Cause of action for aider and abettor liability was stated against accounting firm who knew that memoranda it aided in preparing were false and did not disclose that fact, and when plaintiffs alleged they relied on accounting firm's reputation in deciding to invest and would not have invested if accounting firm had disclosed fraud. Roberts v. Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. (9th Cir. 1988) 857 F.2d 646, 652-653 , cert. denied, 493 U.S. 1002, 110 S. Ct. 561, 107 L. Ed. 2d 556 (1989)

No civil RICO cause of action was stated against failed savings and loan's accountants or accounting firm when all actions taken by accountants and information learned by them were in furtherance of single audit, which thus constituted only one predicate act. Blake v. Dierdorff (9th Cir. 1988) 856 F.2d 1365, 1371

Incorrect advice regarding reporting for securities transaction, even though it influenced purchaser's decision to purchase security, was not sufficiently connected with sale of security to render purchaser's accountants liable for misrepresentation under federal securities law. In re Financial Corp. of America Shareholder Lit. (9th Cir. 1986) 796 F.2d 1126, 1129-1131

Auditor, when auditing insurance company, owes duty of due care not to make negligent misrepresentations to Insurance Commissioner in latter's capacity as representative of policyholders and creditors. Arthur Andersen v. Superior Court (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 1481, 1507, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 879 (on receiving audit report filed pursuant to Ins. Code § 900.2, Insurance Commissioner comes within universe of foreseeable plaintiffs; if Commissioner relies on negligent misrepresentations in audit report, and if insurance company's claims-paying ability damaged as consequence, award of damages may be made against auditor in favor of policyholders and other creditors)

Elements of accounting malpractice based on negligence are: (1) Duty of accountant to use skill, prudence and diligence as other members of accounting profession commonly possess and exercise; (2) Breach of duty; (3) Proximate causal connection between negligent conduct and resulting injury; and (4) Actual loss or damage resulting from accountant's negligence. Further, in action for accounting malpractice based on allegedly negligent trial litigation support, trial--within--trial standard, under which plaintiff is required to prove that in underlying trial, plaintiff would have prevailed, applies. Mattco Forge, Inc. v. Arthur Young & Co. (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 820, 831-837, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 780

Accounting firm was not liable under Corp. Code § 25503 (sale of unregistered securities) or 25504 (liability of controlling person for sale of unregistered securities) when it had no other connection to transaction than as accountant for both entities involved. Sherman v. Lloyd (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 693, 703, 226 Cal. Rptr. 495

Person uttering misrepresentation was liable only to those in whom intended to induce reliance and who do so rely and not to third parties. Cohen v. Citizens Nat'l Trust & Sav. Bank (1956) 143 Cal. App. 2d 480, 484, 300 P.2d 14

[b] Public Accountants

Accountant has positive, specific duty if he or she contracts to do specific thing. L. B. Laboratories, Inc. v. Mitchell (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 56, 63, 244 P.2d 385

Contractual negligence gives rise to action against accountant either in tort or on contract. Eads v. Marks (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 807, 810-811, 249 P.2d 257

Unwarranted disclosure of confidential information by accountant formerly employed by firm of certified public accountants was breach of trust and capable of being restrained by injunction. Ernst & Ernst v. Carlson (1966) 247 Cal. App. 2d 125, 128-129, 55 Cal. Rptr. 626

Report made for plaintiffs by accountant from defendant's records during plaintiffs' preparation for trial was confidential. Oppenheimer v. Minks (1956) 141 Cal. App. 2d 485, 493, 297 P.2d 67

[2] Regulation of Practice of Public Accountancy

Hearsay was not competent evidence to support revocation of license. Walker v. City of San Gabriel (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 879, 881, 129 P.2d 349

Public accountants were properly disciplined for failure to test county's compliance with investment-related laws, where accounting firm's audit plan stated that U.S. Auditor General required auditors to report on compliance with laws and regulations, and, among other things, firm would 'identify any material instance of noncompliance with applicable state laws; firm identified compliance with investment laws as an important audit objective in earlier general audit plans; county asserted in its financial statements that it did not violate laws dealing with deposits, investments, or reverse purchase agreements; various written professional standards required audits for compliance with investment-related laws; and there was expert testimony that auditors engaged to audit public agency had duty to test and report on compliance with investment-related laws and regulations. McBride v. California Bd. of Accountancy (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 518, 528-529, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 287

Fact that differing standards of proof and practice may be used in suspension or revocation proceeding conducted by governmental body or agency did not make former Bus. & Prof. Code § 5100(g) [now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 5100(h)] invalid; statute's reliance on licensee's failure to conform to professional conduct regulations imposed by, and voluntarily assumed in other jurisdiction, was not unreasonable. Clare v. State Bd. of Accountancy (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 294, 304-305, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 481

Determination of what constitutes practice of public accountancy. State Bd. of Accountancy v. Lender's Serv. Corp. (1960) 179 Cal. App. 2d 150, 162-163, 3 Cal. Rptr. 656

Accounting was not subject to provisions of and Professions Code when referee was appointed by trial court pursuant to its general authority to refer accounting matters to a referee. Huntoon v. Hurley (1955) 137 Cal. App. 2d 33, 38, 290 P.2d 14

Services of accountant with respect to income tax returns constituted practice of law. Agran v. Shapiro (1954) 127 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 807, 812-820, 273 P.2d 619 , 127 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 807, 273 P.2d 619

[3] Rights of Public Accountants

Proceeding in mandamus to annul State Board of Accountancy's decision to revoke certificate and permit to practice accountancy. Kramer v. State Board of Accountancy (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 163, 166, 19 Cal. Rptr. 226

In action by accountant for payment for services rendered, defense alleging services constituted practice of law is generally valid but if services do not constitute practice of law was invalid. Zelkin v. Caruso Discount Corp. (1960) 186 Cal. App. 2d 802, 806, 9 Cal. Rptr. 220

Writ of mandate to review proceedings of State Board of Accountancy revoking accountant's license to practice accountancy dismissed on ground of lack of prosecution. Wisler v. California State Bd. of Accountancy (1955) 136 Cal. App. 2d 79, 81, 288 P.2d 322

Action by accountant for account stated, oral agreement for professional services and indebtedness; statute of limitations raised too late in proceedings to be timely. Horwath v. Roosevelt Hotel Co. (1953) 118 Cal. App. 2d 1, 8, 257 P.2d 56

Action by accountant against employer for balance of compensation due for services rendered. Breslauer v. McCormick-Saeltzer Co. (1916) 31 Cal. App. 284, 285, 160 P. 251

[4] Statute of Limitations

Claim for accounting malpractice action is governed by two-year statute of limitations contained in Code Civ. Proc. § 339(1). International Engine Parts, Inc. v. Feddersen & Co. (1995) 9 Cal. 4th 606, 608, 38 Cal. Rptr 2d. 150, 888 P.2d 1279

Fraudulent concealment of facts tolled statute of limitations. L. B. Laboratories, Inc. v. Mitchell (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 56, 64-65, 244 P.2d 385 ; Sears, Roebuck & Co. v. Blade (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 580, 587, 294 P.2d 140

In malpractice action by school district against accounting firm and accountant, trial court properly sustained defendants' demurrer without leave to amend based on running of statute of limitations [Code Civ. Proc. § 339(a)], where statute began to run when district learned of improper payments to state for charter school not entitled to funds, based on claimed misrepresentations in audit report which allegedly induced district to provide funds, and when district incurred expenses in effort to assess and limit its exposure, notwithstanding fact it had not been determined that district was legally responsible for reimbursing state for funds, and where district did not file suit until more than two years later. Apple Valley Unified School District v. Vavrinek, Trine, Day & Co. (2002) 98 Cal. App. 4th 934, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 629

For purposes of accounting malpractice action based on improperly prepared tax return, actual injury occurs so as to commence running of statute of limitations when Internal Revenue Service assesses tax deficiency. Curtis v. Kellogg & Andelson (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 492, 500-503, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 536

Statute of limitations for accounting malpractice action begins to run when plaintiff sustains actual or appreciable harm as result of accountant's negligence. Schrader v. Scott (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 1679, 1684-1687, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 433

Statute of limitations for accounting malpractice action starts to run when plaintiff both sustains actual harm and discovers, or with reasonable diligence should have discovered, wrongful acts. Electronic Equipment Express, Inc. v. Donald H. Seiler & Co. (1981) 122 Cal. App. 3d 834, 848, 176 Cal. Rptr. 239

Statute of limitations for fraud and professional negligence runs from time wrongful acts discovered or with reasonable diligence could have been discovered. Bedolla v. Logan & Frazer (1975) 52 Cal. App. 3d 118, 130-131, 125 Cal. Rptr. 59

Criminal statute of limitations does not applying to proceedings for suspension or revocation of private investigator's license. Wayne v. Bureau of Private Investigators & Adjusters (1962) 201 Cal. App. 2d 427, 439, 20 Cal. Rptr. 194

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesAccountant-Client PrivilegeGeneral OverviewGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsLicensesTortsBusiness TortsFraud & MisrepresentationNegligent MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityProfessional ServicesTortsProcedureStatutes of LimitationsAccrual of ActionsDiscovery Rule

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 462 PUBLIC ACCOUNTANT S
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-462 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 462.44

§ 462.44 Attorney General Opinions

State Board of Accountancy's administrative rules and regulations provide adequate interpretation as to character of government experience required to qualify as certified public accountant. 70 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 292 (1987)

Regulation of experience requirements of CPA applicants. 60 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 1 (1977)

Public accountant not able to obtain new permit after permit to practice canceled by failure to renew for five years. 42 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 43, 44 (1963)

Lack of good moral character not covered by Bus. & Prof. Code § 5100 not ground for discipline of certified public accountant. 36 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 169, 174 (1960)

Accountants, whether privately employed or engaged in practice of public accountancy, subject to rules of professional conduct promulgated by State Board of Accountancy. 35 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 120, 122 (1960)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawAgency InvestigationsScopeSubpoenasGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsLicenses

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 462 PUBLIC ACCOUNTANT S
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-462 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 462.45

§ 462.45 Law Reviews

Lowenfels & Bromberg, Liabilities of Lawyers and Accountants Under Rule 10b-5, 53 Bus. Law. 1157 (1998)

Comment, Bily v. Arthur Young & Co: An Inequitable Approach to Defining Accountant Liability to Third Parties, 28 U.S.F. L. Rev. 239 (1993)

Comment, Professional-Client Sex: Is Criminal Liability an Appropriate Means of Enforcing Professional Responsibility, 40 UCLA L. Rev. 1275 (1993)

Note, Accountants' Liability after Bily v. Arthur Young & Co.: A More Equitable Proposal for Third Party Recovery, 45 Hastings L.J. 147 (1993)

Note, Bily v. Arthur Young & Co.: Is Limiting Auditor Liability to Third Parties Favoritism or Fair Play? 26 Loy. L.A. L. Rev. 1335 (1993)

Gruenbaum and Steinberg, Accountants' Liability and Responsibility: Securities, Criminal and Common Law, 13 Loy. L.A. L. Rev. 247 (1980)

Adams, Lessening the Legal Liability of Auditors, 32 Bus. Law. 1037 (1977)

Deer, Fiflis, Gonson, Henry, Hill & Scott, Responsibilities and Liabilities of Auditors and Accountants, 30 Bus. Law., Special Issue 169 (1975)

Note, Newly Registered Securities and Accountants' Liability to Third Party Investors Under the Federal Securities Law, 5 Golden Gate U.L. Rev. 305 (1975)

Note, Certified Public Accountants' Liability for Unaudited Financial Statements, 8 Cal. W.L. Rev. 368 (1972)

Murphy, Torts: Accountant's Common Law Liability to Third Persons for Misrepresentation--Rusch Factors, Inc. v. Levin (D.R.I. 1968), 57 Calif. L. Rev. 281 (1969)

Neider and Tims, CPA Incorporation--Why Not? 10 Santa Clara Law. 64 (1969)

Levitin, Accountants' Scope of Liability for Defective Financial Reports, 15 Hastings L.J. 436 (1964)

Comment, Accountants, Income Tax and the Unauthorized Practice of Law, 15 Hastings L.J. 321 (1964)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesAccountant-Client PrivilegeGeneral OverviewGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsLicensesLegal EthicsUnauthorized Practice of LawTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityProfessional Services

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 462 PUBLIC ACCOUNTANT S
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-462 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 462.46

§ 462.46 Text References

Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 3, Actions, § 742 (4th ed. 1996)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 6, Torts, §§ 990, 991, 994 (10th ed. 2005)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawAgency InvestigationsScopeSubpoenasGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsLicenses

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 462 PUBLIC ACCOUNTANT S
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-462 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 462.47through 462.49

[Reserved]

§§ 462.47[Reserved]

121 of 126 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 462 PUBLIC ACCOUNTANT S
PART IV. FORMS

40-462 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 462.50

§ 462.50 Complaint by Public Accountant for Compensation for Services Rendered [Civ. Code § 3302]--With Common Counts on Account Stated and for Work and Labor

[1] FORM Complaint by Public Accountant for Compensation for Services Rendered [Civ. Code § 3302]--With Common Counts on Account Stated and for Work and Labor

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

[or other as appropriate]

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR MONEY
_____ [name], [and DOES I	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE] through _____,]	)	[Amount demanded _____
Defendant(s).	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
	)

Plaintiff alleges:

FIRST COUNT

(Breach of Contract)

1. Plaintiff is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a [certified] public accountant, duly licensed by the California State Board of Accountancy to practice accountancy in California.

2. Defendant is, and at all times mentioned herein was, _____ [a corporation, organized and existing under the laws of California with its principal place of business in _____ County, California or allege other capacity and residence of defendant].

[3. Defendants Doe I through Doe _____, inclusive, are sued herein under fictitious names. Their true names and capacities are unknown to plaintiff. When their true names and capacities are ascertained, plaintiff will amend this complaint by inserting their true names and capacities herein. (Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of the fictitiously named defendants is indebted to plaintiff as hereinafter alleged, and that plaintiff's rights against such fictitiously named defendants arise from such indebtedness.)]

[4. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that at all times herein mentioned each of the defendants, including all defendants sued under fictitious names, was the agent and employee of each of the remaining defendants, and in doing the things herein alleged, was acting within the scope of his/her agency and employment.]

5. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff and defendant entered into a/an _____ [written or oral] agreement whereby plaintiff agreed to _____ [specify agreed services] and defendant agreed to pay the sum of $_____ as plaintiff's fee for such services to be paid _____ [specify manner of payment]. [A copy of the agreement is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.]

6. Plaintiff has fully performed all acts, services, and conditions required by such agreement to be performed on his/her part [or allege any excuse for nonperformance].

7. Plaintiff has made demand on defendant for payment of such compensation and for reimbursement of costs and expenses of the total sum of $_____, but neither the whole nor any part of such sum has been paid, [except the sum of $_____,] and there is now due and unpaid from defendant to plaintiff the sum of $_____.

SECOND COUNT
(Common Count)

8. Plaintiff refers to and incorporates, as though fully set forth herein, Paragraphs 1-4, inclusive, and Paragraph 7 of the First Count.

9. On or about _____ [date], at _____ [address], California, defendant became indebted to plaintiff in the sum of $_____ for accounting services rendered by plaintiff to defendant at the special instance and request of defendant.

THIRD COUNT
(Account Stated)

10. Plaintiff refers to and incorporates, as though fully set forth herein, Paragraphs 1-4, inclusive, of the First Count.

11. Between _____ [date], and _____ [date], plaintiff performed accounting services for defendant at defendant's request.

12. On or about _____ [date], at _____ [address], California, an account was stated [in writing] between plaintiff and defendant and on the basis of such account there was found due from defendant to plaintiff the sum of $_____, which defendant agreed to pay.

13. Neither the whole nor any part of such sum has been paid[, except the sum of $_____,] even though plaintiff has demanded payment, and there is now due, owing, and unpaid from defendant to plaintiff the sum of $_____.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

1. For the sum of $_____ with interest thereon at the legal rate from and after _____ [date];

2. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By:_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the plaintiff in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

The form of complaint in [1], above, is for use by a certified public accountant or public accountant in an action to recover fees for services rendered where the fees are fixed by agreement of the parties [see Civ. Code § 3302 (detriment caused by breach of obligation to pay money only as deemed to be amount due by terms of obligation, with interest on that amount)]. The agreement may be oral [see Horwath v. Roosevelt Hotel Co. (1953) 118 Cal. App. 2d 1, 7-8, 257 P.2d 56 (action by accountant based on oral agreement for professional services barred by statute of limitations)].

[3] Contents

The complaint in [1], above, sets forth three counts as a basis for recovery of compensation for accountancy services. The First Count specifically alleges:

- That plaintiff is a (certified) public accountant (Paragraph 2);
- The oral or written agreement for services providing for a fixed fee (Paragraph 5);
- That plaintiff performed in accordance with the agreement (Paragraph 6); and
- That the fees and costs were demanded and are due, owing, and unpaid (Paragraph 7).

For allegations necessary to state cause of action for fixed fees, see Hardy v. San Fernando Valley C. of C. (1950) 99 Cal. App. 2d 572, 576-577, 222 P.2d 314 .

The Second Count alleges a common count for indebtedness for services rendered [see generally Ch. 121, Common Counts ; see also, Breslauer v. McCormick-Saeltzer Co. (1916) 31 Cal. App. 284, 285, 160 P. 251 (action by accountant against employer for balance of compensation due him for services rendered)]. The Third Count alleges an account stated for legal services [see generally Ch. 8, Accounts Stated and Open Accounts].

The prayer for the award of costs includes the award of attorney fees to the prevailing party, if the agreement between the parties that serves as the basis for the action so provides [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1032(a)(4), (b)]. For items allowable as costs generally, see Code Civ. Proc. § 1033.5.

[4] Venue

When a defendant has contracted to perform an obligation in a particular county, any of the following is a proper county for the trial of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 395]:

- Where the obligation is to be performed;
- Where the contract in fact was entered into; or
- Where the defendant or any defendant resides at the commencement of the action.

The county in which the obligation is incurred is deemed to be the county in which it is to be performed unless there is a special contract in writing to the contrary [Code Civ. Proc. § 395].

A corporation or association may be sued in the county where [Code Civ. Proc. § 395.5]:

- The contract is made or is to be performed;
- The obligation or liability arises or the breach occurs; or
- The principal place of business of such corporation is situated.

If an unincorporated association has filed a statement with the Secretary of State pursuant to Corp. Code § 24003 listing its principal office in California, the proper county for the trial of an action against an unincorporated association is the same as it would be if the unincorporated association were a corporation. For the purpose of determining the county, the principal place of business of the unincorporated association is deemed to be the principal office in California listed in the statement [Code Civ. Proc. § 395.2].

[5] Jurisdiction

The superior court has jurisdiction of an action for accountant's fees as an unlimited civil case or as a limited civil case (amount in controversy, exclusive of interest, is $25,000 or less) [see Cal. Const. art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(1)].

In limited civil cases the caption must state whether the demand exceeds or does not exceed $10,000. When a limited civil case is brought in a unified court, the caption must also identify the case as a limited civil case[Code Civ. Proc. § 422.30(b); Gov. Code § 70613; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(9), (9)].

[6] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)], verification will require any answer to be verified also, if the action is an unlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude a general denial in an unlimited civil case, and will preclude a general denial in a limited civil case when the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion see Ch. 26, Answers .

[7] Cross References

For complaints and forms relating to actions on an account stated, see Ch. 8, Accounts Stated and Open Accounts

For alternative allegations as to agency, capacity, and residence of parties, and fictitious name allegations, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used

For alternative forms of captions and introductions, see Ch. 108, Captions and Introductions

For discussion and forms relating to the format of complaints, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints

For complaints and forms relating to contract actions and actions on common counts, see Ch. 140, Contracts , and Ch. 121, Common Counts , respectively

For discussion and forms relating to damages and pleading damages, see Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.140 et seq.

For discussion and forms relating to fax service and filing of papers, see Ch. 264, Fax Filing and Service of Papers

For discussion of jurisdiction in California courts in general, see Ch. 321, Jurisdiction, Inconvenient Forum, and Appearances

For alternative forms of prayers, see Ch. 420, Prayers

For discussion and forms relating to service of summons generally, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers

For forms of allegations showing proper venue, see Ch. 571, Venue

For alternative forms of verification, see Ch. 572, Verification

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 462 PUBLIC ACCOUNTANT S
PART IV. FORMS

40-462 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 462.51

§ 462.51 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333]--By Client Against Public Accountant for Negligence

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333]--By Client Against Public Accountant for Negligence

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

[or other as appropriate]

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____ [name], [and DOES I	)	(Negligence)
through _____,]	)
Defendant(s).	)
	)

Plaintiff alleges:

[Allege venue, EITHER]

1. _____ [If defendant is an individual, allege defendant's residence, e.g., Defendant _____ (name) resides in _____ County, California.]

[AND/OR]

1. _____ [If defendant is a partnership, allege capacity and principal place of business (or other venue), e.g., Defendants _____ (name) and _____ (name) are, and at all times herein mentioned were, partners engaged in the practice of accountancy under the common name of _____ (name of partnership) (hereinafter called "Firm") having their principal place of business at _____ (address), _____ (city), California, and are sued herein individually and by such common name.]

[AND/OR]

1. _____ [If defendant is an accountancy corporation, allege capacity and principal place of business (or other venue), e.g., Defendant _____ (name) (hereinafter referred to as "Firm") is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a professional corporation organized and existing under the laws of California, duly registered with the State Board of Accountancy as an accountancy corporation, with its principal place of business at _____ (address), _____ (city), California.)]

[CONTINUE]

[2. Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 462.50[1], Paragraph 3.]

[3. Agency allegation, if appropriate. See § 462.50[1], Paragraph 4.]

4. At all times herein mentioned, defendant was, and now is a [certified] public accountant, duly licensed by the California State Board of Accountancy to practice his/her profession in California, and practicing the same in _____, California.

5. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff and defendant entered into an agreement at _____ [address], _____ [city], California, that defendant would _____ [describe services]. Plaintiff and defendant further agreed that plaintiff should pay defendant a _____ [reasonable sum or sum of $_____] for all the services performed by him/her/it.

6. At all times during the existence of that agreement, plaintiff relied completely on defendant to perform the agreement, as well as on defendant's skill and ability as an accountant.

7. Defendant negligently, carelessly, and recklessly rendered services as an accountant in that he/she/it _____ [state negligent act(s) or omission(s)]. Defendant thus failed to render the skill required of and commonly exercised by [certified] public accountants.

8. As a direct and proximate result of defendant's negligence, carelessness, and recklessness, plaintiff was _____ [state damage caused], all to his/her/its damage in an amount according to proof.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant[s, and each of them,] as follows:

1. For damages in an amount according to proof;

2. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By:_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

[Verification, if desired. See § 462.50[1].]

[2] Use of Form

The complaint in [1], above, is for use in an action against a certified public accountant or a public accountant for professional negligence. Accountants have the duty to exercise the ordinary skill and competence of members of their profession; failure to discharge that duty subjects them to liability for negligence [Lindner v. Barlow, Davis & Wood (1962) 210 Cal. App. 2d 660, 665, 27 Cal. Rptr. 101 ; see, e.g., Smolen v. Deloitte, Haskins & Sells (9th Cir. 1990) 921 F.2d 959, 965 (reliance by plaintiff on professional accounting firm's misrepresentations as element of professional negligence claim); L. B. Laboratories, Inc. v. Mitchell (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 56, 60, 244 P.2d 385 (action by client against accountant for negligence and breach of contract for failure to file plaintiff's tax returns by date defendant agreed to do so)]. Contractual negligence gives rise to an action either in tort or on the contract [Eads v. Marks (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 807, 811, 249 P.2d 257] .

[3] Contents

The complaint in [1] above, alleges:

- Duty to plaintiff (Paragraphs 5, 6);
- Breach of duty (Paragraph 7);
- Proximate cause (Paragraph 8); and
- Loss suffered by plaintiff (Paragraph 8).

For discussion of the principles of negligence, see Ch. 380, Negligence .

If the negligent accountant's partners or accountancy corporation is sued on the principle of respondeat superior, allegations of such partnership or corporate capacity are included (Alternative Paragraph 1), together with an agency allegation (Optional Paragraph 3). For a comprehensive discussion of these principles and related forms, see Ch. 160, Corporations: Capacity , Ch. 402, Partnerships: Actions Between General Partners or Partnership and Third Parties , and Ch. 427, Principal and Agent .

[4] Venue

The county in which the defendants or some of them reside at the commencement of the action is the proper county for the trial of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a)]. A corporation has a residence where its principal office or place of business is established [Code Civ. Proc. § 395.5].

[5] Negligence Per Se

Violation of a regulation is, in some cases, negligence per se. Thus, if a possible violation of a regulation is involved one count of the complaint might allege negligence per se [see Evid. Code § 669].

[6] When Action Accrues

The statute of limitations for accounting malpractice action begins to run when plaintiff sustains actual or appreciable harm as a result of the accountant's negligence [Schrader v. Scott (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 1679,1684-1687, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 433 ; see also, Bedolla v. Logan & Frazer (1975) 52 Cal. App. 3d 118, 130-131, 125 Cal. Rptr. 59 (statute of limitations for fraud and professional negligence runs from time wrongful acts discovered or with reasonable diligence could have been discovered); Moonie v. Lynch (1967) 256 Cal. App. 2d 361, 365-366, 64 Cal. Rptr. 55 (statute of limitations in malpractice action against accountant runs from time negligent act discovered or with reasonable diligence could have been discovered)].

[7] Cross References

For allegations of damages generally, see Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.40 et seq.

For complaints for use in negligence actions generally, see Ch. 380, Negligence

For additional discussion and references relating to complaints generally, see notes and references in § 462.50[2]-[6]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 462 PUBLIC ACCOUNTANT S
PART IV. FORMS

40-462 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 462.52

§ 462.52 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333]--By Third Party Against Public Accountant for Intentional or Negligent Misrepresentation

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333]--By Third Party Against Public Accountant for Intentional or Negligent Misrepresentation

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

[or other as appropriate]

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____ [name], [and DOES I	)	(Deceit)
through _____,]	)
Defendant(s).	)
	)

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity and residence of defendant(s). See § 462.50[1], Paragraph 1.]

[2. Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 462.50[1], Paragraph 3.]

[3. Agency allegation, if appropriate. See § 462.50[1], Paragraph 4.]

4. On or about _____ [date], defendant and _____ [name of defendant's client] entered into an agreement at _____ [address], _____ [city], California, that defendant would _____ [describe services, e.g., perform an audit of the financial statements of _____ (name of defendant's client)].

5. On or about _____ [date], defendant made following false representations: _____ [allege in exact language or as close to exact language as possible the statements of material fact claimed by plaintiff to be false, e.g., stated in its audit report that the 1991 financial statements of _____ (name of defendant's client) revealed a net operating profit of $75,000 on sales of $70,000,000].

6. The representations made by defendant were in fact false. The true facts were as follows: _____ [specify, e.g., In 1991, _____ (name of defendant's client) actually suffered a net operating loss of $5,000,000].

[EITHER, if intentional misrepresentation is alleged]

7. When defendant made these representations, he/she _____ [knew them to be false or had no belief in their truth and made them recklessly], and he/she made them with the intent to defraud and deceive plaintiff, or a particular class of persons to which plaintiff belongs, whom defendant intended or reasonably should have foreseen would rely on the representations. Defendant made these representations with the intent to induce plaintiff to act in the manner herein alleged.

[OR, if negligent misrepresentation is alleged]

7. Defendant made these representations with no reasonable ground for believing them to be true, in that _____ [allege facts showing lack of reasonable grounds for believing the representations, e.g., defendant, before issuing its unqualified audit opinion, had discovered deviations in its own accounting procedures and systems from those set forth in the "Generally Accepted Accounting Principles," promulgated by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, thereby rendering inaccurate the representations herein alleged].

8. Defendant made these representations with the intent to induce plaintiff, or a particular class of persons to which plaintiff belongs, to act in reliance on the representations and to be influenced in the specific [type of] transaction herein alleged, which defendant intended to influence, in that defendant knew with substantial certainty that plaintiff, or the particular class of persons to which plaintiff belongs, would rely on the representations in the course of the transaction.

[CONTINUE]

9. Plaintiff, at the time these representations were made by defendant, and at the time plaintiff took the actions herein alleged, was ignorant of the falsity of the defendant's representations and believed them to be true. In reliance on these representations, plaintiff was induced to and did _____ [specify actions taken by plaintiff, e.g., invest in _____ (name of defendant's client) by purchasing 40,000 shares of stock]. Plaintiff's reliance on defendant's representations was justified because _____ [specify, e.g. defendant, a prestigious accounting firm, stated in its unqualified audit opinion that it had performed an examination of its client's 1991 financial statements in accordance with the accounting profession's "Generally Accepted Auditing Standards" and "Generally Accepted Accounting Principles"].

10. As a proximate result of defendant's fraud and deceit and the facts herein alleged, plaintiff was _____ [allege facts showing allowable damages, e.g., induced to expend $_____ to purchase the 40,000 shares of the stock].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant[s, and each of them,] as follows:

1. For damages in the sum of $_____;

2. For costs of suit herein incurred;

[3. For punitive damages;] and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By:_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

[Verification, if desired. See § 462.50[1].]

[2] Use of Form

The form of complaint in [1], above, is for use in an action by a third party against a certified public accountant or a public accountant for intentional or negligent misrepresentation. Auditors are liable to third parties for intentional misrepresentation [Bily v. Arthur Young & Co. (1992) 3 Cal. 4th 370, 415, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 51, 834 P.2d 745 ; see, e.g., Mariani v. Price Waterhouse (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 685, 695, 696, 708, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 671 ; Anderson v. Deloitte & Touche (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 1468, 1476-1479, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 512 (reversing summary judgment for defendant)].

[3] Contents

The complaint in [1], above, alleges [see, e.g., Bily v. Arthur Young & Co. (1992) 3 Cal. 4th 370, 414, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 51, 834 P.2d 745 (negligent misrepresentation claim has as elements reliance by third-party plaintiff on professional accounting firm's misrepresentations and that accounting firm knew or should have known that plaintiff would rely on misrepresentations)]:

- The exact false representations made by the accountant (Paragraph 5);
- The falsity of these representations and the true facts (Paragraph 6);
- That the accountant either knew the representations were false, made them recklessly, or had no reasonable ground for believing them to be true (Paragraph 7);

- That plaintiff belongs to the class of persons to whom or for whom the representations were made (Paragraphs 7 and 8);

- Plaintiff's actual and justifiable reliance on the representations (Paragraph 9); and

- Resulting damages (Paragraph 10).

For a comprehensive discussion of negligent and intentional misrepresentation and related forms, see Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit .

[4] Cross References

For discussion and references relating to complaints generally, see notes and references in § 462.51[2]-[6].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 462 PUBLIC ACCOUNTANT S
PART IV. FORMS

40-462 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 462.53

§ 462.53 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Accountant and Plaintiff Not in Privity of Contract

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Accountant and Plaintiff Not in Privity of Contract

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state: TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges that he/she/it is not liable to plaintiff for damages caused by defendant's alleged negligence because defendant did not enter into a contractual relationship with plaintiff to render accounting services to plaintiff.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use as an affirmative defense in an answer to a complaint for damages in an action against a certified public accountant or a public accountant for professional negligence when the plaintiff and the accountant were not in a contractual relationship. Third-party negligence claims are barred, irrespective of the foreseeability of a third party's reliance on audit [Bily v. Arthur Young & Co. (1992) 3 Cal. 4th 370, 405-406, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 51, 834 P.2d 745 ; see also Mariani v. Price Waterhouse (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 685, 701, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 671 (there are no express third-party beneficiaries of ordinary white bread audit engagement contract, only incidental beneficiaries who have no legal rights arising from contract)]. This form may be inserted into a general form of answer, to be found in Ch. 26, Answers .

[3] Cross References

For discussion and references relating to complaints involving certified public accountants or public accountants generally, see notes and references in § 462.51[2]-[6].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 462 PUBLIC ACCOUNTANT S
PART IV. FORMS

40-462 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 462.54

§ 462.54 Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086]--To Compel State Board of Accountancy to Admit Petitioner Either to Accountant's Examination or to Practice as Accountant

[1] FORM Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086]--To Compel State Board of Accountancy to Admit Petitioner Either to Accountant's Examination or to Practice as Accountant

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

[or other as appropriate]

_____ [name],	)
Petitioner,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	PETITION FOR WRIT OF
_____ [name(s)],	)	MANDATE
Respondent(s).	)
	)
	)

Petitioner alleges:

1. Petitioner is a resident of _____ County, California.

2. Respondent State Board of Accountancy was, and now is, an agency of the State of California, organized and existing under the laws thereof, with authority to regulate the practice of public accountancy in California and, in particular, to license persons to practice public accountancy in California. [_____ (State also capacity of any individual respondents, e.g., members or secretary of State Board of Accountancy.)]

3. On or about _____ [date], petitioner filed an application with respondent State Board of Accountancy _____ [to take the examination for certified public accountant or for a permit to practice public accountancy], pursuant to the provisions of Section _____ of the and Professions Code of California. The application was in proper form and contained a full and correct statement of all matters required to be contained therein.

4. At all times herein mentioned, petitioner was fully qualified to _____ [take that examination or be admitted to practice as a certified public accountant] in California, inasmuch as he/she _____ [state education and all other qualifications required, including payment of any fee required as condition to admission].

5. By reason thereof, petitioner is entitled to be admitted to the _____ [examination or practice of public accountancy as a certified public accountant], and respondent's refusal to so admit petitioner constitutes an arbitrary and wrongful violation of its duties, in that petitioner has fully complied with all requirements for such admission and is, therefore, entitled under Section _____ of the and Professions Code of the State of California to be so admitted.

6. Petitioner has performed all conditions precedent to the filing of this petition by _____ [describe performance of conditions such as exhausting administrative remedies].

7. Petitioner has duly demanded of respondents that he/she be so admitted to _____ [the examination or practice], but his/her demand has been refused and respondents do now refuse to so admit petitioner.

8. At all times herein mentioned, respondent has been able to admit petitioner to _____ [the examination or practice]. Notwithstanding such ability and despite petitioner's demand that he/she be admitted, respondent continues to refuse to so admit him/her.

9. Petitioner has no plain, speedy, or adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law, other than the relief sought in this petition, in that this is the only proceeding in which petitioner may obtain the rights demanded herein.

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays:

1. That this court issue an alternative writ of mandate commanding respondents to admit petitioner _____ [to the next regularly scheduled examination for certified public accountants or forthwith to practice in the State of California as a certified public accountant], or to show cause before this court at a time specified by court order why it has not done so and why a peremptory writ should not issue;

2. That on the return of the alternative writ and the hearing of this petition, this court issue its peremptory writ of mandate commanding respondents to do the things prayed for above; and

3. For costs of this proceeding; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By:_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Petitioner _____ [name]

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the petitioner in the above-entitled proceeding. I have read the foregoing petition and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By:_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a petition for a writ of mandate in superior court to compel the State Board of Accountancy to admit the petitioner to the accountant's examination or to practice as an accountant. For mandate generally, see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1084-1097; for damages in mandate proceedings, see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1090, 1095; for administrative mandate, see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; for requirements for petitions for writ of mandate filed in reviewing courts, see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.486, all of which are discussed in Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition .

[3] Contents

This form alleges:

- The existence of respondent's duty (Paragraph 5) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1085].
- Petitioner's right (Paragraph 5) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1085].
- The performance of all conditions precedent (Paragraph 6).
- The making of a demand on respondent (Paragraph 7).
- The ability of respondent to perform the duty or exercise the discretion (Paragraph 8).
- The lack of an adequate legal remedy (Paragraph 9).

[4] Verification

A petition for a writ of mandate must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086]. The verification may be by declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5] or by affidavit [Code Civ. Proc. § 2009].

[5] Proof of Service

Proof of service of a copy of a petition for writ of mandate on each respondent and real party in interest must accompany the petition when it is offered for filing (except when, in its discretion and for good cause, the court has granted the application for the writ ex parte or in a trial court, when the petition does not seek an alternative writ) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107; for discussion of method of serving petition, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition].

[6] Attaching Points and Authorities

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.486 requires that a supporting memorandum accompany a petition filed in a court of appeal or the Supreme Court. Memoranda are also required to accompany a petition filed in a superior court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1103(a)(2), 3.1113(a); for discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities].

[7] Attaching Complete Record

The petitioner should attach as exhibits all pleadings, affidavits, declarations, stipulations, minutes, orders, rulings, transcripts, or other documents comprising the record of any proceedings before the State Board of Accountancy. Whether the court is persuaded to issue an alternative writ might depend on how thorough a record is attached to the petition.

[8] Time for Filing

The petition for writ of mandate must be filed within 30 days after the last day on which reconsideration can be ordered [Gov. Code § 11523].

[9] Jurisdiction

The Supreme Court, the courts of appeal, and the superior courts have jurisdiction in proceedings for extraordinary relief in nature of mandate [Cal. Const., art VI, § 10].

[10] Cross References

For forms for writs of mandate to compel the issuance of licenses, see Ch. 471B, Licensing by Public Agencies

For forms for writ of mandate ordering petitioner to be permitted to take an examination, see Ch. 415, Physicians: Medical Malpractice

For memoranda for use in mandate proceedings, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 150, Mandate and Prohibition (Matthew Bender)

126 of 126 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 463 [RESERVED]

40-463 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated Chapter 463

[RESERVED]

Chapter 463[RESERVED]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 464.syn

§ 464.syn Synopsis to Chapter 464: PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT

§ 464.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 464.02 Cross References

§§ 464.03-464.19 [Reserved]

§ 464.20 Governing Law

[1] California Tort Claims Act

[2] Special Emergency Procedures

§ 464.21 Framework of Tort Claims Act

[1] Enactment of Statute

[2] Definitions

[3] Statutory Basis for Liability Required

[4] Claim as Condition Precedent to Action

§ 464.22 Scope of Claim Presentation Requirement

[1] Types of Claims

[2] Purpose of Claim Requirement

[3] Statutory Exceptions to Requirement

[4] Other Exceptions

§ 464.23 Claim Filing Procedures

[1] Rules Applicable to Claims Against Local Public Entities

[2] Rules Applicable to Claims Against State

[3] Form and Contents of Claim

[a] Statutorily Required Information

[b] Forms Provided by Public Entities

[c] Other Documents Disclosing Claim

[i] Treated as Claim

[ii] Letter From Attorney

[iii] Notice of Intent to Commence Medical Malpractice Action

[d] Amendments to Claim

[e] Substantial Compliance Sufficient

[4] Period for Filing Claim

[a] Period Based on Claim Type

[i] Tort Claims

[ii] Contract and Real Property Claims

[iii] Distinguishing Claim Types

[b] Accrual of Claim

[i] Date of Accrual

[ii] Belated Discovery

[c] Tolling of Claim Filing Period

§ 464.24 Response to Claim by Public Entity

[1] Time Requirements for Response

[a] 45-Day Period

[b] Extension by Agreement

[c] Claims Deemed Insufficient by Public Entity

[i] Notice of Insufficiency

[ii] Effect of Failure to Give Notice

[d] Late Claims

[i] Notice of Lateness

[ii] Effect of Failure to Give Notice

[2] Substantive Response to Claims

[a] Claims Against Local Public Entity

[i] Response Options

[ii] Settlement or Compromise of Claim

[b] Claims Against State

[3] Notice to Claimant of Action on Claim

[a] General Requirements

[b] Methods of Delivering Notice

[4] Reexamination of Rejected Claim

§ 464.25 Presentation of Late Tort Claims

[1] Application to Public Entity

[2] Response by Public Entity

[a] Substance and Timing of Response

[b] Notice of Action to Claimant

[3] Judicial Relief From Claim Filing Requirement

[a] Petition Required Prior to Bringing Action

[b] Contents of Petition

[c] Time for Filing Petition

[d] Determination by Trial Court

[i] Basis

[ii] Trial Court's Jurisdiction to Decide Timeliness of Claim

[e] Review of Trial Court Determination

[i] Review of Order Granting Petition

[ii] Review of Order Denying Petition

[iii] Standard of Review

[4] Grounds for Relief From Claim Requirement

[a] General Requirements

[b] Mistake, Inadvertence, Surprise, or Excusable Neglect

[i] Applicable Standard

[ii] Mistake of Law

[iii] Excusable Neglect

[iv] Surprise

[v] Prejudice

[c] Minority

[d] Physical or Mental Incapacity

[e] Death

§§ 464.26-464.39 [Reserved]

§ 464.40 Governing Law

§ 464.41 General Requirements for Filing Action Against Public Entity

[1] Claim as Condition Precedent

[2] Action Barred if Claim Allowed

[3] Allegations Must Conform to Claim

[4] Prematurely Filed Complaints

§ 464.42 Time Periods for Filing Actions

[1] Determining Applicable Limitations Period

[a] Time Period Following Rejection of Claim

[b] Time Period if Plaintiff Granted Relief From Claim Requirement

[c] Time Period if No Claim Required

[2] Extension of Period

[a] Applicability of General Statutory Extensions

[b] Extension for Imprisonment

[c] Extension in Medical Malpractice Actions

[3] Effect of Substitution for Fictitious "Doe" Defendants

[4] Tolling of Limitations Period

[a] Criminal Charges Pending Against Plaintiff

[b] Equitable Tolling

§ 464.43 Pleading Requirements

§ 464.44 Venue

[1] Actions Against State

[2] Actions Against Local Public Entity

§ 464.45 Service of Summons

[1] Actions Against State

[2] Actions Against Other Public Entity

[a] Proper Recipient

[b] Service in Conformity With Statement

[c] Service if No Accurate Statement on File

§ 464.46 Filing Action Against Public Employee

[1] Claim Against Public Entity as Condition Precedent

[a] General Rule

[b] Exception for Lack of Knowledge of Involvement of Public Entity or Employee

[c] Determining Scope of Employment

[2] Claim Against Public Employee Not Required

[3] Limitations Period

[4] Venue

§ 464.47 Estoppel

[1] Estoppel as Relief From Failure to File Claim or Meet Limitations Period

[2] Elements of Estoppel

[3] Factors Considered by Court

[4] Misleading Acts of Public Entity

§ 464.48 Effect of Insufficient Statement of Public Agency on Plaintiff's Right to Sue

§ 464.49 Collateral Source Payments

[1] Inadmissible in Action

[2] Definitions

[3] Discovery of Payment

[4] Failure to Comply With Disclosure Requirements

[5] Collateral Source Provider's Participation in Pretrial Conference

§§ 464.50-464.59 [Reserved]

§ 464.60 Governing Law

§ 464.61 General Principles of Public Entity Liability

[1] Statutory Basis for Liability Required

[2] Liability for Acts of Employee

[a] General Rule of Respondeat Superior

[b] Effect of Employee Immunity

[c] "Scope of Employment" Defined

[d] Intentional Torts of Elected Officials

[e] Motor Vehicle Accidents

[3] Liability for Acts of Independent Contractors

[4] Liability for Failure to Discharge Mandatory Duty

[5] Liability for Nuisance

[6] Liability for Voluntarily Undertaken Protective Duty

[7] Failure to Investigate Harm Already Incurred

[8] Liability of Specific Entities

[a] Liability of School Districts for Inadequate Supervision of Students

[b] Liability of Department of Motor Vehicles

[c] Liability of State Compensation Insurance Fund

[9] Liability Under Public Entity Agreements

[a] Nature of Agreements

[b] Joint and Several Liability

§ 464.62 General Immunities of Public Entities

[1] Immunity From Punitive Damages

[2] Immunity for Legislative Action or Failure to Enforce Law

[3] Immunity for Licensing Activities

[4] Immunity Based on Inspections

[5] Immunity for Misrepresentation

§ 464.63 General Principles of Liability for Public Employees

[1] General Rule of Liability

[2] Defense and Indemnification of Public Employees

[a] Public Entity's Duty to Defend and Indemnify

[b] Payment of Punitive Damages

[i] Discretion to Pay

[ii] Restrictions on Evidence at Trial

[iii] Effect of Public Entity's Immunity From Punitive Damages

[c] Elected Officials

[i] Tortious Intervention in Judicial Proceeding

[ii] Intentional Torts Not Directly Related to Official Duties

[iii] Elected Official Convicted of Certain Felonies

§ 464.64 General Immunities of Public Employees

[1] Immunity for Discretionary Acts

[a] Policy Behind Immunity

[b] Requirement That Discretion Be Exercised

[c] Discretionary Acts

[d] Ministerial Acts

[e] Conduct Both Discretionary and Ministerial

[2] Immunity for Execution and Enforcement of Laws

[3] Immunity for Acting Under Unconstitutional Enactment

[4] Immunity for Acts or Omissions of Others

[5] Immunity for Members of Local Governing Bodies

[6] Immunity for Legislative Action or Failure to Enforce Enactment

[7] Immunity for Malicious Prosecution

[a] When Applicable

[b] When Not Applicable

[c] Causal Connection Required

[8] Immunity for Licensing

[9] Immunity for Inspections

[10] Immunity for Entry on Property

[11] Immunity for Money Stolen From Custody

[12] Immunity for Misrepresentations

§§ 464.65-464.79 [Reserved]

§ 464.80 Governing Law

§ 464.81 Liability of Public Entity for Dangerous Condition of Public Property

[1] General Rule of Liability

[2] Requirement of Ownership or Control of Property

[3] Requirement That Property Was Dangerous if Used With Due Care

[4] Negligent or Wrongful Act or Omission

[a] Requirement for Liability

[b] Res Ipsa Loquitur Presumption Inapplicable

[5] Failure to Take Protective Measures After Notice

[a] Requirement for Liability

[b] Actual Notice

[c] Constructive Notice

§ 464.82 Liability of Public Employee for Dangerous Condition of Public Property

[1] General Rule of Liability

[2] Actual Notice of Danger

[3] Constructive Notice of Danger

§ 464.83 Dangerous Condition

[1] Statutory Definition

[2] Third Party Conduct Insufficient

[3] Minor Risk of Danger

[4] Failure to Provide Traffic Signals

[5] Circumstances Deemed Insufficient to Establish Dangerous Condition

§ 464.84 Public Property

[1] Statutory Definition

[2] Danger Affecting Adjacent Property

§ 464.85 Immunities

[1] Availability of Immunity

[2] Approved Plan or Design

[a] Rule of Immunity

[b] Exception for Changed Conditions

[3] Traffic Signal Immunities

[a] Failure to Provide Signals

[b] Signals Controlled by Emergency Vehicles

[4] Condition of Streets Caused by Weather

[5] Work on Nondedicated Roads

[6] Unimproved Public Property

[a] Natural Condition Immunity

[b] Immunity for Land Failure

[c] Immunity Applicable to Specified State Lands

[7] Conditions on Trails and Unpaved Access Roads

[8] Hazardous Recreational Activity

[9] Condition of Reservoirs and Canals

[10] Asbestos in Schools

§ 464.86 Reasonableness Defense

[1] Public Entities

[2] Public Employees

§§ 464.87-464.99 [Reserved]

§ 464.100 Governing Law

§ 464.101 Common Law Judicial and Legislative Immunity

§ 464.102 Law Enforcement Activities

[1] Liability of Law Enforcement Officer for Negligence

[a] General Rule of Liability

[b] Plaintiff Injured During Commission of Felony

[2] Liability of Police Officer for Failure to Investigate Child Abuse

[3] Immunity for Injury Caused by Police Pursuit Vehicles

[4] Immunity for Failure to Provide Police Protection

[5] Immunity for Failure to Make Arrest

[6] Liability and Immunity for Torts of Law Enforcement Officer Employed as Private Security Guard

[7] Immunity From Suit by Plaintiff Charged With Criminal Conduct

[8] Recovery of Attorney's Fees by Police Officer Sued in Bad Faith

§ 464.103 Injuries by and to Prisoners

[1] General Rules of Liability and Immunity

[2] Definition of "Prisoner"

[3] Interference With Prisoner's Right to Judicial Determination

[4] Immunity for Failure to Provide Prison Facilities

[5] Failure to Furnish Medical Care to Prisoner

[6] Immunity for Release or Escape of Prisoners

§ 464.104 Emergency Services

[1] Fire Protection Activities

[a] Immunity for Failure to Provide Fire Protection

[b] Immunity for Failure to Provide Sufficient Fire Protection Facilities

[c] Immunity for Condition of Equipment and for Injuries Caused in Fighting Fires

[d] Liability and Immunity for Firefighting Outside Regular Area

[e] Immunity for Transportation of Persons Injured by Fires

[2] Immunity for Providing Emergency Rescue Services

[3] Immunity for Operation of Emergency Vehicles

[4] Liability and Immunity for Rescue of Vessels

[5] Immunity for Actions Taken Under California Emergency Services Act

[6] Immunity for Earthquake and Volcanic Warnings

[a] Legislative Intent

[b] General Rule of Immunity

[c] Additional Local Immunity

[7] Immunity for Activities to Abate Gradual Earth Movements

§ 464.105 Medical and Health Services

[1] General Liabilities and Immunities

[a] Liability for Failure to Provide Adequate Public or Mental Health Equipment or Facilities

[b] Immunity for Acts Promoting Public Health

[c] Immunity for Administration of 1976 Flu Program

[2] Liabilities and Immunities for Treatment Decisions

[a] Immunity for Failure to Make Physical or Mental Examination

[b] Immunity for Failure to Admit Person to Medical Facility

[c] Liability and Immunity for Diagnosing Mental Illness or Addiction

[3] Liabilities and Immunities Relating to Confinement of Patients

[a] Injuries by and to Mental Patients

[b] Interference With Right of Facility Inmate to Judicial Determination

[c] Determining Confinement of Persons Afflicted With Mental Illness or Addiction

[d] Immunity for Escape of Committed Person

§ 464.106 Control Over Hazardous Substances

[1] Liability for Use of Pesticides

[2] Immunity for Abatement of Hazardous Substances

[3] Immunity for Failure to Restrict Travel of Flammable Tank Vehicles Through Tunnels

§ 464.107 Immunity for Administration of Tax Laws

§§ 464.108-464.119 [Reserved]

§ 464.120 Related LexisNexis/Matthew Bender Publications

§ 464.121 State Statutes

[1] Claims Against Public Entities

[a] Claim Presentation

[b] Claim Requirement

[c] Definitions

[d] Late Claims Procedure

[e] Other Claims Procedures

[f] Payment and Compromise of Claim

[g] Public Entity's Response to Claim

[h] Relief From Claim Requirement

[2] Actions Against Public Entities and Employees

[a] Action Against Public Entity

[b] Claim Requirement

[c] Collateral Source Payments

[d] Definitions and Rules of Practice

[e] Enforcement

[f] Insurance

[g] Joinder of State

[h] Payment and Compromise

[i] Public Employees

[j] Service of Process

[k] Statute of Limitations

[l] Venue

[3] General Principles of Liability and Immunity

[a] Application of Tort Claims Act

[b] Defense and Indemnification of Public Employees

[c] Definitions

[d] Immunities of Public Employees

[e] Immunities of Public Entities

[f] Liability of Public Employees

[g] Liability of Public Entities

[4] Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

[a] Definitions

[b] Immunities

[c] Liabilities

[d] Notice

[5] Specific Liabilities and Immunities

[a] Emergency Services

[b] Firefighting Activities

[c] Hazardous Substances

[d] Medical and Mental Health Activities

[i] Definitions

[ii] Emergency Medical Care Programs

[iii] Mental Patients

[iv] Public Health

[v] Public Medical Facilities

[e] Pesticides

[f] Police and Correctional Activities

[i] Definitions

[ii] Immunities and Liabilities

[g] Tax Laws

§ 464.122 Administrative Regulations

§ 464.123 Decisions

[1] Claims Against Public Entities

[a] Accrual of Cause of Action

[i] Equitable Indemnity

[ii] Tort Claims

[b] Application of Claims Requirement

[c] Class Claims

[d] Judicial Relief From Claim Requirement

[i] Burden of Proof

[ii] Denial of Relief

[iii] Excusable Neglect

[iv] Minority

[v] Physical or Mental Incapacity

[vi] Time Considerations

[e] Late Claims

[f] Pleading

[g] Presentation of Claim

[h] Public Entity's Rules

[i] Substantial Compliance

[j] Time for Filing Claims

[i] Amendment of Cause of Action

[ii] Contract and Real Property Claims

[iii] Strict Compliance

[2] Actions Against Public Entities and Employees

[a] Actions After Grant of Relief From Claim Requirement

[b] Actions Against Public Employees

[c] Collateral Estoppel

[d] Estoppel

[e] Expenses of Public Employment

[f] Interest

[g] Intervention

[h] Parties

[i] Payment by State

[j] Service of Summons

[k] Statute of Limitations

[i] Application

[ii] Tolling

[l] Venue

[3] General Principles of Liability and Immunity

[a] Actionable Injury Defined

[b] Constitutional Claims

[c] Defense and Indemnification of Public Employees

[d] Employee Defined

[e] Federal Civil Rights Actions

[f] Immunities of Public Employees

[i] Discretionary Immunity

[A] Combination Acts

[B] Discretionary Acts

[C] Ministerial Acts

[ii] Failure to Enforce Law Immunity

[iii] Judicial Immunity

[iv] Malicious Prosecution Immunity

[v] Misrepresentation Immunity

[g] Immunities of Public Entities

[i] Employee Immunity

[ii] Failure to Adopt or Enforce Laws

[iii] Inspections

[iv] Licensing

[v] Misrepresentations

[vi] Punitive Damages

[vii] Malicious Prosecution Immunity

[viii] State Militia Immunity

[h] Liabilities of Public Employee

[i] Liabilities of Public Entities

[i] Actions of Independent Contractors

[ii] Conversion

[iii] Discrimination

[iv] Failure to Discharge Mandatory Duty

[v] Failure to Investigate Harm Already Incurred

[vi] Motor Vehicle Accidents

[vii] Negligence Based on Common Law Principles

[viii] Nuisance

[ix] Promise Involved

[x] Respondeat Superior

[xi] School District

[4] Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

[a] Conditions Creating Liability

[i] Adjacent Property

[ii] Streets, Highways, and Sidewalks

[iii] Third-Party Conduct

[iv] Voluntary Assumption of Duty

[b] Conditions Not Creating Liability

[c] Constructive Notice

[d] Control or Ownership

[e] Defenses

[i] Design Immunity

[ii] Hazardous Recreational Activity Immunity

[iii] Lack of Control

[iv] Natural Condition Immunity

[v] Nondedicated Roads Immunity

[vi] Preemption

[vii] Reasonableness

[viii] Trivial Risk

[ix] Weather Immunity

[f] Failure to Warn

[5] Specific Liabilities and Immunities

[a] Correctional Activities

[i] Constitutionality

[ii] Definition of Prisoner

[iii] False Imprisonment

[iv] Immunity for Escaping Prisoner

[v] Immunity for Failure to Provide Prison Facilities

[vi] Immunity for Injuries by Prisoner

[vii] Immunity for Injuries to Prisoners

[viii] Immunity for Release of Prisoner

[ix] Liability for Failure to Summon Medical Assistance

[b] Emergency Response Activities

[i] Firefighting Activities

[ii] Immunities for Activities to Abate Gradual Earth Movements

[c] Failure to Make Physical or Mental Examination

[d] Mental Patients

[i] Immunities for Detention and Failure to Confine

[ii] Escape Immunity

[iii] Immunity for Injuries to Mental Patient

[iv] Leave of Absence Immunity

[v] Release Immunity

[e] Police Activities

[i] Citizen's Arrest

[ii] Immunity for Failure to Make Arrest

[iii] Immunity for Failure to Provide Police Protection

[iv] Immunity for Injuries During Police Pursuit

[v] Liability in Other Situations

§ 464.124 Attorney General Opinions

§ 464.125 Law Reviews

§ 464.126 Text References

§§ 464.127-464.139 [Reserved]

§ 464.140 Claimant's Checklist for Filing Claims Against Public Entities

[1] Obtain Facts and Documents

[a] Relating to Potential Cause of Action

[b] Relating to Potential Defendants

[c] Relevant to Occurrence and Injuries or Damage

[2] Prepare and Present Claim

[a] Time Limits

[b] Prepare Claim

[c] Present Claim

[d] Wait for Action on Claim by Board

[e] Amend Claim

[3] Apply to Present Late Claim

[4] Petition Court for Relief From Claim Requirement

§ 464.141 Plaintiff's Checklist for Filing Actions Against Public Entities and Employees

[1] Statute of Limitations

[2] Prepare Papers

[3] Venue

[4] Service of Summons

[5] Collection of Judgment

§§ 464.142-464.159 [Reserved]

§ 464.160 Claim Against Public Entity [Gov. Code §§ 905, 905.2, 910, 910.2]--General Form

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Contents of Claim

[4] Time for Presentation of Claim

[5] Presentation of Claim

[6] Manner of Mailing

§ 464.161 Tort Claim Against State [Gov. Code §§ 905.2, 910.2]--General Form

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Filing

§ 464.162 Claim Against Public Entity [Gov. Code §§ 905, 905.2, 910, 910.2]--On Behalf of Class

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

§ 464.163 Amendment of Claim [Gov. Code § 910.6]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Time and Effect of Amendment

[4] Effect of Failure or Refusal to Amend

§ 464.164 Application to Public Entity for Leave to Present Late Tort Claim [Gov. Code §§ 911.4, 911.6]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Time for Presentation of Application

[4] Action on Application

§ 464.165 Notice of Hearing and Petition for Relief From Claim Requirement After Late Tort Claim Denied by Board [Gov. Code § 946.6]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Contents of Petition

[4] Time to File Petition

[5] Venue

[6] Service of Petition

[a] On Whom Service Must be Made

[b] Manner of Service

[7] Cross References

§ 464.166 Order Granting Petition for Relief From Claim Requirement [Gov. Code § 946.6]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Time for Filing Suit

§§ 464.167-464.179 [Reserved]

§ 464.180 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries--Against Public Entity and Employee Based on Tortious Act of Employee Within Scope of Employment [Gov. Code § 815.2]--General Form

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Jurisdiction

[5] Venue

[6] Verification

[7] Specification of Damages

[8] Cross References

§ 464.181 Allegation--Negligent Operation of Motor Vehicle for Which Public Entity Is Responsible [Gov. Code § 815.2(a); Veh. Code §§ 17001, 17150]--General Form

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 464.182 Allegation--Transportation of Plaintiff as Prisoner in Bus and Negligent Operation of Bus [Gov. Code §§ 815.2(a), 844.6(b); Veh. Code § 17001]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 464.183 Allegation--Plaintiff's Ignorance of Defendant's Status as Public Employee [Gov. Code § 950.4]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 464.184 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries Based on Negligence [Civ. Code § 1714]--Against Public Entity and Independent Contractor Based on Negligence of Independent Contractor [Gov. Code § 815.4]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 464.185 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] Based on Failure to Discharge Mandatory Duty [Gov. Code § 815.6]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 464.186 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Nuisance [Civ. Code § 3479] Against Public Entity

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Pleading Alternate Theories of Recovery

[4] Cross References

§ 464.187 Allegation--Plaintiff Relieved From Claim Requirement [Gov. Code § 946.6]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 464.188 General Demurrer--Failure of Plaintiff Suing Public Entity to Allege Filing of Claim [Gov. Code §§ 905, 911.2, 945.4]--And Notice of Hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1103(c), 3.1113(a), 3.1320(c)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Accompanying Papers

[4] Cross References

§ 464.189 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Action Against Public Entity Barred by Statute of Limitations [Gov. Code § 945.6]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 464.190 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity Not Liable for Punitive Damages [Gov. Code § 818]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 464.191 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity Not Liable for Adoption of Ordinance [Gov. Code § 818.2]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 464.192 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity Not Liable for Injury Caused by Revocation or Issuance of License [Gov. Code § 818.4]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 464.193 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity Not Liable for Injuries Caused by Failure to Inspect Property [Gov. Code § 818.6]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 464.194 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity Not Liable for Misrepresentation by Employee [Gov. Code § 818.8]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 464.195 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity Not Liable if Public Employee Is Immune [Gov. Code § 815.2(b)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 464.196 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Employee Not Liable for Discretionary Acts [Gov. Code § 820.2]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 464.197 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Employee Not Liable for Acts or Omissions of Others [Gov. Code § 820.8]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 464.198 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Employee Not Liable for Malicious Prosecution [Gov. Code § 821.6]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 464.199 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Mayor or Member of Locally Elected or Appointed Governing Body, Board, Commission, or Advisory Body Not Vicariously Liable for Injuries Caused by Acts or Omissions of Public Entity [Gov. Code § 820.9]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§§ 464.200-464.209 [Reserved]

§ 464.210 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries--Against Public Entity and Public Employee Based on Dangerous Condition Caused by Negligence of Employee [Gov. Code §§ 835(a), 840.2]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Venue

[4] Jurisdiction

[5] Verification

[6] Specification of Damages

[7] Cross References

§ 464.211 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Wrongful Death [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.60, 377.61]--Against Public Entity and Public Employee Based on Dangerous Condition of Which Entity and Employee Had Notice [Gov. Code §§ 835(b), 840.2]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Guardian ad Litem

[4] Wrongful Death Actions

[5] Cross References

§ 464.212 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] to Property--Against Public Entity Based on Dangerous

Condition Caused by Negligence of Public Employee [Gov. Code § 835(a)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Inverse Condemnation

[4] Venue

[5] Cross References

§ 464.213 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] to Property--Against Public Entity Based on Dangerous Condition of Which Entity Had Notice [Gov. Code § 835(b)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 464.214 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injury--Against Public Entity Based on Dangerous Condition Caused by Failure to Protect and/or Warn Plaintiff Against Third-Party Criminal Conduct [Gov. Code § 835]--By Plaintiff in Special Relationship With Public Entity

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Special Relationship

[5] Foreseeable Use of Property by Plaintiff

§ 464.215 Allegation--Constructive Notice of Condition [Gov. Code §§ 835(b), 840.4(b)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 464.216 Allegation--Dangerous Condition of Public Property [Gov. Code § 835]--Condition on Adjacent Property Made Public Property Dangerous

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 464.217 Allegation--Dangerous Condition of Public Property [Gov. Code § 835]--Failure to Post Sign in Situation Constituting Trap for Motorist [Gov. Code § 830.8]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 464.218 Allegation--Dangerous Condition of Public Property [Gov. Code § 835]--Dangerous Condition of Public Sidewalk

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 464.219 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries--Against Public Entity Based on Dangerous Condition of Reservoir or Canal [Gov. Code § 831.8(c)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Liability to Children

[4] Cross References

§ 464.220 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity as Immune From Liability for Injury Caused by Approved Design [Gov. Code § 830.6]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 464.221 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity Not Liable for Injury Caused by Natural Condition of Unimproved Public Property [Gov. Code § 831.2]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 464.222 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity and Public Employee Not Liable if Action Reasonable [Gov. Code §§ 835.4, 840.6]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 464.223 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity and Public Employee Not Liable for Injury Resulting From Work on Nondedicated Road Performed With Reasonable Care [Gov. Code § 831.3]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§§ 464.224-464.239 [Reserved]

§ 464.240 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Failure to Summon Medical Aid for Prisoner [Gov. Code § 845.6]--Against Public Entity and Public Employee

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Jurisdiction

[4] Venue

[5] Verification

[6] Specification of Damages

[7] Cross References

§ 464.241 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Injuries to Prisoner [Gov. Code § 844.6] or Patient at Mental Institution [Gov. Code § 854.8] Caused by Negligence of Public Employee

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 464.242 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Injuries Caused by Failure of Public Entity Operating Medical Facility to Provide Adequate Equipment or Facilities [Gov. Code § 855(a)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 464.243 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity and Public Employee Not Liable for Failure to Provide Police Protection [Gov. Code § 845]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 464.244 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity and Public Employee Not Liable for Injury Caused by Release of Prisoner or by Escaping Prisoner [Gov. Code § 845.8]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 464.245 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity and Public Employee Not Liable for Determination to Confine, for Terms and Conditions of Confinement, or for Determination to Release Mental Patient [Gov. Code § 856]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 464.246 General Demurrer [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.30(a)] for Failure to State Cause of Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(e)]--Public Entity and Public Employee Not Liable for Injury Caused in Fighting Fire [Gov. Code § 850.4]--And Notice of Hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1320(c)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Accompanying Papers

[4] Cross References

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART I. SCOPE

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.01

§ 464.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses and contains forms for claims and actions against public entities and public employees based on the California Tort Claims Act (Gov. Code § 810 et seq.).

Subpart A of Part II, Legal Background, discusses the procedures for making claims against public entities [see § 464.20 et seq.], as well as the procedures for filing actions against public entities and employees [see § 464.40 et seq.]. The chapter also contains a procedural checklist for use by a claimant [see § 464.140] and a procedural checklist for filing actions against public entities and employees [see § 464.161].

Subpart B of Part II, Legal Background, discusses the substantive rules governing the liability of public entities and public employees. Subdivision 1 of Subpart B discusses general principles of liability and immunity [see § 464.60 et seq.]; Subdivision 2 discusses the liability of a public entity for dangerous conditions of public property [see § 464.80 et seq.]; and Subdivision 3 discusses other specific statutory liabilities and immunities [see § 464.100 et seq.].

The chapter contains the following forms:

- Forms for filing claims against public entities [see § 464.160 et seq.].

- Forms for use in filing complaints against public entities and employees based on general principles of liability, and forms for defending against such claims [see § 464.180 et seq.].

- Forms for use in filing complaints against public entities and employees based on dangerous conditions of public property, and forms for defending against such claims [see § 464.210 et seq.].

- Forms for use in filing complaints against public entities and employees based on other specific statutory liabilities, and forms for asserting specific statutory defenses against such claims [see § 464.240 et seq.].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART I. SCOPE

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.02

§ 464.02 Cross References

- For forms of acknowledgments by public entities, see Ch. 9, Acknowledgments
- For forms of complaints against airports, see Ch. 16, Airplanes and Airports
- For forms alleging the capacity of public entities, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used
- For forms of complaints for use in actions involving assault and battery, see Ch. 58, Assault and Battery
- For discussion and forms of complaints against public entities involving the right to assemble, see Ch. 59, Assemblies, Meetings, and Demonstrations
- For forms of complaints against public entities involving bridges, see Ch. 102, Bridges
- For discussion and forms of complaints against public entities involving building contracts, see Ch. 104, Building Contracts
- For forms of complaints against public entities involving buses and streetcars, see Ch. 106, Buses and Streetcars
- For descriptions of public entity parties for use in captions, see Ch. 108, Captions and Introductions
- For forms of complaints for use in actions involving conversion, see Ch. 150, Conversion
- For discussion of recovery of defense costs after summary judgment, directed verdict, judgment on motion, or nonsuit for the defendant in a civil proceeding under the Tort Claims Act brought in bad faith and without reasonable cause, see Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees, § 174.10 et seq.

- For discussion and forms of complaints for declaratory relief against public entities, see Ch. 182, Declaratory Relief

- For forms of complaints for use in actions against public entities involving emergency vehicles, see Ch. 246, Emergency Vehicles

- For a complaint against a public entity involving fireworks, see Ch. 256, Explosives

- For forms of complaints against public entities and public employees for false imprisonment, see Ch. 257, False Imprisonment

- For forms of complaints for use in actions involving fraud and deceit, see Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit

- For discussion and forms for use in actions involving hospitals, see Ch. 295, Hospitals

- For discussion of and forms for actions against public officials for libel and slander, see Ch. 340, Libel and Slander

- For forms of complaints and affirmative defenses for use in actions for malicious prosecution against public entities and public employees, see Ch. 357, Malicious Prosecution and Abuse of Process

- For forms of complaints for use in actions involving mental suffering and emotional distress, see Ch.362, Mental Suffering and Emotional Distress

- For forms of complaints in actions involving negligence, see Ch. 380, Negligence

- For forms of complaints in actions involving nuisances, see Ch. 391, Nuisance

- For discussion and forms for use in actions involving physicians, see Ch. 415, Physicians: Medical Malpractice

- For discussion of and a form of complaint against a public entity involving pollution, see Ch. 418, Pollution and Environmental Matters

- For a form of affirmative defense allegation for use in an action for damages brought by or on behalf of a person injured or killed while committing specified crimes, see Ch. 421, Premises Liability

- For discussion and forms of complaints for use in actions involving sanitation districts, see Ch. 511, Sanitation and Sewerage Districts

- For discussion and forms for use in actions involving public schools, see Ch. 513, Schools: Student Rights and Responsibilities

- For discussion of a subrogee's right of action against a public entity, see Ch. 536, Subrogation

- For forms of complaints for use in actions involving trespasses, see Ch. 550, Trespass

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawLitigation & Administrative ProceedingsNuisances, Trespasses & Strict LiabilityHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersDoctors & PhysiciansTortsIntentional TortsMalicious ProsecutionGeneral OverviewTortsTransportation TortsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART I. SCOPE

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 464.03-464.19

[Reserved]

§§ 464.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
1. Claims Against Public Entities

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.20

§ 464.20 Governing Law

[1] California Tort Claims Act

The California Tort Claims Act is set forth in Gov. Code § 810 et seq. General provisions governing claims are set forth in Gov. Code § 900 et seq. The presentation and consideration of claims against public entities and public employees are governed by Gov. Code § 910 et seq. In 2007, the California Supreme Court stated that because of the broad scope of the claim requirements which may involve claims based on contract, a number of Courts of Appeal have followed the suggestion that "Government Claims Act" is a more appropriate short title than the traditional "Tort Claims Act," and the Supreme Court has adopted the newer term [City of Stockton v. Superior Court (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 730, 741, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 295, 171 P. 2d 20 ("We agree that this practice is a useful way to reduce confusion over the application of the claim requirements. Henceforth, we will refer to title 1, division 3.6, parts 1 through 7 of the Government Code (§ 810 et seq.) as the Government Claims Act ... Government Claims Act is an appropriately inclusive term and an apt short version of the comprehensive title bestowed by the 1963 Legislature: 'Claims and Actions Against Public Entities and Public Employees' "]. For purposes of this publication, either term is used to describe the provisions of Gov. Code § 810 et seq.

[2] Special Emergency Procedures

In response to the earthquake that struck northern California on October 17, 1989, the legislature enacted Gov. Code § 997 et seq., which deal with claims procedures for compensation of victims of the collapse of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge and the I-880 Cypress structure. Although the deadline for filing applications for compensation has passed [see Gov. Code § 997.1(a); see also Gov. Code § 911.4 (application for leave to present late claim must be filed within one year after accrual of cause of action)], litigation arising out of some of those claims may still be ongoing [see Gov. Code § 997.1(e)].

In the event of another major catastrophe, it is probable that the legislature will enact a similar relief plan with streamlined procedures to ensure the fair and prompt payment of all valid claims. To the extent such a plan differs from provisions of the Tort Claims Act, the provisions of the emergency relief plan would control.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationTime LimitationsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsProcedural Requirements

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
1. Claims Against Public Entities

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.21

§ 464.21 Framework of Tort Claims Act

[1] Enactment of Statute

The California legislature enacted Gov. Code § 810 et seq., commonly known as the California Tort Claims Act, in 1963 [see Stats. 1963, chs. 1681-1684, 1715, 1805]. Although there is no statutory authority for this title, it is frequently used by courts [see, e.g., Sullivan v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 710, 715, 117 Cal. Rptr. 241, 527 P.2d 865 ; Elson v. Public Utilities Commission (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 577, 582, 124 Cal. Rptr. 305]. In 2007, the California Supreme Court stated that because of the broad scope of the claim requirements which may involve claims based on contract, a number of Courts of Appeal have followed the suggestion that "Government Claims Act" ' is a more appropriate short title than the traditional "Tort Claims Act," and the Supreme Court has adopted the newer term [City of Stockton v. Superior Court (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 730, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 295, 171 P. 2d 20 ("We agree that this practice is a useful way to reduce confusion over the application of the claim requirements. Henceforth, we will refer to title 1, division 3.6, parts 1 through 7 of the Government Code (§ 810 et seq.) as the Government Claims Act ... Government Claims Act is an appropriately inclusive term and an apt short version of the comprehensive title bestowed by the 1963 Legislature: 'Claims and Actions Against Public Entities and Public Employees' "]. For purposes of this publication, either term is used to describe the provisions of Gov. Code § 810 et seq. The Tort Claims Act, which now comprehensively covers the area of governmental tort liability in California, was enacted in response to the California Supreme Court's abrogation of the doctrine of governmental tort immunity [see Muskopf v. Corning Hosp. Dist. (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 211, 218-221 ; Lipman v. Brisbane Elementary Sch. Dist. (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 224, 229-232, 11 Cal. Rptr. 97, 359 P.2d 465] .

[2] Definitions

The term "local public entity" includes a county, city, district, public authority, public agency, and any other political subdivision or public corporation in California, but does not include the state [Gov. Code § 900.4].

The term "state" means the State of California and any office, officer, department, division, bureau, board, commission, or agency of the state, claims against which are paid by warrants drawn by the Controller [Gov. Code § 900.6]. The Tort Claims Act does not, however, apply to claims against the Regents of the University of California [Gov. Code § 905.6].

In the case of a local public entity, the term "board" refers to the governing body of that public entity [Gov. Code § 900.2(a)]; the term "public entity" is frequently used in this chapter for purposes of clarity. In the case of the state, the term "board" refers to the California Victim Compensation and Government Claims Board [Gov. Code § 900.2(b)]. Wherever the term "board" is used in this chapter, it refers to the California Victim Compensation and Government Claims Board, unless otherwise noted.

[3] Statutory Basis for Liability Required

Except as otherwise provided by statute, a public entity is not liable for an injury, whether the injury arises out of an act or omission of the public entity, a public employee, or any other person [Gov. Code § 815(a)]. Moreover, the public entity liability established by Gov. Code § 814 et seq. (liability of public entities and public employees) is subject to any public entity immunity provided by statute, and is also subject to any defenses that would be available to the public entity if it were a private person [Gov. Code § 815(b); see § 464.60 et seq.].

Although a public entity may be sued, nothing in the Tort Claims Act imposes liability on a public entity unless that liability otherwise exists [Gov. Code §§ 944, 945]. However, nothing in the Tort Claims Act can be construed to deprive a claimant of the right to resort to a writ of mandate or other proceeding against the public entity, or the board or any employee of the public entity, to compel payment of a claim if and to the extent that it has been allowed and is required by the Tort Claims Act to be paid [Gov. Code § 942].

[4] Claim as Condition Precedent to Action

The tort liability of a public entity is conditioned on the timely filing of a written claim in proper form [see Gov. Code §§ 905, 905.2; § 464.12]. Except as provided in Gov. Code §§ 946.4 and 946.6, no suit for money or damages may be brought against a public entity on a cause of action for which the Tort Claims Act requires that a claim be presented, until a written claim has been presented to the public entity and has either been acted on by the board or been deemed to have been rejected by the board [Gov. Code § 945.4; for discussion of Gov. Code § 946.6, see § 464.25[3]]. Compliance with the claim requirement of Gov. Code § 945.4 is, therefore, a condition precedent to an action against the public entity [Williams v. Horvath (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 834, 838, 129 Cal. Rptr. 453, 548 P.2d 1125 ; Ridley v. City & County of San Francisco (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 290, 292, 293, 77 Cal. Rptr. 199] .

For discussion of the procedures governing the filing of actions against public entities, see § 464.40 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsConstruction & InterpretationTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsEntities Covered

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
1. Claims Against Public Entities

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.22

§ 464.22 Scope of Claim Presentation Requirement

[1] Types of Claims

Except for those nontort claims listed in Gov. Code § 905, and other specified exceptions, all claims for money or damages against local public entities must be presented in accordance with the requirements of Gov. Code §§ 900-915.4 [Gov. Code § 905].

In addition, all of the following claims for money or damages against the state must be presented in accordance with the requirements of Gov. Code §§ 900-915.4 [Gov. Code § 905.2(b); but see Gov. Code § 905.6 (Tort Claims Act inapplicable to Regents of the University of California)]:

- Claims for which no appropriation has been made or for which no fund is available, but the settlement of which has been provided for by statute or constitutional provision;
- Claims for which the appropriation made or fund designated is exhausted;
- Claims for money or damages on express contract or for an injury for which the state is liable; and
- Claims for which settlement is not otherwise provided for by statute or constitutional provision.

In addition to the statutory provision that an action on an express contract brought against the state is subject to the claims filing requirements, an action on a contract brought against other public entities, such as a claim for failure to pay for goods or services rendered, is an action for money or damages that is subject to the claims filing requirements [City of Stockton v. Superior Court (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 730, 738, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 295, 171 P.3d 20 ; see, e.g., Baines Pickwick Ltd. v. City of Los Angeles (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 298, 310, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 74 ; Alliance Fin. v. City & County of San Francisco (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 635, 641-642, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 341] .

Claims against a judicial branch entity for money or damages based on an express contract or for an injury for which the judicial branch entity is liable are also subject to the claims filing requirement [Gov. Code § 905.7].

[2] Purpose of Claim Requirement

The claim presentation requirement of the Tort Claims Act serves several purposes [Phillips v. Desert Hosp. Dist. (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 699, 705, 263 Cal. Rptr. 119, 780 P.2d 349 ; Bettencourt v. Los Rios Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 270, 279, 228 Cal. Rptr. 190, 721 P.2d 71] :

- It gives the public entity prompt notice of a claim so that it can investigate the strengths and weaknesses of the claim while the evidence is still fresh and the witnesses are available.

- It affords opportunity for amicable adjustment, thereby avoiding expenditure of public funds in needless litigation.

- It informs the public entity of potential liability so that it can better prepare for the upcoming fiscal year.

- It provides the public entity with an opportunity to quickly rectify a dangerous condition [Johnson v. San Diego Unified Sch. Dist. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 692, 696-697, 266 Cal. Rptr. 187] .

However, in keeping with its general purposes, the claim presentation requirement cannot be used as a trap for the unwary if its underlying purposes have been satisfied [Johnson v. San Diego Unified Sch. Dist. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 692, 697, 266 Cal. Rptr. 187 ; Krainock v. Superior Court (1990) 216 Cal. App. 3d 1473, 1477, 265 Cal. Rptr. 715] . Consequently, in determining whether a plaintiff has met the claim filing and presentation requirements of the Tort Claims Act, the courts employ a test of substantial, rather than strict, compliance [Johnson v. San Diego Unified Sch. Dist. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 692, 697, 266 Cal. Rptr. 187 ; for discussion of the doctrine of substantial compliance, see § 464.23[3][e]].

[3] Statutory Exceptions to Requirement

The following specific types of claims against local public entities are not subject to the claim-filing requirement of the Tort Claims Act [Gov. Code § 905]:

- Claims under the Revenue and Taxation Code or any other statute prescribing procedures for the refund, rebate, exemption, cancellation, amendment, modification, or adjustment of any tax, assessment, fee, or charge, or any portion thereof, or any penalties, costs, or related charges;

- Claims in connection with which the filing of a notice of lien, statement of claim, or stop notice is required under any provision of law relating to mechanics', laborers', or materialmen's liens;

- Claims by public employees for fees, salaries, wages, mileage, or other expenses and allowances;

- Claims for which the workers' compensation authorized by Lab. Code § 3200 et seq. is the exclusive remedy;

- Applications or claims for any form of public assistance under the Welfare and Institutions Code or other provisions of law relating to public assistance programs, and claims for goods, services, provisions, or other assistance rendered for or on behalf of any recipient of any form of public assistance;

- Applications or claims for money or benefits under any public retirement or pension system [see Blue v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th Supp. 12, 14 , 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 923 (plaintiff's request for life insurance benefits on death of public employee spouse falls within exception from claim filing requirements under Gov. Code § 905 for application for benefits under public retirement or pension system; denial of benefits did not transform claim into one for breach of contract, for which filing of claim is necessary)];

- Claims for principal or interest on any bonds, notes, warrants, or other evidences of indebtedness;

- Claims that relate to a special assessment constituting a specific lien against the property assessed and that are payable from the proceeds of that assessment, by offset of a claim for damages against it, or by delivery of any warrant or bonds representing it;

- Claims by the state or by a state department or agency or by another local public entity or by a judicial branch entity;

- Claims arising under any provision of the Unemployment Insurance Code, including but not limited to claims for money or benefits, or for refunds or credits of employer or worker contributions, penalties, or interest, or for refunds to workers of deductions from wages in excess of the amount prescribed;

- Claims for the recovery of penalties or forfeitures made pursuant to Lab. Code § 1720 et seq. relating to public works; and

- Claims governed by Sts. & Hy. Code § 11000 et seq. (the Pedestrian Mall Law).

- Claims to recover damages for childhood sexual abuse brought pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure Section 340.1, if arising from conduct occurring on or after January 1, 2009.

Although actions against local public entities that have not filed an information statement with the California Secretary of State's Roster of Public Agencies in conformance with Gov. Code § 53051 are not specifically excepted from the claim presentation requirement, the plaintiff's failure to present a claim does not constitute a bar or defense to such an action [see Gov. Code § 946.4; see also § 464.38].

No claim is required to be filed to maintain an action against a public entity for the taking of, or damage to, private property pursuant to Cal. Const. art. I, § 19. If, however, a claim is filed against a public entity for the taking of, or damage to, private property pursuant to Cal. Const. art. I, § 19, that public entity must process the claim in accordance with the Tort Claims Act [Gov. Code § 905.1]. For discussion and forms relating to takings of private property and claims of inverse condemnation, see Ch. 247, Eminent Domain .

A local public entity, or a state agency, may include in any written agreement to which the public entity is a party provisions governing the presentation, by or on behalf of any party, of any or all claims arising out of or related to the agreement and the consideration and payment of such claims [Gov. Code §§ 930, 930.2]. Such claims procedures established in the agreement govern the claims to which the agreement relates, although the statutory procedures for relief from late claims apply if the agreement requires a claim to be presented less than one year from accrual [Gov. Code § 930.4], and the limitations of Gov. Code §§ 945.6 and 946 apply if the contractual provisions require presentation of a claim prior to suit [Gov. Code § 930.6]. However, other than the required application of those statutory procedures, a claim subject to contractual claims procedures written into a public contract is not subject to the statutory claims presentation requirements of Gov. Code §§ 905 and 910 et seq., unless such a requirement is written into the agreement [Arntz Builders v. City of Berkeley (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 276, 288-291, 82 Cal. Rptr. 3d 605].

[4] Other Exceptions

Despite the requirement in Gov. Code § 905 that a claim based on a contract must be presented to the state, if the state has filed an action as the plaintiff based on a contract, the defendant need not present a claim to cross complain based on the same contract [People ex rel. Dept. of Parks & Recreation v. West-A-Rama, Inc. (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 786, 793-795, 111 Cal. Rptr. 197].

Similarly, compliance with the claim filing requirement may not be necessary before a defendant in a tort action may file a cross complaint against a public entity that has initiated an action against that defendant [Krainock v. Superior Court (1990) 216 Cal. App. 3d 1473, 1478-1479, 265 Cal. Rptr. 715 (personal injury action against individual and public school district in which school district cross complained against individual defendant for indemnity, apportionment, and declaratory relief, to which individual cross complained for same relief against school district)]. In general, there are three rules for determining whether a defensive cross complaint is exempt from the claim filing requirement. First, the inapplicability of the claim filing requirement is limited to cases initiated by the public entity; claims are still required in actions initiated by a third party in which a defendant seeks to cross complain against a public entity not previously a party to the action. Second, to be exempt from the claim requirement the defensive pleading must arise out of the same transaction or event forming the basis of the plaintiff's claim, and it may not introduce an unrelated claim. Third, the cross complaint may assert only defensive matter; that is, a cross complaint may be filed without a claim only if it is limited to claims that, if successful, would destroy or diminish the plaintiff's recovery, but would not be the basis for affirmative relief [Krainock v. Superior Court (1990) 216 Cal. App. 3d 1473, 1478, 265 Cal. Rptr. 715 (facts did not squarely fit rules, but were sufficiently analogous)].

Gov. Code § 905 requires presentation of a claim only if the claimant is seeking money or damages. Although the phrase "claims for money or damages" is not defined in the Tort Claims Act, there is case authority indicating that if an action is not primarily based on a claim for money or damages, the presentation of a claim is not required. For example, a claim for the recovery of specific property converted by a public entity is not a claim for money or damages and thus is not subject to the claims procedure of the Tort Claims Act, even if the claim is for the conversion of a specific sum of money [Minsky v. City of Los Angeles (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 113, 121-123, 113 Cal. Rptr. 102, 520 P.2d 726 ; Hibbard v. City of Anaheim (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 270, 276-277, 208 Cal. Rptr. 733] . This exception for the recovery of specific property applies even if loss of some of the property while in government custody due to the government's own negligence necessitates that the plaintiff also seek monetary damages in lieu of return of the lost property [Long v. City of Los Angeles (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 782, 786-787 , 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 583 (relying on MinskyMinsky and Holt v. Kelly (1978) 20 Cal. 3d 560, 565, 143 Cal. Rptr. 625)].

Similarly, actions seeking specific relief other than money or damages, such as injunctive or declaratory relief and certain actions in mandamus and in which money is an incident thereto, are exempt from the Tort Claims Act [see, e.g., Eureka Teacher's Assn. v. Board of Education (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 469, 474-476, 247 Cal. Rptr. 790 (mandamus to compel school district to re-employ petitioner as teacher; claims for back pay and fringe benefits were incidental to mandamus action); Harris v. State Personnel Bd. (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 639, 643, 216 Cal. Rptr. 274 (mandamus to compel State Personnel Board to reinstate petitioner to state employment; back salary recovery sought was incidental to mandamus action)].

The claim filing requirements of the Tort Claims Act were also inapplicable to an arbitration proceeding challenging a public school district's decision not to re-employ a probationary teacher for the succeeding school year. Therefore, the teacher's failure to file a claim with the school district did not bar the arbitrator's monetary award in favor of the teacher. The court of appeal reasoned that such an arbitration proceeding did not involve a claim for money or damages within the meaning of the Tort Claims Act because no judicial adjudication was involved [Paramount Unified School Dist. v. Teachers Assn. of Paramount (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 1371, 1386-1388, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 311].

Additional exceptions to the claim presentation requirement are based on the nature of the action being brought against the public entity. Therefore, an action brought under 42 U.S.C.S. § 1983 alleging deprivation of rights under color of state law need not be preceded by compliance with the state claim requirement [Williams v. Horvath (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 834, 837-842, 129 Cal. Rptr. 453, 548 P.2d 1125 ; for discussion and a form for use in a 42 U.S.C.S. § 1983 action, see Ch. 113, Civil Rights: The Post-Civil War Civil Rights Statutes]. Furthermore, actions seeking redress for employment discrimination under the Fair Employment and Housing Act (Gov. Code § 12900 et seq.) are not subject to the claim presentation requirement of the Tort Claims Act [Garcia v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 701, 710-711, 219 Cal. Rptr. 544 ; Snipes v. City of Bakersfield (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 861, 865-869, 193 Cal. Rptr. 760 ; but see Caldwell v. Montoya (1995) 10 Cal. 4th 972, 976-979, 984-985, 42 Cal. Rptr. 2d 842, 897 P.2d 1320 (applying Tort Claims Act immunities to claim brought under FEHA); for discussion of employment discrimination, see Ch. 115, Civil Rights: Employment Discrimination].

Claims against charter schools run by nonprofit corporations that are legal entities independent from the chartering school districts are not subject to the claims filing requirement, as a charter school is not considered to be a public entity [Knapp v. Palisades Charter High Sch. (2007) 146 Cal. App. 4th 708, 717, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 182] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsProcedural Requirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
1. Claims Against Public Entities

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.23

§ 464.23 Claim Filing Procedures

[1] Rules Applicable to Claims Against Local Public Entities

Claims against a local public entity for money or damages that are excepted from the general claim requirements by Gov. Code § 905, and that are not governed by any other statutes or regulations expressly relating thereto, are governed by the procedure prescribed in any charter, ordinance, or regulation adopted by the local public agency [Gov. Code § 935(a); for discussion of claims excepted by Gov. Code § 905, see § 464.22[3]].

The procedure prescribed by the local public entity may include a requirement that a claim be presented and acted on as a prerequisite to suit. If such a requirement is included, any action brought against the public entity on the claim is subject to the provisions of Gov. Code §§ 945.6 (statute of limitations) and 946 (no action if claim is allowed) [Gov. Code § 935(b); see § 464.41]. This prerequisite applies to claims against a local public entity by the state [City of Ontario v. Superior Court (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 894, 903, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 32 (precluding action by state against city for indemnification on ground that state failed to present claim pursuant to city ordinance)]. Furthermore, any such procedure may not require a shorter time for presentation of a claim than the time provided in Gov. Code § 911.2 [Gov. Code § 935(c)], and it may not provide a longer time for the public entity to take action on any claim than the time provided in Gov. Code § 912.4 [Gov. Code § 935(d)].

If local procedure requires a claim to be presented within one year after the accrual of the cause of action and a claim is not timely presented, an application may be made to that public entity for leave to present the claim. Gov. Code §§ 911.4(b), 911.6-912.2 (late claims), 946.4 (statement with Roster of Public Agencies), and 946.6 (relief from claim filing requirement) are applicable to all such claims, and the time specified in the charter, ordinance, or regulation is the "time specified in Gov. Code § 911.2" within the meaning of Gov. Code §§ 911.6 and 946.6 [Gov. Code § 935(e); for discussion of Gov. Code § 946.6, see § 464.25].

[2] Rules Applicable to Claims Against State

Any person having a claim against the state for which appropriations have been made or for which state funds are available may present it to the State Controller in the form and manner prescribed by the general rules and regulations adopted by the board for the presentation and audit of claims [Gov. Code § 925.4]. If the Controller approves the claim, a warrant for the amount approved will be drawn in favor of the claimant [Gov. Code § 925.8]. If the claim is disapproved, the claim and a statement of disapproval, with supporting reasons, will be filed with the board by the Controller [Gov. Code § 926].

Although the Controller will not typically entertain a previously rejected claim a second time [see Gov. Code § 926.2], anyone who is aggrieved by the Controller's disapproval of a claim may appeal to the board. If the board finds that the facts justify such action, the Controller will reconsider the rejection of the claim [Gov. Code § 926.4]. After final rejection of a claim by the Controller following reconsideration, any interested person may appeal to the legislature [see Gov. Code § 926.6].

[3] Form and Contents of Claim

[a] Statutorily Required Information

The claim must be presented by the claimant or by a person acting on the claimant's behalf and must show all of the following [Gov. Code § 910]:

- The claimant's name and post office address;
- The post office address to which the person presenting the claim desires notices to be sent;
- The date, place, and other circumstances of the occurrence or transaction giving rise to the claim asserted;
- A general description of the indebtedness, obligation, injury, damage, or loss incurred so far as it may be known at the time of presentation of the claim;
- The names of any public employees causing the injury, damage, or loss, if known; and
- The amount claimed if it totals less than $10,000 as of the date of presentation of the claim, including the estimated amount of any prospective injury, damage, or loss, insofar as it may be known at the time of the presentation of the claim, together with the basis of computation of the amount claimed (if the amount claimed exceeds $10,000, no dollar amount should be included in the claim, but the claim must indicate whether the claim would be a limited civil case (amount in controversy, exclusive of interest, is $25,000 or less)).

The claim must be signed by the claimant or by a person acting on the claimant's behalf. However, claims against local public entities for supplies, materials, equipment, or services need not be signed if presented on a bill or invoice regularly used in the conduct of the claimant's business [Gov. Code § 910.2].

The claim must fairly describe what the public entity is alleged to have done. It need not conform to pleading standards, but the causes of action pleaded in any complaint subsequently filed must substantially correspond with the circumstances that the claim describes [Shoemaker v. Myers (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 1407, 1426, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 203 ; see § 464.41[3]].

For a general claim form, reproductions of the claim forms for use with the board, and a form of class action claim, see §§ 464.160 -464.162.

[b] Forms Provided by Public Entities

The public entity may provide forms specifying the information to be contained in claims against that public entity. If the public entity does provide a form, the person presenting a claim need not use that form if he or she presents the claim in conformity with Gov. Code §§ 910 and 910.2. A claim presented on a form provided by the state is deemed to be in conformity with Gov. Code §§ 910 and 910.2 if the claim complies substantially with the requirements of the form or with the requirements of Gov. Code §§ 910 and 910.2 [Gov. Code § 910.4]. Therefore, a claim submitted on a public entity's form that includes all of the information required by Gov. Code § 910 need not answer additional questions [see Blair v. Superior Court (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 221, 225, 267 Cal. Rptr. 13 (claim submitted on form provided by State Board of Control was in compliance even though it did not specifically state the "act or omission on the part of state officers" that caused injury; Board could not expand requirements of Gov. Code § 910)].

[c] Other Documents Disclosing Claim

[i] Treated as Claim

A document that discloses the existence of a claim that will result in litigation if not paid or otherwise resolved must be treated as a claim [Phillips v. Desert Hosp. Dist. (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 699, 707-710, 263 Cal. Rptr. 119, 780 P.2d 349 ; Wilson v. Tri-City Hosp. Dist. (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 441, 449, 270 Cal. Rptr. 436] . Although the California Supreme Court adopted this theory in a case in which the document was a notice of intention to commence a medical malpractice action [see Phillips v. Desert Hosp. Dist. (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 699, 263 Cal. Rptr. 119, 780 P.2d 349] , theory is not limited to that type of document, and has also been applied to letters written by tort plaintiffs' attorneys [see, e.g., Wilson v. Tri-City Hosp. Dist. (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 441, 270 Cal. Rptr. 436 (action for wrongful termination and breach of covenant); Foster v. McFadden (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 943, 106 Cal. Rptr. 685 (personal injury action)].

[ii] Letter From Attorney

Although a letter from an attorney to the public entity can constitute sufficient notice of a claim to trigger a duty on the part of the public entity to notify the plaintiff of claim deficiencies [see Green v. State Ctr. Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1995) 34 Cal. App. 4th 1348, 1357-1358, 41 Cal. Rptr. 2d 140] , the public entity must be able to discern from the letter that a claim is being made that will result in litigation if not otherwise satisfied [Green v. State Ctr. Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1995) 34 Cal. App. 4th 1348, 1358, 41 Cal. Rptr. 2d 140] . Therefore, a letter from an attorney that merely notifies the public entity that the attorney has been hired to represent an individual concerning an accident occurring on a particular date, but at an unspecified location, and to direct all inquiries to the attorney, did not constitute notice of a claim [Green v. State Ctr. Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1995) 34 Cal. App. 4th 1348, 1351, 1359, 41 Cal. Rptr. 2d 140] .

However, a communication to a public entity that a claim has accrued and that the claimant intends to enforce it through litigation, if needed, suffices as notice of a claim, even though the communication fails to notify the public entity that a lawsuit is imminent [Alliance Fin. v. City & County of San Francisco (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 635, 647, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 341] . A letter from an attorney that discusses an ongoing monetary dispute between the client and the public entity does not constitute notice of a claim if it does not threaten litigation if the matter is not resolved and is not treated by the parties at the time as a claim under the statute [Schaefer Dixon Assocs. v. Santa Ana Watershed Project Auth. (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 524, 533-534, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 698] . Moreover, such a letter is not a claim notice for statutory purposes even if litigation is threatened, if the letter demands a response within a period of time that is shorter than the 45-day time period for responding that is granted by statute [Schaefer Dixon Assocs. v. Santa Ana Watershed Project Auth. (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 524, 534, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 698] .

[iii] Notice of Intent to Commence Medical Malpractice Action

If the public entity is a health care provider, the notice of intention to commence a medical malpractice action required by Code Civ. Proc. § 364(a) may be treated as a claim [see, e.g., Mandjik v. Eden Township Hosp. Dist. (1992) 4 Cal.

App. 4th 1488, 1495, 1503-1504, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 582 ; for discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 364(a), see Ch. 295, Hospitals]. A document that discloses the existence of a claim that will result in litigation if not paid or otherwise resolved must be treated as a claim, although the document must definitely disclose the existence of a claim for monetary damages. Such a document satisfies the main purpose of the Tort Claims Act, which is to facilitate investigation of disputes and their settlement without trial if appropriate. If the document does not meet all the claims requirements, it must be treated as a defective claim [Phillips v. Desert Hosp. Dist. (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 699, 707-710, 263 Cal. Rptr. 119, 780 P.2d 349] .

If the document is a defective claim because of a perceived deficiency, the public entity must provide notice of that deficiency to the claimant or that deficiency is waived as a defense [Wilson v. Tri-City Hosp. Dist. (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 441, 449-450, 270 Cal. Rptr. 436 ; see Gov. Code §§ 910.8, 911; see also § 464.24[1][c]].

Additionally, if the document is not a timely filed claim, the public entity must provide notice of the lateness of the claim or lateness is waived as a defense [Wilson v. Tri-City Hosp. Dist. (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 441, 449-450, 270 Cal. Rptr. 436 ; see Gov. Code § 911.3; see also § 464.24[1][d]].

A Patient Problem/Complaint Form submitted to a hospital quality assurance department complaining about the quality of medical care, together with a Supplemental Note dated a few days later, were insufficient to trigger an obligation on the entity's part to give a claimant a written notice of insufficiency under Gov. Code § 910.8 or waive any defense under Gov. Code § 911 based on that insufficiency [Wood v. Riverside Gen. Hosp. (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1113, 1118-1119, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 8] . The documents were not delivered or mailed to the clerk, secretary, or auditor of the local public entity as required under Gov. Code § 915, nor was there any indication that the correspondence was intended as a claim for money damages. These documents were not sufficient to make the recipient realize that a claim was being asserted and, in the normal course of business, forward that claim to the persons responsible for investigating and settling claims [Wood v. Riverside Gen. Hosp. (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1113, 1118-1119, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 8] .

[d] Amendments to Claim

A claim may be amended at any time before the later of either the expiration of the period for filing of claims designated by Gov. Code § 911.2 or the board's taking final action on the original claim, if the claim as amended relates to the same transaction or occurrence that gave rise to the original claim. The amendment is considered a part of the original claim for all purposes [Gov. Code § 910.6(a)]. For a form of amendment to a claim, see § 464.163.

A failure or refusal to amend a claim, whether or not notice of insufficiency is given under Gov. Code § 910.8, does not constitute a defense to any action brought on the cause of action for which the claim was presented, if the court finds that the claim as presented complied substantially with Gov. Code §§ 910 and 910.2 or a form provided by the entity [Gov. Code § 910.6(b)].

[e] Substantial Compliance Sufficient

Generally, compliance with the claims statute is mandatory, and failure to file a claim is fatal to the cause of action [City of San Jose v. Superior Court (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 447, 454, 115 Cal. Rptr. 797, 525 P.2d 701] . However, if the claimant has attempted to comply with the claim filing requirements, but the compliance is defective, the test of substantial compliance controls, and substantial compliance with the statutory requirements will be considered sufficient [Pacific Tel. & Tel. Co. v. County of Riverside (1980) 106 Cal. App. 3d 183, 188, 165 Cal. Rptr. 29] . Under this test, the court must determine whether or not sufficient information is disclosed on the face of the filed claim to reasonably enable the public entity to make an adequate investigation of the merits of the claim and to settle it without the expense of a lawsuit [White v. Moreno Valley Unified Sch. Dist. (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 1024, 1031, 226 Cal. Rptr. 742] . Additionally, the claim must be readily identifiable as such. A letter merely providing information, but not advising of imminent litigation, is insufficient to constitute a claim [Schaefer Dixon Assocs. v. Santa Ana Watershed

Project Auth. (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 524, 533, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 698] .

Substantial compliance, however, cannot be based on a total failure to comply with a particular statutory requirement, and compliance with the filing requirements may not be excused simply because the public entity had full knowledge of the facts constituting the basis of the claim [City of San Jose v. Superior Court (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 447, 455-456, 115 Cal. Rptr. 797, 525 P.2d 701 ; Loehr v. Ventura County Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 1071, 1083-1084, 195 Cal. Rptr. 576] . Therefore, to determine the sufficiency of a particular claim, the courts will first determine whether there is some compliance with all the statutory requirements and, if so, whether that compliance is sufficient to constitute substantial compliance [City of San Jose v. Superior Court (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 447, 456-457, 115 Cal. Rptr. 797, 525 P.2d 701] . Accordingly, in a case in which the plaintiff stated a mistaken location of the occurrence of the injury, the otherwise valid claim substantially complied with the claim requirements [Rowan v. City & County of San Francisco (1966) 244 Cal. App. 2d 308, 312-313, 53 Cal. Rptr. 88] .

In contrast, in an action for personal injury damages, there was no substantial compliance because the claim was based on property damages only [State of California ex rel. Dep't of Transportation v. Superior Court (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 331, 336, 205 Cal. Rptr. 518] . Moreover, a claim that is addressed to the wrong entity is not in substantial compliance [Life v. County of Los Angeles (1991) 227 Cal. App. 3d 894, 900-901, 278 Cal. Rptr. 196 (claim presented to "legal department" of county-owned and operated medical center that should have been presented to county board of supervisors)]. In another case, a complaint form and supplemental note submitted to a hospital quality assurance department complaining about the quality of medical care did not substantially comply with the claims statute because there was a total failure to meet at least two of the statutory requirements: (1) failure to transmit the document to the statutorily designated agent under Gov. Code § 915; and (2) failure to indicate that a monetary claim was being asserted by not complying with Gov. Code § 910(f) [Wood v. Riverside Gen. Hosp. (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1113, 1116-1119, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 8] .

Even if the claim fails to specify the nature of personal injuries claimed or the amount of damages, the claim may be in substantial compliance if it gives sufficient information to put the public entity on notice that a personal injury is claimed, how it was sustained, and that the claimant is seeking compensation for that injury [Connelly v. County of Fresno (2006) 146 Cal. App. 4th 29, 42, 52 Cal. Rptr. 3d 720] . In one case, for example, a claimant described the general facts surrounding a car accident allegedly caused when a county employee ran a stop sign and stated that she sought "unspecified medical, lost income, future medical." The court of appeal concluded that this met the substantial compliance test, as it put the county on notice of personal injuries suffered by the claimant in the accident and that the claimant did not at that time know the extent of the injuries or the associated costs [Connelly v. County of Fresno (2006) 146 Cal. App. 4th 29, 39-41, 52 Cal. Rptr. 3d 720] .

A major purpose of the Tort Claims Act is to give the public entity an opportunity to investigate and evaluate its potential liability, and the substantial compliance exception does not apply to a cause of action for which the entity had no notice. Therefore, if all the causes of action raised by the plaintiff's complaint were not reflected in the plaintiff's claim, the causes of action not reflected in the claim must be disallowed for noncompliance with filing prerequisites [Fall River Joint Unified Sch. Dist. v. Superior Court (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 431, 434-436, 253 Cal. Rptr. 587 (claim alleging dangerous condition of public property and negligent maintenance of school property did not support action for negligent supervision); see also Watson v. State of California (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 836, 844-845, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 262 (variance between first amended complaint, alleging that employees failed to provide plaintiff with appropriate and adequate medical treatment, and claim, which was based on theory that state refused to provide medical care and no care was provided, was fatal; doctrine of substantial compliance does not apply if claim fails to set forth factual basis for recovery); Donohue v. State of California (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 795, 805, 224 Cal. Rptr. 57 (claim that did not set forth grounds for relief later set forth in complaint could not be basis for waiver of defense that claim was insufficient; no notice of insufficiency of claim could be given by entity until complaint was filed)].

[4] Period for Filing Claim

[a] Period Based on Claim Type

[i] Tort Claims

A claim relating to a cause of action for death or for injury to person or to personal property or growing crops must be presented not later than six months after the accrual of the cause of action [Gov. Code § 911.2(a)]. The six-month time provision applies to actions based on breaches of noncontractual duties and therefore covers tort claims only [see Voth v. Wasco Pub. Util. Dist. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 353, 356, 128 Cal. Rptr. 608] . For example, claims for damages based on false arrest and false imprisonment [Ridley v. City & County of San Francisco (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 290, 292, 77 Cal. Rptr. 199] , on malicious prosecution and tortious interference with contract [Meester v. Davies (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 342, 345-348, 89 Cal. Rptr. 711] , on defamation [Miller v. Hoagland (1966) 247 Cal. App. 2d 57, 61, 55 Cal. Rptr. 311] , and on a breach of warranty or strict liability theory for personal injury or property damages [Voth v. Wasco Pub. Util. Dist. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 353, 359, 128 Cal. Rptr. 608 (dictum)] are all claims that must be presented to the public entity within the presentation period specified in Gov. Code § 911.2 as a condition precedent to filing an action.

Prior to 1988, Gov. Code § 911.2 required a claim to be presented not later than 100 days after the accrual of the cause of action. Many of the cases discussed in this chapter were decided prior to that time and refer to the 100-day limitation period. They are cited for their general principles, which were not affected by the amendment to Gov. Code § 911.2.

For purposes of determining whether a claim was presented within the required six-month period, the presentation date is: (1) the date the claim is submitted with the filing fee; (2) if a fee waiver is granted, the date the claim was submitted with an affidavit requesting the fee waiver; or (3) if a fee waiver is denied, the date the claim was submitted with an affidavit requesting the fee waiver, so long as the filing fee is paid within 10 calendar days after the mailing of the notice of denial of the fee waiver [Gov. Code § 911.2(b)].

[ii] Contract and Real Property Claims

A claim relating to any cause of action other than for death or for injury to person or to personal property or growing crops must be presented no later than one year after the accrual of the cause of action [Gov. Code § 911.2(a)]. This provision was intended to cover claims arising out of contract and claims for injuries to real property [Voth v. Wasco Pub. Util. Dist. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 353, 356, 128 Cal. Rptr. 608] . For example, a claim for damages to growing crops based on the breach of a promise of fitness of water implied from a written lease is a claim that must be filed within one year as provided by Gov. Code § 911.2 [Voth v. Wasco Pub. Util. Dist. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 353, 356-360, 128 Cal. Rptr. 608] .

For purposes of determining whether a claim was presented within the required one-year period, the rule of Gov. Code § 911.2(b) applies [see § 464.23[4][a][i]].

[iii] Distinguishing Claim Types

Whether an action on which claim based is a contract or tort action depends on the nature of the right sued on and not on the form of pleading or relief demanded. If an action is based on the breach of a promise, it is a contract action; if it is based on the breach of a noncontractual duty, it is a tort action [Voth v. Wasco Pub. Util. Dist. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 353, 356, 128 Cal. Rptr. 608] . If the breach sued on is both contractual and tortious, it must be ascertained what type of duty (tort or contract) is the quintessence of the action. If this is unclear, courts generally consider the action to be in contract rather than in tort. If, however, the action is predicated on a duty independent of the contract, it is generally deemed to be in tort regardless of the contractual relation of the parties [Voth v. Wasco Pub. Util. Dist. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 353, 356-357, 128 Cal. Rptr. 608] .

[b] Accrual of Claim

[i] Date of Accrual

For the purpose of computing the time limits prescribed by the Tort Claims Act for filing of claims, the date of the accrual of a cause of action to which a claim relates is the date on which the cause of action would be deemed to accrue within the meaning of the applicable statute of limitations if there were no claim presentation requirement [Gov. Code § 901; see Gov. Code §§ 911.2 (time for presenting claim), 911.4 (application to present late claim)].

The date on which a cause of action for equitable indemnity or partial equitable indemnity accrues, however, is the date on which a defendant is served with the complaint giving rise to the defendant's claim for equitable indemnity or partial equitable indemnity against the public entity [Gov. Code § 901].

A minor's medical malpractice cause of action against a government defendant accrues when the minor's parent or guardian knew, or should have known through the exercise of reasonable diligence, that a negligent wrongful act of medical care caused the child's injuries [Torres v. County of Los Angeles (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 325, 335, 257 Cal. Rptr. 211 (Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 is unconstitutional violation of equal protection to extent that it distinguishes between accrual of minors' and adults' actions regarding discovery of injury as point of accrual); for discussion of medical malpractice actions, see Ch. 415, Physicians: Medical Malpractice].

A cause of action against a public entity for false imprisonment accrues on termination of the imprisonment, rather than at the beginning of the incarceration [Collins v. County of Los Angeles (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 451, 455-456, 50 Cal. Rptr. 586] . This is also the time of accrual even if criminal proceedings against a claimant are not dismissed until some time after the claimant is released [Scannell v. County of Riverside (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 596, 606-607, 199 Cal. Rptr. 644] .

A cause of action for injury caused by a public employee's intentional interference with the right of a prisoner or inmate of a medical facility to obtain judicial review of the legality of his or her confinement does not accrue until it has been determined that the confinement was illegal [Gov. Code §§ 845.4 (prisoners), 855.2 (medical facility inmates)].

If the relevant facts are in dispute and the issue is raised in connection with a tort claim, the date of accrual for a cause of action under Gov. Code § 901 is subject to a jury determination [Jefferson v. County of Kern (2002) 98 Cal. App. 4th 606, 610-611, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1] .

[ii] Belated Discovery

Under the belated discovery rule, a cause of action does not accrue from the occurrence of the last essential fact or from discovery of the damage, but rather from the time the plaintiff became aware, or could have become aware, of the defendant's negligence as a cause [Bastian v. County of San Luis Obispo (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 520, 527, 245 Cal. Rptr. 78] . The belated discovery rule protects the plaintiff whose cause of action is preserved if, despite diligent investigation, the plaintiff is blamelessly ignorant of the cause of his or her injuries, as well as the defendant, who is spared precipitous litigation. It is applicable to actions against public entities under the Tort Claims Act [Bastian v. County of San Luis Obispo (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 520, 529, 245 Cal. Rptr. 78] .

To raise the issue of belated discovery, the plaintiff must state when the discovery was made and the circumstances behind the discovery, and must plead facts showing that the failure to discover was reasonable, justifiable, and not the result of a failure to investigate or act. Once belated discovery is pleaded, the issue of whether the plaintiff exercised reasonable diligence in discovering the negligent cause of the injury is a question of fact [Bastian v. County of San Luis Obispo (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 520, 527, 245 Cal. Rptr. 78] .

The test for belated discovery is whether the plaintiff had information of circumstances sufficient to put a reasonable person on inquiry, or had the opportunity to obtain knowledge from sources open to the plaintiff's investigation. If the plaintiff believed, because of injuries that he or she suffered, that someone had done something wrong, that fact is sufficient to alert the plaintiff to the necessity for investigation and the pursuit of his or her remedies [Bastian v. County of San Luis Obispo (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 520, 527, 245 Cal. Rptr. 78] . The test for diligence is not whether the plaintiff was successful in his or her timely investigation of the cause of injury, but whether the plaintiff's efforts were reasonable [Bastian v. County of San Luis Obispo (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 520, 528, 245 Cal. Rptr. 78] .

[c] Tolling of Claim Filing Period

If a claimant has several legal remedies, the requirement to file a claim may be tolled while the claimant is pursuing an alternative remedy, such as the administrative remedies available to an employee after dismissal and any subsequent judicial review [Baillargeon v. Department of Water & Power (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 670, 683-684, 138 Cal. Rptr. 338 ; Myers v. County of Orange (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 626, 634-637, 86 Cal. Rptr. 198] .

The time period for filing a claim is also tolled during the time the claimant is in military service [Syzemore v. County of Sacramento (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 517, 521-524, 127 Cal. Rptr. 741] .

If a public entity or its insurer makes an advance or partial payment under a liability insurance policy as an accommodation to a deceased or injured person, or on his or her behalf to others, without providing written notice of the applicable time period within which a claim must be brought against that public entity, the time period for filing any such claim is tolled until that notice is given. Notification is not required, however, if the recipient of the payment is represented by an attorney [see Ins. Code § 11583].

Accrual of a cause of action against a public entity is not tolled based on an attorney's discouraging advice to the plaintiff. A limitation period dependent on discovery of the cause of action begins to run no later than the time the plaintiff learns, or should have learned, the facts essential to his or her claim. The plaintiff's ignorance of his or her legal remedy or the underlying legal theories is irrelevant; if the plaintiff has suffered appreciable harm and knows or suspects the cause, that is sufficient to commence the running of the limitation period [Reyes v. County of Los Angeles (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 584, 591-592, 243 Cal. Rptr. 35] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationContent & FormTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationTime LimitationsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsConstruction & InterpretationTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsProcedural Requirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
1. Claims Against Public Entities

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.24

§ 464.24 Response to Claim by Public Entity

[1] Time Requirements for Response

[a] 45-Day Period

A public entity must act on a claim within 45 days after the claim has been presented [Gov. Code § 912.4(a)]. If a claim is amended, the public entity must act on the amended claim within 45 days after the amended claim is presented [Gov. Code § 912.4(a)]. No suit for money or damages may be brought against the public entity until the claim has been acted on or deemed to have been rejected [Gov. Code § 945.4]. For discussion of the commencement of the period of limitation in an action against a public entity after a claim has been rejected, see § 464.42[1][a].

If the public entity fails or refuses to act on a claim within 45 days, that claim is deemed to have been rejected by the public entity on the last day of the period within which the public entity was required to act on the claim [Gov. Code § 912.4(c)]. The 45-day period is not jurisdictional, however, and an act by the public entity on a claim after the 45-day period is valid and not outside of the authority of that public entity [Kane v. County of San Diego (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 550, 554, 83 Cal. Rptr. 19 (county may reject claim after expiration of 45 days)]. Negotiations between the public entity and the claimant do not constitute action by the public entity, and the claim is still deemed denied on the expiration of the 45-day period [Potstada v. City of Oakland (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 1022, 1027, 106 Cal. Rptr. 705] .

[b] Extension by Agreement

The claimant and the public entity may extend the period within which the public entity is required to act on the claim by written agreement made before the expiration of that period or after the expiration of that period, if an action based on the claim has not been commenced and is not yet barred by the period of limitation provided in Gov. Code § 945.6 [Gov. Code § 912.4(b)].

If the period within which the public entity is required to act has been extended by agreement, whether made before or after the expiration of that period, the last day of the period within which the public entity is required to act is the last day of the period specified in the agreement [Gov. Code § 912.4(c)].

[c] Claims Deemed Insufficient by Public Entity

[i] Notice of Insufficiency

If in the opinion of the public entity, a claim as presented fails to comply substantially with the requirements of Gov. Code §§ 910 and 910.2 or with the requirements of a form provided by that public entity, the public entity may, at any time within 20 days after the claim is presented, give written notice of the claim's insufficiency, stating with particularity the claim's defects or omissions. The notice must be given in the manner prescribed by Gov. Code § 915.4 [Gov. Code § 910.8; see § 464.24[3][b]]. The public entity may not take action on the claim for a period of 15 days after that notice is given [Gov. Code § 910.8].

[ii] Effect of Failure to Give Notice

Failure by a public entity to give notice of insufficiency of the claim, as required by Gov. Code § 910.8, waives any defense regarding the sufficiency of the claim based on a defect or omission in the claim as presented. However, no notice need be given and no waiver results if the claim as presented fails to state either an address to which the person presenting the claim desires notices to be sent or the claimant's address [Gov. Code § 911].

No notice of insufficiency is required and no waiver occurs if the insufficiency of the claim lies in its failure to set forth the factual basis for recovery that is later alleged in the complaint. In that case, the public entity could not have discovered the defect until after the filing of the complaint [Donohue v. State of California (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 795, 805, 224 Cal. Rptr. 57 (judgment on pleadings affirmed because complaint based on negligently failing to control and supervise driver during driving examination, but claim based on negligently allowing uninsured driver to take driving test on public streets)]. For discussion of the requirement that the allegations in a complaint must comply with the allegations in the claim, see § 464.41[3].

[d] Late Claims

[i] Notice of Lateness

If a claim that is required by Gov. Code § 911.2 to be filed within six months after accrual of the cause of action (a tort claim) is filed after that time, without an application to present a late claim, the public entity may, within 45 days after the claim is presented, give written notice to the claimant that the claim was not timely filed and that it is being returned without further action [Gov. Code § 911.3(a)]. The notice must be substantially in the following form [Gov. Code § 911.3(a)]:

"The claim you presented to the (insert title of board or officer) on (indicate date) is being returned because it was not presented within six months after the event or occurrence as required by law. See Sections 901 and 911.2 of the Government Code. Because the claim was not presented within the time allowed by law, no action was taken on the claim."

"Your only recourse at this time is to apply without delay to (name of public entity) for leave to present a late claim. See Sections 911.4 to 912.2, inclusive, and Section 946.6 of the Government Code. Under some circumstances, leave to present a late claim will be granted. See Section 911.6 of the Government Code."

"You may seek the advice of an attorney of your choice in connection with this matter. If you desire to consult an attorney, you should do so immediately."

[ii] Effect of Failure to Give Notice

Failure to notify the claimant, as provided for in Gov. Code § 911.3(a), within 45 days after the claim is presented waives any defense regarding the time limit for claim presentation. However, no notice need be given and no waiver results if the claim as presented fails to state either an address to which the person presenting the claim desired notices to be sent or the claimant's address [Gov. Code § 911.3(b); see, e.g., Mandjik v. Eden Township Hosp. Dist. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 1488, 1503-1504, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 582] .

Gov. Code § 911.3 concerns waiver of only the defense of the untimeliness of the claim. A failure by a public entity to give the required notice does not constitute a waiver by the public entity of the defense that the action is barred by the two-year statute of limitations set forth in Gov. Code § 945.6(a)(2) [County of Alameda v. Superior Court (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 1283, 1287, 241 Cal. Rptr. 312 ; see § 464.42[1][a]].

[2] Substantive Response to Claims

[a] Claims Against Local Public Entity

[i] Response Options

In the case of a claim against a local public entity, the board may act on a claim in one of the following ways [Gov. Code § 912.6(a)]:

- If the board finds the claim is not a proper charge against the public entity, it must reject the claim;

- If the board finds that the claim is a proper charge against the public entity and is for an amount justly due, it must allow the claim;

- If the board finds that the claim is a proper charge against the public entity, but is for an amount greater than is justly due, it must either reject the claim or allow it in the amount justly due and reject it as to the balance; or

- If the legal liability of the public entity or the amount justly due is disputed, the board may reject the claim or may compromise it.

[ii] Settlement or Compromise of Claim

If the board allows the claim in whole or in part or compromises the claim, it may require the claimant, if the claimant accepts the amount allowed or offered to settle the claim, to accept it in settlement of the entire claim [Gov. Code § 912.6(b)].

Subject to Gov. Code § 912.6(b), the local public entity must pay the amount allowed on the claim or in compromise of the claim in the same manner as if the claimant had obtained a final judgment against the local public entity for that amount. Nevertheless, the claim may be paid in not more than 10 equal annual installments as provided in Gov. Code § 970.6 only if the claimant agrees in writing to that method of payment. In that case, no court order authorizing installment payments is required. If an agreement for payment of the claim in installments is made, the local public entity, in its discretion, may prepay any one or more installments or any part of an installment [Gov. Code § 912.6(c)].

For discussion of Gov. Code § 970 et seq., which govern the payment and enforcement of claims against local public entities, see Ch. 467, Public Entities and Officers: Enforcement of Judgments Against Public Entities .

[b] Claims Against State

In the case of claims against the state, the board must act on claims in accordance with any rules it may prescribe. It may hear evidence for and against claims and, with the approval of the Governor, report to the legislature those facts and recommendations concerning claims as it deems proper. In making recommendations, the board may state and use any official or personal knowledge that any member may have regarding any claim [Gov. Code § 912.8].

If the board approves or recommends a claim, and no sufficient appropriation for payment is available, the board, with the approval of the Governor, reports to the legislature such facts and recommendations concerning the claim as it deems proper [2 Cal. Code Reg. § 632.9(d)].

On allowance by the board of all or part of a claim for which a sufficient appropriation exists, and on execution and presentation of those documents that the board may require that discharge the state and its officers, agents, servants, and employees of all liability under the claim, the board designates the fund from which the claim is to be paid and the state agency concerned pays the claim from that fund [2 Cal. Code Reg. § 632.9(e)].

If the claim is not covered by insurance, the Attorney General on behalf of all state agencies except the Department of Transportation, and the Director of the Department of Transportation on behalf of that agency, are authorized, subject to any instructions that may be issued by the board from time to time, to investigate and recommend to the board the disposition of all claims involving personal injury, wrongful death, and property damage. The Attorney General and the Director of the Department of Transportation are also authorized to adjust and pay all such claims if the settlement does not exceed $1,000 and if a sufficient appropriation exists, providing the board is presented with a statement of the basis of the claim, the amount of the settlement, and the claimant's agreement with the settlement, and the board approves that settlement [2 Cal. Code Reg. § 632.11].

As a practical matter, the board is essentially charged with certain fiscal control functions and is neither staffed nor budgeted for lengthy hearings on disputed issues of fact or law. Therefore, the board generally denies claims arising out of the operation of state-owned vehicles by employees or agents of the state, because the state carries insurance covering negligent operation of state-owned motor vehicles. It also generally denies a claim if the claimant and the state agency concerned disagree over the facts or law material to the claim and if the claimant has a remedy at law. Finally, the board typically denies all claims for paint-spray damage to motor vehicles unless the state agency concerned has been given an opportunity to inspect the damage and to remove the paint spray.

For discussion of Gov. Code § 965 et seq., which govern the payment and enforcement of claims against the state and its agencies, see Ch. 467, Public Entities and Officers: Enforcement of Judgments Against Public Entities .

[3] Notice to Claimant of Action on Claim

[a] General Requirements

Written notice of the action taken by the public entity under Gov. Code § 912.6 or 912.8, or the inaction that is deemed rejection under Gov. Code § 914.2, must be given by the public entity in the manner prescribed in Gov. Code § 915.4 [Gov. Code § 913(a)]. The public entity need not give notice if the claim fails to state either the claimant's address or an address to which the claimant desires notices to be sent [Gov. Code §§ 913(a), 915.4(b)].

Gov. Code § 913(a) provides a form of notice, use of which is optional [see Chalmers v. County of Los Angeles (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 461, 464-466, 221 Cal. Rptr. 19] . If a claim is rejected in whole or in part, the notice must include a warning in substantially the form set forth in Gov. Code § 913(b), stating that the claimant has six months from the date of the notice to file a court action on the claim [see Chalmers v. County of Los Angeles (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 461, 464-466, 221 Cal. Rptr. 19 (dates of filing and rejection of claim need not be included in notice)]. If the proper notice is not given, the statute of limitations to file an action on the claim is extended to two years from the accrual of the cause of action [Gov. Code § 945.6(a)(2); Reyes v. County of Los Angeles (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 584, 595-596, 243 Cal. Rptr. 35] . Notice of rejection, however, is not ineffective because it does not indicate the date or manner of service and is not accompanied by proof of service [Dowell v. County of Contra Costa (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 896, 899-902, 219 Cal. Rptr. 341] .

If the public entity never formally rejects a claim, as might occur if it merely finds a claim was not timely filed, it may not be required to present the notice of rejection pursuant to Gov. Code § 913. In some circumstances, however, the public entity's determination of untimeliness may be construed to be a rejection of the claim, and the failure to give proper notice of the rejection similarly extends the statute of limitations to two years [see Rason v. Santa Barbara City Hous. Auth. (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 817, 829, 247 Cal. Rptr. 492] .

For discussion of the commencement of suit against the public entity after a claim has been rejected, see § 464.42.

[b] Methods of Delivering Notice

The notices provided for in Gov. Code §§ 910.8 (insufficient claim), 911.8 (board action), and 913 (rejection of claim) must be given by either of the following methods [Gov. Code § 915.4(a)]:

- Personally delivering the notice to the person presenting the claim or making the application; or

- Mailing the notice to the address, if any, stated in the claim or application as the address to which the person presenting the claim or making the application desires the notices to be sent or, if no such address is stated in the claim or application, by mailing the notice to the address, if any, of the claimant as stated in the claim or application.

[4] Reexamination of Rejected Claim

The public entity may in its discretion, but within the time prescribed by Gov. Code § 945.6 for commencement of an action on the claim, reexamine a previously rejected claim to consider a settlement of the claim [Gov. Code § 913.2; see Kane v. County of San Diego (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 550, 554, 83 Cal. Rptr. 19 (county considered claim after it had been rejected by operation of law)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationContent & FormTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsConstruction & InterpretationTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsProcedural Requirements

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
1. Claims Against Public Entities

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.25

§ 464.25 Presentation of Late Tort Claims

[1] Application to Public Entity

If a claim that is required by Gov. Code § 911.2 to be presented not later than six months after the accrual of the cause of action is not presented within that time, a written application may be made to the public entity for leave to present the claim [Gov. Code § 911.4(a); for a form of application, see § 464.164]. The application must be presented to the public entity as provided in Gov. Code §§ 915-915.4. The application must state the reason for the delay in presenting the claim and must have attached to it the proposed claim [Gov. Code § 911.4(b)].

The application must be presented within a reasonable time not to exceed one year after the accrual of the cause of action [Gov. Code § 911.4(b)]. If the application is not filed within one year after accrual of the cause of action, the public entity has no authority to grant relief [Hom v. Chico Unified Sch. Dist. (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 335, 339, 61 Cal. Rptr. 920] . In computing the one-year period, time during which the person who sustained the alleged injury, damage, or loss is a minor must be counted. On the other hand, any time during which the claimant is mentally incapacitated and does not have a guardian or conservator of the person must not be counted [Gov. Code § 911.4(c)(1)]. A mentally incapacitated minor who has parents capable of acting on his or her behalf is not entitled to invoke the tolling provision of Gov. Code § 911.4(c) [Hernandez v. County of Los Angeles (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 1020, 1024-1027, 232 Cal. Rptr. 519, 728 P.2d 1154] .

Despite the general rule against tolling if a mentally incapacitated person has a conservator, a mentally incapacitated person may invoke the tolling provision even if a parent or other person is acting as conservator, if the conservator did not and could not reasonably have known about the claim [Favorite v. County of Los Angeles (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 835, 837, 839, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 656 (error not to consider tolling for sexual assault claim brought by person who at time of alleged assault was heavily medicated and mentally incapacitated)]. Moreover, the time period for filing an application for leave to file a late claim is tolled for any period during which a mentally incapacitated plaintiff's interests are represented only by a guardian or conservator of the person with no authority to prosecute the claim, such as a public conservator [see Kagy v. Napa State Hosp. (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 1, 6-7, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 741] . Similarly, if a minor has no parent, legal guardian, or conservator to protect the minor's interests, the appointment under Welf. & Inst. Code § 317 of an independent counsel empowered to prosecute any legal claims on the minor's behalf does not preclude the minor from relying on the tolling provision of Gov. Code § 911.4(c) [County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 1303, 1310-1313, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 471] .

In addition, the claim period is tolled during any period in which the person is detained or adjudged to be a dependent child of the juvenile court under the Arnold-Kennick Juvenile Court Law, if both of the following conditions exist [Gov. Code § 911.4(c)(2)]:

- The person is in the custody and control of an agency of the public entity to which a claim is to be presented; and

- The public entity or its agency having custody and control of the person is required by statute or other law to make a report of injury, abuse, or neglect to either the juvenile court or the person's attorney, and that entity or its agency fails to make this report within the time required by the statute or other enactment, with this time period to commence on the date on which the public entity or its agency becomes aware of the injury, neglect, or abuse. If the public entity or its agency makes a late report, the claim period is tolled for the period of the delay caused by the failure to make a timely report.

Beginning in 2004, the time during which a minor is adjudged to be a dependent child of the juvenile court under the Arnold-Kennick Juvenile Court Law is also not counted if the minor is without a guardian ad litem or conservator for purposes of filing civil actions [Gov. Code § 911.4(c)(3)].

If there is little or no delay by a claimant in applying for leave to present a late claim after discovering his or her default, the application is considered to be made within a reasonable time [Viles v. State of California (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 24, 31-32, 56 Cal. Rptr. 666, 423 P.2d 818 (delay of 14 days was reasonable); Bertorelli v. City of Tulare (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 432, 437, 442, 225 Cal. Rptr. 582 (claim filed 43 days after attorney was contacted was reasonable because attorney continued to negotiate with adjuster and inquired into necessity for filing late claim)]. If there is a substantial or unexplained delay before presenting a late claim application, however, the application is not considered timely and will be denied [see, e.g., Drummond v. County of Fresno (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 1406, 1410-1412, 238 Cal. Rptr. 613 (three-month delay after hospital discharge not explained by claimant's quadriplegia); Roberts v. State of California (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 844, 847, 114 Cal. Rptr. 518 (delay of seven months)].

[2] Response by Public Entity

[a] Substance and Timing of Response

The board must grant or deny the application to file a late claim within 45 days after it is presented to the board. However, before the expiration of that period, the claimant and the board may, by written agreement, extend that period [Gov. Code § 911.6(a)]. If the board fails or refuses to act on the application within the prescribed period, it is deemed denied on the 45th day or, if the period was extended by agreement, on the last day of the period specified in the agreement [Gov. Code § 911.6(c)]. If an application is granted, the claim is deemed to have been presented to the board on the day that leave to present the late claim is granted [Gov. Code § 912.2].

The board must grant an application to file a late claim if one or more of the grounds set forth in Gov. Code § 911.6(b) is applicable. These grounds for relief are the same as the grounds for judicial relief from claim requirements [see Gov. Code § 946.6(c)] and are discussed in § 464.25[4].

An application to file a late claim also must be granted if it can be shown that the claimant acted with reasonable diligence in pursuing the claim and reasonably believed that the responsible entity was not a public agency by reason of its representations [Gov. Code § 7530]. All public agencies, public entities, districts, cities, counties, and cities and counties, when identifying themselves as such for any purpose, must be identified as a public agency, public entity, district, city, county, or city and county, whichever is appropriate. This requirement is satisfied by an appropriate designation on letterhead stationery [Gov. Code § 7530; cf. Rojes v. Riverside Gen. Hosp. (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 1151, 1165-1166, 250 Cal. Rptr. 435 (public hospital not required to identify itself as such on claimant's medical records, which are not "letterhead stationery" under meaning of statute)].

[b] Notice of Action to Claimant

Written notice of the board's action on the application to file a late claim must be given in the manner prescribed in Gov. Code § 915.4 [Gov. Code § 911.8(a); for discussion of Gov. Code § 915.4, see § 464.24[3]]. If the application is denied, the notice must contain a warning in substantially the following form [Gov. Code § 911.8(b)]:

"WARNING"

> "If you wish to file a court action on this matter, you must first petition the appropriate court for an order relieving you from the provisions of Government Code section 945.4 (claim presentation requirement). See Government Code section 946.6. Such petition must be filed with the court within six (6) months from the date your application for leave to present a late claim was denied."
>
> "You may seek the advice of an attorney of your choice in connection with this matter. If you desire to consult an attorney, you should do so immediately."

If the application is denied, the public entity must make it clear that the claim is rejected because it was untimely filed, rather than on its merits. If the notification fails to do so, the public entity may be estopped to rely on the failure of the claimant to comply with the requirement of presenting an application to file a late claim [Dujardin v. Ventura County Gen. Hosp. (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 350, 360, 138 Cal. Rptr. 20 ; McLaughlin v. Superior Court (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 35, 39-40, 105 Cal. Rptr. 384 (notice indicating that board had rejected claim rather than application to present late claim was misleading)].

[3] Judicial Relief From Claim Filing Requirement

[a] Petition Required Prior to Bringing Action

If an application for leave to present a claim is denied or deemed denied pursuant to Gov. Code § 911.6, a petition may be made to the court for an order relieving the petitioner from the requirement under Gov. Code § 945.4 of presenting a claim before the board before bringing an action against the public entity [Gov. Code § 946.6(a); for discussion of Gov. Code § 911.6, see § 464.25[1]]. A petition for relief from the claim filing requirement is a mandatory prerequisite to bringing an action against a public entity if the public entity has denied a claimant's application for leave to present a late claim [see Gov. Code § 945.4; Kendrick v. City of La Mirada (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 325, 327-330, 77 Cal. Rptr. 444] , unless the applicant is excused from petitioning for relief on the basis of equitable estoppel [McLaughlin v. Superior Court (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 35, 38, 105 Cal. Rptr. 384 ; see § 464.47].

[b] Contents of Petition

The petition for relief from the claim filing requirement must show: (1) that an application for leave to present a late claim was made to the board under Gov. Code § 911.4 and was denied or deemed denied; (2) the reason for failure to present the claim within the six month time limit specified in Gov. Code § 911.2; and (3) the information required by Gov. Code § 910 (contents of claim) [Gov. Code § 946.6(b); City of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 621, 626-628, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 703] . For a form of petition and a form of order granting the relief requested, see §§ 464.165 and 464.166.

[c] Time for Filing Petition

The petition must be filed within six months after the application to the board is denied or deemed to be denied pursuant to Gov. Code § 911.6[Gov. Code § 946.6(b)]. This six-month time requirement is a mandatory statute of limitations [Paramount Unified School Dist. v. Teachers Assn. of Paramount (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 1371

The six-month period for filing the petition begins to run on the date that the application for relief from the claim filing requirement is denied, even though the notice of the denial is mailed or delivered at a later date [Rason v. Santa Barbara City Hous. Auth. (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 817, 824, 247 Cal. Rptr. 492] . However, if the public entity delays notice of denial of the application by a considerable period of time, due process considerations may estop the public entity from asserting that the six-month period ran from the date of denial. For example, if notice of a denial is given 5 months and 28 days later, absent unusual circumstances, the public entity would be estopped to block a claim because of the running of the six-month period. The claimant would be granted a reasonable period of time in which to file a petition [Rason v. Santa Barbara City Hous. Auth. (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 817, 824-825, 247 Cal. Rptr. 492 (notice sent within 45-day period in which public entity could act, but mailed 33 days after denial of application, was not prejudicial)].

The limitation period contained in Gov. Code § 946.6(b) is subject to the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 352 (tolling limitation periods for commencement of actions). Therefore, it may be tolled during the period of the petitioner's minority or insanity as specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 352(a) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 352(a); Los Angeles City Sch. Dist. v. Superior Court (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 459, 463-467, 88 Cal. Rptr. 286 (minor permitted to petition for relief three years after denial of leave to present late tort claim); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 352.1(a) (tolling statute of limitations for period, not to exceed two years, during which plaintiff is imprisoned or in execution under criminal sentence for term less than life)]. By contrast, the tolling provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 352 and 352.1 do not apply to the limitation period for filing an action against the public entity after a claim is denied [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 352(b), 352.1(b)].

[d] Determination by Trial Court

[i] Basis

The court must make an independent determination on the petition for an order for relief from the claim requirements [Gov. Code § 946.6(e)]. If the court finds that (1) the application to the board for leave to present a late claim under Gov. Code § 911.4 was timely, and (2) that at least one of the four grounds listed in Gov. Code § 946.6(c)(1)-(4) exists, it must grant the petition [Gov. Code § 946.6(c); for discussion of the time in which to file an application for leave to present a late claim, see § 464.25[1]]. The four grounds listed in Gov. Code § 946.6(c) as prerequisites to relief are discussed in § 464.25[4][b].

The court's determination must be made on the basis of the petition, any supporting or opposing affidavits, and any additional evidence received at the hearing on the petition [Gov. Code § 946.6(e)]. The court may make its decision based on the petition and any supporting or opposing declarations if no testimonial evidence is offered [County of Santa Clara v. Superior Court (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 545, 553-554, 94 Cal. Rptr. 158, 483 P.2d 774] . There is no right to a trial by jury on the petition [County of Sacramento v. Superior Court (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 135, 138-141, 116 Cal. Rptr. 602] .

The purpose of the petition procedure is to determine whether or not the petitioner should be excused from the claim requirement and be permitted to file an action without filing any claim. If the court is unable to determine that relief from the claim requirement is appropriate, it may not order partial relief by permitting the petitioner to file a late claim [see Tuolumne Air Serv., Inc. v. Turlock Irrigation Dist. (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 248, 251, 150 Cal. Rptr. 809] .

[ii] Trial Court's Jurisdiction to Decide Timeliness of Claim

Authority diverges on whether, in a claim relief proceeding, the trial court has the power to determine the issue of the timeliness of a claim. One line of cases holds that the trial court lacks power to determine an issue of timely filing (or the related issue of substantial compliance) because the claim relief proceeding, by definition, assumes that a claim was not timely filed [see, e.g., Ngo v. County of Los Angeles (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 946, 950, 255 Cal. Rptr. 140 (characterizing proceedings under Gov. Code § 946.6 as redundant if claim is assertedly timely); Toscano v. County of Los Angeles (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 775, 783, 155 Cal. Rptr. 146] . These cases suggest that the procedures for relief from the timely claim requirement should not be used if the plaintiff argues that the claim was timely filed. Instead, if there is a dispute concerning the timeliness of the claim filed, the claimant should proceed to file a complaint in tort in the appropriate court. Based on its assertion that a timely claim was not filed, the public entity will file a demurrer to the complaint or a motion for summary judgment or other similar motion. In response to that demurrer or motion, the claimant will raise the arguments in support of his or her compliance with the claims filing statutes [Ngo v. County of Los Angeles (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 946, 950, 255 Cal. Rptr. 140 ; Toscano v. County of Los Angeles (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 775, 783, 155 Cal. Rptr. 146] .

This reasoning was criticized by a later case in which the claimant, who was appealing the order denying her petition for relief from the claim requirement, argued that she had timely complied with the claim presentation requirement. In this later case, the court of appeal held that the trial court may, but is not required to, make factual determinations relating either to the timeliness of the claim or to substantial compliance with the claim presentation requirement [Santee v. Santa Clara County Office of Educ. (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 702, 711-712, 269 Cal. Rptr. 605] .

These cases often differ factually and procedurally, so counsel is advised to be cautious and to consult the cases to determine which one most closely parallels his or her case, in deciding how best to proceed [see generally Santee v. Santa Clara County Office of Educ. (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 702, 711-712, 269 Cal. Rptr. 605 (cited with approval in Reyes v. County of Los Angeles (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 584, 593-594, 243 Cal. Rptr. 35 , and County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 1095, 1100-1101, 215 Cal. Rptr. 699 , regarding issue of trial court's jurisdiction of timely filing of claim, but disagreeing with suggestion in Reyes regarding election of remedies)]. A cautious claimant who has received notice that his or her claim was untimely and who wishes to preserve both issues of timeliness and of excusable lateness may wish to file a complaint in court and an application for leave to present a late claim [Mandjik v. Eden Township Hosp. Dist. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 1488, 1499, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 582 ; Rason v. Santa Barbara City Hous. Auth. (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 817, 828, 247 Cal. Rptr. 492] .

[e] Review of Trial Court Determination

[i] Review of Order Granting Petition

If the trial court issues an order granting relief from the claim requirement, the petitioner must file an action on the claim in the same court within 30 days [see Gov. Code § 946.6(f); see also § 464.42[1][b]]. As such, that order is not appealable because it is an interlocutory order that is nothing more than a prelude to further proceedings [Church v. County of Humboldt (1967) 248 Cal. App. 2d 855, 857-859, 57 Cal. Rptr. 79] . Moreover, an order granting relief is not reviewable by a writ of prohibition because it is within the trial court's jurisdiction [County of Santa Clara v. Superior Court (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 545, 549-551, 94 Cal. Rptr. 158, 483 P.2d 774 ; but see County of Alameda v. Superior Court (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 619, 622-623, 242 Cal. Rptr. 215 (considered petition for writ of mandate on grounds that alternative writ had been issued and case had been fully briefed)].

[ii] Review of Order Denying Petition

An order denying a petition for relief from the claim requirement is a final, appealable order [Cabamongan v. City of Long Beach (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 946, 947 & n.1, 256 Cal. Rptr. 621] .

Courts differ on whether or not an order denying relief has a collateral estoppel effect [compare Ngo v. County of Los Angeles (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 946, 951, 255 Cal. Rptr. 140 (no collateral estoppel effect); with Gurrola v. County of Los Angeles (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 145, 150, 200 Cal. Rptr. 157 (collateral estoppel effect)]. If the order is deemed to have a collateral estoppel effect, any further action by the claimant is barred unless the order is successfully attacked, directly or collaterally [Gurrola v. County of Los Angeles (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 145, 152, 200 Cal. Rptr. 157] . In contrast, the finding that an order does not have a collateral estoppel effect recognizes that a Gov. Code § 946.6 proceeding is not a trial of the action itself and that the court does not have the power to grant what amounts to a summary judgment so long as there are triable issues of fact concerning whether or not there was compliance with the claims statutes. The proceeding serves as an avenue of relief similar to relief from a default [see Code Civ. Proc. § 473], and it is not designed to resolve the issue of actual compliance with the claim filing requirements [Ngo v. County of Los Angeles (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 946, 951, 255 Cal. Rptr. 140] . Therefore, seeking relief from the claim filing requirement is not an election of remedies that, if unsuccessful, subjects the plaintiff to a claim of collateral estoppel regarding factual findings. The granting of relief is not a determination of compliance, but an excusing of compliance. Similarly, a denial of relief is not a determination of lack of compliance but only that compliance will not be excused [Ngo v. County of Los Angeles (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 946, 951, 255 Cal. Rptr. 140] .

If the trial court improperly considers irrelevant factors in denying the petition for relief, its order must be reversed and sent back for reconsideration if appropriate [see Cabamongan v. City of Long Beach (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 946, 952, 256 Cal. Rptr. 621] . For example, in a case in which the trial court improperly considered the amount of time that the petitioner took to file the petition for relief, the court of appeal reversed the denial and directed the trial court to hold a new hearing on the petition without considering that period of time [Cabamongan v. City of Long Beach (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 946, 951-952, 256 Cal. Rptr. 621 (if petition is filed within time provided by statute, whether or not petitioner was reasonable in waiting to file petition is irrelevant)].

[iii] Standard of Review

The decision of whether or not a petitioner should be relieved from the claim requirement lies within the discretion of the trial court, and appellate courts will not interfere except for an abuse of discretion [Ebersol v. Cowan (1983) 35 Cal. 3d 427, 435, 197 Cal. Rptr. 601, 673 P.2d 271 ; County of Santa Clara v. Superior Court (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 545, 552, 94 Cal. Rptr. 158, 483 P.2d 774] . Therefore, so long as the trial court is acting within its discretion, the order generally will be affirmed even if there is substantial evidence to support a conclusion opposite to that reached by the trial court [see Bennett v. City of Los Angeles (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 116, 120, 90 Cal. Rptr. 479] .

Nevertheless, Gov. Code § 946.6 is a remedial statute that must be liberally construed, and denials of relief under its provisions are reviewed more carefully than decisions granting relief [County of Santa Clara v. Superior Court (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 545, 552, 94 Cal. Rptr. 158, 483 P.2d 774] . Any doubts must be resolved in favor of granting relief [Bettencourt v. Los Rios Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 270, 276, 228 Cal. Rptr. 190, 721 P.2d 71 ; Viles v. State of California (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 24, 28-29, 56 Cal. Rptr. 666, 423 P.2d 818] . Accordingly, an appellate court is not precluded from reversing an order denying relief if adequate cause for that relief is shown by uncontradicted evidence or the petitioner's affidavits [Bettencourt v. Los Rios Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 270, 275-276, 228 Cal. Rptr. 190, 721 P.2d 71 ; Viles v. State of California (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 24, 28-29, 56 Cal. Rptr. 666, 423 P.2d 818] .

[4] Grounds for Relief From Claim Requirement

[a] General Requirements

The grounds for granting an application to present a late claim are set forth in Gov. Code § 911.6(b). The grounds for granting a petition relieving the claimant from complying with the claim requirement are set forth in Gov. Code § 946.6(c). These grounds are the same, and the following discussion applies to both procedures.

The board must grant an application to file a late claim, or a court must relieve a plaintiff from compliance with the claim procedure prior to instigating a lawsuit, if one or more of the following conditions applies [Gov. Code §§ 911.6(b), 946.6(c)]:

- The failure to present the claim was through mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect, and the public entity was not be prejudiced in its defense of the claim by the failure to present the claim within the time specified for presentation of the claim;

- The person who sustained the alleged injury, damage, or loss was a minor during the entire time specified for presentation of the claim;

- The person who sustained the alleged injury, damage, or loss was physically or mentally incapacitated during the entire time specified for presentation of the claim and by reason of that disability failed to present a claim during that time; or

- The person who sustained the alleged injury, damage, or loss died before the expiration of the time specified for presentation of the claim.

[b] Mistake, Inadvertence, Surprise, or Excusable Neglect

[i] Applicable Standard

The showing required of a petitioner seeking relief because of mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect is the same as that generally required under Code Civ. Proc. § 473 for relieving a party from a dismissal or default judgment [Viles v. State of California (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 24, 29, 56 Cal. Rptr. 666, 423 P.2d 818 ; Bertorelli v. City of Tulare (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 432, 438, 225 Cal. Rptr. 582] . However, the provision of Code Civ. Proc. § 473, stating that relief from a default, default judgment, or dismissal must be granted on a timely application supported by an attorney affidavit of fault even if the neglect was not excusable, does not apply to relief from the claim requirement under Gov. Code § 946.6, which still requires the neglect to be excusable [Tackett v. City of Huntington Beach (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 60, 64-65, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 133] . Furthermore, although the statutes attach the qualifier "excusable" to neglect only, courts have uniformly held that for relief on any or all of the stated grounds, the petitioner must show that his or her misconception was reasonable or that it might have been the conduct of a reasonably prudent person under similar circumstances [Black v. County of Los Angeles (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 670, 675, 91 Cal. Rptr. 104 ; Shaddox v. Melcher (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 598, 601, 76 Cal. Rptr. 80] .

Although the claims relief provisions are liberally construed and relief is granted unless absolutely forbidden by statute [Viles v. State of California (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 24, 32-33, 56 Cal. Rptr. 666, 423 P.2d 818 ; Kaslavage v. West Kern County Water Dist. (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 529, 538, 148 Cal. Rptr. 729] , a claimant who intentionally or deliberately fails to comply with the claims requirements is not entitled to relief [Rivera v. City of Carson (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 718, 724-725, 173 Cal. Rptr. 4 ; County of Sacramento v. Superior Court (1980) 105 Cal. App. 3d 898, 902, 164 Cal. Rptr. 724] .

If a timely claim was not filed because of a mistake in understanding when the claim-filing period expired, that mistake may be excusable under the appropriate circumstances. Calendar errors by an attorney or a member of the attorney's staff are generally excusable [see Nilsson v. City of Los Angeles (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 976, 980-981, 58 Cal. Rptr. 20] . For example, in one case in which a firm of attorneys failed to open a file that would have reminded them of the deadline, that mistake was excusable [see Flores v. Board of Supervisors (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 480, 483, 91 Cal. Rptr. 717] . In another case, in which an attorney made an error in calculating the commencement of the period, the mistake also was excusable [see Segal v. Southern Cal. Rapid Transit Dist. (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 509, 512, 90 Cal.

Rptr. 720] .

[ii] Mistake of Law

A mistake of law occurs if a person knows the facts as they really are, but has a mistaken belief regarding the legal consequences of those facts. A mistake of law may serve as an excuse for failing to file a claim [see Moore v. State of California (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 715, 723, 203 Cal. Rptr. 847] , but only if the petitioner makes a substantial showing that the true facts could not have been ascertained through the exercise of reasonable diligence and that the mistake was the actual cause of the failure to comply with the claim requirement [see Black v. County of Los Angeles (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 670, 676, 91 Cal. Rptr. 104] . Not every mistake of law, however, requires relief as a matter of law. The issue of which mistakes of law constitute excusable neglect presents a fact question, and the determining factors are the reasonableness of the misconception and the justifiability of the lack of determination of the correct law [Tammen v. County of San Diego (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 468, 478, 58 Cal. Rptr. 249, 426 P.2d 753] . An honest mistake is excusable if it is a reasonable misconception [Viles v. State of California (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 24, 29, 56 Cal. Rptr. 666, 423 P.2d 818] .

Ignorance of the law, if coupled with negligence in failing to look it up, does not justify the granting of relief [Tammen v. County of San Diego (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 468, 478, 58 Cal. Rptr. 249, 426 P.2d 753] . The difference between a mistake of law and ignorance of the law is tenuous, the difference being only a matter of degree [Tammen v. County of San Diego (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 468, 476, 58 Cal. Rptr. 249, 426 P.2d 753] .

The circumstances taken into consideration in determining whether a mistake of law constitutes excusable neglect include whether the mistake was that of a lay person or an attorney. A given mistake of law may be excusable if made by a lay person, but not if made by an attorney [see Powell v. City of Long Beach (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 105, 109, 218 Cal. Rptr. 97] .

A mistake by an attorney regarding a well-settled issue of law is inexcusable [Tammen v. County of San Diego (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 468, 479, 58 Cal. Rptr. 249, 426 P.2d 753] . If, however, the legal issue is debatable and without a clear answer, a mistake of law by an attorney may constitute a mistake warranting relief [Moore v. State of California (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 715, 723-725, 203 Cal. Rptr. 847] . For example, an attorney's failure to file a timely claim was an excusable mistake of law because the claim he had timely filed was held invalid by the trial court for failure to sufficiently support or coincide with the cause of action pleaded. The mistake was characterized by the court as an excusable mistake of law because the attorney did not fail to invoke the claims procedure at all, but instead failed to anticipate the trial court's holding that a claim presented by the plaintiff and acted on by the state was not drafted with sufficient specificity to support or embrace the plaintiff's cause of action [Moore v. State of California (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 715, 723-725, 203 Cal. Rptr. 847] .

The claimant's mere ignorance of the claim requirements and the time limitation does not excuse the failure to file a timely claim [Tsingaris v. State of California (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 312, 314, 154 Cal. Rptr. 135 ; but see Syzemore v. County of Sacramento (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 517, 524, 127 Cal. Rptr. 741] . Nevertheless, a claimant's ignorance of the existence of a possible cause of action against a public entity, coupled with the claimant's consistent but unsuccessful efforts to retain legal representation, may constitute mistake or excusable neglect that warrants granting relief from the claim requirements [Ebersol v. Cowan (1983) 35 Cal. 3d 427, 435, 197 Cal. Rptr. 601, 673 P.2d 271] . Additionally, a claimant's failure to file a timely claim based on assurances by insurance company representatives that he had one year to file an action for wrongful death was an excusable mistake [Viles v. State of California (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 24, 29-31, 56 Cal. Rptr. 666, 423 P.2d 818] .

[iii] Excusable Neglect

Not every act of neglect will excuse compliance with the filing requirements [Shank v. County of Los Angeles (1983)

139 Cal. App. 3d 152, 157, 188 Cal. Rptr. 644] . Excusable neglect is neglect that might have been the act or omission of a reasonably prudent person under the same or similar circumstances [Ebersol v. Cowan (1983) 35 Cal. 3d 427, 435, 197 Cal. Rptr. 601, 673 P.2d 271 ; Tammen v. County of San Diego (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 468, 478, 58 Cal. Rptr. 249, 426 P.2d 753] . The courts tend to grant the requested relief and permit a trial on the merits unless inexcusable neglect is clear [see Bettencourt v. Los Rios Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 270, 276-281, 228 Cal. Rptr. 190, 721 P.2d 71] .

Absent peculiar circumstances, a claimant's unexplained delay in failing to consult counsel after realizing that he or she has a claim against a public entity normally does not constitute excusable neglect entitling the claimant to relief from the claim requirement [Bennett v. City of Los Angeles (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 116, 121-122, 90 Cal. Rptr. 479 ; see Garcia v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 701, 708-709, 219 Cal. Rptr. 544] .

An attorney's neglect is generally imputed to his or her client. Therefore, neglect by the claimant's attorney will not justify relief to the claimant unless the attorney's neglect was excusable [Clark v. City of Compton (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 522, 528-529, 99 Cal. Rptr. 613 ; see Torbitt v. State of California (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 860, 866-867, 208 Cal. Rptr. 1 (client injured by attorney's neglect may bring malpractice action); for discussion of attorney malpractice, see Ch. 76, Attorney Professional Liability]. However, if the attorney's neglect is of such an extreme degree that it amounts to positive misconduct and the client is relatively free from negligence, the existence of the attorney-client relationship is considered terminated. In this situation, the attorney's neglect will not be imputed to the client [see Clark v. City of Compton (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 522, 528-529, 99 Cal. Rptr. 613 (attorney's failure to present claim for months was not positive misconduct)].

An attorney's failure to file a claim based on a reasoned decision that the attorney's client has no cause of action against the public entity constitutes neither excusable neglect nor positive misconduct, and a client who relies on the attorney's decision by not filing a timely claim cannot later obtain relief from claim presentation requirements on those grounds [Mitchell v. Department of Transp. (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 1016, 1022-1024, 210 Cal. Rptr. 266] . The failure of a claimant's attorney to obtain information that normally would be available through the exercise of reasonable diligence and that would lead the attorney to realize that the claimant has a claim against a public entity does not constitute excusable neglect [Tammen v. County of San Diego (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 468, 478-479, 58 Cal. Rptr. 249, 426 P.2d 753 ; Shaddox v. Melcher (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 598, 601-602, 76 Cal. Rptr. 80] .

To show that the neglect was excusable, a claimant or the claimant's attorney must show not only that he or she did not discover a fact until too late, but also that he or she failed to discover it in the use of reasonable diligence [Spencer v. Merced County Office of Education (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 1429, 1440 (attorney who failed to consult roster of public agencies, investigate case, hire an investigator, request information about accident involving plaintiff, or read police report and letter in file indicating proper public entity, was not reasonably diligent in determining proper public entity to serve); Greene v. State of California (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 117, 120-123, 272 Cal. Rptr. 52 (plaintiff was not reasonably diligent in determining state ownership of accident site because police report clearly showed accident occurred on state highway); Black v. County of Los Angeles (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 670, 677, 91 Cal. Rptr. 104] .

If a diligent and substantial investigation is made that fails to reveal the existence of a claim against a public entity, the failure to file a timely claim may be excusable [Kaslavage v. West Kern County Water Dist. (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 529, 536-538, 148 Cal. Rptr. 729] . However, a claimant cannot normally demonstrate reasonable diligence if the claimant does nothing within the six-month period [People ex rel. Dept. of Transportation v. Superior Court (2003) 105 Cal. App. 4th 39, 44-45, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 60 .

Excusable neglect may also be based on errors committed by members of an attorney's staff. For example, an attorney acts reasonably in relying on staff members to calendar deadlines correctly, and a failure to file a timely claim due to a reasonable calendaring error may be excused [see, e.g., Renteria v. Juvenile Justice, Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 903, 911-912, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 777] .

A finding of excusable neglect may be grounded on the physical and mental condition of the claimant. In one case, for example, a claimant's leg had been crushed as he worked repairing slide damage on a road, and he was placed on medication that prevented him from thinking clearly. His failure to file a timely claim was excusable [County of Alameda v. Superior Court (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 619, 623-625, 242 Cal. Rptr. 215] . Depending on the circumstances, a claimant suffering from the emotional trauma resulting from the wrongful death of a loved one, which is the basis of the claim, may be excused for neglecting to file a timely claim [compare County of Santa Clara v. Superior Court (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 545, 551-554, 94 Cal. Rptr. 158, 483 P.2d 774 (emotional trauma excused neglect); with People ex rel. Dept. of Transportation v. Superior Court (2003) 105 Cal. App. 4th 39, 46, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 60 (17-day stay in hospital and bare allegation of post-accident depression did not excuse late filing)].

A claimant's excusable neglect may be based on the actions of the public entity. For example, if a government agency with which a claimant has filed a claim promptly acknowledges receipt of the claim, but does not inform the claimant that a different agency had jurisdiction until the time period in which to file the claim with the proper agency has lapsed, the claimant's neglect to file may be excusable [Lawrence v. State of California (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 242, 245-246, 217 Cal. Rptr. 200] . Similarly, if the public entity promises the claimant an investigation, tells the claimant to forgo any other action pending the investigative report, and supplies the claimant with inaccurate information regarding its ownership of property, the claimant's failure to file a timely claim is excusable [Boas v. County of San Diego (1980) 113 Cal. App. 3d 355, 358, 169 Cal. Rptr. 828] . For discussion of estoppel based on misrepresentation by a public entity, see § 464.47.

[iv] Surprise

A claimant is entitled to relief from the claim requirement on the ground of surprise if the claimant is unexpectedly placed to his or her injury in some condition or situation, without any fault on the claimant's part, under circumstances that the claimant was not reasonably called on to anticipate and that ordinary foresight could not have guarded against [see Tammen v. County of San Diego (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 468, 478, 58 Cal. Rptr.249, 426 P.2d 753] . For example, an attorney's discovery, after the time for filing the claim had passed, that a county was in some way responsible for a dangerous and defective condition of the state highway was not the type of surprise that justified relief from the claim requirement [Tammen v. County of San Diego (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 468, 478, 58 Cal. Rptr. 249, 426 P.2d 753] .

[v] Prejudice

If the claimant is seeking relief based on mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect, relief cannot be granted unless it can be shown that the public entity will not be prejudiced in its defense of the claim [Gov. Code §§ 911.6(b)(1), 946.6(c)(1)]. Unlike Gov. Code § 946.6(c)(1), which places the burden of proving this directly on the public entity, Gov. Code § 911.6(b)(1) does not indicate whether the claimant must prove the public entity will not be prejudiced or whether the public entity must show that it will be prejudiced. Because the two statutes are parallel in almost every other way, it has been suggested that Gov. Code § 911.6(b)(1) should be interpreted to require the public entity to sustain the burden of showing prejudice [see California Government Tort Liability Practice, Ch. 6 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. 1992)].

Prejudice must be established by a preponderance of the evidence. Prejudice to the public entity is established only if there is a factual basis for concluding that the claimant's delay has substantially impaired the entity's ability to present a full and fair defense on the merits [Ramariz v. County of Merced (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 684, 689, 239 Cal. Rptr. 774] .

Prejudice need not be shown until after the claimant establishes that the failure to timely file the claim was through mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect [see Tammen v. County of San Diego (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 468, 478, 58 Cal. Rptr. 249, 426 P.2d 753 ; Hasty v. County of Los Angeles (1976) 61 Cal. App. 3d 623, 627, 131 Cal. Rptr.

347] . If the claimant establishes grounds for relief and the public entity makes no effort to assert or establish prejudice, some appellate courts have reversed outright a trial court decision denying relief to the claimant [see, e.g., Moore v. State of California (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 715, 727-728, 203 Cal. Rptr. 847 (public entity should not be given "second shot" on remand to establish prejudice); but see Ebersol v. Cowan (1983) 35 Cal. 3d 427, 430, 197 Cal. Rptr. 601, 673 P.2d 271 (reversed and remanded for determination of prejudice)].

[c] Minority

The minority of the claimant during the entire period for filing a claim is an independent ground for an order for relief from the claim presentation requirement. If a claimant meets the time limitations for application to file a late claim, the board of the public entity or the court must grant relief if it finds that the claimant was a minor [Gov. Code §§ 911.6(b)(2), 946.6(c)(2)]. It is immaterial whether or not the public entity will be prejudiced by the late filing. The only determination for the board or the court is whether the minor acted diligently in seeking relief from the claim requirements [Tammen v. County of San Diego (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 468, 479-480, 58 Cal. Rptr. 249, 426 P.2d 753] . In making this determination, the neglect or ignorance of the minor's parents or attorney is not attributed to the minor [Hernandez v. County of Los Angeles (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 1020, 1029-1031, 232 Cal. Rptr. 519, 728 P.2d 1154] .

Although late claim relief under these circumstances is a matter of right and must be granted to a minor who applies, the minor must actually file the proper application to obtain relief [Ridley v. City & County of San Francisco (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 290, 292-293, 77 Cal. Rptr. 199] .

[d] Physical or Mental Incapacity

A claimant is entitled to relief from the claims requirement if he or she was physically or mentally incapacitated, during the entire period for filing a claim, and by reason of that disability failed to present a claim during that time [Gov. Code §§ 911.6(b)(3), 946.6(c)(3)]. For example, a mentally ill claimant who was involuntarily confined as gravely disabled and was unable to communicate effectively with his attorney during the entire claim filing period was entitled to relief for failure to file a timely claim [Baber v. Napa State Hosp. (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 514, 517-518, 201 Cal. Rptr. 432] . The claimant's disability need not be the sole reason for the delay in presenting a claim, so long as it provides a substantial reason [Baber v. Napa State Hosp. (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 514, 519, 201 Cal. Rptr. 432] .

The claimant has the burden of showing physical or mental incapacity of a degree that prevents him or her from consulting with an attorney [see Martin v. County of Madera (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 76, 80, 70 Cal. Rptr. 908 ; but see Draper v. City of Los Angeles (1990) 52 Cal. 3d 502, 507-508, 276 Cal. Rptr. 864, 802 P.2d 367 (in light of plaintiff's serious and prolonged incapacity, Court supported liberal construction of statute; concurrence in judgment only)]. The claimant's status as a conservatee does not, in and of itself, establish the requisite incompetence [Board of Regents v. Davis (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 33, 43, 120 Cal. Rptr. 407, 533 P.2d 1047 (conservatee retained capacity to contract)].

Once a claimant is aware that he or she has a claim against a public entity, the issue in determining whether or not the claimant was mentally incapacitated is not whether the claimant could look after his or her affairs as the claimant normally would, but whether the claimant was able to undertake the extraordinary steps such circumstances would require [see Bennett v. City of Los Angeles (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 116, 121, 90 Cal. Rptr. 479 (emotional incapacity discussed in context of excusable neglect in failing to file claim)]. Even if a claimant's emotional trauma is not sufficient to establish physical or mental incapacity under Gov. Code § 946.6(c)(3), it may nevertheless be grounds for granting relief based on excusable neglect under Gov. Code § 946.6(c)(1) [see County of Santa Clara v. Superior Court (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 545, 552-554, 94 Cal. Rptr. 158, 483 P.2d 774 ; see also 464.25[4][b][iii]].

[e] Death

Late claim relief is available if the person who sustained the alleged injury, damage, or loss died before the expiration of the time in which to file a claim [Gov. Code §§ 911.6(b)(4), 946.6(c)(4)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationContent & FormTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationTime LimitationsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsConstruction & InterpretationTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsProcedural Requirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
1. Claims Against Public Entities

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 464.26-464.39

[Reserved]

§§ 464.26[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
2. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.40

§ 464.40 Governing Law

The law governing actions against public entities and public employees is set forth in Gov. Code § 940 et seq. Collateral source payments relating to personal injury and wrongful death actions are governed by Gov. Code § 985.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationContent & FormTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationTime LimitationsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsConstruction & InterpretationTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsProcedural Requirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
2. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.41

§ 464.41 General Requirements for Filing Action Against Public Entity

[1] Claim as Condition Precedent

Except as provided in Gov. Code §§ 946.4 and 946.6, no suit for money or damages may be brought against a public entity on a cause of action for which a claim is required to be presented under the Tort Claims Act until a written claim has been presented to the public entity and has been either acted on by the board or deemed to have been rejected by the board [Gov. Code § 945.4]. Thus, compliance with the claim requirement of Gov. Code § 945.4 is a condition precedent to an action against the public entity [Williams v. Horvath (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 834, 838, 129 Cal. Rptr. 453, 548 P.2d 1125 ; Ridley v. City & County of San Francisco (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 290, 292, 293, 77 Cal. Rptr. 199] . The claim requirement is discussed in detail in § 464.20 et seq.

[2] Action Barred if Claim Allowed

If a claim that is required to be presented to a public entity is presented and the board acts on it, the following rules apply [Gov. Code § 946]:

- If the claim is allowed in full and the claimant accepts the amount allowed, no suit may be maintained on any part of the cause of action to which the claim relates.

- If the claim is allowed in part and the claimant accepts the amount allowed, no suit may be maintained on the part of the cause of action that is represented by the allowed portion of the claim.

- If the claim is allowed in part, no suit may be maintained on any portion of the cause of action if, pursuant to a requirement of the board to that effect, the claimant has accepted the amount allowed in settlement of the entire claim.

[3] Allegations Must Conform to Claim

Actions alleging matters not set forth in the claim filed with the public entity are barred [see, e.g., Watson v. State of California (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 836, 844-845, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 262 (claim against state, based on theory that state refused to provide prisoner with medical care, could not support claim alleged in first amended complaint against state employees for medical malpractice); Turner v. State of California (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 883, 888-891, 284 Cal. Rptr. 349 (claim alleging failure to warn or take adequate precautions against anticipated gang-related violence and reckless conduct of security guards could not support action alleging inadequate lighting); Crow v. State of California (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 192, 201-202, 271 Cal. Rptr. 349 (claim describing assault could not support action based on contractual relationship); Fall River Joint Unified Sch. Dist. v. Superior Court (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 431, 434-436, 253 Cal. Rptr. 587 (claim alleging dangerous condition of public property and negligent maintenance of school property did not support action for negligent supervision); Donohue v. State of California (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 795, 804, 224 Cal. Rptr. 57 (claim alleging negligence in permitting uninsured motorist to take driving test cannot support action alleging negligence in failing to direct or control motorist during driving test); State of California ex rel. Dep't of Transp. v. Superior Court (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 331, 335-337, 205 Cal. Rptr. 518 (allegation of property damage in claim could not support cause of action for personal injuries); Nelson v. State of California (1982) 139 Cal. App. 3d 72, 80-81, 188 Cal. Rptr. 479 (claim alleging malpractice cannot be basis of action for failure to summon medical care)].

Furthermore, if a plaintiff relies on more than one theory of recovery against the governmental entity, each cause of action must have been reflected in the claim. The factual circumstances set forth in the claim also must correspond with the facts alleged in the complaint; if the complaint alleges a factual basis for recovery that is not fairly reflected in the claim, it is subject to demurrer [Fall River Joint Unified Sch. Dist. v. Superior Court (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 431, 434, 253 Cal. Rptr. 587 ; see Watson v. State of California (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 836, 844-845, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 262] . For example, in a case in which the plaintiff presented a claim alleging a dangerous condition of public property and negligent maintenance of school property, a third cause of action alleging that the school district had negligently supervised students who were engaged in dangerous horseplay was not allowed. The negligent supervision theory was premised on an entirely different factual basis than that set forth in the tort claim [Fall River Joint Unified Sch. Dist. v. Superior Court (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 431, 434-436, 253 Cal. Rptr. 587] .

Although the allegations of the complaint must conform with the claim, an extremely narrow and limited construction of the language of the claim is not warranted in view of the policies served by the claims statute. Therefore, although the plaintiff may not completely shift the nature of the allegations in an effort to premise liability on acts or omissions committed at different times or by different persons than those described in the claim, the plaintiff may elaborate or add further detail to a claim, so long as the complaint is based on the same fundamental facts that were set forth in the claim [White v. Superior Court (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 1505, 1511, 275 Cal. Rptr. 706 ; Blair v. Superior Court (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 221, 226, 267 Cal. Rptr. 13 ; see Stevenson v. San Francisco Hous. Auth. (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 269, 275-278, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 398] .

For example, after denial of a bus driver's claim against a city alleging that a city police officer falsely arrested and imprisoned her, brutally beat her, and denied her medical attention, the driver sued the city on a variety of causes of action, including negligent hiring, training, and retention, and intentional failure to train, supervise, and discipline. The city objected to these two causes of action, arguing that the claim did not mention any alleged problems with the city's training, supervision, and discipline of its employees. The court of appeal held that the complaint and the claim were predicated on the same fundamental facts--the officer's alleged mistreatment of the bus driver. The two causes of action at issue were not shifts in the allegations, but sought to show the direct responsibility of the city for the officer's conduct [White v. Superior Court (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 1505, 1511, 275 Cal. Rptr. 706 (distinguishing Fall River, which also sought to add allegations of negligent supervision, observing that claim in Fall River only alleged injuries were caused by defective door, without mentioning poor student supervision, whereas claim and suit in this case identified police officer as principal actor); see also Stevenson v. San Francisco Hous. Auth. (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 269, 275-278, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 398 (although legal theories in complaint more detailed, written claim referred to decedent's fall in apartment and negligent maintenance of premises; additional details were elaborations of facts stated in claim].

If a party files an amended complaint in an attempt to avoid the defects of the original complaint by adding facts inconsistent with those of previous pleadings, the court may take judicial notice of prior pleadings and may disregard any inconsistent allegations [Colapinto v. County of Riverside (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 147, 151, 281 Cal. Rptr. 191] . In one case, for example, the court sustained a city's demurrer to a complaint based on its absolute immunity for injuries caused by firefighting activities and the condition of fire protection equipment. The plaintiffs filed an amended complaint alleging liability under Veh. Code § 17001 (damage to property proximately caused by public employee's negligent act in operation of motor vehicle), based on the fire department's use of a forklift while fighting the fire. The court of appeal held that the amended complaint was subject to dismissal because its facts and theories were different from those alleged in the original claim [Colapinto v. County of Riverside (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 147, 151-152, 152 n.1, 281 Cal. Rptr. 191] .

[4] Prematurely Filed Complaints

If a complaint has been filed prematurely, before a claim has been acted on or rejected or before relief has been granted under Gov. Code § 946.6, the prematurely filed complaint substantially complies with the provisions of the Tort Claims Act and is not subject to dismissal [Bahten v. County of Merced (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 101, 107, 130 Cal. Rptr. 539 ; Cory v. City of Huntington Beach (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 131, 135-136, 117 Cal. Rptr. 475] . Although a complaint that is filed before relief is granted under Gov. Code § 946.6 technically does not meet the requirement of Gov. Code § 945.4 that the claim be filed before suit is brought, in keeping with the liberal attitude that technical procedural requirements must be interpreted in a way that will not deprive a litigant of a day in court, courts have been very accommodating to plaintiffs [see, e.g., Bell v. Tri-City Hosp. Dist. (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 438, 444-445, 449, 241 Cal. Rptr. 796 ; Savage v. State of California (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 793, 796, 84 Cal. Rptr. 650] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationContent & FormTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationTime LimitationsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsConstruction & InterpretationTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsProcedural Requirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
2. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.42

§ 464.42 Time Periods for Filing Actions

[1] Determining Applicable Limitations Period

[a] Time Period Following Rejection of Claim

Except as provided in Gov. Code §§ 946.4 and 946.6, and subject to Gov. Code § 945.6(b) [see § 464.42[2][b]], any suit brought against a public entity on a cause of action for which a claim is required to be presented must be commenced within one of the following time periods [Gov. Code § 945.6(a)]:

- If written notice of rejection is given in accordance with Gov. Code § 913, not later than six months after the date that notice is personally delivered or deposited in the mail; or

- If written notice of rejection is not given in accordance with Gov. Code § 913, within two years after the accrual of the cause of action. If the period within which the public entity is required to act is extended by agreement under Gov. Code § 912.4, the period of such extension is not part of the time limit for the commencement of the action.

The two-year period applies if a public entity rejects an application to present a late claim without specifically rejecting the substance of the claim [Paniagua v. Orange County Fire Authority (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 83, 88, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 746] .

Gov. Code § 946.4, one of the exceptions specified by Gov. Code § 945.6(a), provides generally that the failure to present a claim does not bar the maintenance of an action against a public agency that has failed to file a statement with the Roster of Public Agencies [see § 464.48]. Gov. Code § 946.6, the other exception specified by Gov. Code § 945.6(a), pertains to relief from the claim requirement [see § 464.42[1][b]].

"Six months," as used in Gov. Code § 945.6, means the longer of either six calendar months or 182 days [Gonzales v. County of Los Angeles (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 601, 604, 245 Cal. Rptr. 112] .

If an amended claim is timely filed that relates to the same transaction or occurrence that gave rise to the original claim, the six-month period for filing suit generally runs from the time that the first claim is rejected [Sofranek v. County of Merced (2007) 146 Cal. App. 4th 1238, 1248, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 426] . However, a narrow exception to this rule has been recognized when a wrongful death claim is submitted without including all the necessary heirs. Because a wrongful death action that does not include all heirs is not authorized under the wrongful death statute, the six-month period for filing suit begins to run upon rejection of an amended claim, assuming it is timely filed, when the amendment is made to include all heirs [Norwood v. S. Cal. Rapid Transit Dist. (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 741, 743-744, 211 Cal. Rptr. 6] . In addition, if a government entity sends notice upon rejection of an amended claim that the claimant has six-months from rejection of the claim to file suit, the entity may be estopped from relying on rejection of the original claim for purposes of calculating the six-month period for filing suit [Sofranek v. County of Merced (2007) 146 Cal. App. 4th 1238, 1251-1252, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 426] . Estoppel is discussed in § 464.47.

This six-month limitation period is mandatory, and the claimant must strictly comply with it [Childs v. State of California (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 155, 159-160, 192 Cal. Rptr. 526] . Other statutes of limitations that do not expressly extend the six-month period do not do so by implication. For example, a plaintiff who files a medical malpractice claim against a county hospital and who receives notice of rejection of that claim pursuant to Gov. Code § 913 must file an action within six months or the action will be barred, even if the action is filed within the one-year limitation period of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 applicable to malpractice actions [Anson v. County of Merced (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1195, 1199, 1202, 249 Cal. Rptr. 457] . Moreover, the six-month period for filing an action applies even if the plaintiff is a minor and even if contrary to the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5, which, for example, would otherwise permit a minor to bring an action against a health care provider at any time prior to his or her eighth birthday [Martell v. Antelope Valley Hosp. Med. Ctr. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 978, 981-983, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 329] .

The tolling provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 352(a) due to the plaintiff's minority or insanity, and the tolling provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 352.1(a) pertaining to the plaintiff's imprisonment on a criminal charge or sentence, do not apply to an action against a public entity or public employee on a cause of action for which a claim must be presented [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 352(b), 352.1(b)]. For discussion of tolling provisions that do apply, see § 464.42[4].

In a personal injury action not involving negligence of a health-care provider, compliance with the provisions of the Tort Claims Act exempts a claimant from the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 335.1, which require that suit be filed within two years after the injury (one year after the injury under former Code Civ. Proc. § 340(3), applicable before 2003) [Schmidt v. Southern Cal. Rapid Transit Dist. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 23, 30, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 340] . However, a plaintiff suing a public entity hospital or employee for medical malpractice must meet the three-year limitations period of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5, and failure to do so will provide a limitations defense for the defendant even if the plaintiff's action is otherwise timely under the Government Claims Act [Roberts v. County of Los Angeles (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 474, 481, 96 Cal. Rptr. 3d 60] .

The filing of a petition to perpetuate testimony or preserve evidence made under Code Civ. Proc. § 2035.010 et seq. does not constitute the filing of a suit for purposes of the six-month limitations period [Orr v. City of Stockton (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 622, 629, 58 Cal. Rptr. 3d 662] .

[b] Time Period if Plaintiff Granted Relief From Claim Requirement

Gov. Code § 946.6(f) provides a special period of limitation on actions that can be commenced only after relief from the claims presentation requirement is granted pursuant to Gov. Code § 946.6 [Brown v. Huntington Beach Union High Sch. Dist. (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 640, 646, 93 Cal. Rptr. 417] . If the court issues an order relieving the claimant from the provisions of the claim requirement of Gov. Code § 945.4, suit on the cause of action to which the claim relates must be filed with the court within 30 days [Gov. Code § 946.6(f)].

The 30-day period is a statute of limitations that is strictly construed. The court, in granting the petition from relief, has no power to extend that period [Rivera v. City of Carson (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 718, 726-727, 173 Cal. Rptr. 4 ; see Tuolumne Air Serv., Inc. v. Turlock Irrigation Dist. (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 248, 251-252, 150 Cal. Rptr. 809] . Usually, the 30-day period commences with the entry of the minute order granting relief, rather than with the later filing of a formal order [Mandjik v. Eden Township Hosp. Dist. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 1488, 1496-1497, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 582 ; McHale v. State of California (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 396, 399, 178 Cal. Rptr. 83] or with the receipt of the clerk's notification of the order [Fritts v. County of Kern (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 303, 306-307, 185 Cal. Rptr. 212] . However, if the court in the minute order directs the subsequent preparation and filing of a formal order, the 30-day period commences with the entry of the formal order [County of Nevada v. Superior Court (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 806, 808-809, 228 Cal. Rptr. 447 (if local rule requires preparation and filing of formal order, court entering minute order deemed to have directed preparation of formal order)].

If a successful claimant files a complaint against the public entity within 30 days after the court has granted the petition for relief, the complaint is timely filed, even though it would otherwise be barred by the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 335.1 because it is filed more than two years (before 2003, one year, under former Code Civ. Proc. § 340(3)) after the accrual of the cause of action [Brown v. Huntington Beach Union High Sch. Dist. (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 640, 642-647, 93 Cal. Rptr. 417] . If a complaint is already on file when the order granting such relief is made, the complaint, although prematurely filed, satisfies the provisions of Gov. Code § 946.6(f), and the filing of an amended pleading alleging compliance with that statute is unnecessary [Bahten v. County of Merced (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 101, 106-107, 130 Cal. Rptr. 539 ; see also Bell v. Tri-City Hosp. Dist. (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 438, 444-445, 241 Cal. Rptr. 796 (premature complaint was effective, even though government entity was named in body of complaint but not in caption)].

If, however, the original complaint does not state a cause of action against the public entity and is not amended to state such a cause of action within the 30-day period set forth in Gov. Code § 946.6(f), the plaintiff is foreclosed thereafter from maintaining an action to which the claim relates against the public entity [Wilson v. People ex rel. Dep't of Pub. Works (1969) 271 Cal. App. 2d 665, 667-669, 76 Cal. Rptr. 906 ; see also Ard v. County of Contra Costa (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 339, 346, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 886 ; but see Bell v. Tri-City Hosp. (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 438, 443-444, 241 Cal. Rptr. 796] . An exception to this rule has been recognized if the plaintiff can demonstrate that the public entity should be equitably estopped from relying on the limitations bar--for example, because the public entity took some action to deceive the plaintiff into missing the 30-day deadline [see Ard v. County of Contra Costa (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 339, 346-348, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 886 (dismissal reversed to allow plaintiff to amend complaint to attempt to allege facts justifying estoppel)].

[c] Time Period if No Claim Required

Unless a different statute of limitations is specifically applicable to the public entity and except as provided in Gov. Code §§ 930.6 (claims procedures established by agreement) and 935 (claims procedures established by public entity), any action against a public entity on a cause of action for which a claim is not required to be presented to the public entity must be commenced within the time prescribed by the statute of limitations that would be applicable if the action were brought against a defendant other than a public entity [Gov. Code § 945.8].

[2] Extension of Period

[a] Applicability of General Statutory Extensions

Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a), which extends by five days any prescribed period for acting after service of a document by mail, does not apply to the six-month limitation period under Gov. Code § 945.6; the limitation period begins to run on the date the notice of rejection is deposited in the mail [Cole v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 1, 4-5, 222 Cal. Rptr. 426 ; Smith v. City & County of San Francisco (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 227, 230-232, 137 Cal.

Rptr. 146] . Nevertheless, the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 12a, extending the statute of limitations if the last day to file an action is a holiday, do apply to the Gov. Code § 945.6(a)(1) six-month period of limitation [DeLeon v. Bay Area Rapid Transit Dist. (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 456, 457-461, 189 Cal. Rptr. 181, 658 P.2d 108] .

[b] Extension for Imprisonment

If a person is unable to commence a suit on a cause of action on which a claim must be filed within the time prescribed by Gov. Code § 945.6(a) because he or she has been sentenced to imprisonment in a state prison, the time limit for the commencement of the suit is extended to six months after the date that the civil right to commence the action is restored to that person. The time is not extended, however, if the public entity establishes that the person failed to make a reasonable effort to commence the suit, or to obtain a restoration of the civil right to do so, before the expiration of the time prescribed by Gov. Code § 945.6(a) [Gov. Code § 945.6(b)]. A person sentenced to imprisonment in a state prison may not commence a suit on the cause of action unless he or she has complied with the claim presentation requirement [Gov. Code § 945.6(c)].

Also, under both state and federal law, a prisoner must exhaust administrative remedies before filing suit, and substantial compliance with this requirement is insufficient [Wright v. State of California (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 659, 664-667, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 92 ; see 42 U.S.C.S. § 1997e(a) (federal requirement), 15 Cal. Code Reg. § 3804.1 et seq. (state administrative review procedures)]. This requirement applies even if the prisoner seeks only monetary damages that are unavailable through the administrative review process [Wright v. State of California (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 659, 668, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 92] .

If a prisoner files a civil action pro se against a government entity while the prisoner is still incarcerated, the complaint is deemed filed when the complaint is delivered to prison authorities for forwarding to the superior court [Moore v. Twomey (2004) 120 Cal. App. 4th 910, 918, 16 Cal. Rptr. 3d 163] .

[c] Extension in Medical Malpractice Actions

If a medical malpractice action is brought against a public entity and the notice of intention to commence a medical malpractice action filed pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 364 is filed within 90 days after the expiration of the statutory period of limitation, the time for commencement of that action will be extended by 90 days [see Code Civ. Proc. § 364(d); for discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 364, see Ch. 295, Hospitals]. Accordingly, in some situations, an action for medical malpractice against a health care provider that is a public entity may be timely if filed six months plus 90 days after notice of rejection [see Anson v. County of Merced (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1195, 1204-1205, 249 Cal. Rptr. 457] . Under some circumstances, the notice of intention to commence a medical malpractice action against a public entity may be treated as a claim under the Tort Claims Act [see Phillips v. Desert Hosp. Dist. (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 699, 707-710, 263 Cal. Rptr. 119, 780 P.2d 349 ; see also § 464.23[3][c][iii]].

[3] Effect of Substitution for Fictitious "Doe" Defendants

Courts have disagreed on whether the Tort Claims Act's timeliness requirements are satisfied by filing a complaint with "Doe" defendants [see Code Civ. Proc. § 474] and substituting in a public entity after the expressed statutory time period has expired. One court held that although the general rule is that a defendant sued by a fictitious name and later brought into the case by an amendment substituting the true name is considered a party to the action from its commencement for purposes of the statute of limitations, this rule does not apply to the Tort Claims Act [Chase v. State of California (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 808, 813-814, 136 Cal. Rptr. 833] . In that case, the plaintiff intentionally failed to name as a defendant a known public entity against which the plaintiff had earlier presented a claim for personal injuries [see Chase v. State of California (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 808, 813-814, 136 Cal. Rptr. 833] . Another court accepted that holding, but carved an exception for actions against public employees [Olden v. Hatchell (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 1032, 1036-1037, 201 Cal. Rptr. 715] .

A third court distinguished a case in which the plaintiff was, in good faith, ignorant of the true identity of the defendant, but had substantially complied with the claims presentation requirements by fortuitously filing a claim with one public entity, filing a complaint naming that public entity and Doe defendants, and after the applicable two-year period had expired, substituting an additional public entity on learning of that public entity's jurisdiction. In this case, the substitution of a public entity for a Doe defendant related back to the filing of the original complaint and was, therefore, timely [Carlino v. Los Angeles County Flood Control Dist. (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 1526, 1535-1536, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 437 (original complaint named county board of supervisors, who were directors of the flood county district; amendment substituted county flood control district for Doe defendant)].

For further discussion of the amendment of pleadings for substitution of a fictitiously named defendant, see Ch. 21, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings .

[4] Tolling of Limitations Period

[a] Criminal Charges Pending Against Plaintiff

No person charged by indictment, information, complaint, or other accusatory pleading charging a criminal offense may bring a civil action for money or damages against a law enforcement officer or the public entity employing a law enforcement officer based on conduct of the law enforcement officer relating to the offense for which the person is charged, including an act or omission in investigating or reporting the offense or in arresting or detaining the person, while the charges against the person are pending before a superior court [Gov. Code § 945.3]. Any applicable statute of limitations for filing and prosecuting these actions is tolled during the period that those charges are pending [Gov. Code § 945.3].

For purposes of Gov. Code § 945.3, a notice to appear served on the plaintiff constitutes an "accusatory pleading," regardless of whether that notice was ever filed with a court [Schmidlin v. City of Palo Alto (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 728, 756, 69 Cal. Rptr. 3d 365]. In addition, "charges pending before a court" includes any charges embodied in a notice to appear, as long as the charges have not yet been disposed of or defeated through prosecutorial inaction [Schmidlin v. City of Palo Alto (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 728, 760, 69 Cal. Rptr. 3d 365]. Criminal charges are "pending" until the date of judgment and sentence, not the date of conviction [McAlpine v. Superior Court (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1, 8, 257 Cal. Rptr. 32] . Appeals or criminal proceedings diverted pursuant to Penal Code §§ 1000 et seq., 1000.6 et seq., 1001 et seq., 1001.20 et seq., or 1001.50 et seq. are not within the charges encompassed by Gov. Code § 945.3 [Gov. Code § 945.3].

The purpose of Gov. Code § 945.3 is to eliminate the use of civil damage complaints as plea bargaining levers, and possibly to prevent use of civil false arrest suits as a device to inquire into prosecutorial material and investigative information while the criminal charge is pending [Damjanovic v. Ambrose (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 503, 508, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 560 (quoting from McMartin v. County of Los Angeles (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 848, 855, 249 Cal. Rptr. 53)]. The statute does not affect actions against civilian defendants, nor does it apply to causes of actions brought by a plaintiff who has not been charged with a criminal offense [Damjanovic v. Ambrose (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 503, 510-511, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 560 (Gov. Code § 945.3 did not toll running of time within which service of summons and complaint must be made under Code Civ. Proc. § 583.210; late service justified dismissal of action against civilian defendants)].

Gov. Code § 945.3 neither prohibits the filing of a claim nor extends the time within which a claim must be presented pursuant to Gov. Code § 911.2 [Gov. Code § 945.3; see § 464.23[4]].

[b] Equitable Tolling

Although strict compliance with the prescribed statute of limitations for commencement of actions against a public entity is mandatory, the Tort Claims Act does not preclude application of the equitable tolling doctrine, the purpose of which is to soften the harsh impact of technical rules that might otherwise prevent a good faith litigant from having a day in court [see, e.g., Addison v. State of California (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 313, 316, 146 Cal. Rptr. 224, 578 P.2d 941 ; Loehr v. Ventura County Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 1071, 1084, 195 Cal. Rptr. 576] . Equitable tolling is based on the rationale that a plaintiff should not be barred by a statute of limitations unless the defendant would be unfairly prejudiced [Collier v. City of Pasadena (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 917, 923, 191 Cal. Rptr. 681] . Generally, it applies if a claimant has several legal remedies available and, reasonably and in good faith, pursues one designed to lessen the extent of the injury or damages [Addison v. State of California (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 313, 317-321, 146 Cal. Rptr. 224, 578 P.2d 941 (period tolled during plaintiff's tort action in federal court); McAlpine v. Superior Court (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1, 5-6, 257 Cal. Rptr. 32 (period tolled during plaintiff's tort action in federal court); Collier v. City of Pasadena (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 917, 923-926, 191 Cal. Rptr. 681 (period tolled pending disability claim)].

The three factors necessary to invoke the doctrine of equitable tolling are: (1) timely notice to the defendant in pursuing the first remedy; (2) lack of prejudice to the defendant in gathering evidence to defend against the second action (the tort action--usually, the defendant is the same in both instances); and (3) good faith and reasonable conduct by the plaintiff in filing the second action [Addison v. State of California (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 313, 319, 146 Cal. Rptr. 224, 578 P.2d 941 ; Loehr v. Ventura County Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 1071, 1085, 195 Cal. Rptr. 576 ; Collier v. City of Pasadena (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 917, 924, 191 Cal. Rptr. 681] .

A claimant's failure to comply with the six-month period because of his or her pursuit of a federal civil rights action under 42 U.S.C.S. § 1983 does not invoke the doctrine of equitable tolling [Loehr v. Ventura County Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 1071, 1085-1086, 195 Cal. Rptr. 576 ; for discussion of 42 U.S.C.S. § 1983 actions, see Ch. 113, Civil Rights: The Post-Civil War Civil Rights Statutes].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsGovernmental EntitiesTortsProcedureStatutes of LimitationsAccrual of ActionsDiscovery RuleTortsProcedureStatutes of LimitationsTollingGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationTime LimitationsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsProcedural Requirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
2. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.43

§ 464.43 Pleading Requirements

Because recovery against a public entity is based on statute, the complaint must set forth facts sufficiently detailed and specific to support an inference that each of the statutory elements of liability is satisfied. General allegations are inadequate [Mittenhuber v. City of Redondo Beach (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 1, 5, 190 Cal. Rptr. 694] . For example, a complaint against a public entity based on a dangerous condition of public property must satisfy Gov. Code § 835, the basis for public entity liability for dangerous conditions of public property [Mittenhuber v. City of Redondo Beach (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 1, 4-5, 190 Cal. Rptr. 694 ; for discussion of dangerous conditions of public property, see § 464.80 et seq.].

A complaint that is insufficiently specific in its factual allegations not only prevents the public entity from determining the theory under which the plaintiff is seeking relief, but also prevents the public entity from determining whether the complaint varies from the plaintiff's claim [People ex rel. Dep't of Transp. v. Superior Court (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1480, 1484-1486, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 498 (merely placing "X" in box on Judicial Council form of complaint for personal injury may not be sufficient)].

Facts supporting separate theories of liability must be stated separately [Nestle v. City of Santa Monica (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 920, 939, 101 Cal. Rptr. 568, 496 P.2d 480] . The plaintiff must also plead facts sufficient to show that the cause of action lies outside the scope of any applicable statutory immunity [Giannuzzi v. State of California (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 462, 467, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 335 ; Keyes v. Santa Clara Valley Water Dist. (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 882, 886, 180 Cal. Rptr. 586] .

Because submission of a claim to a public entity is a condition precedent to filing suit against that entity [see Gov. Code § 945.4], the California Supreme Court has held that a plaintiff must either allege in the complaint facts demonstrating that the plaintiff has complied with the claim presentation requirement or allege in the complaint facts excusing such compliance [State of California v. Superior Court (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 1234, 1239-1243, 13 Cal. Rptr. 3d 534, 90 P.3d 116] . The plaintiff's failure to do so subjects the complaint to a general demurrer for failure to state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action [State of California v. Superior Court (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 1234, 1243, 13 Cal. Rptr. 3d

534, 90 P.3d 116] .

If a complaint shows on its face that the cause of action is apparently barred by the statute of limitations, the plaintiff must plead facts showing a ground for suspension, delayed accrual, or application of another theory for avoidance of the statute [County of Alameda v. Superior Court (1987)195 Cal. App. 3d 1283, 1286-1287, 241 Cal. Rptr. 312 (failure to do so subjects complaint to general demurrer)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePleading & PracticePleadingsComplaintsGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationContent & FormTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsProcedural Requirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
2. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.44

§ 464.44 Venue

[1] Actions Against State

The proper court for trial of actions against the state for the taking or damaging of private property for public use is a court of competent jurisdiction in the county in which the property is situated. Except as provided in Gov. Code §§ 955.2 (venue in actions for death or injury to persons or personal property) and 955.3 (venue in actions by local agencies against the state), on written demand of the Attorney General made on or before answering, the place of trial in all other actions must be changed to Sacramento County [Gov. Code § 955].

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, if the state is named as a defendant in any action or proceeding for death or injury to person or personal property and the injury or the injury causing death occurred within California, the proper court for the trial of the action is a court of competent jurisdiction in the county where the injury occurred or where the injury causing death occurred. The court may, on motion, change the place of the trial in the same manner and under the same circumstances as in an action between private parties [Gov. Code § 955.2; for discussion of the transfer of actions for trial, see Ch. 571, Venue]. The state is entitled to have the action transferred to the county where the injury occurred even though other defendants are residents of the county where the action was filed [State v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County (1967) 252 Cal. App. 2d 637, 640-644, 60 Cal. Rptr. 653] .

[2] Actions Against Local Public Entity

An action against a county, city and county, city, or local agency may be tried in that county or the county in which that city or local agency is situated. If an action is brought in any other county, the public entity has the right, on its motion, to have trial transferred to a county in which no plaintiff resides, is doing business, or is situated, except that trial cannot be transferred to the county in which the public entity is situated. However, if the action against a public entity is based on injury to person, property, or both, occurring within the public entity or within the county in which the public entity is situated, and resulting from the negligence or alleged negligence of the public entity or its agents or employees, the action must be tried in that county or the county in which the public entity is situated. In any of these actions, the parties may, by stipulation made in writing or in open court, and entered into the minutes, agree on any county for the place of the trial [see Code Civ. Proc. § 394(a)].

For purposes of Code Civ. Proc. § 394, the term "local agency" means any governmental district, board, or agency, or any other local governmental body or corporation, but does not include the State of California or any of its agencies, departments, commissions, or boards [Code Civ. Proc. § 394(c); see Golden Gate Bridge, Highway & Transp. Dist. v. Superior Court (2004) 125 Cal. App. 4th 177, 184, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 558 (bridge district was local agency entitled to transfer of venue to neutral county)].

Although court of appeal opinions are split on the issue, the more recent majority view holds that Code Civ. Proc. § 394(a) applies to a cross-complaint just as it does to a complaint [compare Kennedy/Jenks Consultants, Inc. v. Superior Court (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 948, 954-957, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 817 , and Ohio Cas. Ins. Group v. Superior Court (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 444, 448-449, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 771 , with City of Chico v. Superior Court (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 187, 188-192, 152 Cal. Rptr. 380] . This majority view has been applied even when the cross-complaint is filed only against the original plaintiff in the action, rather than against a third-party, and the cross-complaint was compulsory, although in that particular case the plaintiff had no choice as to venue when filing the original complaint [Metropolitan Transit System v. Superior Court (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 293, 302, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 517] .

The venue provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 394 are not jurisdictional [Newman v. County of Sonoma (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 625, 627-628, 15 Cal. Rptr. 914, 364 P.2d 850] . Moreover, an action against a county and an individual brought in the county of the individual defendant's residence cannot be transferred to the defendant county because the plaintiff is entitled, under Code Civ. Proc. § 395, to sue in the residence of any defendant [Channell v. Superior Court (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 246, 250-253, 38 Cal. Rptr. 13] .

Although venue in a certain county is mandated by Code Civ. Proc. § 394, a party is not prevented from seeking a change of venue pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 397(b) if it appears that an impartial trial cannot be had in that county [see Paesano v. Superior Court (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 17, 19-20, 250 Cal. Rptr. 842 (mandatory removal language of Code Civ. Proc. § 394 does not take precedence over and prohibit discretionary removal pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 397)]. For discussion of a change of venue motion on these grounds, see Ch. 571, Venue .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureVenueGeneral OverviewTortsProcedureCommencement & ProsecutionVenueTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsJurisdictionTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsProcedural RequirementsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsVenue

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
2. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.45

§ 464.45 Service of Summons

[1] Actions Against State

Except as provided in Gov. Code §§ 955.6 and 955.8, service of summons in all actions on claims against the state must be made on the Attorney General [Gov. Code § 955.4(a)]. In actions for the taking or damaging of private property for public use within the meaning of Cal. Const. art. I, § 19, on claims arising out of work done by the Department of Transportation, service of summons must be made on the Attorney General or the Director of Transportation [Gov. Code § 955.6(a)]. In actions for the taking or damaging of private property for public use within the meaning of Cal. Const. art. I, § 19, on claims arising out of work done by the Department of Water Resources, service of summons must be made on the Attorney General or the Director of Water Resources [Gov. Code § 955.8 (erroneously refers to former Cal. Const., art. I § 14, which was repealed)].

[2] Actions Against Other Public Entity

[a] Proper Recipient

A summons may be served on a public entity by delivering a copy of the summons and of the complaint to the clerk, secretary, president, presiding officer, or other head of its governing body [Code Civ. Proc. § 416.50(a)]. As used in Code Civ. Proc. § 416.50, the term "public entity" includes the state; any office, department, division, bureau, board, commission, or agency of the state; the Regents of the University of California; a county, city, district, public authority, or public agency; and any other political subdivision or public corporation in the state [Code Civ. Proc. § 416.50(b)]. For discussion of general service requirements and procedures, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

[b] Service in Conformity With Statement

Service of process in an action against a public agency may be made in conformity with the information contained in the statement in the Roster of Public Agencies pertaining to that public agency that is on file at the time of that service. Service in this manner, if otherwise made in compliance with law, constitutes personal service on the public agency [

Gov. Code § 960.8]. "Statement in the Roster of Public Agencies" means the statement or amended statement in the Roster of Public Agencies in the office of the Secretary of State or in the office of the county clerk of any county in which that statement or amended statement is on file [Gov. Code § 960.8; see § 464.48].

As used in Gov. Code §§ 960.2, 960.3, and 960.8, the term "public agency" means a district, public authority, public agency, and any other political subdivision or public corporation in the state, but does not include the state or a county, city and county, or city [Gov. Code §§ 960, 53050].

[c] Service if No Accurate Statement on File

Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, service of process in an action against a public agency may be made in the manner provided in Gov. Code § 960.3 if, during the 10 days immediately following the commencement of the action, one of the following situations exists [Gov. Code § 960.2]:

- No statement pertaining to the public agency is on file or is placed on file in the Roster of Public Agencies in the office of the Secretary of State and of the county clerk of each county in which the public agency then maintains an office, as required by Gov. Code § 53051;

- A statement or amended statement pertaining to the public agency is on file, or is placed on file, in the Roster of Public Agencies in the office of the Secretary of State and of the county clerk of each county in which the public agency then maintains an office, but the information contained in the statement is so inaccurate or incomplete that it does not substantially conform to the requirements of Gov. Code § 53051; or

- A statement or amended statement pertaining to the public agency is on file, or is placed on file, in the Roster of Public Agencies in the office of the Secretary of State and of the county clerk of each county in which the public agency then maintains an office, but neither the governing body nor any officer or agent of the public agency on whom personal service of process constitutes service on the public agency can thereafter, with due diligence, be personally served at the address or addresses set forth in the statement.

If it is shown by affidavit to the satisfaction of the court that the circumstances required by Gov. Code § 960.2 exist, the court or judge may make an order that service of process be made on the public agency as provided in Gov. Code § 960.3 [Gov. Code § 960.3(a)]. Service of process must be made by one of the following methods [Gov. Code § 960.3(b)]:

- Leaving two copies of the process for each public agency to be served, together with two copies of the order authorizing the service, in the hands of the Secretary of State or in his or her office at Sacramento; or

- Mailing two copies of the process for each public agency to be served, together with two copies of the order authorizing the service to the office of the Secretary of State in Sacramento by certified or registered mail, addressee only, return receipt requested. Service is effective as of the day the return receipt is received from the office of the Secretary of State.

Service as provided in Gov. Code § 960.3 constitutes personal service on the public agency [Gov. Code § 960.3(c)]. Service in this manner requires the plaintiff to pay a fee of $50 to the Secretary of State for each public agency so served [Gov. Code § 960.3(d)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePleading & PracticeService of ProcessMethodsPersonal DeliveryCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticeService of ProcessMethodsService Upon AgentsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationContent & FormTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsJurisdictionTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsProcedural Requirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
2. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.46

§ 464.46 Filing Action Against Public Employee

[1] Claim Against Public Entity as Condition Precedent

[a] General Rule

Except as provided in Gov. Code § 950.4, a cause of action against a public employee or former public employee for injury resulting from an act or omission in the scope of his or her employment as a public employee is barred if an action against the employing public entity is barred under Gov. Code § 900 et. seq. (claims against public entities) or under Gov. Code § 945 et seq. (actions against public entities) [Gov. Code § 950.2]. Therefore, under Gov. Code § 950.2, a claim must be filed against the employing public entity as a condition precedent to an action against the public employee [Williams v. Horvath (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 834, 838, 129 Cal. Rptr. 453, 548 P.2d 1125 ; Mazzola v. Feinstein (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 305, 310, 201 Cal. Rptr. 148 ; see also § 464.46[2]].

Under Gov. Code § 950.2, an action against a public employee or former employee is barred if an action against the entity is barred not only by the plaintiff's failure to present any claim at all, but also by presenting a claim that is insufficient, too late, or for other reasons is inadequate to support an action against the employing public entity [7 Cal. L. Rev. Comm. Reports 401 (1965)]. Similarly, if a suit against a public entity is barred by the applicable statute of limitations or by any other provision of Gov. Code § 945 et seq. dealing with actions against public entities, an action against the public employee or former employee is also barred [7 Cal. L. Rev. Comm. Reports 401 (1965)]. The requirements of Gov. Code § 950.2 are applicable even though the public entity itself is immune from liability for the injury [Gov. Code § 950.2].

If a written claim for money or damages for injury has been presented to the employing public entity, a cause of action for that injury may not be maintained against the public employee or former public employee whose act or omission caused that injury, until the claim has been rejected or deemed to have been rejected in whole or in part by the public entity [Gov. Code § 950.6(a)].

[b] Exception for Lack of Knowledge of Involvement of Public Entity or Employee

A cause of action against a public employee or former public employee is not barred by Gov. Code § 950.2 if the plaintiff pleads and proves that he or she did not know or have reason to know, within the period for the presentation of a claim to the employing public entity as prescribed by Gov. Code § 911.2 or by such other claims procedure as may be applicable, that the injury was caused by an act or omission of the public entity or by an act or omission of an employee of the public entity in the scope of his or her employment as a public employee [Gov. Code § 950.4]. In other words, a claimant who does not file a timely claim with the public entity is not barred from proceeding against a public employee if the claimant can prove that during the initial period for presentation of a claim based on accrual of the claimant's cause of action, the claimant was ignorant of the involvement of a public entity or public employee. However, this exception applies only to claims against public employees and not to claims against public entities [Moore v. Morhar (1977) 65 Cal. App. 3d 896, 901-902, 135 Cal. Rptr. 626] .

[c] Determining Scope of Employment

For purposes of Gov. Code § 950.2, a public employee is acting in the course and scope of employment if that employee is engaged in work that he or she was employed to perform or if the act is an incident of his or her duty and was performed for the benefit of the employer and not to serve the employee's own purposes or conveniences [Neal v. Gatlin (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 871, 875, 111 Cal. Rptr. 117 ; for further discussion of scope of employment, see Ch. 248, Employer's Liability for Employee Torts].

[2] Claim Against Public Employee Not Required

A plaintiff does not need to file a claim against the individual public employee as a condition precedent to an action against him or her for injury resulting from an act or omission in the scope of his or her employment as a public employee [see Gov. Code § 950; 4 Cal. L. Rev. Comm. Reports 1001 (1963)]. Furthermore, any provision of a charter, ordinance, or regulation adopted by a local public entity that requires the presentation of a claim as a prerequisite to the maintenance of an action against a public employee to enforce his or her personal liability is invalid [Gov. Code § 950.8].

[3] Limitations Period

If a written claim for money or damages for injury has been presented to the employing public entity, a suit against the public employee or former public employee for that injury must be commenced within the time prescribed by Gov. Code § 945.6 for bringing an action against the public entity [Gov. Code § 950.6(b); for discussion of Gov. Code § 945.6, see § 464.42[1][a]].

If a person is unable to commence the suit within the time prescribed by Gov. Code § 945.6 because he or she has been sentenced to imprisonment in a state prison, the time limit for the commencement of that suit is extended to six months after the date that the civil right to commence that action is restored to that person, except that the time is not extended if the public employee or former public employee establishes that the plaintiff failed to make reasonable effort to commence the suit, or to obtain a restoration of the civil right to do so, before the expiration of the prescribed time [Gov. Code § 950.6(c)].

[4] Venue

The county in which the cause, or some part of the cause, arose is the proper county for trial of an action against a public officer or person specially appointed to execute his or her duties, for an act done by him or her in the course of employment. This county is also the proper venue for an action against a person who, by command of a public officer or in his or her aid, does anything touching the duties of that officer [Code Civ. Proc. § 393(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsGovernmental EntitiesGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationContent & FormTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationTime LimitationsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsJurisdictionTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsProcedural Requirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
2. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.47

§ 464.47 Estoppel

[1] Estoppel as Relief From Failure to File Claim or Meet Limitations Period

Under certain circumstances, a public entity may be estopped to rely on the plaintiff's noncompliance with the claim requirements or the plaintiff's failure to meet the applicable statute of limitations as a defense to an action brought against it. For example, if the claimant was misled by government agents regarding the procedural and time requirements of the claims statutes or if the public entity has acted in an unconscionable manner, estoppel may apply [Fredrichsen v. City of Lakewood (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 353, 357, 359, 99 Cal. Rptr. 13, 491 P.2d 805] . Estoppel may also apply if acts of violence or intimidation were committed with the intention of preventing the filing of a claim [John R. v. Oakland Unified Sch. Dist. (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 438, 445, 256 Cal. Rptr. 766, 769 P.2d 948 ; see, e.g., Ortega v. Pajaro Valley Unified Sch. Dist. (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 1023, 1050-1056, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 777] .

Estoppel on this basis may even be based on the unauthorized actions of one the entity's employees. For example, in a case alleging the sexual molestation of a 14-year-old boy by his teacher in an officially sanctioned, extracurricular program, alleged threats by the teacher of retaliation against the student if he reported the incidents were sufficient to require the trial court to render a factual determination on the applicability of estoppel [John R. v. Oakland Unified Sch. Dist. (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 438, 444-446, 256 Cal. Rptr. 766, 769 P.2d 948 (for purposes of equitable estoppel, court concluded that time for filing claim against district was tolled during period that teacher's threats prevented plaintiff from pursuing claim; case remanded for trial court to determine if teacher in fact made any threats, when effect of threats ceased, and whether plaintiffs acted within reasonable time after coercive effect of threats ended)].

Similarly, in a case alleging sexual molestation of an 11-year-old child by his teacher during a school field trip, a court of appeal held that a teacher's directive to the child not to tell anyone about it was a sufficient inducement of delay to invoke an estoppel [Christopher P. v. Mojave Unified Sch. Dist. (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 165, 170-173, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 353 (appeal from trial court's denial of petition under Gov. Code § 946.6; case remanded for trial court to determine: (1) if directive or admonition not to tell was made in conjunction with alleged molestation; (2) when effect of admonition coupled with molestation ceased; and (3) whether claimant acted within reasonable time, not to exceed one year, after delay-inducing effect of molestation and directive ended)].

In another case in which the court of appeal held that equitable estoppel was appropriate, a school guidance counselor sexually molested a boy beginning in junior high school and continuing until after the boy was out of high school. The counselor continually threatened to humiliate the boy publicly, and because the threats actually deterred the boy from reporting the abuse even after he graduated from school, application of the estoppel doctrine extended until the abuse was exposed publicly, the boy was enrolled in a witness protection program, and the boy began to receive counseling from a psychotherapist [Doe v. Bakersfield City School Dist. (2006) 136 Cal. App. 4th 556, 571-573, 39 Cal. Rptr. 3d 79] .

The court of appeal has also held that courts may equitably grant additional time for the accrual of molestation claims by minors who, because of their young age, inexperience, ignorance, or other vulnerabilities, were unable at the time of the assault to comprehend the wrongfulness of the conduct [Curtis T. v. County of Los Angeles (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 1405, 1421, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 208] . In that particular case, the court also noted that the plaintiff, who was between the ages of five and eight when the molestation occurred, alleged that his foster parent saw the molestation and took no action to prevent it, which could reinforce in the mind of a young child that the conduct was not wrongful [Curtis T. v. County of Los Angeles (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 1405, 1422, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 208] .

Although the existence of estoppel is generally a question of fact, if the evidence is not in conflict and is susceptible of only one reasonable inference, the existence of an estoppel against the public entity is a question of law [Johnson v. San Diego Unified Sch. Dist. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 692, 701, 266 Cal. Rptr. 187] .

[2] Elements of Estoppel

A plaintiff in an action against a public entity must prove four elements to assert successfully that the public entity is estopped to claim the plaintiff's noncompliance with the claims statutes as a defense [Elmore v. Oak Valley Hosp. Dist. (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 716, 724, 251 Cal. Rptr. 405] :

- The public entity was apprised of the facts;

- The public entity intended that its conduct be acted on, or acted in such a way that the plaintiff had a right to believe it was so intended;

- The plaintiff was ignorant of the true facts [see Cole v. City of Los Angeles (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1369, 1374-1375, 232 Cal. Rptr. 624 (element of ignorance of true state of facts not satisfied unless party claiming estoppel did not have notice of facts sufficient to put reasonably prudent person on notice that inquiry should be made that would have cured ignorance)]; and

- The plaintiff relied on the public entity's conduct to his or her injury.

Estoppel usually requires some affirmative representation or act by the public entity inducing reliance by the claimant [see Tammen v. County of San Diego Tammen v. County of San Diego (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 468, 480, 58 Cal. Rptr. 249, 426 P.2d 753 ; see also John R. v. Oakland Unified Sch. Dist (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 438, 445, 256 Cal. Rptr. 766, 769 P.2d 948 (estoppel most common as result of misleading statements about need for or advisability of claim)]. The reliance must be reasonable [see Life v. County of Los Angeles (1991) 227 Cal. App. 3d 894, 902, 278 Cal. Rptr. 196 (attorney's reliance on advice of medical records clerk was not sufficiently reasonable to estop county from relying on noncompliance with claims statutes)]. Estoppel usually cannot be established if there are no such misrepresentations or promises [see Tubbs v. Southern Cal. Rapid Transit Dist. (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 671, 678-679, 63 Cal. Rptr. 377, 433 P.2d 169] . Furthermore, the doctrine of estoppel cannot be applied to one public entity based on the actions of another public entity if there is no agency relationship between the entities in the context of civil liability [Johnson v. San Diego Unified Sch. Dist. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 692, 700-701, 266 Cal. Rptr. 187] .

[3] Factors Considered by Court

Courts consider the following factors to determine whether or not the actions of a public entity are sufficiently culpable to warrant estoppel [Fredrichsen v. City of Lakewood (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 353, 358, 99 Cal. Rptr. 13, 491 P.2d 805] :

- Whether the inaccurate advice or information is negligently asserted;
- Whether or to what extent the public entity is certain of the information it dispenses;
- Whether the entity purports to advise and direct or merely to inform and respond to inquiries;
- Whether the entity acts in bad faith;
- Whether the claimant is one who purports to have no knowledge or training that would aid the claimant in determining his or her rights and the entity purports to be informed and knowledgeable; [see, e.g., Jordan v. City of Sacramento (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 1487, 1499, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 641 (estoppel inappropriate when claimant had already hired attorney, who was allegedly misled when public entity claimed it was not legally responsible for site of accident)]
- Whether the right of which the claimant is being deprived is significant; and
- Whether a confidential relationship exists between the claimant and the public entity.

A plaintiff may not assert estoppel as an excuse for the failure to present a late claim if the basis for the estoppel is predicated on facts that would constitute a ground for granting a petition for relief under Gov. Code § 946.6(c)(1)-(4) [see Kendrick v. City of La Mirada (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 325, 329-330, 77 Cal. Rptr. 444 ; for discussion of Gov. Code § 946.6(c)(1)-(4), see § 464.25[4]].

[4] Misleading Acts of Public Entity

Whether the actions of the public entity were misleading to the plaintiff is determined by the facts of the case. In one case, for example, the board of a public entity, in denying an application for leave to present a late claim, warned the plaintiff that he had six months to file an action on the rejected claim. The board misled the plaintiff into believing that the board had rejected his claim, rather than his application for leave to present a late claim. Accordingly, the public entity was estopped to rely on the plaintiff's failure to file a petition under Gov. Code § 946.6 for relief from the claim-filing requirements [McLaughlin v. Superior Court (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 35, 40, 105 Cal. Rptr. 384 ; for discussion of a petition under Gov. Code § 946.6, see § 464.25[3]]. Moreover, a public entity is required to identify itself as such, including identification as a public entity on all letterhead stationery. However, unless it misleads the plaintiff, the plaintiff has the burden of ascertaining its status as a public entity. A public entity has no duty to inform potential claimants of the necessity of filing a timely claim [Shank v. County of Los Angeles (1983) 139 Cal. App. 3d 152, 156-157, 188 Cal. Rptr. 644 ; see Gov. Code § 7530 (identification as public entity)].

A public entity is estopped to raise the statute of limitations if its conduct induces the plaintiff not to file the complaint on time by leading the plaintiff to believe that his or her complaint was being reconsidered and that if it was rejected, that a written rejection would be given [Potstada v. City of Oakland (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 1022, 1028, 1029, 106 Cal. Rptr. 705] , or by requesting that the plaintiff's attorney not file a complaint until a medical report is received, which report was not received until after the statute had run [Sumrall v. City of Cypress (1968) 258 Cal. App. 2d 565, 569-571, 65 Cal. Rptr. 755] . A plaintiff cannot establish estoppel, however, if his or her attorney filed the complaint late because of a mistake regarding the applicable statute of limitations rather than in reliance on action of the public entity [Isaacson v. City of Oakland (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 414, 419, 69 Cal. Rptr. 379] .

If an amended claim is timely filed that relates to the same transaction or occurrence that gave rise to the original claim, the six-month period for filing suit generally runs from the time that the first claim is rejected [Sofranek v. County of Merced (2007) 146 Cal. App. 4th 1238, 1248, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 426] . However, if a government entity sends notice upon rejection of an amended claim that the claimant has six months from rejection of the claim to file suit, the entity may be estopped from relying on rejection of the original claim for purposes of calculating the six-month period for filing suit [Sofranek v. County of Merced (2007) 146 Cal. App. 4th 1238, 1251-1252, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 426] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsEquitable EstoppelTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationContent & FormTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationTime LimitationsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsProcedural Requirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
2. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.48

§ 464.48 Effect of Insufficient Statement of Public Agency on Plaintiff's Right to Sue

If provision is made by or pursuant to law that no suit may be brought against a public agency unless and until a claim is presented to the agency, the failure topresent a claim does not constitute a bar or defense to the maintenance of a suit against that public agency if, during the 70 days immediately following the accrual of the cause of action, either of the following is true [Gov. Code § 946.4(a)]:

- No statement pertaining to the public agency is on file, or is placed on file, in the Roster of Public Agencies in the office of the Secretary of State and of the county clerk of each county in which the public agency then maintains an office, as required by Gov. Code § 53051; or

- A statement or amended statement pertaining to the public agency is on file, or is placed on file, in the Roster of Public Agencies in the office of the Secretary of State and of the county clerk of each county in which the public agency then maintains an office, but the information contained in it is so inaccurate or incomplete that the statement does not substantially conform to the requirements of Gov. Code § 53051.

On any question of fact arising within the scope of Gov. Code § 946.4(a), the burden of proof is on the public agency [Gov. Code § 946.4(b)]. In this context, the term "public agency" means a district, public authority, public agency, and any other political subdivision or public corporation in the state, but does not include the state, a county, city and county, or city [Gov. Code § 946.4(a); see Gov. Code § 53050; see also Lundeen Coatings Corp. v. Department of Water & Power (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 816, 830 n.8, 283 Cal. Rptr. 551 (city department is within definition of "city")].

A claimant who has actually presented a claim with the proper public agency may not raise the failure of that public agency to file the required statement to extend the statute of limitations [Tubbs v. Southern Cal. Rapid Transit Dist. (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 671, 676, 63 Cal. Rptr. 377, 433 P.2d 169] .

Unless otherwise specified, Gov. Code § 946.4 does not apply to claims that are required pursuant to a claims procedure established by agreement pursuant to Gov. Code § 930.2 [Gov. Code § 946.4(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsGovernmental EntitiesTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationContent & FormTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsJurisdictionTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsProcedural Requirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
2. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.49

§ 464.49 Collateral Source Payments

[1] Inadmissible in Action

Any collateral source payment paid or owed to or on behalf of a plaintiff is inadmissible in any action for personal injuries or wrongful death based on acts or omissions occurring after 1987, in which a public entity is a defendant [Gov. Code § 985(b); Stats. 1987, ch. 1208, § 11; see Gov. Code § 985(j) (jury instructions to disregard possible collateral sources)].

For discussion of post-trial hearings regarding collateral payments, see Ch. 467, Public Entities and Officers: Enforcement of Judgments Against Public Entities .

[2] Definitions

As used in Gov. Code § 985, "collateral source payment" includes either of the following [Gov. Code § 985(a)(1)]:

- The direct provision of services prior to the commencement of trial to the plaintiff for the same injury or death by prepaid health maintenance organizations providing services to their members or by nonfederal publicly funded health service providers; and

- Monetary payments paid or obligated to be paid for services or benefits that were provided prior to the commencement of trial to or on behalf of the plaintiff for the same injury or death from a provider of collateral source payments described in Gov. Code § 985(f)(1), (2).

"Plaintiff" includes, but is not limited to, a person or entity that is entitled to make a claim under Prob. Code § 6400 et seq. (intestate succession) for the collateral source benefits against the tortfeasor or alleged tortfeasor, and, in the case of a minor, the minor and the minor's parent, legal guardian, or guardian ad litem [Gov. Code § 985(a)(2)].

"Commencement of trial" occurs at the beginning of the opening statement or argument of any party or counsel or, if there is no opening statement, at the time of the administering of the oath or affirmation to the first witness or the introduction of any evidence [Gov. Code § 985(a)(3); see Code Civ. Proc. § 581(a)(6)].

[3] Discovery of Payment

A public entity may, by interrogatory or in writing at the trial-setting conference, request from the plaintiff a list of the names and addresses of any provider of a collateral source payment affected by Gov. Code § 985 that has provided collateral source payments directly to or on behalf of the plaintiff and the amount provided to the plaintiff from each collateral source [Gov. Code § 985(c)]. The plaintiff must produce the requested list within 30 days after the request. The plaintiff has a continuing duty to disclose to the public entity the name and address of any provider of a collateral source payment affected by Gov. Code § 985, but not disclosed in the plaintiff's response, if that provider pays or owes collateral source payments to or on behalf of the plaintiff between the time of the plaintiff's response and the commencement of trial [Gov. Code § 985(c)].

[4] Failure to Comply With Disclosure Requirements

If the plaintiff fails or refuses to supply to the public entity information regarding the identity of a provider of a collateral source payment, as required by Gov. Code § 985, the public entity may, on discovery of the identity of the provider of a collateral source payment, within five years after the date of entry of judgment, request a reduction of the judgment for payment made or for services provided by that source prior to the commencement of trial. Failure of the plaintiff to provide the names of collateral source providers affected by Gov. Code § 985 and known to the plaintiff subjects the plaintiff or his or her attorney to sanctions pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 (frivolous actions and delaying tactics) [Gov. Code § 985(d)].

Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5, referred to in Gov. Code § 985(d), specifically applies only to actions filed or proceedings initiated before 1995. A significantly different statute, Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7, governs sanctions for frivolous and delaying tactics in actions filed after 1994. Gov. Code § 985(d) was not amended to refer to Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7, nor does Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 specifically refer to Gov. Code § 985(d). Generally, Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 provides sanctions for filing a pleading, petition, written notice of motion, or other similar paper that does not meet certain requirements; it is not clear whether that section may be construed to also permit sanctions for failure to supply information.

For discussion of sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 128.5 and 128.7, see Ch. 510, Sanctions .

[5] Collateral Source Provider's Participation in Pretrial Conference

The public entity must provide written notice to each provider of a collateral source payment listed by the plaintiff or identified by the defendant of the date set for any pretrial settlement conference. The provider of a collateral source is not required to attend a settlement conference unless requested to do so by the court. The court may request a provider of a collateral source to attend a settlement conference or to provide written information, to be available by telephone, or otherwise to participate in the conference. A provider of a collateral source waives its rights to reimbursement unless it attends or otherwise complies with the request [Gov. Code § 985(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsDamagesCollateral Source RuleGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsProcedural Requirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
2. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 464.50-464.59

[Reserved]

§§ 464.50[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Grounds for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.60

§ 464.60 Governing Law

The law governing the general liability and immunity of public entities is set forth in Gov. Code §§ 815-818.8. The law governing the general liability and immunity of public employees is set forth in Gov. Code §§ 820-822.2.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationContent & FormTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationTime LimitationsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsConstruction & InterpretationTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsProcedural Requirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Grounds for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.61

§ 464.61 General Principles of Public Entity Liability

[1] Statutory Basis for Liability Required

Except as otherwise provided by statute, a public entity is not liable for an injury, whether that injury arises out of an act or omission of the public entity or a public employee or any person, and the liability of a public entity as set forth by statute is subject to any immunity of the public entity provided by statute and is subject to any defenses that would be available to the public entity if it were a private person [Gov. Code § 815]. This provision is applicable to all types of public entities because the term "public entity" as used in Gov. Code § 815 is defined as including the state, the Regents of the University of California, a county, city, district, public agency, and any other political subdivision or public corporation in California [Gov. Code § 811.2]. It is also applicable to all types of torts because the term "injury" is defined as death, injury to a person, damage to or loss of property, or any other injury that a person may suffer to his or her person, reputation, character, feelings, or estate, of such nature that it would be actionable if inflicted by a private person [Gov. Code § 810.8]. Injury to property includes loss of profits, good will, equipment, customers, and similar damages [O'Hagan v. Board of Zoning Adjustment (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 722, 727-728, 113 Cal. Rptr. 501] .

The immunity granted public entities is not, however, as all-encompassing as it first appears. The Legislative Committee Comment to Gov. Code § 815 clarified the effect of that section by pointing out that there are a few provisions in other codes providing for the liability of governmental entities and that the statutes imposing liability generally are cumulative in nature--that is, if liability cannot be established under the requirements of one section, liability will nevertheless exist if liability can be established under the provisions of another section [Gibson v. Pasadena (1978) 83 Cal. App. 3d 651, 655-656, 148 Cal. Rptr. 68] .

The term "statute" as used in Gov. Code § 815 is defined as an act adopted by the state legislature, Congress, or a statewide initiative [Gov. Code § 811.8]. Therefore, Gov. Code § 815 does not encompass local ordinances or charters. It does, however, encompass constitutions, so that a public entity can be liable if the state or federal constitution requires liability [Fenton v. Groveland Cmty. Servs. Dist (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 797, 803, 185 Cal. Rptr. 758 (damage action based on violation of self-executing right-to-vote provision of California Constitution)].

The effect of Gov. Code § 815 is that a plaintiff seeking to establish the liability of any public entity for any tort must establish that there is a statutory basis for that liability. Even if there is a statutory basis for liability, the liability is subject to statutory immunities and ordinary defenses [see Rodriguez v. Inglewood Unified Sch. Dist. (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 707, 716, 230 Cal. Rptr. 823] . The bases for liability set forth in the statutes are generally cumulative--if liability is not established under one section, it may be established under another section. However, if there is a statutory immunity, it will generally prevail over all statutory liabilities [Legislative Comm. Comment to Gov. Code § 815].

The statutory rules regarding public entity tort liability do not affect liability based on contract or the right to obtain relief other than money or damages against a public entity or public employee [Gov. Code § 814]. Similarly, the immunity provisions of the Tort Claims Act only apply if the action seeks damages for an injury that meets the statutory definition of an "injury" [City of Dinuba v. County of Tulare (2007) 41 Cal. 4th 859, 867, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 614, 161 P.3d 1168 ; see Gov. Code § 810.8]. However, if the remedy sought is something other than money or damages, the remedy cannot circumvent the underlying policies behind a particular tort immunity. For example, injunctive relief must be denied if granting such a remedy would require the public entity to spend money to correct a condition for which it has been granted tort immunity [Schooler v. State of California (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 1004, 1014, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 343 (injunction forcing state to correct erosion on bluff adjacent to plaintiff's property is improper because Tort Claims Act immunizes state from liability for damage caused by erosion)].

In addition, the tort liability rules cannot be construed to impliedly repeal any worker's compensation law [Gov. Code § 814.2; see Lab. Code § 3200 et seq. (worker's compensation laws)]. Similarly, liability in inverse condemnation, which is constitutional in basis, is not affected by these statutory rules [Legislative Comm. Comment to Gov. Code § 815].

There is one major exception to the rule that a public entity may only be liable as provided by statute. Public entities may, through the conduct of employees, be subject to the same liability for negligence as any private person or organization under common law principles of duty and breach. If a public entity, through its agents, voluntarily assumes a protective duty toward a certain member of the public and undertakes action on behalf of that member, thereby inducing reliance, it is held to the same standard of care as a private person or organization [Williams v. State of California (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 18, 24-25, 192 Cal. Rptr. 233, 664 P.2d 137] . This area of liability is discussed in § 464.61[6].

However, a public entity is not otherwise directly liable in the absence of a specific statute that provides that the entity may be liable [Munoz v. City of Union City (2004) 120 Cal. App. 4th 1077, 1111-1113, 16 Cal. Rptr. 3d 521] . Thus, for example, a public entity cannot be held liable under general tort principles for alleged negligence in hiring and supervising its employees, as there is no statutory basis for imposing such liability [de Villers v. County of San Diego (2007) 156 Cal. App. 4th 238, 252-253, 67 Cal. Rptr. 3d 253] . By contrast, the Fair Employment and Housing Act applies to public entity employers, making such employers susceptible to direct liability for discrimination prohibited by the Act [DeJung v. Superior Court (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 533, 545-547, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 99 ; see Gov. Code § 12926(d)].

[2] Liability for Acts of Employee

[a] General Rule of Respondeat Superior

A public entity is liable for injury proximately caused by an act or omission of an employee of the public entity within the scope of his or her employment if the act or omission would, apart from the statute, have given rise to a cause of action against that employee or his or her personal representative [Gov. Code § 815.2(a)]. An "employee" is defined as including an officer, judicial officer as defined in Elec. Code § 327, employee, or servant, whether or not compensated, but does not include an independent contractor [Gov. Code § 810.2].

Although the definition of employee may include an employee or servant who is not receiving compensation, unpaid volunteers of public agencies are excluded from the definition of "employee" for workers' compensation purposes. Because of this exclusion, a city was not liable under the doctrine of respondeat superior for the alleged tort of an unpaid volunteer [Munoz v. City of Palmdale (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 367, 368-369, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 229 (alleged tortfeasor was volunteer at city's senior center); see Lab. Code § 3352(i)].

[b] Effect of Employee Immunity

Except as otherwise provided by statute, a public entity is not liable for an injury resulting from an act or omission of an employee of the public entity if the employee is immune from liability [Gov. Code § 815.2(b); see, e.g., Chester v. State of California (1994) 21 Cal. App. 4th 1002, 1004-1008, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 575 (under Mil. & Vet. Code § 392, members of militia in active service of state not liable for any act or acts done by them in performance of their duty; therefore, immunity of Gov. Code § 815.2 and Mil. & Vet. Code § 392 barred liability in wrongful death action against state brought by family of county deputy sheriff killed in crash of helicopter flown by National Guard officer while engaged in drug interdiction operation in which National Guard provided air support to law enforcement officials)]. Nor is a public entity liable for negligent or intentional misrepresentations of its employees, because the absolute immunity of public entities under Gov. Code § 818.8 [see § 464.62[5]] prevails over the general statement of liability in Gov. Code § 815.2, precluding public entity liability for acts of an employee of the entity even if the employee may be personally liable under Gov. Code § 822.2 [Chu v. County of San Mateo (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 65, 68-69, 192 Cal. Rptr. 476 ; but see Michael J. v. Los Angeles County Dept. of Adoptions (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 859, 872-875, 247 Cal. Rptr. 504 (county adoption agency subject to liability for intentional misrepresentation or fraudulent concealment in adoption process)].

However, these rules apparently only shield the entity from vicarious liability for the employee's wrongful conduct. The California Supreme Court has suggested in dicta that even if the employee cannot be personally liable, the public entity may still be directly liable if statutory authority exists for imposing direct liability [see Caldwell v. Montoya (1995) 10 Cal. 4th 972, 989 n.9, 42 Cal. Rptr. 2d 842, 897 P.2d 1320] . It is also possible that school districts may be directly liable for negligence in hiring and supervising teachers [see Virginia G. v. ABC Unified Sch. Dist. (1993) 15 Cal. App. 4th 1848, 1854-1855, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 671 (if school district employees responsible for hiring and supervising teachers knew or should have known of teacher's prior sexual misconduct toward students, and that there was reasonably foreseeable risk of harm to students supervised by that teacher, that knowledge can be basis for legal duty); but see Van Ort v. Estate of Stanewich (9th Cir. 1996) 92 F.3d 831 (distinguishing Virginia G. and finding county and sheriff's department not liable for assault and attempted robbery committed by undercover officer outside scope of his employment)].

[c] "Scope of Employment" Defined

A public employee is acting in the course and scope of his or her employment if he or she is engaged in the work he or she was employed to perform or if the act in question is an incident to his or her duty and was performed for the benefit of his or her employer and not to serve his or her own purposes or conveniences. The phrase "scope of employment" has been equated with the express or implied power of the public employee to act in a particular instance, and in evaluating his or her conduct to determine whether it is within the ambit of his or her authority, the court must look not to the nature of the act itself, but to the purpose or result intended. If the object or end to be accomplished is within the employee's express or implied authority, his or her act is deemed to be within the scope of his or her employment, irrespective of its wrongful nature [Sanborn v. Chronicle Publishing Co. (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 406, 411, 134 Cal. Rptr. 402, 556 P.2d 764 ; Neal v. Gatlin (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 871, 875, 111 Cal. Rptr. 117] .

Based on this rule, a county clerk's act of explaining his release of county funds in an interview in a newspaper, which interview libeled the plaintiff, was within the scope of his employment because the act served a public purpose and was thus within the ambit of his employment [Sanborn v. Chronicle Publishing Co. (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 406, 412, 134 Cal.

Rptr. 402, 556 P.2d 764 . Similarly, an on-duty police officer who falsely imprisoned and assaulted a motorist he ordered to stop was acting within the scope of his employment [White v. County of Orange (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 566, 571-572, 212 Cal. Rptr. 493 ; but see Alma W. v. Oakland Unified Sch. Dist. (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 133, 139-140, 176 Cal. Rptr. 287 (school district not vicariously liable for janitor's rape of student because connection between janitor's duties and rape too attenuated to impose employer liability)]. Additionally, an on-duty police officer who raped a woman after detaining her for erratic driving was acting within the scope of his employment based on the fact that he was on duty, in uniform, and armed, and because he accomplished the detention by activating the red lights on his patrol car and overcame the victim's resistance by threatening to take her to jail [Mary M. v. City of Los Angeles (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 202, 213-221, 285 Cal. Rptr. 99, 814 P.2d 1341] .

Whether an individual was acting within the scope of employment may depend on whether that individual's acts flowed from the exercise of authority conferred on that individual by the employing public entity. Therefore, a police officer who falsely imprisoned and assaulted a motorist he ordered to stop was acting within the scope of his employment because his wrongful acts flowed from the exercise of authority conferred on him by the county that employed him [White v. County of Orange (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 566, 571-572, 212 Cal. Rptr. 493] . However, an employee may not always be acting within the scope of his or her employment even when acting pursuant to the official authority conferred on him or her by the public employer [see John R. v. Oakland Unified Sch. Dist. (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 438, 449-450, 256 Cal. Rptr. 766, 769 P.2d 948] . The determinative factor appears to be the degree and kind of authority [see John R. v. Oakland Unified Sch. Dist. (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 438, 449-450, 452, 256 Cal. Rptr. 766, 769 P.2d 948] .

For example, a teacher accused of sexually molesting one of his students while the student was at his apartment participating in an officially sanctioned, extracurricular program was not acting within the scope of his employment. The California Supreme Court acknowledged the extensive control teachers have been given over their students and their all-encompassing authority in the eyes of children, but distinguished that authority from the authority of a police officer [John R. v. Oakland UnifiedSch. Dist. (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 438, 448-450, 256 Cal. Rptr. 766, 769 P.2d 948] . The Court found that the authority of a police officer--bolstered most immediately by his or her uniform, badge, and firearm, and only slightly less so by the prospect of criminal sanction for disobedience--plainly surpassed that of a teacher over a student [see John R. v. Oakland Unified Sch. Dist. (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 438, 452, 256 Cal. Rptr. 766, 769 P.2d 948] .

In a subsequent case that actually involved the rape of a woman by an on-duty police officer, the California Supreme Court held that if on-duty police officers misuse the formidable power and authority given to them by the state to commit sexual assaults, the public employer must be held accountable for their actions. The Court concluded that it is neither startling nor unexpected that, on occasion, an officer will misuse that authority by engaging in assaultive conduct, including sexual assault. Nevertheless, the Court cautioned that its holding did not mean that as a matter of law, a public employer is vicariously liable in every case in which an on-duty officer commits a sexual assault. Instead, it is a question of fact for the jury [Mary M. v. City of Los Angeles (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 202, 217-221, 285 Cal. Rptr. 99, 814 P.2d 1341 ; cf. M.P. v. City of Sacramento (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 121, 130-133, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 812 (rejecting attempt to extend Mary M. holding to sexual assault committed by firefighters, noting that firefighters had no coercive authority over victim and did not purport to detain her in course of investigation or even while performing any official duties)].

In a later case, the court of appeal analyzed the policy factors set forth in Mary M. and concluded that an off-duty police officer who was socializing with other off-duty police officers and whose service gun discharged while he was moving it from his waistband, thereby wounding one of the other officers in front of that officer's home, was not acting in the scope of employment at the time of the injury. Drawing an analogy to decisions that construed the scope of employment in automobile accident cases, the court held that if weapons are used for law employment purposes, liability for resulting harm would probably extend to the employer. However, the mere presence of a weapon, without more, is not sufficient to impose employer liability for all of the employee's actions regarding the use of that weapon [Henriksen v. City of Rialto (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 1612, 1617-1622, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 308] .

For general discussion of an employer's liability for the torts of employees, see Ch. 248, Employer's Liability for Employee's Torts .

[d] Intentional Torts of Elected Officials

Notwithstanding any other provision in Gov. Code § 814 et seq., if a plaintiff seeks to hold a public entity liable for an act or omission of an elected official employed by or otherwise representing the public entity that constitutes an intentional tort as specified in Gov. Code § 815.3, the plaintiff must name the elected official and the public entity as codefendants in the same action. If the plaintiff does not do so, the public entity is not liable to the plaintiff [Gov. Code § 815.3(a)].

Acts or omissions that constitute intentional torts within the meaning of Gov. Code § 815.3 include, but are not limited to, harassment, sexual battery, and intentional infliction of emotional distress. For purposes of Gov. Code § 815.3, harassment in violation of state or federal law constitutes an intentional tort to the extent permitted by federal law. Gov. Code § 815.3 does not, however, apply to defamation [Gov. Code § 815.3(a)].

For discussion of special provisions regarding liability and indemnification of elected officials under Gov. Code § 815.3, see § 464.63[2][c][ii].

[e] Motor Vehicle Accidents

A public entity is liable for death or injury to person or property proximately caused by a negligent or wrongful act or omission in the operation of any motor vehicle by an employee of the public entity acting within the scope of his or her employment [Veh. Code § 17001; City of San Jose v. Superior Court (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 695, 698, 701, 212 Cal. Rptr. 661] . The term "employee" as used in Veh. Code § 17001 includes an officer, employee, or servant, whether or not compensated, but does not include an independent contractor [Veh. Code § 17000(a)]; the term "employment" includes office or employment [Veh. Code § 17000(b)]; and the term "public entity" includes the state, the Regents of the University of California, a county, city, district public authority, public agency, or any other political subdivision or public corporation in the state [Veh. Code § 17000(c)].

The specific provision for public entity liability in Veh. Code § 17001 overrides the general derivative immunity provided by Gov. Code § 815.2(b) [Brummett v. County of Sacramento (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 880, 883, 885, 148 Cal. Rptr. 361, 582 P.2d 952 ; City of Sacramento v. Superior Court (1982) 131 Cal. App. 3d 395, 400, 182 Cal. Rptr. 443] . For example, Veh. Code § 17004 immunizes a public employee operating an authorized emergency vehicle as specified in that section. Although that immunity would otherwise extend to the public entity employing that employee under Gov. Code § 815.2(b) [see § 464.61[b]], Veh. Code § 17001 provides a statutory exception to public entity immunity under Gov. Code § 815.2(b), and therefore the public entity that employs the driver of an emergency vehicle can be liable for the driver's negligence, even if the driver himself or herself is immune under Veh. Code § 17004 [Brummett v. County of Sacramento (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 880, 885, 148 Cal. Rptr. 361, 582 P.2d 952] .

Subject to Gov. Code §§ 825-825.6 with regard to indemnification of public employees, a public entity is liable for death or injury to person or property to the same extent as a private person under the provisions of Veh. Code §§ 17150-17159 [Veh. Code § 17002].

A public agency that adopts and promulgates a written policy on vehicular pursuits that meets specified criteria [see Veh. Code § 17004.7(c)], and provides regular and periodic training on vehicular pursuits on an annual basis, is immune from liability for civil damages for personal injury, death, or property damage resulting from the collision of a vehicle being operated by an actual or suspected violator of the law who is being, has been, or believes he or she is being or has been, pursued in a motor vehicle by a peace officer employed by the public agency [Veh. Code § 17004.7(b)(1)]. This immunity is discussed in more detail in § 464.102[3].

[3] Liability for Acts of Independent Contractors

A public entity is liable for injury proximately caused by a tortious act or omission of an independent contractor to the same extent that the public entity would be subject to such liability if it were a private person [Gov. Code § 815.4]. For example, a public entity is liable for the negligent failure of its independent contractor to construct or maintain public buildings in a reasonably safe condition [O'Gan v. King City Joint Union High Sch. Dist. (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 641, 646-647, 83 Cal. Rptr. 795] , but is not liable to an employee of an independent contractor for a dangerous defect in the equipment of the independent contractor, unless the entity has actual knowledge of the defect and the right to order the equipment removed from the job [Holman v. California (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 317, 328-335, 124 Cal. Rptr. 773] . In addition, a public entity is not liable for the torts of the independent contractor of a third party merely because the entity has issued a permit allowing the work to be done [Stanford v. City of Ontario (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 870, 878-879, 101 Cal. Rptr. 97, 495 P.2d 425] .

The public entity is not subject to liability for the act or omission of an independent contractor if the public entity would not have been liable for the injury had the act or omission been that of an employee of the public entity [Gov. Code § 815.4]. Therefore, the public entity has the benefit of the public employee immunities, which are discussed in § 464.64, with respect to acts or omissions of independent contractors.

[4] Liability for Failure to Discharge Mandatory Duty

If a public entity is under a mandatory duty imposed by an enactment that is designed to protect against the risk of a particular kind of injury, the public entity is liable for an injury of that kind proximately caused by its failure to discharge the duty, unless the public entity establishes that it exercised reasonable diligence to discharge the duty [Gov. Code § 815.6]. To serve as the basis for liability under Gov. Code § 815.6, the enactment must create an affirmative duty on the part of a government agency to perform some act; a mandatory duty does not exist if the enactment simply sets forth a prohibition or a right [Clausing v. San Francisco Unified Sch. Dist. (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 1224, 1239, 271 Cal. Rptr. 72 (no liability under Gov. Code § 815.6 based on Educ. Code §§ 49000 and 49001 prohibitions against corporal punishment, because they do not require school district to act affirmatively to prevent its occurrence)]. The enactment must do more than merely recite legislative goals and policies that must be implemented through a public agency's exercise of judgment [Wilson v. County of San Diego (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 974, 980, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 173 ; see, e.g., de Villers v. County of San Diego (2007) 156 Cal. App. 4th 238, 260-261, 67 Cal. Rptr. 3d 253 (regulatory language requiring lab to "guard against" theft of drugs with "effective controls and procedures" did not impose mandatory duty to take any particular steps)]. The statute or regulation must explicitly mandate that the government entity take the particular action the plaintiff alleges was not taken [Guzman v. County of Monterey (2009) 46 Cal. 4th 887, 894, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 183, 209 P.3d 89 (county did not have implied mandatory duty to ensure water system operator notified tenants of water contamination); see also Guzman v. County of Monterey (2009) 178 Cal. App. 4th 983, 992-993, 100 Cal. Rptr. 3d 793 (on remand, county had mandatory duty under 22 C.C.R. § 64256(e) to read water quality reports submitted by water system operators)].

Moreover, a mandatory duty to investigate does not necessarily impose a mandatory duty to take action [MacDonald v. State of California (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 319, 328-333, 281 Cal. Rptr. 317 (state's duty to license and inspect day care facilities under California Child Day Care Facilities Act (Health & Safety Code § 1596.70 et seq.) does not include duty to discover and prevent harmful conduct that might injure children served by those facilities)].

The term "enactment" as used in Gov. Code § 815.6 is defined as a constitutional provision, statute, charter provision, ordinance, or regulation [Gov. Code § 810.6]. The term "regulation" is defined in this context as a rule, regulation, order or standard, having the force of law and adopted by an employee or agency of the United States pursuant to the federal Administrative Procedure Act [Gov. Code § 811.6]. Therefore, Small Business Administration Operating Procedures not promulgated pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act do not qualify as regulations for the purposes of California's government liability statute [Concrete Tie of San Diego v. Liberty Constr. (9th Cir. 1997) 107 F.3d 1368, 1371 , overruled in part, United States v. Olson, 546 U.S. 43]. Similarly, an employee manual that relates to the internal management of an agency is not an administrative regulation within the meaning of Gov. Code § 815.6 and cannot impose a mandatory duty for these purposes [Wilson v. County of San Diego (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 974, 982, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 173] .

Gov. Code § 815.6 provides a three-prong test for determining whether liability may be imposed on a public entity. Liability will be imposed only if: (1) the enactment imposes a mandatory, and not discretionary, duty; (2) the enactment is designed to guard against the type of injury suffered by the plaintiff; and (3) the breach of the mandatory duty proximately caused the injury [Braman v. State of California (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 344, 349, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 608 ; Gray v. State of California (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 151, 154-155, 254 Cal. Rptr. 581 . For example, a public entity was liable for failure to discharge its mandatory duty to require all persons to whom building permits are issued to have worker's compensation insurance in a case in which the plaintiff was injured while working for a person to whom a building permit was issued, but who did not maintain such insurance [Morris v. County of Marin (1977) 18 Cal. 3d 901, 905-911, 136 Cal. Rptr. 251, 559 P.2d 606] . On the other hand, a public entity was not liable for failure to perform its mandatory duty to issue a final decision as to the plaintiff's right to welfare within a certain time because the duty was not clearly designed to protect against the injury suffered by the plaintiff, which was the failure to receive benefits [Williams v. State of California (1976) 62 Cal. App. 3d 960, 966-971, 133 Cal. Rptr. 539] .

If an enactment creates a mandatory governmental duty that is violated, and if the three-pronged test described above is satisfied, liability under Gov. Code § 815.6 does not require that the enactment itself manifest an intent to create a private right of action. Gov. Code § 815.6, rather than the underlying enactment, creates the private right of action [Haggis v. City of Los Angeles (2000) 22 Cal. 4th 490, 499-500 & n.2, Haggis v. City of Los Angeles (2000) 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 327, 993 P.2d 983 (disapproving analysis used in Zolin v. Superior Court (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 1157, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 871 , and State of California v. Superior Court (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 954, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 527)].

The fact that a statute contains "shall" language is not necessarily controlling on the issue of whether it creates a mandatory duty within the meaning of Gov. Code § 815.6. Even though the language of the enactment appears mandatory, if significant discretion is required to carry out the duty imposed, that duty is not mandatory for purposes of Gov. Code § 815.6, and a breach will not support liability in tort [Sutherland v. City of Fort Bragg (2000) 86 Cal. App. 4th 13, 20, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 736] .

For example, although Health & Safety Code § 17980, governing the abatement of private nuisances by a public entity, contains some "shall" language, it does not create a mandatory duty within the meaning of Gov. Code § 815.6 [Fox v. County of Fresno (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 1238, 1242-1244, 216 Cal. Rptr. 879 ; but see Braman v. State of California (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 344, 351, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 608 (use of term "shall" in Penal Code § 12076(c) means that Department of Justice has mandatory duty to investigate prospective handgun purchasers as described in that section)]. Similarly, despite some mandatory statutory language in the Hereditary Disorders Act [see Health & Safety Code § 124975 et seq.], which governs the development of testing and reporting standards for mass neonatal screening by the director of the state Department of Health Services, the allegedly negligent exercise of discretion in selecting the appropriate testing and reporting standards does not constitute violation of a mandatory duty under Gov. Code § 815.6 [Creason v. Department of Health Servs. (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 623, 631-635, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 489, 957 P.2d 1323] .

The mandatory duty liability prevails over the licensing immunity [see § 464.62[3]] and the immunity for failure to enforce laws [see § 464.62[2]], because those immunities only protect the public entity from discretionary licensing decisions or law enforcement decisions [Morris v. County of Marin (1977) 18 Cal. 3d 901, 905-911, 136 Cal. Rptr. 251, 559 P.2d 606 ; Corona v. State of California (2009) 178 Cal. App. 4th 723, 733, 100 Cal. Rptr. 3d 591 (licensing immunity did not protect State for failing to exercise mandatory duty to deny boxing license for failure to submit negative HIV blood test)]. Because employee immunity is not set forth as a defense in Gov. Code § 815.6, the immunity of the employee is not a defense to liability, and the entity is liable even though the employee might be immune [Bradford v. State of California (1973) 36 Cal. App. 3d 16, 19-20, 111 Cal. Rptr. 852 ; see Sullivan v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 710, 716, 117 Cal. Rptr. 241, 527 P.2d 865 ; Roe v. State of California (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 64, 75, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 900] .

[5] Liability for Nuisance

A public entity is liable for maintaining a nuisance based on Civ. Code § 3479, which provides the necessary statutory basis for liability [see Nestle v. City of Santa Monica (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 920, 931-938, 101 Cal. Rptr. 568, 496 P.2d 480 (airport noise); Vedder v. Imperial County (1974) 36 Cal. App. 3d 654, 661, 111 Cal. Rptr. 728 (maintaining fire hazard)].

However, if recognition of a nuisance cause of action would conflict with the terms or purposes of other specific provisions of the Tort Claims Act, the nuisance claim is precluded. In one case, for example, the court of appeal held that because the purpose of Gov. Code § 831.25 is to relieve the state from liability for injuries on adjacent property caused by the natural conditions of its unimproved land, a landowner whose property was adjacent to a state-owned bluff could not pursue a cause of action for nuisance against the state for damage to the lateral support of the landowner's own property caused by erosion to the bluff [Schooler v. State of California (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 1004, 1012-1013, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 343] .

[6] Liability for Voluntarily Undertaken Protective Duty

If a public entity, through its agents, voluntarily assumes a protective duty toward a certain member of the public and undertakes action on behalf of that member, thereby inducing reliance, the public entity is held to the same standard of care as a private person or organization. Justifiable reliance giving rise to the duty of care may be based either on a promise, express or implied, to provide a service, or on the conduct of the public employee in a situation of dependency [Williams v. State of California (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 18, 24-25, 192 Cal. Rptr. 233, 664 P.2d 137] . Under these principles, a public entity may be liable for an omission or failure to act after inducing reliance in the plaintiff [see Bock v. County of Los Angeles (1983) 150 Cal. App. 3d 65, 72, 197 Cal. Rptr. 470 ; cf. Arroyo v. State of California (1995) 34 Cal. App. 4th 755, 760, 762-764, 40 Cal. Rptr. 2d 627 (even though brochures, verbal information, and signs warned visitors of "various dangers" in largely unimproved state park, state had not assumed a duty to warn of all dangers presented by natural conditions, including mountain lions, on unimproved property)].

Also known as the "Good Samaritan" rule, this theory of liability generally may not be used to extend liability to a public entity on the basis of the past gratuitous "Good Samaritan" acts of one of its employees. For example, a county was not liable for the failure of its sheriff's department to notify a city regarding streetlight outages, even though a few deputies had so notified the city in the past. The court of appeal provided the following three grounds for its refusal to find the county sheriff department liable as a "Good Samaritan" [City of Santee v. County of San Diego (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 1006, 1012, 1018-1019, 259 Cal. Rptr. 757] :

- A "Good Samaritan" who has performed a series of voluntary acts in the past is not thereafter required indefinitely to continue performing such acts into the future;

- Any duty imposed on the "Good Samaritan" is limited to the individuals who originally performed the voluntary act (the voluntary act of one deputy could not draft the entire sheriff's department into an army of "Good Samaritans"); and

- There are significant policy reasons for declining to impose such a continuing duty on law enforcement officers, in that public entities would be placed in the position of discouraging the officers from providing assistance in discretionary situations to avoid the creation of a mandatory duty to offer such assistance in the future.

Furthermore, a duty imposed by the "Good Samaritan" doctrine does not extend indefinitely into the future. This limitation applies even if promises of future action have been implied, so long as there have been no express promises of open-ended duration [Weissich v. County of Marin (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1069, 274 Cal. Rptr. 34 (police not required to warn threatened district attorney of criminal activities of convicted arsonist, who issued threats over course of 10 years after release from prison)].

A public entity may also be liable for an affirmative act that places a person in peril or contributes to, increases, or changes the risk of harm that would otherwise exist [see McCorkle v. City of Los Angeles (1969) 70 Cal. 2d 252, 261, 74 Cal. Rptr. 389, 449 P.2d 453] .

A "special relationship" between a public employee and a specific private citizen may give rise to liability of both a public employee and his or her employer. This type of relationship exists, however, only if the injured person demonstrates that the public officer or employee assumed a duty toward him or her greater than the duty owed to members of the public generally [Walker v. County of Los Angeles (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1393, 1398, 238 Cal. Rptr. 146 ; see also Lopez v. Southern Cal. Rapid Transit Dist. (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 780, 785-790, 221 Cal. Rptr. 840, 710 P.2d 907 (special relationship between a common carrier and its passengers created by Civ. Code § 2100 applies to public as well as private carriers)]. California courts have found special relationships in cases in which public employees [Walker v. County of Los Angeles (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1393, 1399, 238 Cal. Rptr. 146] :

- Create a foreseeable peril not readily discoverable by endangered persons;

- Make a promise, express or implied, that they will undertake a special duty toward the plaintiff; and

- Cause an injured person to rely on them to his or her detriment in a situation in which the person is dependent on the employees.

By asking a citizen to perform a public function that is for the benefit of the general public and that involves a foreseeable risk of injury, a public employee creates a "special relationship" with the citizen to whom he or she owes a duty of due care, and both the employee, and through him or her the public entity, are liable to the private citizen for injuries caused by the employee's negligence [Carpenter v. City of Los Angeles (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 923, 931-934, 281 Cal. Rptr. 500 (special relationship between police and plaintiff existed because police asked plaintiff to testify in robbery prosecution, assured him that defendant in that case posed no danger to him, and then failed to warn him or provide him with protection after they received reliable information that his life was in danger); Walker v. County of Los Angeles (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1393, 1395, 1397, 1402-1405, 238 Cal. Rptr. 146 (plaintiff's thumb was bitten off by stray dog that he was attempting to capture at request of county's animal control officer, who failed to give him proper equipment and support and otherwise to exercise due care)].

Establishment of a special relationship and duty to act prudently does not create an exception to any statutory immunity provided to public entities and employees. The question of the applicability of a statutory immunity does not even arise, however, until it is determined that a defendant otherwise owes a duty of care and thus would be liable in the absence of such immunity [Lopez v. Southern Cal. Rapid Transit Dist. (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 780, 785, 221 Cal. Rptr. 840, 710 P.2d 907 ; Williams v. State of California (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 18, 24, 192 Cal. Rptr. 233, 664 P.2d 137 ; see Rodriguez v. Inglewood Unified Sch. Dist. (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 707, 723, 230 Cal. Rptr. 823 (school district owed duty to students by virtue of special relationship); Whitcombe v. County of Yolo (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 698, 704, 141 Cal. Rptr. 189] .

[7] Failure to Investigate Harm Already Incurred

In Williams v. State of California, the California Supreme Court refused to extend liability to situations involving a public employee's failure to investigate the cause and source of an accident after simply stopping to assist the victim [see Williams v. State of California (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 18, 24, 27-28, 192 Cal. Rptr. 233, 664 P.2d 137] . The Court disapproved an earlier court of appeal case [Clemente v. State of California (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 374, 161 Cal. Rptr. 799 ("Clemente i")], to the extent that this case imposed liability for such an omission. However, the Williams court did imply that liability might be imposed if the public entity voluntarily assumes responsibility to protect a person's prospects for recovery by civil litigation and thereby causes that person not to undertake an independent investigation [see Williams v. State of California (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 18, 24, 27-28, 192 Cal. Rptr. 233, 664 P.2d 137] .

Subsequent to the decision in Williams, the Clemente case reached the Supreme Court [Clemente v. State of California (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 202, 219 Cal. Rptr. 445, 707 P.2d 818 ("Clemente II")]. In that case, the Supreme Court affirmed a judgment for the plaintiff, and reconciled its holding with the holding of the Williams case by characterizing the Williams holding as recognizing that the conduct of a patrol officer in a situation of dependency resulting in detrimental reliance may give rise to a duty of care and that there may be a duty to refrain from conduct that prevents others from giving assistance [Clemente v. State of California (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 202, 212-213, 219 Cal. Rptr. 445, 707 P.2d 818] .

[8] Liability of Specific Entities

[a] Liability of School Districts for Inadequate Supervision of Students

A school district is liable for injuries caused by inadequate supervision of students on school grounds [Dailey v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 741, 747-751, 87 Cal. Rptr. 376, 470 P.2d 360 ; Biggers v. Sacramento City Unified Sch. Dist. (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 269, 273-275, 101 Cal. Rptr. 706] . However, the liability of school districts for injuries to students occurring off-campus is limited by statute [see Educ. Code §§ 35330, 44808, 87706]. For full discussion of the liability of public school districts for injuries to students, see Ch. 514, Schools: Injuries to Students .

[b] Liability of Department of Motor Vehicles

The Department of Motor Vehicles is liable for any injury to a lienholder or good faith purchaser of a vehicle proximately caused by the department's negligent omission of the lienholder's name from an ownership certificate issued by the department [Gov. Code § 818.5]. The liability of the department under this provision cannot exceed the actual cash value of the vehicle [Gov. Code § 818.5]. In enacting this provision, the legislature did not intend to establish any precedent for creating state liability in any other situation or circumstance [see Stats. 1985, ch. 437, § 1].

However, the Department of Motor Vehicles was not liable to a party injured by a 96-year-old licensed driver because the department had determined that the driver was able to drive a motor vehicle safely on a highway. Vehicle Code § 12805, which provides that the department must not issue or renew a driver's license to any person if that person is unable to operate a motor vehicle safely on a highway, did not impose a mandatory duty on the department that it failed to discharge. Not only was there no determination that the applicant was unable to operate a motor vehicle safely, but a license examiner specifically made the determination that he was able to operate a motor vehicle safely. Because there was no disputed material fact that the department had determined that he was able to drive safely, and because the department in its discretion issued him a license, the decision was cloaked in immunity [Waschek v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 640, 647, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 296] .

[c] Liability of State Compensation Insurance Fund

Under Ins. Code § 11873, the liabilities and immunities of the California Tort Claims Act do not apply to the State Compensation Insurance Fund [see Maxon Indus. v. State Comp. Ins. Fund (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 1387, 1390-1391, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 730 (statutory immunities under tort claims act do not apply to fund); Courtesy Ambulance Service v.

Superior Court (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 1504, 1514, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 161 (statutory immunity from awards of punitive damages under tort claims act does not apply to fund)].

[9] Liability Under Public Entity Agreements

[a] Nature of Agreements

Public entities may enter into a joint powers agreement to create a new public entity [see Gov. Code § 6500 et seq.] or an agreement to transfer functions of one public entity or employee to another public entity [see Gov. Code § 51300 et seq.]. Public entities may enter into other agreements under which a public entity undertakes to perform any function, service, or act with or for any other public entity (or an employee of that public entity) with its consent, whether the agreement is expressed by resolution, contract, ordinance, or in any other manner provided by law [Gov. Code § 895].

The phrase "any other manner provided by law" refers only to law regarding the manner in which a public entity may express its agreement and generally requires some positive act by that public entity, such as a city charter provision, an ordinance, or a state statute. Common law principles of joint enterprise liability are not sufficient "law" to bind a public entity to an agreement to which that entity did not expressly agree [see Authority for Cal. Cities Excess Liab. v. City of Los Altos (2006) 136 Cal. App. 4th 1207, 1214-1215, 39 Cal. Rptr. 3d 571 (agreement reached by city police chief was not agreement binding on city because no law authorized police chief to reach agreements on behalf of city)].

The term "agreement" does not include an agreement between public entities that is designed to implement the disbursement or subvention of public funds from one of the public entities to the other, whether or not it provides standards or controls governing the expenditure of those funds [Gov. Code § 895].

[b] Joint and Several Liability

Whenever public entities enter into an agreement, as defined in § 464.61[9][b], they are jointly and severally liable to a party injured by any negligent or wrongful act or omission occurring in the performance of the agreement for which any one of the entities, or an entity created by the agreement, is otherwise liable [see Gov. Code § 895.2].

As part of any agreement, the public entities may provide for contribution or indemnification by any or all of the public entities that are parties to the agreement on any liability arising out of the performance of the agreement [Gov. Code § 895.4]. If an agreement is silent in this respect, a public entity that pays more than its pro rata share of liability, determined by dividing the total amount of the judgment by the number of public entities that are parties to the agreement, is entitled to contribution from other parties to the agreement [see Gov. Code § 895.6].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsConstruction & InterpretationTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsScope of EmploymentTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityVicarious Liability

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Grounds for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.62

§ 464.62 General Immunities of Public Entities

[1] Immunity From Punitive Damages

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, a public entity is not liable for punitive damages awarded under Civ. Code § 3294 or other damages imposed primarily for the sake of example and by way of punishing the defendant [Gov. Code § 818]. However, punitive damages may be awarded against individual public employees [Runyon v. Superior Court (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 878, 881-882, 232 Cal. Rptr. 101] . The authority of the governing body of a public entity, other than the State of California, to pay the punitive damages portion of a judgment against a public employee is discussed in § 464.63[2][b].

Statutory damages for spilling oil or discharging raw sewage are not solely punitive and, therefore, a public entity can be held liable for those damages [People ex rel. Younger v. Superior Court (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 30, 42, 127 Cal. Rptr. 122, 544 P.2d 1322 ; San Francisco Civil Serv. Ass'n v. Superior Court (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 46, 48-50, 127 Cal. Rptr. 131, 544 P.2d 1331] . Civil penalties assessed for noncompliance with regulations governing patient care in long-term health care facilities are not punitive damages, and a public entity may be liable for those penalties [Kizer v. County of San Mateo (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 139, 145-150, 279 Cal. Rptr. 318, 806 P.2d 1353] . Similarly, the civil penalty provided by Civ. Code § 52(b)(2) for victims of hate crimes may be imposed against a public entity, because this civil penalty is designed to provide an economic incentive for victims to bring suit and is not primarily punitive in nature [Los Angeles County Metro. Transp. Auth. v. Superior Court (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 261, 270-271, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 92] .

[2] Immunity for Legislative Action or Failure to Enforce Law

A public entity is not liable for an injury caused by adopting or failing to adopt an enactment or by failing to enforce any law [Gov. Code § 818.2]. The term "enactment" as used in Gov. Code § 818.2 is defined as a constitutional provision, statute, charter provision, or regulation [Gov. Code § 810.6]. This immunity precludes an award of damages in a mandate proceeding to overturn adoption of a zoning ordinance [HFH, Ltd. v. Superior Court (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 508, 518-520, 125 Cal. Rptr. 365, 542 P.2d 237] .

The immunity for failure to enforce a law does not protect a public entity from liability if the public entity has a mandatory duty to enforce the law. For example, a public entity was liable for failure to enforce a law requiring all persons who are issued building permits to have worker's compensation insurance, because the duty to enforce the law was mandatory [Morris v. County of Marin (1977) 18 Cal. 3d 901, 916-917, 136 Cal. Rptr. 251, 559 P.2d 606] . Also, a complaint based on a county's failure to enforce and comply with certain regulations regarding placement of dependent children in foster homes, which resulted in injuries to a minor, was not barred by the immunity provided in Gov. Code § 818.2 [Elton v. County of Orange (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 1053, 1059, 84 Cal. Rptr. 27] . That immunity also did not protect an agency that failed to enforce the law by not suspending a license for failure to maintain insurance, because the suspension requirement was mandatory with the agency [Elson v. Public Utilities Commission (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 577, 589, 124 Cal. Rptr. 305]. The immunity appears to apply to a public entity that fails to enforce laws against third persons, if enforcement is discretionary, but not to apply if the public entity itself fails to obey a mandatory requirement of the law [see Morris v. County of Marin (1977) 18 Cal. 3d 901, 916-917, 136 Cal. Rptr. 251, 559 P.2d 606] .

[3] Immunity for Licensing Activities

A public entity is not liable for an injury caused by the issuance, denial, suspension, or revocation of, or by the failure or refusal to issue, deny, suspend or revoke, any permit, license, certificate, approval, order, or similar authorization, if the public entity or an employee of the public entity is authorized by enactment to determine whether or not such authorization should be issued, denied, suspended, or revoked [Gov. Code § 818.4; see also Waschek v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 640, 647, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 296 (DMV not liable to party injured by 96-year-old licensed driver because DMV had used its discretion and determined driver was able to drive safely)]. However, if the entity's issuance of a permit created a dangerous condition on its own property as defined in Gov. Code § 830(c), the legislature did not intend that the permit immunity of Gov. Code § 818.4 defeat government liability under Gov. Code § 835 for injury caused by the dangerous condition [Hill v. People (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d, 426, 431 , 154 Cal. Rptr. 142] . If the denial of a license or permit is challenged by an application for a writ of mandate, the licensing immunity precludes the award of damages in the mandate proceeding, even if the writ is granted [State v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 245-247, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281] .

The licensing immunity does not prevail over the liability of a public entity for failure to perform a mandatory duty, because the licensing immunity only applies if the public entity is authorized to exercise discretion [see Corona v. State of California (2009) 178 Cal. App. 4th 723, 733, 100 Cal. Rptr. 3d 591 (licensing immunity did not protect State for failing to exercise mandatory duty to deny boxing license for failure to submit negative HIV blood test); Cancun Homeowners Assn. v. City of San Juan Capistrano (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1352, 1356-1361 . 264 Cal. Rptr. 288 (immunity applied because city building inspector had discretion to decide whether to issue permit)]. For example, a public entity was liable for its issuance of a building permit without fulfilling its mandatory duty to require the applicant to establish that it had worker's compensation insurance, in a case in which the plaintiff was injured while working for a permittee who had no worker's compensation insurance [Morris v. County of Marin (1977) 18 Cal. 3d 901, 911-916, 136 Cal. Rptr. 251, 559 P.2d 606] . Likewise, the Public Utilities Commission was liable for failure to perform its mandatory duty to suspend the license of a common carrier that did not maintain its liability insurance in a case in which the plaintiff was injured by the carrier, but could not recover for his injuries because the carrier had no assets [Elson v. Public Utils. Comm'n (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 577, 587-589, 124 Cal. Rptr. 305] .

Although the decision whether or not to issue a building permit is the sort of discretionary decision normally covered by the immunities of Gov. Code §§ 818.4 and 821.2, a building official had no further discretion, under a city ordinance adopting Section 307 of the Uniform Building Code, to withhold a certificate of occupancy once the official had approved an owner's building by a "Final Inspection Okay." Therefore, even though a building official may be immune for a discretionary act in determining whether or not to issue a certificate of occupancy--for example, determining whether a building complies with the permit conditions and applicable code and other requirements--the immunities of Gov. Code §§ 818.4 and 821.2 did not bar liability under a complaint that alleged failure to discharge a mandatory ministerial duty to issue a certificate of occupancy after the final inspection approval had been issued [Thompson v. City of Lake Elsinore (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 49, 55-58, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 344] .

[4] Immunity Based on Inspections

A public entity is not liable for injury caused by its failure to make an inspection, or by its making an inadequate or negligent inspection of any property, other than its own property, for the purpose of determining whether the property complies with or violates any enactment or contains or constitutes a hazard to health or safety [Gov. Code § 818.6; see Gov. Code § 830(c) (definition of agency's property); see also Harshbarger v. City of Colton (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 1335, 1344-1348, 243 Cal. Rptr. 463 ; Cochran v. Herzog Engraving Co. (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 405, 205 Cal. Rptr. 1] .

In addition, the immunity provided by Gov. Code § 818.6 has been applied to protect a city from liability for failing, after performing an inspection, to take the additional step of recording with the county recorder information about substandard conditions discovered by the inspection, despite the fact that a local ordinance required recording the information [Haggis v. City of Los Angeles (2000) 22 Cal. 4th 490, 503-504, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 327, 993 P.2d 983 .

[5] Immunity for Misrepresentation

A public entity is not liable for an injury caused by misrepresentation by an employee of the public entity, whether the misrepresentation is negligent or intentional [Gov. Code § 818.8; see Tallmadge v. County of Los Angeles (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 251, 253-254, 236 Cal. Rptr. 338 (misrepresentation of deputy district attorney to owners of confiscated firearms that firearms would be returned without need for plaintiffs to institute legal action; instead, firearms were subsequently destroyed by county without notice to owners)]. The immunity also applies to the concealment or suppression of fact [see Chevlin v. Los Angeles Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 382, 390, 260 Cal. Rptr. 628] .

The Supreme Court has interpreted the term "misrepresentation" to mean interferences in the nature of the common law action for deceit with financial or commercial interests and not any conduct that literally could be called a misrepresentation, such as a misleading turn signal by a driver or the failure of state authorities to disclose the criminal and violent tendencies of a juvenile parolee being placed in a foster home [Johnson v. State of California (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 782, 799-800, 73 Cal. Rptr. 240, 447 P.2d 352 ; see Los Angeles Equestrian Ctr., Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 432, 449, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 313] . The Court has stated that the immunity from liability for misrepresentations does not apply to misrepresentations involving a risk of physical harm [Garcia v. Superior Court (1990) 50 Cal. 3d 728, 738 n.8, 268 Cal. Rptr. 779, 789 P.2d 960 (case remanded to permit plaintiff leave to amend complaint to state cause of action for negligent misrepresentation involving risk of physical harm based on parole officer's misrepresentations regarding dangerousness of parolee); see also Weissich v. County of Marin (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1069, 1081, 274 Cal. Rptr. 342 (complaint did not allege facts sufficient to state cause of action under Garcia; court did not discuss immunity of Gov. Code §§ 818.8, 822.2)]. For example, government entities are not immune for injuries due to the intentional concealment of health and safety information [Adkins v. State of California (1996) 50 Cal. App. 4th 1802, 1811, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 59] .

The court of appeal has held that the immunity did not apply to a negligent misrepresentation about the maximum height a river would rise because the loss did not result from a commercial transaction with the state or from the state's interference with the plaintiff's commercial activities [Connelly v. State of California (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 744, 752, 84 Cal. Rptr. 257 but see Tokeshi v. State of California (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 999, 1007-1008, 266 Cal. Rptr. 255 (criticizing Connelly to extent it focused on negligence underlying misrepresentation, rather than on commercial nature of damages)]. It is clear that immunity is provided for a negligent misrepresentation that the public entity would waive the terms of a construction contract requiring approval before changes were made [Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Gov. Code § 818.8; Johnson v. Stateof California (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 782, 800, 73 Cal. Rptr. 240, 447 P.2d 352] .

However, the immunity does not bar an action in contract based on a misrepresentation [Gov. Code § 814; Warner Constr. Corp. v. City of Los Angeles (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 285, 293-294, 85 Cal. Rptr. 444, 466 P.2d 996] . Furthermore, the immunity does not bar an action for intentional misrepresentation or fraudulent concealment in the adoption process, because such a proceeding is not a commercial transaction [Michael J. v. Los Angeles County Dept. of Adoptions (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 859, 872, 875, 247 Cal. Rptr. 504 .

The absolute immunity provided by Gov. Code § 818.8 prevails over the general statement of Gov. Code § 815.2 establishing vicarious liability for a public employee's acts and precludes a public entity from being vicariously liable for an employee's fraudulent concealment, even if the employee may be liable under Gov. Code § 822.2 for actual fraud [see Harshbarger v. City of Colton (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 1335, 1340-1341, 243 Cal. Rptr. 463 ; but see Michael J. v. Los Angeles County Dept. of Adoptions (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 859, 872, 875, 247 Cal. Rptr. 504 (county adoption agency subject to liability for intentional misrepresentation or fraudulent concealment in adoption process; adoption is not commercial transaction)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityAbsolute ImmunityTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityQualified ImmunityTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Grounds for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.63

§ 464.63 General Principles of Liability for Public Employees

[1] General Rule of Liability

Except as otherwise provided by statute, a public employee is liable for injury caused by his or her act or omission to the same extent as a private person. This liability of a public employee is subject to any defenses that would be available to the public employee if he or she were a private person [Gov. Code § 820]. A public employee includes an officer, judicial officer as defined in Elec. Code § 327, employee or servant, whether or not compensated, but does not include an independent contractor [Gov. Code § 810.2]. Therefore, a public employee is responsible for his or her torts in the same manner as a private citizen with the very important exception that a public employee is immune from liability for certain acts [see § 464.64]. If no immunity is available, the public employee may be liable for punitive as well as compensatory damages [Runyon v. Superior Court (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 878, 881-882, 232 Cal. Rptr. 101] .

[2] Defense and Indemnification of Public Employees

[a] Public Entity's Duty to Defend and Indemnify

Under most circumstances, public entities are required to provide a defense for public employees in any action brought against the public employees for an act or omission in the scope of their employment [see Gov. Code § 995; but see City of Huntington Beach v. Petersen Law Firm (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 562, 567-568, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 568 (if public entity is also sued, public entity offering joint representation not required to provide employee with separate counsel even if potential conflict of interest exists)]. Under most circumstances, if the public entity defends the employee, it must also pay any judgment against the employee [see Gov. Code § 825(a)]. However, certain exceptions to these general rules are discussed in § 464.63[2][b], [c].

[b] Payment of Punitive Damages

[i] Discretion to Pay

Notwithstanding Gov. Code § 825(a) or any other provision of law, a public entity, other than the state as defined in Gov. Code § 900.6, is authorized to pay that part of a judgment that is for punitive or exemplary damages, if the governing body of the public entity, acting in its sole discretion, finds all of the following [Gov. Code § 825(b)]:

- The judgment is based on an act or omission of an employee or former employee acting within the course and scope of his or her employment as an employee of the public entity;

- At the time of the act giving rise to the liability, the employee or former employee acted, or failed to act, in good faith, without actual malice, and in the apparent best interests of the public entity; and

- Payment of the claim or judgment would be in the best interests of the public entity.

[ii] Restrictions on Evidence at Trial

The discovery of, or the introduction of evidence of, the assets of a public entity is not permitted in an action in which it is alleged that a public employee is liable for punitive or exemplary damages. Additionally, the possibility that a public entity may pay the punitive damages portion of a judgment must not be disclosed at trial if it is alleged that a public employee is liable for punitive or exemplary damages. Disclosure of this possibility is grounds for a mistrial [Gov. Code § 825(b)].

[iii] Effect of Public Entity's Immunity From Punitive Damages

Nothing in Gov. Code § 825(b) affects Gov. Code § 818, prohibiting the award of punitive damages against a public entity. Furthermore, Gov. Code § 825(b) cannot be construed as a waiver of a public entity's immunity from liability for punitive damages under 42 U.S.C.S. §§ 1981, 1983, or 1985 [Gov. Code § 825(e); see § 464.62[1]].

[c] Elected Officials

[i] Tortious Intervention in Judicial Proceeding

Except as discussed below, a public entity is precluded from paying a judgment, compromise, or settlement that arises from a claim or action against an elected official, if the claim or action is based on conduct by the elected public official that consists of tortiously intervening or attempting to intervene in, or of tortiously influencing or attempting to influence the outcome of, any judicial action or proceeding for a particular party's benefit by contacting the trial judge or any commissioner, court-appointed arbitrator, court-appointed mediator, or court-appointed special referee assigned to the matter, or the court clerk, bailiff, or marshal after an action has been filed, unless the elected official was counsel of record acting lawfully within the scope of his or her employment on that party's behalf [Gov. Code § 825(f)(1)]. Notwithstanding Gov. Code § 825.6 (generally governing public entity's payment of claims or judgments against employees), if a public entity conducts the defense of an elected official against a claim or action involving alleged tortious interference with or attempt to influence a judicial proceeding, the court must order the elected official to pay to the public entity the cost of the defense if the trier of fact finds the elected official liable [Gov. Code § 825(f)(1)].

If an elected official is held liable for monetary damages in an action alleging tortious intervention in or interference with a judicial action, as described above, the plaintiff must first seek recovery of the judgment against the elected official's assets [Gov. Code § 825(f)(2)]. If the elected official's assets are insufficient to satisfy the total judgment, as determined by the court, the public entity may pay the deficiency if the public entity is authorized by law to pay that judgment [Gov. Code § 825(f)(2)]. To the extent that the public entity pays any portion of the judgment or is entitled under Gov. Code § 825(f)(1) to reimbursement of defense costs, the public entity must pursue all available creditor remedies against the elected official, including garnishment, until the elected official has fully reimbursed the public entity [Gov. Code § 825(f)(3)].

The provisions of Gov. Code § 825(f) do not apply to any criminal or civil enforcement action brought by an elected district attorney, city attorney, or attorney general in the name of the people of the State of California [Gov. Code § 825(f)(4)].

[ii] Intentional Torts Not Directly Related to Official Duties

Gov. Code § 815.3 limits a public entity's liability for intentional torts committed by an elected public official and requires the official to indemnify the public entity for judgments and claims paid and to reimburse the entity for defense costs in specified circumstances. For purposes of Gov. Code § 815.3, an intentional tort includes, but is not limited to, harassment, sexual battery, and intentional infliction of emotional distress. Harassment in violation of state or federal law constitutes an intentional tort to the extent permitted by federal law. Gov. Code § 815.3 does not, however, apply to defamation [Gov. Code § 815.3(a)].

If an elected official employed by, or otherwise representing, a public entity is liable for an intentional tort other than defamation, the trier of fact must determine if the act or omission constituting the intentional tort arose from and was directly related to the elected official's performance of his or her official duties. If the trier of fact determines that the act or omission arose from and was directly related to the elected official's performance of his or her official duties, the public entity is liable for the judgment as provided by law [Gov. Code § 815.3(b)]. For the purposes of this provision, employee managerial functions are deemed to arise from, and to directly relate to, the elected official's official duties. Acts or omissions constituting sexual harassment, however, are not deemed to arise from, or to directly relate to, the elected official's official duties [Gov. Code § 815.3(b)].

If the trier of fact determines that the elected official's act or omission did not arise from and was not directly related to the elected official's performance of his or her official duties, on a final judgment, including any appeal, the plaintiff is required to first seek recovery of the judgment against the elected official's assets [Gov. Code § 815.3(c)]. If the court determines that the elected official's assets are insufficient to satisfy the total judgment, including plaintiff's costs as provided by law, the court must determine the amount of the deficiency, and the plaintiff may seek to collect that remainder of the judgment from the public entity. The public entity may pay that deficiency if it is otherwise authorized by law to pay that judgment [Gov. Code § 815.3(c)].

To the extent that the public entity pays any portion of the judgment against the elected official pursuant to Gov. Code § 815.3(c), or has expended defense costs in an action in which the trier of fact determines that the elected official's action did not arise from and did not directly relate to the elected official's performance of official duties, the public entity must pursue all available creditor's remedies against the elected official in indemnification, including garnishment, until the elected official has fully reimbursed the public entity [Gov. Code § 815.3(d)].

If the public entity appeals the judgment in an action brought pursuant to Gov. Code § 815.3, the entity must continue to provide a defense until the case is finally adjudicated, as provided by law [Gov. Code § 815.3(e)].

The legislature's intent in enacting Gov. Code § 815.3 was to have elected officials assume full fiscal responsibility for conduct that constitutes an intentional tort not directly related to their official duties, for which the public entity they represent may also be liable, while maintaining fair compensation for those persons injured by such conduct [Gov. Code § 815.3(f)]. Gov. Code § 815.3 does not apply to a criminal or civil enforcement action brought by an elected district attorney, city attorney, or Attorney General, on behalf of the state [Gov. Code § 815.3(g)].

For discussion of the requirement that both the elected official and the public entity be named as codefendants in the same action for the public entity to be liable to the plaintiff under Gov. Code § 815.3(a), see § 464.61[2][d].

[iii] Elected Official Convicted of Certain Felonies

If an elected official or former elected official of a public entity is convicted of a felony for violation of Gov. Code § 1195 or for violation of Penal Code §§ 68, 93, 165, 504, or 518 (criminal offenses involving bribery, embezzlement, or extortion by specified public officials) for an act or omission of that official while in office, the official forfeits any right to defense or indemnification under Gov. Code § 825 with respect to a claim for damages for an injury arising from that act or omission [Gov. Code § 825.6(b)(1)].

If a public entity pays all or any portion of a claim or judgment, either against itself or against an elected official or former elected official of the public entity, for an injury arising out of an act or omission of the official that constituted a felony violation of Gov. Code § 1195 or of Penal Code §§ 68, 93, 165, 504, or 518, the public entity must recover from the elected official or former elected official the amount of that payment on the official's felony conviction for that act or omission. The public entity must also recover from the convicted official the costs of any defense to a civil action filed against the elected official for that act or omission [Gov. Code § 825.6(b)(2)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsDamagesPunitive DamagesAvailabilityGovernmental EntitiesTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Grounds for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.64

§ 464.64 General Immunities of Public Employees

[1] Immunity for Discretionary Acts

[a] Policy Behind Immunity

Except as otherwise provided by statute, a public employee is not liable for an injury resulting from his or her act or omission, if the act or omission was the result of the exercise of the discretion vested in the public employee, whether or not such discretion was abused [Gov. Code § 820.2].

The personal immunity granted by Gov. Code § 820.2 generally applies to protect against common law causes of action, as well as against statutory causes of action that are based on prohibitory state statutes of general application [Caldwell v. Montoya (1995) 10 Cal. 4th 972, 984, 989, 42 Cal. Rptr. 2d 842, 897 P.2d 1320 (discretionary immunity applied to claims under FEHA)]. However, immunity is not provided under Section 820.2 in actions brought under a state statute for which the legislature has clearly indicated an intent that immunity be withdrawn under the circumstances present in the case [cf. Caldwell v. Montoya (1995) 10 Cal. 4th 972, 989, 42 Cal. Rptr. 2d 842, 897 P.2d 1320 (no legislative intent found to withdraw discretionary immunity protection from actions brought under FEHA for allegedly wrongful personnel decisions)].

The scope of this immunity, which makes the public entity immune if the employee is immune [see Gov. Code § 815.2(b)], was delineated by the Supreme Court in Johnson v. State of California [Johnson v. State of California (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 782, 73 Cal. Rptr. 240, 447 P.2d 352] . Johnson involved an action against the state by a woman who was assaulted by a juvenile placed in her foster home by the California Youth Authority. She alleged that the state official responsible for the placement knew that the juvenile had homicidal tendencies, but negligently failed to warn her of those tendencies prior to the placement. The principal issue in the case was whether the discretionary immunity applied to the state official's failure to warn.

The Supreme Court began its analysis by rejecting a semantic inquiry into the meaning of the term discretionary as a basis for its decision. The Court pointed out that almost any act involves some element of discretion and stated that the immunity must be analyzed in terms of policy considerations relevant to the claim of immunity [Johnson v. State of California (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 782, 787-790, 73 Cal. Rptr. 240, 447 P.2d 352] .

In analyzing these policy considerations, the Court rejected the traditional policy basis for the immunity: that public officials would be insufficiently zealous in their duties if they were in fear of personal liability for their discretionary acts. The Court pointed out that in California, public officials are provided with a defense in actions brought against them arising out of an action in the scope of their employment [see Gov. Code § 825(a)], that judgments against them are usually paid by the public entity [see Gov. Code § 825(a)], and that there is only a very limited right of indemnification by the public entity against the public employee for judgments against the entity based on the employee's acts or omissions [see Gov. Code §§ 815.3, 825.4, 825.6]. Therefore, public officials in California were not deterred from zealous performance of their duties by fear of personal liability [Johnson v. State of California (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 782, 790-793, 73 Cal. Rptr. 240, 447 P.2d 352] .

The Court concluded that the basic policy behind the discretionary immunity is judicial abstention in areas in which the responsibility for basic policy decisions has been committed to the legislative or executive branches of government. Based on this policy, the Court described the distinction between discretionary and ministerial acts as the distinction between planning and operational levels of decision-making [Johnson v. State of California (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 782, 793-794, 73 Cal. Rptr. 240, 447 P.2d 352 ; see also Caldwell v. Montoya (1995) 10 Cal. 4th 972, 981, 42 Cal. Rptr. 2d 842, 897 P.2d 1320] .

The Court then applied this analysis to the facts at issue. It held that the decision of the California Youth Authority to parole the juvenile was discretionary because it was a basic policy decision, but that subsequent ministerial actions in the implementation of that decision, such as the decision not to warn the foster parent of the youth's dangerous tendencies, presented no policy reasons for immunity from liability. Therefore, the discretionary immunity did not apply to the ministerial implementation of the basic decision, and the public entity and officials could be liable if the public officials had acted negligently [Johnson v. State of California (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 782, 795-798, 73 Cal. Rptr. 240, 447 P.2d 352 ; cf. Thompson v. County of Alameda (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 741, 747, 167 Cal. Rptr. 70, 614 P.2d 728 (county's decision to release juvenile, who was allegedly danger to community and eventually murdered plaintiffs' son, was immune from tort liability under Gov. Code § 820.2); Jacqueline T. v. Alameda County Child Protective Services (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 456, 468, 66 Cal. Rptr. 3d 157 (decisions made during investigation of child abuse allegations, including decision that charges were unsubstantiated, were protected under Gov. Code §§ 2009; 820.2)].

[b] Requirement That Discretion Be Exercised

Gov. Code § 820.2 only provides immunity if the act or omission was the result of an actual exercise of discretion. Therefore, even if the decision is discretionary, the defendant must establish that a policy decision, consciously balancing the risks and advantages, took place. If it did not, the immunity is not available because discretion was not exercised [Johnson v. State of California (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 782, 794-795, 73 Cal. Rptr. 240, 447 P.2d 352] .

In an opinion subsequent to Johnson, the Supreme Court clarified that consciously balancing the risks and advantages of a basic policy decision does not require a "strictly careful, thorough, formal, or correct evaluation." Instead, the test is met if the public officials involved make an "actual, conscious, and considered ... policy decision," purposefully employing the standards deemed relevant by the officials [Caldwell v. Montoya (1995) 10 Cal. 4th 972, 976, 983-984, 42 Cal. Rptr. 2d 842, 897 P.2d 1320 (despite allegations that individual school board members used impermissible criteria such as age and race in voting against rehiring of superintendent, collective board decision not to rehire was discretionary decision for which personal immunity for board members was proper), disapproving Mouchette v. Board of Educ. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 303, 312-313, 266 Cal. Rptr. 1 (school board member who had no specific knowledge of employee's duties, and who had not studied impact of eliminating employee's position on school district, had not rendered decision based on balancing of risks and advantages)].

For a form of affirmative defense asserting this immunity, see § 464.196.

[c] Discretionary Acts

Based on the analysis in Johnson v. State of California [Johnson v. State of California (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 782, 793-794, 73 Cal. Rptr. 240, 447 P.2d 352] , the following were all discretionary acts entitled to immunity: a police decision to pursue a vehicle that resulted in a collision with plaintiff's vehicle [Bratt v. City & County of San Francisco (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 550, 553-554, 123 Cal. Rptr. 774] ; the failure of the highway patrol to undertake a search for the victim of an accident [McCarthy v. Frost (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 872, 875-876, 109 Cal. Rptr. 470] ; and the decision to award a contract to a party other than the lowest bidder [Swinerton & Walberg Co. v. City of Inglewood-L.A. County Civic Ctr. Auth. (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 98, 101-103, 114 Cal. Rptr. 834] .

The selection by juvenile authorities of custodians for potentially dangerous minors and the determination of the requisite level of governmental supervision of those custodians was also an entirely discretionary decision. The determination involved a careful consideration and balancing of such factors as the protection of the public, the physical and psychological needs of the minor, the relative suitability of the home environment, the availability of other resources, such as halfway houses and community centers, and the need to reintegrate the minor into the community. The decision thus required comparisons, choices, judgments, and evaluations, the very essence of the exercise of discretion [Thompson v. County of Alameda (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 741, 748-749, 167 Cal. Rptr. 70, 614 P.2d 728] .

Similarly, a county social worker's decision to place a child in a particular foster home, after consideration of the factors requiring consideration by statute, was a discretionary decision immune from liability under Gov. Code § 820.2 [Becerra v. County of Santa Cruz (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1450, 1464, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 165] . The court that reached this conclusion distinguished an earlier court of appeal opinion, Elton v. County of Orange, which had arguably reached a different result [see Elton v. County of Orange (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 1053, 84 Cal. Rptr. 27 (decision by county probation department to place dependent child in particular home is not basic policy decision protected by discretionary immunity)]. However, unlike Becerra, Elton was decided at the demurrer stage, when facts supporting the discretionary decision were not before the court. Moreover, Elton was decided in 1970, years before the adoption of current statutes requiring that social workers engage in a discretionary analysis of the needs and interests of a dependent child prior to placement, statutes that had not been violated in Becerra v. County of Santa Cruz [Becerra v. County of Santa Cruz (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1450, 1460, 1464, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 165 ; see, e.g., Welf. & Inst. Code § 16501.1]. The court in Becerra also held that the decision whether to intervene and discontinue a child's placement, no less than the initial placement decision, is a discretionary decision [Becerra v. County of Santa Cruz (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1450, 1460, 1466, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 165 ; see also Alicia T. v. County of Los Angeles (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 869, 882-883, 271 Cal. Rptr. 513 , superseded by statute on other grounds as stated in Clarke v. Upton, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 38206 (social worker's investigation of child abuse is discretionary function)].

The decision by a department head as to whether to initiate disciplinary proceedings against a subordinate employee, and what discipline to impose, is a discretionary act entitled to immunity. Such a decision is entirely within that department head's discretion and involves an exercise of analysis and judgment concerning what is just and proper under the circumstances [Kemmerer v. County of Fresno (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 1426, 1437-1439, 246 Cal. Rptr. 609] . The related decision to terminate the employment of a subordinate employee is also a discretionary act [Summers v. City of Cathedral City (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 1047, 1064-1065, 275 Cal. Rptr. 594] .

[d] Ministerial Acts

Based on the analysis in Johnson v. State of California [Johnson v. State of California (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 782, 793-794, 73 Cal. Rptr. 240, 447 P.2d 352] , all of the following were ministerial acts not giving rise to immunity: a therapists' failure to warn a person that the therapist's patient had threatened to kill the person [Tarasoff v. Regents of Univ. of Cal., 17 Cal. 3d 425, 444-447, 131 Cal. Rptr. 14, 551 P.2d 334 ; a social worker's application of standards for eligibility for welfare that were radically different than the standards mandated by statute and regulation [Ramos v. County of Madera (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 685, 692-694, 94 Cal. Rptr. 421, 484 P.2d 93] ; a policeman's leading the plaintiff to a place in the street to investigate an accident where the plaintiff was struck by another car [McCorkle v. City of Los Angeles (1969) 70 Cal. 2d 252, 260-262, 74 Cal. Rptr. 389, 449 P.2d 453] ; and a bus driver's failure of to stop a fight on a government-run bus [Lopez v. Southern Cal. Rapid Transit Dist. (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 780, 790, 221 Cal. Rptr. 840, 710 P.2d 907] .

Action by public officials pursuant to a statute that uses the word "may" may be ministerial in nature. If the type of discretion permitted by the statute is necessary to implement a broader policy, the decision is ministerial rather than discretionary, and the immunity will not apply [Sandrini Bros. v. Voss (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 1398, 1407-1408, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 763 (seizure of crops under Food & Agric. Code § 12648)].

[e] Conduct Both Discretionary and Ministerial

As indicated in Johnson v. State of California [Johnson v. State of California (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 782, 793-794, 73 Cal. Rptr. 240, 447 P.2d 352] , the basic decision may be discretionary, but its implementation may be ministerial. For instance, the decision to issue a press release was discretionary, but its contents, timing, and manner of release were ministerial, subjecting the public entity and official to liability if the ministerial acts were tortious [Toney v. State of California (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 779, 789-793, 126 Cal. Rptr. 869 ; Ogborn v. City of Lancaster (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 448, 461, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 238 (declaration of property as nuisance was discretionary, but actions implementing nuisance abatement on property were ministerial)]. Similarly, the decision to issue flood forecasts was discretionary, but the allegedly negligent implementation of that decision was ministerial and not immune [Connelly v. State of California (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 744, 749-751, 84 Cal. Rptr. 257] .

The California Supreme Court has held that a deputy public defender is not immune from liability for acts or omissions made in the course of providing legal representation to a criminal defendant. Once the decision to provide legal services to a defendant is made, which may itself be a policy decision entitled to immunity, acts or omissions made in the course of the representation, which are subject to the same standard of due care as arethose made by a private attorney, are operational decisions that are incident to the normal functioning of the office of the public defender, and they are not the type of discretionary policy decisions that are immunized from liability [Barner v. Leeds (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 676, 679-680, 689-690, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 97, 13 P.3d 704] .

[2] Immunity for Execution and Enforcement of Laws

A public employee is not liable for his or her act or omission, exercising due care, in the execution or enforcement of any law. This immunity does not, however, exonerate a public employee from liability for false arrest or false imprisonment [Gov. Code § 820.4]. Therefore, a sheriff is liable for false imprisonment if he or she knew or should have known that a person's incarceration is unlawful because all charges against that person have been dismissed [Sullivan v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 710, 719, 117 Cal. Rptr. 241, 527 P.2d 865] .

[3] Immunity for Acting Under Unconstitutional Enactment

If a public employee acts in good faith, without malice, and under the apparent authority of an enactment that is unconstitutional, invalid, or inapplicable, he or she is not liable for an injury caused thereby, except to the extent that he or she would have been liable if the enactment had been constitutional, valid, and applicable [Gov. Code § 820.6; see, e.g., O'Toole v. Superior Court (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 488, 504-509, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 531 (police officers immune from liability for enforcing college's requirement that nonstudents get permit before distributing anti-abortion information on campus)]. This immunity applies even though the employee may have been negligent in his or her good faith belief that the enactment was constitutional [Legislative Comm. Comment to Gov. Code § 820.6].

[4] Immunity for Acts or Omissions of Others

Except as otherwise provided by statute, a public employee is not liable for an injury caused by the act or omission of another person. Nothing in this immunity exonerates a public employee from liability for injury proximately caused by his or her own negligent or wrongful act or omission [Gov. Code § 820.8]. There can therefore be no vicarious liability of public employees for the torts of their subordinates [Calif. L. Rev. Comm'n Comment to Gov. Code § 820.8]. However, a public employee may still be liable for his or her own negligent failure to discharge an employee who is known to be incompetent or otherwise unfit [see Fernelius v. Pierce (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 226, 239-241, 138 P.2d 12] . For a form of affirmative defense asserting this immunity, see § 464.197.

[5] Immunity for Members of Local Governing Bodies

Members of city councils, mayors, members of boards of supervisors or school boards, members of governing boards of other local public entities, members of locally appointed boards and commissions, and members of locally appointed or elected advisory boards are not vicariously liable for injuries caused by the acts or omissions of the public entity or advisory body. This immunity does not exonerate an official from liability for injuries caused by that individual's own wrongful conduct. Nor does it affect the immunity of any other public official [Gov. Code § 820.9]. For a form of affirmative defense asserting this immunity, see § 464.199.

[6] Immunity for Legislative Action or Failure to Enforce Enactment

A public employee is not liable for an injury caused by his or her adoption of or failure to adopt an enactment or by his or her failure to enforce an enactment [Gov. Code § 821]. The term "enactment" is defined as a constitutional provision, statute, charter provision, ordinance, or regulation [Gov. Code § 810.6]. This immunity is intended to apply to law enforcement officers [Michenfelder v. City of Torrance (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 202, 206, 104 Cal. Rptr. 501] .

This immunity is similar to the immunity of public entities for legislative action and failure to enforce an enactment, which is discussed in § 464.62[2].

[7] Immunity for Malicious Prosecution

[a] When Applicable

A public employee is not liable for injury caused by his or her instituting or prosecuting any judicial or administrative proceeding within the scope of his or her employment, even if he or she acts maliciously or without probable cause [Gov. Code § 821.6]. Gov. Code § 822.2, which immunizes public entities and public employees from liability for misrepresentations unless the employees are guilty of actual fraud, corruption, or malice does not create an exception to a public employee's Gov. Code § 821.6 immunity from liability for malicious prosecution [Tur v. City of Los Angeles (1996) 51 Cal. App. 4th 897, 902-903, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 470 (public employee firefighters immune under Gov. Code § 821.6 for subjecting reporter to criminal proceedings)].

Gov. Code § 821.6 is not limited to suits for damages for malicious prosecution, even though that is its principal use [Gillan v. City of San Marino (2007) 147 Cal. App. 4th 1033, 1048-1050, 55 Cal. Rptr. 3d 158 (defamation and intentional infliction of emotional distress); Kemmerer v. County of Fresno (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 1426, 1436, 246 Cal. Rptr. 609 (intentional infliction of emotional distress); see also County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (2009) 181 Cal. App. 4th 218, 231, 104 Cal. Rptr. 3d 230 (immunity applied to civil rights cause of action asserted under Civ. Code § 52.1); Javor v. Taggart (2002) 98 Cal. App. 4th 795, 808-810, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 174 (slander and clouding of title, intentional infliction of emotional distress, and negligence)]. This immunity protects a police officer from negligent conduct in arresting a person [Johnson v. City of Pacifica (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 82, 84-88, 84 Cal. Rptr. 246] , protects a district attorney's office for conduct in investigating criminal charges, including alleged misconduct in obtaining or executing a search warrant or damaging property seized in that execution [County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (2009) 181 Cal. App. 4th 218, 230, 104 Cal. Rptr. 3d 230] , and protects a coroner from liability based on allegations that a negligent autopsy caused the plaintiff's prosecution [Stearns v. County of Los Angeles (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 134, 136-138, 79 Cal. Rptr. 757] .

Persons appointed as deputy district attorneys are protected by prosecutorial immunity under Gov. Code § 821.6, even if there is a ministerial defect in the appointment process, so long as the deputy district attorney acts under color of authority and is performing the proper function of a deputy district attorney at the time [Miller v. Filter (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 652, 666-669, 58 Cal. Rptr. 3d 671 (deputy district attorneys protected by Gov. Code § 821.6 despite district attorney's failure to file written appointments for deputies with county clerk)]. Prosecutorial immunity protects an appointed deputy district attorney even though the deputy receives no salary from the public entity [Miller v. Filter (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 652, 669-670, 58 Cal. Rptr. 3d 671] . The immunity applies to a deputy attorney general assigned to assist a county grand jury in its investigation of alleged misconduct in the county sheriff's office [Harmston v. Kirk (1989) 216 Cal. App. 3d 1410, 1413-1414, 265 Cal. Rptr. 548] , and it protects prosecutors and police officers from claims that they negligently suppressed exculpatory evidence [Randle v. City & County of San Francisco (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 449, 456, 230 Cal. Rptr. 901] . It also protects a social worker who investigated reported child abuse from charges of negligence in the investigation based on an alleged failure to consider all of the evidence and misrepresentation of information to the juvenile court, even though, as a result of the investigation, the child had been temporarily removed from his mother's custody [Jenkins v. County of Orange (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 278, 283-284, 260 Cal. Rptr. 645 , distinguished, Clarke v. Upton, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 38206 ; see Jacqueline T. v. Alameda County Child Protective Services (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 456, 468, 66 Cal. Rptr. 3d 157 ; Alicia T. v. County of Los Angeles (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 869, 883, 271 Cal. Rptr. 513 , distinguished, Clarke v. Upton, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 38206 ; but see Scott v. County of Los Angeles (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 125, 143-144, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 643 (distinguishing Jenkins and Alicia T.; county social worker is not immune under Gov. Code § 821.6 from liability for negligent supervision of foster care of children who are subject of dependency proceedings)].

In addition, the prosecution immunity barred a physician's claim against the Board of Medical Quality Assurance and its officers for publication of disciplinary action taken against the physician. The court stated that the publication was part of the statutory scheme of enforcement [Kayfetz v. State of California (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 491, 496-499, 203 Cal. Rptr. 33] . Similarly, the immunity protects a director of county social services who initiated formal disciplinary proceedings against an employee, based on the assistant director's investigation and recommendation of dismissal, even though the discipline was later reduced to the placement of a letter of reprimand in the employee's personnel file [Kemmerer v. County of Fresno (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 1426, 1436-1437, 246 Cal. Rptr. 609] . Furthermore, the immunity protects state employers from an action by a discharged employee claiming wrongful termination in violation of public policy [Ross v. San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit Dist. (2007) 146 Cal. App. 4th 1507, 1514-1516, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 715 ; Shoemaker v. Myers (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 1407, 1425, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 203]. Finally, this immunity protected state bar personnel from allegations of negligence and negligent and intentional infliction of emotional distress in connection with the disbarment of an attorney [Rosenthal v. Vogt (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 69, 75, 280 Cal. Rptr. 1] .

[b] When Not Applicable

The immunity for malicious prosecution is based on prosecution types of activity. It does not extend to activity that constitutes false imprisonment. Therefore, the immunity did not protect a sheriff from liability for falseimprisonment for keeping a prisoner in jail after the sheriff knew or should have known that the prisoner should be discharged. Retaining a person in jail when no criminal proceedings are pending against that person is not instituting a proceeding against that person, and is thus not an action that is immune [Sullivan v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 710, 719-722, 117 Cal. Rptr. 241, 527 P.2d 865] .

False imprisonment or false arrest is detention without legal authority, whereas malicious prosecution involves proper use of legal process, but with improper motives. Therefore, if the arrest is based on a valid warrant, no cause of action can be stated for false arrest or imprisonment, and the cause of action for malicious prosecution is subject to the immunity of Gov. Code § 821.6 [Collins v. City & County of San Francisco (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 671, 123 Cal. Rptr. 525] . However, an arrest made without probable cause is not protected by the immunity of Gov. Code § 821.6 [Gillan v. City of San Marino (2007) 147 Cal. App. 4th 1033, 1050, 55 Cal. Rptr. 3d 158] .

If a person is arrested without a warrant and is later prosecuted (and eventually exonerated), he or she can only recover damages for false imprisonment from the time of the warrantless arrest until the commencement of legal proceedings, because the malicious prosecution immunity applies thereafter [Jackson v. City of San Diego (1981) 121 Cal. App. 3d 579, 583-589, 175 Cal. Rptr. 395] . The immunity from liability for injury caused by malicious prosecution, provided to public employees by Gov. Code § 821.6, precludes a plaintiff in a false arrest action from recovering damages that are attributable to the period of the plaintiff's incarceration that follows his or her arraignments [Asgari v. City of Los Angeles (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 744, 748, 758 n.10, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 842, 937 P.2d 273 (disapproving Jackson to extent it holds that recovery of damages for post-arraignment confinement is permitted)]. However, this rule does not prevent a plaintiff from seeking damages for injuries suffered after the arraignment that were caused by false arrest and imprisonment that preceded the arraignment [County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 212, 222-224, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 668] .

Malicious prosecution and false arrest, although distinct causes of action, are not necessarily mutually exclusive. A cause of action for false arrest or false imprisonment may lie in a case in which the same facts also support a cause of action for malicious prosecution. Under the facts of a given case, the distinction between malicious prosecution and false arrest--and, with it, the existence of statutory immunity--may depend on whether or not the defendant charged with maliciously instituting the prosecution also made the arrest [Harden v. San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit Dist. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 7, 16-17, 263 Cal. Rptr. 549 (public employee who did not directly participate in actual arrest, detention, or imprisonment, but knowingly gave false and materially incomplete information of character that could be expected to stimulate arrest, may be joint tortfeasor in action for false arrest)].

The malicious prosecution immunity does not, however, protect the public entity from liability for failure to discharge a mandatory duty; that basis for liability is not subject to the immunities of the public employee [Bradford v. State of California (1973) 36 Cal. App. 3d 16, 19-21, 111 Cal. Rptr. 852] . Nor does the immunity apply to acts that violate the whistle-blower statute, which applies if any state employee directly or indirectly uses or threatens to use any official authority or influence in any manner whatsoever that tends to discourage, restrain, interfere with, coerce, or discriminate against any other state employee because the latter has reported information relating to an actual or suspected violation of law [Shoemaker v. Myers (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 1407, 1423-1425, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 203 ; see Gov. Code § 19683 (whistle-blower statute, discussed in Ch. 118, Civil Service)]. The whistle-blower statute and prosecution immunity overlap if public employees are accused of using official authority to discourage, restrain, interfere with, coerce, or discriminate against another public employee by means of a judicial or administrative proceeding [Shoemaker v. Myers (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 1407, 1423, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 203] . If the two statutes conflict, the whistle-blower statute prevails; otherwise, the Section 821.6 immunity will protect conduct, taken to discourage whistle-blowing, that is more egregious than other conduct that would be unprotected by the immunity [see Shoemaker v. Myers (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 1407, 1423, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 203] .

A county social worker's function in supervising the foster care of children who are the subject of juvenile dependency proceedings was separate and distinct from the social worker's prosecutorial function in initiating such proceedings. Therefore, although a social worker may be entitled to immunity under Gov. Code § 821.6 for his or her conduct in the initiation and prosecution of dependency proceedings, he or she is not immune under that section from liability for negligent supervision of the foster care of children who are the subject of those proceedings [Scott v. County of Los Angeles (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 125, 143-144, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 643] .

[c] Causal Connection Required

The test of the prosecution immunity is causal connection, not time of occurrence. So long as an injury is caused by behavior involved in the initiation or prosecution of a proceeding, it is within the scope of the immunity. Even conduct occurring after termination of the prosecution is included within the immunity. Therefore, the immunity applied in an action for libel and slander brought by fish purchasers against a state official who, after trial, announced that the fish purchasers had been found guilty of underweighing fish by amounts far greater than the actual violations [Cappuccio, Inc. v. Harmon (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 1496, 1498, 257 Cal. Rptr. 4] .

Moreover, the term "administrative proceeding" is broadly construed. In an employee disciplinary action, it encompassed the investigation, preliminary notice, and proceedings before the Civil Service Commission [Kemmerer v. County of Fresno (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 1426, 1436-1437, 246 Cal. Rptr. 609] .

[8] Immunity for Licensing

A public employee is not liable for an injury caused by his or her issuance, denial, suspension, or revocation of, or by his or her failure or refusal to issue, deny, suspend, or revoke, any permit, license, certificate, approval order, or similar authorization, if he or she is authorized by enactment to determine whether or not such authorization should be issued, denied, suspended, or revoked [Gov. Code § 821.2; see, e.g., Rosenthal v. Vogt (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 69, 75, 280 Cal. Rptr. 1 (disbarment proceedings); Land Waste Mgmt. v. Contra Costa County Bd. of Supervisors (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 950, 962-963, 271 Cal. Rptr. 909 (failure to approve sanitary landfill project); see also Thompson v. City of Lake Elsinore (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 49, 55-58, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 344 (under city ordinance adopting Uniform Building Code § 307, building official who gave "Final Inspection Okay" had no discretion to withhold certificate of occupancy, and thus Gov. Code § 821.2 was no bar to liability under complaint that alleged breach of mandatory ministerial duty to issue certificate of occupancy)].

This immunity is similar to the licensing immunity for public entities, which is discussed in § 464.62[3].

[9] Immunity for Inspections

A public employee is not liable for injury caused by his or her failure to make an inspection, or by reason of making an inadequate or negligent inspection, of any property, other than the property of the public entity employing the public employee, for the purpose of determining whether the property complies with or violates any enactment or contains or constitutes a hazard to health or safety [Gov. Code § 821.43; see Gov. Code § 830(c) (definition of public entity's property)].

This immunity is similar to the inspection immunity for public entities, which is discussed in § 464.62[4].

[10] Immunity for Entry on Property

A public employee is not liable for an injury arising out of his or her entry on any property if that entry is expressly or impliedly authorized by law. Nothing in this immunity exonerates a public employee from liability for an injury proximately caused by his or her own negligent or wrongful act or omission [Gov. Code § 821.8].

[11] Immunity for Money Stolen From Custody

A public employee is not liable for money stolen from his or her official custody. Nothing in this immunity exonerates a public employee from liability if the loss was sustained as a result of his or her own negligent or wrongful act or omission [Gov. Code § 822].

[12] Immunity for Misrepresentations

A public employee acting in the scope of his or her employment is not liable for an injury caused by his or her misrepresentation, whether or not such misrepresentation is negligent or intentional, unless he or she is guilty of actual fraud, corruption, or actual malice [Gov. Code § 822.2]. This immunity applies unless, in addition to the essentials of common law deceit, a public employee is motivated by corruption or actual malice, such as a conscious intent to deceive, vex, annoy, or harm the injured party in that party's business [Schonfeld v. City of Vallejo (1974) 50 Cal. App. 3d 401, 409-411, 123 Cal. Rptr. 669 ; see Golden W. Baseball Co. v. Talley (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1294, 1304-1306, 284 Cal. Rptr. 53 (defendant entitled to summary judgment based on his uncontroverted declaration regarding his lack of malice)].

The California Supreme Court has held that misrepresentation as used in the similar immunity for public entities [see Gov. Code § 818.8, which is discussed in § 464.62[5]] means only an interference with a financial or commercial interest [Johnson v. State of California (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 782, 799-800, 73 Cal. Rptr. 240, 447 P.2d 352 ; see Michael J. v. Los Angeles County Dept. of Adoptions (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 859, 872, 875, 247 Cal. Rptr. 504 (county adoption agency subject to liability for intentional misrepresentation or fraudulent concealment in adoption process)]. It seems evident that this definition is also applicable to the public employee misrepresentation immunity under Gov. Code § 822.2 [see Bastian v. County of San Luis Obispo (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 520, 533, 245 Cal. Rptr. 78] .

Gov. Code § 822.2, which immunizes public entities and public employees from liability for misrepresentations, unless the employees are guilty of actual fraud, corruption, or malice, does not create an exception to a public employee's Gov. Code § 821.6 immunity from liability for malicious prosecution [Tur v. City of Los Angeles (1996) 51 Cal. App. 4th 897, 902-903, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 470 (public employee firefighters immune under Gov. Code § 821.6 for subjecting reporter to criminal proceedings)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityAbsolute ImmunityTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityJudicial ImmunityTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityQualified Immunity

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Grounds for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 464.65-464.79

[Reserved]

§§ 464.65[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Grounds for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
2. Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.80

§ 464.80 Governing Law

The law governing liability for dangerous conditions of public property is set forth in Gov. Code § 835. That statute is the sole avenue for imposing liability on a public entity for a dangerous condition on public property. A plaintiff may not rely on the general negligence principles of Civ. Code § 1714 to impose liability on a public entity landowner (as the plaintiff could in an action against a private property owner) [Zelig v. County of Los Angeles (2002) 27 Cal. 4th 1112, 1132, 119 Cal. Rptr. 2d 709, 43 P.3d 1171.]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsConstruction & InterpretationTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsEntities Covered

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Grounds for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
2. Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.81

§ 464.81 Liability of Public Entity for Dangerous Condition of Public Property

[1] General Rule of Liability

A public entity may be liable for injury on its property if [Gov. Code § 835]:

- Its property was in a dangerous condition at the time of the injury;
- The injury was proximately caused by the dangerous condition; and
- The dangerous condition created a reasonably foreseeable risk of the kind of injury that occurred.

Once these elements are shown, there are two alternate bases for liability [see Gov. Code § 835]:

- A negligent or wrongful act or omission of an employee of the public entity within the scope of his or her employment created the dangerous condition; or
- The public entity had actual or constructive notice of the dangerous condition a sufficient time prior to the injury to have taken measures to protect against the dangerous condition.

It is not enough that a plaintiff plead and prove merely that a dangerous condition of public property existed and that it caused injury to plaintiff. Under the plain language of the statute, the plaintiff must also plead and prove that the dangerous condition was created through the negligent or wrongful act or omission of an employee of the public entity, or that the public entity had notice of the dangerous condition a sufficient time prior to the injury to take remedial steps [Metcalf v. County of San Joaquin (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 1121, 1131, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 382, 176 P.3d 654]. It is not necessary that the plaintiff prove both a negligent act and notice to the public agency, however, as either alone will suffice to establish liability [Curtis v. State of California ex rel. Dept. of Transportation (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 668, 693, 180 Cal. Rptr. 843].

[2] Requirement of Ownership or Control of Property

To be liable for a dangerous condition of public property, a public entity must be the owner or in control of the property at the time of the injury [Tolan v. State of Califronia ex rel. Dept. of Transportation (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 980, 984, 161 Cal. Rptr. 307 ; see also Bethman v. City of Ukiah (1989) 216 Cal. App. 3d 1395, 1398, 1408-1409, 265 Cal. Rptr. 539 (claim against city as owner of municipal airport was preempted by Federal Aviation Act because airport navigation facilities, as matter of law, are regulated, approved, and controlled pursuant to federal law)]. If the public entity clearly owns the property at issue, further evidence that the entity controlled the property is not required [see Huffman v. City of Poway (2000) 84 Cal. App. 4th 975, 989-990, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 325 (although public entity control was present, court suggested that issue of control is irrelevant if public entity clearly owns property)].

When a public entity does not own the property upon which the dangerous condition exists and otherwise holds no interest in it, the mere fact that the public entity has regulatory authority over aspects of the property does not equate with control over the property for purposes of imposing liability for failing to correct a dangerous condition [see, e.g., Public Utilities Com. v. Superior Court (2010) 181 Cal. App. 4th 364, 375-376, 105 Cal. Rptr. 3d 234 (regulatory authority of Public Utilities Commission did not generate sufficient control over railroad crossing to warrant holding PUC liable for dangerous condition of crossing)].

The public entity that owns or controls that location must be properly identified. For example, a city is not responsible for the condition of a state highway located within its boundaries [Ramsey v. City of Lake Elsinore (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 1530, 1537-1540, 270 Cal. Rptr. 198 ; see Sts. & Hy. Code § 1806].

[3] Requirement That Property Was Dangerous if Used With Due Care

The plaintiff is not required to establish that the public property was being used with due care when the injury occurred, but must establish that the property was dangerous if used with due care [Murrell v. State of California ex rel. Dept. Pub. Wks. (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 264, 267, 120 Cal. Rptr. 812 ; see Lompoc Unified Sch. Dist. v. Superior Court (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 1688, 1698, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 122] . For instance, the negligence of the driver of the car in which the plaintiff was injured did not preclude an action if the condition of the road was dangerous if used with due care [Callahan v. City & County of San Francisco (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 696, 702-704, 57 Cal. Rptr. 639] . However, the public entity is not liable if the public property is dangerous only if used without due care [Schonfeldt v. State of California (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 1462, 1468, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 464 ; Rombalski v. City of Laguna Beach (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 842, 849-850, 261 Cal. Rptr. 820 ; Fredette v. City of Long Beach (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 122, 130-132, 231 Cal. Rptr. 598] .

[4] Negligent or Wrongful Act or Omission

[a] Requirement for Liability

Except as provided by statute, a public entity is liable for injury caused by a dangerous condition of its property if the plaintiff establishes that the property was in a dangerous condition at the time of the injury, that the injury was proximately caused by the dangerous condition, that the dangerous condition created a reasonably foreseeable risk of the kind of injury which was incurred, and that a negligent or wrongful act or omission of an employee of the public entity within the scope of his or her employment created the dangerous condition [Gov. Code § 835(a)].

The fact that a dangerous condition was created by a public entity employee, even created deliberately, may be used to support a finding that the dangerous condition was created negligently, but such facts do not necessitate a factual finding that the dangerous condition was created negligently or wrongfully [Metcalf v. County of San Joaquin (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 1121, 1135-136, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 382, 176 P.3d 654]. The negligence standard applicable to a finding of liability under this statute is the common-law ordinary negligence standard, which measures the reasonableness of a defendant's conduct in light of the foreseeable risk of harm [Metcalf v. County of San Joaquin (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 1121, 1136, 1139, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 382, 176 P.3d 654].

Even if a plaintiff establishes a basis for imposing liability by pleading and proving that the dangerous condition was created through the negligence of a public employee acting within the scope of employment, a public entity may avoid liability by showing that it did not act unreasonably, in light of the practicality and cost of pursuing the alternative courses of action available to it, when it created or failed to remedy a dangerous condition [Gov. Code § 835.4; Metcalf v. County of San Joaquin (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 1121, 1137-1138, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 382, 176 P.3d 654]. This "reasonability" defense employs a different standard of reasonableness than the ordinary standard used to establish liability under Gov. Code § 835 and under ordinary tort principles. Reasonability under ordinary tort principles does not depend on the existence of other, conflicting claims on a defendant's resources or on the political barriers to acting in a reasonable manner, although such considerations may provide a defense for a public entity [Metcalf v. County of San Joaquin (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 1121, 1138, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 382, 176 P.3d 654]. This affirmative defense is discussed in more detail in § 464.86.

[b] Res Ipsa Loquitur Presumption Inapplicable

Gov. Code § 835(a) requires the plaintiff to show that an employee of the public entity created the dangerous condition [Brown v. Poway Unified Sch. Dist. (1993) 4 Cal. 4th 820, 836, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 679, 843 P.2d 624] . The term "created" means the sort of involvement by an employee that would justify a presumption of notice on the entity's part [Brown v. Poway Unified Sch. Dist. (1993) 4 Cal. 4th 820, 836-838, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 679, 843 P.2d 624] . Accordingly, the presumption of negligence created by application of the res ipsa loquitur doctrine does not satisfy the requirements for holding a public entity liable under Gov. Code § 835(a) [Brown v. Poway Unified Sch. Dist. (1993) 4 Cal. 4th 820, 836, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 679, 843 P.2d 624] .

Res ipsa loquitur requires the plaintiff to show only that (1) the accident was of a kind ordinarily not occurring in the absence of negligence, (2) the instrumentality of harm was within the defendant's exclusive control, and (3) the plaintiff did not voluntarily contribute to the injuries [Brown v. Poway Unified Sch. Dist. (1993) 4 Cal. 4th 820, 836, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 679, 843 P.2d 624] . To permit the res ipsa loquitur presumption alone to establish a prima facie case would permit a jury to find a public entity liable even though there was no evidence that an employee of that entity was involved in creating the allegedly dangerous condition [Brown v. Poway Unified Sch. Dist. (1993) 4 Cal. 4th 820, 836-838, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 679, 843 P.2d 624] .

For general discussion of the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur, see Ch. 380, Negligence .

[5] Failure to Take Protective Measures After Notice

[a] Requirement for Liability

Except as provided by statute, a public entity is liable for injury caused by a dangerous condition of its property if the plaintiff establishes that the property was in a dangerous condition at the time of the injury, that the injury was proximately caused by the dangerous condition, that the dangerous condition created a reasonably foreseeable risk of the kind of injury which was incurred, and that the public entity had actual or constructive notice of the dangerous condition a sufficient time prior to the injury to have taken measures to protect against the dangerous condition [Gov. Code § 835(b)].

[b] Actual Notice

A public entity has actual notice of a dangerous condition if it has actual knowledge of the existence of the condition and knows or should know of its dangerous character [Gov. Code § 835.2(a)].

[c] Constructive Notice

A public entity has constructive notice of a dangerous condition only if the plaintiff establishes that the condition had existed for such a period of time and was of such an obvious nature that the public entity, in the exercise of due care, should have discovered the condition and its dangerous character [Gov. Code § 835.2(b)].

On the issue of due care, admissible evidence includes but is not limited to evidence of the following [Gov. Code § 835.2(b)]:

- The existence of the condition and its dangerous character would have been discovered by an inspection system that was reasonably adequate (considering the practicability and cost of the inspection weighed against the likelihood and magnitude of the potential danger to which failure to inspect would give rise) to inform the public entity whether the property was safe for the use or uses for which the public entity used or intended others to use the public property and for uses that the public entity actually knew others were making of the public property or adjacent property.

- The public entity maintained and operated such an inspection system with due care and did not discover the condition.

A public entity is not on notice of a dangerous condition if it is not obvious and there is no evidence that it has existed at any particular time before the accident [State v. Superior Court of San Mateo County (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 396, 399-401, 69 Cal. Rptr. 683 (remains of fire covered with sand on state beach)]. However, a public entity does have constructive notice of danger if the dangerousness is apparent to anyone who attempts to use the property for the purpose for which it is intended [see Anderson v. City of Thousand Oaks (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 82, 91-92, 135 Cal. Rptr. 127 (danger in road curve obvious to drivers who attempt to negotiate it at posted speed limit)]. For example, a public entity had constructive notice of the dangerousness of an excavation on its property because the entity issued a permit for the excavation, the entity knew when and where the excavation would take place, and a cursory inspection would have disclosed the danger [Stanford v. City of Ontario (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 870, 882-884, 101 Cal. Rptr. 97, 495 P.2d 425] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsNegligenceProofRes Ipsa LoquiturGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceStandards of CareReasonable CareGeneral OverviewTortsPremises Liability & PropertyGeneral Premises LiabilityDangerous ConditionsGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsEntities Covered

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Grounds for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
2. Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.82

§ 464.82 Liability of Public Employee for Dangerous Condition of Public Property

[1] General Rule of Liability

Except as provided in Gov. Code §§ 840-840.6, a public employee is not liable for injury caused by a condition of public property if that condition exists because of any act or omission of that employee within the scope of his or her employment [Gov. Code § 840].

An employee of a public entity is liable for injury caused by a dangerous condition of public property if the plaintiff establishes that: the property of the public entity was in a dangerous condition at the time of the injury; the injury was proximately caused by the dangerous condition; the dangerous condition created a reasonably foreseeable risk of the kind of injury that was incurred; and either [Gov. Code § 840.2]:

- The dangerous condition was directly attributable wholly or in substantial part to a negligent or wrongful act of the employee, and the employee had the authority and the funds and other means immediately available to take alternative action that would not have created the dangerous condition; or

- The employee had the authority, it was the employee's responsibility to take adequate measures to protect against the dangerous condition at the expense of the public entity, the funds and other means for doing so were immediately available to the employee, and the employee had actual or constructive notice of the dangerous condition under Gov. Code § 840.4 a sufficient time prior to the injury to have taken measures to protect against the dangerous condition.

Liability of a public employee for a dangerous condition of public property is subject to any immunity of the public employee provided by the State of California, and is subject to any defenses that would be available to the public employee if he or she were a private person [Gov. Code § 840].

[2] Actual Notice of Danger

A public employee has actual notice of a dangerous condition if he or she had actual personal knowledge of the existence of the condition and knew or should have known of its dangerous character [Gov. Code § 840.4(a)].

[3] Constructive Notice of Danger

A public employee has constructive notice of a dangerous condition only if the plaintiff establishes that: the public employee had the authority and it was his or her responsibility as a public employee to inspect the property of the public entity or to see that inspections were made to determine whether dangerous conditions existed in the public property; the funds and other means for making such inspections or for seeing that such inspections were made were immediately available to the public employee; and the dangerous condition had existed for such a period of time and was of such an obvious nature that the public employee, in the exercise of his or her authority and responsibility with due care, should have discovered the condition and its dangerous character [Gov. Code § 840.4(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsConstruction & InterpretationTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsEntities Covered

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Grounds for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
2. Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.83

§ 464.83 Dangerous Condition

[1] Statutory Definition

A "dangerous condition" means a condition of property that creates a substantial (as distinguished from a minor, trivial, or insignificant) risk of injury if that property or adjacent property is used with due care in a manner in which it is reasonably foreseeable that it will be used [Gov. Code § 830(a)].

A condition is not dangerous unless it creates a hazard to those who foreseeably will use the property or adjacent property with due care. Therefore, even though it is foreseeable that persons may use public property without due care, a public entity may not be liable for failing to take precautions to protect those persons. The definition does, however, take into consideration the standard of care that would be applicable to foreseeable users of the property. If it is reasonably foreseeable that persons to whom a lower standard of care is applicable, such as children, may be exposed to a substantial risk of injury from the property, the public entity should be required to take reasonable precautions to protect those persons from that risk. For example, a public entity may be expected to fence a swimming pool or to fence or lock up a dangerous instrumentality if it is reasonably foreseeable that small children may be injured if those precautions are not taken [Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Gov. Code § 830; see Mathews v. City of Cerritos (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 1380, 1384, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 16] .

[2] Third Party Conduct Insufficient

Third party conduct by itself, unrelated to the condition of the property, does not constitute a dangerous condition for which a public entity may be liable. A defect in the property is necessary to state a cause of action based on the wrongful conduct of third parties [Zelig v. County of Los Angeles (2002) 27 Cal. 4th 1112, 1134 ; Peterson v. San Francisco Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 799, 810-811, 205 Cal. Rptr. 842, 685 P.2d 1193 ; see, e.g., Crow v. State of California (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 192, 204-206, 271 Cal. Rptr. 349] . Public entities were not liable for personal injury and death resulting from criminal conduct on public property either because the plaintiffs could not show that defects in the property itself contributed to the criminal conduct or because both public awareness of the prevalence of crime and policy factors militated against imposing a government duty to warn of the possibility of criminal acts [see Hayes v. State of California (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 469, 472-473, 113 Cal. Rptr. 599, 521 P.2d 855 ; Turner v. State of California (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 883, 891-892, 284 Cal. Rptr. 349] .

In one case, for example, the California Supreme Court held that a county was not liable for failing to prevent an ex-husband from shooting his former spouse in a county courthouse, because the plaintiffs could not show that any physical condition of the courthouse increased the risk of the shooting or otherwise had a causal connection to the shooting [Zelig v. County of Los Angeles (2002) 27 Cal. 4th 1112, 1136]. In another case, in which two people were killed when their car was struck by another vehicle engaged in a race, the court of appeal held that the flat, straight city street was not physically defective because of inadequate lighting, but that even if it were, there was no evidence that the lack of adequate lighting influenced the racers to race [City of San Diego v. Superior Court (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 21, 31, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 26] .

A public entity may be liable if a combination of both a dangerous condition of the property itself and also acts of third parties creates an unreasonable risk of harm [see Hayes v. State (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 469, 472 (dictum)]. Nothing in Gov. Code § 835 specifically precludes a finding that a public entity may have a duty, given special circumstances, to protect against harmful criminal conduct on its property [Peterson v. San Francisco Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 799, 811, 205 Cal. Rptr. 842, 685 P.2d 1193] . For example, a community college had a duty to take reasonable measures to protect or to warn its students against criminal assault if its failure to do so created a reasonably foreseeable risk of injury, given the college's awareness of property conditions favorable to assaults and the incidence of prior assaults. The duty arose out of the special relationship between college and student, the property conditions known to the college that tended to increase the risk of crime, as well as the absence of policy factors militating against a government duty to warn [see Peterson v. San Francisco Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 799, 812-814, 205 Cal. Rptr. 842, 685 P.2d 1193] .

The duty extends only to a plaintiff's use of the property in a manner in which it is reasonably foreseeable that the plaintiff will, in fact, use the property. If the plaintiff's use of the property is not in such a manner, there is no dangerous condition that is a prerequisite to liability [Branch v. State of California ex rel. Dep't of Transp. (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 340, 344-345, 205 Cal. Rptr. 482 (plaintiff abducted by third parties and taken to entity's property was not "using" property in foreseeable manner, and therefore no dangerous condition liability existed)].

[3] Minor Risk of Danger

A condition is not a dangerous condition if the trial or appellate court, viewing the evidence most favorably to the plaintiff, determines as a matter of law that the risk created by the condition was of such a minor, trivial, or insignificant nature in view of the surrounding circumstances that no reasonable person would conclude that the condition created a substantial risk of injury if that property or adjacent property was used with due care in a manner in which it was reasonably foreseeable that it would be used [Gov. Code § 830.2].

Although technically this provision is unnecessary because it merely declares the rule that would ordinarily be applied when a court rules on the sufficiency of the evidence, it serves to emphasize that the court must determine that there is evidence from which a reasonable person could conclude that a substantial, as opposed to a possible, risk is involved before it permits the jury to find that a condition is dangerous [Antenor v. City of Los Angeles (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 477, 481, 220 Cal. Rptr. 181]. A court may not determine that a defect is trivial as a matter of law, however, if competing and conflicting evidence of the size, nature, and quality of the defect, or the circumstances surrounding the plaintiff's injury, raise triable factual issues as to whether the defect or condition of the property presented a danger to persons exercising ordinary care [Stathoulis v. City of Montebello (2008) 164 Cal. App. 4th 559, 569, 78 Cal. Rptr. 3d 910 (triable issue existed as to whether series of gouge marks in roadway created dangerous condition for pedestrians such as plaintiff)].

The court should not rely solely on the size of a particular defect in determining whether it is trivial. The court should also consider the circumstances surrounding the accident that might have made the defect more dangerous than its size would indicate. These circumstances include whether the accident occurred in an area where the view of the defect is obstructed, the shape and configuration of the defect, whether it occurred at night in an unlighted area, and any other conditions surrounding the defect [Dolquist v. City of Bellflower (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 261, 267-271, 241 Cal. Rptr. 706] .

[4] Failure to Provide Traffic Signals

A condition is not a dangerous condition merely because of the failure to provide regulatory traffic control signals, stop signs, yield right of way signs, or speed restriction signs, as described by the Vehicle Code, or distinctive roadway markings described in Veh. Code § 21460 (double lines) [Gov. Code § 830.4; see, e.g., Frazier v. County of Sonoma (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 454, 459-461, 267 Cal. Rptr. 39] . The lack of a traffic signal or crossing guard at a crosswalk near which a school has opened does not constitute a dangerous condition of public property [Cerna v. City of Oakland (2008) 161 Cal. App. 4th 1340, 1351-1352, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 168].

If a traffic situation is dangerous for reasons other than the failure to provide regulatory signals or street markings, the definitional exemption of Gov. Code § 830.4 does not apply. A public entity is protected from liability by Gov. Code § 830.4 only if the dangerous condition exists solely as a result of the entity's failure to provide a regulatory traffic device or street marking [Washington v. City & County of San Francisco (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 1531, 1534-1535, 269 Cal. Rptr. 58 (dangerous condition of vision limitations caused by metal pillars in middle of street and shadow caused by elevated freeway was not solely result of failure to provide signals)].

Gov. Code § 830.8 grants immunity to public entities and their employees for the failure to provide other types of traffic signals [see § 464.85[3]].

[5] Circumstances Deemed Insufficient to Establish Dangerous Condition

Unless the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur is applicable, the happening of the accident that results in the injury is not in and of itself evidence that public property was in a dangerous condition [Gov. Code § 830.5(a)]. Gov. Code § 830.5(a) was expressly intended to abrogate a rule to the effect that the happening of the accident is evidence that public property was in a dangerous condition. It does not act to extend the liability of public entities to cases in which there was no involvement by a public employee and thus no basis for presuming that the entity had notice of the dangerous condition [Brown v. Poway Unified Sch. Dist. (1993) 4 Cal. 4th 820, 830-833, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 679, 843 P.2d 624] .

The fact that action was taken after an injury occurred to protect against a condition of public property is not evidence that the public property was in a dangerous condition [Gov. Code § 830.5(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsNegligenceDutyAffirmative Duty to ActSpecial RelationshipsGovernment OfficialsTortsNegligenceStandards of CareAppropriate StandardObjectivityTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Grounds for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
2. Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.84

§ 464.84 Public Property

[1] Statutory Definition

The terms "property of a public entity" and "public property" mean real or personal property owned or controlled by the public entity, but do not include easements, encroachments, and other property that are located on the property of the public entity, but are not owned or controlled by the public entity [Gov. Code § 830(c)].

For purposes of determining liability for dangerous conditions of public property, seismic safety improvements or fire sprinkler improvements that are owned, built, controlled, operated, and maintained by the private owner of the building in which they are installed are not public property or property of a public entity solely because they were financed by means of the formation of a special assessment district [Gov. Code § 830.1].

[2] Danger Affecting Adjacent Property

A public entity is liable only for dangerous conditions of its own property, but its own property may be considered dangerous if it creates a substantial risk of injury to adjacent property or to persons on adjacent property [Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Gov. Code § 830]. Property belonging to a public entity may also be considered dangerous if a condition on the adjacent property exposes persons using the public property to a substantial risk of injury [Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Gov. Code § 830; Jordan v. City of Long Beach (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 878, 882-883, 95 Cal. Rptr. 246] .

In one case, the California Supreme Court held that the location of a bus stop may constitute a dangerous condition of public property if bus patrons must cross a dangerous crosswalk on adjacent property to reach the bus stop, assuming that the other elements for imposing liability under Gov. Code § 835 have been met [Bonanno v. Central Contra Costa Transit Auth. (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 139, 144, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 341, 65 P.3d 807 ; see also Joyce v. Simi Valley Unified Sch. Dist. (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 292, 298-300, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 712 (school district liable to student struck by car in dangerous crosswalk, based on district's placement of entrance gate adjacent to crosswalk)]. In that case, the defendant, a transit authority, had no control over the adjacent county street, which was a busy thoroughfare with an uncontrolled intersection, nor could the defendant control the actions of third-party drivers such as the driver who caused the plaintiff's injuries [Bonanno v. Central Contra Costa Transit Auth. (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 139, 151-152, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 341, 65 P.3d 807] . However, the defendant was on notice of the dangers involved in reaching the bus stop, and although installing a new stop at another location would have required the county's approval, the transit authority had sole control over whether to remove a bus stop if its location was unnecessarily dangerous [Bonanno v. Central Contra Costa Transit Auth. (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 139, 144-147 & n.2, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 341, 65 P.3d 807] . Under those circumstances, the Court found no reason to reverse the jury's determination that the location of the bus stop constituted a dangerous condition of public property [Bonanno v. Central Contra Costa Transit Auth. (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 139, 156, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 341, 65 P.3d 807] .

A public entity that allows a sporting event to take place on its property has no legal duty to provide a distraction barrier to prevent a passing motorist on an adjacent public street from seeing or hearing the event. For example, a public entity was not liable for injuries caused by an inattentive motorist who became involved in a traffic accident with a bicyclist using the street. The fact that an event may be in progress poses no risk of harm (let alone a substantial risk) to pedestrians, bicyclists, or motorists on the adjacent public road if a motorist exercises due care while passing the property on which the event is taking place. It is the motorist who at all times has the duty to exercise reasonable care to be alert to potential dangers and not let his or her attention be distracted by an interesting sight so as to interfere with the safe operation of a motor vehicle [Lompoc Unified Sch. Dist. v. Superior Court (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 1688, 1691, 1694-1698, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 122] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsPremises Liability & PropertyGeneral Premises LiabilityDangerous ConditionsGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsEntities Covered

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Grounds for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
2. Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.85

§ 464.85 Immunities

[1] Availability of Immunity

In addition to specific immunities and defenses to dangerous-condition liability, public entities may use any defenses that would be available if the public entity were a private person [Gov. Code § 815(b); Senate Legis. Comm. Comment to Gov. Code § 835]. This type of liability, however, is not subject to the immunity that public entities derive from Gov. Code § 815.2 for acts or omissions for which an employee is immune, such as immunity for discretionary acts under Gov. Code § 820.2, because Gov. Code §§ 830-840.6 declare the limits of a public entity's discretion in dealing with dangerous conditions of its property [see Senate Legis. Comm. Comment to Gov. Code § 835].

Similarly, the liability of public employees for dangerous conditions of public property is subject to any immunity of the public employee provided by statute and is subject to any defenses that would be available to the public employee if he or she were a private person [Gov. Code § 840].

Because Gov. Code § 835 qualifies liability for a dangerous condition of public property by stating that the liability applies "except as provided by statute," some immunity statutes, in addition to those statutes that specifically provide defenses to dangerous condition liability, may be applicable. For example, immunity under Gov. Code § 855.4 for the failure to prevent the communication of a disease has been applied to a claim of dangerous condition of public property [Wright v. City of Los Angeles (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 683, 688-689, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 352 ; see § 464.105[1][b]].

[2] Approved Plan or Design

[a] Rule of Immunity

Neither a public entity nor a public employee is liable for an injury from a dangerous condition caused by the plan or design of a construction of, or an improvement to, public property if that plan or design has been approved in advance of the construction or improvement by the legislative body of the public entity or by some other body or employee exercising discretionary authority to give the approval or if the plan or design is prepared in conformity with standards previously so approved, if the trial or appellate court determines that there is any substantial evidence on the basis of which: (1) a reasonable public employee could have adopted the plan, design, or standards; or (2) a reasonable legislative body or other body or employee could have approved the plan, design, or standards [Gov. Code § 830.6].

A public entity claiming design immunity must show the existence of three elements: (1) a causal relationship between the plan and the accident; (2) discretionary approval of the plan prior to construction; and (3) substantial evidence supporting the reasonableness of the design [Grenier v. City of Irwindale (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 931, 939, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 454 ; see Higgins v. State of California (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 177, 185, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 459] .

The first element requires proof that the alleged design defect was responsible for the accident, as opposed to some other cause [Grenier v. City of Irwindale (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 931, 940, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 454 (allegation that street flooding was caused by inadequate drainage sufficient to establish causation); see Mozzetti v. City of Brisbane (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 565, 570, 136 Cal. Rptr. 751] .

The second element requires approval in advance of construction by the legislative body or officer exercising discretionary authority. A detailed plan, drawn up by a competent engineering firm, and approved by a city engineer in the exercise of his or her discretionary authority, is persuasive evidence of the element of prior approval [Grenier v. City of Irwindale (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 931, 940, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 454 (cross slopes, longitudinal slopes and runoff inlets relied on by plaintiff's expert to establish design defect were features of plan approved by city engineer); see Ramirez v. City of Redondo Beach (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 515, 526, 237 Cal. Rptr. 505] .

The third element requires only substantial evidence--that is, evidence of solid value that reasonably inspires confidence. If there is substantial evidence of reasonableness, the public entity is entitled to design immunity even if the evidence is conflicting [Grenier v. City of Irwindale (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 931, 940, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 454 ; see Ramirez v. City of Redondo Beach (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 515, 526, 237 Cal. Rptr. 505 ; see also Gov. Code § 830.6]. Generally, a civil engineer's opinion regarding reasonableness is sufficient to satisfy this element [Grenier v. City of Irwindale (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 931, 941, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 454 ; see Hefner v. County of Sacramento (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 1007, 1015, 243 Cal. Rptr. 291] . Approval of the plan by competent professionals can, in and of itself, constitute substantial evidence of reasonableness [Grenier v. City of Irwindale (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 931, 941, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 454 (approval of civil engineer's design plan by city engineer satisfied element of substantial evidence of reasonableness of design); see Higgins v. State of California (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 177, 187, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 459] .

However, if expert opinion of reasonableness is merely conclusory, and there is no foundation for the opinion in the evidence, the approved design defense may be rejected [Arreola v. County of Monterey (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 722, 758-759, 122 Cal. Rptr. 2d 38 (defense rejected despite expert testimony of reasonableness because state's own evidence indicated that approved highway design was based on presumption, outdated when design was adopted, that projects added by other parties would alleviate flooding concerns)]. In order for design immunity to be available, however, it is not necessary that the decision-maker who approved the design be informed before the approval was made of every negative comment or concern expressed by every consultant or expert who reviewed the proposed plan, so long as evidence supports the reasonableness of the plan or design [Alvis v. County of Ventura (2009) 178 Cal. App. 4th 536, 553, 100 Cal. Rptr. 3d 494] .

Although a finding of substantial evidence supporting the reasonableness of a design is a determination reserved by statute for the court [see Gov. Code § 830.6], the issues of whether there is a causal connection between the project design and the accident and whether there was actually discretionary approval of the design prior to construction require a case-specific, factual determination that must be left for the jury if there is conflicting evidence [Hernandez v. Dep't of Transp. (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 376, 387-388, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 536] .

If the design immunity is applicable, a public entity may still be liable for failure to warn of a dangerous condition caused by the design [Cameron v. State of California (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 318, 327-329, 102 Cal. Rptr. 305, 497 P.2d 777 ; Grenier v. City of Irwindale (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 931, 945 (evidence that city placed eight signs warning that street flooded during storms constituted sufficient warning of flooded condition)]. Design immunity is not applicable if the approved design did not include the feature that created the dangerous condition [Cameron v. State of California (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 318, 323-326, 102 Cal. Rptr. 305, 497 P.2d 777] or if the design is not related to the dangerous condition [Flournoy v. State of California (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 806, 813-814, 80 Cal. Rptr. 485] . Moreover, although the absence of a warning sign may be a part of the approved design and, therefore, covered by design immunity, it may serve as the independent basis of liability for failure to warn of a dangerous condition [Anderson v. City of Thousand Oaks (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 82, 90-92, 135 Cal. Rptr. 127] , but the absence of a warning sign cannot be the basis for liability unless there is a hidden dangerous condition [Weinstein v. Department of Transp. (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 52, 61, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 417] .

A plaintiff cannot defeat a defense of design immunity by arguing that the public entity was negligent in its maintenance of a public project if the "maintenance" proposed by the plaintiff is actually a change in the original design of the project [Alvis v. County of Ventura (2009) 178 Cal. App. 4th 536, 550-551, 100 Cal. Rptr. 3d 494 (immunity applied to claim that landslide retaining wall was poorly maintained because it did not drain adequately, as plaintiff really was suggesting that design should have included better drainage features)].

Design immunity does not apply unless the actual construction or improvement conforms to the plan or design as approved, although substantial conformity is sufficient in cases in which there is a slight deviation from the approved design [see Wyckoff v. State of California (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 45, 52-55, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 198 (highway median width that averaged 45 feet 5 inches at site of accident did not materially depart from plans that called for median of 46 feet)].

Design immunity applies to a cause of action against a public entity based on nuisance under Civ. Code § 3479, as well as to actions based on negligence [Mikkelsen v. State of California (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 621, 628-631, 130 Cal. Rptr. 780] . For discussion of Civ. Code § 3479, see Ch. 391, Nuisance .

On review of a trial court determination denying immunity under Gov. Code § 830.6, it is improper for the appellate court merely to inquire whether substantial evidence supports the trial court's decision. Instead, the appellate court must determine whether there is any substantial evidence to support a finding that the decision by the public entity was reasonable. If there is substantial evidence to support the public entity's decision, the trial court's denial of immunity must be reversed [Ramirez v. City of Redondo Beach (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 515, 526-527, 237 Cal. Rptr. 505] .

While the public entity bears the burden of pleading and proving application of reasonable design immunity, evidence submitted by the plaintiff in opposition to a motion for summary judgment may be used in support of the public entity's defense if the evidence supports defendant's position [Laabs v. City of Victorville (2008) 163 Cal. App. 4th 1242, 1267, 78 Cal. Rptr. 3d 372].

[b] Exception for Changed Conditions

A public entity is liable for injury proximately caused by a dangerous condition of its property if the dangerous condition created a reasonably foreseeable risk of the kind of injury sustained, and the public entity had actual or constructive notice of the condition a sufficient time before the injury to have taken preventive measures (Gov. Code § 835, subd (b)).

A change in physical conditions is a prerequisite to the loss of design immunity [Grenier v. City of Irwindale (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 931, 945, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 454 (city's knowledge of fact that street flooded during storms not sufficient change in conditions)]. However, a change in physical conditions, by itself, is insufficient to deprive the public entity of design immunity; there must be evidence that the change has produced a dangerous condition of which the public entity is aware [Alvarez v. State of California (1999) 79 Cal. App. 4th 720, 737, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 719 (increase in traffic triggering state's eventual decision to install highway median barrier was not, by itself, dangerous condition)]. Changes in a state's design manual, which seek to improve design standards for new construction, do not support the conclusion or constitute an admission that the superseded design standards are defective. Therefore, such changes were insufficient to prove a change in physical conditions necessary to defeat a claim of design immunity [Dole Citrus v. State of California (1997) 60 Cal. App. 4th 486, 493, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 348 (no evidence of changed physical condition of freeway over-crossing that would make earlier guard-rail design obsolete and no showing of accident history at over-crossing resulting from dropped or thrown objects)].

If the public entity has notice that constructed or improved public property may no longer be in conformity with a plan or design or a standard that reasonably could be approved, its immunity continues for a reasonable period of time sufficient to permit it to obtain funds for and carry out necessary remedial work. If the entity is unable to remedy the property because of practical impossibility or lack of sufficient funds, its immunity remains so long as it attempts to provide adequate warnings of the existence of the nonconforming condition [Gov. Code § 830.6]. Exactly what constitutes a "reasonable period of time" sufficient to permit the public entity to act has not been defined and will presumably depend on the specific facts of each case [see Bane v. State of California (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 860, 875, 256 Cal. Rptr. 468 (suggesting that state should have acted within two to three days after receiving notice that directional sign was confusing to motorists), disapproved on other grounds, Grenier v. City of Irwindale (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 931, 945, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 454] .

To defeat design immunity, a claimed change of physical conditions cannot be based on the same technical data or policy decisions that went into the original plan or design. Instead, immunity is preserved if a public entity approves a design that contemplated and made allowances for the possibility of the specific change of condition argued by the plaintiff [Alvis v. County of Ventura (2009) 178 Cal. App. 4th 536, 539, 555, 100 Cal. Rptr. 3d 494 (when county's approval of landslide retaining wall considered and made allowances for drainage through wall, change of condition argument failed when based on alleged inadequate drainage)].

Unlike the determination of whether substantial evidence supports the reasonableness of the adoption of the original plan or design, which is reserved by statute for determination by the court [see Gov. Code § 830.6], a plaintiff has a right to have a jury decide whether design immunity has been lost because triable issues of material fact have been presented [Cornette v. Dep't of Transp. (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 63, 67, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1, 26 P.3d 332] . However, a plaintiff cannot create a triable issue of material fact with generalities suggesting the dangerous nature of a large area of public property, if the public entity provides details showing the lack of a dangerous condition at the specific place where the injury occurred [see Mirzada v. Dep't of Transp. (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 802, 808-810, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 205 (evidence of number of vehicle accidents in "vicinity" of plaintiff's accident site did not create triable issue because CalTrans showed that no accidents occurred within previous Five years at more specific 2.8-mile stretch of highway)].

[3] Traffic Signal Immunities

[a] Failure to Provide Signals

Neither a public entity nor a public employee is liable for an injury from a dangerous condition caused by the failure to provide traffic or warning signals, signs, markings, or devices described in the Vehicle Code. However, a public entity or public employee is not exonerated from liability for injury proximately caused by such failure if a signal, sign, marking, or device (other than one described in Gov. Code § 830.4) was necessary to warn of a dangerous condition that endangered the safe movement of traffic and that would not be reasonably apparent to, and would not have been anticipated by, a person exercising due care [Gov. Code § 830.8; Kessler v. State of California (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 317, 321-322, 253 Cal. Rptr. 537 ; for discussion of Gov. Code § 830.4, see § 464.83[4]].

Therefore, a public entity is liable if failure to post signs constitutes a trap to the motorist [Anderson v. City of Thousand Oaks (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 82, 93, 135 Cal. Rptr. 127] . Moreover, although a public entity is not liable for failure to install traffic signs or signals, if it undertakes to do so and invites public reliance on them, it may be liable for creating a dangerous condition in so doing [De La Rosa v. City of San Bernardino (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 739, 746, 94 Cal. Rptr. 175] .

However, Gov. Code § 830.8 provides immunity to a public entity for failing to repaint a marked crosswalk after preexisting markings are removed for construction, at least in the absence of any hazardous condition that would not be apparent to pedestrians or motorists using the intersection with due care [Sun v. City of Oakland (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 1177, 1193, 83 Cal. Rptr. 3d 372 (installation of "bulb out" sidewalk extensions did not make intersection dangerous condition, even when crosswalk markings were removed in process)]. Moreover, a city's failure to comply with the public notice requirements of Veh. Code § 21950.5 prior to removing crosswalk markings does not render the city liable for injury to a pedestrian caused by a motorist who fails to yield the right of way [Sun v. City of Oakland (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 1177, 1191-1192, 83 Cal. Rptr. 3d 372].

[b] Signals Controlled by Emergency Vehicles

Neither a public entity nor a public employee is liable for an injury caused by the operation or nonoperation of official traffic control signals that are controlled by an emergency vehicle in accordance with the provisions of Veh. Code § 25258(a) [Gov. Code § 830.9; see generally Ch. 246, Emergency Vehicles].

[4] Condition of Streets Caused by Weather

Neither a public entity nor a public employee is liable for an injury caused by the effect of weather conditions on the use of streets and highways. However, a public entity or employee is not exonerated from liability for injury proximately caused by this effect if it would not be reasonably apparent to, and would not be anticipated by, a person exercising due care. The effect of weather conditions on the use of streets and highways includes the effect of fog, wind, rain, flood, ice, or snow, but does not include physical damage to or deterioration of streets and highways resulting from weather conditions [Gov. Code § 831].

A cause of action can be stated against a public entity for failure to warn of the hidden effect of weather conditions, such as ice on the road [Flournoy v. State of California (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 806, 814, 80 Cal. Rptr. 485] . Conversely, the presence of two to three inches of snow on a highway would be reasonably apparent to a person exercising due care [see Allyson v. Department of Transp. (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 1304, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 490 (defendant entitled to summary judgment because plaintiff admitted presence of snow and offered no evidence to suggest that this condition would not be apparent)].

[5] Work on Nondedicated Roads

Neither a public entity nor a public employee is liable for any injury occurring on account of the grading or the performance of other maintenance or repair on, reconstruction or replacement of, any road that has not officially been accepted as a part of the road system under the jurisdiction of the public entity, provided that the grading, maintenance, repair, reconstruction, or replacement is performed with reasonable care and leaves the road in no more dangerous or unsafe condition than it was before the work commenced [Gov. Code § 831.3; Matthews v. County of San Bernardino (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 1623, 1634-1635, 285 Cal. Rptr. 422] . No such act of grading, maintenance, or repair creates any duty of the public entity to continue the work on any road not a part of the road system under that entity's jurisdiction [Gov. Code § 831.3].

No county is liable for failure to maintain any road unless and until it has been accepted into the county road system by action of the board of supervisors or its designee [see Sts. & Hy. Code § 941(b)]. No city is liable for failure to maintain any road until it has been accepted into the city system by resolution of the governing body [see Sts. & Hy. Code § 1806]. For discussion of dedication of land to public use, see Ch. 183, Dedication .

Although Gov. Code § 831.3 and Sts. & Hy. Code §§ 941 and 1806 address similar topics, they are distinct without being inconsistent. Gov. Code § 831.3 addresses a public entity's misfeasance in its action of maintaining, grading, or repairing an unaccepted road. Sts. & Hy. Code §§ 941 and 1806 immunize a county or a city from any claimed nonfeasance regarding its nonmaintenance of unaccepted roads. Gov. Code § 831.3 and Sts. & Hy. Code §§ 941 and 1806 address different circumstances regarding the liability of a county or a city if it maintains or does not maintain unaccepted roads. Moreover, Gov. Code § 831.3 includes all public entities described in Gov. Code § 811.2, but Sts. & Hy. Code §§ 941 and 1806 are limited to counties and cities, respectively [Matthews v. County of San Bernardino (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 1623, 1633, 1633 n.6, 285 Cal. Rptr. 422 (no city was involved, so court was not required to interpret Sts. & Hy. Code § 1806)].

[6] Unimproved Public Property

[a] Natural Condition Immunity

Neither a public entity nor a public employee is liable for an injury caused by a natural condition of any unimproved public property, including but not limited to any natural condition of any lake, stream, bay, river, or beach [Gov. Code § 831.2; see Gov. Code § 831.5 (providing same immunity to public land trust meeting specified requirements)].

Conditions caused by human alteration, especially those that have existed for some years, that merely duplicate models common to nature are still "natural conditions" as a matter of law for purposes of Gov. Code § 831.2 [Knight v. City of Capitola (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 918, 928-929, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 874 (immunity applied to beach that was altered to prevent its destruction by erosion because resulting beach was not materially different from beach as it existed before onset of erosion)]. For example, an artificial ("man-made") lake is unimproved public property [Osgood v. County of Shasta (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 586, 588-590, 123 Cal. Rptr. 442] . Also, the attachment of a rope by an unknown third party to a tree on undeveloped land does not change the natural condition of the land so as to abrogate the immunity [Kuykendall v. State of California (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 563, 566, 223 Cal. Rptr. 763] . This immunity does not apply, however, to injuries caused to adjacent property or to persons on adjacent property who are not users of the public property [Milligan v. City of Laguna Beach (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 829, 834, 835, 196 Cal. Rptr. 38, 670 P.2d 1121 (trees falling on adjacent residence)].

A "natural condition" under Gov. Code § 831.2 is not limited to physical conditions of the land. Therefore, a claim based on an injury caused by a wild animal is subject to immunity under this provision [Arroyo v. State of California (1995) 34 Cal. App. 4th 755, 762, 40 Cal. Rptr. 2d 627 (mountain lion)]. Furthermore, imposing a moratorium on hunting an animal to increase that particular animal population, even though the moratorium has the potential to increase the risks of injury caused by the animal, does not create an artificial condition sufficient to remove the injury from a claim of immunity under § 831.2 [Arroyo v. State of California (1995) 34 Cal. App. 4th 755, 764-765, 40 Cal. Rptr. 2d 627] .

For an entity to lose this immunity it must make an improvement, and that improvement must be of the type to induce reliance on the part of the public [see Rombalski v. City of Laguna Beach (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 842, 853, 261 Cal. Rptr. 820 (addition of stairway leading to beach in location of lifeguard station did not induce reliance on safety of rock from which boy jumped)]. The fact that certain parts of a park are improved does not make a public entity liable for injuries in unimproved parts of the park [Rendak v. State of California (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 286, 288-289, 95 Cal. Rptr. 665 ; see also Bartlett v. State of California (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 392, 397, 245 Cal. Rptr. 32] .

The immunity applies to injuries on unimproved public property in urban as well as rural areas [Winterburn v. City of Pomona (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 878, 881, 231 Cal. Rptr. 105 (cave located in a city-owned urban greenbelt)]. A designation of particular land as nonrecreational does not negate the land's character as public property to which the immunity applies [Winterburn v. City of Pomona (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 878, 881, 231 Cal. Rptr. 105] .

There is no duty to warn of a latent condition on public property that represents a hidden danger as long as the condition is purely natural [Mercer v. State of California (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 158, 166 n.4, 242 Cal. Rptr. 701 ; McCauley v. City of San Diego (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 981, 991-993, 235 Cal. Rptr. 732] . Moreover, if a public entity chooses to warn of the potential hazards of some natural conditions, it does not thereby incur a duty to warn of all potential dangers that may be present [Arroyo v. State of California (1995) 34 Cal. App. 4th 755, 764, 40 Cal. Rptr. 2d 627 (warning about snakes and ticks did not create duty to warn about mountain lions)]. However, there is some authority holding that a duty to warn arises if the public entity by its own conduct is partially responsible for inducing a person to be victimized by a dangerous natural condition that constitutes a hidden trap [Gonzales v. City of San Diego (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 882, 885-887, 182 Cal. Rptr. 73 (provision of lifeguard services on public beach creates hybrid natural and improved condition and triggers duty to warn of dangerous currents); see McCauley v. City ofSan Diego (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 981, 989, 235 Cal. Rptr. 732 ; but see Geffen v. County of Los Angeles (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 188, 192-194, 242 Cal. Rptr. 492] . However, any application of this rule to public beaches has been abrogated by the enactment of Gov. Code § 831.21. Public beaches are deemed to be in a natural condition and unimproved, notwithstanding the provision or absence of public safety services, such as lifeguards or law enforcement patrols, medical services, fire protection services, beach cleanup services, or signs [Gov. Code § 831.21].

[b] Immunity for Land Failure

No public entity or employee is liable for damage or injury to property or for emotional distress unless the plaintiff has suffered substantial physical injury, off the public entity's property, caused by land failure of any unimproved public property that in turn was caused by a natural condition of the unimproved public property [Gov. Code § 831.25(a); see Gov. Code § 831.5(b) (providing same immunity to public land trust meeting specified requirements)]. "Land failure" means any movement of land, including a landslide, mudslide, creep, subsidence, and any other gradual or rapid movement of land [Gov. Code § 831.25(c)].

For these purposes, a natural condition exists, and property is deemed to be unimproved, regardless of any minor improvements made for the preservation or prudent management of the property in its unimproved state that did not contribute to the land failure [Gov. Code § 831.25(b)]. Similarly, conditions that occur in nature, but happen to be produced by a combination of human and natural forces, are natural conditions as a matter of law [Schooler v. State of California (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 1004, 1009, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 343] . In one case, for example, the fact that pedestrian traffic may have added to the corrosive effect of wind, water, and wave action along a bluff adjacent to a state-owned beach did not alter the fact that bluff erosion was a natural condition. Therefore, the adjacent landowner was precluded from successfully prosecuting a tort suit against the state for damage to the lateral support of that adjacent property caused by the erosion [Schooler v. State of California (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 1004, 1010, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 343] .

This immunity does not inure to the benefit of any public entity or employee who had actual notice of probable damage that was likely to occur outside of the public property because of land failure and who failed to give a reasonable warning of the danger to the affected property owners. However, if a public entity or a public employee does provide a warning, neither is liable for any damage or injury arising from the giving of that warning [Gov. Code § 831.25(d)].

Gov. Code § 831.2 neither limits the immunity provided by Gov. Code § 831.2 nor creates any duty of care or basis of liability for damage or injury to property or for emotional distress [Gov. Code § 831.25(e), (f)].

[c] Immunity Applicable to Specified State Lands

Neither the state nor any employee of the state is liable for any injury caused by a dangerous condition of the unimproved and unoccupied portions of the following [Gov. Code § 831.6]:

- The ungranted tidelands and submerged lands and the beds of navigable rivers, streams, lakes, bays, estuaries, inlets, and straits owned by the state; or

- The unsold portions of the sixteenth and thirty-sixth sections of school lands, the unsold portions of the 500,000 acres granted to the state for school purposes, and the unsold portions of the listed lands selected of the United States in lieu of the sixteenth and thirty-sixth sections and losses to the school grant.

[7] Conditions on Trails and Unpaved Access Roads

A public entity, public employee, or a grantor of a public easement to a public entity for any of the following purposes, is not liable for an injury caused by a condition of any unpaved road that provides access to fishing, hunting, camping, hiking, riding (including animal and all types of vehicular riding), water sports, recreational, or scenic areas so long as that road is not one of the following [Gov. Code § 831.4(a)]:

- A city street or highway;

- A county, state, or federal highway; or

- A public street or highway of a joint highway district, boulevard district, bridge and highway district, or similar district formed for the improvement or building of public streets or highways.

There is also no liability for any trail used for the above purposes [Gov. Code § 831.4(b); Carroll v. County of Los Angeles (1997) 60 Cal. App. 4th 606, 609, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 504 ("trail" applies to paved bicycle path); but see Treweek v. City of Napa (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 221, 232, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 883 (boat ramp, standing alone and not as integral part of trail, was not itself "trail"); see Gov. Code § 831.5 (providing same immunity to public land trust meeting specified requirements)].

The "above purposes" language contained in Gov. Code § 831.4(b) has been construed to refer to the recreational activities specified in Gov. Code § 831.4(a). Thus, a trail that is intended for hiking (or one of the other specified activities) need not provide access to anything for the immunity of Gov. Code § 831.4(b) to attach. The immunity of Gov. Code § 831.4(b) precludes liability for injuries caused by the conditions of trails that are used for the activities specified in Gov. Code § 831.4(a) [Giannuzzi v. State of California (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 462, 466-467, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 335 (immunity of Gov. Code § 831.4(b) barred liability for injuries suffered by plaintiff while riding motorcycle on dirt trail in state park)]. Immunity may also extend under Gov. Code § 831.4(b) if the trail is used only for access to a listed form of recreational activity and is not used for the actual activity itself [see Treweek v. City of Napa (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 221, 229, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 883] .

The immunity provided by Gov. Code § 831.4(b) applies regardless of whether the trail is paved or not [Farnham v. City of Los Angeles (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1097, 1101-1103, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 720 (immunity applied to injury suffered on paved biking trail); accord Armenio v. County of San Mateo (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 413, 417-418, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 631 (riding bicycle on paved trail on public land); Carroll v. County of Los Angeles (1997) 60 Cal. App. 4th 606, 610, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 504 (rollerblading on paved bicycle path)]. Trail immunity is available even when the claim alleges defects in the design or maintenance of the trail [Amberger-Warren v. City of Piedmont (2006) 143 Cal. App. 4th 1074, 1084-1085, 49 Cal. Rptr. 3d 631 (immunity applied when injury was sustained on paved pathway through public dog park, despite allegations that handrails should have been installed); see also Prokop v. City of Los Angeles (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 1332, 1341-1342, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 355 (injury allegedly caused by design of access gate to bikeway was covered by trail immunity)].

Additionally, there is no liability for injuries caused by a condition of any paved trail or walkway, path, or sidewalk on an easement of way that has been granted to the public entity, if that easement provides access to any unimproved property, so long as the entity reasonably attempts to provide adequate warnings of the existence of any condition of the paved trail, walkway, path, or sidewalk that constitutes a hazard to health or safety [Gov. Code § 831.4(c)]. Such warnings are only required if the pathways are paved, and the requirement of such a warning cannot be construed as a standard of care for any unpaved pathways or roads [Gov. Code § 831.4(c); see Astenius v. State of California (2005) 126 Cal. App. 4th 472, 476, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 877 (state was immune from liability for death sustained on unpaved trail despite failure to post warnings and regardless of whether state made other improvements to area)].

[8] Hazardous Recreational Activity

Neither a public entity nor a public employee is liable to any person who participates or who assists a participant in a hazardous recreational activity, or to any spectator who knew or reasonably should have known that the hazardous recreational activity created a substantial risk of injury to himself or herself and was voluntarily in the place of risk or had the ability to leave but failed to do so, for any damage or injury to property or persons arising out of the hazardous recreational activity [Gov. Code § 831.7(a)].

However, a school district is not immune from liability under Gov. Code § 831.7 for injury to a student engaged in a school-sponsored athletic practice under the negligent supervision of school personnel [Acosta v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 471, 477-479, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 171 (established duty of reasonable supervision extends to school-sponsored extracurricular sports programs); see also Iverson v. Muroc Unified School Dist. (1995) 32 Cal. App. 4th 218, 225-227 (school not immune because injury occurred during physical education class)].

"Hazardous recreational activity" means a recreational activity conducted on property of a public entity that creates a substantial (as distinguished from a minor, trivial, or insignificant) risk of injury to a participant or a spectator [Gov. Code § 831.7(b)]. It also means any of the following [Gov. Code § 831.7(b)]:

- Water contact activities, except diving, in places where or when lifeguards are not provided, if reasonable warning of no lifeguards has been given or the injured party should reasonably have known that there was no lifeguard provided at that time;

- Any form of diving into water from other than a diving board or diving platform or at any place or from any structure where diving is prohibited, if reasonable warning not to dive has been given; and

- Animal riding (including equestrian competition), archery, bicycle racing or jumping, mountain bicycling, boating, cross-country and downhill skiing, hang gliding, kayaking, motorized vehicle racing, off-road motorcycling or four-wheel driving of any kind, orienteering, pistol and rifle shooting, rock climbing, rocketeering, rodeo, spelunking, sky diving, sport parachuting, paragliding, body contact sports (sports in which it is reasonably foreseeable that there will be rough bodily contact with one or more participants), surfing, trampolining, tree climbing, tree-rope swinging, water skiing, white-water rafting, and wind surfing. "Mountain bicycling" as used in Gov. Code § 831.7 does not include riding a bicycle on pathways, roadways or sidewalks.

Immunity is available under Gov. Code § 831.7 only if the injury-producing activity was both "hazardous" and "recreational" [Acosta v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 471, 476, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 171, 174] . For example, school districts, including colleges, have been denied immunity from liability under Gov. Code § 831.7 for injuries to students engaged in school-sponsored athletic practices under the negligent supervision of school personnel, based on the conclusion that such activities are part of the educational mission of the school and therefore not considered "recreational" [Avila v. Citrus Cmty. Coll. Dist. (2006) 38 Cal. 4th 148, 159-160, 41 Cal. Rptr. 3d 299, 131 P.3d 383 (community college was not immune under statute for injury to intercollegiate baseball player sustained during game); Iverson v. Muroc Unified Sch. Dist. (1995) 32 Cal. App. 4th 218, 227 (body contact sport performed in physical education class during school hours and required by school is not "recreational" under Gov. Code § 831.7); Acosta v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 471, 477-478, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 171 (school district has duty of reasonable supervision).

For purposes of Gov. Code § 831.7, "diving platform" refers to an artificial structure designed for the purpose of diving [Berry v. State of California (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 688, 691-692, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 382] .

This immunity does not limit liability that would otherwise exist for any of the following [Gov. Code § 831.7(c)]:

- Failure of the public entity or public employee to guard or warn of a known dangerous condition or of another hazardous recreational activity known to the public entity or employee that is not reasonably assumed by the participant as inherently a part of the hazardous recreational activity out of which the damage or injury arose;

- Damage or injury suffered in any case in which permission to participate in the hazardous recreational activity was granted for a specific fee, as defined below;

- Injury suffered to the extent proximately caused by the negligent failure of the public entity or public employee to properly construct or maintain in good repair any structure, recreational equipment or machinery, or substantial work of improvement used in the hazardous recreational activity out of which the damage or injury arose;

- Damage or injury suffered in any case in which the public entity or public employee recklessly or with gross negligence promoted the participation in or observance of a hazardous recreational activity; and

- An act of gross negligence by a public entity or a public employee that is the proximate cause of the injury.

A "specific fee," for purposes of the second paragraph above, does not include a fee or consideration charged for a general purpose, such as a general park admission charge, a vehicle entry or parking fee, or an administrative or group use application or permit fee, as distinguished from a specific fee charged for participation in the specific hazardous recreational activity out of which the damage or injury arose [Gov. Code § 831.7(c); see also Perry v. East Bay Reg'l Park Dist. (2006) 141 Cal. App. 4th 1, 13, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 477 (because park charged fee specifically for swimming only if lifeguards were on duty, specific fee exception to immunity did not apply in case involving swimmer who drowned after lifeguards had gone off duty)].

Promotional literature or a public announcement or advertisement that merely describes the available facilities and services on the property does not in itself constitute a reckless or grossly negligent promotion for purposes of the fifth paragraph above [Gov. Code § 831.7(c)].

Nothing in Gov. Code § 831.7(c) creates a duty of care or basis of liability for personal injury or for damage to personal property [Gov. Code § 831.7(c)]. Additionally, nothing in Gov. Code § 831.7 limits the liability of an independent concessionaire or any person or organization other than the public entity, whether or not the person or organization has a contractual relationship with the public entity to use the public property, for injuries or damages suffered in any case as a result of the operation of a hazardous recreational activity on public property by the concessionaire, person, or organization [Gov. Code § 831.7(d)].

Civ. Code § 846, which provides immunity to owners of property from liability to persons using their land for a variety of recreational purposes, does not apply to public entities [Delta Farms Reclamation Dist. v. Superior Court (1983)

33 Cal. 3d 699, 710, 190 Cal. Rptr. 494, 660 P.2d 1168] . For discussion of that statute, see Ch. 421, Premises Liability .

[9] Condition of Reservoirs and Canals

Subject to the exceptions set forth in Gov. Code § 831.8(c), (d), neither a public entity nor a public employee is liable for an injury caused by the dangerous condition of a reservoir if, at the time of the injury, the injured person was using the property for any purpose other than that for which the public entity intended or permitted the property to be used [Gov. Code § 831.8(a)].

Subject to the same exceptions, neither an irrigation district or its employee nor the state or its employee is liable for an injury caused by the dangerous condition of canals, conduits, or drains used for the distribution of water if, at the time of the injury, the injured person was using the property for any purpose other than that for which the district or the state intended it to be used [Gov. Code § 831.8(b)].

Nothing in Gov. Code § 831.8 exonerates a public entity or a public employee from liability for injury proximately caused by a dangerous condition of property if all of the following conditions are met [Gov. Code § 831.8(d)]:

- The injured person was not guilty of a criminal offense under Penal Code § 552 et seq. in entering or using the property;

- The condition created a substantial and unreasonable risk of death or serious bodily harm if the property or adjacent property was used with due care in a manner in which it was reasonably foreseeable that it would be used;

- The dangerous character of the condition was not reasonably apparent to, and would not have been anticipated by, a mature, reasonable person using the property with due care; and

- The public entity or the public employee had actual knowledge of the condition and knew or should have known of its dangerous character a sufficient time prior to the injury to have taken measures to protect against the condition.

Additionally, nothing in Gov. Code § 831.8 exonerates a public entity or a public employee from liability for injury proximately caused by a dangerous condition of property if all the following conditions are present [Gov. Code § 831.8(d)]:

- The person injured was less than 12 years of age;

- The dangerous condition created a substantial and unreasonable risk of death or serious bodily harm to children under 12 years of age using the property or adjacent property with due care in a manner in which it was reasonably foreseeable that it would be used;

- The person injured, because of his or her immaturity, did not discover the condition or did not appreciate its dangerous character; and

- The public entity or the public employee had actual knowledge of the condition and knew or should have known of its dangerous character a sufficient time prior to the injury to have taken measures to protect against the condition.

An analogous exception to immunity applies to Los Angeles County flood control agencies and water conservation facilities and their employees, although that exception extends to children 16 years old or younger [Gov. Code § 831.8(f)]. The qualified immunity for those agencies, facilities, and employees generally extends to injuries caused by the condition or use of unlined flood control channels or adjacent groundwater recharge spreading grounds if, at the time of injury, the person injured was using the property for any purpose other than that for which the public entity intended it to be used [Gov. Code § 831.8(c)].

The existence of an unfenced canal in a residential area does not create a substantial and unreasonable risk to children as a matter of law [Cardenas v. Turlock Irrigation Dist. (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 352, 359, 73 Cal. Rptr. 69] .

[10] Asbestos in Schools

A school district and its officers, directors, or employees have no civil liability in any civil action for injury, disease, death, or economic loss arising out of exposure, after 1988, to asbestos contained in buildings owned, leased, or otherwise used by a school district, except on proof that the injury, disease, death, or economic loss was caused by the negligence of the school district or its officers, directors, or employees [Gov. Code § 905.5]. Notwithstanding Gov. Code § 815.6 (public entity's liability on failure to discharge mandatory duty) and Evid. Code § 669 (presumption of failure to exercise due care on basis of statutory violation), no presumption of negligence applies to any action under Gov. Code § 905.5 [Gov. Code § 905.5].

Gov. Code § 905.5 applies only to actions against school districts. It does not apply to any other action, including, but not limited to, actions against a manufacturer, contractor, or any person who makes, sells, distributes, furnishes, or installs asbestos-containing materials. Gov. Code § 905.5 does not affect, alter, or otherwise modify the law pertaining to workers' compensation claims. Nor does it affect the right of a school district or its officers, directors, or employees to seek indemnification [Gov. Code § 905.5].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Education LawImmunitiesSchool District ImmunityReal Property LawTortsNuisanceDefensesImmunityTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Grounds for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
2. Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.86

§ 464.86 Reasonableness Defense

[1] Public Entities

A public entity is not liable under Gov. Code § 835(a) for injury caused by a condition of its property if that entity establishes that the act or omission that created the condition was reasonable. The reasonableness of the act or omission that created the condition is determined by weighing the probability and gravity of potential injury to persons and property foreseeably exposed to the risk of injury against the practicability and cost of taking alternative action that would not create the risk of injury or protecting against the risk of injury [Gov. Code § 835.4(a)].

A public entity is not liable under Gov. Code § 835(b) for injury caused by a dangerous condition of its property if that entity establishes that the action it took to protect against the risk of injury created by the condition or its failure to take such action was reasonable. The reasonableness of the action or inaction of the public entity is determined by taking into consideration the time and opportunity it had to take action and by weighing the probability and gravity of potential injury against the practicability and cost of protecting against the risk of that injury [Gov. Code § 835.4(b)].

[2] Public Employees

A public employee is not liable under Gov. Code § 840.2(a) for his or her negligent act for injury caused by a dangerous condition of public property if he or she establishes that the act or omission that created the condition was reasonable. The reasonableness of the act or omission that created the condition is determined by weighing the probability and gravity of potential injury to persons and property foreseeably exposed to the risk of injury against the practicability and cost of taking alternative action that would not create the risk of injury or of protecting against the risk of injury [Gov. Code § 840.6(a)].

A public employee is not liable under Gov. Code § 840.2(b) for injury caused by a dangerous condition of public property if he or she establishes that the action taken to protect against the risk of injury created by the condition or the failure to take that action was reasonable. The reasonableness of the inaction or action is determined by taking into consideration the time and opportunity the public employee had to take action and by weighing the probability and gravity of potential injury to persons and property foreseeably exposed to the risk of injury against the practicability and cost of protecting against the risk of that injury [Gov. Code § 840.6(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsEmployeesTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsExclusions From Liability

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Grounds for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
2. Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 464.87-464.99

[Reserved]

§§ 464.87[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Grounds for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
3. Specific Liabilities and Immunities

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.100

§ 464.100 Governing Law

The law governing police and correctional activities, liabilities, and immunities is set forth in Gov. Code §§ 844-846. The law governing fire protection liabilities and immunities is set forth in Gov. Code §§ 850-850.8. The law governing medical, hospital, and public health liabilities and immunities is set forth in Gov. Code §§ 854-856.4, and the law governing administration of tax laws immunities is set forth in Gov. Code §§ 860-860.4.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityJudicial ImmunityTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityQualified ImmunityTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunitySovereign Immunity

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Grounds for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
3. Specific Liabilities and Immunities

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.101

§ 464.101 Common Law Judicial and Legislative Immunity

Judges and legislators are immune under the common law from tort liability for their official acts [Paddleford v. Biscay (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 139, 143, 99 Cal. Rptr. 220 (judges); City of Santa Clara v. County of Santa Clara (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 493, 498, 81 Cal. Rptr. 643 (judges); Frazier v. Moffatt (1951) 108 Cal. App. 2d 379, 384, 239 P.2d 123 (justices of peace); see Lake Country Estates v. Tahoe Planning Agency (1979) 440 U.S. 391, 405, 99 S. Ct. 1171, 59 L. Ed. 2d 401 (federal, state, and regional legislators); Tenney v. Brandhove (1950) 341 U.S. 367, 372, 71 S. Ct. 783, 95 L. Ed. 1019 (legislators)]. The courts have also extended the judicial immunity doctrine to persons who are not technically judges, but who act in a judicial or quasi-judicial capacity [Taylor v. Mitzel (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 665, 670-671, 147 Cal. Rptr. 323] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsCourtsJudicial ImmunityTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityJudicial ImmunityTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityJudicial Immunity

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Grounds for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
3. Specific Liabilities and Immunities

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.102

§ 464.102 Law Enforcement Activities

[1] Liability of Law Enforcement Officer for Negligence

[a] General Rule of Liability

A law enforcement officer is liable, to the same extent as a private individual, for his or her lack of due care that results in injury, unless he or she is protected by a statutory immunity [Gov. Code § 820(a); see Munoz v. Olin (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 629, 634, 156 Cal. Rptr. 727, 596 P.2d 1143 . The officer's conduct must be gauged in relation to all the other material circumstances surrounding it, and if such other circumstances admit of a reasonable doubt as to whether the questioned conduct falls within or without the bounds of ordinary care, then such doubt must be resolved as a matter of fact rather than law [Grudt v. Los Angeles (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 575, 587, 86 Cal. Rptr. 465 . For example, police officers and a public entity were liable because there was substantial evidence supporting a finding of lack of due care resulting in an intentional shooting death by the officers. From the evidence, the jury could have found that the officers were negligent in mistaking the decedent for a suspect, in failing to adequately warn the decedent of their intentions, and in use of their weapons, which was not necessarily required by the circumstances [Munoz v. Olin (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 629, 634, 156 Cal. Rptr. 727, 596 P.2d 1143 ; see Grudt v. Los Angeles (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 575, 586-588, 86 Cal. Rptr. 465, 468 P.2d 825 (issue of officer's negligence for jury)].

Similarly, a plaintiff stated a cause of action for negligence against police officers based on allegations that the officers failed to inform a person that they were police officers when they approached him with guns, which caused the person to flee in an automobile. The officers chased the automobile, and it crashed into the plaintiff's automobile [Sparks v. Compton (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 592, 597-602, 134 Cal. Rptr. 684] . Failure to provide police protection also may be the basis of a negligence action if an officer acts as a "good Samaritan" by voluntarily undertaking to provide protection, and then fails to exercise due care [Baker v. City of Los Angeles (1986) 188 Cal. App. 3d 902, 907, 233 Cal. Rptr. 760 (no duty as matter of law because once voluntary act performed, police officer not required to continue providing protection indefinitely)].

[b] Plaintiff Injured During Commission of Felony

Under Proposition 213, adopted by the voters in 1996 and applicable to all actions in which the initial trial begins after 1996 [see Note following Civ. Code § 3333.3], a plaintiff seeking damages for negligence does not have the right to recover any damages if the plaintiff's injuries were in any way proximately caused by the plaintiff's commission of a felony or were caused by the plaintiff's immediate flight from the commission of a felony, so long as the plaintiff has been convicted of that felony [Civ. Code § 3333.3]. However, this limitation on liability for damages applies only to conduct that is negligent. It does not apply to shield law enforcement personnel from potential liability for intentional torts based on the nonnegligent use of excessive force [Jenkins v. County of Los Angeles (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 524, 534, 88 Cal. Rptr. 2d 149] . For further discussion of Proposition 213, see Ch. 82A, Automobiles: Damages .

[2] Liability of Police Officer for Failure to Investigate Child Abuse

Penal Code § 11166(a) imposes a mandatory duty on a police officer to investigate child abuse allegations that the officer receives and, if a reasonable person would have suspected child abuse, to report to the appropriate child protective agency [Alejo v. City of Alhambra (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 1180, 1186, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 768] . The failure to perform these mandatory statutory duties may support a tort action for negligence per se against the officer and the employing entity, if the child is subsequently injured through further abuse [Alejo v. City of Alhambra (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 1180, 1184-1190, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 768] .

[3] Immunity for Injury Caused by Police Pursuit Vehicles

Effective July 1, 2007, a public agency that adopts and promulgates a written policy on vehicular pursuits that meets the criteria specified in Veh. Code § 17004.7(c), and provides regular and periodic training on vehicular pursuits on an annual basis, is immune from liability for civil damages for personal injury, death, or property damage resulting from the collision of a vehicle being operated by an actual or suspected violator of the law who is being, has been, or believes he or she is being or has been, pursued in a motor vehicle by a peace officer employed by the public agency [Veh. Code § 17004.7(b)(1)]. Similar statutory immunity was provided prior to July 1, 2007, although the earlier version of the statute did not impose either a promulgation or training requirement on the public agency, and it imposed less detailed substantive criteria on the adopted policy [see former Veh. Code § 17004.7(b), (c)].

"Promulgation" of a written policy under the 2007 provisions includes, but is not limited to, a requirement that all peace officers employed by the public agency certify in writing that they have received, read, and understand the policy [Veh. Code § 17004.7(b)(2)]. The failure of an individual officer to sign a certification, however, may not be used to impose liability on an individual officer or a public entity [Veh. Code § 17004.7(b)(2)]. "Regular and periodic training" means annual training that includes, at a minimum, coverage of each of the subjects and policy elements set forth below, and that complies, at a minimum, with the training guidelines established pursuant to Pen. Code § 13519.8 [Veh. Code § 17004.7(d)].

The immunity provision of Veh. Code § 17004.7 has been upheld against challenges that it denies equal protection to accident victims injured by vehicles driven by pursued suspects [see Billester v. City of Corona (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 1107, 1121-1125, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 121] , as well as against constitutional challenges based on the due process clauses of the state and federal constitutions [Ketchum v. State of California (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 957, 962-964, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 152] .

The immunity is not limited to situations in which the pursued suspect is driving his or her own vehicle. It also applies to situations in which the pursued suspect is operating a stolen police vehicle [Bryant v. County of Los Angeles (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 919, 923-924, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 285] . Nor is immunity limited to situations in which the police officer chases a suspect in a car. Immunity also applies to police officers who use motorcycles rather than cars in police chases, despite statutory language protecting police officers who chase suspects "in" rather than "on" motor vehicles [McGee v. City of Laguna Beach (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 537, 543, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 506] .

Immunity under Veh. Code § 17004.7 applied to a chase in which a suspect's motorcycle crashed to the ground while fleeing from police, resulting in the death of a passenger on the motorcycle, who either jumped or was thrown off the crashing motorcycle and was immediately struck by the pursuing police vehicle. Under these circumstances, the passenger's act of jumping or falling off the crashing motorcycle resulted from the collision of the motorcycle with the ground, as did the passenger's immediate impact with the pursuing police vehicle [Lewis v. County of Sacramento (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 107, 120-121, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 90] . Immunity also was granted under the statute in a case in which a vehicle being pursued struck a trash dumpster, which in turn struck a bystander, causing serious injury and eventually death [Nguyen v. City of Westminster (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 1161, 1168, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 388] .

This immunity applies once the public entity has adopted the requisite pursuit policy. The public entity need not prove that during a particular chase, the policy on safe pursuits was actually practiced by the pursuing officers [Nguyen v. City of Westminster (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 1161, 1167, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 388 ; Weiner v. City of San Diego (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 1203, 1210, 280 Cal. Rptr. 818 ; Kishida v. State of California (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 329, 335, 280 Cal. Rptr. 62 ; see Brumer v. City of Los Angeles (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 983, 987, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 515] .

Immunity under Veh. Code § 17004.7 did not apply in a case in which a city's vehicular pursuit policy did not provide sufficient specific guidelines for determining when to initiate or terminate a pursuit [see Berman v. City of Daly City (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 276, 280-285, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 493]. The policy must do more than advise officers to exercise their discretion and use their best judgment. Instead, the policy must control and channel the officer's discretion by providing objective standards by which to evaluate whether the pursuit should be initiated or terminated [Ketchum v. State of California (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 957, 966-970, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 152 (policy adopted by CHP provided adequate guidelines for justification, initiation, and termination of pursuit under former version of Veh. Code § 17004.7)].

A police pursuit policy that otherwise meets the statutory guidelines is not inadequate because it fails to cover all possible contingencies [Bryant v. County of Los Angeles (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 919, 922, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 285]. For example, a police pursuit policy is not inadequate merely because it provides no guidelines covering the situation of a pursued suspect's driving a stolen police vehicle [see Bryant v. County of Los Angeles (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 919, 922-923, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 285 (decided under former version of Veh. Code § 17004.7)].

The statute uses the terms "public entity" and "public agency" interchangeably and both terms include a city [Alcala v. City of Corcoran (2007) 147 Cal. App. 4th 666, 671, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 908] . A pursuit policy promulgated by a city's chief of police can qualify for immunity under Veh. Code § 17004.7 [Brumer v. City of Los Angeles (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 983, 987, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 515; see also Alcala v. City of Corcoran (2007) 147 Cal. App. 4th 666, 674, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 908 (police chief's conduct was sufficient to establish that policy was formally adopted)].

[4] Immunity for Failure to Provide Police Protection

Neither a public entity nor a public employee is liable for failure to establish a police department or otherwise provide police protection service or, if police protection service is provided, for failure to provide sufficient police protection service [Gov. Code § 845; see, e.g., Zelig v. County of Los Angeles (2002) 27 Cal. 4th 1112, 1144-1147, 119 Cal. Rptr. 2d 709, 45 P.3d 1171 (county not liable for failing to prevent shooting in public courthouse)].

This immunity for failure to provide police protection service is absolute whether the police action is discretionary or ministerial [Hartzler v. City of San Jose (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 6, 8-9, 120 Cal. Rptr. 5] , and a public entity is immune from liability for failure to respond promptly to a burglar alarm that signals the police station [Antique Arts Corp. v. Torrance (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 588, 591-593, 114 Cal. Rptr. 332] , even though the police department is required to respond to the call [see Gov. Code § 845 (cannot fail to respond to alarm solely because city permit not obtained)].

Additionally, a public entity is immune to liability for the failure to provide adequate police protection during a riot, notwithstanding allegations that senior police officials had discriminatory motives when allocating police resources during the riot [Gates v. Superior Court (Hirata) (1995) 32 Cal. App. 4th 481, 508, 510 , n.511, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 489, 502 (government tort immunities apply to intentional torts)]. Application of Gov. Code § 845 immunity in light of allegations of unlawfully discriminatory deployment of police officers has also withstood equal protection challenge [Gates v. Superior Court (1995) 32 Cal. App. 4th 481, 513-525, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 489, 502], as well as arguments that immunity under such circumstances is precluded by Civ. Code §§ 51.7 and 52, which generally grant the right to be free from violence directed against a person because of membership in a protected classification [Gates v. Superior Court (Hirata) (1995) 32 Cal. App. 4th 481, 510-525, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 489 ; see Civ. Code §§ 51.7, 52]. This immunity applies only to actions for monetary damages, however, and does not extend to actions seeking equitable relief [Gates v. Superior Court (Hirata) (1995) 32 Cal. App. 4th 481, 494-508, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 489] .

Immunity for failure to provide police protection does not apply to situations in which the government entity failed to take other reasonable action, in lieu of providing police protection, to minimize the chances of harm to plaintiff [Lopez v. Southern Cal. Rapid Transit Dist. (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 780, 785, 791, 221 Cal. Rptr. 840, 710 P.2d 907] . The immunity also does not apply if the police had a special relationship with the victim and failed to warn him or her of a known danger [Wallace v. City of Los Angeles (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 1385, 1402-1403, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 113 (witness whose cooperation police officer sought in connection with murder trial was murdered after threats from suspect and assurances by officer that she was in no danger; officer had duty to warn); Carpenter v. City of Los Angeles (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 923, 934-935, 281 Cal. Rptr. 500 (victim was witness in criminal case, and police had reliable information that his life was in danger); but see Hernandez v. City of Pomona (1996) 49 Cal. App. 4th 1492, 1504, 57 Cal. Rptr. 2d 406 (police officers owed no duty to protect plaintiff's deceased son from retaliation by fellow gang members against whom son provided incriminating evidence despite assurances to son that no harm would come to him)]. Apart from the defense of statutory immunity, a police officer or entity is not liable for failure to provide police protection unless it can be established that the plaintiff was owed a duty of care [Baker v. City of Los Angeles (1986) 188 Cal. App. 3d 902, 909, 233 Cal. Rptr. 760 ; see § 464.102[1]].

[5] Immunity for Failure to Make Arrest

Neither a public entity nor a public employee is liable for injury caused by the failure to make an arrest or by the failure to retain an arrested person in custody [Gov. Code § 846]. Moreover, a police officer is under no mandatory duty, for the purpose of imposing liability under Gov. Code § 815.6, to prevent an obviously intoxicated person from operating a motor vehicle [Lehto v. City of Oxnard (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 285, 288-296, 217 Cal. Rptr. 450] .

[6] Liability and Immunity for Torts of Law Enforcement Officer Employed as Private Security Guard

Penal Code § 70(d) provides that a public entity may be liable for the actions of off-duty law enforcement officers who are engaged in casual or part-time employment as security guards for private employers, but only under limited circumstances. A public entity is not liable for an off-duty officer's tortious conduct while engaged in secondary employment unless all of the following conditions are met:

- The law enforcement officer was wearing his or her uniform;
- The secondary employment was approved by the county board of supervisors or city council of the principal employer, or their designees;
- The wearing of uniforms and equipment was approved by the principal employer; and
- The law enforcement officer was subject to reasonable rules and regulations of the principal employer [Penal Code § 70(d)(1); Melendez v. City of Los Angeles (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1, 6-7, 12, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 469 (city not liable because all conditions of statute were not met)].

However, beginning in 1997, the principal public employer was required to obtain an indemnity agreement from the secondary private employer as a condition of approving the casual or part-time employment [Penal Code § 70(d)(2)].

[7] Immunity From Suit by Plaintiff Charged With Criminal Conduct

No person charged by indictment, information, complaint, or other accusatory pleading charging a criminal offense may bring a civil action for money or damages against a law enforcement officer or against the public entity employing a law enforcement officer based on conduct of the law enforcement officer relating to the offense for which the accused is charged, including an act or omission in investigating or reporting the offense or arresting or detaining the accused, while the charges against the accused are pending before a superior court. Any applicable statute of limitations for filing and prosecuting these claims is tolled during the period that the charges are pending before a superior court [Gov. Code § 945.3; see McMartin v. County of Los Angeles (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 848, 854-860, 249 Cal. Rptr. 53 (upholding constitutionality of Gov. Code § 945.3)].

The charges pending do not include appeals or criminal proceedings diverted pursuant to Penal Code §§ 1000-1000.5, 1000.6-1000.11, 1001-1001.11, 1001.20-1001.35, 1001.50, or 1001.51. Nothing in Gov. Code § 945.3, however, prohibits the filing of a claim with the board of a public entity or extends the time within which a claim is required to be presented pursuant to Gov. Code § 911.2 [Gov. Code § 945.3]. Therefore, the person so charged must file a claim with the proper government entity within six months after the arrest, or be barred thereafter from filing a subsequent court action [see Gov. Code § 911.2].

[8] Recovery of Attorney's Fees by Police Officer Sued in Bad Faith

In any action for damages arising out of the performance of a law enforcement officer's duties (including an action for libel or slander under Civ. Code § 45 or 46) brought against a law enforcement officer (as defined in Penal Code § 830 et seq.) or against a public entity employing a law enforcement officer, the court may, in its discretion, award reasonable attorney's fees to the defendant as part of the costs, on a finding by the court that the action was not filed or maintained in good faith and with reasonable cause [Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.7; see Planned Protective Servs., Inc. v. Gorton (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 1, 15, 245 Cal. Rptr. 790 ; see also Martin v. Szeto (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 445, 451-452 & n.7, 9 Cal. Rptr. 3d 687, 84 P.3d 374 (although statute only applies to actions involving law enforcement officer conduct, statute applies reciprocally to allow for award of attorneys' fees to private citizens who must defend against baseless complaints for libel or slander stemming from citizen's complaint about manner in which law enforcement officer has performed duties)]. Counsel should add a request in the prayer to the answer for such reasonable attorney's fees.

For a discussion of the procedures necessary for recovering attorney's fees, see Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsPolice PowerTortsPublic Entity LiabilityExcessive ForceTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Grounds for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
3. Specific Liabilities and Immunities

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.103

§ 464.103 Injuries by and to Prisoners

[1] General Rules of Liability and Immunity

Notwithstanding any other provisions of Gov. Code §§ 814-895.8 (liability of public entities and public employees), except as provided in Gov. Code § 844.6(b)-(d) and in Gov. Code §§ 814 (contract liability), 814.2 (workers' compensation liability), 845.4 (interference with prisoners' rights), and 845.6 (failure to furnish or obtain medical care for prisoner), a public entity is not liable for an injury proximately caused by any prisoner or an injury to any prisoner [Gov. Code § 844.6(a)]. This provision does not affect the liability of a public entity under Veh. Code §§ 17000-17004.5 with regard to liability for motor vehicles [Gov. Code § 844.6(b)]. Except for an injury to a prisoner, nothing in Gov. Code § 844.6 prevents recovery from the public entity for an injury resulting from the dangerous condition of public property as described in Gov. Code §§ 830-840.6 [Gov. Code § 844.6(c)]. However, if the cause of action does arise from injuries to a prisoner, the immunity applies. Therefore, that statutory immunity bars a claim for loss of consortium made by the wife of a prisoner, based on injuries sustained by her husband [Badiggo v. County of Ventura (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 357, 361-362, 254 Cal. Rptr. 771] .

Nothing in Gov. Code § 844.6 exonerate a public employee from liability for injury proximately caused by his or her negligent or wrongful act or omission. The public entity may, but is not required to, pay any judgment, compromise, or settlement, or may, but is not required to, indemnify any public employee, in any case where the public entity is immune from liability under these provisions. However, the public entity must pay, as provided in Gov. Code §§ 825-825.6, any judgment based on a claim against a public employee who is lawfully engaged in the practice of one of the healing arts under any law of California for malpractice arising from an act or omission in the scope of his or her employment and must pay any compromise or settlement of a claim or action, based on such malpractice, to which the public entity has agreed [Gov. Code § 844.6(d)].

The public employee immunity provision of Gov. Code § 844.6 does not prevent a lawsuit by a prison inmate against a correctional officer and a prison doctor in their personal, as opposed to their official, capacities. In a case before the Ninth Circuit, in which the defendants argued that because California would indemnify the defendants if they were required to pay damages to the plaintiff, California was the real party in interest, the court concluded that California's indemnification of defendants did not render California the real party in interest [Ashker v. California Dep't of Corr. (9th Cir. 1997) 112 F.3d 392, 395 (inmate's suit alleging 42 U.S.C.S. § 1983 claim as well as pendent state claims for assault and battery and medical malpractice not barred by Eleventh Amendment immunity)].

The court of appeal has held that there is no private right of action for violation of the prohibition against cruel and unusual punishment contained in Article I, Section 17 of the California Constitution. Recognizing the importance of the rights protected by the provision, the court nonetheless found nothing in the constitutional provision or its history suggesting that the enactors intended to create a private right of action. The court also noted adequate alternate remedies existed, including the right to proceed under federal law for a violation of the same protection afforded by the U.S. Constitution [Giraldo v. Department of Corrections & Rehabilitation (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 231, 254-256, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 371].

[2] Definition of "Prisoner"

The term "prisoner" as used in Gov. Code § 844.6 includes an inmate of a prison, jail, or penal or correctional facility. A lawfully arrested person brought into a law enforcement facility for the purpose of being booked becomes a prisoner as a matter of law on entry into a prison, jail, or penal or correctional facility pursuant to penal process [Gov. Code § 844]. A person in the custody of a law enforcement officer, but undergoing medical treatment in a county hospital, is considered a prisoner. Work camps for prisoners are considered penal or correctional facilities. Although a prisoner or ward of the juvenile court engaged in fire suppression is considered a prisoner, a person on parole is not considered a prisoner [Fearon v. Department of Corr. (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 1254, 1256, 209 Cal. Rptr. 309 ; Zeilman v. County of Kern (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 1174, 1179, 214 Cal. Rptr. 746] . The ward of a juvenile court committed to the custody of his or her parent is also not a prisoner [Patricia J. v. Rio Linda Union Sch. Dist. (1976) 61 Cal. App. 3d 278, 282-288, 132 Cal. Rptr. 211] .

The term "prisoner" means a person in jail or prison and does not include a person detained by police, but not yet arrested [Larson v. Oakland (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 91, 94-98, 94 Cal. Rptr. 466] , or a person who has been arrested and held in a police car, but not yet incarcerated [Griffith v. City of Monrovia (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d Supp. 6, 8-10 , 184 Cal. Rptr. 709] . However, a person who has been arrested, booked, and is being held in the receiving section of the jail is a prisoner [Datil v. Los Angeles (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 655, 658-659, 69 Cal. Rptr. 788] . A ward of the juvenile court committed to a foster home is also a prisoner [Jiminez v. Santa Cruz County (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 407, 410-413, 116 Cal. Rptr. 878] . Similarly, a person who has been arrested and is turned over to the custody of the sheriff's department on completion of the initial booking in the reception area of the county jail is a prisoner [Terzian v. County of Ventura (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 78, 83-87, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 809] . Furthermore, a person who is not actually within a cell but is within the confines of a jail facility awaiting incarceration is a prisoner [Peterson v. County of Los Angeles (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 705, 709, 230 Cal. Rptr. 80] .

A person who has been falsely imprisoned by the failure to release him or her at the proper time is not a prisoner for the purposes of a subsequent action for false imprisonment, and the public entity is not immune from liability for false imprisonment [Sullivan v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 710, 716-717, 117 Cal. Rptr. 241, 527 P.2d 865] .

The decisive element in defining "prisoner" has been confinement due to court commitment or legal process. Although a work furlough program differs from a jail or prison in many respects, an individual's restraint within such a program satisfies this element of confinement, and a program participant is a prisoner [Badiggo v. County of Ventura (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 357, 360-361, 254 Cal. Rptr. 771 ; see Penal Code § 1208 (work furlough programs)].

A person confined in a correctional facility or institution pursuant to Pen. Code § 647, which permits a law enforcement officer to place a person under the influence of intoxicating liquor into civil protective custody, is a prisoner for these purposes [Teter v. City of Newport Beach (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 446, 451-453, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 139, 66 P.3d 1225] . In addition, if a person taken into custody pursuant to a valid arrest under Pen. Code § 647 is subsequently released without charges being filed, and a certificate is issued under Pen. Code § 851.6 that describes the earlier period of custody as a "detention," that person is still considered a prisoner during the time of detention for purposes of applying the immunity of Gov. Code § 844.6 [Teter v. City of Newport Beach (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 446, 454, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 139, 66 P.3d 1225] .

A child residing with his or her incarcerated mother under the Pregnant and Parenting Women's Alternative Sentencing Program Act [see Pen. Code § 1174 et seq.] is not a "prisoner" for purposes of these provisions of the Tort Claims Act, as such a child resides in the facility because the mother is housed there and not because the child is the subject of any legal restraint [Lawson v. Superior Court (2010) 180 Cal. App. 4th 1372, 1387, 103 Cal. Rptr. 3d 834] .

An inmate performing assigned work while incarcerated in a prison facility may be considered an "employee" within the meaning of the Workers' Compensation Act. In that case, the exclusive workers' compensation remedy applies, and the civil courts have no jurisdiction over the matter [see Rowland v. County of Sonoma (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 331, 333-334, 269 Cal. Rptr. 426]. If the inmate is in a state facility, he or she will usually be considered an employee [see Lab. Code § 3351 (definition of employee for purpose of Workers' Compensation Act)]. However, if the inmate is in a county facility, the determination of whether he or she is an employee is made on a case-by-case basis using the general definition of an employee, and considering the following factors: whether the work was required as a condition of incarceration; whether the inmate volunteered for the assignment; and what considerations, such as monetary compensation, work-time credits, and freedom from incarceration, were received by the inmate [see Rowland v. County of Sonoma (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 331, 334, 269 Cal. Rptr. 426].

[3] Interference With Prisoner's Right to Judicial Determination

Neither a public entity nor a public employee acting within the scope of his or her employment is liable for interfering with the right of a prisoner to obtain a judicial determination or review of the legality of his or her confinement. However, a public employee and the public entity for which the employee is acting within the scope of his or her employment are liable for injury proximately caused by the employee's intentional and unjustifiable interference with that right, but no cause of action for that injury is deemed to have accrued until it has first been determined that the confinement was illegal [Gov. Code § 845.4].

[4] Immunity for Failure to Provide Prison Facilities

Except as provided in Gov. Code §§ 830-840.6 involving the dangerous conditions of public property, neither a public entity nor a public employee is liable for failure to provide a prison, jail, or penal or correctional facility or, if such facility is provided, for failure to provide sufficient equipment, personnel, or facilities there [Gov. Code § 845.2].

The immunity provided by Gov. Code § 845.2, like that provided by Gov. Code § 845, is designed to prevent political decisions of government policy-making officials from being second-guessed by judges and juries in personal injury litigation [Taylor v. Buff (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 384, 390, 218 Cal. Rptr. 249] . Therefore, for example, essentially budgetary decisions of these officials are not subject to judicial review in tort litigation [Taylor v. Buff (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 384, 390, 218 Cal. Rptr. 249] .

Despite protection from actions under state law, however, public entities and officials, including prisons and prison officials, may be liable under federal civil rights statutes. For further discussion, see Ch. 112, Civil Rights: Government-Funded Programs and Activities , as well as Levy, Golden & Sacks, California Torts, Ch. 66, § 61.66 (Matthew Bender), and Cook & Sobieski, Civil Rights Actions (Matthew Bender).

[5] Failure to Furnish Medical Care to Prisoner

Neither a public entity nor a public employee is liable for injury proximately caused by the failure of the employee to furnish or obtain medical care for a prisoner. However, except as otherwise provided in Gov. Code §§ 855.8 and 856 regarding mental illness, a public employee and the public entity for which the employee is acting within the scope of his or her employment are liable if the employee knows or has reason to know that the prisoner is in need of immediate medical care and he or she fails to take reasonable action to summon such medical care. Nothing stated above exonerates a public employee, who is lawfully engaged in the practice of one of the healing arts under any law of California, from liability for injury proximately caused by malpractice or exonerates the public entity from its obligation to pay any judgment, compromise, or settlement that it is required to pay under Gov. Code § 844.6(d) [Gov. Code § 845.6]. Therefore, a public entity under Gov. Code § 845.6 is immune from suit for the medical malpractice of its employees, although it is required to pay a judgment against its employees for medical malpractice committed against a prisoner [see Watson v. State of California (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 836, 842, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 262] .

[6] Immunity for Release or Escape of Prisoners

Neither a public entity nor a public employee is liable for any injury resulting from determining whether to parole or release a prisoner, from determining the terms and conditions of his or her parole or release, or from determining whether to revoke his or her parole or release [Gov. Code § 845.8(a)]. Therefore, a public entity is immune from liability for the actions of prisoners released into the community for rehabilitative purposes [California v. Superior Court (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 1023, 1025-1028, 112 Cal. Rptr. 706] . A public entity or public employee is also immune from liability for injury resulting from the negligent failure to supervise a person's parole [Gov. Code § 845.8(a); Duffy v. City of Oceanside (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 666, 673, 224 Cal. Rptr. 879 ; Martinez v. State of California (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 430, 436, 149 Cal. Rptr. 519] . Finally, the members of the Board of Prison Terms are immune from suit for making the discretionary decision that an incarcerated plaintiff is not suitable for parole [Leyva v. Nielsen (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 1061, 1066-1067, 100 Cal. Rptr. 2d 231].

Ministerial acts undertaken in the performance of correctional policy decisions are not covered by the immunity of Gov. Code § 845.8(a), however [Perez-Torres v. State of California (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 136, 144-145, 64 Cal. Rptr. 3d 155, 164 P.3d 583 (overruling Swift v. Department of Corrections (2004) 116 Cal. App. 4th 1365, 11 Cal. Rptr. 3d 406)]. Thus, for example, while the State's decision to revoke a prisoner's parole, even if based on erroneous information about the person's identity, is a policy decision covered by immunity [Perez-Torres v. State of California (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 136, 141-142, 64 Cal. Rptr. 3d 155, 164 P.3d 583] , the failure of State personnel to release the prisoner after they knew or should have known that they were detaining the wrong person is a ministerial act not protected by immunity under Gov. Code § 845.8(a) [Perez-Torres v. State of California (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 136, 145, 64 Cal. Rptr. 3d 155, 164 P.3d 583] .

Neither a public entity nor a public employee is liable for any injury caused by an escaping or escaped prisoner, an escaping or escaped arrested person, or a person resisting arrest [Gov. Code § 845.8(b)]. This immunity from liability for injuries caused by an escaping prisoner is absolute whether the acts of the public employee that allowed the escape were discretionary or ministerial [Sacramento County v. Superior Court (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 479, 481-486, 105 Cal. Rptr. 374, 503 P.2d 1382] . The immunity provided in Gov. Code § 845.8(b) also applies if persons whom police did not attempt to arrest, but merely attempted to stop for questioning and citation for traffic violations, cause injury in fleeing from the police [Kisbey v. State of California (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 415, 419, 204 Cal. Rptr. 428, 682 P.2d 1093] .

However, the immunity of Gov. Code § 845.8 does not preclude public entity liability under Veh. Code § 17001 for negligent operation of motor vehicles by public employees during the course of their employment in situations in which the police have not yet detained the suspect [Stark v. City of Los Angeles (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 276, 283-284, 214 Cal. Rptr. 216 (failure of police to sound siren during chase may provide basis for liability even though suspect's car collided with plaintiff); see also Thomas v. City of Richmond (1995) 9 Cal. 4th 1154, 1164, 40 Cal. Rptr. 2d 442, 892

P.2d 1185 ; but see Veh. Code § 17004.7 (immunizing public entity that has enacted specified guidelines from liability resulting from police pursuit)].

The immunity provided in Gov. Code § 845.8(a) applies if the questioned act involves policy decisions made prior to or as an integral part of the decision to release [Thompson v. County of Alameda (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 741, 747-748, 749, 167 Cal. Rptr. 70, 614 P.2d 728 (release of juvenile into mother's custody on temporary leave)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsPolice PowerTortsIntentional TortsFalse ImprisonmentDefensesImmunityTortsPublic Entity LiabilityExcessive ForceTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Grounds for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
3. Specific Liabilities and Immunities

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.104

§ 464.104 Emergency Services

[1] Fire Protection Activities

[a] Immunity for Failure to Provide Fire Protection

Neither a public entity nor a public employee is liable for failure to establish a fire department or otherwise to provide fire protection service [Gov. Code § 850].

[b] Immunity for Failure to Provide Sufficient Fire Protection Facilities

Neither a public entity that has undertaken to provide fire protection service nor an employee of such public entity is liable for any injury resulting from the failure to provide or maintain sufficient personnel, equipment, or other fire protection facilities [Gov. Code § 850.2]. For example, a public entity was not liable for shutting off a water valve that supplied fire hydrants and not notifying the fire department or turning the valve back on [Heieck & Moran v. City of Modesto (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 229, 233, 49 Cal. Rptr. 377, 411 P.2d 105] .

[c] Immunity for Condition of Equipment and for Injuries Caused in Fighting Fires

Neither a public entity nor a public employee acting in the scope of his or her employment is liable for any injury resulting from the condition of fire protection or fire fighting equipment or facilities or, except as provided in Veh. Code §§ 17000-17004.5 with regard to liability for motor vehicles, for any injury caused in fighting fires [Gov. Code § 850.4]. For example, a public entity was immune from liability for injuries incurred by a person who was being rescued from a fire [Heimberger v. City of Fairfield (1975) 44 Cal. App. 3d 711, 714-716, 117 Cal. Rptr. 482 , as well as for damages incurred when cattle escaped through a hole in a fence cut by firefighters to fight a fire and not repaired [Bettencourt v. California (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 892, 894-896, 124 Cal. Rptr. 542] . This immunity extends to the failure of firefighters to get to a fire quickly, even if the failure was caused by willful, wanton, and reckless conduct [City & County of San Francisco v. Superior Court (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 837, 841-842, 207 Cal. Rptr. 6 (delay due to firefighters' unauthorized social gathering away from fire house)].

The immunity provided in Gov. Code § 850.4 for injuries caused in fighting fires does not extend to situations that do not involve fighting fires [Lewis v. Mendocino Fire Prot. Dist. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 345, 346-347, 190 Cal. Rptr. 883 (no immunity for further injuring person in course of removing fallen tree from him); but see Health & Safety Code § 1769, providing immunity for emergency rescue, discussed in § 464.104[2]]. Additionally, if an action for inverse condemnation otherwise exists, the statutory immunity for injuries resulting from the condition of firefighting equipment does not provide a defense, because the constitutional provisions requiring compensation for property taken or damaged by a public use override the Tort Claims Act and its immunities [Pacific Bell v. City of San Diego (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 596, 602-603, 96 Cal. Rptr. 2d 897] . In one case, for example, a city had no preventive maintenance plan to inspect or monitor the effect of corrosion on old cast iron pipes, and the plaintiff's business was flooded after a corroded cast iron water pipe servicing a fire hydrant burst. The city was not immune from liability for inverse condemnation under Gov. Code § 850.4 [Pacific Bell v. City of San Diego (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 596, 602-606, 96 Cal. Rptr. 2d 897] . For a discussion of inverse condemnation generally, see Ch. 247, Eminent Domain .

The immunity granted by Gov. Code § 850.4 has been extended to a city and a municipal utility district charged with negligent installation and maintenance of a fire hydrant, which vandals opened, resulting in water damage to the plaintiff's house [Razeto v. Oakland (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 349, 351-353, 151 Cal. Rptr. 791] .

The immunity provided by Gov. Code § 850.4 also applies to injuries suffered by a firefighter who is not an employee of a government entity, but who is injured while engaged in firefighting activities [State of California v. Superior Court (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 1409, 1413-1414, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 499 (immunity applied to suit against state for death of privately-employed pilot killed while attempting to drop fire retardant materials on forest or brush fire)].

The immunity provided by Gov. Code § 850.4 is an affirmative defense and must be pled and proved, or it is deemed waived [McMahan's of SantaMonica v. City of Santa Monica (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 683, 689, 194 Cal. Rptr. 582] .

In a case in which a fire department used a forklift to open a large service entry door to a building in fighting the fire that ultimately destroyed that building, the owner argued that the fire department was liable under Veh. Code § 17001 (damage to property proximately caused by a negligent act by a public employee in the operation of a motor vehicle). In dicta, the court of appeal said that analyzing both Gov. Code § 850.4, which applies whenever firefighters are engaged in firefighting activities, and Veh. Code § 17001, which is designed to deal with the hazard created by the operation of automobiles on streets and highways, leads to the conclusion that Veh. Code § 17001 does not apply if the motor vehicle is used as a method to fight a fire and not in a negligent manner on the streets and highways [Colapinto v. County of Riverside (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 147, 150, 152-153, 281 Cal. Rptr. 191] .

[d] Liability and Immunity for Firefighting Outside Regular Area

Whenever a public entity provides fire protection or firefighting service outside of the area regularly served and protected by the public entity providing that service, the public entity providing that service is liable for any injury for which liability is imposed by statute caused by its act or omission or the act or omission of its employee occurring in the performance of that fire protection or fire fighting service.

Notwithstanding any other law, the public entity receiving that fire protection or firefighting service is not liable for any act or omission of the public entity providing the service or for any act or omission of an employee of the public entity providing the service. However, the public entity providing that service and the public entity receiving that service may by agreement determine the extent, if any, to which the public entity receiving that service is required to indemnify the public entity providing the service. Notwithstanding any other provision set forth above, any claims against the state must be presented to the board in accordance with Gov. Code §§ 940-965.4 [Gov. Code § 850.6].

[e] Immunity for Transportation of Persons Injured by Fires

Any member of an organized fire department, fire protection district, or other firefighting unit of either the State of California or any political subdivision, any employee of the Department of Forestry, or any other public employee acting in the scope of his or her employment may transport, or arrange for the transportation of, any person injured by a fire, or by a fire protection operation, to a physician and surgeon or hospital if the injured person does not object to that transportation [Gov. Code § 850.8].

Neither a public entity nor a public employee is liable for any injury sustained by the injured person as a result of, or in connection with, that transportation or for any medical, ambulance, or hospital bills incurred by, or in behalf of, the injured person or for any other damages, but a public employee is liable for injury proximately caused by his or her willful misconduct in transporting the injured person or arranging for that transportation [Gov. Code § 850.8].

[2] Immunity for Providing Emergency Rescue Services

Neither a public entity nor emergency rescue personnel are liable for any injury caused by an action taken by emergency rescue personnel acting within the scope of their employment to provide emergency services, unless the action taken was performed in bad faith or in a grossly negligent manner. although they can still be liable under Veh. Code §§ 17001-17004.5 [Health & Safety Code § 1799.107(b)]. For this purpose, it is presumed that the action taken when providing emergency services was performed in good faith and without gross negligence. This presumption affects the burden of proof [Health & Safety Code § 1799.107(c)].

"Emergency rescue personnel" means any person who is an officer, employee, or member of a fire department or fire protection or firefighting agency of the federal government, the State of California, a city, county, city and county, district, or other public or municipal corporation or political subdivision of California, or of a private fire department, whether the person is a volunteer, partly paid, or fully paid, while that person is actually engaged in providing emergency services [Health & Safety Code § 1799.107(d)]. "Emergency services" includes, but is not limited to, first aid and medical services, rescue procedures and transportation, or other related activities necessary to insure the health or safety of a person in imminent peril [Health & Safety Code § 1799.107(e)]. The qualified immunity of Health & Safety Code § 1799.107 extends to protect public entities for the allegedly negligent conduct of 911 emergency dispatchers [Eastburn v. Regional Fire Prot. Auth. (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 1175, 1184-1185, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 552, 80 P.3d 656] .

In addition, neither the state nor its political subdivisions are liable for any claim based on the exercise or performance of, or the failure to exercise or perform, a discretionary function or duty on the part of a state or local agency or any employee of the state or its political subdivisions in carrying out the emergency services provisions [Gov. Code § 8655]. However, the state is not immune from liability under the Emergency Services Act for the intentional concealment of known dangers that cause personal injuries [Adkins v. State of California (1996) 50 Cal. App. 4th 1802, 1811, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 59 (injuries to plaintiffs hired by state to hang Mediterranean fruit fly traps)].

[3] Immunity for Operation of Emergency Vehicles

A public employee is not liable for civil damages on account of personal injury to or death of any person or damage to property resulting from the operation, in the line of duty, of an authorized emergency vehicle while responding to an emergency call or when in immediate pursuit of an actual or suspected violator of the law or when responding to, but not on returning from, a fire alarm or other emergency call [Veh. Code § 17004].

A public agency is not liable for damages resulting from the collision of a vehicle being pursued by police, as long as the public agency adopted a written policy on vehicular pursuits complying with certain minimum standards [Veh. Code § 17004.7(b); see § 464.102[3]].

For complete discussion of the liability of a public entity and its employees for the operation of an emergency vehicle, see Ch. 246, Emergency Vehicles .

[4] Liability and Immunity for Rescue of Vessels

A public entity engaged in the rescue of a vessel involved in a collision, accident, or other casualty is liable in civil damages if its individual employee has failed to act as a reasonably prudent person would have acted under the same or similar circumstances [Harb. & Nav. Code § 656(c)(2)].

If a public entity has given a reasonable printed, electronic, or verbal warning of the danger causing the distress that created the necessity for the rescue, and there has been a reasonable opportunity for the party in distress to receive the warning, the public entity is liable only for the grossly negligent acts or omissions of its employee [Harb. & Nav. Code § 656(c)(3)].

An individual employee of a public entity engaged in the rescue of a vessel involved in a collision, accident, or other casualty is not a proper party defendant and must be dismissed on motion, unless the employee has violated a statute other than one creating a general obligation to rescue, or unless the employee is guilty of oppression, fraud, malice, or the conscious disregard of the safety of others [Harb. & Nav. Code § 656(c)(1)].

[5] Immunity for Actions Taken Under California Emergency Services Act

Neither the state nor its political subdivisions are liable for any claim based on the exercise or performance, or the failure to exercise or perform, a discretionary function or duty on the part of a state or local agency or any employee of the state or its political subdivisions in carrying out the provisions of the California Emergency Services Act [Gov. Code § 8655]. This immunity is not limited to emergency situations and can apply to training exercises conducted under the act [Soto v. State of California (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 196, 201-202, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 11] .

Section 8655 is a broad immunity provision that covers not only the exercise of discretion, but also the performance, or the failure to perform, a discretionary function in carrying out the provisions of the California Emergency Services Act. Section 8655 provides immunity even for negligently designed and performed disaster training exercises [Soto v. State of California (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 196, 201, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 11] . This immunity is broader than that provided by the general immunity statute, Gov. Code § 820.2, which is discussed in § 464.64[1] [Soto v. State of California (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 196, 201, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 11] .

Immunity under Gov. Code § 8655 has been applied to emergency actions to fight flooding that were taken without a preexisting flood control plan, even though some of those actions were taken outside of the defendant's geographical jurisdiction [Thousand Trails, Inc. v. California Reclamation Dist. No. 17 (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 450, 458-459, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 196] .

[6] Immunity for Earthquake and Volcanic Warnings

[a] Legislative Intent

The science of earthquake prediction is developing rapidly and, although still largely in a research stage, such predictions are now being initiated and are certain to continue into the future. Administrative procedures exist within the Office of Emergency Services to advise the Governor on the validity of earthquake predictions. Numerous important actions can be taken by state and local governments and special districts to protect life and property in response to earthquake predictions and associated warnings. The legislature has expressed its intent to insure that appropriate actions are taken in the public interest by government agencies acting in a reasonable manner without fear of consequent financial liabilities [Gov. Code § 955.1(a)].

[b] General Rule of Immunity

The Governor may, at his or her discretion, issue a warning as to the existence of an earthquake or volcanic prediction determined to have scientific validity. The state and its agencies and employees are not liable for any injury resulting from the issuance or nonissuance of such a warning or for any acts or omissions in fact-gathering evaluation, or other activities leading up to the issuance or nonissuance of a warning [Gov. Code § 955.1(b)]. In addition, public entities and public employees may, on the basis of a warning issued pursuant to the preceding paragraph take, or fail or refuse to take, any action; they may execute, or fail or refuse to execute any earthquake or volcanic prediction response plan with relation to the warning issued that is otherwise authorized by law. In taking, or failing or refusing to take such action, public entities and public employees are not liable for any injuries caused thereby or from any injuries resulting from the preparation of, or failure or refusal to prepare, any earthquake hazard or damage prediction maps, plans for evacuation of endangered areas, or other plan elements [Gov. Code § 955.1(c)].

The Governor's issuance of an earthquake or volcanic warning under Gov. Code § 955.1(b) is a sufficient basis for a declaration of a state of emergency or local emergency as defined by Gov. Code § 8558. Public entities and public employees are immune from liability in accordance with all immunity provisions that apply during such state of emergency or local emergency [Gov. Code § 955.1(d)].

[c] Additional Local Immunity

No city, city and county, or county, nor any employee of any such entity, is liable for damages for injury to persons or property, resulting from an earthquake or otherwise, on the basis of any assessment or evaluation performed, any ordinance adopted, or any other action taken pursuant to Health & Safety Code §§ 19160-19169, irrespective of whether that action complies with these sections, or on the basis of failure to take any action that these sections authorize. The immunity from liability provided by this statute is an addition to all other immunities of the city, city and county, or county provided by law [Health & Safety Code § 19167].

[7] Immunity for Activities to Abate Gradual Earth Movements

Subject to the provisions of Gov. Code § 866(b), (c), in the event of public necessity and to avoid impending peril to persons or property as a result of gradual earth movement, a local public entity is not liable for damages for injury to persons or property resulting from that peril or from any action taken to abate the peril, providing the legislative body of the local public entity has, on the basis of expert opinion or other reasonable basis, done all of the following: (1) on the basis of adequate evidence, such as expert opinion or otherwise, found the existence of the impending peril; (2) determined appropriate remedial action to halt, stabilize, or abate the impending peril; and (3) undertaken to implement that remedial action [Gov. Code § 866(a)].

"Gradual earth movements" include, but are not limited to, perceptible changes in the earth either in a subterranean area or at the surface, or both, which if not arrested or contained will, over a gradual period of time, result in damage to or destruction of underground or aboveground property or harm to person. However, the term does not include movement that is caused by activity undertaken by the local public entity for purposes other than the abatement of peril caused by gradual earth movement. "Local public entity" has the meaning set forth in Gov. Code § 900.4 [Gov. Code § 866(a)].

If the public entity is unable to complete the three steps described above because (1) the hazard has ceased, (2) such actions cannot be completed before the occurrence of the hazard sought to be avoided, or (3) the legislative body of the entity reasonably determines that remedial action will not abate the danger, the immunity nevertheless applies to the actions of the local public entity [Gov. Code § 866(b)].

This immunity is in addition to any other immunity of the local public entity provided by law or statute. Any claim of liability based on the impending peril or any action of the entity is subject to such immunities and any defenses that would be available to the entity if it were a private person [Gov. Code § 866(c)]. The immunity provided by Gov. Code § 866 overrides the provisions providing for government liability for dangerous conditions on public property [City of Pomona v. Superior Court (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 1093, 1099, 227 Cal. Rptr. 714] .

In addition to the immunity of the entity, an employee of the entity is not liable for damage for injury to persons or property resulting from an impending peril or from any action to abate the peril pursuant to Gov. Code § 866 [Gov. Code § 867].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityQualified ImmunityTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunitySovereign ImmunityTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsEmployeesTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsScope of Employment

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Grounds for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
3. Specific Liabilities and Immunities

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.105

§ 464.105 Medical and Health Services

[1] General Liabilities and Immunities

[a] Liability for Failure to Provide Adequate Public or Mental Health Equipment or Facilities

A public entity that operates or maintains any medical facility that is subject to regulation by the State Department of Public Health or the State Department of Mental Hygiene is liable for injury proximately caused by the failure of the public entity to provide adequate or sufficient equipment, personnel, or facilities required by any statute or any regulation of the State Department of Public Health or the State Department of Mental Hygiene prescribing minimum standards for equipment, personnel, or facilities, unless the public entity establishes that it exercised reasonable diligence to comply with the applicable statute or regulation [Gov. Code § 855(a)].

A public entity that operates or maintains any medical facility that is not subject to regulation by the State Department of Public Health or the State Department of Mental Hygiene is liable for injury proximately caused by the failure of the public entity to provide adequate or sufficient equipment, personnel, or facilities substantially equivalent to those required by any statute or any regulation of the State Department of Public Health or the State Department of Mental Hygiene prescribing minimum standards for equipment, personnel, or facilities applicable to a public medical facility of the same character and class, unless the public entity establishes that it exercised reasonable diligence to conform with such minimum standards [Gov. Code § 855].

The term "medical facility" as used in Gov. Code § 855 is defined as including a hospital, infirmary, clinic, dispensary, mental institution, or similar facility [Gov. Code § 854].

If a plaintiff seeks to impose liability under Gov. Code § 855 for violation of a regulation, that regulation must have been promulgated by one of the four state departments specified by the statute [Lockhart v. County of Los Angeles (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 289, 305-306, 66 Cal. Rptr. 3d 62] . In addition, regardless of whether liability is predicated on a statute or regulation, the relevant statute or regulation must prescribe a specific minimum standard that has been violated. Provisions that merely provide general guidelines, such as those requiring "sufficient" personnel or the like, cannot be a basis for imposing liability under the statute [Lockhart v. County of Los Angeles (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 289, 307-309, 66 Cal. Rptr. 3d 62] .

[b] Immunity for Acts Promoting Public Health

Neither a public entity nor a public employee is liable for an injury resulting from the decision to perform or not to perform any act to promote the public health of the community by preventing disease or controlling the communication of disease within the community, if the decision as to whether the act was or was not to be performed was the result of the exercise of discretion vested in the public entity or the public employee, whether or not such discretion was abused. Nor is a public entity or a public employee liable for an injury caused by an act or omission in carrying out such a decision with due care [Gov. Code § 855.4].

The court of appeal has suggested that this immunity may apply to immunize a public entity from liability for failing to keep a building on public property free from a disease-causing virus [Wright v. City of Los Angeles (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 683, 689-690, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 352 (rejecting liability for dangerous condition of public property)].

[c] Immunity for Administration of 1976 Flu Program

A public entity, public employee, or volunteer participating in the National Influenza Program of 1976 is not liable for an injury caused by an act or omission in the promotion of a community program or the administration of vaccine in a community program, including the residual effects of the vaccine, unless the act or omission constituted willful misconduct [Gov. Code § 856.6(a)].

[2] Liabilities and Immunities for Treatment Decisions

[a] Immunity for Failure to Make Physical or Mental Examination

Except for an examination or diagnosis for the purpose of treatment, neither a public entity nor a public employee acting within the scope of his or her employment is liable for injury caused by the failure to make a physical or mental examination or to make an adequate physical or mental examination of any person for the purpose of determining whether that person has a disease or physical or mental condition that would constitute a hazard to the health or safety of himself or herself or of others [Gov. Code § 855.6].

In determining whether the immunity under Gov. Code § 855.6 applies, the source of the material examined is not determinative. Instead, the question is whether the public employee's actions were taken to facilitate the delivery of medical diagnosis or care to the individual who was injured by the employee's actions [Smith v. County of Kern (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 1826, 1835, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 716] . In one case, for example, the plaintiff was a police officer who became covered with another person's blood while rendering assistance. The plaintiff alleged damages caused by a county hospital's negligent failure adequately to test this other person for HIV, the virus that causes AIDS. The court noted that the statute would clearly not provide immunity if the hospital's laboratory had undertaken to test the plaintiff's blood for the AIDS virus in order to assist in the diagnosis of whether the officer had contracted the disease [Smith v. County of Kern (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 1826, 1834, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 716] . The court concluded that the facts in the plaintiff's amended complaint permitted a reasonable inference that the hospital's laboratory undertook to perform a test on the other person's blood for the purpose of assisting the plaintiff's physician in examining or diagnosing the plaintiff's exposure to HIV and that the county was therefore not immune from liability [Smith v. County of Kern (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 1826, 1834-1835, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 716] .

The "purpose of treatment" exception is apparently intended to apply to examinations made in doctors' offices and public hospitals for the purpose of treatment, but not to public health examinations [see Creason v. Department of Health Services (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 623, 636-637, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 489, 957 P.2d 1323] . The exception does not apply to the development of testing and reporting standards for mass neonatal screening under the Hereditary Disorders Act, because the development of such standards cannot reasonably be deemed "an examination or diagnosis" [Creason v. Department of Health Servs. (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 623, 635-638, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 489, 957 P.2d 1323 ; see Health & Safety Code § 124975 et seq.].

[b] Immunity for Failure to Admit Person to Medical Facility

Except as provided in Gov. Code § 815.6 regarding mandatory duties of public entities, neither a public entity nor a public employee acting in the scope of his or her employment is liable for an injury resulting from the failure to admit a person to a public medical facility [Gov. Code § 856.4].

[c] Liability and Immunity for Diagnosing Mental Illness or Addiction

Neither a public entity nor a public employee acting within the scope of his or her employment is liable for injury resulting from diagnosing or failing to diagnose that a person is afflicted with mental illness or addiction or from failing to prescribe for mental illness or addiction [Gov. Code § 855.8(a)]. A public employee acting within the scope of his or her employment is not liable for administering the treatment prescribed for mental illness or addiction with due care [Gov. Code § 855.8(b)].

Nothing in Gov. Code § 855.8 exonerates a public employee who has undertaken to prescribe for mental illness or addiction from liability for injury proximately caused by his or her negligence or wrongful act in so prescribing [Gov. Code § 855.8(c)]. Nothing in Gov. Code § 855.8 exonerates a public employee from liability for injury proximately caused by his or her negligent or wrongful act or omission in administering any treatment prescribed for mental illness or addiction [Gov. Code § 855.8(d)]. The term "mental illness or addiction" as used in Gov. Code § 855.8 is defined as any condition for which a person may be detained, cared for, or treated in a mental institution, in a facility designated by a county pursuant to Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 5150-5344, or in a similar facility [Gov. Code § 854.4].

[3] Liabilities and Immunities Relating to Confinement of Patients

[a] Injuries by and to Mental Patients

Notwithstanding any other provisions of Gov. Code §§ 814-895.8 (liability of public entities and public employees), except as provided in Gov. Code § 854.8 and in Gov. Code §§ 814 (contract liability), 814.2 (workers' compensation liability), 855 (failure to operate or maintain adequate medical facility), and 855.2 (interference with inmates' rights), a public entity is not liable for an injury proximately caused by a patient of a mental institution or an injury to an inpatient of a mental institution [Gov. Code § 854.8(b)]. This provision does not affect the liability of a public entity under Veh. Code §§ 17000-17004.5, with regard to liability for motor vehicles [Gov. Code § 854.8(b)].

As used in Gov. Code § 854.8, the term "mental institution" is defined as any state hospital for the care and treatment of the mentally disordered or the mentally retarded, the California Rehabilitation Center referred to in Welf. & Inst. Code § 3300, or any county hospital, ward, or facility provided by a county pursuant to Welf. & Inst. Code § 7100 [Gov. Code §§ 854.2, 854.3].

Except for an injury to an inpatient of a mental institution, nothing in Gov. Code § 854.8 prevents recovery from the public entity for an injury resulting from the dangerous condition of public property under Gov. Code §§ 830-840.6 [Gov. Code § 854.8(c)]. Nor does anything in Gov. Code § 854.8 exonerate a public employee from liability for injury proximately caused by his or her negligent or wrongful act or omission. The public entity may, but is not required to, pay any judgment, compromise, or settlement or may, but is not required to, indemnify any public employee, in any case in which the public entity is immune from liability under these provisions. However, the public entity must pay as provided in Gov. Code §§ 825-825.6 any judgment based on a claim against a public employee who is lawfully engaged in the practice of one of the healing arts under any California law for malpractice arising from an act or omission in the scope of his or her employment and must pay any compromise or settlement of a claim or action based on that malpractice, to which the public entity has agreed [Gov. Code § 854.8(d)].

The fact that a person is confined outside the area used to confine mental patients does not preclude the application of the immunity [see Guzman v. County of Los Angeles (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1343, 1346-1350 (individual involuntarily confined for mental evaluation under Welf. & Inst. Code § 5150, who was kept in regular medical ward of county hospital because there were no beds in psychiatric ward of that facility, was mental hospital patient for immunity purposes)]. The immunity provided to public entities under Gov. Code § 854.8 is jurisdictional in nature and may be raised at any time in the proceedings [Hata v. Los Angeles County Harbor (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1791, 1803, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 630 (although not required to plead immunity as affirmative defense, county hospital specifically pleaded immunity by mentioning statutory section in answer and pleading facts indicating applicability)].

Notwithstanding the general immunity of Gov. Code § 854.8, Health & Safety Code § 1444.6 may create an area of potential tort liability for public entities with regard to injury to ambulance personnel by mental health patients [Health & Safety Code § 1444.6]. If a county hospital requests an ambulance to transfer a mental health patient to another facility and if that patient is unstable and has a history of being assaultive, the hospital has a duty to inform the ambulance personnel of the instability and potential assaultiveness of the patient [Health & Safety Code § 1444.6]. However, the courts must decide whether failure to warn under Health & Safety Code § 1114.6 is grounds for imposing tort liability on the county.

[b] Interference With Right of Facility Inmate to Judicial Determination

Neither a public entity nor a public employee acting within the scope of his or her employment is liable for interfering with the right of an inmate of a medical facility operated or maintained by a public entity to obtain a judicial determination or review of the legality of his or her confinement. However, a public employee and the public entity for which the employee is acting within the scope of his or her employment is liable for injury proximately caused by the employee's intentional and unjustifiable interference with such right, but no cause of action for that injury may be deemed to accrue until it has first been determined that the confinement was illegal [Gov. Code § 855.2].

[c] Determining Confinement of Persons Afflicted With Mental Illness or Addiction

Neither a public entity nor a public employee acting within the scope of his or her employment is liable for any injury resulting from determining in accordance with any applicable enactment any of the following [Gov. Code § 856(a)]:

- Whether to confine a person for mental illness or addiction;
- The terms and conditions of confinement for mental illness or addiction; or
- Whether to parole, grant a leave of absence to, or release a person confined for mental illness or addiction.

A public employee is not liable for making any of these determinations with due care [Gov. Code § 856(b)].

Nothing in Gov. Code § 856 exonerates a public employee from liability for injury proximately caused by his or her negligent or wrongful act or omission in carrying out or failing to carry out any of the following [Gov. Code § 856(c)]:

- A determination to confine or not to confine a person for mental illness or addiction;
- The terms or conditions of confinement of a person for mental illness or addiction; or
- A determination to parole, grant a leave of absence to, or release a person confined for mental illness or addiction.

The term "confined" as used in Gov. Code § 856 includes the verbs admit, commit, place, detain, or hold in custody [Gov. Code § 854.5].

Under Gov. Code § 856, a public entity is immune from liability for injuries caused by a person released from a mental hospital [Hernandez v. State of California (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 895, 899-901, 90 Cal. Rptr. 205 ; Kravitz v. California (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 301, 306-307, 87 Cal. Rptr. 352] . A publicly employed therapist is not liable for failure to have a patient confined who threatened the life of a person and later killed her [Tarasoff v. Regents of University of Cal. (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 425, 447-449, 131 Cal. Rptr. 14, 551 P.2d 334 .

The immunity granted by Gov. Code § 856 has been extended to a county and county hospital employees charged with the wrongful death of the plaintiff's decedent, who was shot and killed by a mentally disordered person two days after attending personnel at the hospital had diagnosed the person as mentally disordered (dangerous to others) and sent the person, for psychiatric treatment, to a private hospital by taxicab (from which the person alighted en route and fled) because the private hospital refused to dispatch an ambulance. The court held there was immunity under Gov. Code § 856(a) respecting the decision not to confine the person in question at the county hospital, and no lifting of the immunity under Gov. Code § 856(c) because, as a matter of law, sending the person away in a taxicab (without a custodian or any restraint) was not negligence in the carrying out of the decision against confinement [McDowell v. County of Alameda (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 321, 325-328, 151 Cal. Rptr.779] .

[d] Immunity for Escape of Committed Person

Neither a public entity nor a public employee is liable for an injury caused by an escaping or escaped person who has been confined for mental illness or addiction or an injury to, or the wrongful death of, an escaping or escaped person who has been confined for mental illness or addiction [Gov. Code § 856.2(a)]. A public employee can nevertheless be liable if he or she acted or failed to act because of actual fraud, corruption, or actual malice or for injuries inflicted, as a result of his or her own negligence or wrongful act or omission, on an escaping or escaped mental patient in the process of recapturing the patient [Gov. Code § 856.2(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstHealthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesGovernmental & Nonprofit LiabilityState, County & Municipal LiabilityTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsEmployees

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Grounds for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
3. Specific Liabilities and Immunities

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.106

§ 464.106 Control Over Hazardous Substances

[1] Liability for Use of Pesticides

A public entity is liable for injuries caused by its use of a pesticide to the same extent as a private person, except that no presumption of negligence arises from the failure of the public entity or a public employee to comply with a provision of a statute or regulation relating to the use of a pesticide, if the statute or regulation by its terms is made inapplicable to the public entity or the public employee [Gov. Code § 862(b)]. In addition, states must adhere to statutory notification requirements. For example, as part of a Mediterranean fruit fly eradication program, the state is obligated by Food & Agric. Code §§ 5029, 5771 et seq. to comply with strict notification requirements expressly designed for such programs [Adkins v. State of California (1996) 50 Cal. App. 4th 1802, 1811, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 59] .

The term "pesticide" as used in Gov. Code § 862(b) means: an economic poison as defined in Food & Agric. Code § 12753; an injurious material, the use of which is regulated or prohibited under Food & Agric. Code § 14001 et seq.; or any material used for the same purpose as these materials [Gov. Code § 862(a)].

Food & Agric. Code § 11761 et seq., relating to reports of loss or damages from the use of pesticides, apply in an action against a public entity under Gov. Code § 862 [Gov. Code § 862(c)].

[2] Immunity for Abatement of Hazardous Substances

A public entity, a county public health director, a public safety employee, a member of a radiation emergency screening team formed pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 25575(c)(7), a person authorized by a public entity, or a registered sanitarian employee is not liable for any injury or property damage caused by an act or omission taken by a county public health director, a public safety employee, a member of a radiation emergency screening team formed pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 25574, a person authorized by a public entity, or a registered sanitarian employee acting within the scope of employment to abate or attempt to abate hazards reasonably believed to be an imminent peril to public health and safety caused by the discharge, spill, or presence of a hazardous substance [Health & Safety Code § 25400(b)]. This immunity does not extend to acts taken or omissions performed in bad faith or in a grossly negligent manner. This immunity also does not apply to the specific liability of public entities with regard to motor vehicles set forth in Veh. Code § 17000 et seq. [Health & Safety Code § 25400(b); for discussion of public entity liability for motor vehicle accidents, see § 464.61[2][e]].

For the purposes of this immunity, it is presumed that the act or omission was performed in good faith and without gross negligence. This presumption is one affecting the burden of proof [Health & Safety Code § 25400(c)].

For purposes of Health & Safety Code § 25400, "hazardous substance" means a substance that presents a threat to the public because of its toxicity, radioactivity, flammability, or other characteristic dangerous to the public health or to the environment [Health & Safety Code § 25400(d)(1)]. "Imminent peril" includes peril that, if not mitigated, threatens the public health or welfare or the environment [Health & Safety Code § 25400(d)(2)]. "Person authorized by a public agency" includes a person from whom services are contracted by a public agency [Health & Safety Code § 25400(d)(3)]. "Public agency" includes, but is not limited to, the federal government or any department or agency of the federal government to the extent permitted by law [Health & Safety Code § 25400(d)(4)]. "Public safety employee" means any person who is a public entity employee and whose principal duties include law enforcement, fire protection, fire prevention, or the enforcement of regulations relating to facilities or sites where hazardous substances are stored or handled [Health & Safety Code § 25400(d)(5)]. "Registered sanitarian employee" means a person who is registered pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 520 and who is a paid employee of a state or local public entity [Health & Safety Code § 25400(d)(6)].

This immunity is not intended to impair any cause of action against the person, firm, or entity creating the spill, discharge, or presence of the hazardous material giving rise to the response by the immunized public entity or person [Health & Safety Code § 25400(e)].

The immunity for county public health directors or registered sanitarian employees applies only if the person, at the request of a public entity or public safety employee in charge of scene management, provides emergency assistance or advice at the scene of the peril in mitigating or attempting to mitigate the effects of an actual or threatened discharge, spill, or presence of a hazardous substance on private or public property. The request issued by the scene manager must be confirmed by that person in a written report of the incident [Health & Safety Code § 25400(f)].

[3] Immunity for Failure to Restrict Travel of Flammable Tank Vehicles Through Tunnels

Neither a public entity nor a public employee acting within the scope of his or her employment is liable for failing to prohibit cargo tank vehicles required to display flammable liquid placards from traveling through a tunnel or for failing to restrict the time during which they may do so [Gov. Code § 821.5].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral OverviewTransportation LawCarrier Duties & LiabilitiesHazardous Materials

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Grounds for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
3. Specific Liabilities and Immunities

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.107

§ 464.107 Immunity for Administration of Tax Laws

Neither a public entity nor a public employee is liable for an injury caused by instituting any judicial or administrative proceeding or action for, or incidental to, the assessment or collection of a tax or an act or omission in the interpretation or application of any law relating to a tax [Gov. Code § 860.2; see Mitchell v. Franchise Tax Bd. (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 1133, 1136-1137, 228 Cal. Rptr. 750] . The term "tax" as used in Gov. Code 860.2 is defined to include a tax, assessment, fee, or charge [Gov. Code § 860].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsExclusions From Liability

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Grounds for Seeking Relief From Public Entities and Employees
3. Specific Liabilities and Immunities

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 464.108-464.119

[Reserved]

§§ 464.108[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.120

§ 464.120 Related LexisNexis/Matthew Bender Publications

For points and authorities relating to actions against public entities, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 196, Public Entities

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.121

§ 464.121 State Statutes

[1] Claims Against Public Entities

[a] Claim Presentation

Contents of claim. Gov. Code § 910

Signature on claim. Gov. Code § 910.2

Forms provided by state. Gov. Code § 910.4

Amendment of claim. Gov. Code § 910.6

Time for presentation of claim. Gov. Code § 911.2

Presentation of claim. Gov. Code § 915

Mailing of claim. Gov. Code § 915.2

[b] Claim Requirement

Claims for money or damages against local public entities. Gov. Code § 905

Claim as unnecessary in inverse condemnation action. Gov. Code § 905.1

Claims for money or damages against state. Gov. Code § 905.2

Claims procedures are inapplicable to claims against Regents of University of California. Gov. Code § 905.6

Claim requirement does not impose liability. Gov. Code § 905.8

[c] Definitions

"Board" defined. Gov. Code § 900.2

"Local public entity" defined. Gov. Code § 900.4

"State" defined. Gov. Code § 900.6

Date of accrual of cause of action. Gov. Code § 901

[d] Late Claims Procedure

Application to present late claim. Gov. Code § 911.4

Grant or denial of application to file late claim. Gov. Code § 911.6

Notice of action on application to file late claim. Gov. Code § 911.8

Effect of grant of application to file late claim. Gov. Code § 912.2

[e] Other Claims Procedures

Proceedings to determine constitutionality of claims against state. Gov. Code § 920 et seq.

Claims procedures established by agreement. Gov. Code § 930 et seq.

Claims procedures established by public entities. Gov. Code § 935 et seq.

[f] Payment and Compromise of Claim

Amount allowed on claim. Gov. Code § 906(a)

Interest on claim. Gov. Code § 906(b), (c), (e)

Conditional allowance of claim or offer to settle or compromise claim. Gov. Code § 906(d)

[g] Public Entity's Response to Claim

Notice of insufficiency of claim. Gov. Code § 910.8

Effect of failure to give notice of insufficiency. Gov. Code § 911

Notice of lateness of claim. Gov. Code § 911.3

Time for action on claim. Gov. Code § 912.4

Action on claim by local public entity. Gov. Code § 912.6

Action on claim by state. Gov. Code § 912.8

Notice of rejection of claim. Gov. Code § 913

Reexamination of rejected claim. Gov. Code § 913.2

Manner of giving notice of insufficiency of claim, rejection of claim, or action on application to file late claim. Gov. Code § 915.4

[h] Relief From Claim Requirement

Judicial relief from claims requirement. Gov. Code § 946.6

[2] Actions Against Public Entities and Employees

[a] Action Against Public Entity

Public entity may be sued. Gov. Code § 945

[b] Claim Requirement

Claim procedures do not impose liability on public entity unless liability otherwise exists. Gov. Code § 944

Claim is prerequisite to action against public entity. Gov. Code § 945.4

Action not permitted if claim has been allowed. Gov. Code § 946

Failure to file claim does not bar action if statement of public agency is not on file. Gov. Code § 946.4

Claim against individual public employee is not prerequisite to maintaining action against him or her. Gov. Code § 950

[c] Collateral Source Payments

Definitions. Gov. Code § 985(a)

Inadmissibility of payments. Gov. Code § 985(b)

Discovery. Gov. Code § 985(b)-(d)

Collateral source provider's participation in pretrial conference. Gov. Code § 985(c)

[d] Definitions and Rules of Practice

Definitions. Gov. Code § 940.2 et seq.

Rules of civil practice are applicable. Gov. Code § 945.2

[e] Enforcement

Writ of mandate or other proceeding is available to compel payment of claim. Gov. Code § 942

[f] Insurance

Authority of local public entities to insure themselves against liability and expenses. Gov. Code § 989 et seq.

[g] Joinder of State

Joinder of state in action for declaratory relief involving real property in which state has remainder or undivided interest. Gov. Code § 956

[h] Payment and Compromise

Writ of mandate or other proceeding is available to compel payment of claim. Gov. Code § 942

Compromise of action by head of state agency. Gov. Code § 948

Compromise of action by local public agency. Gov. Code § 949

Payment of claims and judgments against state. Gov. Code § 965 et seq.

Payment of judgments against local public entities. Gov. Code § 970 et seq.

[i] Public Employees

Action against public employee barred if action against public entity barred. Gov. Code § 950.2

Action against public employee not barred if plaintiff ignorant of status as public employee. Gov. Code § 950.4

Statute of limitations for actions against public employee. Gov. Code § 950.6

Invalidity of local ordinance that requires presentation of claim against public employee. Gov. Code § 950.8

Defense of public employees. Gov. Code § 995 et seq.

[j] Service of Process

Service on public entities. Code Civ. Proc. § 416.50

Service on Attorney General. Gov. Code § 955.4

Service in actions against Department of Transportation for inverse condemnation. Gov. Code § 955.6

Service in actions against Department of Water Resources in actions for inverse condemnation. Gov. Code § 955.8

Service on local public entity if no statement is on file. Gov. Code § 960 et seq.

[k] Statute of Limitations

Statute of limitations when claims requirements applicable. Gov. Code § 945.6

Statute of limitations when claim is not required. Gov. Code § 945.8

Statute of limitations when relief from claim requirement was granted. Gov. Code § 946.6

Statute of limitations for actions against public employee. Gov. Code § 950.6

[l] Venue

Venue in actions against local public entities. Code Civ. Proc. § 394

Venue in actions against state for taking or damaging property or public use. Gov. Code § 955

Venue in actions against state for death or personal injury. Gov. Code § 955.2

[3] General Principles of Liability and Immunity

[a] Application of Tort Claims Act

Tort Claims Act does not affect liability based on contract or right to obtain relief other than money. Gov. Code § 814

Tort Claims Act does not affect Worker's Compensation Law. Gov. Code § 814.2

[b] Defense and Indemnification of Public Employees

Public entity entitled to indemnification from elected official for payment of judgment or defense costs arising from intentional tort not directly related to elected official's performance of official duties. Gov. Code § 815.3(d)

Indemnification of public employees. Gov. Code § 825 et seq.

Indemnification of punitive damages judgments against public employees. Gov. Code § 825(b)

Defense of public employees. Gov. Code § 995 et seq.

[c] Definitions

Definition of "employee." Gov. Code § 810.2

Definition of "employment." Gov. Code § 810.4

Definition of "enactment." Gov. Code § 810.6

Definition of "injury." Gov. Code § 810.8

Definition of "law." Gov. Code § 811

Definition of "public entity." Gov. Code § 811.2

Definition of "public employee." Gov. Code § 811.4

Definition of "regulation." Gov. Code § 811.6

Definition of "statute." Gov. Code § 811.8

[d] Immunities of Public Employees

Immunity for discretionary acts. Gov. Code § 820.2

Decision of law enforcement officer to render assistance to motorist, not involved in accident, or to leave scene after rendering assistance on instructions of supervisor or learning of reasonably apparent emergency elsewhere is exercise of discretion unless occurring pursuant to performance of ministerial duty. Gov. Code § 820.25

Immunity for execution or enforcement of law. Gov. Code § 820.4

Immunity for acting in good faith under unconstitutional, invalid, or inapplicable enactment. Gov. Code § 820.6

Immunity for acts of others. Gov. Code § 820.8

Immunity for adoption or failure to adopt enactment or failure to enforce enactment. Gov. Code § 821

Immunity for licensing. Gov. Code § 821.2

Immunity for inspections. Gov. Code § 821.4

Immunity for malicious prosecution. Gov. Code § 821.6

Immunity for authorized entry on property. Gov. Code § 821.8

Immunity for money stolen from official custody. Gov. Code § 822

Immunity for misrepresentations. Gov. Code § 822.2

[e] Immunities of Public Entities

Field trip immunity. Educ. Code § 35330

Immunity for injuries to students not on school property. Educ. Code §§ 44808, 87706

Public entity not liable for injury resulting from act or omission for which public employee is immune, unless otherwise provided by statute. Gov. Code § 815.2(b)

Immunity from liability for injury arising out of any activity conducted by member of California National Guard pursuant to 32 U.S.C.S. §§ 316, 502, 503, 504, or 505 and compensated pursuant to Federal Tort Claims Act. Gov. Code § 816

Immunity from liability for punitive damages. Gov. Code § 818

Immunity from liability for adoption or failure to adopt enactment or failure to enforce law. Gov. Code § 818.2

Licensing immunity. Gov. Code § 818.4

Immunity for failure to inspect or negligent inspection of property other than public entity's property. Gov. Code § 818.6

Controlled substance conviction records immunity. Gov. Code § 818.7

Misrepresentation immunity. Gov. Code § 818.8

Earthquake and volcano warning immunity. Gov. Code § 955.1

[f] Liability of Public Employees

Bases of liability of public employees. Gov. Code § 820

[g] Liability of Public Entities

Construction contract provisions to relieve public agency from liability for its active negligence are void and unenforceable. Civ. Code § 2782

Agreement to indemnify engineer or geologist from liability in providing hazardous materials identification is inapplicable to public entities. Civ. Code § 2782.6

Public entity liable only as provided by statute. Gov. Code § 815

Liability of public entity for injuries caused by employees acting within scope of employment. Gov. Code § 815.2(a)

Liability of public entity for injuries caused by intentional torts of elected officials. Gov. Code § 815.3

Liability of public entity for injuries caused by independent contractors. Gov. Code § 815.4

Liability of public entity for failure to discharge mandatory duty. Gov. Code § 815.6

Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) is liable, in amount not to exceed actual cash value of vehicle, for any injury to lienholder or good faith purchaser of vehicle proximately caused by DMV's negligent omission of lienholder's name from ownership certificate issued by department. Gov. Code § 818.5

Liability of public entity for motor vehicle accidents. Veh. Code §§ 17000, 17001, 17002, 17004.7

[4] Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

[a] Definitions

Definition of "dangerous condition." Gov. Code § 830(a)

Definition of "protect against." Gov. Code § 830(b)

Definitions of "property of public entity" and "public property." Gov. Code § 830(c)

Seismic safety improvements and fire sprinkler improvements are not public property due to financing by means of formation of special assessment district. Gov. Code § 830.1

[b] Immunities

No liability for minor, trivial, or insignificant risk. Gov. Code § 830.2

Immunity for failure to provide traffic control signals. Gov. Code §§ 830.4, 830.8

Design immunity. Gov. Code § 830.6

Immunity for condition of streets caused by weather. Gov. Code § 831

Immunity for natural conditions of public property. Gov. Code § 831.2

Public beaches are in natural condition, regardless of provision of public safety services. Gov. Code § 831.21

Immunity for injury to property, or for emotional distress without substantial physical injury, off public property caused by land failure of unimproved public property. Gov. Code § 831.25

Immunity for work on or failure to maintain nondedicated roads. Gov. Code § 831.3; Sts. & Hy. Code §§ 941, 1806

Immunity for condition of unpaved access roads to recreational areas. Gov. Code § 831.4(a)

Immunity for injuries caused by conditions of trails used for purposes specified in Gov. Code § 831.4(a). Gov. Code § 831.4(b)

Immunity for injuries on paved trails and paths located on property to which public entity has been given an easement, if specified warning is given. Gov. Code § 831.4(c)

Immunity for condition of specified state lands. Gov. Code § 831.6

Immunity for hazardous recreational activity. Gov. Code § 831.7

Immunity for reservoirs and canals. Gov. Code § 831.8

Public entity defense of reasonableness. Gov. Code § 835.4

Public employee defense of reasonableness. Gov. Code § 840.6

Public entity not liable for injury or death of person committing specified crimes on its property. Civ. Code § 847(a)

School district immunity for asbestos-related injuries. Gov. Code § 905.5

[c] Liabilities

Liability of public entities for dangerous conditions. Gov. Code § 835

Liability of public employees for dangerous conditions. Gov. Code § 840.2

[d] Notice

Actual and constructive notice of public entities. Gov. Code § 835.2

Actual and constructive notice of public employees. Gov. Code § 840.4

[5] Specific Liabilities and Immunities

[a] Emergency Services

Immunity for failing to prohibit or restrict time that cargo tank vehicles requiring flammable liquid placards travel through tunnel. Gov. Code § 821.5

Immunity and liability for rescue of vessels involved in collision, accident, or other casualty. Harb. & Nav. Code § 656(c)

Qualified immunity for emergency medical services. Health & Safety Code § 1799.106

Immunity for emergency rescue personnel performing emergency services. Health & Safety Code § 1799.107

Immunity for operation of emergency vehicles. Veh. Code § 17004

[b] Firefighting Activities

Immunity for failure to provide fire protection service. Gov. Code § 850

Immunity for failure to provide or maintain sufficient fire protection facilities. Gov. Code § 850.2

Immunity for condition of firefighting equipment or for injury caused in fighting fires. Gov. Code § 850.4

Liability for firefighting service outside regular area. Gov. Code § 850.6

Immunity and liability for transportation of person injured in fire. Gov. Code § 850.8

[c] Hazardous Substances

Qualified immunity for abatement of hazardous substances by specified public entities and public safety employee. Health & Safety Code § 25400

[d] Medical and Mental Health Activities

[i] Definitions

"Medical facility" defined. Gov. Code § 854

"Mental institution" defined. Gov. Code § 854.2

"Mental illness or addiction" defined. Gov. Code § 854.4

"Confined" defined. Gov. Code § 854.5

[ii] Emergency Medical Care Programs

Immunity for any civil damages alleged to result from training of laypersons in emergency medical services. Health & Safety Code § 1799.100

Immunity of physician, nurse, emergency medical technician, or mobile intensive care paramedic in delivering emergency care. Health & Safety Code § 1799.104

[iii] Mental Patients

Immunities and liabilities for injuries caused by or to mental patients. Gov. Code § 854.8

Immunities and liabilities for interference with right of mental patients to judicial determination of legality of confinement. Gov. Code § 855.2

Immunities and liabilities for diagnosing or failing to diagnose mental illness or addiction. Gov. Code § 855.8(a)

Immunity for administering prescribed treatment for mental illness with due care. Gov. Code § 855.8(b)

Immunities and liabilities for determining whether to confine or release mental patient. Gov. Code § 856

Immunity for injuries caused by or to escaping mental patients. Gov. Code § 856.2

Duty of county hospital to warn ambulance personnel of mental patient's instability and potential to assault others. Health & Safety Code § 1444.6

Mental hospitals and treating health professionals as immune from civil liability for filing authorized reports relating to mental patients and firearms. Welf. & Inst. Code § 8108

[iv] Public Health

Immunity for decision to act or not to act to promote the public health of the community. Gov. Code § 855.4

Immunity for failure to make physical examination or making inadequate physical examination for purpose of determining whether person has disease or condition. Gov. Code § 855.6

Immunity for failure to admit person to public medical facility. Gov. Code § 856.4

Immunity for flu program. Gov. Code § 856.6

[v] Public Medical Facilities

Liability of public medical facility for failure to provide required equipment, personnel, or supplies. Gov. Code § 855

Immunity for removal of corneal tissue by or at direction of coroner or medical examiner. Gov. Code § 27491.47

[e] Pesticides

Liability for use of pesticides. Gov. Code § 862

[f] Police and Correctional Activities

[i] Definitions

Definition of "prisoner." Gov. Code § 844

[ii] Immunities and Liabilities

Immunities and liabilities for injuries to prisoners. Gov. Code § 844.6

Immunity for failure to provide police protection. Gov. Code § 845

Immunity for failure to provide prison or jail facilities. Gov. Code § 845.2

Immunity and liability for interference with right of prisoner to judicial determination of legality of confinement. Gov. Code § 845.4

Immunity and liability for failure to furnish prisoner with medical care. Gov. Code § 845.6

Immunity for determination to release or parole prisoner. Gov. Code § 845.8(a)

Immunity for injury caused by escaping prisoner or person resisting arrest. Gov. Code § 845.8(b)

Immunity for failure to make arrest or failure to retain arrested person in custody. Gov. Code § 846

Immunity of law enforcement officer for making arrest. Penal Code § 847

[g] Tax Laws

Immunity for administration of tax laws. Gov. Code §§ 860-860.4

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsDamagesPunitive DamagesAvailabilityGovernmental EntitiesTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityQualified ImmunityTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationTime LimitationsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityFederal Tort Claims ActGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsExclusions From Liability

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.122

§ 464.122 Administrative Regulations

Claims against state. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 601 et seq.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.123

§ 464.123 Decisions

[1] Claims Against Public Entities

[a] Accrual of Cause of Action

[i] Equitable Indemnity

Limitation period on actions for equitable indemnity against public entity begins on date on which defendant is served, and as not subject to late discovery rule. Greyhound Lines, Inc. v. County of Santa Clara (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 480, 484-488, 231 Cal. Rptr. 702

[ii] Tort Claims

Nonsuit for public entity on basis that claim was not timely filed was improper because evidence showed that mother of child did not and should not have discovered negligence of public entity in treatment of child until shortly before claim was filed. Whitfield v. Roth (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 874, 883-889, 112 Cal. Rptr. 540, 519 P.2d 588

To raise issue of belated discovery properly, plaintiff is required to state in complaint when discovery was made, circumstances surrounding discovery, and facts that show that failure to make earlier discovery was reasonable, justifiable, and not result of plaintiff's failure to investigate or to act. Rodriguez v. County of Los Angeles (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 171, 178, 217 Cal. Rptr. 69

Insurance company's cause of action based on subrogation in its insured's rights accrued only when insurance company paid insured and thus commenced period for filing claim at that time, not at time of original accident. Allstate Ins. Co. v. County of Alameda (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 418, 420-423, 109 Cal. Rptr. 53

[b] Application of Claims Requirement

State claim requirements inapplicable to federal civil rights action against police officers. Williams v. Horvath (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 834, 837-842, 129 Cal. Rptr. 453, 548 P.2d 1125

Claim for recovery of specific property converted by public entity, including specific sum of money, is not subject to claims statutes. Minsky v. City of Los Angeles (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 113, 121-123, 113 Cal. Rptr. 102, 520 P.2d 726 ; Hibbard v. City of Anaheim (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 270, 276-277, 208 Cal. Rptr. 733

Public employee who files writ seeking reimbursement from public entity for costs incurred in providing his or her own defense to action filed against employee for conduct taken in scope of employment must first file claim for that reimbursement with public entity under Government Claims Act. Sparks v. Kern County Bd. of Supervisors (2009) 173 Cal. App. 4th 794, 798-799, 93 Cal. Rptr. 3d 173

Class action seeking return of money paid to city as compensation demanded for emergency response services provided by city was claim for "money or damages" requiring compliance with claims presentation requirement. City of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 422, 430, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 560

Claim for actual damages and civil penalties under Public Safety Officers Procedural Bill of Rights Act, Gov. Code § 3300 et seq., was subject to claim presentation requirement of Government Claims Act; claims were more than incidental to extraordinary relief sought under statute. Lozada v. City and County of San Francisco (2006) 145 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1146-1147, 52 Cal. Rptr. 3d 209

Recovery of money damages from public entity, even if "incidental" to request for equitable relief, is not permitted absent compliance with claims presentation requirement. TrafficSchoolOnline, Inc. v. Clarke (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 736, 741-742, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 408

Letter from attorney to public entity is sufficient notice of claim to trigger duty on part of public entity to notify plaintiff of claim deficiencies, if public entity can discern from letter that claim is being made that will result in litigation if not otherwise satisfied; letter from attorney that merely notifies public entity that attorney has been hired is not notice of claim. Green v. State Center Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1995) 34 Cal. App. 4th 1348, 1357-1359, 41 Cal. Rptr. 2d 140

Injured employee's compliance with claim requirement against port district alleged to be third-party tortfeasor satisfied employer's compensation carrier's claim filing requirement for purposes of intervening in employee's action. San Diego Unified Port Dist. v. Superior Court (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 843, 846-848, 243 Cal. Rptr. 163

Claim requirement against state applies to actions for damages for breach of contract; claim requirement not excused merely because claim is brought as class action. White v. State of California (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 452, 477, 240 Cal. Rptr. 732

Action for breach of contract requesting monetary damages for lost salary and retirement benefits does not fall within requirements for exemptions to claims presentation. Dilts v. Cantua Elementary Sch. Dist. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 27, 32, 234 Cal. Rptr. 612

Claim requirement against public entity not applicable if writ of mandate compelling county to act is sought. Madera Cmty. Hosp. v. County of Madera (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 136, 148, 201 Cal. Rptr. 768

[c] Class Claims

If class claim was made on behalf of claimants, those residing with claimants, and those affected by airport noise, that claim was sufficient to protect interests of claimants' children even after class action was decertified. Dhuyvetter v. City of Fresno (1980) 110 Cal. App. 3d 659, 662-665, 168 Cal. Rptr. 61

Class claim as required to contain sufficient information to enable public entity to reasonably determine circumstances giving rise to alleged liability. Eaton v. Ventura Port Dist. (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 862, 868, 119 Cal. Rptr. 746

Class claim not allowed if members of class unascertainable. Bozaich v. State of California (1973) 32 Cal. App. 3d 688, 694-699, 108 Cal. Rptr. 392

[d] Judicial Relief From Claim Requirement

[i] Burden of Proof

Public entity not required to prove that it would be prejudiced by late filing until petitioner has satisfied court that failure was due to mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect and that claim was filed within reasonable time not to exceed one year after accrual of cause of action. Shank v. County of Los Angeles (1983) 139 Cal. App. 3d 152, 158-159, 188 Cal. Rptr. 644 ; Hasty v. County of Los Angeles (1976) 61 Cal. App. 3d 623, 627, 131 Cal. Rptr. 347

Hearing on petition for relief from claim requirement is triable by court and not by jury. County of Sacramento v. Superior Court (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 135, 138-141, 116 Cal. Rptr. 602

Burden of showing mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect is on petitioner, who must meet this burden by preponderance of evidence. Shaddox v. Melcher (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 598, 600-601, 76 Cal. Rptr. 80

[ii] Denial of Relief

In medical malpractice action against county, plaintiff's abandonment of appeal of denial of petition for relief from claims requirement as waiver of her right to challenge ruling; order denying relief as collaterally estopping assertion in complaint that claim had been timely filed, thereby rendering complaint fatally defective. County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 1095, 1101, 215 Cal. Rptr. 699

Determination of claimant's right to sue public entity by court's denial of relief from claim requirement did not collaterally estop claimant from maintaining tort action because issue of whether defendants were public agencies or employees of public agency was not litigated in claim relief procedures. Harman v. Mono Gen. Hosp. (1982) 131 Cal. App. 3d 607, 614-617, 182 Cal. Rptr. 570

Deliberate decision not to timely file claim, in effort to influence pending criminal charges, was not basis for relief from claim requirements. Rivera v. City of Carson (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 718, 724-725, 173 Cal. Rptr. 4

Failure to petition court for relief if application for leave to present late claim is denied as precluding applicant's right to bring cause of action against public entity, unless entity is estopped to rely on failure to petition for relief. Kendrick v. City of La Mirada (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 325, 327-330, 77 Cal. Rptr. 444

[iii] Excusable Neglect

After failing to file timely claim with city, claimant's neglect not excusable because claimant and counsel had either actual possession or ready access to police report and other information suggesting possible liability of city's Department of Water and Power for automobile accident injuries. Department of Water & Power v. Superior Court

(2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 1288, 1296, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 173

Counsel's assumption that claim for spoliation of evidence accrued only when counsel abandoned attempts to locate evidence, an impounded automobile that had been sold to satisfy storage lien, rather than having accrued when automobile was sold, was unreasonable and did not constitute excusable mistake of law. Hernandez v. Garcetti (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 675, 683-684, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 443

Failure to file timely claim is excused if claimant had been involved in ongoing settlement discussions with adjuster for public entity during claim-filing period and adjuster had not advised claimant of claim requirements. Bertorelli v. City of Tulare (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 432, 440-441, 225 Cal. Rptr. 582

[iv] Minority

If plaintiff is minor, knowledge or lack thereof of minor's parents, not knowledge or lack thereof of minor, determines time of accrual of cause of action; mental incapacity of minor does not excuse requirement of filing claim. Reyes v. County of Los Angeles (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 584, 592-593, 243 Cal. Rptr. 35

Court did not properly consider dilatory actions of minor's guardian and attorney in determining whether minor was entitled to late claim relief. Rousseau v. City of San Carlos (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 498, 501-503, 236 Cal. Rptr. 299

[v] Physical or Mental Incapacity

Disability not required to be sole reason for submitting late claim, but required to be substantial reason. Thompson v. County of Fresno (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 686, 31 Cal. Rptr. 44, 381 P.2d 924 ; Baber v. Napa State Hosp. (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 514, 519, 201 Cal. Rptr. 432

Psychiatrist's statement that plaintiff was totally incapacitated during filing period was insufficient to justify relief if other evidence was contradictory. Garcia v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 701, 707-708, 219 Cal. Rptr. 544

[vi] Time Considerations

Court without jurisdiction to grant relief if underlying application to file late claim is filed more than one year after accrual of cause of action. Greyhound Lines, Inc. v. County of Santa Clara (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 480, 488, 231 Cal. Rptr. 702

If local rule requires preparation and filing of formal order, 30-day period of limitation begins when formal order is made and filed, not from date of minute order, regardless of whether minute order calls for preparation of formal order. County of Nevada v. Superior Court (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 806, 808-809, 228 Cal. Rptr. 447

Reasonable time in submitting late claim is defined by specific facts of case, policies of law regarding personal injury claims against state, and discretion of court. Baber v. Napa State Hosp. (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 514, 518, 201 Cal. Rptr. 432

Thirty-day limitation period for filing suit after granting of petition for relief from claim requirement begins with making of order and not with receipt of notification by clerk. Fritts v. County of Kern (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 303, 306-307, 185 Cal. Rptr. 212

Thirty-day period is not extended by court order authorizing claimant to file late claim because order is beyond court's power. Tuolumne Air Serv., Inc. v. Turlock Irrigation Dist. (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 248, 251-252, 150 Cal. Rptr. 809

If complaint is filed before relief from claim requirement is granted and is not amended to reflect that relief until more than 30 days from order granting relief, complaint is not barred by 30-day limitation period, because amendment related back to original complaint. Bahten v. County of Merced (1976)59 Cal. App. 3d 101, 107-116, 130 Cal. Rptr. 539 ; Black v. County of Los Angeles (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 920, 930-931, 127 Cal. Rptr. 916

Action is subject to dismissal for untimeliness if complaint was amended to include cause of action against public entity more than 30 days after relief was granted. Wilson v. People ex rel. Dep't of Pub. Works (1969) 271 Cal. App. 2d 665, 667-669, 76 Cal. Rptr. 906 ; but see Bell v. Tri-City Hosp. (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 438, 443-444, 241 Cal. Rptr. 796

[e] Late Claims

Failure to serve public entity within reasonable time after entity denies petitioner's request for permission to file late claim results in presumption that entity would be prejudiced by granting of petitioner's request; two-and-one-half-year delay is not reasonable. Han v. City of Pomona (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 552, 560, 43 Cal. Rptr. 2d 616

Parents of child who filed tort claim based on medical malpractice are required to file claim separate from that of child because injuries suffered by parents are separate and distinct. Nguyen v. Los Angeles County Harbor/UCLA Med. Ctr. (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 729, 732-734, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 709

Leave to file late claim is two-prong test, requiring showing of mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect and that application for leave to file late claim was presented within reasonable time not to exceed one year after accrual of cause of action. DeYoung v. Del Mar Thoroughbred Club (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 858, 864, 206 Cal. Rptr. 28

[f] Pleading

If plaintiff relies on more than one theory of recovery against public entity, each cause of action is required to have been reflected in timely claim; factual circumstances set forth in claim are required to correspond with facts alleged in complaint. Fall River Joint Unified Sch. Dist. v. Superior Court (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 431, 434-436, 253 Cal. Rptr. 587

Compliance with claims statute is mandatory; fact that public entity has full knowledge of claim and related circumstances is not sufficient to excuse noncompliance. McMartin v. County of Los Angeles (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 848, 858, 249 Cal. Rptr. 53

Causes of action based on facts not mentioned in claim is barred. Connelly v. State of California (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 744, 753, 84 Cal. Rptr. 257

[g] Presentation of Claim

Claim filed with state agency instead of Board of Control is properly filed because state agency had duty to forward claim to Board of Control. Jamison v. State of California (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 513, 518, 107 Cal. Rptr. 496

Presentation of claim to city is not sufficient to fulfill claim requirement with regard to school board. Jackson v. Board of Educ. (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 856, 859-860, 58 Cal. Rptr. 763

[h] Public Entity's Rules

Public entity's claims rules are authorized by statute and bar cause of action on which claim not filed. Ruggiero v. Los Angeles City Unified Sch. Dist. (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 970, 975-976, 109 Cal. Rptr. 417

[i] Substantial Compliance

Notice required by Code Civ. Proc. § 364(a) of intention to commence action based on professional negligence by health care provider is treated as valid claim if it discloses existence of claim that, if not paid or otherwise resolved, will result in litigation, and if it definitely discloses existence of claim for monetary damages. Phillips v. Desert Hosp. Dist. (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 699, 707-710, 263 Cal. Rptr. 119, 780 P.2d 349

Test to gauge adequacy of claim is whether there is some compliance with all of statutory requirements and whether there is substantial compliance with claim requirement. City of San Jose v. Superior Court (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 447, 456-457, 115 Cal. Rptr. 797, 525 P.2d 701 ; McMartin v. County of Los Angeles (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 848, 858-859, 249 Cal. Rptr. 53

Letter sent by plaintiff's attorney to individual city employee involved in auto accident with plaintiff did not substantially comply with claim filing requirements for suing city, because letter failed to provide sufficient information about identity of claimant or nature of accident, failed to indicate what injury was suffered or what damages were sought, and merely requested information rather than threatened formal proceedings. Del Real v. City of Riverside (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 761, 769-771, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 705

Submitting Patient Problem/Complaint Form to hospital quality assurance department together with Supplemental Note dated a few days thereafter, both complaining about the quality of medical care, was not substantial compliance with claims statute, given total failure to comply with at least two statutory requirements: (1) failing to transmit document to statutorily designated agent under Gov. Code § 915, and (2) failing to indicate that monetary claim being asserted by not complying with Gov. Code § 910(f). Wood v. Riverside Gen. Hosp. (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1113, 1116-1119, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 8

Variance between claim against state, based on theory that state refused to provide prisoner with medical care, and first amended complaint, alleging cause of action for medical malpractice against state employees, was fatal to recovery against employees because of failure to comply with claim presentation requirements; doctrine of substantial compliance not applicable if claim fails to set forth factual basis for recovery. Watson v. State of California (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 836, 844-845, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 262

Substantial compliance not applicable if factual basis for cause of action is wholly absent from claim. Crow v. State of California (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 192, 202, 271 Cal. Rptr. 349

Claim that alleged violation by permanently terminating employee, without specifically asserting denial of that employee's reemployment rights, was claim in substantial compliance. Mouchette v. Board of Educ. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 303, 311-312, 266 Cal. Rptr. 1

Claim substantially complies with tort claim requirement if it discloses sufficient information on its face to reasonably enable public entity to make adequate investigation of merits of claim and to settle it without lawsuit; facts constituting cause of action pleaded in any subsequent complaint are required to correspond substantially with circumstances described in claim as basis of plaintiff's injury. Smith v. County of Los Angeles (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 266, 277, 262 Cal. Rptr. 754

Purpose of Tort Claims Act is giving public entity opportunity to investigate and evaluate its potential liability; "substantial compliance" exception to strict claims requirement not applicable if this purpose would be subverted, which would result if plaintiff were permitted to impose obligation on public entity to defend lawsuit based on set of facts entirely different from those first noticed in claim. Fall River Joint Unified Sch. Dist. v. Superior Court (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 431, 435-436, 253 Cal. Rptr. 587

Series of letters between attorneys for plaintiff and district attorney did not constitute claim; therefore, doctrine of substantial compliance cannot be applied. Dilts v. Cantua Elementary Sch. Dist. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 27, 34-36, 234 Cal. Rptr. 612

Doctrine of substantial compliance is controlling if party attempts to comply with statutes, but compliance is defective; doctrine does not cure total omission of essential element from claim or remedy plaintiff's failure to comply meaningfully with statutes. State of California ex rel. Dep't of Transp. v. Superior Court (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 331, 335, 205 Cal. Rptr. 518

Compliance with claims statute by widow who intervened in action by husband's employer against county (to recover workers' compensation benefits paid to widow) was mandatory, even though employer previously had timely filed its claim; substantial compliance with claims statute is not permitted to be accomplished by intervention if claim of intervenor differs from that of original plaintiff. Pacific Tel. & Tel. Co. v. County of Riverside (1980) 106 Cal. App. 3d 183, 190-192, 165 Cal. Rptr. 29

Claim made by husband was sufficient to be claim also on wife's behalf because claim described occurrence and specified wife's claim for damages. Lacy v. City of Monrovia (1974) 44 Cal. App. 3d 152, 155-157, 118 Cal. Rptr. 277

[j] Time for Filing Claims

[i] Amendment of Cause of Action

If amended claim relates back to original claim that has already been rejected by public entity as untimely, amended claim is nullity to which public entity need not respond with notice of untimeliness. Dixon v. City of Turlock (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 907, 912-913, 268 Cal. Rptr. 510

Plaintiff was permitted to file amended complaint in proceeding alleging facts and circumstances preventing her from filing timely amendment to proposed claim, if she had not filed claim but had unsuccessfully applied for leave to present late claim, and proposed claim had not been amended. Williams v. Braslow (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 762, 774, 224 Cal. Rptr. 895

If cause of action on which claim was filed is amended after claim period to allege different basis of liability, dismissal of public entity is proper because of failure to file timely claim on new basis of liability. Lopez v. Southern Cal. Permanente Med. Group (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 673, 677, 171 Cal. Rptr. 527

[ii] Contract and Real Property Claims

One-year time provision of Gov. Code § 911.2 is intended to cover claims arising out of contract and claims for injuries to real property. Voth v. Wasco Pub. Util. Dist. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 353, 356, 128 Cal. Rptr. 608

Claim for damages to growing crops based on a promise of fitness of water implied from written lease is one-year claim under Gov. Code § 911.2. Voth v. Wasco Pub. Util. Dist. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 353, 356-360, 128 Cal. Rptr.

608

[iii] Strict Compliance

Prescribed statutes of limitations for commencement of actions against public entities require strict compliance. State of California ex rel. Dep't of Transp. v. Superior Court (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 331, 335, 205 Cal. Rptr. 518

[2] Actions Against Public Entities and Employees

[a] Actions After Grant of Relief From Claim Requirement

Time spent complying with claims procedure or relief from those procedures was not exempted from five-year requirement of Code Civ. Proc. § 583.310 et seq., even if complaint was filed prematurely. Davalos v. County of Los Angeles (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 57, 62-63, 190 Cal. Rptr. 711 (decided under former Code Civ. Proc. § 583(b))

If original complaint alleged cause of action against public entity but was filed before relief from claim requirement was granted, plaintiffs were not subject to dismissal for failure to file amended complaint within 30 days after relief was granted. Black v. County of Los Angeles (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 920, 930-931, 127 Cal. Rptr. 916

[b] Actions Against Public Employees

Salaried full-time public defender engaged in representing assigned clients is public employee, and claim against employing public entity is prerequisite to malpractice complaint against public defender. Briggs v. Lawrence (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 605, 612-618, 281 Cal. Rptr. 578

Denial of relief from filing late claim against public employees is proper even though claimant, a minor, met requirements for relief, because claim was substantively identical to earlier claim that had been timely filed against public entity, but as to which no action had been commenced within statutory period. Julian v. City of San Diego (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 169, 173-175, 229 Cal. Rptr. 664

Allegedly slanderous statements made by city supervisor serving on fact-finding committee were made within scope of employment as matter of law, and plaintiff's failure to file claim against county was fatal to his action against supervisor. Mazzola v. Feinstein (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 305, 310, 201 Cal. Rptr. 148

Plaintiff was on notice that defendant might be public employee because complaint was based on defective public property, even though plaintiff was unaware of which public entity had control over property. Moore v. Morhar (1977) 65 Cal. App. 3d 896, 902, 135 Cal. Rptr. 626

Plaintiff was not excused from requirement of filing claim against public entity as prerequisite to action against its employee because plaintiff and attorney knew that cause of action accrued at county hospital and failed to inquire regarding status of public employee anesthesiologist. Leake v. Wu (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 668, 673-674, 134 Cal. Rptr. 616

Public employees were acting within scope of their employment when they wrote letters for plaintiff's personnel file and commented on his performance to prospective employers; claim against public entity was prerequisite to suit. Neal v. Gatlin (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 871, 875-878, 111 Cal. Rptr. 117

Actions of mayor and police officers based on alleged conspiracy to have plaintiff dismissed as police chief were within scope of their employment and subject to Tort Claims Act. Meester v. Davies (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 342, 346-347, 89 Cal. Rptr. 711

[c] Collateral Estoppel

Action against public employees was barred by collateral estoppel because it had been determined in prior action that claim against public entity was not timely filed. Black v. County of Los Angeles (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 920, 928-929, 127 Cal. Rptr. 916

[d] Estoppel

In case alleging sexual molestation of 11-year-old child by his teacher during school field trip, teacher's directive to child not to tell anyone about incident was sufficient to raise estoppel. Christopher P. v. Mojave Unified Sch. Dist. (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 165, 170-173, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 353

Estoppel of public entity to raise defense based on claims statute was sufficiently pleaded because plaintiff alleged that (1) public entity did business under different name than that appearing on certificate filed with Secretary of State; (2) plaintiffs were informed by Secretary of State that name under which public entity did business was not listed on roster; (3) in reliance on that information, plaintiffs' attorney did not present claim; and (4) entity misled plaintiffs by filing certificate under different name. Elmore v. Oak Valley Hosp. Dist. (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 716, 723-724, 251 Cal. Rptr. 405

Public entity is not estopped to assert insufficiency of claim if insufficiency lies in failure of claim to set forth factual basis for recovery alleged in complaint, because public entity could not discover defect until after complaint was filed. Donohue v. State of California (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 795, 805, 224 Cal. Rptr. 57

Estoppel of public entity to assert noncompliance with claims statute was not established because petitioners provided contradictory evidence regarding their states of mind preceding claim filing deadline; trial court did not abuse its discretion in choosing to interpret events as being result of petitioners' conscious decision not to pursue any action against entity and concluding that decision was not induced by conduct or representations of entity's deputies. Toscano v. County of Los Angeles (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 775, 785-786, 155 Cal. Rptr. 146

Public entity was estopped to assert noncompliance with claims statute because notice denying application to file late claim was ambiguous and made it appear that claim rather than application was denied. McLaughlin v. Superior Court (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 35, 38-40, 105 Cal. Rptr. 384

[e] Expenses of Public Employment

City had no duty to pay for defense of public employee who willfully obstructed city authority by failure to make disbursements, as was her clear duty under city charter. City of Redondo Beach v. DeLong (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 1035, 1043, 177 Cal. Rptr. 77

Public entity had no authority to reimburse public employee for defense expenses because employee charged with criminal offenses not related to duties. Holtzendorff v. Housing Auth. (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 596, 632-634, 58 Cal. Rptr. 886

[f] Interest

Plaintiff entitled to recover postjudgment interest against state on tort claim. Harland v. State of California (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 839, 842-848, 160 Cal. Rptr. 613

[g] Intervention

Employee, who had filed timely claim against transit district for injuries sustained in accident with bus, was entitled to intervene, pursuant to Lab. Code § 3853, in action brought by his employer's workers' compensation insurer against transit district, even though employee had not timely filed his own action after his claim was rejected. Home Ins. Co. v. Southern Cal. Rapid Transit Dist. (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 522, 526-527, 241 Cal. Rptr. 858

[h] Parties

Demurrer to complaint against city was properly sustained without leave to amend with respect to causes of action based on contract breach, because contract was between plaintiff and redevelopment agency within that city. Pacific States Enters., Inc. v. City of Coachella (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 1414, 1422, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 68

[i] Payment by State

If no appropriation exists, state officials are not subject to being compelled to pay judgment against state. Westinghouse Elec. Co. v. Chambers (1915)169 Cal. 131, 135-136, 145 P. 1025 ; Veterans of Foreign Wars v. State of California (1974) 36 Cal. App. 3d 688, 697, 111 Cal. Rptr. 750

[j] Service of Summons

If service was improperly made on Board of Control rather than on Attorney General, state not estopped to deny proper service because facts showed Board did not have ostensible authority and plaintiff did not reasonably rely on alleged misrepresentation. House v. State of California (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 861, 873-879, 174 Cal. Rptr. 279

[k] Statute of Limitations

[i] Application

Six-month statute of limitations in Gov. Code § 945.6 is applicable to action for refund of taxes if basis for action is in city charter. Volkswagen Pac., Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 48, 60-63, 101 Cal. Rptr. 869, 496 P.2d 1237

In determining timeliness of lawsuit, plaintiff's contention that attorney never received notice of rejected claim was insufficient to create triable issue on nonreceipt because city provided proofs of service by mail. Him v. City & County of San Francisco (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 437, 446, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 838

Action based on real property loss because of sewage backup was untimely filed because written rejection contained explicit warning (Gov. Code § 913(b)) with regard to six-month limitation period under Gov. Code § 945.6(a)(1), and suit was filed more than six months after date of written denial of claim. City of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 621, 629, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 703

Medical malpractice action against public entity brought after claim rejected under Gov. Code § 913 must be filed within six-month limitation period of Gov. Code § 945.6, even though action is filed within one-year limitation period of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 for medical malpractice actions. Anson v. County of Merced (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1195, 1199, 1202, 249 Cal. Rptr. 457

Six-month period of limitation in Gov. Code § 945.6 is longer of either six calendar months or 182 days. Gonzales v. County of Los Angeles (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 601, 604, 245 Cal. Rptr. 112

Two-year limitation period of Gov. Code § 945.6(a)(2) was applicable because plaintiff had submitted timely claim together with unnecessary application to file late claim, and public entity denied unnecessary application but did not specifically reject claim; six-month limitation of Gov. Code § 945.6(a)(1) not applicable unless public entity gives specific written notice of rejection of claim. Jenkins v. County of Contra Costa (1985) 167 Cal. App. 3d 152, 155-157, 213 Cal. Rptr. 126

Because separate claims were filed by one heir and by all heirs, and both were rejected, limitation of Gov. Code § 945.6(a)(1) for wrongful death action ran from denial of claim by all heirs. Norwood v. Southern Cal. Rapid Transit Dist. (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 741, 744, 211 Cal. Rptr. 6

If rejection sent by certified mail, statute of limitations runs from date of deposit in mail, not from date of delivery to claimant. Edgington v. County of San Diego (1981) 118 Cal. App. 3d 39, 43-47, 173 Cal. Rptr. 225

Limitation periods in Tort Claims Act not applicable to action under 42 U.S.C.S. § 1983 for violation of civil rights under color of state law. Rossiter v. Benoit (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 706, 713-714, 152 Cal. Rptr. 65

Filing of amended claim is ineffective to extend statute of limitations because amended claim was not timely filed. Rogers v. Board of Educ. (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 355, 358, 67 Cal. Rptr. 905

[ii] Tolling

Code Civ. Proc. § 356 provision tolling statute of limitations during period in which commencement of action is statutorily barred was not applicable to period spent seeking relief from claim requirement because public entity's failure to comply with information-filing statute lifted statutory bar to lawsuit. Banfield v. Sierra View Local Dist. Hosp. (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 444, 456-457, 177 Cal. Rptr. 290 , disapproved on other grounds, Woods v. Young (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 315, 328 n.4, 279 Cal. Rptr. 613, 807 P.2d 455

Statute of limitations in action against public entity was tolled during pendency of interrelated administrative proceedings. Olson v. County of Sacramento (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 958, 961-965, 113 Cal. Rptr. 664

[l] Venue

Gov. Code § 955 (change of venue to Sacramento County in action against state) applies only to cases involving claims for money or damages for which filing of claim is statutory prerequisite or to actions on claims for money or damages that are specifically exempted from filing requirements. Tharp v. Superior Court (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 496, 500-501, 186 Cal. Rptr. 335, 651 P.2d 1141

Code Civ. Proc. § 394(a), relating to venue of actions brought by or against local public entity, applies to cross-complaint even when cross-complaint is filed only against original plaintiff in action, rather than against third-party, and cross-complaint was compulsory. Metropolitan Transit System v. Superior Court (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 293, 302, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 517

Change of venue to county of school district, only remaining defendant, was mandatory under Code Civ. Proc. § 394 because district sought change within 30 days after dismissal of only other defendant. Ventura Unified Sch. Dist. v. Superior Court (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 811, 815-816, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 260

Code Civ. Proc. § 394(a), relating to venue of negligence actions brought against or by local government entity, applies to cross-complaint just as it does to complaint. Kennedy/Jenks Consultants, Inc. v. Superior Court (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 948, 954-957, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 817 ; see also Ohio Cas. Ins. Group v. Superior Court (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 444, 448-449, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 771 ; but see City of Chico v. Superior Court (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 187, 188-192, 152 Cal. Rptr. 380

[3] General Principles of Liability and Immunity

[a] Actionable Injury Defined

Public entities and public employees are liable only for injuries to types of interests that have been protected by courts in actions between private persons; public entity's failure to fulfill its duty under public works law to ensure that workers are paid prevailing wages on public works was not actionable under Aubry v. Tri-City Hospital Dist (1992) 2 Cal. 4th 962, 967-968, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 92, 831 P.2d 317

Because private parties have analogous protection afforded by mechanic's lien, subcontractor's injury sustained after county failed to require posting of payment bond by general contractor who filed for bankruptcy was injury actionable under Tort Claims Act. N.V. Heathorn, Inc. v. County of San Mateo (2005) 126 Cal. App. 4th 1526, 1535-1537, 25 Cal. Rptr. 3d 400

Because public entity liability may only be imposed for injuries that would be actionable if inflicted by private person, elimination of spoliation of evidence cause of action against private persons effectively shields public entity from liability for failure to maintain court records necessary to prosecute appeal. Forbes v. County of San Bernardino (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 48, 57, 123 Cal. Rptr. 2d 721

[b] Constitutional Claims

Gov. Code § 815 does not provide immunity from constitutionally created claims. Young v. County of Marin (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 863, 869, 241 Cal. Rptr. 169 (First Amendment claim)

[c] Defense and Indemnification of Public Employees

Municipality's policy of indemnifying police officers against punitive damages liability in excessive force cases, pursuant to Gov. Code § 825(b) does not amount to deprivation of civil rights under 42 U.S.C.S. § 1983. Trevino v. Gates (9th Cir. 1996) 99 F.3d 911, 926

Indemnification provisions of Gov. Code § 825.2, which govern if employer declines to defend employee, apply even if employee has entered into stipulated judgment with plaintiff in underlying action. Johnson v. County of Fresno (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 1087, 1093-1094, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 475

Public university did not abuse discretion in refusing to defend physician being sued for conspiracy to misappropriate and misuse eggs obtained through employment in fertility clinic at university, because alleged conduct was outside scope of physician's employment. Stone v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1999) 77 Cal. App. 4th 736, 746-749, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 94

State was not obligated to defend employee in suit in which alleged misconduct related only to employee's duties as union representative, even though employee was performing employment duties at time. Zamudio v. State of California (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 673, 677-680, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79

Public entity not required under Gov. Code § 995.8 to provide defense to criminal prosecution against employee arising out of conduct within course and scope of employment; indemnification of employee's criminal defense costs is within discretion of public entity. Los Angeles Police Protective League v. City of Los Angeles (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 168, 182, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 574

Gov. Code § 825 does not compel public entity to pay judgment entered against its employee unless public entity provided employee's defense; Gov. Code § 825.2 provides for indemnity of public employee only if employee acted within course and scope of employment when incident occurred. Rivas v. City of Kerman (1992) 10 Cal. 4th 1110, 1118-1119, 1123-1124, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 142

Public employees' indemnity claim against codefendant public entity, based on Gov. Code § 825, survived good faith settlement between public entity and personal injury plaintiff. Kantor v. Housing Auth. (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 424, 429-430, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 695

Statutory scheme governing defense and indemnification of public employees so adequately protected their rights to defense and indemnification that there was no room and no need for judicially declared right to independent counsel such as is required of insurance companies under some circumstances. Laws v. County of San Diego (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 189, 192, 267 Cal. Rptr. 921

Neither public entity nor its insurers was able to benefit from its employee's insurance, pursuant to Gov. Code § 825; consequently, neither public entity nor its liability carriers was able to seek to recover from liability carrier of public entity's employee. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. v. City of Turlock (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 988, 1004, 216 Cal. Rptr. 796

[d] Employee Defined

In action against state college basketball player, college's athletic director, coach, and state, for injuries player inflicted on plaintiff during game, trial court was correct in ruling that player was not state employee, and therefore plaintiff could not recover from other defendants under doctrine of respondeat superior. Townsend v. State of California (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1530, 1536, 237 Cal. Rptr. 146

[e] Federal Civil Rights Actions

California government immunity statutes are not applicable against claim brought under federal Civil Rights Act (42 U.S.C.S. §§ 1981-2000h-6). Martinez v. California (1980) 444 U.S. 277, 284, 100 S. Ct. 553, 62 L. Ed. 2d 481 ; Fenton v. Groveland Cmty. Servs. Dist (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 797, 808, 185 Cal. Rptr. 758

Public entity was not liable under federal civil rights act for actions of its employees in depriving persons of their civil rights. Moor v. Alameda County (1973) 411 U.S. 693, 698-710, 93 S. Ct. 1785, 36 L. Ed. 2d 596

State indemnification provisions applicable to public employee defendants in action based on federal civil rights action. Williams v. Horvath (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 834, 842-848, 129 Cal. Rptr. 453, 548 P.2d 1125

Immunities available to public entity under Tort Claims Act do not shield entity from liability under 42 U.S.C.S. § 1983. Buenavista v. City & County of San Francisco (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 1168, 1174, 255 Cal. Rptr. 329

[f] Immunities of Public Employees

[i] Discretionary Immunity

[A] Combination Acts

Immunity for investigating child abuse in emergency situations, accorded county welfare officials by Welf. & Inst. Code § 16513 and Gov. Code § 820.4, encompasses actions necessary to make meaningful investigation, but does not encompass any tortious conduct in making investigation. Newton v. County of Napa (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 1551, 1559-1561, 266 Cal. Rptr. 682

Action of police officers in stopping drunk driver was discretionary, but decision to leave drunk passengers in car with keys was ministerial. Green v. City of Livermore (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 82, 88-89, 172 Cal. Rptr. 461

Decision to issue press release was discretionary but contents, timing, and manner of release were ministerial, subjecting public entity to liability if ministerial acts were tortious. Toney v. State of California (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 779, 789-793, 126 Cal. Rptr. 869

Decision to issue flood forecasts was discretionary, but implementation of that decision was ministerial, subjecting public entity to liability if done negligently. Connelly v. State of California (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 744, 749-751, 84 Cal. Rptr. 257

Decision to declare child dependent child was discretionary, but implementation of decision by placing child in foster home was ministerial and subjected entity to liability if done negligently. Elton v. County of Orange (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 1053, 1056-1058, 84 Cal. Rptr. 27 ; but see Becerra v. County of Santa Cruz (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1450, 1464, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 165 (county social worker's decision to place child in particular foster home is discretionary; distinguishing Elton in part on grounds that it was decided years before adoption of current statutes governing out-of-home placement of dependent children)

Discretionary act immunity not applicable to use of unreasonable force in making arrest although original decision to make arrest was discretionary. Scruggs v. Haynes (1967) 252 Cal. App. 2d 256, 265-268, 60 Cal. Rptr. 355

Decision by state botanist to analyze substance was discretionary, but negligent analysis subsequently was ministerial and not immune. Sava v. Fuller (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 281, 285-292, 57 Cal. Rptr. 312

[B] Discretionary Acts

Only basic policy decisions, not subsequent ministerial actions in implementation of policy, are immune as discretionary acts. Johnson v. State of California (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 782, 793-797, 73 Cal. Rptr 240, 447 P.2d 352 ; Taylor v. Buff (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 384, 390, 218 Cal. Rptr. 249

Decisions made during investigation into propriety of returning minor to father's custody following temporary county custody under Welf. & Inst. Code § 309 were discretionary decisions subject to immunity under Gov. Code § 820.2, even if steps taken during investigation to compile relevant information before deciding to release were admittedly inadequate. Ortega v. Sacramento County Dept. of Health & Human Services (2008) 161 Cal. App. 4th 713, 732-733, 74 Cal. Rptr. 3d 390

Statutes and regulations giving preferential consideration to family members as foster caretakers and promoting sibling placement in same foster home did not create mandatory duties and were not designed to prevent sexual abuse; in case in which no family members were available to serve as foster caretakers, county was not liable for placing plaintiff, but not siblings, in foster care of family friend, who allegedly sexually abused plaintiff. County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 627, 640-643, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 637

County social worker's decision to place child in particular foster home, after consideration of factors required by statute, is discretionary decision immune from liability under Gov. Code § 820.2. Becerra v. County of Santa Cruz (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1450, 1464, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 165

State immune from liability under Gov. Code § 818.4 if existence of mandatory duty by state to revoke driver's license under Veh. Code § 12805(c) not established; evidence insufficient to establish that Department of Motor Vehicles or any other state agent or agency made determination under Veh. Code §§ 12805(c) and 12806(c) that diabetic driver was unable to safely operate a motor vehicle so as to mandate termination of driving privilege. People v. Superior Court (1993) (Wilson) 18 Cal. App. 4th 31, 35-39, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 110

Immunity granted to state under Gov. Code § 8655 is significantly broader than that provided in Gov. Code § 820.2; former statute encompasses performance of or failure to perform discretionary act, while latter statute immunizes exercise of discretion itself. LaBadie v. State of California (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 1366, 1368-1369, 256 Cal. Rptr. 604 (malathion spraying)

In action by rape victim for negligent infliction of emotional distress arising from police dispatcher's telephone call to victim during attack in which dispatcher badgered and berated victim while rapist stood armed at her side, police dispatcher's decision to place call was discretionary and thus cloaked with immunity under Gov. Code § 820.2. Sullivan v. City of Sacramento (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 1070, 1081, 235 Cal. Rptr. 844

State was immune under Gov. Code §§ 818.2, 820.2, and 820.4 from liability for damage to crops resulting from decision to quarantine or fumigate crops to eradicate pests under Medfly program. Teresi v. State of California (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 239, 244, 225 Cal. Rptr. 517

To be entitled to immunity for discretionary acts, entity or officer required to show that basic policy decision, involving conscious balancing of risks and advantages, took place. Taylor v. Buff (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 384, 390, 218 Cal. Rptr. 249

Government decision involving essentially political considerations, including questions of (1) budgetary and fiscal policy, (2) personnel administration standards, (3) allocation of available resources according to variable priorities of need, and (4) choices between competing plans for accomplishing approved objectives, was discretionary and thus immune from liability under Gov. Code § 820.2. Taylor v. Buff (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 384, 390, 218 Cal. Rptr. 249

Coastal Commission was immune under Gov. Code § 818.4 from action for damages allegedly incurred because Commission decision affected plaintiff's contract with third party. Walter H. Leimert Co. v. California Coastal Comm'n (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 222, 234, 196 Cal. Rptr. 739

Failure to warn family of pending release of prisoner with known suicidal tendencies, when danger to prisoner was clearly foreseeable, did not rise to level of discretionary governmental decision calling for immunity; public agency required to show conscious exercise of discretion to invoke discretionary acts immunity. Johnson v. County of Los Angeles (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 298, 313, 191 Cal. Rptr. 704

Decision whether to remove motor home parked at side of highway was discretionary action of Highway Patrol officer within Gov. Code § 820.2 governmental immunity in action by motorist whose vehicle collided with motor home. David Smith Bonds v. State of California ex rel. Cal. Highway Patrol (1982) 138 Cal. App. 3d 314, 320-321, 187 Cal. Rptr. 792

Police officer's decision to order plaintiff to leave certain real property or be arrested was discretionary act. Watts v. County of Sacramento (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 232, 234-235, 186 Cal. Rptr. 154

City manager's decision to terminate water service was not discretionary act because it was at operational, not planning, level. H & M Assocs. v. City of El Centro (1980) 109 Cal. App. 3d 399, 406-407, 167 Cal. Rptr. 392

Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) was not liable for wrongful death of automobile accident victim, although DMV failed to revoke license of other driver, who had six citations in 18 months, because decision not to revoke was discretionary under Veh. Code § 13950; DMV was immune from liability under Gov. Code § 818.4, granting immunity for discretionary licensing activities. Department of Motor Vehicles v. Superior Court (1980) 105 Cal. App. 3d 537, 541, 164 Cal. Rptr. 379

Decision not to award contract to lowest bidder was based on state employees' exercise of discretion so that plaintiff's cause of action for damages for negligent rejection of bids without ascertaining whether sufficient funding existed was barred by governmental immunity (Gov. Code §§ 815.2, 820.2). Pacific Architects Collaborative v. State of California (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 110, 121-122, 166 Cal. Rptr. 184

Decision to pursue vehicle that resulted in vehicle colliding with plaintiff's car was discretionary. Bratt v. City & County of San Francisco (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 550, 553-554, 123 Cal. Rptr. 774

Failure to require posting of bond on transfer of automobile registration under statute that stated that Department of Motor Vehicles may require that bond was discretionary. Hirsch v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 252, 258-259, 115 Cal. Rptr. 452

Award of contract to party other than lowest responsible bidder was discretionary. Swinerton & Walberg Co. v. City of Inglewood-L.A. County Civic Ctr. Auth. (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 98, 101-103, 114 Cal. Rptr. 834 ; Rubino v. Lolli (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 1059, 89 Cal. Rptr. 320

Failure of highway patrol to undertake search for victim of accident was discretionary. McCarthy v. Frost (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 872, 875-876, 109 Cal. Rptr. 470

Failure of police to take appropriate action to protect property of plaintiffs that was subject of self-help by third party of which police were aware was discretionary. Michenfelder v. City of Torrance (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 202, 206-207, 104 Cal. Rptr. 501

Recommendation that person committed to mental health facility be released, which person after release murdered plaintiff's daughter, was discretionary act. Kravitz v. California (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 301, 307, 87 Cal. Rptr. 352

Decision of public administrator not to make payments on property of decedent, which caused its loss by foreclosure, was discretionary act. Saltares v. Kristovich (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 504, 519, 85 Cal. Rptr. 866

Advice by one agency to another not to perform unenforceable oral contract, which was incident of transaction in which advising agency had interest, was discretionary act. Osborne v. Huntington Beach Union High Sch. Dist. (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 510, 514-515, 85 Cal. Rptr. 793

Decision, and execution of that decision, to advise bidders at probate sale that property being sold was going to be condemned was discretionary act. Bank of America v. Los Angeles County (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 165, 173-175, 75 Cal. Rptr. 444

[C] Ministerial Acts

Therapists who failed to warn person that patient intended to kill her were not immune from liability for that failure under discretionary act immunity. Tarasoff v. Regents of University of Cal. (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 425, 444-447, 131 Cal. Rptr. 14, 551 P.2d 334

Social worker was not exercising discretion so as to be entitled to immunity when applying radically different standards for eligibility for welfare than allowed by statute and regulation. Ramos v. Merced County (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 685, 692-694, 94 Cal. Rptr. 421, 484 P.2d 93

Discretionary act immunity was not applicable to police officer's negligence in leading plaintiff to place in street to investigate accident. McCorkle v. City of Los Angeles (1969) 70 Cal. 2d 252, 260-262, 74 Cal. Rptr. 389, 449 P.2d 453

Public official's decision to make statement to press with regard to his or her release of funds from official custody was not discretionary act. Sanborn v. Chronicle Publishing Co. (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 406, 414-416, 134 Cal. Rptr. 402, 556 P.2d 764

Social worker was not immune from liability under discretionary acts immunity for alleged negligent supervision of foster care placement; social worker's failure to comply with regulations regarding supervision of foster care was "ministerial" and not discretionary because regulations afforded social worker no discretion to visit foster child less frequently than monthly to determine adequacy of placement. Scott v. County of Los Angeles (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 125, 141-142, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 643

County clerk and elections board's act of determining if potential voters meet residency requirements is ministerial task. Fenton v. Groveland Cmty. Servs. Dist. (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 797, 806-807, 185 Cal. Rptr. 758

[ii] Failure to Enforce Law Immunity

Failure to enforce law immunity is applicable to law enforcement officers. Michenfelder v. City of Torrance (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 202, 206, 104 Cal. Rptr. 501

[iii] Judicial Immunity

Unless specifically provided otherwise by Tort Claims Act, common law immunities, such as judicial immunity, are not affected by Act. Fisher v. Pickens (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 708, 715-718, 275 Cal. Rptr. 487

[iv] Malicious Prosecution Immunity

County employee acting within scope of employment was immune from claim of malicious prosecution under Gov. Code § 821.6 for initiating criminal prosecution against plaintiff who had prior grant of immunity from prosecution. Scannell v. County of Riverside (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 596, 604, 199 Cal. Rptr. 644

Retaining person in jail when no proceedings pending against him or her was not malicious prosecution, and sheriff was not immune. Sullivan v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 710, 719-722, 117 Cal. Rptr. 241, 527 P.2d 865

Immunity applicable to protect state bar personnel from liability for negligence and negligent and intentional infliction of emotional distress in connection with disbarment proceedings. Rosenthal v. Vogt (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 69, 75, 280 Cal. Rptr. 1

Immunity inapplicable to exonerate public employee from liability for false arrest or imprisonment; if facts support causes of action for malicious prosecution and false arrest, immunity applicable only to malicious prosecution cause of action. Harden v. San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit Dist. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 7, 14-17, 263 Cal. Rptr. 549

Gov. Code § 821.6 immunity not limited to suits for damages for malicious prosecution. Kemmerer v. County of Fresno (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 1426, 1436, 246 Cal. Rptr. 609 (wrongful discharge, intentional infliction of emotional distress)

Malicious prosecution immunity is constitutional. Blackburn v. Los Angeles County (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 175, 177-178, 116 Cal. Rptr. 622

Malicious prosecution immunity does not protect public entity from liability for failure to discharge mandatory duty. Bradford v. State of California (1973) 36 Cal. App. 3d 16, 19-21, 111 Cal. Rptr. 852

Malicious prosecution immunity available to protect police officer if acts that resulted in malicious prosecution were negligent. Johnson v. City of Pacifica (1969) 4 Cal. App. 3d 82, 84-88, 84 Cal. Rptr. 246

Malicious prosecution immunity available to protect coroner from claim that negligent autopsy caused prosecution of claimant. Stearns v. County of Los Angeles (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 134, 137-138, 79 Cal. Rptr. 757

Public entity and employee immune from liability for malicious prosecution. Vivell v. Belmont (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 38, 40-41, 78 Cal. Rptr. 841

[v] Misrepresentation Immunity

Gov. Code §§ 818.8, 822.2 protects school district and employee from liability for allegedly misrepresenting to high school student that completion of particular science class would allow student to meet requirements for playing NCAA sports. Brown v. Compton Unified Sch. Dist. (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 114, 117-118, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 171

Gov. Code §§ 818.8, 822.2 does not preclude action against county adoption agency for intentional misrepresentation or fraudulent concealment of adoptee's medical condition as part of adoption process. Michael J. v. Los Angeles County Dept. of Adoptions (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 859, 872, 875, 247 Cal. Rptr. 504

Gov. Code § 822.2 does not abrogate common law regarding judicial immunity; thus, even though judge is public employee and public employees are immune only if they are not guilty of actual fraud, corruption, or actual malice, judge is immune from civil suit in exercise of judicial function even if acting maliciously and corruptly. Frost v. Geernaert (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 1104, 1107-1109, 246 Cal. Rptr. 440

Tort actions for misrepresentation made by state employees were barred by Tort Claims Act (Gov. Code § 818.8). Seymour v. State of California (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 200, 205, 201 Cal. Rptr. 15

Misrepresentation immunity does not apply to allegations for fraud in contract action. Arthur L. Sachs, Inc. v. City of Oceanside (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 315, 320-321, 198 Cal. Rptr. 483

Cause of action was stated against building inspectors for actual fraud in approving building that they allegedly knew did not conform to applicable building codes. Cooper v. Jevne (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 860, 874-875, 128 Cal. Rptr. 724

Misrepresentation immunity not applicable if public employee is motivated by corruption or actual malice, such as a conscious intent to deceive, vex, annoy, or harm injured party in his or her business. Schonfeld v. City of Vallejo (1974) 50 Cal. App. 3d 401, 409-411, 123 Cal. Rptr. 669

[g] Immunities of Public Entities

[i] Employee Immunity

County was immune from liability based on social worker's alleged negligence in investigating report of child abuse, because social worker was immune under Gov. Code § 821.6. Jenkins v. County of Orange (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 278, 284, 260 Cal. Rptr. 645 , distinguished, Clarke v. Upton, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 38206

State officials were immune from liability for publicizing results of investigation of plaintiffs' activities and conduct as collection agencies; thus, state was exempt from any liability for actions of officials. Citizens Capital Corp. v. Spohn (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 887, 888-889, 184 Cal. Rptr. 269

[ii] Failure to Adopt or Enforce Laws

Duty of public entity to promulgate regulations under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 7514.1 was discretionary, not mandatory within meaning of Gov. Code § 815.6; immunity for failure to adopt or enforce laws under Gov. Code §§ 818.2 and 821 was therefore applicable, precluding any liability for alleged negligent delay in promulgating regulations. Nunn v. State of California (1984) 35 Cal. 3d 616, 621-626, 200 Cal. Rptr. 440, 677 P.2d 846

Federal decisions construing immunity afforded discretionary acts under Federal Tort Claims Act (28 U.S.C.S. § 2680(a)) were useful precedent to determine whether public entity is immune from liability under Gov. Code § 818.2 for alleged negligent delay in promulgating regulations under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 7514.1. Nunn v. State of California (1984) 35 Cal. 3d 616, 623 n.5, 200 Cal. Rptr. 440, 677 P.2d 846

Failure to enforce law immunity not applicable if duty to enforce law is mandatory with public entity because immunity only applicable to discretionary law enforcement. Morris v. County of Marin (1977) 18 Cal. 3d 901, 916-917, 136 Cal. Rptr. 251, 559 P.2d 606

Immunity for adopting or failing to adopt a statute precluded award of damages in mandate action to overturn zoning ordinance. HFH, Ltd. v. Superior Court (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 508, 518-520, 125 Cal. Rptr. 365, 542 P.2d 237

Immunity of public employee under Gov. Code § 821 for injury caused by employee's adoption of or failure to adopt enactment, or by employee's failure to enforce enactment, was applicable to regulations relating to detention and penal facilities. Taylor v. Buff (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 384, 389, 218 Cal. Rptr. 249

State not liable for effect of legislation enacted under police power. Dana Corp. v. State of California (1980) 103 Cal. App. 3d 424, 426, 162 Cal. Rptr. 875

Failure to enforce law immunity not applicable to action for damages for agency's failure to suspend license of bus company that failed to maintain insurance. Elson v. Public Utilities Commission (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 577, 589, 124 Cal. Rptr. 305

Failure to enforce law immunity not applicable to complaint for damages for failure to enforce regulations regarding placement of dependent children in foster homes. Elton v. County of Orange (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 1053, 1059, 84 Cal. Rptr. 27

[iii] Inspections

Public entity's immunity from tort liability for negligent inspections under Gov. Code § 818.6 was not preempted by provisions of federal law that govern Section 8 housing (42 U.S.C.S. § 1437f et seq.; 24 C.F.R. § 882.109). Stevenson v. San Francisco Hous. Auth. (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 269, 279-283, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 398

Immunity protects Department of Social Services from liability based on failure to conduct mandatory inspection of day-care facility before renewing license of operator, who made false declarations in her renewal application. Powell v. State of California (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 910, 914-916, 286 Cal. Rptr. 8

Public entity immune from liability for negligent inspection whether duty to inspect is mandatory or discretionary. Cochran v. Herzog Engraving Co. (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 405, 205 Cal. Rptr. 1

Public entity not liable for failure to inspect private property, and mandatory duty liability was not applicable did not override immunity. Clayton v. Sunnyvale (1943) 62 Cal. App. 3d 666, 686-671, 133 Cal. Rptr. 306

[iv] Licensing

In action for alleged negligent provision of training course for license under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 7514.1, public school district had no actionable duty to offer such course and also had licensing immunity from liability under Gov. Code § 818.4. Nunn v. State of California (1984) 35 Cal. 3d 616, 626-628, 200 Cal. Rptr. 440, 677 P.2d 846

Licensing immunity not applicable if public entity has mandatory duty not to issue license unless applicant establishes that it has worker's compensation insurance. Morris v. County of Marin (1977) 18 Cal. 3d 901, 911-916, 136 Cal. Rptr. 251, 559 P.2d 606

Licensing immunity precludes award of damages in mandamus proceeding to challenge denial of license even if the writ is granted. State v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 245-247, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281

Public entity immune from liability for denial of building permit. Selby Realty Co. v. San Buenaventura (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 110, 127, 109 Cal. Rptr. 799, 514 P.2d 111

Issuance of certificate stating that particular grapevine was diseased, pursuant to state inspection program for grapevines, was discretionary act for which immunity was provided under Gov. Code §§ 818.4, 821.2. Sonoma Ag Art, LLC v. Department of Food & Agric. (2004) 125 Cal. App. 4th 122, 127-129, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 468

Decision of public entity health maintenance organization to issue credentials to physician to receive Medi-Cal reimbursements was discretionary decision protected by immunity of Gov. Code § 818.4. Inland Empire Health Plan v. Superior Court (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 588, 592-594, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 735

Licensing and discretionary acts immunity of Gov. Code §§ 818.4 and 821.2 was not applicable in case in which building official approved owner's building by giving "Final Inspection Okay," thereby precluding official from further discretion to withhold certificate of occupancy; official was under mandatory duty to issue certificate of occupancy. Thompson v. City of Lake Elsinore (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 49, 55-58, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 344

State immune from liability under Gov. Code § 818.4 because plaintiff failed to establish existence of mandatory duty on state to revoke driver's license under Veh. Code § 12805(c); evidence was insufficient to establish that Department of Motor Vehicles or any other state agent or agency made determination under Veh. Code §§ 12805(c) and 12806(c) that diabetic driver was unable to operate a motor vehicle safely so as to mandate termination of driving privilege. People v. Superior Court (1993) (Wilson) 18 Cal. App. 4th 31, 34-39, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 110

Licensing immunity applied to protect city from liability for damage caused by soil subsidence after its building inspector had issued permits, despite knowledge that all soil was not compacted to optimum level set forth by ordinance; issuance of permit was discretionary. Cancun Homeowners Assn. v. City of San Juan Capistrano (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1352, 1356-1361, 264 Cal. Rptr. 288

Licensing of home improvement contractor under Bus. & Prof. Code § 7153.1 was discretionary; state board therefore immune under Gov. Code § 818.4 from liability for negligent licensing procedures. West v. State of California (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 753, 760-763, 227 Cal. Rptr. 16

Public entity not liable for issuing driver's license to allegedly senile person. Papelian v. California ex rel. Dep't of Motor Vehicles (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 958, 961-963, 135 Cal. Rptr. 665

Licensing immunity not applicable because public entity had mandatory duty to suspend license of bus company for failure to maintain insurance. Elson v. Public Utilities Commission (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 577, 587-589, 124 Cal. Rptr. 305

Public entity immune from liability for issuance of automobile registration. Hirsch v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 252, 254-257, 115 Cal. Rptr. 452

Public entity immune from liability for revoking use permit. O'Hagan v. Board of Zoning Adjustment (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 722, 726-727, 113 Cal. Rptr. 501

City immune for refusal to issue building permit. Burns v. City Council (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 999, 1003-1005, 107 Cal. Rptr. 787

[v] Misrepresentations

Erroneous advice by fiscal intermediary not following correct administrative practice was not sufficient misrepresentation to estop government from recovering funds to which nonprofit corporation was not entitled. Heckler v. Community Health Servs. (1984) 467 U.S. 51, 61-63, 104 S. Ct. 2218, 81 L. Ed. 2d 42

Misrepresentation immunity did not bar contract action based on misrepresentation. Warner Constr. Corp. v. City of Los Angeles (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 285, 293-294, 85 Cal. Rptr. 444, 466 P.2d 996 ; Arthur L. Sachs, Inc. v. City of Oceanside (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 315, 320-321, 198 Cal. Rptr. 483

Misrepresentation for purpose of misrepresentation immunity means interferences with financial or commercial interests in nature of common law action for deceit. Johnson v. State of California (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 782, 799-800, 73 Cal. Rptr. 240, 447 P.2d 352

Immunity for negligent misrepresentation under Gov. Code § 818.8 applied to air management district that, because of miscalculation, notified ranch that it had earned 470 tons of marketable pollution credits more than ranch actually had earned, forcing ranch to reduce sale price of credits by over $831,000 when notified of error while sale was pending.

Jopson v. Feather River Air Quality Mgmt. Dist. (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 492, 499, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 506

Gov. Code § 818.8 immunized county for allegedly misrepresenting conditions of plaintiff's employment with office of county counsel and thus inducing plaintiff to relocate to accept position even though plaintiff was terminated shortly after being hired. Burden v. County of Santa Clara (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 244, 250-252, 96 Cal. Rptr. 2d 587

Immunity was applicable to bar recovery by farmers who had applied pesticides under direction of county employee and who thereafter were prohibited by county officials from harvesting or selling their raspberry crop due to excess pesticide residues. Tokeshi v. State of California (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 999, 1004-1008, 266 Cal. Rptr. 255

Immunity was applicable to county and state for alleged misrepresentations made in conjunction with tax sale of real property; although immunity was not applicable to contractual liabilities of public entities, ordinary contract law not applicable to determine rights of purchaser against seller in sale of tax-delinquent property. Craland, Inc. v. State of California (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 1400, 1405, 263 Cal. Rptr. 255

Gov. Code §§ 818.8, 822.2 did not preclude action against county adoption agency for intentional misrepresentation or fraudulent concealment of adoptee's medical condition as part of adoption process. Michael J. v. Los Angeles County Dept. of Adoptions (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 859, 872, 875, 247 Cal. Rptr. 504

Public entity was not liable for alleged misrepresentation by police officer that undercover informant would be treated as police officer if killed as result of undercover work. Page v. Montebello (1980) 112 Cal. App. 3d 658, 670-671, 169 Cal. Rptr. 447

Governmental entity was immune from liability for its misrepresentation relating to units; immunity under Gov. Code § 818.8 (providing immunity for injury caused by misrepresentation) is commonly applied to deny relief for injury to financial or commercial interests. Grenell v. Hermosa Beach (1980) 103 Cal. App. 3d 864, 873-875, 163 Cal. Rptr. 315

Public entity immune from liability based on misrepresentations, including those based on fraud, corruption, or malice. Universal By-Prods., Inc. v. City of Modesto (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 145, 154, 117 Cal. Rptr. 525

Misrepresentation immunity not applicable to negligent misrepresentation about maximum height that river would rise. Connelly v. State of California (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 744, 752, 84 Cal. Rptr. 257

Misrepresentation immunity applied to misrepresentation by public employee that activities violated zoning ordinance. Brown v. Los Angeles (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 849, 850-851, 73 Cal. Rptr. 364

[vi] Punitive Damages

Civil penalties assessed for noncompliance with regulations governing patient care in long-term health care facilities are different from punitive damages, and public entity is potentially liable for such penalties. Kizer v. County of San Mateo (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 139, 145-150, 279 Cal. Rptr. 318, 806 P.2d 1353

Statutory damages for spilling oil or discharging raw sewage are not solely punitive, and therefore public entity is liable for such damages. People ex rel. Younger v. Superior Court (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 30, 42, 127 Cal. Rptr. 122, 544 P.2d 1322 ; San Francisco Civil Serv. Ass'n v. Superior Court (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 46, 48-50, 127 Cal. Rptr. 131, 544 P.2d 1331

State Compensation Insurance Fund (SCIF) subject to liability for punitive damages if sued in tort; Ins. Code § 11873, which excepts SCIF from Government Code provisions applicable to other state agencies, removes SCIF from scope of Gov. Code § 818. Courtesy Ambulance Serv. v. Superior Court (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 1504, 1519, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 161

Recovery of punitive damages by or against public entities is not authorized. City of Los Angeles v. Shpegel-Dimsey, Inc. (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1009, 1023-1026, 244 Cal. Rptr. 507

Proscription of Gov. Code § 818 against imposition of punitive damages is not violative of equal protection if plaintiff only alleges ad hoc acts of misbehavior by employees of public entity. McAllister v. South Coast Air Quality Mgmt. Dist. (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 653, 661, 228 Cal. Rptr. 351

[vii] Malicious Prosecution Immunity

Malicious prosecution immunity not applicable to action for false imprisonment alleging that sheriff kept prisoner in jail after prisoner should have been released. Sullivan v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 710, 719-722, 117 Cal. Rptr. 241, 527 P.2d 865

County immune from claim of malicious prosecution under Gov. Code §§ 821.6 and 815.2(b) for employee's initiation of criminal prosecution against plaintiff, who had prior grant of immunity from prosecution. Scannell v. County of Riverside (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 596, 604-605, 199 Cal. Rptr. 644

Malicious prosecution immunity does not protect entity and employee if it is alleged that public employee falsely obtained warrant and arrested plaintiff under warrant, because there is no immunity for false imprisonment. McKay v. County of San Diego (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 251, 254-257, 168 Cal. Rptr. 442

Arrest based on valid warrant is not false imprisonment, and cause of action for malicious prosecution is subject to immunity. Collins v. City & County of San Francisco (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 671, 676-679, 123 Cal. Rptr. 525

[viii] State Militia Immunity

State immune from liability under Gov. Code § 815.2 and Mil. & Vet. Code § 392 in wrongful death action brought by family of county deputy sheriff killed during drug interdiction operation in crash of helicopter being flown by officer of California National Guard, which provided air support to state and federal law enforcement officials in operation. Chester v. State of California (1994) 21 Cal. App. 4th 1002, 1004-1008, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 575

[h] Liabilities of Public Employee

Highway patrolman's act of stopping and aiding motorist did not create special relationship that would impose affirmative duty to secure information or preserve evidence for civil litigation between motorist and third parties. Williams v. State of California (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 18, 22-23, 192 Cal. Rptr. 233, 664 P.2d 137

Before issue of immunity can be reached, threshold question of whether there was duty of care owed to plaintiff must be answered. Williams v. State of California (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 18, 22-23, 192 Cal. Rptr. 233, 664 P.2d 137 ; Harris v. Smith (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 100, 104-105, 203 Cal. Rptr. 541

Sheriff liable for false imprisonment if sheriff knew or should have known that incarceration was unlawful. Sullivan v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 710, 719, 117 Cal. Rptr. 241, 527 P.2d 865

Public employee liable for negligent failure to discharge employee who is known to be incompetent or unfit. Fernelius v. Pierce (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 226, 239-241, 138 P.2d 12

Public employees are potentially liable for punitive damages. Runyon v. Superior Court (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 878, 881-882, 232 Cal. Rptr. 101

Duty of care owed by state as result of affirmative act that placed person in peril or increased risk of harm, omission, or failure to act after promise was made, or special relationship in which person relied to his or her detriment on official conduct in situation of dependency; highway patrol officer's act in stopping driver, administering sobriety tests, and releasing driver after driver passed tests did not create affirmative duty to motorist, even if motorist was reasonably foreseeable victim. Harris v. Smith (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 100, 104-106, 203 Cal. Rptr. 541

County sheriffs not liable for failure to render emergency aid to plaintiff found injured at scene of investigation, or for failure to secure evidence found at scene, absent special relationship giving rise to affirmative duty; special relationship existed only if sheriffs' actions increased risk of harm to plaintiff or led to detrimental reliance on part of plaintiff. Rose v. County of Plumas (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 999, 1003-1007, 199 Cal. Rptr. 842

[i] Liabilities of Public Entities

[i] Actions of Independent Contractors

Public entity not liable for negligence of independent contractor hired by third party who is issued permit by public entity. Stanford v. City of Ontario (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 870, 878-879, 101 Cal. Rptr. 97, 495 P.2d 425

Indigent criminal defendant unable to bring legal malpractice action against county, based on dissatisfaction with free counsel hired as independent contractor and employed by private law firm under contract with county to provide public defender services, because counsel was not alleged to lack required expertise; government owes no duty to criminal defendant to control performance of publicly provided lawyer who was not employee of government entity responsible for legal representation. Foster v. County of San Luis Obispo (1991) 14 Cal. App. 4th 668, 674-675, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 730

General allegations insufficient to support cause of action for government liability; issuance of authorization, without alleging supervision or control by public entity, was insufficient to infer employment or independent contractor relationship. Shields v. County of San Diego (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 103, 113, 202 Cal. Rptr. 30

Public entity not liable to employee of independent contractor for dangerous defect in equipment of independent contractor unless entity has actual knowledge of defect and right to order equipment removed from job. Holman v. California (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 317, 328-335, 124 Cal. Rptr. 773

Public entity liable for negligent failure of its independent contractor to construct or maintain buildings in reasonably safe condition. O'Gan v. King City Joint Union High Sch. Dist. (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 641, 646-647, 83 Cal. Rptr. 795

[ii] Conversion

County liable to owners for conversion of firearms confiscated for use as exhibits in criminal prosecution and subsequently destroyed by county pursuant to court order without notice to owners as required by former Penal Code § 1418 (now see Penal Code §§ 1417-1417.7). Tallmadge v. County of Los Angeles (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 251, 254, 236 Cal. Rptr. 338

[iii] Discrimination

Gov. Code § 815 immunity does not enable public entity or its employees to act with impunity in manner for which private persons would be liable; acts of supervisory employees motivated by and resulting in discrimination based on race and age was not immunized. Watson v. Department of Rehab. (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1271, 1285, 261 Cal. Rptr. 204

[iv] Failure to Discharge Mandatory Duty

Mandatory requirement that city record notice of substandard conditions of property with county recorder, although having incidental effect of notifying potential purchasers of property about those substandard conditions, was intended as leverage to induce correction of substandard conditions and was not intended to protect future purchasers or lenders from economic damages subsequently caused because substandard conditions were not corrected; subsequent purchaser had no cause of action for failure to perform mandatory duty. Haggis v. City of Los Angeles (2000) 22 Cal. 4th 490, 503, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 327, 993 P.2d 983

Whether particular statute imposes mandatory duty within meaning of Gov. Code § 815.6 is question of interpretation for courts. Nunn v. State of California (1984) 35 Cal. 3d 616, 624, 200 Cal. Rptr. 440, 677 P.2d 846

Public entity liable for failure to perform mandatory duty of requiring all persons to whom building permit is issued to have workers' compensation insurance. Morris v. County of Marin (1977) 18 Cal. 3d 901, 905-911, 136 Cal. Rptr. 251, 559 P.2d 606

Public entity liable for failure to discharge mandatory duty for failure to release prisoner against whom charges had been dismissed. Sullivan v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 710, 715-717, 117 Cal. Rptr. 241, 527 P.2d 865

Public entity liable for failure to discharge mandatory duty in coercing welfare recipients to violate state laws, which resulted in their injury. Ramos v. County of Madera (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 685, 695-696, 94 Cal. Rptr. 421, 484 P.2d 93

Corp. Code § 25612, which requires Commissioner of Corporations to make certain findings before rescinding desist and refrain order relating to securities regulation, does not create mandatory duty that may be used to support action by security investors against Department of Corporations when Commissioner does not make explicit findings before rescinding order that had been imposed against broker. Department of Corporations v. Superior Court (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 916, 931-934, 63 Cal. Rptr. 3d 624

Plaintiffs failed to plead that reclamation district had mandatory duty to avoid leakage or similar failure of levees under their maintenance; Army Corps of Engineers' regulations were not mandatory and dealt with construction, not subsequent maintenance. Tilton v. Reclamation Dist. No. 800 (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 848, 861-863, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 366

County had mandatory duty under Civ. Code §§ 3247 and 3251 to require posting of payment bond as condition to awarding public construction contract. N.V. Heathorn, Inc. v. County of San Mateo (2005) 126 Cal. App. 4th 1526, 1532, 25 Cal. Rptr. 3d 400

Public entity awarding public contract has mandatory duty under Bond and Undertaking Law to take reasonable steps to ensure financial solvency of sureties provided by its contractors by ensuring that proposed surety is admitted surety insurer or requiring two or more sufficient personal sureties or combination of sufficient personal sureties or admitted surety insurers, and by conducting proper investigation into status of alleged admitted surety by requiring surety to submit county clerk's certificate showing that surety is admitted. Walt Rankin & Assocs., Inc. v. City of Murrieta (2000) 84 Cal. App. 4th 605, 622, 624, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 48 ; see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 995.310, 995.660(a)(3)

City ordinance governing site and architectural review of applications for building permits was not mandatory duty for purposes of Gov. Code § 815.6 due to level of discretion accompanying application of ordinance; ordinance was also intended primarily to protect scenic and aesthetic interests and not intended to protect light and air access or fire escape access for neighboring landowner's building. Sutherland v. City of Fort Bragg (2000) 86 Cal. App. 4th 13, 20-23, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 736

Coroner was liable for failure to perform mandatory duty to act with reasonable diligence in attempting to identify body placed in coroner's custody and then to attempt with reasonable diligence to locate decedent's family. Davila v. County of Los Angeles (1996) 50 Cal. App. 4th 137, 143, 57 Cal. Rptr. 2d 651

Dangerous Weapons' Control Law (Penal Code § 12076) imposed mandatory duty on State Department of Justice to examine its own records and those that it may obtain from State Department of Mental Health for purpose of determining whether prospective handgun purchaser is prohibited from purchasing firearms under specified code sections; plaintiff stated cause of action against Department for wrongful death of decedent who committed suicide through use of handgun obtained as result of Department's alleged failure to discharge mandatory duty to investigate for purpose of determining whether decedent was person who had received treatment at Lanterman-Petris-Short Act facility because he was danger to himself. Braman v. State of California (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 344, 351-357, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 608

Mandatory duty to investigate does not constituting mandatory duty to take action. MacDonald v. State of California (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 319, 328-333, 281 Cal. Rptr. 317

Health & Safety Code § 1799.107 (limitation of public entity's liability exposure for providing emergency services to public) does not impose mandatory duty on emergency rescue team that would support liability under Gov. Code § 815.6. Zepeda v. City of Los Angeles (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 232, 236-237, 272 Cal. Rptr. 635

Mandatory statutory duty to investigate did not impose mandatory duty to take action; breach of duty to investigate was not proximate cause of injuries flowing from failure to prevent certain conduct by object of investigation. Brenneman v. State of California (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 812, 818, 256 Cal. Rptr. 363

State not liable under Gov. Code § 815.6 for negligent approval of community college district's construction project that failed to generate sufficient funds to fulfill plaintiffs' contract because applicable statute (Educ. Code § 81836) only obligates state chancellor to determine whether construction plans conform to established standards and is not intended to protect against college district's default on financing agreement. First Interstate Bank v. State of California (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 627, 636-637, 243 Cal. Rptr. 8

Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) has mandatory duty to refuse to issue or renew driver's license if it has determined that person is unable to operate motor vehicle safely on highway; if DMV has already exercised discretion of Veh. Code § 12806 and in so doing has decided that person is unable to operate motor vehicle safely on highway, DMV has mandatory duty not to issue or renew person's driver's license. Johnson v. Mead (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 156, 160, 236 Cal. Rptr. 277

Litigant seeking to plead breach of mandatory duty is required to allege violation of specifically identified provision or regulation; violation of police department's training, practices, and procedures is not sufficient. Sullivan v. City of Sacramento (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 1070, 1080, 235 Cal. Rptr. 844

Compulsory attendance laws (Educ. Code §§ 48200-48324), on which special relationship between school district and students giving rise to initial duty to protect students is partly based, was not within contemplation of Gov. Code § 815.6 because those laws are not designed to protect students against risk of any particular injury. Rodriguez v. Inglewood Unified Sch. Dist. (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 707, 721, 230 Cal. Rptr. 823

Liability under Gov. Code § 815.6 is proper only if all three requisite elements are met: (1) enactment imposes mandatory, not discretionary, duty; (2) enactment intends to protect against kind of risk of injury suffered by individual asserting liability; and (3) breach of mandatory duty is proximate cause of injury suffered. Posey v. State of California (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 836, 848, 225 Cal. Rptr. 830

County's duty under Penal Code § 13518, to insure training of law enforcement officers in first aid, did not give rise to mandatory duty on officers' part to use such training and render emergency first aid to plaintiff found injured at scene of investigation. Rose v. County of Plumas (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 999, 1007, 199 Cal. Rptr. 842

Public entity's failure to comply with mandatory duty imposes liability only if injury suffered is type of injury protected against and failure is proximate cause of that injury. State of California v. Superior Court (1984) 150 Cal. App. 3d 848, 854, 197 Cal. Rptr. 914

Police officers did not have mandatory duty under Penal Code § 647(f) to take public inebriate into custody; therefore, police officer and city were not liable for injuries incurred after plaintiff was stopped by officer while in inebriated state, but not incarcerated. Stout v. City of Porterville (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 937, 945-947, 196 Cal. Rptr. 301

City's adoption of Uniform Fire Code did not create mandatory duty to comply with code, given specific section precluding code from creating public entity liability. New Hampshire Ins. Co. v. City of Madera (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 298, 306-307, 192 Cal. Rptr. 548

Parents of homicide victim claiming damages as result of delay in ascertaining identity of victim had no cause of action under Gov. Code § 815.6 for failure of city officials to obtain and forward victim's dental records pursuant to former Penal Code § 11114, because Penal Code statute was enacted to assist coroner in identifying bodies rather than to benefit relatives of victims, no particular person or entity was charged with duty, and statute presented no clear or ascertainable standard for assessing breach of duty. Shelton v. City of Westminster (1982) 138 Cal. App. 3d 610, 615-617, 188 Cal. Rptr. 205

Statutory responsibility of Department of Rehabilitation to educate public officials concerning handicap accessibility requirements did not impose mandatory duty on department to inform city officials of requirements; public entities are presumed to have knowledge of legislative enactments. State of California ex rel. Dep't of Rehab. v. Superior Court (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 282, 285-286, 187 Cal. Rptr. 1

Public entity not liable for monetary damages for loss of custody and companionship of children even if it failed to perform mandatory duty of giving notice to parent of juvenile court proceedings. Novoa v. County of Ventura (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 137, 145-146, 183 Cal. Rptr. 736

State not liable for failure to review activities of local Levee Maintenance District because legislature did not intend State Reclamation Board to review all existing local district plans. Galli v. State of California (1979) 98 Cal. App. 3d 662, 684-686, 159 Cal. Rptr. 721

City liable under Gov. Code § 815.6, imposing liability on public entity for injury proximately resulting from its failure to discharge mandatory duty imposed by enactment designed to protect against risk of that particular kind of injury, for damages resulting from city's failure, in issuing building permit, to perform mandatory duty imposed on it by Bus. & Prof. Code § 7031.5, requiring county or city, as condition precedent to issuance of permit, to require that applicant file statement showing that applicant is licensed under General Contractor Licensing Law. Young v. Inglewood (1979) 92

Cal. App. 3d 437, 439-440, 154 Cal. Rptr. 724 ; see also Health & Safety Code §§ 19825, 19826, 19827 (conditions precedent to issuance of building permits)

Failure of state official to perform mandatory duty to issue final decision as to plaintiff's right to welfare within certain time did not make state liable for damages because duty was not clearly designed to protect against type of injury suffered. Williams v. State of California (1976) 62 Cal. App. 3d 960, 966-971, 133 Cal. Rptr. 539

Public entity liable for failure to discharge mandatory duty in failing to suspend operating authority of bus company that was operating without insurance. Elson v. Public Utilities Commission (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 577, 582-588, 124 Cal. Rptr. 305

Public entity liable for failure to discharge mandatory duty for failing to make required entry of dismissal, which resulted in wrongful arrest; malicious prosecution immunity under Gov. Code § 821.6 does not protect public entity from liability for failure to perform mandatory duty. Bradford v. State of California (1973) 36 Cal. App. 3d 16, 19-20, 111 Cal. Rptr. 852

Immunity of public employee is not defense to public entity's liability for failure to discharge mandatory duty. Bradford v. State of California (1973) 36 Cal. App. 3d 16, 19-20, 111 Cal. Rptr. 852

Public entity liable for failure to discharge mandatory duty in failing to enforce and comply with regulations governing foster homes, which allowed a minor to be injured by foster parents. Elton v. County of Orange (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 1053, 1060, 84 Cal. Rptr. 27

[v] Failure to Investigate Harm Already Incurred

Whether highway patrol officer's conduct, in stopping at scene of accident, but leaving before local police arrived and not obtaining identification of witness or person inflicting injury, was violation of officer's manual, and whether that violation was legal cause of injury for purposes of establishing presumption of negligence under Evid. Code § 669, was question for jury because plaintiff was dependent on officer, plaintiff detrimentally relied on officer, and officer's conduct prevented others from providing assistance to plaintiff. Clemente v. State of California (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 202, 212-213, 219 Cal. Rptr. 445, 707 P.2d 818

If public employee has undertaken to protect person from future physical harm, extension of that assumed duty to encompass investigation of cause and source of harm already incurred was unwarranted. Williams v. State of California (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 18, 26, 192 Cal. Rptr. 233, 664 P.2d 137

Failure of city police officers to secure identification of driver who caused accident, after they stopped to investigate and aid victims of accident, was not actionable because detriment suffered by victim occurred before officers arrived; no special relationship existed to give rise to duty to protect victim from effects of prior events. Winkelman v. City of Sunnyvale (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 509, 512, 130 Cal. Rptr. 690

[vi] Motor Vehicle Accidents

City subject to liability under Veh. Code § 17001 for injuries to third persons arising out of vehicle collision between third persons' vehicle and vehicle being pursued by police officers for traffic violations; city not immune from liability under Gov. Code § 845.8. City of San Jose v. Superior Court (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 695, 698, 701, 212 Cal. Rptr. 661

Public entity immune from liability under Gov. Code § 845.8 for police officer's conduct in leaving arrested drunk driver unattended in police car while motor was running, resulting in injuries to bystander caused by arrestee escaping in unattended police car. Duarte v. City of San Jose (1980) 100 Cal. App. 3d 648, 654, 657, 161 Cal. Rptr. 140 ; but see Ladd v. County of San Mateo (1996) 12 Cal. 4th 913, 925-926, 50 Cal. Rptr. 2d 309, 911 P.2d 496 (disapproving conclusion in Duarte that officer's conduct created cause of action against city under Veh. Code § 17001)

[vii] Negligence Based on Common Law Principles

Conduct of patrol officer in situation of dependency resulting in detrimental reliance can give rise to duty of care; officer may also have duty to refrain from conduct that prevents others from giving assistance. Clemente v. State of California (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 202, 212-213, 219 Cal. Rptr. 445, 707 P.2d 818

Public entity held to same standard of care as private person or organization if, through its agents, it voluntarily assumes protective duty toward certain member of public and undertakes action on behalf of that member, thereby inducing reliance. Williams v. State of California (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 18, 24, 192 Cal. Rptr. 233, 664 P.2d 137 ; City of Santee v. County of San Diego (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 1006, 1016, 259 Cal. Rptr. 757 ; Mann v. State of California (1977) 70 Cal. App. 3d 773, 778, 139 Cal. Rptr. 82

City and its police officers were not liable for injuries to plaintiff from assault in laundromat that police had under surveillance, because plaintiff was unaware of officers' presence and did not rely on their protection, and officers' conduct did not alter risk that would have existed in their absence. Davidson v. City of Westminster (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 197, 206-209, 185 Cal. Rptr. 252, 649 P.2d 894

Public entity liable for negligence because police officer investigating accident directed plaintiff to follow him into middle of intersection where plaintiff was hit by other car. McCorkle v. City of Los Angeles (1969) 70 Cal. 2d 252, 261, 74 Cal. Rptr. 389, 449 P.2d 453

State's duty to enforce regulations designed to promote safety does not transform state into insurer of safety; state, as licenser of day care facilities, did not have special relationship to children served by those facilities. MacDonald v. State of California (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 319, 333-334, 281 Cal. Rptr. 317

Complaint by citizens seeking to develop their property, alleging breach of special relationship by local land use regulators, was subject to demurrer because complaint failed to allege actions taken by city demonstrating that it had assumed protective duty toward plaintiffs that would have created special relationship imposing tort duty on city, and offered no authority for existence of special relationship between local land use regulators and citizens. Smith v. City & County of San Francisco (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 38, 50-52, 275 Cal. Rptr. 17

Law enforcement officer's duty to protect citizenry is general duty owed to public as whole, and officer does not assume any greater obligation to others individually; absent special relationship creating special duty, victim of crime that police might have prevented was unable to recover; officers responding to burglar alarm at business premises and proceeding to investigate did not create requisite special relationship. Von Batsch v. American Dist. Tel. Co. (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 1111, 1121-1125, 222 Cal. Rptr. 239

City was collaterally estopped from relitigating issue of whether or not police officer, its former employee, had raped plaintiff because officer's criminal trial, involving serious felony, provided him with every motive to make as vigorous and effective defense as possible, and city was in privity with people as prosecutors. Miller v. Superior Court (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 376, 382-384, 214 Cal. Rptr. 125

Although county coroner ordinarily has no duty to notify decedent's next of kin, failure to so notify possibly gives rise to cause of action for negligent infliction of emotional distress if county voluntarily assumes duty to assist in locating victim and then fails to act in careful and reasonably diligent manner in carrying out assumed duty. Bock v. County of Los Angeles (1983) 150 Cal. App. 3d 65, 72-73, 197 Cal. Rptr. 470

Allegation that police had responded numerous times to victim's requests for assistance and had previously arrested victim's husband did not indicate that special relationship existed between victim and police so as to give rise to police liability for failure to respond to victim's request for assistance on night she was murdered. Hartzler v. City of San Jose (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 6, 10, 120 Cal. Rptr. 5

County liable for deputy sheriff's failure to warn victim that prisoner, who had threatened victim's life, had been released, because sheriff had promised to give warning. Morgan v. County of Yuba (1964) 230 Cal. App. 2d 938, 944-945, 41 Cal. Rptr. 508

[viii] Nuisance

Public entity liable for maintaining nuisance as defined in Civ. Code § 3479. Nestle v. City of Santa Monica (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 920, 931-938, 101 Cal. Rptr. 568, 496 P.2d 480

Public entity liable for maintaining fire hazard that was nuisance. Vedder v. Imperial County (1974) 36 Cal. App. 3d 654, 661, 111 Cal. Rptr. 728

[ix] Promise Involved

Liability of public entity for failure to inform threatened victim of release from jail by person who threatened her after promise to do so. Morgan v. County of Yuba (1964) 230 Cal. App. 2d 938, 942-945, 41 Cal. Rptr. 508

[x] Respondeat Superior

City and shipowner were jointly and severally liable to third party for negligence of pilot who was furnished by city at shipowner's request under doctrine of respondeat superior. Societa per Azioni de Navigazione Italia v. City of Los Angeles (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 446, 461-462, 183 Cal. Rptr. 51, 645 P.2d 102

City's port tariff-ordinance allowing city to escape respondeat superior liability for negligence of harbor pilots and to secure full indemnification from shipowners was void because in conflict with Tort Claims Act (Gov. Code § 810 et seq.). Societa per Azioni de Navigazione Italia v. City of Los Angeles (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 446, 462-465, 183 Cal. Rptr. 51, 645 P.2d 102

Public employee was acting within scope of employment so as to make public entity liable when issuing statement explaining why employee released funds from employee's official custody. Sanborn v. Chronicle Publishing Co. (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 406, 411-412, 134 Cal. Rptr. 402, 556 P.2d 764

Off-duty police officer who was socializing with other off-duty police officers and whose service gun discharged when he was moving it from his waistband, wounding one of other officers in front of that officer's home, was not acting in scope of employment at time of injury to other officer, precluding city's liability. Henriksen v. City of Rialto (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 1612, 1617-1622, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 308

Public entity (county) as subject to civil liability under Gov. Code § 815.2(a) for wrongful acts committed by deputy sheriff while on duty; because employee's wrongful use of police authority was incidental and integral to his official duties, actions were within scope of employment, although illegal and unauthorized by employer. White v. County of

Orange (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 566, 571-572, 212 Cal. Rptr. 493

Rape committed by janitor as too far out of ambit of janitor's duties to extend liability to school employing janitor, although act was committed on premises and janitor was engaged in normal duties immediately prior and subsequent to act. Alma W. v. Oakland Unified Sch. Dist. (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 133, 176 Cal. Rptr. 287

[xi] School District

School district was liable for negligent supervision of pupils. Dailey v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 741, 747-751, 87 Cal. Rptr. 376, 470 P.2d 360 ; Biggers v. Sacramento City Unified Sch. Dist. (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 269, 273-275, 101 Cal. Rptr. 706

State not liable for acts or omissions of community college district, although created by statute to discharge state's constitutional duty to provide public education, unless statute authorizes district to act on behalf of state, or unless state and district have entered into joint powers agreement. First Interstate Bank v. State of California (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 627, 243 Cal. Rptr. 8 (state and state community college board not liable for district's default on financing agreement)

School district was not immune from liability under "field trip immunity" because student required to attend activity away from school. Castro v. Los Angeles Bd. of Educ. (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 232, 235-237, 126 Cal. Rptr. 537

[4] Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

[a] Conditions Creating Liability

[i] Adjacent Property

Location of bus stop may constitute dangerous condition of public property if bus patrons must cross dangerous crosswalk on adjacent property to reach bus stop, assuming other elements for imposing liability under Gov. Code § 835 have been met. Bonanno v. Central Contra Costa Transit Auth. (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 139, 144, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 341, 65 P.3d 807

Public entity liable for dangerous condition of its property even if public property is only dangerous because of condition on adjacent private property. Carson v. Facilities Dev. Co. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 830, 841, 206 Cal. Rptr. 136, 686 P.2d 656

Natural condition immunity of Gov. Code § 831.2 is not applicable to injury to adjacent property or to persons on adjacent property. Milligan v. City of Laguna Beach (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 829, 834, 835, 196 Cal. Rptr. 38, 670 P.2d 1121

Public entity that allows sporting event to take place on its property has no legal duty to provide distraction barrier to prevent passing motorist on adjacent public street from seeing or hearing and is not liable for injuries caused by inattentive motorist who becomes involved in traffic accident with bicyclist using street. Lompoc Unified Sch. Dist. v. Superior Court (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 1688, 1691, 1694-1698, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 122

Public entity was not liable for dangerous cliff because it did not own cliff and its property was not adjacent to cliff. Blakley v. State of California (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 971, 167 Cal. Rptr. 1

State was not liable for motorist's injuries sustained when car went off road into ravine owned by state, on theory that adjacent county-owned road was public property of state, because state only had easement on road and therefore had no control over placement of barrier to prevent such mishaps. Mamola v. State of California ex rel. Dept. of Transportation (1979) 94 Cal. App. 3d 781, 787-789, 156 Cal. Rptr. 614

Question of fact whether state owed duty to users of county-owned road to barricade adjacent state-owned ravine or otherwise protect against risk of car going off road into ravine. Mamola v. State of California ex rel. Dept. of Transportation (1979) 94 Cal. App. 3d 781, 789-792, 156 Cal. Rptr. 614

Public entity liable for dangerous condition of its property even if public property is only dangerous because of condition on adjacent private property. Jordan v. City of Long Beach (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 878, 881-883, 95 Cal. Rptr. 246

Cause of action stated against public entity for dangerous condition of public property caused by conditions of adjacent property because accident happened on adjacent property. Holmes v. City of Oakland (1968) 260 Cal. App. 2d 378, 389-391, 67 Cal. Rptr. 197

[ii] Streets, Highways, and Sidewalks

Proof of visual obstruction at publicly owned intersection that rendered intersection dangerous does not require expert testimony. Carson v. Facilities Dev. Co. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 830, 845, 206 Cal. Rptr. 136, 686 P.2d 656

Public entity potentially subject to liability under Gov. Code § 835 for failure to erect median highway barrier to protect against cross-median accidents. Ducey v. Argo Sales Co. (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 707, 715-718, 159 Cal. Rptr. 835, 602 P.2d 755

Cause of action stated against public entity based on allegations that arrangement of signals at intersection was such that pedestrian would be misled into thinking it was safe to cross. Teall v. Cudahy (1963) 60 Cal. 2d 431, 433-435, 34 Cal. Rptr. 869, 386 P.2d 493

Ridge between slabs of sidewalk no more than 1/2 inch high was minor or trivial and thus not dangerous as matter of law. Barrett v. Claremont (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 70, 72-75, 256 P.2d 977

Defect in sidewalk that was concealed hole about two feet deep into which plaintiff fell was dangerous condition of public property. Fackrell v. San Diego (1945) 26 Cal. 2d 196, 206-208, 157 P.2d 625

Nonsuit appropriate if roadway marking whose absence allegedly caused accident was type of roadway marking referred to in Gov. Code § 830.4, indicating its absence was not dangerous condition; case governed by Gov. Code § 830.4 rather than Gov. Code § 830.8. Frazier v. County of Sonoma (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 454, 459-461, 267 Cal. Rptr. 39

Gov. Code § 830.8 is applicable to all warning signs and devices conforming to uniform standards promulgated by Department of Transportation, not merely to specific signs explicitly "described in ... Vehicle Code." Kessler v. State of California (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 317, 321-323, 253 Cal. Rptr. 537

Quarter-inch length of steel reinforcement rod protruding from concrete parking abutment, viewed in context of other factors such as visibility, did not constitute trivial defect as matter of law. Dolquist v. City of Bellflower (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 261, 266-271, 241 Cal. Rptr. 706

Improper channelization of freeway and lack of devices to properly warn driver around abutment in middle of freeway, together with blinding sun at top of incline as driver approached abutment, was dangerous condition for which public entity was liable. Erfurt v. State of California (1983) 141 Cal. App. 3d 837, 843, 190 Cal. Rptr. 569

Irregular break in sidewalk that created difference in elevation of about one inch was not minor or trivial as matter of law. Barone v. San Jose (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 284, 291, 144 Cal. Rptr. 836

Depression in sidewalk, which had maximum depth of 3/4 inch, was minor or trivial and thus not dangerous condition as matter of law. Fielder v. Glendale (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 719, 732-733, 139 Cal. Rptr. 876

Public entity liable if it fails to post signs in circumstances constituting trap to motorist. Anderson v. Thousand Oaks (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 82, 93, 135 Cal. Rptr. 127

Evidence was sufficient to support finding that bodysurfing area was dangerous condition and no warning was given by signs. Buchanan v. City of Newport Beach (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 221, 227-228, 123 Cal. Rptr. 338

Public entity was liable for injuries incurred in accident caused by obscuring of stop sign by shrubbery on private property, which created dangerous condition. De La Rosa v. City of San Bernardino (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 739, 745-746, 94 Cal. Rptr. 175

Public entity liable for inadequate warning of slide on road because signs were not in conformity with standards for such signs. Briggs v. California (1971) 14 Cal. App. 3d 489, 497-498, 92 Cal. Rptr. 433

Evidence was sufficient to support finding that intersection was dangerous condition because trees obscured view at intersection and stop sign was placed in unanticipated position. Bakity v. Riverside County (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 24, 29-31, 90 Cal. Rptr. 541

Cause of action for maintaining public property in dangerous condition was stated because plaintiff alleged that public entity allowed and encouraged driving of golf carts on sidewalks in violation of state statute and that plaintiff was injured by cart negligently driven on sidewalk. Quelvog v. City of Long Beach (970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 584, 589-592, 86 Cal. Rptr. 127

Public entity liable for injuries caused by explosion if it controlled sidewalk over dangerous gas tank. Hoover v. City of Fresno (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 7, 13-15, 77 Cal. Rptr. 146

Public entity liable for failure to provide adequate sign or signal to warn of dangerous condition of streets. Hilts v. County of Solano (1968) 71 Cal. Rptr. 275

Public entity liable for injuries to pedestrian if low curb on steep hill where parking was at right angles created dangerous condition. Curreri v. City & County of San Francisco (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 603, 611-614, 69 Cal. Rptr. 20

Cause of action stated against public entity for dangerous condition of railroad right of way near school. Holmes v. City of Oakland (1968) 260 Cal. App. 2d 378, 383-389, 67 Cal. Rptr. 197

Public entity liable for dangerous condition of intersection because promontory of land obscured view of vehicles coming from other direction. Feingold v. County of Los Angeles (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 622, 625-626, 62 Cal. Rptr. 396

Public entity liable for dangerous condition of public property because dangerous condition of pedestrian subway caused pedestrians to use street where pedestrians and drivers both thought they had right of way. Gardner v. San Jose

(1967) 248 Cal. App. 2d 798, 801-805, 57 Cal. Rptr. 176

Irrigation district liable for condition of unpaved road unless it is used for access to recreational areas. Hernandez v. Imperial Irrigation Dist. (1967) 248 Cal. App. 2d 625, 626-627, 56 Cal. Rptr. 811

Cause of action stated against public entity based on allegations that combination of factors (including too narrow lanes, inadequate dividers, inadequate banking, and too high speed limit) made bridge dangerous. Dahlquist v. California (1966) 243 Cal. App. 2d 208, 210-214, 52 Cal. Rptr. 324

Misaligned slabs of sidewalk creating 1/2 to one inch difference in height was not minor or trivial as matter of law and thus was issue for jury. Rodriguez v. Los Angeles (1963) 215 Cal. App. 2d 463, 467-470, 30 Cal. Rptr. 180

Height differential of 1/2 to 5/8 inch was not minor or trivial as matter of law because of other factors present, including careful plaintiff and dusk conditions. Johnson v. Palo Alto (1962) 199 Cal. App. 2d 148, 18 Cal. Rptr. 48

Clump of ice plant five inches high and prongs protruding from adjacent fence were not minor or trivial defect as matter of law. Rodriguez v. Los Angeles (1959) 171 Cal. App. 2d 761, 771, 341 P.2d 410

Broken piece of sidewalk that caused elevation differential of one or two inches was not minor or trivial as matter of law. Gentekos v. City & County of San Francisco (1958) 163 Cal. App. 2d 691, 697, 329 P.2d 943

[iii] Third-Party Conduct

Cause of action stated against public entity based on dangerous condition of public property because complaint alleged community college district maintained property in manner that increased risk of criminal activity, and failed to warn student of known danger posed by criminal assaults on campus. Peterson v. San Francisco Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 799, 815, 205 Cal. Rptr. 842, 685 P.2d 1193

Community college district had duty to exercise due care to protect, including duty to warn, its students against reasonably foreseeable assaults on campus. Peterson v. San Francisco Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 799, 804, 205 Cal. Rptr. 842, 685 P.2d 1193

Whether or not given set of facts and circumstances creates dangerous condition is question of fact and may be resolved as question of law only if reasonable minds can come to but one conclusion. Peterson v. San Francisco Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 799, 810, 205 Cal. Rptr. 842, 685 P.2d 1193

Gov. Code § 835 is not statutory basis for liability if allegations relate only to conditions of persons on property and do not include physical defects or conditions of property that increase risk of crime. Rodriguez v. Inglewood Unified Sch. Dist. (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 707, 718-720, 230 Cal. Rptr. 823

Public entity permitted to assert plaintiff's negligence as defense, but that negligence was not determinative of existence of dangerous condition; "used with due care" in Gov. Code § 830(a) doe not necessarily include obeying traffic laws. Alexander v. State of California ex rel. Dep't of Transp. (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 890, 205 Cal. Rptr. 758 (fact that plaintiff was speeding at time of accident did not preclude dangerous condition liability)

Cause of action was not stated against public entity under Gov. Code § 835 for injuries caused by criminal assault because no special relationship between plaintiff and defendant was alleged, and plaintiff was found not to be using property either voluntarily or in manner in which it was reasonably foreseeable that plaintiff would use it. Branch v. State of California ex rel. Dep't of Transp. (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 340, 345, 205 Cal. Rptr. 482

Mere disrepair of median barrier on high speed, heavily traveled freeway, function of which barrier was to protect motorists on freeway from intrusion into their lanes of vehicles crossing median out of control, whether by reason of mechanical or tire failures or other causes unrelated to negligence or by reason of negligence of their drivers and owners, was dangerous condition of public property; condition of property is dangerous if it creates substantial risk of harm when used with due care by public generally, as distinguished from particular person charged as concurrent tortfeasor. Morris v. State of California (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 962, 965-966, 153 Cal. Rptr. 117

Cause of action stated against public entity for dangerous condition for failure to adequately light parking lot to prevent criminal conduct because entity was on notice of past criminal conduct. Slapin v. Los Angeles Int'l Airport (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 484, 488-491, 135 Cal. Rptr. 296

Plaintiff not required to establish that public property was being used with due care when accident occurred, only that property was dangerous when being used with due care. Murrell v. State of California ex rel. Dep't of Pub. Works (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 264, 267, 120 Cal. Rptr. 812

Intervening or concurrent negligence of third party does not preclude liability of public entity for dangerous condition. Bakity v. County of Riverside (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 24, 32, 90 Cal. Rptr. 541

Public entity's liability for dangerous condition is not affected by negligence of third party if such negligence was reasonably foreseeable. Kechter v. Downey (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 877, 880, 71 Cal. Rptr. 844

Plaintiff not required to establish that driver with whom plaintiff was riding was not negligent if plaintiff can establish dangerous condition to persons using due care. Callahan v. City & County of San Francisco (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 696, 702-704, 57 Cal. Rptr. 639

[iv] Voluntary Assumption of Duty

City not immune for creation of dangerous condition if city voluntarily assumed duty to provide lifeguard services at unimproved beach and then provided inadequate service and failed to warn of riptide condition. Gonzales v. City of San Diego (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 882, 889, 182 Cal. Rptr. 73

[b] Conditions Not Creating Liability

Public entity not liable for failure to warn of possibility of criminal conduct on public property. Hayes v. State of California (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 469, 471-473, 113 Cal. Rptr. 599, 521 P.2d 855 ; but see Peterson v. San Francisco Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 799, 815, 205 Cal. Rptr. 842, 685 P.2d 1193

Condition of street was not dangerous because no reasonable person could believe that lines on street were pedestrian crosswalk. Pfeifer v. County of San Joaquin (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 177, 182-184, 60 Cal. Rptr. 493, 430 P.2d 51

Chain link fence around public school perimeter was not dangerous condition rendering school district liable for injury sustained when 9-year-old boy propped his bicycle handlebar through fence, stood on top of bicycle in order to reach oranges growing on tree on adjacent property, and injured his arm on metal tines at top of fence when he fell; danger of using bicycle as ladder to reach over spiked fence was reasonably obvious even to child of plaintiff's age, and plaintiff was not using fence in manner in which it was reasonably foreseeable that it would be used. Biscotti v. Yuba City Unified School Dist. (2007) 158 Cal. App. 4th 554, 560-561, 69 Cal. Rptr. 3d 825

Bridge district could not, as matter of law, be liable for suicide of decedent, who climbed over three-and-a-half foot railing and jumped off Golden Gate Bridge, because persons using bridge to kill themselves were not, by definition, using bridge with due care. Milligan v. Golden Gate Bridge Highway & Transp. Dist. (2004) 120 Cal. App. 4th 1, 7, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 25

Neither increase in volume or speed of traffic after street was widened, nor location of facilities such as bus stop, park, or school near busy intersection, rendered street dangerous condition of public property, at least in absence of other allegations concerning physical condition of street that made it unsafe to cross when motorists and pedestrians were exercising due care. Brenner v. City of El Cajon (2003) 113 Cal. App. 4th 434, 440-441, 6 Cal. Rptr. 3d 316

City was not liable for injury at crosswalk even though streetlight was inoperative, because city had no duty to provide any lighting, and plaintiff knew light was inoperative. Plattner v. City of Riverside (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 1441, 1446, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 211

City was immune from liability under Gov. Code § 830.4 for injuries sustained when two vehicles collided at intersection after an earlier accident knocked down stop sign at intersection, at least if alleged dangerous condition was merely absence of stop sign. City of South Lake Tahoe v. Superior Court (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 971, 978-980, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 146

Public entity was not liable for actions of other party because relationship between that party and public entity was lessor-lessee and not employer-independent contractor. Bostrom v. County of San Bernardino (1995) 35 Cal. App. 4th 1654, 1665-1671, 42 Cal. Rptr. 2d 669

Canal separated from neighboring residential community by eight-foot-high sound wall of stonemasonry construction was not condition creating liability in that it was not reasonably foreseeable that children playing in area would be able to scale wall. Dominguez v. Solano Irrigation Dist. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1098, 1103-1105, 279 Cal. Rptr. 470

Public entity not liable because undisputed facts showed that alleged improper lighting, patrolling, maintenance, and insufficient visibility at state-owned rest stop was not proximate cause of plaintiff's assault. Constance B. v. State of California (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 200, 211, 223 Cal. Rptr. 645

Public entity not liable unless some physical condition of public property is contributing cause of plaintiff's injury; criminal acts of third party are insufficient to state cause of action under Gov. Code § 835 (dangerous condition of public property). Gonzales v. City of San Diego (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 256, 258-259, 202 Cal. Rptr. 634

Neither blind nature of intersection, amount of traffic on street, nor downhill grade of through street was dangerous condition. Mittenhuber v. City of Redondo Beach (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 1, 5-7, 190 Cal. Rptr. 694

Placement of stop signs on one street at intersection was not dangerous condition due to speed of traffic on other street increasing as result of stop signs. Mittenhuber v. City of Redondo Beach (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 1, 8-11, 190 Cal. Rptr. 694

Public entity not liable if property is dangerous only when used without due care. Gray v. America W. Airlines, Inc. (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 76, 85, 256 Cal. Rptr. 877 ; Fredette v. City of Long Beach (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 122, 130-132, 231 Cal. Rptr. 598 ; Fuller v. State of California (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 926, 939-940, 125 Cal. Rptr. 586

City not liable for flood damage to property because flood control system, whether or not inadequate, reduced natural flooding of plaintiff's property and therefore any negligence by city in maintaining drain and ditch did not cause plaintiff's damages. Tri-Chem, Inc. v. Los Angeles County Flood Control Dist. (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 306, 315, 132 Cal. Rptr. 142

Public property was not in dangerous condition because parking lot was unlighted and third party assaulted plaintiff in lot. Sykes v. County of Marin (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 158, 160-164, 117 Cal. Rptr. 466

Dangerous condition not established if all reasonable precautions were taken to secure work bench and public entity had no notice that bench was placed on end in dangerous position. Van Kempen v. Hayward Area Park, Recreation & Park Dist. (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 822, 826-827, 100 Cal. Rptr. 498

Dangerous condition not established with regard to design of intersection if no similar accident had ever taken place and accident was caused by excessive speed. Callahan v. City & County of San Francisco (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 374, 379-380, 93 Cal. Rptr. 122

Public entity not liable for dangerous condition if crosswalk was properly marked and injury was caused by driver's violation of law. Moritz v. City of Santa Cruz (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 573, 575-577, 87 Cal. Rptr. 675

Public entity not liable for icy condition of bridge because bridge had never been icy before and public entity was not on notice of condition. Clarke v. Michals (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 364, 372, 84 Cal. Rptr. 507

[c] Constructive Notice

Constructive notice imputable to public entity if obvious danger existed for adequate period of time before accident to have permitted entity in exercise of due care to have discovered and remedied situation; whether there was adequate time to remedy situation is fact question. Carson v. Facilities Dev. Co. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 830, 842-843, 206 Cal. Rptr. 136, 686 P.2d 656

Public entity had constructive notice of dangerous condition of public property because inspection would have disclosed defect and public entity knew where and when excavation would take place and that it would be unsafe if done improperly. Stanford v. City of Ontario (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 870, 882-884, 101 Cal. Rptr. 97, 495 P.2d 425

In action against driver of car and city, arising from traffic accident, expert testimony that city traffic engineer should have known intersection in question was dangerous was relevant to issue of constructive notice under Gov. Code § 835.(b); trial court committed reversible error by excluding evidence, which resulted in nonsuit for defendant. Martinez v. City of Poway (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 425, 433-434, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 644

In action against state by pedestrian struck by motorist in allegedly hazardous intersection, nearby resident, who had notified state of his concern about safety of intersection, was properly permitted to testify regarding previous instances of "burning rubber," "fender-benders," "near misses," and "screeching tires" at intersection; testimony was admissible only to show that state had notice of condition of intersection. Genrich v. State of California (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 221, 231-233, 248 Cal. Rptr. 303

In action against state by pedestrian struck by motorist in allegedly hazardous intersection, fact that numerous accidents had occurred near intersection was insufficient to show state had notice of hazardous condition. Genrich v. State of California (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 221, 228, 248 Cal. Rptr. 303

Constructive notice was shown by long continued existence of dangerous or defective condition; whether condition existed for sufficient time to give public agency constructive notice was question of fact for jury. Erfurt v. State of California (1983) 141 Cal. App. 3d 837, 845, 190 Cal. Rptr. 569

Finding of constructive notice of dangerous condition was proper; although condition existed for only 20 days of each year due to location of sun, condition had been in existence for over 10 years. Erfurt v. State of California (1983) 141

Cal. App. 3d 837, 846, 190 Cal. Rptr. 569

Evidence was sufficient to show that state had constructive notice of dangerous condition (improper construction of state fence so that cows could enter on freeway) and should have discovered and repaired condition because condition existed for long period and was of such an obvious nature that state should have discovered it in exercise of due care. Curtis v. State of California (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 668, 693-694, 180 Cal. Rptr. 843

Evidence was sufficient to show state had constructive notice of dangerous condition (icy highway), failed to make required inspections, and failed to take requisite precautionary measures. Straughter v. State of California (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 102, 110-112, 152 Cal. Rptr. 147

If unsafeness of curve was apparent to anybody who attempted to negotiate it at speed limit, public entity had constructive notice of defect. Anderson v. City of Thousand Oaks (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 82, 91-92, 135 Cal. Rptr. 127

Evidence was sufficient to support finding that public entity had constructive notice of dangerous slide on highway; slides had been occurring for two weeks, and public entity had posted signs. Briggs v. State of California (1971) 14 Cal. App. 3d 489, 494-498, 92 Cal. Rptr. 433

Public entity was not liable for dangerous condition because dangerous condition was not obvious and there was no evidence that it had existed any particular time before accident. State v. Superior Court of San Mateo County (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 396, 399-401, 69 Cal. Rptr. 683

Public entity was not liable for condition in road because it had inspected road several hours earlier and determined that condition was not dangerous. Drummond v. City of Redondo Beach (1967) 255 Cal. App. 2d 715, 719-720, 63 Cal. Rptr. 497

Plaintiff's evidence was not sufficient to establish that public entity had constructive knowledge of defect because no evidence as to how long defect had existed before injury. Strongman v. County of Kern (1967) 255 Cal. App. 2d 308, 314-316, 62 Cal. Rptr. 908

[d] Control or Ownership

District was not controlling culvert carrying creek water beneath residential home for purposes of liability under Gov. Code § 835; although district assumed maintenance responsibility in connection with its channel-clearing program for portion of creek running through culvert, that portion did not include culvert at issue; control was not established by district's inspections to implement flood control objectives, or its requirement of preapproving all work done on the culvert. Chatman v. Alameda County Flood Control & Water Conservation Dist. (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 424, 430-431, 228 Cal. Rptr. 257

[e] Defenses

[i] Design Immunity

If design immunity is applicable, public entity is still liable for failure to warn of dangerous condition. Cameron v. State of California (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 318, 327-329, 102 Cal. Rptr. 305, 497 P.2d 777

Design immunity not applicable if approved design did not include superelevation that made curve dangerous. Cameron v. State (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 318, 323-326, 102 Cal. Rptr. 305, 323-326, 497 P.2d 777

Increase in traffic volume, increase in posted speed limit, and nine cross-median accidents along 24-mile freeway over 21 months did not constitute changed conditions sufficient to require median barrier and overcome design immunity. Wyckoff v. State of California (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 45, 58-62, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 198

State may assert design immunity if suit alleges that injury was caused by setting roadway speed limit too high, so long as speed limit is set in accordance with some plan and adopted as matter of discretion by employee with authority to do so. Fuller v. Department of Transp. (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 1109, 1115, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 823

Substantial evidence supported Bridge District's decision not to include median barrier as part of project to replace deteriorating roadway on bridge. Sutton v. Golden Gate Bridge, Highway & Transp. Dist. (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1149, 1159-1162, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 155

Changed physical conditions necessary for loss of design immunity. Sutton v. Golden Gate Bridge, Highway & Transp. Dist. (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1149, 1163-1164, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 155

In personal injury action against state arising from automobile collision into DMV building, evidence of vehicle collisions with other DMV buildings was relevant to issue of immunity under Gov. Code § 830.6 with respect to state's knowledge of unusual risk associated with DMV parking lots vis-a-vis danger to adjacent buildings; trial court's denial of plaintiff's request for discovery order on that point was reversible error. Morfin v. State of California (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 812, 816-817, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 861

Employee who prepares plan or design was able to approve design; assigned signal operator has discretionary authority to approve timing sequence of traffic lights at intersection when preliminary plans are formulated in accordance with basic guidelines. Uyeno v. State of California (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1371, 1378-1380, 286 Cal. Rptr. 328

County was immune from liability for placing limit line where visibility of cross traffic at intersection was totally obscured, because substantial evidence showed that national, state, and county standards do not require any sight distance from limit line; "trap" exception to immunity if entity negligently fails to warn of dangerous condition was inapplicable absent claim that warning signs at intersection were inadequate. Hefner v. County of Sacramento (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 1007, 1014-1017, 1018-1019, 243 Cal. Rptr. 291

Design immunity is applicable even if evidence is conflicting, so long as evidence is substantial (that is, evidence that reasonably inspires confidence or is of solid value). Ramirez v. City of Redondo Beach (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 515, 526, 237 Cal. Rptr. 505 ; Muffett v. Royster (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 289, 306-307, 195 Cal. Rptr. 73

Elements of design immunity defense are: (1) causal relationship between design and accident; (2) approval of design in advance of construction by officer exercising discretionary authority; and (3) substantial evidence of reasonableness of design. Levin v. State of California (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 410, 415, 194 Cal. Rptr. 223

Artificial ("man-made") condition for flow of water that is not permanent but permits continued control over the flow of water was not natural condition. Buchanan v. Los Angeles County Flood Control Dist. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 757, 767, 128 Cal. Rptr. 770

Absence of warning signs on curve was part of approved design. Anderson v. Thousand Oaks (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 82, 89-90, 135 Cal. Rptr. 127

Shop drawing executed by private contractor was sufficient design for proper person to approve to establish design immunity. Thomson v. Glendale (1976) 61 Cal. App. 3d 378, 384-385, 132 Cal. Rptr. 52

Design immunity was applicable to claim against public entity based on nuisance. Mikkelsen v. State of California (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 621, 628-631, 130 Cal. Rptr. 780

Design immunity not established if there was no substantial evidence presented that design of lake with steep hole in middle was reasonable. Davis v. Cordova Recreation & Park Dist. (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 789, 794-800, 101 Cal. Rptr. 358

Design immunity was not applicable because public entity did not establish that installation of stop sign that was alleged to be dangerous condition was approved by legislative body or officer. De La Rosa v. San Bernardino (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 739, 747-748, 94 Cal. Rptr. 175

Design immunity not available if design of bridge was not related to dangerous icing condition. Flournoy v. State 91969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 806, 813-814, 80 Cal. Rptr. 485

Design immunity not established if approving officer did not approve design, but was ordered to build it anyway to save money. Johnston v. County of Yolo (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 46, 51-55, 79 Cal. Rptr. 33

[ii] Hazardous Recreational Activity Immunity

For purposes of recreational activities immunity of Gov. Code § 831.7(b)(3), "boating" includes fishing from canoe tethered near shore of waterway also being used by powerboats; public entity had no duty to warn of dangerous conditions that are so obvious or inherent as to be reasonably assumed, such as risk of collision between boats in area in which powerboats were commonly used. Wood v. County of San Joaquin (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 960, 970-971, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 340

Objective standard applicable in determining whether dangerous condition is reasonably assumed by participant as inherently part of hazardous recreational activity within meaning of Gov. Code § 831.7(c)(1), providing exception to public entity immunity from liability for injuries to participants in hazardous recreational activities for failure to warn or guard against known dangers not reasonably assumed by participants; minor plaintiff's alleged lack of knowledge of risks of activity because of age was not relevant to existence of immunity. Perez v. City of Los Angeles (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 1380, 1385-1388, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 55

Public entity was immune as matter of law under Gov. Code § 831.7 from liability for injury suffered by child swinging from rope attached to tree in public park; risk of falling from great height during "tree-swinging" as obvious, even to children, and inherent in activity; public entity therefore not liable for failure to warn or guard against that risk. Perez v. City of Los Angeles (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 1380, 1388, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 55

Full-court game of basketball includes rough body contact and risk of substantial injury that is not confined to boundaries of court; activity was therefore "recreational hazardous activity" under Gov. Code § 831.7(b)(3). Yarber v. Oakland Unified Sch. Dist. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 1516, 1519-1520, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 437

Diving from sand near shore's edge was hazardous recreational activity under Gov. Code § 831.7(b)(2). Tessier v. City of Newport Beach (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 310, 316, 268 Cal. Rptr. 233 ; Morin v. County of Los Angeles (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 184, 195, 263 Cal. Rptr. 479

Diving from rock on public beach was hazardous recreational activity under Gov. Code § 831.7(b)(2) as matter of law. Valenzuela v. City of San Diego (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 258, 262-264, 286 Cal. Rptr. 1 ; Rombalski v. City of Laguna Beach (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 842, 850-851, 261 Cal. Rptr. 820

To avoid finding of gross negligence under Gov. Code § 831.7(c)(5), public entity not required to pursue all possible options in its rescue efforts, but required only to exercise some care, and to pursue course of conduct that is not extreme departure from ordinary standard of conduct. Decker v. City of Imperial Beach (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 349, 359-361, 257 Cal. Rptr. 356

Gov. Code § 831.7(c)(1) denies immunity for injuries caused by hazardous recreational activities if public entity fails to guard or warn of known dangerous condition that is not reasonably assumed by participant as inherent part of hazardous recreational activity out of which damage or injury arose. De Vito v. State of California (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 264, 271-272, 248 Cal. Rptr. 330

Person who swings on hose hanging from tree limb over steep slope is required to reasonably assume that inherent part of activity is possibility of fall down slope from height greater than person's starting point on ledge. De Vito v. State of California (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 264, 271-272, 248 Cal. Rptr. 330

[iii] Lack of Control

Public entity not liable because it did not control dangerous condition and did not cause dangerous condition to occur. Mark v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 170, 179, 101 Cal. Rptr. 908, 496 P.2d 1276

School district did not control property near school merely because it had right to institute traffic control measures on property. Searcy v. Hemet Unified Sch. Dist. (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 792, 798-800, 223 Cal. Rptr. 206

Evidence sufficient to support conclusion that public entity controlled beach because it stationed lifeguards on beach, placed signs on beach, and had considered closing beach to swimming. Buchanan v. Newport Beach (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 221, 225, 123 Cal. Rptr. 338

City not in control of private walkway and therefore not liable for injury there. Ackley v. City & County of San Francisco (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 108, 113-114, 89 Cal. Rptr. 480

County liable for dangerous condition of parking strip because it had control of parking strip as abutting owner even though city had easement in strip. Low v. Sacramento (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 826, 832-835, 87 Cal. Rptr. 173

Public entity not liable for dangerous condition of property that it does not possess or control. Petersen v. Vallejo (1968) 259 Cal. App. 2d 757, 773-776, 66 Cal. Rptr. 776

Public entities not liable for alleged dangerous condition of state highway over which entities had no ownership or control. Avey v. Santa Clara County (1968) 257 Cal. App. 2d 708, 712, 65 Cal. Rptr. 181

[iv] Natural Condition Immunity

Natural condition immunity of Gov. Code § 831.2 is not applicable if allegedly dangerous condition injures adjacent property or persons on adjacent property. Milligan v. City of Laguna Beach (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 829, 834, 835, 196 Cal. Rptr. 38, 670 P.2d 1121

Human-altered conditions that merely duplicate natural conditions do not negate immunity; immunity applied to beach that was artificially rebuilt and sheltered by artificially created rock groin 17 years before occurrence of accident. Knight v. City of Capitola (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 918, 928-929, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 874

Human-altered conditions that have existed for some years that merely duplicate models common to nature are natural conditions; city's activities in dredging, constructing jetties, and diverting river flow to make nearby harbor navigable, which may have increased size of sand bar on beach, did not change natural condition of beach, because many factors influence size of sand bar and city's activities took place 35 years in past. Tessier v. City of Newport Beach (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 310, 313-315, 268 Cal. Rptr. 233

Gov. Code § 831.2 immunity, applicable to any body of water, was applicable if public entity's nearby improvements together with natural forces added to buildup of sand on public beach. Morin v. County of Los Angeles (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 184, 188, 263 Cal. Rptr. 479

Whether immunity for injuries caused by natural conditions applied to case was not determinable on demurrer. De Vito v. State of California (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 264, 269, 248 Cal. Rptr. 330

Fact that area in which injury occurred was previously adjudicated to be in natural condition of public property four years before injury was not determinative of state of property at time of injury. De Vito v. State of California (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 264, 269, 248 Cal. Rptr. 330

Legislative policy underlying Gov. Code § 831.2 was permitting public use of government property without making cost prohibitive, by precluding liability for unimproved natural conditions unless public entity engaged in conduct that actively increased degree of dangerousness of natural condition. City of Santa Cruz v. Superior Court (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 999, 1004, 1006-1007, 244 Cal. Rptr. 105

Gov. Code § 831.2 immunized county from liability for injury caused to swimmer because county had done nothing to increase degree of dangerousness of natural condition of beach. Geffen v. County of Los Angeles (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 188, 191-195, 242 Cal. Rptr. 492

Gov. Code § 831.2 grants absolute immunity, which forecloses any duty to warn of dangerous condition on unimproved public lands that constitutes hidden trap to users of land. Mercer v. State of California (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 158, 166 n.4, 242 Cal. Rptr. 701

City was shielded by immunity of Gov. Code § 831.2 in personal injury action arising out of plaintiff's fall from cliffs overhanging city beach because city program of posting warning signs constituted neither improvement nor voluntary assumption of protective services. McCauley v. City of San Diego (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 981, 988-991, 235 Cal. Rptr. 732

Immunity of Gov. Code § 831.2 precludes imposition on public entity of independent duty to warn of dangerous natural conditions on unimproved property required under Gov. Code § 835. McCauley v. City of San Diego (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 981, 991-993, 235 Cal. Rptr. 732

City was not liable for injury caused by natural condition in unimproved area of city-owned greenbelt, notwithstanding greenbelt's location in urban area. Winterburn v. City of Pomona (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 878, 881, 231 Cal. Rptr. 105

Unknown third party's attachment of rope to tree on undeveloped land did not change natural condition of land; state was therefore immune from liability under Gov. Code § 832.1 for plaintiff's injuries suffered after swinging and falling from rope. Kuykendall v. State of California (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 563, 566, 223 Cal. Rptr. 763

City was not immune under Gov. Code § 831.2, regarding injuries caused by natural conditions in unimproved property, because dangerous riptide combined with conduct of city in voluntarily providing lifeguard service at beach without warning of riptide and because lifeguard service inadequate. Gonzales v. City of San Diego (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 882, 885-886, 182 Cal. Rptr. 73 (decided before enactment of Gov. Code § 831.21); but see Geffen v. County of Los Angeles (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 188, 192-194, 242 Cal. Rptr. 492 (decided before effective date of Gov. Code § 831.21, and rejecting holding in Gonzales)

Statutory immunity conferred on public entities under Gov. Code § 831.2 extends to any natural condition of any natural or artificial lake, so that plaintiff injured by submerged object while swimming in artificial lake must allege facts from which it can be reasonably inferred that dangerous condition was artificial in character. Keyes v. Santa Clara Valley Water Dist. (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 882, 889-889, 180 Cal. Rptr. 586

County not liable for accident resulting from combination of flow of water in river and snag of trees washed out of upstream shoreline by water and lodged downstream by streambed's own obstruction, which collectively constitute natural condition. Sacramento County v. Superior Court (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 215, 218, 152 Cal. Rptr. 391

Cliffs, ocean, and beach are natural condition of property despite fact that some distance away, activities had been undertaken that, when combined with natural forces, resulted in increased sand and lower water level. Fuller v. California (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 926, 936-939, 125 Cal. Rptr. 586

Artificial lake was unimproved public property. Osgood v. Shasta County (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 586, 588-590, 123 Cal. Rptr. 442

Evidence was sufficient to support conclusion that beach was not in natural condition because of deposit of sand on beach and building of jetty adjacent to beach. Buchanan v. City of Newport Beach (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 221, 226-227, 123 Cal. Rptr. 338

Public entity not liable for injury occurring in unimproved area of park in its natural condition even though other parts of park are improved. Rendak v. State of California (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 286, 288-289, 95 Cal. Rptr. 665

[v] Nondedicated Roads Immunity

City not shielded from liability by unaccepted street immunity under Sts. & Hy. Code § 1806 if there was substantial evidence that relevant portion of street was accepted by city resolution into its system of streets. Copeland v. City of Oakland (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 717, 720-723, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 719

[vi] Preemption

If facilities on publicly owned property operated by local public entity are controlled by federal law, federal law preempts state Tort Claims Act; federal law preempted state tort claim alleging dangerous condition on public property based on airport navigation facilities that, as matter of law, are regulated, approved, and controlled pursuant to Federal Aviation Act (former 49 U.S.C.S. § 1301 et seq.). Bethman v. City of Ukiah (1989) 216 Cal. App. 3d 1395, 1398, 1407-1409, 265 Cal. Rptr. 539

[vii] Reasonableness

In negligence action arising from traffic accident allegedly caused by dangerous highway condition, public entity was precluded from asserting defense of reasonableness under Gov. Code § 835.4(b) because of discovery sanctions awarded against it for failure to produce requested information concerning speed studies, guard rail design, and "ball bank" studies. Kuhns v. State of California (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 982, 990-991, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 773

No liability for drowning of children because failure to fence canal in residential area was reasonable. Cardenas v.

Hock Irrigation Dist. (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 352, 358-360, 73 Cal. Rptr. 69

[viii] Trivial Risk

City was not liable for injuries sustained by two-year-old child (supervised by other family members) who wandered into fire ring at city beach park, because rings were not dangerous condition when used with due care by members of public, but posed only minor, insignificant, or trivial risk of injury. Sambrano v. City of San Diego (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 225, 240-241, 114 Cal. Rptr. 2d 151

Iceplant growing on sidewalk and sharp prong sticking out from fence were not trivial defective condition, and public entity was liable for an injury caused by that condition. Rodriguez v. Los Angeles (1959) 171 Cal. App. 2d 761, 771-772, 341 P.2d 410

[ix] Weather Immunity

Gov. Code § 831 immunity for injuries caused by effect of weather conditions on streets and highways did not apply because blinding sun at top of incline could not have been anticipated by or was not reasonably apparent to driver. Erfurt v. State of California (1983) 141 Cal. App. 3d 837, 845, 190 Cal. Rptr. 569

Gov. Code § 831 immunity for injuries caused by effect of weather conditions on streets and highways did not apply because dangerous condition was combination of weather condition and layout of highway. Erfurt v. State of California (1983) 141 Cal. App. 3d 837, 846, 190 Cal. Rptr. 569

Purpose of Gov. Code § 831 was to immunize against effect of weather conditions that no amount of human care can fully protect against and does not apply if weather condition is sun rising, which is predictable. Erfurt v. State of California (1983) 141 Cal. App. 3d 837, 846, 190 Cal. Rptr. 569

[f] Failure to Warn

Highway patrol car parked on shoulder with lights activated was adequate warning as matter of law because motorist approaching smoke-obscured section of highway was fully aware of dangerous condition on highway, received warning from officer to proceed with caution, understood warning to be related to dangerous condition, and could not have reasonably interpreted warning to mean it was safe to drive into smoke at high speeds. Foremost Dairies, Inc. v. State of California (1986) 190 Cal. App. 3d 361, 367-368

Public entity was liable for failure to warn of dangerous condition of steep crest of hill because warning sign was too far away to be clearly applicable to dangerous condition. Bunker v. City of Glendale (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 325, 328, 168 Cal. Rptr. 565

Evidence was sufficient to show state had duty to warn, but failed to warn, of dangerous condition (icy highway). Straughter v. State of California (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 102, 112, 152 Cal. Rptr. 147

Public entity liable if it fails to post signs in circumstances constituting trap to motorist. Anderson v. Thousand Oaks (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 82, 93, 135 Cal. Rptr. 127

Evidence was sufficient to support finding that bodysurfing area was dangerous condition and that no warning was given by signs. Buchanan v. City of Newport Beach (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 221, 227-228, 123 Cal. Rptr. 338

Public entity liable for inadequate warning of slide on road because signs were not in conformity with standards for such signs. Briggs v. California (1971) 14 Cal. App. 3d 489, 497-498, 92 Cal. Rptr. 433

Public entity liable for failure to provide adequate sign or signal to warn of dangerous condition of streets. Hilts v. County of Solano (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 161, 174-175, 71 Cal. Rptr. 275

[5] Specific Liabilities and Immunities

[a] Correctional Activities

[i] Constitutionality

Immunity of public entities for injuries to prisoners is not violation of equal protection clause and therefore is constitutional. Hughes v. San Diego County (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 349, 352-353, 110 Cal. Rptr. 754

Public entity immunity for injuries to prisoners is constitutional. Reed v. City & County of San Francisco (1965) 237 Cal. App. 2d 23, 24-25, 46 Cal. Rptr. 543

[ii] Definition of Prisoner

Person who has been arrested and turned over to custody of sheriff's department on completion of initial booking in reception area of county jail is prisoner. Terzian v. County of Ventura (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 78, 83-87, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 809

Participant in work furlough program is prisoner. Badiggo v. County of Ventura (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 357, 360-361, 254 Cal. Rptr. 771

Person sitting in county jail facility awaiting incarceration, although not within a cell, is "prisoner" within definition of Gov. Code §§ 844 and 844.6. Peterson v. County of Los Angeles (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 705, 709, 230 Cal. Rptr. 80

Plaintiff's status as prisoner was triable issue of fact, precluding summary judgment for defendant based on immunity of Gov. Code § 844. Zeilman v. County of Kern (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 1174, 1178-1183, 214 Cal. Rptr. 746

Determination of whether action may be brought was governed by status of plaintiff at time injury took place; parolee on way out of prison was not prisoner within definition of Gov. Code § 844.6. Fearon v. Department of Corr. (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 1254, 1256-1257, 209 Cal. Rptr. 309

Action alleging negligent loss of plaintiff's property while he was in state prison system barred under Gov. Code § 844.6 because loss took place while plaintiff was prisoner; action alleging conversion by willful failure to return property on date of plaintiff's parole when he had right to immediate possession of property was not barred by Gov. Code § 844.6. Fearon v. Department of Corr. (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 1254, 1256-1257, 209 Cal. Rptr. 309

Person under arrest but not yet incarcerated in penal facility was not "prisoner" within meaning of Gov. Code §§ 844 and 844.6, and therefore city not immune from tort liability for battery by police officer. Griffith v. City of Monrovia (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d Supp. 6, 8-10 , 184 Cal. Rptr. 709

Ward of juvenile court committed to custody of parent was not prisoner. Patricia J. v. Rio Linda Union Sch. Dist. (1976) 61 Cal. App. 3d 278, 282-288, 132 Cal. Rptr. 211

Ward of juvenile court committed to foster home was prisoner for purposes of public entity's immunity for injuries to prisoners. Jiminez v. Santa Cruz County (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 407, 410-413, 116 Cal. Rptr. 878

Term "prisoner" as used in Gov. Code § 844 means person who is in jail or in prison and does not include person detained by police but not yet arrested. Larson v. Oakland (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 91, 94-98, 94 Cal. Rptr. 466

Persons who were arrested, booked, and in receiving section of the jail were prisoners for purposes of prisoner immunities. Datil v. Los Angeles (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 655, 658-659, 69 Cal. Rptr. 788

[iii] False Imprisonment

False imprisonment was not injury to prisoner and therefore public entity was not immune to action for false imprisonment. Sullivan v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 710, 716-717, 117 Cal. Rptr. 241, 527 P.2d 865

[iv] Immunity for Escaping Prisoner

Immunity from liability for injuries caused by escaping prisoner is absolute and precludes liability for both discretionary and ministerial acts. Sacramento County v. Superior Court (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 479, 481-486, 105 Cal. Rptr. 374, 503 P.2d 1382

City subject to liability under Veh. Code § 17001 for injuries to third persons arising out of vehicle collision between third persons' vehicle and vehicle being pursued by police officers for traffic violations, and city not immune from liability under Gov. Code § 845.8. City of San Jose v. Superior Court (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 695, 698, 701, 212 Cal. Rptr. 661

Public entity immune for liability under Gov. Code § 845.8 for injuries to bystander caused by arrestee escaping in unattended police car. Duarte v. City of San Jose (1980) 100 Cal. App. 3d 648, 654, 657, 161 Cal. Rptr. 140 ; but see Ladd v. County of San Mateo (1996) 12 Cal. 4th 913, 925-926, 50 Cal. Rptr. 2d 309, 911 P.2d 496 (disapproving holding in Duarte that officer's conduct created cause of action against city under Veh. Code § 17001)

Public entity and public employee were not liable for injuries caused by escaping prisoner. Ne Casek v. Los Angeles (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 131, 138-142, 43 Cal. Rptr. 294

[v] Immunity for Failure to Provide Prison Facilities

In action for damages by county jail inmates for personal injuries inflicted by other inmates, chairperson of county board of supervisors was immune under Gov. Code § 845.2 from liability for board's failure to allocate funds for repair of county jail security systems, which failure resulted in lack of properly functioning electronic locks on cell doors, thus allowing inmates to roam freely throughout cellblock. Taylor v. Buff (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 384, 390, 218 Cal. Rptr. 249

Immunity granted in Gov. Code § 845.2, for failure to provide prison or jail facilities or if provided, to maintain them, was designed to prevent political decisions of government policy-making officials from being second-guessed by judges and juries in personal injury litigation; thus, essentially budgetary decisions of these officials are not subject to judicial review in tort litigation. Taylor v. Buff (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 384, 390, 218 Cal. Rptr. 249

[vi] Immunity for Injuries by Prisoner

Public entity absolutely immune from liability for assault by prisoner under Gov. Code § 844.6(a)(1), despite gross negligence of entity. Savitt v. Jordon (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 820, 822, 191 Cal. Rptr. 290

[vii] Immunity for Injuries to Prisoners

In defamation action based on parole officer's discretionary decisions and actions leading to revocation of parole, parole officer was immune under Gov. Code § 845.8. Kim v. Walker (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 375, 381-382, 256 Cal. Rptr. 223

Public entities immune from any liability for wrongful death of prisoner regardless of theory of action. May v. County of Monterey (1983) 139 Cal. App. 3d 717, 720-721, 189 Cal. Rptr. 63

Gov. Code § 844.6(a)(2) barred wrongful death action against public entity brought by wife of prisoner who died while hospitalized at county medical facility. Lowman v. County of Los Angeles (1982) 127 Cal. App. 3d 613, 616, 179 Cal. Rptr. 709

[viii] Immunity for Release of Prisoner

Police officers immune from liability for releasing from custody person who threatened life of another person and later killed her. Tarasoff v. Regents of University of Cal. (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 425, 449-450, 131 Cal. Rptr. 14, 551 P.2d 334

Public entity or employee immune under Gov. Code § 845.8 from liability for injury resulting from determination regarding parole or release of prisoner, including negligent failure to supervise parole. Brenneman v. State of California (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 812, 820-821, 256 Cal. Rptr. 363 ; Duffy v. City of Oceanside (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 666, 673, 224 Cal. Rptr. 879

State immune under Gov. Code § 845.8 from suit seeking damages for wrongful death of woman murdered by paroled mentally disordered sex offender. Martinez v. State of California (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 430, 434, 149 Cal. Rptr. 519

Decision to release prisoner, including ministerial act of applying established rules and regulations to particular case, was covered by governmental immunity under Gov. Code § 845.8. Martinez v. State of California (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 430, 435, 149 Cal. Rptr. 519

Public entity immune from liability for actions of prisoners released into community for rehabilitative purposes. State of California v. Superior Court (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 1023, 1025-1028, 112 Cal. Rptr. 706

Public entity immune from liability for murder by person who was allegedly negligently released from jail. Santa Barbara County v. Superior Court (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 751, 755-758, 93 Cal. Rptr. 406

[ix] Liability for Failure to Summon Medical Assistance

Public entity immune under Gov. Code § 845.6 because it provided prompt medical care and had no actual or constructive notice that prisoner's Achilles tendon was ruptured and required surgery; public entity immune from direct suit for medical malpractice committed by its employees against prisoner although it is required to pay judgment against employees for medical malpractice; liability under Gov. Code § 845.6 for failure to take reasonable action to summon medical care is limited to serious and obvious medical conditions if the public entity intentionally or unjustifiably fails to furnish immediate medical care. Watson v. State of California (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 836, 841-843, 26 Cal. Rptr.

2d 262

Gov. Code §§ 855.8 and 856 immunity for failure to diagnose, prescribe, or confine for mental illness does not preclude liability under Gov. Code § 845.6 for failure to summon medical assistance for mentally disturbed prisoner. Johnson v. County of Los Angeles (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 298, 317, 191 Cal. Rptr. 704

Any failure to summon medical assistance is irrelevant if decedent could not be found in reservoir until well after death. May v. County of Monterey (1983) 139 Cal. App. 3d 717, 722, 189 Cal. Rptr. 63

Trial court's sustaining state's demurrer was proper even though plaintiff stated cause of action under Gov. Code § 845.6 for failure to summon medical assistance because amended complaint failed to reflect contents of plaintiff's written claim filed with state. Nelson v. State of California (1982) 139 Cal. App. 3d 72, 78-80, 188 Cal. Rptr. 479

Public entity was not liable for its failure to summon medical assistance for prisoner who thereafter committed suicide because prisoner did not need medical assistance. Lucas v. Long Beach (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 341, 349-350, 131 Cal. Rptr. 470

Public entity not immune from action for damages based on failure to summon medical help for prisoner because public employee had knowledge of need for such care. Hart v. Orange County (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 302, 304-307, 62 Cal. Rptr. 73 ; Sanders v. County Yuba (1967) 247 Cal. App. 2d 748, 752-754, 55 Cal. Rptr. 852

[b] Emergency Response Activities

[i] Firefighting Activities

Public entity not liable for shutting off water valve that supplied fire hydrants or for not notifying fire department or turning valve back on. Heieck & Moran v. City of Modesto (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 229, 233, 49 Cal. Rptr. 377, 411 P.2d 105

City not liable under Veh. Code § 17001 (damage to property proximately caused by negligent act by public employee in operation of motor vehicle) for fire department's use of forklift to open door to building while combating fire. Colapinto v. County of Riverside (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 147, 150, 152-153, 281 Cal. Rptr. 191

Immunities of Gov. Code §§ 850, 850.4 extended to failure of firefighters to arrive quickly at fire because of willful misconduct in participating in unauthorized social gathering away from firehouse. City & County of San Francisco v. Superior Court (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 837, 841-842, 207 Cal. Rptr. 6

Public entity immune under Gov. Code §§ 850.2 and 850.4 from liability for fire damage caused by closed water valve, because water system part of firefighting facilities. New Hampshire Ins. Co. v. City of Madera (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 298, 304-305, 192 Cal. Rptr. 548

Failure of public employees to discover closed water valve, leading to destruction of building by fire, was within immunity of Gov. Code § 815. New Hampshire Ins. Co. v. City of Madera (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 298, 305-306, 192 Cal. Rptr. 548

Public entity not immune from liability for injuries caused by negligence of firefighters in rescuing person during incident not involving firefighting. Lewis v. Mendocino Fire Protection Dist. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 345, 346-347, 190 Cal. Rptr. 883

Immunity for injury caused in fighting fires was not applicable to plaintiff, who broke gas line with his machine and was instructed by fire chief to move machine, which started fire that injured plaintiff, because fire had not yet started when alleged negligence of fire chief occurred. Potter v. City of Oceanside (1981) 114 Cal. App. 3d 564, 566, 170 Cal. Rptr. 753

Public entity protected from liability by firefighting immunity for cutting fence to fight fire and neglecting to repair fence, which allowed plaintiff's cattle to escape. Bettencourt v. California (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 892, 894-896, 124 Cal. Rptr. 542

Public entity immune from liability for injuries sustained by plaintiff as he was being rescued by firefighters from fire. Heimberger v. City of Fairfield (1975) 44 Cal. App. 3d 711, 714-716, 117 Cal. Rptr. 482

[ii] Immunities for Activities to Abate Gradual Earth Movements

Immunity provided by Gov. Code § 866 was available in action against public entity for dangerous conditions on public property. City of Pomona v. Superior Court (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 1093, 1099, 227 Cal. Rptr. 714

[c] Failure to Make Physical or Mental Examination

Immunity of Gov. Code § 855.6 was not applicable to county medical laboratory that was requested by police officer and his physician to perform test for AIDS virus, but mistakenly performed hepatitis test on person suffering self-inflicted stab wounds who had stated that he had AIDS and with whose blood officer had become covered while rendering assistance. Smith v. County of Kern (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 1826, 1830-1835, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 716

[d] Mental Patients

[i] Immunities for Detention and Failure to Confine

Therapists was immune from liability for failure to have patient confined who threatened life of another person and later killed her. Tarasoff v. Regents of University of Cal. (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 425, 447-449, 131 Cal. Rptr. 14, 551 P.2d 334

Gov. Code §§ 855.8 and 856 immunities extend to all those authorized to request or recommend confinement, and to all determinations involved in process of treatment or commitment; sheriff's decisions regarding mentally disturbed prisoner were immune as part of process of determining treatment. Johnson v. County of Los Angeles (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 298, 315-316, 191 Cal. Rptr. 704

[ii] Escape Immunity

Mental patient's failure to return from short leave to unlocked board and care facility was "escape" within meaning of Gov. Code § 856.2, rendering public entity immune from suit arising from patient's personal injuries incurred in traffic accident while away from facility. Brookhouser v. State of California (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 1665, 1686, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 658

Person detained on 72-hour hold under Welf. & Inst. Code § 5150 was confined within meaning of Gov. Code § 856.2; Gov. Code § 856.2 immunity applies to public entity confining person who escapes and sustains injury while on 72-hour hold. Buenavista v. City & County of San Francisco (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 1168, 1173, 255 Cal. Rptr. 329 ; Los Angeles County-U.S.C. Med. Ctr. v. Superior Court (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 454, 460-463, 202 Cal. Rptr. 222

Public entity not liable for injuries suffered by escaped mental patient, whether confinement was voluntary or involuntary and despite alleged negligence in failing to try to recapture patient. Forde v. County of Los Angeles (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 477, 479-481, 134 Cal. Rptr. 549

Public entity immune from liability for preliminary diagnosis that person should be detained for observation of his mental condition. Fish v. Regents of University of Cal. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 327, 333-334, 54 Cal. Rptr. 656

[iii] Immunity for Injuries to Mental Patient

Public entity not directly liable for injuries suffered in mental hospital and only liable to pay malpractice judgment against public employee. County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 839, 844, 44 Cal. Rptr. 796, 402 P.2d 868

Gov. Code § 854.8 immunity is broadly construed and encompasses injuries to individual involuntarily confined for mental evaluation under Welf. & Inst. Code § 5150 who was kept in regular medical ward of county hospital due to shortage of beds in psychiatric ward of that facility. Guzman v. County of Los Angeles (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1343, 1346-1350, 286 Cal. Rptr. 317

In action by mental patient for injuries caused by other mental patients, nonsuit for failure to state prima facie exception under Gov. Code § 855(a) to Gov. Code § 854.8 (immunity for injuries by and to mental patients) was improper because it involved questions of fact not resolvable on motion for nonsuit. Baber v. Napa State Hosp. (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 213, 216-221, 257 Cal. Rptr. 55

Public guardian was immune under Gov. Code § 854.8 from liability for alleged negligent supervision of incompetent female patient resulting in pregnancy and childbirth. Foy v. Greenblott (1983) 141 Cal. App. 3d 1, 6, 190 Cal. Rptr. 84

[iv] Leave of Absence Immunity

Gov. Code § 854.8 (providing for government immunity for injuries caused by patients of mental institutions) is applicable to injuries caused by patients who are on leave of absence. Buford v. State of California (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 811, 829, 164 Cal. Rptr. 264 (state was immune, even though immunity provisions of Gov. Code § 856 were not applicable, because complaint alleged negligence in ministerial actions following discretionary leave determination)

[v] Release Immunity

Public entity immune from liability for injuries suffered by person who was released from mental hospital and immediately attempted suicide. Goff v. County of Los Angeles (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 45, 49-50, 61 Cal. Rptr. 840

Public entity not liable for injuries caused by released mental patient, who was released based on allegedly incorrect medical opinion as to his sanity. Kravitz v. California (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 301, 306-307, 87 Cal. Rptr. 352

Public entity immune from liability for death of person at hands of person released from mental hospital allegedly as result of negligent maintenance of records. Hernandez v. State of California (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 895, 899-901, 90 Cal. Rptr. 205

[e] Police Activities

[i] Citizen's Arrest

Public entity not liable for act of police officer in accepting delivery of person on whom citizen's arrest had been made and transporting her to jail. Kinney v. County of Contra Costa (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 761, 766-769, 87 Cal. Rptr. 638

[ii] Immunity for Failure to Make Arrest

Police officers not liable for failure to detain and conduct sobriety test of intoxicated motorcyclist stopped for speeding, who shortly thereafter ran off road and injured himself. Hucko v. City of San Diego (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 520, 522, 224 Cal. Rptr. 552

Demurrer to cause of action against law enforcement officers by drunk driver, based on defendants' failure to arrest and detain plaintiff, was properly sustained pursuant to Gov. Code § 846; plaintiff, released by tow truck driver at intersection and struck by oncoming vehicles, caused own injuries by voluntary drunkenness. Truong v. James (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 833, 835-836, 215 Cal. Rptr. 33

[iii] Immunity for Failure to Provide Police Protection

Community college district was immune from liability for failure to provide adequate police protection to student victim of criminal assault on campus. Peterson v. San Francisco Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 799, 815, 205 Cal. Rptr. 842, 685 P.2d 1193

Negligence action brought against city and police officers for injuries plaintiff sustained when stabbed in laundromat that was under police surveillance was properly dismissed because no relationship existed sufficient to impose duty of care based on special relationship between officers and assailant or officers and victim; police were in no way responsible for presence in laundromat of either assailant or victim, victim was unaware of officers' presence and did not rely on them for protection, and officers' alleged conduct did not change risk that would have existed in their absence. Davidson v. City of Westminster (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 197, 206-209, 185 Cal. Rptr. 252, 649 P.2d 894

Immunity for failure to provide police protection is not available if special relationship existed between police and victim and police failed to warn victim of known danger. Carpenter v. City of Los Angeles (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 923, 934-935, 281 Cal. Rptr. 500

Sheriff's department not liable for murder victim's death because sheriff who responded to victim's telephone reports of death threats did not create or assume special relationship with victim. Lowe v. County of San Diego (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 515, 531, 228 Cal. Rptr. 139

Immunity from liability for failure to provide police protection is applicable to any public entity in absence of special relationship with plaintiff. Hernandez v. Southern Cal. Rapid Transit Dist. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 1063, 1067, 191 Cal. Rptr. 436 ; but see Lopez v. Southern Cal. Rapid Transit Dist. (1985)40 Cal. 3d 780, 790, 221 Cal. Rptr. 840, 710 P.2d 907) (disapproving Hernandez to extent it holds no special relationship between public carrier and passengers giving rise to duty on part of carrier to protect passengers from assaults by fellow passengers)

Immunity for failure to provide police protection is applicable to proprietary functions such as operating parking lot. Slapin v. Los Angeles Int'l Airport (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 484, 487, 135 Cal. Rptr. 296

Immunity for failure to provide police protection is absolute, whether police action is discretionary or ministerial. Hartzler v. City of San Jose (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 6, 8-9, 120 Cal. Rptr. 5

Failure to provide adequate police protection or to respond promptly to alarm was not basis for liability of public entity. Antique Arts Corp. v. Torrance (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 588, 591-593, 114 Cal. Rptr. 332

Public entity not liable for acts of police officers, who failed to arrest or take other action against persons who were using self-help to obtain possession of plaintiff's property. Michenfelder v. City of Torrance (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 202, 206-208, 104 Cal. Rptr. 501

Public entity not liable for inciting riot or failing to protect plaintiff's property from damage from riot. Susman v. City of Los Angeles (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 803, 810-822, 75 Cal. Rptr. 240

[iv] Immunity for Injuries During Police Pursuit

If valid police pursuit policy has been adopted, immunity of Veh. Code § 17004.7 applies even though injury was sustained because pursuing officer deliberately rammed officer's car into pursued vehicle in attempt to disable it. Weaver v. State of California (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 188, 200, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 571

Immunity under Veh. Code § 17004.7 requires that adopted police pursuit policy control and channel officer's discretion by providing objective standards by which to evaluate whether pursuit should be initiated or terminated; policy adopted by Highway Patrol provided adequate guidelines for justification, initiation, and termination of pursuit under former version of Veh. Code § 17004.7. Ketchum v. State of California (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 957, 966-970, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 152

Immunity under Veh. Code § 17004.7 is not limited to situations in which pursued suspect is driving his or her own vehicle; immunity also applies to situations in which pursued suspect is operating stolen police vehicle. Bryant v. County of Los Angeles (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 919, 923-924, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 285

In action for wrongful death arising from fatal crash by fleeing robber being pursued by police, immunity of former version of Veh. Code § 17004.7 was applicable because pursuit policy contained sufficient guidelines to satisfy requirements of former Veh. Code § 17004.7(c)(4), although manifest perils not specified in format of list; extent to which pursuit policy implemented in general and followed in particular pursuit is irrelevant if pursuit policy adopted by agency meets statutory requirements of Veh. Code § 17004.7; pursuit policy qualifies under Veh. Code § 17004.7 if promulgated by city's chief of police. Brumer v. City of Los Angeles (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 983, 987-988, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 515

In personal injury action arising when car of fleeing criminal suspect being pursued by police officer struck plaintiff's car, immunity of former version of Veh. Code § 17004.7 was inapplicable because city's vehicular pursuit policy did not provide sufficiently specific guidelines for determining when to initiate or terminate pursuit so as to comply with former Veh. Code § 17004.7(c)(4). Berman v. City of Daly City (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 276, 280-285, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 493

In action for wrongful death arising from police vehicular pursuit of criminal suspect, immunity under Veh. Code § 17004.7 was unavailable because written police policy guidelines failed to delineate any specific factors supporting decision to initiate or terminate pursuit. Payne v. City of Perris (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 1738, 1751, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 143

In action for wrongful death arising from traffic accident involving police pursuit of traffic offender, city not immune under Veh. Code § 17004.7 because of inadequacy of its written policy, which lacked specificity regarding officers' exercise of discretion, guidelines for initiating and discontinuing vehicular pursuits, and guidelines for designation of primary pursuit vehicle. Colvin v. City of Gardena (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1270, 1281-1287, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 234

Public entity was not liable for injuries caused by vehicle being pursued by police car merely on ground that decision to pursue was negligent. Bratt v. City & County of San Francisco (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 550, 552-555, 123 Cal. Rptr. 774

[v] Liability in Other Situations

Police officer had duty to exercise reasonable care for safety of persons officer stopped for speeding; issue of fact existed as to whether officer breached duty by directing persons to stop on center median of highway. Lugtu v. California Highway Patrol (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 703, 718, 724, 110 Cal. Rptr. 2d 528, 28 P.3d 249

Dismissal of negligence action against city and police officers for injuries plaintiff sustained when assaulted in laundromat that was under police surveillance was proper because no relationship existed sufficient to impose duty of care based on special relationship; police were not responsible in any way for presence of assailant or victim in laundromat, victim was unaware of officers' presence and did not rely on their protection, and officers' alleged conduct did not change risk that would have existed in their absence. Davidson v. City of Westminster (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 197, 206-209, 185 Cal. Rptr. 252, 649 P.2d 894

Public entity was liable in negligence for actions of law enforcement officers in shooting suspect. Munoz v. Olin (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 629, 634, 156 Cal. Rptr. 727, 596 P.2d 1143

Police had no duty to provide transportation to minor who was in vehicle when driver was cited for excessive speed and lack of license, and who was evicted from vehicle with other occupants, in wrongful death action arising from minor's death in traffic accident two hours later while being driven home by friend. Hernandez v. City of San Jose (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 129, 135, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 589

Special relationship between police and individual depends on representations or conduct by police that cause detrimental reliance by victim that increases risk of harm from police negligence. Denton v. City of Fullerton (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 1636, 1640-1645, 285 Cal. Rptr. 297 ; M. B. v. City of San Diego (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 699, 704-708, 284 Cal. Rptr. 555

No detrimental reliance existed to support claim of special relationship between highway patrol and motorist because officer's warning could not, as matter of law, be reasonably interpreted to mean smoke-obscured highway ahead was suitable for travel at high speeds. Foremost Dairies, Inc. v. State of California (1986) 190 Cal. App. 3d 361, 366

Negligence verdict was unfounded in case in which police, who confiscated gun from plaintiff's intoxicated husband for plaintiff's protection and then arrested him on related charge, returned gun to husband on completion of his jail term, having failed to ascertain whether possession of firearm violated his probation, and husband subsequently shot plaintiff; officer who returned gun was under no duty to protect plaintiff absent special relationship with her; officer who confiscated gun was voluntarily assuming duty only for limited purpose of protecting plaintiff from momentary threat; officer made no express or implied promise to render additional aid. Baker v. City of Los Angeles (1986) 188 Cal. App. 3d 902, 907-908, 233 Cal. Rptr. 760

County sheriffs not liable for failure to render emergency aid to plaintiff found injured at scene of investigation, or for failure to secure evidence found at scene, absent special relationship giving rise to affirmative duty; special relationship existed only if sheriffs' actions increased risk of harm to plaintiff or led to detrimental reliance on part of plaintiff. Rose v. County of Plumas (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 999, 1003-1007, 199 Cal. Rptr. 842

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Education LawImmunitiesSchool District ImmunityTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsExclusions From LiabilityTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsProcedural RequirementsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsScope of Employment

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.124

§ 464.124 Attorney General Opinions

County would not subject itself to greater risk of liability under Tort Claims Act by having its officers exercise their discretion in requiring an industrial facility to use an inherently safer system or take a specific action. 83 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 195 (2000)

If California Highway Patrol (CHP) officer at scale facility prevents overweight vehicle from being driven on highway, and facility lacks unloading equipment, CHP is not liable for any injuries sustained by operator of vehicle in attempting to reduce weight without proper equipment. 82 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 196 (1999)

Public entity immunity from liability for skateboarding on public property. 81 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 331 (1998)

Person appointed as referee to hear and determine discovery motions and paid by the parties was not statutorily entitled to defense and indemnification by county against claims or actions seeking monetary damages in connection with performance of duties as referee. 72 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 94 (1989)

Claim filed against public agency under California Tort Claims Act was not exempt from disclosure under Gov. Code § 6254(b) (71 Cal. Op. Att'y Gen. 235

Arresting officer has authority to release person arrested for driving under influence of alcohol on issuance of notice and arrestee's promise to appear; arresting officer not liable for injury caused by arrestee after release. 71 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 46 (1988)

Lawyer-client privilege and work-product rule, when relied on by public officer, do not automatically terminate with settlement or adjudication of underlying claim. 71 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 5 (1988)

Public officer entitled to claim lawyer-client privilege and rely on work-product rule to prevent disclosure of requested information in grand jury proceeding. 70 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 28 (1987)

Retired judge sitting by assignment is entitled to defense provided by public entity under provisions of Gov. Code §§ 995-996.6, may be represented under provisions of Gov. Code § 27647 if he or she is sitting as judge, is entitled to indemnification under provisions of Gov. Code §§ 825-825.6 for plaintiff's attorney's fees and costs awarded in action under federal Civil Rights Act, and is provided defense and indemnification by state or county. 68 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 127 (1985)

Publicly owned health facilities are subject to civil penalty provisions of former Health & Safety Code § 442.3. 68 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 55 (1985)

Ins. Code § 11580.26 requires that uninsured motorist property damage coverage be offered on publicly owned school buses and fire trucks. 68 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 51 (1985)

Law enforcement officers and judges are not under duty to report knowledge they might have about persons who entered United States by violating 8 U.S.C.S. § 1325. 67 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 331 (1984)

Pro tempore workers' compensation referees appointed under Lab. Code § 123.7 are immune from liability for their discretionary acts within scope of employment to same extent as permanent referees of Workers' Compensation Appeals Board. 66 Cal. Ops. Att'y Gen. 69, 73 (1983)

California Coastal Commission is not liable for accident or injury resulting from hazardous condition on road or highway, even though commission denied permit application for project designed to eliminate that condition. 62 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 527 (1979)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsExclusions From LiabilityTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsProcedural RequirementsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsScope of Employment

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.125

§ 464.125 Law Reviews

Comment, California Sidewalks: A Comprehensive Scheme for Determining Municipal and Abutter Liabilities, 31 Santa Clara L. Rev. 463 (1991)

Comment, Government Estoppel: The Search for Constitutional Limits, 25 Loy. L.A. L. Rev. 229 (1991)

Zaitzeff and Kunz, The Act of State Doctrine and the Allied Bank Case, 40 Bus. Law. 449 (1985)

McCabe, Police Officers' Duty to Rescue or Aid: Are They Only Good Samaritans?, 72 Cal. L. Rev. 661 (1984)

Comment, Williams v. State: Duty of Care of Officers at Traffic Accidents, 14 Sw. U.L. Rev. 823 (1984)

Del Carmen and Veneziano, Legal Liabilities, Representation, and Indemnification of Probation and Parole Officers, 17 U.S.F. L. Rev. 227 (1983)

Comment, Duty of Care to Traffic Victims and the Statutory Immunities of California Highway Patrolmen, 19 Cal. W. L. Rev. 306 (1983)

Note, Defining the "State as State": Is a Nonprofit Corporation Under Contract With a State to Perform an Integral Government Function Entitled to Immunity From the Fair Labor Standards Act Under National League of Cities?, 10 Hastings Const. L.Q. 877 (1983)

Note, Police Liability for Negligent Failure to Prevent Crime, 94 Harv. L. Rev. 821 (1981)

Comment, Thompson v. County of Alameda: The Demise of the Special Relationship Doctrine in California, 15 U.S.F. L. Rev. 563 (1981)

Comment, Discretionary Immunity in California in the Aftermath of Johnson v. State, 15 Santa Clara Lawyer 454

(1975)

Nelson and Avnaim, Claims Against a California Governmental Entity or Employee, 6 Sw. U.L. (L.A.) Rev. 550 (1974)

Morgan, Bertram and Johnson, Cameron v. State: Widening the Breach in Governmental Immunity, 9 Lincoln L. Rev. 107 (1974)

Note, Torts: Effect of Changed Conditions or a Nonapproved Design on Statutory Immunity, 61 Cal. L. Rev. 627 (1973)

Note, Nestle v. City of Santa Monica: A Test Case for a General Immunity Statute, 5 Sw. U. L. Rev. 197 (1973)

Note, Torts: Liability of Public Entity for Nuisance, 61 Cal. L. Rev. 648 (1973)

Berger, The California Supreme Court--A Shield Against Governmental Overreaching: Nestle v. City of Santa Monica, 9 Cal. W. L. Rev. 199 (1973)

Comment, Governmental Nuisance Liability: An Inadequate Remedy for Aircraft Noise, 9 Cal. W. L. Rev. 310 (1973)

Comment, Sovereign Immunity--An Anathema to the "Constitutional Tort," 12 Santa Clara Lawyer 543 (1972)

Comment, Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property: California's Design Immunity Statute--A Need for Legislative Clarification, 3 Pac. L.J. 687 (1972)

Comment, Tort Liability of a Peace Officer for Injuring a Bystander During Suppression of Civil Disturbance, 4 U.S.F. L. Rev. 452 (1970)

Comment, An Unusual Defense Available to Public Entities in the Area of the Maintenance of Dangerous Conditions on Public Property, 4 U.S.F. L. Rev. 442 (1970)

Fizzolio, Piercing the Protective Shield of Immunity Given Public Employees of the State of California and its Political Subdivisions Against Tort Claims, 44 L.A. Bar B. 343 (1969)

Nellis, California Governmental Tort Liability and the Collateral Source Rule, 9 Santa Clara Lawyer 227 (1969)

Comment, Never Trust a Bureaucrat: Estoppel Against the Government, 42 S. Cal. L. Rev. 391 (1969)

O'Brien, Claims Against California Public Entities and Public Employees, 43 Cal. St. B.J. 693 (1968)

Comment, The California Tort Claims Act: Discretionary Immunity, 39 S. Cal. L. Rev. 470 (1966)

Comment, Governmental Liability for Torts of Employees--The End of Sovereign Immunity in California, 5 Santa Clara Lawyer 81 (1964)

Van Alstyne, Governmental Tort Liability as a Public Policy Matter, 10 UCLA L. Rev. 463 (1963)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureFederal & State InterrelationshipsSovereign ImmunityState ImmunityGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsExclusions From Liability

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.126

§ 464.126 Text References

California Government Tort Liability Practice, Chs. 2-6 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th. ed. 1999)

Witkin, California Procedure, Vol. 3, Actions, §§ 223 et seq., 628-631, 779-790, 973-976 (4th ed. 1996)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, Vol. 5, Torts, §§ 214 et seq., 249 et seq., 290-338, 361-365 (10th ed. 2005)

53 of 197 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 464.127-464.139

[Reserved]

§§ 464.127[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLISTS

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.140

§ 464.140 Claimant's Checklist for Filing Claims Against Public Entities

[1] Obtain Facts and Documents

[a] Relating to Potential Cause of Action

1. The time, place, and circumstances of the occurrence leading to the plaintiff's injuries or damages.

2. The type and extent of the plaintiff's injuries or damages.

3. The names, addresses, and telephone numbers of any witnesses to the occurrence.

4. The names, addresses, and telephone numbers of physicians and medical specialists involved in treating plaintiff's injuries.

5. The names, addresses, and telephone numbers of potential expert witnesses on the cause of the occurrence and on the nature and extent of the plaintiff's injuries or damages.

[b] Relating to Potential Defendants

1. Public entity(ies):

a. Complete name(s).

b. Address(es) of principal office(s).

NOTE:
Information about the full name of any public agency, its address, the names and addresses of the members of its governing board, and the names and addresses of its presiding officer and clerk or secretary can be obtained by examining the Roster of Public Agencies available at the Secretary of State's office and the county clerk's office in any county where the agency has an office [Gov. Code § 53051; see also State of California Telephone Directory (available through Documents Sections of Department of General Services)].

2. Public employee(s):

a. Complete name(s).

b. Address(es).

c. Name(s) of employing public agency(ies).

3. Independent contractors of public agency(ies):

a. Complete name(s) and status(es).

b. Address(es).

c. Name(s) of employing public agency(ies).

d. Terms of contract with public agency(ies).

4. Other persons or entities:

a. Complete name(s) and status(es).

b. Address(es).

[c] Relevant to Occurrence and Injuries or Damage

[2] Prepare and Present Claim

NOTE:

Most claims for money or damages against public entities must be presented in accordance with the claims statutes as a prerequisite to any action on the claims, although there are certain specified statutory exceptions [see Gov. Code §§ 905, 905.2]. Additionally, an action against a public employee or former public employee for injury resulting from an act or omission by the employee within the scope of that employment is barred if a proper claim was not filed against the public entity [Gov. Code § 950.2], unless the plaintiff establishes that the plaintiff did not know or have reason to know that the defendant was a public employee [see Gov. Code § 950.4].

[a] Time Limits

1. Six months from accrual of cause of action [Gov. Code § 911.2]:

a. Death actions.

b. Injury to persons.

c. Injury to personal property.

2. All other claims: one year from accrual of cause of action [Gov. Code § 911.2].

[b] Prepare Claim

1. Draft the claim [see §§ 464.160, 464.162]. If the public entity has a printed claim form, that form should be used [see §§ 464.161].

2. Have the claim signed by the claimant or by someone on the claimant's behalf [Gov. Code § 910.2].

[c] Present Claim

1. Against the state, accompanied by $25 filing fee [Gov. Code § 915(b)]:

a. Deliver to the Victim Compensation and Government Claims Board, 630 K Street, Sacramento, CA 95814; or

b. Mail to Victim Compensation and Government Claims Board, Government Claims Program, P.O. Box 3035, Sacramento, CA 95812-3035. The claim must be deposited in the United States post office, or in a mail box, subpost office, substation, mail chute, or other similar facility regularly maintained by the government of the United States, in a sealed envelope, properly addressed, with postage paid. The claim, amendment, application, or notice is deemed to have been presented and received at the time of deposit. Proof of mailing must be made in the manner set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a [Gov. Code § 915.2; for discussion and forms relating to proof of service, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

2. Against a local public entity [Gov. Code § 915(a)]:

a. Deliver to the clerk, secretary, or auditor of the local public entity; or

a. Mail to the clerk, secretary, or auditor of the local public entity, using the same method of mailing described above for claims against the state [Gov. Code § 915.2].

[d] Wait for Action on Claim by Board

1. The governing board must act on a claim within 45 days or it is deemed denied unless that time is extended by written agreement [Gov. Code § 912.4].

2. The board may take any of the following actions:

a. Serve notice of insufficiency of claim [Gov. Code § 910.8].

b. Allow the claim [Gov. Code § 912.6(a)(2)].

c. Reject the claim [Gov. Code § 912.6(a)(1)].

d. Reject part of the claim [Gov. Code § 912.6(a)(3)].

e. Compromise the claim [Gov. Code § 912.6(a)(4)].

NOTE:
The board must notify the claimant of the action taken [Gov. Code § 911.8(a)].

[e] Amend Claim

1. The time limit for an amendment related to the original claim is later of [Gov. Code § 910.6(a)]:

a. Within the time allowed for filing the original claim; or

b. Before the final action taken by the board.

2. Prepare the amendment [see § 464.163].

3. Present the amendment in the same manner as the original claim [Gov. Code § 915.2; see § 464.140[2][c]].

[3] Apply to Present Late Claim

NOTE:
A written application to present a late claim may be presented if a claim that should have been filed within six months was not filed [Gov. Code § 911.4(a)].

1. The application must be based on one of following grounds [Gov. Code § 911.6(b)]:

a. Mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect, and the public entity was not prejudiced in its defense.

b. Minority.

c. Physical or mental incapacitation.

d. Death.

2. The application must be filed within a reasonable time not to exceed one year from the accrual of the cause of action [Gov. Code § 911.4(b)].

3. Prepare the application [see § 464.164].

4. Present the application in the same manner as an original claim [Gov. Code § 915.2; see § 464.140[2]].

5. Wait for action on the application by the board, which is required to act on the application within 45 days, unless the period is extended by written agreement. If the board fails to act, the application is deemed denied on the 45th day, or the last day of the extended period [Gov. Code § 911.6(a), (c)]. The board may grant or deny the application [Gov. Code § 911.6(a)].

NOTE:
The board must notify the applicant of the action taken [Gov. Code § 915.4].

[4] Petition Court for Relief From Claim Requirement

NOTE:
A petition for relief from claim requirements may be filed after the application to present a late claim is denied or deemed denied [Gov. Code § 946.6(a)].

1. Base the petition on the following grounds [Gov. Code § 946.6(c)]:

a. The application to present a late claim was made within a reasonable time not exceeding one year from accrual of the cause of action; and

b. One of the following is applicable:
(1) Mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect, unless the public entity establishes that it would be prejudiced in its defense.

(2) Minority.

(3) Physical or mental incapacitation.

(4) Death.

2. File the petition within six months after denial of the application to file a late claim [Gov. Code § 946.6(b)].

3. Prepare the petition and supporting declarations [see § 464.165].

4. File the petition in a superior court that would be a proper court for the trial of an action on the cause of action to which the claim relates [Gov. Code § 946.6(a)].

5. Prepare the order [see § 464.166].

6. Serve a copy of the petition and a written notice of the time and place of hearing before the hearing as prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)[Gov. Code §§ 946(d), 946.6(d); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(a)(9); see generally Ch. 372, Motions and Orders]:

a. On a local public agency by serving its clerk, secretary, or board.

b. On the state:

(1) By serving the Attorney General at any of the Attorney General's offices in Los Angeles, Sacramento, San Diego, or San Francisco.

(2) If the petition involves a claim arising out of alleged actions or inactions of the Department of Transportation, by serving either the Attorney General at any of the Attorney General's offices in Los Angeles, Sacramento, San Diego, or San Francisco, or the Director of Transportation only at the Department of Transportation's headquarters office in Sacramento.

NOTE:
All moving and supporting papers must be served and filed at least 16 court days before the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b) ; see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(a)]. If, however, the notice is served by mail, the required 16-day period of notice before the time appointed for the hearing must be increased by five calendar days if the place of mailing and the place of address are within the State of California, by 10 calendar days if the place of mailing is outside the State of California but within the United States, and by 20 calendar days if the place of mailing is outside the United States [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b) ; see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(c) (proof of service of moving papers)]. The 16-day period is increased by two days if service is by fax, Express Mail, or other overnight delivery method [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)]. An extension of two court days may apply in case of electronic service pursuant to a local rule adopted under Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6 [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6) ; for discussion, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

7. Attend the hearing.

8. Have the judge sign the order.

NOTE:
If the order is granted, suit must be filed within 30 days after the order [Gov. Code § 946.6(f)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsExclusions From LiabilityTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsProcedural RequirementsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsScope of Employment

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLISTS

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.141

§ 464.141 Plaintiff's Checklist for Filing Actions Against Public Entities and Employees

NOTE:

Actions against public entities and employees are governed by the same rules as other civil actions [Gov. Code § 945.2]. This checklist addresses only areas in which the procedures are different. For a procedural guide for use by plaintiffs in civil actions, see Ch. 2, Procedural Guide for Civil Actions.

[1] Statute of Limitations

1. File action against public entity within one of the following limitations periods:

a. Six months after proper notice of rejection of the claim is personally delivered to the claimant or deposited in the mail [Gov. Code § 945.6(a)(1)].

b. If notice of rejection of the claim is not given, two years after accrual of the cause of action [Gov. Code § 945.6(a)(2)].

c. If the petition for relief from claim requirements is granted, 30 days after the granting of that order [Gov. Code § 946.6(f)].

d. If no claim is required to be filed, the limitations period applicable to defendants who are not public entities [Gov. Code § 945.8].

2. If a claim has been filed against a public entity for injury, file the action against a public entity employee within the same periodsof limitation prescribed by Gov. Code § 945.6 for public entities [Gov. Code § 950.6(b)].

[2] Prepare Papers

1. Complaint [see §§ 464.180 -464.187, 464.210 -464.219, 464.240 -464.242].

2. Proof of service [see 464.141[4]].

[3] Venue

1. In actions against the state, file the complaint in the appropriate county, as follows:

a. For death or injury to persons or personal property, the county where the injury or the injury causing death occurred [Gov. Code § 955.2].

b. In actions for the taking or damaging of private property for public use, the county in which the property is situated [Gov. Code § 955].

c. In all other actions, the state may have the action transferred to Sacramento County [Gov. Code § 955].

2. In actions against local public entities, file the complaint in the appropriate county, as follows: [Code Civ. Proc. § 394(a)].

a. In the county in which the local public entity is situated.

b. If an action is brought against a local public entity in a county other than the one in which it is situated, the entity may have the action transferred to a neutral county where none of the plaintiffs reside or do business and where the local public entity is not situated.

[4] Service of Summons

1. In actions against the state, serve the summons as follows:

a. On the Attorney General [Gov. Code § 955.4].

b. In actions for taking or damaging public property arising out of work done by the Department of Transportation, either on the Attorney General or on the Director of Transportation [Gov. Code § 955.6(a)].

c. In actions for taking or damaging public property arising out of work done by Department of Water Resources, either on the Attorney General or on the Director of Water Resources [Gov. Code § 955.8].

2. In actions against a local public entity, serve the summons as follows:

a. On the clerk, secretary, president, presiding officer, or other head of the governing body [Code Civ. Proc. § 416.50(a); see also Gov. Code § 960.8; see generally § 464.45[2][b]].

b. If the public agency has no statement or if a defective statement is on file in the Roster of Public Agencies, obtain a court order for service on the Secretary of State and serve the Secretary of State [see Gov. Code §§ 960.2, 960.3; see discussion in § 464.45[2][c]].

[5] Collection of Judgment

NOTE:
For detailed discussion of the procedures applicable to enforcing claims and judgments against the state and local public entities, see Ch. 467, Public Entities and Officers: Enforcement of Judgments Against Public Entities .

1. For judgments against the state, the Controller must draw a warrant for the payment of any final judgment or settlement against the state whenever the Director of Finance certifies that a sufficient appropriation for payment exists. Claims on these judgments and settlements are exempt from the Gov. Code § 925.6 requirement that the claim be audited before the Controller draws a warrant for it. Claims arising out of the activities of the State Department of Transportation may be paid if either the Director of Transportation or the Director of Finance certifies that a sufficient appropriation for payment of the claim exists [Gov. Code § 965.2].

NOTE:
If no appropriation exists, the Controller cannot be compelled to pay a judgment by a writ of mandate [Westinghouse Elec. Co. v. Chambers (1915) 169 Cal. 131, 135-136, 145 P. 1025 ; Veterans of Foreign Wars v. State of California (1974) 36 Cal. App. 3d 688, 697, 111 Cal. Rptr. 750] .

2. A local public entity must pay any tort judgment in one of the manners set forth in Gov. Code § 970 et seq. [Gov. Code § 970.2].

NOTE:
A writ of mandate is an appropriate remedy to compel payment [Gov. Code § 970.2].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationTime LimitationsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsJurisdictionTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsProcedural RequirementsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsScope of EmploymentTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsVenue

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLISTS

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 464.142-464.159

[Reserved]

§§ 464.142[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
A. Claims Against Public Entities and Employees

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.160

§ 464.160 Claim Against Public Entity [Gov. Code §§ 905, 905.2, 910, 910.2]--General Form

[1] FORM Claim Against Public Entity [Gov. Code §§ 905, 905.2, 910, 910.2]--General Form

TO _____ [name of public entity]:

_____ [Name of claimant] hereby makes claim against _____ [name of public entity] [specify sum only if the amount claimed is less than $10,000, e.g., for the sum of $_____] and makes the following statements in support of the claim:

1. Claimant's post office address is _____ [address], _____ [city], California.

2. Notices concerning the claim should be sent to _____ [address], _____ [city], California.

3. The date and place of the _____ [occurrence or transaction] giving rise to this claim are _____ [specify].

4. The circumstances giving rise to this claim are as follows: _____ [specify, e.g., at the above time and place, claimant was walking on the sidewalk, which was in a dangerous condition due to repair work being done by _____ (name of public entity), and, because of the dangerous condition, plaintiff slipped and fell into an excavation, causing _____ [him or her] serious injuries].

5. Claimant's injuries are _____ [specify].

6. The names of the public employees causing the claimant's injuries are _____ [specify or unknown].

[EITHER, if amount claimed is less than $10,000]

7. My claim as of the date of this claim is $_____. This figure is based on the following: _____ [specify, e.g.:

Medical Expenses Incurred to Date:	$_____
Estimated Future Medical Expenses:	$_____
Loss of Wages:	$_____
General Damages:	$_____
TOTAL	$_____].

[OR, if amount claimed is greater than $10,000]

7. My claim as of the date of this claim is in an amount that would place it within the jurisdiction of the superior court. The claim is based on _____ [specify, e.g., injury, damage, and/or loss] in an amount to be proved later.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
[Claimant or On Behalf of Claimant]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a general form of claim that can be used for any claim against any public entity [see Gov. Code §§ 905, 905.2]. Many public entities, however, have their own forms of claims and the better practice is to use those forms, although their use is not required [see Gov. Code § 910.4]. For an official form provided by the state for use in filing claims against the state, see § 464.161.

Although compliance with the claims statute is mandatory and failure to file a claim is fatal to a cause of action, if there has been an attempt to comply with the claim filing requirements but the compliance is defective, the claim may be deemed adequate under the doctrine of substantial compliance [see City of San Jose v. Superior Court (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 447, 454-458, 115 Cal. Rptr. 797, 525 P.2d 701 ; Pacific Tel. & Tel. Co. v. County of Riverside (1980) 106 Cal. App. 3d 183, 188, 165 Cal. Rptr. 29] . For further discussion of the substantial compliance doctrine, see § 464.23[3][e].

[3] Contents of Claim

The claim must be presented by the claimant or by a person acting on the claimant's behalf and must show all of the following [Gov. Code § 910]:

- The name and post office address of the claimant;
- The post office address to which the person presenting the claim desires notices to be sent;
- The date, place, and other circumstances of the occurrence or transaction that gave rise to the claim asserted;

- The name or names of the public employee or employees causing the injury, damage, or loss, if known;

- A general description of the indebtedness, obligation, injury, damage, or loss incurred so far as it may be known at the time of presentation of the claim; and

- The amount claimed if it totals less than $10,000 as of the date of presentation of the claim, including the estimated amount of any prospective injury, damage, or loss, insofar as it may be known at the time of the presentation of the claim, together with the basis of computation of the amount claimed. If the amount claimed exceeds $10,000, the claim must not state any dollar amount. The claim, however, must indicate whether the claim would be a limited civil case (amount in controversy, exclusive of interest, is $25,000 or less) [see Cal. Const. art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86 (limited civil case); see generally Ch. 324, Jurisdiction: Subject Matter].

The claim must be signed by the claimant or by some person on the claimant's behalf. Claims against local public entities for supplies, materials, equipment, or services need not be signed by the claimant or on the claimants behalf if presented on a bill or invoice regularly used in the conduct of the claimant's business [Gov. Code § 910.2].

[4] Time for Presentation of Claim

A claim relating to a cause of action for death or for injury to a person or to personal property or growing crops must be presented not later than six months after the accrual of the cause of action. A claim relating to any other cause of action must be presented not later than one year after the accrual of the cause of action [Gov. Code § 911.2].

[5] Presentation of Claim

A claim must be presented to a local public entity by either delivering it or mailing it to the clerk, secretary, or auditor thereof [Gov. Code § 915(a)]. A claim must be presented to the state by delivering it to an office of the Victim Compensation and Government Claims Board or by mailing it to the board at its principal office [Gov. Code § 915(b); see § 464.110[2] (board address)].

A claim is deemed to have been presented in compliance with these requirements even though it is not delivered or mailed as provided above if it is actually received by the clerk, secretary, auditor, or board of the local public entity or is actually received at an office of the Victim Compensation and Government Claims Board within the time prescribed for presentation [Gov. Code § 915(d)]. However, presentation of a claim to the State Board of Control (now the Victim Compensation and Government Claims Board) did not constitute receipt by the proper local public entity ultimately responsible [Johnson v. San Diego Unified Sch. Dist. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 692, 699-700, 266 Cal. Rptr. 187 (school district is local public entity)].

A claim is deemed to have been presented to a public agency in compliance with these requirements if it is delivered or mailed within the time prescribed for presentation in conformity with the information contained in the statement in the Roster of Public Agencies pertaining to that public agency that is on file at the time the claim is delivered or mailed [Gov. Code § 915(e); see Gov. Code § 53050 (definition of public agency); for discussion of the statement in the Roster of Public Agencies, see § 464.48].

A claim must be accompanied by a $25 filing fee, unless the claimant has applied for and been granted a waiver based on indigency, as defined by statute [Gov. Code § 905.2(c)(1), (2) (persons receiving benefits under SSI or SSP programs, CalWORKS program, food stamp program, or under Welf. & Inst. Code § 1700, persons with monthly income 125 percent or less of current state monthly poverty line, or persons in prison, jail, or other state institution who have balance of $100 or less credited to resident's trust account within 90 days prior to filing claim)]. To request a fee waiver, the claimant must attach to the claim a signed affidavit requesting the waiver and a verification of benefits or income and any other required financial information in support of the request for the waiver [Gov. Code § 905.2(c)(2)]. If the board approves the claim, any filing fee paid will be refunded to the claimant by the state entity against which the approved claim was filed [Gov. Code § 905.2(e)]. The time for the board to determine the sufficiency, timeliness, or any other aspect of the claim begins when the claim is submitted with the filing fee, when a fee waiver is granted, or when the filing fee is paid to the board after a fee waiver is denied, so long as payment is received within 10 calendar days after the mailing of the notice of denial [Gov. Code § 905.2(d)].

[6] Manner of Mailing

If a claim is presented or sent by mail, the claim must be mailed in the manner prescribed by Gov. Code § 915.2. The claim must be deposited in the United States post office or in a mailbox, subpost office, substation, mail chute, or other similar facility regularly maintained by the government of the United States, in a sealed envelope, properly addressed with postage paid. The claim is deemed to have been presented and received at the time of the deposit. Proof of mailing may be made in the manner prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a [Gov. Code § 915.2].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
A. Claims Against Public Entities and Employees

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.161

§ 464.161 Tort Claim Against State [Gov. Code §§ 905.2, 910.2]--General Form

[1] FORM Tort Claim Against State [Gov. Code §§ 905.2, 910.2]--General Form

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by a person to claim compensation for damages or injuries resulting from a tort for which the state is responsible. Although use of the form is not mandatory, the better practice is to use it [Gov. Code § 910.4].

A copy of this form is available on-line at http://www.boc.ca.gov/PubsGC/Forms/GCClaimForm.pdf.

The questions on this form request the information required by Gov. Code § 910, which sets forth the contents of a claim [see § 464.160[3]]. When responding to the questions on the form, as long as the required elements are present, it is not necessary that the claim comply with formal pleading standards. The purpose of the claim is to present sufficient detail to reasonably enable the public entity to make an adequate investigation of the merits of the claim and to settle it without the expense of a lawsuit. Compliance with Gov. Code § 910 should suffice [see Blair v. Superior Court (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 221, 225, 267 Cal. Rptr. 13] .

[3] Filing

Completed claims and related documentation must be filed in triplicate with the Victim Compensation and Government Claims Board, Government Claims Program, P.O. Box 3035, Sacramento, CA 95812-3035. The claim may also be delivered to the board at 630 K Street in Sacramento.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
A. Claims Against Public Entities and Employees

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.162

§ 464.162 Claim Against Public Entity [Gov. Code §§ 905, 905.2, 910, 910.2]--On Behalf of Class

[1] FORM Claim Against Public Entity [Gov. Code §§ 905, 905.2, 910, 910.2]--On Behalf of Class

TO _____ [name of public entity]:

_____ [Name of claimant] on _____ [his or her or its] own behalf and on behalf of others similarly situated hereby makes claim against _____ [name of public entity] [specify sum only if the amount claimed is less than $10,000, e.g., for the sum of $_____] and makes the following statements in support of the claim:

1-3. [Addresses and date and place of allegations. See § 464.160[1], Paragraphs 1-3].

4. The circumstances giving rise to this claim are as follows: _____ [specify, including class claims].

5. Claimant's individual damages are _____ [specify type of damages, e.g., medical expenses] and the class damages are _____ [specify type of damages, e.g., medical expenses].

6. The names of the public employees causing the claimant's injuries are _____ [specify or unknown].

[EITHER, if amount claimed is less than $10,000]

7. Claimant's individual claim as of the date of this claim is $_____; the class claim as of the date of this claim is $_____. These figures are based on the following: _____ [specify, e.g.:

Medical Expenses Incurred to Date:	$_____
Estimated Future Medical Expenses:	$_____

Loss of Wages:	$_____
General Damages:	$_____
TOTAL	$_____].

[OR, if amount claimed is greater than $10,000]

7. Claimant's individual claim and the class claim as of the date of this claim are in amounts that would place them within the jurisdiction of the superior court. These claims are based on _____ [specify, e.g., injury, damage, and/or loss] in an amount to be proved later.

[CONTINUE]

8. The class on whose behalf this claim is made can be identified and ascertained by _____ [specify].
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Claimant, Individually and on Behalf of the Above-Described Class

[2] Use of Form

This form of claim is for use in making a class claim against a public entity. For a description of the requirements for claims generally, see § 464.160.

[3] Allegations

A class claim must provide sufficient information to identify and make ascertainable the class itself [City of San Jose v. Superior Court (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 447, 456-457, 115 Cal. Rptr. 797, 525 P.2d 701] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
A. Claims Against Public Entities and Employees

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.163

§ 464.163 Amendment of Claim [Gov. Code § 910.6]

[1] FORM Amendment of Claim [Gov. Code § 910.6]

TO _____ [name of public entity]:

_____ [Name of claimant] hereby amends his/her claim against _____ [name of public entity] presented to you on _____ [date], as follows: _____ [specify amendments and additions].
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
[Claimant or On Behalf of Claimant]

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use in amending a claim against a public entity. If the changes are substantial, the better practice is to file an entirely new claim entitled "Amended Claim." An amendment is presented in the same manner as the original claim [see Gov. Code § 915], which is described in § 464.160.

[3] Time and Effect of Amendment

A claim may be amended at any time before the later of either the expiration of the period designated in Gov. Code § 911.2 or the time that the board takes final action on the claim, if the claim as amended relates to the same transaction or occurrence that gave rise to the original claim. The amendment is considered a part of the original claim for all purposes [Gov. Code § 910.6(a)].

[4] Effect of Failure or Refusal to Amend

A failure or refusal to amend a claim, whether or not notice of insufficiency is given under Gov. Code § 910.8, does not constitute a defense to any action brought on the cause of action for which the claim was presented, if the court finds that the claim as presented complied substantially with Gov. Code §§ 910 and 910.2 or a form provided by the entity [Gov. Code § 910.6(b)].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
A. Claims Against Public Entities and Employees

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.164

§ 464.164 Application to Public Entity for Leave to Present Late Tort Claim [Gov. Code §§ 911.4, 911.6]

[1] FORM Application to Public Entity for Leave to Present Late Tort Claim [Gov. Code §§ 911.4, 911.6]

In the Matter of the Claim of _____ [name] against _____ [name of public entity]	))))))	APPLICATION FOR LEAVE TO PRESENT LATE CLAIM [Gov. Code § 911.4]

_____

TO _____ [name of public entity]:

1. Application is hereby made for leave to present a late claim under Section 911.4 of the Government Code. The claim is founded on a cause of action for _____ [specify, e.g., wrongful death], which accrued on _____ [date], and for which a claim was not timely presented. For additional circumstances relating to the cause of action, reference is made to the proposed claim attached hereto as Exhibit _____ and made a part hereof.

[EITHER]

2. The reason for the delay in presenting this claim is the _____ [mistake and/or inadvertence and/or surprise and/or excusable neglect] of the claimant [and _____ (name of attorney)], as is more particularly shown in the declaration of _____ [name] attached hereto as Exhibit _____. _____ [Name of public entity] was not prejudiced in the defense of the claim by the failure to file the claim in a timely manner, as shown by the declaration of _____ [name] attached hereto as Exhibit _____ and made a part hereof.

[OR]

2. The reason for the delay in presenting this claim is that the claimant was a minor during all of the period when the claim should have been presented, as shown by the declaration of _____ [name] attached hereto as Exhibit _____ and made a part hereof.

[OR]

2. The reason for the delay in presenting this claim is that the claimant was _____ [physically or mentally or physically and mentally] incapacitated during all of the period when the claim should have been presented and, by reason of this disability, failed to present the claim in a timely manner, as shown by the declaration of _____ [name] attached hereto as Exhibit _____ and made a part hereof.

[OR]

2. The reason for delay in presenting this claim is that the claimant was a dependent child of the juvenile court under the Arnold-Kennick Juvenile Court Law and was in the custody and control of _____ [name of public entity], the public entity to which the claim is to be presented, and this public entity was required by law to make a report of injury, abuse, or neglect to either the juvenile court or the claimant's attorney, but this public entity failed to make the report within the time required, as shown by the declaration of _____ [name], attached hereto as Exhibit _____ and made a part hereof.

[OR]

2. The reason for the delay in presenting this claim is that the person who sustained the injury described in the claim attached hereto died during the period the claim should have been presented, as shown by the declaration of _____ [name] attached hereto as Exhibit _____ and made a part hereof.

[CONTINUE]

3. This application is presented within a reasonable time after the accrual of the cause of action, as shown by the declaration of _____ [name] attached hereto as Exhibit _____ and made a part hereof.

WHEREFORE, it is respectfully requested that this application be granted and that the attached claim be received and acted on in accordance with Sections 912.4-912.8 of the Government Code.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
[Claimant or On Behalf of Claimant]

[2] Use of Form

The application form above is for use by a claimant to apply to a public entity for leave to file a late tort claim. The proposed claim [see §§ 464.160 and 464.161] must be attached to the application [Gov. Code § 911.4(b)], along with supporting declarations. The application should be presented in the same manner as a claim [Gov. Code § 911.4; see Gov. Code § 915], which is described in § 464.160.

The alternatives in Paragraph 2 are based on each of the grounds for granting the application specified in Gov. Code § 911.6(b). For discussion of these grounds, see § 464.25[4].

[3] Time for Presentation of Application

The application must be presented to the public entity within a reasonable time not to exceed one year after the accrual of the cause of action. In computing the one-year period, time during which the person who sustained the alleged injury, damage, or loss was a minor must be counted, but time during which he or she was mentally incapacitated and did not have a guardian or conservator of the person is not counted [Gov. Code § 911.4(c)(1)]. Time during which a minor is adjudged to be a dependent child of the juvenile court under the Arnold-Kennick Juvenile Court Law is also not counted under the appropriate circumstances [see Gov. Code § 911.4(c)(2), (3); see § 464.25[1]].

[4] Action on Application

The board must grant or deny the application within 45 days after it is presented to the board. However, before the expiration of that period, the claimant and the board may, by written agreement, extend that period [Gov. Code § 911.6(a)]. If the board fails or refuses to act on the application within the prescribed period, it is deemed denied on the 45th day or, if the period was extended by agreement, on the last day of the period specified in the agreement [Gov. Code § 911.6(c)]. If an application is granted, the claim will be deemed to have been presented to the board on the day that leave to present the late claim is granted [Gov. Code § 912.2].

An application to file a late claim must be granted if it can be shown that the claimant acted with reasonable diligence in pursuing the claim and reasonably believed that the responsible entity was not a public agency because of its representations [Gov. Code § 7530; see § 464.25[2]].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
A. Claims Against Public Entities and Employees

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.165

§ 464.165 Notice of Hearing and Petition for Relief From Claim Requirement After Late Tort Claim Denied by Board [Gov. Code § 946.6]

[1] FORM Notice of Hearing and Petition for Relief From Claim Requirement After Late Tort Claim Denied by Board [Gov. Code § 946.6]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name], Petitioner,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name], Respondent.	)	NOTICE OF HEARING AND PETITION FOR RE-)	LIEF FROM CLAIM REQUIREMENT
	)	[Gov. Code § 946.6]

_____

TO _____ [name of public entity]:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____ [address], _____ [city], California, petitioner will petition for an order under Section 946.6 of the Government Code relieving petitioner of the requirement of presenting a claim. Petitioner _____ [name] respectfully represents:

1. _____ [Allege identity and capacity of petitioner, e.g., Petitioner _____ (name) is a resident of _____ (city), _____ (county), California.]

2. _____ [Allege identity and capacity of respondent, e.g., Respondent _____ (name) is _____ (specify, e.g., an incorporated city)], and is a public entity within the meaning of Government

Code Section 810 et seq.

3. On _____ [date], petitioner presented to _____ [name of public entity] a written application for leave to present a late tort claim pursuant to Section 911.4 of the Government Code, which included a proposed claim, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit _____ and made a part hereof. The application was [deemed] denied on _____ [date].

4. Petitioner's claim is based on a cause of action that accrued on _____ [date], the details of which are set forth in the application for leave to present a late tort claim attached hereto as part of Exhibit _____. A claim was not timely filed on this cause of action against _____ [name of public entity].

[EITHER]

5. The reason for the delay in presenting the claim was _____ [mistake and/or inadvertence and/or surprise and/or excusable neglect] of the claimant [and _____ (name of attorney)], as is more particularly shown in the declaration of _____ [name] attached hereto as Exhibit _____ and made a part hereof.

[OR]

5. The reason for the delay in presenting the claim was that the claimant was a minor during all of the period when the claim should have been presented, as shown by the declaration of _____ [name] attached hereto as Exhibit _____ and made a part hereof.

[OR]

5. The reason for delay in presenting this claim is that the claimant was a dependent child of the juvenile court under the Arnold-Kennick Juvenile Court Law and was in the custody and control of _____ [name of public entity], the public entity to which the claim is to be presented, and this public entity was required by law to make a report of injury, abuse, or neglect to either the juvenile court or the claimant's attorney, but this public entity failed to make the report within the time required, as shown by the declaration of _____ [name], attached hereto as Exhibit _____ and made a part hereof.

[OR]

5. The reason for the delay in presenting the claim was that the claimant was _____ [physically or mentally or physically and mentally] incapacitated during all of the period when the claim should have been presented and, by reason of that disability, failed to present the claim in a timely manner, as shown by the declaration of _____ [name] attached hereto as Exhibit _____ and made a part hereof.

[OR]

5. The reason for the delay in presenting the claim was that the person who sustained the injury described in the claim attached hereto died during the period the claim should have been presented, as shown by the declaration of _____ [name] attached hereto as Exhibit _____ and made a part hereof.

[CONTINUE]

6. The application for leave to file a late claim was presented within a reasonable time after the accrual of the cause of action, as shown by the declaration of _____ [name] attached hereto as Exhibit _____ and made a part hereof.

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays that the court grant this petition and issue an order relieving petitioner from complying with the provisions of Government Code Section 945.4 and grant such further orders as the court deems proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Petitioner _____ [name]

[2] Use of Form

This form of petition is for use by a claimant in petitioning the court for relief from Gov. Code § 945.4, which requires that a claim be presented to the public entity and rejected before an action may be brought in court against the public entity. Gov. Code § 946.6(a) permits this relief if the board has denied or is deemed to have denied the petitioner's previous application for leave to present a late tort claim under Gov. Code § 911.4. For a form for use in applying to a public entity for leave to present a late claim, see § 464.164.

The court must grant the relief requested if it finds that the application for leave to present a late claim was made within a reasonable time not to exceed one year and was denied or deemed denied, and that one or more of the grounds specified in Gov. Code § 946.6(c)(1)-(4) exist [see Gov. Code § 946.6(c); for discussion of these grounds, see § 464.25[4]].

[3] Contents of Petition

This petition alleges:

- The petitioner's identity and capacity (Paragraph 1).
- The respondent's identity and capacity (Paragraph 2).
- That an application for leave to present a late claim was made to the board and was denied or deemed denied (Paragraph 3) [Gov. Code § 946.6(b)(1)].
- The information required to be included within the claim (Paragraph 4) [Gov. Code § 946.6(b)(3)].
- The reason for the failure to present a timely claim (Alternative Paragraphs 5) [Gov. Code § 946.6(b)(2)].
- That the application for leave to present a late claim was presented within a reasonable time (Paragraph 6) [see Gov. Code § 946.6(c)].

[4] Time to File Petition

This petition must be filed within six months after the application to the board is denied or deemed to be denied [Gov.

Code § 946.6(b)]. This limitation period is, however, subject to the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 352 (tolling limitations periods for actions), and may thus be tolled during the period of the petitioner's minority or insanity as specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 352(a) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 352(a); Los Angeles City Sch. Dist. v. Superior Court (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 459, 463-464, 88 Cal. Rptr. 286 ; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 352.1(a) (tolling statute of limitations for period, not to exceed two years, during which plaintiff is imprisoned or in execution under criminal sentence for term less than life)]. For further discussion, see § 464.25[3][c].

[5] Venue

The proper court for filing the petition is a superior court that would be a proper court for the trial of an action on the cause of action to which the claim relates. If the petition is filed in a court that is not a proper court for the determination of the matter, the court, on motion of any party, must transfer the proceeding to a proper court [Gov. Code § 946.6(a)].

[6] Service of Petition

[a] On Whom Service Must be Made

If the respondent is a local public entity, a copy of the petition and a written notice of the time and place of hearing on the petition must be served before the hearing on the clerk, secretary, or board of that local public entity [Gov. Code § 946.6(d)(1)].

If the respondent is the state, a copy of the petition and a written notice of the time and place of hearing on the petition must be served before the hearing on the Attorney General. If, however, the petition involves a claim arising out of alleged actions or inactions of the Department of Transportation, service must be made on the Attorney General or on the Director of Transportation [Gov. Code § 946.6(d)(2)].

Service on the Attorney General may be accomplished at any of the Attorney General's offices in Los Angeles, Sacramento, San Diego, or San Francisco. Service on the Director of Transportation may be accomplished only at the Department of Transportation's headquarters in Sacramento [Gov. Code § 946.6(d)(2)].

[b] Manner of Service

Service must be made in the manner prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b) [Gov. Code § 946.6(d); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(a)(9)]. Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b) provides generally that all moving and supporting papers must be served and filed at least 16 court days before the time appointed for the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(a)]. If, however, the notice is served by mail, the required 16-day period of notice before the time appointed for the hearing must be increased by five calendar days if the place of mailing and the place of address are within the State of California, by 10 calendar days if the place of mailing is outside the State of California but within the United States, and by 20 calendar days if the place of mailing is outside the United States; the 16-day period is increased by two calendar days if service is by fax, Express Mail, or other overnight delivery method [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(c) (proof of service of movingpapers); see also Ch. 372, Motions and Orders]. An extension of two court days may apply in case of electronic service pursuant to a local rule adopted under Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6 [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6); for discussion, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

Because the petition for relief involves an attempt to obtain preliminary judicial assistance in preparation for later litigation, service of the petition must be effected in the same manner as service of summons in order to give the court jurisdiction to enter an order against the public entity [Thierfeldt v. Marin Hosp. Dist. (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 186, 198-200, 110 Cal. Rptr. 791 (service by mail is insufficient in absence of acknowledgment of service as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 415.30)]. Although any order entered on a petition served in an improper manner may be set aside, when the court enters an order granting relief to the petitioner, if the petitioner can show that the clerk, secretary, or board of the local public entity had actual notice of the hearing on the petition not less than 10 days before the hearing, it may be inequitable to set aside the order unconditionally [see Thierfeldt v. Marin Hosp. Dist. (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 186, 200-201, 110 Cal. Rptr. 791 (public entity was entitled to set aside order, however, because improper notice was given)].

[7] Cross References

For memoranda of points and authorities supporting and opposing a petition for relief from claim filing requirements, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 196, Public Entities

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
A. Claims Against Public Entities and Employees

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.166

§ 464.166 Order Granting Petition for Relief From Claim Requirement [Gov. Code § 946.6]

[1] FORM Order Granting Petition for Relief From Claim Requirement [Gov. Code § 946.6]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF_____

_____ [name],	)
Petitioner,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	ORDER GRANTING RELIEF FROM CLAIM RE-
Respondent.	)	QUIREMENT
	)
	)

The petition of _____ [name] for an order of the court relieving _____ [him or her or it] from the requirements of Section 945.4 of the Government Code that a written claim be presented and be rejected, or be deemed rejected, by the public entity prior to the commencement of an action against a public entity came on regularly for hearing this day. Petitioner appeared by counsel _____ [name]; respondent appeared by counsel _____ [name].

The court finds from proof made to satisfaction of the court and good cause appearing therefor:

IT IS ORDERED that petitioner _____ [name] is relieved from the provisions of Section 945.4 of the Government Code requiring that a written claim be filed as a prerequisite to a suit against a public entity on the cause of action set forth in the petition herein.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Judge of the _____ Court

[2] Use of Form

This form of order is for use if the claimant's petition for relief from the claim filing requirement of Gov. Code § 945.4 is granted [see Gov. Code § 946.6; for form of petition, see § 464.165]. It is presented to the judge for signature after the matter has been heard and ruled on favorably.

[3] Time for Filing Suit

If the court makes an order relieving the petitioner from the claim requirements, suit on the cause of action to which the claim relates must then be filed in that court within 30 days [Gov. Code § 946.6(f)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
A. Claims Against Public Entities and Employees

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 464.167-464.179

[Reserved]

§§ 464.167[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.180

§ 464.180 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries--Against Public Entity and Employee Based on Tortious Act of Employee Within Scope of Employment [Gov. Code § 815.2]--General Form

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries--Against Public Entity and Employee Based on Tortious Act of Employee Within Scope of Employment [Gov. Code § 815.2]--General Form

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____ [names],	)	[Amount demanded _____ (exceeds
Defendants.	)	or does not exceed) $10,000]
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

[EITHER]

1. Defendant City of _____ is, and at all times mentioned herein was, a municipal corporation, duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California and situated in the County of _____.

[OR]

1. Defendant City of _____ is, and at all times mentioned herein was, a chartered city, duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California and situated in the County of _____.

[OR]

1. Defendant County of _____ is, and at all times mentioned herein was, a county duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California.

[OR]

1. Defendant _____ [name] is, and at all times mentioned herein was, a _____ [specify] district, duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California.

[OR]

1. Defendant State of California is, and at all times mentioned herein was, a sovereign state of the United States of America.

[OR]

1. Defendant _____ [name] is, and at all times mentioned herein was, a _____ [specify, e.g., housing] authority of the State of California, duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California.

2. At all times mentioned herein, defendant _____ [name] was an employee of defendant _____ [name of public entity] and in doing the acts hereinafter described, acted within the course and scope of _____ [his or her] employment.

[3. Plaintiff is ignorant of the true names and capacities of defendants sued herein as DOES 1-_____, inclusive, and therefore sues these defendants by such fictitious names. Plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained. (Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of these fictitiously named defendants is negligently responsible in some manner for the occurrences herein alleged, and that plaintiff's injuries as herein alleged were proximately caused by that negligence.)]

[EITHER]

[4. (Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that) at all times herein mentioned each of the defendants sued herein as DOES 1-_____, inclusive, was the agent and employee of each of the remaining defendants and was at all times acting within the purpose and scope of such agency and employment.]

[OR]

[4. At all times herein mentioned, defendants DOES 1-_____, inclusive, were the agents, servants, and employees of their codefendants, and in doing the things hereinafter alleged were acting in the scope of their authority as such agents, servants, and employees, and with the permission and consent of their codefendants.]

5. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff _____ [allege where plaintiff was and what plaintiff was doing at time of injury].

6. At such time and place, defendant _____ [name of public employee] _____ [specify tortious act of public employee, e.g., negligently and carelessly _____ (specify negligent act or omission)]. _____ [If the complaint seeks damages against a publicly elected or appointed state or local officer, in the officer's individual capacity, and the alleged injury is proximately caused by the officer acting under color of law, allege with particularity the material facts sufficient to establish the individual liability of the officer, and the plaintiff's right to recover from the officer].

7. As a proximate result of the _____ [specify, e.g., negligence and carelessness] of defendant _____ [name], _____ [describe how plaintiff was injured from act or omission], causing plaintiff the injuries described hereinafter.

8. As a proximate result of the _____ [specify, e.g., negligence and carelessness] of defendant[s, and each of them], plaintiff was hurt and injured in _____ [his or her] health, strength, and activity, sustaining injury to _____ [his or her] body and shock and injury to _____ [his or her] nervous system and person, all of which injuries have caused, and continue to cause, plaintiff great mental, physical, and nervous pain and suffering. [Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that such injuries will result in some permanent disability to _____ [him or her.] As a result of such injuries, plaintiff has suffered general damages.

[EITHER]

9. As a [further] proximate result of defendant's _____ [specify, e.g., negligence and carelessness] herein alleged, plaintiff has been required to expend money and incur obligations, and will continue to expend money and incur obligations, for medical services, X-rays, drugs, and sundries reasonably required in the treatment and relief of the injuries herein alleged, and plaintiff has been damaged thereby.

[OR]

9. As a further proximate result of the _____ [specify, e.g., negligence and carelessness] of defendant [s, and each of them], plaintiff has incurred, and will continue to incur, medical and related expenses.

[EITHER]

10. As a further proximate result of the _____ [specify, e.g., negligence and carelessness] of defendant[s, and each of them], plaintiff was prevented from attending to _____ [his or her] usual occupation as a _____ [state occupation] for a period _____ [of _____ (specify) or to the date of the filing of this complaint] and thereby lost earnings.

[OR]

10. As a further proximate result of the _____ [specify, e.g., negligence and carelessness] of defendant [s, and each of them], plaintiff's earning capacity has been greatly impaired, both in the past and at present.

11. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff presented to _____ [name of public entity] by _____ [delivering or mailing] a claim to the _____ [clerk or secretary or auditor] for the injuries, disability, losses, and damages suffered and incurred by _____ [him or her] by reason of the above-described occurrence, all in compliance with the requirements of Government Code Section 905. A copy of the claim is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.

12. On or about _____ [date], _____ [name of public entity] _____ [rejected the claim in its entirety or allowed the claim in the amount of $_____ and rejected it as to the remainder or failed to act on the claim within the period of 45 days after its presentation, and the claim was thus deemed rejected, under the provisions of Government Code Section 912.4, at the expiration of the 45-day period, to wit, on _____ (date)].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendants, and each of them, as follows:

1. For general damages according to proof;

2. For medical and related expenses according to proof;

3. For loss of earnings according to proof;

4. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the plaintiff in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is a general form for use in an action against a public entity and employee for personal injuries caused by the act or omission of the employee in the scope of his or her employment.

[3] Allegations

This form includes the following allegations:

- An allegation concerning the status of any defendant that is a public entity (Paragraph 1);
- An allegation concerning any public employees being sued in their individual capacities (Paragraph 2);
- An optional fictitious name allegation (Paragraph 3);
- Alternative agency allegations (Paragraph 4);
- Allegations concerning the plaintiff's injury (Paragraph 5);
- Allegations concerning the defendants' conduct that caused the injury, including an optional allegation setting forth specific facts regarding an individual's liability that is required if the complaint alleges that a publicly elected or appointed state or local officer caused injury while acting under color of law [Gov. Code § 951] (Paragraph 6);
- Allegation of damages suffered by the plaintiff as a result of the defendant's conduct (Paragraphs 7-10); and
- Allegation of the plaintiff's compliance with the applicable claims procedure under the Tort Claims Act [Gov. Code § 810 et seq.] (Paragraph 11).

For complete discussion of the tort liability of public entities and employees under general principles of tort law, see § 464.60 et seq.

[4] Jurisdiction

The superior court has jurisdiction of the action, which will be classified as an unlimited civil case unless the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest, is $25,000 or less, in which case it will be classified as a limited civil case [Cal. Const. art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(1)].

In limited civil cases, the caption must identify the case as a limited civil case and must state whether the demand exceeds or does not exceed $10,000 [Code Civ. Proc. § 422.30(b); Gov. Code § 70613(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(9), (10)].

[5] Venue

In an action against the state for personal injuries, the proper court is a court in the county where the injury occurred [Gov. Code § 955.2]. In an action against a local public entity for personal injuries, the proper court is the county in which the local public entity is situated [Code Civ. Proc. § 394(a)].

[6] Verification

A public entity need not verify its answer even though the complaint is verified [see Code Civ. Proc. § 446]. Verification of a complaint against a public entity does, however, preclude a general denial except in a limited civil case, and will preclude a general denial even in a limited civil case if the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)].

[7] Specification of Damages

In an action to recover damages for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded for this cause of action [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

Otherwise, the amounts claimed as damages for anything other than personal injury or wrongful death (for example, property damage) must be alleged [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)] or an equivalent statement must be included--for example, a statement that the damages for a particular loss or harm sustained [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282] are not known and that leave will be sought to amend the complaint to state the exact amount when ascertained. If this is done, counsel must remember to seek leave to amend the complaint to so state before judgment.

No claim for punitive damages may state an amount sought regardless of the nature of the case or whether it is a limited civil case [Civ. Code § 3295(e)].

For discussion of and forms for requesting and stating the amount of damages sought if they are not stated in the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.11, 425.115], see Ch. 177, Damages , and Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments .

[8] Cross References

For alternative allegations as to agency, capacity, and residence of parties, and fictitious name allegations, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used

For forms of complaints for use in assault and battery actions, see Ch. 58, Assault and Battery

For alternative forms of captions and introductions, see Ch. 108, Captions and Introductions

For forms of complaints for use in conversion actions, see Ch. 150, Conversion

For forms of complaints for use in false imprisonment and false arrest actions, see Ch. 257, False Imprisonment

For forms of complaints for use in actions involving fraud and deceit, see Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit

For forms of complaints for use in actions involving libel and slander, see Ch. 340, Libel and Slander

For forms of complaints for use in actions involving malicious prosecution and abuse of process, see Ch. 357, Malicious Prosecution and Abuse of Process

For forms of complaints for use in actions involving mental suffering and emotional distress, see Ch. 362, Mental Suffering and Emotional Distress

For forms of complaints for use in negligence actions, see Ch. 380, Negligence

For alternative forms of prayers and verifications, see Ch. 420, Prayers , and Ch. 572, Verification , respectively

For forms of complaints for use in actions involving trespasses, see Ch. 550, Trespass

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.181

§ 464.181 Allegation--Negligent Operation of Motor Vehicle for Which Public Entity Is Responsible [Gov. Code § 815.2(a); Veh. Code §§ 17001, 17150]--General Form

[1] FORM Allegation--Negligent Operation of Motor Vehicle for Which Public Entity Is Responsible [Gov. Code § 815.2(a); Veh. Code §§ 17001, 17150]--General Form

On or about _____ [date], at _____ [specify place of accident], the defendant _____ [name of public employee] was operating a _____ [describe motor vehicle] in the course and scope of _____ [his or her] employment as an employee of the defendant _____ [name of public entity]. At the above-described time and place, the defendant _____ [name of public employee] negligently and carelessly operated the vehicle so as to _____ [describe actions of public employee that caused accident, e.g., cause the vehicle to run through a red light and collide with the plaintiff's vehicle].

[2] Use of Form

The allegations above may be used to replace Paragraphs 6 and 7 of the form in § 464.180 if damages were caused by the employee's operation of a motor vehicle.

[3] Cross References

For discussion of and forms for use in actions against public entities based on the negligence of emergency vehicle drivers, see Ch. 246, Emergency Vehicles

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.182

§ 464.182 Allegation--Transportation of Plaintiff as Prisoner in Bus and Negligent Operation of Bus [Gov. Code §§ 815.2(a), 844.6(b); Veh. Code § 17001]

[1] FORM Allegation--Transportation of Plaintiff as Prisoner in Bus and Negligent Operation of Bus [Gov. Code §§ 815.2(a), 844.6(b); Veh. Code § 17001]

On _____ [date], the plaintiff was being held as a prisoner by the defendant _____ [name of public entity] and was, at the direction and under the control of the police of _____ [name of public entity], being transported as a prisoner to the _____ [specify] on a public street of the city in a bus owned by _____ [name of public entity] and driven by the defendant _____ [name], in the course of _____ [his or her] employment with the defendant _____ [name of public entity].

At that time and place, the defendant _____ [name] negligently and carelessly drove and operated said bus, so as to cause it to _____ [allege nature of accident].

[2] Use of Form

The allegation above may be used to replace Paragraphs 6 and 7 of the form in § 464.180 in an action against a public entity and public employee for injuries suffered by a prisoner being transported in a bus.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.183

§ 464.183 Allegation--Plaintiff's Ignorance of Defendant's Status as Public Employee [Gov. Code § 950.4]

[1] FORM Allegation--Plaintiff's Ignorance of Defendant's Status as Public Employee [Gov. Code § 950.4]

From the accrual of the cause of action herein on _____ [date], until _____ [date], the last day for presenting a claim against _____ [name of public entity] on the cause of action, the plaintiff did not know and did not have reason to know that the defendant _____ [name of public employee defendant] caused the injuries to the plaintiff described hereinafter in the scope of _____ [his or her] employment as a public employee.

[2] Use of Form

The allegation above is for use in a complaint against a public entity and public employee if the plaintiff failed to file a timely claim against the public entity and is pleading that he or she is excused from the claim requirement by ignorance of the fact that the injury was caused by a public employee acting in the scope of his or her employment.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.184

§ 464.184 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries Based on Negligence [Civ. Code § 1714]--Against Public Entity and Independent Contractor Based on Negligence of Independent Contractor [Gov. Code § 815.4]

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries Based on Negligence [Civ. Code § 1714]--Against Public Entity and Independent Contractor Based on Negligence of Independent Contractor [Gov. Code § 815.4]

[Caption. See § 464.180[1].]

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity of defendant public entity. See § 464.180[1], Paragraph 1.]

2. The defendant _____ [name of public entity] employed _____ [name of independent contractor] as an independent contractor to _____ [specify purposes for which independent contractor employed].

3-4. [Fictitious name allegations, if appropriate. See § 464.180[1], Paragraphs 3 and 4.]

5. [Allege basis on which public entity is liable for torts of independent contractor, e.g., On or about _____ (date), _____ (name of independent contractor) constructed a public building owned by _____ (name of public entity) at _____ (street address and city), California in such a negligent and careless manner so that it was not in a reasonably safe condition in that the handrail on the stairs therein was improperly attached to the wall].

6. [Allege circumstances under which the plaintiff was injured, e.g., On _____ (date), the plaintiff was descending the above-described staircase and leaning on the handrail when the handrail came loose, which caused the plaintiff to fall down the stairs, causing the injuries described hereinafter.]

7-9. [Damages allegations. See § 464.180[1], Paragraphs 8-10.]

10-11. [Filing and rejection of claim. See § 464.180[1], Paragraphs 11-12.]

[Prayer. See § 464.180[1].]

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 464.180[1].]

[2] Use of Form

The complaint above is for use in an action against a public entity based on the negligence of its independent contractor. It might also be made a cause of action within a complaint based on the dangerous condition of the public building. It can be added to the form of complaint provided in § 464.180.

[3] Cross References

Witkin, Summary of California Law, Vol. 5, Torts, § 244 (10th ed. 2005)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.185

§ 464.185 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] Based on Failure to Discharge Mandatory Duty [Gov. Code § 815.6]

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] Based on Failure to Discharge Mandatory Duty [Gov. Code § 815.6]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)
_____ [name], Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____ [names], Defendants.	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)	[Amount demanded _____ (exceeds
	)	or does not exceed) $10,000]

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity of defendant public entity. See § 464.180[1], Paragraph 1.]

2. At all times mentioned herein, the defendants _____ [name] and _____ [name] were employees of the defendant _____ [name of public entity] and in doing the acts hereinafter described, acted within the course and scope of their employment.

3-4. [Fictitious name allegations, if appropriate. See § 464.180[1], Paragraphs 3 and 4.]

5. [Allege defendants' failure to discharge mandatory statutory duty, e.g., On or about _____ (date), the defendants were informed that _____ (name of bus company) was operating a passenger stage business without maintaining the required insurance. Under Public Utilities Commission's Order, General Order No. 101-C, the defendants had a mandatory duty to revoke _____ (name)'s operating permit but failed to take any steps to revoke the operating permit and allowed _____ (name) to operate without carrying the required insurance.]

6. [Allege how defendants' failure to discharge mandatory duty injured plaintiff, e.g., On _____ (date), the plaintiff was injured in an accident caused by the negligence of _____ (name of bus company). The plaintiff recovered a judgment for $_____ from _____ (name of bus company) but was unable to collect the judgment because _____ (name of bus company) was insolvent. If _____ (name of bus company) had carried the required liability insurance, it would have paid the plaintiff's judgment.]

7-8. [Filing and rejection of claim. See § 464.180[1], Paragraphs 11 and 12.]

[Prayer. See § 464.180[1] .]

[Verification, if desired. See § 464.180[1] .]

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[2] Use of Form

The complaint above is for use in an action to recover damages against a public entity and its employees for their failure to discharge a mandatory duty, which failure injured the plaintiff. For a description and discussion of the general allegations that should be included in a complaint against a public entity, see § 464.180.

As a general rule, a complaint that alleges government liability based on the violation of a mandatory duty imposed by statute or regulation must specifically identify the statute or regulation in the complaint [see Searcy v. Hemet Unified Sch. Dist. (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 792, 802, 223 Cal. Rptr. 206] . However, it is unclear whether a party may allege violation of a regulation imposing a mandatory duty without specifically naming the regulation if the regulations are not available to the general public [compare Green v. City of Livermore (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 82, 90, 172 Cal. Rptr. 461 (upholding cause of action although complaint did not specifically identify regulation); with Searcy v. Hemet Unified Sch. Dist. (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 792, 802, 223 Cal. Rptr. 206 (rejecting cause of action alleging on information and belief that mandatory duty was imposed by regulation, but noting that case did not involve situation like that in Green, in which regulation was not available to public)].

[3] Cross References

Witkin, Summary of California Law, Vol. 5, Torts, §§ 245-248 (10th ed. 2005)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.186

§ 464.186 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Nuisance [Civ. Code § 3479] Against Public Entity

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Nuisance [Civ. Code § 3479] Against Public Entity
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF_____

	)
	)	NO. _____
_____ [name], Plaintiff,	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
vs.	)	(Nuisance)
_____ [name(s)], Defendant(s).	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)	DAMAGES
	)	[Amount demanded _____ (exceeds
	)	or does not exceed) $10,000]

_____

The plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity of defendant public entity. See § 464.180[1], Paragraph 1.]

2-3. [Fictitious name allegations, if appropriate. See § 464.180[1], Paragraphs 3 and 4.]

4. The plaintiff is, and at all times mentioned herein was, the owner and in possession of, the property commonly known as _____ [address], _____ [city], California. The legal description of the property is _____ [specify legal description].

5. The defendant is, and at all times mentioned herein was, the owner, and in possession of, property commonly known as _____ [address], _____ [city], California. The legal description of the property is _____ [specify].

6. The above-described property of the plaintiff and the above-described property of the defendant are adjacent to each other and share a common property line of approximately _____ feet.

7. Since before _____ [date], the defendant has occupied and used the above-described property in such a manner as to constitute a continuing nuisance in that it has _____ [describe nuisance, e.g., constructed and maintained a sewage treatment plant thereon which emits noxious and foul odors that are blown onto the plaintiff's property].

8. This use of the defendant's property constitutes a private nuisance in that _____ [describe effect of nuisance, e.g., the odors are injurious to the health of the plaintiff and _____ (his or her) family and visitors and interfere with the comfortable enjoyment of the property by the plaintiff and _____ (his or her) family and visitors].

9. As a result of the above-described nuisance, the value of the plaintiff's property has been diminished by $_____.

10-11. [Filing and rejection of claim. See § 464.180[1], Paragraphs 11 and 12.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays for judgment against defendant[s, and each of them], as follows:

1. For general damages in the sum of $_____;

2. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 464.180 .]

[2] Use of Form

The complaint above is for use in an action against a public entity based on nuisance. Counsel also may desire to seek injunctive relief. For a description and discussion of the general allegations that should be included in a complaint against a public entity, see § 464.180.

[3] Pleading Alternate Theories of Recovery

If the plaintiff can establish that his or her property is burdened in a direct, peculiar, and substantial way as a result of the nuisance, a cause of action or inverse condemnation may provide an alternative basis of relief [see Varjabedian v. City of Madera (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 285, 298, 299, 142 Cal. Rptr. 429, 572 P.2d 43 ; see also Ch. 247, Eminent Domain].

If applicable, the plaintiff may also proceed on the theories of liability for dangerous conditions of public property [Gov. Code §§ 830-840.6; see §§ 464.80 -464.86], liability for failure to discharge a mandatory duty [Gov. Code § 815.6; see § 464.61[4]], and vicarious liability [Gov. Code § 815.2; see § 464.61[2]]. Facts supporting these various theories of liability must be stated separately from the cause of action for nuisance [see Nestle v. City of Santa Monica (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 920, 939, 101 Cal. Rptr. 568, 496 P.2d 480] . However, if nuisance and negligence are alleged merely as different theories of recovery under the same facts, only one cause of action is stated, even though it is alleged in two counts [Van Zyl v. Spiegelberg (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 367, 372, 82 Cal. Rptr. 689] .

A cause of action for nuisance under Civ. Code § 3479 may be stated against a public entity even though the same facts would also support a cause of action based on dangerous condition liability under Gov. Code § 835 [see Pfleger v. Superior Court (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 421, 431-432, 218 Cal. Rptr. 371 (defendants based their demurrers not on any immunity under Tort Claims Act, but only on proposition that nuisance claim could not be stated on facts that come within dangerous condition liability)]. The courts have rejected the contention, raised by defendants, that to allow a cause of action for nuisance against a public entity, based on a dangerous condition of property, would allow a plaintiff to circumvent Gov. Code § 835, which, the defendants argued, requires a more stringent showing to impose liability for a dangerous condition of property on a public entity than does a nuisance statute such as Civ. Code § 3479 [Pfleger v. Superior Court (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 421, 425, 432, 218 Cal. Rptr. 371] . The court reasoned that if, as case law has established, no government immunity against a cause of action for nuisance can be found or implied in Gov. Code § 815 (providing generally for liability, and immunity from liability, of public entities), the provision of the Tort Claims Act in which it would most likely be placed, then it would be too great an exercise of judicial imagination to find it by implication in Gov. Code § 835. Gov. Code § 835 defines a form of government liability, rather than an immunity, and does not purport to prescribe an exclusive remedy [Pfleger v. Superior Court (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 421, 432, 218 Cal. Rptr. 371 ; see also Nestle v. City of Santa Monica (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 920, 937, 101 Cal. Rptr. 568, 496 P.2d 480] .

[4] Cross References

For discussion, procedural checklist, and forms for use in obtaining injunctive relief, see Ch. 303, Injunctions

For further forms for nuisance actions, see Ch. 391, Nuisance

For memoranda of points and authorities relating to nuisance actions, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 167, Nuisance (Matthew Bender)

For memoranda of points and authorities relating to nuisance actions against public entities, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 196, Public Entities (Matthew Bender)

For discussion of the tort of nuisance as applied to public entities, see N. Levy, M. Golden & L. Sacks, eds., California Torts, Ch. 17 (Matthew Bender)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, Vol. 5, Torts, § 339 (10th ed. 2005)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.187

§ 464.187 Allegation--Plaintiff Relieved From Claim Requirement [Gov. Code § 946.6]

[1] FORM Allegation--Plaintiff Relieved From Claim Requirement [Gov. Code § 946.6]

On _____ [date], this court granted the plaintiff's petition and relieved the plaintiff from the provisions of Section 945.4 of the Government Code requiring that a written claim be filed as a prerequisite to a suit against the defendant on the cause of action alleged herein.

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use in any complaint in this subpart to replace the filing and rejection of claim allegations if the court has relieved the plaintiff from the claim requirements under Gov. Code § 946.6.

[3] Cross References

For a Notice of Hearing, Petition for Relief, and Order Granting Relief from the claims filing requirement, see §§ 464.165 and 464.166

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.188

§ 464.188 General Demurrer--Failure of Plaintiff Suing Public Entity to Allege Filing of Claim [Gov. Code §§ 905, 911.2, 945.4]--And Notice of Hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1103(c), 3.1113(a), 3.1320(c)]

[1] FORM General Demurrer--Failure of Plaintiff Suing Public Entity to Allege Filing of Claim [Gov. Code §§ 905, 911.2, 945.4]--And Notice of Hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1103(c), 3.1113(a), 3.1320(c)]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF_____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	DEMURRER TO COMPLAINT AND NOTICE OF Defendant.	)	HEARING
	)
	)

The defendant demurs to the complaint herein on the following ground:

The complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action in that it discloses on its face that the defendant is a public entity, but does not allege that the plaintiff filed a claim against the defendant as required by Sections 905 and 945.4 of the Government Code. Moreover, the complaint alleges that the cause of action accrued on _____ [date], which is more than _____ [six months or one year] before the filing of the complaint herein and, therefore, the time allowed for filing of the claim has lapsed. Thus, the complaint fails to state a cause of action.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Defendant _____ [name]

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that this demurrer has been set for hearing on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] the above-entitled court, located at _____ [name of building or street address or both], in _____ [city], _____ County, California.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Defendant _____ [name]

[2] Use of Form

This form is for objecting, by general demurrer, to a complaint on the ground that the pleading does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action because the plaintiff is suing a public entity without first having filed a claim with that entity.

[3] Accompanying Papers

A party filing a demurrer must serve and file with the demurrer a notice of hearing and a memorandum of points and authorities in support of each ground asserted [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1103(c), 3.1113(a), 3.1320(c)]. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

[4] Cross References

For a memorandum of points and authorities supporting this demurrer, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 196, Public Entities

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.189

§ 464.189 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Action Against Public Entity Barred by Statute of Limitations [Gov. Code § 945.6]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Action Against Public Entity Barred by Statute of Limitations [Gov. Code § 945.6]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], the defendant alleges that the plaintiff filed a claim for the damages claimed herein with the defendant on _____ [date], which claim was rejected by a notice mailed to the plaintiff on _____ [date]. This action was commenced on _____ [date], and is therefore barred by the six-month statute of limitations set forth in Section 945.6 of the Government Code.

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense is for use in an answer to a complaint against a public entity to raise the defense that the action is barred by the statute of limitations [see Gov. Code § 945.6].

[3] Cross References

For memoranda of points and authorities supporting and opposing a demurrer based on the statute of limitations, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 196, Public Entities

Witkin, California Procedure, Vol. 3, Actions, §§ 628-632 (4th ed. 1996)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.190

§ 464.190 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity Not Liable for Punitive Damages [Gov. Code § 818]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity Not Liable for Punitive Damages [Gov. Code § 818]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], the defendant alleges:

A public entity is not liable for damages awarded under Section 3294 of the Civil Code or other damages imposed primarily for the sake of example and by way of punishing the defendant.

[2] Use of Form

The affirmative defense provided above is for use by a public entity in an answer if the plaintiff has sought punitive damages against a public entity [see Gov. Code § 818].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.191

§ 464.191 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity Not Liable for Adoption of Ordinance [Gov. Code § 818.2]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity Not Liable for Adoption of Ordinance [Gov. Code § 818.2]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], the defendant alleges:

A public entity is not liable for an injury caused by the adoption of an ordinance.

[2] Use of Form

The affirmative defense provided above is for use by a public entity in an answer if the basis of the plaintiff's claim for damages is the adoption of an ordinance by a public entity [see Gov. Code § 818.2].

[3] Cross References

California Government Tort Liability Practice, Ch. 10, §§ 10.50-10.52 (Cal. CEB 4th ed. 1999)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, Vol. 5, Torts, §§ 230, 286 (10th ed. 2005)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.192

§ 464.192 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity Not Liable for Injury Caused by Revocation or Issuance of License [Gov. Code § 818.4]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity Not Liable for Injury Caused by Revocation or Issuance of License [Gov. Code § 818.4]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], the defendant alleges:

The defendant was authorized by law to _____ [revoke or issue] the _____ license, the _____ [issuance or revocation] of which is the basis of the complaint. Therefore, the defendant as a public entity is not liable for an injury caused by its revocation.

[2] Use of Form

The affirmative defense provided above is for use by a public entity in an answer if the basis of the plaintiff's claim is the issuance or revocation of a license [see Gov. Code § 818.4].

[3] Cross References

California Government Tort Liability Practice, Ch. 10, § 10.63 et seq. (Cal. CEB 4th ed. 1999)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, Vol. 5, Torts, §§ 248, 287 (10th ed. 2005)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.193

§ 464.193 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity Not Liable for Injuries Caused by Failure to Inspect Property [Gov. Code § 818.6]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity Not Liable for Injuries Caused by Failure to Inspect Property [Gov. Code § 818.6]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], the defendant alleges:

A public entity is not liable for its failure to inspect property, other than its own property, for the purpose of determining whether the property complies with or violates any enactment or constitutes a hazard to health or safety.

[2] Use of Form

The affirmative defense provided above is for use by a public entity in an answer if the basis of the plaintiff's claim is that the public entity failed to inspect property, other than its own property, to determine whether it complied with the law or was a health hazard [see Gov. Code § 818.6].

[3] Cross References

Witkin, Summary of California Law, Vol. 5, Torts, § 288 (10th ed. 2005)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.194

§ 464.194 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity Not Liable for Misrepresentation by Employee [Gov. Code § 818.8]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity Not Liable for Misrepresentation by Employee [Gov. Code § 818.8]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], the defendant alleges:

A public entity is not liable for an injury caused by misrepresentation by an employee of the public entity, whether negligent or intentional.

[2] Use of Form

The form of affirmative defense provided above is for use in an answer if the basis of the plaintiff's claim is a misrepresentation by a public employee [see Gov. Code § 818.8].

[3] Cross References

California Government Tort Liability (Cal. CEB 4th ed. 1999), Ch. 5

Witkin, Summary of California Law, Vol. 5, Torts, §§ 348, 354, 355, 358 (10th ed. 2005)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.195

§ 464.195 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity Not Liable if Public Employee Is Immune [Gov. Code § 815.2(b)]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity Not Liable if Public Employee Is Immune [Gov. Code § 815.2(b)]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], the defendant alleges:

_____ [Name of public employee] is immune from liability for _____ [his or her] actions alleged in the complaint herein. A public entity is not liable for the act or injury of an employee if the employee is immune from liability.

[2] Use of Form

The affirmative defense provided above is for use by a public entity in an answer if the public employee alleged to have caused the injury or damages is immune from liability [see Gov. Code § 815.2(b)].

[3] Cross References

California Government Tort Liability Practice, Ch. 10, § 10.38 et seq. (Cal. CEB 4th ed. 1999)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.196

§ 464.196 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Employee Not Liable for Discretionary Acts [Gov. Code § 820.2]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Employee Not Liable for Discretionary Acts [Gov. Code § 820.2]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], the defendant alleges:

At all times mentioned in the complaint, the defendant _____ [name] was a public employee of _____ [name of public entity] and, if _____ [he or she] performed any of the acts or omissions alleged as the basis of the complaint, the acts or omissions were the result of the exercise of the discretion vested in _____ [him or her]. The defendant _____ [name] is therefore immune from liability.

[2] Use of Form

The affirmative defense provided above is for use by a public employee in an answer if the complaint is based on acts that resulted from the defendant's exercise of the discretion vested in him or her as a public employee [see Gov. Code § 820.2].

[3] Cross References

California Government Tort Liability Practice, Ch. 10, § 10.6 et seq. (Cal. CEB 1999)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, Vol. 5, Torts, §§ 351-358, 368 (10th ed. 2005)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.197

§ 464.197 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Employee Not Liable for Acts or Omissions of Others [Gov. Code § 820.8]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Employee Not Liable for Acts or Omissions of Others [Gov. Code § 820.8]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], the defendant alleges:

At all times mentioned in the complaint, the defendant _____ [name] was a public employee of _____ [name of public entity] and, as such, is not liable for any of the acts or omissions alleged in the complaint because the complaint only alleges that the defendant _____ [name] is liable based on the acts or omissions of others.

[2] Use of Form

The affirmative defense provided above is for use by a public employee in an answer if the complaint is based on acts performed by others and only alleges that the defendant is vicariously liable [see Gov. Code § 820.8].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.198

§ 464.198 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Employee Not Liable for Malicious Prosecution [Gov. Code § 821.6]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Employee Not Liable for Malicious Prosecution [Gov. Code § 821.6]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], the defendant alleges:

At all times mentioned in the complaint, the defendant _____ [name] was a public employee of _____ [name of public entity] and, if _____ [he or she] performed any of the acts alleged as the basis of the complaint, _____ [he or she] acted only in instituting or prosecuting a judicial proceeding within the scope of _____ [his or her] employment. The defendant _____ [name] is therefore immune from liability for the alleged acts.

[2] Use of Form

The affirmative defense provided above is for use by a public employee in an answer if the complaint is based on the institution or prosecution of a judicial or administrative proceeding [Gov. Code § 821.6].

[3] Cross References

California Government Tort Liability Practice, Ch. 10, § 10.43 et seq. (Cal. CEB 4th ed. 1999)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.199

§ 464.199 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Mayor or Member of Locally Elected or Appointed Governing Body, Board, Commission, or Advisory Body Not Vicariously Liable for Injuries Caused by Acts or Omissions of Public Entity [Gov. Code § 820.9]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Mayor or Member of Locally Elected or Appointed Governing Body, Board, Commission, or Advisory Body Not Vicariously Liable for Injuries Caused by Acts or Omissions of Public Entity [Gov. Code § 820.9]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], the defendant alleges:

At all times mentioned in the complaint the defendant _____ [name] was a _____ [specify protected status under Gov. Code § 820.9, e.g., member of the board of supervisors] of _____ [name of public entity] and, as such, is not liable for any of the injuries caused by the acts or omissions alleged in the complaint, because the complaint only alleges that the defendant _____ [name] is vicariously liable based on the acts or omissions of _____ [name of public entity].

[2] Use of Form

The affirmative defense provided above is for use by a mayor, a member of a city council, board of supervisors, school board, or governing board of another local public entity, a member of a locally appointed board or commission, or a member of a locally appointed or elected advisory body in an answer to a complaint that seeks to impose vicarious liability against that person for injuries caused by the acts or omissions of the local public entity [see Gov. Code § 820.9].

[3] Cross References

For discussion of immunities and defenses of public entities, see Levy, Golden, and Sacks, California Torts, Ch. 60 (Matthew Bender)

California Government Tort Liability Practice, Ch. 10, § 10.36 et seq. (Cal. CEB 4th ed. 1999)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
1. General Principles of Liability and Immunity

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 464.200-464.209

[Reserved]

§§ 464.200[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
2. Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.210

§ 464.210 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries--Against Public Entity and Public Employee Based on Dangerous Condition Caused by Negligence of Employee [Gov. Code §§ 835(a), 840.2]

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries--Against Public Entity and Public Employee Based on Dangerous Condition Caused by Negligence of Employee [Gov. Code §§ 835(a), 840.2]
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)
_____ [name], Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____ [names], Defendants.	)	(Dangerous Condition)
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)	[Amount demanded _____ (exceeds
	)	or does not exceed) $10,000]

_____

The plaintiff alleges:

[EITHER]

1. The defendant City of _____ is, and at all times mentioned herein was, a municipal corporation, duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California and situated in the County of _____.

[OR]

1. The defendant City of _____ is, and at all times mentioned herein was, a chartered city, duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California and situated in the County of _____.

[OR]

1. The defendant County of _____ is, and at all times mentioned herein was, a county duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California.

[OR]

1. The defendant _____ [name] is, and at all times mentioned herein was, a _____ [specify] district, duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California.

[OR]

1. The defendant State of California is, and at all times mentioned herein was, a sovereign state of the United States of America.

[OR]

1. The defendant _____ [name] is, and at all times mentioned herein was, a _____ [specify, e.g., housing] authority of the State of California, duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California.

[CONTINUE]

2. At all times mentioned herein, the defendant _____ [name] was an employee of the defendant _____ [name of public entity] and in doing the acts hereinafter described, acted within the course and scope of _____ [his or her] employment.

3. [The plaintiff is ignorant of the true names and capacities of defendants sued herein as DOES 1-_____ inclusive, and therefore sues these defendants by such fictitious names. The plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained. (The plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of said fictitiously named defendants is responsible in some manner for the occurrences herein alleged, and that the plaintiff's injuries as herein alleged were proximately caused by their acts.)]

[EITHER]

4. [The plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that at all times mentioned herein each of the defendants sued herein as DOES 1-_____ inclusive, was the agent and employee of each of the remaining defendants and was at all times acting within the purpose and scope of such agency and employment.]

[OR]

[4. At all times herein mentioned the defendants DOES 1-_____ inclusive, were the agents, servants, and employees of their codefendants, and in doing the things hereinafter alleged were acting in the scope of their authority as such agents, servants, and employees, and with the permission and consent of their codefendants.]

[CONTINUE]

5. On or about _____ [date], the defendant _____ [name of public employee], within the scope of _____ [his or her] employment with the defendant _____ [name of public entity], negligently and carelessly _____ [specify, e.g., spilled water on the floor of the property of _____ (name of public entity) at _____ (address), _____ (city), and failed to clean it up or post a warning], which negligence caused a dangerous condition that created a substantial risk of the type of injury hereinafter alleged when the property was used with due care in a manner in which it was reasonably foreseeable that it would be used.

6. On or about _____ [date], the plaintiff was lawfully on the above-described premises, and as a proximate result of the dangerous condition _____[describe accident, e.g., slipped and fell on the wet floor] causing the plaintiff the injuries hereinafter alleged.

7. As a proximate result of the dangerous condition on the defendant's property, the plaintiff was hurt and injured in _____ [his or her] health, strength, and activity, sustaining injury to _____ [his or her] body and shock and injury to _____ [his or her] nervous system and person, all of which injuries have caused, and continue to cause, the plaintiff great mental, physical, and nervous pain and suffering. [The plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that such injuries will result in some permanent disability to _____ [him or her].] As a result of such injuries, the plaintiff has suffered general damages.

[EITHER]

8. As a [further] proximate result of the dangerous condition on the defendant's property herein alleged, the plaintiff has been required to expend money and incur obligations, and will continue to expend money and incur obligations, for medical services, X-rays, drugs, and sundries reasonably required in the treatment and relief of the injuries herein alleged, and the plaintiff has been damaged thereby.

[OR]

8. As a further proximate result of the dangerous condition on the defendant's property, the plaintiff has incurred, and will continue to incur, medical and related expenses.

[EITHER]

9. As a further proximate result of the dangerous condition on the defendant's property, the plaintiff was prevented from attending to _____ [his or her] usual occupation as a _____ [state occupation] for a period _____ [of _____ (specify) or to the date of the filing of this complaint] and thereby lost earnings.

[OR]

9. As a further proximate result of the dangerous condition on the defendant's property, the plaintiff's earning capacity has been greatly impaired, both in the past and at present.

[CONTINUE]

10. On or about _____ [date], the plaintiff presented to_____ [name of public entity] by _____ [delivering or mailing] a claim to the _____ [clerk or secretary or auditor] for the injuries, disability, losses, and damages suffered and incurred by _____ [him or her] by reason of the above-described occurrence, all in compliance with the requirements of Section 905 of the Government Code. A copy of the claim is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.

11. On or about _____ [date], _____ [name of public entity] _____ [rejected the claim in its entirety or allowed the claim in the amount of $_____ and rejected it as to the remainder or failed to act on the claim within the period of 45 days after its presentation, and the claim was thus deemed rejected, under the provisions of Section 912.4 of the Government Code, at the expiration of the 45-day period, to wit, on _____ (date)].

WHEREFORE, the plaintiff prays judgment [against defendants, and each of them,] as follows:

1. For general damages according to proof;

2. For medical and related expenses according to proof;

3. For loss of earnings according to proof;

4. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

VERIFICATION [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 446, 2015.5]

I, _____ [name], am the plaintiff in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

The form of complaint above is for use in bringing an action against a public entity and a public employee for injuries resulting from a dangerous condition caused by the negligence of the employee.

[3] Venue

In an action for personal injuries against the state, the proper court is a court in the county where the injury occurred [Gov. Code § 955.2]. In an action against a local public entity for personal injuries, the proper court is the county in which the local public entity is situated [Code Civ. Proc. § 394].

[4] Jurisdiction

The superior court has jurisdiction of the action, which will be classified as an unlimited civil case unless the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest, is $25,000 or less, in which case it will be classified as a limited civil case [Cal. Const. art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(1)].

In limited civil cases, the caption must identify the case as a limited civil case and must state whether the demand exceeds or does not exceed $10,000 [Code Civ. Proc. § 422.30(b); Gov. Code § 70613(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(9), (10)].

[5] Verification

A public entity need not verify its answer even though the complaint is verified [see Code Civ. Proc. § 446]. Verification of a complaint against a public entity does, however, preclude a general denial except in a limited civil case, and will preclude a general denial even in a limited civil case if the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)].

[6] Specification of Damages

In an action to recover damages for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded for this cause of action [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

Otherwise, the amounts claimed as damages for anything other than personal injury or wrongful death (for example, property damage) must be alleged [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)] or an equivalent statement must be included--for example, a statement that the damages for a particular loss or harm sustained [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282] are not known and that leave will be sought to amend the complaint to state the exact amount when ascertained. If this is done, counsel must remember to seek leave to amend the complaint to so state before judgment.

No claim for punitive damages may state an amount sought regardless of the nature of the case or whether it is a limited civil case [Civ. Code § 3295(e)].

For discussion of and forms for requesting and stating the amount of damages sought if they are not stated in the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.11, 425.115], see Ch. 177, Damages , and Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments .

[7] Cross References

For alternative allegations as to agency, capacity, and residence of parties, and fictitious name allegations, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used

For alternative forms of captions and introductions, see Ch. 108, Captions and Introductions

For alternative forms of prayers and verifications, see Ch. 420, Prayers , and Ch. 572, Verification

For complaints for use in premises liability actions generally, see Ch. 421, Premises Liability

California Government Tort Liability Practice, Ch. 6 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th ed. 1999)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, Vol. 5, Torts, §§ 250-271 (10th ed. 2005)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
2. Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.211

§ 464.211 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Wrongful Death [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.60, 377.61]--Against Public Entity and Public Employee Based on Dangerous Condition of Which Entity and Employee Had Notice [Gov. Code §§ 835(b), 840.2]

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Wrongful Death [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.60, 377.61]--Against Public Entity and Public Employee Based on Dangerous Condition of Which Entity and Employee Had Notice [Gov. Code §§ 835(b), 840.2]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name(s)], Plaintiff(s),	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____ [names], Defendant.	)	(Wrongful Death)
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)	[Amount demanded _____ (exceeds
	)	or does not exceed) $10,000]

_____

The plaintiff(s) alleges/allege:

1. The plaintiff(s) is/are the [personal representative of the estate of _____ (name of decedent), deceased, and bring(s) this action on behalf of] _____ [describe status entitling plaintiff(s) to bring wrongful death cause of action under Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60, e.g., surviving spouse and children] of _____ [name of decedent], deceased (hereinafter referred to as "decedent"). _____ [His or Her or Their] relationship(s) to decedent is/are as follows:

Name	Relationship

_____ _____
_____ _____
_____ _____

2. [Capacity of defendant public entity. See § 464.210[1], Paragraph 1.]

3-4. [Fictitious name allegations, if appropriate. See § 464.210[1], Paragraphs 3 and 4.]

5. The defendant _____ [name of public employee] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a public employee of _____ [name of public entity].

6. On _____ [date], and prior thereto, the defendant _____ [name of public entity] owned, maintained, and controlled _____ [describe public property on which dangerous condition occurred, e.g., _____ (name of street) and _____ (name of street) at their intersection in the City of _____].

7. On _____ [date], and prior thereto, the above-described public property was in a dangerous condition that created a substantial risk of the type of injury hereinafter alleged when the property was used with due care in a manner that it was reasonably foreseeable that it would be used in that _____ [specify, e.g., shrubbery and vegetation on the property of the defendant _____ (name of public entity) obscured the stop signs at the above-described intersection and the view of drivers of the intersecting street so that drivers coming from all directions could reasonably believe that they had the right of way and could not see automobiles coming from different directions].

8. The defendants had actual knowledge of the existence of the condition and knew or should have known of its dangerous character a sufficient time prior to _____ [date], to have taken measures to protect against the dangerous condition. _____ [Name of public employee] had the authority and it was _____ [his or her] responsibility to take adequate measures to protect against the dangerous condition at the expense of the public entity and the funds or other means were immediately available to _____ [him or her].

9. On _____ [date], the decedent _____ [describe how decedent was killed as a result of the dangerous condition, e.g., was driving on _____ (name of street) approaching its intersection with _____ (name of street). As a proximate result of the dangerous condition of the intersection, when the decedent entered the intersection, the decedent was struck by an automobile driven by _____ (name), who could not see the decedent because of the shrubbery and vegetation and did not stop because the stop sign was similarly obscured], causing the death of the decedent. [10. Prior to the death of the decedent, the plaintiffs lived with _____ [him or her] and were totally dependent on _____ [him or her] for their support and maintenance, and the decedent was a faithful and dutiful _____ (specify, e.g., husband and father or wife and mother) to the plaintiffs.]

11. As a proximate result of the dangerous condition on the defendant's property, and the death of the decedent, the plaintiff(s) has/have sustained pecuniary loss resulting from the loss of the society, comfort, attention, services, and support of the decedent.

12. As a further proximate result of the dangerous condition of the defendant's property, and the death of the decedent, the plaintiff(s) has/have incurred funeral and burial expenses.

[13. Filing and rejection of claim. See § 464.210[1], Paragraphs 10 and 11.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff(s) prays/pray judgment against the defendants, and each of them, as follows:

1. For general damages according to proof;

2. For funeral and burial expenses according to proof;

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 464.210[1] .]

[2] Use of Form

The complaint above is for use in an action by the heirs of a decedent who was killed as a result of a dangerous condition of public property of which the public entity and its employee had actual notice. For a form of complaint for personal injuries that do not result in death, see § 464.210.

[3] Guardian ad Litem

If an heir of the deceased is a minor, a guardian ad litem must be appointed for the purposes of the action, unless the minor already has a guardian. See generally Ch. 280, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Appointment of Guardians , through Ch. 290H, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Termination of Guardianships and Conservatorships , and Ch. 291, Guardians ad Litem .

[4] Wrongful Death Actions

An action for wrongful death may also be brought by the personal representative, rather than the heirs [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.60, 377.61]. Further, if the decedent incurred medical expenses before his or her death, these expenses are not recoverable in a wrongful death action [Follansbee v. Benzenberg (1954) 122 Cal. App. 2d 466, 473-474, 265 P.2d 183] . Those expenses should instead be sought by the personal representative in a survival action under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.30-377.35. Counsel may wish to combine the survival action with the wrongful death action because both arise out of the same occurrence [see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.62 (joinder of plaintiffs)].

For a general form of complaint for a wrongful death action and allegations setting forth the plaintiffs' entitlement to bring a wrongful death action, see Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions .

[5] Cross References

For forms for use in wrongful death actions generally, see Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions

For forms for use in appointing a guardian or guardian ad litem, see Ch. 291, Guardians ad Litem

California Government Tort Liability, Ch. 6 (Cal. C.E.B. 1999)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, Vol. 5, Torts, § 271 (10th ed. 2005)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
2. Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.212

§ 464.212 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] to Property--Against Public Entity Based on Dangerous Condition Caused by Negligence of Public Employee [Gov. Code § 835(a)]

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] to Property--Against Public Entity Based on Dangerous Condition Caused by Negligence of Public Employee [Gov. Code § 835(a)]
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)
	)	NO. _____
_____ [name], Plaintiff,	)	COMPLAIN FOR DAMAGES
vs.	)	(Dangerous Condition)
_____ [name], Defendant.	)	[Gov. Code § 835(a)]
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)	[Amount demanded _____ (exceeds
	)	or does not exceed) $10,000]

_____

The plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity of defendant public entity. See § 464.210[1], Paragraph 1.]

2. [Fictitious name allegations, if appropriate. See § 464.210[1], Paragraphs 3 and 4.]

3. Since _____ [date], the plaintiff has been the _____ [owner or tenant or lessee] of real property situated in the County of _____, California, and described as follows: _____ [set forth legal description]. Since _____ [date], the plaintiff has occupied _____ [specify, e.g., a dwelling] on such property.

4. On or about _____ [date], _____ [name of public employee(s)], acting within the course and scope of _____ [his or her or their] employment with the defendant _____ [name of public entity], negligently and carelessly _____ [specify act or omission causing dangerous condition, e.g., filled the natural channel of _____ Creek along the _____ (specify, e.g., southern) boundary of the plaintiff's property, constructed in its place a concrete storm sewer that diverted the normal drainage of floodwaters from the natural channel of _____ Creek onto the plaintiff's property, and failed to properly maintain the storm sewer]. This negligence caused a dangerous condition that created a substantial risk of the type of injury hereinafter alleged when adjacent property was used with due care in a manner in which it was reasonably foreseeable that it would be used.

5. On or about _____ [date], as a proximate result of the dangerous condition described above, _____ [describe how damage occurred as a result of the dangerous condition, e.g., floodwaters that normally would not have reached the plaintiff's premises were diverted on to the plaintiff's property, flooding it to a depth of _____ feet for a period of _____ hours].

6. As a proximate result of the dangerous condition _____ [specify, e.g., of the storm sewer], the plaintiff's property, _____ [specify, e.g., dwelling], and articles therein were damaged in that _____ [specify damage sustained, e.g., the floodwater warped floors and doors, ruined carpeting, drapes, and furniture, and ruined certain personal property in the plaintiff's dwelling]. As a result of such injuries to the plaintiff's property, the plaintiff has suffered damages in the sum of $_____.

7. [Filing and rejection of claim. See § 464.210[1], Paragraphs 10 and 11.]

WHEREFORE, the plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For damages in the sum of $_____.

2. For costs of suit herein incurred.

3. For such other further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 464.210[1] .]

[2] Use of Form

The complaint above is for use in an action against a public entity to recover damages for injury to property that occurred as a result of a dangerous condition of public property caused by the negligence of a public employee. For a form of complaint for personal injuries, see § 464.210.

[3] Inverse Condemnation

If the construction or maintenance of a public project is designed to serve the interests of the community as a whole, any property damage caused by the project or by its operations as deliberately conceived is for a public use and is constitutionally compensable [see Cal. Const. art. I, § 14]. The constitutional remedy often overlaps normal tort remedies and provides an alternative basis of relief. However, government tort liability and liability in inverse condemnation may be distinguished in that the latter does not involve ordinary acts of carelessness in the carrying out of the public entity's program. Therefore, damage resulting from negligence in the routine operation having no relation to the function of the project as conceived is not within the purview of Cal. Const. art. I, § 14 [Sheffet v. County of Los Angeles (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 720, 733-734, 84 Cal. Rptr. 11] .

The alternate remedy of inverse condemnation should be considered particularly in cases in which design immunity [Gov. Code § 830.6] may preclude government tort liability, because design immunity does not apply to liability in inverse condemnation [see Baldwin v. State of California (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 424, 438, 99 Cal. Rptr. 145, 491 P.2d 1121] .

For further discussion and forms for use in inverse condemnation actions, see Ch. 247, Eminent Domain .

[4] Venue

An action against the state for injury to personal property is properly brought in a court in the county in which the injury occurred [Gov. Code § 955.2]. In an action against a local public entity, the proper court is in the county in which the entity is situated [Code Civ. Proc. § 394].

[5] Cross References

For alternate allegations of damages, see Ch. 177, Damages

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
2. Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.213

§ 464.213 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] to Property--Against Public Entity Based on Dangerous Condition of Which Entity Had Notice [Gov. Code § 835(b)]

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] to Property--Against Public Entity Based on Dangerous Condition of Which Entity Had Notice [Gov. Code § 835(b)]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF_____

	)
_____ [name], Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____ [name], Defendant.	)	(Dangerous Condition)
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)	[Amount demanded _____ (exceeds
	)	or does not exceed) $10,000]

_____

The plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity of defendant public entity. See § 464.210[1], Paragraph 1.]

2. [Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 464.210[1], Paragraph 3.]

3. On _____ [date], and at all times mentioned herein, the plaintiff _____ [owned or rented or leased] and occupied the premises commonly known as _____ [specify address and describe premises, if relevant, e.g., consisting of a storeroom on the main floor and a basement used as a warehouse for merchandise used in conducting plaintiff's clothing business].

4. On _____ [date], and prior thereto, the defendant owned, maintained, and controlled _____ [describe public property on which dangerous condition occurred, e.g., the sewage system, consisting of a network of various sewer pipes and outlets, below the surface of _____ Street in front of the plaintiff's premises].

5. On _____ [date], and prior thereto, the above-described _____ [specify, e.g., sewage system in front of the plaintiff's premises] was in a dangerous condition that created a substantial risk of the type of injury hereinafter alleged when adjacent property was used with due care in a manner that it was reasonably foreseeable that it would be used in that _____ [specify dangerous condition, e.g., the sewage system had not been maintained for _____ years and the sewer pipes therein were defective, cracked, and broken, allowing water to seep from the pipes to the adjacent property].

6. The defendant had actual knowledge of the existence of the condition and knew or should have known of its dangerous character a sufficient time prior to _____ [date] to have taken measures to protect against the dangerous condition.

7. On _____ [date], _____ [describe how damage occurred as a result of the dangerous condition, e.g., water from the sewer system in front of the plaintiff's premises flooded the area in front of the plaintiff's premises and below the surface of the street, causing the plaintiff the injuries hereinafter alleged].

8. As a proximate result of the dangerous condition _____ [specify, e.g., of the sewer system], the plaintiff's premises and articles therein were damaged in that _____ [specify damage sustained, e.g., the merchandise stored in the basement was ruined]. As a result of such injuries to the plaintiff's property, the plaintiff has suffered damages in the sum of $_____.

9. [Filing and rejection of claim. See § 464.210[1], Paragraphs 10 and 11.]

[Prayer. See § 464.212[1] .]

[Verification, if desired. See § 464.210[1] .]

[2] Use of Form

The complaint above is for use in an action by the owner, tenant, or lessee of premises damaged as a result of a dangerous condition of public property of which the public entity had actual notice.

[3] Cross References

For a form of complaint against a public entity for damage to property based on a dangerous condition created by the negligence of a public employee, see § 464.212

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
2. Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.214

§ 464.214 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injury--Against Public Entity Based on Dangerous Condition Caused by Failure to Protect and/or Warn Plaintiff Against Third-Party Criminal Conduct [Gov. Code § 835]--By Plaintiff in Special Relationship With Public Entity

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injury--Against Public Entity Based on Dangerous Condition Caused by Failure to Protect and/or Warn Plaintiff Against Third-Party Criminal Conduct [Gov. Code § 835]--By Plaintiff in Special Relationship With Public Entity

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)
	)	NO. _____
_____ [name], Plaintiff,	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
vs.	)	(Dangerous Condition)
_____ [name], [and DOES 1	)	[Gov. Code § 835]
through _____], Defendants.	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)	[Amount demanded _____ (exceeds
	)	or does not exceed) $10,000]

_____

The plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity of defendant public entity. See § 464.210[1], Paragraph 1.]

2. [Capacity of defendant public employee(s). See § 464.210[1], Paragraph 2.]

3. [Fictitious name allegations, if appropriate. See § 464.210[1], Paragraphs 3 and 4.]

4. The plaintiff _____ [name] is _____ [specify the plaintiff's special relationship to the defendant, e.g., a student at the defendant _____ (name of institution)].

5. On or about _____ [date], the defendants _____ [name of public entity, employees, and agents] owned, maintained, and controlled _____ [describe public property on which dangerous condition occurred, e.g., the campus of the _____ (name of institution)].

6. On or about _____ [date], the plaintiff _____ [describe how the plaintiff was injured as a result of the dangerous condition while using the property in a reasonably foreseeable manner, e.g., parked her car in the school parking lot and was ascending the stairway in the parking lot on her way to class, when an unidentified male jumped from behind unreasonably thick and untrimmed foliage and trees adjoining the stairway, and attempted to rape her].

7. _____ [Allege facts showing special relationship between the plaintiff and the defendant giving rise to a duty owed to the plaintiff, e.g., Having invited the plaintiff onto the campus property, having enrolled her as a student, having issued her a permit to park and use the parking lot and stairway in question in exchange for payment of a fee, having undertaken to patrol the parking lot and stairway in question in light of prior incidents of violence in the area, and having induced the plaintiff to rely and depend on this protection], the defendants had a special relationship with the plaintiff pursuant to which the defendants were obliged to take reasonable protective measures to ensure the plaintiff's safety against violent attacks and otherwise protect the plaintiff from foreseeable criminal conduct and/or to warn the plaintiff as to the location of prior _____ [specify crime, e.g., violent assaults] in the vicinity of the _____ [specify location of dangerous condition, e.g., subject parking lot and stairway].

8. On or about _____ [date], the defendants breached their duty of care to the plaintiff by carelessly, negligently, and improperly owning, operating, managing, maintaining, supervising, controlling, [lighting,] and securing the property so as to maintain a dangerous condition thereon, creating a reasonably foreseeable risk of the type of injury hereinabove alleged when the plaintiff used the property with due care, as hereinabove alleged, in a manner in which it was reasonably foreseeable that it would be used, in that _____ [specify dangerous condition, e.g., the stairway in the parking lot was surrounded by unreasonably thick and untrimmed foliage and trees, permitting the assailant to hide therein and jump from that hiding place to assault the plaintiff].

9. The defendants further breached their duty of care owed to the plaintiff in that the defendants had actual knowledge of the existence of the condition and knew or should have known of its dangerous character a sufficient time prior to _____ [date of assault] to have taken measures to protect against the dangerous condition in that _____ [allege facts showing knowledge of dangerous condition, e.g., the defendants knew of the occurrence of previous, similar attacks on the same stairway, the assailant used a modus operandi similar to that used in previous attacks on the same stairway, and the defendants knew of and permitted the existence of unreasonably thick and untrimmed foliage and trees around the parking lot and stairway and failed to take reasonably protective measures, such as trimming the foliage].

10. [Allegation of general damages (e.g., mental, physical, and emotional injuries) proximately caused by dangerous condition of the defendants' property. See § 464.210[1], Paragraph 7.]

11. [Allegation of special damages (e.g., medical expenses) proximately caused by dangerous condition of the defendants' property. See § 464.210[1], Paragraph 8.]

12. [Allegation of special damages (e.g., economic loss) proximately caused by dangerous condition of the defendants' property. See § 464.210[1], Paragraph 9.]

13. [Filing of claim by the plaintiff. See § 464.210[1], Paragraph 10.]

14. [Rejection of claim by the public entity. See § 464.210[1], Paragraph 11.]

WHEREFORE, the plaintiff prays judgment [against the defendants, and each of them,] as follows:

1. For general damages according to proof;

2. For medical and related expenses according to proof;

3. For loss of earnings according to proof;

4. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 464.210[1] .]

[2] Use of Form

The complaint above is for use in an action by a plaintiff against a public entity, its agents, and its employees for personal injury caused by a criminal assault occurring on the public entity's property if the plaintiff is in a special relationship with the public entity and if the entity has allowed a dangerous condition to exist that increases the risk of criminal activity on the property [Gov. Code § 835].

This form is adapted from the facts in Peterson v. San Francisco Community College District [Peterson v. San Francisco Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 799, 205 Cal. Rptr. 842, 685 P.2d 1193] .

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges the plaintiff's special relationship with the defendants (Paragraphs 4 and 7), the defendants' maintenance of public property in a dangerous condition (Paragraph 5), the foreseeability of the plaintiff's use of the property and the nature and foreseeability of the plaintiff's injury (Paragraph 6), the defendants' duty toward the plaintiff (Paragraph 7), the defendants' breach of duty (Paragraphs 8 and 9), proximate causation and damages (Paragraphs 10-12) [see Peterson v. San Francisco Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 799, 815, 205 Cal. Rptr. 842, 685 P.2d 1193] , and the plaintiff's filing and rejection of a claim against the defendants (Paragraphs 13 and 14) [Gov. Code §§ 835, 905, 905.2].

[4] Special Relationship

As a general rule, one has no duty to control the conduct of another or warn those who may be endangered by that conduct [Peterson v. SanFrancisco Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 799, 806, 205 Cal. Rptr. 842, 685 P.2d 1193] . However, such a duty may arise if a special relationship exists between an actor and another that gives the other a right to protection [Peterson v. San Francisco Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 799, 806, 205 Cal. Rptr. 842, 685 P.2d 1193] . Among commonly recognized special relationships are those between a common carrier and its passengers, an innkeeper and its guests, and a possessor of land and members of the public who enter in response to the owner's invitation [Peterson v. San Francisco Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 799, 806, 205 Cal. Rptr. 842, 685 P.2d 1193] .

[5] Foreseeable Use of Property by Plaintiff

To sustain a cause of action for injuries caused by a dangerous condition of property of a public entity, a the plaintiff must have been using the property in a manner in which it is reasonably foreseeable that it would have been used by that the plaintiff [Branch v. State of California ex rel. Dep't of Transp. (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 340, 344, 205 Cal. Rptr. 482] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
2. Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.215

§ 464.215 Allegation--Constructive Notice of Condition [Gov. Code §§ 835(b), 840.4(b)]

[1] FORM Allegation--Constructive Notice of Condition [Gov. Code §§ 835(b), 840.4(b)]

The defendant _____ [name of public entity] had constructive notice of the dangerous condition because the condition had existed for a sufficient period of time, at least _____ [specify period of time], and was of such an obvious nature that the defendant, in the exercise of due care, should have discovered the condition and its dangerous character.

[2] Use of Form

The allegation of constructive notice provided above can be used to replace Paragraph 8 of the form in § 464.211 if the defendant public entity had only constructive notice of the dangerous condition.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
2. Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.216

§ 464.216 Allegation--Dangerous Condition of Public Property [Gov. Code § 835]--Condition on Adjacent Property Made Public Property Dangerous

[1] FORM Allegation--Dangerous Condition of Public Property [Gov. Code § 835]--Condition on Adjacent Property Made Public Property Dangerous

On _____ [date], and prior thereto, the _____ [describe public property, e.g., street] was in a dangerous condition that created a substantial risk of the type of injury hereinafter alleged when the property was used with due care in a manner that it was reasonably foreseeable that it would be used, in that _____ [specify dangerous condition caused by condition on adjacent property, e.g., trees on property adjacent to the street had overhanging and cracked branches that created a substantial risk that they would fall and injure persons using the street].

[2] Use of Form

The allegation provided in [1], above, can be used to replace Paragraph 7 of the form in § 464.211 if the complaint is based on a dangerous condition of property caused by condition of adjacent property.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
2. Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.217

§ 464.217 Allegation--Dangerous Condition of Public Property [Gov. Code § 835]--Failure to Post Sign in Situation Constituting Trap for Motorist [Gov. Code § 830.8]

[1] FORM Allegation--Dangerous Condition of Public Property [Gov. Code § 835]--Failure to Post Sign in Situation Constituting Trap for Motorist [Gov. Code § 830.8]

On _____ [date], and prior thereto, the highway was in a dangerous condition that created a substantial risk of the type of injury hereinafter alleged when the property was used in a manner that was reasonably foreseeable in that _____ [describe dangerous condition, e.g., the curve was unsafe if taken at the speed limit], but there was no warning sign of that fact, and that danger would not be reasonably apparent to, and would not have been anticipated by, a person using due care.

[2] Use of Form

The allegation provided above can be used to replace Paragraph 7 of the form in § 464.211 if the complaint is based on a dangerous condition in a highway due to failure to post a sign warning of a dangerous condition.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
2. Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.218

§ 464.218 Allegation--Dangerous Condition of Public Property [Gov. Code § 835]--Dangerous Condition of Public Sidewalk

[1] FORM Allegation--Dangerous Condition of Public Property [Gov. Code § 835]--Dangerous Condition of Public Sidewalk

On _____ [date], and prior thereto, the sidewalk was in a dangerous condition that created a substantial risk of the type of injury hereinafter alleged when the property was used in a manner that was reasonably forseeable in that _____ [describe dangerous condition, e.g., the sidewalk contained a jagged break, one side of which was significantly higher than the other, creating a substantial risk that persons walking down the sidewalk would trip on the break and fall and injure themselves].

[2] Use of Form

The allegation provided above can be used to replace Paragraph 7 of the form in § 464.211 if the complaint is based on a dangerous condition of a public sidewalk. In sidewalk cases, the minor or trivial exemption from liability is often raised as a defense [Gov. Code § 830.2; see § 464.83[3]].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
2. Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.219

§ 464.219 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries--Against Public Entity Based on Dangerous Condition of Reservoir or Canal [Gov. Code § 831.8(c)]

[1] FORM Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries--Against Public Entity Based on Dangerous Condition of Reservoir or Canal [Gov. Code § 831.8(c)]

[Caption. See § 464.210[1] .]

The plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity of the defendant public entity. See § 464.210[1], Paragraph 1.]

2-3. [Fictitious name allegations, if appropriate. See § 464.210[1], Paragraphs 3 and 4.]

4. On _____ [date], and prior thereto, the defendant was the owner and operator of _____ [specify, e.g., a canal known as _____ (name) located in _____ County, California].

5. On _____ [date], and prior thereto, the _____ [specify, e.g., canal] was in a dangerous condition that created a substantial and unreasonable risk of death or serious bodily harm when used with due care in a manner in which it was reasonably foreseeable that it would be used in that it _____ [specify, e.g., contained alligators] and the condition was not reasonably apparent to, and would not be anticipated by, a mature, reasonable person using the property with due care.

6. The defendant had actual knowledge of the existence of the condition and knew, or should have known, of its dangerous character a sufficient period of time prior to the injury to have taken measures to protect against the dangerous condition.

7. On or about _____ [date], the plaintiff was lawfully on the above-described property and, as a proximate result of the dangerous condition of the property, was _____ [specify how injuries occurred, e.g., bitten by an alligator], causing the plaintiff the injuries hereinafter alleged.

8-10. [Damages allegations. See § 464.210[1], Paragraphs 7-9.]

11-12. [Filing and rejection of claim. See § 464.210[1], Paragraphs 10 and 11.]

[Prayer. See § 464.210[1] .]

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 464.210[1] .]

[2] Use of Form

The form of complaint above is for use in bringing an action against a public entity for injuries sustained resulting from the dangerous condition of a canal or reservoir.

[3] Liability to Children

If the plaintiff is less than 12 years of age, the public entity is also liable if the dangerous condition created a substantial and unreasonable risk of death or serious bodily harm to children under 12 years of age using the property or adjacent property with due care in a manner in which it was reasonably foreseeable that it would be used, and if the person injured, because of his or her immaturity, did not discover the condition or did not appreciate its dangerous character [Gov. Code § 831.8(d)]. An analogous exception to immunity applies to Los Angeles County flood control agencies and water conservation facilities and their employees, although that exception extends to children 16 years old or younger [Gov. Code § 831.8(f)].

[4] Cross References

For a general form of complaint against a public entity for personal injuries caused by a dangerous condition of public property, see § 464.210

California Government Tort Liability Practice, Ch. 12, § 12.93 et seq. (Cal. CEB 4th ed. 1999)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, Vol. 5, Torts, § 273 et seq. (10th ed. 2005)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
2. Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.220

§ 464.220 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity as Immune From Liability for Injury Caused by Approved Design [Gov. Code § 830.6]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity as Immune From Liability for Injury Caused by Approved Design [Gov. Code § 830.6]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], the defendant alleges:

The defendant _____ [name] is not liable for the injury alleged in the complaint because if it was caused by a dangerous condition of public property, the condition was created by the design of an improvement of public property, which plan had been approved in advance of the improvement by _____ [name of legislative body or employee] exercising discretionary authority to give such approval, and a reasonable legislative _____ [body or employee] would have approved the design.

[2] Use of Form

The affirmative defense provided above is for use by a public entity or public employee in an answer if the complaint is based on a condition that was created by an approved design.

[3] Cross References

California Government Tort Liability Practice, Ch. 12, § 12.66 et seq. (Cal. CEB 4th ed. 1999)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, Vol. 5, Torts, § 273 et seq. (10th ed. 2005)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
2. Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.221

§ 464.221 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity Not Liable for Injury Caused by Natural Condition of Unimproved Public Property [Gov. Code § 831.2]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity Not Liable for Injury Caused by Natural Condition of Unimproved Public Property [Gov. Code § 831.2]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], the defendant alleges:

The defendant _____ [name] is not liable for the injury alleged in the complaint because it was caused by a natural condition of unimproved public property.

[2] Use of Form

The affirmative defense provided above is for use by a public entity or public employee in an answer if the complaint is based on an injury caused by a natural condition of unimproved public property.

[3] Cross References

California Government Tort Liability, Ch. 6 (Cal. CEB 4th ed. 1999)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
2. Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.222

§ 464.222 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity and Public Employee Not Liable if Action Reasonable [Gov. Code §§ 835.4, 840.6]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity and Public Employee Not Liable if Action Reasonable [Gov. Code §§ 835.4, 840.6]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], the defendant alleges:

[EITHER]

The defendant _____ [name] is not liable for the injury alleged in the complaint because the act alleged as the basis for liability was reasonable when the probability and gravity of potential injury to persons and property foreseeably exposed to the risk of injury was weighed against the practicability and cost of taking alternative action that would not create the risk of injury and protecting against the risk of injury.

[OR]

The defendant _____ [name] is not liable for the injury alleged in the complaint because the action taken to protect against the risk of injury created by the condition or the failure to take such action was reasonable, considering the time and opportunity available for taking action and when the probability and gravity of potential injury to persons and property foreseeably exposed to the risk of injury was weighed against the practicability and cost of protecting against the risk of such injury.

[2] Use of Form

The alternative affirmative defenses provided above are for use by a public entity or public employee in an answer if the public entity or employee acted reasonably. The first alternative is for use if a negligent act or omission is the basis of the complaint; the second is for use if the complaint alleges that the public entity or employee was aware of a dangerous condition.

[3] Cross References

California Government Tort Liability Practice, Ch. 12, §§ 12.61 et seq., 12.116 et seq. (Cal. CEB 4th ed. 1999)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, Vol. 5, Torts, § 272 (10th ed. 2005)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
2. Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.223

§ 464.223 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity and Public Employee Not Liable for Injury Resulting From Work on Nondedicated Road Performed With Reasonable Care [Gov. Code § 831.3]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity and Public Employee Not Liable for Injury Resulting From Work on Nondedicated Road Performed With Reasonable Care [Gov. Code § 831.3]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], the defendant alleges:

The defendant _____ [name] is not liable for the injury alleged in the complaint because it occurred on account of the _____ [grading or specify other maintenance or repair] of a road that has not officially been accepted as a part of the road system under _____ [the defendant public entity's jurisdiction or the jurisdiction of _____ (name of public entity)] and the _____ [grading or specify other maintenance or repair] was performed with reasonable care and left the road in no more dangerous or unsafe condition than it was before the work began.

[2] Use of Form

The affirmative defense provided above is for use by a public entity or public employee in an answer if the complaint is based on an injury that occurred because of the public entity's performance of maintenance or repair on, or reconstruction or replacement of, a nondedicated road, and the work was performed with reasonable care and left the road in no more dangerous or unsafe condition than it was before the work began. For purposes of Gov. Code § 831.3, "reconstruction or replacement" means reconstruction or replacement performed pursuant to Sts. & Hy. Code §§ 1160-1197 (formation of permanent road divisions) [Gov. Code § 831.3].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
2. Liability for Dangerous Conditions of Public Property

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 464.224-464.239

[Reserved]

§§ 464.224[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
3. Specific Liabilities and Immunities

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.240

§ 464.240 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Failure to Summon Medical Aid for Prisoner [Gov. Code § 845.6]--Against Public Entity and Public Employee

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Failure to Summon Medical Aid for Prisoner [Gov. Code § 845.6]--Against Public Entity and Public Employee

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF_____

	)
_____ [name], Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____ [names], Defendants.	)	(Failure to Summon Medical Aid)
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)	[Amount demanded _____ (exceeds
	)	or does not exceed) $10,000]

_____

The plaintiff alleges:

1. The defendant County of _____ is, and at all times mentioned herein was, a county organized and existing under the laws of the State of California.

2. At all times mentioned herein, the defendant _____ [name] was an employee of the defendant _____ [name of public entity] and in doing the acts hereinafter described, acted within the course and scope of _____ [his or her] employment.

3. [The plaintiff is ignorant of the true names and capacities of the defendants sued herein as DOES 1-_____, inclusive, and therefore sues these defendants by such fictitious names. The plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained. (The plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of said fictitiously named defendants is responsible in some manner for the occurrences herein alleged, and that the plaintiff's injuries as herein alleged were proximately caused by their acts.)]

[EITHER]

[4. (The plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that) (A)t all times mentioned herein each of the defendants sued herein as DOES 1-_____, inclusive, was the agent and employee of each of the remaining defendants and was at all times acting within the purpose and scope of such agency and employment.]

[OR]

[4. At all times mentioned herein the defendants DOES 1-_____, inclusive, were the agents, servants, and employees of their codefendants, and in doing the things hereinafter alleged were acting in the scope of their authority as such agents, servants, and employees, and with the permission and consent of their codefendants.]

[CONTINUE]

5. On _____ [date], the plaintiff was a prisoner in the county jail at _____ [specify]. On that day, the plaintiff was in need of immediate medical care by reason of _____ [specify, e.g., having suffered an epileptic seizure].

6. The defendant _____ [name of public employee] observed the plaintiff in the above-described condition and had reason to know and knew that the plaintiff was in need of immediate medical care. Despite such knowledge, the defendant _____ [name of public employee] intentionally failed to take reasonable action to summon medical aid for the plaintiff with the result that the plaintiff did not receive any medical aid for _____ [specify hours] after the plaintiff needed such aid.

7. As a proximate result of the above-described acts of the defendant[s, and each of them], the plaintiff was hurt and injured in _____ [his or her] health, strength, and activity, sustaining injury to _____ [his or her] body and shock and injury to _____ [his or her] nervous system and person, all of which injuries have caused, and continue to cause, the plaintiff great mental, physical, and nervous pain and suffering. [The plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that such injuries will result in some permanent disability to _____ [him or her].] As a result of such injuries, the plaintiff has suffered general damages.

[EITHER]

8. As a [further] proximate result of the defendant's above-described acts herein alleged, the plaintiff has been required to expend money and incur obligations, and will continue to expend money and incur obligations, for medical services, X-rays, drugs, and sundries reasonably required in the treatment and relief of the injuries herein alleged, the plaintiff has been damaged thereby.

[OR]

8. As a further proximate result of the above-described acts of the defendant[s, and each of them], the plaintiff has incurred, and will continue to incur, medical and related expenses.

[CONTINUE]

9. On or about _____ [date], the plaintiff presented to_____ [name of public entity] by _____ [delivering or mailing] a claim to the _____ [clerk or secretary or auditor] for the injuries, disability, losses, and damages suffered and incurred by _____ [him or her] by reason of the above-described occurrence, all in compliance with the requirements of Section 905 of the Government Code. A copy of the claim is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.

10. On or about _____ [date], _____ [name of public entity] _____ [rejected the claim in its entirety or allowed the claim in the amount of $_____ and rejected it as to the remainder or failed to act on the claim within the period of 45 days after its presentation, and the claim was, thus, deemed rejected under the provisions of Section 912.4 of the Government Code at the expiration of the 45-day period, to wit, on _____ (date)].

WHEREFORE, the plaintiff prays judgment against the defendants, and each of them, as follows:

1. For general damages according to proof;

2. For medical and related expenses according to proof;

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

VERIFICATION [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 446, 2015.5]

I, _____ [name], am the plaintiff in this action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own personal knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and, as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]
_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use in an action against a public entity and public employee for failure to summon medical aid for a prisoner.

[3] Jurisdiction

The superior court has jurisdiction of the action, which will be classified as an unlimited civil case unless the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest, is $25,000 or less, in which case it will be classified as a limited civil case [Cal. Const. art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(1)].

In limited civil cases, the caption must identify the case as a limited civil case and must state whether the demand exceeds or does not exceed $10,000 [Code Civ. Proc. § 422.30(b); Gov. Code § 70613(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(9), (10)].

[4] Venue

In an action against the state for personal injuries, the proper court is a court in the county where the injury occurred [Gov. Code § 955.2]. In an action against a local public entity for personal injuries, the proper court is the county in which the local public entity is situated [Code Civ. Proc. § 394].

[5] Verification

A public entity need not verify its answer even though the complaint is verified [see Code Civ. Proc. § 446]. Verification of a complaint against a public entity does, however, preclude a general denial except in a limited civil case, and will preclude a general denial even in a limited civil case if the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)].

[6] Specification of Damages

In an action to recover damages for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded for this cause of action [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

Otherwise, the amounts claimed as damages for anything other than personal injury or wrongful death (for example, property damage) must be alleged [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)] or an equivalent statement must be included--for example, a statement that the damages for a particular loss or harm sustained [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282] are not known and that leave will be sought to amend the complaint to state the exact amount when ascertained. If this is done, counsel must remember to seek leave to amend the complaint to so state before judgment.

No claim for punitive damages may state an amount sought regardless of the nature of the case or whether it is a limited civil case [Civ. Code § 3295(e)].

For discussion of and forms for requesting and stating the amount of damages sought if they are not stated in the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.11, 425.115], see Ch. 177, Damages , and Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments .

[7] Cross References

For alternative allegations as to agency, capacity, and residence of parties, and fictitious name allegations, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used

For alternative forms of captions and introductions, see Ch. 108, Captions and Introductions

For alternative forms of prayers and verifications, see Ch. 420, Prayers , and Ch. 572, Verification

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
3. Specific Liabilities and Immunities

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.241

§ 464.241 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Injuries to Prisoner [Gov. Code § 844.6] or Patient at Mental Institution [Gov. Code § 854.8] Caused by Negligence of Public Employee

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Injuries to Prisoner [Gov. Code § 844.6] or Patient at Mental Institution [Gov. Code § 854.8] Caused by Negligence of Public Employee

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)
_____ [name], Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAIN FOR DAMAGES
_____ [names], Defendants.	)	(Negligence of Public Employee)
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)	[Amount demanded _____ (exceeds
	)	or does not exceed) $10,000]

_____

The plaintiff alleges:

1. At all times mentioned herein, the defendant _____ [name] was an employee of _____ [name of public entity] and was _____ [describe the defendant's duties, e.g., a guard at _____ (name of facility)].

[2-3. Fictitious name allegations, if appropriate. See § 464.240[1], Paragraphs 3 and 4.]

4. On _____ [date], the plaintiff was _____ [a prisoner at _____ (specify) or a mental patient at _____ (name of state mental institution)].

5. On _____ [date], the defendant negligently and carelessly _____ [describe act that injured the plaintiff, e.g., attempted to restrain the plaintiff with a strait jacket] causing the plaintiff the injuries hereinafter described.

[6-7. Damages allegations. See § 464.240[1], Paragraphs 7 and 8.]

[8-9. Filing and rejection of claim. See § 464.240[1], Paragraphs 9 and 10.]

[Prayer. See § 464.240[1] .]

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 464.240[1] .]

[2] Use of Form

The form of complaint above is for use in an action against a public employee for a negligent act that injured a prisoner or mental patient.

[3] Cross References

For discussion of venue, jurisdiction, specification of damages, and verification of complaint, see § 464.240

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
3. Specific Liabilities and Immunities

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.242

§ 464.242 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Injuries Caused by Failure of Public Entity Operating Medical Facility to Provide Adequate Equipment or Facilities [Gov. Code § 855(a)]

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Injuries Caused by Failure of Public Entity Operating Medical Facility to Provide Adequate Equipment or Facilities [Gov. Code § 855(a)]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name], Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____ [names], Defendants.	)	(Failure to Provide Adequate Equipment or Facilities)
	)	[Amount demanded _____ (exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]

_____

The plaintiff alleges:

[1. Status of the defendant public entity. See § 464.240[1], Paragraph 1.]

[2-3. Fictitious name allegations, if appropriate. See § 464.240[1], Paragraphs 2 and 3.]

4. On _____ [date], the plaintiff was a patient in _____ [name of public medical facility], at _____ [specify], receiving treatment for _____ [specify].

5. On that date, the defendant failed to provide adequate and sufficient _____ [equipment or facilities or personnel] as required by _____ [specify statute or regulation the requirements of which were not met] in that _____ [describe inadequacy], which failure proximately caused the injuries to the plaintiff hereinafter described.

[6-7. Damages allegations. See § 464.240[1], Paragraphs 7 and 8.]

[Filing and rejection of claim. See § 464.240[1], Paragraphs 9 and 10.]

[Prayer. See § 464.240[1] .]

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 464.240[1] .]

[2] Use of Form

The form of complaint above is for use in an action against a public entity maintaining a medical facility for failure to provide required equipment, personnel, or facilities.

[3] Cross References

For discussion of venue, jurisdiction, specification of damages, and verification of complaint, see § 464.240

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
3. Specific Liabilities and Immunities

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.243

§ 464.243 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity and Public Employee Not Liable for Failure to Provide Police Protection [Gov. Code § 845]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity and Public Employee Not Liable for Failure to Provide Police Protection [Gov. Code § 845]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], the defendant alleges that:

[EITHER]

At all times mentioned in the complaint, the defendant _____ [name of public employee] was a public employee of _____ [name of public entity] and _____ [he or she] is, therefore, not liable for failure to provide [adequate] police protection.

[OR]

A public entity is not liable for failure to provide [adequate] police protection.

[2] Use of Form

The forms of affirmative defense provided above are for use by a public entity or a public employee if the complaint is based on failure to provide police protection.

[3] Cross References

California Government Tort Liability Practice, Ch. 4 (Cal. C.E.B. 1980)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
3. Specific Liabilities and Immunities

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.244

§ 464.244 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity and Public Employee Not Liable for Injury Caused by Release of Prisoner or by Escaping Prisoner [Gov. Code § 845.8]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity and Public Employee Not Liable for Injury Caused by Release of Prisoner or by Escaping Prisoner [Gov. Code § 845.8]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], the defendant alleges that:

[EITHER]

At all times mentioned in the complaint, the defendant _____ [name of public employee] was a public employee of _____ [name of public entity] and _____ [he or she], therefore, is not liable for an injury caused by _____ [the decision to release a prisoner or an escaping prisoner].

[OR]

A public entity is not liable for an injury caused by _____ [the decision to release a prisoner or an escaping prisoner].

[2] Use of Form

The forms of affirmative defense provided above are for use by a public employee or a public entity if the basis of the complaint is an injury caused by the decision to release a prisoner or by an escaping prisoner.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
3. Specific Liabilities and Immunities

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.245

§ 464.245 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity and Public Employee Not Liable for Determination to Confine, for Terms and Conditions of Confinement, or for Determination to Release Mental Patient [Gov. Code § 856]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)]--Public Entity and Public Employee Not Liable for Determination to Confine, for Terms and Conditions of Confinement, or for Determination to Release Mental Patient [Gov. Code § 856]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], the defendant alleges that:

[EITHER]

At all times mentioned in the complaint, the defendant _____ [name of public employee] was a public employee of _____ [name of public entity] acting within the scope of _____ [his or her] employment in determining, in accordance with the applicable _____ [statute or regulation or ordinance], _____ [to confine _____ (name) or concerning the terms and conditions of the confinement of _____ (name) or to release _____ (name) from confinement], for mental illness or addiction and _____ [he or she] is, therefore, not liable for any injury resulting from such determination.

[OR]

A public entity is not liable for any injury resulting from its determination, in accordance with the applicable _____ [statute or regulation or ordinance] _____ [to confine _____ (name) or concerning the terms and conditions of the confinement of _____ (name) or to release _____ (name) from confinement] for mental illness or addiction.

[2] Use of Form

This form of affirmative defense is for use by a public employee or a public entity in an answer if the complaint is based on an injury caused by a determination to confine a mental patient, by a determination concerning the terms and conditions of confinement of the patient, or by a determination to release the patient.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 464 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CALIFORNIA TORT CLAIMS ACT
PART V. FORMS
B. Actions Against Public Entities and Employees
3. Specific Liabilities and Immunities

40-464 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 464.246

§ 464.246 General Demurrer [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.30(a)] for Failure to State Cause of Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(e)]--Public Entity and Public Employee Not Liable for Injury Caused in Fighting Fire [Gov. Code § 850.4]--And Notice of Hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1320(c)]

[1] FORM General Demurrer [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.30(a)] for Failure to State Cause of Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(e)]--Public Entity and Public Employee Not Liable for Injury Caused in Fighting Fire [Gov. Code § 850.4]--And Notice of Hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1320(c)]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	DEMURRER TO COMPLAINT AND NOTICE OF
_____ [name],	)	HEARING
Defendant.	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)
	)

The defendant demurs to the complaint herein on the following ground:

The complaint fails to state a cause of action because the defendant as a _____ [public entity or public employee acting in the scope of _____ (his or her) employment] is not liable for any injury caused in fighting a fire.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that this demurrer has been set for hearing on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] the above-entitled court, located at _____ [name of building or street address or both], in _____ [city], _____ County, California.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Defendant _____ [name]

[2] Use of Form

This form of demurrer is for use if it appears on the face of the complaint against a public entity or public employee that it is based on an injury caused in fighting a fire.

[3] Accompanying Papers

A party filing a demurrer must serve and file with the demurrer a notice of hearing and a memorandum of points and authorities in support of each ground asserted [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1103(c), 3.1113(a), 3.1320(c)].

[4] Cross References

California Government Tort Liability Practice, Ch. 4, § 4.31 (Cal. C.E.B. 1980)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 465.syn

§ 465.syn Synopsis to Chapter 465: PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS

§ 465.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 465.02 Victim Compensation and Government Claims Board

§§ 465.03-465.19 [Reserved]

§ 465.20 Governing Law

§ 465.21 Victim and Witness Assistance Centers

§ 465.22 Restitution Obligation in Criminal or Juvenile Wardship Proceedings

§ 465.23 Assistance for Crime Victims and Derivative Victims From State Restitution Fund

[1] Availability of Assistance

[2] Eligibility for Assistance

[a] General Requirements

[b] Effect of Victim's Conduct

[i] Victim's Contributory Behavior

[ii] Victim's Failure to Cooperate

[c] Certain Crimes Involving Vehicles Excluded

[d] Domestic Violence Cases

[3] Types of Assistance Available

[a] Mental Health Counseling Expenses

[b] Lost Wages

[c] Rehabilitation Services

[d] Loss of Support

[e] Reimbursement for Medical, Burial, or Cleanup Expenses

[4] Independent Evaluation May Be Required

[5] Payment

[a] Lump Sum or Periodic Payments

[b] Maximum Amount of Payment

[c] Maximum Rates for Medical Services Reimbursement

[6] Attorney's Fees

§ 465.24 Procedures for Processing Claims

[1] Form for Application

[2] Limitations Period

[3] Board's Response to Claim

[a] Period for Processing Claim

[b] Verification of Application

[c] Right to Hearing

§ 465.25 Reimbursement of Assistance

§ 465.26 Emergency Awards

[1] Availability

[2] Amount of Award

[3] Reimbursement of Award

[4] Procedures

[a] Form of Application

[b] Processing Application

[c] No Right to Hearing

§ 465.27 Review of Board's Decision on Application for Assistance

[1] Reconsideration by Board

[2] Judicial Review

[a] Filing Writ of Mandate

[b] Attorney's Fees and Costs

§§ 465.28-465.39 [Reserved]

§ 465.40 Governing Law

§ 465.41 Eligibility for Indemnification

[1] Eligibility of Private Citizens ("Good Samaritans")

[2] Ineligibility of Crime Victims Receiving State Assistance

§ 465.42 Scope of Indemnification

§ 465.43 Hearing on Claim

[1] Hearing Required

[2] Evidence Considered

[3] Standard of Proof

§ 465.44 Award and Fees

[1] Amount of Award

[2] Attorney's Fees

§§ 465.45-465.59 [Reserved]

§ 465.60 Governing Law

§ 465.61 Eligibility for Indemnification

§ 465.62 Filing of Claim

[1] Supporting Documents

[2] Time for Filing Claim

§ 465.63 Hearing on Claim

[1] Setting of Time and Notice

[2] Evidence Supporting Claim

[a] Facts in Statement of Claim

[b] Independent Evidence of Innocence Required

[c] Admissibility of Evidence

§ 465.64 Post-Hearing Procedures

[1] Legislative Funding of Award

[2] Judicial Review

§§ 465.65-465.79 [Reserved]

§ 465.80 Governing Law

§ 465.81 Scope of Protection

[1] Persons Protected

[2] Types of Searches Covered

§ 465.82 Requirements for Searches

[1] Visual and Strip Searches

[a] Reasonable Suspicion Required

[b] Authorization Required

[c] Restrictions on Search

[2] Physical Cavity Searches

[a] Search Warrant Required

[b] Conditions of and Persons Conducting Search

[3] Requirements Applicable to All Searches

[a] Record of Authorizing Document

[b] Sex of Searching Persons

[c] Privacy During Search

§ 465.83 Judicial Remedies

§§ 465.84-465.99 [Reserved]

§ 465.100 State Statutes

[1] Body Cavity and Strip Searches

[a] Provisions Applicable to All Types of Searches

[b] Definitions

[c] Physical Body Cavity Searches

[d] Visual Body Cavity and Strip Searches

[e] Remedies

[2] Crime Victims' Assistance

[a] Claim Procedure

[i] Application

[ii] Hearing

[b] Court-Ordered Restitution

[c] Definitions

[d] Eligibility

[e] Emergency Award

[f] Reconsideration and Review

[g] Scope of Recovery

[h] Victim Centers

[3] Indemnification of "Good Samaritans"

[a] Award

[b] Claim

[c] Eligibility

[d] Hearing

[4] Indemnification of Persons Erroneously Imprisoned

[a] Claim

[b] Hearing

§ 465.101 Administrative Regulations

[1] Assistance for Crime Victims

[2] Indemnification of "Good Samaritans"

[3] Indemnification of Persons Erroneously Imprisoned

§ 465.102 Decisions

[1] Assistance for Crime Victims

[2] Indemnification of "Good Samaritans"

[3] Indemnification of Persons Erroneously Imprisoned

§ 465.103 Attorney General Opinions

§ 465.104 Law Reviews

§§ 465.105-465.119 [Reserved]

§ 465.120 Application for Assistance by Crime Victim [Gov. Code § 13950 et seq.]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Time for Filing

[4] Return of Incomplete Application

[5] Verification

§ 465.121 Claim for Indemnification of Damages by Private Citizen Who Apprehended Criminal, Prevented Crime, or Rescued Person [Gov. Code §§ 13970-13974]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Time for Filing

[4] Corroboration

§ 465.122 Claim for Indemnification by Person Erroneously Imprisoned [Penal Code §§ 4900-4906]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Time for Filing

[4] Verification

§ 465.123 Complaint for Damages Resulting From Improper Strip Search or Body Cavity Search [Penal Code § 4030]--General Form

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Requirement of Damages or Harm

[5] Amount of Damages

[6] Attorney's Fees

§ 465.124 Class Action Complaint for Temporary Restraining Order, Preliminary Injunction [Code Civ. Proc. § 527], and Permanent Injunction [Code Civ. Proc. § 526]--Improper Strip Search or Body Cavity Search [Penal Code § 4030]--General Form

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

§ 465.125 Allegation--Strip Search or Visual Body Cavity Search Conducted Without Reasonable Suspicion [Penal Code § 4030(f)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 465.126 Allegation--Strip Search or Visual Body Cavity Search Conducted Without Authorization of Supervising Officer [Penal Code § 4030(f)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 465.127 Allegation--Strip Search or Visual Body Cavity Search Improperly Conducted [Penal Code § 4030(j), (l), (m)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 465.128 Allegation--Warrantless Physical Body Cavity Search Conducted [Penal Code § 4030(h)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 465.129 Allegation--Physical Body Cavity Search Improperly Conducted [Penal Code § 4030(k)-(m)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART I. SCOPE

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.01

§ 465.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses a variety of civil claims arising from criminal acts.

The chapter includes discussion of claims for restitution by crime victims [see § 465.20 et seq.] and includes forms for use by a crime victim to claim general and emergency assistance [see §§ 465.120].

The chapter includes discussion of claims for indemnification of so-called "good samaritans" [see § 465.40 et seq.] and includes a form for a claim for indemnification for use by a person who sustained injury as a result of preventing a crime, apprehending a criminal, or rescuing another [see § 465.122].

The chapter includes discussion of claims for indemnification of persons erroneously imprisoned [see § 465.60 et seq.] and includes a form for use by a person erroneously convicted of a felony [see § 465.123].

The chapter includes discussion of actions by persons wrongfully subjected to a body cavity or strip search [see § 465.80 et seq.] and includes forms of complaint for use after a person detained for a minor offense was subjected to an improper strip or body cavity search [see §§ 465.124 -465.129].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART I. SCOPE

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.02

§ 465.02 Victim Compensation and Government Claims Board

The Victim Compensation and Government Claims Board receives claims for assistance or restitution from all of the following: crime victims; persons who aided in the prevention of a crime, apprehension of a criminal, or rescue of another; and persons claiming to have been erroneously imprisoned for a felony [Gov. Code § 13951(a)]. Wherever the term "board" is used in this chapter, it refers to the California Victim Compensation and Government Claims Board unless otherwise noted.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART I. SCOPE

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 465.03-465.19

[Reserved]

§§ 465.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Restitution for Crime Victims

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.20

§ 465.20 Governing Law

A crime victim's right to restitution or state assistance is governed by Gov. Code § 13950 et seq., Penal Code §§ 679.02, 1202.4, and Welf. & Inst. Code § 730.6.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Restitution for Crime Victims

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.21

§ 465.21 Victim and Witness Assistance Centers

Penal Code § 13835.2 provides for state funding to selected nonprofit agencies that provide comprehensive services to crime victims and witnesses. The agency receiving this funding must not restrict its services to victims of particular crimes or to victims of crimes in which there is a suspect in the case [see Penal Code § 13835.2(a)(1)]. Agencies that provide these services and that are eligible for funding are designated as victim and witness assistance centers [see Penal Code § 13835.2(b)]. Penal Code §§ 13835-13835.10 generally govern the establishment of, and services provided by, victim and witness assistance centers. The services that these centers must render include assistance in the preparation, verification, and presentation of claims for crime victim assistance [Gov. Code § 13950 et seq.], and cooperation with the Board in verifying the information pertaining to these claims [see Penal Code § 13835.2(a)(4), (5); Penal Code § 13835.5(a)(5); see also Gov. Code § 13962(e)].

Penal Code §§ 13897-13897.3 provide for state funding to a selected nonprofit agency to provide a legal resource center, statewide in scope, where crime victims, their families, and providers of services to crime victims can receive information, assistance, and referral relating to the rights and needs of the victims [see Penal Code § 13897]. In addition to other services, the center must provide information about victims' legal rights to compensation under the Victims of Crimes Act [see Gov. Code § 13959 et seq.] and, if appropriate, provide victims with guidance in exercising these rights [Penal Code § 13897.2(b)(1)]. The center must also distribute to local law enforcement agencies and local victims' programs certain information and educational materials, prepared pursuant to Penal Code § 13897.1, that set forth the statutory rights of the victim, including the victim's statutory right to be provided with information concerning the opportunity to be compensated under Gov. Code § 13959 et seq. [Penal Code § 679.02(a)(8), (b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Restitution for Crime Victims

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.22

§ 465.22 Restitution Obligation in Criminal or Juvenile Wardship Proceedings

When a person is convicted of a crime in California, the court is generally required to order the criminal defendant to make restitution to the victim of the crime, if any, for economic loss incurred as a result of the defendant's criminal conduct [see Penal Code § 1202.4(a)(3)(B), (f)-(j)]. Under specified conditions, the court must also order the defendant to pay a restitution fine, to be deposited in the Restitution Fund in the state treasury [see Penal Code § 1202.4(a)(3)(A), (b)-(g)]. A similar restitution provision applies to juvenile offenders [see Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 729.6, 730.6].

To the extent that the victim has received assistance from the state under Gov. Code § 13950 et seq. [see § 465.23], the criminal defendant must make the restitution payment to the Restitution Fund [see Penal Code § 1202.4(f)(2)].

For full discussion of restitution provisions in criminal and juvenile wardship proceedings, see Erwin, Millman, Monroe, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Chs. 90, 91, and 124 (Matthew Bender).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Restitution for Crime Victims

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.23

§ 465.23 Assistance for Crime Victims and Derivative Victims From State Restitution Fund

[1] Availability of Assistance

Eligible crime victims or "derivative victims" [see Gov. Code § 13951 (definitions); see also § 465.23[2][a]] may apply to the board for specified types of assistance from the Restitution Fund in the state treasury [see Gov. Code §§ 13950, 13952]. Assistance granted under Gov. Code § 13950 et seq. does not disqualify an otherwise eligible victim or derivative victim from participating in any other public assistance program [Gov. Code § 13957.7(f)].

The types of assistance that may be obtained from the Restitution Fund are discussed in § 465.23[3]. The procedure for applying for assistance is discussed in § 465.24.

[2] Eligibility for Assistance

[a] General Requirements

To qualify for assistance under Gov. Code § 13950 et seq., one must be the victim of a crime or a "derivative victim," as defined [see Gov. Code §§ 13951, 13957, 13957.5]. For these purposes, a "victim" is a person who sustains an injury or death as a direct result of a crime [Gov. Code § 13951(g)]. A "derivative victim" is an individual who sustains pecuniary loss as a result of injury or death to a crime victim [Gov. Code § 13951(c)]. A "pecuniary loss" is an economic loss or expense that has not been and will not be reimbursed from any other source [Gov. Code § 13951(e)].

The term "crime" for these purposes means a crime or public offense that would constitute a misdemeanor or a felony if committed in California by a competent adult. A crime includes an act of terrorism, as defined in 18 U.S.C.S. § 2331, that is committed against a resident of California, whether or not the act occurs within California [Gov. Code § 13951(b)]. In addition to falling within these general definitions, a person must meet other requirements to be eligible for assistance. For example, the crime victim must be or have been a California resident, a member of the military stationed in California, or a family member living with a member of the military stationed in California [Gov. Code § 13955(b)(2)]. However, if the board determines that federal funds are currently available to California for the compensation of crime victims, it is sufficient that the crime occurred within California, whether or not the victim is a resident of California [Gov. Code § 13955(b)(1)].

If compensation is being sought for a derivative victim, the derivative victim must be a resident of California or another state and be one of the following [Gov. Code § 13955(c)]:

- The parent, grandparent, sibling, spouse, child, or grandchild of the victim at the time of the crime;
- Living in the household of the victim at the time of the crime;
- A person who had previously lived in the household of the victim for a period of not less than two years in a relationship substantially similar to that of a parent, grandparent, sibling, spouse, child, or grandchild;
- Another family member of the victim, including the victim's fianc' or fianc'e, who witnessed the crime; or
- The primary caretaker of a minor victim, but not the primary caretaker at the time of the crime.

Compensable injuries include physical injury, or emotional injury combined with the threat of physical injury [Gov. Code § 13955(f)(1), (2)]. The board may presume that a child who witnessed a crime of domestic violence has sustained physical injury. The board may also presume that a child who resides in a home where a crime of domestic violence has occurred has sustained physical injury, regardless of whether the child has witnessed the crime [Gov. Code § 13955(f)(1)].

Other emotional injuries may be compensable, if the crime was a violation of one of the following provisions [Gov. Code § 13955(f)(3)]:

- Penal Code §§ 261, 262, 271, 273a, 273d, 285, 286, 288, 288a, 288.5, 289, or 311.4(b) or (c);
- Penal Code § 270, if the emotional injury was a result of conduct other than a failure to pay child support and if criminal charges were filed;
- Penal Code § 261.5, if criminal charges were filed; or
- Penal Code §§ 278 or 278.5, if the deprivation of custody described in those sections endured for at least 30 days (for these purposes, the child, rather than a nonoffending parent or caretaker, is considered the victim).

A county that operates a public hospital does not have standing to sue the board to assert claims for the cost of medical services provided to indigent victims by the public hospital or to seek payment for those services from the Restitution Fund, because third-party health care providers are not victims entitled to file claims with the board. The hospital does not have a cognizable claim for restitution and, in any event, the indigent crime victims would be indispensable parties [County of Alameda v. State Bd. of Control (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1096, 1104-1106, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 487] .

Notwithstanding the United States residency requirement of Gov. Code § 13955, a nonresident of the United States who meets the other requirements of that statute is considered a derivative victim and may be reimbursed for outpatient mental health counseling, if mental health counseling is necessary as a direct result of a crime [Gov. Code § 13955.5 (effective until January 1, 2007)].

In addition to compensation for crime victims and derivative victims, person who incur funeral or burial expenses caused by the death of a crime victim, or who incur cleanup costs for a crime scene, may also be eligible for reimbursement of some or all of these costs [see § 465.23[3][e]].

[b] Effect of Victim's Conduct

[i] Victim's Contributory Behavior

The board may deny an application for assistance, in whole or in part, if the board finds that denial is appropriate because of the victim's or other applicant's involvement in the events leading up to the crime or the involvement of the persons whose injury or death is the basis of the application [Gov. Code § 13956(c)]. In the case of a minor, the board must consider the minor's age, physical condition, and psychological state, as well as any compelling health and safety concerns, in determining whether to deny the minor's application [Gov. Code § 13956(c)].

Furthermore, a victim is ineligible for assistance if the board finds that the victim knowingly and willingly participated in the crime [Gov. Code § 13956(a)], and a derivative victim is ineligible for assistance if the board finds that either the victim or the derivative victim knowingly and willingly participated in the commission of the crime [Gov. Code § 13956(a)].

[ii] Victim's Failure to Cooperate

A victim is ineligible for assistance if the victim failed to cooperate reasonably with a law enforcement agency in the apprehension and conviction of a person who committed the crime [Gov. Code § 13956(b)(1)]. A derivative victim is ineligible for assistance if the board finds that either the victim or the derivative victim failed to cooperate with a law enforcement agency in the apprehension and conviction of a person who committed the crime [Gov. Code § 13956(b)(1)].

However, in determining whether cooperation has been reasonable, the board must consider the victim's or derivative victim's age, physical condition, and psychological state, cultural or linguistic barriers, any compelling health and safety concerns, including, but not limited to, a reasonable fear of retaliation or harm that would jeopardize the well-being of the victim or the victim's family or the derivative victim or the derivative victim's family, and the board must give due consideration to the degree of cooperation that the victim or derivative victim is capable of in light of any of these factors [Gov. Code § 13956(b)(1)].

[c] Certain Crimes Involving Vehicles Excluded

No act involving the operation of a motor vehicle, aircraft, or water vehicle that results in injury or death constitutes a crime for purposes of assistance to crime victims, except for any of the following [Gov. Code § 13955(e)(2)]:

- Injury or death, intentionally inflicted through the use of a motor vehicle, aircraft, or water vehicle;

- Injury or death caused by hit and run driving, or by driving while under influence of alcohol or drugs [see Veh. Code §§ 20001, 23152, 23153];

- Injury or death caused by the driver of a motor vehicle in the immediate act of fleeing the scene of a crime in which he or she knowingly and willingly participated;

- Injury or death caused by a person in violation of Penal Code §§ 191.5(b), 192(c), 192.5 (vehicular manslaughter); or

- Injury or death caused by any party if a peace officer is operating a motor vehicle in an effort to apprehend a suspect, and the suspect is evading, fleeing, or otherwise attempting to elude the police officer.

[d] Domestic Violence Cases

An application for a claim based on domestic violence may not be denied solely because the victim did not make a police report. The board must adopt guidelines that allow it to consider and approve applications for assistance based on domestic violence that rely on evidence other than a police report to establish that a domestic violence crime has occurred. Evidence that a domestic violence crime has occurred may include, but is not limited to, medical records documenting injuries consistent with allegations of domestic violence, mental health records, or the fact that the victim has obtained a temporary or permanent restraining order [Gov. Code § 13956(b)(2)].

The application of a derivative victim of domestic violence under the age of 18 years cannot be considered ineligible on the basis of the ineligibility of the victim's application for assistance [Gov. Code § 13956(c)].

[3] Types of Assistance Available

[a] Mental Health Counseling Expenses

If the application for assistance is approved, the board may reimburse any of the following persons (in the following amounts) for the expense of their outpatient mental health counseling, if that counseling is necessary as a direct result of the crime [Gov. Code § 13957(a)(2)(A), (B)]:

- A victim [see § 465.23[2][a]], $10,000 or less;

- A derivative victim [see § 465.23[2][a]] who is the surviving parent, sibling, child, spouse, fiance, or fiancee of a victim of a crime that directly resulted in the death of the victim, $10,000 or less;

- A derivative victim who is the primary caretaker of a minor victim of sexual or physical abuse whose claim is not denied or reduced under Gov. Code § 13956 [see § 465.23[2][b]], $10,000 or less for not more than two derivative victims;

- A derivative victim who is not eligible for reimbursement under the second or third paragraphs above, $5,000 or less;

- A victim of the crime of unlawful sexual intercourse with a minor, committed in violation of Penal Code § 261.5(d) (statutory rape), $5,000 or less; and

- A minor who suffers emotional injury as a direct result of witnessing (in close proximity to the victim) a violent crime and who is not otherwise eligible for reimbursement of outpatient mental health counseling costs, $5,000 or less.

The board may reimburse a victim or derivative victim for outpatient mental health counseling in excess of these authorized amounts, or for inpatient psychiatric, psychological, or other mental health counseling, if the claim is based on dire or exceptional circumstances that require more extensive treatment, as approved by the board [Gov. Code § 13957(a)(2)(C)].

Expenses for psychiatric, psychological, or other mental health counseling related expenses may only be reimbursed if provided by one of the following individuals [Gov. Code § 13957(a)(2)(D)]:

- A licensed physician certified in psychiatry;

- A licensed psychologist;
- A licensed clinical social worker or marriage, family, and child counselor;
- A registered psychological assistant who is under the supervision of a licensed psychologist or board certified psychiatrist;
- A person registered with the Board of Psychology who is providing nonprofit community service;
- A registered marriage, family, and child counselor intern who is under the supervision of a licensed counselor, a licensed clinical social worker, licensed psychologist, or board certified psychiatrist;
- A registered associate clinical social worker who is under the supervision of a licensed clinical social worker, a licensed psychologist, or a board certified psychiatrist; or
- A psychology intern who is under the supervision of a licensed mental health professional (psychiatrist, psychologist, or social worker) in a university hospital or university medical school clinic or a person who is pursuing a postdoctoral and training in a university or university medical school clinic under the supervision of a licensed mental health professional (psychiatrist, psychologist, or social worker) for the purpose of achieving higher clinical competency.

Reimbursement on the initial claim for any psychological, psychiatric, or mental health counseling services, including peer counseling services provided by a rape crisis center, must, if the application has been approved, be paid by the board within 90 days after receipt of the claim for payment, with subsequent payments to be made to the provider within one month after the receipt of a claim for payment [Gov. Code § 13957.7(c)(2)].

If a public agency (including a court, district attorney, police agency county child protective services, or other state or local governmental agency) refers a crime victim to a private nonprofit agency for treatment for that victim, the private nonprofit agency must be reimbursed for those services at the level of the normal and customary fee charged by the private nonprofit agency to clients with adequate means of payment for its services, except that the reimbursement may not exceed the maximum reimbursement rates set by the board and may be made only to the extent that the victim otherwise qualifies for services under the victims of crime program and that other reimbursement or direct subsidies are not available to serve the victim [Gov. Code § 13957.7(h); see Gov. Code § 13957.2 (board's authority to set maximum rates for reimbursement for medical and medical-related expenses, including counseling expenses)].

Payments authorized for peer counseling services by a rape counseling center are limited to $15 per hour. Covered services are limited to individual, in-person counseling on a face-to-face basis for a period not to exceed 10 weeks, plus one series of facilitated support group counseling sessions [Gov. Code § 13957.7(d)].

The Victims of Crime Act does not authorize an award for the value of reasonably anticipated future medical expenses, but only for expenses actually incurred [Webster v. State Bd. of Control (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 29, 39, 242 Cal. Rptr. 685] . In addition, a claimant under both the Victims of Crime Act and the Good Samaritan Act [see Gov. Code § 13970 et seq., discussed in § 465.40 et seq.] is not entitled to recovery under both Acts for the same injuries [see Webster v. State Bd. of Control (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 29, 34, 242 Cal. Rptr. 685] .

Reimbursement for any medical or medical-related services must, if the victim's application has been approved, be paid by the board within an average of 90 days after receipt of the claim for payment. Payments to a medical or mental health provider may not be discontinued prior to completion of any reevaluation. Whether or not a reevaluation is obtained, if the board determines that payments to a provider will be discontinued, the board must notify the provider of their discontinuance within 30 days after its determination [Gov. Code § 13957.2; see § 465.23[4]].

If the victim requests that the board give priority to reimbursement of lost wages, the board may not pay medical expenses or mental health counseling expenses except on the request of the victim or after determining that payment of these expenses will not decrease the funds available to the victim for payment for lost wages [Gov. Code § 13957(a)(4)]. The board may authorize a direct cash payment to a provider of reimbursable services; however, the board may not, without good cause, authorize a direct cash payment to a provider over the objection of the victim or the applicant [Gov. Code § 13957.7(c)(1)].

[b] Lost Wages

If the application for assistance is approved, the board may authorize a cash payment to the victim equal to the pecuniary loss resulting from loss of wages that directly resulted from the injury [Gov. Code § 13957.5(a)(1)]. Loss of wages may not be paid by the board for more than five years following the crime, unless the victim is disabled [Gov. Code § 13957.5(a)(1)].

A derivative victim--that is, the parent or legal guardian of a victim who at the time of the crime was under the age of 18 years and is hospitalized or dead as a direct result of the crime--can receive reimbursement for a loss of income for not more than thirty days [Gov. Code § 13957.5(a)(2), (3)].

[c] Rehabilitation Services

If the application for assistance is approved, the board may authorize cash payments to or on behalf of the victim for job retraining or similar employment-oriented rehabilitation services [Gov. Code § 13957(a)(5)].

[d] Loss of Support

If the application for assistance is approved, the board may authorize a cash payment to a derivative victim who was legally dependent on the victim at the time of the crime for the loss of support incurred by that derivative victim as a direct result of the crime [Gov. Code § 13957.5(a)(4)]. Loss of support may not be paid by the board for income lost by an adult for a period of more than five years following the date of the crime [Gov. Code § 13957.5(a)(4)(A)]. Loss of support may not be paid by the board on behalf of a minor for any period after the child attains the age of 18 years [Gov. Code § 13957.5(a)(4)(B)]. The total amount payable to all derivative victims for loss of support under Gov. Code § 13957.5 may not exceed $70,000 [Gov. Code § 13957.5(b)].

[e] Reimbursement for Medical, Burial, or Cleanup Expenses

If a victim dies as a direct result of a crime, the board may reimburse any individual who voluntarily, and without anticipation of personal gain, pays or assumes the obligation to pay the medical or burial expenses incurred as a direct result of the crime for the amount of those expenses, up to the maximum rates or limitations established by the board [Gov. Code § 13957(a)(9)(A), (B)].

If the crime occurs in a residence, the board may also reimburse the reasonable costs to clean the scene of the crime, in an amount not to exceed $1,000 [Gov. Code § 13957(a)(10)].

A person is eligible for funeral, burial, or crime scene cleanup expenses regardless of any felon status of the victim [Gov. Code § 13955(a)(3)(B)].

[4] Independent Evaluation May Be Required

If the application for restitution is approved, the board may obtain an independent examination and report from any provider of psychological or psychiatric treatment, mental health counseling services, or medical services, if it believes there is a reasonable basis for requesting an additional evaluation. If the crime involved sexual assault, the provider must have expertise in the needs of sexual assault victims. If the crime involved child abuse or molestation, the provider must have expertise in the needs of victims of child abuse or molestation, as appropriate. If a reevaluation is obtained, payments cannot be discontinued prior to completion of the reevaluation [Gov. Code § 13957.2(b)].

Whenever a victim's application for assistance has been approved, and the board determines that an independent evaluation is appropriate, the victim must be notified of the name of the provider who is to perform the evaluation within 30 days after that determination [Gov. Code § 13957.2(b)].

[5] Payment

[a] Lump Sum or Periodic Payments

Cash payments made as assistance to crime victims may be made as a one time (lump sum) payment or on a periodic basis. If periodic, the board may increase, reduce, or terminate the amount of assistance according to the victim's or the derivative victim's need, subject to the maximum limits provided in Gov. Code § 13957.2 [Gov. Code § 13957.7(b); see § 465.23[5][b]].

[b] Maximum Amount of Payment

The total award to or on behalf of a victim or a derivative victim may not exceed $35,000, and it may be increased only in accordance with Gov. Code § 13957 [Gov. Code § 13957(b)]. The maximum cash payments authorized in Gov. Code § 13957(b) are increased to $70,000 if federal funds for those increases are available [Gov. Code § 13957(b)].

[c] Maximum Rates for Medical Services Reimbursement

The board may establish maximum rates and service limitations for reimbursement of medical and medical-related expenses, including counseling expenses [Gov. Code § 13957.2(a)].

The adoption, amendment, and repeal of these maximum rates are not subject to the rulemaking provision of the Administrative Procedure Act [see Gov. Code § 11340 et seq.]. An informational copy of the maximum rates is required to be filed with the Secretary of State on adoption by the board. A provider who accepts payment from the program for a service is required to accept the program's rates as payment in full, and cannot accept any payment on account of the service from any other source if the total of payments would exceed the maximum rate set by the board for that service [Gov. Code § 13957.2(a)].

To assure service limitations that are uniform and appropriate to the levels of mental health treatment required by a victim or derivative victim, the board may review all claims for these services as necessary to ensure their medical necessity [Gov. Code § 13957.2(a)].

[6] Attorney's Fees

The board must pay attorney's fees representing the reasonable value of legal services rendered to the applicant, in an amount equal to the lesser of either 10 percent of the amount of the award or $500, for each victim and each derivative victim. An attorney receiving fees from another source may waive the right to receive fees under Gov. Code § 13957.7 [Gov. Code § 13957.7(g)].

Payments under Gov. Code § 13957.7 are in addition to any amount authorized or ordered under Gov. Code § 13960(b) (attorney's fees for prevailing applicant in mandate proceeding to review board's decision) [Gov. Code § 13957.7(g)].

No attorney may charge, demand, receive, or collect any amount for services rendered in connection with any proceedings to obtain assistance for crime victims under Gov. Code § 13950 et seq., except as awarded under those provisions [Gov. Code § 13957.7(g)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.24

§ 465.24 Procedures for Processing Claims

[1] Form for Application

A crime victim or derivative victim may file an application for assistance with the board [Gov. Code § 13952(a)]. The application for assistance must be verified [see Gov. Code § 13952(b)(1)]. There is an application form available for this purpose [see Gov. Code § 13952(a); see § 465.120].

[2] Limitations Period

The application for assistance must be filed within one year after the latest of the following: the date of the crime, the date that the victim attains the age of 18 years, or the time that the victim or derivative victim knew or in the exercise of ordinary diligence could have discovered that an injury or death had been sustained as a direct result of the crime [Gov. Code § 13953(a)]. However, an application for compensation based on a crime involving sex with a minor eligible for prosecution under Pen. Code § 801.1 may be filed any time prior to the victim's 28th birthday [Gov. Code § 13953(a)].

The board may for good cause grant an extension of this time period [Gov. Code § 13953(b)]. In making this determination, the board may consider any relevant factors, including but not limited to the following [Gov. Code § 13953(b)(1)-(3)]:

- A recommendation from the prosecuting attorney regarding the victim's or derivative victim's cooperation with law enforcement in the apprehension and prosecution of the person charged with the crime.

- Whether particular events occurring during the prosecution or punishment of the person convicted of the crime resulted in additional pecuniary loss to the applicant.

- Whether the nature of the crime is such that delayed reporting of the crime is reasonably excusable.

This current version of the limitations period, enacted in 2002, does not contain a three-year maximum for an extension of time as was contained under earlier law, but the law in effect at the time of the application governs any extension [Moore v. State Bd. of Control (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 371, 376, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 116] .

The period prescribed for filing an application by or on behalf of a derivative victim is tolled when the board accepts the application filed by a victim of the same qualifying crime [Gov. Code § 13953(c)].

If the application for assistance is not complete, the board staff must return it to the applicant, noting the additional information required. The applicant has 30 days after receipt of the returned application to either supply the additional information or appeal this action to the board, which will review the application to determine whether or not it is complete [Gov. Code § 13952(c)(2)].

[3] Board's Response to Claim

[a] Period for Processing Claim

The board must approve or deny applications accepted in accordance with Gov. Code § 13958 within an average of 90 calendar days. Each individual claim must be approved or denied within 180 calendar days [Gov. Code § 13958]. If the board does not meet this 90-day average standard, the board must thereafter report to the legislature, on a quarterly basis, its progress and its current average time of processing applications. These quarterly reports must continue until the board meets the 90-day average standard for two consecutive quarters [Gov. Code § 13958(a)].

If the board fails to approve or deny an individual claim within 180 days after the date that the claim was accepted, the board must advise the applicant and his or her representative, in writing, of the reason for the failure to approve or deny the claim [Gov. Code § 13958(b)].

[b] Verification of Application

The board must verify, with hospitals, physicians, law enforcement officials, or other interested parties, the treatment of the victim or derivative victim, the circumstances of the crime, the amounts paid or received by or for the victim or derivative victim, and any other pertinent information that the board deems necessary. Verification information must be returned to the board within 10 business days after the board requests it. Verification information must be provided at no cost to the applicant, the board, or victim centers. When requesting verification information, the board must certify that a signed authorization by the applicant is retained in the applicant's file and that this certification constitutes actual authorization for the release of information, notwithstanding any other provision of law. If requested by a physician or mental health provider, the board must provide a copy of the signed authorization for the release of information [Gov. Code § 13954(a)]. The board may contract with local victim centers to provide verification of claims processed by the centers pursuant to the conditions described above [Gov. Code § 13954(c)].

If the victim (and the applicant, if other than the victim) does not cooperate with the staff of the board or the local victim center in the verification process, the board, in its discretion, may reject the application on this ground alone [Gov. Code § 13954(b)].

Although the board has a duty to investigate all facts presented by an applicant, the board does not have a burden to produce the evidence necessary to prove entitlement [Blazevich v. State Bd. of Control (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1121, 1127, 237 Cal. Rptr. 35] .

The board may, in its discretion, make payments directly to providers before verification [Gov. Code § 13957.7(c)(1)].

[c] Right to Hearing

If the board's staff has recommended denial of compensation in whole or in part to an applicant who believes that he or she is entitled to compensation, the board must grant the applicant a hearing to contest the staff's recommendation [Gov. Code § 13959(a)]. Hearings are held in various locations with the frequency necessary to provide for the speedy adjudication of the applications. If the applicant must be present at the hearing, the board must schedule the applicant's hearing in as convenient a location as possible [Gov. Code § 13959(f)]. The board must notify the applicant not less than ten days prior to the date of the hearing [Gov. Code § 13959(b)]. If necessary, the board will delegate the hearing to a hearing officer [Gov. Code § 13959(g)]. The board may exclude the public from the hearing if the application it is considering is the result of either a crime against a minor or a crime of sexual assault or domestic violence [see Gov. Code § 13959(b)].

At the hearing, the person seeking compensation has the burden of establishing, by a preponderance of the evidence, the elements of eligibility under Gov. Code § 13955 [Gov. Code § 13959(c)].

The board's decision must be in writing. Copies of the decisions must be delivered to the applicant or to his or her representative either personally or by mail [Gov. Code § 13959(h)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime LimitationsGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsAdministrative BoardsGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Restitution for Crime Victims

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.25

§ 465.25 Reimbursement of Assistance

If a crime victim has received assistance from the state and also obtains a judgment against the perpetrator of the crime or any person liable for the pecuniary loss, the state has a right to be reimbursed for all or part of the award out of the recovery that the victim obtains. In essence, the state is substituted for the victim as holder of the victim's rights against the perpetrator of the crime or any person liable for the victim's pecuniary loss, to the extent of the cash payment of assistance that has been granted to the victim [see Gov. Code § 13963(a)]. For general discussion of the substitution of one person for another as holder of rights against a third person, see Ch. 536, Subrogation .

If a judgment, award, or settlement is actually obtained by the victim or on behalf of the victim, the state is entitled to a lien on it, in the amount of any assistance payments made [see Gov. Code § 13963(b)]. To recover on the lien, the state may intervene in any action by the victim against the perpetrator or may initiate a separate action [Gov. Code § 13963(b)]. However, if a claim is filed within one year after the date of the recovery and the total amount of the lien is recovered, the state must pay 25 percent of the amount of the recovery that is covered by the lien to the victim that was responsible for the recovery [see Gov. Code § 13963(b)].

To allow the board an opportunity to assert its lien, a victim who has received assistance under Gov. Code § 13950 et seq., or his or her representative, is required to give statutorily specified notice to the board of the institution of any damages action against the person responsible for the death or injury, any settlement of that action, and any satisfaction of a judgment, award, or settlement arising out of that action [see Gov. Code § 13963(e)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime LimitationsGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityClaim PresentationGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Restitution for Crime Victims

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.26

§ 465.26 Emergency Awards

[1] Availability

An emergency award is available to a person eligible for compensation if the board determines that such an award is necessary to avoid or mitigate substantial hardship that may result from delaying compensation until complete and final consideration of an application [Gov. Code 13952.5(a)].

The board may refuse to grant an emergency award if it has reason to believe that the applicant will not qualify for an award for assistance [Gov. Code § 13952.5(c)(1)]. If an application for an emergency award is denied, the board must notify the applicant in writing of the reason for the denial [Gov. Code § 13952.5(e)(1)].

[2] Amount of Award

The amount of an emergency award depends on the immediate needs of the victim or derivative victim, subject to rates and limitations established by the board [Gov. Code 13952.5(g); see § 465.23[5][b]].

[3] Reimbursement of Award

If, on final disposition of the applicant's regular application for assistance [see Gov. Code § 13952.5(f)] or verification of the emergency award, the board finds that the applicant is not eligible for assistance, the applicant must reimburse the board for the emergency award under an agreed repayment schedule. If, on final disposition of the application, the board grants assistance to the applicant, the amount of the emergency award will be deducted from the final award of compensation granted to the applicant. If the amount of the final award is less than the amount of the emergency award, the excess amount shall be repaid by the applicant [Gov. Code § 13952.5(f)(2)]. The term "final disposition" means a final decision of the board with respect to the victim's or derivative victim's application for assistance, before any appellate action is initiated [Gov. Code § 13952.5(f)(3)].

[4] Procedures

[a] Form of Application

The board has provided a form for filing an application for an emergency award [see Gov. Code § 13952.5(b); see § 465.120].

[b] Processing Application

The board may grant an emergency award based solely on the victim's or derivative victim's application. The board may also delegate authority to designated staff persons or other agencies that use established guidelines to determine whether or not to grant applications for emergency awards [Gov. Code § 13952.5(c)(3)].

Disbursement of emergency awards must be made within 30 days after application [Gov. Code § 13952.5(d)]. By mutual agreement between the staff of the board and the applicant or the applicant's representative, the staff of the board may take additional 10-day periods to verify the emergency award claim and make payment [Gov. Code § 13952.5(c)(2)].

[c] No Right to Hearing

An applicant is not entitled to a hearing before the board to contest a denial of an emergency award. However, the applicant may submit an application for a regular award, and is entitled to a hearing under Gov. Code § 13959 if that application is recommended for denial [Gov. Code § 13952.5(e)(2); see § 465.24[3][c]].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Restitution for Crime Victims

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.27

§ 465.27 Review of Board's Decision on Application for Assistance

[1] Reconsideration by Board

The board may reconsider all or part of an application for assistance on its own motion or on written request of the applicant or his or her representative. The board may not grant more than one of these requests for an application. The board will not consider a request filed with the board more than 30 days after the personal delivery or 60 days after the mailing of the original decision [Gov. Code § 13959(i)]. The board may order reconsideration of all or part of a decision on its own motion, at its discretion, at any time [Gov. Code § 13959(j)].

[2] Judicial Review

[a] Filing Writ of Mandate

Judicial review of a final decision on an application may be had by filing a petition for a writ of administrative mandate [Gov. Code § 13960(a); Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5]. The right to petition will not be affected by the failure to seek reconsideration before the board [Gov. Code § 13960(a); see § 465.27[1], above].

A petition for writ of mandate to review a final decision on an application for assistance must be filed as follows [Gov. Code § 13960(a)]:

- If no request for reconsideration is filed, within 30 days after personal delivery or within 60 days after the mailing of the board's decision on the application for assistance;

- If a timely request for reconsideration is filed and rejected by the board, within 30 days after personal delivery or within 60 days after the mailing of the notice of rejection; or

- If a timely request for reconsideration is filed and granted by the board, or if reconsideration is ordered by the board, within 30 days after personal delivery or within 60 days after the mailing of the final decision on the reconsideration application.

[b] Attorney's Fees and Costs

In an action resulting in the issuance of a writ of mandate pursuant to Gov. Code § 13960, the court may order the board to pay to the applicant's attorney the lesser of either reasonable attorney's fees or the sum of $1,000. If the board takes action in favor of the applicant in response to the filing of the petition, but prior to a judicial determination, the board must pay the applicant's costs of filing the petition [Gov. Code § 13960(b)(1)].

If the board appeals a decision on the petition for writ of mandate that results in a decision in favor of the applicant, the court may order the board to pay the applicant's reasonable attorney's fees [Gov. Code § 13960(b)(2)].

Nothing in Gov. Code § 13960 can be construed to prohibit or limit an award of attorney's fees pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5 (award in action to enforce important public right) [Gov. Code § 13960(b)(3)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationDecisionsGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewGeneral OverviewGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Restitution for Crime Victims

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 465.28-465.39

[Reserved]

§§ 465.28[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Indemnification of "Good Samaritans"

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.40

§ 465.40 Governing Law

The indemnification of a person who aids in the prevention of a crime, apprehension of a criminal, or rescue of another is governed by Gov. Code §§ 13970-13974 (the so-called "Good Samaritan Act").

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstHealthcare LawGood Samaritan LawsTortsProcedureMultiple DefendantsIndemnityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsExclusions From Liability

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Indemnification of "Good Samaritans"

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.41

§ 465.41 Eligibility for Indemnification

[1] Eligibility of Private Citizens ("Good Samaritans")

If private citizens prevent the commission of crime against the person or property of others, apprehend criminals, or rescue persons in immediate danger of injury or death as a result of fire, drowning, or other catastrophe, their actions benefit the public. Recognizing that public benefit, the state may in appropriate cases indemnify these citizens, as well as their surviving spouses, children, and other dependents for any injury, death, or damage sustained by them as a direct consequence of those meritorious acts [Gov. Code § 13970].

For purposes of the indemnification of so-called "Good Samaritans," the term "private citizen" means any natural person other than a peace officer, firefighter, lifeguard, or person whose employment includes the duty to protect the public safety and who was acting within the course and scope of this employment [Gov. Code § 13971].

[2] Ineligibility of Crime Victims Receiving State Assistance

A claim for indemnification under the so-called "Good Samaritan Act" must be denied if the claimant has received an award for the same injury under the Victims of Crimes Act (discussed in § 465.20 et seq.) [Gov. Code § 13970; Webster v. State Bd. of Control (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 29, 34-35, 242 Cal. Rptr. 685 (upholding denial of recovery by claimant who received award as victim of crime)]. Moreover, a claim for indemnification is not allowed if the crime prevented, or the crime committed, was against the person or property of the person who prevented the crime, apprehended the criminal, or substantially and materially assisted a peace officer for this purpose [2 Cal. Code Reg. § 648.4]. Therefore, it appears that a person who is a crime victim may recover only under the Victims of Crimes Act, even if he or she has also acted as a so-called "Good Samaritan."

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstHealthcare LawGood Samaritan LawsTortsProcedureMultiple DefendantsIndemnityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral

OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsExclusions From Liability

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Indemnification of "Good Samaritans"

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.42

§ 465.42 Scope of Indemnification

The injury, death, or damage can be indemnified to the extent that it is not compensated from any other source. A claim must be denied if restitution has been given [Gov. Code § 13970; see Gov. Code § 13950 et seq.; see also § 465.20 et seq.].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstHealthcare LawGood Samaritan LawsTortsProcedureMultiple DefendantsIndemnityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsExclusions From Liability

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Indemnification of "Good Samaritans"

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.43

§ 465.43 Hearing on Claim

[1] Hearing Required

On presentation of any claim for indemnification [see § 465.122], the board must fix a time and place for hearing the claim, and it must mail notices of the hearing to interested persons or agencies [Gov. Code § 13973].

[2] Evidence Considered

At the hearing, the board will receive recommendations from public safety or law enforcement agencies and evidence showing the following [Gov. Code § 13973]:

- The nature of the crime committed by the apprehended criminal or prevented by the action of the private citizen, or the nature of the action of the private citizen in rescuing a person in immediate danger of injury or death as a result of fire, drowning, or other catastrophe, and the circumstances involved;

- That the actions of the private citizen substantially and materially contributed to the apprehension of a criminal, the prevention of a crime, or the rescuing of a person in immediate danger or injury or death as a result of fire, drowning, or other catastrophe;

- That as a direct consequence of the private citizen's act, the private citizen incurred personal injury or damage to property or died;

- The extent of the injury or damage for which the claimant is not compensated from any other source; and

- Any other evidence that the board may require.

[3] Standard of Proof

If the board determines, on the basis of a preponderance of the evidence, that the state should indemnify the claimant for the injury, death, or damage sustained, it must approve the claim for payment [Gov. Code § 13973].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsEvidenceGeneral OverviewGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Indemnification of "Good Samaritans"

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.44

§ 465.44 Award and Fees

[1] Amount of Award

The board may not approve any claim in any case in excess of $10,000 [Gov. Code § 13973].

[2] Attorney's Fees

In addition to any award made to a so-called "Good Samaritan," the board may award, as attorney's fees, an amount representing the reasonable value of legal services rendered to a claimant. The award of attorney's fees may not exceed 10 percent of the amount of the award on the claim [Gov. Code § 13973].

An attorney cannot charge, demand, receive, or collect for services rendered in connection with any proceedings to claim indemnification for so-called "Good Samaritans" for any amount other than that awarded as attorney's fees pursuant to statute [Gov. Code § 13973].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstHealthcare LawGood Samaritan LawsTortsProcedureMultiple DefendantsIndemnityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsExclusions From Liability

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Indemnification of "Good Samaritans"

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 465.45-465.59

[Reserved]

§§ 465.45[Reserved]

127 of 197 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Indemnification of Persons Erroneously Imprisoned

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.60

§ 465.60 Governing Law

The indemnification of a person erroneously imprisoned for a felony is governed by Penal Code §§ 4900-4906.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsIntentional TortsFalse ImprisonmentGeneral OverviewTortsIntentional TortsMalicious ProsecutionGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Indemnification of Persons Erroneously Imprisoned

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.61

§ 465.61 Eligibility for Indemnification

Any person may present a claim against the state for the pecuniary injury that person sustained as a result of a conviction and term of imprisonment, if the person meets all of the following conditions [Penal Code § 4900]:

- Was convicted of and imprisoned for the commission of any California felony;
- Was thereafter pardoned or determined to be innocent of the offense, either because the crime was not committed at all or the crime was not committed by that person; and
- Served all or part of a term of imprisonment for this offense.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsIntentional TortsFalse ImprisonmentGeneral OverviewTortsIntentional TortsMalicious ProsecutionGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Indemnification of Persons Erroneously Imprisoned

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.62

§ 465.62 Filing of Claim

[1] Supporting Documents

A claim filed under Penal Code § 4900 must be accompanied by a statement of the facts constituting the claim and must be verified in the manner provided for verification of complaints [Penal Code § 4901; see § 465.123].

[2] Time for Filing Claim

A claim filed by an erroneously convicted felon must be presented by the claimant to the board within two years after judgment of acquittal or discharge given, pardon granted, or release from imprisonment. Untimely claims will not be considered by the board [Penal Code § 4901].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsIntentional TortsFalse ImprisonmentGeneral OverviewTortsIntentional TortsMalicious ProsecutionGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Indemnification of Persons Erroneously Imprisoned

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.63

§ 465.63 Hearing on Claim

[1] Setting of Time and Notice

On presentation of any claim under Penal Code § 4900, the board must fix a time and place for the hearing of the claim, and must mail notice of the time and place of the hearing to the claimant and the California Attorney General at least 15 days before the time fixed for the hearing [Penal Code § 4902].

[2] Evidence Supporting Claim

[a] Facts in Statement of Claim

At the hearing, the claimant must introduce evidence in support of the claim, and the Attorney General may introduce opposing evidence. The claimant must prove the facts set out in the statement constituting the claim, including the following [Penal Code § 4903]:

- The crime with which the claimant was charged was either not committed at all, or if committed, was not committed by the claimant;

- The claimant did not, by act or omission, intentionally contribute to the bringing about of the claimant's arrest or conviction for the crime with which the claimants was charged; and

- The claimant sustained pecuniary injury as a result of the erroneous conviction and imprisonment.

When determining whether the claimant intentionally contributed to the bringing about of his or her arrest or conviction, the factfinder is not to consider statements obtained from an involuntary false confession or involuntary plea. The claimant bears the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that the statements were obtained from an involuntary false confession or involuntary plea [Pen. Code § 4903].

[b] Independent Evidence of Innocence Required

The board may consider the claimant's denial of commission of the crime for which he or she was convicted, reversal of the judgment of conviction on appeal, acquittal of the claimant on retrial, or failure of the prosecuting authority to retry the claimant for the crime, but this evidence alone is not sufficient to warrant the board's recommendation that the claimant be indemnified. The claimant must present substantial independent corroborating evidence that he or she is innocent of the charged crime [2 Cal. Code Reg. § 641].

A stipulated finding of innocence in an earlier proceeding under Penal Code § 851.8 does not have collateral estoppel effect in a subsequent proceeding under Penal Code § 4900 [Tennison v. California Victim Comp. & Government Claims Bd. (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 1164, 1177-1180, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 88] .

[c] Admissibility of Evidence

Evidence is admissible at the hearing if the claimant had an opportunity to cross-examine the witness whose testimony is being proffered or to object to the evidence that is being proffered, and if the testimony or evidence was admitted in earlier proceedings arising out of the criminal offense. The board may also consider any other evidence it deems relevant [2 Cal. Code Reg. § 641].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsIntentional TortsFalse ImprisonmentGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Indemnification of Persons Erroneously Imprisoned

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.64

§ 465.64 Post-Hearing Procedures

[1] Legislative Funding of Award

If the claimant carries his or her burden of proof [see § 465.63[2]], the board must report the facts of the case and its conclusions to the California legislature, with a recommendation that an appropriation be made for the purpose of indemnifying the claimant for his or her pecuniary injury. The amount of the appropriation recommended is a sum equivalent to $100 per day of incarceration served subsequent to the claimant's conviction. This amount is not considered gross income for state tax purposes [Penal Code § 4904].

[2] Judicial Review

A board decision not to recommend an appropriation for the purpose of indemnifying the claimant is subject to administrative mandamus review under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 [Diola v. State Bd. of Control (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 580, 585, 185 Cal. Rptr. 511 ; see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions]. The reviewing court should affirm the Board's decision if if is supported by substantial evidence [Tennison v. California Victim Comp. & Government Claims Bd. (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 1164, 1182, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 88] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewRemediesMandamusGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Indemnification of Persons Erroneously Imprisoned

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 465.65-465.79

[Reserved]

§§ 465.65[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Actions by Persons Wrongfully Subjected to Body Cavity or Strip Search

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.80

§ 465.80 Governing Law

The proper conduct of strip searches and body cavity searches is set forth in Penal Code § 4030.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Criminal Law & ProcedureSearch & SeizureGeneral OverviewGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Actions by Persons Wrongfully Subjected to Body Cavity or Strip Search

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.81

§ 465.81 Scope of Protection

[1] Persons Protected

Penal Code § 4030, which restricts and regulates strip searches and body cavity searches of criminal detainees, applies only to prearraignment detainees arrested for infraction or misdemeanor offenses and to any juvenile offender detained before a detention hearing and alleged to have committed a misdemeanor or infraction offense [Penal Code § 4030(b); see Ch. 329, Juvenile Courts: Delinquency Proceedings]. This statute does not apply to any person in the custody of the Department of Corrections or the California Youth Authority [Penal Code § 4030(b)].

[2] Types of Searches Covered

Penal Code § 4030 restricts and regulates strip searches, visual body cavity searches, and physical body cavity searches. A strip search is a search that requires a person to remove or arrange some or all of his or her clothing so as to permit a visual inspection of the underclothing, breasts, buttocks, or genitalia [Penal Code § 4030(c)]. A visual body cavity search is a visual inspection of the stomach, rectal cavity, or vagina [Penal Code § 4030(d)(1), (2)]. A physical body cavity search is a physical intrusion into the stomach, rectal cavity, or vagina to discover an object concealed in the body cavity [Penal Code § 4030(d)(3)].

When a person is arrested and taken into custody, however, that person may be subjected to patdown searches, metal detector searches, and thorough clothing searches to discover and retrieve concealed weapons and contraband before being booked [Penal Code § 4030(e); see Erwin, Millman, Monroe, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 22 (Matthew Bender)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Criminal Law & ProcedureSearch & SeizureGeneral OverviewGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Actions by Persons Wrongfully Subjected to Body Cavity or Strip Search

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.82

§ 465.82 Requirements for Searches

[1] Visual and Strip Searches

[a] Reasonable Suspicion Required

Criminal detainees covered by Penal Code § 4030 [see § 465.81] may not be subjected to a strip search or visual body cavity search before placement in the general jail population unless a law enforcement officer has determined that there is reasonable suspicion, based on specific and articulable facts, to believe that the detainee is concealing a weapon or contraband, and that a strip search will result in the discovery of the weapon or contraband [Penal Code § 4030(f)]. Although the statute does not expressly require that the officer must determine that the search will result in the discovery of a weapon or contraband in the case of a visual body cavity search, this appears to be a drafting error.

The detainee may not be confined in the general jail population unless he or she is not (1) cited and released, (2) released on his or her own recognizance, and (3) able to post bail within a reasonable time less than three hours, or unless a documented emergency exists [see Penal Code § 4030(g)].

[b] Authorization Required

No strip search or visual body cavity search may be conducted without prior written authorization by the supervising officer on duty. The authorization must include the specific and articulable facts and circumstances on which the supervisor made the reasonable suspicion determination [Penal Code § 4030(f)].

[c] Restrictions on Search

If a strip search or visual body cavity search is permitted, persons conducting the search are prohibited from touching the breasts, buttocks, or genitalia of the person being searched [Penal Code § 4030(j)].

[2] Physical Cavity Searches

[a] Search Warrant Required

No person arrested on a misdemeanor or infraction offense, and no minor described in Penal Code § 4030(b) [see § 465.81], shall be subjected to a physical body cavity search except pursuant to a search warrant issued by a magistrate specifically authorizing the physical body cavity search [Penal Code § 4030(h)].

[b] Conditions of and Persons Conducting Search

A physical body cavity search must be conducted under sanitary conditions. Only a physician, nurse practitioner, registered nurse, licensed vocational nurse, or emergency medical technician level II licensed to practice in California may conduct the search. Any physician engaged in providing health care to detainees and inmates of the facility may conduct physical body cavity searches [Penal Code § 4030(k)].

[3] Requirements Applicable to All Searches

[a] Record of Authorizing Document

A copy of the prior written authorization [Penal Code § 4030(f); see § 465.82[1][b]] or the search warrant [Penal Code § 4030(h); see § 465.82[2][a]] must be placed in the agency's records and made available, on request, to the person searched or his or her authorized representative. The time, date, and place of the search, the name and sex of the personconducting the search, and a statement of the results of the search, including a list of any items removed from the person searched, must be included in the agency's records and made available, on request, to the person searched or his or her authorized representative [Penal Code § 4030(i)].

[b] Sex of Searching Persons

All persons conducting or otherwise present during a body cavity search or a strip search must be of the same sex as the person being searched, except for physicians and licensed medical personnel [Penal Code § 4030(l)].

[c] Privacy During Search

All strip searches and body cavity searches must be conducted in an area of privacy so that the search cannot be observed by persons not participating in the search. Persons are considered to be participating in the search if their official search duties require them to be present during the search [Penal Code § 4030(m)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil Rights LawPrisoner RightsSearch & SeizureCriminal Law & ProcedureSearch & SeizureGeneral OverviewCriminal Law & ProcedureSearch & SeizureWarrantless SearchesAdministrative SearchesGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Actions by Persons Wrongfully Subjected to Body Cavity or Strip Search

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.83

§ 465.83 Judicial Remedies

Any person who suffers damage or harm as a result of a strip search or body cavity search may bring a civil action to recover the greater of either actual damages or $1,000. In addition, the court may, in its discretion, award punitive damages, equitable relief as it deems necessary and proper, and costs, including reasonable attorney's fees [Penal Code § 4030(p); see §§ 465.124 -465.129]. Nothing in Penal Code § 4030 may be construed to limit any common law action for damages or injunctive relief, or to preclude the prosecution under another provision of law of any law enforcement officer or other person who has violated Penal Code § 4030 [Penal Code § 4030(o)].

Anyone who knowingly and willfully authorizes or conducts a strip search or body cavity search in violation of Penal Code § 4030 is guilty of a misdemeanor [Penal Code § 4030(n)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesDamagesPunitive DamagesCriminal Law & ProcedureSearch & SeizureGeneral OverviewGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Actions by Persons Wrongfully Subjected to Body Cavity or Strip Search

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 465.84-465.99

[Reserved]

§§ 465.84[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.100

§ 465.100 State Statutes

[1] Body Cavity and Strip Searches

[a] Provisions Applicable to All Types of Searches

Protection limited to detainees for minor offenses. Penal Code § 4030(b)

Standard booking searches are permissible. Penal Code § 4030(e)

Restrictions on placement of detainees in main population. Penal Code § 4030(g)

Record of document authorizing search. Penal Code § 4030(i)

Touching of private parts during permissible strip search or visual body cavity search prohibited. Penal Code § 4030(j)

Sex of persons conducting search. Penal Code § 4030(l)

Privacy during search. Penal Code § 4030(m)

[b] Definitions

Strip search. Penal Code § 4030(c)

Visual body cavity search. Penal Code § 4030(d)(1), (2)

Physical body cavity search. Penal Code § 4030(d)(3)

[c] Physical Body Cavity Searches

Search warrant requirement. Penal Code § 4030(h)

Other requirements. Penal Code § 4030(k)

[d] Visual Body Cavity and Strip Searches

Prohibited without reasonable suspicion. Penal Code § 4030(f)

Authorization of supervisor required. Penal Code § 4030(f)

[e] Remedies

Unlawful search is misdemeanor. Penal Code § 4030(n)

Searched person retains common law right to sue. Penal Code § 4030(o)

Civil action. Penal Code § 4030(p)

[2] Crime Victims' Assistance

[a] Claim Procedure

[i] Application

Application form. Gov. Code § 13952(a)

Verification required. Gov. Code § 13952(b)(1)

Incomplete applications. Gov. Code § 13952(c)(2)

Statute of limitations. Gov. Code § 13953(a), (c)

Board verification of application. Gov. Code § 13954(a)

[ii] Hearing

Applicant's right to hearing. Gov. Code § 13959(a)

Exclusion of public from hearing if application being considered is result of either crime against minor or crime of sexual assault or domestic violence. Gov. Code § 13959(b)

Standard of proof. Gov. Code § 13959(c)

Delegation of duty to hold hearing. Gov. Code § 13959(g)

Written decision after hearing. Gov. Code § 13959(h)

[b] Court-Ordered Restitution

Restitution requirements for criminal defendant convicted of crime. Penal Code § 1202.4

Restitution requirement for minor adjudged ward of state based on commission of crime. Welf. & Inst. Code § 730.6

[c] Definitions

Crime. Gov. Code § 13951(b)

Derivative victim. Gov. Code § 13951(c)

Pecuniary loss. Gov. Code § 13951(e)

Peer counseling. Gov. Code § 13951(f)

Victim. Gov. Code § 13951(g)

Victim center. Gov. Code § 13951(h)

[d] Eligibility

Basis of eligibility. Gov. Code § 13955

Factors defeating eligibility. Gov. Code § 13956

Applications based on domestic violence. Gov. Code § 13956(b)(2)

[e] Emergency Award

Availability. Gov. Code § 13952.5(a)

Disposition of application. Gov. Code § 13952.5(c), (d)

No appeal of denial of award. Gov. Code § 13952.5(e)(2)

Reimbursement of award by applicant. Gov. Code § 13952.5(f)

Amount of award. Gov. Code § 13952.5(g)

[f] Reconsideration and Review

Court review. Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; Gov. Code § 13960(a)

Board reconsideration. Gov. Code § 13959(i)

Attorney's fees. Gov. Code § 13960(b)

[g] Scope of Recovery

Mental health counseling expenses. Gov. Code § 13957(a)(2)

Job training or rehabilitative services. Gov. Code § 13957(a)(5)

Reimbursement to person who voluntarily pays or assumes obligation to pay deceased victim's medical or burial expenses. Gov. Code § 13957(a)(9)(A), (B)

Maximum amount of award. Gov. Code § 13957(b)

Maximum rates and service limitations established by board. Gov. Code § 13957.2(a)

Independent medical and mental health examinations and reports. Gov. Code § 13957.2(b)

Loss of wages. Gov. Code § 13957.5(a)(1)

Loss of support. Gov. Code § 13957.5(a)(4)

Board's discretion to make payments directly to providers before verification. Gov. Code § 13957.7(c)(1)

Attorney's fees. Gov. Code § 13957.7(g)

Time limit for board action on application. Gov. Code § 13958

[h] Victim Centers

Statutory right of victims to be provided with information concerning Restitution Fund; information to be distributed by Victims' Legal Resource Center to local law enforcement agencies and local victims' programs. Penal Code § 679.02(a)(8), (b)

Required services. Penal Code §§ 13835-13835.7

Establishment and funding. Penal Code § 13835.2

Training for victim service providers. Penal Code § 13835.10

Victims' Legal Resource Center. Penal Code § 13897 et seq.

[3] Indemnification of "Good Samaritans"

[a] Award

Maximum amount. Gov. Code § 13973

Attorney's fees. Gov. Code § 13973

[b] Claim

Right to file claim. Gov. Code § 13972

Required information. Gov. Code § 13972

[c] Eligibility

Generally. Gov. Code § 13970

Private citizen entitled to claim indemnification. Gov. Code § 13971

[d] Hearing

Evidence. Gov. Code § 13973

Standard of proof. Gov. Code § 13973

[4] Indemnification of Persons Erroneously Imprisoned

[a] Claim

Eligibility. Penal Code § 4900

Statement of facts and verification required. Penal Code § 4901

Time to file claim. Penal Code § 4901

Indemnification at discretion of legislature. Penal Code § 4904

[b] Hearing

Setting and notice of hearing. Penal Code § 4902

Evidence. Penal Code § 4903

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil Rights LawPrisoner RightsSearch & SeizureCriminal Law & ProcedureSearch & SeizureGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLegislationStatutory Remedies & RightsGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsAdministrative Boards

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.101

§ 465.101 Administrative Regulations

[1] Assistance for Crime Victims

Good cause for filing late claim. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 649.15

Third-party applications not permitted. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 649.12

Amount. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 649.24

[2] Indemnification of "Good Samaritans"

Time for presentation of claims. 2 Cal. Code Reg § 648.1

Contents of claims. 2 Cal. Code Reg § 648.2

Claims form. 2 Cal. Code Reg § 648.3

Special grounds for disallowing claims. 2 Cal. Code Reg § 648.4

Amount of indemnification. 2 Cal. Code Reg § 648.5

[3] Indemnification of Persons Erroneously Imprisoned

Presentation and contents of claim. 2 Cal. Code Reg § 640

Burden of proof. 2 Cal. Code Reg § 641

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil Rights LawPrisoner RightsSearch & SeizureCriminal Law & ProcedureSearch & SeizureGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLegislationStatutory Remedies & RightsGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsAdministrative Boards

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.102

§ 465.102 Decisions

[1] Assistance for Crime Victims

Claimant under both Victims of Violent Crime Act (Gov. Code § 13959 et seq.) and "Good Samaritan Act" (Gov. Code § 13970 et seq.) is not entitled to double recovery for same injuries. Webster v. State Bd. of Control (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 29, 34, 242 Cal. Rptr. 685 .

Child of murdered mother foreclosed from collecting payments under Victims of Violent Crime Act for loss of future support claim because child failed to present evidence of measurable loss of support. Blazevich v. State Bd. of Control (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1121, 1126-1127, 237 Cal. Rptr. 35

Victims of Violent Crime Act provides recovery only for out-of-pocket losses. Blazevich v. State Bd. of Control (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1121, 1126, 237 Cal. Rptr. 35

Children of murdered father foreclosed from collecting payments under Victims of Violent Crime Act for lost support claims because they were compensated for loss of support by Social Security benefits. Fierro v. State Bd. of Control (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 735, 738-740, 236 Cal. Rptr. 516

"Collateral source" exception inapplicable to reimbursement aspects of Victims of Violent Crime Act. Fierro v. State Bd. of Control (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 735, 740-741, 236 Cal. Rptr. 516

Under Lab. Code § 4903, Workers' Compensation Appeals Board authorized to allow as lien against workers' compensation amount of any indemnification granted victim pursuant to Victims of Violent Crime Act; amount of indemnification crime victim receives under victims of violent crime program allowed as lien against both temporary and permanent disability awards. Burnsed v. State Bd. of Control (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 213, 218, 234 Cal. Rptr. 316

Phrase "any other source," as used in Gov. Code § 13960(d), defining pecuniary loss to mean specified expenses for which victim "has not and will not be reimbursed from any other source," means "every other source." Burnsed v. State

Bd. of Control (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 213, 217, 234 Cal. Rptr. 316 ; see Webster v. State Bd. of Control (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 29, 38, 242 Cal. Rptr. 685

In proceeding under Victims of Violent Crime Act by worker, who had been assaulted and battered on job by unknown assailants and awarded temporary disability benefits and advance on permanent disability benefits, for restitution of unreimbursed portion of income lost as result of injuries sustained, California State Board of Control properly offset amount of lost wages by amount of permanent disability payments victim received under Workers' Compensation Act. Burnsed v. State Bd. of Control (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 213, 215, 234 Cal. Rptr. 316 ; see Webster v. State Bd. of Control (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 29, 38, 242 Cal. Rptr. 685

Unlawful resident alien eligible for crime victim restitution. Cabral v. State Bd. of Control (1980) 112 Cal. App. 3d 1012, 1016-1017, 169 Cal. Rptr. 604 (lawful presence requirement of former 2 Cal. Code Reg § 649.12 beyond scope of enabling statute)

California Victims of Crimes Act (Gov. Code § 13959 et seq.) is constitutional although it does not provide compensation for nonresident victims of crimes. Ostrager v. State Bd. of Control (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 1, 6-8, 160 Cal. Rptr. 317

[2] Indemnification of "Good Samaritans"

"Good Samaritan Act" (Gov. Code § 13970 et seq.) allows recovery only for loss of support to surviving spouse or child; no recovery for loss of support if "Good Samaritan" does not die. Webster v. State Bd. of Control (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 29, 40, 242 Cal. Rptr. 685

Unlike Victims of Violent Crime Act (Gov. Code § 13959 et seq.), "Good Samaritan Act" is not expressly limited to pecuniary loss; nevertheless, "Good Samaritan Act" does not allow recovery for nonpecuniary injuries such as pain and suffering. Webster v. State Bd. of Control (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 29, 35-38, 242 Cal. Rptr. 685

Claimant under both Victims of Violent Crime Act (Gov. Code § 13959 et seq.) and Good Samaritan Act is not entitled to double recovery for same injuries. Webster v. State Bd. of Control (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 29, 34, 242 Cal. Rptr. 685

[3] Indemnification of Persons Erroneously Imprisoned

Person who has been found not guilty by reason of insanity is not entitled to indemnity under Penal Code § 4900 et seq.. Ebberts v. State Bd. of Control (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 329, 331-336, 148 Cal. Rptr. 543

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil Rights LawPrisoner RightsSearch & SeizureGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.103

§ 465.103 Attorney General Opinions

Victim who is active litigant responsible for state's recovery of money on lien on award against perpetrator is not entitled to proportionate share of attorney's fees from state under common fund doctrine. 64 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 540 (1981)

Sexual assault victim's specification of public or private hospital to which he or she will be taken for evidentiary examination does not affect state's liability to pay for treatment of sexual assault victim, regardless of whether victim contacted local law enforcement agency before going to hospital, if hospital is reasonably acceptable to appropriate local agency. 60 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 390 (1977)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil Rights LawPrisoner RightsSearch & SeizureGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstHealthcare LawGood Samaritan LawsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.104

§ 465.104 Law Reviews

Edwards, Contributory Negligence in Compensation Claims by Victims of Sexual Assault, 132 New L.J. 1140 (1982)

Harland, Monetary Remedies for the Victims of Crime: Assessing the Role of the Criminal Courts, 30 UCLA L. Rev. 52 (1982)

Heinz, Victim and Witness Protection Act of 1982, 29 Prac. Law. 13 (1983)

Scutt, Victims, Offenders and Restitution: Real Alternative or Panacea?, 56 A.L.J. 156 (1982)

Survey, Women and California Law: Part II. C. Sex Offenses, 16 Golden Gate U.L. Rev. 555 (1986)

Comment, Restitution for Crime Victims: The California Legislature Responds to Proposition 8, 14 Sw. U.L. Rev. 745 (1984)

Comment, Rehabilitation of the Victims of Crime: An Overview, 21 UCLA L. Rev. 317 (1973)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstHealthcare LawGood Samaritan LawsTortsNegligenceDefensesContributory NegligenceGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceDefensesContributory NegligenceLimits on ApplicationIntentional TortsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 465.105-465.119

[Reserved]

§§ 465.105[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART IV. FORMS

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.120

§ 465.120 Application for Assistance by Crime Victim [Gov. Code § 13950 et seq.]

[1] FORM Application for Assistance by Crime Victim [Gov. Code § 13950 et seq.]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The application form above is for use by a crime victim or derivative victim to apply for assistance (including an emergency award)from the state [Gov. Code §§ 13952, 13952.5].

[3] Time for Filing

The application for assistance must be filed within the latest of (1) one year after the date of the crime, (2) one year after the victim attains the age of 18 years, or (3) one year after the victim or derivative victim knew (or in the exercise of ordinary diligence could have discovered) that an injury or death had directly resulted from the crime. Additionally, an application for compensation based on a crime involving sex with a minor eligible for prosecution under Pen. Code § 801.1 may be filed any time prior to the victim's 28th birthday [Gov. Code § 13953(a)]. The board may for good cause grant an extension of this time period [Gov. Code § 13953(a), (b)].

[4] Return of Incomplete Application

If an application is not complete, it will be returned to the applicant with a brief statement of the additional information required. The victim, within 30 days after receipt of the returned application, may supply the additional information or appeal the staff's action to the board [Gov. Code § 13952(c)(2)].

[5] Verification

The form above must be verified under penalty of perjury, and it includes a form of verification above the signature block [Gov. Code § 13952(b)(1); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART IV. FORMS

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.121

§ 465.121 Claim for Indemnification of Damages by Private Citizen Who Apprehended Criminal, Prevented Crime, or Rescued Person [Gov. Code §§ 13970-13974]

[1] FORM Claim for Indemnification of Damages by Private Citizen Who Apprehended Criminal, Prevented Crime, or Rescued Person [Gov. Code §§ 13970-13974]

BEFORE THE VICTIM COMPENSATION AND GOVERNMENT CLAIMS BOARD OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA

In the Matter of the Claim of _____ [name]

_____[name of claimant] hereby claims indemnification in the sum of $_____ and in support of the claim represents as follows:

1. The occurrence that gave rise to the claim took place on _____[date], at _____[location]. The circumstances surrounding the occurrence are as follows: _____[describe circumstances surrounding crime against person or property of another, or apprehension of criminal by law enforcement officer, or immediate danger to another from fire, drowning, or other catastrophe].

2. With regard to the above stated occurrence, _____ [the claimant or _____ (name of person who performed the actions)] performed the following actions _____[describe actions on which claim is based]. These actions contributed materially to _____ [prevention of the above stated crime or apprehension of _____ (name of criminal) or the rescue of _____ (name of person rescued)].

[3. The claimant is the surviving _____ (spouse or child) of the person who performed the aforementioned actions.]

[4. The claimant was dependent on the person who performed the aforementioned actions for his/her principal income or support.]

5. The amount of damages sustained as a direct result of the aforementioned actions, insofar as it is now known is $_____.

6. The above amount was calculated as follows: _____[specify injuries and damages suffered by persons to be indemnified, dollar amount assigned to each injury or item of damage, and calculation used to arrive at total amount].

[EITHER]

7. _____[Name of claimant] has not actually received compensation for the above-described injuries and damages and does not have the right to receive such compensation from any other source.

[OR]

7. The following amounts have been received in compensation or reimbursement for the above-described injuries and damages: _____[specify amounts and sources]. These amounts of compensation leave _____[name of claimant] without compensation for $_____ of the aforementioned injuries and damages.

8. Send notices to:

_____[list names and addresses of interested persons and agencies]

VERIFICATION

I,_____[name], am the claimant in the above-entitled claim. I have read the foregoing claim and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein stated on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____[date]

_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

The form above is for use by a private citizen who claims indemnification under Gov. Code §§ 13970-13974 for injuries or damages directly resulting from the acts of a private citizen who prevented a crime against another person, aided in the apprehension of a criminal, or rescued another person from danger.

A claim may be filed by or on behalf of the private citizen who performed the acts on which the claim is based, the surviving spouse or children of this citizen, or persons who were dependent on this citizen for their income or support [ see Gov. Code § 13972].

The form may be adapted for use by a law enforcement or public service agency to claim indemnification on behalf of a person entitled to indemnification under Gov. Code § 13972, although law enforcement or public service officers may not recover personally.

[3] Time for Filing

A claim must be presented to the board not later than one year after the occurrence of the injury or damage. A claim filed after that period will not be considered unless the board determines that, for good and sufficient reason, the claim was not filed within the one-year period [2 Cal. Code Reg § 648.1].

[4] Corroboration

A claim must be accompanied by a statement from an appropriate state or local law enforcement or public safety agency, corroborating that the claimant incurred injury or damage as a direct consequence of preventing a crime, aiding in the apprehension of a criminal, or rescuing another person from danger. The statement must also contain the recommendation of the law enforcement or public safety agency on the claim [Gov. Code § 13972].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART IV. FORMS

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.122

§ 465.122 Claim for Indemnification by Person Erroneously Imprisoned [Penal Code §§ 4900-4906]

[1] FORM Claim for Indemnification by Person Erroneously Imprisoned [Penal Code §§ 4900-4906]

BEFORE THE VICTIM COMPENSATION AND GOVERNMENT CLAIMS BOARD OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA

In the Matter of the Claim of
_____
[name] against the State of California

_____[name of claimant] makes claim against the State of California in the sum of $_____ and in support of the claim represents as follows:

1. Claimant was convicted of_____[specify felony] in the Superior Court of the County of _____, on_____[date], and was sentenced to_____[specify term].

2. Claimant was imprisoned at_____[specify name and location of state correctional institution] from_____[date], to_____[date]. [If claimant was imprisoned at more than one institution, specify time served at each institution.] The total amount of time for which claimant was imprisoned for the aforementioned felony was_____[specify total time].

3. _____ [State facts showing that the crime with which claimant was charged was not committed at all or that claimant did not commit it, e.g., The eyewitnesses who identified the claimant as the criminal have all recanted and agree that _____ (name), who physically resembles the claimant and who has confessed to the crime, was the person they observed committing the crime]. The claimant did not by any act or omission on [his or her] part, intentionally contribute to the bringing about of [his or her] arrest or conviction for the crime with which

[he or she] was charged,_____[set out supporting facts, e.g., but at all times before and after arrest vigorously denied [his or her] guilt and presented the evidence of [his or her] spouse that the claimant was not at the scene of the crime].

4. Claimant sustained pecuniary injury as a result of the aforementioned conviction and incarceration as follows: _____ [specify, e.g., lost earnings in the amount of $_____, attorney's fees, and other expenses related to defending against the felony charge in the amount of $_____].

5. The date of claimant's_____[insert whichever of the following was latest in time: judgment of acquittal or discharge from prison or grant of pardon or release from prison] was_____[date].
Dated:_____[date]

_____ [signature]

Claimant
_____ [address]

[Verification. See § 465.124.]

[2] Use of Form

The form above is based on the model form set out in 2 Cal. Code Reg § 640 and is for use by a person erroneously convicted of and imprisoned for a felony in making a claim to the board under Penal Code § 4900 for indemnification for pecuniary injury suffered as a result of the erroneous conviction and imprisonment.

[3] Time for Filing

The claim must be presented to the board within a period of two years after judgment of acquittal or discharge given, after pardon granted, or after release from imprisonment [Penal Code 4901].

[4] Verification

The claim must be verified in the manner required for verification of complaints [Penal Code § 4901; see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 446, 2015.5].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART IV. FORMS

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.123

§ 465.123 Complaint for Damages Resulting From Improper Strip Search or Body Cavity Search [Penal Code § 4030]--General Form

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages Resulting From Improper Strip Search or Body Cavity Search [Penal Code § 4030]--General Form

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)
_____ [name], Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____ [names], Defendants.	)	[Amount demanded _____ (exceeds
	)	or does not exceed) $10,000]
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff is and at all times herein mentioned was a resident of _____ County, California.

2. Defendant_____[name of law enforcement agency] is a duly constituted law enforcement agency charged with administering and maintaining_____[name of jail facility], which is located in _____ County, California.

[EITHER]

3. Defendant City of _____ is, and at all times mentioned herein was, a municipal corporation, duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California and situated in the County of _____.

[OR]

3. Defendant City of _____ is, and at all times mentioned herein was, a chartered city, duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California and situated in the County of _____.

[OR]

3. Defendant County of _____ is, and at all times mentioned herein was, a county duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California.

4. Defendants_____[names of individual defendants] are and at all times alleged herein were employees of defendant law enforcement agency and as such were responsible for conducting the improper search of the plaintiff alleged herein, or were in some other way responsible for the damages suffered by the plaintiff as alleged herein.

5. The true name or capacities of defendants DOE 1 through DOE_____[number] are unknown to plaintiff, who therefore sues such defendants by such fictitious names, and will amend this complaint to show their true names and capacities when they are ascertained. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of the defendants designated as a DOE is responsible in some manner for the improper conduct herein alleged.

[EITHER, if the plaintiff is an adult]

6. On_____[date], the plaintiff was arrested and detained by defendant law enforcement agency pending arraignment on a charge of_____[specify misdemeanor or infraction offense]. [If the plaintiff was subjected only to an improper strip search or visual body cavity search, add: The offense for which the plaintiff was arrested and detained did not involve weapons, contraband, or violence.]

[OR, if the plaintiff is a minor]

6. On_____[date], the plaintiff was detained by defendant law enforcement agency before a detention hearing on the grounds that the plaintiff is a person described in Section_____[300 or 601 or 602] of the Welfare and Institutions Code. [If the plaintiff was subjected only to an improper strip search or visual body cavity search, add: The plaintiff was not alleged to have committed a felony or an offense involving weapons, contraband, or violence.]

7. During the above-alleged detention, and without the plaintiff being properly placed in the main population of the jail, the defendants subjected the plaintiff to a search in which the plaintiff was required to_____[remove or arrange] some or all of [his or her] clothing so as to permit a visual inspection of [his or her]_____[underclothing or breasts or buttocks or genitalia or combination thereof]. [If the plaintiff was subjected to a visual body cavity search, add: During the course of this search, the defendants visually inspected the plaintiff's _____ (rectal cavity or vagina)].

8. [If the plaintiff was subjected to a physical body cavity search, add: The search to which the plaintiff was subject included physical intrusion into the plaintiff's_____[stomach or rectal cavity or vagina] for the purpose of discovering concealed objects.]

9. [In this and following Paragraphs, allege impropriety or improper conduct of the above alleged searches by the defendants. For specific allegations of improper strip search or body cavity search, or improper conduct of such search, see §§ 465.182 -465.186.]

10. As a proximate result of the defendants' aforementioned improper conduct, the plaintiff_____[specify damages suffered, e.g., suffered and continues to suffer great humiliation and embarrassment].

[11. As a further proximate result of the defendants' aforementioned improper conduct, the plaintiff _____ (specify additional damages, e.g., has incurred bills for psychological counseling and treatment) and will continue to incur such bills.]

12. [If plaintiff is seeking punitive damages, add: In engaging in the above alleged conduct, the defendants, and each of them, were acting with malice, oppression, or fraud in that _____ (specify conduct)].

13. In prosecuting this action, the plaintiff has incurred attorney's fees in the sum of $_____.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendants, and each of them, as follows:

1. For general damages according to proof;

[2. For special damages according to proof];

[3. For punitive damages]; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

VERIFICATION

I,_____[name], am the plaintiff in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____[date]

_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

The form above is for use by a person who was detained by a law enforcement agency and who seeks damages pursuant to Penal Code § 4030 for an improper strip search or body cavity search.

This form may be used in combination with the forms in §§ 465.182 -465.186, which set out specific allegations of impropriety under Penal Code § 4030 regarding strip or body cavity searches of detainees for minor offenses.

[3] Allegations

This form alleges:

- The plaintiff's capacity and residence (Paragraph 1).
- The status and location of defendant law enforcement agency (Paragraph 2).
- The capacity and responsibility of the individual defendants (Paragraphs 3 and 4).
- Fictitious defendants (Paragraph 5).
- The detention or arrest of the plaintiff [Penal Code § 4030(b), (f)] (Paragraph 6).
- The defendants' conduct of strip search or body cavity search [Penal Code § 4030(c)] (Paragraph 7).
- Damages [Penal Code § 4030(p)] (Paragraph 10).
- Attorney's fees [Penal Code § 4030(p)] (Paragraph 13).

The form includes optional allegations that the defendant(s) conducted a visual body cavity search [Penal Code § 4030(d)(1), (2)] (Paragraph 7) or a physical body cavity search [Penal Code § 4030(d)(1), (3)] (Paragraph 8), or both. The form also includes optional allegations that the defendant(s) acted with oppression, fraud, or malice, for use if the plaintiff seeks punitive damages [Civ. Code § 3294] (Paragraph 12), and of special damages (see Paragraph 11).

[4] Requirement of Damages or Harm

A person must have suffered damages or harm as a result of an illegal strip search or body cavity search in order to have standing to bring a civil action under Penal Code § 4030 [see Penal Code § 4030(p)]. Because this statute does not specify what constitutes damages or harm, it is not clear whether damages for injuries such as embarrassment or mental anguish are sufficient to create standing to sue under Penal Code § 4030.

[5] Amount of Damages

A person who has suffered damages or harm as a result of a violation of Penal Code § 4030 may recover the greater of actual damages or $1,000, in addition to punitive damages when appropriate [Penal Code § 4030(p)]. If the complaint is filed for actual or punitive damages for personal injury, it must not state the amount of damages sought [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)]. Furthermore, no claim for exemplary or punitive damages may state an amount or amounts [see Civ. Code § 3295(e)].

For discussion and forms relating to statements of damages if the complaint cannot give the amount, see Ch. 177, Damages.

[6] Attorney's Fees

A person who has suffered damages or harm as a result of a violation of Penal Code § 4030 may recover reasonable attorney's fees and costs [see Penal Code § 4030(p)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART IV. FORMS

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.124

§ 465.124 Class Action Complaint for Temporary Restraining Order, Preliminary Injunction [Code Civ. Proc. § 527], and Permanent Injunction [Code Civ. Proc. § 526]--Improper Strip Search or Body Cavity Search [Penal Code § 4030]--General Form

[1] FORM Class Action Complaint for Temporary Restraining Order, Preliminary Injunction [Code Civ. Proc. § 527], and Permanent Injunction [Code Civ. Proc. § 526]--Improper Strip Search or Body Cavity Search [Penal Code § 4030]--General Form

[Caption. See § 465.123.]

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity and residence of the plaintiff. See § 465.123, Paragraph 1.]

2. [Capacity and location of defendant law enforcement agency. See § 465.123, Paragraph 2.]

3. [Capacity of defendant municipality or county. See § 465.123, Paragraph 3.]

4. The defendants_____[names of individual defendants] are and at all times alleged herein were employees of defendant law enforcement agency and as such were and continue to be responsible for the policies and conduct of the defendant law enforcement agency regarding_____[strip search or body cavity search] alleged herein.

5. [Fictitious defendant allegations. See § 465.123, Paragraph 5.]

6. The plaintiff brings this action on [his or her] own behalf and on behalf of all persons similarly situated. The class that the plaintiff represents is composed of all persons detained in_____[name of jail facility], but not in the main population of the jail facility, as (1) adults charged with infractions or misdemeanor offenses and (2) as minors on the ground that they are persons described in Sections 300, 601 or 602 of the Welfare and Institutions Code.

[7. The alleged offenses that caused these above-described class members to be detained are not felonies and do not involve weapons, contraband, or violence].

8. The persons in this class are so numerous that the joinder of all these persons is impracticable, and disposition of their claims in a class action is a benefit to the parties and to the court.

9. There is a well-defined community of interest in the questions of law and fact involved affecting the parties to be represented in that the defendants' continuing practice of improper conduct regarding searches as hereinafter stated affects all members of the class. Proof of a common or single state of facts will establish the right of each member of the class to judgment in that Section 4030 of the Penal Code grants the same rights with respect to the conduct by the defendants herein complained of to all members of the above-mentioned class, and proof that the defendants' ongoing practice as stated herein violates these rights will be applicable to all members of the class. Moreover, a temporary restraining order, preliminary injunction, and permanent injunction proscribing the defendants' practice will benefit all members of the class equally.

10. It is the ongoing practice and policy of the defendants to subject the plaintiffs on detention as described in Paragraph 6, above, [if plaintiff is seeking relief only for strip and visual body cavity searches, add: when there has been no allegation of a felony or an offense involving weapons, contraband, or violence] to a search requiring_____[removal or arrangement] of clothing to permit a visual inspection of_____[underclothing or breasts or buttocks or genitalia or combination thereof] [If the plaintiff is seeking relief for visual body cavity searches, add: and involving a visual inspection of the (_____ rectal cavity or vagina)].

[11. If plaintiff is seeking relief for physical body cavity searches, add: It is furthermore the ongoing practice and policy of the defendants to subject the plaintiffs on detention as described in Paragraph 6, to a search involving physical intrusion into the _____ (stomach or rectal cavity or vagina) for the purpose of discovering objects concealed in this cavity.]

12. [In this and following Paragraphs, allege impropriety or improper conduct of the above alleged searches by defendants. For specific allegations of improper strip searches or body cavity searches, or improper conduct of these searches, see §§ 465.126 -465.129.]

[13. If the plaintiff is seeking a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction, add: The defendants' wrongful conduct, unless and until enjoined and restrained by order of this court, will cause great and irreparable injury to the plaintiffs in that _____ (specify particular facts showing that great and irreparable injury will result).]

14. The plaintiffs have no adequate remedy at law for the injuries here complained of in that_____[specify facts in addition to those previously alleged showing inadequacy of legal remedy, e.g., the defendants' practice constitutes a continuing wrong, and monetary damages would not protect the plaintiffs from suffering harm from the defendants' improper conduct in the future].

15. [Attorney's fees. See § 465.123, Paragraph 13.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendants, and each of them, as follows:

1. For a temporary restraining order, a preliminary injunction, and a permanent injunction, all enjoining the defendants and each of them, and their agents, servants, and employees, and all persons acting in concert with or for them, from conducting searches of the plaintiffs in the manner described in this complaint;

2. For reasonable attorney's fees as determined by the court;

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification. See § 465.123 .]

[2] Use of Form

The form above is for use in a class action seeking injunctive relief for strip searches or body cavity searches of persons who have been detained or arrested for minor offenses, if the strip search or body cavity search itself is improper under Penal Code § 4030 or if the search is conducted in a manner that is improper under Penal Code § 4030. A civil action seeking equitable relief for violations of Penal Code § 4030 is provided for by Penal Code § 4030(p).

This form should be used in combination with forms of allegations that state specific instances of impropriety under Penal Code § 4030regarding strip searches or body cavity searches [see §§ 465.126 -465.129]. If past misconduct has caused damage to the plaintiff, the form may also be used in combination with a form of complaint for damages for violations of Penal Code § 4030 regarding strip searches and body cavity searches [see § 465.123].

[3] Allegations

This form alleges:

- The capacity and responsibility of the individual defendants (Paragraph 4);
- The existence of a class represented by the plaintiff consisting of persons covered by Penal Code § 4030 [Code Civ. Proc. § 382; Penal Code § 4030(b)] (Paragraph 6);
- The fact that the class is too numerous to permit joinder of all members [Code Civ. Proc. § 382] (Paragraph 8);
- A well-defined community of interest among the members of the class [Code Civ. Proc. § 382] (Paragraph 9);
- The defendants' ongoing practice of subjecting the plaintiffs to strip or body cavity search [Penal Code § 4030(c)] (Paragraph 10);
- That the defendants' conduct will cause great and irreparable harm if not enjoined [Code Civ. Proc. § 527] (Paragraph 13); and
- The lack of an adequate remedy at law [Code Civ. Proc. § 526] (Paragraph 14).

The form includes the following optional allegations: (1) that members of the plaintiff class were not detained for felonies or crimes involving weapons, controlled substances, or violence (for use if the plaintiff is alleging visual body cavity searches) [Penal Code § 4030(f)] (Paragraph 7); and (2) the defendants' conduct of physical body cavity searches [Penal Code § 4030(d)(1)-(3)] (Paragraph 11).

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART IV. FORMS

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.125

§ 465.125 Allegation--Strip Search or Visual Body Cavity Search Conducted Without Reasonable Suspicion [Penal Code § 4030(f)]

[1] FORM Allegation--Strip Search or Visual Body Cavity Search Conducted Without Reasonable Suspicion [Penal Code § 4030(f)]

The defendants conducted the aforementioned search despite the absence of a reasonable suspicion, based on specific and articulable facts, to believe that the plaintiff was concealing a weapon or contraband, or a reasonable suspicion that the search would result in discovery of weapons or contraband.

[2] Use of Form

The allegation above states that the defendants, in violation of Penal Code § 4030(f), conducted a strip search or a visual body cavity search of the plaintiff without reasonable suspicion based on articulable facts that the plaintiff was concealing weapons or contraband or a reasonable suspicion that the search would lead to discovery of these items. This allegation may be incorporated into a general form of complaint for conduct with respect to improper strip searches and visual body cavity searches under Penal Code § 4030 [see § 465.123]. This allegation may also be adapted for use in a general form of class action complaint seeking injunctive relief for improper strip searches and visual body cavity searches [see § 465.124]. This allegation may be inserted into Paragraph 9 of the form in § 465.123, or it may be inserted into Paragraph 12 of the form in § 465.124, if it is adapted for injunctive relief.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART IV. FORMS

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.126

§ 465.126 Allegation--Strip Search or Visual Body Cavity Search Conducted Without Authorization of Supervising Officer [Penal Code § 4030(f)]

[1] FORM Allegation--Strip Search or Visual Body Cavity Search Conducted Without Authorization of Supervising Officer [Penal Code § 4030(f)]

[EITHER]

The defendants conducted the aforementioned search despite the absence of written authorization by the supervising officer on duty at the time that the search was conducted.

[OR]

The purported written authorization for the aforementioned search of the plaintiff by the supervising officer on duty at the time that the search was conducted did not include the specific and articulable facts and circumstances based on which the supervising officer on duty at the time that the search was conducted determined that reasonable suspicion existed to justify the search.

[2] Use of Form

The allegation above states that the defendants conducted a strip search or visual body cavity search of the plaintiff without the written authorization for the search required by Penal Code § 4030. This allegation also alleges as an alternative that an authorization for a strip search or visual body cavity search was defective for failure to state grounds for the reasonable suspicion required to conduct the search. This allegation may be incorporated into a general form of complaint for conduct with respect to improper strip searches and visual body cavity searches under Penal Code § 4030 [see § 465.123]. This allegation may also be adapted for use in a general form of class action complaint seeking injunctive relief for improper strip searches and visual body cavity searches [see § 465.124]. This allegation may be inserted into Paragraph 9 of the form in § 465.123, or it may be inserted into Paragraph 12 of the form in § 465.124, if it is adapted for injunctive relief.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART IV. FORMS

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.127

§ 465.127 Allegation--Strip Search or Visual Body Cavity Search Improperly Conducted [Penal Code § 4030(j), (l), (m)]

[1] FORM Allegation--Strip Search or Visual Body Cavity Search Improperly Conducted [Penal Code § 4030(j), (l), (m)]

[EITHER]

[1. The defendants who were conducting the search touched the plaintiff's _____ (breasts or buttocks or genitalia or any combination thereof) while conducting the above-described search.]

[AND/OR]

[2. The above-described search was conducted in the presence of (a) person(s) who _____ (is or are) not (a) physician(s) or licensed medical personnel and who _____ (is or are) not of the same sex as the plaintiff.]

[AND/OR]

[3. The above-described search was conducted in an area from which the search could be observed by persons whose official duties relative to search procedure did not require them to be present at the time that the search was conducted.]

[2] Use of Form

The allegations above state that the defendants improperly conducted a strip or visual body cavity search. The grounds of impropriety that may be alleged are that persons touched the plaintiff's breasts, buttocks, or genitalia in violation of Penal Code § 4030(j), the search was conducted by persons who were not physicians or licensed medical personnel and who were not of the same sex as the plaintiff in violation of Penal Code § 4030(l), and that the search was not conducted in an area of privacy, in violation of Penal Code § 4030(m).

All or any one of these allegations may be incorporated into a general form of complaint for damages or injunctive relief for conduct with respect to strip or body cavity searches that is improper under Penal Code § 4030 [see § 465.123]. These allegations may also be adapted for use in a general form of class action complaint seeking injunctive relief for improper strip searches and visual body cavity searches [see § 465.124]. These allegations may be inserted into Paragraph 9 of the form in § 465.123, or into Paragraph 12 of the form in § 465.124, if adapted for injunctive relief.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART IV. FORMS

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.128

§ 465.128 Allegation--Warrantless Physical Body Cavity Search Conducted [Penal Code § 4030(h)]

[1] FORM Allegation--Warrantless Physical Body Cavity Search Conducted [Penal Code § 4030(h)]

The defendants conducted the aforementioned search despite the fact that no search warrant specifically authorizing physical intrusion into a body cavity had been issued by a magistrate.

[2] Use of Form

The allegation above states that the defendants conducted a physical body cavity search of the plaintiff without a search warrant, in violation of Penal Code § 4030(h). This allegation may be incorporated into a general form of complaint for conduct with respect to improper strip searches and visual body cavity searches under Penal Code § 4030 [see § 465.123]. This allegation may also be adapted for use in a general form of class action complaint seeking injunctive relief for improper strip searches and visual body cavity searches [see § 465.124]. This allegation may be inserted into Paragraph 9 of the form in § 465.123, or it may be inserted into Paragraph 12 of the form in § 465.124, if it is adapted for injunctive relief.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 465 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CIVIL CLAIMS ARISING FROM CRIMINAL ACTS
PART IV. FORMS

40-465 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 465.129

§ 465.129 Allegation--Physical Body Cavity Search Improperly Conducted [Penal Code § 4030(k)-(m)]

[1] FORM Allegation--Physical Body Cavity Search Improperly Conducted [Penal Code § 4030(k), (l), (m)]

[EITHER]

1. The conditions under which the defendants conducted the above-described search were not sanitary in that_____[describe unsanitary conditions].

[AND/OR]

2. The persons who conducted the above-described search included persons who were not physicians, registered nurses, licensed vocational nurses, or Level III emergency medical technicians licensed to practice in California.

[AND/OR]

3. [Allegation that search was conducted by nonphysicians of opposite sex. See § 465.184, Paragraph 2.]

[AND/OR]

4. [Allegation that search was not conducted in place of privacy. See § 465.184, Paragraph 3.]

[2] Use of Form

The allegations above state that the defendants improperly conducted a physical body cavity search of the plaintiff as defined in Penal Code § 4030(d)(1), (3). The grounds of impropriety that may be alleged are that the search was conducted under unsanitary conditions, using personnel without proper medical credentials in violation of Penal Code §

4030(k), using nonphysician personnel of the opposite sex in violation of Penal Code § 4030(l), or in an area that did not assure plaintiff's privacy in violation of Penal Code § 4030(m).

All or any one of these allegations may be incorporated into a general form of complaint for damages or injunctive relief for conduct with respect to strip or body cavity searches that is improper under Penal Code § 4030 [see § 465.123]. These allegations may also be adapted for use in a general form of class action complaint seeking injunctive relief for improper strip searches and visual body cavity searches [see § 465.124]. These allegations may be inserted into Paragraph 9 of the form in § 465.123, or into Paragraph 12 of the form in § 465.124, if adapted for injunctive relief.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 466 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: TAXPAYERS' ACTIONS

40-466 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 466.syn

§ 466.syn Synopsis to Chapter 466: PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: TAXPAYERS' ACTIONS

§ 466.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 466.02 Cross References

§§ 466.03through 466.19 [Reserved]

§ 466.20 Taxpayers' Action for Injunctive Relief

[1] Statutory Authority

[a] Parties to Action

[b] Exception

[c] Scope and Purpose

[2] Standing to Sue

[3] Potential Defendants

[4] Available Remedies

[5] Precedence on Court Calendar

§ 466.21 Grounds for Seeking Injunctive Relief

[1] Illegal Expenditures

[a] Testing Legality of Expenditures

[b] Challenging Performance of Contracts

[c] Constitutional Challenge to Legislation

[d] Constitutional Challenge to Police Activities

[2] Waste

[3] Injury to City or County Property

[4] Situations in Which Injunctive Relief Denied

§ 466.22 Representative Actions

[1] Right to Maintain Action

[2] Situations in Which Action Available

[a] Limitations

[b] Fraud

[c] Ultra Vires Acts

[d] Public Entity's Failure to Perform Duty Specifically Enjoined

[e] Public Official's Failure to Exercise Due Care in Authorizing Expenditure of Public Funds

[3] Pleading Requirements

§ 466.23 Attorney's Fees

§§ 466.24through 466.39 [Reserved]

§ 466.40 State Statutes

§ 466.41 Decisions

[1] Attorney's Fees

[2] Case or Controversy Requirement

[3] Defendants

[a] Agencies and Districts

[b] State Officials

[4] Definitions

[5] Illegal Expenditure of Money as Basis for Injunction

[a] Constitutional Challenge to Legislative Enactments

[b] Constitutional Challenge to Police Activities

[c] Payment of Money

[d] Performance of Contracts

[6] Pleading Requirements

[7] Purpose of Code Civ. Proc. § 526a

[8] Representative Actions

[a] Demand

[b] Defenses

[c] Right to Maintain

[i] Types of Cases

[ii] Fraud

[iii] Public Entity's Failure to Perform

[iv] Ultra Vires Act

[9] Situations in Which Injunctive Relief Denied

[10] Standing to Bring Action

[11] Statutory Construction

[12] Waste as Basis for Injunction

§ 466.42 Law Reviews

§§ 466.43through 466.59 [Reserved]

§ 466.60 Complaint for Injunction Against Public Officer to Restrain Illegal Expenditure of Public Money [Code Civ. Proc. § 526a]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Jurisdiction

[a] Subject Matter Jurisdiction

[b] Personal Jurisdiction

[4] Venue

[5] Verification

[6] Cross References

§ 466.61 Allegation of Illegal Expenditure of Public Money [Code Civ. Proc. § 526a]--Unconstitutional Statute or Ordinance

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 466.62 Allegation of Waste of Public Estate or Funds [Code Civ. Proc. § 526a]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 466.63 Complaint by Taxpayer on Behalf of Public Entity to Recover Public Funds Illegally Expended

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Public Entity as Defendant

[4] Venue

[5] Cross References

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 466 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: TAXPAYERS' ACTIONS
PART I. SCOPE

40-466 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 466.01

§ 466.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses taxpayers' actions [see § 466.20 et seq.]. It also contains a form of complaint for injunctive relief for use in a taxpayer's action under Code Civ. Proc. § 526a [see § 466.60], and alternative allegations for use in such a complaint [see §§ 466.61, 466.62]. It also contains a form of complaint for use in a taxpayer's representative action to recover public funds illegally expended [see § 466.63].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsFinanceTax LawState & Local TaxesAdministration & ProceedingsTaxpayer ProtestsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 466 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: TAXPAYERS' ACTIONS
PART I. SCOPE

40-466 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 466.02

§ 466.02 Cross References

For discussion, procedural checklist, and forms for use in obtaining injunctive relief generally, see Ch. 303, Injunctions

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsFinanceTax LawState & Local TaxesAdministration & ProceedingsTaxpayer ProtestsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 466 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: TAXPAYERS' ACTIONS
PART I. SCOPE

40-466 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 466.03through 466.19

[Reserved]

§§ 466.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 466 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: TAXPAYERS' ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

40-466 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 466.20

§ 466.20 Taxpayers' Action for Injunctive Relief

[1] Statutory Authority

[a] Parties to Action

Taxpayer's actions to restrain illegal public expenditures are governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 526a. Under that statute, an action to obtain a judgment, restraining, and preventing any illegal expenditure of, waste of, or injury to the estate, funds, or other property of a county, town, city, or city and county in California, may be maintained against any officer of that county, town, city, or city and county, or any agent or other person, acting in its behalf. It may be brought either by a citizen resident in that county, town, city, or city and county, or by a corporation, that is assessed for and is liable to pay, or within one year before the commencement of the action has paid, a tax in that county, town, city, or city and county [Code Civ. Proc. § 526a].

[b] Exception

No injunction may be granted restraining the offering for sale, the sale, or the issuance of any municipal bonds for public improvements or public utilities [Code Civ. Proc. § 526a].

[c] Scope and Purpose

The primary purpose of Code Civ. Proc. § 526a is to enable a large body of the citizenry to challenge government action that would otherwise go unchallenged in the courts because of the standing requirement [Blair v. Pitchess (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 258, 267-268, 96 Cal. Rptr. 42, 486 P.2d 1242 , superseded by statute on other grounds, Simms v. NPCK Enterprises, Inc. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 233, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 557] .

Code Civ. Proc. § 526a must be liberally construed to achieve the remedial purpose of allowing challenges to government action. It is immaterial in obtaining an injunction that the amount of the illegal expenditures is small or that the illegal expenditures actually permit a saving of tax funds. Even the expenditure of time by police officers performing illegal and unauthorized acts has been enjoined. Nor is there any requirement that the illegally spent funds derive from tax revenues; they may be derived from the operation of a public utility or from gas revenues. Finally, no showing of special damage to the particular taxpayer is necessary to obtain an injunction [Blair v. Pitchess (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 258, 268, 96 Cal. Rptr. 42, 486 P.2d 1242 , superseded by statute on other grounds, Simms v. NPCK Enterprises, Inc. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 233, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 557] .

[2] Standing to Sue

Despite the language of Code Civ. Proc. § 526a that a taxpayer's action must be maintained by a citizen taxpayer or a corporate taxpayer, the California Supreme Court has construed Code Civ. Proc. § 526a to allow an action by an individual nonresident taxpayer. The court based its interpretation on the fact that an interpretation that allowed a taxpayer's suit by a nonresident corporate taxpayer but not by a nonresident individual taxpayer would violate the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution [Irwin v. City of Manhattan Beach (1966) 65 Cal. 2d 13, 18-20, 51 Cal. Rptr. 881, 415 P.2d 769] .

[3] Potential Defendants

Code Civ. Proc. § 526a by its own terms only provides for taxpayers' actions against a county, town, city, or city and county. However, because the statute did not establish the right to a taxpayer's action, but merely codified it and limited it [Irwin v. City of Manhattan Beach (1966) 65 Cal. 2d 13, 19, 51 Cal. Rptr. 881, 415 P.2d 769] , taxpayers' actions have been allowed, without discussion, against a school district [Shakespear v. Smith (1888) 77 Cal. 638, 640-642, 20 P. 294 (pre-Code Civ. Proc. § 526a case); see California Sch. Employment Ass'n v. Sequoia Union High Sch. Dist. (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 98, 105, 77 Cal. Rptr. 187 (discussion of issue without resolution)], a fire protection district [Holman v. County of Santa Cruz (1949) 91 Cal. App. 2d 502, 514-522, 205 P.2d 767] , a municipal utility district [Strain v. East Bay Mun. Util. Dist. (1937) 21 Cal. App. 2d 281, 284-286, 69 P.2d 191] , and a rapid transit district [Mills v. San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit Dist. (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 666, 667-669, 68 Cal. Rptr. 317] . In addition, taxpayers have standing to bring such an action to enjoin expenditures by a state official [California State Employees' Assn. v. Williams (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 390, 395, 86 Cal. Rptr. 305 ; see Blair v. Pitchess (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 258, 268, 96 Cal. Rptr. 42, 486 P.2d 1242 , superseded by statute on other grounds, Simms v. NPCK Enterprises, Inc. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 233, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 557 (appearing to approve Williams holding)].

[4] Available Remedies

The language of Code Civ. Proc. § 526a clearly encompasses a suit for injunctive relief [see Code Civ. Proc. § 526a]. However, to promote the remedial purpose of the statute, California courts have also permitted taxpayer suits for declaratory relief, damages, and mandamus [Van Atta v. Scott (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 424, 449-450, 166 Cal. Rptr. 149, 613 P.2d 210 , superseded by statute on other grounds, In re York (1995) 9 Cal. 4th 1133, 40 Cal. Rptr. 2d 308, 892 P.2d 804] .

[5] Precedence on Court Calendar

An action brought pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 526a to enjoin a public improvement project has special precedence over all civil matters on the calendar of the court except those matters to which equal precedence on the calendar is granted by law [Code Civ. Proc. § 526a].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJusticiabilityStandingGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime LimitationsGovernmentsPublic ImprovementsFinancingGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTax LawState & Local TaxesAdministration & ProceedingsTaxpayer Protests

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 466 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: TAXPAYERS' ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

40-466 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 466.21

§ 466.21 Grounds for Seeking Injunctive Relief

[1] Illegal Expenditures

[a] Testing Legality of Expenditures

Taxpayers' suits can be used to test the legality of the expenditure of money by a public entity, such as the appropriation of funds to purchase land for a parking garage [Larsen v. City & County of San Francisco (1957) 152 Cal. App. 2d 355, 360-370, 313 P.2d 959] or the payment of an appropriation to provide opera performances [Jarvis v. Bloodgood (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 694, 697-700, 102 Cal. Rptr. 212] .

[b] Challenging Performance of Contracts

Taxpayers' suits can be used to challenge the performance or execution of allegedly illegal contracts by public entities, such as the enforcement of a contract to provide public defender services [Phillips v. Seely (1975) 43 Cal. App. 3d 104, 112-120, 117 Cal. Rptr. 863] , the execution of a contract to convey land [City of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (1959) 51 Cal. 2d 423, 429-438, 333 P.2d 745 ; Ruben v. City of Los Angeles (1959) 51 Cal. 2d 857, 861-864, 337 P.2d 825] , or the letting of contracts in violation of statute [Advance Med. Diagnostic Labs. v. County of Los Angeles (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 263, 267-269, 129 Cal. Rptr. 723] .

[c] Constitutional Challenge to Legislation

Many taxpayers' cases involve constitutional challenges to statutes or official actions that basically do not involve municipal finances. Of course, a complaint must allege the illegal expenditure of public funds, but the California Supreme Court has held that it is immaterial that the amount of the illegal expenditures is small [Blair v. Pitchess (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 258, 268, 96 Cal. Rptr. 42, 486 P.2d 1242 , superseded by statute on other grounds, Simms v. NPCK Enterprises, Inc. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 233, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 557 ; Wirin v. Parker (1957) 48 Cal. 2d 890, 894, 313 P.2d 844] . The Court has also held that the expenditure of time by county officials in carrying out the provisions of an unconstitutional ordinance may be enjoined even though the collection of fees for the services actually effects a saving of tax funds [Blair v. Pitchess (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 258, 268-269, 96 Cal. Rptr. 42, 486 P.2d 1242 , superseded by statute on other grounds, Simms v. NPCKEnters. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 233, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 557 ; Wirin v.

Horrall (1948) 85 Cal. App. 2d 497, 504-505, 193 P.2d 470] .

The validity of the following enactments has been decided on the merits in taxpayers' actions: the garageman's lien act [Adams v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 146, 150-158, 113 Cal. Rptr. 145, 520 P.2d 961 (partially unconstitutional)]; provisions for the enforcement of the unlawful detainer statute [Love v. Keays (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 339, 343-345, 98 Cal. Rptr. 811, 491 P.2d 395 (constitutional)]; a local tax on liquor consumed on the premises [Century Plaza Hotel Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 616, 618-626, 87 Cal. Rptr. 166 (preempted by state law)]; the claim and delivery statute [Blair v. Pitchess (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 258, 267-269, 96 Cal. Rptr. 42, 486 P.2d 1242 , superseded by statute on other grounds, Simms v. NPCK Enterprises, Inc. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 233, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 557 (unconstitutional)]; certain city loitering and housing laws [Ames v. City of Hermosa Beach (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 146, 150-154, 93 Cal. Rptr. 786 (loitering law unconstitutional)]; the state employee's loyalty oath [Vogel v. County of Los Angeles (1967) 68 Cal. 2d 18, 21-26, 64 Cal. Rptr. 409, 434 P.2d 961 (unconstitutional)]; and the state property tax exemption for nonprofit private schools below collegiate grade [Lundberg v. County of Alameda (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 644, 647-648, 298 P.2d 1 (constitutional)].

[d] Constitutional Challenge to Police Activities

The constitutionality of the following police practices has been challenged successfully in taxpayers' suits: undercover surveillance and intelligence gathering at a state university [White v. Davis (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 757, 762-763, 120 Cal. Rptr. 94, 533 P.2d 222] ; conducting police surveillance by means of concealed microphones [Wirin v. Parker (1957) 48 Cal. 2d 890, 893-896, 313 P.2d 844] ; and conducting police blockades and making searches without search warrants [Wirin v. Horrall (1948) 85 Cal. App. 2d 497, 500-506, 193 P.2d 470] .

[2] Waste

Code Civ. Proc. § 526a authorizes an injunction restraining and preventing any waste of the estate, funds, or other property of a city or county. As used in the statute, the term "waste" means something more than an alleged mistake by public officials in matters involving the exercise of judgment or wide discretion. To hold otherwise would invite constant harassment of city and county officers by disgruntled citizens and could seriously hamper our representative form of government at the local level. Therefore, the courts should not take judicial cognizance of disputes that are primarily political in nature, nor should they attempt to enjoin every expenditure that does not meet with a taxpayer's approval. On the other hand, a court must not close its eyes to wasteful, improvident, and completely unnecessary public spending merely because it is done in the exercise of a lawful power. For example, a taxpayer was entitled to state a cause of action to enjoin waste based on a city's intention to construct sewer lines in an unincorporated area that it might never be able to annex because of a dispute with another city [Ceres v. City of Modesto (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 545, 555-557, 79 Cal. Rptr. 168] .

In another case involving waste, the court reiterated that an action of a city council may not be voided by a court merely because some mistake of judgment may have occurred. The courts will entertain only those taxpayers' suits that seek to measure government performance against a legal standard. The courts cannot formulate decrees that involve the exercise of indefinable discretion, nor will they invalidate a transaction that is for municipal purposes even though there is incidental private benefit; but in measuring the transaction against a legal standard, the court may consider the transaction as a whole. The court held that a taxpayer's suit states a cause of action if, assuming the allegations are true, it fairly discloses waste of public funds or property or a manifest use of such funds or property chiefly for long-term commercial use with substantial benefit to a lessee, accompanied by diminution of active present use of the property for a municipal purpose [Rathbun v. City of Salinas (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 199, 202-203, 106 Cal. Rptr. 154] .

The California Supreme Court has held that a complaint to enjoin waste stated a cause of action based on allegations that the city was selling vacated streets, burdened with private easements of ingress and egress, at an arbitrary value of 50 percent of their unencumbered value. Those sales violated the city's charter duty to obtain 90 percent of market value of public property offered for sale, because the burdening easements varied in value [Harman v. City & County of San Francisco (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 150, 159-160, 101 Cal. Rptr. 880, 496 P.2d 1248] .

The California Supreme Court has also upheld an injunction against an election, although courts usually do not interfere with an election held in accordance with the proper procedures. However, in this case, the proposition to be voted on would have been an unconstitutional redistricting. The Court stated that an election for such a purpose would be a useless expenditure and a waste of public funds [Harnett v. County of Sacramento (1925) 195 Cal. 676, 682-683, 235 P. 445] .

[3] Injury to City or County Property

The third basis for an injunction set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 526a is injury to the estate, funds, or other property of the county or city. There are no reported cases based on this injury, which may often overlap with illegal expenditure or waste. Injury to property is defined in the Code of Civil Procedure as depriving the property owner of the benefit of the property by taking, withholding, deteriorating, or destroying it [see Code Civ. Proc. § 28].

[4] Situations in Which Injunctive Relief Denied

An injunction will not be granted if it is unnecessary or inappropriate--for example, if there is no evidence that illegal payments will continue to be made [Mallon v. City of Long Beach (1958) 164 Cal. App. 2d 178, 190, 330 P.2d 423] , or if proper review of the issuance of a license for allegedly illegal gambling activity was by mandate and the criminal law was available for enforcement [Nathan H. Schur, Inc. v. City of Santa Monica (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 11, 17-19, 300 P.2d 831] .

Execution of an allegedly illegal contract cannot be enjoined after it has been executed and partially performed [Hodgeman v. City of San Diego (1942) 53 Cal. App. 2d 610, 614-619, 128 P.2d 412] . Also, title to a public office cannot be tested by an action to enjoin the payment of the salary because quo warranto is the exclusive remedy for trying title to a public office [Hallinan v. Mellon (1963) 218 Cal. App. 2d 342, 344-348, 32 Cal. Rptr. 446] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsFinanceTax LawState & Local TaxesAdministration & ProceedingsTaxpayer ProtestsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 466 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: TAXPAYERS' ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

40-466 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 466.22

§ 466.22 Representative Actions

[1] Right to Maintain Action

A taxpayer can maintain a representative action on behalf of a public entity to recover damages for the public entity. Such an action is similar to a corporate shareholder's derivative action [Osburn v. Stone (1915) 170 Cal. 480, 482-483, 150 P. 367] .

[2] Situations in Which Action Available

[a] Limitations

A representative action may be brought only in cases involving fraud, collusion, ultra vires, or failure on the part of the government body to perform a duty specifically enjoined [Gogerty v. Coachella Valley Junior College Dist. (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 727, 730, 21 Cal. Rptr. 806, 371 P.2d 582 ; see 466.22[1][b] -[d]]. Additionally, a public official may be personally liable to the state in a taxpayer's action, based on the official's failure to exercise due care in authorizing the expenditure of public funds [Stevens v. Geduldig (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 24, 32, 227 Cal. Rptr. 405, 719 P.2d 1001 ; Stanson v. Mott (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 206, 226-227, 130 Cal. Rptr. 697, 551 P.2d 1 ; see 466.22[1][e]].

By limiting representative actions to taxpayers' suits that seek to measure government performance against a legal standard, the California courts do not trespass into the domains of legislative or executive discretion. This also serves to prevent the courts from hearing complaints that seek relief that the courts cannot effectively render. The courts cannot formulate decrees that involve the exercise of indefinable discretion, and their decrees can only restrict conduct that can be tested against legal standards [Harman v. City & County of San Francisco (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 150, 160-161, 101 Cal. Rptr. 880, 496 P.2d 1248] .

[b] Fraud

A complaint stated a cause of action based on fraud sufficient for a representative suit because it alleged that a school board intended to acquire a school site near an airport, regardless of the contents of a required report from the State Board of Education that disapproved of the site as suitable for a school [Gogerty v. Coachella Valley Junior Coll.

Dist. (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 727, 730-732, 21 Cal. Rptr. 806, 371 P.2d 582 ; see also Lusk v. Compton City Sch. Bd. of Educ. (1967) 252 Cal. App. 2d 376, 377-379, 60 Cal. Rptr. 426] . A representative cause of action for damages based on fraud also was stated because the complaint alleged that a special attorney for a city sold tax-deeded property on behalf of the city to himself and his clients through dummies and nominees [Schaefer v. Berinstein (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 278, 289-290, 295 P.2d 113 ; see also Miller v. Martinez (1938) 28 Cal. App. 2d 364, 369-372, 82 P.2d 519 (representative action to recover price of goods purchased in a conflict of interest situation)].

[c] Ultra Vires Acts

A representative suit based on an ultra vires act stated a cause of action because the complaint alleged that the city was using land dedicated to park purposes for a road for access to other city property [Hermosa Beach v. Superior Court (1964) 231 Cal. App. 2d 295, 300, 41 Cal. Rptr. 796 ; see Griffith v. Department of Pub. Works (1956) 141 Cal. App. 2d 376, 379, 296 P.2d 838 (use of Griffith Park for freeway)].

[d] Public Entity's Failure to Perform Duty Specifically Enjoined

An alleged violation of charter provisions in appraisal and sale of vacated streets, by not obtaining 90 percent of the preliminary appraisal value of the lots, stated a cause of action in a representative suit based on a failure to perform a duty specifically enjoined [Harman v. City & County of San Francisco (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 150, 160-161, 101 Cal. Rptr. 880, 496 P.2d 1248] . Taxpayers can bring a representative action for a writ of mandamus to compel city officials to perform public duties that the law specifically enjoins [Knoff v. City & County of San Francisco (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 184, 198, 81 Cal. Rptr. 683] .

Alleged violations of competitive bidding requirements have been sufficient to state a representative cause of action for recovery of the money expended [Miller v. McKinnon (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 83, 87-101, 124 P.2d 34 ; Osburn v. Stone (1915) 170 Cal. 480, 482, 150 P. 367] . These cases did not use the language of failure to perform a duty specifically enjoined, but such a failure was the basis of the actions.

[e] Public Official's Failure to Exercise Due Care in Authorizing Expenditure of Public Funds

The basis for a taxpayer's representative action to hold a public official personally liable to the state for failing to exercise due care in authorizing the expenditure of public funds is the general principle that expenditures by an administrative official are proper only insofar as they are authorized, explicitly or implicitly, by legislative enactment. Public officials are not free to spend public funds for any public purpose they may choose. They must use appropriate funds in accordance with the legislatively designated purpose. Accordingly, a public official who controls public funds may be personally liable to repay improperly expended funds if he or she has failed to exercise due care in permitting the expenditure [Stevens v. Geduldig (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 24, 32, 227 Cal. Rptr. 405, 719 P.2d 1001] .

For example, in a representative action against the director of a state parks and recreation department to subject the director to personal liability for the improper expenditure of public funds, the plaintiff was permitted to amend the complaint to state a cause of action against the defendant for failing to exercise due care in authorizing the expenditure of department funds to promote the passage of a bond issue [Stanson v. Mott (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 206, 209, 226-227, 130 Cal. Rptr. 697, 551 P.2d 1] . Similarly, a representative action was brought against a member of a tax-reduction task force, who was appointed by the governor, and the director of a state health care services department, seeking to subject these two defendants to personal liability for failing to exercise due care in authorizing the expenditure of various state departments' funds for expenses incurred by the task force. The complaint stated a cause of action for negligence [Stevens v. Geduldig (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 24, 32-35, 227 Cal. Rptr. 405, 719 P.2d 1001] .

Numerous considerations may be relevant to the determination of whether or not a public official has acted with due care. For example, a court may consider whether the expenditure's impropriety was obvious, whether or not the official was alerted to the possible invalidity of the expenditure, and whether the official relied on legal advice or on the presumed validity of an existing legislative enactment or judicial decision in making the expenditure [Stanson v. Mott (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 206, 209, 227, 130 Cal. Rptr. 697, 551 P.2d 1] .

A public official's personal liability for failing to exercise due care is mitigated if the damages attributable to the official's negligence are eliminated by subsequent proper reimbursement of the funds from other public funds. Presumably, however, an improper reimbursement would not eliminate the damages caused by the unauthorized expenditure [Stevens v. Geduldig (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 24, 35-36, 227 Cal. Rptr. 405, 719 P.2d 1001] .

[3] Pleading Requirements

A representative action requires specific allegations of fraud, collusion, ultra vires, or failure to perform an action specifically enjoined [Wine v. Los Angeles City Council (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 157, 164, 2 Cal. Rptr. 94 , overruled on other grounds, Pines v. City of Santa Monica (1981) 29 Cal. 3d 656, 175 Cal. Rptr. 336, 630 P.2d 521] . Presumably, a representative action against a public official for failing to exercise due care in authorizing the expenditure of public funds, as in any negligence action, must contain an allegation of failure to exercise due care [see Stanson v. Mott (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 206, 209, 227, 130 Cal. Rptr. 697, 551 P.2d 1 (plaintiff permitted to amend complaint to allege public official's failure to exercise due care in authorizing expenditure of public funds); see also Stevens v. Geduldig (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 24, 35-36, 227 Cal. Rptr. 405, 719 P.2d 1001 (liability of public official for negligence under Stanson is based on tort)]. Bare allegations of bad faith, abuse of discretion, and action in excess of authority are not sufficient; specific allegations are necessary [Lagiss v. County of Contra Costa (1963) 223 Cal. App. 2d 77, 92-93, 35 Cal. Rptr. 450] . If municipal officers have no duty to bring the action and can exercise their discretion not to bring the action, the taxpayer must allege either fraud or abuse of discretion [Whitson v. City of Long Beach (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 486, 506, 19 Cal. Rptr. 668] .

Two early cases upheld demurrers to representative suits on the basis that the taxpayers had not alleged both a demand on the proper official that the action be brought by the public entity and also a refusal to bring the action [Hansen v. Carr (1925) 73 Cal. App. 511, 514-516, 238 P. 1048 ; Keith v. Hammel (1915) 29 Cal. App. 131, 135-136, 154 P. 871] . One of these cases also held that an allegation that a demand would have been useless was not sufficient [Hansen v. Carr (1925) 73 Cal. App. 511, 515-516, 238 P. 1048] . That holding, however, is contrary to California Supreme Court holdings that if a demand by the taxpayer would be unavailing, it need not be made [Briare v. Matthews (1927) 202 Cal. 1, 8-9, 258 P. 939 ; Mock v. City of Santa Rosa (1899) 126 Cal. 330, 342, 58 P. 826] , as in the situation in which the claim is against city council members and the mayor for the return of illegal expenditures [Osburn v. Stone (1915) 170 Cal. 480, 483, 150 P. 367] . Therefore, the plaintiff must allege either that a demand was made and the appropriate officials refused to act [Schaefer v. Berinstein (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 278, 293, 295 P.2d 113] , or that the demand would be unavailing [Briare v. Matthews (1927) 202 Cal. 1, 8-9, 258 P. 939 ; Citizens' Comm. for Old Age Pensions v. Los Angeles County Bd. of Supervisors (1949) 91 Cal. App. 2d 658, 660, 205 P.2d 761] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesInjunctionsPreliminary & Temporary InjunctionsGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsFinanceTax LawState & Local TaxesAdministration & ProceedingsJudicial ReviewTax LawState & Local TaxesAdministration & ProceedingsTaxpayer ProtestsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 466 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: TAXPAYERS' ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

40-466 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 466.23

§ 466.23 Attorney's Fees

If a lawyer has rendered such valuable service as to make available a fund for a class (for example, in a taxpayers' representative action), eventhough he or she appeared for only one claimant, it is equitable that his or her compensation and expenses should come from the entire fund saved for all classes concerned. This principle is derived from the equitable concept that if one of a group has borne the cost of litigation resulting in benefit to the entire group, the group should contribute to those expenses [Stratton v. City of Long Beach (1961) 188 Cal. App. 2d 761, 768, 11 Cal. Rptr. 8] .

The California Supreme Court has stated that the basis of the equitable rule that permits surcharging a common fund with the expenses of its protection or recovery, including counsel fees, appears to be: (1) fairness to the successful litigant, who otherwise might receive no benefit because his or her recovery might be consumed by the expenses; (2) correlative prevention of an unfair advantage to the others who are entitled to share in the fund and who should bear their share of the burden of its recovery; and (3) encouragement of the attorney for the successful litigation, who will be more willing to undertake and diligently prosecute proper litigation for the protection or recovery of the fund if the attorney is assured that he or she will be promptly and directly compensated should his or her efforts be successful [Gabrielson v. City of Long Beach (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 224, 229, 14 Cal. Rptr. 651, 363 P.2d 883] .

Two reported cases have allowed attorney's fees in taxpayers' actions under Code Civ. Proc. § 526a. The first was a taxpayer's action for a writ of mandate seeking to order the City and County of San Francisco to investigate loss of property tax revenues due to corrupt practices in the assessor's office. The trial court awarded attorney's fees based on a percentage of any property taxes collected. The court of appeal upheld the award, despite the fact that no fund was in existence. The court relied on a court's equitable powers in mandate and on an earlier case involving a shareholder's derivative suit that extended the common fund concept to allow attorney's fees to the plaintiffs based on their having provided a "substantial benefit" to the corporation, despite the fact no fund was created [Knoff v. San Francisco (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 184, 203, 81 Cal. Rptr. 683 (relying on Fletcher v. A.J. Indus., Inc. (1968) 266 Cal. App. 2d 313, 72 Cal. Rptr. 146); see also D'Amico v. Board of Med. Examiners (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 1, 25, 112 Cal. Rptr. 786, 520 P.2d 10 (appearing to approve substantial benefit test)].

The second case allowing attorney's fees in a taxpayer's action, based on the substantial benefit test, was an action that invalidated an amendment to a redevelopment plan, which resulted in a reduction in the amount of money spent and taxes collected [Card v. Community Redevelopment Agency (1976) 61 Cal. App. 3d 570, 582-583, 131 Cal. Rptr. 153] .

However, attorney's fees have been denied if the ultimate objective of the attorney and the client was not to secure or preserve a common fund, but to establish personal adverse interests in that common fund [Gabrielson v. Long Beach (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 224, 229, 14 Cal. Rptr. 651, 363 P.2d 883 .2d 883], and if the attorney's activities were antagonistic to the establishment of the trust from which the attorney was claiming fees [Stratton v. City of Long Beach (1961) 188 Cal. App. 2d 761, 771, 11 Cal. Rptr. 8] .

For a discussion of the possible availability of an award of attorneys' fees under Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5 to a plaintiff who is not the prevailing party in a representative action against a public official for failing to exercise due care in authorizing the appropriation of public funds, see Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees, § 174.50 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesCosts & Attorney FeesAttorney Expenses & FeesAmerican RuleGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsFinanceTax LawState & Local TaxesAdministration & ProceedingsJudicial ReviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 466 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: TAXPAYERS' ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

40-466 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 466.24through 466.39

[Reserved]

§§ 466.24[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 466 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: TAXPAYERS' ACTIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-466 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 466.40

§ 466.40 State Statutes

Taxpayers' actions authorized. Code Civ. Proc. § 526a

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJusticiabilityStandingGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsFinanceGovernmentsPublic ImprovementsFinancingTax LawState & Local TaxesGeneral OverviewTax LawState & Local TaxesAdministration & ProceedingsJudicial Review

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 466 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: TAXPAYERS' ACTIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-466 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 466.41

§ 466.41 Decisions

[1] Attorney's Fees

Equitable basis of rule allowing attorney's fees from fund recovered for group. Gabrielson v. City of Long Beach (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 224, 229, 14 Cal. Rptr. 651, 363 P.2d 883

Attorney's fees denied if ultimate objective of attorney and client was to establish adverse personal interests in common fund. Gabrielson v. City of Long Beach (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 224, 229, 14 Cal. Rptr. 651, 363 P.2d 883

Attorney's fees awarded in taxpayer's action successfully challenging amendment of redevelopment plan under substantial benefit test. Card v. Community Redevelopment Agency (1976) 61 Cal. App. 3d 570, 582-583, 131 Cal. Rptr. 153

Attorney's fees proper in taxpayer's action for writ of mandate to order city and county to investigate loss of property tax revenues due to corrupt practices in assessor's office, based on substantial benefit test. Knoff v. San Francisco (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 184, 203, 81 Cal. Rptr. 683

Recovery of attorney's fees is proper if lawyer has made fund available for class. Stratton v. City of Long Beach (1961) 188 Cal. App. 2d 761, 768, 11 Cal. Rptr. 8

Attorney's fees denied if attorney's activities were antagonistic to establishment of trust from which fees were claimed. Stratton v. City of Long Beach (1961) 188 Cal. App. 2d 761, 771, 11 Cal. Rptr. 8

[2] Case or Controversy Requirement

Action that meets requirements for Code Civ. Proc. § 526a taxpayer's suit presents true case or controversy, whether or not plaintiff and defendant each have special personal interest in outcome of case, because few government officers have personal interest in validity of their acts. Arrieta v. Mahon (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 381, 387, 182 Cal. Rptr. 770, 644

P.2d 1249 ; Blair v. Pitchess (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 258, 269, 96 Cal. Rptr. 42, 486 P.2d 1242 , superseded by statute on other grounds, Simms v. NPCK Enterprises, Inc. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 233, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 557

[3] Defendants

[a] Agencies and Districts

Taxpayer's action against school district. Shakespear v. Smith (1888) 77 Cal. 638, 640-642, 20 P. 294 ; California Sch. Employment Ass'n v. Sequoia Union High Sch. Dist. (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 98, 105, 77 Cal. Rptr. 187

Taxpayers action against rapid transit district. Mills v. San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit Dist. (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 666, 667-669, 68 Cal. Rptr. 317

Taxpayer's action against fire protection district. Holman v. County of Santa Cruz (1949) 91 Cal. App. 2d 502, 514-522, 205 P.2d 767

Taxpayer's action against municipal utility district. Strain v. East Bay Mun. Util. Dist. (1937) 21 Cal. App. 2d 281, 284-286, 69 P.2d 191

[b] State Officials

Taxpayer's action proper to hold member of governor's tax-reduction task force and director of state health care services department personally liable to state for failing to exercise due care in authorizing expenditure of various state departments' funds for expenses incurred by task force. Stevens v. Geduldig (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 24, 32, 35, 227 Cal. Rptr. 405, 719 P.2d 1001

Taxpayer's action proper to hold director of state parks and recreation department personally liable to state for failing to exercise due care in authorizing expenditure of department funds to promote passage of bond issue. Stanson v. Mott (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 206, 209, 226-227, 130 Cal. Rptr. 697, 551 P.2d 1

Taxpayer's action against state officials to enjoin relocation of state highway. Holloway v. Purcell (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 220, 222-232, 217 P.2d 665

Taxpayer's action permissible against state agency. Duskin v. San Francisco Redevelopment Agency (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 769, 772-773, 107 Cal. Rptr. 667

[4] Definitions

"Waste," as used in Code Civ. Proc. § 526a relating to taxpayers' actions to enjoin waste of public funds, means more than alleged mistake by public officials in matters involving exercise of judgment or discretion. TRIM, Inc. v. County of Monterey (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 539, 543, 150 Cal. Rptr. 351

[5] Illegal Expenditure of Money as Basis for Injunction

[a] Constitutional Challenge to Legislative Enactments

Taxpayer's action proper to test constitutionality of garageman's lien act. Adams v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 146, 150-158, 113 Cal. Rptr. 145, 520 P.2d 961

Taxpayer's action proper to test constitutionality of provisions dealing with enforcement of unlawful detainer statute. Love v. Keays (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 339, 343-345, 98 Cal. Rptr. 811, 491 P.2d 395

Taxpayer's action proper even if amount of illegal expenditures is small or if collection of fees for illegal services effects savings of tax funds. Blair v. Pitchess (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 258, 268-269, 96 Cal. Rptr. 42, 486 P.2d 1242 , superseded by statute on other grounds, Simms v. NPCK Enterprises, Inc. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 233, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 557

Taxpayer's action proper to test the constitutionality of claim and delivery statute. Blair v. Pitchess (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 258, 267-269, 96 Cal. Rptr. 42, 486 P.2d 1242 P.2d 1242, superseded by statute on other grounds, Simms v. NPCK Enterprises, Inc. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 233, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 557

Taxpayer's action proper to test constitutionality of state public employee's loyalty oath. Vogel v. County of Los Angeles (1967) 68 Cal. 2d 18, 21-26, 64 Cal. Rptr. 409, 434 P.2d 961

Taxpayer's action proper to test constitutionality of state property tax exemption for nonprofit private schools below collegiate grade. Lundberg v. County of Alameda (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 644, 647-648, 298 P.2d 1

Taxpayer's action proper to test constitutionality of city loitering and housing laws. Ames v. City of Hermosa Beach (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 146, 150-154, 93 Cal. Rptr. 786

Taxpayer's action proper to test constitutionality of tax on liquor consumed on premises. Century Plaza Hotel Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 616, 618-626, 87 Cal. Rptr. 166

[b] Constitutional Challenge to Police Activities

Taxpayer's suit proper to test legality of city's undercover surveillance and intelligence gathering activities at university. White v. Davis (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 757, 762-765, 120 Cal. Rptr. 94, 533 P.2d 222

Taxpayer's action proper to test constitutionality of conducting police surveillance by means of concealed microphones. Wirin v. Parker (1957) 48 Cal. 2d 890, 893-896, 313 P.2d 844

Taxpayer's action proper to test constitutionality of police making public statements and supplying information about arrested persons. County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 670, 675-690, 62 Cal. Rptr. 435

Taxpayer's action proper to challenge constitutionality of conducting police blockades and making warrantless searches. Wirin v. Horrall (1948) 85 Cal. App. 2d 497, 500-506, 193 P.2d 470

[c] Payment of Money

Injunction properly denied to taxpayer seeking to stop rebuilding of juvenile hall on ground that construction constituted waste of public funds, partially because stopping construction prior to completion would be more expensive than completion. Cota v. County of Los Angeles (1980) 105 Cal. App. 3d 282, 292, 164 Cal. Rptr. 323

Taxpayer's action proper to test validity of procedure used by county to purchase medical testing services. Advance Med. Diagnostic Labs. v. County of Los Angeles (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 263, 267-269, 129 Cal. Rptr. 723

Taxpayer's action proper to challenge legality of appropriation to provide opera performances. Jarvis v. Bloodgood

(1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 694, 697-700, 102 Cal. Rptr. 212

Taxpayer's action proper to test legality of appropriation of funds to purchase land for parking garage. Larsen v. City & County of San Francisco (1957) 152 Cal. App. 2d 355, 360-370, 313 P.2d 959

Taxpayer's action proper to test legality of use of city's general funds for street improvement. Klassen v. City of San Carlos (1957) 149 Cal. App. 2d 225, 226-228, 308 P.2d 413

Taxpayer's action proper to test legality of payment of salary to allegedly illegally promoted public employee. Brown v. Boyd (1939) 33 Cal. App. 2d 416, 420-424, 91 P.2d 926

[d] Performance of Contracts

Taxpayer's action proper to test legality of contract to build overpass in city. Irwin v. City of Manhattan Beach (1966) 65 Cal. 2d 13, 16-20, 51 Cal. Rptr. 881, 415 P.2d 769

Taxpayer's action proper to challenge legality of execution of contract to convey land to baseball team on which it agreed to build stadium. City of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (1959) 51 Cal. 2d 423, 429-438, 333 P.2d 745 ; see also Ruben v. City of Los Angeles (1959) 51 Cal. 2d 857, 861-864, 337 P.2d 825

Taxpayer's action proper to test payment under allegedly illegal contract. Mahoney v. City & County of San Francisco (1927) 201 Cal. 248, 251-266, 257 P. 49

Taxpayer's action proper to test legality of payment under contract that was allegedly made without following proper bidding procedures. Crowe v. Boyle (1920) 184 Cal. 117, 121-122, 193 P. 111

Taxpayer's action proper to challenge performance of allegedly illegal contract by public entity to provide for public defender services. Phillips v. Seely (1975) 43 Cal. App. 3d 104, 112-120, 117 Cal. Rptr. 863

Taxpayer's action as proper to test legality of payment of warrant that was allegedly for illegal payment of funds. Chapman v. City of Fullerton (1928) 90 Cal. App. 463, 465-471, 265 P. 1035

[6] Pleading Requirements

Action under Code Civ. Proc. § 526a requires actual expenditure, or at least threat of actual expenditure, of public funds, if only in small amounts. Fiske v. Gillespie (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 1243, 1246, 246 Cal. Rptr. 552

Action under Code Civ. Proc. § 526a, to require Attorney General and State Controller to recover money allegedly owed to state for payment of money to private party defendant for property turned over to state, is premature if taxpayers had yet to prove that private party knew it had no legal claim to property. Orange County Found. v. Irvine Co. (1983) 139 Cal. App. 3d 195, 200, 188 Cal. Rptr. 552

Taxpayer complaining of government waste states cause of action under Code Civ. Proc. § 526a by alleging that funds are being expended for project with no public benefit and no useful purpose, or for plan costing much more than any alternative plans considered, without finding of any additional public benefit. TRIM, Inc. v. County of Monterey (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 539, 543, 150 Cal. Rptr. 351

[7] Purpose of Code Civ. Proc. § 526a

Primary purpose of Code Civ. Proc. § 526a is to enable large body of citizenry to challenge government action that would otherwise go unchallenged incourts because of standing to sue requirement; California courts consistently construe Code Civ. Proc. § 526a liberally to achieve this remedial purpose. McKinny v. Board of Trustees (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 79, 91, 181 Cal. Rptr. 549, 642 P.2d 460

Primary purpose of Code Civ. Proc. § 526a, authorizing taxpayers' actions to enjoin waste of public funds, is to give large body of citizens standing to challenge government actions; provision must be liberally construed; taxpayers have standing under provision to challenge illegal expenditures of funds by county officials; provision construed to authorize taxpayer to contest legality of taxing statute. TRIM, Inc. v. County of Monterey (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 539, 542, 150 Cal. Rptr. 351

[8] Representative Actions

[a] Demand

Representative suit properly pleaded if complaint alleges that making demand for action by public entity would be useless. Briare v. Matthews (1927) 202 Cal. 1, 8-9, 258 P. 939 ; Citizens Comm. for Old Age Pensions v. Los Angeles County Bd. of Supervisors (1949) 91 Cal. App. 2d 658, 660, 205 P.2d 761

[b] Defenses

Fraud be must specifically pleaded in taxpayer's action based on fraud. Cooper v. Leslie Salt Co. (1969) 70 Cal. 2d 627, 636, 75 Cal. Rptr. 766, 451 P.2d 406

Judgment against taxpayer in representative suit upheld because taxpayer stipulated that no fraud was involved. Silver v. City of Los Angeles (1961) 57 Cal. 2d 39, 41-42, 17 Cal. Rptr. 379, 366 P.2d 651

Despite liberal construction of Code Civ. Proc. § 526a, permitting taxpayers' challenge to illegal government activity without showing of special damage to particular taxpayer, taxpayer required to show further actual or threatened harm to himself or herself, or to show that other persons in community felt imminently threatened, before trial court in action for preliminary injunction can find irreparable injury and balance of interim harms in taxpayer's favor. Cohen v. San Francisco City & County Bd. of Supervisors (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 447, 453, 455, 225 Cal. Rptr. 114

Representative action not permitted if municipal officers have no duty to bring action and can exercise discretion not to bring action, unless taxpayer can allege fraud or abuse of discretion. Whitson v. City of Long Beach (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 486, 506, 19 Cal. Rptr. 668

Specific allegations of fraud, collusion, ultra vires, or failure to perform mandatory duty required to state representative cause of action. Wine v. Los Angeles City Council (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 157, 164, 2 Cal. Rptr. 94 , overruled on other grounds, Pines v. City of Santa Monica (1981) 29 Cal. 3d 656, 175 Cal. Rptr. 336, 630 P.2d 521 ; see also Lagiss v. County of Contra Costa (1963) 223 Cal. App. 2d 77, 92-93, 35 Cal. Rptr. 450

[c] Right to Maintain

[i] Types of Cases

Representative suit proper only in cases involving fraud, collusion, ultra vires, or failure on part of public entity to perform duty specifically enjoined. Gogerty v. Coachella Valley Junior Coll. Dist. (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 727, 730, 21 Cal. Rptr. 806, 371 P.2d 582

[ii] Fraud

Representative suit proper based on fraud in acquisition of school site, despite report that site was not suitable. Gogerty v. Coachella Valley Junior Coll. Dist. (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 727, 730-732, 21 Cal. Rptr. 806, 371 P.2d 582

Representative suit proper to recover illegal expenditures for public entity. Osburn v. Stone (1915) 170 Cal. 480, 482-483, 150 P. 367

Representative suit proper based on allegations that city attorney sold tax-deeded property to himself and clients through dummies. Schaefer v. Berinstein (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 278, 289-290, 295 P.2d 113

Taxpayer's representative action proper to recover price of goods purchased in conflict of interest situation. Miller v. Martinez (1938) 28 Cal. App. 2d 364, 367-372, 82 P.2d 519

[iii] Public Entity's Failure to Perform

Representative suit on behalf of city is proper if complaint alleges failure of city to perform mandatory duty in selling vacated streets. Harman v. City & County of San Francisco (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 150, 160-161, 101 Cal. Rptr. 880, 496 P.2d 1248

Representative action stated based on allegations of violation of competitive bidding requirements. Miller v. McKinnon (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 83, 87-101, 124 P.2d 34 ; Osburn v. Stone (1915) 170 Cal. 480, 482, 150 P. 367

Representative action for writ of mandamus to compel city officials to perform public duties that law requires. Knoff v. City & County of San Francisco (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 184, 198, 81 Cal. Rptr. 683

[iv] Ultra Vires Act

Representative suit based on ultra vires was proper because complaint alleged that city was using land dedicated for parks as road. City of Hermosa Beach v. Superior Court (1964) 231 Cal. App. 2d 295, 300, 41 Cal. Rptr. 796

Representative suit based on ultra vires act was proper because complaint alleged that city was using land dedicated for park as freeway. Griffith v. Department of Pub. Works (1956) 141 Cal. App. 2d 376, 379, 296 P.2d 838

[9] Situations in Which Injunctive Relief Denied

Injunction improper if remedy was by mandamus or criminal law. Nathan H. Schur, Inc. v. City of Santa Monica (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 11, 17-19, 300 P.2d 831

Despite liberal construction of Code Civ. Proc. § 526a, permitting taxpayers' challenge to illegal government activity without showing of special damage to particular taxpayer, taxpayer required to show further actual or threatened harm to himself or herself, or to show that other persons in community felt imminently threatened, before trial court in action for preliminary injunction can find irreparable injury and balance of interim harms in taxpayer's favor. Cohen v. San Francisco City & County Bd. of Supervisors (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 447, 453, 455, 225 Cal. Rptr. 114

Taxpayer's action improper to enjoin judges from expending funds to prosecute plaintiff. Gould v. People ex rel. Busch (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 909, 921-923, 128 Cal. Rptr. 743 ; but see Van Atta v. Scott (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 424, 449, 166 Cal. Rptr. 149, 613 P.2d 210 , superseded by statute on other grounds, In re York (1995) 9 Cal. 4th 1133, 40 Cal. Rptr. 2d 308, 892 P.2d 804 (disapproving Gould to extent it holds that taxpayers cannot maintain action under Code Civ. Proc. § 526a if persons directly affected by expenditure have standing to sue)

Injunction refused because budget's failure to contain sufficient funds to pay employees at rate set could be solved by city council. Silver v. City of Los Angeles (1967) 257 Cal. App. 2d 557, 562-563, 65 Cal. Rptr. 227

Injunction not proper to test title to public office. Hallinan v. Mellon (1963) 218 Cal. App. 2d 342, 344-348, 32 Cal. Rptr. 446

Injunction improper if unnecessary or inappropriate, such as if there is no evidence that illegal payments will continue to be made. Mallon v. City of Long Beach (1958) 164 Cal. App. 2d 178, 190, 330 P.2d 423

Injunction of allegedly illegal contract was improper because it had been executed and partially performed. Hodgeman v. City of San Diego (1942) 53 Cal. App. 2d 610, 618-619, 128 P.2d 412

[10] Standing to Bring Action

Code Civ. Proc. § 526a does not provide standing for medically indigent adults and taxpayers to bring action against state for alleged violation of Cal. Const. art. XIII B, § 6, based on state's shifting responsibility for funding health for poor onto county without providing necessary funding; Gov. Code § 17500 et seq. creates adequate administrative forum for such action. Kinlaw v. State of California (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 326, 328, 331-334, 285 Cal. Rptr. 66, 814 P.2d 1308

Taxpayers permitted to maintain action under Code Civ. Proc. § 526a to challenge illegal expenditure of funds, even though persons directly affected by expenditure also have standing to sue. Van Atta v. Scott (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 424, 449, 166 Cal. Rptr. 149, 613 P.2d 210 , superseded by statute on other grounds, In re York (1995) 9 Cal. 4th 1133, 40 Cal. Rptr. 2d 308, 892 P.2d 804 (disapproving Gould v. People (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 909, 128 Cal. Rptr. 743 , and Di Suvero v. Los Angeles County (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 718, 140 Cal. Rptr. 895 , to extent inconsistent with this rule)

Nonresident taxpayer has right to bring taxpayer's action. Irwin v. City of Manhattan Beach (1966) 65 Cal. 2d 13, 18-20, 51 Cal. Rptr. 881, 415 P.2d 769

Payment of sales tax insufficient for standing under Code Civ. Proc. § 526a to challenge proposed redevelopment project in city because tax is levied on retailer rather than consumer. Torres v. City of Yorba Linda (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 1035, 1047, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 400

[11] Statutory Construction

Rule that general language in statute such as "person" should not be construed to apply to government entities without explicit legislative direction was not applicable if that construction would not infringe sovereign power. State Compensation Ins. Fund v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 43, 56, 152 Cal. Rptr. 153

[12] Waste as Basis for Injunction

Taxpayer's suit proper to enjoin waste of municipal assets by selling vacated streets burdened with easements at arbitrary figure of half their unencumbered value. Harman v. City & County of San Francisco (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 150, 159-160, 101 Cal. Rptr. 880, 496 P.2d 1248

Injunction against municipal election based on waste was proper because proposition to be voted on would have been unconstitutional. Harnett v. County of Sacramento (1925) 195 Cal. 676, 682-683, 235 P. 445

Taxpayer's action stated cause of action based on waste to test legality of lease of municipal property. Rathbun v. City of Salinas (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 199, 202-203, 106 Cal. Rptr. 154

Taxpayer's action based on waste is only proper if action of public entity can be measured against legal standard. Rathbun v. City of Salinas (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 199, 202-203, 106 Cal. Rptr. 154

Taxpayer had standing for action against state official to enjoin performance of administrative tasks by private carriers. California State Employees' Assn. v. Williams (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 390, 394-395, 86 Cal. Rptr. 305

Taxpayer's action based on waste was proper because complaint alleged that city intended to construct sewer lines in area that it might never be able to annex. Ceres v. City of Modesto (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 545, 555-557, 79 Cal. Rptr. 168

Taxpayer had standing for action against state officials to restrain illegal expenditure of funds in approving contracts for purchase of textbooks. Ahlgren v. Carr (1962) 209 Cal. App. 2d 248, 251-254, 25 Cal. Rptr. 887

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJusticiabilityStandingGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsFinanceGovernmentsPublic ImprovementsFinancingTax LawState & Local TaxesGeneral OverviewTax LawState & Local TaxesAdministration & ProceedingsJudicial Review

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 466 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: TAXPAYERS' ACTIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-466 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 466.42

§ 466.42 Law Reviews

Note, California Taxpayers' Suits: Suing State Officers Under Section 526a of the Code of Civil Procedure , 28 Hastings L.J. 477 (1976)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJusticiabilityStandingGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsFinanceGovernmentsPublic ImprovementsFinancingTax LawState & Local TaxesGeneral OverviewTax LawState & Local TaxesAdministration & ProceedingsJudicial Review

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 466 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: TAXPAYERS' ACTIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-466 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 466.43through 466.59

[Reserved]

§§ 466.43[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 466 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: TAXPAYERS' ACTIONS
PART IV. FORMS

40-466 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 466.60

§ 466.60 Complaint for Injunction Against Public Officer to Restrain Illegal Expenditure of Public Money [Code Civ. Proc. § 526a]

[1] FORM Complaint for Injunction Against Public Officer to Restrain Illegal Expenditure of Public Money [Code Civ. Proc. § 526a]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name], Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [names], Defendants.	)
	)
	)

_____

COMPLAINT FOR INJUNCTIVE RELIEF

The plaintiff alleges:

1. The plaintiff _____[name] has been assessed for, and is liable to pay, a tax in _____[name of city or county], California. [The plaintiff is also a resident of _____ (name of city or county), California.]

2. The defendants _____[names] are public officials of the _____[name of city or county] who are charged with the duty of _____[specify duties of the defendants that are related to the expenditures to be enjoined, e.g., disbursing its funds].

3. [The plaintiff is ignorant of the true names and capacities of the defendants sued herein as DOES 1-_____, inclusive, and therefore sues these defendants by such fictitious names. The plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained.]

4. The defendants _____ have expended the moneys of _____[name of city or county] and threaten and will continue to spend such moneys for the illegal purpose of _____ [specify, e.g., purchasing advertising to attract business to _____ (name of city or county), which is a violation of Section _____ of the Charter of (name of city or county)].

WHEREFORE, the plaintiff prays judgment against the defendants, and each of them, as follows:

1. For a preliminary injunction and a permanent injunction, each enjoining the defendants, and each of them, and their agents, servants, and employees, and all persons acting under, in concert with, or for them, from _____ [specify, e.g., expending money of _____ (name of city or county) for the purchase of advertising to attract business to _____ (name of city or county)];

2. For reasonable attorney's fees;

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

VERIFICATION [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 446, 2015.5]

I, _____[name], am the plaintiff in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____[date]

_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

The form above is for use in a taxpayer's action against public officials to enjoin the illegal expenditure of public money.

[3] Jurisdiction

[a] Subject Matter Jurisdiction

An action seeking permanent injunctive relief is in the jurisdiction of the superior court and is not a limited civil case [ see Cal. Const. art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(8), 580(b)(2)].

[b] Personal Jurisdiction

The granting of either a provisional or final injunction requires personal jurisdiction over the person enjoined [see Comfort v. Comfort (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 736, 741, 112 P.2d 259 (permanent); Rothschild v. Erda (1968) 258 Cal. App. 2d 750, 753, 66 Cal. Rptr. 209 (preliminary)].

[4] Venue

The proper county in which to bring the action is the county where the cause of action arose [Code Civ. Proc. § 393(b)], which would be the county where the expenditure was made.

[5] Verification

Verification [Code Civ. Proc. § 446] is required if the plaintiff seeks a temporary restraining order or a preliminary injunction on a complaint instead of on affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)]. If relying on a verified complaint instead of affidavits (or declarations), counsel must plead evidentiary facts that would entitle the plaintiff to the relief sought [see E.H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1 ; Finnie v. Town of Tiburon (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1, 15, 244 Cal. Rptr. 581] .

Otherwise, verification is not required. Generally, verification of the complaint requires the defendant to file a verified answer [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446] and precludes use of a general denial [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. A public entity or officer, however, need not verify an answer even though the complaint is verified [see Code Civ. Proc. § 446]. The verification of a complaint against a public entity or officer does, however, preclude use of a general denial [see Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion of the effect that verifying a complaint has on the answer, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[6] Cross References

For alternative allegations as to agency, capacity, and residence of parties, and fictitious name allegations, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used

For alternative forms of captions and introductions, see Ch. 108, Captions and Introductions

For discussion, procedural checklist, and forms for use in obtaining injunctive relief generally, see Ch. 303, Injunctions

For alternative forms of prayers and verifications, see Ch. 420, Prayers , and Ch. 572, Verification

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 466 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: TAXPAYERS' ACTIONS
PART IV. FORMS

40-466 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 466.61

§ 466.61 Allegation of Illegal Expenditure of Public Money [Code Civ. Proc. § 526a]--Unconstitutional Statute or Ordinance

[1] FORM Allegation of Illegal Expenditure of Public Money [Code Civ. Proc. § 526a]--Unconstitutional Statute or Ordinance

The defendants have expended the money of _____[name of city or county] and threaten and will continue to spend that money to _____ [specify unconstitutional law or ordinance that is being challenged, e.g., enforce Ordinance No. _____ of the City of _____, which prohibits _____ (specify), by arresting and trying persons who engage in _____ (specify)]. Ordinance No. _____ is unconstitutional because _____ [specify basis for claim of unconstitutionality, e.g., it violates Amendments _____ and _____ of the United States Constitution and Article _____, Sections _____ and _____ of the California Constitution]. Because Ordinance No. _____ is unconstitutional, money spent to enforce it is an illegal expenditure and further such expenditures should be enjoined.

[2] Use of Form

The form above is for use as Paragraph IV of the form in § 466.60, if the taxpayer's suit is used to challenge the constitutionality of a law or ordinance that the city or county is enforcing.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 466 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: TAXPAYERS' ACTIONS
PART IV. FORMS

40-466 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 466.62

§ 466.62 Allegation of Waste of Public Estate or Funds [Code Civ. Proc. § 526a]

[1] FORM Allegation of Waste of Public Estate or Funds [Code Civ. Proc. § 526a]

The defendants have wasted the _____[funds or estate] of _____[name of city or county] and threaten to and will continue to waste such _____[funds or estate] by _____ [specify how waste is occurring, e.g., selling surplus property at a private sale without public notice and not at a public sale with public notice, which results in significant loss of revenue to _____ (name of city or county), which waste of public funds and estate should be enjoined].

[2] Use of Form

The form above is for use as Paragraph 4 of the form in § 466.60, if the taxpayer's suit is based on waste of public funds or estate.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 466 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: TAXPAYERS' ACTIONS
PART IV. FORMS

40-466 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 466.63

§ 466.63 Complaint by Taxpayer on Behalf of Public Entity to Recover Public Funds Illegally Expended

[1] FORM Complaint by Taxpayer on Behalf of Public Entity to Recover Public Funds Illegally Expended

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)
_____ [name], Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR MONEY
_____ [names], Defendants.	)	(Taxpayer's Representative Action)
	)	[Amount demanded _____
	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]

_____

The plaintiff alleges:

1. [The plaintiff's status. See § 466.60[1], Paragraph 1.]

2. The defendant _____[name of public entity] is and at all times mentioned herein was a _____[describe status of defendant, e.g., county duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California].

3. The defendant _____[name of public entity] is united in interest with the plaintiff in the prosecution of this action, but its consent to be joined as a plaintiff cannot be obtained for the reason that _____ [specify, e.g., after demand by the plaintiff, the County Board of Supervisors refused and failed and continues to refuse and fail to bring such action. Therefore, the plaintiff brings this action on behalf of the defendant _____ (name of city or county), California].

4. The defendants _____[names] _____ [specify status of defendants from whom relief is sought, e.g., entered into a contract with the defendant _____ (name of city or county) on _____[date], to _____ (specify)].

5. [Fictitious name allegations, if appropriate. See § 466.60[1], Paragraph 3.]

6. [Allege basis on which individual defendants are liable to public defendant, e.g., Under the terms of the above-described contract, the defendants were to be paid $_____. However, the defendants actually caused themselves to be paid $_____ for the work to be done under the contract by making the following false and fraudulent misrepresentations, knowing them to be untrue and intending that the defendant _____ (name of city or county) rely on them: _____ (specify misrepresentations in detail). The defendant _____ (name of city or county) justifiablyrelied on the fraudulent misrepresentations and was thereby damaged in the sum of $_____].

WHEREFORE the plaintiff prays judgment against the defendants, and each of them, as follows:

1. That the defendants _____[names] be ordered to pay to defendant _____[name of city or county] the sum of $_____;

2. For reasonable attorney's fees;

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 466.60 .]

[2] Use of Form

The form of complaint above is for use in a representative action by a taxpayer on behalf of a city or county to recover on its behalf money that the city or county was fraudulently induced to pay on a contract.

[3] Public Entity as Defendant

If the consent of any party that should be joined as a plaintiff cannot be obtained, that unwilling party may be made a defendant, so long as a reason for doing so is provided in the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 382]. Under those circumstances, the individual plaintiff may then sue for the benefit of the common interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 382].

Paragraph 3 in the form above contains an allegation that the public entity is united in interest with the plaintiff, but does not consent to joining the action as a plaintiff, thus allowing the plaintiff to add the public entity as a defendant.

[4] Venue

An action against a local public entity may be tried in the county where the local public entity is located [Code Civ.

Proc. § 394(a)].

[5] Cross References

For discussion of verification of the complaint, see § 466.60[5]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 467.syn

§ 467.syn Synopsis to Chapter 467: PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES

§ 467.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 467.02 Cross References

§§ 467.03through 467.19 [Reserved]

§ 467.20 Governing Law

§ 467.21 Allowance of Claim by State Without Suit

[1] Sufficient Appropriation Exists

[2] Insufficient Appropriation Exists

§ 467.22 Satisfaction of Judgment

[1] Conditions and Exceptions

[2] Period of Enforcement

[3] Interest on Judgment

[4] Mandatory Settlement Conference Required for Certain Judgments

§ 467.23 Collateral Sources in Personal Injury or Wrongful Death Actions

[1] Governing Law and Definitions

[2] Motion to Reduce Judgment

[3] Notice to Collateral Source Provider Required

[4] Determination Regarding Liens and Subrogation Rights

[5] Limitations on Reduction of Verdict

[6] Percentage of Judgment Due Immediately

[7] Claims With Multiple Defendants

§ 467.24 Full Payment by Controller's Warrant

§ 467.25 Periodic Payments

[1] Governing Law and Limitations

[2] Uninsured Public Entity

[a] Election of Periodic Payments

[b] Percentage of Judgment Payable Immediately

[c] Payment of Interest

[d] Continuation of Payments

[e] Modification of Payments Caused by Joint Tortfeasor's Inability to Pay

§ 467.26 Remedies to Compel Payment or Other Action

[1] Against State or State Employee

[2] Against Director of Finance or Director of Transportation

[3] Restriction on Compelling Legislative Action

§§ 467.27through 467.39 [Reserved]

§ 467.40 Governing Law

§ 467.41 Definitions

§ 467.42 Enforceability of Judgments

[1] Governing Law

[2] Period of Enforcement

§ 467.43 Payment of Judgments

[1] Time and Source of Payments

[2] Installment Payments

[3] Funding Required

[4] Application of Tax Limitations

§ 467.44 Judgments as Legal Investments or Security

§ 467.45 Remedy for Noncompliance

§§ 467.46through 467.59 [Reserved]

§ 467.60 State Constitution

§ 467.61 State Statutes

§ 467.62 Decisions

[1] Compelling Action

[2] Interest on Judgments Against State

[3] Separation of Powers Doctrine

§ 467.63 Text References

§§ 467.64through 467.79 [Reserved]

§ 467.80 Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086]--To Compel State Official or Employee to Perform Statutory Duty Regarding Payment or Offset of Claim, Settlement, Compromise, or Judgment Against State or State Agency [Gov. Code §§ 965.7(a), 965.8]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Verification

[5] Accompanying Papers

[a] Proof of Service

[b] Points and Authorities

[6] Cross References

§ 467.81 Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086]--To Compel Local Public Entity to Perform Statutory Duty Regarding Payment of Judgment [Gov. Code § 970.2]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Verification

[5] Accompanying Papers

[a] Proof of Service

[b] Points and Authorities

[6] Cross References

§ 467.82 Proceedings to Accelerate Installment Payments on Unreasonable Delay in or Failure to Make Payments [Gov. Code § 984(e)(4)]--Notice of Motion and Supporting Declaration

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Installment Payments on Judgment Against Public Entity

[4] Cross References

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES
PART I. SCOPE

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 467.01

§ 467.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses the enforcement of claims, settlements, and judgments against public entities. The discussion covers enforcement against the state and state agencies [see § 467.20 et seq.] and against local entities [see § 467.40 et seq.]. The chapter also includes forms for petition for writ of mandate to compel a state or local public entity or official to perform his or her statutory duties with respect to payment of a judgment [see §§ 467.80, 467.81]. The chapter also includes a form for notice of motion and supporting declaration for proceedings to accelerate installment payments following an unreasonable delay in or failure to make payments on a judgment [see § 467.82].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureSettlementsSettlement AgreementsEnforcementGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsEnforcement & ExecutionGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesCosts & Attorney FeesAttorney Expenses & FeesGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesWritsCommon Law WritsMandamusGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & Against

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES
PART I. SCOPE

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 467.02

§ 467.02 Cross References

For discussion, procedural checklist, and additional forms for use in a mandate proceeding, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition

For discussion of an award of attorney fees as costs in a lawsuit under the private attorney general theory and forms for use in procuring the award, see Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees, § 174.50 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureSettlementsSettlement AgreementsEnforcementGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES
PART I. SCOPE

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 467.03through 467.19

[Reserved]

§§ 467.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Enforcement of Claims, Settlements, and Judgments Against State and State Agencies

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 467.20

§ 467.20 Governing Law

The payment of claims, settlements, and judgments against the state and its agencies is governed by Gov. Code §§ 965-965.9. These provisions do not apply, however, to claims, settlements, and judgments against the Regents of the University of California [Gov. Code § 965.9]. Gov. Code § 965.9 is consistent with Gov. Code §§ 905.6 and 943, making inapplicable to claims or actions against the Regents of the University of California the provisions of Gov. Code §§ 900-935.7 (claims against public entities) and Gov. Code §§ 940-960.8 (actions against public entities and employees), respectively.

Mandatory settlement conferences regarding satisfaction of judgments in excess of $100,000 for personal injury or wrongful death are governed by Gov. Code § 962. Reduction of the judgment by the amount of collateral source payments in personal injury and wrongful death actions, and determination of liens, subrogation rights, and reimbursement pertaining to liens and subrogation rights, are governed by Gov. Code § 985. Payment of the judgment in periodic installments is governed by Gov. Code § 984.

The authority of the state to procure insurance against tort or inverse condemnation liability is set forth in Gov. Code § 11007.4.

The California Prompt Payment Act requires state agencies to pay properly submitted, undisputed invoices within 45 days after receipt, or automatically calculate and pay the appropriate late payment penalties [Gov. Code § 927 et seq.]. The Act applies to all state agencies, including, but not limited to, the Public Employees' Retirement System, the State Teachers' Retirement System, the Treasurer, and the Department of General Services [Gov. Code § 927(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureSettlementsSettlement AgreementsEnforcementGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsEnforcement & ExecutionGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentAdditurs &

RemittitursRemittitursCivil ProcedureEminent Domain ProceedingsState CondemnationsGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsFinancePublic Contracts LawBusiness Aids & AssistanceFinancial Assistance to ContractorsPrompt Payment ActReal Property LawInverse CondemnationRemediesTortsDamagesCollateral Source RuleGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Enforcement of Claims, Settlements, and Judgments Against State and State Agencies

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 467.21

§ 467.21 Allowance of Claim by State Without Suit

[1] Sufficient Appropriation Exists

On the allowance by the Victim Compensation and Government Claims Board (formerly, the State Board of Control) of all or part of a claim for which the Director of Finance certifies that a sufficient appropriation for the payment of the claim exists, and the execution and presentation of such documents as the board may require that discharge the state of all liability under the claim, the board must designate the fund from which the claim is to be paid, and the state agency concerned must pay the claim from that fund. Claims arising out of the activities of the State Departmentof Transportation may be paid if either the Director of Transportation or the Director of Finance certifies that a sufficient appropriation for the payment of the claim exists [Gov. Code § 965(a)].

For presentation of claims to and payment by the state Controller, see Gov. Code §§ 925-926.17. For when interest is allowable on a claim, see Gov. Code §§ 906 and 926.10.

[2] Insufficient Appropriation Exists

If no sufficient appropriation for payment of a claim is available, then the Victim Compensation and Government Claims Board (formerly, the State Board of Control) must report to the Legislature in accordance with Gov. Code § 912.8, which requires the board to act on claims in accordance with such procedure as the board may by rule prescribe and, with the approval of the Governor, to report to the legislature such facts and recommendations concerning the claims as it deems proper [Gov. Code § 965(a)]. However, if the claim, settlement, or judgment against the state arises from an action in which the state is represented by the Attorney General, the Attorney General must report the claim, settlement, or judgment to the chairperson of either the Senate Committee on Appropriations or the Assembly Committee on Ways and Means, who "shall cause to be introduced" legislation appropriating funds for the payment of the claim, settlement, or judgment [Gov. Code § 965(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureSettlementsSettlement AgreementsEnforcementGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsEnforcement & ExecutionGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesCosts & Attorney FeesAttorney Expenses & FeesGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & Against

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Enforcement of Claims, Settlements, and Judgments Against State and State Agencies

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 467.22

§ 467.22 Satisfaction of Judgment

[1] Conditions and Exceptions

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, neither the state nor any of its officers or employees, can be required by any court in any proceeding to pay or offset a tort liability claim, settlement, or judgment for which the state is liable unless one of the following conditions exists [Gov. Code § 965.6]:

- The legislature has authorized the payment or offset of the specific tort liability claim, settlement, or judgment.

- The Director of Finance, or the Director of Transportation for claims arising out of the activities of the Department of Transportation, has certified that a sufficient appropriation for the payment of the claim, settlement, or judgment or to provide for such offset exists.

Gov. Code § 965.6 applies only to tort liability claims, settlements, and judgments and not to other kinds of liability [see County of Sacramento v. Lackner (1979) 97 Cal. App. 3d 576, 591, 159 Cal. Rptr. 1 (former Gov. Code § 955.5, predecessor to Gov. Code § 965.6, inapplicable to action based on failure of state officials to carry out statutory duties regarding Medi-Cal payments, on ground that section applied only to tort liability)].

A judgment for the payment of money against the state or a state agency is enforceable under the provisions of Gov. Code §§ 965-965.9 and is not enforceable under Code Civ. Proc. § 680.010 et seq., the Enforcement of Judgments Law [Gov. Code § 965.5(b)]. Gov. Code § 965.5(b) makes clear that execution and other remedies under the Code of Civil Procedure for the enforcement of money judgments do not apply to the enforcement of a money judgment against the state or a state agency. Although it was drawn from the second sentence of former Gov. Code § 955.5, Gov. Code § 965.5(b) applies to all money judgments and is not limited, like its predecessor, to tort liability claims, settlements, or judgments [see Legislative Committee comment to Gov. Code § 965.5(b)].

[2] Period of Enforcement

A judgment for the payment of money against the state or a state agency is enforceable until 10 years after the time the judgment becomes final or, if the judgment is payable in installments, until 10 years after the final installment becomes due [Gov. Code § 965.5(a)].

[3] Interest on Judgment

The state, like all other parties to litigation, is liable under Cal. Const. art. XV, § 1, for interest on judgments [see Straughter v. State of California (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 412, 414, 169 Cal. Rptr. 471 (state liable for payment of interest on tort judgment); Harland v. State of California (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 839, 841-843, 160 Cal. Rptr. 613 (state liable for payment of interest on tort judgment)].

[4] Mandatory Settlement Conference Required for Certain Judgments

On the entry of a verdict against a public entity in excess of $100,000 in an action for personal injury or wrongful death, the public entity may, within the time set in Code Civ. Proc. § 659 (motion for new trial), request in writing a mandatory settlement conference for the purpose of discussing available methods by which the judgment will be satisfied. The court must then set a date for the conference. The request may be noticed with any motions pursuant to Gov. Code §§ 984 (installment payments) and 985 (collateral source payments in personal injury and wrongful death actions), or pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 659 [Gov. Code § 962].

At the conference, the parties must negotiate in good faith and must review and consider structured payment plans presented by either party. The conference cannot occur until after determination of any motion for a new trial, motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict, motion for remittitur, and motion for additur, but must occur before hearing on any motions pursuant to Gov. Code §§ 984 and 985 [Gov. Code § 962]. Fordiscussion and forms regarding motions for judgment notwithstanding the verdict and for new trial, see Ch. 371, Motions After Trial .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureTrialsJudgment as Matter of LawJudgments Notwithstanding VerdictsCivil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsEnforcement & ExecutionGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsEnforcement & ExecutionWrits of ExecutionCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentMotions for New TrialsCivil ProcedureRemediesJudgment InterestGeneral OverviewTortsDamagesCollateral Source RuleGeneral OverviewTortsDamagesInterestPostjudgment InterestTortsProcedureSettlementsGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Enforcement of Claims, Settlements, and Judgments Against State and State Agencies

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 467.23

§ 467.23 Collateral Sources in Personal Injury or Wrongful Death Actions

[1] Governing Law and Definitions

Gov. Code § 985 governs collateral source payments in any action for personal injuries or wrongful death based on acts or omissions occurring after 1987, in which a public entity is a defendant [see Stats. 1987, ch. 1208, § 11]. However, if the defendant is also a health care provider as defined in Civ. Code § 3333.1, that statute controls as to that defendant [Gov. Code § 985(l)]. In addition, Gov. Code § 985 does not apply to lien or subrogation rights provided in Lab. Code §§ 3850-3864(subrogation of employer) [Gov. Code § 985(m)].

For purposes of Gov. Code § 985, "collateral source payment" includes either of the following [Gov. Code § 985(a)(1)]:

- The direct provision of services prior to the commencement of trial to the plaintiff for the same injury or death by prepaid health maintenance organizations providing services to their members or by nonfederal publicly funded health service providers; or

- Monetary payments paid or obligated to be paid for services or benefits that were provided prior to the commencement of trial to or on behalf of the plaintiff for the same injury or death from a provider of collateral source payments described in Gov. Code § 985(f)(1), (2).

"Plaintiff" includes, but is not limited to, a person or entity entitled to make a claim under Prob. Code §§ 6400-6414 (intestate succession) for the collateral source benefits against the tortfeasor or alleged tortfeasor, and in the case of a minor, the minor and the minor's parent, legal guardian, or guardian ad litem [Gov. Code § 985(a)(2)].

For discussion of collateral source issues prior to and during trial, see Ch. 465, Public Entities and Officers: Civil Claims Arising from Criminal Acts .

[2] Motion to Reduce Judgment

After a verdict has been returned against a public entity that includes damages for which payment from a collateral source enumerated in Gov. Code § 985(f) has already been paid or is obligated to be paid for services or benefits that were provided prior to the commencement of trial, and if the total of the collateral source payments is greater than $5,000 (increased 5 percent compounded on January 1, 1989, and each January 1 thereafter), the public entity may request a post-trial hearing for a reduction of the judgment against the public entity for collateral source payments paid or obligated to be paid for services or benefits that were provided prior the commencement of trial. The motion must be noticed within the time set in Code Civ. Proc. § 659 (motion for new trial). The hearing may be noticed with any motions pursuant to Gov. Code §§ 962 (determination of methods to satisfy judgment) and 984 (installment payments) or pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 659. However, the hearing cannot occur until after the determination of any motions for a new trial, for judgment notwithstanding the verdict, for remittitur, for additur, and after any mandatory settlement conference pursuant to Gov. Code § 962 [Gov. Code § 985(b); see Gov. Code § 985(k) (Judicial Council to adopt rules regarding extension of time for filing notice of appeal to allow time for motion and hearing)].

[3] Notice to Collateral Source Provider Required

The public entity must give 20 days' notice to the provider of a collateral source payment of any post-trial settlement conference or hearing regarding collateral source payments under Gov. Code § 985 [Gov. Code § 985(e)].

[4] Determination Regarding Liens and Subrogation Rights

At the hearing, the trial court must, in its discretion and on just terms, make a final determination regarding any pending lien and subrogation rights, and determine what portion of collateral source payments must be reimbursed from the judgment to the provider of a collateral source payment, must be deducted from the verdict, or must accrue to the benefit of the plaintiff [Gov. Code § 985(f)].

The determination is subject to Gov. Code § 985(f)(1) (mandatory reimbursement to Medi-Cal and other publicly funded sources with statutory lien rights) and Gov. Code § 985(f)(2) (discretionary reimbursement to private medical programs, health maintenance organizations, disability, unemployment insurance, private disability insurance, or other similar sources of compensation). The determination is also subject to the following adjustments [Gov. Code § 985(f)(3)]:

- If the plaintiff has been found partially at fault, the reimbursement or reduction is decreased by the same percentage as the entire judgment is reduced to take into account the plaintiff's comparative fault.

- The court must deduct from the reimbursement or reduction the amount of premiums the court determines were paid by or on behalf of the plaintiff to the provider of a collateral source payment.

- After making the two adjustments described in the first and second paragraphs above, the court must reduce that amount by a percentage equal to the percentage of the entire judgment that the plaintiff paid or owes for attorney's fees and costs and reasonable expenses incurred.

No provider of collateral source payments pursuant to Gov. Code § 985 is entitled to recover any amount against the plaintiff, nor can it be subrogated to the rights of the plaintiff against a public entity defendant other than in the amount so determined by the court [Gov. Code § 985(f)].

[5] Limitations on Reduction of Verdict

The total dollar amount deducted from the verdict, paid to lienholders, or reimbursed to all collateral source providers, may not exceed one-half of the plaintiff's net recovery for all damages after deducting attorney's fees, medical services paid by the plaintiff, and litigation costs. However, the court may order no reimbursement or verdict reduction if either would result in undue financial hardship on the person who suffered the injury [Gov. Code § 985(g); see, e.g., Garcia v. County of Sacramento (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 67, 73-74, 126 Cal. Rptr. 2d 465 (Medi-Cal lien properly denied because quadriplegic's recovery from county was insufficient to cover future medical expenses)].

[6] Percentage of Judgment Due Immediately

Fifty percent of any amount reimbursed pursuant to Gov. Code § 985 is due immediately, unless otherwise ordered by the court. The court may order the remaining 50 percent to be paid in installments over a period of time to be determined by the court pursuant to Gov. Code § 984, not to exceed 10 years [Gov. Code § 985(h)].

[7] Claims With Multiple Defendants

In any case involving multiple defendants, a reduction pursuant to Gov. Code § 985 must be proportional to the percentage of the judgment actually paid by the public entity, and it must satisfy the judgment with regard to the portion reduced so that no other judgment debtor is jointly liable for the portion of the judgment reduced thereby. If, after a hearing and determination pursuant to Gov. Code § 985, the public entity judgment debtor is required to satisfy a portion of a joint and several judgment beyond that public entity judgment debtor's several portion, due to the uncollectability of a joint tortfeasor's portion, the public entity may make a motion to reduce the additional portion in an amount proportional to the determination of the court [Gov. Code § 985(i)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureTrialsJudgment as Matter of LawJudgments Notwithstanding VerdictsCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentAdditurs & RemittitursRemittitursCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentMotions for New TrialsEstate, Gift & Trust LawIntestacyGeneral OverviewGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsFinanceHealthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesGovernmental & Nonprofit LiabilityState, County & Municipal LiabilityHealthcare LawManaged HealthcareHealth Maintenance OrganizationsTortsDamagesCollateral Source RuleGeneral OverviewTortsDamagesCollateral Source RuleGovernment BenefitsTortsNegligenceDefensesComparative NegligenceMultiple PartiesContributionTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Enforcement of Claims, Settlements, and Judgments Against State and State Agencies

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 467.24

§ 467.24 Full Payment by Controller's Warrant

The State Controller must draw a warrant for the payment of any final judgment or settlement against the state whenever the Director of Finance certifies that a sufficient appropriation for the payment of that judgment or settlement exists. Claims arising out of the activities of the State Department of Transportation may be paid if either the Director of Transportation or the Director of Finance certifies that a sufficient appropriation for payment of the claim exists [Gov. Code § 965.2].

Claims on such judgments and settlements are exempt from the Gov. Code § 925.6 requirement that the claim be audited in conformity with law before the Controller draws a warrant for it [Gov. Code § 965.2].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureSettlementsSettlement AgreementsEnforcementGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsEnforcement & ExecutionGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesCosts & Attorney FeesAttorney Expenses & FeesGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & Against

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 467.25

§ 467.25 Periodic Payments

[1] Governing Law and Limitations

A judgment against a public entity may be ordered to be paid by periodic payments only pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7 (action against health care provider), Gov. Code § 970.6 (installment payment of judgments against local public entities), or Gov. Code § 984(d) (installment payments if public entity is "not insured"), or by agreement of the parties [Gov. Code § 984(c)]. Gov. Code § 984 does not apply to contribution and indemnity between tortfeasors [Gov. Code § 984(h)]. Nothing in Gov. Code § 984 prevents the parties from agreeing to settle an action on any other terms [Gov. Code § 984(f)].

For discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7, see Ch. 415, Physicians: Medical Malpractice . For discussion of Gov. Code § 970.6, see § 467.43[2].

[2] Uninsured Public Entity

[a] Election of Periodic Payments

If, after making any deductions pursuant to Gov. Code § 985 (collateral source payments), the judgment on a tort claims action based on acts or omissions occurring after 1987 against a public entity that is not insured is greater than $500,000 (increased to $550,000 on January 1, 1990, to $600,000 on January 1, 1992, to $650,000 on January 1, 1994, to $725,000 on January 1, 1996, and increased by five percent on January 1 of each year thereafter), the public entity may elect to pay the judgment in periodic payments [Gov. Code § 984(d); Stats. 1987, ch. 1204, § 4; see Gov. Code § 984(g) (Judicial Council to adopt rules extending time for appeal notices to allow election and any hearing under Gov. Code § 984(d))].

For purposes of Gov. Code § 984, "not insured" includes a public entity that has no liability insurance or is self-insured by itself or through an insurance pooling arrangement, a joint powers agreement, the Local Agency Self Insurance Authority, or any other similar arrangement [Gov. Code § 984(a)]. If a public entity has commercial insurance regarding a portion of the judgment, Gov. Code § 984 only applies to that portion of the judgment that is "not insured," as defined above [Gov. Code § 984(b)].

For discussion of installment payments regarding a local public entity, see § 467.43[2].

[b] Percentage of Judgment Payable Immediately

After any amounts reimbursed under Gov. Code § 985, the judgment debtor must pay 50 percent of the remainder immediately, and the remaining 50 percent over a period of time to be determined by the court, not to exceed the lesser of either 10 years or the length of the judgment creditor's remaining life expectancy at the time the judgment is entered [Gov. Code § 984(d)].

[c] Payment of Interest

Interest at the same rate as one-year United States Treasury bills as of January 1 each year accrues to the unpaid balance of the judgment. On each January 1 thereafter throughout the duration of the installment payments, the interest must be adjusted until the judgment is fully satisfied [Gov. Code § 984(e)(2)].

[d] Continuation of Payments

Throughout the term of any installment payments, until the judgment is fully satisfied, the public entity remains liable for all payments due on the judgment and interest [Gov. Code § 984(e)(3)]. The court retains jurisdiction to enforce, amend, modify, or approve settlement of installment payments in a just manner [Gov. Code § 984(e)(4)]. On motion by the judgment creditor, the court has the authority to accelerate the installment payments if it finds any unreasonable delay in, or failure to make, payments [Gov. Code § 984(e)(4); see § 467.82].

Payments under Gov. Code § 984 do not terminate on the judgment creditor's death [Gov. Code § 984(e)(1)].

[e] Modification of Payments Caused by Joint Tortfeasor's Inability to Pay

The court, on motion, may modify the installment payments consistent with Civ. Code §§ 1431-1431.5 (several and joint liability) to account for the insolvency of, or uncollectability of amounts of the judgment owed by, joint tortfeasors. The defendant must bring a motion for that adjustment under Code Civ. Proc. § 1010 (written notices) [Gov. Code § 984(e)(5)].

For discussion and forms relating to Civ. Code §§ 1431-1431.5, see Ch. 300, Indemnity and Contribution, § 300.60 et seq. For discussion and forms relating to Code Civ. Proc. § 1010, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsEnforcement & ExecutionGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentAdditurs & RemittitursGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesJudgment InterestGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against FacilitiesGovernmental & Nonprofit LiabilityState, County & Municipal LiabilityInsurance LawBusiness InsuranceSelf-InsuranceGovernmental AgenciesTortsDamagesCollateral Source RuleGeneral OverviewTortsDamagesInterestRatesTortsProcedureMultiple DefendantsJoint & Several LiabilityTortsProcedureSettlementsGeneral OverviewTortsProcedureSettlementsStructured SettlementsGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Enforcement of Claims, Settlements, and Judgments Against State and State Agencies

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 467.26

§ 467.26 Remedies to Compel Payment or Other Action

[1] Against State or State Employee

A writ of mandate is an appropriate remedy to compel the state, or an officer or employee of the state, to perform any act required by Gov. Code § 965 et seq. [Gov. Code § 965.7(a); see Straughter v. State of California (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 412, 416, 169 Cal. Rptr. 471] . Moreover, a judgment creditor presumably may bring an action on a money judgment rendered against the state within the 10-year limitations period for enforcing such a judgment [see Barkley v. City of Blue Lake (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 1745, 1750-1751, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 315 (trial court properly dismissed mandamus action against local public entity because 10-year period for enforcement had expired and judgment creditor failed to bring action to trial within five years after commencing action, but trial court erred in dismissing judgment creditor's action on money judgment against local public entity filed within 10 years after judgment became final)].

[2] Against Director of Finance or Director of Transportation

If any provision of Gov. Code §§ 810-996.6 (claims and actions against public entities and public employees) requires a certificate of the Director of Finance or Director of Transportation that a sufficient appropriation exists for the payment of a claim, settlement, compromise, or judgment, or that a sufficient appropriation exists to provide an offset, a writ of mandate is an appropriate remedy to compel the Director of Finance or Director of Transportation to so certify, if a sufficient appropriation in fact exists for that purpose [Gov. Code § 965.8].

[3] Restriction on Compelling Legislative Action

Nothing in Gov. Code § 810 et seq. (claims and actions against public entities and public employees) affects the discretion of the legislature in determining whether or not to: (1) make an appropriation for the payment of, or to provide an offset for, a claim, compromise, settlement, or judgment; or (2) authorize such a payment or offset [Gov. Code § 965.7(b)]. This provision codified existing law and makes clear that a writ of mandate may not be used to compel the legislature to make an appropriation or to authorize a payment or offset [see Law Revision Commission comment to Gov. Code § 965.7(b)]. A court may, however, direct that invalid legislative restrictions on the expenditure of funds appropriated by the legislature be disregarded [see Mandel v. Myers (1981) 29 Cal. 3d 531, 539, 174 Cal. Rptr. 841, 629 P.2d 935 ; Committee to Defend Reproductive Rights v. Cory (1982) 132 Cal. App. 3d 852, 856, 183 Cal. Rptr. 475 ; Serrano v. Priest (1982) 131 Cal. App. 3d 188, 196, 182 Cal. Rptr. 387] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsEnforcement & ExecutionGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesWritsCommon Law WritsMandamusGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime LimitationsGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsFinanceInsurance LawBusiness InsuranceSelf-InsuranceGovernmental Agencies

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Enforcement of Claims, Settlements, and Judgments Against State and State Agencies

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 467.27through 467.39

[Reserved]

§§ 467.27[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Enforcement of Judgments Against Local Public Entities

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 467.40

§ 467.40 Governing Law

The enforcement of judgments against a local public entity is governed by Gov. Code §§ 970-971.2, and the funding of judgments with bonds is governed by Gov. Code §§ 975-978.8. The authority of local public entities to procure insurance is contained in Gov. Code §§ 989-991.2.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureSettlementsSettlement AgreementsEnforcementGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsEnforcement & ExecutionGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesCosts & Attorney FeesAttorney Expenses & FeesGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & Against

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Enforcement of Judgments Against Local Public Entities

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 467.41

§ 467.41 Definitions

"Local public entity" includes a county, city, district, public authority, public agency, and any other political subdivision or public corporation in the state, but does not include the Regents of the University of California and does not include the state or any office, officer, department, division, bureau, board, commission, or agency of the state, claims against which are paid by warrants drawn by the state Controller [Gov. Code § 970(c)].

"Judgment" means a final judgment for the payment of money rendered against a local public entity [Gov. Code § 970(b)].

"Fiscal year" means a year beginning on July 1 and ending on June 30, unless the local public entity has adopted a different fiscal year as authorized by law, in which case "fiscal year" means the fiscal year adopted by that local public entity [Gov. Code § 970(a)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & Against

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Enforcement of Judgments Against Local Public Entities

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 467.42

§ 467.42 Enforceability of Judgments

[1] Governing Law

A judgment, whether or not final, is not enforceable under the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 680.010-694.090, the Enforcement of Judgments Law, but is enforceable under Gov. Code §§ 970-971.2 after it becomes final [Gov. Code § 970.1(b)].

[2] Period of Enforcement

A judgment is enforceable until 10 years after the time the judgment becomes final or, if the judgment is payable in installments, until 10 years after the final installment becomes due [Gov. Code § 970.1(a)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsEnforcement & ExecutionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Enforcement of Judgments Against Local Public Entities

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 467.43

§ 467.43 Payment of Judgments

[1] Time and Source of Payments

Local public entities are required to pay judgments in the manner provided by Gov. Code §§ 970-971.2 [Gov. Code § 970.2]. Unless the judgment is to be paid in installments [see § 467.43[2]], payment of a judgment with interest must be made by the local public entity's governing body, to the extent funds are available, in the fiscal year in which the judgment becomes final. Payment must be made out of any funds to the credit of the local public entity that are either: (1) unappropriated for any other purpose, unless the use of such funds is restricted by law or contract to other purposes; or (2) appropriated for the current fiscal year for the payment of judgments and not previously encumbered [Gov. Code § 970.4].

If the local public entity does not pay a judgment with interest during the fiscal year in which it becomes final and the judgment is not to be paid in installments, the governing body must pay the judgment with interest during the ensuing fiscal year immediately on obtaining sufficient funds for that purpose [Gov. Code § 970.5].

[2] Installment Payments

The court that enters the judgment must order that the governing body pay the judgment with interest in no more than 10 equal annual installments if both of the following conditions are satisfied [Gov. Code § 970.6(a)]:

- The governing body of the local public entity has adopted an ordinance or resolution finding that an unreasonable hardship will result unless the judgment is paid in installments; and

- The court, after hearing, has found that payment of the judgment in installments as ordered by the court is necessary to avoid an unreasonable hardship.

Each installment payment shall be of an equal amount, consisting of a portion of the principal of the judgment and the unpaid interest on the judgment to the date of the payment. The local public entity, in its discretion, may prepay any one or more installments or any part of an installment [Gov. Code § 970.6(b)].

For discussion of installment payments on large tort judgments if the public entity is "not insured," see § 467.25[2].

[3] Funding Required

Each local public entity must in each fiscal year include in its budget a provision to provide funds in an amount sufficient to pay all judgments in accordance with Gov. Code §§ 970-971.2 [Gov. Code § 970.8(a)].

If the revenue used for the maintenance and operation of a local public entity liable for a judgment (other than an entity created by an agreement described in Gov. Code § 895, relating to joint powers agreements and any other agreement under which a public entity undertakes to perform any function, service, or act with or for another public entity or its employee) is derived in whole or in part from appropriations of another local public entity, the other local public entity is required in each fiscal year toappropriate funds equal to its pro rata share of an amount sufficient to permit the local public entity liable for the judgment to pay the judgment in accordance with Gov. Code §§ 970-971.2. This amount must be paid to the local public entity liable for the judgment and must be used by that entity to satisfy the judgment. The pro rata share of the other local public entity for each judgment is an amount bearing the same proportion to the total amount of the judgment as the revenue derived from the other local public entity for maintenance and operation during the fiscal year in which the cause of action on the judgment accrued bears to the total revenues used for maintenance and operation during such fiscal year of the local public entity liable for the judgment. For this purpose, the other local public entity must include in its budget a provision to provide funds sufficient in amount to make the required appropriation and payment [Gov. Code § 970.8(b)].

[4] Application of Tax Limitations

Any limitation on the amount of (1) taxes, assessments, or rates and charges that may be levied or collected, (2) appropriations and payments that may be made, and (3) liability or indebtedness that may be incurred by a local public entity, contained in any other statute or in any charter or ordinance applies to the taxes, assessments, rates and charges, or appropriations levied, collected, or made to pay a judgment resulting from a discretionary act, but does not apply to pay a judgment resulting from a nondiscretionary act [Gov. Code § 971(b)]. A judgment resulting from a discretionary act is a judgment arising from a liability that the local public entity has discretion to incur or not to incur. The term includes a judgment rendered in an eminent domain proceeding and a judgment requiring specific performance of a contractual obligation or awarding damages for failure to perform a contractual obligation [Gov. Code § 971(a)(1)]. A judgment resulting from a nondiscretionary act is any other judgment and includes a judgment founded on tort or inverse condemnation liability [Gov. Code § 971(a)(2)].

Taxes levied to pay a judgment resulting from a nondiscretionary act are costs mandated by the courts for the purposes of Rev. & Tax Code § 2271, authorizing local agencies to levy a tax rate in addition to the maximum prescribed by Rev. & Tax Code §§ 2201-2327 to pay certain mandated costs, including costs mandated by the courts [Gov. Code § 971(c)].

The limitations on a local government entity's right to tax and spend found in Cal. Const. arts. XIII A, XIII B, and XIII C, as well as the debt limitation found in Cal. Const. art. XVI, § 18, cannot be used to relieve a local public entity from the duty to pay a judgment, at least if the judgment is from an inverse condemnation action, the right to recover for which is also constitutionally based [F & L Farm Co. v. City Council (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 1345, 1350-1355, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 360] . Although in the opinion so holding, the court was faced only with the question of whether payment of a judgment based on inverse condemnation could be avoided, the court's conclusions that the constitutional provisions at issue were not intended to apply to obligations involuntarily imposed by law suggests that these constitutional provisions are insufficient grounds on which to seek to avoid the payment of tort judgments generally [see F & L Farm Co. v. City Council (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 1345, 1350-1355, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 360] . However, the California Supreme Court has disapproved this opinion to the extent that it holds that Cal. Const. art. XIII A does not prohibit a county from levying property taxes in excess of 1 percent to pay a tort judgment. The Court held that the options before the court in F&L Farm Co. were not limited to letting the city either "walk away" from the judgment or raise extra money by levying property taxes in excess of the 1 percent limit established by Cal. Const. art. XIII A. The city had other options, such as accepting an offer to pay the judgments in installments pursuant to Gov. Code § 970.6 or qualifying for bankruptcy protection [Ventura Group Ventures, Inc. v. Ventura Port Dist. (2001) 24 Cal. 4th 1089, 1104, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 53, 16 P.3d 717] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsEnforcement & ExecutionGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesJudgment InterestGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureEminent Domain ProceedingsState CondemnationsContracts LawRemediesSpecific PerformanceGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsFinanceReal Property LawInverse CondemnationRemediesTax LawState & Local TaxesGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityQualified ImmunityTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Enforcement of Judgments Against Local Public Entities

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 467.44

§ 467.44 Judgments as Legal Investments or Security

All judgments for which a local public entity is liable are legal investments for all trust funds and for the funds of all insurance companies, banks (both commercial and savings), and trust companies, and for every other local public entity within California, to the same extent as bonds of the local public entity liable for the judgment [Gov. Code § 971.2(a)].

Money or funds that may by law be invested in or loaned on the security of bonds of a local public entity may be invested in or loaned on the security of a judgment for which the local public entity is liable. Whenever bonds of a local public entity may be used as security for the faithful performance or execution of any court or private trust or of any other act, a judgment for which the local public entity is liable may be so used [Gov. Code § 971.2(b)].

All judgments for which a local public entity is liable, to the same extent as bonds of the local public entity, are legal for use by any state or national bank in California as security for the deposit of funds of any local public entity within California [Gov. Code § 971.2(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Banking LawBonds, Guarantees & Letters of CreditGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsGeneral Overview

188 of 197 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Enforcement of Judgments Against Local Public Entities

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 467.45

§ 467.45 Remedy for Noncompliance

A writ of mandate is an appropriate remedy to compel a local public entity to perform any act required by Gov. Code §§ 970-971.2 [Gov. Code § 970.2]. A judgment creditor may bring an action on a judgment rendered against a local public entity within the 10-year limitations period for enforcing the judgment [Barkley v. City of Blue Lake (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 1745, 1750-1751, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 315] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsEnforcement & ExecutionGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesWritsCommon Law WritsMandamusGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime LimitationsGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsFinance

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Enforcement of Judgments Against Local Public Entities

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 467.46through 467.59

[Reserved]

§§ 467.46[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 467.60

§ 467.60 State Constitution

Suits permitted to be brought against state in such manner and in such courts as directed by law. Cal. Const. art. III, § 5

Interest on judgments. Cal. Const. art. XV, § 1

Money permitted to be drawn from state treasury only through appropriation made by law and on state Controller's duly drawn warrant. Cal. Const. art. XVI, § 7

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureSettlementsSettlement AgreementsEnforcementGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsEnforcement & ExecutionGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesCosts & Attorney FeesAttorney Expenses & FeesGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & Against

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 467.61

§ 467.61 State Statutes

Penalty imposed if state agency fails to pay contract claim. Gov. Code § 927 et seq.

Mandatory settlement conference regarding satisfaction of personal injury or wrongful death judgments in excess of $100,000. Gov. Code § 962

Payment of claims, settlements, and judgments against state. Gov. Code §§ 965-965.9

Payment of judgments against local public entities. Gov. Code §§ 970-971.2

Funding of judgments against local public entities with bonds. Gov. Code §§ 975-978.8

Installment payments if public entity is "not insured." Gov. Code § 984

Collateral source payments in actions for personal injury and wrongful death. Gov. Code § 985

Authority of local public entity to procure insurance. Gov. Code §§ 989-991.2

Authority of state to procure insurance against tort or inverse condemnation liability. Gov. Code § 11007.4

Authority of State Controller to draw warrants. Gov. Code § 12440

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureEminent Domain ProceedingsState CondemnationsGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsFinanceGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By &

AgainstGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsInsurance LawBusiness InsuranceSelf-InsuranceGovernmental AgenciesPublic Contracts LawDispute ResolutionGeneral OverviewReal Property LawInverse CondemnationGeneral OverviewTortsDamagesCollateral Source RuleGeneral OverviewTortsProcedureSettlementsGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 467.62

§ 467.62 Decisions

[1] Compelling Action

State official's determination whether necessary funds are available to pay tort judgment against state or state agency and, if so, appropriate certification to that effect are ministerial duties enforceable by mandate. Straughter v. State of California (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 412, 416, 169 Cal. Rptr. 471

Local public entity required to pay judgments in tort and inverse condemnation against it; mandate is appropriate remedy to compel it to do so. Galli v. State of California (1979) 98 Cal. App. 3d 662, 676, 159 Cal. Rptr. 721 (construing Gov. Code §§ 970 (prior to 1981 amendment extending coverage to any final money judgment), 970.2)

Proceeding in traditional mandamus to compel state official to perform mandatory duty is not action against state for money, even though result compels public official to release money wrongfully detained. County of Sacramento v. Lackner (1979) 97 Cal. App. 3d 576, 587, 159 Cal. Rptr. 1

[2] Interest on Judgments Against State

Cal. Const. art. XV, § 1, relating to interest on judgments rendered in California courts, permits recovery of interest on judgments against state and its political subdivisions. Harland v. State of California (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 839, 842, 160 Cal. Rptr. 613

Cal. Const. art. III, § 5, providing that suits may be brought against state in such manner and in such courts as shall be directed by law, does not empower legislature to immunize state, if it has been validly sued and judgment against it sustained, from general obligation for interest on judgment pursuant to Cal. Const. art. XV, § 1. Harland v. State of California (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 839, 845, 160 Cal. Rptr. 613

Interest on judgment not awarded as penalty for nonpayment, but because party who retains money has its use and benefit while party entitled to money has been deprived of opportunity to use it. Harland v. State of California (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 839, 847, 160 Cal. Rptr. 613

[3] Separation of Powers Doctrine

Separation of powers doctrine (Cal. Const. art. III, § 3) does not preclude judiciary from decreeing that funds appropriated by legislature must be paid without regard to improper or invalid legislative restriction if, in absence of such invalid restriction, appropriated funds are reasonably available for expenditures in question. Mandel v. Myers (1981) 29 Cal. 3d 531, 542, 174 Cal. Rptr. 841, 629 P.2d 935 (payment ordered under private attorney general theory out of funds appropriated for Department of Health Services' operating expenses and equipment); see Serrano v. Priest (1982) 131 Cal. App. 3d 188, 201, 182 Cal. Rptr. 387 (invalidating legislative restrictions in Budget Act resting on legislative readjudication of merits of final court judgment awarding attorney fees)

Cal. Const. art. VI, § 1, assigns resolution of specific controversies to judicial branch of government and provides legislature with no authority to set itself above judiciary by discarding outcome or readjudicating merits of particular judicial proceedings; legislature lacks constitutional authority to readjudicate or set aside final court judgments on case-by-case basis. Mandel v. Myers (1981) 29 Cal. 3d 531, 547, 174 Cal. Rptr. 841, 629 P.2d 935 ; Serrano v. Priest (1982) 131 Cal. App. 3d 188, 201, 182 Cal. Rptr. 387

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesJudgment InterestGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesWritsCommon Law WritsMandamusCivil ProcedureEminent Domain ProceedingsState CondemnationsConstitutional LawSeparation of PowersGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstReal Property LawInverse CondemnationRemediesTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 467.63

§ 467.63 Text References

California Government Tort Liability Practice (Cal CEB 1980), § 5.80

Witkin, California Procedure (4th ed. 1996), Vol 8, Enforcement of Judgment, §§ 53, 400, 401

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureSettlementsSettlement AgreementsEnforcementGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsEnforcement & ExecutionGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesCosts & Attorney FeesAttorney Expenses & FeesGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & Against

194 of 197 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 467.64through 467.79

[Reserved]

§§ 467.64[Reserved]

195 of 197 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES
PART IV. FORMS

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 467.80

§ 467.80 Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086]--To Compel State Official or Employee to Perform Statutory Duty Regarding Payment or Offset of Claim, Settlement, Compromise, or Judgment Against State or State Agency [Gov. Code §§ 965.7(a), 965.8]

[1] FORM Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086]--To Compel State Official or Employee to Perform Statutory Duty Regarding Payment or Offset of Claim, Settlement, Compromise, or Judgment Against State or State Agency [Gov. Code §§ 965.7(a), 965.8]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name], Petitioner,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name and official title],	)	PETITION FOR WRIT OF MANDATE TO COMPEL RESPONDENT TO _____ [e.g., CERTIFY THAT SUFFICIENT APPROPRIATION EXISTS TO _____ (PAY or OFFSET) TORT _____ (CLAIM or SETTLEMENT or COMPROMISE or JUDGMENT) AGAINST _____ (STATE or name of state agency)]
Respondent.	)
	)

_____

1. Respondent _____[name] is _____[specify, e.g., the duly appointed, qualified, and acting Director of Finance of the State of California].

2. _____ [Specify basis of state's or state agency's liability, e.g., On or about _____ (date), petitioner recovered a judgment against the State of California in an action entitled _____ (name of petitioner) vs. The State of California, No. _____, in the _____ Court of California, County of _____]. The action arose out of _____ [specify, e.g., a collision between a car owned and operated by petitioner and a car, license number _____, owned by the State of California and operated by _____ (name), an employee of the State of California who was at the time of the collision acting in the course and scope of (his or her) employment]. A certified copy of the judgment is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.

3. _____ [Specify satisfaction of any conditions precedent to respondent's duty to perform, e.g., A sufficient appropriation for the _____ (payment or offset) of this _____ (claim or settlement or compromise or judgment) exists in that in the Budget Act of _____ (year) the legislature expressly appropriated the sum of $ _____ for _____ (payment or to provide for offsets) of any and all tort _____ (claims or settlements or compromises or judgments) against the state and there remains in that fund the unencumbered sum of $ _____, which is more than enough to _____ (pay or provide for an offset of) the _____ (claim or settlement or compromise or judgment with interest) in full].

4. Under the provisions of Sections _____[965(a) or 965.6(b) or other section] and _____[965.7(a) or 965.8] of the Government Code, respondent is expressly required to _____ [specify action to be compelled by mandate, e.g., certify to the _____ (State Board of Control or Controller of the State of California) that a sufficient appropriation exists for the _____ (payment or offset) of this _____ (claim or settlement or compromise or judgment with interest), if a sufficient appropriation does in fact exist for such purpose].

5. On or about _____[date], [and on numerous occasions thereafter to and including _____ (date)] petitioner requested respondent to _____ [specify action to be compelled by mandate, e.g., certify to the _____ (State Board of Control or Controller of the State of California) that an appropriation having sufficient unencumbered funds for the _____ (payment or offset) of the _____ (claim or settlement or compromise or judgment with interest) exists], but respondent has failed and refused, and continues to fail and refuse, to do so.

6. Petitioner has no plain, speedy, and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law, or any remedy other than this proceeding, which is expressly authorized by the provisions of Section _____[965.7(a) or 965.8] of the Government Code.

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays that:

1. The court issue an alternative writ of mandate commanding respondent to _____ [specify, e.g., certify to the _____ (State Board of Control or Controller of the State of California) the existence of an appropriation with unencumbered funds sufficient to _____ (pay or offset) the _____ (claim or settlement or compromise or judgment with interest)] or show cause before this court at a time specified by the court why [he *or*she] has not done so.

2. That on the return of the alternative writ and the hearing of this petition, the court issue its peremptory writ of mandate commanding respondent to _____ [specify, e.g., certify to the _____ (State Board of Control or Controller of the State of California) the existence of an appropriation with unencumbered funds sufficient to _____ (pay or offset) the _____ (claim or settlement or compromise or judgment with interest)].

3. For costs of this proceeding and for such other and further relief as the court deems just and proper.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for _____ [party's status]

VERIFICATION

I, _____[name], am the [attorney for] petitioner in the above-entitled proceeding. I have read the foregoing petition and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____[date]

_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

This form of petition for writ of mandate may be used to compel a public entity, officer, or employee to perform a statutory duty relating to the payment or offset of a claim, settlement, compromise, or judgment in favor of petitioner against the state or a state agency [see Gov. Code §§ 965.7(a), 965.8].

[3] Allegations

This form alleges:

- The respondent's name and, if the respondent is an officer or employee of a public entity, the respondent's official title or capacity (Paragraph 1) [see Gov. Code §§ 965.7(a), 965.8];

- The basis of the liability of the state or state agency (the nature of the claim, settlement, compromise, or judgment of which payment or an offset is sought) (Paragraph 2) [see Gov. Code §§ 965(a), 965.6(b)];

- The satisfaction of any conditions precedent to respondent's duty to perform (for example, the existence of an appropriation with sufficient unencumbered funds to pay the claim, settlement, compromise, or judgment) (Paragraph 3) [see Gov. Code §§ 965, 965.6];

- The existence of respondent's duty (Paragraph 4); and

- That petitioner has requested respondent to perform the duty and that respondent has failed or refused to do so (Paragraph 5) [see Gov. Code §§ 965.7(a), 965.8].

In addition, the petition should allege the absence of a plain, speedy, and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law and that a writ of mandate is authorized (Paragraph 6) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1086; Gov. Code §§ 965.7(a), 965.8].

[4] Verification

A petition for a writ of mandate must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086].

[5] Accompanying Papers

[a] Proof of Service

Proof of service on each respondent and real party in interest of a copy of a petition that seeks an alternative writ must accompany the petition when it is offered for filing, unless the court, in its discretion and for good cause, has granted the application for the writ ex parte [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107; for a discussion of serving the petition, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition].

If no alternative writ is sought, proof of service of a copy of the petition need not accompany the application, but proof of service of a copy of the filed petition must be lodged with the court prior to a hearing or any action by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1088.5].

[b] Points and Authorities

This petition should be accompanied by a memorandum [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1100, 3.1103(a)(2), 3.1113(a) (petition filed in superior court), 8.490 (petition filed as original proceeding in reviewing court)].

[6] Cross References

For alternative forms of petitions for writ of mandate, including petitions originally filed in a court of appeal or the Supreme Court, a form of alternative writ, and related forms, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES
PART IV. FORMS

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 467.81

§ 467.81 Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086]--To Compel Local Public Entity to Perform Statutory Duty Regarding Payment of Judgment [Gov. Code § 970.2]

[1] FORM Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086]--To Compel Local Public Entity to Perform Statutory Duty Regarding Payment of Judgment [Gov. Code § 970.2]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Petitioner,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name and official title],	)	PETITION FOR WRIT OF MANDATE TO COMPEL RESPONDENT TO _____ [specify statutory duty, e.g., PAY JUDGMENT AGAINST _____ (name of local entity)]
Respondent.	)
	)
	)

_____

1. Respondent _____[name] is _____ [specify, e.g., the duly _____ (elected or appointed), qualified, and acting _____ (specify governing body of local public entity, e.g., Board of Supervisors of _____ County,] California.

2. _____ [Identify judgment entered and nature of case, e.g., On or about _____ (date), petitioner recovered a judgment against the _____ (name of local public entity) in an action entitled _____ (name of petitioner) vs. _____ (name of local public entity), No. _____, in the _____ Court of California, County of _____. The action arose out of _____ (specify, e.g., a collision between a car owned and operated by petitioner and a car, license number _____, owned by the _____[name of local public entity] and operated by _____[name], an employee of the _____[name of local public entity], who was at the time of the collision acting in the course and scope of [his or her] employment). The judgment became final on _____ (date). A certified copy of the judgment is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof].

3. _____ [Specify satisfaction of any conditions precedent to respondent's duty to perform, e.g., The judgment did not provide for installment payments. At the time it became final as hereinabove alleged, there existed, and there now exist, funds to the credit of the _____ (name of local public entity) that are not restricted by law or contract to other purposes and that are unappropriated for any other purposes, which are more than enough to pay the judgment with interest in full].

4. Under the provisions of Section _____[specify code section relied on, e.g., 970.4 of the Government Code], respondent is expressly required to _____ [specify action to be compelled by mandate, e.g., pay, to the extent funds are available in the fiscal year in which it becomes final any judgment, with interest thereon, out of any funds to the credit of the _____ (name of local public entity) that are unappropriated for any other purpose unless the use of such funds is restricted by law or contract to other purposes].

5. On or about _____[date] [and on numerous occasions thereafter to and including _____ (date)], petitioner requested respondent to _____[specify action to be compelled by mandate, e.g., pay the judgment with interest], but respondent has failed and refused, and continues to fail and refuse, to do so.

6. Petitioner has no plain, speedy, and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law, or any remedy other than this proceeding, which is expressly authorized by the provisions of Section 970.2 of the Government Code.

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays that:

1. The court issue an alternative writ of mandate commanding respondent to _____[specify, e.g., pay the judgment with interest] or show cause before this court at a time specified by the court why it has not done so.

2. On the return of the alternative writ and the hearing of this petition, the court issue its peremptory writ of mandate commanding respondent to _____ [specify, e.g., pay the _____ judgment with interest].

3. For costs of this proceeding and for such other and further relief as the court deems just and proper.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for _____ [party's status]

[Verification. See § 467.80 .]

[2] Use of Form

This form may be used to compel a local public entity to perform a statutory duty relating to the payment of a judgment with interest against it in favor of petitioner [see Gov. Code § 970.2].

[3] Allegations

This form of petition alleges:

- The respondent's name, showing that it is the governing body of the local public entity (Paragraph 1) [see Gov. Code §§ 970.4, 970.5, 970.6, 970.8];

- The basis of the local public entity's liability (the judgment requires the payment of money and the date the judgment became final) (Paragraph 2) [see Gov. Code § 970.4];

- The satisfaction of any conditions precedent to respondent's duty to perform (for example, the existence in the fiscal year in which the judgment became final of sufficient unappropriated funds, the use of which is not restricted by law or contract to other purposes, or funds appropriated for the current fiscal year for the payment of judgments and not previously encumbered) (Paragraph 3) [see Gov. Code § 970.4];

- The existence of respondent's duty (Paragraph 4); and

- That petitioner has requested respondent to perform the duty, and respondent has failed or refused to do so (Paragraph 5) [see Gov. Code §§ 970.4-970.6, 970.8].

In addition, the petition should allege the absence of a plain, speedy, and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law and that a writ of mandate is authorized (Paragraph 6) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1086; Gov. Code § 970.2].

[4] Verification

A petition for a writ of mandate must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086].

[5] Accompanying Papers

[a] Proof of Service

Proof of service on each respondent and real party in interest of a copy of a petition that seeks an alternative writ must accompany the petition if it is offered for filing, unless the court, in its discretion and for good cause, has granted the application for the writ ex parte [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107; for a discussion of serving the petition, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition].

If no alternative writ is sought, proof of service of a copy of the petition need not accompany the application, but proof of service of a copy of the filed petition must be lodged with the court prior to a hearing or any action by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1088.5].

[b] Points and Authorities

This petition should be accompanied by a memorandum [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1100, 3.1103(a)(2), 3.1113(a) (petition filed in superior court), 8.490 (petition filed as original proceeding in reviewing court)].

[6] Cross References

For a form to use to compel the state or a state agency to perform duties arising from a judgment, see § 467.80

For forms of allegations as to the capacity of a municipality, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Business & Corporate LawCorporate NamesRequirementsCivil ProcedureParties Real Parties in InterestGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesJudgment InterestGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesWritsCommon Law WritsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesWritsCommon Law WritsMandamusContracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsConditions PrecedentGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsAdministrative BoardsGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsDuties & PowersGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsFinanceTortsTransportation TortsMotor VehiclesPersonal Vehicles

197 of 197 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 467 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST PUBLIC ENTITIES
PART IV. FORMS

40-467 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 467.82

§ 467.82 Proceedings to Accelerate Installment Payments on Unreasonable Delay in or Failure to Make Payments [Gov. Code § 984(e)(4)]--Notice of Motion and Supporting Declaration

[1] FORM Proceedings to Accelerate Installment Payments on Unreasonable Delay in or Failure to Make Payments [Gov. Code § 984(e)(4)]--Notice of Motion and Supporting Declaration

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)	NO. _____
Plaintiff,	)	NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION TO AC-
vs.	)	CELERATE INSTALLMENT PAYMENTS, SUP-
_____ [name],	)	PORTING DECLARATION OF Defendant.	)	_____ [name], AND MEMOR-)	ANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
	)	Date: _____
	)	Time: _____
	)	Location: _____
		Judge: _____
		Date Action Filed: _____
		To defendant _____ [name] and to its attorney of record:

_____

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on _____[date], at _____[time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____[street address], _____[city], the plaintiff will, and hereby does, move for an order to accelerate installment payments pursuant to Government Code Section 984(e)(4). The motion will be made on the ground that the defendant has _____[unreasonably delayed in making or failed to make] payments as ordered by this court on _____[date].

The motion will be based on this notice of motion, on the declaration(s) of _____[name(s)] and the memorandum of points and authorities served and filed herewith, on the records and file herein, and on such evidence as may be presented at the hearing of the motion.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF _____[name]

I, _____[name], declare:

1. I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., an attorney at law duly admitted to practice before all the courts of the State of California and the attorney of record herein for the plaintiff _____ (name) or other statement as appropriate].

2. On _____[date], this court ordered the defendant _____[name] to pay the plaintiff _____[name] the amount of $ _____, payable in periodic payments of $ _____ beginning on _____[date], and continuing _____[specify frequency of payments, e.g., monthly thereafter on the first day of each month] until the entire amount is satisfied in full.

3. Since this court's order of _____[date], the defendant _____[name] has _____ [set forth facts describing defendant's unreasonable delay in making, or failure to make, payments, e.g., made the first payment as ordered but has failed to pay the plaintiff _____ (name) any further amount whatsoever, and is now _____ (specify number) months in arrears in the payments].

[4. _____ (Describe any unsuccessful attempts to obtain payment).]

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____[date]

_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

[Add memorandum of points and authorities supporting motion.]

[2] Use of Form

This notice of motion and supporting declaration is for use by a plaintiff in an action against a public entity, in which a judgment for periodic payments was entered, to accelerate installment payments if the defendant has unreasonably delayed in making, or has failed to make, payments [see Gov. Code § 984(e)(4)]. The motion should be filed in the court that ordered the installment payments [see Gov. Code § 984(e)(4) (court retains jurisdiction to enforce, amend, modify, or approve settlement of installment payments)].

A memorandum of points and authorities is required to be served and filed with the form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010]. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

[3] Installment Payments on Judgment Against Public Entity

A judgment against a public entity may be ordered to be paid by periodic payments only if ordered under Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7 or Gov. Code§ 970.6, if the public entity has made an election under Gov. Code § 984(d), or if the parties have agreed to it [see § 467.25].

[4] Cross References

For general discussion of law and motion procedure and general forms of orders, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 468 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: FALSE CLAIMS ACTIONS

40-468 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 468.syn

§ 468.syn Synopsis to Chapter 468: PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: FALSE CLAIMS ACTIONS

§ 468.01 Scope of Chapter

§§ 468.02-468.19 [Reserved]

§ 468.20 Governing Law

§ 468.21 Scope of False Claims Act

[1] Purpose and Construction of Act

[2] Statutory Definitions

[3] Conduct Prohibited by False Claims Act

[4] Excluded Claims

[a] Amount in Controversy Less Than $500

[b] Claim Pursuant to California Tort Claims Act

[c] Claim Pursuant to Workers' Compensation Law

[d] Claim Pursuant to Tax Law

[e] Substance of Claim Known to Government Entity When Action Brought

[f] Allegations Subject of Pending Civil Suit

[g] Action Based on Publicly Disclosed Matter

[h] Action Based on Information Discovered by Government Employee

[i] Claims Involving Assets Transferred to Insurance Commissioner

[5] Treble Damages and Civil Penalties Available

§ 468.22 Procedures for Bringing Action Under Act

[1] Parties Who May Bring Action

[2] Statute of Limitations

[3] Action Initiated by Attorney General

[a] Claim Involving State Funds Only

[b] Claim Involving State and Political Subdivision Funds

[4] Action Initiated by Prosecuting Attorney

[a] Claim Involving Political Subdivision Funds Only

[b] Claim Involving Political Subdivision and State Funds

[5] Action Initiated by Qui Tam Plaintiff

[a] Filing and Service of Complaint

[b] Determining Primary Responsibility for Bringing Action

[i] Attorney General or Local Prosecuting Authority

[ii] Claim Involving State Funds Only

[iii] Claim Involving Political Subdivision Funds Only

[iv] Claim Involving Both State and Political Subdivision Funds

[c] Defendant's Time to Respond

[d] Related Actions Barred

[e] Restrictions on Dismissal

[f] Restrictions on Discovery

[g] Involvement of Government Entity

[i] Request for Pleadings and Transcripts by Government Entity

[ii] Intervention by Government Entity

[iii] Dismissal or Settlement by Government Entity

[6] Arbitration of Claim

[7] Standard of Proof

§ 468.23 Allocation of Proceeds From Recovery

[1] Qui Tam Plaintiff Responsible for Prosecuting Action

[2] Attorney General or Local Prosecutor Responsible for Prosecuting Action

[3] Reversion of Undistributed Funds

§ 468.24 Costs and Attorney's Fees

§ 468.25 Prohibition Against Retaliation by Employer

§ 468.26 Criminal Action for False Claims

§§ 468.27-468.39 [Reserved]

§ 468.40 State Statutes

§ 468.41 Law Reviews

§§ 468.42-468.59 [Reserved]

§ 468.60 Complaint for Damages by Qui Tam Plaintiff Based on False or Fraudulent Claim Against Governmental Entity [Gov. Code §§ 12651, 12652(c)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Prayer for Relief

[5] Service and Filing

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 468 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: FALSE CLAIMS ACTIONS
PART I. SCOPE

40-468 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 468.01

§ 468.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses civil liability under Gov. Code §§ 12650-12656 for presenting a false claim for money, property, or services to a governmental entity or representative [see § 468.20 et seq.]. This chapter contains a form of complaint [see § 468.60] for use by a private individual who seeks to prosecute a civil action on behalf of a government entity against a defendant who has made a false claim.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 468 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: FALSE CLAIMS ACTIONS
PART I. SCOPE

40-468 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 468.02-468.19

[Reserved]

§§ 468.02[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 468 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: FALSE CLAIMS ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

40-468 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 468.20

§ 468.20 Governing Law

Damages actions for false claims made against a government entity are generally governed by Gov. Code §§ 12650-12656. Gov. Code §§ 12651 and 12652 authorize treble damages actions by government entities and private parties against defendants that file false claims. These provisions are not exclusive, however, and a government entity is free to seek any other remedies provided for in any other law or available under common law [see Gov. Code § 12655(a)]. Furthermore, these provisions do not cover all types of false claims [see § 468.21[4]].

Damages actions for fraud and deceit are governed by Civ. Code §§ 1709 and 1710. A civil action may be brought under these provisions against the maker of a fraudulent claim against a governmental entity, in appropriate circumstances. For further discussion of the statutes and related forms, see Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit .

The federal False Claims Act is contained in 31 U.S.C.S. §§ 3729-3733, but discussion of the federal act is beyond the scope of this chapter.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 468 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: FALSE CLAIMS ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

40-468 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 468.21

§ 468.21 Scope of False Claims Act

[1] Purpose and Construction of Act

The apparent legislative purposes of Gov. Code §§ 12650-12656 are to discourage the filing of fraudulent claims against government entities, to promote the discovery of fraudulent claims, and to penalize persons who file fraudulent claims [see Gov. Code §§ 12650-12656].

The provisions in Gov. Code § 12650-12656 must be liberally construed and applied to promote the public interest [Gov. Code § 12655(c)]. If any section of these provisions or the application of that section to any person or circumstance is held to be unconstitutional, the remainder of the sections and the application of those sections to other persons or circumstances are unaffected [Gov. Code § 12655(b)].

[2] Statutory Definitions

For purposes of the False Claims Act, a "claim" includes any request or demand, whether under a contract or otherwise, for money, property, or services, and whether or not the state or a political subdivision has title to the money, property, or services that is either of the following [Gov. Code § 12650 (b)(1)]:

1. Presented to an officer, employee, or agent of the state or a political subdivision; or

2. Made to a contractor, grantee, or other recipient, if the money, property, or service is to be spent or used on a state or any political subdivision program or interest, and if the state or political subdivision meets either of the following conditions:

a. Provides or has provided any portion of the money, property, or service requested or demanded; or

b. Reimburses the contractor, grantee, or other recipient for any portion of the money, property, or service that is requested or demanded.

A "claim" does not include requests or demands for money, property, or services that the state or political subdivision has paid to an individual as compensation for employment with the state or political subdivision or as an income subsidy with no restrictions on that individual's use of the money, property, or services [Gov. Code § 12650 (b)(2)].

Under the Act, "state funds" refers to funds that are the subject of a claim presented to an officer, employee, or agent of the state or where the state provides, has provided, or will reimburse any portion of the money, property, or service requested or demanded [Gov. Code § 12650(b)(9)]. However, the "state funds" necessary to state a claim under the False Claims Act include only funds that are part of the public treasury, the diminution of which would harm taxpayers. For example, funds held in trust for private parties, even if held by a government entity, do not constitute state funds for this purpose [State v. Altus Fin. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1284, 1302, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 498, 116 P.3d 1175 (assets of insolvent insurer held by Insurance Commissioner in trust for creditors of insurer were not state funds)]. Under the Act, "political subdivision funds" means funds that are the subject of a claim presented to an officer, employee, or agent of a political subdivision or where the political subdivision provides, has provided, or will reimburse any portion of the money, property, or service requested or demanded [Gov. Code § 12650(b)(6)].

A showing that the defendant's fraudulent conduct was "knowing" is generally a key element of actions brought under Gov. Code § 12652 [see Gov. Code § 12651(a)(1), (2), (4)-(7)]. As used in Gov. Code §§ 12650-12656, "knowing" and "knowingly" mean that a person, with respect to information, has actual knowledge of the information, acts in deliberate ignorance of the truth or falsity of the information, or acts in reckless disregard of the truth or falsity of the information [Gov. Code § 12650(b)(3)]. Specific intent to defraud is not required [Gov. Code § 12650(b)(3); County of Kern v. Sparks (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 11, 19, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 551].

For purposes of the Act, "political subdivision" includes any city, city and county, county, tax or assessment district, or other legally authorized local government entity with jurisdictional boundaries [Gov. Code § 12650(b)(5)].

"Prosecuting authority" refers to the county counsel, city attorney, or other local government official charged with investigating, filing, and conducting civil legal proceedings on behalf of, or in the name of, a particular political subdivision [Gov. Code § 12650(b)(7)].

For purposes of the Act, "person" includes any natural person, corporation, firm, association, organization, partnership, limited liability company, business, or trust [Gov. Code § 12650(b)(8)].

The statutory definition of "person" does not encompass a state or local government entity [Wells v. One2One Learning Foundation (2006) 39 Cal. 4th 1164, 1196-1197, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 108, 141 P.3d 225] . Therefore, a public entity may not be sued under the Act [Wells v. One2One Learning Foundation (2006) 39 Cal. 4th 1164, 1196-1197, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 108, 141 P.3d 225] , nor may a public entity bring an action as a qui tam plaintiff on behalf of another government agency [State ex rel. Harris v. PricewaterhouseCoopers, LLP (2006) 39 Cal. 4th 1220, 1238, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 144, 141 P.3d 256 ; see § 468.22[1]]. Similarly, because a public agency is required to defend and indemnify a public employee against claims arising out of an act or omission occurring within the scope of his or her employment [see Gov. Code § 825], a public employee may not be sued under the Act for conduct taken within the scope of employment, as such a suit would be the equivalent of suing the public entity itself [State of California ex rel. Dockstader v. Hamby (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 480, 484, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 567].

Private entities that engage in traditional public entity activities, and are perhaps subject to some public entity oversight, may be sued under the Act if they otherwise meet the statutory definition of "person" [see Wells v. One2One Learning Foundation (2006) 39 Cal. 4th 1164, 1200-1201, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 108, 141 P.3d 225 (charter schools could be sued under Act)].

[3] Conduct Prohibited by False Claims Act

Any of the following acts may be the basis for an award of treble damages and civil penalties under Gov. Code § 12651 [Gov. Code § 12651(a); see § 468.21[5]]:

- Knowingly presenting or causing to be presented a false or fraudulent claim for payment or approval;

- Knowingly making, using, or causing to be made or used a false record or statement material to a false or fraudulent claim [see also Gov. Code § 12650(b)(4) ("material" means having natural tendency to influence, or be capable of influencing, payment or receipt or money, property, or services)];

- Conspiring to commit a violation of the False Claims Act;

- Having possession, custody, or control of public property or money used or to be used by the state or by any political subdivision and knowingly delivering or causing to be delivered less property than all of that property;

- Having authorization to make or deliver a document certifying receipt of property used or to be used by the state or by any political subdivision and knowingly making or delivering a receipt that falsely represents the property used or to be used;

- Knowingly buying, or receiving as a pledge of an obligation or debt, public property from any person who lawfully may not sell or pledge the property;

- Knowingly making, using, or causing to be made or used a false record or statement material to an obligation to pay or transmit money or property to the state or to any political subdivision, or knowingly concealing or knowingly and improperly avoiding, or decreasing an obligation to pay or transmit money or property to the state or any political subdivision [see State ex rel. Bowen v. Bank of Am. Corp. (2005) 126 Cal. App. 4th 225, 240-241, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 746 (obligation to pay must be certain and liquidated at time of concealment to recover for false claim)]; and

- Being a beneficiary of an inadvertent submission of a false claim, subsequently discovering the falsity of the claim, and failing to disclose the false claim to the state or the political subdivision within a reasonable time after discovery. A beneficiary under this provision may include a third party such as a successor or parent company, and the submission may be intentional rather than merely inadvertent [Armenta ex rel. City of Burbank v. Mueller Co. (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 636, 645-649, 47 Cal. Rptr. 3d 832] .

The use of a "false record or statement" does not itself constitute the making of a false claim, and a civil penalty is available only for the making of each false claim [Fassberg Construction Co. v. Housing Authority of Los Angeles (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 720, 736-737, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 375 ; see [5], below]. In one case, for example, while a general contractor made a "claim" each time it submitted a request for a progress payment to a housing authority with which it had a construction contract, the submission of weekly payroll reports in support of those requests for payment did not constitute individual claims [Fassberg Construction Co. v. Housing Authority of Los Angeles (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 720, 739, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 375] . Similarly, requests to modify the construction contract were not actionable claims, although any subsequent request for payment based on a falsely documented change request would be a false claim [Fassberg Construction Co. v. Housing Authority of Los Angeles (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 720, 741-742, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 375] .

A fraudulently induced contract may create liability for a false claim if the contract later results in a payment by the government, regardless of whether the payment is made to the wrongdoer or to another party [see City of Pomona v. Superior Court (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 793, 803, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 710 ; see also County of Kern v. Sparks (2007)

149 Cal. App. 4th 11, 17-18, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 551 (sheriff authorized special employee compensation without actual authority)]. In one case, for example, a city stated a cause of action by alleging that a manufacturer of pipes used to carry drinking water provided catalogues to its distributors, knowing that the claims made in the catalogues as to the metal content and durability of its pipes were false. Although the city paid under the purchase contract to a distributor, rather than the pipe manufacturer, the manufacturer could be liable because it provided the catalogues, knowing that they would be relied on and induce contracts for the purchase of its products [City of Pomona v. Superior Court (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 793, 803-805, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 710] .

A request for payment made to a public entity under a contract to provide goods or services impliedly constitutes a certification that the vendor has complied with its express contractual requirements, and a request for payment made without notifying the government entity that the vendor is not in compliance with the material terms of the contract may be the basis of a claim under Gov. Code § 12651 [San Francisco Unified School Dist. ex rel. Contreras v. Laidlaw Transit, Inc. (2010) 182 Cal. App. 4th 438, 453, 106 Cal. Rptr. 3d 84] . While such a claim may be defeated with evidence that the governmental entity would have paid the claim even with knowledge of the contractual noncompliance, allegations that an implied certification of compliance was false and had a natural tendency to influence the public agency's decision to pay are sufficient to survive a demurrer [San Francisco Unified School Dist. ex rel. Contreras v. Laidlaw Transit, Inc. (2010) 182 Cal. App. 4th 438, 456-457, 106 Cal. Rptr. 3d 84] .

[4] Excluded Claims

[a] Amount in Controversy Less Than $500

The false claims laws do not apply to any controversy involving an amount of less than $500 in value. For purposes of the rule, "controversy" means any one or more false claims submitted by the same person in violation of Gov. Code §§ 12650-12656 [Gov. Code § 12651(d)].

[b] Claim Pursuant to California Tort Claims Act

The false claims laws do not apply if the defendant's fraudulent act involves a claim, record, or statement made pursuant to the California Tort Claims Act (Gov. Code §§ 810-996.6) [Gov. Code § 12651(e); but see Code Civ. Proc. § 1038 (allowing court to award defense costs for action brought in bad faith under Tort Claims Act)]. For further discussion of the act, see Ch. 464, Public Entities and Officers: California Tort Claims Act .

[c] Claim Pursuant to Workers' Compensation Law

The false claims laws do not apply if the defendant's fraudulent act involves a claim made under the law of workers' compensation and insurance (Lab. Code § 3200 et seq.) [Gov. Code § 12651(e)]. For general discussion of workers' compensation claims, see Ch. 577, Workers' Compensation .

[d] Claim Pursuant to Tax Law

The false claims laws do not apply if the defendant's fraudulent act involves a claim made under the Revenue and Taxation Code [Gov. Code § 12651(f)]. For general discussion of tax claims, see Ch. 540, Taxes and Assessments .

[e] Substance of Claim Known to Government Entity When Action Brought

No court has jurisdiction over an action for fraudulent claims initiated by a qui tam plaintiff [see § 468.22[1]] against a member of the State Senate or Assembly, a member of the state judiciary, an elected official in the executive branch of the state, or a member of the governing body of any political subdivision, if the action is based on evidence or information known to the state or political subdivision when the action was brought [Gov. Code § 12652(d)(1)].

[f] Allegations Subject of Pending Civil Suit

A party initiating a false claims action as a qui tam plaintiff [see § 468.22[1]] may not bring an action that is based on allegations or transactions that are the subject of a civil suit or an administrative civil money penalty proceeding in which the state or political subdivision is already a party [Gov. Code § 12652(d)(2)].

[g] Action Based on Publicly Disclosed Matter

A court will not have jurisdiction over an action for fraudulent claims under Gov. Code §§ 12650-12656 that is based on the public disclosure of allegations or transactions in a criminal, civil, or administrative hearing, in an investigation, report, hearing, or audit conducted by or at the request of the Senate, Assembly, auditor, or the governing body of a political subdivision, or from the news media, unless the action is brought by the Attorney General or the prosecuting authority of a political subdivision, or if the person bringing the action is an original source of the information [Gov. Code § 12652(d)(3)(A)]. "Original source" means an individual who has direct and independent knowledge of the information on which the allegations are based, who voluntarily provided the information to the state or political subdivision before filing an action based on that information, and whose information provided the basis or catalyst for the investigation, hearing, audit, or report that led to the public disclosure [Gov. Code § 12652(d)(3)(B)].

This "public disclosure" bar is designed as a bar against parasitic or opportunistic actions by persons who are trying to take advantage of public information without contributing to or assisting in the exposure of the fraud. Therefore, the bar must be applied only as necessary to preclude these parasitic or opportunistic actions, but not so broadly as to undermine the legislature's intent to promote public assistance in the prevention, identification, investigation, and prosecution of false claims [City of Hawthorne ex rel. Wohlner v. H & C Disposal Co. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1668, 1683, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 312] . For example, if an action alleging a fraudulent claim is brought against a defendant against whom earlier claims had been asserted, but the new action alleges different instances of fraud than those on which the earlier claims were based, the new claim will not be barred because the plaintiff asserting that claim is not merely taking advantage of information that had already been publicly disclosed [City of Hawthorne ex rel. Wohlner v. H & C Disposal Co. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1668, 1684, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 312] .

If the government is already on notice of the facts that form the basis for a cause of action under the False Claims Act, the public disclosure bar applies. This jurisdictional bar is not removed merely because the qui tam plaintiff may haveused his or her expertise or training to conclude that these public facts constitute a false claim [State of California ex rel. Grayson v. Pacific Bell Tel. Co. (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 741, 752, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 427] .

[h] Action Based on Information Discovered by Government Employee

A private party bringing an action on behalf of a government entity as a qui tam plaintiff [see § 468.22[1]] may not bring an action for fraudulent claims under Gov. Code §§ 12650-12656 that is based on information discovered by a present or former employee of the state or of a political subdivision during the course of his or her employment, unless that employee first in good faith exhausted existing internal procedures for reporting and seeking recovery of such falsely claimed sums through official channels and unless the state or political subdivision failed to act on the information provided within a reasonable period of time [Gov. Code § 12652(d)(4)].

[i] Claims Involving Assets Transferred to Insurance Commissioner

The false claims laws do not apply to claims, records, or statements for the assets of a person that have been transferred to the Commissioner of Insurance pursuant to Insurance Code § 1011 [Gov. Code § 12651(g)].

[5] Treble Damages and Civil Penalties Available

A person who commits any of the acts prohibited by Gov. Code § 12651(a) [see 468.21[3]] is liable to the state or to the political subdivision for three times the amount of damages that the state or the political subdivision sustains because of the act of that person. Furthermore, a person who commits any of the prohibited acts is liable to the state or to the political subdivision for the costs of a civil action brought to recover any of those penalties or damages, and is liable to the state or political subdivision for a civil penalty of not less than $5,000 and not more than $10,000 for each violation [Gov. Code § 12651(a)].

If certain mitigating circumstances are present, the penalties will be less severe. The court may assess not less than two times and not more than three times the amount of damages that the state or political subdivision sustains because of the defendant's fraudulent conduct, and no civil penalty if the court finds all of the following [Gov. Code § 12651(b)]:

- The person committing the violation furnished officials of the state or of the political subdivision responsible for investigating false claims violations with all information known to that person about the violation within 30 days after the date on which the person first obtained the information;

- The person fully cooperated with any investigation by the state or a political subdivision of the violation; and

- At the time the person furnished the state or the political subdivision with information about the violation, no criminal prosecution, civil action, or administrative action had commenced with respect to the violation, and the person did not have actual knowledge of the existence of an investigation into the violation.

Liability under Gov. Code § 12651 is joint and several for any act committed by two or more persons [Gov. Code § 12651(c)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 468 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: FALSE CLAIMS ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

40-468 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 468.22

§ 468.22 Procedures for Bringing Action Under Act

[1] Parties Who May Bring Action

The procedure for bringing an action under Gov. Code § 12652 is determined by the status of the plaintiff initiating the action and the nature of the funds that were fraudulently claimed [see Gov. Code § 12652(a)-(c)]. An action under Gov. Code § 12652 for violation of Gov. Code § 12651 may be brought by any of the following persons:

- The Attorney General [see Gov. Code § 12652(a)(1)];
- The prosecuting authority of a political subdivision [see Gov. Code § 12652(b)(1)]; or
- A person, for the person, and either for the State of California in the name of the state if any state funds are involved, or for a political subdivision if political subdivision funds are exclusively involved. The person bringing the action is referred to as the qui tam plaintiff [see Gov. Code § 12652(c)(1)].

Additionally, the plaintiff initiating the action may be required to give notice to other parties potentially interested in the action, who may then have a right of assuming primary responsibility for the action or of intervention [see, e.g., Gov. Code § 12652(c)(3), (4), (6)(A), (B)]. The rights of assuming responsibility for or intervening in an action are discussed in 468.22[3] -[5], depending on who initiates the action.

Because the statutory definition of "person" does not encompass a state or local government entity, a public entity may not bring an action as a qui tam plaintiff on behalf of another government agency [State ex rel. Harris v. PricewaterhouseCoopers, LLP (2006) 39 Cal. 4th 1220, 1238, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 144, 141 P.3d 256] .

[2] Statute of Limitations

A civil action under Gov. Code § 12652 may not be filed more than three years after the date of discovery by the Attorney General or prosecuting authority with jurisdiction to act under the false claims law or, in any event, no more than 10 years after the date on which the violation of Gov. Code § 12651 is committed [Gov. Code § 12654(a)]. These limitations periods even apply to actions brought for activities prior to January 1, 1988 (the effective date of Gov. Code §§ 12650-12656) [see Gov. Code § 12654(b)].

The three-year limitations period begins to run on the date that the official charged with responsibility for acting either knows of the false claim or knows of facts that would lead a reasonably prudent person to suspect it [Debro v. Los Angeles Raiders (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 940, 953, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 329] . It is not necessary that the official learn every factual detail or determine the particular legal theory that the plaintiff would later assert to trigger the limitations period [Debro v. Los Angeles Raiders (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 940, 955, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 329] . Even if suit was brought by a qui tam plaintiff [see § 468.22[1]], the relevant knowledge for purposes of triggering the limitations period is the knowledge of the government official, not that of the qui tam plaintiff [see State of California ex rel. Hindin v. Hewlett-Packard Co. (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 307, 314-315, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 762 ; Debro v. Los Angeles Raiders (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 940, 951, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 329] .

[3] Action Initiated by Attorney General

[a] Claim Involving State Funds Only

If the Attorney General brings a civil action under Gov. Code § 12652 on a claim exclusively involving state funds, the Attorney General has no duty to inform local prosecuting authorities of the action, because the action does not involve political subdivision funds [see Gov. Code § 12652(a)]. The office of the Attorney General will receive a fixed 33 percent of the proceeds of the action or settlement of the claim [Gov. Code §§ 12652(g)(1)(A), 12652(g)(7)].

[b] Claim Involving State and Political Subdivision Funds

If the Attorney General brings a civil action under Gov. Code § 12652 on a claim involving political subdivision funds as well as state funds, the Attorney General must, on the same date that the complaint is filed in the action, serve by mail with "return receipt requested" a copy of the complaint on the appropriate prosecuting authority [Gov. Code § 12652(a)(2)]. The prosecuting authority has the right to intervene in the action within 60 days after receipt of the complaint, and the court may permit intervention thereafter on a showing that all the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 387 have been met [Gov. Code § 12652(a)(3)].

For further discussion of these requirements, see Ch. 395, Parties .

If the prosecuting authority does intervene, the court may award the office of the prosecuting authority a portion of the Attorney General's fixed 33 percent of the recovery [see Gov. Code § 12652(g)(1)(A)], taking into account the prosecuting authority's role in investigating and conducting the action [Gov. Code § 12652(g)(1)(C)].

[4] Action Initiated by Prosecuting Attorney

[a] Claim Involving Political Subdivision Funds Only

If the prosecuting authority of a political subdivision brings a civil action under Gov. Code § 12652 on a claim exclusively involving political subdivision funds, the prosecuting authority has no statutory duty to inform the Attorney General of the action, because the action does not involve state funds [see Gov. Code § 12652(b)]. The office of the prosecuting authority will receive a fixed 33 percent of the proceeds of the action or settlement of the claim [Gov. Code §§ 12652(g)(1)(B), 12652(g)(7)].

[b] Claim Involving Political Subdivision and State Funds

If the prosecuting authority brings a civil action under Gov. Code § 12652 on a claim involving state funds as well as political subdivision funds, the prosecuting authority must, on the same date that the complaint is filed, serve a copy of the complaint on the Attorney General [Gov. Code § 12652(b)(2)]. Within 60 days after receiving the complaint, the Attorney General must notify the court as to whether or not he or she intends to proceed with the action. If the Attorney General intends to proceed with the action, the Attorney General will assume primary responsibility for conducting the action and the prosecuting authority will have the right to continue as a party [Gov. Code § 12652(b)(3)(A)]. If the Attorney General declines to proceed with the action, he or she must so notify the court, and the prosecuting authority then has the right to conduct the action [Gov. Code § 12652(b)(3)(B)].

If the Attorney General does assume responsibility for the action, the office of the Attorney General will generally be entitled to 33 percent of the proceeds of the action; however, the prosecuting authority may be awarded a portion of this recovery, depending on its role in investigating and conducting the action [Gov. Code §§ 12652(g)(1)(A), 12652(g)(1)(C)].

[5] Action Initiated by Qui Tam Plaintiff

[a] Filing and Service of Complaint

A complaint filed by a private person as a qui tam plaintiff must be filed in superior court in camera and may remain under seal for up to 60 days. No service may be made on the defendant until after the complaint is unsealed [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(2)].

On the same day as the complaint is filed, the qui tam plaintiff must serve on the Attorney General, by mail with return receipt requested, a copy of the complaint and a written disclosure of substantially all material evidence and information that the person possesses [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(3)].

If an action is brought under the False Claims Act, the plaintiff, whether apublic prosecutor or a qui tam plaintiff, need not comply with the claims presentation requirements of the California Tort Claims Act before filing suit [Wells v. One2One Learning Foundation (2006) 39 Cal. 4th 1164, 1214, 48 Cal.Rptr. 3d 108, 141 P.3d 225 (action against charter schools was not subject to claim presentation requirement); see Gov. Code §§ 905, 905.2].

[b] Determining Primary Responsibility for Bringing Action

[i] Attorney General or Local Prosecuting Authority

Once an action under Gov. Code § 12652 is initiated by a qui tam plaintiff, the Attorney General or local prosecuting authority may, in certain circumstances, assume primary responsibility for prosecuting the action [see Gov. Code § 12652(e)(1)]. The determination regarding which of the two will have prosecutorial responsibility is affected by whether the defendant's claim involved state funds, political subdivision funds, or a combination of both [see Gov. Code § 12652(c)(4)-(8)].

[ii] Claim Involving State Funds Only

Within 60 days after receiving a complaint alleging violations that involve state funds but not political subdivision funds, the Attorney General may elect to intervene and proceed with the action [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(4)]. The Attorney General may move for extensions of the time during which the complaint remains under seal, on a showing of good cause. The motion may be supported by affidavits or other submissions in camera [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(5)]. Before the expiration of the 60-day period or any extensions obtained, the Attorney General must notify the court as to whether or not he or she intends to proceed with the action. After such notification, the seal on the complaint will be lifted [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(6)(A)].

If the Attorney General declines to take over the action, the qui tam plaintiff will have the right to conduct the action [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(6)(B)]. However, if the Attorney General states an intention to proceed with the action, the Attorney General will have primary responsibility for the action, and the qui tam plaintiff will have the right to continue as a full party [Gov. Code § 12652(e)(1)].

[iii] Claim Involving Political Subdivision Funds Only

Within 15 days after receiving a complaint alleging violations that exclusively involve political subdivision funds, the Attorney General must forward copies of the complaint and written disclosure of material evidence and information to the appropriate prosecuting authority for disposition and must notify the qui tam plaintiff of the transfer [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(7)(A)]. Within 45 days after the Attorney General forwards the complaint and written disclosure, the prosecuting attorney may elect to intervene and proceed with the action [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(7)(B)]. The prosecuting authority may move for extensions of the time during which the complaint remains under seal, on a showing of good cause. The motion may be supported by affidavits or other submissions in camera [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(7)(C)]. Before the expiration of the 45-day period or any extensions obtained, the prosecuting authority must notify the court regarding whether or not it intends to proceed with the action [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(7)(D)]. After such notification, the seal will be lifted [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(7)(D)(i)].

If the prosecuting authority declines to take over the action, the qui tam plaintiff will have the right to conduct the action [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(7)(D)(ii)]. However, if the prosecuting authority states an intention to proceed with the action, the prosecuting authority will have primary responsibility for the action, and the qui tam plaintiff will have the right to continue as a full party [Gov. Code § 12652(e)(1)].

[iv] Claim Involving Both State and Political Subdivision Funds

Within 15 days after receiving a complaint alleging violations that involve both state and political subdivision funds, the Attorney General must forward copies of the complaint and written disclosure to the appropriate prosecuting authority, and the Attorney General must coordinate his or her review and investigation with those of the prosecuting authority [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(8)(A)].

Within 60 days after receiving a complaint and written disclosure of material evidence and information alleging violations that involve both state and political subdivision funds, the Attorney General or the prosecuting authority, or both, may elect to intervene and proceed with the action [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(8)(B)]. The Attorney General or the prosecuting authority, or both, may move for extensions of the time during which the complaint remains under seal, upon a showing of good cause. The motion may be supported by affidavits or other submissions in camera [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(8)(C)]. Before the expiration of the 60-day period or any extensions obtained, the Attorney General must notify the court that: (1) the Attorney General intends to proceed with the action; (2) the Attorney General declines to proceed with the action, but the prosecuting authority of the political subdivision does intend to proceed with the action; or (3) both the Attorney General and the prosecuting authority decline to proceed with the action, in which case the qui tam plaintiff may conduct the action. After such notification, the seal on the complaint is lifted [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(8)(D)(i)-(iii)].

If the Attorney General notifies the court that he or she intends to proceed with the action, the qui tam plaintiff may continue as a full party to the action [Gov. Code § 12652(e)(1)]. Furthermore, the prosecuting authority of the political subdivision may intervene in the action within 60 days after the notification. The court may then authorize intervention by the political subdivision on a showing that all the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 387 have been met [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(8)(E)]. For general discussion of these requirements, see Ch. 395, Parties , Pt. II.

[c] Defendant's Time to Respond

The defendant is not required to respond to any complaint filed under Gov. Code § 12652 until 30 days after the complaint is unsealed and served on the defendant pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 583.210 [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(9)].

[d] Related Actions Barred

If a person brings an action as a qui tam plaintiff under Gov. Code § 12652(c), no other person may bring a related action based on the facts underlying the pending action [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(10)]. This rule only applies if an action is actually pending and does not bar a subsequent action that is filed after an earlier action has already been dismissed [City of Hawthorne ex rel. Wohlner v. H & C Disposal Co. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1668, 1679, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 312] .

This bar on "related actions" applies only to subsequent qui tam actions filed under the False Claims Act [Rothschild v. Tyco Int'l (US), Inc. (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 488, 499, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 721] . For example, it does not bar a subsequent action brought under the unfair competition statute [Rothschild v. Tyco Int'l (US), Inc. (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 488, 499-500, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 721] . For a discussion of remedies under the unfair competition statute, see Ch. 565, Unfair Competition, 565.10 et seq.

[e] Restrictions on Dismissal

If a qui tam plaintiff files an action under Gov. Code § 12652, the action may be dismissed only with the written consent of the court and the Attorney General or prosecuting authority of a political subdivision, or both, as appropriate under the allegations of the civil action, taking into account the best interests of the parties involved and the public purposes behind the false claims law [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(1)]. In addition, no claim for any violation of Gov. Code § 12651 may be waived or released by any private person, except if the action is part of a court-approved settlement of a false claim civil action brought under Gov. Code § 12652. However, this provision is not to be construed to limit the ability of the state or political subdivision to decline to pursue any claim brought under Gov. Code § 12652 [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(1)].

[f] Restrictions on Discovery

The court may stay an act of discovery of the qui tam plaintiff for a period of not more than 60 days if either the Attorney General or local prosecuting authority shows that the act of discovery would interfere with an investigation or a prosecution of a criminal or civil matter arising out of the same facts, regardless of whether the Attorney General or local prosecuting authority proceeds with the action. Such a showing must be conducted in camera. The court may extend the 60-day period on a further showing in camera that the Attorney General or local prosecuting authority has pursued the criminal or civil investigation or proceedings with reasonable diligence and that any proposed discovery in the civil action will interfere with the ongoing criminal or civil investigation or proceedings [see Gov. Code § 12652(h)].

On a showing by the Attorney General or local prosecuting authority that unrestricted participation during the course of the litigation by the person initiating the action would interfere with or unduly delay the Attorney General's or local prosecuting authority's prosecution of the case, or would be repetitious, irrelevant, or for purposes of harassment, the court may, in its discretion, impose limitations on the person's participation. The court may limit the number of witnesses the person may call, the length of the testimony of the witnesses, and the person's cross examination of witnesses, and may otherwise restrict the person's participation in the litigation [Gov. Code § 12652(i)].

[g] Involvement of Government Entity

[i] Request for Pleadings and Transcripts by Government Entity

If the state or a political subdivision has elected not to proceed with an action initiated by a qui tam plaintiff, the state or political subdivision may request that it be served with copies of all pleadings filed in the action and supplied with copies of all deposition transcripts. These services are provided at the requestor's expense [Gov. Code § 12652(f)(1)].

[ii] Intervention by Government Entity

On timely application, the court must permit the state or political subdivision to intervene in an action with which it had initially declined to proceed, if the interest of the state or political subdivision in recovery of the property or funds involved is not being adequately represented by the qui tam plaintiff [Gov. Code § 12652(f)(2)(A)]. If intervention is allowed by the court, the qui tam plaintiff retains principal responsibility for the action, and the recovery of the parties is determined as if the state or political subdivision had elected not to proceed [Gov. Code § 12652(f)(2)(B)].

[iii] Dismissal or Settlement by Government Entity

The state or political subdivision may seek to dismiss the action for good cause, notwithstanding the objections of the qui tam plaintiff, if the qui tam plaintiff has been notified by the state or political subdivision of the filing of the motion and if the court has provided the qui tam plaintiff with an opportunity to oppose the motion and present evidence at a hearing [Gov. Code § 12652(e)(2)(A)].

Good cause for dismissal exists if the dismissal is rationally related to a legitimate government purpose and is not arbitrary, capricious, made in bad faith, based on improper or illegal motives, founded on an inadequate investigation, or pretextual [Laraway v. Sutro & Co. (2002) 96 Cal. App.4th 266, 275-276, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 823] . The best interests of the parties and the purposes underlying the Act are appropriate considerations, although any matter that bears on whether the lawsuit should be dismissed must be considered. For example, good cause for dismissal is established if the Attorney General determines that the action has little or no merit and that continued prosecution is likely to result in a waste of government resources [American Contract Servs. v. Allied Mold & Die, Inc. (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 854, 862, 114 Cal. Rptr. 2d 773] .

Additionally, the state or political subdivision may settle the action with the defendant notwithstanding the objections of the qui tam plaintiff, if the court determines, after a hearing providing the qui tam plaintiff an opportunity to present evidence, that the proposed settlement is fair, adequate, and reasonable under all of the circumstances [Gov. Code § 12652(e)(2)(B)].

[6] Arbitration of Claim

In some cases, actions under the False Claims Act may be subject to a contractual arbitration provision [County of Solano v. Lionsgate Corp. (2005) 126 Cal. App. 4th 741, 746-750, 24 Cal. Rptr. 3d 362] . If the language of the arbitration provision in the contract encompasses claims under the Act, the fact that the Act does not specifically provide for arbitration does not preclude such arbitration [County of Solano v. Lionsgate Corp. (2005) 126 Cal. App. 4th 741, 747, 24 Cal. Rptr. 3d 362] . Moreover, an arbitrator has the authority to award civil penalties under the Act, even as a way of compensating a party for expenses incurred in responding to the false claim [County of Solano v. Lionsgate Corp. (2005) 126 Cal. App. 4th 741, 748, 24 Cal. Rptr. 3d 362] .

[7] Standard of Proof

In any action brought under Gov. Code § 12652, the state, the political subdivision, or the qui tam plaintiff must prove all essential elements of the cause of action, including damages, by a preponderance of the evidence [Gov. Code § 12654(c)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 468 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: FALSE CLAIMS ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

40-468 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 468.23

§ 468.23 Allocation of Proceeds From Recovery

[1] Qui Tam Plaintiff Responsible for Prosecuting Action

If the state or political subdivision does not proceed with an action initiated by a qui tam plaintiff, and the qui tam plaintiff therefore has chief responsibility for bringing the action, the qui tam plaintiff is generally entitled to receive an amount that the court decides is reasonable for collecting the civil penalty and damages on behalf of the government. The amount must be not less than 25 percent nor more than 50 percent of the proceeds of the action or settlement and must be paid out of those proceeds [Gov. Code § 12652(g)(3)].

If the action was based on information discovered by a present or former employee of the state or a political division during the course of his or her employment, the present or former employee of the state or political subdivision will not be entitled to any minimum guaranteed recovery from the proceeds. The court, however, may award the qui tam plaintiff those sums from the proceeds as it considers appropriate, but in no case more than 33 percent of the proceeds if the state or political subdivision goes forth with the action, or more than 50 percent if the state or political subdivision declines to go forth, taking into account the significance of the information, the role of the qui tam plaintiff in advancing the case to litigation, and the scope of, and response to, the employee's attempts to report and gain recovery of such falsely claimed funds through official channels [see Gov. Code § 12652(g)(4); see also Gov. Code § 12652(d)(4), (g)(7)].

If the action is one that the court finds to be based primarily on information from a present or former employee who actively participated in the fraudulent activity, the employee is not entitled to any minimum guaranteed recovery from the proceeds. The court, however, may award the qui tam plaintiff such sums from the proceeds as it considers appropriate, but not more than 33 percent of the proceeds if the state or political subdivision goes forth with the action, or more than 50 percent if the state or political subdivision declines to go forth, taking into account the significance of the information, the role of the qui tam plaintiff in advancing the case to litigation, the scope of the present or past employee's involvement in the fraudulent activity, the employee's attempts to avoid or resist that activity, and all other circumstances surrounding the activity [Gov. Code § 12652(g)(5)].

[2] Attorney General or Local Prosecutor Responsible for Prosecuting Action

If the state or a political subdivision assumes primary responsibility for prosecuting an action that was initially brought by a qui tam plaintiff, the qui tam plaintiff generally receives at least 15 percent but not more than 33 percent of the proceeds of the action or settlement of the claim, depending on the extent to which the qui tam plaintiff substantially contributed to the prosecution of the action [Gov. Code § 12652(g)(2); see also Gov. Code § 12652(g)(7)]. However, there is no minimum guaranteed recovery for the qui tam plaintiff if the action was based on information discovered by a present or former employee of the state or a political division during the course of his or her employment, or if the action is based primarily on information from a present or former employee who actively participated in the fraudulent activity [Gov. Code § 12652(g)(2), (4), (5)].

If the Attorney General or the prosecuting authority of the political subdivision conducts the action, the Attorney General's office or the prosecuting authority receives a fixed 33 percent of the proceeds of the action or settlement of the claim. If both the Attorney General and a prosecuting attorney are involved in a qui tam action, the court in its discretion may award the prosecuting authority a portion of the Attorney General's fixed 33 percent of the recovery, taking into account the prosecuting authority's contribution to investigating and conducting the action [Gov. Code § 12652(g)(2)].

[3] Reversion of Undistributed Funds

The portion of the recovery not distributed pursuant to Gov. Code § 12652(g)(1)-(5) reverts to the state or political subdivision, depending on the type of funds involved [see Gov. Code 12652(g)(6)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 468 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: FALSE CLAIMS ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

40-468 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 468.24

§ 468.24 Costs and Attorney's Fees

If the state, political subdivision, or qui tam plaintiff prevails in or settles an action initiated by the qui tam plaintiff, the qui tam plaintiff receives an amount for reasonable expenses that the court finds to have been necessarily incurred, plus reasonable costs and attorney's fees. All expenses, costs, and fees must be awarded against the defendant, and under no circumstances are they the responsibility of the state or political subdivision [Gov. Code § 12652(g)(8)].

If the state, political subdivision, or qui tam plaintiff conducts the action, the court may award to the defendant its reasonable attorney's fees and expenses if the defendant prevails in the action and if the court finds that the claim of the qui tam plaintiff was clearly frivolous, clearly vexatious, or brought primarily for purposes of harassment [Gov. Code § 12652(g)(9)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 468 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: FALSE CLAIMS ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

40-468 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 468.25

§ 468.25 Prohibition Against Retaliation by Employer

An employer may not adopt or enforce any rule, regulation, or policy preventing an employee from disclosing information to a government or law enforcement agency or from acting in furtherance of a false claims action [Gov. Code § 12653(a)]. No employer may discharge, demote, suspend, threaten, harass, deny promotion to, or in any other manner discriminate against an employee in the terms and conditions of employment because of lawful acts by the employee on behalf of the employee or others in disclosing information to a government or law enforcement agency or in furthering a false claims action [Gov. Code § 12653(b)].

An employer who violates Gov. Code § 12653(b) is liable for all relief necessary to make the employee whole, including: reinstatement with the same seniority status that the employee would have had but for the discrimination; two times the amount of back pay; interest on the back pay; compensation for any special damage sustained as a result of the discrimination; and, if appropriate, punitive damages. In addition, the defendant is required to pay litigation costs and reasonable attorney's fees. An action for such relief is brought in the superior court [Gov. Code § 12653(c)]. However, an aggrieved employee is required to exhaust any applicable internal grievance procedures provided by the employer before bringing suit [Campbell v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 311, 317, 325-328, 25 Cal. Rptr. 3d 320 , (university employee required to exhaust university's internal grievance procedures before filing suit for retaliatory discharge under Gov. Code § 12653(c) and Lab. Code § 1102.5)].

An employee who participated in conduct that directly or indirectly resulted in a false claim being submitted to the state or a political subdivision is entitled to similar remedie-- P.3d -- Gov. Code § 12653(c) Lab. Code § 1102.5s if he or she is discharged, demoted, suspended, harassed, denied promotion, or in any other manner discriminated against in the terms and conditions of employment by his or her employer, because of that participation, but only if two conditions are met. First, the employee must have voluntarily disclosed information to a government or law enforcement agency or acted in furtherance of a false claims action. Second, the employee must have been harassed, threatened with termination or demotion, or otherwise coerced by the employer or its management into engaging in the fraudulent activity in the first place [Gov. Code § 12653(d)].

Only the employer is liable under these provisions for retaliating against an employee. The injured employee may not recover from other individual employees of the employer [LeVine v. Weis (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 201, 212-213, 108

Cal. Rptr. 2d 562] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 468 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: FALSE CLAIMS ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

40-468 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 468.26

§ 468.26 Criminal Action for False Claims

A person who presents a false claim to a government entity may be subject to criminal prosecution. Every person who, with intent to defraud, presents for allowance or payment to any state board or officer, or to any county, city, or district board or officer, authorized to allow or pay the same if genuine, any false or fraudulent claim, bill, account, voucher, or writing, is punishable either by imprisonment in the county jail for a period of not more than one year, by a fine of not exceeding $1,000, or by both imprisonment and fine, or by imprisonment in the state prison, by a fine of not exceeding $10,000, or by both imprisonment and fine [Penal Code § 72]. The limitations period for prosecution under Penal Code § 72 is three years, but the period does not commence to run until discovery of the offense [Penal Code § 803(c)(2); see Penal Code § 801].

A guilty verdict rendered in a criminal proceeding charging false statements or fraud, whether on a verdict after trial or on a plea of guilty or nolo contendere, except for a plea of nolo contendere made prior to 1988, will estop the defendant from denying the essential elements of the offense in any action that involves the same transaction as in the criminal proceeding and that is brought under Gov. Code § 12652(a)-(c) [Gov. Code § 12654(d)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 468 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: FALSE CLAIMS ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

40-468 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 468.27-468.39

[Reserved]

§§ 468.27[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 468 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: FALSE CLAIMS ACTIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-468 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 468.40

§ 468.40 State Statutes

Fraud and deceit generally. Civ. Code §§ 1709, 1710

False claim against government entity is basis for imposition of treble damages and civil penalty of up to $10,000. Gov. Code §§ 12650-12652

Civil action by qui tam plaintiff under Gov. Code § 12652. Gov. Code § 12652(c)

Employer prohibited from taking action that would prevent employee from disclosing information regarding false claim submitted to government entity. Gov. Code § 12653

Statute of limitations on false claim action. Gov. Code § 12654(a), (b)

Intentional presentation of false claim to public board or officer is criminal offense. Penal Code § 72

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 468 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: FALSE CLAIMS ACTIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-468 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 468.41

§ 468.41 Law Reviews

Thompson, Stealth Law: Cashing in on Military Fraud, (Oct. 1988) Cal. Law. 33

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 468 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: FALSE CLAIMS ACTIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-468 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 468.42-468.59

[Reserved]

§§ 468.42[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 468 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: FALSE CLAIMS ACTIONS
PART IV. FORMS

40-468 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 468.60

§ 468.60 Complaint for Damages by Qui Tam Plaintiff Based on False or Fraudulent Claim Against Governmental Entity [Gov. Code §§ 12651, 12652(c)]

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages by Qui Tam Plaintiff Based on False or Fraudulent Claim Against Governmental Entity [Gov. Code §§ 12651, 12652(c)]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Qui Tam Plaintiff, on behalf of [himself or herself]	)	NO. _____
and the	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____	)	AND CIVIL PENALTY
[State of California and/or other political subdivi-	)	(False Claims Action) sion] vs.	)
_____ [name],	)
Defendant.	)

The plaintiff alleges:

1. Defendant(s)_____[name(s)] is/are and at all times herein mentioned was/were [a] resident(s) of _____ County, California.

2. The qui tam plaintiff is bringing this action on behalf of and in the name of_____[specify government entity]. [The qui tam plaintiff is a _____ (present or former) employee of the aforementioned government entity.]

3. _____ [Allege fraudulent conduct by defendant(s), e.g., On _____ (date), defendant, a former employee of _____ (specify government entity), presented to _____ (specify government entity) a written claim for $35,000 in unpaid salary. The claim was based on a falsified records of time spent on consulting services for employee efficiency programs. Such claim was paid by _____ (specify government entity) on _____ (date)].

4._____[Allege facts showing state of mind of the defendant(s) concerning his/her/their representations to the government entity, e.g., The defendant(s) made the aforementioned salary claim with actual knowledge that this claim was without merit. The defendant(s) had admitted to the qui tam plaintiff that the defendant(s) knew that (he or she or they) (was or were) submitting false information, and that the funds requested exceeded the amount to which the defendant(s) (was or were) actually entitled by $20,000].

[5. Allege government entity's date of discovery of the false claim, if discovered separately, and any actions taken by the government entity, as appropriate, in separately numbered paragraphs.]

[ADD, if the qui tam plaintiff is present or former employee of government entity]

6. The qui tam plaintiff has in good faith exhausted existing internal procedures for reporting and seeking recovery of the false claim of defendant(s) through official channels by _____[describe all steps taken by the qui tam plaintiff, including dates steps were initiated]. _____[Specify government entity] has failed to act on the information provided by the qui tam plaintiff.

[ADD, if the qui tam plaintiff was "original source" of information to government entity]

7. The qui tam plaintiff was the "original source" of information about the false claim of the defendant(s) in that the qui tam plaintiff voluntarily provided the information to _____[specify government entity] before initiating this action. As a result of providing this information, _____ [specify action, proceeding, hearing, or similar event that resulted in public disclosure, e.g., _____ (specify government entity) initiated an administrative hearing and investigation, requested an audit, and issued a report].

[CONTINUE]

8. As a result of the conduct of the defendant(s), _____[specify government entity] has been damaged in the sum of $_____. [Specify costs of any actions, proceedings, hearings, investigations, or similar efforts undertaken by the government entity.]

WHEREFORE, the qui tam plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For the assessment of treble damages against the defendant(s) _____[name(s)] in the sum of $_____[specify treble the amount of all damages sustained by the state or political subdivision because of the act of the defendant(s)];

2. For a civil penalty of $_____[specify amount between $5,000 and $10,000] to be assessed against the defendant(s) in favor of _____[specify government entity] [for each violation].

3. For the costs of _____[specify government entity] brought to recover penalties and damages;

4. For the qui tam plaintiff's reasonable expenses in the sum of $_____;

5. For the qui tam plaintiff's reasonable attorney's fees in the sum of $_____;

6. For the qui tam plaintiff's reasonable costs of suit herein incurred; and

7. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired.]

VERIFICATION [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 446, 2015.5]

I,_____[name], am the plaintiff in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____[date]

_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

The form of complaint above may be used by a private party to obtain damages on behalf of the state or a political subdivision under Gov. Code § 12652 if that private party contends that a person or persons have brought a false or fraudulent claim against a government entity [see Gov. Code §§ 12650, 12651(a), 12652(c)].

If an action is brought by a private party under Gov. Code § 12652 on behalf of a government entity, the plaintiff is designated as the qui tam plaintiff [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(1)]. The plaintiff in this complaint is so designated.

[3] Allegations

The complaint above alleges:

- The plaintiff's status as the qui tam plaintiff (Paragraph 2) [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(1)];

- The fraudulent conduct on which the action is based (Paragraph 3) [see Gov. Code § 12651(a)];

- The defendant's state of mind at the time of the conduct (Paragraph 4) [see Gov. Code §§ 12650(b), 12651(a)], the exhaustion of internal procedures if the qui tam plaintiff is a present or former employee of the government entity (optional Paragraph 6) [Gov. Code § 12652(d)(4)], and the qui tam plaintiff's status as an original source, if appropriate (optional Paragraph 7) [Gov. Code § 12652(d)(3)]; and

- Damages (Paragraph 8) [Gov. Code § 12651(a)].

[4] Prayer for Relief

The prayer for relief in the complaint above seeks: (1) treble damages (Paragraph 1) [Gov. Code § 12651(a); see also § 468.21[5] regarding reduced damages on finding of mitigating factors]; (2) a civil penalty of not less than $5,000 and not more than $10,000 for each violation (Paragraph 2) [Gov. Code § 12651(a)]; (3) costs of the government entity in any action to recover penalties or damages (Paragraph 3) [Gov. Code § 12651(a)]; and (4) the qui tam plaintiff's reasonable expenses, attorney's fees, and costs of suit (Paragraphs 4-6) [Gov. Code § 12652(g)(8)]. Liability is joint and several for any act committed by two or more persons [Gov. Code § 12651(c)].

[5] Service and Filing

The complaint above must be filed in superior court in camera and may remain under seal for up to 60 days. No service may be made on the defendant until after the complaint is unsealed [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(2)].

On the same day that the complaint is filed, the qui tam plaintiff must serve on the Attorney General, by mail with return receipt requested, a copy of the complaint and a written disclosure of substantially all material evidence and information the person possesses [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(3)].

On receipt of the complaint, the Attorney General may decide to assume primary responsibility for prosecuting the action, or allow a local prosecuting authority to assume primary responsibility [Gov. Code § 12652(c)(4)-(8); see § 468.22[5][b]].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 469 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

40-469 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 469.syn

§ 469.syn Synopsis to Chapter 469: PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

§ 469.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 469.02 Cross References

§§ 469.03-469.09 [Reserved]

§ 469.10 Governing Law

[1] Constitutional Provisions

[2] Statutory Prohibition Against Interest in Government Contracts

[3] Political Reform Act of 1974

[4] Conflict of Interest Codes

[a] Required of Every Agency

[b] Procedural Aspects of Adoption

§ 469.11 Prohibited Conflicting Interests

[1] State Agency Personnel

[2] Local Agency Personnel

[a] Activities Incompatible With Agency Employer

[b] Exceptions for Attorneys and Directors of Local Agency Self-Insurance Authorities

[c] Election or Appointment to Agency Employer's Legislative Body

[3] Interest in Government Contracts

[a] General Scope of Prohibition

[i] Persons and Contracts Affected

[ii] Attributes of Public Position or Office and Financial Interest

[iii] Good Faith and Equitable Aspects of Contract Are Not Defenses

[b] Qualification for Remote Interests

[c] Qualification for Particular Interests

[d] Contract as Void

[e] Evidences of Indebtedness

[f] Insurance

[g] Contract or Grant by Local Workforce Investment Board

[4] Honoraria and Gifts

[a] Elected Officials

[b] Candidates

[c] Agency Officials

[d] Exceptions

[i] Judges, Judicial Candidates, and Part-Time Board Members of Higher Learning Institution

[ii] Travel Payments and Gifts Exchanged Between Individuals

[5] Public Members of Regulatory Agencies

[6] Constitutional Prohibitions Regarding Legislators

[7] Constitutional Prohibitions Regarding Certain State Officers

[8] Political Reform Act of 1974

[a] Prohibited Conduct

[b] Financial Interest in Governmental Decision

[c] Procedure If Financial Interest Present

§ 469.12 Disclosure Requirements

§ 469.13 Remedies

§§ 469.14-469.19 [Reserved]

§ 469.20 Related Matthew Bender Publications

§ 469.21 State Constitution

§ 469.22 State Statutes

[1] Conflict of Interest Generally

[2] Particular Public Entities

§ 469.23 Decisions

§ 469.24 Attorney General Opinions

§ 469.25 Law Reviews

§ 469.26 Text References

§§ 469.27-469.29 [Reserved]

§ 469.30 Complaint for Declaratory Relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060] and [Temporary Restraining Order and Preliminary and] Final Injunction[s] [Civ. Code § 3422; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 527]--By Taxpayer Against Public Officer [Code Civ. Proc. § 526a]--To Prevent Expenditure of Public Funds Pursuant to Contract Void for Illegal Conflict of Interest [Gov. Code § 1090]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Standing to Sue

[4] Alleging and Proving Culpable Interest

[5] Undertaking for Provisional Relief

[6] Verification

[7] Statute of Limitations

[8] Cross References

§ 469.31 Complaint for Preliminary and Permanent Injunctive Relief [Civ. Code § 3422; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 527]--By Private Plaintiff Against Public Official or Agency to Enjoin Violation of or Compel Compliance With Conflicts of Interest Provisions of Political Reform Act of 1974 [Gov. Code §§ 87100, 87103, 91003]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Related Use

[4] Standing to Sue

[5] Notice to Fair Political Practices Commission When Filing

[6] Limitations on Remedies

[7] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedy

[8] Setting Aside Official Action; Preliminary Injunctions

[9] Attorney's Fees and Posting of Bond

[10] Verification

[11] Cross References

§ 469.32 Complaint by Individual Plaintiff Against Public Official for Three Times Amount of Benefit Resulting From Violation of Conflict of Interest Code Disqualification Provision [Gov. Code § 91005(b)]--General Form

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Standing to Sue

[4] Prerequisite to Private Individual Filing Civil Action

[5] Limitation on Number of Actions Pertaining to Single Violation

[6] Determination and Disposition of Award

[7] Attorney's Fees and Posting of Bond

[8] Verification

[9] Cross References

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 469 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CONFLICTS OF INTEREST
PART I. SCOPE

40-469 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 469.01

§ 469.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses conflicts of interest as regulated by the conflict-of-interest provisions in the Political Reform Act of 1974 [see Gov. Code § 87100 et seq.]. Other governing laws are also discussed [see § 469.10 et seq.].

This chapter contains a form of complaint for declaratory and injunctive relief by a taxpayer against a public officer to prevent expenditure of public funds pursuant to a contract void for illegal conflicts of interest [see § 469.30]. This chapter also includes a form of complaint for an injunction restraining a public official from participating in a governmental decision in which he or she has a financial interest, which is in violation of Gov. Code § 87100 et seq. [see § 469.31], and a form of complaint against a public official to recover three times the amount of any economic benefit derived by the official from a violation of a Conflict of Interest Code disqualification provision [see § 469.32].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesInjunctionsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsPublic Contracts LawBids & FormationAgency & Authority of Government OfficersContracting Officers

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 469 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CONFLICTS OF INTEREST
PART I. SCOPE

40-469 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 469.02

§ 469.02 Cross References

For discussion and forms relating to actions for declaratory and injunctive relief, see Ch. 182, Declaratory Relief , and Ch. 303, Injunctions .

For discussion and forms relating to the California Tort Claims Act, see Ch. 464, Public Entities and Officers: California Tort Claims Act .

For discussion and forms relating to civil claims arising from criminal acts of public officials and officers, see Ch. 465, Public Entities and Officers: Civil Claims Arising From Criminal Acts .

For discussion and forms relating to taxpayer actions, see Ch. 466, Public Entities and Officers: Taxpayer Actions .

For discussion and forms relating to the enforcement of judgments against public entities, see Ch. 467, Public Entities and Officers: Enforcement of Judgments Against Public Entities .

For discussion and forms relating to false claims actions, see Ch. 468, Public Entities and Officers: False Claims Actions .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsEnforcement & ExecutionGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesInjunctionsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstLabor & Employment LawEmployer LiabilityFalse Claims ActGeneral OverviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 469 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CONFLICTS OF INTEREST
PART I. SCOPE

40-469 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 469.03-469.09

[Reserved]

§§ 469.03[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 469 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CONFLICTS OF INTEREST
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

40-469 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 469.10

§ 469.10 Governing Law

[1] Constitutional Provisions

In 1990, the state constitution was amended to include specific prohibitions against conflicts of interest applicable to legislators and certain state officers [see Cal. Const., art. IV, §§ 4, 5, Cal. Const., art. V, § 14]. Pursuant to that constitutional amendment, Cal. Const., art. IV, § 5 restricts gifts and compensation received by a member of the Legislature. Cal. Const., art. IV, § 4 prohibits a member of the Legislature from receiving earned income from a lobbyist or other specified persons. Cal. Const., art. V, § 14 prohibits certain state officers from receiving earned income from a lobbyist or other specified persons [see § 469.11[6] -[7]].

[2] Statutory Prohibition Against Interest in Government Contracts

Government Code Sections 1090-1098 prohibit certain public officials from having a financial interest in government contracts or sales made by them in their official capacity or by any body or board of which they are members [see § 469.11[3]]. The purpose of these provisions is to insure absolute loyalty and undivided allegiance of public officials to the best interest of the government entity they serve and to remove all direct and indirect influence of an interested officer as well as to discourage deliberate dishonesty [Fraser-Yamor Agency, Inc. v. Del Norte County (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 201, 215, 137 Cal. Rptr. 118 ; see also People v. Honig (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 289, 313-314, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 555] . As used in Gov. Code § 1090, the term "financially interested," is not unconstitutionally vague, and a prosecution for violation of its terms does not deny the accused due process of law [People v. Watson (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 28, 33-34, 92 Cal. Rptr. 860 , cert. denied sub nom. Watson v. California (1971) 404 U.S. 850] . For meaning of the phrase "financially interested" in Gov. Code § 1090, see § 469.11[3].

[3] Political Reform Act of 1974

The Political Reform Act of 1974 was an initiative measure that added Section 81000 et seq. to the Government Code. Chapter 7 of the act deals with conflicts of interest [see Gov. Code § 87100 et seq.]; and Gov. Code §§ 89501-89506 deal with honoraria and travel expenses [see also Cal. Const., art. IV, § 5 (limitations on honoraria, gifts, and compensation)]. Six purposes are specified in the act [see Gov. Code § 81002], including the avoidance of conflicts of interest, an objective to be achieved by public officials' disclosure of the assets and income which might be materially affected by their official actions and, in appropriate circumstances, public officials' disqualification from acting [Gov. Code § 81002(c)].

[4] Conflict of Interest Codes

[a] Required of Every Agency

Every state and local agency [see Gov. Code §§ 82041, 82049] is required to adopt and publish a Conflict of Interest Code [Gov. Code § 87300]. If there is any question whether an entity is subject to the requirement concerning a Conflict of Interest Code, the question will be resolved by the "code reviewing body" that appears to be the one provided for that entity, as follows [Gov. Code § 82011]:

(a) The Fair Political Practices Commission [see Gov. Code § 82012] with respect to a state agency, other than one in the judicial branch, or any local agency with jurisdiction in more than one county;

(b) The county board of supervisors with respect to an agency wholly within the jurisdiction of the county except itself, a city agency, or any agency of the judicial branch;

(c) The city council with respect to any city agency except itself;

(d) The Attorney General with respect to the Fair Political Practices Commission;

(e) The Chief Justice of California or his or her designee with respect to the members of the Judicial Council, the Commission on Judicial Performance, or the Board of Governors of the State Bar;

(f) The Board of Governors of the State Bar with respect to the State Bar;

(g) The Chief Justice of California, the administrative presiding judges of the courts of appeal, and the presiding judges of superior courts, or their designees, with respect to an agency of the judicial branch subject to the immediate administrative supervision of that court; and

(h) The Judicial Council with respect to a state agency within the judicial branch not elsewhere included.

Each Conflict of Interest Code is a law, and a violation of such a code is subject to a judicial remedy [Gov. Code § 87300; see Gov. Code §§ 91000-91014].

[b] Procedural Aspects of Adoption

A timetable for adoption of Conflict of Interest Codes is specified; if an agency does not adopt a code by the required time, provision is made for constructive adoption through intercession of the appropriate "code reviewing body" under Gov. Code § 82011 (see [a], above). As a last resort, the superior court may intercede [see Gov. Code §§ 87303-87305]. Generally, controversies respecting the adoption and amendment of a code must be taken first to a "code reviewing body" before judicial relief is sought [see Gov. Code §§ 87302-87308].

For state agencies other than those in the judicial branch, adoption and amendment of a code, and review by the "code reviewing body," are governed by the appropriate provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act [Gov. Code §§ 87311, 87311.5(a); see Gov. Code § 11500 et seq. (Administrative Procedure Act)]. Review and adoption of a code by a local agency or by an agency in the judicial branch must be carried out by procedures that guarantee to officers, employees, members, and consultants of the agency, and to residents in the area over which the agency has authority, adequate notice and a fair opportunity to present their views [Gov. Code §§ 87311, 87311.5(a)].

A Conflict of Interest Code must [Gov. Code § 87302(a)-(c)]:

> (i) Specify what positions in the agency involve making, or participation in making, decisions that might foreseeably have a material effect on any financial interest;
>
> (j) It must require the annual filing of disclosure statements by the persons in those positions; and
>
> (k) It must specify the circumstances in which a person in one of those positions must disqualify himself or herself from making or participating in making a decision. The disqualification provisions may not require an official to disqualify himself or herself with respect to any matter that could not legally be acted on or decided without his or her participation.

Codes of the Judicial Council, the Commission on Judicial Performance, the State Bar Board of Governors, and designated employees of the State Bar are exempted from some of these requirements [see Gov. Code § 87311.5(b)].

A Conflict of Interest Code need not provide an individual a right to a hearing with respect to every item that must be reported under the code [Metropolitan Water Dist. v. Fair Political Practices Com. (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 650, 656-657, 141 Cal. Rptr. 8] . A Conflict of Interest Code may require disclosure of financial interests regardless of whether the public official's actions will have a material effect on those interests which is distinguishable from the effect on the public generally [Metropolitan Water Dist. v. Fair Political Practices Com. (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 650, 658, 141 Cal. Rptr. 8] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency RulemakingState ProceedingsGovernmentsLegislationEnactmentGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsAdministrative BoardsGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsOrdinances & RegulationsGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsLegislaturesPublic Contracts LawBids & FormationAgency & Authority of Government OfficersContracting Officers

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 469 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CONFLICTS OF INTEREST
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

40-469 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 469.11

§ 469.11 Prohibited Conflicting Interests

[1] State Agency Personnel

No state officer or employee shall engage in any employment, activity, or enterprise that is clearly inconsistent, incompatible, or in conflict with, or inimical to, his or her duties as a state officer or employee [Gov. Code § 19990].

Each appointing power must determine, subject to approval of the Department of Personnel Administration, those activities that, for employees under its jurisdiction, are inconsistent, incompatible, or in conflict with their duties as state officers or employees. Activities and enterprises deemed to fall in these categories include, but are not limited to, all of the following [Gov. Code § 19990]:

- Using the prestige or influence of the state or the appointing authority for the officer's or employee's private gain or advantage or the private gain of another.

- Using state time, facilities, equipment, or supplies for private gain or advantage.

- Using, or having access to, confidential information available by virtue of state employment for private gain or advantage or providing confidential information to persons to whom issuance of this information has not been authorized.

- Receiving or accepting money or any other consideration from anyone other than the state for the performance of his or her duties as a state officer or employee.

- Performance of an act in other than his or her capacity as a state officer or employee, knowing that the act may later be subject, directly or indirectly, to his or her control, inspection, review, audit, or enforcement.

- Receiving or accepting, directly or indirectly, any gift, including money, or any service, gratuity, favor, entertainment, hospitality, loan, or any other thing of value from anyone who is doing or is seeking to do business of any kind with the officer's or employee's appointing authority or whose activities are regulated or controlled by the appointing authority under circumstances from which it reasonably could be substantiated that the gift was intended (1) to influence the officer or employee in his or her official duties, or (2) as a reward for any official actions performed by the officer or employee.

- Subject to any other laws, rules, or regulations as pertain thereto, not devoting his or her full time, attention, and efforts to his or her state office or employment during his or her hours of duty as a state officer or employee.

If these provisions conflict with the provisions of a memorandum of understanding reached pursuant to Gov. Code § 3517.5 (labor agreement between Governor and public employee organization), the memorandum of understanding is controlling without further legislative action. However, if the provisions of the memorandum of understanding require the expenditure of funds, the memorandum's provisions are not effective unless approved by the Legislature in the annual Budget Act [Gov. Code § 19990].

Notwithstanding Gov. Code §§ 18000 (state salary is full compensation for all services rendered in official capacity) and 19990, and subject to specified action by the Department of Personnel Administration, any state officer or employee may receive for personal use compensation from any nonprofit corporation formed exclusively to aid and assist a state museum or a district agricultural association. The compensation may be for services rendered to the nonprofit corporation and for the officer's or employee's expenses of performing those services [Gov. Code § 18000.5]. The state officer or employee may render those services during his or her office hours or hours of work for the state [Gov. Code § 19990.5]. In these cases, the board of directors of the museum or association determines whether the services rendered to the nonprofit corporation are incompatible with the state responsibilities of the officer or employee or interfere with the officer's or employee's full-time obligation to the state [Gov. Code § 18000.5].

[2] Local Agency Personnel

[a] Activities Incompatible With Agency Employer

Except as provided in Gov. Code §§ 1128 and 1129 (see [b] below) certain officers and employees may not engage in any employment, activity, or enterprise for compensation that is inconsistent, incompatible, or in conflict with, or inimical to, his or her official duties or the duties, functions, or responsibilities of his or her "appointing power" or the agency by which he or she is employed [Gov. Code § 1126(a) (applies specifically to officers and employees of counties, cities, city and county, and all other political subdivisions, districts, and municipal corporations); see Gov. Code § 1125 (local agency defined)]. No such officer or employee may, except pursuant to official approval, perform any work or service or render counsel for compensation outside his or her local agency employment if any part of his or her efforts will be subject to approval by any other officer, employee, board, or commission of his or her employing agency [Gov. Code § 1126(a)].

Each "appointing power" may determine, subject to approval by the local agency, those outside activities which, for employees under the "appointing power's" authority, are inconsistent, incompatible, or in conflict with, their duties as local agency officers and employees. An employee's outside employment, activity, or enterprise may be prohibited if it involves any of the following [Gov. Code § 1126(b)]:

(1) The use for private gain or advantage of his or her local agency's time, facilities, equipment, or supplies; the use of the badge, uniform, prestige, or influence of his or her local agency's office or post;

(2) The employee's receipt or acceptance of any money or other consideration from anyone other than his or her local agency for the performance of an act which he or she would be required or expected to perform in the regular course or hours of his or her local agency employment or as part of his or her official duties;

(3) The performance of an act other than in the employee's official capacity when the act might later be subject to control, inspection, review, audit, or enforcement by any other officer or employee or the agency by which he or she is employed; or

(4) Such time demands as would render the performance of his or her official duties less efficient.

This list is not exclusive because Gov. Code § 1126 was not intended to preempt a local agency's authority to prohibit activities not enumerated in the statute [Long Beach Police Officers Assn. v. City of Long Beach (1988) 46 Cal. 3d 736, 741, 748, 250 Cal. Rptr. 869, 759 P.2d 504] . However, nothing contained in Gov. Code § 1126 is intended to abridge or otherwise restrict the rights of public employees under Gov. Code §§ 3201-3209 [Gov. Code § 1126(c) (political activities of public employees)].

Nor are the prohibitions in Gov. Code § 1126 intended to prevent the employment by private business of a public employee, such as a peace officer, firefighter, or forestry service employee (among others), who is off duty, to do work related to and compatible with the employee's regular employment or past employment, provided the employee has the approval of his or her agency supervisor and is certified as qualified by the appropriate agency [Gov. Code § 1127].

[b] Exceptions for Attorneys and Directors of Local Agency Self-Insurance Authorities

If an attorney employed by a local agency in a nonelective position serves on an appointed or elected governmental board, commission, committee, or other body, such service, by itself, shall not be deemed to be inconsistent, incompatible, in conflict with, or inimical to the duties of the attorney as an officer or employee of the local agency and will not result in the automatic vacation of either officer [Gov. Code § 1128].

Similarly, service on the board of directors of the local agency self-insurance authority by an officer or employee of a local agency as defined by Gov. Code § 6599.02(a), or by a person who serves in an appointed or employed position with an agency or entity created by a joint powers agreement pursuant to Gov. Code § 6503.5 to provide insurance pooling, shall not, by itself, be deemed to be inconsistent, incompatible, in conflict with, or inimical to, duties of the officer or employee in either capacity [Gov. Code § 1129].

[c] Election or Appointment to Agency Employer's Legislative Body

An employee of a local agency may not be sworn into office as an elected or appointed member of the legislative body of that local agency unless he or she resigns as an employee. If the employee does not resign, the employment must automatically terminate when the official is sworn into office [Gov. Code § 53227(a); see Gov. Code § 53227.2 ("local agency" and "legislative body" defined)]. For an individual who is an employee of a local agency and an elected or appointed member of that local agency's legislative body prior to January 1, 1996, this requirement applies when he or she is reelected or reappointed, on or after January 1, 1996, as a member of the local agency's legislative body [Gov. Code § 53227(b)].

Government Code Section 53277 does not apply to any volunteer firefighter who does not receive a salary, or where the salary the volunteer firefighter would otherwise receive is applied directly by the local agency toward the purchase of disability, life, health, or similar insurance coverage [Gov. Code § 53277(c)]. Moreover, Gov. Code §§ 53277-53227.2 are not to be construed to preempt Ed. Code §§ 35107, 72103 [Gov. Code § 53277.1].

[3] Interest in Government Contracts

[a] General Scope of Prohibition

[i] Persons and Contracts Affected

Government Code Section 1090 is a general prohibition against an officeholder's financial interest in a contract, which prohibits any public officers or employees from having any financial interest, direct or indirect, in any contract made by them in their official capacity or by any board or commission of which they are a member [Thorpe v. Long Beach Community College Dist. (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 655, 659, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 897] . Under Gov. Code § 1090, no member of the Legislature, and no officer or employee of the state or a county, district, judicial district, or city may be financially interested in any contract made by any such person in his or her official capacity or by any body or board of which he or she is a member. In addition, no such person may be a buyer at any sale or a seller in any purchase made by any of such persons in his, her, or their official capacity [Gov. Code § 1090; see also City of Vernon v. Central Basin Mun. Water Dist. (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 508, 513, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 650 (§ 1090 relates specifically to "contract" by board or body in which a member has financial interest, while Gov. Code § 87100 relates to "participation" in any "governmental decision" in which official has financial interest)].

The prohibitions contained in Gov. Code § 1090 et seq. and in Gov. Code § 1125 et seq. also apply to members of governing boards of school districts and community college districts and to members of citizens' oversight committees appointed by those governing boards under provisions of Educ. Code, § 15264 et seq.) [Educ. Code §§ 35233 (school districts), 72533 (community college districts)].

[ii] Attributes of Public Position or Office and Financial Interest

Whether a position or an office is a public office depends not on what the particular office might be called, or on what a statute might call it, but on the kind of authority given and exercised, the duties and functions performed, and other circumstances which manifest the character of the position and mark it as a public office, whatever its formal designation [see, e.g., Kennedy v. City of Gustine (1926) 199 Cal. 251, 255-256, 248 P. 910] . The prohibition is against an officer's or employee's being "financially" interested in a contract, but a "financial interest" is not defined, except to the extent that certain kinds of interests are stated not to be prohibited interests [see Gov. Code §§ 1091, 1091.5]. The failure to specify what is a "financial interest" is not a fatal defect. Before 1963 the word "financially" did not appear in the statute, but the language was found nevertheless to be sufficiently definite and certain to enable any reasonably intelligent person to understand the meaning of "interested" [see People v. Darby (1952) 114 Cal. App. 2d 412, 427-428, 250 P.2d 743 , appeal dismissed, 345 U.S. 937, (1953)] . The addition of the word "financially" effectively made the statutory language more precise in restricting the prohibition to financial interests and excluding other kinds of interests [People v. Watson (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 28, 34, 34 n.1, 92 Cal. Rptr. 860 , cert. denied sub nom. Watson v. California (1971) 404 U.S. 850] .

The term "financially interested" in Gov. Code § 1090 is not interpreted in a restricted and technical manner. The law does not require that a public officer acquire a transferable interest in the forbidden contract before he or she may be amenable to the inhibition of the statute, nor does it require that the officer share directly in the profits to be realized from a contract in order to have a prohibited interest in it [People v. Honig (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 289, 315, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 555] . Section 1090 prohibits an official from having any financial interest in a contract, whether direct or indirect [People v. Honig (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 289, 323, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 555] . The statute is intended to enforce the government's right to the absolute, undivided, uncompromised allegiance of public officials by proscribing any personal interest. Code of Civil Procedure Section 1090 does not address the actuality of significant personal influence, but rather the mere possibility of any such influence.

Accordingly, a financial interest within the meaning of Gov. Code § 1090 may be direct or indirect and includes the contingent possibility of monetary or propriety benefits [People v. Honig (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 289, 321, 323-325, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 555 (violations of Gov. Code §§ 1090, 1097 established by fact of defendant's financial interest in nonprofit corporation at time he made official contracts that directly benefited the corporation and indirectly benefited himself and his wife)]. An official has a financial interest in a contract if the official might profit from it [People v.

Honig (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 289, 333, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 555] . To be financially interested in a contract within the meaning of Gov. Code § 1090 does not require that the prohibited interest have a material effect on the public official's source of income. Any interest, except a remote one, which would prevent the official from exercising absolute loyalty and undivided allegiance to the best interest of the government is prohibited under the statute [People v. Honig (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 289, 328, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 555 ; see also BreakZone Billiards v. City of Torrance (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1205, 1230, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 467 (no conflict of if interest is remote or speculative)]. The phrase "financially interested" in Gov. Code § 1090 does not mean the same thing as a "financial interest" in Gov. Code § 87103 (Political Reform Act of 1974) [People v. Honig (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 289, 325-328, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 555 (for discussion of the meaning of the term under Gov. Code § 87103, see § 469.11[8][b]].

Government Code Section 1090 does not apply to any contract or grant made by a county children and families commission, created pursuant to the California Children and Families Act of 1998 [Health and Safety Code § 130100 et seq.], except if [Gov. Code § 1091.3]:

> (a) The contract or grant directly relates to services to be provided by any member of a county children and families commission or the entity the member represents or financially benefits the member or the entity he or she represents; and
>
> (b) The member fails to recuse himself or herself from making, participating in making, or in any way attempting to use his or her official position to influence a decision on the grant or grants.

Prohibited financial interests are not limited to express agreements for benefit and need not be proven by direct evidence. Rather, forbidden interests extend to expectations of benefit by express or implied agreement and may be inferred from the circumstances [People v. Honig (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 289, 315, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 555] .

The statutory prohibition in Gov. Code § 1090 refers to a contract "made" by the official or employee in question, but the statutory language has been broadly interpreted to prohibit both actually personally participating in executing the contract and influencing the execution of it directly or indirectly to promote the personal interests of the official or employee [People v. Sobel (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 1046, 1052, 115 Cal. Rptr. 532 ; see Stigall v. Taft (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 565, 569-571, 25 Cal. Rptr. 441, 375 P.2d 289 ; People v. Watson (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 28, 34, 37, 92 Cal. Rptr. 860 , cert. denied sub nom. Watson v. California (1971) 404 U.S. 850 ; Millbrae Asso. for Residential Survival v. Millbrae (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 222, 237, 69 Cal. Rptr. 251] . Thus, the negotiations, discussions, reasoning, planning, and give and take which go beforehand in the making of a decision to commit oneself are all deemed to be part of the making of a contract in the broad sense [City Council v. McKinley (1978) 80 Cal. App. 3d 204, 212, 145 Cal. Rptr. 461 ; see People v. Honig (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 289, 315, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 555 ; Campagna v. City of Sanger (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 533, 538, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 676] .

When Gov. Code § 1090 applies, it is an absolute bar to a board or commission entering into the prohibited contract. Even if the interested board or commission member abstains from any participation in the matter, Gov. Code § 1090 applies to prevent fellow board or commission members from being influenced by their colleague [Thorpe v. Long Beach Community College Dist. (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 655, 659, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 897] .

[iii] Good Faith and Equitable Aspects of Contract Are Not Defenses

In determining if a conflict of interest exists, the court will "disregard the technical relationship of the parties and look behind the veil which enshrouds their activities in order to discern the vital facts. However devious and winding the trail may be which connects the officer with the forbidden contract, if it can be followed and the connection [can be] made, a conflict of interest is established" [People v. Watson (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 28, 37, 92 Cal. Rptr. 860 , cert. denied sub nom. Watson v. California (1971) 404 U.S. 850 ; see People v. Deysher (1934) 2 Cal. 2d 141, 146, 40 P.2d 259 ; People v. Honig (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 289, 315, 320, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 555 (court cannot focus on isolated contract and ignore transaction as whole); People v. Darby (1952) 114 Cal. App. 2d 412, 429, 250 P.2d 743] .

Whether the officer or employee in question acted in good faith and whether the contract was fair, just, and equitable are immaterial questions if the issue is whether a conflict of interests exists [People v. Vallerga (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 847, 865-866, 136 Cal. Rptr. 429 ; see People v. Honig (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 289, 314, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 555] . The statutory prohibition is founded on "the ancient and self-evident principle that no [person] can faithfully serve two masters, a principle which has always been an essential attribute of every rational system of positive law" [People v. Watson (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 28, 38, 92 Cal. Rptr. 860 , cert. denied sub nom. Watson v. California (1971) 404 U.S. 850 ; see Stockton Plumbing & Supply Co. v. Wheeler (1924) 68 Cal. App. 592, 601, 229 P. 1020 ; see also People v. Honig (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 289, 313-314, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 555] . Even if no fraud or dishonesty is apparent (in addition to avoiding contracts which are actually obtained through fraud or dishonest conduct), the object of the enactments is to remove or limit the possibility of any personal influence, either directly or indirectly, which might bear on an official's decision [Thomson v. Call (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 633, 648-649, 214 Cal. Rptr. 139, 699 P.2d 316 ; Stigall v. Taft (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 565, 569, 25 Cal. Rptr. 441, 375 P.2d 289 ; see People v. Honig (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 289, 314, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 555 ; Terry v. Bender (1956) 143 Cal. App. 2d 198, 206-207, 300 P.2d 119] .

Government Code Sections 1090 and 1097 are more specific than the conflict of interest provisions of the Political Reform Act of 1974 (Gov. Code § 81000 et seq.). The former specifically apply to the making of governmental contracts, whereas the latter apply to making, participation in making, or in any way attempting to use an official position to influence, any governmental decision (Gov. Code § 87100) [People v. Honig (1996) 48 Cal.App. 4th 289, 329, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 555] . Although the definition of making a contract is defined broadly under Gov. Code § 1090, it is not nearly as broad as the behavior at which the conflict of interest provisions of the Political Reform Act are aimed. Since Gov. Code §§ 1090 and 1097 are aimed at a more specific and limited form of official behavior by public officers and employees, they must be considered the more specific--and thus the more controlling--legislation in the circumstances in which they apply [People v. Honig (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 289, 329, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 555] .

[b] Qualification for Remote Interests

An officer is not financially interested in a contract made by a body or board of which he or she is a member if the officer has only a remote interest in the contract, which is disclosed and noted in the official records of the body or board, and if thereafter the body or board authorizes, approves, or ratifies the contract in good faith without having to count the vote of the interested member [Gov. Code § 1091(a); see Gov. Code § 1091(b) (remote interest defined)]. This provision does not apply if the interested member influenced or attempted to influence another member to make the contract [Gov. Code § 1091(c)]. A willful failure to disclose even a remote interest is an offense [Gov. Code § 1091(d); see Gov. Code § 1097 (penalty)], but a contract made while the remote interest remained undisclosed is not void unless the contracting party knew of the interest at the time of making the contract [Gov. Code § 1091(d)].

As used in Gov. Code § 1091, the term "remote interest" also includes a person who has a financial interest in a contract, if all of the following conditions are met [Gov. Code § 1091.4(a)]:

(a) The agency of which the person is a board member is a special district serving a population of less than 5,000 that is a landowner voter district, as defined in Gov. Code § 56050, that does not distribute water for any domestic use [Gov. Code § 1091.4(a)(1)];

(b) The contract is for either of the following:

(A) The maintenance or repair of the district's property or facilities provided that the need for maintenance or repair services has been widely advertised. The contract will result in materially less expense to the district than the expense that would have resulted under reasonably available alternatives and review of those alternatives is documented in records available for public inspection; or

(B) The acquisition of property that the governing board of the district has determined is necessary for the district to carry out its functions at a price not exceeding the value of the property, as determined in a record available for public inspection by an appraiser who is a member of a recognized organization of appraisers [Gov. Code § 1091.4(a)(2)];

(c) The person did not participate in the formulation of the contract on behalf of the district [Gov. Code § 1091.4(a)(3)]; and

(d) At a public meeting, the governing body of the district, after review of written documentation, determines that the property acquisition or maintenance and repair services cannot otherwise be obtained at a reasonable price, that the contract is in the best interests of the district, and adopts a resolution stating why the contract is necessary and in the best interests of the district [Gov. Code § 1091.4(a)(4)].

[c] Qualification for Particular Interests

An officer or employee shall not be deemed to be interested in a contract if his or her interest is in any of the following [Gov. Code § 1091.5(a)]:

(a) The ownership of less than three percent of the shares of a corporation for profit, provided the total annual income to him or her from dividends from the corporation, including the value of stock dividends, does not exceed five percent of his or her total annual income, and any other payments made to him or her by the corporation do not exceed five percent of his or her total annual income;

(b) That of an officer in being reimbursed for his or her actual and necessary expenses incurred in the performance of official duty;

(c) That of a recipient of public services generally provided by the public body or board of which he or she is a member, on the same terms and conditions as if he or she were not a member of the board;

(d) That of a landlord or tenant of the contracting party if the contracting party is the federal government or any federal department or agency, this state or an adjoining state, any department or agency of this state or an adjoining state, any county or city of this state or an adjoining state, or any public corporation or special, judicial, or other public district of this state or an adjoining state unless the subject matter of the contract is the property in which the officer or employee has the interest as landlord or tenant in which event his or her interest shall be deemed a remote interest within the meaning of, and subject to, the provisions of Gov. Code § 1091;

(e) That of a tenant in a public housing authority created pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 34200 et seq. in which he or she serves as a member of the board of commissioners of the authority or of a community development commission created pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 34100 et seq.;

(f) That of a spouse of an officer or employee of a public agency in his or her spouse's employment or officeholding if his or her spouse's employment or officeholding has existed for at least one year prior to his or her election or appointment [see Thorpe v. Long Beach Community College Dist. (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 655, 660-665, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 897 (term "employment" narrowly construed to mean spouse's employment in same position, grade or classification; under facts, exception in Gov. Code § 1091.5(a)(6) held not to apply)];

(g) That of a nonsalaried member of a nonprofit corporation, provided that such interest is disclosed to the body or board at the time of the first consideration of the contract, and provided further that such interest is noted in its official records;

(h) That of a noncompensated officer of a nonprofit, tax-exempt corporation, which, as one of its primary purposes, supports the functions of the body or board or to which the body or board has a legal obligation to give particular consideration, and provided further that such interest is noted in its official records. An officer is "noncompensated" even though he or she receives reimbursement from the nonprofit, tax-exempt corporation for necessary travel and other actual expenses incurred in performing duties of his or her office [Gov. Code § 1091.5(a)];

(i) That of a person receiving salary, per diem, or reimbursement for expenses from a government entity, unless the contract directly involves the department of the government entity that employs the officer or employee, provided that the interest is disclosed to the body or board at the time of consideration of the contract, and provided further that the interest is noted in its official record;

(j) That of an attorney of the contracting party or that of an owner, officer, employee, or agent of a firm which renders, or has rendered, service to the contracting party in the capacity of stockbroker, insurance agent, insurance broker, real estate agent, or real estate broker, if these individuals have not received and will not receive remuneration, consideration, or a commission as a result of the contract and if these individuals have an ownership interest of less than 10 percent in the law practice or firm, stock brokerage firm, insurance firm, or real estate firm;

(k) Except as provided in Gov. Code § 1091.5(b), that of an officer or employee of or a person having less than a 10 percent ownership interest in a bank, bank holding company, or savings and loan association with which a party to the contract has a relationship of borrower or depositor, debtor, or creditor; or

(l) That of (1) a bona fide nonprofit, tax-exempt corporation having among its primary purposes the conservation, preservation, or restoration of park and national lands or historical resources for public benefit, which corporation enters into an agreement with a public agency to provide services related to park and natural lands or historical resources and which services are found by the public agency, before entering into an agreement or as part of the agreement, to be necessary to the public interest to plan for, acquire, protect, conserve, improve, or restore park and natural lands or historical resources for public purposes and (2) any officer, director, or employee acting under the agreement on behalf of a nonprofit corporation. For purposes of this paragraph, "agreement" includes contracts and grants, and "park," "natural lands," and "historical resources" has the meaning set forth in Pub. Res. Code § 5902(d), (g), and (j). Services to be provided to the public agency may include those studies and related services, acquisitions of property and property interests, and any activities related to those studies and acquisitions necessary for the conservation, preservation, improvement, or restoration of park and natural lands or historical resources [Gov. Code § 1091.5(a)].

An officer or employee shall not be deemed to be interested in a contract made pursuant to competitive bidding under a procedure established by law if his or her sole interest is that of an officer, director, or employee of a bank or savings and loan association with which a party to the contract has the relationship of borrower or depositor, debtor or creditor [Gov. Code § 1091.5(b); see Fin. Code § 860].

If a person is both a public officer or employee and an officer, employee, or stockholder of a bank or a holding company owning stock in a bank, and the public agency of which he or she is an officer or employee makes a contract with the bank to hold or handle the public funds controlled by the agency, that person is not "interested" in the contract to the extent of having conflicting interests merely because of his or her position in or with respect to the bank [see Fin. Code § 860].

Particular officers and employees may be the beneficiaries of a special statutory exemption from the general conflicts-of-interest prohibitions. Such exemptions are a practical necessity. For example, the Insurance Commissioner and personnel in the Department of Insurance would not be guilty of a conflict of interests merely by holding policies issued by insurance companies that they regulate or by being related or married to a person interested in a regulated insurer [Ins. Code § 12901]. The commissioner and his or her staff may carry on the work of the department, even as to insurers in which they are thus "interested," notwithstanding such relationships [see Caminetti v. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 344, 366, 139 P.2d 908] .

[d] Contract as Void

Any contract made in violation of the prohibition against financial interest on the part of a public officer or employee "may be avoided" by any party except the interested officer or employee [Gov. Code § 1092(a)]. The statutory language suggests that such a contract is merely voidable, but the courts have decided that it is actually void as against public policy [see People ex rel. Cal. v. Drinkhouse (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 931, 935, 84 Cal. Rptr. 773 (reporting rule); see also Severance v. Knight-Counihan Co. (1947) 29 Cal. 2d 561, 568, 177 P.2d 4 ; Berka v. Woodward (1899) 125 Cal. 119, 127, 57 P. 777 ; Stockton Plumbing & Supply Co. v. Wheeler (1924) 68 Cal. App. 592, 601, 229 P. 1020] .

An action under Gov. Code § 1092 must be commenced within four years after the plaintiff has discovered, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have discovered, a violation described in Gov. Code § 1092(a) [Gov. Code § 1092(b)].

A person who violates Gov. Code § 1090, regardless of whether the violation is intentional, forfeits any rights or interests flowing from the illegal contract [Campagna v. City of Sanger (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 533, 538, 540-542, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 676] . Because a contract that violates Gov. Code § 1090 is void and against public policy, there is no ground for any equitable consideration, presumption, or estoppel, and the city or agency is entitled to recover any consideration that it has paid, without restoring the benefits received under the contract [Thomson v. Call (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 633, 646-647, 214 Cal. Rptr. 139, 699 P.2d 316 (upholding decision allowing city to retain land purchased and recover purchase price plus interest from city councilman who violated statute in land sale transaction)].

[e] Evidences of Indebtedness

There are particular provisions governing conflicts of interest with respect to warrants, scrip, orders, demands, claims, and other evidences of indebtedness [see Gov. Code §§ 1093-1096].

[f] Insurance

No state officer or employee, and no member of the Legislature, may accept any commission for the placement of insurance on behalf of the state [Gov. Code § 1090.1].

[g] Contract or Grant by Local Workforce Investment Board

Government Code Section 1090 does not apply to any contract or grant made by local workforce investment boards created under the federal Workforce Investment Act of 1998 (29 U.S.C. § 2801 et seq.) except when both of the following conditions are met [Gov. Code § 1091.2]:

> (a) The contract or grant directly relates to services to be provided by any member of a local workforce investment board or the entity the member represents or financially benefits the member or the entity he or she represents.

(b) The member fails to recuse himself or herself from making, participating in making, or in any way attempting to use his or her official position to influence a decision on the grant or grants.

[4] Honoraria and Gifts

[a] Elected Officials

Elected state officers, elected officers of local government agencies, or other individuals specified in Gov. Code § 87200 (applicability of disclosure statutes) may not accept any honorarium [Gov. Code § 89502(a)]. Also, in any calendar year, these individuals may not accept gifts with a total value of more than $250 from any single source [Gov. Code § 89503(a)].

[b] Candidates

A candidate for elective state office, for judicial office, or for elective office in a local government agency may not accept any honorarium [Gov. Code § 89502(b)(1)]. Also, in any calendar year, he or she may not accept gifts with a total value of more than $250 from any single source [Gov. Code § 89503(b)(1)]. The limitations contained in Gov. Code §§ 89502(b)(1), 89503(b)(1), however, do not apply to any person who was a candidate described in Gov. Code §§ 89502(b)(1), 89503(b)(1) for judicial office on or before December 31, 1996 [Gov. Code §§ 89502(b)(2), 89503(b)(2)].

A person is deemed a candidate for purposes of Gov. Code §§ 89502(b)(1) and 89503(b)(1) when he or she has filed a statement of organization as a committee for election to a state or local office, a declaration of intent, or a declaration of candidacy, whichever occurs first. A person is not deemed a candidate for purposes of those provisions after he or she is sworn into the elective office, or, if the person lost the election after the person has terminated his or her campaign statement filing obligations for that office under Gov. Code § 84214, or after certification of the election results, whichever is earlier [Gov. Code §§ 89502(b)(1), 89503(b)(1)].

[c] Agency Officials

A member of a state board or commission or designated employee of a state or local government agency may not accept an honorarium from any source, or gifts from any single source in any calendar year with a total value of more than $250, if the member or employee would be required to report the receipt of income or gifts from that source on his or her statement of economic interest [Gov. Code §§ 89502(c), 89503(c)].

[d] Exceptions

[i] Judges, Judicial Candidates, and Part-Time Board Members of Higher Learning Institution

The restrictions in Gov. Code §§ 89502 and 89503 do not apply to a person in his or her capacity as judge [Gov. Code §§ 89502(d), 89503(d)]. They also do not apply to a person in his or her capacity as a part-time member of the governing board of any public institution of higher education unless that position is an elective office [Gov. Code §§ 89502(d), 89503(d)].

[ii] Travel Payments and Gifts Exchanged Between Individuals

Government Code Section 89503, relating to gifts, does not prohibit or limit payments, advances, or reimbursements for travel and related lodging and subsistence permitted by Gov. Code § 89506 [Gov. Code § 89503(e)(1)]. The section also does not prohibit or limit wedding gifts and gifts exchanged between individuals on birthdays, holidays, and other similar occasions. This exception applies provided that the gifts exchanged are not substantially disproportionate in value [Gov. Code § 89503(e)(2)].

[5] Public Members of Regulatory Agencies

The membership of some regulatory agencies in the state government includes members of the public, sometimes referred to as "lay members". Members of the public are disqualified from holding membership in a regulatory agency that licenses or regulates persons with whom the lay person has had any of certain employment and contractual relationships within the preceding five years [Bus. & Prof. Code § 450].

No member of the public is qualified to hold membership in a regulatory agency if within the preceding five years he or she has been an employer, or an officer, a director, or a substantially full-time representative of an employer or a group of employers, of a person licensed or regulated by the agency [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 450(a)]. However, a lay person is not disqualified if he or she has merely maintained an infrequent employment relationship with the licensed or regulated person, or has maintained a client, patient, or customer relationship not constituting more than two percent of the practice or business of the licensed or regulated person [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 450(a)].

No member of the public is qualified to hold membership in a regulatory agency if within the preceding five years he or she has been an employee, or a representative of an employee, of a person licensed or regulated by the agency [Bus. & Prof. Code § 450(c)]. However, a lay person is not disqualified if he or she has merely maintained an infrequent employment relationship with the licensed or regulated person, or has rendered professional or related services to the licensed or regulated person not constituting more than two percent of the employment or practice of the lay person [Bus. & Prof. Code § 450(c)].

No member of the public is qualified to hold membership in a regulatory agency if within the preceding five years he or she has had a contractual relationship with a person licensed or regulated by the agency and the relationship constitutes more than two percent of the business or practice of the licensed or regulated person "or an officer, director, or substantially full-time representative of such person [that is, apparently, the licensed or regulated person] or group of persons" [Bus. & Prof. Code § 450(b)].

In order to avoid a potential for a conflict of interest, a public member of a board must not be a current or past licensee of that board, or be a close family member of a licensee of that board [Bus. & Prof. Code § 450.2].

No member of the public is qualified to hold membership in a regulatory agency if at the time of his or her appointment or during his or her term of office, he or she has any financial interest in any organization regulated by the agency [Bus. & Prof. Code § 450.3].

No member of the public or lay member is qualified to hold membership in a regulatory agency if at any time within five years immediately preceding his or her appointment, he or she was engaged in pursuits which lie within the field of the industry or profession, or provided representation to the industry or profession, regulated by the board of which he or she is a member, nor may he or she engage in those pursuits or provide that representation during his or her term of office [Bus. & Prof. Code § 450.5].

[6] Constitutional Prohibitions Regarding Legislators

No member of the Legislature may accept any honorarium [Cal. Const., art. IV, § 5(b), enacted in Gov. Code § 89502 (restrictions on honoraria)]. No member of the Legislature may knowingly accept any compensation for appearing, agreeing to appear, or taking any other action on behalf of another person before any state government board or agency. If a legislator does so, he or she may not, for a period of one year following the acceptance of the compensation, vote on or make, participate in making, or in any way attempt to use his or her official position to influence an action or decision before the Legislature, other than an action or decision involving a bill described in Cal. Const., art. IV, § 12

(regarding budget bills), which he or she knows, or has reason to know, would have a direct and significant financial impact on that person and would not impact the public generally (which includes an industry, trade, or profession) or a significant segment of the public in a similar manner.

However, a legislator may engage in activities involving a board or agency that are strictly on his or her own behalf, appear in the capacity of an attorney before any court or the Workers' Compensation Appeals Board, or act as an advocate without compensation or make an inquiry for information on behalf of a person before a board or agency. The prohibition does not extend to any action of a partnership or firm of which the legislator is a member if the legislator does not share directly or indirectly in the fee, less any expenses attributable to that fee, resulting from that action [Cal. Const., art. IV, § 5(d), enacted in Gov. Code § 87102.5].

To eliminate any appearance of a conflict with the proper discharge of his or her duties and responsibilities, no member of the Legislature may knowingly receive any salary, wages, commissions, or other similar earned income from a lobbyist or lobbying firm, as defined by the Political Reform Act of 1974 (Gov. Code §§ 82038.5, 82039), or from a person who, during the previous 12 months, has been under a contract with the Legislature [Cal. Const., art. IV, § 4(a), enacted in Gov. Code § 87102.5].

"Earned income" means income from wages, salaries, professional fees, and other amounts received or promised to be received as compensation for personal services rendered [Gov. Code § 82030.5(a) (enacted pursuant to requirement under Cal. Const., art. IV, § 4(a))]. However, income which is not "earned" includes, but is not limited to the following sources [Gov. Code § 82030.5(b)]:

(1) Any income derived from stocks, bonds, property, or other investments, or from retail or wholesale sales;

(2) Any amount paid by, or on behalf of, an elected state officer to a tax-qualified pension, profit sharing, or stock bonus plan and received by the elected state officer from the plan; or

(3) The community property interest in the income of a spouse.

[7] Constitutional Prohibitions Regarding Certain State Officers

To eliminate any appearance of a conflict with the proper discharge of official duties and responsibilities, no state officer may knowingly receive any salary, wages, commission, or other similar earned income from a lobbyist or lobbying firm or from a person who, during the previous 12 months, has been under a contract with the state agency under the jurisdiction of the state officer [Cal. Const., art. V, § 14(a), enacted in Gov. Code § 87102.8; see Gov. Code § 82030.5(a) ("earned income" defined), set forth above; see also Gov. Code §§ 82038.5, 82039 ("lobbying firm" and "lobbyist," defined)]. A state officer for the purposes of this provision is defined as the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, Controller, Insurance Commissioner, Secretary of State, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Treasurer, and member of the State Board of Equalization [Cal. Const., art. V, § 14(f); Gov. Code § 87102.8(a)].

No state officer may accept any honorarium [Cal. Const., art. V, § 14(b); see Gov. Code § 89502 (restrictions on honoraria)]. In addition, no state officer may knowingly accept any compensation for appearing, agreeing to appear, or taking any other action on behalf of another person before any state government board or agency; a state officer who does so is prohibited for one year from using his or her official position to influence an action or decision that would financially affect that person [see Cal. Const., art. IV, § 14(d), enacted in Gov. Code § 87102.8].

[8] Political Reform Act of 1974

[a] Prohibited Conduct

The conflicts-of-interest provisions in the Political Reform Act of 1974 (Gov. Code § 87100 et seq.) do not apply to:

- Judges or court commissioners [Gov. Code § 82048(b)(1)];

- Members of the Board of Governors and designated employees of the State Bar of California [Gov. Code § 82048(b)(2)];

- Members of the Judicial Council [Gov. Code § 82048(b)(3)];

- Members of the Commission on Judicial Performance, provided that they are subject to the conflict of interest provisions Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 6035-6037 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6038; Gov. Code § 82048(b)(4)]; or

- Federal officers or employees serving in official federal capacities in a state or local government agency [Gov. Code § 82048(b)(5)].

With these exceptions, and unless a public official is required by the "rule of necessity" to participate in a governmental decision, no public official at any level of state or local government may make, participate in making, or in any way attempt to use his or her official position to influence a governmental decision [see Gov. Code §§ 82002, 82032, 82037] in which he or she knows, or has reason to know, he or she has a financial interest [Gov. Code § 87100; see also City of Vernon v. Central Basin Mun. Water Dist. (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 508, 513, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 650 (Gov. Code § 1090 relates to "contract" in which member has financial interest, while § 87100 relates to "participation" in any "governmental decision" in which official has financial interest)].

The contrary "rule of necessity" is that if a public official's participation is legally required for taking action or making a decision, the official may participate, notwithstanding a financial interest [see Gov. Code § 87101]. This happens when there exists no alternative source of decision [2 Cal. Code Reg. § 18708(a); Kunec v. Brea Redevelopment Agency (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 511, 520-522, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 143 (discussing rule of necessity, but holding that agency failed to make full public disclosure on record about members' actual or potential conflicts and absence of alternative source of decision-making authority required to properly invoke statute under former 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 18701(b) (now see 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 18708(b)))].

A public official may act even when disqualified, if participation is necessary to carry out a legislative or constitutional purpose [see, e.g., Caminetti v. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 344, 366-367, 139 P.2d 908 , cert. denied sub nom. Neblett v. Caminetti (1943) 320 U.S. 802] . The fact that an official's vote is required to break a tie vote, however, does not make his or her participation legally necessary [Gov. Code § 87101; see 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 18708(c) (regulation not to be construed to permit official, otherwise disqualified under Gov. Code § 87100, to vote to break tie)]. Moreover, the rule of necessity does not appear to permit government officials to vote on contracts in which they may be financially interested [Kunec v. Brea Redevelopment Agency (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 511, 521 n.3, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 143] .

No state administrative official can make, participate in making, or use an official position to influence, any governmental decision directly relating to any contract when the official knows, or has reason to know, that any party to the contract is a person with whom the official, or any member of the official's immediate family, has engaged in any business transaction on terms not available to members of the public, regarding any investment or interest in real property, or the rendering of goods or services, having a total value of $1,000 or more within 12 months prior to the time the official action is to be performed [Gov. Code § 87450(a)]. "State administrative official" means a member, officer, employee, or consultant of a state administrative agency who, as part of official responsibilities, engages in any judicial, quasi-judicial, or other proceeding in other than a purely clerical, secretarial, or ministerial capacity [Gov. Code § 87450(b) (incorporating by reference definition in Gov. Code § 87400(b))].

In addition, members of the Legislature are prohibited from engaging in conduct that constitutes a misuse of the official's position to influence certain governmental decisions in which he or she is financially interested, and from receiving earned income from a lobbyist [see Cal. Const., art. IV, §§ 4, 5; Gov. Code § 87102.5; for further discussion, see § 469.11[6]]. Similar prohibitions apply to certain elected state officers [see Cal. Const., art. V, § 14(a); Gov. Code § 87102.8; for further discussion, see § 469.11[7]]. The remedies of Gov. Code § 83100 et seq. (enforcement by Fair Political Practices Commission) apply to these provisions, notwithstanding the general rule that those remedies do not apply to elected state officers [see Gov. Code §§ 87102, 87102.5(a), 87102.8(d)]. However, the remedies under Gov. Code § 91000 et seq. are not available for violations of these provisions [Gov. Code § 87102; see also § 469.13].

For discussion of procedure regarding the recall of an elected official, see Ch. 302, Initiative, Referendum, and Recall .

The Fair Political Practice Commission has adopted regulations pursuant to the Political Reform Act of 1974, relevant to the issues discussed above. These include:

- 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 18700 (overview).
- 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 18701 (determining if individual public official within act).
- 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 18702 et seq. (determining if public official is making, participating in making, or using or attempting to use his or her official position to influence government position).
- 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 18703 et seq. (identifying public official's economic interests).
- 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 18704 et seq. (determining if official's economic interest directly or indirectly involved in government decision, materiality, and whether reasonably foreseeable that government decision will have material financial effect).
- 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 18707 et seq. (determining if reasonably foreseeable financial effect distinguishable from public generally).
- 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 18708 (determining if public officials participation legally required despite conflict of interest).

[b] Financial Interest in Governmental Decision

A public official has a financial interest in a governmental decision if it is reasonably foreseeable that the decision will have a material financial effect, distinguishable from its effect on the public generally, on the official or a member of the official's family, or on a business entity, real property, a source of income in which the official has a certain interest, a business in which the official holds any position of management, or any donor of a gift received by, or promised to, the official within the 12 months preceding the decision [Gov. Code § 87103 (which specifies threshold monetary amounts for certain of the above categories which are discussed below)].

An effect is considered "reasonably foreseeable," in the context of Gov. Code § 87103, if there is a substantial likelihood that it will occur. Certainty is not required. If an effect is only a mere possibility, however, it is not reasonably foreseeable [Smith v. Sup. Ct. (1994) 31 Cal. App. 4th 205, 212, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 897 (per advice letter of Fair Political Practices Commission, test is consistent with ordinary meaning of term and based on construction of conflict of interest prohibition in United States v. Mississippi Valley Generating Co. (1961) 364 U.S. 520, 555, 560, 81 S. Ct. 294, 5 L. Ed. 2d 268)].

Regulations of the Fair Political Practices Commission, adopted pursuant to the Political Reform Act of 1974, define the phrase "the public generally" as used in Gov. Code § 87103 [see 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 18707(b)]. Generally speaking, the material financial effect of a governmental decision on a public official's economic interest is indistinguishable from its effect on the public generally if:

- It affects a "significant segment" of the public generally [see 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 18707.1(b)(1)(A)-(E)]; and

- It affects the official's economic interests in substantially the same manner as the affected significant segment of the public [see 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 18707.1(b)(1), (2); see Consumers Union of U.S., Inc. v. California Milk Producers Advisory Bd. (1982) 82 Cal. App. 3d 433, 448-449, 147 Cal. Rptr. 265 (upholding validity of former regulation); see also 2 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 18707.3 et seq. (concerning phrase "the public generally")].

Thus, a member of an industry may serve on public boards regulating that industry, and may also participate in decisions which affect their financial interests in that industry, provided that those decisions would affect all other members of the industry similarly [see Consumers Union of U.S., Inc. v. California Milk Producers Advisory Bd. (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 433, 438, 147 Cal. Rptr. 265] . In at least one instance, the Legislature has specifically determined that the representation of the interests of a given industry is tantamount to representation of the public interest. This was done by providing that, with respect to the members of the committee, the industry concerned and the public generally are the same for the purposes of Gov. Code § 87103 [Food & Agric. Code § 12044 (Agricultural Pest Control Advisory Committee)].

A business entity is an organization or enterprise operated for profit, without regard to its form [see Gov. Code § 82005]. If it appears that a governmental decision will have a material financial effect (as opposed to its effect on the public generally) on a business entity, a public official has a financial interest in the decision if the official, or an immediate family member of the official, has a direct or an indirect investment of a fair market value exceeding $2,000 in the business entity [Gov. Code §§ 82034, 87103] or if the official is a director, partner, trustee, or an officer or employee of the business entity or holds any position of management in it [Gov. Code § 87103].

An investment is "indirect" if it is owned by the official's spouse or dependent child, an agent on behalf of the official, or a business entity or trust in which the official, the official's agent, spouse, and dependent children own directly, indirectly, or beneficially a 10-percent interest or greater [Gov. Code § 87103]. An "investment" for the purpose of determining a conflict of interest is defined in Gov. Code § 82034. With respect to a state official, an investment could result in conflicting interests only if the business entity in which the official has the investment owns an interest in real property in California, or does business or plans to do business in California, or has done business in California in the two years before the official is required to file a disclosure statement [Gov. Code §§ 82034, 82035]. With respect to a local official the same rule applies, except that the territory in question is the geographical area over which the official or his or her agency has authority instead of the entire state [see Gov. Code §§ 82034, 82035].

If it appears that a governmental decision will have a material financial effect, distinguishable from its effect on the public generally, on any real property, a state official has a financial interest in the decision if the real property is located in California and the official, or anyone in the official's immediate family, has a direct or an indirect interest in it of a fair market value exceeding $2,000 [Gov. Code §§ 82033, 82035, 87103]. An indirect interest has the same characteristics as an indirect investment (discussed above). The rule applies to a local official if the real property is located in the geographical area over which he or she or his or her agency has authority [see Gov. Code §§ 82033, 82035, 87103].

"Fair market value" is the estimated fair market value of goods, services, facilities, or anything of value other than money [Gov. Code § 82025.5].

What constitutes "income" is comprehensively set out in Gov. Code § 82030. If it appears that a governmental decision will have a material financial effect, distinguishable from its effect on the public generally, on any source of income (as the term is defined in Gov. Code § 82030)--except loans by a commercial lending institution made in the regular course of business on terms available to the public without regard to official status--a public official has a financial interest in the decision if within 12 months before the making of the decision, the official received or was provided or promised income from that source aggregating $500 or more in value [Gov. Code §§ 82030, 87103; see also Gov. Code §§ 87103(e) (restriction as to source of gifts aggregating $250 or more in value), 87103.5 (certain income from retail customers excluded)].

The definition of "income" in Gov. Code § 82030 includes both directly paid or enjoyed income and income benefitting the official indirectly, such as a community property interest in the income of the official's spouse [see Gov. Code § 82030], but does not include the receipt of campaign contributions [see Gov. Code § 82030(b); Woodland Hills Residents Asso., Inc. v. City Council of Los Angeles (1980) 26 Cal. 3d 938, 946-947, 164 Cal. Rptr. 255, 609 P.2d 1029 (fact that persons benefited by decision of city council members, all of whom had received substantial campaign contributions from such persons, did not deprive plaintiffs of fair trial concerning approval of subdivision map in mandamus action); but see BreakZone Billiards v. City of Torrance (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1205, 1227, 1229, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 467 (Gov. Code § 87103 creates statutory obligation on part of public official not to vote on matter if campaign contributions received from donor aggregating $250 or more within 12 months before time decision is made; Gov. Code § 87103(e) requires that contributions received within 12 months before vote be aggregated to determine if financial threshold for disqualification from participation has been reached)].

If a governmental decision would have a material financial effect on a private entity or organization that is a source of income to a public official, the official is prohibited from participating in the decision, notwithstanding the fact that the amount of such income will not be affected thereby [see Witt v. Morrow (1977) 70 Cal. App. 3d 817, 822-823, 139 Cal. Rptr. 161] .

The phrase "financially interested" in Gov. Code § 1090 does not mean the same thing as a "financial interest" in Gov. Code § 87103, which requires a foreseeably material financial effect. The Legislature has never qualified the proscribed financial interests under Gov. Code § 1090 with modifiers such as "material," "substantial," "significant," "direct," "certain," "probable," and the like [People v. Honig (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 289, 323-328, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 555] . Moreover, since Gov. Code §§ 1090 and 1097 are aimed at a more specific and limited form of official behavior by public officers and employees, they must be considered the more specific, and thus controlling, legislation in the circumstances in which they apply [People v. Honig (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 289, 329, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 555 ; see § 469.11[3] (discussion of Gov. C. §§ 1090, 1097)].

[c] Procedure If Financial Interest Present

A public official who holds an office specified in Gov. Code § 87200, other than a member of the Legislature, who has a financial interest in a decision within the meaning of Gov. Code § 87200 must, upon identifying a conflict of interest or a potential conflict of interest and immediately prior to the consideration of the matter, do all of the following [Gov. Code § 87105]:

- Publicly identify the financial interest that gives rise to the conflict of interest or potential conflict of interest in detail sufficient to be understood by the public, except that disclosure of the exact street address of a residence is not required [see § 469.12].

- Recuse himself or herself from discussing and voting on the matter, or otherwise acting in violation of Gov. Code § 87100.

- Leave the room until after the discussion, vote, and any other disposition of the matter is concluded, unless the matter has been placed on the portion of the agenda reserved for uncontested matters.

- Notwithstanding the leaving the room requirement, the public official may speak on the issue during the time that the general public speaks on the issue.

In enacting these requirements, the Legislature found and declared that these provisions further the purposes of the Political Reform Act of 1974 within the meaning of Gov. Code § 81012(a) [2002 Stats., ch. 233, § 3].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Business & Corporate LawCorporationsFormationGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesPublic Policy ViolationsContracts LawDefensesStatutes of LimitationsCriminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesMiscellaneous OffensesAbuse of Public OfficeConflicts of InterestGeneral OverviewCriminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesMiscellaneous OffensesAbuse of Public OfficeIllegal GratuitiesElementsCriminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesMiscellaneous OffensesAbuse of Public OfficeMisuse of Public Funds & PropertyGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawPersonal GiftsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLegislationInitiative & ReferendumGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsAdministrative BoardsGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsElectionsGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsElectionsGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsInsurance LawBusiness InsuranceSelf-InsuranceGovernmental AgenciesPublic Contracts LawBids & FormationAgency & Authority of Government OfficersContracting OfficersPublic Contracts LawVoiding the ContractConflicts of Interest

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 469 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CONFLICTS OF INTEREST
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

40-469 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 469.12

§ 469.12 Disclosure Requirements

Disclosure requirements designed to reveal potential conflicts of interest are set out in Gov. Code §§ 87200-87210. These requirements apply only to elected state officers [see Gov. Code §§ 82020, 82021, 82024, 82048, 82053], judges and commissioners of courts of the judicial branch, members of the Public Utilities Commission, members of the State Energy Resources Conservation and Development Commission, members of the Fair Political Practices Commission, members of the California Coastal Commission, members of planning commissions, district attorneys, county counsel, county treasurers, city treasurers, other public officials who manage public investments, members of the board of supervisors, and chief administrative officers of a county [see Gov. Code § 82017], mayors [see Gov. Code § 82042], city managers [see Gov. Code § 82008], city attorneys, chief administrative officers and members of the council of a city [see Gov. Code § 82008], and candidates for any of these offices at any election [Gov. Code § 87200; see Gov. Code §§ 82007, 82022, 82023].

The contents of a disclosure statement showing investments, interests in real property, and sources and amounts of income are prescribed in Gov. Code §§ 87206 and 87207. A statement must be filed on any specified occasion, such as on the assumption of office [see Gov. Code § 87202], and in most cases must be filed on each anniversary of assuming office [see Gov. Code §§ 87201-87203, 87205] and after leaving office [see Gov. Code § 87204].

The Supreme Court of California has held that the business income reporting scheme of Gov. Code § 87207(b) does not unconstitutionally intrude into the political, privacy, and associational rights of public officials and their clients and customers [Hays v. Wood (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 772, 780-784, 160 Cal. Rptr. 102, 603 P.2d 19] . In 1979, the Court held a former subsection that required certain disclosure only with regard to businesses that provided legal or brokerage services, Gov. Code § 87207(b)(2), to be unconstitutional [see Hays v. Wood (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 772, 786-787, 160 Cal. Rptr. 102, 603 P.2d 19] ; it was then deleted by legislative amendment in 1984 [see 1984 Stats., ch. 931, § 8]. Gov. Code § 87207(b) now provides that when the filer's pro rata share of income to a business entity, including income to a sole proprietorship, is required to be reported, the statement must contain certain data [Gov. Code § 87207(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Criminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesMiscellaneous OffensesAbuse of Public OfficeConflicts of InterestElementsEnergy & Utilities LawAdministrative ProceedingsPublic Utility CommissionsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsCourtsJudgesGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsEmployees & Officials

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 469 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CONFLICTS OF INTEREST
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

40-469 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 469.13

§ 469.13 Remedies

Generally, compliance with conflicts-of-interest provisions in the Political Reform Act of 1974 may be enforced by means of an action for injunctive relief [Gov. Code § 91003(a)]. Nevertheless, any violation of any section of the Political Reform Act, is a misdemeanor [Gov. Code § 91000(a)]. Undisclosed conflicts of interest may also lead to criminal or other penalties under the Act or other statutes [see, e.g., People v. Hedgecock (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 395, 402-403, 272 Cal. Rptr. 803, 795 P.2d 1260 (former mayor charged with conflict of interest under Gov. Code §§ 87100, 87103, 91000(a), and conspiracy under Penal Code § 182 for unreported contributions)].

The remedies provided in Gov. Code § 91000 et seq., as well as those provided in Gov. Code § 83100 et seq. (regarding enforcement by Fair Political Practices Commission), do not apply to elected state officers for violations or threatened violations of Gov. Code § 87100 et seq., except as provided in Gov. Code §§ 87102.5 and 87102.8 [Gov. Code §§ 87102, 87102.8(d); see Gov. Code §§ 87102.5(a), 87102.8(d) (applicability of remedies under Gov. Code § 83100 et seq.)].

Under Gov. Code § 91005, any designated employee or public official specified in Gov. Code § 87200, except an elected state officer, who realizes an economic benefit as a result of a violation of Gov. Code § 87100 or of a disqualification provision of a conflict of interest code is liable in a civil action brought by the civil prosecutor or by a person residing within the jurisdiction for an amount up to three times the value of the benefit [Gov. Code § 91005(b)]. Before an action can be brought under Gov. Code § 91005(b), however, the requirements of Gov. Code § 91007 must be complied with [see § 469.32[4], discussing Gov. Code § 91007 requirements].

Similarly, under Gov. Code § 91004, any person who intentionally or negligently violates any of the reporting requirements of the Political Reform Act of 1974, is liable in a civil action brought by the civil prosecutor or by a person residing within the jurisdiction for an amount not more than the amount or value not properly reported [Gov. Code § 91004 as amended by Proposition 208; see Community Cause v. Boatwright (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 562, 573 n.4, 240 Cal. Rptr. 794 (per Gov. Code § 91004, person who violates the provisions of Gov. Code § 81000 et seq. only inadvertently not liable for damages in civil action)]. Before an action can be brought under Gov. Code § 91004, however, the requirements of Gov. Code § 91007 must be met [see § 469.32[4], discussing Gov. Code § 91007 requirements]. If two or more persons are responsible for any violation (of the Political Reform Act of 1974), they are jointly and severally liable [Gov. Code § 91006].

In cases in which Gov. Code § 91003(a) does apply, any person residing "in the jurisdiction" may sue for injunctive relief to enjoin violations of or to compel compliance with the provisions of the Political Reform Act of 1974 [Gov. Code § 91003(a)]. There is no specific time reference for residency within the meaning of Gov. Code § 91103(a), i.e., there is no durational residency requirement [Kunec v. Brea Redevelopment Agency (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 511, 518, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 143] . The court may, however, in its discretion require any plaintiff, other than the Fair Political Practices Commission, to file a complaint with the commission prior to seeking injunctive relief. The court may award reasonable attorney's fees to the prevailing party [Gov. Code § 91003(a)].

Furthermore, on a preliminary showing in an action brought by a person residing "in the jurisdiction" that a violation of Gov. Code § 87100 et seq. (prohibiting participation in or exercise of influence over governmental decision by financially interested public official), Gov. Code §§ 87400-87405 (restricting specified activities of former state officers and employees), or Gov. Code § 87450 (prohibiting state administrative officials from entering into specified contracts), or a violation of a disqualification provision of a Conflict of Interest Code, has occurred, the court may restrain the execution of any official action in relation to which the violation occurred, pending final adjudication. If it is ultimately determined that a violation has occurred and that the official action might not otherwise have been taken or approved, the court may set the official action aside as void. These official actions include, but are not limited to, orders, permits, resolutions, and contracts, but do not include the enactment of any state legislation. In considering a grant of either preliminary or permanent relief of this nature, the court is required to accord due weight to any injury that may be suffered by innocent persons relying on the official action [Gov. Code § 91003(b)].

Relative to alleged violations by a state agency or official, "jurisdiction" means the state; relative to a local government agency, "jurisdiction" means the region, county, city, district, or other geographical area in which it has jurisdiction [Gov. Code § 82035].

A violation of a Conflict of Interest Code [see § 469.10[4]] may be remedied in any of several ways, including criminal and civil penalties as well as administrative discipline and dismissal from a position [see Gov. Code §§ 91000-91006].

A contract made in violation of Gov. Code § 1090 may be "avoided at the instance of any party except the officer interested therein" [Gov. Code § 1092(a)]; and a violation of Gov. Code §§ 1090-1096 may be criminally prosecuted [see Gov. Code § 1097; People v. Honig (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 289, 329, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 555 (rejecting argument that it is absurd that a felony violation of Gov. Code §§ 1090, 1097 can be committed when official has any financial interest, however small or contingent, in a contract while a misdemeanor violation of the Political Reform Act of 1974 requires a material financial interest)].

When public funds are soon to be spent as a result of government action participated in by a public officer who had a conflict of interest, a taxpayer has standing to sue for appropriate relief [see Code Civ. Proc. § 526a; see also Stigall v. Taft (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 565, 571, 25 Cal. Rptr. 441, 375 P.2d 289 (suit for declaration that certain contract between city and former council member's company was void)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesInjunctionsPreliminary & Temporary InjunctionsContracts LawDefensesPublic Policy ViolationsCriminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesMiscellaneous OffensesAbuse of Public OfficeConflicts of InterestGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsLegislaturesPublic Contracts LawVoiding the ContractConflicts of Interest

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 469 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CONFLICTS OF INTEREST
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

40-469 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 469.14-469.19

[Reserved]

§§ 469.14[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 469 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CONFLICTS OF INTEREST
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-469 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 469.20

§ 469.20 Related Matthew Bender Publications

For discussion and forms relating to actions for declaratory and injunctive relief, see Ch. 182, Declaratory Relief

For discussion and forms relating to actions for injunctive relief, see Ch. 303, Injunctions

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesInjunctionsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsLegislatures

26 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 469 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CONFLICTS OF INTEREST
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-469 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 469.21

§ 469.21 State Constitution

Prohibition against conflict of interest by member of Legislature. Cal. Const., art. IV, §§ 4, 5

Prohibition against conflict of interest by certain state officers. Cal. Const., art. V, § 14

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesInjunctionsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsLegislatures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 469 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CONFLICTS OF INTEREST
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-469 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 469.22

§ 469.22 State Statutes

[1] Conflict of Interest Generally

Conflicts of interest are prohibited to public members of regulatory agencies. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 450-450.5

Weights and measures regulation. Bus. & Prof. Code § 12514

Interests in government contracts are prohibited. Fin. Code § 860; Gov. Code § 1090 et seq.

Disclosure or use for pecuniary gain of confidential information acquired in course of official duties is prohibited. Gov. Code § 1098

Conflicts of interest are prohibited to local officers and employees. Gov. Code § 1125 et seq.

Conflicts of interest are prohibited to state officers and employees. Gov. Code §§ 18000.5, 19990, 19990.5

Political Reform Act of 1974: conflicts-of-interest provisions. Gov. Code §§ 87100-87500

Ethics in Government Act of 1990, regarding prohibition against receiving honoraria and gifts. Gov. Code § 89500 et seq.

Prohibition against payment to public officers and others regarding certain services rendered with regard to criminal extradition. Penal Code § 1558

[2] Particular Public Entities

Members of Legislature. Gov. Code § 87102.5

Alcoholic beverage control personnel. Bus. & Prof. Code § 23060

Appraisers and appraisal commissions. Rev. & Tax Code §§ 672, 1717.1

Financial Institutions Department personnel. Fin. Code § 234

Board of Accountancy: public members. Bus. & Prof. Code § 5000

California Architects Board: public members. Bus. & Prof. Code § 5514

Community colleges governing boards and certain citizens' oversight committees. Educ. Code § 72533

Contractors' State License Board: public members. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 7001, 7002

Corporations Department personnel. Corp. Code §§ 25605(b), 25607

Corrections Department personnel. Penal Code §§ 2540, 2541

County sanitation district employees. Health & Safety Code § 4768

Board of Dental Examiners. Bus. & Prof. Code § 1602

Energy Resources Conservation and Development Commission. Pub. Res. Code § 25205

Board of Examiners of Nursing Home Administrators. Bus. & Prof. Code § 3912

Board of Fire Services. Health & Safety Code § 13142.8

Financial advisers and bond counsel. Gov. Code §§ 53590-53594

Board of Guide Dogs for the Blind. Bus. & Prof. Code § 7201

Food and Agriculture Department personnel. Food & Agric. Code § 12783

Health Department personnel. Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 14475, 14480, 14481

Horse Racing Board. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 19423, 19424, 19429

Hospital advisory Boards. Welf. & Inst. Code § 4201

Insurance Department personnel. Ins. Code § 12901

Local assessment appeals boards. Rev. & Tax Code § 1624.2

Local community development commission personnel. Health & Safety Code § 34144(a)

Local hospital district personnel. Health & Safety Code § 32110

Local housing authority personnel. Health & Safety Code §§ 34272, 34281, 34328.2

Medical Board of California. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2007

Municipal utility district personnel. Pub. Util. Code §§ 12392, 12722

Board of Registered Nursing. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2702

Board of Optometry. Bus. & Prof. Code § 3011

Board of Pharmacy: public members. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4001(b); but see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4001(f) (section repealed January 1, 2013)

Postsecondary Education Commission. Educ. Code § 66901

Board for Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors: public members. Bus. & Prof. Code § 6711

Board of Psychology: public members. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2923

Public Utilities Commission. Pub. Util. Code § 303

Real Estate Department personnel. Bus. & Prof. Code § 10074

Regional park district personnel. Pub. Res. Code § 5567

Regional water quality control boards. Water Code §§ 13207, 13388

School boards and certain citizens' oversight committees. Educ. Code §§ 35230, 35233, 35240

California Small Business Board. Corp. Code § 14085 et seq.

South Coast Air Quality Management District. Health & Safety Code §§ 40426.5, 40426.7

State Bar Board of Governors and designated employees, attorney members of Judicial Council, and non-judge members of Commission on Judicial Performance. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 6035-6038

State Board of Equalization. Gov. Code § 15626

State University employees. Educ. Code §§ 89006, 89906-89908

Structural Pest Control Board: public members. Bus. & Prof. Code § 8521

Tahoe Regional Planning Agency. Gov. Code § 67042.1

Transit district personnel. Pub. Util. Code § 25392 et seq.

Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board administrative law judge. Unemp. Ins. Code § 404

Veterinary Medical Board. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4801

Water Commission. Water Code § 12892

Water Resources Control Board. Water Code §§ 175.5, 13388

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Criminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesMiscellaneous OffensesAbuse of Public OfficeConflicts of InterestGeneral OverviewEducation LawAdministration & OperationBoards of Elementary & Secondary SchoolsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsAdministrative BoardsGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsLegislaturesPublic Contracts LawVoiding the ContractConflicts of Interest

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 469 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CONFLICTS OF INTEREST
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-469 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 469.23

§ 469.23 Decisions

Former mayor was subject to criminal charges under Gov. Code §§ 87100 and 87103 and Gov. Code § 91000(a) for conflict-of-interest violations, as well as to conspiracy charges under Penal Code § 182 and felony perjury charges under Penal Code § 118 for unreported contributions in violation of both Political Reform Act of 1974 and local ordinances. People v. Hedgecock (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 395, 400-403, 272 Cal. Rptr. 803, 795 P.2d 1260 (conviction on conspiracy and perjury counts; perjury conviction reversed when trial court took materiality issue from jury; conspiracy conviction remanded for evidentiary hearing regarding jury misconduct)

Gov. Code § 1126 does not restrict a local agency's authority to prohibit off-duty activities of public employees that are not enumerated in statute. Long Beach Police Officers Assn. v. City of Long Beach (1988) 46 Cal. 3d 736, 738, 741, 748, 250 Cal. Rptr. 869, 759 P.2d 504

While commissioners who violate Pub. Util. Code § 303 are subject to removal under Cal. Const. art. XII, § 1, any Commissioner who violates Pub. Util. Code § 303(a) by voluntarily owning stock does not, under the terms of the statute, forfeit the commissioner's office. Although Section 303(a) did not provide a remedy if a commissioner voluntarily owned stock in a regulated company, commissioners who violated the public trust remained subject to civil and criminal penalties under the Political Reform Act of 1974, Gov. Code § 81000. People ex rel. Found. for Taxpayer & Consumer Rights v. Duque (2003) 105 Cal. App. 4th 259, 264-270, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 298

When a city attorney also served as attorney for the city's redevelopment agency and public financing authority (all of which agencies consisted of the same five people), he or she acted in some official capacity in each of these roles, such that he owed a duty of absolute loyalty and undivided, uncompromised allegiance to the agencies he was representing. People v. Gnass (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 1271, 1291, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 225

Prohibition against contract "made" by official or employee extends to influencing making of contract directly or indirectly. Stigall v. Taft (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 565, 569-571, 25 Cal. Rptr. 441, 375 P.2d 289 ; People v. Vallerga (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 847, 868, 136 Cal. Rptr. 429 ; City Council v. McKinley (1978) 80 Cal. App. 3d 204, 212, 145 Cal. Rptr. 461 ; People v. Sobel (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 1046, 1052, 1054, 115 Cal. Rptr. 532 ; Millbrae Ass'n for

Residential Survival v. Millbrae (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 222, 237, 69 Cal. Rptr. 251

Acting in good faith is immaterial if officer guilty of prohibited conflicts of interest. Stigall v. Taft (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 565, 569, 25 Cal. Rptr. 441, 375 P.2d 289 ; People v. Vallerga (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 847, 865-866, 136 Cal. Rptr. 429 ; Terry v. Bender (1956) 143 Cal. App. 2d 198, 206-207, 300 P.2d 119 ; Hobbs, Wall & Co. v. Moran (1930) 109 Cal. App. 316, 319, 293 P. 145 ; Stockton Plumbing & Supply Co. v. Wheeler (1924) 68 Cal. App. 592, 603, 229 P. 1020

Contract made in violation of prohibition against conflicts of interest is void as against public policy. Severance v. Knight-Counihan Co. (1947) 29 Cal. 2d 561, 568, 177 P.2d 4 ; Oakland v. California Constr. Co. (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 573, 576-577, 104 P.2d 30 ; Berka v. Woodward (1899) 125 Cal. 119, 127, 57 P. 777 ; People ex rel. Cal. v. Drinkhouse (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 931, 935, 84 Cal. Rptr. 773

Officer is permitted to act even though disqualified if participation is necessary to enable agency to function. Caminetti v. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 344, 366, 139 P.2d 908

Existence of prohibited interest is shown by substance, not form. People v. Deysher (1934) 2 Cal. 2d 141, 146, 40 P.2d 259

Whether governmental functionary holds office subject to conflict-of-interest laws depends on extent of his or her authority, duties and functions performed, and other indicia of character of position. Kennedy v. City of Gustine (1926) 199 Cal. 251, 255-256, 248 P. 910

Employment contract between school district and school board member's spouse is subject to scrutiny of conflict of interest provisions; board member, e.g., has community property interest in spouse's contract with school district, which implicates board member's financial interests; when Gov. Code § 1090 applies, it is absolute bar to board or commission entering into prohibited contract; even if interested board or commission member abstains from participation in matter, Gov. Code § 1090 applies to prevent fellow board or commission members from being influenced by their colleague; Gov. Code § 1091.5, however, enumerates several noninterest situations that arguably could implicate prohibition against officeholder's financial interest in contract, but are deemed by Legislature not to violate § 1090; term "employment" in Gov. Code § 1091.5(a)(6) narrowly construed to mean spouse's employment in same position, grade or classification; intent of Gov. Code § 1091.5(a)(6) is to continue status quo of spouse already employed for over year, but to prohibit spouse's employment in different position that requires approval of board of trustees of which employee's spouse is member; under facts, exception in Gov. Code § 1091.5(a)(6) held not to apply. Thorpe v. Long Beach Community College Dist. (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 655, 659-665, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 897

Political Reform Act (Gov. Code § 81000 et seq.) creates under Gov. Code § 87103 statutory obligation on part of public official to whom act applies not to vote on matter if he or she has received campaign contributions from donor aggregating $250 or more within 12 months before the time the decision is made; prohibition, however, does not encompass third parties who may hold same views as donor or who might benefit from action before public official; Gov. Code § 87103(e) requires that contributions received within 12 months before vote be aggregated to determine if financial threshold for disqualification from participation has been reached; under facts, council members not required to be recused concerning vote on conditional use permit. BreakZone Billiards v. City of Torrance (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1205, 1227 & n.18, 1128, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 467

Political Reform Act (Gov. Code § 81000 et seq.) does not preclude application of other laws so long as those other provisions do not interfere with compliance with Political Reform Act; Gov. Code § 1090 is law of most general application which imposes such additional requirements; Gov. Code § 1090 codified common law prohibition of public officials having financial interest in contracts they make in their official capacities; purpose of section is to prohibit self-dealing, not representation of interests of others; later circumstances confronted appellant in that it contended that recipients of political contributions voted interest of developer who had history of contributing to their political campaigns; under facts, that allegation, whether true or not, was not forbidden by either Gov. Code § 1090 or § 87103; Gov. Code § 1090 statutory prong of conflict of interest doctrine requires that official have some interest in outcome, whether direct or indirect; when interest is remote and speculative, no conflict is presented under statute; further, while interest in outcome need not be present interest, but may consist of benefit that arises after taking of governmental action, no facts were alleged invoking indirect interest rule; it is not sufficient that city council member desires to advocate position of campaign supporter; there must be some financial or pecuniary benefit to governmental official that could sway his or her judgment. BreakZone Billiards v. City of Torrance (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1205, 1229-1231, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 467

Only two kinds of defendants are subject to an action under Political Reform Act: governmental agencies and individual governmental officials; Gov. Code § 91012 precludes agency from recovering its costs and attorney fees, but there is no such express exclusion for individual officials; neither is there any provision that individual governmental officials are entitled to award of costs, including attorney fees, only when they have personally incurred such expenses; accordingly, Gov. Code § 91012 did not prohibit individual member of school board from recovering costs, including attorney fees and thus such individual defendant was entitled to have plaintiff post security under Gov. Code § 91012 even though agency was providing his defense. Dunn v. Jurupa Unified School Dist. (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 957, 960-961, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 529

Gov. Code § 1090 relates specifically to "contracts" in which member of board or body has financial interest, while Gov. Code § 87100 relates to "participation" in any "governmental decision" in which official has financial interest; when individual defendant was elected member of plaintiff water district's board of directors and also an owner, stockholder, and salaried president of defendant private water company, section 1090 applied to whether defendant company's continuing receipt of reclaimed water was prohibited and section 87100 applied to individual defendant's participation in governmental decisions to set rates for reclaimed water and to set standby assessment; trial court correctly held, assuming continuing receipt by defendant company of reclaimed water from district constituted series of contracts, contracts were excepted from section 1090 by Gov. Code § 1091.5(a)(3); district's sale of reclaimed water to 23 purveyors, including defendant company, all of whom were charged same rate, was sufficient to establish that public services were generally provided on same terms and conditions as if individual defendant were not a board member. City of Vernon v. Central Basin Mun. Water Dist. (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 508, 513-518, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 650

With regard to rule of necessity, agency fatally erred to make full public disclosure on record about why council members were actually or potentially conflicted, and failed to explain on same record why there was no alternative to the city council as a source of decision making authority, which was required under former 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 18701(b) (now see 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 18708(b), the regulation of the Fair Political Practices Commission interpreting Gov. Code § 87101). Kunec v. Brea Redevelopment Agency (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 511, 520-522, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 143

Common law prohibition on holding of two incompatible public offices; board of supervisors improperly consolidated probation and correction departments when it subordinated latter to former; actual conflict of interest resulting from consolidated officer's holding two positions on County board of parole rendered offices incompatible; moreover, offices incompatible insofar as consolidation imposed on chief probation officer duties that general law does not authorize probation officer to carry out; chief probation officer may not sit on County board of parole commissioners in two capacities and may not run institutions for confinement of unsentenced adults. People ex rel. Deputy Sheriffs' Assn. v. County of Santa Clara (1996) 49 Cal. App. 4th 1471, 1486, 1491, 57 Cal. Rptr. 2d 322

While acting in capacity of city attorney pursuant to retainer agreement providing for monthly retainer fee that excluded from its coverage litigation related services for which the city agreed to pay on a reasonable fee basis depending on the type of services rendered, attorney held to have violated Elec. Code § 1090 by entering into oral referral fee agreement with firm that attorney found and negotiated with to represent city in litigation matter and thus forfeited right to referral fee under referral fee agreement; no evidence of compliance with disclosure requirements of former Cal. Rules of Prof. Cond., Rule 2-108 (now Cal. Rules of Prof. Conduct, Rule 2-200). Campagna v. City of Sanger (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 533, 538, 540-542, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 676

Hospital district bylaw requiring district employee to resign employment with hospital before she could serve as elected member of district board as impermissible restriction on employee's political activities in violation of Gov. Code § 3203. Eldridge v. Sierra View Local Hospital Dist. (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 311, 319, 325, 273 Cal. Rptr. 654

Gov. Code § 1126 restriction on outside employment by public officer that is in conflict with official duties as inapplicable to exercise of hospital district employee's right to hold public office while retaining her job as district employee, because Gov. Code § 1126 does not authorize placing restrictions on political rights of public employee. Eldridge v. Sierra View Local Hospital Dist. (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 311, 318, 273 Cal. Rptr. 654

"Income" as having special meaning under Political Reform Act; disclosure of income not within that definition as not required by Gov. Code § 87200. Bach v. McNelis (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 852, 866-868, 255 Cal. Rptr. 232

City council member as properly barred under Gov. Code § 87100 from voting on ordinance amending redevelopment plan, and ordinance as properly invalidated under Gov. Code § 91003 (since member's affirmative vote was essential to passage), because it was reasonably foreseeable that adoption of ordinance would have a material financial effect on member's real property and business interests. Downey Cares v. Downey Community Development Com. (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 983, 991-993, 242 Cal. Rptr. 272

When person subject to reporting requirements of Political Reform Act of 1974 purchases partnership interest in real property and knows or reasonably should have known (1) that he or she has received value in excess of consideration paid (which includes liabilities assumed), and (2) the amount of that excess value, he or she as required to report that difference, either as income or as gift. Community Cause v. Boatwright (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 562, 571, 240 Cal. Rptr. 794 (decided prior to 1978 amendments to Gov. Code §§ 82028 and 82030, defining "gift" and "income," respectively)

Gov. Code § 87101 as including statutory analogue to common law rule of necessity, permitting mayor's participation in decision regarding rent control ordinance despite her ownership of covered rental property when mayor's participation was required by legislative process, and under city charter mayor's failure to act would constitute approval of ordinance. Affordable Housing Alliance v. Feinstein (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 484, 489-491, 224 Cal. Rptr. 557

Gov. Code § 87100 as not available to sue persons who are not public officials, and therefore city council member's husband and son as not liable for conflict of interest for participating in business venture located near redevelopment project approved by councilmember. Citizens for Oxnard v. Maron (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 702, 706, 193 Cal. Rptr. 647

Demurrer to action against city councilmember based on violation of Gov. Code § 87103 (official's financial interest in decision affecting business entity in which official has investment) as properly sustained when "business entity" in question was nothing more than preincorporation expense agreement signed by council member's husband and son. Citizens for Oxnard v. Maron (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 702, 707, 193 Cal. Rptr. 647

Principal investigator as entitled to be present during trial when designated by district attorney bringing action on behalf of public against public official under Political Reform Act of 1974 (Gov. Code § 81000 et seq.), pursuant to Evid. Code § 777(c), which allows the attorney of a party other than a natural person to designate an officer or employee to be present at trial. People ex rel. Curtis v. Peters (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 597, 599-600, 192 Cal. Rptr. 70

Elected official as required under Gov. Code § 87203 to disclose purchase price of investment or interest in real property when purchase price is lower than actual value of investment or interest so as to constitute discount or gift, which is classed as income by Gov. Code §§ 82030(a) and 82028, provided that income was actually obtained within official's jurisdiction. Community Cause v. Boatwright (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 888, 905-906, 177 Cal. Rptr. 657

Fair Political Practices Commission regulation permitting industry members to serve on public boards regulating such industry and to participate in decisions which will affect all other members of industry similarly as valid. Consumers Union of U.S., Inc. v. California Milk Producers Advisory Bd. (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 433, 448-449, 147 Cal. Rptr. 265

Conflict of Interest Code as not required to provide right to hearing with respect to every item that must be reported under code. Metropolitan Water Dist. v. Fair Political Practices Com. (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 650, 656-657, 141 Cal. Rptr. 8

Conflict of Interest Code as permitted to require disclosure of financial interests of public official regardless of whether official decisions will have a material effect on such interests which is distinguishable from the effect on the public generally. Metropolitan Water Dist. v. Fair Political Practices Com. (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 650, 658, 141 Cal. Rptr. 8

Public official as prohibited from participating in governmental decision which would have material financial effect on private entity or organization which is source of income to official, notwithstanding fact that amount of such income not affected thereby. Witt v. Morrow (1977) 70 Cal. App. 3d 817, 822-823, 139 Cal. Rptr. 161

Failure of Gov. Code §§ 1091, 1091.5, to define prohibited "financial interest" as not defect rendering statutes fatally vague. People v. Watson (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 28, 34, 34 n. 1, 92 Cal. Rptr. 860 , cert. denied sub nom. Watson v. California (1971) 404 U.S. 850 ; People v. Darby (1952) 114 Cal. App. 2d 412, 427, 250 P.2d 743 , appeal dismissed sub nom. Darby v. California (1953) 345 U.S. 937 .

Ownership of property in area to be rezoned as not creating conflict of interest on part of planning commission member. Orinda Homeowners Committee v. Board of Supervisors (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 768, 776, 90 Cal. Rptr. 88

Disclosure of conflicting interests and nonparticipation by interested employee or official in decision as ground for holding decision valid notwithstanding conflict. Old Town Dev. Corp. v. Urban Renewal Agency (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 313, 328-329, 57 Cal. Rptr. 426 (decided, in part, under former Gov. Code § 33130 and prior to enactment of Political Reform Act of 1974)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesPublic Policy ViolationsEnergy & Utilities LawAdministrative ProceedingsPublic Utility CommissionsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsLegal EthicsClient RelationsAttorney FeesFee AgreementsPublic Contracts LawBids & FormationAgency & Authority of Government OfficersContracting OfficersPublic Contracts LawVoiding the ContractGeneral OverviewPublic Contracts LawVoiding the ContractConflicts of Interest

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 469 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CONFLICTS OF INTEREST
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-469 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 469.24

§ 469.24 Attorney General Opinions

Under the "rule of necessity," a healthcare district may advertise on a radio station where (1) the radio station is the only station that accepts advertising in the district's region, (2) one of the district's directors, who assumed office in 2001, became an employee of the radio station in 1997 as an engineer and talk show host, (3) for more than five years prior to 1997, the district advertised on the radio station, (4) the station has six employees, (5) the district director's compensation from the station exceeds 50 percent of his income, and (6) the district director does not have an ownership interest in the station or hold a supervisory or managerial position at the station. -- Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen --, No. 05-210, 2005 Cal. AG LEXIS 16

The Department of Forestry and Fire Protection may award a financial grant to a timber owner for planning, reforestation, and resource management even though the timber owner is a state employee as long as his or her duties as an employee do not relate to or affect the awarding of such grants. -- Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. --, No. 04-701, 2005 Cal. AG LEXIS 8

Gov. Code § 1090's provisions, considered in isolation, would clearly be applicable to the execution of any contract between a school district and a probationary teacher whose spouse is a member of the governing board, since the spouse would be financially interested in her contract of employment under community property laws, and he would be considered as participating in the making of the contract as a member of the board. However, § 1090's provisions do not stand alone. The Legislature has expressly defined certain financial interests as "remote interests" and "noninterests" that, if applicable, allow a contract to be executed despite section 1090's prohibition. If a "noninterest" is present, as defined in Gov. Code § 1091.5, the contract may be made without the officer's abstention, and generally a noninterest does not require disclosure. Under Gov. Code § 1091.5(a)(6), the governing board of a school district may employ a teacher as a permanent employee if she has been a probationary teacher for more than one year before her spouse became a member of the governing board. 87 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 23 (2004)

Gov. Code § 1090 is directed at the time a contract is made. Where a lease agreement between a city and a nonprofit corporation was executed 11 years before the nonprofit corporation's executive director became a city council member, Gov. Code § 1090 has no application now to the formation or existence of the contract. However, any attempt by the city and the nonprofit corporation to modify the lease agreement while the executive director is on the city council would come within the broad language of Gov. Code § 1090. Further, the general terms of Gov. Code § 1090 would apply with respect to any grants the city council might now wish to make to the nonprofit corporation. 85 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 176 (2002)

City council may not continue to execute an extension of a contract with a construction company to "noise-proof" homes near a city airport if the company's architectural subcontractor is the firm of a newly elected city council member even though the firm has been the architectural subcontractor on the project for more than five years and the architectural subcontractor for this construction company for the past three years. 85 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 176 (2002)

Where city proposes to enter into a development agreement with a developer, a senior staff member of the city may not participate in the negotiations and drafting of the agreement if her spouse is employed by a firm that will provide outreach services for the developer with respect to the project pursuant to a yearly retainer agreement, even though the spouse has no ownership interest in the firm, he will not work on the city's project, and his income will not be affected by the outcome of the development agreement or project. 85 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 34 (2002)

Director of irrigation district may not contract to obtain private construction services performed by district valued at $29,000 in exchange for terminating district's preexisting obligation to repair bridge located on director's property, even though those repair services were valued at $47,000; alternatively, irrigation district may not pay director $29,000 in consideration for terminating its preexisting and ongoing bridge maintenance obligation. 80 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 335 (1997)

Whether position of fire chief of fire protection district is public office and incompatible with offices of city council member and director of fire district as substantial questions of fact and law; leave to file action in quo warranto under Code Civ. Proc. § 803 granted. 76 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 38, 44 (1993)

Positions of school district trustee and community services district director as improperly held by one individual, due to incompatibility of offices; leave to file action in quo warranto under Code Civ. Proc. § 803 granted. 75 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 112, 117 (1992)

General law county as permitted to appoint as county counsel partner in private law firm and to contract for that firm to assist county counsel in performance of duties if certain limitations and qualifications are met. 74 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 155 (1991)

No conflict of interest when attorney employed full time by Franchise Tax Board gives private seminars for compensation, teaches private law school, or compiles book in same area of tax law for which he or she did research as employee as long as attorney complies with Gov. Code § 19990(a)-(g). 73 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 239 (1990)

Political Reform Act as not authorizing city attorney to prosecute violations of act when city charter amended to remove authority to prosecute misdemeanor violations; city attorney may advise city council members under the attorney-client privilege whether an official action taken by such member violates the Political Reform Act. 71 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 255 (1988)

When member of school board is married to tenured teacher, school board as prohibited from entering into annual collective bargaining agreement with teachers' association except under limited circumstances. 69 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 103 (1986)

Member of board of directors of community services district as prohibited from simultaneously holding position of General Manager/District Administrator of local hospital district or office of Superintendent of Schools. 68 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 337 (1985)

Member of board of directors of community services district as not prohibited from serving as Fire Captain II of district to which appointed before becoming director, but as prohibited from serving if a member of board of directors at time of appointment as Fire Captain II, or thereafter during employment as Fire Captain II. 68 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 337 (1985)

Common law prohibition against holding of incompatible offices as applicable to member of county committee on school district organization who is also member of school district board of trustees located within same county; Educ. Code § 4007 as extending common law rule. 68 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 240 (1985)

Deputy sheriff as not permitted to also hold office of county supervisor of employing county; waiver of one salary as not curing legal prohibition. 68 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 7, 10-11 (1985)

California Constitution as not prohibiting member of California Legislature who is spouse of flight attendant from accepting free or discounted air travel pass when such passes are offered to all spouses of flight attendants. 67 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 81, 83 (1984)

Although under common law, offices of trustee of school district and city attorney are incompatible, Gov. Code § 1128 as providing no forfeiture of either office ensues under any circumstances. 66 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 382 (1983)

Gov. Code § 1090 as violated when city hires city attorney, city administrator, redevelopment agency officers, compensating them with percentage of increased value of property within city's boundaries while allowing official involvement of such persons in contracts which may increase assessed values of said parcels. 66 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 376 (1983)

"Public office" and "public employment" defined and distinguished. 65 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 316 (1982)

Conflict of interest under common law rule as not existing when individual serves simultaneously as officer and employee. 65 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 316 (1982)

"Rule of necessity" as overcoming statutory conflict of interest. 65 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 305 (1982)

Part-time clinical instructors or part-time faculty, also engaged in private practice, as barred from membership on State Board of Optometry pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 3011. 65 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 242 (1982)

No conflict of interest where county supervisor, who is also real estate broker, represents buyer or seller in land transaction which is contingent on county approval. 64 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 795 (1981)

Applicability of Hatch Act (5 U.S.C. §§ 1501-1508; prohibiting political activities among employees of states whose employment is made possible by use of federal funds) to those state employees whose activities are indirectly financed by federal government as to be determined on case-by-case basis by United States Civil Service Commission subject to review by federal courts. 64 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 495 (1981)

Simultaneous holding of county planning commissioner and county water district director offices by same person as not permitted. 64 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 228 (1981)

Appointment by Governor of state legislator to Board of Regents of University of California as violation of Cal. Const., art IV, § 13 . 64 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 164 (1981)

Serving simultaneously as member of board of directors of public utility district and as member of board of supervisors of county in which district is located as incompatible and prohibited; under such circumstances, first office held as automatically vacated when duties in second office begin. 64 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 137 (1981)

Real property tax appraiser employed by county assessor as lawfully entitled to purchase property within county at tax-deeded land sale if he or she has not participated in or influenced appraisal of said parcel, does not use county time or county facilities unavailable to general public, and is not prohibited by valid local regulation from making such purchase. 63 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 868 (1980)

Financial disclosure provisions of Political Reform Act of 1974 as applicable to members of city councils and school boards. 58 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 426 (1975)

Santa Monica Municipal Airport District Commissioners as not permitted to participate in proceedings to determine charges for tie-down spaces if lessees of such spaces. 58 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 345 (1975)

County planning commissioner as not permitted to serve also on board of directors of hospital or water district. 58 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 323 (1975)

District attorney as not permitted to serve as elementary school district trustee in general-law county having county counsel. 58 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 241 (1975)

Assistant Superintendent of Public Instruction as permitted to serve on Los Angeles Community College Board of Trustees. 56 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 556 (1973)

Water conservation district board of trustees member as not permitted to serve on board of directors of municipal improvement district. 55 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 36 (1972)

No conflict of interest where flood control district director votes on levee reconstruction proposal affecting his as well as others' property. 54 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 154 (1971)

No conflict of interest where Youth Authority Board member buys surplus property sold by Department of Water Resources. 53 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 163 (1970)

Financial disclosure enactment of 1969 (Stats. 1969, Ch 1512) as constitutional. 53 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 52 (1970)

Deputy sheriff as permitted but not encouraged to have private employment during off-duty hours. 51 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 110 (1968)

Official uniform, badge, or insignia of sheriff as not properly used in performing private patrol services. 48 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 80 (1966)

City council contract with newspaper in which council member has financial interest as improper. 47 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 122 (1966)

Contract between sheriff and county to furnish construction equipment unrelated to sheriff's job as not conflict of interests; county garbage collection franchise to sheriff as not conflict of interest; sheriff as not permitted to present claims to county for payment under contract or franchise. 46 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 112 (1965)

Possible conflicts of interest in recommendations by financial consultants, special counsel, district and city attorneys, and district directors to municipal corporations, community services districts, water districts, and improvement districts as to issuance of bonds, and in employment of district employee as engineer of public work. 46 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 74

(1965)

Owner of private water company or local justice court judge as permitted to serve as director of local water agency. 44 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 37 (1964)

Coroner as not permitted to assign cases to his or her own mortuary. 42 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 37 (1963)

County board of education chairperson as permitted but not encouraged to sell insurance to school district in county. 40 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 210 (1962)

Council member with direct financial interest in property as not permitted to vote on zoning ordinance. 39 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 165 (1962)

Contract to operate concession in park let to member of Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board by Department of Natural Resources as not conflict of interest. 36 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 241 (1960)

Spouse of judge as not properly appointed by judge to civil service position. 36 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 121 (1960)

Deputy Real Estate Commissioner as permitted to serve as member of city council. 34 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 244 (1959)

Lease of public property to private corporation principally owned by state senator as not improper. 34 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 4 (1959)

Contract between water district and director of district as not conflict of interest. 32 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 250 (1958)

County purchase of property from county engineer as conflict of interest. 30 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 323 (1957)

County contract with brother of member of board of supervisors as not conflict of interest; county contract with tenant of member of board of supervisors as possibly conflict of interest. 28 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 168 (1956)

District or county contract with organization of which member of governing body of district or county in connected as conflict of interest. 27 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 254 (1956)

City contract with organization of which council member is executive secretary as conflict of interest. 26 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 111 (1955)

Member of board of supervisors as not permitted to participate in discussion or decision relating to location of new county road where his or her own property is under consideration as location, and as not permitted to sell his or her own property to county, although county may condemn it. 26 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 5 (1955)

District agricultural association funds as not properly deposited in bank of which district director was officer. 24 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 200 (1954)

City funds deposited in bank of which council member was director and owner of less than five percent of outstanding stock as not conflict of interest. 21 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 90 (1953)

Director of hospital district as permitted to be employed in hospital operated by district. 20 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 6 (1952)

County lease of property owned by sheriff and deputies, for training deputy sheriffs, as conflict of interest. 19 Ops.

Cal. Att'y Gen. 72 (1952)

Contract between member of board of supervisors and local school district as not conflict of interest. 17 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 44 (1951)

Contract between State Park Commission and Chief of Division of Beaches and Parks to operate concession in state park as conflict of interest. 15 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 123 (1950)

Sale of goods to state by member of Legislature in merchandising business as not conflict of interest. 14 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 78 (1949)

Contract between public utility district and member of board of supervisors to publish district advertisements in supervisor's newspaper as not conflict of interest. 6 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 206 (1945)

Contract between school district trustees and minor child of one of them as conflict of interest. 5 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 6 (1945)

Contract between city and member of council as conflict of interest even though council member provides only available service of type involved in contract; emergency case excepted. 4 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 264 (1944)

Contract between city and member of council for member's services as city attorney as conflict of interest. 4 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 261 (1944)

Coroner's use of own undertaking facilities to bury indigent dead as conflict of interest, even if no other undertaking services are available. 3 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 201 (1944)

Contract of county to buy supplies from county employee as not conflict of interest where purchase made by purchasing agent. 3 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 188 (1944)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudicial OfficersGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesWritsCommon Law WritsQuo WarrantoGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsPublic Contracts LawBids & FormationAgency & Authority of Government OfficersContracting OfficersPublic Contracts LawVoiding the ContractConflicts of Interest

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 469 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CONFLICTS OF INTEREST
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-469 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 469.25

§ 469.25 Law Reviews

Spahn, How to Recognize and Deal With Conflicts of Clients' Interests, 31(8) Prac. Law. 67 (1985)

Note, Garnishing Graft: A Strategy for Recovering the Proceeds of Bribery, 92 Yale L.J. 128 (1982)

Pines and Smith, California's Governmental Conflicts of Interest Act: The Public Interest vs. The Right to Privacy, 49 L.A. B. Bull. 321 (1974)

Note, The Government Insider and Rule 10b-5: A New Application for an Expanding Doctrine, 47 S. Cal. L. Rev. 1491 (1974)

Review of Selected 1973 California Legislation, 5 Pac. L.J. 205, 475 (1974)

Comment, Financial Disclosure by Public Officials and Public Employees in Light of Carmel-by-the-Sea v. Young, 18 UCLA L. Rev. 534 (1971)

Kaufman and Widiss, The California Conflict of Interest Laws, 36 S. Cal. L. Rev. 186 (1963)

Comment, Conflict of Interest in Public Contracts in California, 44 Cal. L. Rev. 355 (1956)

Kennedy and Beck, Interest of Public Officers in Contracts Prohibited by Law, 28 S. Cal. L. Rev. 335 (1955)

Article, Temptation and Tradition in the California School Board, 5 Stan. L. Rev. 61 (1952)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsEnforcement & ExecutionGarnishmentsCivil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsEnforcement & ExecutionGarnishmentsCriminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesMiscellaneous OffensesAbuse of Public OfficeIllegal GratuitiesGeneral OverviewCriminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesMiscellaneous OffensesAbuse of Public OfficeIllegal GratuitiesGeneral OverviewEducation LawAdministration & OperationBoards of Elementary & Secondary SchoolsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsPublic Contracts LawBids & FormationAgency & Authority of Government OfficersContracting OfficersPublic Contracts LawVoiding the ContractConflicts of Interest

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 469 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CONFLICTS OF INTEREST
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-469 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 469.26

§ 469.26 Text References

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, §§ 650-657 (10th ed. 2005)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesInjunctionsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsLegislatures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 469 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CONFLICTS OF INTEREST
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

40-469 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 469.27-469.29

[Reserved]

§§ 469.27[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 469 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CONFLICTS OF INTEREST
PART IV. FORMS

40-469 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 469.30

§ 469.30 Complaint for Declaratory Relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060] and [Temporary Restraining Order and Preliminary and] Final Injunction[s] [Civ. Code § 3422; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 527]--By Taxpayer Against Public Officer [Code Civ. Proc. § 526a]--To Prevent Expenditure of Public Funds Pursuant to Contract Void for Illegal Conflict of Interest [Gov. Code § 1090]

[1] FORM Complaint for Declaratory Relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060] and [Temporary Restraining Order and Preliminary and] Final Injunction[s] [Civ. Code § 3422; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 527]--By Taxpayer Against Public Officer [Code Civ. Proc. § 526a]--To Prevent Expenditure of Public Funds Pursuant to Contract Void for Illegal Conflict of Interest [Gov. Code § 1090]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	COMPLAINT FOR DECLARATORY RELIEF
Defendant.	)	AND [TEMPORARY RESTRAINING ORDER
	)	AND PRELIMINARY AND] FINAL INJUNC-)	TION[S] (Waste of Public Funds)

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff is a citizen resident in the _____[specify political unit, e.g., State or City and County or County or City or Town] of _____[name of political unit]. _____[Plaintiff is assessed for and is liable to pay or Within one year before the commencement of this action, plaintiff paid] a tax in this _____[specify political unit, e.g., county].

2. Defendant _____[name] is the _____ [specify office or position, e.g., Treasurer of _____ County].

3. _____[Identify other defendants, if any].

4. _____[Allege conflicting interests, e.g., John Doe is, and at all times herein mentioned was, the Highway Commissioner of Canyon County. He is, and at all times herein mentioned was, married to Jane Smith Doe, who owns outright and beneficially approximately 40 percent of the capital stock of Smith Brothers Construction Company, Inc. On or about February 29, 2007, acting in his official capacity on behalf of Canyon County, Doe signed a contract with the construction company for repair work on various county roads].

5. _____[Allege basis for relief, e.g., On or about April 31, 2007, the construction company which completed some of the work presented a claim to defendant for partial payment under the contract. Defendant knows the facts alleged in Paragraph 4, above, but intends, those facts notwithstanding, to issue a warrant in payment of the claim].

[6. Allege facts showing necessity, if any, for provisional injunctive relief.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For a declaration that the contract hereinabove referred to is void as having been made by _____[name of officer or employee] in his/her official capacity contrary to the prohibition against conflicting interests set out in Government Code Section 1090;

[2. For a temporary restraining order and a preliminary injunction restraining and enjoining defendant from issuing any warrant in payment of any claim arising under the contract pending judgment in this action;]

3. For a permanent injunction enjoining defendant from issuing any warrant in payment of any claim arising under the contract;

4. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

VERIFICATION

I, _____[name], am the plaintiff in this action, I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein stated on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____[date]

_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for use by an "interested party" in obtaining a judgment voiding a contract made in violation of Gov. Code § 1090.

[3] Standing to Sue

The Government Code provides that a contract made in violation of Gov. Code § 1090 "may be avoided at the instance of any party except the officer interested therein" [Gov. Code § 1092(a)]. This provision does not limit the class of potential plaintiffs to the persons who are parties to the contract, since the Supreme Court has cited it as authority for a taxpayer's suit seeking a declaration that a government contract was void because of a prohibited conflict of interest [see Stigall v. Taft (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 565, 568, 25 Cal. Rptr. 441, 375 P.2d 289] .

If the funds in question belong to a town, city, county, or city and county, "a citizen resident therein, or a corporation, who is assessed for and is liable to pay, or, within one year before the commencement of the action, has paid, a tax therein" has standing to sue [Code Civ. Proc. § 526a].

[4] Alleging and Proving Culpable Interest

If a public officer or employee is in fact interested in a government contract and is thereby guilty of having conflicting interests, and if the prohibited connection is not an innocent mistake, the culpable officer or employee will probably have tried to obscure his or her forbidden interest. Alleging and proving the existence of such an interest, where that is the case, may be difficult. Circumstantial evidence could be sufficient, of course, and might be the only available evidence [see, e.g., People v. Deysher (1934) 2 Cal. 2d 141, 146-149, 40 P.2d 259] .

The defendant's conflicting interests should be described as particularly and directly as possible. The complaint may be held not to state a cause of action if it merely alleges facts from which it might be concluded that the defendant's interests were conflicting in violation of statutory prohibitions [see Oakland v. California Constr. Co. (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 573, 577, 104 P.2d 30 (demurrer held properly sustained)]. The plaintiff should show that the defendant definitely has conflicting interests.

[5] Undertaking for Provisional Relief

A plaintiff who seeks provisional injunctive relief must be prepared to furnish an undertaking to secure the defendant against injury, if any occurs, in the event the court finally decides that the plaintiff was not entitled to provisional relief [see Code Civ. Proc. § 529].

[6] Verification

If provisional injunctive relief is sought, the complaint should be verified [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527]. Otherwise, verification of the complaint is not required, and verification of the complaint will not require a public entity or public officer sued in his or her official capacity to verify the answer [see Code Civ. Proc. § 446]. The verification of a complaint against a public entity or officer does, however, preclude a general denial in an unlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)].

[7] Statute of Limitations

An action under Gov. Code § 1092 must be commenced within four years after the plaintiff has discovered, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have discovered, a violation described in Gov. Code § 1092(a) [Gov. Code § 1092(b)].

[8] Cross References

See generally Ch. 182, Declaratory Relief , and Ch. 303, Injunctions

For alternative allegations as to capacity and residence of parties, fictitious name allegations, and agency allegations, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used

For alternative forms for captions and introductions, see Ch. 108, Captions and Introductions

For alternative forms for prayers and verifications, see Ch. 420, Prayers and Ch. 572, Verification , respectively

State Statutes

Taxpayer actions. Code Civ. Proc. § 526a

Declaratory relief. Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 et seq.

Injunctive relief. Civ. Code § 3420 et seq.; Code Civ. Proc. § 525 et seq.

Prohibition against conflicting interests on the part of government officials. Gov. Code § 1090

Decisions

Injunctive relief is available if contract violating Gov. Code § 1090 has not been performed. Thomson v. Call (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 633, 646 n.17, 214 Cal. Rptr. 139, 699 P.2d 316

Taxpayer has standing to sue for declaration that government contract is void because it was made in violation of prohibition against conflicting interests set out in Gov. Code § 1090. Stigall v. Taft (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 565, 568, 25 Cal. Rptr. 441, 375 P.2d 289

Allegation of conflicting interests held insufficient; demurrer properly sustained. Oakland v. California Constr. Co. (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 573, 577, 104 P.2d 30

Circumstantial evidence of conflicting interests. People v. Deysher (1934) 2 Cal. 2d 141, 146-149, 40 P.2d 259 ; Terry v. Bender (1956) 143 Cal. App. 2d 198, 202-204, 300 P.2d 119

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 469 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CONFLICTS OF INTEREST
PART IV. FORMS

40-469 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 469.31

§ 469.31 Complaint for Preliminary and Permanent Injunctive Relief [Civ. Code § 3422; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 527]--By Private Plaintiff Against Public Official or Agency to Enjoin Violation of or Compel Compliance With Conflicts of Interest Provisions of Political Reform Act of 1974 [Gov. Code §§ 87100, 87103, 91003]

[1] FORM Complaint for Preliminary and Permanent Injunctive Relief [Civ. Code § 3422; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 527]--By Private Plaintiff Against Public Official or Agency to Enjoin Violation of or Compel Compliance With Conflicts of Interest Provisions of Political Reform Act of 1974 [Gov. Code §§ 87100, 87103, 91003]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name], Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name], Defendant.	)	COMPLAINT FOR PRELIMINARY AND PER-)	MANENT INJUNCTIVE RELIEF
	)	(Violation of Political Reform Act of 1974)

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff resides in _____[city], _____ County, California.

2. Defendant _____[name] is _____[specify official position, e.g., a member of the Board of Supervisors of Canyon County].

[3. Identify other defendants, if any.]

4. Plaintiff's residence is within the jurisdiction of _____[specify, e.g., the Board of Supervisors of Canyon County].

5. On or about _____[date], defendant _____[name], acting in his/her official capacity as _____[specify official position as in Paragraph 2 above] _____[participated or failed to disqualify himself/herself from participation] in a decision by defendant _____[specify decision-making official or agency, e.g., Board of Supervisors of Canyon County] _____[set forth governmental decision].

6. Defendant _____[name]'s participation is not legally required for this decision to be made.

7. Defendant _____[name] is disqualified from participation in the above-described governmental decision under the provisions of Sections 87100 and 87103 of the Government Code in that _____[specify disqualifying financial interest].

8. Defendant _____[name] knows or has reason to know that he/she has a financial interest in the above-described governmental decision.

[9. If plaintiff seeks an order setting aside the official action as void, add: Had defendant _____ (name) not participated in the above-described governmental decision, the resulting official action might not otherwise have been taken or approved in that _____ (specify reasons why different decision might have been reached but for defendant's participation).]

[10. If complaint previously filed with Fair Political Practices Commission, add: On or about _____ (date), plaintiff filed a complaint, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A and incorporated herein by reference, with the Fair Political Practices Commission, requesting that the commission act to restrain defendant _____ (name)'s participation in the above-described governmental decision. The commission has _____ (failed or refused) to act on the complaint attached hereto.]

11. This court is empowered under the provisions of Section 91003 of the Government Code to enjoin defendant _____[name]'s participation in the above-described governmental decision [and to set aside such decision as void].

12. Plaintiff has no adequate remedy of law for the injury threatened by defendant _____[name]'s above-described violations of Sections 87100 and 87103 of the Government Code in that _____[specify facts showing inadequacy of the legal remedy].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For a preliminary injunction enjoining defendant _____[name] from participation in _____[specify governmental decision] and restraining defendant _____[name] from executing any official action resulting from such decision pending judgment in this action;

2. For a permanent injunction enjoining defendant _____[name] from participation in _____[specify governmental decision].

[3. For an order setting aside as void the above-described official action in which defendant _____ (name) unlawfully participated;]

4. For costs of suit herein incurred, including reasonable attorney's fees; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

[Verification. See § 469.30.]

[2] Use of Form

This complaint may be submitted by a private plaintiff in an action brought under Gov. Code § 91003 to enjoin a public official from participating in or attempting to influence a governmental decision in which the official knows or should know he or she has a financial interest, in violation of Gov. Code §§ 87100 and 87103. This complaint may also be used to obtain an order setting aside as void any official action resulting from the defendant's unlawful participation in a governmental decision [see Paragraphs 9, 10].

[3] Related Use

Injunctive relief is also available under Gov. Code § 91003 to compel compliance with the disclosure provisions of Gov. Code §§ 87200-87210 or to enjoin violations of a Conflict of Interest Code established pursuant to Gov. Code §§ 87300-87313. With appropriate modification, this complaint may be used in such an action.

[4] Standing to Sue

Any person residing within the "jurisdiction" may sue for injunctive relief to enjoin violations of or to compel compliance with the provisions of the Political Reform Act of 1974 [Gov. Code § 81000 et seq.], including its conflicts-of-interest provisions [Gov. Code §§ 87100-87500; see Gov. Code § 91003(a)]. If the defendant is a state agency or official, a person residing within the state is a person residing within "the jurisdiction." If the defendant is a local government agency or official, a plaintiff has standing to sue if he or she resides within the region, county, city, district, or other geographical area in which such agency or official has jurisdiction [see Gov. Code § 82035].

[5] Notice to Fair Political Practices Commission When Filing

Within 10 days of filing a complaint, cross complaint, or other initial pleading in an action for injunctive relief under Gov. Code § 91003, or in an action for damages under Gov. Code § 91004 (violation of reporting requirements), 91005 (violation of restrictions on contributions, gifts, or expenditures, and conflict of interest violations), or 91005.5 (violations of selected provisions of the Political Reform Act of 1974 (Gov. Code § 81000 et seq.) for which no specific civil penalty is provided), either a copy of the initial pleading or a notice must be served on the Fair Political Practices Commission) [Gov. Code § 91007(b)].

The notice must contain (1) the full title and number of the case; (2) the court in which the case is pending; (3) the name and address of the attorney for the person filing the initial pleading; and (4) a statement that the case raises issues under the Political Reform Act of 1974 [Gov. Code § 91007(b)]. Failure to so notify the commission is not grounds for dismissal of the pleading [Gov. Code § 91007(c)].

[6] Limitations on Remedies

Gov. Code § 91000 et seq. provides a number of possible remedies for violations of the Political Reform Act of 1974, as does Gov. Code § 83100 et seq. (regarding enforcement by the Fair Political Practice Commission). Except as provided in Gov. Code §§ 87102.5, 87102.8 (making applicable the remedies provided for in Gov. Code § 83100 et seq. for violation of those sections), however, these remedies are not available for violations by an elected state officer of

Gov. Code, Title 9, ch. 7. art. 1 (commencing with Gov. Code § 87100 (regarding unlawful participation by public officer in governmental decision in which officer has financial interest) [Gov. Code §§ 87102, 87102.8(d)]. Thus, under Gov. Code § 87102, an action under Gov. Code § 91003 may not be brought against an elected state officer for violations of Gov. Code §§ 87100-87103. However, the limitation on remedies provided for in Gov. Code § 87102 apparently does not apply to violations of the disclosure provisions of Gov. Code §§ 87200-87210 or of a Conflict of Interest Code established pursuant to Gov. Code §§ 87300-87313.

[7] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedy

The court may in its discretion require any plaintiff (other than the Fair Political Practices Commission) to file a complaint with the Fair Political Practices Commission prior to seeking injunctive relief [Gov. Code § 91003(a)]. Counsel should therefore allege the filing of such a complaint in the complaint for injunctive relief if a complaint has in fact been filed with the Commission [see Paragraph 10].

[8] Setting Aside Official Action; Preliminary Injunctions

In addition to enjoining a public official from unlawfully participating in a governmental decision in which he or she has a financial interest, the court may also order that any official action resulting from such participation be set aside as void, if the court finds that such action might not have been taken or approved but for the defendant's unlawful participation in the decision [see Gov. Code § 91003(b)]. The court may set aside orders, permits, resolutions, contracts, and other official actions, but not any enactment of state legislation [see Gov. Code § 91003(b)]. On a preliminary showing that a violation of Gov. Code §§ 87100 and 87103 has occurred, the court may restrain the execution of any official action in relation to which the violation occurred pending final adjudication [Gov. Code § 91003(b)]. For further discussion of the scope of preliminary or permanent relief under Gov. Code § 91003(b), see § 469.13.

[9] Attorney's Fees and Posting of Bond

The court may award costs, including reasonable attorney's fees, to the prevailing party in an action brought under Gov. Code § 91003 [Gov. Code § 91003(a); see also Gov. Code § 91012]. Counsel should note that Gov. Code § 91012 which provides for an award of attorney's fees in any one of the several actions authorized by the Political Reform Act of 1974, excludes public agencies from its coverage [see Dunn v. Jurupa Unified School Dist. (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 957, 960-961, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 529 (although agency precluded from recovering its costs and attorney fees under Gov. Code. § 91012, that section does not prohibit individual school board member from recovering costs including attorney fees even though agency provides individual's defense; thus, individual member of school board entitled to security posting under Gov. Code § 91012 even though agency provided defense)]. By contrast, Gov. Code § 91003(a), which explicitly provides for an award of attorney's fees in an action brought under that section, contains no such exclusion. It therefore appears that a public agency that prevails in an action brought under Gov. Code § 91003 may be awarded attorney's fees.

Prevailing defendants in actions under the Political Reform Act may only be awarded attorney's fees if the suit against them was frivolous, unreasonable, or without foundation [Community Cause v. Boatwright (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 562, 575-576, 240 Cal. Rptr. 794 ; People v. Roger Hedgecock for Mayor Com. (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 810, 815, 228 Cal. Rptr. 424] . For additional discussion and forms pertaining to costs and attorney's fees, see Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees .

A plaintiff who seeks provisional injunctive relief must be prepared to furnish an undertaking to secure the defendant against injury, if any occurs, in the event the court finally decides that the plaintiff was not entitled to provisional relief [see Code Civ. Proc. § 529; Gov. Code § 91012 (bond for costs)].

[10] Verification

If provisional injunctive relief is sought, the complaint should be verified [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527]. Otherwise, verification of the complaint is not required, and verification of the complaint will not require a public entity or public officer sued in his or her official capacity to verify the answer [see Code Civ. Proc. § 446]. The verification of a complaint against a public entity or officer does, however, preclude a general denial in an unlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)].

[11] Cross References

For discussion of the procedure regarding the recall of an elected official, see Ch. 302, Initiative, Referendum, and Recall

For a discussion and forms relating to other aspects of the Political Reform Act of 1974, see Ch. 243, Elections

For a general discussion of and forms relating to injunctions generally, see Ch. 303, Injunctions

State Statutes

Injunctive relief. Civ. Code §§ 3420-3423; Code Civ. Proc. § 525 et. seq.

Public official as prohibited from participating in governmental decision in which he or she has financial interest. Gov. Code § 87100

Exception if official's participation legally necessary in making decision. Gov. Code § 87101

Definition of financial interest. Gov. Code §§ 87103, 87103.5

Actions to enjoin violations of Political Reform Act of 1974. Gov. Code § 91003

Costs, attorney's fees. Gov. Code § 91003(a)

Requirement of service of copy of initial pleading, or notice as specified, on Fair Political Practices Commission within 10 days of filing action under Gov. Code § 91003, 91004, 91005, or 91005.5. Gov. Code § 91007(b)

Decisions

Precedents under Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5 as persuasive in aiding interpretation of Gov. Code § 91003 in awarding attorney's fees, especially because Political Reform Act of 1974 expressly encourages enforcement by private citizen suits. Downey Cares v. Downey Community Development Com. (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 983, 996, 242 Cal. Rptr. 272

In calculation of attorney's fees awards under Gov. Code § 91003, California case law interpreting common law "private attorney general" doctrine and Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5 (attorney's fees awards in public interest cases) as mandating trial court (1) to determine "lodestar" or "touchstone" figure (product of number of hours worked by counsel and reasonable fee per hour), and (2) to exercise discretion to increase or reduce lodestar figure by applying positive or negative multiplier based on specified factors. Downey Cares v. Downey Community Development Com. (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 983, 994, 242 Cal. Rptr. 272

Plaintiff who loses action at trial for damages under Gov. Code § 91004 because defendant's violations of Political Reform Act of 1974 were inadvertent as not permitted to argue for first time on appeal that trial court should at least have granted injunction under Gov. Code § 91003. Community Cause v. Boatwright (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 562, 573

n.4, 240 Cal. Rptr. 794

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 40: Products Liability thru Public Entities and Officers-Chs. 460-469
Chapter 469 PUBLIC ENTITIES AND OFFICERS: CONFLICTS OF INTEREST
PART IV. FORMS

40-469 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 469.32

§ 469.32 Complaint by Individual Plaintiff Against Public Official for Three Times Amount of Benefit Resulting From Violation of Conflict of Interest Code Disqualification Provision [Gov. Code § 91005(b)]--General Form

[1] FORM Complaint by Individual Plaintiff Against Public Official for Three Times Amount of Benefit Resulting From Violation of Conflict of Interest Code Disqualification Provision [Gov. Code § 91005(b)]--General Form

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name], Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT TO RECOVER PENALTY
_____ [name], Defendant.	)	(Violation of Conflict of Interest Code Disqualification Provision)
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)	[Amount Demanded _____ (Exceeds or Does Not Exceed) $10,000]

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff resides in _____[city], _____ County, California.

2. Defendant _____[name] is _____[specify official governmental position, e.g., a member of the Board of Supervisors of Canyon County].

3. Plaintiff's residence is within the jurisdiction of _____[specify, e.g., the Board of Supervisors of Canyon County].

4. On or about _____[date], defendant _____[name], acting in his/her official capacity as _____[specify official position as in Paragraph 2, above] _____[participated or failed to disqualify himself/herself from participation] in a decision [by _____ (specify government agency, if applicable, e.g., Board of Supervisors of Canyon County)] _____[set forth governmental decision, e.g., to let a contract for the building of a county road to XX Road Building Company].

5. _____[Cite applicable Conflict of Interest Code section, e.g., Canyon County Board of Supervisors Conflict of Interest Code, Section A], a provision of a Conflict of Interest Code enacted pursuant to Title 9, Chapter 7, Article 3 (commencing with Section 87300) of the Government Code provides that _____[set forth applicable provisions of Conflict of Interest Code provision, e.g., no supervisor of this county shall participate in or attempt to influence in any way a decision by the Board of Supervisors to let a contract for the construction or operation of any county facility if that supervisor has any financial interest in any party to such contract with the county].

6. Defendant _____[name] is disqualified from participation in the above-described governmental decision under the provisions of _____[cite applicable Conflict of Interest Code section as in Paragraph 5, above] in that _____ [specify disqualifying interest, e.g., defendant _____ (name) owns two-thirds of the outstanding shares of the above-mentioned XX Road Building Company].

7. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that defendant _____[name] has realized an economic benefit of $_____ as a direct result of the above-described _____[governmental decision or action].

8. On or about _____[date], plaintiff filed with _____[specify the appropriate civil prosecutor under Gov. Code § 91001(b), e.g., the District Attorney of Canyon County] a written request that this action be commenced. A copy of that request is attached as Exhibit A, and incorporated herein by reference.
_____

9. The _____[specify title of civil prosecutor, e.g., City Attorney] _____ [responded on _____ (date), that he/she did not intend to file a civil action or responded on _____ (date), that he/she intended to file a civil action but failed to file a civil action within 120 days from receipt of plaintiff's request or failed to respond within 120 days from receipt of plaintiff's request or filed a civil action entitled _____ vs. _____ (specify title), No. _____, on _____ (date), in _____ (specify court), which was dismissed without prejudice to any other action for failure to proceed diligently and in good faith]. [A copy of the response to plaintiff's request is attached as Exhibit B and made a part hereof.]

10. Under the provisions of Section 91005(b), of the Government Code, defendant is liable to plaintiff for an amount up to three times the value of the economic benefit derived from his/her participation in the above-described governmental decision in violation of the provisions of _____[specify applicable Conflict of Interest Code section as in Paragraph 5, above].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For the sum of $_____, such amount being three times the value of the economic benefit derived by defendant _____[name] from his/her unlawful participation in the above-described governmental decision;

2. For an order that 50 percent of the above amount be paid to plaintiff pursuant to Section 91009 of the Government

Code, the remaining 50 percent to be deposited in the General Fund of the State of California;

3. For costs of suit herein incurred, including reasonable attorney's fees; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

[Verification, if desired. See § 469.30.]

[2] Use of Form

This complaint may be submitted by a private plaintiff in an action brought under Gov. Code § 91005(b) against a public official to recover three times the amount of the economic benefit derived by the official from his or her violation of a disqualification provision of a Conflict of Interest Code.

[3] Standing to Sue

An action to recover three times the amount of the economic benefit derived by a public official from his or her violation of a Conflict of Interest Code may be brought by a person residing within "the jurisdiction" [see Gov. Code § 91005(b); see also § 469.13]. If the defendant is a state official (except an elected state officer, see Gov. Code § 91005(b)), the action may be brought by a resident of the state. If the defendant is a local government official, the plaintiff must reside within the region, county, city, district or other geographical area in which such official has jurisdiction [see Gov. Code § 82035].

[4] Prerequisite to Private Individual Filing Civil Action

Before filing a civil action under Gov. Code § 91005(b), a person must file with the appropriate civil prosecutor [see Gov. Code § 91001(b)] a written request for the civil prosecutor to commence the action. The request must include a statement of the grounds for believing a cause of action exists [Gov. Code § 91007(a)]. The civil prosecutor must respond in writing, indicating whether he or she intends to file a civil action [Gov. Code § 91007(a)].

If the civil prosecutor responds in the affirmative and files suit within 120 days from receipt of the written request to commence the action, no other action may be brought unless the action brought by the civil prosecutor is dismissed without prejudice [Gov. Code § 91007(a)(1)].

If the civil prosecutor responds in the negative or fails to respond within 120 days from receipt of the written request to commence the action, the person requesting the action may proceed to file a civil action [Gov. Code § 91007(a)(2)].

The time period within which a civil action must be commenced, as set forth in Gov. Code § 91011, is tolled from the date of receipt by the civil prosecutor of the written request to either the date the civil action is dismissed without prejudice, or the date of receipt by the person of the negative response from the civil prosecutor, but only for a civil action brought by the person who requested the civil prosecutor to commence the action [Gov. Code § 91700(a)(3)].

[5] Limitation on Number of Actions Pertaining to Single Violation

Not more than one judgment on the merits with respect to any single violation may be obtained under Gov. Code §

91005(b). Actions brought for the same violation have precedence for purposes of trial in order of the time filed. Such actions must be dismissed once judgment has been entered or a settlement has been approved by the court in a previously filed action. The court may dismiss a pending action without prejudice to any other action for failure of the plaintiff to proceed diligently and in good faith [Gov. Code § 91008].

[6] Determination and Disposition of Award

In determining the amount of liability in an action brought under Gov. Code § 91005(b), the court may take into account the seriousness of the violation and the degree of culpability of the defendant [Gov. Code § 91009]. If judgment is entered against a defendant in such an action, the plaintiff is entitled to receive 50 percent of the amount recovered. The remaining 50 percent must be deposited in the General Fund of the state. If the plaintiff is the civil prosecutor, the entire amount recovered must be paid to the general fund or treasury of the appropriate jurisdiction [Gov. Code § 91009].

[7] Attorney's Fees and Posting of Bond

The court may award costs of litigation, including reasonable attorney's fees, to the prevailing party, other than a public agency, in an action brought under Gov. Code § 91005(b) [see Gov. Code § 91012]. However, prevailing defendants in actions under the Political Reform Act of 1974 [Gov. Code § 81000 et seq.] may be awarded attorney's fees only if the suit against them was frivolous, unreasonable, or without foundation [Community Cause v. Boatwright (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 562, 575-576, 240 Cal. Rptr. 794 ; People v. Roger Hedgecock for Mayor Com. (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 810, 815, 228 Cal. Rptr. 424] .

Although Gov. Code § 91012 precludes an agency from recovering its costs and attorney fees, there is no such express exclusion for individual officials. Neither is there any provision that individual governmental officials are entitled to an award of costs, including attorney fees, only when they have personally incurred such expenses. Accordingly, Gov. Code § 91012 does not prohibit an individual school board member from recovering costs, including attorney fees, even though the agency is providing the individual's defense [Dunn v. Jurupa Unified School Dist. (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 957, 960-961, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 529] .

On motion of any party, the court must require a private plaintiff to post a bond in a reasonable amount at any stage of the litigation to guarantee payment of costs [Gov. Code § 91012; see Dunn v. Jurupa Unified School Dist. (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 957, 960-961, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 529 (although provision of security for payment of costs under Gov. Code § 91012 could not be ordered in favor of agency, individual member of school board entitled to security posting under § 91012 even though agency provided defense)]. This provision has been interpreted to require a hearing at which the trial court may make a determination of the probable merit of the lawsuit, and set the amount of the undertaking to take into account both the reasonable costs to the defendant of the lawsuit and the probability that the lawsuit will be successful [Rhodes v. Sup. Ct. (1979) 90 Cal. App. 3d 484, 489, 153 Cal. Rptr. 495] . Interpreted in this manner, the provision does not offend due process [Rhodes v. Sup. Ct. (1979) 90 Cal. App. 3d 484, 489, 153 Cal. Rptr. 495] . Moreover, nothing in Gov. Code § 91012 requires the trial court to take the plaintiff's means into consideration in determining whether to require a bond [Dunn v. Jurupa Unified School Dist. (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 957, 963, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 529] .

[8] Verification

Verification of the complaint is not required, and verification of the complaint will not require a public entity or public officer sued in his or her official capacity to verify the answer. If the action is not considered to be against a public officer in his or her official capacity, verification of the complaint will require verification of the answer [see Code Civ. Proc. § 446]. The verification of a complaint against a public entity or officer does, however, preclude a general denial in an unlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)].

[9] Cross References

For a form of complaint against a public official to recover for violations of reporting requirements of the Political Reform Act of 1974, see Ch. 242, Election Campaigns

State Statutes

Conflict of Interest Codes. Gov. Code §§ 87300-87313

Civil action to recover three times amount of economic benefit derived by public official from violation of Conflict of Interest Code disqualification provision. Gov. Code § 91005(b)

Civil action for up to $5,000 as authorized for violation of any provision of Political Reform Act of 1974 (Gov. Code § 81000 et seq.) in which no specific penalty is provided, except for Gov. Code §§ 84305 (mass mailings), 84307 (commingling), 89001 (mailings by incumbent); but no civil action if prosecutor is maintaining criminal action. Gov. Code § 91005.5

Written request to civil prosecutor to commence action as prerequisite to filing of civil action under Gov. Code § 91005 by private plaintiff. Gov. Code § 91007(a)

Limitation on number and precedence of civil actions for single violation. Gov. Code § 91008

Determination of amount and disposition of award in action under Gov. Code § 91005. Gov. Code § 91009

Costs and attorney's fees. Gov. Code § 91012

Private plaintiff required to file bond in certain instances. Gov. Code § 91012

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 470.syn

§ 470.syn Synopsis to Chapter 470: OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

§ 470.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 470.02 Cross References

[1] Public Administrative Law Generally

[2] Specific Public Agencies

[3] Judicial Remedies, Procedures, and Review

[4] Other Chapters Relating to Public Agencies

[5] Other Matthew Bender Publications

§§ 470.03-470.09 [Reserved]

§ 470.10 Governing Law

[1] Nature of Administrative Law

[2] Sources of Administrative Law

§ 470.11 Agency Adjudication and Rulemaking Under the California Administrative Procedure Act

[1] Attorney Representation

[2] Agency Adjudication

[3] Agency Rulemaking

§ 470.12 Creation and Powers of Agencies

[1] Statutory Agencies

[a] Legislative Authority to Create and Empower Agencies

[b] Delegation of Legislative Power to Agencies

[c] Delegation of Judicial and Executive Powers to Agencies

[2] Initiative Agencies

[a] Nature of Initiative Power

[b] Creation of Agencies by Initiative

[c] Use of Constitutional Initiatives to Enlarge or Limit Agency Powers

[3] Constitutional or "Independent" Agencies

[4] Agency Structure

[a] Nature of Administrative Agencies

[b] Departments, Divisions, and Bureaus

[c] Corporate and Quasi-Corporate Entities

[d] Institutions

[e] Advisory Boards

[5] Administrative Powers

[a] Introduction

[b] Legislative Power

[c] Executive Power

[d] Judicial Power

[e] Constitutional Limits on Administrative Power

[i] Restraints on Enforcement of Unconstitutional Law

[ii] Restraints Based on Equal Protection and Due Process Requirements

[f] Effects of Combined Powers

[6] Separation of Powers Doctrine

[a] Judicial and Legislative Powers

[b] Unconstitutional Statutes

[7] Delegation of Legislative Powers

[a] Delegation Authorized by the Constitution

[b] Discretionary Delegation of All but Fundamental Policy Decisions

[c] Determining When Decision Involves Fundamental Policy

[d] Standards and Safeguards for Delegated Legislative Powers

[e] Discretionary Delegation of Legislative Power to Constitutional Agencies

[8] Establishment of New State Agencies

[9] Local Agencies

[10] Administrative Procedures in General

§ 470.13 Delegation of Administrative Powers

[1] Nature of Delegation

[2] Discretionary or Judgmental Functions

[a] Delegation Generally Prohibited

[b] Exception When Delegation Authorized

[c] Ratification of Unauthorized Delegation

[d] Determining Fitness of License Applicants

[e] Public Members of Regulatory Agencies

[3] Ministerial Functions

[4] Distinguishing Ministerial and Discretionary Functions

[5] Validity of Purported Delegation

[a] Source of Power

[b] Nature of Administrative Function

[c] Balancing of Interests

[d] Qualifications of Delegate

[e] Delegate Outside Government

[f] Nature of Delegated Power

[g] Procedure

[6] Statutory Authorization to Delegate

[a] Delegation to Deputy

[b] Delegation to Administrative Law Judge

[c] Delegation by Head of Department

[7] Statutory Prohibition Against Delegation

[a] Regulatory Agencies

[b] Medi-Cal Act Administration

[c] Medical Board of California and Committees

[d] Local Appraisal Commissions

[e] Pooled Money Investment Board

[f] Youthful Offender Parole Board

[8] Joint-Powers Agreements

§ 470.14 Internal Administration

[1] Authority of Department Head

[2] Appointment of Personnel

[3] Departmental Offices

[4] Fees

[5] Legal Counsel

[6] Office Hours

[7] Performance Bonds

[8] State Government Reorganization

§ 470.15 Validating Acts

[1] Purpose

[2] Agencies and Public Bodies Covered

[3] Operative Provisions

[a] Title of Act

[b] Validation of Organization

[c] Confirmation of Rights, Powers, and Duties

[d] Establishment of Boundaries

[e] Validation of Proceedings for Territorial Changes

[f] Validation of Proceedings for Bond Issues

[4] Saving Clauses

[5] Period of Limitation for Legal Challenges

[6] Condition of Validation of Boundary Changes for Tax Purposes

[7] Effective Date and Time References

§ 470.16 Limits on Agency Power

[1] The Constitutional Supremacy Clause and Federal Preemption Doctrine

[a] Nature of the Doctrine

[b] Dual Regulation by State and Federal Agencies

[i] Federal Delegation of Jurisdiction to State

[ii] Approved State Plan Approach

[2] Individual Constitutional Rights

[a] Privacy

[b] Freedom of Speech and the Press

[c] Religion

[d] Due Process

[e] Equal Protection

[f] Protection From Unreasonable Search and Seizure

[3] Constitutional Separation of Powers Limits and the Role of the Judiciary

[4] Limits Imposed by the California APA

[5] Limits on Remedies Available Through Administrative Adjudication

[a] Damages

[b] Injunctive Relief

[c] Criminal Enforcement

§ 470.17 Functioning of Agencies

[1] Scope of Agency Functions

[2] Delegation of Duties by Agencies

§ 470.18 Types of Agencies

[1] Five Categories

[2] Regulatory Agencies

[a] Nature of Regulatory Agencies

[b] The Public Utilities Commission

[c] The State Board of Education

[d] Regulatory Agencies Within Business, Transportation, and Housing Agency

[3] Rate Making Agencies

[4] Licensing Agencies

[a] Nature of Licensing Agencies

[b] The Department of Consumer Affairs

[5] Social Welfare and Entitlement Agencies

[6] Permitting Agencies

§ 470.19 Agency Structure Within Executive Branch

[1] Purpose and Function of Executive Branch Agencies

[2] The Governor's Role

[a] Duties

[b] Significance of Governor's Appointment Powers

[3] Other Executive Officers

[4] Major Agencies Within the Executive Branch

[a] The Seven Major Agencies

[b] Divisions of the Major Agencies

[c] Control of the Divisions

[5] Independent Agencies Within Executive Branch

§ 470.20 Placement of Administrative Agencies Within California Executive Branch

[1] Listing of Most Agencies

[2] State and Consumer Services Agency

[3] Business, Transportation, and Housing Agency

[4] California Health and Human Services Agency

[5] Resources Agency

[6] Youth and Adult Correction Agency

[7] Independent Agencies

§§ 470.21-470.29 [Reserved]

§ 470.30 Federal Constitution

§ 470.31 State Constitution

[1] Agencies Created by Constitutional Provision

[2] Agencies Having Legislative Power Granted Directly by Constitutional Provision

[3] Agencies Mandated by Constitutional Provision

[4] Agencies Recognized by Constitutional Provision

[5] Agencies to Which Legislature May Delegate Legislative Power

[6] Agencies Having Limited Judicial Power Directly Granted by Constitutional Provision

[7] Agencies in Which Legislature May Vest Limited Judicial Power

[8] Departments Recognized by Constitutional Provision

[9] General Provisions

§ 470.32 State Statutes

[1] General Provisions

[2] Delegation of Powers

[a] Delegation by Head of Department

[b] Delegation by Particular Agencies and Officers

[c] Other Delegations

[3] Internal Administration

[4] Initiative Measures Creating Agencies

[5] Restrictions on Post Government Employment Representation

§ 470.33 Decisions

[1] Generally

[2] Administrative Powers

[a] Limits on Agency Action

[b] Agency Interpretation of Statute

[c] Judicial Powers

[d] Constitutional Limits

[e] Conflicts

[f] Effect of Combined Powers

[g] Separation of Powers Doctrine

[3] Administrative Regulations

[4] Delegation of Administrative Powers

[a] Limits on Powers

[b] Delegation of Discretionary Powers

[c] Ministerial and Discretionary Functions

[d] Qualifications of Delegate

[e] Validity of Purported Delegation

[5] Delegation of Legislative Power

[6] Delegation of Judicial Powers

§ 470.34 Attorney General Opinions

§ 470.35 Law Reviews

§ 470.36 Text References

§ 470.37 Internet References

§§ 470.38-470.49 [Reserved]

§ 470.50 Scope of Appendix

§ 470.51 California Architects Board

§ 470.52 Board of Chiropractic Examiners

§ 470.53 Dental Board of California

§ 470.54 Board of Podiatric Medicine

§ 470.55 Boards of Psychology

§ 470.56 Board of Registered Nursing

§ 470.57 Board of Vocational Nursing and Psychiatric Technicians

§ 470.58 Bureau of Automotive Repair

§ 470.59 Bureau of Electronic and Appliance Repair, Home Furnishings, and Thermal Insulation

§ 470.60 Bureau of Security and Investigative Services

§ 470.61 California Horse Racing Board

§ 470.62 California State Board of Pharmacy

§ 470.63 Commission on Teacher Credentialing

§ 470.64 Contractor's State License Board

§ 470.65 Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control and Alcoholic Beverage Control Appeals Board

§ 470.66 Department of Motor Vehicles

§ 470.67 Department of Real Estate

§ 470.68 Medical Board of California

§ 470.69 New Motor Vehicle Board

§ 470.70 Office of Real Estate Appraisers

§ 470.71 Osteopathic Medical Board

§ 470.72 Physical Therapy Board

§ 470.73 Physician Assistant Committee

§ 470.74 Speech Language Pathology and Audiology Examining Committee

§ 470.75 State Bar of California

§ 470.76 California Board of Accountancy

§ 470.77 State Board of Registration for Geologists and Geophysicists

§ 470.78 State Board of Registration for Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors

§ 470.79 Structural Pest Control Board

§ 470.80 Veterinary Medical Board

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART I. SCOPE

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.01

§ 470.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses the following topics as an overview of California public administrative law:

- The nature of California administrative law and basic distinctions between rulemaking and adjudication [see §§ 470.10, 470.11].
- The creation and powers of California administrative agencies [see §§ 470.12, 470.13].
- Internal administration of agencies and validating acts [see §§ 470.14, 470.15].
- Limits on agency powers and functioning of agencies [see §§ 470.16, 470.17].
- Types of agencies, agency structure, and placement of agencies within the executive branch in California state government [see §§ 470.18 -470.20].

The Appendix, set out in Part IV [see § 470.50 et seq.] provides a brief summary of general information for many of the state's licensing agencies.

For the structure and scope of the remaining chapters on Public Administrative Law, Ch. 470A, Due Process Restrictions on Agencies, through Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions, see § 470.02[1].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART I. SCOPE

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.02

§ 470.02 Cross References

[1] Public Administrative Law Generally

For detailed discussion of the limits on agency powers and functioning imposed by procedural due process requirements, see Ch. 470A, Due Process Restrictions on Public Agencies .

For discussion and forms relating to the law governing access to and conduct of meetings by California public agencies, see Ch. 470B, Public Agency Meetings .

For detailed discussion and forms relating to the law governing disclosure of public records under the California Public Records Act [Cal. Gov. Code §§ 6250 et seq.], see Ch. 470C, Public Records Act .

For detailed discussion and forms relating generally to executive functions of California public agencies, including judicial review of these functions, see:

- Ch. 471, Investigations by Public Agencies.
- Ch. 471A, Inspections by Public Agencies.
- Ch. 471B, Licensing by Public Agencies.

For detailed discussion and forms relating generally to the legislative or rulemaking functions of California public agencies, including judicial review of these functions, see:

- Ch. 472, Public Agency Rules.
- Ch. 472A, Agency Rulemaking Procedures.
- Ch. 472B, Review of Agency Rulemaking.

For detailed discussion and forms relating generally to the judicial or adjudicatory functions of California public agencies, see:

- Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication.
- Ch. 473A, Commencing Agency Adjudication.
- Ch. 473B, Discovery in Agency Adjudications.
- Ch. 473C, Prehearing Procedures in Agency Adjudications.
- Ch. 473D, Prehearing Preparations in Agency Adjudications.
- Ch. 473E, Public Administrative Law Judges.
- Ch. 473F, Agency Adjudication Hearings.
- Ch. 473G, Agency Adjudication Decisions.
- Ch. 473H, Alternative Procedures for Agency Decisions.

Note that Ch. 471B, Licensing by Public Agencies, referred to above as dealing with executive functions of an agency, also covers licensing proceedings that are in essense adjudicatory functions, that is, proceedings to revoke, suspend, deny, or not renew a license.

For detailed discussion and forms relating generally to review by California courts of agency adjudications, see:

- Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions.
- Ch. 474A, Timing of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions.
- Ch. 474B, Standards in Reviewing Agency Decisions.
- Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions.

See also [5], below.

[2] Specific Public Agencies

For discussion and forms relating to proceedings before particular public agencies, see:

- Ch. 12, Adoptions: Nature and Effect, through Ch. 12E, Adoptions: Attack on Decree (discussion and forms relating to adoption proceedings, including proceedings before the Department of Social Services or other public or private agencies licensed by that department).
- Ch. 18, Alcoholic Beverage Licenses (discussion and forms relating to licensing proceedings before the department of Alcoholic Beverage Control).
- Ch. 56, Architects (discussion relating to licensing by State Board of Architectural Examiners).

- Ch. 70, Attorney Admission, and Ch. 71, Attorney Discipline (discussion and forms relating to licensing and discipline of attorneys and proceedings before the State Bar and the State Bar Court).

- Ch. 92, Automobiles: Drivers' Licenses (discussion and forms relating to drivers' licensing and proceedings before the Department of Motor Vehicles).

- Ch. 104, Building Contracts, § 104.70 et seq. (discussion relating to licensing and discipline of building contractors by the Contractors' State License Board).

- Ch. 118, Civil Service (discussion and forms relating to proceedings before the Personnel Board).

- Ch. 127, Consumer Contracts and Loans (discussion relating to the Department of Consumer Affairs).

- Ch. 209, Dentists (discussion and forms relating to licensing and discipline of dentists and proceedings before the Board of Dental Examiners).

- Ch. 214, Drugs and Pharmacists (discussion and forms relating to licensing and discipline of pharmacists and proceedings before the State Board of Pharmacy).

- Ch. 359, Marriage, § 359.40 et seq. (discussion and forms relating to marriage licensing by county clerks).

- Ch. 414, Physicians: Licensing and Discipline (discussion and forms relating to licensing and discipline of physicians and proceedings before the Medical Board of California).

- Ch. 418, Pollution and Environmental Matters (discussion relating to State Air Resources Board and local air pollution districts and State Water Resources Control Board).

- Ch. 462, Public Accountants (discussion relating to licensing and discipline of public accountants and proceeding before the State Board of Accountancy).

- Ch. 480, Public Utilities (discussion and forms relating to proceedings before the Public Utilities Commission).

- Ch. 511, Sanitation and Sewerage Districts (discussion and forms relating to proceedings or actions involving local sanitation and sewerage districts).

- Ch. 512, Schools: Certification, Dismissal, and Related Employment Issues (discussion and forms relating to teacher certification and dismissal proceedings before the State Board of Education and local boards).

- Ch. 527, Social Services (discussion and forms relating to proceedings before the State Department of Social Service or the State Department of Health Services).

- Ch. 564, Unemployment and Disability Insurance, § 564.30 et seq. and § 564.100 et seq. (discussion and forms relating to proceedings before the Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board).

- Ch. 575, Waters, § 575.10 et seq. and § 575.210 et seq. (discussion and forms relating to proceedings before the State Water Resources Control Board and local water districts).

- Ch. 577, Workers' Compensation (discussion and forms relating to proceedings before the Division of Workers' Compensation and the Workers' Compensation Appeals Board).

- Ch. 579, Zoning and Planning (discussion of local zoning and planning agencies, the Office of Planning and Research, and the California Coastal Commission).

[3] Judicial Remedies, Procedures, and Review

For discussion and forms relating to general judicial remedies that may be available in administrative actions or proceedings, see:

- Ch. 40, Appeal: An Overview, through Ch. 54, Appeal: California Supreme Court Review (discussion and forms relating to civil appeals).

- Ch. 182, Declaratory Relief (discussion and forms relating to action for declaration of rights of respective parties in unlitigated civil controversy).

- Ch. 292, Habeas Corpus (discussion and forms relating to review of contempt orders and other civil proceedings by extraordinary writ of habeas corpus).

- Ch. 303, Injunctions (discussion and forms relating to action to obtain immediate temporary restraint or permanent injunction to prevent harmful acts).

- Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition (discussion and forms relating to immediate judicial review of orders by extraordinary writ of mandate or prohibition).

- Ch. 492, Review (Certiorari), Writ of (discussion and forms relating to immediate judicial review of civil proceedings by extraordinary writ of review).

[4] Other Chapters Relating to Public Agencies

For discussion and forms relating to claims and actions under the California Tort Claims Act (Gov. Code §§ 810-820.21), for damages for injuries arising from the tortious conduct of public agencies or their officers and employees, see Ch. 464, Public Entities and Officers: California Tort Claims Act .

[5] Other Matthew Bender Publications

For forms for use in drafting memoranda in judicial proceedings to review a public agency decision, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 195, Public Administrative Law (Matthew Bender).

See also the following:

- Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation (Matthew Bender), for detailed discussion and forms relating to workers' compensation proceedings in California.

- Administrative Law (Matthew Bender), for detailed discussion of federal administrative law.

- Social Security Practice Guide (Matthew Bender), for detailed discussion and law relating to Social Security practice.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART I. SCOPE

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 470.03-470.09

[Reserved]

§§ 470.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.10

§ 470.10 Governing Law

[1] Nature of Administrative Law

California administrative law concerns the functioning of California state agencies and the regulation of persons and activities by those agencies. California agencies are government bodies created by the California Constitution [see § 470.12[3]], the Legislature [see § 470.12[1]], or the voters [see § 470.12[2]], and are responsible for regulating the practice of various businesses and professions within the state, managing the state resources, and overseeing state institutions.

Administrative law in California is designed to assure that the state's administrative agencies serve the people of the state with fairness and efficiency. Gov. Code § 54950 declares that "the public commissions, boards and councils and the other public agencies in this State exist to aid in the conduct of the people's business ... . The people of this State do not yield their sovereignty to the agencies which serve them" [Gov. Code § 54950].

Administrative law is the law governing agencies when they are carrying out executive (enforcement), legislative (rule making), or adjudicative responsibilities. Most administrative agencies are located in the Executive Branch [see, e.g., the Natural Resources Agency, Gov. Code § 12805]. In California, the executive branch is headed by the Governor of the State of California. Administrative law is the law of decision making by government agencies that are neither courts nor legislatures [see Gov. Code § 11340.9(a)]. State administrative law is often more complex than federal administrative law because there are multiple layers of legal requirements that apply to state and local government agencies. These agencies are governed by federal, state, and local legislation, as well as by state and federal constitutional guarantees.

[2] Sources of Administrative Law

In California, the functioning and powers of state agencies are governed primarily by five basic sources of law, the APA, agency enabling acts, the federal and state constitutions, agency regulations, and case law. These sources will be described briefly. The California Administrative Procedure Act, or APA [Gov. Code §§ 11340-11529] is a major source of administrative law. The APA [in this chapter, all references to the Administrative Procedure Act, or APA, are to this California state statute] provides the required procedures for California administrative agencies when those agencies adopt regulations [see Chs. 472, Public Agency Rules , 472 A, Agency Rulemaking Procedures, and 472B, Review of Agency Rulemaking], and when the agencies conduct adjudicative hearings [see Chs. 473- 473 H governing adjudication]. The APA includes four major chapters governing rule making [Ch. 3, Gov. Code §§ 11340-11361], the Office of Administrative Hearings [Ch. 4, Gov. Code §§ 11370-11380], general provisions for adjudication [Ch. 4.5, Gov. Code §§ 11400-11475.70], and formal hearings in adjudication [Ch. 5, Gov. Code §§ 11500-11529], respectively [see Gov. Code § 11370].

Another major source of law for agencies is statutes that are usually passed by the Legislature, but are sometimes passed by the voters, which create agencies and define the agencies duties and scope of powers. Many of these statutes are codified in the Business and Professions Code [Bus. & Prof. Code § 1000-1 et seq. (Chiropractic Act); and Bus. & Prof. Code § 5000 et seq. (Accountancy Act)]. Many statutes that deal with the environment are found in the Public Resources Code [see, e.g., Pub. Res. Code § 25200 (California Energy Commission)], and the Health & Safety Code [Health & Safety Code §§ 39500, 39510 (California Air Resources Board)]. An agency's governing legislation provides for the agencies powers and duties, as well as codifying the law that an agency is expected to enforce. For example, California administrative agencies that enforce environmental laws look to state statutes that have created those agencies [e.g., the California Coastal Act establishing the California Coastal Commission Pub. Res. Code § 30300 and Health & Safety Code § 39500 et seq., establishing the Air Resources Board]. Environmental agencies in California often have to enforce federal environmental laws, such as the California Air Resources Board's responsibility to implement provisions of the Federal Clean Air Act.

Another source of law is agency regulations. Most agency regulations are legislative in nature, and therefore prescribe additional legal requirements that must be complied with by the people and businesses regulated by that agency. However, some agency regulations codify procedures followed by the agency or contain interpretations of the governing statute. The Office of Administrative Law [Gov. Code § 11340.1] has primary responsibility for review of proposed regulations, and has a complete list of adopted regulations on its agency website [http://www.oal.ca.gov/]. Regulations are codified in the California Code of Regulations (CCR) [Gov. Code § 11344 (OAL has statutory responsibility for publication and updating of CCR)], which is organized into 28 Titles, by subject not agency. For example, the Titles in the CCR that are most relevant for environmental law are: Title 13, Motor Vehicles, Title 14, Natural Resources, Title 17, Public Health, Title 20, Public Utilities and Energy, Title 23, Waters, Title 26, Toxics, and Title 27, Environmental Protection. All of the titles of the CCR except Title 24, Building Standards, can be accessed at the following web address: http://ccr.oal.ca.gov/. Also, there is a separate list of California state agencies, at the same web site, that identifies the location of regulations promulgated by that agency. For example, the Air Resources Board entry lists regulations found in Title 13, Motor Vehicles, and Title 17, Public Health. There are search engines at the web site allowing one to search the entire CCR posted on the OAL web site. See Ch. 472, Public Agency Rules , for more discussion of rules and rulemaking.

Another source of administrative law is the U.S. and California Constitutions. California constitutional provisions create agencies [see, e.g., Cal. Const., art. VII, § 2 (State Personnel Board); see also § 470.12] or direct the Legislature to do so [see, e.g., Cal. Const., art. IX, § 7 (state and local boards of education), art. XX, § 22 (Alcoholic Beverage Control Act), see also discussion in § 470.12[1]]. The Due Process of Law provisions of the U.S. and California Constitutions require require agencies to provide notice and the opportunity to be heard before taking action in quasi-judicial (adjudicative) proceedings [see Ch. 470A, Due Process Restrictions on Public Agencies]. California's administrative agencies that enforce environmental laws look to the state constitution [see Cal. Const., art. X, § 2] regarding water resources [see Cal. Const., art. IV, § 20, which established the Fish and Game Commission].

A final source of administrative law is case law, consisting of appellate court decisions based on judicial review of administrative agency actions or rulings [see, e.g., Goldberg v. Kelly (1970) 397 U.S. 254, 262, 90 S. Ct. 1011, 25 L. Ed. 2d 287 (due process requirements in welfare benefits determinations); Newland v. Board of Governors (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 705, 711, 139 Cal. Rptr. 620, 566 P.2d 254 (unconstitutionality of applying statute requiring certificate of rehabilitation to teacher convicted of misdemeanor as condition of being granted community college teaching credential); Horn v. County of Ventura (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 605, 156 Cal. Rptr. 718, 596 P.2d 1134 (property owner had due process right to notice and opportunity to be heard before county approved tentative subdivision map allowing development of land next to owner's land); Cooper v. Swoap (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 856, 864, 115 Cal. Rptr. 1, 524 P.2d 97 , cert. denied, 419 U.S. 1022 (permissible scope of agency regulations)]. For more discussion of the role of the courts in determining the legality of agency action, see Ch. 474, Judicial Review of Agency Decisions .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.11

§ 470.11 Agency Adjudication and Rulemaking Under the California Administrative Procedure Act

[1] Attorney Representation

The practice of administrative law usually focuses on representation before internal agency tribunals and procedures, rather than representation in courts that apply the regular rules of civil (or criminal) procedure [see Taylor v. Bureau of Private Investigators (1954) 128 Cal. App. 2d 219, 229, 275 P.2d 579 (court rules of pleading and practice not applicable to administrative proceedings)]. Of course, some administrative law attorneys specialize in appeals or proceedings brought under administrative mandamus [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , et seq.]. These attorneys present their appellate cases in the civil court system. Attorneys are often involved in administrative law as advocates for persons whose professional qualifications or right to practice their profession are called into question by the agency regulating that profession. For example, an attorney may represent an applicant for licensure as a contractor whose application has been denied by the Contractors' State License Board because the applicant allegedly made false statements in his or her license application [Bus. & Prof. Code § 480(c)], or a physician who is facing license revocation proceedings or other disciplinary action by the Medical Board of California for alleged unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2234; for discussion and forms relating to licensing and discipline of physicians, see Ch. 414, Physicians: Licensing and Discipline].

Attorneys may also be involved in administrative law at the regulatory level for the purpose of advising an agency or other interested party concerning proposed regulations or challenging the validity of proposed or existing regulations [see [3], below].

[2] Agency Adjudication

Agency adjudicatory proceedings are civil in nature [Molina v. Munro (1956) 145 Cal. App. 2d 601, 606, 302 P.2d 818] , and are similar, but not identical, to civil trial procedures. Most state agencies are required to perform their judicial or adjudicatory function by conducting proceedings in accordance with the provisions of the California Administrative Procedure Act, or APA (Gov. Code § 11340 et seq.).

The California APA's administrative adjudication provisions were revised, operative July 1, 1997. Chapters 4.5 and 5 of the new act, titled and cited respectively as Administrative Adjudication: General Provisions (Gov. Code § 11400 et seq.

) and Administrative Adjudication: Formal Hearing (Gov. Code § 11500 et seq.), cover all aspects of formal hearings in administrative adjudication, including:

- Pleadings (in administrative proceedings known as accusations or statements of facts) [see Gov. Code §§ 11503-11507; see also Ch. 473A, Commencing Agency Adjudication].

- Discovery [see Gov. Code §§ 11507.5-11507.7, 11511; see also Ch. 473B, Discovery in Agency Adjudications].

- Hearings [see Gov. Code §§ 11508-11509, 11512-11516; see also Ch. 473F, Agency Adjudication Hearings].

- Judicial review of the administrative decision [see Gov. Code § 11523; see also Ch. 474, Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , et seq.].

Hearings are conducted before an agency tribunal, hearing officer, or an administrative law judge (ALJ) from the Office of Administrative Hearings (OAH) [see Gov. Code §§ 11502, 11512 (procedures for California APA agencies)]. ALJ's are appointed by the director of the OAH [Gov. Code §§ 11370.3, 11502; see Ch. 473E, Public Administrative Law Judges].

For detailed discussion and forms relating to agency adjudicatory proceedings, see Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication , et seq.

[3] Agency Rulemaking

Most agencies perform their legislative or rulemaking function by promulgating regulations in accordance with provisions of the California APA [Gov. Code § 11346]. Rulemaking procedures of the APA are set out in Gov. Code §§ 11346-11347.3. Generally, the rulemaking provisions of the APA require agencies to give public notice of most proposed regulatory changes and to provide a forum for receiving public comments on the proposed changes [Gov. Code §§ 11346.4(a), 11346.8].

In addition, the APA requires that proposed regulatory changes be submitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) [Gov. Code § 11343(a)]. The OAL reviews regulations for necessity, authority, clarity, consistency, reference, and nonduplication [Gov. Code §§ 11340.2, 11349.1, 11349.3; see also Gov. Code § 11349 ("necessity," "authority," etc., defined)]. The OAL does not, however, substitute its judgment regarding the substantive content of regulations for that of the regulating agency [Gov. Code § 11340.1].

For a detailed discussion and forms generally to the adoption of regulations under the APA, and challenges to regulations, see Ch. 472, Public Agency Rules , et seq.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.12

§ 470.12 Creation and Powers of Agencies

[1] Statutory Agencies

[a] Legislative Authority to Create and Empower Agencies

A majority of California's administrative agencies are created by statute [see, e.g., Bus. & Prof. Code § 100 (establishing the Department of Consumer Affairs)]. The Legislature's main function is to declare and implement, or provide for the implementation of, public policies and purposes [Fishman v. City of Palo Alto (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 506, 509, 150 Cal. Rptr. 326] . It may generally use whatever methods it chooses to fulfill this function [Allied Architects' Asso. v. Payne (1923) 192 Cal. 431, 435, 221 P. 209] . One of the most common methods is passing a statute to create an agency, giving it the power to regulate occupations for protection of the general public [Whitcomb v. Emerson (1941) 46 Cal. App. 2d 263, 275, 115 P.2d 892] .

Although the Legislature has plenary power to declare and implement laws, this power is subject to express or implied limits in the Constitution [Dean v. Kuchel (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 97, 104, 230 P.2d 811] . Thus, when the Legislature creates a licensing requirement for the practice of a specific profession with an agency to implement this requirement, it must balance its interest in protecting the public from incompetent or dishonest practitioners with the constitutional rights of individuals to pursue businesses and occupations [In re Porterfield (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 91, 103, 168 P.2d 706 ; see U.S. Const., amend. I; Cal. Const., art. I, §§ 1, 3 (free speech and association rights)]. Another constitutional limitation is that any licensing law that offends the equal protection guarantees of the United States or California constitutions (U.S. Const., amend. XIV, § 1; Cal. Const., art. I, § 7) is not enforceable [Avery v. Midland County (1968) 390 U.S. 474, 479-480, 88 S. Ct. 1114, 20 L. Ed. 2d 45] .

This legislative power is not just limited to the creation of an agency. The Legislature also may revoke powers that it has previously granted to an agency; in addition, it may terminate the existence of a legislatively created agency [Cal. Const., art. I, § 7(b)].

[b] Delegation of Legislative Power to Agencies

When the Legislature passes an enabling act that creates an administrative agency, the Legislature is delegating to the agency its power to implement particular public policies. For this delegation of power to be permissible the enabling act must:

- Contain adequate standards for implementing the legislative policies and for exercising administrative decisionmaking [CEEED v. California Coastal Zone Conservation Com. (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 306, 326, 118 Cal. Rptr. 315 (Legislature established conditions that must be satisfied for Commission to issue permits)]. If the act does not specify legislative standards, courts may infer them [County of Kern v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 418, 422, 166 Cal. Rptr. 506] .

- Contain appropriate procedural safeguards for the agency's exercise of its rulemaking function [Salmon Trollers Marketing Assn. v. Fullerton (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 291, 299, 177 Cal. Rptr. 362 (director of Department of Fish and Game has 180 days to adopt regulations to conform to federal fishery plan, and must immediately report to Legislature concerning regulations adopted); see, e.g., Bus. & Prof. Code § 5010 (Accountancy Board must adopt rules and regulations according to provisions of California APA)].

- Not represent a delegation of the Legislature's responsibility to resolve fundamental issues and to make basic policy decisions [Kugler v. Yocum (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 371, 376-377, 71 Cal. Rptr. 687, 445 P.2d 303 (legislative body, city council, responsible for adoption of wage parity policy; city manager may apply policy)].

- Not grant to the agency powers that, if exercised, would violate the Constitution [see Bownds v. City of Glendale (1980) 113 Cal. App. 3d 875, 885, 170 Cal. Rptr. 342 (Department of Housing and Community Development land use guidelines unenforceable because violative of private property protections guaranteed by Cal. Const., art. I, §§ 1, 19)].

Administrative agencies are creatures of the legislature that have no powers beyond those delegated to the agency by the legislature [Victor Valley Transit Authority v. WCAB (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 1068, 1072-1073, 100 Cal. Rptr. 2d 235] . An agency's functions include only those specifically delegated by its enabling act. Acts of an agency and rules and regulations enacted by an agency must not exceed the scope of its enabling act [Sierra Club v. California Coastal Com. (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 839, 843-844, 28 Cal. Rptr. 3d 316, 111 P. 3d 294 (Coastal Commission did not have statutory authority under California Coastal Act [Pub. Res. §§ 30000 et. seq.] to condition issuance of a coastal zone development permit based on considering impacts on coastal zone of the part of a proposed project outside the coastal zone); First Indust. Loan Co. v. Daugherty (1945) 26 Cal. 2d 545, 550, 159 P.2d 921] . Any agency action or regulation that exceeds the scope of power set forth in the enabling act may be challenged judicially [B.C. Cotton Inc. v. Voss (1995) 33 Cal. App. 4th 929, 956-957, 39 Cal. Rptr. 2d 484 (agency cannot exercise licensing authority without legislative grant of authority); see Ch. 471, Public Agency Investigations , et seq. (judicial review of agency investigations, inspections, and licensing actions); Ch. 472B, Review of Agency Rulemaking (judicial review of rulemaking); Ch. 474, Review of Public Agency Decisions, et seq. (judicial review of adjudicatory decisions)].

An agency's powers, however, are not limited to those expressly conferred by statute. Administrative officials may exercise any additional powers that are necessary for the due and efficient administration of powers expressly granted by statute or that "may fairly be implied from the statute granting the powers" (emphasis in original) [Calfarm Ins. Co. v. Deukmejian (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 805, 824-825, 258 Cal. Rptr. 161, 771 P.2d 1247] .

For further discussion of legislative powers delegated to public agencies, see [5][b] and [7], below.

[c] Delegation of Judicial and Executive Powers to Agencies

Although the separation of powers clause prohibits the exercise of judicial and executive (or enforcement) functions by the Legislature (Cal. Const., art. III, § 3), this prohibition is not rigid, and the Legislature generally may exercise judicial and enforcement functions that are incidental to its lawmaking function [Parker v. Riley (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 83, 89-90, 113 P.2d 873 ; Way v. Superior Court (1977) 74 Cal. App. 3d 165, 178, 141 Cal. Rptr. 383] .

Thus, the Legislature may empower an agency to hold hearings, examine evidence, make findings, and suspend or revoke licenses or permits issued by the agency as necessary to enforce its rules and regulations [Dash, Inc. v. Alcoholic Beverage Control Appeals Bd. (9th Cir. 1982) 683 F.2d 1229, 1234 ; Goldin v. Public Utilities Commission (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 638, 653, 153 Cal. Rptr. 802, 592 P.2d 289 ; Beamon v. Dept. of Motor Vehicles (1960)180 Cal. App. 2d 200, 205, 4 Cal. Rptr. 396 ; see also further discussion in [5][c] and [d], below].

Cities must comply with applicable provisions of state law when approving housing development projects. The appellate courts determine whether or not those provisions of law are applicable to the city's approval process. The courts will interpret the language of the statute to determine the legislative intent. The statutory language is examined in the context of the overall statute, and the plain meaning of the words of the statute will be followed in most circumstances. When there is more than one reasonable interpretation of the language of the statute, the courts will also look at the purpose of the statute, legislative history, and public policy [Coalition of Concerned Communities, Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 733, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 676, 101 P.3d 563 (Mello Act affordable housing requirements did not apply to City of Los Angeles's approval of housing development project in coastal zone because no housing was to be built within coastal zone); Elsner v. Uveges (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 915, 929, 938, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 530, 102 P.3d 915 (employee of roofing subcontractor was injured on job while working on scaffolding. Employee filed third-party tort lawsuit against general contractor. Employee sought to offer evidence of Cal OSHA regulations relating to scaffolding standards to establish a negligence per se standard of care, and shift burden of proof to general contractor defendant. The California Supreme Court interpreted the statutory language and held that the statutory change in the law could not be applied retroactively to a pre-amendment accident); City of Long Beach v. Dept. of Industrial Relations (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 942, 953, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 518, 102 P. 3d 904 (statutory amendments are presumed to have prospective application only unless legislation clearly provides for retroactive application)]. When looking at legislative history, the appellate courts will normally not give much weight to letters from individual legislators, however letters presented to the legislative body and included in the statutory notes are given more weight [City of Long Beach v. Dept. of Industrial Relations (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 942, 952-953, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 518, 102 P. 3d 904] . When interpreting provisions of the California Constitution, the appellate courts use the same interpretive principles as with statutes, starting with the plain language of the text, and then looking at other factors, such as legislative history when the statutory language can be reasonably interpreted in more than one way [Independent Energy Producers Ass'n v. State Board of Equalization (2004) 125 Cal. App. 4th 425 (Cal. Const., art. XIII, § 19 interpreted to define public utilities as within scope of provisions, and to also include independent electric generation facilities within constitutional definition of public utilities)].

The courts, however, have final review authority over agency executive and adjudicatory matters [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1094.5, 1094.6; Bodinson Mfg. Co. v. California Employment Comm'n (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 321, 325, 109 P.2d 935 ; see § 470.16[3]; see also Ch. 471, Public Agency Investigations , et seq. (judicial review of agency investigations, inspections, and licensing actions); Ch. 474, Review of Public Agency Decisions, et seq. (judicial review of adjudicatory decisions)].

The California court of appeal held that provisions of Labor Code § 4663 and 4664, which required apportionment of permanent disability based on causation in worker's compensation proceedings, were specifically intended to apply to worker's compensation claims that were pending at the date of the enactment of the legislation. Thus, the provisions of this legislation were retroactive in application. Normally, legislation that changes substantive rights is applied prospectively unless there is clear expression of legislative intent in the language of the statute or in extrinsic sources that the legislature intended retroactive application. If the statute is silent or ambiguous, the courts will interpret the legislation to have prospective application. Here, the legislature clearly expressed the intent to apply the legislation retroactively [Kleemann v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 274, 284-286, 25 Cal. Rptr. 3d 448]

.

The California Supreme Court held that the WCAB improperly interpreted the provisions of Labor Code § 5402 (90-day time period for presumption of compensability) in a WCAB decision. The statute is clear that the 90-day time period for an employer to deny liability runs from the date that the employee filed a claim form, and does not include the date that the employer received notice or knowledge of the injury [Honeywell v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 24, 29, 24 Cal. Rptr. 3d 179, 105 P.3d 544] .

[2] Initiative Agencies

[a] Nature of Initiative Power

The Legislature shares lawmaking authority with California voters, who have the right to adopt legislation or constitutional amendments by initiative [Cal. Const., art. II, § 8(a)].

The initiative power is specifically reserved to the people under the Constitution rather than stated as a limited delegation of power [Cal. Const., art. IV, § 1]. Thus, it must be liberally construed to give maximum power to the people [Blotter v. Farrell (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 804, 812, 270 P.2d 481 (initiative power includes power to amend and repeal prior initiative acts); Carlson v. Cory (1983) 139 Cal. App. 3d 724, 728, 189 Cal. Rptr. 185 (initiative power may be used to repeal gift and inheritance taxes)].

The initiative power does have some limits, however, as follows:

- It cannot be used to enact statutes that amend, modify, or derogate any powers, obligations, or rights bestowed by the Constitution [Fair Political Pratices Com. v. State Personnel Bd. (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 52, 56, 143 Cal. Rptr. 393] . The people may accomplish these purposes, however, by using the initiative power to change the Constitution [Cal. Const., art. II, § 8(a)].

- As it is limited to legislative matters, it does not include the ability to prescribe administrative or executive matters that implement previously declared legislative policies [Wheelright v. County of Marin (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 448, 457, 85 Cal. Rptr. 809, 467 P.2d 537 (decision to permit construction of roadway was of sufficient public interest and concern to be considered legislative in nature); Fishman v. City of Palo Alto (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 506, 509, 150 Cal. Rptr. 326 (zoning ordinance was legislative in nature; minor changes in development plan to carry out ordinance were administrative in nature); Hughes v. City of Lincoln (1965) 232 Cal. App. 2d 741, 746-747, 43 Cal. Rptr. 306 (decision to fluoridate water was legislative in nature)].

The Legislature may amend or repeal an initiative measure if the measure itself so provides. In the absence of such a provision, amendment or repeal by an act of the Legislature is not effective unless approved by the electors [see Cal. Const., art. II, § 10(c); People v. Schuster (1932) 122 Cal. App. 790, 122 Cal. App. Supp. 790, 793, 10 P.2d 204 ; see also Bartosh v. Board of Osteopathic Examiners (1947) 82 Cal. App. 2d 486, 493, 186 P.2d 984 (Osteopathic Act, Bus. & Prof. Code Appendix II, §§ 1-5, as permitting procedural amendments by Legislature)]. For further discussion of the scope of the initiative power, see Ch. 302, Initiative, Referendum, and Recall .

[b] Creation of Agencies by Initiative

In several instances, the voters have used the initiative power to create an administrative agency. For example, in 1922 the voters created the Board of Chiropractic Examiners (Initiative Measure, Stat. 1923, p. lxxxviii, § 1; Bus. & Prof. Code § 1000; Tain v. State Bd. of Chiropractic Exam'rs (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 609, 614, 616-617, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 330 (Chiropractic Act, adopted by initiative in 1992, establishes a scope of chiropractic practice that excludes use of drugs, surgery or obstetrics by chiropractors; initiative measures interpreted by courts using techniques similar to statutory interpretation; Court upheld those scope of practice limits and rejected a constitutional challenge to them based on equal protection of law), and the Board of Osteopathic Examiners (Initiative Measure, Stats. 1923, p. xciii, § 1; Bus. & Prof. Code § 3600), the latter of which is now called The Osteopathic Medical Board of California. More recently, the voters enacted the Political Reform Act of 1974 (see Gov. Code §§ 81000-81015), which created the Fair Political Practices Commission (FPPC) [see Gov. Code § 83100 et seq.]. The lawmaking authority of the people under the initiative power is generally equal to that of the Legislature [Blotter v. Farrell (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 804, 812-813, 270 P.2d 481 ; Carlson v. Cory (1983) 139 Cal. App. 3d 724, 728, 189 Cal. Rptr. 185 ; see discussion in [1][a], [b], above], and may be delegated to an agency to the same extent and under the same circumstances as a legislative delegation [see discussion in [1][c], above].

[c] Use of Constitutional Initiatives to Enlarge or Limit Agency Powers

In addition to creating agencies by use of the initiative power, the voters can use that power to adopt constitutional amendments imposing newduties on existing agencies or limiting the powers of all California agencies [Cal. Const., art. II, § 8(a)]. The Victims Bill of Rights Act, adopted by the voters in 1982, created a new constitutional right to safe schools [Cal. Const., art. I, § 28(c)], which may impose new duties on agencies such as local school boards and school districts [see discussion in § 470.18[2][c]].

Some years earlier, in 1978, the voters adopted a constitutional amendment prohibiting administrative agencies from doing any of the following [Cal. Const., art. III, § 3.5]:

- Declaring a statute unenforceable or refusing to enforce a statute on the basis of its being unconstitutional, unless an appellate court has determined that the statute is unconstitutional.

- Declaring a statute unconstitutional.

- Declaring a statute unenforceable or refusing to enforce a statute on the basis that federal law or federal regulations prohibit its enforcement, unless an appellate court has determined that its enforcement is prohibited by federal law or federal regulations.

This amendment, however, does not affect the authority of an agency to interpret existing law in the course of discharging the agency's statutory duties [Regents of University of California v. Public Employment Relations Bd. (1983) 139 Cal. App. 3d 1037, 1042, 189 Cal. Rptr. 298] .

[3] Constitutional or "Independent" Agencies

Because a constitutional amendment is required to terminate its existence, an agency created by the California Constitution has a special status [Cal. Const., art. XVIII]. Amending the California Constitution is a cumbersome process requiring a two-thirds vote of the Legislature and majority approval of the electorate, or approval by the voters of an initiative [Cal. Const., art. XVIII, §§ 1-4; for further discussion of initiatives, see [2], above].

Because an agency created by provision of the California Constitution cannot be terminated by legislative action, an agency created by the California Constitution is sometimes referred to as an "independent agency."

Constitutional provisions creating an administrative agency generally set forth the criteria for agency membership and the broad powers and duties of the agency [see, e.g., Cal. Const., art. VI, § 6 (the Judicial Council is made up of specified judges and is responsible for surveying judicial business, adopting court rules, and making recommendations to the courts, the governor, and the Legislature)]. The Legislature may from time to time adopt more specific laws governing the agency's functioning within its constitutional scope of authority [see, e.g., Gov. Code §§ 68500-68615

(setting forth procedures for Judicial Council meetings, judicial record keeping, and the appointment of officers and employees of the Council, and imposing additional duties on the Council)].

The following agencies have been created under the California Constitution:

- The Personnel Board, administering the civil service system for state employees [Cal. Const., art. VII, § 2; California State Personnel Bd. v. California State Employees Assn., Local 1000, SEIU, AFL-CIO (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 758, 763-764, 31 Cal. Rptr. 3d 201, 115 P.3d 506 (State Personnel Board challenged seniority based "post and bid" appointment system negotiated by state government department (Department of Personnel Administration) and state public employees union (CSEA); the Supreme Court held that this system violated provisions of California Constitution (Cal. Const., Art. VII, § 1, subd. (b) that required use of the merit principle, including competitive examination for appointment and promotion to permanent civil service positions.); State Pers. B'd v. Dep't of Pers. Admin. (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 512, 527, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 142, 123 P. 3d 169 (State Personnel Board (SPB) challenged memoranda of understanding (MOU) agreements between Department of Personnel Administration and state public employee unions that provided for a grievance/ arbitration procedure that employees could utilize to challenge disciplinary action as an alternative to the SPB review procedure provided for in Cal. Const., Art. VII, § 3, subd (a), which mandates that the SPB must review disciplinary actions brought against employees of the state civil service; the Supreme Court held that this alternative system was an unconstitutional bypass of SPB discipline review procedures required by the California constitution); for discussion and forms relating to proceedings before the Personnel Board, see Ch. 118, Civil Service].

- The Public Utilities Commission (PUC), regulating transportation, communications, and energy industries classified as public utilities or related businesses [Cal. Const., art. XII, § 1; Pub. Util. Code §§ 200-246; see § 470.18[2][b]; for discussion and forms relating to proceedings before the PUC, see Ch. 480, Public Utilities].

- The Fish and Game Commission, regulating fish and game in California [Cal. Const., art. IV, § 20].

- The Judicial Council, for the purpose of adopting statewide rules of court and establishing rules and policies for the administration of California courts [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 6].

- The Commission on Judicial Appointments, approving judicial appointments to the California Supreme Court [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 7].

- The Commission on Judicial Performance, recommending suspension, removal, or retirement of judges for good cause [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 8].

- The State Bar, regulating the practice of law in California [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 9; for discussion and forms relating to proceedings before the State Bar and the State Bar Court, see Ch. 70, Attorney Admission , and Ch. 71, Attorney Discipline].

- The Regents of the University of California, managing the University and regulating the behavior of students [Cal. Const., art. IX, § 9(f); Educ. Code §§ 66300, 66301; Regents of the University of California v. Benford (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 867, 872, 27 Cal. Rptr. 3d 441 (California constitution grants broad autonomy to Regents of University of California); Tafoya v. Hastings College (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 437, 442, 236 Cal. Rptr. 395 ; Bunnett v. Regents of the University of California (1995) 35 Cal. App. 4th 843, 848, fn. 2, 41 Cal. Rptr.2d 567 ; see Board of Curators, Univ. of Mo. v. Horowitz (1978) 435 U.S. 78, 85, 98 S. Ct. 948, 55 L. Ed. 2d 124 (procedural due process protections apply to students)].

The Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control and the Alcoholic Beverage Control Appeals Board [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23000 et seq. (the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act); see also Ch. 18, Alcoholic Beverage Licenses], and the state and local Boards of Education [see Educ. Code §§ 1000 et seq. (county boards of education), 33000 et seq. (State Board of Education)], have an unusual status in that the Legislature created them pursuant to a constitutional directive [Cal. Const., art. IX, § 7 (boards of education); Cal. Const., art. XX, § 22 (the ABC); see § 470.18[2][c]]; for discussion and forms relating to licensing proceedings before the ABC, see Ch. 18, Alcoholic Beverage Licensing , and for discussion and forms relating to certification of teachers by the State Board of Education and their employment by local boards, see Ch. 512, Schools: Certification, Dismissal, and Related Employment Issues].

In creating agencies the Constitution confirms to the Legislature the power, plenary in some cases and limited in others, to prescribe the functions and duties of an agency. To the Fish and Game Commission, for example, the Legislature may delegate "such powers relating to the protection and propagation of fish and game as the Legislature sees fit" [Cal. Const., art. IV, § 20(b)]. The functions and duties of the Reapportionment Commission, on the other hand, are not at all subject to the Legislature's control [see Cal. Const., art. IV, § 6]. Some of the agencies created by the Constitution have functions and duties prescribed in part by the Constitution and in part by the Legislature. The Personnel Board [see Cal. Const., art. VII, §§ 3, 6], the Public Utilities Commission [Cal. Const., art. XII, §§ 2-6], and the Judicial Council [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 6] are examples. Some agencies are merely created by the Constitution without any clue, other than in their names, as to their functions and duties and without any provision for the Legislature's prescribing these duties. The Commissions on Judicial Appointments and Judicial Performance are examples of such agencies [see Cal. Const., art. VI, §§ 6, 8].

[4] Agency Structure

[a] Nature of Administrative Agencies

Administrative agencies are government institutions that are authorized by statute (or constitution) and are part of the executive branch of state government. Statutory definitions of administrative agencies specify which governmental institutions are subject to the requirements of that statute. For example, the rulemaking provisions of the APA [Gov. Code §§ 11340-11361] define agency to exclude agencies in the judicial and legislative branches of the state [Gov. Code §§ 11340.9(a)]. This means that only executive branch agencies must comply with the rulemaking procedures statutes. State agencies may be called an "office, officer, department, division, bureau, board [or] commission" [Gov. Code § 11000(a)]. State agencies may be headed by an elected official, such as the Secretary of State [Gov. Code § 12172.5] or the State Controller [Westly v. Board of Administration (2003) 105 Cal. App. 4th 1095, 130 Cal. Rptr. 2d 149 (state controller had authority to sue another state agency, CALPERS Board)]. State Agencies may be Departments, such as the Department of Consumer Affairs [Bus. & Prof. Code § 100] or Boards, such as the State Personnel Board [Cal. Const. art. VII, § 2]. State agencies are separate entities for purposes for purposes of legal authority [Bus. & Prof. Code § 108 (state licensing boards are separate entities from Department of Consumer Affairs)], final decision making authority [Bus. & Prof. Code § 109 (state licensing boards decisions are not subject to review by Director of Department of Consumer Affairs)], and for purposes of discovery in litigation [People v. Superior Court (Cole) (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1060, 1078-1080, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 324 (litigant required to serve subpoenas on nonparty state agencies to obtain discovery of documents and witnesses from those agencies in civil litigation unless the agency investigated matters related to the lawsuit); People v. Superior Court (Barrett) (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 1305, 1309, 96 Cal. Rptr. 2d 264 (similar rule for criminal discovery from non party state agencies)].

[b] Departments, Divisions, and Bureaus

State agencies in California have different names, but most are identified as boards (e.g., California Air Resources Board [Health & Safety Code § 39500]) commissions (e.g., Public Utilities Commission [Pub. Util. Code § 301] or departments (e.g., Department of Water Resources [Water Code § 120]). Many agencies are part of one of four superagencies (e.g., California Resources Agency [Gov. Code § 12805]), and others are part of the California Environmental Protection Agency [Gov. Code § 12812]. See §§ 470.19, 470.20 for the organization of agencies within the executive branch of California state government.

[c] Corporate and Quasi-Corporate Entities

The state government includes a number of corporate and quasi-corporate entities. They are not administrative agencies, but their governing bodies are. These entities include the following:

- California Community Colleges (Board of Governors)
- California Maritime Academy (Board of Governors)
- Hastings College of Law (Board of Trustees)
- Public Employees' Retirement System (Board of Administration)
- State Bar of California (Board of Governors)
- State Compensation Insurance Fund (Board of Directors)
- State Teachers' Retirement System (Board of Trustees)
- State University and Colleges (Board of Trustees)
- University of California (Board of Regents)

[d] Institutions

The state government operates a number of institutions apart from colleges and universities [see discussion in [c], above]. These include 11 hospitals run by administrators responsible to the Director of Health; 12 prisons run by superintendents responsible to the Director of Corrections; six schools for students with special learning needs run by superintendents responsible to the Director of Education; and the California Veterans Home run by an administrator responsible to the Director of Veterans Affairs.

[e] Advisory Boards

There are many advisory boards in the state government. They have no governing power but only advise administrative agencies on subjects of special interest. For instance, the Division of Mines and Geology in the Resource Agency organizes and monitors the strong-motion instrumentation program with the advice of the Seismic Safety Commission [see Pub. Res. Code § 2701]. There are over 30 agricultural advisory boards, each concerned with a particular commodity; the Beef Council and the Dairy Council are two of the better known boards. Although advisory boards have no direct governing power, they can be very influential. In effect they are state-sponsored lobbying groups for special interests, although in many cases the special interest involved is a public interest. Since many advisory boards have considerable indirect power over the functioning of the government, private efforts to influence administrative legislation (regulations) can often be most effective when directed at or through an advisory board.

[5] Administrative Powers

[a] Introduction

Administrative agencies exercise executive, legislative, and judicial powers that correspond with the traditional three branches of the federal and state government. Administrative powers are delegated to most agencies by the legislature in statutes whereas the traditional branches of government have powers conferred by the California Constitution. Thus, an administrative agency "must act within the powers conferred upon it by law and may not validly act in excess of such powers" [Ferdig v. State Personnel Bd. (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 96, 104, 77 Cal. Rptr. 224, 453 P.2d 728] . For example, California state environmental agencies are part of the executive branch of state government. Most of those agencies are limited to the exercise of statutory powers. Constitutional agencies are the only exception to this rule. The Constitutional separation of powers [Cal. Const., art. III, § 3] requirement at the state level permits only the constitutional agencies within the executive branch (e.g., the Public Utilities Commission and the Fish and Game Commission) to exercise both legislative and truly judicial (as opposed to "quasi-judicial") powers [Consumers Lobby Against Monopolies v. PUC (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 891, 905-906, 160 Cal. Rptr. 124, 603 P.2d 41] .

[b] Legislative Power

The people have the prerogative to make their own laws [see Cal. Const., art. II, §§ 1, 11; Cal. Const., art. IV, § 1]. In adopting the Constitution, however, the people authorized various governmental entities to exercise legislative power on their behalf. That authority is distributed as follows:

- Five agencies are authorized to make specified laws. These agencies are:
  - the Judicial Council [Cal. Const., art. VI, §§ 6, 18(f)],
  - the Personnel Board [Cal. Const., art. VII, §§ 2(c), 3, 6(b), (c)],
  - the Board of Education [see Cal. Const., art. IX, § 7.5],
  - the Regents of the University of California [Cal. Const., art. IX, § 9(a)], and
  - the Public Utilities Commission [Cal. Const., art. XII, §§ 2, 4, 6].
- Except to the extent that one of those agencies has primary or exclusive authority, the Legislature is authorized to make any law [Cal. Const., art. IV, § 1] other than a law specifically prohibited by the Constitution.
- A county or city may make laws governing persons within the county or city limits, to the extent of not contravening general laws [Cal. Const., art. XI, § 7], and may make laws, in the form of a charter, respecting its own government [Cal. Const., art. XI, §§ 3-5]. A county or city may provide, in a charter, for the election, qualifications, and terms of office of members of the county or city board of education, and a city may further provide for compensation and removal of members and may prescribe the number of members [Cal. Const., art. IX, §§ 3.3, 16]. A county not having a charter to cover the subject is obliged to make laws respecting the compensation of the members of the board of supervisors and may make laws respecting the number, compensation, tenure, and appointment of county employees [Cal. Const., art. XI, § 1(b)].

The exercise of the initiative power by a local city and county as guaranteed by the California Constitution [Cal. Const. Art. II, § 11(a)] was upheld as against a challenge when the voters of the City and county of San Francisco voted to substitute vouchers for services in place of cash grants under the general assistance program [Welf. & Inst. Code § 17001]. The court of appeal rejected a challenge to the initiative based on exclusive delegation of legislative powers to the Board of supervisors to decide questions related to a state mandated program. The court concluded that adopting aid standards was a legislative act, like adopting administrative regulations, and that this power could be exercised by both the board of supervisors, and by the voters using the initiative power [Pettye v. City and County of San Francisco (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 233, 244-245, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 798] .

Thus, except to the extent of a direct constitutional grant of legislative power, an administrative agency has only such legislative power as the Legislature or a local legislative body delegates to it [see also discussion in [1][b], above, and [7], below].

For detailed discussion and forms relating to public agencies legislative or rulemaking function, see Ch. 472, Public Agency Rules , et seq.

[c] Executive Power

Administrative agencies have always been assumed to have executive power. In fact, it is clear that every organ of government has some measure of executive power. It is significant that the Constitution does not invest the Governor with the executive power of the state but instead provides, "The supreme executive power of this State is vested in the Governor" [Cal. Const., art. V, § 1 (emphasis added)]. The essence of executive power in government is enforcement, that is, execution or administration of the law. Since the Governor only stands at the top of the executive pyramid and does not have all executive power but has only supreme executive power, there is no constitutional impediment to the Legislature's assigning executive functions to administrative agencies.

The only limitation on the Legislature is that it may not take away any executive power given directly to an officer or agency by the Constitution [see State Bd. of Educ. v. Levit (1959) 52 Cal. 2d 441, 461, 463, 343 P.2d 8 ; California Adjustment Co. v. Atchison, Topeka etc. Ry. Co. (1918) 179 Cal. 140, 152, 175 P. 682 ; see also discussion in [1][c], above].

A local executive official, the Mayor of the City and County of San Francisco, who had a ministerial duty to enforce a state statute limiting marriage to couples of the opposite sex, exceeded his authority when he decided unilaterally that the marriage statute was unconstitutional and ordered the clerk office's to start issuing marriage licenses to same sex couples. A local executive official does not possess the authority to refuse to enforce a state statute without a court first determining that the statute is unconstitutional. The California Supreme Court issued a writ of mandate ordering the Mayor and other San Francisco officials to enforce the state marriage statute and to correct the consequences of past unauthorized actions [Lockyer v. City and County of San Francisco (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 1055, 1068-1069, 17 Cal. Rptr. 3d 225, 95 P.3d 459] .

For detailed discussion and forms relating to agency executive functions such as investigations, inspections, and licensing actions, including judicial review of these actions, see Ch. 471, Public Agency Investigations , et seq.

[d] Judicial Power

The California Constitution vests judicial power in the California Supreme Court, courts of appeal, superior courts and municipal courts [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 1]. In addition, the California Constitution authorizes various California administrative agencies to exercise judicial powers. Some of these agencies, such as the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control and the Public Utilities Commission, are created by the Constitution and are thereby vested with certain judicial powers [see Cal. Const., arts. XII, XX, § 22]. Others, such as the Workers' Compensation Appeals Board, have been legislatively endowed with judicial powers pursuant to a specific constitutional authorization [see Cal. Const., art. XIV, §§ 1, 4].

Agencies not vested by the California Constitution with judicial powers may not exercise judicial powers. Cal. Const., art. VI, disposes of all judicial power not expressly disposed of elsewhere in the California Constitution. Although the Legislature retains the authority to grant a multitude of powers to local bodies pursuant to Cal. Const., art. XI, powers of a judicial nature are not at its disposal [Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 42, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29] .

Although administrative agencies are thus generally prohibited from exercising "judicial power" in the absence of authorization from the California Constitution, agencies may perform functions that are "judicial" in nature [see People v. Sims (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 468, 479 n.8, 186 Cal. Rptr. 77, 651 P.2d 321 ; see also discussion in [1][c], above].

The California Supreme Court, in McHugh v. Santa Monica Rent Control Bd. (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 348, 261 Cal. Rptr. 318, 777 P.2d 91 , adopted a two-part test for determining whether an agency's acts of judicial nature constitute an unconstitutional exercise of judicial powers. An administrative agency may constitutionally hold hearings, determine facts, apply the law to those facts, and order relief, including certain types of monetary relief, so long as the following conditions are met [McHugh v. Santa Monica Rent Control Bd. (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 348, 359, 372, 374, 261 Cal. Rptr. 318, 777 P.2d 91] :

- The activities are authorized by statute or legislation and are reasonably necessary to effectuate the administrative agency's primary, legitimate regulatory purposes; and

- The essential judicial power (that is, the power to make enforceable binding judgments) remains ultimately in the courts through review of agency determinations.

The McHugh Court applied the two-part test to determine the constitutionality of actions by a local rent control board pursuant to a city's rent control charter amendment. The Court found that the board did have the power to hold hearings, hear testimony, and order restitution to tenants of excess rents charged by a landlord in violation of local rent control laws [McHugh v. Santa Monica Rent Control Bd. (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 348, 375, 261 Cal. Rptr. 318, 777 P.2d 91] . Nevertheless, the Court found unconstitutional an order by the board that permitted one of the tenants to immediately withhold future rent payments before a court could have an opportunity to pass on whether to stay the challenged order pending review of the administrative decision by writ of mandate. The Court characterized this order as an "unwarranted intrusion into the power of courts to 'check' administrative adjudications" and held that it violated the second prong of the test [McHugh v. Santa Monica Rent Control Bd. (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 348, 376-377, 261 Cal. Rptr. 318, 777 P.2d 91] . The Court also found unconstitutional an assessment of treble damages against portions of the tenants' excess rents. Even though the court conceded that treble damages were authorized by the city charter, it determined that the award violated the reasonable necessity-legitimate regulatory purpose aspect of the first prong of the test, in part because there were other, less intrusive means of accomplishing the asserted regulatory goal [McHugh v. Santa Monica Rent Control Bd. (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 348, 378-379, 261 Cal. Rptr. 318, 777 P.2d 91] . It further noted that the power to award treble damages would pose a risk of producing arbitrary, disproportionate results that would magnify, beyond acceptable risks, the possibility or arbitrariness inherent in any scheme of administrative adjudication [McHugh v. Santa Monica Rent Control Bd. (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 348, 378-379, 261 Cal. Rptr. 318, 777 P.2d 91] .

These applications of the test show that McHugh clearly contemplated that the mere fact of legislative authorization does not shield a challenged power from scrutiny under the reasonable necessity/legitimate regulatory purpose aspect of the first prong of the test [Walnut Creek Manor v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 245, 257, 284 Cal. Rptr. 718, 814 P.2d 704] . On this basis, apparently, subsequent case law reads McHugh as requiring a reviewing court to conduct a judicial powers analysis at a somewhat higher level of scrutiny than that of rational basis [Walnut Creek Manor v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 245, 256-257, 284 Cal. Rptr. 718, 814 P.2d 704] .

McHugh indicates that an administrative agency unconstitutionally exercises "judicial power" when it (1) issues an administrative order requiring immediate payment of money or authorizing immediate withholding of money that would otherwise be owed, or (2) assesses treble damages [McHugh v. Santa Monica Rent Control Bd. (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 348, 377 n.44, 378-379, 261 Cal. Rptr. 318, 777 P.2d 91] . The McHugh court explicitly declined to address the constitutionality of several other types of administrative actions, including the following [McHugh v. Santa Monica Rent Control Bd. (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 348, 375 n.38, 377 n.44, 378, 261 Cal. Rptr. 318, 777 P.2d 91] :

- An award of general compensatory damages.
- Immediately effective restitutive orders issued by professional licensing boards.
- Administrative imposition of penalties.
- Imposition of minor punitive damages under statutory schemes that expressly authorize such damages and set a cap on awards.

Subsequent case law, while not deciding the issue, indicates that a statute authorizing the administrative award of major or substantial punitive damages, with no cap on the cumulative amount, would be constitutionally suspect as violative of the judicial powers clause. A majority of the state Supreme Court has expressed the opinion that, under a McHugh analysis, it would have difficulty in characterizing a several thousand dollar punitive damages award as merely incidental relief, necessary to effectuate the remedial purposes of a statute [see Walnut Creek Manor v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 245, 271, 284 Cal. Rptr. 718, 814 P.2d 704] .

In addition, one court, applying McHugh to the issue of an administrative award of compensatory damages, held that an award by an administrative agency of unlimited general compensatory damages for emotional distress violates the judicial powers clause of the state constitution [Walnut Creek Manor v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 245, 265, 267, 284 Cal. Rptr. 718, 814 P.2d 704 (invalidating, prior to its 1992 amendment, Gov. Code § 12987 of the Fair Employment and Housing Act (Gov. Code § 12900 et seq.) to the extent it authorizes the award of nonquantifiable general compensatory damages for emotional distress and other intangible injury)]. This court did not address the validity of legislation authorizing an administrative award of compensatory damages for emotional injuries up to a specified maximum amount [see Walnut Creek Manor v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 245, 265 n.12, 284 Cal. Rptr. 718, 814 P.2d 704 ; see, e.g., Gov. Code § 12970 (authorizing administrative awards in employment discrimination cases of up to $50,000 for actual damages, including emotional injuries; operative January 1, 1993)].

For detailed discussion and forms relating to agency adjudicatory proceedings under the APA, and judicial review of those proceedings, see respectively Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudications , et seq., Ch. 474, Review of Public Agency Decisions , et seq.

[e] Constitutional Limits on Administrative Power

[i] Restraints on Enforcement of Unconstitutional Law

The Constitution contains a number of provisions limiting the government's power. Many of these purport to restrain the exercise of legislative power [see, e.g., Cal. Const., art. I, § 4 ("[t]he Legislature shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion.")], but there is no possible restraint on the exercise of that power except insofar as legislators are willing to restrain themselves. What the Constitution prohibits in effect is the enforcement of unconstitutional laws. Thus, the constitutional prohibitions directly concern administrative agencies and limit their exercise of executive and quasi-judicial powers power.

Local executive officials who are obligated to enforce state statutes cannot unilaterally decide that a particular statute, the state law limiting marriage to couples of the opposite sex, was unconstitutional and therefore refuse to enforce that statute. A local executive official does not possess the authority to refuse to enforce a state statute without a court first determining that the statute is unconstitutional [Lockyer v. City and County of San Francisco (2004) 33 Cal. 4th

1055, 1068-1069, 17 Cal. Rptr. 3d 225, 95 P.3d 459] .

There is some philosophical difficulty in extending the constitutional limitations on government power to a popular exercise of power. An initiative statute is only technically different from a constitutional amendment, since they are both direct expressions of the will of the people. There is no substantive difference between an initiative statute decreeing an exception to the guaranty of free speech and an amendment of U.S. Const., art. I, § 2, which sets out that guaranty. Thus, where an administrative agency undertakes to enforce an initiative statute, the question whether it is unconstitutional on substantive grounds should be decided in the light of federal constitutional provisions [see, e.g., Citizens for Jobs & Energy v. Fair Political Practices Comm'n (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 671, 675, 129 Cal. Rptr. 106, 547 P.2d 1386] . The United States Constitution is, of course, "the supreme Law of the Land; and the Judges in every State shall be bound thereby, any Thing in the Constitution or Laws of any State to the Contrary notwithstanding" [U.S. Const., art. VI, cl. 2].

[ii] Restraints Based on Equal Protection and Due Process Requirements

In administering a law, an agency is obliged to avoid violating the constitutional guaranties of equal protection and due process [see Murgia v. Municipal Court (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 286, 294-295, 124 Cal. Rptr. 204, 540 P.2d 44 (equal protection); Walsh v. Kirby (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 95, 105-106, 118 Cal. Rptr. 1, 529 P.2d 33 (due process)]. The United States Constitution guaranties not only the enforcement of fair and reasonable laws but also the fair and reasonable enforcement of laws [see Yick Wo v. Hopkins (1886) 118 U.S. 356, 373-374, 6 S. Ct. 1064, 30 L. Ed. 220 ("[t]hough the law itself be fair on its face and impartial in appearance, yet, if it is applied and administered by public authority with an evil eye and an unequal hand, so as practically to make unjust and illegal discriminations between persons in similar circumstances, material to their rights, the denial of equal justice is still within the prohibition of the Constitution")], including an agency's own regulations [see Wotton v. Bush (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 460, 466-467, 261 P.2d 256] .

An important aspect of this rule is its effect on an agency's operational policy. Nearly every agency has such a policy, usually set out in a standard operating manual that in some cases is quite lengthy. While an agency may establish an operational policy, it may not adhere to that policy when to do so would deny a person a statutory or constitutional right [see e.g., Bank of Italy v. Johnson (1926) 200 Cal. 1, 15, 251 P. 784] .

An administrative agency may not constitutionally deprive a person of property without due process. The property in question is a vested property right, such as the owner's exclusive right to use personal property [see, e.g., Pacific Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Eshleman (1913) 166 Cal. 640, 680, 689-690, 137 P. 1119] . There is no protection for anything less than a vested property right [see, e.g., Holloway v. Purcell (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 220, 230, 217 P.2d 665 (administrative decision to abandon highway as not affecting constitutionally protected property rights of abutting owners)]. Procedural due process does not require a trial before a court, and a proceeding before an administrative officer or board is normally adequate if the basic requirements of notice and opportunity for hearing are met [Blinder, Robinson & Co. v. Tom (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 283, 289, 226 Cal. Rptr. 339] .

For detailed discussion of procedural due process requirements as they apply to public agencies, see Ch. 470A, Due Process Restrictions on Public Agencies .

[f] Effects of Combined Powers

Because administrative agencies have legislative, executive, and quasi-judicial powers, some unusual situations can arise. For example, legislative power might be exercised in effect without legislation, such as where an agency's long-standing enforcement practice produces the functional equivalent of a regulation [see, e.g., California Welfare Rights Organization v. Brian (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 237, 241, 113 Cal. Rptr. 154, 520 P.2d 970 ; Richfield Oil Corp. v. Crawford (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 729, 736-738, 249 P.2d 600] . Similarly, an essentially executive function, such as setting up a schedule of enforcement for a particular law, might be performed by using legislative procedures, that is, by enacting a regulation [see, e.g., Clean Air Constituency v. California State Air Resources Bd. (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 801, 809, 815-816, 114 Cal. Rptr. 577, 523 P.2d 617] .

It is important to note that an administrative agency's combination of powers gives it considerable flexibility in carrying out its responsibilities, and such matters as judicial review will be affected by the method the agency chooses. Form can become more important than substance. For instance, an agency might have the choice of using legislative power or quasi-judicial power to make a particular decision [see Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. v. Superior Court (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 392, 413, 413 n.11, 128 Cal. Rptr. 183, 546 P.2d 687] . If it chooses the ad hoc approach of using quasi-judicial power to make that decision on a case-by-case basis, judicial review under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is available [see Sangster v. California Horse Racing Bd. (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1033, 1040 n.11, 249 Cal. Rptr. 235 (fact that petitioner sought writ of administrative mandamus pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 to overturn decision of Horse Racing Board was tantamount to a concession that agency's action involved adjudicatory, not legislative or rulemaking, function)].

Alternatively, if an agency chooses instead to use legislative power in making a decision, that is, to adopt a regulation governing all future cases, Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is not available to obtain judicial review of the regulation's application in a particular case [see Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 34 n. 2, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29] . Judicial review is limited to scrutiny of the regulation in general, under Gov. Code § 11350 (discussed in Ch. 472B, Review of Agency Rulemaking).

The significance of this distinction is that the judicial remedies are not the same and do not give the same relief. An agency is not obliged to choose one method over another, such as ad hoc determinations instead of a legislative approach, but may freely choose whatever method seems most suitable to it under the circumstances [see Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. v. Superior Court (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 392, 413, 128 Cal. Rptr. 183, 546 P.2d 687 ; Housing Authority v. Dockweiler (1939) 14 Cal. 2d 437, 461, 94 P.2d 794] .

[6] Separation of Powers Doctrine

[a] Judicial and Legislative Powers

The California Constitution provides, "The powers of state government are legislative, executive, and judicial. Persons charged with the exercise of one power may not exercise either of the others except as permitted by this Constitution" [Cal. Const., art III, § 3]. This or a substantially similar provision has always been in the state constitution: it states the separation of powers doctrine. This doctrine applies only to the state government [see Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 36, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29] ; therefore, as to local agencies, there is no question of violating the doctrine.

Before the 1966 revision of the Constitution, Article III provided that "no person charged with the exercise of powers properly belonging to one of these departments [of the state government--legislative, executive, and judicial] shall exercise any functions appertaining to either of the others, except as in this Constitution expressly directed or permitted" [Cal. Const., former art. III, § 1 (1879 Constitution)]. Since the 1966 revision made no substantive changes [see Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 36 n.4, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29] , it appears surprising that state agencies may constitutionally exercise legislative, executive, and judicial functions.

But the separation of powers doctrine does not mean quite what it seems to mean. The doctrine does not mean that legislative, executive, and judicial powers must be kept wholly and entirely separate and distinct, and have no common link of connection or dependence the one upon the other in the slightest degree. The true meaning is, that the whole power of one of these departments shall not be exercised by the same hands which possess the whole power of either of the other departments; and that such exercise of the whole would subvert the principles of a free Constitution [People ex rel. McCauley & Tevis v. Brooks (1860) 16 Cal. 11, 40] .

Thus, an administrative agency may exercise judicial or legislative power without violating the separation of powers doctrine when the judicial power is subject to judicial review and the legislative power is clearly defined by the legislature. Agency action may not violate the separation of powers doctrine even when it does not satisfy these requirements. For example, an agency opinion letter interpreting a statute does not violate the doctrine because it cannot be enforced by the agency either through its adjudicatory or its rulemaking power [20th Century Ins. Co. v. Quackenbush (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 135, 141-142, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 113] .

The separation of powers doctrine was not violated by legislation contained in Bus. & Prof. Code § 6079.1(a) which revised the appointment process for five judges of the state bar court hearing department to provide for appointment of one judge by the governor, one judge by the Senate Rules Committee, and one judge by the Speaker of the Assembly, nor by legislation contained in Bus. & Prof. Code § 6086.65(a) requiring replacement of a lay judge in the state bar court review department with a lawyer judge. The legislation does not defeat or materially impair either the authority of the Supreme Court or the Court's inherent power over attorney discipline. This is because the court has ongoing primary authority over the State Bar Court, and because there are sufficient procedural safeguards within the appointment and attorney discipline process [Obrien v. Jones (2000) 23 Cal. 4th 40, 43-45, 96 Cal. Rptr. 2d 205, 999 P.2d 95] .

The California legislature did not violate the separation of powers clause of the California Constitution, art. III, § 3, by enacting legislation, Pub. Resources Code §§ 30301(d), (e), 30312 (a)(2), (b)(2), that provided for the appointment of one third of the members of the Coastal Commission by the Senate Committee on Rules, one third of the members by the Speaker of the Assembly, and one third by the governor, when the legislatively appointed members of the Coastal Commission were appointed to serve four-year terms and could not be removed from office during the term. The governor's appointees serve at the pleasure of the Governor, but the legislature changed the law governing terms for legislatively appointed members, from service at the pleasure of the appointing authority, to set four-year terms. Under these circumstances, the California Supreme Court held that legislative appointment of Commission members did not violate separation of powers under the California Constitution because the current structure of appointment and removal coupled with the California Coastal Act [Pub. Res. §§ 30000 et. seq.] provisions that contained statutory guidelines for Commission action provide sufficient safeguards to ensure that the legislature does not improperly interfere with the responsibilities of the executive branch to carry out its constitutional functions independently of legislative interference [Marine Forests Society v. California Coastal Com. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1, 14-16, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 30, 113 P. 3d 1062] .

The legislature's enactment of a later statute (Welf. & Inst. Code § 17000.51), that explained the legislature's intent when it amended another related statute (Welf. & Inst. Code § 17000.5) in a previous legislative session, does not violate separation of powers because the legislative declaration is not binding and conclusive on the courts in deciding the application of the statute to past events, but the legislative declaration is entitled to be considered by the courts [Hunt v. Superior court (2000) 21 Cal. 4th 984, 1007-1009, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 236, 987 P.2d 705] .

The legislature amended the provisions of the Fair Employment and Housing Act (FEHA) [Gov. Code § 12940(j)(3)] which prohibited employment discrimination, including workplace sexual harassment, to expand personal liability of non-supervisory coworkers to an employee plaintiff who claimed unlawful discrimination under that statute. The amendment was in response to a decision of the California Supreme Court [Carrisales v. Department of Corr. (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 1132, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 804, 988 P.2d 1083] that held non-supervisory co-workers were not personally liable for workplace sexual harassment of a fellow employee. The effect of this amendment was to change the law, but the legislature's amendment included language that stated that the amended provisions are "declaratory of existing law" [Gov. Code § 12940(j)(2)]. The California Supreme Court held that the legislature has the authority under separation of powers to enact laws, and also to change those laws after the Supreme Court has interpreted existing law in a court decision, but the interpretation of those laws is a judicial function under separation of powers, not the legislature's function. The legislature lacks the power under separation of powers to state that a change in the law is a declaration of existing law, as that is a judicial responsibility to interpret the law [McClung v. Employment Development Dept. (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 467, 469-470, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 428, 99 P.3d 1015] . Furthermore, the Supreme Court held that the change in law imposing liability for workplace sexual harassment on non-supervisory co-workers was prospective only, and could not be applied retroactively to the conduct of a co-worker that predated the date of the change in the law. The court concluded that the presumption against statutory retroactivity that is based on fairness concerns was applicable to this case [McClung v. Employment Development Dept. (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 467, 475-476, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 428, 99 P.3d 1015] .

The California Supreme Court held that a 1999 amendment to Labor Code Section 6304.5 (which changed the law to permit introduction of Cal-OSHA safety standards including agency regulations to establish a statutorily based standard of care for third-party tort lawsuits) could not be retroactively applied to a lawsuit. This was an improper retroactive application of the statute that had previously prohibited introduction of Cal-OSHA safety standards to establish a standard of care. Retroactive application of a statute requires specific statutory language when the past legal consequences of past conduct is sought to be changed. This statutory change satisfied that retroactivity test, but there was no specific language in the statute requiring retroactive application. Thus, the statute could not be applied to a pre-amendment accident [Elsner v. Uveges (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 915, 938-939, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 530, 102 P. 3d 915 (employee of roofing subcontractor was injured on job while working on scaffolding. Employee filed third-party tort lawsuit against general contractor. Employee sought to offer evidence of Cal-OSHA regulations relating to scaffolding standards to establish a negligence per se standard of care, and shift burden of proof to general contractor defendant)]. Similarly, the California Supreme Court held that amendments to Labor Code Section 1720(a)(1) which changed the definition of "public works" for purposes of the prevailing wage laws applied prospectively, not retroactively [City of Long Beach v. Dept. of Industrial Relations (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 942, 953, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 518, 102 P. 3d 904 (statutory amendments are presumed to have prospective application only unless legislation clearly provides for retroactive application)]. The California Court of Appeal held that initiatives that are enacted by the voters operate prospectively only unless the voters clearly intended the initiative to operate retroactively [Save Our Sunol, Inc. v. Mission Valley Rock Company (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 276, 280-281, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 171 (local initiative enacted by voters that significantly restricted development of quarries in county had prospective application only to quarries that had not been approved by the county through the issuance of a mining permit at the time the initiative was approved)].

The legislature did not violate the separation of powers clause of the California Constitution, Cal. Const. art. III, § 3, by enacting Gov. Code § 17581 (which permits the legislature to suspend the operation of regulations and withdraw funding from state mandated local programs as part of the state budget process). This statute authorized the legislature, as part of the state budget appropriations process, to suspend the operation of administrative regulations adopted by the Department of Industrial Relations by not providing funding for enforcement of, or compliance with, the regulations. Because the legislature took this action as part of the state budget process, the suspension of regulations did not unlawfully encroach on the powers of the executive branch of the government [Carmel Valley Fire Protection Dist. v. State (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 287, 291-292, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 636, 20 P.3d 533] .

Proposition 21, the Gang Violence and Juvenile Crime Prevention Initiative, was adopted by popular vote. The initiative included an amendment to Welf. & Inst. Code § 707(d) that allowed the district attorney to exercise discretion to charge juveniles with crimes in the criminal division of the superior court as adults without a court first deciding that the juvenile is not fit for a juvenile court proceeding (trial in the juvenile division of the superior court). The Court held that Welf. & Inst. Code § 707(d) did not violate the separation of powers clause of the California Constitution, Cal. Const. art. III, § 3. This is because the prosecutor's decision to charge is not considered to be an "exclusively judicial function" nor does that decision "usurp fundamental judicial powers" [Manduley v. Superior Court (2002) 27 Cal. 4th 537, 557, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 168, 41 P.3d 3] . The court reasoned that separation of powers is designed to prevent concentration of the fundamental powers of government in one branch of government, that separation of powers does not require each branch of government to exercise all the powers within their branch exclusively, that the branches of government are "interdependent", and that one branch may exercise powers within its authority that "duplicate" powers delegated to another branch [Manduley v. Superior Court (2002) 27 Cal. 4th 537, 557, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 168, 41 P.3d 3] . The discretion to make charging decisions is "well within the district attorney's traditional executive authority" [Manduley v. Superior Court (2002) 27 Cal. 4th 537, 556, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 168, 41 P.3d 3] .

Based on a request by the California State Bar, the California Supreme Court adopted a rule requiring active members of the California Bar to pay a special regulatory assessment of $173.00, for exclusive use to fund attorney discipline activities of the State Bar of California. The court also ordered the appointment of a special master to exercise oversight over the money collected to ensure that the funds were used only for discipline related purposes. The Court held that the regulatory assessment did not violate the separation of powers clause of the California Constitution, Cal. Const. art. III, § 3. The regulatory assessment was not a tax or appropriation that is particularly within the power of the California legislature. Courts do not have authority to order the legislature to pass an appropriation. However, State Bar revenues are based on dues assessed members of the bar, not legislative appropriations. Thus, a judicial order requiring assessment of regulatory fees does not violate separation of powers principles by usurping a legislative power to make appropriations [In Re Attorney Discipline System (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 582, 595-596, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 836, 967 P. 2d 49] .

An initiative entitled Proposition 10, the California Children and Families Act of 1998 was adopted by popular vote. The initiative increased tobacco taxes to fund smoking prevention and early child development activities. The initiative also created a new statewide agency, the California Children and Families Commission (CCFC), and also created local county commissions (CC) to implement its programs. The Court of Appeals held that the Act did not did not violate the separation of powers clause of the California Constitution, Cal. Const. art. III, § 3. The court rejected a separation of powers challenge based on an argument that the state and local agencies exercised the power to appropriate funds, which is a legislative power that can not be exercised by executive branch administrative agencies. The court noted that the power to appropriate had been exercised by the people, in adopting the Act which increased tobacco taxes, and specified how the increased taxes were to be spent. The people acted under the initiative and referendum powers of the California Constitution, Cal. Const. art. VI, § 1. The act provides specific requirements for and limitations on spending by CFCC and CC so that there is not an unconstitutional delegation of legislative authority [California Assn. of Retail Tobacconists v. State of California (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 792, 830-832, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 224] . The court also rejected a separation of powers challenge based on legislative appointment of four members of CCFC, an executive branch agency. The court reasoned that there were numerous executive controls over the operations of the agency so that legislative appointment did not create "unchecked power" [California Assn. of Retail Tobacconists v. State of California (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 792, 832-833, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 224] .

The California Supreme Court rejected a challenge under the separation of powers clause of the California Constitution, Cal. Const. art. III, § 1, to the California Department of Social Services (CDSS) adoption of forms and procedures to "facilitate second parent adoptions." The challenge was based on the argument that CDSS, an executive branch agency, exercised legislative powers, by recognizing a type of adoption, "second parent adoption" that was not authorised by the legislature. The Court rejected this challenge and held that CDSS had reasonably interpreted a statute authorizing independent adoptions to allow the type of adoption that they provided forms and procedures [Sharon S. v. Superior Court (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 417, 443-445, 2 Cal. Rptr. 3d 699, 73 P.3d 554] .

The California Court of Appeal held that a Department of Motor Vehicles' order enforcing a two year suspension of a California motorists driving license, under the provisions of Veh. Code § 13352(a)(3), the administrative per se statute, was valid. The court rejected a separation of powers challenge to the statute. The motorist was also criminally convicted for the same conduct (two alcohol driving related convictions) and had a criminal sentence of a one year license suspension imposed for the same conduct. The motorist argued that the DMV suspension order was inconsistent with the criminal court sentencing order, and was therefore unconstitutional. The Court of Appeal rejected his argument, and concluded that criminal convictions under California law often have collateral consequences like the DMV administrative suspension, and these consequences are substantively distinct from the criminal sentence. Therefore, separation of powers is not violated [Brierton v. Dep't of Motor Vehicles (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 427, 433-435, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 480] .

The First District, Division 2, California Court of Appeal held that provisions of the Marine Life Protection Act [Fish & Game Code §§ 2853, 2855, 2856, 2857] that authorized the Department of Fish & Game and other state agencies to enter into a memorandum of understanding (MOU) with a private foundation (the Resources Legacy Fund Foundation) to obtain private funds to cover the costs of implementing the provisions of the MLPA by the Department did not improperly delegate legislative powers to an executive branch agency in violation of the doctrine of separation of powers. This is because the statute provided adequate safeguards so that the agency was not making fundamental policy choices but was rather carrying out the legislative policy choices provided by the statute (MLPA) [Coastside Fishing Club v. California Resources Agency (2008) 158 Cal. App. 4th 1183, 1203-1205, 1211, 71 Cal. Rptr. 3d 87].

[b] Unconstitutional Statutes

The provisions of California Constitution, Article. III, Section 3.5 prohibit administrative agencies from determining the constitutionality of a statute and from not enforcing a statute because of unconstitutionality until an appellate court has determined the constitutional question. The provisions of Section 3.5 state that an administrative agency has no power to do the following [Cal. Const., art. III, § 3.5]:

- Declare a statute unenforceable or refuse to enforce it on the basis that it is unconstitutional unless an appellate court has found the statute unconstitutional.

  - Declare a statute unenforceable or refuse to enforce it on the basis of federal preemption unless an appellate court has so held.

- Declare a statute unconstitutional.

While these provisions preclude constitutional challenges at an administrative hearing, these issues should be raised in the pleadings at the administrative level and a record should be made of the challenge. There are several reasons for doing this. First, the section by its terms does not prevent the mere hearing of a constitutional challenge, only the declaration that a statute is unconstitutional or the refusal to enforce it on this basis [Cal. Const., art. III, § 3.5]. These terms have led one federal court, applying California law, to hold that the failure to raise a constitutional challenge at the administrative level may limit a later court challenge [Southern Pacific Transp. Co. v. Public Utilities Com. (9th Cir. 1983) 716 F.2d 1285, 1291 (preemption claim not raised in administrative hearing is res judicata after California Supreme Court's denial of petition for review)]. Two divisions of the California Court of Appeal (Third District, and First District, Division 3), however, have disagreed [Cowan v. Myers (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 968, 975-976, 232 Cal. Rptr. 299 (requirement of exhaustion of remedies no bar when state statute challenged as violation of federal law); Chevrolet Motor Division v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 533, 539, 194 Cal. Rptr. 270 (failure to challenge constitutionality of statute before administrative tribunal does not waive the issue)].

It is impossible to predict the extent to which an ALJ will allow evidence on a constitutional challenge that may be irrelevant to the issues the agency can actually decide. However, counsel in an administrative hearing should use the following approach: Whenever possible, make a record at the administrative hearing by raising the constitutional issue, or the federal statutory issue, at the hearing. Counsel should acknowledge to the ALJ that the purpose of raising the issue is to preserve that issue for appeal from the agency decision. If counsel makes this type of record at the hearing, it will avoid the risk of waiver or exhaustion of administrative remedies requirements being applied to prohibit the raising of this issue before appellate courts. Counsel should acknowledge that neither the ALJ nor the agency have the authority to decide this issue. Counsel should also make a factual record at the hearing by offering evidence on the constitutional or federal statutory issue so as to provide a basis for a later unconstitutional as applied argument.

The scope of the constitutional prohibition includes challenges to statutes. However, it does not affect an agency's enforcement of its own rules or its power to examine evidence concerning them in light of constitutional standards [

Goldin v. Public Utilities Commission (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 638, 669 n.18, 153 Cal. Rptr. 802, 592 P.2d 289 (PUC properly considered evidence from affidavit used to justify search warrant issued by magistrate to search premises of telephone subscriber suspected of running a prostitution business; subscriber's telephone service was terminated for same reason, and subscriber sought interim relief from termination under provisions of PUC regulation; subscriber had due process right to challenge termination of telephone service, and PUC properly considered evidence from affidavit to determine whether subscriber was entitled to have telephone service restored)].

However, the agency can still interpret the law in discharging its duties. The agency may consult federal law, including constitutional law, to determine if the state law can be enforced without offending the federal law (or the Constitution). The preemption issue or the constitutional challenge can thus be resolved by interpreting the state law in a way that avoids the issue [Regents of University of California v. Public Employment Relations Bd. (1983) 139 Cal. App. 3d 1037, 1042, 189 Cal. Rptr. 298 (PERB ordered university to grant labor union access to internal mail system; PERB rationale for order included conflicts between federal statutes (governing postal system) and state statute that required union to have access. PERB concluded that it lacked authority to resolve conflict between state and federal statute. The Court of Appeal vacated PERB order, and remanded to the agency to interpret the provisions of the federal statute, to decide whether state law and federal law could be harmonized)]. In addition, an agency decision on nonconstitutional issues may obviate the consideration of constitutional challenges [Leek v. Washington Unified School Dist. (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 43, 53, 177 Cal. Rptr. 196 (teachers who were not members of teachers unions challenged on first amendment grounds school district requirement that they must pay representation fee to union. The Court of Appeal held that teachers had to exhaust administrative remedies by bringing their challenge to the Public Employees Relations Board (PERB). Court noted that PERB had authority to prohibit unfair practices by public employee unions, and that PERB could recognize their claim under its statutory authority without having to decide constitutional issues)].

Furthermore, the constitutional challenge may go to legislation already held unconstitutional in the past and that is thus now "patently unconstitutional." If a law is patently unconstitutional, Cal. Const., art. III, § 3.5 does not bar an agency from recognizing that fact by refusing to enforce the law [Schmid v. Lovette (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 466, 473-474, 154 Cal. App. 3d 466, 201 Cal. Rptr. 424 (loyalty oath provisions of Education Code had been declared unconstitutional by numerous courts; it was improper for school district to enforce loyalty oath requirements for newly hired teachers)]. This exception is very narrow.

Finally, if the provisions of California Constitution, Article III, Section 3.5 do prevent the agency from acting on the challenge, a proper record nonetheless can obviate the need for taking evidence in a later court challenge. The record will expedite the court proceedings and eliminate the issue of whether the respondent exhausted its administrative remedies. A proper record is important because it allows the challengers to show that they exhausted their administrative remedies even when alleging constitutional violations [Leek v. Washington Unified School Dist. (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 43, 53, 177 Cal. Rptr. 196 (Court of appeal upheld trial court granting of a demurrer to teacher's complaint for failure to exhaust administrative remedies)].

The Court of Appeal for the Third District held that the Public Utilities Commission (PUC) was not prohibited by the provisions of California Constitution, Article III, Section 3.5 from enforcing a state statute on grounds that it was inconsistent with another state statute that the PUC was required to enforce. The PUC did not violate separation of powers by refusing to enforce the inconsistent statute [Burlington Northern and Santa Fe Railway Co. v. PUC (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 881, 887-888, 891, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 503] .

[7] Delegation of Legislative Powers

[a] Delegation Authorized by the Constitution

The California Constitution authorizes the Legislature to delegate its legislative power in a few instances [see Cal. Const., art. IV, § 20(b) (Fish and Game Commission); Cal. Const., art. VI, § 6 (Judicial Council); Cal. Const., art. IX, §

14 (governing boards of school districts); Cal. Const., art. XII, § 5 (Public Utilities Commission); Cal. Const., art. XIII, §§ 15, 24, 29 (counties and cities); Cal. Const., art. XVI, § 11 (agencies concerned with administration of relief); Cal. Const., art. VII, § 3(a) (Personnel Board)].

[b] Discretionary Delegation of All but Fundamental Policy Decisions

In any case not covered by such a constitutional dispensation, the Legislature could not lawfully delegate any law-making task if the Supreme Court had not established the rule that "controlled delegation" is constitutionally permissible. Unless the California Constitution requires the Legislature to delegate power to an agency, a constitutional authorization for delegation confers discretion on the Legislature to delegate or not as the Legislature sees fit [see Dean v. Kuchel (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 97, 102, 104-105, 230 P.2d 811] .

Except to the extent the California Constitution gives a broader authority, the Legislature's authority to delegate legislative power to administrative agencies is restricted by the judicially developed principle that the Legislature should resolve truly fundamental issues. As the most representative organ of government, it should settle as much as possible controverted issues of policy and determine crucial issues whenever it has the time, information and competence to deal with them [Clean Air Constituency v. California State Air Resources Bd. (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 801, 817, 114 Cal. Rptr. 577, 523 P.2d 617 ; Wilke & Holzheiser, Inc. v. Dept. of Alcoholic Bev. Control (1966) 65 Cal. 2d 349, 369, 55 Cal. Rptr. 23, 420 P.2d 735 ; see Kugler v. Yocum (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 371, 376, 71 Cal. Rptr. 687, 445 P.2d 303] .

The essentials of the Legislature's function are the determination and formulation of fundamental policy. The Legislature may, after declaring a policy and fixing a primary standard to guide the exercise of delegated legislative power, confer upon executive officers or administrative agencies the "power to fill up the details" by prescribing administrative rules and regulations to promote the purposes of the legislation and to carry it into effect [First Indus. Loan Co. v. Daugherty (1945) 26 Cal. 2d 545, 549, 159 P.2d 921 ; see Kugler v. Yocum (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 371, 376, 71 Cal. Rptr. 687, 445 P.2d 303] .

An unconstitutional delegation of power occurs only when the Legislature confers upon an administrative agency the unrestricted authority to make fundamental policy determinations; to avoid such unlawful delegation, the Legislature must provide an adequate yardstick for the guidance of the administrative agency empowered to implement the law [Clean Air Constituency v. California State Air Resources Bd. (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 801, 816-817, 114 Cal. Rptr. 577, 523 P.2d 617 (emphasis added)]. Only in the event of a total abdication of legislative power, through failure either to render basic policy decisions or to assure that they are implemented as made, will a court intrude on a legislative enactment because it is an unlawful delegation, and then only to preserve the representative character of the process of reaching legislative decision [Kugler v. Yocum (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 371, 384, 71 Cal. Rptr. 687, 445 P.2d 303 ; see, e.g., Brock v. Superior Court (1937) 9 Cal. 2d 291, 297, 71 P.2d 209] . Thus, for example, when the legislature has not extablished a licensing requirement an agency may not lawfully confer such licensing authority upon itself [B.C. Cotton, Inc. v. Voss (1995) 33 Cal. App. 4th 929, 956-957, 39 Cal. Rptr. 2d 484] .

Gov. Code §§ 19600-19607, which authorize the State Personnel Board to conduct demonstration projects to provide new ways for selecting management employees in civil service positions in state government, does not unconstitutionally delegate legislative authority to an executive branch administrative agency. The legislature made the fundamental policy choices in the statutes, and there are adequate safeguards in the statute including notice and public procedure, protection of seniority rights of civil service employees, limited duration of the project, and consistency with the merit principle [Alexander v. State Personnel Board (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 526, 537-539, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 324] .

Pen. Code § 1170.3, which required the Judicial Council to adopt rules governing aggravating and mitigating circumstances for sentencing purposes, did not unconstitutionally delegate legislative authority to the Judicial Council. This is because the Legislature had made the fundamental policy choice to change from indeterminate to determinate sentencing. Also, there were specific enough standards in the statute relating to aggravating and mitigating factors to guide the Judicial council in adopting rules of court to specify what factors will be considered as aggravating or mitigating circumstances [People v. Wright (1982) 30 Cal. 3d 705, 712-714, 180 Cal. Rptr. 196, 639 P. 2d 267] .

Food & Agric. Code § 8401 et seq., known as the Citrus Pest District Control Law, did not unconstitutionally delegate legislative authority to citrus growers who serve on the boards of Pest Control Districts because the legislature resolved the fundamental policy issues, and it provided adequate and more specific safeguards that are necessary when private industry representatives sit on District Boards, and exercise power to make rules affecting competitors [People ex. Rel. Lockyer v. Sun Pacific Farming Co. (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 619, 632-634, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 115] .

Plum growers challenged a marketing order authorized by the California Marketing Act [Cal. Food & Agric. Code § 58601] which required growers to pay for the cost of generic advertising of plums. The California Supreme Court rejected the challenge based on an argument that there was an invalid delegation of legislative powers to private parties, agricultural producers, who were members of the California Plum Marketing Board. The court noted that delegation of authority to agricultural producers to make decisions related to regulation of marketing of agricultural products furthered an important governmental interest (stabilization of agriculture) and recognized the value of producer participation to the effective implementation of marketing programs [Gerawan Farming Inc. v. A.G. Kawamura (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 1, 25-27, 14 Cal.Rptr. 3d 14, 90 P.3d 1179] .

Rev. & Tax. Code § 6909(b) did not unconstitutionally delegate legislative authority when it authorized settlement of a lawsuit, payment of court costs and attorney's fees to the prevailing party, and a determination of the amount of fees to be paid by the state through binding arbitration. The Legislature made the fundamental policy decision to refund the smog impact fee and to settle the claim for attorney's fees. The statute was interpreted to limit the amount of fees that arbitrators could award to $18 million, the amount of the fee award in the existing lawsuit. The Legislature made the basic decision to appropriate funds to resolve the lawsuit, and there was no improper delegation of the authority to appropriate funds [Jordan v. Department of Motor Vehicles (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 431, 455-456, 123 Cal. Rptr. 2d 122 , as mod. den. reh.].

An initiative entitled Proposition 10, the California Children and Families Act of 1998 was adopted by popular vote. The initiative increased tobacco taxes to fund smoking prevention and early child development activities. The initiative also created a new statewide agency, the California Children and Families Commission (CCFC), and also created local county commissions (CC) to implement its programs. The act provided specific requirements for and limitations on spending by CFCC and CC so that there is not an unconstitutional delegation of legislative authority [California Assn. of Retail Tobacconists v. State of California (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 792, 830-832, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 224] .

The California Court of Appeal rejected a non-delegation doctrine challenge to provisions of statutes authorizing impoundment of vehicles driven by motorist without valid licenses and motorist who engaged in vehicle speed contests. The court interpreted the 30 day impoundment authority narrowly to not delegate discretion to the impounding agency to decide how many days an impoundment order would be in place. The 30-day impoundment statute requires that motor vehicles be impounded for the full 30 days, unless specific provisions or other early release statutes are applicable [Samples v. Brown (2007) 146 Cal. App. 4th 787, 809-811, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 216] .

[c] Determining When Decision Involves Fundamental Policy

The only general rule, in determining whether or not is a legislative decision is fundamental and nondeligable, is that whatever the Constitution mandates the legislature to do is fundamental and cannot be delegated [see Dougherty v. Austin (1892) 94 Cal. 601, 605-607, 29 P. 1092] . The provisions of the Constitution are mandatory and prohibitory (i.e., not merely directory) unless by express words they are declared to be otherwise [Cal. Const., art. I § 26].

The Supreme Court has not defined further what constitutes a fundamental policy decision, and its rulings do not necessarily show a clear application of the general rule. For example, in El Dorado Oil Works v. McColgan (1950) 34 Cal. 2d 731, 737, 215 P.2d 4 , involving a constitutional provision that "the legislature shall define" corporations and net income, and that it "shall provide" for the allocation of income, the court held that provision imposed a nondelegable duty on the Legislature to define the specified terms, but imposed a delegable duty with respect toincome allocation. By contrast, it held many years earlier that a constitutional provision that the Legislature regulate the compensation of county officials could not be delegated to county supervisors [Dougherty v. Austin (1892) 94 Cal. 601, 604-607, 29 P. 1092 ; see People v. Johnson (1892) 95 Cal. 471, 474-475, 31 P. 611] .

A court of appeal has held that the critical question in determining if a decision is fundamental is whether or not the Legislature has previously made a basic policy decision that provides a standard or guide for the exercise of administrative discretion [California Medical Assn. v. Lackner (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 28, 41, 177 Cal. Rptr. 188 (including dicta that importance of interests affected by decision may be determinative of whether or not decision is fundamental)].

Examples of fundamental legislative decisions include the following:

- Public Expenditures. The decision as to what expenditures should be made from public funds must be made by the legislature; and the legislature's duty extends in some cases to how much should be spent on a given item [see Knight v. Eureka (1898) 123 Cal. 192, 195-196, 55 P. 768 (city council as unable lawfully to delegate task of fixing compensation for public employee)].

- Crimes and Punishment. Decisions as to whether a particular act should be punished and what the punishment should be must be made by the legislature [see Ex parte Daniels (1920) 183 Cal. 636, 655, 192 P. 442 ; Harbor Comm'rs v. Redwood Co. (1891) 88 Cal. 491, 493, 26 P. 375 ; Ex parte Cox (1883) 63 Cal. 21] , although it may define a crime as a violation of a regulation adopted by an agency, and thus leave to the agency the task of providing substantive meaning to the crime so defined [Moore v. Municipal Court (1959) 170 Cal. App. 2d 548, 556, 339 P.2d 196 ; see People ex rel. Younger v. County of El Dorado (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 480, 494-496, 96 Cal. Rptr. 553, 487 P.2d 1193 ; see also In re Herrera (1943) 23 Cal. 2d 206, 210-211, 143 P.2d 345 (decision whether youthful offenders should be detained for indefinite periods, as long as the protection of the public requires it, must be made by legislature, but decision as to how much detention is necessary for the protection of the public may be left to an administrative agency)].

- Economic Regulation. The decision whether to regulate the marketing of a commodity must be made by the Legislature, but decisions such as where to draw the boundaries of marketing areas and what the minimum prices in a given area should be may be left to an administrative agency [see Ray v. Parker (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 275, 284-289, 101 P.2d 665 ; Jersey Maid Milk Products Co. v. Brock (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 620, 641-643, 91 P.2d 577] .

- Employment Regulation. The decision whether to impose a minimum wage requirement on employers must be made by the Legislature, but the decision as to what the minimum dollar amount should be maybe left to an administrative agency [see California Drive-In Restaurant Assn. v. Clark (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 287].

- Highway Construction. The decision whether to construct a highway system must be made by the Legislature, but the decisions as to when and where a particular highway in the system will be built may be left to an administrative agency [see Holloway v. Purcell (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 220, 231-232, 217 P.2d 665] .

- Insurance Regulation. The decision whether to adopt an assigned-risk insurance plan must be made by the Legislature, but the decision as to how bad risks should be shared among insurers may be left to an administrative agency [see California State Auto. Ass'n Inter-Ins. Bureau v. Downey (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 876, 901-907, 216 P.2d 882] .

- Licensing. The decision whether to license a particular activity must be made by the Legislature, but decisions on what qualifications should entitle an applicant to a license may be left to an administrative agency [see Ex parte McManus (1907) 151 Cal. 331, 335-337, 90 P. 702 ; see Ch. 471B, Licensing by Public Agencies , for detailed discussion and forms relating to licensing].

- Public Housing and Redevelopment. The decision to redevelop blighted urban areas through public assistance programs must be made by the Legislature, but the decision as to whether a particular urban area should be redeveloped may be left to an administrative agency [see Redevelopment Agency v. Hayes (1954) 122 Cal. App. 2d 777, 807, 266 P.2d 105] .

- Public Offices. The decision whether to create a particular public office must be made by the Legislature, but the decision as to whether a particular individual should fill that office may be left to an administrative agency [see Farrell v. Board of Trustees (1890) 85 Cal. 408, 415-417, 24 P. 868 ; Ford v. Board of State Harbor Comm'rs (1889) 81 Cal. 19, 36-37, 22 P. 278 (concurring opinion)].

- Traffic Control. The decision whether to place traffic control signs and devices where the public safety requires them must be made by a legislative body (e.g., a city council), but the decision as to what the public safety requires at a given intersection or other place may be left to an administrative agency [see Gould v. Western Dairy Prod., Inc. (1936) 12 Cal. App. 2d 188, 191-192, 55 P.2d 274] .

- Fisheries Management. The decision to maintain California's jurisdiction over fisheries within three miles off shore by authorizing formulation of a fisheries management plan that will avoid conflict with an overall plan formulated by federal authorities applying to fisheries beyond three miles off shore must be made by the Legislature. However, the actual formulation of the plan, in cooperation with the federal fisheries management council, may be left to an administrativeagency, provided that there are proper safeguards to assure conformity with the legislative will. The administrative plan may even include temporary suspension of statutes if such suspension has been authorized by the Legislature [Salmon Trollers Marketing Assn. v. Fullerton (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 291, 300, 177 Cal. Rptr. 362] .

[d] Standards and Safeguards for Delegated Legislative Powers

The rule is that the Legislature, after declaring a policy and fixing a primary standard to guide the exercise of delegated legislative power, may confer upon an administrative agency the "power to fill up the details" by prescribing administrative rules and regulations [First Indus. Loan Co. v. Daugherty (1945) 26 Cal. 2d 545, 549, 159 P.2d 921 (emphasis added)]. A standard need be sufficiently definite only to provide directives of conduct for the administrative agency in exercising its delegated powers [Duskin v. State Bd. of Dry Cleaners (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 155, 160, 23 Cal. Rptr. 404, 373 P.2d 468] .

Sufficient standards for administrative action may be found by implication from the general purposes of a statute and from the reasons which must have led to its adoption [Louis Stores, Inc. v. Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 749, 760, 22 Cal. Rptr. 14, 371 P.2d 758 ; see, e.g., In re Petersen (1958) 51 Cal. 2d 177, 184-186, 331 P.2d 24 ; see also State Bd. of Dry Cleaners v. Thrift-D-Lux Cleaners (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 436, 448-449, 458-459, 254 P.2d 29 (finding no sufficient standard; Traynor, J., dissenting, attacking rule)].

On the other hand, safeguards inherent in a statute, which serve to protect against arbitrary exploitation of delegated legislative powers by a public agency, obviate the need for standards. The important consideration is not whether a statute delegating power expresses standards, but whether the procedure established for the exercise of the power furnishes adequate safeguards to those who are affected by the administrative action [Kugler v. Yocum (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 371, 381-382, 71 Cal. Rptr. 687, 445 P.2d 303] .

The difference between standards and safeguards is only the difference between cause and effect. The purpose of requiring standards to guide administrative exercise of delegated legislative power is to assure some safeguard against the abuse of that power. Thus, a court might speak of the absence of any guiding standards and mean the absence of safeguards against abuse of power [see, e.g., Blumenthal v. Board of Medical Examiners (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 228, 235-236, 18 Cal. Rptr. 501, 368 P.2d 101] . Safeguards need not take traditional forms (for example, hearing and appeal rights). For example, there might be certain natural forces such as business competition and relative bargaining power that tend to effect a containment of legislative power delegated to an administrative agency, and thus an adequate safeguard might exist [see Wilke & Holzheiser, Inc.v. Dept. of Alcoholic Bev. Control (1966) 65 Cal. 2d 349, 367-368, 55 Cal. Rptr. 23, 420 P.2d 735] .

[e] Discretionary Delegation of Legislative Power to Constitutional Agencies

The fact that an agency derives some of its powers directly from the State Constitution does not preclude the Legislature from delegating some of its own powers to the agency [Sandstrom v. Cal. Horse Racing Bd. (1948) 31 Cal. 2d 401, 413, 189 P.2d 17 , cert. denied, 335 U.S. 814, 69 S. Ct. 31, 93 L. Ed. 369 ; Young v. Department of Fish and Game (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 257, 275, 177 Cal. Rptr. 247] . With respect to the delegation of legislative power, a constitutional agency is no different from any other agency [see Harris v. Alcoholic Bev. etc. Appeals Bd. (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 1, 6, 39 Cal. Rptr. 192] .

However, the legislature may not take away, diminish, or restrict, either directly or indirectly, powers given to an agency by the Constitution [see State Bd. of Educ. v. Levit (1959) 52 Cal. 2d 441, 461, 463, 343 P.2d 8 ; California Adjustment Co. v. Atchison, Topeka etc. Ry. Co. (1918) 179 Cal. 140, 152, 175 P. 682] .

[8] Establishment of New State Agencies

Any state board proposed for creation by the legislature on or after January 1, 1991, is subject to Gov. Code § 9148 et seq. [Gov. Code § 9148]. These provisions require specific evaluative steps to be taken by the Legislature prior to legislating the creation of new state boards.

For purposes of Gov. Code § 9148 et seq., the term "state board" includes any administrative or regulatory board, commission, committee, council, association, or authority consisting of more than one person, whose members are appointed by the Governor, the Legislature, or both [Gov. Code § 9148.2]. "State board," however, does not include any commission created by the Legislature pursuant to the California Marketing Act of 1937 (Food & Agric. Code § 58601 et seq.) or the Agricultural Producers Marketing Law (Food & Agric. Code § 59501 et seq.) [see Gov. Code § 9148.2].

Prior to consideration by the Legislature of legislation creating a new state board, a plan for the establishment and operation of the proposed state board must be developed by the author or sponsor of the legislation [Gov. Code §§ 9148.4, 9148.6]. The plan must include a description of the problem creating a need for this board and must specify the reasons for choosing this method of addressing the problem [Gov. Code § 9148.4(a), (b)]. The plan must also identify the public benefit or harm which will result from creation of the board as well as the source of the board's funding [Gov. Code § 9148.4(c), (d)].

The California legislature adopted a requirement for periodic review of state boards every four years to evaluate and determine whether each has demonstrated a public need for its continued existence in accordance with enumerated factors and standards as set forth in Chapter 2 (commencing with Section 474) of Division 1.2 of the Business and Professions Code. [Gov. Code § 9148.51(a)]. If a state board becomes inoperative or is repealed under this section, any provision of existing law that provides for the appointment of board members and specifies the qualifications and tenure of board members shall not be implemented and shall have no force or effect while that state board is inoperative or repealed [Gov. Code § 9148.51(b)]. Similarly, any provision of law authorizing the appointment of an executive officer by a state board subject to the review described in Chapter 2 (commencing with Section 474) of Division 1.2 of the Business and Professions Code, or prescribing his or her duties, shall not be implemented and shall have no force or effect while the applicable state board is inoperative or repealed [Gov. Code § 9148.51(c)]. Finally, the California legislature's intent is that subsequent legislation to extend or repeal the inoperative date for any state board shall be a separate bill for that purpose [Gov. Code § 9148.51(d)]. In at least one area of importance to environmental law, hazardous and toxic chemicals, federal legislation and regulations govern the activities of local agencies [The Emergency Planning and Community Right-to-Know Act, 42 U.S.C. § 11001 et seq.; 40 C.F.R. § 370.1 et seq]. Local environmental agencies are frequently created by local legislative action creating planning commissions or boards of zoning adjustment [see, e.g., Guinnane v. San Francisco Planning Commission (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 732, 257 Cal. Rptr. 742] .

[9] Local Agencies

California local agencies are different from state agencies in many ways. Local agencies include cities that can be either chartered or "general law" municipalities [see Gov. Code §§ 34101, 34102]. Chartered cities have a charter that provides for the cities' primary law, like a governing statute for a state agency. Chartered cities are subject to both state and federal law that preempts local law [Harman v. City and County of San Francisco (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 150, 161, 101 Cal. Rptr. 880, 496 P.2d 1248] . City charters are described as a type of "home rule" option for the residents of a city [Younger v. Board of Supervisors (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 864, 869, 155 Cal. Rptr. 921] . Under Cal. Const., art. XI, § 7, chartered municipalities are given the authority to make decisions about local affairs, including environmental regulation, within their boundaries, so long as such regulation is not in conflict with general laws [People ex rel. Deukmejian v. County of Mendocino (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 476, 483-484, 204 Cal. Rptr. 897, 683 P.2d 1150 (upholding county initiative ordinance prohibiting aerial herbicide spraying)]. Local agencies also include counties, school districts, boards of various types, local and regional, and commissions [Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 46 n.1, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29 (dissenting opinion of Justice Burke)]. Because local agencies are not subject to California's constitutional separation of powers requirements, they frequently exercise both quasi-legislative and quasi-judicial powers [Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 36, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29] . Under Cal. Const., art. XI, § 7, chartered municipalities are presumed to have maximum freedom to make decisions about local affairs, including environmental regulation, within their boundaries, so long as such regulation is not in conflict with general laws [People ex rel. Deukmejian v. County of Mendocino (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 476, 483-484, 204 Cal. Rptr. 897, 683 P.2d 1150 (upholding county initiative ordinance prohibiting aerial herbicide spraying)].

Local environmental agencies may adopt portions of the Administrative Procedure Act. More often, local agencies have highly particularized administrative procedures, which may be governed by state statute, municipal charter, local ordinance, or their own rules [see, e.g., Guinnane v. San Francisco Planning Comm'n (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 732, 257 Cal. Rptr. 742 (upholding and explaining "discretionary review" process under which San Francisco City Planning Commission and Board of Permit Appeals may deny building permits)]. Local environmental agencies are frequently created by local legislative action creating planning commissions or boards of zoning adjustment [see, e.g., Guinnane v. San Francisco Planning Comm'n (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 732, 257 Cal. Rptr. 742] .

[10] Administrative Procedures in General

Except to the extent that a constitutional provision or specific governing law imposes procedural requirements, an administrative agency may perform its assigned tasks by whatever procedures the agency considers suitable under the circumstances.

Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. impose procedural requirements on most state agencies for adopting regulations, as discussed in Ch. 472, Public Agency Rules , et seq. Similarly, Gov. Code § 11500 et seq. impose procedural requirements on many state agencies for conducting administrative trials, as discussed in Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudications , et seq.

Charter provisions and ordinances may impose procedural requirements on local agencies for adopting regulations, and statutes governing a particular agency or situation may impose additional or different requirements on state agencies [see § 470.02[2] for references to discussion of specific agencies].

Meetings of multimember agencies, both state and local, are governed by statute, as discussed in Ch. 475, Public Agency Meetings .

Whether an agency is required to hold a hearing, what kind of hearing is required, and when the hearing must be held, all depend on the circumstances, but there are some generally applicable rules. If administrative action threatens or interferes with a person's liberty or property rights, the constitutional guaranty of due process applies [U.S. Const., amend. XIV, § 1; Cal. Const., art. I, § 7(a)]. Denial of a license application and suspension or revocation of a license, discussed in detail in Ch. 471B, Licensing by Public Agencies , are prominent examples of administrative actions that the type of vested property interest that is protected under the constitutional requirements of due process. Essentially due process requires reasonable notice and opportunity for hearing; for detailed discussion of procedural due process requirements, see Ch. 470A, Due Process Restrictions on Public Agencies .

When due process protections do not apply, for example, when an administrative action is legislative, a hearing is not necessary unless a governing statute prescribes some type of hearing; for further discussion, see Ch. 472, Public Agency Rules .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.13

§ 470.13 Delegation of Administrative Powers

[1] Nature of Delegation

A delegation of power is not the giving up of that power, but rather it is the conferring on another of authority to exercise that power. Delegation is not the surrendering of power but is the temporary transfer of authority to use it [see Black's Law Dictionary; 26A C.J.S., Delegation]. There are basically two levels in government at which power may be delegated. At the higher level, the Legislature and other organs of the state government may delegate certain of their functions and duties concerning administration of the government, and the principal organs of local governments may do likewise. This is accomplished through the establishment of administrative agencies to which the various duties and functions are delegated. At the lower level, administrative agencies may delegate their assigned functions and duties even further [see discussion in [2] et seq., below].

The law respecting delegation of power by administrative agencies has been developed from principles established in cases dealing with city councils, boards of supervisors, and city and county officers. This follows from the similarity between legislative and judicial functions of administrative agencies, on the one hand, and the functions of city and county governing bodies and officers, on the other. The need to rely on such principles is evident because of both that similarity and, more significantly, the fact that administrative agencies did not exist or were very uncommon until relatively recent times. The Supreme Court continues to cite cases and authorities dealing with local governmental entities, without explanation or any attempt to distinguish administrative agencies insofar as the delegation of power is concerned [see, e.g., California School Employees Assn. v. Personnel Com. of Pajaro Valley Unified School Dist. (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 139, 144-145, 89 Cal. Rptr. 620, 474 P.2d 436] .

[2] Discretionary or Judgmental Functions

[a] Delegation Generally Prohibited

Authority conferred on an administrative agency to do acts which involve the exercise of judgment and discretion usually may not be delegated to others. Such power is in the nature of a public trust conferred on the administrative agency for the public benefit and should not be vicariously exercised [see California School Employees Assn. v. Personnel Com. of Pajaro Valley Unified School Dist. (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 139, 144, 89 Cal. Rptr. 620, 474 P.2d 436 ;

Knight v. Eureka (1898) 123 Cal. 192, 194, 55 P. 768 ; Scollay v. Butte County (1885) 67 Cal. 249, 255, 7 P. 661 ; Redwood City v. Moore (1965) 231 Cal. App. 2d 563, 576, 42 Cal. Rptr. 72] . Where the performance of duties requiring the exercise of discretion or judgment has been delegated to an administrative agency, the delegation is purely personal to the agency and usually may not be further delegated [see Schecter v. County of Los Angeles (1968) 258 Cal. App. 2d 391, 396, 65 Cal. Rptr. 739] . The rule against delegation of discretionary and judgmental duties, sometimes termed either delegatus non potest delegare or delegata potestas non potest delegari ("a delegated power may not be redelegated"), is fundamental and apparently of universal application [Chamber of Commerce v. Stephens (1931) 212 Cal. 607, 610, 299 P. 728 ; see, e.g., Schecter v. County of Los Angeles (1968) 258 Cal. App. 2d 391, 396, 65 Cal. Rptr. 739] .

One reason for the rule is that the effect of any such delegation by an administrative agency would by unauthorized amendment of the general law by that agency [Thompson v. Board of Trustees (1904) 144 Cal. 281, 283, 77 P. 951] .

[b] Exception When Delegation Authorized

The general rule against delegation of discretionary or judgmental functions does not apply whenever the delegation is expressly authorized by the Constitution or statute [see California School Employees Assn. v. Personnel Com. of Pajaro Valley Unified School Dist. (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 139, 144, 89 Cal. Rptr. 620, 474 P.2d 436 ; House v. Los Angeles County (1894) 104 Cal. 73, 79, 37 P. 796 ; Schecter v. County of Los Angeles (1968) 258 Cal. App. 2d 391, 396, 65 Cal. Rptr. 739] . An example is Gov. Code § 66622, providing that a member of the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission "may authorize an alternate for attendance at meetings and voting in his absence" [Candlestick Properties, Inc. v. San Francisco Bay Conservation etc. Com. (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 557, 568, 89 Cal. Rptr. 897 (decided under former Gov. Code § 66622)]. Another example is Health & Safety Code § 120970, authorizing the Department of Health Services to contract with an outside entity (Ramsell Corporation) to administer the AIDS Drug Assistance Program [Savient Pharmaceuticals, Inc. v. Department of Health Services (2007) 146 Cal. App. 4th 1457, 1466-1468, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 689] .

When an administrative officer is authorized to delegate some of his or her power, he or she does not necessarily carry that authorization with him or her in all of his or her functions. Legislative and judicial duties generally may not be delegated, and it would be unreasonably inconsistent for one member of the board, commission, or the like, to be able to serve through a deputy, merely because he or she happens to be an officer with general authorization to function through a deputy, whereas other members who do not happen to be officers of some agency, and who, therefore, lack general authorization to function through a deputy, would not be able to do so [see Webster v. Board of Education (1903) 140 Cal. 331, 332, 73 P. 1070] . However, this rule established by case appears to be relaxed under Gov. Code § 7 et seq., which provides that a duty is imposed on a public officer may be performed by a deputy unless the law specifically provides otherwise.

[c] Ratification of Unauthorized Delegation

When an administrative officer or employee, or some other person purporting to act in an official capacity, did an act which he or she had no authority to do, the act may be validated by approval or ratification by the agency or officer actually authorized to do it [see California School Employees Assn. v. Personnel Com. of Pajaro Valley Unified School Dist. (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 139, 145, 89 Cal. Rptr. 620, 474 P.2d 436] . Validating purported delegations of power, however, is a cumbersome way to carry on administrative government because ratification must follow after each act of the delegate. The ratification affects the only the particular act done pursuant to the purported delegation, and may be accomplished only with the same formalities as the agency or officer would be required to follow in performing the delegated duty in the first place [Mott v. Horstmann (1950) 36 Cal. 2d 388, 391, 224 P.2d 11 ; see California School Employees Assn. v. Personnel Com. of Pajaro Valley Unified School Dist. (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 139, 145, 89 Cal. Rptr. 620, 474 P.2d 436] .

[d] Determining Fitness of License Applicants

The determination of the qualifications of an applicant to receive a license is a duty imposed on many administrative agencies. This is a function involving the exercise of discretion [see, e.g., McDonough v. Goodcell (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 741, 746-747, 91 P.2d 1035] . It is the practice of many agencies to delegate, either to a single member or to a committee of members or even to persons outside the agency, the duty of preparing and grading examinations used for determining the applicant's fitness. If examination questions are approved beforehand by the licensing agency, it is immaterial who prepares and grades them, and the grades are impliedly approved when the licensing agency issues the licenses [Aylward v. State Bd. etc. (1948) 31 Cal. 2d 833, 840-841, 192 P.2d 929] .

[e] Public Members of Regulatory Agencies

Some regulatory agencies in the state government are comprised of both professional members and members drawn from the public at large. Certain functions of such an agency may not be delegated solely to a lay member. These include the actual preparation, administration, and grading of examinations and the inspection or investigation of licensed or regulated persons, the manner or method in which a licensed or regulated person practices or does business, or the place of the licensed or regulated person's practice or business [Bus. & Prof. Code § 451; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 7309 (Bureau of Barbering and Cosmetology)]. However, a lay member may participate in certain functions connected with those duties, including (1) the formation of policy relating to examinations, inspections, and investigations, (2) approving, disapproving, or modifying action taken by individual members of the agency, and (3) serving on subcommittees appointed by the agency to perform the duties of the agency, if the subcommittee consists of more than one person [Bus. & Prof. Code § 451].

[3] Ministerial Functions

In the exercise of power conferred on it, an administrative agency may appoint agents to discharge ministerial duties not calling for the exercise of discretion [see House v. Los Angeles County (1894) 104 Cal. 73, 79, 37 P. 796 ; Schecter v. County of Los Angeles (1968) 258 Cal. App. 2d 391, 396-397, 65 Cal. Rptr. 739 ; see also California School Employees Assn. v. Personnel Com. of Pajaro Valley Unified School Dist. (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 139, 144-145, 89 Cal. Rptr. 620, 474 P.2d 436] . It is not necessary that the delegation of ministerial duties be expressly authorized. Authorization for such delegation may be inferred as inherent in an express grant of power to do some act to which the ministerial function in question is incidental [see Klevesahl v. Byington (1934) 1 Cal. App. 2d 671, 676, 37 P.2d 179] . A common example of a ministerial duty which may be delegated pursuant to implicit authorization, if express authorization does not exist, is the making of an investigation to determine relevant facts before the agency undertakes proposed discretionary or judgmental action [see California School Employees Assn. v. Personnel Com. of Pajaro Valley Unified School Dist. (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 139, 144-145, 89 Cal. Rptr. 620, 474 P.2d 436] .

[4] Distinguishing Ministerial and Discretionary Functions

The distinction between discretionary functions and ministerial functions is often difficult to determine, almost any official act involves some degree of discretion [Johnson v. State of California (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 782, 788, 73 Cal. Rptr. 240, 447 P.2d 352 ; see Ham v. Los Angeles County (1920) 46 Cal. App. 148, 162, 189 P. 462)]. At the very least, ministerial officers must use enough discretion and judgment to determine whether facts exist which authorize them to act [Holley v. Orange County (1895) 106 Cal. 420, 424-425, 39 P. 790] .

Cases attempting to distinguish between ministerial functions and discretionary functions need to be read closely. Many cite a literal difference in meaning between ministerial and discretionary, but this approach has less to recommend it than analyzing the policy considerations behind making the distinction [see Johnson v. State of California (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 782, 788-789, 73 Cal. Rptr. 240, 447 P.2d 352] . Other cases draw the distinction variously:

- Discretionary acts are those wherein there is no hard and fast rule as to the course of conduct that one must or must not take and, if there is a clearly defined rule, such would eliminate discretion [Elder v. Anderson (1962) 205 Cal. App. 2d 326, 331, 23 Cal. Rptr. 48 ; see Johnson v. State of California (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 782, 788, 73 Cal. Rptr. 240, 447 P.2d 352] .

- A discretionary act is one which requires the exercise of judgment or choice, or an equitable decision of what is just and proper under the circumstances [Burgdorf v. Funder (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 443, 449, 54 Cal. Rptr. 805 ; see Johnson v. State of California (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 782, 788, 73 Cal. Rptr. 240, 447 P.2d 352] .

- A discretionary act is one which requires personal deliberation, decision and judgment while an act is said to be ministerial when it amounts only to the performance of a duty in which the officer is left no choice of his own [Morgan v. County of Yuba (1964) 230 Cal. App. 2d 938, 942, 41 Cal. Rptr. 508 ; see Johnson v. State of California (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 782, 788, 73 Cal. Rptr. 240, 447 P.2d 352] .

[5] Validity of Purported Delegation

[a] Source of Power

It is often said that administrative agencies have only such power as the law expressly or implicitly confers on them [see City & County of San Francisco v. Padilla (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 388, 400, 100 Cal. Rptr. 223] . Duties may not be delegated, therefore, unless the delegation is expressly or implicitly authorized by law. Express authorization may be found in constitutional or charter provisions, initiative measures, statutes, and ordinances. Sometimes express authorization will be found in an administrative regulation, which may have the force and effect of law [see, e.g., Viner v. Civil Serv. Comm'n (1943) 59 Cal. App. 2d 458, 465, 139 P.2d 88] . Express authorization seldom creates any problems, although sometimes locating the provision giving authorization is difficult.

An agency has the authority to exercise powers authorized by statute [Fireman's Fund Ins. Companies v. Quackenbush (1997), 52 Cal. App. 4th 599, 605, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 732] , and its authority extends both to statutory powers expressly granted as well as to those powers reasonably implied from the statute [Calfarm Ins. Co. v. Deukmejian (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 805, 824, 258 Cal. Rptr. 161, 771 P.2d 1247 ; 20th Century Ins. Co. v. Quackenbush (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 1352].

Most controversies relate to whether authorization is implied in the circumstances. Since authorization to delegate duties involving discretion or judgment is exceptional and must be clearly given, implicit authorization will almost always be found to exist when a ministerial duty has been delegated, but seldom when a discretionary or judgmental duty is involved. Since the general rule is that ministerial duties may be delegated, a finding that the duty in question is ministerial will usually lead to a finding that delegation of it is lawful, even if no express provision in a statute, an ordinance, or the like, authorizes delegation [see Klevesahl v. Byington (1934) 1 Cal. App. 2d 671, 676, 37 P.2d 179] .

[b] Nature of Administrative Function

There might be some difference between legislative and judicial functions with respect to the delegation of power; that is, a delegation of power in connection with the exercise of a legislative function might be less objectionable than where the agency delegating the power is engaged in a judicial function. In one case, for example, it was held proper for an agency to delegate to a hearing committee the duty of taking evidence relative to whether a regulation should be amended, since the committee only received the evidence and put it into orderly form for the consideration of the agency. The committee's function was ministerial, involving no exercise of discretion, and on this basis the delegation was proper. "Moreover," the court added, "in acting upon a proposal to amend the California Code of Regulations ... the [agency] sits in its legislative capacity ... and not in its quasi-judicial character" [Vita-Pharmacals, Inc. v. Bd. of Pharmacy (1952) 110 Cal. App. 2d 826, 831, 243 P.2d 890] . The clear implication is that delegation of power is less objectionable in the one case than in the other.

[c] Balancing of Interests

The courts might be reluctant to find an unlawful attempt to delegate duties where the practical effects of the act done are slight compared with the evident need to have a subordinate do it for the sake of efficient administrative government, provided the language of the governing law is sufficiently ambiguous to allow a broad interpretation to that end. For example, in a case where the general manager of a city harbor department imposed a five-day disciplinary suspension without pay on a harbor pilot for insubordination, a court of appeal upheld the suspension and rejected the pilot's argument that a charter provision authorizing the general manager to impose such suspensions without approval of the city board of harbor commissioners amounted to an unlawful attempt to delegate a discretionary duty to the general manager [see Patton v. Board of Harbor Commissioners (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 536, 543, 91 Cal. Rptr. 832] . The charter provision in question was ambiguous and covered many different kinds of duties to be performed by the general manager subject to the provisions of this charter, the rules of the harbor department and the instructions of the board of harbor commissioners. The court observed that the provision "obviously does not require that the General Manager obtain the Board's instructions on each occasion before he acts" and that "[t]here is nothing objectionable in the legislative grant of the power over short suspensions to the General Manager, subject to the Board's supervision, to enable him to better administer the [harbor] department" [Patton v. Board of Harbor Commissioners (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 536, 543, 91 Cal. Rptr. 832] . It is likely that if the pilot involved had been discharged instead of suspended, pursuant to the general manager's apparent authority to discharge employees given in the same sentence of the charter provision authorizing suspensions, the court would have taken a different view. The effect of a discharge not sligh in comparison with the need to allow the general manager some freedom in administering the department.

[d] Qualifications of Delegate

There is apparently no implicit requirement, either from necessity or on constitutional principles, that a person or an entity to whom a duty is delegated be qualified to perform it [see, e.g., Stoetzner v. Los Angeles (1959) 170 Cal. App. 2d 394, 398, 338 P.2d 971] . As a practical matter, however, there are no advantages and several serious disadvantages in appointing an unqualified delegate to perform administrative functions. Such a practice might result in liability for tort. The question whether a duty has been delegated would not be affected by the lack of the delegate's qualifications, unless there is a provision in the law requiring certain qualifications. Such a provision may be specific, such as Lab. Code § 7309, authorizing the Chief of the Division of Industrial Safety to delegate his or her duty to inspect elevators to "any qualified elevator inspector employed by an insurance company"; or it may be general, such as Gov. Code § 1020 et seq., prescribing certain qualifications for public officers and employees. Those sections must be read in conjunction with any provision in other legislation giving an administrative agency authority to delegate certain duties, if no different standards governing the qualifications of a delegate are given in the other legislation [see Candlestick Properties, Inc. v. San Francisco Bay Conservation etc. Com. (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 557, 568, 89 Cal. Rptr. 897 (delegation of duties by members of San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission pursuant to Gov. Code § 66622)]. The qualifications which a delegate must have seldom are given with reference to the delegate. Rather, certain qualifications will be prescribed for the office of the person making the delegation, and to the extent that these qualifications relate to performing the duty to be delegated, they will be the minimum qualifications which the delegate must have [see, e.g., Gov. Code § 66622; see also Candlestick Properties, Inc. v. San Francisco Bay Conservation etc. Com. (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 557, 568, 89 Cal. Rptr. 897 ; Serenko v. Bright (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 682, 690, 70 Cal. Rptr. 1 (person appointed by Director of Motor Vehicles to conduct departmental hearings on driver's license suspensions and revocations is not required to have higher qualifications than are prescribed for office of director, for which no special qualifications are given in Vehicle Code)].

In some cases the qualifications which a delegate must have are left to the discretion of agency or officer. For example, Gov. Code § 6662 provides that each member of the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission who serves as a representative of one of the nine counties surrounding the bay may designate as an alternate to attend and vote at meetings a public official whom the appointing power deems qualified to represent the county. It seems that this statute gives the board of supervisors discretion to prescribe qualifications in addition to those given in Gov. Code § 1020 et seq. (general qualifications for public officers and employees) but probably not in place of them.

[e] Delegate Outside Government

Administrative agencies do not always, and need not always, delegate duties to other agencies or officers or even to persons or entities in government service. While an agency may not delegate its duty to control public affairs, it may delegate the performance of administrative functions to persons and entities outside government if it "retains ultimate control over administration so that it may safeguard the public interest" [Chamber of Commerce v. Stephens (1931) 212 Cal. 607, 610, 299 P. 728 ; Los AngelesCounty v. Nesvig (1965) 231 Cal. App. 2d 603, 616-617, 41 Cal. Rptr. 918] . In a case where a public function seems to be performed by a person or an entity outside government, if the duty to perform the function is delegable, the question is whether or not the agency that delegated it retained ultimate control over administration [Los Angeles County v. Nesvig (1965) 231 Cal. App. 2d 603, 617, 41 Cal. Rptr. 918] . This translates into whether control was retained in all matters involving the exercise of judgment and discretion. Usually the issue has arisen with respect to proprietary activities carried on by government [see, e.g., Egan v. San Francisco (1913) 165 Cal. 576, 584, 133 P. 294 (operating municipal opera house); Morton Bros. v. Pacific Coast S.S. Co. (1898) 122 Cal. 352, 353-354, 55 P. 1 (leasing use of piers); Los Angeles County v. Nesvig (1965) 231 Cal. App. 2d 603, 617, 41 Cal. Rptr. 918 (operating municipal music center)].

In one such case, the court found that ultimate control had been retained where the agency's control extended to long-term subleases, short-term subleases, admission prices, concessions, and food and refreshment prices and service charges, and the private operator's annual budget [Los Angeles County v. Nesvig (1965) 231 Cal. App. 2d 603, 617, 41 Cal. Rptr. 918 ; see Haggerty v. Oakland (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 407, 415-417, 326 P.2d 957 (ultimate control retained respecting private operation of municipal convention hall and banquet building)].

In some cases the delegation of a duty to a person or an entity outside government is authorized by statute. For example, the Chief of the Division of Industrial Safety is authorized by statute to delegate to qualified employees of insurance companies his or her duty to inspect elevators [see Lab. Code § 7309].

[f] Nature of Delegated Power

A procedure which in form looks like a delegation of power cannot accomplish a delegation unless the delegate receives some power that he or she does not already have. If the delegate already has all of the power purportedly delegated to him or her, there is obviously no delegation, even though the delegating agency or officer has attempted to transfer power [see Schnider v. State of California (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 439, 443, 241 P.2d 1] .

[g] Procedure

An apparent delegation might actually be no delegation at all if required procedures were not followed. A procedure is not always prescribed, and where this is the case, it probably is sufficient to follow any reasonable procedure. However, if a statute, an ordinance, or the like, prescribes a procedure, that procedure must be followed in order to accomplish a delegation. An example of such a statutory procedure is found in Gov. Code § 66622 providing, "A member [of the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission], subject to confirmation by the member's appointing power, may authorize an alternate for attendance at meetings and voting in the member's absence. Each alternate shall be designated in a written instrument which shall include evidence of the confirmation by the appointing power and the alternate's name shall be kept on file with the commission." The result of failing to follow a prescribed procedure is not necessarily the voiding of the attempted delegation. It would evidently be void where no corrective measures were taken to cure a defect in the procedure, but it is apparent that a defective procedure can be corrected by ratification.

When an administrative agency has done an act that does not comport with a prescribed procedure for delegation but which could nevertheless amount to a delegation, the issue is whether or not the evidence shows that a delegation, in fact, took place, or that the agency, in fact, attempted to delegate a nondelegable duty. If the evidence shows that the agency, in fact, did not exercise or try to exercise any authority to delegate the duty in question, the ambiguous act will not constitute a delegation [see Eggert v. Pacific States Sav. & L. Co. (1943) 57 Cal. App. 2d 239, 249, 136 P.2d 822] .

[6] Statutory Authorization to Delegate

[a] Delegation to Deputy

Many administrative officials have authority to delegate their duties to deputies [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10; Corp. Code § 7; Educ. Code § 7; Elec. Code § 7; Fin. Code § 6; Fish & Game Code § 6; Food & Agric. Code § 13; Gov. Code § 7; Harb. & Nav. Code § 7; Health & Safety Code § 7; Ins. Code § 7; Lab. Code § 7; Mil. & Vet. Code § 7; Penal Code § 10005; Pub. Res. Code § 7; Pub. Util. Code § 7; Rev. & Tax Code § 7; Sts. & Hy. Code § 7; Unemp. Ins. Code § 7; Veh. Code § 8; Water Code § 7; Welf. & Inst. Code § 7].

One example, Bus. & Prof. Code § 10, provides: "Whenever, by the provisions of this code, a power is granted to a public officer or a duty [is] imposed upon such an officer, the power may be exercised or the duty [may be] performed by a deputy of the officer or by a person authorized pursuant to law by the officer, unless it is otherwise expressly provided." The import of these statutes is expressed as a general rule in Gov. Code § 1194, providing that a deputy has the authority and may perform the duties of his or her principal, unless the law provides otherwise.

The California State Controller did not improperly delegate her duties as a member of the State Board of Equalization to her deputy when the deputy controller, not a member of the Board, appeared at a Board meeting on behalf of the Controller, and voted to approve the findings and decisions of the Board. The controller is not required to approve and sign the findings and decision of the Board personally [County of Los Angeles v. State Board of Equalization (2003) 105 Cal. App. 4th 1, 20-22, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 209] .

[b] Delegation to Administrative Law Judge

In any hearing governed by Chapter 5 of the APA (Gov. Code § 11500 et seq.), an agency may delegate to the Administrative Law Judge [see Gov. Code § 11502(a) (all hearings as required to be conducted by Administrative Law Judge from Office of Administrative Hearings)] any or all of its power relating to the conduct of the hearing [Gov. Code § 11512(b)]. The conduct of the hearing does not include making a decision, although the Administrative Law Judge will in some cases prepare a proposed decision that might be adopted by the agency as its own [see Gov. Code § 11517(c)(1)].

[c] Delegation by Head of Department

Gov. Code § 11182 provides that the head of a department may delegate the powers conferred on him by Gov. Code § 11180 et seq. to any officer of the department he authorizes. The reference here is to heads of denominated departments, not to heads of departments-in-fact. However, in most cases the agencies administering departments-in-fact are expressly given the powers of the head of a department set out in Gov. Code § 11180 et seq. [see, e.g., Health & Safety Code § 39514 (Air Resources Board)].

The written delegation by the Chairman of the California Fair Political Practices Commission of the duties of the Executive Director to three employees of the commission was upheld against an attack by a campaign organization that was fined $808,000 by FPPC for violation of the campaign finance laws. One of the employees signed an accusation against the organization. Another employee presided over a probable cause hearing and made a finding against the organization. The organization challenged the authority of these employees to make these determinations on grounds of improper delegation of authority. The court rejected the challenge, in part, based on the de facto officer doctrine which precludes a third party from challenging the actions of an officer, de facto, acting within the scope of and with apparent authority of the public office whose duties the officer, de facto, is carrying out [Fair Political Practices Commission v. Californians Against Corruption (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 269, 275-277, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 659] .

[7] Statutory Prohibition Against Delegation

[a] Regulatory Agencies

No board, commission, examining committee, or similarly constituted body exercising authority under the Business and Professions Code may delegate solely to a public or lay member any duty or responsibility for (1) the actual preparation, administration, and grading of examinations or (2) inspecting or investigating licensees, the manner or method in which licensees do business or practice a profession, or the places where licensees do business or practice a profession [Bus. & Prof. Code § 451].

This prohibition does not preclude a public or lay member, however, from participating in the formation of policy relating to those functions, or from participating in approving, disapproving, or modifying the action of the individual members of the board, commission, or the like, or from participating as a member of a subcommittee consisting of two or more members in the performance of any duty [Bus. & Prof. Code § 451].

[b] Medi-Cal Act Administration

The director of a county agency which administers the provisions of the Medi-Cal Act (Welf. & Inst. Code § 14000 et seq.) and also administers medical facilities may not delegate to an employee the duty of deciding whether to authorize aid under the act if he or she has delegated to the employee in question authority to operate or to participate in operating any such medical facility [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14116].

[c] Medical Board of California and Committees

The Division of Medical Quality of the Medical Board of California [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2001 to 2024] or the senior assistant attorney general of the health quality enforcement section [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2226] may do the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2226]:

- Inspect a licensed general or specialized hospital.
- Require certain written reports from a hospital to determine whether it is complying with the law.
- Inspect medical staff and patient hospital medical records.

This authority to inspect or to require written reports may not be delegated to any person other than a licensed physician or surgeon [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2226].

[d] Local Appraisal Commissions

A local appraisal commission established by the Board of Equalization may not delegate its duty of appraising property to any private interest [Rev. & Tax Code § 1720].

[e] Pooled Money Investment Board

It is the duty of the Pooled Money Investment Board (consisting of the Controller, the Treasurer, and the Director of Finance), and the board's only function, to determine every month what state funds are available for investment or deposit in bank accounts [Gov. Code §§ 16480, 16480.1]. The concurrence of only two of the three members is sufficient for making a determination, but the members of the board are directed to perform their duties personally and are expressly prohibited from authorizing a deputy to act for them [Gov. Code § 16480.1].

[f] Youthful Offender Parole Board

The Youthful Offender Parole Board, which along with the Director of the Youth Authority administers the Department of the Youth Authority [see Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 1710-1711], may not delegate its duty to classify and segregate persons committed to the Youth Authority [See Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 1730-1741 (commitments to Youth Authority)].

[8] Joint-Powers Agreements

Two or more public agencies may make a joint-powers agreement for the purpose of exercising jointly any authority common to them [Gov. Code § 6502; see Gov. Code § 6500 (public agency defined)]. The agreement may designate any person, firm, corporation, commission, or board, or any of the parties, to administer or execute the agreement [Gov. Code § 6506]. The effect is, or may be, a delegation of power. Joint-powers agreements are governed by Gov. Code §§ 6500-6515.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.14

§ 470.14 Internal Administration

[1] Authority of Department Head

Subject to the approval of the Governor, each head of a department in the state government may arrange and classify the work of the department and may create, consolidate, and abolish divisions within the department [Gov. Code § 11152]. For the betterment of the public service, the head of each department may reassign such duties as he or she sees fit to any employee under the chief of any division [Gov. Code § 11152]. Except as may be otherwise provided by a specific statute, the head of a department may, with the approval of the Governor, appoint such officers and employees as are necessary and prescribe their duties [Gov. Code § 11154].

This includes appointment of a chief to be in charge of any division in the department [see Gov. Code § 11153]. The head of a department may require any officer or employee to execute an official bond, in addition to any bond required by the Director of General Services, in whatever amount the head of the department determines [Gov. Code § 11156]. The head of a department may adopt such rules and regulations as are necessary to govern the activities of the department and may assign to the departmental personnel whatever duties he or she sees fit to assign to them [Gov. Code § 11152].

[2] Appointment of Personnel

All assistants, deputies, and other subordinate officers whose appointments are not otherwise provided for are appointed by the officer or body to whom they are subordinate [Gov. Code § 1190]. When not otherwise provided for, the appointment of deputies and other subordinate officers must be made in writing and filed in the office of the appointing agency or official or filed with its or his or her clerk [Gov. Code § 1191]. When the number of deputies or other subordinate officers is not fixed by law, it is limited only by the discretion of the agency or official making appointments [Gov. Code § 1193]. The Governor appoints every official where the manner of appointment is not otherwise prescribed by law [Gov. Code § 1300]. If the term of office of an official is not fixed by law, he or she serves at the pleasure of the agency or official who appointed him or her [Gov. Code § 1301].

[3] Departmental Offices

The headquarters of elective constitutional officers, other than members of the legislature, are established by filing a written statement with the State Board of Control certifying that the selected headquarters is the place where the officer spends the largest protion of his or her working time [Gov. Code § 11031].

[4] Fees

Every administrative agency, at every level of government, is required to accept a personal check in payment of any fee if (1) the check is made payable to the order of the agency, (2) it is drawn on a banking institution in California, and (3) the person issuing the check furnishes, to the person authorized to receive payment, satisfactory proof of residence in California [Gov. Code § 6157(a)].

This provision does not apply to paying any bail deposit. If the check is returned to the agency without payment, for any reason, the agency may impose a reasonable charge for the returned check, not to exceed the actual costs incurred by the agency, to recover its processing and collection costs. The agency may also prescribe a different method of payment for that and future payments by the particular payor [Gov. Code § 6157(b); see Gov. Code § 6157(b), (d) (setting forth when the returned check charge can be added to an existing obligation)].

The agency's acceptance of a personal check constitutes payment of the obligation owed, to the extent of the amount of the check, when (but not before) the check is duly paid [Gov. Code § 6157(c)]. Officers of the state are prohibited from performing any official services unless the fees prescribed by law have been paid, with certain exceptions stated in Gov. Code §§ 6101-6109 [Gov. Code § 6100]. On payment of the prescribed fees, the officer is required to perform the appropriate services, and he or she is liable on his or her official bond for every failure or refusal to do so [Gov. Code § 6110].

[5] Legal Counsel

No state agency, commissioner, or officer, except those listed below, has authority to employ any legal counsel other than the Attorney General (or one of his or her assistants or deputies) in any matter in which the agency, commissioner, or officer is interested, or is a party as a result of office or official duties [Gov. Code § 11042] unless the Attorney General has consented in writing to the employment of counsel other than himself or herself [Gov. Code § 11040].

The Attorney General may assign assistants or deputies from his or her staff to serve in any agency, on such terms as the Attorney General deems necessary for conducting the legal business of the agency or rendering legal counsel to it [Gov. Code § 11043].

Agencies to which Gov. Code §§ 11042 and 11043 do not apply are the following [Gov. Code § 11041(a)]:

- The Alcoholic Beverage Control Appeals Board (except when the board affirms the decision of the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control).
- The Division of Labor Standards Enforcement of the Department of Industrial Relations.
- The Inheritance Tax Department.
- The Legal Division of the Department of Public Works.
- The Legislative Counsel Bureau.
- The Public Utilities Commission.

- The Regents of the University of California.
- The Secretary of State.
- The State Compensation Insurance Fund.
- The State Department of Education.
- The State Lands Commission.
- The State Treasurer (with respect to bonds).
- The Trustees of the California State University.
- The Workers' Compensation Appeals Board.
- Any other state agency that, by law enacted after Stats. 1933, ch. 213, is authorized to employ legal counsel.

Chapter 213 was approved by the Governor on May 3, 1933, and took effect on August 21, 1933. It reorganized the Attorney General's Office. The Trustees of the California State University are required to pay the cost of employing legal counsel from their existing resources [Gov. Code § 11041(b)].

[6] Office Hours

All offices of every state agency are required to be kept open for business from 8:00 A.M. until 5:00 P.M. Monday through Friday, except on legal holidays, unless other hours are prescribed by law for a particular agency [Gov. Code § 11020(a)]. Any office of a state agency may be kept open for business during other hours and on other days as well [Gov. Code § 11020(a)]. When a state office is open or operates on Saturday, the agency may operate with a skeleton crew from 9:00 A.M. until noon, if the total number of hours per week that its employees work is not less than the total number of hours established by Gov. Code § 11020(a), that is, 45 hours (8:00 A.M. until 5:00 P.M. Monday through Friday) [Gov. Code § 11021(a)]. Gov. Code §§ 11020(b) and 11021(b) were added to provide that the time provisions in these sections are subject to any memorandum of understanding reached between the employers and employees of an institution of higher learning [Gov. Code §§ 11020(b) and 11021(b)].

[7] Performance Bonds

The form of any bond furnished by licensees and other persons (except public officers and employees) to a state agency pursuant to law is required to be approved by the Attorney General [Gov. Code § 11110]. The Attorney General must indicate his or her approval, as well as modifications and revocations of approval, by a regulation filed with the Secretary of State [Gov. Code § 11112].

[8] State Government Reorganization

The Governor is directed by statute to make periodic reviews of the organization of the state government and to recommend to the Legislature plans of reorganization [Gov. Code §§ 12080.1, 12080.2]. The scope of the Governor's reorganization authority and duties, and the procedure to be followed with respect to reorganization reviews and recommendations, are described in Gov. Code §§ 12080-12080.2. From time to time, the Legislature acts on the Governor's recommendations and reorganizes the state government by changing the names of agencies, shifting agencies from one governmental unit to another, and reassigning law enforcement responsibilities and jurisdiction. To avoid creating ambiguities in such a process from overlooking to amend all relevant statutes in appropriate ways, the Legislature has enacted some general rules by which statutes relating to administrative agencies may be construed:

- Whenever a successor agency is created, either by complete succession (abolishing the old agency and creating a new one) or by reassignment of law enforcement responsibilities and jurisdiction (taking some responsibilities away from one agency and giving them to another), the name of the former agency appearing in any statute is to be construed to refer to the successor agency [Gov. Code § 11159].

- Whenever an agency or a person is charged with enforcing any law which by its terms imposes a duty or confers an authority on a different agency or person formerly so delegated or authorized, that law is to be construed as though the reference to the formerly delegated or authorized agency or person were deleted and replaced by a reference to the agency or person now delegated or authorized [Gov. Code § 11160].

- Civil and criminal rights and obligations, on the part of both private citizens and public employees, remain unchanged by a mere reorganizational change in a law relating to an administrative agency, such as a name change or the shifting of a department from one agency to another [Gov. Code §§ 11161, 11162].

The Legislature has expressed these rules of construction in statutes. The language of the statute should be consulted if any question arises because of the Legislature's evident oversight to amend a particular regulatory statute so that it conforms to reorganizational changes. The apparent intent behind the statutes referred to above [Gov. Code §§ 11159-11162] is that changes in form should not cause substantive changes.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.15

§ 470.15 Validating Acts

[1] Purpose

At more or less regular intervals the Legislature passes acts known as validating acts, for example, the First Validating Act of 1990 [Stats. 1990, ch. 87]. Usually two or three such acts are passed each session. They are seldom codified and attract little attention; yet they can be very important. The purpose of a validating act is to cure procedural defects in certain proceedings of specified state and local agencies and public bodies. Secondarily, the purpose of such an act is to establish a period of limitation, usually short, for lawsuits challenging the validity of the proceedings covered by the act.

[2] Agencies and Public Bodies Covered

The typical validating act, the First Validating Act of 1990 will be cited in this discussion as an example, begins with a list of agencies and public bodies covered by the act [see Stats. 1990, ch. 87, § 2(a)]. Most of them are municipal, county, and regional districts. They all have two features in common: (1) they are territorial and (2) they are empowered to issue revenue bonds.

[3] Operative Provisions

[a] Title of Act

The first operative provision of a validating act typically sets forth the act's formal title. Many validating acts are denominated by ordinal number and by year, for example, the First Validating Act of 1990 [see Stats. 1990, ch. 87, § 1].

[b] Validation of Organization

The second operative provision of a validating act typically validates the organization of each agency and public body covered by the act. For example: "All public bodies [referred to in Section 2] heretofore organized or existing under, or under color of, any law are hereby declared to have been legally organized and to be legally functioning as such public body" [Stats. 1990, ch. 87, § 3].

[c] Confirmation of Rights, Powers, and Duties

The third operative provision typically confirms the rights, powers, and duties of each agency and public body covered by the act. For example: "Every such public body shall have all the rights, powers, and privileges, and be subject to all the duties and obligations of such a public body regularly formed pursuant to law" [Stats. 1990, ch. 87, § 3].

[d] Establishment of Boundaries

The fourth operative provision typically establishes the territorial boundaries of each agency and public body covered by the act. For example: "The boundaries of every public body [referred to in Section 2] as heretofore established, defined, or recorded, or as heretofore actually shown on maps or plats used by the assessor, are hereby confirmed, validated, and declared legally established" [Stats. 1990, ch. 87, § 4].

[e] Validation of Proceedings for Territorial Changes

The fifth operative provision typically validates "[a]ll acts and proceedings heretofore taken by any public body or bodies [referred to in Section 2] under any law, or under color of any law, for the annexation or inclusion of territory into any such public body or for the annexation of any such public body to any other such public body or for the withdrawal or exclusion of territory from any such public body or for the consolidation, merger, or dissolution of any [such] public bodies" [Stats. 1990, ch. 87, § 5]. The acts of officials, employees, and other persons done in connection with such proceedings are also validated.

[f] Validation of Proceedings for Bond Issues

The sixth operative provision typically validates virtually all aspects of the issuance of revenue bonds by the covered agencies and public bodies [see Stats. 1990, ch. 87, § 6]. For good measure, the typical validating act specially defines which bonds the act validates [see Stats. 1990, ch. 87, § 2(b)]. The validation of bond proceedings is probably the most significant effect of a validating act. Citizens may be complacent about the formation of a special district, but they usually become aroused when district trustees begin to finance a project that the district was formed to undertake. By validating bond proceedings, the Legislature intends to foreclose any possibility that a bond issue will be held invalid because of technical procedural mistakes. Sometimes a validating act will be directed particularly at validating a specific kind of bond issue [see, e.g., Stats. 1964, ch. 42, 1st Ex. Sess. (California Water District Sewer Bond Validating Act of 1964)], and occasionally it has seemed necessary to validate tax proceedings that raise the revenue used to pay off bond issues [see, e.g., Stats. 1965, ch. 1130 (Tax Validation Act of 1965)]. Nonprofit corporations can also obtain validation judgments under Code Civ. Proc. § 860 that would guarantee repayment with public funds of tax exempt revenue bonds, and challenges to the validity of the funding that was subject to the validation action can not be subsequently litigated by parties seeking to challenge the funding outside the validation proceeding [Friedland v. City of Long Beach (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 835, 851, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 427] .

[4] Saving Clauses

The typical validating act includes several provisions intended to save the act from being held unconstitutional or otherwise invalid. Usually there are four specific saving clauses [see Stats. 1990, ch. 87, § 7]:

- A statement that the act validates only those acts and proceedings which the Legislature could have supplied or provided for in the law under which such acts or proceedings were taken.

- A statement that validation under the act shall be limited "to the extent to which the same can be effectuated under the State and Federal Constitutions."

- A statement that the act does not validate "a contract between any public body and the United States."

- Most significantly, the following statement: "This act shall not operate to confirm, validate, or legalize any act, proceeding, or other matter the legality of which is being contested or inquired into in any legal proceeding now pending and undetermined or which is pending and undetermined during the period of 30 days from and after the effective date of this act, and shall not operate to conform, validate, or legalize any act, proceeding, or other matter which has heretofore been determined in any legal proceeding to be illegal, void, or ineffective."

[5] Period of Limitation for Legal Challenges

Except for the provision validating bond proceedings, the most important provision in the typical validating act establishes a period of limitation for lawsuits challenging any of the acts or proceedings covered by the validating act [see Stats. 1990, ch. 87, § 8].

Such a provision requires that any such lawsuit not otherwise barred by any statute of limitations or by laches shall be commenced within a specified time after the effective date of this act; otherwise each and all of such matters covered by the validating provisions shall be held to be valid and in every respect legal and incontestable; this act shall not extend the period in which any action may be brought beyond the period in which it would be barred by any presently existing valid statute of limitations.

The limitation period may be as short as the Legislature wishes [60-day time period in Code Civ. Proc. § 863; Embarcadero Mun. Improvement Dist. v. County of Santa Barbara (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 781, 793 (action was time barred when not brought within 60 days of annexation approval)], but always it is short, typically six months [see, e.g., Las Tunas Beach Geological Hazard Abatement Dist. v. Superior Court (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 1002, 1005-1006, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 529 (regarding application of six-month limitation period contained in 1992 validating act)].

[6] Condition of Validation of Boundary Changes for Tax Purposes

The generalized validation of boundary changes is typically made subject to a condition applicable to boundary changes for tax or assessment purposes: "Nothing contained in this act shall be construed to render the creation of any city or district, or any change in the boundaries of any city or district, effective for purposes of assessment or taxation unless the statement, together with the map or plat, required to be filed under Sections 54900 to 54904, inclusive, of the Government Code, is filed within the time and substantially in the manner required by those sections" [Stats. 1990, ch. 87, § 9].

[7] Effective Date and Time References

Most validating acts are urgency measures [see Stats. 1990, ch. 87, § 10] and take effect immediately [Cal. Const., art. IV, § 8(c)], but sometimes a validating act passed near the end of a session will be allowed to take effect as ordinary legislation [see Stats. 1989, ch. 777 (Third Validating Act of 1989)]. The references in a validating act to "now," "heretofore," and "hereafter" relate to the effective date of the act [see Stats. 1990, ch. 87, § 2(c)-(e)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.16

§ 470.16 Limits on Agency Power

[1] The Constitutional Supremacy Clause and Federal Preemption Doctrine

[a] Nature of the Doctrine

Federal constitutional and statutory law, as the supreme law of the land, is binding on state governments [U.S. Const., art. VI, § 2; see Cal. Const., art. III, § 1 (acknowledgment of supremacy of U.S. Constitution)]. Thus, when Congress passes legislation that resolves a national problem, state legislation regulating the same subject may be preempted [Federal Energy Regulatory Com. v. Mississippi (1982) 456 U.S. 742, 759, 102 S. Ct. 2126, 72 L. Ed. 2d 532 (provisions of section 210 of Public Utilities Regulatory Policies Act preempt conflicting provisions of Mississippi state law governing electric utilities; section 210 requires state to enforce regulatory standards adopted by federal energy regulatory commission)].

For example, as allowed under the U.S. Constitution, Congress has extensively regulated interstate and foreign commerce [U.S. Const., art. I, § 8]. Thus, legislation passed by Congress concerning interstate commerce is binding on state governments [Garcia v. San Antonio Metropolitan Transit Authority (1985) 469 U.S. 528, 537, 105 S. Ct. 1005, 83 L. Ed. 2d 1016] , including state administrative agencies [Federal Energy Regulatory Com. v. Mississippi (1982) 456 U.S. 742, 746, 102 S. Ct. 2126, 72 L. Ed. 2d 532] .

In other instances, dual regulation by federal and state agencies may be mandated. For instance, a federal statute may allow or require state agencies to regulate a business or industry also regulated by a federal agency [see, e.g., 15 U.S.C. § 717(c) (delegating authority to regulate intrastate use of natural gas to states)]. Some agencies are also regulated indirectly by the federal government in that they must satisfy conditions imposed by Congress or by federal agencies in order to receive federal funds [see, e.g., 42 U.S.C. § 602 (setting forth conditions for state receipt of AFDC funds)]. For a discussion of this dual regulation, see [b], below.

The California Supreme Court held that a state wine labeling statute, Bus. & Prof. Code § 25241, which required that wine labels with the word "Napa" on them must contain 75-percent or greater Napa county grapes used to make the wine, was not preempted by federal law. The federal law at issue, 27 U.S.C. § 205(e), requires federal approval of wine labels for wine shipped in interstate or foreign commerce. Implementing federal regulations, 27 C.F.R. § 4.39(i)(1), adopted a similar 75-percent grape content standard, but "grandfathered" wine labels in use at the time the regulation was adopted from the 75-percent content standard if the true source of the grapes is also disclosed on the label. Under federal law, Bronco Winery's labels were in compliance with labeling requirements, due to the grandfather clause, but Bronco's labels did not comply with the state wine labeling statute. The California Supreme Court held that the California labeling statute was not preempted by the federal wine labeling law [Bronco Wine Co. v. Jolly (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 943, 953-954, 17 Cal. Rptr. 3d 180, 95 P.3d 422] . In so holding, the Court reasoned that federal law did not expressly preempt state laws regulating the wine industry, nor did federal law impliedly preempt state law by occupying the entire field of wine labeling law. The court also reasoned that federal law was designed to supplement, not replace, state law, and the federal regulatory agency that enforced federal law assumed that states would also enforce their own tougher wine labeling regulations, which were designed to protect against misleading advertising. Finally, state law is not impliedly preempted because it does not block or hinder "the accomplishment and enforcement of the full purposes and objectives of Congress in adopting federal law" [Bronco Wine Co. v. Jolly (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 943, 955-956, 17 Cal. Rptr. 3d 180, 95 P.3d 422] .

The California Supreme Court held that provisions of the Federal Cigarette Labeling and Advertising Act which prohibits states from regulating the advertising and promotion of cigarettes [15 U.S.C. § 1334(b)] did not preempt a California statute [Health & Safety Code § 118950] that regulated the free distribution of cigarettes [People ex rel. Lockyer v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 707, 719, 726, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 814, 124 P. 3d 408] . The California Supreme court also held that it was improper for the trial court to have granted summary judgment on the issue of whether $14,826,200 in fines imposed against the company were excessive within the meaning of the U.S. Constitution [U.S. Const., Amend. 8] and the California constitution [Cal. Const. Art. 1, § 17]. The fines were imposed under statutory authority [Health & Safety Code § 118950] that authorized $200, $500, and $1000 fines for the first, second, and any additional violations of the statute at each event [People ex rel. Lockyer v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 707, 712-713 n. 3, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 814, 124 P. 3d 408] . The court remanded the lawsuit to the trial court for a hearing on defendant company's good faith belief defense (that it in good faith believed that its conduct complied with the statute), and on the issue of whether the attorney general delayed notifying the company that its conduct violated the statute for the purpose of allowing the penalties to accumulate in amount [People ex rel. Lockyer v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 707, 730-732, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 814, 124 P. 3d 408] .

The California Court of Appeal held that the provisions of the Federal Communications Act of 1934, as amended by the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993, that preempt state and local regulation of market entry and rates charged by wireless mobile telephone providers [47 U.S.C. § 332 (c)(3)(A)] did not preempt decisions by the California Public Utilities Commission that imposed substantial fines against wireless service providers in California for unjust and unreasonable practices, including charging customers early termination fees to cancel contracts without permitting a grace period, for failing to disclose to customers known network problems and misleading customers regarding network coverage and service [Pacific Bell Wireless, LLC v. P.U.C. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 718, 730-731, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 733] . The provisions of the National Labor Relations Act [29 U. S. C. §§ 151-160] do not preempt decisions of the California Public Utilities Commission requiring public utilities to pay prevailing wages to workers on energy utility construction projects. The prevailing wage requirement is a substantive employment term that does not impact collective bargaining or employee organizing efforts [Southern California Edison Co. v. Public Utilities Com. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 1085, 1100-1102].

The provisions of the National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996 (NSMIA) [15 U.S.C. § 77r] does not preempt the California Attorney General from bringing an enforcement action under California Corporations Code §§ 25216, 25401 against an investment advisor and registered wholesale broker dealer for statutory violations; the state enforcement action is protected by the savings clause of the preemption provisions of federal law [15 U.S. C. § 77r (c)(1)] [Capital Research and Management Company v. Brown (2007) 147 Cal. App. 4th 58, 66-67, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 770] .

The California Supreme Court held that the provisions of the Federal Cigarette Labeling and Advertising Act (FCLAA)

[15 U. S. C. § 1331-1335] expressly preempts claims brought against tobacco companies under the California unfair competition law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et. seq.] for advertising cigarettes in a manner that encourages minors (under age 18) to start smoking because that advertising encourages violation of the provisions of Penal Code § 653o, prohibiting both the sale of tobacco to minors and the purchase and possession of tobacco by minors [In re Tobacco Cases II (2007) 41 Cal. 4th 1257, 1262-1264, 63 Cal. Rptr. 3d 418, 163 P.3d 106] . The California Supreme Court held that the provisions of the Endangered Species Act (ESA) [16 U. S. C. §§ 1531-1544] do not preempt claims brought against shoe manufacturers under the California Unfair Competition Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et. seq.] for selling athletic shoes made from kangaroo hides in violation of the provisions of Penal Code § 653o, prohibiting the importation into or sale within California of products made from kangaroo [Viva! Internat. Voice for Animals v. Adidas Promotional Retail Operations, Inc., (2007) 41 Cal. 4th 929, 934, 935].

[b] Dual Regulation by State and Federal Agencies

[i] Federal Delegation of Jurisdiction to State

Congress uses two approaches to allow state agencies to regulate activities also regulated by federal agencies. Under the first approach, Congress delegates jurisdiction to a state agency to regulate the intrastate activities of a business or industry that is regulated on an interstate level by a federal agency [see, e.g., 15 U.S.C. § 717(c) (regulation of natural gas)].

State agencies have considerable discretion under this approach to regulate the subject business or industry so that the state's interests are best served [see, e.g., Pub. Util. Code § 202 (regulatory authority of the PUC)]. State regulations cannot directly conflict, however, with those established by Congress [FERC v. Mississippi (1985) 456 U.S. 742, 760, 102 S. Ct. 2126, 72 L. Ed. 2d 532 (federal preemption of conflicting state regulation of public utilities upheld as exercise of Congressional power over interstate commerce)]. State regulations are subordinated to federal regulations in areas in which the federal system fully occupies the regulatory field [Northern Nat. Gas Co. v. State Corp. Com. (1963) 372 U.S. 84, 93, 83 S. Ct. 646, 9 L. Ed. 2d 601] . For a discussion of the PUC, the major California agency that regulates the intrastate activities of businesses and industries regulated on an interstate level by Congress, see § 470.18[2][b].

[ii] Approved State Plan Approach

The second approach used by Congress to permit state regulation of activities also regulated by federal agencies is the "approved state plan" approach. Under this approach, state agencies are responsible for administering federal programs on the state level, and must obtain approval of their program administration plan from the appropriate federal agency [see, e.g., Health & Safety Code § 39602 (Air Resources Board enforces federal Clean Air Act [42 U.S.C §§ 7401-7410]); Welf. & Inst. Code § 10553(e) (State Department of Social Services administers federal Temporary Assistance to Needy Families (TANF) program [42 U.S.C. §§ 601-615])]. State agencies that enforce provisions of an approved state plan are subject to greater federal supervision and have much less discretion to apply the law to local conditions and circumstances [Alaska Dep't of Envtl. Conservation v. EPA (2004) 540 U.S. 461, 124 S. Ct. 983, 157 L. Ed. 2d 967 (EPA issued stop construction order to mine owner which invalidated Alaska state agency issued PSD permit. Permit would have allowed expansion of a mining facility consistent with BACT provisions of Clean Air Act. State agency challenged order, and Supreme court upheld order based on EPA interpretation of BACT standards in Clean Air Act. Supreme Court noted that state agency PSD permit terms were not rationally supported by the administrative record, and the state agency permit decision was inconsistent with the requirements of the CAA, as interpreted by the EPA)].

[2] Individual Constitutional Rights

[a] Privacy

The constitutional right to privacy [U.S. Const., amends. I, IV, V; Cal. Const., art. I, § 1; see Griswold v. Connecticut (1965) 381 U.S. 479, 484, 85 S. Ct. 1678, 14 L. Ed. 2d 510 (recognizing a right to privacy within the penumbra of the First Amendment)] effectively limits the power of administrative agencies to acquire, use, and disclose government information such as arrest records [Central Valley Chap. 7th Step Foundation v. Younger (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 212, 236-237, 157 Cal. Rptr. 117] , medical records [Board of Medical Quality Assurance v. Gherardini (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 669, 679, 156 Cal. Rptr. 55] , and attorneys' records [Doyle v. State Bar (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 12, 20, 184 Cal. Rptr. 720, 648 P.2d 942] .

The right to privacy does not, however, prohibit the Franchise Tax Board from collecting legitimate records or other tax information from business taxpayers [Roberts v. Gulf Oil Corp. (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 770, 790-793, 195 Cal. Rptr. 393] . For a more detailed discussion of the right to privacy, see Ch. 429, Privacy , and see G. Trubow, Privacy Law and Practice (Matthew Bender).

[b] Freedom of Speech and the Press

The constitutional guarantees of freedom of speech and freedom of the press [U.S. Const., amend. I; Cal. Const., art. I, § 2] limit the extent to which an administrative agency may regulate the advertising of products [Va. Pharmacy Bd. v. Va. Consumer Council (1976) 425 U.S. 748, 770, 96 S. Ct. 1817, 48 L. Ed. 2d 346 ; Bronco Wine Co. v. Jolly (2005) 129 Cal. App. 4th 988, 999, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 462 (state wine labeling statute did not violate winery's free speech rights because statute validly regulated inherently misleading commercial speech)], or advertising, solicitation, and other forms of communication by licensees of the agency [Zauderer v. Office of Disciplinary Counsel (1985) 471 U.S. 626, 637, 105 S. Ct. 2265, 85 L. Ed. 2d 652, 17 Ohio B. 315 ; Kitsis v. State Bar (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 857, 863, 153 Cal. Rptr. 836, 592 P.2d 323 (attorneys); People v. Superior Court (Olson) (1979) 96 Cal. App. 3d 181, 192, 157 Cal. Rptr. 628 (real estate agents); Institute of Governmental Advocates v. Younger (1977) 70 Cal. App. 3d 878, 884, 139 Cal. Rptr. 233 (lobbyists)].

Plum growers challenged a marketing order authorized by the California Marketing Act [Cal. Food & Agric. Code § 58601] which required growers to pay for the cost of generic advertising of plums. The growers argued that the marketing order violated the First Amendment because grower's speech was compelled through the mandatory funding requirement. The growers sought to enjoin enforcement of the marketing order. The California Supreme Court held that the First Amendment claims had to be reviewed under the intermediate scrutiny standard of the Central Hudson case [Central Hudson Gas & Elec. v. Public Serv. Comm'n (1980) 447 U.S. 557, 100 S. Ct. 2343, 65 L. Ed. 2d 341] . The court also held that the compelled speech arguments, and the government's argument that this was valid governmental speech could not be resolved on the pleading, and the court ordered a remand of the case to the lower courts for further fact finding. The court also held that the marketing program itself does not violate the First Amendment [Gerawan Farming Inc. v. A.G. Kawamura (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 1, 6-7, 14 Cal.Rptr. 3d 14, 90 P.3d 1179] .

The Court of Appeal held that provisions of a rent control ordinance adopted by the City and County of San Francisco were unconstitutional and violated the First Amendment guarantee of freedom of speech [Baba v. Board of Supervisors (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 504, 512-513, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 428] . The Court noted that the ordinance criminalized conduct by a landlord that was protected by freedom of speech, the right of the landlord to seek a waiver of rights from a tenant who represented himself [Baba v. Board of Supervisors (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 504, 527-528, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 428] . In so holding, the court of Appeal cited and relied upon the U.S. Supreme Court decision in the case of Central Hudson Gas & Elec. Corp. v. Public Serv. Comm'n of N.Y. (1980) 447 U.S. 557, 566, 100 S. Ct. 2343, 65 L. Ed. 2d 341 .

The California Court of Appeal held that the assessment of a $1,000 statutory penalty pursuant to Cal. Rev. & Tax Code § 19714 by the State Board of Equalization for a taxpayer's filing of a frivolous administrative appeal to the Board of Tax Assessment did not violate the taxpayer's free speech rights because there is no constitutional right to bring groundless administrative proceedings [Neufeld v. State Board of Equalization (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 1471,

1477-1478, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 423] .

The state has a legitimate interest in protecting consumers from being misled by false, deceptive, and misleading advertising, however, and may reasonably regulate commercial speech to provide this protection [In re R.M.J. (1982) 455 U.S. 191, 200, 102 S. Ct. 929, 71 L. Ed. 2d 64] .

For a detailed discussion of advertising law, see Ch. 14, Advertising , and see P. Rosden, The Law of Advertising, Chs. 5, 6, 46, and 47 (Matthew Bender). For a discussion of attorney advertising regulations, see Ch. 72, Attorney Practice and Ethics .

[c] Religion

Many agency decisions and regulations have been successfully challenged on the ground that they violate the constitutional guarantees of freedom of religion and separation of church and state [U.S. Const., amend. I; Cal. Const., art. I, § 4].

In one case, the Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board was prohibited from denying unemployment benefits to a teacher who would not work on religious holidays [Jaffe v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 719, 723, 202 Cal. Rptr. 812] . In another case, closing state offices and giving state employees paid time off on Good Friday, a Christian holy day, was held to violate the California Constitution [Mandel v. Hodges(1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 596, 615, 127 Cal. Rptr. 244] . It was held constitutionally permissible, however, to deny welfare benefits to a mother who refused to provide social security numbers for her children on religious grounds [Mullaney v. Woods (1979) 97 Cal. App. 3d 710, 727, 158 Cal. Rptr. 902] .

Agency regulations that require adoption agencies to match children and adoptive parents according to shared religious orientation are subject to, but do not violate, the Constitution [Scott v. Family Ministries (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 492, 497, 135 Cal. Rptr. 430] . A Department of Corrections regulation that limited Roman Catholic publicly-paid chaplaincy positions at state prisons to persons ordained, accredited by, and in good standing with the Roman Catholic church was held not to violate the religion clauses of the United States and the California constitutions [Duffy v. California State Personnel Board (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1, 17, 283 Cal. Rptr. 622, 631] .

[d] Due Process

Constitutional due process requirements [U.S. Const., amend. XIV, § 1; Cal. Const., art. I, § 7] apply to and govern administrative agency hearing procedures. Generally, the right to proper notice and the opportunity for a hearing arises if an individual has been deprived by an agency of a job, benefit, or license in which he or she can claim a property interest [see, e.g., Board of Regents v. Roth (1972) 408 U.S. 564, 576-577, 92 S. Ct. 2701, 33 L. Ed. 2d 548 (suspension of teacher); Goldberg v. Kelly (1970) 397 U.S. 254, 262, 90 S. Ct. 1011, 25 L. Ed. 2d 287 (welfare benefits); Ford Dealers Ass'n v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 347, 366 n.12, 185 Cal. Rptr. 453, 650 P.2d 328 (business license); Skelly v. State Personnel Bd. (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 194, 215, 124 Cal. Rptr. 14, 539 P.2d 774 (permanent civil service job); American Federation of Labor v. Employment Dev. Dept. (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 811, 819, 152 Cal. Rptr. 193 (unemployment benefits)].

For detailed discussion of due process requirements, see Ch. 470A, Due Process Restrictions on Public Agencies [see also Bird, "California and Federal Administrative Due Process: Development, Interrelation and Direction," 5 U.C.D. L. Rev. 1 (1972)].

For detailed discussion of agency hearing procedures, see Ch. 473, Pubic Agency Adjudication , et seq.

[e] Equal Protection

For most purposes, the state equal protection standards that apply to California agencies [Cal. Const., art. I, § 7] are the same as those required under federal law; [U.S. Const., amend. XIV, § 1; Reece v. Alcoholic Bev. Appeals Bd. (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 675, 679, 134 Cal. Rptr 698] . However, California agencies are bound by California standards in areas in which those standards are more stringent than federal standards [see, e.g., Serrano v. Priest (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 728, 764, 135 Cal. Rptr. 345, 557 P.2d 929 (education financing that discriminates on basis of district wealth violates California equal protection clause even though it does not violate federal equal protection standards)].

In addition to guaranteeing equal protection under the laws, the California Constitution specifically prohibits employment discrimination on the basis of gender, race, creed, color, or national or ethnic origin [Cal. Const., art. I, § 8; but see Long v. State Personnel Board (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 1000, 1014, 116 Cal. Rptr. 562 (excluding women from the job of prison chaplain held not to violate this prohibition)]. An agency's use of affirmative action hiring policies has been held not to violate either the equal protection clause or the employment discrimination clause, and did not constitute unlawful discrimination against men [Minnick v. Department of Corrections (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 506, 523, 157 Cal. Rptr. 260] .

Equal protection under the law was not denied to licensed chiropractors by the scope of practice adopted in the Chiropractic Initiative Act of 1992 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 1000-7] which precluded chiropractors from penetrating human tissue, including the modern use of needles as part of acupuncture. Chiropractors could not claim fundamental right nor suspect class status, and therefore equal protection analysis was based on rational basis test under which Board's regulation, 12 Cal. Code Regs. § 302, was not unconstitutional [Tain v. State Bd. of Chiropractic Exam'rs (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 609, 629-631, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 330 (Chiropractic Act, adopted by initiative in 1992, establishes a scope of chiropractic practice that excludes use of drugs, surgery or obstetrics by chiropractors; Court of appeal upheld those scope of practice limits and rejected a constitutional challenge to them based on equal protection of law)].

[f] Protection From Unreasonable Search and Seizure

The right of citizens to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures [U.S. Const., amend. IV; Cal. Const., art. I, § 13] applies to inspections by California agencies [Camara v. Municipal Court (1967) 387 U.S. 523, 538, 87 S. Ct. 1727, 18 L. Ed. 2d 930 ; see, e.g., Miller v. Obledo (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 714, 715, 145 Cal. Rptr. 140 (inspection of optometrists' records); Currier v. City of Pasadena (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 810, 815, 121 Cal. Rptr. 913 , cert. denied, 423 U.S. 1000, 96 S. Ct. 432, 46 L. Ed. 2d 375 (housing code enforcement)]. California has a statutory administrative inspection system [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1822.50-1822.59] that requires an agency to obtain a search warrant based on reasonable cause [Code Civ. Proc. § 1822.52] when a person or business refuses to consent to an administrative search or inspection [Code Civ. Proc. § 1822.51].

This "reasonable cause" standard is not the same as the traditional "probable cause" standard applicable to criminal cases. Reasonable cause to support an administrative inspection warrant is present if either (1) "reasonable legislative or administrative standards for conducting a routine or area inspection are satisfied," or (2) there is "reason to believe that a condition of nonconformity exists with respect to the particular place" to be inspected [Code Civ. Proc. § 1822.52; see City and County of San Francisco v. Municipal Court (1985) 167 Cal. App. 3d 712, 719-721, 213 Cal. Rptr. 477 (reasonable legislative and administrative standards for area inspection satisfied by city's inspection to determine conformity with housing and other building codes as part of residential assistance program)].

For a more detailed discussion of administrative investigations, inspections, and searches, see Ch. 471, Investigations by Public Agencies , and Ch. 471A, Inspections by Public Agencies .

[3] Constitutional Separation of Powers Limits and the Role of the Judiciary

Because most agencies are created by the Legislature and are located within the executive branch [see Gov. Code §§ 12800 (major executive branch agencies), 12850.4 (agency heads accountable to governor); see § 470.19], an exercise of legislative or executive power by an administrative agency usually does not give rise to separation of powers issues.

A separation of powers issue may arise, however, on a court's review of an agency's exercise of legislative power. In this instance, separation of powers limits the power of the court rather than the agency. The separation of powers doctrine precludes a court from ordering a legislative body to pass a particular legislative act [Mandel v. Myers (1981) 29 Cal. 3d 531, 551 n.9, 174 Cal. Rptr. 841, 629 P.2d 935 ; City of Coachella v. Riverside County Airport Land Use Com. (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 1277, 1287-1288, 258 Cal. Rptr. 795] . Separation of powers issues in agency law generally concern the exercise of judicial functions by agencies.

If permitted by its enabling act, an agency may hold hearings, consider evidence, and suspend or revoke licenses issued by the agency without offending the separation of powers clause of the California Constitution [Beamon v. Dept. of Motor Vehicles (1960) 180 Cal. App. 2d. 200, 205, 4 Cal. Rptr. 396] . The separation of powers clause is set forth in Cal. Const., art. III, § 3. The courts have final review authority, however, over agency adjudicatory matters [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1094.5, 1094.6; Bodinson Mfg. Co. v. California E. Com. (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 321, 325, 109 P.2d 935] .

Superior courts have appellate jurisdiction over the decisions of state and local administrative agencies [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1094.5, 1094.6 (administrative mandamus); see Ch. 474, Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , et seq. (for detailed discussion of judicial review of agency decisions)].

Federal and state appellate courts also engage in review of administrative agency decisions, for the following purposes:

- Interpreting constitutional provisions [see, e.g., Mathews v. Eldridge (1976) 424 U.S. 319, 335, 96 S. Ct. 893, 47 L. Ed. 2d 18 (due process); Horn v. County of Ventura (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 605, 613, 156 Cal. Rptr. 718, 596 P.2d 1134 (due process requirements for zoning determinations)].

- Determining legislative intent and interpreting statutes [see, e.g., Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 32-33, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29 (administrative mandamus statute); Brown v. State Personnel Bd. (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 1151, 1158-1159, 213 Cal. Rptr. 53 (statute of limitations)].

- Developing legal principles and applying them to agencies [see, e.g., Walker v. San Gabriel (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 879, 881-882, 129 P.2d 349 . 2d 349 (use of hearsay evidence); Gates v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1979) 94 Cal. App. 3d 921, 925-926, 156 Cal. Rptr. 791 (power of trial court to dismiss administrative proceeding for unreasonable delay)].

The reviewing court may reverse an agency's grant of a remedy, but may not itself award or deny the remedy. Instead, the court must remand the case back to the agency for reconsideration based on its decision [Lucas v. Board of Education (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 674, 682-683, 119 Cal. Rptr. 462, 532 P.2d 110] .

Depending on the agency action involved, judicial review of administrative actions may be obtained through regular mandamus [Code Civ. Proc. § 1085], administrative mandamus [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5], or declaratory relief proceedings [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 (declaratory relief proceedings in general); Gov. Code § 11350(a) (declaratory relief actions concerning validity of administrative regulations)].

For detailed discussion and forms of judicial review of adjudicative proceedings by way of administrative mandate, see Ch. 474, Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , et seq. For discussion and forms relating to judicial review of executive actions such as investigations, inspections, and licensing actions, see Ch. 471, Investigations by Public Agencies , et seq. For discussion and forms relating to judicial review of administrative rulemaking, see Ch. 472B, Review of Agency

Rulemaking . For discussion and forms relating to declaratory relief generally, see Ch. 182, Declaratory Relief .

[4] Limits Imposed by the California APA

The California APA [see Gov. Code § 11340 et seq.] provides uniform procedures for rulemaking and administrative adjudication by most state agencies. Chapter 5, Administrative Adjudication: Formal Hearing, of the California APA applies to any state agency that is made subject to it by the terms of its enabling act [Gov. Code §§ 11500(a), 11501(a)].

If an agency is not subject to the California APA, its administrative hearing procedures and the rights of the parties involved in such procedures are determined by the provisions of the agency's enabling act [Noll v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 281, 283, 79 Cal. Rptr. 236] . Local agencies are not subject to the California APA unless the agency has expressly adopted it [Allen v. Humboldt County Board of Supervisors (1963) 220 Cal. App. 2d 877, 883, 34 Cal. Rptr. 232] .

For further discussion of California APA rulemaking procedures, see § 470.11, above, and Ch. 472, Public Agency Rules, et seq. Adjudicatory actions under the California APA are discussed in § 470.11, above, and Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudications, et seq.

[5] Limits on Remedies Available Through Administrative Adjudication

[a] Damages

The constitutional right to a jury trial [Cal. Const., art. I, § 16] prevents an administrative agency from awarding damages, because it does not conduct hearings before a jury, [see Gov. Code § 11512(a) (adjudicatory matters heard by ALJ and/or agency for agencies subject to California APA)]. The right to a jury trial in civil matters applies to actions, like those for damages, that have been historically legal actions rather than equitable actions [C & K Engineering Contractors v. Amber Steel Co. (1978) 23 Cal. 3d 1, 8, 151 Cal. Rptr. 323, 587 P.2d 1136] .

In some agency matters, however, a person who is aggrieved by an agency's decision or by its failure to take administrative action may file a civil action in the superior court requesting damages or other appropriate relief from the agency [see, e.g., Gov. Code § 12965(b) (authorizing civil actions by persons aggrieved by Fair Employment and Housing Commission's failure to issue administrative accusation)].

Agencies and their employees are protected from liability for injuries caused by acts or omissions done in their official capacity to the extent provided by the Tort Claims Act [Gov. Code § 815; Gov. Code § 810 et seq.]. For detailed discussion of liability under the Tort Claim Act, see Ch. 464, Public Entities and Officers: California Tort Claims Act ; see also Levy, Golden, and Sacks, California Torts(Matthew Bender).

[b] Injunctive Relief

An administrative agency may not issue injunctions or other equitable orders [see Cal. Const., art. III, § 3 (separation of powers); see [3], above]. Many agencies are authorized, however, to petition the superior court for injunctions or temporary restraining orders (TROs) to prevent licensees or others from engaging in conduct that violates provisions of the agency's enabling act [see, e.g., Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 125.5, 125.7 (applicable to agencies within the Department of Consumer Affairs)]. For a detailed discussion of injunctions, and forms relating to injunctions, see Ch. 303, Injunctions . See also Ch. 473D, Prehearing Preparations in Agency Adjudications , for discussion of prehearing injunctive relief issues.

An agency also may be authorized by its enabling act to issue cease and desist orders against unlawful practices that the agency is charged with preventing [see, e.g., Gov. Code § 12970(a) (Fair Employment and Housing Commission)], or to issue subpoenas or discovery orders [see, e.g., Gov. Code §§ 12963.1 (issuance of subpoenas by Fair Employment and Housing Commission), 12963.4 (issuance of discovery orders by Fair Employment and Housing Commission); see also Ch. 471, Investigations by Public Agencies (for a discussion of public agency subpoena power), and Ch. 473B, Discovery in Agency Adjudications (for discussion of discovery in public agency adjudicative proceedings)].

To enforce these orders, an agency may petition the superior court for an injunction [see, e.g., Gov. Code § 12973(b) (Fair Employment and Housing Commission); see also Ch. 473D for a discussion of prehearing injunctive relief], or contempt orders [see, e.g., Gov. Code § 11455.20 (authorizing contempt actions under the California APA); see also Ch. 471, Investigations by Public Agencies (for a discussion of public agency contempt orders)].

[c] Criminal Enforcement

The separation of powers clause [Cal. Const., art. III, § 1], and the constitutional guarantee to a jury trial in criminal matters [Cal. Const., art. I, § 16], prevent administrative agencies from issuing criminal sanctions or using criminal enforcement procedures. However, many agency enabling acts set forth criminal penalties for certain violations [see, e.g., Gov. Code § 12975 (willful interference with performance of duties by employees of Fair Employment and Housing Commission); Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 1280, 1287 (falsely representing oneself as licensed clinical laboratory technician)].

The attorney general, as the chief law officer of California, enforces these criminal provisions [Cal. Const., art. V, § 13; see Gov. Code § 12510 et seq. (specific duties)]. Administrative agencies become involved in criminal enforcement proceedings after the agency receives a complaint that entails criminal violations of its enabling act [see, e.g., Bus. & Prof. Code § 325 (duty of director of consumer affairs to receive consumer complaints)]. The agency will conduct an initial investigation of the matter [see, e.g., Bus. & Prof. Code § 155 (employment of investigators by director of consumer affairs)], and then will refer the matter to the attorney general's office. Activities such as the suspension or revocation of a license by the issuing agency are not considered criminal prosecutions [Campbell v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 716, 718, 202 Cal. Rptr. 324] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.17

§ 470.17 Functioning of Agencies

[1] Scope of Agency Functions

Administrative agencies are commonly authorized by their enabling acts to engage in some or all of the following functions:

- Rulemaking and rate making [see, e.g., Bus. & Prof. Code § 2018 (authorizing divisions within Board of Medical Quality Assurance to adopt regulations concerning licensing of medical professionals), and Pub. Util. Code § 728 (authorizing PUC to determine rates charged by public utilities)]. Regulations adopted by an agency to carry out its statutory or constitutional duties are codified in the California Code of Regulations [Formerly the California Administrative Code, the California Code of Regulations is cited as Cal. Code Reg. throughout this publication]. Agencies may also adopt rules, policies, and guidelines governing internal agency matters, which can generally be obtained directly from the agency [see, e.g., Disciplinary Guidelines, Board of Vocational Nurse and Psychiatric Technician Examiners, November 1987]. See generally discussion and forms in Ch. 472, Public Agency Rules , et seq.

- Licensing, registration, or certification of persons or business entities to engage in particular occupations or business activities [see, e.g., Corp. Code §§ 25210-25220 (authorizing Department of Corporations to license agents and brokers)]. See generally discussion and forms in Ch. 471B, Licensing by Public Agencies .

- Adjudication [see, e.g., Bus. & Prof. Code § 1646.7 (authorizing Board of Dental Examiners to conduct disciplinary hearings)], and enforcement of statutory standards and requirements under the agency's jurisdiction [see, e.g., Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 8505.1-8505.16 (authorizing Structural Pest Control Board to enforce statutory standards for fumigation)]. See generally discussion and forms in Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication , et seq.

Agencies may not act outside their constitutional or statutory scope of authority [First Industrial Loan Co. v. Daugherty (1945) 26 Cal. 2d 545, 550, 159 P.2d 921 ; Davis v. State Board of Optometry (1927)

83 Cal. App. 488, 493, 257 P. 197] . An agency is not bound by any acts of its officers or employees that exceed the actor's scope of authority ("ultra vires" acts) [Mullan v. State (1896) 114 Cal. 578, 587, 46 P. 670] .

Most administrative agencies perform multiple functions. For example, administrative agencies involved in environmental law perform many functions, including the familiar division between rule making (quasi-legislative action) [for discussion of rulemaking, see Ch. 472, Public Agency Rules] and administrative adjudication (quasi-judicial action) [for discussion of administrative adjudication, see Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication]. However, California's environmental agencies also engage in a wide variety of other more informal administrative actions, which are sometimes described as either discretionary or ministerial. Discretionary actions include many day-to-day operations, as well as investigations and information collection [see Ch. 471, Investigations by Public Agencies , and 471A, Public Agency Inspections]. Ministerial actions include the issuance of some permits [Court House Plaza Co. v. City of Palo Alto (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 871, 883, 173 Cal. Rptr. 161] and mandatory approvals of subdivision tract maps [Great Western Sav. & Loan Assn. v. City of Los Angeles (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 403, 410, 107 Cal. Rptr. 359] are typical ministerial actions. Operations decisions, such as Department of Public Works property leasing and maintenance decisions are also treated as ministerial actions [Hubbs v. People ex rel. Dept. Pub. Wks. (1974) 36 Cal. App. 3d1005, 1009, 36 Cal. App. 3d 1005, 112 Cal. Rptr. 172] . This informal agency action is a major part of environmental law practice. Under California administrative law, the exclusion of such informal action from the category of quasi-adjudicatory administrative action is particularly important, both with regard to the application of procedural requirements discussed in Ch 470A, Due Process Restrictions on Public Agencies and with regard to judicial review discussed in Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions .

[2] Delegation of Duties by Agencies

An agency typically delegates to agency employees the various functions and duties imposed by its enabling act on the agency, its governing board, its employees, committees, or other persons. For example, the Board of Registered Nursing delegates to its executive officer, who is not a member of the Board, the responsibility for implementing Board standards and regulations and handling procedural aspects of disciplinary matters [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2708; 16 Cal. Code Reg. § 1405(c)-(e)]. A common way in which many licensing boards delegate power is by relying on national testing institutes to prepare the licensing examinations that the boards use [see, e.g., Bus. & Prof. Code § 5082; 16 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(a) (Uniform Certified Public Accountant Examination, prepared by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, used by State Board of Accountancy)].

Unless an agency's enabling act specifically provides otherwise, the agency may not delegate its discretionary duties [Schecter v. County of Los Angeles (1968) 258 Cal. App. 2d 391, 396, 65 Cal. Rptr. 739] . A duty is "discretionary" if there is no hard and fast rule governing its exercise. If the agency provides a clearly defined rule for the exercise of the duty, so that the person performing the duty makes no decision on how the duty is carried out, the duty is ministerial and may be delegated [Elder v. Anderson (1962) 205 Cal. App. 2d 326, 331, 23 Cal. Rptr. 48 ; see discussion in § 470.13]. Some agencies are prohibited by their enabling acts from delegating certain duties. For example, agencies in the Department of Consumer Affairs may not delegate the preparation, administration, or grading of examinations, or the inspection or investigation of licensees, solely to lay or public members of the agency [Bus. & Prof. Code § 451].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.18

§ 470.18 Types of Agencies

[1] Five Categories

California administrative agencies can be divided into five major categories, depending on the major purpose of the agency:

- Regulatory agencies [see [2], below].
- Rate making agencies [see [3], below].
- Licensing agencies [see [4], below].
- Social welfare and entitlement agencies [see [5], below].
- Permitting agencies [see [6], below].

Many agencies fit into only one category. For example, the Medical Board of California is primarily responsible for licensing physicians and surgeons [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2050-2076]. Its regulatory functions [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2018] involve establishing criteria for licensure [see, e.g., 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1300-1364 (regulations for physicians and surgeons)].

Other agencies, however, fit into more than one category. For example, the PUC [see [2][b], below] is both a regulatory [see Pub. Util. Code §§ 701-880], and a ratemaking agency [see Pub. Util. Code §§ 451-467].

Each kind of agency may use one or more of the functions discussed in § 470.17[1], to the extent permitted by its enabling act or constitutional grant of power, to carry out its purpose.

[2] Regulatory Agencies

[a] Nature of Regulatory Agencies

A regulatory agency is responsible for regulating a specific business or industry f or the protection of the public interest [see, e.g., Pub. Util. Code § 701 (duties of PUC)]. California regulatory agencies supervise the operations and practices of diverse business ventures including:

- Real estate [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 11000-11200 (Department of Real Estate)].
- Horse racing [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 19400-19667 (California Horse Racing Board)].
- State corporate securities transactions [see Corp. Code §§ 25000-25706 (Department of Corporations)].

Many of the agencies within the Business, Transportation, and Housing Agency [see § 470.20[3]] are regulatory agencies [Gov. Code § 13975].

[b] The Public Utilities Commission

The Public Utilities Commission (PUC), an agency created by the California Constitution [Cal. Const., art. XII, § 1], regulates the intrastate activities of telephone [Pub. Util. Code §§ 233-236], gas and electricity [Pub. Util. Code §§ 217, 218, 221-224], and trucking and railroad [Pub. Util. Code §§ 211-215, 229-232] companies, and may regulate other industries as authorized by the Legislature [Cal. Const., art. XII, § 3].

The PUC is also California's major ratemaking agency. For a discussion of the kinds of activities performed by ratemaking agencies, see [3], below. The Legislature may also specify additional powers and duties of the PUC [Cal. Const., art. XII, § 5]. In carrying out its regulatory and ratemaking functions, the PUC is authorized to adopt regulations [Pub. Util. Code § 770], issue licenses and certificates [see, e.g., Pub. Util. Code § 1001 (railroad construction permits)], and conduct administrative hearings and decide contested cases [Pub. Util. Code § 1701]. The PUC will also play a lead role in the electrical restructuring program mandated by the California legislature, which will provide for competition in the supply of electrical power [Pub. Util. Code § 330].

An unusual characteristic of the PUC is that the Legislature may determine the scope and authority for judicial review of PUC matters [Cal. Const., art. XII, § 5]. This authority includes both the capacity to restrict judicial review of PUC decisions by eliminating the jurisdiction of courts other than the California Supreme Court to hear PUC cases, and the capacity to expand the Supreme Court's review beyond the limits of Article VI of the California Constitution [County of Sonoma v. State Energy Resources Conservation etc. Com. (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 361, 367-368, 220 Cal. Rptr. 114, 708 P.2d 693] . The PUC has constitutional authority to adopt its own rulemaking and adjudicatory procedures, and is not required to follow the California APA [Cal. Const., art. XII, § 2; Pub. Util. Code § 1701]. The five members of the PUC are appointed by the governor for six-year terms. The appointments are approved by the Senate [Cal. Const., art. XII, § 1].

For further discussion and forms relating specifically to proceedings before the PUC, see Ch. 480, Public Utilities .

[c] The State Board of Education

The State Board of Education, an independent agency created by the California Constitution and located in the executive branch [Cal. Const., art. IX, § 7; see § 470.12], is a policymaking body that establishes rules and standards of governance for local school districts [Educ. Code § 33031]. The superintendent of public instruction, an elected official [Cal. Const., art. IX, § 2], serves as the secretary and executive officer of the Board [Educ. Code § 33004]. The Board has the authority to do the following:

- Waive provisions of the Education Code on request by local school districts [Educ. Code §§ 33050-33053].

- Manage the State Department of Education [Educ. Code § 33302]. The State Department of Education is responsible for the financial affairs of the public school system and for Indian education and the California Maritime Academy [Educ. Code §§ 33316, 33370].

For discussion and forms relating to the State Board of Education regarding the certification of teachers, see Ch. 512, Schools: Certification, Dismissal, and Related Employment Issues .

[d] Regulatory Agencies Within Business, Transportation, and Housing Agency

The 13 departments within the Business, Transportation, and Housing Agency [see § 470.20[3]] regulate major industries within California [Gov. Code § 13975]. The departments serve and protect the public by licensing members of specified industries, adopting regulatory standards, enforcing those standards, and periodically auditing industry members. For example, the Commissioner of Financial Institutions is responsible for certifying banking corporations [Fin. Code § 350], promulgating banking regulations [Fin. Code § 215], initiating appropriate actions for penalties or forfeiture against banks that violate banking laws [Fin. Code § 1917], and examining banks and other institutions to ensure their compliance with banking laws [Fin. Code § 1900].

The secretary of the Business, Transportation, and Housing Agency is empowered to supervise the operations of each department within the Agency, and to exercise any power or assume any responsibility to carry out the purposes of any department [Gov. Code § 13978]. However, the heads of the various departments and subagencies generally assume supervisory functions for their departments or subagencies [see, e.g., Fin. Code § 215 (general authority of superintendent of banking over State Banking Department)].

[3] Rate Making Agencies

A rate making agency sets prices for goods or services provided by a business or industry that is a monopoly or common carrier [see, e.g., Pub. Util. Code § 728 (authorizing PUC to set rates for public utilities; see Cal. Const., art. XII, § 3; Pub. Util. Code § 216(a) ("public utilities" defined)]. The principal ratemaking agency in California is the PUC [see [2][b], above]. The PUC has authority to establish rates to be charged by the following public utilities [see Cal. Const., art. XII, § 3; Pub. Util. Code § 216(a) ("public utility" defined)]:

- Intrastate water carriers [Pub. Util. Code § 227].

- Telephone companies [Pub. Util. Code § 728].

- Natural gas and electrical utilities [Pub. Util. Code § 739 (baseline rates for residential service].

- Railroads and other transportation companies [Pub. Util. Code § 728.5].

- Common carriers [Pub. Util. Code § 730].

The PUC will grant a rate change for a utility only on a showing that the utility's existing rates are insufficient, unlawful, unjust, unreasonable, discriminatory, or preferential [Pub. Util. Code § 728; see Ch. 480, Public Utilities ; California Legal Forms, Ch. 54, Shipment and Storage of Commercial Property (Matthew Bender)]. The PUC will also play a lead role in the electrical restructuring program mandated by the California legislature, which will provide for competition in the supply of electrical power [Pub. Util. Code § 330].

When this change is fully implemented, the electrical power industry will no longer provide electrical power to consumers at regulated rates, the current system, with anticipated rate reductions of 20% by April 1, 2002, and a transition to a competitive power supply [Pub. Util. Code § 330(a), (d)] with rates that are not set by the PUC.

[4] Licensing Agencies

[a] Nature of Licensing Agencies

A licensing agency is responsible for setting and maintaining standards for entry into a business or occupation. In California, licensing standards have been established by administrative agencies for such diverse businesses and occupations as the furniture and bedding industry [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 19000 et seq. (Bureau of Home Furnishings)], structural pest control operators [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 8500 et seq. (Structural Pest Control Board)], and various medical professionals [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2000 et seq. (Medical Board of California)].

Licensing and regulatory agencies [see [2], above] often have overlapping functions. For example, the agencies within the Department of Consumer Affairs [see [b], below] that are responsible for licensing various medical professionals are also responsible for enforcing professional standards and adjudicating disciplinary matters involving licensees [see, e.g., Bus. & Prof. Code § 2004 (Medical Board of California responsible for enforcing professional standards for physicians and surgeons through disciplinary hearing procedure)].

Licensing agencies also engage in rulemaking functions [see, e.g., Bus. & Prof. Code § 2018 (authorizing divisions within Board of Medical Quality Assurance to adopt regulations concerning licensing of medical professionals)], but do not ordinarily engage in rate making. See Ch. 471B, Licensing by Public Agencies , for a detailed discussion of licensing and licensing agencies.

[b] The Department of Consumer Affairs

The Department of Consumer Affairs is a licensing and regulatory agency within the State and Consumer Services Agency [Bus. & Prof. Code § 100; see §§ 470.19[4][a], 470.20[2]] that is responsible for regulating private businesses and various professions and occupations to protect the public health and safety [Bus. & Prof. Code § 101.6].

The Department consists of over 30 subagencies that establish licensing qualifications and competency standards, redress grievances against licensees, discipline licensees, and conduct investigations to ensure compliance with licensing standards [Bus. & Prof. Code § 101.6].

The director of consumer affairs is the chief executive officer of the Department [Bus. & Prof. Code § 150]. The director, who is appointed by the governor and holds office at the governor's pleasure [Bus. & Prof. Code § 151], is responsible for the following:

- Organizing the work of the Department [Bus. & Prof. Code § 152].
- Investigating the work of the subagencies within the Department [Bus. & Prof. Code § 153].
- Representing and protecting the interests of consumers [Bus. & Prof. Code § 310].
- Reporting to the governor and the Legislature on the affairs of the Department [Bus. & Prof. Code § 312].

The subagencies within the Department of Consumer Affairs function autonomously in setting standards, holding meetings, preparing and conducting licensing examinations, investigating improper conduct by licensees, conducting disciplinary hearings, and imposing penalties following such hearings [Bus. & Prof. Code § 108]. The decisions of the subagencies are not subject to review by the director [Bus. & Prof. Code § 109].

The Director of the Department of Consumer Affairs must be provided the opportunity to review regulations proposed or promulgated by agencies within the Department before these regulations can take effect. The only exceptions to this requirement are regulations concerning examinations and qualifications for licensure. The agencies must notify the Director, and give the Director the opportunity to specifically review, consistent with APA rulemaking procedure, agency-prepared notices of proposed action, including modifications, supplements, and the text of the proposed regulations, notices of changes to regulations, including the text of proposed regulations showing modifications to the text, and final rulemaking records [Bus. & Prof. Code § 313.1(b)(1)-(3)].

The Director's review must be completed before that agency can file the regulation with the Office of Administrative Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 313.1(c)]. The Director is required to adopt regulations to implement, interpret, and make specific the provisions of the Americans with Disabilities Act [42 U.S.C. 12101 et. seq., Pub. L. No. 101-336] as they relate to the examination process for professional licensing and certification programs under the Department [Bus. & Prof. Code § 313.2].

[5] Social Welfare and Entitlement Agencies

Social welfare and entitlement agencies provide food, shelter, medical benefits, and income to citizens through public assistance or public benefit programs. For example, the Department of Social Services, an agency within the Health and Welfare Agency [Welf. & Inst. Code § 10550], administers the aid for dependent children (AFDC) program [see Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 11200-11492.1 (AFDC program)]. California social welfare and entitlement agencies include:

- The Employment Development Department (the EDD), which administers the unemployment benefits program [see Unemp. Ins. Code § 301 et seq.].

- The Workers' Compensation Appeals Board (the WCAB), which resolves disputes concerning entitlement to compensation benefits for employment related injuries [Cal. Const., art. XIV, § 4; see Lab. Code § 5300 et seq.; see also Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation(Matthew Bender)].

- The State Department of Social Services, which administers the AFDC program [see Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 11200-11492.1].

Social welfare and entitlement agencies frequently engage in rulemaking, adjudication, and enforcement functions. For example, the Department of Social Services [Welf. & Inst. Code § 10550] adopts regulations [Welf. & Inst. Code § 10554], investigates and supervises county agencies that administer social welfare programs [Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 10602, 10603], and conducts administrative hearings in contested cases [Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 10950-10967]. These agencies do not engage in ratemaking functions, and normally do not perform licensing functions under their entitlement programs.

Adjudication involving social welfare and entitlement agencies often centers on due process rights [U.S. Const., amend. XIV, § 1; Cal. Const., art. I, § 7; see § 470.16[2][d], and Ch. 470A, Due Process Restrictions on Public Agencies].

Two of the most important cases that discuss these issues are Goldberg v. Kelly [Goldberg v. Kelly (1970) 397 U.S. 254, 90 S. Ct. 1011, 25 L. Ed. 2d 287] , and Matthews v. Eldridge [Mathews v. Eldridge (1976) 424 U.S. 319, 96 S. Ct. 893, 47 L. Ed. 2d 18] . Because most public assistance programs are federally funded, they must comply with federal eligibility and administrative standards [see, e.g., Welf. & Inst. Code § 11003; see § 470.16[1]].

[6] Permitting Agencies

A permitting agency allocates scarce resources and regulates a business or industry to preserve the quality of the environment [see, e.g., Health & Safety Code §§ 39500-39811 (Air Resources Board's responsibility to enforce environmental quality laws)]. These agencies often operate by setting minimum standards for construction projects, waste disposal plans, or other projects affecting the environment, and granting permits for such projects only if they meet the applicable standards [see, e.g., Pub. Util. Code § 216.6 (Energy Commission's minimum standards for thermal energy production)]. Many permitting agencies are responsible for preparing environmental impact reports (EIRs) as required under the California Environmental Quality Act [see Pub. Res. Code §§ 21000-21170; see Environmental Planning & Information Council v. County of El Dorado (1982) 131 Cal. App. 3d 350, 352, 182 Cal. Rptr. 317] . The purposes and functions of permitting agencies are similar to those of regulatory agencies [see [2], above], and many permitting agencies are also regulatory agencies. For example, the California Coastal Commission, an agency within the Resources Agency [Pub. Res. Code § 30300; see § 470.20[5]], regulates the use of coastal lands to ensure compliance with the federal Coastal Zone Management Act [see 16 U.S.C. §§ 1451-1464], and issues certificates of compliance with federal standards to agencies seeking federal funds [Pub. Res. Code §§ 30300, 30330].

The planning commissions of the various cities and counties within California [see Gov. Code § 65100 et seq.] are local permitting agencies. The functions of these agencies include adopting a general plan and local zoning ordinances [Gov. Code §§ 65103(a), 65850], and issuing permits for variances from the ordinance [Gov. Code § 65901].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.19

§ 470.19 Agency Structure Within Executive Branch

[1] Purpose and Function of Executive Branch Agencies

The legislative branch enacts laws [Cal. Const., art. IV, § 1], and the executive branch executes and enforces those laws [Cal. Const., art. V, § 1]. Although most California administrative agencies are created by the Legislature [see § 470.12[1]], the agencies are actually located in the executive branch of California government [cf. Gov. Code §§ 12850.4 (heads of agencies exercise power delegated from governor)]. The placement of administrative agencies in the executive branch is significant for two reasons. First, it establishes law enforcement as the main function of the agencies [Cal. Const., art. V, § 1]. Second, it places the agencies under the direct control and influence of the governor [see Gov. Code §§ 12011, 12080.1 (governor's supervisory power over agencies)]. Thus, administrative agencies assist the governor [see [2], below] in administering the state government and implementing state laws [see, e.g., Bus. & Prof. Code § 101.6 (duties of subagencies of the Department of Consumer Affairs)]. This authority of the executive branch may not be usurped by the Legislature [Cal. Const., art. III, § 3; Way v. Superior Court (1977) 74 Cal. App.3d 165, 178, 141 Cal. Rptr. 383] or the courts [Cal. Const., art. III, § 3; People v. Superior Court (Greer) (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 255, 262, 137 Cal. Rptr. 476, 561 P.2d 1164] .

[2] The Governor's Role

[a] Duties

The executive branch is headed by the governor [Gov. Code § 12010], who has the responsibility for seeing that state laws are faithfully executed [Cal. Const., art. V, § 1]. The governor has the following duties regarding state agencies:

- Supervising the agencies and their officers [Gov. Code §§ 12011, 12080.1].

- Appointing heads of the five major executive branch agencies [Gov. Code § 12801; see [4], below], and appointing a majority of the members of other agencies [Gov. Code §§ 1300, 1772; see, e.g., Bus. & Prof. Code § 2001 (appointments to Medical Board of California)].

- Examining the organization of agencies and, as necessary for the public interest, preparing reorganization plans [Gov. Code §§ 12080.1, 12080.2; see Gov. Code § 12080.5; reorganization plans must be approved by the Senate and the Assembly].

- Preparing an annual state budget that, among other things, allocates funding to agencies [Gov. Code § 13337].

[b] Significance of Governor's Appointment Powers

The governor exerts a great deal of control over the activities of administrative agencies through the appointment power. This power includes the ability to do the following:

- Remove without cause the secretary of any of the major executive branch agencies [Gov. Code § 12801; see [4][a], below, for listing of agencies].

- Choose individuals to lead an agency, which can affect the policies, focus, and priorities of the agency, as well as its effectiveness [see, e.g., Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2001 (Medical Board of California), 7003 (Contractors' State License Board)].

- Provide or withhold funding through budget recommendations, which can increase or decrease the ability of an agency to carry out its duties [see Gov. Code § 12016 (governor's duty to submit budget to Legislature)].

[3] Other Executive Officers

The attorney general is the state's chief law officer, and it is his or her duty to see that state laws are uniformly and adequately enforced [Cal. Const., art. V, § 13; see Gov. Code § 12510 et seq. (specific duties)]. The attorney general heads the Department of Justice [Gov. Code § 12510], which represents the state and most state agencies and other state entities in litigation matters [Gov. Code § 12512].

The lieutenant governor's role in state government is similar to that of the vice president at the federal level. The lieutenant governor presides over the Senate, may vote in Senate matters in order to break a tie vote [Cal. Const., art. V, § 9], and acts in the governor's place if the governor is incapacitated or out of the state [Cal. Const., art. V, § 10].

The secretary of state keeps the official records of the Legislature [Gov. Code § 12159; see Gov. Code §§ 12150-12241(full list of duties)]. The state treasurer receives and deposits state funds [Gov. Code § 12320; see Gov. Code §§ 12320-12332 (full list of duties)], and the state controller administers state expenditures and audits claims against the state and payments made by state agencies [Gov. Code § 12410; see Gov. Code §§ 12410-12430 (full list of duties)].

[4] Major Agencies Within the Executive Branch

[a] The Seven Major Agencies

Seven major agencies have been created in the executive branch of California government [Gov. Code § 12800]:

- The State and Consumer Services Agency.

- The Business, Transportation, and Housing Agency.

- California Environmental Protection.

- The California Health and Human Services Agency.
- The Natural Resources Agency.
- Labor and Workforce Development Agency.
- The Youth and Adult Correction Agency.

Each agency is headed by an executive officer, known as a secretary, who is appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate [Gov. Code § 12801]. The secretary is responsible for the following activities:

- Supervising the operations of departments and subagencies within the agency [Gov. Code § 12850].
- Managing the agency's fiscal affairs [Gov. Code § 12850.6].
- Preparing long-range plans for the agency [Gov. Code § 12851].
- Advising the governor on the operations of the agency [Gov. Code §§ 12850, 12850.2, 12851].
- Acting as a communications link between the governor and the departments and subagencies within the agency [Gov. Code § 12850.2].

Agency secretaries serve at the pleasure of the governor [Gov. Code § 12801]. Thus, they are unlikely to take independent stands on issues concerning the agency, or to oppose the governor on policy issues.

[b] Divisions of the Major Agencies

Each major agency is divided into various departments, boards, commissions, and other kinds of subagencies. For example, the State and Consumer Services Agency includes at least nine departments or subagencies [Gov. Code § 12804; see also Gov. Code §§ 12803(a) (California Health and Human Services Agency), 12805 (Resources Agency), 13975 (Business, Transportation, and Housing Agency)]:

Many of the departments are further divided into subagencies. For example, the Department of Consumer Affairs includes over 20 subagencies, including many individual licensing boards for the various medical and mental health professions [Bus. & Prof. Code § 101] that are responsible for setting licensing standards, issuing or denying licenses, investigating consumer complaints and other allegations of wrongdoing by licensees, and disciplining licensees [see, e.g., Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2004 (Medical Board of California)]. In administrative law matters, attorneys deal most often with these subagencies. For a list explaining the placement of the various agencies within the executive branch, see § 470.20.

[c] Control of the Divisions

The departments and subagencies within each major agency are controlled by individuals or boards [see, e.g., Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 150 (director of consumer affairs heads Department of Consumer Affairs), 2701 (Board of Registered Nursing regulates licensing of registered nurses)]. These boards and department heads are under the control of the governor to varying degrees, but generally have more independence than agency secretaries because the governor's ability to appoint or remove them from office is limited. For example, although the governor appoints a majority of the members of the Medical Board of California, they may be removed only for cause [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2001, 2011]. Similarly, the governor appoints several members of the Teachers' Retirement Board, but for four-year terms [Educ. Code § 22200(a)(6)]. The Legislature has reserved to itself the power to appoint some agency officials [see, e.g., Gov.

Code § 8501 (four public members of Milton Marks Little Hoover Commission on California State Government Organization and Economy appointed by Legislature)], and has reserved confirmation authority over the governor's choices in other cases [see, e.g., Health & Safety Code § 13101 (governor's appointment of state fire marshal subject to confirmation by the Senate)].

[5] Independent Agencies Within Executive Branch

Not all agencies within the executive branch are connected to one of the seven major agencies [see [4][a], above]. For example, the state and local boards of education and other state education agencies were created by the Legislature pursuant to a directive in the California Constitution [Cal. Const., art. IX, § 7], and exist as independent agencies accountable to the governor but not to any of the five major agencies [see Educ. Code §§ 33000 (State Board of Education), 33300 (Department of Education), 66600 (Trustees of California State University and Colleges); see also discussion in § 470.18[2][c]]. Most other constitutional agencies (see § 470.12[3]) are also independent agencies not located within any of the major agencies, except the Fish and Game Commission, however, which is a subagency of the Resources Agency [Fish & Game Code § 101]. For a listing of agencies not located within the major executive branch agencies, see § 470.20.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.20

§ 470.20 Placement of Administrative Agencies Within California Executive Branch

[1] Listing of Most Agencies

See [2]-[6], below, for listings of the more significant subagencies within five of the seven major agencies in the executive branch. The two remaining major subagencies not listed are [see § 470.19[4][a]]:

- California Environmental Protection.
- Trade and Commerce.

Another major state agency is the California Environmental Protection Agency (Cal/EPA). The California Environmental Protection Agency consists of the State Air Resources Board, the Office of Environmental Health Hazard Assessment, the California Integrated Waste Management Board, the State Water Resources Control Board, and each California regional water quality control board, and the following departments: Pesticide Regulation and Toxic Substances Control [Gov. Code § 12812]. Cal/EPA was formed as part of the Governors' Reorganization Plan in 1991 [Gov. Reorg. Plan No. 1 of 1991, § 80, eff. July 17, 1991]. Cal/EPA is headed by an Agency Secretary (currently Alan C. Lloyd) who is a gubernatorial appointee. Cal/EPA has a web site address: http://www.calepa.ca.gov/ which provides links to the web sites of the Departments, and Boards and Commissions that are part of the agency. The web site also contains press releases, and meeting notices. Cal/EPA contains within its structure those agencies that enforce primary environmental laws that regulate air quality, water quality, solid waste, and other subjects.

See [7], below, for the more significant independent agencies organized within the executive branch of California government.

For a brief summary of general information relating to many of the state's licensing agencies, see Part IV (§ 470.50 et seq.).

[2] State and Consumer Services Agency

The State and Consumer Services Agency is established as one of the major executive branch agencies [Gov. Code §

12804]. The major subagencies within this agency are organized as follows:

- Department of Consumer Affairs [Bus. & Prof. Code § 100].
  - Medical Board of California [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2001; see also § 470.68].
  - Speech-Language Pathology and Audiology Board [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2531; see also § 470.74].
  - Physical Therapy Examining Committee [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2602; see also § 470.72].
  - Board of Psychology [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2920; see also § 470.54].
  - Hearing Aid Dispensers Examining Committee [Bus. & Prof. Code § 3320].
  - Physician Assistant Committee [Bus. & Prof. Code § 3504; see also § 470.73].
  - Respiratory Care Board [Bus. & Prof. Code § 3710].
  - Acupuncture Committee [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4928].
  - California Board of Podiatric Medicine [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2460].
  - Osteopathic Medical Board of California [Bus. & Prof. Code § 3600-1; see also § 470.71].
- Board of Registered Nursing [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2701; see also § 470.55].
- State Board of Optometry [Bus. & Prof. Code § 3010].
- Dental Board of California [Bus. & Prof. Code § 1601; see also § 470.53].
- California Board of Pharmacy [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4000; see also § 470.62].
- Board of Vocational Nursing and Psychiatric Technicians [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2841; see also § 470.56].
- Veterinary Medical Board [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4800; see also § 470.80].
- Board of Chiropractic Examiners [Bus. & Prof. Code § 1000-1; see also § 470.52].
- California Board of Accountancy [Bus. & Prof. Code § 5000; see also § 470.76].
- California Architects Board [Bus. & Prof. Code § 5510; see also § 470.51].
- Board for Geologists and Geophysicists [Bus. & Prof. Code § 7810.1; see also § 470.77].
- State Board of Registration for Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6710; see also § 470.78].

- Contractors' State License Board [Bus. & Prof. Code § 7000.5; see also § 470.64].
- Structural Pest Control Board [Bus. & Prof. Code § 8520; see also § 470.79].
- Board of Behavioral Sciences [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4990].

- Department of General Services [Gov. Code § 14601].
  - Office of Administrative Hearings (OAH) [Gov. Code § 11370.2].
- Department of Fair Employment and Housing [Gov. Code § 12901].
- Franchise Tax Board [Gov. Code § 15700].
- Public Employees' Retirement System [Gov. Code § 20002].
- State Building and Standards Commission [Gov. Code § 12804].
- State Teachers' Retirement System [Educ. Code § 22001].
- California Museum of Science and Industry [Food & Agric. Code § 4101].
- California Victim Compensation and Government Claims Board [Gov. Code § 13901(a)].

[3] Business, Transportation, and Housing Agency

The Business, Transportation, and Housing is established as one of the major executive branch agencies [Gov. Code § 13975]. Included within this agency are the following:

- Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control [Gov. Code § 13975].
- Department of Managed Care [Gov. Code § 13975].
- Department of Financial Institutions [Gov. Code § 13975].
- Department of the California Highway Patrol [Gov. Code § 13975].
- Department of Corporations [Corp. Code § 25600].
- Department of Housing and Community Development [Health & Safety Code § 50400].
- Department of Motor Vehicles [Veh. Code § 1500; see also § 470.66].
  - New Motor Vehicle Board [Veh. Code § 3000; see also § 470.69].
- Department of Real Estate [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10004; see also § 470.67].
- Department of Transportation [Gov. Code § 14001].
- Stephen P. Teale Consolidated Data Center [Gov. Code § 13975].

- California Housing Finance Agency [Health & Safety Code § 50054].

[4] California Health and Human Services Agency

The California Health and Human Services Agency is established as one of the major executive branch agencies [Gov. Code § 12803(a)]. Included within this agency are the following:

- Department of Child Support Services [Gov. Code § 12803].
- Department of Health Services [Health & Safety Code § 100100].
- Department of Mental Health [Welf. & Inst. Code § 4000].
- Department of Developmental Services [Welf. & Inst. Code § 4400].
- Department of Social Services [Welf. & Inst. Code § 10550].
- Department of Alcohol and Drug Programs [Health & Safety Code § 11750].
- Department of Aging [Welf. & Inst. Code § 9300].
- Department of Employment Development [Unemp. Ins. Code § 301].
- Department of Rehabilitation [Welf. & Inst. Code § 19001].
- State Council on Developmental Disabilities [Welf. & Inst. Code § 4520].

[5] Resources Agency

The Resources Agency is established as one of the major executive branch agencies [Gov. Code § 12805]. The Resources Agency is headed by an Agency secretary (currently Mike Chrisman) who is a gubernatorial appointee. The Resources Agency has a web site address, http://resources.ca.gov/, which provides links to the web sites of the Departments, and Boards and Commissions that are part of the agency. The web site also contains press releases, and meeting notices. It includes the following:

- State Air Resources Board [Health & Safety Code § 39510(a)]. (The State Air Resources Board is part of the California Environmental Protection Agency.)
- Colorado River Board [Water Code § 12510].
- State Energy Resources Conservation and Development Commission [Pub. Res. Code § 25200].
- State Water Resources Control Board [Water Code § 120].
    - Regional Water Quality Control Boards [Water Code § 13200].
- State Lands Commission [Pub. Res. Code § 6101].
- Division of State Lands [Pub. Res. Code § 6103].

- Department of Conservation [Pub. Res. Code § 600].
- Fish and Game Commission [Cal. Const. art. IV, § 20; Fish and Game Code § 101].
- Department of Forestry and Fire Protection [Pub. Res. Code § 701.5].
- Department of Navigation and Ocean Development [Harb. & Nav. Code § 50].
- Parks and Recreation Department [Pub. Res. Code § 501].
- Department of Water Resources [Water Code § 120].
- Fish and Game Commission [Fish & Game Code § 101].

[6] Youth and Adult Correction Agency

The Youth and Adult Correction Agency is established as one of the major executive branch agencies [Gov. Code § 12811.2]. It includes the following:

- Department of Corrections [Penal Code § 5000].
- Department of Youth Authority [Welf. & Inst. Code § 1710].
- Board of Prison Terms [Penal Code § 5075].
- Youthful Offender Parole Board [Welf. & Inst. Code § 1716].
- Board of Corrections [Penal Code § 6024].
- Narcotic Addict Evaluation Authority [Welf. & Inst. Code § 3150].

[7] Independent Agencies

- Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control [Cal. Const., art. XX, § 22. Bus. & Prof. Code § 23050; see also § 470.65].
- Judicial Council [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 6].
- Personnel Board [Cal. Const., art. VII, § 2].
- Public Utilities Commission [Cal. Const., art. XII, § 1. Pub. Util. Code § 301; see § 470.18[2][b]].
- Commission on Judicial Appointments [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 7].
- Commission on Judicial Performance [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 8].
- State Bar of California [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 9; see also § 470.75].
- Horse Racing Board [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 19420, 19421; see also § 470.61].

- Regents of the University of California [Cal. Const., art. IX, §§ 7, 9(f). Educ. Code §§ 66300, 66301].
- State Board of Education [Cal. Const., art. IX, § 7. Educ. Code § 33000; see § 470.18[2][c]].
- Commission on Teacher Credentialing [Educ. Code § 44210; see also § 470.63].
- Department of Education [Educ. Code § 33300].
    - Local school districts [Educ. Code §§ 33050-33053].
- Trustees of the California State University and Colleges [Educ. Code § 66600].
- Board of Governors of California Community Colleges [Educ. Code § 71000].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 470.21-470.29

[Reserved]

§§ 470.21[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.30

§ 470.30 Federal Constitution

Supremacy clause. U.S. Const., art. VI

Due process guaranty. U.S. Const., amend. XIV, § 1

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.31

§ 470.31 State Constitution

[1] Agencies Created by Constitutional Provision

Fish and Game Commission. Cal. Const., art. IV, § 20(b)

Personnel Board. Cal. Const., art. VII, § 2

[2] Agencies Having Legislative Power Granted Directly by Constitutional Provision

Judicial Council. Cal. Const., art. VI, §§ 6, 18

Personnel Board. Cal. Const., art. VII, §§ 2(c), 3, 6(b), (c)

Board of Education. Cal. Const., art. IX, § 7.5

Public Utilities Commission. Cal. Const., art. XII, §§ 2, 4, 6

[3] Agencies Mandated by Constitutional Provision

Commission on the Governorship. Cal. Const., art. V, § 10

Workmen's Compensation Appeals Board. Cal. Const., art. XIV, § 4

[4] Agencies Recognized by Constitutional Provision

Judicial Council. Cal. Const., art. VI, § 6

Commission on Judicial Appointments. Cal. Const., art. VI, § 7

Commission on Judicial Performance. Cal. Const., art. VI, § 8

Board of Governors of the State Bar. Cal. Const., art. VI, § 9

Board of Education. Cal. Const., art. IX, §§ 2.1, 7.5

County superintendents of schools. Cal. Const., art. IX, § 3

Board of Regents of University of California. Cal. Const., art. IX, § 9

Public Utilities Commission. Cal. Const., art. XII, § 1

County boards of equalization. Cal. Const., art. XIII, § 16

Board of Equalization. Cal. Const., art. XIII, § 17

Allocation Board. Cal. Const., art. XVI, § 3

Director of Alcoholic Beverage Control. Cal. Const., art. XX, § 22

Alcoholic Beverage Control Appeals Board. Cal. Const., art. XX, § 22

[5] Agencies to Which Legislature May Delegate Legislative Power

Fish and Game Commission. Cal. Const., art. IV, § 20(b)

Judicial Council. Cal. Const., art. VI, § 6

Personnel Board. Cal. Const., art. VII, § 3(a)

Governing boards of school districts. Cal. Const., art. IX, § 14

Public Utilities Commission. Cal. Const., art. XII, § 5

Counties and cities. Cal. Const., art. XIII, §§ 15, 24, 29

Commission to oversee general welfare of employees (Industrial Welfare Commission). Cal. Const., art. XIV § 1

Agencies concerned with administration of relief. Cal. Const., art. XVI, § 11

[6] Agencies Having Limited Judicial Power Directly Granted by Constitutional Provision

Public Utilities Commission. Cal. Const., art. XII, §§ 4, 6

Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control. Cal. Const., art. XX, § 22 (5th paragraph)

Alcoholic Beverage Control Appeals Board. Cal. Const., art. XX, § 22 (7th paragraph)

Personnel Board. Cal. Const., art. VII, § 3(a)

County assessment appeals boards. Cal. Const., art. XIII, § 16

[7] Agencies in Which Legislature May Vest Limited Judicial Power

Public Utilities Commission. Cal. Const., art. XII, § 5

Commission to oversee general welfare of employees (Industrial Welfare Commission). Cal. Const., art. XIV, § 1

Workmen's Compensation Appeals Board. Cal. Const., art. XX, § 21 (2nd paragraph)

[8] Departments Recognized by Constitutional Provision

Department of Social Welfare (now Department of Benefit Payments). Cal. Const., art. XVI, § 3

Department of Mental Hygiene (now part of Department of Health). Cal. Const., art. XVI, § 3

[9] General Provisions

Judicial power of state government as vested in courts. Cal. Const., art. VI, § 1

Legislative power of state government as vested in Legislature. Cal. Const., art. IV, § 1

Legislative power of local governments. Cal. Const., art. IX, §§ 3.3, 16; art. XI, §§ 1(b), 3-5, 7

Supreme executive power of state government as vested in Governor. Cal. Const., art. V, § 1

Legislature precluded from amending or repealing initiative measure without approval by electors unless measure itself allows Legislature to amend or repeal it. Cal. Const., art. II, § 10(c)

Right of the people to make their own laws. Cal. Const., art. II, §§ 1, 11; art. IV, § 1

Separation of powers doctrine. Cal. Const., art. III, § 3

Due process guaranty. Cal. Const., art. I, § 7(a)

Appellate jurisdiction of courts. Cal. Const., art. VI, § 11

Jurisdiction to issue extraordinary writs. Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10

Power of Legislature to prescribe jurisdiction of lower courts. Cal. Const., art. VI, §§ 5(a), 10

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.32

§ 470.32 State Statutes

[1] General Provisions

Departments are categories into which administration of state government is divided for convenience. Gov. Code § 11150

Procedural requirements for adopting regulations. Gov. Code § 11340 et seq.

Administrative adjudicative procedure. Gov. Code §§ 11500-11528

Judicial review of administrative regulation. Gov. Code § 11350

Judicial review of administrative adjudicative decision. Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5

Review of decision by State Bar Board of Governors. Bus. & Prof. Code § 6082

Commission on the Governorship. Gov. Code §§ 12070-12076

Fair Political Practices Commission. Gov. Code § 83100 et seq.

Industrial Welfare Commission. Lab. Code § 70

Coastal Zone Conservation Commission (now defunct [see Pub. Res. Code § 27650]). Pub. Res. Code §§ 27200-27243

Review of administrative decision by original proceeding in appellate court. Bus. & Prof. Code § 23090 (Alcoholic Beverage Control Appeals Board decision); Lab. Code § 5950 (Workmen's Compensation Appeals Board decision); Pub. Util. Code §§ 1756, 1759 (Public Utilities Commission decision)

Review of decision by State Energy Resources Conservation and Development Commission. Pub. Res. Code §§ 25531,

25901

Legislative oversight of state board formation and licensed professional practice. Gov. Code § 9148 et seq.

Appointment of receiver in action by Attorney General in name of people of state of California. Gov. Code § 12527

[2] Delegation of Powers

[a] Delegation by Head of Department

Delegation by head of department. Gov. Code § 11182

[b] Delegation by Particular Agencies and Officers

Air Resources Board. Health & Safety Code § 39023

Medical Board of California. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2226

Community development commission. Health & Safety Code § 34152

Corporations Commissioner. Corp. Code § 25531(c) (under Corporate Securities Law of 1968); Fin. Code § 17612 (under Escrow law)

County administrator for Medi-Cal Act provisions. Welf. & Inst. Code § 14116

County board of supervisors. Educ. Code §§ 658, 671 (supervising county education system); Pub. Res. Code § 5136 (managing local museum or art gallery); Sts. & Hy. Code § 942.6 (controlling use of county roads)

County treasurer. Sts. & Hy. Code § 6460.5 (under Improvement Act of 1911)

City council. Pub. Res. Code § 5136 (managing local museum or art gallery)

City treasurer. Sts. & Hy. Code § 6460.1 (under Improvement Act of 1911)

Department of Health. Health & Safety Code §§ 1213, 1421

Department of Transportation. Sts. & Hy. Code §§ 116, 676

Director of Parks and Recreation. Pub. Res. Code § 546

Fair Political Practices Commission. Gov. Code § 83108

Local agency. Gov. Code § 53607 (investment of funds)

Local appraisal commission. Rev. & Tax Code § 1720

Local housing authority. Health & Safety Code § 34280

Pooled Money Investment Board. Gov. Code § 16480.1

Public Utilities Commission. Pub. Util. Code § 310

Redevelopment agency. Health & Safety Code §§ 33205, 33210

Resource Conservation Commission. Pub. Res. Code § 9805

San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit (BART) District Board of Directors. Pub. Util. Code § 28773

School district governing board. Educ. Code §§ 933-935, 944, 1031, 15961, 15962, 15962.5, 16051.5, 16061.5

State Bar Board of Governors. Bus. & Prof. Code § 6040

State Compensation Insurance Fund Board of Directors. Ins. Code § 11787

State Employees' Retirement System Board of Administration. Gov. Code § 22503

Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board. Unemp. Ins. Code § 1959

Workmen's Compensation Appeals Board. Lab. Code § 121

Youth Authority [Welf. & Inst. §§ 1737, 1830]

[c] Other Delegations

Delegation to deputy. Bus. & Prof. Code § 10; Corp. Code § 7; Educ. Code § 7; Elec. Code § 7; Fin. Code § 6; Fish & Game Code § 6; Food & Agric. Code § 13; Gov. Code § 7; Harb. & Nav. Code § 7; Health & Safety Code § 7; Ins. Code § 7; Lab. Code § 7; Mil. & Vet. Code § 7; Penal Code § 10005; Pub. Res. Code § 7; Pub. Util. Code § 7; Rev. & Tax Code § 7; Sts. & Hy. Code § 7; Unemp. Ins. Code § 7; Veh. Code § 8; Water Code § 7; Welf. & Inst. Code § 7

Delegation to Administrative Law Judge under Administrative Procedure Act. Gov. Code § 11512(b)

Delegation to public member of regulatory agency. Bus. & Prof. Code § 451

Deputy as having principal's powers. Gov. Code § 1194

Deputy as serving at agency meetings in place of principal. Gov. Code §§ 7.5, 7.6

Joint powers agreements. Gov. Code §§ 6500-6515

Qualifications for public officers and employees. Gov. Code § 1020 et seq.

[3] Internal Administration

Authority of department head. Gov. Code §§ 11152-11156

Appointment of personnel. Gov. Code §§ 1190, 1191, 1193, 1300, 1301

Departmental offices and seals. Gov. Code §§ 11031, 11151

Documents as required to be written in plain, straightforward language. Gov. Code § 6219

Fees. Gov. Code §§ 6100, 6110, 6157

Legal counsel. Gov. Code §§ 11040-11043

Office hours. Gov. Code §§ 11020, 11021

Performance bonds. Gov. Code §§ 1110, 1112

State government reorganization. Gov. Code §§ 11159-11162, 12080-12080.2

[4] Initiative Measures Creating Agencies

Board of Chiropractic Examiners. Stats.. 1923, p. xx; Deering's Business and Professions Code, Appendix I; West's Business and Professions Code, §§ 1000-1-1000-19

Board of Osteopathic Examiners. Stats.. 1923, p. xxv; Deering's Business and Professions Code, Appendix II; West's Business and Professions Code, §§ 3600-1-3600-5

Fair Political Practices Commission. Gov. Code §§ 83100-83122 (part of Political Reform Act of 1974)

Coastal Zone Conservation Commission (now defunct [see Pub. Res. Code § 27650]). Pub. Res. Code §§ 30000-30012 (part of California Coastal Zone Conservation Act of 1972)

[5] Restrictions on Post Government Employment Representation

Restrictions on representation by former agency official of post-government-employment client in judicial, quasi-judicial, or other proceeding in which state is party or has direct and substantial interest and in which former agency official had participated. Gov. Code § 87400 et seq.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.33

§ 470.33 Decisions

[1] Generally

Establishment provisions of statute establishing and empowering agency remain effective, if severable, even though enabling provisions are determined to be unconstitutional. Wheatley v. Superior Court of Napa County (1929) 207 Cal. 722 ; Doyle v. Jordan (1926) 200 Cal. 170, 190-191, 252 P. 577

Local governments are empowered to establish agencies by ordinance or charter provision. Gaylord v. Pasadena (1917) 175 Cal. 433, 434-437, 166 P. 348

Under Cal. Const., art. I, § 9, University of California constitutes public trust, possessing full powers of organization and government and all powers necessary or convenient for effective administration of its trust. Regents have general rule-making or policy-making power in regard to university and are fully empowered with respect to organization and government of university. Consequently, policies established by Regents as matters of internal regulation enjoy status equivalent to that of state statutes. Constitutional grant of power to university includes grant of quasi-judicial powers. Apte v. Regents of University of California (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1084, 1090-1091, 244 Cal. Rptr. 312

Agency is without power to review judicial decision. De Rasmo v. Smith (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 601, 609, 93 Cal. Rptr. 289

Osteopathic Act [Stats. 1923, p. xxv] permits procedural amendments by Legislature. Bartosh v. Board of Osteopathic Examiners (1947) 82 Cal. App. 2d 486, 493, 186 P.2d 984

Legislature is precluded from amending or repealing initiative measure without approval of electors unless measure itself allows Legislature to amend or repeal it. People v. Schuster (1932) 122 Cal. App. 790, 122 Cal. App. Supp. 790, 793, 10 P.2d 204

[2] Administrative Powers

[a] Limits on Agency Action

Agency award of unlimited general compensatory damages for emotional distress violates Cal. Const., art. VI, § 1 (judicial powers clause). Walnut Creek Manor v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 245, 265, 267, 284 Cal. Rptr. 718, 814 P.2d 704

When enabling statute is essentially remedial, and does not carry penal program declaring certain practices to be crimes or provide penalties or fines in vindication of public rights, agency does not have discretion to devise punitive measures such as prescription of penalties or fines. Walnut Creek Manor v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 245, 271, 284 Cal. Rptr. 718, 814 P.2d 704 (statute authorizing award of limited punitive damages for race-based housing discrimination is remedial); Dyna-Med, Inc. v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1987) 43 Cal. 3d 1379, 1388, 241 Cal. Rptr. 67, 743 P.2d 1323 (statutory power to command affirmative action is remedial)

Administrative application of equitable estoppel does not constitute prohibited exercise of "judicial power" within meaning of Cal. Const., art. VI, § 1, or Cal. Const., art. III, § 3. Lentz v. McMahon (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 393, 406, 261 Cal. Rptr. 310, 777 P.2d 83

Award of treble damages by administrative agency violates judicial powers clause of California constitution (Cal. Const., art. VI, § 1). McHugh v. Santa Monica Rent Control Bd. (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 348, 378-379, 386, 261 Cal. Rptr. 318, 777 P.2d 91

Administrative order requiring immediate payment of money or authorizing immediate withholding of money that would otherwise be owed violates judicial powers clause of California constitution (Cal. Const., art. VI, § 1) if order takes effect before court has opportunity to pass on whether to stay order pending review of administrative decision by writ of mandate. McHugh v. Santa Monica Rent Control Bd. (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 348, 376-377, 386, 261 Cal. Rptr. 318, 777 P.2d 91

Exercise of act of judicial nature by administrative agency is constitutionally proper when act is authorized by statute or legislation, is reasonably necessary to effectuate agency's primary, legitimate regulatory purposes, and when act does not usurp power of courts to make enforceable, binding judgments. McHugh v. Santa Monica Rent Control Bd. (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 348, 359, 372, 374, 261 Cal. Rptr. 318, 777 P.2d 91

Administrative agency is required to act within powers conferred on it by law. Act in excess of such powers is invalid. Ferdig v. State Personnel Bd. (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 96, 104, 77 Cal. Rptr. 224, 453 P.2d 728

[b] Agency Interpretation of Statute

Contemporaneous construction of new statute by administrative agency charged with its enforcement is entitled to great weight, although not controlling. Dyna-Med, Inc. v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1987) 43 Cal. 3d 1379, 1388, 241 Cal. Rptr. 67, 743 P.2d 1323

Construction of statute by officials charged with its administration, including their interpretation of authority invested in them to implement and carry out its provisions, is entitled to great weight; regardless of force of administrative construction. However, final responsibility for interpretation of law rests with courts. Association for Retarded Citizens v. Department of Developmental Services (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 384, 391, 211 Cal. Rptr. 758 .2d 150; Norman v. McMahon (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 1450, 1453-1454, 275 Cal. Rptr. 698

Administrative agency's interpretation of statute it is charged with implementing is entitled to great weight unless shown to be clearly erroneous. Ultimate interpretation of statute, however, is left to courts. Union Oil Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 665, 670, 274 Cal. Rptr. 76

In action alleging that service fees assessed against licensed auto dealers and dismantlers in certain cases without advance notice or hearing violates due process of law, due process of law does not require preassessment hearing given great interest of state and burden on state of applying additional procedural requirement, when compared with minimal private interest directly involved and low probability of error in assessment. Escondido Imports Inc. v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 834, 840, 193 Cal. Rptr. 772

Legislature is without power to take away executive powers given directly to agency or officer by Constitution. State Bd. of Educ. v. Levit (1959) 52 Cal. 2d 441, 461, 463, 343 P.2d 8 ; California Adjustment Co. v. Atchison, Topeka etc. Ry. Co. (1918) 179 Cal. 140, 152, 175 P. 682

[c] Judicial Powers

Personnel Board is empowered by *Cal. Const., art. VII, § 3(b)*to exercise limited judicial power. Skelly v. State Personnel Bd. (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 194, 217 n. 31, 124 Cal. Rptr. 14, 539 P.2d 774

Legislature is without power to confer judicial power on administrative agency. Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 42-43, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29

Judicial power is power to declare law, define rights of persons under it, and determine and adjudge rights of parties in litigation. Marin Water & Power Co. v. Railroad Comm'n of Cal. (1916) 171 Cal. 706, 711-712, 154 P. 864

Judicial power is power to make binding orders and judgments, and to make final decision of controversy [People v. Bird (1931) 212 Cal. 632, 641, 300 P. 23

Administrative agencies have quasi-judicial power. Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 42 n. 14, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29

Courts have final determination as to meaning and effect of law. Bodinson Mfg. Co. v. California Employment Comm'n (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 321, 326, 109 P.2d 935

[d] Constitutional Limits

Constitutional guaranties of due process and equal protection limit exercise of administrative powers. Murgia v. Municipal Court (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 286, 294-295, 124 Cal. Rptr. 204, 540 P.2d 44 (equal protection); Walsh v. Kirby (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 95, 105-106, 118 Cal. Rptr. 1, 529 P.2d 33 (due process)

Constitution guarantees both enforcement of fair and reasonable laws and fair and reasonable enforcement of laws. Yick Wo v. Hopkins (1886) 118 U.S. 356, 373-374, 6 S. Ct. 1064, 30 L. Ed. 220

Guaranties of due process and equal protection apply both to enforcement of statutes and to enforcement of regulations. Wotton v. Bush (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 460, 466-467, 261 P.2d 256

Agency is not permitted to follow established policy if result is denial of statutory or constitutional right. Bank of Italy v. Johnson (1926) 200 Cal. 1, 15, 251 P. 784

Protection against deprivation of property without due process extends only to vested property right, not to anything less. Holloway v. Purcell (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 220, 230, 217 P.2d 665 ; Pacific Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Eshleman (1913) 166 Cal. 640, 680, 689-690, 137 P. 1119

[e] Conflicts

In cases of possible overlapping jurisdiction between two state agencies, extensive consultation between agencies is not required when new orders cover areas previously subject to one agency's regulation. California Mfr. Ass'n v. Industrial Welfare Comm'n (1980) 109 Cal. App. 3d 95, 122, 167 Cal. Rptr. 203

[f] Effect of Combined Powers

Combination of powers enables agency to choose which power to use for particular function, in absence of contrary statute. Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. v. Superior Court (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 392, 413, 413 n.11, 128 Cal. Rptr. 183, 546 P.2d 687 ; Housing Authority v. Dockweiler (1939) 14 Cal. 2d 437, 461, 94 P.2d 794

Judicial review under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 (administrative mandate) is unavailable where agency exercises legislative rather than quasi-judicial power. Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 34 n. 2, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29

[g] Separation of Powers Doctrine

Trial court order directing State Controller to pay attorney's fees in amount exceeding that appropriated by Legislature violates separation of powers doctrine. Estate of Cirone (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1280, 1292, 234 Cal. Rptr. 749

Separation of powers doctrine [Cal. Const., art. III, § 3] is applicable to state government only, not to local governments. Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 36, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29

Separation of powers doctrine requires only that whole power of one branch not be exercised by persons having whole power of another. People ex rel. McCauley & Tevis v. Brooks (1860) 16 Cal. 11, 40

[3] Administrative Regulations

Administrative regulations that alter or amend statute or enlarge or impair its scope are void, and courts are not only permitted, but required, to strike down such regulations. Bilyeu v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 657, 664, 181 Cal. Rptr. 837

[4] Delegation of Administrative Powers

[a] Limits on Powers

Trial court's invalidation of salary ordinance adopted by county board does not constitute improper interference with legislative process when evidence in action was completely one-sided, and county made no effort to comply with applicable charter provision. County's action was clearly unlawful, arbitrary, capricious, and abuse of discretion. Santa Clara County Environmental Health Assn. v. County of Santa Clara (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 74, 81-82, 218 Cal. Rptr. 678

[b] Delegation of Discretionary Powers

Discretionary power is in nature of public trust conferred on agency for public benefit and not properly delegable. California School Employees Assn. v. Personnel Com. of Pajaro Valley Unified School Dist. (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 139, 144, 89 Cal. Rptr. 620, 474 P.2d 436 ; Knight v. Eureka (1898) 123 Cal. 192, 194, 55 P. 768 ; Scollay v. Butte County (1885) 67 Cal. 249, 255, 7 P. 661 ; Redwood City v. Moore (1965) 231 Cal. App. 2d 563, 576, 42 Cal. Rptr. 72

Rule against delegation of discretionary power is fundamental and apparently of universal application. Chamber of Commerce v. Stephens (1931) 212 Cal. 607, 610, 299 P. 728

Delegation of discretionary power in absence of statutory authority amounts to pro tanto amendment or repeal of enabling law by agency. Thompson v. Board of Trustees (1904) 144 Cal. 281, 283, 77 P. 951

Delegation of discretionary power is permitted where statute or other governing law authorizes it. California School Employees Assn. v. Personnel Com. of Pajaro Valley Unified School Dist. (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 139, 144, 89 Cal. Rptr. 620, 474 P.2d 436 ; House v. Los Angeles County (1894) 104 Cal. 73, 79, 37 P. 796 ; Schecter v. County of Los Angeles (1968) 258 Cal. App. 2d 391, 396, 65 Cal. Rptr. 739

Officer having power to delegate to deputy does not necessarily carry that power with him in all functions, such as service as member of board having judgmental functions. Webster v. Board of Education (1903) 140 Cal. 331, 332, 73 P. 1070

Improper delegation is subject to validation through ratification. California School Employees Assn. v. Personnel Com. of Pajaro Valley Unified School Dist. (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 139, 145, 89 Cal. Rptr. 620, 474 P.2d 436 ; Mott v. Horstmann (1950) 36 Cal. 2d 388, 391, 224 P.2d 11

Determining fitness of license applicants is discretionary function. McDonough v. Goodcell (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 741, 746-747, 91 P.2d 1035

Delegation of task of preparing and grading examinations given to license applicants is not improper where agency retains power to exercise discretion whether to issue license. Aylward v. State Bd. etc. (1948) 31 Cal. 2d 833, 840-841, 192 P.2d 929

Power delegated to agency for exercise of judgment or discretion is purely personal to agency and not subject to further delegation. Schecter v. County of Los Angeles (1968) 258 Cal. App. 2d 391, 396, 65 Cal. Rptr. 739

[c] Ministerial and Discretionary Functions

Delegation of ministerial functions is permissible. California School Employees Assn. v. Personnel Com. of Pajaro Valley Unified School Dist. (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 139, 144-145, 89 Cal. Rptr. 620, 474 P.2d 436 ; House v. Los Angeles County (1894) 104 Cal. 73, 79, 37 P. 796 ; Schecter v. Los Angeles County (1968) 258 Cal. App. 2d 391, 396-397, 65 Cal. Rptr. 739

All official acts are discretionary to some extent. Johnson v. State of California (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 782, 788, 73 Cal. Rptr. 240, 447 P.2d 352 ; Holley v. Orange County (1895) 106 Cal. 420, 424-425, 39 P. 790 ; Ham v. Los Angeles County (1920) 46 Cal. App. 148, 162, 189 P. 462

Nature of function as ministerial or discretionary depends more on policy reasons for making distinction than on literal differences in definitions. Johnson v. State of California (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 782, 788, 73 Cal. Rptr. 240, 447 P.2d 352

Definitional differences between ministerial and discretionary functions. Burgdorf v. Funder (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 443, 449, 54 Cal. Rptr. 805 ; Morgan v. County of Yuba (1964) 230 Cal. App. 2d 938, 942, 41 Cal. Rptr. 508 ; Elder v. Anderson (1962) 205 Cal. App. 2d 326, 331, 23 Cal. Rptr. 48

Authorization to delegate ministerial function is inferrable from express grant of power to perform function. Klevesahl v. Byington (1934) 1 Cal. App. 2d 671, 676, 37 P.2d 179

[d] Qualifications of Delegate

Agency is permitted to appoint delegate outside government or unconnected with agency as long as agency retains ultimate control so as to safeguard public interest. Chamber of Commerce v. Stephens (1931) 212 Cal. 607, 610, 299 P. 728 ; Egan v. San Francisco (1913) 165 Cal. 576, 584, 133 P. 294 ; Morton Bros. v. Pacific Coast S.S. Co. (1898) 122 Cal. 352, 353-354, 55 P. 1 ; Los Angeles County v. Nesvig (1965) 231 Cal. App. 2d 603, 616-617, 41 Cal. Rptr. 918 ; Haggerty v. Oakland (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 407, 415-417, 326 P.2d 957

Delegate is not required to have more qualifications than person appointing him, in absence of contrary statute. Serenko v. Bright (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 682, 690, 70 Cal. Rptr. 1

Delegate is not constitutionally required to be qualified to perform delegated task. Stoetzner v. Los Angeles (1959) 170 Cal. App. 2d 394, 398, 338 P.2d 971

[e] Validity of Purported Delegation

Agency's subsequent approval or ratification of act designated to subordinate is validating act, which becomes act of agency itself. Western Oil & Gas Assn. v. Monterey Bay Unified Air Pollution Control Dist. (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 408, 428, 261 Cal. Rptr. 384, 777 P.2d 157

Agency is not permitted to enlarge or modify scope of power delegated to it by Legislature. Ralphs Grocery Co. v. Reimel (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 172, 176 n. 3, 70 Cal. Rptr. 407, 444 P.2d 79

Validity of purported delegation depends in part on balancing of interests for and against delegation. Patton v. Board of Harbor Commissioners (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 536, 543, 91 Cal. Rptr. 832

Attempted delegation to person already having all power purportedly delegated is no delegation at all. Schnider v. State of California (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 439, 443, 241 P.2d 1

Administrative agency has only such power as law expressly or implicitly gives it. City & County of San Francisco v. Padilla (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 388, 400, 100 Cal. Rptr. 223

Delegate of agency is not permitted to enlarge or modify scope of delegated power. Starsky v. Board of Trustees (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 310, 315, 109 Cal. Rptr. 822

Validity of purported delegation depends in part on whether agency delegates power in connection with exercising legislative or quasi-judicial power. Vita-Pharmacals, Inc. v. Bd. of Pharmacy (1952) 110 Cal. App. 2d 826, 831, 243 P.2d 890

Administrative regulations have force and effect of law. Viner v. Civil Serv. Comm'n (1943) 59 Cal. App. 2d 458,

465, 139 P.2d 88

Ambiguous act not conforming to prescribed procedure for delegation but apparently amounting to delegation is valid delegation if in fact appointing power tried to exercise authority to delegate. Eggert v. Pacific States Sav. & L. Co. (1943) 57 Cal. App. 2d 239, 249, 136 P.2d 822

[5] Delegation of Legislative Power

Congress is permitted to delegate power "to fill up the details" in general legislation. Wayman v. Southard (1825) 23 U.S. 1, 43, 6 L. Ed. 253

Legislature is required to settle controverted issues of policy whenever it has the time, information, and competence to deal with them. Clean Air Constituency v. California State Air Resources Bd. (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 801, 817, 114 Cal. Rptr. 577, 523 P.2d 617

Legislature is required to resolve truly fundamental issues. Kugler v. Yocum (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 371, 376, 71 Cal. Rptr. 687, 445 P.2d 303 ; Wilke & Holzheiser, Inc. v. Dept. of Alcoholic Bev. Control (1966) 65 Cal. 2d 349, 369, 55 Cal. Rptr. 23, 420 P.2d 735

Important consideration is not whether standards are given but whether adequate safeguards exist against abuse of delegated power. Kugler v. Yocum (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 371, 381-382, 71 Cal. Rptr. 687, 445 P.2d 303

Standard to guide exercise of delegated legislative power is not required to be more definite than necessary to provide directives of conduct for agency. Duskin v. State Bd. of Dry Cleaners (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 155, 160, 23 Cal. Rptr. 404, 373 P.2d 468

Court is permitted to find sufficient standard by inference from general purpose of statute and reasons for enactment. Louis Stores, Inc. v. Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 749, 760, 22 Cal. Rptr. 14, 371 P.2d 758 ; In re Petersen (1958) 51 Cal. 2d 177, 184-186, 331 P.2d 24

Legislature is not empowered to take away, diminish or restrict agency's power given by Constitution. State Bd. of Educ. v. Levit (1959) 52 Cal. 2d 441, 461, 463, 343 P.2d 8 ; California Adjustment Co. v. Atchison, Topeka etc. Ry. Co. (1918) 179 Cal. 140, 152, 175 P. 682

Legislature is free to choose whether to delegate legislative power unless Constitution requires delegation. Dean v. Kuchel (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 97, 102, 104-105, 230 P.2d 811

Constitutional directive for Legislature to provide for something is authorization to delegate legislative power. El Dorado Oil Works v. McColgan (1950) 34 Cal. 2d 731, 737, 215 P.2d 4

Legislature is permitted to delegate legislative power to constitutional agencies. Sandstrom v. Cal. Horse Racing Bd. (1948) 31 Cal. 2d 401, 413, 189 P.2d 17 , cert. denied, 335 U.S. 814, 69 S. Ct. 31, 93 L. Ed. 369 ; Harris v. Alcoholic Bev. etc. Appeals Bd. (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 1, 6, 39 Cal. Rptr. 192 , 39 Rptr 192

Legislature is permitted to delegate "power to fill up the details" in general legislation if it fixes primary standard to guide exercise of delegated power. First Indus. Loan Co. v. Daugherty (1945) 26 Cal. 2d 545, 549, 159 P.2d 921

Legislature's attempt to make future regulations of another jurisdiction part of California law is unlawful delegation. Brock v. Superior Court (1937) 9 Cal. 2d 291, 297, 71 P.2d 209

Delegation of legislative power to administrative agencies is necessary to transaction of public business. Gaylord v. Pasadena (1917) 175 Cal. 433, 436, 166 P. 348

Constitutional directive for Legislature to regulate compensation of county officials requires that Legislature do so itself and precludes delegation of task to county supervisors. People v. Johnson (1892) 95 Cal. 471, 474-475, 31 P. 611 ; Dougherty v. Austin (1892) 94 Cal. 601, 604-607, 29 P. 1092

Delegation of power to determine circumstances under which individual would be criminally prosecuted does not constitute unconstitutional delegation of legislative power when legislature, not agency, originally created underlying criminal sanction and fixed penalties. People v. Martin (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 699, 710, 259 Cal. Rptr. 770 (administrative agency authorized to prepare list of hazardous wastes, improper disposal of which would be punishable under environmental quality statutes)

Whether or not legislature has previously made basic policy decision that provides standard or guide for exercise of administrative discretion is critical question in determining if decision is fundamental so as to be reserved for Legislature alone. California Medical Assn. v. Lackner (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 28, 41, 177 Cal. Rptr. 188

Unqualified grant of power to administrative agency grants all power held by Legislature itself, since Legislature must be presumed to know extent of its power. Young v. Department of Fish and Game (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 257, 277, 177 Cal. Rptr. 247 (dictum)

Legislature is able to delegate authority to administrative agency to temporarily render its own acts inoperative so long as usual conditions of valid delegation (such as retention of control over fundamental policy decisions and appropriate standards and safeguards for exercise of delegated power) are met. Salmon Trollers Marketing Assn. v. Fullerton (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 291, 301-302, 177 Cal. Rptr. 362

[6] Delegation of Judicial Powers

Personnel Board is empowered Cal. Const., art. VII, § 3(b) to exercise limited judicial power. Skelly v. State Personnel Bd. (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 194, 217 n. 31, 124 Cal. Rptr. 14, 539 P.2d 774

Legislature is without power to confer judicial power on administrative agency. Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 42-43, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.34

§ 470.34 Attorney General Opinions

Director of Public Works (now Transportation) is not authorized to delegate surveying, planning, and contract responsibilities concerning municipal public works. 1 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 628 (1943)

State Planning Board is not authorized to delegate duties to committee. 1 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 442 (1943)

Director of Motor Vehicles is authorized to delegate certain duties. 1 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 78 (1943)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.35

§ 470.35 Law Reviews

Asimow, The Influence of the Federal Administrative Procedure Act on California's New Administrative Procedure Act, 32 Tulsa L.J. 297 (1996).

Asimow, The Scope of Judicial Review of Decisions of California Administrative Agencies, 42 U.C.L.A. L. Rev. 1157 (1995).

Asimow, Toward a New California Administrative Procedure Act: Adjudication Fundamentals, 39 U.C.L.A L. Rev. 1067 (1992).

Comment, Survey: Women and California Law: Part III Administrative Law, 16 Golden Gate U.L. Rev. 555 (1986)

Rubin, Due Process and the Administrative State, 72 Calif. L. Rev. 1044 (1984)

Note, Delegation and Individual Rights, 56 S. Cal. L. Rev. 1321 (1983)

Maloney, Disqualification of Administrative Law Judges in California, 16 U.S.F. L. Rev. 229 (1982)

Comment, A Proposal for a Single Uniform Substantial Evidence Rule in Review of Administrative Decisions, 12 Pac. L.J. 41 (1980)

Note, Tex-Cal Land Management, Inc. v. Agricultural Labor Relations Board: Administrative Adjudications and the Substantial Evidence Standard of Judicial Review, 68 Calif. L. Rev. 618 (1980)

Ninth Circuit Survey--Administrative Law, 6 Golden Gate U. L. Rev. 327 (1976)

Freedman, Crisis and Legitimacy in the Administrative Process, 27 Stan. L. Rev. 1041 (1975)

The Supreme Court of California 1973-1974: Administrative Law, 63 Cal. L. Rev. 11 (1975)

Livingston, Organizations and Administrative Practice--A Balance to the Corporate State? 26 Hastings L.J. 89 (1974)

Miller, Administrative Decision Making--Mortal or Immortal? 25 Hastings L.J. 1131 (1974)

The Supreme Court of California 1972-1973: Administrative Law, 62 Cal. L. Rev. 408 (1974)

The Supreme Court of California 1971-1972: Administrative Law, 61 Cal. L. Rev. 289 (1973)

The Supreme Court of California 1970-1971: Administrative Law, 60 Cal. L. Rev. 759 (1972)

The Supreme Court of California 1969-1970: Administrative Law, 59 Cal. L. Rev. 58 (1971)

Molinari, California Administrative Process: A Synthesis Updated, 10 Santa Clara Law. 274 (1970)

The Supreme Court of California 1968-1969: Administrative Law, 58 Cal. L. Rev. 135 (1970)

Traub, California's Ombudsmen for Licensees--The Office of Administrative Procedure, 45 L.A. B. Bull. 190 (1970)

Zamir, Administrative Control of Administrative Action, 57 Cal. L. Rev. 866 (1969)

Reed, Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies in California, 56 Cal. L. Rev. 1061 (1968)

Hatcher, The University, the Bar and Administrative Agencies, 42 Cal. St. B.J. 39 (1967)

The Supreme Court of California 1966-1967: Administrative Law, 55 Cal. L. Rev. 1068 (1967)

Boas, Insights and Guideposts: Administrative Law, 39 Cal. St. B.J. 894 (1964)

Stone, The Twentieth Century Administrative Explosion and After, 52 Cal. L. Rev. 513 (1964)

Comment, Administrative Law--Constitutional Law--Delegation of Powers--Standards Doctrine, 14 Stan. L. Rev. 372 (1962)

Andrews, Agencies and the Legislature--Relationships Between Administrators and the California Legislature, 44 Cal. L. Rev. 293 (1956)

Clarkson, Practice Before California Licensing Agencies, 44 Cal. L. Rev. 197 (1956)

Newman, Two Decades of Administrative Law in California: A Critique, 44 Cal. L. Rev. 190 (1956)

Schwarzer, Enforcing Federal Supremacy: Relief Against Federal-State Regulatory Conflicts, 43 Cal. L. Rev. 234 (1955)

Pfiffner, The Role of the Lawyer in Public Administration, 20 S. Cal. L. Rev. 37 (1946)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.36

§ 470.36 Text References

Davis, Administrative Law Treatise

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.37

§ 470.37 Internet References

California Home Page. This site includes links to other sites maintained by numerous state agencies. http://www.ca.gov

Department of Consumer Affairs. This site includes links to sites maintained by many state agencies that are under this department, as well as links to agency sites. http://www.dca.ca.gov

Office of Administrative Hearings. This site includes: information and location concerning specific OAH offices; an OAH hearing guide; information concerning Administrative Procedure Act statutes, regulations, and proposed regulations; OAH forms; information concerning alternative dispute resolution procedures; and declaratory decisions. http://www.dgs.ca.gov/oah

Office of Administrative Law. This site includes: OAL publications; links to OAL statutes and regulations relating to rulemaking; regulations submitted to the OAL for review, and information for contacting or provding input to the OAL regarding rulemaking. http://www.oal.ca.gov

California Code of Regulations. Pursuant to Gov. Code §§ 11340.1(b), 11344, requiring the OAL to make the California Code of Regulations available on the Internet free of charge, this site includes the full text of the CCR. http://ccr.oal.ca.gov

California Courts. This site includes: general information about state court organization and specific court; text of recently filed slip opinions; court minutes and calendars; text of California Rules of Court; Judicial Council forms and other information promulgated by the Judicial Council; links to sites of most Court of Appeal districts, with text of local appellate rules, forms, and internal operating procedures; links to other sites maintained by local trial courts, state government agencies and organizations, federal courts and federal organizations, and other sources of legal information. http://www.courtinfo.ca.gov

California Legislative Information. This site includes: text of constitution, codes, and statutes (including complete text of APA); and information concerning pending legislation. http://www.leginfo.ca.gov

Matthew Bender. This site includes: links to Matthew Bender publications and Shepard's citation service. http://www.bender.com

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 470.38-470.49

[Reserved]

§§ 470.38[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.50

§ 470.50 Scope of Appendix

This appendix provides a brief summary of general information relating to selected licensing agencies. Not all state agencies are included in this appendix. For a more complete listing of all agencies, see § 470.20. Information relating to other agencies may be obtained through a state agency index linked to the Internet site maintained by the state of California [see http://www.ca.gov ("California Homepage"); see also http://www.dca.ca.gov (Internet site of the Dept. of Consumer Affairs, which oversees many licensing agencies)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.51

§ 470.51 California Architects Board

The California Architects Board is an agency within the Department of Consumer Affairs [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 5510]. The Board is the licensing and disciplinary agency that governs professional architects [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 475 et seq. (denial, suspension, and revocation of licenses generally), 5500 et seq. (Architect Practices Act); see also Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA); 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 100-153].

For discussion and forms relating to actions against architects, including some discussion of licensing requirements, see Ch. 56, Architects .

- Address: 400 R Street, Suite 4000, Sacramento, CA 95814
- Telephone: (916) 445-3393; FAX (916) 445-8524
- Internet Site: http://www.cbae.cahwnet.gov

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.52

§ 470.52 Board of Chiropractic Examiners

The Board of Chiropractic Examiners is an independent agency within the Department of Consumer Affairs. The Board is the licensing and disciplinary agency that governs professional chiropractic [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 1000-1 et seq. (Chiropractic Act, adopted by initiative measure in 1922 and appearing as an appendix to the Bus. and Prof. Code in Deering's California Code Annotated); see also Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 1000 (designation of Act), 1001, 1050 et seq. (chiropractic corporations); 16 Cal. Code Reg. § 301 et seq.].

The Board's licensing and disciplinary duties include publication of an annual directory listing licensed chiropractors and stating legal developments relating to chiropractors, as well as cooperating with attorneys and law enforcement personnel in the enforcement of the Act [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 1001; Bus. & Prof. Code § 1000-17].

- Address: 2710 North Gateway Oaks, Suite 100, Sacramento, CA 95833-3505
- Telephone: (916) 263-5355; FAX (916) 263-5369
- Internet Site: http://www.dca.ca.gov/r_r/chiropra.htm

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.53

§ 470.53 Dental Board of California

The Dental Board of California is a statutory agency within the Department of Consumer Affairs [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 101(a), 1601], governed by the Dental Practice Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 1600 et seq.; see also Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA); 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1000-1089].

The Dental Board of California is responsible for enforcing the Dental Practice Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 1600 et seq.]. It is the licensing and disciplinary agency for dentists and six classes of dental support practitioners, known collectively as "dental auxiliaries" [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 1611, 1741(e); see also Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 1634, 1670, 1742, 1747]. The Board functions through an Examining Committee (dentists) and a Committee on Dental Auxiliaries [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 1601, 1621.2, 1743].

For further discussion and forms relating to the licensing and discipline of dentists, see Ch. 209, Dentists .

- Address: 1432 Howe Ave., Suite. 85-B, Sacramento, CA 95825
- Telephone: (916) 263-2300 (dentists), (916) 263-2595 (dental auxiliaries)
- Internet Site: http://www.dca.ca.gov/r_r/dentalbd.htm

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.54

§ 470.54 Board of Podiatric Medicine

The California Board of Podiatric Medicine is a statutory agency within the Medical Board of California, Department of Consumer Affairs [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 101(aa), 2460], and is governed by Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2460 et seq. [see also Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA); 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1399.650-1399.697]. The Board functions as the licensing and disciplinary agency for doctors of podiatric medicine.

For coverage and forms relating to physicians generally, see Ch. 414, Physicians: Licensing and Discipline .

- Address: 1420 Howe Avenue, Suite 8, Sacramento, CA 95825-3229
- Telephone: (916) 263-2647; FAX 263-2651
- Internet Site: http://www.dca.ca.gov/bpm/

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.55

§ 470.55 Boards of Psychology

The Board of Psychology is under the Medical Board of California, Department of Consumer Affairs [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 101(b), 2920], and is governed by the Psychology Licensing Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2900 et seq.; see also Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA); 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1380-1397.40]. The Board functions as the licensing and disciplinary agency for practicing psychologists [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2900].

- Address: 1422 Howe Ave., Suite 22, Sacramento, CA 95825-3200
- Telephone: (916) 263-2699
- Internet Site: http://www.dca.ca.gov/psych

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.56

§ 470.56 Board of Registered Nursing

The Board of Registered Nursing is a statutory agency within the Department of Consumer Affairs [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2701], and is governed by the Nursing Practice Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2700 et seq.; see also Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA); 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1402-1485]. The Board, functioning through an executive officer who is a currently registered nurse, is the licensing and disciplinary agency for registered nurses [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2708; 16 Cal. Code Reg. § 1403].

- Address: 400 R St., Suite 4030, Sacramento, CA 95814
- Telephone: (916) 322-3350
- Internet Site: http://www.dca.ca.gov/r_r/regnurs1.htm

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.57

§ 470.57 Board of Vocational Nursing and Psychiatric Technicians

The Board of Vocational Nursing and Psychiatric Technicians is a statutory agency under the Department of Consumer Affairs [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2841], and is governed by the Vocational Nursing Practice Act and the Psychiatric Technicians Law [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2840 et seq., 4500 et seq.; see also Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA); 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2500-2547.5, 2562-2590]. The Board is the licensing and disciplinary agency for licensed vocational nurses and psychiatric technicians; its disciplinary functions are handled through an executive officer [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2847; 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2503, 2563].

- Address: 2535 Capitol Oaks Dr., Suite 205, Sacramento, CA 95833
- Telephone: (916) 263-7800; FAX (916) 263-7859
- Internet Site: http://www.bvnpt.ca.gov

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.58

§ 470.58 Bureau of Automotive Repair

The Bureau of Automotive Repair is a statutory agency within the Department of Consumer Affairs [Bus. & Prof. Code § 9882; 16 Cal. Code Reg. § 3303(b)], and is governed by the Automotive Repair Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 9880 et seq.; see also Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 472-472.5; Health & Safety Code § 44000 et seq.; Veh. Code §§ 12000-12003; Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA); 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 3300-3397.43]. The Bureau regulates the California automotive repair industry [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 101.6], by enforcing the Automotive Repair Act and its regulations, and by enforcing the additional statutes such as the following:

- Automotive repair dealers [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 9880 et seq.].
- Licensed official stations, adjusters, and installers [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 9887.1-9889.19].
- The smog check program [see Health & Safety Code §§ 44000-44071].
- Fleet facility licenses [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 9888; 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 3340.1-3340.50.5].
- Third-party dispute resolution processes for disputes between new car owners and the manufacturers [see Civ. Code § 1793.22; Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 472-472.5].
- Invoice requirements for car parts [see Veh. Code §§ 12000-12003].

- Address: 10240 Systems Parkway, Suite D, Sacramento, CA 95827
- Telephone: (916) 255-4300
- Internet Site: http://www.smogcheck.ca.gov

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.59

§ 470.59 Bureau of Electronic and Appliance Repair, Home Furnishings, and Thermal Insulation

The Bureau of Electronic and Appliance Repair, Home Furnishings, and Thermal Insulation is a statutory agency within the Department of Consumer Affairs [Bus. & Prof. Code § 9810]. The Bureau is governed by the Electronic and Appliance Repair Dealer Registration Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 9800 et seq.; see also Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA); 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2700-2770]. The Electronic and Appliance Repair Dealer Registration Law (Bus. & Prof. Code § 9800 et seq.) concerns consumer products; the repair of electronic devices and appliances used commercially service is virtually exempt from regulation under this law [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 9802(b), (c)]. The Bureau functions as a registration or licensing and disciplinary agency for "service dealers" who repair electronic devices and appliances [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 9801(f); Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 9812, 9840, 9841, 9850, 9860]. The chief of the Bureau of Electronic and Appliance Repair functions as the executive officer and administers the Repair Dealer Registration Law subject to supervision by the director of the Department of Consumer Affairs [Bus. & Prof. Code § 9810].

- Address: 400 R Street, Sacramento, CA 95814 (Dept. of Consumer Affairs generally)
- Telephone: (800) 952-5210; (916) 445-1254 (Dept. of Consumer Affairs generally)
- Internet Site: http://www.dca.ca.gov/r_r/electron.htm

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.60

§ 470.60 Bureau of Security and Investigative Services

The Bureau of Security and Investigative Services is a statutory agency within the Department of Consumer Affairs [see Bus. & Prof. Code 7500], which is governed by Bus. & Prof. Code 7500 et seq. [see also Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA); 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 600-699.1]. The Bureau functions through a chief of security and investigative services, who serves under the direction and supervision of the director of consumer affairs [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 7501.1, 7512.5]. It has licensing and regulatory authority over the following industries and professions:

- Private investigators [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 7540-7542.1].
- Private patrol operators [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 7583-7583.42].
- Firearms and baton training facilities [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 7585-7585.20].
- Locksmiths [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 6980-6980.84].
- Repossessors [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 7500-7511 (Repossessors Act)].
- Alarm companies [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 7590-7599.75 (Alarm Company Act)].

- Address: 400 R Street, Suite 3040, Sacramento, CA 95814
- Telephone: (916) 322-4000; FAX (916) 323-1182
- Internet Site: http://www.dca.ca.gov/bsis

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.61

§ 470.61 California Horse Racing Board

The California Horse Racing Board is a constitutional agency [Cal. Const. art. IV, § 19(b)], governed by the Horse Racing Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 19400 et seq.; see also 4 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1400-2061; Epstein v. California Horse Racing Board (1963) 222 Cal. App. 2d 831, 836, 35 Cal. Rptr. 642] . The Horse Racing Law was enacted pursuant to Cal. Const., art IV, § 19(b), as a comprehensive regulation of almost every aspect of legalized horse racing and wagering on horse racing [see Flores v. Los Angeles Turf Club (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 736, 745-746, 13 Cal. Rptr. 201, 361 P.2d 921] . The Board has supervision and jurisdiction under the Horse Racing Law over meetings in California where horse races with wagering on their results are held, and over all persons and things having to do with the operation of these meetings [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 19401, 19420]. The Board's powers include the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 19440(a)]:

- Adopting, administering, and enforcing rules and regulations affecting horse racing and pari-mutuel wagering.

- Adjudicating controversies arising from the enforcement of those laws and regulations dealing with horse racing and pari-mutuel wagering.

- Licensing each racing association and all persons, other than the public at large, who participate in a horse race meeting with pari-mutuel wagering.

- Allocating racing dates to qualified associations in the best interests of the people of California in accord with the intent of the Horse Racing Law.

Under the Horse Racing Law, the goals of protecting the integrity of the gaming operations and insuring a rational allocation of time periods during which racing events will be held are achieved through licensing. In particular, racing associations, wagering facility operators, virtually all competitors (both human and equine), persons attendant on the horses, pari-mutuel employees, and other employees connected with the horse racing program are required to be licensed by the Board [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 19480, 19510; 4 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1430-1510]. Patrons attending a race meeting are also bound by certain standards of conduct, and may be removed, excluded, or ejected from the horse racing inclosure for misconduct or prior criminal acts relating to illegal wagering or other specifically proscribed activities [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 19572; 4 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1980, 1981, 1989, 1990]. The Board functions primarily through a director or executive officer [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 19428].

For discussion and forms relating to gambling generally, see Ch. 272, Gambling . For discussion and forms relating to actions for injuries sustained at a sporting event, see Ch. 273, Games, Sports, and Athletics .

- Address: 1010 Hurley Way Suite 300, Sacramento, CA 95825
- Telephone: (916) 263-6000; FAX (916) 263-6042
- Internet Site: http://www.chrb.ca.gov

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.62

§ 470.62 California State Board of Pharmacy

The California State Board of Pharmacy is a statutory agency within the Department of Consumer Affairs [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4001], and is governed by the Pharmacy Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4000 et seq.; see also Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA); 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1700-1792]. The Board, functioning primarily through an executive officer, operates as the licensing and disciplinary agency for pharmacists and the regulatory agency for pharmacies [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 4003(d), 4004.5, 4005; 16 Cal. Code Reg. § 1703].

For further discussion of the licensing and regulation of pharmacists, see Ch. 214, Drugs and Pharmacists .

- Address: 400 R Street, Suite 4070, Sacramento, CA 95814
- Telephone: (916) 445-5014
- Internet Site: http://www.rx.ca.gov

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.63

§ 470.63 Commission on Teacher Credentialing

The Commission is a statutory agency [Educ. Code §§ 44200, 44210], and is governed by Educ. Code §§ 44200 et seq. [see also Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA); 5 Cal. Code Reg. § 80001 et seq.]. It operates as the agency that oversees the standards and procedures for certifying educational personnel as qualified for a license to practice in the public schools of California [see Educ. Code § 44225].

For detailed discussion and forms relating to proceedings to issue, suspend, or revoke a certificate issued by the Commission, and otherwise relating to certificated employees of California pubic schools, see Ch. 512, Schools: Certification, Dismissal, and Related Employment Issues .

- Address: 1812 9th Street, Sacramento, CA 95814
- Telephone: (916) 445-7254
- Internet Site: http://www.ctc.ca.gov

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.64

§ 470.64 Contractor's State License Board

The Contractors' State License Board is a statutory agency within the Department of Consumer Affairs [Bus. & Prof. Code § 7000.5], and is governed by the Contractors' State License Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 7000 et seq.; see also Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA); 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 810-887]. The Board's main functions are licensing [Bus. & Prof. Code § 7065] and categorizing [Bus. & Prof. Code § 7059(a)] contractors and enforcing competency standards within the industry [Bus. & Prof. Code § 7090].

For detailed discussion and forms relating to contractor licensing and discipline, see Ch. 104, Building Contracts, § 104.70 et seq.

- Address: 9835 Goethe Road, Sacramento, CA 95826
- Telephone: (916) 255-3900
- Internet Site: http://www.cslb.ca.gov

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.65

§ 470.65 Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control and Alcoholic Beverage Control Appeals Board

The Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control (ABC) is a constitutional agency, within the Business, Transportation and Housing Agency [see Cal. Const. art. XX, § 22; Gov. Code § 13975]. The ABC, governed by the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23000 et seq.; see also Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA); 4 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1-150], is the licensing and regulatory agency for persons and businesses engaged in the manufacture, importation, or sale of alcoholic beverages [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23001].

The Alcoholic Beverage Control Appeals Board, also a constitutional agency, conducts specified powers of administrative review over orders and actions of the ABC [see Cal. Const. art. XX, § 22; 4 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 178-200.1].

For detailed discussion of proceedings before the ABC and the Appeals Board, as well as judicial review of these proceedings, see Ch. 18, Alcoholic Beverage Licenses .

- Address: Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control (Headquarters), 3810 Rosin Court, Suite 150, Sacramento, CA 95834; Alcoholic Beverage Control Appeals Board, 660 J Street, Suite 443, Sacramento, CA 95814

- Telephone: (916) 263-6900 (ABC); (916) 445-4005 (Appeals Board)

- Internet Site: http://www.abc.ca.gov

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.66

§ 470.66 Department of Motor Vehicles

The Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) is a part of the Business, Transportation and Housing Agency in the executive branch of the government of the State of California [Veh. Code § 1500]. The DMV is governed by Veh. Code §§ 1 et seq. (definitions, Department of Motor Vehicles), 12500 et seq. (drivers' licenses) [see also Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA); 13 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 100-100.90]. The DMV is the agency that administers motor vehicle registration and motor vehicle driver licensing. It also regulates and licenses businesses associated with the manufacture, distribution, transport, and sale of motor vehicles [cf. § 470.57, concerning the regulation of mechanics and the vehicle repair industry by the Bureau of Automotive Repair]. The DMV's driver licensing functions include the following:

- Prescribing and providing applications for drivers' licenses [Veh. Code § 1652(a).

- Issuing and renewing licenses [Veh. Code §§ 12800 et seq.

- Suspending and revoking licenses [Veh. Code §§ 13350 et seq.

- Holding investigations to determine whether a person's driving privileges should be restricted or terminated [Veh. Code § 13800].

- Conducting hearings, on demand of persons whose driving privileges have been restricted or terminated by the Board [Veh. Code §§ 14100 et seq.

For detailed discussion and forms relating to driver licensing proceedings before the DMV, see Ch. 92, Automobiles: Drivers' Licenses .

See also § 470.69, discussing the New Motor Vehicle Board, which is a division of the DMV.

- Address: 4700 Broadway, Sacramento, CA 95820

- Telephone: (916) 657-7669

- Internet Site: http://www.dmv.ca.gov

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.67

§ 470.67 Department of Real Estate

The Department of Real Estate (DRE) is a statutory agency within the Business and Transportation Agency [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10050], governed by the Real Estate Law [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 10000 et seq.; see also Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA); 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2705-3109]. The DRE is headed by the Real Estate Commissioner [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10050], who appoints members to the Real Estate Advisory Commission, which in turns advises and makes recommendations on policy to the Commissioner. The DRE functions as the licensing and disciplinary agency for the real estate agents [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10071].

For discussion and forms relating to real estate brokers and salespersons generally, Ch. 103, Brokers. See also § 470.70, regarding the Office of Real Estate Appraisers.

- Address: 2201 Broadway, Sacramento, CA 95818
- Telephone: (916) 227-0931
- Internet Site: http://www.dre.ca.gov

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.68

§ 470.68 Medical Board of California

The Medical Board of California is an agency of the Department of Consumer Affairs [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 101(b), 2001]. The Board is governed by and administers the Medical Practice Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2000 et seq.; see also Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA); 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1300-1353 (Division of Licensing), 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1355-1364 (Division of Medical Quality)]. The Board functions as the licensing and disciplinary agency for physicians and surgeons and certain affiliated healing arts professionals.

The Board is responsible for enforcing professional standards and carrying out disciplinary actions against physicians [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2004].

Legal proceedings against the Board or its divisions may be instituted only in Sacramento, San Francisco, Los Angeles, or San Diego [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2019; see McPheeters v. Board of Medical Examiners (1946) 74 Cal. App. 2d 46, 49, 168 P.2d 65 (superior court in Fresno County lacked jurisdiction in proceeding for writ of mandate to require Board to dismiss proceedings against physician)]. For detailed discussion and forms relating to the licensing and discipline of physicians, see Ch. 414, Physicians: Licensing and Discipline .

The Medical Board also oversees the licensing and disciplinary agencies of a number of "Affiliated Healing Arts Professions." See §§ 470.54, 470.55, § 470.72, § 470.73, § 470.74 for discussion of some of these agencies: the Board of Podiatric Medicine, the Board of Psychology, the Physical Therapy Board, the Physician Assistant Committee, and the Speech-Language Pathology and Audiology Examining Committee, respectively. Contact the Medical Board for information concerning the licensing of other affiliated healing arts professionals, including midwives, opticians, acupuncturists, hearing aid dispensers, and respiratory care specialists.

See also § 470.71, discussing the independent Osteopathic Medical Board.

- Address: 1426 Howe Avenue, Suite 54, Sacramento, CA 95825
- Telephone: (916) 263-2466

- Internet Site: http://www.medbd.ca.gov

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.69

§ 470.69 New Motor Vehicle Board

The New Motor Vehicle Board is a statutory agency within the Department of Motor Vehicles [Veh. Code § 3000], and is governed by Veh. Code § 3000 et seq. [see also Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA); 13 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 550-599]. The Board oversees the licensing and regulation of new motor vehicle dealers and resolves franchise-related disputes concerning new car dealerships [see Veh. Code §§ 3000-3069)]. Under Veh. Code § 3050, which outlines the duties of the Board, the Board regulates the activities of a wide range of statutorily defined entities [see, e.g., Veh. Code § 3050(c) (requiring Board to consider matters concerning activities of new motor vehicle dealers, manufacturers, manufacturer branches, distributors, and distributor branches)].

The doctrine of exhaustion of administrative remedies applies to actions and proceedings before the Board. Before a person can seek judicial remedies in a matter within the Board's jurisdiction, the person must first seek relief through the remedies that are available through the Board [Yamaha Motor Corp. v. Superior Court (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 652, 657-660, 240 Cal. Rptr. 806 (holding that cross-complaint for damages is barred due to cross-complainant's failure to seek administrative remedies before Board); Yamaha Motor Corp. v. Superior Court (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 1232, 1240-1242, 230 Cal. Rptr. 382 (also applying exhaustion doctrine)]. When the administrative remedy is inadequate or the challenge is to the constitutionality of the Board itself or the Board's procedure, the party seeking relief need not exhaust administrative remedies before the Board [Chrysler Corp. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 1034, 1039, 153 Cal. Rptr. 135] .

- Address: 1507 21st Street, Suite 330, Sacramento, CA 95814
- Telephone: (916) 445-1888
- Internet Site: http://www.dmv.ca.gov (DMV generally); see also http://www.dca.ca.gov/r_r/newvehi1.htm (providing a brief description of the Board; one of many listings of various state and federal agencies maintained by the Department of Consumer Affairs)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.70

§ 470.70 Office of Real Estate Appraisers

Title XI of the Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery, and Enforcement Act of 1989 ("FIRREA"), also entitled the "Real Estate Appraisal Reform Amendments" [12 U.S.C. §§ 3310, 3331 et seq.; see also 12 U.S.C. § 1844(b) (Section 5 of the Bank Holding Company Act)] provides protection for federal financial and public policy interests in real estate related transactions by requiring real estate appraisals used in connection with federally related transactions to be performed in writing, in accordance with uniform standards, by appraisers whose competency has been demonstrated and whose professional conduct will be subject to effective supervision [12 U.S.C. § 3305(d)]. Licensing and certification are state functions overseen by the Appraisal Subcommittee of the Federal Financial Institutions Examination Council (FFIEC). The Appraisal Subcommittee (ASC) consists of representatives appointed by the heads of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, the Office of Thrift Supervision and the National Credit Union Administration, and the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The ASC maintains a national registry of state licensed and certified appraisers, and ensures that each state appraiser certifying and licensing agency transmits to the ASC a roster of the state certified and licensed appraisers who are eligible to perform appraisals in federally related transactions, along with an annual registry fees. The ASC requires that all state licensing agencies remain totally independent agencies, answerable only to the governor or a cabinet level official who has no regulatory responsibility for real estate licensing, promotion, development or financing functions.

In response to this federal legislative scheme, the California Legislature enacted the Real Estate Appraisers' Licensing and Certification Law, and created an independent Office of Real Estate Appraisers, which is the agency that administers the real estate appraiser licensing program for California, in compliance with the federal mandate. The OREA is a statutory agency within the Business, Transportation and Housing Agency [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11300 et. seq.; see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 475 et. seq.; Gov. Code § 11340 et. seq. (APA); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 3500 et. seq.].

- Address: 1755 Creekside Oaks Drive, Suite 190, Sacramento, CA 95833-3637
- Telephone: (916) 263-0722; FAX (916) 263-0887
- Internet Site: http://www.orea.cahwnet.gov

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.71

§ 470.71 Osteopathic Medical Board

The system of osteopathic healing was developed shortly after the end of the Civil War. Osteopathic medicine was originally a system of healing based on the theory that all diseases are caused by irregularities in the musculoskeletal structure that can be corrected primarily by manipulation and without the use of drugs. At present, although treatment of the musculoskeletal component of disease remains an integral part of osteopathic practice, the practice of osteopathic medicine is very similar to conventional (allopathic) medical practice [D'Amico v. Board of Medical Examiners (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 716, 721, 86 Cal. Rptr. 245 ; see Gevitz, The DO's: Osteopathic Medicine in America (Johns Hopkins Univ. Press 1982)]. For example, osteopathic physicians and surgeons formerly had a more limited field of practice than medical doctors; among other things, they could not prescribe drugs [Harlan v. Alderson (1921) 55 Cal. App. 263, 266, 203 P. 1014] , or treat the human eye or fit eyeglasses [In re Rust (1919) 181 Cal. 73, 78-79, 183 P. 548] . Osteopathic physicians and surgeons and conventional medical doctors are now accorded equal professional status and privileges in California as licensed physicians and surgeons [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2051, 2453(a)]. Health facilities, health care service plans, nonprofit hospital service plans, disability insurance policies, self-insured employers, welfare benefit plans, and state agencies (including agencies of cities or other subdivisions of the state) are prohibited from discriminating, in employment and staff privilege matters, against licensed physicians on the basis of whether a physician holds a degree from an osteopathic college or a conventional medical school [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2453(b)]. Entities that contract with physicians and surgeons or osteopathic physicians to prde managed care or risk-based care must also not discriminate against osteopathic physicians and surgeons in bylaws and in certification requirements [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2453(d), (h)].

Both osteopathic physicians and surgeons and conventional medical doctors are awarded a physician's and surgeon's certificate after satisfactorily completing the educational and examination requirements for licensure [Bus. & Prof. Code § 3600-5; Bus. & Prof. Code § 2050]. Graduates of osteopathic colleges are known by the title "Doctor of Osteopathy" (D.O.), and are under the jurisdiction of the Osteopathic Medical Board of California (Board) [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2450; 16 Cal. Code Reg. § 1685(b)]. Graduates of conventional medical schools are known as "Doctors of Medicine" or "M.D.'s," and are under the jurisdiction of the Medical Board of California [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2004, 2055; see § 470.68, discussing Medical Board of California].

A small number of licensees of the Board are under the jurisdiction of the Medical Board of California and are not subject to the provisions of the Osteopathic Act. These are persons who obtained a degree from a California medical school before 1962, obtained an osteopathic physician's and surgeon's certificate, and received permission from the Board of Medical Examiners to use the initials "M.D." [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2275, 2450].

The Osteopathic Medical Board is an independent agency within Department of Consumer Affairs, and is governed by Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 3600-1-3600-5 [see also Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2450-2459, 3600; Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA); 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1600-1697]. As noted above, it is the licensing and disciplinary agency for D.O.'s, or osteopathic physicians and surgeons.

- Address: 444 North 3rd Street, Suite A-200, Sacramento, CA 95814
- Telephone: (916) 322-4306
- Internet Site: http://www.dca.ca.gov/r_r/osteopa1.htm

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.72

§ 470.72 Physical Therapy Board

The Physical Therapy Board is a part of the Medical Board of California, Department of Consumer Affairs [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2602 et seq.; see § 470.68]. The Committee is governed by Bus. & Prof. Code § 2600 et seq. (Practice Act) [see also Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA); 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1398-1399.79]. The Committee functions as the licensing and disciplinary agency for physical therapists.

- Address: 1426 Howe Ave., Suite 54, Sacramento, CA 95825
- Telephone: (916) 263-2550
- Internet Site: http://www.medbd.ca.gov (general site for Medical Board)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.73

§ 470.73 Physician Assistant Committee

The Physician Assistant Committee is a statutory agency within the Medical Board of California, Department of Consumer Affairs [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 100, 101(b), 3504]. It is governed by Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2000-2515 (Medical Practice Act), and Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 3500-3546 (Physician Assistant Practice Act) [see also Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA); 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1399.500-1399.556].

The Committee regulates the practice of physician assistants; among other things, the Committee is authorized to issue licenses to and to discipline physicians assistants [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 3509, 3513, 3517, 3519, 3527, 3529].

- Address: 1426 Howe Ave., Suite 54, Sacramento, CA 95825
- Telephone: (916) 263-2670; (800) 555-8038; FAX (916) 263-2671
- Internet Site: http://www.dca.ca.gov/r_r/physasst.htm

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.74

§ 470.74 Speech Language Pathology and Audiology Examining Committee

The Speech-Language Pathology and Audiology Examining Committee is a part of the Medical Board of California, Department of Consumer Affairs [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 100, 101(b), 2531], and is governed by Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2530-2539 [see also Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA); 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1399.150-1399.197]. The Committee, overseen by the Medical Board [see § 470.68], is the licensing and disciplinary agency for language pathologists and audiologists.

- Address: 1426 Howe Ave., Suite 54, Sacramento, CA 95825-3237
- Telephone: (916) 263-2666
- Internet Site: http://www.medbd.ca.gov (general site for Medical Board)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.75

§ 470.75 State Bar of California

The State Bar of California is a public corporation created under the state constitution. Every person admitted and licensed to practice law in California is required to be a member of the State Bar except while holding office as a judge of a court of record [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 9]. One of the State Bar's major functions is the admission and discipline of attorneys pursuant to the State Bar Act [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6000 et seq.].

For detailed discussion and forms relating to proceedings by the State Bar or the State Bar Court relating to the admission or discipline of attorneys, see Ch. 70, Attorney Admission , and Ch. 71, Attorney Discipline .

- Address: 180 Howard Street, San Francisco, CA 94105-1639 (Main office)
- Telephone: (415) 538-2000
- Internet Site: http://www.calbar.org

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.76

§ 470.76 California Board of Accountancy

The California Board of Accountancy is a statutory agency within the Department of Consumer Affairs. It is governed by the Accountancy Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 5000 et seq.; see also Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA); 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1-99.1]. The Board, among other things, has the following functions:

- Issues certificates to practice as certified public accountants (CPA's) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 5080].
- Issues permits to practicing public accountants (PA's) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 5070].
- Adopts standards of professional conduct for PA's and CPA's [Bus. & Prof. Code § 5018; 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 53-69.1].
- Regulates the operation of accountancy corporations [Bus. & Prof. Code § 5157; 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 75.4-75.11; see also Corp. Code §§ 13400-13410 (Moscone-Knox Professional Corporations Act)].
- Enforces the provisions of the Accountancy Act and the regulations enacted pursuant to it [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 5100, 5101, 5122, 5156].

For discussion and forms relating to the licensing and discipline of accountants, see Ch. 462, Public Accountants .

- Address: 2000 Evergreen Street, Suite 250, Sacramento, CA 95815
- Telephone: (916) 963-3680
- Internet Site: http://www.dca.ca.gov/cba

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.77

§ 470.77 State Board of Registration for Geologists and Geophysicists

The Board for Geologists and Geophysicists is a statutory agency under the Department of Consumer Affairs [Bus. & Prof. Code § 7810]. The State Board of Registration is governed by and administers the Geologist and Geophysicist Act [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 7800 et seq.]. It functions to qualify and register, and adjudicate complaints against professional geologists and geophysicists.

Unless specifically exempted, anyone who offers to practice geology or geophysics for others is subject to the requirements of the Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 7832]. Certain classes of geologic and geophysical work prepared for public or outside use must, subject to specified exceptions, be done by or under the direction of a registered geologist or geophysicist [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 7835, 7835.1]. If geologists or geophysicists form a business organization (e.g., a partnership or corporation) for professional practice purposes, at least one of the principals must be registered [Bus. & Prof. Code § 7833]. Individuals or entities whose primary business is not the practice of geology or geophysics for others may employ registered individuals to perform work incidental to the conduct of their business [Bus. & Prof. Code § 7834; 58 Ops. Cal. Atty Gen. 598, 599 (1975)] .

- Address: 2535 Capitol Oaks Drive, Suite 300A, Sacramento, CA 95833-2926
- Telephone: (916) 263-2113; FAX (916) 263-2099
- Internet Site: http://www.dca.ca.gov/geology

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.78

§ 470.78 State Board of Registration for Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors

The State Board of Registration for Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors is a statutory agency within the Department of Consumer Affairs [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 101(i), 6710], and is governed by the Professional Engineers Act (Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 6700-6799) and the Land Surveyor's Act (Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 8700-8806) [see also Gov. Code §§ 11340 et seq. (APA); 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 400-465]. The Board is the licensing and disciplinary agency for professional engineers and land surveyors [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 6700 et seq., 8700 et seq.]. The Board functions autonomously from the other boards within the Department of Consumer Affairs [Bus. & Prof. Code § 108], and its determinations regarding registration and licensing and disciplinary actions are not subject to review by the Director of Consumer Affairs [Bus. & Prof. Code § 109].

- Address: 2535 Capitol Oaks Dr., Suite 300, Sacramento, CA 95833-2926
- Telephone: (916) 263-2222; FAX (916) 263-2246
- Internet Site: http://www.dca.ca.gov/pels

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.79

§ 470.79 Structural Pest Control Board

The Structural Pest Control Board is under the Department of Consumer Affairs [Bus. & Prof. Code § 8520], and is governed by Bus. & Prof. Code § 8500 et seq. [see also Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA); 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1902-1999.1]. The Board examines, licenses, and regulates persons practicing structural pest control.

Structural pest control covers a wide variety of activities regarding pests and wood destroying organisms [Bus. & Prof. Code § 8505]. With respect to household pests and wood-destroying organisms or other pests that may invade households or other structures, structural pest control includes engaging in, offering to engage in, advertising for, soliciting, or performing any of the following: identification of infestations; making inspections for the purpose of identifying infestations or infections; and making inspection reports, recommendations, estimates, and bids with respect to infestations or infections [Bus. & Prof. Code § 8505]. Structural pest control also includes making contracts or submitting bids for the performance of work, including the making of structural repairs or replacements or the use of insecticides, pesticides, rodenticides, fumigants, or related chemicals or substances or mechanical devices, for the purpose of eliminating, controlling, or preventing infestations of pests and organisms [Bus. & Prof. Code § 8505]. Household pests are those pests, other than wood destroying pests and organisms, that invade households and other structures, including, but not limited to, rodents, vermin, and insects [Bus. & Prof. Code § 8505].

- Address: 1422 Howe Ave., Suite 3, Sacramento, CA 95825
- Telephone: (916) 263-2540
- Internet Site: http://www.dca.ca.gov/r_r/pest1.htm

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470 OVERVIEW OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
PART IV. APPENDIX: SPECIFIC AGENCY INFORMATION

41-470 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470.80

§ 470.80 Veterinary Medical Board

The Veterinary Medical Board is a statutory agency within Department of Consumer Affairs [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4800], and is governed by the Veterinary Medicine Practice Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4800 et seq.; see also Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA); 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2000-2082]. The Board, and the Registered Veterinary Technician Committee functions to protect consumers and animals through proper licensing and discipline of veterinarians and registered veterinary technicians.

- Address: 1420 Howe Avenue, Suite 6, Sacramento, CA 95825-3228
- Telephone: (916) 263-2610; FAX (916) 263-2621
- Internet Site: http://www.vmb.ca.gov

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470A DUE PROCESS RESTRICTIONS ON PUBLIC AGENCIES

41-470A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 470A.syn

§ 470A.syn Synopsis to Chapter 470A: DUE PROCESS RESTRICTIONS ON PUBLIC AGENCIES

§ 470A.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 470A.02 Cross References

§§ 470A.03-470A.09 [Reserved]

§ 470A.10 Nature and Sources of Due Process Requirement

[1] General Requirements

[2] United States Constitution

[3] California Constitution

[4] California Statutes

[a] Statutory Protections May Be More Stringent

[b] Administrative Procedure Act

[c] Specific Agency Statutes

[5] Relationship Between Constitutional and Statutory Provisions

§ 470A.11 State Action Within Meaning of Fourteenth Amendment

[1] State Action Requirement

[2] Consequences of Indirect State Action

[3] Significant Versus Incidental State Action

§ 470A.12 Nature of Administrative Proceedings Affected by Due Process Considerations

[1] Kinds of Proceedings Distinguished

[2] Applicability of Due Process to Adjudicatory Actions Only

§§ 470A.13-470A.19 [Reserved]

§ 470A.20 Defining Protected Interests

[1] General Requirements

[a] U.S. Constitution

[b] California Constitution

[2] Unintentional Deprivations Distinguished

[3] California Approach to Protected Interests

§ 470A.21 Sources of Property Interests

[1] General Requirements

[2] Government License

[3] Government Benefits

[4] State Law That Requires "Cause" for Taking of an Interest

[5] Government Contracts That Give Rise to Property Interests

[6] Custom or Practice as Source of Common Law Property Rights

§ 470A.22 Sources of Liberty Interests

[1] Freedom From Confinement

[2] Fundamental Rights

[3] Nonfundamental Rights

[4] Reputation and Dignitary Interests

§§ 470A.23-470A.29 [Reserved]

§ 470A.30 General Requirements

[1] Three Part Balancing Test

[2] California Approach to Balancing of Interests

§ 470A.31 Method of Balancing Private Interests

[1] Judicial Practical Approach

[2] Different Levels of Protection for Preexisting and Future Rights

[3] Fundamental Rights Given Highest Level of Protection

§ 470A.32 Method of Balancing Public Interests

[1] Subjective Nature of Government Decision

[2] When Immediate Response Is Needed to Exigent Circumstances

[3] Other Interests Justifying Summary Proceedings

[4] Need for Administrative Efficiency

§ 470A.33 Impact of Availability of Post-Deprivation Due Process and Other Relief

§§ 470A.34-470A.39 [Reserved]

§ 470A.40 Variable Nature of Due Process Procedures

§ 470A.41 Range of Hearing Alternatives

[1] Informal Hearings

[2] Formal Administrative Hearings

[3] More Than Informal But Less Than Formal Hearings

[4] Judicial Hearings

[5] Ministerial Decisions and Hearing Rights

§ 470A.42 Timing of Hearing

[1] General Requirement of Hearing Before Taking Property or Interest

[2] Limitations on General Rule

[a] When Termination of Liberty or Property Interest Is Temporary

[b] When Deprivation Is Necessary to Assure Public Health and Safety

[c] When Exigent Circumstances Exist

[d] When Taking Is Incompatible With Any Form of Pretermination Hearing

[3] Administrative Delay as a Due Process Violation and Procedural Fairness

§ 470A.43 Timely and Adequate Notice

[1] Informal Notice

[2] Formal Notice

[3] Lack of Notice in Exigent Circumstances

§ 470A.44 Burden of Proof

§ 470A.45 Right to Counsel

§ 470A.46 Additional Procedures Required for Fair Process

[1] Opportunity to Be Heard

[2] Right to Present Witnesses and Documentary Evidence

[3] Right to Cross-Examine Witnesses

[4] Right to Neutral Fact Finder

[a] Formal Hearings

[b] Informal Proceedings

[5] Right to Written Statement

[6] Right to Judicial Review

§ 470A.47 Procedural Due Process and Access to Government Funded Support

§ 470A.48 Procedural Due Process and Hearing Costs

§§ 470A.49-470A.59 [Reserved]

§ 470A.60 Federal Constitution

§ 470A.61 State Constitution

§ 470A.62 State Statutes

§ 470A.63 Decisions

§ 470A.64 Law Reviews

§ 470A.65 Text References

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470A DUE PROCESS RESTRICTIONS ON PUBLIC AGENCIES
PART I. SCOPE

41-470A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470A.01

§ 470A.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter provides a discussion of procedural due process requirements applicable to an act, action, or proceeding by state or local public agency. The background discussion in Part II includes:

- Subpart A discusses the basic principles of due process [see § 470A.10 et seq.].
- Subpart B discusses protected interests under due process [see § 470A.20 et seq.].
- Subpart C discusses the balancing process used by the courts [see § 470A.30 et seq.].
- Subpart D discusses the impact of due process requirements on agency procedures [see § 470A.40 et seq.].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470A DUE PROCESS RESTRICTIONS ON PUBLIC AGENCIES
PART I. SCOPE

41-470A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470A.02

§ 470A.02 Cross References

For more general discussion of procedural due process restraints on administrative power, in a larger context discussing California public agency functions, powers, and organization generally, see Ch. 470, Overview of Public Administrative Law (general due process discussion is in §§ 470.12[5] and 470.16[2])

See also § 470.02 of that chapter for additional cross references.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470A DUE PROCESS RESTRICTIONS ON PUBLIC AGENCIES
PART I. SCOPE

41-470A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 470A.03-470A.09

[Reserved]

§§ 470A.03[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470A DUE PROCESS RESTRICTIONS ON PUBLIC AGENCIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Basic Principles of Due Process

41-470A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470A.10

§ 470A.10 Nature and Sources of Due Process Requirement

[1] General Requirements

Due process of law requires administrative agencies to follow certain procedures in order to protect the interests of the parties involved in administrative proceedings [see § 470A.40 et seq.]. As discussed in [2]-[4], below, due process rights in administrative agency proceedings have two sources: federal and state constitutional provisions, and statutes that specifically set forth hearing procedures for an agency.

Since early in the twentieth century, courts have recognized that the concept of due process also has a "substantive" application--that is, laws cannot be made that have the effect of depriving persons of any protected interest in an arbitrary manner [see, e.g., United States v. Carolene Products Co. (1938) 304 U.S. 144, 152-153, 58 S. Ct. 778, 82 L. Ed. 1234] . Because substantive due process issues rarely arise in agency proceedings, this chapter focuses only on procedural due process issues. For discussion relating to substantive due process and the constitutionality of statutes generally, see Ch. 531, Statutes and Ordinances .

Due process challenges to agency action may be asserted in administrative mandate proceedings by a claim that the agency failed to proceed in the manner required by law or that the agency denied the petitioner a fair trial [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b)]. See Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , et seq., for detailed discussion and forms relating to judicial review by administrative mandate.

[2] United States Constitution

The Fourteenth Amendment states in part: "No [s]tate shall ... deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law" [U.S. Const., amend. XIV, § 1]. This is the source of constitutional due process restrictions on California administrative agencies [Goldberg v. Kelly (1970) 397 U.S. 254, 255, 261-264, 90 S. Ct. 1011, 25 L. Ed. 2d 287 (state and local agency procedure must satisfy Fourteenth Amendment due process requirements); see U.S. Const., amend. V, for the source of due process restrictions on federal agencies].

Application of the Fourteenth Amendment to state agencies gives rise to four issues:

- What specific interests constitute protected "life, liberty, or property" [see § 470A.20 et seq.].
- Whether the action taken is "state action" [see § 470A.11, below].
- Whether the administrative proceedings are quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative in nature [see § 470A.12, below].
- What specific procedures are required to satisfy "due process" [see § 470A.40 et seq., below].

The meaning of due process as required by the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments was aptly expressed by Justice Frankfurter in Rochin v. California (1952) 342 U.S. 165, 169, 72 S. Ct. 205, 96 L. Ed. 183 :

> These standards of justice [implicit in the due process clause] are not authoritatively formulated anywhere as though they were specifics. Due process of law is a summarized constitutional guarantee of respect for those personal immunities which, as Mr. Justice Cardozo twice wrote for the Court, are "so rooted in the traditions and conscience of our people as to be ranked as fundamental," or are "implicit in the concept of ordered liberty."

[3] California Constitution

The California Constitution provides that "[a] person may not be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law or denied equal protection of the laws" [Cal. Const., art. I, § 7]. This provision has been held to be identical in scope and purpose to the due process provision of the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution [Kruger v. Wells Fargo Bank (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 352, 366-367, 113 Cal. Rptr. 449, 521 P.2d 441 (California due process provision assumed coextensive with Fourteenth Amendment due process clause); Russell v. Carleson (1973) 36 Cal. App. 3d 334, 342, 111 Cal. Rptr. 497] .

All administrative agencies, regardless of the method of their creation, are subject to the due process provisions of both the California and U.S. Constitutions [see Kruger v. Wells Fargo Bank (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 352, 366-367, 113 Cal. Rptr. 449, 521 P.2d 441 (both constitutional provisions impose a prerequisite of state action; court held that due process requirements of neither applied to bank setoff, which was a private action); Gray v. Superior Ct. (2005) 125 Cal. App. 4th 629, 636-637, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 50 (Medical Board of California); Smith v. Bd. of Med. Qual. Assurance (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 316, 326-329, 248 Cal. Rptr. 704 ; see also [2], above].

California courts have stated, in decisions involving widely differing fact situations, that due process standards under the California Constitution may be higher than those under the U.S. Constitution. For example, the interpretation given by California courts to a protected "fundamental right" for the purpose of due process analysis under the state constitution is broader than that given by federal courts to a "fundamental right" under the U.S. Constitution [Pipkin v. Board of Supervisors (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 652, 660, 147 Cal. Rptr. 502] .

State courts may also be more liberal in treating expectancies or entitlements as protected rights [Saleeby v. State Bar (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 547, 562, 216 Cal. Rptr. 367, 702 P.2d 525 ; see Part B, below, for a discussion of protected interests], and may find "state action" to be a broader concept than do federal courts [see § 470A.11, below]. Thus, for instance, involuntary lien procedures instituted by private parties have been invalidated as violative of the due process requirements of Cal. Const., art. I, § 7(a) [Adams v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 146, 157, 113 Cal. Rptr. 145, 520 P.2d 961 (involuntary sales provisions of garagemen's lien law invalidated); Martin v. Heady (1980) 103 Cal. App. 3d 580, 589, 163 Cal. Rptr. 117 (involuntary sale provisions of aircraft lien law invalidated)]. In these instances, the court found state action based on the statutory origin of the laws, distinguishing them from consensual self-help common law remedies such as vehicle repossession [Martin v. Heady (1980) 103 Cal. App. 3d

580, 587, 163 Cal. Rptr. 117] .

[4] California Statutes

[a] Statutory Protections May Be More Stringent

Although this chapter deals particularly with the application of federal and state constitutional requirements as delineated by judicial doctrine, the statutory and regulatory provisions governing a particular agency are also important. In many instances, those provisions are very specific and more stringent than constitutional due process requirements [see [5], below].

[b] Administrative Procedure Act

The 1995 legislature enacted extensive new provisions and amendments to the Administrative Procedure Act (APA) that governs administrative adjudication [Gov. Code §§ 11400-11470.50, 11500-11529]. The new APA, operative effective July 1, 1997, governs adjudicative proceedings commenced on or after July 1, 1997 [Gov. Code § 11400.10]. Agencies are authorized to adopt interim or permanent regulations to govern adjudicative proceedings under the APA [Gov. Code § 11400.20]. See Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication , for a detailed discussion of the new APA provisions.

The revised APA includes a variety of new provisions. For example, Chapter 4.5 of the Act (Gov. Code § 11400 et seq.), includes:

- Alternative dispute resolution processes [Gov. Code § 11420.10].
- Informal hearings [Gov. Code § 11445.10].
- Emergency decision procedures [Gov. Code § 11460.10].
- Declaratory decision procedures [Gov. Code § 11465.10].
- Agency option to adopt APA procedures [Gov. Code § 11410.40], or to use APA procedures either to supplement existing procedures or to use when there is no other governing procedure [Gov. Code § 11415.10].

In addition, Chapter 4.5 of the new APA also includes a new administrative adjudication " bill of rights" [Gov. Code § 11425.10 et seq.], which provides nine procedural protections to private parties in agency adjudications [Gov. Code § 11425.10(a)(1)-(9)]:

- Notice and opportunity to be heard.
- Right to a copy of governing procedures.
- Public hearing.
- Separation of functions between prosecutors and adjudicators.
- Impartial decisionmaker.
- Decision on the record with statement of findings and reasons.

- Precedential decisions.
- Ban on ex parte contacts.
- Language assistance.

See Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication , for a detailed discussion of the administrative adjudication bill of rights.

Unless a more specific statute (such as a particular agency's enabling act) provides otherwise, the provisions of Chapter 4.5 such as those noted above apply to all state agencies with respect to adjudicative decisions by those agencies whenever an evidentiary hearing for fact determination is required to decide the case, pursuant to federal or state constitutional or statutory law [Gov. Code §§ 11410.10, 11410.20].

The formal hearing provisions of the APA (Gov. Code § 11500 et seq.) apply to existing licensing agencies who were subject to the prior law governing agency formal hearings [Gov. Code § 11501 (repealed effective July 1, 1997)]. Agencies that are created on or after July 1, 1997, are subject to the formal hearing provisions unless the agency governing legislation provides otherwise. Existing agencies that are not currently subject to the formal hearing provisions have the option of following the new APA formal hearing procedures, but are not required to follow those procedures [Gov. Code § 11501 (effective July 1, 1997)]. See Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication , et seq., for a detailed discussion of the new APA's requirements applicable to formal hearing procedures.

[c] Specific Agency Statutes

The enabling acts and regulations governing particular agencies contain hearing procedures for those agencies. Furthermore, the California codes [see, e.g., Veh. Code §§ 13800-13954] contain many specific provisions relating to procedural due process requirements for state departments and agencies. For discussion of licensing agency statutes generally, see Ch. 471B, Licensing by Public Agencies . For cross references to coverage elsewhere in this publication relating to proceedings before a number of specific public agencies, see Ch. 470, Overview of Public Administrative Law, § 470.02.

[5] Relationship Between Constitutional and Statutory Provisions

When a statute or administrative agency regulation sets forth hearing procedures that do not exceed constitutional requirements, or is silent with respect to hearing requirements and procedures, the sufficiency of the procedures must be evaluated using constitutional standards [see Arnett v. Kennedy (1974) 416 U.S. 134, 163, 94 S. Ct. 1633, 40 L. Ed. 2d 15 (provisions of Lloyd-LaFollette Act, which conferred on nonprobationary federal employees the right not to be discharged except for "cause" and prescribing procedures for protecting that right, did not create an expectation of job retention in the employees requiring procedural protection under the Due Process Clause beyond that afforded by statute and agency regulations); Skelly v. State Personnel Bd. (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 194, 215, 124 Cal. Rptr. 14, 539 P.2d 774 (provisions of State Civil Service Act, which did not provide employee with procedural rights exceeding constitutional requirements, was evaluated pursuant to federal and state constitutional standards)]. The interest involved, however, must be one that is constitutionally protected [Mathews v. Eldridge (1976) 424 U.S. 319, 332, 96 S. Ct. 893, 47 L. Ed. 2d 18] .

When the requirements of a statute exceed the minimum constitutional due process requirements, however, the requirements of the statute must be met [People v. Johnson (1941) 42 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 827, 833, 42 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 827 , 109 P.2d 770] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationAlternative Dispute ResolutionAdministrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsRight to HearingDue ProcessAdministrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsRight to HearingStatutory RightAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewRemediesMandamusConstitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental RightsProcedural Due ProcessScope of ProtectionConstitutional LawSubstantive Due ProcessGeneral OverviewConstitutional LawEqual ProtectionScope of Protection

97 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470A DUE PROCESS RESTRICTIONS ON PUBLIC AGENCIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Basic Principles of Due Process

41-470A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470A.11

§ 470A.11 State Action Within Meaning of Fourteenth Amendment

[1] State Action Requirement

The due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment protects against the deprivation of certain individual rights [see § 470A.22, below] by "the state" [U.S. Const., amend. XIV, § 1]. The action of any governmental entity, including an administrative agency, constitutes "state action." Thus, state action generally arises as an issue when the action is taken by a private party who is not acting on behalf of the government [see, e.g., Marsh v. Alabama (1946) 326 U.S. 501, 504, 66 S. Ct. 276, 90 L. Ed. 265 (actions of "company town" at issue)]. The state action issue is whether a sufficiently close nexus exists between the state and the private individual's challenged action so that the action may be fairly treated as that of the state itself [Jackson v. Metropolitan Edison Co. (1974) 419 U.S. 345, 351, 95 S. Ct. 449, 42 L. Ed. 2d 477] .

Procedural requirements arising out of common law and similar to those set forth in the Fourteenth Amendment may nonetheless apply to purely private action. For example, in Gaenslen v. Board of Directors [Gaenslen v. Board of Directors (1985) 185 Cal. App. 3d 563, 232 Cal. Rptr. 239] , the court held that although the actions of a private institution, such as a private hospital, are not state actions, "fair procedures" should be observed with respect to termination of a physician's staff membership, even though technical due process standards do not apply [Gaenslen v. Board of Directors (1985) 185 Cal. App. 3d 563, 568-571, 232 Cal. Rptr. 239 ; see also Applebaum v. Board of Directors (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 648, 656-659, 163 Cal. Rptr. 831 (summary dismissal of staff physician prohibited; some private enterprises, including hospitals, are so affected with public interest that fair procedure similar to due process is required)].

[2] Consequences of Indirect State Action

In a landmark case, NAACP v. Alabama ex rel. Patterson (1958) 357 U.S. 449, 78 S. Ct. 1163, 2 L. Ed. 2d 1488 , the United States Supreme Court held that if state action will certainly set in motion private action that will result in an infringement of one of the rights protected by the Bill of Rights pursuant to the Fourteenth Amendment, the state action can be forbidden [NAACP v. Alabama ex rel. Patterson (1958) 357 U.S. 449, 466, 78 S. Ct. 1163, 2 L. Ed. 2d 1488 (state prohibited from compelling public disclosure of membership lists of civil rights organization because of possible restraint on First Amendment freedom of association due to likely response by private parties to disclosure)].

California courts appear to have followed the National Asso. for the A.C.P. rationale prior to passage of the Public Records Act [see Huntley v. Public Util. Com. (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 67, 69 Cal. Rptr. 605, 442 P.2d 685 (absent compelling legitimate state interest, First and Fourteenth Amendments preclude telephone company from requiring names and addresses of persons who transmit recorded messages); Gov. Code § 6250 et seq. (public records act)]. The application of the National Asso. for the A.C.P. rationale in California may be somewhat limited, however, by the California Public Records Act, the purpose of which is to increase the public's access to specified kinds of information [see Gov. Code §§ 6250-6267; CBS, Inc. v. Block (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 646, 656-657, 230 Cal. Rptr. 362, 725 P.2d 470 (holding that records of applications for gun licenses must be made public)]. This apparent conflict between the holding of the United States Supreme Court and the state statute apparently has not been challenged, and has thus not been resolved. The difference may lie, however, in the fact that the NAACP records were those of a private organization being sought by a public agency, whereas the records sought in CBS were records that the state required to be kept by gun dealers. Quite simply, the expectation of privacy inherent in belonging to a private organization would be higher than it would be in making an application for a state registration. For a detailed discussion of the Public Records Act, see Ch. 470C, Public Records Act .

[3] Significant Versus Incidental State Action

The concept of "significant" state action determines the necessity for procedural due process application. The primary issue here has been whether a state law created new legal procedures, or if it merely codified common law practice.

For instance, a California court held that California's regulation of nonjudicial foreclosure procedure did not constitute state action; notice and hearing procedures required by state and federal constitutional due process provisions were thus inapplicable [Garfinkle v. Superior Court (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 268, 276-277, 281-282, 146 Cal. Rptr. 208, 578 P.2d 925 , app. dism., 439 U.S. 949 ; see Lawson v. Smith (N.D. Cal. 1975) 402 F. Supp. 851, 854 (applying California law)].

Another court reached a contrary result, however, when it held that aircraft lien involuntary sales constitute state action: due process rights were violated by a state law that did not require a hearing prior to involuntary sale [Martin v. Heady (1980) 103 Cal. App. 3d 580, 589, 163 Cal. Rptr. 117] . The court distinguished the involuntary sale procedures in this case from the nonjudicial foreclosure sales of real estate, vehicle repossessions, and bank set-offs by stating that the aircraft law was not a codification of prior common law, but entirely statutory, and hence subject to both federal and state due process requirements because of the state action [Martin v. Heady (1980) 103 Cal. App. 3d 580, 587, 163 Cal. Rptr. 117] . The Court of Appeal in Martin distinguished its California due process interpretation from that of the U.S. Supreme Court in Flagg Brothers, Inc. v. Brooks (1978) 436 U.S. 149 , when the latter court upheld a New York warehouseman's lien law. It seems likely that in Martin, expenditures made by the owner for repairing the airplane may have been an important factor in persuading the court [Martin v. Heady (1980) 103 Cal. App. 3d 580, 583-584, 163 Cal. Rptr. 117] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawGovernmental InformationFreedom of InformationDisclosure RequirementsGeneral OverviewConstitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental RightsProcedural Due ProcessGeneral OverviewConstitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental RightsProcedural Due ProcessScope of ProtectionConstitutional LawSubstantive Due ProcessPrivacyGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470A DUE PROCESS RESTRICTIONS ON PUBLIC AGENCIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Basic Principles of Due Process

41-470A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470A.12

§ 470A.12 Nature of Administrative Proceedings Affected by Due Process Considerations

[1] Kinds of Proceedings Distinguished

To determine whether or not a public agency has abridged a client's due process rights, the attorney must determine whether the administrative action was of a kind affected by due process considerations. Three general categories of agency actions exist: adjudicative, quasi-legislative, and ministerial.

"Adjudicative" (quasi-judicial) actions are those in which the agency has discretion to apply a rule to a specific set of facts [Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 34 n.2, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29 ; Patterson v. Central Coast Regional Com. (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 833, 840, 130 Cal. Rptr. 169 . See Chs. 373- 373H for discussion of hearing requirements and procedures]. In this type of action the agency "adjudicates" or makes binding determinations that directly affect the legal rights of an individual [see Hannah v. Larche (1960) 363 U.S. 420, 442, 80 S. Ct. 1502, 4 L. Ed. 2d 1307] . An example of an adjudicative action is the determination of an application for a variance from an ordinance [see, e.g., Topanga Asso. for a Scenic Community v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 506, 514, 113 Cal. Rptr. 836, 522 P.2d 12] , or the determination of salary or benefits to which a particular employee is entitled under a legislative scheme [Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 44, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29] . Thus, in the sense that a "quasi-judicial" action involves a binding determination affecting an individual's legal rights, it appears to go beyond formal adjudicatory hearings to include those actions, such as licensing determinations, that are conceptually more of an executive function than a judicial one [see, e.g., discussion in [3], below].

"Quasi-legislative" (rulemaking) actions entail formulation of general rules that are applicable to future situations [Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 34 n.2, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29 ; Patterson v. Central Coast Regional Com. (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 833, 840, 130 Cal. Rptr. 169 . See Chs. 472-472B for rulemaking issues]. The APA defines regulation to include every rule, regulation, order, or standard of general application or the amendment, supplement, or revision of any rule, regulation, order or standard adopted by any state agency to implement, interpret, or make specific the law enforced or administered by the agency, or to govern the agency's procedure [Gov. Code § 11342.600]. Examples of quasi-legislative actions are enacting a zoning ordinance for a specific area [see Ensign Bickford Realty Corp. v. City Council (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 467, 473, 137 Cal. Rptr. 304 , overruled in part by Hernandez v. City of Hanford (2007) 41 Cal. 4th 279, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 442, 159 P.3d 33] , or setting government employee salaries or benefits [Campbell Municipal Employees Assn. v. City of Campbell (1982) 131 Cal. App. 3d 416, 425 n.5, 182 Cal. Rptr. 461] .

"Ministerial" actions are those executive actions that involve no exercise of discretion by the agency--that is, an administrative official or body is required by law to perform the action at the occurrence of a specific contingency [Drummey v. State Bd. of Funeral Directors (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 75, 83, 87 P.2d 848 ; Great Western Sav. & Loan Assn. v. City of Los Angeles (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 403, 413, 107 Cal. Rptr. 359] .

[2] Applicability of Due Process to Adjudicatory Actions Only

Although any of the three basic types of agency action constitute "state action" [see discussion in § 470A.11[1], above], procedural due process principles apply only to administrative proceedings that are adjudicative in nature; they do not apply to quasi-legislative or ministerial proceedings [Hannah v. Larche (1960) 363 U.S. 420, 442, 80 S. Ct. 1502, 4 L. Ed. 2d 1307] . This principle is based upon well established U.S. Supreme Court decisions [Londoner v. Denver (1908) 210 U.S. 373, 386, 28 S. Ct. 708, 52 L. Ed. 1103 (due process of law requires opportunity for oral hearing to landowner who objected to street paving assessment against his land); Bi-Metallic Inv. Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1915) 239 U.S. 441, 446, 36 S. Ct. 141, 60 L. Ed. 372 (no due process right to oral hearing when tax officials in Colorado increased the assessed value of all taxable property in City of Denver)].

The Administrative Procedure Act or APA (Gov. Code § 11340 et seq.) governs the disciplinary procedure of most business and professional licensing agencies and sets out in detail the procedural requirements for hearings. This act defines adjudicative proceeding to mean "... an evidentiary hearing for determination of facts pursuant to which an agency formulates and issues a decision" [Gov. Code § 11405.20]; it defines decision to mean "... agency action of specific application that determines a legal right, duty, privilege, immunity, or other legal interest of a particular person" [Gov. Code § 11405.50(a)].

In contrast to quasi-judicial action by an administrative agency, quasi-legislative action or an investigative proceeding ancillary to a quasi-legislative function is not subject to constitutional procedural due process requirements [Oceanside Marina Towers Assn. v. Oceanside Community Development Com. (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 735, 744-745, 231 Cal. Rptr. 910 ; see Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 5, Torts, § 169 (10th ed. 2005)]. However, if the administrative action is legislative in nature, then due process of law does not apply to the affected property owners. Merger of separate land parcels, which automatically occurred on the effective date of a local ordinance that was adopted for that purpose, was a legislative action, and therefore the affected property owners did not have a due process right to notice and an opportunity to be heard before merger took place [Moores v. Board of Supervisors (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 883, 889-890, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 206] . Public policy has increasingly favored participation of the general public in administrative decisions, however, by providing means to express opinions and furnish facts [see, e.g., Stanson v. San Diego Coast Regional Com. (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 38, 48-49, 161 Cal. Rptr. 392 (complaining party could have sought relief from Regional Commission or California Coastal Commission, plus further relief from superior and appellate courts)]. For a quasi-legislative action, procedures such as notice and a hearing may be required by statute, even though they are not required by constitutional due process principles. Thus, a hearing is not necessarily "judicial" merely because it is required by statute [Heist v. County of Colusa (1984) 163 Cal. App. 3d 841, 847, 213 Cal. Rptr. 278 (Sts. & Hy. Code § 8323 required hearing, but due process was not to be extended beyond provisions of statute unless "direct property interest" could be identified in county road abandonment matter)].

If the only hearing requirement is based on a statute, constitutional guarantees requiring strict procedural rules do not apply and no particular formal procedure is required [Emby Foods, Inc. v. Paul (1964) 230 Cal. App. 2d 687, 703, 41 Cal. Rptr. 365 ; see also Stauffer Chemical Co. v. Air Resources Board (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 789, 794, 180 Cal. Rptr. 550 (interpreting Health & Safety Code §§ 41502, 41504); Rivera v. Division of Industrial Welfare (1968) 265

Cal. App. 2d 576, 586-587, 71 Cal. Rptr. 739 (hearing for purpose of finding facts and receiving opinions in order to set minimum wages)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsRight to HearingDue ProcessAdministrative LawAgency RulemakingFormal RulemakingAdministrative LawAgency RulemakingInformal RulemakingConstitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental RightsProcedural Due ProcessGeneral OverviewConstitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental RightsProcedural Due ProcessScope of ProtectionGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsLicenses

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470A DUE PROCESS RESTRICTIONS ON PUBLIC AGENCIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Basic Principles of Due Process

41-470A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 470A.13-470A.19

[Reserved]

§§ 470A.13[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470A DUE PROCESS RESTRICTIONS ON PUBLIC AGENCIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Protected Interests

41-470A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470A.20

§ 470A.20 Defining Protected Interests

[1] General Requirements

[a] U.S. Constitution

"Life," "liberty," or "property" may not be taken in an adjudicative governmental action without procedural due process consistent with the interest at stake. In the procedural due process context, no issue has arisen with regard to the meaning of "life"; however, the meanings of "liberty" and "property" have evolved considerably in constitutional litigation.

The U.S. Supreme Court initially defined the issue as whether a given interest had "vested," thus requiring a hearing with full procedural safeguards before a taking, or was merely a "privilege" that might be taken at the discretion of the government official with minimal or no procedural safeguards [Barsky v. Board of Regents of N.Y. (1954) 347 U.S. 442, 451, 74 S. Ct. 650, 98 L. Ed. 829] . Subsequently, the court adopted broad definitions of liberty and property while varying the required level of procedural due process, depending on a balancing of the relative importance of the liberty or property interest against the competing government interest [Goldberg v. Kelly (1970) 397 U.S. 254, 266-268, 90 S. Ct. 1011, 25 L. Ed. 2d 287] .

The U.S. Supreme Court now defines liberty and property interests more narrowly. The court has held that property interests are the creation of law and must be recognized by some independent source, such as state statutory or common law, in order to warrant procedural due process protection [see Bishop v. Wood (1976) 426 U.S. 341, 344-345, 96 S. Ct. 2074, 48 L. Ed. 2d 684 (defining protected property interests)].

Some liberty interests, such as free speech rights [Freedman v. Maryland (1965) 380 U.S. 51, 58-60, 85 S. Ct. 734, 13 L. Ed. 2d 649] , rights of privacy [Santosky v. Kramer (1982) 455 U.S. 745, 752-754, 102 S. Ct. 1388, 71 L. Ed. 2d 599] , and the interest in freedom from confinement [O'Connor v. Donaldson (1975) 422 U.S. 563, 573-576, 95 S. Ct. 2486, 45 L. Ed. 2d 396] , are protected by the U.S. Constitution. However, other liberty interests, such as prisoners' rights, are protected from termination without procedural due process only if specifically recognized by state law [Meachum v. Fano (1976) 427 U.S. 215, 225, 96 S. Ct. 2532, 49 L. Ed. 2d 451] .

Importantly, although the question of whether something is a liberty or property interest is largely a matter of state law, once the state recognizes the interest, the required level of procedural due process becomes a matter of federal constitutional law [Cleveland Bd. of Educ. v. Loudermill (1985) 470 U.S. 532, 541, 105 S. Ct. 1487, 84 L. Ed. 2d 494] .

[b] California Constitution

The California courts have generally followed the U.S. Supreme Court lead in the area of procedural due process, with the state cases reflecting the same evolution from use of the rights-privileges test to a concern for identification of liberty and property interests [Skelly v. State Personnel Bd. (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 194, 214, 124 Cal. Rptr. 14, 539 P.2d 774] . While the older California cases state that the due process clause of the state constitution has the same meaning as that of the federal constitution [see, e.g., Gray v. Hall (1928) 203 Cal. 306, 318, 265 P. 246] , California courts have more recently used the due process clause of the California Constitution [Cal. Const., art. I, § 7] as an independent state ground to give a higher level of protection to various individual rights than that required by the U.S. Constitution [see, e.g., People v. Mayoff (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 1302, 1312, 233 Cal. Rptr. 2, 729 P.2d 166 (setting stricter rule for aerial surveillance than U.S. Supreme Court in California v. Ciraolo (1986) 476 U.S. 207)]. The state due process clause has also been used to give broader definition to the concepts of liberty and property interests than the U.S. Supreme Court's definition under the federal due process clause. The California Supreme Court has ruled that, for any statutorily created benefit, even if the interest being terminated does not itself rise to the level of a protected property or liberty interest, the individual has an independent liberty interest in being free from arbitrary adjudicative action [People v. Ramirez (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 260, 268, 158 Cal. Rptr. 316, 599 P.2d 622] .

The California Court of Appeal applied the four Ramirez factors [People v. Ramirez (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 260, 269, 158 Cal. Rptr. 316, 599 P.2d 622] and held that the Department of Social Services was required by due process of law to tell individuals, with criminal convictions, what specific convictions seeking an exemption from the prohibition on being employed at community care facilities they have to discuss to obtain an exemption [Gresher v. Anderson (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 88, 110, 25 Cal. Rptr. 3d 408] .

The California Court of Appeal held that the California Constitution's right of privacy [Cal. Const., art I, § 1] as recognized by the California Supreme Court [American Academy of Pedriatics v. Lungren (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 307, 330, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 210, 940 P.2d 797 ; Hill v. National Collegiate Athletic Assn. (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 1, 35-37, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 834, 865 P.2d 633] included a right of familial and informational privacy that a parent properly alleged was violated by the reporting by a social services agency (SSA) to the Department of Justice (DOJ) that a parent potentially exposed her child to harm as that parent would be listed in the Child Abuse Central Index (CACI). The court held that the privacy interests of the parent supported the parents' constitutional right to due process of law, the right to an opportunity to appear before the SSA to challenge a previously filed report, and a reasonable opportunity to rebut the charges [Burt v. County of Orange (2004) 120 Cal. App. 4th 273, 284-286, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 373] .

[2] Unintentional Deprivations Distinguished

Procedural due process rights are not involved when the government injures an individual by negligently taking away a liberty or property interest [see Daniels v. Williams (1986) 474 U.S. 327, 332-333, 106 S. Ct. 662, 88 L. Ed. 2d 662 (alleged negligence of prison officials resulting in prisoner slipping on pillow left in hallway does not constitute deprivation of protected interest)]. A California Court of Appeal has held that reckless government conduct does not deprive an individual of rights for purposes of procedural due process [Stalnaker v. Boeing Co. (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 1291, 1306-1308, 231 Cal. Rptr. 323] . If the government has a duty to protect an individual and intentionally fails to perform that duty, however, the failure may be treated as the equivalent of an intentional taking for the purpose of procedural due process and the requirement of some post deprivation relief [cf. Estelle v. Gamble (1976) 429 U.S. 97, 104, 97 S. Ct. 285, 50 L. Ed. 2d 251 (intentional failure to treat prisoner's illness, if proved, would constitute cruel and unusual punishment)].

For discussion and forms relating to the liability of public agencies or officials for tortious conduct, see Ch. 464, Public Entities and Officers: California Tort Claims Act .

[3] California Approach to Protected Interests

The California Supreme Court has expressly accepted federal flexible due process analysis in evaluating due process rights to administrative hearings [Mathews v. Eldridge (1976) 424 U.S. 319, 96 S. Ct. 893, 47 L. Ed. 2d 18 ; Civil Service Asso. v. San Francisco (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 552, 560-561, 150 Cal. Rptr. 129, 586 P.2d 162] . The California courts' approach is to evaluate "the extent to which procedural protections can be tailored to promote more accurate and reliable administrative decisions in light of the governmental and private interests at stake" [People v. Ramirez (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 260, 267, 158 Cal. Rptr. 316, 599 P.2d 622] . In California, due process hearing rights are not determined by "whether or not the state limits administrative control over a statutory benefit or deprivation by the occurrence of specified conditions" [People v. Ramirez (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 260, 267, 158 Cal. Rptr 316, 599 P.2d 622] . Rather, under California law, "the due process safeguards required for protection of an individual's statutory interests must be analyzed in the context of the principle that freedom from arbitrary adjudicative procedures is a substantive element of one's liberty" [People v. Ramirez (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 260, 268, 158 Cal. Rptr. 316, 599 P.2d 622] .

In environmental cases, as well as general administrative law contexts, the California Supreme Court has employed a functional due process analysis to determine when administrative agencies must act by granting a hearing. "Due Process principles require reasonable notice and opportunity to be heard before governmental deprivation of a significant property interest" [Horn v. County of Ventura (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 605, 612, 156 Cal. Rptr. 718, 596 P.2d 1134] . For example, in a local land use dispute, an adjacent landowner alleged that a proposed subdivision would substantially interfere with his use of the only access from his parcel to the public streets and would increase both traffic congestion and air pollution. The Supreme Court held that this allegation adequately described a deprivation sufficiently "substantial" to require procedural due process protection in the form of an adjudicatory process [Horn v. County of Ventura (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 605, 615, 156 Cal. Rptr. 718, 596 P.2d 1134] . Adjacent landowners had due process rights of notice and opportunity to be heard related to land use decisions including county vested rights determination under the California surface mining reclamation statute [Pub. Res. Code § 2712] applicable to mining property landowner because the issues to be decided were adjudicative not ministerial [Calvert v. County of Yuba (2007) 145 Cal. App. 4th 613, 622-623, 51 Cal. Rptr. 3d 797] . In a facial challenge to Department of Forestry procedures for approval of timber harvesting plans, the Court of Appeal concluded that "a due process right to a hearing cannot be assessed in the abstract." Although "[a] directly affected member of the public might well be able, in the circumstances of a given case, to demonstrate that he or she had been denied procedural due process notwithstanding full compliance with all applicable statutes and regulations," the notice and hearing procedures of the Department of Forestry were "adequate as a matter of procedural due process" [Laupheimer v. State of California (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 440, 456-457, 246 Cal. Rptr. 82] . The California Supreme Court seems to have abandoned the conventional threshold search for liberty or property interests to trigger procedural due process rights, at least in cases involving statutorily based rights [People v. Ramirez (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 260, 267, 158 Cal. Rptr. 316, 599 P.2d 622] . Instead, the Court has required a more flexible inquiry to determine both whether adjudicatory procedures are required, and, if so, what types of procedures are appropriate. The Supreme Court applied this flexible due process factor analysis in striking down the State Bar's refusal to grant a hearing to an applicant for reimbursement from the Client Security Fund, a fund from which the applicant had no right to any award. The Court noted that "California has expanded upon the federal analytical base by focusing on the administrative process itself" [Saleeby v. State Bar (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 547, 564, 216 Cal. Rptr. 367, 702 P.2d 525] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsRight to HearingDue ProcessConstitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental RightsProcedural Due ProcessScope of ProtectionConstitutional LawSubstantive Due ProcessPrivacyPersonal DecisionsConstitutional LawSubstantive Due ProcessPrivacyPersonal Information

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470A DUE PROCESS RESTRICTIONS ON PUBLIC AGENCIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Protected Interests

41-470A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470A.21

§ 470A.21 Sources of Property Interests

[1] General Requirements

Property interests include more than actual ownership of real estate, chattels or money; they protect the security of interests that a person has already acquired in specific benefits [Board of Regents v. Roth (1972) 408 U.S. 564, 571-572, 576, 92 S. Ct. 2701, 33 L. Ed. 2d 548] . An abstract need or desire or a unilateral expectation is insufficient; rather, a legitimate claim of entitlement is required [Board of Regents v. Roth (1972) 408 U.S. 564, 577, 92 S. Ct. 2701, 33 L. Ed. 2d 548 ; Fuchs v. Los Angeles County Civil Service Com. (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 709, 715, 110 Cal. Rptr. 311 (worker's hope of promotion did not constitute protected property interest)]. The federal constitution does not create property interests. Rather, they arise under existing rules or understandings that stem from an independent source, such as state law [Board of Regents v. Roth (1972) 408 U.S. 564, 577, 92 S. Ct. 2701, 33 L. Ed. 2d 548] .

The primary way that property rights are created for purposes of procedural due process is through operation of state law [Ryan v. California Interscholastic Federation-San Diego Section (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 1048, 1061-1062, 114 Cal. Rptr. 2d 798 (participation in interscholastic sports at the high school level is not a right or an entitlement under the California Constitution or California statutes)]. The federal constitution does not mention the right of personal ownership of property, but the civil and criminal laws of all states protect the right to own property. The debtors' rights cases, in which the U.S. Supreme Court declared unconstitutional state laws that allowed prejudgment attachment of debtors' property by creditors, without procedural due process, illustrate this aspect of state protection of private ownership of property [see, e.g., Sniadach v. Family Finance Corp. (1969) 395 U.S. 337, 341-342, 89 S. Ct. 1820, 23 L. Ed. 2d 349 ; see North Georgia Finishing v. Di-Chem (1975) 419 U.S. 601, 608, 95 S. Ct. 719, 42 L. Ed. 2d 751 (holding summary prejudgment attachment proceedings inadequate to protect debtor's property interest)]. Once the state recognizes a property interest, the level of process required before the state can allow that interest to be taken in adjudicative proceedings becomes a matter of federal constitutional law.

[2] Government License

A government license may be either a liberty or property interest. Because of their economic significance, most licenses related to occupational or business activities are considered to be property interests [see Barry v. Barchi (1979) 443

U.S. 55, 64, 99 S. Ct. 2642, 61 L. Ed. 2d 365 (interest of horse trainer in avoiding license suspension is substantial); Gray v. Superior Ct. (2005) 125 Cal. App. 4th 629, 637-638, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 50 (physician has vested property interest in existing medical license); Smith v. Bd. of Med. Qual. Assurance (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 316, 326, 248 Cal. Rptr. 704 (physician has property interest in license)]. When a licensing statute requires misconduct or cause for revoking a license, it has engendered a clear expectation of continued enjoyment of the licensee absent proof of culpable conduct; it thus creates a property interest, regardless of whether such an interest would have arisen from the mere existence ofthe license itself [see Barry v. Barchi (1979) 443 U.S. 55, 64 n.11, 99 S. Ct. 2642, 61 L. Ed. 2d 365] . Whether a legislature could ever delegate to an official the discretionary power to revoke a license summarily is debatable, given the importance of the interest and the absence of any history of at-will license revocation (cf. the history of at-will employment termination) [see, e.g., Emslie v. State Bar (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 210, 228, 113 Cal. Rptr. 175, 520 P.2d 991 (license to practice law as valuable right, termination of which requires procedural due process)].

If, however, the statute prescribes nondiscretionary revocation on the occurrence of certain easily identifiable facts, for example on the failure to pay annual fees, the revocation would be a ministerial act [see § 470A.12], and no due process would be required [compare Zike v. State Personnel Bd. (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 817, 822-823, 193 Cal. Rptr. 766 (determination of existence of justifiable excuse for employee absence under constructive resignation statute required procedural due process) with Dixon v. Love (1977) 431 U.S. 105, 114-115, 97 S. Ct. 1723, 52 L. Ed. 2d 172 (nondiscretionary revocation of driver's license after specified number of tickets required no due process)].

Similarly, revocation of a professional license on the occurrence of certain easily identifiable facts, such as conviction of a felony, would not require a hearing [see Black v. Romano (1985) 471 U.S. 606, 615-616, 105 S. Ct. 2254, 85 L. Ed. 2d 636 (holding automatic revocation of probation for commission of crime while on probation did not violate procedural due process)]. But, if revocation is limited to felonies involving moral turpitude or evidencing unfitness to practice the profession, then procedural due process would be required. Again, the result would be based on whether the act was ministerial or involved the exercise of discretion. However, a New York college that administered a distance learning nursing degree program did not have a property interest in the continued recognition of equivalency for that program by the California Board of Registered Nursing. Thus, the college did not have the right to an evidentiary hearing to challenge the Board's change in practice so that it would look at the course work completed by individual applicants for nursing licenses in California rather than grant a blanket equivalency recognition for all nursing graduates of that college [Excelsior College v. Cal. Bd. of Registered Nursing (2006) 136 Cal. App. 4th 1218, 1237-1239, 39 Cal. Rptr. 3d 618] . For further discussion of licensing, see Ch. 471B, Licensing by Public Agencies .

[3] Government Benefits

The government is not required to provide benefits such as welfare, unemployment compensation, or Social Security, but if it does so it must act consistently with constitutional rights. Just as the equal protection clause would not allow such benefits to be given only to persons of one race [cf. Graham v. Richardson (1971) 403 U.S. 365, 376, 91 S. Ct. 1848, 29 L. Ed. 2d 534 (welfare conditioned on state citizenship violated equal protection clause)], so procedural due process protects against such benefits being removed arbitrarily. The benefits cases distinguish between those persons applying for the entitlement and those who already have it [cf. Davis v. Commission on Judicial Qualifications (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 818, 141 Cal. Rptr. 75 (upholding California law allowing judge retired because of incapacity to apply for reinstatement and obligating state to abide by result of medical examination, but giving state discretion to refuse to allow medical examination at all)]. Some pretermination procedure is required before a currently held benefit can be taken [compare Morrissey v. Brewer, 408 U.S. 471, 92 S. Ct. 2593, 33 L. Ed. 2d 484 with Greenholtz v. Nebraska Penal Inmates (1979) 442 U.S. 1, 99 S. Ct. 2100, 60 L. Ed. 2d 668 (treating revocation of parole differently than initial grant)].

With regard to a benefit application, the administrator's initial determination is controlling until appealed or challenged collaterally through a procedure such as a petition for a writ of mandate. For termination of a benefit already possessed, however, the availability of procedures for collateral challenge does not satisfy the requirements of procedural due process [see, e.g., Adams v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 146, 157, 113 Cal. Rptr. 145, 520 P.2d 961 (mechanics' lien sale)].

[4] State Law That Requires "Cause" for Taking of an Interest

The state may create a protected property interest by setting the substantive standard for a taking of the claimed interest. The government employment cases illustrate this kind of property interest. If the state law provides that a government employee may be removed only "for cause," the employee has a protected property interest in the job [Skelly v. State Personnel Bd. (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 194, 206-207, 124 Cal. Rptr. 14, 539 P.2d 774 ; Coleman v. Department of Personnel Administration (1991) 52 Cal 3d 1102, 1112, 278 Cal. Rptr. 346, 805 P.2d 300 ; Jones v. Omnitrans (2004) 125 Cal. App. 4th 273, 279-280, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 706 (employee of local public transit district could only be discharged for cause); Townsel v. San Diego Metropolitan Transit Development Bd. (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 940, 950, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 231] . On the other hand, if state law provides that an employee may be removed at the discretion of the supervisor, the employee has no protected property interest in the job [Bishop v. Wood (1976) 426 U.S. 341, 96 S. Ct. 2074, 48 L. Ed. 2d 684 ; Schnee v. Alameda Unified School District (2004) 125 Cal. App. 4th 555, 565, 22 Cal Rptr. 3d 800 (probationary teacher was properly classified under Educ. Code § 44909 as second-year probationary employee, and school district had statutory authority to terminate employee without cause or without hearing procedures requiring for termination of permanent employees)].

Former deputy attorney general was terminated for cause without being given Skelley hearing to challenge termination, a violation of due process of law, as employee had civil service protection and could only be terminated for cause. Former deputy had resigned from job one month after termination date, and before Skelley hearing could be started. The Court of Appeal held that former deputy was entitled to back pay until date that State Personnel Board completed S kelley hearing process, and issued decision on the merits of employee's termination. Employee had been denied back pay after date of resignation, and Court of Appeal decision extended back pay rights for almost seven years [Roe v. State Personnel Board (2004) 120 Cal. App. 4th 1029, 1032-1033, 16 Cal. Rptr. 3d 207] .

Although state law may create a property interest by setting a substantive standard for its deprivation, the procedures specified by state law to accomplish that deprivation are not, as a matter of federal constitutional law of procedural due process, controlling [Cleveland Bd. of Educ. v. Loudermill (1985) 470 U.S. 532, 541, 105 S. Ct. 1487, 84 L. Ed. 2d 494] .

Once a governmental employee completes a probationary period and acquires permanent status, the governmental employer must strictly follow the established procedures to dismiss or demote a permanent employee [California Sch. Employees Assn. v. Personnel Commission (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 139, 145, 89 Cal. Rptr. 620, 474 P.2d 436] . This means that a probationary employee must receive effective notice of termination, and must be terminated prior to the expiration of the probationary period, or the employee will attain the status of a permanent employee and be entitled to the permanent employee dismissal procedures [Wiles v. State Personnel Board (1942) 19 Cal. 2d 344, 350-351, 121 P.2d 673 ; Santillano v. State Personnel Board (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 620, 623, 173 Cal. Rptr. 1 ; Birdsall v. Carrillo (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1426, 1432-1433, 282 Cal. Rptr. 504] . Because probationary employees can be rejected without a hearing or good cause, and permanent employees cannot, the employees' status at the time of termination is critically important in determining the employees' rights and the governmental employers' responsibilities.

A police officer who was reassigned to a lower pay grade for failure to perform his duties satisfactorily has a property interest in not being reassigned arbitrarily or without good cause to the lower pay grade because the standards articulated under the police department manual for reassignment sets binding criteria that the department is required to follow [Brown v. City of Los Angeles (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 155, 170-172, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 474] .

[5] Government Contracts That Give Rise to Property Interests

If the state or a political subdivision of the state enters into a contract guaranteeing an individual a continuing right to some government benefit, absent some misconduct on the individual's part, the contract creates a property right. For example, public employment that is recognized by state law is a property interest protected by due process of law [Bostean v. Los Angeles Unified School Dist. (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 95, 109, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 523 (due process requires notice and predeprivation opportunity to respond before public employee is placed on involuntary illness leave of absence)].

By contrast, when state law does not guarantee any property right in employment, for example, as a public school administrator, the employment is not a protected property right [Barthuli v. Board of Trustees (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 717, 721, 139 Cal. Rptr. 627, 566 P.2d 261 , cert. denied, 434 U.S. 1040, 98 S. Ct. 782, 54 L. Ed. 2d 790 (1978) (removal of school administrator was within discretion of school board)].

If the employing agency adopts employment policies that become part of an otherwise unprotected employment contract, these policies may give rise to protected property rights, potentially giving rise not only to a breach of contract action, but also to a constitutional claim of violation of procedural due process rights [Jones v. Palm Springs Unified School Dist. (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 518, 527-528, 216 Cal. Rptr. 75 (employment policies adopted by school board that became part of school administrator's contract)].

A contractual claim for payment for services rendered under a government contract has been recognized as a protected property interest [Lujan v. G & G Fire Sprinklers, Inc., (2001) 532 U.S. 189, 189-190, 121 S. Ct. 1446 (procedural due process of law satisfied by availability of civil lawsuit for breach of contract); Bergeron v. Department of Health Services (1999) 71 Cal. App. 4th 17, 23, 83 Cal. Rptr. 2d 481] . An unsuccessful low bidder on a school construction contract was entitled to due process hearing rights (notice and opportunity to respond) to challenge a school district's determination that the bidder was not responsible, and therefore should not be awarded the construction contract [D.H. Williams Construction, Inc. v. Clovis Unified School District (2007) 146 Cal. App. 4th 757, 771-772, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 345] .

Some contractual claims can not satisfy the protected property interest requirements for due process of law to apply. The California Court of Appeal held that a non profit corporation did not have a due process of law protected property interest in contracts with the county of Los Angeles to provide foster care services nor did it have a protected interest under a federal statute, the Adoption Assistance and Child Welfare Act [42 U.S.C. § 671]. The contracts were not permanent, there was no good cause for termination clause, and there was no extreme dependence by the non profit corporation on the continuation of the contract terms by the county. Thus, the county decision to confer do not refer status on the corporation did not violate due process of law [Benn v. County of Los Angeles (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 478, 489-491, 58 Cal. Rptr. 3d 563] . A pharmaceutical company did not have a protected property interest in continued listing by the Department of Health services of one of its drugs, Oxandin, in the AIDS Drug Assistance Program's drug formulary, and thus the company did not have due process hearing rights to a trial type hearing when the Department partially delisted its drug product. The future right to supply products pursuant to a governmental program is not a protected property interest [Savient Pharmaceuticals, Inc. v. Department of Health Services (2007) 146 Cal. App. 4th 1457, 1471-1472, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 689] .

[6] Custom or Practice as Source of Common Law Property Rights

Even in the absence of a specific statute, so-called common law property rights may be created if state action has historically and customarily recognized the right to particular benefits. For example, if the practice of a state university is automatically to give professors tenure after seven years of teaching, that custom and practice would create a reasonable expectation on the part of a qualifying professor and the absence of written policies would not be determinative [Perry v. Sindermann (1972) 408 U.S. 593, 602-603, 92 S. Ct. 2694, 33 L. Ed. 2d 570] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Constitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental RightsProcedural Due ProcessGeneral OverviewConstitutional LawEqual ProtectionScope of ProtectionGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsLicensesLabor & Employment LawEmployment RelationshipsAt-Will EmploymentPublic EmployeesLabor & Employment LawWrongful TerminationDefensesProperty InterestPublic Health & Welfare LawFood & NutritionFood Stamp ProgramGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470A DUE PROCESS RESTRICTIONS ON PUBLIC AGENCIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Protected Interests

41-470A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470A.22

§ 470A.22 Sources of Liberty Interests

[1] Freedom From Confinement

Freedom from confinement, whether in an institution or under the restraints of parole or probation, and whether in the context of a criminal matter or a civil proceeding such as a juvenile adjudication or an involuntary civil commitment, is a liberty interest that may not be taken without procedural due process [Gagnon v. Scarpelli (1973) 411 U.S. 778, 785, 93 S. Ct. 1756, 36 L. Ed. 2d 656 (revocation of parole and probation); In re Gault (1967) 387 U.S. 1, 19-21, 87 S. Ct. 1428, 18 L. Ed. 2d 527 (juvenile proceedings); O'Connor v. Donaldson (1975) 422 U.S. 563, 573-574, 95 S. Ct. 2486, 45 L. Ed. 2d 396 (civil commitment proceedings)]. Persons accused of crimes are protected by the specific guarantees of the Fourth through the Eighth Amendments [U.S. Const., amends. IV-VIII]. As a result of these specific guarantees, it is seldom necessary to discuss general procedural due process rights. In general, the closer the proceedings and the penalties to criminal proceedings, the higher the level of process required. Prison officials who were sued by plaintiff correctional officer under Section 1983 [42 U.S.C. § 1983] did not violate the liberty interest under federal due process of law of that correctional officer who was injured while breaking up a fight between rival gangs at Folsom State Prison. Plaintiff alleged that the prison officials had orchestrated the fight between rival gangs. Assuming the truth of that claim, there was no liberty interest violation because defendants did not restrain plaintiff's ability to act on his own behalf [O'Dea v. Bunnell (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 214, 216-217, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 684] .

[2] Fundamental Rights

The federal constitution specifically protects certain liberty interests, such as the right to free speech [see U.S. Const. amend. I]. Any government adjudicative action taking away such interests must conform to a high level of procedural due process [Freedman v. Maryland (1965) 380 U.S. 51, 57-59, 85 S. Ct. 734, 13 L. Ed. 2d 649] . Such rights do not depend for their protection on any source in state law [see Board of Regents v. Roth (1972) 408 U.S. 564, 575, 92 S. Ct. 2701, 33 L. Ed. 2d 548 (probationary teacher, who had no state property right in continued government employment, would have been entitled to procedural due process if he had been fired for exercising free speech rights)]. Other fundamental liberty interests are not expressly protected by the constitution. The right to privacy, protecting primarily procreation and family-related choices, for example, has been held to be a fundamental right emanating from the penumbra of various provisions of the Bill of Rights and the liberty clause of the Fourteenth Amendment [see Roe v.

Wade (1973) 410 U.S. 113, 153, 93 S. Ct. 705, 35 L. Ed. 2d 147] .

Presumably, all fundamental interests, whether expressly or indirectly protected by the Constitution, are also protected from removal absent procedural due process, but the issue has seldom arisen, as protection of fundamental rights is generally sought under substantive constitutional provisions, under the compelling state interest test, rather than in the context of procedural due process, with its less demanding balancing approach [but see Kash Enterprises, Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 294, 300, 308, 138 Cal. Rptr. 53, 562 P.2d 1302 (seizure and disposal of newsracks violated both procedural due process and free speech rights)].

[3] Nonfundamental Rights

The liberty concept includes interests that do not involve freedom from confinement and do not fall within the definition of fundamental rights. These other liberty interests, like property interests, seem to depend on some independent source, such as state law, for their protection. For example, if a prisoner is moved from a minimum security prison to a maximum security prison for alleged misconduct, a liberty interest may or may not be involved, depending on whether state law in some way limits the discretion of the prison officials to order the transfer [Hewitt v. Helms (1983) 459 U.S. 460, 466, 103 S. Ct. 864, 74 L. Ed. 2d 675 ; Meachum v. Fano (1976) 427 U.S. 215, 223-227, 96 S. Ct. 2532, 49 L. Ed. 2d 451] .

[4] Reputation and Dignitary Interests

After earlier recognizing reputation as a liberty interest inherently protected by the Constitution [see Goss v. Lopez (1975) 419 U.S. 565, 95 S. Ct. 729, 42 L. Ed. 2d 725 (school disciplinary suspension affecting liberty interest in reputation); Wisconsin v. Constantineau (1971) 400 U.S. 433, 437, 91 S. Ct. 507, 27 L. Ed. 2d 515 (state procedure denying persons labeled excessive drinkers right to purchase alcoholic beverages constituted taking both of liberty interest in being able to engage in socially acceptable drinking and of reputation)], the United States Supreme Court in Paul v. Davis [Paul v. Davis (1976) 424 U.S. 693, 701-708, 96 S. Ct. 1155, 47 L. Ed. 2d 405] retreated from this treatment of reputation. In Paul, the Court rejected reputation per se as an inherently protected liberty interest, but held that reputation combined with significant economic impact, such as foreclosure from future employment, might be a liberty interest requiring procedural due process [Paul v. Davis (1976) 424 U.S. 693, 708-710, 96 S. Ct. 1155, 47 L. Ed. 2d 405] . As Paul seemed to involve just such facts, it is hard to know how much economic impact is required. In any event, the purpose of the hearing, if any is required, is to correct any inaccuracy in the record, not to test the sufficiency of the reasons for the dismissal [see Phillips v. Civil Service Com. (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 996, 1002, 237 Cal. Rptr. 751 (court concluded that issue of reinstatement was not before Commission)].

Reputation per se is a protected liberty interest under the due process clause of the California state constitution and California courts do not require any showing of economic harm [Lubey v. City and County of San Francisco (1979) 98 Cal. App. 3d 340, 346, 159 Cal. Rptr. 440] . All that is required in California, however, is the opportunity to protect one's reputation by correcting the record [Phillips v. Civil Service Com. (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 996, 1002, 237 Cal. Rptr. 751] . For example, an at-will public employee, whose employment was terminable without cause and who was discharged for reasons that damage his or her reputation or impose employment-related stigma making it more difficult to obtain other employment, has a protected liberty interest entitling him or her to a name-clearing hearing. Such a hearing does not, however, include a right to present additional evidence such as testimony of a witness elicted through direct or cross examination [Holmes v. Hallinan (1999) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1523, 1530-1531, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 174 (investigator for district attorney terminated for dishonesty and for filing false application for workers' compensation benefits)].

On the other hand, state law does not entitle a public employee to a liberty-interest hearing when there was no present deprivation of a governmental benefit, but only damage to reputation that may result in future harm [Caloca v. County of San Diego (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 1209, 1219-1220, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 660] .

However, liberty interests are not recognized in all circumstances in which clearing one's name or protecting one's reputation is the concern of the individual affected by governmental action. For example, a police officer who voluntarily resigned from police employment did not have a protected liberty interest in correcting negative comments made in a post-resignation separation report. Thus, he was not entitled to an administrative hearing to clear his name [Haight v. City of San Diego (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 413, 418-419, 278 Cal. Rptr. 334] .

Further, no liberty interest was recognized in a case in which a high school athlete in an interscholastic sport asserted athletic ineligibility and loss of reputation when the CIF determined that the athlete's coach had violated CIF undue influence bylaws [Ryan v. California Interscholastic Federation-San Diego Section (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 1048, 1065-1066, 114 Cal. Rptr. 2d 798] .

Because freedom from arbitrary adjudicative procedure is a substantive element of liberty, the California Supreme Court in California v. Ramirez [People v. Ramirez (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 260, 158 Cal. Rptr. 316, 599 P.2d 622] held that no statutory benefit may be taken without procedural due process even if the benefit does not rise to the level of either a liberty or property interest. The court held that individuals always have a due process liberty interest both in fair and unprejudiced decision making and in being treated with dignity [People v. Ramirez (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 260, 269, 158 Cal. Rptr. 316, 599 P.2d 622] .

Ramirez was followed in a case in which a physician convicted of a drug-related offense sought admission to a work furlough program, a decision solely within the discretion of the furlough administrator and involving no statutory liberty interest. The court nevertheless held that the failure to give the physician a meaningful chance to defend his application to the program was contrary to his due process liberty interest both in fair and unprejudiced decisionmaking and in being treated with dignity [In re Thomas (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 721, 728, 206 Cal. Rptr. 719] . Another court, however, took a more restrictive approach in Davis v. Commission on Judicial Qualifications [Davis v. Commission on Judicial Qualifications (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 818, 141 Cal. Rptr. 75] , holding that Ramirez is limited to cases involving an individual's statutory interests [Davis v. Commission on Judicial Qualifications (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 818, 825, 141 Cal. Rptr. 75] . No Ramirez type statutory benefit or interest was recognized in a case in which a high school athlete in an interscholastic sport asserted athletic ineligibility and loss of reputation when the CIF determined that the athlete's coach had violated CIF undue influence bylaws [Ryan v. California Interscholastic Federation-San Diego Section (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 1048, 1070-1072, 114 Cal. Rptr. 2d 798] .

The California Supreme Court held that an at-will public employee who can be terminated without cause (and therefore has no due process property interest in continued employment) does have a liberty interest that is deprived when the termination includes charges that could negatively affect the employee's standing or associations in the community or that could negatively affect the employee's job related reputation. In that setting, the employee has the right to a name clearing hearing [Katzberg v. Regents of the University of California (2002) 29 Cal. 4th 300, 305, 127 Cal Rptr.2d 482, 58 P.3d 339]. The California Court of Appeal held that a physician who was released for non-disciplinary reasons from an exempt position with the City and County of San Francisco did not have a liberty interest that was deprived because no reasons for the release from employment with the city were publicly disclosed. Public disclosure of reason is required to establish stigma. Since there was no public disclosure of reasons, the physician's employment related reputation was not stigmatized [Kreutzer v. City and County of San Francisco (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 306, 320-322, 82 Cal. Rptr. 3d 644].

Given the uncertainty of the federal court definition of "liberty" and the California court's limitation on Ramirez, it is unclear how much Ramirez expands procedural protection in California beyond that required by the federal constitution.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Constitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental FreedomsFreedom of SpeechGeneral OverviewConstitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental RightsProcedural Due ProcessScope of ProtectionConstitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental RightsCriminal ProcessGeneral OverviewCriminal Law & ProcedureJuvenile OffendersJuvenile ProceedingsGeneral OverviewFamily LawFamily Protection & WelfareInvoluntary Commitment

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470A DUE PROCESS RESTRICTIONS ON PUBLIC AGENCIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Protected Interests

41-470A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 470A.23-470A.29

[Reserved]

§§ 470A.23[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470A DUE PROCESS RESTRICTIONS ON PUBLIC AGENCIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Balancing Process

41-470A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470A.30

§ 470A.30 General Requirements

[1] Three Part Balancing Test

Life, liberty, or property cannot be taken in an adjudicative action without process consistent with the interest at stake. There is, however, no easy definition of the level of process due. The only certainty is that "some kind of hearing" is required [Memphis Light, Gas, & Water Div. v. Craft (1978) 436 U.S. 1, 12, 98 S. Ct. 1554, 56 L. Ed. 2d 30 ; see Friendly, Some Kind of Hearing, 123 U. Pa. L. Rev. 1267 (1965)]--a hearing "appropriate to the nature of the case" [Mullane v. Central Hanover B. & T. Co. (1950) 339 U.S. 306, 313, 70 S. Ct. 652, 94 L. Ed. 865] . Matthews v. Eldridge [Mathews v. Eldridge (1976) 424 U.S. 319, 335, 96 S. Ct. 893, 47 L. Ed. 2d 18] specifies three factors that must be considered in determining the level of process due:

> First, the private interest that will be affected by the official action; second, the risk of an erroneous deprivation of such interest through the procedures used, and the probable value, if any, of additional or substitute procedural safeguards; and finally the Government's interest, including the function involved and the fiscal and administrative burdens that the additional or substitute procedural requisites would entail.

This balancing test emphasizes first, the importance of the private interest at stake; second, the comparative accuracy of the procedure used by the government versus that desired; and third, the competing governmental interest in both the substantive merits and the need for administrative efficiency [see Coleman v. Department of Personnel Administration (1991) 52 Cal. 3d 1102, 278 Cal. Rptr. 346, 805 P.2d 300 , and Oberholzer v. Commission on Judicial Performance (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 371, 390-391, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 466, 975 P.2d 663 , for recent applications of the balancing test by the California Supreme Court].

The California Court of Appeal applied the three part balancing test to decide whether there was a right to present live rebuttal testimony, and whether there was a right to cross examine adverse witnesses in a contractor debarment administrative hearing held by a city council. The Court concluded that there was a substantial private interest at stake because of the substantial economic impact of permanent debarment on the contractor, that there were substantial governmental interests in dealing with contractors, and significant administrative and financial burdens associated with more procedural safeguards, and the risk of error with existing procedures was minimal. Thus, the court concluded that due process of law did not require live testimony and did not require the right to cross-examine witnesses at the administrative hearing because the contractor took depositions of many of those witnesses, and presented that deposition testimony at the hearing before the City Council. The contractor was able to submit 400 pages of written materials, was able to make two 40-minute oral presentations to the city council, and was given the right to additional deposition transcripts and a supplemental brief after the hearing. Those procedures satisfied due process of law [Southern California Underground Contractors, Inc. v. City of San Diego (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 533, 541, 549-551, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 527] .

The California Court of Appeal applied the four part balancing test from People v. Ramirez (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 260, 269, 158 Cal. Rptr. 316, 599 P.2d 622 to hold that a physician's due process rights were violated when the superior court issued an order prohibiting the doctor from practicing medicine as a condition of bail for criminal charges brought against the doctor. The doctor was not given notice or a full hearing before his license was effectively suspended [Gray v. Superior Ct. (2005) 125 Cal. App. 4th 629, 637-638, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 50 ; Smith v. Bd. of Med. Qual. Assurance (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 316, 327, 248 Cal. Rptr. 704 (four factor test used in this case)]. The fourth California factor is "the dignitary interest in informing individuals of the nature, grounds, and consequences of the action and in enabling them to present their side of the story before a responsible government official ..." [quoting from People v. Ramirez (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 260, 269, 158 Cal. Rptr. 316, 599 P.2d 622 ; Gray v. Superior Court (2005) 125 Cal. App. 4th 629, 638, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 50] .

[2] California Approach to Balancing of Interests

With regard to the types of administrative hearing procedures required, the California Supreme Court has outlined four due process factors to be considered:

> (1) The private interest that will be affected by the official action;
>
> (2) The risk of an erroneous deprivation of such interest through the procedures used, and the probable value, if any, of additional or substitute procedural safeguards;
>
> (3) The dignitary interest in informing individuals of the nature, grounds, and consequences of the action and in enabling them to present their side of the story before a responsible governmental official; and
>
> (4) The governmental interest including the function involved and the fiscal and administrative burdens that the additional or substitute procedural requirement would entail [People v. Ramirez (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 260, 269, 158 Cal. Rptr. 316, 599 P.2d 622] .

Expressly approving two Court of Appeal decisions in the environmental law area [Stanson v. San Diego Coast Regional Com. (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 38, 45, 161 Cal. Rptr. 392 ; CEEED v. California Coastal Zone Conservation Com. (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 306, 329, 118 Cal. Rptr. 315] , the California Supreme Court noted in a later case that "there is no precise manner of hearing which must be afforded; rather, the particular interests at issue must be considered in determining what kind of hearing is appropriate. A formal hearing, with full rights of confrontation and cross-examination is not necessarily required" [Saleeby v. State Bar (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 547, 565, 216 Cal. Rptr. 367, 702 P.2d 525] .

On the grounds that what must be afforded is a reasonable opportunity to be heard, the California Supreme Court did not require an oral hearing in a case involving a request for reimbursement from the client security fund of the State Bar. Rather, the California Supreme Court decided that an opportunity for written response would "give petitioner and other applicants an opportunity to respond to the Bar's proposed disposition of the request for reimbursement." The court described the goal of hearing requirements as affording "applicants a reasonable opportunity to raise objections to the particular action the bar desires to take" [Saleeby v. State Bar (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 547, 565, 216 Cal. Rptr. 367, 702 P.2d 525 , citing Horn v. County of Ventura (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 605, 619, 156 Cal. Rptr. 718, 596 P.2d 1134] . The court also required that the hearing result in findings necessary to make judicial review of the administrative adjudication meaningful. [Saleeby v. State Bar (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 547, 566-567, 216 Cal. Rptr. 367, 702 P.2d 525] . For discussion of judicial review, see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review for Agency Decisions .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsRight to HearingDue ProcessAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewGeneral OverviewConstitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental RightsProcedural Due ProcessScope of ProtectionGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsLicensesHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470A DUE PROCESS RESTRICTIONS ON PUBLIC AGENCIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Balancing Process

41-470A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470A.31

§ 470A.31 Method of Balancing Private Interests

[1] Judicial Practical Approach

Although the state enjoys considerable authority either to recognize or not recognize liberty or property interests, once a recognized interest is determined to have been taken, the courts take a commonsense approach in valuing the interest, examining its practical importance in the life of the affected person. For example, a government job is clearly more important than 10 days of public school education, so that job termination would require a higher level of process than a temporary school suspension. Similarly, permanent expulsion from public school would have a greater practical impact than a temporary suspension and would accordingly demand greater procedural safeguards [Goss v. Lopez (1975) 419 U.S. 565, 584, 95 S. Ct. 729, 42 L. Ed. 2d 725] . As a general rule, temporary deprivation of an interest is accorded a lower level of process than a permanent deprivation [North Georgia Finishing v. Di-Chem (1975) 419 U.S. 601, 606, 95 S. Ct. 719, 42 L. Ed. 2d 751] .

Cases involving driver's licenses illustrate the Court's practical approach in balancing private interests. Bell v. Burson [Bell v. Burson (1971) 402 U.S. 535, 91 S. Ct. 1586, 29 L. Ed. 2d 90] , which required a very high level of procedural due process before revocation of an uninsured driver's license following an accident, seems to recognize the practical importance of a driver's license in contemporary mobile society. In rejecting a procedural due process argument in Dixon v. Love [Dixon v. Love (1977) 431 U.S. 105, 97 S. Ct. 1723, 52 L. Ed. 2d 172] , involving the revocation of a driver's license after a certain number of infractions, however, the court compared the driver's license with the social security disability payments at issue in Matthews v. Eldridge [Mathews v. Eldridge (1976) 424 U.S. 319, 335, 96 S. Ct. 893, 47 L. Ed. 2d 18] ; it concluded that "a driver's license may not be so vital and essential as are social insurance payments on which the recipient may depend for his very subsistence" [Dixon v. Love (1977) 431 U.S. 105, 113, 97 S. Ct. 1723, 52 L. Ed. 2d 172] .

[2] Different Levels of Protection for Preexisting and Future Rights

The courts give a higher level of protection to preexisting rights than to future rights. In dicta, the Court in Lyng v. Payne [Lyng v. Payne (1986) 476 U.S. 926, 106 S. Ct. 2333, 90 L. Ed. 2d 921] said, with regard to an applicant's claim of inadequate notice of the availability of a low-interest loan, "We have never held that applicants for benefits, as distinct from those already receiving them, have a legitimate claim of entitlement protected by the Due Process Clause" [Lyng v. Payne (1986) 476 U.S. 926, 942, 106 S. Ct. 2333, 90 L. Ed. 2d 921] . Cases involving parole [see, e.g., Morrissey v. Brewer (1972) 408 U.S. 471, 485-486, 92 S. Ct. 2593, 33 L. Ed. 2d 484 ; Black v. Romano (1985) 471 U.S. 606, 612, 105 S. Ct. 2254, 85 L. Ed. 2d 636] also reflect the varying treatment of preexisting and potential rights, the difference between an initial request for parole and the revocation of parole being critical [Greenholtz v. Nebraska Penal Inmates (1979) 442 U.S. 1, 9, 99 S. Ct. 2100, 60 L. Ed. 2d 668] .

[3] Fundamental Rights Given Highest Level of Protection

Interests that are deemed fundamental rights for purposes of substantive due process and interests specifically mentioned in the Bill of Rights are entitled to the highest weight in applying the procedural due process balancing test [Freedman v. Maryland (1965) 380 U.S. 51, 58-59, 85 S. Ct. 734, 13 L. Ed. 2d 649 (freedom of speech); see Bellotti v. Baird (Bellotti II) (1979) 443 U.S. 622, 634, 99 S. Ct. 3035, 61 L. Ed. 2d 797 (court listed areas in which constitutional rights of minors are coextensive with adults before addressing constitutionality of statute that infringed privacy rights of minors seeking abortions)]. Normally, some formal predeprivation hearing, often before a judicial officer, would be required; however, sufficiently strong competing public interests might outweigh the need for predeprivation review [cf. McKeiver v. Pennsylvania (1971) 403 U.S. 528, 541-551, 91 S. Ct. 1976, 29 L. Ed. 2d 647 (state's interest in benevolent, confidential approach to juvenile delinquency matters outweighed juvenile's private interest in trial by jury)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil Rights LawPrivacy RightsGeneral OverviewConstitutional LawBill of RightsGeneral OverviewConstitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental FreedomsFreedom of SpeechGeneral OverviewConstitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental RightsProcedural Due ProcessScope of ProtectionConstitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental RightsProcedural Due ProcessScope of ProtectionCriminal Law & ProcedurePostconviction ProceedingsParoleHealthcare LawTreatmentEnd-of-Life DecisionsAbortionRight to PrivacyTransportation LawPrivate VehiclesOperator LicensesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 41: Overview of Public Administrative Law thru Review of Agency Rulemaking-Chs. 470-472B
Chapter 470A DUE PROCESS RESTRICTIONS ON PUBLIC AGENCIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Balancing Process

41-470A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 470A.32

§ 470A.32 Method of Balancing Public Interests

[1] Subjective Nature of Government Decision

The objective or subjective nature of the government decision affects the nature of the hearing procedures afforded. For ministerial decisions, which are inherently objective and require consideration of easily identifiable factors that are often a matter of public record, the risk of error is so minimal as not to overcome the government's interest in efficiency; thus no due process is required [see Mackey v. Montrym (1979) 443 U.S. 1, 6, 99 S. Ct. 2612, 61 L. Ed. 2d 321 (registrar of motor vehicles had no discretionary authority to do anything other than impose 90-day license suspension on driver who refused to take breath analysis test)].

Decisions that are extremely subjective in nature may not benefit from or be entitled to formal adjudicative procedures. For example, in Board of Curators, Univ. of Mo. v. Horowitz [Board of Curators, Univ. of Mo. v. Horowitz (1978) 435 U.S. 78, 98 S. Ct. 948, 55 L. Ed. 2d 124] , academic decisions were held to be too subjective for meaningful review [Board of Curators, Univ. of Mo. v. Horowitz (1978) 435 U.S. 78, 91-92, 98 S. Ct. 948, 55 L. Ed. 2d 124] .

The Fourth District California Court of Appeal held that a graduate student in the department of history at the University of California at Irvine was not denied due process of law when he was denied advancement into the department's Ph.D. program and graduated with a master's degree. The department provided sufficient due process procedures because it informed the student that there were deficiencies with the student's academic performance, it explained to the student the consequences of deficient academic performance, and it made a careful and deliberate decision regarding the student's academic progress. The student did not have a right to a formal hearing to challenge the denial of advancement. Court will defer to faculty members academic decisions, will show respect for faculty professional judgments, and will only overturn such decisions on substantive due process grounds when the academic decision is a substantial departure form accepted academic norms [Lachtman v. Regents of the University of California (2007) 158 Cal. App. 4th 187, 191-193, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 147].

The necessity of relying on the government agency's experience, instinct, or expertise likewise tends against requiring a high level of process [see, e.g., Greenholtz v. Nebraska Penal Inmates (1979) 442 U.S. 1, 8-13, 99 S. Ct. 2100, 60 L.

Ed. 2d 668 (decisions of parole board held not to require formal hearing procedures)]. In juvenile cases, for example, the fact that the judge must consider the best interest of the child results in a more informal process than that required in a criminal trial, when the only issue is guilt or innocence [see, e.g., In re Gault (1967) 387 U.S. 1, 14-15, 87 S. Ct. 1428, 18 L. Ed. 2d 527 (no right to jury trial in juvenile proceedings)]. A high level of predeprivation procedural due process is most appropriate when the decisionmaking official must make some factual determination and function like the judge in a civil or criminal case [see, e.g., Morrissey v. Brewer (1972) 408 U.S. 471, 483-484, 92 S. Ct. 2593, 33 L. Ed. 2d 484 (parole revocation hearing)].

[2] When Immediate Response Is Needed to Exigent Circumstances

Exigent circumstances are the strongest example of a situation that justifies the taking of a liberty or property interest without some form of pretermination or predeprivation process. Nonetheless, if exigent circumstances require a taking of a liberty or property interest prior to a hearing, then post-deprivation relief must be readily available [Carrera v. Bertaini (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 721, 728-729, 134 Cal. Rptr. 14] . For example, if the child welfare authority had strong evidence that a child was a victim of sexual abuse, the child could be summarily removed from the home without a hearing [Welf. & Inst. Code § 305(a)]. The authority, however, would have the immediate obligation of seeking a judicial determination that the initial removal was proper and continued state involvement was justified [Welf. & Inst. Code § 307.4]. Even fundamental rights may be taken without a predeprivation hearing under sufficiently exigent circumstances. For example, First Amendment rights generally may not be limited without notice and an opportunity to respond, but if the threatened First Amendment activity presents a serious danger to the community and there is no opportunity to give notice, an ex parte hearing is appropriate [Carroll v. President & Comm'rs of Princess Anne (1968) 393 U.S. 175, 180-181, 89 S. Ct. 347, 21 L. Ed. 2d 325] . Even such lesser concerns as pedestrian and vehicular safety may justify summary removal of newsracks, despite the harm to free speech rights [Kash Enterprises, Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 294, 313, 138 Cal. Rptr. 53, 562 P.2d 1302] .

[3] Other Interests Justifying Summary Proceedings

Another factor that may justify a prehearing taking of a liberty or property interest is a need for an immediate, on-site response by government officials in such contexts as arrests for suspected criminal activity [see Baker v. McCollan (1979) 443 U.S. 137, 145, 99 S. Ct. 2689, 61 L. Ed. 2d 433 (arrest of wrong brother made on probable cause in executing arrest warrant satisfied due process requirements)], prison discipline [see Meachum v. Fano (1976) 427 U.S. 215, 224-225, 96 S. Ct. 2532, 49 L. Ed. 2d 451 (no hearing required prior to transfer of prisoner from minimum security to maximum security institution)], and school discipline [see Goss v. Lopez (1975) 419 U.S. 565, 581-582, 95 S. Ct. 729, 42 L. Ed. 2d 725 (approving merely summary hearing prior to 10-day school suspension)]. For more serious deprivations, however, such as expulsion from school [Goss v. Lopez (1975) 419 U.S. 565, 584, 95 S. Ct. 729, 42 L. Ed. 2d 725] , or transfer to a mental hospital from a prison [Vitek v. Jones (1980) 445 U.S. 480, 488, 100 S. Ct. 1254, 63 L. Ed. 2d 552] , the need to maintain respect for public authority must give way to the more important liberty interest, and some sort of pretermination or predeprivation hearing is required.

In some situations, such as the prison setting, in which the Court has approved a lower level of process, it has acknowledged the greater expertise of the government official in making the needed decision [see Vitek v. Jones (1980) 445 U.S. 480, 489-490, 100 S. Ct. 1254, 63 L. Ed. 2d 552 (due process required only that psychologist or psychiatrist at mental institution make determination that level of care in institution was appropriate for prisoner prior to prisoner's transfer to institution); see also Parham v. J.R. (1979) 442 U.S. 584, 607-608, 99 S. Ct. 2493, 61 L. Ed. 2d 101 (due process was satisfied and no later process was required, in parent's commitment of child to mental institution for treatment, on opinion of institution's doctor that treatment would be beneficial for child)].

[4] Need for Administrative Efficiency

In Mathews v. Eldridge (1976) 424 U.S. 319, 96 S. Ct. 893, 47 L. Ed. 2d 18 , the Court recognized that any additional

