretion in terminating hearing, because by time hearing officer imposed terminating sanction, less severe sanctions had already been tried and failed with respect to discovery and exhibits, hearing officer could not disregard physician's disdain for his authority forever or permit physician to continue to prolong proceedings unnecessarily. Mileikowsky v. Tenet Healthsystem (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 531, 557-566, 27 Cal. Rptr. 3d 171

Health Care Quality Improvement Act of 1986 (42 U.S.C.S. § 11111 et seq.), which establishes national clearing house of medical peer-review and malpractice information and provides qualified immunity from certain federal and state laws for peer-review actions taken in good faith, was inapplicable to peer-review hearing that occurred long before its effective date and was not intended to modify existing California peer-review hearing procedures. Gill v. Mercy Hospital (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 889, 903-904, 245 Cal. Rptr. 304

[9] Proceedings to Obtain Relief From Membership Decision

[a] Appropriate Actions to Obtain Judicial Review

Administrative mandamus, governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5, is proper procedure for seeking judicial review of adverse membership decision byhospital. Anton v. San Antonio Community Hosp. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 802, 813-817, 140 Cal. Rptr. 442, 567 P.2d 1162 (Anton I) (holding abrogated on unrelated point by legislative enactment of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(d) in 1978); Avol v. Hawthorne Community Hospital (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 101, 108-109 n. 4, 184 Cal. Rptr. 914

[b] Scope of Judicial Review of Institution's Rules

Scope of court's review in adjudicating challenge to society's rule or standard by which aggrieved person was rejected or excluded is arbitrary as limited to determination whether standard is reasonable, comports with legitimate goals of society and rights of individual and public, and is not contrary to established public policy. Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 558, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II)

Matters of policy involved in adoption of bylaws, code of ethics, and resolution in conformity with code of ethics are question for membership itself and not debatable in court absent showing that policy is in violation of law. Smith v. Kern County Medical Asso. (1942) 19 Cal. 2d 263, 270-271, 120 P.2d 874

Trial court's order to reinstate expelled member of professional medical society pending proper administrative hearing was based on proper inquiry as to whether there was prejudicial abuse of discretion by organization; trial court was allowed to examine record to determine whether errors of law were committed. Hackethal v. California Medical Assn. (1982) 138 Cal. App. 3d 435, 448, 187 Cal. Rptr. 811

[c] Standard of Review

Hospital board of directors applied correct standard under Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.05(a) in not accepting recommendation of hospital's medical executive committee (MEC) and in deciding to terminate physician's staff privileges, where according to Board, majority of MEC had not assessed cumulative or aggregate weight of evidence and failed to recognize entrenched hazards posed by physician to his patients and colleagues given overall pattern of his conduct, which determination fell within Board's delegated authority to protect patients and was entitled to deference, so that Board properly accorded great weight to actions of hearing committee and MEC under Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.05(a). Weinberg v. Cedars-Sinai Medical Center (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 1098, 1106-1112, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 6

In administrative mandamus proceeding by doctor to reinstate his provisional nephrology privileges at private hospital, standard of review of hospital's decisions by trial court under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(d) is substantial evidence test, and standard of review for appellate court is same; appellate court also reviews administrative record to determine whether its findings are supported by substantial evidence in light of whole record, its object being to ascertain whether trial court ruled correctly as matter of law. Bonner v. Sisters of Providence Corp. (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 437, 443-444, 239 Cal. Rptr. 530

Function of reviewing courts under substantial evidence test is not to resolve differences of medical judgment. Bonner v. Sisters of Providence Corp. (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 437, 447, 239 Cal. Rptr. 530

Substantial evidence test of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(d) applied to judicial review of hospital board's denial of physician's application for hospital privileges; decision did not affect fundamental vested right because license to practice was unaffected, plaintiff retained full rights and privileges to practice medicine, and plaintiff's right to practice at hospital not vested. Smith v. Vallejo General Hospital (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 450, 455, 216 Cal. Rptr. 189

Trial court review of hospital administrative hearing in which hospital privileges of physician were suspended required application of substantial evidence test, in which administrative decision will be upheld unless, viewed in light of entire record, decision was so lacking in evidentiary support as to render it unreasonable. Cipriotti v. Board of Directors (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 144, 155, 196 Cal. Rptr. 367

[d] Statute of Limitations

Proceeding in administrative mandamus by doctor to reinstate his provisional nephrology privileges at private hospital was governed by four-year period of limitation set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 343, governing actions not otherwise provided, and not three-year period set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 338(1) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 338(a)), governing actions on liability created by statute. Bonner v. Sisters of Providence Corp. (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 437, 441-443, 239 Cal. Rptr. 530

[e] Types of Relief Available

Code Civ. Proc. § 425.16 procedure for striking complaints in harassing lawsuits commonly known as SLAPP suits (strategic lawsuits against public participation), which are brought to challenge exercise of constitutionally protected free speech rights, was available in lawsuit brought by hospital staff physician arising out of disciplinary recommendation by hospital's peer review committee under Bus. & Prof. Code § 809 et seq. Thus, hospital was entitled under Code Civ. Proc. § 425.16(e)(2) to file its special motion to strike physician's complaint as SLAPP suit. Kibler v. N. Inyo County Local Hosp. Dist. (2006) 39 Cal. 4th 192, 197-203, 46 Cal. Rptr. 3d 41, 138 P.3d 193

Case was properly remanded to hospital for redetermination of decision to deny application for staff membership when main evidence considered by hospital did not support determination and real doubt existed as to whether hospital would have made determination to deny application on some peripheral evidence that was also presented. Miller v. Eisenhower Medical Center (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 614, 628, 634-635, 166 Cal. Rptr. 826, 614 P.2d 258

Judicial finding that hearing has been improperly denied in membership decision entitles aggrieved applicant only to order that proper hearing be held, and not to order compelling immediate admission to membership. Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 557 n. 17, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II)

Court remanded case for redetermination of penalty of expulsion when findings of seven separate rules violations by physician were reduced to two in course of review and appeal process, and association had imposed only one penalty for allseven violations. Bernstein v. Alameda etc., Med. Assn. (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 241, 252-253, 293 P.2d 862

[10] Substantive Rationality

[a] General Requirement That Rules Be Substantively Reasonable

[i] In General

Expulsion or exclusion from public or private hospital staff cannot rest on rule that is substantively capricious, contrary to public policy, or unreasonablysusceptible of arbitrary or discriminatory application. Miller v. Eisenhower Medical Center (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 614, 626, 627, 166 Cal. Rptr. 826, 614 P.2d 258

Hospital's restriction of clinical privileges to physicians with high level of training was not substantively irrational, notwithstanding fact that other hospitals granted similar privileges to physicians with less training; physician's demonstrated competency did not guarantee clinical privileges. Hay v. Scripps Memorial Hospital (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 753, 761-762, 228 Cal. Rptr. 413

Hospital's requirement that applicant for staff membership submit three letters of recommendation from current staff members is substantively unreasonable. Ascherman v. Saint Francis Memorial Hosp. (Ascherman II) (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 507, 509, 512-514, 119 Cal. Rptr. 507

Operation of closed staff for hospital's radiology department is both reasonable and within authority of public hospital district pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 32121(i) (granting broad powers to public hospital districts in running of health care facilities). Letsch v. Northern San Diego County Hosp. Dist. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 673, 677, 55 Cal. Rptr. 118

Violation of local medical society rule proscribing continued practice at specific hospital justifies expulsion. Smith v. Kern County Medical Asso. (1942) 19 Cal. 2d 263, 266, 269-270, 120 P.2d 874

[ii] Rules That Are Contrary to Public Policy

Hospital's restriction of clinical privileges to physicians with high level of training was not violative of public policy, despite fact that other hospitals granted similar privileges to physicians with less training; physician's demonstrated competency did not guarantee clinical privileges. Hay v. Scripps Memorial Hospital (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 753, 761-762, 228 Cal. Rptr. 413

Canon of American Medical Society's code of ethics that proscribed criticism by physician of diagnosis of another physician is unenforceable as contrary to public policy if applied to comments made in affidavit filed in official judicial proceeding, since affidavit was privileged statement under former Civ Code § 47(2) (now see Civ. Code § 47(b))

(absolute privilege for statements made in official judicial proceeding). Bernstein v. Alameda etc. Med. Assn. (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 241, 246-247, 293 P.2d 862 (court construed rule not to apply to comments in affidavit)

[iii] Vague and Ambiguous Rules

Hospital districts are not permitted to adopt standards for exclusion of physicians from use of their hospitals that are so vague and ambiguous as to provide substantial danger of arbitrary discrimination in their application. Rosner v. Eden Township Hospital Dist. (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 592, 598, 25 Cal. Rptr. 551, 375 P.2d 431

Rule that only physicians whose background and training assures that patients receive best possible medical care is too vague and uncertain to be permissibly used as basis for exclusion of applicant from hospital staffprivileges. Wyatt v. Tahoe Forest Hospital Dist. (1959) 174 Cal. App. 2d 709, 715, 345 P.2d 93

Requirement for granting hospital staff privileges that is reasonable in itself may be impermissible as basis for excluding physician from privileges when couched in such vague and ambiguous terms that it sets out no adequate standards for application, and authorizes hospital to apply requirement in manner going beyond scope of reasonable basis for the requirement. Martino v. Concord Community Hosp. District (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 51, 58, 60, 43 Cal. Rptr. 255

[iv] Official Interpretation of Ambiguous Rule

Applicant for membership in professional society is not entitled to question society's interpretation of ambiguous rule when society provided timely and adequate explanation of rule. Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 559-560, 560 n. 19, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II)

[b] Requirement of Existing Cause

Exclusion of physician from staff of public hospital must be for existing cause; public hospital is not entitled to exclude physician with unrevoked license who is in good standing merely because of past misconduct that made physician subject to professional discipline. Wyatt v. Tahoe Forest Hospital Dist. (1959) 174 Cal. App. 2d 709, 714, 345 P.2d 93

[c] Right to Memership Subject to Reasonable Rules

Professional society may exclude licensed practitioner if practitioner fails to fulfill reasonable requirements of society. Kronen v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1965) 237 Cal. App. 2d 289, 305-307, 46 Cal. Rptr. 808

Right of associations to expel members is based on (1) violation of established rules of association that have been subscribed or assented to by members and that provide for expulsion as penalty or (2) conduct clearly violating the object of asociation, which would thwart those objects or bring association into disrepute if conduct were persisted in. Smith v. Kern County Medical Asso. (1942) 19 Cal. 2d 263, 270-271, 120 P.2d 874

Right to practice in hospital is subject to reasonable rules. Wyatt v. Tahoe Forest Hospital Dist. (1959) 174 Cal. App. 2d 709, 714, 345 P.2d 93

[d] Standards for Qualification or Competence

[i] In General

Expert supervisor's judgment as to resident's competence is entitled to great weight on judicial review of hospital's dismissal of resident. Ezekial v. Winkley (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 267, 278-279, 142 Cal. Rptr. 418, 572 P.2d 32

Professional associations may impose standards of qualification for membership higher than those imposed for obtaining a license to practice profession generally. Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 560, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II)

Association devoted to professional specialty may require applicant to have taken courses that concentrate on specialty in question. Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 560, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II)

So long as there is rational basis for requirements of medical staff of private hospital for clinical privileges, hospital may make its requirements as stringent as it deems reasonably necessary to assure adequate patient care. Bonner v. Sisters of Providence Corp. (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 437, 446, 239 Cal. Rptr. 530

Requiring applicant for staff membership in hospital to take examination as condition of acceptance is reasonable method of determining the applicant's competence, if requirement is not too vague. Martino v. Concord Community Hosp. District (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 51, 58, 60, 43 Cal. Rptr. 255

[ii] Ability to Work With Others as Necessary Qualification

Hospital bylaw requirement that staff member be able to work with others is substantively rational only when construed so that denial of staff membership to physician based on this rule would require showing that physician's inability to work with others presents real and substantial danger that patients treated by physician might receive other than high quality of medical care at hospital. Miller v. Eisenhower Medical Center (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 614, 628, 629, 166 Cal. Rptr. 826, 614 P.2d 258

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationDecisionsGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsEvidenceGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewReviewabilityExhaustion of RemediesAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewReviewabilityFactual DeterminationsCivil ProcedureJusticiabilityExhaustion of RemediesAdministrative RemediesContracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsExculpatory ClausesGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime LimitationsHealthcare LawAntitrust ActionsFacilitiesHealthcare LawAntitrust ActionsPhysiciansHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationEmployment DiscriminationHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationHospital PrivilegesJudicial ReviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationHospital PrivilegesProfessional ReviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationHospital PrivilegesRestrictionsHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationJudicial ReviewGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationJudicial ReviewSubstantial EvidenceHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationPeer ReviewGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationWrongful TerminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawWrongful TerminationDefensesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 416 PHYSICIANS: MEMBERSHIP ON HOSPITAL STAFFS OR IN PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

36-416 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 416.43

§ 416.43 Law Reviews

Note, Medical Staff Peer Review: Qualifying the Qualified Privilege Provision, 27 Loy. L.A. L. Rev. 357 (1993)

Note, California Civil Code Section 47(2): Do Remedies Exist for Those Injured by the Privilege? 18 Sw. U.L. Rev. 127 (1988)

Comment, Antitrust Implications of Medical Peer Review: Balancing the Competing Interests, 15 Pepperdine L. Rev. 111 (1987)

Comment, Anatomy of the Conflict Between Hospital Medical Staff Peer Review Confidentiality and Medical Malpractice Plaintiff Recovery: A Case for Legislative Amendment, 24 Santa Clara Law. 661 (1984)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawAntitrust ActionsFacilitiesHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationPeer ReviewGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 416 PHYSICIANS: MEMBERSHIP ON HOSPITAL STAFFS OR IN PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

36-416 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 416.60

§ 416.60 Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086] to Review Administrative Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5] of Health Care Facility or Professional Society to Revoke or Deny Membership Privileges

[1] FORM Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086] to Review Administrative Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5] of Health Care Facility or Professional Society to Revoke or Deny Membership Privileges

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Petitioner,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	PETITION FOR WRIT OF MANDATE
Respondent.	)
	)
	)

Petitioner respectfully represents:

1. Petitioner is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a physician and surgeon certified to practice in the state of California, and a resident of _____ County, California.

[EITHER, if petitioner seeks review of expulsion from membership]

2. Petitioner was until _____ [state date of expulsion] and at all other relevant times, a member of _____ [the staff of _____ (name of respondent health care facility) or respondent organization], which membership entitled petitioner to the following privileges: _____ [specify privileges included with membership].

[OR, if petitioner seeks review of denial of membership]

2. On or about _____ [date], petitioner applied to _____ [respondent health care facility or professional organization] for admission _____ [to its medical staff or as a member] in compliance with all of the requirements for such applications that are set out in respondent's bylaws. Petitioner meets all of the qualifications for admission.

[CONTINUE]

3. Respondent is a _____ [public health care district established under and subject to Sections 32000 through 32592 of the Health and Safety Code or private health care facility accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals or private professional association _____ (if appropriate, add facts concerning respondent's status in profession, e.g., that holds itself out to the public as the only source forvalid certification for practice in petitioner's specialty)], governed by _____ [title of bylaws], which were adopted by it and relevant portions of which are attached hereto as Exhibit _____. Respondent is located in _____ County, California.

4. Under the decisional law of this state, respondent has discretion to establish reasonable standards for determining whether or not a physician should be _____ [admitted to or expelled from] membership, and to determine the facts as to whether or not under these standards a ground exists for [denying an application for admission to membership (on its staff) or expelling a member (from its staff)] and particularly whether _____ [specify facts alleged by respondent on which decision to deny or expel from staff membership was made; e.g., petitioner is temperamentally unable to work with others and this inability would jeopardize the quality of medical care provided to patients at respondent health care facility]. Respondent further has discretion under the decisional authority of this state to establish internal procedures for making such a determination.

5. Pursuant to [if respondent is a public health care facility or health care district, add: Section 32150 of the Health and Safety Code and] the decisional law of the State of California, respondent's internal procedures for making membership decisions are required to include provisions for a hearing at which evidence is taken for the determination of facts on which respondent's membership decision is to be based. Respondent's provisions for holding a hearing on the facts relating to a membership decision are set out in _____ [specify provisions that set out hearing procedures], which are included in the bylaw provisions attached hereto as Exhibit _____.

6. On _____ [date], petitioner was informed by respondent that _____ [petitioner's application for admission to membership of _____ (respondent's staff or respondent organization) had been denied or action would be commenced to expel petitioner from _____ (respondent's staff or respondent organization)].

[EITHER, if petitioner was given no reasons for respondent's action]

7. Respondent has to date given petitioner no reason for its action, nor has it informed petitioner that he/she may request a statement of reasons.

[OR, if petitioner was given reasons for respondent's action]

7. _____ [In informing petitioner of its adverse membership decision or Pursuant to petitioner's request, made on _____ (date), for a statement of reasons for respondent's action], respondent stated its position that petitoner was not qualified for _____ [admission to or continued] membership on the ground that _____ [specify grounds, e.g., petitioner is temperamentally incapable of working with others]. A copy of the statement by which respondent informed petitioner of its determination is attached hereto as Exhibit _____ and made a part thereof.

[CONTINUE]

8. On _____ [date], petitioner requested to be given a hearing on respondent's determination [if respondent's bylaws provide for hearing add: pursuant to _____ (specify bylaw provision providing for hearing)]. A copy of petitioner's request is attached hereto as Exhibit _____ and made a part thereof.

[EITHER, if respondent failed to provide petitioner with a hearing]

9. Respondent has not provided petitioner with a hearing or opportunity to respond [if appropriate, add: nor has respondent informed petitioner of any opportunity that might exist under its bylaws for responding to its membership determination].

[OR, if respondent has provided a hearing]

9. On _____ [date], at _____ [specify meeting place], a hearing was held to receive evidence on the issue of whether or not a ground exists for _____ [denial of petitioner's application for admission to _____ (respondent's staff or respondent organization) or expulsion of petitioner from _____ (respondent's staff or respondent organization), of which petitioner was then a member in good standing]. _____ [If appropriate, add: Petitioner attended the hearing.]

10. On _____ [date], petitioner received respondent's decision and order affirming respondent's determination to _____ [deny petitioner's application for admission to membership _____ (on respondent's staff or in respondent organization) or expel petitioner from _____ (respondent's staff or respondent organization)]. _____ [A verbatim transcript of the record of the hearing, containing the evidence received, is attached hereto as Exhibit _____ and made a part thereof or The substance of the evidence received at the hearing is as follows: _____ (describe substance of evidence)].

11. [If respondent provided an internal appeal procedure, or other internal remedy available after adverse hearing decision, add: After receiving respondent's hearing decision, petitioner in timely fashion _____ (set out exhaustion of any internal remedies still available to petitioner after adverse hearing decision). On _____ (date), petitioner received respondent's _____ (determination of appeal or specify other determination of internal remedy) upholding the decision made at the hearing. In following these procedures, petitioner has exhausted all of his/her administrative remedies and the decision of respondent has become final insofar as respondent is presently concerned].

12. Respondent's determination is invalid for the following reasons: _____ [in subparagraphs that follow, state reasons why decision is invalid, e.g.,

a. Respondent has abused its discretion in that it failed to proceed according to law and failed to provide petitioner a fair trial in that theinternal provisions established by respondent for making its membership determination do not satisfy the minimal requirements for fair procedure because _____ (specify reasons why respondent's procedures are inadequate, e.g., respondents's mere statement to petitioner that petitioner could appeal the adverse decision without either informing petitioner of or providing in its bylaws for any concrete procedure according to which such an appeal would be conducted did not provide petitioner with a meaningful opportunity to respond).

b. Respondent has abused its discretion in that it failed to proceed according to law and failed to provide petitioner a fair trial in that the manner in which respondent carried out its procedures for making its membership determination denied petitioner a meaningful opportunity to respond and a fair hearing because _____ (specify reasons why respondent's manner of proceeding denied meaningful opportunity to respond, e.g., the person making the original accusation against petitioner served on the panel charged with investigating the accusation and _____ (number of members) members of the panel charged with investigating the accusation also served on the _____ (number of members) member panel which held the above-alleged hearing, thus compromising the impartiality of respondent's membership determination).

c. Respondent based its decision on _____ (specify rule on which decision based), which provides that _____ (specify, e.g., a physician may be denied membership on the hospital staff if the admissions review committee finds that he or she is unable to work with others). (As shown, by the record, respondent interpreted this rule to mean that _____ (specify, e.g., respondent could deny petitioner's application for hospital staff membership on a showing that petitioner was temperamentally incapable of getting along with others, without any showing that such inability would adversely affect the quality of medical care provided by the hospital or by petitioner).) Respondent's rule (, as interpreted by respondent,) is substantively irrational, and therefore not a valid basis for respondent's decision, in that _____ (specify, e.g., the rule is not rationally related to respondent's stated purpose of protecting the quality of medical care provided by the hospital, or to any other legitimate purpose of respondent). In applying a substantively irrational rule, respondent abused its discretion by failing to proceed according to law.

d. At the hearing it was found that _____ (state all findings, e.g., petitioner has frequently criticized the quality of patient care delivered to petitioner by other physicians in the community). Respondents may not _____ (deny petitioner's application for or expel petitioner from) membership in respondent's staff based on any of these findings because such findings do not support a conclusion that _____ (specify ground for action taken as stated in original notice, e.g., petitioner is temperamentally unable to work with others and that such inability would jeopardize the quality of care he/she would deliver to patients at respondent hospital) or any other substantively rational ground for respondent's determination.

e. The evidence received at the hearing does not support the findings for the following reasons: _____ (specify).

f. _____ (In this and following subparagraphs, allege any other reasons for invalidity of respondent's determination, as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5. For further examples of such allegations, see the petition for writ of mandate to review an administrative decision in the Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions.)

[13. If appropriate, add: Petitioner has the following relevant evidence that was not produced at the hearing: _____ (describe evidence completely). _____ (This evidence could not be produced at the hearing because _____ (specify rea sons why, in the excercise of reasonable diligence, petitioner could not produce evidence) or This evidence was improperly excluded when petitioner attempted to introduce it at the hearing). This evidence tends to show that _____ (state what evidence will prove).]

14. As a result of the fact that petitioner has been deprived of membership _____ [on respondent's medical staff or in respondent organization], petitioner has been denied the right to fully practice the profession of medicine and has suffered a detriment to a substantial economic interest in that _____ [specify, e.g., petitioner's lack of opportunity to avail himself/herself and his/her patients of respondent's facilities has made it difficult for respondent to maintain his or her practice].

[15. If attorney's fees are claimed under Gov. Code § 800, add: As an incident of bringing and maintaining this proceeding, petitioner has become, and is obligated personally to pay to his/her counsel _____ (name of attorney), attorney's fees _____ (exceeding $7,500 or in the sum of $_____).]

16. Petitioner has no plain, speedy, or adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law.

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays judgment as follows:

[1. If alternative writ procedure is used: For an alternative writ of mandate directing respondent to set aside its determination to _____ (deny petitioner's application for or expel petitioner from) membership _____ (on respondent's medical staff or in respondent organization) and to _____ (reconsider its determination _____ (according to the requirements of fair procedure or in light of any findings this court may make) or _____ (accept or reinstate) petitioner as a member of respondent's staff), or in the alternative to show cause why a peremptory writ of mandate to the same effect should not be issued;]

[2. If petitioner seeks a stay of operation of the respondent's determination to expel him or her from membership pending judgment, state: For an order restraining respondent from giving effect to its determination to expel petitioner from its staff until further order of the court and to show cause why operation of that determination should not be stayed pending judgment in this proceeding;]

3. For a peremptory writ of mandate _____ [set out terms of proposed peremptory writ at length as in Paragraph 1 of this Prayer, omitting words relating to order to show cause];

[4. If attorney's fees sought under Gov. Code § 800, add: For reasonable attorney's fees, in addition to any other relief granted or other costs awarded;]

5. For costs of suit herein incurred [add, if appropriate: including $_____ for preparation of the administrative record]; and

6. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

Respectfully submitted,

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Petitioner

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the petitioner in the above-entitled proceeding. I have read the foregoing petition and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters that are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]

CAUTION:

A petition for a writ of mandate must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086]. Proof of service on each respondent and real party in interest of a copy of a petition that seeks an alternative writ must accompany the petition when it is offered for filing except when, in its discretion and for good cause, the court has granted the application for the writ ex parte [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107; for a discussion of serving the petition, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition]. Points and authorities also customarily accompany a petition filed in a superior court, although they do not appear to be expressly required by statute. When no alternative writ is sought, proof of service of a copy of the petition need not accompany the application, but proof of service of a copy of the filed petition must be lodged with the court prior to a hearing or any action by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1088.5].

[2] Use of Form

This petition for a writ of mandate is for use by a physician whose application for staff membership at a hospital has been denied or who has been expelled from an existing staff membership at a hospital. A writ of mandate of the sort petitioned for in this form may be issued by any court, except a municipal court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1085]. Thus, this petition would ordinarily be submitted to a superior court having venue in the action [see § 416.60[10]]. For complete discussion of petitions for writs of mandate to review administrative decisions, see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , et seq.

The petitioner may proceed by either the alternative writ procedure or the noticed application procedure, as described below.

[3] Alternative Writ Procedure

If the petitioner proceeds by the alternative writ procedure, he or she should prepare a petition, an order for issuance of an alternative writ (if local rules or practice so require), and an alternative writ of mandate. He or she must serve a copy of the petition on each respondent and real party in interest, and file the petition along with proof of service [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1107]. At the time of filing the petition, the alternative writ is deposited, but not filed, with the clerk of the court. Five days after the filing of the petition, the court must examine the papers on file and either issue or decline to issue the alternative writ. During the five-day period, the respondent or real party in interest may file a memorandum of points and authorities in opposition to the issuance of the writ, and serve a copy of the memorandum on the petitioner [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1107]. If the court decides to issue the alternative writ, the judge either signs the order for issuance or signs the writ itself. A copy of the writ is then served on respondent and real party in interest in the same manner as a summons [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1096]. The alternative writ commands the respondent to either do the specified act or to appear at a time and place specified in the writ and show cause why a peremptory writ of mandate ordering respondent to do the act should not be issued [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1087].

For a form of alternative writ of mandate, see Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions , et seq.

[4] Noticed Application Procedure

If the petitioner follows the noticed application procedure, he or she should prepare a petition and a notice fixing a time (at least 10 days afterthe notice) and place for hearing the petition [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1088]. Since no alternative writ is sought under this procedure, proof of service need not accompany the petition when it is filed. However, proof of service of a copy of the filed petition must be lodged with the court before a hearing or any action by the court [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1088.5, 1107]. Respondent or real party in interest may file points and authorities in opposition to the petition within five days after the filing of the petition [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1107]. No alternative writ is issued under the noticed application procedure. Instead, the court hears the petition and respondent's answer, if any, on the date fixed by the notice for the hearing. If the court determines that issuance of a writ of mandate is proper, it issues, or orders issued, the peremptory writ [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1086, 1088, 1089, 1094].

For a form of notice of application for a writ of mandate, see Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions, § 474C.96.

[5] Allegations

This petition alleges the following:

- Capacity and residence of petitioner (Paragraph 1).

- Petitioner's beneficial interest in the respondent's decision to exclude or expel him or her from membership and therefore in the issuance of the writ (Paragraph 2) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086].

- Capacity and location of respondent (Paragraph 3).

- The discretionary authority of the respondent institution to set out standards and procedures for making membership determinations and determine whether grounds exist to exclude or expel a physician from membership (Paragraph 4) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a); Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 560, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II); Kronen v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1965) 237 Cal. App. 2d 289, 305-307, 46 Cal. Rptr. 808] .

- That a hearing is required to be held and evidence taken [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a); Health & Safety Code §§ 32150, 32153; Anton v. San Antonio Community Hosp.(1977) 19 Cal. 3d 802, 815-816 n. 12, 140 Cal. Rptr. 442, 567 P.2d 1162 (Anton I) (holding abrogated on unrelated point by legislative enactment of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(d) in 1978)] and respondent's actual provisions for the hearing (Paragraph 5).

- The date on which the petitioner was informed that the membership application was denied or that action to expel petitioner from membership would be taken (Paragraph 6).

- Reasons given by respondent for adverse membership action, or failure to give reasons (Paragraph 7).

- Petitioner's request for a hearing on respondent's adverse membership action (Paragraph 8).

- The holding of the hearing, or respondent's failure to provide a hearing (Paragraph 9).

- Respondent's decision following the hearing (Paragraph 10).

- Further action by petitioner to exhaust internal remedies provided by respondent, exhaustion of those remedies, and finality of respondent's decision (Paragraph 11) [see Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 476-477, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410] .

- Reasons for the invalidity of the decision (Paragraph 12) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b)].

- Where appropriate, the nature of any additional relevant evidence and reasons why the evidence could not, in the exercise of reasonable diligence, have been produced at the administrative hearing (Paragraph 13) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e)].

- That respondent's action deprives petitioner of the right to fully practice medicine (Paragraph 14) [see Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 554, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 (Pinsker II)].

- When appropriate, the amount of attorney's fees claimed under Gov. Code § 800 (Paragraph 15) [see § 416.60[9]].

- Petitioner's lack of a plain, speedy, or adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law (Paragraph 16) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086].

[6] Allegation of Exhaustion of Internal Remedies

Exhaustion of internal remedies offered by the hospital or professional organization is a prerequisite to seeking to have the hospital or organization's membership determination set aside in court [Anton v. San Antonio Community Hospital (Anton II) (1982) 132 Cal. App. 3d 638, 648, 183 Cal. Rptr. 423] . This exhaustion requirement is excused if internal remedies were unavailable or inadequate, or the hospital or organization failed to inform the physician of the availability of the remedies [see Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 478, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410 (physician not informed of remedy; damage action); Martino v. Concord Community Hosp. District (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 51, 56, 43 Cal. Rptr. 255 (remedy unavailable)]. Thus, exhaustion of available internal remedies or facts showing a proper excuse for failure to exhaust remedies should be alleged in the petition for writ of mandate.

[7] Review of Hearing Decision Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5

Under the review procedures set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5, a court may find an administrative agency decision that was required by law to be made at an evidentiary hearing to be invalid for any of the following reasons [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b)]:

- The agency proceeded without, or in excess of, its jurisdiction;

- Petitioner was denied a fair trial at the agency level; or

- The agency abused its discretion in one of the following three ways: (a) it did not proceed in the manner required by law; (b) the decision is not supported by the findings resulting from the administrative hearing; or (c) the findings are not supported by the evidence received at the hearing.

Allegations that the determination made at the respondent's hearing was invalid should state how the decision was invalid on one or more of the above-stated grounds when measured against the requirements of the law governing deprivation of hospital staff membership or membership in a professional organization. The governing deprivation of hospital staff membership or membership in a professional organization is set out in § 416.10 et seq.

[8] Simple Mandate Proceedings if No Hearing Provided

Although Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 requires only that the decision reviewed under its terms have been made as a result of a proceeding for which a hearing was required by law, and does not explicitly require that a hearing actually have been held, it appears that the procedures set out by Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 presuppose that there has been a hearing, with an administrative record, that may be reviewed by the court. An ordinary writ of mandate pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 has been held to be the correct procedure in a case in which the defendant organization had not provided a hearing [Haller v. Burbank Community Hospital Foundation (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 650, 655, 658, 197 Cal. Rptr. 45] . It therefore appears that if the defendant organization has not provided the petitioner with a hearing, counsel should proceed under Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 rather than under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5.

Because administrative mandate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is essentially a special adaption of general mandate principles to the special purpose of reviewing final administative determinations when a hearing is required, the basic requirements for a mandate proceeding are the same for ordinary mandate as they are for administrative mandate, except that a petition for writ of simple mandate need not include allegations pertaining to the propriety of the decision made at the hearing [see Grant v. Board of Medical Examiners (1965) 232 Cal. App. 2d 820, 826-827, 43 Cal. Rptr. 270] . In a case in which an adverse membership decision has been made without providing either a hearing or an opportunity to obtain one, it should furthermore not be necessary to allege exhaustion of internal remedies, since those remedies would clearly be unavailable [see Martino v. Concord Community Hosp. District (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 51, 56, 43 Cal. Rptr. 255 (requirement to exhaust administrative remedy excused when remedy unavailable)]. A petition for writ of mandate in a case in which no hearing or opportunity to obtain one was provided should therefore include the first alternative for Paragraph 9 in the form, and need not include Paragraphs 10 through 13. For forms and discussion concerning ordinary mandate proceedings, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition .

[9] Attorney's Fees

In any civil action to appeal or review the award, finding, or other determination of any administrative proceedings under the Government Code or under any other provision of state law, except action by the State Board of Control, if it is shown that the award, finding, or other determination was the result of arbitrary or capricious action or conduct by a public entity or officer in his or her official capacity, the prevailing complainant may collect reasonable attorney's fees, computed at $100 per hour, but not to exceed $7,500, from the public entity, if he or she is personally obligated to pay the fees, in addition to any other relief granted or other costs awarded [Gov. Code § 800].

[10] Venue

Venue in a mandate proceeding brought under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 393(b) [Lynch v. Superior Court (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 929, 930-931, 86 Cal. Rptr. 925] . Code Civ. Proc. § 393(b) provides that the county in which the cause of action, or some part of it, arose is the proper county for the trial of an action against a public officer or person especially appointed to execute his or her duties for an act done by him or her by virtue of the public office, or against a person who does anything touching the duties of the public officer by the officer's command or in his or her aid. However, Code Civ. Proc. § 393(b) refers to public officers, and Lynch dealt with an administrative mandate action against a state agency. Thus, it appears that Code Civ. Proc. § 393(b) would probably not govern venue in a mandate action against a private hospital or professional society. Venue in a mandamus action against a private hospital or professional society appears to be governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 395.5, which states that a corporation or association may be sued in the county where the contract is made, or where the obligation or liability arises, or where the breach occurs; or in the county where the principal place of business of such corporation or association is situated [see Code Civ. Proc. § 395.2 (unincorporated association that filed statutory statement listing principal place of business as treated as if it were corporation for venue purposes)].

[11] Verification

A petition for a writ of mandate must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086]. Proof of service on each respondent and real party in interest of a copy of a petition that seeks an alternative writ must accompany the petition when it is offered for filing except when, in its discretion and for good cause, the court has granted the application for the writ ex parte [Code Civ. Proc.§ 1107; for a discussion of serving the petition, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition]. Points and authorities also customarily accompany a petition filed in a superior court, although they do not appear to be expressly required by statute. When no alternative writ is sought, proof of service of a copy of the petition need not accompany the application, but proof of service of a copy of the filed petition must be lodged with the court prior to a hearing or any action by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1088.5].

[12] State Statutes

Administrative mandate procedure. Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5

Standard of judicial review of decisions by institutions other than hospitals. Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(c)

Standard of judicial review of decisions by hospital boards. Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(d)

[13] Decisions

Administrative mandamus, governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5, is proper procedure for seeking judicial review of adverse membership decision by private hospital or professional society. Anton v. San Antonio Community Hosp. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 802, 813-817, 140 Cal. Rptr. 442, 567 P.2d 1162 (Anton I) (holding abrogated on unrelated point by legislative enactment of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(d) in 1978)

Standard of review of private hospital board decision to suspend physician's staff membership and privileges by both trial and appellate courts is determination of whether board's findings are supported by substantial evidence. Huang v. Board of Directors (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 1286, 1293, 270 Cal. Rptr. 41

[14] Cross References

For discussion, forms, and a procedural checklist relating to ordinary mandate proceedings, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition .

For discussion and forms relating to judicial review of administrative decisions under administrative mandate, see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , et seq.

For memoranda of points and authorities for use in mandate proceedings generally, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 150, Mandate and Prohibition (Matthew Bender).

For memoranda of points and authorities for use in actions for administrative mandate, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 195, Public Administrative Law (Matthew Bender).

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 416 PHYSICIANS: MEMBERSHIP ON HOSPITAL STAFFS OR IN PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

36-416 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 416.61

§ 416.61 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Intentional Interference With Right to Practice Profession

[1] FORM Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Intentional Interference With Right to Practice Profession

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____ [name],	)	(Intentional Interference With Right to Practice Pro-
Defendant.	)	fession)
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)	[Amount demanded _____
		(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]

_____

1. Plaintiff is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a physician and surgeon certified to practice as such in the state of California, and a resident of _____ County, California.

2. Defendant _____ [name of defendant health care facility or professional organization] is a _____ [public health care district established under and subject to Sections 32000 through 32492 of the Health and Safety Code or private health care facility accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals or a private professional association] located in _____ County and governed by _____ [title of bylaws], which were adopted by defendant relevant portions of which are attached hereto as Exhibit _____.

3. [If plaintiff wishes to join individuals responsible for the adverse membership decision as defendants, state the name and capacity of each defendant, and allege defendants' responsibility for making membership determinations, e.g., Defendants _____ (names) are and were at all relevant times members of the _____ (governing board or staff or peer review committee or _____ (specify any other membership or position that gave defendants responsibility in making the adverse membership determination)) of _____ (name of defendant health care facility or professional organization), and as such were charged with making a determination as to plaintiff's eligibility for membership in _____ (the staff of _____ (name of defendant health care facility) or _____ (name of defendant association or society)), and in exercise of this responsibility intentionally caused defendant _____ (name of health care facility or professional organization) to take all of the actions alleged herein].

[4. Plaintiff is ignorant of the true names and capacities of defendants sued herein as Does I through _____, inclusive, and therefore sues thesedefendants by such fictitious names. Plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege their true names and capacities when these names and capacities are ascertained. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of these defendants is responsible in some manner for intentionally interfering with plaintiff's right to practice his/her profession and that plaintiff's damages as herein alleged were proximately caused by that intentional interference.]

[5. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that at all times herein mentioned each of the defendants was the agent and employee of each of the remaining defendants, and that the actions of each of the defendants as herein alleged were approved and ratified by each of the other defendants as principals and employers, and that in engaging in the actions herein alleged, each of the defendants conspired with all of the other defendants to achieve an unlawful purpose benefiting some or all of the defendants.]

[EITHER]

6. On _____ [date], plaintiff applied for membership _____ [on the staff of _____ (defendant hospital) or in _____ (defendant organization)].

[OR]

6. Plaintiff has been a member in good standing _____ [of the staff of _____ (defendant health care facility) or of _____ (defendant organization)] from _____ [date], until _____ [date].

[CONTINUE]

7. On _____ [date], plaintiff was informed by defendant that _____ [plaintiff's application for admission to membership _____ (on defendant's staff or in defendant organization) had been denied or action would be commenced to expel plaintiff from _____ (defendant's staff or defendant organization)].

[EITHER, if plaintiff was given no reasons for defendant's action]

8. Defendant has to date given plaintiff no reason for its action, nor has it informed plaintiff that he/she may request a statement of reasons.

[OR, if plaintiff was given reasons for defendant's action]

8. _____ [In informing plaintiff of its adverse membership decision or Pursuant to plaintiff's request, made on _____ (date), for a statement of reasons for defendant's action], defendant stated its position that plaintiff was not qualified for _____ (admission to or continued) membership on the ground that _____ (specify grounds, e.g., plaintiff is temperamentally incapable of working with others). A copy of the statement by which defendant informed plaintiff of its determination is attached hereto as Exhibit _____ and made a part thereof.

[CONTINUE]

9. On _____ [date], plaintiff requested to be given a hearing on defendant's determination [if defendant's bylaws provide for hearing add: pursuant to _____ (specify bylaw provision providing for hearing)]. A copy of plaintiff's request is attached hereto as Exhibit _____ and made a part thereof.

[EITHER, if defendant failed to provide plaintiff with a hearing]

10. Defendant has not provided plaintiff with a hearing or opportunity to respond [if appropriate, add: nor has defendant informed plaintiff of any opportunity that might exist under its bylaws for responding to its membership determination].

[OR, if defendant has provided a hearing]

10. On _____ [date], at _____ [specify meeting place], a hearing was held to receive evidence on the issue of whether or not a ground exists for _____ [denial of plaintiff's application for admission to defendant's staff or expulsion of plaintiff from defendant's staff, of which plaintiff was then a member in good standing]. _____ [If appropriate, add: Plaintiff attended the hearing.]

[CONTINUE]

11. On _____ [date], plaintiff received defendant's decision and order affirming defendant's determination to _____ [deny plaintiff's application for admission to membership of defen dant's staff or expel plaintiff from defendant's staff]. _____ [A verbatim transcript of the record of the hearing, containing the evidence received, is attached hereto as Exhibit _____ and made a part thereof or The substance of the evidence received at the hearing is as follows: _____ (describe substance of evidence)].

12. _____ [If defendant provided an internal appeal procedure, or other internal remedy available after adverse hearing decision, add: After receiving defendant's hearing decision, plaintiff in timely fashion _____ (set out exhaustion of any internal remedies still available to plaintiff after adverse hearing decision). On _____ (date), plaintiff received defendant's _____ (determination of appeal or specify other determination of internal remedy) upholding the decision made at the hearing. In following these procedures, plaintiff has exhausted all of his/her administrative remedies and the decision of defendant has become final insofar as defendant is presently concerned].

13. All of defendant _____ [name of health care facility or professional organization]'s actions alleged herein were intentional and have prevented plaintiff from fully practicing the profession of medicine.

14. Defendant _____ [name of health care facility or professional organization]'s actions herein alleged were not justified because _____ [state reasons why defendant's membership determination wasunjustified, e.g., in making the determination to _____ (exclude or expel) plaintiff from membership, defendant(s) (and each of them) acted from motives not legitimately related to plaintiff's right to or qualification for membership _____ (on the staff of _____ (defendant health care facility) *or*_____*in defendant organization*) in that _____ (specify improper motives, e.g., defendant(s) (and each of them) acted to restrict competition by causing harm to plaintiff's medical practice)].

15. Despite any findings purported to have been made by defendant(s) [and each of them], plaintiff is and was at all times herein mentioned fully qualified under all reasonable standards for membership _____ [on the staff of _____ (defendant health care facility) or in _____ (defendant organization)], and access to such membership is important to plaintiff's ability to fully practice his/her profession.

16. By reason of the importance of membership _____ [on the staff of _____ (defendant health care facility) or in _____ (defendant organization)] to plaintiff's ability to fully practice his/her profession as stated above, plaintiff has a strong interest in such membership; while by reason of plaintiff's qualifications, as stated above, the public has an interest in the unrestricted availability of plaintiff's medical services, which would be curtailed by the _____ [exclusion or expulsion] of plaintiff from such membership. On the other hand, by reason of plaintiff's qualifications as stated above, neither defendant(s) [and each of them] nor the public have any legitimate interest in _____ [excluding or expelling] plaintiff from such membership.

17. _____ [If defendant provided plaintiff with notice of charges and informed plaintiff of procedures for responding to charges, add: On _____ (date), in the case of _____ (specify title and number of case), plaintiff petitioned the superior court in and for the County of _____ for a writ of mandate pursuant to Section 1094.5 of the Code of Civil Procedure setting aside defendant's membership determination. A copy of plaintiff's petition for writ of mandate is attached hereto as Exhibit _____ and made a part hereof].

18. _____ [If defendant provided plaintiff with notice of charges and informed plaintiff of procedures for responding to charges, add: On _____ (date), plaintiff received the superior court's order granting a writ of mandate, setting aside defendant's membership determination and ordering that defendant _____ (provide plaintiff with proper procedure for determining whether defendant's adverse membership decision was correct or _____ (restore plaintiff's or admit plaintiff to) membership). A copy of the superior court's order _____ (if appropriate, add: and statements of decision giving the ground on which the court made its order) granting the writ of mandate is attached hereto as Exhibit _____ and made a part hereof. (If appropriate, add: A verbatim transcript of the record of the hearing on plaintiff's petition for writ of mandate is attached hereto as Exhibit _____ and made a part hereof.)]

[EITHER]

[19. If plaintiff is suing individual members of defendant health care facility's staff or defendant organization, add: In making their determination as to plaintiff's membership rights, _____ (name(s) of individual defendant(s)) acted in disregard of and in excess of the authority granted by defendant _____ (health care facility's or association's) by laws, as set set out in _____ (specify bylaws which defendants disregarded or exceeded).]

[OR]

[19. If plaintiff is suing individual members of defendant health care facility's staff or defendant organization, add: In making their determination as to plaintiff's membership rights, _____ (name(s) of individual defendant(s)) acted maliciously in that _____ (allege facts showing malice e.g., they did not make a reasonable effort to obtain the facts pertaining to the membership determination herein alleged in that _____ (allege facts showing lack of reasonable effort to ascertain facts of case, e.g., defendants acted without giving plaintiff a reasonable opportunity to respond to the charges made by defendants)).]

[OR]

[19. If plaintiff is suing individual members of defendant health care facility's staff or defendant organization, add: In making their determination as to plaintiff's membership rights, _____ (name(s) of individual defendant(s)) did not act in a reasonable belief that the action taken by defendants as herein alleged was warranted by the facts known to defendants after making reasonable efforts to obtain such facts.]

[CONTINUE]

20. Plaintiff's medical practice has suffered as a proximate result of defendant(s') actions as herein alleged in that _____ [specify manner in which practice has suffered, e.g., since defendant professional organization holds itself out as the sole recognized organization to determine standards for the practice and certification of practitioners in plaintiff's chosen medical specialty of _____ (specify), and as a practical matter it is impossible for a physician to limit his or her practice to the specialty of _____ (specify) without active membership in defendant organization, plaintiff has not been able to limit his or her practice to this specialty soley by reason of exclusion from such membership or plaintiff has lost the patronage of patients who had previously sought his/her services and has been unable to obtain the patronage of new patients because of plaintiff's inability to procure treatment and care for his/her patients at defendant hospital]. Because of the harm thus done to plaintiff's medical practice, plaintiff has suffered a loss of earnings and attendant damages _____ [in the sum of $_____ or in an amount to be proved at trial].

[21. If plaintiff seeks punitive damages in an amended complaint, after court has entered order allowing plaintiff to claim such damages, allege: _____(Defendant's or Defendants') conduct herein alleged was malicious and oppressive in that _____ (specify conduct showing malice or oppression, e.g., defendant(s) (, and each of them,) acted with intent to curtail plaintiff's medical practice and harass plaintiff, from motives of revenge for public comments made by plaintiff on _____ (date) at _____ (specify setting and occasion of public comments) questioning the qualifications and credentials of _____ (specify individuals or organizations criticized), thus causing plaintiff unjust hardship in conscious disregard of plaintiff's right to practice his/her profession), and thus entitling plaintiff to exemplary and punitive damages.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant(s) [, and each of them,] as follows:

1. For loss of earnings in the sum of $_____;

2. For damages incidental to harm caused to plaintiff's medical practice _____ [according to proof or in the sum of $_____];

[3. For exemplary damages;]

4. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Petitioner

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the plaintiff in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing complaint form may be used to obtain damages for injuries or losses proximately caused by an intentional, unjustified interfer ence with a physician's right to practice medicine, caused by a health care facility or professional association's unjustified determination to deny the plaintiff's application for or to expel the plaintiff from membership.

When the plaintiff has a cause of action for intentional interference with the right to practice his or her profession, the plaintiff may also be able to state a cause of action under the Cartwright Act (Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 16700-16770) or under federal antitrust law [Patrick v. Burget (1988) 486 U.S. 94, 104-105, 108 S. Ct. 1658, 100 L. Ed. 2d 83 ; Cianci v. Superior Court (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 903, 916-925, 221 Cal. Rptr. 575, 710 P.2d 375 ; see discussion in § 416.19 and Ch. 565, Unfair Competition].

[3] Allegations

The complaint alleges:

(1) capacity and residence of plaintiff (Paragraph 1);

(2) capacity and location of defendant health care facility or professional association (Paragraph 2);

(3) capacity and residence of individual defendants, if any (Paragraph 3);

(4) responsibility of and ignorance as to names of doe defendants (Paragraph 4);

(5) agency relationship, employer-employee relationship, and conspiracy among defendants (Paragraph 5);

(6) plaintiff's application for membership or status as member before expulsion (Paragraph 6);

(7) notification of adverse membership determination by defendant institution; (Paragraph 7);

(8) reasons given by defendant institution for adverse membership determination or failure to give such reasons (Paragraph 8);

(9) plaintiff's request for hearing (Paragraph 9);

(10) conduct and date of hearing, or failure to hold hearing (Paragraph 10);

(11) hearing decision, if hearing was held (Paragraph 11);

(12) exhaustion by plaintiff of internal remedies (Paragraph 12) [Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 476-477, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410] ;

(13) intentional nature of defendant's or defendants' conduct (Paragraph 13) [see Willis v. Santa Ana etc. Hospital Assn. (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 806, 810, 26 Cal. Rptr. 640, 376 P.2d 568] ;

(14) lack of justification for adverse membership determination (Paragraph 14) [see Letsch v. Northern San Diego County Hosp. Dist. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 673, 677, 55 Cal. Rptr. 118] ;

(15) qualification of plaintiff for membership, and interference with plaintiff's medical practice (Paragraph 15) [see Willis v. Santa Ana etc. Hospital Assn. (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 806, 810, 26 Cal. Rptr. 640, 376 P.2d 568] ;

(16) plaintiff's and public's interest in plaintiff's access to membership, and defendants' and public's lack of legitimate interest in plaintiff's being deprived of membership (Paragraph 16) [see Willis v. Santa Ana etc. Hospital Assn. (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 806, 810, 26 Cal. Rptr. 640, 376 P.2d 568] ;

(17) plaintiff's action seeking judicial relief from defendant institution's adverse membership decision and court order granting such relief, if fundamental fair procedure requirements were adhered to by defendants (Paragraphs 17, 18) [see Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 484, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410] ;

(18) conduct on part of individual defendants placing them outside scope of qualified statutory immunity for members of health care facility or professional society review (Paragraph 19) [see Civ. Code § 43.7]; and

(19) damages suffered as result of defendants' action (Paragraph 20); behavior constituting malice and oppression [see Civ. Code § 3294; Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a)] (Paragraph 21).

[4] Lack of Justification for Defendant's Conduct

Although there has been no case that addresses this point, it would appear that reasons that warrant the court's setting aside a health care facility or organization's adverse membership decision in a mandate or other judicial review proceeding would also show that the defendant's conduct was unjustified in an action for damages for intentional interference with a physician's right to practice his or her profession. In establishing that the defendant's conduct was not justified, counsel should therefore allege facts that show, or would have shown, that the defendant's decison was subject to being set aside in a mandate proceeding. For a discussion of the law concerning facts that would warrant the court in setting aside a health care facility or professional organization's decision, see §§ 416.13, 416.14. For examples of allegations of facts showing that a health care facility or professional organization's decision should be set aside on mandate, see § 416.60.

[5] Allegation of Exhaustion of Internal Remedies

Exhaustion of internal remedies made available by the health care facility or professional organization is a prerequisite to an action for damages flowing from an unjustified adverse membership decision, unless such exhaustion is excused by the fact that internal remedies are unavailable or the institution has failed to inform the physician of the existence of such remedies [Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 476-477, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410] . Thus, exhaustion of internal remedies or facts showing a proper excuse for failure to exhaust such remedies should be alleged in the complaint.

[6] Allegation That Adverse Membership Decision Was Previously Set Aside by Court

A physician must seek to have an adverse membership decision set aside in an appropriate review proceeding before initiating an action for damages flowing from the adverse determination, unless the health care facility or professional organization denied the physician basic due process in making the determination. Basic due process is denied when the health care facility or professional organization failed to provide the physician with reasons for its action or to inform the physician of the availability of a right to respond. An order directing the health care facility or professional organization to give the physician a proper hearing, but not directing the institution to immediately admit or restore the physician to membership, is sufficient to satisfy this requirement [Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 483, 484, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410] .

The complaint should allege that the plaintiff has obtained a court order setting aside the defendant institution's adverse membership decision before initiating the action for damages or that the institution has denied the plaintiff basic due process so as to excuse the requirement for such an order.

[7] Statute of Limitations

An action for damages for intentional interference with the right to practice medicine is an action on a property right and is therefore gov erned by the two year statute of limitations set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 339(1) [Edwards v. Fresno Community Hosp. (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 702, 705, 706, 113 Cal. Rptr. 579] .

[8] Venue

An action or proceeding against a local agency may be brought in the county in which the local agency is located [Code Civ. Proc. § 394(a)]. Since for purposes of Code Civ. Proc. § 394 the term "local agency" includes local districts, Code Civ. Proc. § 394(a) probably applies to actions against a local health care district [see Code Civ. Proc. § 394(b)].

Venue in an action against a private health care facility appears to be governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 395.2 and 395.5. Code Civ. Proc. § 395.5 provides that a corporation or association may be sued in the county where the contract is made, or where the obligation or liability arises, or where the breach occurs, or in the county where the principal place of business of such corporation or association is situated. Code Civ. Proc. § 395.2 provides that if an unincorporated association has filed a statement with the Secretary of State pursuant to Corp. Code § 24003 listing its principal office in this state, the proper county for the trial of an action against suchunincorporated association is the same as it would be if the unincorporated association were a corporation and, for the purpose of determining such county, the principal place of business of the unincorporated association shall be deemed to be the principal office in this state listed in the statement.

Venue in an action against individual members of a private health care facility staff or governing board or a professional association is apparently governed by the general provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a), which state that except as otherwise provided by law, the county in which the defendants or some of them reside at the commencement of the action is the proper county for the trial of the action. An action of the sort set out here does not come under the special rule set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a) which increases the number of counties that are proper venue for actions for injury to person or personal property from a wrongful act, since this rule was intended to apply only to physical or corporeal injuries [see Lucas v. Lucas Ranching Co. (1937) 18 Cal. App. 2d 453, 64 P.2d 160] . However, an action against a member of the staff or governing board of a public health care facility is probably covered by Code Civ. Proc. § 393(b), which provides that the county in which the cause or some part thereof arose is the proper county for the trial of actions against a public officer or person especially appointed to execute his or her duties, for an act done by him in virtue of his office; or against a person who, by his command or in his aid, does anything touching the duties of such officer.

[9] Punitive Damages

No claim for punitive damages against a health care provider may be included in a complaint or other pleading unless the court enters an order allowing an amended pleading that includes a claim for punitive damages to be filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a)]. Consequently, the paragraphs in the foregoing complaint referring to punitive damages (Paragraph 21 and prayer Paragraph 3) may only be included in an amended complaint filed pursuant to a court order.

The court may allow the filing of an amended pleading claiming punitive damages on a motion by the party seeking the amended pleading and on the basis of the supporting and opposing affidavits presented that the plaintiff has established that there is a substantial probability that the plaintiff will prevail on the claim pursuant to Civ. Code § 3294. The court may not grant a motion allowing the filing of an amended pleading that includes a claim for punitive damages if the motion for that order is not filed within two years after the complaint or initial pleading is filed or not less than nine months before the date the matter is first set for trial, whichever is earlier [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a)]. For discussion of the availability of punitive damages, see Ch. 177, Damages .

[10] Prayer

A complaint must contain a demand for the amount of money or damages sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(a)(1)]. However, no claim for exemplary damages may state an amount or amounts [Civ. Code § 3295(e)].

[11] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a) (repealed January 1, 2006, unless later-enacted statute deletes or extends repeal date)], verification will require any answer to be verified in an unlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude the defendant from using a general denial in an unlimited civil case, and will preclude a general denial in a limited civil case if the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[12] State Statutes

Qualified immunity from monetary liability for members of professional society or hospital staff or peer review committees. Civ. Code § 43.7(b)

[13] Decisions

[a] Damages for Intentional Interference With Right to Practice Profession

"Trade" or "commerce" as used in the Cartwright Act, Bus. & Prof. Code § 16700 et seq., includes professions. Cianci v. Superior Court (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 903, 916-925, 221 Cal. Rptr. 575, 710 P. 2d 375 , overruling Willis v. Santa Ana Community Hospital Asso. (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 806, 810, 26 Cal. Rptr. 640, 376 P.2d 568

Action for intentional interference with right to practice lawful profession by unlawful means or by lawful means absent sufficient justification. Willis v. Santa Ana etc. Hospital Assn. (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 806, 810, 26 Cal. Rptr. 640, 376 P.2d 568

Existence of justification for purposes of action for intentional interference with right to practice lawful calling as determined by balancing importance to society and party of activity interfered with against importance of permitting interference; determination not made by applying precise standards. Willis v. Santa Ana etc. Hospital Assn. (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 806, 810, 26 Cal. Rptr. 640, 376 P.2d 568

Allegation stating that defendants denied physician of highest qualifications access to hospital as result of conspiracy designed to restrain competition and deprive physician of practice in order to benefit competing members of conspiracy as stating valid cause of action for intentional interference with right to pursue lawful profession. Willis v. Santa Ana etc. Hospital Assn. (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 806, 810, 26 Cal. Rptr. 640, 376 P.2d 568

Records of hospital staff review committee as not discoverable by physician bringing action against hospital for damages allegedly caused by its pastwrongful restriction of his staff privileges by monitoring his operating procedures; exception of Evid. Code § 1157(c) as only applicable to person requesting hospital staff privileges; action for damages allegedly caused by wrongful restriction of staff privileges as distinct from action for administrative mandamus seeking to currently become or remain hospital staff member. California Eye Institute v. Superior Court (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1477, 1481, 264 Cal. Rptr. 83

[b] Exculpatory Clause Not Enforceable

Exculpatory clause in hospital bylaws provding that each member or applicant waived right of personal redress as transgressing public policy and therefore not barring aggrieved person's access to courts. Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 480, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410

[c] Immunity From Tort Actions for Members of Staff or Committee

Fact questions as to whether qualified privilege for staff and governing board members set out in Civ. Code § 43.7 may have been lost because individuals protected by privilege were not acting pursuant to written bylaws or without malice, and had not made reasonable efforts to ascertain facts when the institution has failed to provide the accused physician with a hearing as provided for by bylaws and made no real effort to investigate accused physician's qualifications for membership. Ascherman v. San Francisco Medical Society (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 623, 663, 114 Cal. Rptr. 681 (Ascherman I)

[d] Justification for Interference

Interference with physician's right to practice medicine as not giving rise to liability, even though intentional, if interference is reasonable and justified. Letsch v. Northern San Diego County Hosp. Dist. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 673, 677, 55 Cal. Rptr. 118

Hospital's determination to operate radiology department on closed staff basis, thereby depriving physicians who had no exclusive contract with hospital of right to use hospital's radiology facilities, as reasonable and therefore not giving rise to liability on part of hospital. Letsch v. Northern San Diego County Hosp. Dist. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 673, 677, 55 Cal. Rptr. 118

[e] Requirement of Exhaustion of Internal Remedies

Requirement that physician exhaust available and adequate internal remedies before seeking relief in courts as applying to actions for damages for interference with right to practice profession as well as actions to have the institution's membership decision set aside. Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 476-477, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410 (but court as holding requirement excused under facts before it)

[f] Requirement of Prior Favorable Determination

Order requiring hospital to reinstate wrongfully terminated member as not required for subsequent action for damages as long as hospital's decision to expel member has been set aside in appropriate judicial review proceeding. Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 484 n.9, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410 (dictum)

Setting aside of quasi-judical action adverse to applicant or member by hospital on appropriate review by courts as prerequisite to action for damages for allegedly wrongful expulsion or exclusion. Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 484, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410

Prior favorable termination of action to set aside defendant's adverse decision as not required for action seeking damages for allegedly wrongful dismissal from hospital staff when hospital took its action without stating reasons to aggrieved person and failed to inform aggrieved person of existing right to respond to charges. Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 478, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 417.syn

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

§ 417.syn Synopsis to Chapter 417: POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

§ 417.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 417.02 Cross References

§§ 417.03-417.09 [Reserved]

§ 417.10 Governing Law

§ 417.11 Nature and Purpose of Points and Authorities

§ 417.12 Points and Authorities Compared With Briefs

[1] Trial Brief

[2] Appellate Brief

§ 417.13 Impact of Statewide Rules of Court

§ 417.14 When Supporting Points and Authorities Are Used

[1] Points and Authorities Are Usually Required

[a] To Support Demurrer or Notice of Motion

[b] To Support Motion for New Trial

[c] To Support Petition for Extraordinary Writ

[d] To Support Ex Parte Application

[2] Types of Proceedings for Use of Supporting Memoranda

[3] When Memorandum Specifically Not Required But May Be Filed or Ordered

[4] Effect of Failure to File Required Supporting Memorandum

§ 417.15 When Opposing Points and Authorities Are Used

§ 417.16 When Reply Points and Authorities Are Used

§ 417.17 Time for Filing Memoranda

[1] Supporting Memoranda

[2] Opposing Memoranda

[3] Reply Memoranda

[4] Late-Filed Papers

§ 417.18 Time for Service of Memoranda

§ 417.19 Format Requirements for Memoranda of Points and Authorities

[1] Format Requirements Specifically Applicable to Memoranda

[a] Applicability of Rule 3.1113 Requirements

[b] Contents of Memoranda

[c] Limits on Length of Memoranda

[i] General Rule

[ii] Procedure for Leave to File Longer Memorandum

[d] Citation Requirements

[i] Citation Style

[ii] Citing to Case Authority

[iii] When Attachment of Copies of Cited Authorities Are Required

[e] References to Declarations and Exhibits

[f] Requests for Judicial Notice

[g] Attaching or Combining the Memorandum With Other Papers

[h] Proposed Orders

[2] Format Requirements Applicable to All Law and Motion Papers

[a] Applicability of General Rules

[b] First Page

[c] Reference to Previously Filed Papers

[d] Binding and Pagination

[e] Exhibits

[f] Footer With Title of Paper Required on Each Page

§ 417.20 Drafting Considerations

[1] Introduction or Summary of Argument

[2] Statement of Facts

[3] Statement of Law, Evidence, and Arguments

[a] The Argument Relating Facts and Law

[b] Reliance on Authorities

[i] General Considerations

[ii] Unpublished and "Depublished" Opinions

[4] Conclusion

§ 417.21 Supporting Evidence

[1] Preparing Supporting Evidence

[2] Declarations or Affidavits

[3] Documentary Evidence

[4] Discovery Products

[5] Matters Subject to Judicial Notice

§§ 417.22-417.29 [Reserved]

§ 417.30 Matthew Bender Publications

§ 417.31 State Statutes

§ 417.32 California Rules of Court

§ 417.33 Rules of Professional Conduct

§ 417.34 Text References

§§ 417.35-417.49 [Reserved]

§ 417.50 Memorandum--Skeletal Form

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 417.51 Ex Parte Application for Leave to File Memorandum in Excess of Page Limits

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Requirements Governing Ex Parte Applications Generally

[4] Cross References

§ 417.52 Order Granting Application For Leave to File Memorandum in Excess of Page Limits

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., n*
Editorial Consultant

FOOTNOTES:
(n87)Footnote *. Mr. Grillo, a graduate of Harvard Law school and a civil litigation expert in San Francisco, helped to draft the statewide law and motion rules adopted in 1997 as a member of the State Bar Committee on Rules and Procedures of Court, 1993-1996. He is currently a member of the State Bar Committee for Administration of Justice.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
PART I. SCOPE

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 417.01

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

§ 417.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses memoranda and their use in civil pretrial practice. It includes the following forms:

- A skeletal form of a memorandum [§ 417.50].

- Forms for use in an ex parte proceeding to obtain leave to file a memorandum that exceeds the page limits set by statewide court rule [§ 417.51].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
PART I. SCOPE

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 417.02

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

§ 417.02 Cross References

For discussion and forms relating to preparing and filing motions generally, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

For discussion of the use of affidavits or declarations in support of noticed motions, see Ch. 15, Affidavits, Certificates, and Declarations .

For alternative forms of captions and introductions, see Ch. 108, Captions and Introductions .

For discussion of general format requirements for pleading and papers, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints .

For discussion and forms related to service of papers and electronic filing and service, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

For discussion and forms relating to fax service and filing of papers, see Ch. 264, Fax Filing and Service of Papers .

For discussion and forms for use in applications for orders shortening or extending time, see Ch. 524, Shortening and Extension of Time .

For discussion and forms relating to the procedures for preparing and filing particular motions, demurrers, and petitions, beyond the procedures relating specifically to memoranda, see the chapters covering the specific proceeding. See, for example, the following:

- Ch. 38, Reference.
- Ch. 125, Consolidation, Severance, and Coordination of Actions.
- Ch. 136, Continuances.

- Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees.
- Ch. 190, Depositions and Discovery.
- Ch. 303, Injunctions.
- Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings.
- Ch. 303, Injunctions.
- Ch. 314, Interpleader.
- Ch. 318, Judgments.
- Ch. 323, Jurisdiction: Personal Jurisdiction, Inconvenient Forum, and Appearances.
- Ch. 324, Jurisdiction: Subject Matter Jurisdiction.
- Ch. 324, Jurisdiction: Subject Matter.
- Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition.
- Ch. 371, Motions After Trial.
- Ch. 373, Motions in Limine.
- Ch. 374, Motions to Reconsider and Renewed Motions.
- Ch. 375 Motions to Strike: Pleadings.
- Ch. 376 Motions to Strike: Anti-SLAPP.
- Ch. 389 Nonsuit and Motions for Judgment.
- Ch. 486, Receivers.
- Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers.
- Ch. 537, Summary Judgment.
- Ch. 571, Venue.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJurisdictionGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJurisdictionPersonal Jurisdiction & In Rem ActionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureVenueGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticePleadingsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticePleadingsComplaintsCross-ComplaintsCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticePleadingsTime LimitationsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticePleadingsTime

LimitationsExtensionsCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticeService of ProcessMethodsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticeService of ProcessMethodsElectronic MeansCivil ProcedurePretrial JudgmentsNonsuitsGeneral Overview

84 of 197 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
PART I. SCOPE

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 417.03-417.09

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

[Reserved]

§§ 417.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 417.10

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

§ 417.10 Governing Law

The form and content of memoranda are governed by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 1.200, 3.1113, 3.1114, and more generally by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1100, 3.1103, 3.1110, 3.1112, 3.1350, and 3.1200-3.1207. Memoranda are also subject to the general rules governing papers served and filed with the court [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.20 et seq., 2.100 et seq., and 3.101 et seq.].

To promote statewide uniformity, the rules of court adopted by the Judicial Council preempt local court rules dealing with the form and format of papers, as well as local court rules relating to pleadings, demurrers, ex parte applications, motions, discovery, and provisional remedies [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.20; see § 417.13].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProceduresPleading & PracticeGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticeMotion PracticeGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticePleadingsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsCourtsRule Application & Interpretation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 417.11

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

§ 417.11 Nature and Purpose of Points and Authorities

A memorandum is a brief that is required to be submitted to the court in support of most motions, applications and petitions to the court for relief.

The memorandum

- States the facts;
- Identifies the issues;
- Summarizes the arguments in short, argumentative headings;
- Presents the argument in regular paragraphs; and
- States a conclusion.

Memoranda are required for a variety of trial court motions including motions to dismiss, motions for summary judgment, motions for new trials, and other motions in superior court [see discussion in § 417.14].

The purpose of a memorandum is to persuade the court to adopt the legal and factual arguments in support of a party's position on a particular motion, petition, application, discovery, or other matter. The points and authorities is usually submitted with other moving papers, such as a notice of motion, a petition, or an ex parte application, and a proposed order [see discussion in § 417.18]. A memorandum is often supported by declarations or affidavits that may also authenticate evidentiary exhibits. Declarations, exhibits, or other papers may also accompany an opposing memorandum when the opposing party needs to rely on facts not previously of record in the case.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProceduresPleading & PracticeMotion PracticeGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticePleadingsGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresSummary JudgmentOppositionGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresSummary JudgmentSupporting MaterialsMemoranda of LawCivil ProceduresJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 417.12

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

§ 417.12 Points and Authorities Compared With Briefs

[1] Trial Brief

Memoranda, like appellate briefs, are designed to seek or oppose a specific ruling or request for relief based on a fixed record of evidence provided to the court, whether in the form of affidavits, exhibits, evidence subject to judicial notice, or the record of a prior court proceeding.

By contrast, trial briefs serve a different purpose altogether. Generally a trial brief is not supported by evidence, and is submitted to the trial judge shortly before or at the commencement of trial to provide that judge with a "road map" of the trial. It summarizes and anticipates evidence to be presented at the trial. It alerts the judge to the legal and evidentiary issues expected to arise during the trial. Optimally, whether the judge presides over a jury or sits as the finder of fact, a trial brief educates the judge concerning the issues to be resolved and also guides the judge persuasively in making all the rulings or findings that he or she will be expected to decide during the trial.

[2] Appellate Brief

Memoranda in support a motion or an appellate brief both seek or oppose a request for specific relief based on the record that is before the court. The memorandum is the trial court equivalent of the appellate brief, though the memorandum is usually shorter and less elaborate. Memoranda are written to support a variety of trial court motions, some of which may be quite important and some of which are not. An appeal, however, is a major undertaking and will usually involve more work and more imaginative argument than a memorandum of points and authorities.

A writer can make a novel argument in a memorandum, but is more likely to do so in an appellate brief, knowing that a high appellate tribunal is ready to consider broader questions of law and policy. The breadth and innovation in argument therefore increases from the points and authorities to the brief along with the significance of the questions and the level of the court.

The memorandum also differs from the appellate brief in that the brief requires many features usually absent in the memorandum of points and authorities, such as a cover page, a table of contents, a table of authorities, a jurisdictional statement, and a statement of questions presented. Note, however, that a memorandum longer than 10 pages must have a table of contents and a table of authorities [Cal Rules of Ct. Rule 3.1113(f)].

For discussion and forms relating to appellate briefs, see Ch. 50, Appeal: Briefs .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProceduresPleading & PracticeMotion PracticeGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticeMotion PracticeOpposing MemorandaCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticeMotion PracticeSupporting MemorandaCivil ProceduresJudicial OfficersJudgesGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresAppealsBriefs

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 417.13

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

§ 417.13 Impact of Statewide Rules of Court

The California Rules of Court and various statutes specify when a memorandum of points and authorities must be filed [see discussion in § 417.14]. The rules also set out statewide requirments relating to the form and format of both papers generally and memoranda specifically [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.100-2.119 (papers to be filed), 3.1100 et seq. (format of motion papers), 3.1200 et seq. (ex parte applications), 3.1300 et seq. (particular motions)].

The Judicial Council has preempted the field with respect to the form and format of papers, as well as with respect to requirements for pleadings, demurrers, ex parte applications, motions, discovery, and provisional remedies [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.20]. The intent is to establish statewide uniformity in the requirements governing these areas, and thus local rules attempting to impose additional requirements in these areas may not be enacted or enforced.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProceduresPleading & PracticeMotion PracticeContent & FormCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticePleadingsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsCourtsRule Application & Interpretation

89 of 197 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 417.14

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

§ 417.14 When Supporting Points and Authorities Are Used

[1] Points and Authorities Are Usually Required

[a] To Support Demurrer or Notice of Motion

A supporting memorandum is recommended, and, in almost all cases now, is required, for motions, applications, or petitions that may be made or opposed by any party in an action [see also discussion of examples in [2], below, and discussion relating to the use of opposing memoranda in § 417.15].

One of the main rules regarding supporting memorandum is that set out in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113, which requires that a supporting memorandum accompany a demurrer or a notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1113(a); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1112(a) (papers filed in support of a motion must consist, at least, of a notice of hearing on the motion, the motion itself, and a memorandum in support of the motion); for discussion of when a notice of motion is required, see discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 1005 in Ch. 372, Motions and Orders].

The requirements of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a), as well as the other requirements set out in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1100 et seq., apply to all proceedings in civil law and motion, as defined in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1103(a), and also to discovery conducted in family law and probate proceedings [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1100].

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1103(a) defines "law and motion" to include the following proceedings:

- On application before trial for an order, except for causes arising under the Welfare and Institutions Code, the Probate Code, the Family Code, or Code Civ. Proc., §§ 527.6, 527.7, and 527.8 (injunctive relieffrom harassment, domestic violence, gang violence, and violence to employees) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1103(a)(1)].

- On application for an order regarding enforcement of judgments, attachment, appointment of receivers, obtaining or setting aside default judgments, writs of review, mandate, and prohibition, petitions to compel arbitration, and enforcement of arbitration awards [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1103(a)(2)].

[b] To Support Motion for New Trial

A party seeking a new trial is required to file a memorandum in support of the motion within 10 days of filing the notice of intention to move for a new trial [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1600(a); see also further discussion and forms in Ch. 371, Motions After Trial].

[c] To Support Petition for Extraordinary Writ

The requirement that a memorandum be filed in support of a petition for a writ of mandate, prohibition, or review may reasonably be inferred from the fact that such petitions are subject to the requirements of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1100 et seq., including Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a) (discussed in [a], above) [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1103(a)(2); see also [a], above], and from statututory references and requirements that render such petitions equivalent to a "notice of motion" [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1003 ("motion" as application for an order), Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1088, 1089, 1090, 1107 (all referring to petition as "motion" or "application" and including minimum notice requirements)].

[d] To Support Ex Parte Application

A memorandum must be included with an ex parte application [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1201]. One exception to this rule is that a memorandum is not required, but may be included, when filing an application for an order extending time to serve pleadings and the application is filed on a Judicial Council form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1114(a)(2), (b)]. For discussion of this application, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

The personal appearance of an applicant is required for all ex parte applications, with few exceptions, one of them being that a personal appearance is not required for an application to file a memorandum in excess of the applicable page limit as permitted by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(e) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.120(1)]. For a form of an ex parte application for leave to file a memorandum in excess of the applicable page limit, including supporting declaration and proposed order, see § 417.51.

For further discussion and forms relating to ex parte applications in general, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

[2] Types of Proceedings for Use of Supporting Memoranda

The motions, applications, or petitions in which a memorandum must be used range from prediscovery to post trial and can be grouped roughly as follows:

- Motions on the pleadings: Motions that are usually made before discovery and include demurrers [see Code Civ. Proc. § 430.40], motions to strike [see Code Civ. Proc. § 435], motions for judgment on the pleadings [see Code Civ Proc. § 438; Hibernia S. & L. Soc. v. Thornton (1897) 117 Cal. 481, 482, 49 P. 573 ; Coyne v. Krempels (1950) 36 Cal. 2d 257, 262, 223 P. 2d 244] , and motions for leave to amend [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 472, 473(a)].

- Procedural motions: These may be made pretrial or, in some cases, throughout the litigation and include interpleader [see Code Civ. Proc. § 386] and motions for change of venue [see Code Civ. Proc. § 397], to add parties [see Code Civ. Proc. § 389], to sever or to consolidate [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1048], to certify or decertify a class [see Code Civ. Proc. § 382], to advance or continue [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 594 et seq., 1054], to stay the action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 410.30], and motions for trial preferences [see Code. Civ. Proc. § 36].

- Temporary restraining orders, injunctions; and motions for appointment of a receiver. Injunctive relief and applications for appointment of a receiver require quick work under heavy time pressure for counsel as well as the court. In addition, the moving party has the difficult burden of showing a likelihood of success in order to obtain injunctive relief [see Code Civ. Proc § 526]. Similarly, the burden for appointment of a receiver may also be difficult [Code Civ. Proc § 564]. Thus, in proceedings in which injunctive relief or a receivership is sought, the memorandum takes on special significance.

- Applications for other provisional remedies: An application for writ of attachment, for example, requires a memorandum if the Judicial Council form of request for writ is used as a notice of motion [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005, 1010; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1103(a)(2), 3.1113(a)].

- Discovery motions: Motions for protective orders and motions to compel some form of discovery such as protective orders [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2017(c) (Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.020 operative July 1, 2005); Code Civ. Proc. § 2018 (Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.030 operative July 1, 2005); Code Civ. Proc. § 2019(b) (Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.030 operative July 1, 2005)], motions to compel [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025(o) (Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480 operative July 1, 2005); Code Civ. Proc. § 2030(k) (Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.290 operative July 1, 2005)], and motions for monetary and issue and evidentiary sanctions [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023 (Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.020, 2023.030, 2023.040 operative July 1, 2005)].

- Summary judgment and summary adjudication motions: Important, time-consuming, and often costly motions that may dispose of large parts of an action if successful [see Code Civ. Proc. § 437c]. Because these motions can be complex, the supporting and opposing memoranda may be longer than other memoranda [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(e); see discussion in § 417.19[1][c]].

- Motions in limine: Motions that are usually made on the day of trial or a few days before trial at the last pretrial conference and are designed to obtain rulings on key evidence questions so as to preclude reference to highly prejudicial evidence or to ensure that particular evidence is admissible [see Akins v. County of Sonoma (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 185, 60 Cal. Rptr. 499, 430 P.2d 57 ; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 128(a)(3), 128(a)(8), Evid. Code §§ 350, 352].

- Other strategic pretrial motions: Strategic motions not listed in other categories that may arise under the particular circumstances of a case that include motions to limit the number of experts or the scope of an expert's testimony [see Horn v. General Motors Corp. (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 359, 371, 131 Cal. Rptr. 78, 551 P.2d 398] and motions for reconsideration [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1008].

- Post-trial motions: Motions that include those for judgment notwithstanding the verdict [see Code Civ. Proc. § 629], for new trial [see Code Civ. Proc. § 657], to tax costs [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1700(b)(1)], and for entry of judgment by stipulation [Code Civ. Proc. § 664.6].

- Petitions for writs of mandate and prohibition: Petitions that may constitute the equivalent of appellate briefs in importance, especially when the petition is used to obtain review of nonappealable interlocutory orders [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1084 et seq. (mandate), Code Civ. Proc. § 1102 et seq. (prohibition)].

The foregoing list is not exhaustive. For a list of chapters discussing particular motions and proceedings in which points and authorities are used, see § 417.02.

Note that a trial brief is not listed among the categories above because its function is different from that of a memorandum of points and authorities [see § 417.12[1]].

[3] When Memorandum Specifically Not Required But May Be Filed or Ordered

Civil motions, applications, and petitions filed on Judicial Council forms do not require a supporting memorandum in the following circumstances [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1114(a)]:

- Application for appointment of guardian ad litem in a civil case.
- Application for an order extending time to serve pleading.
- Motion to be relieved as counsel.
- Motion filed in small claims case.
- Petition for change of name or gender.
- Petition for declaration of emancipation of minor.
- Petition for injunction prohibiting harassment.
- Petition for protective order to prevent elder or dependent adult abuse.
- Petition of employer for injunction prohibiting workplace violence.
- Petition for order prohibiting abuse (transitional housing).
- Petition to approve compromise of claim of a minor or an incompetent person.
- Petition for withdrawal of funds from blocked account.

If it would further the interests of justice, a party may submit, or the court may order the submission of, a memorandum in support of any motion, application, or petition; and the memorandum must comply with Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1114(b)].

[4] Effect of Failure to File Required Supporting Memorandum

The absence of a memorandum in support of a demurrer or notice of motion, when required under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a) (discussed in [1][a], above), may be construed by the court as an admission that the motion or special demurrer is not meritorious and cause for its denial and, in the case of a demurrer, as a waiver of all grounds not supported [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a)].

Absent a memorandum in support of a motion for new trial, required under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1600 (discussed in [1][b], above), the court may deny the motion without a hearing on the merits [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProceduresPleading & PracticeMotion PracticeOpposing MemorandaCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticeMotion PracticeSupporting MemorandaCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticePleadingsAmended PleadingsGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticePleadingsAmended PleadingsLeave of CourtCivil ProceduresPartiesInterpleadersGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresDiscoveryGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresSummary

JudgmentOppositionGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 417.15

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

§ 417.15 When Opposing Points and Authorities Are Used

Opposing memoranda are generally permitted, but not mandatory [see, e.g., Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1600 (permitting memoranda in opposition to motion for new trial to be served and filed within 10 days after service of supporting memorandum)]. Opposing memoranda are, however, strongly recommended.

As a courtesy to the court, a party not opposing a motion or other application should file a statement of nonopposition on or before the date on which a written opposition is due.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProceduresPleading & PracticeMotion PracticeGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticeMotion PracticeOpposing MemorandaCivil ProceduresJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentMotions for New Trials

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 417.16

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

§ 417.16 When Reply Points and Authorities Are Used

A reply memorandum should be used only when an opposing memorandum raises issues or evidence that were not been sufficiently addressed in the supporting memorandum. In some instances it is sound strategy not to anticipate issues in the supporting memorandaum. For example, a plaintiff submitting a memorandum in support of a motion for summary judgment may not wish to give the opposition ammunition by anticipating an affirmative defenses that might be available to the defendant, but address such a defense in a reply memorandum only in the event that it is in fact raised by the defendant in his or her opposing papers.

Reply memoranda should be concisely tailored to this one purpose, of presenting argument to the opposing papers not already addressed in the supporting memorandum [see, e.g., Bergman v. Rifkind & Sterling, Inc. (1991) 227 Cal. App. 3d 1380, 1384, 1386-1387, 278 Cal. Rptr. 583 (distinguishing between reply to opposition and document that merely provided procedural update for the court's convenience)]. A reply memoranda should not attempt to raise issues not previously raised in the either the supporting or oppossing memoranda. Thus, for example, an entirely new issue based on evidence not previously presented or put into issue should only be presented by way of a separate, subsenquent motion for reconsideration [see Ch. 374, Motions to Reconsider and Renewed Motions].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureSummary JudgmentOppositionGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureSummary JudgmentOppositionMemoranda in OppositionCivil ProcedureSummary JudgmentSupporting MaterialsGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 417.17

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

§ 417.17 Time for Filing Memoranda

[1] Supporting Memoranda

The supporting memorandum must be filed along with the moving papers [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005, 1010; see also discussion in § 417.19[1][g]; but see, e.g., Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.160 (memorandum supporting motion for new trial to be served and filed within 10 days after filing notice of intention to move for new trial)].

Unless otherwise ordered or specifically provided by law, moving and supporting papers in law and motion proceedings must be served and filed in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 1005 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.130(a)], that is, at least 16 court days before the hearing, with specified additions to this period when the notice of motion is served by mail, facsimile transmission, express mail, or other method of overnight delivery [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b); for further discussion, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders]. The time for serving and filing supporting papers is, in fact, otherwise specified in certain types of motions [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 437c(a) (motion for summary judgment requiring 75 days notice)]. For a list of chapters discussing the deadlines for serving and filing particular motions, applications, and petitions, see § 417.02.

Service and filing deadlines for moving papers are generally subject to court orders shortening or extending time [see, e.g., Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule3.1300(b) (procedure for order shortening time)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 524, Shortening and Extension of Time .

[2] Opposing Memoranda

As discussed in [1], above, most moving papers in law and motion proceedings are subject to the notice requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b). All papers opposing a motion noticed under Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b) must be filed, and a copy served on each party, at least 9 court days before the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)].

One exception is any opposition to a motion for summary judgment, which must be filed 14 days before hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 437c(b)]. These filing deadlines are subject to court orders shortening or extending time [see Ch. 524, Shortening and Extension of Time].

Papers opposing motions, demurrers, applications, and petitions are typically filed in the clerk's office. Counsel should, however, check local practices.

[3] Reply Memoranda

Generally, reply papers must be filed, and a copy served on each party, at least five court days before the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b), (c); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 437c(b)(4) (reply in summary judgment proceeding must be served and filed not less than five days preceding the hearing)].

[4] Late-Filed Papers

A paper submitted before the close of the clerk's office to the public on the day the paper is due is deemed timely filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(e)].

Nonetheless, no paper may be rejected for filing on the ground that it was submitted for filing after the time set forth in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300. If the court, in its discretion, refuses to consider a late-filed paper, the minutes or order must so indicate [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(d)].

PRACTICE TIP:

File All Papers on Time. Do not use Rule 3.1300 as a crutch. Notwithstanding Rules of Court, Rule 3.1300, which requires the clerk to accept late filed papers, some clerks will refuse to do so. Such refusal may necessitate counsel filing an ex parte application to file a late brief--a time consuming task. Evelio M. Grillo, Esq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProceduresPleading & PracticeMotion PracticeGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticeMotion PracticeSupporting MemorandaCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticePleadingsTime LimitationsGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticePleadingsTime LimitationsExtensionsCivil ProceduresSummary JudgmentNoticesCivil ProceduresSummary JudgmentOppositionGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresSummary JudgmentSupporting MaterialsGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresSummary JudgmentTime LimitationsCivil ProceduresJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentMotions for New Trials

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 417.18

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

§ 417.18 Time for Service of Memoranda

Papers are generally required to be served on or about the date on which they must be filed [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b) (moving papers tobe filed and served 16 court days before hearing)]. Papers supporting a motion must accompany the written notice of motion and must be served as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1011 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010]. The papers served, including any supporting memorandum, must be a copy of those that have been or are to be filed with the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)].

Counsel should consult local rules for additional requirements relating to service of papers.

PRACTICE TIP:

Avoid Malpractice and Check Filing Deadlines. Do not assume that all memoranda are to be filed within the time limits proscribed by Code Civ. Proc., §§ 1005 and 1010, as some supporting and opposing pleadings for motions and petitions (including the memoranda of points and authorities) are required by statute to be filed with more or less notice as, for example, motions for summary judgment [Code Civ. Proc., § 437c (opposition due 14 days before the hearing date)]; and petitions to compel arbitration [Code Civ. Proc., § 1290.6 (opposition due ten days after service of petition)]. In the case of an opposition to a petition to compel arbitration, the ten-day time limit for filing the opposition is jurisdictional! Unless you are absolutely sure of the time limits for filing supporting and opposing the pleadings for a particular motion or petition, always confirm the applicable time limits for filing the opening and responsive pleadings. Evelio M. Grillo, Esq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProceduresPleading & PracticeMotion PracticeGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticePleadingsGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresSummary JudgmentNoticesCivil ProceduresSummary JudgmentOppositionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 417.19

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

§ 417.19 Format Requirements for Memoranda of Points and Authorities

[1] Format Requirements Specifically Applicable to Memoranda

[a] Applicability of Rule 3.1113 Requirements

A memorandum filed in support of a motion must comply with the requirements of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113 (as discussed in [b]-[h], below).

[b] Contents of Memoranda

A memorandum filed in support of a motion must comply with the requirements. A memorandum of points and authorities must contain the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(b)]:

- A statement of facts.
- A concise statement of the law.
- Evidence and arguments upon which the memorandum relies.
- A discussion of the statutes, cases, and textbooks cited in support of the position advanced.

A memorandum that exceeds 10 pages must also include a table of contents and a table of authorities [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(f)]. Any table of authorities should list, in alphabetical order, federal cases first, and then state cases. The page or pages on which each case is cited should appear directly opposite each case name in the table. Cases should be followedby statutes, also in alphabetical order by code title, with federal statutes preceding state statutes. Secondary sources, such as law review articles, treatises, or textbooks, should be included after statutes. This order is not, however, established in stone or by rule: it is accepted practice, for example, to cite the more relevant state authority before federal authority in memoranda filed in state trial courts. The tabling of statutory authority priot to case authority is also sometimes used, as it is the more logical arrangement of primary authority.

A memorandum that exceeds 15 pages must also include an opening summary of argument [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(f)].

[c] Limits on Length of Memoranda

[i] General Rule

An opening (supporting) or responding (opposing) memorandum must not exceed 15 pages, except in the case of memorandum supporting or opposing a motion for summary judgment or summary adjudication, which must not exceed 20 pages. A closing (reply) memorandum must not exceed 10 pages [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(d)].

These page limits do not include the following elements of a memorandum [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(d)]:

- A table of contents or table of authorities.
- Exhibits.
- Declarations (or affidavits).
- Any attachment other than an exhibit or declaration.
- Proof of service.

If a memorandum includes a table of contents and table of authorities, the caption page also appears to be excluded in calculating the page length of a memorandum. Pagination requirements provide that, when a memorandum includes such tables, the caption page is not to be numbered, the tables are to be numbered separately using lower-case Roman numerals, and the consecutive numbering of the memorandum itself is to begin, using Arabic numerals, on the first page of the text [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(h) and discussion in [2][d], below].

Counsel should avoid any temptation to circumvent the page-limit requirements by way of utilizing any format "sleight of hand," as distinguished from the procedure for obtaining leave to file a longer memorandum (discussed in [ii], below). Such practices have been condemned by courts when used to circumvent similar page limits on briefs [see Marriage of Green (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 14, 28, 261 Cal. Rptr. 294 (appellate brief deemed an "insult" to the court when it included an unpaginated "Introduction", unpaginated "exhibits" that contained discussion which was properly a part of the brief, and an excessive use of single-spaced footnotesthat also included discussion and text other than citations)]. See also the discussion in § 417.20[3][a], relating to concise writing a brevity as a drafting consideration.

Any memorandum filed in excess of the applicable page limits, without leave (discussed in [ii], below), is filed and considered in the same manner as a late filed paper [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(g)]. In other words, the trial court has discretion to refuse to consider the memorandum, but must so indicate in its minutes or order [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(e) and discussion in § 417.17[4]].

[ii] Procedure for Leave to File Longer Memorandum

A party may apply to the court, ex parte but with written notice of the application to the other parties, at least 24 hours before the memorandum is due, for permission to file a longer memorandum. This application must state reasons why the argument cannot be made within the standard limits [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(e)].

It is advisable to apply well in advance of the 24-hour deadline, in order to allow time to bring a overly long memorandum into compliance if the application is denied.

For forms of ex parte application and supporting declaration for leave to file a memorandum in excess of these page limits, see § 417.51.

[d] Citation Requirements

[i] Citation Style

Citations to cases and other authorities in all documents filed in the courts must be in the style established by either [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.200]:

- California Style Manual, prepared by the Reporter of Decisions and used by California appellate courts in both their published and unpublished opinions.

- The Bluebook: Uniform System of Citation.

A party may choose to use either citation style, but once chosen that style must be used consistently throughout a memorandum [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.200].

[ii] Citing to Case Authority

A case citation must include the official report volume, page number, and year of decision, and no other citations are required [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(c)]. This presumes, of course, that a cited case has been published in the official reports. When citing to an unpublished case or case not yet published in the official reports, cite the case as recommend bythe citation style manual being used for the memorandum (as discussed in [i], above), and attach a copy of the case as discussed in [iii], below.

The page number of a case citation, as required under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(c), should always include not only the first page of the particular opinion, but also the specific page or pages that contain the particular discussion or point of law for which the case is being cited. Some local court rules require or recommend such "point page" citation. While local requirements of this type are no longer controlling, in the sense that the statewide court rules have preempted the field of "form and format" [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.20, and discussion in § 417.13], the use of "point page" references is nevertheless useful to the courts and a sound practice that is highly recommended. Moreoever, although Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(c), may be construed so as not to require the inclusion of point pages, parallel citations, or other standard case citation elements not expressly mentioned in the rule, it certainly does not prohibit their inclusion.

[iii] When Attachment of Copies of Cited Authorities Are Required

If a memorandum cites any authority other than California cases, statutes, constitutional provisions or state or local rules, a copy of that authority must be lodged with the memorandum and tabbed as an exhibit as required by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110(f) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(i); for discussion of requirements applicable to exhibits under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110(f), see [2][e], below]. The same requirement applies to any California case cited as authority, when that case has not yet been published in the Advance Sheets of the Official Reports [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(i)].

The requirement of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(i), appears to include not only non-California authority but California autority not expressly included in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(i), such as California administrative regulations, local charter provisions, or other unusual matter.

If a California case is cited before the time it is published in the advance sheets of the Official Reports, a copy of that case must also be lodged and tabbed as required by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110(f) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(i)].

Note also that, if a memorandum cites to an unpublished California case, under the limited circumstances permitted under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.1115(b), or if it cites to an opinion of any court that is available only a computer-based source of decisional law, a copy of such case or opinion must be furnished to the court and all parties by attaching it to the memorandum [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.1115(c); for discussion of citing to unpublished cases under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.1115(b), see § 417.20[3][b][ii]]. It is recommended that a copy of the unpublished case by lodged with the court and tabbed as an exhibit as required by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110(f).

If counsel's memorandum does not cite a case pursuant to Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.1115(c), but counsel expects to do so orally, for example, in a subsequent hearing to which the memorandum relates, he or she must furnish a copy to the court and to all parties within a reasonable time in advance of the oral citation [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.1115(c)].

[e] References to Declarations and Exhibits

References in a memorandum to a declaration, affidavit, or exhibit must include the number or letter of the exhibit, the specific page, and, if applicable, the paragraph or line number [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(k)].

[f] Requests for Judicial Notice

If a memorandum relies on evidence or matters that subject to judicial notice, such judicial notice must be requested in a separate document that lists the specific items for which notice is requested, and the document must comply with the requirements of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1301(c) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(l); see also discussion of matters subject to judicial notice in § 417.21[5]]. For further discussion of the requirements of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1306(c) and a form of request for judicial notice, see Ch. 321, Judicial Notice .

[g] Attaching or Combining the Memorandum With Other Papers

To the extent practicable, all supporting memoranda, declarations, and affidavits must be attached to the notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(j)].

A supporting memorandum may also be actually combined in a single document with the motion itself, with the notice of hearing on the motion, or withboth [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1112(a), (c)]. If a supporting memorandum is combined with a motion and the notice of hearing, the caption of the combined document must specify the supporting memorandum as one of the separate items included in the combined document [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1112(c); for a general form of motion combined with the notice of hearing and supporting memorandum, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders]. In this instance, declarations and affidavits would then be attached to the combined document, to the extent practicable, under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(j).

PRACTICE TIP:

Combining the Memorandum With the Motion and Notice of Motion. Before the adoption of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1112 (formerly Rule 312) in 1997, the common practice was to file a notice of motion with a supporting memorandum and supporting declarations (if applicable); in most instances the notice of motion was also considered to be written motion as well. The notice of motion and supporting memorandum were commonlycombined or attached, together with any supporting declarations. Now, rather than prepare the motion and notice of motion (or hearing) as separate documents, it is likely that most practitioners will combine the two as permitted under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1112(c). Under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1112(c) and Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(j), practitioners may then either combine or attach the supporting memorandum with the motion and notice of motion, although it appears that supporting declarations must be prepared as separate documents to be attached if practicable. Combining the memorandum with the motion and notice of motion should prove to be a common practice so long as practitioners take care to use an appropriate caption that specifies all combined elements. Evelio M. Grillo, Esq.

If a supporting memorandum is prepared as a separate document, it much conform to the caption requirements discussed in [2][b], below, even when it is ultimately attached to the notice of motion.

For a skeletal form of memorandum prepared as a separate document, see § 417.50.

[h] Proposed Orders

If a party prepares a proposed order or judgment, it must be lodged and served with, but not attached to, a supporting memorandum and other moving papers [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(m)]. For further discussion and forms relating to proposed orders generally, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

[2] Format Requirements Applicable to All Law and Motion Papers

[a] Applicability of General Rules

The format of a memorandum is subject to the general format requirements applicable generally to papers filed in trial courts, including the requirements of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.100-2.119 and the requirements of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110 [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1100, 3.1103(a), 3.20; see also § 417.13]. For detailed discussion of the requirements of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.101-2.106, dealing with such things as size of papers, type style, pagination, use of recycled paper, etc., see [d], below, and Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints. For discussion of the requirements of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110, see [b]-[e], below.

[b] First Page

The first page of the memorandum, if the memorandum is prepared as a separate document (see [1][g], above), must be in the following form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1111; see also Ch. 108, Captions and Introductions]:

- In the space commencing with line 1, to the left of the center of the page, the name, office address or, if none, residence address, telephone number, fax number and e-mail address (if available), and State Bar membership number of the attorney for the party in whose behalf the paper is presented, or of the party if he or she is appearing in person. Inclusion of a fax number and e-mail address on any document is not deemed to be consent to service by either fax or e-mail unless otherwise provided by law.

- The space between lines 1 and 7 to the right of the center of the page must be left blank for the use of the clerk.

- On or below line 8, the title of the court.

- Below the title of the court, in the space to the left of the center of the page, the title of the case.

- To the right of and opposite the title, the case number.

- Below the case number, the nature of the paper, such as, e.g., "MEMORANDUM SUPPORTING DEMURRER TO SECOND AMENDED COMPLAINT."

- Below the nature of the paper or the character of the action or proceeding, the name of the judge and department, if any, to which the case is assigned.

- Below the case number, if the paper is filed in a case pending before a referee appointed under Code Civ. Proc. § 638 or 639, the word "Referee:" followed by the referee's name.

- If a limited civil case, in the caption the words: "Limited Civil Case" as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 422.30(b).

In addition, the first page must specify immediately below the case number, (1) the date, time, and location, if ascertainable, of any scheduled hearing and the name of the hearing judge, if ascertainable; (2) the nature or title of any attached document other than an exhibit; and (3) the date of filing of the action, and (4) the trial date, if set [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110(b)].

The first page, and all other pages, must be used on one side only, and the lines on the page must generally be one and one-half or double spaced and numbered consecutively [see Cal. Rule of Ct., Rules 2.102, 2.108].

[c] Reference to Previously Filed Papers

Any paper previously filed must be referred to by date of execution and title [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110(d)].

[d] Binding and Pagination

All pages of the memorandum and each exhibit must be attached together at the top by a method that permits pages to be easily turned and the entire content of each page to be read [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1110(e)].Documents bound together must be numbered consecutively at the bottom [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.109; see also [f], below, regarding descriptive footers required to be placed under each page number].

If a memorandum includes a table of contents and table of authorities, it must be paginated as follows notwithstanding any other rule: the caption page or pages is not to be numbered, the pages of the tables are to be numbered consecutively using lower-case Roman numerals starting on the first page of the tables, and the pages of the text of the memorandum are to be numbered consecutively using Arabic numerals starting on the first page of the text [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(h)].

[e] Exhibits

If the memorandum has exhibits, each must be separated by a hard 81/2 by 11 inch sheet with hard paper or plastic tabs extending below the bottom of the page, bearing the designation of the exhibit. An index to exhibits must be provided. Pages from a single deposition and associated exhibits must be designated as a single exhibit. Exhibits in a foreign language must be accompanied by an English translation, certified under oath by a qualified interpreter [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110(f)].

[f] Footer With Title of Paper Required on Each Page

Each paper filed with the court, except for exhibits, must bear on each page a footer in the bottom margin. The footer must be placed below the page number and separated from the rest of the page by a printed horizontal line. The footer is required to include the title of the paper or some clear and concise abbreviation of the title [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.110(h) (also providing two examples of abbreviations: "Complaint" and "XYZ Corp.'s Motion for Summary Judgment")]. The footer may be single-spaced [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.108]. The title or abbreviated title given in the footer must be in at least 10-point type [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.110(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProceduresPleading & PracticeMotion PracticeGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticeMotion PracticeOpposing MemorandaCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticeMotion PracticeSupporting MemorandaCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticePleadingsComplaintsCross-ComplaintsCivil ProceduresSummary JudgmentSupporting MaterialsMemoranda of LawGovernmentsCourtsRule Application & Interpretation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 417.20

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

§ 417.20 Drafting Considerations

[1] Introduction or Summary of Argument

Although not required by statute or rule, it is usually a good idea to include an introduction of one to two sentences in the memorandum. The introduction helps the court focus on which parties' brief the court is reading, the nature of the motion, and whether the brief is supporting or opposing the pending motion. An example of a simple introduction would be as follows: "This memorandum is submitted on behalf of plaintiff Jones and against defendant Smith in support of plaintiff Jones' Motion for Summary Judgment."

A memorandum that exceeds 15 pages must include an opening summary of argument [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule § 3.1113(f)].An opening summary of argument should precede the statement of facts and may be combined with the Introduction.

[2] Statement of Facts

A memorandum must contain a statement of facts [Cal. Rules of Court, Rule 3.1113(b)]. The statement should be complete and accurate, setting forth all important facts and sufficient additional facts to give the court a sense of the equities favoring the party's position.

The facts are derived either from the pleadings, from evidence presented with the moving or opposing papers, or matters subject to judicial notice [see discussion in § 417.21].

[3] Statement of Law, Evidence, and Arguments

[a] The Argument Relating Facts and Law

The memorandum must contain a concise statement of the law, evidence, and arguments relied on, and a discussion of the statutes, cases, and textbooks cited in support of the position advanced [Cal. Rules of Court, Rule 3.1113(b)]. This section is usually entitled "Argument" or "Discussion" in the points and authorities.

Depending on the complexity of the issues presented and the length of the memorandum, these elements may be organized in a number of ways. One of the clearest ways is in sections lettered consecutively and preceded by argumentative headings that make strong, affirmative statements supporting the party's position.

There is no requirement in the rules of court that a memorandum in support of a motion for summary judgment or summary adjudication be organized by cause of action [Hope Int'l Univ. v. Superior Court (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 719, 723, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 643] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Consider Your Audience and Be Concise. One of the most common mistakes made by counsel when submitting a memorandum to the trial court is counsel's failure to consider the audience. The memorandum should be crafted with due consideration given to the practical realities faced by the court. For example, a voluminous brief supported by an extensive record may be well received by an appellate court considering a policy issue of substantial significance with unlimited time to scour the record and conduct supplemental research. The same brief submitted in support of a simple discovery or law an motion matter can work to counsel disadvantage because of the time constraints and burdens imposed on law and motion judges by busy calendars. Limiting the evidence presented and the discussion of the legal points necessary to decide the motion before the judge will often work to counsel's advantage.

Another common mistake made by counsel when preparing a memorandum is to make the points and authorities too long. Most routine motions should not require a points and authorities in excess of five to ten pages if the motion is well thought out, well written, and to the point. Some motions, of necessity, must be of greater length. Do not spend an inordinate amount of time reciting page after page a legal standard of which the court is aware (for example, demurrers decide questions of law and not facts). Do not waste space and the court's time by engaging in invective and personal attacks on opposing counsel. The most effective briefs are short, well-crafted and to the point pleading. Counsel will incur the displeasure of the court if, after, seeking relief from the page limitation requirement, a brief is submitted which contains page after page of personal attack, extended discussion of a legal standard which could be handled in a paragraph, or the recitation of irrelevant, nondispositive facts. Evelio M. Grillo, Esq.

[b] Reliance on Authorities

[i] General Considerations

In citing cases, it is most effective and economical to follow these guidelines:

- Cite to the highest legal authority that is binding and supports the party's position.

- Cite to the most recent case for a particular legal proposition. If the highest authority for the proposition is not a recent one, cite that authority and a lower but more recent authority to show the proposition remains valid.

- Cite court of appeal cases from the appellate district in which the action is pending when possible because authority from the district in which any appeal will be heard will likely be more persuasive to the trial judge.

- Avoid string citations when one case is dispositive. A string of citations dealing with a single legal proposition may be useful only when contrary authority exists among various appellate courts: in this situation listing the pertinent cases with explanation acknowledges contrary cases and indicates the weight of authority for a proposition.

- Cite all relevant legal authority, even that which may not necessarily be favorable to one's position [see Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 5-200]. Acknowledge contrary legal authority by distinguishing those cases on the facts or on the law. These cases will likely be identified either in the opposing papers or by the court's research attorneys. Thus, to ignore contrary cases will lead to losing credibility with the court.

- Verify that the cited case law is current and valid. The easiest way to do this is to check the status of all cases cited in Shepard'sCalifornia Citations, or the Shepard's volume for the relevant jurisdiction, just before filing the memorandum.

- Avoid excessive use of headnotes. Do not rely exclusively on case headnotes or treatise interpretations of a case, because headnotes and treatises can be wrong and do not give the reader the full context of the decision.

[ii] Unpublished and "Depublished" Opinions

An opinion of the court of appeal or the appellate division of a superior court that is not certified for publication or ordered published generally may not be cited or relied on by a court or a party in any other action or proceeding [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.1115(a)]. Unpublished opinions include those that have been superseded by a grant of revision, rehearing, or other action (unless the California Supreme Court orders otherwise) [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.1105(d); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 8.264 (finality), 8.268 (rehearing), 8.500 (petition for review)].. Unpublished opinions also include decisions of the court of appeal or the appellate departments of the superior court that have been certified by those courts for publication, but which the Supreme Court has subsequently ordered not to be published [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.1105(b), (d)].

An opinion may be certified for partial publication. All material, factual and legal, including the disposition, that aids in the application or interpretation of the published part must be published, and for purposes of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 8.1105, 8.1115, 8.1120, the published part of the opinion is treated as a published opinion and the unpublished part as an unpublished opinion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.1110].

By "depublishing" or "decertifying" a court of appeal opinion, the Supreme Court lets the decision stand with regard to the parties but eliminates its precedential value [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.1115(a)]. Depublication of an opinion should not be deemed an expression of opinion of the Supreme Court of the correctness of the result reached by the decision or of any of the law set forth in the opinion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.1125(d); but see People v. Dee (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 760, 764, 272 Cal. Rptr. 208 (acknowledging in dicta that appellate courts seek guidance from denial of review and depublication, and stating, "it is generally accepted that most depublication occurs because the court considers the opinion to be wrong in some significant way, usually in reasoning and sometimes in result as well")].

An unpublished or depublished opinion may be cited either when it is relevent under the doctrines of law of the case, res judicata, or collateral estoppel, or when the opinion is relevant to a disciplinary (or criminal) proceeding because it states reasons for a decision affecting the same defendant or respondent in another such proceeding [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.1115(d)].

[4] Conclusion

A conclusion is not a required element of a memorandum [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(b)]. But it is a good practice to include a conclusion that succinctly summarizes the party's contentions as to how the trial court should resolve the legal issues raised in the memorandum. The conclusion should also state the relief requested from the court.

PRACTICE TIP:

Consistency in All Papers. Ideally, if counsel has given due consideration to the notice of motion, the summary of argument and the conclusion in the points and authorities, as well as the proposed order, a law and motion judge reviewing any of these documents or sections of these documents should have a good idea of the party who is seeking or opposing relief, the basis for the party's position, and the specific relief requested. Evelio M. Grillo, Esq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProceduresPleading & PracticeMotion PracticeContent & FormCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticePleadingsGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticePleadingsAmended PleadingsGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresSummary JudgmentMotions for Summary JudgmentGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresSummary JudgmentSupporting MaterialsMemoranda of Law

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 417.21

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

§ 417.21 Supporting Evidence

[1] Preparing Supporting Evidence

The notice of motion, motion, and supporting memorandum is normally accompanied by some form of evidence on which the motion is based, usually in the form of affidavits or declarations under penalty of perjury setting forth evidentiary facts [see generally Ch. 372, Motions and Orders]. If a memorandum refers to evidence that is not yet before the court, a copy of such evidence, again, usually in the form of an affidavit or declaration, must accompany the memorandum [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1010; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)].

While evidentiary facts are usually set out in an affidavit or declaration, they may also be set out in documentary evidence, presented as an exhibits that is authenticated by an affidavit or declaration attached to the exhibit, or in discovery products (for example, deposition testimony and interrogatories). Evidentiary facts may also be matters subject to judicial notice. When submitting evidence discussed in a memorandum, counsel must be cognizant of the foundational requirements for the court to consider the evidence, as well as the limitations on the Court's consideration of particular forms of evidence.

PRACTICE TIP:

Develop Evidence for Motion First. One of the common problems encountered by counsel when preparing a memorandum is to prepare legal arguments first before the evidentiary basisof the motion is fully understood. Except in cases of very simple motions which require very little evidentiary support, counsel should attempt to develop the evidence for the motion before expending substantial time and effort on drafting the legal argument section of the points and authorities. A brilliant legal argument, without supporting facts, will not prevail over a less complex, straight forward legal argument supported by one or two critical facts. Prepare the legal argument section of the points and authorities with due consideration to the evidence available to support the motion. Evelio M. Grillo, Esq.

Note that some motions may not be supported by extrinsic evidence (for example, a motion for judgment on the pleadings under Code Civ. Proc. § 438) or a statutory motion to strike under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 435-437), and in these instances the supporting or opposing memorandum must rely on pleadings or judicially noticed matters.

[2] Declarations or Affidavits

An affidavit is (1) a written declaration under oath made without notice to the adverse party [Code Civ. Proc. § 2003]; (2) one of the three modes of taking the testimony of a witness [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2002(1)]; and (3) expressly authorized for use "on a motion" [Code of Civ. Proc. § 2009]. A declaration under penalty of perjury may be used in lieu of an affidavit [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]. For all practical purposes, declarations under penalty of perjury have replaced affidavits as the mode of presenting the evidence of a witness on a motion. For discussion and forms relating to affidavits and declarations generally, see Ch. 15, Affidavits, Certificates, and Declarations .

[3] Documentary Evidence

Evidentiary exhibits may accompany a memorandum in support of or in opposition to a motion or a reply memorandum, and usually set out documentary evidence such as a contract central to the action. If the motion or petition is based on an exhibit that requires authentication in order to be admissible, the exhibit should be attached to the declaration or affidavit of the person authenticating it.

PRACTICE TIP:

Using Documentary Evidence. One common mistake made when submitting documentary evidence to the court in support of a factual statement in a points and authorities is to attach the exhibit to the points and authorities, or to submit it with an attorney declaration which inadequately authenticates the document. When submitting the document in support of the factual proposition asserted in a points and authorities, provide sufficient foundation and authentication to overcome any evidentiaryobjections so that the court may properly consider the evidence in conjunction with your motion. Evelio M. Grillo, Esq.

[4] Discovery Products

Discovery products may support factual propositions asserted in a memorandum. Discovery products include responses to interrogatories, requests for admissions, deposition testimony, and documents obtained through discovery. Discovery products are, like documentary evidence, presented as exhibits that must be authenticated by an attorney or other declaration when being presented to the court. It is not enough for counsel simply to attach interrogatory responses or deposition testimony to a brief without the appropriate authentication.

[5] Matters Subject to Judicial Notice

If a memorandum is based all or in part on evidentiary facts that are subject to judicial notice under Evid. Code § 450 et seq., the moving or opposing papers of which the memorandum is part must include a separate request for judicial notice [see § 417.19[1][f]; see also Ch. 321, Judicial Notice].

The evidentiary material, such as statutes or pleadings, of which the party wishes the court to take judicial notice should be attached to the motion in some admissible form (for example, certified copies from the court or authenticated by declaration). Alternatively, the party requesting judicial notice should provide copies of the evidentiary material to the court and each party and arrange for the original documents to be in the courtroom at the time of hearing [Cal. Rules. of Ct., Rule 3.1306(c)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Judicial Notice. Judicial notice can be a formidable device to present evidence to the court when the evidence presented meets the statutory requirement for judicial notice. Facts which are subject to dispute are not subject to judicial notice and are poor candidates for inclusion in an request for judicial notice.

Conversely, prior judgments, prior verified complaints, and certified copies of deeds and other official government actions, when incorporated into a request for judicial notice, provide a sound evidentiary basis for a motion. Do not attempt to use judicial notice to present facts which are not properly judicially noticeable.

One good practice in complex law and motion matters is for counsel to include copies with any request for judicial notice of any relevant pleadings, papers, or orders in the proceedings. By incorporating such copies with the request, the court will be able to rely on the request for judicial notice rather than rummaging through five or ten volumes of files attempting to locate the documents cited in a memorandum. Evelio M. Grillo, Esq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProceduresPleading & PracticeMotion PracticeGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticeMotion PracticeSupporting MemorandaCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticePleadingsGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresDiscoveryMethodsGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresDiscoveryMethodsInterrogatoriesGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresPretrial JudgmentsJudgment on the PleadingsEvidenceAuthenticationGeneral OverviewEvidenceDocumentary EvidenceGeneral OverviewEvidenceDocumentary EvidenceWritingsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 417.22-417.29

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

[Reserved]

§§ 417.22[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 417.30

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

§ 417.30 Matthew Bender Publications

For a discussion of techniques for drafting memoranda and other briefs, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 1, Writing Legal Memoranda and Briefs (Matthew Bender)

For discussion and forms for use relating to motions to compel discovery, see J.N. DeMeo, California Deposition and Discovery Practice (Matthew Bender)

For discussion and forms for use relating to motions on evidentiary issues, trial motions, and post trial motions, see E. Johnson, California Trial Guide (Matthew Bender)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 417.31

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

§ 417.31 State Statutes

Motion to strike based on judicially noticed matters as requiring supporting memorandum. Code Civ. Proc. § 437(b)

Filing and serving papers in support of or opposition to motion for summary judgment or summary adjudication. Code Civ. Proc. § 437c(a), (b)

Sanctions for noncompliance with local rules. Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2

"Motion" includes application for an order. Code Civ. Proc. § 1003

Filing and serving of moving papers 21 calendar days, opposition papers 10 calendar days, and reply papers five calendar days, before hearing. Code Civ. Proc § 1005(b)

Court may shorten time for filing pleading. Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)

Papers on which motion is based, but not previously been served or filed, as required to accompany the notice of motion. Code Civ. Proc. § 1010

Petition for writ of mandate or prohibition as "motion." Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1088, 1089, 1090, 1107

Affidavit authorized for use "on a motion." Code of Civ. Proc. § 2009

Declaration under penalty of perjury in lieu of affidavit. Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5

Judicial notice. Evid Code § 450 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePleading & PracticeMotion PracticeGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticeMotion PracticeSupporting MemorandaCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticePleadingsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureSummary JudgmentOppositionGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureSummary JudgmentSupporting MaterialsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 417.32

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

§ 417.32 California Rules of Court

Form of papers presented for filing. Cal. Rule of Ct., Rules 2.100-2.119

Requirement of supporting memorandum. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1600 (motion for new trial), Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1113(a) (demurrer or notice of motion), Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1201 (ex parte application)

Time for filing memoranda in support of or in opposition to motion for new trial. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1600

Sanctions for failure to comply with California Rules of Court or local rules. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.30

Format rules applicable to all civil law and motion matters; local format rules preempted. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1100, 3.1103(a), 3.2

General format requirements for first page, binding, exhibits, etc. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110(b)-(e)

Contents of memorandum. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(b)

Case citation format in memoranda. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(c)

Page limitations of memorandum. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(d)

Citation style of memorandum; attachment of copies of certain authorities cited in memorandum. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1113(c), 1.200(c), (j)

Attachment of memoranda and declarations. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(j)

References to exhibits and declarations. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(k)

Request for judicial notice. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(l)

Proposed orders. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(m)

Declarations and affidavits. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1115.

Time for filing and service of motion papers. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(a)

Procedure for shortening time periods for service and filing of law and motion papers. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(b)

Time for filing proof of service of moving papers in law and motion proceeding no less than five calendar days before hearing. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(c)

Filing of late papers. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(d)

Computation of time for filing papers. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(e)

Judicially noticed matters at hearing. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1306(c)

Unpublished opinions defined. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.1105

Citation of unpublished opinions; copies of unpublished or computer-based decisions. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.1115

Requesting publication of unpublished opinion. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.1125

Depublication of opinions. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.1125

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePleading & PracticeMotion PracticeGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticeMotion PracticeSupporting MemorandaCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticePleadingsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticePleadingsTime LimitationsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticePleadingsTime LimitationsComputationCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentMotions for New TrialsGovernmentsCourtsRule Application & Interpretation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 417.33

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

§ 417.33 Rules of Professional Conduct

Duty to cite all relevant legal authority, even if not favorable to position. Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 5-200

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 417.34

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

§ 417.34 Text References

California Style Manual (WestGroup 4th ed. 2000)

The Bluebook: A Uniform System of Citation (Harvard Law Review Ass'n, 17th ed. 2000)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 417.35-417.49

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

[Reserved]

§§ 417.35[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
PART IV. FORMS

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 417.50

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

§ 417.50 Memorandum--Skeletal Form

[1] FORM Memorandum--Skeletal Form

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA
COUNTY OF _____

	)
	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	MEMORANDUM _____ [specify, e.g., IN SUPPORT OF MOTION FOR JUDGMENT ON THE PLEADINGS] Plaintiff,	)
v.	)
_____ [name],	)	[TELEPHONE APPEARANCE]
Defendant.	)	Date: _____
	)	Time: _____
	)	Location: _____
	)	[Hearing Judge: _____]
	)	Date Action Filed: _____
		[Trial Date: _____]

_____

[INCLUDE tables on new page if memorandum exceeds 10 pages]

TABLE OF CONTENTS

		Page
TABLE OF AUTHORITIES.....		_____
I.	SUMMARY OF ARGUMENT.....	_____
II.	STATEMENT OF FACTS	_____
III.	A MOTION FOR JUDGMENT ON THE PLEADINGS IS PROPER TO RAISE THE BAR OF THE STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS AND MAY BE MADE AT ANY TIME BEFORE FINAL JUDGMENT IS ENTERED	_____
IV.	THE COMPLAINT SHOWS ON ITS FACE THAT THIS ACTION IS BARRED BY THE STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS	_____

[CONTINUE, listing each main heading and page number]

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES

Page

Cases

[LIST cases in alphabetical order and page(s) on which they appear]

Statutes

[LIST statutes in alphabetical order by code and page(s) on which they appear]

Texts

[LIST texts cited and page(s) on which they appear]

Law Reviews

[LIST law reviews or journals cited and page(s) on which they appear]

[INCLUDE opening summary if memorandum exceeds 15 pages]

I. SUMMARY OF ARGUMENT

[SUMMARIZE the arguments set forth in the memorandum]

II. STATEMENT OF FACTS

_____ [State facts relevant to the determination of the motion, e.g., Plaintiff seeks recovery of damages for personal injuries sustained in an automobile accident that occurred on _____ (date). As shown by the records of this court, the complaint was filed on _____ (date)].

[SET FORTH each point of law supporting your position, anticipating and, if desired, defusing the major arguments that the opposition will raise. The following points and authorities set forth as an example illustrate the manner in which points and authorities in support of a motion for judgment on the pleadings on the ground the action is barred by the statute of limitations might be set forth. Counsel should also insert argument between paragraphs when appropriate, showing the relationship between the facts of the present case and the point of law stated. If appropriate, the letter and introductory phrase or paragraph heading of each point should be included in the table of contents if one is required.]

III. A MOTION FOR JUDGMENT ON THE PLEADINGS IS PROPER TO RAISE THE BAR OF THE STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS AND MAY BE MADE AT ANY TIME BEFORE FINAL JUDGMENT IS ENTERED.

A. Nature of Motion. A motion for judgment on the pleadings is made on the same grounds and decided on the same basis as a general demurrer, and judgment on the pleadings for defendant is proper when the complainton its face fails to state a cause of action (Pierson v. Sharp Memorial Hospital, Inc. (1989) 216 Cal. App. 3d 340, 342, 264 Cal. Rptr. 673).

B. Failure of Complaint to State Cause of Action. A complaint that shows on its face that the cause of action is barred by the statute of limitations does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action and is subject to a general demurrer (Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(e)), but the defect (bar of the statute) must be alleged (see Jessica H. v. Allstate Ins. Co. (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 590, 592, 202 Cal. Rptr. 239 (involving a demurrer)).

C. When Motion Can Be Made. A motion for judgment on the pleadings can be made at any time before final judgment is rendered (Shabrick v. Moore (1961) 195 Cal. App. 2d 56, 59, 15 Cal. Rptr. 310).

IV. THE COMPLAINT SHOWS ON ITS FACT THAT THIS ACTION IS BARRED BY THE STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS.

A. When Cause of Action Accrues. A cause of action accrues when there is a remedy available (Heyer v. Flaig (1969) 70 Cal. 2d 223, 230, 74 Cal. Rptr. 225, 449 P.2d 161).

B. When Period of Limitation Starts. The period of limitation begins to run when a suit may be maintained (Osborn v. Hopkins (1911) 160 Cal. 501, 506, 117 P. 519). In this action, the period of limitation began to run on _____ [date], the date on which the automobile accident occurred.

C. Limitation on When Action Can Be Commenced. With exceptions not here applicable, civil actions can only be commenced within the periods prescribed in Code of Civil Procedure sections 312-365 (Code Civ. Proc. § 312).

D. Period of Limitation on Personal Injury Action. The period prescribed for the commencement of an action for injury to one caused by the wrongful act or neglect of another is two years (Code Civ. Proc. §§ 335, 335.1). Thus, to be timely in this case, the action would need to have been commenced before _____ [date].

E. When Is Action Commenced. An action is commenced, within the meaning of Code of Civil Procedure section 312 et seq., when the complaint is filed (Code Civ. Proc. § 350). Here, the complaint was filed on _____ [date], _____ [specify number of days] after the limitation period expired.

[CONCLUSION if desired]

Based on the foregoing authorities, defendant respectfully requests an order granting his/her motion for judgment on the pleadings and dismissing the action.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]

Attorney for _____ [moving party]

[2] Use of Form

This skeletal form outlines the form and content of a memorandum. The example provided supports a motion for judgment on the pleadings. With appropriate modifications, it may be used by the moving party to support a petition or application or as a reply memorandum, or by the opposing party to challenge a motion, petition, or application. For the time when points and authorities must be served and filed, see discussion in §§ 417.17 and 417.18.

A caption is included only if the memorandum is served and filed separately. If the memorandum is combined or attached to the notice of motion and motion, the caption of the notice of motion and motion will refer to the memorandum, and the caption here may be omitted and replaced with a title, e.g.: MEMORANDUM.

If a caption is used, and counsel will appear by telephone, the optional line reflecting telephone appearance should be included [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(g); see further discussion in Ch. 372, Motions and Orders].

For further discussion of other items in the caption, and other requirements relating to the form, format, content, and page limits, see § 417.19.

For drafting considerations, see § 417.20. For discussion of declarations, exhibits, and papers generally designed to provide the evidentiary basis for a memorandum, see § 417.21. For discussion of when memoranda are required or recommended, see §§ 417.14 -417.16.

For additional detailed discussion of points and authorities use, form, content, and drafting, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 1, Writing Legal Memoranda and Briefs (Matthew Bender). For memoranda supporting and opposing specific motions, see the appropriate chapter in California Points and Authorities (Matthew Bender).

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
PART IV. FORMS

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 417.51

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

§ 417.51 Ex Parte Application for Leave to File Memorandum in Excess of Page Limits

[1] FORM Ex Parte Application for Leave to File Memorandum in Excess of Page Limits

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)	NO. _____
Plaintiff,	)	EX PARTE APPLICATION FOR LEAVE TO FILE
vs.	)	MEMORANDUM IN EXCESS OF PAGE LIMITA-
_____ [name],	)	TION, SUPPORTING DECLARATION(S) of Defendant.	)	_____ [name(s)], AND SUP-)	PORTING MEMORANDUM
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)	Date: _____
	)	Time: _____
	)	Location: _____
		[Hearing Judge: _____]
		Date Action Filed: _____
		[Trial Date: _____]

_____

APPLICATION

_____ [Identify party, e.g., Defendant] _____ [name] hereby applies for an order, pursuant to California Rules of Court, Rule 3.1113(e), granting leave to file a memorandum in _____ [purpose of points and authorities, e.g., support of motion to dismiss for lack of jurisdiction] that is in excess of _____ [specify page limitation, e.g., 15] pages in length.

[EITHER, if proposed supporting memorandum is attached]

The memorandum that _____ [identify party, e.g., defendant] seeks leave to file consists of _____ [specify number, e.g., 22] pages, and is attached as an exhibit to the declaration of _____ [name of declarant attorney] in support of and attached with this application.

[OR, if proposed points and authorities is unavailable to present for evaluation]

_____ [Identify party, e.g., Defendant] seeks leave to file a memorandum not exceeding _____ [specify number of pages anticipated, e.g., 22] pages in length.

[CONTINUE]

This application is made on the grounds that good cause exists to permit a longer memorandum, and is based on the attached declaration of _____ [name of declarant attorney].
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]

Attorney for _____ [moving party]

SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF _____ [name]

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., an attorney at law duly admitted to practice before all the courts of the State of California and the attorney of record herein for _____ (moving party) or other statement as appropriate].

2. _____ [State facts showing reasons why the argument cannot be made within the page limit, e.g., The argument in support of defendant's motion to dismiss for lack of jurisdiction is an issue of first impression in this jurisdiction. An adequate analysis of this issue requires discussion of numerous authorities both inside and outside California. Unless the court grants leave to file a memorandum in support of this motion that exceeds 15 pages, defendant will be denied the opportunity to present to the court a complete analysis of an issue central to the entire action.

[3. A copy of the drafted memorandum is attached hereto and made a part hereof.]

4. On _____ [date], at _____ [time], I provided written notice to _____ [name], attorney for _____ [specify party, e.g., plaintiff] of _____ [specify applicant's party, e.g., defendant's] intention to make this application for leave to file the memorandum specified above in excess of the applicable page limit, that the notice provided the date, time, and manner of the application as noted above, _____[specify facts demonstrating means of written notice, e.g., as set forth in the attached proof of personal service].

5. I _____ [have or have not] received a response to this application, and I _____ [do or do not] expect opposition to this application.

6. California Rules of Court, Rule 3.1113(e) provides the basis for granting ex parte relief as requested in this application, rather than setting this matter for hearing on notice motion.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]

_____ [name of declarant]

SUPPORTING MEMORANDUM

I. AN EX PARTE APPLICATION TO FILE A MEMORANDUM IN EXCESS OF THE APPLICABLE PAGE LIMITATION IS PROPER AND SHOULD BE GRANTED WHEN SUPPORTED BY REASONS WHY THE ARGUMENT CANNOT BE MADE WITHIN THE STATED LIMIT.

A. Ex Parte Relief. A party may apply to the court ex parte for permission to file a memorandum in excess of the applicable page limits when written notice of the application is given to other parties at least 24 hours before the memorandum is due [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(e)]. Written notice of this ex parte application was given to _____ [name], attorney for _____ [specify party] on _____ [date] and this application is presented on _____ [date].

B. Reasons to Exceed Page Limits. An application to file a memorandum in excess of the applicable page limits must state the reasons why the argument cannot be made within the stated limit [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(e)]. The supporting declaration incorporated in this application provides sufficient reasons to exceed the page limit so the court is properly informed of the issues before it.

[2] Use of Form

The form of application in [1], above, is for use to seek an order granting leave to file a memorandum in excess of the page limitations prescribed by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(e) [see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1201-3.1207 (requirement for ex parte applications)]. For discussion of the ex parte procedure for obtaining leave to file a longer memorandum, see § 417.19[1][c][ii].

The form includes a declaration is for use in setting forth facts supporting ex parte application for leave to file a memorandum in excess of page limitations [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(e)].

The form, in both the application and declaration, sets forth alternative paragraphs depending on whether the proposed points and authorities is available for the court's evaluation. A court is more likely to grant an application for leave to file an existing points and authorities, which presumably represents the party's best efforts to present its position in as few pages as possible, than an application for leave to file a memorandum of undetermined length not yet in existence. Therefore, when possible, counsel should attach as an exhibit the proposed points and authorities.

The form contains within the same document a form of order granting the application. If the application is denied, the court may elect either to cross out the existing language on the proposed order and insert the word "DENIED" or the like, or to rely on its own record of minute order denying the application.

If the application is granted, the applying party must give notice to all other parties [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1019.5(a); for discussion, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders].

[3] Requirements Governing Ex Parte Applications Generally

Ex parte applications are governed generally by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1200-3.1207.

Under the requirements of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1201, for example, an ex parte application must be in writing and must include the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1201]:

- An application containing the case caption and stating the relief requested.

- A declaration in support of the application.

- A declaration, competent and based on personal knowledge regarding notice provided to other parties, pursuant to Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204. Under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204, the party seeking an ex parte order must state with specificity the nature of the relief to be requested and the date, time, and place for the presentation of the application, and must attempt to determine whether the opposing party will appear to oppose the application. Every ex parte application must be accompanied by a declaration regarding notice that states: (A) the notice given, including the date, time, manner, and name of the party informed, the relief sought, any response, and whether opposition is expected; or (B) why notice should not be required. If notice was provided later than 10:00 a.m. the court day before the ex parte appearance, the declaration regarding notice must explain: (A) the exceptional circumstances that justify the shorter notice, or (B) in unlawful detainer proceedings, why the notice given is reasonable.

- A memorandum of points and authorities.

- A proposed order.

Moreoever, the declarations must include competent testimony based on personal knowledge of irreparable harm, immediate danger, or any other statutory basis for granting relief ex parte [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1202(c)].

Every ex parte application must be accompanied by a declaration regarding notice that states [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204(b)]:

- The notice given, including the date, time, manner, and name of the party informed, the relief sought, any response, and whether opposition is expected; or

- Why notice should not be required.

- If notice was provided later than 10:00 a.m. the court day before the ex parte appearance, the declaration regarding notice must explain the exceptional circumstances that justify the shorter notice, or in unlawful detainer proceedings, why the notice given is reasonable.

The declaration in the form set out in [1], above, includes statements showing that written notice was provided as required under Cal. Rules of Rules 3.1113(e), 3.1201, 3.1203, and also that Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(e) provides the basis for granting relief ex parte. This would appear to satisfy both the requirement for a declaration regarding notice under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204 and the requirement of showing a "statutory basis" for ex parte relief under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1202(c).

An ex parte application to file a memorandum in excess of the applicable page limit is one of the few ex parte motions that may be considered without the personal appearance of the applicant [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1207]. However, if opposition to the application is expected, it is prudent to attend the hearing to present argument and answer questions of the court.

For detailed discussion of all requirements under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1200-3.1207 governing ex parte applications in general, together with a general form of ex parte application, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

[4] Cross References

For a form of order granting an application for leave to file memorandum in excess of page limits, see § 417.52.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 417 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
PART IV. FORMS

36-417 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 417.52

AUTHOR: Evelio M. Grillo, Esq., Editorial Consultant

§ 417.52 Order Granting Application For Leave to File Memorandum in Excess of Page Limits

[1] FORM Order Granting Application For Leave to File Memorandum in Excess of Page Limits

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	ORDER GRANTING APPLICATION FOR LEAVE
_____ [name],	)	TO FILE MEMORANDUM IN EXCESS OF PAGE
Defendant.	)	LIMITS
	)

[EITHER, if proposed points and authorities was attached to application]

Good cause appearing, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that:

The application of _____ [identify party, e.g., defendant] for leave to file the memorandum in _____ [specify purpose of points and authorities, e.g., support of motion to dismiss for lack of jurisdiction], and attached to the declaration of _____ [name of declarant attorney] dated _____ [date] in support of the application, is GRANTED.

[OR, if the proposed points and authorities was unavailable for the court's evaluation at the time of the application]

Good cause appearing, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that:

The application of _____ [identify party, e.g., defendant] for leave to file a memorandum in _____ [specify purpose of points and authorities, e.g., support of motion to dismiss for lack of jurisdiction] that is in excess of _____ [specify number, e.g., 15] pages is GRANTED; and the memorandum may not exceed _____ [leave blank for court to fill in or specify number of pages anticipated, e.g., 22] pages in length.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]

Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

The form of proposed order in [1], above, is for use by a party filing an ex parte application for leave to file memorandum in excess of page limits [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(e)]. It is modified depending on whether a copy of the proposed memorandum was submitted with the application. If no proposed memorandum was filed, you may leave the portion blank regarding the number of anticipated pages, but be sure to provide the court with an estimate of the anticipated pages in the declaration supporting the application.

[3] Cross References

For a form of ex parte application for leave to file memorandum in excess of page limits, see § 417.51.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 418 POLLUTION AND ENVIRONMENTAL MATTERS

36-418 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 418.syn

AUTHOR: By Roger Beers

§ 418.syn Synopsis to Chapter 418: POLLUTION AND ENVIRONMENTAL MATTERS

§ 418.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 418.02 Cross References

§§ 418.03-418.09 [Reserved]

§ 418.10 Different Forms of Environmental Actions

§ 418.11 Standing

[1] Standing as Essential to Cause of Action

[2] Standing to Seek Writ of Mandate

[3] Associational Standing

[4] Statutory Standing to Review Agency Actions or Enforce Particular Laws

[5] Private Rights of Action

§ 418.12 Ripeness

§ 418.13 Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

[1] Exhaustion Doctrine

[2] Exceptions to Exhaustion Doctrine

§ 418.14 Preparation and Use of Administrative Record

[1] Requesting Administrative Record

[2] Determining Whether Record Is Complete

[3] Paying Costs of Record Preparation

§ 418.15 Statutes of Limitation

[1] Significance in Environmental Suits

[2] Writ Proceedings

[3] Damage Actions

§ 418.16 Laches

§ 418.17 Governmental Immunity

§ 418.18 Compliance With Notice Requirements

[1] Claims for Damages Against Governmental Entities

[2] CEQA Notice Requirements

[3] Citizen Suit Notices of Intent to Sue

§ 418.19 The Complaint or Petition

[1] Practical Consideration When Drafting the Complaint or Petition

[2] Fast Track Rules

[3] Alternative Procedure for Petitions for Writs of Mandate

§ 418.20 Class Actions

§ 418.21 SLAPP Suit Provisions

§ 418.22 Attorney's Fees and Costs

§§ 418.23-418.29 [Reserved]

§ 418.30 Scope

§ 418.31 Overview of Act

§ 418.32 Key CEQA Concepts

[1] Project

[2] Significant Effect on Environment

[3] Feasible

[4] Lead Agency and Responsible Agency

§ 418.33 Exemptions From Act

§ 418.34 Determination of Necessity for Environmental Impact Report or Negative Declaration

§ 418.35 Contents of Environmental Impact Report

[1] General Topics

[2] Scope of Environmental Impacts Required to Be Considered

[3] Discussion of Feasible Alternatives

[4] Different Kinds of EIRs

§ 418.36 Procedural Requirements for Preparation of Environmental Impact Reports

§ 418.37 Judicial Review of Agency Decisions Under CEQA

[1] Review by Writ of Mandate

[2] Scope of Review

[3] Time Limits for Commencement of Action

[4] Timing for Request of Hearing

[5] Required Service of Notice and Pleadings

§§ 418.38-418.49 [Reserved]

§ 418.50 Safe Drinking Water and Toxic Enforcement Act of 1986 (Proposition 65)

[1] Overview of Proposition 65

[a] Background of Proposition 65

[b] Application of Proposition 65 and Persons Who May Bring Suits

[c] Notices and Reports to Attorney General

[d] Constitutionality of Proposition 65

[2] Purpose of Act

[3] Definitions of Terms Used in Act

[a] Person

[b] Person in the Course of Doing Business

[c] Significant Amount

[d] Source of Drinking Water

[e] Threaten to Violate

[4] Chemicals Known to State to Cause Cancer or Reproductive Toxicity

[5] Prohibitions and Exceptions

[a] Discharge of Chemical

[b] Exposure of Others to Chemical Without Warning

[c] Significant Risk Defense

[6] Scienter Requirements

[7] Penalties and Enforcement

§ 418.51 Other Private Enforcement and Tort Actions Based on Statutes

§ 418.52 Suits for "Unlawful Business Practices"

§§ 418.53-418.59 [Reserved]

§ 418.60 Nuisance

[1] Definition of Nuisance

[2] Public or Private Nuisance

[3] Permanent or Continuing Nuisance

[4] Nuisances Created or Not Abated by Prior Property Owners

[5] Nuisance Actions Against Public Entities

[6] Types of Pollution Constituting Nuisances

[7] Defenses

[a] Activities Expressly Authorized by Statute or Zoning

[b] Other Defenses

§ 418.61 Trespass

§ 418.62 Negligence

[1] Elements of Cause of Action

[2] Res Ipsa Loquitur

[3] Negligence Per Se

§ 418.63 Ultrahazardous Activity

§ 418.64 Inverse Condemnation

§ 418.65 Remedies

[1] Injunctive Relief

[2] Property and Other Damages

[3] Damages for Mental Suffering

[4] Medical Monitoring Costs

§§ 418.66-418.79 [Reserved]

§ 418.80 Prohibitions on Discharges

§ 418.81 Reporting and Disclosure Requirements

§ 418.82 Recovery of Response Costs

[1] Under Hazardous Substance Account Act

[2] Under Water Quality Control Act

[3] For Expenses Incurred During Emergency

§§ 418.83-418.89 [Reserved]

§ 418.90 National Environmental Policy Act

§ 418.91 Air Pollution

[1] California Emission Standards

[2] State Air Resources Board--State Implementation Plan

[3] Pollution Control Districts

[4] Federal Clean Air Act

§ 418.92 Water Pollution

[1] California's Porter-Cologne Water Quality Control Act

[a] Purpose of Act

[b] Authority of State Water Resources Control Board

[i] Formulation and Adoption of State Policies

[ii] Regulatory Responsibilities

[c] Authority of Regional Boards

[i] Adoption of Plans and Guidelines

[ii] Waste Discharge Requirements

[iii] Issuance of Cease and Desist and Other Orders

[iv] Pollution Prevention Plans

[2] Federal Water Pollution Control Act

[3] Pollution From Oil or Hazardous Substances

[4] Marine Protection, Research, and Sanctuaries Act

[5] Other Related Federal Legislation

[a] Fish and Wildlife Coordination Act

[b] Coastal Zone Management Act

[c] Safe Drinking Water Act

[d] Refuse Act of 1899

[e] Submerged Lands Act

[f] Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act

[g] International Agreement for Prevention of Pollution From Ships

§ 418.93 Noise Pollution

[1] State Law--California Noise Control Act

[2] Federal Law

§ 418.94 Hazardous Substances

[1] Federal Resource Conservation and Recovery Act

[2] Superfund Act

§§ 418.95-418.99 [Reserved]

§ 418.100 Related Matthew Bender Publications

[1] California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice

[2] California Points and Authorities

[3] Treatise on Environmental Law

[4] Environmental Law Practice Guide, State and Federal Law

§ 418.101 State Statutes

[1] Jurisdiction and Venue

[2] Statutes of Limitation

§ 418.102 Decisions

[1] Jurisdiction and Venue

[2] Standing

[3] Ripeness

[4] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

[5] Statutes of Limitation

[6] Laches

[7] Class Action

[8] SLAPP Suit Provisions

[9] Attorney's Fees and Costs

§§ 418.103-418.109 [Reserved]

§ 418.110 Related Matthew Bender Publications

[1] California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice

[2] California Real Estate

§ 418.111 California Statutes and Regulations

§ 418.112 Decisions

[1] Key CEQA Concepts

[2] Exemptions From Act

[3] Determination of Necessity for EIR or Negative Declaration

[4] Procedural Requirements for Preparation of Environmental Impact Reports

[5] Contents of EIR

[6] Limitations Period

[7] Judicial Review of Agency Decisions Under CEQA

§§ 418.113-418.119 [Reserved]

§ 418.120 Related Matthew Bender Publications

[1] Environmental Law Practice Guide, State and Federal Law

[2] The Law of Hazardous Waste: Management, Cleanup, Liability, and Litigation

§ 418.121 State Statutes

[1] Safe Drinking Water and Toxic Enforcement Act of 1986

[2] Unlawful Business Practices

§ 418.122 Decisions

[1] Safe Drinking Water and Toxic Enforcement Act of 1986

§§ 418.123-418.129 [Reserved]

§ 418.130 Related Matthew Bender Publications

[1] California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice

[2] Environmental Law Practice Guide, State and Federal Law

§ 418.131 State Statutes

§ 418.132 Decisions

[1] Nuisance

[a] Nuisance Actions Generally

[b] Public or Private Nuisance

[c] Permanent or Continuing Nuisance

[d] Nuisance Actions Against Public Entities

[2] Trespass

[3] Negligence

§§ 418.133-418.139 [Reserved]

§ 418.140 Related Matthew Bender Publications

[1] California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice

[2] Treatise on Environmental Law

[3] Environmental Law Practice Guide, State and Federal Law

[4] The Law of Hazardous Waste: Management, Cleanup, Liability, and Litigation

§ 418.141 State Statutes

[1] Air Pollution

[a] General Provisions

[b] Air Basins

[c] Emissions Standards

[d] Enforcement Powers

[e] Smoke

[f] Vehicular Air Pollution

[2] Water Pollution

[a] Porter-Cologne Water Quality Control Act

[b] Miscellaneous Provisions

[3] Noise Pollution

[4] Hazardous Substances

[5] Radioactive Materials

[6] Herbicides and Pesticides

[7] Land Conservation

[8] Natural Resources

[9] Oil Pollution

§ 418.142 Federal Statutes

§§ 418.143-418.149 [Reserved]

§ 418.150 Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1060, 1085, 1094.5]--Inadequate EIR [Pub. Res. Code §§ 21168, 21168.5]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Checklist for Filing CEQA Actions

[4] Cross References

§ 418.151 Alternative Writ of Mandate and Order

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Alternative Procedure of Service With Summons and Setting Hearing With a Noticed Motion

§ 418.152 Order Directing Issuance of Alternative Writ of Mandate

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 418.153 Stay, Temporary Restraining Order, and Order to Show Cause

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] When Stay Is Appropriate

[4] Is a Bond Required?

§ 418.154 Petitioners' Request for Preparation of Administrative Record

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Using the Administrative Record in CEQA Actions

§ 418.155 Petitioners' Notice of Election to Prepare Administrative Record [Pub. Res. Code § 21167.6(b)(2)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Election

§ 418.156 Notice of Availability of Administrative Record

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 418.157 Notice of Settlement Meeting [Pub. Res. Code § 21167.8]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Settlement Meetings

§ 418.158 Notice of Hearing on Writ of Mandate [Pub. Res. Code § 21167.4]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 418.159 Final Judgment for Petitioner

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§§ 418.160-418.169 [Reserved]

§ 418.170 Petition for Writ of Mandate--Judicial Review of Administrative Agency Action

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 418.171 60-Day Notice of Intent to Sue Under Proposition 65

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Checklist for Contents of Proposition 65 Notice

[4] Certificate of Merit

[5] Service of Proposition 65 Notice

§§ 418.172-418.179 [Reserved]

§ 418.180 Complaint for Damages, Declaratory Relief, Equitable Indemnity, Preliminary and Permanent Injunction (Negligence, Nuisance, Trespass) for Contamination of Property

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

[4] California Points and Authorities

§§ 418.181-418.189 [Reserved]

§ 418.190 Complaint for Recovery of Response Costs

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Discharge of Pollutants Into Waters of State

[4] California's Hazardous Substance Account Act and the Federal Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation and Liability Act

§ 418.191 Affirmative Defenses

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Use of Affirmative Defenses

[4] Cross References

§ 418.192 Allegations for Cross-Complaint for Contribution

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 418.193 Allegations for Cross-Complaint for Comparative Equitable Indemnity

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Indemnity Claims

§ 418.194 Allegations for Cross-Complaint for Declaratory Relief Regarding Response Costs

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 418.195 Allegations for Prayer for Relief in Cross-Complaint

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

By Roger Beers n*

FOOTNOTES:
(n89)Footnote *. Roger Beers graduated magna cum laude from Harvard Law School in 1968. From 1968 to 1973, he was associated respectively with Dewey, Ballantine, Bushby, Palmer & Wood in New York, and Heller, Ehrman, While & McAuliffe in San Francisco. From 1973 to 1980, he was a staff attorney with the National Resources Defense Council in Palo Alto, and since then has been in private practice, now in Oakland, where he continues his emphasis on environmental and land use litigation.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 418 POLLUTION AND ENVIRONMENTAL MATTERS
PART I. SCOPE

36-418 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 418.01

AUTHOR: By Roger Beers

§ 418.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter covers civil actions relating to pollution and other environmental matters. The Legal Background discusses procedural issues applicable generally in environmental cases, including the forms of action used, jurisdiction and venue, standing, ripeness, the administrative record, statutes of limitation, laches, and attorneys fees and costs [see §§ 418.10 -418.22]. Also covered in the Legal Background is (1) the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) [Pub. Res. Code § 21000 et seq.], including the requirement for an environmental impact report and actions and proceedings to enforce the Act [see §§ 418.30 -418.37], (2) citizen suits which are specifically authorized by statute, including discussion of Proposition 65 and the Safe Drinking Water and Toxic Enforcement Act of 1986 [see §§ 418.50 -418.52], and (3) environmental common law tort actions, such as nuisance, trespass, and negligence [see §§ 418.60 -418.65]. Lastly, the Legal Background covers civil actions for recovering the costs of investigating and cleaning up sites contaminated with hazardous wastes [see §§ 418.80 -418.82] and other state and federal statutory schemes that seek to regulate pollution and protect the environment [see §§ 418.90 -418.94], such as the National Environmental Policy Act [42 U.S.C. § 4321 et seq.], air, water, and noise pollution standards, the federal Resources Conservation and Recovery Act [42 U.S.C. § 6901 et seq.], and the Superfund Act [42 U.S.C. § 9601 et seq.].

The chapter also includes numerous forms for use in proceedings related to litigating issues in the environmental field [see §§ 418.150 -418.195]:

- Forms applicable to litigating under CEQA [see §§ 418.150 -418.159], such as a Petition for Writ of Mandate [see § 418.150] or an Alternative Writ of Mandate and Order [see § 418.151], a Request for Preparation of the Administrative Record [see § 418.154], a Notice of Settlement Meeting [see § 418.157], a Notice of Hearing on a Writ of Mandate [see § 418.158], and a sample Final Judgment [see § 418.159].

- Citizen suit forms [see §§ 418.170 -418.172], including a Petition for Writ of Mandate to review an administrative agency's action [see § 418.170] and a 60-day Notice of Intent to Sue Under Proposition 65 [see § 418.171].

- A Complaint for Damages, Declaratory Relief, Equitable Indemnity, and an Injunction [see § 418.180] for causes of action in negligence, nuisance, and trespass.

- Forms applicable to recovering the costs of cleanups [see §§ 418.190 -418.195].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewReviewabilityRipenessCivil ProcedureVenueGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesWritsCommon Law WritsMandamusEnvironmental LawHazardous Wastes & Toxic SubstancesCERCLA & SuperfundGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawHazardous Wastes & Toxic SubstancesCERCLA & SuperfundEnforcementCitizen SuitsNotice RequirementsEnvironmental LawLitigation & Administrative ProceedingsNegligenceEnvironmental LawLitigation & Administrative ProceedingsNuisances, Trespasses & Strict LiabilityEnvironmental LawLitigation & Administrative ProceedingsToxic TortsEnvironmental LawWater QualitySafe Drinking Water ActEnforcementReal Property LawTortsNuisanceRemediesInjunctionsGeneral OverviewTortsPremises Liability & PropertyTrespassRemediesInjunctions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 418 POLLUTION AND ENVIRONMENTAL MATTERS
PART I. SCOPE

36-418 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 418.02

AUTHOR: By Roger Beers

§ 418.02 Cross References

For specific coverage of other environment related subjects, see the following chapters:

- Ch. 315, Irrigation.
- Ch. 350, Logs and Timber.
- Ch. 363, Mining.
- Ch. 393, Oil and Gas.
- Ch. 575, Waters.
- Ch. 579, Zoning and Planning.

For discussion and forms related to common law causes of action that often arise in the environmental context, see the following chapters:

- Ch. 380, Negligence.
- Ch. 391, Nuisance.
- Ch. 550, Trespass.

For discussion and forms applicable to recovering attorney's fees and costs of litigation, see Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees .

For discussion and forms for use in obtaining declaratory relief, see Ch. 182, Declaratory Relief .

For discussion and forms for use in obtaining injunctive relief, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

For discussion and forms related to traditional mandate proceedings, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition .

For discussion and forms relating to administrative mandate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5, see Chs. 474B, Standards in Reviewing Agency Decisions , and 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions . For complete coverage and forms applicable to public administrative law issues, see Chs. 470, Overview of Public Administrative Law et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawLitigation & Administrative ProceedingsNegligenceEnvironmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsMineral Resources & MiningTortsDamagesCosts & Attorney FeesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 418 POLLUTION AND ENVIRONMENTAL MATTERS
PART I. SCOPE

36-418 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 418.03-418.09

AUTHOR: By Roger Beers

[Reserved]

§§ 418.03[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 418 POLLUTION AND ENVIRONMENTAL MATTERS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedural Issues in Environmental Cases

36-418 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 418.10

AUTHOR: By Roger Beers

§ 418.10 Different Forms of Environmental Actions

Litigation of environmental matters under California law usually arises in the context of (1) petitions for writs of administrative mandamus to review decisions of administrative agencies, (2) actions for injunctive or declaratory relief, and (3) suits for damages against public and private parties. The typical form of action for seeking judicial review of governmental agency decisions on environmental issues is the petition for writ of mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1094.5]. Private enforcement of environmental statutes may occur through "citizen suits" which are expressly authorized by statutes [see §§ 418.50 -418.52]. Common law claims such as negligence or nuisance may be used as a basis for either damages or injunctive relief in response to environmental insults [see §§ 418.60 -418.65]. Finally, there is a significant amount of environmental litigation over the allocation of the costs of cleaning up hazardous waste sites [see §§ 418.80 -418.82].

The procedures required for environmental litigation, both before and after the suit is filed, tend to be very specialized and often vary depending on the nature of the claim being asserted. The statutes of limitation are often extremely short [see, e.g., Pub. Res. Code § 21167(c) (30 days for challenging environmental impact reports)]. There are special notice and hearing requirements that must be strictly followed [see, e.g., Pub. Res. Code § 21167.4 (hearing on merits of CEQA action must be set within 90 days of filing complaint)]. The subject of the litigation often involves complicated administrative proceedings, with their own set of procedures and remedies which may have to be exhausted before suit may be filed. The price for failing to strictly observe these kinds of requirements may be dismissal of the action [see, e.g., McCormick v. Board of Supervisors (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 352, 243 Cal. Rptr. 617 (dismissed for failure to comply with Pub. Res. Code § 21167.4); see also Fiorentino v. City of Fresno (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 596, 604, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 30 (dismissal was proper even though request for hearing was filed one day late and before a motion to dismiss)].

Typically, environmental litigation is commenced in the superior court, California's principal trial court. The superior court has unlimited subject matter jurisdiction (except when jurisdiction is expressly granted to other courts) in actions involving $25,000 or more in controversy [Cal. Const., art. VI, §§ 4, 10; Code Civ. Proc. § 86(a)(1); Gov. Code §§

69504-70148], including actions in the nature of mandamus, certiorari, and prohibition [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10] and petitions for writs of mandate [Code Civ. Proc. § 1085]. For venue, "local" actions involving real property, such as a claim involving a governmental "taking" or environmental damage to real property, are tried in the county in which the subject real property islocated [Code Civ. Proc. § 392(a)(1)]. "Transitory" or "personal" actions are triable in the county where the injury occurred or the defendant resides [Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a)]. An action against a public officer or his or her agent for performing an official act is triable where the cause of action arises [Code Civ. Proc. § 393(b)].

Finally, to avoid local prejudice, actions by one California city, county, or local agency against another or against a resident of another such governmental entity, must be transferred to a neutral county (that is, not the county of the plaintiff or the defendant) on the motion of a party [Code Civ. Proc. § 394(a)]. For further coverage of jurisdiction and venue, see California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice, Ch. 11, Preliminary Litigation Issues, §§ 11.02 and 11.03 (Matthew Bender).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJurisdictionGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureVenueGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawLitigation & Administrative ProceedingsGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawLitigation & Administrative ProceedingsJudicial ReviewEnvironmental LawLitigation & Administrative ProceedingsJurisdiction & ProcedureEnvironmental LawLitigation & Administrative ProceedingsNuisances, Trespasses & Strict LiabilityEnvironmental LawNational Environmental Policy ActGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstReal Property LawTortsNuisanceRemediesInjunctionsGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 36: Personal Property Leases thru Premises Liability-Chs. 413-424
Chapter 418 POLLUTION AND ENVIRONMENTAL MATTERS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedural Issues in Environmental Cases

36-418 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 418.11

AUTHOR: By Roger Beers

§ 418.11 Standing

[1] Standing as Essential to Cause of Action

