§ 447.19 Service of Notice When Person's Address Is Unknown

If a person who is entitled to notice cannot be located after a diligent search, the court may prescribe the manner of giving notice to that person or may dispense with notice to that person [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.52(c)]. The petitioner must file a declaration describing the efforts made to locate the person before the court willprescribe an alternate form of notice or dispense with notice [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.52(a)]. The declaration must state the name of the person whose address is unknown, the person's last known address, the approximate date on which the person was last known to reside there, the efforts made to locate the person, and any facts explaining why the person's address cannot be obtained [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.52(a)]. The declaration must describe the attempts to learn of the person's business and residences by: (1) inquiry of the relatives, friends, acquaintances, and employers of the person entitled to notice and of the person who is the subject of the proceeding; (2) review of appropriate city telephone directories and directory assistance; and (3) search of the real and personal property indexes in the recorder's and assessor's offices for the county in which the person was last known or believed to reside [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.52(a)]. Mailing notice to a person at a county seat is not a manner of giving notice that is reasonably calculated to give actual notice [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.52(b)].

§ 447.23 Request for Special Notice

[1] Who May Request

At any time after the issuance of letters in a proceeding under the Probate Code for the administration of a decedent's estate, any person interested in the estate, whether as devisee, heir, creditor, beneficiary under a trust, or as otherwise interested, may, in person or by attorney, make a request for special notice by serving a copy of the request on the personal representative or the personal representative's attorney and filing the original request with the court clerk [see Prob. Code § 1250(a), (e), (f)].

[2] Form and Content of Request

By statute request for special notice must be in a writing so entitled and must set forth the name of the person to whom and the address to which notices are to be sent [see Prob. Code § 1250(a),(b)].

Special notice may be requested of any matter listed in Prob. Code § 1250(c) (discussed in § 447.23[3]) by describing the matter. Alternatively, special notice may be requested of all matter listed in Prob. Code § 1250(c) by referring generally to "the matters described in subdivision (c) of Section 1250 of the Probate Code," or by using words of similar meaning [Prob. Code § 1250(d)].

The Judicial Council has approved a form for requesting special notice [see § 447.68 (Cal. Judicial Council Form DE-154)]. Use of that form is mandatory [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.31].

[3] Matters of Which Special Notice May Be Requested

Special notice may be requested of one or more of the following matters [Prob. Code § 1250(c)]:

- Petitions filed in the estate administration;

- Inventories and appraisals of property in the estate, including any supplemental inventories and appraisals;

- Objections to an appraisal;
- Accounts of a personal representative;
- Reports of status of administration.

[4] Service and Proof of Service of Request

A copy of the request must be personally delivered or mailed to the personalrepresentative or to the attorney for the personal representative. If personally delivered, the request is effective when it is delivered. If mailed, the request is effective when it is received [Prob. Code § 1250(e)]. The Judicial Council form contains a proof of service [see § 447.68].

When the original of the request is filed with the court clerk, it must be accompanied by a written admission or proof of service [Prob. Code § 1250(f)].

[5] Modification or Withdrawal of Request

A request for special notice under Prob. Code § 1250-1252 may be modified or withdrawn in the same manner as provided for the making of the initial request [Prob. Code § 1251].

§ 447.24 Manner of Giving Special Notice

Unless the court makes an order dispensing with the notice, if a request has been made pursuant to Prob. Code § 1250 for special notice of a hearing, the person filing the petition, report, account, or other paper shall give written notice of the filing, together with a copy of the petition, report, account, or other paper, and the time and place set for the hearing to the person named in the request. Notice must be given by mail to the address set forth in the request at least 15 days before the time set for the hearing [Prob. Code § 1252(a)].

§ 447.25 Proof of Notice of Hearing

[1] When Made

If notice of a hearing is required, proof of giving notice of the hearing must be made to the satisfaction of the court at or before the hearing [Prob. Code § 1260(a)].

[2] Manner of Proof

[a] Generally

Proof of notice, however given, may be made by evidence presented at the hearing [Prob. Code § 1265].

[b] Mailing

Proof of mailing may be made in the manner prescribed in Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a (by affidavit or certificate) [Prob. Code § 1261; see also Code Civ.Proc. § 2015.5 (use of declaration in lieu of affidavit)]. For the Judicial Council form for proof of service by mail for use in probate proceedings, see § 447.61; for discussion and general forms relating to Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

[c] Publication

Proof of publication may be made by the affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) of the publisher or printer, or the foreperson or principal clerk of the publisher or printer, showing the time and place of publication [Prob. Code § 1262].

[d] Posting

Proof of posting may be made by the affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) of the person who posted the notice [Prob. Code § 1263]. A court clerk may use a certificate in lieu of an affidavit [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.3]. For the Judicial Council form of clerk's certificate of posting, see § 447.61.

[e] Personal Delivery

Proof of notice by personal delivery may be made by the affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) of the person making the delivery, showing the time and place of delivery and the name of the person to whom delivery was made [Prob. Code § 1264].

[3] Findings; Conclusiveness

If it appears to the satisfaction of the court that notice has been regularly given, or that the party entitled to notice has waived it, the court must so find in its order [Prob. Code § 1260(b)]. The provision for waiver of notice is drawn from case law [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 1260; see, e.g., Estate of Pailhe (1952) 114 Cal. App. 2d 658, 662, 251 P.2d 76 ; Estate of Palm (1945) 68 Cal. App. 2d 204, 213-214, 156 P.2d 62 (both cases involving waiver by general appearance)].

The court's finding on the giving or waiver of notice is conclusive on all persons when the court's order becomes final [Prob. Code § 1260(c)].

The requirement that notice be given by citation will appear in the Probate Code section relating to the proceeding of which notice is to be given [Recommendations Relating to Probate Law, 19 Cal. [2] Use of Form

The foregoing form of application and supporting declaration is for use to obtain an ex parte order requiring further or additional notice of a hearing [see Prob. Code § 1202]. For forms of orders adaptable for use in requiring further or additional notice, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

When the court determines that the notice otherwise required is insufficient in the particular circumstances, the court may require that further or additional notice, including a longer period of notice, be given [Prob. Code § 1202]. When further or additional notice is required, the court may require notice to include, in addition to the time and place of the hearing as specified in former Prob. Code § 1220(b) (now see Prob. Code § 1220(a)(1)), a summary of the matters to be determined. It may also require a copy of the petition to be served with the notice [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 10.26(a)].

Whether the foregoing form should be referred to as an application or a petition depends on the court rule authorizing the particular relief sought and on local practice [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 10.37 ("application"), San Francisco Uniform Local Ct. Rules, Rule 14.20 ("petition")].

[3] Contents of Form

[a] Application and Declaration

An ex parte application for an order must allege whether special notice has been requested and, if so, must identify each person who has requested special notice and must allege that special notice has been given or waived by each person who has requested it [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.55(a), (b)]. Proofs of service of special notice or written waivers of special notice must be filed with the application [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.55(c)].

Each county has its own requirements for the issuance of ex parte orders in probate matters, which should be considered in drafting an application based on the foregoing form. For example, this form includes a form of verification of the application [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 10.37; San Francisco Uniform Local Ct. Rules, Rule 14.20 (E)].

[b] Order

Local court rule may require the application to be accompanied by a separate order complete in itself [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 10.37(d); San Francisco Uniform Local Ct. Rules, Rule 14.20(J)].

The foregoing form of application and supporting declaration is for use to obtain an ex parte order shortening the time within notice of a hearing must be given [see Prob. Code § 1203(a)]. As indicated by the alternative in the first paragraph of the application, the notice period to be shortened may be the regular notice period required by Prob. Code § 1220(a)(1) or both that and the special notice period required by Prob. Code § 1252(a). An order shortening time may also be sought by noticed motion.

For good cause, the court may shorten the time for giving notice of a hearing, unless the particular provision governing notice of hearing provides that the time for giving notice may not be shortened [see Prob. Code § 1203(a)]. For a discussion of the conditions under which a court may not shorten the time for giving notice, see the Introduction under Order Shortening Notice Period.

§ 448.10 Governing Law

Family allowances are governed by Prob. Code §§ 6540-6545. In addition, a wide variety of local court rules govern probate practice. To insure complete compliance, the attorney should consult the applicable rules. In the comments to the forms, references are made to some of the rules of the major counties, particularly Los Angeles and San Francisco.

38-448 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 448.11

§ 448.11 Statutory Authority for Family Allowance

The surviving spouse, minor children, and adult children who are physically or mentally incapacitated from earning a living and were actually dependent in whole or in part on the decedent for support are entitled to a reasonable allowance out of the estate as is necessary for their maintenance according to their circumstances, during the progress of the settlement of the estate [Prob. Code § 6540(a)]. In addition, other adult children who were actually dependent in whole or in part on the decedent for support, or a parent of the decedent who was actually dependent in whole or in part on the decedent for support, may be given such reasonable allowance out of the estate as the court, in its discretion, determines is necessary for their maintenance according to their circumstances during the progress of the settlement of the estate [Prob. Code § 6540(b)].

Beginning January 1, 2005, the surviving registered domestic partner of a decedent also is entitled to such a reasonable family allowance out of the estate as is necessary for the surviving partner's maintenance according to his or her circumstances during administration of the estate. A surviving registered domestic partner, following the other partner's death, has the same rights, protections, and benefits, and is subject to the same responsibilities, obligations, and duties under law that are granted to and imposed on a surviving spouse [Fam. Code § 297.5(c); see Fam. Code § 297.5(j) (when necessary to implement statutory rights of domestic partners, gender-specific terms referring to spouses must be construed to include domestic partners)].

Chapter 448 PROBATE: FAMILY ALLOWANCE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

38-448 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 448.12

§ 448.12 Legislative Purpose of Family Allowance

The statutes creating the right to a family allowance were enacted out of concern for the needs of the surviving family during the period of readjustment following the death of a spouse, and a highly preferential position is accorded the family allowance [Estate of Blair (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 728, 730, 269 P.2d 612] . Thus, the family allowance is preferred to most other claims, and must be granted on proper application even if the estate is insolvent [Estate of Blair (1954) 42 Cal. 2d728, 730, 269 P.2d 612 ; see Prob. Code § 6543 (allowance limited to one year when estate insolvent)].

The right to a family allowance is entirely statutory [Parson v. Parson (1996) 49 Cal. App. 4th 537, 540, 56 Cal. Rptr. 2d 686] . The preferential position afforded by the statute is therefore for the benefit of only those persons designated in the statute [Estate of Blair (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 728, 730, 269 P.2d 612] . The right to a family allowance has also been held to parallel the right to a probate homestead with the right to one linked to the right to the other [see Estate of Brooks (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 748, 750, 171 P.2d 724 ; see also discussion of probate homesteads in Ch. 449, Probate: Exempt Personal Property and Probate Homesteads].

Despite its favored position, the right to a family allowance is subject to various limitations [Parson v. Parson (1996) 49 Cal. App. 4th 537, 540, 56 Cal. Rptr. 2d 686] . For example, a family allowance may not be awarded to the estate of a deceased spouse, even if the spouse would have qualified for the allowance had he or she requested it during his or her lifetime. Similarly, a putative spouse does not have a right to a family allowance because a putative spouse is not one of the persons specified in Prob. Code § 6540 [Parson v. Parson (1996) 49 Cal. App. 4th 537, 540, 56 Cal. Rptr. 2d 686 ; Estate of Hafner (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 1371, 1397-1399, 229 Cal. Rptr. 676] . A dependent parent does not have an entitlement to a family allowance, but only the right to apply for an allowance under Prob. Code § 6540(b) [Estate of Herrera (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 630, 636-639, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 751 (court may apply equitable principles in determining parent's application)]. A family allowance may not be awarded when there is no estate because all of the decedent's assets were placed in a revocable trust; Prob. Code § 6450 only authorizes payment of a family allowance "out of the estate" during its administration [Parson v. Parson (1996) 49 Cal. App. 4th 537, 540-542, 56 Cal. Rptr. 2d 686] .

The allowance commences on the date of the court's order or at such other time as may be provided in the court's order, whether before or after the date of the order, as the court in its discretion determines; but the allowance may not be made retroactive to a date earlier than the date of the decedent's death [*Prob. § 448.15 Effect of Funds From Other Sources

If any person or persons otherwise eligible for family allowance under Prob. Code § 6540 have a reasonable maintenance derived from other sources, and there are other persons entitled to a family allowance, the allowance may be granted only to those who do not have such maintenance [Prob. Code § 6540(c)].

While a spouse may not be deprived of a family allowance merely because he or she has property other than his or her interest in the estate, the nature and extent of such other property is material and relevant to the following issues: (1) Is any sum necessary for the support and maintenance of the petitioner during the period of the administration of decedent's estate? (2) If a sum is necessary for his or her support and maintenance, what is a reasonable amount to allow the petitioner [Estate of Hoffman (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 635, 644, 29 Cal. Rptr. 60] . The fact that petitioner has an income in excess of the amount of his or her living expenses and has capital of a substantial amount is not sufficient reason for denying the petition outright [Estate of Van Der Oef (1963) 212 Cal. App. 2d 155, 156, 27 Cal. Rptr. 855] .

The right to a family allowance is not a vested right and nothing accrues before the order granting it [Estate of Blair (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 728, 733, 269 P.2d 612] . The right to a family allowance does not depend on heirship, but depends on the claimant's right to support at the time of the decedent's death and the existence of a relationship that is recognized by statute between the claimant and the decedent [Estate of Hafner (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 1371, 1398, 229 Cal. Rptr. 676] . A surviving spouse is entitled to a family allowance if the surviving spouse is entitled to support at the decedent's death, but need not actually be receiving support at the decedent's death [Estate of Hafner (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 1371, 1398, 229 Cal. Rptr. 676] .

§ 448.17 Application for Allowance

[1] While Status Exists

A petition for family allowance must be filed while the family status or minority is in existence. It is not a vested right and is lost when the one for whom it is asked has lost the status on which the right depends [see Estate of Blair (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 728, 732-733, 269 P.2d 612] .

[2] Before or After Inventory

The application may be made before or after the inventory of the estate is filed [Prob. Code § 6541(b)]. In granting a family allowance before inventory, most courts limit the duration of the allowance to the time of filing the inventory, notexceeding six months. Subsequent allowances are usually limited to a definite period, not exceeding 12 months [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 10.75(c)].

[3] Notice Required

Before the inventory is filed, an order for the family allowance provided for by Prob. Code § 6540(a) may be made or modified either (1) ex parte or (2) after notice of the hearing on the petition has been given as the period and in the manner provided in Prob. Code § 1220 [Prob. Code § 6541(b)(1)]. After the inventory is filed, an order for the family allowance provided for by Prob. Code § 6540(a) may be made or modified only after notice of the hearing on the petition has been given as provided in Prob. Code § 1220 [Prob. Code § 6541(b)(2)]. For further discussion of notice requirements, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements .

An order for the family allowance provided in Prob. Code § 6540(b) may be made only after notice of the hearing on the petition has been given as provided in Prob. Code § 1220 to all of the following persons [Prob. Code § 6541(c)]:

- Each person listed in Prob. Code § 1220.
- Each known heir whose interest in the estate would be affected by the petition.

- Each known devisee whose interest in the estate would be affected by the petition.

The undertaking must be conditioned that if the order appealed from is modified or reversed, so that the payment (or any part thereof) to the person proves to have been unwarranted, the payment (or part thereof), unless deducted from any preliminary or final distribution ordered in favor of the person, must be repaid and refunded into the estate within 30 days after the court so orders following the modification or reversal, together with interest and costs [*Prob. § 448.22 Waiver of Family Allowance

The right of a family allowance is not absolute. It may be waived by agreement or by conduct [Estate of Brooks (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 748, 750, 171 P.2d 724] . To be effective as a waiver of the right to a family allowance, the intention to waive the right must be expressed in clear language. However, the right to a family allowance is not lost by either delay in seeking it, or by the fact that the applicant has previously received estate funds from the administrator of the estate without proper authorization [*Estate of Herrera (1992) 10 Cal. § 448.23 Termination of Family Allowance

A family allowance terminates no later than the entry of the order for final distribution or, if the estate is insolvent, no later than one year after the granting of letters [Prob. Code § 6543(a)]. Subject to that limitation, a family allowance continues until modified or terminated by the court or until such time as the court may provide in its order [Prob. Code § 6543(b)].

The family allowance is a personal right that ends with the death of the person so entitled [Estate of Blair (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 728, 732, 269 P.2d 612] . The allowance is also lost when the one for whom it is asked has lost the status on which the right depends [Estate of Murphy (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 224, 232, 37 Cal. Rptr. 205] . However, the remarriage of the decedent's spouse (or, afterJanuary 1, 2005, the entering of a new registered domestic partnership by the decedent's domestic partner) [see Fam. Code § 297.5(c)] is not a bar to the continuance of an allowance for the benefit of minor children [Estate of Murphy (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 224, 232, 37 Cal. Rptr. 205] .

PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

38-448 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 448.42

§ 448.42 Decisions

[1] Effect of In Terrorem Clauses

Objections to executor's performance does not trigger penalty under in terrorem clause of will. Estate of Kruse (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 471, 476, 86 Cal. Rptr. 491

[2] Modification of Family Allowance

Modification of order for family allowance is not retroactive. Estate of Nelson (1914) 167 Cal. 321, 325, 139 P. 692

[3] Persons Entitled to Allowance

Former Prob. Code § 680 (now see Prob. Code § 6540) does not authorize probate court to award family allowance to putative spouse. Estate of Hafner (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 1371, 1398, 229 Cal. Rptr. 676

The word "family" includes members of family living apart from decedent but for whose support he is liable. Estate of Woodward (1964) 230 Cal. App. 2d 113, 116, 40 Cal. Rptr. 781

Illegitimate children are included within family members entitled to an allowance. Estate of Woodward (1964) 230 Cal. App. 2d 113, 118, 119, 40 Cal. Rptr. 781

[4] Purpose of Family Allowance

Legislative purpose is to provide for the support of persons designated in statute during period between decedent's death and distribution of estate. Parson v. Parson (1996) 49 Cal. App. 4th 537, 540, 56 Cal. Rptr. 2d 686

[5] Relationship of Family Allowance to Probate Homestead

Section on probate homestead and section on family allowance are related statutes. Estate of Brooks (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 748, 750, 171 P.2d 724

[6] Right to Appeal

Order retroactively terminating a family allowance is appealable. Estate of Hoffman (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 635, 640, 29 Cal. Rptr. 60

Order refusing to vacate an order for family allowance is not appealable. Estate of Casimir (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 773, 783, 97 Cal. Rptr. 623

[7] Right to Attorney's Fees

Successful applicant for family allowance as not entitled to obtain attorney's fees. Estate of Van Der Oef (1963) 212 Cal. App. 2d 155, 158, 27 Cal. Rptr. 855

[8] Right to Family Allowance

Because payment of family allowance is given priority over virtually every other debt, it is said to occupy a preferential position and to be "highly favored by the law." Parson v. Parson (1996) 49 Cal. App. 4th 537, 540, 56 Cal. Rptr. 2d 686

Family allowances have priority over creditors' claims even when reduced to judgment; probate court lacks authority to alter this preference. Estate of Herrera (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 630, 635-636, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 751

Prob. Code § 6540 differentiates between claimants who are entitled to family allowance and those who may be given allowance; equitable principles apply in those cases which involve court's discretion. Estate of Herrera (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 630, 636-638, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 751

Right to family allowance depends not on heirship but on claimant's right to support at time of decedent's death and existence of relationship that is recognized by statute between claimant and decedent. Estate of Hafner (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 1371, 1398, 229 Cal. Rptr. 676

When right of wife to receive support from husband exists at time of husband's death, granting or withholding of support from husband's estate is not within discretion of probate court, even though court has broad discretion in determining reasonableness and necessity for family allowance. Estate of Hafner (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 1371, 1399, 229 Cal. Rptr. 676

Right to family allowance is entirely statutory. Estate of Blair (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 728, 730, 269 P.2d 612

Stipulation and order on order to show cause in dissolution proceeding that provided that surviving spouse would vacate family home, but did not provide for temporary support, did not affect mutual obligation of spouses to support each other during marriage for purposes of determining surviving spouse's right to family allowance under former Prob. Code § 680. Estate of Kalal (1981) 121 Cal. App. 3d 841, 851, 175 Cal. Rptr. 582

Determination of whether or not parties intended to separate and permanently waive spousal support for purposes of evaluating surviving spouse's right to family allowance (former Prob. Code § 680) is factual issue within province of probate court, which will be reversed only on showing of abuse of discretion. Estate of Kalal (1981) 121 Cal. App. 3d 841, 851, 175 Cal. Rptr. 582

Fact that surviving spouse may have own property or income is not a basis for denial of family allowance under former Prob. Code § 680, but relevant on issues of necessity for and reasonableness of allowance. Estate of Kalal (1981) 121 Cal. App. 3d 841, 851, 175 Cal. Rptr. 582

Right to family allowance is entirely statutory; is favored by law; is for survivor's maintenance and support and for no other purpose; and is subject to attachment under former Code Civ. Proc. § 541. Estate of Silverman (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 180, 182, 183, 57 Cal. Rptr. 379

Right to family allowance is not a vested right. Estate of Blair (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 728, 733, 269 P.2d 612

Factors to be considered in determining amount of allowance. Estate of Hoffman (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 635, 644, 29 Cal. Rptr. 60

That widow's existing income exceeds her expenses is not ground to deny petition for allowance outright. Estate of Van Der Oef (1963) 212 Cal. App. 2d 155, 156, 27 Cal. Rptr. 855

[10] Termination of Family Allowance

[a] Property Settlement Agreements

Denial of family allowance to two minor children on finding that mother and father, pending divorce, entered into property settlement agreement containing provisions that husband maintain life insurance policies for benefit of his minor children and parties intended that insurance proceeds furnish child support and support not be burden on father's estate, was proper; waiver by contract of right to family allowance by spouse; allowance order is not subject to collateral attack; right to terminate allowance previously granted on good faith claims is retroactive only to date of filing petition to set aside. Estate of Schumacher (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 146, 151-153, 95 Cal. Rptr. 572

[b] Loss of Status

Family allowance lost when the one who is entitled to it loses the status upon which it is based. Estate of Murphy (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 224, 232, 37 Cal. Rptr. 205

[c] Date of Decree of Distribution

Trial court did not abuse its discretion in terminating widow's allowance as of date of decree of distribution although order granting allowance did not indicate termination date for allowance, because final decree of distribution did not provide for further proceedings and expressly stated that all debts, expenses, and claims against estate had been paid when widow had received all she was entitled to receive from estate, and widow was party who appealed from decree of distribution. Estate of Vannucci (1980) 103 Cal. App. 3d 175, 182-185, 163 Cal. Rptr. 11

Remarriage of decedent's spouse is not a bar to the continuance of allowance for the benefit of minor children. Estate of Murphy (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 224, 232, 37 Cal. Rptr. 205

[e] Effect of Death

Family allowance ends with the death of the person entitled to it. Estate of Blair (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 728, 732, 269 P.2d 612

[f] Effect of Time

Denial of petition to continue allowance beyond specified period. Estate of Coffin (1936) 16 Cal. App. 2d 532, 534, 61 P.2d 81

Discontinuance of allowance at end of reasonable period for settlement of estate. Estate of Taylor (1936) 12 Cal. App. 2d 374, 376, 55 P.2d 537

[g] Effect of Divorce

Propriety of entering testator's final decree of divorce nunc pro tunc to date prior to his death pursuant to former Civ. Code § 4515 (now see Civ. Code § 4513) thereby denuding wife of her status of widow and disqualifying her from family allowance. Estate of Casimir (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 773, 778-782, 97 Cal. Rptr. 623

[11] Waiver of Allowance

Right to family allowance can be waived. Estate of Brooks (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 748, 750, 171 P.2d 724

Chapter 448 PROBATE: FAMILY ALLOWANCE
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST

38-448 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 448.61

§ 448.61 Preliminary Determinations

1. Tax consequences to surviving spouse [see Treas. Reg. § 1.661(a)-2].

2. Tax consequences to estate.

3. Source of payment, income or corpus.

4. Amount of allowance to be requested.

5. Determine commencing date to be sought, whether from date of death or some other date [Prob. Code § 6542].

NOTE:
Check local probate policy rules as to practice in fixing duration of allowance. For example, if made before inventory is filed, it is the practice of some courts to make the order for a period commencing with date of death and continuing until inventory is filed, but not to exceed six months [*see*Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rule, Rule 10.75(b)]. Subsequent orders are limited to a definite period, usually not to exceed 12 months.

6. Prepare petition and order [see §§ 448.80, 448.83 (before inventory); 351, 354 (after inventory)].

7. Have petitioner verify petition [Prob. Code § 1021]. Verified petition may also be used as evidence in uncontested proceedings [Prob. Code § 1022].

8. File original of petition with county clerk.

9. Notice of hearing [Prob. Code §§ 1220, 6541].

a. Before inventory is filed: Prob. Code § 6541(b)(1)(A) permits application on behalf of the surviving spouse or registered domestic partner [see Prob. Code § 37; Fam. Code § 297.5(c)], minor children, and adult children who are physically or mentally incapacitated from earning a living to be made ex parte before inventory. The application can also be made after notice of hearing on the petition has been given as provided in Prob. Code § 1220 [see Prob. Code § 6541(b)(1)(B)]. However, an application for an allowance for an adult child who is not incapacitated or a parent must be noticed whenever it is made [Prob. Code § 6541(c)]. Some courts specifically request that notice be given when application is made more than six months after the personal representative has qualified [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rule, Rule 10.75(c)]. If application is not made by the personal representative, some counties require his or her consent to the allowance or his or her waiver of notice to accompany the petition [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rule, Rule 10.75(a)].

b. After inventory is filed: At least 15 days before the hearing, the petitioner must give notice of the time and place of the hearing to the personal representative and to all persons who have requested special notice in the estate proceeding pursuant to Prob. Code § 1250 [Prob. Code § 6541(a)(2); see Prob. Code § 1220(a)(1), (2)]. Additional notice is required if the application is for an allowance for an adult child who is not incapacitated or for a parent [Prob. Code § 6541(c), see Subparagraph c., below]. In the case of persons requesting special notice, the notice must be mailed to the address set forth in the request [Prob. Code § 1252(a)]. In the case of others entitled to notice, the notice must be mailed to the person's business or residence address, if known; if not known, the court may order that the notice be given in a manner reasonably calculated to give actual notice to that person [Prob. Code §§ 1212, 1220(a)(3); see Code Civ. Proc. § 413.30]. If any person entitled to notice is represented by an attorney of record, the notice must also be given to that attorney [Prob. Code § 1214].

c. Adult children who are incapacitated or parents of decedentactually dependent in whole or in part on decedent for support. Hearing must be given as provided in Prob. Code § 1220(a), (b), (d)-(f) (discussed in part in Subparagraph b. above) to each known heir and devisee whose interest in the estate is affected by the petition [see Prob. Code § 6541(c)].

10. Presenting or hearing petition.

a. If proceeding ex parte, present the petition, along with the clerk's file, to court for approval.

b. If proceeding on notice and hearing, attend making proof of notice and of allegations of petition.

c. After obtaining an order for family allowance, file original with county clerk and secure certified or conformed copies as required.

NOTE:

Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1019.5(a), when a motion is granted or denied, unless the court otherwise orders, notice of the court's decision or order (see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders) must be given by the prevailing party to all other parties or their attorneys, in the manner provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020 (see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers), unless notice is waived by all parties in open court and is entered in the minutes.

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use to petition the court for a family allowance before the inventory and appraisement has been filed [see Prob. Code § 6541(b)(1)]. The alternative provisions for the first paragraph permit the form to be used by either the personal representative, the person entitled to the family allowance, or any other interested person [see Prob. Code § 6541(a); see also Prob. Code § 48 (defining interested person)].

[3] Other Sources of Income

If any person or persons otherwise eligible for family allowance under Prob. Code § 6540 have a reasonable maintenance derived from other sources, and there are other persons entitled to a family allowance, the allowance may be granted only to those who have not that maintenance [Prob. Code § 6540(c)].

The nature and extent of other property is also considered material to the following issues [see Estate of Hoffman (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 635, 644, 29 Cal. Rptr. 60] :

- Is any sum necessary for the support and maintenance of the petitioner during the period of administration of the estate; and
- If a sum is necessary, what is a reasonable amount to allow.

Disclosure of other property should be made in the petition. Its existence is certain to be a subject of examination sooner or later and failure to disclose at the outset may be harmful [see Estate of Hoffman (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 635, 644, 29 Cal. Rptr. 60] . "Although there is some question as to whether attorney's fees, as such, may be awarded to a widow in connection with her petition for a family allowance, it was squarely held that such an award is proper where the petition is on behalf of a minor child" [Estate of Barkdull (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 729, 731, 80 Cal. Rptr. 317] . By way of explanation, the court in Barkdull pointed out, in a footnote: "In the case of a widow, the practice is to grant an allowance large enough (if possible) to enable her to treat the cost of securing the order as a part of her living expense. That was the device which the widow utilized in her prayer in the court below" [Estate of Barkdull (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 729, 731, 80 Cal. Rptr. 317] .

[4] Attorney's Fees

Prob. Code § 6544 provides that the costs of family allowance proceedings are to be paid by the estate as expenses of administration. Cases decided under the predecessor statute created a degree of uncertainty over the extent to which attorney's fees are allowable as "costs" under the statute [see Estate of Filtzer (1949) 33 Cal. 2d 776, 782-784, 205 P.2d 377 ; cf. Estate of Van Der Oef (1963) 212 Cal. App. 2d 155, 158, 27 Cal. Rptr. 855] . This form assumes that attorney's fees will be requested.

[5] Verification

The petition must be verified by the petitioner [Prob. Code § 1021]. It should also be verified if it is to be used as evidence under Prob. Code § 1022. Additionally, some local court rules specify that an executor, administrator, trustee, guardian, or conservator acting in his or her official capacity must verify any petitions made in that capacity [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 10.12].

[6] Notice of Hearing

Before the inventory is filed, a family allowance may be granted with or without notice if the allowance is for a surviving spouse, minor child, or adult child who is physically or mentally incapacitated from earning a living [Prob. Code § 6541(b)(1). After the inventory has been filed, however, notice of the petition must be given [Prob. Code § 6541(b)(2)]. If the petition is for an allowance for an adult child who is not incapacitated from earning a living, or for an allowance for a parent who was dependent on the decedent for support, notice is required regardless of when the petition is made [Prob. Code § 6541(c)]. For a discussion of the notice requirements, see the Procedural Guide. In Los Angeles County, if the petition for allowance is made more than six months after the personal representative has qualified, it is noticed and placed on the calendar [Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 10.75(c)].

[7] State Statutes

Petition must be verified. Prob. Code § 1021

Entitlement to family allowance; priority of allowance. Prob. Code § 6540

Petition before inventory filed. Prob. Code § 6541(b)(1)

Denial to persons amply provided from other sources. Prob. Code § 6540(c)

Cost chargeable to estate. Prob. Code § 6544

Bond on appeal from family allowance order. Prob. Code § 6545

§ 448.82 Objections to Petition for Family Allowance [Prob. Code § 6541]

[1] FORM Objections to Petition for Family Allowance [Prob. Code § 6541]

[Caption. See § 448.80.]

Objector, _____ [name], objects to the petition of _____ [name] for family allowance as follows:

[EITHER]

1. Objector is the duly appointed, qualified, and acting personal representative of the estate of _____ [name], deceased.

[OR]

1. Objector is _____ [a beneficiary under the will or an heir, to wit _____ (name), entitled to inherit property or a creditor] of _____ [name], deceased.

[EITHER]

2. There is insufficient property, money, or income of the estate of the deceased for payment of any family allowance. The only assets of the estate consist of _____ [specify and show claim of higher priority therefor].

[AND/OR]

3. Petitioner is not entitled to family allowance because he/she has substantial other sources of income from which he/she derives a reasonable maintenance according to his circumstances and no allowance out of the estate is necessary for his/her maintenance. The character and estimated value of petitioner's other sources of maintenance, and the probable annual income therefrom are as follows: _____ [specify]. The following persons are entitled to a family allowance pursuant to the provisions of Probate Code Section 6540: _____ [names] [and have filed petitions for family allowance herein].

[2] Use of Form

This form is to be used when an interested person objects to a family allowance.

The statutes are completely silent as to the form any objections to the petition should take [see Prob. Code §§ 6540-6545]. The general practice has developed of filing "Objections to the Petition for Family Allowance." Objections filed, however entitled, certainly do produce a contest and they may appropriately be entitled as in Estate of Van Der Oef [Estate of Van Der Oef (1963) 212 Cal. App. 2d 155, 27 Cal. Rptr. 855] . They do not, however, produce a contest in the fullest sense in which the term is usually employed; there is no right to move for a new trial [In re Estate of Heywood (1908) 154 Cal. 312, 314, 97 P. 825] . Therefore, the general practice developed in entitling the objections has been retained.

Not all of the objections set forth in this form would be employed simultaneously, as a rule. Various other objections may be appropriate to a particular case.

[3] Source of Form

This form is adapted from the objections filed in Estate of Van Der Oef (1963) 212 Cal. App. 2d 155, 27 Cal. Rptr. 855 ; Estate of Zlaket (1960) 180 Cal. App. 2d 553, 4 Cal. Rptr. 450 ; and Estate of Gormly (1959) 170 Cal. App. 2d 103, 338 P.2d 457 . In the first case, however, the objections were entitled "Contest and Grounds of Opposition to Petition for Family Allowance."

[4] State Statutes

Objection must be verified by objector. Prob. Code § 1021(a)(2)

Objections to petition for family allowance. Prob. Code §§ 6540, 6541

§ 449.10 Governing Law

Setting apart exempt property of the decedent and probate homesteads is governed by Prob. Code §§ 6500-6528. The notice required when a petition to set apart exempt property and/or a probate homestead is filed is governed by Prob. Code § 1220 (general requirements for mailing of notices), Prob. Code § 6501 (petition for order to modify time period for temporary possession of family dwelling and exempt property), Prob. Code § 6511 (petition for order to set apart exempt personal property of deceased), and Prob. Code § 6525 (petition to select and set apart probate homestead). Special notice is governed by Prob. Code §§ 1250-1252.

In addition, there are a wide variety of local court rules governing probate practice. To assure complete compliance, the attorney should consult the applicable rules. In the comments to the forms, references are made to some of these local court rules.

§ 449.11 Setting Apart Exempt Property

Until the inventory is filed and for a period of 60 days thereafter, or for such other period as may be ordered by the court for good cause on petition therefor, the decedent's surviving spouse and minor children are entitled to remain in possession of the family dwelling, the wearing apparel of the family, the household furniture, and other property of the decedent exempt from execution [Prob. Code § 6500]. Personal property exempt from execution is described in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 704.010-704.210. On the filing of the inventory or at any subsequent time during the administration of the estate, the court in its discretion may on petition therefor set apart all or any part of the property of the decedent exempt from enforcement of a money judgment, other than the family dwelling, to any one or more of the surviving spouse and the minor children of the decedent [Prob. Code § 6510]. Notice of the hearing on the petition must be given as provided in Prob. Code § 1220 [see Prob. Code § 6511; see also Prob. Code §§ 1250-1252 (special notice)]. For a discussion of notice requirements generally, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

38-449 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 449.12

§ 449.12 Probate Homestead

[1] When Set Apart

On the filing of the inventory or at any subsequent time during the administration of the estate, the court in its discretion may on petition therefor select and set apart one probate homestead in the manner provided in Prob. Code §§ 6520-6528 [Prob. Code § 6520].

[2] For Whom Set Apart

The homestead is set apart for the use of one or more of: (1) the surviving spouse and (2) the minor children of the decedent [Prob. Code § 6521].

Beginning January 1, 2005, the surviving registered domestic partner of a decedent also is one of the persons for whom a probate homestead can be set aside. A surviving registered domestic partner, following the other partner's death, has the same rights, protections, and benefits, and is subject to the same responsibilities, obligations, and duties under law that are granted to and imposed on a surviving spouse [Fam. Code § 297.5(c); Prob. Code § 37 ("domestic partner" defined); see Fam. Code § 297.5(j) (when necessary to implement statutory rights of domestic partners, gender-specific terms referring to spouses must be construed to include domestic partners)].

[3] Property From Which Selected

The homestead is required to be selected from the following property, giving first preference to the community and quasi-community property of, or property owned in common by, the decedent and the person entitled to have the homestead set apart [Prob. Code § 6522(a); Fam. Code § 297.5(c)]:

- If the homestead is set apart for the use of the surviving spouse or registered domestic partner or for the use of the surviving spouse or registered domestic partner and minor children, out of community property or quasi-community property.

- If the homestead is set apart for the use of the surviving spouse or registered domestic partner or for > the use of the minor children, or for the use of the surviving spouse and minor children, out of property owned in common by the decedent and the persons entitled to have the homestead set apart, or out of the separate property of the decedent or, if the decedent was not married at the time of death, out of property owned by the decedent.

Quasi-community property is defined in Prob. Code § 66, community property is defined in Civ. Code § 687 and Fam. Code § 760 et seq., and interest in common is defined in Civ. Code § 685. Separate property is described in Fam. Code §§ 770, 771, 772, 781.

A probate homestead cannot be selected out of property if the right to possession of that property is vested in a third person unless the third person consents to it. The term third person means a person whose right to possession of the property (1) existed at the time of, or came into existence on, the decedent's death, and (2) was not created by testate or intestate succession from the decedent [Prob. Code § 6522(b)].

[4] Duration

The period for which property may be set apart for a homestead is limited and must be designated in the order which sets it apart. The period may not extend beyond the lifetime of the surviving spouse or domestic partner, or, as to a child, beyond the child's minority [Prob. Code § 6524; Fam. Code § 297.5(c)].

[5] Effect on Administration

Subject to the homestead right, the property of the decedent remains subject to administration, including testate and intestate succession. The rights of the parties during the period for which the homestead is set apart are governed, to the extent applicable, by the Legal Estates Principal and Income Law (Civ. Code §§ 731-731.15) [Prob. Code § 6524].

[6] Liability for Claims Against Decedent's Estate

Property of the decedent set apart as a probate homestead is liable for claims against the estate of the decedent, subject to the probate homestead right. The probate homestead right in the decedent's property is liable for claims that are secured by liens and encumbrances on the property at the time of the decedent's death but is exempt to the extent of the homestead exemption [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 704.710-704.850] as to any claim that would have been subject to a homestead exemption at the time of the decedent's death [Prob. Code § 6526(a)]. The right is not liable for claims against the person for whose use the homestead is set apart [Prob. Code § 6526(b)], but property of the decedent set apart as a probate homestead is liable for claims against the testate or intestate successors of the decedent or other successors to the property after administration, subject to the probate homestead right [Prob. Code § 6526(c)].

§ 449.13 Hearing on Petition to Set Apart

A petition to select and set apart a probate homestead may be filed by any interested person [Prob. Code § 6525(a)]. Notice of the hearing on the petition must be given as provided in Prob. Code § 1220 to each person listed in Prob. Code § 1220 and to each known heir and known devisee whose interest in the estate would be affected by the petition [see Prob. Code § 6252(b); see also Prob. Code §§ 1220 (notice by mail), 1285 (clerk to set matter for hearing) and Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements].

In selecting and setting apart the homestead, the court must consider the needs of the surviving spouse or registered domestic partner [see Fam. Code § 297.5(c)] and minor children, the liens and encumbrances on the property, the claims of creditors, the needs of the heirs or devisees of the decedent, and the decedent's intent with respect to the property in the estate and the estate plan of decedent asexpressed in inter vivos and testamentary transfers or by other means [Prob. Code§ 6523(a)]. The court, in light of the foregoing and other relevant considerations as determined by the court in its discretion, must select as a probate homestead the most appropriate property available that is suitable for use as a dwelling. The court must set apart, in addition to the dwelling, any adjoining property as appears reasonable for such a term and on such conditions (including but not limited to assignment by the homestead recipient of other property to the heirs or devisees of the property that has been set apart as a homestead) as appear proper [Prob. Code § 6523(b)].

The court, by order, may modify the term or conditions of the probate homestead right or may terminate the probate homestead right at any time prior to entry of an order for final distribution of the decedent's estate if, in the court's discretion, to do so appears appropriate under the circumstances of the case [Prob. Code § 6527(a)]. A petition for an order may be filed by any of the following [Prob. Code § 6527(b)]:

- The person for whose use the probate homestead is set apart.

- The testate or intestate successors of the decedent or other successors to that property set apart as a probate homestead.

- Persons having claims secured by liens or encumbrances on the property set apart as a probate homestead.

Notice of the hearing on the petition must be given to all the persons listed in Prob. Code § 6527(b) (other than the petitioner) as provided in Prob. Code § 1220 [Prob. Code § 6527(c); see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements].

38-449 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 449.16

§ 449.16 Waiver of Probate Homestead

The right to a probate homestead may be waived by agreement or conduct [Estate of Alba (1965) 238 Cal. App. 2d 618, 622, 48 Cal. Rptr. 100] . The requirements of an effective waiver are (1) an existing right; (2) a knowledge, actual or constructive, of the existence of the right; and (3) an actual intention to relinquish the right or conduct so inconsistent with the intent to enforce it as to induce a reasonable belief that the right has been relinquished [Estate of Alba (1965) 238 Cal. App. 2d 618, 622, 48 Cal. Rptr. 100] . Thus, although waiver of a probate homestead by agreement may take the form of a writing, such as an attachment to the will of the deceased spouse, a separation agreement, or a prenuptial agreement, the courts subject the agreements to an extremely strict construction in order to preserve the surviving spouse's right to a probate homestead [Estate of Alba (1965) 238 Cal. App. 2d 618, 623, 48 Cal. Rptr. 100] . If acts are relied on to establish abandonment or waiver of a legal right there must be either clear, unequivocal, and decisive acts of the party showing that purpose or acts amounting to an estoppel on his or her part [Estate of Alba (1965) 238 Cal. App. 2d 618, 623, 48 Cal. Rptr. 100] .

§ 449.50 Facts to Be Ascertained

NOTE:
The following guide is illustrative only. In an actual case procedures may be called for that are not set forth here.

1. Name of surviving spouse or registered domestic partner.

2. Name and birth dates of minor children.

3. Name of personal representative, if other than surviving spouse or registered domestic partner.

NOTE:
If probate administration has not yet been opened, consider preparing petition for probate for surviving spouse [see Ch. 442, Probate: Initiating Probate Administration].

4. Name and address of each heir, devisee, and legatee, other than the surviving spouse or registered domestic partner and minor children. Identify which are likely to resist a petition to set apart.

NOTE:
This information may be obtained by examining a copy of the petition for probate, if any.

5. Property in the estate.

6. The disposition of the property to be set apart if allowed to pass by intestate succession or by the will.

NOTE:
If decedent died intestate all of the community property passes to the surviving spouse or surviving registered domestic partner. Separate property of the decedent is shared by the surviving spouse and the children. If there is only one surviving child, the property is shared equally between the surviving spouse and the child. If there are two or more surviving children, then they share two thirds equally, and the surviving spouse takes one third [see Prob. Code §§ 6401, 6402]. The same provisions regarding intestate succession apply with respect to a surviving domestic partner [see Prob. Code §§ 6401(c), 6402 (effective July 1, 2003); Fam. Code § 297.5(c) (effective January 1, 2005, registered domestic partners have same rights and responsibilities as surviving spouses)].

7. The financial condition of the surviving spouse and minor children.

38-449 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 449.52

§ 449.52 Preliminary Determinations

1. Has the inventory been filed?

NOTE:

The surviving spouse and minor children are entitled to remain in possession of the family dwelling, the wearing apparel of the family, the household furniture, and other property of the decedent exempt from execution until the inventory is filed and for 60 days thereafter, or for such other period as the court orders for good cause [Prob. Code § 6500]. The petition to set apart to the surviving spouse or registered domestic partner and/or the decedent's minor children all or any part of the decedent's property exempt from execution other than the dwelling is filed on or after the date of filing the inventory [Prob. Code § 6510; Fam. Code § 297.5(c)].

2. What personal property of the decedent qualifies as exempt property?

NOTE:

For property exempt from execution, see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 704.010-704.210.

3. Is there real property in the estate which is suitable as a residence for the surviving spouse or registered domestic partner and/or minor children?

NOTE:

It is not necessary that surviving spouse or minor children resided on the property at the time of decedent's death, or that the property be a detached, single family dwelling [see Estate of Schmelz (1968) 259 Cal. App. 2d 440, 443-444, 66 Cal. Rptr. 480] . There is no value limitation on the property which may be set apart. However, a homestead cannot be selected out of property if the right to possession of that property is vested in a third person unless the third person consents to it. The term third person means a person whose right to possession of the property (1) existed at the time of, or came into existence on, the decedent's death, and (2) was not created by testate or intestate succession from the decedent [Prob. Code § 6522(b)].

4. What are the needs of the parties and what is the condition of the estate?

NOTE:

In selecting and setting apart a homestead, the court is required to consider the needs of the surviving spouse or registered domestic partner and minor children, the liens and encumbrances on the property, the claims of creditors, the needs of the heirs or devisees of the decedent, and the decedent's intent with respect to the property in the estate and the estate plan of the decedent as expressed in inter vivos and testamentary transfers or by other means [Prob. Code § 6523(a); Fam. Code § 297.5(c)].

[2] Use of Form

This form is to be used to set apart exempt personal property of decedent to the surviving spouse or registered domestic partner or a minor child of the decedent [see Prob. Code § 6510; Fam. Code § 297.5(c)].

[3] Essential Allegations

When the proceeding is brought on behalf of a minor child or children, the petition should include an allegation of the appointment of a guardian. Although the petition would ordinarily be brought by the surviving spouse or registered domestic partner, or the guardian of a minor child, any interested person may file the petition [Prob. Code § 6510; Fam. Code § 297.5(c) see also Prob. Code § 48 (defining interested person)]. Therefore, the petition should allege the facts bringing the petitioner within the definition of interested person.

Since the power of the court to set apart is discretionary [Prob. Code § 6510; Estate of Jones (1947) 78 Cal. App. 2d 265, 266-267, 177 P.2d 372] the court generally will want to be informed as to the condition of the estate. The petition should, therefore, set forth fully all property and indebtedness, as indicated, together with all other relevant facts, even though the application is for exempt personal property only.

When the surviving family includes one or more minor children in addition tothe surviving spouse or registered domestic partner, the name and birth dates of each should be included since the size of the family is important. The property is set apart to the spouse or partner only in that case, but it is for the use and benefit of all.

Surviving registered domestic partner has same rights, responsibilities, protections, and benefits as surviving spouse. Fam. Code § 297.5(c)

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use to shorten or extend the period of time during which the surviving spouse or registered domestic partner and minor children of a decedent are entitled to remain in possession of the family dwelling, the wearing apparel of the family, the household furniture, and the other property of the deceased that is exempt from enforcement of a money judgment [Prob. Code §§ 6500, 6501; Fam. Code § 297.5(c)]. The usual period lasts until 60 days after the inventory is filed, but may last for a different period by order of the court for good cause [see Prob. Code § 6500]. Although the statute provides that the surviving spouse or registered domestic partner and minor children are entitled to possession, if there is no surviving spouse or registered domestic partner or no minor children, the petition arguably would be proper if filed on behalf of the survivor(s). This interpretation does not have any direct support in the statutory scheme, although it appears to comport with practice under the former law [see, e.g., Robson v. Meder (1944) 66 Cal. App. 2d 47, 48, 151 P.2d 662 (surviving spouse without any minor children held properly in possession of homestead under former Prob. Code § 660)].

The petition must be verified by the petitioner [Prob. Code § 1021(a)]. When the petition is verified and is not opposed, the allegations of the petition must be accepted as evidence [Prob. Code § 1022].

38-450 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 450.11

§ 450.11 Delivery of Decedent's Tangible Personal Property

[1] When Required

Personal property of a decedent will frequently be in the possession of someone other than the decedent at the time of death. Prob. Code § 330 provides a mechanism for delivering that property to designated persons before estate administration proceedings have been commenced and a personal representative appointed [see Prob. Code § 330].

As a general rule, a public administrator, government official, law enforcementagency, hospital or institution in which a decedent died, or a decedent's employer may, without the need to wait 40 days after death, deliver the tangible personal property of the decedent in its possession (including keys to the decedent's residence) to the decedent's surviving spouse, registered domestic partner, or relative, or conservator or guardian of the estate acting in that capacity at the time of death [Prob. Code § 330(a); Fam. Code § 297.5(c)]. The person who delivers the property must require reasonable proof of the status and identity of the person to whom the property is delivered [see Prob. Code § 330(c)], and must keep a record of both the property delivered and the status and identity of the person to whom it was delivered [see Prob. Code § 330(d)].

[2] Exception

The exception to the foregoing rule is that the property must not be delivered if the person in possession of it knows or has reason to believe that there is a dispute over the right to possession of the property [Prob. Code § 330(b)].

[3] Effect of Delivery

Delivery of the property does not determine ownership of the property or confer any greater rights in the property than the recipient would otherwise have. Delivery of the property also does not preclude later proceedings for administration of the decedent's estate [Prob. Code § 330(e)].

[4] Delivery to Personal Representative

If proceedings for administration of the decedent's estate are commenced, the person holding the property must deliver it to the personal representative on the representative's request [Prob. Code § 330(e)].

[5] Liability for Recipient's Loss or Damage to Property

The person who delivers the property is not liable for loss or damage to the property caused by the person to whom the property is delivered [Prob. Code § 330(f)].

Chapter 450 PROBATE: COLLECTING ASSETS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

38-450 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 450.12

§ 450.12 Representative's Duty to Collect Assets

[1] In General

Once estate administration proceedings have commenced and a personal representative has been appointed, the personal representative has the right and the duty to collect assets of the estate.

Except as provided by statute, and subject to Prob. Code § 9650(c) [§ 450.12[6]], the personal representative has the right to, and must take possession or control of, all the property of the decedent to be administered in the decedent's estate and must collect all debts due to the decedent or the estate. The personal representative is not accountable for any debts that remain uncollected without his or her fault [Prob. Code § 9650(a)(1); see Prob. Code § 58 (definition of personal representative)].

If necessary, the personal representative may bring an action to recover possession of estate property or to determine title to it [see Prob. Code §§ 9654, 9820; Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 9650; see also § 450.12[7]]. For forms of complaint that can be adapted for use by the personal representative to recover property, combine the allegations in § 450.60 with the appropriate complaint from Ch. 119, Claim and Delivery, or Ch. 150, Conversion [see also Prob. Code § 859 (discussed in § 450.13[6])]. Alternatively, the personal representative may proceed by way of petition under Prob. Code §§ 850 et seq. for an order for conveyance or transfer of the property. For discussion of Prob. Code §§ 850 et seq. and related forms of petition and order, see Ch. 456, Probate: Management of Estate Assets .

The personal representative is also entitled to receive the rents, issues, and profits from the real and personal property in the estate until the estate is distributed [Prob. Code § 9650(a)(2)]. The personal representative's right to collect estate assets, how ever, may be barred by an applicable statute of limitations [see Estate of Peebles (1972) 27 Cal. App. 3d 163, 166, 103 Cal. Rptr. 560 (action for accounting filed more than four years after decedent partner's death barred by statute of limitations, since action accrued at date of partner's death)].

For a form of complaint for use by a personal representative to collect an asset owed to the estate, see § 450.60.

[2] Duty to Maintain and Manage Property

The personal representative must pay taxes on, and take all steps reasonably necessary for the management, protection, and preservation of the estate in his or her possession [Prob. Code § 9650(b); for further discussion regarding the personal representative's duties to manage estate assets, see Ch. 456, Probate: Management of Estate Assets]. This duty includes, for example, a duty to obtain and maintain reasonably necessary insurance on estate property [see Prob. Code § 9656; Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 9650].

[3] Standard of Care

The personal representative manages and has control of the estate and, in performing these duties, he or she must use ordinary care and diligence. What constitutes ordinary care and diligence is determined by all the circumstances of the particular estate [Prob. Code § 9600(a)]. A personal representative who breaches this duty will be held liable for losses to the estate caused by the breach [see Estate of Guiol (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 818, 826-827, 105 Cal. Rptr. 35] .

In addition, the personal representative must exercise a power or refrain from exercising a power to the extent that ordinary care and diligence require [see Prob. Code § 9600(b)].

For further discussion of a personal representative's standard of care in managing the estate, see Ch. 456, Rebate: Management of Estate Assets .

[4] Possession of Property in Representative Capacity

The fact that a representative is an heir or a beneficiary under the will does not give the representative the right to deal with the property of the estate other than as a representative until it has been distributed under the terms of the will. In such a case, possession up to the time of distribution is in his or her representative capacity [Estate of Curry (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 502, 503, 79 Cal. Rptr. 125] .

[5] Title to Real Property in Heirs

An estate may not take title to the decedent's real property. When a person dies, title to the decedent's real property vests in the heirs or devisees, subject to administration [Dorland v. Dorland (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 664, 669, 3 Cal. Rptr. 262] .

[6] Retention by Person Presumptively Entitled to Property

Real or tangible personal property may be left with or surrendered to the person presumptively entitled to it unless or until, in the judgment of the personal representative, possession of the property by the personal representative will be necessary for purposes of administration. The person holding the property must surrender it to the personal representative on his or her request [Prob. Code § 9650(c)]. It may be possible for the heir or devisee to question the personal representative's judgment in a later proceeding to surcharge for breach of fiduciary duty, but this possibility should not interfere with the representative's administrative authority as it relates to the possession of the estate. Indeed, the representative may be liable for failing to take possession of estate property if the property is thereby lost to those entitled to it [Estate of Boggs (1939) 33 Cal. App. 2d 30, 33, 90 P.2d 814 ; Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 9650].

[7] Action by Heirs for Possession or Title

The heirs or devisees may themselves, or jointly with the personal representative, maintain an action for possession of property or to quiet title to property against any person except the personal representative [Prob. Code § 9654].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

38-450 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 450.13

§ 450.13 Discovery in Aid of Collection of Assets

[1] Citation for Examination

On petition by the personal representative or an interested person, the court may order that a citation be issued to a person to answer interrogatories, or to appear before the court and be examined under oath, or both, concerning allegations that (1) the person has wrongfully taken, concealed, or disposed of property in the estate of the decedent, or (2) the person has knowledge or possession of (A) a deed, conveyance, bond, contract, or other writing that contains evidence of or tends to disclose the right, title, interest, or claim of the decedent to property, (B) a claim of the decedent, or (C) a lost will of the decedent [Prob. Code § 8870(a); for a form of petition, see § 450.64; for discussion and a form of citation, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements]. Disobedience of the citation may be punished as a contempt of the court issuing the citation [Prob. Code § 8870(c); see also Prob. Code § 800 (power of court in probate proceedings)].

If the person to whom the citation is directed does not reside in the county in which the estate is being administered, the superior court either of the county in which the person resides or of the county in which the estate is being administered may issue the citation [Prob. Code § 8870(b)].

[2] Conduct of Examination; Order for Disclosure

At the examination before the court of a person cited pursuant to Prob. Code § 8870, witnesses may be produced and examined on either side [Prob. Code § 8872(a)]. If it appears from the examination that the allegations of the petition are true, the court may order the person to disclose the person's knowledge of the facts to the personal representative [Prob. Code § 8872(b)]. The court order of disclosure is enforceable in the same manner as other court orders [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 8872; Prob. Code §§ 800 (power of court in probate proceedings), 1000 (applicability of rules of civil practice to probate proceedings)].

A petition under Prob. Code §§ 8870, 8872 does not invoke the jurisdiction of the probate court to determine title to the property claimed by the personal representative to belong to the estate [see Estate of Schechtman (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 50, 53, 286 P.2d 345 (decided under former Prob. Code § 613)]. That must be done in a civil action or by petition under Prob. Code §§ 850 et seq., discussed in Ch. 456, Probate: Management of Estate Assets .

[3] Recovery of Attorney's Fees by Person Cited

If it appears from the examination of a person cited pursuant to Prob. Code § 8870 that the allegations of the petition are not true, the person's necessary expenses, including a reasonable attorney's fee, shall be charged against the petitioner or allowed out of the estate, in the discretion of the court [Prob. Code § 8872(c)].

[4] Interrogatories

If a citation issued pursuant to Prob. Code § 8870 requires the person cited toanswer interrogatories, the interrogatories and answers must be in writing; and the answers must be signed by the person cited under penalty of perjury. The interrogatories and answers are filed with the court [Prob. Code § 8871; see Prob. Code § 1000 (applicability of rules of civil practice to probate proceedings)]. For discussion and forms of interrogatories in civil actions, see Ch. 194, Discovery: Interrogatories .

[5] Citation to Compel Account for Property

On petition by the personal representative, the court may issue a citation to a person who has possession or control of property in the decedent's estate to appear before the court and to make an account under oath of the property and of the person's actions with respect to the property [Prob. Code § 8873(a); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 166 (actions in chambers, applicable to proceedings under the Probate Code by virtue of Prob. Code § 1000)]. Disobedience of a citation issued pursuant to Prob. Code § 8873 may be punished as a contempt of the court issuing the citation [Prob. Code § 8873(b); see also Prob. Code § 800 (power of court in probate proceedings)].

Prob. Code § 8873 is in the nature of a discovery proceeding and does not confer on the probate court jurisdiction to determine title to the property claimed by the personal representative to belong to the estate or to require that such property be surrendered to the personal representative. That must be done in a civil action or by petition under Prob. Code §§ 850 et seq., discussed in Ch. 456, Probate: Management of Estate Assets [see Estate of Linnick (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 752, 759-760, 217 Cal. Rptr. 552 (decided under former Prob. Code § 615)].

[6] Penalty for Wrongful Taking or Concealment of Estate Property

A person who, in bad faith, has wrongfully taken, concealed, or disposed of property in the estate of the decedent is liable for twice the value of the property, recoverable in an action by the personal representative for the benefit of the estate [Prob. Code § 859].

[1] Immunity of Personal Representative

A personal representative who in good faith takes real or personal property into his or her possession and reasonably believes that the property is part of the estate of the decedent is not criminally or civilly liable to any person for so doing [Prob. Code § 9651(a)]. The personal representative must make reasonable efforts to determine the true nature of, and title to, the property so taken into possession [Prob. Code § 9651(b)].

During his or her possession, the personal representative is entitled to receive all rents, issues, and profits of the property. If the property is later determined not to be part of the estate of the decedent, the personal representative must deliver the property, or cause it to be delivered, to the person legally entitled to it, together with all rents, issues, and profits of the property received, less any expenses incurred in protecting and maintaining the property and in collecting the rents, issues, and profits. The personal representative may request court approval before delivering the property pursuant to these provisions [Prob. Code § 9651(c)].

[2] Reasonable Compensation for Services

The court may allow the personal representative reasonable compensation for services rendered in connection with the duties specified in Prob. Code § 9651 as to property later determined not to be part of the decedent's estate, if the court makes one of the following findings [Prob. Code § 9651(d)]:

- That the services were of benefit to the estate. If the court makes this finding, the compensation and the expenses and costs of litigation, including the attorney's fees of the attorney hired by the personal representative to handle the matter, are a proper expense of administration.

- That the services were essential to preserve, protect, and maintain the property. If the court makes this finding, it must award compensation and the expenses and costs of litigation, including the attorney's fees of the attorney hired by the personal representative to handle the matter, as an expense deductible from the rents, issues, and profits received by the personal representative, or, if these are insufficient, as a lien against the property.

§ 450.15 Partnership Interest

[1] Order to Render Account

Prob. Code § 9761 provides that, if a partnership existed between the decedent and another person at the time of the decedent's death, on application of the personal representative, the court may order any surviving partner to render an account pursuant to Corp. Code §§ 15510, 15634, or 16807. Any such order made may be enforced by the court's power to punish for contempt [Prob. Code § 9761]. Corp. Code §§ 15510 and 15634, which govern limited partners' rights under the Uniform Limited Partnership Act (ULPA) and the California Revised Limited Partnership Act (CRLPA), respectively, are repealed effective January 1, 2010 [Corp. Code § 15534 (ULPA); Corp. Code § 15724 (CRLPA)]; as of that date the Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008 (ULPA '08) will govern the rights of the personal representative of a limited partner to obtain partnership information [see Corp. Code §§ 15903.04, 15907.04, 15912.06(b) (ULPA '08)].

The Uniform Partnership Act of 1994 (UPA 1994), which became effective on January 1, 1997, provides for an automatic buyout of the interest of a "dissociated" partner (e.g., a partner who has died) [see Corp. Code §§ 16601(7)(A), 16701(a)] and requires that any payment or tender of the buyout price be accompanied, among other things, by a statement of partnership assets and liabilities as of the date of distribution, the latest available partnership balance sheet and income statement, if any, and an explanation of how the estimated amount of the payment was calculated [Corp. Code § 16701(g)]. The UPA 1994 further states that the partner's right to maintain an action against the partnership to compel a buyout of the partner's interest in the partnership may be maintained "with or without an accounting as to partnership business" [Corp. Code § 16405(b)(2)(B)].

For an explanation of the UPA 1994, see Ch. 400, Partnerships: Governing Statutes . For a general discussion of the rights to an accounting under both the UPA 1994, see Ch. 401, Partnerships: Actions Between General Partners and Partnership . For general coverage of the rights of a dissociated partner (including a deceased partner [see Corp. Code § 16601(7)(A) (partner's death causes dissociation)] under a partnership governed by the UPA 1994, see Ch. 403, Partnerships: Actions by and Against Dissociated Partners .

[2] Exercise of Decedent's Partnership Rights

If the decedent was a general partner, the personal representative may commence and maintain any action against the surviving partner that the decedent could have commenced and maintained [Prob. Code § 9763(a)]. The personal representative may exercise the decedent's rights as a limited partner as provided in Corp. Code § 15675 [Prob. Code § 9763(b)].

Corp. Code § 15675 was enacted as part of the California Revised Limited Partnership Act [Corp. Code § 15611 et seq. (CRLPA)], which will be repealed January 1, 2010 [Corp. Code § 15724 (CRLPA)], at which time the Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008 (ULPA '08) [Corp. Code § 15900 et seq. (ULPA '08)] will for most purposes govern all limited partnerships [Corp. Code § 15912.06(b) (ULPA '08)]. In addition, the ULPA '08 governs any limited partnership formed on or after January 1, 2008 [Corp. Code § 15912.04 (ULPA '08)]. The ULPA '08 contains special provisions governing the powers of a deceased partner's personal representative. If a general or limited partner in a limited partnership governed by the ULPA '08 dies, the deceased partner's personal representative or other legal representative may exercise the rights of a transferee of the deceased partner's interest [see Corp. Code § 15907.02 (ULPA '08)] and, for the purposes of settling the estate, may exercise the rights of a current limited partner to access to partnership information [Corp. Code § 15907.04 (ULPA '08); see Corp. Code § 15903.04 (ULPA '08) (right to partnership information)].

For further discussion of the right of the personal representative to operate a decedent's partnership or nonpartnership business, see Ch. 456, Probate: Management of Estate Assets .

38-450 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 450.16

§ 450.16 Duty to Recover Property Transferred in Fraud of Creditors

On application of a creditor of the decedent or the estate, the personal representative must commence and prosecute an action for the recovery of real or personal property of the decedent for the benefit of creditors if the personal representative has insufficient assets to pay creditors, and the decedent during lifetime did any of the following with respect to the property [Prob. Code § 9653(a)]:

- Made a conveyance of the property or any right or interest in the property that is fraudulent as to creditors under the Uniform Fraudulent Transfer Act (Civ. Code §§ 3439-3439.12);

- Made a gift of the property in view of impending death; or

- After January 1, 1993, made a direction to transfer a vehicle, undocumented vessel, manufactured home, mobilehome, commercial coach, truck camper, or floating home to a designated beneficiary on the decedent's death pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 18102.2 or Veh. Code § 5910.5 or 9916.5, and the property has been transferred as directed.

The requirement that the transfer must have been "during lifetime" does not preclude recovery of property given by a transfer that takes effect at death [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 9653; see, e.g., Headen v. Miller (1983) 141 Cal. App. 3d 169, 175, 190 Cal. Rptr. 198 (life insurance); Rupp v. Kahn (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 188, 195, 55 Cal. Rptr. 108 (joint tenancy)].

Apparently, the personal representative must take action to recover the property even in the absence of a creditor's request [see Goldstein v. Prien (1956) 143 Cal. App. 2d 123, 127, 299 P.2d 344 ; Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 9653]. The representative, with court approval, may assign to the creditor the right to bring the action [see Webb v. Pillsbury (1943) 23 Cal. 2d 324, 329, 144 P.2d 1 ; Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 9653].

The remedy provided in Prob. Code § 9653 is not an exclusive remedy. When the claim is one that may be brought by an interested person under Prob. Code 850, a creditor may be able to file a petition under the latter section as an interested person, requesting the court to make a determination [see Estate of Myers (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 434, 442, 42 Cal. Rptr 3d 753] .

A creditor applying for relief under Prob. Code § 9653 must pay a portion of the costs of suit and attorney's fees or give an undertaking to the personal representative for this purpose, pursuant to an agreement between the creditor and personal representative or as ordered by the court or the judge [Prob. Code § 9653(b)]. Any property recovered must be sold for the payment of debts in the same manner as if the decedent had died seised or possessed of the property, and the proceeds distributed pursuant to Prob. Code § 9653(c) [see Prob. Code § 9653(c)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

38-450 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 450.17

§ 450.17 Survival of Actions

[1] In General

Except as otherwise provided by statute, a decedent's cause of action is not lost by reason of his or her death. Rather, the cause of action survives subject to the applicable limitation period [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.20(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.21 (pending action does not abate by death of party if cause of action survives)]. Subject to the general provisions relating to passage of a decedent's property [see Prob. Code §§ 7000, 7001], a cause of action that survives the decedent passes to the decedent's successor in interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30; see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.11 ("decedent's successor in interest" defined)].

[2] Commencement of or Substitution in Action

If no action was pending at the time of the decedent's death, an action that survives the decedent's death may be commenced by the decedent's personal representative or, if none, by the decedent's successor in interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30; see Code Civ. Proc. § 366.1 (time limitations for commencing action)]. If an action was commenced before a person's death and it does not abate after death, the court, on motion after the person's death, must allow the pending action to be continued by the decedent's personal representative or, if none, by the decedent's successor in interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.31]. With respect to survival actions, this is typically accomplished by substituting the appropriate party in the decedent's place [see Code Civ. Proc. § 368.5; see also Sacks v. FSR Brokerage, Inc. (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 950, 957, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 306 (construing former Code Civ. Proc. § 385 and former Prob. Code § 573; holding that judgment generally could not be rendered for decedent or decedent's personal representative until personal representative of decedent's estate had been made party by substitution)]. If there is no personal representative and the decedent's successor in interest seeks to commence an action or continue a pending action, the successor in interest must execute and file an affidavit or declaration setting forth all the required information, including a statement to the effect that no proceeding is currently pending in California for administration of the decedent's estate [see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.32(a)].

For more detailed discussion of the procedures applicable to commencing or substituting into a survival action, see Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions .

[3] Damages Recoverable in Action on Behalf of Decedent

In an action or proceeding by a decedent's personal representative or successor in interest on the decedent's cause of action, the damages recoverable are limited to the loss or damage that the decedent sustained or incurred before death, including any penalties or punitive or exemplary damages that the decedent would have been entitled to recover had the decedent lived [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34]. The damages recoverable in such an action or proceeding do not include damages for pain, suffering, or disfigurement [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34].

However, the preceding rule applies only if the decedent dies before judgment. It does not apply if the decedent dies after judgment but while an appeal is pending from the judgment [Sullivan v. Delta Air Lines, Inc. (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 288, 305, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 74, 935 P.2d 781] . In the latter case, the common law rule that death after judgment does not abate any aspect of personal tort actions, including the right to recover damages for pain and suffering, controls [Sullivan v. Delta Air Lines, Inc. (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 288, 305, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 74, 935 P.2d 781] .

[4] Applicable Law

As of January 1, 1993, the provisions governing a decedent's cause of action [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.30-377.34] apply to commencing an action or proceeding the decedent was entitled to commence and to continuing an action or proceeding commenced by the decedent, regardless of whether the decedent died before, on, or after January 1, 1993 [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.35].

§ 450.18 Compromise of Claims

[1] Without Court Authorization

Unless Prob. Code §§ 9830-9839 or some other applicable statute requires court authorization or approval, the personal representative may do any of the following without court authorization, instruction, approval, or confirmation if it is to the advantage of the estate [Prob. Code § 9830(a); see Prob. Code § 9600(b) (standard of care of personal representative in exercising or not exercising power); see also § 450.12[3]]:

- Compromise or settle a claim, action, or proceeding by or for the benefit of, or against, the decedent, the personal representative, or the estate, including the giving of a covenant not to sue;

- Extend, renew, or in any manner modify the terms of an obligation owing to or in favor of the decedent or the estate; or

- Release, in whole or in part, any claim belonging to the estate to the extent that the claim is uncollectible.

Nothing in Prob. Code § 9830, however, precludes the personal representative from seeking court authorization pursuant to the provisions of Prob. Code §§ 9830-9839 [Prob. Code § 9830(b)]. A probate court has the power to ratify acts of a personal representative done without previous order of the court [Estate of McCarthy (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 158, 167-168, 85 Cal. Rptr. 50] .

On petition of an interested person or on the court's own motion, the court may limit the authority of the personal representative under Prob. Code § 9830(a). Notice of the hearing on the petition shall be given as provided in Prob. Code § 1220 [Prob. Code § 9830(c); see § 450.18[3]]. Notice of the time and place of hearing must be mailed at least 15 days before the time set for the hearing [Prob. Code § 1220(a)(1)]. For further discussion of notice requirements, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements .

[2] When Court Authorization Is Required

[a] Claim Period Not Expired

Authorization by order of the court is required to compromise or settle a claim,action, or proceeding by or for the benefit of, or against, the decedent, the personal representative, or the estate, unless the time for filing creditor's claims has expired [Prob. Code § 9831; see Prob. Code § 9100(a) (time for filing creditor's claims)]. For further discussion of the time for filing creditors' claims, see Ch. 454, Probate: Claims Against the Estate .

[b] Matters Affecting Real Property

Authorization by order of the court is required for a compromise, settlement, extension, renewal, or modification that affects title to or an interest in real property, a lien or encumbrance on real property, an option to purchase real property, or an option to purchase an interest in real property [Prob. Code § 9832(a); see Prob. Code § 68 (definition of real property)].

If it is to the advantage of the estate, however, the personal representative may, without court authorization, extend, renew, or modify a real property lease when either (1) under the lease as extended, modified, or renewed, the rental is not more than $5000 a month and the term does not exceed one year, or (2) the lease is from month to month, regardless of the amount of the rental [Prob. Code § 9832(b)]. If the lease, as extended, renewed, or modified, gives the lessee the right to extend the term of the lease, the length of the term is considered as though the right to extend had been exercised [Prob. Code § 9832(c)].

[c] Transaction in Excess of $25,000

Authorization by order of the court is required for a compromise or settlement of a matter when the transaction requires the transfer or encumbrance of property of the estate, or the creation of an unsecured liability of the estate, or both, in an amount or value over $25,000 [Prob. Code § 9833].

[d] Claim by Estate Against Personal Representative

Authorization by order of the court is required for a compromise or settlement of a claim by the estate against the personal representative or his or her attorney, whether or not the claim arises out of the administration of the estate [Prob. Code § 9834(a)]. The personal representative's attorney includes the associates, partners, and attorneys of counsel with the law firm of the attorney selected by the representative, and the associates, partners, and attorneys of counsel with other law firms associated in the estate proceeding with the firm of the attorney selected by the representative [Cal Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 9834].

[e] Matters Affecting Personal Representative's Debt to Estate

Authorization by order of the court is required for an extension, renewal, or modification of the terms of a debt or similar obligation of the personal representative, or his or her attorney, owing to, or in favor of, the estate [Prob. Code § 9834(b); for discussion of who can be attorney see § 450.18[2][d]].

[f] Wrongful Death or Personal Injury Claims

Authorization by order of the court is required for the compromise or settlement of a claim or right of action given to the personal representative by any law for the wrongful death or injury of the decedent, including any action brought by the personal representative to enforce the claim or right of action. Authorization to compromise or settle the claim or right of action includes authorization to give a covenant not to sue [Prob. Code § 9835; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60 (personal representative authorized to maintain action for wrongful death generally); Lab. Code § 2803 (personal representative authorized to maintain action for wrongful death of employee)].

[3] Procedure for Obtaining Court Order

The court authorization required by Prob. Code §§ 9831-9835 must be obtained from the court in which the estate is being administered [Prob. Code § 9836]. The petition and notice requirements to obtain court authorization are set forth in Prob. Code § 9837 [see also Prob. Code §§ 1211 (form of notice), 1220 (mode of mailing notice)].

For a form of petition and order for use in obtaining court authorization to compromise, settle, or release a claim, action, or proceeding, or to extend, renew, or modify an obligation owing to or in favor of the estate, see §§ 450.61 and 450.63, respectively, and their accompanying comments. For a form of objection to be used in opposition to the petition, see § 450.62.

[4] Transfer of Property to Effect Compromise or Settlement

If a court order authorizes a compromise or settlement that requires the transfer of real property of the estate, the personal representative must execute a conveyance of the property to the person entitled to it under the compromise or settlement. The conveyance must refer to the order authorizing the compromise or settlement and directing that the conveyance be executed. In addition, a certified copy of the order must be recorded in the county recorder's office in each county in which any portion of the real property is located [Prob. Code § 9838(b)].

A conveyance complying with the court authorization of the compromise or settlement vests in the person to whom the property is transferred (1) all the right, title, and interest that the decedent had in the property at the time of his or her death, and (2) any other or additional right, title, or interest in the property acquired by the decedent's estate, by operation of law or otherwise, prior to the transfer [Prob. Code § 9838(b)].

§ 450.19 Acceptance of Deed in Lieu of Foreclosure

If it is to the advantage of the estate to accept a deed to property that is subject to a mortgage or deed of trust in lieu of fore closure of the mortgage or sale under the deed of trust, the personal representative may, after authorization by court order and on such terms and conditions as may be imposed by the court, accept a deed conveying the property to the heirs or devisees of the decedent, subject to administration [see Prob. Code § 9850(a)].

To obtain an order authorizing acceptance of such a deed, the personal representative or any interested person must file a petition showing the advantage to the estate of accepting the deed. Notice of the hearing must be given pursuant to Prob. Code § 1220 [Prob. Code § 9850(b)]. Thus, notice of the time and place of hearing must be mailed at least 15 days before the time set for the hearing [Prob. Code § 1220(a)(1)]. For further discussion of notice requirements, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements .

The court may only make the order if the advantage to the estate of accepting the deed is shown by clear and convincing evidence [Prob. Code § 9850(c)]. Although not determinative, factors that may be considered by the court include (1) whether there will be subordinate liens that will continue on the property if the deed is taken that would otherwise be eliminated by foreclosure of the mortgage or sale under the deed of trust, and (2) whether there is a right of deficiency judgment that would continue if the mortgage were foreclosed and the property were to fail to yield enough to pay the amount of the encumbrance [Cal Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 9850].

If the gross value of the decedent's real property in California was less than $20,000 [see Prob. Code § 13200 et seq.], or if the gross value of the decedent's real and personal property in California was less than $100,000 [*see Prob. For a discussion relating to collection or transfer of real or personal property without administration, see Ch. 440, Probate: Is Probate Necessary ?, and Ch. 441, Probate: Disposition Without Administration, § 441.10 et seq. and § 441.110 et seq.

If administration proceedings are commenced in California after such a disposition of property without administration, and restitution is appropriate, each person to whom payment, delivery, or transfer of the property has been made under Prob. Code § 13100 et seq., or who has been designated as a successor of the decedent in a certified affidavit under Prob. Code § 13202, is liable for the following [Prob. Code §§ 13111(a) (personal property), 13206(a) (real property)]:

- The restitution of the real or personal property to the estate if the person still has the property, together with the net income the person received from the property. If the person encumbered the property after it was delivered or transferred under Prob. Code § 13100-13116, or after the certified copy of the affidavit was issued under Prob. Code § 13202, the amount necessary to satisfy the balance of the encumbrance as of the date the property is restored to the estate.

- The restitution to the estate of the fair market value of the property if the person no longer has the property, together with (1) the net income the person received from the property, and (2) interest on the fair market value of the property from the date of disposition at the rate payable on a money judgment.

The "fair market value of the property" is determined as of the time of the disposition of the property, of the property paid, delivered, or transferred to the person under Prob. Code § 13100 et seq., or taken by the person under a certified copy of an affidavit received under Prob. Code § 13202, less any liens or encumbrances on the property at that time [

Prob. Code §§ 13111(a)(2) (personal property), 13206(a)(2) (real property)].

[2] Triple Restitution for Fraudulent Acquisition of Property

Subject to any additional liability under Prob. Code §§ 13109 (liability for unsecured debts of decedent), 13110 (liability to person having superior right), and 13112 (extent of liability of person who collects personal property without administration), a person who fraudulently secured a payment, delivery, or transfer under Prob. Code § 13100 et seq., or fraudulently executed or filed an affidavit under Prob. Code § 13200 et seq., is liable for restitution to the decedent's estate of three times the fair market value of the property [see Prob. Code §§ 13111(b) (personal property), 13206(b) (real property)].

The "fair market value of the property" is determined as of the time the liable person presents an affidavit or declaration under Prob. Code § 13100 et seq., or as of the time a certified copy of the affidavit was issued, or the property paid, delivered, or transferred to the person, or taken by the person under a certified copy of an affidavit issued under Prob. Code § 13202, less the amount of any liens and encumbrances on the property at that time [Prob. Code §§ 13111(b) (personal property), 13206(b) (real property)].

[3] Reduction of Amount Restored

The property and amount required to be restored to the estate under Prob. Code §§ 13111 or 13206 must be reduced by any property or amount paid by the person to satisfy a liability under Prob. Code §§ 13109 or 13110 (personal property), or 13204 or 13205 (real property) [Prob. Code §§ 13111(c) (personal property), 13206(d) (real property)]. These sections impose liability on the recipient of the property for the decedent's unsecured debts, and to any person with a superior right by testate or intestate succession from the decedent [see Prob. Code §§ 13109, 13110, 13204, 13205].

In addition to reducing the property and amount restored, the court's judgment may enforce the liability only to the extent necessary to protect the interests of the decedent's heirs, devisees, and creditors [Prob. Code §§ 13111(d) (personal property), 13206(e) (real property)].

[4] Effect of Improvements on Real Property

Subject to Prob. Code § 13206(d) (reduction of amount restored), if the person designated as a successor of the decedent in a certified copy of an affidavit issued under Prob. Code § 13202 made a significant improvement to the property in the good faith belief that he or she was the decedent's successor to the property, that person is liable for whichever of the following the decedent's estate elects [Prob. Code § 13206(c)]:

- The restitution of the property, as improved, to the estate of the decedent on the condition that the estate reimburse the person making restitution for (1) the amount by which the improvement increases the fair market value of the property restored, determined as of the time of restitution, and (2) the amount paid by the person for principal and interest on any liens or encumbrances that were on the property at the time the certified copy of the affidavit was issued.

- The restoration to the decedent's estate of the fair market value of the property, determined as of the time of the issuance of the certified copy of the affidavit under Prob. Code § 13202, less the amount of any liens and encumbrances on the property at that time, together with interest on the net amount at the rate payable on a money judgment running from the date of the issuance of the certified copy of the affidavit.

[5] Statute of Limitations

An action to enforce liability under Prob. Code § 13111 is forever barred three years after presentation of an affidavit or declaration under Prob. Code § 13100 et seq. to the holder of the decedent's property or three years after the discovery of the fraud, whichever is later [Prob. Code § 13111(e)]. In the case of an action to enforce liability under Prob. Code § 13206, a cause of action is barred three years after the certified copy of the affidavit is issued under Prob. Code § 13202 or the discovery of the fraud, whichever is later [Prob. Code § 13206(f)]. In either case, the three-year period is not tolled for any reason [Prob. Code §§ 13111(e) (personal property), 13206(f) (real property)].

[6] Nondomiciliary Decedents

In the case of a nondomiciliary decedent (a person who dies domiciled in a sister state or foreign nation), restitution under Prob. Code § 13111 is made to the estate in an ancillary administration proceeding [Prob. Code § 13111(f); see Prob. Code §§ 12500-12591 (defining ancillary administration and governing the administration of the estates of nondomiciliary decedents)]. A sister-state personal representative who takes property by affidavit under Prob. Code §§ 12570-12574 (governing the collection of personal property of small estates by sister-state personal representatives without ancillary administration) is not liable as a person to whom payment, delivery, or transfer of the decedent's property is made under Prob. Code § 13109 or 13110 to the extent that the sister-state personal representative restores the property to the nondomiciliary decedent's estate in the sister state in compliance with Prob. Code § 13111 [Prob. Code § 12573].

For discussion of the administration of the estates of nondomiciliary decedents, see Ch. 442, Probate: Initiating Probate Administration .

38-450 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 450.42

§ 450.42 Decisions

[1] Compromise of Claims

Power of court under former Prob. Code § 578 (now see Prob. Code §§ 9830-9837) is limited to authorizing administrator to make compromise. McPike v. Superior Court (1934) 220 Cal. 254, 259, 30 P.2d 17

Former Code Civ. Proc. § 1588 (now see Prob. Code §§ 9830-9837) is protective and not restrictive of common law powers of personal representative. Moulton v. Holmes (1881) 57 Cal. 337, 343

Equitable and just compromise made in good faith but without court approval is binding on estate; remedy is limited to action by estate against personal representative, who waived protection of former Prob. Code § 718.5 (now see Prob. Code § 9832) by acting without court approval. Treharne v. Loftin (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 878, 886, 200 Cal. Rptr. 668

When agreement to compromise claim is subject to court approval, neither estate nor administrator are bound when approval vacated and withdrawn prior to execution of terms of agreement. Byrne v. Harvey (1962) 211 Cal. App. 2d 92, 112, 27 Cal. Rptr. 110

Court's approval of compromise agreement is implicitly predicated on "best interest of the estate." Byrne v. Harvey (1962) 211 Cal. App. 2d 92, 111-112, 27 Cal. Rptr. 110

Former Prob. Code §§ 578 and 718.5 (now see Prob. Code §§ 9830-9837) neither enlarge or abrogate power of personal representative to enter into compromise agreements, but afford additional protection from liability. Byrne v. Harvey (1962) 211 Cal. App. 2d 92, 110, 27 Cal. Rptr. 110

Appellant's objections to petition for approval of compromise of claim was properly presented and heard at hearing when counsel fully participated in and made no objections to informality of hearing. Estate of Wilson (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 523, 525-526, 253 P.2d 1011

[2] Duty of Personal Representative to Collect Assets

Only duly qualified personal representative was authorized to bring action for recovery of personalty belonging to decedent. Manti v. Gunari (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 442, 446-447, 85 Cal. Rptr. 366

Heir or beneficiary under will is only able to deal with estate property as personal representative until it is distributed to that person. Estate of Curry (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 502, 503, 79 Cal. Rptr. 125

Personal representative has duty to sue for recovery of personal property allegedly procured from decedent by fraud. Triplett v. Williams (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 135, 137, 74 Cal. Rptr. 594

Heirs, rather than personal representative, is able to bring action for recovery of personal property belonging to estate only in exceptional circumstances. Rogers v. Bank of America (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 228, 232, 294 P.2d 959

[3] Jurisdiction

Superior court, while sitting in probate, is without power to decide disputed claim between estate and stranger thereto; but if controversy is between estate and those not strangers (i.e., heirs, beneficiaries, or representative) to probate proceedings, court has power to hear action and adjudicate conflicting claims. Estate of Pieper (1964) 224 Cal. App. 2d 670, 680-681, 37 Cal. Rptr. 46

[4] Ownership of Estate Property

Title to real property does not vest in estate but in heirs or devisees, subject to administration. Dorland v. Dorland (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 664, 669, 3 Cal. Rptr. 262

[5] Punitive Damages

Cause of action for punitive damages against decedent does not survive decedant's death. Bancroft-Whitney Co. v. Glen (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 327, 357, 49 Cal. Rptr. 825, 411 P.2d 921

[6] Ratification by Court

Probate court has power to ratify prior acts of personal representative done without order of court. Estate of McCarthy (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 158, 167-168, 85 Cal. Rptr. 50

[7] Statute of Limitations

Representative's right to collect estate assets is barred by relevant statute of limitations. Estate of Peebles (1972) 27 Cal. App. 3d 163, 166, 103 Cal. Rptr. 560

[8] Survival of Decedent's Rights

Cause of action against insurance company for breach of duty of good faith and fair dealing survives under former Prob. Code § 573 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.20). Barney v. Aetna Casualty & Surety Co. (1986) 185 Cal. App.

3d 966, 973, 230 Cal. Rptr. 215

Personal representative has power and duty to sue to set aside conveyance obtained from decedent by fraud or undue influence. Estate of Denton (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 1070, 1075, 95 Cal. Rptr. 347

Personal representative is able to sue to set aside conveyance or transfer obtained from decedent by means other than undue influence, fraud, menace, or duress. Estate of McCarthy (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 158, 166, 85 Cal. Rptr. 50

Cause of action for violation of property right survives death of owner of right. Poon v. Poon (1966) 244 Cal. App. 2d 746, 753, 53 Cal. Rptr. 365

[2] Use of Form

This skeletal complaint may be used by a personal representative on behalf of the deceased in connection with most causes of action. The personal representative has the right to take possession and control of all the property under administration, and to collect all debts due to the decedent or estate [Prob. Code § 9650(a)(1); see § 450.12]. The representative may commence and maintain actions for the estate's benefit [Prob. Code § 9820(a)].

For a complaint for use in an action on a promissory note, see Ch. 385, Negotiable Instruments . For a complaint for use in an action to quiet title to real property, see Ch. 482, Quieting Title .

[3] Survival of Decedent's Cause of Action

Except as otherwise provided by statute, a cause of action for or against a person is not lost by reason of the person's death, but survives subject to the applicable limitation period [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.20(a)]. An action that survives may be commenced by the decedent's personal representative [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30; see discussion in § 450.17].

[4] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)], verification will require any answer to be verified in an unlimited civil case in the superior court [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude a general denial in an unlimited civil case, and will preclude a general denial in a limited civil case when the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion of the effect that verifying a complaint has on the answer, see Ch. 26, Answers .

Code §§ 9830-9835*].

For a petition for approval of a compromise or settlement of a claim by a creditor or other claimant against the estate, see Ch. 454, Probate: Claims Against the Estate .

[3] When Court Authorization Required

Prob. Code § 9830 contains statutory authority for the personal representative to compromise or settle a claim, action or proceeding, to extend renew or modify the terms of certain obligations owing to or in favor of the estate, and to release certain claims belonging to the estate [see Prob. Code § 9830(a)]. The personal representative, however, may seek prior authorization from the court under Prob. Code §§ 9836, 9837 before doing any acts, if he or she so desires [Prob. Code § 9830(b)].

Other actions specified in Prob. Code §§ 9831-9835 require prior court authorization. In addition, the court may have limited the authority of the personal representative, on petition of an interested person or on the court's own motion, to take an action without prior court authorization [see Prob. Code § 9830(c)].

For further discussion, see § 450.18.

The petition may be filed by either the personal representative or any interested person who has obtained the written approval of the personal representative to file the petition [see Prob. Code § 9837(a); see also Prob. Code § 48 (definition of "interested person")].

The petitioner's attorney may verify the petition if the petitioner is absent from the county, or for some other reason is unable to verify it [see Prob. Code § 1023].

[1] FORM Petition for Order for Issuance of Citation for Examination Regarding Taking, Concealment, or Withholding of Property of Estate [Prob. Code § 8870]
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)	NO. _____
Estate of _____ [name],	)	PETITION FOR ORDER FOR ISSUANCE OF

Petitioner, _____ [name], alleges that:

1. Petitioner is the duly appointed, qualified, and acting personal representative of the estate of _____ [name], deceased.

2. In collecting decedent's records, papers, and property of the estate, petitioner _____ [describe assets discovered and their connection with the person sought to be cited, e.g., found correspondence and statements disclosing that _____ (name of person sought to be cited) managed a 15-unit residential rental property for decedent. The property, located at _____ (address), was purchased by decedent on _____ (date). A copy of the deed by which decedent acquired the property is attached hereto marked Exhibit "A" and made a part hereof. The statements for the fiscal quarters ended _____ (dates) are attached hereto marked Exhibit "B" and made a part hereof. According to those statements, _____ (name of person sought to be cited) was forwarding to decedent net rental income from the property of approximately $_____ every three months].

3. Petitioner _____ [describe petitioner's demand for the property, e.g., spoke with _____ (name of person sought to be cited) by phone several times. _____ (Name of person sought to be cited) denied that he/she was managing the property at _____ (address) for decedent, and claimed he/she did not know of any other person who was managing it for decedent. By letter dated _____ (date), a copy of which is attached hereto marked Exhibit "C," petitioner demanded that _____ (name of person sought to be cited) make an accounting of income and expenses for the property for the _____ (specify time period, e.g., previous two years) ending _____ (date) and deliver the accumulated net receipts for that period to petitioner].

4. _____ [Name of person sought to be cited] has failed and refusedand continues to fail and refuse to _____ [specify nature of failure to cooperate as applicable, e.g., render an accounting or to remit the net receipts].

[5. _____ (Set forth any other relevant information, e.g., Petitioner has written to several of the tenants, asking to whom they paid rent and for verification that rent had been paid during the period for which an accounting is sought. Responses from _____ (names), copies of which are attached hereto marked Exhibit "D," indicate that during the period for which an accounting is sought, they paid rent to _____ (name of person sought to be cited).]

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays for an order directing issuance of a citation to _____ [name of person sought to be cited], requiring him/her to appear before the court at the time and date specified in the order to be examined under oath concerning the allegations that he/she has wrongfully taken, concealed, or disposed of property in the estate of the decedent [and to give any reason why he/she should not be required to account for that property].

_____ [signature]

Attorney for Petitioner

[Verification. See § 450.61.]

CAUTION:
This petition must be verified [see Prob. Code § 1021(a)].

[2] Use of Form

This verified petition is for use by the personal representative to petition the court in which the estate is being administered for an order directing issuance of a citation requiring a person alleged to have knowledge or possession of property of the estate to appear before the court to be examined regarding the property [Prob. Code § 8870(a)]. If the person to whom the citation is directed does not reside in the county in which the estate is being administered, the superior court either of the county in which the person resides or of the county in which the estate is being administered may issue the citation [Prob. Code § 8870(b)].

On petition by the personal representative, the court also may issue a citation to a person who has possession or control of property in the decedent's estate to appear before the court and to make an account under oath of the property and of the person's actions with respect to the property [Prob. Code § 8873(a)]. It is not clear whether a petition for examination pursuant to Prob. Code §§ 8870, 8872 and one to compel an account pursuant to Prob. Code § 8873 may be brought at the same time, or whether the personal representative must first establish, either by the examination or by the person's own admission, that the person sought to be cited has the property and then bring another petition under Prob. Code § 8873 to compel the account. Because neither Prob. Code §§ 8870, 8872, nor 8873 can be used to determine the estate's right to property, if it is clear that the person sought to be cited has the property and asserts a claim to it, a petition pursuant to Prob. Code §§ 850 et seq. or a separate civil action is more appropriate, unless it appears that the person will voluntarily surrender the property after examination or accounting.

[3] Notice of Hearing

If the personal representative is not the petitioner, notice of the hearing on this petition must be given to the personal representative for the period and in the manner provided in Prob. Code § 1220 [Prob. Code § 8870(d)]. Other persons requesting notice of the hearing pursuant to Prob. Code § 1250 must also be given notice as set forth in Prob. Code § 1252 [Prob. Code § 8870(d)]. For discussion of notice requirements under these statutes, together with applicable forms, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements .

[4] Verification

This petition must be verified by the petitioner or, if more than one person joins in the petition, by any one of them [Prob. Code § 1021(a)(1), (b)(1)].

[5] Citation

This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

For discussion of the contents and manner of service of the citation, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements .

[6] Order for Disclosure

If it appears from the examination that the allegations of the petition are true, the court may order the person to disclose the person's knowledge of the facts to the personal representative [Prob. Code § 8872(b)].

38-451 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 451.10

§ 451.10 Governing Law

Inventory and appraisal is governed primarily by Prob. Code §§ 8800-8980. The powers of the probate referee are governed by Prob. Code §§ 450-453. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.501 governs the statement about the bond in the appraisal, and applications to increase the bond if it is insufficient. In addition, some counties may have local rules of court that govern other aspects of inventory and appraisal. It is recommended that the local rules (if any) for the pertinent county be consulted in these proceedings.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

38-451 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 451.11

§ 451.11 Personal Representative's Duty to Conduct Inventory and Appraisal

[1] In General

The personal representative is required to file with the court clerk an inventory of property to be administered in the decedent's estate together with an appraisal of the property in the inventory [Prob. Code § 8800(a); see Prob. Code §§ 8870-8874 (procedures to discover decedent's property); for discussion of discovering and collecting estate property, see Ch. 450, Probate: Collecting Assets]. The inventory and appraisal must be filed within four months after letters are first issued to a general personal representative. The court may, however, allow further time for filing if it is reasonable under the circumstances of the particular case [Prob. Code § 8800(b)]. When the moving party claiming entitlement to distribution based on unreasonable delay makes a showing that the personal representative has exceeded the statutory time limit, the burden shifts to the personal representative to establish that additional time is reasonable under the circumstances [Estate of Justesen (1999) 77 Cal. App. 4th 352, 361, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 574] . The Law Revision Commission has suggested that a further time might be reasonable, for example, in an estate for which a federal estate tax return is necessary and additional time is required in order to ensure that the property is valued consistently [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 8800].

Both the inventory and appraisal must be combined in a single document that separately lists each item and states the fair market value of the item at the time of the decedent's death in monetary terms opposite the item [Prob. Code §§ 8800(a), 8802]. When the representative files an inventory and appraisal or a supplemental inventory and appraisal, he or she is required to mail a copy to each person who has requested special notice [Prob. Code §§ 1252, 8803; for discussion of supplemental inventory and appraisal, see § 451.11[5]; for discussion of special notice, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements].

At the time the inventory and appraisal is filed, the personal representative must also file a certification regarding whether the decedent owned real property in California [see Prob. Code § 8800(d); see also § 451.71]. If the decedent did not own real property in California at the time of death, the certification must state that the requirements of Rev. & Tax. Code § 480 (regarding filing change-of-ownership statement) do not apply [Prob. Code § 8800(d)(1)]. However, if the decedent owned real property, the certification must state that the requirements of Rev. & Tax. Code § 480 have been satisfied by the filing of a change in ownership statement with the county recorder or assessor of each county in California in which the decedent owned property at the time of death [Prob. Code § 8800(d)(2)].

In addition, there are certain requirements regarding the bond, to be stated in the inventory and appraisal, as discussed in § 451.11[2].

[2] Bond

The inventory and appraisal must contain one of the following statements [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.501(a)]:

- "Bond is waived."
- "Bond has been filed in the amount of $ (specify amount) and is insufficient."
- "Bond has been filed in the amount of $ (specify amount) and is sufficient."

If the bond is insufficient, the fiduciary is required to immediately make an ex parte application, as provided in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.204, for an order increasing the amount of the bond [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.501(b)]. For further discussion of such an application, see Ch. 446, Probate: Bonds .

The statement must be signed by the attorney of record for each fiduciary who has an attorney of record and by each fiduciary who does not [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.501(c)].

[3] Collection of Assets

Collection of the assets and preparation of the inventory is the duty of the personal representative but counsel customarily assists and directs the representative in the performance of these functions. For discussion of the collection of assets, see Ch. 450, Probate: Collecting Assets .

The location of personal property outside California poses a problem. Courts have frequently said that a personal representative has a duty to take possession of the deceased's assets wherever situated, but the broad statement is obviously limited by the practicalities of a given situation. Laws of other jurisdictions, difficulty of reducing to possession, cost of collection as against benefit to be gained are all to be considered. Jurisdictions in which assets are located have the same right to require local administration as California does with respect to assets within this state [see Estate of Glassford (1952) 114 Cal. App. 2d 181, 188-190, 249 P.2d 908] . In many instances, however, banks and custodians of stocks and bonds will transmit the assets on request on being furnished a certified copy of the representative's letters. If foreign assets are not collectible by request or a procedure provided by the jurisdiction in which they are situated, the only effective course is to cause letters to be issued in the other jurisdiction. If the deceased was a resident of California, the proceedings in the other jurisdiction will then be ancillary to those in California.

An asset of the deceased cannot be administered, of course, unless it is reduced to the possession of the personal representative. It is suggested that note be made of foreign assets, but that they not be inventoried until they are actually in the hands of the personal representative. Inventory and appraisal of other assets need not wait on collection of foreign assets. A supplementary inventory and appraisal will suffice [see Prob. Code § 8801; discussed in § 451.11[5]].

[4] Partial Inventory and Appraisal

The personal representative may file partial inventories and appraisals when appropriate under the circumstances of the particular case. The partial inventory and appraisal must be filed before expiration of the time allowed for inventory and appraisal, including any further time allowed by the court [Prob. Code § 8800(b), (c)].

[5] Supplemental Inventory and Appraisal

If the personal representative acquires knowledge of property to be administered in the decedent's estate that is not included in a prior inventory and appraisal, he or she must file a supplemental inventory and appraisal of the property in the manner prescribed for an original inventory and appraisal. The supplemental inventory and appraisal must be filed within four months after the personal representative acquires knowledge of the property. The court may, however, allow further time for filing a supplemental inventory and appraisal if it is reasonable under the circumstances of the particular case [Prob. Code § 8801].

[6] Remedies If Representative Fails to File

If the personal representative refuses or negligently fails to file an inventory and appraisal within the time allowed under Prob. Code §§ 8800(b), (c), 8801, any interested person may petition the court for relief [Prob. Code § 8804; see Prob. Code § 48 (interested person defined)]. On the petition, the court may (1) compel the representative to file an inventory and appraisal pursuant to the procedure prescribed in Prob. Code §§ 11050-11052 (court-compelled account and sanctions, discussed in Ch. 458D, Probate: Accounts, Final Distribution, and Compensation); (2) remove the representative from office; and (3) impose on the representative personal liability for injury to the estate or to an interested person that directly results from the refusal or failure. The liability may include attorney's fees, in the court's discretion and damages awarded are a liability on the bond of the personal representative, if any [Prob. Code § 8804; Estate of Fain (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 973, 992, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 618 (when personal representative's failure to marshal all of estate's assets and to file full and complete inventory required estate to undertake extensive discovery to identify estate assets, extraordinary services performed by successor administrator and its counsel in segregation of assets, reconstruction of inventories from documents and other evidence, and other problems of processing estate, which are direct consequence of personal representative's negligence, are an element of surcharge)]. An executor or administrator will not be removed for the mere delay or failure to file an inventory within the time prescribed by statute, unless the delay or failure has caused a loss to the estate [Estate of Hammer (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 1621, 1636-1637, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 190] . For a discussion of delay caused by the probate referee, see § 451.13[3][c].

Chapter 451 PROBATE: INVENTORY AND APPRAISAL
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

38-451 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 451.12

§ 451.12 Inventory

The inventory, including partial and supplemental inventories, must include all property to be administered in decedent's estate [Prob. Code § 8850(a)]. It must particularly specify the following property [Prob. Code § 8850(b)]:

- Money owed to the decedent, including debts, bonds, and notes, with the name of each debtor, the date, the sum originally payable, and the endorsements, if any, with their dates. The inventory must also specify any security for the payment of money to the decedent, including mortgages and deeds of trust; and if the security is real property, the inventory must include the recording reference or, if not recorded, a legal description of the real property.

- A statement of the decedent's interest in a partnership, appraised as a single item.

- All the decedent's money and other cash items, as defined in Prob. Code § 8901 (discussed in § 451.30[2][b]).

A debt or demand of the testator against the executor or any other person must be included in the inventory even if the debt or demand is discharged or devised in the testator's will. Such a discharge or devise is a specific devise of the debt or demand. The discharge or devise is not valid against the testator's creditors, and if necessary, the debt or demand will be applied in the payment of the testator's debts. If it is not necessary that the debt or demand be applied to payment of the testator's debts, it must be distributed in the same manner and proportion as other specific devises [Prob. Code § 8851].

The inventory must show, to the extent ascertainable by the personal representative, the portions of the property that are community, quasi-community, and separate property of the decedent [Prob. Code § 8850(c)].

The personal representative, or if there is more than one, each of them, must endorse on or attach to the inventory an oath that the inventory contains a true statement of the property to be administered in the estate of which he or she has knowledge, and particularly of the decedent's money and the decedent's debts or demands against the personal representative [see Prob. Code § 8852; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.6 (permitting written affirmation in lieu of oath)]. The oath must be endorsed on or attached to the inventory [Prob. Code § 8852(a)]. If there are multiple personal representatives, and they are unable to agree as to the property to be included in the inventory, Prob. Code § 8852 indicates the procedure for petitioning the court to determine what property to include.

§ 451.13 Appraisal

[1] Generally

The property in the inventory must be appraised by the personal representative, probate referee, or independent expert [Prob. Code § 8900]. The role of each in the appraisal is discussed below.

[2] By Personal Representative

The personal representative is required to appraise the following property, excluding items whose fair market value is, in the opinion of the personal representative, an amount different from the face value of the property [Prob. Code § 8901]:

- Money and other cash items. A "cash item," in this context, is a check, draft, money order, or similar instrument issued on or before the date of the decedent's death that can be immediately converted to cash.

- Checks issued after the date of the decedent's death that are either checks for wages earned before death or are refund checks, including tax and utility refunds, and Medicare, medical insurance, and other health care reimbursements and payments.

- Accounts in financial institutions. "Accounts" in this context is defined by Prob. Code § 21 to include checking accounts, savings accounts, certificates of deposit, share accounts, mutual capital certificates, and other like arrangements.

- Cash deposits and most money market funds or accounts. This includesmoney market funds or accounts registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 and those registered under the Code of Federal Regulations as investment vehicles that invest only in U.S. government obligations maturing in five years or less or repurchase agreements fully collateralized by U.S. government obligations [see Prob. Code § 9730(b); 15 U.S.C. §§ 80a-1 et seq.; 12 C.F.R. § 9.18]. All other mutual funds, stocks, bonds, and other securities must be appraised by the probate referee [Prob. Code § 8901(d); see Prob. Code § 8902 et seq. (appraisal by probate referee)].

- Proceeds of life and accident insurance policies and retirement plans and annuities payable on death in lump sum amounts.

Neither the personal representative nor the personal representative's attorney is entitled to receive compensation for extraordinary services by reason of appraising any property in the estate [Prob. Code § 8907; for a discussion of compensation for personal representatives generally, see Ch. 458D, Probate: Accounts, Final Distribution, and Compensation].

[3] By Probate Referee

[a] Property to Be Appraised

All property in a decedent's estate other than that appraised by the personal representative must be appraised by a probate referee, with the exception of any unique, artistic, unusual, or special items that the personal representative elects to have appraised by an independent expert [Prob. Code §§ 8902(b), 8904(a)].

[b] Delivery of Inventory to Referee

The personal representative is required to deliver the inventory to the probate referee designated by the court, together with necessary supporting data to enable the referee to make an appraisal of the property in the inventory to be appraised by the referee [Prob. Code § 8902(b)]. The delivery is not required, however, when the court has waived appraisal by a probate referee [see Prob. Code 8903; for a discussion of waiver of appraisal by a probate referee, see § 451.13[3][g]].

[c] Time for Appraisal or Status Report

The probate referee is required to promptly and with reasonable diligence appraise the property scheduled for appraisal by the probate referee in the inventory that the personal representative delivers to the referee [Prob. Code § 8940(a)]. The referee, not later than 60 days after delivery of the inventory, must either return the completed appraisal to the personal representative or make a report of the status of the appraisal. The report must show the reason why the property has not been appraised and an estimate of the time needed to complete the appraisal. The report must be delivered to the personal representative and filed with the court [Prob. Code § 8940(b)].

[d] Hearing on Status Report

The court must, on petition of the personal representative or probate referee, or may, on its own motion, hear the report of the status of the appraisal. The court may issue a citation to compel the personal representative or the probate referee to attend the hearing [Prob. Code § 8941(a)]. If the probate referee does not make the report of the status of the appraisal within the time required by Prob. Code § 8940(b) (discussed in § 451.13[3][c]) or prescribed by the court, the court must, on petition of the personal representative, or may, on its own motion, cite the probate referee to appear before the court and show the reason why the property has not been appraised [Prob. Code § 8941(b)]. Based on the hearing, the court may order any of the following [Prob. Code § 8941(c)]:

- That the appraisal be completed within a time that appears reasonable.

- That the probate referee be removed. On removal of the referee the court shall designate another probate referee in the manner prescribed in Prob. Code § 8920 (for discussion, see §§ 451.15[1], [4]).

- That the commission of the probate referee be reduced by an amount the court deems appropriate, regardless of whether the commission otherwise allowable under Prob. Code §§ 8960-8964 would be reasonable compensation for the services rendered.

- That the personal representative deliver to the probate referee all information necessary to allow the probate referee to complete the appraisal. Failure to comply with such an order is grounds for removal of the personal representative.

- Such other orders as may be appropriate.

[e] Access to Appraisal Report and Backup Data

A probate referee who appraises property in the estate must, on demand by the personal representative or by a beneficiary, provide any appraisal report or backup data in the possession of the probate referee used by the referee to appraise an item of property. The probate referee is not permitted, however, to disclose any information that is required by law to be confidential. The probate referee must provide the appraisal report or backup data without charge. The cost of providing the report or data is not allowed as an appraisal expense but is included in the referee's commission for services [Prob. Code § 8908(a)].

[f] Demand for Justification of Appraisal

The probate referee must also, on demand by the personal representative orbeneficiary, justify the appraisal of an item of property if the appraisal is contested, whether by objection pursuant to Prob. Code § 8906 (for discussion relating to objection to appraisal, see § 451.58), by tax audit, or otherwise. The referee may be entitled to an additional fee for services provided to justify the appraisal, to be agreed on by the personal representative or beneficiary and referee. If they are unable to agree, the court determines what fee, if any, is appropriate [Prob. Code § 8908(b)].

[g] Waiver of Referee Appraisal

The court may, for good cause, waive appraisal by a probate referee in the manner provided by Prob. Code § 8903. Good cause for waiver may include, for example, that the assets to be appraised by the personal representative, in addition to those he or she would normally appraise, consist of listed securities, including over the counter securities for which prices are published, personal belongings of the decedent, household furniture and furnishings, automobiles and similar items of recognized market value or of low value [see Alameda Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 12.6.2.2].

The personal representative may apply for a waiver together with the petition for appointment of the personal representative or another petition. Alternatively, the representative may apply in a separate petition filed in the administration proceedings. The application may not be made, however, later than the time the personal representative delivers the inventory to the probate referee, if a probate referee has been designated. A copy of the proposed inventory and appraisal and a statement that sets forth the good cause that justifies the waiver must be attached to the petition [Prob. Code § 8903(b); for a form of petition for waiver of appraisal by a probate referee and order granting the petition, see §§ 451.73 and 451.74]. For further discussion relating to appointment of personal representatives, see Ch. 442, Probate: Initiating Probate Administration .

The hearing on the waiver must not be sooner than 15 days after the petition is filed [Prob. Code § 8903(c)]. Notice of the hearing must be given as provided in Prob. Code § 1220 [for discussion, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements], together with a copy of the petition and a copy of the proposed inventory and appraisal to all of the following persons [Prob. Code § 8903(c); see Prob. Code § 1220(a)(2)]:

- Any nonpetitioning personal representative.

- All persons who have requested special notice in the estate proceeding pursuant to Prob. Code §

- All known heirs and devisees whose interests in the estate would be affected by the waiver.

- The Attorney General, at the office of the Attorney General in Sacramento, if any portion of the estate is to escheat to the state and its interest in the estate would be affected by the waiver.

- The probate referee, if one has been designated.

If any person entitled to notice is represented by an attorney of record, the notice must also be given to that attorney [Prob. Code § 1214].

A probate referee to whom notice is given under Prob. Code § 8903 may oppose the waiver. If the opposition fails and the court determines the opposition was made without substantial justification, the court must award litigation expenses, including reasonable attorney's fees, against the probate referee. If the opposition succeeds, the court may designate a different probate referee to appraise property in the estate [Prob. Code § 8903(d)].

If the petition is granted, the inventory and appraisal attached to the petition must be filed pursuant to Prob. Code § 8800 [Prob. Code § 8803 (see discussion in § 451.11)].

[4] By Independent Expert

A unique, artistic, unusual, or special item of tangible personal property that would otherwise be appraised by the probate referee may, at the election of the personal representative, be appraised by an independent expert qualified to appraise the item [Prob. Code § 8904(a)]. The personal representative must make the election by a notation on the inventory delivered to the probate referee indicating the property to be appraised by an independent expert. The probate referee may, within five days after delivery of the inventory, petition for a court determination whether the property to be appraised by an independent expert is a unique, artistic, unusual, or special item of tangible personal property. If the petition fails and the court determines that the petition was made without substantial justification, the court must award litigation expenses, including reasonable attorney's fees, against the probate referee [Prob. Code § 8904(b)].

[5] Signature and Oath

A person who appraises property, whether he or she is a personal representative, probate referee, or independent expert, must sign the appraisal as to property appraised by that person. The person must also take and subscribe an oath that he or she has truly, honestly, and impartially appraised the property to the best of his or her ability [Prob. Code § 8905].

§ 451.14 Objection to Appraisal

Any time before the hearing on the petition for final distribution of the estate, the personal representative or an interested person may file with the court a written objection to the appraisal [Prob. Code § 8906(a); see Prob. Code § 48 ("interested person" defined)]. The clerk is required to fix a time, not less than 15 days after the filing, for a hearing on the objection [Prob. Code § 8906(b)]. The person objecting must give notice of the hearing, together with a copy of the objection, as provided in Prob. Code § 1220 (for further discussion of notice requirements, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements). If the appraisal was made by a probate referee, the person objecting must also mail notice of the hearing and a copy of the objection to the probate referee at least 15 days before the date set for the hearing [Prob. Code § 8906(c)].

The person objecting to the appraisal has the burden of proof [Prob. Code § 8906(d)].

On completion of the hearing, the court may make any orders that appear appropriate. If the court determines the objection was filed without reasonable cause or good faith, the court may order that the fees of the personal representative and attorney and any costs incurred for defending the appraisal be made a charge against the person filing the objection [Prob. Code § 8906(e)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

38-451 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 451.15

§ 451.15 Probate Referee

[1] Designation

The probate referee, when designated by the court, must be among the persons appointed by the Controller to act as a probate referee for the county [Prob. Code §§ 400-408, 8920]. If there is no person available who is able to act or if, pursuant to authority of Prob. Code § 8922 (court's discretion not to designate particular person as referee) or otherwise, the court does not designate a person appointed for the county, the court may designate a probate referee from another county [Prob. Code § 8920].

The court may designate a person requested by the personal representative as probate referee, on a showing of good cause for the designation. The following circumstances are included within the meaning of good cause [Prob. Code § 8921]:

- The probate referee has recently appraised the same property that will be appraised in the administration proceeding.
- The probate referee will be making related appraisals in another proceeding.
- The probate referee has recently appraised similar property in another proceeding.

The court may not designate as probate referee any of the following persons: the court clerk; a partner or employee of the judge or commissioner who orders the designation; the spouse of the judge or commissioner who orders the designation; or a person, or the spouse of a person, who is related within the third degree either (1) to the judge or commissioner who orders the designation or (2) to the spouse of the judge or commissioner who orders the designation [Prob. Code § 8923].

[2] Powers

On designation by the court, the probate referee has all the powers of a referee of the superior court. In addition to these powers, the probate referee has other powers provided in Prob. Code §§ 450-453, which are discussed below [Prob.

Code § 450]. For a discussion of the powers and duties of a referee generally, see Ch. 38, Reference .

For the purpose of appraising estate property, the probate referee may require, and may issue a subpoena to compel, the appearance before the referee of the personal representative, guardian, conservator, or other fiduciary, an interested person, or any other person the referee has reason to believe has knowledge of the property [Prob. Code § 451(a)]. The probate referee is also empowered to take the testimony under oath of a person appearing before the referee, or require, and issue a subpoena to compel, the person to produce any document in the person's possession or control concerning the value of any property in the estate [Prob. Code §§ 452(a)]. Subpoenas issued under either Prob. Code § 451(a) or 452(a) are subject to the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 2020 governing deposition subpoenas until July 1, 2005, and to the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.020-2020.510 governing deposition subpoenas as of July 1, 2005 [Prob. Code §§ 451(b), 452(b); see Stats. 2004, Ch. 182, § 64]. For a discussion of deposition subpoenas generally, see Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions .

On petition of a person required to appear before the probate referee pursuant to Prob. Code §§ 450-453, the court may make a protective order to protect the person from annoyance, embarrassment, or oppression. The petitioner is required to mail notice of the hearing on the petition to the probate referee and the personal representative, guardian, conservator, or other fiduciary at least 15 days before the date set for the hearing. Any subpoena issued by the probate referee is stayed during the pendency of the petition [see Prob. Code § 453(a)].

On petition of the probate referee, the court may make an order to show cause why a person who is required, but fails, to appear before the probate referee should not be compelled to do so. The probate referee is required to mail notice of the hearing on the petition to the person at least 15 days before the date set for the hearing [see Prob. Code § 453(b)].

[3] Commission and Expenses

As compensation for services the probate referee is entitled to receive a commission of one-tenth of one percent of the total value of the property for eachestate appraised. Property appraised by the personal representative pursuant to Prob. Code § 8901, or by an independent expert pursuant to Prob. Code § 8904 is excluded from the computation [Prob. Code § 8961(a)]. The commission shall in no event be less than $75 nor more than $10,000 for any estate appraised [Prob. Code § 8963 (also empowering court to allow excess of $10,000 based on reasonable value of services, and providing notice of hearing requirements)].

The referee is also entitled to receive actual and necessary expenses for each estate appraised. The referee must file with, or list on, the inventory and appraisal a verified account of the referee's expenses [Prob. Code § 8961(b)].

If more than one probate referee appraises or participates in the appraisal of property in the estate, each is entitled to the share of the commission agreed on by the referees or, absent an agreement, that the court allows. In no case may the total commission for all referees exceed the maximum commission that would be allowable for a single referee [Prob. Code § 8964].

The commission and expenses provided by Prob. Code §§ 8960-8964 as compensation for the services of the probate referee must be paid from the estate. The probate referee may not withhold the appraisal until the commission and expenses are paid, but must deliver the appraisal to the personal representative promptly on completion. The commission and expenses of the probate referee are an expense of administration, entitled to the priority for payment provided by Prob. Code § 11420, and must be paid in the course of administration [Prob. Code § 8960].

[4] Removal

[a] Without Cause

The personal representative has the right to remove the first probate referee who is designated by the court without cause. The personal representative may exercise the right at any time before he or she delivers the inventory to the probate referee. To exercise this right, the representative must file an affidavit or declaration under penalty of perjury with the court and mail a copy to the probate referee. Thereupon, the court is required to remove the probate referee without any further act or proof [Prob. Code § 8924(a)(2)].

[b] For Cause

The court is required to remove the designated probate referee if the personal representative shows cause, including incompetence or undue delay in making the appraisal, that in the opinion of the court warrants removal of the referee. The showing shall be made at a hearing on petition of the personal representative. The personal representative must mail notice of the hearing on the petition to the probate referee at least 15 days before the date set for the hearing [Prob. Code § 8924(a)(1)].

The court is also required to remove the designated probate referee for any other cause provided by statute [Prob. Code § 8924(a)(3)].

[c] Replacement

On removal of the probate referee, the court must designate another probate referee in the manner prescribed in Prob. Code § 8920 (discussed in § 451.15[1]) [Prob. Code § 8924(b)].

[5] Cessation of Authority

The authority of a person to act as a probate referee ceases immediately on expiration of the person's term of office, revocation of the person's appointment or other termination pursuant to law [Prob. Code § 406(a); see Prob. Code § 403(a) (terms are for 4 years, expiring on June 30)]. On cessation of the probate referee's authority, the Controller is required to notify the court of the county for which the referee was appointed. On receipt of the notice, or if it otherwise comes to the attention of the court that the authority of the probate referee has ceased, the court is required to reassign any estate for which the person had been designated as probate referee to another probate referee [Prob. Code § 406(b)].

Chapter 451 PROBATE: INVENTORY AND APPRAISAL
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

38-451 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 451.16

§ 451.16 Community Property and Joint Tenancy--Tax Implications

Property cannot be community property and joint tenancy property at the same time. It must be one or the other [Jacquemart v. Jacquemart (1956) 142 Cal. App. 2d 794, 796, 299 P.2d 281 (construing former Civ. Code § 161, now see Civ. Code §§ 682, 5104; Fam. Code § 750 (operative January 1, 1994)]. However, the form of the instrument under which the spouses hold title does not conclusively reflect the character of the property as separate or community property. Thus, property held in joint tenancy form may in fact be community property [see Tomaier v. Tomaier (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 754, 757-759, 146 P.2d 905] . Note, however, that effective July 1, 2001, spouses may hold property as community property with right of survivorship, securing the tax benefits of community property and avoiding the costs of probate [see Civ. Code § 682.1; Fam Code § 750].

In general, a surviving spouse takes community property with a stepped-up basis as to both halves of the community property, as valued at the date of death [see I.R.C. § 1014(a)(1), (b)(6)]. In contrast, joint tenancy assets pass to the survivor without estate administration, but only the half of the property held by the decedent receives a stepped-up basis, as valued at the time of death [see I.R.C. § 1014(a)(1), (b)(6)]. Consequently, future sale of the property by the survivor may or may not result in a capital gains tax, depending on whether the property is community or joint tenancy. Before completing the inventory, every effort should be made by the personal representative and counsel to determine exactly what the intention of the parties was, and what evidence is available to rebut any erroneous presumptions created by the instrument of title.

If an instrument of title has been affected by a transmutation agreement intended to establish the subject property as community property, the agreement must be made in writing, in the form of an express declaration, consented to or accepted by the spouse whose interest in the property is adversely affected [see Fam. Code §§ 850(b), 852(a)]. In Estate of MacDonald, the California Supreme Court held that, to satisfy the requirement of an "express declaration," a writing must expressly state that the characterization or ownership of the property is being changed [Estate of MacDonald (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 262, 272, 272 Cal. Rptr. 153, 794 P.2d 911 ; In re Marriage of Starkman (2005) 129 Cal. App. 4th 659, 663-665, 28 Cal. Rptr. 3d 639 (clause in trust agreement providing that property transferred to trust is community property unless transferor spouse identifies it as separate property was insufficient to transmute husband's separate property, which he failed to identify as separate property, to community property)]. Extrinsic evidence is inadmissible to clarify the transmutation agreement [Estate of MacDonald (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 262, 264, 272 Cal. Rptr. 153, 794

P.2d 911 ; see In re Marriage of Campbell (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 1058, 1062-1065, 88 Cal. Rptr. 2d 580 ; In re Marriage of Barneson (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 583, 588, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 726] .

There is no exception from the "express declaration" requirement of Fam. Code § 852(a) for partial performance of an agreement to transmute property [In re Marriage of Benson (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1096, 1108-1109, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 471, 116 P.3d 1152] . Fam. Code § 852(a) is stated in the negative--i.e., an agreement to change the character of marital property is not valid unless it is in writing, contains an express declaration by which the transmutation is made, and is accepted in some fashion by the adversely affected spouse. The California Supreme Court has held that these features, viewed as a whole, suggest the legislature envisioned a standard for transmutations from which married couples could not freely depart [In re Marriage of Benson (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1096, 1104, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 471, 116 P.3d 1152] . The Court also concluded the writing requirement of Fam. Code § 852(a) cannot be satisfied when there is no writing at all about the subject property and a transmutation would have to be inferred from acts surrounding the parties' purported agreement [In re Marriage of Benson (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1096-1107, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 471, 116 P.3d 1152] .

38-451 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 451.50

§ 451.50 Time for Filing Inventory and Appraisal

Inventory and appraisal must be filed within four months after letters are first issued to a general personal representative or within such further time as the court for reasonable cause may allow [Prob. Code § 8800(b)]. After the inventory is submitted to the probate referee, the referee has 60 days to complete his or her part of the appraisal [Prob. Code § 8940(b)]. Take this time into account in calendaring for the completion of the inventory, and calendar the date when the referee should return the inventory [see Paragraphs 4-6 of § 451.55].

NOTE:

If the personal representative fails to file the inventory and appraisal on time, he or she may be subject on the petition of an interested person [see Prob. Code § 48] to being compelled to file it, to removal from office, and to liability for injuries directly resulting from the failure or refusal to file [see Prob. Code § 8804**].

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST

38-451 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 451.51

§ 451.51 Preparation of Inventory

NOTE:

An erroneous decision to inventory property as community property or to omit it from the inventory on the ground that it is held in joint tenancy may result in tax problems in the future. Because the error may affect the basis of the property, capital gains problems may arise. In determining how property is held, the instrument of title may create a presumption, but it is rebuttable [see, e.g., Fam. Code § 2581]. For discussion of determining how title is held, see Ch. 122, Community Property , and Ch. 316, Joint Tenancy and Tenancy in Common .

List and describe assets [see § 451.70; counsel should consult local rules regarding whether use of Judicial Council forms are mandatory].

1. Money and other cash items. Included as separate items would be, for example, cash in decedent's possession at death, refund of safe deposit box key deposit, salary due, bank commercial account, bank savings account, savings share account at a savings and loan association, and the like.

a. Assign a separate number to each different item.

b. In the case of salary due, show the name and address of the employer.

c. In the case of a bank account, show the account number, nature of account, bank, branch, and address.

d. Insert the amount of each item.

2. Bonds.

a. Assign a separate item number to each different type of bonds, but not to interest.

b. Describe by showing face amount or number of bonds and denomination, name of obligor, kind of bond, date of maturity, interest rate, and interest due dates. If desired, show the exchange on which listed, or if unlisted the principal business office of the company. For example: "$60,000 maturity value Arkansas Railroad Co. first mortgage 4 percent, 20 year bonds, due November, _____ [year]. Interest payable quarterly on Feb. 1, May 1, Aug. 1, and Nov. 1; N.Y. Exchange," or "10 Missouri Pacific Railroad Company $1000 par value, 5 percent income debentures, due January, _____ [year]. Interest payable _____ [specify]; N.Y. Exchange," or "$1000 maturity value US Savings Bonds, Series G, due _____ [date]."

c. List, for example: "Interest coupons attached to bonds, item [7], due and payable on _____, [date], but not cashed at date of death."

d. List, for example: "Interest accrued on bonds, item [7], to _____ [date]."

e. Provide space for showing appraised value of each item, including interest.

3. Stocks.

a. Assign a separate item number to each different type of stock, but not to dividends.

b. Describe by showing number of shares, whether common or preferred, issue, par value, exact name of corporation and, if desired, the exchange on which listed or, if not listed, the principal business office of the company. For example: "100 shares of Pacific Gas and Electric Company 6 percent first preferred stock; N.Y. Exchange," or "50 shares of Boston Edison Company $25 par value capital stock; N.Y. Exchange."

c. List, for example: "Dividend on item [8] of $_____ per share payable to stockholders of record _____ [date], accrued prior to date of death."

d. Provide space for showing appraised value of each item, including dividends.

4. Promissory notes.

a. Assign a separate item number to each different note.

b. Describe by showing principal sum, name of each maker, date of note, rate of interest, due date, and security, if any. For example: "$5000 principal sum note, made by _____ [name], dated _____, with interest at _____ percent per annum, both principal and interest payable in installments as follows: _____; secured by deed of trust recorded _____ [date], in Book _____, page _____, Official Records, _____ County;" or "$750 principal sum note, made by _____, dated _____, payable in _____ equal, successive monthly installments of $_____ each, commencing on _____ [date]."

c. Provide space for showing appraised value of each item.

5. Real estate.

a. Assign separate item number for each separate parcel.

b. Show both a legal description, that is, recorded tract, map, or lot and block system or other recognized method, and a common description. If improved, show a separate value for the land and for the improvements, and the total. For example: "Lots 1 and 2 in Tract 485 in the City and County of Los Angeles, State of California, as per map recorded in Book 14, page 191 of Maps, in the Office of the County Recorder of said County, commonly known as 111 North New Hampshire Avenue, Los Angeles, California.

g. List, for example: "Rent accrued on item [10] for January and February _____ [year]."

h. Provide space for showing appraised value of each item, including rental.

6. Other miscellaneous property. Inventory here all items of the gross estate that cannot be inventoried under any other category, such as the following: debts due deceased, interests in business, insurance on life of another, claims including claims for tax refunds, rights, royalties, pensions, leaseholds, judgments, reversionary or remainder interests, shares in trust funds, household goods, personal effects, including wearing apparel, farm products and growing crops, livestock, farm machinery, automobiles, etc.

a. Except as hereafter noted, assign a separate item number to each item.

b. Debts due deceased. Show name of debtor, date debt incurred, sum originally payable, amount presently due. Debt due from personal representative must be included [Prob. Code § 8852(a)].

c. Sole proprietorship interest in business. If business is not to continue, do not describe business as such, but list individual assets under their proper categories, such as real estate. Do not list goodwill as an asset because it will not be distributed or sold. If business is to continue, describe business as such, but list individual assets separately under their proper categories. Goodwill is inventoriable if actually existing as an asset.

d. Partnership interest in business. Merely describe the interest as "interest in partnership" identifying partners, location of the business, and its nature [see Prob. Code § 8850(b)(2)].

Do not list a cause of action for wrongful death; it belongs to heirs and other entitled dependents [see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60]. Otherwise, a cause of action survives death [see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.20].

§ 451.53 Designation and Removal of Referee

1. Designation of Referee. If a referee was not designated by the court at the time it issued letters appointing the personal representative, prepare a request for designation of probate referee [see Prob. Code § 8920]. For form for a request and order, see Forms §§ 442.158, 442.159.

NOTE:

The personal representative may request designation of a particular referee for good cause. Good cause includes the referee having recently appraised the same or similar property in another proceeding or that the referee will be making related appraisals in another proceeding [see Prob. Code § 8921].

Counsel is advised to consult local rules and practice relating to the appropriate procedure for raising this request. Absent any rule or practice to the contrary, it is recommended that the above facts be set forth by declaration incorporated into or included with the request [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1306].

2. Removal of first referee appointed by court.

a. If the personal representative desires to exercise the right to remove the first probate referee designated by the court, prepare a declaration under penalty of perjury exercising that right.

No cause need be shown, but the right must be exercised before the inventory is delivered to the probate referee [see Prob. Code § 8924(a)(2)].

b. File the declaration with the court and mail a copy to the referee.

NOTE:
No further action is necessary; the court will remove the referee andappoint another one [see Prob. Code § 8924(a)(2), (b)].

3. Removal of referee for cause.

a. If cause exists to remove the probate referee, and the personal representative has already exercised the right of removal under Prob. Code § 8924(a)(2) or the inventory has already been delivered to the referee so that the right of removal is not available, prepare a petition to remove the referee.

NOTE:
Cause includes incompetence or undue delay in making the appraisal [see Prob. Code § 8924(a)(1)].

b. Mail notice of the hearing to the referee at least 15 days before the date set for the hearing [see Prob. Code § 8924(a)(1)].

§ 451.58 Objection to Appraisal

1. Demand appraisal report or backup data in possession of the probate referee used to appraise the property [Prob. Code § 8908(a)].

NOTE:

This demand is not a prerequisite to making an objection; however, it may be a prudent procedure to follow to gather background data, because sanctions may result from filing an objection without reasonable cause or good faith [see Prob. Code § 8906(e)]. Although any interested person [see Prob. Code § 48] may file an objection, only the personal representative or a beneficiary may make this demand [see Prob. Code § 8908].

The referee is not allowed to disclose any information required by law to be confidential [Prob. Code § 8908(a)].

2. Prepare written objection to the appraisal [see Prob. Code § 8906; see § 451.72].

NOTE:

An objection may be made by the personal representative or by any interested person [see Prob. Code § 48], at any time before the hearing on the petition for final distribution of the estate [Prob. Code § 8906(a)]. If the court determines the objection was filed without reasonable cause or good faith, the objector may be charged with the fees of the personal representative and attorney and any costs incurred for defending the appraisal [Prob. Code § 8906(e)].

3. Have the objection verified [see Prob. Code §§ 1021-1023].

4. File the objection with the court [see Prob. Code § 8906(a)].

NOTE:

The clerk will set the hearing, for not less than 15 days after the filing [see Prob. Code § 8906(b)].

5. Give notice of the hearing on the objection as provided in Prob. Code§ 1220 [see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements], and if the appraisal was made by a probate referee, mail notice of hearing and a copy of the objection to the referee [Prob. Code § 8906].

CAUTION:
At the same time the inventory and appraisal is filed with the court, the administrator or executor is required to file a change in ownership statementwith the county recorder or assessor in each county in which the decedent owned real property at the time of death [Rev. & Tax. Code § 480(b)]. Each county has its own form, which should be obtained from the office of the county recorder or assessor.

[2] Use of Forms

This form for an inventory and appraisal is for use by the personal representative to file an inventory and appraisal of the property to be administered in the decedent's estate [Prob. Code § 8800]. The attachment is for use to list the assets of the estate [see Prob. Code § 8850]. Use of these Judicial Council forms is mandatory [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 1.31, 7.101].

[3] Source of Forms

This form for inventory and appraisal and the attachment to be submitted with that form have been approved for use by the Judicial Council. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[4] Declarations

The form includes declarations to be made by the representative or small estate claimant under penalty of perjury, to the effect that the Attachments, together with all previous inventories, contain a true statement of all or a portion of the estate (Paragraph 3). Also included is an optional statement that no probate referee is required, based on a court order to that effect (Paragraph 4).

At the time the inventory and appraisal is filed, the personal representative must also file a certification regarding the non-applicability of, or compliance with, Rev. & Tax. Code § 480 [see Prob. Code § 8800(d); see also § 451.71]. The certification requirement may be met by checking the appropriate box in Paragraph 5.

The inventory and appraisal also must state whether bond has been waived or filed, and if filed, whether it is sufficient or insufficient (Paragraphs 6 and 7) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.501(a)]. The signature of the attorney of record for the fiduciary, or the fiduciary if none, must be included with regard to this statement (signature line) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.501(c)].

[5] Time for Filing

The inventory and appraisal of the estate of the decedent must be filed by the personal representative with the court clerk within four months after letters are first issued to a general personal representative, or within such further time that the court may allow as is reasonable under the circumstances of the particular case [Prob. Code § 8800(b)].

[6] Copy to Persons Requesting Special Notice

On the filing of an inventory and appraisal or a supplemental inventory and appraisal, the personal representative must mail a copy to each person who has requested special notice. The copy must be mailed not later than 15 days after the inventory and appraisal is filed with the court [Prob. Code §§ 1252(b), 8803].

[7] Contents

The inventory is required to include all of the property to be administered in the decedent's estate, particularly specifying all money owed to the decedent, including debts, bonds, and notes, with the name of each debtor, the date, the sum originally payable, and the endorsements, if any, with their dates. The inventory must also specify security for the payment of money to the decedent, including mortgages and deeds of trust. If security for the payment of money is real property, the inventory must include the recording reference or, if not recorded, a legal description of the real property. Other property that must be particularly specified is a statement of decedent's interest in a partnership, appraised as a single item, and all money and other cash items, as defined in Prob. Code § 8901 (discussed in § 451.70[8]). The inventory must show, to the extent ascertainable by the personal representative, the portions of the property that are community, quasi-community, and separate property of the decedent [Prob. Code § 8850(c)].

The inventory and appraisal must separately list each item and state the fair market value of the item at the time of the decedent's death in monetary terms opposite the respective items [Prob. Code § 8802]. For detailed discussion relating to listing and describing assets, see § 451.53.

[8] Attachments

Two attachments should be submitted with the inventory and appraisal form. On the first attachment, the personal representative lists and appraises the property that he or she is to appraise pursuant to Prob. Code § 8901; that is, money and other cash items; checks issued after decedent's death that are checks for wages earned before death, refund checks and Medicare, medical insurance, and other health care reimbursements and payments; accounts in financial institutions (defined by Prob. Code § 21 as including checking, savings, and share accounts; certificates of deposit; mutual capital certificates; and other like arrangements); cash deposits and money market funds or accounts, whether in a financial institution or otherwise, including a brokerage cash account; and proceeds of life and accident insurance policies and retirement plans and annuities payable on death in lump sum amounts. The personal representative may not appraise any ofthese items that have a fair market value which, in the opinion of the personalrepresentative, is different from the face value of the property [Prob. Code § 8901].

On the second attachment, the personal representative lists property that is appraised by the referee pursuant to Prob. Code § 8902. Additional attachments may be necessary if joint tenancy and other assets are listed for appraisal purposes only and not as part of the probate estate. In that case the assets must be separately listed and its value excluded from the total valuation of attachments 1 and 2 [see instructions on the back of the Judicial Council form of inventory and appraisal].

Additionally, if the personal representative elects to have a unique, artistic, unusual, or special item of tangible personal property appraised by an independent expert, notation of that fact must be made on the inventory indicating the property to be appraised by the independent expert [Prob. Code § 8904(b)].

Moreover, the personal representative must file a certification regarding real property ownership concurrently with filing of the inventory and appraisal [Prob. Code § 8800(d); see § 451.70.5].

[2] Use of Form

This form is an objection to appraisal for use by any interested person to file an objection to the appraised value of an item in the inventory and appraisal, whether appraised by the personal representative, probate referee, or an independent expert [see Prob. Code §§ 8901, 8902, 8904]. An objection may be filed at any time before the hearing on the petition for final distribution of the estate [Prob. Code § 8906(a)]. The clerk must schedule a hearing not less than 15 days after the objection is filed [Prob. Code § 8906(b)].

[3] Notice

The person objecting must give notice of the hearing, together with a copy of the notice, as provided in Prob. Code § 1220 [Prob. Code § 8906(b),(c); see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements]. If the appraisal objected to was made by the probate referee, the person objecting must also mail a copy of the notice and objection to the probate referee at least 15 days prior to the hearing [Prob. Code § 8906(c)].

[4] Verification

Prob. Code § 1021 requires that an objection or response to a petition, report, plan, or account be verified by the objector [see Prob. Code § 1021(a)(2), (b)]. It is not clear whether an appraisal, which is explicitly required to be verified by Prob. Code § 8906, is a "petition, report, plan, or account" within the meaning of Prob Code § 1021. However, it would seem to be the better practice to verify the objection.

[5] Objection Filed Without Reasonable Cause or Good Faith

If the court determines the objection was filed without reasonable cause or good faith, the court may order that the fees of the personal representative and attorney and any costs incurred for defending the appraisal be made a charge against the person filing the objection [Prob. Code § 8906(e)].

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by a personal representative to petition for a waiver of appraisal by a probate referee [Prob. Code § 8903]. The form may be modified for use together with a petition for appointment of the personal representative or together with another petition [see Prob. Code § 8903(b); for a form of petition for appointment of the personal representative, see Ch. 442, Probate: Initiating Probate Administration]. § 452.10 Governing Law

For estates, and persons interested in estates, of decedents dying on and after January 1, 1987, proration of estate taxes is governed by Prob. Code §§ 20100-20125 [Prob. Code § 20101(a)]. Former Prob. Code §§ 970-977 remain applicable if the decedent died before January 1, 1987 [Prob. Code § 20101(b)]. No inference as to the applicable law in effect before January 1, 1987, is to be drawn from the enactment of Prob. Code §§ 20100-20125 [Prob. Code § 20101(b)].

For transferees of property of a decedent who died on or after January 1, 1987, proration of generation-skipping transfer taxes is governed by Prob. Code §§ 20200-20225 [Prob. Code § 20201(a)]. No inference as to the applicable law in effect before January 1, 1987, is to be drawn from the enactment of Prob. Code §§ 20200-20225 [Prob. Code § 20201(b)]. Prob. Code §§ 20200-20225 parallel comparable provisions of Prob. Code §§ 20100-20125 [see Recommendation Relating to Proration of Estate Taxes, 18 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 1145 (1986)].

§ 452.11 Definitions Applicable to Estate Tax Proration

Except when the context otherwise requires, the following definitions govern the construction of Prob. Code §§ 20100-20125 [Prob. Code § 20100]:

- "Estate tax" means a tax imposed by any federal or California estate tax law, now existing or hereafter enacted, and includes interest and penalties on any deficiency.

- "Person interested in the estate" means any person, including a personal representative, entitled to receive, or who has received, from a decedent while alive, or by reason of the death of the decedent, any property or interest therein. It includes, but is not limited to, persons who receive property by nonprobate transfer, such a joint tenant or the beneficiary of a trust [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 20100].

- "Personal representative" includes a guardian, conservator, trustee, or other person charged with the responsibility of paying the estate tax. Thus, "personal representative" also includes an executor, administrator, administrator with will annexed, or special administrator [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 20100].

- "Property" means property included in the gross estate for federal estate tax purposes.

- "Value" means fair market value as determined for federal estate tax purposes.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

38-452 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 452.13

§ 452.13 Proration

[1] Generally

Except as provided in Prob. Code § 20110(b) and Prob. Code § 20210(b), any estate or generation-skipping transfer (hereinafter "GST") tax must be equitably prorated among the persons interested in the estate, in the case of estate taxes, or among the transferees, in the case of GST taxes, in the manner prescribed in Prob. Code §§ 20110-20117 or 20210-20215 [Prob. Code §§ 20110(a) (estate tax), 20210(a) (GST tax)]. An extended estate tax may be prorated prior to actual payment of the tax [see Recommendation Relating to Proration of Estate Taxes, 18 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 1131 (1986); Prob. Code § 20115, discussed in § 452.13[7]]. Penalties and interest on an estate or GST tax are prorated pursuant to Prob. Code § 20112(c) or 20212(b), discussed in § 452.13[3].

The proration required by Prob. Code §§ 20110-20117 or 20210-20215 must be made in the proportion that the value of the property received by each person interested in the estate, or transferee, bears to the total value of all property received by all persons interested in the estate, or by all transferees, subject to other provisions of Prob. Code §§ 20110-20117 or 20210-20215 [Prob. Code §§ 20111 (estate tax), 20211 (GST tax)]. The proration is made against all property included in decedent's gross estate for federal estate tax purposes, including gifts includable under I.R.C. § 2035. The proration is based on fair market value as determined for federal estate tax purposes, even though the estate tax may be based on a special value [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 20111].

[2] Exceptions

[a] When Federal Law Directs Method of Proration

An exception in Prob. Code §§ 20110(b) and 20210(b) provides that the proration methods in Prob. Code §§ 20110-20117 and 20210-20215 do not apply when federal law directs another manner of proration [see, e.g., I.R.C. § 2207A (recovery by estate of tax on property on which previous marital deduction was taken)]. In that case, the California estate or GST tax must be prorated in the manner directed by federal law for the proration of federal estate or GST tax [Prob. Code §§ 20110(b)(2) (estate tax), 20210(b)(2) (GST tax); see, e.g., Estate of Libeu (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 1436, 1443-1445, 253 Cal. Rptr. 456 (decided under prior California law, and holding former Prob. Code § 973 (now see Prob. Code § 20113) preempted by I.R.C. § 2032A(c)(5)); see also Prob. Code § 20114(c) (discussed in § 452.13[5]), which currently governs situation considered in Libeu, apparently conforms to federal law].

[b] When Decedent Directed Method of Apportionment

Prob. Code §§ 20110(b)(1) and 21210(b)(1) provide that the general rule of equitable proration does not apply to the extent that the decedent or transferor in a written inter vivos or testamentary instrument disposing of or transferring property "specifically directs that the property be applied to the satisfaction" of the estate or GST tax or that the tax "be prorated to the property in the manner provided in the instrument." Before the adoption of these statutes, the California Supreme Court held in Estate of Armstrong [Estate of Armstrong (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 796, 17 Cal. Rptr. 138, 366 P.2d 490] that, absent a "clear and unambiguous direction" by the decedent of an intention to the contrary, the general rule of equitable proration applies so that the tax burden is equitably allocated among those who are benefitted [Estate of Armstrong (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 796, 800, 802, 17 Cal. Rptr. 138, 366 P.2d 490] . In Estate of Wathen [Estate of Wathen (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 48, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 805] , the Court of Appeal was asked to apply Estate of Armstrong to an ambiguous estate tax proration clause contained in a will that "poured over" the decedent's property to an inter vivos trust. Although it was clear that the will was intended to give directions with respect to tax proration, it was not clear how the directions were intended to apply. One of the beneficiaries under the trust argued that since the proration directions were was not clear and unambiguous, Estate of Armstrong required the court to apply the general rule of equitable proration and prohibited it from considering extrinsic evidence on the question. The trial court disagreed and admitted extrinsicevidence that the testator-settlor had intended by the will to require that all of the death taxes be paid out of the residue of the trust. The Court of Appeal agreed with the trial court, holding that Estate of Armstrong required the application of the general rule of equitable proration only when the dispositive instrument failed altogether to refer to tax proration. When the existence of a tax proration clause is clear but its terms are ambiguous, it is proper to consider extrinsic evidence to determine the decedent's intentions with respect to proration [Estate of Wathen (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 48, 53, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 805] .

The objecting beneficiary in Estate of Wathen offered a second objection to the trial court's ruling on proration. Since the proration clause was in the will and not in the inter vivos trust instrument, the beneficiary argued that the provision had no application to the trust assets. Again the Court of Appeal disagreed, pointing out that the will and the inter vivos trust instrument were executed on the same day and as part of an "integrated testamentary plan" intended to accomplish the same purpose. Accordingly, both documents had to be considered to determine whether the decedent had expressed a clear direction against statutory proration. When there is an "integrated testamentary plan" consisting of a will and a trust, it is sufficient if the tax proration directions are contained in either document; there is no requirement that they be contained in both [Estate of Wathen (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 48, 53-54, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 805] .

[3] Adjustments to General Proration Formula for Credits, Deductions, Exemptions, Interest, and Penalties

In making a proration of the federal estate tax or of the federal or California GST tax, allowances must be made for credits, exemptions, and deductions allowed for the purpose of determining the tax payable [Prob. Code §§ 20112(a) (estate tax), 20212(a) (GST tax)]. In the case of federal estate taxes, these include credits allowed for state or foreign death taxes [Prob. Code § 20112(a)].

In making a proration of the California estate tax, allowances must be made for (1) credits (other than the credits for state death taxes paid) allowed by the federal estate tax law, and attributable to property located in California; and (2) exemptions and deductions allowed by the federal estate tax law for the purpose of determining the taxable estate, and attributable to property located in California [Prob. Code § 20112(b)].

In making a proration of any estate or GST tax, interest for extensions of estate taxes, and interest and penalties on any deficiency, must be charged to equitably reflect the benefits and burdens of the extension or deficiency, and of any tax deductions associated with the interest and penalties [Prob. Code §§ 20112(c) (estate tax), 20212(b) (GST tax)].

Former Prob. Code §§ 970, 972 (now see Prob. Code § 20112(a),(b)) have been interpreted to require federal estate taxes to be prorated only among those persons whose gifts or legacies actually create the tax [Estate of Lock (1981) 122 Cal. App. 3d 892, 901-902, 176 Cal. Rptr. 358 ; Estate of Pearson (1949) 90 Cal. App. 2d 436, 439, 203 P.2d 52] . Because the purpose of the proration statutes is to apportion the tax burden equitably among those whose gifts contribute to the tax burden, legacies that do not create or add to the tax are exempt from proration [Estate of Buckhantz (1953) 120 Cal. App. 2d 92, 99, 260 P.2d 794] . Property for which a marital deduction is taken does not contribute to the federal estate tax burden, and thus a marital deduction gift is exempt from proration under the statutory proration scheme [Estate of Wakefield (1968) 258 Cal. App. 2d 274, 277-279, 65 Cal. Rptr. 664 ; Estate of Buckhantz (1953) 120 Cal. App. 2d 92, 101-102, 260 P.2d 794 (dicta, martial deduction held not proper)].

It is arguable that a charitable bequest is also free from apportionment [see Estate of Neider (1966) 243 Cal. App. 2d 102, 109-111, 52 Cal. Rptr. 47 (dicta, determined only that residue, of which charity took 50 percent, should be calculated after proration of tax to all legatees; it could not be argued that testator intended equal tax burden, as it must be presumed that testator knew that gift to charity would be deducted from estate for estate tax purposes and must have intended gross equality or equality prior to taxes rather than net equality or equality after tax burden)]. Often, however, the testator will provide that taxes be paid from the residue, or that tax attributable to specific devises be paid from the residue. In those situations, a residuary charitable legatee will bear the burden of taxes [see, e.g., Estate of Silveira (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 604, 612-613, 197 Cal. Rptr. 121 (unambiguous instruction required that, because residue was insufficient to pay all taxes, deficiency be shared by all devisees and legatees, including charitable devisees)].

[4] Prorations for Trusts and Temporary Interests

If a trust is created or other provision made whereby a person (in the case of estate tax) or a transferee (in the case of GST tax) is given an interest in income, an estate for years or for life, or other temporary interest in property, the estate and GST tax on both the temporary interest and on the remainder or other interests in the property must be charged against and paid out of the corpus of the property without apportionment between remainders or other interests and the temporary estates [Prob. Code §§ 20113 (estate tax), 20213 (GST tax); but see I.R.C. § 2032A(c)(5); Prob. Code § 20114(c); Estate of Libeu (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 1436, 1443-1445, 253 Cal. Rptr. 456 (different rule applicable to apportionment of tax on early disposition of special use property held in trust)]. Prob. Code § 20113 does not create an exception to the general proration statute. Rather, it is a determination by the legislature that the most equitable approach to the proration of successive interests is to direct the allocable tax to the asset itself and to permit the impact of the payment to adjust itself between holders of the successiveinterests over time [see Estate of Malpas (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 1901, 1908-1910, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 806] .

An annuity is not an income interest for life qualifying for statutory exemptions from proration of estate tax under Prob. Code § 20113. The distinction between an annuity and a gift of an income interest that qualifies for exemption under Prob. Code § 20113 is that a qualifying gift of income is usually contingent, dependent on the existence of income, while an annuity is certain and payable out of a specific fund [Estate of Steele (1981) 113 Cal. App. 3d 106, 116-117, 169 Cal. Rptr. 635 (decided under former Prob. Code § 973)].

[5] Adjustments for Election Under I.R.C. § 2032A

If an election is made pursuant to I.R.C. § 2032A, the proration is to be based on the amount of federal estate tax that would be payable but for the election. The amount of the reduction in federal estate tax resulting from an election pursuant to I.R.C. § 2032A reduces the tax that is otherwise attributable to the qualified real property that is the subject of the election [Prob. Code § 20114(b)]. If the tax that is otherwise attributable to the "qualified real property," as defined in I.R.C. § 2032A [Prob. Code § 20114(a)], is reduced to zero, then any excess amount of reduction will reduce the tax otherwise payable with respect to the other property, and this amount is to be equitably prorated in accordance with Prob. Code § 20111 (discussed in § 452.13[1]) [Prob. Code § 20114(b)].

If additional federal estate tax is imposed under I.R.C. § 2032A(c) by reason of early disposition or cessation of qualified use, the additional tax will be a charge against the portion of the qualified real property to which the additional tax is attributable and will be equitably prorated among the persons interested in that portion of the qualified real property in proportion to their interests [Prob. Code § 20114(c); see Estate of Libeu (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 1436, 1443-1445, 253 Cal. Rptr. 456 (I.R.C. § 2032A(c) requires adjusted tax difference caused by recapture tax owed for special use value property held in trust to be allocated among trust beneficiaries in proportion to respective values of property interest held by each)].

Prob. Code § 20114 has no counterpart in the prior law, and makes clear that when an election is made under I.R.C. § 2032A, the qualified heirs who receive the qualified special use property also receive the entire benefit of the estate tax reduction resulting from the election. Similarly, Prob. Code § 20114(c) makes clear that they are responsible for any additional tax subsequently imposed because of an early disposition by the qualified heiror early cessation of the qualified use [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 20114]. For example, assume an estate in which, absent a special valuation election, each beneficiary receives property of equal value and shares equally in the prorated estate taxes. If one beneficiary makes a special valuation election that reduces the total estate tax, the amount of the reduction must be allocated entirely to that beneficiary, and the others must pay the amount for which they would have been liable in the absence of the special valuation election [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 20114].

For another example, assume a decedent dies in 1986, leaving an estate consisting of $500,000 cash and real property having a fair market value of $500,000 and a value of $250,000 under I.R.C. § 2032A. The decedent's will leaves the real property to A and the cash to B. Prob. Code § 20114 provides the following results [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 20114]:

- If no election is made under I.R.C. § 2032A, the taxable estate is $1,000,000. The estate tax is $190,000, which is prorated $95,000 to A and $95,000 to B.

- If an election is made under I.R.C. § 2032A, the taxable estate is $750,000. The estate tax is $92,500; the reduction is $97,500. A is credited with $95,000 against the fair market value proration. This represents the amount of the reduction in tax resulting from the election to the extent of the tax that would be attributable to the qualified real property but for the election. A pays no tax; and B pays the full tax of $92,500, which represents a reduction in B's liability of $2,500.

Prob. Code § 20114(b) assures that the qualified heir receiving the qualified real property receives the benefit of the tax relief under I.R.C. § 2032A up to the amount of the tax that would have been prorated to the fair market value of the qualified real property. B also benefits from the election, but no further compensating adjustment is required, except that if B shares in the devise with other persons, the tax obligation of each is reduced by a proportionate share of the $2,500 savings. If A causes the full additional tax to be assessed under I.R.C. § 2032A(c), application of Prob. Code § 20114(c) will cause the entire additional tax of $97,500 to be prorated to A. This is true even though B also benefited from the election under I.R.C. § 2032A [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 20114].

[6] Proration of Additional Tax on Excess Retirement Accumulations

Prob. Code § 20114.5(b) establishes the rule for prorating increases in estate tax due to "excess retirement accumulations." Under this rule, if the federal estate tax is increased under former I.R.C. § 4980A(d) or its predecessor, former I.R.C. § 4981A [see Prob. Code § 20114.5(a)(1)], the amount of the increase must be charged against the persons who receive the "excess retirement accumulation" that gives rise to the increase and must be equitably prorated among all persons who receive interests in qualified employer plans and individual retirement plans to which the excess retirement accumulation is attributable [Prob. Code §20114.5(b)]. As used in Prob. Code § 20114.5, "excess retirement accumulation" has the meaning given to it in former I.R.C. § 4980A(d)(3) [Prob. Code § 20114.5(a)(2)]. Note, however, that the tax on excess retirement accumulations was repealed by the Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997 [Pub. L. No. 105-34, § 1073(a), repealing I.R.C. § 4980A(d)] for estates of decedents dying after December 31, 1996. Thus, only the estates of decedents dying prior to that date face any potential liability for this added tax, and proration will be an issue only in those cases.

[7] Responsibility for Extended Estate Tax

If the payment of any portion of the federal estate tax is extended under the provisions of the federal estate tax law [see, e.g., I.R.C. §§ 6163(a), 6166], the amount of extended tax shall be a charge against the persons who receive the specific property that gives rise to the extensions [Prob. Code § 20115].

Prob. Code § 20115 ensures that the persons who receive property that gives rise to the extension of estate tax are the persons who benefit from the extension privilege and makes clear that when a decedent's estate consists of a closely held business with respect to which estate taxes may be extended, the deferred tax and any interest on that tax follow the business [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 20115; see Prob. Code § 20112 (allowance and charges for interest), discussed in § 452.13[3]]. If the persons who receive the property fail to pay the tax when due and the tax is collected from persons other than those to whom it is prorated, the persons from whom it was collected have a right of reimbursement against those to whom the tax is prorated [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 20115; see also Prob. Code §§ 20116, 20117, discussed in § 452.14 and § 452.15]. On the other hand, proration of an extended estate tax may be made prior to actual payment of the tax [see Recommendation Relating to Proration of Estate Taxes, 18 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 1131 (1986)].

§ 452.14 Tax on Property Not in Possession of Personal Representative

If all property does not come into the possession of the personal representative in the case of estate tax, or into possession of the trustee in the case of GST tax, the personal representative or trustee is entitled, and has the duty, to recover from the persons interested in the estate, or from the transferees, the proportionate amount of the estate or GST tax with which the persons or transferees are chargeable under Prob. Code §§ 20100-20125 or 20200-20225 [Prob. Code §§ 20116(a) (estate tax), 20214(a) (GST tax)]. Failure of the personal representative to make a good faith effort to collect taxes prorated against a person is a breach of the fiduciary obligation of the personal representative, for which the representative is personally liable and on the bond, if any [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 20116]. The court may by order direct payment of the amount of taxes owed by a person to the personal representative [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 20116; for discussion see § 452.16].

If the personal representative, in the case of estate tax, or the trustee, in the case of GST tax, cannot collect from any person interested in the estate or from any transferee the amount of an estate or GST tax apportioned to that person or transferee, the amount not recoverable shall be equitably prorated among the other persons interested in the estate, or among the other transferees, in the case of GST tax, who are subject to proration [Prob. Code §§ 20116(b) (estate tax), 20214(b) (GST tax)].

If a person is charged with or required to pay an estate or GST tax greater than the amount prorated to that person because another person does not pay the amount of estate or GST tax prorated to the other person, the person charged with or required to pay the greater amount has a right of reimbursement against the other person [Prob. Code §§ 20117(a) (estate tax), 20215(a) (GST tax)]. This right may be enforced through the personal representative in the case of estate tax, or through the trustee in the case of GST tax, in the personal representative's or trustee's discretion, or may be enforced directly by the person charged with or required to pay the greater amount, and for the purpose of direct enforcement the person is subrogated to the position of the personal representative or the trustee [Prob. Code §§ 20117(b) (estate tax), 20215(b) (GST tax); for discussion and forms for use in subrogated actions, see Ch. 536, Subrogation].

The personal representative, the trustee, or the person who has a right of reimbursement may commence a proceeding to have a court determine the right of reimbursement [Prob. Code §§ 20117(b) (estate tax), 20215(b) (GST tax)]. Prob. Code §§ 20120-20125 in the case of estate taxes or Prob. Code §§ 20220-20225 in the case of GST taxes (discussed in § 452.16), with changes necessary to make those provisions appropriate, govern the proceeding for determination of the right of reimbursement, and the court order determining the right of reimbursement is an enforceable judgment [Prob. Code §§ 20117(c) (estate tax), 20215(c) (GST tax)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

38-452 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 452.16

§ 452.16 Court Proceeding to Determine Proration

[1] Who May Commence

The personal representative or any person interested in the estate may commence a proceeding to have a court determine the proration of estate tax [Prob. Code § 20120(a)]. The trustee or any transferee may commence a proceeding to have a court determine the proration of GST tax [Prob. Code § 20220(a)]. In both cases, the proceeding is commenced by filing a verified petitionthat sets forth the jurisdictional facts and other facts necessary for the court to determine the proration [Prob. Code §§ 20121 (estate tax), 20221 (GST tax); see Prob. Code § 1021(a)(1) (requiring petitions to be verified)].

[2] Proper Court

The petition may be filed in the court in which the estate of the decedent was administered or, if no administration proceedings have been commenced, in the superior court of any county in which the estate of the decedent may be administered [Prob. Code §§ 20120(b) (estate tax), 20220(b) (GST tax)].

If proceedings for the administration of the decedent's estate are pending, the petition for determination of proration is combined with the administration proceedings, and if the petition is filed before final distribution, there will be no additional filing fee [Prob. Code §§ 20120(c) (estate tax), 20220(c) (GST tax)].

[3] Notice of Hearing of Petition

Not less than 30 days before the hearing, the petitioner must cause a notice of hearing and a copy of the petition to be mailed to the personal representative, or trustee, and to each person interested in the estate in the case of estate taxes, or to each transferee in the case of GST taxes, against whom prorated amounts may be charged pursuant to Prob. Code § 20123(a)(1) or 20223(a)(1), discussed in § 452.17 [Prob. Code §§ 20122(a) (estate tax), 20222(a) (GST tax); see Prob. Code § 1201 (petitioner otherwise entitled to notice need not give notice to self)]. In addition, not less than 30 days before the hearing, the petitioner must cause a summons and a copy of the petition to be served on each person interested in the estate or transferee who may be directed to pay prorated amounts pursuant to Prob. Code § 20123(a)(2) or 20223(a)(2), discussed in § 452.17 [Prob. Code § 20122(b) (estate tax), 20222(b) (GST tax)]. The summons must be in the form and served in the manner prescribed in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 410.10-418.11 [Prob. Code §§ 20122(b) (estate tax), 20222(b) (GST tax); see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

§ 452.17 Court Order to Effectuate Proration

On determining the proration, the court must make an order for the following [Prob. Code §§ 20123(a) (estate tax), 20223(a) (GST tax)]:

- Directing the personal representative, or in the case of GST taxes, the trustee, to charge the persons or transferees against whom an estate or GST tax has been prorated the prorated amounts insofar as the personal representative or trustee is in possession of any property or interests of the persons or transferees against whom the charge may be made; and

- Summarily directing all other persons or transferees against whom an estate or GST tax has been prorated to pay the prorated amounts to the personal representative, or in the case of GST tax, to the trustee.

The court's order or refusal to make an order is appealable [Prob. Code § 1300(c)]. If an order of proration is made, it is a judgment enforceable against the person against whom an estate or GST tax has been prorated [Prob. Code §§ 20123(b) (estate tax), 20223(b) (GST tax)].

The order prorating an estate tax includes interest and penalties [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 20123; see Prob. Code § 20112 (adjustments)]. Costs of enforcing a proration order are recoverable under Code Civ. Proc. § 685.040 [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 20116].

§ 452.18 Modification of Proration Order

Whenever it appears that the amount of estate or GST tax as actually determined is different from the amount of estate or GST tax on which the court based an order determining proration, the court must, on the petition of the personal representative, trustee, transferee, or any person interested in the estate, modify its original order [Prob. Code §§ 20124 (estate tax), 20224 (GST tax)].

Prob. Code § 20124 provides for the possibility that subsequent to the making of an order, the taxes may be adjusted as the result of audit or the filing of an amended return. It does not apply to any additional tax under I.R.C. § 2032A(c) resulting from a disposition or cessation of qualified use of specially valued property [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 20124; see Prob. Code § 20114(c) (responsibility for additional tax under I.R.C. § 2032A(c))].

Prob. Code § 20124 does not provide a limitation period for modification of a proration order; the matter is left to laches and other equitable doctrines within the discretion of the court [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 20124].

§ 452.19 Action by Foreign Representative or Trustee

A personal representative in the case of estate tax, or a trustee in the case of GST tax, acting or resident in another state may commence an action in California to recover from a person interested in the estate, or from a transferee, who either is resident in California or owns property in California, the amount of the federal estate or GST tax, or an estate or GST tax or death duty payable to another state, apportioned to the person [Prob. Code §§ 20125(a) (estate tax), 20225(a) (GST tax); see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1710.10-1710.65 (enforcement of sister-state money judgments, discussed in Ch. 318, Judgments, § 318.180 et seq.]. The action is commenced in the superior court of any county in which administration of the estate of the decedent would be proper or, if none, in which any defendant resides [Prob. Code §§ 20125(b) (estate tax), 20225(a) (GST tax)]. For purposes of the action the apportionment by the court having jurisdiction of the administration of the decedent's estate in the other state is prima facie correct [*Prob. § 452.41 Decisions

[1] Adjustments

Statutory proration scheme ordinarily requires federal estate taxes to be prorated onlyamong those whose gifts or legacies create tax. Hoover v. Hartman (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 1019, 1029, 186 Cal. Rptr. 669 (decided under former Prob. Code § 970); Security First Nat. Bank v. Wellslager (1948) 88 Cal. App. 2d 210, 213-214, 198 P.2d 700 (decided under former Prob. Code § 970)

[2] Delinquent Taxes

Prob. Code § 20113 proration rule is applicable to interest payments on delinquent taxes as well as tax payment itself. Simpson v. White (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 814, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 361

[3] Direction Usurping Statutory Scheme

Unless testator specifically directs otherwise, apportionment is required even if proration would frustrate testator's donative intent. Estate of Malpas (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 1901, 1906, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 806

Ambiguity regarding term "residue" requires admission of extrinsic evidence. Hoover v. Hartman (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 1019, 1027, 186 Cal. Rptr. 669 (decided under former Prob. Code § 970)

Direction that trustee pay trust's ratable share of tax out of principal is not direction usurping proration. California First Bank v. Townsend (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 922, 933, 177 Cal. Rptr. 723 (decided under former Prob. Code § 970); Security First Nat. Bank v. Wellslager (1948) 88 Cal. App. 2d 210, 219, 198 P.2d 700 (decided under former Prob. Code § 970)

Specific bequest does not imply that gift is to pass free of burden of its share of taxes. California First Bank v.

Townsend (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 922, 930-932, 177 Cal. Rptr. 723 (decided under former Prob. Code § 970)

Court of appeal is not bound by trial court's interpretation of ambiguous direction when extrinsic evidence is not in conflict and no issue of credibility is involved; in this situation, appellate court may make independent interpretation. Estate of Steele (1981) 113 Cal. App. 3d 106, 117, 169 Cal. Rptr. 635

Admission of extrinsic evidence in absence of instruction regarding payment of taxes is error; when there is no instruction, taxes must be prorated in accordance with statutory scheme. Estate of Hendricks (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 204, 209, 89 Cal. Rptr. 748 (decided under former Prob. Code § 970)

Direction for payment of taxes by estate requires payment from residue before its division, and charitable residuary legatee's share was not to be exempted, or calculated without respect to charges for tax, as it might have been under statutory proration. Estate of McAuliffe (1955) 132 Cal. App. 2d 476, 481-482, 282 P.2d 541 (decided under former Prob. Code § 972)

Direction that taxes and expenses be paid by estate and not chargeable to beneficiaries usurps proration; by putting taxes in same category as expenses, direction to usurp proration was clear. Estate of McAuliffe (1955) 132 Cal. App. 2d 476, 479, 480, 282 P.2d 541 (decided under former Prob. Code § 970)

[4] Trusts and Temporary Interests

Prob. Code § 20113, allocating estate tax between successive interests, applies even though it requires sale of asset. Estate of Malpas (1992) 7 Cal. App.4th 1901, 1908-1910, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 806 (house must be sold and sale proceeds divided between life tenant and remainder holder)

[2] Use of Form

This petition is for use by the personal representative, or by any person interested in the estate, to petition the court in which the estate is being administered for a determination of the proration of estate taxes [Prob. Code § 20120(a)]. This form is phrased as if the estate had not yet been distributed, but a petition for proration may be brought at any time, and the form may be adapted for use at other times, including when no estate administration has been commenced [see Prob. Code § 20120(b) (see § 452.16[2])].

The proration calculations in Paragraphs 8 and 9 assume that the marital and charitable gifts are exonerated from proration to the extent of any marital deduction or charitable deduction taken on the federal return [see § 452.13[3]].

When the proceeding to determine proration is brought during the pendency of the administration of the decedent's estate, the petition is combined with the administration proceedings, and if the petition is filed before distribution, there is no additional filing fee [Prob. Code § 20120(c)].

[3] Court Action Required

On determining the proration, the court must make an order (1) directing the personal representative to charge the persons against whom an estate tax has been prorated the prorated amounts insofar as the personal representative is in possession of any property or interests of those persons, and (2) summarily directing all other persons against whom an estate tax has been prorated to pay the prorated amounts to the personal representative [Prob. Code § 20123(a)].

The court's order or refusal to make an order is appealable [Prob. Code § 1300(c)].

[4] Contents of Petition

The petition for determination of proration must set forth the jurisdictional facts (Paragraph 1) and other facts necessary for the court to determine the proration (Paragraphs 2-10) [Prob. Code § 20121].

[5] Verification

This petition must be verified by the petitioner [Prob. Code § 1021(a)(1)] or, if more than one person joins in the petition, by any one of them [Prob. Code § 1021(b)(1); see also Prob. Code § 1021(b)(1), 1023 (when verification may be made by petitioner's attorney)].

[6] Summons and Notice of Hearing

Not less than 30 days before the hearing, the petitioner must cause a notice ofhearing and a copy of the petition to be mailed to the personal representative and to each person interested in the estate against whom prorated amounts may be charged pursuant to Prob. Code § 20123(a)(1) [Prob. Code § 20122(a); see Prob. Code § 1201 (petitioner who is entitled to notice need not give notice to self)].

Not less than 30 days before the hearing, the petitioner also must cause a summons and a copy of the petition to be served on each person interested in the estate who may be directed to pay prorated amounts pursuant to Prob. Code § 20123(a)(2). The summons must be in the form and served in the manner prescribed in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 410.10-418.11 [Prob. Code § 20122(b); see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

[7] Reimbursement and Property Not in Possession of Representative

When all property of the taxable estate does not come into the possession of the personal representative, as may be the case, for instance, with joint tenancy property, the personal representative is entitled, and has the duty, to recover from the persons interested in the estate, for example, a surviving joint tenant, the proportionate amount of the estate tax with which those persons are chargeable [Prob. Code § 20116(a)]. Prob. Code § 20116 does not specify any particular type of proceeding for the personal representative to use to collect, but the Law Revision Commission's Comment on the section refers to Prob. Code § 20123 and states that the court may order direct payment of the amount of taxes owed by a person to the personal representative [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 20116]. A person from whose interest an excess share of taxes is paid, or against whose interest an excess is charged, is entitled to reimbursement from the persons who never paid, or whose interests were never charged with, their share of prorated taxes [Prob. Code § 20117(a)]. In seeking to collect the taxes charged against property that never came into his or her possession, a personal representative is in effect enforcing the right of reimbursement that the persons whose interests actually bore the burden of the taxes have against those who took outside probate without paying their share of taxes. The personal representative has the authority to enforce the right of reimbursement on behalf of a person interested in the estate [Prob. Code § 20117(b)], and may exercise that authority by bringing a proceeding under Prob. Code §§ 20120-20125 [Prob. Code § 20117(c)].

Thus, with the addition of appropriate allegations describing the extent to which property not in the possession of the personal representative was chargeable with tax and/or the extent to which efforts to collect that amount had been unsuccessful, the foregoing form of petition could be modified for use in situations addressed by Prob. Code §§ 20116 and 20117.

SPECIAL ALERT TO CHAPTER 453 Status of the Federal Estate Tax, GST Tax, and Gift Tax in 2010

38-453SA California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated Scope

Scope

Background:

The Economic Growth and Tax Relief Reconciliation Act (EGTRRA), enacted in 2001, provided for gradual increases in estate and gift tax exemption amounts and decreases in maximum tax rates. That law mandated repeal, only for the year 2010, of the estate tax and generation-skipping transfer tax, but not the gift tax. It was long assumed that this repeal would never be permitted--that Congress would act to either extend the law as it existed in 2009, or possibly enact a new law on a similar basis but with different exclusion and tax rates.

As late as December 2009, Congress expressed its intent to pass legislation to prevent repeal. However, Congress failed to act and, as of this writing, there is no estate tax or generation-skipping transfer (GST) tax.

EGTRRA also provided that, in 2011, the estate tax and GST tax would be reinstated, but with only a $1 million applicable exclusion amount for each.

The estate tax applicable exclusion amount was $3.5 million per person in 2009, and the GST tax exemption was also $3.5 million. In 2010, both taxes were repealed, allowing unlimited bequests free of these taxes.

Unlike the estate and GSTs taxes, the gift tax was not repealed for 2010. The amount of lifetime gifts that may be made free from gift tax using the gift tax applicable exclusion amount (after any annual gift tax exclusion amounts) remains at $1 million in 2010, and any excess is subject to tax at the highest individual income tax rate, currently 35 percent. The maximum rate for federal estate tax and GST tax in 2009 was 45 percent. Because of the repeal, there is no estate or GST tax in 2010. In 2011, if new legislation is not enacted, the estate tax and GST tax each will carry a maximum rate of 55 percent, and the maximum rate for gift tax will climb to 55 percent.

The annual gift tax exclusion amount permits individuals to make gifts up to that amount, per donee, without incurring gift tax or using any of their lifetime applicable exclusion amount against estate and gift tax. This exclusion remains at $13,000 per donee in 2010. Because a husband and wife may agree to combine their gifts, together they will be able to gift $26,000 to each done in 2010. The annual gift tax exclusion with respect to gifts made to non-citizen spouses is $134,000 in 2010.

Another effect of EGTRRA in 2010 was to significantly limit the step-up in basis of appreciated assets that had long been granted to the beneficiary of a decedent. In 2010, the beneficiary will receive a step-up only for the first $1.3 million of unrealized gain or appreciation. A surviving spouse will receive a step-up in the basis of acquired assets for an additional $3 million of unrealized gain or appreciation. Assets exceeding this amount take a carryover basis, thus making it much more likely for at least part of the distribution to be subject to capital gains tax. The gift tax laws have always conveyed a carryover basis; the step-up in basis for property acquired from a decedent had long been a benefit to a decedent's beneficiaries. Allocation of the stepped-up basis will be made by the executor or trustee. It is anticipated that administrative difficulties will arise, in terms of determining and reporting the basis of assets when acquired as well as their fair market value at the time of decedent's death.

Planning Ideas and Cautions:

Certain estate planning techniques require caution, in light of the unknown future of the estate and GST taxes.

One major caution concerns wills that use a formula to divide an estate between marital and by-pass trusts. If the by-pass trust is not capped, i.e., if the formula does not set a maximum funding for the by-pass trust, the portion intended for the surviving spouse may be largely or entirely depleted.

Similarly, a will that defines a charitable bequest in terms of the charitable deduction allowed under the now-repealed estate tax laws may produce unintended results.

Other techniques are still viable, whether there is an estate tax or not.

For example, a discounted and leveraged gift of a residence or second home may still be effected through a qualified personal residence trust (QPRT). The donor may reside in the home until the end of the QPRT, and may even be able to lease back the property at fair market value from the new owners.

The donor of a gift to a charitable remainder trust may retain a life payment of up to 90 percent of the value of the gifted property. The donor would receive an income tax deduction equal to the value of the gifted property not retained. There is no gain or loss recognized by the charitable remainder trust on sale of the property. Payments to the donor from the trust will be taxed partly as income, partly as capital gain; it is possible that a portion of the payments will be considered a distribution from principal and thus not taxable.

If new legislation is not enacted, the GST tax exemption will drop to $1 million in 2011. Therefore, it might be expedient to make lifetime gifts now. Of course, if Congress acts before the end of 2010, this strategy may lose its effectiveness.

PART I. SCOPE

38-453 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 453.01

§ 453.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses the preparation of the United States Estate and Generation-Skipping Transfer Tax Return (IRS Form 706) and the payment of the federal estate tax and any generation-skipping transfer tax by a decedent's estate or a trust from which a taxable direct skip occurred as a result of the decedent's death. Note that generation-skipping transfer tax liability also may arise because of taxable distributions or taxable terminations that resulted from or at the same time as a decedent's death, but those are not addressed here [see Treas. Reg. § 26.2662-1(b)(1), (2); IRS Forms 706GS(D), 706GS(D-1), 706GS(T)].

The Legal Background discussion provides a brief discussion of the nature and method of computing and reporting the taxes [see § 453.10 et seq.]. The Research Guide lists related provisions of the Internal Revenue Code and Treasury Regulations to which the practitioner may wish to refer directly [see § 453.60 et seq.].

The August 2005 version of the estate and generation-skipping transfer tax return, IRS Form 706, and related instructions, are reproduced in their entirety [§§ 453.190, 453.191]. Also included is the federal estate and generation-skipping transfer tax return for nonresident aliens, and the instructions to it [see § 453.192].

This chapter also contains forms that are necessary in some cases for supplementation of the estate and generation-skipping transfer tax return [see §§ 453.193 -453.195, 467- 469], the determination of the amount of tax due and the release of the personal representative of the estate from personal liability for the tax [see § 453.196], and the extension of the time for filing the return and/or for the payment of the tax [see § 453.197].

For detailed analysis and commentary of federal estate and generation-skipping transfer taxes, see Rabkin and Johnson, Federal Income, Gift, And Estate Taxation(Matthew Bender). See also California Probate Practice, Ch. 15, Taxation of Estates (Matthew Bender). For a good basic overview of the structure and operation of the federal estate and gift tax, see California Wills & Trusts, Ch. 2, Overview of Tax Laws Affecting the Disposition of Estates (Matthew Bender).

This chapter also discusses the preparation of the California Estate Tax Return (State Form ET-1) and, if needed for the estate of a nonresident who died owning property in California, the California Declaration Concerning Residence (IT-2) [see § 453.40 et seq.]. The discussion relates to the payment of the California estate tax as it applies to estates of decedents who died after 8:00 p.m. on June 8, 1982. California imposes a generation-skipping transfer tax, but not on "direct skips," which are the only type of generation-skipping transfers reportable on the federal estate and generation-skipping transfer tax return (IRS Form 706) [see I.R.C. § 2604(a) (no credit allowed for state generation-skipping transfer tax paid that was attributable to direct skip occurring at same time as and as result of death); Rev. & Tax. Code § 16710 (imposing California generation-skipping transfer tax to extent of federal credit allowed for it under I.R.C. § 2604)]. Thus, the California generation-skipping transfer tax is not discussed.

California generation-skipping transfer tax may be due on taxable terminations or taxable distributions that occur at the same time as or as a result of the decedent's death [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 16702 (adopting federal definitions of transfers), 16751 (imposing tax)], but those types of terminations or distributions are not discussed in this chapter.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Federal Estate And Generation-Skipping Taxes

38-453 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 453.10

§ 453.10 Nature and Structure of Federal Estate Tax

[1] Basic Structure

The federal estate tax is imposed on the transmission, as distinguished from the receipt, of the property of the deceased [Treas. Reg. § 20.0-2(a)]. The estate tax is not a tax on the property itself. The tax is measured by the value of the property transferred.

A single, unified transfer tax is imposed on estates and gifts [see I.R.C. §§ 2001, 2501]. The unified tax rates are progressive [see I.R.C. § 2001; see also I.R.C. § 2502(a), before amendment by Pub. Law 107-16; see also Table A in Instructions for IRS Form 706]. The estate tax is repealed for decedents dying after 2009 [I.R.C. § 2210]. For taxable gifts made after 2009, a gift tax will be imposed, but the gift tax rates will range from 18 percent (for taxable gifts of less than $10,000) to 35 percent (for taxable gifts exceeding $500,000) [I.R.C. § 2502(a)].

The Economic Growth and Tax Relief Reconciliation Act (EGTRRA) [Pub. Law 107-16, 115 Stat. 38], enacted in 2001, had a substantial impact on the estate tax. However, in the absence of further Congressional action, this law will be inapplicable to the estates of decedents dying, gifts made, or generation-skipping transfers made, after December 31, 2010 [Pub. Law 107-16, § 901]. For additional discussion of the status of the federal estate tax in 2010, see § 453.10[4].

[2] Unified Credit

A unified credit applies to both gifts and estates. The estate and gift tax unified credit are the same through 2003 [I.R.C. §§ 2010(c), 2505(a)(1)]. The gift tax unified credit effective exemption amount remains $1 million after 2003 [I.R.C. § 2505(a)(1)]. The estate tax unified credit effective exemption amount increases after 2003, as noted in the table below [I.R.C. § 2010(c)]. Although different in amount after 2003, the two credits are still "unified" in that any gift tax unified credit used during a taxpayer's life reduces the available estate tax unified credit available to that taxpayer's estate [see I.R.C. §§ 2010(c), 2505].

The amount of the unified credit depends on the year a gift is made or the year a decedent dies. The unified credit shelters a specified amount--referred to as the "applicable credit amount"--from gift or estate taxation. The "applicable credit amount" is the amount of credit that will exclude the "applicable exclusion amount" according to the following table [I.R.C. § 2010(c)]:

Year Decedent Died and Gifts Made	Applicable Exclusion Amount
Before 1998	$600,000
1998	$625,000
1999	$650,000
2000 and 2001	$675,000
2002 and 2003	$1,000,000

After 2003, the gift tax unified credit exemption amount remains at $1 million [I.R.C. § 2505(a)(1)]. The estate tax unified credit exemption amount is as follows [I.R.C. § 2010(c)]:

Estate Tax Unified Credit Exemption Amount

Year Decedent Died	Applicable Exclusion Amount
2004-2005	$1.5 million
2006-2008	$2 million
2009	$3.5 million
2010	N/A (estate tax repealed)

The unified credit against estate taxes works in conjunction with the unified credit against gift taxes. To the extent that the gift tax credit is depleted by lifetime gifts, however, the amount of the estate tax credit is reduced. If none of the gift tax credit is used during the decedent's lifetime, an estate tax credit equal to the full "applicable exclusion amount" will be available on the decedent's death. If part of the gift tax credit is used during the decedent's lifetime, only part of the estate tax credit will be available on the decedent's death [see I.R.C. §§ 2010(c), 2505(a)].

[3] Computation of Tax

Computation of the tax is made on the Tax Computation section of the United States Estate and Generation-Skipping Transfer Tax Return (IRS Form 706). First, a tentative tax is computed under the unified rate schedule by applying the schedule to the sum of decedent's taxable estate (gross estate minus deductions provided by I.R.C. §§ 2051-2058) and the amount of taxable gifts (within the meaning of I.R.C. § 2503) made by the decedent after 1976 that are not already included in decedent's gross estate ("adjusted taxable gifts"). Estate tax rates begin at 18 percent. The maximum rate is 55 percent for decedents dying before 2002, 50 percent for decedents dying in 2002, 49 percent for decedents dying in 2003, 48 percent for decedents dying in 2004, 47 percent for decedents dying in 2005, 46 percent for decedents dying in 2006, and 45 percent for decedents dying in 2007 through 2009 [I.R.C. § 2001(c)(1), (2)]; however, due to the effect of the unified credit, the very first dollar actually exposed to tax is taxed at a 37 percent rate [see I.R.C. § 2001(c)]. The graduated rates below 37 percent have no practical application except in the case of nonresident aliens, who have a lower unified credit [see I.R.C. § 2102(b)].

If the tax base exceeds $10 million and the decedent died before January 1, 1998, an additional 5 percent tax is imposed on any amount over $10 million but less than $21.04 million [see I.R.C. § 2001(c)(2) before amendment by Pub. L. No. 105-34, § 501(a)(1)(D)]. If the tax base exceeds $10 million and the decedent died on or after January 1, 1998, and before January 1, 2002, the maximum amount to which the additional 5 percent tax applies will increase each year that the "applicable exclusion amount" [see I.R.C. § 2010(c) (table of graduated amounts)] increases until it reaches an amount at which the average rate of tax is 55 percent [see I.R.C. § 2001(c)(2), before repeal by Pub. Law 107-16, § 511(b)]. The effect of this additional 5 percent tax is to reduce the tax savings provided by the unified credit for large estates, and ultimately eliminate the unified credit entirely for estates above the maximum amount [I.R.C. § 2001(c)(2), before repeal by Pub. Law 107-16, § 511(b)]. This phaseout of the graduated rates and unified credit is repealed for estates of decedents dying and gifts made after December 31, 2001 [I.R.C. § 2001(c)(2), repealed by Pub. Law 107-16, § 511(b)].

The total tentative tax is then reduced by the aggregate amount of gift taxes payable on post-1976 gifts made by the decedent [I.R.C. § 2001(b)(2)]. The amount thus derived is referred to as the gross federal estate tax. The gross federal estate tax is then reduced by various credits, including the unified credit, to arrive at the net estate tax [see I.R.C. §§ 2010-2015 (credits)]. Then, any generation-skipping transfer tax payable by the estate [I.R.C. §§ 2603, 2662; Treas. Reg. § 26.2662-1(b), (c); see IRS Form 706, Schedule R] is added to determine the estate's total liability.

[4] Status of Federal Estate Tax, GST Tax, and Gift Tax in 2010

[a] Background and Effect of 2001 Legislation

The Economic Growth and Tax Relief Reconciliation Act (EGTRRA) [Pub. Law 107-16, 115 Stat. 38], enacted in 2001, provided for gradual increases in estate and gift tax exemption amounts and decreases in maximum tax rates. That law mandated repeal, only for the year 2010, of the estate tax and generation-skipping transfer tax, but not the gift tax. It was long assumed that this repeal would never be permitted, that Congress would act to either extend the law as it existed in 2009, or possibly enact a new law on a similar basis but with different exclusion and tax rates.

As late as December 2009, Congress expressed its intent to pass legislation to prevent repeal. However, Congress failed to act and, as of early 2010, there is no estate tax or generation-skipping transfer (GST) tax.

EGTRRA also provided that, in 2011, the estate tax and GST tax would be reinstated, but with only a $1 million applicable exclusion amount for each.

The estate tax applicable exclusion amount was $3.5 million per person in 2009, and the GST tax exemption was also $3.5 million. In 2010, both taxes were repealed, allowing unlimited devises free of these taxes.

Unlike the estate and GST taxes, the gift tax was not repealed for 2010. The amount of lifetime gifts that may be made free from gift tax using the gift tax applicable exclusion amount (after any annual gift tax exclusion amounts) remains at $1 million in 2010, and any excess is subject to tax at the highest individual income tax rate, currently 35 percent. The maximum rate for federal estate tax and GST tax in 2009 was 45 percent. Because of the repeal, there is no estate or GST tax in 2010. In 2011, if new legislation is not enacted, the estate tax and GST tax each will carry a maximum rate of 55 percent, and the maximum rate for gift tax will climb to 55 percent.

The annual gift tax exclusion amount permits individuals to make gifts up to that amount, per donee, without incurring gift tax or using any of their lifetime applicable exclusion amount against estate and gift tax. This exclusion remains at $13,000 per donee in 2010. Because a husband and wife may agree to combine their gifts, together they will be able to gift $26,000 to each done in 2010. The annual gift tax exclusion with respect to gifts made to non-citizen spouses is $134,000 in 2010.

Another effect of EGTRRA in 2010 was to significantly limit the step-up in basis of appreciated assets that had long been granted to the beneficiary of a decedent. In 2010, the beneficiary will receive a step-up only for the first $1.3 million of unrealized gain or appreciation. A surviving spouse will receive a step-up in the basis of acquired assets for an additional $3 million of unrealized gain or appreciation. Assets exceeding this amount take a carryover basis, thus making it much more likely for at least part of the distribution to be subject to capital gains tax. The gift tax laws have always conveyed a carryover basis; the step-up in basis for property acquired from a decedent had long been a benefit to a decedent's beneficiaries. Allocation of the stepped-up basis will be made by the executor or trustee. It is anticipated that administrative difficulties will arise, in terms of determining and reporting the basis of assets when acquired as well as their fair market value at the time of decedent's death.

[b] Planning Ideas and Cautions

Certain estate planning techniques require caution, in light of the unknown future of the estate and GST taxes.

One major caution concerns wills that use a formula to divide an estate between marital and by-pass trusts. If the by-pass trust is not capped, i.e., if the formula does not set a maximum funding for the by-pass trust, the portion intended for the surviving spouse may be largely or entirely depleted.

Similarly, a will that defines a charitable bequest in terms of the charitable deduction allowed under the now repealed estate tax laws may produce unintended results.

Other techniques are still viable, whether there is an estate tax or not.

For example, a discounted and leveraged gift of a residence or second home may still be effected through a qualified personal residence trust (QPRT). The donor may reside in the home until the end of the QPRT, and may even be able to lease back the property at fair market value from the new owners.

The donor of a gift to a charitable remainder trust may retain a life payment of up to 90 percent of the value of the donated property. The donor would receive an income tax deduction equal to the value of the donated property not retained. There is no gain or loss recognized by the charitable remainder trust on sale of the property. Payments to the donor from the trust will be taxed partly as income, partly as capital gain; it is possible that a portion of the payments will be considered a distribution from principal and thus not taxable.

If new legislation is not enacted, the GST tax exemption will drop to $1 million in 2011. Therefore, it might be expedient to make lifetime gifts now. Of course, if Congress acts before the end of 2010, this strategy may lose its effectiveness.

Chapter 453 PROBATE: ESTATE TAX
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Federal Estate And Generation-Skipping Taxes

38-453 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 453.11

§ 453.11 Nature and Measure of Federal Generation-Skipping Transfer Tax

NOTE REGARDING GENERATION-SKIPPING TRANSFER TAX REPEAL:

The generation-skipping transfer tax (GST tax) has been repealed, effective for generation-skipping transfers after 2009 [I.R.C. § 2664]. Similarly, the estate tax has been repealed, effective for decedents dying after 2009 [I.R.C. § 2210(a)]. However, under a sunset provision of the 2001 legislation that enacted the repeals, all provisions of the legislation--including the repeal of the GST tax and the estate tax--do not apply to generation-skipping transfers, or to estates of decedents dying, after December 31, 2010 [Pub. Law 107-16, § 901]. Thus, unless the provisions repealing the GST tax and estate tax are re-enacted before 2010, the GST tax law in effect before enactment of the 2001 legislation will apply once again after 2010 [see Pub. Law 107-16, § 901; see I.R.C. §§ 2601 through 2663, before amendment by Pub. Law 107-16]. Most commentators believe that significant changes will be made to the estate tax law, and probably the GST tax; however, as of early 2010, Congress had yet to pass any such legislation.

For now, planning around the GST tax after 2001 involves to some degree guessing how long a client will live. For transfers made in 2010, under the law as currently constituted, no GST tax will be due [I.R.C. § 2264]. For clients who are likely to live past 2010 and make taxable transfers after that time, the same GST tax considerations apply as under the law that was in effect before the 2001 legislation because the law will be the same [Pub. Law 107-16, § 901].

For additional discussion of the GST tax and the status of the federal estate tax in 2010, see § 453.10[4].

The federal generation-skipping transfer tax [I.R.C. §§ 2601-2664] is separate and distinct from the federal estate tax. It is designed to ensure that a transfer tax is paid at each generational level in the line of a transfer of wealth, whether or not the intervening generations ever had any actual interest in the transferred property. Thus, it will apply in some circumstances under which no federal gift tax will be imposed (for example, when a trust created by a parent terminates on the death of a child who is a life income beneficiary, and the trust remainder passes to a grandchild), as well as to some transfers that are also subject to federal estate or gift tax (for example, direct transfers by grandparents to grandchildren whose parents are still living) [see I.R.C. §§ 2611(a), 2612].

The GST was first enacted in 1976, but the original version proved to be unworkable and was repealed retroactively in 1986 without ever having been enforced. In its present form, the GST tax is imposed on "generation-skipping transfers" [I.R.C. § 2601]. Generation-skipping transfers include "taxable terminations" [see I.R.C. § 2612(a)], "taxable distributions" [see I.R.C. § 2612(b)], and "direct skips" [I.R.C. § 2611(a); see I.R.C. § 2612(c)].

GST tax liability reportable on the federal estate and generation-skipping transfer tax return (IRS Form 706) is imposed only on transfers of property from decedent's taxable gross estate that occur as a result of decedent's death and are in the form of direct skips to a "skip person" [I.R.C. § 2612(c); see I.R.C. § 2613 (defining skip persons); Treas. Reg. § 26.2662-1(b)(3)(ii) (GSTs reportable on IRS Form 706)]. A "skip person" is a natural person assigned to a generation that is two or more generations below the generation assigned to the transferor [I.R.C. § 2613(a)(1)]. Trusts may also be skip persons [I.R.C. § 2613(a)(2)].

Unlike the federal estate and gift tax, the generation-skipping transfer tax does not utilize a graduated rate schedule. The GST is imposed at a flat rate, which is the maximum estate tax rate in effect at the time of the transfer multiplied by the inclusion ratio with respect to the transfer [I.R.C. § 2641]. The maximum estate tax rate is 55 percent for decedents dying before 2002, 50 percent for decedents dying in 2002, 49 percent for decedents dying in 2003, 48 percent for decedents dying in 2004, 47 percent for decedents dying in 2005, 46 percent for decedents dying in 2006, and 45 percent for decedents dying in 2007 through 2009 [I.R.C. § 2001(c)(1), (2)].

There is a GST lifetime exemption, which may be allocated by the decedent to lifetime gifts made by the decedent or by the personal representative on the estate tax return [I.R.C. §§ 2631(a), 2632(a)]. The GST exemption amount depends on the year of the transfer. The exemption amount is $1 million for 1998 [I.R.C. § 2631(a), before amendment by Pub Law 107-16], $1,010,000 in 1999, $1,030,000 for 2000 [see Rev Proc 99-42 , § 3.18, 1999-46 I.R.B. 568], and $1,060,000 for 2001 [see Rev Proc 2001-13 , § 3.18, 2001-3 I.R.B. 337]. The exemption amount for 2002 is $1,100,000 [Rev. Proc. 2001-59, 2001-52 I.R.B. 623] and for 2003 is $1,120,000 [Rev. Proc. 2002-70]. Beginning for generation-skipping transfers after 2003, the exemption amount is determined by the estate tax exclusion amount for the calendar year [I.R.C. § 2631(c)]. For 2004 and 2005, the estate tax exclusion amount is $1.5 million; for 2006 through 2008, the amount is $2 million; for 2009, the amount is $3.5 million [I.R.C. §§ 2010(c), 2631(a), (c)]. When a husband and wife make generation-skipping transfers, each is entitled to a separate exemption. Thus, married persons may transfer up to twice the amount of the GST exemption without subjecting any of the transfer to the GST tax [see I.R.C. § 2631(a)].

For further discussion of the GST tax, see § 453.21 explanation of the history and operation of the GST, see California Wills & Trusts, Ch. 113, Generation-Skipping Transfers and Trust Strategies (Matthew Bender).

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

38-453 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 453.12

§ 453.12 Estates for Which Returns Must Be Filed

The estate tax applies to the estate of any person who dies leaving property having a taxable situs within the United States. An estate and generation-skipping transfer tax return (IRS Form IRS Form 706) must be filed if the decedent's grossestate, plus adjusted taxable gifts and the specific exemption, exceeds the "applicable exclusion amount" [I.R.C. § 6018(a)(1), (3); see I.R.C. § 2010(c) (table of graduated amounts); see § 453.10; see also 453.191 (Instructions for IRS Form 706) for a more detailed description of this calculation].

In the case of a nonresident alien, an estate and generation-skipping transfer tax return (IRS Form 706) must be filed if the part of the gross estate that is situated in the United States, plus the sum of (1) the gift tax exemption allowed with respect to gifts made between September 9, 1976, and December 31, 1976, inclusive [see former I.R.C. § 2521], and (2) the total adjusted taxable gifts [see I.R.C. § 2001(b)] made after December 31, 1976, that are not included in the gross estate, exceeds $60,000 [I.R.C. §§ 2101-2108, 6018(a)(2); see I.R.C. §§ 2104, 2105 (situs rules)]. See § 453.192 for a reproduction of IRS Form 706.

A. Federal Estate And Generation-Skipping Taxes

38-453 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 453.13

§ 453.13 Property Included in Gross Estate

[1] In General

The starting point in determining the estate tax is the computation of the gross estate of the decedent. The value of the gross estate is determined by including, to the extent provided in I.R.C. §§ 2033-2045, the value at the time of the decedent's death (or on the alternate valuation date [see I.R.C. § 2032]) of all property, real or personal, tangible or intangible, wherever situated [I.R.C. § 2031; Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-1(a)].

Property that a decedent owns at death is the most obvious example of property that is included in the decedent's gross estate. This may include a home, investments, and bank accounts, but it may also extend to amounts owing to the decedent, such as the principal of any loans made by the decedent to another during life (plus accrued interest), accrued salary, and installment obligations owed to the decedent on property sold during life [see I.R.C. §§ 2031(a), 2033].

The decedent need not have owned the property solely or outright for it to be included in his or her gross estate. The value of a decedent's share of community property [see I.R.C. § 2033, see U.S. v. Goodyear (9th Cir. 1938) 99 F.2d 523] or his or her interest in property owned as a joint tenant with another [see I.R.C. § 2040], or the value of a future interest, may have to be included in the gross estate.

The gross estate may also include the value of property interests transferred during the decedent's lifetime when the transfer is, in effect, of a testamentary nature, as well as the value of property that is transmitted on account of the decedent's death and over which the decedent enjoyed the requisite ownership or control at death. Thus, property transferred in such lifetime transfers as transfers of life insurance [I.R.C. § 2042], revocable transfers [see I.R.C. § 2038], and transfers with a retained life estate [see I.R.C. § 2036] is included in valuing the gross estate.

Because the complex provisions of the Internal Revenue Code that describe the various categories of interests includable in the gross estate sometimes overlap and also contain similarities, the fact that a given property interest falls within a technical exclusion from one category does not prevent it from being included in the gross estate under another code provision. Similarly, a property interest may be included in the gross estate under more than one code provision, although its value is taken into account only once in computing the gross estate.

[2] Effect of State Law on Includability

It is often necessary to refer to state law in determining the includability of an interest in a decedent's gross estate. State law, for these purposes, includes both statutes and state court decisions interpreting statutes. In federal estate tax cases, state law determines the rights and interests of the parties, whereas federal law determines whether the rights and interests created are of a kind that are includable in the gross estate [see Estate of Davis (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 854, 857-858, 217 Cal. Rptr. 734 (federal estate tax law notwithstanding, IRA was not property of probate estate but of named beneficiary); see also Estate of Frazier v. Comm'r (9th Cir. 2003) 83 Fed. App. 164, 165 (structures built on decedent's property were not includable in decedent's gross estate because they were removable trade fixtures under California law)]. For example, state law will apply to determine whether a decedent has title to property, whereas federal law will determine the includability of that property in the decedent's gross estate.

Only the decisions of the highest court of a state have a binding effect for federal estate tax purposes [Commissioner v. Bosch (1967) 387 U.S. 456, 464-465, 87 S. Ct. 1776, 18 L. Ed. 2d 886] . The decision of the state's highest court may involve the actual interest to be reported on the decedent's estate tax return or it may involve a different case of precedent. It is not clear whether the denial of a hearing by the state's highest court of an appellate court decision is considered to be a decision of the state's highest court. Bosch, however, speaks of a decision of the state's highest court, and this would seem to indicate that the highest court must actually issue an opinion on the matter after an adversarial proceeding before that court.

Although lower state court decisions are not binding for estate tax purposes, in the absence of a decision by a state's highest court, lower state court decisions must be given some regard by a federal court [see Commissioner v. Bosch (1967) 387 U.S. 456, 464-465, 87 S. Ct. 1776, 18 L. Ed. 2d 886] . This principle does not apply to a determination of rights and interests settled by local adjudication and res judicata at a time before the occurrence of events raising a federal tax question [Rev. Rul. 73-142, 1973-1 C.B. 405]. In Revenue Ruling 1973-1, a grantor-decedent held a power that would have caused the property subject to the power to be included in the gross estate. A lower state court, however, had effectively extinguished the power in a decision rendered before the time of the event giving rise to the tax. The Internal Revenue Service ruled that the lower state court decision had to be followed in the subsequent tax controversy [Rev. Rul. 73-142, 1973-1 C.B. 405].

[3] Property in Which Decedent Had Interest

The value of the gross estate includes the value of all property to the extent of the decedent's interest therein at the time of his or her death [I.R.C. § 2033]. Property that the decedent beneficially owns at his or her death and that can pass by inheritance or under the terms of the decedent's will would be routinely included in his or her estate. Thus, if a decedent is the sole owner of real property, it is included in his or her estate whether it came into the possession and control of the personal representative or passed directly to heirs [Treas. Reg. § 20.2033-1(a)]. Tangible personal property, such as household and personal effects, and intangible property interests, such as the balance remaining in a personal checking and savings account, stocks and bonds, and certificates of deposit, owned solely by the decedent at his or her death, are includable in the gross estate. In addition, notes, items of income payable to the decedent, or other claims held by the decedent are included even though they are canceled by the decedent's will [Treas. Reg. § 20.2033-1(b)]. The interest of the decedent to which I.R.C. § 2033 applies is, of course, a beneficial interest [Treas. Reg. § 20.2033-1(a)].

If the decedent's interest in property terminates by reason of his or her death, it is not includable in the gross estate under I.R.C. § 2033, although it may be includable under another estate tax provision [see I.R.C. §§ 2036-2038]. The question of whether the decedent's interest has ceased at his or her death is concerned mainly with the duration of the decedent's interest and with interests that have begun to accrue or that have come into existence about the time of the decedent's death, but that have not yet come into the decedent's possession [see, e.g., Rev. Rul. 55-87, 1955-1 C.B. 112 ]. Wrongful death claims arising out of decedent's death are not includable [Rev. Rul. 54-19, 1954-1 C.B. 179], nor is income accrued after the date of death [see Treas. Reg. §§ 20.2031-4, 20.2033-1, 20.6018-3(b)].

[4] Concurrent Interests

[a] In General

Generally, if a decedent shares ownership of property with another that he or she can pass on to another at his or her death, the interest is within the scope of I.R.C. § 2033. Thus, the value of the decedent's fractional interest in property held as a tenant in common with another is includable in the gross estate because that interest will pass as the decedent directs by will or by the laws of intestacy [Smith v. Commissioner (1941) 45 B.T.A. 59, 63 , acq., 1942-1 C.B. 15].

A decedent's interest in community property is treated similarly because it is also an inheritable or bequeathable interest. One half of the community property is considered owned by the decedent and is thus includable in the gross estate [I.R.C. § 2034; Hurley v. Hartley (10th Cir. 1967) 379 F.2d 205, 207 ; see Eichstedt v. United States (N.D. Cal. 1972) 354 F. Supp. 484, 487-488] . The other one half of the community property belongs to the surviving spouse, does not devolve by reason of death, and is not includable in the gross estate [Trust Services of America, Inc. v. United States (9th Cir. 1989) 885 F.2d 561, 566 ; see Katz v. United States (9th Cir. 1967) 382 F.2d 723, 728] . Note that there is no separate schedule on IRS Form 706 for the decedent's community property interests. Community property interests are not includable on Schedule E. Instead, each asset held by the decedent and his or her spouse as community property should be included on the schedule on which it would be listed (for example, Schedule A for real property, Schedule B for stocks and bonds, etc.), with the descriptive notation that it was held as community property. Only the value of the decedent's half interest should be listed in the appropriate value column [see IRS Form 706, Instructions for Schedule E]. For a general discussion of the possible forms of community property, § 453.13[5], and Ch. 122, Community Property.

A decedent's interest in a joint tenancy or in a tenancy by the entirety is not within the scope of I.R.C. § 2033 as property in which the decedent had an interest. Nevertheless, those interests are includable in the gross estate by virtue of I.R.C. § 2040 [see § 453.13]. For a general discussion of joint tenancies, see Ch. 316, Joint Tenancy and Tenancy in Common .

[b] Joint Interests With Rights of Survivorship

Pursuant to I.R.C. § 2040, a decedent's gross estate includes the value of property held jointly at the time of the decedent's death by the decedent and another person or persons with rights of survivorship [I.R.C. § 2040(a)]. Joint interests with right of survivorship are reportable on Schedule E.

Contrary to ordinary property law, estate tax law regards the interests of joint tenants or tenants by the entirety as equal only if the property was acquired by gift, devise, bequest, or inheritance [Treas. Reg. § 20.2040-1(a)(1)]. In all other cases (with the exception of qualified joint interests, discussed below), on the death of a joint tenant the entire value of property owned in joint tenancy is included in a decedent's gross estate except to the extent that the personal representative can prove the amount of consideration used by the survivor to acquire his or her interest. Thus, if the decedent furnished the entire purchase price of the jointly owned property, the value of the entire property is included in his or her gross estate. If it can be demonstrated that the survivor furnished part of the purchase price, only a portion of the value of the property is included in the decedent's gross estate [I.R.C. § 2040(a)].

A special rule regarding inclusion in a decedent's gross estate applies for qualified joint interests in property [I.R.C. § 2040(b)]. A "qualified joint interest" is any interest in property held by the decedent and the decedent's spouse as (1) tenants by the entirety or (2) joint tenants with right of survivorship, when the decedent and the decedent's spouse are the only joint tenants [I.R.C. § 2040(b)(2)].

Only one-half of the value of a qualified joint interest in property is included in the decedent's gross estate [I.R.C. § 2040(b)(1)].

This special rule regarding qualified joint interests in property [see I.R.C. § 2040(b)(1)] generally does not apply if the surviving spouse of the decedent is not a citizen of the United States [I.R.C. § 2056(d)(1)(B)]. Therefore, the entire value of the property ordinarily will be included in the decedent's estate [see I.R.C. §§ 2040(a), 2056(b)(1)(B)]. The special rule regarding qualified joint interests in property [I.R.C. § 2040(b)] does apply, however, if the property passes to the non-U.S. citizen surviving spouse in a qualified domestic trust before the date the estate tax return is filed [I.R.C. § 2056(d)(2); see I.R.C. § 2056A (qualified domestic trust)].

[5] Community Property With Right of Survivorship

Effective July 1, 2001, California law permits spouses to hold title to real and personal property as community property with right of survivorship [Civ. Code § 682.1; but see Civ. Code § 682.1(b) (statute inapplicable to certain joint accounts)]. This form of title has all the tax benefits of community property, specifically a step-up in basis on both halves of the property on the death of one spouse [see I.R.C. § 1014(a)(1), (b)(6); see I.R.C. § 1022 (modified carryover basis applies for property received from decedents dying after 2009)], and a right of survivorship that allows the property to avoid probate administration and its attendant costs. One half of the community property held in this manner is includable in the decedent's gross estate [see I.R.C. § 2034, 2040(b)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 122, Community Property , and Ch. 316, Joint Tenancy and Tenancy in Common .

[6] Gifts Made Under California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act

If a decedent was the donor of a gift to a minor and was also the custodian, and was acting in that capacity at the time of his or her death, the gift will be included in the decedent's gross estate. The custodian's power to accumulate or distribute the income and custodial property [see Prob. Code § 3914] is sufficient retention of a power to alter, amend, revoke, or terminate within the meaning of I.R.C. § 2038 to require that property transferred in a revocable transfer by gift be included in the gross estate [Eichstedt v. United States (N.D. Cal. 1972) 354 F. Supp. 484, 487-488 ; Rev. Rul. 59-357, 1959-2 C.B. 212 ; Rev. Rul. 57-366, 1957-2 C.B. 618 ; see also Rev. Rul. 70-348, 1970-2 C.B. 193 (inclusion in estate of successor custodian)]. If the gift was not made with community property and the nondonor parent is made the custodian, the custodial property will not be included in either parent's estate, even if the spouses agreed to gift splitting [see Rev. Rul. 74-556, 1974-2 C.B. 300]. If the gift was made with community property, however, one half of the value of the custodial property will be included in the gross estate of the donor who dies while acting as custodian [Eichstedt v. United States (N.D. Cal. 1972) 354 F. Supp. 484, 487-488] .

Another unique aspect of the gift tax consequences of gifts to minors should be taken into account when calculating adjusted taxable gifts [see I.R.C. § 2001(b)]. Gifts of future interests, that is, interests that the donee cannot possess or enjoy until some time in the future, generally are not eligible for the federal gift tax annual exclusion [see I.R.C. § 2503(b)]. In the case of gifts made under the California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act (Prob. Code § 3900 et seq.), however, the gift will qualify for the annual gift tax exclusion unless the minor's possession of the custodial property is postponed until he or she is over the age of 21 [I.R.C. § 2503(c); see Prob. Code § 3920.5 (allowing postponement)].

For a general discussion of the Uniform Transfers to Minors Act, see Ch. 278, Gifts ; see also California Legal Forms, Ch. 60A, Gifts (Matthew Bender), and California Wills & Trusts, Ch. 28, Devises to Minors, § 28.04[3] (Matthew Bender).

[7] Successive Interests in Gross Estate

The value of a decedent's interest in a leasehold estate, life estate, remainder interest, or reversion may constitute a part of the gross estate if that interest did not terminate by reason of the decedent's death. Thus, the value of a life interest held by the decedent and created by another would not be includable in the gross estate because the interest would terminate as a result of the decedent's death [see Rev. Rul. 66-86, 1966-1 C.B. 216 ; Williams v U.S., (Ct. Cl. 1930) 41 F.2d 895] . Nevertheless, the value of a decedent's interest in a leasehold estate or an estate measured by another person's life is includable in the gross estate because either interest is inheritable or bequeathable. Any remainder interest or reversion held by the decedent at his or her death, whether or not contingent, is within the scope of I.R.C. § 2033 unless the interest is contingent on the decedent's survival [see Rev. Rul. 55-438, 1955-2 C.B. 601].

Contingent interests may present special problems with respect to whether the contingencies affect the includability of those interests in the gross estate or the valuation of those interests once they are identified as part of the gross estate. Generally, a contingency will affect the value of the interest, which will still be included in the gross estate [see Rev. Rul. 67-370, 1967-2 C.B. 324]. Only interests subject to contingencies that are extremely remote will be excluded from the gross estate [see Estate of Williams (1974) 62 T.C. 400, 410] .

[8] Life Insurance in Gross Estate

[a] Policies on Decedent's Life

The proceeds of insurance policies on a decedent's life are includable in the gross estate on either of the following conditions [I.R.C. § 2042]:

- The proceeds are receivable by or for the benefit of the estate, regardless of who possessed the incidents of ownership over the policy or who paid the premiums. The estate does not have to be specifically named as the beneficiary under the terms of the policy to have the proceeds includable in the gross estate. Proceeds are deemed receivable by the executor if they are receivable by another beneficiary but are subject to a leally binding obligation to pay taxes, debts, or other charges enforceable against the estate. In such a case, the amount includable in the gross estate is the amount required to pay the taxes, debts, or other charges in full. Proceeds also will be includable if the policy is purchased in favor of another person or corporation as collateral for a loan. The proceeds are considered to be receivable for the benefit of the estate, and the amount of the loan outstanding at the date of the decedent's death with accrued interest will be deductible in determining the taxable estate [see Treas. Reg. § 20.2042-1(b)(1)].

- The proceeds are receivable by some other beneficiary and the decedent possessed incidents of ownership in the policy, alone or in conjunction with another person, at the time of his or her death. An "incident of ownership" is a power or right to change the beneficiary of the policy, surrender or cancel the policy, assign the policy, revoke an assignment of the policy, pledge the policy for a loan, or obtain a loan from the insurer against the surrender value of the policy [see Treas. Reg. § 20.2042-1(c)(1)-(4); see also I.R.S. Letter Rul. 200518005 (taxpayer did not possess incidents of ownership over life insurance policies insuring her life that were purchased by trust, when she renounced her rights as co-trustee in connection with these policies, subsequently resigned as co-trustee, and did not contribute assets to trust or commingle life insurance policies held as trust assets with her personal assets)].

When insurance proceeds are includable in the decedent's gross estate, the amount to be included generally is the full amount receivable under the policy. If the proceeds are payable to a beneficiary as an annuity for life or for a term of years, however, the amount to be included is either an optional lump sum payment, if one is provided by the policy, or the amount used by the insurer in determining the amount of the annuity if there is no lump sum option in the policy [Treas. Reg. § 20.2042-1(a)(3)]. If the proceeds of a policy made payable to the decedent's estate are community property, only one half of the proceeds is includable, since only one half is considered received by or for the benefit of the decedent's estate [Treas. Reg. § 20.2042-1(b)(2); Rev. Rul. 2003-40, 2003-17 I.R.B. 813 (if surviving spouse is beneficiary, marital deduction would be available for decedent's half that is included in decedent's estate)].

Policies includable in the gross estate by virtue of I.R.C. § 2042 are reportable on Schedule D. The term "insurance" refers to life insurance of every description, including death benefits paid by fraternal beneficial societies operating under the lodge system [Treas. Reg. § 20.2042-1(a)(1)]. Death benefits paid under no-fault automobile insurance policies are includable if the no-fault insurer was unconditionally bound to pay the benefit in the event of the insured's death [Rev. Rul. 83-44, 1983-1 C.B. 228 ; but see Rev. Rul. 68-88, 1968-1 C.B. 397 (compulsory policy that provides substitute for what could be recovered in wrongful death action as not included in gross estate)]. Even if a policy of insurance on the decedent's life is not included in the gross estate, it must be listed on Schedule D, and the personal representative must explain why the proceeds are not includable in the gross estate [IRS Form 706, Instructions for Schedule D].

[b] Decedent's Interest in Policies on Life of Another

A decedent's interest in a policy of life insurance on the life of another is also includable in the decedent's gross estate [see I.R.C. §§ 2031, 2033; Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-8(a)]. Only one half of the value of insurance on the life of another owned by the decedent is included in the gross estate if the insurance was purchased with community funds [see Rev. Rul. 75-100, 1975-1 C.B. 303]. Life insurance policies includable in the gross estate by virtue of I.R.C. § 2033 are reportable on Schedule F.

[c] Inclusion Under Other Provisions

Life insurance not includable in the gross estate under I.R.C. §§ 2033 or 2042 may be includable under some other section of the Internal Revenue Code. For instance, a life insurance policy could be transferred by the decedent in such a way that it would be includable in the gross estate under I.R.C. §§ 2036, 2037, or 2038, and thus reportable on Schedule G.

[d] Insurance-Reporting Requirements

For every policy of life insurance listed on Schedule D (insurance on decedent's life), Schedule F (insurance owned by decedent on the life or another), or any other schedule that constitutes a part of the gross estate, the personal representative of the decedent must (1) request a statement on IRS Form 712 [see § 453.194] from the company that issued the policy, and (2) attach the completed IRS Form 712 to the back of the appropriate schedule in the return [see IRS Form 706, Instructions for Schedules D and F]. To have the completed IRS Forms 712available for timely filing of the estate and generation-skipping transfer tax return, they should be requested as soon as possible.

[9] Annuities

Except as otherwise provided for annuities purchased through qualified plans or trusts and individual retirement accounts [see I.R.C. §§ 401, 408], the gross estate includes the value of any annuity or other payment receivable by any beneficiary by reason of surviving the decedent under a contract or agreement if, under the contract or agreement, an annuity or other payment was payable to the decedent, or the decedent had the right to receive an annuity or payment, either alone or in conjunction with another person for the decedent's life, for any period not ascertainable without reference to the decedent's death, or for any period that does not in fact end before the decedent's death [I.R.C. § 2039(a)].

The amount that is includable in the gross estate is equal to that part of the value of the annuity or other payment receivable under a contract or agreement as is proportionate to that part of the purchase price contributed by the decedent. Except in the case of annuities under approved plans, contributions to the plan made by reason of the decedent's employment, whether made by the decedent or by the employer on his or her behalf, are considered to have been made by the decedent [I.R.C. § 2039(b); Treas. Reg. § 20.2039-1(b)].

[10] Income Interest With Remainder to Third Party

A terminable interest is created when the donor or decedent transfers an income interest to the surviving spouse and transfers the remainder, without adequate consideration, to a third party. Qualifying terminable interest property that is deducted from the value of the taxable estate under I.R.C. § 2056(b)(7) [§ 453.65[3]] must be included in the gross estate of the surviving spouse at his or her death [I.R.C. § 2044(b)(1)(A)].

Gifts made during life of qualified terminable interest property under I.R.C. § 2523(f) must also be included in the gross estate of the surviving spouse [I.R.C. § 2044(b)(1)(B)]. These interests must be included in the gross estate, however, only if the original transfer was not subject to the provisions of I.R.C. § 2519 (concerning gifts of qualifying life interests). Property that is included in the gross estate of a decedent under these provisions is deemed to have passed from the decedent for estate tax and generation-skipping transfer tax purposes [I.R.C. § 2044(c)].

[11] Business Interests in Gross Estate

Any business interest owned by the decedent at the time of his or her death must be included in the gross estate pursuant to I.R.C. § 2033. The business interests that are includable in the gross estate include the decedent's interest as a sole proprietor in a business, the interest of the decedent in a partnership of which he or she is a partner, and the decedent's interest as a shareholder in a corporation. The partnership interest to be included in the gross estate may vary depending on the presence or absence of relevant provisions in a partnership agreement [see Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-3; see also IRS Form 706, Instructions for Schedule F]. For the most part, business interests other than stock are reportable on Schedule F. Stocks and bonds are reported on Schedule B.

[12] Lifetime Transfers in Gross Estate

[a] Types

The gross estate includes not only the value of property in which a decedent had an interest at death [see I.R.C. § 2033], but may also include the value of property interests transferred during the decedent's lifetime if the transfer is, in effect, of a testamentary nature or if the decedent retained the requisite ownership or control [see I.R.C. §§ 2035-2038, 2042]. These transfers are generally reportable on Schedule G.

The types of lifetime transfers that are a part of the gross estate and thereby subject to the estate tax are all transfers, in trust or otherwise, without an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth [see I.R.C. § 2043 (discussed in § 453.13[14])]. These transfers include the following:

- Any transfer by a decedent of a life insurance policy within three years before death [I.R.C. §§ 2035(a)(2), 2042];

- Any transfer by a decedent within three years before death of a retained life estate [see I.R.C. § 2036], reversionary interest [see I.R.C. § 2037], or power to revoke [see I.R.C. § 2038], if the property subject to the life estate, interest, or power would have been included in the gross estate had the decedent continued to possess the life estate, interest, or power until death [I.R.C. § 2035(a)(2)];

- The taxes on gifts made by a decedent or the decedent's spouse within three years before death [I.R.C. § 2035(b)];

- Transfers under which a decedent reserved or retained (in whole or in part) the use, possession, income, or enjoyment of the transferred property for his or her life, or for a period not ascertainable without reference to his or her death, or for a period of such duration as to evidence an intention that it should extend to his or her death [I.R.C. § 2036(a)];

- Transfers under which a decedent retained the right, either alone or in conjunction with another person or persons, to designate who should possess or enjoy the property or the income therefrom [I.R.C. § 2036(a)];

- Transfers intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or afterdeath or after which decedent retained a reversionary interst worth more than 5 percent of total value [I.R.C. § 2037; Treas. Reg. 20.2037-1]; and

- Transfers under which the enjoyment of the transferred property was subject at the decedent's death to a change through exercise, either by the decedent alone or in conjunction with another person or persons, of a power to alter, amend, revoke, or terminate, or when such a power was relinquished in contemplation of death [I.R.C. § 2038].

[b] Transfers Within Three Years of Death

The value of certain gifts made within three years of a decedent's death must be included in the decedent's gross estate. These gifts include transfers of an interest in property or the relinquishment of a power that would have been included in the decedent's gross estate if retained at death, including [I.R.C. § 2035(a)(2)]:

- Transfers with a retained life interest [I.R.C. § 2036].

- Transfers taking effect at death [I.R.C. § 2037].

- Revocable transfers [I.R.C. § 2038].

- Proceeds of life insurance [I.R.C. § 2035(a); see I.R.C. § 2042; see also I.R.S. Letter Rul. 200432015 (entire amount payable on insurance policy on decedent's life was includable in decedent's gross estate and estate was not entitled to estate tax marital deduction when proceeds of policy were payable to limited liability company)].

The inclusion rule, however, does not apply if the decedent made a bona fide sale for full and adequate consideration [I.R.C. § 2035(d)]. The value of any gift tax on gifts made within three years of death must also be included in the decedent's estate [I.R.C. § 2035(b)].

In addition to the inclusion rules concerning retained interests, the value of gifts made within three years of death must be included in the transferor's gross estate for other special purposes. The value of these gifts must be included for application of the rules with respect to redemption of stock to pay death taxes [I.R.C. § 2035(c)(1)(A); see I.R.C. § 303], the special valuation provisions for certain types of farm and real property [I.R.C. § 2035(c)(1)(B); see I.R.C. § 2032A], the provisions determining property subject to estate tax liens [I.R.C. § 2035(c)(1)(C); see I.R.C. § 6320 et seq.], and the provisions allowing an extension of time to pay estate taxes when the estate consists largely of an interest in a closely held business [I.R.C. § 2035(c)(2)]. The rules requiring inclusion for purposes of stock redemption, special valuation, and tax liens do not apply to gifts (except to transfers of life insurance policies) if no gift tax return was filed because the value of the gift was less than the annual gift tax exclusion [I.R.C. § 2035(c)(3); see I.R.C. § 6019(1)].

[c] Transfers With Retained Life Estate

The gross estate includes lifetime transfers made by a decedent (except in case of a bona fide sale for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth), in trust or otherwise, under which the decedent has retained for his or her life, or for any period not ascertainable without reference to his or her death, or for any period that does not in fact end before his or her death, the following rights [I.R.C. § 2036(a); Treas. Reg. § 20.2036-1(a)]:

- Possession or enjoyment of, or the right to the income from, the property; or

- The right, either alone or in conjunction with any person, to designate who will possess or enjoy the property or the income from the property (except that, if the transfer was made before June 7, 1932, the right to designate must be retained by or reserved to the decedent alone).

A transferor retains "possession or enjoyment" of property within the meaning of I.R.C. § 2036(a) if the transferor retains a substantial present economic benefit from the property rather than a speculative contingent benefit that may or may not be realized [Strangi v. Comm'r of Internal Revenue (5th Cir. 2005) 417 F.3d 468, 476 (benefits transferor retained, including periodic payments made before his death, continued use of transferred property, and post-death payment of various debts and expenses, were clearly substantial and present benefits, not speculative or contingent benefits)]. In addition, there must be an express or implied agreement at the time of the transfer that the transferor will retain possession or enjoyment of the property [Treas. Reg. § 20.2036-1(a)].

If the decedent retained or reserved one or more of these rights or interests as to all of the property transferred by him or her, the amount includable in the gross estate is the value of the entire property transferred, less the value of any outstanding income interest that is not subject to the decedent's interest or right and that is actually being enjoyed by another person at the time of his or her death [Gradow v. United States (9th Cir. 1990) 897 F.2d 516, 518-519 ; Estate of Bigelow (9th Cir. 2007) 503 F.3d 955, 966-967 (full value of real property transferred to family limited partnership was included in gross estate when decedent and her children had an implied agreement that decedent would retain income and economic enjoyment of the transferred asset and that the inter vivos transfer was not a bona fide sale for adequate and full consideration); see, e.g., Strangi v. Comm'r of Internal Revenue (5th Cir. 2005) 417 F.3d 468, 477-478 (full value of property decedent transferred to limited partnership was includible in decedent's gross estate because documents governing limited partnership did not prevent decedent from being designated as recipient of income from limited partnership, and implied agreement among parties provided that decedent would maintain economic benefit of transferred property); Estate of Abraham v. Comm'r (1st Cir. 2005) 408 F.3d 26 (decedent need not have retained legally enforceable interest in transferred property; inclusion can be triggered under I.R.C. § 2036 if enjoyment of transferred property is retained under an arrangement or understanding); Estate of Schutt v. Comm'r, T.C. Memo. 2005-126 (fair market value of stock decedent contributed through revocable trust to Delaware business trust was not includable in his gross estate because stock transfers were bona fide for adequate and full consideration; decedent was not financially dependent ondistributions from business trust because he retained sufficient assets outside of trust to amply support his needs); Estate of Korby v. Comm'r, T.C. Memo 2005-102, 2005-103 (value of property transferred to family limited partnership by deceased husband and wife was included in their respective gross estates when there was implied agreement between spouses and their children that they would retain right to income from transferred property as long as they needed it, and they retained insignificant income-producing assets in their names to meet their needs)]. If the decedent retained or reserved an interest or right as to only a part of the property transferred, the amount includable in his or her gross estate is only a corresponding proportion of the entire value of the property [Treas. Reg. § 20.2036-1(a)].

I.R.C. § 2036 is applicable only with regard to an interest in property that has been transferred by the decedent. Transfers by others, which create rights in the decedent, are not circumscribed by I.R.C. § 2036.

A decedent's retention of direct or indirect voting rights in a stock of a controlled corporation is also treated as the retention of the enjoyment of the property that causes the value of the stock to be included in the decedent's gross estate [I.R.C. § 2036(b)(1)]. A corporation is controlled if the decedent owned or had the right to vote stock possessing at least 20 percent of the total combined voting power of all classes of stock of the corporation within three years of the decedent's death [I.R.C. § 2036(b)(2)]. The relinquishment or cessation of these voting rights is deemed a transfer of the property, which begins the three-year time period to determine whether the transfer of property was made within three years of the decedent's death [I.R.C. § 2036(b)(3)]. The value of the stock will not be included in the decedent's estate if the decedent dies more than three years after the transfer of the voting rights [I.R.C. § 2035(a)(2) (discussed in § 453.13[12][b]].

[d] Transfers Taking Effect at Death

The gross estate includes the value of any interest in property transferred by a decedent (except in the case of a bona fide sale for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth), in trust or otherwise, that is intended to take effect at death [see I.R.C. § 2037(a)]. All three of the following elements must be present before transfer is considered as being intended to take effect at death [I.R.C. § 2037(a)]:

- Possession or enjoyment of the property can, through ownership of that interest, be obtained only by surviving the decedent;

- The decedent has retained a possibility (hereinafter referred to as a "reversionary interest") that the property, other than the income alone, will return to the decedent or his or her estate or will be subject to a power of disposition by the decedent [see Treas. Reg. § 20.2037-1(c)(2) (what constitutes reversionary interest retained by decedent)]; and

- The value of the reversionary interest retained by the decedent immediately before the decedent's death exceeds 5 percent of the value of the entire property.

The value of an interest in transferred property is not included in a decedent's gross estate under I.R.C. § 2037 unless possession or enjoyment of the property could, through ownership of that interest, have been obtained only by surviving the decedent. Thus, property is not included in the decedent's gross estate if, immediately before the decedent's death, possession or enjoyment of the property could have been obtained by any beneficiary either by surviving the decedent or through the occurrence of some other event such as the expiration of a term of years [Treas. Reg. § 20.2037-1(b)].

Any transfer intended to take effect at death will not be included in the decedent's estate if possession or enjoyment of the property could have been obtained by any beneficiary during the decedent's lifetime through the exercise of a general power of appointment that was exercisable immediately before the decedent's death [I.R.C. § 2037(b); but see Treas. Reg. §§ 20.2037-1(b), 20.2037-1(e), Example (5) (if event other than surviving decedent, which conditions possession or enjoyment of property, is unrealistic and death of decedent occurs before other event, property transferred as includable in gross estate)].

[e] Revocable Transfers

A decedent's gross estate includes the value of any interest in property transferred by the decedent during his or her lifetime (except in the case of a bona fide sale for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth), in trust or otherwise, if, at the time of his or her death, the enjoyment of the property is subject to change through the exercise of a power to alter, amend, revoke, or terminate by the decedent alone or by the decedent in conjunction with another person [I.R.C. § 2038(a)(1)]. For such a transfer to be included in the gross estate, three elements must exist [I.R.C. § 2038(a)(1)]:

- The decedent must have made a transfer, the enjoyment of which was subject to a power to alter, amend, revoke, or terminate;

- The power could be exercised by the decedent alone or in conjunction with some other person; and

- The power was in existence at the decedent's death, or had been released within the three-year period ending on the date of the decedent's death.

Only powers that are exercisable by the decedent alone or in conjunction with some other person are within the scope of I.R.C. § 2038. Thus, I.R.C. § 2038 does not apply to powers held solely by a person other than the decedent. But, for example, if the decedent had the unrestricted power to remove or discharge a trustee at any time and to appoint himself or herself trustee, the decedent is considered as having the powers of the trustee. This result would not follow if he or she only had the power to appoint himself or herself trustee under limited conditions that did not exist at the time of his or her death. In addition, no tax will result if the decedent's power can be exercised only with the consent of all parties having an interest, vested or contingent, in the transferred property [Treas. Reg. § 20.2038-1(a)].

If a decedent was the donor of the gift to a minor and was also the custodian, and acting in that capacity at the time of his or her death, the gift will be included in the decedent's gross estate [Eichstedt v. United States (N.D. Cal. 1972) 354 F. Supp. 484, 487-488 ; see § 453.13[6]].

[13] Powers of Appointment in Gross Estate

In general, the value of all property over which a decedent possessed a general power of appointment at the time of his or her death is includable in the decedent's gross estate [I.R.C. § 2041(a)]. A power of appointment is a general power if it can be exercised in favor of the decedent, the decedent's estate or creditors, or creditors of the decedent's estate [I.R.C. § 2041(b)(1)]. For estate tax purposes, all powers that are general powers of appointment in substance and effect will be treated as general powers, regardless of the nomenclature used in creating them and regardless of whether they would qualify as powers of appointment under local law [Treas. Reg. § 20.2041-1(b)(1)]. For example, a power to consume or appropriate the principal of a trust will be treated as a general power of appointment, regardless of whether it is denominated as such in the governing instrument [Treas. Reg. § 20.2041-1(b)(1)].

The Internal Revenue Code provides an important exception to the general rule of includability of property subject to a general power of appointment. Under this exception, if a person has the power to consume, invade, or appropriate property for himself or herself (or for another person), and if the power is limited by an "ascertainable standard" relating to the health, education, support, or maintenance of the person for whom the power may be exercised, the power is not a general power of appointment for estate or gift tax purposes [I.R.C. §§ 2041(b)(1)(A), 2514(c)(1)]. The Treasury Regulations state that a power is limited by an "ascertainable standard" if the extent of the holder's duty to exercise the power is reasonably measurable in terms of the beneficiary's needs for health, education, or support (or any combination of those things). Under those regulations, it is acceptable to define the "ascertainable standard" in terms of the beneficiary's "support," "support in reasonable comfort," "maintenance in health and reasonable comfort," "support in his [or her] accustomed manner of living," "education, including college and professional education," "health," and "medical, dental, hospital and nursing expenses and expenses of invalidism." However, it is not acceptable to define the duty in terms of the beneficiary's "comfort," "welfare," or "happiness," as those words are too indefinite to constitute an "ascertainable standard" [Treas. Reg. § 20.2041-1(c)(2)]. For this reason, drafters of powers of appointment commonly limit exercise of the power to amounts necessary for the "health, education, support, or maintenance" (or similar language) of the beneficiary.

[14] Transfers for Insufficient Consideration

[a] In General

The transfers, trusts, interests, rights, or powers enumerated and described in I.R.C. §§ 2035 (transfers within three years of death), 2036 (transfers with retained life estate), 2037 (transfers taking effect at death), 2038 (revocable transfers), and 2041 (powers of appointment) are not includable in the gross estate if made, created, exercised, or relinquished in a transaction that constituted a bona fide sale for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth [I.R.C. § 2035(d)]. To constitute a bona fide sale for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth, the transfer must have been made in good faith, and the price must have been an adequate and full equivalent reducible to a money value. If the price was less than full and adequate consideration, only the excess of the fair market value of the property (as of the applicable estate valuation date) over the price received by the decedent is included in ascertaining the value of his or her gross estate [I.R.C. § 2043(a); Treas. Reg. § 20.2043-1(a)].

[b] Relinquishment of Marital Rights

For estate tax purposes, the relinquishment or promised relinquishment of a dower, curtesy, statutory estate created in lieu of dower or curtesy, or other marital rights in a decedent's property or estate is not consideration in money or money's worth, except that, for purposes of I.R.C. § 2053 (relating to expenses, indebtedness, and taxes), a transfer of property made under a written separation agreement [see I.R.C. § 2516] executed not more than two years before divorce is viewed as having been made for full and adequate consideration in money or money's worth [I.R.C. § 2043(b)]. Thus, even if a transfer or relinquishment is made for a consideration sufficient to support the obligation of a contract under local law, exclusion of the transferred property from the gross estate is still subject to the other tests for taxability contained in I.R.C. §§ 2035-2038 and 2041.

Under I.R.C. § 2043(b), a spouse's relinquishment of his or her interest in community property is treated as consideration [see United States v. Past (9th Cir. 1965) 347 F.2d 7, 12-15 (but consideration contributed by decedent was less than value of interest decedent received in trust, so excess as includable in decedent's estate)]. In addition, a spouse's relinquishment of rights to support and maintenance is treated as consideration [Estate of Davis (3rd Cir. 1971) 440 F.2d 896, 899-900] .

§ 453.14 Property Excluded From Gross Estate--Qualified Conservation Easement

[1] In General

Certain items may be excluded from the value of the gross estate [see I.R.C. § 2031(a) (definition of gross estate)].

In the case of decedents dying on or after January 1, 1998, an exclusion is available for a "qualified conservation easement" as defined in I.R.C. § 2031(c). A qualified conservation easement is a contribution of a "qualified real property interest" to a charity exclusively for conservation purposes [I.R.C. § 2031(c)(8)(B); see I.R.C. § 170(h) (income tax deduction for qualified conservation contribution)].

For purposes of the estate tax exclusion, "conservation purpose" means any of the following that will yield a significant public benefit [I.R.C. §§ 170(h)(4)(A), 2031(c)(8)(B)]:

- Preservation of land areas for outdoor recreation by, or the education of, the general public.

- Protection of a relatively natural habitat of fish, wildlife, or plants, or similar ecosystem. A contribution of property for this purpose is deductible even if the public's access to the property is restricted [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-14(d)(3)].

- Preservation of open space (including farmland and forest land) for the scenic enjoyment of the public, or under a clearly delineated federal, state, or local governmental conservation policy.

The requirement that the easement be used exclusively for conservation purposes is intended to limit deductible contributions to those transfers that require the donee to hold the easement exclusively for conservation purposes--that is, they may not be transferable by the donee in exchange for money, other property, or services. A contribution of a qualified real property interest may be exclusively for conservation purposes only if it is protected in perpetuity [I.R.C. § 170(h)(5)(A); see Hurst v. Comm'r (2005) 124 T.C. 16 (charitable contributions of conservation easements on undeveloped lakefront property to nonprofit nature conservancy were qualified conservation contributions; donee was long-standing nature conservancy, holding of conservation easements was directly related to its tax-exempt purposes, and donee agreed to enforce preservation-related restrictions included in easements in perpetuity)].

In addition, for purposes of the federal estate tax exclusion, the easement must include a prohibition on more than a de minimis use for commercial recreation activity [I.R.C. § 2031(c)(8)(B)].

If the executor makes an election on the estate tax return on or before the due date (including extensions) for filing the return [I.R.C. § 2031(c)(1), (6)], a specified percentage of the value of the land subject to the qualified contribution easement (reduced by the value of any charitable deduction with respect to the land) may be excluded from the value of the gross estate [I.R.C. § 2031(c)(1), (2); see I.R.C. § 2055(f) (estate tax charitable deduction for transfer of qualified real property interest)]. Once an election is made to take the exclusion, it is irrevocable [I.R.C. § 2031(c)(6)].

[2] Amount of Exclusion

The exclusion is limited to the lesser of the following [I.R.C. § 2031(c)(1); see I.R.C. § 2031(c)(2) ("applicable percentage"), (3) ("exclusion limitation")]:

- 40 percent of the value of the land, reduced by 2 percentage points for each percentage point (or fraction of a percentage point) by which the value of the qualified conservation easement is less than 30 percent of the value of the land (determined without regard to the value of the easement and reduced by the value of any retained development rights). The values taken into account are those as of the date of the contribution of the property.

- The amount of the "exclusion limitation" available in the year of the decedent's death.

The "exclusion limitation" is determined in accordance with the following table [I.R.C. § 2031(c)(3)]:

Year of Decedent's Death	Exclusion Limitation
1998	$100,000
1999	$200,000
2000	$300,000
2001	$400,000
2002 or thereafter	$500,000

[3] Requirements Relating to Ownership and Donee

The land subject to the qualified conservation easement must have been owned by the decedent or a member of the decedent's family for three continuous years before the decedent's death [I.R.C. § 2031(c)(8)(A)(ii)], and the contribution must have been made by the decedent, the executor of the decedent's estate, thetrustee of a trust that includes the land subject to the easement, or members of the decedent's family [I.R.C. § 2031(c)(8)(C)]. For these purposes, "member of the decedent's family" means one or more of the following [I.R.C. § 2031(c)(8)(C); see I.R.C. § 2032A(e)(2)]:

- An ancestor, spouse, or lineal descendant of the decedent.

- A lineal descendant of the decedent's spouse or parent.

- A spouse of any lineal descendant of the decedent, the decedent's spouse, or the decedent's parent.

[4] Location of Land

Effective for decedents dying after 2000, the conservation easement may be claimed with respect to any land that is located in the United States or its possessions [I.R.C. § 2031(c)(8)(A)(I)]. For decedents dying before 2001, the easement could be claimed only on land located within 25 miles of a metropolitan area (as defined by the Office of Management and Budget) or a national park or wilderness area, or within 10 miles of an Urban National Forest (as designated by the Forest Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture) [I.R.C. § 2031(c)(8)(A)(8)(I), before amendment by Pub. Law 107-16].

38-453 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 453.15

§ 453.15 Valuation Date

[1] Date of Death

The value of the gross estate of a decedent for estate tax purposes must be determined as of the date of the decedent's death or, at the election of the decedent's personal representative, at the alternate valuation date, which is generally six months after the decedent's death [I.R.C. §§ 2031, 2032; see the Research Guide for a list of authorities relating to valuation methods]. The election to value the gross estate as of the alternate valuation date is exercisable by the decedent's personal representative on a timely filed estate tax return [I.R.C. § 2032(d)].

[2] Alternate Valuation Date

The sum of the estate tax and the generation-skipping transfer tax due in respect to the property included in a decedent's gross estate may be reduced by electing the alternate valuation date [see I.R.C. § 2032]. Under the alternate valuation date election, all property included in the gross estate is valued as of six months after the decedent's death, except for property sold, distributed, exchanged, or otherwise disposed of during the six months, which is valued as of the date of disposition [I.R.C. § 2032(a)(1), (2)]. Adjustments in value due to a mere lapse of time are not allowed [see I.R.C. § 2032(a)(3); Treas. Reg. § 20.2032-1(f)].

The alternate valuation date election can only be made if it will reduce both the value of the gross estate and the sum of the estate tax imposed and the tax on generation-skipping transfers [see I.R.C. §§ 2601-2663] with respect to property that is includable in decedent's gross estate [I.R.C. § 2032(c)]. The election must be made with respect to all property included in the gross estate on the date of the decedent's death. It cannot be applied only to a portion of the estate property [see I.R.C. § 2032(a); Treas. Reg. § 20.2032-1(b)(2)].

The alternate valuation date election is made on the federal estate and generation-skipping transfer tax return. Once the return is filed, the election cannot be revoked [I.R.C. § 2032(d)(1)]. The alternate valuation date election may be made on a return that is filed up to one year (including extensions) after its due date [I.R.C. § 2032(d)(2)]. For further authorities relating to this election, see the Research Guide to this Part. If the alternative valuation date election is made, the property will be listed on all schedules of the return at the alternate value. For discussion of other possible ramifications for heirs and devisees if this election is made, see § 453.27.

§ 453.16 Valuation of Gross Estate

[1] Fair Market Value

The value of every property interest included in a decedent's gross estate under I.R.C. §§ 2033-2043 is its fair market value at the time of the decedent's death (or at the alternate valuation date if the personal representative so elects). The fair market value is the price at which the property would change hands between a willing buyer and a willing seller, neither being under any compulsion to buy or to sell and both having reasonable knowledge of relevant facts. The fair market value of a particular item is not to be determined by a forced sale, or by the sale price of the item in a market other than that in which it is most commonly sold to the public, taking into account the location of the item wherever appropriate. Thus, in the case of an item of property includable in the gross estate that is generally obtained by the public in the retail market, the fair market value is the price at which the item or comparable item would be sold at retail. All relevant facts and elements of value as of the applicable valuation date must be considered [Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-1(b)]. Those factors include income yield, appraisals, sales prices of similar property near the time of death, bids made for the property, and general economic conditions [see Treas. Reg. §§ 20.2031-2-20.2031-8; Estate of Noble v. Comm'r, T.C. Memo. 2005-2 (fair market value of decedent's interest in closely held stock was determined using actual sales price of stock in arm's-length transaction that occurred approximately one year after decedent's death); Estate of Thompson v. Comm'r, T.C. Memo. 2004-174 , vacated and remanded on other grounds, 499 F.3d 129, 136 (capitalization of income approach used to value decedent's 20 percent interest in closely held company)].

Valuation rules specific to a particular type of property are listed in the Research Guide. They are also discussed in IRS Form 706 [see § 453.190] and in the Instructions for IRS Form 706 [see § 453.191].

[2] Special Valuation of Farms and Closely Held Businesses

If specified conditions are met, the personal representative may elect to value qualified real property included in a decedent's gross estate at its value based on the current use being made of the property rather than on the basis of its highest and best use [I.R.C. § 2032A(a)]. Qualified real property must be located in the United States and must be used for farming or for another closely held trade or business [I.R.C. § 2032A(b)]. In either case, there must be a trade or business use. Mere passive rental of property will not qualify [see I.R.C. § 2032A(b)(1)(C); Treas. Reg. § 20.2032A-3;

Williamson v. C. I. R. (9th Cir. 1992) 974 F.2d 1525, 1530 ; but see I.R.C. § 2032A(c)(7)(E) (rental by surviving spouse or lineal decedent after decedent's death may be qualified use)].

To qualify, the property must pass to a qualified heir (a family member) [I.R.C. § 2032A(e)(1), (2)], who must continue the qualified use [I.R.C. § 2032A(a)-(c)]. I.R.C. § 2032A provides specific methods for valuing qualified real property [see I.R.C. § 2032A(e)]. The special valuation method may not be used to decrease the value of the qualified real property in the decedent's gross estate by more than $750,000, subject to inflation adjustments for decedents dying after 1998. [I.R.C. § 2032A(a)(2)]. For decedents dying in 1999, the figure is $760,000 [Rev. Proc. 98-61 , § 3.15, 98-2 C.B. 758]. For decedents dying in 2000, the figure is $770,000 [Rev. Proc. 99-42 , § 3.16, 1999-46 I.R.B. 568]. For decedents dying in 2001, the figure is $800,000 [Rev. Proc. 2001-13 , § 3.16, 2001-3 I.R.B. 337]. For decedents dying in 2003, the figure is $840,000 [Rev. Proc. 2002-70, 2002-46 I.R.B. 845]. For decedents dying in 2004, the figure is $850,000; for decedents dying in 2005, the figure is $870,000 [Rev. Proc. 2004-71 , § 3.27, 2004-50 I.R.B. 970], and for decedents dying in 2006, the figure is $900,000 [Rev. Proc. 2005-70, 2005-47 I.R.B. 979 § 3.27]. The tax savings from the special use valuation election are recaptured if the property is disposed of to nonfamily members or ceases to be used for farming or closely held business purposes within 10 years after the decedent's death (with certain adjustments for qualified heirs who commence active participation in the farm or business within two years after the decedent's death). [I.R.C. § 2032A(c)]. This election is made on the federal estate and generation-skipping transfer tax return and requires completion of Schedule A-1.

For discussion of other considerations relevant to heirs and devisees if this election is made, see § 453.27.

§ 453.17 Request for Basis of Estate Valuation

The Internal Revenue Service must furnish, on the written request of the personal representative or other person required to file the return, a written statement explaining any determination or proposed determination of the value of an item of property included in the estate. The statement must be furnished no later than 45 days after the personal representative's written request or 45 days after the determination or proposed determination, whichever is later [I.R.C. § 7517(a)]. The written statement by the IRS must (1) explain the basis on which the valuation was determined or proposed, (2) set forth any computation used in arriving at that value, and (3) include a copy of any expert appraisal [I.R.C. § 7517(b)]. Note, however, that the method employed in arriving at any valuation is not binding on the IRS [I.R.C. § 7517(c)].

§ 453.18 Ascertaining Value of Taxable Estate

[1] Deductions in General

After computing a decedent's gross estate, the second step in determining the federal estate tax is to ascertain the value of the taxable estate of the deceased [Treas. Reg. § 20.0-2(b)(3)]. This value is determined by subtracting the allowable deductions, as derived from Schedules J--T, from the value of the gross estate [I.R.C. §§ 2051-2056; Treas. Reg. § 20.0-2(b)(3)]. Deductions are allowed for the following items:

- Expenses, indebtedness, and taxes [I.R.C. § 2053 (Schedules J--L); see Estate of Gilman v. Comm'r, T.C. Memo. 2004-286 (interest and costs associated with loan used to pay estate taxes may be deductible as administration expenses when loan is necessary to pay estate taxes due to estate's illiquidity); but see Tech. Adv. Mem. 200513028 (interest on loan that was not necessary to administration of estate is not deductible as administration expense; decedent's estate consisted primarily of 99% interest in limited partnership which had substantial liquid assets available to pay estate tax); I.R.S. Letter Rul. 200444021 (estate tax deduction is not allowed for income taxes estate paid on amounts it was forced to withdraw from decedent's IRA to pay estate tax); see also I.R.S. Letter Rul. 200532049 (attorney's fees and litigation expenses incurred by personal representative of estate in malpractice suit connected with estate are deductible as administration expenses)].

- Losses [I.R.C. § 2054 (Schedule L)].

- Certain transfers to a surviving spouse [I.R.C. § 2056 (Schedule M)].

- Charitable transfers [I.R.C. § 2055 (Schedule O)].

- Qualified family-owned business deduction [I.R.C. § 2057 (Schedule T)].

- Effective for estates of decedents dying after 2004, a deduction for state death taxes [I.R.C. § 2058].

[2] Estate Tax Versus Income Tax Deduction of Certain Expenses

There are two general categories of deductions for funeral expenses, expenses of administering the estate, claims against the estate, and indebtedness calculated on Schedules J--L. Only actual expenses may be deducted, but an item may be entered on the return for a deduction although its exact amount is not then known, provided it is ascertainable with reasonable certainty and will be paid [Treas. Reg. § 20.2053-1(b)(3)].

Interest and costs associated with a loan taken out by the estate to pay estate taxes may be deductible as administration expenses when the loan is necessary to pay the taxes due to the estate's illiquidity [see Estate of Gilman v. Comm'r, T.C. Memo. 2004-286); Letter Rul. 200449031 (interest on loan used to pay estate tax is deductible as administration expense if loan was necessary for administration of estate, but amount of loan should reflect any reduction in tax liability resulting from deductibility of interest)]. However, an estate may not claim an estate tax deduction under I.R.C. § 2053 for income taxes the estate paid on amounts it was compelled to withdraw from the decedent's IRAs in order to pay the estate tax [Letter Rul. 200444021 (only excise taxes are deductible as administrative expenses, and no deduction is allowed for income taxes paid on income received after decedent's death)].

Casualty losses suffered during the settlement of the estate are deductible on Schedule L to the extent that any loss was not covered by insurance [I.R.C. § 2054; Treas. Reg. § 20.2054-1].

Some of the foregoing expenses and debts that are deductible on the estate tax return may also be deductible either on the decedent's last income tax return (IRS Form 1040) or on the estate's fiduciary income tax return (IRS Form 1041). No double deduction, however, is allowed [I.R.C. § 642(g)]. The personal representative must elect to deduct the expenses either on the income tax return or on the estate tax return and may not deduct them on both returns [see I.R.C. § 642(g)]. Substantial tax savings may be effected by shifting deductions from the estate tax return to the income tax return. The Research Guide contains authorities relating to the items that may be deducted on Schedules J--L of the estate tax return.

[3] Marital Deduction

Since 1982, an unlimited marital deduction has been allowed for undivided interests in property included in a decedent's gross estate that pass to the surviving spouse [I.R.C. § 2056(a)]. The gift tax marital deduction has also been unlimited since 1982, so there is no special adjustment to the estate tax marital deduction for interspousal gifts [see I.R.C. § 2523]. It should be noted that, except for property passing to a surviving spouse in a qualified domestic trust [I.R.C. § 2056(d)(2); see I.R.C. § 2056A (definition and tax treatment of qualified domestic trust)], the marital deduction is not allowed if the surviving spouse is not a citizen of the United States [I.R.C. § 2056(d)(1)].

The purpose of the marital deduction is to treat a husband and wife as a single unit for computing estate taxation. Any assets not taxed in a decedent's estate are taxable in the surviving spouse's estate under I.R.C. § 2044 [Davis v. Comr. of Int. Rev. (9th Cir. [Cal.] 2005) 394 F.3d 1294, 1297 fn. 1].

Property passing to the surviving spouse encompasses community property, or interests acquired under a will or by intestacy; by dower, homestead, or election against the will; by gift or through a power of appointment; or by right of survivorship of the co-owner [see I.R.C. § 2056(c)]. The marital deduction generally contemplates that the surviving spouse receive the entire interest in the property. If less is received, there may be a terminable interest that does not qualify for the marital deduction [see I.R.C. § 2056(b)]. For example, a surviving spouse's interest in a trust funded with the spouses' community property qualifies for the estate tax marital deduction if the surviving spouse is entitled to all of the trust income for life and possesses a general power of appointment over the trust property [Letter Rul. 200444023 (surviving spouse's right to withdraw entire corpus of trust at any time constitutes general power of appointment and also satisfies requirement that surviving spouse must be entitled to all income for life)]. However, a trust does not qualify for the marital deduction if the surviving spouse's interest does not constitute a qualifying income interest for life because the extent to which the trust income is to be paid to the surviving spouse is within the trustee's discretion [Letter Rul. 200444023].

Nevertheless, some terminable interests, referred to as qualified terminable interest property, or "QTIP," qualify for the marital deduction [I.R.C. § 2056(b)(7), (8)]. Because the marital deduction is "strictly construed and applied," every condition for this exception must be met [see Davis v. Comr. of Int. Rev. (9th Cir. [Cal.] 2005) 394 F.3d 1294, 1298 fn. 2]. In determining whether an interest that passes in a trust to a surviving spouse qualifies for a QTIP deduction under I.R.C. § 2056(b)(7), a court first looks to state law to determine the nature and extent of the property interest granted to the surviving spouse, then to federal law to determine whether these property rights are ultimately subject to taxation [United States v. Craft (2002) 535 U.S. 274, 278, 122 S. Ct. 1414, 152 L. Ed.2d 437 ; Davis v. Comr. of Int Rev. (9th Cir. [Cal.] 2005) 394 F.3d 1294, 1299] .

The personal representative may elect to deduct QTIP property [I.R.C. § 2056(b)(7)(B)(v); see I.R.C. § 2056(b)(7)(C) (automatic election for qualifying income interests under annuities); see also Prob. Code §§ 21521, 21526 (liability or immunity of personal representative for making or not making election)], butthe effect of the election is to make the property subject to taxation under I.R.C. § 2044 in the estate of the surviving spouse. The marital deduction is taken on Schedule M.

[4] Charitable Deduction

A charitable deduction is allowed for the value of property included in the gross estate that was transferred to or for the use of certain public, charitable, or religious organizations [I.R.C. § 2055(a)]. A charitable deduction will be allowed for any interest that becomes part of a contribution as a result of a qualified disclaimer [I.R.C. § 2055(a); see I.R.C. §§ 2046, 2518; Treas. Reg. §§ 25.2518-1-25.2518-3 (requirements for making qualified disclaimer); see Estate of Engelman v. Commissioner (2003) 121 T.C. 54 (attempted disclaimer of property by executor of decedent's estate on decedent's behalf was not qualified disclaimer; decedent's exercise of power of appointment over property, effective on her death, constituted acceptance of property under California law); see also Letter Rul. 200333023 (example of qualified disclaimer)]. Property that is included in the gross estate because the decedent possessed a power of appointment over it [see I.R.C. § 2041], and which passes to a qualified charitable beneficiary, is considered to be a bequest by the decedent and is also deductible as a charitable transfer [I.R.C. § 2055(b)]. Charitable deductions are listed on Schedule O.

[5] Qualified Family-Owned Business Deduction

[a] In General

For decedents dying on or after January 1, 1998, and before 2004 [I.R.C. § 2057(j)], who were citizens or residents of the United States, the value of the taxable estate may be determined by applying the "family-owned business" deduction [I.R.C. § 2057(a)]. The deduction is reported on Schedule T of the federal estate tax return [IRS Form 706]. The deduction is not available for decedents dying after 2003 [I.R.C. § 2057(j)].

This deduction may not exceed $675,000 [I.R.C. § 2057(a)(2)], and, when the deduction applies, the applicable exclusion amount under I.R.C. § 2010 will be $625,000 [I.R.C. § 2057(a)(3)(A)]. However, if the deduction is less than $675,000, the amount of the applicable exclusion amount will be increased (but not above the amount which would apply to the estate without regard to the family-owned business interest deduction) by the excess of $675,000 over the amount of the deduction allowed [I.R.C. § 2057(a)(3)(B); see also § 453.10].

The family-owned business deduction is available only if the adjusted value of the qualified family-owned business interests (and any lifetime gifts of such interests made by the decedent) exceeds 50 percent of the adjusted gross estate [I.R.C. § 2057(b)(1)(C)]. Further, there must have been at least five years out of the eight years immediately preceding the decedent's death during which the qualified family-owned business interests were owned by the decedent or members of the decedent's family and the decedent or members of his or her family "materially participated" in the business [I.R.C. § 2057(b)(1)(D)]. For this purpose, "material participation" generally means the kind of activities that give use to earnings from self-employment [I.R.C. § 2057(b)(1)(D)(ii); see I.R.C. §§ 1402(a)(1), 2057(e)(6)]. For additional discussion of this complex deduction, see California Wills & Trusts, Ch. 2, Overviews of Tax Laws Affecting Disposition of Estates, § 2.07[4] (Matthew Bender).

[b] "Qualified Heir" of Decedent

The qualified family-owned business interests must be acquired by a qualified heir or heirs from the decedent [I.R.C. § 2057(b)(2)(B)]. For this purpose, a "qualified heir" is any of the following [I.R.C. § 2032A(e)(2), 2057(i)(2)]:

- An ancestor, spouse, or lineal descendant of the decedent.
- A lineal descendant of the decedent's spouse or parent.
- A spouse of any lineal descendant of the decedent, the decedent's spouse, or the decedent's parent.
- Any person who has been an active employee of the business for at least 10 years before the date of the decedent's death.

[c] Qualifying Businesses

A "qualified family-owned business" may be an interest as a proprietor in a trade or business carried on as a proprietorship [I.R.C. § 2057(e)(1)(A)] or an interest in an entity carrying on a trade or business when the following family-ownership requirements are met [I.R.C. § 2057(e)(1)(B)]:

- At least 50 percent of the entity is owned directly or indirectly by the decedent and members of the decedent's family.
- At least 70 percent of the entity is owned directly or indirectly by two families and at least 30 percent is owned directly or indirectly by the decedent and members of the decedent's family.
- At least 90 percent of the entity is owned directly or indirectly by three families and at least 30 percent is owned directly or indirectly by the decedent and members of the decedent's family.

The term "interest in an entity" means an equity or ownership interest in the entity; therefore, promissory notes issued by a family-owned business cannot be deducted as qualified family-owned business interests [I.R.S. Letter Rul. 200410002].

For this purpose, a "member of the family" is any one or more of the following [I.R.C. §§ 2032A(e)(2), 2057(i)(2)]:

- An ancestor, spouse, or lineal descendant of the decedent.
- A lineal descendant of the decedent's spouse or parent.
- A spouse of any lineal descendant of the decedent, the decedent's spouse, or the decedent's parent.

The trade or business must have its principal place of business in the United States [I.R.C. § 2057(e)(2)(A)], and its stock cannot have been traded on an established securities market at any time within three years of the date of the decedent's death [I.R.C. § 2057(e)(2)(B)]. Further, no more than 35 percent of its adjusted ordinary gross income may qualify as "personal holding company income" [I.R.C. § 2057(e)(2)(C); see I.R.C. § 543(a) (personal holding company income)].

[d] Election; Recapture Tax

The family-owned business deduction is available only if the executor elects the deduction on the decedent's estate tax return and files a written agreement signed by each qualified heir that a recapture tax will be imposed if, within 10 years after the decedent's death and before the heir's death, any of the following occurs [I.R.C. § 2057(b)(1)(B), (f), (h); see I.R.C. § 2032A(c)(6)(B); see also I.R.S. Letter Rul. 200328012 (decedent's estate granted extension of time to make election under I.R.C. § 2057 to deduct adjusted value of decedent's qualified family-owned business interests, when law firm hired by trustee to provide legal and tax advice regarding administration of decedent's estate failed to make election on original federal estate tax return)]:

- The heir ceases to meet the "material participation" requirements of the exclusion. These requirements are generally met if the heir "materially participates" in the trade or business for at least five years of any eight-year period within the 10-year period following the decedent's death [I.R.C. §§ 2032A(c)(6)(B), 2057(f)(1)(A)]. For this purpose, "material participation" means actively participating in the work or management decisions of the farm or business, either personally or through a fiduciary [I.R.C. §§ 2032A(c)(6)(B), (7)(B), 2033(f)(1)(A)].

- The heir disposes of any portion of the interest, other than to a member of the heir's family or through a qualified conservation contribution [see I.R.C. § 170(h) (qualified conservation contribution)].

- The heir loses U.S. citizenship.

- The principal place of business of the trade or business ceases to be located in the United States.

[6] Deduction for State Death Taxes

For estates of individuals dying after 2004, the value of the taxable estate is determined by deducting from the gross estate any estate, inheritance, legacy, or succession taxes actually paid to any state or the District of Columbia for any property included in the gross estate, but not including any taxes paid for the estate of a person other than the decedent [I.R.C. § 2058; see IRS Form 706, Line 3b]. A deduction for state death taxes is allowed only for taxes actually paid and claimed as a deduction during the time period that ends before the later of the following time periods [I.R.C. § 2058(b)]:

- Four years after the estate tax return is filed;

- 60 days after a decision of the tax court becomes final if a timely petition for redetermination of a deficiency has been filed;

- The expiration date of any extension of time that has been granted for payment of the tax; or

- If a timely claim for a refund or credit of an overpayment of tax has been filed, the latest of:

    - 60 days after a notice of disallowance is mailed;

    - 60 days after the decision of the court becomes final as to a timely suit started on the claim; or

- Two years after a notice of the waiver of disallowance is filed.

No dollar limits are imposed on the amount of this deduction.

The certificate of the proper taxing authority should be submitted with the estate tax return to support the claimed deduction. This certificate should show the total amount of the tax imposed, the amount of discount allowed, the amount of penalties and interest imposed or charged, the total amount actually paid in cash, and the date of payment [see Instructions for Form 706, Line 3b--State Death Tax Deduction].

For estates of individuals dying before 2005, a credit for state death taxes is allowed [I.R.C. § 2011(b)], rather than a deduction.

§ 453.19 Computing Gross Estate Tax

After determining the taxable estate by subtracting allowable deductions (Schedules J--T) from the amount of the gross estate (Schedules A--I), the gross amount of estate tax is determined [see also § 453.10]. This is done by applying the unified rate schedule [see I.R.C. § 2001; Table A in Instructions for IRS Form 706] to the sum of the taxable estate and the amount of adjusted taxable gifts to determine the tentative tax liability. Then, the aggregate amount of gift tax payable on post-1976 gifts made by the decedent is subtracted from the tentative tax liability [I.R.C. § 2001(b)]. The figure derived is referred to as the gross estatetax. For an expanded description of the process, see § 453.10.

§ 453.20 Credits and Computing Net Estate Tax Payable

The amount of net estate tax payable is determined by subtracting from the gross estate tax the authorized credits against the tax. The authorized credits are the unified credit against estate tax [I.R.C. § 2010], the credit for state death taxes paid (repealed for estates of decedents dying after 2004) [I.R.C. § 2011], the credit for gift taxes paid on pre-1977 gifts [I.R.C. § 2012], the credit for taxes paid on previously taxed transfers [I.R.C. § 2013 (Schedule Q)], and the credit for foreign death taxes paid [I.R.C. § 2014 (Schedule P)].

The estate tax unified credit available depends on the year of the decedent's death. The estate tax unified credit shelters transfers of property equal to $600,000 for decedents dying before 1998, $625,000 for decedents dying in 1998, $650,000 for decedents dying in 1999, $675,000 for decedents dying in 2000 and 2001, $1.5 million for decedents dying in 2004 and 2005, $2 million for decedents dying in 2006, 2007, and 2008, and $3.5 million for decedents dying in 2009 [I.R.C. § 2010(c)]. The available unified credit available to a decedent's estate is reduced by any gift tax unified credit used by the decedent during his or her lifetime [see I.R.C. §§ 2010(c), 2505; see also § 453.10].

Husbands and wives are each entitled to a separate unified credit. The amount each spouse can shelter depends on the year of death [I.R.C. § 2010(c)].

If the foreign death tax has not been paid at the time the estate tax return is filed, an estimated credit must be taken. Before the credit is finally allowed, however, evidence must be submitted, in the form of an IRS Form 706 [see § 453.195], certified by the appropriate official of the foreign country, regarding the amounts of tax, credits, refunds, dates of payment, and descriptions of property [Treas. Reg. § 20.2014-5].

Credit for taxes on prior transfers is available if the decedent was the transferee of property that was subject to estate tax in the estate of another decedent (the transferor) who died within 10 years before, or within two years after, the present decedent's death [I.R.C. § 2013(a) (Schedule Q)].

Chapter 453 PROBATE: ESTATE TAX
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Federal Estate And Generation-Skipping Taxes

38-453 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 453.21

§ 453.21 Additions to Tax--Generation-Skipping Transfer Tax

The total transfer taxes imposed because of a decedent's death and reportable on the the federal estate and generation-skipping transfer tax return (IRS Form 706) includes the amount of generation-skipping transfer tax (GST tax) imposed on transfers of property from the decedent's taxable gross estate that occur as a result of, or at the time of, decedent's death and are in the form of direct skips to a "skip person" [I.R.C. § 2612(c); see I.R.C. § 2613 (defining skip persons; § 453.11); Treas. Reg. § 26.2662-1(b)(3)(ii) (GSTs reportable on IRS Form 706)]. This liability, and the liability of any trust from which a direct skip occurs at the time of, or as a result of, decedent's death, are to be computed by the personal representative on Schedules R and R-1. The personal representative then forwards the completed Schedule R-1 to the trustee, who uses it as a payment voucher for GST tax payable by the estate [see Treas. Reg. § 26.2662-1(b), (c); IRS Form 706, Schedule R-1, Instructions for Fiduciary]. If direct skips from a trust arrangement [see Treas. Reg. § 26.2662-1(c)(2)(ii)] involve property with a total value of less than $100,000, however, the personal representative reports those transfers on Schedule R and is liable for the tax [Treas. Reg. § 26.2662-1(c)(2)].

GST tax payable by the estate is due at the same time as the estate tax [Treas. Reg. § 26.2662-1(d)]. The trustee has until two months after the due date of the federal estate (and generation-skipping transfer) tax return, including any applicable extensions, to pay the portion of GST tax reportable on Schedule R-1 [IRS Form 706, Schedule R-1, Instructions for Fiduciary].

Note that GST tax liability also may arise because of taxable distributions or taxable terminations that resulted from or at the same time as the decedent's death, but those are not addressed here [see Treas. Reg. § 26.2662-1(b)(1), (2); IRS Forms 706GS(D), 706GS(D-1), 706GS(T)]. The transferee is liable for payment of any GST tax imposed because of a taxable distribution, but the trustee must complete the IRS Form 706 GS(D-1) and forward it to the transferee if the distribution is from a trust [see I.R.C. § 2603(a)(1); Treas. Reg. § 26.2662-1(b)(1)]. The trustee is liable for payment of GST tax imposed because of a taxable termination from a trust [I.R.C. § 2603(a)(2)].

The amount of GST tax liability in any case is the taxable amount of the transfer, less any portion of exemptions allocated to the particular transfer [see I.R.C. §§ 2631, 2632 (GST exemption)], multiplied by the applicable rate of tax [I.R.C. § 2602; see I.R.C. §§ 2641 (rate), 2642 (inclusion ratio)]. The GST lifetime exemption may be allocated by the decedent to lifetime gifts made by the decedent or by the personal representative on the estate tax return [I.R.C. §§ 2631(a), 2632(a)]. Once made, an allocation is irrevocable [I.R.C. § 2631(b)]. Unless an individual elects to have them not apply [see I.R.C. § 2632(b)(3), (c)(5)], statutory allocation rules apply to allocate the GST tax exemption with respect to direct skips [I.R.C. § 2632(b)] and indirect skips made while a donor is living [I.R.C. § 2632(c), effective for transfers subject to estate or gift tax made after December 31, 2000, and to estate tax inclusion periods ending after December 31, 2000]. Retroactive allocations of the exemption are allowed when there is an unnatural order of death [I.R.C. § 2632(d)(1), effective for deaths of non-skip persons occurring after December 31, 2000]. Any portion of a GST exemption that is not allocated before the time for filing an individual's estate tax return (determined with regard to extensions) [see I.R.C. § 2632(a)] is deemedallocated first to property that is the subject of a direct skip at the individual's death, and second to trusts with respect to which the individual is the transferor and from which a taxable distribution or taxable termination might occur at or after the individual's death [I.R.C. § 2632(e)(1)].

In the case of a direct skip, the taxable amount of the transfer is the value of the property received by the transferee as of the time of the transfer, reduced by the amount of any consideration furnished by the transferee [I.R.C. §§ 2623, 2624(a), (d)]. In the case of direct skips reportable on the federal estate and generation-skipping transfer tax return (IRS Form 706), the value of the property is determined as of the date of death, unless an alternate valuation date [see I.R.C. § 2032, discussed in § 453.62[1]] was elected by the personal representative for estate tax purposes [I.R.C. § 2624(a), (b)]. The special use value [see I.R.C. § 2032A, discussed in § 453.16[2]] may also be applied to direct skips of farm property or closely held business property [I.R.C. § 2624(b)].

The applicable rate of tax for direct skips occurring as a result of, or at, a decedent's death is the maximum federal estate tax rate in effect on the date of death multiplied by the "inclusion ratio" [I.R.C. § 2641]. The inclusion ratio is the excess of one over a fraction [I.R.C. § 2642(a)(1)]. The numerator of the fraction is the amount of the GST exemption [see I.R.C. §§ 2631, 2632] allocated to the trust or, in the case of a direct skip, allocated to the property transferred in that skip [I.R.C. § 2642(a)(2)(A)]. The denominator of the fraction is the value of the property transferred in trust or involved in the direct skip reduced by the sum of (1) any federal estate tax or state death tax actually recovered from the trust attributable to such property, and (2) any charitable deduction allowed [see I.R.C. §§ 2055, 2522] with respect to the property [I.R.C. § 2642(a)(2)(B)].

An existing trust can be severed in a "qualified severance" into two trusts, each of which will be treated as separate trusts [I.R.C. § 2642(a)(3)(A), effective for severances after December 31, 2000]. A qualified severance is defined as the division of a single trust and the creation of two or more trusts if (1) the single trust was divided on a fractional basis, and (2) the terms of the new trusts, in the aggregate, provide for the same succession of interests of beneficiaries as are provided in the original trust. If a trust has an inclusion ratio of greater than zero and less than one, a severance is a qualified severance only if the single trust is divided into two trusts, one of which receives a fractional share of the total value of all trust assets equal to the applicable fraction of the single trust immediately before the severance. In that case, the trust receiving such a fractional share will have an inclusion ratio of zero and the other trust will have an inclusion ratio of one [I.R.C. § 2642(a)(3)(B)]. A trustee may elect to sever a trust in a qualified severance at any time [I.R.C. § 2642(a)(3)(C)].

Chapter 453 PROBATE: ESTATE TAX
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Federal Estate And Generation-Skipping Taxes

38-453 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 453.22

§ 453.22 Requirements for Filing Return

The personal representative must file the federal estate and generation-skipping transfer tax return [I.R.C. § 6018(a), (b); Treas. Reg. § 20.6018-2; see also Sarto v. United States (N.D. Cal. 1983) 563 F. Supp. 476, 478 (duty as nondelegable duty); see also I.R.C. §§ 2208, 2209 (citizens and residents of United States possession); see § 453.192 (separate form for nonresident aliens)].

The estate and generation-skipping transfer tax return must be filed within nine months after the date of the decedent's death, unless an extension is granted [I.R.C. § 6075; Treas. Reg. § 20.6075-1 (estate tax); I.R.C. § 2612(c); Treas. Reg. § 26.2662-1(d) (generation-skipping transfer tax)]. If the return is not filed by the due date, a penalty of 5 percent a month will be imposed on the amount of estate tax due, up to a maximum of 25 percent, until the return is filed. The penalty does not apply if the personal representative can show that the failure to file is due to reasonable cause and not willful neglect [I.R.C. § 6651(a); see Sarto v. United States (N.D. Cal. 1983) 563 F. Supp. 476, 478 (reliance on erroneous advice of attorney was not reasonable cause for failure to file return on time); see also I.R.C. § 6651(f) (additional penalty for fraudulent failure to file)]. An extension of time to file the estate and generation-skipping transfer tax return may be granted if it is impossible or impracticable for the personal representative to file a reasonably complete return within nine months [see I.R.C. § 6081]. See the Comments to see § 453.197 for discussion of the grounds for extension and the length of extension generally permitted. An extension of time for filing the return does not operate to extend the time for payment of the tax [Treas. Reg. § 20.6081-1(c)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Federal Estate And Generation-Skipping Taxes

38-453 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 453.23

§ 453.23 Paying the Tax

[1] In General

The estate tax is due and payable at the same time the return is due and at the same place, unless an extension of time for payment has been granted or the personal representative has elected to defer a portion of the taxes [I.R.C. § 6151(a); see I.R.C. § 6163, discussed in § 453.23[3]] or pay them in installments [Treas. Reg. § 20.6161-1(a), (b); see I.R.C. § 6166, discussed in § 453.41[1]]. Thus, the estate tax payment is due nine months after the date of the decedent's death [I.R.C. § 6075(a); see I.R.C. § 6311 (payment of tax by commercially acceptable means)]. The Internal Revenue Service will impose a penalty of one half of 1 percent of the amount of tax due per month, up to a maximum of 25 percent, for failure to pay the tax with the return when it is due, unless the estate can show that the failure to pay the tax is due to reasonable cause and not willful neglect [I.R.C. § 6651(a)(2)].

[2] Deferral of Tax Attributable to Closely Held Business Interests

If more than 35 percent of the decedent's adjusted gross estate (gross estateminus deductions for debts, expenses, claims, and losses) consists of the value of an interest in a closely held business, a personal representative may elect to defer taxes attributable to those interests for five years (paying interest only on the tax due), and thereafter pay the tax in equal installments over the next two or more (but not exceeding 10) years [I.R.C. § 6166(a); see I.R.C. § 2661(2) (making provision applicable to generation-skipping transfer tax); see also I.R.C. § 6166(c) (rule for two or more closely held businesses)]. For purposes of this provision, an "interest in a closely held business" includes any interest in a proprietorship, or a partnership or corporation, that has no more than 45 partners or shareholders (15 partners or shareholders for decedents dying before 2002), or in which 20 percent or more of its assets or voting stock is included in the decedent's gross estate [I.R.C. § 6166(b)(1)]. Only that portion of the total estate tax that is attributable to closely held business interests may be paid in installments [see I.R.C. § 6166(a)(2)].

This election is made by checking the appropriate line on a timely filed estate tax return, which must be accompanied by a notice of election containing the following information [I.R.C. § 6166(d); Treas. Reg. 20.6166-1(b)]:

- The decedent's name and taxpayer identification number as they appear on the estate (and generation-skipping transfer) tax return;

- The amount of the tax that is to be paid in installments;

- The date selected for payment of the first installment;

- The number of total installments, including the first installment, in which the tax is to be paid;

- The properties shown on the estate (and generation-skipping transfer) tax return that constitute the closely held business interest (identified by schedule and item number); and

- The facts that formed the basis for the personal representative's conclusion that the estate qualifies for payment of the estate (and generation-skipping transfer) tax in installments.

If the installment payment election is made, a special lien procedure is available that relieves the personal representative from personal liability for the entire installment period. The personal representative and beneficiaries must file a written agreement consenting to creation of the lien in favor of the government, in lieu of a bond. The agreement must designate a responsible person to deal with the IRS as an agent for the beneficiaries and any other parties who consented to the lien. The IRS may not require a bond except to the extent that there is no adequate security for the unpaid principal plus interest [see I.R.C. § 6324A; see also I.R.C. § 2661(2) (provision is applicable to generation-skipping transfer tax)].

[3] Deferral of Tax Attributable to Reversionary or Remainder Interests

Any portion of the estate (or generating-skipping transfer) tax attributable to a reversionary or remainder interest held by the decedent and included in his or her gross estate may be postponed until six months after the termination of the intervening interest or interests in the property [I.R.C. § 6163(a); Treas. Reg. § 20.6163-1(a)(1); see I.R.C. § 2661(2) (generation-skipping transfer tax)]. The amount of the tax that may be postponed is that portion of the estate tax that bears the same ratio that the remainder or reversionary interest, reduced by specified claims, losses, and any charitable or marital deduction allowed with respect to that interest, bears to the gross estate, reduced by similar deductions [Treas. Reg. § 20.6163-1(c)].

This extension is a matter of election by the personal representative and is not in the discretion of the IRS. Nevertheless, a further extension for a reasonable period not in excess of three years from the expiration of the original six-month period of postponement may be granted by the IRS on a showing of reasonable cause [I.R.C. § 6163(b)].

Notice of the exercise of the election to postpone the payment of the tax attributable to a reversionary or remainder interest must be filed with the district director before the date prescribed for payment of the tax. The notice of election may be made in the form of a letter addressed to the district director. There must be filed with the notice of election a certified copy of the will or other instrument under which the reversionary or remainder interest was created, or a copy verified by the personal representative if the instrument is not filed of record. The district director may require the submission of additional proof if he or she deems it necessary to disclose the complete facts. If the duration of the precedent interest is dependent on the life of any person, the notice of election must show the date of birth of that person [Treas. Reg. § 20.6163-1(b)].

An extension may require the furnishing of a bond [I.R.C. §§ 6163(c), 6165].

[4] Flower Bonds

Certain issues of treasury bonds, called "flower bonds," issued prior to March 4, 1971, are acceptable at par plus accrued interest in payment of estate taxes if the bonds were owned by the decedent at the time of his or her death [see former I.R.C. § 6312; Pub. L. No. 92-5 § 4(a)(2)]. IRS Form PD 1782, which is available from Federal Reserve Banks and is reproduced at Form 467, must be submitted as an application for redemption of the bonds in payment of the estate tax. All eligible bonds are described in the Comments to Form 467. It is suggested that the application for redemption be submitted several weeks prior to the date on which the return is filed to facilitate calculation of the amount of tax that will have to be paid from other sources.

[5] Redemption of Stock to Pay Death Taxes and Expenses

The redemption of stock in a closely held corporation, the value of which was included in a decedent's gross estate (or of stock that takes as its basis the basis of stock that was included in the gross estate), may be treated as a distribution in full payment in exchange for the stock so redeemed, rather than as a dividend, if it does not exceed in amount the sum of the estate, inheritance, and succession taxes on the estate, plus the funeral and administrator's expenses allowable as deductions from the gross estate under I.R.C. § 2053 (or 2106 in the case of a nonresident, not a citizen) for federal estate tax purposes [I.R.C. § 303(a)]. The effect of I.R.C. § 303 is to treat any distribution in redemption of the stock as a capital gain to the extent the amount distributed exceeds the basis of the stock that is redeemed [I.R.C. § 303(a)].

The stock must be redeemed from the personal representative of an estate or from a shareholder who acquired the stock from the estate, including an heir, legatee, or donee of the decedent; a surviving joint tenant, surviving spouse, appointee, or taker in default of appointment; or a trustee of a trust created by the decedent. A shareholder who has acquired the shares by gift or purchase from any person to whom those shares have passed from the decedent or from the personal representative in satisfaction of a specific monetary bequest, however, is not eligible for the benefits of I.R.C. § 303 [Treas. Reg. § 1.303-2(f)]. I.R.C. § 303 is applicable only if the value of the stock included in the gross estate exceeds 35 percent of the adjusted gross estate (the gross estate minus the deductions for expenses and losses). The redemption must take place within a specified period of time in order to be eligible [I.R.C. § 303(b)(1)]. Although there is no requirement that the proceeds must be used to pay the taxes or expenses or that the shareholder whose stock is redeemed should have paid the expenses or taxes, the stock that can qualify for capital gain treatment is limited to stock that is redeemed from a shareholder whose interest in the estate is reduced (either directly or through a binding obligation to contribute) by the payment of the death taxes and expenses [I.R.C. § 303(b)(3)].

The personal representative may be discharged from personal liability for the estate and generation-skipping transfer tax by paying the amount of tax determined to be due within nine months after he or she applies for discharge or nine months after filing the return, whichever is later [I.R.C. § 2204(a); see I.R.C. § 2661(2)]. An estate and generation-skipping transfer tax return must be filed for the estate of a nonresident alien if the part of his or her gross estate having a situs in the United States, plus the sum of (1) the gift tax exemption allowed with respect to gifts made between September 9, 1976, and December 31, 1976, inclusive [see former I.R.C. § 2521], and (2) the total taxable gifts [see I.R.C. § 2001(b)] made after December 31, 1976, that are not included in the gross estate, exceeds $60,000 [I.R.C. § 6018(a)(2), (3)].

IRS Form 706 NA [see § 453.192] is used for the estates of nonresident aliens. This return must be filed and the estate and generation-skipping transfer tax paid within nine months after a decedent's death. In general, nonresident aliens are entitled to the same filing and payment extensions as United States citizens and residents, with the exception of the installment payment extensions [see I.R.C. § 6166(a)(1)].

§ 453.26 Postmortem Tax Planning

[1] In General

The death of an individual has many tax consequences. Careful planning during administration of the estate with the purpose of limiting both estate and income tax liabilities is necessary. Tax considerations should weigh heavily in making any postmortem decisions with respect to the decedent's estate. Decisions may effect substantial tax savings with respect to (1) the decedent's final income tax return, (2) the decedent's estate and generation-skipping transfer tax return, (3) the fiduciary income tax return of the estate, and (4) the income and estate tax returns of the estate's beneficiaries. For further discussion of such tax planning, and discussion and forms relating to estate income taxes, see California Probate Practice, Ch. 15, Taxation of Estates (Matthew Bender).

[2] Decedent's Final Income Tax Return

A decedent's final income tax return must be filed on the same day it would have been due had the decedent lived [Treas. Reg. § 1.6072-1(b)]. If the decedent's surviving spouse does not remarry before the close of the tax year, the personal representative may file a joint return with the surviving spouse or a separate return for the decedent [I.R.C. § 6013(a)(2)]. Although a decedent's separate return will include only the separate income and deductions of the decedent that were properly realized or paid before death, a joint return may produce a lower tax because it permits the spouse to offset income received after the decedent's death against deductions claimed by the decedent. The decedent's deductions could be lost on a separate return because the decedent's death cuts off his or her income, possibly leaving an insufficient amount of income to offset against the deductions [see also Rev. Rul. 74-175, 1974-1 C.B. 52 (current capitallosses and expiring capital loss carryovers of decedent may not be utilized by estate, but must be recognized on decedent's final income tax return or lost)].

The personal representative may also have an election to make with respect to Series "E" or "EE" bonds. A cash-basis taxpayer who owns those bonds may elect to report annually the increase in the bonds' value or may defer the reporting of the income, as interest, until the bonds are redeemed [I.R.C. § 454(a)]. If the decedent was a cash-basis taxpayer and had not reported bond interest as income annually before his or her death, the person who files decedent's final income tax return may make the election to report as income on that return all interest earned prior to the decedent's date of death in the current year [see Treas. Reg. § 1.451-1(a) (taxable year ends on date of death); see also IRS Ltr. Rul. 7801001 (no income tax deduction for estate tax attributable to interest)].

The personal representative also has a choice with respect to medical expenses of the decedent paid within one year after the date of the decedent's death. Those expenses may be deducted either on the decedent's final income tax return or on the estate tax return [see I.R.C. § 213(c)]. Consideration should be given to which deduction will yield the greatest tax savings [see I.R.C. § 213(a) (medical expenses as deductible for income tax purposes only to extent that they exceed 7.5 percent of adjusted gross; thus, deduction as usually more beneficial if taken on estate tax return)].

[3] Decedent's Estate and Generation-Skipping Transfer Tax Return

Perhaps the most important election that must be made with respect to a decedent's estate and generation-skipping transfer tax return is the election of the valuation date for purposes of valuing the gross estate. The personal representative may elect to value the decedent's estate either at the date of death or at the alternate valuation date [see I.R.C. § 2032, discussed in § 453.62[1]]. This election, of course, has the effect of increasing or decreasing the estate tax base. The special valuation provision for farms and closely held businesses may also be elected if applicable [see I.R.C. § 2032A, discussed in § 453.16[2]].

In addition, several options are available in connection with the payment of estate and generation-skipping transfer taxes. For example, it may be appropriate to utilize the special provision for redeeming stock to pay death taxes [see I.R.C. § 303, discussed in § 453.23[5]]; or to elect to pay estate and qualifying generation-skipping transfer taxes in installments over an extended period of time [see I.R.C. § 6166, discussed in § 453.41[1]].

[4] Fiduciary Income Tax Return

An estate is a new taxable entity and accordingly may choose any fiscal year for its first taxable period [see I.R.C. § 641]. It is not required to use the same tax year as the decedent or to maintain its accounting records on the same basis as those of the decedent. The only rules that must be observed are that the fiscal year cannot be longer than 12 months and that it must end on the last day of a month [see I.R.C. § 441; but see I.R.C. § 443(a)(2); Treas. Reg. § 1.441-1T (short final year)]. There are several benefits that may be derived from the choice of a fiscal year. If the income of the estate is large, the choice of a short first fiscal year, for example, six months, may afford income tax advantages by taxing that portion of the income at lower income tax rates. In addition, if income is being distributed to the beneficiaries, the time for the payment of the tax on that income can be postponed. Income from an estate is taxable to the beneficiary in the taxable year with which or within which the taxable year of the estate ends [see I.R.C. § 662].

The personal representative must also make the election regarding deduction of expenses of administration and losses during administration of the estate. These deductions may be taken either on the estate tax return or the fiduciary return, but not on both. Although substantial tax savings may be accomplished by the shifting of deductions from the estate tax return to the income tax return of the estate, the personal representative should be extremely cautious in making such a move as shifting the deductions may increase the estate tax and decrease the allowable marital deduction [see California Probate Practice, Ch. 15, Taxation of Estates (Matthew Bender)].

[5] Distributions to Beneficiaries

In the absence of specific bequests, the personal representative is customarily authorized to determine whether high-basis or low-basis property is to be distributed to a beneficiary. Distributing low-basis property to certain beneficiaries has the effect of distributing built-in tax liability to them. Distribution decisions will, therefore, affect the income taxes payable on subsequent sales of the distributed assets by the beneficiaries [see California Probate Practice, Ch. 15, Taxation of Estates (Matthew Bender)].

§ 453.27 Basis of Property Acquired at Death

[1] Taken by Beneficiary

The basis of property acquired from a decedent by bequest, inheritance, and the like is generally its fair market value at the date of the decedent's death [I.R.C. § 1014(a)]. If the personal representative elects to value the estate by using the alternate valuation method under I.R.C. § 2032, however, the value used to determine the basis of the property will be the value at the date six months after the date of death if the property is not sold, distributed, or otherwise disposed of within six months after the decedent's death [I.R.C. § 2032(a)(2)]. If the property is disposed of within six months, the value of the property is the value at the time of its disposition [I.R.C. § 2032(a)(1)]. The valuation of property for estate tax purposes must also be used by the heir or devisee in determining the basis of theinherited property, regardless of whether that value is greater or less than the decedent's basis for the property. Finally, if the personal representative elects to value a farm or closely held business using the special valuation method under I.R.C. § 2032A, the value of the property for purposes of determining basis will be established under the special rules of that method, that is, by reference to the property's actual use [see I.R.C. § 2032A]. Property received from decedents dying after 2009 does not receive and automatic stepped-up basis [I.R.C. § 1014(f)]. Instead, a modified carryover basis rule applies, under which the basis of the property is the lesser of the decedent's adjusted basis or the fair market value of the property at the decedent's death [I.R.C. § 1022(a)(2)].

[2] Exception for Gifts of Appreciated Property Made to Decedent Within One Year of Death

The stepped-up basis rules of I.R.C. § 1014 do not apply to appreciated property acquired by a decedent as a gift within one year of his or her death if the property passes, directly or indirectly, from the donee-decedent back to the original donor or the donor's spouse [I.R.C. § 1014(e)]. The denial of a stepped-up basis applies if the donor-beneficiary receives the benefit of the appreciated property regardless of whether the bequest by the decedent to the donor is specific, general, pecuniary, or residuary [Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981, Pub. L. No. 97-34, H.R. Comm. Rep. No. 201, 97th Cong., 1st Sess. 188-189 (1981)]. In the case of a pecuniary bequest, however, a stepped-up basis will be denied only if the inclusion of the appreciated property in the estate of the decedent affects the amount that the donor-beneficiary receives under the pecuniary bequest. In addition, if the donor beneficiary is only entitled to receive a portion of the appreciated property, the rule applies only on a pro rata basis [see I.R.C. § 1014(e)(2)(A) (pecuniary gift is unlikely to constitute appreciated property)].

No gift or inheritance tax is imposed in California, except as described below [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13301; see CA Form ET-1]. If federal estate tax is payable, a California estate tax is imposed that is equal to the portion, if any, of the maximum allowable federal credit for state death taxes paid that is attributable to property located in California [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13302]. The imposition of the California estate tax is not intended to increase the total state and federal estate tax due over what would have been payable without the imposition of a California estate tax [*Rev. & Tax. § 453.41 Property Subject to Tax

[1] In General

The property of a California resident decedent that is subject to the California estate tax includes real property located in California, tangible personal property actually located in California, and all intangible personal property, whether located within or without California, or subject to California's jurisdiction [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 13402, 13407]. If the decedent was a resident of the United States but not a resident of California, real property and tangible personal property located in California are subject to the California estate tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 13402, 13408]. A decedent is treated as a California resident if he or she was domiciled in California at the time of death [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 13407, 13408].

The estates of decedents who were not residents of the United States are subject to California estate tax to the extent of real property and tangible personal property actually located in California and intangible personal property in California. In this context, intangible personal property located in California includes the stock of a corporation organized, having its principal place of business, or doing the major portion of its business in California, and the stock of a federal corporation or national bank that has its principal place of business or does the major part of its business in California [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13402(b)]. Nevertheless, intangible personal property consisting of savings accounts in savings and loan associations operated under the Division of Savings and Loan or the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and bank deposits, unless the bank deposits are held and used in connection with a business that is wholly or partially conducted in California, are not subject to the California estate tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13402(b)].

For a discussion of specific items of estate property that are subject to the California and federal estate taxes, see § 453.10 et seq. and § 453.40 et seq.

[2] Deferral of Tax Attributable to Closely Held Business Interests

For decedents dying on or after January 1, 1999, the provisions of I.R.C. § 6166, as in effect on January 1, 1998, apply to permit payment of state estate taxes in installments [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13534; see I.R.C. § 6166, before amendment by P.L. 105-206, § 6007(c) (July 22, 1998); see also § 453.23[2]]. In addition, the provisions of I.R.C. § 6601(j), which provide for a lower rate of interest on installments of estate tax attributable to a closely held business interest, apply in lieu of the rate provided in Rev. & Tax. Code § 13550 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13534].

A federal estate (and generation-skipping transfer) tax return (IRS Form 706) must be filed with the California return [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13501; see § 453.190]. The time for filing the California return is the same as the filing period, including extensions, for federal estate (and generation-skipping transfer) tax returns [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13502]. If the California return is not filed within the requisite period, a penalty of 5 percent of the tax due is assessed each month, not to exceed an aggregate of 25 percent, together with any interest due with respect to the nonpayment of tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13510; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 13550]. The penalty will not be imposed, however, if the failure to file the return is due to reasonable cause [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13510]. If the federal penalty for failure to file a timely return is waived, that waiver is deemed to constitute reasonable cause under California law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13510].

If a decedent was not a resident of California on the date of death, the personal representative must file a Declaration Concerning Residence on California State Form IT-2 [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 14501(a)-(e); see § 453.221].

§ 453.43 Payment of Tax

Any California estate tax due must be paid within nine months after the date of a decedent's death [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 13531, 13532]. If payment is delinquent, interest at the rate for underpayment of estate tax provided in I.R.C. § 6621(a)(2) is imposed beginning on the date on which payment became delinquent and continuing until payment is made. Interest on a delinquent payment is compounded daily [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13550(a)]. The underpayment rate under I.R.C. § 6621(a)(2) is the I.R.C. § 1274(d) federal short-term rate plus three percentage points. For delinquent amounts unpaid on or after January 1, 1999, to and including December 31, 2000, interest was payable at the underpayment rate provided in I.R.C. § 6621(a)(2) as in effect on January 1, 1998 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13550(b); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 13550 before amendment by Stats. 2000, Ch. 363]. The applicable underpayment rate as of that date was the I.R.C. § 1274(d) federal short-term rate plus two percentage points [I.R.C. § 6621(a)(2), before amendment by P.L. 105-206, § 3302(a) (July 22, 1998)].

In the case of a false or fraudulent return or a failure to file a return, the Controller may determine the tax at any time [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13517]. In all other cases, the Controller may determine if a deficiency is due up to four years after the filing of a return [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13516]. If a deficiency is determined in an erroneous amount, the Controller may, within three years after the erroneous determination was made, set aside the determination or issue an amended determination in the correct amount [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13518]. In any case in which it is claimed that a deficiency has been determined in an erroneous amount, any person who is liable for the tax may, within three years after the deficiency determination is made, bring an action against the state in the proper superior court to have the tax modified in whole or in part [*Rev. & Tax. When the Controller determines that the California estate tax has been overpaid, the person making payment is entitled to a refund of the amount erroneously paid on presenting satisfactory proof to the Controller that he or she is entitled to a refund [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13560]. An application for the refund must be made to the Controller within one year after the date on which the federal estate tax has been finally determined [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13561]. Interest is paid on any overpayment of tax in the same manner as provided in I.R.C. §§ 6621(a)(1) and 6622 for periods beginning before July 1, 2002 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13563(a)]. Under I.R.C. § 6621(a)(1), the interest rate for overpayments of tax is the federal short-term rate plus three percentage points. The interest is compounded daily [I.R.C. § 6622]. Interest on overpayments for periods beginning on or after July 1, 2002 is computed as provided in Rev. & Tax. Code § 13563(b) and (c).

If any personal representative fails to pay any California estate tax, interest, or penalty at the time those amounts become due and payable, the amounts, together with any additional costs, become a perfected and enforceable state tax lien [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13610(a)]. The lien continues in effect for 10 years from the time at which a deficiency determination is issued [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13610(b)(1)]. The lien is extinguished at the termination of that 10-year period, unless it is released or otherwise discharged at an earlier date [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13610(b)(1)]. The lien is preserved if it is recorded or filed pursuant to Gov. Code § 7171 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13610(b)(1)]. 38-453 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 453.48

§ 453.48 Determination of Decedent's Domicile

[1] Three Methods Available

California has adopted the Uniform Act on Interstate Compromise of Death Taxes (Rev. & Tax. Code § 13801 et seq.), the Uniform Act on Interstate Arbitration of Death Taxes (Rev. & Tax. Code § 13820 et seq.), and an alternative method for determining a decedent's domicile by arbitration (Rev. & Tax. Code § 13830 et seq.). These provisions establish three methods of determining the amount of California estate tax and death taxes due to another state when a controversy exists as to where the decedent was domiciled at the time of death [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 13801-13830.13].

Both uniform acts apply to estates, whether the decedent died before or after their enactment in California [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 13810.4, 13820.13]. Rev. & Tax. Code § 13830 et seq., establishing the alternative arbitration procedure, does not include an express provision extending its operation to the estates of decedents who died prior to its enactment [but see Stats. 1982, ch. 1535, § 17 (statutes will apply only to estates of decedents dying after effective date, to transfers occuring by reason of death occuring after effective date, and to gifts completed after effective date if appellate court holds earlier application to be invalid)].

[2] Uniform Act on Interstate Compromise of Death Taxes

Under the Uniform Act on Interstate Compromise of Death Taxes (Rev. & Tax. Code § 13801 et seq.), the Controller, the taxing authorities of the other state, and the personal representative of the estate make a written agreement that stipulates that a certain sum is to be accepted in full satisfaction of any and all death taxes imposed by California, including any interest to the date of filing the agreement, and that a certain amount is to be accepted by the other states in full satisfaction of death taxes [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13810]. The stipulated amount is to be paid within 90 days of the filing of the agreement, after which period interest begins to accrue [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13810]. The time between the decedent's death and the filing of the agreement is not included in the subsequent interest computation [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13810].

[3] Uniform Act on Interstate Arbitration of Death Taxes

Under the Uniform Act on Interstate Arbitration of Death Taxes (Rev. & Tax. Code § 13820 et seq.), the California Controller, the appropriate taxing authorities of the other state, and the personal representative of the estate make a written agreement that stipulates that the issue of the decedent's domicile at the time of death is to be submitted to a board of arbitrators [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13820].

The parties at any time may make an agreement fixing the amounts to be accepted by California and any other state involved in full satisfaction of death taxes [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13820.7]. If no agreement is forthcoming, the board has authority to hold hearings on the issue and determine by majority vote the decedent's domicile at the time of death [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 13820.1-13820.3]. The board's determination is final only for the purposes of imposing and collecting death taxes [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13820.3]. If the board determines that the decedent died domiciled in California, interest, if any, for nonpayment of death taxes between the date of the parties' agreement and the board's determination is not to exceed 10 percent per annum [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13820.6].

The Uniform Act on Interstate Arbitration of Death Taxes is only applicable if each state involved has a law identical or substantially similar to the uniform act [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13820.9].

[4] Alternative Arbitration Method

Under the alternative method for determining a decedent's domicile by arbitration, the personal representative or the taxing official of any state that claims to be the decedent's domicile may elect to have a special arbitration board appointed [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13830.1]. All interested parties must be notified of the election by registered mail, including the taxing official of each state claiming to be the decedent's domiciliary, each personal representative and ancillary administrator, and any other interested persons [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13830.1]. Any personal representative may reject the election within 40 days after receipt of the notice of election by sending a notice, by registered mail, to all persons originally required to be sent a notice of election [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13830.1]. If an election is rejected by a personal representative, the alternative arbitration method may not be utilized [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13830.1]. If the election is not rejected within the 40-day period, the dispute regarding death taxes is determined solely under the alternative arbitration method. No other proceedings to determine or assess death taxes may thereafter be prosecuted in any court of California or otherwise [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13830.1].

If the election is not rejected, the Controller, the other state's taxing officials, and the personal representatives may enter into a written agreement to accept a certain sum in full payment of any death taxes, together with interest and penalties, provided that the amount to be paid other states as well as the amount to be paid to California is fixed [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13830.2]. If the aggregate amount payable under the agreement is less than the minimum credit allowable tothe estate against the federal estate tax imposed, the personal representative must also pay to California the same percentage of the difference between that aggregate amount and the amount of that credit as the amount payable to California under the agreement bears to the aggregate amount found to be due [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13830.11].

If the parties cannot reach an agreement within one year after the date of the election, the issue of the decedent's domicile is to be submitted to a board of arbitrators [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13830.3]. If California and only one other state are involved, the Controller and the taxing official of the other state each appoint a board member, and these members then appoint a third member [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13830.4]. If California and more than one other state are involved, the taxing officials of each state must agree on three states not involved in the dispute, and the taxing officials of those three states each appoint three board members [*Rev. & Tax. The board has authority to hold hearings on the issue, applying federal rules of evidence whenever practicable, and to determine the decedent's domicile at the time of death [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 13830.6-13830.8]. The board's determination is final, conclusive, and binding on the state of California and all of its judicial and administrative officials [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13830.8]. If, however, the board does not render a determination within one year from the time at which it is fully constituted, the board's authority is terminated, and court proceedings may be initiated [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13830.8; see Rev. & Tax. Code §§

If the board determines that the decedent was domiciled in the state of California, the total amount of interest and penalties for nonpayment of the tax between the date of the election to utilize the alternative arbitration method and the board's final determination is not to exceed 12 percent per annum [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13830.12].

Commissioner (1987) 89 T.C. 939, 942-943*

California statute [Prob. Code § 21523] and transition rule reflects presumption that decedents with pre-ERTA wills probably intended to pass marital deduction in amount calculated under pre-ERTA formula, namely, greater of $250,000 or one half of value of adjusted gross estate. Estate of Libeu (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 1436, 1446, 253 Cal. Rptr. 456

United States (N.D. Cal. 1972) 347 F. Supp. 95, 97* ; but see I.R.C. § 2032A (may be used to alleviate severity of general approach)

Amount received from sale of real estate (made within reasonable period after decedent's death in manner calculated to ensure highest possible price) establishes value; sale of similar property in vicinity is relevant evidence of value; market activity immediately prior to and subsequent to death is valid consideration. Wilson v. Commissioner (1926) 5 B.T.A. 615, 615-616

[9] Special Use Value Election

[a] Effect on Marital Deduction

If will directed fractional share marital deduction bequest to be based on valuations used in settling estate tax liabilities, applicable fraction is calculated using special use value of woodlands shown on estate tax return rather than value assigned by probate inventory and appraisal. Estate of Libeu (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 1436, 1447-1451, 253 Cal. Rptr. 456

I.R.C. § 2032A(c)(5), making qualified heir personally responsible for recapture tax, preempts former Code Civ. Proc. § 730.13(c) (now see Prob. Code § 16312(d)(5)) and former Prob. Code § 973 (now see Prob. Code § 20113); thus, if recapture tax is owed for special use value property held in trust, adjusted tax difference isallocated among trust beneficiaries in proportion to respective values of property interest held by each. Estate of Libeu (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 1436, 1443-1445, 253 Cal. Rptr. 456

Code § 21523*) are only applicable to require use of former I.R.C. § 2056 to calculate marital deduction under pre-ERTA will; thus, entire pre-ERTA estate tax law is applicable, and special use valuation of woodlands, first permitted by ERTA, is available for return of decedent who died in 1982 having pre-ERTA will. Estate of Libeu (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 1436, 1448-1449, 253 Cal. Rptr. 456

[10] Stocks and Bonds (Schedule B)

Redemption price provides basis of valuation for mutual fund shares (as distinguished from asking price as specified in Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-8(b)). United States v. Cartwright (1973) 411 U.S. 546, 552, 557, 93 S. Ct. 1713, 36 L. Ed. 2d 528

Bid and asked prices of 35-percent interest in unregistered stock are properly discounted to reflect restrictions on trading; fact that stock was acquired one year after decedent's death for twice estate tax value is irrelevant because acquisition was not foreseeable at date of death. Trust Services of America, Inc. v. United States (9th Cir. 1989) 885 F.2d 561, 568-569

Sales, not at arm's length, of shares of unlisted, closely held stock did not control value of those shares for estate tax purposes. Righter v. United States (Ct. Cl. 1971) 439 F.2d 1204, 1209

Burden of proof in valuing close corporation stocks and bonds rests on estate. Gamble v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue (6th Cir. 1939) 101 F.2d 565, 567 , cert. denied, 306 U.S. 664

App. 4th 1901, 1908-1910, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 806*

City Bank Farmers Trust Co. (1935) 296 U.S. 85, 89-92, 56 S. Ct. 70, 80 L. Ed. 62 , reh'g denied, 296 U.S. 664, 56 S. Ct. 303, 80 L. Ed. 473*

Value of trust property over which trustor had power of direction is included in gross estate under I.R.C. § 2038(a)(1) even though power could be exercised only in conjunction with some of beneficiaries. Swain v. U.S. (1998) 147 F.3d 564, 565 ; see also Bowgren v. Commissioner (7th Cir. 1997) 105 F.3d 1156 (leaving open question of whether power to direct trustee in conjunction with all beneficiaries would cause property to be included in gross estate)

Gift under former California Uniform Gifts to Minors Act (Civ. Code § 1154 et seq.) of which decedent was custodian on date of death is includable in donor's gross estate as transfer with retained life interest under I.R.C. § 2038. Eichstedt v. United States (N.D. Cal. 1972) 354 F. Supp. 484, 488

Critical question regarding when lifetime transfer was intended to take effect is when significant change of possession and enjoyment occurs; inter vivos transfer vesting trustee with full rights of management and control of corpus, except requiring trustee to obtain beneficiaries' consent before selling property, and directing full distribution of trust assets at decedent's death, takes effect at decedent's death and thus is includable in decedent's gross estate. Estate of Butler (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 781, 789-790, 166 Cal. Rptr. 711, 613 P.2d 1245

§ 453.101 Obtain List of Assets Includable in Gross Estate

1. Property that the decedent owned at death [I.R.C. § 2031; see § 453.13].

NOTE:

Property held by the decedent and surviving spouse as community property is includable in the gross estate to the extent of the decedent's interest in that property under the applicable law of the state or possession of the United States or of the foreign country [see I.R.C. § 2033; Hurley v. Hartley (10th Cir. 1967) 379 F.2d 205, 207 ; Eichstedt v. United States (N.D. Cal. 1972) 354 F. Supp. 484, 487-488 ; see U.S. v. Goodyear (9th Cir. 1938) 99 F.2d 523] .

2. Transfers made by the decedent during life [I.R.C. §§ 2035-2038; see § 453.190, Schedule G].

NOTE:

A transfer made during the decedent's life and constituting a bona fide sale for an adequate consideration in money or money's worth will remove the transferred property from the estate of the transferor. To constitute a bona fide sale for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth, a transfer must have been made in good faith, and the price must have been an adequate and full equivalent and reducible to a money value. If the price was less than an adequate and full equivalent, only the excess of the fair market value of the property, as of the valuation date, over the price received by the decedent should be included in the gross estate [I.R.C. § 2043].

a. Taxes paid by the decedent or decedent's estate on gifts made by the decedent or the decedent's spouse within three years before the date of the decedent's death [I.R.C. § 2035(b); see § 453.13[12]]. Counsel should obtain copies of the gift tax returns (IRS Form 709) filed by decedent and his or her spouse covering the three-year period ending on the date of death [see § 453.191, Instructions for Schedule G].

b. Certain transfers made by decedent within three years before death, in trust or otherwise, that were not bona fide sales [I.R.C. § 2035(a); see § 453.13[12][b]].

NOTE:
Except for certain types of transfers [see I.R.C. §§ 2036-2042], most interests transferred and within three years before the date of the decedent's death are not included in the decedent's gross estate [I.R.C. § 2035(a)].

c. Transfers with retained life estate [I.R.C. § 2036; see § 453.13[9][c]].

d. Transfers taking effect at the decedent's death [I.R.C. § 2037; see § 453.13[9][d]].

e. Revocable transfers [I.R.C. § 2038; see § 453.13[9][e]].

5. Property over which the decedent possessed a general power of appointment [I.R.C. § 2041; see § 453.190, Schedule H, and discussion in § 453.13[13]].

NOTE:
The includability of a general power of appointment in the decedent's gross estate may depend on when the power was created [I.R.C. § 2041].

6. Proceeds of life insurance on the decedent's life [I.R.C. § 2042; see § 453.190, Schedule D, and discussion in § 453.13[8][a]].

7. Life insurance policies owned by the decedent insuring the life of another [I.R.C. §§ 2031, 2033; Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-8(a); see § 453.190, Schedule F, and discussion in § 453.13[8][b]].

8. Signature cards; stock certificates; gift tax returns; other agreements, statements, or receipts relating to gifts made by the decedent; or community property gifts by the decedent and/or decedent's spouse, under California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act, and for which the decedent was acting as custodian at the time of his or her death [see I.R.C. § 2038; *Eichstedt v. Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This format is a reproduction of IRS Form 706NA, the United States Estate (and Generation-Skipping Transfer) Tax Return, Estate of Nonresident Not a Citizen of the United States. This return must be filed for the estate of every nonresident not a citizen of the United States if the value of that part of the gross estate located (or assigned a situs) in the United States on the date of the decedent's death, plus the sum of (1) the gift tax exemption allowed with respect to gifts made between September 9, 1976, and December 31, 1976, inclusive [see former I.R.C. § 2521], and (2) the total taxable gifts [see I.R.C. § 2001(b)] made after December 31, 1976, that are not included in the gross estate, exceeds $60,000 [I.R.C. § 6018(a)(2), (3); see I.R.C. §§ 2104, 2105 (situs rules)]. The instructions to IRS Form 706NA are also reproduced.

The personal representative of the nonresident's estate should obtain the United States Estate (and Generation-Skipping Transfer) Tax Return (IRS Form 706) and the instructions for it to use in completing the nonresident return. Schedules from IRS Form 706 must be attached to the nonresident return to substantiate a marital or chartiable deduction or a credit on prior transfers. Schedules E, G, H, R, and/or R-1 may also have to be attached to the nonresident return in a particular situation [see Instructions to IRS Form 706NA].

Note that the marital deduction is only allowed with respect to property that is situated in the United States at the time of the decedent's death and passes to a surviving spouse who is a resident of the United States or to a qualified domestic trust [I.R.C. §§ 2056(d), 2106(a)(3); see I.R.C. § 2056A(a) (qualified domestic trust)].

Minor revisions to this form are occasionally made by the Internal Revenue Service, so care should be exercised to use only the latest form.

[3] Method of Determining Tax on Estate of Nonresident Aliens

The method of determining the tax imposed on the transfer of an estate of a nonresident decedent not a citizen of the United States is generally similar to the manner in which the tax is calculated with respect to the estate of a citizen or resident [Treas. Reg. § 20.0-2(c)]. Briefly stated, the following steps are involved:

(1) Ascertain the value of that part of the entire gross estate that, at the time of death, was situated in the United States [I.R.C. §§ 2103-2105];

(2) Ascertain the value of the taxable estate by subtracting from the value of the portion of the gross estate situated in the United States the amount of allowable deductions [I.R.C. § 2106];

(3) Compute the gross estate tax by applying the unified rate schedule to the sum of the amount of the taxable estate and the amount of adjusted taxable gifts (post-1976 gifts), and then subtract from such tentative tax liability a tentative tax computed by applying the rate schedule to the amount of adjusted taxable gifts [I.R.C. § 2101]; and

(4) Subtract from the gross estate tax the total amount of any allowable credits in order to arrive at the net estate tax payable [I.R.C. § 2102].

[4] Federal Statutes

Computation of tax on estates of nonresident decedents. I.R.C. § 2101(b)

Unified credit calculated for nonresident decedent who is not U.S. citizen. I.R.C. § 2102(c)(2) redesignated as I.R.C. § 2102(b)(2), effective for estates of decedents dying and generation-skipping transfers after 12/31/04 (see Instructions to IRS Form 706NA)

[5] Decisions

Amount of unified credit allowed to estate of deceased French citizen as matter of construction of treaty [32 U.S.T. 1935, T.I.A.S. No. 9812]; election to take marital deduction and use higher tax rates as not also encompassing right to higher unified credit; only unified credit of $3,600 is allowed. *Estate of Arnaud v. C. I. R. [2] Use of Form

This form is a reproduction of United States Additional Estate (and Generation-Skipping Transfer) Tax Return, IRS Form 706-A. IRS Form 706-A must be filed whenever property that was assigned a special use value under I.R.C. § 2032A for purposes of calculating the estate or generation-skipping transfer tax is disposed of or used for nonqualifying purposes within 10 years after the decedent's death [I.R.C. § 2032A(c)(1)]. The return must be filed, and the tax paid, by the heir who disposes of the property or ceases the qualifying use within six months after the disposition of the property or cessation of the qualifying use, unless an extension is granted. IRS Form 706-A is filed with the office where the original estate tax return was filed [I.R.C. § 2032A(c)(4)].

The additional estate tax is calculated based on the tax savings accrued to the estate due to the special valuation under I.R.C. § 2032A [I.R.C. § 2032A(c)]. Special treatment is available if the property was subject to an involuntary conversion [I.R.C. §§ 2032A(h)].

Minor revisions to this form are occasionally made by the Internal Revenue Service, so care should be exercised to use only the latest form.

This form is a reproduction of IRS Form 712, Life Insurance Statement. For every policy of life insurance listed on Schedule D (insurance on the decedent's life), Schedule F (insurance owned by the decedent on the life or another), or any other schedule that constitutes a part of the gross estate, the personal representative must request a statement on IRS Form 712 from the company that issued the policy and attach the completed IRS Form 712 to the back of the appropriate schedule in the return [see IRS Form 706 and related Instructions; see also I.R.C. § 2042; *Treas. This form is a reproduction of IRS Form 706CE, Certificate of Payment of Foreign Death Tax. If the foreign death tax has not been determined and paid by the time the federal estate and generation-skipping transfer tax return is filed, the credit for the tax may be claimed on the return in an estimated amount. Before the credit is finally allowed, however, satisfactory evidence, certified by an authorized official of each country, possession, or political subdivision imposing the tax, must be submitted [*Treas. [2] Use of Form

This form is a sample letter that may be used by the personal representative of a decedent's estate to make written application to the District Director of the Internal Revenue district in which the estate and generation-skipping transfer taxreturn is filed for a determination of the federal estate and generation-skipping transfer tax and for a discharge of personal liability for those taxes.

Within nine months after receipt of the application or, if the application is made before the return is filed, within nine months after the return is filed, the personal representative will be notified of the amount of the taxes. After paying that amount and after furnishing a bond that may be required for any amount of the taxes for which time for payment is extended [see I.R.C. §§ 6161, 6163, 6166], he or she will be discharged from personal liability for any deficiency in the tax thereafter found to be due [I.R.C. § 2204(a); see I.R.C. § 2661(2) (penalty and liability provisions applicable to generation-skipping transfer tax)].

If no notification is received, the personal representative is discharged at the end of the nine-month period from personal liability for any deficiency thereafter found to be due. The discharge of the personal representative from personal liability applies only to the personal representative in his or her personal capacity and to his or her personal assets. The discharge is not applicable to his or her liability as personal representative to the extent of the assets of the estate in his or her possession or control. Further, the discharge is not to operate as a release of any part of the gross estate from the lien for estate tax for any deficiency that may thereafter be determined to be due [Treas. Reg. § 20.2204-1(a)].

[3] Effect of Extensions of Time to Pay Tax

The personal representative may obtain the discharge from personal liability even though the time for payment of the estate tax has been extended under I.R.C. §§ 6161, 6163, or 6166. If an extension has been given, the personal representative must, in order to obtain the discharge, pay the amount of any estate (and generation-skipping transfer) tax not subject to the extension and furnish a bond, if one is requested by the Internal Revenue Service, for any tax for which the time of payment has been extended [I.R.C. § 2204(a); Treas. Reg. § 20.2204-1; see Treas. Reg. § 301.7101-1 (form of bond)]. On payment of any tax not subject to extension and furnishing of the bond or notification that no bond is required, the personal representative is discharged from personal liability for the estate and generation-skipping transfer tax. If no notification is received, the personal representative is discharged at the end of the applicable nine-month period from personal liability for the tax, even if payment of the tax has been extended [Treas. Reg. § 20.2204-1(b)].

[4] Discharge of Personal Representative's Liability for Tax

A personal representative who has made written application to the Internal Revenue Service for determination of the amount of the estate and generation-skipping transfer tax, and for discharge from personal liability for the tax, is discharged from personal liability for any deficiency in tax thereafter found to be due, on payment of the amount of estate tax of which he or she is notified. IRS Form Letter 626 is used by the Internal Revenue Service to notify the personal representative of the amount of estate tax due. The personal representative may use the form received from the IRS, together with proof of payment of the tax, to establish that his or her personal liability for the estate and generation-skipping tax has been satisfied [Rev. Proc. 70-10, 1970-1 C.B. 437].

The personal representative is also entitled to a receipt or writing showing his or her discharge from personal liability. The United States estate tax certificate of release from personal liability (IRS Form 7990) is used for this purpose.

The personal representative will not be personally liable for any deficiency in tax due that is attributable to adjusted taxable gifts made more than three years before the date of the decedent's death if he or she relies in good faith on the gift tax returns furnished under I.R.C. § 6103(e)(3) to determine the decedent's adjusted taxable gifts [I.R.C. § 2204(d)].

[5] Other Fiduciaries

Other fiduciaries, such as trustees, may be discharged in a manner similar to that in which the personal representative is discharged, except that, in the case of another fiduciary, the request for discharge must be accompanied by a copy of the instrument under which he or she is acting. The discharge of the other fiduciary may be granted after the personal representative has been discharged or, if later, six months after the application for discharge is submitted [I.R.C. § 2204(b); Treas. Reg. § 20.2204-2; see I.R.C. §§ 2603, 2661(2); Treas. Reg. § 26.2662-1(c)-(f) (generation-skipping transfer tax)].

[6] Federal Statutes

Personal representative who knowingly pays other debts of estate at expense of federal estate tax is personally liable for estate tax. 31 U.S.C. § 3713

[7] Revenue Rulings

Personal representative who does not apply for discharge under I.R.C. § 2204(a) is liable on successor representative's default in installment payments of estate tax. Rev. Rul. 76-114, 1976-1 C.B. 290

This form is a reproduction of IRS Form 4768, Application for Extension of Time to File a Return and/or Pay U.S. Estate (and Generation-Skipping Transfer) Taxes. IRS Form 4768 may be used as an application for an extension of time for either or both (1) the filing of the estate and generation-skipping transfer tax return; and/or (2) the payment of the estate and GST tax imposed on direct skipsoccurring at the same time as or as a result of the decedent's death [see § 453.21]. An extension of time for filing the return does not operate to extend the time for payment of the tax [Treas. Reg. § 20.6081-1(c)]. If this form is used only to seek an extension of the time to file the return, payment of the amount of estate and GST tax estimated to be due must accompany the application for extension [see Instructions for IRS Form 4768].

An extension of the time for paying the tax does not relieve the personal representative from the duty of filing the return on or before the due date provided in Treas. Reg. § 20.6075-1 (but due date may include grant of extension) [Treas. Reg. § 20.6161-1(c)(3)].

The IRS has suggested that an extension of six months should be sought if there is a ruling request pending that affects the estate and generation-skipping transfer tax return [Rev. Proc. 82-37, 1982-1 C.B. 491].

Note that a written statement must be attached to the IRS Form 4768 explaining why it is impossible or impractical to file the return within nine months after decedent's date of death or why it is impossible or impractical to pay the taxes by then [see IRS Form 4768]. For a sample statement, see Blaylock, Pearson, Schoknecht, Stikker, California Probate Practice, Ch. 15, Taxation of Estates § 15.09[1][d] (Matthew Bender).

Minor revisions to Form 4768 are occasionally made by the IRS, so care should be taken to use only the latest version.

[3] Interest Charged on Payment of Tax After Due Date

Even if an extension of time to pay the estate (and GST) tax is granted, the estate is still liable for interest on the amount of the tax during the period of the extension [Treas. Reg. § 20.6161-1(c)(2)]. The rate of interest charged is based on the rate established semiannually pursuant to I.R.C. § 6621 [I.R.C. § 6601].

[4] Extensions of Time for Filing Return

If it is impossible or impracticable for the personal representative to file a reasonably complete return within nine months from the date of the decedent's death, the District Director or the director of a service center where the estate and generation-skipping transfer tax return must be filed may, on a showing of good and sufficient cause, grant a reasonable extension of time for filing the return. Unless the personal representative is abroad, the extension may not be for more than six months from the date for filing. Therefore, unless the personal representative is abroad, the due date for filing the return under any extension granted by a District Director or a director of a service center may not be later than 15 months from the date of the decedent's death. The extension may, of course, be for a lesser period of time [Treas. Reg. § 20.6081-1(a)].

[5] Extension of Time for Paying Tax

[a] Reasonable Cause

The District Director or the director of a service center may grant an extension of time beyond the due date to pay any part of the estate (and generation-skipping transfer) tax. An extension may be granted for a reasonable period of time, not to exceed 12 months, at the request of the personal representative of the estate, if an examination of all the facts and circumstances discloses that the request is based on reasonable cause. Examples of reasonable cause for granting an extension of time to pay the taxes provided in Treas. Reg. § 20.6161-1(a)(1) are set forth in the Instructions to IRS Form 4768 [see also I.R.C. 6161(a)(1)]. The extension will be limited to the amount of the cash shortage. Payment of the amount of taxes due in excess of the shortage, as calculated on Part IV of IRS Form 4768, must accompany the application for extension [S. Rep. No. 1444, 91st Cong., 2d Sess., reprinted in 1970 U.S. Code Cong. & Admin. News 5701; see also Instructions to IRS Form 4768].

[b] Extensions up to 10 Years

The time for payment of (1) any part of the estate (and GST) tax owing, or (2) any part of any installment under I.R.C. § 6166 (including any part of a deficiency prorated to any installment under I.R.C. § 6166) may be extended for reasonable cause for any reasonable period not in excess of 10 years from the date prescribed for payment of the estate tax [I.R.C. § 6161(a)(2)]. In the case of installment payments under I.R.C. § 6166 due after the 10-year period, the time for payment may be extended for a period up to 12 months after the due date for the last installment [I.R.C. § 6161(a)(2); see I.R.C. § 2661 (making estate tax provisions applicable to GST)].

[2] Use of Form

This form is a reproduction of IRS Form 2848. IRS Form 2848 may be used, but it is not required, to authorize an attorney in fact (hereinafter "agent") to do any of the acts the personal representative could do with respect to the estate's tax returns, except an agent cannot be authorized to endorse refund checks and or to sign tax returns [see Instructions to IRS Form 2848; but see Treas. Reg.§ 1.6012-1(a)(5) (when agent is authorized to sign return)]. The person appointed as agent on IRS Form 2848 must be a member of one of the classes listed in Part II of Form 2848. If the personal representative wants to appoint some one else, he or she must use IIRS Form 8821 (reproduced at see § 453.199), and, even then, the authority of such an agent is not as broad as the authority of an agent who is qualified to practice before the IRS.

Minor revisions to this form are occasionally made by the IRS, so care should be taken to obtain the latest version of the form.

[3] Other Forms Permitted

Any form of power of attorney that complies with the IRS conference and practice regulations [Treas. Reg. § 601.501 et seq.] may be used instead of IRS Form 2848 to appoint the agent [see Instructions to IRS Form 2848].

[4] When Not to Use IRS Forms 2848

If the personal representative only wants to authorize one person to receive confidential information and/or to make written or oral presentations of fact or argument on his or her behalf, he or she does not have to file IRS Form 2848. Completing the authorization on Part 4 of IRS Form 706 [reproduced at see § 453.190] is sufficient. The authorization and appointment in Part 4 of IRS Form 706 will not be sufficient, however, to authorize the agent to execute closing agreements [see I.R.C. § 7121] on behalf of the estate. Appointment on IRS Form 2848, or some other express delegation of that authority, is necessary to delegate the authority to execute closing agreements [see Rev. Proc. 68-16 , § 6.07, 1968-1 C.B. 770 ; Instructions for IRS Form 706]. Similarly, if more than one person is going to be authorized to receive confidential information or represent the estate, then IRS Form 2848 will have to be filed [see IRS Form 2848; Instructions for IRS Form 706].

[5] Powers Granted by IRS Form 2848

The IRS Form 2848 is sufficient to grant the attorney in fact the power to do the following [Treas. Reg. § 601.502(c)(1)]:

- Receive, but not endorse, a check in payment of any refund of internal revenue taxes, penalties, or interest;

- Execute a waiver or offer of a waiver of restriction on assessment or collection of a deficiency in tax, or a waiver of notice of disallowance of a claim for credit or refund;

- Execute a consent to extend the statutory period for assessment or collection of a tax; and

- Execute closing agreements under I.R.C. § 7121.

The power to receive checks must be specifically noted on the Form 2848. If the personal representative wishes to exclude any authority, the specifically excluded authority must be listed on IRS Form 2848 in the place provided [Treas. Reg. § 601.502(c)(1)]. That space may also be used to grant authority to the attorney in fact to sign returns [see Instructions to IRS Form 2848].

A return may be signed by an agent under any of the following circumstances [Treas. Reg. § 1.6012-1(a)(5)]:

- By reason of injury or disease, the person liable for making the return is unable to make it.

- The taxpayer is unable to make the return by virtue of continuous absence from the United States (including Puerto Rico) for a period of at least 60 days prior to the date on which the return is due.

- The taxpayer requests permission in writing from the district director for the internal revenue district in which the legal residence or principal place of business of the person liable for making the return is located, and the director determines that good cause exists for permitting the return to be made by the agent.

A return made by an agent must be accompanied by a power of attorney, or a copy of a power of attorney, authorizing him or her to make, execute, or file the return. IRS Form 2848 is sufficient for this purpose [Treas. Reg. § 1.6012-1(a)(5)].

[2] Use of Form

This form is a reproduction of IRS Form 8821. IRS Form 8821 may be used to authorize someone other than the personal representative to inspect and receive confidential tax information. IRS Form 2848 should be used if the personal representative wants to delegate broader authority to an attorney, accountant, enrolled agent, or someone authorized to practice before the IRS [see IRS Form2848, reproduced at see § 453.198]. If the personal representative only wants to authorize one person to receive confidential information, completing the authorization on Part 4 of IRS Form 706 [reproduced at see § 453.190] is sufficient [see Instructions for IRS Form 706].

[2] Use of Form

This form is the State of California Estate Tax Return (State Form ET-1) and instructions. This form must be filed by the personal representative of the estate of every decedent with property in California who died after 8:00 p.m. on June 8, 1982, if the United States Estate (and Generation-Skipping Transfer) Tax Return (IRS Form 706) must be filed [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13501]. See § 453.10 et seq. and § 453.60 et seq/ for discussion listings relating to the federal filing requirements.

[3] Filing Requirements

Unless an extension of time is granted, the California Estate Tax Return must be filed with a copy of the United States Estate (and Generation-Skipping Transfer) Tax Return within nine months from the date of death [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 13501, 13532; see I.R.C. § 6075(a)]. The California estate tax is payable at the date of death [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13531], but payment is not delinquent until the expiration of the nine-month period allowed for filing the return [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13532]. If the tax is not paid within the nine-month period, interest is imposed at the rate for underpayment of estate tax provided in I.R.C. § 6621(a)(2), beginning on the date on which payment became delinquent and continuing until payment is made. Interest on a delinquent payment is compounded daily [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13550(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 13510 (penalty; discussed in § 453.220[5])]. The underpayment rate under I.R.C. § 6621(a)(2) is the I.R.C. § 1274(d) federal short-term rate plus three percentage points. For delinquent amounts unpaid on or after January 1, 1999, to and including December 31, 2000, interest was payable at the underpayment rate provided in I.R.C. § 6621(a)(2) as in effect on January 1, 1998 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13550(b); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 13550, before amendment by Stats. 2000, Ch. 363]. The applicable underpayment rate as of that date was the I.R.C. § 1274(d) federal short-term rate plus two percentage points [I.R.C. § 6621(a)(2), prior to amendment by P.L. 105-206, § 3302(a) (July 22, 1998)].

[4] Extensions of Time and Amended Returns

If the Internal Revenue Service has granted an extension of time to file the United States Estate (and Generation-Skipping Transfer) Tax Return (IRS Form 706), an extension for the same period will be granted to file the California Estate Tax Return when a copy of the federal extension is filed with the State Controller [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13502]. See § 453.197 for a discussion of the federal grounds for extensions.

If an amended federal estate and generation-skipping transfer tax return is filed, the personal representative of the estate must also file an amended California return and a copy of the amended federal return with the State Controller, and pay any additional tax based on the amended return [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13503].

[5] Penalties

Unless reasonable cause exists for a failure to file the California Estate TaxReturn within the nine-month period or within an authorized extension period, a penalty is imposed in addition to the interest imposed for late payment of the tax. The penalty is calculated at the rate of 5 percent of the tax due, as finally determined, for each month or portion of a month in which the failure to file continues, up to an aggregate of 25 percent [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13510].

[6] Domicile at Date of Death

State Form ET-1 requires attachment of State Form IT-2 if it is claimed that the decedent was not domiciled in California at the time of death [see first page of State Form ET-1, instruction in "Domicile" box]. For an illustration of State Form IT-2, see § 453.221.

[7] Calculation of Tax

The amount of the California estate tax is based on the maximum amount allowed for the federal credit for state death taxes [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13302]. Thus, the United States Estate (and Generation-Skipping Transfer) Tax Return (IRS Form 706) should be completed before this form is prepared. See §§ 453.60 et seq., 453.190, and 453.191 for information regarding the state death tax credit allowed on the federal estate tax return.

Volume 39: Probate: Claims Against the Estate thru Probate: Discharge-Chs. 454-459
Chapter 454 PROBATE: CLAIMS AGAINST THE ESTATE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. In General

39-454 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 454.11

§ 454.11 "Claim" Defined

As used in the statutes governing administration of decedents' estates [see Prob. Code § 9000 et seq.], "claim" means a demand for payment of any of the following, whether due or not due, accrued or not accrued, or contingent, and whether liquidated or unliquidated [Prob. Code § 9000(a)]:

- Liability of the decedent, whether arising in contract, tort, or otherwise;

- Liability for taxes incurred before the decedent's death, whether assessed before or after the decedent's death, other than property taxes and assessments secured by real property liens;

- Liability of the estate for funeral expenses of the decedent.

"Claim" does not include a dispute regarding a decedent's title to specific property alleged to be included in the decedent's estate [Prob. Code § 9000(b); for discussion of Prob. Code §§ 850 et seq., see Ch. 450, Probate: Collecting Assets].

Under Prob. Code § 9000(a)(1), the broad definition of "claim" in Prob. Code § 9000(a) includes all claims against the decedent, whether in contract, tort, or otherwise, including claims for damages for injuries to or the death of a person, or injury to property, and all claims against the personal representative of a decedent who, in his or her lifetime, has wasted, destroyed, taken or carried away, or converted to his or her own use the property of another person, or who has committed any trespass on the real property of another person [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 9000].

A claim against an estate for breach of contract based on an alleged agreement to make a specific bequest in the will constitutes a "claim" for purposes of the claim filing requirements and, therefore, the claimant must file a timely claim against the estate or be forever barred from maintaining an action for breach of contract [Wilkison v. Wiederkehr (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 822, 833-834, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 631] .

Under Prob. Code § 9000(a)(2), a claim for a tax liability is required only as to liabilities against the decedent at the time of death. Those arising after death as estate and gift taxes are not subject to claim requirements. Secured property taxes and assessments, whether incurred before or after death, are also not subject to claim requirements [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 9000].

"Claim" under Prob. Code § 9000 may be reasonably interpreted to include liabilities arising after, as well as before, a decedent's death. Thus, it includes the liability of a decedent's estate, pursuant to Welf. & Inst. Code § 14009.5, for reimbursement to the state Department of Health Services of Medi-Cal payments made to the decedent during his or her lifetime, even though this liability arises at the time of the decedent's death [Kizer v. Hanna (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 1, 12, 255 Cal. Rptr. 412, 767 P.2d 679] . For further discussion of claims under Welf. & Inst. Code § 14009.5, see § 454.72[3].

Under Prob. Code § 9000(a)(3), funeral expenses fall within the definition of "claim," but administration expenses, such as personal representative and attorney's fees, do not [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 9000].

Chapter 454 PROBATE: CLAIMS AGAINST THE ESTATE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Notice To Creditors

39-454 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 454.30

§ 454.30 Notice to Creditors

[1] In General

Publication of notice under Prob. Code § 8120 (discussed in § 454.30[2]) and the giving of notice of administration of the decedent's estate under Prob. Code §§ 9050-9054 (discussed in § 454.30[3]) constitute notice to creditors of the commencement of administration of the estate and the time, place, and manner for filing claims [see Prob. Code §§ 9001(a), 9052]. Nothing in Prob. Code § 9001(a) affects a notice or a request to a public entity required by Prob. Code §§ 9200-9205 [Prob. Code § 9001(b); see § 454.72].

The Probate Code takes a two-tiered approach to giving notice to creditors. First, the personal representative must publish notice to all creditors, regardless of whether they are known or unknown, unascertainable or reasonably ascertainable. This requirement helps achieve the in rem effect of probate, which makes the proceedings binding on all persons [see Prob. Code § 9001; see also Recommendation Relating to Creditor Claims Against Decedent's Estate, 19 Cal. L. Revision Com'n Reports 299, 303-304 (1988)]. Second, the personal representative must give notice of administration of the estate to the known or reasonably ascertainable creditors of the decedent [Prob. Code § 9050(a)].

Under constitutional principles of due process, publication alone is not a sufficient form of notice to known or reasonably ascertainable creditors of the decedent. These creditors must be given actual notice, such as notice by mail [see Tulsa Collection Servs. v. Pope (1988) 485 U.S. 478, 489-491, 108 S. Ct. 1340, 99 L. Ed. 2d 565] . For discussion of the relation between Prob. Code § 9050's requirement of notice to known creditors and the constitutional requirement of notice to known and "reasonably ascertainable" creditors, see § 454.30[3][b].

[2] By Publication

Publication by the personal representative of notice of hearing of a petition for administration of the decedent's estate under Prob. Code §§ 8120-8125 constitutes notice to creditors of the requirements of Prob. Code §§ 9000-9399 [see Prob. Code § 9001(a); see also Prob. Code § 8100 (contents of notice)]. Notice by publication under Prob. Code §§ 8120-8125 is sufficient notice to creditors of whom the personal representative has no actual knowledge [see Prob. Code §§ 9001, 9050]. For a discussion of additional notice requirements applicable to known or reasonably ascertainable creditors, see § 454.30[3]. For a form for notice under Prob. Code § 8100-8125, together with a discussion of the manner of publication and period of notice, see Ch. 442, Probate: Initiating Probate Administration .

[3] By Mail or Personal Delivery

[a] To Known Creditors

The personal representative has a duty to give notice of administration of the estate to the known or reasonably ascertainable creditors [Prob. Code § 9050(a); § 454.30[3][b]]. However, notice generally is not required if the creditor has already filed a claim [see Prob. Code § 9054, discussed in § 454.30[3][e]]. The requirement that notice be given to known or reasonably ascertainable creditors is in addition to the requirement that notice to creditors be published [Prob. Code § 9050(b); § 454.30[2]]. It is designed to satisfy due process requirements by ensuring reasonable notice to creditors within the practicalities of administration of a decedent's estate [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to 1990 enactment of Prob. Code § 9050; but see § 454.30[3][b]].

The notice must be given as provided in Prob. Code § 1215 for mailing of notices [see Prob. Code § 9050(a)]. The notice may also be given by personal delivery, since personal delivery of a notice or other paper required or permitted to be mailed satisfies any statutory provision under the Probate Code requiring or permitting the mailing of the notice or paper [see Prob. Code § 1216; see also Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to 1990 enactment of Prob. Code § 9050].

For a Judicial Council form for notice of administration to creditors, see § 454.290. For a discussion of notice requirements and procedures under the Probate Code, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements .

[b] What Constitutes Knowledge of Creditors

The personal representative has a duty to make reasonably diligent efforts to identify reasonably ascertainable creditors of the decedent [Prob. Code § 9053(d), operative January 1, 1997]. This requirement appears to be designed to satisfy due process requirements under U.S. Const., amend. XIV, as articulated by the United States Supreme Court in Tulsa Collection Servs. v. Pope (1988) 485 U.S. 478 . In Tulsa, the Court examined Oklahoma's "nonclaim" statute, which cut off creditor claims two months after receiving notice of the administration of the estate, and Oklahoma's notice statute, which required the executor to give notice to creditors, by publication, immediately after his or her appointment by the probate court. The Court held that because the nonclaim statute cut off property rights and was activated by the probate court's involvement or by state action, due process guarantees applied [Tulsa Collection Servs. v. Pope (1988) 485 U.S. 478, 485-487, 108 S. Ct. 1340, 99 L. Ed. 2d 565] . Due process requires that actual, not publication, notice be given to known or reasonably ascertainable creditors. Impracticable and extended searches are not required, however. All the executor needs to do is make reasonably diligent efforts to uncover the identities of creditors. Not everyone who may conceivably be considered a creditor is entitled to actual notice, and it is reasonable to dispense with notice to those with mere conjectural claims [Tulsa Collection Servs. v. Pope (1988) 485 U.S. 478, 490-491, 108 S. Ct. 1340, 99 L. Ed. 2d 565] .

[c] Deadline for Giving Notice

Notice to the decedent's creditors must be given within the later of the following [Prob. Code § 9051]:

- Four months after the date letters are first issued.
- Thirty days after the personal representative first has knowledge of the creditor.

The failure of the personal representative to give a timely notice does not preclude a creditor from filing a timely claim [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to 1990 enactment of Prob. Code § 9051].

[d] Immunity for Giving or Failing to Give Notice

[i] In General

If the personal representative believes that notice to a particular creditor is or may be required and gives notice based on that belief, the personal representative is not liable to any person for giving the notice, regardless of whether it was actually required [Prob. Code § 9053(a)]. This provision is designed to encourage full and adequate notice when it is a close question whether a particular creditor is known or reasonably ascertainable.

If the personal representative fails to give notice when it is required, the personal representative is not liable to any person for the failure unless a creditor establishes all of the following [Prob. Code § 9053(b)]:

- That the failure was in bad faith.

- That the creditor had no actual knowledge of the administration of the estate before expiration of the time for filing a claim, and payment would have been made on the claim in the course of administration if the claim had been properly filed.

- That, within 16 months after letters were first issued to a general personal representative, the creditor did both of the following [Prob. Code § 9053(a)(3)]:

  - Filed a petition requesting that the court in which the estate was administered make an order determining the liability of the personal representative; and

  - Caused notice of the hearing and a copy of the petition to be served on the personal representative at least 30 days before the hearing [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 413.10 et seq. (service of summons in civil actions)].

The above rule does not affect any liability the estate itself may have had for the claim of a creditor [Prob. Code § 9053(c)]. Further, the personal representative is not liable for any claim to the extent it is paid out of the estate or could be paid out of the estate if a late claim were filed under Prob. Code § 9103 [Prob. Code § 9053(c); see § 454.50[4]].

[ii] Creditor's Petition to Establish Liability

To impose liability on the personal representative for failure to give notice to a creditor under Prob. Code §§ 9050-9054, the creditor must establish both that (1) the failure to give notice was in bad faith, and (2) the creditor had no actual knowledge of the administration of the estate before expiration of the time for filing a claim, and payment would have been made on the creditor's claim in the course of administration if the claim had been properly filed [Prob. Code § 9053(b)(1), (2)].

This liability may only be enforced if, within 16 months after letters are first issued to a general personal representative, the creditor both (1) files a petition requesting that the court in which the estate is administered make an order determining the personal representative's liability under Prob. Code § 9053(b), and (2) at least 30 days before the hearing on the petition, causes notice of the hearing and a copy of the petition to be served on the personal representative in the manner provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 413.10-417.40 (service of summons) [Prob. Code § 9053(b)(3); see Prob. Code § 58(b) (defining "general personal representative" to exclude special administrator unless special administrator has general powers)]. For a petition, see § 454.305.

[e] When Notice Is Not Required

Notwithstanding Prob. Code § 9050, the personal representative need not give notice to a creditor even though the personal representative has knowledge of the creditor if either of the following conditions is satisfied [Prob. Code § 9054]:

- The creditor has filed a claim as provided in Prob. Code §§ 9000-9399; or

- The creditor has demanded payment, and the personal representative elects to treat the demand as a claim under Prob. Code § 9154 (waiver of formal defects in claim).

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Filing of Claims

39-454 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 454.50

§ 454.50 Time for Filing Claims

[1] Claim Period

A creditor's claim must be filed before expiration of the later of the following times [Prob. Code § 9100(a)]:

- Four months after the date letters are first issued to a general personal representative.

- Sixty days after the date notice of administration is mailed or personally delivered to the creditor.

This rule does not extend the time provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2.

A reference in a statute to "the time for filing a claim" means four months after the date letters are first issued to a general personal representative, as set forth in Prob. Code § 9100(a)(1) [Prob. Code § 9100(b)].

If letters are issued by more than one court, or if subsequent letters are issued by the same court, the four-month period commences on the first issuance of letters to a general personal representative. In the case of a special administrator granted the powers of a general personal representative, the claim period commences to run on first issuance of letters reciting the general powers of the special administrator [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to 1990 enactment of Prob. Code § 9100].

In Varney v. Superior Court (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 1092, 1101-1102 , 12 Cal. Rp tr. 2d 865, the court recognized a limited except to the general requirement that a claim be filed within the time requirements of Prob. Code § 9100. The court held that it had jurisdiction to toll the expiration of the time for filing a creditor's claim when the creditor applies for a determination under Prob. Code § 21230 as to whether filing a creditor's claim constitutes a contest within the meaning of a no-contest clause. Since the time for submitting creditor's claims is short, and since the probate court ruled that submitting a creditor's claim would violate the clause, the appellate could ruled that it would be impossible to obtain meaningful review of the probate court's order unless the time for filing claims was extended pending the appeal. However, the court emphasized that the creditor's petition and the court's stay of the expiration of the time for filing the claim were both made before the claim period expired and that, if this were not the case, a different result might have been reached [Varney v. Superior Court (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 1092, 1101-1102, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 865] .

[2] No Extension for Vacancy in Office

A vacancy in the office of the personal representative that occurs before expiration of the time for filing a claim does not extend the time [Prob. Code § 9101]. A vacancy includes the resignation, death, or removal of the personal representative from office [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to 1990 enactment of Prob. Code § 9101, 20 Cal. L. Revision Com'n Reports 1568-1569 (1990)].

[3] Action on Claim After Expiration of Claim Period

A claim that is filed before expiration of the time for filing the claim is timely even if acted on by the personal representative or by the court after expiration of the time for filing claims [Prob. Code § 9102].

[4] Late Claims

The Probate Code contains rules allowing late claims to be filed in specified cases [see Prob. Code § 9103]. These rules permit a creditor or the personal representative to petition the court for an order allowing a claim to be filed after expiration of the time for filing a claims [see Prob. Code § 9100], and they authorize the court to grant the petition if either of the following conditions is satisfied [Prob. Code § 9103(a)]:

- The personal representative failed to send proper and timely notice of administration of the estate to the creditor, and the petition is filed within 60 days after the creditor has actual knowledge of the administration of the estate; or

- The creditor had no knowledge of the facts reasonably giving rise to the existence of the claim more than 30 days before the time for filing a claim as provided in Prob. Code § 9100 and the petition is filed within 60 days after the creditor has actual knowledge of both of the following [Prob. Code § 9103(a)(2)]:

  - The existence of the facts reasonably giving rise to the existence of the claim.

  - The administration of the estate.

Notwithstanding the above rules, the court may not allow a late claim to be filed after the court makes an order for final distribution of the estate [Prob. Code § 9103(f)]. Nothing in the above rules authorizes allowance or approval of a claim barred by Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2, the general statue of limitations for actions brought on a liability of a deceased person [Prob. Code § 9103(f)].

A creditor has knowledge of the administration of an estate within the meaning of these rules if the creditor has actual knowledge of the administration through receipt of notice given under Prob. Code § 9050 or otherwise, such as through information from a newspaper clipping service that comes to the attention of the creditor. Constructive knowledge through publication of a notice of death or other information that does not come to the attention of the creditor is not knowledge for this purpose [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to 1990 enactment of Prob. Code § 9103, 20 Cal. L. Revision Com'n Reports 1569-1570 (1990)].

The standard applicable to the creditor's attorney is different. The attorney is not held responsible for any actual knowledge the attorney may have of the decedent's death unless the attorney is representing the creditor in the matter involving the decedent [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to 1990 enactment of Prob. Code § 9103, 20 Cal. L. Revision Com'n Reports 1569-1570 (1990)].

The court may condition the claim on terms that are just and equitable, and may require the appointment or reappointment of a personal representative, if necessary. The court may deny the creditor's petition if a payment to general creditors has been made and it appears that the filing or establishment of the claim would cause, or tend to cause, unequal treatment among beneficiaries or creditors [Prob. Code § 9103(c)].

Regardless of whether the claim is later established in whole or in part, payments otherwise properly made before a claim is filed under Prob. Code § 9103 are not subject to the claim. The personal representative or payee is not liable on account of the prior payment, except to the extent provided in Prob. Code § 9392 (liability of distributee for unfiled creditor's claims) and subject to Prob. Code § 9053 (immunity of personal representative for giving or not giving notice). Prob. Code § 9103(d) does not limit the liability of a person who receives a preliminary distribution of property to restore to the estate an amount sufficient for payment of the distributee's proper share of the claim, not exceeding the amount distributed [Prob. Code § 9103(d)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Filing of Claims

39-454 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 454.51

§ 454.51 Filing of Claims

[1] Who May File

A claim may be filed by the creditor or a person acting on behalf of the creditor [Prob. Code § 9150(a)]. A person acting on behalf of the creditor may include the personal representative or the guardian or conservator of the estate of the creditor [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to 1990 enactment of Prob. Code § 9150, 20 Cal. L. Revision Com'n Reports 1571 (1990)].

[2] Manner of Filing

A claim must be filed with the court, and a copy must be served on the personal representative, or on a person who is later appointed and qualified as personal representative [Prob. Code § 9150(b)]. Service on the personal representative must be made within the later of 30 days after filing of the claim or four months after letters issue to a personal representative with general powers [Prob. Code § 9150(c)]. If the creditor does not file the claim with the court and serve the claim on the personal representative in this manner, the claim will be invalid [Prob. Code § 9150(d)]. However, service is not required if the claim has already been allowed or rejected [Prob. Code § 9150(c)].

[3] Waiver of Formal Defects

Notwithstanding any other provision of Prob. Code §§ 9000-9399, if a creditor makes a written demand for payment within four months after the date letters are first issued to a general personal representative, the personal representative may waive formal defects and elect to treat the demand as a claim that is filed and established by paying the amount demanded before the expiration of 30 days after the four-month period if all the following conditions are satisfied [Prob. Code § 9154]:

- The debt was justly due.
- The debt was paid in good faith.

- The amount paid was the true amount of the indebtedness over and above all payments and offsets.
- The estate is solvent.

Nothing in Prob. Code § 9154 limits application of the doctrines of waiver, estoppel, laches, or detrimental reliance, or of any other equitable principle [Prob. Code § 9154(b)]. If the personal representative elects to treat a demand as a claim under Prob. Code § 9154, the provisions of Prob. Code § 9250 (acceptance and rejection of claims) do not apply [Prob. Code § 9250(e)].

When the personal representative's account is settled, claims paid in accordance with Prob. Code § 9154 will be allowed [see Prob. Code § 11005; for discussion, see § 454.190[6]].

[4] Statute of Limitations Tolled

The filing of a claim or a petition under Prob. Code § 9103 to file a claim tolls the statute of limitations otherwise applicable to the claim until allowance, approval, or rejection [Prob. Code § 9352(a)]. This provision, formerly contained in Prob. Code § 9253 prior to its 1988 amendment, reversed existing case law that held that the filing of a claim did not toll the statute of limitations [see Recommendations Relating to Probate Law, 19 Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Reports 333 (1988) (citing Nally v. McDonald (1885) 66 Cal. 530, 6 P. 390)].

The uniform one-year statute of limitations in Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2 applies to actions on all claims against a decedent that survive the decedent's death; but this limitations period is tolled by (1) the timely filing of a creditor's claim, (2) the filing of a petition for payment of debts, claims, or expenses, or (3) a proceeding to construe a no contest provision judicially [Levine v. Levine (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 1256, 1261, 126 Cal. Rptr. 2d 255] . If a claim is timely filed in the probate proceedings, it remains timely filed, even though the representative or the court acts on the claim after the expiration of the limitations period [Levine v. Levine (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 1256, 1261, 126 Cal. Rptr. 2d 255] . If a claim is not filed in the probate proceedings within either the claims filing period of Prob. Code § 9100 or the one-year limitations period of Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2, the creditor is barred from asserting a claim against the decedent [Levine v. Levine (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 1256, 1261-1265, 126 Cal. Rptr. 2d 255 (action against trustee by decedent's grandchildren on their claims as beneficiaries of decedent's irrevocable trust was barred by one-year statute of limitations of Code Civ Proc. § 366.2, even though there had been no proceeding to administer decedent's estate and no notice to creditors; statute applies to all debts of decedent, regardless of whom claims are brought against; statute was not tolled by grandchildren's minority); see also Wagner v. Wagner (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 249, 257, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 511 (trustor was prohibited from allowing her own creditor's claim for compensation for caring for decedent, her mother, during the four years prior to decedent's death as the claim was not timely under Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2, and trustee's assertion that she was entitled to submit an oral claim did not satisfy Probate Code requirements); see also Stoltenberg v. Newman (2009) 179 Cal. App. 4th 287, 296, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 606 (action for breach of fiduciary duty and accounting against successor trustee, which alleged that decedent trustee had concealed financial information, was timed barred under Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2 because it could have been brought as a claim on a liability of the person)].

§ 454.52 Form of Claim

[1] Judicial Council Form

The Judicial Council has prescribed a mandatory form for creditor's claims [form DE-172]. Use of this form is deemed to satisfy the requirements of Prob. Code §§ 9150-9154 (filing of claims) [Prob. Code § 9153]. For an illustration of the Judicial Council form for a creditor's claim for use in estate proceedings commenced on or after July 1, 1988, see § 454.291.

[2] Supporting Affidavit

A claim must be supported by the affidavit of the creditor, or by the person acting on behalf of the creditor, stating the following [Prob. Code § 9151(a)]:

- The claim is a just claim.
- If the claim is due, the facts supporting the claim, the amount of the claim, and that all payments on and offsets to the claim have been credited.
- If the claim is not due or contingent, or the amount is not yet ascertainable, the facts supporting the claim.
- If the affidavit is made by a person other than the creditor, the reason it is not made by the creditor.

The claim may be supported by a declaration under penalty of perjury, under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5, in lieu of an affidavit. The affidavit or declaration may be made on information and belief [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to 1990 enactment of Prob. Code § 9151, 20 Cal. L. Revision Com'n Reports 1572 (1990)].

[3] Supporting Vouchers or Other Proof

The personal representative may require satisfactory vouchers or proof to be produced to support the claim. An original voucher may be withdrawn after a copy is provided. If provided, the copy must be attached to the claim [Prob. Code § 9151(b)].

[4] Claim Based on Written Instrument

If a claim is based on a written instrument, either the original or a copy of the original with all endorsements must be attached to the claim. If a copy is attached, the original instrument must be exhibited to the personal representative or court or judge on demand, unless it is lost or destroyed. If the original is lost or destroyed, then that fact must be stated in the claim [Prob. Code § 9152(a)].

If the claim, or part of it, is secured by a mortgage, deed of trust, or other lien that is recorded in the office of the recorder of the county in which the property subject to the lien is located, it is sufficient to describe the mortgage, deed of trust, or lien, and the recording reference for the instrument that created the mortgage, deed of trust, or other lien [Prob. Code § 9152(b)].

§ 454.53 Amendment or Revision of Claim

[1] When Permitted

If a claim is filed within the time provided in Prob. Code §§ 9100-9104 (time for filing claims), the creditor may later amend or revise the claim, subject to exceptions discussed in § 454.72[3][c]. The amendment or revision must be filed in the same manner as the claim [see Prob. Code § 9104(a)].

[2] When Prohibited

An amendment or revision may not be made to increase the amount of the claim after the time for filing a claim has expired. An amendment or revision to specify the amount of a claim that, at the time of filing, was not due, was contingent, or was not yet ascertainable, however, is not an increase in the amount of the claim within the meaning of this provision [Prob. Code § 9104(b)].

An amendment or revision may not be made for any purpose after the earlier of the following times [Prob. Code § 9104(c)]:

- The time the court makes an order for final distribution of the estate;

- One year after letters are first issued to a general personal representative (however, this provision does not extend the time provided by CCP § 366.2 or authorize allowance or approval of a claim barred by that section).

If letters are issued by more than one court, or if subsequent letters are issued by the same court, then the one-year amendment or revision period commences on the first issuance of letters to a general personal representative. In the case of a special administrator granted the powers of a general personal representative, the period commences to run on the first issuance of letters reciting the general powers of the special administrator [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to 1990 enactment of Prob. Code § 9104, 20 Cal. L. Revision Com'n Reports 1570-1571 (1990)].

39-454 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 454.70

§ 454.70 Decedent's Liability Covered by Insurance

[1] Recovery Within Policy Limits

An action to establish the decedent's liability for which the decedent was protected by insurance may be commenced or continued under Prob. Code § 550, and a judgment in the action may be enforced against the insurer, without first filing a claim against the estate [Prob. Code § 9390(a); see Prob. Code § 554(a)]. However, the damages sought in the action must be within the limits and coverage of the insurance or recovery of damages outside the limits or coverage of the insurance must be waived [see Prob. Code § 554(a)].

This exception to the claim-filing requirement applies in any case in which there is a "claim" (as that term is defined in Prob. Code § 9000 and discussed in § 454.11) for damages for which the decedent was insured, whether for injury to or the death of a person caused by the decedent's wrongful act or neglect, or otherwise. Furthermore, this exception excuses a claim in probate only when the plaintiff is proceeding under Prob. Code §§ 550-555, whether or not the insurer has otherwise accepted defense of the cause or an appearance has been made on the decedent's behalf [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to 1990 enactment of Prob. Code §§ 550-555, 20 Cal. L. Revision Com'n Reports 1203-1205 (1990)].

For discussion of the procedural aspects of actions under Prob. Code §§ 550-555, see § 454.130.

[2] Recovery in Excess of Policy Limits

An action to establish the decedent's liability outside the limits or overage of the insurance may not be commenced or continued under Prob. Code § 550 unless a claim is first made [Prob. Code § 9390(b); see Prob. Code § 554].

[3] Insurer's Reimbursement

If the insurer seeks reimbursement under the insurance contract for any liability of the decedent including, but not limited to, deductible amounts in the insurance coverage and costs and attorney's fees for which the decedent is liable under the contract, an insurer defending an action under Prob. Code § 550 must file a claim against the decedent's estate. Failure to file a claim is a waiver of reimbursement under the insurance contract for any liability of the decedent [Prob. Code § 9390(c)].

The holder of a mortgage or other lien on estate property (including a judgment lien) may commence an action to enforce the lien without first filing a claim, if in the complaint the lien holder expressly waives all recourse against other property in the estate [Prob. Code § 9391]. Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2, the general statue of limitations for actions brought on a liability of a deceased person, does not apply to such an action [*Prob. The personal representative or any interested party may also request that the court determine the amount of expenses of administration that are reasonably related to the administration of the encumbered property, which are entitled to be paid before the lien is satisfied [*Prob. § 454.72 Claims by Public Entities

[1] In General

With certain exceptions listed in Prob. Code § 9201, a claim by a public entity must be filed within the time otherwise provided in Prob. Code §§ 9000-9399 [Prob. Code § 9200(a); for discussion of when claims must be filed, see § 454.50[1]]. A claim not so filed is barred, including any lien imposed for the claim [Prob. Code § 9200(a)].

As used in Prob. Code §§ 9200-9205 (claims by public entities), "public entity" has the meaning provided in Gov. Code § 811.2, and includes an officer authorized to act on behalf of the public entity [Prob. Code § 9200(b)]. Gov. Code § 811.2 defines "public entity" to include the state, the Regents of the University of California, a county, city, district, public authority, public agency, and any other political subdivision or public corporation in the state. Prob. Code § 9200 does not govern obligations owed to the United States, which are governed by federal law [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to 1990 enactment of Prob. Code § 9200].

[2] Claims Governed by Special Statutes

Notwithstanding any other statute, if a claim of a public entity arises under a law, act, or code listed in Prob. Code § 9201(b), the public entity may provide a form to be used for the written notice or request to the public entity required by Prob. Code §§ 9200-9205. When appropriate, the form may require the decedent's social security number, if known [Prob. Code § 9201(a)(1)]. The claim is barred only after written notice or request to the public entity and expiration of the period provided in the applicable section. If no written notice or request is made, the claim is enforceable by the remedies, and is barred at the time otherwise provided in the law, act, or code [Prob. Code § 9201(a)(2)].

The following special statutes govern claims against public entities [see Prob. Code § 9201(b)]:

[3] Claim by State Department of Health Services

[a] Against Estate or Recipients of Decedent's Property

When a decedent has received health care services under the Medi-Cal Act (Welf. & Inst. Code § 14000 et seq.) or the Waxman-Duffy Prepaid Health Plan Act (Welf. & Inst. Code § 14200 et seq.), the California Department of Health Services may make a claim against the decedent's estate, or against any recipient of the decedent's property by distribution or survival, in an amount equal to the payments for the health care services received or the value of the property received by the recipient, whichever is less [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14009.5(a)].

The department can claim reimbursement from a Medi-Cal recipient's estate for benefits paid before June 28, 1981, the effective date of Welf. & Inst. Code § 14009.5, when the recipient died after that date [Kizer v. Hanna (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 1, 13, 255 Cal. Rptr. 412, 767 P.2d 679 (disapproving Estate of Messner (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 818, 235 Cal. Rptr. 495); Department of Health Services v. Fontes (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 301, 215 Cal. Rptr 14] . Reimbursement for benefits paid before June 28, 1981, is authorized by Welf. & Inst. Code § 14009.5 and constitutes neither an impermissible retroactive application of the statute nor an after-the-fact debt or liability of the recipient [Kizer v. Hanna (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 1, 8-11, 255 Cal. Rptr. 412, 767 P.2d 679] .

For purposes of Medi-Cal reimbursement, the term "estate" is broadly construed; recovery does not turn on technical differences in the character of how property is owned by a recipient of Medi-Cal benefits in order to permit recovery [Bonta v. Burke (2002) 98 Cal. App. 4th 788, 793-794, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 72] . The regulations define "estate" as all real and personal property and other assets in which the decedent had any legal title or interest at the time of death (to the extent of that interest), including assets conveyed to a dependent, survivor, heir, or assignee of the through joint tenancy, tenancy in common, survivorship, life estate, living trust, or annuities purchased on or after September 1, 2004 [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 50960(d)(1)]. Thus, for example, it has been held that the state has a claim for reimbursement of Medi-Cal expenses against the beneficiaries of real property conveyed to them by a recipient of health services who retained a life estate in the property and a right to revoke their interest [Bonta v. Burke (2002) 98 Cal. App. 4th 788, 789, 793-794,120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 72 (allowing state to recover as much as possible of costs of medical services provided to low-income persons also furthers purpose of Medicaid and Medi-Cal programs because recovered costs replenish program and allow state to provide future services)].

However, the Department of Health Services may not assert a Medi-Cal lien for costs incurred in treating a decedent's final illness against a recovery in a wrongful death action when this recovery does not and could not include these medical expenses. The statutes governing Medi-Cal liens in actions against third parties [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14124.70 et seq.] do not authorize these liens in wrongful death actions in which the plaintiff's recovery does not include medical expenses incurred by the decedent. Because the damages awarded in a wrongful death action are for the harm done to the survivors, not to the decedent, medical expenses for treating the decedent's final illness or injury are not recoverable. Welf. & Inst. Code § 14124.71(a) provides that when Medi-Cal benefits are provided to a beneficiary because of an injury for which another person is liable, the Department of Health Services has a right to recover from that person the reasonable value of the benefits provided. Because the damages awarded in a wrongful death action are compensation for the harm to the survivors rather than to the decedent, and because these damages do not include medical expenses in treating the decedent, the Department is not allowed to recover the decedent's medical expenses from the wrongful death damages. Welf. & Inst. Code § 14124.72(c) authorizes the Department to use the lien procedure to recover the value of Medi-Cal benefits only from a third party who may be liable for causing the beneficiary's death, not from the decedent's innocent survivors who have brought an action against the third party. Lien recovery is permitted only when the damages recovered from the third party include the cost of medical treatment or other benefits provided by Medi-Cal [Fitch v. Select Products Co. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 812, 819-822, 31 Cal. Rptr. 3d 591, 115 P.3d 1233] .

[b] Against Surviving Spouse

If a Medi-Cal recipient dies leaving a surviving spouse, the department cannot make a claim against the surviving spouse during his or her lifetime [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14009.5(b)(2)(A)]. However, when the surviving spouse dies, the department is required to make a claim against the surviving spouse's estate, or against any person who received property from the surviving spouse by distribution or survival [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14009.5(b)(2)(A)]. The amount of the claim will be the amount paid for the medical assistance given to the recipient or the value of any of the recipient's property received by the surviving spouse through distribution or survival, whichever is less [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14009.5(b)(2)(A)]. Any statute of limitations that purports to limit the ability to recover for medical assistance does not apply to any claim made for reimbursement [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14009.5(b)(2)(A)].

[c] When Prohibited

The Department may not make a claim against the decedent's estate in any of the following circumstances:

- The decedent was under the age of 55 when the services were received, except where the decedent was an inpatient in a nursing facility [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14009.5(b)(1)].

- There is a surviving child who is under the age of 21 [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14009.5(b)(2)(B)].

- There is a surviving child who is blind, or permanently and totally disabled within the meaning of 42 U.S.C. § 1382c [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14009.5(b)(2)(C)].

- During the lifetime of the surviving spouse, if any [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14009.5(b)(2)(A); § 454.72[3][b]].

[d] Waiver of Claim

The Department of Health Services must waive its claim, in whole or in part, if it determines that enforcement of the claim would result in substantial hardship to other dependents, heirs, or survivors of the decedent against whose estate the claim exists [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14009.5(c)(1)]. Furthermore, the department must notify individuals of this waiver provision and of the opportunity for a hearing to establish that a waiver should be granted [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14009.5(c)(2)].

For the purposes of Welf. & Inst. Code § 14009.5, the term "dependents" includes, but is not limited to, immediate family or blood relatives of the decedent [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14009.5(d)(2)].

[e] Notice and Filing of Claim

Not later than 90 days after the date letters are first issued to a general personal representative, the personal representative must give the Director of Health Services notice of the decedent's death in the manner provided in Prob. Code § 215 if the personal representative knows or has reason to believe that the decedent received health care under the provisions of Welf. & Inst. Code § 14000 et seq. (the Medi-Cal Act) or 14200 et seq. (the Waxman-Duffy Prepaid Health Plan Act). Notice must also be given if the decedent was the surviving spouse of a person who received that health care [Prob. Code § 9202(a); § 454.72[3][b]]. The director has four months after notice is given in which to file a claim [Prob. Code § 9202(a)]. To simplify administration, the time within which the notice must be made to the director runs from the date of issuance of letters rather than from the date of death [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to 1987 enactment of Prob. Code § 9202].

The statute of limitations for a recovery action by the Department of Health Services seeking reimbursement for Medi-Cal benefits provided to a decedent begins running on the date on which notice under Prob. Code § 215 is given, not on the date of the decedent's death [Shewry v. Begil (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 639, 645, 27 Cal. Rptr. 3d 209] . The three-year statute of limitations under Code Civ. Proc. § 338(a) applies to such an action, not the one-year statute of limitations under Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2 [Shewry v. Begil (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 639, 643-644, 27 Cal. Rptr. 3d 209] . Laches is not available as a defense to the action [Shewry v. Begil (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 639, 645-646, 27 Cal. Rptr. 3d 209] . Prejudgment interest under Civ. Code § 3287 may be awarded to the Department [Shewry v. Begil (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 639, 646, 27 Cal. Rptr. 3d 209] .

[4] Claim by Director of California Victim Compensation and Government Claims Board

Not later than 90 days after the date letters are first issued to a general personal representative, that representative or the estate attorney must give the Director of the California Victim Compensation and Government Claims Board notice of the decedent's death if the general personal representative or the estate attorney knows or has reason to believe that an heir of the decedent is confined in a prison or facility under the jurisdiction of the Department of Corrections or the Department of the Youth Authority, or is confined in any local correctional facility [Prob. Code § 9202(b)]. The notice must include a copy of the decedent's death certificate and must be mailed in accordance with the requirements of Prob. Code § 1215 [Prob. Code § 216]. The Director has four months after notice is received within which to pursue collection of any outstanding restitution fines or orders [Prob. Code § 9202(b)].

[5] Claim by Franchise Tax Board

For those estates in which letters are first issued on or after July 1, 2008, no later than 90 days after the date letters are first issued to a general personal representative, that representative or estate attorney must give the Franchise Tax Board notice of the administration of the estate [Prob. Code § 9202 (c)]. The notice must be given in accordance with Prob. Code § 1215 [for discussion, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements, § 447.17[2]].

[6] Distribution Before Claim

Failure of a person to give the written notice or request required by Prob. Code §§ 9200-9205 for claims by public entities does not affect the validity of any proceeding for the administration of a decedent's estate [Prob. Code § 9203(a)

].

If property in the estate is distributed before expiration of the time allowed a public entity to file a claim, the public entity has a claim against the distributees to the full extent of the public entity's claim, or of each distributee's share of the distributed property, whichever is less. The public entity's claim against distributees includes interest at the rate specified in Rev. & Tax. Code § 19521 and any accruing costs that could be collected in the case of enforcement of a money judgment. The interest runs from the date of distribution or the date of filing the claim by the public entity, whichever is later [Prob. Code § 9203(b)].

[7] Effect on Priority of Claims

Nothing in Prob. Code §§ 9200-9205 is to be construed to affect the order of priority of claims provided for under other provisions of law [Prob. Code § 9204].

[8] Limitations on Claims

Prob. Code §§ 9200-9205 do not apply to liability for the restitution of amounts illegally acquired through the means of a fraudulent, false, or incorrect representation, or through a forged or unauthorized endorsement [Prob. Code § 9205].

[1] In General

When a claim is filed, the personal representative must allow or reject the claim in whole or in part [Prob. Code § 9250(a); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.401(1)]. The allowance or rejection must be in writing [Prob. Code § 9250(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.401(1)]. The personal representative must serve notice of and a copy of the allowance or rejection on the creditor and the creditor's attorney, and file the allowance or rejection, with a proof of service, with the court [Prob. Code § 9250(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.401(2), (3)].

Prob. Code § 9250 does not apply to a demand the personal representative elects to treat as a claim under Prob. Code § 9154 [Prob. Code § 9250(e); see § 454.51[3]].

[2] Contents of Allowance or Rejection

The allowance or rejection must contain the following information [Prob. Code § 9250(c)]:

- The name of the creditor;
- The total amount of the claim;
- The date of issuance of letters;
- The date of the decedent's death;
- The estimated value of the decedent's estate;
- The amount allowed or rejected by the personal representative;
- Whether the personal representative is authorized to act under the Independent Administration of

Estates Act; and

- A statement that the creditor has 90 days in which to act on a rejected claim.

The Judicial Council may prescribe an allowance or rejection form, which may be part of the claim form. Use of a form prescribed by the Judicial Council is deemed to satisfy the requirements of Prob. Code § 9250 [Prob. Code § 9250(d)]. For an illustration of the Judicial Council form for allowance or rejection, see § 454.292.

[3] Notice of Allowance or Rejection

The personal representative must serve notice of and a copy of the allowance or rejection on the creditor and the creditor's attorney [Prob. Code § 9250(b) (notice to be pursuant to Prob. Code § 1200 et seq.; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.401(2) (service of copy on creditor and creditor's attorney)]. Neither the statute nor the rule requires that notice be given to any other person. For further discussion of the notice requirements, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements .

[4] When Court Supervision Not Required

Under the Independent Administration of Estates Act (Prob. Code § 10400 et seq.), the personal representative may allow, pay, reject, contest, or compromise any claim without court supervision [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to 1990 enactment of Prob. Code § 9250; see also Prob. Code § 10552 (power to act on claims against estate under independent administration authority)]. Except as to claims of the personal representative or the attorney, if the personal representative has authority to act under the Independent Administration of Estates Act, the court will not act on the personal representative's allowance or rejection of a creditor's claim, unless good cause is shown [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.402; see also Prob. Code § 9252, discussed in § 454.91[2]]. However, court supervision is necessary when the personal representative is the creditor [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to 1990 enactment of Prob. Code § 9250; see also Prob. Code § 9252, discussed in § 454.91[2]]. For further discussion of the Independent Administration of Estates Act, see Ch. 445, Probate: Independent Administration of Estates .

§ 454.91 Allowance or Rejection of Claims by Court

[1] When Personal Representative Not Authorized to Act

If the personal representative is not authorized to act under the Independent Administration of Estates Act (Prob. Code § 10400 et seq.), then immediately on the filing of the allowance of a claim, the clerk must present the claim and allowance to the court or judge for approval or rejection [Prob. Code § 9251(a)]. On presentation of a claim and allowance, the court or judge may, in its discretion, examine the creditor and others on oath and receive any evidence relevant to the validity of the claim. The court or judge endorses on the claim whether the claim is approved or rejected, and the date [Prob. Code § 9251(b)].

[2] When Personal Representative Is Creditor

If the personal representative, or the attorney for the personal representative, is a creditor of the decedent, the clerk must present the claim to the court or judge for approval or rejection. The court or judge may, in its discretion, require the creditor to file a petition and give notice of hearing [Prob. Code § 9252(a); for discussion of giving notice of hearing, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements].

If the court or judge approves the claim, the claim is established and must be included with other established claims to be paid in the course of administration [Prob. Code § 9252(b)].

[3] Partial Allowance or Approval of Claim

The personal representative may allow a claim, or the court or judge may approve a claim, in part. The allowance or approval must state the amount for which the claim is allowed or approved [Prob. Code § 9255(a); see, e.g., § 454.292 (Judicial Council form of allowance or rejection)].

39-454 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 454.110

§ 454.110 Action on Rejected Claim

[1] In General

A creditor who refuses to accept the amount allowed or approved in satisfaction of a claim may bring an action on the claim in the manner provided in Prob. Code §§ 9350-9399 [Prob. Code § 9255(b)].

Prob. Code §§ 9350-9399 set forth procedures for actions on rejected claims in three situations:

- An action commenced against a decedent's personal representative on a cause of action against the decedent [see Prob. Code §§ 9350-9354];

- An action pending against the decedent at the time of death and continued against the decedent's personal representative [see Prob. Code § 9370]; or

- An action under Prob. Code § 550 to establish the decedent's liability for which he or she was protected by insurance, whether or not pending at the time of death, with respect to amounts in excess of the insurance coverage [see Prob. Code § 9390(b)].

[2] Applicable Law

Prob. Code §§ 9350-9399 do not apply to actions commenced before July 1, 1989. The law in effect before July 1, 1989, continues to apply to an action commenced before July 1, 1989, notwithstanding its repeal by Stats. 1988, ch. 1199 [Prob. Code § 9399; see generally former Prob. Code §§ 714 (for estate proceedings commenced before July 1, 1988) and 9257 (for estate proceedings commenced after July 1, 1988, but before July 1, 1989)].

[3] When Personal Representative Is Creditor

If the court or judge rejects a claim of the personal representative, or his or her attorney, as a creditor of the estate, the personal representative, or the attorney, may bring an action against the estate. Summons is served on the judge, who then appoints an attorney, at the estate's expense, to defend the action [Prob. Code § 9252(c)]. If the personal representative or attorney fails to recover in the action on the claim, the personal representative or attorney must pay costs, and may be required to pay reasonable litigation expenses, including attorney's fees [Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to 1990 enactment of Prob. Code § 9252; see Prob. Code § 9354(c)].

F. Claims in Litigation
1. Creditor's Action on Rejected Claim

39-454 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 454.111

§ 454.111 Claim on Action Commenced After Death

[1] Prerequisite to Suit

Subject to Prob. Code § 9000 et seq. (creditor claims), a cause of action against a decedent that survives may be asserted against the decedent's personal representative or, to the extent provided by statute, against the decedent's successor in interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.40]. Such a cause of action may not be commenced unless a claim is first filed under Section 9000 et seq. and the claim is rejected in whole or in part [Prob. Code § 9351].

Prob. Code § 9351 relates only to an action against the personal representative. It does not affect actions against other persons who may be liable for the decedent's debts, such as those under Prob. Code §§ 550-554 (liability of decedent covered by insurance), 13100-13116 (affidavit procedure for collection or transfer of personal property), and 13550-13554 (affidavit procedure for collection of debts owed deceased spouse) [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to 1990 enactment of Prob. Code § 9351].

[2] Time for Commencement

A claim rejected in whole or in part is barred as to the part rejected unless, within the following times, the creditor commences an action on the claim, or the matter is referred to a referee or to arbitration, excluding the time during which there is a vacancy in the office of the personal representative [Prob. Code § 9353]:

- If the claim is due at the time the notice of rejection is given, 90 days after the notice is given;

- If the claim is not due at the time the notice of rejection is given, 90 days after the claim becomes due.

An action on a rejected claim must be commenced within the time prescribed above, regardless of whether the statute of limitations otherwise applicable to the claim will expire before or after the foregoing times [see Prob. Code § 9353(a)].

At one time, the California courts held that a "nonclaim statute" (i.e., a statute barring a judicial action unless it is commenced within a specified period after rejection of a claim) may shorten but cannot lengthen the limitations period otherwise applicable to a claim [see, e.g., Barclay v. Blackinton (1899) 127 Cal. 189, 193, 59 P. 834] . However, the Court of Appeal has held that this former rule has no application to the current statutory scheme. Prob. Code § 9353(a) clearly states that the three-month period applies "regardless of whether the statute of limitations otherwise applicable to a claim will expire before or after" that time. Thus, the Court of Appeal has held that an action is not barred if it is brought within three months after notice of rejection is given, even when the statute of limitations otherwise applicable expires before the end of the three months, or before the creditor's claim was filed [Anderson v. Anderson (1995) 41 Cal. App. 4th 135, 138-140, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 642] .

The filing of a claim, or a petition under Prob. Code § 9103 to file a claim, tolls the statute of limitations otherwise applicable to the claim until allowance, approval, or rejection [Prob. Code § 9352(a); for discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2, the statute of limitations "otherwise applicable" in an action against a decedent, see Ch. 345, Limitation of Actions]. Additionally, the allowance or approval of a claim in whole or in part further tolls the statute of limitations during the administration of the estate as to the part allowed or approved [Prob. Code § 9352(b)].

For a complaint against a personal representative on a rejected claim, see § 454.294. For demurrers to the complaint for failure to allege the filing of the claim or failure to commence the action within the statutory period, see §§ 454.296 and 454.297, respectively. For an affirmative defense for failure to sue on the rejected claim within the statutory period, see § 454.298.

[3] Venue

In addition to any other county in which an action may be commenced, an action on the claim may be commenced in the county in which the proceeding for administration of the decedent's estate is pending [Prob. Code § 9354(a)].

[4] Notice of Pendency of Action

The plaintiff must file a notice of the pendency of the action with the court clerk in the estate proceeding, together with proof of giving a copy of the notice to the personal representative as provided in Prob. Code § 1215 (notice by mail). Personal service of a copy of the summons and complaint on the personal representative is equivalent to the filing and giving of the notice [Prob. Code § 9354(b)]. For a notice of pendency of the action, see § 454.295.

Any property distributed under court order, or any payment properly made before the notice of pendency of action is filed and given is not subject to the claim. The personal representative, distributee, or payee is not liable on account of the prior distribution or payment [Prob. Code § 9354(b)].

[5] Costs and Attorney's Fees

The prevailing party in the action shall be awarded court costs. Additionally, if the court determines that the prosecution or defense of the action against the prevailing party was unreasonable, the prevailing party must be awarded reasonable litigation expenses, including attorney's fees [Prob. Code § 9354(c)]. However, the creditor may not recover costs in the action unless he or she recovers an amount greater than that allowed or approved [Prob. Code § 9255(b)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Claims in Litigation
1. Creditor's Action on Rejected Claim

39-454 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 454.112

§ 454.112 Summary Determination of Disputed Claim

[1] In General

As an alternative to litigation of a disputed claim in an independent action under Prob. Code § 9353 [see § 454.111], the disputed claim may be submitted for summary determination to a temporary judge or consenting judge, or to arbitration, under Prob. Code § 9620 or 9621 [see Prob. Code §§ 9353(a), 9620, 9621].

[2] Submission of Dispute to Temporary Judge

If there is a dispute relating to the estate between the personal representative and a third person, the personal representative may enter into an agreement in writing with the third person to refer the dispute to a temporary judge designated in the agreement. The agreement must be filed with the clerk, who then, with the approval of the court, enters an order referring the matter to the designated person. The temporary judge must proceed promptly to hear and determine the matter in controversy by summary procedure, without pleadings or discovery [Prob. Code § 9620(a)]. Summary proceedings under Prob. Code § 9620 do not include a right to a jury trial [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to 1990 enactment of Prob. Code § 9620; see also Estate of Beach (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 623, 642, 125 Cal. Rptr. 570, 542 P.2d 994] .

The decision of the designated person is subject to the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 632 (statement of decision) [see Ch. 529, Statement of Decision , for further discussion]. Judgment is entered on the decision, and is valid and effective as if rendered by a judge of the court in an action against the personal representative or the third person commenced by ordinary process [Prob. Code § 9620(a)].

Under Prob. Code § 9620, any member of the State Bar, including a court commissioner or referee, may be appointed as a temporary judge. Additionally, Prob. Code § 9620 does not require that the temporary judge try the matter in a regular courtroom; the temporary judge may try the matter at his or her office or at any other place [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to 1990 enactment of Prob. Code § 9620].

[3] Submission of Dispute to Consenting Judge

As an alternative to submitting the dispute to a temporary judge, the personal representative may enter into a written agreement with the third person that a judge may hear and determine the dispute pursuant to the procedure provided in Prob. Code § 9620(a) [Prob. Code § 9620(b); see discussion of procedure in § 454.112[2]]. The written consent of the judge to hear and determine the dispute pursuant to the agreement is required. Both the agreement and the judge's consent must be filed with the clerk within the time specified in Prob. Code § 9353 (action on rejected claim) for bringing an independent suit on the matter in dispute [Prob. Code § 9620(b); see discussion on time requirements in § 454.111[2]].

[4] Submission of Dispute to Arbitration

If there is a dispute relating to the estate between the personal representative and a third person, the personal representative may enter into an agreement in writing with the third person to submit the dispute to arbitration under Code Civ. Proc. § 1280 et seq. However, the agreement is not effective unless it is first approved by the court and a copy of the approved agreement is filed with the court [Prob. Code § 9621].

Notice of the hearing on the petition for approval of the agreement must be given as provided in Prob. Code § 1220 (mailing notice of hearing). The order approving the agreement may be made ex parte [Prob. Code § 9621; see discussion and forms relating to notice in Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements].

In conventional arbitration pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1280-1294.2, there is no right to trial de novo, and even though the court may correct or vacate an award, the grounds for doing so are limited. Furthermore, there is no right to a jury trial when an arbitration award as contemplated by Prob. Code § 9621 is confirmed [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to 1990 enactment of Prob. Code § 9621]. For further discussion and forms for use in arbitration proceedings, see Ch. 34, Contractual Arbitration: Judicial Review .

1. Creditor's Action on Rejected Claim

39-454 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 454.113

§ 454.113 Claim on Action or Proceeding Pending at Death

On motion, the court must allow a pending action or proceeding against the decedent that does not abate to be continued against the decedent's personal representative or, to the extent provided by statute, against the decedent's successor in interest. However, the court may not permit an action or proceeding to be continued against the personal representative unless proof of compliance with Prob. Code § 9000 et seq. (creditor claims) is first made [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.41]. Specifically, the following conditions must be satisfied [Prob. Code § 9370(a)]:

- A claim has been first filed as provided in Prob. Code §§ 9000-9399;

- The claim has been rejected in whole or in part; and

- Within three months after the notice of rejection is given, the plaintiff applies to the court in which the action or proceeding is pending for an order to substitute the personal representative in the action or proceeding. This subparagraph only applies if the notice of rejection contains a statement that the plaintiff has three months within which to apply for an order for substitution. For forms for use in substituting a personal representative in a pending action or proceeding, see Ch. 21, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings .

No recovery is allowed in the action against property in the decedent's estate unless proof is made of compliance with Prob. Code § 9370 [Prob. Code § 9370(b)].

2. Action To Establish Decedent's Insured Liability

39-454 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 454.130

§ 454.130 Liability Covered by Insurance

[1] In General

Subject to the provisions of Prob. Code §§ 550-555, an action to establish the decedent's liability for which the decedent was protected by insurance may be commenced or continued against the decedent's estate without the need to join as a party the decedent's personal representative or successor in interest [Prob. Code § 550(a)]. This remedy is cumulative and may be pursued concurrently with other remedies [see Prob. Code § 550(b)].

Prob. Code §§ 550-555 apply uniformly to actions pending at the decedent's death and actions commenced after the decedent's death [see Prob. Code § 550(a)]. Prob. Code §§ 550-555 do not apply to an action commenced before July 1, 1989 [Prob. Code § 555(a)]. The applicable law in effect before July 1, 1989, continues to apply to an action commenced before that date, notwithstanding its repeal by Stats. 1988, ch. 1199 [Prob. Code § 555(a); see generally former Code Civ. Proc. § 385(b) (continuation of action against decedent on liability covered by insurance); former Prob. Code §§ 707, 709.1, 709, 721].

[2] Statute of Limitations

If the limitation period otherwise applicable to the action has not expired at the time of the decedent's death, an action underProb. Code §§ 550-555may be commenced within one year after the expiration of the limitation period otherwise applicable [Prob. Code § 551]. This provision applies notwithstanding Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2 (time for commencing action if prospective defendant dies before expiration of statute of limitations), which normally overrides the statute of limitations otherwise applicable to provide that the action must be commenced within one year after the decedent's death [see Prob. Code § 551; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2, discussed in Ch. 345, Limitation of Actions].

[3] Procedure

[a] Named Defendant and Service of Summons

An action under Prob. Code §§ 550-555 names "Estate of (name of decedent), Deceased" as the defendant. Summons is served on a person designated in writing by the insurer; if none is designated, summons is served on the insurer. Further proceedings are in the estate's name, and are otherwise conducted in the same manner as if the action were against the personal representative [Prob. Code § 552(a)].

[b] Appointment and Substitution of Personal Representative

On motion of an interested person, or on its own motion, the court in which the action is pending may, for good cause, order the appointment and substitution of a personal representative as the defendant [Prob. Code § 552(b)]. For forms for use in appointing and substituting a personal representative as defendant in a pending action, see Ch. 21, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings .

[c] Consolidation

An action against the decedent's estate under Prob. Code §§ 550-555 directed toward collecting from the insurance proceeds may be consolidated with an action against the personal representative for collection of amounts in excess of the insurance proceeds. Consolidation may be appropriate since the issues relating to liability are the same [see Prob. Code § 552(c); see also Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 552]. For further discussion of the consolidation of actions, see Ch. 125, Consolidation, Severance, and Coordination of Actions .

[4] Defense of Action

The insurer may deny or otherwise contest its liability in an action under Prob. Code §§ 550-555 or by an independent action. Unless the personal representative is joined as a party, a judgment in either type of action does not adjudicate rights by or against the estate [Prob. Code § 553].

[5] Damages

Except as discussed below, either the damages sought in an action under Prob. Code §§ 550-555 must be within the limits and coverage of the insurance, or recovery of damages outside the limits or coverage of the insurance must be waived. A judgment in favor of the plaintiff in the action is enforceable only from the insurance coverage, and not against property in the estate [Prob. Code § 554(a)].

When the amount of damages sought in the action exceeds the coverage of the insurance, the foregoing limitations do not apply if both of the following conditions are satisfied [Prob. Code § 554(b)]:

- The personal representative is joined as a party to the action; and
- The plaintiff files a claim in compliance with Prob. Code § 9390.

3. Small Estate Set-Aside

39-454 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 454.150

§ 454.150 Unsecured Creditor's Action in Case of Small Estate Set-Aside

Prob. Code §§ 6600-6615 establish a procedure for setting aside a decedent's estate to his or her surviving spouse and minor children, or one or more of them, if the net estate, as defined, does not exceed $20,000 [see Prob. Code §§ 6602, 6609; for discussion and forms, see Ch. 441, Probate: Disposition Without Administration].

The person or persons who take title under an order setting aside a small estate are personally liable for the unsecured debts of the decedent [Prob. Code § 6611(a)]. This liability is limited, however, to the fair market value at the date of the decedent's death of the property title to which vested in that person pursuant to Prob. Code § 6609, less the total of all of the following [Prob. Code § 6611(b)]:

- The amount of any liens and encumbrances on that property;

- The value of any probate homestead interest set apart under Prob. Code § 6520 out of that property; and

- The value of any other property set aside under Prob. Code § 6510 out of that property.

The decedent's surviving spouse, child or children, or the guardian of the decedent's minor child or children, may assert any defense, cross complaint, or setoff that would have been available to the decedent [Prob. Code § 6611(c)].

If proceedings are commenced for the administration of a decedent's estate and the time for filing or presenting claims has commenced, any action on the personal liability of a person for the decedent's unsecured debts is generally barred to the same extent as provided for claims under Prob. Code §§ 9000-9399 [Prob. Code § 6611(d)]. The following creditors, however, are specifically excepted from this bar and may bring an action against the person who is liable [Prob. Code § 6611(d)]:

- Creditors who commence judicial proceedings for the enforcement of the debt and serve the person liable with the complaint prior to the expiration of the time for filing claims;

- Creditors who have or secure an acknowledgment in writing of the person liable that that person is liable for the debts; or

- Creditors who file a timely claim in the proceedings for the administration of the estate of the decedent.

An action brought under Prob. Code § 6611(d) is governed by the statute of limitations established in Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2 [see Prob. Code § 6611(e)]. Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2 provides that, if a person against whom an action may be brought on the liability of the person dies before expiration of the applicable limitation period, and if the cause of action survives, an action may be commenced within one year after the date of death, and the limitation period that would have been applicable does not apply [Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2(a)]. This limitation period applies to all types of actions, whether they arise in contract, tort, or otherwise, and whether they are accrued or not accrued [Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2(a)].

The limitations period under Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2 cannot be tolled or extended for any reason except as follows [Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2(b)]:

- The statutes governing claims against the probate estate [see Prob. Code § 9000 et seq. (creditor claims in administration of estates of decedents); which are discussed in this chapter];

- The statutes governing claims against the assets of revocable trusts [see Prob. Code § 19000 et seq. (payment of claims debts, and expenses from revocable trust of deceased settlor); for discussion, see Ch. 560, Trusts]; and

- The former statutes governing no contest clauses, as they read prior to repeal by Stats 2008 ch. 174, effective January 1, 2010 [see former Prob. Code § 21300 (no contest clauses; repealed 1/1/2010); for discussion, see Ch. 444, Probate: Will Contests].

Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2 applies only to actions founded on the liability of persons who died on or after January 1, 1993 [Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2(c)]. A comparable one-year statute applies to actions founded on the liability of persons who died on or after January 1, 1991, but before January 1, 1993 [compare former Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2 with former Code Civ. Proc. § 353(b)]. Longer limitation period may apply to actions founded on the liability of persons who died before January 1, 1991 [see former Code Civ. Proc. § 353(c), (d) (setting forth different limitation periods)].

§ 454.170 Compromise of Claims

[1] Without Court Authorization

Unless Prob. Code §§ 9830-9839 (governing the compromise of claims and actions) or some other applicable statute requires court authorization or approval, the personal representative may, without court authorization, instruction, approval, or confirmation, compromise or settle a claim, action or proceeding against the decedent, the personal representative, or the estate if it is to the advantage of the estate [see Prob. Code § 9830(a)]. The personal representative must exercise ordinary care and diligence in determining whether to exercise and in exercising a power granted by Prob. Code § 9830 [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to 1990 enactment of Prob. Code § 9830].

The personal representative is not precluded from seeking court authorization, pursuant to the provisions of Prob. Code §§ 9830-9839, to exercise any of the powers granted by Prob. Code § 9830 [Prob. Code § 9830(b)], and may find it to his or her advantage to do so, especially when in doubt as to the appropriate action to take [see Prob. Code § 7250 (order as releasing personal representative from liability), discussed in § 454.170[4][d]; see also Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to 1990 enactment of Prob. Code § 9830].

If the estate proceedings were commenced before July 1, 1988, the executor or administrator may similarly compromise a claim, but only after the lapse of 60 days from the issuance of letters testamentary or of administration, and only on approval of the court [see former Prob. Code § 718.5].

For discussion of a personal representative's power to compromise claims by or for the benefit of the estate, see Ch. 450, Probate: Collecting Assets .

[2] Limitation on Personal Representative's Authority

On the petition of an interested person, or on the court's own motion, the court may limit the authority of the personal representative under Prob. Code § 9830(a). Notice of the hearing on the petition must be given as provided in Prob. Code § 1220 (mailed notice of hearing) [Prob. Code § 9830(c); see discussion and forms relating to notice in Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements].

Under Prob. Code § 9830(c), the court may require, for example, prior authorization for any compromise or settlement of a particular matter or a particular kind of matter; the court may even order that no compromise or settlement be made unless it has first been authorized by the court. Additionally, a creditor or other interested person may seek an order that limits the personal representative's authority to take action under Prob. Code § 9830 without prior authorization [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 9830].

[3] When Court Authorization Required

[a] Claim Period Not Expired

Unless the time for filing creditor's claims has expired, authorization by court order is required for a compromise or settlement of a claim, action, or proceeding against the decedent, the personal representative, or the estate [Prob. Code § 9831].

[b] Matters Affecting Real Property

Except as provided in Prob. Code § 9832(b), relating to leases, authorization by court order is required for a compromise, settlement, extension, renewal, or modification that affects any of the following [Prob. Code § 9832(a)]:

- Title to real property;
- An interest in real property or a lien or encumbrance on real property;
- An option to purchase real property or an interest in real property.

For discussion of a personal representative's power to extend, renew, or modify specified leases of real property without prior authorization, see Ch. 450, Probate: Collecting Assets .

[c] Transaction in Excess of $25,000

Authorization by order of court is required for a compromise or settlement of a matter when the transaction requires the transfer or encumbrance of property of the estate, or the creation of an unsecured liability of the estate, or both, in an amount or value in excess of $25,000 [Prob. Code § 9833].

Even though Prob. Code § 9833 does not require court authorization for a compromise or settlement when the amount to be paid or charged against the estate is not more than $25,000, another provision of the Probate Code may require court authorization in the particular case, for example under Prob. Code § 9832 (discussed in § 454.170[3][b]) [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to 1990 enactment of Prob. Code § 9833].

[4] Procedure to Obtain Authorization

[a] Jurisdiction

The court authorization required by Prob. Code § 9830 et seq. must be obtained from the court in which the estate is being administered [Prob. Code § 9836]. Prob. Code § 9836 applies whether or not the claim or matter is the subject of a pending action or proceeding [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to 1990 enactment of Prob. Code § 9836].

[B] Petition for Authorization

A petition for an order authorizing a compromise, settlement, extension, renewal, or modification under Prob. Code § 9830 may be filed by the personal representative or by any interested person who has the personal representative's written approval to file the petition [Prob. Code § 9837(a); see Prob. Code § 48 (definition of "interested person")].

The petition must show the terms of the compromise, settlement, extension, renewal, or modification and its advantage to the estate [Prob. Code § 9837(b)]. At least 15 days before the hearing, notice of the time and place of the hearing must be given as provided in Prob. Code § 1220 [Prob. Code § 9837(c)]. For further discussion of notice requirements, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements .

For a form of petition to authorize a compromise, and for forms of sample allegations for use in the petition, see §§ 454.299 -454.301. For orders authorizing a compromise, see §§ 454.302 -454.304.

[c] Transfer of Estate Real Property

If an order made under Prob. Code § 9837 authorizes a compromise or settlement that requires the transfer of real property of the estate, the personal representative shall execute a conveyance of the real property to the person entitled to it under the compromise or settlement. The conveyance must refer to the order authorizing the compromise or settlement and directing that the conveyance be executed. A certified copy of the order must be recorded in the office of the recorder of the county in which the real property or any portion of it lies [Prob. Code § 9838(a)].

A conveyance made in compliance with the court order authorizing the compromise or settlement and directing the conveyance to be executed vests both of the following in the person to whom the property is transferred [Prob. Code § 9838(b)]:

- All the right, title, and interest that the decedent had in the property at the time of the decedent's death;

- Any other or additional right, title, or interest in the property acquired by the decedent's estate, by operation of law or otherwise, prior to the transfer.

[d] Effect of Order

When an order affecting the administration of a decedent's estate becomes final, it releases the personal representative and the sureties from all claims of the heirs or devisees and of any persons affected thereby based on any act or omission directly authorized, approved, or confirmed in the order [see Prob. Code § 7250(a)]. If the judgment or order was obtained by fraud, conspiracy, or misrepresentation as to a material fact, Section 7250 does not provide any release [see Prob. Code § 7250(c)].

[5] Claim Paid for Less Than Full Amount

If the personal representative pays a claim for less than its full amount, the personal representative's accounts may be credited only for the amount actually paid [Prob. Code § 9839].

39-454 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 454.190

§ 454.190 Contest of Allowed and Approved Claims

[1] In General

The validity of an allowed or approved claim, other than a claim established by a judgment, may be contested by any interested person at any time before settlement of the report or account of the personal representative in which it is first reported as an allowed or approved claim [Prob. Code § 9254; see also Prob. Code § 11001(a) (all matters relating to an account may be contested for cause shown, including the validity of an allowed or approved claim not reported in a previous account and not established by judgment)]. The burden of proof is on the contestant, except when the personal representative has acted under the Independent Administration of Estates Act, in which case the burden of proof is on the personal representative [Prob. Code § 9254].

The sections below generally discuss procedures for contesting allowed or approved claims under Prob. Code §§ 11000-11005. For further discussion of and forms for use in contesting other aspects of accounts, see Ch. 458D, Probate: Accounts, Final Distribution, and Compensation .

[2] By Interested Person

An interested person may, for cause shown, contest all matters relating to an account, including the validity of an allowed or approved claim not reported in a previous account and not established by judgment [Prob. Code § 11001(a); see Prob. Code § 1043(a),(b)]. A creditor is an interested person [see Prob. Code § 48 (defining "interested person"); Estate of McMillin (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 121, 127, 292 P.2d 881 (construing former Prob. Code § 927)].

[3] Manner of Objecting

An interested person may appear and respond or object to the account [see Prob. Code §§ 1040, 1043]. The objection is required to be in writing and verified; it may be filed at or before the hearing on the account [see Prob. Code §§ 1020, 1021; but see Prob. Code § 1043(b),(c) (authorizing oral response or objection at hearing and allowing court to hear and determine issue or grant continuance to allow response or objection to be made in writing, but providing that request for continuance does not constitute a response or an objection)].

[4] Hearing on Account

The court may conduct any hearing that may be necessary to settle the account, and may cite the personal representative to appear before it for examination [Prob. Code § 11002(a)]. There is no right to a jury trial in the proceeding [see Prob. Code § 825; see also Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 11002]. The court may appoint one or more referees to examine and make a report on the account, subject to court confirmation, and may allow a reasonable compensation to the referee or referees to be paid out of the estate [Prob. Code § 11002(b)]. Finally, the court may make any orders it deems necessary to effectuate the above provisions [Prob. Code § 11002(c)].

For discussion of other procedural issues involved in contesting an account, including notice of the hearing on the settlement of the account and the scope and content of orders, see Ch. 458D, Probate: Accounts, Final Distribution, and Compensation .

[5] Sanctions

[a] For Bad Faith Contest of Claim

If the court determines that the contest of a claim was without reasonable cause and in bad faith, the court may award against the contestant the personal representative's compensation and costs, together with other expenses and costs of litigation incurred to defend the account, including attorney's fees. The amount awarded is a charge against the contestant's interest, if any, in the estate, and the contestant is personally liable for any amount that remains unsatisfied [Prob. Code § 11003(a)].

[b] For Bad Faith Opposition to Contest of Claim

If, on the other hand, the court determines that the opposition to the contest was without reasonable cause and in bad faith, the court may award the contestant his or her costs, together with other expenses and costs of litigation, including attorney's fees, incurred to contest the claim. The amount awarded is a charge against the compensation or other interest of the personal representative in the estate. The personal representative is liable personally and on his or her bond, if any, for any amount that remains unsatisfied [Prob. Code § 11003(b)].

[6] Payment of Claims Not Properly Filed

If a debt has been paid within the time prescribed in Prob. Code § 9154 (claim filing period plus 30 days) but without a claim having been filed and established in the manner prescribed by statute, in settling the account the court shall allow the amount paid if all of the following are proven [Prob. Code § 11005]:

- The debt was justly due.
- The debt was paid in good faith.
- The amount paid did not exceed the amount reasonably necessary to satisfy the indebtedness.
- The estate is solvent.

The requirement that the debt must have been paid within the time prescribed in Prob. Code § 9154 codifies the effect of existing case law [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 11005 (citing Estate of Erwin (1953) 117 Cal. App. 2d 203, 205, 255 P.2d 97)]. If the personal representative recognizes or acknowledges the debt, for example by partial payment of it, within the time prescribed in Prob. Code § 9154, then it appears that, if the amount paid meets the requirements of Prob. Code § 11005 set forth above, the court should have the authority to approve full payment of the debt [see Estate of Sturm (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 14, 18, 246 Cal. Rptr. 852 (decided under prior law, but explicitly relying on Estate of Erwin)].

[7] Conclusiveness of Order

Generally, an order settling an account is conclusive against all interested persons [see Prob. Code § 11006(a)]. However, a person under legal disability has the right, at any time before entry of an order for final distribution of the estate, to move for cause to reopen and examine the account, or to proceed by action against the personal representative or the sureties on the bond. In that action, the order settling the account is prima facie evidence of the correctness of the account [Prob. Code § 11006(b)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Payment Or Settlement Of Claims

39-454 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 454.210

§ 454.210 Payment of Debts

[1] Definitions

A "debt" means any of the following [Prob. Code § 11401]:

- A claim that is established under Prob. Code §§ 9000-9399 (creditor claims) or that is otherwise payable in the course of administration;
- An expense of administration;
- A charge against the estate including, but not limited to, taxes, expenses of last illness, and family allowance.

A "wage claim" means a claim for wages, not exceeding $2,000, of each employee of the decedent for work done or personal services rendered within 90 days before the decedent's death [Prob. Code § 11402].

[2] Priority for Payment

Debts must be paid in the following order of priority among classes of debts, except that debts owed to the United States or to California that have preference under federal or state law must be given the preference required by those laws [Prob. Code § 11420(a); see, e.g., Rev. & Tax Code § 19516 (priority of tax claims)]:

- Expenses of administration.
- Obligations secured by a mortgage, deed of trust, or other lien, including, but not limited to, a judgment lien, in the order of their priority, so far as they may be paid out of the proceeds of the property subject to the lien. If the proceeds are insufficient, the part of the obligation remaining unsatisfied must be classed with general debts, below.

- Funeral expenses.
- Expenses of last illness.
- Family allowance.
- Wage claims.
- General debts, including judgments not secured by a lien and all other debts not included in a prior class.

With respect to obligations secured by a mortgage, deed of trust, or other lien (the second category above), only expenses of administration (the first category, above) that are reasonably related to the administration of the property by which the obligations are secured are entitled to priority over those obligations [Prob. Code § 11420(a)(1)]. When encumbered property is sold, the personal representative or any interested party may petition the court for an order determining the amount of the expenses of administration that are reasonably related to the administration of the encumbered property [Prob. Code § 10361.5]. However, the petition must be made before payment is made to satisfy the liens [Prob. Code § 10361.5]. For further discussion, see Ch. 455, Probate: Sale of Estate Property, § 455.26.

Except as otherwise provided by statute, the debts of each class are without preference or priority one over another. No debt of any class may be paid until all those of prior classes are paid in full. If property in the estate is insufficient to pay all debts of any class in full, each debt in that class must be paid a proportionate share [Prob. Code § 11420(b)].

A claim for federal taxes is entitled to priority over other claims against an estate, including claims that have previously been reduced to judgment liens, even when no notice of the tax claim has been given. I.R.C. § 6323(a), which provides that a tax lien is not valid against a judgment lien creditor until notice of the tax lien has been properly filed, does not operate as an exception to 31 U.S.C. § 3713, the federal insolvency statute, which provides that a claim of the United States government must be paid first when the estate of the deceased debtor is not enough to pay all debts of the deceased debtor [Estate of Silberman (1995) 39 Cal. App. 4th 1533, 1542, 46 Cal. Rptr. 2d 610] .

[3] Immediate Payment of Priority Debts

Subject to Prob. Code § 11420 (priority for payment of debts), as soon as the personal representative has sufficient funds, after retaining sufficient funds to pay expenses of administration, the personal representative must pay the following [Prob. Code § 11421]:

- Funeral expenses.
- Expenses of last illness.
- Family allowance.
- Wage claims.

[4] Payment of Debts on Court Order

Except as provided in Prob. Code § 11421 (immediate payment of priority debts, discussed in § 454.210[3]), the personal representative is not required to pay a debt until payment has been ordered by the court [Prob. Code § 11422(a)].

On the settlement of any account of the personal representative after the expiration of four months after the date letters are first issued to a general personal representative, the court will order payment of debts as the circumstances of the estate permit. If the property in the estate is insufficient to pay all the debts, the order must specify the amount to be paid to each creditor [Prob. Code § 11422(b)].

For further discussion of settlement of accounts, see Ch. 458C, Probate: Preliminary Distribution and Partial Allowance of Compensation , and Ch. 458D, Probate: Accounts, Final Distribution, and Compensation .

[5] Accrual of Interest on Debts

Generally, interest accrues on a debt from the date the court orders payment of the debt until the date the debt is paid. Interest accrues at the legal rate on judgments [Prob. Code § 11423(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 685.010; see also Ch. 318, Judgments].

In the case of a debt based on a written contract, interest accrues at the rate specified in and in accordance with the terms of the contract. The personal representative may, by order of the court, pay all or part of the interest accumulated and unpaid at any time when there are sufficient funds, whether the debt is then due or not [Prob. Code § 11423(b)].

In the case of a debt for unpaid taxes, or any other debt for which interest is expressly provided by statute, interest accrues at the rate and in accordance with the terms of the statute [Prob. Code § 11423(c)].

[6] Enforcement of Order for Payment

The personal representative must pay a debt to the extent of the order for payment of the debt, and is liable personally and on the bond, if any, for failure to make the payment [Prob. Code § 11424(a)].

[7] Payment of Debts That Are Contingent, Disputed, or Not Due

[a] In General

When all other debts have been paid and the estate is otherwise in a condition to be closed, on petition by an interested person, the probate court may make or modify an order or a combination of orders under Prob. Code § 11460 et seq. that the court, in its discretion, determines is appropriate to provide adequately for the contingent, disputed, or not-due debt, if the debt becomes absolute, established, or due [Prob. Code § 11461].

A debt is "contingent" if it is established as a claim against the estate under Prob. Code § 9000 et seq. in either a fixed or an uncertain amount and will become absolute on the occurrence of a stated event other than the passage of time. A contingent debt includes a secured obligation for which there may be recourse against property in the estate, other than the property that is the security, if the security is insufficient [Prob. Code § 11460(a)].

A debt is "disputed" if it is a claim rejected in whole or in part as a claim against the estate under Prob. Code § 9000 et seq. and the creditor commences an action on the rejected part of the claim or refers the rejected part of the claim to a referee or arbitration within the time periods set forth in Prob. Code § 9353 [Prob. Code § 11460(b)].

A debt is "not due" if it is established as a claim against the estate under Prob. Code § 9000 et seq. and will become due on the passage of time. A debt that is not due includes a debt payable in installments [Prob. Code § 11460(c)].

[b] Continuing Estate Administration

The court may order that the administration of the estate continue until the contingency, dispute, or passage of time of a debt that is contingent, disputed, or not due is resolved [Prob. Code § 11467].

[c] Agreement Among Interested Persons to Provide for Debt

The persons interested in the estate can arrive at an agreement among themselves as to the way they choose to provide for the payment of a debt that is contingent, disputed, or not yet due [see Prob. Code § 11462].

Regardless of the other techniques available in Prob. Code § 11461 et seq. for securing payment of debts that are contingent, disputed, or not due, the probate court is required to ratify an agreement between or among persons interested in the estate that provides for resolution of such a debt if the court determines that (1) all the interested persons agree to the manner of providing for the debt, (2) the agreement reasonably protects all interested persons, and (3) the agreement will not extend administration of the estate unreasonably [Prob. Code § 11462].

[d] Deposit of Amount of Debt in Blocked Account

Payment of a debt that is contingent, disputed, or not yet due may be secured by deposit in a financial institution, as provided in Prob. Code § 9700 et seq., of an amount that would be payable if the debt became absolute, established, or due [see Prob. Code § 11463]. The order must provide that the amount deposited can only be withdrawn on court authorization, and that, on withdrawal, the amount must be either paid to the creditor when the debt becomes absolute, established, or due, or if the debt does not become absolute or established, distributed in the manner provided in Prob. Code § 11642 for property acquired or discovered after final distribution has been ordered [see Prob. Code § 11463; for discussion of Prob. Code § 11642, see Ch. 458D, Probate: Accounts, Final Distribution, and Compensation].

[e] Appointment of Trustee to Receive Payment

Payment of a debt that is contingent, disputed, or not yet due may be secured by obtaining a court order appointing a trustee to receive payment for the debt. In determining the amount paid to the trustee, the probate court is required to compute the present value of the debt, giving consideration to a reasonable return on the amount to be invested. The trustee must invest the payment either in investments that would be proper for a personal representative or as authorized in the order [Prob. Code § 11465(a)].

The trustee must pay the debt as provided in the order. On completion of payment, any excess in possession of the trustee is to be distributed in the manner provided in Prob. Code § 11642 for property acquired or discovered after final distribution has been ordered [Prob. Code § 11465(a); for discussion of Prob. Code § 11642, see Ch. 458D, Probate: Accounts, Final Distribution, and Compensation].

[f] Distribution Subject to Distributee's Assumption of Liability for Payment of Debt

Payment of a debt that is contingent or disputed may be secured in the court's order for final distribution of property in the estate by making distribution conditional on the distributee filing with the court an assumption of liability for the debt [Prob. Code § 11464(a); for a petition for final distribution with optional language requesting this relief, see Ch. 458D, Probate: Accounts, Final Distribution, and Compensation]. The court may impose anyother conditions that, in its discretion, it determines are just, including the condition that the distributee give a security interest in all or part of the property distributed. The court may also impose the condition that the distributee give a bond in an amount determined by the court [Prob. Code § 11464(a)]. The bond requirement may be satisfied by a cash deposit [see Code Civ. Proc. § 995.710 (deposit in lieu of bond); Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to enactment of Prob. Code § 11464].

As a condition for the order, each distributee must file with the probate court a signed and acknowledged agreement assuming personal liability for the contingent or disputed debt and consenting to jurisdiction within California for the enforcement of the debt if it becomes absolute or established. The personal liability of each distributee is not to exceed the fair market value on the date of distribution of the property received by the distributee, less the amount of liens and encumbrances on the property. If there is more than one distributee, the personal liability of the distributees is joint and several [Prob. Code § 11464(b)].

Once the debt becomes absolute or established, it may be enforced against each distributee in the same manner as it could have been enforced against the decedent if the decedent were alive. In an action based on the debt, the distributee can assert any defense, cross complaint, or setoff that would have been available to the decedent if the decedent were alive [Prob. Code § 11464(c)].

The statute of limitations applicable to a contingent debt is tolled from the time the creditor's claim is filed until 30 days after the order for distribution becomes final. The signing of the agreement to assume personal liability for the debt neither extends nor revives any limitation period [Prob. Code § 11464(c)].

[g] Distribution Subject to Bond Conditioned on Payment of Debt

Payment of a debt that is contingent or disputed may be secured in the court's order for final distribution by requiring the person entitled to distribution of the property to give a bond conditioned on payment by that person of the amount of the debt that becomes absolute or established [Prob. Code § 11466; for a form of petition for final distribution with optional language requesting this relief, see Ch. 458D, Probate: Accounts, Final Distribution, and Compensation]. The amount of the bond is determined by the court. However, the amount is not to exceed the fair market value on the date of distribution of the property received by the distributee, less the amount of liens and encumbrances on the property. In the case of a disputed debt or in the case of a contingent debt in which litigation is required to establish the contingency, the cost of the bond is recoverable from the unsuccessful party as a cost of litigation [Prob. Code § 11466].

[8] Allocation of Debts Between Estate and Surviving Spouse

If a debt of the decedent appears to have been paid or to be payable in whole or in part by the surviving spouse [see Prob. Code §§ 13550-13554], or that a debt of the surviving spouse appears to have been paid or to be payable in whole or in part from property in the decedent's estate, then the personal representative, the surviving spouse, or a beneficiary may, at any time before an order for final distribution is made, petition for an order to allocate the debt [Prob. Code § 11440]. For further discussion and forms related to the allocation of debts between the estate and the surviving spouse, see Ch. 441, Probate: Disposition Without Administration .

§ 454.211 Claims Established by Judgment

[1] Money Judgment Against Decedent

After a judgment debtor's death, the judgment creditor's ability to reach property of the deceased debtor in satisfaction of the judgment is governed by the Probate Code, not by the Enforcement of Judgments Law (Code Civ. Proc. §§ 680.010 et seq.) [Prob. Code § 9300(a)]. Except with respect to liens that have already been executed, any judgment creditor that seeks to satisfy its money judgment with the decedent's property must file a timely claim in the probate proceeding under Prob. Code § 9100 or in connection with a trust claims procedure under Prob. Code § 19103, if such a proceeding has been initiated [Embree v. Embree (2004) 125 Cal. App. 4th 487, 493, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 782] . The judgment is then paid to the judgment creditor in the ordinary course of administration of the estate or trust [Prob. Code § 9300(a); Embree v. Embree (2004) 125 Cal. App. 4th 487, 493-494, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 782] . Failure to file a timely claim in the probate or trust claims proceeding bars the judgment creditor from recovering against the decedent's property whether or not it has been distributed [Prob. Code §§ 9002, 19004; Embree v. Embree (2004) 125 Cal. App. 4th 487, 494, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 782] .

Subject to Prob. Code § 9301, a money judgment against the decedent or personal representative must be filed in the same manner as other claims [Prob. Code § 9300(b); see discussion of claim filing in § 454.50 et seq.].

[2] Money Judgment Against Personal Representative

When a money judgment against a personal representative in a representative capacity becomes final, it conclusively establishes the validity of the claim for the amount of the judgment. The judgment must provide that it is payable out of property in the decedent's estates in the course of administration. Additionally, an abstract of the judgment must be filed in the administration proceedings [Prob. Code § 9301].

[3] Enforcement of Nonmoney Judgment

Notwithstanding the death of the decedent, a judgment for possession of property or a judgment for sale of property may be enforced under the Enforcement of Judgments Law (Code Civ. Proc. §§ 680.010-724.260). Enforcement of the judgment, however, may only be directed against the property described in the judgment for possession or sale [Prob. Code § 9302(a)]. For further discussion and forms relating to enforcement of nonmoney judgments, see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments .

After the death of the decedent, a demand for money that is not satisfied from the property described in a judgment for sale of property must be filed as a claim in the same manner as other claims, and is payable in the course of administration [Prob. Code § 9302(b); see discussion of claim filing in § 454.50 et seq.].

[4] Property Subject to Execution Lien

If property of the decedent is subject to an execution lien at the time of the decedent's death, then enforcement against the property may proceed under the Enforcement of Judgments Law to satisfy the judgment. The levying officer must account to the personal representative for any surplus. If the judgment is not satisfied, then the balance of the judgment remaining unsatisfied is payable in the course of administration [Prob. Code § 9303]. For further discussion and forms relating to enforcement of nonmoney judgments, see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments .

[5] Converting Attachment Lien to Judgment Lien

An attachment lien may be converted into a judgment lien on property in the estate subject to the attachment lien, with the same priority as the attachment lien, in either of the following cases [Prob. Code § 9304(a)]:

- When the judgment debtor dies after entry of judgment in an action in which the property was attached;

- When a judgment is entered after the death of the defendant in an action in which the property was attached.

To convert the attachment lien into a judgment lien, the levying officer must, after entry of judgment in the action in which the property was attached and before the expiration of the attachment lien, do one of the following [Prob. Code § 9304(b)]:

- Serve an abstract of the judgment, and a notice that the attachment lien has become a judgment lien, on the person holding property subject to the attachment lien.

- Record or file an abstract of the judgment and a notice that the attachment lien has become a judgment lien in any office where the writ of attachment and notice of attachment are recorded or filed. If the attached property is real property, the plaintiff or the plaintiff's attorney may record the required abstract and notice with the same effect as if recorded by the levying officer.

After the death of the decedent, any members of the decedent's family who were supported in whole or in part by the decedent may claim an exemption provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 487.020 for property levied on under the writ of attachment if the right to the exemption exists at the time the exemption is claimed. The personal representative may claim the exemption on behalf of members of the decedent's family. The claim of exemption may be made at any time before the time the abstract and notice are served, recorded, or filed under Prob. Code § 9304(b) with respect to the property claimed to be exempt. The claim of exemption must be made in the same manner as an exemption is claimed under Code Civ. Proc. § 482.100 [Prob. Code § 9304(c)]. For further discussion and forms relating to the claim of exemptions, see Ch. 62, Attachment .

39-454 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 454.253

§ 454.253 Decisions

[1] Action Pending Against Decedent at Time of Death

Although notice of remittitur and copy of attorney's declaration supporting motion in municipal court for determination of attorney's fees did not constitute sufficient notice of claim under former Prob. Code § 709 (now see Prob. Code § 9370), executrix was estopped from asserting excess of jurisdiction when she failed to request rehearing of motion in appellate department of superior court and did not seek review of appellate department's decision or amended judgment in municipal court. Heywood v. Municipal Court (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1438, 1443-1445, 244 Cal. Rptr. 435

[2] Action to Establish Decedent's Insured Liability

Action under former Prob. Code § 721 (now see Prob. Code §§ 550-555) to establish decedent's insured liability does not require plaintiff to make election of remedies, because remedy is cumulative and can be pursued concurrently with other remedies. Delgado v. Estate of Espinoza (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 261, 265, 252 Cal. Rptr. 186

In action under former Prob. Code § 721 (now see Prob. Code §§ 550-555) against estate to establish liability of decedent on insured claim, summary judgment for estate on ground action barred by statute of limitations under former Code Civ. Proc. § 353 was proper because action was commenced more than two years after accident, and amendment of Doe allegations in complaint to name estate as defendant did not relate back to original filing when plaintiff was not ignorant of facts giving rise to cause of action against estate. Von Gibson v. Estate of Lynch (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 725, 729-730, 243 Cal. Rptr. 50

[3] Allowance and Rejection of Claims

Large national corporation not entitled to file late creditor's claim again estate when notice of administration was properly mailed to corporation's lock box address and corporation failed to file claim within statutory time; corporation's claim that it did not have actual knowledge of administration more than 15 days before expiration of time provided in statute was not established by claims that notice should have been received by corporation's legal department within prescribed time. Gertner v. Superior Court (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 927, 931-932, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 47

Former Prob. Code § 929 (now see Prob. Code § 11005) does not extend time for paying bona fide debts when no claim has been filed or acknowledged by personal representative; however, if debt has been partially paid by personal representative within claim-filing period, court has authority, in settling account, to allow amount paid. Estate of Sturm (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 14, 18, 246 Cal. Rptr. 852

Trial court's order surcharging executor for payments of inflated real estate commissions affirmed on basis of substantial evidence for refusing to find that commissions had been justly due or paid in good faith under former Prob. Code § 929 (now see Prob Code § 11005). Estate of Cross (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 80, 87, 123 Cal. Rptr. 825

Administratrix and probate judge are duty-bound to protect estate from collection of debt that is barred by former Prob. Code § 707 (now see Prob. Code § 9002(b)), requiring timely filing of claim. Estate of Erwin (1953) 117 Cal. App. 2d 203, 205, 255 P.2d 97

[4] Appeal

Order allowing filing of amended claim in probate proceeding is nonappealable under former Prob. Code § 1240 (now see Prob. Code § 7240). Estate of Vose (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 454, 456, 84 Cal. Rptr. 347

Former Prob. Code § 1233 (now see Prob. Code § 1000), applying specified rules of practice under the Code of Civil Procedure to probate proceedings, requires that appellant from order in probate be party to probate proceeding. Estate of Partridge (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 58, 60, 67 Cal. Rptr. 433

[5] Compromise of Claims

Executor or administrator having agreed to compromise of existing claim and having fraudulently or mistakenly advised creditor that he need not file claim against estate, was not permitted to repudiate settlement after time to file claim expired. Katz v. A.J. Ruhlman & Co. (1945) 69 Cal. App. 2d 541, 545-546, 159 P.2d 426

[6] Contribution From Estate

Motion for contribution from personal representative of deceased coobligor on promissory note was timely although not filed within four-month period of former Prob. Code § 707(a) (now see Prob. Code § 9100(a)) because right to contribution only arose on actual payment of judgment two years after decedent's death. Borba Farms, Inc. v. Acheson (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 597, 601-603, 242 Cal. Rptr. 880

[7] Creditors' Claims

[a] Definitions

Legislature intended definition of "claim" in Prob. Code § 9000 to be broadly rather than restrictively interpreted. Kizer v. Hanna (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 1, 12, 255 Cal. Rptr. 412, 767 P.2d 679

[b] Department of Health Services

Department of Health Services may not assert Medi-Cal lien for costs incurred in treating decedent's final illness against recovery in wrongful death action when recovery does not and could not include these medical expenses. Fitch v. Select Products Co. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 812, 822, 31 Cal. Rptr. 3d 591, 115 P.3d 1233

Welf. & Inst. Code § 14009.5 permits Department of Health Services to claim reimbursement from Medi-Cal recipient's estate for benefits paid prior to effective date of statute when recipient died after that date. Kizer v. Hanna (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 1, 13, 255 Cal. Rptr. 412, 767 P.2d 679 (disapproving Estate of Messner (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 818, 235 Cal. Rptr. 495); Department of Health Services v. Fontes (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 301, 215 Cal. Rptr. 14

Statute of limitations for action by the Department of Health Services seeking reimbursement for Medi-Cal benefits provided to decedent begins running on date on which notice under Prob. Code § 215 is given. Shewry v. Begil (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 639, 645, 27 Cal. Rptr. 3d 209

When personal representative fraudulently represents to probate court that decedent had not received Medi-Cal benefits, public entity may proceed under doctrine of extrinsic fraud against personal representative and surety, rather than against distributees under Prob. Code § 9203(b). Estate of Starkweather (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 580, 591-593, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 766

[c] When Required or Not Required

Action against personal representative of deceased seller of real property pursuant to Civ. Code § 1691 to enforce rescission of contract (restitution) is not a claim arising on contract within meaning of former Prob. Code § 707 (now see Prob. Code §§ 9000(a)(1), 9002), defining and requiring filing of claims, and hence as not necessitating filing of creditor's claim. Pay Less Drug Stores v. Bechdolt (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 496, 502, 155 Cal. Rptr. 58 (applying by analogy holdings of cases to same effect with respect to actions for specific performance, actions to quiet title, and actions to impose constructive or resulting trust)

When wife who enjoyed present existing interest in husband's partnership interest left her interest in property to several devisees, those devisees had a present interest and not a mere money claim; consequently former Prob. Code § 707 (now see Prob. Code § 9002) requiring that claims against estate be filed in probate proceeding is not applicable to them. Kenworthy v. Hadden (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 696, 701, 151 Cal. Rptr. 169

[8] Nonclaim Statute

Nonclaim statute is not self-executing statute of limitations; but rather operates in connection with state's probate proceedings to potentially adversely affect creditor's property interest in claim against decedent's estate. Tulsa Collection Servs. v. Pope (1988) 485 U.S. 478, 491, 108 S. Ct. 1340, 99 L. Ed. 2d 565

California nonclaim statute [see Prob. Code § 9353] extends time to commence action on claim against estate to three months after notice of rejection of claim, even when statute of limitations otherwise applicable expires before the end of the three months, or before the creditor's claim was filed. Anderson v. Anderson (1995) 41 Cal. App. 4th 135, 138-140, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 642

[9] Notice to Creditors

Due process clause of Fourteenth Amendment requires that actual notice be given to creditor whose identity is known to or reasonably ascertainable by personal representative. Tulsa Collection Servs. v. Pope (1988) 485 U.S. 478, 491,

108 S. Ct. 1340, 99 L. Ed. 2d 565

[10] Priority of Claims

Claim for federal taxes entitled to priority over other claims, including claims that have previously been reduced to judgment liens, even when no notice of tax claim has been given; I.R.C. § 6323(a), which provides that tax lien is not valid against judgment lien creditor until notice of lien has been properly filed, does not constitute an exception to 31 U.S.C. § 3713, which provides that claim of United States government must be paid first when estate of deceased debtor is not enough to pay all debts. Estate of Silberman (1995) 39 Cal. App. 4th 1533, 1542, 46 Cal. Rptr. 2d 610

[11] Satisfaction of Judgment Against Estate

IRA as not property of probate estate but of named beneficiary and therefore may not be used to satisfy judgment against estate. Estate of Davis (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 854, 857-858, 217 Cal. Rptr. 734 (decided under prior law)

[12] Statute of Limitations

Action for breach of fiduciary duty and accounting filed against successor trustee, alleging that decedent trustee had concealed financial information, was timed barred under Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2 because it could have been brought as a claim on a liability of the person. Stoltenberg v. Newman (2009) 179 Cal. App. 4th 287, 296, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 606

Settlor was prohibited from allowing her own creditor's claim for compensation for caring for decedent, her mother, during the four years prior to decedent's death; claim was not timely under Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2, and trustee's assertion that she was entitled to submit an oral claim did not satisfy Probate Code requirements. Wagner v. Wagner (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 249, 257, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 511

One-year statute of limitations in Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2 applies to actions on all claims against decedent that survive decedent's death; this limitations period is tolled by timely filing of creditor's claim, filing of petition for payment of debts, claims, or expenses, or proceeding to construe no contest provision judicially. Levine v. Levine (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 1256, 1261, 126 Cal. Rptr. 2d 255

[3] Use of Form

This form is for use by the personal representative to notify known or reasonably ascertainable creditors of the decedent of the administration of the decedent's estate and the necessity for filing claims against the estate [see Prob. Code § 9050]. The personal representative has a duty to give this notice to the known or reasonably ascertainable creditors of the decedent [Prob. Code § 9050(a)]. The personal representative also has a duty to make reasonably diligent efforts to identify reasonably ascertainable creditors of the decedent [Prob. Code § 9053(d)].

Notice need not be given to a creditor who has already filed a claim or has made a demand that the personal representative is treating as a claim [Prob. Code § 9054; see Prob. Code § 9154 (waiver of formal defects in claim form)].

The requirement that this notice be given to known or reasonably ascertainable creditors is in addition to the requirement that notice to creditors be published [Prob. Code § 9050(b)]. Use of these Judicial Council forms is mandatory [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 1.31, 7.101].

I, _____ [name], am the plaintiff in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for use by decedent's creditor to commence an action on a claim that is presently due against the estate and that has been rejected, in whole or in part, by the personal representative or the court [see Prob. Code § 9354; see also Prob. Code §§ 9255 (partial rejection of claim), 9350 (Prob. Code §§ 9350-9354 are applicable to any claim other than a claim on an action or proceeding pending against decedent at the time of death)]. The form is designed for use by a creditor who is neither the personal representative nor the personal representative's attorney, but it may be adapted for use by either of these types of creditors [see Prob. Code § 9252(c)].

[3] Time for Commencing Action

If the claim is due when notice of its rejection is given, the creditor must commence an action on the claim, or refer the matter to a refereeor arbitration under Prob. Code §§ 9620 or 9621, within three months after notice of rejection is given [see Prob. Code § 9353(a); for further discussion, see § 454.111[2]].

[4] Personal Representative as Defendant

The action is always filed against the personal representative in his or her official capacity, and not against the estate, because the estate is not an entity known to the law [Tanner v. Best (1940) 40 Cal. App. 2d 442, 445, 104 P.2d 1084] . The term "estate" is merely a name to indicate the sum total of the assets and liabilities of a deceased.

It is not clear who the named defendant is when the personal representative, as a creditor of the estate, brings an action on his or her rejected claim [see Prob. Code § 9252(c)]. When the personal representative or his or her attorney brings an action on a rejected claim, summons is served on the judge who rejected the claim, who in turn appoints an attorney to defend the action at the expense of the estate [see Prob. Code § 9252(c)].

[5] Necessary Allegations

Filing and rejection of the claim must be alleged, as in Paragraph 3 and any alternative Paragraph 4, because the action cannot be commenced unless the claim is first filed and rejected in whole or in part [see Prob. Code § 9351].

Even though a copy of the claim as filed is attached to the complaint, as alleged in Paragraph 3, it is necessary for plaintiff to allege his or her cause of action, as illustrated in Paragraph 5, because the claim is not a substitute for the necessary allegations of the cause of action.

[6] Notice of Pendency of Action

Plaintiff must file a notice of the pendency of the action with the court clerk, together with proof of giving a copy of the notice to the personal representative [see Prob. Code § 9354(b)]. For a form for this notice, see § 454.295. For further discussion of the notice, see § 454.111[4].

[7] Costs and Litigation Expenses

The prevailing party in the action will be awarded court costs. Additionally, if the court determines that the prosecution or defense of the action against the prevailing party was unreasonable, the prevailing party will be awarded reasonable litigation expenses, including attorney's fees [Prob. Code § 9354(c)].

Regardless of the foregoing, a plaintiff who is suing on a partial rejection of a claim may not recover costs at all unless he or she recovers an amount greater than that allowed or approved [see Prob. Code § 9255(b)].

[8] Jurisdiction and Venue

The complaint may be filed in municipal or superior court, depending on the amount in controversy, in the county having jurisdiction of the estate, except as otherwise provided in Prob. Code § 17005 pertaining to trustees [Code Civ. Proc. § 395.1; see Prob. Code § 17005; see also Prob. Code §§ 82 (definition of "trust"), 17300-17302 (continuing jurisdiction of testamentary trust)]. In addition to any other county in which an action may be brought, the action on the claim may be brought in the county in which the proceeding for administration of the decedent's estate is pending [Prob. Code § 9354(a)].

This form is a notice of pendency of action on a rejected claim. It is for use by a creditor to notify the personal representative of the creditor's action against the personal representative on a rejected claim against decedent's estate [*see Prob. [2] Use of Form

This form is a demurrer for use by the personal representative to demur to a creditor's suit on a rejected claim on the ground that the complaint fails to state facts sufficient to state a cause of action because the complaint fails to allege the timely filing, and rejection in whole or in part, of the creditor's claim [see Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(e); see also Prob. Code §§ 9351, 9370]. When the filing of a claim against the estate is essential, a complaint that does not allege that the claim has been filed fails to state a cause of action [Morrison v. Land (1915) 169 Cal. 580, 585, 147 P. 259] .

The form may be used to demur to a complaint in an action that is commenced after the decedent's death [see Prob. Code § 9350]. Alternatively, it may be used in an action or proceeding pending against the decedent at the time of death to demur to a supplemental complaint that substitutes the personal representative for the deceased defendant [see Prob. Code § 9370]. In either case, the action or proceeding may not be commenced or continued against the decedent's personal representative unless, among other requirements, the claim is first filed as provided in Prob. Code §§ 9000-9399 and rejected in whole or in part [see Prob. Code §§ 9351, 9370]. For discussion of actions on these types of claims, see §§ 454.111, 454.113.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a demurrer for use by the personal representative to demur to a creditor's suit on a rejected claim, other than a claim on an action or proceeding pending against the decedent at the time of death, on the ground that the complaint fails to state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action in that it appears from the face of the complaint that the action was not commenced within the limitation period prescribed by statute [*see Code Civ. must be commenced within 90 days after the notice is given. If the claim is not due at the time the notice of rejection is given, the action must be commenced within 90 days months after the claim becomes due. These limitation periods do not include the time during which there is a vacancy in the office of the personal representative [see Prob. Code § 9353; for further discussion, see § 454.111[2]].

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the petitioner in the above-entitled proceeding. I have read the foregoing petition and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein stated on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

_____ [signature]

CAUTION:
Petitions in probate matters must be verified [Prob. Code § 1021(a)(1)].

[2] Use of Form

This form is a petition for use by the personal representative or by any interested person who has the personal representative's written approval to obtain court approval of a compromise of a creditor's claim against decedent's estate [see Prob. Code § 9837(a)]. The petition must show the terms of the compromise (Paragraph 7), and its advantage to the heirs or devisees and the estate (Paragraphs 8 and 9) [see Prob. Code § 9837(b)]. Notice of the hearing on the petition must be given at least 15 days before the time set for the hearing as provided in Prob. Code § 1220 [Prob. Code § 9837(c); see discussion in Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements].

[3] When Court Authorization Required

Generally, the personal representative may compromise and settle claims and actions without court approval, except for the matters governed by Prob. Code §§ 9831-9835. For further discussion of when court authorization is required to compromise claims against the decedent or estate, see § 454.170 et seq. For discussion and forms relating to the compromise of claims or actions by or for the benefit of the decedent or estate, or the extension, renewal, or modification of obligations owing to or in favor of the decedent or estate, see Ch. 450, Probate: Collecting Assets .

The personal representative may choose to seek court authorization of a compromise for which authorization is not statutorily required because, once final, an order authorizing a compromise releases the personal representative and the sureties from all claims of the heirs, devisees, or any affected person based on any act or omission directly authorized in the order [see Prob. Code § 7250; see also § 454.170[4][d]].

[2] Use of Form

These allegations are for use in a petition seeking court approval of a compromise of a claim against decedent's estate when the compromise involves the estate's conveyance of real property to a creditor in exchange for the creditor's cancellation of the note and trust deed securing the property. These allegations may be used in the form in § 454.299 in lieu of Paragraphs 4-7 of that form. Because a compromise containing the foregoing allegations relates to title to, interest in, or a lien or encumbrance on real property, this type of compromise requires court approval [see Prob. Code § 9832(a)]. For further discussion, see § 454.170[3][b].

Sales of estate property are governed by Prob. Code §§ 10000-10382. Sales are also subject to provisions of local rules of court, often contained in special probate policy manuals or memoranda.

The written disclosures that are generally required to be made to buyers when residential real property is sold in California [see Civ. Code §§ 1102-1102.15] do not apply to sales made pursuant to the order of a probate court in the administration of an estate [Civ. Code § 1102.2(b)].

39-455 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 455.11

§ 455.11 When Estate Property May Be Sold

In general, a decedent's personal representative has broad powers to sell estate property. The personal representative may sell real or personal property of the estate if the sale is to the advantage of the estate and is in the best interest of the interested persons [Prob. Code § 10000(b)]. Interested persons include any heir, devisee, child or spouse, creditor, beneficiary, or other person who has a property right in or claim against the estate that may be affected by the sale. Interested persons also include any person who has a priority for appointment as personal representative or any fiduciary who represents another interested person [Prob. Code § 48(a); see Prob. Code § 20 (applicability of definitions)].

Sales of estate property are also expressly authorized by statute if necessary to pay debts, devises, family allowances, expenses of administration, or taxes [Prob. Code § 10000(a)], or if the will expressly directs or authorizes the sale of the property [Prob. Code § 10000(c), (d)].

If the personal representative neglects or refuses to sell estate property, any interested person may petition for a court order to compel a sale [see § 455.115]. In such a proceeding, it need only be shown that the sale is to the advantage of the estate and is in the best interest of the interested persons. A sale may also be compelled if necessary to pay debts, devises, the family allowance, expenses of administration, or taxes, or if the decedent directed that the property be sold in his or her will [Prob. Code § 10001(a)].

§ 455.12 Manner of Sale

In general, the personal representative must comply with directions in the will as to the manner of sale of estate property. However, the personal representative or any interested person may petition the court for an order that relieves the personal representative from the duty to comply with directions in the will [see § 455.117]. The court may grant the order if it determines that the deviation would be to the advantage of the estate and in the best interest of the interested persons. The order must specify the mode and the terms and conditions of sale [Prob. Code § 10002; see § 455.118].

If the will is silent in regard to sale of property, the personal representative has discretion as to the manner of sale. The entire interest of the estate or any lesser interest in any particular property may be sold [Prob. Code § 10003(b)]. Property may be sold at either public auction or private sale [Prob. Code § 10003(c)].

Chapter 455 PROBATE: SALE OF ESTATE PROPERTY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

39-455 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 455.13

§ 455.13 Selection of Property to Sell

[1] In General

Unless the rules of abatement apply, a personal representative has discretion as to what property of the estate should be sold and in what order [Prob. Code § 10003(a); see § 455.50[5]]. The personal representative must generally follow directions in the will as to particular property to be sold [Prob. Code § 10002(a)]. However, the personal representative or any interested person may petition the court for an order that relieves the personal representative from the duty to comply with the testamentary directions. The court may grant the order if it determines that the deviation would be to the advantage of the estate and in the best interest of the interested persons. The order must specify particular property to be sold [Prob. Code § 10002(b)].

An ex parte application by the personal representative for authority to sell tangible or intangible personal property must state whether the property is specifically devised [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.454]. If it is specifically devised, the devisee's written consent to the sale must be filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.454].

[2] Rules of Abatement

[a] Necessity for Abatement

Abatement refers to an insufficiency of assets in an estate to pay all expenses and testamentary gifts [see Estate of Buck (1948) 32 Cal. 2d 372, 376, 196 P.2d 769] . If the statutory rules of abatement apply, they may require the personal representative to sell property that is the subject of a particular testamentary gift in order to pay debts, expenses, or another gift that has a higher statutory priority [see, e.g., Prob. Code § 752 (decedents dying before July 1, 1989); Prob. Code §§ 21400, 21402 (decedents dying on or after July 1, 1989)]. The rules of abatement governing estates of decedents dying on or after July 1, 1989 apply not only to wills and testamentary gifts, but also to trusts, deeds, and any other instrument [Prob. Code § 21101].

[b] Abatement if Decedent Died Before July 1, 1989

Although former Prob. Code §§ 662, 750-753 were repealed as of July 1, 1989, they continue to govern abatement in estates of decedents who died before that date [Prob. Code § 21406].

A specific gift is one of a particular thing, specified and distinguished from all others of the same kind belonging to the testator [Prob. Code § 662(a)]. Specific gifts may be exempted from abatement for the payment of debts, expenses, and the family allowance if it appears necessary to the court in order to carry out the intent of the testator and there is other sufficient estate [Prob. Code § 750; see § 455.111]. All beneficiaries must contribute according to their respective interests to any beneficiary whose specific gift was sold in order to pay debts, administrative expenses, or the family allowance [Prob. Code § 753].

[c] Abatement if Decedent Dies on or After July 1, 1989

Prob. Code §§ 21400-21406 govern abatement with respect to gifts made on or after July 1, 1989, whether by will, trust, deed, or any other instrument [Prob. Code §§ 21101, 21406(a)]. A gift by will is made on the date of the decedent's death [Prob. Code § 21406(b)]. If the instrument provides for abatement, or if the transferor's plan or the purpose of the transfer would be defeated by abatement as provided in Prob. Code §§ 21400-21406, the shares of beneficiaries abate as is necessary to effectuate the instrument, plan, or transferor's purpose [Prob. Code § 21400].

With the exceptions noted below, shares of beneficiaries abate in accordance with Prob. Code §§ 21400-21406 for all purposes, including payment of the debts, expenses, and charges specified in Prob. Code § 11420 (expenses of administration, funeral expenses, expenses of last illness, family allowance, wage claims, mortgages and secured obligations, and general debts), satisfaction of gifts, and payment of expenses on specifically devised property pursuant to Prob. Code § 12002. Shares abate without any priority as between real and personal property [Prob. Code § 21401]. Abatement in the following situations is not governed by Prob. Code §§ 21400-21406, but by the following specified provisions [Prob. Code § 21401]:

- Prob. Code § 21612 governs abatement to provide for an omitted spouse.
- Prob. Code § 6573 governs abatement to provide for omitted children.
- Prob. Code §§ 20100-20225 governs abatement relating to proration of taxes.

When Prob. Code §§ 21400-21406 apply, beneficiaries' shares abate in the following order [Prob. Code § 21402(a)]:

- Property not disposed of by the instrument.
- Residuary gifts.
- General gifts to persons other than the transferor's relatives.
- General gifts to the transferor's relatives.
- Specific gifts to persons other than the transferor's relatives.
- Specific gifts to the transferor's relatives.

A general gift is a gift from the general assets of the estate that does not give specific property [Prob. Code § 21117(b)]. A specific gift is a transfer of specifically identifiable property [Prob. Code § 21117(a)]. A person is regarded as a "relative" of the decedent if the decedent's property would pass to that person under the rules of intestate succession if the decedent died intestate and there were no other persons having priority [Prob. Code § 21402(b); see Prob. Code §§ 6401, 6402 (intestate shares of surviving spouse and other heirs)].

Subject to Prob. Code § 21403(b), shares of beneficiaries abate pro rata within each class specified in Prob. Code § 21402 [Prob. Code § 21403(a)]. Gifts of annuities and demonstrative gifts are treated as specific gifts to the extent they are satisfied out of the fund or property specified in the gift and as general gifts to the extent they are satisfied out of property other than the fund or property specified in the gift [Prob. Code § 21403(b); see Prob. Code § 21117(c) (demonstrative gift as general gift that specifies fund or property from which it is primarily to be made)].

If an instrument requires property that is the subject of a specific gift to be exonerated from a mortgage, deed of trust, or other lien, a specific gift of other property does not abate for the purpose of exonerating the encumbered property [Prob. Code § 21404]. In any case in which there is abatement when a distribution is made during estate administration, the court must fix the amount each distributee must contribute for abatement. The personal representative then must reduce the distributee's share by that amount [Prob. Code § 21405(a)]. If a specific gift must be abated, the beneficiary of the specific gift may satisfy the contribution for abatement out of the beneficiary's property other than the property that is the subject of the specific gift [Prob. Code § 21405(b)].

If any property is sold for less than appraised value, the personal representative is not responsible for the loss, provided that the sale was made in accordance with law [*Prob. § 455.15 Sale and Appraisal of Assets as Unit

If the personal representative determines in his or her discretion that particular assets in the estate, whether real or personal, constitute a unit for purposes of sale, the property may be appraised as a unit. Whether or not the assets have been appraised as a unit, the personal representative may sell the assets as a unit and under one bid if the court finds the sale of the assets as a unit to be to the advantage of the estate. Any private sale of assets as a unit that were appraised separately must be made for at least 90 percent of the sum of the appraised values of all real and personal property in the unit. If the assets were appraised as a unit, any private sale must be for at least 90 percent of the appraised value of the unit. If the unit contains any real property, the sale of the unit must conform to the statutory requirements for sales of realty, discussed in § 455.17. If the unit contains only personal property, the sale must conform to the requirements for sales of personalty, discussed in § 455.20 [Prob. Code § 10004]. For a form for notice of sale of a unit of real and personal property, see § 455.94. For a form for a petition to sell such a unit, see § 455.119.

§ 455.16 Purchase by Personal Representative or Attorney

As a general rule, neither the personal representative nor the personal representative's attorney may purchase any property of the estate, or any claim against the estate, directly or indirectly, or be interested in any such purchase [Prob. Code § 9880]. However, procedures exist to obtain court approval of such a sale.

The personal representative may file a petition for a court order approving a sale to him or her or to his or her attorney [Prob. Code § 9883(a); see § 455.113]. The court may issue the order if a sale to the personal representative or attorney is authorized in the decedent's will [Prob. Code § 9882]. The order may also be issued if consent to the purchase, signed by each known heir and devisee whose interest in the estate would be affected by the proposed purchase, is filed with the court, and the purchase is shown to be to the advantage of the estate [Prob. Code § 9881]. For a form for such an order, see § 455.114.

If the court is satisfied that the purchase should be authorized, it must make an order to that effect on specified terms and conditions. The personal representative may execute a conveyance or transfer according to the terms of the order. Unless otherwise specified in the will or order, the sale must be made in the same manner as other property of the estate of the same nature [Prob. Code § 9883(d)]. If court confirmation of the sale is otherwise required, the order approving sale to the personal representative or attorney may be made at the time of confirmation [Prob. Code § 9883(b)].

[1] Generally

Under most circumstances, real property of an estate may be sold only after notice of sale has been published for at least 10 days in a newspaper published in the county in which the property, or some part of it, is located or, if there is no such newspaper, in a newspaper as directed by the court [Prob. Code § 10300(a); see Gov. Code § 6063a]. If it appears from the inventory and appraisal that the value of the realty does not exceed $5,000, notice of sale may be given by posting at the courthouse in the county in which the property or some portion of it is located, instead of by publication [Prob. Code § 10301(a)]. If the will either directs or authorizes sale of the property, the sale may proceed without notice at the option of the personal representative [Prob. Code § 10303].

If publication is required, notice must be completed before the date of a public auction, or in the case of a private sale, before the date specified in the notice as the day on or after which the sale is to be made [Prob. Code § 10300(b)]. If posting is sufficient, the posting must be for at least 15 days before the date of auction or the specified date of private sale [Prob. Code § 10301(b)]. If it is to the advantage of the estate, the court may, by order, shorten the time of notice of sale to not less than five days [Prob. Code § 10302(a); see Gov. Code § 6061; see also § 455.123]. For forms for notice of sale of real property, see §§ 455.92 and 455.93.

[2] Public Auction of Realty

A sale by public auction must be conducted in the county in which the property is located, or in any county in which property that overlaps county lines is located [Prob. Code § 10305(a)]. The auction must be conducted between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 9:00 p.m. on the date specified in the notice unless the sale is postponed [Prob. Code § 10305(b)]. The personal representative may postpone the sale if all of the following conditions are satisfied [Prob. Code § 10305(c)]:

- The personal representative believes that the postponement is to the advantage of the estate;
- Notice of the postponement is given by public declaration at the time and place of the auction;

- The postponement, together with previous postponements, does not exceed three months in all.

[3] Private Sale of Realty

A private sale of real property may not be made before the day stated in the notice of sale as the date on which sale will be made, nor later than one year after that day. The bids or offers must be in writing. They must be left at the place designated in the notice of sale or delivered to the personal representative personally or to a person specified in the notice at any time after the first publication or posting of notice and before the making of the sale [Prob. Code § 10306].

[4] Court Confirmation of Sale of Realty

[a] Generally

Unless a personal representative has been granted authority to proceed under the Independent Administration of Estates Act [see Prob. Code § 10503], all sales of realty must be reported to and confirmed by the court in order to pass title to the purchaser [see § 455.131 (Judicial Council form)]. Court confirmation is required whether the sale is private or by public auction, and regardless of any direction to sell or authority to sell expressed in the will [Prob. Code § 10308(a)]. If by 30 days after the sale the personal representative has not filed a petition for confirmation, it may be filed by the purchaser [Prob. Code § 10308(b)].

A private sale of realty must meet the following requirements to be confirmed by the court [Prob. Code § 10309(a)]:

- The property must have been appraised within one year prior to the date of the confirmation hearing;
- The valuation date used in the appraisal must have been within one year of the date of the hearing;
- The sale price must be at least 90 percent of the appraised value.

If the property was not previously appraised, it may be appraised at any time before confirmation of sale. The property may be reappraised before confirmation if the prior appraisal date or valuation date was more than one year before the hearing, or if the court is satisfied that the most recent appraisal is too high or too low [Prob. Code § 10309(b); see Prob. Code § 10309(c) (procedures for reappraisal)].

Various bond requirements must be met before the court may confirm the sale [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 7.205, 7.206], as discussed in § 455.17[1].

The court will not proceed with the hearing on the petition to confirm the sale of property, unless the petitioner's attorney or the petitioner, if unrepresented, is present [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.452].

Any interested person may file written objections to the confirmation of the sale at or before the hearing and may testify and produce witnesses in support of the objections [Prob. Code § 10310(c); see §§ 455.150 and 455.152]. Unless the decedent's will directed or authorized the sale, the personal representative must make a showing of the necessity for the sale or the advantage to the estate and the benefit to the interested persons in making the sale [Prob. Code § 10310(a)]. The court must investigate the efforts of the personal representative to obtain the best price for the property that is reasonably attainable [Prob. Code § 10310(b)]. Proof of any required notice of sale must also be made [Prob. Code § 10312].

[b] Overbids for Realty

At the confirmation hearing, any person may submit a written overbid to purchase the property [see § 455.172]. The court must confirm the sale to the overbidder if all of the following conditions are satisfied [Prob. Code § 10311(a)].

- The offer is for an amount at least 10 percent more on the first $10,000 of the original offer and five percent more on the amount of the balance of the original offer.

- The offer is made by a responsible person.

- The offer complies with all provisions of law.

If more than one overbid that satisfies these criteria is made, the sale must be confirmed to the highest bidder [Prob. Code § 10311(b)]. The amount of a bid is determined without regard to any real estate commission or fee [Prob. Code § 10311(e)]. The court may, in its discretion, decline to accept an overbid, even if all the requirements are satisfied. In such a case, the court must order a new sale [Prob. Code § 10311(c)].

If the sale returned for confirmation is on credit and the overbid is either for cash or on credit, whether on the same or different credit terms, the court may not consider the overbid unless the personal representative is willing to accept the higher offer. The personal representative must also be willing to accept a higher offer on credit over an original cash sale [Prob. Code § 10311(d)].

[c] Order Confirming or Vacating Sale of Realty

The court must confirm a sale to the person making the highest offer that satisfies all legal requirements if all of the following requirements have been met [Prob. Code § 10313(a)]:

- Either the sale was directed or authorized by the decedent's will or good reason exists for the sale.

- Proof of any required notice of sale has been made.

- The sale was legally made and fairly conducted.

- The sale price is not disproportionate to the value of the property.

- In the case of a private sale, the sale price meets the required percentage of appraised value.

- If the sale is confirmed to the original offeror, it does not appear that a valid overbid may be obtained.

The court must also fix the compensation of any real estate agent or broker, either in the order confirming sale or in a subsequent order [Prob. Code § 10313(b)]. For the form for a court order confirming sale, see § 455.131.5 (Judicial Council form). No omission, error, or irregularity in the proceedings under Prob. Code §§ 10300-10316 impairs or invalidates the proceedings or the sale pursuant to an order made under Prob. Code §§ 10300-10316 [Prob. Code § 10316].

If it appears to the court that any requirement for confirmation has not been satisfied, the court must vacate the sale and order a new sale [Prob. Code § 10313(c); see § 455.153]. If a new sale is ordered, notice of the new sale must be given, and the new sale, in all respects, must be conducted as if no previous sale had taken place [Prob. Code § 10313(d)].

A party moving to vacate a confirmation order must be an "interested person" within the scope of Prob. Code § 48. Just as one must be an "interested person" to file written objections to the sale's confirmation under Prob. Code § 10310, it logically follows that one must be an "interested person" to seek to vacate the order resulting from such a hearing [Estate of Maniscalco (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 520, 523, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 803] .

[5] Conveyance of Realty After Confirmation

On confirmation of a sale, the personal representative must execute a conveyance to the purchaser that refers to the order confirming the sale and directing the conveyance to be executed [Prob. Code § 10314(a)]. The conveyance vests in the purchaser all the right, title, and interest that the decedent had in the property at death and any other or additional right, title, and interest in the property acquired by the estate, by operation of law or otherwise, prior to the sale [Prob. Code § 10314(c)].

[6] Sale of Realty on Credit

If a sale is made on credit, the personal representative must take the purchaser's note for the unpaid balance and a mortgage or deed of trust to secure payment of the note. The estate's security interest may be subject only to encumbrances existing as of the date of sale and such other encumbrances as the court may approve. If the property sold on credit consists of any interest less than the entire ownership and the other owners join in the sale, the note and security interest may be made to the personal representative and the other owners. The interest of the personal representative in the note and security interest is that of the estate in the property prior to the sale [Prob. Code § 10315].

[7] Sale of Pasture or Grazing Land

Real property suitable for a shift-in-land-use loan to develop grazing or pasture facilities may be sold by a personal representative to a grazing or pasture association in conformity with the federal Consolidated Farm and Rural Development Act [see 7 U.S.C.S. § 1921 et seq.], with the consent of the interested heirs or devisees or pursuant to the will of the decedent, and on a finding by the court that the rights of creditors will not be jeopardized [Prob. Code § 10207(a), (c)]. The price of the sale may not be less than the value of the land as established by an independent and competent appraiser mutually acceptable to the federal government, the grazing or pasture association, and the personal representative [Prob. Code § 10207(d)(2)]. The sale must be confirmed by the court as with any other sale of estate real property. However, the sale may be made to the association regardless of whether an overbid is made at the hearing on the petition to confirm the sale [Prob. Code § 10207(d)(3)].

Chapter 455 PROBATE: SALE OF ESTATE PROPERTY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

39-455 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 455.20

§ 455.20 Sales of Personal Property

[1] Opportunity to Inspect Property

The fiduciary should allow bona fide prospective buyers and their brokers a reasonable opportunity to inspect the property. If there is a showing that the fiduciary has denied any such person a reasonable opportunity to inspect the property, the court will be required to not confirm the sale, when confirmation is required, and instead will be required to continue the sale to allow the inspection, unless good cause is shown for the court to confirm the sale [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.451; see discussion of confirmation in §§ 455.20[7], [8]].

[2] Notice Requirements

In general, personal property of the estate may be sold only after notice of sale is given either by posting or publication, at the option of the personal representative. Posting must be made at the county courthouse of the county in which the proceedings are pending at least 15 days before the date of a public auction sale, or in the case of a private sale, the date specified in the notice as the day on or after which the sale is to be made [Prob. Code § 10250(a)]. Publication must be for a 10-day period in a newspaper in the county in which the proceedings are pending and must be completed before the date of a public auction sale, or in the case of a private sale, the date specified in the notice as the day on or after which the sale is to be made [Prob. Code § 10250(b); see Gov. Code § 6063a]. If it is to the advantage of the estate, the court may, by order, shorten the time of notice of sale to not less than five days [Prob. Code § 10251(a); see Gov. Code § 6061; see also § 455.123].

Notice is not required if the decedent's will either directs or authorizes sale of the property. Notice is also not required if the property is perishable, will depreciate in value if not disposed of promptly, or will incur loss or expense by being kept; or if sale is necessary to provide for payment of the family allowance [Prob. Code § 10252].

For forms for a notice of sale of personal property, see §§ 455.90 and 455.91. For a list of the required contents of such a notice, see § 455.90.

[3] Public Auction of Personalty

A sale of personal property at public auction must be made within California at a public place, including the courthouse door or the auction house, or at the residence of the decedent. Any tangible personal property that is to be sold must be present at the time of the auction [Prob. Code § 10254(a)]. These requirements may be dispensed with by order of the court on petition of the personal representative or of any interested person [Prob. Code § 10254(b); see § 455.125; for the definition of "interested persons," see § 455.11].

The personal representative may postpone a public-auction sale of personal property from time to time if all of the following conditions are satisfied [Prob. Code § 10254(c)]:

- The personal representative believes that the postponement is to the advantage of the estate.
- Notice of the postponement is given by public declaration at the time and place of the auction.
- The postponement, together with all previous postponements of sale of the property, does not exceed three months.

[4] Private Sale of Personalty

A private sale of personal property may not be made before the date stated in the notice of sale as the day on or after which the sale will be made, nor later than one year after that day. Any bids or offers must be in writing. They must be left at a place designated in the notice of sale or delivered to the personal representative personally or to a person who is specified in the notice of sale at any time after the first publication or posting of notice and before the making of the sale [Prob. Code § 10255].

[5] Bids to Comply With Notice

All bids must substantially comply with any terms that are specified in the notice of sale. This requirement applies both to public auctions and private sales [Prob. Code § 10256].

[6] Manner of Payment of Purchase Price: Cash or Credit

Personal property may be sold for cash or on credit [Prob. Code § 10257(a)]. If a sale is made on credit, not less than 25 percent of the purchase price must be paid in cash at the time of sale. The personal representative must either take the purchaser's note and security interest in the property sold to secure the note or enter into a conditional sale contract under which the estate retains title until the balance is paid [Prob. Code § 10257(b)]. Any of these requirements may be waived or modified by the court on petition of the personal representative. Waiver or modification requires a showing that the terms are to the advantage of the estate and that the property to be sold is of such a nature that it is impracticable to sell the property for a larger cash payment at the time of sale or to retain a security interest or other lien in the property [Prob. Code § 10258(a); see § 455.127]. The terms of any note and security interest or conditional-sales contract must be approved by the court at the time of confirmation of the sale [Prob. Code § 10257(c); see § 455.20[8]].

If the property sold on credit consists of any interest less than the entire ownership and the other owners join in the sale, the note and security interest may be made to the personal representative and the other owners. The interest of the personal representative in the note and security interest is that of the estate in the property prior to the sale [Prob. Code § 10257(d)].

[7] Passage of Title to Personal Property Without Court Confirmation

Court confirmation is not required to pass valid title to securities, including subscription rights, savings accounts, and mutual capital certificates [Prob. Code §§ 10200(b), 10201(b), 10202]. Court confirmation is also not required if the personal representative has been granted the authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act [Prob. Code § 10503].

Title to the following personal property may also be passed to a purchaser without the need for court confirmation or approval [Prob. Code § 10259(a)]:

- Perishable property.
- Property that will depreciate in value if not disposed of promptly.
- Property that will incur loss or expense by being kept.
- Property that must be sold in order to provide for the payment of a family allowance pending receipt of other sufficient funds.

In addition, title to personal property sold at public auction passes without the need for court confirmation or approval on receipt of the purchase price and delivery of the property to the purchaser, or, in the case of intangible property, delivery of the instrument that transfers title [Prob. Code § 10259(b)]. The personal representative is responsible for the actual value of any of these categories of property unless the sale is reported to and approved by the court [Prob. Code § 10259(c)]. Therefore, court approval is recommended if the purchase price is significantly less than appraised value for any item of personalty for which court confirmation is otherwise not required.

[8] Requirement of Court Confirmation of Sale of Personal Property

[a] Generally

Unless exempted [see § 455.20[7]], sales of personal property must be reported to and confirmed by the court in order to pass title to the purchaser [see § 455.129]. Court confirmation is required even if the decedent's will directed or authorized the sale of the property [Prob. Code § 10260(a)]. If the personal representative fails to file the report and petition for confirmation of sale within 30 days after the sale, the purchaser may file and petition for confirmation [Prob. Code § 10260(b)].

The court will not proceed with the hearing on the petition to confirm the sale of property, unless the petitioner's attorney or the petitioner, if unrepresented, is present [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.452].

Any interested person may file written objections to the confirmation of the sale at or before the hearing and may testify and produce witnesses in support of the objections [Prob. Code § 10261(c); see § 455.150]. Unless the decedent's will directed or authorized the sale, the personal representative must make a showing of the necessity for the sale or the advantage to the estate and the benefit to the interested persons in making the sale [Prob. Code § 10261(a)]. Proof of any required notice of sale must also be made [Prob. Code § 10263].

The court must also fix the compensation of any agent or broker, either in the order confirming sale or in a subsequent order [Prob. Code § 10261(d)]. No omission, error, or irregularity in the proceedings under Prob. Code §§ 10250-10264 impairs or invalidates the proceedings or the sale pursuant to an order made under Prob. Code §§ 10250-10264 [Prob. Code § 10264].

[b] Sale of Partnership Interest

Before confirming the sale of a partnership interest [see Prob. Code § 10204 (partnership interest may be sold in same manner as other personal property)], whether to a surviving partner or to any other person, the court must inquire into the condition of the partnership and examine any surviving partner if the partner is a resident of California at the time of the hearing and able to be present in court. The court may issue a citation to compel a surviving partner to attend the hearing [Prob. Code § 10261(c)].

[c] Overbids for Personal Property

At the confirmation hearing, any person may submit an overbid that is at least 10 percent more than the pending sale price to purchase the property. The court, in its discretion, may accept the new bid and confirm the sale to the overbidder or may order a new sale if all of the following conditions are satisfied [Prob. Code § 10262(a)]:

- The original bid is more than $100, or if the original bid is less than $100, the new bid is at least $100 more than the original bid.
- The new bid is made by a responsible person.
- The new bid complies with all provisions of law.

If there is more than one offer that satisfies these requirements, the court must either accept the accept the highest offer and confirm the sale to that offeror or order a new sale [Prob. Code § 10262(b)].

§ 455.21 Disposition of Securities

The sale or surrender for redemption or conversion of securities requires court authorization. After authorization has been obtained, title to securities that are sold or surrendered passes without the need for subsequent court confirmation [Prob. Code § 10200(b); see Prob. Code §§ 70, 10200(a) (definition of "securities" to which requirement applies)]. However, subscription rights for the purchase of additional securities held by the estate pursuant to securities owned by the estate may be sold, in whole or in part, without notice of sale, prior order of the court, or subsequent confirmation of the court [Prob. Code § 10202].

To obtain court authorization for the disposition of securities, the personal representative or any interested person must file a petition that states the terms and conditions of sale and the advantage to the estate of the proposed sale or redemption or conversion [see § 455.121]. The court's order must fix the terms and conditions of sale, redemption, or conversion [Prob. Code § 10200(c); see § 455.122].

After court authorization has been obtained, no notice of sale is required if any of the following conditions are satisfied [Prob. Code § 10200(e)]:

- The minimum selling price is set by the court;
- The securities are to be sold on an established stock or bond exchange; or
- The securities to be sold are designated as national market system securities on an interdealer quotation system or subsystem by the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc., sold through a broker-dealer registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 during the regular course of business of the broker-dealer.

No notice of surrender for redemption, or conversion is required [Prob. Code § 10200(e)(4)].

Savings accounts and mutual capital certificates of a savings association or federal association may be sold or surrendered for withdrawal by the personal representative and title passed without notice of sale, prior order of the court, or subsequent confirmation by the court as long as the amount of money obtained on sale or withdrawal is not less than the withdrawal value of the savings account or the value of the mutual capital certificate [Prob. Code § 10201(b); see Prob. Code § 10201(a); Fin. Code §§ 5111, 5116, 5124 (definitions of savings account, mutual capital certificate, and withdrawal value)]. The personal representative has the same discretion with regard to credit-union share accounts and certificates for funds as long as the amount of money obtained on sale or withdrawal is not less than the withdrawal value of the share account or the value of the certificate [Prob. Code § 10201(c)].

Under most circumstances, a leasehold interest held by the decedent at the time of death may be sold subject to all requirements for the sale of personal property [Prob. Code § 10203(a); see § 455.20]. However, a leasehold interest must be sold in accordance with the requirements for a sale of realty if the interest to be sold consists of any of the following: following [Prob. Code § 10203(b); see § 455.17]:

- A leasehold interest in real property with an unexpired term of 10 years or longer, considering any term to which the lessee has the right to extend the lease.

- A leasehold interest in real property together with an option to purchase the property or part of it.

- A lease for the purpose of production of minerals, oil, gas, other hydrocarbon substances, or geothermal energy.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

39-455 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 455.24

§ 455.24 Decedent's Contract Right to Purchase Real Property

If a decedent at the time of death was the buyer under a contract for the purchase of real property, and the decedent's interest in the property and under the contract is to be sold by the personal representative, the sale must be made in conformance with the requirements for sales of real property of the estate [Prob. Code § 10206(a); see § 455.17]. The sale must be made subject to all payments that are due at the time of sale or that may subsequently become due on the contract. If there are any such payments, the court may not confirm the sale until the purchaser of the decedent's interest executes a bond to indemnify the personal representative in case the purchaser does not fulfill the decedent's obligations under the contract [Prob. Code § 10206(b); see Prob. Code § 10206(c) (conditions of bond)]. Bond is not required if no claims have been made against the estate on the contract and the time filing claims has expired, or if the vendor or other person entitled to payment under the contract waives all recourse to the assets of the estate for payment and releases the estate and the personal representative from liability for payment [Prob. Code § 10206(d)].

On court confirmation of the sale of the decedent's interest under the contract, and after any required bond has been given, the personal representative must execute an assignment of the contract to the purchaser [Prob. Code § 10314(b)]. The assignment vests in the purchaser all the right, title, and interest of the estate or of the persons entitled to the interest of the decedent at the time of sale in the property assigned. The purchaser then has the same rights and remedies against the vendor of the property as the decedent would have had if living [Prob. Code § 10314(d)].

§ 455.25 Default by Purchaser

[1] Within 60 Days of Confirmation

If within 60 days after the original confirmation of sale of real or personal property the purchaser has failed to complete the purchase, the personal representative may petition to vacate the confirmation of sale and report an offer from a new high bidder [see § 455.135]. The court may confirm a sale to the new bidder if the bid is for the same or a higher amount, on the same or better terms, and in the manner prescribed in the original notice of sale [Prob. Code § 10351(a)(1); see § 455.136]. At least 15 days before the hearing, notice of the time and place of the hearing must be given to any nonpetitioning personal representative and to all persons who have requested special notice in the estate proceeding pursuant to Prob. Code § 1254 [Prob. Code § 10351(b); see Prob. Code § 1220(a)(1), (2)]. In addition, the notice and a copy of the petition must be given to the buyers and brokers named in the order confirming sale, although notice need not be given to a defaulting purchaser whose written consent to the vacation of the order confirming sale is filed with the court before the hearing [Prob. Code § 10351(b)].

[2] More than 60 Days After Confirmation

If more than 60 days have passed since the date of court confirmation, the personal representative may not, on the default of the purchaser, report a sale to a new high bidder for confirmation [Prob. Code § 10351(c)]. Instead, the personal representative may petition the court for an order vacating the confirmation of sale, ordering a resale of the property, and awarding damages to the estate against the purchaser [Prob. Code § 10350(a); see § 455.133]. At least 15 days before the hearing, notice of the time and place of the hearing must be given to any nonpetitioning personal representative and to all persons who have requested special notice in the estate proceeding pursuant to Prob. Code § 1254 [Prob. Code § 10351(b); see Prob. Code § 1220(a)(1), (2)]. In addition, the notice and a copy of the petition must be given to the buyers and brokers named in the order confirming sale, although notice need not be given to a defaulting purchaser whose written consent to the petition is filed with the court before the hearing [Prob. Code § 10350(b)]. Any resale ordered by the court must be made in conformance with the applicable statutory sales requirements [Prob. Code § 10350(c), (d)].

[3] Liability of Defaulting Purchaser

If the property is resold, the defaulting purchaser is liable to the estate for damages equal to the sum of the following: (1) the difference between the contract price of the first sale and that of the resale; (2) expenses made necessary by the breach; and (3) other consequential damages [Prob. Code § 10350(e); see also Estate of Felder (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 518, 522, 84 Cal. Rptr. 3d 220 (probate court authorized to award estate damages in an amount equal to the difference between defaulting and purchase price; estate entitled to retain defaulting buyer's deposit as statutory award for damages)].

§ 455.26 Sale of Encumbered Property

[1] Application of Proceeds

Estate property is encumbered if it is subject to a lien for a secured debt that is a valid claim against the estate and that has been allowed or approved [Prob. Code § 10360(b)]. If encumbered property is sold, the purchase money must be applied in the following order [Prob. Code § 10361(a)]:

- First, to expenses of administration that are reasonably related to the administration of the property sold as provided in Prob. Code § 11420(a);
- Second, to payment of the expenses of the sale;
- Third, to payment and satisfaction of the amount secured by the lien on the property sold, if payment and satisfaction of the lien is required under the terms of the sale; and
- Fourth, to application in the course of administration.

At any time before payment is made to satisfy all liens on the encumbered property sold, the personal representative or any interested party may petition the court for an order determining the amount of expenses of administration that are reasonably related to the administration of the encumbered property as provided in Prob. Code § 11420(a)(1). The petition may be heard separately or as part of a petition for confirmation of sale of real or personal property as provided in Prob. Code §§ 10260 or 10308 [Prob. Code § 10361.5].

After payment of the first two categories of expenses set forth above, the purchase money received from the sale of the encumbered property must be applied without delay to payment and satisfaction on the amount secured by the lien on the property sold [Prob. Code § 10361(b)]. The property remains subject to the lien until the purchase money has actually been so applied, unless the personal representative elects to pay the purchase money (or so much of it as is sufficient to satisfy the expenses of sale and the lien on the property sold) to the clerk of the court [Prob. Code §§ 10361(b), 10362(a)]. If payment is made to the clerk, the lien will immediately cease [Prob. Code § 10362(a)]. The clerk must use the money to pay the expenses of the sale and satisfy the amount secured by the lien on the property sold without delay. If there is a surplus, the clerk must return it to the personal representative, unless the court for good cause and after notice to the personal representative orders otherwise [Prob. Code § 10362].

[2] Sale to Lienholder

A lienholder may purchase the real or personal property encumbered by the lien regardless of whether a claim for the amount secured by the lien has been, or could have been, filed, allowed, or approved [Prob. Code § 10363(a)]. Unless the property is sold subject to the lien, if the lienholder purchases the property the following procedures apply [Prob. Code § 10363(b)]:

- If the amount secured by the lien is a valid claim against the estate and has been allowed or approved, the lienholder's receipt for the amount due the lienholder from the sale proceeds is considered as payment pro tanto of the debt.

- If no claim on the amount secured by the lien has been filed, approved, or allowed, the court may, at the hearing on the petition for confirmation of the sale, examine the validity and enforceability of the lien and the amount secured by the lien, and may authorize the personal representative to accept the receipt of the lienholder for the amount secured by the lien as payment pro tanto.

- Whether or not a claim for the amount secured has been filed, approved, or allowed, if the amount for which the property is purchased is insufficient to discharge the lien and to pay the expenses of sale, the lienholder must pay to the court clerk an amount sufficient to cover the expenses of the sale.

Nothing permitted under Prob. Code § 10363 constitutes an allowance or approval of a claim based on the lien or the amount secured by the lien [Prob. Code § 10363(c)].

The personal representative is liable to an interested person for any damages suffered because of the neglect or misconduct of the personal representative in proceedings involving a sale of estate property [Prob. Code § 10380; for the definition of "interested persons," see § 455.11]. If the personal representative fraudulently sells real property of the estate contrary to or in violation of Prob. Code §§ 10000-10382, a person having an estate of inheritance in the property may recover, as liquidated damages, an amount equal to double the fair market value of the property on the date of sale. These liquidated damages are in addition to any other damages for which the personal representative is liable [Prob. Code § 10381].

§ 455.29 Contract With Agent or Broker

[1] To Sell Real Property

A personal representative may enter into a written contract with a licensed real estate broker in order to secure a purchaser for any real property of the estate. The broker may associate other licensed brokers and may use a multiple-listing service [Prob. Code § 10150(a)(1); see Civ. Code § 1087 (definition of "multiple-listing service"].

[2] To Sell Personal Property

The personal representative may also enter into a written contract with one or more agents or brokers to secure a purchaser for any personal property of the estate. If the particular property to be sold or the particular manner of sale requires the agent or broker to be licensed, the contract may be made only with a licensed person [Prob. Code § 10150(a)(2)].

[3] Fee, Commission, or Other Compensation

The contract with an agent or broker may provide for payment of a fee, commission, or other compensation out of the proceeds of sale. However, the contract is binding and valid against the estate only for the amount of compensation allowed by the court [see § 455.31]. If court confirmation of the sale is required, the estate has no liability on the contract unless a sale is confirmed. The personal representative is not personally liable on the contract solely by having executed it [Prob. Code § 10150(b)].

[4] Exclusive Listing Contract

The contract may grant an exclusive right to sell property only if the personal representative obtains the prior permission of the court [see § 455.170]. Permission may be granted ex parte at the time the personal representative is appointed or at any subsequent time. The personal representative must make a showing of necessity and advantage to the estate. [Prob. Code § 10150(c)].

A petition for approval of an exclusive listing under Prob. Code § 10150(c) is required to state the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.453]:

- A description of the property to be sold;
- The name of the broker to be employed;
- A summary of the terms of the exclusive listing agreement or include a copy of the listing agreement; and
- A detailed statement of the facts supporting the "necessity and advantage" to the estate of having the exclusive listing.

An exclusive listing may not be granted for more than 90 days at a time. Additional 90-day extensions may be granted by the court under the same procedures and standards as the original grant of permission [Prob. Code § 10150(c)].

§ 455.30 Contract With Auctioneer

A personal representative may enter into a written contract with a licensed auctioneer to conduct a public auction of any personal property of the estate that is to be sold [Prob. Code § 10151(a)(1)]. If the auction is to be held outside of California, the auctioneer must be legally permitted to conduct a public auction in the jurisdiction of the sale [Prob. Code § 10151(a)(2)]. The contract must be legally enforceable under the law of the jurisdiction where it is made [Prob. Code § 10151(b)].

A contract with an auctioneer may provide for payment of a fee, commission, or other compensation out of the proceeds of sale and for reimbursement of expenses. However, the contract is binding and valid against the estate only for the amount of compensation allowed by the court [see § 455.31]. If court confirmation of the sale is required, the estate has no liability on the contract unless a sale is confirmed. The personal representative is not personally liable on the contract solely by having executed it [Prob. Code § 10151(c)].

The contract may provide that personal property of two or more estates being administered by the same personal representative may be sold at the same public auction. Particular items may be sold separately or in a lot with other items from the same estate. A sale pursuant to the contract must be with reserve. The auctioneer must comply with the instructions of the personal representative with respect to withdrawal of items, risk of loss, place of delivery, warranties, and other matters [Prob. Code § 10151(d)].

§ 455.31 Compensation of Broker, Agent, or Auctioneer

[1] In General

Regardless of the terms of any contract, an estate is not liable to a broker, agent, or auctioneer for any fee, commission, or other compensation or expenses in connection with a sale of property unless an actual sale is made to and consummated by a purchaser, and court confirmation, if required, is obtained [Prob. Code § 10160; Sullivan v. Dorsa (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 947, 956, 963, 27 Cal. Rptr. 3d 547 (broker's commission cannot be awarded on unconsummated sale of real property)]. However, the estate is not liable to an agent or broker under a contract for the sale of real property or for any fee, commission, or other compensation or expenses in connection with sale of the property when the agent or broker, directly or indirectly, is the purchaser of the property, or when the agent or broker representing the purchaser to whom the sale is confirmed has any interest in the purchaser [Prob. Code § 10160.5].

The amount of any fee, commission, or other compensation of a broker or agent in connection with a sale of property must be established by the court. The court has the discretion to fix reasonable compensation for the services of the broker, agent, or auctioneer to the estate [Prob. Code §§ 10161(a), 10167(a)]. However, the amount of compensation may not exceed an amount specified in the contract between the broker, agent, or auctioneer and the estate [Prob. Code §§ 10161(c), 10167(b)]. No condition in any bid that a certain percent of the bid be paid to an agent or broker is binding on the court, although the bidder is bound to the full amount of the bid even if any part of the agent or broker's compensation is disallowed [Prob. Code § 10166].

An agent or broker is entitled to compensation for services to the estate in connection with a sale only under one of the following circumstances [Prob. Code § 10161(b)]:

- The agent or broker produces the original bid that is returned to the court for confirmation;
- The agent or broker produces a successful overbidder at the confirmation hearing; or
- The agent or broker has a contract granting an exclusive right to sell the property.

[2] If Only One Agent or Broker Is Involved

If the court confirms a sale on the original offer to buy that is reported to the court by the personal representative or on an increased offer made at the time of the hearing on the petition for confirmation of the sale and there is no agent or broker who holds an exclusive-right contract, the agent who procured the original offeror is entitled to compensation on the full amount for which the sale is confirmed [Prob. Code § 10162.3]. If the sale is confirmed to an overbidder at hearing, the agent or broker who procured the original offeror is entitled to compensation on the full amount of the original offer if the overbidder is not represented by an agent or broker and no agent or broker holds an exclusive-right contract [Prob. Code § 10164].

Subject to Prob. Code §§ 10162 and 10162.6, if the original bid returned to the court for confirmation was made by a purchaser who was not procured by an agent or broker, the court must allow compensation on the full amount for which the sale is confirmed if either of the following conditions is satisfied [Prob. Code § 10163]:

- The court confirms a sale on an increased bid made at the time of the hearing on the petition for confirmation to a purchaser procured by an agent or broker holding an exclusive-right contract; or

- No agent or broker holds an exclusive-right contract and the court confirms a sale on an increased bid made at the time of the hearing to a purchaser procured by a bona fide agent or broker. However, the compensation of the agent or broker who procured the overbidder may not exceed one-half of the difference between the amount of the original offer and the amount of the successful overbid [Prob. Code § 10162(a)].

On the other hand, no compensation is payable to an agent or broker who holds a contract that grants an exclusive right to sell the property when the contract provides that no compensation is payable if sale is confirmed to a person named in the contract, and the court confirms the sale to the purchaser named in the contract [Prob. Code § 10162.6(a), (b) (discussed more fully under § 455.31[3]]. Subject to Prob. Code § 10162.6, an agent or broker who holds a contract that grants an exclusive right to sell the property is entitled to compensation on the full amount for which the sale is confirmed if the bid returned to the court for confirmation either (1) is made by a purchaser not represented by an agent or broker and the court confirms the sale to that purchaser on that bid, or (2) is made by a purchaser who is represented by the agent or broker holding the contract and the court confirms the sale to that purchaser on an increased bid made at the time of the hearing on the confirmation [Prob. Code § 10162.5(a)]. Subject to Prob. Code § 10162.6, the agent or broker with an exclusive-right contract is entitled to compensation on the amount of the original bid if (1) the bid returned to court for confirmation is made by a purchaser who is not represented by an agent or broker or who is represented by an agent or broker holding an exclusive-right contract, and (2) the court confirms the sale on an increased bid, made at the time of the hearing on the petition for confirmation, to a purchaser who was not procured by a bona fide agent or broker [Prob. Code § 10162.5(b)].

[3] If More Than One Agent or Broker Is Involved

When an agent or broker holds a contract under Prob. Code § 10150 granting the exclusive right to sell the property, the contract provides that no compensation is payable to the agent or broker holding the contract if sale is confirmed to a particular person named in the contract, and the court confirms the sale to the purchaser named in the contract, whether on an original bid returned to the court or on an increased bid made at the time of the hearing on the petition for confirmation, the compensation of any agents or brokers involved in the sale is determined as provided in Prob. Code §§ 10160-10168, except that no compensation is payable to the agent or broker holding the contract [Prob. Code § 10162.6(a), (b)]. However, if the court confirms the sale to a purchaser other than the person named in the contract, whether on an original bid returned to the court or on an increased bid made at the time of the hearing on the petition for confirmation, the compensation of the agent or broker holding the contract, and of any other agents or brokers involved in the sale, is determined under Prob. Code §§ 10160-10168 as if the limitation in the contract did not exist [Prob. Code § 10162.6(c)].

Subject to Prob. Code § 10162.6, if one agent or broker has a court-authorized exclusive-right contract and the sale is confirmed to an original offeror who was procured by a different agent or broker, the court must allow compensation on the full amount for which the sale is confirmed, the amount to be divided between the two agents or brokers [Prob. Code § 10162.7]. If the sale is confirmed to an overbidder who is not procured by an agent or broker, the compensation is also divided between the other two agents or brokers [Prob. Code § 10164(c)]. The compensation allowed is to be divided equally or as provided in any agreement between the agents or brokers [Prob. Code §§ 10162.7(b), 10164(c)]. Subject to Prob. Code § 10162.6, above, if there is no agreement, the compensation on the amount of the original bid returned to the court must be divided equally between the agent or broker holding the contract and the other agent or broker. If the sale is confirmed on an increased bid, the other agent or broker must be paid all of the compensation on the difference between the original bid and the amount for which the sale is confirmed [Prob. Code § 10162.7(b)].

Subject to Prob. Code § 10162.6 (discussed above), if the sale is confirmed to an overbidder who was procured by an agent or broker, the court must allow compensation determined on the full amount for which the sale is confirmed, if either (1) the original bid was made by a purchaser who was procured by another agent or broker or (2) the original bid was made by a purchaser who was not represented by an agent or broker, and another agent or broker holds an exclusive-right contract to sell the property [Prob. Code § 10165(a)].

The agent or broker who procured the overbidder is entitled to one-half of the compensation on the amount of the original bid and all of the compensation on the difference between the original bid and the overbid [Prob. Code § 10165(b)]. If the only other agent or broker involved is the one who procured the original offeror, either as the holder of an exclusive-right contract or otherwise, that agent or broker is entitled to the balance of the total amount of compensation allowed by the court [Prob. Code § 10165(c)(1), (2)]. If there are two other agents or brokers involved, both one with an exclusive-right contract and one who procured the original offeror, the balance must be divided between them, either equally or according to the terms of any agreement between them [Prob. Code § 10165(c)(3)].

If there is an agent or broker who holds an exclusive-right contract to sell the property and the original bid returned to the court is made by a purchaser who is not represented by an agent or broker and the court confirms the sale on an increased bid, made at the time of the hearing on the petition for confirmation, to a purchaser procured by another agent or broker, the entire one half of the compensation on the original bid must be paid to the agent or broker holding the exclusive-right contract [Prob. Code § 10165(c)(4)]. If the agent or broker compensated under Prob. Code § 10165(b) holds an exclusive-right to sell the property, the entire one half of the compensation on the original bid must be paid to the other agent or broker who procured the original bid [Prob. Code § 10165(c)(5)].

[4] Agreement Among Cooperating Agents or Brokers

The provisions of Prob. Code §§ 10160-10167 do not supersede any agreement cooperating agents and brokers may have among themselves to divide the compensation payable under those provisions [Prob. Code § 10168].

PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

39-455 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 455.52

§ 455.52 Decisions

[1] Abatement

Court order establishing abatement must be based on petition that adequately gives notice to beneficiary that his or her testamentary gift may be subject to abatement. Estate of Jenanyan (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 703, 708-711, 183 Cal. Rptr. 525, 646 P.2d 196

Statutory rules of abatement are applicable to insufficiency of estate due to disposition of property by conservator of testator who became incompetent before death. Estate of Mason (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 213, 217, 42 Cal. Rptr. 13, 397 P.2d 1005

[2] Appeal

Unsuccessful bidder in estate sale, who claimed that he would have made higher bid had he known that radical changes would be made in conditions of sale, was aggrieved party with standing to appeal order affirming sale. Estate of Cahoon (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 434, 437, 438, 161 Cal. Rptr. 651

Order confirming sale of estate real property is appealable and not subject to collateral attack except on ground of lack of jurisdiction of court making order. Freeman v. McClung (1963) 217 Cal. App. 2d 31, 33, 31 Cal. Rptr. 578

[3] Authority to Sell Estate Property

Authority of personal representative to sell estate property is not limited to situations in which sale is required to pay debts and expenses of administration. Estate of Barthelmess (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 728, 735, 243 Cal. Rptr. 832 (decided under prior, but substantially similar statutes)

[4] Brokers

Fact that lessees purchased estate property pursuant to right of first refusal does not alter fact that sale was required to be confirmed, and entitled broker with exclusive listing agreement to commission. Estate of Patterson (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 197, 208-210, 166 Cal. Rptr. 435

[5] Confirmation of Sale

[a] Burden of Proof

Burden is on person contesting sale to prove that sale is not in best interests of estate. Estate of Barthelmess (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 728, 735, 243 Cal. Rptr. 832 (decided under prior, but substantially similar statutes)

[b] Standard for Confirmation

Court has no discretion to deny confirmation of sale if it believes petition to be true, all statutory requirements have been met, and no objections have been filed. Estate of Mitchell (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 1169, 1171-1172, 91 Cal. Rptr. 334

[c] Substantial Compliance

Substantial compliance with provisions of probate code relating to sales of estate property are sufficient to sustain order confirming sale as against collateral attack for want of jurisdiction. Freeman v. McClung (1963) 217 Cal. App. 2d 31, 35, 31 Cal. Rptr. 578

Substantial compliance with terms of sale as set forth in notice of sale is sufficient to confirm sale. Estate of Hunter (1961) 194 Cal. App. 2d 859, 866-868, 15 Cal. Rptr. 556

[6] Liability of Defaulting Purchaser

Estate is entitled to retain down payment of defaulting purchaser pending resale as security for damages for which defaulting purchaser may be liable. Estate of Mesner (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 563, 567, 233 P.2d 551 (construing prior but substantially similar law)

After first purchaser of real property at probate sale defaulted and property ultimately was resold at a lower price, probate court was authorized under Prob. Code § 10350(e)(1) to award damages to estate in an amount equal to the difference between the original contractual purchase price and the ultimate purchase price; estate was entitled to retain defaulting buyer's entire deposit as statutory award for damages, including portion of deposit attributable to the one-half interest in the real property not owned by the estate. Estate of Felder (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 518, 522, 84 Cal. Rptr. 3d 220

[7] Liability of Personal Representative

Executor's failure to notify beneficiaries of tax consequences of sale and revaluation of property's value justified award of damages to beneficiaries despite final order confirming sale; equitable considerations outweighed res judicata effect of order. Estate of Anderson (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 336, 348-349, 196 Cal. Rptr. 782

[8] Need for Court Approval of Sale

United States tax lien is enforceable against purchaser of gas station and lease sold by executor without approval of probate court as required under former Prob. Code § 755 (now see Prob. Code §§ 10260, 10308). Chevron, U.S.A., Inc. v. U.S. (9th Cir. [Cal] 1983) 705 F.2d 1487

[9] Overbids

Tender of cashier's check by overbidder is insufficient to satisfy requirement that overbid be in writing; Prob. Code § 10311 as specifically requiring written "offer." Estate of Roberts (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 1017, 1021, 275 Cal. Rptr. 575

Successful oral overbidder who refuses to sign written overbid is not liable for any deficiency, because no sale should be confirmed on basis of oral bid, even if oral bidding is local practice. Estate of Sampo (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 767, 772-774, 217 Cal. Rptr. 713

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST

39-455 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 455.70

§ 455.70 Preliminary Determinations

1. Determine provisions of decedent's will regarding sales of estate property, such as:

    a. Requirement that particular property be sold.

    b. Authorization to sell particular property.

    c. Grant of discretionary power to personal representative to sell property if necessary.

    d. Prohibition on sale of particular property.

2. Identify all property in estate that is specifically given to designated beneficiary by decedent in will.

3. Determine cash requirements of estate, considering:

    a. Valid claims against estate.

    b. Death taxes.

    c. Family allowance.

    d. All costs of administration, including
    (1) Personal representative's fees.

    (2) Attorneys' fees.

    e. Testamentary gifts of specific amounts of money.

4. Determine whether liquid assets of estate are sufficient to meet all cash requirements without sale of property.

5. If liquid assets are sufficient to meet cash requirements, determine whether some estate property should be sold for other reasons, such as:

a. Property is perishable.

b. Property is likely to depreciate in value before distribution can be made.

c. Property will incur loss or expense by being kept.

6. If liquid assets are insufficient to meet cash requirements:

a. Determine whether testator made provision in will for sale of sufficient particular property to pay debts, expenses of administration, and family allowance, and if so, proceed with sale of that property [see Prob. Code § 21400].

b. Determine whether testator made provision in will for sale or distribution of sufficient particular property in order to satisfy testamentary gifts of specific sums of money, and if so, proceed with sale or set aside property for distribution in lieu of cash [see Prob. Code §§ 21400, 21401].

c. If after all testamentary directions have been followed estate still has insufficient cash, determine whether deficiency is one of:

(1) Liquidity alone, which may be resolved solely by sale of property; or

(2) Insufficient economic value in estate to pay all costs and distribute all gifts, which requires both sale of property and application of rules of abatement [see Prob. Code §§ 21400-21406].

NOTE:
The problem is one of liquidity only if there is a residuary estate consisting primarily of real and personal property, the sale of which will not defeat the testator's intent regarding the residuary beneficiaries. However, the reduction of the residuary estate because of the need to sell property to pay costs and make cash distributions to other beneficiaries may conflict with the testator's primary intent. If the residue is devised to the primary objects of the testator's bounty, such as the spouse or children, the sale of much of the property from the residue in order to pay specific gifts to charity or more distant relatives may be contrary to the testamentary plan. In such a case, the problem is one of insufficient value rather than simply one of liquidity. The personal representative should consider whether the will may be construed to permit abatement of the specific cash gifts in order to preserve the residue and petition the court for instructions.

d. If deficiency is one of liquidity only:

(1) Determine whether beneficiary of cash gift will accept distribution of property of equal value in lieu of cash).

NOTE:
It is not clear under the Probate Code whether a beneficiary of a testamentary gift of a specific sum of money can be required to accept property in lieu of cash if the personal representative is not given the authority to make such a distribution in the will.

(2) If distribution of property is not acceptable or feasible, select property from residue that is amenable to sale and proceed with sale.

(e) If deficiency is such that abatement is necessary:

(1) Determine whether will provides for abatement of testamentary gifts other than according to statute.

(2) If statutory rules of abatement apply select property from categories in the following order and proceed with sale [see Prob. Code § 21402]:

(a) Property not disposed of by will.

(b) Property in residue.

(c) General gifts to nonrelatives.

(d) General gifts to relatives.

(e) Specific gifts to nonrelatives.

(f) Specific gifts to relatives.

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST

39-455 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 455.71

§ 455.71 Conducting Sale

CAUTION:
In addition to the following procedures, local court rules should always be consulted for any additional requirements. Also, different rules apply if the estate is being administered under the Independent Administration of Estates Act [Prob. Code § 10400 et seq.]. For procedures under that act, see Ch. 445, Probate: Independent Administration of Estate .

1. Decide whether to sell property by public auction or by private sale.

NOTE:
If the property is such that it has a small and specific market, such as with collectibles, any auction should be conducted through channels that are connected to that market, such as trade publications, rather than at a general auction with other personal property.

2. Set minimum sale price of property to be sold.

a. Actual (appraised) value of following personal property, for which court confirmation of sale is not required [see Prob. Code § 10259(c)]:
(1) Persishable property.

(2) Property that will depreciate in value if not disposed of promptly.

(3) Property that will incur loss or expense by being kept.

(4) Property that must be sold to provide for payment of family allowance pending receipt of other sufficient funds.

(5) Property sold at public auction.

b. No particular minimum sale price for the following:

(1) Personal property for which confirmation is required [see Prob. Code § 10005(b)].

(2) Securities, including subscription rights, sold with prior court authorization [see Prob. Code §§ 10200, 10202].

c. Ninety percent of appraised value of real property [see Prob. Code § 10309(a)(3)].

3. Determine whether sale should be for cash only or may be for credit, considering:

a. For realty, requirement that credit sale be adequately secured [see Prob. Code § 10315].

b. For personalty, requirement that 25 percent of sale price be paid in cash and that note for balance be adequately secured [see Prob. Code § 10257]:

4. Enter into contract with person to locate buyers and solicit sales, such as:

a. Licensed auctioneer.

b. Licensed real estate broker or agent.

c. Agent or broker for items of personal property, who is licensed if particular property to be sold or manner of sale so requires.

5. Set date of public auction.

6. For private sale requiring court confirmation:

a. Find buyer.

b. Reach complete agreement with buyer as to terms and conditions of sale.

c. Determine appropriate date on or after which sale is to be made, allowing required lapse of time for giving of notice [See Prob. Code §§ 10250(a)(1), 10300(b)(1); see also Paragraphs (9) and (10), below].

d. Advise buyer that offer is accepted subject to condition of nonreceipt of better offer during time that notice of sale is pending.

e. Execute all documents to finalize sale only after expiration of period of time specified in notice [Prob. Code § 10306(a)].

7. Determine whether property to be sold is of any of the following kinds, for which no notice of sale is required [see Prob. Code §§ 10252, 10303]:

a. Real or personal property whose sale is either directed or authorized by will.

b. Perishable personal property.

c. Personal property that will depreciate in value if not disposed of promptly.

d. Personal property that will incur loss or expense by being kept.

e. Personal property whose sale is required to pay family allowance pending receipt of other sufficient funds.

8. If notice of sale is required, determine required manner of giving notice.

a. For personal property, either posting or publication as personal representative may determine [see Prob. Code § 10250].

b. For real property appraised at more than $5,000, by publication.

c. For real property appraised at less than $5,000, by posting.

9. Draft notice of sale [see §§ 455.92, 455.93].

10. If notice may be given by posting, post notice at least 15 days before date of auction or date on or after which private sale is to be made at:

a. For real property, county courthouse of county in which property or any part of it is located [Prob. Code § 10301].

b. For personal property, county courthouse of county in which proceedings are pending [Prob. Code § 10250(a)].

11. If notice must be given by publication, present notice to a newspaper for publication to be completed before date of auction or date on or after which private sale is to be made in one of following:

b. For personal property, newspaper in county where proceedings are pending [see Prob. Code § 10251(b)].

NOTE:
Publication must be for a period of at least 10 days. Three publications in a newspaper published once a week or more often, with at least five days intervening between the first and last publication dates not counting the publication dates, are sufficient. The period of notice commences on the first day of publication and ends either at the end of the day of the third publication or at the end of the tenth day, whichever is longer [Gov. Code § 6063a].

12. Obtain proof of publication from newspaper or prepare other proof of notice and file with court [see Prob. Code §§ 10263, 10312].

13. In case of private sale, enter into valid contract of sale with original offeror or subsequent offeror who has made higher offer that complies with any terms set forth in notice, subject to condition that sale be confirmed by court [see Prob. Code §§ 10255(b), 10306(b)].

14. In case of sale at public auction:

a. Hold auction of personal property at one of following [Prob. Code § 10254(a)(1)]:

(1) Courthouse door.

(2) Auction house.

(3) Other public place.

(4) Residence of decedent.

b. Hold auction of real property anywhere in county in which property is located between 9:00 a.m. and 9:00 p.m. on day specified in notice [Prob. Code § 10305(a), (b)].

c. Have all tangible personal property to be sold present at time of sale [Prob. Code § 10254(a)(2)].

16. Allow all bona fide prospective buyers and their brokers a reasonable opportunity to inspect property [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.451].

17. In a sale of real property, be sure that bond requirements have been met [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 7.205, 7.206].

§ 455.72 Confirmation of Sale by Court

CAUTION:
In addition to the following procedures, local court rules should always be consulted for any additional requirements. Also, different rules apply if the estate is being administered under the Independent Administration of Estates Act [see Prob. Code § 10400 et seq.]. For procedures under that act, see Ch. 445, Probate: Independent Administration of Estate .

1. Determine whether court confirmation of sale is required, considering:

a. Court confirmation of following property is not required in order to convey good title:
(1) Perishable personal property [see Prob. Code § 10259(a)(1)].

(2) Personal property that will depreciate in value if not disposed of promptly [see Prob. Code § 10259(a)(1)].

(3) Personal property that will incur loss or expense by being kept [see Prob. Code § 10259(a)(1)].

(4) Sale of personal property that is required to pay family allowance pending receipt of other sufficient funds [see Prob. Code § 10259(a)(2)].

(5) Tangible personal property sold at public auction and delivered to purchaser [see Prob. Code § 10259(b)(1)].

(6) Intangible personal property sold at public auction for which instrument of transfer of title is delivered to purchaser [see Prob. Code § 10259(b)(2)].

NOTE:
If any of the above items of personal property are sold for less than the appraised value, the personal representative will be charged with the amount of the loss unless the sale is approved by the court [Prob. Code § 10259(c)].

(7) Securities, for which prior authorization rather than subsequent confirmation is required [see Prob. Code § 10200; see also Paragraph (E), below].

(8) Subscription rights of securities for purchase of additional securities [see Prob. Code § 10202].

(9) Savings accounts, mutual capital accounts, credit union share accounts and credit union certificates [see Prob. Code § 10201].

b. Sale of all other personal property must be confirmed by court even if property is directed or authorized to be sold by will [see Prob. Code § 10260(a)].

c. Court confirmation of sale of real property is required [see Prob. Code § 10308].

2. Prepare report of sale and petition for confirmation [see §§ 455.129 -455.131].

3. File verified petition for confirmation within 30 days after sale [see Prob. Code §§ 1021(a)(1), 10260(b), 10308(b)].

NOTE:
A verified petition must be received as evidence if offered in any uncontested probate proceeding [Prob. Code § 1022].

4. Calendar hearing date on petition according to local court procedure.

5. Give and post notice of hearing as required [Prob. Code §§ 10260(c), 10308(c); see Prob. Code §§ 1220, 1230; see also Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements].

6. Advise purchaser and any agent or broker who procured purchaser of time and place of hearing and of right of others to submit overbids.

7. Before scheduled date of hearing, periodically check with court to determine whether objections to confirmation of sale have been filed by any interested person [see Prob. Code §§ 10261(b), 10310(c)].

8. If objections have been filed, determine whether sufficient time remains before date of hearing to prepare for adversary proceeding.

9. If insufficient time remains, prepare to obtain continuance to another date so as to allow for adequate preparation [see Ch. 136, Continuances].

10. Arrange for witnesses and declarations, as necessary, to establish at least one of following grounds for sale of property:

a. Sale is necessary to pay debts, devises, family allowance, expenses of administration, or taxes [Prob. Code §§ 10000(a), 10261(a), 10310(a)].

b. Sale is to advantage of estate and in best interests of interested persons [Prob. Code §§ 10000(b), 10261(a), 10310(a)].

c. Sale is directed or authorized by decedent in will [see Prob. Code §§ 10000(c), (d), 10261(a), 10310(a)].

11. Arrange for witnesses and declarations, as necessary, to establish that sale price of real property is highest and best price reasonably attainable [Prob. Code § 10310(b)].

NOTE:
Proof of reasonableness of sale price may require the testimony of a real estate expert based on sales of comparable property in the general area where the property is located.

12. If sale is of decedent's partnership interest, arrange for attendance of surviving partners and be prepared to disclose condition of partnership affairs [see Prob. Code § 10261(c)].

13. Discuss possibility of overbid with personal representative and determine whether personal representative will accept sale of real property to overbidder under following circumstances [see Prob. Code § 10311(d)]:

a. In case of original offer for cash, overbid tendered for higher amount but on credit.

b. In case of original offer on credit, overbid tendered for higher amount, either on cash or credit.

14. Prepare order confirming sale to original offeror prior to hearing [see § 455.132].

15. Attend hearing and present evidence, as necessary, to establish reason for sale and reasonableness of sale price of real property [see Paragraphs (10), (11), above].

16. Respond, as appropriate, to any overbid submitted at hearing [see Paragraph (13), above].

17. If sale is confirmed to original offeror, present predrafted order to court for signature, provided that terms of order as expressed by court conform to those in written order.

18. If sale is confirmed to overbidder, or if actual order of court deviates from predrafted order, prepare new order and submit to court for signature.

19. File signed order with court and obtain sufficient endorsed filed copies.

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST

39-455 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 455.74

§ 455.74 Authorization for Sale of Securities

1. Determine whether securities in estate should be sold.

NOTE:
By local court rule, payment of taxes, expenses of administration, or an indivisible number of shares may justify a sale [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 10.103].

2. Determine whether sale is authorized or directed in decedent's will.

NOTE:
In general, instructions in the will as to particular property to be sold must be followed [Prob. Code § 10002]. However, a petition for authorization to sell securities must show the advantage to the estate [Prob. Code § 10200]. There is no express exception in the case of securities authorized or directed to be sold by will [cf. Prob. Code §§ 10261, 10310 (no showing of necessity or advantage of sale of real and other personal property is required if property is authorized or directed to be sold in will)].

3. If securities are commonly traded, determine exchange on which they are listed.

4. If securities are not commonly traded, determine most recent bid and asked price.

5. If securities are shares in closely held corporation, determine value.

NOTE:
Local court rules may require that, unless a security is commonly traded, it must be appraised before sale will be authorized [see e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rule, Rule 10.103(b)].

6. Determine whether any of the securities to be sold are the subject of a specific gift in decedent's will.

7. Draft verified petition requesting court authorization for sale of securities [see Prob. Code § 10200(c); see also § 455.121].

8. File petition and have it set for hearing.

9. Give notice of hearing on petition as required by law unless court order dispenses with notice [see Prob. Code § 10200(d); see also Prob. Code §§ 1220, 1230; see also Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements].

10. Draft order authorizing sale of securities [see § 455.121.5].

NOTE:
Local court rules may require that proposed orders be submitted for the court's review prior to the date of hearing [see, e.g., Alameda Co. Unified Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 12.1.5].

11. Prepare for and attend hearing, and obtain signed order if authorization of sale is granted.

12. File original of order and obtain one certified copy of order and one certified copy of letters for each transfer agent to be involved with sale.

13. Determine whether notice of sale may be dispensed with because of applicability of one of following exceptions to notice requirement [see Prob. Code § 10200(e)]:

a. Minimum selling price was fixed by court in order authorizing sale.

b. Securities are to be sold on established stock or bond exchange.

c. Securities to be sold are designated as national-market-system security on interdealer quotation system or subsystem by National Association of Securities Dealers and are to be sold through registered broker-dealer during regular course of business.

d. Securities are to be surrendered for redemption or conversion.

14. Give notice of sale, if required.

NOTE:
Presumably, if notice is required, it must comply with the requirements otherwise applicable in sales of personal property [see Prob. Code § 10250].

15. Have personal representative execute transfer endorsement on certificate and deliver it to transfer agent.

NOTE:
If there are conditions or limitations on the sale, review them in detail with broker.

16. Request notification when sale is complete and confirm procedure for delivery of purchase price, less broker's commission.

17. Deposit purchase price in appropriate estate account.

NOTE:
No court confirmation of sale is required in order to pass title [Prob. Code § 10200(b)].

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing form is for use by a personal representative to give notice of a private sale of estate personal property [see Prob. Code § 10250]. For discussion of when court confirmation of a sale of personal property is not required, see §§ 455.20[7], [8]. For a form for notice of sale of estate personal property by public auction, see § 455.91. For forms for sale of estate real property, see §§ 455.92 and 455.93. For a form for a notice of sale of real and personal property at private sale as a unit, see § 455.94.

[3] Contents

The notice of sale must state the following: (1) whether the sale is to be by public auction or by private sale; (2) the time and place of the public auction, or, in the case of a private sale, the place where bids or offers will be received and a day on or after which the sale will be made; (3) a brief description of the personal property to be sold [Prob. Code § 10253(a)]. The notice may include additional information, including the terms and conditions of sale [Prob. Code § 10253(b)].

[4] Determination of Date of Sale

The procedure for a private sale is to allow a certain period of time for the submission of offers to purchase the property to be sold. At the end of that time, the highest bids are accepted. The date on which the determination of the highest bid is made is the date on which the sale is made. Care must be taken to ensure that this date does not occur before the required period for giving notice of sale has expired.

Notice of sale must be given by either publication or posting at the discretion of the personal representative [Prob. Code § 10250; for discussion, see § 455.20[2]]. Notice by publication must run for 10 days before the date on or after which the sale is to be made [Prob. Code § 10250(b)(1); see Gov. Code § 6063a]. Notice by posting must run for 15 days [Prob. Code § 10250(a)(1)]. Therefore, the date given in the notice as the date on which the high bids are to be determined and the sale made must be at least 10 or 15 days after the initial publication or posting, depending on the manner of giving notice.

[5] Proof of Notice of Sale

An order confirming a sale of personal property must indicate that proof of notice was made to the satisfaction of the court [Prob. Code § 10263]. In the case of notice by publication, the newspaper in which the notice was published provides an affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) of proof of publication [see Prob. Code § 1262]. In the case of notice by posting, proof of posting may be made by the affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) of the person who posted the notice [Prob. Code § 1263]. If the posting is actually done by a court official, counsel should contact the clerk of court to determine if a form for proof of notice by posting should be prepared and submitted.

For a form for notice of sale of estate real property by public auction, see § 455.93. For forms for notice of sale of estate personal property, see §§ 455.90 and 455.91. [3] Contents

The notice of sale must state the following: (1) whether the sale is to be by public auction or by private sale; (2) the time and place of the public auction, or, in the case of a private sale, the place where bids or offers will be received and a day on or after which the sale will be made; (3) the street address or other common designation, or if none, a legal description of the real property to be sold [*Prob. The procedure for a private sale is to allow a certain period of time for the submission of offers to purchase the property to be sold. At the end of that time, the highest bid is accepted. The date on which the determination of the highest bid is made is the date on which the sale is made. Care must be taken to ensure that this date does not occur before the required period for giving notice of sale has expired.

Notice of sale must be given by publication unless the property to be sold has been appraised at not more than $5,000, in which case notice may be given by posting [*Prob. [1] FORM Petition to Exempt Specific Gift from Operation of Rules of Abatement [Prob. Code § 21402]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,

	)	NO. _____
Estate of_____ [name],	)	PETITION TO EXEMPT
Deceased	)	SPECIFIC GIFT FROM ABATEMENT

Petitioner alleges:

1. Petitioner, _____ [name], is the specific devisee under the will of _____ [name], deceased, of _____ [specify and describe property that is subject of testamentary gift, e.g., decedent's residence, located at _____ (street address), and more particularly described as _____ (set forth legal description)].

2. Petitioner is informed and believes and on that basis alleges that in order to pay debts, expenses, taxes, or any family allowance allowed by the court, or to satisfy other gifts from the decedent's estate, it may be necessary to effect an abatement of testamentary gifts under the provisions of Probate Code § 21402.

3. Petitioner is further informed and believes and on that basis alleges that after first applying any estate specifically designated in decedent's will, any property not disposed of by the will, residuary gifts, general gifts, and specific gifts to persons who are not relatives of the deceased, it may still be necessary to abate other testamentary gifts in order to pay debts, expenses of administration, and the family allowance.

4. _____ [State facts that show that abatement of gift to petitioner would defeat decedent's testamentary intent, e.g., Petitioner, who is decedent's daughter, lived with decedent in the real property that is the subject of this specific testamentary gift during his lifetime and continues to live in the property. Petitioner is a person of limited economic resources and has no other means of obtaining housing. The property is free and clear of all debts and encumbrances, and by reason of this free housing, Petitioner is able to manage on monthly social security income. Decedent made no other significant provision for Petitioner in his will].

5. It is necessary to exempt the real property that is the subject of the te stamentary gift to Petitioner from abatement and sale in order to carry into effect the intention of the decedent _____ [specify, e.g. to provide free housing for Petitioner after decedent's death].

WHEREFORE, Petitioner prays for an order exempting Petitioner's specific testamentary gift from the operation of the rules of abatement and from sale by the personal representative, and for such other orders as the court deems proper.

CAUTION:
Petitions in probate matters must be verified [Prob. Code § 1021(a)(1)].

[2] Use of Form

This form may be used to request the court to exempt a specific testamentary gift from the statutory rules of abatement [ see Prob. Code §§ 21400-21406 (abatement); see also Prob. Code § 21117(a) ("specific gift" defined)]. The form is based on Prob. Code § 21402, which prescribes the order of abatement of gifts made on or after July 1, 1989 [see Prob. Code § 21406]. Gifts made before that date are governed by former Prob. Code §§ 682, 750, which were repealed as of July 1, 1989, but which continue to govern abatement in the estates of decedents dying before that date [see Stats. 1988, ch. 1199, §§ 52, 53.5; Prob. Code § 21406]. For further discussion, see § 455.13[2][c].

[3] Abatement of Specific Gifts

It may be necessary from time to time to sell property in a decedent's estate to pay debts, expenses, taxes, or any family allowance allowed by the court, or to satisfy other gifts from the decedent's estate [Prob. Code § 21401; see Prob. Code § 11420 (priority for payment)]. When it is necessary to do this, the property must be sold in accordance with any explicit directions set forth in the will; or, if there are no explicit directions, in such a way as to effectuate the purposes or plan of the decedent as revealed in the will [see Prob. Code § 21400]. If there are no explicit directions, and no plan or purpose is revealed by the will, the decedent's property may be sold according to the statutory order of priority set forth in Prob. Code § 21402. Under this section, property not disposed of by the will, residuary gifts, general gifts to persons other than the decedent's relatives, and general gifts to the transferor's relatives must be resorted to before property that is the subject of specific gifts to the transferor's relatives [Prob. Code § 21402(a)]. A person is regarded as a "relative" of the decedent for purposes of this rule if the decedent's property would pass to that person under the statutory rules of intestate succession if the decedent died intestate and there were no other persons having priority [Prob. Code § 21402(b); see Prob. Code §§ 6401, 6402 (intestate shares of surviving spouse and other heirs)]. A specific gift is a gift of specifically identifiable property [Prob. Code § 21117(a)].

The verified petition of _____ [name], praying for an order exempting decedent's testamentary gift of specific property from abatement and sale came on regularly for hearing on _____ [date] in Department _____ of this Court, the Honorable _____ [name of judge], presiding. Petitioner appeared by counsel _____ [name]. [Objection to the petition was filed by _____ (name and description of objector, e.g., John Jones, a creditor of the estate), who appeared by counsel _____ (name).]

The Court finds from proof made to the satisfaction of the Court that:

1. Notice of the time and place of the hearing was given as required by law. [Special notice was _____ (given to _____ (names), as requested or requested and waived by _____ (names)).]

2. Petitioner is the beneficiary of a specific testamentary gift of the following property: _____ [specify and describe].

3. Property specifically designated for the payment of decedent's debts, expenses of administration, and the family allowance in decedent's will appears to be insufficient to meet all such obligations.

4. After the value of any property specifically designated in decedent's will for the payment of decedent's debts, expenses of administration, and the family allowance is added to the value of all property not disposed of by the will, all property subject to residuary gifts, all property subject to general gifts, and all property subject to specific gifts to persons who are not relatives of the deceased, it may still be necessary to abate other testamentary gifts in order to pay debts, expenses of administration, and the family allowance.

5. It appears at this time that it will be necessary for the personal representative to appropriate other property devised by the testator in order to meet the estate's obligations for the payment of debts, expenses of administration, and the family allowance, under the applicable rules of abatement as set forth in the Probate Code.

6. Appropriation of the property that is the subject of the specific gift devised to petitioner would require sale of the property.

7. It was decedent's intent to benefit petitioner by this specific gift _____ [specify, e.g., by providing her with free housing so that she may use her limited income for other purposes].

8. Abatement and sale of this property would defeat decedent's testamentary intent in that _____ [specify, e.g., the proceeds of sale that would pass to petitioner after abatement would be insufficient to allow her to obtain other comparable housing free of monthly payment obligations].

9. There is other sufficient estate from which decedent's debts, expenses of administration, and the family allowance may be paid.

WHEREFORE, IT IS ORDERED that the property that is the subject of the specific testamentary gift that is described above is exempt from abatement and that this property shall not be sold by the personal representative in order to pay debts, expenses of administration, and the family allowance.

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing form of order is for use to approve the purchase of estate property by the personal representative personally [see Prob. Code § 9883(d)]. It may be adapted for use for a purchase of property by the attorney for the personal representative.

[3] Order Approving Sale to Personal Representative or Attorney

If the court is satisfied that the purchase of estate property by the personal representative or by his or her attorney should be approved, the court must make an order authorizing the purchase on specified terms and conditions. The form may be modified for use in requesting deviation from a particular testamentary direction regarding manner of sale [see Prob. Code § 10002].

[3] Judicial Relief From Testamentary Directions

In general, a personal representative is required to follow testamentary directions as to the mode of selling estate property or particular property to be sold [Prob. Code § 10002(a)]. However, the personal representative or any interested person may file a petition for judicial relief from testamentary directions. It must be shown that it is to the advantage of the estate and in the best interest of interested persons that the personal representative be relieved of the duty to follow the directions. Fifteen days' notice by mail is required [Prob. Code § 10002(b); see Prob. Code § 1220].

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing form is for use by a personal representative to petition for an order authorizing the sale of real and personal property as a unit [see Prob. Code § 10004(b)]. The most common situation in which such a unit sale is likely to be advantageous involves the sale of the decedent's real property together with its contents.

[3] Sale of Unit of Realty and Personalty

A personal representative may sell real and personal property together as a unit and under one bid if the court finds the sale of the assets as a unit to be to the advantage of the estate [Prob. Code § 10004(b)]. There is no statutory guidance as to whether a request for court approval may be by ex parte application or by petition for hearing with notice [but see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 10004 (personal representative must file petition with court)]. Therefore, local court rules should be consulted. In the absence of rules on point, it is recommended that the personal representative proceed by verified petition with notice [see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements].

Sale of a unit of realty and personal property must be made in the manner provided for the sale of real property [Prob. Code § 10004(d); see § 455.17; see also § 455.131]. The real and personal property may be appraised as a unit or separately, in the discretion of the personal representative [Prob. Code § 10004(a)]. If the property is to be sold at private sale, the unit sale price must be at least 90 percent of the appraised value of the unit or, if not appraised as a unit, of the sum of the appraised values of all items of real and personal property contained in the unit [Prob. Code § 10004(c)].

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing form of petition is for use to seek prior court authorization for the sale of securities belonging to the estate [see Prob. Code § 10200]. A sale or surrender for redemption or conversion of securities owned by the estate requires prior authorization by the court rather than subsequent confirmation [Prob. Code § 10200(b)]. The form is drafted with the personal representative as petitioner. It may be adapted for use by any interested person [see Prob. Code § 10200(c)].

There is also a Judicial Council form for an ex parte petition and order authorizing sale of securities. However, the form has not yet been modified to reflect changes in the law effective July 1, 1988.

[3] Contents

The petition must state the terms and conditions and the advantage to the estate of the proposed transaction [Prob. Code § 10200(c)]. Prob. Code § 10200 does not provide any express exception to the requirement that advantage to the estate must be shown in the case of securities that are authorized or directed to be sold in the will [cf. Prob. Code §§ 10261, 10310 (no showing of necessity or advantage of sale of real and other personal property is required if property is authorized or directed to be sold in will)].

The petition should state whether or not the securities are traded on a established stock or bond exchange. The basis for valuing the securities should be given, particularly if they are not listed on an exchange or are shares of a closely held corporation [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 10.103(b), (c)].

[4] Notice

Fifteen days notice of the hearing must be given by both mail and posting [Prob. Code § 10200(d); see Prob. Code §§ 1220, 1230; see also Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements]. The court may order that notice be given for a shorter time or dispensed with [Prob. Code § 10200(d)]. For discussion of whether notice of sale is required, see § 455.21. [2] Use of Form

The foregoing form is for use to report a sale of personal property to the court and to petition for confirmation of the sale [see Prob. Code § 10260(a)]. The form includes an optional allegation and attachment for use to obtain court approval of a sale of personal property for which court confirmation is not otherwise required, but is desired to insulate the personal representative from liability because the sale price was less than appraised value (Paragraph 6; Exhibit D) [see Prob. Code § 10259(c)]. For discussion of when court confirmation of a sale of personal property is required, see §§ 455.20[7], [8]. For a discussion of when prior notice of sale must be given [see Prob. Code § 10252], see § 455.90.

[3] Contents

There are no specific statutory requirements for the contents of a petition for confirmation of sale of personal property. However, the petition should allege sufficient facts to establish grounds for the sale. If the sale is directed or authorized in the decedent's will, that fact alone is sufficient to confirm the sale. Otherwise, the petitioner must make a showing that the sale is necessary or to the advantage of the estate and for the benefit of interested persons (Alternative Paragraphs 2) [Prob. Code § 10261(a)].

The form also includes an optional paragraph to request approval of any extensions of credit involved in the sale (Paragraph 5) [see Prob. Code § 10257(c)].

The form uses exhibit pages to list, describe, and value the property sold. If the sale involves only a few items of property, the description may be included in the body of the petition rather than in an exhibit.

Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

This foregoing form of order is for use to confirm a sale of personal property [see Prob. Code § 10261].

[3] Contents

The order confirming sale must show that proper notice of sale was given, if required (Alternative Paragraphs 3) [Prob. Code § 10263]. If a sale is made on credit, the terms of the note and document that establishes the estate's valid security interest must be approved at the time of confirmation (Second Alternative Paragraph 5) [Prob. Code § 10257(c)]. There are no further statutory requirements for the contents of the order. However, the order should refer to the specific grounds that support the sale, particularly if the sale was contested and there is any possibility of appeal (Paragraph 6).

[4] Manner of Listing Property

The specific property whose sale is confirmed by the order must be made clear. Local court rules may both prohibit exhibits or attachments to an order and require the order to be complete in and of itself [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rules 10.41, 10.42]. In such a case, all of the property whose sale is confirmed must be listed in the body of the order. If the sale is confirmed to an overbidder on credit [see Prob. Code § 10262], copies of the purchaser's note and document that creates the estate's security interest should be filed with the court before the order is signed.

[5] State Statutes

Use of the Judicial Council form is mandatory [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 1.31, 7.101].

[3] Contents

[a] Matters Allowing Court to Evaluate Sale

Prob. Code § 10308 does not require any particular contents for a petition reporting a sale of estate real property and requesting confirmation of sale. However, the petition should set forth all matters necessary for the court to properly evaluate the sale according to the applicable statutory requirements.

[b] Grounds for Sale

If the sale is directed or authorized in the decedent's will, no further showing is required in order to obtain court confirmation of the sale (see Paragraph 7). Otherwise, the petitioner must make a showing that the sale is necessary or to the advantage of the estate and for the benefit of interested persons [Prob. Code § 10310(a)]. The court must also investigate the efforts of the personal representative to obtain the highest and best price for the property that is reasonably attainable (Paragraph 12) [Prob. Code § 10310(b)].

[c] Terms of Sale

It is not necessary to state all the terms and conditions of sale in the body of the petition. However, a copy of the real property sales agreement entered into by the purchaser and the personal representative should be attached (Paragraph 4f; Attachment 4f). If the sale involves any extension of credit by the estate to the purchaser, the estate must be adequately secured by the purchaser's note and deed of trust or mortgage [Prob. Code § 10315]. Copies of these documents should also be attached (Paragraph 4e; Attachment 4e), although there is no express statutory requirement that their contents be approved by the court [compare Prob. Code § 10257(c) (terms of note and estate's security interest in personal property must be specifically approved)]. The deed of trust or mortgage may be subject only to encumbrances existing at the date of sale and to such other encumbrances as the court may approve [Prob. Code § 10315(a)].

[d] Broker's Commission

Paragraph 5 of this form contains information on commissions. At the confirmation hearing, the court may fix the commissions of one or more brokers who are entitled to compensation in connection with the sale. Commissions may also be allowed at another time [Prob. Code § 10313(b)]. Court approval of the amount of a broker's commission is required regardless of the terms of any offer to purchase or contract between a broker and a personal representative [Prob. Code §§ 10150(b), 10166]. The allowable percentage of a broker's commission is generally controlled by local court rule or practice. For further discussion of the allowance of brokers' commissions, see § 455.31.

[e] Requirement of Additional Bond

The form contains alternative provisions concerning the possibility of an additional bond requirement as a result of the sale of estate real property (Paragraph 6). Before a sale of any real property of an estate is confirmed, the court must determine if additional bond is required [Prob. Code § 8482(d)].

If bond was originally required, the amount fixed may not have taken into account the value of any real property of the estate [see Prob. Code § 8482(a), (b) (amount of bond must be fixed at not less than value of personal property and value of probable annual gross income of all property, plus, if independent administration is granted as to real property, the estimated net proceeds of real property authorized to be sold under Prob. Code § 10400 et seq., relating to independent administration of estates)]. The conversion of the value of real property into personal property may cause the prior amount of the bond to be insufficient [see Prob. Code § 8482(a), (b)].

However, if the personal representative has been granted an independent power to sell or hypothecate real estate or to lease it for a term of more than one year, the personal representative will have been required to state in the request to fix the amount of the bond the value of the real property less encumbrances [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.205].

The conversion of the value of real property into personal property may cause the prior amount of the bond to be insufficient [see Prob. Code § 8482(a), (b)]. Before a sale of any real property of an estate is confirmed, the court must determine if additional bond is required [Prob. Code § 8482(d)]. If required, the court will not file the order until the additional bond is filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.206].

An order confirming sale, whether to the person who made the original offer or to an overbidder, should state the following [Prob. Code § 10313(a)]:

- Either that the sale is authorized or directed in decedent's will or that good cause exists for the sale.
- That any required notice of sale was given as required by law.
- That the sale was legally made and fairly conducted.
- That the amount for which the sale is to be confirmed is not disproportionate to the value of the property.
- In the case of a private sale, that the sale price is at least 90 percent of appraised value based on an appraisal date and valuation date within a year of the hearing [see Prob. Code § 10309].

- If the sale is to be confirmed on the original offer, that no higher overbid that complies with all legal requirements can be obtained.

A broker's commission also may be allowed in the order or at any subsequent time [Prob. Code § 10313(b)].

If the estate is to take the purchaser's note secured by a deed of trust for any part of the purchase price, any subordination of the deed of trust to encumbrances not existing as of the date of sale must be approved by the court [see Prob. Code § 10315(a)]. The form also states that the personal representative has made adequate efforts to obtain the highest and best price for the property that is reasonably attainable [see Prob. Code § 10310(b)], and should set forth any additional bond requirement [see Prob. Code § 542].

[Verification. See § 455.111.]

CAUTION:
Petitions in probate matters must be verified [Prob. Code § 1021(a)(1)].

[2] Use of Form

This form of petition is for use to request an order vacating a prior court order that confirmed the sale of real property to a purchaser who then defaulted on the contract of purchase. The form also requests confirmation of sale to a new high bidder [see Prob. Code § 10351]. For a form for a petition for an order vacating a confirmation order and ordering resale, see § 455.123.

[3] Vacation of Sale and Confirmation to New High Bidder

The court may vacate the order of confirmation of sale of real or personal property and simultaneously confirm the sale to a new high bidder if the original purchaser has failed to complete the purchase, and a new bid has been made for the property for the same or a higher purchase price, on the same or better terms, and in the manner prescribed in any original notice of sale. The petition must be filed within 60 days after the original confirmation of sale [Prob. Code § 10351(a)(1)]. This procedure is not available if the sale was previously vacated and a resale ordered [Prob. Code § 10351(a)(2); see Prob. Code § 10350].

Notice of the hearing on the petition must be given as provided in Prob. Code § 1220 to the persons designated by that section. In addition, the notice and a copy of the petition must be given to the buyers and brokers named in the order confirming sale, although notice need not be given to a defaulting purchaser whose written consent to the vacation of the order confirming sale is filed with the court before the hearing [Prob. Code § 10351(b); for general discussion of notice requirements in probate proceedings, and forms for notice, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements].

If any person entitled to notice is represented by an attorney of record, the notice must also be given to that attorney [Prob. Code § 1214].

[4] Broker's Commission

There is no express authority for the award of a broker's commission to a broker who produces a new high bidder after the original purchaser has defaulted. In fact, a strict construction of the statutory language would seem to preclude a commission to such a broker. The only brokers who are entitled to a commission are those who: (1) have a contract that grants an exclusive right to sell the property; (2) produce the original bid that is returned to the court for confirmation; or (3) procure an increased bid made at the time of the hearing on the petition for confirmation [Prob. Code § 10161(b)]. Nevertheless, there seems to be no policy reason to disallow a commission to a broker who finds another buyer after the original buyer has defaulted. The broker who produced the original buyer will lose his or her commission because the sale was not consummated [Prob. Code § 10160(c)]. Therefore, there is no added expense to the estate in allowing a commission to the new high bidder's broker, and in fact, the estate would receive a windfall by the disallowance of the commission. Such a limitation is not conducive to the maximum marketability of estate real property. There is the possibility that the lack of the right of the broker who procures a new high bidder to receive a commission is merely a legislative oversight. For this reason, this form includes an optional provision to request a broker's commission.

[5] State Statutes

Requirement that petition be verified. Prob. Code § 1021(a)(1)

Estate of _____ [name]	)	OBJECTIONS TO CONFIRMATION OF SALE OF Deceased	)	ESTATE PROPERTY
	)	[Prob. Code § _____ (10261(b) or 10310(c)]

_____ [Name of objector] objects as follows:

1. Objector is _____ [specify status establishing objector as person interested in estate, e.g., a residuary beneficiary of this estate].

2. The sale of _____ [real or personal] property of this estate to _____ [name of purchaser], as set forth in the report of sale and petition for confirmation, is neither authorized nor directed in decedent's will.

3. Sale of the particular property reported to the court for confirmation is not necessary in that the estate has sufficient assets to pay all debts, devises, expenses of administration, taxes, and the family allowance.

4. The sale reported to the court for confirmation is neither to the advantage of the estate nor in the best interest of interested persons, including Objector, at this time because: _____ [specify reasons, e.g., the area in which the real property is located is currently zoned for agricultural use only. Objector is informed and believes and on that basis alleges that the area is about to be annexed into _____ (name of governmental entity), and that the area will then be zoned to allow for residential or commercial use].

WHEREFORE, Objector prays for an order of the court as follows:

1. Vacating the sale reported to the court;

2. Prohibiting the personal representative from selling the property until further order of this court;

And for such other orders as the court deems proper.

CAUTION:
An objection to a probate petition must be verified [Prob. Code § 1021(a)(2)].

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing form is for use to object to a sale of either personal or real property of the estate. It is filed in response to a personal representative's report of sale of estate property and petition for court confirmation [see Prob. Code § 10261(b) (personal), 10310(c) (real)]. It is for use when the objector wishes the personal representative to retain the property in the estate and objects to any sale of the property. For a form for objection only to the particular sale reported to the court for confirmation, see § 455.152.

[3] Prohibiting Sale of Estate Property

The burden on an objector who wishes to compel the personal representative to retain rather than sell property of the estate is great. Sale is permitted if authorized or directed in decedent's will; if it is necessary to pay debts, devises, expenses of administration, taxes, and the family allowance; or if it is to the advantage of the estate and in the best interest of the interested persons [Prob. Code § 10000]. A prohibition of sale requires a negation of all of these possible grounds.

If the sale is directed or authorized in decedent's will, the objector may petition to relieve the personal representative of the duty of complying with the directions [Prob. Code § 10002; see § 455.117]. In such a case, the petition should be combined with the objections. The objector must still show lack of necessity and lack of advantage and benefit.

	)	NO. _____
Estate of _____ [name]	)	ORDER VACATING SALE AND PROHIBITING Deceased	)	SALE OF ESTATE PROPERTY
	)	[Prob. Code § 10000]

The verified report of sale and petition of _____ [name], as personal representative of the estate of _____ [name], deceased, praying for an order confirming sale of _____ [real or personal] property, came on regularly for hearing on _____ [date] in Department _____ of this Court, the Honorable _____ [name of Judge], presiding. Petitioner appeared by counsel _____ [name]. Objection to the confirmation of sale was filed by _____ [name and description of objector, e.g., John Jones, a residuary beneficiary of the estate], who appeared by counsel _____ [name].

The Court finds from proof made to the satisfaction of the Court:

1. Notice of the time and place of the hearing was given as required by law. [Special notice was _____ (given to _____ (names), as requested or requested and waived by _____ (names)).]

2. On _____ [date], the personal representative sold at _____ [private sale or public auction], the _____ [real or personal] property as set forth in the petition.

3. Sale of this property is neither authorized nor directed in decedent's will.

4. Sale of this property is not necessary to pay debts, devises, expenses of administration, taxes, or the family allowance.

5. Sale of this property at this time is neither to the advantage of the estate nor in the best interests of persons interested in the estate because _____ [state reasons, e.g., the area in which the real property is located is currently zoned for agricultural use only. The area is about to be annexed into _____ (name of governmental entity), and the area will then be zoned to allow for residential or commercial use, at which time, the value of the property will increase significantly].

WHEREFORE, IT IS ORDERED as follows:

1. The sale of _____ [specify property reported in petition] to _____ [name of purchaser], as reported to this Court, is vacated.

2. Petitioner shall not sell this property until permitted by further order of this Court.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]

Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing form of order is for use to vacate a sale of estate property that has been reported to the court for confirmation and to prohibit any further sale of the property until further order of the court. It may be used to vacate a sale of either real or personal property. For a form vacating sale and ordering a new sale, see § 455.153.

[3] Order Prohibiting Sale of Estate Property

There is no express authority for a court order that prohibits a personal representative from selling property of the estate [cf. Prob. Code § 10313 (court may vacate sale of estate real property and order new sale)]. However, the authority to deny sale is implicit in Prob. Code § 10000, which sets forth the circumstances under which estate property may be sold [see § 455.150]. If none of these circumstances can be established, the court must certainly have the authority to order the personal representative to retain the property [see Estate of Harabedian (1963) 220 Cal. App. 2d 1, 34 Cal. Rptr. 668 (decided under prior but substantially similar law); see also Prob. Code §§ 10261(b), 10310(c) (right to object to petition for confirmation of sale)].

1. Objector is _____ [specify status establishing objector as person interested in estate, e.g., a residuary beneficiary of this estate].

2. Objector agrees that the personal representative is entitled by law to sell the real property described in the petition and that the property should be sold. However, objection is made to the particular sale reported to the court for confirmation.

3. Sale of this property is neither directed nor authorized in decedent's will. Further, sale is not necessary in order to pay debts, devises, expenses of administration, taxes, and the family allowance.

4. The sale reported to the court for confirmation is neither to the advantage of the estate nor in the best interest of interested persons, including Objector, because _____ [specify reasons, e.g., the terms of sale require the estate to accept the purchaser's 15-year note secured by a deed of trust for 80 percent of the purchase price. Such a sale on credit is prejudicial to the residuary beneficiaries because it means that these beneficiaries will have to defer receipt of their full distributive share of the residue for 15 years. Objector is of advanced age and is unlikely to ever come into possession and enjoyment of his/her full share of the residue under these terms].

WHEREFORE, Objector prays for an order of the court as follows:

2. Ordering a new sale of the property;

CAUTION:

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing form is for use to make written objections to a personal representative's report of sale of real property of the estate and petition for court confirmation. It requests the court to order a new sale of the property. The form is based on a statute that is limited to real property [see Prob. Code § 10313]. However, because of substantially similar standards for the confirmation of sale of personal property [cf. Prob. Code § 10261(b)], it may be argued that the procedure could be used in connection with personal property. If desired, the form may be adapted for this use.

The form is for use by an objector who objects only to the particular sale of the property reported to the court. For a form for objection to any sale of the property, see § 455.150.

[3] Grounds for Opposing Particular Sale of Realty

There is some uncertainty as to the grounds on which an objector may succeed in vacating a particular sale of estate real property. Under current law, it appears that the personal representative must make both a threshold showing of the reason for sale [see Prob. Code §§ 10310(a), 10313(a)(1)] and also prove five other matters, primarily related to the statutorily required procedures for the sale [see Prob. Code § 10313(a)(2)-(6)].

At the threshold level, the personal representative must show either that the sale was authorized or directed to be made in decedent's will or that good reason exists for the sale [Prob. Code § 10313(a)(1)]. The alternative requirement of good reason most probably relates back to the personal representative's burden of showing either the necessity of the sale or the advantage to the estate and benefit to interested persons in making the sale [see Prob. Code § 10310(a); see also Prob. Code § 10000]. The additional requirements involve three points related specifically to compliance with the statutory procedures of notice, appraisal, and overbid [see Prob. Code § 10313(a)(2), (5), (6)]. The final two requirements are that the court find that the sale was legally made and fairly conducted, and that the amount for which the sale is to be confirmed is not disproportionate to the value of the property [Prob. Code § 10313(a)(2), (3)].

The apparent result of this set of requirements is that an objector whose position is that the terms of a particular sale are not advantageous to the estate or of benefit to the beneficiaries may be foreclosed from vacating sale. For example, assume the sale is authorized in the will and the personal representative sells the property on credit, taking back a note secured by a deed of trust for 95 percent of the sale price, as permitted by statute [see Prob. Code § 10315]. An elderly residuary beneficiary objects to the sale on credit because he or she wants cash now rather than later and believes an all-cash sale is attainable (see Paragraph 4). Because the sale is authorized in the will, the question of advantage to the estate and benefit to interested persons is foreclosed. The same result occurs if the sale is necessary to raise cash to pay expenses. Only if neither of these factors exist can the objector challenge the terms of a particular sale on grounds other than procedural error or disproportionate sale price. The one possible argument is that a sale made on terms unfavorable to the beneficiaries has not been "fairly conducted" [see Prob. Code § 10313(a)(3)].

Order vacating sale of real property and ordering new sale. Prob. Code § 10313

[2] Use of Form

This ex parte application is for use by the personal representative of an estate to obtain prior permission of the court to enter into a written 90-day exclusive listing agreement with a licensed real estate broker for the sale of real property of the estate [see Prob. Code § 10150(c)].

[3] Exclusive-Right Agreement With Broker or Agent

The personal representative may enter into a written contract with a licensed real estate broker to secure a purchaser for any real property of the estate or with one or more agents or brokers to secure a purchaser for any personal property of the estate [Prob. Code § 10150(a); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.453]. The contract may grant an exclusive right to sell the property for a period of not more than 90 days if prior court approval is obtained. Permission may be requested by ex parte application. The personal representative must make a showing of necessity and advantage to the estate. Additional 90-day extensions of the exclusive right agreement may be obtained by the same procedure [Prob. Code § 10150(c)].

A petition for approval of an exclusive listing under Prob. Code § 10150(c) is required to state the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.453]:

- A description of the property to be sold (see Paragraph 2).
- The name of the broker to be employed (see Paragraph 2).

- A summary of the terms of the exclusive listing agreement or include a copy of the listing agreement (see Paragraph 2).

- A detailed statement of the facts supporting the "necessity and advantage" to the estate of having the exclusive listing (see Paragraph 3).

[4] Alleging Special Notice

Although permission to enter into an exclusive listing agreement may be made on an ex parte petition, local court rules may require that any petition for an ex parte order either allege that no special notice had been requested or list the parties who have waived their request for special notice (Alternative Paragraphs 4) [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 10.38; San Francisco Uniform Local Ct. Rules, Rule 14.20].

[5] Verification

The statutory requirements for an exclusive-listing agreement allow the personal representative to seek court authorization by ex parte application rather than by petition [Prob. Code § 10150(c)]. Such an application is not among the filings that must be verified [see Prob. Code § 1021(a)]. Nevertheless, local court rules and procedure should be consulted before verification is omitted.

39-455 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 455.172

§ 455.172 Written Form of Overbid in Open Court at Hearing on Confirmation [Prob. Code § 10311]

[1] FORM Written Form of Overbid in Open Court at Hearing on Confirmation [Prob. Code § 10311]

The undersigned bids the sum of $_____, for the property of the estate of _____ [name], deceased, the confirmation of sale of which is pending before the court. The amount of this bid exceeds the amount of the original offer that was reported to the court by at least 10 percent on the first $10,000 and by at least 5 percent on the balance of the offer.

The undersigned agrees to execute a complete real property sales agreement within _____ days of this hearing, the terms of which will be no less favorable to the estate than the terms of the agreement of sale pursuant to the amount of the original offer reported to this court for confirmation.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing form is use to make an overbid at the confirmation hearing. The preferred practice is that the overbidder attend the confirmation hearing with a completed real property sales agreement that sets forth all terms and conditions of sale in addition to offering the required amount of the overbid. Forms for these agreements are commonly provided by real estate brokers or may be found in California Legal Forms, Ch 23, Real Property Sales Agreements. However, under some circumstances it may be impossible for the overbidder to prepare such an agreement before the hearing. In such a case, this form meets the requirement that an overbid be submitted in writing [see Prob. Code § 10311(a)]. Prob. Code § 10311 does not require the written overbid to set forth the complete terms and conditions of sale. However, local rules and practice should be consulted. Some counties provide preprinted forms on which to submit an overbid. The parties should enter into a complete sales agreement as soon as possible after the hearing.

[3] Amount of Overbid

An overbid must be for an amount of at least 10 percent more on the first $10,000 of the original bid and 5 percent more on the amount of the original bid in excess of $10,000 [Prob. Code § 10311(a)(1)]. The overbid must be made by a responsible person and comply with all provisions of law [Prob. Code § 10311(a)(2), (3)]. For further discussion of overbids, see § 455.19[3][a].

§ 456.10 Governing Law

Management of estate property is governed generally by Prob. Code §§ 850-859 and 9600-10382. Provisions discussed in this chapter include Part 19 of Division 2 relating to conveyance or transfer of property claimed to belong to decedent or other person [see Prob. Code §§ 850-859]; Chapters 1 and 2 of Part 5 of Division 7, containing general provisions related to estate management [see Prob. Code §§ 9600-9657]; Chapter 3 of Division 7, on deposits of money and personal property with financial institutions [see Prob. Code §§ 9700-9705]; Chapter 4 of Division 7, on investments and purchases of property [see Prob. Code §§ 9730-9737]; Chapter 5 of Division 7, on the operation of decedent's business [see Prob. Code §§ 9760-9764]; Chapter 6 of Division 7, on abandonment of tangible personal property [see Prob. Code §§ 9780-9788]; Chapter 7 of Division 7, on borrowing, refinancing, and encumbering property [see Prob. Code §§ 9800-9807]; Chapter 10 of Division 7, on acceptance of deed in lieu of foreclosure or trustee's sale [see Prob. Code §§ 9850-9851]; Chapter 13 of Division 7, on dedication or conveyance of easement or access rights to a governmental entity [see Prob. Code §§ 9900, 9901]; Chapter 14 of Division 7, on exchanges of estate property [see Prob. Code §§ 9920-9923]; Chapter 15 of Division 7, on leases [see Prob. Code §§ 9940-9948]; and Chapters 16 and 17 of Division 7, on options [Prob. Code §§ 9960-9983]. Statutes regarding partition of estate property are set forth in Prob. Code §§ 11950-11956.

A wide variety of local court rules govern probate procedures. To ensure complete compliance, the attorney should consult the applicable rules.

Chapter 456 PROBATE: MANAGEMENT OF ESTATE ASSETS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

39-456 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 456.11

§ 456.11 Duties and Liabilities of Personal Representative

[1] In General

In the management and control of the estate, a personal representative must use ordinary care and diligence. What constitutes ordinary care and diligence is determined by all the circumstances of the particular estate [Prob. Code § 9600(a)]. The personal representative must either exercise or refrain from exercising a power to the extent that ordinary care and diligence indicate that the power should or should not be exercised [Prob. Code § 9600(b)].

A personal representative who breaches a fiduciary duty is chargeable with any loss or depreciation in value of the estate that results from the breach, plus interest on the loss; for any profit made personally because of the breach, plus interest on the profit; and for any lost profit that would have accrued to the estate but for the breach [Prob. Code § 9601(a)]. Interest for which the personal representative is liable is the amount that accrues at the legal rate on judgments or the amount that was actually received, whichever is greater [Prob. Code § 9602]. In addition, the personal representative remains subject to any other remedy that may be available under other law [Prob. Code § 9603]. The court may excuse the personal representative from liability if the personal representative has acted reasonably and in good faith under the circumstances as known to him or to her [Prob. Code §§ 9601(b), 9602(b)].

Unless otherwise provided in the instrument or in Division 7 of the Probate Code (Prob. Code § 7000 et seq.), however, a personal representative is not personally liable on an instrument, including but not limited to a note, mortgage, deed of trust, or other contract, properly entered into in the personal representative's fiduciary capacity in the course of administration of the estate unless the personal representative fails to reveal his or her representative capacity or identify the estate in the instrument [Prob. Code § 9606].

[2] Managerial Duties

The personal representative must collect the assets of the estate [Prob. Code § 9650(a); see Ch. 450, Probate: Collecting Assets]. The personal representative is entitled to receive the rents, issues, and profits from all property in the estate until the estate is settled or delivered over by order of the court to the heirs or devisees [Prob. Code § 9650(a)(2)]. The personal representative must pay taxes on and take all steps reasonably necessary for the management, protection, and preservation of estate property [Prob. Code § 9650(b)]. The personal representative may insure any property of the estate against damage or loss, and may insure himself or herself against liability to third persons [Prob. Code § 9656].

Real property or tangible personal property may be left with or surrendered to the person presumptively entitled to it unless or until, in the judgment of the personal representative, possession by the personal representative becomes necessary for the proper administration of the estate. The person who has the property must surrender it on request by the personal representative [Prob. Code § 9650(c)].

[3] Duty Regarding Funds on Hand

Unless the decedent's will provides otherwise, the personal representative must keep all cash of the estate in his or her possession invested in interest-bearing accounts or in other investments authorized by law. The duty to invest does not apply to the amount of cash that is reasonably necessary for the orderly administration of the estate [Prob. Code § 9652]. For further discussion of the investment of estate property, see § 456.15.

Chapter 456 PROBATE: MANAGEMENT OF ESTATE ASSETS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

39-456 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 456.12

§ 456.12 Court Supervision

In general, a personal representative may manage the estate without express court authorization, instruction, approval, or confirmation unless the Probate Code specifies that a particular act must be passed on by the court [Prob. Code § 9610; see, e.g., Prob. Code § 10200 (court authorization required for sale of securities)]. However, even in the absence of a specific requirement, the personal representative may always seek court authorization, instructions, approval, or confirmation of a particular managerial act [Prob. Code § 9610; see Prob. Code § 9611; see also Ch. 457, Probate: Instructions to Personal Representative]. When a judgment or order concerning the administration of the estate becomes final, it releases the personal representative and any sureties on the personal representative's bond from any claims of heirs, devisees, or other affected persons based upon any act or omission directly authorized, approved, or confirmed in the judgment or order [Prob. Code § 7250(a)]. However, a judgment or order will not release the personal representative or the sureties from claims if it was obtained by fraud or conspiracy, or by misrepresentation of any material fact in a petition or account. Failure to disclose a material fact also constitutes misrepresentation for this purpose [Prob. Code § 7250(c)].

Any interested person may file a petition for a court order directing the personal representative to take or to refrain from taking a particular act [Prob. Code § 9613(a); see § 456.60]. Interested persons include an heir, devisee, child, spouse, creditor, or beneficiary of the decedent, or any other person who has a property right in or claim against the estate [Prob. Code § 48]. The petitioner must show that if the petition is not granted, the estate will suffer great or irreparable injury. The order may include such terms and conditions as the court considers appropriate under the circumstances [Prob. Code § 9613(a); see § 456.61].

§ 456.13 Multiple Personal Representatives

If the estate is administered by two personal representatives, both must concur to exercise a power. If there are more than two, a majority must concur [Prob. Code § 9630(a)]. A personal representative may oppose any petition filed by another personal representative or other person and may petition for an order directing the personal representatives to take or to refrain from taking a particular act [Prob. Code § 9630(d)].

In general, one personal representative is not liable for a breach of fiduciary duty committed by another [Prob. Code § 9631(a)]. However, this rule is subject to the following exceptions [Prob. Code § 9631(b)]:

- If the personal representative to be charged participates in the breach of duty;
- If the personal representative to be charged improperly delegated administration of the estate to the other;
- If the personal representative to be charged approved, knowingly acquiesced in, or concealed the breach of duty;
- If the personal representative to be charged negligently enabled the other to commit the breach; or
- If the personal representative to be charged knew or had information from which he or she reasonably should have known of the other's breach of duty, and failed to take reasonable steps to compel the other to redress the breach.

39-456 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 456.14

§ 456.14 Deposits of Money and Property

The personal representative may deposit money of the estate in a California financial institution and may make withdrawals without order of the court [Prob. Code § 9700]. Similarly, the personal representative may deposit personal property of the estate with a trust company for safe keeping [Prob. Code § 9701]. Securities may be deposited in a securities depository [see Prob. Code § 9702; see also Fin. Code § 1592].

The personal representative may apply ex parte for an order prohibiting withdrawals of money or property other than on express authorization of the court [Prob. Code § 9703(a)]. A copy of the court order must be delivered to the financial institution or trust company at the time that the deposit is made [Prob. Code § 9703(b)]. The financial institution or trust company is not considered to be on notice as to the limitation on withdrawals unless it has actual notice of the order [Prob. Code § 9703(c)].

When the court makes an order distributing deposited money, securities, or other property, the financial institution or trust company may deliver the money or property directly to the distributee. The distributee's receipt must be filed with the clerk of court [Prob. Code § 9704].

If a trust company is the personal representative and deposits money of the estate in an account of its own, it is chargeable with interest on the account at the rate prevailing among banks of the locality on such deposits. If it is to the estate's advantage, an amount of cash that is reasonably necessary for the orderly administration of the estate may be left in a noninterest-bearing checking account [Prob. Code § 9705].

§ 456.15 Investments

Pending distribution of the estate, money of the estate may be placed in certain specified conservative investments, principally government bonds and other governmental obligations, without court authorization [see Prob. Code § 9730]. Investments in securities require prior court authorization [Prob. Code § 9731(a); see Prob. Code § 70 (definition of securities)]. A petition for investment authorization may be filed by the personal representative or by any interested person [see Prob. Code § 48 ("interested persons" defined)], and must state the types of securities that are proposed to be purchased and the advantage to the estate of the purchase [Prob. Code § 9731(b); see § 456.62].

The fact that a particular investment is provided for by the decedent in the will does not relieve the personal representative of the obligation to seek court authorization for the investment. The investment will only be allowed if the time for filing claims has expired, all debts (as defined in Prob. Code § 11401) have been paid or secured or there is other available cash from which they can be paid, and the estate is not in a condition to be finally distributed [Prob. Code § 9732(a)]. A petition for authorization may be filed by the personal representative or by any interested person and must show the general condition of the estate and the types of investments that are proposed to be made [Prob. Code § 9732(b); see § 456.64]. If there is no objection, the court may authorize the investment of as much of the estate as the court deems advisable in the manner provided in the will. If there is no objection and no substantial reason why some or all of the investment powers given in the will should not be exercised, the court must authorize the investments. The order of authorization may be for a limited period of time or until the administration of the estate is completed. The personal representative or other interested person may petition at any time for the renewal, modification, or termination of the order [Prob. Code § 9732(d)].

§ 456.16 Management of Securities

With respect to a share of stock of a domestic or foreign corporation, a membership in a nonprofit corporation, or other property held by the estate, the personal representative may do any of the following [Prob. Code § 9655]:

- Exercise in person or by proxy any voting rights.
- Waive notice of a meeting or give consent to the holding of a meeting.
- Authorize, ratify, approve, or confirm any action that could be taken by shareholders, members, or property owners.

The personal representative may hold a security of the estate in the name of a nominee or in any other form without disclosure of the estate, so that title to the security may pass by delivery [Prob. Code § 9736].

If the estate owns subscription rights for the purchase of additional securities, the rights may be exercised only with court authorization on a showing that it is to the estate's advantage [Prob. Code § 9737(a)]. To obtain authorization, the personal representative or any interested person [see Prob. Code § 48 ("interested person" defined)] must file a petition stating the nature of the subscription rights and the advantage to the estate of exercising them [Prob. Code § 9737(b); see Prob. Code § 9737(c) (notice of hearing must be given as provided in Prob. Code § 1220)].

§ 456.17 Operation of Business Owned by Decedent as Sole Proprietor

The continued operation of a business of the decedent that was operated in sole proprietorship form involves some risk to the estate. The assets of the estate are liable for the obligations of the business incurred during the period of estate administration [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 9760]. The personal representative may continue the operation of the decedent's proprietorship for a period of six months from the date on which letters were first issued with or without court authorization. However, any operation beyond the six-month period requires court authorization [Prob. Code § 9760(b)].

The personal representative or any other interested person [see Prob. Code § 48 ("interested person" defined)] may petition for an order either authorizing the continuation of the business or directing the personal representative to discontinue the operation of the business. The petition must show the advantage to the estate and the benefit to the interested persons of the order requested [Prob. Code § 9760(c); see §§ 456.68 -456.71].

§ 456.18 Business in Which Decedent Was General Partner

[1] Governing Law

Currently, the rights and duties of general partners in all California general partnerships are governed by the Uniform Partnership Act of 1994 (UPA'94) [Corp. Code § 16100 et seq.], regardless of whether the partnership in question was formed before or after the effective date of the UPA'94 (January 1, 1997). Prior to January 1, 1997, the earlier version of the Uniform Partnership Act (former UPA) [former Corp. Code § 15001 et. seq., repealed effective January 1, 1999] governed the operation of all California general partnerships. When the UPA'94 took effect on January 1, 1997, it provided a grace period from January 1, 1997, to January 1, 1999, during which general partnerships formed prior to January 1, 1997, would continue to be governed by the former UPA unless they elected to be governed by the UPA'94 [Corp. Code § 16111(a)]. That grace period has now expired, and since January 1, 1999, all California general partnerships have been governed by the UPA'94 [Corp. Code § 16111(b)]. Nevertheless, since issues involving acts and events occurring prior to 1999 may exist for some time to come, a determination of which version of the UPA governed the partnership at the time in question may still be necessary. Thus, this chapter still contains discussion of the law as set forth in the former UPA. The UPA'94 substantially changed several key aspects of California partnership law; for discussion of the UPA'94 and its effects, see Ch. 400, Partnerships: Governing Statutes .

[2] Importance of Partnership Agreement

When a general partner dies, it is essential under both of the former UPA and the UPA'94 [§ 456.18[1]] to determine whether there is a written partnership agreement and, if so, whether it makes any provisions for the death of a partner. If there is a partnership agreement, and if it makes provisions for the death of a partner, those provisions generally will govern the rights and obligations of the surviving partners and the deceased partner's personal representative [former Corp. Code § 15108 (former UPA, repealed eff. Jan. 1, 1999); Corp. Code § 16103(a) (UPA'94, effective Jan. 1, 1997)].

The agreement may call for a dissolution of the partnership business and a distribution of its assets, or for a purchase of the deceased partner's interest by the surviving partners, with the surviving partners thereafter continuing the business. The agreement may permit the deceased partnership to devise his or her interest in the partnership, or forbid such a devise.

An agreement that calls for the purchase of a deceased partner's interest is often called a "buyout" or "buy-sell" agreement. Agreements of this kind are common in partnerships. The purchase of the deceased partner's interest is often financed by insurance on the life of the deceased partner. For discussion, see California Wills & Trusts, Ch. 29, Devises of Businesses and Business Interests (Matthew Bender).

[3] No Interest in Specific Partnership Property

Both the former UPA and the UPA'94 [§ 456.18[1]] make it clear that a deceased partner has no interest in specific partnership property, but merely owns an interest in the partnership business, with a right to participate in its profits, losses, and distributions [former Corp. Code § 15025(2)(d) (former UPA, repealed eff. Jan. 1, 1999); Corp. Code §§ 16203, 16401, 16502 (UPA'94, effective Jan. 1, 1997)].

[4] Dissolution or Dissociation

Under the former UPA [§ 456.18[1]], a general partnership was dissolved by the death of a partner, unless there was a written agreement of the partners providing otherwise, or unless the probate court ordered the personal representative to continue as a partner [former Corp. Code § 15031(4), repealed eff. Jan. 1, 1999; see Prob. Code § 9762]. The probate court may make such an order only upon a showing that it would be to the advantage of the estate and in the best interest of the interested persons [Prob. Code § 9762(a);§ 456.18[5]].

Under the UPA'94 [§ 456.18[1]], the death of a partner does not cause the dissolution of the partnership, but merely "dissociates" the deceased partner from it [Corp. Code § 16601(7)(A)]. The surviving partners have the right to continue the partnership business, but the partnership has an obligation to buy out the deceased partner's interest [Corp. Code § 16701(a)]. The buyout price is the amount that would have been distributable to the deceased partner if, on the date of the deceased partner's death, the assets of the partnership were sold at the greater of their liquidation value or the value of the entire business as a going concern without the deceased partner and the partnership was wound up as of that date [Corp. Code § 16701(b)].

The UPA'94 contemplates that the surviving partners and the deceased partner's personal representative will try to agree on a definite price for the deceased partner's interest [see Corp. Code § 16701(e)]. If they do not do so within 120 days after a written demand for payment, however, the partnership must make a cash payment of the amount it estimates to be the buyout price, plus accrued interest and reduced by any offsets [Corp. Code § 16701(e)]. The payment or tender must be accompanied by a statement of partnership assets and liabilities as of the date of the deceased partner's death, the latest available partnership balance sheet and income statement, an explanation of how the estimated amount of the payment was calculated, and a written notice that the payment is in full satisfaction of the obligation to purchase unless, within 120 days, the deceased partner's personal representative commences an action to determine the buyout price [Corp. Code § 16701(g)]. Any such action must be commenced within the 120 days, or within one year after written demand for payment if no payment or offer to pay is tendered [Corp. Code § 16701(i)]. In the action, the court may determine the buyout price, any offsets that the partnership is entitled to, and accrued interest that the deceased partner's personal representative is entitled to, and enter judgment for any additional payment or refund [Corp. Code § 16701(i)].

However, the UPA'94 makes it clear that the partnership has no obligation to buy out the deceased partner's interest in the partnership if the partnership is dissolved and its business is wound up within 90 days after the deceased partner's death [Corp. Code § 16701.5]. In such an event, the partnership's assets and liabilities will be distributed as in the case of any other windup and dissolution of a partnership business [see Corp. Code § 16801].

For further discussion and forms relating to dissociation, see Ch. 403, Partnerships: Actions by and Against Dissociated Partners .

[5] Court Order Authorizing Representative to Act as Partner

When the partnership was subject to the former UPA [§ 456.18[1]], the probate court could order the personal representative to continue as a general partner in the partnership [see Prob. Code § 9762]. The probate court had discretion in ordering the personal representative to continue as a general partner to specify the terms and conditions of that continuation [Prob. Code § 9762(a)]. If there was a written partnership agreement giving the personal representative the right to participate as a partner, the personal representative would have all of the rights, powers, duties, and obligations provided in it, except as otherwise ordered by the court [Prob. Code § 9762(b)]. If there was no such agreement, the court would specify the personal representative's rights, powers, duties and obligations [Prob. Code § 9762(c)]. For a petition for such an order, see § 456.72.

Under UPA'94 [§ 456.18[1]], the court's authority to make such an order is not clear. The UPA'94 specifically provides that the rights and duties of surviving partners and the legal representatives of deceased partners created by or defined in the Act "shall be given full force and effect notwithstanding any inconsistent provisions of the Probate Code" [Corp. Code § 16109]. But the Act also provides that nothing in the Act "shall otherwise affect any provision of the Probate Code" [Corp. Code § 16109]. The UPA'94 explicitly provides that a person may become a partner only with the consent of all of the partners [Corp. Code § 16401(l)]. A court order permitting the personal representative to act as a partner without the consent of all of the surviving partners would clearly seem to violate the rights of the surviving partners. If the surviving partners consent, there would seem to be no obstacle to such an order. If they do not consent, however, the propriety of such an order would be uncertain.

[6] Continuation of Partnership Business

The death of a general partner does not cause immediate termination of the partnership business. Even if the death caused the dissolution of the partnership under the former UPA [see former Corp. Code § 15031(4) (death causes dissolution unless written agreement provides otherwise); for effective date of former UPA, see also § 456.18[1]], the business may continue until there is a windup of partnership affairs [former Corp. Code § 15030]. Under the Former UPA, the business may be continued by the remaining partners indefinitely, with or without new partners, thus creating a new partnership, which assumes the obligations of the old partnership [see former Corp. Code § 15041(a), (2), repealed eff. Jan. 1, 1999)].

Under the UPA'94 [§ 456.18[1]], the partnership may continue after the death of a partner, subject to its obligation to purchase the interest of the deceased partner [see Corp. Code § 16701 and discussion in § 456.18[4]].

[7] Right to Accounting and Other Actions

If a partnership existed between the decedent and another person at the time of the decedent's death, on the personal representative's application, the court may order any surviving partner to render an account under Corp. Code § § 15510, 15634, or 16807 [Prob. Code § 9761; see also Corp. Code § 15903.04 (providing rights, similar to those specified in Corp. Code §§ 15510 and 15634, for limited partners in partnerships governed by Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008)]. Any such order is enforceable by contempt [Prob. Code § 9761]. The personal representative may commence and maintain any action against a surviving partner that the deceased partner could have commenced or maintained [Prob. Code § 9763(a)].

[8] Liability for Partnership Debts

Under the former UPA [§ 456.18[1]], the individual property of a deceased partner is liable for all obligations of the partnership incurred while the decedent was a partner. However, partnership debts are subordinate to the decedent's nonpartnership debts [former Corp. Code § 15063(4)]. If the partnership is liquidated after a partner's death, the individual property of the deceased partner is liable for contribution to pay partnership liabilities if partnership property is insufficient [former Corp. Code § 15040(d), (g)].

Under the UPA'94 [§ 456.18[1]], a deceased partner's estate is liable for partnership obligations incurred before death, but generally is not liable for those incurred thereafter [Corp. Code § 16703(a), (b)].

Of course, if the personal representative or estate acts as a general partner, the representative or the estate will assume liability for partnership obligations to the same extent as any other general partner.

§ 456.19 Business in Which Decedent Was Limited Partner

[1] In General

Until January 1, 2010, the Uniform Limited Partnership Act (ULPA) [Corp. Code § 15501 et seq. (ULPA)] generally governs limited partnerships formed before July 1, 1984, the operative date of the California Revised Limited Partnership Act (CRLPA) [Corp. Code §§ 15534 (ULPA), 15711 (CRLPA); see Corp. Code § 15611 et seq. (CRLPA); but see Corp. Code § 15712(b)(1) (CRLPA) (limited partnership formed under ULPA could elect to be governed by CRLPA); Corp. Code § 15912.06(a)(2) (ULPA '08) (limited partnership originally formed under ULPA could elect to be governed by ULPA '08)]. Until January 1, 2010, the CRLPA generally governs limited partnerships formed on or after July 1, 1984, and before January 1, 2008, the operative date of the Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008 (ULPA '08) [Corp. Code §§ 15711, 15714, 15724 (CRLPA), 15912.06(a)(1) (ULPA '08); see Corp. Code § 15900 et seq. (ULPA '08); but see Corp. Code § 15912.06(a)(2) (ULPA '08) (limited partnership governed by CRLPA could elect to be governed by ULPA '08)]. Effective January 1, 2010, the ULPA and the CRLPA are repealed [Corp. Code § 15534 (ULPA); Corp. Code § 15724 (CRLPA)], and all limited partnerships, regardless of the date of formation, will be governed by the ULPA '08, except as specified by the ULPA '08 [Corp. Code § 15912.06(b) (ULPA '08); see Corp. Code § 15912.06(c) (ULPA '08) (exceptions)].

The court may authorize a personal representative to take the place of the decedent as a general or limited partner in a limited partnership [Prob. Code § 9762(a); see § 456.18[5]]. However, under the CRLPA, the addition of a new general partner is subject to certain consent requirements of the general and limited partners unless the limited partnership agreement provides to the contrary [Corp. Code §§ 15636, 15641 (CRLPA); see Corp. Code §§ 15901.10, 15904.01(d) (ULPA '08)].

[2] Limited Partnership in Which Decedent Was Limited Partner

The death of a limited partner generally does not cause the dissolution of a limited partnership [see Corp. Code § 15681 (CRLPA); Corp. Code § 15908.01 (ULPA '08)]. However, the personal representative of a limited partner may exercise all the decedent's rights as a limited partner for the purpose of settling the estate or administering the limited partner's property [Prob. Code § 9763(b) (specifically referring to Corp. Code § 15675 (CRLPA)); see also Corp. Code § 15907.04 (ULPA '08)]. The personal representative may apply to the court for an accounting of the partnership business as permitted under the limited partnership provisions of the Corporations Code [Prob. Code § 9761; see Corp. Code §§ 15510, 15634 (CRLPA); see also Corp. Code § 15903.04 (ULPA '08)].

§ 456.20 Abandonment of Tangible Personal Property

Unless tangible personal property has been specifically devised, the personal representative may dispose of it or abandon it if the cost of collecting, maintaining, and safeguarding the property would exceed its fair market value [Prob. Code § 9780]. Prior court authorization is not required unless provided for in the will [Prob. Code § 9781]. However, prior notice must be given to each known heir or devisee whose interest in the estate would be affected by the proposed abandonment, and to each person who has filed a request for special notice. Prior notice also must be given to the Attorney General of California at the Attorney General's office in Sacramento if any portion of the estate is to escheat to the state, and if the state's interest in the estate is affected by the proposed abandonment [Prob. Code § 9782(a)]. Notice may either be personally delivered at least five days prior to the date specified in the notice as the date on which the property will be disposed of or abandoned, or deposited in the mail at least 10 days prior to that date [Prob. Code § 9782(c)]. Prior notice need not be given to a person who consents in writing to the proposed abandonment or who waives the right to notice in writing [Prob. Code § 9785]. For a form for a notice of proposed abandonment of estate property, see § 456.74.

A person who is entitled to prior notice may serve a written objection to the abandonment on the personal representative on or before the date specified in the notice as the date of disposition or abandonment. On receipt of written objection, the personal representative may not dispose of or abandon the property without authorization of the court [Prob. Code § 9783]. For a form for a petition for court authorization to abandon property, see § 456.75.

The objector may also seek an order from the court restraining the personal representative from disposing of or abandoning the property without court authorization [Prob. Code § 9784(a); see § 456.77]. The restraining order must be granted if the court is satisfied that the estate will not suffer any loss or unreasonable expense if the order is granted. As a condition of granting the order, the court may require the objector to pay the costs of storing and protecting the property or to provide security by bond or cash deposit that these costs will be paid [Prob. Code § 9784(b)]. The failure to either serve the personal representative with a written objection or obtain a restraining order waives the right to have the court review the disposition or abandonment [Prob. Code § 9787(a)].

If the personal representative so requests, the objector must take possession of the property within 10 days of the request. The failure to take possession relieves the personal representative of the duty of obtaining court authorization for the abandonment [Prob. Code § 9788(a)]. An objector who takes possession is liable for the safekeeping of the property until a court order is made relieving him or her of the obligation [Prob. Code § 9788(b)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

39-456 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 456.21

§ 456.21 Borrowing Money and Encumbering Property

With court authorization on a showing of advantage to the estate, the personal representative may borrow money to do any of the following: (1) pay the debts of the decedent or the estate, devises, expenses of administration, and charges against the estate; (2) pay, reduce, extend, or renew a security interest, lien, mortgage, or deed of trust already existing on property of the estate; (3) improve, use, operate, or preserve property of the estate. The personal representative may borrow on either a secured or unsecured note. Any security given may be by a security interest or other lien on personal property, or by a mortgage or deed of trust on real property [Prob. Code § 9800].

If the surviving spouse has elected to have his or her share of the community real property administered in the decedent's estate, the personal representative may borrow money to be secured by the real property only with the written consent of the spouse [Prob. Code § 9800(c)]. This consent must be filed with the court [see Prob. Code § 9804(c)]. Similarly, if the interest of the estate is less than the entire fee, the personal representative must join with the owners of the other interests in borrowing money on the security of the property [see Prob. Code § 9801].

A petition for authorization to borrow and encumber may be filed by the personal representative or by any other interested person [Prob. Code § 9802(a); see Prob. Code § 48 ("interested person" defined)]. The petition must state the purpose for which the order is sought and the necessity for or the advantage to accrue from the order. The petition must also show the amount of money proposed to be borrowed, the rate of interest to be paid, the length of time the note is to run, and a general description of the property that is proposed to be encumbered [Prob. Code § 9802(b); see § 456.79].

If satisfied that it is to the advantage of the estate, the court must make an order authorizing or requiring the personal representative to do any one or more of the following [Prob. Code § 9804(a)]:

- Borrow money and execute a note.

- Execute a mortgage or deed of trust or give other security by security interest or lien.

- Pay, reduce, extend, or renew a security interest, lien, mortgage, or deed of trust already existing on property of the estate.

The court in its order may also do any one or more of the following [Prob. Code § 9804(b)]:

- Order that the amount specified in the petition, or a lesser amount, be borrowed.
- Prescribe the maximum rate of interest and the period of the loan.
- Require that the interest and the whole or any part of the principal be paid from time to time out of the estate.
- Require that the property to be encumbered, except unimproved real property, be insured for the further security of the lender, with the premiums to be paid out of the estate.
- Specify the purpose for which the money to be borrowed is to be applied.
- Specify the terms and conditions of any extension or renewal agreement.
- Prescribe other terms and conditions concerning the transaction the court determines to be to the advantage of the estate.

The personal representative must execute and deliver the instrument that creates the security interest in estate property. The instrument must refer to the order authorizing the encumbrance and give the date of the order [Prob. Code § 9805(a)].

An encumbrance of estate property extends to all of the decedent's interest in the property at the time of death and also to any interest acquired by the estate after the decedent's death, and to any interest in the community real property belonging to the decedent's surviving spouse whose written consent has been filed with the court and that is referred to in the court order obtained under Prob. Code §§ 9800-9807 [Prob. Code § 9806(a)]. No omission, error, or irregularity in the proceedings impairs or invalidates the proceedings, the note, or the instrument that creates a security interest in estate property. The holder of the security interest has the same rights and remedies as if it had been made by the decedent prior to his or her death [Prob. Code § 9806(c)].

In general, no deficiency judgment is allowed against the personal representative or the estate if the proceeds of a foreclosure sale of encumbered property are insufficient to discharge the estate's debt on a secured note [Prob. Code § 9807(a)]. However, if the note and encumbrance were executed to pay, reduce, extend, or renew an encumbrance on the property that was in existence at the time of decedent's death and the indebtedness secured is a claim established under Prob. Code §§ 9000-9399 (creditor claims), the part of the indebtedness remaining unsatisfied must be classed with other established claims [Prob. Code § 9804(b); see Ch. 445, Probate: Claims Against the Estate].

§ 456.22 Property in Which Estate Has Security Interest

If it is to the advantage of the estate, the personal representative may accept a deed to real property that secures a debt to the estate instead of foreclosing or conducting a trustee's sale. The deed must convey the property to the heirs or devisees of the decedent, subject to administration [Prob. Code § 9850(a)]. Prob. Code § 9850 does not provide express authority for the acceptance of personal property in lieu of enforcement of a security interest under the California Commercial Code.

Acceptance of the deed by the personal representative must be authorized by the court [Prob. Code § 9850(a)]. The personal representative or any interested person [see Prob. Code § 48 ("interested person" defined)] may file a petition stating the advantage to the estate of accepting the deed [Prob. Code § 9850(b) (notice of hearing on petition to be given as provided in Prob. Code § 1220)]. The advantage must be established by clear and convincing evidence [Prob. Code § 9850(c)]. The court's order may impose any terms and conditions of acceptance as the court deems appropriate [Prob. Code § 9850(a)].

With court authorization, the personal representative may also give a partial satisfaction of a mortgage or cause a partial reconveyance to be executed by a trustee under a deed of trust held by the estate [Prob. Code § 9851(a)]. The personal representative or any interested person may file a petition stating the advantage to the estate of the partial satisfaction or partial reconveyance [Prob. Code § 9851(b) (notice of hearing on petition to be given as provided in Prob. Code § 1220)]. Court authorization is not required if the partial satisfaction or partial reconveyance is executed pursuant to the terms of the mortgage or deed of trust [Prob. Code § 9851(c)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

39-456 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 456.23

§ 456.23 Conveyance or Transfer of Property, Title or Possession to Which Is Disputed

At death, the decedent may have held possession or title to property to which another has a claim or right. The decedent also may have claimed an interest in property, possession or title of which was held by another. In such a case, the personal representative or any interested person [see Prob. Code § 48 ("interested person" defined)] may file a petition requesting the court to compel the person with possession of or title to the property to convey or transfer it to the person entitled to it [Prob. Code § 850(a)(2)]. Such a conveyance or transfer is distinct from a conveyance or transfer in accordance with a sale of estate property made by the personal representative [see Ch. 446, Probate: Sale of Estate Property].

The court may order a conveyance or transfer under any of the following circumstances [Prob. Code § 850(a)(2)]:

- If the decedent, while living, is bound by a written contract to convey real property or to transfer personal property and dies before making the conveyance or transfer, and the decedent could have been compelled to make the conveyance or transfer.

- If the decedent, while living, bound himself or herself or his or her personal representative by written contract to convey or transfer property on or after his or her death to another and the contract is one that can be specifically enforced.

- If the decedent died in possession of or holding title to property, and the property or some interest in it is claimed by another.

- If the decedent died having a claim to property, title or possession of which is held by another.

The relief requested under the fourth circumstance is that the person holding possession or title convey or transfer the property to the personal representative [see Prob. Code § 857 (personal representative or other person may be ordered to convey or transfer)]. For petitions requesting a court order of conveyance or transfer of property, see §§ 456.81 and 456.83. The action may include claims, causes of action, or matters that are normally raised in a civil action to the extent the matters are related factually to the subject matter of the petition [Prob. Code § 855].

If the matter concerns real property, a lis pendens may be filed, in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. §§ 405-405.61 [Prob. Code § 1004]. An interested person may request time for filing a response to the petition, for discovery proceedings, or for other preparation for the hearing. A reasonable continuance must be granted for these purposes [Prob. Code § 852].

At or before the hearing, a person who has or claims title to or an interest in the property at issue may object to the petition on the ground that the petition was filed in a court that is not the proper court under any other provision of law for the trial of a civil action seeking the same relief. If the objection is established, the court may not grant the relief requested in the petition [Prob. Code § 853].

If a civil action has previously been filed with respect to the property for which a petition is filed, and jurisdiction lies in the court in which the civil action is pending, any party to the civil action may request that proceedings on the petition be abated. The court must then abate the probate proceedings until the conclusion of the civil action unless it determines that the civil action was filed for the purpose of delay [Prob. Code § 854]. Even if no civil action was filed, the court sitting in probate may determine that the subject of the petition should be determined in a civil action rather than in a probate proceeding, in which case it may not grant the petition [Prob. Code § 856.5].

In addition, an applicable statute of limitations may be a defense to the petition. Although Prob. Code § 850 does not contain a limitations period, at least one court has applied the Code. Civ. Proc. § 339(1) two-year statute of limitations for oral agreements to Section 850 petitions [see Parker v. Walker (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1173, 1184-1186, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 908 (applying Prob. Code § 1000, which provides that rules of practice applicable to civil actions apply to rules of practice in proceedings under Probate Code)].

If the court is satisfied that a conveyance, transfer, or other order should be made, it must issue its order authorizing and directing the personal representative or other person who has title or possession of the property to execute a conveyance or transfer to the person entitled to the property or granting other appropriate relief [Prob. Code § 856; see §§ 456.82 and 456.84]. The order is prima facie evidence of the correctness of the proceedings and of the authority of the conveyor or transferor to make the conveyance or transfer [Prob. Code § 857(a)]. After entry of the order, the person entitled to the property under the order has the right to title to and possession of the property as if the property had been conveyed or transferred in accordance with the terms of the order. The conveyance or transfer of the personal representative passes title to the property as fully as if the decedent had executed it while living [Prob. Code § 857(b)].

§ 456.24 Dedication or Conveyance of Easement or Access Right

With court authorization, the personal representative may do any of the following, either with or without consideration: (1) dedicate or convey real property of the estate for any purpose to the State of California or any public entity in California or to the United States or any of its agencies or instrumentalities; (2) dedicate or convey an easement over real property of the estate to any person for any purpose; (3) convey, release, or relinquish to the State of California or any public entity in California any access rights to any street, highway, or freeway from any real property in the estate; or (4) consent as a lienholder to any such dedication, conveyance, release, or relinquishment by the owner of the property that is subject to the lien [Prob. Code § 9900].

The personal representative or any interested person [see Prob. Code § 48 ("interested person" defined)] may file a petition for court authorization of a dedication or conveyance of easement or access rights [Prob. Code § 9901(a); see § 456.85]. A showing must be made that the proposed action is to the advantage of the estate and in the best interest of the interested persons [Prob. Code § 9900].

With court authorization, the personal representative may exchange property of the estate for other property. The court may prescribe appropriate terms and conditions of the exchange, including a requirement that the personal representative make or receive a partial cash payment pursuant to the exchange [Prob. Code § 9920].

The personal representative or any interested person [see Prob. Code § 48 ("interested person" defined)] may file a petition for court authorization of the proposed exchange. § 456.26 Lease of Estate Real Property

The personal representative may lease real property of the estate without court authorization from month to month, regardless of the amount of the rental, and for a term not to exceed one year if the monthly rent does not exceed $5,000 [Prob. Code § 9941]. If the lease gives the lessee the right to extend the term of the lease, the length of the term is considered as if the right to extend had been exercised [Prob. Code § 9940(b)].

Any other lease of estate real property requires court authorization on a showing of advantage to the estate [Prob. Code § 9942(a)]. If the proposed lease includes an option to purchase, the petition to authorize the lease is filed under Prob. Code §§ 9940-9948, but the lease must satisfy the requirements for court approval of both leases and options before the transaction may be authorized by the court [Prob. Code § 9942(b)]. For discussion of court authorization of an option to purchase estate real property, see § 456.27.

The personal representative or any interested person [see Prob. Code § 48 ("interested person" defined)] may file a petition for court authorization of the proposed lease. The petition must include a general description of the real property to be leased, state the term, rental, and general conditions of the proposed lease, and show that the proposed lease is to the advantage of the estate [Prob. Code § 9943(a); see § 456.89]. If the proposed lease is for a term in excess of 10 years, the petition must also state facts that show the need for the longer lease, its advantage to the estate, and its benefit to the interested persons [Prob. Code § 9943(b)].

At the hearing on the petition, the court must entertain and consider any other offer made in good faith at the hearing to lease the same property on more favorable terms [Prob. Code § 9945(a)]. However, the court may not order the property to be leased to anyone other than the proposed lessee named in the petition unless the offer made at the hearing is acceptable to the personal representative [Prob. Code § 9945(b)].

The court must authorize the proposed lease if it is satisfied that it will be to the advantage of the estate. If the lease is for a term in excess of 10 years, the court must also find the lease to be to the benefit of interested persons [Prob. Code § 9945(b)].

The court's order must set forth the minimum rent or royalty or both and the term of the lease [Prob. Code § 9946(a)].

The term of the lease may be for such a period as the court may authorize [Prob. Code § 9947(a)]. However, a term in excess of 10 years may not be authorized over the objection of any heir or devisee who has an interest in the property that is to be leased [Prob. Code § 9947(b)]. A term other than for a fixed period may be authorized in the case of a lease for the exploration, production, or removal of natural resources [see Prob. Code § 9947(c)].

Other terms and conditions of the lease may be specified in the order as the court deems appropriate [Prob. Code § 9946(b)]. If the lease covers additional property owned by other persons or an interest of the decedent that is less than the entire ownership in the property, the order may authorize the lease to provide for a division of rental and royalty income in the proportion that the land or interest of each owner bears to the total area of the land or total interest covered by the lease [Prob. Code § 9946(c)].

The personal representative must execute, acknowledge, and deliver the lease as directed by the court's order. The lease must specify that it is made by authority of the court order and state the date of the order [Prob. Code § 9948(a)]. The lease is effective to lease the premises at the rent, for the term, and on the terms and conditions prescribed in the order [Prob. Code § 9948(b)]. The probate jurisdiction of the court vests the court with jurisdiction to make the order for the lease. This jurisdiction conclusively inures to the benefit of the lessee and of the lessee's heirs and assigns [Prob. Code § 9948(c)]. No omission, error, or irregularity in the proceedings impairs or invalidates the lease [Prob. Code § 9948(d)].

§ 456.27 Option to Purchase Real Property

[1] Exercise of Option Given by Testator

If an option to purchase real or personal property of the decedent is given in the will, the person given the option has the right to exercise it at any time within any limits provided in the will. If a time limitation in the will is measured from the death of the testator, that time is extended by the period between the testator's death and the issuance of letters, or by six months, whichever is the shorter period [Prob. Code § 9980(a)]. If the will is silent as to the period in which the option may be exercised, a time limit of one year from the death of the testator is imposed by law [Prob. Code § 9980(b)]. If the estate is closed before the expiration of the period within which the option may be exercised, the property must be distributed subject to the option [Prob. Code § 9980(c)].

Either the personal representative or the person given the option may file a petition for a court order directing the personal representative to transfer or convey the property in accordance with the terms of the will [Prob. Code § 9981]. The court must either determine that the rights of the creditors of the estate will not be impaired by the exercise of the option or require a bond in an amount and with such a surety as the court may direct or approve [Prob. Code § 9982]. No omission, error, or irregularity in the proceedings impairs or invalidates a transfer or conveyance made under an order directing the transfer or conveyance [Prob. Code § 9983].

[2] Grant of Option by Personal Representative

With court authorization, the personal representative may grant an option to purchase real property of the estate for a period within or beyond the period of administration [Prob. Code § 9960]. To obtain court authorization, the personal representative must file a petition that describes the property, states the terms and conditions of the proposed option, and shows that granting the option is to the advantage of the estate [Prob. Code § 9961].

The purchase price of the property on which the option to purchase is proposed to be given must be at least 90 percent of the appraised value of the property. The appraisal on which the value is based must have been made in the manner prescribed by Prob. Code § 10309(c) within one year prior to the hearing on the petition [Prob. Code § 9962].

To authorize the option, the court must find that good reason exists to grant it and that it is to the advantage of the estate [Prob. Code § 9964(a)(1)]. The court must also find that it does not appear that an offer for the property that exceeds the option price by 10 percent on the first $10,000 and 5 percent on the balance may be obtained [Prob. Code § 9964(a)(2); see Prob. Code § 10311]. The court must also be satisfied that it does not appear that an offer to purchase the property on better terms than those of the proposed option may be obtained. An offer is better only if it is materially more advantageous to the estate [Prob. Code § 9964(a)(3)]. A higher offer made either for cash or on the same or different credit terms, or a better offer, may be considered only if the personal representative informs the court that the offer is acceptable before the court makes its order authorizing the option [Prob. Code § 9964(b)].

A recorded but unexercised option granted by the personal representative expires of record if not exercised within the statutory limits applicable to unexercised options in general [Prob. Code § 9965; see Civ. Code §§ 884.010-884.030]. No omission, error, or irregularity in the proceedings impairs or invalidates the option [Prob. Code § 9966].

§ 456.28 Partition

If two or more beneficiaries are entitled to the distribution of undivided interests in estate property and they cannot agree among themselves to a partition, allotment, or other division of the property, any one of them may petition the court, or request the personal representative to petition the court, for partition of the property, or for any other division that will be equitable and avoid the distribution of undivided interests [Prob. Code § 11950(a); see § 456.91]. The petition may be filed at any time before an order for distribution of the affected property becomes final [Prob. Code § 11951(a)]. It may even be filed before the time to make claims has expired [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comments to Prob. Code § 11951]. The proceeding is limited to interests in the property that are subject to administration. The proceeding does not include other interests except to the extent that the owners of other interests consent to be bound by the partition, allotment, or other division [see Prob. Code § 11950(b)].

After an evidentiary hearing [see Prob. Code § 11952], the court must partition, allot, or divide the property so that each party receives property with a value proportionate to the value of his or her interest in the whole. The court may direct the personal representative to sell the property if, under the circumstances, sale would be more equitable than partition and the property cannot conveniently be allotted to any one party. The sale must be conducted in the same manner as other sales made during administration of an estate. Any two or more parties may agree to accept the undivided interests [Prob. Code § 11953; for sales of estate property, see Ch. 446, Probate: Sale of Estate Property].

If requested to do so by any party, the court, in its discretion, may appoint one or three referees to partition the property. The number of referees appointed must conform to the request of at least one of the parties. The referees have the powers and duties of referees in other civil actions for the partition, and the courts have the same powers with respect to the referees' report [Prob. Code § 11954; for discussion of referees' powers, duties, and reports, see Ch. 397, Partition].

The expenses of partition must be equitably apportioned by the court among the parties. The amount charged to each party must be included and specified in the order and, to the extent unpaid, constitutes a lien on the property allotted to the party [Prob. Code § 11955].

The partition, allotment, or other division made by the court controls in any proceedings for distribution, unless modified for good cause and on reasonable notice. The proceedings may be reviewed on appeal from the order for distribution [Prob. Code § 11956].

39-456 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 456.42

§ 456.42 Decisions

[1] Jurisdiction to Determine Right to Property

Probate court lacks jurisdiction to order person in possession, under disputed joint tenancy deed, of property claimed by estate to surrender property to personal representative before claim is adjudicated; petition to compel conveyance and recording of lis pendens as sole procedure to prevent alienation. Maltaman v. State Bar (1987) 43 Cal. 3d 924, 952, 239 Cal. Rptr. 687, 741 P.2d 185 (decided under prior, but substantially similar law)

Beneficiary who claimed co-beneficiaries had stolen funds from trust estate was entitled to conduct discovery relevant to her objections and was not required to file petition under Prob. Code § 850 to establish entitlement to an offset against accused co-beneficiaries' shares of trust estate, because beneficiary did not actually seek order transferring funds to her or to the estate. Mota v. Superior Court (2007) 156 Cal App 4th 351, 67 Cal Rptr. 3d 303

Probate court has jurisdiction to determine rights in proceeds of sale of property, title to which was disputed by estate and other claimant. Estate of Blair (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 161, 165-166, 244 Cal. Rptr. 627 (decided under prior, but substantially similar law)

By implication, probate court has jurisdiction to determine rights of persons who are beneficiaries both of estate and of Totten trust bank account as against claim of cotrustee of account. Estate of Fisher (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 418, 244 Cal. Rptr. 5 (decided under prior, but substantially similar law; question of whether funds could, under any theory, be considered as probate property not considered)

Probate court lacks jurisdiction to determine claim of executor (spouse of decedent) for recovery of his or her own community property interest in property transferred by decedent to another prior to death. Estate of Scott (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 913, 918-920, 243 Cal. Rptr. 93 (decided under prior but substantially similar law)

Probate court has jurisdiction to determine adverse claims to property claimed by estate; complete civil trial required. Dixon v. Superior Court (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 758, 764, 240 Cal. Rptr. 897 (decided under prior, but substantially similar law)

Probate court lacks jurisdiction to determine reasonable value of services rendered by decedent under contingent fee agreement for legal services, which had not been fully performed as of decedent's death, as right to fees does not arise until contract is completed and thus decedent had no claim as of death. Estate of Linnick (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 752, 760-764, 217 Cal. Rptr. 552 (decided under prior, but substantially similar law)

Proceeding by will beneficiary to assert claim to estate property based on source of right independent of will does not constitute will contest that would invoke no-contest clause. Estate of Black (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 582, 590, 206 Cal. Rptr. 663 (decided under prior, but substantially similar law)

Security interest in property is insufficient to constitute interest in property conferring jurisdiction on probate court to determine holder's right to property. Estate of Sayles (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 275, 279-280, 181 Cal. Rptr. 543 (decided under prior, but substantially similar law)

Parties in probate proceeding to determine title to property are entitled to jury trial. Heiser v. Superior Court (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 276, 279-282, 151 Cal. Rptr. 745 (decided under prior, but substantially similar law)

Advantage to trial of disputed title to property in probate proceeding rather than in civil action as conclusiveness of judgment in probate against "whole world" rather than as to parties only. Heiser v. Superior Court (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 276, 278, 151 Cal. Rptr. 745 (decided under prior, but substantially similar law)

[2] Partnership Interest of Decedent

Terms of partnership agreement concerning disposition of interest of deceased partner is enforceable. Estate of Foreman (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 180, 181-192, 74 Cal. Rptr. 699

[Verification. See § 456.60.]

CAUTION:
Petitions in probate matters must be verified [Prob. Code § 1021(a)(1)].

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by the personal representative to request an order authorizing the investment of estate funds in the manner provided for in the decedent's will [see Prob. Code § 9732]. This petition may be filed by the personal representative or by any person who is interested in the estate [Prob. Code § 9732(b)]. For the definition of "interested persons," see § 456.60.

[3] Contents

The petition must show the general condition of the estate (Paragraph 2) and the types of investments that are proposed to be made (Paragraph 6) [Prob. Code § 9732(b)]. The petition also states that (1) the time for filing claims has expired (Paragraph 3); (2) all debts (as defined in Probate Code § 11401) have been paid or are sufficiently secured or there is sufficient cash in the estate, aside from the money to be invested, to pay all debts (Paragraph 4); and (3) the estate is not in a condition to be finally distributed (Paragraph 5) [Prob. Code § 9732(a)].

[4] Notice Requirements

Notice of the hearing must be given by mail at least 15 days before the date of the hearing [Prob. Code § 9732(c); see Prob. Code § 1220]. Notice is specifically required to be served by mail on all known devisees of the property that is proposed to be invested. If the property is devised in trust, notice must be mailed to the trustee or, if the trustee has not yet accepted the trust, to the person named in the will as trustee [Prob. Code § 9732(c)]. For further discussion of the notice requirement and for forms of notice, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements .

[5] Objections

If an interested person objects to the investments, it appears from the language of the statute that the court must uphold the objection and deny authority to make the investments. Even if no objection is filed, the court may still deny the investment unless it finds that there is no substantial reason why the investment powers given by the will should not be exercised [Prob. Code § 9732(d)]. For additional discussion, see § 456.15.

	)	NO. _____
	)	PETITION FOR ORDER AUTHORIZING
Estate of _____ [name],	)	PURCHASE OF ANNUITY
Deceased.	)	[Prob. Code § 9733]

Petitioner alleges:

1. Petitioner, _____ [name], is the duly appointed, qualified, and acting personal representative of the estate of _____ [name], deceased.

2. In Paragraph _____ of his/her will, a copy of which is attached as Exhibit A and made a part hereof, decedent provided for a testamentary gift to _____ [name of beneficiary] in the form of _____ [an annuity or periodic payments]. Under this provision, the beneficiary is to receive the amount of $_____ each _____ [period, e.g., month] for _____ [duration, e.g., the life of the beneficiary].

[EITHER]

3. The decedent did not specify any particular fund or asset out of which the _____ [annuity or periodic payments] should be paid.

[OR]

3. The decedent specified that this gift should be satisfied through _____ [specify, e.g., the purchase of a commercial annuity policy or retention of sufficient funds from the residue of the estate in trust so as to produce sufficient income to make the required payments].

[CONTINUE]

4. Petitioner proposes to purchase a commercial annuity out of _____ [specify source, e.g., the residuary estate] in order to satisfy this testamentary gift. Petitioner proposes to purchase this annuity from _____ [name of insurer], an insurer admitted to do business in California, at a cost of _____ [specify, e.g., a single premium in the amount of $_____]. The annuity would then be sufficient to provide all payments required to be made to _____ [name of beneficiary] under decedent's will. A copy of the proposed annuity policy is attached as Exhibit B and made a part hereof.

5. This estate has sufficient funds to pay all debts, devises, expenses of administration, taxes, and the family allowance and to also pay the required premium to purchase the annuity.

6. Good cause exists for the purchase of this annuity because _____ [specify reason, e.g., the cost of administration of the funds needed to make the payments will be borne by the insurer rather than by the estate. All property of the estate can be distributed and the estate closed].

7. The beneficiary _____ [has or has not] agreed in writing to the purchase of the annuity. [A copy of the consent is attached as Exhibit C and made a part hereof.]

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays for an order authorizing the purchase of this annuity policy, and for all other orders as the court deems proper.

Petitioner

_____ [signature]

Attorney for Petitioner

[Verification. See § 456.60.]

CAUTION:
Petitions in probate matters must be verified [Prob. Code § 1021(a)(1)].

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by the personal representative as a petition to request an order authorizing the purchase of a commercial annuity policy [see Prob. Code § 9733]. The petition may be filed by the personal representative or by any person who is interested in the estate [Prob. Code § 9733(a)]. For the definition of "interested persons," see § 456.60.

[3] Gift of Annuity or Periodic Payments

The purchase of a commercial annuity requires court authorization on a showing of good cause, even if the decedent expressly makes a gift in the form of an annuity in his or her will. Purchase of a commercial annuity may also be authorized to satisfy any testamentary gift in the form of periodic payments [Prob. Code § 9733(a)]. The court may order the purchase pending distribution or at the time it orders final distribution of the estate [Prob. Code § 9733(a)].

A commercial annuity may fulfill the testator's intent that the beneficiary receive a specific minimum income without the necessity of retaining sufficient funds in the estate to produce the income. Therefore, such an annuity may allow for final distribution of the estate, when it might otherwise be necessary to continue administration until the gift had been satisfied in full, perhaps until the death of the beneficiary.

Under prior law [see former Prob. Code § 584], a commercial annuity could only be purchased to fulfill a testamentary gift of an annuity [see Prob. Code § 21117(e)]. Under this limited statutory language, it was held that a commercial annuity could not be purchased to satisfy a testamentary gift of periodic payments from a trust, at least without the consent of the beneficiary to the termination of the trust [see Estate of Feuereisen (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 717, 722-723, 95 Cal. Rptr. 165] . The current statute allows for a commercial annuity to satisfy any direction in the will for periodic payments without limitation as to the specified form in which the payments are to be made [Prob. Code § 9733(a)]. This language may be broad enough to encompass periodic payments of trust income, although other issues may remain if the trust has other purposes apart from the production of periodic income. It does not appear from the statute that the consent of the specific beneficiary of the payments or of any other person interested in the estate is required, if good cause otherwise exists for the purchase.

[4] Notice Requirements

Notice of the hearing must be given by mail at least 15 days before the date of the hearing [Prob. Code § 9733(b); see Prob. Code § 1220]. For further discussion of the notice requirement and for forms of notice, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements .

Petitioner alleges:

1. Petitioner, _____ [name], is the duly appointed, qualified, and acting personal representative of the estate of _____ [name], deceased.

2. At the time of death, decedent was the proprietor of a certain business commonly known as _____ [name of business] at _____ [street address], in _____ [city], _____ County, California. This business has not been incorporated and is not the subject of any partnership agreement, written or otherwise, between decedent and any other person.

[3. Decedent's testamentary disposition of this business is as follows: _____ (specify, e.g., the business, including all its property, assets, and good will, has been devised to decedent's daughter, Sara Smith).]

4. Since decedent's death, _____ [specify current status of business operation, e.g., petitioner has continued the operation of decedent's business without cessation or interruption under the daily management of decedent's daughter, Sara Smith].

5. Since decedent's death, the business _____ [describe generally the financial status of the business, e.g., has been a profitable asset of this estate. It regularly produces income that is more than sufficient to pay all debts and obligations incurred in the ordinary course of business operation].

6. It is to the advantage of this estate and in the best interest of persons interested in this estate that Petitioner, in a representative capacity, continue operation of the business during administration of the estate because _____ [state reason, e.g., business profits earned during the period of administration will inure to the benefit of this estate and its interested persons].

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays for an order authorizing him/her, as personal representative, to continue operation of decedent's business, and for such other orders as the court deems proper.

Petitioner

_____ [signature]

Attorney for Petitioner

[Verification. See § 456.60.]

CAUTION:
Petitions in probate matters must be verified [Prob. Code § 1021(a)(1)].

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by the personal representative as a petition to request an order authorizing the continued operation of decedent's sole proprietorship business during the period of estate administration [see Prob. Code § 9760]. The petition may be filed by the personal representative or by any person who is interested in the estate [Prob. Code § 9760(c)]. For the definition of "interested persons," see § 456.60. For a form for a petition that may be filed by an interested person to prohibit the personal representative from continuing decedent's business, see § 456.70. For a form for a petition empowering the personal representative to assume the decedent's position as a general partner in a business operated in partnership form, see § 456.72.

[3] Disposition of Sole Proprietorship

The proper disposition of a business of decedent operated in proprietorship form depends primarily on the profitability of the business and secondarily on the eventual disposition of the business and the likely period of estate administration. If the personal representative is properly operating the business, the assets of the estate are liable for the obligations of the business incurred during the period of estate ad ministration [Bartlett v. Superior Court (1958) 163 Cal. App. 2d 181, 183, 328 P.2d 840 ; see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 9760]. Therefore, the continued operation of an unprofitable business may subject the estate to significant liability. On the other hand, if the business has been specifically devised, liquidation may deprive the devisee of his or her primary means of support.

The personal representative may continue operation of the business for up to six months from the date of issuance of letters with or without court authorization [Prob. Code § 9760(b)]. Within this period, it may be possible to distribute the business to its devisee at minimum risk to the estate. If the business is operated without court authorization for this period, presumably the personal representative is not personally liable for business debts.

Operation for any lengthier period requires court authorization on a showing of advantage to the estate and the benefit to the interested persons [Prob. Code § 9760(c)].

[4] Notice Requirements

Notice of the hearing must be given by mail at least 15 days before the date of the hearing [Prob. Code § 9760(c); see Prob. Code § 1220]. It is advisable to give notice to creditors of the business, although this is not required unless they have requested special notice in the estate proceeding pursuant to Prob. Code § 1250 [Prob. Code § 1220(a)(2)(B)]. For further discussion of the notice requirement and for forms of notice, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements .

[2] Use of Form

This form is a petition by the personal representative to request an order authorizing the personal representative to continue as a general or limited partner in a partnership in which the decedent was a general partner at the time of death [see Prob. Code § 9672]. This petition may be filed by the personal representative or by any person who is interested in the estate [Prob. Code § 9762(d)]. For the definition of "interested persons," see § 456.60. For forms of petitions involving decedent's proprietorship business, see §§ 456.68 and 456.70.

This form may be used for either a general or limited partnership in which the decedent was a general partner. It may not be used if the decedent was a limited partner [see Prob. Code § 9762(a)]. If the personal representative is to become a limited partner in the decedent's general partnership, the partnership is changed in form to a limited partnership. In that case, compliance with the Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008 (ULPA '08) [Corp. Code § 15900 et seq.] is required [see Corp. Code § 15912.06(a) (ULPA '08) (ULPA '08 governs limited partnerships formed on or after January 1, 2008); see also Ch. 400, Partnerships: Governing Statutes ; Ch. 404, Partnerships: Actions Between Limited Partners and Partnerships (discussing reorganizations in which surviving entity is limited partnership)].

[3] Partnership Business

Until January 1, 1999, partnerships formed before January 1, 1997, generally were governed by the former version of the Uniform Partnership Act (former UPA) [former Corp. Code § 15001 et. seq., repealed effective January 1, 1999] unless they elected to be governed by the Uniform Partnership Act of 1994 (UPA'94) [Corp. Code § 16100 et seq.]. [Corp. Code § 16111(a)]. On and after January 1, 1999, all partnerships are governed by the UPA'94, regardless of when they were formed [Corp. Code § 16111(b)]. For more detailed discussion of these two laws, see § 456.18[1] et seq.

Under the former UPA, the probate court could order the personal representative to continue as a general partner in the partnership [see Prob. Code § 9762]. The probate court had discretion in ordering the personal representative to continue as a general partner to specify the terms and conditions of that continuation [Prob. Code § 9762(a)]. If there was a written partnership agreement giving the personal representative the right to participate as a partner, the personal representative would have all of the rights, powers, duties, and obligations provided in it, except as otherwise ordered by the court [Prob. Code § 9762(b)]. If there was no such agreement, the court could specify the personal representative's rights, powers, duties and obligations [Prob. Code § 9762(c)].

Under the UPA'94, it is not clear if the court has authority to make this type of order. The UPA'94 explicitly provides that a person may become a partner only with the consent of all of the partners [Corp. Code § 16401(i)]. It further provides that the provisions of the Act "shall be given full force and effect notwithstanding any inconsistent provisions of the Probate Code" [Corp. Code § 16109]. If the surviving partners consent to the personal representative becoming a partner, there would seem to be no obstacle to such an order. If they do not consent, however, it is uncertain whether the court could make such an order. For further discussion, see § 456.18[5].

[4] Notice Requirements

Notice of the hearing must be given by mail at least 15 days before the date of the hearing [Prob. Code § 9762(d); see Prob. Code § 1220]. This notice must be given to each surviving general partner at his or her last known address, in addition to those otherwise entitled to notice [Prob. Code § 9762(d)]. For further discussion of the notice requirement and forms for giving notice, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements .

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by a person who objects to a proposed abandonment of tangible personal property of the estate to apply for an order restraining the personal representative from proceeding with the abandonment [Prob. Code § 9784].

[3] Order Restraining Abandonment

A person who is entitled to notice of a proposed abandonment of tangible personal property of the estate may apply for an order restraining the abandonment until the matter may be determined by the court [Prob. Code § 9784(a); see Prob. Code § 9782 (persons entitled to notice)]. However, a restraining order is not required. The objector need only serve the personal representative with written objection in order to stop the proposed abandonment pending court review [see Prob. Code § 9783].

The restraining order may be granted without requiring notice to the personal representative and without cause being shown if the court is satisfied that the estate will not suffer any loss or unreasonable expense if the order is granted [Prob. Code § 9784(b)]. As a condition of the order, the court may require the applicant to pay the costs of storing and protecting the property or to provide security by bond or cash deposit that these costs will be paid [Prob. Code § 9784(b)].

[4] Alleging Special Notice

Local court rules may require that any petition for an ex parte order either allege that no special notice has been requested or list the parties who have waived their request for special notice (Paragraph 4) [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 10.38; San Francisco Uniform Local Ct. Rules, Rule 14.20].

[5] Verification

Although the application for an order restraining abandonment is not expressly referred to in the statute as an ex parte matter, there is no reference to a "petition," and the order may be granted without notice to the personal representative [see Prob. Code § 9784(b)]. Such an application is not among the filings that must be verified [Prob. Code § 1021(a) (petitions must be verified)]. Nevertheless, local court rules and procedure should be consulted before verification is omitted.

[6] Alternative Procedure; Written Objection

Rather than seeking a restraining order, a person objecting to the disposal or abandonment of property may merely deliver or mail a written objection to the personal representative [Prob. Code § 9783]. This will require the personal representative either (1) to petition the court under Prob. Code § 9611 for authorization to dispose of or abandon the property [Prob. Code § 9783], or (2) to tender the property to the objector for safekeeping until the court relieves the objector of that obligation [see Prob. Code § 9788].

Written objection to the proposed abandonment may be served on the personal representative by mail. However, for it to be effective, it appears that it must be actually received before the date of the proposed abandonment [Prob. Code §§ 9783, 9784(c)]. Thus, because only five days notice of the proposed abandonment need be given by the personal representative (10 days if by mail), personal service of objections is virtually required [see Prob. Code § 9782(c)]. Otherwise, the date on which the abandonment is to be carried out may well occur before objection served by mail is received.

Order restraining proposed abandonment of tangible personal property. Prob. Code § 9784

Person obtaining restraining order as entitled to notice of hearing on petition to authorize abandonment of tangible personal property. Prob. Code § 9786

Objection as waived if objector neither serves written objection nor obtains restraining order to abandonment of tangible personal property. Prob. Code § 9787

Tender of possession to person who obtains restraining order pending resolution of proposed abandonment of tangible personal property. Prob. Code § 9788]

§ 456.78 Order Restraining Personal Representative From Abandoning Tangible Personal Property [Prob. Code § 9784]

[1] FORM Order Restraining Personal Representative From Abandoning Tangible Personal Property [Prob. Code § 9784]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,

	)	NO. _____
Estate of _____ [name],	)	ORDER RESTRAINING ABANDONMENT OF Deceased.	)	TANGIBLE PERSONAL PROPERTY
	)	[Prob. Code § 9784]

On _____ [date], applicant, _____ [name and status as interested person, e.g., John Jones, a residuary beneficiary of this estate] appeared ex parte and submitted his/her application for an order restraining the personal representative from abandoning certain tangible personal property of this estate.

The Court finds from proof made to the satisfaction of the Court:

1. _____ [No persons have requested special notice in this matter or All persons who have requested special notice in this matter have _____ (received or waived) notice.]

2. _____ [name], as personal representative, holds the following property of this estate: _____ [describe, e.g., a 1974 Datsun 1200 automobile, vehicle registration number _____].

3. The personal representative has proposed that this property be disposed of by _____ [specify manner of abandonment, e.g., surrendering it to an auto wrecking company for salvage value only].

4. Written notice of this proposed disposition was given as required by law.

5. Applicant objects to the proposed disposition of the property.

6. The estate will not suffer any loss or unreasonable expense if the proposed disposition is restrained pending further proceedings before this Court because _____ [the cost of safeguarding the property pending hearing is minimal or applicant has agreed to assume the cost of storing and protecting the property pending hearing or applicant has provided adequate security by _____ (bond or cash deposit) to ensure payment of the cost of storing and protecting the property pending hearing].

WHEREFORE, IT IS ORDERED as follows:

1. The personal representative shall not dispose of this property in the manner as set forth in the notice of proposed abandonment until authorized to do so by further order of this court.

[2. Applicant shall _____ (immediately forward the sum of $_____ to the personal representative or provide security by _____ (bond or cash deposit) in the amount of $_____) for the cost of storing and protecting the property pending further proceedings in this court.]

[3. Service of this order shall be made on the personal representative by _____ (specify).]
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]

Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use as a court order to restrain the personal representative from disposing of tangible personal property of the estate without court authorization [Prob. Code § 9784]. The issuance of this restraining order does not resolve the issue of the final disposition of the property. Rather, the proposed disposition is merely restrained until a hearing may be conducted to resolve the matter [see Prob. Code § 9786].

[3] Service of Order

The personal representative is deemed to have notice of the restraining order if it is served in the manner provided for personal service of summons in a civil action before the date specified in the notice as the date on or after which the property will be abandoned [Prob. Code § 9784(c); see Code Civ. Proc. § 415.10]. The manner of service may also be specified in the order [Prob. Code § 9784(c)].

The personal representative is also deemed to have notice if the restraining order is served by mail before the date of abandonment in the manner provided for service of summons by mail with acknowledgment of receipt [Prob. Code § 9784(c); see Code Civ. Proc. § 415.30]. However, the time frame within which the objector must act is very short because the personal representative need give only five days' notice of the date on which the property is to be abandoned (10 days if notice is by mail) [Prob. Code § 9782(c)]. If service of the order is made by mail, it may not be received until after the date of abandonment has passed. Thus, immediate personal service of the restraining order would seem to be essential.

2. _____ [Name], as personal representative of this estate, holds _____ [title or possession or title and possession] to certain _____ [real or personal] property more particularly described as follows: _____ [describe sufficiently to distinguish property from all other property of similar nature in estate].

[Verification. See § 456.60.]

CAUTION:
Petitions in probate matters must be verified [Prob. Code § 1021(a)(1)].

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by a person who has a claim to particular property of the estate to petition for court determination of the claim [see Prob. Code § 850]. For further discussion, see § 456.23.

This petition may be filed by any "interested person" [Prob. Code § 850(a)(2)]. Interested persons include any person who has a property right in the estate of a decedent [Prob. Code § 48(a)(1)].

This petition may also be filed by the personal representative. If the claim is undisputed, it does not appear that court authorization to convey or transfer the property is required, as the statutory language is permissive rather than mandatory [see Prob. Code § 850(a)(2)]. However, the personal representative might wish to seek a judicial determination of title as protection against a subsequent challenge to the appropriateness of the transfer. In the case of real property, a court order that can be recorded may be necessary in order to obtain title insurance.

[3] Civil Action as Alternative

A claimant to estate property is not required to pursue the claim solely in probate jurisdiction. Alternatively, the claimant may file an action for specific performance of a contract or to quiet title to real property, or for specific recovery of personal property [see Prob. Code § 854; see also Ch. 119, Claim and Delivery ; Ch. 482, Quieting Title ; Ch. 528, Specific Performance]. However, proceeding in probate has the advantage that any judgment or order is conclusive as against all persons, whereas a judgment in a civil action is binding only on the parties [see Heiser v. Superior Court (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 276, 278, 151 Cal. Rptr. 745] .

[4] Enforceability of Contract

In the case of a contract to convey realty or transfer personal property, there must be a showing that the decedent, if living, could have been compelled to make the conveyance or transfer (Paragraph 4, first alternative) [Prob. Code § 850(a)(2)(A)]. In the case of a contract to convey or transfer property on or after death, there must be a showing that the contract is one that can be specifically enforced (Paragraph 4, second alternative) [Prob. Code § 850(a)(2)(B)]. Therefore, enough facts must be alleged regarding the contract to show that it is enforceable. For essential allegations, see Ch. 140, Contracts , and Ch. 528, Specific Performance .

[5] Notice Requirements

At least 30 days before the hearing, the petitioner must cause notice of the hearing and a copy of the petition to be served on the personal representative and each person who claims an interest in, or has title to or possession of, the property [Prob. Code § 851(a)]. This must be served in the manner required for service of summons in civil cases [Prob. Code § 851(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 413.10 et seq. (service of summons); for discussion and forms, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

In addition, at least 15 days before the hearing, notice of the hearing and a copy of the petition must be given to any persons who have requested special notice in the estate proceeding pursuant to Prob. Code § 1254 and to all known heirs and devisees whose interests in the estate would be affected by the proposed purchase [Prob. Code § 851(b); see Prob. Code § 1220(a)(1), (2)]. However, this notice need not be given any persons who have received notice at least 30 days before the hearing as specified above [Prob. Code § 851(b)]. If any person entitled to notice is represented by an attorney of record, the notice must also be given to that attorney [Prob. Code § 1214]. The court is not authorized to shorten these notice periods [Prob. Code § 851(c)]. For further discussion of the notice requirement and for forms of notice, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements .

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use as a court order to direct the personal representative to convey or transfer property being administered in the estate to a claimant whose right to the property has been established and to deliver the property to the claimant [see Prob. Code § 856]. Some care must be taken in the wording of the order depending on the nature of the claimant's interest in the property. Attention must be paid as to whether the claim entitles the claimant to both title and possession, or to title only (if, for example, the property is subject to a valid lease) or to possession only (if, for example, the claimant claims only a leasehold interest). The order should reflect only the rights that the interest claimed bestows on the claimant.

[3] Objection Based on Venue

The matter may not proceed in probate court if venue in the county in which the court is located would not be proper for the trial of a civil action seeking the same relief (Paragraph 2) [Prob. Code § 853].

If a civil action is pending with respect to the subject matter of the petition and jurisdiction has been obtained in that court prior to the filing of the petition, the probate court must abate the petition until the conclusion of the civil action. However, abatement is not required if the court determines that the civil action was filed for the purpose of delay [Prob. Code § 854]. If the court determines that the matter should be determined by a civil action, it may not grant the order of conveyance or transfer [Prob. Code § 854].

Effect of order and execution and effect of conveyance or transfer. Prob. Code § 857

Notwithstanding Prob. Code § 8482(a), if the bond is given by an admitted surety insurer, the court may establish a fixed minimum amount for the bond, based on the minimum premium required by the admitted surety insurer [Prob. Code § 8482(b)]. If the bond is given by personal sureties, the amount of the bond must be twice the amount fixed by the court under Prob. Code § 8482(a) [see Prob. Code § 8482(c)]. If the exchange involves the receipt of income-producing property by the estate, bond may become insufficient. Therefore, this form contains an optional provision that sets forth the effect of the transaction on bond requirements (Paragraphs 8).

[Verification. See Form No. 560.]

CAUTION:
Petitions in probate matters must be verified [Prob. Code § 1021(a)(1)].

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by the personal representative to petition for an order authorizing a lease of estate real property [see Prob. Code § 9943]. Court authorization is not required in the case of a month-to-month tenancy or if the term does not exceed one year and the monthly rent does not exceed $5,000 [Prob. Code § 9941].

The petition may be filed by the personal representative or by any person who is interested in the estate [Prob. Code §

9943(a)]. For the definition of "interested persons," see § 456.60. For further discussion, see § 456.26.

[3] Contents

A petition for authorization of a lease of estate real property must contain all of the following [Prob. Code § 9943(a)]:

- A general description of the real property proposed to be leased (Paragraph 2).
- The term, rental, and general conditions of the proposed lease (Paragraph 3).
- A showing that the proposed lease is to the advantage of the estate (Paragraph 4).

If the term of the proposed lease exceeds 10 years, the petition must also state facts showing the need for the longer lease, its advantage to the estate, and its benefit to the interested persons (Paragraph 5) [Prob. Code § 9943(b)].

[4] Notice Requirements

Notice of the hearing must be given by mail at least 15 days before the date of the hearing and also posted at least 15 days before the hearing [Prob. Code§ 9944(a); see Prob. Code §§ 1220, 1230]. Notice must also be published unless the will authorizes or directs the personal representative to lease the property [Prob. Code § 9944(b); see Prob. Code § 10300]. If the lease term is longer than 10 years, notice by mail must be given to each known heir or devisee whose interest in the estate would be affected by the proposed lease [Prob. Code § 9944(c)]. For further discussion of the notice requirement and for forms of notice, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements .

[5] Bond

The court has discretion to fix the amount of the bond. However, the amount of the bond cannot be more than the sum of the following [see Prob. Code § 8482(a)]:

- The estimated value of the personal property.
- The probable annual gross income of the estate.
- The estimated net proceeds of the real property authorized to be sold under the Independent Administration of Estates Act (Prob. Code § 10400 et seq.), if independent administration is granted as to real property.

Notwithstanding Prob. Code § 8482(a), if the bond is given by an admitted surety insurer, the court may establish a fixed minimum amount for the bond, based on the minimum premium required by the admitted surety insurer [Prob. Code § 8482(b)]. If the bond is given by personal sureties, the amount of the bond must be twice the amount fixed by the court under Prob. Code § 8482(a) [see Prob. Code § 8482(c)]. Because a lease of real property increases the annual gross income of the estate, bond may become insufficient. Therefore, this form contains an optional provision that sets forth the effect of the lease on bond requirements (Paragraph 6).

PART I. SCOPE

39-457 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 457.01

§ 457.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses the procedure by which the personal representative obtains from the court instructions to act, or confirmation of actions already taken, on matters concerning the estate when no other procedure for these actions is provided by statute. It also discusses the procedure by which an interested person may petition the court for an order directing the personal representative to act or not to act concerning the estate. The chapter contains forms of petition for instructions [see § 457.90], objections to the petition [see § 457.91], and an order instructing the personal representative [see § 457.92]. It also contains forms of petition for directions [see § 457.93] and an order directing the personal representative [see § 457.94].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

39-457 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 457.10

§ 457.10 Governing Law

[1] On or After July 1, 1988

Prob. Code § 9611 governs the procedure by which the personal representative petitions the court for instructions. Prob. Code § 9613 governs the procedure by which an interested person petitions the court for an order directing the personal representative to act or not to act concerning the estate. Prob. Code § 7250 governs the effect of any probate order concerning the administration of the decedent's estate, including orders under Prob. Code §§ 9611 and 9613.

Additionally, there are a wide variety of local court rules governing probate practice. To insure complete compliance, the attorney should consult the applicable rules.

[2] Before July 1, 1988

Subject to exceptions discussed below, any petition or other matter filed or commenced before July 1, 1988, will be continued under the estate management statutes (Prob. Code §§ 9600-10382), as far as applicable, except when the court determines that application of a particular provision of the estate management statutes would substantially interfere with the rights of the parties or other interested persons. If the rights of these parties or persons would be substantially interfered with, then the particular provision does not apply; rather, the applicable law in effect before July 1, 1988, applies [see Prob. Code § 9645(a)].

Nothing in the estate management statutes affects any order, judgment, or decree made, or any action taken, before July 1, 1988 [see Prob. Code § 9645(b)]. Additionally, an order, judgment, or decree made before July 1, 1988, continues in full force and effect in accordance with its term or until modified or terminated by the court [see Prob. Code § 9645(c)(1)]. The validity of an order, judgment, or decree made or action taken before July 1, 1988, is determined by the applicable law in effect before July 1, 1988, and not by the estate management statutes [see Prob. Code § 9645(c)(2),(3)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

39-457 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 457.11

§ 457.11 Petition for Instructions or Confirmation

[1] In General

In all cases in which no other procedure is provided by statute, on petition of the personal representative, the court may authorize and instruct the personal representative, or approve and confirm the acts of the personal representative, in the administration, management, investment, disposition, care, protection, operation, or preservation of the estate, or the incurring or payment of costs, fees, orexpenses in connection therewith [see Prob. Code § 9611(a)]. The court may not only instruct the personal representative in advance, but it may also confirm actions already taken [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 9611]. For a petition, see § 457.90. For an order, see § 457.92.

There is no limit on the number of times instructions or confirmations can be requested [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 9611]. Additionally, Prob. Code § 9613, which permits an interested person to petition the court to direct the personal representative to act or not to act concerning the estate, does not preclude a petition for instructions [Prob. Code § 9611; see § 457.12)].

[2] By Personal Representative

Only the personal representative may petition for instructions concerning the estate [see Prob. Code § 9611(a); Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 9611]. No other person interested in the estate may do so [Estate of Webb (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 172, 174, 74 Cal. Rptr. 710 (decided under former Prob. Code § 588; now see Prob. Code § 9611)].

[3] No Other Procedure Available

Prob. Code § 9611 permits a petition for authorization and instruction to act on approval and confirmation of past action only when no other procedure is provided by statute [see Prob. Code § 9611(a)]. If some other procedure is provided by statute but the personal representative is uncertain whether the statute providing the other procedure is applicable to the particular case, the personal representative may petition in the alternative, giving notice that is sufficient to satisfy the requirements both of Prob. Code § 9611 and the other possibly applicable statute [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 9611].

An example of an appropriate subject for a petition under Prob. Code § 9611 would be a petition for instructions to obtain court authorization to incorporate the decedent's unincorporated business; there is no specific statutory provision governing that matter [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 9611; cf. Prob. Code § 10512 (power to incorporate is available when personal representative has been granted independent administration authority under Prob. Code § 10400 et seq.)].

[4] Determination of Title to Property

There is no express statutory procedure for determining an issue of title as between the personal representative and the estate [Estate of Howe (1948) 31 Cal. 2d 395, 397, 189 P.2d 5 (decided under former Prob. Code § 588; now see Prob. Code § 9611)]. If the personal representative petitions the court to be instructed pursuant to Prob. Code § 9611 on whether to include the property in the inventory, the probate court acquires jurisdiction to determine title as between the personal representative and the estate [Estate of Howe (1948) 31 Cal. 2d 395, 397, 189 P.2d 5 ; Estate of Putnam (1959) 175 Cal. App. 2d 781, 783, 346 P.2d 841 (decided under former Prob. Code § 588; now see Prob. Code § 9611)].

There is a statutory procedure for determining an issue of title as between the estate and third parties [see Prob. Code § 850; see discussion and forms in Ch. 456, Probate: Management of Estate Assets]. Therefore, a petition for instructions pursuant to Prob. Code § 9611 is not available to resolve title disputes with third parties [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 10.72(a)].

[5] Notice of Hearing on Petition for Instructions

Notice of the hearing on the petition must be given as provided in Prob. Code § 1220 [Prob. Code § 9611(b)]. When the petition is filed with the clerk of the court, the clerk sets the matter for hearing [Prob. Code § 1041]. Prob. Code § 1220 notice must be given at least 15 days before the time set for the hearing [Prob. Code § 1220(a)(1)]. The notice must be given to all persons who have requested special notice in the estate proceeding pursuant to Prob. Code § 1250 [Prob. Code § 1220(a)(2)(B), 1252(a)]. If any person entitled to notice is represented by an attorney of record, the notice must also be given to that attorney [Prob. Code § 1214]. The personal representative need not give notice to himself or herself [see Prob. Code § 1201]. The contents of the notice are set forth in Prob. Code § 1211 [see Prob. Code § 1211].

It appears that any person who receives notice of the hearing may file and serve written objections to the petition [see § 457.91].

For further discussion and forms for notice, including special notice, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements .

[6] Exercise of Court's Discretion to Instruct

The language of Prob. Code § 9611 indicates that the exercise of the court's power to instruct is permissive and not mandatory. It has always been so interpreted. The action of the probate court with respect to a petition for instructions will be upheld in the absence of an abuse of discretion [Estate of Denton (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 1070, 1074-1075, 95 Cal. Rptr. 347 (decided under former Prob. Code § 588; now see Prob. Code § 9611)].

Volume 39: Probate: Claims Against the Estate thru Probate: Discharge-Chs. 454-459
Chapter 457 PROBATE: INSTRUCTIONS TO PERSONAL REPRESENTATIVE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

39-457 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 457.12

§ 457.12 Petition for Directions

[1] In General

On petition of any interested person, and on a showing that the estate will suffer great or irreparable injury if the petition is not granted, the court may direct thepersonal representative to act or not to act concerning the estate. The order may include such terms and conditions as the court determines to be appropriate under the circumstances [Prob. Code § 9613(a)]. The existence of a remedy under Prob. Code § 9613 does not limit the right of a personal representative to petition for instructions under Prob. Code § 9611 [see Prob. Code § 9611(a); Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comments to Prob. Code § 9613].

The showing of irreparable injury is analogous to the irreparable injury that must be shown for injunctive relief under, for example, Code Civ. Proc. § 526(a)(2) (waste or great or irreparable injury threatened to party in action) [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 9613].

For a form of petition by an interested person for directions to the personal representative, see § 457.93. For a form of order directing the personal representative to act or not act, see § 457.94.

[2] By Interested Person

Any interested person may petition for directions to the personal representative [see Prob. Code § 9613(a)]. "Interested person" includes any of the following [Prob. Code § 48(a)]:

- An heir, devisee, child, spouse, creditor, beneficiary, and any other person having a property right in or claim against a trust estate or the estate of a decedent which may be affected by the proceeding.
- Any person having priority for appointment as personal representative.
- A fiduciary representing an interested person.

Despite the foregoing definition, the meaning of "interested person" as it relates to particular persons may vary from time to time and is determined according to the particular purposes of, and matter involved in any proceeding [Prob. Code § 48(b)].

[3] Notice of Hearing on Petition for Directions

Notice of the hearing on the petition must be given as provided in Prob. Code § 1220 [Prob. Code § 9613(b)]. When the petition is filed with the clerk of the court, the clerk sets the matter for hearing [Prob. Code § 1041]. Prob. Code § 1220 notice must be given at least 15 days before the time set for the hearing [Prob. Code § 1220(a)(1)]. The notice must be given to any nonpetitioning personal representative and to all persons who have requested special notice in the estate proceeding pursuant to Prob. Code § 1250 [Prob. Code § 1220(a)(2)(B), 1252(a)]. If any person entitled to notice is represented by an attorney of record, the notice must also be given to that attorney [Prob. Code § 1214]. The petitioner need not give notice to himself or herself, or to any other person who joins in the petition [see Prob. Code § 1201].

For further discussion and forms for notice, including special notice, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements .

§ 457.13 Effect of Order on Petition

When an order made in response to a petition under Prob. Code § 9611 or 9613 becomes final, it releases the personal representative and the sureties from all claims of the heirs or devisees and of any persons affected thereby based on any act or omission directly authorized, approved, or confirmed in the order [see Prob. Code § 7250(a)]. However, the order will not effect a release if it was obtained by fraud or conspiracy, or by any misrepresentation in the petition of a material fact [Prob. Code § 7250(c)]. The omission of a material fact qualifies as a misrepresentation for this purpose [Prob. Code § 7250(c)].

	)	NO. _____
	)	OBJECTIONS TO PETITION FOR
Estate of _____ [name],	)	_____
Deceased.	)	[INSTRUCTIONS and/or CONFIRMATION]

Objector, _____ [name], objects to the petition of _____ [name], personal representative of the estate of _____ [name], deceased, for _____ [instructions and/or confirmation of actions] on the following grounds:

1. Objector is a person interested in the estate in that he/she is a _____ [describe status as interested person, e.g., devisee under decedent's will].

2. The petition seeks an order _____ [authorizing and instructing petitioner as to _____ (describe authorization and instructions sought) and/or approving and confirming the following act(s) by petitioner: _____ (describe act(s) taken by personal representative)]. The petition therefore seeks a determination of the issue of _____ [describe issue, e.g., entitlement to distribution of estate of the deceased].

3. An express procedure is provided by statute for the determination of this issue _____ [specify procedure, e.g., either through a petition for determination of entitlement to distribution under Probate Code Sections 11700-11705, or through a petition for distribution under Probate Code Sections 11600-11642].

4. Probate Code Section 9611 provides for _____ [authorizing and instructing and/or approving and confirming the acts of] a personal representative only when no other procedure is provided by statute. Inasmuch as other express procedures are provided, the _____ [instruction and/or confirmation] procedure is not available to petitioner.

WHEREFORE, objector prays that the petition for _____ [instructions and/or confirmation] be denied.

_____ [signature]
Objector

_____ [signature]
Attorney for Objector

[Verification. See § 457.90.]

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by any interested person to place his or her objections to the personal representative's petition for instructions or confirmation of acts before the court. The objections must be verified by the objector [see Prob. Code § 1021(a)(2)]. The verification in § 457.90 must be adapted for use by an objector instead of a petitioner.

[3] Authority for Form

Prob. Code § 9611 does not prescribe any procedure or paper for opposing a petition for instructions or confirmation. In the absence of a statutory provision prescribing the form, it is customary in probate proceedings to state opposition to a petition in the form of "objections" [see Estate of Howe (1948) 31 Cal. 2d 395, 396, 189 P.2d 5 (objections presented as general demurrer to petition, which is inappropriate form; Supreme Court referred throughout its opinion to "objections"); Estate of Winder (1950) 99 Cal. App. 2d 83, 84, 221 P.2d 193 (objections were designated as such)].

[4] Notice of Filing Objections

There is no direct statutory authority requiring notice of the filing of objections. However, because the hearing on the petition to which the objections are raised must be noticed [see Prob. Code § 9611(b)], counsel for the objector would be well-advised to give notice of the filing of the objections.

If a notice or other paper is required to be served or otherwise given and no other manner of giving the notice or other paper is specified by statute, the notice or other paper must be mailed or personally delivered as provided in Prob. Code §§ 1215-1217 [Prob. Code § 1217]. Special notice is governed by Prob. Code §§ 1250-1252. For further discussion of and forms for use in giving notice and special notice, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements .

Local procedure should be checked to determine if there is a deadline for serving and filing opposition papers. In general civil matters, opposition papers are filed at least nine court days before the hearing [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300; Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)].

[5] State Statutes

"Interested person" defined. Prob. Code § 48

Objections as required to be verified. Prob. Code § 1021(a)(2)

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

39-458 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 458.10

§ 458.10 Governing Law

Proceedings to determine persons entitled to distribution are governed by Prob. Code §§ 11700-11705. To the extent the Probate Code does not provide rules, the rules of practice that apply to civil actions generally also govern proceedings under Prob. Code §§ 11700-11705 [Prob. Code § 1000].

Subject to the requirement that Judicial Council and local court rules be consistent with the applicable statutes, the Judicial Council may provide by rule for the practice and procedure under the Probate Code, and, unless disapproved by the Judicial Council, a court may do likewise by local rule [see Prob. Code § 1001(a)]. Many courts have local rules governing multiple aspects of probate practice and these should be consulted.

Chapter 458 PROBATE: DETERMINATION OF HEIRSHIP
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

39-458 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 458.11

§ 458.11 Repealed Statutes

The former statutes to determine heirship (former Prob. Code §§ 1080-1082) were repealed and replaced by Prob. Code §§ 11700-11705 by Stats. 1988, ch. 1199, operative July 1, 1989. Also repealed but not replaced were former Prob. Code §§ 1190-1192, which authorized a proceeding to establish the identity of heirs when title to real or personal property, or any interest in it, vested, other than by the laws of intestate succession, in the heirs, heirs of the body, issue, or children of any person, without other description or means of identification of the persons embraced in the description. In commenting on this repeal, the California Law Revision Commission explained that (1) the procedure provided by these statutes for determining membership in certain classes entitled to property other than by intestate succession was omitted as unnecessary; (2) when proceedings for administration of a decedent's estate are pending, this issue is determined in proceedings for distribution; and (3) if proceedings for administration are not pending, an action to quiet title may be appropriate [19 Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Reports 1081 (1988)]. For discussion of preliminary distribution and final distribution, see respectively Ch. 458C, Probate: Preliminary Distribution and Partial Allowance of Compensation , and Ch. 458D, Probate: Accounts, Final Distribution, and Compensation .

Code § 58(b)* ("general personal representative" excludes a special administrator unless the special administrator has the powers, duties, and obligations of a general personal representative under Prob. Code § 8545)].

The provision in Prob. Code § 11700, permitting the filing of the petition before an order for final distribution is made, is jurisdictional [see Prob. Code § 11704 (discussed in § 458.18); see also 19 Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Reports 970 (1988)]. This is a departure from prior law [see Estate of Stehr (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 1131, 1134-1135, 226 Cal. Rptr. 806 (holding that the similar provision under former Prob. Code § 1080, the predecessor to Prob. Code § 11700, was not jurisdictional or mandatory, but merely directory)].

The petition must include a statement of the basis for the petitioner's claim [Prob. Code § 11700]. For forms of petition, see §§ 458.80 -458.83.

[2] When Attorney General Is Deemed Person Entitled to Distribution

The Attorney General is deemed to be a person entitled to distribution of the estate for purposes of Prob. Code §§ 11700-11705 if the estate involves or may involve any of the following [Prob. Code § 11703]:

- A charitable trust, other than a charitable trust with a designated trustee that may lawfully accept the trust.
- A devise for a charitable purpose without an identified beneficiary.
- An escheat to the State of California.

[3] Claim to Severable Portion of Estate

It is permissible for parties interested in a severable portion of an estate to litigate their claims as to it, and thus be in a position at a later date to request a partial distribution of that asset, without waiting for rights in other assets, depending on other facts and issues, to be litigated [Estate of Brissel (1963) 218 Cal. App. 2d 841, 843-844, 32 Cal. Rptr. 458] .

§ 458.14 Notice of Hearing

When the petition is filed, the court clerk sets the matter for hearing [Prob. Code § 1041]. At least 15 days before the hearing on the petition, notice of the time and place of the hearing must be given pursuant to Prob. Code § 1220 to the following persons [Prob. Code § 11701; see Prob. Code § 1220(a)(2)]:

- The personal representative.

- All persons who have requested special notice in the estate proceeding pursuant to Prob. Code § 1250.

- All known heirs [see Prob. Code § 44 ("heir" defined)] and devisees [see Prob. Code § 34 ("devisee" defined)] whose interests in the estate would be affected by the petition [see also Prob. Code §§ 1206, 1207].

- The Attorney General, if any portion of the estate is to escheat to the state and its interest in the estate would be affected by the petition.

In the case of persons requesting special notice, the notice must be mailed to the address set forth in the request [Prob. Code § 1252(a)]. In the case of the Attorney General, notice is to be given at the office of the Attorney General in Sacramento [Prob. Code § 11701(d)]. In the case of others entitled to notice, the notice must be mailed to the person's business or residence address, if known; if not known, the court may order that the notice be given in a manner reasonably calculated to give actual notice to that person [Prob. Code § 1212, 1220(a)(3); see Code Civ. Proc. § 413.30]. If any person entitled to notice is represented by an attorney of record, the notice must also be given to that attorney [Prob. Code § 1218].

Personal delivery may be used instead of mail [Prob. Code §§ 1215(a), 1214].

The court may, for good cause, may dispense with the notice required to be given to a person [Prob. Code §§ 1220(c), 1252(a)].

For further discussion and forms for giving notice, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements .

§ 458.15 Responsive Statement

Any interested person may appear and, at or before the time of the hearing, file a written statement of the person's interest in the estate [Prob. Code § 11702(a); see §§ 458.84, 458.85]. The written statement may be in support of, or in opposition to, the petition. No other pleadings are necessary and the written statement of each claimant will be deemed denied by each of the other claimants to the extent the written statements conflict [Prob. Code § 11702(a)]. Prob. Code § 11702(a) restates the applicable provisions in former Prob. Code § 1080 without substantive change and with the clarification that the written statement may be in support of or in opposition to the petition [19 Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Reports 971 (1988)].

Should a person fail to file a timely written statement, the case is neverthelessat issue and may proceed on the petition and written statements filed by the time of the hearing, and no further pleadings by other persons are necessary [Prob. Code § 11702(b)(1)]. In addition, the person may not participate further in the proceeding for distribution, although his or her interest in the estate is not otherwise affected, and he or she is bound by the decision in the proceeding [see Prob. Code § 11702(b)(2), (3)]. Prob. Code § 11702(b) is new and is comparable to Prob. Code § 8251(c) (relating to a will contest) [19 Cal. Law Revision Reports 971 (1988)].

The court may continue a matter to allow a written objection or response to be made. If the court does so, however, and the responding or objecting party fails to serve and file a timely objection or response, the court may deem the objections or responses waived [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.801].

§ 458.16 Jury Trial and New Trial

Unlike former Prob. Code § 1081, which provided that "a trial of the facts must be by jury," Prob. Code §§ 11700-11705 do not provide for trial by jury. Because Prob. Code § 825 provides that, except as otherwise expressly provided in the Probate Code, there is no right to a jury trial in proceedings under the code, it would appear that there is no longer a right to a trial by jury of the facts in a proceeding to determine persons entitled to distribution of an estate. Because no right to a jury trial is expressly granted, a motion for new trial may not be made [see Prob. Code § 7220(b)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

39-458 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 458.17

§ 458.17 Jurisdiction of Court

[1] Generally

The superior court has jurisdiction of proceedings under the Probate Code concerning the administration of decedents; estates [Prob. Code § 7050]. When acting in proceedings under the Probate Code, the court is a court of general jurisdiction, and it has the same power and authority with respect to the proceedings as otherwise provided by law for a superior court (or a judge of the superior court), including all of the statutory powers listed in Code Civ. Proc. § 128 [Prob. Code § 800].

In commenting on this issue, the California Law Revision Commission has stated that Prob. Code § 7050 expands a provision of former Prob. Code § 321 (the judge may make and issue all necessary orders and writs to enforce the production of wills and the attendance of witnesses) and abandons the former rule that the superior court "sitting in probate" was a court of limited jurisdiction. Hence, while preserving the division of business among different departments of the superior court, this section rejects the limitation on the powers of the probate court that has been cited in appellate decisions, for example Copley v. Copley (1978) 80 Cal. App. 3d 97, 106-107, 145 Cal. Rptr 437 [19 Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Reports 941 (1988)].

[2] Disputes Between Estate and Strangers

Although it has been pointed out that, as a general rule, the superior court sitting in probate is without power to decide a disputed claim between an estate and a stranger to the estate, it has been held that if the controversy is between the estate and those not strangers to probate proceedings relating to the estate, the court, sitting in probate, has the power to entertain the action and adjudicate the conflicting claims [Estate of Hartnett (1957) 155 Cal. App. 2d 280, 282, 318 P.2d 81 (decided under former Prob. Code § 1080, the predecessor to Prob. Code § 11700)].

Moreover, when a party invokes the jurisdiction of the probate court by asserting a substantive right in a particular piece of estate property or in certain assets as an heir or devisee pursuant to Prob. Code § 11700, he or she may also obtain a determination in that court of any additional claims that he or she asserts against those in privity with the estate in the same property [Estate of Baglione (1966) 65 Cal. 2d 192, 196, 53 Cal. Rptr. 139, 417 P.2d 683 (involving former Prob. Code § 1080, the predecessor to Prob. Code § 11700)].

[3] Interpretation of Will and Determination of Character of Property

In a proceeding to determine persons entitled to distribution, the court has jurisdiction to interpret the decedent's will and to determine the character of the property as community or separate [Estate of Russ (1965) 231 Cal. App. 2d 917, 919, 42 Cal. Rptr. 471 (decided under former Prob. Code § 1080, the predecessor to Prob. Code § 11700); see also Estate of Hartnett (1957) 155 Cal. App. 2d 280, 282-283, 318 P.2d 81 (same)].

The proceeding is, however, separate and distinct from the proceeding admitting a will to probate and cannot be used to challenge the validity of a will after the time for contest has expired [Estate of Caruch (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 178, 186, 293 P.2d 514 (involving former Prob. Code § 1080, the predecessor to Prob. Code §§ 11700-11703)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

39-458 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 458.19

§ 458.19 Order on Petition

[1] Generally

The determination of persons entitled to distribution of an estate is a statutory proceeding in rem that is indivisible, and there can, therefore, be only one order [Bodine v. Superior Court of Santa Barbara County (1962) 209 Cal. App. 2d 354, 358-359, 26 Cal. Rptr. 260 ; see also Estate of Russ (1965) 231 Cal. App. 2d 917, 919, 42 Cal. Rptr. 471] . Thus, while the court has power to determine the character of property as community or separate, it does not have authority to bifurcate the hearing and make two orders, one on each issue, which are separately appealable; in this type of case there can be but one final appealable order [Estate of Russ (1965) 231 Cal. App. 2d 917, 919, 42 Cal. Rptr. 471 (involving former Prob. Code § 1080, the predecessor to Prob. Code §§ 11700-11703)].

However, an order determining persons entitled to distribution of a severable portion of estate property that does not determine the persons entitled to the other interests does not prevent the filing of a later petition for determination of persons entitled to those other interests, nor does it prevent an appeal from the order relating to the severable portion pending the later determination of other persons entitled to distribution from the estate [see Estate of Brissel (1963) 218 Cal. App. 2d 841, 843-845, 32 Cal. Rptr 458 (decided under former Prob. Code §§ 1080-1082, the predecessor statutes to Prob. Code §§ 11700-11705)].

[2] Effect of Order

When the court's order becomes final, it binds and is conclusive as to the rights of all interested persons [Prob. Code § 11705(b); see also Bodine v. Superior Court (1962) 209 Cal. App. 2d 354, 359-360, 26 Cal. Rptr. 260 (involving former Prob. Code §§ 1080-1082, the predecessor statutes to Prob. Code §§ 11700-11705)].

[3] Entry or Filing

The order must be either entered at length in the court's minute book or signed by the judge and filed [see Prob. Code § 1048(a)].

§ 458.42 Decisions

[1] Determination of Persons Entitled to Distribution of Estate (formerly, Heirship Proceedings)

[a] In General

Power of court on distribution of estate, when no proceedings were held pursuant to former Prob. Code § 1080 (repealed by Stats. 1988, ch. 1199, operative July 1, 1989; now see Prob. Code § 11700), to determine persons entitled to estate by law; former Prob. Code § 1080 did not provide exclusive method of determining heirship. Estate of Simmons (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 217, 220, 49 Cal. Rptr. 369, 411 P.2d 97

Availability of former heirship proceeding to compel personal representative to pay debt constituting lien on specifically devised property. Estate of Dolley (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 63, 68-75, 71 Cal. Rptr. 56

Determination of heirship proceeding is statutory. Bodine v. Superior Court (1962) 209 Cal. App. 2d 354, 359-360, 26 Cal. Rptr. 260 (involving former law)

[b] Adopted Child

Equitably adopted child does not have right to inherit property of testate "grandparent," whose will directs that her property is to go to "surviving issue" of her children; doctrine of equitable adoption creates contractual right to receive property from estate of deceased parent, but does not give equitable child rights of an heir under Probate Code to inherit property of third parties through the parent [Estate of Furia (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 1, 5-6, 126 Cal. Rptr. 2d 384

Oklahoma Supreme Court decision finding valid adoption by Oklahoma stepfather is entitled to full faith and credit in California, and adopted child was not permitted to take intestate share of estate of his natural father, a California decedent. Estate of Hart (1984) 165 Cal. App. 3d 392, 395-398, 209 Cal. Rptr. 272

[c] Costs

Costs are awardable in heirship proceedings, but interest is not. Estate of Neilson (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 733, 748, 22 Cal. Rptr. 1, 371 P.2d 745 (involving prior law; now see Prob. Code § 1002)

[d] Discovery

Admissibility of amended answers to interrogatories in former heirship proceeding (now proceeding to determine persons entitled to distribution). Estate of Horman (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 796, 805, 71 Cal. Rptr. 780

[e] Evidence

Stipulation as to meaning of ambiguous will clause is binding on court unless contrary to public policy. Estate of Burson (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 300, 306, 124 Cal. Rptr. 105

Payment of taxes on property does not, by itself, establish ownership in a prior personal representative, individually. Marsh v. Edelstein (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 132, 140, 88 Cal. Rptr. 26

Letter by testatrix was admissible and established her understanding of language of will. Estate of Mohr (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 641, 647-649, 86 Cal. Rptr. 731

Title of savings account in name of woman as trustee for her husband did not determine question of ownership of funds in account when she predeceased him; title was significant only as it might have given rise to disputable presumption, had facts been undisclosed. Roberts v. Goetz (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 364, 368, 85 Cal. Rptr. 84

[f] Nature of Proceeding

Former heirship proceeding is specialized proceeding in rem. Bodine v. Superior Court (1962) 209 Cal. App. 2d 354, 359-360, 26 Cal. Rptr. 260

[g] Omitted Spouse

Putative spouse was omitted spouse within meaning of former Prob. Code § 6560 [now see Prob. Code § 21610]. Estate of Sax (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 1300, 1303, 263 Cal. Rptr. 190

Proceeding to determine heirship (now proceeding to determine persons entitled to distribution of estate) by husband seeking portion of deceased wife's estate as omitted spouse under former Prob. Code § 6560 [now see Prob. Code § 21610]. Estate of Butler (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 311, 313, 252 Cal. Rptr. 210

[h] Order

Judgment entered in proceeding under former Prob. Code § 1080 (repealed; now see Prob. Code § 11700) did not bar malpractice action against attorney who drafted will under doctrine of collateral estoppel because malpractice action presented different issues and attorney was not party to proceeding. Garcia v. Borelli (1982) 129 Cal. App. 3d 24, 32, 180 Cal. Rptr. 768

In proceeding to determine heirship (now persons entitled to distribution), any person entitled to distribution of estate or any part of it who files petition in which he or she prays that court determine who persons entitled to distribution are is permitted to obtain decision binding on any other person interested in estate as to how estate will be distributed. Estate of Hartnett (1957) 155 Cal. App. 2d 280, 282-283, 318 P.2d 81

[i] Parent-Child Relationship

Decedent's acknowledgements during his lifetime of son born out of wedlock, which included (1) decedent's written acknowledgement that he was a party to conception; (2) that he had asked the child's mother to marry him; and (3) his admissions to his own mother, brother, and sister, as well as to the child himself and his mother, that the child was the decedent's son, were sufficient to meet the evidentiary burden of Prob. Code § 6453(b)(2). Estate of Burden (2007) 146 Cal. App. 4th 1021, 1030 ; 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 390

Father of child born out of wedlock "acknowledged the child" for purposes of Prob. Code § 6452 by confessing to paternity in out-of-state court and making no other acts of acknowledgment or disavowal, resulting in father's heirs sharing in the child's intestate estate. Estate of Griswold (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 904, 924, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 165, 24 P.3d 1191

Determination of whether children born to decedent out of wedlock might be heirs, and therefore entitled to notice, must be made by court, not by petitioner for administration of estate. Estate of Carter (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1147-1148, 1152-1153, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 490

Parentage finding adjudicated in dissolution proceeding is identical with issue that would have been presented in Uniform Parentage Act proceeding, and therefore established intestacy rights under Prob. Code § 6453(b)(1) based on parent-child relationship. Weir v Ferreira (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 1509, 1518-1521, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 33

[j] Parties

Petition to determine heirship under former Prob. Code § 1080 (now petition to determine persons entitled to distribution under Prob. Code § 11700) was properly brought in name of alleged heir as real party in interest, instead of name of his attorney. Estate of Brainard (1946) 76 Cal. App. 2d 850, 852-853, 174 P.2d 702

[k] Putative Spouse

Putative spouse (see Fam. Code § 2251) of decedent was entitled to share of intestate decedent's separate property. Estate of Leslie (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 186, 197, 204, 207 Cal. Rptr. 561, 689 P.2d 133 (decided under former Prob. Code § 221)

App. 4th 92, 107-108, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 143*

§ 458.60 Petition to Determine Persons Entitled to Distribution of Estate

NOTE:
The following guide is illustrative only and not exhaustive.

The personal representative or any person claiming to be a beneficiary or otherwise entitled to distribution of a share of the estate may file the petition [Prob. Code § 11700]. For discussion of when the Attorney General of California is deemed a person entitled to distribution of the estate, see Prob. Code § 11703, discussed in the Introduction under § 458.12[2].

1. Preliminary Determinations.

a. Determine whether petition is timely.

NOTE:
The petition may be filed at any time after letters are first issued to a general personal representative and before an order for final distribution is made [see Prob. Code § 11700]. This time period is jurisdictional [see Prob. Code § 11704(a)].

b. Ascertain basis of petitioner's claim.

NOTE:
The petition must include a statement of the basis for the petitioner's claim [Prob. Code § 11700].

2. Preparation of Petition.

a. Prepare petition in an original for filing (with any copies that may be required by the court), and sufficient copies to serve one on any person on whom service is required by law, a copy for client, and an office copy [Prob. Code § 11700; see §§ 458.80 -458.83].

NOTE:
For when a copy of the petition must be served, see discussion in § 458.14.

b. Have petitioner sign petition and verification.

NOTE:
The petition must be signed by all of the petitioners [Prob. Code § 1020] and verified by the petitioner or by one of them if there is more than one [Prob. Code § 1021(a)(1), (b)(1)]. Nevertheless, verification of a document constitutes signature of that document unless expressly provided to the contrary [Prob. Code § 1020]. If the petitioner is not a fiduciary (a personal representative is a fiduciary [see Prob. Code § 39]), and if the petitioner is absent from the county or for some other cause is unable to sign or verify the petition, it may be signed and verified by the petitioner's attorney [see Prob. Code § 1023].

3. Filing and Hearing Date

a. File original of petition, together with any copies that may be required by court, with court clerk.

b. Secure a hearing date from the court clerk.

NOTE:
On the filing of the petition, the clerk is required to set the matter for hearing [Prob. Code § 1041].

4. Notice of hearing on petition.

a. Prepare the notice of hearing in an original for filing with sufficient copies to serve one on each person to whom notice must be given, a copy for the client, and an office copy.

NOTE:
Notice of hearing is required by Prob. Code § 11701. For the persons to whom the notice must be given, see § 458.14.

b. Prepare the proof of service.

NOTE:
Proof that notice of the hearing was given must be made to the satisfaction of the court at or before the hearing [Prob. Code § 1260(a)]. Proof of service by mail may be made in the manner prescribed in Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a [Prob. Code § 1261; for forms of proof of service by mail under Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a, which may be adapted for use in a probate proceeding, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers]. For proof of service by publication, posting, or personal delivery, see Prob. Code §§ 1262, 1263, and 1264, respectively.

c. At least 15 days before the date of hearing, mail (or personally deliver) to each person to be given notice a copy of the notice of hearing [see Prob. Code §§ 1215, 1216, 1220, 11701], together with an unsigned copy of the proof of service [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(b); Prob. Code § 1000], and a copy of the petition when required by law [see, e.g., Prob. Code § 1252(a) (persons requesting special notice); see also § 458.14].

d. File the executed proof or proofs of service with the court clerk or present them as evidence at the hearing.

NOTE:

The proof of service may be filed with the court [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013a, 2011; Prob. Code §§ 1000, 1261] or presented as evidence at the hearing [Prob. Code § 1265; see Prob. Code § 1260(a); see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2009, 2010, 2011, 2015.3, 2015.5 (use of affidavits or declarations under penalty of perjury to prove service of notice)].

§ 458.61 Responsive Statement

NOTE:
Any interested person may appear in the proceeding to determine persons entitled to distribution and file a written statement of his or her interest in the estate [Prob. Code § 11702(a)].

1. Preliminary Determinations.

a. Determine whether the statement is timely.

NOTE:
A written statement of the person's interest may be filed at any time at or before the time of the hearing on the petition [see Prob. Code § 11702(a)].

b. Ascertain the basis of the claimant's interest or claim in the estate.

NOTE:
The written statement may be in support of, or in opposition to, the petition [Prob. Code § 11702(a)].

2. Preparation and Filing of Statement.

a. Prepare the statement in an original for filing (with any copies that may be required by the court), a copy for the client, and an office copy [Prob. Code § 11702; see §§ 458.84, 458.85].

NOTE:
Although Prob. Code § 11702 characterizes the written statement as a "pleading" by providing that "[n]o other pleadings are necessary," the statute does not expressly require that a copy of the statement be served on the petitioner or other interested persons. Moreover, the statute expressly authorizes the filing of the statement at, as well as before, the hearing [see Prob. Code § 11702(a)].

b. Have the claimant sign the written statement and verification.

NOTE:
The statement, as a "response," must be signed by all of the claimants [see Prob. Code § 1020] and verified by the claimant or by one of them if there is more than one [see Prob. Code § 1021(a)(1), (b)(1)]. Nevertheless, verification of a document constitutes signature of that document unless expressly provided to the contrary [Prob. Code § 1020]. If the claimant is not a fiduciary (a personal representative is a fiduciary [see Prob. Code § 39]), and if the claimant is absent from the county or for some other cause is unable to sign or verify the statement, it may be signed and verified by the claimant's attorney [see Prob. Code § 1023].

c. File the original of the statement, together with any copies that may be required by the court, with the court clerk or the courtroom clerk.

NOTE:
The statement may be filed at or before the time of the hearing [see Prob. Code § 11702(a)].

§ 458.62 Hearing and Order

NOTE:
The court must consider as evidence in the proceeding any statement made in a petition filed under Prob. Code § 11700 and any statement of interest filed under Prob. Code § 11702 [Prob. Code § 11704(a)].

1. Attend the hearing. If proof of service of the notice of hearing has not been filed before the hearing, petitioner should be prepared to prove to the satisfaction of the court that the notice was given as required by law [see Prob. Code § 1260(a)].

NOTE:
An affidavit (or declaration under penalty of perjury [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) must be received at the hearing as evidence if the proceedingis uncontested [see Prob. Code § 1022]. This provision apparently would apply to an affidavit or declaration of service.

2. Prepare for the judge's signature and in accordance with the judge's instructions the formal order determining the persons entitled to distribution and specifying their shares in an original for filing (together with any copies required by the court), a copy for each party (or the party's attorney if the party was represented by counsel) who appeared at the hearing, a copy for the client, and an office copy.

NOTE:
The court's order must determine the persons entitled to distribution of the decedent's estate and specify their shares [Prob. Code § 11705(a); see § 458.86].

3. Present the original to the judge's courtroom clerk for the judge's signature and, when it is signed, have the clerk conform the copies.

4. Serve any copies of the order as specified above.

NOTE:

When the order becomes final, it is binding and conclusive as to the rights of all interested persons [Prob. Code § 11705(b); see also Prob. Code § 11702(b)(3) (person who failed to file statement of interest).

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by a general personal representative when there is some dispute as to who is entitled to property in the decedent's estate and a court determination of the person or persons entitled to it is necessary [see Prob. Code § 11700]. The petition may be filed by a general personal representative (defined in Prob. Code § 58(b)), as in the above form, or by any person claiming to be a beneficiary or otherwise entitled to distribution of a share of the estate [Prob. Code § 11700; see §§ 458.81 -458.83].

The petition must be signed and verified by the petitioner, although, unless expressly provided to the contrary, verification of a document constitutes signature of that document [see Prob. Code §§ 1020, 1021(a)(1), 1021(b)(1)]. It must also include a statement of the basis for the petitioner's claim [Prob. Code § 11700].

This petition should not be confused with a petition to identify heirs under Prob. Code § 248, which applies if there is no pending proceeding to administer a decedent's estate and it is necessary to determine membership in certain classes entitled to property other than by succession [see Prob. Code §§ 248-249]. For a discussion of the proceedings authorized by Prob. Code §§ 248-249, including a petition to identify heirs, see Ch. 444, Probate: Disposition Without Administration .

The petition may be filed at any time after letters (defined in Prob. Code § 52) were first issued to a general personal representative and before an order for final distribution is made [Prob. Code § 11700]. A petition filed after an order for final distribution is made may not be considered by the court [see Prob. Code § 11704(a)].

[4] Notice of Hearing

Notice of the hearing on the petition must be given as provided in Prob. Code § 1220 to all of the following persons [Prob. Code § 11701]: (a) each person listed in Prob. Code § 1220; (b) each known heir whose interest in the estate would be affected by the petition; (c) each known devisee whose interest in the estate would be affected by the petition; and (d) the Attorney General, at the Office of the Attorney General in Sacramento, if any portion of the estate is to escheat to the state and its interest in the estate would be affected by the petition. For further discussion of notice, see § 458.14. For when the attorney general is deemed a person entitled to distribution of the estate, see Prob. Code § 11703, in § 458.12[2].

[5] Adjudication of Character of Property

In seeking an adjudication of property as community or separate in character, it was held, under prior law, that a personal representative could file a petition to determine heirship under former Prob. Code § 1080 (the predecessor to Prob. Code § 11700) [see, e.g., Estate of Hartnett (1957) 155 Cal. App. 2d 280, 282-283, 318 P.2d 81] or a petition for instructions under former Prob. Code § 588 (the predecessor to Prob. Code § 9611) [see, e.g., Estate of Putnam (1959) 175 Cal. App. 2d 781, 784, 346 P.2d 841] , but that, under the latter section, the exercise of the court's power was permissive and the court therefore could refuse to make the order sought [Estate of Putnam (1959) 175 Cal. App. 2d 781, 784, 346 P.2d 841 ; see also Ch. 457, Probate: Instructions to Personal Representative].

[6] State Statutes

Petition must be signed by all petitioners. Prob. Code § 1020

Verification of petition. Prob. Code § 1021

When petition may be signed or verified by petitioner's attorney. Prob. Code § 1023

Duty of court clerk on filing petition to set matter for hearing. Prob. Code § 1041

Petition to determine persons entitled to distribution of decedent's estate. Prob. Code § 11700

Notice of hearing. Prob. Code § 11701

Attorney General as party. Prob. Code § 11703

Surviving registered domestic partner has same rights, responsibilities, protections, and benefits as surviving spouse. Fam. Code § 297.5(c)

Petitions required to be set for hearing must have self-addressed, stamped envelope attached. Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 10.31(a) (or attach fax cover sheet; see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 10.31(b))

1. Petitioner is the surviving _____ [husband or wife or registered domestic partner] of _____ [name], deceased, and is entitled to distribution of a part of the deceased's estate as hereinafter alleged.

2. Letters were issued on _____ [date] to _____ [name] and he/she is the duly appointed, qualified, and acting general personal representative of the deceased's estate.

3. The deceased left estate consisting of the following described real and personal property, which[, although standing in the name of the deceased alone,] was the community property of petitioner and deceased, in that _____ [specify, e.g., it was acquired by petitioner and the decedent during their marriage as the result of their joint efforts and title was taken in the deceased's name for business purposes only]: _____ [describe property by item as set forth in the inventory and appraisal].

4. [Petitioner and the deceased were married on _____ (date). The deceased's will that was admitted to probate was executed prior to that date on _____ (date), and it devised all of the deceased's estate to beneficiaries other than petitioner. It does not appear from the will that the failure to provide for petitioner was intentional. Nor did the deceased make any provision for the petitioner by a transfer outside the will, and petitioner made no agreement waiving his/her right to share in the deceased's estate.]

5. [By reason of the marriage of petitioner and the deceased after the date the will was executed and the facts alleged in Paragraph 4, petitioner is entitled to that share of the property in the deceased's estate as set forth in Probate Code Section 6560.]

6. [Allegation of notice. See § 458.80, Paragraph 5.]

7. [Allegation of special notice. See § 458.80, Paragraph 6.]

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use when a surviving spouse or registered domestic partner claims that property in the deceased spouse's estate is community property, or that he or she is an omitted spouse in that the decedent failed to provide for him or her by will and the parties were married after the will was executed [see Prob. Code § 6560; Fam. Code § 297.5], or both.

[3] State Statutes

Intestate share of surviving spouse. Prob. Code § 6401

Share to which spouse omitted from will is entitled when parties married subsequent to execution of will and no provision for surviving spouse was made by will. Prob. Code § 6560

When omitted spouse may not receive share of estate under Prob. Code § 6560. Prob. Code § 6561

Surviving registered domestic partner has same rights, responsibilities, protections, and benefits as surviving spouse. Fam. Code § 297.5(c)

[4] Decisions

Surviving husband who married decedent after will was executed and who was excluded from will executed some four years before the marriage by a codicil to the will executed two months after the will was executed properly invoked jurisdiction of court by petition to determine heirship under former Prob. Code § 1080 [repealed and replaced by Prob. Code § 11700 by Stats. 1988, ch. 1199]. Woods v. Security-First Nat. Bank (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 697, 703, 299 P.2d 657

Putative spouse as omitted spouse within meaning of Prob. Code § 6560. Estate of Sax (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 1300, 1303, 263 Cal. Rptr. 190

In proceeding to determine heirship under former Prob. Code § 1080 [repealed and replaced by Prob. Code § 11700 by Stats. 1988, ch. 1199], court's jurisdiction included power to adjudicate community property rights, and fact that petitioner sought to have adjudication as to property held in joint tenancy did not deprive court of jurisdiction to determine what was and was not community property. Estate of Hartnett (1957) 155 Cal. App. 2d 280, 318 P.2d 81

This form is for use by a petitioner who claims to be the beneficiary of a remainder interest in a decedent's estate by virtue of a contract, described and incorporated into the decedent's will, between the decedent and a third party who was a devisee under the decedent's will, under which the decedent agreed to devise the property in question to the devisee upon condition that the devisee agreed to make, and keep in effect during the devisee's lifetime, a will devising the property to petitioner on the devisee's death [*see Estate of Smith (1961) 196 Cal. [2] Use of Form

This form is for use by one or more of the heirs of the decedent's predeceased spouse [see Prob. Code § 59 (defining "predeceased spouse")] who died not more than 15 years before the decedent when the decedent left surviving neither a spouse or domestic partner nor issue, and a portion of the decedent's estate includes property attributable to the predeceased spouse or domestic partner. The fact situation illustrated is that set forth in Prob. Code § 6402.5(a)(1), (b)(1), namely, that the decedent is survived by issue of the predeceased spouse. With appropriate modifications, this form may be used by any of the persons listed in Prob. Code § 6402.5 when the required conditions exist.

As of January 1, 2005, surviving registered domestic partners have the same rights, responsibilities, protections, and benefits as surviving spouses [Fam. Code § 297.5(c)].

For purposes of disposing of personal property under Prob. Code § 6402.5(b), the claimant heir bears the burden of proof to show the exact personal property to be disposed of to the heir [Prob. Code § 6402.5(c)].

[3] Distribution When Decedent Died Without Surviving Spouse or Registered Domestic Partner or Issue

Under Prob. Code § 6402.5, when a decedent dies without leaving a surviving spouse or domestic partner or issue, the heirs of the predeceased spouse are entitled to distribution of real property from the decedent's estate that is attributable to the predeceased spouse or domestic partner only if the predeceased spouse or domestic partner died not more than 15 years before the decedent [see Prob. Code § 6402.5(a)]. They are also entitled to distribution of personalproperty attributable to the predeceased spouse or domestic partner, if the predeceased spouse or domestic partner died not more than five years before the decedent [see Prob. Code § 6402.5(b)]. In this context, "personal property" means that personal property in which there is a written record of title or ownership and the value of which in the aggregate is $10,000 or more [Prob. Code § 6402.5(e)].

As of January 1, 2005, surviving registered domestic partners have the same rights, responsibilities, protections, and benefits as surviving spouses [Fam. Code § 297.5(c)].

For the purposes of providing notice with respect to an estate that may include personal property subject to distribution under Prob. Code § 6402.5(b), if the aggregate fair market value of tangible and intangible personal property with a written record of title or ownership in the estate is believed in good faith by the petitioning party to be less than $10,000, the petitioning party need not give notice to the issue or next of kin of the predeceased spouse or domestic partner. If the personal property is subsequently determined to have an aggregate fair market value in excess of $10,000, notice must be given to the issue or next of kin of the predeceased spouse or domestic partner as provided by law [Prob. Code § 6402.5(d)].

[4] State Statutes

"Predeceased spouse" defined. Prob. Code § 59

Descent of property inherited from predeceased spouse on death without spouse or issue. Prob. Code § 6402.5

Surviving registered domestic partner has same rights, responsibilities, protections, and benefits as surviving spouse. Fam. Code § 297.5(c)

[6] Decisions

Fact that predeceased spouse and sister of predeceased spouse had been alienated for 28 years did not amount to an equitable consideration that could alter application of former Prob. Code § 229; when neither decedent nor predeceased spouse left issue, community property attributable to predeceased spouse devolved on sister of predeceased spouse. Estate of McInnis (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 949, 956-959, 227 Cal. Rptr. 604

Burden of proof is on relatives of predeceased spouse claiming as statutory heirs of surviving spouse dying intestate. Estate of McGee (1959) 168 Cal. App. 2d 670, 674, 336 P.2d 622

This form of order is for use in preparing an order for the court after a hearing to determine the persons entitled to distribution of an estate under Prob. Code §§ 11700-11704. The order must determine the persons entitled to distribution and must specify their shares [Prob. Code § 11705; for further discussion, see § 458.19].

[3] State Statutes

Award of costs. Prob. Code § 1002

Court must hear and determine any matter at issue, and any response presented, consider evidence presented, and make appropriate order. Prob. Code § 1046

Except as otherwise provided in Probate Code, order need not recite existence of facts, or performance of acts, on which jurisdiction depends, but need only contain matters ordered. Prob. Code § 1047

Order, other than order for distribution, must either be entered at length in minute book or signed by judge and filed. Prob. Code § 1048(a)

Finding required re giving of notice. Prob. Code § 1260(b)

Order determining persons entitled to distribution of deceased's estate. Prob. Code § 11705(a)

Order, on becoming final, is binding and conclusive as to rights of all interested persons. Prob. Code § 11705(b)

[4] Decisions

Heirship proceeding under former Prob. Code §§ 1080-1082 (repealed and replaced by Prob. Code §§ 11700-11705 by Stats. 1988, ch. 1199) is a specialized proceeding in rem, res being right of heirship and distribution and, as to that issue, decree is binding on whole world, is conclusive against all persons, and is basis for decree of distribution which is to follow. Estate of Radovich (1957) 48 Cal. 2d 116, 120, 308 P.2d 14

Established rule is that when appropriate petition to establish heirship under former Prob. Code § 1080 (repealed and replaced by Prob. Code § 11700 by Stats. 1988, ch. 1199) was filed and prescribed statutory notice of hearing was given, probate court had jurisdiction to proceed with whole matter of heirship in decedent's estate. Estate of Wise (1949) 34 Cal.2d 376, 382, 210 P.2d 497

Chapter 458A PROBATE: SIMULTANEOUS DEATH
PART I. SCOPE

39-458A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 458A.01

§ 458A.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter explains the procedure for, and provides forms for use in, obtaining a judicial determination either that there is no sufficient evidence that two or more persons died otherwise than simultaneously or that those persons died in a certain sequence. Included are forms for petition [§§ 458A.60, 458A.61]; objections to the petition [see § 458A.62]; and orders [§§ 458A.64, 458A.66]. The procedure is set out in the Uniform Simultaneous Death Act [former Prob. Code §§ 296-296.8 (applicable only if none of the persons whose death is at issue died on or after January 1, 1985); see Prob. Code § 226], and its successor provisions in Prob. Code §§ 220-234 (applicable when any of the persons whose death is at issue died on or after January 1, 1985).

Rules set out for determining the title to property or the devolution thereof, when the sequence of two or more deaths is determinative and there is no sufficient evidence that they occurred otherwise than simultaneously, are included.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

39-458A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 458A.10

§ 458A.10 Governing Statutes

The determination that two or more deaths were sequential or that there is no sufficient evidence that they were not simultaneous, and the substantive rights that depend on such a determination, are governed by former Prob. Code §§ 296-296.8 if none of the persons whose death is at issue died on or after January 1, 1985, and by Prob. Code §§ 220-234 when any of the persons whose death is at issue died on or after that date [see Prob. Code § 226 (effective date; applicability of former law)]. Many of the provisions of the former law have been retained in the new statutes, but others have been changed; this part covers both the former law and the new provisions.

In addition, a wide variety of local court rules govern probate practice. To insure complete compliance, the attorney should consult the applicable rules. In the notes to the forms, references are made to some of the rules of the major counties, particularly Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Chapter 458A PROBATE: SIMULTANEOUS DEATH
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

39-458A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 458A.11

§ 458A.11 Property Rights Dependent on Sequential Death

When two or more persons have died before January 1, 1985, and under circumstances in which there is no sufficient evidence that they died otherwise than simultaneously, and the title to or devolution of property depends on the sequence of their deaths, the property of each person is required to be disposed of as though he had survived the other or others [former Prob. Code § 296]. When at least one of the decedents died on or after January 1, 1985, the focus of the determination appears to shift somewhat. Under the new legislation, the property of each person is administered, distributed, or otherwise dealt with as if that person had survived the other if it cannot be established by clear and convincing evidence that one of the persons survived the other [Prob. Code § 220]. It is not apparent whether the "clear and convincing evidence" requirement is meant to be more stringent than the former "sufficient evidence" standard, or merely definitional of that standard. At least some support for the view that the new standard is more stringent may be inferred from the case of Estate of Schmidt, in which it was held that survivorship may be proved by a preponderance of the evidence, and only if survivorship is not so proved is the statute applicable [Estate of Schmidt (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 262, 270-271, 67 Cal. Rptr. 847 (applying former Prob. Code §§ 296-296.8)]. The clear and convincing evidence standard would not be satisfied by a bare showing by a preponderance of the evidence [see In re Angelia P. (1981) 28 Cal. 3d 908, 919, 171 Cal. Rptr. 637, 623 P.2d 198 (defining showing required to satisfy clear and convincing evidence standard)].

§ 458A.12 Applicability of Prob. Code §§ 220-226

Prob. Code §§ 220-226, which apply generally when one or more of the persons whose death is at issue died on or after January 1, 1985, do not apply in any case when Prob. Code §§ 103 (community or quasi-community property), Prob. Code § 6211 (construing reference in California statutory will to person "if living" or who "survives me" as meaning person who survives decedent by 120 hours), or 21109 (heir as required to survive decedent) apply [Prob. Code § 221(a); see also Prob. Code § 226 (effective date of chapter)]. The provisions of Prob. Code §§ 220-226 also do not apply in the case of a trust, deed, or contract of insurance, or any other situation, when (1) provision is made dealing explicitly with simultaneous deaths or deaths in a common disaster or otherwise providing for distribution of property different from the provisions of Prob. Code §§ 220-226 (2) provision is made requiring one person to survive another for a stated period in order to take property or providing for a presumption as to survivorship that results in a distribution of property different from that provided by Prob. Code §§ 220-226 [Prob. Code § 221(b)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

39-458A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 458A.13

§ 458A.13 Community Property

When spouses died before January 1, 1985, under circumstances in which there is no sufficient evidence that they died otherwise than simultaneously, and they died leaving community property other than a life insurance policy on one of them of which the other was the named beneficiary, the community property is required to be dealt with as though one half of it were the husband's separate property and the wife died first, and as though the other one half were the wife's separate property and the husband died first [former Prob. Code § 296.4].

If spouses died on or after January 1, 1985, leaving community or quasi-community property, and it cannot be determined by clear and convincing evidence that one spouse survived the other, one-half of the community property and one-half of the quasi-community property is administered or distributed, or otherwise dealt with, as if one spouse had survived and as if that half belonged to that spouse [Prob. Code § 103(a)]. The other half of the community property and the other half of the quasi-community is administered or distributed, or otherwise dealt with, as if the other spouse had survived and as if that half belonged to that spouse [Prob. Code § 103(b)]. When Prob. Code § 103 applies in a given situation, Prob. Code §§ 220-234 do not apply [Prob. Code § 221(a)]. However, the provisions of Prob. Code § 224 do supercede those of Prob. Code § 103 [see Prob. Code § 103; see also Prob. Code § 224, discussed in § 458A.14].

§ 458A.14 Life or Accident Insurance

When the insured and the beneficiary under a policy of life or accident insurance have died before January 1, 1985 under circumstances in which there is no sufficient evidence that they died otherwise than simultaneously, the proceeds of the insurance are required to be distributed as though the insured had survived the beneficiary [former Prob. Code § 296.3]. If the insured and the beneficiary were spouses and the policy was community property, this rule supersedes the rule of former Prob. Code § 296.4 regarding community property in general [former Prob. Code § 296.4].

When the insured and the beneficiary died on or after January 1, 1985, and it cannot be established by clear and convincing evidence that the beneficiary survived the insured, the proceeds of the policy are administered, distributed, or otherwise dealt with, as if the insured survived the beneficiary [Prob. Code § 224]. However, if the policy is community property or quasi-community property of the insured and the insured's spouse and there is no alternative beneficiary except the estate or the personal representatives of the insured, the proceeds are distributed as community property under Prob. Code § 103 [Prob. Code § 224; see also § 458A.13].

§ 458A.15 Joint Tenancy

When joint tenants have died before January 1, 1985 under circumstances in which there is no sufficient evidence that they died otherwise than simultaneously, the property owned by them in joint tenancy is required to be dealt with in as many equal portions as there were simultaneously dying joint tenants. Each portion is to be dealt with as though, as to that portion, one of the joint tenants survived the other or others [see former Prob. Code § 296.2]. If the joint tenants died on or after January 1, 1985, the rule is much the same as under the former law [see Prob. Code § 223(b), (c)]. The post-1984 law does change the showing required to invoke the presumption from no sufficient evidence to a lack of clear and convincing evidence; the extent to which this represents a substantive change in the law is open to question [see § 458A.11]. The post-1984 law also defines joint tenants to include owners of property held under circumstances that entitle one or more to the whole of the property on the death of the other or others [Prob. Code § 223(a)].

§ 458A.16 Rights as Successive Beneficiaries

When two or more persons died before January 1, 1985 under circumstances in which there is no sufficient evidence that they died otherwise than simultaneously, and they are designated to take property successively by reason of survivorship under another person's disposition of property, the property is required to be divided into as many equal portions as there were such successive beneficiaries, and those portions are required to be distributed "... respectively to those who would have taken in the event that each designated beneficiary had survived" [former Prob. Code § 296.1]. If the persons died on or after January 1, 1985, and it cannot be established by clear and convincing evidence that any beneficiary survived any other beneficiary, the property is divided into as many equal portions as there are beneficiaries and the portion of each beneficiary is administered or distributed, or otherwise dealt with, as if that beneficiary had survived the other beneficiaries [Prob. Code § 222(b)]. These post-1984 provisions do not seem to change the result reached under the former law, except in the threshold issue of the inability to establish by clear and convincing evidence that any beneficiary survived any other [see § 458A.11].

§ 458A.18 Provision Precluding Escheat

When the person whose death is at issue died before January 1, 1985, if a portion of the estate that was community property of the spouses, or was separate property of a predeceased spouse that came to the decedent by gift, descent, devise, or bequest of the predeceased spouse, or vested in the decedent on the death of the predeceased spouse by right of survivorship, would otherwise escheat to the state under former Prob. Code §§ 201, 229(e), 231, and 296.4 because there is no relative, including next of kin, of one of the spouses to succeed to it, then it is required to be distributed in equal shares to the children of the other spouse and to their descendants by right of representation, or if the other spouse leaves no children, nor descendants of a deceased child, in equal shares to the parents of the other spouse, or if either is dead to the survivor, or if both are dead, in equal shares to the brothers and sisters of the other spouse and to their descendants by right of representation, or if the other spouse leaves neither parent, brother, sister, nor descendant of a deceased brother or sister, the portion of the estate goes to the next of kin of the other spouse in equal degree, except that when there are two or more collateral kindred in equal degree, but claiming through different ancestors, those who claim through the nearest ancestor must be preferred to those claiming through an ancestor more remote [former Prob. Code § 296.4; see also Prob. Code § 226 (effective date)].

If the person whose death is at issue died on or after January 1, 1985, the estate is distributed according to the new intestate succession rules, which include the distribution mandated by former Prob. Code § 296.4 [see Prob. Code § 6402].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

39-458A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 458A.19

§ 458A.19 Proceedings in Which Determination May Be Made

The substantive provisions of the former Uniform Simultaneous Death Act [former Prob. Code §§ 296-296.4; now see Prob. Code §§ 220-226], used to determine title to property in cases which the sequence of deaths is determinative, have been used not only in a proceeding for the administration of a decedent's estate but also in:

- An action to quiet title to real or personal property [see Thomas v. Anderson (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 371, 372-376, 215 P.2d 478] .

- An action to recover proceeds of insurance [see Azvedo v. Benevolent Soc'y of Cal. (1954) 125 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 894, 900, 125 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 894, 270 P.2d 948] .

- A proceeding to determine heirship under Prob. Code §§ 1080-1082 [see Estate of Sugino (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 591, 592, 73 Cal. Rptr. 150 ; Estate of Hudson (1958) 158 Cal. App. 2d 385, 387-391, 322 P.2d 987 ; Estate of Wedemeyer (1952) 109 Cal. App. 2d 67, 71, 240 P.2d 8] .

The procedural provisions effective January 1, 1985, specify that a petition under Prob. Code §§ 230-234 may be filed for any one or more of the following purposes [Prob. Code § 230]:

- To determine for the purposes of Prob. Code §§ 103, 220, 222, 223, 224, 6211, 6242, 6243, 6403, 21109, 21110, or any other provision of the Probate Code whether or not one person survived another.

- To determine for the purposes of Prob. Code § 673 whether or not issue of an appointee survived the donee.

- To determine for the purposes of Educ. Code § 24611 whether or not a person has survived in order to receive benefits payable under the State Teachers' Retirement System.

- To determine for the purposes of Gov. Code § 21509 whether or not a person has survived in order to receive money payable under the Public Employees' Retirement System.

- To determine for the purposes of a case governed by former Prob. Code §§ 296-296.8 whether or not persons have died other than simultaneously.

Given the foregoing provisions, it is unclear whether or not the cases cited above will be found persuasive in actions governed by Prob. Code §§ 220-234, especially in quiet title actions or actions to recover insurance proceeds, as those actions are not mentioned in Prob. Code § 230. Counsel should also note the provisions of former Prob. Code § 296.41 and Prob. Code § 232(a), which by their terms require that a petition be filed only in a pending estate proceeding, and seem to preclude the use of a petition as an independent action or in a nonestate proceeding [see former Prob. Code § 296.41 and Prob. Code § 232(a)].

§ 458A.22 Proceeding as Distinct From Proceeding to Determine Heirship

Despite some cases that have suggested otherwise [see, e.g., Estate of Schmidt (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 262, 264, 67 Cal. Rptr. 847 (speaking of "this proceeding to determine heirship, pursuant to the Uniform Simultaneous Death Act")], a petition filed pursuant to former Prob. Code § 296.41 or to Prob. Code § 230 does not authorize the court to determine heirship, or, in other words, to determine the title to property or the devolution thereof. The court is limited to a determination that the named persons are dead and that it has not been established by clear and convincing evidence that one person survived the other; or, on the other hand, that there is clear and convincing evidence that one person survived the other [Prob. Code § 234]. Additionally, although not specifically authorized by Prob. Code § 234, in a case governed by former Prob. Code §§ 296-296.8 the court may presumably determine whether or not the previous standard of sufficient evidence that the persons died other than simultaneously was met [see Prob. Code § 230(e) (availability of petition to determine whether deaths were other than simultaneous under former law); see also former Prob. Code § 296.42].

§ 458A.23 Notice of Hearing

When the petition is filed, the clerk is required to set it for hearing [Prob. Code § 1041]. Notice of the hearing on the petition must be given as provided in Prob. Code § 1220 to all of the following:

- The personal representative of each person the priority of whose death is in issue, if there is a personal representative for the person [Prob. Code § 233(a)];

- Each known devisee of each person the priority of whose death is in issue [Prob. Code § 233(b)];

- Each known heir of each person the priority of whose death is in issue [Prob. Code § 233(c)];

- All persons (or their attorneys if they have appeared by attorneys) who have requested special notice as provided in Prob. Code § 1250 in the proceeding in which the petition is filed or who have given notice of appearance in person or by attorney in that proceeding [Prob. Code § 233(d)].

Prob. Code § 1220 calls for the notice to be mailed 15 days before the time set for hearing on the petition [Prob. Code § 1220(a)]. In the case of persons requesting special notice, the notice is sent to the address set out in the request [Prob. Code § 1252(a)]. In the case of other persons entitled to notice, the notice must be mailed to the person's business or residence address, if known; however, if a person's business or residence address is not known, the court may order that the notice be given in a manner reasonably calculated to give actual notice to that person [Prob. Code §§ 1212, 1215(d), 1220(a)(3), 1252; see Code Civ. Proc. § 413.30]. If any person entitled to notice is represented by an attorney of record, the notice must also be given to that attorney [Prob. Code § 1214]. In lieu of mailing, the notice may be personally delivered [see Prob. Code § 1216].

The petitioner need not give notice to himself or herself, or to any other person joining in the petition [Prob. Code § 1201].

For a detailed discussion and forms for giving notice, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements .

§ 458A.24 Objections to Petition

Any interested person may appear and object to the petition at or before the hearing [Prob. Code § 1043]. An objection may be oral or in writing [Prob. Code § 1043(a), (b)]. If it is in writing, it must be signed by all of the objectors and filed with the clerk of the court [Prob. Code § 1020]. A written objection must also be verified by at least one of the objectors [Prob. Code § 1021]. However, if an objector is absent from the county, or for some other cause is unable to sign or verify the objection, the objector's attorney may sign or verify the objection, unless the objector is a fiduciary appointed in the proceeding [Prob. Code § 1023].

The court may continue a matter to allow a written objection or response to be made. If the court does so, however, and the responding or objecting party fails to serve and file a timely objection or response, the court may deem the objections or responses waived [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.801].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

39-458A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 458A.26

§ 458A.26 Burden of Proof

In the absence of objections, it would appear that the only burden cast on the petitioner is to sustain his or her own view of the circumstances, if he or she has one. When an objection to a finding of simultaneous deaths is made, the burden that must be sustained by the objector depends on when the deaths took place. If any of the persons died on or after January 1, 1985, the objector must establish by clear and convincing evidence that one of the persons survived the other [see Prob. Code §§ 220, 234]. If none of the persons the priority of whose death is at issue died on or after that date [see Prob. Code § 226], the objector need only prove the contention that one person survived the other person or persons by a preponderance of the evidence [see Estate of Rowley (1967) 257 Cal. App. 2d 324, 333, 65 Cal. Rptr. 139] . For a discussion of the effect of the change in the standard of proof, see § 458A.11.

Chapter 458A PROBATE: SIMULTANEOUS DEATH
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

39-458A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 458A.27

§ 458A.27 Findings

The court must make all of the following determinations at the hearing [see Prob. Code § 234]:

- Whether the persons whose relative times of death are in question have actually died.
- Whether or not it has been established by clear and convincing evidence that one person survived another.
- If it has, in what sequence they died.

If the court determines that the named persons are dead and that it has not been established by clear and convincing evidence that one person survived another, it must make an order to that effect. If the court determines that the named persons are dead and that there is clear and convincing evidence that one person survived another, it must make an order setting forth the order in which the persons died [Prob. Code § 234].

The court's order, when it becomes final, is a binding determination of the facts set forth in the order and is conclusive as against the personal representative of the deceased persons named in the order and against all persons claiming by, through, or under any of the deceased persons [Prob. Code § 234].

§ 458A.41 Decisions

[1] Application of Substantive Rules

[a] In General

Wills of simultaneously deceased spouses are effective to dispose of property after application of Uniform Simultaneous Death Act [former Prob. Code §§ 296-296.8] to determine what property each had at death to dispose of. Estate of Meade (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 169, 172-174, 39 Cal. Rptr. 278 (no provisions in wills for simultaneous deaths)

Substantive rules of Uniform Simultaneous Death Act [former Prob. Code §§ 296-296.8] are applicable in proceeding to determine heirship [former Prob. Code §§ 1080-1082 (now see Prob. Code §§ 11700-11705)]. Estate of Sugino (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 591, 591-597, 73 Cal. Rptr. 150 ; Estate of Hudson (1958) 158 Cal. App. 2d 385, 386-390, 322 P.2d 987 ; Estate of Wedemeyer (1952) 109 Cal. App. 2d 67, 68-72, 240 P.2d 8

Absence of sufficient evidence that two persons died otherwise than simultaneously is condition precedent to application of Uniform Simultaneous Death Act [former Prob. Code §§ 296-296.8]. Azvedo v. Benevolent Soc'y of Cal. (1954) 125 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 894, 899, 125 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 894, 270 P.2d 948 (applying former Prob. Code § 296.3)

Uniform Simultaneous Death Act [former Prob. Code §§ 296-296.8] is inapplicable if there is any sufficient evidence that one person survived another, even when deaths occurred at substantially the same time, and question of survivorship must be determined in such case. Azvedo v. Benevolent Soc'y of Cal. (1954) 125 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 894, 900, 125 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 894, 270 P.2d 948 (reporting case law)

Action to quiet title to real and personal property [Code Civ. Proc. § 738]. Thomas v. Anderson (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 371, 372-377, 215 P.2d 478 (decided under former Prob. Code §§ 296-296.8, but before enactment of former Prob. Code § 296.41, which limited petition to estate proceeding)

[b] Insurance

Proceeds of insurance on husband's life, purchased with community funds and payable to his estate, passed one half through husband's estate and one half through wife's estate under former Prob. Code § 296.4. Estate of Sugino (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 591, 592-597, 73 Cal. Rptr. 150 (affirming ultimate distribution under former Prob. Code § 228; now see Prob. Code § 6402.5)

Proceeds of life insurance on wife, husband being beneficiary, belonged in wife's estate under Prob. Code § 296.3. Estate of Hudson (1958) 158 Cal. App. 2d 385, 387, 322 P.2d 987 (ultimately distributed under former Prob. Code § 228; now see Prob. Code § 6402.5)

Proceeds of life insurance on life of one spouse are distributable under former Prob. Code § 296.4 when spouses owned policy as community property, died intestate simultaneously, and policy named insured spouse's estate as beneficiary. Estate of Wedemeyer (1952) 109 Cal. App. 2d 67, 72, 240 P.2d 8 (applying former Prob. Code § 296.4 as existing before 1951 amendment changing character of property affected by that section from community to separate)

Proceeds of life insurance on life of one spouse, when policy was community property, other spouse was named beneficiary, and spouses died intestate simultaneously, are distributable (as community asset) through estate of insured spouse. Estate of Wedemeyer (1952) 109 Cal. App. 2d 67, 71, 240 P.2d 8 (applying former Prob. Code §§ 201, 296.3)

[c] Joint Tenants

Personal representatives of simultaneously deceased spouses leaving property in joint tenancy each had right to administer and distribute half of such property. Estate of Meade (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 169, 174-175, 39 Cal. Rptr. 278 (applying former Prob. Code § 296.2)

[d] Spouses

Decedent spouse's share of community property, when spouses die simultaneously each leaving valid will, must be disposed of as though each testator had survived and such share constituted his whole estate, he never having inherited from the other. Estate of Meade (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 169, 175, 39 Cal. Rptr. 278 (applying Prob. Code § 296.4)

Allocation of property to spouses' estates under former Prob. Code § 296.4 did not preclude ultimate disposition under former Prob. Code § 228 (now see Prob. Code § 6402.5) in proper case. Estate of Hudson (1958) 158 Cal. App. 2d 385, 389, 322 P.2d 987

Property of simultaneously deceased spouses held in joint tenancy form but actually community property is governed by former Prob. Code § 296.4, not former Prob. Code § 296.2. Estate of Hudson (1958) 158 Cal. App. 2d 385, 388, 322 P.2d 987

[2] Constitutionality

Uniform Simultaneous Death Act [former Prob. Code §§ 296-296.8] is constitutional. Estate of Meade (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 169, 177, 39 Cal. Rptr. 278

[3] Definitions

Death, for purposes of applying Uniform Simultaneous Death Act [former Prob. Code §§ 296-296.8], is total stoppage of circulation of blood and cessation of animal and vital functions of body such as respiration and pulsation. Estate of Schmidt (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 262, 273, 67 Cal. Rptr. 847 (approving reliance on definition in Black's Law Dictionary (3d ed))

"Simultaneously," as used in Uniform Simultaneous Death Act [former Prob. Code §§ 296-296.8], means "at precisely the same instant" or "at substantially the same time" even though not at the same instant, not "approximately at the same time." Thomas v. Anderson (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 371, 375, 215 P.2d 478 (construing former Prob. Code § 296.2)

[4] Effect of Uniform Simultaneous Death Act on Other Statutes of Succession

Uniform Simultaneous Death Act provisions [former Prob. Code §§ 296-296.8] are statutes of succession, but succession thereunder is ultimately, in proper case, governable by older statutes of succession. Estate of Hudson (1958) 158 Cal. App. 2d 385, 389, 322 P.2d 987 (ultimate distribution under former Prob. Code § 228 (now see Prob. Code § 6402.5))

Former Prob. Code §§ 296.3 and 296.4 did not supersede former Prob. Code §§ 201 (surviving spouse's right to one half of community property; now see Prob. Code § 100) and 228 (descent of community property in absence of spouse or issue of marriage; now see Prob. Code §§ 6402, 6402.5); latter two sections designate persons who succeed to property on determination under former two sections which spouse died first. Estate of Wedemeyer (1952) 109 Cal. App. 2d 67, 70, 71, 240 P.2d 8

[5] Evidence

Evidence held sufficient to show that deaths occurred in sequence. Estate of Schmidt (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 262, 271-272, 67 Cal. Rptr. 847 ; Estate of Rowley (1967) 257 Cal. App. 2d 324, 327-328, 334, 65 Cal. Rptr. 139

Objector contending deaths occurred in certain sequence has burden of proving contention by preponderance of evidence. Estate of Rowley (1967) 257 Cal. App. 2d 324, 333, 65 Cal. Rptr. 139 (relying on case law from other jurisdictions)

Physicians giving expert testimony is permitted to testify how injuries occurred, in giving medically based testimony partially based on physical evidence gathered from decedent's body. Estate of Rowley (1967) 257 Cal. App. 2d 324, 338-341, 65 Cal. Rptr. 139

Testimony of lay witnesses not physicians held sufficient evidence multiple deaths were not simultaneous, despite physician's testimony (as expert, not eyewitness) that circumstances do not necessarily indicate sequence of deaths, where circumstances reasonably show deaths were sequential. Thomas v. Anderson (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 371, 375, 215 P.2d 478

[6] Nature of Proceeding

Proceeding under former Prob. Code §§ 296.41, 296.42 characterized as proceeding to determine heirship under Uniform Simultaneous Death Act [former Prob. Code §§ 296-296.8]. Estate of Schmidt (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 262, 264, 67 Cal. Rptr. 847

Object of proceeding under former Prob. Code §§ 296.41, 296.42 is to determine whether substantive rules of Uniform Simultaneous Death Act [former Prob. Code §§ 296-296.8] should be applied. Estate of Hudson (1958) 158 Cal. App.

2d 385, 390, 322 P.2d 987

[7] Objections to Petition

Person making objections is appropriately designated objector. Estate of Sugino (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 591, 73 Cal. Rptr. 150

[8] Order

Order is appealable under former Prob. Code § 1240 (now see Prob. Code § 7240), as order directing or instructing executor or administrator, or as order determining heirship or persons to whom distribution should be made. Estate of Rowley (1967) 257 Cal. App. 2d 324, 327 n. 1, 65 Cal. Rptr. 139

Court is not authorized in hearing on petition filed pursuant to former Prob. Code § 296.41 to determine that persons in question died simultaneously. Estate of Hudson (1958) Cal. App. 2d 385, 390, 158 Cal. App. 2d 385, 322 P.2d 987

[9] Purpose of Uniform Simultaneous Death Act

Purpose of Uniform Simultaneous Death Act [former Prob. Code §§ 296-296.8] is to supplant arbitrary, complicated presumptions of survivorship with effective, workable, equitable rules applicable when two or more persons have died and there is no sufficient evidence to indicate they died otherwise than simultaneously. Azvedo v. Benevolent Soc'y of Cal. (1954) 125 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 894, 901, 125 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 894, 270 P.2d 948 (dictum)

CAUTION:

The foregoing form is for use only when none of the persons the priority of whose death is at issue died on or after January 1, 1985 [Prob. Code § 226]. If one of the persons died on or after that date, the provisions of Prob. Code §§ 220-226 apply [Prob. Code § 226]. Counsel should see § 458A.61 in such a case.

[2] Use of Form

This petition may be used by the personal representative of a decedent's estate or another interested person to obtain a determination that his decedent and another person died under circumstances in which there is no sufficient evidence that they died otherwise than simultaneously [see Prob. Code § 230(e); see also former Prob. Code § 296]. A determination under Prob. Code § 230(e) is proper only if none of the persons the priority of whose death is at issue died on or after January 1, 1985 [Prob. Code § 226]. If one of the persons died on or after that date, the provisions of Prob. Code §§ 220-226 apply [Prob. Code § 226; see § 458A.61].

[3] Jurisdiction

This petition must be filed in the "estate proceeding" in which the petitioner received his appointment as personal representative or in the estate proceeding in which the petitioner claims an interest [see Prob. Code § 232(a)]. If a similar petition is filed in the proceeding in which the estate of the other person is being administered, then the court which first acquired jurisdiction has exclusive jurisdiction to determine either that the deaths in question were sequential or that there is no sufficient evidence that the persons died otherwise than simultaneously [see Prob. Code § 232(b)].

[4] Parties

The petition may be filed by the personal representative of any of the decedents whose time of death is in question, or by any other person interested in the estate of such a decedent [Prob. Code § 231].

[5] Allegations

[a] Standing to Sue

The petition should allege that the petitioner is the duly appointed, qualified, and acting personal representative of the estate of one of the persons whose time of death is in question or that the petitioner is otherwise interested in the estate of one of the persons, explaining the nature of the interest (Paragraph 1) [Prob. Code § 231]. The petition is filed in the proper proceeding as long as it is in the estate proceeding in which the person filing the petition received his or her appointment or in the estate proceeding for the estate in which the person filing the petition claims an interest [Prob. Code § 232(a)].

[b] Deaths

The petition must allege that the petitioner's decedent and another person died under circumstances in which there appears to be no sufficient evidence that they died otherwise than simultaneously (Paragraph 2) [see former Prob. Code § 296; Prob. Code § 230(e)].

[c] Pending Administration of Other Person's Estate

The petition should allege in what proceeding the administration of the estate of the other deceased person is pending and who is the personal representative (Paragraph 3). This will facilitate determining whether another petition has been filed in the other proceeding, which affects the court's jurisdiction [see Prob. Code § 232(b)]; and it will determine whether notice of the hearing on the petition must be personally served on him or whether, instead, notice must be mailed to the heirs and devisees of the other person [see Prob. Code § 233(b), (c)].

[d] Relationship Between Decedent and Other Person

The petition must allege facts showing that because of the relationship between the decedent and the other deceased person, the title to property or the devolution thereof depends on the sequence in which they died (Paragraph 4) [see Prob. Code §§ 220, 230]. If there was no such relationship between the decedent and the other deceased person, then the sequence of their deaths will be irrelevant, and an order of the court determining that sequence or the absence of sufficient evidence that they died otherwise than simultaneously would serve no purpose.

[e] Special Notice

The petition alleges that notice of the hearing on the petition will be given as required by Prob. Code § 1252 to all persons (or their attorneys if they have appeared by attorneys) who have requested special notice as provided in Prob. Code § 1250 in the proceeding in which the petition is filed (Paragraph 5) [Prob. Code § 233(d)].

[f] Heirs and Devisees of Other Deceased Person

The petition should allege the names, as far as the petitioner knows them, of the heirs and devisees of the other person (Paragraph 6). This is necessary because notice of the hearing on the petition must be mailed to those known heirs and devisees [see Prob. Code § 233(b), (c)], and at or before the hearing due notice must be proved [see Prob. Code § 1260(a)].

[6] Prayer

In a proceeding under Prob. Code § 230(e) the court is authorized to determine either that the deaths in question occurred in a certain sequence or that there is no sufficient evidence that those deaths occurred otherwise than simultaneously [see Prob. Code § 234; former Prob. Code § 296]. The court is not authorized to determine that the deaths occurred simultaneously [see Estate of Hudson (1958) 158 Cal. App. 2d 385, 390, 322 P.2d 987] . The prayer should ask for an order determining that the decedents died and that there is no sufficient evidence that they died otherwise than simultaneously [see former Prob. Code § 296].

[7] Verification

The petition must be verified by the petitioner [Prob. Code § 1021]. Furthermore, if the proceeding is uncontested, the court is required to accept the allegations of a verified petition as evidence, thus avoiding the need for testimony [Prob. Code § 1022; see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 446, 2015.5 (form of verification)].

[8] State Statutes

[a] Application of Substantive Rules

Substantive rules in Uniform Simultaneous Death Act [former Prob. Code §§ 296-296.8] apply when title to property or devolution thereof depends on sequence of deaths and there is no sufficient evidence deaths occurred otherwise than simultaneously; former Prob. Code §§ 296-296.4 is applicable when none of the persons the priority of whose death is in issue died on or after January 1, 1985. Prob. Code § 226

[b] Procedure

[i] Jurisdiction

Probate court first acquiring jurisdiction under Prob. Code § 230 has exclusive jurisdiction to determine issues. Prob. Code § 230

[ii] Allegations

Petition under former Prob. Code § 296.41 is required to allege two or more deaths under circumstances in which there is no sufficient evidence they occurred otherwise than simultaneously. Former Prob. Code § 296.41

[iii] Notice of Hearing

Personal representative of each person the priority of whose death is in issue, if any, is entitled to notice of hearing on petition. Prob. Code § 233(a)

Known heirs and devisees of other deceased person is entitled to notice by mail if petitioner is personal representative of estate of that other person. Prob. Code § 233(b), (c)

All persons (or their attorneys if they have appeared by attorneys) who have requested special notice under Prob. Code § 1250 in proceeding in which petition is filed or who have given notice of appearance in person or by attorney in proceeding are entitled to notice of hearing on petition. Prob. Code § 233(d)

Proof of notice must be made at or before hearing on petition. Prob. Code § 1260(a)

[iv] Petition

Petition under Prob. Code § 230 must be filed in pending estate proceeding in which petitioner received appointment as personal representative or in which petitioner is interested. Prob. Code § 232(a)

[v] Petitioner

Petition under Prob. Code § 230 is properly filed by either personal representative of estate of one of persons whose relative time of death is in question or any person interested in that person's estate. Prob. Code § 231

[9] Local Rules of Court

Petitions required to be set for hearing must have self-addressed, stamped envelope attached. Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 10.31(a) (or attach fax cover sheet; *see*Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 10.31(b))

[10] Decisions

Court in proceeding under former Prob. Code §§ 296.41, 296.42 (now see Prob. Code §§ 230-234) is not authorized to determine that deaths occurred simultaneously. Estate of Hudson (1958) 158 Cal. App. 2d 385, 390, 322 P.2d 987

[Verification. See § 458A.60.]

CAUTION:

The foregoing form is for use only when at least one of the persons the priority of whose death is at issue died on or after January 1, 1985 [Prob. Code § 226]. If none of the persons died on or after that date, the provisions of former Prob. Code §§ 296-296.4 apply [Prob. Code § 226]. Counsel should see § 458A.60 in such a case.

[2] Use of Form

This petition is for use by the personal representative of a decedent's estate or another person interested in the estate of the decedent to obtain a determination that it cannot be established by clear and convincing evidence that one person survived another [see Prob. Code § 220, 230(a)]. The determination under Prob. Code § 230(a) is proper when any of the persons the priority of whose death is at issue died on or after January 1, 1985 [Prob. Code § 226]. If none of the persons died on or after that date, the provisions of former Prob. Code §§ 296-296.4 apply [Prob. Code § 226; see § 458A.60].

[3] Allegations

The basic allegations of the petition are the same as those of see § 458A.60, except that the substantive determination petitioned for has been changed to reflect the requirement that the court determine that it cannot be established by clear and convincing evidence that one of the persons survived the other before dealing with each person's property as if that person survived the other [Prob. Code § 220; see § 458A.11].

[4] Prayer

In a proceeding under Prob. Code § 230 the court is authorized to determine either that the deaths occurred in a certain sequence or that it has not been established by clear and convincing evidence that one person survived another [Prob. Code § 234]. The court is not authorized to determine that the deaths occurred simultaneously [see Estate of Hudson (1958) 158 Cal. App. 2d 385, 390, 322 P.2d 987 (interpreting former Prob. Code § 296.42)]. The prayer should ask for an order determining that the decedents died and that it cannot be established by clear and convincing evidence that one of the persons survived the other [see Prob. Code § 220].

[5] State Statutes

Substantive rules of Prob. Code §§ 220-226 apply when person the priority of whose death at issue died on or after January 1, 1985. Prob. Code § 226

1. Objector is _____ [allege objector's standing to file objections, e.g., the duly appointed, qualified, and acting personal representative of the estate of _____ (name of other deceased person), deceased].

2. [Allege procedural objections, if any, e.g., On _____ (date prior to filing of petition objected to), objector filed, in a proceeding in _____ (this court or the Superior Court of _____ County) entitled Estate of _____ (name of other deceased person), Deceased, No. _____, a petition to establish the lack of sufficient evidence that _____ (name of decedent) and _____ (name of other deceased person) died otherwise than simultaneously.]

3. [Allege the existence of sufficient evidence, if any, that deaths were sequential, e.g., On or about _____ (date), _____ (name of decedent) and _____ (name of other deceased person) both died, each from a gunshot wound in the head. The gun that fired the fatal shots was discovered lying near the right hand of _____ (name). It was closer to his right hand than to the left hand of

VERIFICATION [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 446, 2015.5]

I, _____ [name], am the objector in the above-entitled proceeding. I have read the foregoing objections and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [signature]

Objector

CAUTION:

The foregoing form is for use only when none of the persons the priority of whose death is at issue died on or after January 1, 1985 [Prob. Code § 226]. If one of the persons died on or after that date, the provisions of Prob. Code §§ 220-226 apply [Prob. Code § 226]. Counsel should use the allegation set forth in § 458A.63 in place of Paragraph 3 in this form in such a case.

[2] Use of Form

This form may be used to state objections to the petition to establish the lack of evidence that deaths were other than simultaneous [see Prob. Code § 1043]. The objections may be served by mail or by personal delivery [see, e.g., Prob. Code § 1217 (service by mail or delivery when paper is required to be served or otherwise given and no other manner of giving paper is specified by statute)].

[3] Allegations

There is no statutory provision stating who may make objections to a petition or on what grounds objections may be based. It would appear that any person who could file a petition would be entitled to make objections. Certainly the personal representative of the estate of the other deceased person, if he or she has earlier filed a petition, can object on the ground of lack of jurisdiction (Paragraph 2) [see Prob. Code § 232(b)]. The grounds for objection (Paragraphs 3, 4) will depend on the facts of the particular case. In most cases, objection would probably be based on either the absence of a relationship between the two deceased persons making the title to property or the devolution thereof depend on the sequence of their deaths (Paragraph 3) [see former Prob. Code § 296] or the existence of sufficient evidence that the deaths were sequential (Paragraph 4).

[4] Prayer

There is no requirement that the paper stating objections should contain a prayer for any relief, but a prayer is recommended as a means of stating the objector's purpose. The content of the prayer is adaptable to the facts of the particular case. Requests that might be set out in the prayer in the usual case would be that the court decline to hear the petition because the court lacks jurisdiction [see Prob. Code § 232(b)]; that the court deny the petition because there was no relationship between the deceased persons making the title to property or the devolution thereof depend on the sequence of their deaths [see former Prob. Code § 296]; and that the court determine that the deaths in question occurred in a certain sequence.

[5] Verification

The objections must be verified by the objector [see Prob. Code § 1021(a)(2)].

[6] State Statutes

Former Prob. Code §§ 296-296.4 is applicable when no person the priority of whose death at issue died on or after January 1, 1985. Prob. Code § 226

Probate court first acquiring jurisdiction under Prob. Code § 232 has exclusive jurisdiction to determine issues. Prob. Code § 232(b)

Substantive rules in former Uniform Simultaneous Death Act is applicable when title to property or devolution thereof depends on sequence of two or more deaths and there is no sufficient evidence they occurred otherwise than simultaneously. Former Prob. Code § 296

[1] FORM Allegation--One Person's Survival of Another Established by Clear and Convincing Evidence [Prob. Code § 234]

_____ [Allege assertedly clear and convincing evidence that one person survived another, e.g., On or about _____ (date), decedent and _____ (name) died under the following circumstances: _____ (specify circumstances, e.g., they were both killed in an automobile accident that occurred on or about the above-mentioned date in _____ County. An officer of the California Highway Patrol was the first person to arrive at the scene after the accident, and he/she found both decedent and _____ (name of other person) in the wreckage. Although _____ (name of other person) was dead, decedent was alive when the officer arrived, and died later).]

CAUTION:

This form of allegation is for use only when at least one of the persons the priority of whose death is at issue died on or after January 1, 1985 [Prob. Code § 226]. If none of the persons died on or after that date, the provisions of former Prob. Code §§ 296-296.4 apply [Prob. Code § 226]. Counsel should see § 458A.62 in such a case.

[2] Use of Form

This allegation should be substituted for Paragraph 3 in § 458A.62 when one or more of the persons whose deaths are in issue died on or after January 1, 1985, and the basis for the objection to the petition is that it can be established by clear and convincing evidence that one person survived the other [Prob. Code §§ 220, 234]. If this allegation is used, the prayer set forth in Form 607 should be changed to conform with the language of Prob. Code § 234.

[3] Contents of Allegation

This allegation should include the evidentiary support for the requested conclusion of the court that there is clear and convincing evidence that one person survived another [see Prob. Code § 234]. For a discussion of the substantive requirements inherent in such a finding, see § 458A.11.

Judge of the Superior Court

CAUTION:

This form is for use only if none of the persons the priority of whose death is at issue died on or after January 1, 1985 [Prob. Code § 226]. If one of the persons died on or after that date, the provisions of Prob. Code §§ 220-226 apply [Prob. Code § 226]. Counsel should see § 458A.65 in such a case.

[2] Use of Form

This order may be submitted to the court when the court has determined that there is no sufficient evidence that the deaths in question occurred otherwise than simultaneously. The order is required to be to the effect that the persons in question are dead and that there is no sufficient evidence that they died otherwise than simultaneously [see former Prob. Code § 296; see also Prob. Code §§ 226 (continued effect of former law), 230(e) (availability of petition to determine whether persons died other than simultaneously under former law)].

[3] Binding Effect of Order

The order, when it becomes final, constitutes a binding determination of the facts that it sets forth and is conclusive against the personal representatives of the deceased persons named in the order and against all persons claiming by, through, or under any of those deceased persons [see Prob. Code § 234]. The statute does not state when the order becomes final.

[4] Appeal From Order

At least one court has observed (without actually holding) that the order made under former Prob. Code § 296.42 is an order "instructing or directing an executor or administrator" and thus is appealable under former Prob. Code § 1240 (now see Prob. Code § 1297) [see *Estate of Rowley (1967) 257 Cal. App. 2d 324, 327 n. 1, 65 Cal. [2] Use of Form

This order may be submitted to the court when the court has determined that one of the decedents died before the other. The form of the order and its exact conclusion depends on whether or not any of the persons whose death is in issue died on or after January 1, 1985 [see Prob. Code § 226]. If any of the persons died on or after that date, the provisions of Prob. Code §§ 220-226 apply, requiring that there be clear and convincing evidence that one person survived another [see Prob. Code §§ 220, 234]. In such a case, the first alternative Finding No. 5 and Order No. 2 should be used. However, if none of the persons whose death is in issue died on or after January 1, 1985, the provisions of former Prob. Code §§ 296-296.4 apply, requiring only that there be no sufficient evidence that the deaths were other than simultaneous [see former Prob. Code § 296]. Thus, in such a case, the second alternative Finding No. 5 and Order No. 2 are appropriate. For discussion of the difference between the standards, see § 458A.11.

§ 458B.10 Governing Law

The resignation, suspension, or removal of a personal representative is governed generally by Prob. Code §§ 8500-8525. The revocation of the personal representative's letters on various grounds is authorized by Prob. Code §§ 8480(c) (failure to give added security), 8505 (contempt of court), 8804 (failure to file inventory and appraisal in a timely manner), 10900, 10950, 11052, and Code Civ. Proc. § 166 (failure to render account when required), and Prob. Code §§ 11051(b), 11052 (purposeful evasion of personal service of citation or neglecting to render account).

Additionally, there are a wide variety of local court rules governing probate practice. To insure complete compliance, the attorney should consult the applicable rules.

§ 458B.12 Removal

[1] Statutory Grounds

[a] Wrongdoing, Neglect, or Incapacity

The main grounds for removal of a personal representative are for any of the following causes [Prob. Code § 8502]:

- The personal representative has wasted, embezzled, mismanaged, or committed a fraud on the estate, or is about to do so.
- The personal representative is incapable of properly executing the duties of the office, or is otherwise not qualified for appointment as personal representative.
- The personal representative has wrongfully neglected the estate, or has long neglected to perform any act as personal representative.
- Removal is otherwise necessary to protect the estate or interested persons.
- Any other cause provided by statute.

In addition to this basic statute, there are miscellaneous provisions that establish other grounds for the removal of the personal representative. The additional grounds are as follows:

- Failure to give sufficient or additional bond ordered [Prob. Code § 8480(c)].
- Being found in contempt for disobeying an order of the court [Prob. Code § 8505].
- Failure to file inventory and appraisal within the prescribed time [Prob. Code § 8804(b)].
- Failure to render an account [Prob. Code §§ 11051(b), 11052].

- For nonresident personal representatives only, failure to comply with the statement of permanent address requirements [Prob. Code § 8577(a)].

[b] Removal in Favor of Person With Higher Priority

[i] In General

A surviving spouse or relative entitled to succeed to all or part of the estate, or a nominee of such a person, may petition for the removal of a previously appointed administrator if the surviving spouse or relative is higher in priority than the incumbent administrator [Prob. Code § 8503(a); see Prob. Code §§ 8461-8468 (priority for appointment as administrator); see § 458B.51]. However, the court in its discretion may refuse to grant the petition if [see Prob. Code § 8503(b)]:

- The petition is by a person or the nominee of a person who had actual notice of the proceeding in which the administrator was appointed and had an opportunity to contest the appointment;

- To do so would be contrary to the sound administration of the estate, as for example, when administration is nearly complete or has otherwise progressed to a point at which replacement of the administrator would be inappropriate [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 8503].

[ii] Petition to Probate Will After Administration Has Commenced

If an administrator has been appointed on the ground of intestacy, and a will is subsequently admitted to probate, the administrator must be removed from office [see Prob. Code § 8504(a)].

If an executor or administrator with the will annexed has been appointed, the subsequent admission of a different will terminates the powers of that previously appointed personal representative [see Prob. Code §§ 8272(b), 8504(b); for discussion and forms, see Ch. 444, Probate: Will Contests].

[2] Nonstatutory Grounds

Apart from the statutory grounds enumerated, the court has the power to remove a personal representative for other cause, for example, adverse interest or hostile acts [Luckey v. Superior Court (1930) 209 Cal. 360, 369-370, 287 P. 450 ; Estate of Palm (1945) 68 Cal. App. 2d 204, 210, 156 P.2d 62] . The statutory provisions are viewed as not placing any limitations on the court's inherent power to remove one of its officers whose self interest is so opposed to his or her trust as to render the officer unfit to act [Estate of Guzzetta (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d 169, 173, 217 P.2d 460] .

[3] Order to Show Cause

On petition for removal by any interested person [see Prob. Code §§ 48, 8500(a)], or whenever the court has reason to believe from its own knowledge or from other credible information that grounds for removal exist, whether on the settlement of an account or otherwise, the court must issue a citation to the personal representative to appear and show cause why the personal representative should not be removed. The court may suspend the powers of the personal representative and make any other orders necessary to deal with the property pending the hearing on the matter [Prob. Code § 8500(b); see Prob. Code § 1242 (service of citation)].

[4] Hearing

Any interested person may appear at the hearing and file a written declaration showing that the personal representative should be removed or retained. The personal representative may demur to, or answer, the declaration. The court may compel the personal representative to attend the hearing, and may compel the personal representative to answer questions, under oath, concerning administration of the estate [Prob. Code § 8500(c); see Prob. Code § 48 (interested person defined)].

[5] Removal and Revocation of Letters

Failure to attend the hearing or answer is cause for removal of the personal representative [Prob. Code § 8500(c)]. The issues must be heard and determined by the court. The court is required to remove the personal representative from office if the court is satisfied from the evidence that the citation has been duly served and cause exists for removal [Prob. Code § 8500(d)].

§ 458B.13 Validity of Acts Preceding Vacancy in Office

All acts of a personal representative before a vacancy occurs are valid to the same extent as if no vacancy had later occurred. The liability of a personal representative whose office is vacant, or of the surety on the bond, is not discharged, released, or affected by the vacancy or by the appointment of a successor. Instead, it continues until settlement of the personal representative's accounts and delivery of all the estate of the decedent to the successor personal representative or other person appointed by the court to receive it. In addition, the personal representative must render an account of the administration within the period of time that the court directs [Prob. Code § 8525].

The court may make any necessary orders, including appointment of a special administrator, to deal with the estate of the decedent between the time a vacancy occurs in the office of personal representative and appointment of a successor. [Prob. Code § 8523; see Prob. Code §§ 8540-8547 (special administrators)].

The liability of the outgoing personal representative, or of the sureties on his or her bond, is not discharged, released, or affected by the vacancy or by appointment of a successor, but continues until settlement of the personal representative's accounts and delivery of all the estate of the decedent to the successor personal representative or other person appointed by the court to receive it [*Prob. PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

39-458B California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 458B.15

§ 458B.15 Appointment of Successor Personal Representative When Vacancy Occurs

If a vacancy occurs in the office of fewer than all personal representatives, the remaining personal representatives must complete the administration of the estate unless the will provides otherwise, or unless the court exercises its discretion to enter a contrary order. In such cases, on the filing of a petition, the court may order the clerk to issue appropriate amended letters to the remaining personal representatives [Prob. Code § 8521].

If a vacancy occurs in the office of a personal representative and there are no other personal representatives, however, the court must appoint a successor personal representative. The appointment must be made on petition and service of notice on interested persons in the manner provided in Prob. Code §§ 8110-8113. Successor appointments are subject to the same priority as for an original appointment of a personal representative. Personal representatives of deceased personal representatives are not, as such, entitled to appointment as successor personal representatives [Prob. Code § 8522; see Ch. 442, Probate: Initiating Probate Administration].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

39-458B California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 458B.16

§ 458B.16 Authority of Successor Personal Representative

Except as provided in Prob. Code § 8442(b) (authority of administrator with will annexed) or as otherwise ordered by the court, the successor personal representative has the same powers and duties with respect to the continued administration that the former personal representative would have had [Prob. Code § 8524(c)]. Thus, a successor personal representative is entitled to demand, sue for, recover and collect all the decedent's estate remaining unadministered, and may prosecute to final judgment any suit commenced by the former personal representative before the vacancy [Prob. Code § 8524(a)]. In addition, no notice, process, or claim given to or served on the former personal representative need be given to or served on the successor to preserve any position or right the person giving the notice or filing the claim may have obtained or preserved with reference to the former personal representative [Prob. Code § 8524(b)].

A successor fiduciary of an estate in probate has the authority to assert a professional negligence claim against an attorney retained by a predecessor fiduciary to provide tax assistance for the benefit of the estate [Borissoff v. Taylor & Faust (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 523, 528-529, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 735, 93 P.3d 337] . A successor fiduciary's power to sue for malpractice is no different than the successor's power to sue for nonperformance a person hired by the predecessor to fix the roof of a house belonging to the estate. The successor has the same powers and duties as the predecessor, including the power to sue, even though there is no privity of contract [Borissoff v. Taylor & Faust (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 523, 530, 535, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 735,93 P.3d 337] .

39-458B California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 458B.31

§ 458B.31 Decisions

[1] Appeal

Order denying petition by creditor to remove personal representative is appealable, and when not appealed, it becomes final and conclusive. Estate of Exterstein (1934) 2 Cal. 2d 13, 16, 38 P.2d 151

Appeal from order removing personal representative merely suspends personal representative from office and permits only appointment of special personal representative. In re Moore (1890) 86 Cal. 72, 73, 24 P. 846 (decided under former Code Civ. Proc. § 1411; now see Prob. Code §§ 8540, 8541, 8544)

Probate court's decision whether circumstances warrant removal of executor is not subject to interference on appeal except for clear abuse. Estate of Effron (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 915, 930, 173 Cal. Rptr. 93

When personal representative is removed and another appointed, on filing of notice of appeal by first personal representative, general powers of subsequent one are suspended and replaced with special powers. Estate of Kromrey (1950) 98 Cal. App. 2d 639, 647, 220 P.2d 805

[2] Burden of Proof

In hearing on removal of personal representative, burden of proof is on petitioner. Estate of Buchman (1954) 123 Cal. App. 2d 546, 554, 267 P.2d 73

[3] Demurrer

Personal representative's demurrer to petition for removal on general grounds and on special ground that petition was uncertain granted. Estate of Wacholder (1946) 76 Cal. App. 2d 452, 455, 173 P.2d 359

On demurrer to petition to revoke personal representative's letters, court required to accept as true allegations in petition. Estate of Calhoun (1938) 27 Cal. App. 2d 706, 709-710, 81 P.2d 605

[4] Grounds for Removal

Fact that action was pending by decedent's estate against employer of person nominated in will as personal representative did not disqualify the nominee from appointment. Estate of Daigh (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 367, 368-369, 29 Cal. Rptr. 273, 379 P.2d 761

Probate court has duty to scrutinize accounts of personal representatives, and to revoke letters on mismanagement. Estate of Gainfort (1938) 11 Cal. 2d 298, 300-301, 79 P.2d 97

Personal representative judged insane by county court was incapable, not merely incompetent to act, and probate court was able to revoke his letters and grant new ones without citation to him to show cause. In re Blinn (1893) 99 Cal. 216, 219-222, 33 P. 841 (decided under former §§ 5791, 5795, 5979 of Hittell's General Laws; now see Prob. Code §§ 8520-8523, 8525(b))

Surviving spouse's nominated son had priority over decedent's daughter in obtaining letters of administration under Prob. Code § 8461 when the past filing of a dissolution action by surviving spouse was dismissed for lack of prosecution, resulting in surviving spouse having priority under Prob. Code § 8463 as well as her son, as nominee, having priority under Prob. Code § 8465. Estate of Garrett (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 831, 839, 71 Cal. Rptr. 3d 864

Executor is subject to removal for conflict of interest in asserting claim adverse to estate and its principal beneficiary and for breach of fiduciary duties in failing to file timely inventory that would have shown he improperly paid himself travel expenses, in causing beneficiary to personally obligate herself to pay attorney's fees, and in failing to obtain prior court approval for payment of attorney fees. Estate of Hammer (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 1621, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 190

Court has inherent power, independent of statute, to remove trustee who acquires interest or becomes charged with duty adverse to interest of beneficiary, but mere potential conflict unaccompanied by adverse action is not sufficient to justify removal. Estate of Feeney (1983) 139 Cal. App. 3d 812, 818, 189 Cal. Rptr. 84

Statutory provision for removal of executor or administrator in certain instances is designed to deal with administrative malfeasance amounting to moral wrong; removal for refusing to sign petition to vacate sale of property and confirm new sale was improper when court could issue order requiring executrix to execute petitions pursuant to former Prob. Code § 758. Estate of Feeney (1983) 139 Cal. App. 3d 812, 818 , 189 Cal. Rptr. 84 (decided under former Prob. Code § 521; now see Prob. Code §§ 8500(b), 8502)

Mere conflict in interest between one named as executor who is charged with holding property adversely to estate and heirs of testator does not necessarily amount to such a want of integrity as to render that person incompetent to serve as executor; but fact that one seeking appointment as administrator is claiming property transferred to him or her by decedent under circumstances that make it apparent that action would have to be maintained against him or her by estate to determine ownership of that property is a circumstance, though not disqualifying, which should be taken into account by probate court in exercising its discretion in choosing between applicants. Estate of Muller (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 259, 276, 82 Cal. Rptr. 531

Probate court not advised to remove testator's chosen personal representative for trivial causes, particularly for matters subject to ready adjustment in settlement of accounts. Estate of Cole (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 324, 332, 49 Cal. Rptr. 419

Court's refusal to remove personal representative only reversible on showing of abuse of discretion. Estate of Hirschberg (1964) 224 Cal. App. 2d 449, 462, 36 Cal. Rptr. 661

Trial judge was wide discretion in determining whether facts of particular case warrant removal of personal representative. Estate of Meyers (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 764, 769, 324 P.2d 597

Law does not hold personal representative responsible for consequences of mistakes that are the result of imperfection of human judgment and do not proceed from fraud, gross carelessness, or indifference to duty. Estate of Buchman (1954) 123 Cal. App. 2d 546, 556, 267 P.2d 73

Nonstatutory grounds for removal of personal representative. Estate of Guzzetta (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d 169, 173, 217 P.2d 460 ; see also Luckey v. Superior Court (1930) 209 Cal. 360, 369-370, 287 P. 450

What constitutes mismanagement. Estate of Palm (1945) 68 Cal. App. 2d 204, 210, 156 P.2d 62 ; see also Buss v. J. O. Martin Co. (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 123, 134, 50 Cal. Rptr. 206

[5] Petitioner's Costs

Heir who successfully prosecutes action for removal of personal representative is not entitled to payment out of estate of expenditures incurred in removal action. Estate of Bell (1905) 145 Cal. 646, 650, 79 P. 358

[6] Right to Hearing

Court is not able on its own motion to remove personal representative without giving personal representative opportunity to be heard. In re Moore (1890) 83 Cal. 583, 586, 23 P. 794 (decided under former Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1436-1440; now see Prob. Code §§ 8500, 8502)

Personal representative has right to hearing before removal, and court required to have some fact legally before it in order to justify removal. Estate of Buchman (1954) 123 Cal. App. 2d 546, 554-557, 267 P.2d 73

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by an interested person to petition the court for an order requiring the personal representative to appear and show cause why he or she should not be removed from office and his or her letters revoked [Prob. Code§§ 8500, 8501]. The petition must be verified by the petitioner [see Prob. Code § 1021].

The petition for removal may be combined with a petition for appointment of a successor [Prob. Code § 8500(a); see § 458B.58]. Appointment of a successor is made on service of notice on interested persons in the manner provided in Prob. Code §§ 8110-8113 (notice of petition for administration of estate). For discussion and forms, see Ch. 442, Probate: Initiating Probate Administration .

[3] Allegations

The petition alleges the petitioner's standing as an interested person (Paragraph 1) [see Prob. Code §§ 48, 8500(a)] and identifies the personal representative and states facts supporting grounds for removal (Paragraphs 2 and 3) [see, e.g., Prob. Code § 8502; for discussion, see § 458B12[1], [3]]. In addition to the grounds specified in the petition, the personal representative may be removed for failing to attend the hearing or to answer questions under oath concerning the administration of the estate [Prob. Code § 8500(c)].

The form includes optional allegations to request:

- Suspension of the personal representative's powers (Paragraph 4) [see Prob. Code § 8500(b)].

- Any necessary orders to deal with property pending the hearing on the petition for removal (Paragraph 5) [see Prob. Code § 8500(b)].

- Any necessary orders to deal with the estate of the decedent after the removal of the personal representative until appointment of a successor, which may include appointment of a special administrator (Paragraph 6) [see Prob. Code § 8523].

In appointing a special administrator, the court will ordinarily give preference to the person entitled to appointment as personal representative, but is also empowered to appoint the public administrator [see Prob. Code § 8541(b)]. Thus, the form includes optional language to identify the person entitled to appointment (Paragraph 7) [see Prob. Code §§ 8441, 8461 (priority of entitlement to appoint as administrator; see Prob. Code §§ 8420-8425 (appointment of executor)]. If the petitioner is entitled to appointment, he or she may nominate an administrator [see Prob. Code § 8465 (priority of nominees)]. If appointment of a special administrator is sought and the petitioner wants the special administrator to have more or less powers than such an administrator ordinarily has, or wants an order approving a particular act or acts, the optional language within Paragraph 5 of the prayer should be included [see Prob. Code §§ 8540, 8541(c), 8544]. For further discussion of special administrators and forms relating to their appointment, see Ch. 442, Probate: Initiating Probate Administration .

[4] Notice of Hearing on Petition

Notice of the petition is given to the personal representative in the form of a citation and order to show cause issued by the court [Prob. Code § 8500(b)]. Prob. Code §§ 8500-8505 do not require that notice be given of the petition for removal, but notice may be required by other provisions. If anyone has requested special notice of petitions filed in the administration proceeding, at least 15 days' notice will have to be given to them, unless notice has been dispensed with by court order [see Prob. Code §§ 1250(c)(1),(d), 1252(a); see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements]. If appointment of a special administrator is requested, it may be done without notice or on such notice as the court deems reasonable [see Prob. Code § 8541(a)]. If appointment of a successor personal representative is requested, the petitioner must comply with the more extensive notice requirements of Prob. Code §§ 8110-8113 [see Prob. Code § 8522(b); for discussion, see Ch. 442, Probate: Initiating Probate Administration].

The court does not have power to accept or reject the resignation [see Estate of Grafmiller (1938) 27 Cal. App. 2d 253, 257-258, 81 P.2d 181 (construing the first sentence of former Prob. However, the court retains jurisdiction and the resignation is not effective to terminate the continuing liability of the personal representative and that of his or her sureties until the personal representative settles his or her accounts and delivers all the property to the successor or other person appointed by the court to receive it. The personal representative must render an account of the administration within the time that the court directs [see Prob. Code §§ 8520, 8523, 8525(b)].
