41A-474 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 474.15

§ 474.15 Res Judicata and the Failure to Seek Judicial Review

A final administrative decision on the merits, like a final judicial decision on the merits, has res judicata effect, and failure to seek judicial review of an agency's decision will prevent any later challenge to the merits of that decision in a collateral proceeding [Monroe v. Trustees of the California State Colleges (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 399, 405-406, 99 Cal. Rptr. 129, 491 P.2d 1105 ; Stockton v. Department of Employment (1944) 25 Cal. 2d 264, 267-268, 153 P.2d 741 ; California Coastal Com. v. Superior Court (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 1488, 1493, 258 Cal. Rptr. 567 ; Knickerbocker v. City of Stockton (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 235, 243-244, 244 Cal. Rptr. 764] . A party adversely affected by an administrative decision should therefore carefully weigh the consequences before deciding not to seek judicial review.

Similarly, the failure of a party to appeal a superior court judgment granting a peremptory writ of mandate to the court of appeal waives the litigant's right to challenge the terms of the judgment in a later appeal in the same matter [Carson Gardens L.L.C. v. City of Carson Mobilehome Park Rental Review Bd. (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 856, 866-867, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 768 (rent review board was unable to challenge requirement that it use mortgage interest costs as part of fair rate of return analysis for rent increase because this was required as part of the terms of the judgment)].

Res judicata bars not only those claims actually litigated in a prior proceeding, but also those that could have been litigated as part of that cause of action [California Coastal Com. v. Superior Court (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 1488, 1499, 258 Cal. Rptr. 567] . A CEQA cause of action that was litigated to a final judgment in a prior administrative proceeding that was then judicially reviewed in court precludes the same challenge to the adequacy of the same EIR in a later administrative and judicial proceeding absent some significant change in material facts. The adequacy of an EIR under CEQA involves the same cause of action and the same primary right when the EIR was prepared by a city as part of the city's general plan adoption [Federation of Hillside and Canyon Ass'ns v. City of Los Angeles (2004) 126 Cal. App. 4th 1180, 1195, 24 Cal. Rptr. 3d 543 (city's adoption of general plan for land use and development is legislative act reviewable by writ of ordinary mandate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1085)]. Claim preclusion did not apply to preclude a police officer's second writ of administrative mandate proceeding against her employer based on the affirmance by the Court of Appeal of the denial of a prior administrative mandate petition. This is because the two petitions did not involve the same primary right [Pitts v. City of Sacramento (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 853, 856-857, 41 Cal. Rptr. 3d 838] .

A former employee who challenged her dismissal from a private university alleged fraud and breach of contract claims in both her first and second lawsuit. The appellate court ruling in the first lawsuit that the former employee's exclusive remedy to challenge dismissal was by filing an administrative mandamus lawsuit was a final judgment on the merits that precluded her filing a second lawsuit asserting the same claims for fraud and breach of contract. The second lawsuit and those claims were barred under res judicata grounds by the final judgment in the prior lawsuit [Pollock v. Univ. of S. Cal. (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 1416, 1427-1428, 6 Cal. Rptr. 3d 122] .

A former tenured professor at a private university who challenged his dismissal from his tenured position alleged both tort and breach of contract claims in a civil lawsuit against the university. The Court of Appeal held that the professor's claims were barred by the doctrine of exhaustion of judicial remedies because the professor failed to challenge his dismissal by bringing a writ of administrative mandamus action against the university in superior court [Gutkin v. University of So. Cal. (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 967, 979-980, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 115] . A student at a private university who was suspended for cheating challenged the action of the university by filing a lawsuit against the university alleging both tort and breach of contract claims. The Court of Appeal held that the student's claims were barred by the doctrine of exhaustion of judicial remedies because the student failed to challenge the discipline decision by filing a writ of administrative mandate proceeding against the university in superior court [Gupta v. Stanford Univ. (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 407, 411-412, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 192] .

A former employee of Los Angeles County Probation Department brought a disability discrimination claim against her employer. She filed a grievance with the County Civil Service Commission and completed the hearing process, and the hearing officer issued a decision that was adverse to her claims. While she challenged the hearing office recommended findings before the Commission, she did not file a petition for a writ of administrative mandate to overturn the Commission's final decision. Rather, she filed a complaint for discrimination with the Department of Fair Employment and Housing (DFEH), received a right-to-sue letter, and then filed a civil lawsuit against the Probation Department for disability discrimination in violation of the FEHA [Gov. Code § 12940(a)]. Her civil lawsuit was filed before the commission had issued a final decision in her grievance action. The Court of Appeal held that the employee's FEHA lawsuit was barred because she failed to exhaust administrative and judicial remedies by failing to file a petition for a writ of administrative mandate to challenge the commission final decision [Page v. Los Angeles County Probation Dept. (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 1135, 1142-1143, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 598] . In so holding, the Court of Appeal cited and relied upon California Supreme Court decisions in Johnson v. City of Loma Linda (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 61, 72, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 316, 5 P.3d 874 and Schifando v. City of Los Angeles (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 1074, 1088, 6 Cal. Rptr. 3d 457, 79 P.3d 569 . The Court of Appeal noted that the employee made a choice as to the forum to assert her discrimination claims, the civil service commission, but failed to exhaust the administrative and judicial remedies related to that forum [Page v. Los Angeles County Probation Dept. (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 1135, 1142-1143, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 598] .

The res judicata effects of a final, unappealed administrative decision are not altered by the fact that the judgment was wrong or that it rested on a legal principle later overruled [California Coastal Com. v. Superior Court (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 1488, 1498, 258 Cal. Rptr. 567] .

An agency decision is not final for purposes of res judicata and collateral estoppel until the statute of limitations for filing judicial challenges to the agency decision has expired [Long Beach Unified Sch. Dist. v. State of California (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 155, 170, 275 Cal. Rptr. 449] .

A party's failure to challenge adverse findings of a quasi-judicial administrative agency proceeding by means of a mandate action in the superior court means that those findings are binding in a later civil action [Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 484, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410] . When a public employee files discrimination claims against a public employer based on the California Fair Employment and Housing Act (FEHA) [Gov. Code § 12900], and based on Title VII of the Federal Civil Rights Act of 1964 (Title VII) [42 U.S.C. § 2000e], the employee's failure to have the public employer agency's final adverse findings judicially reviewed and set aside means that those adverse findings are binding on the public employee in a later civil action as to claims under the California FEHA, but the adverse findings are not binding as to claims under Title VII. [Johnson v. City of Loma Linda (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 61, 65-66, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 316, 5 P.3d 874] .

A related issue is whether a litigant may challenge by writ of administrative mandate a disciplinary sanction that was negotiated in a settlement to which the litigant agreed in the administrative proceeding. Settlements of administrative discipline proceedings are binding on the employee who agreed to the settlement, absent fraud, mistake, undue influence, or duress [Zazueta v. County of San Bernadino (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 106, 110, 44 Cal. Rptr. 2d 678 (employee's agreement to arbitrate disciplinary proceeding, which led to termination of employee, could not be challenged by writ of mandate); Stermer v. Board of Dental Examiners (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 128, 135-136, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 294 (licensee who stipulated to settlement of disciplinary proceedings may not challenge by writ of mandate discipline imposed under settlement even though underlying criminal conviction was later set aside)], particularly in cases in which the employee agreed to a less serious form of discipline in the settlement, and thereby avoided termination from employment [Alhambra Police Officers Assn. v. City of Alhambra Police Dept. (2003) 113 Cal. App. 4th 1413, 1420-1421, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 432] .

For further discussion of the application of res judicata to administrative proceedings, see Ch. 473F, Agency Adjudication Hearings, § 473F.41. For general discussion of the principles governing res judicata and collateral estoppel, see Ch. 491, Res Judicata .

§ 474.20 Review by Other Extraordinary Writs

[1] Prohibition

The issuance of a writ of prohibition restrains an official or body exercising judicial powers from acting in excess of its jurisdiction [Code Civ. Proc. § 1102; Bird v. Justice Court (1960) 182 Cal. App. 2d 674, 677, 6 Cal. Rptr. 502] . Prohibition is no longer available to control the proceedings of local agencies and state agencies of legislative origin [Aronoff v. Franchise Tax Board (1963) 60 Cal. 2d 177, 181-182, 32 Cal. Rptr. 1, 383 P.2d 409 ; Whitten v. California State Board, etc. (1937) 8 Cal. 2d 444, 445-446, 65 P.2d 1296] , because the California Supreme Court has held that these agencies do not possess judicial powers [Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 42-44, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29 ; Standard Oil Co. v. State Board of Equal. (1936) 6 Cal. 2d 557, 565, 59 P.2d 119] . Although in theory prohibition may be used to restrain proceedings by an administrative agency that has been constitutionally vested with judicial powers [see, e.g., Bartosh v. Bd. of Osteopathic Examiners (1947) 82 Cal. App. 2d 486, 488-489, 186 P.2d 984] , this use of the writ is extremely rare. For a more detailed discussion of the writ of prohibition, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition .

[2] Certiorari

The writ of certiorari, also called the writ of review [Code Civ. Proc. § 1067] lies to annul and prevent enforcement of a completed judicial act of an official or body that has exceeded its jurisdiction [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1068, 1071, 1074; Estrin v. Superior Court (1939) 14 Cal. 2d 670, 674-675, 96 P.2d 340] . Because it has been held that local agencies and statewide agencies of legislative origin do not possess judicial powers [Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 42-44, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29 ; Standard Oil Co. v. State Board of Equal. (1936) 6 Cal. 2d 557, 565, 59 P.2d 119] , certiorari is no longer available to review their actions and decisions [Standard Oil Co. v. State Board of Equal. (1936) 6 Cal. 2d 557, 565, 59 P.2d 119] . Although certiorari is still proper in some cases to review orders and decisions of statewide agencies of constitutional origin when it is claimed they have exceeded their jurisdiction [see Sail'er Inn, Inc. v. Kirby (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 1, 7, 95 Cal. Rptr. 329, 485 P.2d 529] , even this use of the writ has been largely supplanted by the writ of mandate [cf. Sail'er Inn, Inc. v. Kirby (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 1, 7, 95 Cal. Rptr. 329, 485 P.2d 529] . For a more detailed discussion of the writ of certiorari, see Ch. 492, Review (Certiorari), Writ of.

[3] Extraordinary Writ

Bus. & Prof. Code § 2337 authorizes preferential review by the superior court of decisions to revoke, suspend, or restrict physicians' licenses. These cases are given priority in trial or hearing setting, and there is a requirement that the hearing or trial be set within 180 days from the filing of the action. Continuances can only be granted upon good cause. Review of the superior court's decision in the appellate process is by a petition for an extraordinary writ [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2337]. Bus. & Prof. Code § 2337 provides for review of the superior court decision, not by direct appeal, but by a petition for extraordinary writ. Bus. &Prof. Code § 2337 does not violate the appellate jurisdiction clause of the California Constitution, Cal. Const., art. VI, § 11, which provides for appellate jurisdiction by the courts of appeal in cases where the superior courts have original jurisdiction [Leone v. Medical Board of California (2000) 22 Cal. 4th 660, 664-665, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 61, 995 P.2d 191] . A litigant who seeks appellate review of the superior court's denial of a petition for a writ of mandate to set aside the Medical Board of California's decision to place a physician on two years probation for unprofessional conduct must proceed by petition for an extraordinary writ under Bus. & Prof. Code § 2337. When a litigant erroneously files an appeal of the superior court judgment, the appellate court will treat the improper appeal as a proper extraordinary writ when the issue on appeal is a question of law, the issue has been thoroughly briefed by the litigants, and the issue has not been previously decided [Zabetian v. Medical Board of California (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 462, 465-467, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 917 ; Conlan v. Shewry (2005) 131 Cal. App. 4th 1354, 1365-1366, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 667 (appeal from nonappealable order treated as petition for extraordinary relief)].

§ 474.21 Action for Declaratory Relief

An action for declaratory relief may not be used either:

- To review an adjudicative order or decision [State of California v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 251, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281 ; Selby Realty Co. v. City of San Buenaventura (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 110, 126-127, 109 Cal. Rptr. 799, 514 P.2d 111] ; or

- To adjudicate the rights of a specific party who has an adequate administrative remedy [Taylor v. Swanson (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 416, 418, 187 Cal. Rptr. 111] .

Declaratory relief is not available to review adjudicatory orders that are reviewable by statute [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5] under administrative mandamus [County of Los Angeles v. State Water Resources Control Board (2006) 143 Cal. App. 4th 985, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 619, 631-632] .

An action for declaratory relief may, however, be used to obtain a determination of the constitutionality or validity of statutes, ordinances, or regulations under which an administrative entity operates [Olszewski v. Scripps Health (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 798, 807-808, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1, 69 P.3d 927 ; Woods v. Superior Court (1981) 28 Cal. 3d 668, 682, 170 Cal. Rptr. 484, 620 P.2d 1032 ; State of California v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 251, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281 ; Environmental Defense Project of Sierra County v. County of Sierra (2008) 158 Cal. App. 4th 877, 884-886, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 474 (actual controversy requirement met because parties disagreed on proper interpretation of planning and zoning law and whether streamlined zoning process violates provisions of the government code); Pajaro Valley Water Management Agency v. Amrhein (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 1364, 1377-1378, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 484 (declaratory relief proceeding available when validation proceeding is not available); Connerly v. Schwarzenegger (2006) 146 Cal. App. 4th 739, 746-748, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 203 (actual controversy required for declaratory relief; challenge mooted by invalidation of statute in another lawsuit); Levi v. O'Connell (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 700, 705-706, 50 Cal. Rptr.3d 691 (declaratory relief requirements satisfied because actual current controversy existed between mother of gifted minor child and California Department of Education over department's constitutional and statutory obligations to fund an appropriate education for child); Viacom Outdoor, Inc. v. City of Arcata (2006)

140 Cal. App. 4th 230, 234, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 300 (declaratory judgment sought to determine whether city ordinance requiring city permit to rebuild billboards destroyed in windstorm was preempted by state law, Outdoor Advertising Act; Court of Appeal held that city ordinance was not preempted by state law); Andal v. City of Stockton (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 86, 88-89, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 34 (declaratory relief action brought by cell phone companies and their customers to challenge constitutionality of city ordinance imposing local government fee on cell phone users to fund city's 911 communication system); City of Arcadia v. State Water Resources Control Bd. (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 1392, 1401-1402, 38 Cal. Rptr. 3d 373 (challenge to validity of trash total maximum daily load (TDML) standard under water pollution control laws); Martin v. City and County of San Francisco (2005) 135 Cal. App. 4th 392, 408, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 470 (challenge to applicability of California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) review process to interior remodeling of private home that was historic landmark); Lane v. City of Redondo Beach (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 251, 255, 122 Cal. Rptr. 189 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 (declaratory relief)]. An action for declaratory relief can properly be brought to challenge the approval of a health care service plan by the Department of Managed Health Care. This challenge provides an actual controversy suitable for resolution by a claim for declaratory relief [Viola v. Dept. of Managed Health Care (2005) 126 Cal. App. 4th 373, 379, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 821 (plaintiffs challenged approval of health plans with mandatory binding arbitration clauses claiming that these clauses violated the right to a civil jury trial)]. Gov. Code § 11350 expressly provides that any interested person may bring a declaratory relief action to obtain a judicial determination of the validity of any administrative regulation governed by the California Administrative Procedure Act (APA). For discussion of judicial review of rulemaking procedures, see Ch. 472B, Review of Agency Rulemaking . The APA is located in Gov. Code § 11340 et seq.

In a proper case, an action for declaratory relief may be joined with a petition for mandate [City of Arcadia v. State Water Resources Control Bd. (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 1392, 1409, 1426, 38 Cal. Rptr. 3d 373 (decision to adopt trash total maximum daily load standard (TDML plan) as part of regional water quality control plan was quasi-legislative action reviewable under ordinary mandate, Code Civ. Proc. § 1085; cities could also seek declaratory relief challenging validity of plan but scope of declaratory relief was limited to matters as to which there is a present controversy); Gong v. City of Fremont (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 568, 574, 58 Cal. Rptr. 664 (declaratory relief claim asserting constitutional challenge to zoning ordinance that could not be raised in administrative mandate proceeding properly joined with mandate proceeding seeking review of decision on application for land use permit); Syngenta Crop Protection, Inc v. Helliker (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 1135, 1145, 1164, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 191 (litigant filed complaint for declaratory and injunctive relief coupled with petition for writ of mandate. The California Court of Appeal upheld a modified declaratory judgment issued by the Superior Court); Johnson v. City and County of San Francisco (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 7, 12-13, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 8 (property owners sought declaratory relief and a writ of mandate to challenge notice provisions of city and county rental ordinance on grounds that provisions were preempted by state law)]. Declaratory relief is not available under Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 when there is no actual controversy. Ripeness is required for declaratory relief [Stonehouse Homes v. City of Sierra Madre (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 531, 539-541, 84 Cal. Rptr. 3d 223 (declaratory relief action was not ripe when developer challenged planning commission decision while developer was also appealing decision to city council; the dispute between the developer and the city council was neither concrete enough for declaratory relief nor was there hardship to the developer from not providing declaratory relief at this time)].

A medical device manufacturer (Baxter) that manufactured prescription medical devices which contained a chemical plasticizer (DEHP) that came into contact with the human body filed an administrative petition with the Office of Environmental Health Hazard Assessment (OEHHA) asking OEHHA to promulgate a regulation determining that DEHP exposure did not pose a significant risk of cancer in humans, and therefore Baxter would be exempt from having to post a warning under the requirements of Proposition 65 [Health & Safety Code § 25249.10(c)]. OEHHA denied the petition, and Baxter filed a petition for a writ of mandate, which the trial court denied on grounds that neither Proposition 65 nor OEHHA regulations required the agency to promulgate regulations or make findings that DEHP did not provide a significant risk of cancer in humans. The trial court allowed Baxter to amend its complaint to request declaratory relief under Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 to seek the same type of relief, essentially a declaration that exposure to DEHP in Baxter's medical device products did not create a significant risk of cancer in humans, and therefore no warning of such exposure was required under exemptions recognized by the law [Health & Safety Code § 25249.10(c)]. The trial court granted that declaratory judgment, and the Court of Appeal affirmed the judgment for declaratory relief [Baxter Healthcare Corp. v. Denton (2004) 120 Cal. App. 4th 333, 344-345, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 430] .

When available administrative remedies are inadequate to protect a party from imminent and irreparable injury, injunctive relief may be granted to restrain a threatened administrative action or to restrain the enforcement of an administrative decision [*Associated Cal. § 474.23 Orders and Decisions Reviewable Under Special Constitutional and Statutory Provisions

[1] Decisions of the Public Utilities Commission

Judicial review of decisions of the Public Utilities Commission (PUC) may be obtained in either the California Supreme Court or in the California Courts of Appeal [Pub. Util. Code §§ 1756-1759]. An advocacy organization representing utility consumers challenged the Public Utility Commission's (PUC) acceptance of a settlement offer made by San Diego Gas & Electric Company (SDG&E) as a means to resolve a pending federal lawsuit brought by SDG&E against the PUC. The organization filed a petition for a writ of review in the Court of Appeal. The court upheld the acceptance of the settlement by the PUC, and concluded that the agency decision to accept the settlement did not violate controlling statutes [Pub. Util. Code § 332.1] nor did it violate California Constitution [Cal. Const., Art III, §§ 3, 3.5] provisions [Utility Consumers Action Network v. Public Utilities Com. (2004) 120 Cal. App. 4th 644, 648-649, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 597] . The City of St. Helena filed a petition for a writ of review in the Court of Appeal to seek annulment of Public Utility Commission (PUC) decisions that had conferred public utility status on the Napa Valley Wine Train, Inc. The California Court of Appeal granted annulment of the decisions, holding that the Wine Train did not qualify as a common carrier providing transportation and therefore was not subject to regulation by the PUC as a public utility [City of St. Helena v. Public Utilities Comm'n (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 793, 796-797, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 713] . The California Court of Appeal granted a writ of review to determine the issue of whether the Public Utilities Commission's (PUC) statutory jurisdiction over railroad crossings under Pub. Util. Code §§ 1201, 1202 applied to light rail transit crossings built by public transit districts. The court held that this jurisdiction did not apply, and the court annulled contrary PUC decisions [Santa Clara Valley Trans. Authority v. PUC (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 346, 350-351, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 270] . The California Court of Appeal denied a petition for a writ of review brought by wireless carriers to challenge a decision of the California Public Utilities Commission that imposed substantial fines against wireless service providers in California for unjust and unreasonable practices, including charging customers early termination fees to cancel contracts without permitting a grace period, for failing to disclose to customers known network problems and misleading customers regarding network coverage and service. The court rejected the carriers preemption argument and held that the provisions of the Federal Communications Act of 1934, as amended by the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993, that preempt state and local regulation of market entry and rates charged by wireless mobile telephone providers [47 U.S.C. § 332(c)(3)(A)] did not preempt decisions by the California Public Utilities Commission.

The California Supreme Court also upheld the imposition of substantial fines against the wireless carriers, and rejected due process arguments against the imposition of fines [Pacific Bell Wireless, LLC v. P.U.C. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 718, 728, 729, 747, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 733] .

Another California Court of Appeal granted a petition for a writ of review brought by energy utilities regulated by the California Public Utilities Commission. The utilities challenged the PUC decision to require payment of prevailing wages to workers on utility construction projects. The court upheld that challenge based on the PUC's failure to follow its own procedural rules. The PUC failed to raise the prevailing wage issue in the initial scoping memo that identifies the issues to be addressed in the rulemaking proceeding and this failure violated provisions of the PUC's own procedural rules. The PUC's failure to follow its own procedural rules meant that the PUC failed to proceed in the manner required by law [Cal. Code Regs., tit. 20, § 6.3; So. Cal. Edison Co. v. P.U.C. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 1085, 1104-1106, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 485] . The court rejected a federal preemption challenge brought by the companies and held that the provisions of the National Labor Relations Act [29 U.S.C. §§ 151-160] did not preempt decisions of the California Public Utilities Commission requiring public utilities to pay prevailing wages to workers on energy utility construction projects. The prevailing wage requirement is a substantive employment term that does not impact collective bargaining or employee organizing efforts [So. Cal. Edison Co. v. P.U.C. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 1085, 1100-1102]. For a discussion of review of decisions of the Public Utilities Commission, see Ch. 480, Public Utilities .

[2] Decisions of the State Bar

Disciplinary actions taken by the State Bar may be reviewed either by the California Supreme Court or by a California Court of Appeal in accordance with the procedure prescribed by the California Supreme Court [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6082]. For a discussion of review of State Bar disciplinary actions, see Ch. 71, Attorney Discipline .

[3] Orders, Rules, and Decisions of the Workers' Compensation Appeals Board

Orders, rules, and decisions of the Workers' Compensation Appeals Board (WCAB) are reviewable only in a proceeding for a writ of review in the California Supreme Court or in the California Courts of Appeal [Lab. Code §§ 5950-5955]. The legislative history of Lab. Code § 5955 establishes that the superior courts do not have jurisdiction to review any decisions or order of the Industrial Accident Commission (now WCAB) [Loustalot v. Superior Court (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 905, 910, 186 P. 2d 673] . The superior court lacked jurisdiction to issue a writ of administrative mandamus directed to the WCAB whose decisions may only be reviewed by the court of appeal, or the supreme court. The writ was sought by a former public employee who sought disability retirement benefits from PERS, and who challenged in superior court the WCAB's decision that it did not have jurisdiction to decide whether the employee's disability was caused by her job. The court of appeal concluded that the superior court lacked jurisdiction to issue the writ [Abraham v. Worker's Compensation Appeals Board (2003) 113 Cal. App. 4th 1082, 1087-1088, 6 Cal. Rptr. 3d 820] . For further discussion of review of decisions of the WCAB, see Ch. 577, Worker's Compensation . For extensive coverage of WCAB proceedings and judicial review of them, see Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Worker's Compensation (Matthew Bender).

[4] Orders of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Appeals Board

Orders of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Appeals Board may be reviewed only in a proceeding for a writ of review in the California Supreme Court or in the court of appeal for the district in which the proceeding arose [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23090-23090.5]. For a discussion of review of orders of the Alcoholic Beverage Controls Appeals Board, see Ch. 18, Alcoholic Beverage Licenses .

[5] Orders of the Agricultural Labor Relations Board

Judicial review of an order of the Agricultural Labor Relations Board can be obtained only by filing a petition requesting that the order be modified or set aside in the court of appeal for the appellate district in which the subject unfair labor practice was alleged to have been committed [Lab. Code § 1160.8].

[6] Certain Orders and Determinations of the Public Employment Relations Board

Unit determinations and unfair practice case orders made by the Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) may be reviewed only by way of a petition for an extraordinary writ in the court of appeal for the appellate district in which the unit determination or unfair practice dispute occurred [Gov. Code §§ 3520(c), 3542(c), 3564(c)]. For extensive coverage of these proceedings and judicial review of them, see California Public Sector Relations (Matthew Bender).

§ 474.34 Decisions

[1] Generally

Scope of court's inquiry extends to whether administrative agency proceeded without or in excess of jurisdiction, whether there was fair trial, and whether there was prejudicial abuse of discretion. Woods v. Superior Court (1981) 28 Cal. 3d 668, 675, 170 Cal. Rptr. 484 SaveOxnard Shores v. California Coastal Com. (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 140, 148-149, 224 Cal. Rptr. 425

Unimportance of plaintiff's pleading being in form of petition for mandate when proper basis for issuance of mandamus is alleged. Woods v. Superior Court (1981) 28 Cal. 3d 668, 673, 170 Cal. Rptr. 484, 620 P.2d 1032

Administrative mandamus pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is not possessed of separate and distinctive legal personality and is not removed from general law of mandamus or exempted from established principles, requirements, and limitations of general law of mandamus. Woods v. Superior Court (1981) 28 Cal. 3d 668, 673-674, 170 Cal. Rptr. 484, 620 P.2d 1032

Administrative mandamus under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is appropriate procedure for review of administrative order or decision resulting from adjudicatory proceeding. Sierra Club v. City of Hayward (1981) 28 Cal. 3d 840, 849, 171 Cal. Rptr. 619, 623 P.2d 180

Administrative decision is generally reviewable in proceeding for writ of mandate. Drummey v. State Bd. of Funeral Directors (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 75, 82-85, 87 P.2d 848 ; Whitten v. California State Board, etc. (1937) 8 Cal. 2d 444, 445-446, 65 P.2d 1296 (prohibition proceeding as inappropriate); Standard Oil Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1936) 6 Cal. 2d 557, 562-565, 59 P.2d 119 (certiorari proceeding as inappropriate)

Proceeding is occasionally subject to principles generally applied in criminal proceedings. Bravo v. Cabell (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 834, 838-840, 114 Cal. Rptr. 618, 523 P.2d 658

Adjudicatory decisions of all agencies, state and local, with few exceptions, are subject to review in mandate proceeding governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5. Topanga Ass'n for a Scenic Community v. Los Angeles County (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 506, 514 n. 12, 113 Cal. Rptr. 836, 522 P.2d 12 ; Temescal Water Co. v. Dept. of Public Works (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 90, 101, 280 P.2d 1 ; Hohreiter v. Garrison (1947) 81 Cal. App. 2d 384, 397, 184 P.2d 323

Proceeding is subject to equitable considerations even though generally classified as legal proceeding. San Diego County Dep't of Public Welfare v. Superior Court of San Diego County (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 1, 9, 101 Cal. Rptr. 541, 496 P.2d 453 ; Dare v. Bd. of Medical Examiners (1943) 21 Cal. 2d 790, 795, 136 P.2d 304

Court's inquiry is limited to whether administrative decision was legally wrong; question of propriety, wisdom, or the like, is not proper for judicial inquiry. Faulkner v. Cal. Toll Bridge Authority (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 317, 329, 253 P.2d 659

Trial court is without power to cure agency's improper findings or to substitute its discretion for that of agency regarding form of discipline. American Funeral Concepts v. Board of Funeral Directors & Embalmers (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 303, 311, 186 Cal. Rptr. 196

Administrative mandamus pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is available to provide review whenever agency exercises adjudicatory function in considering facts presented in administrative hearing. Jabola v. Pasadena Redevelopment Agency (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 931, 934, 178 Cal. Rptr. 452

Mandate proceeding for review of administrative decision is governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 307-1062.3, now see Code Civ. Proc. § 307 et. seq. as well as Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1084-1097, 1107, and 1108. Concerned Citizens of Palm Desert, Inc. v. Board of Supervisors (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 257, 270, 113 Cal. Rptr. 328

Writ of mandate is permitted to be issued when there is a clear, present, and usually ministerial duty on defendant's part and clear, present, and beneficial right in plaintiff to performance of that duty. Goldfarb v. Civil Service Com. (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 633, 635, 275 Cal. Rptr. 284

Mandate is appropriate remedy to compel exercise of discretion by government officer, but is not available to control exercise of discretion unless, under facts of case, discretion can be exercised in only one way. Pacific Bell v. California State & Consumer Services Agency (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 107, 118, 275 Cal. Rptr. 62

Although court may compel administrative agency to act, court is not permitted to substitute its discretion for discretion properly vested in agency. Vega v. City of West Hollywood (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1342, 1352, 273 Cal. Rptr. 243

Courts are recommended to let administrative boards and officers work out their problems with as little judicial interference as possible. Vega v. City of West Hollywood (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1342, 1352, 273 Cal. Rptr. 243

Acts in excess of power conferred on agency by Constitution or statute are void and mandate is available to nullify or rescind such acts. Brooks v. State Personnel Bd. (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1068, 1072, 272 Cal. Rptr. 292

Administrative mandamus pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is not available to review quasi-legislative determination of governmental body, such as adoption of redevelopment plan. Leach v. City of San Marcos (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 648, 656, 261 Cal. Rptr. 805

When parties have proceeded under wrong writ of mandate, such as proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 (traditional mandate) when they should have proceeded under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 (administrative mandate), reviewing court is required to determine whether trial court considered appropriate evidence and applied appropriate standard of review, based on facts of case. Eureka Teacher's Assn. v. Board of Education (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 353, 366, 244 Cal. Rptr. 240

Administrative mandate procedure of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is required to be used in all writ cases challenging validity of any final administrative order or decision made in any proceeding in which by law, expressly or impliedly, (1) hearing is required, (2) evidence is required to be taken, and (3) discretion in determining facts is vested in inferior board. Eureka Teacher's Assn. v. Board of Education (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 353, 361, 362, 244 Cal. Rptr. 240

Administrative mandate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is not granted when administrative order or decision did not result from proceeding in which, by law, hearing was required at which evidence was required to be taken; review of such order or decision, if any, is by traditional mandate. TaylorBus Service, Inc. v. San Diego Bd. of Education (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 1331, 1339, 241 Cal. Rptr. 379

Action by real parties in interest for malicious prosecution based on mandate proceedings that resulted in order remanding matter for reconsideration with respect to correctness of standard used to assess evidence is precluded because petitioner prevailed on its procedural challenge, even though its petition was ultimately denied. Sierra Club v. Superior Court (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 1138, 1144-1147, 214 Cal. Rptr. 740

[2] Acts Subject to Judicial Review

Traditional mandamus under Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 and not administrative mandamus under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is appropriate method of review of denial of claim from Client Security Fund (see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6140.5), because of absence of clear statutory requirement for hearing on claim or of record sufficient for Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 review, and because writ petition to Supreme Court was fundamental challenge to Bar's adoption of Rules of Procedure, Rules 670-688 (now see State Bar Rules of Procedure, Client Security Fund Matters, Rules 1-25) and thus was challenge to Bar's quasi-legislative actions. Saleeby v. State Bar (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 547, 561, 216 Cal. Rptr. 367, 702 P.2d 525 ; Bollengier v. Doctors Medical Center (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1115, 1124, 272 Cal. Rptr. 273

Traditional mandamus under Code Civ. Proc. § 1085, rather than administrative mandamus under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5, is appropriate method of review of nonadjudicatory administrative actions. Personnel Com. v. Board of Education (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1463, 1466, 273 Cal. Rptr. 288

Judicial intervention is warranted in traditional mandamus proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 when public entity adopts rule or makes policy decision of general application that is shown to be arbitrary, capricious, contrary to public policy, unlawful, or procedurally unfair. Personnel Com. v. Board of Education (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1463, 1466, 273 Cal. Rptr. 288

Appellate court is authorized to treat traditional mandamus proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 as if it were administrative mandamus proceeding brought under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 if latter code section applies. Bollengier v. Doctors Medical Center (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1115, 1125, 272 Cal. Rptr. 273

Traditional mandate procedure of Code Civ. Proc. § 1085, rather than administrative mandate procedure of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5, is proper method for reviewing quasi-legislative proceeding in which no hearing was required by law. Joint Council of Interns & Residents v. Board of Supervisors (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 1202, 1212, 258 Cal. Rptr. 762

Administrative mandate procedure of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5, rather than traditional mandate procedure, is proper to challenge validity of school board's change of student's grade under Educ. Code §§ 49066, 49067, and 49070. Eureka Teacher's Assn. v. Board of Education (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 353, 361, 362, 244 Cal. Rptr. 240

City's decision to grant or deny development allotment prerequisite to grant of building permit under growth limitation ordinance is quasi-judicial function, despite potential impact on planning decisions, and reviewable in action under

Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5. Pacifica Corp. v. City of Camarillo (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 168, 176-177, 196 Cal. Rptr. 670

Administrative mandamus is not appropriate remedy to review quasi-legislative actions of administrative agencies; such acts are reviewable only by action for declaratory relief or traditional mandamus. Pacific Legal Foundation v. California Coastal Com. (1982) 33 Cal. 3d 158, 168-169, 188 Cal. Rptr. 104, 655 P.2d 306

Existence of ripe controversy is basic prerequisite to judicial review of administrative acts; adoption of guidelines formulating general policy intended to govern future decisions, as opposed to application of rules to peculiar facts of individual case, does not meet ripeness requirement. Pacific Legal Foundation v. California Coastal Com. (1982) 33 Cal. 3d 158, 168-169, 188 Cal. Rptr. 104, 655 P.2d 306

Writ of mandamus is appropriate for inquiry into validity of any final administrative order or decision made as result of proceeding in which hearing is required to be given, evidence is required to be taken, and discretion in determination of facts is vested in inferior tribunal. Woods v. Superior Court (1981) 28 Cal. 3d 668, 675, 170 Cal. Rptr. 484, 620 P.2d 1032

Review governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is available only where all conditions imposed by that section exist. Keeler v. Superior Court of Sacramento County (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 596, 599, 297 P.2d 967 ; Winkelman v. City of Tiburon (1973) 32 Cal. App. 3d 834, 840, 108 Cal. Rptr. 415

Compliance by State Board of Control with claims procedure used by persons erroneously convicted and imprisoned for felonies is subject to review pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 because statutory procedures are quasi-adjudicative and favorable recommendation by board is valuable property right. Diola v. State Board of Control (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 580, 585-586, 185 Cal. Rptr. 511

Decision by State Board of Control on low bidder's protest of public procurement contract award is reviewable in Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 administrative mandate proceedings. National Coach Corp. v. State Bd. of Control (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 750, 755, 187 Cal. Rptr. 261

Decision of county board of supervisors not to designate hospital as "tertiary center" for treatment of severe trauma injuries is legislative act not affecting or ascertaining any vested or existing right and reviewable under Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 rather than Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5. Santa Ana Tustin Community Hospital v. Board of Supervisors (1982) 127 Cal. App. 3d 644, 653-654, 179 Cal. Rptr. 620

Administrative mandamus is improper method for review of State Board of Control decision rejecting plaintiff's Medi-Cal claims, since administrative mandamus is only available to correct decisions which impose tax, disciplinary burden, suspension of employment, or denial or revocation of a license or permit. Royal Convalescent Hospital, Inc. v. State Board of Control (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 788, 794, 160 Cal. Rptr. 458

[3] Finality of Decision

Review governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is available only when administrative decision is final. California v. Superior Court (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 245, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281

Conditional terms of administrative decision does not affect question whether it is final. Ginns v. Savage (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 520, 525, 39 Cal. Rptr. 377, 393 P.2d 689 ; Negaard v. Department of Aeronautics (1973) 32 Cal. App. 3d 92, 95, 107 Cal. Rptr. 920

[4] Hearing Required by Law

Review governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is not available when law did not require hearing before decision, even if hearing held. No Oil, Inc. v. Los Angeles (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 68, 74-75 n.3, 118 Cal. Rptr. 34, 529 P.2d 66 ; Keeler v. Superior Court of Sacramento County (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 596, 599, 297 P.2d 967

Hearing requirement refers to adjudicative hearing, not legislative hearing. Topanga Asso. for Scenic Community v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 506, 514, 113 Cal. Rptr. 836, 522 P.2d 12

Hearing is required by law when agency's regulation requires it even though no statute requires it. Keeler v. Superior Court (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 596, 599, 297 P.2d 967

Hearing is not required by law when law authorizes administrative action without hearing. Fascination, Inc. v. Hoover (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 260, 271, 246 P.2d 656 ; Fuchs v. Los Angeles County Civil Service Com. (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 709, 714-715, 110 Cal. Rptr. 311

Administrative mandamus is not available when regulation governing administrative appeal process contained no express provision requiring agency to hold formal hearing or to take and preserve testimony; implication of requirement of formal adjudication is improper when underlying proceeding is informal administrative action. Wasko v. Department of Corrections (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 996, 1001, 259 Cal. Rptr. 764

Court did not commit error in assuming that hearing is not required by law when neither party cited statute requiring hearing nor suggested that hearing is required by constitutional principles of due process. California Ass'n of Highway Patrolmen v. Department of Personnel Admin. (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 352, 359, 229 Cal. Rptr. 729

Administrative mandamus review pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is limited to instances in which agency administrative hearing is required by law; administrative hearing not required by law is reviewable under traditional mandamus pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1085. Marina County Water Dist. v. State Water Resources Control Bd. (1984) 163 Cal. App. 3d 132, 138-139, 209 Cal. Rptr. 212

Hearing that could be granted at discretion of commission is not "required by law" for purposes of review under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5. Weary v. Civil Service Com. (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 189, 195, 189 Cal. Rptr. 442

Requirement for hearing, set out in agency's regulations, is not affected by agency's characterization of such hearing as in no sense a trial. Poschman v. Dumke (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 932, 938, 107 Cal. Rptr. 596

[5] Evidence Required to Be Taken

Requirement for hearing necessarily implies requirement that evidence be taken. Boreta Enterprises, Inc. v. Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 85, 104, 84 Cal. Rptr. 113, 465 P.2d 1 ; English v. City of Long Beach (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 155, 158, 217 P.2d 22 ; La Prade v. Department of Water & Power (1945) 27 Cal. 2d 47, 52, 162 P.2d 13

[6] Beneficial Interest

Necessity that applicant for writ of mandate be beneficially interested in issuance of writ. Parker v. Bowron (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 344, 351, 254 P.2d 6 ; Concerned Citizens of Palm Desert, Inc. v. Board of Supervisors (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 257, 270, 113 Cal. Rptr. 328

Person who participated in administrative proceeding is beneficially interested in issuance of writ. Bodinson Mfg. Co. v. California Employment Comm'n (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 321, 330, 109 P.2d 935 ; Natural Resources Defense Council, Inc. v. California Coastal Zone Conservation Comm'n (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 76, 82-83, 129 Cal. Rptr. 57

Organization is beneficially interested in issuance of writ when member directly affected by administrative decision. International Asso. of Fire Fighters v. Palo Alto (1963) 60 Cal. 2d 295, 298, 32 Cal. Rptr. 842, 384 P.2d 170 ; Residents of Beverly Glen, Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 117, 121-130, 109 Cal. Rptr. 724

County department of health has standing to bring petition for administrative mandate against county's civil service commission to reexamine penalties imposed on department's employees, because department has beneficial interest in subject matter of proceedings. Department of Health Services v. Kennedy (1984) 163 Cal. App. 3d 799, 801-802, 209 Cal. Rptr. 595

Mandate proceeding governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is prescribed remedy for review of most administrative adjudicatory decisions. Sipper v. Urban (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 138, 144-145, 137 P.2d 425

[8] Res Judicata

Rule of res judicata. Price v. Sixth Dist. Agricultural Asso. (1927) 201 Cal. 502, 515, 258 P. 387

Res judicata is applicable only when earlier decision involved identical issue, final judgment on merits, and same party or party in privity; WCAB finding of service connected disability is not binding on retirement board when board was neither party nor in privity with party to WCAB proceedings. Kimbrough v. Police & Fire Retirement System (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 1143, 1150-1152, 208 Cal. Rptr. 112

Plea of res judicata is appropriate when judgment has once been given against petitioner on merits. Ellenberger v. City of Oakland (1955) 136 Cal. App. 2d 6, 7, 288 P.2d 138 ; Cohn v. Isensee (1920) 45 Cal. App. 509, 510-511, 188 P. 278

Appellate court has discretion to hear petition for writ following judgment on merits against petitioner in superior court if remedy of appeal would not afford adequate relief. Farley v. Healey (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 325, 326-327, 62 Cal. Rptr. 26, 431 P.2d 650 (issue related to upcoming election; appeal too slow)

Necessity to raise issue of res judicata; failure to raise issue deemed waiver of objection. Wolfsen v. Hathaway (1948) 32 Cal. 2d 632, 638, 198 P.2d 1 ; Vinot Enterprises, Inc. v. City of Pasadena (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 246, 251 n.1, 100 Cal. Rptr. 217

[9] Limitation and Laches

Period within which petition must be filed is period of limitation, not jurisdictional requirement; rules of limitation applied in ordinary civil actions and proceedings are applicable. Ginns v. Savage (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 520, 524, 39 Cal. Rptr. 377, 393 P.2d 689

Limitation period is prescribed by either Code Civ. Proc. § 338 (three years) or Code Civ. Proc. § 343 (four years) if not otherwise prescribed. Conti v. Board of Civil Service Commissioners (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 351, 357 n. 3, 82 Cal. Rptr.

337, 461 P.2d 617 Request to agency for preparation of record [Gov. Code § 11523] has statutory effect of extending period of limitation if addressed to official reporter. Moran v. Board of Medical Examiners (1948) 32 Cal. 2d 301, 305-307, 196 P.2d 20

In administrative mandate proceeding, respondent agency is estopped to assert statute of limitations for filing petition if its conduct caused petitioner to delay filing petition; some affirmative misleading conduct on agency's part is necessary to support finding of estoppel. Elliott v. Contractors' State License Bd. (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1048, 1053, 274 Cal. Rptr. 286

Failure of agency to respond to petitioner's inquiries concerning appeal of agency's decision is insufficient to estop agency from raising defense of statute of limitations on petitioner's late filing of administrative mandate petition when agency neither owed nor assumed duty to advise petitioner of his rights and therefore did not take unfair advantage of petitioner. Elliott v. Contractors' State License Bd. (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1048, 1053, 274 Cal. Rptr. 286

Ninety-day period for seeking judicial review of local agency decision (Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6(b)) does not commence to run until agency provides notice pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6(f). Cummings v. City of Vernon (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 919, 920, 263 Cal. Rptr. 97

Statute of limitations for writ of mandate under Gov. Code § 11523 is inapplicable when agency has not held formal hearing in compliance with Administrative Procedure Act. Ragan v. City of Hawthorne (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1361, 1365-1366, 261 Cal. Rptr. 219

Licensee whose untimely petition for writ of mandate to review revocation proceeding failed to survive demurrer based on Gov. Code § 11523 (30-day statute of limitations) is unable to attack revocation collaterally by later petition challenging conditions on license reinstatement; licensee's claim that underlying revocation hearing was unconstitutional is still barred by Gov. Code § 11523, whether or not order sustaining demurrer had res judicata or collateral estoppel effect. Miller v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 1371, 1376-1377, 238 Cal. Rptr. 915

Statute of limitations for writ of mandate under Gov. Code § 11523 applies to decision of local representative acting as delegate of board of administration of Public Employees' Retirement System (PERS). Garner v. City of Riverside (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 510, 515516, 216 Cal. Rptr. 486

Ninety-day filing period prescribed by Veh. Code § 14401 is strictly enforced statute of limitations precluding avoidance on grounds of good cause. Sinetos v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 1172, 1175-1176, 207 Cal. Rptr. 207

Time period within which mandamus petition must be filed is statute of limitations, and rules of law regarding limitations of actions are applicable to mandamus proceedings. Sinetos v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 1172, 1175, 207 Cal. Rptr. 207

Whether government agency's action is sufficiently culpable to estop it from asserting statute of limitations is dependent on whether agency acted in unconscionable manner or set out to take unfair advantage of plaintiff in advising plaintiff of his or her rights. Sinetos v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 1172, 1177, 207 Cal. Rptr. 207

Ninety-day statute of limitations of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6, providing time within which review by mandate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 may be sought, is not subject to extension of Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 when agency decision is served by mail. Tielsch v. City of Anaheim (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 570, 578-580, 206 Cal. Rptr. 740

Statute of limitations for writ of administrative mandate runs from time copy of agency's decision delivered or mailed to claimant; when copy of decision never sent to claimant, his attorney's examination of city's file on case constitutes constructive notice substantially equivalent to delivery of board's decision to claimant. Collier v. City of Pasadena (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 917, 935, 191 Cal. Rptr. 681

Ninety-day limitation period provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6 is retroactively applicable to petition for writ of administrative mandate brought by discharged county employee, when city adopted Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6 subsequent to discharge and hearing but notified plaintiff of 90-day limit within which to seek judicial review at time civil service commission adopted hearing officer's findings, thus affording plaintiff a reasonable time to exercise his remedy. Foster v. Civil Service Com. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 444, 451-452, 190 Cal. Rptr. 893

Thirty-day filing period prescribed by Gov. Code § 11523 is strictly enforced statute of limitations precluding avoidance on grounds of good cause, mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect. Kupka v. Board of Administration (1981) 122 Cal. App. 3d 791, 794-795, 176 Cal. Rptr. 214

Laches is available defense in appropriate case. Hadley v. Superior Court (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 389, 395, 105 Cal. Rptr. 500

Nature of laches defense. Conti v. Board of Civil Serv. Comm'rs (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 351, 356-362, 82 Cal. Rptr. 337, 461 P.2d 617 ; Vernon Fire Fighters Assn. v. City of Vernon (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 710, 719, 223 Cal. Rptr. 871 ; Pennel v. Pond Union School Dist. (1973) 29 Cal. App. 3d 832, 840, 105 Cal. Rptr. 817

[10] Questions Not Presented to Agency

Agency is without power to determine constitutionality of act creating it. Burrey v. Embarcadero Mun. Improvement Dist. (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 671, 676 n. 4, 97 Cal. Rptr. 203, 488 P.2d 395

Agency is without authority to determine validity of conviction on which discipline based. Thomas v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 335, 337-338, 90 Cal. Rptr. 586, 475 P.2d 858 ; Fitch v. Justice Court (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 492, 495, 101 Cal. Rptr. 227

Administrative remedies are generally not exhausted unless every question, factual and legal, is presented to agency. People v. West Publishing Co. (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 80, 88, 216 P.2d 441

Public hearings, rather than appeal from judgment in writ proceeding regarding environmental impact report, is proper forum to raise new environmental concerns. Save San Francisco Bay Ass'n v. San Francisco Bay Conservation Etc. Com. (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 908, 935, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 117

Petitioner is not entitled to raise question on review that was not presented to agency unless omission to present is excusable. Morris v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 1002, 1008, 110 Cal. Rptr. 630 ; Borror v. Department of Investment (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 531, 545, 92 Cal. Rptr. 525

[11] Judicial Review

[a] Right

Legislature's act in conferring on Supreme Court exclusive jurisdiction to review certain decisions by State Energy Resources Conservation and Development Commission (see Pub. Res. Code § 25531) is properly within Legislature's comprehensive powers over Public Utilities Commission matters under Cal. Const., art. XII, § 5; County of Sonoma v.

State Energy Resources Conservation etc. Com. (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 361, 367-371, 220 Cal. Rptr. 114, 708 P.2d 693

Review in appellate court is generally unavailable for policy reasons except in unusual case. Clean Air Constituency v. California State Air Resources Bd.(1974) 11 Cal. 3d 801, 808, 114 Cal. Rptr. 577, 523 P.2d 617 ; Cohen v. Superior Court (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 268, 270-271, 72 Cal. Rptr. 814 (explaining policy)

Person wronged, or threatened with being wronged, by action of administrative agency has judicial remedy, even if no statute prescribes remedy. Bodinson Mfg. Co. v. California Employment Comm'n (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 321, 325, 109 P.2d 935 ; Mojave River Irrigation Dist. v. Superior Court (1927) 202 Cal. 717, 729, 262 P. 724

Administrative decision is not appealable to any court in California; statute providing for such appeal actually provides for original proceeding for review. Collier & Wallis, Ltd. v. Astor (1937) 9 Cal. 2d 202, 204-205, 70 P.2d 171 ; Mojave River Irrigation Dist. v. Superior Court (1927) 202 Cal. 717, 724, 262 P. 724

Court is required to consider merits of administrative mandamus petition alleging that administrative agency's decision was not supported by substantial evidence, even though relief through traditional mandate, not administrative mandate, was proper remedy for petitioner under facts of petitioner's case. Coelho v. State Personnel Bd. (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 968, 970-971, 257 Cal. Rptr. 557

School district has standing under former Rev. & Tax. Code § 2253.5 (now see Gov. Code §§ 17500-17524) to seek judicial review of State Board of Control's denial of district's claim for reimbursement of costs of complying with statutes that created Cal. OSHA and allegedly mandated reimbursement because, notwithstanding board's prior denial of similar claim by another school district in which no judicial review had been sought, whether Cal. OSHA law mandates reimbursable costs is question of law for court to decide. Los Angeles Unified School Dist. v. State of California (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 686, 688-692, 245 Cal. Rptr. 140

Dismissal of public employee by redevelopment agency is subject to judicial review pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5. Jabola v. Pasadena Redevelopment Agency (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 931, 934-935, 178 Cal. Rptr. 452

[b] Scope

Administrative decision on facts other than those establishing agency's jurisdiction is subject to independent judgment review by court only where decision substantially affects vested fundamental right and agency is not empowered by Constitution to exercise quasi-judicial power. Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 44-45, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29 ; Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 144-147, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242

Technical errors are to be disregarded on judicial review. Schweiger v. Superior Court (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 507, 517, 90 Cal. Rptr. 729, 476 P.2d 97 ; Walsh v. Industrial Acci. Com. (1934) 1 Cal. 2d 747, 748, 36 P.2d 1072

Judicial review of internal agency matters is inappropriate in most cases. Nelson v. Dean (1946) 27 Cal. 2d 873, 881, 168 P.2d 16

Judicial review does not extend to question whether administrative decision was correct in sense of being wise, prudent, or good. Bodinson Mfg. Co. v. California Employment Comm'n (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 321, 331, 109 P.2d 935 ; McDonough v. Goodcell (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 741, 748, 91 P.2d 1035

Administrative decision on legal question is subject to independent judgment review by court. Bodinson Mfg. Co. v. California Employment Comm'n (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 321, 325-327, 109 P.2d 935

Administrative decision based on incorrect understanding of law is not erroneous for that reason if correct on any legal theory. Bank of Italy v. Johnson (1926) 200 Cal. 1, 28-29, 251 P. 784 ; Ward v. Flood (1874) 48 Cal. 36, 47

Judicial interference with agency's exercise of discretion is inappropriate in absence of evidence of fraud, corruption, improper motives or influences, plain disregard of duty, gross abuse of power, or violation of law. Doble Steam Motors Corp. v. Daugherty (1924) 195 Cal. 158, 166, 232 P. 140

Administrative decision on facts establishing agency's jurisdiction is subject to independent judgment review by court. Allen v. Railroad Comm'n (1918) 179 Cal. 68, 75, 175 P. 466 , cert. denied, 249 U.S. 601, 39 S. Ct. 259, 63 L. Ed. 797 (1919)

Standard of review for administrative regulation is rational basis test, not strict scrutiny, when regulation has only incidental effect on exercise of political rights. Oxnard Harbor Dist. v. Local Agency Formation Com. (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 259, 269, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 819

Remand to administrative agency is proper when errors in admission of evidence before agency existed or when original hearing before agency was conducted by unauthorized hearing officer; but remand is not proper when administrative agency errs in results reached at hearing. Newman v. State Personnel Bd. (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 41, 49, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 601

Scope of judicial review of legislative-type activity is limited to examination of record before agency decision makers to determine if their actions were arbitrary, capricious, or entirely lacking in evidentiary support. Morgan v. Community Redevelopment Agency (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 243, 258, 284 Cal. Rptr. 745

Concept of affirmance of trier of fact's conclusions if supported by substantial evidence is fortified in cases of review of administrative board's determinations because of board's presumed expertise. San Diego Adult Educators v. Public Employment Relations Bd. (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1124, 1130-1131, 273 Cal. Rptr. 53

Relationship of reviewing court to any agency such as Public Employment Relations Board (PERB), whose primary responsibility is to determine scope of statutory duty to bargain and resolve charges of unfair refusal to bargain, is generally one of deference. San Diego Adult Educators v. Public Employment Relations Bd. (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1124, 1131, 273 Cal. Rptr. 53

In terms of construction of law to be utilized by PERB, determinations made within agency's area of expertise are to be accorded deference, and determinations are to be accepted unless found to be clearly erroneous. San Diego Adult Educators v. Public Employment Relations Bd. (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1124, 1131, 273 Cal. Rptr. 53

When statewide agency is delegated quasi-judicial power by California Constitution, reviewing court is limited to determining whether there was substantial evidence supporting agency's decision; in making this determination, reviewing court is required to consider all relevant evidence in administrative record, including evidence that fairly detracts from evidence supporting agency's decision. Apte v. Regents of University of California (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1084, 1091, 1092, 244 Cal. Rptr. 312

Review of agency resolution of necessity in eminent domain proceeding is accomplished by traditional writ of mandate, not by writ of administrative mandamus; agency is not required to make findings. Anaheim Redevelopment Agency v Dusek (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 249, 258-261, 239 Cal. Rptr. 319

Writ of mandate is not properly issued to compel public administrative agency possessing discretionary power to act in particular manner. McClure v. County of San Diego (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 807, 812, 236 Cal. Rptr. 653

Trial court is authorized under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e) to receive evidence of events that transpired after administrative hearing; better practice is to remand action for agency redetermination in light of new evidence. Curtis v. Board of Retirement (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 293, 299, 223 Cal. Rptr. 123

Scope of judicial inquiry into quasi-legislative actions of state agency (decision of California State Air Resources Board on standards for sulfur dioxide emissions) is restricted to examination of record for procedural compliance and to determine whether action taken was arbitrary, capricious, or entirely lacking in evidentiary support; reasoning or wisdom underlying agency action is beyond scope of inquiry. Stauffer Chemical Co. v. Air Resources Board (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 789, 796, 180 Cal. Rptr. 550

Judicial review of administrative orders involves evaluation of whether or not agency acted within scope of authority, using fair procedures in reasonable action. California Mfr. Assn. v. Industrial Welfare Comm'n (1980) 109 Cal. App. 3d 95, 106, 167 Cal. Rptr. 203

Judicial review in both trial and appellate court is based on substantial evidence test when vested rights are not involved. City of Walnut Creek v. County of Contra Costa (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 1012, 1016, 1017, 162 Cal. Rptr. 224

Court is not permitted to usurp agency's legislative power during judicial review. Brock v. Superior Court (1952) 109 Cal. App. 2d 594, 603, 241 P.2d 283

[c] Proceedings

Judicial review by proceeding for traditional writ of mandate is available in appropriate case (e.g., failure to perform statutory duty, act of ministerial nature). California v. Superior Court, State of (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 247, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281 ; Sail'er Inn, Inc. v. Kirby (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 1, 7, 22, 95 Cal. Rptr. 329, 485 P.2d 529 ; People ex rel. Fund American Companies v. California Ins. Co. (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 423, 431, 117 Cal. Rptr. 623

Damages are not recoverable in administrative mandate proceeding governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; California v. Superior Court, State of (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 245-246, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281

Court is empowered to regard complaint for declaratory judgment as petition for writ of mandate governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 (administrative mandate) if it contains all necessary allegations. Gilles v. Department of Human Resources Development (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 313, 321, 329, 113 Cal. Rptr. 374, 521 P.2d 110 ; Hostetter v. Alderson (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 499, 500, 241 P.2d 230

Judicial review by proceeding for writ of certiorari is unavailable where agency not empowered by Constitution to exercise judicial functions. Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 42-43, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29 ; Standard Oil Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1936) 6 Cal. 2d 557, 559-565, 59 P.2d 119

Agencies and employees are generally immune under Tort Claims Act (Gov. Code §§ 810-996.6) from liability for damages based on discretionary acts, including licensing activities in particular. Selby Realty Co. v. City of San Buenaventura (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 110, 127, 109 Cal. Rptr. 799, 514 P.2d 111 ; O'Hagan v. Board of Zoning Adjustment (1973) 38 Cal. App. 3d 722, 728, 730, 113 Cal. Rptr. 501 ; Burns v. City Council (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 999, 1004-1005, 107 Cal. Rptr. 787

Rules respecting injunction against enforcement of statute are applicable also to enforcement of ordinance.

Crittenden v. Superior Court (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 565, 569, 39 Cal. Rptr. 380, 393 P.2d 692 ; Mock v. Santa Rosa (1899) 126 Cal. 330, 342-343, 58 P. 826

Collateral attack on judgment of California court is not to be based on any evidence other than judicial record. Johnson v. Hayes Cal Builders, Inc. (1963) 60 Cal. 2d 572, 576, 35 Cal. Rptr. 618, 387 P.2d 394

Administrative decision is subject to collateral attack in same way as judgment. Aylward v. State Board etc. Examiners (1948) 31 Cal. 2d 833, 839, 192 P.2d 929 ; Forbes v. Hyde (1866) 31 Cal. 342, 347 (judgment void for lack of jurisdiction as subject to collateral attack wherever and whenever it is invoked) Court lacks power to give relief having effect of enjoining agency from enforcing statute. Modern Barber Col. v. Cal. Emp. Stab. Com. (1948) 31 Cal. 2d 720, 723, 192 P.2d 916 (writ of mandate)

Judicial review by proceeding for writ of habeas corpus is available in appropriate case. Loustalot v. Superior Court (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 905, 910, 186 P.2d 673

Action for declaratory judgment is proper in appropriate case. California Physicians' Serv. v. Garrison (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 790, 800-801, 172 P.2d 4 ; Lord v. Garland (1946) 27 Cal. 2d 840, 851-852, 168 P.2d 5 ; Sandelin v. Collins (1934) 1 Cal. 2d 147, 150-151, 157, 33 P.2d 1009

Administrative attempt to enforce valid statute in unconstitutional manner is subject to injunction. Brock v. Superior Court (1939) 12 Cal. 2d 605, 610, 86 P.2d 805

Judicial review by proceeding for writ of prohibition is unavailable where agency not empowered by Constitution to exercise judicial functions. Whitten v. California State Board, etc. (1937) 8 Cal. 2d 444, 445-446, 65 P.2d 1296

Court lacks power to enjoin agency from enforcing statute. Moore v. Superior Court (1936) 6 Cal. 2d 421, 424, 57 P.2d 1314

Invalid enactment is not a statute; administrative attempt to enforce invalid enactment as subject to injunction. Reclamation Dist. v. Superior Court (1916) 171 Cal. 672, 676, 154 P. 845 ; Wheeler v. Herbert (1908) 152 Cal. 224, 228, 92 P. 353

§ 474.50 Determine Availability of and Procedure for Judicial Review

- ☐ Ascertain if the prerequisites exist for seeking a writ of mandate [see § 474.13]:
  - ☐ Is the potential petitioner beneficially interested [see § 474.13[1]]?
  - ☐ Is there a lack of adequate remedy at law [see § 474.13[2]]?
  - ☐ Have administrative remedies been:
    - ☐ Exhausted [see § 474.13[3]]; or
    - ☐ Excused [see § 474.13[4]].
- ☐ Consider defenses that the agency could raise to a mandate proceeding [see § 474.14]:
  - ☐ Statute of limitations [see § 474.14[1]].
  - ☐ Laches [see § 474.14[2][a]].
  - ☐ Unclean hands [see § 474.14[2][b]].
- ☐ Determine proper type of judicial review to pursue [see § 474.10[3]]:
  - ☐ Ordinary mandate, for quasi-legislative actions [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1085; for discussion, see §

474.11].

☐ Administrative mandate, for quasi-judicial actions [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; for discussion, see § 474.12].

☐ Identify any additional statute or statutes governing review of agency's decision:

☐ Administrative Procedure Act [see Gov. Code 11410.10 et seq.; for discussion, see Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication, § 473.15].

☐ Local agency subject to Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6 [see § 474.12[3][b]].

☐ Agency governed by particular constitutional provisions or statutes specific to that agency [see § 474.23].

☐ Consider other possibly applicable types of relief:

☐ Writ of prohibition (to restrain acts in excess of jurisdiction) [see § 474.20].

☐ Writ of certiorari (to prevent enforcement of acts in excess of jurisdiction [see § 474.20].

☐ Action for injunctive relief (to restrain threatened administrative action or enforcement of administrative decision) [see § 474.22].

☐ Action for declaratory relief (to obtain judicial determination of validity of administrative regulation) [see § 474.21].

§ 474A.10 Claim Must Be Ripe for Adjudication

[1] Nature of Ripeness Requirement

The requirement of ripeness is essentially a requirement of an actual existing controversy that has reached a stage at which adjudication is appropriate. Ripeness requires that the issues of a case be concrete and specific enough for a court to render a definite judgment upon them, and that there would be hardship to the parties seeking review if the court did not decide them [Pacific Legal Foundation v. California Coastal Com. (1982) 33 Cal. 3d 158, 171, 188 Cal. Rptr. 104, 655 P.2d 306 ; Urban Habitat Program v. City of Pleasanton (2008) 164 Cal. App. 4th 1561, 1580-1581, 80 Cal. Rptr. 3d 300 (challenge by nonprofit corporation and low income plaintiff to alleged failure of city to adopt low income housing plan was ripe for judicial review even though city had not taken action on any specific permit); Teachers' Retirement Board v. Genest (2007) 154 Cal. App. 4th 1012, 1040-1041, 65 Cal. Rptr. 3d 326 (declaratory relief action challenging legality of legislative diversion of $500 million in funds allocated to teachers' retirement system was ripe for adjudication because budget reduction was completed at time of declaratory relief lawsuit); Santa Teresa Citizen Action Group v. City of San Jose (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 689, 708-709, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 868 (nuisance claim was not ripe for judicial review at this time because the harm alleged was speculative and indefinite); Hayward Area Planning Association v. Alameda County Transportation Authority, (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 95, 102-105, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 744 (dispute over legality of highway route alignment that differed from route proposed when tax revenue measure was approved by voters held to be ripe for judicial resolution even though agency had not completed final approval of project)]. Similarly, a dispute is not ripe for purposes of declaratory relief before the agency has exercised its discretion and decided whether to issue a building permit to the building owner seeking declaratory relief [Martin v. City and County of San Francisco (2005) 135 Cal. App. 4th 392, 407, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 470 (challenge to applicability of California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) review process and to discretion of local government body based on local ordinance conferring discretion on agency to grant or deny remodeling permits to interior remodeling of private home that was historic landmark)]. In mandate proceedings, the requirement has a number of different aspects.

For example the California Court of Appeal held that a landowner's regulatory takings claim was ripe for judicial review under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 (administrative mandamus) when the county agency made it very clear in denying a subdivision permit that the homeowner could not build a second single family home on his six acre property. In these circumstances, the homeowner was not required to apply for a permit to build that second family home for his dispute to be ripe for adjudication [Dunn v. County of Santa Barbara (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 1281, 1299-1301, 38 Cal. Rptr. 3d 316] .

In PG&E Corp. v. Public Utilities Comm'n (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 1174, 1194-1196, 13 Cal. Rptr. 3d 630 , the California Court of Appeal followed the two part test originally applied to ripeness questions by the U.S. Supreme Court in the case of Abbott Laboratories v. Gardner (1967) 387 U.S. 136, 148-149, 87 S. Ct. 1507, 18 L. Ed. 2d 681 , and incorporated into California law the case of Pacific Legal Foundation v. California Coastal Comm'n (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 158, 171, 188 Cal. Rptr. 104, 655 P. 2d 306 . The test identified two ripeness questions: 1) the fitness of the issues for judicial decisions; and 2) the hardship to the parties of withholding court consideration. The Court of Appeal held that a PUC interim interpretation of a priority condition (relating to utility holding companies maintaining debt to equity and capital expenditure ratios in the utilities plant and equipment) was not ripe for review because the PUC has not applied its interpretation to a concrete set of facts (thereby failing to satisfy the fitness criteria), and therefore the utility holding companies have not suffered any concrete negative consequences from the interpretation (thereby failing to satisfy the hardship criteria) [PG & E Corp. v. Public Utilities Com. (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 1174, 1217-1219, 13 Cal. Rptr. 3d 630] .

When the petitioner seeks to compel the performance of a ministerial duty [see Ch. 474B, Standards in Reviewing Agency Decisions , for discussion of ministerial actions], the action is ripe for adjudication only if:

- The duty is a present one, that is, one that an administrative official or entity is obligated to perform at the time the proceeding is commenced [see [2][a], below]; and

- The administrative official or entity has actually refused to perform the duty [see [2][b], below].

When the petitioner seeks judicial review of an adjudicative act or decision, the action is ripe for adjudication only if:

- The act or decision has a direct and immediate effect on the petitioner [see [3][a], below]; and

- The action or decision is final [see [3][b], below].

[2] Ripeness Requirement in Proceeding to Compel Performance of Ministerial Duty

[a] Duty Must Be a Present One

Usually, a writ of mandate is issued to compel an administrative official or body to perform a ministerial act only when the petitioner shows that the official or body had a present duty to perform the act--that is, the administrative entity had a duty to perform the act at the time the mandate proceeding was commenced [Communist Party v. Peek (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 536, 540, 127 P.2d 889 ; McGinnis v. Mayor and Common Council (1908) 153 Cal. 711, 715, 96 P. 367 ; Northridge etc. Water Dist. v. McDonell (1958) 158 Cal. App. 2d 123, 127-128, 322 P.2d 25 ; for discussion of what constitutes a ministerial act, see Ch. 474B, Standards in Reviewing Agency Decisions]. In general, mandate does not lie to compel the performance of future acts [Communist Party v. Peek (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 536, 540, 127 P.2d 889 ; Diller v. Flynn (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 449, 453, 38 Cal. Rptr. 229] . To avoid multiple proceedings or to prevent a proceeding from becoming moot before it can be decided, however, the present duty requirement is sometimes relaxed if the conduct or declarations of the administrative entity make it clear that it does not intend to perform the act when the time for performance arrives [Young v. Gnoss (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 18, 21 n. 4, 101 Cal. Rptr. 533, 496 P.2d 445 (proceeding to compel registrar to register petitioner as voter commenced prior to close of registration period); King v. Martin (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 791, 795-796, 98 Cal. Rptr. 711 (writ compelling director of Department of Social Welfare to render fair hearing decisions within 60-day period fixed by law issued as to administrative proceedings in which period had not expired when mandate proceeding was commenced); Imperial Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Caminetti

(1943) 59 Cal. App. 2d 494, 497-498, 139 P.2d 693 (writ issued to compel insurance commissioner to renew license for fiscal year beginning after commence ment of mandate proceeding when propriety of commissioner's failure to renew for preceding fiscal year was also before the court)].

When the duty of an administrative official or body is conditional, the petitioner must show the occurrence of the required conditions [see Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Rolph (1920) 184 Cal. 557, 559, 194 P. 1005 ; Lima v. Woodruff (1930) 107 Cal. App. 285, 287, 290 P. 480 ; Nelson v. Anderson Etc. Irr. Dist. (1921) 51 Cal. App. 92, 98-99, 196 P. 292] . Ordinarily, a showing is required that the petitioner has made a demand for performance of the duty at issue [Nelson v. Anderson Etc. Irr. Dist. (1921) 51 Cal. App. 92, 98, 196 P. 292 ; see also Jensen v. McCullough (1928) 94 Cal. App. 382, 388-389, 271 P. 568] . A demand is not required, however, when the petitioner can show either of the following:

- The duty is one that affects the public at large and its performance will confer no immediate benefit on the petitioner [Jensen v. McCullough (1928) 94 Cal. App. 382, 388-389, 271 P. 568 ; Thoits v. Byxbee (1917) 34 Cal. App. 226, 235-236, 167 P. 166] .

- A demand would have been futile [Briare v. Matthews (1927) 202 Cal. 1, 8-9, 258 P. 939 ; Bank of America v. Cory (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 66, 84, 210 Cal. Rptr. 351] .

[b] Administrative Entity Must Actually Refuse to Perform

Mandate lies only when there has been an actual refusal, not an anticipated refusal, of an administrative entity to perform a ministerial duty [Regents of University of California v. State Bd. of Equalization (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 660, 669, 140 Cal. Rptr. 857 ; Northridge etc. Water Dist. v. McDonell (1958) 158 Cal. App. 2d 123, 127-128, 322 P.2d 25 ; George v. Beaty (1927) 85 Cal. App. 525, 531, 260 P. 386] . The writ does not issue against an administrative officer or body willing to comply with a prescribed legal duty [Sutro Heights Land Co. v. Merced Irr. Dist. (1931) 211 Cal. 670, 704, 296 P. 1088 ; McMullen v. Glenn-Colusa Irr. Dist. (1936) 17 Cal. App. 2d 696, 700-701, 62 P.2d 1083 ; George v. Beaty (1927) 85 Cal. App. 525, 529, 260 P. 386 ; but see King v. Martin (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 791, 796, 98 Cal. Rptr. 711 (claimed inability to comply due to budgetary restrictions no defense)]. The petitioner is not required, however, to show an express refusal of the officer or body to act; any conduct signifying an unequivocal intention not to act is sufficient [Palmer v. Fox (1953) 118 Cal. App. 2d 453, 456, 258 P.2d 30] .

[3] Ripeness Requirement in Proceeding to Review Adjudicative Decision or Order

[a] Order or Decision Must Have Direct and Immediate Effect on Petitioner

Unless review of administrative regulations is authorized by law [see Ch. 472B, Review of Agency Rulemaking], the courts only review an administrative body's adjudication or determination of a factual or legal question when the decision is the basis for an order or decision that directly and immediately affects a specific person or entity [Western Surgical Supply Co. v. Affleck (1952) 110 Cal. App. 2d 388, 391, 242 P.2d 929 ; see also Teed v. State Board of Equalization (1936) 12 Cal. App. 2d 162, 163-164, 55 P.2d 267] . Mandate is not available to review adoption of a policy that requires a particular legal or factual issue to be resolved in a specific way [Western Surgical Supply Co. v. Affleck (1952) 110 Cal. App. 2d 388, 391, 242 P.2d 929 (mandamus not available to review regulations and orders of State Pharmacy Board interpreting law to require supervision of certain activities by licensed pharmacist absent showing that they had been enforced against petitioner); see also Teed v. State Board of Equalization (1936) 12 Cal. App. 2d 162, 163-164, 55 P.2d 267 (SBE's policy of considering certain activities as taxable not reviewable in extraordinary writ proceeding in absence of showing it had been directly applied to petitioner)].

[b] Necessity of Final Order or Decision

[i] Requirement of Finality

An adjudicative order or decision can be reviewed in a mandate proceeding only if it has become final [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a); see Peter R. Gadd, Inc. v. Workman (1927) 200 Cal. 384, 388-389, 253 P. 700 ; Bleeck v. State Board of Optometry (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 415, 432, 95 Cal. Rptr. 860 ; see also Prip v. City of Santa Barbara (1963) 214 Cal. App. 2d 626, 630-631, 29 Cal. Rptr. 558] .

In most cases, the statutes that govern judicial review of an administrative action or decision expressly or by necessary implication provide when the action or decision becomes final for the purpose of judicial reviews [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6(b) (certain decisions of local agencies adopting provisions of § 1094.6); Gov. Code § 11523 (decisions of statewide agencies subject to the APA); Labor Code § 1160.8 (orders of Agricultural Labor Relations Board); Unemp. Ins. Code § 410 (decision of Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board); Veh. Code § 14401(a) (order refusing, canceling, suspending, or revoking driver's license)].

A State Personnel Board decision that revoked the termination of plaintiff employee by defendant agency employer was final for purposes of plaintiff's filing a writ of mandate petition seeking reinstatement and back pay against defendant agency. The decision was final for appeal purposes even though not final for enforcement purposes because SPB did not have the authority to rehear or reconsider the decision to revoke termination of plaintiff after adopting the decision of an ALJ upon rehearing [Gov. Code § 18710; Lomeli v. Department of Corrections (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 788, 797-798, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 179] . The petition was not premature because plaintiff filed within the one-year time period [Gov. Code § 19630] within which defendant agency could have filed its own petition for a writ of mandate challenging the SPB decision [Lomeli v. Department of Corrections (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 788, 796-797, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 179] . Code Civ. Proc §§ 1049, 1109, and 1110, which govern civil actions and provide that a judgment is not final until appeals have been completed, or the time for appeal has ended, do not apply to administrative hearings and govern only civil actions [Lomeli v. Department of Corrections (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 788, 796-797, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 179] .

Note that the date on which an administrative order or decision becomes final and the date on which the applicable limitation period begins to run are not necessarily the same [see, e.g., Cummings v. City of Vernon (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 919, 922-924, 263 Cal. Rptr. 97 (90-day limitation period of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6 does not run from date of final decision, but from date of notice of decision), discussed in § 474A.20[3]]. For example, a decision is final when issued in final form by the agency, and an aggrieved party could seek judicial review of that decision at that time. However, the 90-day statute of limitations that commences upon the giving of notice under Code of Civ. Proc. § 1094.6(f) is tolled until the notice is given by the agency. Nonetheless, an aggrieved party does not have an unlimited time period to seek judicial review; the doctrine of laches applies to the timeliness of the parties' efforts to obtain judicial review [El Dorado Palm Springs Ltd. v. Rent Review Com. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 335, 346, 281 Cal. Rptr. 327] .

For a discussion of the commencement of limitation periods, see § 474A.20[3]. For a discussion of the closely related requirement that a petitioner must exhaust available administrative remedies, see §§ 474A.11 and 474A.12.

[ii] Finality of Decision of State Agency Subject to APA

Gov. Code § 11523 provides that a petition to obtain review of a decision of a statewide agency subject to the California Administrative Procedure Act (APA) [Gov. Code § 11340 et seq.] "shall be filed within 30 days after the last day on which reconsideration can be ordered." By necessary implication, therefore, a decision governed by the APA becomes final on the expiration of the time for ordering reconsideration. The time for ordering reconsideration expires as follows [Gov. Code § 11521(a)]:

- Thirty days after the delivery or mailing of a decision to the petitioner;
- If the agency establishes a date within that 30-day period as the effective date of the decision, on the effective date; or

- If the agency establishes the date on which a stay that does not exceed 30 days terminates as the effective date, on the effective date.

[iii] Finality of Decision of Local Agency Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6

Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6(b) sets forth rules for determining the finality of certain decisions of local agencies.

Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6 applies to decisions subject to review in administrative mandate proceedings suspending, demoting, or dismissing an officer or employee; revoking or denying an application for a permit, license, or other entitlement; or denying an application for a retirement benefit or allowance. Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6 applies to local agencies, as defined in Gov. Code § 54951, other than school districts. Gov. Code § 54951, defines a local agency is "a county, city, whether general law or chartered, city and county, town, school district, municipal corporation, district, political subdivision, or any board, commission, or agency thereof, or other local public agency."

Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6, the following rules apply:

- When no provision exists for reconsideration of the decision, or for a written decision or written findings supporting the decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6(b)], in any applicable statute, regulation, or rule, the decision or order is final on the date it is announced.

- When a provision exists for reconsideration, but reconsideration is not sought, the decision or order is final on the expiration of the period for seeking reconsideration.

- When a provision for reconsideration exists and reconsideration is sought, the decision or order is final on the date that reconsideration is rejected.

- When there is a provision for a written decision or written findings, the decision is final upon the date it is mailed by first-class mail, postage prepaid, including a copy of the affidavit or certificate of mailing, to the party seeking the writ, and Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a) does not apply to extend the time for filing the petition [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6(b)].

In making a final decision under Section 1094.6, a local agency must provide notice to the party that the time for seeking judicial review is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6 [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6(f)]. For the purpose of this notice requirement, a "party" is an officer or employee who has been suspended, demoted, or dismissed; a person whose license or permit has been revoked or suspended; a person whose application for a license or permit has been denied; or a person whose application for a retirement benefit or allowance has been denied [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6(f)].

A court of appeal has held that this scheme is not as simple as it appears to be. In Cummings v. City of Vernon (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 919, 263 Cal. Rptr. 97 , the court held that a local agency's decision is not final for the purpose of determining the limitation period until the notice of decision required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6(f) has been given. This means that the 90-day period for filing a petition for review under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6 runs from the date of notice, not the date of decision [Cummings v. City of Vernon (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 919, 922-924, 263 Cal. Rptr. 97] . However, another court distinguished between finality of agency decisions and timing of the 90-day notice period [see El Dorado Palm Springs, Ltd. v. Rent Review Com. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 335, 346, 281 Cal. Rptr. 327] . Under this view, a decision is final when issued in final form by the agency, and an aggrieved party may seek judicial review of the decision at that time. However, the 90-day statute of limitation that commences on the giving of notice under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6(f) is tolled until the notice is given by the agency. This view does not give an aggrieved party an unlimited time period to seek judicial review should the agency fail to give the 1094.6(f) notice; the doctrine of laches applies to the timeliness of the parties' efforts to obtain judicial review [El Dorado Palm Springs, Ltd. v. Rent Review Com. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 335, 346, 281 Cal. Rptr. 327] .

[iv] Finality of Decision Absent Controlling Statute

In the absence of controlling statutes, the question of when an administrative order or decision becomes final must be determined under California decisional law [O.W.L. Foundation v. City of Rohnert Park (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 568, 584-585, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1 (city adoption of water supply assessment was final agency action for judicial review even though EIR was not adopted at time of challenge to water supply assessment such that dispute was ripe for judicial review under Code of Civil Procedure Section 1085 (ordinary mandate); California Water Impact Network v. Newhall County Water Dist (2008) 161 Cal. App. 4th 1464, 1471, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 393 (water district adoption of water supply assessment was not final agency action until EIR has been adopted under CEQA requirements)]. California decisions have not yet directly addressed the question of when an administrative order or decision is final for the purposes being ripe for judicial review. Under decisions in other contexts, however, the finality of an administrative order or decision is determined by ascertaining the legislative intent of the statute under which the administrative entity is empowered to act. An order or decision is ordinarily deemed to be final under its statute when the entity loses jurisdiction to reconsider the order or decision and reach a different conclusions [Lindell Co. v. Board of Permit Appeals (1943) 23 Cal. 2d 303, 323, 144 P.2d 4 ; In re Fain (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 376, 390, 135 Cal. Rptr. 543 ; McDonald's Systems of California, Inc. v. Board of Permit Appeals (1975) 44 Cal. App. 3d 525, 543-544, 119 Cal. Rptr. 26] .

§ 474A.11 Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies Required

[1] Jurisdictional Nature of Exhaustion Requirement

Before seeking judicial review of an administrative action or decision, a petitioner must fully use and exhaust all available administrative remedies [In re Dexter (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 921, 925, 160 Cal. Rptr. 118, 603 P.2d 35 ; Sheet Metal Workers International Association, Local Union No. 104 v. Rea (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 1071, 1074-1075, 1080-1081, 63 Cal. Rptr. 3d 672 (labor union mandamus and declaratory relief action challenging prevailing wage law decision of director of department of industrial relations was barred by union's failure to exhaust administrative remedies in that union failed to file petition with director under Labor Code § 1773 within 20 days of advertising call for bids to seek agency review of the prevailing wage determination); Richards v. Dep't of Alcoholic Beverage Control (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 304, 309, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 782 (restaurant owner's failure to apply for transfer of license or for original license when he purchased restaurant was a failure to exhaust administrative remedies that precludes his lawsuit challenging the department's revocation of an alcoholic beverage license issued to the prior owner); American Alliance Ins. Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d 601, 609, 184 Cal. Rptr. 674 ; Doyle v. Chino, City of (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 673, 681, 172 Cal. Rptr. 844] . Compliance with this basic requirement is a prerequisite to the right to seek review of the action or decision in proceedings for ordinary mandate [see Horack v. Franchise Tax Board (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 363, 368, 95 Cal. Rptr. 717] and administrative mandate [Ralph's Chrysler-Plymouth v. New Car Dealers Policy & Appeals Bd. (1973) 8 Cal. 3d 792, 794, 106 Cal. Rptr. 169, 505 P.2d 1009 ; Temescal Water Co. v. Dept. of Public Works (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 90, 106, 280 P.2d 1] .

The purpose of this requirement is as follows:

- Lighten the burden of overworked courts when effective administrative remedies are available [Duffy v. State Bd. of Equalization (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 1156, 1163, 199 Cal. Rptr. 886 ; Bozaich v. State of California (1973) 32 Cal. App. 3d 688, 698, 108 Cal. Rptr. 392] .

- Give administrative tribunals an opportunity to exercise judgment and discretion on matters within their area of expertise without prior judicial interference [San Bernardino Valley Audubon Society, Inc.

v. County of San Bernardino (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 738, 748, 202 Cal. Rptr. 423 ; Associated Cal. Loggers, Inc. v. Kinder (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 34, 43, 144 Cal. Rptr. 786] .

- Promote judicial efficiency by facilitating development of a complete record that draws on administrative expertise [Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 476, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410 ; Karlin v. Zalta (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 953, 980, 201 Cal. Rptr. 379] .

The exhaustion requirement is a judicially created rule [Abelleira v. District Court of Appeal (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 280, 292, 109 P.2d 942 ; Karlin v. Zalta (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 953, 979, 201 Cal. Rptr. 379] . This rule has been characterized as flexible, and is subject to a number of judicially created exceptions [County of Contra Costa v. State of California (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 62, 73, 222 Cal. Rptr. 750 ; Karlin v. Zalta (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 953, 979-980, 201 Cal. Rptr. 379 . Exceptions to the rule are discussed in § 474A.12, below]. Application of the rule, however, is not a matter committed to the discretion of the court; unless a recognized exception to the rule is established, the court does not have subject matter jurisdiction over a proceeding initiated by a petitioner who has failed to exhaust available administrative remedies [Abelleira v. District Court of Appeal (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 280, 293, 109 P.2d 942 ; County of Contra Costa v. State of California (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 62, 73, 222 Cal. Rptr. 750 ; Wilkinson v. Norcal Mutual Ins. Co. (1979) 98 Cal. App. 3d 307, 318, 159 Cal. Rptr. 416] .

A significant consequence of classification of the requirement as a jurisdictional rule is that it cannot be waived by stipulation or consent of an adverse party [Noonan v. Green (1969) 276 Cal. App. 2d 25, 31, 80 Cal. Rptr. 513 ; Buchwald v. Superior Court (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 347, 359-360, 62 Cal. Rptr. 364] , or by a party's failure to raise the issue [People v. Coit Ranch, Inc. (1962) 204 Cal. App. 2d 52, 57, 21 Cal. Rptr. 875 ; see also Hittle v. Santa Barbara County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 374, 384, 216 Cal. Rptr. 733, 703 P.2d 73] . A failure to comply with the rule cannot be cured. Once a failure to exhaust administrative remedies is established, the court must order the matter dismissed; the court may not abate the judicial proceeding pending completion of administrative proceedings [Miller v. United Airlines, Inc. (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 878, 890, 220 Cal. Rptr. 684 ; Wilkinson v. Norcal Mutual Ins. Co. (1979) 98 Cal. App. 3d 307, 318, 159 Cal. Rptr. 416] .

Note that in the more recent case of Green v. City of Oceanside (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 212, 239 Cal. Rptr. 470 , an appellate court disagreed with the interpretation of Abelleira v. District Court of Appeal (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 280, 109 P.2d 942 , the seminal case on which the above analysis was based [Green v. City of Oceanside (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 212, 220-223, 239 Cal. Rptr. 470] . The court in Green held that the exhaustion doctrine is merely a procedural rule that can be waived, and thus, that the exhaustion of administrative remedies is not a necessary prerequisite to the court's subject matter jurisdiction [Green v. City of Oceanside (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 212, 222-223, 239 Cal. Rptr. 470] . The Fourth District, Division 3 California Court of Appeal held that the exhaustion of administrative remedies defense was waived by the county in a retaliatory termination lawsuit brought by a former employee of the county because the county failed to assert the defense in the proceeding before the superior court. The court of appeal rejected the jurisdiction rationale, and held that exhaustion of administrative remedies is a judicially created rule of procedure that can be waived on appeal if not asserted before the superior court [Mokler v. County of Orange (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 121, 133-135, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 568]. In Doster v. County of San Diego (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 257, 260, 251 Cal. Rptr. 507 , the court said that exhaustion of administrative remedies is a fundamental rule of procedure, but it is not a condition of jurisdiction. This case, however, fell within the recognized exception allowed when exhaustion would be futile. For discussion of the futility exception, see § 474A.12[2]. Contractor association's judicial challenge to Department of Industrial Relations's decision to rescind prevailing wage determination was not barred by exhaustion of administrative remedies [California Slurry Seal Association v. Department of Industrial Relations (2002) 98 Cal. App. 4th 651, 661-662, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 38] .

Exhaustion of administrative remedies requirements were satisfied under Fair Employment and Housing Act statute [Gov. Code § 12960(b)] when DFEH complaint was verified by attorney for employee who brought complaint not employee himself [Blum v. Superior Court (2006) 141 Cal. App. 4th 418, 428-429, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 902] . A parolee that filed a habeas corpus petition in court to challenge a parole condition exhausted administrative remedies by filing administrative appeal with Department of Adult Parole Operations, notwithstanding that Department failed to decide appeal [In re Hudson, (2006) 143 Cal. App. 4th 1, 7-8, 49 Cal. Rptr. 3d 74] . A citizens group that challenged a city's certification of a final environmental impact report by petitioning for a writ of mandate satisfied exhaustion of administrative remedies requirements by having group leaders or legal counsel attend, participate, and object to the approval of the environmental impact report at all planning commission and city council meetings that discussed the development project for which the environmental review was conducted. The citizens group was not required to file an appeal of the planning commission recommendation to trigger city council review of the planning commission decision [Citizens for Open Government v. City of Lodi (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 865, 876-878, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 636] . An environmental group that challenged a county's certification of a final environmental impact report (FEIR) and approval of a mining project was held to have exhausted administrative remedies by sufficiently raising issues about the inadequacy of the FEIR at the county decision making level, as well as at the superior court level, and the group was not required to have raised before the county exactly the same issue as the superior court based its decision on to overturn the certification by the county. The group was not required to be as specific in raising issues from an administrative hearing [Western Placer Citizens for an Agricultural & Rural Environment v. County of Placer (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 890, 897-899, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 799].

Issue exhaustion requirements were satisfied and the baseline issue was adequately raised before the agency when another party (Caltrans) raised the issue in a comment letter. Therefore, exhaustion of administrative remedies requirements were satisfied, and the party challenging the agency decision for lack of compliance with CEQA requirements can raise this issue on judicial review [Woodward Park Homeowners Association v. City of Fresno (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 683, 711-713, 58 Cal. Rptr. 3d 102] .

[a] Effect of Statutory Provisions

Previously, the Supreme Court held that a petitioner was required to exhaust an administrative remedy made available by statute, even when the statutory language provided that use of the remedy was permissive rather than mandatory [Alexander v. State Personnel Bd. (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 198, 200, 137 P.2d 433] . In Alexander, the Court applied this rule specifically in the context of administrative rehearings. The rule in Alexander was, however, subsequently overruled [Sierra Club v. San Joaquin LAFCO (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 489, 510, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 702, 981 P.2d 543] . In Sierra Club, the Court held that, when a statute specifies that reconsideration or rehearing of an adverse decision of an agency may be sought by an affected party, reconsideration is not necessarily required prior to seeking judicial review. It is not necessary to seek reconsideration or rehearing in order to raise for a second time the same evidence and legal arguments previously presented to the agency, solely to exhaust administrative remedies. The general rule requiring exhaustion of remedies remains valid, however: an agency must be given an opportunity to reach a reasoned and final conclusion on all issues over which it has jurisdiction before those issues are raised in a judicial forum. Thus, a request for reconsideration or rehearing remains a necessary prerequisite to judicial review when there is new evidence, changed circumstances, or new legal arguments which the agency did not have the opportunity to consider in original administrative proceeding [Sierra Club v. San Joaquin LAFCO (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 489, 493-494, 510, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 702, 981 P.2d 543] . Moreover, statutory hearings rights must be requested even if the language of the statutory right to a hearing is permissive, or judicial review is precluded by failure to exhaust administrative remedies. For example, a motorist's failure to request a hearing within 10 days to challenge a driver's license suspension under the provisions of Veh. Code § 13558, constitutes a failure to exhaust administrative remedies that precludes judicial review of the suspension decision by the DMV [Marquez v. Gourley (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 710, 712-714, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 784 ; In re Darlene T (2008) 163 Cal. App. 4th 929, 938-940, 78 Cal. Rptr. 3d 119 (failure to challenge denial of benefits by seeking an administrative hearing under Welf. & Inst. Code § 10950 is a failure to exhaust required administrative remedies)].

The California Supreme Court affirmed the dismissal of a lawsuit brought against the Regents of the University of California by a former employee who had been terminated. The employee challenged the termination, claiming that it was retaliatory in violation of Gov. Code § 12653 and Labor Code § 1102.5, which provide protection for so called "whistle blowers," that is employees who disclose wrongdoing by their employers and are fired from employment as a result. The court held that the former employee's lawsuit was barred because the employee failed to exhaust administrative remedies before filing her lawsuit. Specifically, the court held that the former employee failed to exhaust required university internal administrative remedies (filing a grievance under UCSF's policies and procedures for reporting improper governmental activities) before filing her lawsuit [Campbell v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 311, 317-318, 25 Cal. Rptr. 3d 320, 106 P.3d 976] .

The California Court of Appeal held that a state university employee who filed an action for damages for retaliation under the California Whistleblower Protection Act [Gov. Code § 8547.12] was required to exhaust administrative and judicial remedies before filing a civil lawsuit. The employee had failed to file a petition for a writ of administrative mandamus to challenge the action of the university in retaliating against him, and was required to seek mandamus relief before bringing the civil lawsuit. The Court of Appeal ordered a remand of the matter to the trial court to give the employee the opportunity to amend the complaint to add a petition for a writ of mandate [Ohton v. Board of Trustees of the California State University (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 749, 769-771, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 111] .

The Court of Appeal held that in a dispute between two local government entities related to payment for mental health services provided to handicapped students under federal law [20 U.S.C. § 1400 et seq.], that the two entities had failed to exhaust administrative remedies related to unfunded state mandates [Gov. Code § 17581], and to administrative remedies provided under Cal. Code Regs. tit. 5, §§ 4600-4670. Thus, the two local entities could not properly file a lawsuit in court to obtain judicial enforcement of one of those agencies responsibilities to fund mental health service for handicapped students under federal law [Tri-County Special Educ. Local Plan Area v. County of Tuolumne (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 563, 569, 574, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 884] .

The California Court of Appeal held that former employees of a private employer had to comply with notice and exhaustion requirements of Labor Code § 2699.3(a) before filing civil law suits for civil penalties under Labor Code § 2698, but that those employees claims for unpaid wages, and for statutory penalties paid to the employee, could be brought to court in a civil lawsuit without the employees having to comply with the same notice and exhaustion requirements [Caliber Bodyworks, Inc. v. Superior Court (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 365, 371-372, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 31] .

A petitioner is similarly not required to pursue an administrative remedy when a statute does one of the following:

- Grants the court concurrent primary jurisdiction over the type of controversy involved [see, e.g., Scripps etc. Hospital v. Cal. Emp. Com. (1944) 24 Cal. 2d 669, 673-674, 151 P.2d 109 ; California School Employees Assn. v. Travis Unified School Dist. (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 242, 249-250, 202 Cal. Rptr. 699 ; Muir v. Steinberg (1961) 197 Cal. App. 2d 264, 269, 17 Cal. Rptr. 431 ; for discussion of concurrent primary jurisdiction, see § 474A.12[3]].

- Expressly provides that exhaustion of the remedy is not a prerequisite to seeking judicial relief [see, e.g., Gov. Code § 11523 (failure to seek reconsideration of decision made under the APA [Gov. Code § 11340 et seq.] not a bar to mandate proceeding), Gov. Code § 19588 (failure to petition State Personnel Board for rehearing not a bar to mandate proceeding or civil action); Elec. Code § 17 (administrative complaint procedures established by Secretary of State's office under federal law [42 U.S.C. 15512] do not have to be exhausted before pursuing other state or federal remedies)].

A plaintiff filing a court lawsuit to enforce civil remedies that are part of a state anti-discrimination statute is not required to exhaust all administrative remedies when there are two such remedies. Exhaustion of one of the two remedies is sufficient. Plaintiff former employee's lawsuit against the City of Los Angeles asserting FEHA claims of employment discrimination due to physical disability was not barred by the Plaintiff's failure to exhaust internal grievance remedies provided under the Los Angeles city charter. Plaintiff had exhausted FEHA administrative remedies by obtaining a "right to sue" letter from the DFEH, and that was sufficient. Plaintiff was not required to exhaust both sets of administrative remedies as a precondition to filing his FEHA lawsuit in court. The court's rationale for the holding included reasons: 1) FEHA preemption of local government laws, 2) public employees have the same rights under FEHA as private employees, and 3) public employees have a choice between pursuing the internal grievance remedies provided by their governmental employer, or choosing the FEHA remedies, with a right to sue letter, and a civil lawsuit [Schifando v. City of Los Angeles (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 1074, 1081-1090, 6 Cal. Rptr. 3d 457, 79 P.3d 569 ; Ahmadi-Kashani v. The Regents of the University of California (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 449, 459-461, 71 Cal. Rptr. 3d 556 (citing the Schifando case, the court of appeal held that employee claiming sexual harassment and filing claim under FEHA statute was not required to complete internal grievance procedures that did not provide a quasi-judicial hearing but merely provided for an informal opportunity to discuss grievance. The grievance procedure was not an administrative remedy that had to be exhausted before the employee could proceed to litigate her FEHA claim in the court system)].

Plaintiff former employee filed civil lawsuit against former employer asserting FEHA claim. Plaintiff had previously filed administrative complaint with DFEH. DFEH issued a right to sue letter to plaintiff, but later rescinded right to sue letter to provide opportunity for further resolution of claim. DFEH proposed a resolution of claim which was not accepted. Plaintiff then filed lawsuit without obtaining a second right to sue letter. Defendant asserted failure to exhaust administrative remedies as grounds for granting JNOV motion following substantial jury verdict in plaintiff's favor. The Court of Appeal held that "under Gov. Code § 12965 employee's right to sue arose by operation of law when the DEFEH failed to resolve the matter within one year from the time she filed her administrative complaint." Obtaining a second right to sue letter is not required to exhaust administrative remedies in this case [Grant v. Comp USA, Inc (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 637, 640, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 177] .

[b] All Individual Claims, Contentions, and Objections Must Be Raised Before Administrative Body

An essential aspect of the exhaustion requirement is that before its actions are subjected to judicial review, an administrative entity should be given the opportunity to consider and respond to the articulated contentions of interested parties [Coalition for Student Action v. City of Fullerton (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 1194, 1198, 200 Cal. Rptr. 855 ; see also Sierra Club v. San Joaquin LAFCO (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 489, 510, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 702, 981 P.2d 543] . Accordingly, all of a party's claims, contentions, and objections must be presented at the administrative level; the court is precluded from considering those that are not [Friends of Lagoon Valley v. City of Vacaville (2007) 154 Cal. App. 4th 807, 831-832, 65 Cal. Rptr. 3d 251 (exhaustion doctrine precludes raising issues on judicial review that were not raised in administrative proceeding; challenger could not litigate density bonus issue because that issue was not presented to the city in the administrative proceeding); Central Delta Water Agency v. State Water Resources Control Bd (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 245, 250, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 898 (challengers of adequacy of environmental impact report (EIR) prepared by State Water Board as part of approval process for water appropriation project waived the right to challenge adequacy of EIR on grounds that there was a failure to describe feasible mitigation measures because parties did not exhaust administrative remedies by failing to present this same argument to the public agency preparing the EIR during the public hearing or the public comment period as required by Pub. Res. Code § 21177(a)); Hobson v. Raychem Corporation (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 614, 630-632, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 497 (exhaustion of administrative remedies requirement not satisfied when an employee failed to file an administrative charge specifically identifying the alleged discrimination that provided the basis for the later lawsuit); Pegues v. Civil Service Com. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 95, 103-104, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 705 ; NBS Imaging Systems, Inc. v. State Bd of Control (1997) 60 Cal. App. 4th 328, 336-337, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 237 ; Coalition for Student Action v. City of Fullerton (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 1194, 1197, 200 Cal. Rptr. 855 ; City of Walnut Creek v. County of Contra Costa (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 1012, 1019-1020, 162 Cal. Rptr. 224] . However, the exhaustion requirement is met when the allegations in a civil lawsuit are similar to or reasonably related to the charges presented to the agency [Soldinger v. Northwest Airlines, Inc. (1996) 51 Cal. App. 4th 345, 381-383, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 747 (discrimination charges brought by plaintiff employee before DFEH agency that were later the basis of a civil lawsuit); Mani Brothers Real Estate Group v. City of Los Angeles (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 1385, 1395-1396, 64 Cal. Rptr. 3d 79 (challengers to modified downtown development project adequately raised objections to use of 2005 addendum at city council meetings and council committee meetings such that exhaustion of administrative remedies requirements were satisfied)]. This rule includes not only factual contentions and issues, but all of the following:

- Individual claims [People v. West Publishing Co. (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 80, 92, 216 P.2d 441 (counterclaim asserting right to offsets against tax liability); Coalition for Student Action v. City of Fullerton (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 1194, 1197 , 153 Cal. App. 3d 1194, 200 Cal. Rptr. 855 (claim that city's approval of construction plans was in violation of California Environmental Quality Act)].

- Defenses [Bohn v. Watson (1954) 130 Cal. App. 2d 24, 37, 278 P.2d 454 (statute of limitations defense to disciplinary proceeding)].

- Legal issues and contentions [People v. West Publishing Co. (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 80, 87-88, 216 P.2d 441 (contention that California Use Tax could not be imposed on mail order sales); NBS Imaging Systems, Inc. v. State Bd. of Control (1997) 60 Cal. App. 4th 328, 337, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 237 ; City of Walnut Creek v. County of Contra Costa (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 1012, 1019-1020, 162 Cal. Rptr. 224 (contention that density of approved project exceeded that allowed by general plan)].

- Procedural objections [Butte View Farms v. Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 961, 971, 157 Cal. Rptr. 476 (judicial review of administrative officer's revocation of subpoena precluded by petitioner's failure to file exception in administrative hearing); Housing Development Co. v. Hoschler (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 379, 390, 149 Cal. Rptr. 400 (petitioner precluded from asserting that administrative proceeding should have been stayed when it failed to make explicit request for stay)].

- All party defendants in FEHA cases [Medix Ambulance Service, Inc. v. Superior Court (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 109, 117-118, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 249 (Plaintiff in FEHA litigation could not sue a party defendant who was not named in the administrative complaint filed with DFEH)].

- Default judgments must be set aside [Gonzalez v. Beck (2007) 158 Cal. App. 4th 598, 605-607, 69 Cal. Rptr. 3d 843 (employer required by Labor Code Section 98(f) to move to set aside administrative award before Labor Commissioner prior to seeking judicial review form default in administrative proceeding)].

However, a party challenging the order of a regional water quality control board is not required to request a hearing before that regional board under Water Code § 13330(b) so long as that party so long as that party petitions the state water quality control board for review under the provisions of Water Code § 13320(a) [Schutte & Koerting, Inc. v. Regional Water Quality Control Board, San Diego Region (2007) 158 Cal. App. 4th 1373, 1385-1387, 71 Cal. Rptr. 3d 54].

As an exception, however, a claim that a statute under which an administrative proceeding is being conducted is unconstitutional on its face need not be raised before an administrative body of legislative origin because it does not have the power to determine the constitutionality of statutes [Cal. Const., art. III, § 3.5; State of California v. Superior Court, (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 251, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281 ; Hand v. Board of Examiners (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 605, 617-620, 136 Cal. Rptr. 187] . For discussion of this exception and its scope, see § 474A.12[5].

Before a taxpayer can file a lawsuit for a refund, the taxpayer has to exhaust administrative remedies by bringing a claim for a refund to the State Board of Equalization. The refund claim is required to specify the grounds for a refund, and lawsuits against the Board must be based on those grounds. However, a litigant may present a contention in a lawsuit even though the refund claim did not expressly raise that same contention if the contention is intertwined with contentions that were expressly raised in the refund claim. Unstated contentions that are clearly implied from expressly stated contentions in the refund claim can be brought consistent with exhaustion requirements. A litigant sufficiently raised the issue of reliance on federal copyright law in her refund claim when she referred to the "right of reproduction" and otherwise implicitly alleged a nontaxable copyright transfer. Thus, she could assert these contentions in her lawsuit against the Board [Preston v. State Board of Equalization (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 197, 206-208, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 407, 19 P.3d 1148] .

Plaintiff former employee's common law wrongful termination claim against the University of California was properly the subject of a summary judgment motion granted in favor of the university because plaintiff failed to exhaust internal university grievance procedures available to employees. Plaintiff was required to complete internal grievance procedures before filing her wrongful discharge lawsuit [Palmer v. Regents of the University of California (2003) 107 Cal. App. 4th 899, 903-905, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 567] . The California Court of Appeal held that a citizens group failed to raise certain issues during the public comment period for an environmental impact report (EIR), and therefore that group failed to meet issue exhaustion requirements for exhaustion of administrative remedies. However, the citizens group raised other issues in the EIR public comment period, and those issues could be raised in a court challenge to the adequacy of the EIR as issue exhaustion requirements were met, but not the issues that were not raised in the EIR public comment period [Gilroy Citizens for Responsible Planning v. City of Gilroy (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 911, 919-921, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 102] .

[c] Class Actions

The exhaustion requirement applies to class actions and operates to bar a class action when the contentions made on behalf of the class have not been presented in an appropriate administrative proceeding [Karlin v. Zalta (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 953, 985-986, 201 Cal. Rptr. 379 (failure to challenge premium rates in administrative proceedings precludes class action seeking recovery of excess medical malpractice insurance premiums); Mountain View Chamber of Commerce v. City of Mountain View (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 82, 96, 143 Cal. Rptr. 441 (class action challenging validity of ordinance regulating commercial signs precluded when named plaintiffs failed to apply for variances); Morton v. Superior Court (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 977, 983-984, 88 Cal. Rptr. 533 (class action seeking to compel city to pay overtime for certain activities of police officers precluded when petitioners failed to use grievance procedure)]. If the named plaintiffs or petitioners have not personally initiated or participated in administrative proceedings, however, they may be able to satisfy the exhaustion requirement by showing that the contentions they are making have been presented in an appropriate administrative forum by other members of the class [Friends of Mammoth v. Board of Supervisors (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 247, 267-268, 104 Cal. Rptr. 761, 502 P.2d 1049 (exhaustion requirement satisfied when class members other than named petitioners challenged decision to grant use permit in administrative proceedings); Tarkington v. California Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 1494, 1508-1510, 92 Cal. Rptr. 3d 131 (so long as some class members exhausted administrative remedies before filing class action lawsuit, other class members who did not exhaust administrative remedies were not excluded from class member status by their failure to exhaust administrative remedies); see also Harrison v. Board of Supervisors (1975) 44 Cal. App. 3d 852, 859-861, 118 Cal. Rptr. 828 (exhaustion requirement satisfied despite named plaintiffs' failure to appear or produce evidence at administrative hearing on validity of special assessment when Board knew of their contentions by numerous written protests and oral presentations of other class members)]. When some class members have adequately raised common factual or legal issues justifying relief in administrative proceedings, the relief granted by the court may run to other class members who failed to use or exhaust their individual administrative remedies [Harrison v. Board of Supervisors (1975) 44 Cal. App. 3d 852, 859-861, 118 Cal. Rptr. 828 (when Board adequately apprised of grounds on which special assessment declared invalid by appeals filed by other property owners, assessment invalidated as to those property owners who failed to use administrative procedure to object to assessment or who failed to raise contentions ultimately upheld by court)].

[3] What Constitutes Exhaustion of Administrative Remedy

[a] Completed Proceedings With Final Decision on Merits

The exhaustion requirement is not satisfied merely by the institution of administrative proceedings; the petitioner must pursue all available administrative proceedings to completion and receive a final decision on the merits [McHugh v. County of Santa Cruz (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 533, 538-539, 109 Cal. Rptr. 149 ; Thomas v. Shewry (2009) 170 Cal. App. 4th 1480, 1485-1486, 89 Cal. Rptr. 3d 105 (podiatrist failed to timely file administrative appeals of reenrollment application and audit obligations. Podiatrist sought writ of mandamus to overturn denial of reenrollment application and audit obligations; writ denied because of failure to exhaust administrative remedies); Chase Bank v. City and County of San Francisco (174 Cal. App. 4th 1201, 1209-1211, 94 Cal. Rptr. 3d 906 (bank failed to timely file a tax refund claim with city assessment appeals board; bank's lawsuit for a refund of taxes paid was precluded by bank's failure to exhaust administrative remedies for failure to file a timely refund claim); Fiscus v. Dept. Alcoholic Bev. Control (1957) 155 Cal. App. 2d 234, 236, 317 P.2d 993] . When applicable statutes and regulations allow the petitioner to appeal an initial administrative decision to another administrative body or officer, the petitioner must do so [see, e.g., Lynn v. Duckel (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 845, 849-850, 299 P.2d 236 ; Vernons & Vernons, Ltd. v. County of Los Angeles (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 943, 945-946, 171 Cal. Rptr. 785 ; Grant v. Superior Court (1978) 80 Cal. App. 3d 606, 609, 145 Cal. Rptr. 699] .

However, the California Supreme Court held that a state employee pursuing a whistleblower retaliation complaint under Gov. Code § 8547.8 against agency officials where the state employee worked was only required to pursue a complaint with the State Personnel Board under Gov. Code § 19683. The employee was not required to request a hearing before an ALJ working for the State Personnel Board (SPB), nor was the employee required to seek judicial review under administrative mandamus before filing a civil action for damages based on whistleblower retaliation. The employee was only required to receive the findings of the executive officer of the SPB based on review of the complaint. The employee was not required to exhaust administrative or judicial remedies to challenge those findings before filing a civil lawsuit. Furthermore, the executive officer's findings (which were adverse to the employee) were not binding on the employee as a matter of issue preclusion because the executive officer's findings were not a final judgment following an administrative hearing [State Board of Chiropractic Examiners v. Superior Court (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 963, 968, 973, 89 Cal. Rptr. 3d 576, 201 P.3d 457] . Furthermore, the Second District Division 3 California Court of Appeal held that a former county employee who filed a whistleblower retaliation complaint against his former employer did not have to exhaust either an internal administrative remedy or the remedy provided by Labor Code § 98.7 (filing a complaint with the Labor Commissioner) before filing his lawsuit in superior court [Lloyd v. County of Los Angeles (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 320, 323-324, 90 Cal. Rptr. 3d 872] .

When, however, an applicable statute or regulation provides that a petitioner may seek reconsideration or rehearing of an adverse decision of an agency, such reconsideration is not always a prerequisite to seeking judicial review. It is not necessary to seek reconsideration or rehearing in order to raise for a second time the same evidence and legal arguments previously presented to the agency, solely to exhaust administrative remedies [Sierra Club v. San Joaquin LAFCO (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 489, 510, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 702, 981 P.2d 543 (overruling a contrary decision in Alexander v. State Personnel Board (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 198, 200, 137 P.2d 433)]. The general rule requiring exhaustion of remedies remains valid, however: in the sense an agency must be given an opportunity to reach a reasoned and final conclusion on all issues over which it has jurisdiction before those issues are raised in a judicial forum. Thus, a request for reconsideration or rehearing remains a necessary prerequisite to judicial review when there is new evidence, changed circumstances, or new legal arguments which the agency did not have the opportunity to consider in original administrative proceeding [Sierra Club v. San Joaquin LAFCO (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 489, 493-494, 510, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 702, 981 P.2d 543] .

This is consistent with Gov. Code § 11523, which provides that a failure to seek reconsideration under of an agency decision governed by the APA does not affect the right to seek judicial review by mandate [see also, e.g., Gov. Code §

19588 (failure to seek rehearing before State Personnel Board shall not affect right to petition for mandate)].

State civil service employees who brought employment discrimination claims under the California Fair Employment and Housing Act [Gov. Code § 12900] had the choice of whether to exhaust administrative remedies with the State Personnel Board (Board), or of exhausting administrative remedies by filing a claim with the Department of Fair Employment and Housing (DFEH). Employees filed a claim with DFEH, and received a right to sue letter. Employees were held to have exhausted administrative remedies requirements by filing claim with DFEH, and were not required to also pursue administrative remedies with Board [Ruiz v. California Department of Corrections (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 891, 896-898, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 139] . Thus, in this case context, completing all administrative proceedings means completing one of the two available options, but not both. Similarly, an employee of the Housing Authority of the City of Los Angeles (HACLA) who was terminated from employment had the choice of pursuing the internal administrative remedies provided by HACLA, or pursuing the FEHA administrative remedy, before filing a civil lawsuit alleging disability discrimination in violation of the FEHA statute [Williams v. Housing Auth. of City of Los Angeles (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 708, 720-721, 17 Cal. Rptr. 3d 374] . Furthermore, that employee is not required to exhaust administrative remedies to bring a FEHA-related non-statutory claim (wrongful termination based on public policy) when an agency decision on the FEHA-related claim could have preclusive effect on the FEHA statutory claim [Williams v. Housing Auth. of City of Los Angeles (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 708, 727-728, 17 Cal. Rptr. 3d 374] . The First District, Division 5, California Court of Appeal held that a former employee of a community college district did not have to exhaust administrative remedies that included an internal grievance procedure before challenging his demotion and termination based on claims of discrimination under the Fair Employment and Housing Act (FEHA). Exhaustion was not required because the internal grievance procedures were established by collective bargaining agreement, not by statute, and arbitration not judicial review by mandamus was the enforcement and review mechanism. Also, the employee did not have to exhaust administrative remedies for his non statutory claims [Ortega v. Contra Costa Community College District (2007) 156 Cal. App. 4th 1073, 1080-1084, 67 Cal. Rptr. 3d 832].

Exhaustion of administrative remedies requirements for an employee to bring employment discrimination claims against the county employer requires that the employee obtain a right to sue letter from the EEOC as a prerequisite to filing a lawsuit bringing Title VII claims against the county. It is not sufficient for the employee plaintiff to have obtained a right to sue letter from the State Department of Fair Employment and Housing to file a lawsuit that includes Title VII claims [Roman v. County of Los Angeles (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 316, 325-326, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 13] . Before a litigant can bring a lawsuit to challenge an assessment under the Citrus Pest Control District Law [Food & Agric. Code § 8401 et seq.], the litigant must exhaust administrative remedies by challenging the pest control district's budget for the assessment year. This would allow the district to respond to the merits of the objections and to modify the budget based on those objections [Wallich's Ranch Co. v. Kern County Citrus Pest Control Dist. (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 878, 883-885, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 875 ; People ex. rel. Lockyer v. Sun Pacific Farming Co. (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 619, 641-642, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 115] .

Prisoners must exhaust administrative remedies before seeking judicial relief. A prisoner who sued the Department of Corrections for medical malpractice, and failure to furnish medical care, failed to complete the prison administrative review process before filing his lawsuit. As a result, his court claim was barred by failure to exhaust administrative remedies. The court noted a number of policies furthered by the exhaustion requirements including "bolstering administrative autonomy, mitigating damages, giving agencies the opportunity to make factual findings, encouraging settlement, filtering out frivolous claims, fostering better prepared litigation, and promoting judicial economy" [Wright v. State (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 659, 666-667, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 92] . Prison administrative remedies must be exhausted even though the prisoner could not recover damages except by going to court. Substantial compliance is not enough. The prisoner must complete all three levels of prison administrative review of his grievances [Wright v. State (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 659, 667-668, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 92] .

The Third District California Court of Appeal held that an employee's discrimination lawsuit against the employer was not barred by failure to exhaust administrative remedies because the court recognized that the employee's failure to file a timely complaint with the Department of Fair Employment and Housing was equitably excused. Circumstance justifying equitable excuse included facts that the employee relied on the DFEH representative's assurances that he would meet the required deadline, the employee was diligent in pursuing the administrative complaint, the employee raised the timeliness issue with the DFEH, and he was only slightly late in filing the agency complaint [Holland v. Union Pacific Railroad Company (2007) 154 Cal. App. 4th 940, 946-948, 65 Cal. Rptr. 3d 145] .

[b] Full Presentation of Issues at All Stages

The exhaustion doctrine requires that a litigant make a full presentation to the administrative entity on all issues at all prescribed stages of the administrative proceedings [Edgren v. Regents of University of California (1984) 158 Cal. App. 3d 515, 520, 205 Cal. Rptr. 6 ; Bleeck v. State Board of Optometry (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 415, 432, 95 Cal. Rptr. 860] . Thus, even a litigant who has initiated appropriate administrative proceedings is barred from seeking judicial relief when he or she has failed to participate at some subsequent stage of the proceedings [Edgren v. Regents of University of California (1984) 158 Cal. App. 3d 515, 520, 205 Cal. Rptr. 6 (after initiating grievance proceedings, plaintiff withdrew from hearing and declined to participate further); Doyle v. Chino, City of (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 673, 681, 172 Cal. Rptr. 844 (after filing administrative appeal, petitioner refused to attend hearing); Rudolph v. Fulton (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 339, 341-343, 2 Cal. Rptr. 807 (after plaintiff's administrative appeal from decision upholding disciplinary action resulted in order remanding case for further hearing, plaintiff withdrew from administrative proceedings)]. However, an appealing party was held to have satisfied the exhaustion requirement, even though it had not been a formal party to the administrative proceeding, when its business partner did exhaust administrative remedies before the agency as to issues that the appealing party raised on appeal [CAT Partnership v. County of Santa Cruz (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1071, 1080-1081, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 652] .

The issue exhaustion requirement avoids unnecessary litigation, provides a more complete record for judicial review, and ensures that agency expertise is utilized. Citizens who participate in city redevelopment hearings are not held to the same high standard as are lawyers in specific proceedings, but citizens have to be specific enough in raising issues before the city so that the city has the opportunity to respond to that issue prior to judicial review. A response that is too general will not satisfy the issue exhaustion requirement [Evans v. City of San Jose (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 1123, 1137-1138, 27 Cal. Rptr. 3d 675].

Issue exhaustion requirements also compel the plaintiff to raise issues at successive stages of the administrative process to preserve those issues for later judicial review. Thus, a litigant who raises an issue before the first administrative agency that can consider the issue, but who fails to raise that same issue in an administrative appeal to an administrative agency that has final decision making authority has not satisfied issue exhaustion requirements, and cannot raise that same issue on judicial review [Tahoe Vista Concerned Citizens v. County of Placer (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 577, 589-590, 96 Cal. Rptr. 2d 880] .

Issue exhaustion requirements also require a litigant to assert issues before the superior court in a mandate proceeding challenging agency action as a precondition to raising those same issues on appeal. This issue is technically exhaustion of judicial remedies, and issue exhaustion applies even though the issue raised is a legal question, not a factual question, i.e., the unconstitutionality of a fine on grounds of excessiveness [Fair Political Practices Commission v. Californians Against Corruption (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 269, 282-284, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 659 (defendants were precluded challenging fine on grounds of unconstitutional excessiveness because defendants had failed to assert this issue in mandate proceeding agency decision to impose fine)]. The failure of a party to raise a due process issue before the ALJ meant that this issue could not be brought on appeal; the party waived the right to raise the claim that the agency failure to follow APA procedures violated due process of law [Niles Freeman Equipment v. Joseph (2008) 161 Cal. App. 4th 765, 787-788, 74 Cal. Rptr. 3d 690].

Judicial review is also precluded when a litigant has merely objected to some proposed action or decision without articulating any specific factual or legal contentions [Coalition for Student Action v. City of Fullerton (1984) 153 Cal.

App. 3d 1194, 1197, 200 Cal. Rptr. 855 (objections to proposed project on general environmental grounds insufficient to exhaust administrative remedies for violations of California Environmental Quality Act); Barnes v. State Bd. of Equalization (1981) 118 Cal. App. 3d 994, 1001-1002, 173 Cal. Rptr. 742 (plaintiff who failed to present factual documentation in support of tax refund claim did not exhaust administrative remedies)]. Thus, a litigant must ordinarily present a specific factual or legal issue for decision at the administrative level to preserve that issue for subsequent judicial review [Coalition for Student Action v. City of Fullerton (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 1194, 1197, 200 Cal. Rptr. 855 ; Barnes v. State Bd. of Equalization (1981) 118 Cal. App. 3d 994, 1001-1002, 173 Cal. Rptr. 742] . The California Court of Appeal held that a local citizens group had satisfied exhaustion of administrative remedies requirements by raising objections to the project approval no later than the close of the public hearing on the project approval as required by the CEQA statute Pub. Res. Code § 21177(a), (b) [Bakersfield Citizens for Local Control v. City of Bakersfield (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 1184, 1199-1200, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 203] . In another case, the Fifth District California Court of Appeal held that a local citizens group that challenged the approval by a city of a subdivision development failed to exhaust administrative remedies as to issues related to CEQA violations under state CEQA guidelines [§ 15152(g)], and also as to issues related to General Plan consistency. The citizens group did not raise these issues before the city council and therefore the city council did not have an opportunity to consider these issues. Because they failed to raise these issues before the city council, the challengers could not raise these issues on judicial review [Porterville Citizens for Responsible Hillside Development v. City of Porterville (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 885, 909-911, 69 Cal. Rptr. 3d 105]. In another case, the Second District, Division 4, California Court of Appeal held that an employers' group that challenged an assessment for unemployment insurance contributions failed to exhaust administrative remedies because it failed to complete the administrative proceeding it started by filing the petition for reassessment [American Employers Group, Inc. v. Employment Development Department (2007) 154 Cal. App. 4th 836, 843-845, 65 Cal. Rptr. 3d 233]. On the other hand, because parties to an administrative proceeding are usually not represented by counsel, less specificity is needed to preserve an issue for review in an administrative proceeding than in a judicial proceeding [East Peninsula Ed. Council, Inc. v. Palos Verdes Peninsula Unified School Dist. (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 155, 176-177, 258 Cal. Rptr. 147 ; Citizens Assn. for Sensible Development of Bishop Area v. County of Inyo (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 151, 163, 217 Cal. Rptr. 893 ; see also Graham v. Bryant (1954) 123 Cal. App. 2d 66, 70, 266 P.2d 44] .

A citizens group that challenged a town's granting of a permit for a development project satisfied exhaustion of administrative remedies requirements because a member of that group, which was formed after the town approved the project, presented objections to the development project during the public comment period mandated by the California Environmental Quality Act [Pub. Res. Code § 21177(c)]. The citizens group's verified petition for writ of mandate identified several members of the group who had presented objections to the project during the comment stage, and that was sufficient to show exhaustion of administrative remedies [Maintain Our Desert Env't v. Town of Apple Valley (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 430, 437-439, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 322] .

§ 474A.12 Exceptions to Rule: When Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies Not Required

[1] Administrative Remedy Unavailable or Inadequate

[a] Nature of Exception

Under one of the most frequently invoked exceptions to the exhaustion doctrine, exhaustion is not required when the remedy is unavailable or inadequate [Tiernan v. Trustees of Cal. State University & Colleges (1982) 33 Cal. 3d 211, 217, 188 Cal. Rptr. 115, 655 P.2d 317 ; Ramos v. County of Madera (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 685, 691, 94 Cal. Rptr. 421, 484 P.2d 93 ; Endangered Habitats League, Inc. v. State Water Resources Control Board (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 227, 237-238, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 388 ; Diaz v. Quitoriano (1969) 268 Cal. App. 2d 807, 812, 74 Cal. Rptr. 358] . This exception does not apply, however, when an administrative remedy has been lost as a result of a petitioner's failure to assert it in a timely manner, or as a result of some other neglect on the part of petitioner [Roth v. City of Los Angeles (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 679, 686-687, 126 Cal. Rptr. 163] .

A physician was not excused from completing a hospital peer review process before filing a tort lawsuit and seeking damages in the Superior Court because the hospital failed to start the hearing within the required 60-day time period. Failure to start on time does not make an administrative remedy inadequate or unavailable. Further, the physician was required to raise the issue of hearing officer bias before the hearing officer first [Kaiser Foundation Hospitals v. Sacramento Superior Court (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 85, 91, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 744] .

The California Court of Appeal held that a group of physicians that challenged the refusal of the hospital at which they worked to order a consolidated hearing rather then hold eight individual hearings failed to exhaust administrative remedies because there was an available internal hospital remedy available (appeal of the JRC decision to the hospital board) to challenge the refusal to consolidate the hearing. The California Court of Appeal held that the failure to exhaust administrative remedies required reversal of the petition granting a writ of mandate requiring the consolidation of the hearings [Eight Unnamed Physicians v. Medical Executive Committee Of Medical Staff of Washington Township Hospital (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 503, 512-513, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 100] .

Another California Court of Appeal that an unsuccessful bidder for a state contract failed to exhaust administrative remedies required to challenge the award of the contract to another bidder [Imagistics International, Inc. v. Department of General Services (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 581, 584, 59 Cal. Rptr.3d 18] . The protestor challenged the adequacy of the administrative remedies by claiming that the protest arbitration process violated due process of law because the protest coordinator and the Office of Administrative Hearings were too closely aligned with the Department of General Services. The protestor claimed that it violated due process of law to have a small body of OAH hearing officers hear bid protests because DGS is a repeat player in bid protests administrative proceedings. The Court of Appeal rejected this argument and found that due process of law was not violated in these circumstances. Thus, the bid protestor was required to pursue the administrative remedy specified in these circumstances, protest arbitration [Imagistics International, Inc. v. Department of General Services (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 581, 591-592, 59 Cal. Rptr.3d 18] .

[b] Administrative Body Cannot Grant Relief Sought

An administrative remedy is generally considered unavailable or inadequate when the administrative body cannot grant the relief sought by the petitioner [Tiernan v. Trustees of Cal. State University & Colleges (1982) 33 Cal. 3d 211, 217, 188 Cal. Rptr. 115, 655 P.2d 317 ; Pasillas v. Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 312, 358-359, 202 Cal.Rptr. 739] . Thus, a petitioner is not ordinarily required to pursue proceedings before an administrative body in any of the following circumstances:

- It is only authorized to render advisory opinions [Pearson Candy Co. v. Waits (1946) 27 Cal. 2d 615, 619, 165 P.2d 674 ; James v. Marinship Corp. (1944) 25 Cal. 2d 721, 744-745, 155 P.2d 329 ; Pasillas v. Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 312, 358-359, 202 Cal. Rptr. 739] .

- It is not empowered to grant the type of relief sought by the petitioner [see Ramos v. County of Madera (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 685, 691, 94 Cal. Rptr. 421, 484 P.2d 93 (plaintiffs seeking tort damages for injuries sustained doing work that was illegally made a condition of welfare assistance were not required to challenge validity of condition in administrative appeal of decision terminating welfare grant); Salimi v. State Compensation Insurance Fund (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 216, 221-222, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 640 (employer who sued worker's compensation insurer for bad faith and breach of contract did not have to exhaust WCAB and Department of Insurance administrative remedies before bringing civil action); Miller v. Superior Court (1996) 50 Cal. App. 4th 1665, 1676, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 584 (auto dealer that sued auto manufacturer seeking damages for fraud related to auto allocation was not required to exhaust administrative remedies with New Motor Vehicle Board before bringing common law fraud claim); Lance Camper Manufacturing Corp. v. Republic Indemnity Co. (1996) 44 Cal. App. 4th 194, 199-201, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 622 (employer suing worker's compensation insurer for breach of contract and bad faith was not required to seek relief from insurance commissioner); Daniels v. Shasta-Tehama-Trinity J. Community College Dist. (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 909, 927, 260 Cal. Rptr. 867 (teachers challenging layoffs were not required to assert rehire rights against employees not on the seniority list and not yet hired); Shernoff v. Superior Court (1975) 44 Cal. App. 3d 406, 409, 118 Cal. Rptr. 680 (plaintiffs seeking damages for illegal fixing of insurance rates were not required to seek relief from insurance commissioner when commissioner was empowered only to make order enjoining future illegal conduct); California State Employees' Assn. v. Williams (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 390, 394-395, 86 Cal. Rptr. 305 (plaintiffs challenging legality of state contracts with private entities were not required to request hearing before State Personnel Board when Board was empowered only to investigate and remedy violations of law in connection with appointments to civil service positions); Bernstein v. Smutz (1947) 83 Cal. App. 2d 108, 114-115, 188 P.2d 48 (petitioner seeking writ to compel granting of variance not required to apply to city zoning administrator for variance when administrator was not empowered to grant variance under applicable ordinance)].

- It has no discretion, under the circumstances of the particular case, to grant the relief sought by the petitioner [see Tiernan v. Trustees of Cal. State University & Colleges (1982) 188 Cal. Rptr. 115, 655 P.2d 317 (temporary employee challenging University's failure to adopt regulations requiring notice of non-reappointment was not required to institute grievance proceeding when grievance committee had no discretion to recommend change in university rules or policies); Vogulkin v. State Board of Education (1961) 194 Cal. App. 2d 424, 434-435, 15 Cal. Rptr. 335 (petitioner whose teaching credential was revoked for conviction of sex offense was not required to appeal to State Board when statute mandating revocation gave State Board no discretion to reinstate license)].

- The agency's governing statute does not provide a forum for resolving disputes relating to the claim asserted [Hightower v. Farmers Ins. Exchange (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 853, 860-861] .

Accordingly, a litigant seeking damages is generally not required to pursue proceedings before an administrative body that is not empowered to grant monetary relief [see, e.g., Ramos v. County of Madera (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 685, 691, 94 Cal. Rptr. 421, 484 P.2d 93 ; Lance Camper Manufacturing Corp. v. Republic Indemnity Co. (1996) 44 Cal. App. 4th 194, 199-201, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 622 ; Lachman v. Cabrillo Pacific University (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 941, 945-946, 177 Cal. Rptr. 21 ; Shernoff v. Superior Court (1975) 44 Cal. App. 3d 406, 409, 118 Cal. Rptr. 680] . The exhaustion doctrine may apply to bar a damage claim, however, if an administrative remedy will either

- Enable the litigant to avoid or mitigate damages [Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 476, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410 ; Wilkinson v. Norcal Mutual Ins. Co. (1979) 98 Cal. App. 3d 307, 317, 159 Cal. Rptr. 416] ; or

- Resolve, or substantially facilitate the resolution of, the basic controversy underlying the damage claim [Edgren v. Regents of University of California (1984) 158 Cal. App. 3d 515, 521-522, 205 Cal. Rptr. 6 ; Karlin v. Zalta (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 953, 983-987, 201 Cal. Rptr. 379] .

A teacher was not required to exhaust internal grievance procedures in a collective bargaining agreement between the teacher's union and the school district prior to filing a lawsuit asserting a claim for differential pay benefits under Education Code § 44977. The claim for benefits was brought under the statute, and this claim was different from the differential pay benefit provided in the collective bargaining agreement. The arbitration agreement grievance procedure, which ended with binding arbitration, was applicable to the agreement but not to claims for enforcement of statutory rights under the Education Code [Veguez v. Governing Bd. of the Long Beach Uni. Sch. Dist. (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 406, 416-417, 25 Cal. Rptr. 3d 526] .

[c] Procedures for Obtaining Relief Are Inadequate

Even when an administrative entity is authorized to grant relief through its continuing supervisory or investigatory powers, a possible administrative remedy may be considered inadequate if the procedures for obtaining the remedy are insufficient or defective [Common Cause v. Board of Supervisors (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 432, 441, 261 Cal. Rptr. 574, 777 P.2d 610 ; Rosenfield v. Malcolm (1967) 65 Cal. 2d 559, 566-567, 55 Cal. Rptr. 505, 421 P.2d 697 ; Unnamed Physician v. Board of Trustees of Saint Agnes Medical Center (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 607, 619-621, 113 Cal. Rptr 2d 309 ; Jacobs v. State Bd. of Optometry (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 1022, 1029, 147 Cal. Rptr. 225] . Exhaustion is thus not required if the applicable statutes, rules, and ordinances do not establish a clearly defined set of procedures under which the petitioner is entitled to submit his or her claim to an administrative entity and have it evaluated and resolved [Common Cause v. Board of Supervisors (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 432, 441, 261 Cal. Rptr. 574, 777 P.2d 610 ; Rosenfield v. Malcolm (1967) 65 Cal. 2d 559, 566-567, 55 Cal. Rptr. 505, 421 P.2d 697 ; Unfair Fire Tax Committee v. City of Oakland (2006) 136 Cal. App. 4th 1424, 1429-1431, 39 Cal. Rptr. 3d 701 (city ordinance did not provide adequate administrative remedy because the ordinance had no procedural mechanisms for submission, evaluation, and resolution of the appeal specified under the ordinance; so litigant is not required to exhaust that remedy and can file lawsuit); City of Coachella v. Riverside County Airport Land Use Com. (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 1277, 1287-1288, 258 Cal. Rptr. 795

; Jacobs v. State Bd. of Optometry (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 1022, 1029, 147 Cal. Rptr. 225 ; Diaz v. Quitoriano (1969) 268 Cal. App. 2d 807, 813, 74 Cal. Rptr. 358 ; see also Henry George School of Social Science v. San Diego Unified School Dist. (1960) 183 Cal. App. 2d 82, 85, 6 Cal. Rptr. 661] .

An administrative remedy may be considered inadequate if the applicable rules fail to provide for notice and the right to a hearing, the taking of testimony, the submission of legal arguments or other procedural protections mandated by due process requirements [Glendale City Employees' Assn., Inc. v. City of Glendale (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 328, 342-343, 124 Cal. Rptr. 513, 540 P.2d 609 , cert. denied, 424 U.S. 943, 96 S. Ct. 1411, 47 L. Ed. 2d 349 ; Bush v. California Conservation Corps (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 194, 203-204, 185 Cal. Rptr. 892 ; Superior Strut & Hanger Co. v. Port of Oakland (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 987, 1002, 140 Cal. Rptr. 515 ; Sunnyvale Public Safety Officers Assn. v. City of Sunnyvale (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 732, 736, 127 Cal. Rptr. 863 ; see also Roth v. City of Los Angeles (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 679, 687-691, 126 Cal. Rptr. 163] .

Termination of doctor's hospital staff privileges for cause was challenged by doctor because of lack of a pre-termination hearing. The court of appeal concluded that physician had a due process and statutory [Bus. & Prof. Code § 809] right to a pre-termination hearing before staff privileges could be terminated [Sahlolbei v. Providence Healthcare, Inc. (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 1137, 1147-1150, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 598] . The Court of Appeal held that physician was entitled to a preliminary injunction reinstating staff privileges until the required hearing procedures were completed [Sahlolbei v. Providence Healthcare, Inc. (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 1137, 1160, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 598] . The court also held that physician did not have to exhaust internal hospital grievance procedures, including a post-termination procedure to assert a claim that the hospital failed to follow hearing procedures required by law (statutory procedures codified under Bus & Prof. Code § 809) [Sahlolbei v. Providence Healthcare, Inc. (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 1137, 1154-1155, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 598 ; Payne v. Anaheim Mem'l Med. Ctr. (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 729, 739, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 230 (hospital bylaws did not provide for an internal grievance hearing to remedy doctor's complaint about discriminatory comments; therefore hospital administrative remedies did not have to be exhausted because there was no such remedy)].

Furthermore, a litigant was not required to participate in a public hearing to challenge the award of a contract that was part of a legislative action (city council interim contract public hearing) before challenging the award of the contract in court. There was no available administrative remedy to exhaust by participating in the public hearing, so exhaustion was not required [Lindelli v. Town of San Anselmo (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 1099, 1105-1106, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 453 (mandamus challenge to city award of an interim contract pending the results of a referendum)].

Due process does not, however, require any particular form of notice or method of procedure. An agency's grievance procedures satisfy due process requirements for exhaustion of administrative remedies if the procedures provide reasonable notice and a reasonable opportunity to be heard [Bockover v. Perko (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 479, 486, 34 Cal. Rptr.2d 423 (citing Drummey v. State Bd. of Funeral Directors (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 75, 80-81, 87 P.2d 848)]. Thus, for example, neither the lack of subpoena power nor the advisory nature of the decision of the hearing body make the procedures inadequate in due process terms [Bockover v. Perko (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 479, 487, 34 Cal. Rptr.2d 423] .

Exhaustion of an administrative remedy is not required when pursuit of the remedy would be futile [In re Joshua S (2007) 41 Cal. 4th 261, 274-275, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 460, 159 P.3d 49 (futility exception recognized based on ineligibility of children for AFDC benefits while under legal guardianship); Sanchez v. City of Los Angeles (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 1069, 1078-1079, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 188 (futility exception to exhaustion of administrative remedies requirements applied to arguments not raised by police officer in disciplinary administrative proceedings, arguments later raised on appeal as to lack of timely notice and a challenge to police chief's role in discipline process because police department's position on these issues was unyielding); Huntington Beach Police Officers' Assn. v. City of Huntington Beach (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 492, 498-499, 129 Cal. Rptr. 893 ; Ogo Associates v. City of Torrance (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 830, 834, 112 Cal. Rptr. 761] . Under this exception, the exhaustion requirement is excused if the petitioner can demonstrate that the decision of the administrative entity is certain to be adverse [George Arakelian Farms, Inc. v. Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 654, 662, 221 Cal. Rptr. 488, 710 P.2d 288 ; Collins v. Woods (1984) 158 Cal. App. 3d 439, 442-443, 204 Cal. Rptr. 650] . Conversely, the futility exception does not apply when the petitioner cannot show that the agency decision is reasonably certain to be adverse [Sea & Sage Audubon Society, Inc. v. Planning Comm'n. (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 412, 418-419, 194 Cal. Rptr. 357, 668 P.2d 664 ; Economic Empowerment Foundation v. Quackenbush (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 677, 692, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 323] .

The futility exception is a very narrow one; it applies only when the petitioner "can positively state that the [administrative agency] has declared what its ruling will be in a particular case" [Coachella Valley Mosquito & Vector Control Dist. v. Cal. Pub. Emp. Relations Bd. (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 1072, 1081, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 234, 112 P. 3d 623 ; Jonathan Neil & Assoc., Inc. v. Jones (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 917, 936, 16 Cal. Rptr. 3d 849, 94 P.3d 1055 ; George Arakelian Farms, Inc. v. Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 654, 662, 221 Cal. Rptr. 488, 710 P.2d 288 ; City and County of San Francisco v. International Union of Operating Engineers, Local 39 (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 938, 947-948, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 516 (city could not satisfy futility exception by showing that agency denied request for an injunction; city had to show and failed to show that agency would inevitably rule against city on administrative claim); County of Contra Costa v. State of California (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 62, 77-78, 222 Cal. Rptr. 750] . To come within the exception, the petitioner must establish the following elements:

- There must be some declaration or conduct on the part of the administrative entity that demonstrates that it had predetermined its position [George Arakelian Farms, Inc. v. Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 654, 662-663, 221 Cal. Rptr. 488, 710 P.2d 288 ; Doyle v. Chino, City of (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 673, 683, 172 Cal. Rptr. 844] . Futility cannot be established by the petitioner's speculation or subjective feelings [Doyle v. Chino, City of (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 673, 683, 172 Cal. Rptr. 844] .

- The declarations or conduct relied on by the petitioner must be that of the decision making entity itself [see Doyle v. Chino, City of (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 673, 681-683, 172 Cal. Rptr. 844 (evidence of city manager's predisposition insufficient to establish futility of appeal to city council); Call v. Feher (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 434, 440, 155 Cal. Rptr. 387 (letter from agency's executive officer expressing opinion that board would not grant relief insufficient to show futility of application to governing board of California Tahoe Regional Planning Agency); La Costa Beach Homeowners Assn. v. Wayne (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 327, 331, 152 Cal. Rptr. 355 (absent evidence that commission mechanically followed staff recommendations, adverse staff recommendation insufficient to establish futility of appeal to California Coastal Zone Conservation Commission)].

- The declarations or conduct relied on by the petitioner must show a predetermined position that necessitates an adverse ruling in petitioner's particular case [Gantner & Mattern Co. v. California E. Com. (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 314, 318, 109 P.2d 932 ; County of Contra Costa v. State of California (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 62, 77-78, 222 Cal. Rptr. 750 ; Mountain View Chamber of Commerce v. City of Mountain View (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 82, 92-93, 143 Cal. Rptr. 441] . This element cannot be established merely by showing that the administrative entity has ruled adversely to the contentions made by petitioner in deciding other matters [Gantner & Mattern Co. v. California E. Com. (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 314, 318, 109 P.2d 932 ; In re Serna (1978) 76 Cal. App. 3d 1010, 1014, 143 Cal. Rptr. 350] , or that it is generally hostile toward the type of claim asserted by petitioner [see County of Contra Costa v. State of California (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 62, 77-78, 222 Cal. Rptr. 750 ; Mountain View Chamber of Commerce v. City of Mountain View (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 82, 92-93, 143 Cal. Rptr. 441] .

The futility exception applies when the administrative body from whom relief would be sought has previously taken a position that would require denial of the petitioner's current claim and the past positions were taken in the following circumstances:

- Related proceedings involving the petitioner [Collins v. Woods (1984) 158 Cal. App. 3d 439, 442-443, 204 Cal. Rptr. 650 (when hearing officer had approved retroactive application of statute in prior hearing, petitioner was not required to seek another hearing on propriety of continued retroactive application); Ogo Associates v. City of Torrance (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 830, 834, 112 Cal. Rptr. 761 (when board amended zoning ordinance specifically to prevent construction of petitioner's low-income housing project, petitioner was not required to apply for variance)].

- Informal dealings and communications preliminary to the initiation or completion of formal proceedings [Jacobs v. State Bd. of Optometry (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 1022, 1029, 147 Cal. Rptr. 225 (plaintiff not required to formally petition State Board of Optometry to enact regulations when Board's response to letter demanding enactment made it plain that Board would not take requested action); Huntington Beach Police Officers' Assn. v. City of Huntington Beach (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 492, 498-499, 129 Cal. Rptr. 893 (association not required to seek formal hearing before personnel board on change in employees' work schedules when city consistently took the position that it was a nonnegotiable management prerogative throughout extended grievance proceedings)].

[3] Court Vested With Concurrent Primary Jurisdiction

When applicable statutes give concurrent primary jurisdiction over a particular type of controversy to the court and an administrative agency, exhaustion of the administrative remedy is not a prerequisite to use of the judicial remedy [National Audubon Society v. Superior Court (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 419, 448-452, 189 Cal. Rptr. 346, 658 P.2d 709 ; Scripps etc. Hospital v. Cal. Emp. Com. (1944) 24 Cal. 2d 669, 673-674, 151 P.2d 109 ; Southbay Creditors Trust v. General MotorsAcceptance Corp. (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 1068, 1080, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 ; California School Employees Assn. v. Travis Unified School Dist. (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 242, 249-250, 202 Cal. Rptr. 699 ; Muir v. Steinberg (1961) 197 Cal. App. 2d 264, 269, 17 Cal. Rptr. 431] . A legislative intent to vest the court with concurrent primary jurisdiction has been found in the following instances:

- The statutes creating the administrative remedy expressly provide that they shall not supersede the statutes creating the judicial remedy [Wygant v. Victor Valley Joint Union High School Dist. (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 319, 322-323, 214 Cal. Rptr. 205 ; California School Employees Assn. v. Travis Unified School Dist. (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 242, 249-250, 202 Cal. Rptr. 699] .

- A legislative act provides both administrative and judicial remedies and does not expressly condition the availability of the judicial remedy on the exhaustion of the administrative remedy [Scripps etc. Hospital v. Cal. Emp. Com. (1944) 24 Cal. 2d 669, 673-674, 151 P.2d 109 ; Syngenta Crop Protection, Inc v. Helliker (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 1135, 1159-1161, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 191 (litigant filed complaint for declaratory and injunctive relief coupled with petition for writ of mandate). The California Court of Appeal held that litigant, who was pesticide manufacturer regulated by Department of Pesticide Registration was not required to exhaust administrative remedies before filing lawsuit in court, as the California legislature provided for a judicial remedy as an alternative to the administrative remedy); Muir v. Steinberg (1961) 197 Cal. App. 2d 264, 269, 17 Cal. Rptr. 431] .

- The statutes governing the judicial proceeding authorize the court to refer cases to the administrative entity for investigation and report [National Audubon Society v. Superior Court (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 419, 448-452, 189 Cal. Rptr. 346, 658 P.2d 709] .

- The statutes expressly authorize court jurisdiction over all common law and statutory claims originally cognizable in the courts and provide that a party may commence action to litigate any of those claims in any court of competent jurisdiction [Southbay Creditors Trust v. General Motors Acceptance Corp. (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 1068, 1079-1080, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 (construing Veh. Code § 3050(e))].

An intent to grant the court concurrent primary jurisdiction may not be inferred, however, merely from the absence of an express statutory provision making exhaustion of the administrative remedy a prerequisite to the institution of judicial proceedings [cf. A. Teichert & Son, Inc. v. State of Cal. (1965) 238 Cal. App. 2d 736, 746, 48 Cal. Rptr. 225 ; Woodard v. Broadway Fed. S. & L. Assn. (1952) 111 Cal. App. 2d 218, 221, 244 P.2d 467] .

The State of California filed an unfair business practices (under Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et seq.) lawsuit against mobile home park owners for violating city rent control ordinances. The Court of Appeal held that the Superior Court had primary jurisdiction to adjudicate the unfair business practices claims and to award civil penalties against the defendants for violating the unfair business practices law. The Superior Court properly exercised discretion to adjudicate the claims and to interpret the ordinance an appropriately judicial function [People v. Beaumont Investment, Ltd (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 102, 124-127, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 429] .

When the Legislature has established a scheme under which a court is prohibited from exercising discretion under the primary jurisdiction doctrine, the court must honor the scheme, and may not decline to adjudicate a suit on the basis that available administrative processes should first be invoked and completed. If, however, there is no legislation precluding a court from exercising its discretion under the primary jurisdiction doctrine, then the court may exercise its discretion and decline to hear a lawsuit until the administrative process has been completed [Farmers Ins. Exchange v. Superior Court (1992) 2 Cal. 4th 377, 394, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 487, 826 P.2d 730] .

An insured trucking company filed a tort cross-complaint in a court lawsuit for breach of contract to collect disputed premium charges, which action was brought against the insured by a collection agency as an assignee of the insurer. The tort cross-complaint alleged that the insurer had breached the covenant of good faith and fair dealing owed to its insured, and had also committed fraud, in relation to an insurance premium billing dispute between the insured and the insurer. The insurer was assigned to provide automobile liability insurance to the insured company under the California Automobile Assigned Risk Plan (CAARP). The insured recovered a substantial jury verdict against the insurer [Jonathan Neil & Assocs., Inc. v. Jones (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 917, 923-924, 16 Cal. Rptr. 3d 849, 94 P.3d 1055] . The California Supreme Court upheld the Court of Appeal, which had reversed the trial court judgment for the insured, but disagreed on the rationale for that decision. The California Supreme Court rejected the Court of Appeals holding that exhaustion of administrative remedies requirements were applicable and not satisfied. Rather, the Supreme Court held that exhaustion of administrative remedies was not required, but that the doctrine of primary jurisdiction did apply and required the trial court to stay its decision-making and refer the premium billing dispute issue to the Department of Insurance and the State Insurance Commissioner [Jonathan Neil & Assocs., Inc. v. Jones (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 917, 923-924, 16 Cal. Rptr. 3d 849, 94 P.3d 1055] . The Court reasoned that exhaustion of administrative remedies did not apply because the insured's tort claims, and the insurer's breach of contract claims, were within the superior court's jurisdiction, and the Insurance Commissioner had no authority to decide these common law claims. However, primary jurisdiction did apply because one of the issues in this lawsuit, the validity of premium billing by the insurer under the CAARP program, was within the regulatory authority and expertise of the California Insurance Commissioner. The court concluded that the premium dispute issue had to be referred to the Insurance Commissioner for resolution, and that referral would promote a uniform application of complex insurance regulations, the referral would utilize the insurance agency's expertise in regulating insurer's operating under the CAARP program, thereby helping to insure a more accurate determination of the premium billing dispute issue in the lawsuit [Jonathan Neil & Assocs., Inc. v. Jones (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 917, 933-934, 16 Cal. Rptr. 3d 849, 94 P.3d 1055] .

The California Public Utilities Commission had exclusive jurisdiction to resolve a dispute between a city and a telephone company over which of the parties was required to pay the costs of compliance with a city ordinance requiring utilities to move overhead facilities underground. The superior court properly granted the telephone company's demurrer without leave to amend because the superior court lacked subject matter jurisdiction over this dispute [City of Anaheim v. Pacific Bell Tel. Co. (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 838, 841-842, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 725] . The California Public Utility commission has exclusive authority under Pub. Util. Code § 1159 to decide how to allocate revenues received by regulated utilities form leasing or licensing its facilities. However, claims related to easements and other property interests on land rights of way owned by a regulated utility are not barred from court consideration by Pub. Util. Code § 1159 [Koponen v. Pacific Gas & Electric Company (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 345, 357-358, 81 Cal. Rptr. 3d 22].

The Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) had exclusive jurisdiction to resolve an unfair labor practice dispute between a city employer and a public employee union. The City and County of San Francisco filed a lawsuit seeking to compel the union to participate in arbitration to resolve the labor dispute between the city and the city employees represented by the union. Arbitration was required by the city charter. The First District, Division 5, California Court of Appeal held that Government Code § 3509 granted PERB exclusive jurisdiction to decide the arbitration dispute [City and County of San Francisco v. International Union of Operating Engineers, Local 39 (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 938, 940-941, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 516] .

The California Supreme Court also held that the attorney general did not have standing to file a lawsuit under the California False Claims Act (CFCA) for civil remedies related to the assets of an insolvent insurance company as to which the Insurance Commissioner has acquired title because those assets are not "state funds" within the meaning of the CFCA [State of Cal. v. Altus Fin. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1284, 1302-1303, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 498, 116 P.3d 1175] . The Court also held that the attorney general has standing to seek civil penalties under the Unfair Competition Law (UCL), but not restitution, and only injunctive relief that serves to protect the public and serve a law enforcement function [State of Cal. v. Altus Fin. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1284, 1303-1304, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 498, 116 P.3d 1175] . In holding that the attorney general could not bring a restitution related claim under the UCL law, the Court based its decision on the exclusive authority granted to the Insurance Commissioner under Insurance Code § 1037(f) [State of Cal. v. Altus Fin. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1284, 1304-1306, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 498, 116 P.3d 1175] .

The Public Utilities Commission had primary jurisdiction over issues raised in a civil lawsuit brought by plaintiffs against Pacific Gas & Electric Company for unfair business practices [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200, and Bus. & Prof. Code § 17500] and fraud. Primary jurisdiction was not exclusive, and thus dismissal of the civil action was improper. Rather, the civil lawsuit was stayed pending further action before the PUC [Wise v. Pacific Gas & Electric Company (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 287, 299-301, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 479] . In a second appellate decision (Wise II), the California Court of Appeal held that the completion of a Public Utilities Commission (PUC) investigation into fraud charges against a regulated utility, Pacific Gas & Electric Company (PG&E) without the PUC reaching any decision about those charges did not have collateral estoppel effect on a related civil lawsuit claim for fraud damages brought against PG&E by consumers [Wise v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 725, 742-743, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 222] . The fraud issues had been referred to the PUC under the doctrine of primary jurisdiction, and the trial court had stayed the civil lawsuit pending PUC resolution of the fraud issues. When the PUC closed its investigation, having taken no action, the trial court lifted the stay, and granted a motion for judgment on the pleadings brought by PG&E. The court of appeal reversed the judgment, and held the PUC decision to close the investigation did not have collateral estoppel effect on the civil lawsuit because there was no PUC ruling or decision on the merits, there were no parties to the proceeding, and the PUC was not acting in an adjudicatory capacity [Wise v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 725, 742-743, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 222] .

The superior court properly refused to apply the primary jurisdiction doctrine and submit a lawsuit claim related to the validity of a land use under a conditional use permit to the city planning department because the issues in the lawsuit involved statutory interpretation that is appropriate for judicial resolution, and there were no issues requiring the fact finding expertise of the administrative agency [Tenderloin Housing Clinic, Inc v. Astoria Hotel, Inc. (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 139, 142-143, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 924] .

Pub. Util. Code § 1759, which precludes superior court jurisdiction to review orders of the Public Utilities Commission (PUC), or to interfere with the PUC in the performance of its official duties, does not prohibit or preempt tort damage claims in superior court lawsuits alleging violations of federal and state drinking water standards brought by water consumers against water providers regulated by the PUC. However, damage actions against those providers for conditions that meet state water quality standards are precluded or preempted because this would interfere with PUC regulation, as are injunctive relief claims against those providers [Hartwell Corp. v. Superior Court (2002) 27 Cal. 4th 256, 276-279, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 874, 38 P.3d 1098] . Furthermore, all claims, both for damages and for injunctive relief, and whether or not based on violation of water quality standards, brought by water consumers against water providers and industrial defendants that are not regulated by the PUC are not precluded or preempted by Pub. Util. Code § 1759 [Hartwell Corp. v. Superior Court (2002) 27 Cal. 4th 256, 282-283, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 874, 38 P.3d 1098] .

Pub Util. Code § 1759, which precludes superior court jurisdiction to review orders of the Public Utilities Commission or to interfere with the PUC in the performance of its official duties, does not prohibit district attorneys from enforcing false advertising and unfair business practice laws, by filing civil lawsuits in the superior court against public utility companies within the regulatory jurisdiction of the PUC. Concurrent civil enforcement actions brought by public prosecutors, and similar administrative enforcement actions brought by the PUC are not precluded by Pub. Util. Code § 1759, and parallel administrative and civil enforcement actions can be coordinated by the litigants and the superior court to avoid actual conflicts that would interfere with the PUC's regulatory authority [People v. Pac. Bell (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 1132, 1137-1139, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 315, 80 P.3d 201] .

The superior court has subject matter jurisdiction under Pub. Util. Code § 2106 to award intentional tort damages, including exemplary damages, for fraud sought in a civil lawsuit by a customer against a public utility regulated by the Public Utilities Commission (PUC) when that regulated utility engages in willful and unlawful activities. The resolution of the lawsuit and the award of damages would not violate Pub. Util. Code § 1759 which restricts the authority of the courts, including the superior court, to review decisions or orders of the PUC. The award of damages in this lawsuit by a customer of a regulated utility would not "hinder or frustrate" the PUC's supervisory or regulatory policies [Pink Dot, Inc. v. Teleport Communications Group (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 407, 417-419, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 392] .

The California Court of Appeal held that the Department of Managed Health Care has concurrent jurisdiction over enforcement of the provisions of Health & Safety Code § 1371.4, part of the Knox-Keene Health Care service Plan Act of 1975, and that the provisions of the statute can be privately enforced by emergency room physicians filing civil lawsuits [Bell v. Blue Cross of Cal. (2005) 131 Cal. App. 4th 211, 216-218, 31 Cal. Rptr. 3d 688] . The Court of Appeal also gave deference to the Department of Managed Health Care's interpretation of Health & Safety Code § 1371.4 (that health care providers have the right to privately enforce provisions of the statute through filing lawsuits under the unfair competition law, as well as for breach of contract, and quantum meruit, when a health care plan did not provide adequate reimbursement for the value of service rendered by emergency room physicians) and concluded that physicians had standing to file a lawsuit against a health care service plan [Bell v. Blue Cross of Cal. (2005) 131 Cal. App. 4th 211, 217-219, 31 Cal. Rptr. 3d 688] .

Insured had the right to file a civil lawsuit in Superior Court under the unfair competition law [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17200-17210] against an insurance company to challenge insurer's use of absence of prior insurance as a rating factor in determining eligibility for good driver discounts, and other purposes, in violation of Ins. Code § 1861.02 (part of Proposition 103). The court of appeal, which rejected the argument that the Insurance Commissioner had exclusive primary jurisdiction to decide such issues, concluded that exhaustion of administrative remedies was not applicable and upheld the right of insureds (under the provisions of Ins. Code §§ 1861.03 and 1861.10) to file a civil lawsuit to challenge in court such insurer practices under the UCL law [Donabedian v. Mercury Insurance Co. (2004) 116 Cal. App. 4th 968, 986-987, 11 Cal. Rptr. 3d 45] .

In a breach of contract lawsuit, defendant's defense (that the contract was void because plaintiff acted as a talent agency, but was unlicensed in violation of the act) based on the Talent Agencies Act, Labor Code §§ 1700-1700.47, must first be brought before the Labor Commissioner under Labor Code § 1700.44(a), and the civil lawsuit for breach of contract must be stayed pending resolution by the Labor commissioner of issues related to the Talent Agencies Act defense [Styne v. Stevens (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 42, 47-48, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 14, 26 P.3d 343] . Furthermore, a defense based on the Talent Agencies Act does not have to be raised within the one year statute of limitations [Labor code § 1700.44(a)] for bringing actions or proceedings under the act as the one year statute applies only to claims for affirmative relief, not to defenses [Styne v. Stevens (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 42, 51-54, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 14, 26 P.3d 343] . The Labor Commissioner has exclusive jurisdiction to determine Talent Agency Act related issues that arise in a breach of contract lawsuit in court. The Commissioner has jurisdiction to determine whether the contract involved the services of a talent agency, and if so, to determine that the contract is void and unenforceable. These issues must first be submitted to the Commissioner to be decided, with the opportunity for a do novo appeal to the superior court after the commissioner makes a decision [Styne v. Stevens (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 42, 55-57, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 14, 26 P.3d 343] . When a Talent Agency Act defense arises in civil lawsuit in court, the superior court proceeding should be stayed, and a "petition to determine controversy" should be filed with the Commissioner. The merits of that defense can not be considered by the court until the defense has been decided by the commissioner [Styne v. Stevens (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 42, 58-59, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 14, 26 P.3d 343] .

The primary jurisdiction doctrine authorizes a stay of court action not a dismissal of a complaint through the granting of a demurrer. The primary jurisdiction doctrine is not applicable when any relevant administrative proceedings have already been completed at the time that a stay of the civil lawsuit is sought [AICCO, Inc. v. Insurance Co. of North America (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 579, 594-595, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 359] .

Primary jurisdiction doctrine did not apply to justify dismissal of lawsuit brought by customers against suppliers of telephones and telephone service suppliers for damages for improper charges assessed for monthly telephone rental service. The damage lawsuit was authorized by Pub. Util. Code § 2106, the lawsuit would not adversely affect the commission's decisions or orders, and the issues in the lawsuit did not require application of commission's specialized regulatory expertise to decide claims for damages [Cundiff v. GTE California Inc. (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 1395, 1412-1414,125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445] .

In deciding whether to stay an auto dealer's cross-complaint against an auto manufacturer for fraud until the New Motor Vehicle Board could exercise primary jurisdiction over related issues of automobile allocations among dealers, the trial court was not automatically required to grant a requested stay of the dealer's cross-complaint in the civil action, but rather was expected to exercise discretion and balance the competing interests of the agency's technical expertise on allocation issues against the dealer's right to a jury trial in court on the damages claim based on fraud allegations in the cross-complaint [Miller v. Superior Court (1996) 50 Cal. App. 4th 1665, 1677-1678, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 584] .

When a trial court applies the doctrine of primary jurisdiction, it is improper for the court to dismiss the action. Rather, it is required to stay the action in court pending resolution of the issues within the administrative agency's expertise [Southbay Creditors Trust v. General Motors Acceptance Corp. (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 1068, 1081, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1] . It is an abuse of discretion for a trial court to refer a case to an agency under the primary jurisdiction doctrine when the issues in the case consist of common law tort and contract claims that are within the court's jurisdiction and not within the agency's jurisdiction [Southbay Creditors Trust v. General Motors Acceptance Corp. (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 1068, 1083, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1] . In exercising its discretion related to primary jurisdiction, the trial court should consider agency expertise, the need for uniformity in application of agency regulations, the expense to the affected party of agency proceedings, the adequacy of agency remedies for the affected claims, and the potential for delay in the court case from agency referral under primary jurisdiction [Southbay Creditors Trust v. General Motors Acceptance Corp. (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 1068, 1082-1083, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1] .

The doctrine of primary jurisdiction provides that a court will abstain from determining an otherwise justiciable claim that requires the determination of issues over which an agency has primary jurisdiction. Whether an agency has primary jurisdiction depends on the extent and amount of regulatory power vested in that agency [Industrial Commun. Sys.,

Inc. v. Pacific Tel. & Tel. Co. (9th Cir. 1974) 505 F.2d 152, 156, 1974-2 Trade Cas. (CCH) P75291] . An agency has primary jurisdiction when either of the following applies:

- One or more of the issues in the court action should be referred to the agency to protect the integrity of or achieve the uniformity required by the regulatory scheme [United States v. Philadelphia Nat. Bank (1963) 374 U.S. 321, 353, 83 S. Ct. 1715, 10 L. Ed. 2d 915 ; Keogh v. Chicago & N. R. Co. (1922) 260 U.S. 156, 163, 43 S. Ct. 47, 67 L. Ed. 183 ; Texas & P. R. Co. v. Abilene Cotton Oil Co. (1907) 204 U.S. 426, 439-441, 448, 27 S. Ct. 350, 51 L. Ed. 553 ; 4 Davis, Administrative Law Treatise, ch. 22, Primary Jurisdiction, § 22:1 (2d ed. 1978); Fremlin, Primary Jurisdiction and the Federal Maritime Commission, 18 Hastings L.J. 733, 744, 778]; or

- The court action would require the determination of issues that are within the special knowledge or expertise of the regulating agency [United States v. Western P. R. Co. (1956) 352 U.S. 59, 63-64, 77 S. Ct. 161, 1 L. Ed. 2d 126 ; Industrial Commun. Sys., Inc. v. Pacific Tel. & Tel. Co. (9th Cir. 1974) 505 F.2d 152, 156, 1974-2 Trade Cas. (CCH) P75291 ; 4 Davis, Administrative Law Treatise, ch. 22, Primary Jurisdiction, § 22:1 (2d ed. 1978); Fremlin, Primary Jurisdiction and the Federal Maritime Commission, 18 Hastings L.J. 733, 744, 778].

Even when an agency has primary jurisdiction, however, judicial consideration of the matter "is not thereby ousted, but only postponed" [United States v. Philadelphia Nat. Bank (1963) 374 U.S. 321, 353, 83 S. Ct. 1715, 10 L. Ed. 2d 915] . Primary jurisdiction is not a jurisdictional doctrine in any strict sense [E. B. Ackerman Importing Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 595, 600, 39 Cal. Rptr. 726, 394 P.2d 566] . "It is a doctrine allocating the lawmaking power" by transferring the power of making the initial determination "from court to agency" [United States v. Western P. R. Co. (1956) 352 U.S. 59, 65, 77 S. Ct. 161, 1 L. Ed. 2d 126 ; 4 Davis, Administrative Law Treatise, ch. 22, Primary Jurisdiction, § 22:1 (2d ed. 1978); Jaffe, Primary Jurisdiction Reconsidered, 102 Univ. Pa. L. Rev. 577, 583, 584 (1954)].

The primary jurisdiction doctrine did not require a court that decided a civil action for injunctive relief based on statutory violations to defer to an agency as to an issue of statutory interpretation of the statute administered by the agency, because courts have expertise in interpreting statutes [Hewlett v. Squaw Valley Ski Corporation (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 499, 528-529, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 118].

The California Court of Appeal rejected a challenge to denial of a petition to intervene in a civil lawsuit brought by the California Public Employees Relations Board. The lawsuit challenged the constitutionality of legislation changing retirement benefits terms for new state employees. The Board's argument for intervention was that the Board has exclusive initial jurisdiction over claims for violations of state employee collective bargaining rights. The Court of Appeal upheld the denial of the intervention petition because the constitutional issue (whether the statute impaired the obligation of contracts) was not within the exclusive initial jurisdiction of the Board. Therefore, the Board did not have the right to intervene in the lawsuit [California Assn. of Professional Scientists v. Schwarzenegger (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 371, 380-382, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 354].

The State Personnel Board had concurrent jurisdiction with the superior court to decide claims related to the Police Officers Procedural Bill of Rights Act [Gov. Code § 3309.5]. The Board had jurisdiction to consider a statute of limitations defense asserted by a Department of Corrections (CDC) employee as a bar to adverse employment action brought by the CDC [Alameida v. State Personnel Bd. (2004) 120 Cal. App. 4th 46, 52-54, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 383] .

[4] Administrative Entity Lacks Subject Matter Jurisdiction

A failure to seek relief that might be available from an administrative entity does not preclude judicial relief if, in fact, the entity is not vested by a constitutional provision or statute with subject matter jurisdiction over the type of controversy at issue [County of Alpine v. County of Tuolumne (1958) 49 Cal. 2d 787, 798, 322 P.2d 449 ; County of L.A. v. Dept. of Social Welfare (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 455, 457, 260 P.2d 41 ; Mazda Motor of America, Inc v. California New Motor Vehicle Board (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 1451, 1460-1461, 2 Cal. Rptr. 3d 866 (Board did not have statutory authority to adjudicate dispute between dealer and distributor, and thus dispute was not within agency's jurisdiction)]. This exception does not apply when it is merely claimed that the administrative entity has no jurisdiction to act in the case of a particular party or under a particular set of facts [United States v. Superior Court (1941) 19 Cal. 2d 189, 194-195, 120 P.2d 26 ; People v. Sonleitner (1960) 185 Cal. App. 2d 350, 363-365, 8 Cal. Rptr. 528] . Administrative remedies do not have to be exhausted when the agency lacks administrative jurisdiction over the challenged action [Hard v. Cal. State Emples. Ass'n (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 708, 711-712, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615 (PERB did not have administrative jurisdiction over internal changes in union structure)]. The administrative jurisdiction exception did not apply to excuse exhaustion of administrative remedies before PERB when the trial court decided that PERB had exclusive jurisdiction over a labor dispute between a city and a public employees union [City and County of San Francisco v. International Union of Operating Engineers, Local 39 (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 938, 949-950, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 516] .

The administrative jurisdiction exception to exhaustion of administrative remedies was held to be applicable to the issue of the proper limitations period for bringing unfair labor practice claims before the Public Employee Relations Board (PERB). The California Supreme Court excused the District from adjudicating the limitations issue before PERB, and allowed the District to go to court to resolve this issue. In applying the administrative jurisdiction exception, the Supreme Court utilized a three-part test: 1) the injury or burden that exhaustion will impose; 2) the strength of the legal argument that the agency lacks jurisdiction; and 3) the extent to which administrative expertise may aid in resolving the jurisdictional issue. The Court held that as to the first factor, while the district would not be unduly burdened by having to exhaust administrative remedies, there was a strong public interest in definitively resolving the legal issue presented. As to the second factor, the District's legal argument is very strong. As to the third factor, the issue before the court are purely legal, within court expertise, and the court had the benefit of PERB's views on the issues in the case in the appellate briefs it filed with the Court [Coachella Valley Mosquito & Vector Control Dist. v. Cal. Pub. Emp. Relations Bd. (2005) 35 Cal 4th 1072, 1081-1083, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 234, 112 P. 3d 623 ; California- Nevada Annual Conference United Methodist Church v. City and County of San Francisco (First Dist., Div. 3, 2009) 173 Cal. App. 4th 1559, 1569-1570, 94 Cal. Rptr. 3d 64 (administrative jurisdiction exception recognized; Coachella case cited; immediate review of resolution to start landmark designation process for church building)]. The administrative jurisdiction exception was recognized and a developer was not required to exhaust administrative remedies with the Commission before challenging the Coastal Commission's statutory authority to designate property as an environmentally sensitive habitat area (ESHA) during the appeal to the Commission of a local government's grant of a coastal development permit (CDP) [Security National Company, Inc. v. California Coastal Commission (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 402, 416-418, 71 Cal. Rptr. 3d 522].

An employee was not required to plead that she served a copy of an administrative complaint (right to sue letter) upon her employer within 60 days as a jurisdictional prerequisite to going to court to bring a FEHA lawsuit. The employee sought and received the right to sue letter from FEHA, and then filed a civil lawsuit within one year of receiving that right to sue letter. Pleading service on her employer was NOT a requirement of exhaustion of administrative remedies under the FEHA statute [Gov. Code § 12962; Wasti v. Superior Court (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 667, 669-670, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 625] .

The administrative jurisdiction exception to exhaustion of administrative remedies did not apply to excuse failure to exhaust administrative remedies by a challenger to a coastal development permit who failed to appeal to the California Coastal Commission a county decision to grant the permit to a neighboring landowner. The challenger argued that the county action was void and therefore exhaustion was not required, but the court of appeal rejected that argument and held that exhaustion is required for as applied challenges to agency action based on voidness. The Coastal Commission had jurisdiction over this type of dispute at the appellate level [McAllister v. County of Monterey (2007) 147 Cal. App. 4th 253, 284-286, 54 Cal. Rptr. 3d 116] .

Claims that the administrative entity lacks jurisdiction because the statutes under which it operates are unconstitutional are governed by different rules [see [5], below].

[5] Statute Under Which Administrative Entity Operates Is Unconstitutional on Its Face

A litigant who claims that a statute under which an administrative entity operates is unconstitutional on its face is not required to raise that constitutional claim before the administrative entity [State of California v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 251, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281 ; Andal v. City of Stockton (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 86, 93-94, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 34 (constitutional challenge brought by cell phone companies and their customers to challenge constitutionality of city ordinance imposing local government fee on cell phone users to fund city's 911 communication system. Administrative remedies need not be exhausted to raise constitutional challenge in court); Nissan Motor Corp. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 109, 115, 202 Cal. Rptr. 1 ; Hand v. Board of Examiners (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 605, 617-620, 136 Cal. Rptr. 187] . This exception is a narrow one and it is subject to a number of important qualifications:

- The rule has only been applied to administrative agencies of legislative origin and appears to be based on the rationale that these agencies, not being vested with judicial powers, have no power to pass on constitutional claims [see Cal. Const., art. III, § 3.5; State of California v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 251, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281 ; Hand v. Board of Examiners (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 605, 617-620, 136 Cal. Rptr. 187] . A different rule may apply to administrative agencies of constitutional origin, because these agencies are vested with judicial powers, and thus have the power to pass on the constitutionality of the statutes under which they operate [cf. Hand v. Board of Examiners (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 605, 618-619, 136 Cal. Rptr. 187 ; Walker v. Munro (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 67, 73-74, 2 Cal. Rptr. 737] .

- The exception does not apply to a claim that a controlling statute cannot constitutionally be applied under the facts of a particular case; a claim that a statute is unconstitutional as applied will not be considered by the courts unless it has been raised at the administrative level [Security-First Nat. Bk. v. County of Los Angeles (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 319, 321, 217 P.2d 946 (application of tax claimed to violate equal protection); Griswold v. Mt. Diablo Unified Sch. Dist. (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 648, 652-653, 134 Cal. Rptr. 3 (disciplinary action claimed to violate petitioner's First Amendment rights); Savoy Club v. Board of Supervisors (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 1034, 1042, 91 Cal. Rptr. 198 (application of licensing ordinance); but see Anderson v. Department of Real Estate (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 696, 701 n.2, 155 Cal. Rptr. 307 (claim that application of regulatory statute to activities conducted by petitioner violated petitioner's *First Amendment*rights need not be raised at administrative hearing)].

- The assertion of a constitutional claim does not allow a litigant to bypass the administrative process and present other claims directly to the courts. A litigant who challenges the facial constitutionality of controlling statutes must still raise other claims at the administrative level or they will not be considered in any judicial proceeding [State of California v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 251-252, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281 ; Flores v. Los Angeles Turf Club (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 736, 745-748, 13 Cal. Rptr. 201, 361 P.2d 921] .

- When an administrative agency has the power to grant the litigant alternative relief that would make the constitutional claim moot, a failure to apply to the agency for such alternative relief may preclude the litigant from raising the constitutional claim in the courts [Mountain View Chamber of Commerce v. City of Mountain View (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 82, 94-95, 143 Cal. Rptr. 441 (failure to seek variance precludes attack on facial constitutionality of zoning ordinance); cf. Leek v. Washington Unified School Dist. (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 43, 53, 177 Cal. Rptr. 196 (plaintiffs precluded from asserting constitutional challenges to District practices by failure to pursue statutory administrative remedies that could have obviated need to litigate constitutional issues)].

[6] Threat of Irreparable Injury Exists

Exhaustion of an administrative remedy is not required when it will result in irreparable injury to a litigant [see, e.g., United States v. Superior Court (1941) 19 Cal. 2d 189, 196-197, 120 P.2d 26 ; Abelleira v. District Court of Appeal (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 280, 296-297, 109 P.2d 942 ; Mountain View Chamber of Commerce v. City of Mountain View (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 82, 89, 143 Cal. Rptr. 441 ; Ogo Associates v. City of Torrance (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 830, 834, 112 Cal. Rptr. 761] . California decisions have declared that a failure to exhaust an administrative remedy will be excused when irreparable injury will result if an administrative hearing is permitted to proceed and its orders made effective without prior judicial interference [Hesperia Land Development Co. v. Superior Court (1960) 184 Cal. App. 2d 865, 876, 7 Cal. Rptr. 815 ; Greenblatt v. Munro (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 596, 605-606, 326 P.2d 929] . Some decisions have stated that the "irreparable injury" necessary to justify application of the exception may be found only in very limited circumstances [see, e.g., In re Serna (1978) 76 Cal. App. 3d 1010, 1014-1015, 143 Cal. Rptr. 350 ; Humbert v. Castro Valley County Fire Protection Dist. (1963) 214 Cal. App. 2d 1, 6, 29 Cal. Rptr. 158 ; Mortgage Finance Corp. v. Watson (1951) 104 Cal. App. 2d 640, 641, 232 P.2d 54] , and although the exception has frequently been acknowledged, it has rarely been applied [Department of Personnel Administration v. Superior Court (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 155, 170-171, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 714 (irreparable injury exception recognized); City and County of San Francisco v. International Union of Operating Engineers, Local 39 (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 938, 948-949, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 516 (irreparable injury exception not recognized].

When an administrative action or order becomes effective before the administrative review process is completed and will inflict irreparable injury on a litigant, it is clearly appropriate for the court to apply the irreparable injury exception and to issue a writ or injunction to prevent the administrative action or order from taking effect before its validity is determined [Heyenga v. City of San Diego (1979) 94 Cal. App. 3d 756, 760, 156 Cal. Rptr. 496 ; see also United States v. Superior Court (1941) 19 Cal. 2d 189, 196-197, 120 P.2d 26 ; Abelleira v. District Court of Appeal (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 280, 296-297, 109 P.2d 942] . Except in the most extraordinary circumstances, however, the exception may not be applied to allow a litigant to bypass an administrative review process and obtain direct review of an administrative action or decision in court [cf. Board of Police Commissioners v. Superior Court (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 420, 432-434, 214 Cal. Rptr. 493 ; United Insurance Co. v. Maloney (1954) 127 Cal. App. 2d 155, 156-157, 273 P.2d 579] .

Neither the adverse publicity that may result from the pendency of administrative proceedings [Mortgage Finance Corp. v. Watson (1951) 104 Cal. App. 2d 640, 641, 232 P.2d 54] , nor the potential drastic impact of an adverse decision [Board of Police Commissioners v. Superior Court (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 420, 432-434, 214 Cal. Rptr. 493 ; Mountain View Chamber of Commerce v. City of Mountain View (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 82, 90-91, 143 Cal. Rptr. 441 ; Wilkinson v. Norcal Mutual Ins. Co. (1979) 98 Cal. App. 3d 307, 316, 159 Cal. Rptr. 416] constitutes irreparable injury. The irreparable injury exception also may not be used to enable a litigant to avoid completion of an administrative review process [cf. Board of Police Commissioners v. Superior Court (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 420, 432-434, 214 Cal. Rptr. 493 ; United Insurance Co. v. Maloney (1954) 127 Cal. App. 2d 155, 156-157, 273 P.2d 579 ; for an example of an extraordinary fact situation in which the California Supreme Court might justifiably have relied on the irreparable injury exception in excusing a litigant's failure to complete an administrative review process but declined to do so, see Sail'er Inn, Inc. v. Kirby (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 1, 7, 95 Cal. Rptr. 329, 485 P.2d 529] .

[7] Public Interest Disserved by Application of Rule

An exception to the exhaustion requirement may be allowed in cases in which application of the rule would disserve an important public interest [Lindeleaf v. Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 861, 870-871, 226 Cal. Rptr. 119, 718 P.2d 106 ; Hull v. Cason (1981) 114 Cal. App. 3d 344, 358-359, 171 Cal. Rptr. 14 ; Environmental Law Fund, Inc. v. Town of Corte Madera (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 105, 114, 122 Cal. Rptr. 282] .

This "public interest" exception has been applied in a number of contexts. For instance, in Lindeleaf v. Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 861, 226 Cal. Rptr. 119, 718 P.2d 106 , the petitioner challenged the Agricultural Labor Relations Board's practice of delegating the responsibility for conducting hearings on election objections to independent hearing officers. The petitioner claimed that the controlling statutes did not authorize the Board to delegate this duty. Although the petitioner had not raised this objection before the Board, the California Supreme Court elected to invoke its power to hear important questions of public policy and decide this issue. In making this decision, the court observed that it affected not only the litigants, but also the parties to every nonfinal Board decision on an election challenge that was heard by an independent hearing examiner [Lindeleaf v. Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 861, 870-871, 226 Cal. Rptr. 119, 718 P.2d 106] .

In Hull v. Cason (1981) 114 Cal. App. 3d 344, 171 Cal. Rptr. 14 , the plaintiffs challenged the hiring practices of a city fire department as being racially discriminatory. The appellate court decided not to dismiss the case even though the defendants claimed that the plaintiffs failed to exhaust their administrative remedies under California's Fair Employment Practice Act and the Federal Civil Rights Act. The court noted that the action had been litigated for seven years and that its prompt determination would be in the public interest and would end grave uncertainty in the lives and careers of many persons who would be affected by the outcome [Hull v. Cason (1981) 114 Cal. App. 3d 344, 358-359, 171 Cal. Rptr. 14] .

In Environmental Law Fund, Inc. v. Town of Corte Madera (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 105, 122 Cal. Rptr. 282 , the petitioners sought to challenge as violative of the California Environmental Quality Act a conditional use permit and a tentative subdivision map allowing development of certain real property. Although they were not titled parties to the administrative proceedings, petitioners were entitled to appear at the public hearings that led to these actions and to appeal them to the town council. Although the petitioners failed to use these administrative remedies, the appellate court refused to apply the exhaustion doctrine to bar their action. The court held that such a result would totally disserve the public interest, and held that a private individual's failure to use an administrative remedy to challenge governmental action taken in a proceeding to which he or she was not a party does not bar him or her from seeking judicial relief to enforce rights held in common with members of the general public [Environmental Law Fund, Inc. v. Town of Corte Madera (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 105, 114, 122 Cal. Rptr. 282] .

§ 474A.13 Expedited Review of Decisions on Permit or Entitlement Involving Constitutionally Protected Speech

Once it is final, a decision by a public agency regarding the issuance, revocation, suspension, or denial of a permit or other entitlement "for expressive conduct protected by the First Amendment" (U.S. Const., amend. I) is subject to expedited judicial review. The petition seeking review, for example, must be filed within 21 calendar days after the decision becomes final, and the court must issue its decision on review within the earlier of 20 days after submission or 50 days after the filing of the petition [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(d)]. For a full discussion of the expedited procedures, see Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions, § 474C.27.

§ 474A.20 Proceeding Not Commenced Within Applicable Statute of Limitations Period Is Barred

[1] Applicability of Statute of Limitations Defenses

A mandate proceeding is a special civil proceeding and, thus, is subject to the general rules of law on limitation of actions [Code Civ. Proc. § 1109; Ginns v. Savage (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 520, 524, 39 Cal. Rptr. 377, 393 P.2d 689 ; Jones v. Board of Police Commissioners (1903) 141 Cal. 96, 98, 74 P. 696] . Consequently, a mandate proceeding is ordinarily barred if it is not commenced within the applicable limitation period [Barlow v. City Council of Inglewood (1948) 32 Cal. 2d 688, 697, 197 P.2d 721 ; Westside Hospital v. Belshe (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 672, 675, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 768 ; Vo v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 820, 825, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 127 ; California Standardbred Sires Stakes Com., Inc. v. California Horse Racing Bd. (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 751, 756, 282 Cal. Rptr. 656 ; Sinetos v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 1172, 1175, 207 Cal. Rptr. 207 ; Kupka v. Board of Administration (1981) 122 Cal. App. 3d 791, 794, 176 Cal. Rptr. 214] .

[2] Applicable Limitation Periods

[a] General Rules for Determining

Numerous statutes establish periods of limitation for proceedings to review different types of administrative actions. Two that are widely applicable are Gov. Code § 11523, governing decisions subject to the APA see [b], below], and Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6, governing many decisions of specified local agencies [see [c], below]. There are also many statutes that are more narrowly directed to specific agencies or specific decisions. For example:

- Bus. & Prof. Code § 19463 (Capitol Racing v. California Horse Racing Board (2008) 161 Cal. App. 4th 892, 899-900, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 384 (Bus. & Prof. Code Section 19463 (30-day time limit) for filing petition for administrative mandate was controlling, not Gov. Code Section 11523 (30-day time limit). The challenge of Capitol Racing to the decision of the board was held to be untimely because it was filed more than 30 days after the date that the decision was issued by the Board.)

- Educ. Code § 44929.21 (March 15th is the date by which notice must be given to school teacher in second year of employment that teacher will not be reelected (rehired) for next school year) [Peoples v. San Diego Unified Sch. Dist. (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 463, 465, 41 Cal. Rptr. 3d 383 (school district ordered to reinstate teacher who had been notified on May 27th of school year that she would not be rehired for following school year; Court of Appeal affirmed superior court decision that notice was untimely)].

- Educ. Code §§ 44939, 44944 (four-year time limit for introduction of evidence related to misconduct of teacher prior to date of notice of intention to dismiss teacher subject to application of equitable estoppel doctrine) [Atwater Elementary School District v. California Department of General Services (2007) 41 Cal. 4th 227, 231-233, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 233, 158 P.3d 794] .

- Educ. Code § 87789 (39-month time period from effective date of disability retirement for college professor to seek reinstatement as full-time academic employee of community college) [Franzosi v. Santa Monica Community College District (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 442, 444, 13 Cal. Rptr. 3d 25 (professor's petition for a writ of mandate ordering him reinstated as a full-time academic employee was denied on grounds of lack of timeliness, and denial was affirmed by court of appeal)].

- Gov. Code § 3304(d) (one year statute of limitations for charter city to discharge police officer) [Mays v. City of Los Angeles (2008) 43 Cal. 4th 313, 317-318, 74 Cal. Rptr. 3d 891, 180 P. 3d 935 (notice required by Gov. Code § 3304(d) is satisfied when officer is notified within one year statutory period that the employing agency proposed that specific misconduct charges will be adjudicated by a board of rights; n otice of specific proposed discipline is permitted but not required); Moore v. City of Los Angeles (2007) 156 Cal. App. 4th 373, 376, 67 Cal. Rptr. 3d 218 (former officer's failure to raise one-year statute of limitations issue before departmental board of rights hearing precluded appellate review of that issue); Parra v. City and County of San Francisco (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 977, 988-990, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 822 (tolling provisions applied to one-year statute during investigation of incident giving rise to discipline); Breslin v. City and County of San Francisco (2007) 146 Cal. App. 4th 1064, 1068, 55 Cal. Rptr. 3d 14 (disciplinary charges not timely filed under one-year statute); Bettencourt v. City and County of San Francisco (2007) 146 Cal. App. 4th 1090, 1098-1100, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 402 (disciplinary charges were timely filed because civil litigation tolling provisions applied and tolled running of one-year statute); Sanchez v. City of Los Angeles (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 1069, 1081-1082, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 188 (notice of proposed 20-day disciplinary suspension was not sufficient to give officer timely notice of proposed pay grade reduction within one year time period; officer was entitled to reinstatement in pay grade to officer status held before discipline was imposed); Jackson v. City of Los Angeles (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 899, 906-907, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 325 ; Alameida v. State Personnel Bd. (2004) 120 Cal. App. 4th 46, 52-54, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 383 (one-year statute barred disciplinary action against correction officer employed by CDC)]. The California Department of Corrections was not required to mail notice of adverse action within one year of discovery of officer's misconduct under provisions of Gov. Code § 3304(d) [Sulier v. State Personnel Bd (2004) 125 Cal. App. 4th 21, 31-32, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 615 (The California Department of Corrections did not violate a correction officer's due process rights by informally notifying the officer of the proposed discipline of demotion from corrections sergeant to corrections officer that the CDC might impose for the officer's misconduct. Further, the CDC later served the officer formal notice that satisfied the officer's Skelly rights)].

- Gov. Code § 12960(d) Administrative complaints must be filed with Department of Fair Employment and Housing (DFEH) within one year of unlawful act [McDonald v. Antelope Valley Community College District (2008) 45 Cal. 4th 88, 96-97, 84 Cal.Rptr. 3d 734, 194 P.3d 1026 (equitable tolling doctrine applied to include time period in which employee was pursuing a community college's internal grievance procedure such that one-year time period was tolled during time it took to complete grievance process. Complaint was timely)].

- Gov. Code § 19635 (three-year statute of limitations for bringing misconduct charges against state employees of California Department of Corrections) [California Department of Corrections v. State Personnel Board (2007) 147 Cal. App. 4th 797, 799-800, 54 Cal. Rptr. 3d 665 (running of three year statute of limitations on underlying misconduct charges did not prohibit bringing of disciplinary actions against corrections employees based upon dishonest denials of those same charges)].

- Gov Code § 65009(c)(1)(E) (90-day statute of limitations for court lawsuit by residential owner to challenge conditions imposed on land development permit pursuant to county ordinance) [Travis v. County of Santa Cruz (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 757, 762-763, 16 Cal. Rptr. 3d 404, 94 P.3d 538 (landowner who filed writ of mandate action in court within 90 days of final agency decision issuing permit with disputed conditions brought lawsuit on a timely basis); Arcadia Development Company v. City of Morgan Hill (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 253, 256, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 598 (developer's challenge to 10-year extension of density restriction by voters in city was timely because developer brought challenge within 90 days after voters approved extension. Extension decision created a new cause of action with a new limitations period); Honig v. San Francisco Planning Dept. (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 520, 529-530, 25 Cal. Rptr. 3d 649 (landowners challenge to building permit was subject to 90-day limitations period applicable to variances under Gov. Code § 65009(c)(1)(E)); Royalty Carpet Mills v. City of Irvine (2005) 125 Cal. App. 4th 1110, 1115, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 282 (petition must be served within 90-day time period; failure to timely serve petition within 90 days bars claim on limitations grounds)].

- Gov. Code § 65009(d)(1) (90-day limitations period for notifying local land use agency applicable to challenges to local agency decisions related to low income housing [Urban Habitat Program v. City of Pleasanton (2008) 164 Cal. App. 4th 1561, 1573-1574, 80 Cal. Rptr. 3d 300].

- Gov. Code § 66020 (180-day time period under Mitigation Fee Act was the applicable time period for filing petition for writ of mandamus (ordinary mandate writ under Code Civ. Proc. § 1085) to challenge park fees imposed by city on developer) [Branciforte Heights, LLC v. City of Santa Cruz (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 914, 928-929, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 96 (developer that utilizes fee protest procedures to challenge fees imposed by city has right to file a mandate petition to challenge fees within 180 days)].

- Gov. Code § 66499.37 (90-day service of summons requirement that governs subdivision map act litigation applied to CEQA challenge to city approval of final tract map for subdivision) [Friends of Riverside's Hills v. City of Riverside (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 743, 746, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 695 (dismissal of petition for writ of mandate for lack of timely service affirmed on appeal)].

- Labor Code § 3725 (45-day statute of limitation to file a petition for a writ of mandate from an order of the Labor commissioner) [Department of Industrial Relations, Div. of Labor Standards Enforcement v. Atlantic Baking Co., Inc. (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 891, 894-895, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 44 (45-day statute of limitations which starts from mailing of notice of findings and findings is not extended five days under the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 which authorizes a five-day extension for service by mail so that petition for writ of mandate that was filed 50 days after mailing of notice of findings and findings was not timely filed under Labor Code § 3725)].

- Labor Code § 5410 (five-year time period from date of injury to file petition to reopen worker's compensation case). Fair notice to employers required that claims to reopen benefits be filed within five years of the date of injury. Untimely claims cannot be acted upon by the WCAB, as the Board lacks jurisdiction to recognize a late claim against an employer [Granite Construction Co. v. Workers'

Compensation Appeals Board (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 1453,1461-1462, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 828] .

- Pub Res. Code § 4601.3 (30-day statute of limitations for filing a petition for writ of administrative mandate to challenge decisions of the Board of Forestry and Fire Protection under Section 4601.3 was controlling over Gov. Code § 11523 time limits for filing mandate petition) [Cockshott v. Dept of Forestry and Fire Protection (2004) 125 Cal. App. 4th 235, 238-240, 22 Cal. Rptr.3d 675] .

- Pub. Res. Code § 21167(b) (30-day statute of limitations to file writ of mandamus to challenge notice of determination by agency under Pub. Res. Code § 21152(a) [(Citizens for a Megaplex-Free Alameda v. City of Alameda (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 91, 108-110, 56 Cal. Rptr.3d 728 (writ of mandate challenging disposition and development agreement and mitigated negative declaration was untimely because it was not filed within 30 days of the city filing the notice of determination. It was too late to file the writ five months later.)]

- Pub. Res. Code § 21167(d) (determination that preparation of environmental impact report not required) [Stockton Citizens for Sensible Planning v. City of Stockton (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 332, 336-338, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 632 (letter from director of city department to developer was not approval of project sufficient to start 35-day limitations period running nor was letter a determination by a public agency)].

- Pub. Res. Code § 21167.4(a) (90-day statute of limitations for requesting a hearing after filing petition for writ of mandate challenging certification of environmental impact report) [Leavitt v. County of Madera (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 1502, 1507-1508, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 101 (residents of county who challenged county's approval of residential development project and certification of environmental impact report complied with requirements of governing statute when they requested a hearing, even though they did not request a hearing date)].

- Pub. Res. Code § 21167.4(a) (Court challenger who alleged CEQA violations as to the adequacy of an EIR and who filed a writ of administrative mandate proceeding in Superior Court failed to request hearing on merits of CEQA violations within 90 days of filing mandate action as required by law); [Fiorentino v. City of Fresno (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 596, 598, 59 Cal. Rptr.3d 30 (CEQA petition brought by challengers was properly dismissed because of failure to file request for hearing within 90 days of filing petition. Filing the request for hearing on the 91st day did not cure the failure to meet the deadline for requesting a hearing under the statute)]. Failure to file within 90 days meant that dismissal of mandate action was required. Failure to file was caused by attorney for challenger whose mistake was determined by Court of Appeal to be inexcusable neglect which did not justify relief from dismissal under Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b) [Nacimiento Regional Water Management Advisory Committee v. Monterey County Water Resources Agency (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 961, 964-965, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 921] . However, in another case, the Court of Appeal held that another challenger (ASDAN) properly requested a hearing under the same statute within 90 days of filing CEQA petition in court. This is because the challenger filed a request for a hearing with the court within 90 days, and that is all that the law requires [Association for Sensible Dev. at Northstar, Inc v. Placer County (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1289, 1292, 1295, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 440] . Similarly, another Court of Appeal held that a challenger's request for hearing was timely, notwithstanding that the challenger did not request a hearing date at the time of requesting a hearing. The Court held that Pub. Res. Code § 21167.4 requires a timely request for a hearing, but does not require that the request set a hearing date [Leavitt v. County of Madera (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 1502, 1507, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 101] .

- Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 18622, 19059, 19060 (two years) (taxpayer's failure to report adjustment on federal income tax due for a particular year to Franchise Tax Board results in the inapplicability of California statute requiring Board to give notice to taxpayer of state tax deficiency within two years of taxpayer reporting adjustment. Notice of deficiency assessment can be given by Board at any time; four year general statute of limitations for state tax deficiency assessments (Rev. & Tax. Code § 19057) is not applicable to this case) [Ordlock v. Franchise Tax Bd., 38 Cal. 4th 897, 911-912, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 212, 135 P.3d 628] .

- Welf. & Inst. Code § 10962 (decision affecting application for or receipt of public social services).

- Welf. & Inst. Code § 14171(j) (six month statute of limitations) [see Westside Hospital v. Belshe (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 672, 674, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 768 ; Florence Western Medical Center v. Bonta (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 493, 500-501, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 609 (six month time period starts to run from date that affected party receives notice of decision by mailing by certified mail copy of decision to party)].

The Court of Appeal reversed the granting of a demurrer by the trial court on statute of limitations grounds to a complaint filed that challenged the granting of a power plant development application by the California Energy Commission (CEC). The decision of the CEC approving the development project was issued on March 21, 2001. The decision was filed with the CEC docket unit on March 26, 2001. The complaint was filed on May 11, 2001. The applicable limitations statute, Pub. Resources Code § 25901, provides that a writ of mandate must be filed within 30 days after the CEC issues its decision. The court held that the decision was final for purposes of judicial review 30 days after the decision was filed with the CEC docket unit, and therefore the administrative mandamus complaint was filed within the limitations period. This was because a CEC regulation, Cal. Code Reg. Tit. 20, § 1720.4, provided that the CEC can specify in a decision an effective date different than the date of filing with the docket unit, and that specified date is controlling. In this case, the CEC decision specified that the decision was final for purposes of judicial review 30 days after the date of filing the decision with the docket unit. The court concluded that the finality provision in the decision was controlling [Figueroa v. California Energy Resources Conservation and Development Comm'n. (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 1115, 1120-1121, 2 Cal. Rptr. 3d 376] .

An administrative entity may not establish, by ordinance, regulation, or rule, a limitation period that is shorter than the limitation period provided or authorized by statute [Hittle v. Santa Barbara County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 374, 385-388, 216 Cal. Rptr. 733, 703 P.2d 73] .

If no such specific statute governs, then the statute of limitations applicable to an action for a writ of mandate depends on the nature of the right or obligation to be enforced by the action [Green v. Obledo (1981) 29 Cal. 3d 126, 141 n.10, 172 Cal. Rptr. 206, 624 P.2d 256 ; Ragan v. City of Hawthorne (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1361, 1367, 261 Cal. Rptr. 219] . When the action is one based on a statutory liability, the proceeding is governed by the three-year period prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 338(a) for "an action upon a liability created by statute" [Urban Habitat Program v. City of Pleasanton (2008) 164 Cal. App. 4th 1561, 1578-1579, 80 Cal. Rptr. 3d 300 ; Hogar v. Community Development Commission of Escondido (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 1288, 1295-1296, 2 Cal. Rptr. 3d 497 (three year time period of Code Civ. Proc. § 338(a) applies to claim of plaintiff that city redevelopment agency improperly calculated payments to a redevelopment related housing fund); Raymond v. Christian (1937) 24 Cal. App. 2d 92, 113-116, 74 P.2d 536 ; Ragan v. City of Hawthorne (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1361, 1367, 261 Cal. Rptr. 219 ; see also Hittle v. Santa Barbara County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 374, 386, 216 Cal. Rptr. 733, 703 P.2d 73 ; Pacific Coast Medical Enterprises v. Department of Benefit Payments (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 197, 215, 189 Cal. Rptr. 558] . However, claims for and administrative reclassification decisions by PERS are not subject to the three year time period for statutory claims and claims based on mistake under Code Civ. Proc. § 338(a), (d) [City of Oakland v. Public Employees' Retirement System (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 29, 47, 51, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 151] . If no other limitation period applies, the action is governed by the four-year period set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 343 for "[a]n action for relief not herein before provided for" [Geneva Towers Limited Partnership v. City and County of San Francisco (2003) 29 Cal. 4th 769, 773-775, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 107, 60 P.3d 692 (Code Civ. Proc. § 343 does not apply to lawsuit against city and county for property tax refund because the specific six month statute of limitations in Rev. & Tax. Code § 5141 applies to all actions for property tax refunds); Hittle v. Santa Barbara County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 374, 386, 216 Cal. Rptr.733, 703 P.2d 73 ; Valvo v. University of Southern California (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 887, 894, 136 Cal. Rptr. 865 ; Allen v. Humboldt County Board of Supervisors (1963) 220 Cal. App. 2d 877, 884-885, 34 Cal. Rptr. 232] .

[b] Decisions Subject to the APA

Gov. Code § 11523 establishes the applicable limitation periods for judicial review of decisions subject to provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act (APA) [see Gov. Code §§ 11400, 11501; Fair Employment and Housing Commission v. Superior Court (2004) 115 Cal. App. 4th 629, 633-634, 9 Cal. Rptr. 3d 409 (30-day statute of Gov. Code § 11523 applies to petitions for writs of administrative mandate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 challenging decisions of the Fair Employment and Housing Commission because the FEHC's governing statutes, and regulations, incorporate requirements of the California Administrative Procedure Act, including Gov. Code § 11523); Allen v. Humboldt County Board of Supervisors (1963) 220 Cal. App. 2d 877, 882-883, 34 Cal. Rptr. 232 ; see also Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA); for discussion of when the APA applies, see Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication, § 473.15]. Under Gov. Code § 11523, a petition for a writ of mandate to review the decision of an administrative agency must be filed within one of the following periods [see Ginns v. Savage (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 520, 523, 39 Cal. Rptr. 377, 393 P.2d 689 ; Kupka v. Board of Administration (1981) 122 Cal. App. 3d 791, 795, 176 Cal. Rptr. 214 ; DeCordoba v. Governing Board (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 155, 159, 139 Cal. Rptr. 312 ; see also Hittle v. Santa Barbara County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 374, 379, 216 Cal. Rptr. 733, 703 P.2d 73] :

- Within 30 days after the last day on which the agency can order reconsideration; or
- Within 30 days after the delivery of the record to petitioner, if, within 10 days after the last day on which reconsideration can be ordered, the petitioner requests the agency to prepare all or any part of the administrative record.

Appellants are not required to pay for the transcript at the time the request to prepare the transcript is submitted to extend the filing deadline under Gov. Code § 11523 [Jahangiri v. Medical Board of California (1995) 40 Cal. App. 4th 1657, 1663-1664, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 187] . Under the new act, Gov. Code § 11523 (operative July 1, 1997) provides, in relevant part, that upon request of the petitioner for a record of the proceedings, the complete record of the proceedings, or the parts thereof as are designated by the petitioner in the request, shall be prepared by the Office of Administrative Hearings or the agency and shall be delivered to the petitioner within 30 days after the request, which time shall be extended for good cause shown upon payment of the fee specified in Gov. Code § 69950 for the transcript, the cost of preparation of other portions of the record and for certification thereof [Gov. Code § 11523].

Under the APA, an agency's power to order reconsideration expires as follows [Gov. Code § 11521(a); see Ginns v. Savage (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 520, 525, 39 Cal. Rptr. 377, 393 P.2d 689 ; Moran v. Board of Medical Examiners (1948) 32 Cal. 2d 301, 304-306, 196 P.2d 20] :

- Thirty days after the delivery or mailing of a decision to the petitioner;

- If the agency establishes a date within that 30-day period as the effective date of the decision, on the effective date; or

- If the agency establishes the date on which a stay that does not exceed 30 days terminates as the effective date, on the effective date.

Notwithstanding the provisions of Gov. Code § 11521 that allow the agency to terminate the time for ordering reconsideration, the 30-day period allowed by Gov. Code § 11523 for the filing of a petition and the 10-day period that it allows for requesting the record do not begin to run until a copy of the decision is delivered or mailed to the petitioner [De Cordoba v. Governing Board (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 155, 160, 139 Cal. Rptr. 312 ; Koons v. Placer Hills Union Sch. Dist. (1976) 61 Cal. App. 3d 484, 490, 132 Cal. Rptr. 243] . Petitions that are not filed within the applicable time limits are barred because Gov. Code § 11523 is a statute of limitations [Vo v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 820, 825, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 127 ; California Standardbred Sires Stakes Com., Inc. v. California Horse Racing Bd. (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 751, 756-759, 282 Cal. Rptr. 656 ; Kupka v. Board of Administration (1981) 122 Cal. App. 3d 791, 794, 176 Cal. Rptr. 214] .

Gov. Code § 11523 applies only when judicial review is sought after an agency has held a formal hearing under the APA [see Gov. Code § 11400, 11410.10, 11523; for discussion, see Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication]. Thus, this limitation period does not apply, for example, to a petition for mandate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 seeking to compel an agency to hold such a hearing [Ragan v. City of Hawthorne (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1361, 1365-1367, 261 Cal. Rptr. 219] . This limitation period also does not apply when a specific statute applicable to a particular agency is controlling [Gov. Code § 11523; see, e.g., Veh. Code § 14401 (Department of Motor Vehicles); Sinetos v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 1172, 1175-1176, 207 Cal. Rptr. 207 ; Bus. & Prof. Code § 19463 (California Horse Racing Board); California Standardbred Sires Stakes Com. Inc. v. California Horse Racing Bd. (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 751, 758-759, 282 Cal. Rptr. 656] .

[c] Local Agency Decisions Reviewable in Administrative Mandate Proceedings Subject to Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6

Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6(b) establishes the applicable limitation period for commencement of administrative mandate proceedings to review adjudicative administrative decisions of local agencies that suspend, demote, or dismiss an officer or employee; revoke or deny an application for a permit, license, or other entitlement; impose a civil or administrative penalty, fine, charge or cost; or deny an application for a retirement benefit or allowance [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6(e); County of San Diego v. Assessment Appeals Bd. No. 2 (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 548, 554, 195 Cal. Rptr. 895]. Section 1094.6 applies to those agencies, other than school districts, that are defined as local agencies by Gov. Code § 54951, which defines a local agency as a county, city, whether general law or chartered, city and county, town, school district, municipal corporation, district, political subdivision, or any board, commission or agency thereof, or other local public agency.

Under Code Civ. Proc § 1094.6, an administrative mandate petition to review a local agency decision must be filed no later than the ninetieth day after the date on which the decision becomes final [see Hittle v. Santa Barbara County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 374, 385, 216 Cal. Rptr. 733, 703 P.2d 73 ; Holden v. Los Angeles City Ethics Comm'n (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 1274, 1276, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 858 (petition for writ of mandate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6 challenging decision of city ethics commission was time barred because petition was filed more than 90 days after date decision was final; decision was final when Commission adopted findings and an order at a public meeting); Tielsch v. City of Anaheim (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 576, 578, 206 Cal. Rptr. 740 ; for discussion of when a decision becomes final under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6(b), see § 474A.10[3][b]], unless the petitioner files a sufficient request for preparation of an administrative record within 10 days after the decision becomes final; if a sufficient request is filed within the 10-day period, the 90-day period is extended to no later than the thirtieth day following the date on which the record is mailed or personally delivered to the petitioner or the petitioner's attorney of record [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6(b), (d)]. The 90-day limitation period starts to run only when the required notice is served on the party; service on the party's attorney does not start this period running [Herman v. Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transportation Authority (1999) 71 Cal. App. 4th 819, 823, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 144] . A petition was untimely when notice and acknowledgment of service by the agency was not completed (by the city clerk signing the form) until the 91st day after the agency action was final. Service requirements were governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 415.30 [Wagner v. City of South Pasadena (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 943, 949-950, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 91] .

The 90-day time period under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6(b) does not begin to run until the notice required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6(f) is given to the party seeking to petition for judicial review [Liang v. San Francisco Residential Rent Stabilization & Arbitration Bd. (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 775, 776-777, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 715 (tenant who challenged board order filed petition on 91st day after date of mailing notice. The Court of Appeal upheld dismissal of the petition because the petition was untimely and was not properly filed within 90 days); Cummings v. City of Vernon (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 919, 922, 263 Cal. Rptr. 97 ; El Dorado Palm Springs, Ltd. v. Rent Review Com. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 335, 344-345, 281 Cal. Rptr. 327] . The agency mailing the notice under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6(f) must include a written statement verified by oath or affirmation, or a written statement attesting to the date that the decision was mailed to the party by first class mail, postage prepaid. This is what the statutory language "including a copy of the affidavit or certificate of mailing" means for purposes of triggering the 90-day statute of limitations under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6(b). Failure to include the written statement with the notice of decision precludes the statute of limitations from starting to run [Donnellan v. City of Novato (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 1097, 1106-1108, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 882] . When the final day of the 90-day period day falls on a Sunday, and the record is silent as to when notice of judicial review limitations was given, a petition filed on the following Monday day is not barred [Lowe v. City of Commerce (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 1075, 1079-1080, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 356] .

A petition for administrative mandamus that challenged a decision of a school district to withhold moneys owed to a contractor for violations of prevailing wage laws following an administrative hearing was timely filed within the 90 day time period of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6, which was the applicable statute of limitations. The trial court erred in applying the limitations period of Gov. Code §§ 11521 and 11523, which do not apply to school district administrative hearings because these sections are limited to administrative proceedings conducted by administrative law judges from the Office of Administrative Hearings [Mobley v. Los Angeles Unified School Dist. (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 1221, 1243-1244] .

Any conflicting state or federal law that provides a shorter period of limitation applies instead of Section 1094.6 [Code

Civ. Proc. § 1094.6(g) (in other respects, Section 1094.6 prevails over any conflicting provision in any otherwise applicable law)].

A court action for declaratory and injunctive relief brought by local business owners to challenge the validity of a zoning ordinance adopted by a city was untimely and barred by the applicable statute of limitations, which requires that a challenge to the ordinance must be brought within 90 days of the adoption of the ordinance by the city. The challenge was brought four years after the ordinance was adopted [Gov. Code § 65009; Buena Park Motel Association v. City of Buena Park (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 302, 308-309, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 645] . This specific statute of limitations [Gov. Code § 65009] was applicable rather than the 90-day time period of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6(b) because Section 1094.6 only applies when a local agency makes an administrative adjudicative decision, which was not the case because the city adopted an ordinance.

[3] Commencement and Running of Limitation Period

Most special statutes that establish limitation periods for specific types of proceedings state when the limitation periods begin to run [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6(b), (d), discussed under [2][c], above; Gov. Code § 11523, discussed under [2][b], above]. For example, Welf. & Inst. Code § 14171(j) provides that the "final decision of the director shall be reviewable in accordance with Section 1094.5 of the Code of Civil Procedure within six months of the issuance of the director's final decision." The term "issuance" in this statute refers to the date the decision is adopted, not the date it is mailed [Westside Hospital v. Belshe (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 672, 679, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 768 (petition untimely when filed more than six months after date decision was adopted)]. Another court held, however, that the term "issuance" in this same statute refers to the date a decision is mailed rather than the date it is adopted [HealthSmart Pacific Inc. v. Belshe (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 1202, 1207-1208, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 685] .

In the absence of an express statutory provision, the commencement and running of the applicable limitation period is governed by the following rules:

- The applicable limitation period ordinarily starts to run when the underlying right or duty sought to be enforced in the proceeding first arose, and not on completion of the administrative proceedings instituted to enforce an underlying right or secure performance of an underlying duty [Monroe v. Trustees of the California State Colleges (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 399, 405 n.2, 99 Cal. Rptr. 129, 491 P.2d 1105 ; Dillon v. Board of Pension Commrs. (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 427, 430-431, 116 P.2d 37 ; Farmer v. City of Inglewood (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d 130, 140-141, 185 Cal. Rptr. 9 ; Union Paving Co. v. City Council (1961) 189 Cal. App. 2d 440, 442, 11 Cal. Rptr. 351] .

- The applicable statute of limitations will not start to run in cases of employee misconduct until the administrative agency discovers, or in the exercise of reasonable diligence should have discovered, the misconduct even though the misconduct itself happened at an earlier time [Gov. Code § 3304(d) (one-year statute of limitation for cases of employee discipline based on public agencies discovery of misconduct); Haney v. City of Los Angeles (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1, 8-9, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 411] .

- The limitation period is tolled during the time the petitioner is pursuing administrative remedies to secure enforcement of an underlying right or performance of an underlying duty [Monroe v. Trustees of the California State Colleges (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 399, 405 n.2, 99 Cal. Rptr. 129, 491 P.2d 1105 ; Dillon v. Board of Pension Commrs. (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 427, 431, 116 P.2d 37 ; Farmer v. City of Inglewood (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d 130, 140-141, 185 Cal. Rptr. 9] .

- The limitations period is tolled for 30 days under 28 U.S.C. Section 1367 when a federal district court dismisses without prejudice a federal civil rights lawsuit under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 that includes a pendent claim for administrative mandamus in federal court. The pendent claim for administrative mandamus is governed by the tolling provisions of Section 1367 [Guevara v. Venture County Community College Dist. (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 167,169, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 50].

- The limitation period for filing a complaint with the administrative agency is not tolled by filing a lawsuit in court before seeking relief from the agency [Lab. Code § 1700.44(c); Greenfield v. Superior Court (2003) 106 Cal. App. 4th 743, 748-749, 131 Cal. Rptr. 2d 179 (talent agency act claim must be filed with labor commissioner within one year of occurrence of violation of act. Filing lawsuit in superior court within that one-year time period does not toll statute of limitations for filing administrative claim with labor commissioner)].

- When the underlying duty to be enforced is conditioned on a demand for performance, the petitioner cannot postpone commencement of the limitation period by deferring an appropriate demand. The period starts to run when the petitioner was first entitled to make the demand [Dillon v. Board of Pension Commrs. (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 427, 430, 116 P.2d 37 ; Union Paving Co. v. City Council (1961) 189 Cal. App. 2d 440, 442, 11 Cal. Rptr. 351] .

The Second District Division One California Court of Appeal held that equitable tolling of the applicable statute of limitations [Unemp. Ins. Code § 410] for challenging denial of unemployment insurance benefits by filing a petition for a writ of administrative mandate applied and continued after the superior court denied reconsideration of an order sustaining demurrer for misjoinder of parties until filing of new petition for writ of administrative mandate correcting that error [Tarkington v. California Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 1494, 1502-1504, 92 Cal. Rptr. 3d 131] .

[4] Expedited Judicial Review of First Amendment Related Claims

In 1999 the Legislature enacted Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8 in response to the Ninth Circuit's opinion in Baby Tam & Co., Inc. v. City of Las Vegas (1998 9th Cir.) 154 F.3d 1097 , in which a federal court of appeals panel held that a city ordinance regarding a business license was unconstitutional in that it did not provide for prompt judicial review, including a prompt hearing and a prompt judicial decision, of a business' challenge to enforcement of the ordinance based on claims that the ordinance constituted a prior restraint on constitutionally protected free speech [see Baby Tam & Co., Inc. v. City of Las Vegas (1998, 9th Cir.) 154 F.3d 1097, 1101-1102 (challenge by adult bookstore)].

Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8 provides for expedited judicial review of first amendment related claims that arise in permit proceedings [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(a)]. It applies to review the issuance, revocation, suspension, or denial of a permit or other entitlement for expressive conduct protected by U.S. Const., amend. I [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(a); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(b) (defining "permit," "entitlement," "permit applicant," and "public agency" for purposes of the statute)]. A public agency has the authority to designate permits subject to review under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(a) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(c)].

The expedited judicial review procedure provides for shortened time periods for seeking judicial review [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(d)]:

- Within five court days after receipt of written notification from a permit applicant that the permit applicant will seek judicial review of a public agency's action on the permit, the public agency must prepare, certify, and make available the administrative record to the permit applicant.

- Either the public agency or the permit applicant may bring an action in accordance with the procedure set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8. If the permit applicant brings the action, the action shall be in the form of a petition for writ of mandate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 or Code Civ. Proc. §

1094.5, as appropriate.

- The party bringing the action pursuant under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8 must file and serve the petition on the respondent no later than 21 calendar days following the public agency's final decision on the permit. The title page of the petition must contain the following language in 18-point type: "ATTENTION: THIS MATTER IS ENTITLED TO PRIORITY AND SUBJECT TO THE EXPEDITED HEARING AND REVIEW PROCEDURES CONTAINED IN SECTION 1094.8 OF THE CODE OF CIVIL PROCEDURE."

- The clerk of the court must set a hearing for review of the petition no later than 25 calendar days from the date the petition is filed. Moving, opposition, and reply papers shall be filed as provided in the California Rules of Court. The petitioner shall lodge the administrative record with the court no later than 10 calendar days in advance of the hearing date.

- Following the conclusion of the hearing, the court shall render its decision in an expeditious manner consistent with constitutional requirements in view of the particular facts and circumstances. In no event shall the decision be rendered later than 20 calendar days after the matter is submitted or 50 calendar days after the date the petition is filed, whichever is earlier.

Additional provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8 govern the assignment of temporary judges to handle expedited review proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(e)], and the parties' right to waive, by joint stipulation, any of the time limits [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(f)].

The 21-day statute of limitations codified in Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8 (d) for actions seeking to review issuance of permits that affect expressive conduct did not apply to a challenge by a third-party resident of a county to a decision of the county board of supervisors to approve 14 conditional use permits requested by a billboard advertiser for billboards to be placed in the desert [Stearn v. County of San Bernadino (2009) 170 Cal. App. 4th 434, 443-444, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 330] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. When Proceedings May Be Barred or Dismissed as Untimely

41A-474A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 474A.21

§ 474A.21 Proceeding May Be Barred by Laches

The equitable defense of laches may be applied to bar a mandate proceeding even when it has been commenced well within the applicable statute of limitations [Miller v. Eisenhower Medical Center (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 614, 624, 166 Cal. Rptr. 826, 614 P.2d 258 ; Conti v. Board of Civil ServiceCommissioners (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 351, 366, 82 Cal. Rptr. 337, 461 P.2d 617 ; Ragan v. City of Hawthorne (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1361, 1368, 261 Cal. Rptr. 219 ; People v. Department of Housing & Community Dev. (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 185, 195, 119 Cal. Rptr. 266 ; San Bernardino Valley Audubon Society v. City of Moreno Valley (1996) 44 Cal. App. 4th 593, 606, 609, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 897 (mandate action barred by laches as a matter of law)]. A defense of laches may be based on a delay in prosecuting a mandate proceeding as well as a delay in instituting it [Vernon Fire Fighters Assn. v. City of Vernon (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 710, 720, 223 Cal. Rptr. 871] .

In general, applicability of the laches defense is a question of fact to be to be determined in light of all applicable circumstances, and the trial court exercises a wide discretion in deciding whether the defense should be sustained [Miller v. Eisenhower Medical Center (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 614, 624, 166 Cal. Rptr. 826, 614 P.2d 258 ; Conti v. Board of Civil Service Commissioners (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 351, 366, 82 Cal. Rptr. 337, 461 P.2d 617 ; Concerned Citizens of Palm Desert, Inc. v. Board of Supervisors (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 257, 265, 113 Cal. Rptr. 328] . A mere lapse of time can never be sufficient, by itself, to establish the defense. The evidence must show that the petitioner (1) delayed unreasonably and (2) acquiesced in the decision or order complained of or that adverse parties were prejudiced by the delay [Miller v. Eisenhower Medical Center (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 614, 624, 166 Cal. Rptr. 826, 614 P.2d 258 ; Conti v. Board of Civil Service Commissioners (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 351, 366, 82 Cal. Rptr. 337, 461 P.2d 617 ; Ragan v. City of Hawthorne (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1361, 1368, 261 Cal. Rptr. 219] . The party asserting the defense has the burden of proving the necessary elements [Green v. Board of Dental Examiners (1996) 47 Cal. App. 4th 786, 793-795, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 140 ; Pennel v. Pond Union School Dist. (1973) 29 Cal. App. 3d 832, 840, 105 Cal. Rptr. 817] . Prejudice is not presumed to have resulted from a showing of unreasonable delay, but must be affirmatively demonstrated [Miller v. Eisenhower Medical Center (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 614, 624, 166 Cal. Rptr. 826, 614 P.2d 258 ; Conti v. Board of Civil Service Commissioners (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 351, 361, 82 Cal. Rptr. 337, 461 P.2d 617 ; Robert F. Kennedy Medical Center v. Department of Health Services (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 1357, 1362, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 180 ; Ragan v. City of Hawthorne (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1361, 1368, 261 Cal. Rptr. 219] .

If there is an analogous statute of limitations that may be borrowed for purposes of measuring what time period constitutes reasonable delay and an agency's delay in taking action exceeds that period, the burden of proof as to both elements of laches (unreasonable delay and prejudice) shifts to the agency in the form of a rebuttable presumption. In this situation, the agency must offer evidence showing why laches does not bar the agency action [Fountain Valley Regional Hospital and Medical Center v. Bonta (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 316, 324-326, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 139] .

The laches defense barred the filing of a petition for a writ of administrative mandate challenging discharge of an employee when more than three years passed from the date of the agency decision before the superior court ruled on a summary judgment motion brought by the agency on the petition. The delay period included both the time before, and the time after the filing of the petition for administrative mandate. The employee failed to pursue court determination of his petition for more than 18 months after waiting a substantial period of time (another 18 months) to file the petition. The unreasonable delay element was satisfied on these facts. The prejudice element is satisfied because if the former employee wins his lawsuit and is reinstated with back pay, the agency would have to had to make double wage payments as well as having to reorganize its employment structure to include the reinstated employee. The laches defense precluded relief under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6. It was the only applicable timing defense because the agency failed to notify the employee of the 90-day statutory of limitations under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6. The granting of a summary judgment by the superior court based on the defense of laches is reviewed de novo [Johnson v. City of Loma Linda (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 61, 68-70, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 316, 5 P.3d 874] .

When the laches defense is raised on appeal, the litigant raising that defense must normally have raised the laches defense before the agency or the trial court and, if not, the laches defense is waived unless the facts showing the elements of laches are undisputed and shown by the evidence in the case [City of Oakland v. Public Employees' Retirement System (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 29, 51-52, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 151] . The laches defense requires specific fact findings as to delay and prejudice that must first be developed by evidence at an administrative hearing before the legal and equitable issues can be considered by the court on judicial review [Piscioneri v. City of Ontario (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 1037, 1048-1049, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 38] .

The California Court of Appeal rejected the application of the laches defense to a lawsuit brought by the City and County of San Francisco against a property owner to enforce requirements for adequate sprinkler systems in buildings to maintain compliance with fire safety regulations. The court held that laches is not available as a defense when a city's lawsuit concerns a public policy issue, and the issue of fire safety for high rise buildings is such a public policy issue that precludes recognition of the laches defense [City and County of San Francisco v. Ballard (2006) 136 Cal. App. 4th 381, 394-396, 39 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1] .

The California Court of Appeal accepted the laches defense and held that it precluded a teacher's lawsuit for reinstatement as a regular employee against the San Francisco Community College District [Womack v. San Francisco Community College District (2007) 147 Cal. App. 4th 854, 865-866, 54 Cal. Rptr 3d 558] . The court held that the teacher waited too long to challenge an adverse personnel decision. Public employees who want to challenge adverse personnel decision by their employers must see writ review within a reasonable time after completion of the administrative proceeding. The teacher waited nine years to claim the right to full time employment from the time that the teacher first taught a full time unit load. The teacher filed a writ of mandamus action under Code Civ. Proc. § 1085, but then waited three years to prosecute the mandamus action and obtain a hearing on the merits. The court of appeal did not accept the reasons offered by the plaintiff for these delays, specifically ignorance of the law, because the teacher had an experienced attorney to represent him. The court held that the teacher acquiesced in the challenged employment action and that the school district was prejudiced by the substantial delay in making the teacher's challenge in that the district had the potential for increased liability for back pay in the form of a seven year wage differential if the teacher had been misclassified [Womack v. San Francisco Community College District (2007) 147 Cal. App. 4th 854, 865-866, 54 Cal. Rptr 3d 558] .

The California court of Appeal rejected the application of a laches defense to a lawsuit brought by a public employee union against a school district to challenge the deduction of pay from classified employees who were on disability leave, The laches defense was rejected by the court of appeal because the school district failed to meet the burden of proof of showing that there was any prejudice to the district from the union's alleged delay in objecting to the deduction practice [California School Employees Association v. Tustin Unified School District (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 510, 521-522, 55 Cal. Rptr.3d 739 (equitable estoppel and unclean hands defenses were also rejected)].

Another California Court of Appeal rejected the application of the laches defense to actions taken by the California Coastal Commission ordering that homeowners who had developed a three hole golf course on their land restore the land to its native state as an area of dunes with vegetation. Laches was rejected as a defense to enforcement of the order by the Commission, because there was no unreasonable delay in the enforcement of the easement, no acquiescence by the commission in the easement violation and the application of the defense would nullify an important public policy [Feduniak v. California Coastal Commission (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 1346, 1381-1382, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 591] .

Chapter 474A TIMING OF JUDICIAL REVIEW OF AGENCY DECISIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. When Proceedings May Be Barred or Dismissed as Untimely

§ 474A.22 Proceeding May Be Dismissed If Moot

A writ of mandate does not issue when it will be useless or ineffective [Roscoe v. Goodale (1951) 105 Cal. App. 2d 271, 273, 232 P.2d 879] , or when it will be of no practical benefit to the petitioner [Clementine v. Board of Civ. Ser. Commrs. (1941) 47 Cal. App. 2d 112, 114, 117 P.2d 369] . A mandate proceeding is dismissed as moot in these instances [Roscoe v. Goodale (1951) 105 Cal. App. 2d 271, 274, 232 P.2d 879 ; Clementine v. Board of Civ. Ser. Commrs. (1941) 47 Cal. App. 2d 112, 114-115, 117 P.2d 369] . A mandate proceeding is also moot when a public entity has complied with a judgment while challenging its validity in the reviewing court [MHC Operating Limited Partnership v. City of San Jose (2003) 106 Cal. App. 4th 204, 214, 130 Cal. Rptr. 2d 564 ; Marshall v. Pasadena Unified School Dist. (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 1241, 1258-1259, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 344] .

A mandate proceeding is moot when, as a result of events occurring after the action or decision at issue, (1) the issuance of a writ will no longer benefit the petitioner [see, e.g., Rogers v. Board of Directors of Pasadena (1933) 218 Cal. 221, 224, 22 P.2d 509 ; Clementine v. Board of Civ. Ser. Commrs. (1941) 47 Cal. App. 2d 112, 114-115, 117 P.2d 369] ; or (2) the administrative entity is no longer empowered or able to perform the duty at issue [see, e.g., Treber v. Superior Court (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 128, 134, 65 Cal. Rptr. 330, 436 P.2d 330 ; McClatchy v. Matthews (1901) 135 Cal. 274, 276, 67 P. 134] . The administrative entity's belated performance of a duty sought to be enforced may also render the proceeding moot [see, e.g., Bollotin v. Workman Service Co. (1954) 128 Cal. App. 2d 339, 342, 275 P.2d 599 , cert. denied, 349 U.S. 969, 75 S. Ct. 892, 99 L. Ed. 1290 ; Mitchell v. Warren (1950) 95 Cal. App. 2d 594, 213 P.2d 413] . A lawsuit for declaratory and injunctive relief is moot when the defendant voluntarily, and in good faith, discontinued the challenged conduct. That includes circumstances in which a community college district revised policies to eliminate permit requirements (that were challenged in a lawsuit) after the lawsuit was filed [O'Toole v. Superior Court (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 488, 513, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 531] .

A mandate proceeding is not moot when, although the statute or regulation under appeal is repealed or expires of its own force, a material part of the statute or regulation is reenacted [Montalvo v. Madera Unified Sch. Dist. Bd. of Education (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 323, 329, 98 Cal. Rptr. 593 ; Californians for Political Reform Foundation v. Fair Political Practices Comm'n. (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 472, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 606 (emergency regulation expired, but agency adopted permanent regulation with similar provisions)]. A litigant's claims for injunctive relief based on violations of a former statute are not mooted by a current statute changing the law when the current statute does not immunize or excuse the agency from liability for violating previous law [Syngenta Crop Protection, Inc v. Helliker (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 1135, 1158-1159, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 191] .

An action is not moot when the court decision can still have some practical impact [Simi Corporation v. Garamendi (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1496, 1503-1504, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 207 (employer plaintiff's settlement of related civil lawsuit against workers' compensation insurer did not make employer's mandamus action against insurance commissioner moot because employer reserved right to maintain mandamus action, and insurer agreed to comply with results of mandamus action as part of settlement)], or the parties requested remedies are still available and can be granted [McKee v. Orange Unified School Dist. (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 1310, 1315-1316, 2 Cal. Rptr. 3d 774 (litigant sought declaratory and injunctive relief against school district to prevent future violations of the Brown Act (local agency open meeting act). This relief was still available even thought school district sold the property that was the subject of the agenda item)].

An important exception to the general rule requiring dismissal of moot proceedings occurs when a proceeding presents issues of public importance that are likely to recur; a court has inherent discretion to decide these issues even when the proceeding is technically moot [Atwater Elementary School District v. California Department of General Services (2007) 41 Cal. 4th 227, 230-231, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 233, 158 P.3d 794 (moot case will be decided because it is a matter of statewide importance); State of Cal. ex rel State Lands Com. v. Superior Court (1995) 11 Cal 4th 50, 61, 44 Cal. Rptr. 2d 399, 900 P.2d 648 (moot case will be decided because it is a matter of statewide importance); Ballard v. Anderson (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 873, 876-877, 95 Cal. Rptr. 1, 484 P.2d 1345 ; Board of Education v. Watson (1966) 63 Cal. 2d 829, 832, 48 Cal. Rptr. 481, 409 P.2d 481 ; Corrales v. Bradstreet (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 33, 46-47, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 440 (moot case will be decided because it is a matter of general public interest that is likely to recur); Ombudsman Services of Northern California v. Superior Court (2007) 154 Cal. App. 4th 1233, 1240, 65 Cal. Rptr. 3d 456 (case may not be moot because of conditional nature of settlement but also matter to be decided is a matter of general public interest that is likely to recur); Californians for Alternatives to Toxics v. Cal. Dept. of Pesticide Reg. (2006) 136 Cal. App. 4th 1049, 1069-1070, 39 Cal. Rptr. 3d 393 (challenge to registration renewal on an annual basis was not mooted by agency decision to grant subsequent year renewal because important public policy issue are likely to recur, and the annual nature of renewals makes it likely that a judicial challenge to a prior renewal will not be completed before the next annual renewal happens); Californians for Fair Representation v. Superior Court (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 15, 22-23, 41 Cal. Rptr. 3d 148 (court of appeal decided to resolve technically moot issue that has significant public interest, and was likely to recur); Environmental Charter High Sch. v. Centinela Valley Union High Sch. Dist. (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 139, 144, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 417 (the expiration of 2003-2004 school year while an appeal was pending did not moot appeal of trial court order requiring district to provide facilities for charter school for 2003-2004 school year because the dispute between parties whether district was required to provide facilities to charter school was likely to recur in future school years); Santa Clara Valley Transportation Authority v. PUC (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 346, 355-356, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 270 (dispute between PUC and light rail transit district over whether PUC has jurisdiction over light rail crossings built by transit districts is matter of public importance that is likely to recur in the future with this or other transit districts); Bakersfield Citizens for Local Control v. City of Bakersfield (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 1184, 1202-1204, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 203 (lawsuit challenging CEQA compliance by City was not moot notwithstanding approval and building of part of shopping center subject to EIR requirement because City could require modifications of project as conditions of reapproval); Arnold v. California Exp. and State Fair (2004) 125 Cal. App. 4th 498, 503-504, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 790 (statutory issues and attorneys fees issues between parties not mooted by defendant's replacement of challenged contract during litigation process because these issues still have to be resolved by the courts); Tracy A. v. Superior Court (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 1309, 1313-1315, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 684 (continuing public interest in appellate court resolution of moot issue); Vernon v. State of California (2004) 116 Cal. App. 4th 114, 120-122, 10 Cal. Rptr. 3d 121 (continuing public interest in appellate court resolution of moot issue); Hernandez v. Gutierrez (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 168, 172-173, 176 n.3, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 307 (driver's death while appeal was pending did not moot appeal because issues on appeal are broad, likely to recur, and public interest in lawful enforcement of drunk driving laws, support applying mootness exception to this appeal); Defend the Bay v. City of Irvine (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 1261, 1278, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 176 (mandate proceeding to challenge adequacy of environmental impact report settled after oral argument on appeal; court refused to dismiss appeal on mootness grounds because the issues decided on appeal were important matters of continuing public interest); In re Stevens (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 1228, 1232-1233, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 168 (parolee challenged parole condition by writ of habeas corpus; challenged condition was voluntarily changed by Board of Prison Terms; Court of Appeal decided issue presented in appeal notwithstanding mootness claim because issue raised novel question of continuing public interest); Kirstowsky v. Superior Court (1956) 143 Cal. App. 2d 745, 749, 300 P.2d 163] . Moreover, California courts have adopted the federal mootness standard that allows review of moot issues when those issues are capable of repetition but not easily susceptible of review [Cal. State Personnel Bd. v. California State Employees Assn (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 758, 763, n.1, 31 Cal. Rptr. 3d 201, 115 P. 3d 506 (constitutional challenge by State Personnel Board to post and bid programs; issue of continuing public interest that is likely to recur but evade review); Alfredo A. v. Superior Court (1994) 6 Cal. 4th 1212, 1219, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 623, 865 P.2d 56 (non-administrative law case); Department of Corrections v. Office of Administrative Hearings (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 1100, 1106, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 473 (review of administrative hearing); Lindelli v. Town of San Anselmo (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 1099, 1104, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 453 (mandamus challenge to city award of an interim contract pending the results of a referendum)].

A mandate proceeding is not moot when the decision reached by the court on the merits will be binding in a related pending court proceeding between the same parties [Shafer v. Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department (2003) 106 Cal. App. 4th 1388, 1397-1398, 131 Cal. Rptr. 2d 670] .

County employee association sought disclosure under California Public Records Act [Gov. Code § 6250 et seq.] of county records related to reimbursement of travel expenses for judges and court management employees, which the Court of Appeal ruled were exempt from disclosure under the courts records exemption to the California Public Records Act [Gov. Code § 6252(a)]. The Superior Court for Orange County, a party to the lawsuit, sought to dismiss the petition on the grounds of mootness when the employee association conceded that the public records act did not apply, and because the superior court complied with the request under applicable court rules. The Judicial Council had adopted Rule 6.702, which required the trial courts to maintain records related to court budgets and management information, and to disclose these records upon a valid written request [Cal. Ct. Rule 6.702]. The Court of Appeal rejected the mootness arguments, holding that there was still a controversy between the parties as to whether the superior court fully complied with the disclosure request under Rule 6.702, and that the employees association still had a legitimate right to seek disclosure of the documents, even though the association's original reason, to facilitate salary increase negotiations, was no longer relevant because the salary increase had been reinstated. Furthermore, petitions to enforce disclosure of records under the Rule must be filed with the superior court, not the court of appeal [Orange County Employees Assoc. v. Superior Court (2004) 120 Cal. App. 4th 287, 294-296, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 201] .

[1] Generally

Scope of court's inquiry extends to whether administrative agency proceeded without or in excess of jurisdiction, whether there was fair trial, and whether there was prejudicial abuse of discretion. Woods v. Superior Court (1981) 28 Cal. 3d 668, 675, 170 Cal. Rptr. 484 Save Oxnard Shores v. California Coastal Com. (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 140, 148-149, 224 Cal. Rptr. 425

Unimportance of plaintiff's pleading being in form of petition for mandamus when proper basis for issuance of mandamus is alleged. Woods v. Superior Court (1981) 28 Cal. 3d 668, 673, 170 Cal. Rptr. 484, 620 P.2d 1032

Administrative mandamus pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is not possessed of separate and distinctive legal personality and is not removed from general law of mandamus or exempted from established principles, requirements, and limitations of general law of mandamus. Woods v. Superior Court (1981) 28 Cal. 3d 668, 673-674, 170 Cal. Rptr. 484, 620 P.2d 1032

Administrative mandamus under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is appropriate procedure for review of administrative order or decision resulting from adjudicatory proceeding. Sierra Club v. City of Hayward (1981) 28 Cal. 3d 840, 849, 171 Cal. Rptr. 619, 623 P.2d 180

Administrative decision is generally reviewable in proceeding for writ of mandate. Drummey v. State Bd. of Funeral Directors (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 75, 82-85, 87 P.2d 848 ; Whitten v. California State Board, etc. (1937) 8 Cal. 2d 444, 445-446, 65 P.2d 1296 (prohibition proceeding as inappropriate); Standard Oil Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1936) 6 Cal. 2d 557, 562-565, 59 P.2d 119 (certiorari proceeding as inappropriate)

Proceeding is occasionally subject to principles generally applied in criminal proceedings. Bravo v. Cabell (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 834, 838-840, 114 Cal. Rptr. 618, 523 P.2d 658

Adjudicatory decisions of all agencies, state and local, with few exceptions, are subject to review in mandate

proceeding governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5. Topanga Ass'n for a Scenic Community v. Los Angeles County (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 506, 514 n. 12, 113 Cal. Rptr. 836, 522 P.2d 12 ; Temescal Water Co. v. Dept. of Public Works (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 90, 101, 280 P.2d 1 ; Hohreiter v. Garrison (1947) 81 Cal. App. 2d 384, 397, 184 P.2d 323

Proceeding is subject to equitable considerations even though generally classified as legal proceeding. San Diego County Dep't of Public Welfare v. Superior Court of San Diego County (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 1, 9, 101 Cal. Rptr. 541, 496 P.2d 453 ; Dare v. Bd. of Medical Examiners (1943) 21 Cal. 2d 790, 795, 136 P.2d 304

Court's inquiry is limited to whether administrative decision was legally wrong; question of propriety, wisdom, or the like, is not proper for judicial inquiry. Faulkner v. California Toll Bridge Auth. (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 317, 329, 253 P.2d 659

Trial court is without power to cure agency's improper findings or to substitute its discretion for that of agency regarding form of discipline. American Funeral Concepts v. Board of Funeral Directors & Embalmers (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 303, 311, 186 Cal. Rptr. 196

Administrative mandamus pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is available to provide review whenever agency exercises adjudicatory function in considering facts presented in administrative hearing. Jabola v. Pasadena Redevelopment Agency (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 931, 934, 178 Cal. Rptr. 452

Mandate proceeding for review of administrative decision is governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 307-1062a, now see Code Civ. Proc. § 307 et seq. as well as Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1084-1097, 1107, and 1108. Concerned Citizens of Palm Desert, Inc. v. Board of Supervisors (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 257, 270, 113 Cal. Rptr. 328

Writ of mandate is permitted to be issued when there is a clear, present, and usually ministerial duty on defendant's part and clear, present, and beneficial right in plaintiff to performance of that duty. Goldfarb v. Civil Service Com. (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 633, 635, 275 Cal. Rptr. 284

Mandate is appropriate remedy to compel exercise of discretion by government officer, but is not available to control exercise of discretion unless, under facts of case, discretion can be exercised in only one way. Pacific Bell v. California State & Consumer Services Agency (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 107, 118, 275 Cal. Rptr. 62

Although court may compel administrative agency to act, court is not permitted to substitute its discretion for discretion properly vested in agency. Vega v. City of West Hollywood (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1342, 1352, 273 Cal. Rptr. 243

Courts are recommended to let administrative boards and officers work out their problems with as little judicial interference as possible. Vega v. City of West Hollywood (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1342, 1352, 273 Cal. Rptr. 243

Acts in excess of power conferred on agency by Constitution or statute are void and mandate is available to nullify or rescind such acts. Brooks v. State Personnel Bd. (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1068, 1072, 272 Cal. Rptr. 292

Administrative mandamus pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is not available to review quasi-legislative determination of governmental body, such as adoption of redevelopment plan. Leach v. City of San Marcos (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 648, 656, 261 Cal. Rptr. 805

When parties have proceeded under wrong writ of mandate, such as proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 (traditional mandate) when they should have proceeded under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 (administrative mandate), reviewing court is required to determine whether trial court considered appropriate evidence and applied appropriate standard of review, based on facts of case. Eureka Teachers Assn. v. Board of Education (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 353, 366, 244 Cal. Rptr. 240

Administrative mandate procedure of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is required to be used in all writ cases challenging validity of any final administrative order or decision made in any proceeding in which by law, expressly or impliedly, (1) hearing is required, (2) evidence is required to be taken, and (3) discretion in determining facts is vested in inferior board. Eureka Teachers Assn. v. Board of Education (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 353, 361, 362, 244 Cal. Rptr. 240

Administrative mandate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is not granted when administrative order or decision did not result from proceeding in which, by law, hearing was required at which evidence was required to be taken; review of such order or decision, if any, is by traditional mandate. TaylorBus Service, Inc. v. San Diego Bd. of Education (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 1331, 1339, 241 Cal. Rptr. 379

Action by real parties in interest for malicious prosecution based on mandate proceedings that resulted in order remanding matter for reconsideration with respect to correctness of standard used to assess evidence is precluded because petitioner prevailed on its procedural challenge, even though its petition was ultimately denied. Sierra Club v. Superior Court (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 1138, 1144-1147, 214 Cal. Rptr. 740

[2] Moot Questions

Dismissal of proceeding for mootness is proper when administrative decision was set aside by agency before proceeding began. Crestlawn Memorial Park Asso. v. Sobieski (1962) 210 Cal. App. 2d 43, 47, 26 Cal. Rptr. 421

Dismissal of proceeding for mootness is proper when agency complies with alternative writ command to set aside decision. Bruce v. Gregory (1967) 65 Cal. 2d 666, 671, 56 Cal. Rptr. 265, 423 P.2d 193

[3] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

Parties to contract are entitled to make exhaustion of administrative remedies a condition of suing on contract, and condition are enforceable. A. Teichert & Sons, Inc. v. State, (1965) 238 Cal. App. 2d 736, 746-747, 48 Cal. Rptr. 225

Plaintiff in any action, but especially in one for review of administrative action or decision, is required to exhaust any available administrative remedy before suit. Tiernan v. Trustees of Cal. State University & Colleges (1982) 33 Cal. 3d 211, 216 n. 5, 188 Cal. Rptr. 115, 655 P.2d 317 ; McKee v. Bell-Carter Olive Co. (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 1230, 1234, 231 Cal. Rptr. 304 ; Hayward v. Henderson (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 64, 70, 151 Cal. Rptr. 505 ; Abelleira v. District Court of Appeal (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 280, 291, 109 P.2d 942

Policy considerations underlying exhaustion doctrine do not necessarily justify extension of requirement to related constitutional and common law claims not specifically within agency's jurisdiction. Rojo v. Kliger (1990) 52 Cal. 3d 65, 85, 87-88, 276 Cal. Rptr. 130, 801 P.2d 373 (as applied to Gov. Code § 12900 et seq. (Fair Employment and Housing Act), exhaustion not required before filing civil action for damages alleging nonstatutory cause of action)

Mere possession by some official body of continuing supervisory or investigatory power is not itself sufficient to afford "administrative remedy" unless statute or regulation under which power is exercised establishes clearly defined machinery for submission, evaluation, and resolution of complaints by aggrieved parties. Common Cause v. Board of Supervisors (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 432, 441, 261 Cal. Rptr. 574, 777 P.2d 610 ; Horsemen's Benevolent & Protective Assn. v. Valley Racing Assn. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 1538, 1552-1554, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 698

When administrative tribunal is created by Legislature, requirement of exhaustion of administrative remedies is jurisdictional. George Arakelian Farms,Inc. v. Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 654, 661, 221 Cal. Rptr. 488, 710 P.2d 288

Plaintiff claiming breach of written purse agreement is not required to exhaust administrative remedies before California Horse Racing Board prior to filing complaint in superior court for damages, because board is a regulatory and disciplinary entity only, with no authority to award affirmative monetary relief. Horsemen's Benevolent & Protective Assn. v. Valley Racing Assn. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 1538, 1554, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 698

Administrative remedy is provided only when administrative body is required to actually accept, evaluate, and resolve disputes or complaints; doctrine of exhaustion of administrative remedies is not applicable when no specific administrative remedies are available to plaintiff. City of Coachella v. Riverside County Airport Land Use Com. (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 1277, 1287-1288, 258 Cal. Rptr. 795 (traditional mandate proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1085)

Purported failure to pursue administrative remedy is not jurisdictional bar to seeking judicial relief; rather, exhaustion rule is procedural, to which exceptions include when resort to administrative process would be futile because it is clear what administrative decision would be. Doster v. County of San Diego (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 257, 260-261, 251 Cal. Rptr. 507

Doctrine of exhaustion of administrative remedies is not matter of juridical discretion, but is fundamental rule of procedure; when administrative remedy is provided by statute, relief is required to be sought from administrative body and remedy exhausted before courts will act; when no exception applies, exhaustion of administrative remedy is jurisdictional prerequisite to resort to courts. White v. State of California (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 452, 473, 240 Cal. Rptr. 732

Requirement of exhaustion of administrative remedies requires exhaustion of remedy of administrative writ of mandate pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 before filing action for damages. City of Fresno v. Superior Court (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 1484, 1491, 234 Cal. Rptr. 136 ; Logan v. Southern Cal. Rapid Transit District (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 116, 123-124, 185 Cal. Rptr. 878

Petition for writ of mandate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 based on theory that city's unilateral transfer of petitioner to newly created position after petitioner's disability arose was abuse of discretion is improper remedy when writ was sought before respondent made decision on petitioner's disability retirement hearing; transfer and denial of retirement is adjudicatory act and proper remedy is petition under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5. Tielsch v. City of Anaheim (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 570, 573-574, 206 Cal. Rptr. 738

Exhaustion doctrine is to be applied in particular instance due to extreme utility to courts, or is to be held inapplicable due to alleged inadequacy of administrative remedy, after qualitative analysis on case-by-case basis with concentration on whether paramount need for agency expertise outweighs other factors. Karlin v. Zalta (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 953, 981, 201 Cal. Rptr. 379

Exhaustion doctrine is applicable in action for declaratory or equitable relief. Karlin v. Zalta (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 953, 986, 201 Cal. Rptr. 379

Failure to exhaust applicable administrative remedies is incurable jurisdictional defect. Karlin v. Zalta (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 953, 979-987, 201 Cal. Rptr. 379

Party is not permitted to circumvent exhaustion requirement by bringing action for declaratory relief rather than administrative mandamus. Walter H. Leimert Co. v. California Coastal Com. (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 222, 232, 196 Cal. Rptr. 739

Petitioners' attempt to circumvent furnishing of information at administrative level by applying to courts for assistance is failure to exhaust administrative remedies. United States Steel Corp. v. Franchise Tax Board (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 473, 480-481, 192 Cal. Rptr. 677

When statute creates right that did not exist at common law and provides comprehensive system of administrative enforcement, requirement that administrative remedies be exhausted is perhaps implied; but when statutory remedy provides for enforcement of preexisting common-law right, newer statutory remedy is considered only cumulative. Hentzel v. Singer Co. (1982) 138 Cal. App. 3d 290, 303, 188 Cal. Rptr. 159

When statute does not constitute comprehensive system of administrative enforcement, provides for no administrative remedy other than maintenance of suit by agency, and shows no legislative intent to preclude individual from suing on own behalf, statutory remedy is not exclusive and does not destroy individual's common law cause of action. Hentzel v. Singer Co. (1982) 138 Cal. App. 3d 290, 303, 188 Cal. Rptr. 159

Trial court did not abuse its discretion by dismissing action on grounds that plaintiffs failed to exhaust their administrative remedies when plaintiffs failed to plead facts showing Insurance Commissioner ruled on their petition, and in light of plaintiffs' prior attempts to state causes of action against defendants without exhausting administrative remedies. County of Los Angeles v. Farmers Ins. Exchange (1982) 132 Cal. App. 3d 77, 87-88, 182 Cal. Rptr. 879

Defendant is also subject to exhaustion of remedies requirement in appropriate case. San Mateo County v. Palomar Holding Co. (1962) 208 Cal. App. 2d 194, 197, 201-202, 24 Cal. Rptr. 905

Legislative omission to require exhaustion of remedies is not ground for holding administrative remedy merely cumulative; doctrine requiring exhaustion is applicable. Flores v. Los Angeles Turf Club (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 736, 747, 13 Cal. Rptr. 201, 361 P.2d 921 ; Alexander v. State Personnel Bd. (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 198, 200, 137 P.2d 433

Exhaustion requirement is designed for benefit of courts, not to aid litigants. Bozaich v. State of California (1973) 32 Cal. App. 3d 688, 698, 108 Cal. Rptr. 392 ; Morton v. Superior Court (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 977, 982, 88 Cal. Rptr. 533 ; Dunham v. City of Westminster (1962) 202 Cal. App. 2d 245, 248, 20 Cal. Rptr. 772

Requirement to exhaust administrative remedies is jurisdictional. Abelleira v. District Court of Appeal (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 280, 293, 109 P.2d 942

Defendant is subject to being estopped from asserting plaintiff's failure to exhaust administrative remedies. Los Angeles Fire & Police Protective League v. Los Angeles (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 67, 75, 99 Cal. Rptr. 908

Parties is entitled to stipulate that exhaustion requirement will be disregarded. Selby Realty Co. v. O'Bannon (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 917, 923, 82 Cal. Rptr. 807

[4] Conditions for Exhaustion

Requirement that writ of administrative mandate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 issue only if decision is final is aspect of exhaustion requirement. Bollengier v. Doctors Medical Center (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1115, 1125, 272 Cal. Rptr. 273

When administrative machinery exists for resolution of disputes, courts will not entertain those disputes until administrative procedures fully utilized and exhausted because to do so would be in excess of their jurisdiction. American Alliance Ins. Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d 601, 609, 184 Cal. Rptr. 674

Exhaustion of administrative remedies is not required when administrative agent is not empowered to adjudicate or award damages remedy provided for by statute. Lachman v. Cabrillo Pacific University (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 941, 944-945, 177 Cal. Rptr. 21

Necessity that clearly defined machinery exist for submitting, evaluating, and resolving complaints. Rosenfield v. Malcolm (1967) 65 Cal. 2d 559, 566, 55 Cal. Rptr. 505, 421 P.2d 697 ; California State Employees' Assn. v. Williams (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 390, 394-395, 86 Cal. Rptr. 305 ; Martino v. Concord Community Hosp. Dist. (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 51, 56-57, 43 Cal. Rptr. 255 ; Henry George School of Social Science v. San Diego Unified School Dist. (1960) 183 Cal. App. 2d 82, 85-87, 6 Cal. Rptr. 661

Administrative remedy is not provided by agency's invitation to participate in or undertake ad hoc proceeding. Endler v. Schutzbank (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 162, 168, 65 Cal. Rptr. 297, 436 P.2d 297 ; Alta-Dena Dairy v. San Diego County (1969) 271 Cal. App. 2d 66, 73-74, 76 Cal. Rptr. 510

Remedy exists if established by administrative regulation as well as by statute. Wilson v. Civil Serv. Comm'n (1964) 224 Cal. App. 2d 340, 344-347, 36 Cal. Rptr. 559

Plaintiff's stipulation at administrative level that proceeding might be conducted administratively is equivalent to establishment of administrative remedy by law. California v. Superior Court (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 87, 95, 93 Cal. Rptr. 663

Plaintiff is not required to abandon judicial proceeding when administrative remedy, unavailable when judicial proceeding was begun, finally becomes available. Eye Dog Foundation v. State Bd. of Guide Dogs for the Blind (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 536, 543-544, 63 Cal. Rptr. 21, 432 P.2d 717

Agency with regulatory power is not necessarily able to give relief administratively. California Oregon Power Co. v. Superior Court (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 858, 869, 291 P.2d 455

Administrative remedy is absent where agency has power to give relief and power to establish remedy but has not established remedy. Concerned Citizens of Palm Desert, Inc. v. Board of Supervisors (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 272, 280, 113 Cal. Rptr. 338

Plaintiff is required to apply first to agency with apparent power to give relief; agency is entitled to decide in first instance whether it can give relief. United States v. Superior Court (1941) 19 Cal. 2d 189, 195, 120 P.2d 26

Agency decision giving relief is subject to being set aside where agency erroneously assumed jurisdiction. County of Alpine v. County of Tuolumne (1958) 49 Cal. 2d 787, 798, 322 P.2d 449

[5] Exceptions to Exhaustion

Plaintiff is not required to exhaust administrative remedy where statute gives free choice to pursue either judicial or administrative remedy. City of Susanville v. Lee C. Hess Co. (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 684, 689, 290 P.2d 520 ; Scripps etc. Hospital Inc. v. Cal. Emp. Com. (1944) 24 Cal. 2d 669, 673 McKee v. Bell-Carter Olive Co. (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 1230, 1234, 231 Cal. Rptr. 304

Plaintiff is entitled to relief despite failure to exhaust administrative remedy where denial of relief would cause irreparable injury. United States v. Superior Court (1941) 19 Cal. 2d 189, 196-197, 120 P.2d 26 ; Abelleira v. District Court of Appeal (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 280, 293, 296, 109 P.2d 942 ; Greenblatt v. Munro (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 596, 605-607, 326 P.2d 929

Plaintiff is entitled to relief despite failure to exhaust administrative remedies where case presents extraordinary circumstances. Sail'er Inn, Inc. v. Kirby (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 1, 6-7, 95 Cal. Rptr. 329, 485 P.2d 529

Exhaustion is not required when agency has no pervasive and self-contained system of administrative procedure for general regulation to assess or prevent harm that plaintiff seeks to redress and factual issues in case are not so complex or technical as to exhibit paramount need for specialized agency fact-finding expertise. Rojo v. Kliger (1990) 52 Cal. 3d 65, 87-88, 276 Cal. Rptr. 130, 801 P.2d 373 (as applied to Gov. Code § 12900 et seq. (Fair Employment and Housing Act), exhaustion not required before filing civil action for damages alleging nonstatutory cause of action)

Plaintiffs is not excused from requirement of exhausting administrative remedies on ground that they were public interest organization seeking to further public, rather than private, rights when they had notice of administrative proceedings and actively participated at every stage of the hearing process. Sea & Sage Audubon Society, Inc. v. Planning Com. (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 412, 417-418, 194 Cal. Rptr. 357, 668 P.2d 664

Although exhaustion of administrative remedies is required unless it can be positively stated that the public entity has already decided its ruling in particular case, plaintiffs are not excused from requirement on ground of futility of further administrative action when city council's actions indicated that it favored proposed community development project, but council never addressed plaintiffs' legal challenge to adequacy of environmental impact report, which formed the basis of plaintiffs' underlying administrative mandamus action. Sea & Sage Audubon Society, Inc. v. Planning Com. (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 412, 417-418, 194 Cal. Rptr. 357, 668 P.2d 664

In proceeding to challenge administrative regulation, exhaustion of administrative remedies is unnecessary if agency's prior conduct indicates that administrative challenge to regulation would be futile. Union of American Physicians & Dentists v. Kizer (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 490, 503-504, 272 Cal. Rptr. 886 ; Grier v. Kizer (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 422, 430-431, 268 Cal. Rptr. 244

When tax is nullity as matter of law, administrative remedies are not required to be exhausted before seeking judicial remedy. Britt v. City of Pomona (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 265, 270 n.2, 272 Cal. Rptr. 724

Fact that case involves issue of law resolved in appellate courts does not justify exception to exhaustion requirement. Sacramento County Deputy Sheriffs' Assn. v. County of Sacramento (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 280, 287, 269 Cal. Rptr. 6

Party has standing to challenge ordinance or statute invalid on its face without first exhausting its administrative remedies. Floystrup v. City of Berkeley Rent Stabilization Bd. (1990)) 219 Cal. App. 3d 1309, 1317, 268 Cal. Rptr. 898

Individual plaintiff challenging administrative acts is not required to personally exhaust remedies before responsible administrative bodies when coplaintiffs have repeatedly appeared before administrative bodies and asserted objections that form basis of plaintiff's action. Leff v. City of Monterey Park (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 674, 681, 267 Cal. Rptr. 343

Rule of exhaustion of administrative remedies does not apply when administrative remedy is unavailable or inadequate; corollary of this rule excuses resort to administrative procedure when class relief is sought and administrative procedure affords no remedy for class. White v. State of California (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 452, 464, 240 Cal. Rptr. 732

Exhaustion doctrine is inapplicable where challenge is to constitutionality of statute and no forum or administrative remedy is provided for issues raised. Park'N Fly of San Francisco, Inc. v. City of South San Francisco (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 1201, 1209, 234 Cal. Rptr. 23

In action by counties, which sought judicial declaration that legislative bills were invalid because state had failed to satisfy constitutional requirement that subvention be provided for reimbursement of costs imposed on local government, futility exception was not applicable; fact that some, even if few, of claims submitted to administrative process had been funded precludes plaintiffs from establishing futility exception. County of Contra Costa v. State of California (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 62, 77-78, 222 Cal. Rptr. 750

Lack of jurisdiction exception is not applicable because agency is limited in damages it may award. Edgren v. Regents of University of California (1984) 158 Cal. App. 3d 515, 521, 205 Cal. Rptr. 6

Teacher whose permanent status was disputed by school board is entitled to writ of mandate to direct recognition of status without first having to exhaust administrative remedies when resolution of status was subject to judicial construction of statute. California Teachers' Assn v. Governing Board (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 735, 749, 193 Cal. Rptr. 650

Plaintiff is not required to exhaust administrative remedies when administrative procedures were nonexistent or constitutionally inadequate in that they failed to satisfy due process requirements. Bush v. California Conservation Corps (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 194, 203-204, 185 Cal. Rptr. 892

Availability of exception to exhaustion doctrine on grounds that administrative agency lacks subject matter jurisdiction is matter to be determined by agency itself before judicial relief may be obtained. Alta Loma School Dist. v. San Bernardino County Com. (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 542, 555-556, 177 Cal. Rptr. 506

Failure to exhaust administrative remedies does not bar habeas corpus relief when criminal conviction for violation of zoning ordinance was unsupported by law. In re Scarpitti (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 434, 443, 177 Cal. Rptr. 387

Exhaustion of administrative remedies is not required when Legislature clearly required judicial rather than merely administrative remedy be available. Lachman v. Cabrillo Pacific University (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 941, 944-945, 177 Cal. Rptr. 21

Futility is exception to general rule of exhaustion of administrative remedies, but police chief failed to support contention with evidence in case of wrongful discharge where chief willfully did not attend administrative appeal before city council because of alleged bias against him. Doyle v. Chino (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 673, 677-680, 172 Cal. Rptr. 844

Plaintiff is entitled to relief despite failure to exhaust administrative remedies where he asserts public interest instead of his private interest and relief would not be available if denied in plaintiff's action. Environmental Law Fund, Inc. v. Town of Corte Madera (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 105, 114, 122 Cal. Rptr. 282 ; Diaz v. Quitoriano (1969) 268 Cal. App. 2d 807, 811, 74 Cal. Rptr. 358

Plaintiff is entitled to relief despite failure to exhaust administrative remedies where he did not know about remedy, had no means of knowing about it, and could not reasonably have been expected to know about it. Gaylord v. Pasadena (1917) 175 Cal. 433, 440-441, 166 P. 348 ; Diaz v. Quitoriano (1969) 268 Cal. App. 2d 807, 811, 74 Cal. Rptr. 358

Plaintiff is entitled to relief despite failure to exhaust administrative remedies where such failure was due to circumstances beyond plaintiff's control. Hollon v. Pierce (1967) 257 Cal. App. 2d 468, 476, 64 Cal. Rptr. 808 ; Ahlstedt v. Board of Educ. (1947) 79 Cal. App. 2d 845, 855, 180 P.2d 949

Plaintiff is entitled to relief despite failure to exhaust administrative remedies where such failure was due to agency's refusal to entertain proceeding. In re Faucette (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 338, 343, 61 Cal. Rptr. 97

Plaintiff is entitled to relief despite failure to exhaust administrative remedies where enforcement of exhaustion requirement would be unreasonable. Kenney v. Wolff (1948) 84 Cal. App. 2d 592, 594-595, 191 P.2d 88 (unreasonably short time period for pursuing administrative remedy)

Plaintiff is not required to exhaust administrative remedies where he seeks judicial relief from administrative act beyond agency's powers. County of Los Angeles v. Department of Social Welfare (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 455, 457, 260 P.2d 41

Plaintiff is required to pursue administrative remedy even though facts of case, in light of history of similar cases, make denial of administrative relief virtually certain. Flores v. Los Angeles Turf Club (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 736, 748, 13 Cal. Rptr. 201, 361 P.2d 921 ; Contra Ogo Associates v. Torrance (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 830, 834-835, 112 Cal. Rptr. 761 ; In re Faucette (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 338, 343, 61 Cal. Rptr. 97

Failure to pursue available administrative remedy is not excusable merely because remedy is cumbersome or inefficient, or merely because remedy was designed for individual cases whereas plaintiff seeks relief for class. Morton v. Superior Court (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 977, 983-984, 88 Cal. Rptr. 533 ; Diaz v. Quitoriano (1969) 268 Cal. App. 2d 807, 812, 74 Cal. Rptr. 358

[6] Compliance With Exhaustion Requirement

Fact that plaintiff had filed petition for writ of mandate, but voluntarily dismissed petition prior to disposition, amounts to failure to exhaust administrative remedies. City of Fresno v. Superior Court (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 1484, 1489, 234 Cal. Rptr. 136

Necessity that administrative remedies be pursued to conclusion, on merits if possible. McHugh v. County of Santa Cruz (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 533, 538-539, 109 Cal. Rptr. 149 ; Graham v. Bryant (1954) 123 Cal. App. 2d 66, 70, 266 P.2d 44

In class action, exhaustion requirement is complied with when some member of class exhausted administrative remedy, even if plaintiff did not. Friends of Mammoth v. Board of Supervisors (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 247, 268, 104 Cal. Rptr. 761, 502 P.2d 1049

[7] Exhaustion and Constitutional Questions

Termination of utility service without notice reasonably calculated to apprise respondents of availability of administrative procedure to consider complaint of erroneous billing and without opportunity to present complaint to designated employee empowered to review disputed bills and rectify error is deprivation of property interest without due process of law. Memphis Light, Gas & Water Div. v. Craft (1978) 436 U.S. 1, 98 S. Ct. 1554, 56 L. Ed. 2d 30, 46-47

Agency does not declare statute unconstitutional nor refuse to enforce it by complying with legislative directive to implement statute to extent it does not conflict with federal law. Reese v. Kizer (1988) 46 Cal. 3d 996, 998, 1002, 251 Cal. Rptr. 299, 760 P.2d 495

Agency is without power to declare its enabling law unconstitutional. State of California v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 250-251, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281

Failure to pursue administrative remedies is not excused by fact that administrative relief would depend on agency's construing statute or determining whether plaintiff's constitutional rights were violated. Bank of America v. Mundo

(1951) 37 Cal. 2d 1, 4, 229 P.2d 345 ; City & County of San Francisco v. San Mateo County (1950) 36 Cal. 2d 196, 201, 222 P.2d 860 ; Security-First Nat. Bk. v. County of L.A. (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 319, 320-322, 217 P.2d 946 ; Metcalf v. County of Los Angeles (1944) 24 Cal. 2d 267, 270, 148 P.2d 645 ; Savoy Club v. Board of Supervisors (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 1034, 1042, 91 Cal. Rptr. 198 ; Morton v. Superior Court (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 977, 984-985, 88 Cal. Rptr. 533

Plaintiff seeking judgment on basis that law is unconstitutional is not entitled to relief if law is constitutional and he could have gotten, but did not seek, administrative relief. West Publishing Co. v. McColgan (1946) 27 Cal. 2d 705, 711-712, 166 P.2d 861

Agency is empowered to declare one of its own regulations unconstitutional. United States v. Superior Court (1941) 19 Cal. 2d 189, 195, 120 P.2d 26

Agency is bound to accept constitutionality of law it has duty to enforce. Rubin v. Board of Directors (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 119, 124-125, 104 P.2d 1041

Requirement of exhaustion is not applicable to action challenging constitutionality of statute establishing administrative agency's status and functions. Lund v. California State Employees Assn. (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 174, 183, 271 Cal. Rptr. 425

Litigant who seeks to challenge constitutionality of statute under which agency operates is not required to raise issue of constitutionality in proceedings before agency as condition of raising issue in courts; party, after pursuing available administrative procedure, is able to present constitutional claim for first time in courts. Floystrup v. City of Berkeley Rent Stabilization Bd. (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 1309, 1317, 268 Cal. Rptr. 898

Counties are not excused from exhausting administrative remedies established by Legislature for presenting claims for reimbursement of costs of state-mandated programs, even though self-executing constitutional provision required state to provide subvention for reimbursement of such costs. County of Contra Costa v. State of California (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 62, 75-76, 222 Cal. Rptr. 750

Constitutional basis for plaintiff's action does not excuse failure to pursue administrative remedy if administrative relief was available on any basis. Leek v. Washington Unified School Dist. (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 43, 52-53, 177 Cal. Rptr. 196 ; Banville v. Los Angeles County (1960) 180 Cal. App. 2d 563, 571, 4 Cal. Rptr. 458

Rational relation test, rather than strict scrutiny, is sufficient to uphold regulation prohibiting corporal punishment in private school even though such punishment was permitted in public school; public and private schools are not similarly situated classes so as to trigger strict scrutiny. Johnson v. Department of Social Services (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 878, 886, 177 Cal. Rptr. 49

[8] Pleading Exhaustion

Exhaustion is required to be specifically pleaded, and allegation is subject to demurrer as contention and legal conclusion when pleaded otherwise. Kirkpatrick v. City of Oceanside (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 267, 277, 283 Cal. Rptr. 191 (permitting plaintiffs to amend complaint to specifically plead exhaustion)

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST

41A-474A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 474A.50

§ 474A.50 Determine If Timing Is Proper for a Mandate Proceeding

☐ Ascertain if the case is ripe for adjudication.

☐ In a proceeding to compel performance of a ministerial duty:

☐ The administrative entity or official is obligated to perform when the proceeding is commenced [see § 474A.10[2][a]]; and

☐ The administrative entity or official has actually refused to perform the duty [see § 474A.10[2][b]].

☐ In a proceeding to review an adjudicative decision or order:

☐ The order or decision has a direct and immediate effect on the petitioner [see § 474A.10[3][a]]; and

☐ The order or decision has become final [see § 474A.10[3][b]].

☐ Ascertain if administrative remedies have been exhausted.

☐ Petitioner must have pursued all available administrative proceedings to completion and received a final decision on the merits [see § 474A.11[3][a]].

☐ Petitioner must have made a full presentation to the administrative entity on all issues at all prescribed stages of the administrative proceedings [see § 474A.11[3][b]].

- ☐ Ascertain if the exhaustion requirement has been excused.
  - ☐ The administrative remedy is unavailable or inadequate [see § 474A.12[1]].
  - ☐ Exhaustion would be futile [see § 474A.12[2]].
  - ☐ Court and agency are vested with concurrent primary jurisdiction [see § 474A.12[3]].
  - ☐ Administrative entity lacks subject matter jurisdiction [see § 474A.12[4]].
  - ☐ Statute under which administrative entity operates is unconstitutional on its face [see § 474A.12[5]].
  - ☐ Exhaustion of remedy will result in irreparable injury [see § 474A.12[6]].
  - ☐ Public interest is disserved by application of rule [see § 474A.12[7]].
- ☐ Ascertain when proceedings may be barred as untimely.
  - ☐ Proceeding is not commenced within the applicable statute of limitations period [see § 474A.20].
  - ☐ Proceeding may be barred by laches if [see § 474A.21]:
    - ☐ Petitioner delayed unreasonably; and
    - ☐ Petitioner acquiesced in the decision complained of or adverse parties were prejudiced by delay.
  - ☐ Proceeding may be dismissed as moot if [see § 474A.22]:
    - ☐ Writ would be useless or ineffective;
    - ☐ Writ would be of no practical benefit to petitioner;
    - ☐ Writ will no longer benefit petitioner;
    - ☐ The administrative entity is no longer empowered to perform the duty at issue; or
    - ☐ The administrative entity belatedly performed the duty sought to be enforced.

§ 474B.10 Judicial Review of Administrative Decisions

[1] The Writ of Mandate and Mandate Proceedings

A party who is aggrieved by a decision of an administrative agency may seek judicial relief from the decision by petitioning an appropriate court for a writ of mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086]. The writ of mandate is a broad remedy that empowers a court to compel the performance of a legal duty when the law provides no other adequate remedy [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086; Dowell v. Superior Court (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 483, 486-487, 304 P.2d 1009 ; see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , for a detailed discussion regarding the nature of mandate proceedings].

[2] Ordinary and Administrative Mandate

California law recognizes two principal types of mandate proceedings:

- Traditional, or "ordinary" mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086; see § 474B.30 et seq.].
- Administrative mandate [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5].

Ordinary mandate, which is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1085, is available to compel agencies to perform ministerial acts and to correct acts outside the agency's legal powers [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 (mandate will issue to compel performance of act which the law specifically enjoins); Environmental Protection & Information Center v. California Dept. of Forestry & Fire Protection (2008) 44 Cal. 4th 459, 478-479, 80 Cal. Rptr. 3d 28, 187 P.3d 888 (standard of review for ordinary mandate is abuse of discretion when the issue on appeal is whether an agency failed to proceed in a manner required by law); Saleeby v. State Bar (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 547, 561-562, 216 Cal. Rptr. 367, 702 P.2d 525 (mandate will lie to correct administrative acts that exceed agency's legal powers); People ex rel. Younger v. County of El Dorado (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 480, 491, 96 Cal. Rptr. 553, 487 P.2d 1193 (mandate will lie to compel performance of clear duty imposed by law)]. Administrative mandate, which is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5, is used to review the adjudicatory decisions of an administrative agency [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; Temescal Water Co. v. Dept. of Public Works (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 90, 101, 280 P.2d 1 ; Estes v. City of Grover City (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 509, 514, 147 Cal. Rptr. 131 ; County of Los Angeles v. Tax Appeals Bd. No. 2 (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 830, 833, 73 Cal. Rptr. 469] . For this purpose, an adjudicatory decision is an administrative order or decision made as the result of a proceeding in which, by law, a hearing is required to be given, evidence is required to be taken, and discretion in the determination of facts is vested in the agency [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a)].

This chapter covers issues that may be raised in a mandate proceeding and the proper standard for review of an agency decision when the decision is subjected to judicial review, either by a trial or appellate court. Because the distinction between administrative mandate and ordinary mandate vitally affects the issues that may be considered and the proper standards of review for mandate proceedings, the two types of mandate are treated separately. For a detailed consideration of differences between ordinary and administrative mandate, see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions . For forms of a petition for writ of mandate for use in administrative proceedings, see Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions .

Chapter 474B STANDARDS IN REVIEWING AGENCY DECISIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Administrative Mandate

41A-474B California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 474B.11

§ 474B.11 Agency Action Without or in Excess of Jurisdiction

[1] Nature of Jurisdiction Issue

One of the issues on which review of an administrative agency's adjudicatory decision may be sought is whether the agency acted without, or in excess of, its jurisdiction [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b)]. Few reported cases deal specifically with questions of agency jurisdiction as reviewed by administrative mandate. Principles generally governing the jurisdiction of courts, together with cases dealing with agency jurisdiction in the context of writs of certiorari and prohibition may provide useful analogies in assessing whether a petitioner is entitled to a writ of mandate on the ground that the agency acted without jurisdiction [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1068, 1071, 1074 (writ of review or certiorari), 1102 (prohibition)].

The term "jurisdiction" is used in a variety of situations with different meanings. In its most basic sense, jurisdiction refers to the power of a tribunal to hear and determine a case, with reference to its authority over the parties and the subject matter [Abelleira v. District Court of Appeal (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 280, 288-290, 109 P.2d 942 ; Jones v. World Life Research Institute (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 836, 845-848, 131 Cal. Rptr. 674] . The concept of jurisdiction also covers (1) questions of the manner in which the tribunal acts, (2) its compliance with statutory and procedural requirements, and (3) the kind of relief the agency may grant [Abelleira v. District Court of Appeal (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 280, 288-290, 109 P.2d 942 ; Jones v. World Life Research Institute (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 836, 845-848, 131 Cal. Rptr. 674] . Indeed, an agency may be said to exceed its jurisdiction whenever it takes action outside its defined power, whether the source of the law providing that definition is constitutional, statutory, or decisional [Abelleira v. District Court of Appeal (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 280, 288-290, 109 P.2d 942 ; Miller v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 1371, 1379, 238 Cal. Rptr. 915] .

An agency may lack jurisdiction to review the decision of another agency [City of Half Moon Bay v. Superior Court (2003) 106 Cal. App. 4th 795, 805-806, 131 Cal. Rptr. 2d 213 (California Coastal Commission lacked appellate jurisdiction to modify a coastal development permit issued by a city under court order)].

When an agency acts pursuant to a statute that is later declared unconstitutional, final proceedings of the agency based on the statute are immune from collateral attack [Slater v. Blackwood (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 791, 796-797, 126 Cal. Rptr. 225, 543 P.2d 593 ; Miller v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 1371, 1379, 238 Cal. Rptr. 915] . Agency action in excess of the agency's jurisdiction should be distinguished from agency action that is contrary to law although within the agency's jurisdiction [see Jones v. World Life Research Institute (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 836, 845-848, 131 Cal. Rptr. 674 (court judgment granting relief prohibited by law must be distinguished from judgment in which relief is simply in excess of amount to which party is entitled under applicable law)]. If a decision or order is erroneous but not beyond the jurisdiction of the agency, it is subject to correction on appeal or other review; but, once it becomes final, it is enforceable and not subject to collateral attack [see Jones v. World Life Research Institute (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 836, 845-848, 131 Cal. Rptr. 674 (judgment of superior court)].

[2] Duration and Extent of Agency's Jurisdiction

Statutes governing the adjudicatory functions of an administrative agency generally limit the time within which the agency has power to act. The statutes may also specify the nature of the relief the agency may grant and other relevant procedural matters. With respect to the decisions of a licensing agency, whether expiration or voluntary surrender of a license divests the agency of jurisdiction to bring disciplinary proceedings against the licensee may become an issue. For example, the statute governing agencies in the Department of Consumer Affairs provides that expiration, suspension, cancellation, or forfeiture of a license by operation of law does not deprive the agency of authority to institute or continue disciplinary proceedings against the licensee during any period when the license may be renewed, reissued, restored, or reinstituted [Bus. & Prof. Code § 118(b); see Cal. Pacific Collections, Inc. v. Powers (1969) 70 Cal. 2d 135, 140, 74 Cal. Rptr. 289, 449 P.2d 225 (voluntary surrender of license issued under Collection Agency Act); see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 101 (agencies within Department of Consumer Affairs)]. A similar question may arise on the effect of withdrawal of an application for a license or permit. In the absence of a statute providing that the agency retains authority to institute a disciplinary proceeding or take other adverse action against a party who has withdrawn an application for a license, such proceeding or action is outside the agency's jurisdiction [McDonald v. State Bar (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 768, 770-771, 141 P.2d 217 (State Bar Act contains no provision permitting Committee of Bar Examiners to proceed with investigation and determine application on merits after request for withdrawal); Miller v. Board of Police Commissioners (1960) 181 Cal. App. 2d 562, 563-564, 5 Cal. Rptr. 272 (Los Angeles Municipal Code provided that withdrawal of application did not deprive Board of Police Commissioners of jurisdiction to proceed with any investigation of applicant); see, e.g., Bus. & Prof. Code § 118(a) (withdrawal of application does not deprive agency under Department of Consumer Affairs of authority to institute or continue disciplinary proceedings unless agency has consented to withdrawal)].

In general, when a decision of an administrative agency becomes final, the agency loses jurisdiction to alter or modify the decision unless authority to do so is conferred by statute [Guilbert v. Regents of University of California (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 233, 243, 155 Cal. Rptr. 583] . An agency subject to the Administrative Procedure Act (APA) [see Gov. Code § 11340 et seq.] retains authority to reconsider its decisions for 30 days after the decisions are delivered or mailed, or until the date set by the agency for termination of the decision if that date is within the 30-day period, or at the termination of a stay granted for the purpose of filing an application for reconsideration [Gov. Code § 11521(a); see Ch. 473G, Agency Adjudication Decisions , for discussion of reconsideration of agency decisions]. The governing statutes of an agency not subject to the APA must be consulted to determine if the agency's jurisdiction continues after it makes a final decision. If a statute clearly evidences the Legislature's intent that an agency should exercise continuing jurisdiction and have power to alter or modify its decisions, the agency's exercise of such power is within its jurisdiction [Olive Proration etc. Com. v. Agri. etc. Com. (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 204, 209, 109 P.2d 918] .

When an agency or a litigant fails to comply with time limits set forth in a governing procedural statute, the question may arise whether the statutory time limitation is mandatory and jurisdictional or merely directory [see Edwards v. Steele (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 406, 409, 158 Cal. Rptr. 662, 599 P.2d 1365] . Whether a time limitation is "mandatory" or "directory" does not refer to whether the requirement is "permissive" or "obligatory," but whether failure to comply with the limitation will or will not have the effect of invalidating the action to which the procedural requirement relates [

Edwards v. Steele (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 406, 409, 158 Cal. Rptr. 662, 599 P.2d 1365 ; Morris v. County of Marin (1977) 18 Cal. 3d 901, 908, 136 Cal. Rptr. 251, 559 P.2d 606] . Unless a contrary intent is clearly expressed, requirements relating to the time within which acts must be done are usually deemed to be directory rather than mandatory [Edwards v. Steele (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 406, 409, 158 Cal. Rptr. 662, 599 P.2d 1365] . The courts have used various tests to determine whether time requirements are mandatory or directory. They consider, for example, whether the statute contains a consequence or penalty for failure to act within the designated time, whether the time provisions relate to matters of substance or are merely of mere convenience, and whether the consequence of holding the time limitation to be mandatory would defeat or promote the purpose of the statute [Garcia v. Los Angeles County Bd. of Education (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 807, 811, 177 Cal. Rptr. 29] . However, even when a time limitation is deemed to be mandatory, due process may require that it not be applied in a particular case if to do so would deprive a litigant of substantive or procedural rights [see Edwards v. Steele (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 406, 412, 158 Cal. Rptr. 662, 599 P.2d 1365 (15-day time limit for hearing zoning appeal held not to be mandatory when property owner's noncompliance was wholly beyond his control); Ursino v. Superior Court (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 611, 620-622, 114 Cal. Rptr. 404 (application of 40-day time limit for hearing appeal from Board of Permit Appeals would constitute denial of due process when Board unable to act in time due to vacancies)].

The courts have recognized an exception to the general rule that an administrative agency loses jurisdiction when its decision becomes final. When an agency's decision is in excess of its jurisdiction (because it is based on an erroneous conclusion of law) or is otherwise void, the decision is not binding on the agency [Aylward v. State Board etc. Examiners (1948) 31 Cal. 2d 833, 839, 192 P.2d 929] . In such a case, the agency still has unexercised power to proceed within its jurisdiction [Aylward v. State Board etc. Examiners (1948) 31 Cal. 2d 833, 839, 192 P.2d 929] .

[3] Court Remedies for Lack of Agency Jurisdiction

When a defect in the agency's jurisdiction is asserted in a mandate proceeding, the court's action will depend on the nature of the defect. If the agency clearly acted outside its jurisdiction, the court must set aside the agency's order or action [Mumaw v. City of Glendale (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 454, 460, 76 Cal. Rptr. 245] . If the agency had jurisdiction to act and the circumstances still permit it to do so, the court should remand the matter to the agency for further consideration [National Auto. & Cas. Ins. Co. v. Downey (1950) 98 Cal. App. 2d 586, 594, 220 P.2d 962] . If the agency failed to make necessary findings on jurisdictional facts, the court must remand the matter to the agency with instructions to make such findings [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b) (abuse of discretion is shown if order or decision not supported by findings); see § 474B.15 for discussion of the requirement that an agency decision or order be supported by findings]. If the agency made jurisdictional findings, but it is claimed that the findings are not supported by the evidence, the court must review those findings under the appropriate standard of review [for discussion of the requirement that findings be supported by evidence, see § 474B.16; for "independent judgment" test, see §§ 474B.16[4], 474B.33[2]; for "substantial evidence" test, see §§ 474B.16[5], 474B.33[1]].

When an agency conducts an administrative hearing, and rules that it lacks jurisdiction because there was no employer-employee relationship between the plaintiff and the defendant, the agency is required by Labor Code § 98.1 to file a timely decision after the hearing so that the affected individual can file an appeal under [Labor Code § 98.2] which provides forde novo review in the superior court. Although the agency decision whether to accept the claim, or whether to hold a hearing on the claim is not subject to do novo review, the agency is precluded from summarily dismissing the claim for wages for lack of jurisdiction after conducting the hearing, as the affected person has the right to appeal the agency action to challenge the finding that they were not an employee [Vos Post v. Palo/Haklar & Associates (2000) 23 Cal. 4th 942, 948-949, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 671, 4 P.3d 928] .

However, an employer was precluded from challenging by writ of administrative mandate a decision of the unemployment insurance appeals board (UIAB) concluding that an individual who worked for that employer was an employee rather than an independent contractor. The employer was prohibited by the provisions of the California Constitution [Cal. Const. Art. XIII, § 32, Unemp. Ins. Code § 1851, and Modern Barber Colleges vs. Cal. Emp.

Stabilization Comm'n (1948) 31 Cal. 2d 720, 192 P.2d 916] . These principles prohibit the use of administrative mandamus to challenge the board's decision because this would effectively restrain the collection of a tax, and California law requires that the challenger pay the tax and sue for a refund [First Aid Servs. of San Diego, Inc. v. Cal. Employment Dev. Dep't (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 1470, 1473-1474, 35 Cal. Rptr. 3d 663] .

§ 474B.12 Lack of a Fair Hearing

[1] Right to a Hearing

Another issue on which review of an administrative agency's adjudicatory decision may be sought is whether a "fair trial" occurred [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b)]. The requirement of a "fair trial" applies only to a proceeding in which, by law, a hearing is required to be given [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a)]. In this context, therefore, the words "fair trial" mean a "fair hearing" before an agency that is required to afford a hearing. If the statute governing the agency does not provide for a hearing, or if the statute leaves the grant of a hearing to the agency's discretion, a person aggrieved by the agency's action is precluded from seeking review through administrative mandate [Mahdavi v. Fair Employment Practice Com. (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 326, 333-335, 136 Cal. Rptr. 421 (Fair Employment Practice Act, Gov. Code §§ 12900-12906, does not require hearing on filing of complaint by person alleging employment discrimination)]. A hearing requirement need not be expressly set forth in the governing statute; however, such a requirement may be implied if necessary to effectuate the purposes of the statute [Eureka Teachers Assn. v. Board of Education (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 353, 362, 244 Cal. Rptr. 240 ; Chavez v. Civil Service Com. (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 324, 332, 150 Cal. Rptr. 197] . Deputy sheriff had the right to an evidentiary hearing under Gov. Code § 3304(b)(3) to challenge firearm related restrictions imposed on deputy by sheriff. Hearing rights are enforced by the grant of a writ of mandate [Gordon v. Horsley (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 336, 352, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 910] .

New Motor Vehicle Board had implied authority to dismiss dealer's protest of manufacturer's termination of dealer's franchise for a specific type of car when the undisputed facts showed good cause for termination as a matter of law. Thus, there was no need for an evidentiary hearing on termination issues. Dealer's due process rights were not violated because dealer failed to take opportunity to challenge facts asserted by manufacturer which provided good cause for termination [Duarte & Witting, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Board (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 626, 637-639, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 501] .

[2] Hearing Provided

If a party is entitled by law to a hearing and none is provided, the party is denied a fair trial [Fascination, Inc. v. Hoover (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 260, 265,246 P.2d 656] . In such a case, the reviewing court must remand the matter to the agency for further proceedings, and may not decide the matter on the merits [Fascination, Inc. v. Hoover (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 260, 265, 246 P.2d 656] .

The Court of Appeal held that the Medical Board of California deprived a physician of due process of law by conducting a fundamentally unfair physician license revocation hearing when the Board disqualified all of the doctor's experts as to standard of care, thereby precluding the doctor from putting on any evidence in his defense to charges that the doctor's treatment of several patients was grossly negligent or was an extreme departure from the standard of practice [Sinaiko v. Superior Court (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1133, 1137, 1141, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 371] . The Court of Appeal also applied the independent judgment test to review the fairness of the administrative hearing as a matter of law [Sinaiko v. Superior Court (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1133, 1140-1141, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 371] . Finally the Court of Appeal held that this case must be remanded to the Medical Board to consider the evidence presented by the doctor's experts. It was not proper for the reviewing (superior) court to admit the evidence under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e), and then to reweigh the evidence to support the Medical Board's fact findings because this was an unfair proceeding. It is the agency's responsibility to consider the evidence erroneously excluded and to make an informed decision based on that evidence and agency expertise. Thus, a remand to the agency is required [Sinaiko v. Superior Ct. (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1133, 1146-1147, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 371] .

[3] Fair Hearing Afforded

[a] Nature of Fair Hearing Requirement

When it exercises adjudicative functions, an administrative agency is a quasi-judicial body [see Horn v. County of Ventura (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 605, 612-613, 156 Cal. Rptr. 718, 596 P.2d 1134 (county acts as quasi-judicial body when it approves subdivision map)]. As such, the agency is bound by the same obligations as a court to insure that all proceedings before it are conducted fairly [Wood v. City Civil Service Commission (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 105, 110, 119 Cal. Rptr. 175 (agency's denial of continuance for absence of party's counsel denied party fair trial)]. Whether a hearing was fair must be determined, first, with reference to the statutes and regulations (if any) that govern the agency. Second, the principles of constitutional due process must be considered, since a fair trial in a fair tribunal is a basic requirement of due process [Withrow v. Larkin (1975) 421 U.S. 35, 46, 95 S. Ct. 1456, 43 L. Ed. 2d 712 ; In re Murchison (1954) 349 U.S. 133, 136, 75 S. Ct. 623, 99 L. Ed. 942 ; see Ch. 470A, Due Process Restriction on Public Agencies , for a discussion of due process issues]. For an agency subject to the APA [Gov. Code § 11340 et seq.; see Gov. Code §§ 11500(a) ("agency" defined), 11501(b) (enumerated agencies)], the Act itself must be consulted for applicable procedures [see Gov. Code § 11500 et seq. (administrative adjudication); see Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication for discussion of adjudication by agencies subject to the APA]. For an agency not subject to the APA, no particular form of notice or hearing is required. If the relevant statute provides for reasonable notice and an opportunity to be heard, and if the agency's decision is based on evidence adduced at the hearing, a fair trial has been provided [English v. City of Long Beach (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 155, 158, 217 P.2d 22 ; Drummey v. State Bd. of Funeral Directors (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 75, 80-81, 87 P.2d 848] . The procedure required varies with the factual context and nature of the action [see Perlman v. Shasta Joint Jr. College Dist. Bd. of Trustees (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 873, 880, 88 Cal. Rptr. 563 (suspension and expulsion hearing before college board)]. The method of proceeding is controlled by the hearing officer and generally resembles that employed in civil trials, but the lack of formal procedural rules in the governing statute does not violate due process [Temple of Inspired Living v. Department of Social Service (1979) 97 Cal. App. 3d 564, 569, 158 Cal. Rptr. 816 ; see Ch. 473F, Agency Adjudication Hearings , for discussion of general procedural coverage in administrative hearings; see Ch. 470A, Due Process Restrictions on Public Agencies , for a discussion of due process issues].

[b] Agency Bias or Prejudice

Bias or prejudice on the part of an agency may deprive a party of a fair trial and serve as a basis for relief in mandate proceedings [see Withrow v. Larkin (1975) 421 U.S. 35, 47, 95 S. Ct. 1456, 43 L. Ed. 2d 712 (suit for injunction)].

Procedural due process dictates that an agency not act when, under the facts of the case, the probability of bias is too high to be constitutionally tolerable [Mennig v. City Council (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 341, 350, 150 Cal. Rptr. 207 ; see Withrow v. Larkin (1975) 421 U.S. 35, 47, 95 S. Ct. 1456, 43 L. Ed. 2d 712 (suit for injunction)]. Thus, a person who is personally embroiled in a dispute or has a substantial pecuniary interest in its outcome may not properly adjudicate the dispute [Gibson v. Berryhill (1973) 411 U.S. 564, 579, 93 S. Ct. 1689, 36 L. Ed. 2d 488 ; Mennig v. City Council (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 341, 350-351, 150 Cal. Rptr. 207 ; see Taylor v. Hayes (1974) 418 U.S. 488, 501-503, 94 S. Ct. 2697, 41 L. Ed. 2d 897 (trial judge became embroiled in running dispute with counsel for defendant); Doyle v. City of Chino (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 673, 682, 172 Cal. Rptr. 844 (writ denied when city official personally embroiled in dispute is not member of adjudicating agency)]. Disqualifying bias may not be inferred solely from the circumstances of an adjudicator's private life; thus, due process is not denied merely because an agency is composed in whole or in part of members of the regulated business or profession [American Motors Sales Corp. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 983, 991-992, 138 Cal. Rptr. 594] . Nor will bias or prejudice on the part of one member of a multi-member board disqualify the entire board from acting [American Motors Sales Corp. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 983, 993, 138 Cal. Rptr. 594 ; Borders v. Anderson (1962) 204 Cal. App. 2d 401, 417, 22 Cal. Rptr. 243] . If a majority of the board members voted in favor of a disputed decision, the fact that one member who voted for the decision was biased will not invalidate it [Thompson v. City of Long Beach (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 235, 243-244, 259 P.2d 649] . If the membership of a board is slanted in favor of a particular class of litigants, however, due process is denied and decisions by the board must be invalidated [see American Motors Sales Corp. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 983, 992-993,138 Cal. Rptr. 594 (statute required that four of nine members of board that adjudicated economic disputes between car manufacturers and dealers be car dealers and did not require that any of remaining members be manufacturers)].

A county retirement board did not violate due process of law by both investigating and adjudicating retirement benefits applications. The Board can select unilaterally and compensate hearing officers consistent with due process of law. Due process of law does not require that the applicant participate in the hearing officer selection process Board selection and compensation of hearing officers does not, by itself, establish bias against applicants for retirement benefits on the part of the hearing officers [McIntyre v. Santa Barbara County Employees' Retirement System (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 730, 735-736, 110 Cal. Rptr. 2d 565] .

The so-called "rule of necessity" significantly limits the usefulness of arguments based on bias or prejudice. Under this rule, when a administrative agency has a duty to act on a matter before it and it is the only entity capable of acting in the matter, the fact that the members may have a personal interest in the result of the action taken does not disqualify them from performing their duty [Caminetti v. Pac. Mutual L. Ins. Co. (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 344, 366, 139 P.2d 908 ; Gonsalves v. City of Dairy Valley (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 400, 404, 71 Cal. Rptr. 255] .

A reviewing court may not consider a claim of bias or prejudice unless it was raised at the agency hearing [see Anton v. San Antonio Community Hosp. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 802, 826, 140 Cal. Rptr. 442, 567 P.2d 1162 ; Thompson v. City of Long Beach (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 235, 242-243, 259 P.2d 649 ; see also § 474B.16[3] for discussion of the requirement that error asserted as grounds for issuance of mandate must appear in record], or unless the petitioner shows that the claim could not have been raised in the administrative proceedings [Barkin v. Board of Optometry (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 714, 719, 75 Cal. Rptr. 337] . Mere assertions of prejudice are insufficient to establish disqualifying bias. A party who claims that a member of an agency hearing board was biased must present specific evidence from which the reviewing court can properly infer the existence of bias [see Noguchi v. Civil Service Com. (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1521, 1536-1537, 232 Cal. Rptr. 394 (hearing board request of county administrator's office to conduct audit of department headed by petitioner, chief medical examiner of county, did not constitute evidence of prejudice)]. For a more detailed discussion of agency bias and prejudice, see Ch. 473E, Public Administrative Law Judges .

Chapter 474B STANDARDS IN REVIEWING AGENCY DECISIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Administrative Mandate

41A-474B California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 474B.13

§ 474B.13 Prejudicial Abuse of Discretion

[1] Nature of Abuse of Discretion

Another issue on which review of an administrative agency's adjudicatory decision may be sought is whether the agency committed "any prejudicial abuse of discretion" [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b)]. Abuse of discretion may be established by showing any of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b)]:

- The agency failed to proceed in the manner required by law [see § 474B.14].
- The agency's order or decision is not supported by the findings [see § 474B.15].
- The agency's findings are not supported by the evidence [see § 474B.16].

[2] Exercise of Discretion

To determine whether an agency has abused its discretion in a specific case, the court must first ascertain that the action taken was in fact anexercise of discretion. The functions, powers, and duties of administrative agencies are classified as either discretionary or ministerial. Discretion in this context refers to powers conferred by law on an agency or officer to perform official acts according to the dictates of the officer's judgment [People ex rel. Fund American Companies v. California Ins. Co. (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 423, 431, 117 Cal. Rptr. 623] . Ministerial acts, on the other hand, are those that an official is required to perform in a prescribed manner in obedience to the mandate of legal authority and without regard to his or her own judgment or opinion concerning the propriety or impropriety of the act to be performed, when a given state of facts exists [People ex rel. Fund American Companies v. California Ins. Co. (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 423, 431, 117 Cal. Rptr. 623] . In general, discretionary powers conferred on administrative agencies are in the nature of public trusts and may not be surrendered or delegated in the absence of statutory authorization; conversely, the performance of ministerial tasks, including the investigation and determination of facts preliminary to discretionary agency action, may be delegated [see California Sch. Employees Assn. v. Personnel Commission (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 139, 144, 89 Cal. Rptr. 620, 474 P.2d 436] .

The California Department of Corrections prison supervisor staffing policies and practices which included "cross-covering" and "redirecting" were challenged on grounds of risks to employee safety. The court of appeals affirmed the denial of a writ of mandate by the trial court and concluded that the policies were within the discretion of the prison warden who implemented the policies and practices, and there was no abuse of discretion in staffing decisions because the policy required consideration of safety risks and used a target ceiling [California Corrctional Supervisors Organization, Inc. v. Department of Corrections (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 824, 832-833, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 595] . The Department of Industrial Relations did not abuse its discretion in rescinding a prevailing wage determination without conducting a wage survey, which is not required, because the Department considered the appropriate information in the evaluation process [California Slurry Seal Association v. Department of Industrial Relations (2002) 98 Cal. App. 4th 651, 666-667, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 38] .

The abuse of discretion standard of review applies to writ of mandate proceedings challenging an agency's compliance with CEQA requirements of preparing an environmental impact report under Pub Res. Code § 21061 [City of Marina v. Board of Trustees of the Cal. State Univ. (2006) 39 Cal. 4th 341, 355-356, 46 Cal. Rptr. 3d 355, 138 P. 3d 692 (abuse of discretion standard of review applies under CEQA [Pub. Resources Code § 21168.5]); Great Oaks Water Co v. Santa Clara Valley Water Dist. (2009) 170 Cal. App. 4th 956, 966-968, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 506 (the agency findings were adequate for making exemption determination, therefore there was no abuse of discretion.); Riverwatch v. Olivenhain Municipal Water District (2009) 170 Cal. App. 4th 1186, 1199-1201, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 625 (agency compliance with CEQA requirements in approving treated waste water supply agreement was subject to abuse of discretion review); Citizens for Responsible Equitable Environmental Development v. City of San Diego Redevelopment Agency (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 598, 604-605, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 249 ; Protect the Historic Amador Waterways v. Amador Water Agency (2004) 116 Cal. App. 4th 1099, 1105-1106, 11 Cal. Rptr. 3d 104] . The abuse of discretion standard of review also applies to writ of mandate proceedings brought under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 to challenge the Department of Forestry and Fire Protection's approval of timber harvesting plans (THP) under the requirements of the Z'Berg-Nejedly Forest Practices Act of 1973, Pub. Res. Code § 4582.6 [Ebbetts Pass Forest Watch v. Department of Forestry and Fire Protection (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 1331, 1345-1346, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 808] . The Court of Appeal upheld the approval of the THPby the Department and noted that the THP was the "functional equivalent" of an environmental impact report under CEQA, Pub. Res. Code § 21000 et seq. [Ebbetts Pass Forest Watch v. Department of Forestry and Fire Protection (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 1331, 1338-1339, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 808] .

Agency penalty determinations are within the discretion of the agency and are reviewed for abuse of discretion [Kazensky v. City of Merced (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 44, 53, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 356 (city terminated employees for misconduct; Superior court issued writ of mandamus reinstating employee, and requiring use of progressive discipline; Court of appeal reversed writ and upheld termination decision based on abuse of discretion standard of review); Kolender v. San Diego County Civil Service Comm'n (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 716, 720-722, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1 (county sheriff terminated sheriff's deputy for lying to cover up physical abuse of an inmate by another deputy; civil service commission reduced sanction to 90-day suspension concluding that termination was excessive; sheriff petitioned for writ of mandate challenging commission decision; superior court denied petition, an court of appeal reversed denial of petition. Holding that it was abuse of discretion for commission to reduce sanction, and that termination was not an excessive sanction in these circumstances)].

An agency can impose more severe discipline than recommended by a hearing officer without reviewing the agency record related to the penalty in circumstances under which the weight of the evidence in the agency record supports the findings of misconduct. The trial court applied the independent judgment test (because public employment is a fundamental vested right) and found that the weight of the evidence supported the fact findings related to misconduct. The trial court standard of review for agency penalty determinations is abuse of discretion, not independent judgment [Spanner v. Rancho Santiago Community College Dist. (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 584, 591-592, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1 (classified employee of school district was permanently demoted by district for misconduct; hearing officer had recommended that employee be warned and given opportunity to change behavior; Court of Appeal upheld denial of employee's mandate petition challenging demotion)].

A county civil service commission's decision to reduce the penalty awarded (from demotion in rank to a 30-day suspension without back pay) against a sergeant who allegedly made false statements and was found to have acted with insubordination and willful disobedience during the investigation of a gender harassment claim against him brought by a female deputy was reversed by the Sixth District California Court of Appeal, which found that the reduction in penalty was an abuse of discretion given the seriousness of the employee misconduct by the sergeant [County of Santa Cruz v. Civil Service Commission of Santa Cruz (2009) 171 Cal. App. 4th 1577, 1584-1585] .

[3] Prejudice Requirement

Even if an agency's decision constitutes an abuse of discretion, the decision will not be overturned unless prejudice has resulted to the petitioner from the decision [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b); Bakersfield Citizens for Local Control v. City of Bakersfield (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 1184, 1221-1221, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 203 (certification of EIR by city without considering urban decay and air quality effects in environmental assessment precluded informed public participation and decision making and was therefore a prejudicial abuse of discretion); Steele v. L.A. County Civil Service Com. (1958) 166 Cal. App. 2d 129, 137-138, 333 P.2d 171] . A petitioner is generally prejudiced by a decision only if it has substantially affected his or her rights [Steele v. L.A. County Civil Service Com. (1958) 166 Cal. App. 2d 129, 137-138, 333 P.2d 171] . If the agency's decision would have been the same absent its abuse of discretion, the petitioner has not been prejudiced and mandate relief should not be granted [see Roark v. State Bar (1936) 5 Cal. 2d 665, 668, 55 P.2d 839 (proceedings to disbar attorney)]. For example, if improper or objectionable evidence was introduced in the administrative proceedings, prejudice is not shown if other competent evidence supports the agency's decision [Roark v. State Bar (1936) 5 Cal. 2d 665, 668, 55 P.2d 839 ; Cooley v. State Bd. of Funeral Directors (1956) 141 Cal. App. 2d 293, 298-299, 296 P.2d 588 ; West Coast etc. Co. v. Contractors' etc. Bd. (1945) 72 Cal. App. 2d 287, 299-300, 164 P.2d 811] .

Chapter 474B STANDARDS IN REVIEWING AGENCY DECISIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Administrative Mandate

41A-474B California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 474B.14

§ 474B.14 Agency Action in Manner Required by Law

[1] Agency Procedures Required by Law

One statutory ground for establishing abuse of discretion is a showing that the agency has not proceeded in the manner required by law [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b); see § 474B.13[1]]. A wide variety of procedural defects may establish that the agency failed to proceed in the manner required by law, including:

- Denial of subpoena or discovery rights [for discussion, see Ch. 473B, Discovery in Agency Adjudications].
- Denial of the right to counsel [see [2], below].
- Failure of the agency to correctly construe the law [see [3], below].
- Errors in admitting and excluding evidence [see [4], below].
- Failure to properly determine penalties [see [5], below].

Other procedural errors may also establish failure. For example, an agency's use of an erroneous legal standard in making its determinations has been held to constitute a failure to proceed in the manner required by law [No Oil, Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 68, 88, 118 Cal. Rptr. 34, 529 P.2d 66 ; Department of Corrections v. Office of Administrative Hearings (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 1100, 1106-1107, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 473 (judicial review of decision based on administrative hearing required for renewed petition for involuntary medication of prisoner)], as has the exercise of agency discretion in a manner that conflicts with the spirit of the law or impedes or defeats the ends of substantial justice [see Walsh v. Kirby (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 95, 103, 118 Cal. Rptr. 1, 529 P.2d 33 (imposition of cumulative penalties on holder of alcoholic beverage license amounted to de facto revocation of license, contrary to provisions of Alcoholic Beverage Control Act); see also Fisher v. Board of Police Commissioners (1965) 236 Cal. App. 2d 298, 301, 45 Cal. Rptr. 859 (action by board members did not constitute effective exercise of discretion as required by city charter when proceedings did not culminate in order adopted by majority of members)]. Other failures to follow statutory procedures, such as holding a hearing in the absence of an administrative law judge (ALJ) when the statutes require an ALJ to preside [see Gov. Code §§ 11512(a) (ALJ must preside over every hearing in a contested case), 11517(a) (ALJ must be present during consideration of contested case); Usher v. County of Monterey (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 210, 218-219, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 274] , and the failure of agency members to familiarize themselves with the evidence in matters heard outside the members' presence [see Gov. Code § 11517(b)(1) (when contested case heard before agency itself, no member who did not hear evidence may vote on decision); Old Santa Barbara Pier Co. v. State of California (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 250, 257, 139 Cal. Rptr. 332 (requirement that quorum of State Coastal Zone Conservation Commission "act" on appeal is satisfied even though members not present at first of two meetings had familiarized themselves with presentations at first meeting and with other material relating to appeal)], may also establish failure to proceed in the manner required by law.

In particular cases, facts showing that an agency has not proceeded in the manner required by law may be similar (or even identical) to facts showing that the agency has denied a litigant a "fair trial" [see § 474B.12 for discussion of denial of "fair trial" as a ground for issuance of mandate]. Thus, under the facts of a given case, a failure to proceed in the manner required by law may also constitute a deprivation of a fair trial, and vice versa.

[2] Right to Counsel for Petitioner

A party to an administrative proceeding is entitled to be represented by retained counsel when the proceeding is such that the party's interest might be prejudiced if the right to representation by counsel were denied [Steen v. Board of Civil Service Commrs. (1945) 26 Cal. 2d 716, 727, 160 P.2d 816 ; Borror v. Department of Investment (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 531, 540, 92 Cal. Rptr. 525] . Although the right to counsel is not essential to a fair hearing in all types of administrative proceedings [see Perlman v. Shasta Joint Jr. College Dist. Bd. of Trustees (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 873, 879-880, 88 Cal. Rptr. 563 (right to counsel not essential to fair hearing in proceedings for suspension of college student)], in proceedings to revoke or suspend a license or other administrative action of a disciplinary nature the licensee is entitled to have counsel of his or her own choosing [Borror v. Department of Investment (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 531, 543-544, 92 Cal. Rptr. 525 ; see also Gov. Code § 11509 (form for notice of hearing includes statement of parties' right to be represented by counsel at own expense)]. However, due process does not require that counsel be furnished to a licensee when the licensee personally cannot afford to hire counsel [Borror v. Department of Investment (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 531, 543, 92 Cal. Rptr. 525 ; see Gov. Code § 11509 (form for notice of hearing includes statement that party is not entitled to appointment of attorney at public expense)]. Further, in administrative proceedings no constitutional requirement exists that the hearing officer or the agency advise a party that he or she is entitled to be represented by counsel, although in proceedings subject to the APA [Gov. Code § 11340 et seq.], there is a statutory requirement that the agency notify all parties before the hearing of their right to be represented by counsel [Borror v. Department of Investment (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 531, 543-544, 92 Cal. Rptr. 525 ; see Gov. Code § 11509; see also Gov. Code §§ 11500(a) ("agency" defined), 11501(a) (application of Gov. Code § 11500 et seq. to agencies as determined by statutes relating to those agencies); see also Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication]. The availability of the *Fifth Amendment*privilege against self-incrimination is deemed sufficient protection against the possibility that criminal charges might arise out of the conduct for which disciplinary proceedings are brought [Borror v. Department of Investment (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 531, 541, 92 Cal. Rptr. 525 ; see In re Groban (1957) 352 U.S. 330, 333, 77 S. Ct. 510, 1 L. Ed. 2d 376, 76 Ohio Law Abs. 368 (witnesses compelled to testify before state fire marshal have no constitutional right to counsel); but see Szmaciarz v. State Personnel Bd. (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 904, 917-919, 145 Cal. Rptr. 396 (privilege against self-incrimination unavailable and adverse inferences from refusal to testify may be drawn in administrative hearing on suspension of correctional officer, unless state seeks to subject officer to some criminal liability)]. The general common law rule that corporations must be represented by counsel (licensed attorneys) in litigation before courts of record (other than small claims courts) does not apply to adjudicative proceedings before administrative tribunals, and the Board's decision to affirm the Department's revocation of a corporation's liquor license was not void for lack of jurisdiction because non attorney president of corporation represented corporation in administrative license revocation hearing [Camille v. Alcoholic Beverage Control Appeals Board (2002) 99 Cal. App.

4th 1094, 1101-1103, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 758] .

[3] Agency Constructions of Law

Administrative agencies have both the power and the duty to construe the law applicable to cases adjudicated by them, but their constructions of the law are not conclusive on the courts [California Ass'n of Psychology Providers v. Rank (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 1, 11, 270 Cal. Rptr. 796, 793 P.2d 2 ; Miller & Lux Inc. v. Industrial Acci. Com. (1919) 179 Cal. 764, 766, 178 P. 960 ; Godshalk v. City of San Diego (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 459, 468, 94 Cal. Rptr. 42] . A reviewing court has the constitutional power to construe the law applicable to any case and, if convinced that an administrative agency has based a decision on an erroneous interpretation of the law, to overturn the decision [People ex rel. Fund American Companies v. California Ins. Co. (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 423, 431, 117 Cal. Rptr. 623] . When appropriate, the court may simply ignore an agency's erroneous conclusion of law [Strode v. Board of Medical Examiners (1961) 195 Cal. App. 2d 291, 303, 15 Cal. Rptr. 879] . The reviewing court makes an independent determination of the validity of the agency's interpretation and application of its governing statute [City of Long Beach v. Department of Industrial Relations (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 942, 949, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 518, 102 P.3d 904 (reviewing court exercises independent judgment in determining meaning of statutory term "public work" for purposes of Prevailing Wage Law); North Gualala Water Co. v. State Water Resources Control Board (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 1577, 1586-1588, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 821 (de novo review standard applied to determination of "subterranean stream" language in water law agency jurisdiction statute); Pacific Bell Wireless, LLC v. P.U.C. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 718, 729-730, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 733 (independent judgment test applied to interpretation of statute related to agency scope of jurisdiction); Greystone Homes, Inc. v. Cake (2005) 135 Cal. App. 4th 1, 8-9, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 183 (independent judgment test applies to determination of "public work" for purposes of prevailing wage law); Placer County Local Agency Formation Com. v. Nevada County Local Agency Formation Com. (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 793, 803-804, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 729 (de novo review standard applies to determine meaning of statutory terms related to authority of county local agency formation commissions); Harroman Co. v. Town of Tiburon (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 388, 392-393, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 72 ; City of Coachella v. Riverside County Airport Land Use Com. (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 1277, 1289, 258 Cal. Rptr. 795] .

The court will give some deference to the agency interpretation of its governing statute [North Gualala Water Co. v. State Water Resources Control Board (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 1577, 1589-1590, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 821 (court of appeal gave limited deference to agency interpretation of statutory term ("subterranean stream") related to agency water law jurisdiction that was determined by agency in adjudicatory capacity in permitting proceeding)], but ultimately the court will decide the statutory interpretation issue as a question of law subject to the de novo review standard [Connerly v. State Personnel Bd. (2006) 37 Cal. 4th 1169, 1175-1176, 39 Cal. Rptr. 3d 788, 129 P.3d 1 (interpretation of "opposing parties" language in attorney's fees statute, Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5, was subject to do novo review standard of review, not abuse of discretion, as the meaning of a statute is a question of law when there are no disputed fact issues. Note that there was no agency interpretation in this lawsuit); Dunn v. County of Santa Barbara (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 1281, 1289-1290, 38 Cal. Rptr. 3d 316 (notwithstanding independent judgment test, County interpretation of Coastal Act incorporated into County's local coastal plan (LCP) regulations is entitled to substantial deference ("great weight") because the statewide coastal commission certified the LCP)]. The court also will decide interpretive questions of fact related to the legal issue that are based on stipulated facts as questions of law subject to the de novo review standard [Automotive Funding Group, Inc. v. Garamendi (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 846, 851, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 912 (car finance lender that offered loss damage waiver program was not providing insurance subject to regulation by Insurance Commissioner)]. The Court of Appeal rejected the insurance commissioner's interpretation of Cal. Ins. Code § 22 as covering lender's LDW provision, and concluded that the collision damage waiver program was not insurance subject to the regulatory authority of the Insurance commissioner [Automotive Funding Group, Inc. v. Garamendi (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 846, 855-857, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 912] .

The California Court of Appeal interpreted the meaning of the term "incident" for purposes of determining a challenge to cost reimbursement statutes for costs incurred by CHP officers in stopping and arresting drivers subject to DUI laws. In construing the statute, the court rejected application of the longstanding administrative interpretation principle for deciding the meaning of the statutory term. The court also considered, but did not give controlling weight to, an opinion letter written by a legislative counsel that supported the interpretation that the court ultimately concluded was the proper meaning of the term [California Highway Patrol v. Superior Court (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 488, 501-503, 38 Cal. Rptr. 3d 16] .

The State Board of Equalization publishes the Business Tax Law Guide which contains "Annotations," which are summaries of opinions by agency attorneys as to the business tax impact of transactions subject to California business taxes. The annotations are responses to requests for legal opinions by the agency, and by businesses subject to tax jurisdiction by the agency. These annotations contain agency interpretations of the meaning of statutes enforced by the agency [Yamaha Corp. of America v. State Bd. of Equalization (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 1, 4-5, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1, 960 P.2d 1031] . However, the annotations are not adopted agency regulations, and therefore there is a different standard of review applicable to these annotations. The standard of review that applies to agency interpretations of statutes enforced by the agency is the independent judgment of the court giving deference to the determination of the agency appropriate to the circumstances of the agency action, with a de novo review of the merits of the legal issue before the court. It was erroneous for the lower court to give controlling weight to the agency interpretation of the statute contained in the agency annotation [Yamaha Corp. of America v. State Bd. of Equalization (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 1, 7-8, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1, 960 P.2d 1031] . In the Yamaha decision, the California Supreme Court departed from, and did not follow the "strong deference" approach of federal administrative law [see Chevron U.S.A. Inc. v. NRDC (1984) 467 U.S. 837, 104 S. Ct. 2778, 81 L. Ed. 2d 694]. However, the Court of Appeals followed the Chevron case and deferred to a federal agency interpretation contained in a federal regulation as to an issue, post-payment audit of Medi-Cal providers claims, that was governed by federal law [RCJ Medical Services, Inc. v. Bonta' (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 986, 992-993, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 223] .

The California Supreme Court gave no deference to agency interpretations of the governing statute, the Knox-Keene Act provisions contained in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2556 (prohibiting business and financial relationship between opticians and licensed optometrists), that were contained in two documents: 1) a petition filed by the California Attorney General, representing the California Board of Optometry with the Federal Trade Commission; and 2) internal memoranda from the Medical Board of California's division of licensing and from the Department of Corporations. These agencies had responsibility for administering the Knox Keene Act. The interpretations were entitled to no deference because these documents were not produced at the time of statutory enactment, but rather much later. Also, the documents did not discuss the relevant statutory language, and their content did not contain a careful discussion of the issues before the Supreme Court. The memoranda were advice letters written by agency staff, and those memos are entitled to less deference than a formally adopted agency regulation. Finally, appellate courts are less deferential to agency interpretations of governing statutes because the agency does not have a comparative advantage over the appellate courts in interpreting statutes [People v. Cole (2006) 38 Cal. 4th 964, 987-988, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 261, 135 P.3d 669] .

The California Supreme Court gave significant weight to interpretations of the State Board of Equalization (SBE) that when changes in federal tax liability are made by the IRS, the four year general tax statute of limitations [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19057] for giving notice of deficiency assessments is replaced by the limitations provisions of Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 19059 (FTB has two years from date taxpayers notify board of IRS deficiency assessment) and 19060 (notice of state tax deficiency assessment can be given at any time when taxpayer fails to give notice to board of federal tax deficiency assessment). While the Supreme Court retained the ultimate responsibility for interpreting those statutory provisions, the Court gave substantial weight to the SBE's longstanding statutory construction of the four year statute's applicability because the SBE is the state agency charged with the enforcement of the statute [Ordlock v. Franchise Tax Bd. (2006) 38 Cal. 4th 897, 910-911, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 212, 135 P.3d 628] .

The California Supreme Court held that a 2003 legislative amendment to the California Fair Employment and Housing Act provisions [Gov. Code § 12940(j)(1)] that provided for employer liability for sexual harassment of employees by third party non-employees (including customers and clients) clarified existing law, and therefore the amended statute could be applied to a lawsuit that was pending before the California courts at the time of the enactment of the legislative amendment. The Supreme court rejected an argument that the legislative amendment had retroactive effect, and thus could not be applied to pending cases [Carter v. California Dept. of Veterans Affairs (2006) 38 Cal. 4th 914, 918, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 223, 135 P.3d 637] . The legislature can not declare existing law in a later amendment that is contrary to a definitive interpretation of a California statute by the California Supreme Court, but if the California Supreme Court has not definitively interpreted a statue, the legislature can clarify the meaning by a later amendment. That amendment will be considered to be declaratory of existing law and applicable to pending cases [Carter v. California Dept. of Veterans Affairs (2006) 38 Cal. 4th 914, 922-923, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 223, 135 P.3d 637] . The California Supreme Court rejected the statutory interpretation advocated by the California Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) because that interpretation was contrary to language in the uncodified portion (section one) of Gov. Code § 12940, which portion could be used to determine legislative intent even though the uncodified portion was not enacted as binding law [Carter v. California Dept. of Veterans Affairs (2006) 38 Cal. 4th 914, 924-925, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 223, 135 P.3d 637] .

The Insurance Commissioner's interpretation of its own administrative regulations is to be respected and given some weight based on the merits of the interpretation by a court that is deciding the issue of how to interpret the regulation. However, the ultimate decision of how to interpret the regulation is a question of law to be decided by the court, and the agency's interpretation is not binding on the court [State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Company v. Quackenbush (1999) 77 Cal. App. 4th 65, 71, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 381] . Thus, a court has rejected the Insurance Commissioner's interpretations of its own regulations that were inconsistent with the terms of the regulations, or with related regulatory provisions of law [see State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Company v. Quackenbush (1999) 77 Cal. App. 4th 65, 71-72, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 381] . However, another court gave strong deference to the Insurance Commissioner's interpretation of the weight ordering mandate in Proposition 103 related statutes based on agency technical expertise and the time and effort spent addressing issue [Spanish Speaking Citizens' Foundation, Inc. v. Low (2001) 85 Cal. App. 4th 1179, 1236-1237, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 75] .

The California Court of Appeal upheld the Department of Social Services agency's interpretation of the meaning of the term "child support" in the maximum family grant statute because the agency interpretation was consistent with the language of the statute and with the legislative intent of the statute [Sneed v. Saenz (2004) 120 Cal. App. 4th 1220, 1234, 1246, 16 Cal. Rptr. 3d 563] . In another case, the California Court of Appeal adopted the following approach to assessing the weight of a PUC interpretation of the agencies jurisdiction over utility holding companies. PUC's interpretation of the scope of agency jurisdiction is not controlling, is scrutinized more carefully, and is given the weight justified by the carefulness, thoroughness, and consistency of the agencies reasoning in support of the interpretation [PG & E Corp. v. Public Utilities Comm'n (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 1174, 1194-1196, 13 Cal. Rptr. 3d 630] . In a third case, the California Court of Appeal upheld an agency interpretation by the Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) of the requirements of the law related to commercial registration of trucks. The DMV interpretation applied to trucks that had been converted into vehicles with living quarters. The DMV interpreted the commercial vehicle statutory definition [Cal. Veh. Code § 260] to refer to the design of the vehicle, and not to whether the vehicle was used in business. The DMV interpretation was contained both in agency policy statements and based on declarations of experienced California Highway Patrol officers who enforced the law [California Career Schools v. DMV (2004) 120 Cal. App. 4th 10, 14-16, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 813] . On the contrary, when a court decides an issue related to interpreting an agency regulation, it does not defer to agency expertise in interpreting the regulation when the plain language of the regulation compels an interpretation different from the agency, or when the language of the rule does not require administrative expertise to interpret [Southern California Edison Co. v. Public Utilities Com'n (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 1086, 1105-1106, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 684] .

The California Supreme Court deferred to the agency interpretation by the California Department of Social Services (CDSS) of its governing statute, Fam. Code § 8617, because of agency expertise and because the interpretation was adopted at "authoritative legal and policymaking levels of the agency." The agency had interpreted the statute to permit second parent adoptions. The CDSS had adopted forms and procedures to "facilitate second parent adoptions." The challenge was based on the argument that CDSS, an executive branch agency, exercised legislative powers by recognizing a type of adoption that was not authorized by the legislature. The Court rejected this challenge and held that CDSS had reasonably interpreted a statute authorizing independent adoptions to allow the type of adoption for which they had provided forms and procedures [Sharon S. v. Superior Court (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 417, 436-437, 2 Cal. Rptr. 3d 699, 73 P.3d 554] .

The Court of Appeal reversed a trial court decision granting a writ of mandate, and held that the Insurance Commissioner's interpretation of its own regulations was entitled to deference by the trial court and should be followed. The interpretive issue related to when a worker's compensation claim is officially closed because of the claimant's failure to prosecute the claim. The Insurance Commissioner interpreted that requirement to mean that the WCAB or a Court had to take official action to dismiss the claim for failure to prosecute. The employer argued that the insurer's closing of a claim file was sufficient. The employer's experience rating was based in part on the number of past meritorious claims. The Court of Appeal held that the Insurance Commissioner's interpretation was entitled to deference because of agency expertise citing Yamaha Corp. of Am. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 1, 12, 78 Cal. Rptr 2d 1, 960 P.2d 1031 (deference based on agency expertise, when agency has comparative interpretive advantage over courts, agency interpretation formally adopted and followed consistently), and this expertise driven interpretation is controlling notwithstanding that the language of the regulation could be read another way [Simi Corporation v. Garamendi (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1496, 1511-1512, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 207] .

When there is no agency interpretation of a relevant statutory provision at issue in judicial review, the court will treat the issue of interpreting the statute as a question of law, and will apply the independent judgment (de novo) standard of review [McKee v. Orange Unified School Dist. (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 1310, 1316, 2 Cal. Rptr. 3d 774] . When appellate courts interpret statutes and apply the statutes to undisputed facts, the interpretive issue is treated as a question of law that is subject to the do novo review standard. When interpreting the statute, the appellate court will look to the language of the statute, as well as the statutory purpose. The legislative intent of the statute may be determined from the language of the statute if it is clear and unambiguous, but if not, the literal meaning will give way to interpretation based on legislative intent, and harmonizing all related provisions of the statute [State of California ex rel Nee v. Unumprovident Corp. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 442, 445-446, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 491] . Appellate courts interpret agency regulations using similar principles of construction and interpretation as are sued in interpreting statutes, including looking at the plain meaning of the text, looking at the context of the language, the purpose of the regulation, the history and background of the regulation, and the enforcing agencies interpretation of the regulation [Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control v. Alcoholic Beverage Control Appeals Board (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1687, 1695-1696, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 339] .

The Court of Appeal reversed the decision of the ABC (Board) which had reversed the order of the DABC (Department) suspending a liquor licensee's license for 10 days. The suspension was ordered because the licensee sold alcohol to an underage decoy in violation of Bus. & Prof. Code § 25658(a). The Board reversed the suspension because the police officer had the decoy (an underage person purchasing alcohol) make the required face to face identification of the alcohol seller outside the store premises, not inside. The Board interpreted Cal. Code Reg., tit 4. § 141(b)(5) to require an inside the premises face to face identification. The Board reversed the suspension because of lack of compliance with the regulation. The Court of Appeal rejected the Board's interpretation, and held that the plain language of the regulation, as well as its history, did not support an inside the store premises identification requirement. The Court of Appeal annulled the Board decision, and remanded the action back to the Board to reinstate the license suspension. The Court of Appeal used similar principles, plain language, and history of the regulation, to decide the regulation interpretation question as would be used to decide a question of statutory interpretation. The court did not defer to the agency interpretation nor did it rely on agency expertise [Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control v. Alcoholic Beverage Control Appeals Board (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1687, 1696-1698, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 339] .

Cities must comply with applicable provisions of state law when approving housing development projects. The appellate courts determine whether those provisions of law are applicable to the city's approval process. The courts will interpret the language of the statute to determine the legislative intent. The statutory language is examined in context of the overall statute, and the plain meaning of the words of the statute will be followed in most circumstances. When there is more than one reasonable interpretation of the language of the statute, the courts will also look at the purpose of the statute, legislative history, and public policy [Coalition of Concerned Communities, Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (2004) 34 Cal 4th 733, 737-738, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 676, 101 P. 3d 563 (Mello Act affordable housing requirements did not apply to City of Los Angeles's approval of housing development project in coastal zone because no housing was to be built within coastal zone); Elsner v. Uveges (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 915, 929, 938, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 530, 102 P. 3d 915 (employee of roofing subcontractor was injured on job while working on scaffolding. Employee filed third-party tort lawsuit against general contractor. Employee sought to offer evidence of Cal-OSHA regulations relating to scaffolding standards to establish a negligence per se standard of care, and shift burden of proof to general contractor defendant. California Supreme Court interpreted the statutory language and held that the statutory change in the law could not be applied retroactively to a pre-amendment accident)]. Similarly, the California Supreme Court held that amendments to Labor Code Section 1720(a)(1) which changed the definition of "public works" for purposes of the prevailing wage laws applied prospectively not retroactively [City of Long Beach v. Dep't of Industrial Relations (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 942, 953, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 518, 102 P.3d 904 (statutory amendments are presumed to have prospective application only unless legislation clearly provides for retroactive application)].

The Court of Appeal reversed the trial court decision granting a writ of mandate setting aside the granting of a water quality discharge permit to a refinery. The trial court decision was based on the lack of a numeric water quality based effluent limit for dioxin discharges. The trial court granted the writ of mandate on the grounds that controlling federal regulations required a numeric limit. The court of Appeal reversed the trial court decision, and concluded that the federal regulation did not require a numeric limit in all cases. The Court based this conclusion on a California water quality state agency decision which interpreted federal water quality law to not require numeric limits in permits in all cases. The water quality agencies determined that the challenged permit would be issued without a numeric limit because such a limit was not feasible. Therefore the permit was not invalid for failure to contain a numeric limit on discharges [Communities for a Better Environment v. State Water Resources Control Board (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1089, 1103-1105, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 76] .

Abuse of discretion by an agency may be shown when the agency fails to act consistently in applying its governing statutes, and the agency's actions result in prejudice to a party [Sierra Club v. State Bd. of Forestry (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 1215, 1236, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 19, 876 P.2d 505 ; Schoen v. Department of Forestry & Fire Protection (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 556, 565, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 343] .

The California Court of Appeal held that the California Coastal Commission abused its discretion in including an ocean boater's right to a view of the coastline as a factor in regulating development in the coastal zone. This has not been recognized by the California legislature as a valid factor to consider, and thus the commission has not been given statutory authority to consider this factor. The court of appeal reversed the denial of a petition for a writ of administrative mandate sought by a landowner who challenged the imposition of special conditions on the owner's coastal development permit to build a residence. The court of appeal ordered the issuance of a peremptory writ of mandate setting aside the commission decision, and requiring the commission to rehear the matter without considering the invalid factor [Schneider v. Cal. Coastal Comm'n (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 1339, 1341-1343, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 867] .

[4] Agency Decisions to Admit and Exclude Evidence

[a] Admissibility of Evidence in Administrative Proceedings

Administrative proceedings are not governed by the technical rules of evidence that apply in civil proceedings [Jenner v. City Council (1958) 164 Cal. App. 2d 490, 496, 331 P.2d 176 ; see Ch. 473F, Agency Adjudication Hearings , for discussion of rules of evidence in administrative proceedings]. In proceedings subject to the APA [Gov. Code § 11340 et seq.], relevant evidence is admissible, unless privileged, if it is the sort of evidence on which responsible people are accustomed to rely in the conduct of serious affairs [Gov. Code § 11513(c); see Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication , for overview of agency adjudication].

Under the new act, hearsay evidence may be used for the purpose of supplementing or explaining other evidence, but over timely objection hearsay standing alone is not sufficient to support a finding unless it would be admissible over objection in civil actions. The objection is timely if made before submission of the case or on reconsideration [Gov. Code § 11513(d) (operative July 1, 1997); see Stats. 1995, ch. 938, § 40]. This statutory amendment expressly requires a timely objection and therefore resolves a split in the courts over whether an objection was required for administrative hearsay to be insufficient to support fact findings other than when it is used to supplement or explain other evidence. This split existed under former Gov. Code § 11513(c), as interpreted by the various districts of the California Court of Appeal regarding whether administrative hearsay that has not been objected to may be used to support a finding of fact [see Borror v. Department of Investment (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 531, 546, 92 Cal. Rptr. 525 (hearsay evidence that has not been objected to serves to shift the burden of producing evidence of the existence or nonexistence of fact disclosed); Martin v. State Personnel Bd. (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 573, 582-583, 103 Cal. Rptr. 306 (contrary to Borror and other cases, the absence of objection to hearsay will not support a finding of fact)].

The general rule in administrative matters not governed by the APA is that hearsay alone will not sustain a finding [Walker v. City of San Gabriel (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 879, 881, 129 P.2d 349 ; Layton v. Merit System Commission (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 58, 67, 131 Cal. Rptr. 318] . Some courts have held that hearsay admitted without objection is sufficient to sustain a finding [Frudden Enterprises, Inc. v. Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 262, 270, 201 Cal. Rptr. 371] .

For a general consideration of evidence in administrative hearings and a detailed discussion of the admission of hearsay in administrative proceedings, see Ch. 473F, Agency Adjudication Hearings .

[b] Use of Illegally Obtained Evidence

The due process requirements of criminal law apply in administrative proceedings only when the proceedings (1) can result in the deprivation of liberty, property, or property rights, and (2) bear a close resemblance to the aims and objectives of criminal law enforcement [see Borror v. Department of Investment (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 531, 539-542, 92 Cal. Rptr. 525 (real estate licensee not entitled to appointed counsel in disciplinary proceedings); Patty v. Board of Medical Examiners (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 356, 367, 107 Cal. Rptr. 473, 508 P.2d 1121 (defense of entrapment available in license revocation proceeding)]. Nevertheless, in reviewing an administrative decision the court may consider whether evidence used against the petitioner was obtained in violation of state [see Cal. Const., art. I, § 13] or federal [see U.S. Const., amend. IV] constitutional prohibitions against unreasonable searches and seizures, and, if so, whether use of the evidence deprived the petitioner of due process of law [see Emslie v. State Bar (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 210, 229-230, 113 Cal. Rptr. 175, 520 P.2d 991 (disbarment of attorney); Goldin v. Public Utilities Commission (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 638, 669, 153 Cal. Rptr. 802, 592 P.2d 289 (agency not permitted to use illegally seized evidence in proceeding to terminate business telephone service); Western States Petroleum Association v. State Department of Health Services (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 999, 1006-1007, 122 Cal. Rptr. 2d 117] .

In determining whether the exclusionary rule should apply in administrative proceedings, the courts consider whether the particular proceedings bear a close resemblance to the aims and objectives of criminal law enforcement and whether, in light of its rationale, the rule is necessary to prevent the state from profiting by its own wrong, or to prevent law enforcement officers from violating the constitutional rights of individuals [Emslie v. State Bar (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 210, 226-227, 113 Cal. Rptr. 175, 520 P.2d 991 ; for discussion of application of the exclusionary rule in administrative hearings, see Ch. 473F, Agency Adjudication Hearings]. The courts must decide on a case-by-case basis whether to apply the rule [Emslie v. State Bar (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 210, 229, 113 Cal. Rptr. 175, 520 P.2d 991 (exclusionary rule inapplicable in attorney disciplinary proceedings); see Pating v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 608, 624-625, 182 Cal. Rptr. 20 (physician could not assert exclusionary rule to prevent introduction of medical records obtained by investigator without administrative subpoena in license revocation proceedings)]. If exclusion of illegally obtained evidence would have no deterrent effect on the state or its officers, due process does not generally require that the evidence be excluded [Emslie v. State Bar (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 210, 229, 113 Cal. Rptr. 175, 520 P.2d 991 ; for detailed consideration of the exclusionary rule, see California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 20, Principles of Search and Seizure ; Ch. 21, Search Warrants ; Ch. 22, Warrantless Searches ; and Ch. 23, Search and Seizure Motions (Matthew Bender)].

[c] Results of Prior Criminal and Civil Proceedings

Unless a statute provides that a prior criminal conviction is sufficient to support disciplinary action, evidence of such a conviction is admissible in administrative proceedings on the same basis as other hearsay evidence--that is, it may be used only to explain or supplement other evidence in the record [see Manning v. Watson (1952) 108 Cal. App. 2d 705, 711, 239 P.2d 688 (although hearsay, record of conviction admissible because conviction in federal court is kind of evidence on which responsible persons rely)].

A guilty plea in a criminal proceeding may be admissible in a subsequent administrative proceeding (for example, a license revocation hearing) as an admission against interest [Arenstein v. California State Bd. of Pharmacy (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 179, 190-191, 71 Cal. Rptr. 357] . In mandate proceedings in which the court exercises its independent judgment on the evidence, the court must assess the weight and significance of the guilty plea and any testimony offered to explain the circumstances under which it was given [Arenstein v. California State Bd. of Pharmacy (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 179, 190-191, 71 Cal. Rptr. 357 ; see § 474B.16[4] (independent judgment test)].

Whether previous acts committed by a party to a disciplinary proceeding show moral turpitude is a question of law to be decided by an appellate court [Yakov v. Board of Medical Examiners (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 67, 74 n.7, 64 Cal. Rptr. 785, 435 P.2d 553] . Neither exoneration in a prior civil action nor acquittal in a prior criminal proceeding is res judicata in a subsequent administrative license proceeding [Lundborg v. Director Dept. Professional etc. Standards (1967) 257 Cal. App. 2d 141, 146, 64 Cal. Rptr. 650] .

[5] Agency Penalty Determinations

Administrative agencies are usually vested with discretion to fix penalties for infractions within their jurisdiction. When an agency exercises its discretion to fix a penalty, the courts may not disturb the penalty unless the agency has committed a manifest abuse of discretion [Skelly v. State Personnel Bd. (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 194, 217, 124 Cal. Rptr. 14, 539 P.2d 774 ; Barber v. State Personnel Bd. (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 395, 404, 134 Cal. Rptr. 206, 556 P.2d 306 ; Richardson v. Board of Supervisors (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 486, 494-495, 250 Cal. Rptr. 1 ; Zink v. City of Sausalito (1977) 70 Cal. App. 3d 662, 665, 139 Cal. Rptr. 59] . This holds true even when the court is authorized to exercise its "independent judgment" in reviewing the evidence [Cadilla v. Board of Medical Examiners (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 961, 966-967, 103 Cal. Rptr. 455 ; for discussion of the "independent judgment" test, see § 474B.16[4]]. In mandate proceedings, the court is not authorized to substitute its own judgment for that of the agency [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(f) (order granting writ shall not limit or control in any way discretion legally vested in agency); Cadilla v. Board of Medical Examiners (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 961, 966-967, 103 Cal. Rptr. 455 ; Cummings v. Civil Service Commission (1996) 40 Cal. App. 4th 1643, 1653-1654, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 775] . Thus, if reasonable minds might differ as to the propriety of the penalty imposed, the agency did not abuse its discretion [Harris v. Alcoholic Bev. etc. Appeals Bd. (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 589, 594, 43 Cal. Rptr. 633, 400 P.2d 745] .

When an appellate court reviews a trial court's judgment granting or refusing to grant a writ of administrative mandate based on a challenge to an agency's exercise of discretion in imposing a penalty, the appellate court uses the same scope of review as the trial court, and must determine whether the administrative agency properly exercised its discretion. The appellate courts review, on a de novo basis, the agency's exercise of discretion in imposing a penalty [Osburn v. Department of Transportation (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 1339, 1344, 270 Cal. Rptr. 761 ; Talmo v. Civil Service Com. (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 210, 227-228, 282 Cal. Rptr. 240] .

An administrative penalty may not be set aside on the ground that it was determined after consideration of violations not charged in the accusation and not considered on the question of whether discipline should be imposed [see Ralph Williams Ford v. New Car Dealers Policy & Appeals Bd. (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 494, 499-500, 106 Cal. Rptr. 340 , cert. denied, 414 U.S. 974, 94 S. Ct. 283, 38 L. Ed. 2d 217 (once agency found charged violations had taken place, it was entitled to consider related violations to evaluate what administrative penalty and conditions of probation would be suitable)]. Uncharged offenses may be considered for purposes of penalty determination, although those offenses may not be considered on the threshold question of whether discipline should be imposed [see Ralph Williams Ford v. New Car Dealers Policy & Appeals Bd. (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 494, 499-500, 106 Cal. Rptr. 340 , cert. denied, 414 U.S. 974, 94 S. Ct. 283, 38 L. Ed. 2d 217 (related violations considered in determining penalty)].

Although an agency's discretion to determine penalties may be broad, it is never unlimited. Agency discretion must always be guided by fixed legal principles and exercised in such a way as to serve the ends of substantial justice [Harris v. Alcoholic Bev. etc. Appeals Bd. (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 589, 594-595, 43 Cal. Rptr. 633, 400 P.2d 745] . If no reasonable person could have determined that the penalty imposed by an agency was appropriate, its imposition constitutes an abuse of discretion [Wingfield v. Fielder (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 209, 221, 105 Cal. Rptr. 619] . Abuse of discretion may be found, for example, when an agency has imposed the highest allowable penalty despite the existence of mitigating factors [see Magit v. Board of Medical Examiners (1961) 57 Cal. 2d 74, 87-88, 17 Cal. Rptr. 488, 366 P.2d 816 (abuse of discretion to revoke license of physician whose decision to permit unlicensed physicians to administer anesthetics under his control resulted from good faith reliance on advice of counsel); Harris v. Alcoholic Bev. etc. Appeals Bd. (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 589, 595, 43 Cal. Rptr. 633, 400 P.2d 745 (abuse of discretion to revoke beer and wine license when agency's own schedule of penalties provided for maximum 75-day suspension for proven offense)].

The overriding consideration in determining whether the penalty imposed on a public employee was so excessive as to constitute an abuse of discretion is the extent to which the employee's conduct resulted in, or if repeated is likely to result in harm, to the public service [Haney v. City of Los Angeles (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1, 11-12, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 411 (police department's discharge of police officer was justified by harm to public interest standard, as police officer showed dishonesty and lack of integrity by holding Memorial Day barbecue during work duty while also falsifying police reports related to officer's duties on day of barbecue); Deegan v. City of Mountain View (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 37, 52, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 690] . Other relevant factors include the circumstances surrounding the misconduct and the likelihood of a recurrence [Skelly v. State Personnel Bd. (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 194, 218, 124 Cal. Rptr. 14, 539 P.2d 774 ; Richardson v. Board of Supervisors (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 486, 494, 250 Cal. Rptr. 1] .

If the court concludes that an agency abused its discretion in assessing a penalty, it may remand the matter to the agency with instructions to reconsider the case in light of the court's order and to take such further action as is specially enjoined on it by law [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(f); Harris v. Alcoholic Bev. etc. Appeals Bd. (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 589, 594, 43 Cal. Rptr. 633, 400 P.2d 745] . Moreover, if the court determines that one of the agency's finding was unsupported by the evidence, it should ordinarily remand the case for redetermination of the penalty [see Bonham v. McConnell (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 304, 306, 288 P.2d 502 ; Neely v. California State Personnel Bd. (1965) 237 Cal. App. 2d 487, 494, 47 Cal. Rptr. 64] , unless, on the basis of the administrative record, it determines beyond any real doubt that the agency would have imposed the same penalty on the findings approved by the court [Strode v. Board of Medical Examiners (1961) 195 Cal. App. 2d 291, 304, 15 Cal. Rptr. 879] .

[6] Conditioning Administrative Rights on Waiver of Constitutional Rights

Administrative agencies may not condition or deny rights and privileges on the basis of a party's exercise of constitutional rights unless a compelling state interest justifies the limitation of those rights and no narrower restriction can be imposed [see Bekiaris v. Board of Education (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 575, 585-586, 100 Cal. Rptr. 16, 493 P.2d 480 (unconstitutional to condition employment of public school teacher on absention from off-duty political activity); Fort

v. Civil Service Commission (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 331, 334-338, 38 Cal. Rptr. 625, 392 P.2d 385 (unconstitutional to condition county employment on absention from off-duty political activity)]. Special scrutiny is required when an administrative decision affects fundamental rights [Bekiaris v. Board of Education (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 575, 591-592, 100 Cal. Rptr. 16, 493 P.2d 480] . When an aggrieved party presents evidence tending to show that an agency's decision resulted from official dissatisfaction with his or her exercise of constitutional rights, the trial court in mandate proceedings must make an independent judicial determination of the ultimate question of whether the agency acted for the reasons stated in its findings or because of the aggrieved party's exercise of constitutional rights [Bekiaris v. Board of Education (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 575, 590, 100 Cal. Rptr. 16, 493 P.2d 480] . On appeal from the decision of the trial court, the appellate court's scope of review is identical to that of the trial court, except that it must uphold the trial court's determination as to the reason for the dismissal if that determination is supported by substantial evidence in light of the entire record [Bekiaris v. Board of Education (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 575, 587, 100 Cal. Rptr. 16, 493 P.2d 480] .

[7] Constitutionality of Enabling Act

The writ of mandate appears to be available in appropriate cases to challenge legislation creating an administrative agency or authorizing an agency to perform certain functions. Such a challenge may be directed to the constitutionality of the enabling act, asserting either that the agency has no jurisdiction to act or that the agency's power was unconstitutionally applied to the aggrieved person [see State of California v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 250-251, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281 (land developer challenged constitutionality of California Coastal Commission)]. Alternatively, it may involve a procedural claim that in acting pursuant to the legislative directive the agency abused its discretion by violating due process and thereby failed to proceed as required by law, or denying the petitioner a fair trial [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b); for requirement of fair trial, see § 474B.12; for a discussion of due process issues, see Ch. 470A, Due Process Restrictions on Public Agencies]. If a party wishes to mount a general challenge to the constitutionality of a statute, the appropriate action is a declaratory judgment suit, not a petition for a writ of administrative mandate [State of California v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 251, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281 , 12 Cal. 3d 237, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281] . If the party asserts only that the statute is unconstitutional as applied to him or her, however, the issue is properly raised before the agency in mandate proceedings [State v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 251, 524 P.2d 1281 ; Taylor v. Swanson (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 416, 418, 187 Cal. Rptr. 111] .

Chapter 474B STANDARDS IN REVIEWING AGENCY DECISIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Administrative Mandate

41A-474B California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 474B.15

§ 474B.15 Order or Decision Supported by Findings

[1] Whether Findings Made by Agency

An abuse of discretion may be established by showing that the agency's order or decision was not supported by findings [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b); see Ch. 473G, Agency Adjudication Decisions (formal and substantive requirements of findings)]. Findings are necessary to bridge the analytic gap between the raw evidence and the ultimate decision so that the grounds on which the agency acted will be clearly disclosed and adequately sustained [Securities and Exchange Com. v. Chenery Corp., (1942) 318 U.S. 80, 94, 63 S. Ct. 454, 87 L. Ed. 626 ; Topanga Asso. for Scenic Community v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 506, 515, 113 Cal. Rptr. 836, 522 P.2d 12]. Findings are required not only by statute [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b)], but also by principles of fundamental fairness, because findings enable the parties to determine whether (and on what basis) they should seek review and, if review is granted, they apprise the court of the basis for the agency's decision [Topanga Asso. for Scenic Community v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 506, 515-517, 113 Cal. Rptr. 836, 522 P.2d 12 ; In re Sturm (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 258, 267, 113 Cal. Rptr. 361, 521 P.2d 97 ; Mahoney v. San Francisco City etc. Employees' Ret. Bd. (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 1, 3-6, 106 Cal. Rptr. 94] .

Further, findings facilitate orderly analysis by the agency itself and foster a public view of the administrative decisionmaking process as careful and reasoned [Topanga Asso. for Scenic Community v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 506, 516, 113 Cal. Rptr. 836, 522 P.2d 12] . If a reviewing court determines that the agency has failed to make findings, it should remand the case to the agency for appropriate findings [see Fairfield v. Superior Court (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 768, 779, 122 Cal. Rptr. 543, 537 P.2d 375 (administrators' depositions not adequate substitute for findings); Glendale Memorial Hosp. & Health Center v. Department of Mental Health (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 129, 139-141, 110 Cal. Rptr. 2d 101 (absence of specific findings prevents meaningful judicial review under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5, and appropriate remedy is to remand to agency to make proper findings)].

[2] Sufficiency of Agency Findings

Although an administrative agency's findings need not be stated with the formality required of judicial proceedings, they must be clear enough to be understandable and complete enough to enable the reviewing court to ascertain the basis for the agency's decision [Topanga Asso. for Scenic Community v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 11 Cal. 3d

506, 514, 113 Cal. Rptr. 836, 522 P.2d 12 ; In re Sturm (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 258, 272, 113 Cal. Rptr. 361, 521 P.2d 97 ; Eureka Teachers Assn. v. Board of Education (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 353, 367-368, 244 Cal. Rptr. 240] . In the absence of more formal findings, the courts have held the following to be sufficient to constitute required findings:

- A summary of factual data [Topanga Asso. for Scenic Community v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 506, 514, 113 Cal. Rptr. 836, 522 P.2d 12] .

- The language of a motion [Hamilton v. Board of Supervisors (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 64, 67-68, 75 Cal. Rptr. 106] .

- A reference in a motion to a staff report [McMillan v. American Gen. Fin. Corp. (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 175, 184, 131 Cal. Rptr. 462] .

Oral remarks of agency members preserved in a hearing transcript have been held insufficient, however, since such remarks reflect the views of the individual members rather than the agency's findings [Pacifica Corp. v. City of Camarillo (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 168, 179, 196 Cal. Rptr. 670] . Also insufficient are findings that merely repeat the language of governing legislation [see Topanga Asso. for Scenic Community v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 506, 517 n.16, 113 Cal. Rptr. 836, 522 P.2d 12] . To facilitate judicial review, the findings must reveal the agency's analytic processes by setting forth findings of fact on subissues building toward the ultimate statutory conclusions [City of Rancho Palos Verdes v. City Council (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 869, 889, 129 Cal. Rptr. 173] . The California Court of Appeal held that the Board of Accountancy made adequate fact findings that met the Topanga standard of "bridging the analytic gap between the raw evidence and the ultimate decision" and provided an adequate factual basis for the Board's disciplinary decision [McBride v. California Board of Accountancy (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 518, 530-532, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 287] .

[3] Decision Supported by Implied Findings

In appropriate cases, reviewing courts may imply findings if necessary to uphold agency action [see, e.g., City of Carmel-by-the-Sea v. Board of Supervisors (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 84, 91-92, 139 Cal. Rptr. 214 (requirements of findings may be satisfied by something other than written findings so labeled)]. While full findings are required on all material issues, failure to make an express finding on an issue will not compel the reviewing court to overturn the agency's decision if the missing finding would result, by necessary implication, from the express findings that are made [Golde v. Fox (1979) 98 Cal. App. 3d 167, 179, 159 Cal. Rptr. 864] . However, it is uncertain how far the courts will go in inferring missing findings in view of the clearly stated rule that findings are required by fundamental fairness [see Topanga Asso. for Scenic Community v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 506, 515-517, 113 Cal. Rptr. 836, 522 P.2d 12 (orderly functioning of process of review requires that grounds on which agency acted be clearly disclosed); In re Sturm (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 258, 267, 113 Cal. Rptr. 361, 521 P.2d 97 (findings indispensable as basis for review); see also [1], above].

Chapter 474B STANDARDS IN REVIEWING AGENCY DECISIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Administrative Mandate

§ 474B.16 Findings Supported by Evidence

[1] Abuse of Discretion for Lack of Evidence

Prejudicial abuse of discretion may be established by showing that the agency's findings are not supported by the evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b)]. When it is claimed that the findings are not supported by the evidence, the court's role in reviewing the agency's action depends on the nature of the case. If the case is one in which the court is authorized by law to exercise its independent judgment on the evidence abuse of discretion is established if the court determines that the findings are not supported by the weight of the evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(c); see [4], below ("independent judgment" test)]. In all other cases, abuse of discretion is established if the court determines that the findings are not supported by substantial evidence in light of the whole record [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(c); see [5], below ("substantial evidence" test)].

When a trial court exercises independent judgment review of agency fact findings, the trial court is required to give a strong presumption of correctness to the agency's fact findings. This means that when the trial court exercises independent judgment review, the trial court is free to substitute its own findings, but only after first giving due respect to the agency's findings. The enactment of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(c) by the California legislature indicates legislative acceptance of this approach [Fukuda v. City of Angels (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 805, 817-819, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 696, 977 P.2d 693 ; Mason v. Office of Administrative Hearings (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 1119, 1138-1139, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 102] .

When a trial court exercises independent judgment review of agency fact findings, the party seeking to overturn agency action has the burden of proof of showing that agency fact findings are not supported by the weight of the evidence [Sager v. County of Yuba (2007) 156 Cal. App. 4th 1049, 1053-1054, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1 (former deputy sheriff that challenged county retirement decision had the burden of proof to show that the county's decision was not supported by the evidence)]. The burden of proof standard codified in Evid. Code § 500 applies to writ proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5. The party seeking review has the burden of proof, to persuade, and not merely the burden of production, to come forward with evidence [Fukuda v. City of Angels (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 805, 819-821, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 696, 977

P.2d 693] .

In administrative proceedings, as in ordinary civil actions, the party asserting the affirmative generally has the burden of proof, including both the initial burden of going forward with the evidence and the burden of persuasion by a preponderance of the evidence [So. Cal. Jockey Club v. Cal. etc. Racing Bd. (1950) 36 Cal. 2d 167, 177, 223 P.2d 1 (party seeking permit for construction of horse racing track had burden of showing at least that public interest and purposes of horse racing law would not be detrimentally affected by grant of application); McCoy v. Board of Retirement (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 1044, 1051-1052 n.5, 228 Cal. Rptr. 567 (party seeking service-connected disability retirement allowance had burden of proving by preponderance of evidence that his hypertension was service-connected)]. Thus, unless the governing statute provides otherwise [see, e.g., Fascination, Inc. v. Hoover (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 260, 262, 246 P.2d 656 (ordinance provided that license to operate amusement game would be granted unless appropriate departments of city government determined that business for which permit was sought would not comply with applicable laws and ordinances)], an applicant for a license or permit has the burden of establishing his or her qualifications [Savelli v. Board of Medical Examiners (1964) 229 Cal. App. 2d 124, 134, 40 Cal. Rptr. 171 , cert. denied, 380 U.S. 934, 85 S. Ct. 940, 13 L. Ed. 2d 821 (1965)] .

Differing standards are used in proceedings concerning dismissal of a party from public employment and those regarding suspension or revocation of a professional license. In proceedings in which a party is contesting his or her dismissal from public employment, the administrative agency has the burden of proving the propriety of its action by a preponderance of the evidence, while the employee may defend against dismissal by establishing that the conduct for which he or she is dismissed was justified [Skelly v. State Personnel Bd. (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 194, 204 n.19, 124 Cal. Rptr. 14, 539 P.2d 774 ; see 21 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 132, 139 (1953)] .

Unlike dismissal from public employment, which deprives the employee of a particular job, suspension or revocation of a professional license in effect takes away the licensee's right to practice the profession, and a higher standard of proof is required [Gardner v. Commission on Professional Competence (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 1035, 1039-1040, 210 Cal. Rptr. 795 (proceedings for reinstatement of public high school teacher)]. Thus, in proceedings to suspend or revoke a professional license, the applicable standard of proof is clear and convincing proof to a reasonable certainty, and not a mere preponderance of the evidence [Furman v. State Bar (1938) 12 Cal. 2d 212, 229, 83 P.2d 12 (attorney disbarment); Ettinger v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 853, 856, 185 Cal. Rptr. 601 (medical license suspension or revocation); Small v. Smith (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 450, 457, 94 Cal. Rptr. 136 (real estate broker's license revocation)].

A claim that the agency used an incorrect standard of proof in disciplinary proceedings may not be raised for the first time at the hearing on the petition for a writ of mandate [Milligan v. Hearing Aid Dispensers Examining Com. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 1002, 1007-1008, 191 Cal. Rptr. 490 ; see Morris v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 1002, 1008, 110 Cal. Rptr. 630 (administrative error cannot be asserted in mandate proceedings unless it was first raised in agency proceedings)]. When the administrative record does not explicitly disclose the standard of proof applied by the hearing officer, the reviewing court presumes that the correct standard was applied [Milligan v. Hearing Aid Dispensers Examining Com. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 1002, 1007-1008, 191 Cal. Rptr. 490] .

[3] Error in the Record

[a] Nature of Error Requirement

The court in mandate proceedings may not ordinarily consider evidence outside the administrative record [Sierra Club v. California Coastal Comm'n (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 839, 863-864, 28 Cal. Rptr. 3d 316, 111 P. 3d 294 (California Supreme Court refused to consider arguments based on evidence that was not part of the administrative record before Commission, without a showing that the reasonable diligence or improper exclusion exceptions [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e)] were applicable, which showing was not made in this appeal)], and administrative error generally cannot be asserted in mandate proceedings unless it was first raised in the agency proceedings [Morris v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 1002, 1008, 110 Cal. Rptr. 630 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e) (evidence outside record may be considered only when court finds that in exercise of reasonable diligence evidence could not have been produced, or evidence was improperly excluded)]. The California Court of Appeal held that the superior court was correct in not considering evidence that was submitted for the first time in that court, but that had not been introduced into the administrative record before the Insurance Commissioner, when the trial court was evaluating the merits of the claims presented in the mandate proceeding. The mandate proceeding was brought to challenge the denial by the Insurance Commissioner of claims of former employees of an insurance company that was in conservatorship. The superior court offered to remand the case back to the Insurance Commissioner so that the evidence could be considered by the Commissioner. When that was rejected, the superior court ruled against the parties seeking a writ of mandate concluding that the denial of the claims was not an abuse of discretion based on the evidence presented before the Insurance Commissioner [Garamendi v. Golden Eagle Ins. Co. (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 452, 459, 27 Cal. Rptr. 3d 239] . Accordingly, a petitioner may have difficulty establishing that the agency committed prejudicial error not appearing in the record. If the court is persuaded that error not appearing in the record has prejudiced the petitioner, however, it can remand to the agency to correct the error or issue a peremptory writ of mandate commanding the agency to remedy its error [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(f)].

[b] Availability of Discovery to Obtain Information Not in Record

Reviewing courts will not grant discovery for the purpose of probing agency members as to their reasoning in taking the complained of action, even when the petitioner contends that he or she was denied a fair hearing [Fairfield v. Superior Court (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 768, 774, 122 Cal. Rptr. 543, 537 P.2d 375] . Discovery in mandate proceedings is available only if reasonably calculated to produce evidence admissible under Code Civ.Proc. § 1094.5(e) [Fairfield v. Superior Court (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 768, 774, 122 Cal. Rptr. 543, 537 P.2d 375 ; see § 474B.14[1]].

[4] Applicability of Independent Judgment Test

[a] Decision Must Substantially Affect Fundamental, Vested Right

[i] Decisions of State Agency

Whether judicial review of an administrative decision should be restricted to determining whether the decision is supported by "substantial evidence" on the whole record or should be extended to an "independent examination" by the court depends on whether the decision affects a vested, fundamental right of the individual [Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 144, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242 ; Topanga Assn. for a Scenic Community v. County of Los Angeles (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 1348, 1356 n.4, 263 Cal. Rptr. 214 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(c) (independent judgment and substantial evidence tests)]. The courts must decide on a case-by-case basis whether an administrative decision substantially affects fundamental, vested rights and thus requires independent judgment review [Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 144, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242 ; Merrill v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 907, 915, 80 Cal. Rptr. 89, 458 P.2d 33] . In determining which test to apply in a given case, the court must first consider whether the right in question is a fundamental and basic right that will suffer substantial interference by the action of the administrative agency [Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 144, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242] . If it is such a fundamental right, the court must next determine whether the right is possessed by and vested in, or merely sought by, the individual [Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 144, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242] . If the right is vested and fundamental, it is too important to be relegated exclusively to administrative extinction, and an administrative decision denying or revoking the right must be subjected to full and independent judicial review [Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 34, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29 ; Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 144, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242] .

The California Supreme has rejected arguments that it reconsider and abandon the rule of independent judgment review, noting that policy considerations for change in the standard of review should acted on by the Legislature rather than the judiciary [Fukuda v. City of Angels (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 805, 823-824, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 696, 977 P.2d 693] .

The California Court of Appeal for the Fourth District held that the independent judgment standard of review applied to an appeal by two oil companies that challenged the decision of the director of conservation affirming the decision of the State Oil and Gas Supervisor directing the plugging and abandoning of 28 oil wells owned by the companies that were still in operation. The court held that the right to continue to operate oil wells was a fundamental right "of particular importance in the current economic climate" [Termo Company v. Luther (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 394, 398-399, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 687]. The right to operate oil wells was also vested because these oil wells had been either in operation or in idle status for many years. The order to plug and abandon the wells terminated the right to extract oil and that impacted the fundamental vested right [Termo Company v. Luther (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 394, 398-399, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 687]. When fundamental vested rights are affected, the independent judgment standard of review must be applied by the reviewing court. The statutory exception permitting the substantial evidence standard of review to be applied when the legislature mandates that standard of review does not apply here, because the governing statute, Public Resources Code Section 3355, does not clearly express a substantial evidence standard of review, and does not contain required due process procedural safeguards" [Termo Company v. Luther (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 394, 398-399, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 687]. Public Resources Code Section 3355 did not expressly state that the substantial evidence standard of review applied to decisions of the director [Termo Company v. Luther (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 394, 409-411, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 687] . The statutory procedures contained in Public Resources Code Sections 3350 to 3359 lacked some fundamentals of due process of law, including no separation of prosecutorial and adjudicatory functions, inadequate notice because no written notice of charges is required, no right to file an answer, no specification of burden of proof, and no right to have a hearing conducted consistent with the evidence code [Termo Company v. Luther (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 394, 411-413, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 687]. Because of the lack of procedural due process safeguards, the independent judgment standard of review must be applied to challenges of the decision of that director. Finally, the statement of decision requested by the appealing parties must be prepared on remand when the reviewing court applies the independent judgment standard of review [Termo Company v. Luther (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 394, 413, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 687].

[ii] Adjudicatory Decisions of Local Agency and Quasi-Judicial Decisions of State Agency

Formerly, adjudicatory decisions of local agencies and statewide agencies of limited territorial jurisdiction (as opposed to statewide agencies invested with judicial power by the California Constitution) were reviewable only under the "substantial evidence" test [Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 35, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29] . This rule was abrogated by the California Supreme Court in Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 38, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29 . The Court held that, for purposes of judicial review, there is no rational or legal basis for distinguishing between these different kinds of agencies [Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 32, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29] . Thus, like decisions of other administrative agencies, decisions of local agencies must be reviewed under the independent judgment standard if they affect fundamental, vested rights; if they do not affect fundamental, vested rights, they are reviewable under the substantial evidence standard [Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 32, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29] . However, the rule is otherwise with respect to statewide agencies that are vested with quasi-judicial power by the state constitution [see [5][b], below].

[b] Fundamental Rights

The California Supreme Court has delineated two kinds of analysis necessary to determine whether a particular right is or is not fundamental. One kind of analysis is necessary to determine whether a right is fundamental for purposes of applying equal protection and due process rights; a second is necessary to determine if the courts must exercise independent judgment when reviewing administrative decisions [Berlinghieri v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 392, 394-395, 188 Cal. Rptr. 891, 657 P.2d 383] . When determining which rights are fundamental for due process purposes, the court must consider whether: (1) the right is specifically guaranteed by the Constitution;

(2) the right affects the integrity of the political process; and (3) denial or limitation of the right would have a disproportionate impact on a discrete and insular minority [Berlinghieri v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 392, 397, 188 Cal. Rptr. 891, 657 P.2d 383 , citing U.S. v. Carolene Products Co. (1938) 304 U.S. 144, 152-153 n.4, 58 S. Ct. 778, 82 L. Ed. 1234] . When determining whether a right is fundamental for purposes of applying the independent judgment test to administrative decisions, the courts must determine whether the claimed right is important enough to individuals in their life situations to require independent judicial review of the evidence [Berlinghieri v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 392, 395, 188 Cal. Rptr. 891, 657 P.2d 383] .

In applying the independent judgment test, the personal nature of the right is more important than its constitutional basis or its impact on a particular segment of society [Berlinghieri v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 392, 395, 188 Cal. Rptr. 891, 657 P.2d 383] . The courtsmust consider (1) the impact of the right in human terms, (2) its importance to the person who seeks to protect it, as well as (3) its economic importance [Interstate Brands v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1980) 26 Cal. 3d 770, 779, 163 Cal. Rptr. 619, 608 P.2d 707 ; Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 144-145, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242 ; Kerrigan v. Fair Employment Practice Com. (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 43, 50, 154 Cal. Rptr. 29 , cert. denied, 444 U.S. 930, 100 S. Ct. 273, 62 L. Ed. 2d 187] . The crucial question is not how much harm or damage would result from a revocation or denial of the right, but the essential character of the right itself [Dickey v. Retirement Board. (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 745, 751, 129 Cal. Rptr. 289, 548 P.2d 689 (right to disability benefits is fundamental as it directly affects employee's ability to support family while unable to work)]. Under this application, the following have been deemed fundamental rights:

- The right to unemployment compensation [Thomas v. California Emp. Stab. Com. (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 501, 504, 247 P.2d 561] .

- The right to continue to receive welfare and pension benefits [Harlow v. Carleson (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 731, 734-735, 129 Cal. Rptr. 298, 548 P.2d 698 (welfare benefits); Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 32, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29 (pension benefits); O'Connor v. State Teachers' Retirement System (1996) 43 Cal. App. 4th 1610, 1620, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 540 (pension benefits); see also Frink v. Prod (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 166, 180, 181 Cal. Rptr. 893, 643 P.2d 476 (denial of public assistance); Cooper v. Kizer (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1291, 1298-1299, 281 Cal. Rptr. 421, 282 Cal. Rptr. 492 (same)].

- The right to practice a trade or profession [Hughes v. Board of Architectural Examiners (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 763, 788-789, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 624, 952 P.2d 641 (licensed architect); Yakov v. Board of Medical Examiners (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 67, 75, 64 Cal. Rptr. 785, 435 P.2d 553 (licensed physician); Tringham v. State Board of Education (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 507, 508, 326 P.2d 850 (credentialed teacher); Guymon v. Board of Accountancy (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 1010, 1011-1012, 128 Cal. Rptr. 137 (licensed accountant)].

- The right to continued public employment [Logan v. Southern Cal. Rapid Transit Dist. (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 116, 125-126, 185 Cal. Rptr. 878 (bus driver for public transit district); Pipkin v. Board of Supervisors (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 652, 661, 147 Cal. Rptr. 502 (deputy sheriff); see also Kazensky v. City of Merced (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 44, 51-52, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 356 (local government position); Webster v. Trustees of Cal. State University (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 1456, 1462-1463, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 150 (state university system position)].

- The right to continue to hold a driver's license [Lake v. Reed (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 448, 456-457, 65 Cal. Rptr 2d 860, 940 P.2d 311 ; Arburn v. Department of Motor Vehicles (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 1480, 1484, 61 Cal. Rptr. 3d 15 ; Elizabeth D. v. Zolin (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 347, 353, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 852 ; Coombs v. Pierce (1991) 1 Cal. App. 4th 568, 575-576, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 249 ; Santos v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 537, 546, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 10 ; Berlinghieri v.

- The right to remain at the California Youth Authority [Mardesich v. California Youthful Offender Parole Bd. (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 1361, 1367, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 294] .

- The right to review takings of property by local land use regulations [Hensler v. City of Glendale (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 1, 16, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 244, 876 P.2d 1043] .

- The right to continue to operate oil wells [Termo Company v. Luther (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 394, 398-399, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 687].

Purely economic rights, on the other hand, have been held entitled to less sensitive judicial scrutiny [Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 144-145, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242 (minority shareholders had no fundamental, vested right to prevent recapitalization of corporation by majority shareholders); Temescal Water Co. v. Dept. of Public Works (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 90, 103, 280 P.2d 1 (water company had no fundamental, vested right to divert water from river); Faulkner v. Cal. Toll Bridge Authority (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 317, 328-330, 253 P.2d 659 (owners of Bay Bridge bonds had no fundamental, vested right to prevent construction of second toll bridge); SP Star Enterprises v. City of Los Angeles (2009) 173 Cal. App. 4th 459, 470-471, 93 Cal. Rptr. 3d 152 (business offering adult nude entertainment did not have a fundamental vested right in an application for a conditional use permit for the sale and on-site consumption of alcohol; the impact of any permitting decision was purely economic); Jaramillo v. State Board for Geologists and Geophysicists (2006) 136 Cal. App. 4th 880, 889-891, 39 Cal. Rptr. 3d 170 (a small business owner who was not licensed geophysicist was found to have practiced geophysics in violation of the law because he did not have a valid license. The business owner challenged the agency decision, and the court of appeal held that the owner did not have a fundamental vested right to continue to operate his business, and thus the substantial evidence test applied to judicial review of agency fact findings); Kawasaki Motors Corp. v. Superior Court (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 200, 203-204, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 863 (motorcycle franchisee that challenged order of New Motor Vehicle Board permitting franchisor to terminate franchise did not have a fundamental vested right to maintain franchise which was a purely economic privilege); Concord Communities, L.P. v. City of Concord (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 1407, 1413-1414, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 511 (rent control board's decision to deny mobile home park owner's requested rent increases involved rights that were economic privileges which did not affect fundamental vested rights, and therefore substantial evidence test applied)]. However, an agency decision to suspend the business license of a food processor was subject to the independent judgment standard of review because the plaintiff's business license was determined to be a fundamental, vested right [San Benito Foods v. Veneman (1996) 50 Cal. App. 4th 1889, 1897, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 571] . Similarly, an agency decision to revoke a conditional use permit, when the holder of the permit had acted in reliance on the permit, is reviewed under the independent judgment standard of review because the conditional use permit was determined to be a fundamental vested right [Malibu Mountains Recreation, Inc. v. County of Los Angeles (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 359, 369-370, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 25] .

However, when the Contractor's State Licensing Board imposed a $350 fine against a licensed contractor for violations of the contractor licensing law, the Court of Appeal held that the independent judgment test did not apply because the contractor was not being deprived of the right to practice his trade, as would be the case if his license were being revoked; he was merely being fined for violating the law. The court noted that the existence of a public discipline record does not prevent the contractor from doing business in that occupation. Therefore, fining a contractor as the result of a discipline proceeding does not implicate a fundamental vested right, and thus the substantial evidence test applied to review the agency's fact findings [Handyman Connection of Sacramento, Inc. v. Sands (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 867, 880-881, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 727] .

The word "vested" generally refers to a right already possessed or legitimately acquired [Harlow v. Carleson (1976)

16 Cal. 3d 731, 735, 129 Cal. Rptr. 298, 548 P.2d 698] . For purposes of determining whether a right is vested in this sense, the courts have generally distinguished between applicants and recipients [Harlow v. Carleson (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 731, 735, 129 Cal. Rptr. 298, 548 P.2d 698] . In the licensing area, for example, the courts have held that an applicant for a license does not have vested rights in the license, while a person who already holds a license does [Harlow v. Carleson (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 731, 735, 129 Cal. Rptr. 298, 548 P.2d 698] .

Before the Supreme Court rendered its decision in [Frink v. Prod (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 166, 181 Cal. Rptr. 893, 643 P.2d 476] , the courts also held that an applicant for welfare benefits had no vested right to the benefits [Taylor v. Martin (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 1057, 1059, 105 Cal. Rptr. 211] , but that one who had already qualified for benefits and was receiving them did [Harlow v. Carleson (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 731, 735, 129 Cal. Rptr. 298, 548 P.2d 698] . In Frink, the Court abrogated the earlier distinction between applicants for and recipients of welfare benefits, holding that the right of the needy disabled to public assistance is as fundamental as the right of a recipient to continued benefits and, in both cases, administrative decisions denying benefits should be reviewed under the independent judgment test [Frink v. Prod (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 166, 178-180, 181 Cal. Rptr. 893, 643 P.2d 476 ; Cooper v. Kizer (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1291, 1299, 281 Cal. Rptr. 421, 282 Cal. Rptr. 492 (independent judgment test applies to judicial review of agency decision denying claim for Medi-Cal benefits)].

The right to seek employment may, in appropriate cases, be vested, even though the employment itself is not. Equal employment opportunities have, for example, been held to be both fundamental and vested, so that when a job-seeker presents evidence showing a denial of those equal opportunities, an administrative decision unfavorable to the job-seeker must be subjected to the independent judgment of the courts [Kerrigan v. Fair Employment Practice Com. (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 43, 51, 154 Cal. Rptr. 29 , cert. denied, 444 U.S. 930, 100 S. Ct. 273, 62 L. Ed. 2d 187 (statutorily conferred right to be free of age discrimination in seeking employment is vested right)].

In appropriate cases, the doctrine of equitable estoppel may be invoked to establish that a right is vested [City of Long Beach v. Mansell (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 462, 489, 91 Cal. Rptr. 23, 476 P.2d 423 ; Stanson v. San Diego Coast Regional Com. (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 38, 49, 161 Cal. Rptr. 392] . An estoppel may be established for this purpose if a person (or agency), knowing the relevant facts, makes representations or engages in conduct that a person seeking a right relies on to his or her detriment [City of Long Beach v. Mansell (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 462, 489, 91 Cal. Rptr. 23, 476 P.2d 423 ; Stanson v. San Diego Coast Regional Com. (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 38, 49, 161 Cal. Rptr. 392] . In one case, for example, a property owner sought to open a restaurant in a commercial building within a protected coastal zone. Relying on representations from an agent of the regional coastal commission that a coastal development permit was not necessary, the property owner obtained building permits, expended substantial sums of money for remodeling, and entered into leases with rentals contingent on the opening of the restaurant. The court held that the property owner could proceed without obtaining a coastal permit even though one was, in fact, required, since the commission was estopped to enforce the requirement [Stanson v. San Diego Coast Regional Com. (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 38, 49, 161 Cal. Rptr. 392] . Once a vested right is acquired through estoppel, it cannot be impaired or destroyed without due process of law [Stanson v. San Diego Coast Regional Com. (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 38, 49, 161 Cal. Rptr. 392] .

[d] Limited Trial De Novo

When the court is required to exercise its independent judgment in reviewing the decision of an administrative agency, the petitioner is entitled to what has been called a limited trial de novo [Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 143 n.10, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242 ; Merrill v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 907, 914, 80 Cal. Rptr. 89, 458 P.2d 33] . In a limited trial de novo, the court may receive only the following kinds of evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e); Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 143 n.10, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242] :

- Evidence produced at the agency hearing.
- Relevant evidence that, in the exercise of reasonable diligence, could not have been produced at the hearing.

- Evidence that the agency improperly excluded.

When a trial court exercises independent judgment review of agency fact findings, the trial court is required to give a strong presumption of correctness to the agency's fact findings. This means that when the trial court exercises independent judgment review, the trial court is free to substitute its own findings but only after first giving due respect to the agency's findings. The enactment of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(c) by the California legislature indicates legislative acceptance of this approach [Fukuda v. City of Angels (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 805, 817-819, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 696, 977 P.2d 693] . When a trial court exercises independent judgment review of agency fact findings, the party seeking to overturn agency action has the burden of proof of showing that agency fact findings are not supported by the weight of the evidence. The burden of proof standard codified in Evid. Code § 500 applies to writ proceedings; the party seeking review has the burden of proof, to persuade, and not merely the burden of production, to come forward with evidence [Fukuda v. City of Angels (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 805, 819-821, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 696, 977 P.2d 693] .

In exercising its independent judgment, the court determines whether the weight of the evidence supports the agency's decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(c); Merrill v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 907, 914, 80 Cal. Rptr. 89, 458 P.2d 33] . Although appellate decisions have not been uniform on the point, the better view is that the court's fact-finding responsibility extends to making determinations as to the credibility of the witnesses in the agency proceeding based on the record of their testimony, giving appropriate weight to the fact that the agency or its hearing officer heard and saw the witnesses and had the opportunity to make its own assessment of their credibility [Pittsburg Unified School Dist. v. Commission on Professional Competence (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 964, 977, 194 Cal. Rptr. 672 ; Guymon v. Board of Accountancy (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 1010, 1014-1015, 128 Cal. Rptr. 137] . Trial courts are required to give great weight to credibility determinations of state agency hearing officers under the provisions of Gov. Code § 11425.50(b), even when the trial court conducts independent judgment review under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 [Fukuda v. City of Angels (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 805, 819, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 696, 977 P.2d 693] . However, the trial court's independent judgment does not encompass setting aside an agency decision that is based on uncontradicted evidence [Ruttenberg v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 1277, 1282, 240 Cal. Rptr. 249] .

A court's statement of decision in applying the independent judgment standard in this situation has been held to be sufficient, despite a lack of detailed fact findings, when the court stated that the agency's findings were supported by the weight of the evidence, thereby incorporating by reference the agency's detailed findings [Angelier v. State Board of Pharmacy (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 592, 598-599, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 213] .

[e] Judicial Review of Penalty Assessments

Judicial review of an agency assessment of a penalty is very limited and the standard of review is arbitrary, capricious, or abuse of discretion [Kazensky v. City of Merced (1990 65 Cal. App. 4th 44, 54, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 356 ; Flippin v. Los Angeles City Board of Civil Service Commissioners (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 272, 279, 55 Cal. Rptr. 3d 458] . The reviewing court can not substitute its judgment for that of the agency and can not overturn a penalty assessment that has a reasonable basis of support. The appellate court review of a trial court penalty determination is de novo and without deference to the trial court [Deegan v. City of Mountain View (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 37, 46, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 690 ; Flippin v. Los Angeles City Board of Civil Service Commissioners (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 272, 279, 55 Cal. Rptr. 3d 458] . The California Court of Appeal reversed the superior court decision that overturned a penalty assessment by a city review board of upholding the discharge of a public employee when the employee was found to have committed serious misconduct that reflected adversely on other public employees of the same agency. The discharge penalty had a reasonable basis in the fact record and the agency did not abuse its discretion in sustaining the discharge of the public employee. Therefore it was improper for the superior court to overturn the penalty assessed against the employee [Flippin v. Los Angeles City Board of Civil Service Commissioners (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 272, 283-284, 55 Cal. Rptr. 3d 458] .

The California Court of Appeal held that it was an abuse of discretion for a county civil service commission to reduce a disciplinary penalty imposed by a county sheriff on a county employee from a permanent demotion to a temporary demotion. The sheriff challenged the change in penalty by petitioning for a writ of administrative mandate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 [Kolender v. San Diego County Civil Service Commission (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 464, 466-467, 57 Cal. Rptr. 3d 84 (penalty reduction was abuse of discretion because criteria for penalty assessment in law enforcement employment is harm to public service, and commission erroneously relied upon inaccurate performance evaluation to reduce penalty)].

The Second District California Court of Appeal reversed and remanded the denial of a petition for a writ of mandate brought by a police officer terminated by the Los Angeles Police Department for on-the-job misuse of police department computers. The officer sought reinstatement. The court of appeal concluded that it was an abuse of discretion (specifically, a misapprehension of the law) for the police department to base termination in part on misconduct of the police officer that occurred more than two years before the department filed an administrative complaint against the officer. The court of appeal remanded the matter to the police department to reconsider the appropriate punishment for misconduct within the two-year time period [Chrisman v. City of Los Angeles (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 29, 38-39, 65 Cal. Rptr. 3d 701] .

[5] Applicability of Substantial Evidence Test

[a] Nature and Applicability of Test

When the independent judgment test does not apply, the court is restricted to determining whether an agency's findings are supported by substantial evidence in light of the whole record [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(c)]. Substantial evidence has been defined as evidence of ponderable legal significance, reasonable in nature, credible, and of solid value, or as relevant evidence that a reasonable mind might accept as adequate to support a conclusion [County of San Diego v. Assessment Appeals Bd. No. 2 (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 548, 555, 195 Cal. Rptr. 895] .

The substantial evidence test does not apply to questions of law [Apte v. Regents of University of California (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1084, 1092, 244 Cal. Rptr. 312 , 198 Cal. App. 3d 1084, 244 Cal. Rptr. 312] . Accordingly, a reviewing court must independently determine the application of laws, regulations, and procedures, even when applying the substantial evidence test [Apte v. Regents of University of California (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1084, 1092, 244 Cal. Rptr. 312] . The substantial evidence test requires the court to resolve reasonable doubts in favor of the agency decision, and to uphold the decision if there is any substantial evidence to support the findings [Topanga Asso. for Scenic Community v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 506, 514-515, 113 Cal. Rptr. 836, 522 P.2d 12 ; Security Environmental Systems, Inc. v. South Coast Air Quality Management Dist. (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 110, 132, 280 Cal. Rptr. 108] . The reviewing court is not permitted to substitute its own judgment for that of the agency [Common Cause v. Board of Supervisors (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 432, 445, 261 Cal. Rptr. 574, 777 P.2d 610 ; Security Environmental Systems, Inc. v. South Coast Air Quality Management Dist. (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 110, 133, 280 Cal. Rptr. 108] .

Judicial review of CEQA compliance by local agencies that approve development projects subject to CEQA is de novo review from the standpoint of the agency action. The appellate courts determine the substantive CEQA issues (issues of law) by using the independent judgment test to decide whether the local agency made errors of law as demonstrated in the administrative record before the agency. The local agency factual determinations are reviewed under the substantial evidence test [Citizens for a Megaplex-Free Alameda v. City of Alameda (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 91, 102, 110-111, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 728 (substantial evidence supports city decision not to require a supplemental EIR)].

The substantial evidence test applies to judicial review of fact findings related to a claim filed under Penal Code § 4900 with the California Victim Compensation and Government Claims Board for compensation from the state of California for damages caused by erroneous conviction and imprisonment [Tennison v. California Victim Compensation and Government Claims Board (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 1164, 1181-1183, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 88] . The substantial evidence test applies to judicial review of fact findings supporting a decision by the California Coastal Commission to deny a landowner a coastal development permit [LT-WR, L.L.C. v. California Coastal Commission (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 770, 780-781, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 417] .

The substantial evidence test applies to judicial review of fact findings supporting business franchise termination decisions [Kawasaki Motors Corp. v. Superior Court (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 200, 203-204, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 863 (motorcycle franchisee that challenged order of New Motor Vehicle Board permitting franchisor to terminate franchise did not have a fundamental vested right to maintain franchise which was a purely economic privilege)]. The substantial evidence test applies to judicial review of fact findings supporting a Department of Industrial Relations stop work order and penalty issued against a business to enforce worker's compensation insurance requirement against that business which had erroneously classified employees as independent contractors [JKH Enterprises, Inc. v. Dept. of Industrial Relations (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 1046, 1061-1062, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 563 (enforcing requirement that air courier services business purchase and maintain worker's compensation insurance impacts purely economic interests and does not impact fundamental or vested rights)]. Judicial review of facts findings related to the California Medical Board's decision to fine a physician $500 for aiding the unlicensed practice of medicine in violation of Bus. & Prof. Code § 2264 is based on the substantial evidence test, not the independent judgment test, because there is no licensing sanction imposed by the Board against the physician [Steinsmith v. Medical Board of California (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 458, 464-465, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 115] . The substantial evidence test also applies to judicial review of the adequacy of an Environmental Impact Report prepared by an agency and the validity of a related permit issued by that agency when the appealing party asserts that the permit violates the California Environmental Quality Act [Pub. Resources Code § 21000; California Oak Found. v. City of Santa Clarita (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 1219, 1225-1227, 35 Cal. Rptr. 3d 434 ; Sierra Club v. County of Napa (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 1490, 1497-1498, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1] . The substantial evidence test applied to judicial review of a public agency determination that a decision to close two schools was exempt from the provisions of the California Environmental Quality Act [Pub. Resources Codes § 21000; San Lorenzo Valley Mty. Advocates for Responsible Educ. v. San Lorenzo Valley Unified Sch. Dist. (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 1356, 1386-1387, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 128] . The substantial evidence test applied to judicial review of a city's factual determination that a downtown residential project was exempt from environmental review under CEQA as an urban in fill project [Banker's Hill, Hillcrest, Park W. Cmty. Pres. Group v. City of San Diego (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 249, 267-268, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 537 (extensive discussion of fair argument versus substantial evidence standard of review for judicial review of CEQA related decisions)]. The substantial evidence fair argument test (that a project may have adverse environmental effects) was not satisfied in a mandamus proceeding challenging a mitigated negative declaration related to a subdivision development approved by a city council. This was because the record before the city council did not support the fair argument test, and extra record evidence may not be considered by the courts to support the fair argument test [Porterville Citizens for Responsible Hillside Development v. City of Porterville (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 885, 889-891, 69 Cal. Rptr. 3d 105]. The substantial evidence fair argument test was satisfied for a proposed project to convert timberland into a vineyard, and thus significant effects on the environment from the project required that the permitting agency (CDF) prepare an environmental impact report before granting the permit [Sierra Club v. California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 370, 382, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 9 (agency adopted mitigated negative declaration, and the court held that the preparation of an environmental impact report was required)]. The substantial evidence test applied to the agency decision upholding the citation of an employer for a serious safety violation that led to the death of an employee, and to the fact findings of the agency. The agency decision and fact findings will be upheld if they have reasonable support in the evidentiary record even though some of the evidence in the record would support opposite fact findings [Sully-Miller Contracting Co. v. Cal. Occupational Safety & Health Appeals Bd. (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 684, 692, 41 Cal. Rptr. 3d 742 (court of appeal held that substantial evidence supported findings related to primary employer and related to failure of contractor injury protection program to meet standards required by agency regulations); Overaa Construction v. California Occupational Safety and Health Appeals Board (2007) 147 Cal. App. 4th 235, 249-251, 54 Cal. Rptr. 3d 154 (substantial evidence supported fact finding that controlling employer was lacking reasonable diligence in failing to provide a protective system for excavations in excess of five feet. Failure to provide the system violated Cal/OSHA safety regulations, and justified the assessment of civil penalty against employer)]. The substantial evidence test applied to the denial of a mobile home park owner's petition for a writ of administrative mandate challenging the city's failure to approve the full rent increase sought by the owner [Los Altos El Granada Investors v. City of Capitola (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 629, 648, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 434] . The substantial evidence test applies to a city decision to revoke a permit for a building to be used as an autopsy facility. There was no vested right to the permit because the applicant did not satisfy the good faith reliance test [Autopsy/Post Services, Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (2005) 129 Cal. App. 4th 521, 526-527, 28 Cal. Rptr. 3d 303] . The substantial evidence test also applies to the agency decision to adopt a redevelopment plan and to the findings supporting that decision [Evans v. City of San Jose (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 1123, 1145-1146, 27 Cal. Rptr. 3d 675] .

[b] Decisions of Constitutional Agencies

Decisions and orders of agencies on which the California Constitution confers adjudicative powers are reviewed under the substantial evidencestandard, whether or not a fundamental vested right is involved [Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 35-36, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29] . For an agency to fit within this category, judicial power must have been directly vested in it by the Constitution [Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 35-36, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29 ; Covert v. State Board of Equalization (1946) 29 Cal. 2d 125, 131-132, 173 P.2d 545] .

The substantial evidence test applies to judicial review of decisions of the State Personnel Board because the Board is an agency with constitutional adjudicatory authority [Pollak v. State Personnel Board (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 1394, 1404, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 39 ; State Personnel Bd. v. Department of Personnel Admin. (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 512, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 142, 123 P.3d 169 (state personnel board drives adjudicatory authority from state constitution)].

The substantial evidence test applies to decisions of the Commission on State Mandates because the Commission is an agency with constitutional adjudicatory authority [County of Los Angeles v. Commission on State Mandates (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 1176, 1186, 2 Cal. Rptr. 3d 419 (substantial evidence review specified by Gov. Code § 17559(b) for decision of Commission on State Mandates which is a constitutional agency under Cal. Const. Art. XIII, § 6)].

[c] Decisions Made Under Statutory Substantial Evidence Test

The California Supreme Court has held that the Legislature may provide for review under the substantial evidence standard of decisions of statewide agencies on which the California Constitution does not confer judicial power [Tex-Cal Land Management, Inc. v. Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 335, 342-346, 156 Cal. Rptr. 1, 595 P.2d 579 ; County of Los Angeles v. Commission on State Mandates (1995) 32 Cal. App. 4th 805, 814-815, 38 Cal. Rptr.2d 304] . If the Legislature provides that findings of an administrative agency may be reviewed only to determine if they are supported by substantial evidence in the light of the whole record, and if the procedures of the agency guarantee administrative due process, judicial review is properly limited to the substantial evidence test [Tex-Cal Land Management, Inc. v. Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 335, 344-346, 156 Cal. Rptr. 1, 595 P.2d 579] .

The FEHC decision following an administrative hearing that found allowing a disabled resident of a condominium association to have a companion dog to be a reasonable accommodation for the resident's depression related disability, notwithstanding that the association prohibited residents from owning dogs, and that the association unlawfully discriminated against the resident by refusing to make this specific reasonable accommodation, was supported by substantial evidence. This finding was a mixed question of law and fact and was subject to substantial evidence review [Auburn Woods I Homeowners Assn. v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 1578, 1595-1596, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 669] .

[d] Decisions of Private Hospital Boards

Notwithstanding the general rule that reviewing courts must exercise their independent judgment when fundamental, vested rights are at stake, the substantial evidence test applies to decisions of private hospital boards, decisions of boards of directors of districts organized pursuant to the Local Hospital District Law, and decisions of governing bodies of municipal hospitals [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(d); see Health & Safety Code § 32000 et seq. (Local Hospital District Law); Weinberg v. Cedars Sinai Med. Ctr.(2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 1098, 1106-1107, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 6 (substantial evidence test applied to decision of hospital board to terminate staff privileges of physician; court interpreted Bus. & Prof. Code § 809.05 to provide deferential review of hospital board decision when the board acted within delegated authority); see [4], above (independent judgment test)]. If the petitioner makes a preliminary showing of substantial evidence of discriminatory actions prohibited by Health & Safety Code § 1316, however, the court must exercise its independent judgment on the evidence, and abuse of discretion will be established if the court determines that the findings are not supported by the weight of the evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(d)].

[e] The Record for Decision

When the court applies the substantial evidence test, the agency's findings must be supported by substantial evidence in the light of the whole record [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(c)]. Accordingly, the reviewing court must consider the entire record [LeVesque v. Workmen's Comp. App. Bd. (1970) 1 Cal. 3d 627, 638 n.22, 83 Cal. Rptr. 208, 463 P.2d 432] . It may not isolate evidence that supports the agency's findings and disregard other relevant evidence, but must consider all evidence in the administrative record, including evidence that fairly detracts from the evidence supporting the agency's decision [County of San Diego v. Assessment Appeals Bd. No. 2 (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 548, 554, 195 Cal. Rptr. 895 ; LeVesque v. Workmen's Comp. App. Bd. (1970) 1 Cal. 3d 627, 638 n.22, 83 Cal. Rptr. 208, 463 P.2d 432] . The court in mandate proceedings thus engages in a revaluation of the evidence, at least to the extent of comparing the relative value of the testimony of the various witnesses to determine whether the evidence supporting the agency decision or the evidence opposing it has greater weight [see Greenberg v. Workmen's Comp. Appeals Bd. (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 792, 799, 112 Cal. Rptr. 626 (substantial evidence test applied in workers' compensation case)].

The California Court of Appeal held that the reviewing court defers to the trier of fact on issues of witness demeanor and credibility, and that substantial evidence supported the hearing officer's decision to believe a sheriff's deputy explanation that he was sloppy and disorganized in writing a report, but not untruthful [Kolender v. San Diego County Civil Serv. Comm'n (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 1150, 1154-1155, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 209 (no abuse of discretion by county civil service commission in reducing sanction of termination imposed by sheriff on sheriff's deputy with rank of sergeant, and replacing that sanction with 90-day suspension, reinstatement, and demotion to rank of deputy sheriff)]. Another California Court of Appeal held that an agency decision to deny a real estate license to a disbarred attorney was supported by substantial evidence, notwithstanding the admission of hearsay evidence, because the hearsay evidence was admitted pursuant to Gov. Code § 11513(d) for the purpose of supplementing and explaining other properly admitted evidence [Berg v. Davi (2005) 130 Cal App. 4th 223, 229-230, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 803] .

The reviewing court applying the substantial evidence test is confined to consideration of evidence in the administrative record [Gong v. City of Fremont (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 568, 572-574, 58 Cal. Rptr. 664] . However, the court may also determine whether any relevant evidence exists that, in the exercise of reasonable diligence, could not have been produced before the agency, or whether any evidence exists that was improperly excluded by the agency. If such evidence exists, the court may remand the case to the agency for reconsideration [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e)]. A party who attacks the sufficiency of the evidence supporting the agency's decision has the burden of producing the record of the administrative proceedings in the reviewing court [Eureka Teachers Assn. v. Board of Education (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 353, 367, 244 Cal. Rptr. 240] . For a more detailed discussion of the record for decision, see Ch. 473G, Agency Adjudication Decisions .

When the court conducts judicial review of an agency's compliance with CEQA statutory requirements, particularly as to the decision to use a mitigated negative declaration and to not prepare an Environmental Impact Report, the court will examine the administrative record as a whole, and the court will not consider additional evidence added to the appellate record that was not part of the administrative record [Architectural Heritage Assn. v. County of Monterey (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1095, 1110-1111, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 469] . The Court of Appeal upheld the superior court's denial of a motion to augment the administrative record in an ordinary mandate [Code Civ. Proc. § 1085] proceeding in which the residents of a mobile home park sought to rescind an EIR certification. The court held that judicial review of the adequacy of the EIR had to be based on the administrative record before the agency, and that extrinsic evidence that was not before the agency, or that related to developments after the EIR decision was made, could not be included in the record for judicial review [El Morro Comty. Ass'n v. California Dep't of Parks & Recreation (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1341, 1358-1359, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 445] . There are differences in the rules for the administrative records in administrative mandate and ordinary mandate, but the policy reasons for a decision on the record is the same in both types of cases.

The Court of Appeal reversed the County of Merced's granting of a conditional use permit, and the county's certifying of a final environmental impact report under the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), for a project approval sought by a mining company. The court held that the county failed to provide an adequate and complete administrative record for judicial review making it difficult for the appellate court to determine whether the county make the necessary findings required by CEQA before issuing the permit [Protect Our Water v. County of Merced (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 362, 372-374, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 726] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Administrative Mandate

§ 474B.17 Proper Scope of Review in the Appellate Courts

[1] Whether the Trial Court Properly Applied the Independent Judgment Test

In cases in which the trial court properly applied the independent judgment test, the appellate court reviews the trial court's decision as it would in an ordinary civil appeal [Merrill v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 907, 915, 80 Cal. Rptr. 89, 458 P.2d 33 ; see § 474B.16[4] for discussion of the independent judgment test]. Therefore, errors of law are subject to its cognizance, but factual findings may be overturned only when the findings are not supported by substantial evidence (including evidence in the administrative record) [Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 143 n.10, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242 ; Merrill v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 907, 915, 80 Cal. Rptr. 89, 458 P.2d 33 ; Sarka v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (2006) 146 Cal. App. 4th 261, 270-271, 52 Cal. Rptr. 3d 810 (substantial evidence supported findings that physician was terminated for insubordination and not principally for advocating appropriate medical care for patients); Smith v. City of Napa (2004) 120 Cal. App. 4th 194, 198-199, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 908 ; California Career Schools v. DMV (2004) 120 Cal. App. 4th 10, 13-14, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 813 ; Dunn v. County of Santa Barbara (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 1281, 1288-1289, 38 Cal. Rptr. 3d 316 ; Schmitt v. City of Rialto (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 494, 501, 210 Cal. Rptr. 788] . The appellate court's function in reviewing the evidence is thus to decide whether credible, competent evidence supports the trial court's judgment [Yakov v. Board of Medical Examiners (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 67, 71, 64 Cal. Rptr. 785, 435 P.2d 553 ; Arenstein v. California State Bd. of Pharmacy (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 179, 184, 71 Cal. Rptr. 357] . In performing this function, the appellate court must resolveall conflicts in the evidence in favor of the judgment and draw all legitimate and reasonable inferences in its support [Kerrigan v. Fair Employment Practice Com. (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 43, 52, 154 Cal. Rptr. 29 , cert. denied, 444 U.S. 930, 100 S. Ct. 273, 62 L. Ed. 2d 187] .

When a trial court makes fundamental errors in applying the independent judgment test, the appellate court should reverse and remand the decision back to the trial court to review the agency decision under independent judgment review, and the appellate court should not automatically affirm the trial court decision, nor automatically reverse, and reinstate the agency decision. This is because the trial court reasonably could decide that the agency fact findings are not supported by the weight of the evidence under a proper independent test [Fukuda v. City of Angels (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 805, 824-825, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 696, 977 P.2d 693 ; Mason v. Office of Administrative Hearings (2001) 89 Cal.

[2] Whether the Trial Court Properly Applied the Substantial Evidence Test

In cases in which the trial court properly applied the substantial evidence test, the appellate court must review the entire administrative record to determine whether substantial evidence supports the agency's determination [Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 149, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242 ; Lincoln Place Tenants Assn. v. City of Los Angeles (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 1491, 1503, 1506, 31 Cal. Rptr. 3d 353 (substantial evidence supported agency decision that building was not a significant historical or cultural asset); Dunn v. County of Santa Barbara (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 1281, 1288-1289, 38 Cal. Rptr. 3d 316 ; Schmitt v. City of Rialto (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 494, 501, 210 Cal. Rptr. 788 ; see § 474B.16[5] for discussion of the substantial evidence test]. In such cases, the trial court itself exercises an essentially appellate function in that only errors of law appearing on the administrative record are subject to its cognizance [Merrill v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 907, 915-916, 80 Cal. Rptr. 89, 458 P.2d 33] . The trial and appellate courts occupy identical positions with respect to the administrative record, the function of each being to determine whether that record is free from legal error [Merrill v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 907, 915-916, 80 Cal. Rptr. 89, 458 P.2d 33 ; Los Alamitos Gen. Hosp., Inc. v. Lackner (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 417, 423, 149 Cal. Rptr. 98] . In determining whether substantial evidence supports the fact findings of the agency whose decision is being reviewed, the appellate court plays the same role as the trial court [California Fair Employment & Housing Comm'n v. Gemini Aluminum Corp. (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1004, 1010-1011, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 906 (Court of Appeal reversed trial court grant of writ of mandate based on substantial evidence standard for fact finding; trial court had found a lack of substantial evidence for Commission fact findings and court of appeal disagreed, and concluded that there was substantial evidence for Commission fact findings); Friends of Santa Clara River v. Castaic Lake Water Agency (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 1, 8-9, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 625 (mandate action to review decision of public water agency to adopt an urban water management plan under Water Code § 10651; appellate court plays same role as superior court in examining administrative record to decide whether there was a prejudicial abuse of discretion by agency); California Dept. of Corrections v. State Personnel Bd. (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 1601, 1611-1612, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 390 ; Pasternak v. Boutris (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 907, 921-922, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 493 (agency fact finding not supported by substantial evidence in whole record; same substantial evidence test used by trial court and appellate court)]. The appellate court may reverse the agency decision only when a reasonable person could not have reached the conclusion reached by the agency. To determine whether there is substantial evidence, the court examines the entire administrative record, and considers all of the evidence, both evidence supporting the decision, and evidence that does not support the decision. The court will weigh the evidence to a limited extent to fairly estimate the worth of the evidence, but it will not weigh the preponderance of the conflicting evidence as that is the role of the agency [Kirkorowicz v. California Coastal Com. (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 980, 986-987, 100 Cal. Rptr. 2d 124] .

When the court conducts judicial review of an agency's compliance with CEQA statutory requirements, particularly as to the decision to use a mitigated negative declaration and not to prepare an Environmental Impact Report, the court will examine the administrative record as a whole, the court will not consider additional evidence added to the appellate record that was not part of the administrative record, and the court will overturn the agency decision to not prepare an EIS as an abuse of discretion if there is substantial evidence supporting a fair argument that the affected project will have significant environmental impacts. The fair argument standard, which applies to EIS preparation decisions, is far less deferential to administrative agencies fact findings than the normal presumption that agency findings are correct [Architectural Heritage Assn. v. County of Monterey (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1095, 1109-1111, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 469] .

The California Court of Appeal held that the environmental checklist used by regional water quality control boards to ensure compliance with CEQA while adopting trash total maximum daily load standard plans (TDML plans) was deficient, did not comply with CEQA requirements, and failed the fair argument standard, in that there was sufficient evidence of a fair argument that the project may have a significant impact on the environment thereby necessitating the completion of an environmental impact report (EIR) before the TDML plan was approved [City of Arcadia v. State Water Resources Control Bd. (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 1392, 1420-1422, 38 Cal. Rptr. 3d 373 (decision to adopt trash total maximum daily load standard (TDML plan) as part of regional water quality control plan was quasi-legislative action reviewable under ordinary mandate, Code Civ. Proc. § 1085)].

The California Court of Appeal reversed the denial of a petition for a writ of mandate by the Superior Court and held that the fair argument standard for substantial evidence was satisfied as to city land use policies and potential aesthetic affects thus requiring the City of Sacramento to prepare an environmental impact report before approving a residential housing project. The city had approved the project without preparing an EIR and had rather adopted a Mitigated Negative Declaration (NMD). The Court of Appeal reversed the denial of the petition and remanded the approval decision for preparation of an EIR [The Pocket Protectors v. City of Sacramento (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 903, 908, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 791 ; Lighthouse Field Beach Rescue v. City of Santa Cruz (2005) 131 Cal. App. 4th 1170, 1202-1203, 31 Cal. Rptr. 3d 901 (fair argument standard not satisfied based on administrative record in case); Mejia v. City of Los Angeles (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 322, 326-327, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 788 (fair argument standard satisfied thereby requiring preparation of environmental impact report (EIR))].

The California Court of Appeal held that the fair argument standard for judicial review of CEQA-related decisions as to the adequacy of an environmental impact report (EIR) was not applicable to a challenge to an agency decision that a prior program EIR sufficiently analyzed the potential environmental impacts of a city redevelopment project, that the project was within the scope of the previously prepared EIR and that no new EIR was required to be prepared [Citizens for Responsible Equitable Environmental Development v. City of San Diego Redevelopment Agency (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 598, 609-611, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 249] . Another California Court of Appeal concluded that there was substantial evidence in the record to support the issuance by the regional water board of a municipal storm sewer permit [City of Rancho Cucamonga v. Regional Water Quality Control Bd. (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 1377, 1387-1388, 38 Cal. Rptr. 3d 450] . Cities that were regulated by the Board and had to comply with permit conditions challenged the procedures used to issue the permits, as well as the permit conditions, and the expense of complying with the permits. The Court of Appeal rejected the challenge to the evidence supporting the permit conditions, and noted that the Board could rely on staff recommendations for permit conditions, and those recommendations satisfied the substantial evidence in the administrative record requirements for informal administrative adjudicative hearings [City of Rancho Cucamonga v. Regional Water Quality Control Bd. (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 1377, 1387-1388, 38 Cal. Rptr. 3d 450] .

Chapter 474B STANDARDS IN REVIEWING AGENCY DECISIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Administrative Mandate

41A-474B California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 474B.18

§ 474B.18 Issues That Are Not Reviewable by Administrative Mandate

[1] Issues That Were Not Presented to the Agency

In order to obtain judicial review of a claim of error in an administrative proceeding, the issue generally must have been presented to the agency [American Alliance Ins. Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d 601, 609, 184 Cal. Rptr. 674 ; see Fermin v. Department of Employment (1963) 214 Cal. App. 2d 586, 589-590, 29 Cal. Rptr. 642 , cert. denied, 375 U.S. 888, 84 S. Ct. 166, 11 L. Ed. 2d 118 (no provision in Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 for hearing and deciding matters not presented to agency)]. This prerequisite is an aspect of the general rule that, when administrative procedures exist to resolve a dispute, the courts will not entertain the dispute until the administrative procedures are fully used and exhausted [Ameri can Alliance Ins. Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d 601, 609, 184 Cal. Rptr. 674 ; see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , for general consideration of the exhaustion of administrative remedies as a prerequisite to judicial review]. This rule does not apply when the claimed error could not have been corrected in the agency proceedings [Morris v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 1002, 1008, 110 Cal. Rptr. 630] . For example, when the agency lacks authority to determine the issue, the general rule does not apply [see Burrey v. Embarcadero Mun. Improvement Dist. (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 671, 676 n.4, 97 Cal. Rptr. 203, 488 P.2d 395 ; Thomas v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 335, 338, 90 Cal. Rptr. 586, 475 P.2d 858 (DMV had no power to pass on validity of drunk driving convictions during license suspension proceedings)]. Agencies lack authority to determine the constitutional validity of prior criminal convictions that have collateral impact on licensing schemes such as the Department of Motor Vehicles drivers license authority. Therefore, reviewing courts cannot ordinarily grant a petition for a writ of mandate against an agency based on invalidity of a criminal conviction [Thomas v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1974) 3 Cal. 3d 335, 338, 90 Cal. Rptr. 586, 475 P.2d 858 ; Romo v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 251, 257, 280 Cal. Rptr. 33 ; Gaston v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 74, 81, 281 Cal. Rptr. 173 ; Morris v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 151, 153, 282 Cal. Rptr. 130] . Additionally, a limited exception applies to the requirement that issues raised on appeal must have been presented to the agency in the administrative hearing. The appellate court has discretion to hear new issues or arguments relating to questions of law when public policy or the public interest is concerned [Taye v. Coye (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 1339, 1345, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 27] .

[2] Issues That Are Moot

When an administrative agency vacates a decision before the court reviews it, the issues asserted in the mandate proceedings are moot and the writ should be denied [Crestlawn Memorial Park Asso. v. Sobieski (1962) 210 Cal. App. 2d 43, 47, 26 Cal. Rptr. 421] . Similarly, if the agency complies with the provisions of an alternative writ, or if it demonstrates its willingness to perform the requested act, the issue is moot and a peremptory writ of mandate is improper [Bruce v. Gregory (1967) 65 Cal. 2d 666, 671, 56 Cal. Rptr. 265, 423 P.2d 193] . The court hearing a mandate proceeding is required to consider any facts arising after the filing of the pleadings that render the dispute moot or the remedy useless [Bruce v. Gregory (1967) 65 Cal. 2d 666, 671, 56 Cal. Rptr. 265, 423 P.2d 193] . However, an issue does not become moot merely because a penalty imposed by the agency in the challenged proceedings has been completed or complied with during the pendency of the mandate proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(g); see Goldberg v. Regents of the University of California (1967) 248 Cal. App. 2d 867, 873 n.6, 57 Cal. Rptr. 463 (mandate proceedings challenging suspension of students from university not moot after expiration of suspension; suspensions and dismissals remained on students' academic records)].

B. Ordinary Mandate

§ 474B.30 Whether Petitioner Has Clear, Present Right to Performance of Clear, Present Ministerial Duty

Ordinary mandate is available to compel agencies to perform ministerial acts and to correct abuses of discretion and acts outside the legal powers of administrative agencies [Code Civ. Proc. § 1085; Saleeby v. State Bar (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 547, 561-562, 216 Cal. Rptr. 367, 702 P.2d 525 ; People ex rel. Younger v. County of El Dorado (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 480, 491, 96 Cal. Rptr. 553, 487 P.2d 1193 ; see § 474B.10[2]]. Two basic requirements must be met before a writ in ordinary mandate proceedings will issue [Loder v. Municipal Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 859, 863, 132 Cal. Rptr. 464, 553 P.2d 624 , cert. denied, 429 U.S. 1109, 97 S. Ct. 1143, 51 L. Ed. 2d 562 ; Jackson v. Gourley (2003) 105 Cal. App. 4th 966, 977-978, 130 Cal. Rptr. 2d 72 ; Wasko v. Department of Corrections (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 996, 1000, 259 Cal. Rptr. 764 ; Quirk v. Board of Education (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 729, 733, 244 Cal. Rptr. 924] :

- A clear, present, ministerial duty must exist on the part of the agency or official.
- The petitioner must have a clear, present, beneficial right to the performance of that duty.

Ordinary mandate is available when an agency has clearly abused its discretion [Ridgecrest Charter Sch. v. Sierra Sands Unified Sch. Dist. (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 986, 1002-1003, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 648 ; Thelander v. City of El Monte (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 736, 748, 195 Cal. Rptr. 318] . An agency clearly abuses its discretion by denying a party an important procedural right. For example, under the APA [Gov. Code § 11340 et seq.], subpoenas and subpoenas duces tecum must be issued at the request of any party to compel attendance of witnesses or production of documents at hearing [Gov. Code § 11510(a)], and a denial of the subpoenas may be redressed by issuance of a writ of ordinary mandate [see McLeod v. Board of Pension Commissioners (1970) 14 Cal. App. 3d 23, 27, 94 Cal. Rptr. 58 (failure to issue subpoenas reviewable in ordinary rather than administrative mandate proceedings since issuance of subpoenas is a ministerial and not discretionary function); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 (ordinary mandate)]. Similarly, many administrative litigants have important discovery rights that, in appropriate cases, may be enforced through ordinary mandate proceedings [Shively v. Stewart (1966) 65 Cal. 2d 475, 479-482, 55 Cal. Rptr. 217, 421 P.2d 65 ; see Ch. 473B, Discovery in Agency Adjudications for discussion of discovery rights in proceedings subject to the APA and for statutes authorizing discovery in non-APA proceedings].

The party requesting the subpoenas must pay for the witnesses' fees, mileage, and expenses of subsistence [Gov. Code § 11510(c); see McLeod v. Board of Pension Commissioners (1970) 14 Cal. App. 3d 23, 31, 94 Cal. Rptr. 58 (agency may condition issuance of subpoenas on party's acceptance of obligation to pay witnesses' ordinary fees and travel expenses); Nick v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 1407, 1413-1414, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 305 . (driver's license holder required to pay witness fee to subpoena arresting CHP officer to compel appearance at DMV license suspension hearing)]. The fees and mileage are calculated as prescribed by law for witnesses in civil actions in superior court [Gov. Code § 11510(c)]. Witness who must attend hearings at a distant location requiring an overnight stay are entitled to expenses of subsistence [Gov. Code § 11510(c)]. For discussion of agency subpoena power, see Ch. 471, Investigations by Public Agencies .

Ordinary mandate is also available to challenge the validity of local ordinances on the grounds that these ordinances were adopted without compliance with CEQA [Pub. Res. Code §§ 21168.5, 21168.6, 21168.9] requirements [Friends of Sierra Madre v. City of Sierra Madre (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 165, 194-196, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 214, 19 P.3d 567 ; Western States Petroleum Assn. v. Superior Court (1995) 9 Cal. 4th 559, 568, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 139, 888 P.2d 1268] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Ordinary Mandate

§ 474B.31 Whether Petitioner Seek Review of Quasi-Legislative Action

Ordinary mandate is available to review actions taken by an agency in its legislative capacity [Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 34 n.2, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29 ; Joint Council of Interns & Residents v. Board of Supervisors (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 1202, 1209, 258 Cal. Rptr. 762] . Actions taken by agencies in their legislative capacities (often called quasi-legislative action) are aimed at formulating rules to be applied to future cases [see Marina County Water Dist. v. State Water Resources Control Bd. (1984) 163 Cal. App. 3d 132, 139, 209 Cal. Rptr. 212 (State Water Resources Control Board acts quasi-legislatively when it formulates rules planning for future uses of state's water resources)]. In contrast, adjudicatory actions (often called quasi-judicial action) are designed to apply established rules to particular facts [Pacifica Corp. v. City of Camarillo (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 168, 176, 196 Cal. Rptr. 670] .

Classification of an administrative decision as adjudicatory or legislative does not depend on the nature of the agency, the procedural characteristics of the administrative process, nor the breadth or narrowness of the agency's discretion [Pacifica Corp. v. City of Camarillo (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 168, 176, 196 Cal. Rptr. 670] . Rather, it depends on the essential characteristics of the action taken. If in taking its action the agency applied established criteria to facts specific to the individual case, the action is adjudicatory rather than legislative [Horn v. County of Ventura (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 605, 615, 156 Cal. Rptr. 718, 596 P.2d 1134 ; San Diego Bldg. Contractors Assn. v. City Council (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 205, 212, 118 Cal. Rptr. 146, 529 P.2d 570] . On the other hand, if the agency adopted a broad, generally applicable rule of conduct, the action is legislative [Horn v. County of Ventura (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 605, 613, 156 Cal. Rptr. 718, 596 P.2d 1134] . Applying this distinction, the courts have held that administrative action that zones or rezones property is legislative [Arnel Development Co. v. City of Costa Mesa (1980) 28 Cal. 3d 511, 514, 516, 169 Cal. Rptr. 904, 620 P.2d 565] , while administrative action that applies zoning enactments to particular parcels of property, for example, by approving a subdivision map [Woodland Hills Residents Assn., Inc. v. City Council (1975) 44 Cal. App. 3d 825, 833-834, 118 Cal. Rptr. 856 , rev'd on other grounds, 23 Cal. 3d 917, 154 Cal. Rptr. 503, 593 P.2d 200 (1979)] , granting a zoning variance [Topanga Asso. for Scenic Community v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 506, 514, 113 Cal. Rptr. 836, 522 P.2d 12], or granting a development permit [Pacifica Corp. v. City of Camarillo (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 168, 176, 196 Cal. Rptr. 670] , is adjudicatory. An agency's preparation of a plan conforming to statutory requirements is legislative action reviewable in ordinary mandate [Carrancho v. California Air Resources Board (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 1255, 1265-1267, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 536 (agency's preparation of diversion plans and progress reports based on statutory requirements are quasi-legislative acts reviewable in ordinary mandate)].

Merger of separate land parcels, which automatically occurred on the effective date of a local ordinance, adopted for that purpose, was a legislative action, and therefore the affected property owners did not have a due process right to notice and an opportunity to be heard before merger took place [Moores v. Board of Supervisors (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 883, 889-890, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 206] .

Legislative action that is judicially reviewable by ordinary mandate [Code Civ. Proc. § 1085] includes the following types of actions:

- Adoption or amendment of an ordinance [Friends of Sierra Madre v. City of Sierra Madre (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 165, 172-174, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 214, 19 P.3d 567] ; and

- Adoption of administrative regulations [Western States Petroleum Assn. v. Superior Court (1995) 9 Cal. 4th 559, 566-568, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 139, 888 P.2d 1268] .

- Adoption of a statute [Hess Collection Winery v. Cal. Agricultural Labor Relations Board (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 1584, 1598, 1601, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 609 (legislature's adoption of mandatory interest arbitration statute governing collective bargaining between employer and agricultural employees was quasi-legislative action with a limited scope of judicial review)].

- Setting of compensation for public employees [Wirth v. State of Cal. (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 131, 137-139, 47 Cal. Rptr. 3d 623 (correctional supervisors organization sought petition for writ of mandate to compel Department of Personnel Administration to provide equal salary increases to supervisors as increases to rank and file employees)].

§ 474B.32 Whether Agency Was Required by Law to Hold Hearing

Administrative mandate review is limited to those cases in which the administrative agency is required by law to hold a hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a); see § 474B.12[1]]. The fact that a hearing was in fact held, even though not required, does not make administrative mandate available [Marina County Water Dist. v. State Water Resources Control Bd. (1984) 163 Cal. App. 3d 132, 138, 209 Cal. Rptr. 212] . Thus, if the agency determines on its own motion to reconsider a previously taken administrative action, administrative mandate will not lie [Marina County Water Dist. v. State Water Resources Control Bd. (1984) 163 Cal. App. 3d 132, 138-139, 209 Cal. Rptr. 212] .

B. Ordinary Mandate

41A-474B California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 474B.33

§ 474B.33 Whether Agency Action Was Arbitrary, Capricious, or Lacking in Evidentiary Support

[1] Applicability of Substantial Evidence Test

In ordinary mandate proceedings, the court's scope of review is comparatively narrow [Kelly v. County of Los Angeles (2006) 141 Cal. App. 4th 910, 918-920, 46 Cal. Rptr. 3d 335 (substantial evidence standard of review for fact findings in ordinary mandate, and de novo review standard of review for questions of law, including questions of statutory interpretation); C.V.C. v. Superior Court (1973) 29 Cal. App. 3d 909, 919, 106 Cal. Rptr. 123] . The agency's action will be upheld unless the court determines that it was arbitrary, capricious, or lacking in evidentiary support [California Hotel & Motel Assn. v. Industrial Welfare Com. (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 200, 212, 157 Cal. Rptr. 840, 599 P.2d 31 ; Endangered Habitats League v. County of Orange (2005) 131 Cal. App. 4th 777, 782-783, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 177 ; Better Alternatives for Neighborhoods v. Heyman (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 663, 671-673, 260 Cal. Rptr. 758 ; Joint Council of Interns & Residents v. Board of Supervisors (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 1202, 1209, 258 Cal. Rptr. 762 ; Marina County Water Dist. v. State Water Resources Control Bd. (1984) 163 Cal. App. 3d 132, 139, 209 Cal. Rptr. 212] , or unless the agency failed to follow proper procedures or failed to give notice as required by law [Joint Council of Interns & Residents v. Board of Supervisors (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 1202, 1209, 258 Cal. Rptr. 762 ; Taylor Bus Service, Inc. v. San Diego Bd. of Education (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 1331, 1340, 241 Cal. Rptr. 379] . Stated differently, the court is confined to an inquiry whether the administrative agency has abused its discretion and limited by the notion that, if reasonable minds might disagree, the court may not substitute its judgment for that of the agency [Better Alternatives for Neighborhoods v. Heyman (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 663, 672, 260 Cal. Rptr. 758 ; C.V.C. v. Superior Court (1973) 29 Cal. App. 3d 909, 919, 106 Cal. Rptr. 123] . The burden is on the petitioner to show that no substantial evidence whatsoever supported the agency's findings [Taylor Bus Service, Inc. v. San Diego Bd. of Education (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 1331, 1340-1341, 241 Cal. Rptr. 379] .

Notwithstanding the comparatively narrow scope of judicial review generally available in ordinary mandate proceedings, the reviewing court may exercise its independent judgment in ordinary mandate proceedings when constitutional rights are involved [Manjares v. Newton (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 365, 370-371, 49 Cal. Rptr. 805, 411 P.2d 901 ; Gilbert v. City of Sunnyvale (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 1264, 1274-1275, 31 Cal. Rptr. 3d 297 ; C.V.C. v.

Superior Court (1973) 29 Cal. App. 3d 909, 919, 106 Cal. Rptr. 123] . If the agency's decision adversely impacts on a constitutionally protected right or interest, the court must exercise its independent judgment in reviewing the decision, even in ordinary mandate proceedings [C.V.C. v. Superior Court (1973) 29 Cal. App. 3d 909, 919, 106 Cal. Rptr. 123] .

The appellate court will also apply the independent judgment test as the standard of review when the appellate court has to decide questions of law on undisputed facts [Environmental Charter High Sch. v. Centinela Valley Union High Sch. Dist. (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 139, 145-146, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 417 (school district decision to deny charter school use of district facilities for 2003-2004 school year was reviewed under ordinary mandate)].

§ 474B.44 Decisions

[1] Abuse of Discretion

[a] General Requirements

In absence of clear abuse of discretion, courts will uphold decision by Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control to suspend license for violation of liquor laws. Provigo Corp. v. Alcoholic Beverage Control Appeals Board (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 561, 566, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 638, 869 P.2d 1163

Under California administrative law, abuse of discretion occurs when party is denied right to present defense, to present testimony of key witnesses, or to take testimony out of state. Apte v. Regents of University of California (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1084, 1098, 244 Cal. Rptr. 312

Administrative body does not abuse its discretion by failing to accept factual findings of administrative law judge who originally heard matter. Gov. Code § 11517(c) allows administrative body to refuse to adopt administrative law judge's proposed decision and to decide case itself on record, including transcript, with or without taking additional evidence. Mixon v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1306, 1310, 1310 n.2, 237 Cal. Rptr. 884

In mandate proceeding to review administrative order, determination of penalty imposed by administrative body is not disturbed on appeal in absence of manifest abuse of discretion. Flowers v. State Personnel Bd. (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 753, 761, 220 Cal. Rptr. 139

Discretionary authority is not subject to delegation unless statute provides otherwise. California School Employees Assn. v. Personnel Com. of Pajaro Valley Unified School Dist. (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 139, 144, 89 Cal. Rptr. 620, 474 P.2d 436 ; Sacramento Chamber of Commerce v. Stephens (1931) 212 Cal. 607, 610, 299 P. 728 ; Webster v. Board of Education (1903) 140 Cal. 331, 332, 73 P. 1070

Ministerial act is subject to delegation; approval or ratification of act after performance is equivalent to delegation. California School Employees Assn. v. Personnel Com. of Pajaro Valley Unified School Dist. (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 139,

Distinction between discretionary and ministerial acts. Williams v. Stockton (1925) 195 Cal. 743, 748, 235 P. 986 ; People ex rel. Fund American Companies v. California Ins. Co. (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 423, 431-432, 117 Cal. Rptr. 623

[b] Failure to Proceed in Manner Required by Law

Abuse of discretion by administrative agency as established if agency has not proceeded in manner required by law. Woods v. Superior Court (1981) 28 Cal. 3d 668, 675, 170 Cal. Rptr. 484, 620 P.2d 1032

Failure to follow spirit of law even though following letter of law is failure to proceed in manner required by law. Walsh v. Kirby (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 95, 103-106, 118 Cal. Rptr. 1, 529 P.2d 33

Failure to recognize and act on implications of law's explicit requirements is failure to proceed in manner required by law. No Oil, Inc. v. Los Angeles, City of (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 68, 79-89, 118 Cal. Rptr. 34, 529 P.2d 66

Administrative official are without authority to harmonize statutes. People ex rel. Fund American Companies v. California Ins. Co. (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 423, 432-433, 117 Cal. Rptr. 623

Necessity of making timely and sufficient objection in administrative proceeding to agency's failure to proceed in manner required by law. Borror v. Department of Investment (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 531, 545, 92 Cal. Rptr. 525

[c] Decision Not Supported by Agency Findings

Necessity for findings to support administrative decision where factual determinations were made. Topanga Ass'n for a Scenic Community v. Los Angeles County (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 506, 515-517, 113 Cal. Rptr. 836, 522 P.2d 12 ; In re Sturm (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 258, 267, 113 Cal. Rptr. 361, 521 P.2d 97 ; Swars v. Council of City of Vallejo (1949) 33 Cal. 2d 867, 871, 206 P.2d 355 ; William Dal Porto & Sons, Inc. v. Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1195, 1213, 237 Cal. Rptr. 206 ; County of Los Angeles v. State of California (1985) 183 Cal. App. 3d 566, 579, 215 Cal. Rptr. 139 ; Mahoney v. San Francisco City etc. Employees' Ret. Bd. (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 1, 3-6, 106 Cal. Rptr. 94

Findings are required to be sufficiently clear to be understandable. In re Sturm (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 258, 272, 113 Cal. Rptr. 361, 521 P.2d 97

Findings requirement where application for license denied. In re Sturm (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 258, 268-270, 113 Cal. Rptr. 361, 521 P.2d 97 (prisoner's application for parole)

Requirement that agency's findings must bridge analytical gap between facts (raw evidence) and ultimate decision is not satisfied when findings are not fact-specific but merely declare general conclusion. California Aviation Council v. City of Ceres (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 1384, 1394-1395, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 163

Hearing officer's findings provide ample basis for determination of agency's reasoning on judicial review when decision included four-page summary of evidence, three-page analysis of evidence explaining decision's reasoning, nine findings of fact, and six conclusions of law. Getz v. City of West Hollywood (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 625, 630, 284 Cal. Rptr. 631

Findings that bridge analytical gap between raw evidence and ultimate decision or order are sufficient when agency proceeding involves noncomplex issues. Zuniga v. County of San Mateo Dep't of Health Services (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 1521, 1530, 267 Cal. Rptr. 755

Findings supporting administrative action, made in language of applicable ordinance, are adequate if ordinance requires that administrative action not be taken unless facts set forth in ordinance have been proved. Topanga Assn. for a Scenic Community v. County of Los Angeles (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 1348, 1363, 263 Cal. Rptr. 214

Findings made by incorporation by reference are proper; reference in administrative decision to administrative rule (without setting forth rule's language) is sufficient when rule citation, read together with factual findings, makes reasoning for administrative decision clear. Parkmerced Residents Organization v. San Francisco Rent Stabilization etc. Bd. (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 1235, 1244, 258 Cal. Rptr. 774

Findings are required to be legally relevant. City and County of San Francisco v. Board of Permit Appeals (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 1099, 1109, 255 Cal. Rptr. 307

Transcript of agency proceedings does not constitute sufficient findings when motion and oral remarks did not disclose basis for agency decision. Pacifica Corp. v. City of Camarillo (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 168, 179-180, 196 Cal. Rptr. 670

Administrative findings are not required to be stated with same formality required of judicial findings; findings are required to be liberally construed to support rather than defeat order under review. Horwarth v. Local Agency Formation Com. (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 177, 183, 191 Cal. Rptr. 593

Administrative findings set forth solely in language of applicable statute are insufficient. American Funeral Concepts v. Board of Funeral Directors & Embalmers (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 303, 309, 186 Cal. Rptr. 196

Findings requirement are met where agency expressly adopts findings prepared by staff or proposed by hearing officer. Webb v. State Personnel Board (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 542, 548, 94 Cal. Rptr. 115

Failure to make findings is cause for remand where decision might have been based on any of several grounds. Hadley v. City of Ontario (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 121, 128-129, 117 Cal. Rptr. 513

Lack of findings is not reversible error where evidence clearly shows what findings must have been. Webb v. State Personnel Board (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 542, 548, 94 Cal. Rptr. 115 ; Lees v. Bay Area Air Pollution Control Dist. (1965) 238 Cal. App. 2d 850, 853-854, 48 Cal. Rptr. 295

Findings of fact in support of proposed administrative disciplinary decision are required to clearly set forth factual and legal basis for decision. Medlock Dusters, Inc. v. Dooley (1982) 129 Cal. App. 3d 496, 502, 181 Cal. Rptr. 80

[2] Administrative Construction

Administrative construction of law is occasionally necessary but never conclusive; final construction is judicial function. Miller & Lux, Inc. v. Industrial Acci. Com. (1919) 179 Cal. 764, 766, 178 P. 960 ; Godshalk v. City of San Diego (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 459, 468, 94 Cal. Rptr. 42

Agency guidelines interpreting statute under which agency decision was made are not relevant to court's inquiry on mandate review of agency decision when guidelines were issued after date of agency decision, despite rule that agency interpretation of statute is entitled to great weight. Georgia-Pacific Corp. v. California Coastal Com. (1982) 132 Cal. App. 3d 678, 694, 183 Cal. Rptr. 395

Agency's interpretation of regulation is deserving of great weight, but ultimate resolution of interpretation is question of law, resting with courts. Sangster v. California Horse Racing Bd. (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1033, 1040, 249 Cal. Rptr. 235 ; Skyline Homes, Inc. v. Occupational Safety & Health Appeals Bd. (1981) 120 Cal. App. 3d 663, 669, 174 Cal. Rptr. 665

Courts are empowered to set aside administrative decision based on wrong construction of law. People ex rel. Fund American Companies v. California Ins. Co. (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 423, 431, 117 Cal. Rptr. 623

Agency's first-time construction of 16-year-old statute is not entitled to great weight. Department of Water & Power v. Energy Resources Conservation & Development Com. (1991) 2 Cal. App. 4th 206, 220, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 289

[3] Administrative Hearings

As in ordinary civil actions, party asserting affirmative at administrative hearing has burden of proof, including both initial burden of going forward and burden of persuasion by a preponderance of the evidence; preponderance of evidence does not mean necessarily preponderance of the number of witnesses; various elements go into determining weight to be given statements of parties on one side or other of a controversy, their opportunities for observation, mental capacity, standing, credibility, and numbers. McCoy v. Board of Retirement (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 1044, 1051 n.5, 228 Cal. Rptr. 567

[4] Appeal

Petition for review of Agriculture Labor Relations Board order filed three days late is deemed to have been timely filed when petition was submitted to clerk's office on final day for seeking review, but was not verified as required by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.498, and was returned by clerk for verification; even though time limit is jurisdictional, technical noncompliance in form of petition does not bar review. United Farm Workers of America v. Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. (1985) 37 Cal. 3d 912, 914-916, 210 Cal. Rptr. 453, 694 P.2d 138

Good cause exists for raising issue for first time on appeal of denial of petition for writ of administrative mandate when case relied on for raising issue was decided after opening brief was filed, court afforded all parties opportunity to respond to the issue, and issue was one of law. J. L. Thomas, Inc. v. County of Los Angeles (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 916, 923 n.6, 283 Cal. Rptr. 815

When presented with uncontradicted facts on appeal in tax matters, appellate court is free to make its own determinations; appellate review of legal questions is undertaken independently, so appellate court is not bound by trial court's determination. Rain Bird Sprinkler Mfg. Corp. v. Franchise Tax Bd. (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 784, 794, 280 Cal. Rptr. 362

Appellate court's function, in reviewing determinations made by superior court in its independent judgment review of administrative agency decision, is to apply substantial evidence test to factual findings; appellate court upholds trial court's factual determinations when supported by substantial evidence gleaned from administrative record. Imperial Irrigation Dist. v. State Wat. Resources Control Bd. (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 548, 553, 275 Cal. Rptr. 250

Even though trial court's determination of issues of fact are reviewable under substantial evidence test, trial court's determination of issues of law are fully reviewable by appellate court, and appellate court is not bound either by agency's preliminary resolution of issues of law or by trial court's subsequent decision. Imperial Irrigation Dist. v. State Wat. Resources Control Bd. (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 548, 553, 275 Cal. Rptr. 250

When applying substantial evidence test on review of trial court's denial of petition for writ of administrative mandate, appellate court: (1) ascertains whether evidentiary record reveals substantial support, contradicted or uncontradicted, that trial court's determinations are correct; (2) resolves all evidentiary conflicts in respondent's favor; (3) indulges all reasonable inferences to uphold judgment; and (4) defers to trial court on inferences reasonably deduced from facts. Geoghegan v. Retirement Board (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1525, 1529, 272 Cal. Rptr. 419

When applying substantial evidence test on review of trial court's denial of petition for writ of administrative mandate, appellate court is bound by trial court's factual interpretation if undisputed facts can support more than one interpretation. Geoghegan v. Retirement Board (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1525, 1529, 272 Cal. Rptr. 419

Scope of appellate court's review of administrative mandate is coextensive with that of superior court when superior court employs substantial evidence test, and therefore appellate court is not bound by determinations of superior court. Brooks v. State Personnel Bd. (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1068, 1071-1072, 272 Cal. Rptr. 292

Denial of administrative mandate claim is appealable final judgment within meaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 1064, notwithstanding fact that additional claims have not yet been resolved by trial court. Bullock v. City and County of San Francisco (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 1072, 1086, 271 Cal. Rptr. 44

In administrative mandate action, appellate review is limited to issues in record at administrative level; additional evidence is admissible only when it was unavailable at time of administrative hearing, or improperly excluded from record. Schaeffer Land Trust v. San Jose City Council (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 612, 625 n.9, 263 Cal. Rptr. 813

Duties of appellate and trial courts in determining whether administrative record is free from legal error are identical; appellate court conducts own independent review, and superior court's disposition of issues is not conclusive. Schaeffer Land Trust v. San Jose City Council (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 612, 622, 263 Cal. Rptr. 813

Determination of whether administrative action was arbitrary or capricious is issue of fact for trial court over which appellate court has no power to weigh or judge effect of evidence or to resolve conflicts in it. Jones v. Pierce (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 736, 747, 245 Cal. Rptr. 149

To review denial of writ of mandate, determination of whether writ sought was traditional mandate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 or administrative mandate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is necessary; determination is essential because nature of review undertaken by trial court and ultimately by court of appeal is determined by nature of writ. Taylor Bus Service, Inc. v. San Diego Bd. of Education (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 1331, 1339, 241 Cal. Rptr. 379 (determining writ sought was traditional mandate)

Appellate court applies substantial evidence test when trial court applies that test under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(c) to review administrative proceeding. Anne B. v. State Bd. of Control (1984) 165 Cal. App. 3d 279, 284, 209 Cal. Rptr. 83 (reversal of trial court denial of petition for writ of administrative mandate to review decision by State Board of Control)

When findings of trial court are based on its proper exercise of independent judgment, appellate court applies substantial evidence standard to trial court's findings; however, when trial court's appropriate standard of review is substantial evidence or abuse of discretion, appellate court reviews administrative decision, not trial court's decision. Schmitt v. City of Rialto (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 494, 501, 210 Cal. Rptr. 788

Standard of review on appeal is dependent on appropriate standard of review at trial court level; standard of review at trial court level is dependent on type of rights affected by administrative proceeding. Kimbrough v. Police & Fire Retirement System (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 1143, 1148, 208 Cal. Rptr. 112

Appellate courts generally do not consider matters presented for first time on appeal. Franz v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 124, 143, 181 Cal. Rptr. 732, 642 P.2d 792 (appellant-petitioner in administrative writ of mandate proceeding waived right to raise issues of bias of panel member and variance between charges and findings in administrative proceeding by failing to raise them in trial court)

Scope of review on appeal. Bekiaris v. Board of Education (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 575, 593, 100 Cal. Rptr. 16, 493 P.2d 480 ; Petrucci v. Board of Medical Examiners (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 83, 87, 117 Cal. Rptr. 735

Nonappealable orders include order sustaining demurrer to petition, order denying motion to reconsider ruling on demurrer and to recall and quash peremptory writ, order denying motion to amend petition, and order denying motion to strike petition. Rittersbacher v. Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles County (1934) 220 Cal. 535, 539, 32 P.2d 135 , cert. denied, 293 U.S. 592, 55 S. Ct. 107, 79 L. Ed. 686 ; Gayle v. Hamm (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 250, 252 n.3, 101 Cal. Rptr. 628 ; Sunseri v. Board of Medical Examiners (1964) 224 Cal. App. 2d 309, 319, 36 Cal. Rptr. 553 ; McPheeters v. Board of Medical Examiners (1946) 74 Cal. App. 2d 46, 47, 168 P.2d 65

Appeal is taken from judgment, not writ; appeal from writ is subject to dismissal. DeMartini v. Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control (1963) 215 Cal. App. 2d 787, 794, 30 Cal. Rptr. 668 ; Kindig v. Palos Verdes Homes Ass'n (1939) 33 Cal. App. 2d 349, 355, 91 P.2d 645

When issue of proper standard of proof not raised by appellant at original administrative hearing to revoke appellant's license or in subsequent action for writ of administrative mandate challenging revocation of license, appellant is precluded from raising issue for first time on appeal from trial court's denial of petition for writ. Milligan v. Hearing Aid Dispensers Examining Com. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 1002, 1008, 191 Cal. Rptr. 490

Proper standard of appellate review when trial court used substantial evidence test is whether or not findings of agency (not trial court) were supported by substantial evidence. Pacific Coast Medical Enterprises v. Department of Benefit Payments (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 197, 208-209, 189 Cal. Rptr. 558

County board's return of writ stating compliance with peremptory writ of mandate is waiver of right to appeal regarding validity of trial court's judgment granting writ; however, order following hearing on adequacy of board's return to writ relates to enforcement of judgment and thus is appealable since issue was trial court's assessment of and reaction to adequacy of board's return. City of Carmel-by-the-Sea v. Board of Supervisors (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 964, 971-972, 187 Cal. Rptr. 379

Court that issues writ of mandate retains continuing jurisdiction to make any order necessary to its enforcement; when writ remands matter to administrative body with directions to proceed in certain manner, and return states that court's mandate has been carried out, petitioner is able to challenge validity of that claim by new petition under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 or by supplemental petition, or court, on its own motion or that of petitioner, either oral or written, may order respondent to reconsider further. City of Carmel-by-the-Sea v. Board of Supervisors (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 964, 971-972, 187 Cal. Rptr. 379

Order denying petition out of hand (refusing issuance of alternative writ) is appealable. Burrus v. Municipal Court (1973) 36 Cal. App. 3d 233, 238, 111 Cal. Rptr. 539

[5] Burden of Proof and Producing Evidence

Respondent has burden to go forward with evidence where evidence on particular issue peculiarly within respondent's knowledge. Morris v. Williams (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 733, 760, 63 Cal. Rptr. 689, 433 P.2d 697 ; Garcia v. Industrial Acci. Com. (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 689, 694, 263 P.2d 8 ; California Medical Assn. v. Brian (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 637, 651

Person attacking administrative decision has burden of showing trial court that administrative proceedings unfair, in excess of jurisdiction, or show prejudicial abuse of discretion; otherwise, presumption of regularity of proceedings prevails. Foster v. Civil Service Com. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 444, 453, 190 Cal. Rptr. 893

Agency has burden of proof where administrative charge was that petitioner made material misrepresentation to obtain license. De Rasmo v. Smith (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 601, 605-606, 93 Cal. Rptr. 289 ; Jones v. Maloney (1951) 106 Cal. App. 2d 80, 89, 234 P.2d 666

[6] Findings Not Supported by Evidence

Right to pursue lawful business or occupation is fundamental. Truax v. Raich (1915) 239 U.S. 33, 41, 36 S. Ct. 7, 60 L. Ed. 131 ; Purdy & Fitzpatrick v. California (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 566, 579, 79 Cal. Rptr. 77, 456 P.2d 645

Tenured state university professor over 70 years of age terminated from employment for substandard performance who timely applied for continuation of tenure had vested right to continued employment and was entitled to independent review of administrative record. Webster v. Trustees of Cal. State University (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 1456, 1462, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 150

Driver's license is fundamental vested right for purpose of selecting standard of judicial review of administrative decision to suspend or renew license; trial court is required to exercise independent judgment in reviewing administrative record. Berlinghieri v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1983) 33 Cal. 3d392, 397-398, 33 Cal. 3d 392, 188 Cal. Rptr. 891, 657 P.2d 383 ; Webb v. Miller (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 619, 624, 625, 232 Cal. Rptr. 50 ; Lee v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 275, 284, 191 Cal. Rptr. 23

Substantial evidence rule is standard of review applying to decision denying doctor's initial application for hospital privileges because applicant has no vested or fundamental right to appointment; right of doctor to continue to practice in hospital is fundamental and administrative decision denying reappointment to staff is reviewable under independent judgment rule. Unterthiner v. Desert Hospital Dist. (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 285, 293, 298, 188 Cal. Rptr. 590, 656 P.2d 554 ; Anton v. San Antonio Community Hosp. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 802, 820-825, 140 Cal. Rptr. 442, 567 P.2d 1162 ; Smith v. Vallejo General Hospital (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 450, 455, 216 Cal. Rptr. 189

Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 leaves to courts establishment of standards for determining which cases require independent judgment review and which cases require substantial evidence review. Unterthiner v. Desert Hospital Dist. (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 285, 293, 298, 188 Cal. Rptr. 590, 656 P.2d 554 ; Frink v. Prod (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 166, 173, 174, 181 Cal. Rptr. 893, 643 P.2d 476

For purposes of determining applicability of independent judgment review, terms "fundamental" and "vested" are not used to establish absolutes, but are used in relative sense; weighing of both fundamental nature and vested nature of right determines whether or not independent judgment review is required. Frink v. Prod (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 166, 177, 181 Cal. Rptr. 893, 643 P.2d 476

Even when trial court must exercise its independent judgment on evidence, its findings are sustained on appeal if supported by substantial evidence on whole record. Franz v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 124, 135, 181 Cal. Rptr. 732, 642 P.2d 792 ; Milligan v. Hearing Aid Dispensers Examining Com. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 1002, 1005, 191 Cal. Rptr. 490

Ultimate question in each case in determining whether or not independent judgment standard or substantial evidence standard applies is whether or not affected right is deemed to be of sufficient significance to preclude its extinction or abridgement by body (administrative agency) lacking judicial power. Frink v. Prod (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 166, 176, 178, 181 Cal. Rptr. 893, 643 P.2d 476

Nature of right rather than harm or damage involved in interference with it is factor determining whether it is fundamental. Dickey v. Retirement Board (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 745, 751, 129 Cal. Rptr. 289, 548 P.2d 689 ; Harlow v. Carleson (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 731, 734, 129 Cal. Rptr. 298, 548 P.2d 698

Court is authorized to exercise independent judgment to determine whether or not findings are supported by weight of evidence when administrative decision substantially affects vested fundamental right and agency not directly authorized by state constitution to exercise judicial functions. Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 32, 35, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29 ; Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 143, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242 ; see also Los Alamitos General Hosp., Inc. v. Lackner (1978) 149 Cal. Rptr. 98

Vested rights arise from statutes. Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 33, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29

Measure of fundamental right is effect in human terms and importance to individual in life situation. Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 145, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242

Right to receive license applied for is not, but right to keep license already acquired is, vested right. Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 146, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242

Vested right is one so fixed as not to be subject to divestiture without owner's consent. Adoption of Graham (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 899, 905, 27 Cal. Rptr. 163, 377 P.2d 275

Vested right is existing valuable privilege. Bertch v. Social Welfare Dep't (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 524, 529, 289 P.2d 485

Vested rights arise from laws of property. Temescal Water Co. v. Dept. of Public Works (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 90, 105-106, 280 P.2d 1

In administrative mandate proceeding in which trial court has properly exercised its independent judgment on evidence, trial court's factual determinations are conclusive on appeal if supported by substantial evidence. Moran v. Board of Medical Examiners (1948) 32 Cal. 2d 301, 308, 196 P.2d 20 ; Foster v. Civil Service Com. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 444, 452, 190 Cal. Rptr. 893

Attack in mandate proceeding on credibility of witnesses in administrative proceeding is permissible in appropriate case. Dare v. Bd. of Medical Examiners (1943) 21 Cal. 2d 790, 799-800, 136 P.2d 304

Vested rights arise from professional licenses. Laisne v. State Bd. of Optometry (1942) 19 Cal. 2d 831, 835, 123 P.2d 457

Nature of hearing de novo. Collier & Wallis, Ltd. v. Astor (1937) 9 Cal. 2d 202, 205, 70 P.2d 171

On review of trial court's exercise of independent judgment, appellate court reviews record to determine whether or not trial court's findings supported by substantial evidence. Lee v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d

275, 284, 191 Cal. Rptr. 23 .

Dismissal of county employee involves fundamental right and thus trial court's determination governed by independent judgment test. Foster v. Civil Service Com. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 444, 452, 190 Cal. Rptr. 893

On appeal from judgment denying petition for writ of administrative mandate when trial court required to, and did, exercise independent judgment on evidence and record before board, scope of review of appellate court is limited to determination of whether or not evidence, viewed in light most favorable to respondent, sustains findings of trial court, resolving any reasonable doubts in favor of such findings. Schrier v. San Mateo County Employees' Retirement Assn. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 957, 961, 191 Cal. Rptr. 421

Tenured teachers possess vested rights and their discharge is subject to independent judgment review by court in administrative mandate proceeding; less stringent substantial evidence test is applicable in case of probationary employees whose rights are not vested. Alexander v. Board of Trustees (1983) 139 Cal. App. 3d 567, 572, 188 Cal. Rptr. 705

Since Unemployment Insurance Act benefits constitute property rights for purposes of judicial review, parties are entitled to independent evaluation of evidence by superior court, including findings on all essential fact questions. Bilyeu v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 657, 661, 181 Cal. Rptr. 837

In reviewing decision of Board of Medical Quality Assurance to revoke professional license, independent judgment is standard to be used by trial court except when determining penalty imposed. Dresser v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 506, 510, 181 Cal. Rptr. 797

Right of probationary teacher to be rehired for next school year is not a vested right requiring independent judgment review. Mt. San Antonio College Faculty Assn. v. Board of Trustees (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 27, 34, 177 Cal. Rptr. 810

Administrative suspension or revocation of existing license is subject to independent judgment review by court in administrative mandate proceeding. Brewer v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 358, 362, 155 Cal. Rptr. 643

Policeman's right to injury leave pay, to retirement benefits, and to reemployment are vested rights and are fundamental in nature; trial court, in reviewing administrative decisions relating to such rights, is required not only to examine administrative record for errors of law but to exercise its independent judgment on evidence as disclosed in limited trial de novo; trial court is required to weigh evidence and exercise its independent judgment on weight of evidence produced. Roccaforte v. City of San Diego (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 877, 886, 152 Cal. Rptr. 558

Retirement benefit rights in public employees retirement system are fundamental and vested. Depuy v. Board of Retirement (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 392, 396-397, 150 Cal. Rptr. 791

Absence of record sufficient to permit independent judgment review is ground for remand for new hearing. Hadley v. City of Ontario (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 121, 127, 117 Cal. Rptr. 513

No person is entitled to conduct business free of governmental control. Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 145-146, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242 ; Northern Inyo Hosp. v. Fair Employment Practice Com. (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 14, 23, 112 Cal. Rptr. 872

Right to benefit from grandfather clause does not confer any vested right on applicant for license. Toczauer v. State Bd. of Registration (1971) 20 Cal. App. 3d 1067, 1069-1071, 98 Cal. Rptr. 211

Court is unable to assess weight of uncontradicted evidence. David Kikkert & Associates, Inc. v. Shine (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 112, 116, 86 Cal. Rptr. 161

Parties are entitled to reconstruct record for independent judgment review in event record of evidence was not made. Charles L. Harney, Inc. v. Board of Permit Appeals (1961) 195 Cal. App. 2d 442, 444-445, 15 Cal. Rptr. 870 (record reconstructed by parties)

Vested rights arise from contracts. Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 147-148, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242 ; Reed v. City Council of Roseville (1943) 60 Cal. App. 2d 628, 636, 141 P.2d 459

Independent judgment test under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is appropriate standard of review of county board decision awarding public employee service-connected disability retirement benefits. County of Alameda v. Board of Retirement (1988) 46 Cal. 3d 902, 910, 251 Cal. Rptr. 267, 760 P.2d 464

County's direct pecuniary interest in challenging retirement system award is basis for applying independent judgment standard of review. County of Alameda v. Board of Retirement (1988) 46 Cal. 3d 902, 908-909, 251 Cal. Rptr. 267, 760 P.2d 464

Denial of application for conditional use permit does not affect fundamental interests that would warrant independent judgment review. Smith v. County of Los Angeles (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 188, 199-200, 259 Cal. Rptr. 231

Trial court is required to review administrative agency's adjudicatory decisions de novo if: (1) those decisions affect fundamental vested rights; and (2) administrative agency of legislative origin and Legislature has not provided that substantial evidence test should govern review of its decisions. Dominey v. Department of Personnel Administration (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 729, 740-741, 252 Cal. Rptr. 620

Public employees' claim for backpay for work performed in higher classification involves fundamental right for purposes of applying independent judgment standard of review because it directly affects employees' ability to continue to support their families; claim involves vested right because employees would be entitled to compensation for work already performed. Dominey v. Department of Personnel Administration (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 729, 742, 252 Cal. Rptr. 620

Trial court properly applies "independent judgment" test to review administrative record in mandate proceeding brought to compel Department of Social Services to set aside its decision revoking license to operate family day care home for children, because trial court must exercise its independent judgment on evidence if decision of administrative agency substantially affects fundamental vested right, and right to engage in such occupation is such a right. Seering v. Dept. of Social Services (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 298, 302, 302 n.1, 239 Cal. Rptr. 422

In mandate proceeding involving fundamental or vested rights, such as right to disability retirement benefits, or whenever authorized by law, trial court is required independently to judge administrative record to determine if findings were supported by weight of evidence. Swehla v. Teachers' Retirement Bd. (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1088, 1092, 237 Cal. Rptr. 789 ; Gatewood (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 311, 322, 220 Cal. Rptr. 724

When reviewing administrative decision through writ of mandate and decision affects substantially fundamental vested right, trial court is required to exercise its independent judgment to determine whether evidence supports findings; independent review requires trial court to make its own determination based on evidence at administrative hearing; independent review requires appellate court to decide whether credible and competent evidence supports trial court's judgment. Martinez v. County of Tulare (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 1430, 1436-1437, 235 Cal. Rptr. 851

Revocation of restricted real estate broker's license is fundamental but not vested right and therefore subject to substantial evidence and not independent judgment review, because very nature of restricted license is indication to holder that rights granted from it are neither vested nor permanent. Apollo Estates, Inc. v. Department of Real Estate (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 625, 635-636, 220 Cal. Rptr. 199

In mandate proceeding to review disciplinary action taken by county civil service commission against sheriff's deputy, trial court is required to apply "substantial evidence" test, even though deputy's fundamental vested right of employment was involved, when petitioner sheriff did not himself possess such right. Carpenter v. Civil Service Com. (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 446, 450-452, 220 Cal. Rptr. 407

Employer's rights to establish practices and procedures and to impose conditions of employment do not constitute fundamental vested right so as to require judicial review of administrative decision by application of independent judgment test. Carpenter v. Civil Service Com. (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 446, 451, 220 Cal. Rptr. 407

Independent judgment standard is proper when decision of administrative agency with statewide jurisdiction reviewed in mandate proceeding. Eisenberg v. Myers (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 814, 820, 196 Cal. Rptr. 270

[b] Substantial Evidence Review

Decisions of agency of constitutional authority are reviewed only to determine whether substantial evidence supports determination, even when vested rights are involved. Coleman v. Department of Personnel Administration (1991) 52 Cal. 3d 1102, 1125, 278 Cal. Rptr. 346, 805 P.2d 300

Substantial evidence test requires reviewing court to consider all relevant evidence, including evidence detracting from agency's decision. Sierra Club v. California Coastal Commission (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 602, 610, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 779

Substantial evidence test is proper to review findings and decision by California Fair Employment and Housing Commission concerning whether employer may exclude fertile women from certain types of jobs involving exposure to lead. Johnson Controls, Inc. v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 517, 531, 267 Cal. Rptr. 158

Case involving abuse of discretion in area of land use regulation does not involve fundamental vested rights; substantial evidence test is appropriate scope of review. Topanga Assn. for a Scenic Community v. County of Los Angeles (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 1348, 1356 n.3, 263 Cal. Rptr. 214

Substantial evidence test is applicable on judicial review of decision by Department of Rehabilitation that independent care provider owed it reimbursement for prior funding overpayment; speculation that decision would cause care provider to curtail habilitation services to developmentally disabled (and thereby implicate fundamental vested right of disabled to such services) is insufficient to justify independent judgment review because state must fill void if independent care provider cannot provide services. Hope Rehabilitation Services v. Department of Rehabilitation (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 938, 944, 261 Cal. Rptr. 123

Substantial evidence rule does not apply to questions of law; reviewing court is free to determine independently application of laws, regulations, or procedures; this construction of rule applies to interpretation of policies and procedures of University of California that have status of statutes in its internal governance, and clearly come into play when facts are undisputed. Apte v. Regents of University of California (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1084, 1092-1093, 244 Cal. Rptr. 312

Substantial evidence is relevant evidence that reasonable mind might accept as adequate to support conclusion. Apte v. Regents of University of California (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1084, 1091, 244 Cal. Rptr. 312

Department of Personnel Administration is authorized to make final factual findings in matters of constructive resignation under Gov. Code § 19996.2; review by trial court is limited to substantial evidence test. Allen v. Dept. of Personnel Administration (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 355, 362, 238 Cal. Rptr. 317

Findings by ALRB are entitled to respect, but are properly set aside when record does not justify decision under substantial evidence test. J. R. Norton Co. v. Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 874, 888, 238 Cal. Rptr. 87

Employer's right to establish its employment practices and procedures and to impose conditions of employment is not a fundamental vested right; substantial evidence test is applicable on review of administrative complaint that city had engaged in racial discrimination in administration and application of promotional examination. City and County of San Francisco v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 976, 984, 236 Cal. Rptr. 716

In administrative mandate proceedings, trial court exercises its independent judgment on evidence, and appellate court merely reviews whole record to determine whether trial court's findings are supported by substantial evidence. Kearl v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1986) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1040, 1052, 236 Cal. Rptr. 526

Evidence is substantial if any reasonable trier of fact could have considered it reasonable, credible, and of solid value; evidence of one credible witness possibly constitutes substantial evidence. Kearl v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1986) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1040, 1052, 236 Cal. Rptr. 526

When substantial evidence test applies, superior court exercises essentially appellate function in determining whether administrative findings are supported by substantial evidence; scope of appellate review is coextensive with that of superior court. Division of Occupational Safety & Health v. State Bd. of Control (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 794, 800, 234 Cal. Rptr. 661

County's right to discharge hospital employee is neither fundamental nor vested, therefore trial court properly used substantial evidence test to review personnel board's findings. County of Santa Clara v. Willis (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 1240, 1250, 225 Cal. Rptr. 244

Although Board of Medical Quality Assurance required to find by clear and convincing evidence, and superior court exercises independent judgment review, appellate court is required only to determine whether superior court's findings are supported by substantial evidence. Yellen v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 1040, 1057-1058, 220 Cal. Rptr. 426

Even when contradicted by direct testimony, persuasive circumstantial evidence constitutes substantial evidence for inferences based on it. Norris v. State Personnel Board (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 393, 398-399, 219 Cal. Rptr. 895

In mandate proceeding to review disciplinary action taken by county civil service commission against sheriff's deputy, trial court is required to apply "substantial evidence" test, even though deputy's fundamental vested right of employment was involved, when petitioner sheriff did not himself possess such right. Carpenter v. Civil Service Com. (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 446, 450-452, 220 Cal. Rptr. 407

When administrative decision neither involves nor substantially affects fundamental vested right, trial court is required to review entire administrative record to determine whether findings are supported by substantial evidence, and if agency committed any errors of law. Whaler's Village Club v. California Coastal Com. (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 240, 251, 220 Cal. Rptr. 2

Penalty-reducing decision of civil service commission is reviewable in superior court mandate proceeding only for abuse of discretion. Lowe v. Civil Service Com. (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 667, 677, 210 Cal. Rptr. 673

Independent review by trial court is appropriate when right affected is fundamental vested right; substantial evidence is appropriate scope of review when trial court standard was independent review. Kimbrough v. Police & Fire Retirement System (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 1143, 1149, 208 Cal. Rptr. 112

Appellate court is required to use substantial evidence test to review trial court's independent review of administrative decision; in such case, however, court of appeal is not merely echoing determination of trial court, which it may reverse when supported only by scintilla of evidence. Bowman v. Board of Pension Commissioners. (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 937, 943-944, 943 n.3, 202 Cal. Rptr. 505

Review of administrative agency's finding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is limited to determination of whether findings are supported by record (substantial evidence test), even when fundamental vested right is involved, when agency derives its adjudicative powers from California Constitution. Goggin v. State Personnel Bd. (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 96, 102, 202 Cal. Rptr. 587

Fair procedure requires adequate notice and reasonable opportunity to be heard; rigid adherence to fixed formula of procedure is not required. Tiholiz v. Northridge Hospital Foundation (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 1197, 1202, 199 Cal. Rptr. 338

Court is limited to determining whether findings are supported by substantial evidence in light of whole record when administrative decision does not substantially affect vested fundamental right or agency directly authorized by Constitution to exercise judicial functions. Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 35, 44-45, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29 ; Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 144, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242 ; see also Alamitos General Hosp., Inc. v. Lackner (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 417, 423, 149 Cal. Rptr. 98

Requirement that entire record, not merely evidence supporting administrative decision, be examined. LeVesque v. Workmen's Comp. App. Bd. (1970) 1 Cal. 3d 627, 638 n.22, 83 Cal. Rptr. 208, 463 P.2d 432 (construing Lab. Code § 5952)

Substantial evidence is evidence of ponderable legal significance, reasonable in nature, credible, and of solid value. People v. Bassett (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 122, 138-139, 70 Cal. Rptr. 193, 443 P.2d 777 ; Estate of Bristol (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 221, 223, 143 P.2d 689 ; Pennel v. Pond Union School Dist. (1973) 29 Cal. App. 3d 832, 837 n.2, 105 Cal. Rptr. 817

Substantial evidence in light of whole record means substantial evidence as opposed to scintilla of evidence. Martin v. Alcoholic Beverage Control Appeals Bd. (1959) 52 Cal. 2d 238, 246, 340 P.2d 1

In action for administrative mandate, trial court is under no duty to prepare findings of fact and conclusions of law in absence of timely request for statement of decision under Code Civ. Proc. § 632. Milligan v. Hearing Aid Dispensers Examining Com. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 1002, 1005, n.3, 191 Cal. Rptr. 490

Substantial evidence rule requires trial court to start with presumption that record contains evidence to sustain every finding of fact and burden is on appellant to show that there is not substantial evidence whatsoever to support findings. Pescosolido v. Smith (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 964, 970, 191 Cal. Rptr. 415

Administrative board, as trier of fact, is sole arbiter of all conflicts in evidence, conflicting interpretations thereof, and conflicting inferences reasonably drawn therefrom, and is sole judge of credibility of witnesses. Pescosolido v. Smith

Landowner's application for exercise of administrative discretion in area of land use is subject to substantial evidence test, as no fundamental vested rights exist. Rasmussen v. City Council (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 842, 848-849, 190 Cal. Rptr. 1

Discharge of probationary teachers, whose rights are not vested, is subject to substantial evidence test. Alexander v. Board of Trustees (1983) 139 Cal. App. 3d 567, 572, 188 Cal. Rptr. 705

Power of appellate review of sufficiency of evidence begins and ends with determination of whether or not there is any substantial evidence, contradicted or uncontradicted, which will support finding of fact; factual matters are viewed most favorably to prevailing party and conflicts are decided in favor of respondent. 12319 Corporation v. Business License Com. (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 54, 64, 186 Cal. Rptr. 726

Substantial evidence test is applicable standard of review with respect to disciplinary actions taken against state university employee. Washington v. State Personnel Bd. (1981) 127 Cal. App. 3d 636, 640, 179 Cal. Rptr. 637

Standard is whether or not entire administrative record discloses substantial evidence (reasonable, credible, and of solid value) such that reasonable trier of fact could have found as it did. Parker v. State Personnel Bd. (1981) 120 Cal. App. 3d 84, 87, 174 Cal. Rptr. 333

Court is required to draw all legitimate and reasonable inferences in support of agency's findings, not to reweigh evidence. Fair Employment Practice Com. v. State Personnel Bd. (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 322, 333, 172 Cal. Rptr. 739

[c] Constitutional Rights Case

Review procedure when petitioner claims administrative decision not actually based on alleged grounds but based on official dissatisfaction with exercise of constitutional rights such as freedom of speech. Adcock v. Board of Educ. (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 60, 65-66, 109 Cal. Rptr 676, 513 P.2d 900 ; Bekiaris v. Board of Education (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 575, 591-593, 100 Cal. Rptr. 16, 493 P.2d 480

Findings requirement in case of alleged official dissatisfaction with exercise of constitutional rights. Bekiaris v. Board of Education (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 575, 592-593, 100 Cal. Rptr. 16, 493 P.2d 480

Independent judgment review required when constitutionally protected interest at stake. Lichter v. United States (1947) 334 U.S. 742, 791-792, 68 S. Ct. 1294, 92 L. Ed. 1694 ; Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 148 n.5, 148 n.6, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242 ; C.V.C. v. Superior Court (1973) 29 Cal. App. 3d 909, 919, 106 Cal. Rptr. 123

[7] Findings of Fact

When trial court denied driver's petition for writ of mandate seeking to set aside decision of DMV to suspend driver's license, and findings of fact not requested from or expressly issued by trial court, on appeal findings necessary to support judgment are implied and judgment is affirmed if supported by any substantial evidence. Lee v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 275, 284, 191 Cal. Rptr. 23 .

When there is no statement of decision to reveal specific findings of trial court, findings of fact and conclusions of law necessary to support judgment are implied, and judgment is affirmed if supported by substantial evidence. Kearl v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1986) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1040, 1052, 236 Cal. Rptr. 526

[8] Jurisdiction and Jurisdictional Review

Superior court is generally proper court for filing petition for writ of mandate reviewing administrative decision. Roma Macaroni Factory v. Giambastiani (1933) 219 Cal. 435, 436-437, 27 P.2d 371 ; Cohen v. Superior Court (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 268, 270-271, 72 Cal. Rptr. 814

Court has discretion to refuse to consider repetitive applications. Hagan v. Superior Court (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 767, 770-771, 22 Cal. Rptr. 206, 371 P.2d 982

Meaning of jurisdiction, lack of jurisdiction, and excess of jurisdiction. Abelleira v. District Court of Appeal (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 280, 287-291, 109 P.2d 942

Meaning of jurisdiction in prohibition and certiorari cases. Rodman v. Superior Court (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 262, 269-270, 89 P.2d 109

Administrative agency does not act without fundamental jurisdiction or in excess of its jurisdiction when it acts pursuant to authority of statute later declared unconstitutional. Miller v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 1371, 1379, 238 Cal. Rptr. 915

[9] Penalties

Abuse of discretion was not shown when an employee was discharged when other employees who had engaged in similar misconduct were not discharged because similar wrongs do not require equal penalties. Pegues v. Civil Service Com. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 95, 106, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 705

If administrative agency has imposed single discipline for multiple charges, some of which are found not sustained by evidence, and if there is real doubt whether or not same action would have been taken on proper findings, matter is returned to agency for redetermination of penalty. Franz v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 124, 144, 181 Cal. Rptr. 732, 642 P.2d 792 ; Vollstedt v. City of Stockton (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 265, 277, 269 Cal. Rptr. 404

In determining abuse of discretion in imposition of penalty in context of public employee discipline, extent to which employee's conduct resulted in, or if repeated conduct is likely to result in, harm to public service is overriding consideration. Skelly v. State Personnel Bd. (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 194, 218, 124 Cal. Rptr. 14, 539 P.2d 774 ; County of Santa Clara v. Willis (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 1240, 1251, 225 Cal. Rptr. 244

Propriety of penalty imposed by administrative decision is not matter for judicial inquiry except to determine whether agency abused its discretion. Nightingale v. State Personnel Board (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 507, 515, 102 Cal. Rptr. 758, 498 P.2d 1006 ; Martin v. Alcoholic Beverage Control Appeals Bd. (1959) 52 Cal. 2d 287, 291, 341 P.2d 296 ; Martinez v. County of Tulare (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 1430, 1438, 235 Cal. Rptr. 851 ; Fout v. State Personnel Bd. (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 817, 821, 186 Cal. Rptr. 452 ; Marino v. Los Angeles (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 461, 464, 110 Cal. Rptr. 45 ; Wingfield v. Fielder (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 209, 221, 105 Cal. Rptr. 619

Court is empowered to require agency to reconsider penalty where abuse of discretion shown by failure of evidence to support charges or some of them. O'Reilly v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 381, 389, 58 Cal. Rptr. 7, 426 P.2d 167 ; Magit v. Board of Medical Examiners (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 74, 87-88, 17 Cal. Rptr 488, 366 P.2d 816 ; Collins v. Board of Medical Examiners (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 439, 445, 105 Cal. Rptr. 634 ; Wingfield v. Fielder (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 209, 223, 105 Cal. Rptr. 619

Penalty is within limits of agency's discretion if reasonable minds might differ as to whether it is appropriate. Harris v. Alcoholic Bev. etc. Appeals Bd. (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 589, 594, 43 Cal. Rptr. 633, 400 P.2d 745 ; Wingfield v. Fielder (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 209, 221, 105 Cal. Rptr. 619

Test of abuse of discretion in imposition of penalty is whether reasonable person would have determined penalty imposed to be appropriate. MacFarlane v. Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control (1959) 51 Cal. 2d 84, 91, 330 P.2d 769 ; Weiss v. State Bd. of Equalization (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 772, 775, 256 P.2d 1 ; Marino v. Los Angeles (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 461, 464, 110 Cal. Rptr. 45 ; Wingfield v. Fielder (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 209, 221, 105 Cal. Rptr. 619

Absent abuse of discretion by administrative agency, neither appellate nor trial court is free to substitute its discretion for that of agency concerning degree of punishment imposed. Fout v. State Personnel Bd. (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 817, 821, 186 Cal. Rptr. 452 ; Dresser v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 506, 518, 181 Cal. Rptr. 797

In considering whether or not abuse of discretion occurred in discipline of public employee, overriding consideration is extent to which employee's conduct resulted in, or if repeated is likely to result in, harm to public service; other factors include circumstances surrounding misconduct and likelihood of recurrence. Fout v. State Personnel Bd. (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 817, 821, 186 Cal. Rptr. 452

Agency is entitled to consider evidence outside record when setting penalty. Ralph Williams Ford v. New Car Dealers Policy & Appeals Bd. (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 494, 500, 106 Cal. Rptr. 340 , cert. denied, 414 U.S. 974, 94 S. Ct. 283, 38 L. Ed. 2d 217

Court is empowered to find abuse of discretion if penalty is grossly disproportionate to cause for discipline. Turner v. Hatch (1971) 14 Cal. App. 3d 759, 765-766, 92 Cal. Rptr. 643 ; Carroll v. Kern County Civil Serv. Comm'n (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 727, 733, 90 Cal. Rptr. 128

[10] Questions of Law

When facts before administrative agency are uncontradicted, trial court's determination of their legal effect involves solely question of law. Apte v. Regents of University of California (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1084, 1093, 244 Cal. Rptr. 312

[11] Review of Fairness of Trial

Prejudice on part of agency members is question in review proceeding only if raised in administrative proceeding. Thompson v. City of Long Beach (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 235, 243, 259 P.2d 649

Prejudice of fewer than majority of agency members does not affect petitioner's interests. Thompson v. City of Long Beach (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 235, 243, 259 P.2d 649

Nature of review on question whether petitioner received fair administrative trial. English v. City of Long Beach (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 155, 158-160, 217 P.2d 22

Unlikelihood that challenged agency member would disqualify himself or be found disqualified does not excuse failure to present question of prejudice to agency. Caminetti v. Pac. Mutual L. Ins. Co. (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 344, 366, 139 P.2d 908 ; Barkin v. Board of Optometry (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 714, 719, 75 Cal. Rptr. 337

Administrative officer is not subject to removal from case because of prejudice if his absence would render agency unable to function. Caminetti v. Pac. Mutual L. Ins. Co. (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 344, 366, 139 P.2d 908

Even if chief of public agency which instituted administrative action had conflict of interest under Gov. Code §§ 87100 and 87103, her signing of revised accusation against petitioners is insufficient grounds for disturbing administrative decision. Citizens Capital Corporation v. Cathcart (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 793, 797-799, 801, 186 Cal. Rptr. 515

Prejudice on part of agency members is question in review proceeding despite failure to raise it in administrative proceeding if question could not be presented to agency as practical matter. Barkin v. Board of Optometry (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 714, 719, 75 Cal. Rptr. 337

[b] Constitutional Considerations

Right to procedural protection depends on balance between individual's interest in avoiding grievous loss and government's interest in summary adjudication. Morrissey v. Brewer (1972) 408 U.S. 471, 480, 92 S. Ct. 2593, 33 L. Ed. 2d 484 ; Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 144-146, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242

Opportunity for hearing is generally required to precede government deprivation of fundamental right instead of following it. Fuentes v. Shevin (1972) 407 U.S. 67, 80, 92 S. Ct. 1983, 32 L. Ed. 2d 556 ; Blair v. Pitchess (1971) 96 Cal. Rptr. 42, 486 P.2d 1242

Procedural requirements for hearing varies according to government function, character of private interest, and nature of later proceedings. Boddie v. Connecticut (1971) 401 U.S. 371, 378, 91 S. Ct. 780, 28 L. Ed. 2d 113 ; McCullough v. Terzian (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 647, 653-655, 87 Cal. Rptr. 195, 470 P.2d 4

Availability of independent judicial review salvages otherwise unconstitutional administrative procedure. Lichter v. United States (1947) 334 U.S. 742, 791-792, 68 S. Ct. 1294, 92 L. Ed. 1694 ; Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 148 n.5, 148 n.6, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242

Determination whether right is fundamental depends on its effect in human terms and its importance to individual in life situation. Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 144, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242

Initiation of disciplinary proceedings two years and nine months after public employee's misconduct is not denial of due process when, by employee's admission, misconduct also amounted to violation of criminal statute which contained three-year limitations period. Nicolini v. County of Tuolumne (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 619, 632-633, 235 Cal. Rptr. 559

Probationary public employee terminated after hearing was not denied due process when he had been represented by counsel and had opportunity to confront witnesses and present evidence in defense but chose not to, and instead admitted charges of misconduct and only offered evidence in mitigation of penalty. Lukin v. City and County of San Francisco (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 807, 814, 232 Cal. Rptr. 1

Due process does not entitle assistant professor to full adversary hearing on denial of tenure; nontenured professor has no cognizable property interest in renewal of employment and thus denial of tenure does not deprive him of any liberty or property interest sufficient to require formal hearing under due process clause. King v. Regents of University of California (1982) 138 Cal. App. 3d 812, 815, 189 Cal. Rptr. 189

Statutory omission of prior hearing is no deprivation of due process if person has right to judicial hearing before suffering actual deprivation of fundamental right. C.V.C. v. Superior Court (1973) 29 Cal. App. 3d 909, 918, 106 Cal. Rptr. 123

Applicability of exclusionary rule to administrative trials. Emslie v. State Bar of California (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 210, 226-230, 113 Cal. Rptr. 175, 520 P.2d 991

Excludability of evidence obtained by entrapment. Patty v. Board of Medical Examiners (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 356, 367, 107 Cal. Rptr. 473, 508 P.2d 1121

[12] Validity of Enabling Act

Validity of law authorizing performance of ministerial act is issue in traditional mandate proceeding for writ to compel performance of act. California Educational Facilities Authority v. Priest (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 593, 598, 116 Cal. Rptr. 361, 526 P.2d 513

Validity of substantive portions of enabling act is issue in mandate proceeding for review of administrative decision. H.W. Rohl Co. v. County of San Diego (1963) 212 Cal. App. 2d 707, 711, 28 Cal. Rptr. 196 (not reviewable); Floresta, Inc. v. City Council of San Leandro (1961) 190 Cal. App. 2d 599, 611-612, 12 Cal. Rptr. 182

§ 474C.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter provides a discussion of procedures for seeking mandate relief of administrative agency decisions. The legal background discussion in Part II includes:

- Subpart A, addressing the procedural aspects of seeking administrative mandate relief [see §§ 474C.10 -474C.26].

- Subpart B discusses procedural aspects of seeking ordinary mandate relief [see §§ 474C.40 -474C.41].

- Subpart C briefly sets forth considerations for seeking appellate review of mandate decisions [see §§ 474C.50 -474C.53].

Part V includes the following forms:

- Petition for Administrative Mandate in the superior court [see §§ 474C.90, 474C.91], or appellate court [see § 474C.92].

- Alternative Writ of Administrative Mandate or order directing its issuance [see §§ 474C.93 -474C.95].

- Notice of Motion for Peremptory Writ of Administrative Mandate in superior court [see § 474C.96], and appellate court [see § 474C.97].

- Order for preparing and filing administrative record [see § 474C.98].

- Orders concerning stay of administrative decision pending review [see §§ 474C.99, 474C.100].

- Demurrer to Petition for Administrative Mandate [see § 474C.101], notice of hearing on demurrer [ see § 474C.102], answer to petition [see § 474C.103], and replication to answer [see § 474C.104].

- Judgment granting or denying relief on Petition for Administrative Mandate [see §§ 474C.105 -474C.107].

- Peremptory Writ of Administrative Mandate [see § 474C.108].

- Petition for Writ of Ordinary Mandate [see § 474C.109].

Chapter 474C PROCEDURES IN REVIEWING AGENCY DECISIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Administrative Mandate

41A-474C California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 474C.10

§ 474C.10 Governing Law

[1] Petitioner's Choice of Mandate Procedures

Two statutory procedures are used to initiate mandate proceedings: (1) the alternative writ procedure; and (2) the noticed application procedure. The petitioner may choose to follow either procedure. In the alternative writ procedure, the proceedings are initiated by the filing of a petition and the issuance of an alternative writ commanding the party to whom it is directed (the respondent) to either perform a specified act or to show cause before the court at a specified time and place why he or she has not done so [Code Civ. Proc. § 1087; see [2], below; see also § 474C.15[1]]. In the noticed application procedure, the proceedings are initiated by filing a petition for a peremptory writ. No alternative writ is issued, but the petitioner makes a noticed motion for issuance of a peremptory writ [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1088, 1088.5; see [3], below]. A peremptory writ is one that commands the performance of a specified act and does not give the respondent the option to show cause why he or she has not done so [Code Civ. Proc. § 1087].

[2] Alternative Writ Procedure

The alternative writ procedure is the most commonly used method for initiating mandate proceedings. Under this procedure, the attorney for the petitioner prepares the petition, the alternative writ, and an order for issuance of the alternative writ. Unless the court makes an ex parte order that the writ be issued without service, a copy of the petition must be served on the respondent and proof of service must be filed with the petition [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1107 (for good cause, court may grant writ ex parte); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1088 (when application is made without notice to adverse party, court may issue alternative writ only)].

The alternative writ is deposited with the clerk at the time the petition is filed. Typically, the alternative writ remains deposited but not filed for five days after the petition and proof of service of the petition are filed. Within those five days, the respondent may serve on the petitioner, and file with the court, points and authorities in opposition to the granting of the writ [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107]. After the five days have expired, the court examines the papers on file and either grants or denies the petition for the alternative writ [see City of Culver City v. State Bd. of Equalization (1972)29 Cal. App. 3d 404, 412, 105 Cal. Rptr. 602 (failure to wait five days deprives court of jurisdiction to issue alternative writ)].

Except when otherwise ordered by the court, the alternative writ must be served in the same manner as a summons in a civil action [Code Civ. Proc. § 1096; see Code Civ. Proc. § 413.10 et seq. (service of summons in civil actions)]. The alternative writ may be made returnable (i.e., it may specify that a hearing on the writ will be held) at any time [Code Civ. Proc. § 1108]. After the hearing has been held, the court will make an order either granting or denying the alternative writ. For further discussion of the alternative writ procedure, see §§ 474C.13 -474C.16. For forms of alternative writs, see §§ 474C.93 -474C.95.

[3] Noticed Application Procedure

Under the noticed application procedure, the petitioner seeks a peremptory writ without first seeking an alternative writ [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1088.5 (procedure when no alternative writ sought)]. Although this procedure is used less frequently than the alternative writ procedure, it is preferred by some trial courts [see San Diego Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Div. II, Rule 8.1]. Under the noticed application procedure, the petitioner files a petition with the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1088.5]. At the time the petition is filed (or at any time thereafter), the petitioner gives notice of a motion for a peremptory writ [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1003 (an application for an order is a motion), 1088 (application for peremptory writ on "due notice"), 1094 (noticed motion for judgment on peremptory writ); for noticed motion procedure in civil cases, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders]. For further discussion of the noticed application procedure, see § 474C.17. For a form of notice of motion for issuance of a peremptory writ of mandate, see § 474C.96.

Chapter 474C PROCEDURES IN REVIEWING AGENCY DECISIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Administrative Mandate

41A-474C California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 474C.11

§ 474C.11 Availability of Administrative Mandate

[1] Finality of Administrative Decision

Decisions or orders of administrative agencies must be final before they can be reviewed in administrative mandate proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a); Peter R. Gadd, Inc. v. Workman (1927) 200 Cal. 384, 388-389, 253 P. 700 ; Governing Board v. Commission on Professional Competence (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 324, 329, 217 Cal. Rptr. 457] . Finality is generally determined by reference to the statute or regulation governing judicial review of the agency decision. When no statute directly applies, however, finality must be determined under applicable case law. For a general consideration of the requirement of finality, with rules for determining when an administrative decision is final for purposes of seeking judicial review, see Ch. 474A, Timing of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions .

[2] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

Closely related to the requirement of finality is the requirement that the petitioner exhaust his or her administrative remedies before seeking judicial relief [see Hittle v. Santa Barbara County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 374, 384, 216 Cal. Rptr. 733, 703 P.2d 73 ; Ralph's Chrysler-Plymouth v. New Car Dealers Policy & Appeals Bd. (1973) 8 Cal. 3d 792, 794, 106 Cal. Rptr. 169, 505 P.2d 1009] . Exhaustion of administrative remedies is required except when administrative remedies are unavailable or inadequate [Tiernan v. Trustees of Cal. State University & Colleges (1982) 33 Cal. 3d 211, 217, 188 Cal. Rptr. 115, 655 P.2d 317 ; see Roth v. City of Los Angeles (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 679, 686-687, 126 Cal. Rptr. 163 (failure to attend hearing constituted failure to exhaust administrative remedies)], or when pursuit of those remedies would be futile [Huntington Beach Police Officers' Assn. v. City of Huntington Beach (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 492, 498-499, 129 Cal. Rptr. 893 (exhaustion is not required when agency has made it clear that its ruling would be adverse to petitioner)]. For a general consideration of the requirement that administrative remedies be exhausted before judicial review is sought, see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions . For a detailed discussion of the exhaustion requirement, and exceptions to it, see Ch. 474A, Timing of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions .

[3] Time Limitations

Judicial review of an administrative decision must be sought within the applicable limitations period [Barlow v. City Council of Inglewood (1948) 32 Cal. 2d 688, 697, 197 P.2d 721 ; Sinetos v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 1172, 1175, 207 Cal. Rptr. 207] . Statutes governing review of specific types of administrative actions set forth time periods within which mandate proceedings must be brought. For example, when the action relates to a claim of entitlement to compensation under a statute imposing monetary liability on an administrative entity, the three-year period prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 338(a) governs the proceeding [Raymond v. Christian (1937) 24 Cal. App. 2d 92, 113-116, 74 P.2d 536 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 338(a) (action on a liability created by statute, other than a penalty or forfeiture)]. If no other statute applies, the four-year period set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 343 governs an action to review an administrative action or decision [Hittle v. Santa Barbara County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 374, 386, 216 Cal. Rptr. 733, 703 P.2d 73 ; Valvo v. University of Southern California (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 887, 894, 136 Cal. Rptr. 865 ; Allen v. Humboldt County Board of Supervisors (1963) 220 Cal. App. 2d 877, 884-885, 34 Cal. Rptr. 232 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 343 (action for "relief not hereinbefore provided")].

Mandate proceedings are generally barred if not commenced within the applicable limitations period [Barlow v. City Council of Inglewood (1948)32 Cal. 2d 688, 697, 197 P.2d 721 ; Sinetos v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 1172, 1175, 207 Cal. Rptr. 207 ; Kupka v. Board of Administration (1981) 122 Cal. App. 3d 791, 794, 176 Cal. Rptr. 214] . For a general consideration of the limitations periods for administrative mandate, together with applicable periods for specific actions and agencies, see Ch. 474A, Timing of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions .

When a superior court has ruled adversely on the merits of a petition for mandate, the rule of res judicata bars a subsequent filing for the same writ in either the superior court or an appellate court [Ellenberger v. City of Oakland (1955) 136 Cal. App. 2d 6, 7, 288 P.2d 138 ; Cohn v. Isensee (1920) 45 Cal. App. 509, 510-511, 188 P. 278] . For example, when a petitioner seeking to set aside an agency decision later voluntarily dismissed the administrative mandamus petition before trial, the dismissal was held to have the legal effect of making the agency decision final for purposes of issue preclusion and precluding a lawsuit for damages based on the agency decision [Mola Development Corp. v. City of Seal Beach (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 405, 407, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 103] .

The defense of res judicata is waived, however, unless raised by the party relying on it [Vinot Enterprises, Inc. v. City of Pasadena (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 246, 251 n.1, 100 Cal. Rptr. 217] . Thus, a second application may be considered on the merits if the respondent fails to assert a judgment in a prior proceeding [Vinot Enterprises, Inc. v. City of Pasadena (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 246, 251 n.1, 100 Cal. Rptr. 217] .

Additionally, when the superior court has adversely disposed of a petition on some grounds other than the merits, the rule of res judicata does not preclude a second proceeding either in an appellate court or in another superior court [Hagan v. Superior Court (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 767, 770, 22 Cal. Rptr. 206, 371 P.2d 982] .

In the interests of the orderly administration of justice, the court in which a second petition is filed may refuse to consider repetitive applications for mandate in the absence of unusual or changed circumstances [Hagan v. Superior Court (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 767, 770-771, 22 Cal. Rptr. 206, 371 P.2d 982 ; People v. Municipal Court (1971) 14 Cal. App. 3d 362, 365, 92 Cal. Rptr. 248 ; Code Civ. Proc. § 1086 (writ of mandate available when no other plain, speedy, and adequate remedy exists)].

For forms of a petition for writ of mandate in superior court to review administrative decisions, see §§ 474C.90, 474C.91.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Administrative Mandate

41A-474C California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 474C.12

§ 474C.12 Jurisdiction and Venue

[1] Concurrent Jurisdiction of Superior Courts and Appellate Courts

The Supreme Court of California, the California Court of Appeal, and the superior courts all have original jurisdiction in mandate proceedings [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. § 1085; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.490(a)]. Most petitions for writs of mandate are filed in the superior court, however, because the superior courts are in a better position to determine disputed questions of fact than the appellate courts [Roma Macaroni Factory v. Giambastiani (1933) 219 Cal. 435, 436-437, 27 P.2d 371 ; County of Los Angeles v. Nesvig (1965) 231 Cal. App. 2d 600, 602, 41 Cal. Rptr. 916] , and the appellate courts, as a matter of policy, decline to exercise their original jurisdiction except in extraordinary cases [Adams v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 146, 150 n.7, 113 Cal. Rptr. 145, 520 P.2d 961] .

[2] Exercise or Nonexercise of Original Jurisdiction by Appellate Courts

Although the Court of Appeal and the Supreme Court possess original jurisdiction in mandate proceedings [see [1], above], they will grant mandate relief only when the issues presented are of great importance and must be resolved promptly [Adams v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 146, 150 n.7, 113 Cal. Rptr. 145, 520 P.2d 961 ; Mooney v. Pickett (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 669, 674-675, 94 Cal. Rptr. 279, 483 P.2d 1231 ; County of Sacramento v. Hickman (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 841, 845, 59 Cal. Rptr. 609, 428 P.2d 593] . Appellate courts typically refuse to entertain mandate proceedings if the proceedings could just as well have been instituted in the superior court [Cohen v. Superior Court (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 268, 270, 72 Cal. Rptr. 814 ; County of Sacramento v. Hastings (1955) 132 Cal. App. 2d 419, 421, 282 P.2d 100] . Recognizing that original proceedings in appellate courts are the exception rather than the rule, the California Rules of Court require that if a petition for mandate (or certiorari or prohibition) might lawfully have been made to a lower court in the first instance, the petition must set forth the circumstances that, in the opinion of the petitioner, render it proper that the writ should originally issue from the reviewing court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.490(a)].

Circumstances in which appellate courts have chosen to exercise their original jurisdiction include the following:

- Cases involving the qualification of ballot initiatives [Farley v. Healey (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 325, 326-327, 62 Cal. Rptr. 26, 431 P.2d 650 ; Perry v. Jordan (1949) 34 Cal. 2d 87, 90-91, 207 P.2d 47] .

- The legality of property assessment procedures [State Board of Equalization v. Watson (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 307, 310-311, 66 Cal. Rptr. 377, 437 P.2d 761 ; County of Sacramento v. Hickman (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 841, 845, 59 Cal. Rptr. 609, 428 P.2d 593] .

- The constitutionality of statutes with widespread and immediate impact on the public [San Francisco Unified School Dist. v. Johnson (1971) 3 Cal. 3d 937, 944-945, 92 Cal. Rptr. 309, 479 P.2d 669 (anti-busing statute); Westbrook v. Mihaly (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 765, 773, 87 Cal. Rptr. 839, 471 P.2d 487 (statute requiring two-thirds vote to approve bond issues)].

The appellate courts will not exercise original mandate jurisdiction if another mandate proceeding is pending in the superior court [People v. County of Tulare (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 317, 320, 289 P.2d 11 ; W.R. Grace & Co. v. Cal. Emp. Com. (1944) 24 Cal. 2d 720, 727, 151 P.2d 215 ; Irvine v. Gibson (1941) 19 Cal. 2d 14, 16, 118 P.2d 812] , although the proceedings in the lower court must be between the same parties and on the same cause of action to bar similar proceedings in the higher court [Perry v. Jordan (1949) 34 Cal. 2d 87, 90, 207 P.2d 47] .

If the appellate court declines to exercise mandate jurisdiction, it ordinarily will deny the petition without prejudice to the filing of a subsequent petition in a lower court [Friends of Mammoth v. Board of Supervisors (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 247, 268, 104 Cal. Rptr. 761, 502 P.2d 1049 ; County of Sacramento v. Hastings (1955) 132 Cal. App. 2d 419, 421, 282 P.2d 100] . Denial of a writ of mandate without opinion is not res judicata on the legal issues presented by the application unless the sole possible ground of denial was that the court acted on the merits, or unless it affirmatively appears that the denial was intended to be on the merits [Friends of Mammoth v. Board of Supervisors (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 247, 268, 104 Cal. Rptr. 761, 502 P.2d 1049 ; Hagan v. Superior Court (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 767, 770, 22 Cal. Rptr. 206, 371 P.2d 982] . If the appellate court issues an alternative writ, however, the issuance constitutes a determination that the case is a proper one for exercise of its jurisdiction [Westbrook v. Mihaly (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 765, 773, 87 Cal. Rptr. 839, 471 P.2d 487 ; County of Sacramento v. Hickman (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 841, 845, 59 Cal. Rptr. 609, 428 P.2d 593] .

However, due process of law does not provide litigants a second opportunity for judicial review in the superior court when the California Supreme court has summarily denied a petition for writ of mandate to challenge a decision of the State Energy Resources Conservation and Development Commission [Santa Teresa Citizen Action Group v. State Energy Resources Conservation and Development Commission (2003) 105 Cal. App. 4th 1441, 1449-1450, 130 Cal. Rptr. 2d 392] .

For a form of a petition for writ of mandate to file in the Court of Appeal or the Supreme Court, see § 474C.92.

[3] Venue

Unless a more specific venue statute applies, venue in mandamus proceedings against state agencies and public entities is governed by the same venue statutes as other civil actions [Code Civ. Proc. § 1109 (venue statutes in code of civil procedure apply to mandamus proceedings); Regents of the University of California v. Superior Court (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 529, 534-535, 91 Cal. Rptr. 57, 476 P. 2d 457 ; Harris v. Alcoholic Bev. Control Appeals Board (1961) 197 Cal. App.2d 759, 765, 18 Cal. Rptr. 151] . These venue statutes include Code Civ. Proc. § 393(a) (actions to recover statutory penalties or forfeitures), Code Civ. Proc. § 393(b) (actions against public officers), and Code Civ. Proc. § 401 (when proper venue for actions against state agencies is located in Sacramento county, venue is proper in any county in which state attorney general has an office). More specific venue statutes include venue for actions against the board of nursing examiners [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2714 (venue is proper in counties in which Board has offices including Sacramento, San Francisco, and Los Angeles)], and venue for actions against the board of vocational nurse and psychiatric technicians examiners [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2853 (venue is proper in counties in which Board has offices including Sacramento, San Francisco, and Los Angeles)].

The county in which the "cause of action arose" is the proper county for the trial of an administrative mandate action [Code Civ. Proc. § 393(1)(b); Duval v. Contractors State License Board (1954) 125 Cal. App. 2d 532, 535,271 P.2d 194 ; Sutter Union High School District v. Superior Court (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 795, 797-798, 190 Cal. Rptr. 182 (venue for a teacher's challenge to dismissal from employment was the county in which the employing school district was located)]. The proper venue under Code Civ. Proc. § 393(b) (county in which cause of action arose) for a lawsuit challenging the alleged improper expenditure of public tax funds to remove a public university teacher was the county in which the expenditures occurred not the county in which the university had its headquarters [Regents of the University of California v. Superior court (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 529, 538-539, 91 Cal. Rptr. 57, 476 P. 2d 457] . The proper venue under Code Civ. Proc. § 393(b) (county in which cause of action arose) for a lawsuit challenging the validity of an environmental impact report prepared by a regional transit agency for construction of a toll road was the county in which the toll road would be constructed notwithstanding that the transit agency was located in an adjacent county and that the lawsuit sought to enforce public rights [California State Parks Foundation v. Superior Court (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 826, 832-833, 58 Cal. Rptr. 3d 715] . The proper venue under Code Civ. Proc. § 393(b) (county in which cause of action arose) for a lawsuit challenging proceedings before the New Motor Vehicle Board to revoke a temporary permit to sell new motor vehicles was the county in which the car dealer's business was located [Tharp v. Superior Court (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 496, 501-503]. In license revocation cases, the courts have held that the cause of action "arises" in the county in which the licensee carries on his or her business or profession and in which he or she will be hurt by enforcement of the order or revocation [Duval v. Contractors State License Board (1954) 125 Cal. App. 2d 532, 533-536, 271 P.2d 194 (proper venue for mandate action to set aside revocation of contractor's license is county in which contractor's business was situated); Cecil v. Superior Court (1943) 59 Cal. App. 2d 793, 799, 140 P.2d 125 (proper venue for mandate proceeding to set aside revocation of milk distributor's license is county in which milk distributor carried on business)]. In cases involving the dismissal of public employees, the proper county for trial is the county in which the dismissal takes place; in other words, the county in which the employee was employed immediately before the dismissal [Lynch v. Superior Court (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 929, 931-933, 86 Cal. Rptr. 925] .

There is no indication in the cases that venue also attaches to the county in which acts forming the basis for the administrative proceedings (such as the acts constituting grounds for revocation of a license) are performed [Lynch v. Superior Court (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 929, 932, 86 Cal. Rptr. 925] . In license revocation cases, the courts are solely concerned with the question of the licensee's business address or (if there is more than one address) with the headquarters or center of the licensee's operations [Lynch v. Superior Court (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 929, 932, 86 Cal. Rptr. 925] . Similarly, in cases of dismissal from public employment, the county in which the dismissal takes place determines the venue of a subsequent mandate action, even if part of the employee's duties were performed in other counties [Lynch v. Superior Court (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 929, 931-933, 86 Cal. Rptr. 925] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Administrative Mandate

§ 474C.13 Petition for Writ of Mandate in Superior Court

[1] General Pleading Rules

Except as otherwise provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1063 et seq., mandate proceedings are subject to the same rules of pleading that apply in other civil actions [Code Civ. Proc. § 1109; Gong v. City of Fremont (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 568, 573, 58 Cal. Rptr. 664] . Accordingly, a petition for a writ of mandate must allege specific facts showing entitlement to relief [Gong v. City of Fremont (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 568, 573, 58 Cal. Rptr. 664] . If it does not allege such facts, the petition is subject to general demurrer or summary denial [Gong v. City of Fremont (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 568, 573, 58 Cal. Rptr. 664] .

All papers filed in mandate proceedings in the superior court must comply with the rules of court for the superior court [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.3 ("papers" includes all documents, excepted exhibits or copies of documents, which are offered for filing in any case in the superior courts)]. Under these rules, the following must be set forth beneath the number of the case:

- The nature of the paper [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(6)].
- The character of the action or proceeding [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(6)].
- The date, time, and location, if ascertainable, of any scheduled hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110(b)(1)].
- The nature or title of any attached document other than an exhibit [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110(b)(2)].
- The trial date, if set [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110(b)(4)].

For forms of a petition for writ of mandate that may be filed in the superior court, see §§ 474C.90 -474C.91 and

[2] Parties

The parties to a mandate proceeding are typically referred to as the "petitioner," the "respondent," and the "real party in interest." The "petitioner" is the person who seeks the issuance of the writ. To petition for a writ of mandate, a person must be "beneficially interested" in the outcome of the proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086]. The "respondent" is the administrative agency that made the challenged order or decision and that has authority to set it aside. The agency itself, and not any officer or employee of the agency, should be named as the respondent, even when officers of the agency are required by law to be served [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1107 (service on presiding officer, secretary, or majority of members); State of California v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 255, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281 (improper to name State of California and employees of California Coastal Zone Conservation Commission as respondents, since only Commission had power to set aside decision)]. Similarly, the particular agency that rendered the decision, and not a department of which the agency is a part, should be named as the respondent [State of California v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 255, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281] . The petitioner's failure to name the California Coastal Commission as a party to a mandate action brought against a county board of supervisors was a failure to join an indispensable party under Code Civ. Proc. § 389. This is because the Commission held a hearing and issued a decision granting the building permit that was challenged in the mandate action for failure to prepare an environmental impact report under CEQA [Pub. Res. Code § 21000 et seq.] legislation [Kaczorowski v. Mendocino County Board of Supervisors (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 564, 566-567, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 14] . A writ of mandate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 (ordinary mandate) must be brought against the governmental body that took the action challenged in the mandate proceeding [Sacramento County Alliance of Law Enforcement v. County of Sacramento (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 1012, 1020-1021, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 202 (denial of petition for writ of mandate affirmed on appeal because petitioners erroneously named county as respondent, and they were required to name county civil service commission as proper party respondent)].

Members of the public have standing under the public trust doctrine to challenge harm to the public trust related to wildlife including raptors and other birds allegedly harmed by wind turbines [Center for Biological Diversity v. FPL Group, Inc. (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 1349, 1364-1366, 83 Cal. Rptr. 3d 588]. However, members of the public seeking to challenge harm to the public trust must file a lawsuit against the responsible public agencies, the County of Alameda, and the California Department of Fish and Game, which are charged with enforcing the public trust. They may not file a lawsuit against the operators of the wind turbines that have allegedly caused the harm [Center for Biological Diversity v. FPL Group, Inc. (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 1349, 1366-1368, 83 Cal. Rptr. 3d 588]. Failure to join the County of Alameda under Code Civ. Proc. § 389 is grounds for dismissing the action. The county is a necessary party because it issued the wind turbine permits being challenged. Because the limitations period for challenging the issuance of the permits has expired, the county cannot be joined to the lawsuit and the county is considered to be an indispensable party [Center for Biological Diversity v. FPL Group, Inc. (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 1349, 1371-1373, 83 Cal. Rptr. 3d 588].

The California Court of Appeal held that the State Water Resources Control Board was not a proper defendant in a mandate proceeding brought by the city to challenge the adoption of a municipal storm sewer permit. The permit was adopted by the Regional Board, also a party to the lawsuit, and the state board's dismissal of an administrative appeal by the city meant that the regional board's decision adopting the permit with specified conditions was final for purposes of judicial review [City of Rancho Cucamonga v. Regional Water Quality Control Bd. (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 1377, 1383-1384, 38 Cal. Rptr. 3d 450] . In another case, a county Department of Environmental Health was not a necessary party under Code Civ. Proc. § 389 to an administrative mandamus proceeding to challenge an agreement for a municipal water district to provide treated wastewater to a trucking company for delivery to a landfill [Riverwatch v. Olivenhain Municipal Water District (2009) 170 Cal. App. 4th 1186, 1215-1215, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 625] .

A "real party in interest" is any person (other than a petitioner or a respondent) whose interests would be directly affected by the outcome of the proceeding [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.490(a); see Sierra Club, Inc. v. California Coastal Com. (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 495, 501-502, 157 Cal. Rptr. 190 (developer of real estate project was real party in interest when environmental group petitioned for writ of mandate to set aside permit for project)]. When the petition seeks relief that, if granted, would injure or affect the interest of a third person, the third person is an indispensable party to the proceedings and should be named as a real party in interest [Bank of California v. Superior Court (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 516, 522, 106 P.2d 879 ; Sierra Club, Inc. v. California Coastal Com. (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 495, 501, 157 Cal. Rptr. 190 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a) (compulsory joinder of parties)]. A petition that fails to name the real party in interest may be dismissed [Sierra Club, Inc. v. California Coastal Com. (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 495, 501-502, 157 Cal. Rptr. 190] , and a judgment rendered without proper joinder of a real party in interest may be vacated or set aside [Inland Counties Regional Center, Inc. v. Office of Administrative Hearings (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 700, 703-704, 238 Cal. Rptr. 422 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 663(1) (judgment or decree may be set aside when incorrect or erroneous legal basis)]. The failure to name a real party in interest cannot be cured by amending the petition to name the party after the statute of limitations has expired [Sierra Club, Inc. v. California Coastal Com. (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 495, 501-502, 157 Cal. Rptr. 190] .

The petition should not only name the real party in interest but should also set forth his or her capacity--that is, it should identify him or her as the real party in interest [Inland Counties Regional Center, Inc. v. Office of Administrative Hearings (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 700, 703-704, 238 Cal. Rptr. 422] . A real party in interest who has not been named in the petition may intervene in the proceedings at his or her own option [Code Civ. Proc. § 387(a); Timberidge Enterprises, Inc. v. City of Santa Rosa (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 873, 881, 150 Cal. Rptr. 606 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1109 (unless otherwise provided, Code Civ. Proc. § 307 et seq. constitute rules of practice in mandate and other special proceedings)]. For discussion of intervention, see § 474C.20.

The California Court of Appeal held that the Office of Administrative Hearings was neither a necessary nor an indispensable party under Code Civ. Proc. § 387(a) in a writ of administrative mandate proceeding brought by a minor (acting through a guardian ad litem) to challenge the decision of an administrative law judge (ALJ) provided by the Department of General Services Office of Administrative Hearings (OAH) [Hayes v. State Dep't of Developmental Services (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 1523, 1529, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 363] . The superior court had dismissed the petition for failure to join OAH as a party before the 90-day statute of limitations had expired. The minor sought to challenge the decision of the ALJ affirming the termination of funding for the educational part of the minor's special education services. The Court of Appeal reasoned that the OAH was a neutral judicial tribunal, that OAH was the representative of the department of developmental services, and that the only interest OAH would have in the court proceedings was in the upholding of the ALJ decision, and that interest could be more strongly presented by the funding agency, Alta. Finally OAH could not have collaterally attacked a court decision overturning an ALJ decision because as the department's representative, it would have been bound by a judgment against the department [Hayes v. State Dept. of Developmental Services (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 1523, 1531-1534, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 363] .

The Fourth District, Division 1, California Court of Appeal held that a hearing officer who heard an administrative appeal that affirmed a denial of a rent increase was not an indispensable party under Code Civ. Proc. § 389 in an administrative mandate proceeding brought by a mobile home park owner against a city and a city manufactured homes fair practices commission. The court reasoned that the hearing officer was an agent of the city and commission, the city and commission would defend the hearing officer's decision on judicial review, the commission could set aside the hearing officer's decision and require that a new hearing be held, and the ordinance does not require the hearing officer to be named as a respondent in the administrative mandate proceeding [TG Oceanside v. City of Oceanside (2007) 156 Cal. App. 4th 1355, 1368-1370, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 320].

Every petition for a writ of mandate in administrative mandate proceedings must contain allegations showing the petitioner's right to the relief requested:

1. The petition must allege facts showing the petitioner's beneficial interest in the subject matter of the action; in other words, that the petitioner has a right to the relief sought [Parker v. Bowron (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 344, 351-352, 254 P.2d 6] . This requirement is generally met by an allegation of the petitioner's status as a party to the administrative proceedings. If the petitioner is not a natural person, the petition should also establish the petitioner's capacity to bring suit as a legal entity [Parker v. Bowron (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 344, 351, 254 P.2d 6] .

2. The petition must allege facts showing the identity of the respondent agency. Counsel should note that the agency, and the members of a multi-member agency, are the proper parties in administrative mandate proceedings, rather than the state or the agency's employees [State of California v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 255, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281] .

3. The petition must allege facts showing that the case is a proper one for issuance of a writ under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5. This showing may be established by alleging the following:

(a) That the agency that rendered the decision had discretion to determine the relevant facts [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a)].

(b) That a hearing is required by law to be held for the determination of those facts [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a)].

(c) That evidence is required to be taken at the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a)].

(d) That the agency rendered a final decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a)].

(e) That the decision is invalid. Invalidity of the agency's decision may be shown by any of the following allegations:
(i) That the agency acted without or in excess of its jurisdiction [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b)].

(ii) That the petitioner did not receive a fair trial before the agency [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b)].

(iii) That the agency abused its discretion [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b)]. Abuse of discretion, in turn, may be shown by setting forth facts tending to show any of the following:
(A) That the agency failed to proceed in the manner required by law [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b)].

(B) That the agency's decision is not supported by the agency's findings [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b)].

(C) That the findings are not supported by the evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b)]. When the petitioner asserts that the agency's findings are not supported by the evidence, the petition must either allege the substance of the evidence or be accompanied by a transcript of the evidence, attached as an exhibit and incorporated by reference [Faulkner v. Cal. Toll Bridge Authority (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 317, 330-331, 253 P.2d 659] .

4. The petition must allege that the petitioner does not have plain, speedy, and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086].

For a form of a writ of mandate for use in an administrative proceeding and further discussion of the allegations, see § 474C.90. For an alternative form of the petition, see § 474C.91.

[4] Other Allegations of Error

The petition may also contain certain other allegations of administrative error. For example, it may allege that the agency improperly excluded evidence favorable to the petitioner, to his or her prejudice [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e) (court may remand case to agency when agency improperly excluded evidence)], or that the agency received incompetent evidence over the petitioner's timely and sufficient objection [Borror v. Department of Investment (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 531, 545, 92 Cal. Rptr. 525] . The petition may also allege that the agency based its decision on evidence not received at the hearing [English v. City of Long Beach (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 155, 159, 217 P.2d 22] , or that it incorrectly interpreted applicable law [Bodinson Mfg. Co. v. California E. Com. (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 321, 325-326, 109 P.2d 935] .

When appropriate, the petition may allege the existence of evidence that could not, in the exercise of reasonable diligence, have been produced at the hearing [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e)]. Evidence of this nature may be considered in cases in which the court is authorized to exercise its independent judgment on the evidence. When the substantial evidence test applies, however, the court must remand the case to the agency for reconsideration in light of the new evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e); for discussion of independent judgment and the substantial evidence test, see Ch. 474B, Standards in Reviewing Agency Decisions].

For forms and further discussion of these allegations, see §§ 474C.90, 474C.91.

[5] Allegations Showing Need for Temporary Stay

If the petitioner wants the court to stay the operation of the agency's decision, the petition should include allegations showing the need for a stay [see § 474C.90]. Although the court has discretion to grant or deny a stay, it may not grant a stay if it is satisfied that it would be against the public interest to do so [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(g), (h)(1)]. For a general consideration of stays of administrative decisions, see § 474C.18.

[6] Attorney's Fees

Although attorney's fees are not routinely recoverable in mandate proceedings [see Wilkerson v. City of Placentia (1981) 118 Cal. App. 3d 435, 444, 173 Cal. Rptr. 294 (attorney's fees not recoverable when writ of mandate sought recovery of lost wages and benefits but did not seek review of administrative decision)], some statutory provisions allow their recovery in specified circumstances. Gov. Code § 800 allows the recovery of fees when the administrative decision resulted from arbitrary or capricious action or conduct and when the complainant is personally obligated to pay the attorney's fees. For example, the dismissal of a deputy sheriff who had six and one-half years of excellent and unblemished service for a minor incident resulting from the deputy's refusal to fix a ticket was an arbitrary act by a public entity [Richardson v. Board of Supervisors (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 486, 496, 250 Cal. Rptr. 1 (affirming finding of arbitrary act, but remanding on issue of whether complainant was personally obligated to pay fees); see Abshear v. Teachers' Retirement Board (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1629, 1638-1639, 282 Cal. Rptr. 833 (teacher challenged Board's denial of disability allowance and recovered attorney's fees because Board's denial was arbitrary and capricious); A.B.C. Federation of Teachers v. A.B.C. Unified Sch. Dist. (1977) 75 Cal. App. 3d 332, 342-343, 142 Cal. Rptr. 111 (attorney's fees recoverable in mandate proceedings to review decision of school district); Redondo Beach Police Officers Assn. v. City of Redondo Beach (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 595, 597, 137 Cal. Rptr. 384 (attorney's fees recoverable in mandate proceedings to compel city to recognize bargaining unit); Olson v. Hickman (1972) 25 Cal.

App. 3d 920, 922-924, 102 Cal. Rptr. 248 (attorney's fees recoverable in mandate proceedings to review decision of local public agency)]. On the other hand, a denial of an application for disability retirement based on an erroneous interpretation of the law is not an arbitrary or capricious act, and the plaintiff-employee, though entitled to disability, was not entitled to attorney's fees under Gov. Code § 800 [Burdick v. Board of Retirement (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 1248, 1256, 246 Cal. Rptr. 555] .

An agency's action is arbitrary and capricious if it encompasses conduct that is not supported by a fair or substantial reason, shows a stubborn insistence on following unauthorized conduct, or amounts to a bad faith legal dispute [Halaco Engineering Co. v. South Central Coast Regional Com. (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 52, 79, 227 Cal. Rptr. 667, 720 P.2d 15 ; Abshear v. Teachers' Retirement Board (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1629, 1638, 282 Cal. Rptr. 833 (Board's decision denying disability allowance to teacher was not supported by a fair and substantial reason and therefore was arbitrary and capricious); Santos v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 537, 551-552, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 10 (DMV's suspension of driver's license without sufficient proof of facts justifying suspension coupled with DMV pursuit of case against driver with evidence showing the weakness of DMV proof without DMV's supplying easily obtainable missing information); but see American President Lines, Ltd. v. Zolin (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 910, 933-934, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 370 (erroneous decision by agency head was not in bad faith and therefore attorneys fees could not be awarded against agency under arbitrary and capricious standard)]. In such a case, the petitioner may collect reasonable attorney's fees computed at $100 per hour up to a total of $7,500 in addition to any other relief granted or costs awarded, but only if the petitioner is personally obligated to pay the fees [Gov. Code § 800; Richardson v. Board of Supervisors (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 486, 496-497, 250 Cal. Rptr. 1 ; A.B.C. Federation of Teachers v. A.B.C. Unified Sch. Dist. (1977) 75 Cal. App. 3d 332, 342-343, 142 Cal. Rptr. 111] .

Gov. Code § 800 applies when the administrative action is taken by any public entity under the Government Code or any other provision of state law [Gov. Code § 800; Olson v. Hickman (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 920, 923, 102 Cal. Rptr. 248] . It does not apply to decisions of the State Board of Control [Gov. Code § 800]. Fees are recoverable under Gov. Code § 800 only when there is an appeal of a decision based upon an administrative hearing [Kistler v. Redwoods Community College Dist. (1993) 15 Cal. App. 4th 1326, 1336-1337, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 417] .

Similarly, Code Civ. Proc. § 1028.5 grants the court discretion to award certain small businesses and licensees "reasonable litigation expenses" in any civil action between the businesses or licensees and state regulatory agencies when the court determines that the agency's action was undertaken without any substantial justification [Code Civ. Proc. § 1028.5(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1028.5(c) ("small business" defined), 1028.5(d) ("licensee" defined)]. For purposes of this rule, "reasonable litigation expenses" means any expenses not in excess of $7,500 that the judge finds were reasonably incurred in opposing the agency action, including court costs, expenses incurred in administrative proceedings, attorney's fees, and witness fees [Code Civ. Proc. § 1028.5(b)].

If attorney's fees or litigation expenses are recoverable under the facts of the case, the petition should include allegations showing that the petitioner is entitled to those fees or expenses. Failure to do so may result in waiver [see Rutherford v. Board of Trustees (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 775, 782, 112 Cal. Rptr. 560 (no error in denying fees under Gov. Code § 800 when petition did not allege that agency action was arbitrary or capricious or that petitioners were personally obligated to pay fees)].

For forms and further discussion of petitions for writ of mandate requesting attorney's fees and litigation costs, see §§ 474C.90, 474C.91.

[7] Prayer

The prayer should request all of the relief the petitioner seeks. This request will typically include an alternative writ and a peremptory writ. If a stay of the agency's decision is desired, the prayer should also request a temporary stay and an order to show cause why the stay should not be continued pending resolution of the judicial proceedings [see § 474C.18 for discu ssion of stay of agency decision]. If attorney's fees are recoverable [see [6], above], the prayer should also include a request for fees. For forms and further discussion of these prayers for relief, see §§ 474C.90, 474C.91.

[8] Verification

The petition must be verified unless the petitioner is a public entity [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086; see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 446, 2015.5 (verification requirements); see, e.g., Murrieta Valley Unified School Dist. v. County of Riverside (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1212, 1222-1223, 279 Cal. Rptr. 421 (public entity school district exempt from Code Civ. Proc. § 1086 verification requirement)]. The verification should state that the allegations of the petition are true and correct of the petitioner's own knowledge, since allegations on information and belief are hearsay and furnish no proof of the facts stated [Star Motor Imports, Inc. v. Superior Court (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 201, 203-205, 151 Cal. Rptr. 721] . If the petition is not verified or if the verification is defective, the court may permit the defect to be cured by amendment [Franchise Tax Bd. v. Municipal Court (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 377, 384, 119 Cal. Rptr. 552] . For forms and further discussion of verification, see §§ 474C.90, 474C.91.

[9] Points and Authorities

Although a memorandum of points and authorities must be filed and served with a petition for writ of mandate when the petition is filed in the California Court of Appeal or Supreme Court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.490(b); see § 474C.14[2]], neither the Code of Civil Procedure nor the California Rules of Court require points and authorities when the petition is filed in the superior court.

Whether or not a memorandum of points and authorities is required, it is advisable to include one. Points and authorities will strengthen the petition by specifying the legal grounds on which the writ is sought and by anticipating legal defenses that may be asserted by the respondent or by the real party in interest. Counsel should also note that the superior court has discretion to summarily deny a petition for a writ of mandate, and that a memorandum of points and authorities may help to avert that outcome [see Kingston v. Dept. of Motor Vehicles (1969) 271 Cal. App. 2d 549, 552, 76 Cal. Rptr. 614] . For model points and authorities in support of petitions in administrative mandate cases, see s California Points and Authorities, Ch. 150, Mandate and Prohibition , and Ch. 195, Public Administrative Law (Matthew Bender).

The petition and the memorandum of points and authorities must be served on the respondent and the real party in interest, if any, by delivering a copy to each person by personal service or by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107 (Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020 apply to service of petition), Code Civ. Proc. § 1109 (rules relating to civil actions applicable to and constitute rules of practice for special proceedings); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 307-1062.10 (civil actions); see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.10 (personal service), 415.30 (service of summons by mail), 1011 (service on attorney or party), 1013a (proof of service by mail)]. Personal service is customary, however, and usually preferable to service by mail. First, personal service eliminates doubt as to whether the respondent and the real party in interest have in fact received notice. Second, personal service eliminates the need for waiting 20 days after mailing to determine if the respondent and the real party in interest will acknowledge receipt of service [see Code Civ. Proc. § 415.30(d) (if person to whom copy of summons and complaint are mailed does not acknowledge receipt within 20 days, he or she is liable for reasonable expenses incurred thereafter in serving or attempting to serve the party by another method)]. Third, service by mail will extend the prescribed period of notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a) (prescribed period of notice and right or duty to do any act or make any response within any prescribed period is extended 5 days if place of address is within California, 10 days if outside California but within United States, and 20 days if outside United States); Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e) (time is extended by two court days when notice is served by facsimile transmission, express mail, or other overnight delivery service)]. For extended discussion of service of summons and complaint, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

When the respondent is a board or commission, service must be made on the presiding officer or secretary, or on a majority of the members [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107]. In most cases, proof of service must be filed with the petition [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107]. Thus, service must be completed before the petition is filed. Proof of service is not required, however, if the court grants the alternative writ ex parte [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1107 (in its discretion and for good cause, court may grant application ex parte, without notice or service of petition)]. Counsel should ascertain local court rules and practices before seeking a writ ex parte [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 9.36-9.41 (ex parte procedure)]. Further, proof of service need not be filed with the petition if no alternative writ is sought, although proof of service must be lodged with the court before a hearing or any other action by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1088.5; for further discussion of the noticed application procedure, see §§ 474C.10[3], 474C.17].

[11] New Trial Motion

A motion for a new trial can be made in an administrative mandamus proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5. This is because the new trial procedures [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 655-663.2 are made applicable by law [Code Civ. Proc. § 1110] to administrative mandamus proceedings. Further, a litigant can seek a readjudication of factual issues decided against the litigant. The litigant is required to file a motion for new trial in the trial court that adjudicated those factual issues. Failure to file a motion for a new trial precludes the court from readjudicating those factual issues. [Pollak v. State Personnel Board (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 1394, 1405-1406, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 39] .

41A-474C California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 474C.14

§ 474C.14 Petition for Writ of Mandate in Court of Appeal or Supreme Court

[1] Essential Allegations

The legal and factual basis for issuance of a writ of mandate in administrative mandate proceedings is the same whether the writ is issued by the superior court or a reviewing court. Thus, a petition for a writ of administrative mandate filed in the California Court of Appeal or the Supreme Court should contain the same allegations as a petition filed in the superior court [for discussion of essential allegations if petition is filed in superior court, see §§ 474C.13[3], 474C.90[5]]. However, the appellate courts will grant mandate relief only when the issues presented are of great public importance and must be resolved promptly [see Adams v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 146, 150 n.7, 113 Cal. Rptr. 145, 520 P.2d 961 ; Mooney v. Pickett (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 669, 674-675, 94 Cal. Rptr. 279, 483 P.2d 1231 ; County of Sacramento v. Hickman (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 841, 845, 59 Cal. Rptr. 609, 428 P.2d 593] , and will typically refuse to entertain mandate proceedings if the proceedings could just as well have been instituted in the superior court [Cohen v. Superior Court (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 268, 270, 72 Cal. Rptr. 814 ; County of Sacramento v. Hastings (1955) 132 Cal. App. 2d 419, 421, 282 P.2d 100] . Recognizing that original proceedings in appellate courts are the exception rather than the rule, the California Rules of Court require that, if a petition for mandate (or certiorari or prohibition) might lawfully have been made to a lower court in the first instance, the petition must set forth the circumstances that, in the opinion of the petitioner, render it proper that the writ should originally issue from the reviewing court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.490(b)(1); for rules governing the exercise or nonexercise of original jurisdiction by appellate courts, see § 474C.12[2]]. Additionally, if any board, officer, or tribunal in the discharge of duties of a public character is named as respondent, the petition must disclose the name of the real party in interest, if any, or the party whose interest would be directly affected by the proceeding [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.490(b)(2); for rules relating to real parties in interest, see § 474C.13[2]]. For a form of a petition for a writ of mandate in the Court of Appeal or Supreme Court, see § 474C.92.

[2] Points and Authorities

Although a memorandum of points and authorities is not always required to accompany a petition for writ of mandate filed in superior court [see § 474C.13[9]], a memorandum of points and authorities must be filed and served with a petition for writ of mandate when the petition is filed in the Court of Appeal or Supreme Court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule

8.490(b)(5); for model points and authorities in support of petitions in administrative mandate cases, see s California Points and Authorities, Ch. 150, Mandate and Prohibition].

[3] Method of Reproduction

A petition for writ of mandate may be reproduced by any process that produces a clear, black image of letter quality [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.204(b)(1)]. The petition must conform, as far as practicable, to the rules for briefs [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.40, 8.204]. Typewritten original copies and carbon copies may not be filed without the permission of the chief justice or the presiding justice, and will ordinarily be permitted only when the petitioner is without counsel and proceeding in forma pauperis, and all other typewritten brief smust be filed as photocopies [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 8.40, 8.204(b)].

[4] Case Number and Cover

A petition for a writ of mandate filed in the Supreme Court or the Court of Appeal must have a cover. The cover, so far as is practicable, should be colored red [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.40(b)]. In addition to the usual matters set forth in court papers, the cover must contain all of the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.204(b)]:

- The title of the case.
- The name, address, and telephone number of counsel for the petitioner.
- The name of the trial judge.
- The number of the case in the trial court, if any.
- The California State Bar membership number of the attorney filing the petition and of every attorney who joins in the petition.

For a model cover for a petition to an appellate court for a writ of mandate, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition , Form 8. For a form of a petition for a writ of mandate in the Court of Appeal or the Supreme Court, see § 474C.92.

[5] Copies

If the petition is filed in the Supreme Court, an original and thirteen copies must be filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.44(a)(1)]. If the petition is filed in the Court of Appeal, an original and four copies must be filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.44(b)(1)].

[6] Service

The petition and the memorandum of points and authorities must be served on the respondent and the real party in interest, if any, by delivering a copy to each person by personal service or by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107 (Code Civ. Proc. § 1010 et seq. applicable to service of petition), Code Civ. Proc. § 1109 (rules relating to civil actions applicable to and constitute rules of practice for special proceedings); see Code Civ. Proc. § 307 et seq. (rules governing civil actions generally); see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.10 (personal service), 415.30 (service of summons by mail), 1011 (service on attorney or party), 1013(a) (extension of time when service is by mail), (c), (e) (time extended by two court days when notice is served by facsimile transmission, express mail, or other overnight delivery service), 1013a (proof of service by mail)]. Personal service is customary, however, and usually preferable to service by mail [see § 474C.13[10]].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Administrative Mandate

41A-474C California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 474C.15

§ 474C.15 Alternative Writ of Mandate

[1] Nature of Alternative Writ

An alternative writ of mandate is a court order commanding the party to whom it is directed (the respondent) to perform a specified act, or to show cause before the court at a specified time and place why he or she has not done so [Code Civ. Proc. § 1087; see § 474C.10[2]]. When directed to an administrative agency, an alternative writ of mandate typically orders the agency to set aside a disputed order or decision, or to show cause why the order or decision was proper and should be sustained. The court will issue an alternative writ when the petition sufficiently alleges a cause of action that, if proven, could lead to the issuance of a peremptory writ [Save Oxnard Shores v. California Coastal Com. (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 140, 149, 224 Cal. Rptr. 425 ; for discussion of the peremptory writ, see § 474C.17]. An alternative writ is not a final judicial determination that the petitioner is entitled to relief, but rather a means for bringing the respondent into court [McPheeters v. Board of Medical Examiners (1947) 82 Cal. App. 2d 709, 716, 187 P.2d 116] . Its effect is to place the respondent on notice that the petitioner has made a sufficient showing to cast doubt on the validity of its decision [Save Oxnard Shores v. California Coastal Com. (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 140, 149, 224 Cal. Rptr. 425] . For a form of a petition for an alternative writ of mandate that may be filed in superior court, see § 474C.93. For a form that includes an order with the alternative writ, see § 474C.94.

The court may deny the alternative writ out of hand, even before notice has been given to the respondent or any opposition to the issuance of the writ has been registered [Kingston v. Dept. of Motor Vehicles (1969) 271 Cal. App. 2d 549, 552, 76 Cal. Rptr. 614] . Failure to deny a writ out of hand, however, does not constitute a final determination that the petitioner is entitled to relief. At any time after the alternative writ is issued, the court may determine that the petition is insufficient and that the writ should be denied [McPheeters v. Board of Medical Examiners (1947) 82 Cal. App. 2d 709, 716, 187 P.2d 116] . Denial of the writ is improper, however, if the facts alleged in the petition would, if true, entitle the petitioner to the issuance of a peremptory writ [Kingston v. Dept. of Motor Vehicles (1969) 271 Cal. App. 2d 549, 553-554, 76 Cal. Rptr. 614] .

[2] Writ Combined With Order Authorizing Issuance of Writ

In most counties, the alternative writ and the court's order authorizing issuance of the alternative writ appear in the same document [for a form, see § 474C.94]. In some counties, however, a separate order for issuance of the alternative writ is required. Local rules and practice should be ascertained before preparing the writ. When a separate order is required, counsel should prepare the alternative writ as set forth below and also prepare the separate order set forth in § 474C.95.

[3] Preparation and Presentation to Court

In the superior court, counsel for the petitioner customarily prepares the alternative writ. The writ should bear the same title, number, and names of the parties as the petition. Immediately below the number, it should specify the date, time, and location, if ascertainable, of any scheduled hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110(b)(2); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.3 ("papers" includes all documents, except exhibits or copies of documents, that are offered for filing in any case in the superior courts); see also § 474C.13[1]]. When the writ is sought from an appellate court the writ is generally prepared by the court itself [for jurisdiction of appellate courts to issue writs of mandate, see § 474C.12; for petition for writ of mandate in Court of Appeal or Supreme Court, see § 474C.92].

When the petition is filed in the superior court, the alternative writ should be presented to the court in chambers at the same time as the petition. Counsel should consult local rules and practice for the particular judge or department to which the writ should be presented. For forms of petitions that may be filed in superior court, see §§ 474C.93, 474C.94.

[4] Issuance of Writ

If satisfied that the facts stated in the petition are sufficient, the court is empowered to authorize issuance of the alternative writ ex parte [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107 (for good cause, court may grant application ex parte, without notice or service of petition)]; however, Code Civ. Proc. § 1107 permits the respondent and the real party in interest to serve and file points and authorities in opposition to the granting of the writ within five days after service and filing of the petition. Therefore, at least when the petition has been served before it is filed, the court customarily waits five days before granting or denying the writ. Although one division of the Court of Appeal has held that failure to wait five days after the petition is filed deprives the court of discretion to grant the alternative writ [City of Culver City v. State Bd. of Equalization (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 404, 412, 105 Cal. Rptr. 602] , the California Supreme Court has not ruled on the issue. Whether a particular court will grant the petition ex parte depends largely on local rules and practice, which should be consulted before proceeding.

Although the alternative writ is a judicial order [Code Civ. Proc. § 17(b)(6) ("writ" is order issued in name of court or judicial officer); Painter v. Berglund (1939) 31 Cal. App. 2d 63, 70, 87 P.2d 360] , the clerk customarily issues it, on order of the court, under the clerk's signature and the court's seal. Code Civ. Proc. § 1108 provides that the writ may be made returnable (i.e., a date may be set for a hearing on the writ) "at any time." In the usual case, however, the clerk will determine the return date.

[5] Notice

Unless the court, in its discretion and for good cause, grants the alternative writ ex parte [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1107; see also [4], above], proof of service of the petition must be filed with the petition [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1107]. Although the Code of Civil Procedure does not require the court to issue an order granting leave to file the petition without accompanying proof of service when it authorizes issuance of the alternative ex parte, counsel should always determine whether local court rules impose any such requirement.

[6] Service

Unless the court orders otherwise, the alternative writ must be served in the same manner as a summons in a civil action [Code Civ. Proc. § 1096; see Code Civ. Proc. § 413.10 et seq. (service of summons in civil actions); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1109 (Code Civ. Proc. § 307 et seq. constitute rules of practice in mandate and other special proceedings)]. Although either personal service or service by mail is permissible [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.10 (personal service), 415.30 (service by mail)], personal service is usually preferable [see § 474C.13[10]].

§ 474C.16 Separate Order for Issuance of Alternative Writ of Mandate

It is the local practice in some counties for the court order authorizing issuance of the alternative writ to be separate from the writ itself. Counsel should ascertain local rules and practice in this respect. If a separate order is required, the form set forth in § 474C.95 may be used, and the alternative writ set forth in § 474C.93 may be used as the alternative writ, with the appended court order set forth at the end of that form. Although this order is not required to be served on the respondent or the real party in interest, it is good practice to serve a courtesy copy with the petition and the alternative writ [for requirements service of petition and alternative writ, see §§ 474C.13[10], 474C.14[6], 474C.15[6]].

§ 474C.17 Notice of Motion for Peremptory Writ of Mandate

[1] Noticed Application Procedure

Instead of seeking an alternative writ of mandate as a preliminary step to the issuance of a peremptory writ after notice, the petitioner may move the court for issuance of a peremptory writ [Code Civ. Proc. § 1088.5; see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1003 (application for an order is a motion), 1088 (application for peremptory writ upon "due notice"), 1094 (noticed motion for judgment on peremptory writ); see § 474.15 for legal requirements governing alternative writ of mandate, and §§ 474C.93, 474C.94 for forms; see also Ch. 372, Motions and Orders for discussion of noticed motion procedure in civil cases generally]. When this procedure is followed, no alternative writ is requested or issued. Although the noticed application procedure is used less frequently than the alternative writ procedure, some courts prefer it [see, e.g., San Diego Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Div. II, Rule 8.1]; however, the appellate courts apparently do not follow this procedure [see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition , Comments to Form 13]. Although Code Civ. Proc. § 1088.5 provides that proof of service of the petition need not be filed with the petition when the noticed application procedure is used in a trial court, the California Rules of Court require that proof of service of the petition must be filed in all cases when the writ is sought in a reviewing court [Cal. Rules of Court, Rule 8.490(b)]. Thus, the rules are subject to the inference that the noticed application procedure is not to be used in appellate courts.

[2] Notice

The notice of motion may be filed at the same time as or any time after the petition is filed. Code Civ. Proc. § 1088 provides that the petitioner must give at least 10 days' notice of the motion. Code Civ. Proc. § 1089.5, however, gives the respondent 30 days after the petition is filed (or 30 days after a copy of the administrative record is received, if not filed with the petition) to answer or otherwise respond to the petition. Thus, notice should be sufficient to allow the respondent the necessary 30 days. Immediately below the number, the notice of motion should set forth the date, time, and location, if ascertainable, of any scheduled hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1120(b)(2); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.3 ("papers" includes all documents, except exhibits or copies of documents, that are offered for filing in any case in the superior courts); see also § 474C.13 [1]]. Proof of service of the petition need not be filed with the petition, although it must be lodged with the court before any hearing or other action by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1088.5].

[3] Points and Authorities

A party filing a notice of motion is required to file and serve a memorandum of points and authorities [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a)]. The absence of the memorandum may be construed by the court as an admission that the motion is not meritorious, and be cause for its denial [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a)].

[4] Service

Copies of the notice and petition must be served on the respondent and the real party in interest [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1088 (notice of motion must be served on each person against whom writ is sought), 1107 (petition must be served on respondent and real party in interest); see also Younger v. Jordan (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 757, 758-759, 269 P.2d 616 (real party in interest is indispensable party and must be served)]. When the noticed application procedure is used, service may be accomplished in the same manner as in an ordinary civil action [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1107, 1109 (rules relating to civil actions applicable to and constitute rules of practice for special proceedings); see Code Civ. Proc. § 307 et seq. (civil actions generally)]. The rules for service of summons in civil actions permit service to be by personal delivery or by mail [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.10 (personal service), 415.30 (service by mail)]. Personal service is customary, however, and is almost always preferable to service by mail [see discussion in § 474C.13[10]].

[5] Issuance of Peremptory Writ Without Alternative Writ in Appellate Court

Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1088, the court may issue a peremptory writ without first issuing an alternative writ. Code Civ. Proc. § 1088 provides that, if the application is on "due notice," the peremptory writ may be issued "in the first instance"--that is, without the issuance of an alternative writ. It further states that "notice of the application, when given, must be at least 10 days" [Code Civ. Proc. § 1088]. Pursuant to the authority of Code Civ. Proc. § 1088, the appellate courts have developed the practice of issuing peremptory writs without first issuing alternative writs [Palma v. U.S. Industrial Fasteners, Inc. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 171, 178, 203 Cal. Rptr. 626, 681 P.2d 893] . This procedure was once considered appropriate only when unusual circumstances required that the appellate court take immediate action [Palma v. U.S. Industrial Fasteners, Inc. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 171, 178, 203 Cal. Rptr. 626, 681 P.2d 893] . In recent years, the courts of appeal have increasingly resorted to issuing a peremptory writ in the first instance when it appears that (1) the petition and opposing papers on file adequately address the issues raised by the petition, (2) no factual dispute exists, and (3) the additional briefing following issuance of an alternative writ is unnecessary to the disposition of the petition [Palma v. U.S. Industrial Fasteners, Inc. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 171, 178, 203 Cal. Rptr. 626, 681 P.2d 893] .

More recently, the California Supreme Court has limited the circumstances under which a peremptory writ can be issued under Section 1088, stressing that the accelerated Palma procedure should be the exception, not the routine [Ng v. Superior Court (1992) 4 Cal. 4th 29, 35, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 856, 840 P.2d 961 ; Alexander v. Superior Court (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 1218, 1222-1223, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 397, 859 P.2d 96] . The Court stated that generally, the procedure should be used only when the petitioner's right to relief is so obvious that no purpose could reasonably be served by plenary consideration of the issue, such as when the right to relief is conceded or when the record demonstrates a clear error under well-settled principles of law and undisputed facts. Another situation justifying the use of the Palma procedure arises when an unusual urgency exists that requires acceleration of the normal process. Otherwise, the normal writ procedure, including issuance of an alternative writ, should be followed [Ng v. Superior Court (1992) 4 Cal. 4th 29, 35, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 856, 840 P.2d 961 ; Alexander v. Superior Court (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 1218, 1223, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 397, 859 P.2d 96] .

The procedure of issuing a peremptory writ in the first instance differs sharply from the usual procedure of first issuing an alternative writ. When an alternative writ is first issued, the respondent and the real party in interest, if any, have an opportunity to make a return, to file points and authorities, and to appear at the hearing in opposition to the petition. This opportunity is not afforded when the court issues a peremptory writ without first issuing an alternative writ. Recognizing this key difference, the Supreme Court held that a court may properly issue a peremptory writ without first issuing an alternative writ only when the respondent and/or real party in interest have notice that the petitioner is seeking or the court is considering the issuance of a peremptory writ under those circumstances [Palma v. U.S. Industrial Fasteners, Inc. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 171, 179-180, 203 Cal. Rptr. 626, 681 P.2d 893] . Adequate notice is not provided by merely serving the petition on the respondent and the real party in interest, since it is rare that a court will issue a peremptory writ without first issuing an alternative writ, even when the petition requests that relief, and the mere possibility that the court may take such action does not provide notice that it is likely to do so [Palma v. U.S. Industrial Fasteners, Inc. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 171, 179-180, 203 Cal. Rptr. 626, 681 P.2d 893] . Instead, the respondent and the real party in interest must be put on notice that a peremptory writ without an alternative writ is being sought or considered. The Court stated that the notice may be given either by the court or by the petitioner [Palma v. U.S. Industrial Fasteners, Inc.(1984) 36 Cal. 3d 171, 180, 203 Cal. Rptr. 626, 681 P.2d 893] . It further stated that an appellate court, absent exceptional circumstances, should not issue a peremptory writ in the first instance without having received, or solicited, opposition from the party or parties adversely affected [Palma v. U.S. Industrial Fasteners, Inc. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 171, 180, 203 Cal. Rptr. 626, 681 P.2d 893] .

Following the mandate of Palma, if the petitioner seeks the issuance of a peremptory writ without an alternative writ, formal notice must be given to the respondent and the real party in interest, if any, that the court is considering such a procedure. A sample form of a Palma notice is set forth in § 474C.97. Note that a Palma notice must be given only when the respondent and the real party in interest do not have notice that a peremptory writ may issue in the first instance. If the petitioner files a notice of motion for the issuance of a peremptory writ, the requirements of notice are adequately met and an additional Palma notice need not be given [see § 474C.96 for a form of a notice of motion].

§ 474C.18 Stay of Agency Decision

[1] Court Discretion to Issue Stay

The court in which a petition for a writ of mandate is filed may stay the operation of the administrative decision unless it is satisfied that a stay would be against the public interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(g)]. This decision is discretionary, and there is no due process right to a stay of enforcement of an agency order pending judicial review [Medical Bd. of California v. Superior Court (1991) 227 Cal. App. 3d 1458, 1462, 278 Cal. Rptr. 247] . When issued, a stay will be effective pending the court's judgment, or until (1) a notice of appeal has been filed from the judgment or (2) the time for filing a notice of appeal has expired [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(g)]. In determining whether a stay would be against the public interest, the court must weigh the public interest in each case [Sterling v. Santa Monica Rent Control Bd. (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 176, 187, 214 Cal. Rptr. 71] . An order denying a stay is not appealable [Gibson v. Savings & Loan Commissioner (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 269, 271-272, 85 Cal. Rptr. 799] . For forms of an order to stay the operation of an administrative decision, see §§ 474C.99, 474C.100.

[2] Stay of Decisions by Agencies Regulating Health-Related Professions

The court may stay certain administrative orders or decisions of specified agencies regulating health-related professions, and orders or decisions of other agencies under limited circumstances, only if it is satisfied (1) that the public interest will not suffer and (2) that the respondent is unlikely to ultimately prevail on the merits [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(h)(1)]. To determine whether the respondent is unlikely to ultimately prevail, the court must make a preliminary assessment of the merits of the petition for the writ and conclude that the petitioner is likely to obtain relief [Board of Medical Quality Assurance v. Superior Court (1980) 114 Cal. App. 3d 272, 276, 170 Cal. Rptr. 468 ; Medical Bd. of California v. Superior Court (1991) 227 Cal. App. 3d 1458, 1461-1462, 278 Cal. Rptr. 247 (trial court abused its discretion in staying agency order because respondent could not show that he was likely to prevail on the merits)]. A court that fails to make this determination has no jurisdiction to issue a stay order [Board of Medical Quality Assurance v. Superior Court (1980) 114 Cal. App. 3d 272, 276, 170 Cal. Rptr. 468] .

This rule applies to orders or decisions of licensed hospitals and state agencies when a statute requires a hearing to be held under the California Administrative Procedure Act (APA) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(h)(1); see Gov. Code § 11340 et seq. (APA)]. It applies to all decisions of agencies that issue licenses under the healing-arts provisions of the Business and Professions Code [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 500 et seq. (healing arts)], the Osteopathic Initiative Act [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 3600 et seq. (Osteopathic Initiative Act)], and the Chiropractic Initiative Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(h)(2); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 1000 et seq. (Chiropractic Initiative Act)]. It applies to decisions of other state agencies only if the agency has adopted the proposed decision of the administrative law judge in its entirety or has adopted the proposed decision but reduced the proposed penalty pursuant to Gov. Code § 11517(c)(2) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(h)(2)]. For a discussion of statutory provisions governing stays of administrative mandate proceedings on appeal, see § 474C.51[3].

[3] Stay Bonds

The statute empowering the court to stay the operation of administrative decisions pending judgment in mandate proceedings does not require the petitioner to file a bond or undertaking as a condition of obtaining a stay order [Venice Canals Resident Home Owners Assn. v. Superior Court (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 675, 679, 140 Cal. Rptr. 361 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(g) (stay of administrative decision)]. When necessary to prevent abuses in the use of the stay, however, the court has inherent power to condition a stay on the posting of a bond [Venice Canals Resident Home Owners Assn. v. Superior Court (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 675, 680, 140 Cal. Rptr. 361] . Thus, the court may require a bond when the rights of third parties would be adversely affected by the stay [Venice Canals Resident Home Owners Assn. v. Superior Court (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 675, 680, 140 Cal. Rptr. 361 (trial court properly required bond to protect persons who had received permits from California Coastal Commission and thereafter started construction in good faith)]. The Bond and Undertaking Law [Code Civ. Proc. § 995.010 et seq.], which specifies formal and substantive requirements for bonds and undertakings in civil actions, is applicable in mandate proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 1109 (Code Civ. Proc. § 307 et seq. applicable to and constitute rules of practice in mandate and other special proceedings)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Administrative Mandate

41A-474C California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 474C.19

§ 474C.19 Return

[1] Nature of Return

The response to a petition for a writ of mandate is called a return [Central Bank v. Superior Court (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 592, 600, 146 Cal. Rptr. 503] . The return may consist of a demurrer, a verified answer, or both [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1089]. The general rules of pleading and practice applicable in civil actions apply to returns in mandate proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 1109 (Code Civ. Proc. § 307 et seq. apply to and constitute rules of practice in mandate and other special proceedings); Central Bank v. Superior Court (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 592, 600, 146 Cal. Rptr. 503 ; see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430.10 et seq., 431.10 et seq. (governing demurrers and actions in civil actions, respectively)]. All parties (including respondents and real parties in interest) on whom the petition has been served have the right to make a return [Code Civ. Proc. § 1089; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.490(b) (when petition is filed in appellate court, respondent or real party in interest or both, jointly or separately, may make return); Central Bank v. Superior Court (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 592, 600, 146 Cal. Rptr. 503] .

[2] Demurrer

A demurrer in a mandate proceeding, like a demurrer in a civil action, tests the legal sufficiency of the petition [Larson v. City of Redondo Beach (1972) 27 Cal. App. 3d 332, 337, 103 Cal. Rptr. 592] . It raises issues of law [Code Civ. Proc. § 589(a)] that must be tried by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 591]. When ruling on a demurrer, the court assumes the truth of all material facts that have been properly pleaded [Rosenfield v. Malcolm (1967) 65 Cal. 2d 559, 563, 55 Cal. Rptr. 505, 421 P.2d 697 ; Stanton v. Dumke (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 199, 201, 49 Cal. Rptr. 380, 411 P.2d 108] . If the petition does not plead facts showing that the petitioner is entitled to the relief prayed, however, a demurrer on the ground that the petition fails to state a cause of action should be sustained [Faulkner v. Cal. Toll Bridge Authority (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 317, 330, 253 P.2d 659 ; Gong v. City of Fremont (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 568, 573, 58 Cal. Rptr. 664] . The statutory grounds for demurrer appear in Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10.

A memorandum of points and authorities should be filed with every demurrer. A "general demurrer" is a demurrer on the ground that the pleading to which the demurrer is directed (e.g., a complaint or a petition) does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(e)]. A demurrer on any other ground [Code Civ.

Proc. § 430.10(a)-(d), (f)-(i)] is a "special" demurrer. The court may construe the absence of points and authorities as an admission that a special demurrer is not meritorious and as a waiver of all grounds of demurrer not supported in the memorandum [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1100 (rules applicable to civil law and motion in superior and municipal courts), 3.1113(b) (contents of memorandum of points and authorities)].

Under the Rules of Court, a demurrer must state on the first page immediately below the number of the case the name of the party filing the demurrer and the name of the party whose pleading is the subject of the demurrer [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1320(c); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.3(2) ("papers" includes all documents, except exhibits or copies of documents, that are offered for filing in any case in the superior courts)]. In the same place, it must set forth the date, the time, and the location, if ascertainable, of any scheduled hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110(b)(2); see § 474C.13[1]]. The rules also require that a party filing a demurrer serve and file with the demurrer a notice of hearing specifying a hearing date in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 1005 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1320(b); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005 (time for notice of motion unless extended because notice is served by mail), 1013(c), (e) (time is extended by two court days when notice is served by facsimile transmission, express mail, or other overnight delivery service)]. For a form of notice of hearing on a demurrer, see § 474C.102.

Although the respondent may file a demurrer without concurrently filing an answer, the better practice is to file an answer at the same time as the demurrer. If the return is by demurrer alone, the court is not required to permit an answer to be filed [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1089 (if return is by demurrer alone, court "may allow" answer to be filed)]. In original proceedings in the Supreme Court or the Court of Appeal, if the return is by demurrer alone and the demurrer is not sustained, a peremptory writ of mandate may issue without leave to answer [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.490(e)].

For a general consideration of demurrers in civil actions, see Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings . For a form of a demurrer to a petition for a writ of mandate, see § 474C.101.

[3] Answer

The answer must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 1089; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.490(b)]. An unverified answer will be ineffective to deny the allegations of a verified petition and will permit the court to regard the allegations of the petition as true [Central Bank v. Superior Court (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 592, 600, 146 Cal. Rptr. 503] . Like answers to complaints in civil actions, the answer to a verified petition for a writ of mandate should deny all material allegations of the petition that the answering party does not wish to admit [see Baumgardner v. City of Hawthorne (1951) 104 Cal. App. 2d 512, 517, 231 P.2d 864 (material allegations of petition not denied are deemed admitted)]. Further, it should allege any affirmative defenses that may be available, such as the petitioner's lack of capacity to sue [see Parker v. Bowron (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 344, 351, 254 P.2d 6] , or failure to exhaust administrative remedies [for further discussion of the requirement that the petitioner exhaust administrative remedies before petitioning for mandate, see Ch. 474A, Timing of Judicial Review]. For a form of an answer to a petition for writ of mandate, see § 474C.103.

[4] Points and Authorities

Within five days after service of the petition for an alternative writ, the respondent and the real party in interest may file points and authorities in opposition to issuance of the writ [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107]. Points and authorities may also be filed in support of any demurrer [see [2], above], and in opposition to any motion for issuance of a peremptory writ [for discussion of requirements for a notice of motion for peremptory writ of mandate, see § 474C.17; for a notice of motion form, see § 474C.96]. A memorandum of points and authorities is a brief of the legal issues governing disposition of the case [Wilson v. L.A. County Civil Service Com. (1951) 103 Cal. App. 2d 426, 431, 229 P.2d 406] . It will almost always be useful and, in some cases (e.g., where the sole question to be decided is a question of law), it may be essential to effective opposition to issuance of the writ. Points and authorities, however, cannot serve as a substitute for a return by demurrer or answer when a return is required [for discussion of return, see [1], above; for answer, see [3], above].

[5] Time Limits

In mandate proceedings in the superior court, the return may be served and filed at any time on or before the return date specified in the alternative writ or the date set for hearing of the petitioner's motion for issuance of a peremptory writ, if any [Code Civ. Proc. § 1089; see § 474C.15 for discussion of the requirements for an alternative writ of mandate; for forms, see §§ 474C.93, 474C.94; for discussion of the requirements for a notice of motion for issuance of peremptory writ, see § 474C.17; for a form, see § 474C.94]. When the petition seeks a peremptory writ of mandate without also requesting issuance of an alternative writ, the return may be made within 30 days after the petition is filed (if a record of the administrative proceedings is filed with the petition or if no record of the administrative proceedings is required) or within 30 days after the respondent and the real party in interest receive the administrative record (if the record has been requested pursuant to Gov. Code § 11523, but is not filed with the petition) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1089.5; see Gov. Code § 11523 (on request and payment of fees, administrative record must be prepared by agency and delivered to petitioner within 30 days)].

In original mandate proceedings in the Court of Appeal or Supreme Court, the return must be made at least five days before the date set for hearing, unless a different return date is specified by the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.490(e)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Administrative Mandate

41A-474C California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 474C.20

§ 474C.20 Intervention

[1] Intervention by Real Party in Interest

A "real party in interest" is any person (other than a petitioner or a respondent) whose interests would be directly affected by the outcome of the proceeding [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.490(a); see Sierra Club, Inc. v. California Coastal Com. (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 495, 501-502, 157 Cal. Rptr. 190 (developer of real estate project was real party in interest when environmental group petitioned for writ of mandate to set aside permit for project)]. When a petition for a writ of mandate seeks relief that, if granted, would injure or affect the interest of a third person, the third person is an indispensable party to the proceedings and must be named as a real party in interest [Bank of California v. Superior Court (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 516, 522, 106 P.2d 879 ; see § 474C.13[2]]. A real party in interest who has not been named in a petition for a writ of mandate may choose to disregard the proceedings and not be bound by them [Greif v. Dullea (1944) 66 Cal. App. 2d 986, 995, 153 P.2d 581 ; see Inland Counties Regional Center, Inc. v. Office of Administrative Hearings (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 700, 703-704, 238 Cal. Rptr. 422 (judgment rendered without proper joinder of real party in interest may be vacated or set aside); Sierra Club, Inc. v. California Coastal Com. (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 495, 501-502, 157 Cal. Rptr. 190 (petition that fails to name the real party in interest may be dismissed)]. Alternatively, such a party may, at his or her option, move the court for leave to intervene in the proceedings [Timberidge Enterprises, Inc. v. City of Santa Rosa (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 873, 881, 150 Cal. Rptr. 606 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 387(a) (intervention generally)].

Whether a real party in interest should disregard the proceedings or seek to intervene should be decided on a case-by-case basis. A party who chooses to disregard the proceedings need not retain counsel to oppose the petition, of course, but future legal complications may eventually compel the party to retain counsel. In any event, a real party in interest may find it advantageous to give evidence to the court and to make legal arguments. Additionally, a party who has been granted leave to intervene may appeal from an adverse judgment [Greif v. Dullea (1944) 66 Cal. App. 2d 986, 991-993, 153 P.2d 581] . An intervenor will, however, be bound by the judgment if it is not reversed.

[2] Requirements for Intervention by Third Party

A party who seeks to intervene must have either an interest in the matter in litigation or in the success of one of the parties to the action, or an interest against both of them [Code Civ. Proc. § 387(a); Timberidge Enterprises, Inc. v. City of Santa Rosa (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 873, 881, 150 Cal. Rptr. 606] . The interest must, however, be direct and not consequential--that is, it must be of such a character that the intervenor will either gain or lose by the direct legal operation and effect of the judgment [Timberidge Enterprises, Inc. v. City of Santa Rosa (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 873, 881, 150 Cal. Rptr. 606] .

[3] Conditional Nature of Right to Intervene

The right to intervene is conditional rather than absolute in most cases [Code Civ. Proc. § 387(a) (on timely application, person "may" intervene)]. The court generally has discretion to determine whether a person should be permitted to intervene in pending litigation. In determining whether intervention should be permitted, the courts have traditionally balanced the interests of the original parties against the proposed intervenor's interest, taking into consideration the need to avoid delay in litigation and multiplicity of suits [Note, Civil Procedure; Intervention, 9 Pac. L.J. 356 (1977)].

In some circumstances, however, an absolute right to intervene arises. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 387(b), a person who claims an interest relating to the property or transaction that is the subject of the pending action, and who is so situated that the disposition of the action may, as a practical matter, impair or impede that person's ability to protect his or her interest, has an absolute right to intervene, unless his or her interest is adequately represented by existing parties. Other statutes also confer an absolute right to intervention in specified circumstances [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1250.230 (person claiming legal or equitable interest in property subject to eminent domain process has right to intervene), 1421 (attorney general has right to intervene in action or special proceeding involving property subject to escheat); Gov. Code § 12606 (attorney general has right to intervene in environmental action)].

[4] Procedure for Intervention

A party may intervene by moving the court for leave to file a complaint in intervention [Code Civ. Proc. § 387(a)]. The statute does not specify when a motion to intervene must be made, except that it must be "timely" [Code Civ. Proc. § 387(a)]. A motion for leave to intervene would appear to be timely in the following circumstances [Note, Civil Procedure; Intervention, 9 Pac. L.J. 356, 357 (1977)]:

- If the motion is made within a reasonable time after the prospective intervenor learns that the proceedings are in progress.
- If the trial would not be delayed by the intervention.
- If the original parties would not be prejudiced or inconvenienced by the intervention.

After judgment has been entered, a person who has an absolute right to intervene may do so by moving to vacate the judgment [Simac Design, Inc. v. Alciati (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 146, 152, 154 Cal. Rptr. 676 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 663(1) (court may set aside and vacate judgment on grounds of incorrect or erroneous legal basis)]. If the motion to intervene is denied, the moving party must appeal from the denial in order to be able to appeal the judgment in the mandate proceedings [In re Veterans' Industries, Inc. (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 902, 916, 88 Cal. Rptr. 303] . A real party in interest who was named in the petition can appeal the judgment, however, even if he or she did not move to intervene at the trial level [Harris v. Alcoholic Bev. Etc. Appeals Bd. (1966) 245 Cal. App. 2d 919, 923, 54 Cal. Rptr. 346] . For further discussion and forms relating to intervention generally, see Ch. 395, Parties .

§ 474C.21 Replication

[1] Countervailing Affirmative Allegations of Answer

When an answer to a petition for a writ of mandate alleges facts constituting an affirmative defense, the petitioner must countervail the allegations, either by offering proof at the trial or by filing a separate pleading denying the allegations [Lotus Car Ltd. v. Municipal Court (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 264, 268, 69 Cal. Rptr. 384 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1091]. If the allegations of an answer are not adequately countervailed by proof or pleading, they are deemed admitted, and the court may accept them as true [Hunt v. Mayor & Council of Riverside (1948) 31 Cal. 2d 619, 623, 191 P.2d 426 ; Steiger v. Board of Supervisors (1956) 143 Cal. App. 2d 352, 359, 300 P.2d 210] . This rule applies, however, only to matters sufficient to constitute a defense. Thus, if the answer consists of irrelevant assertions or conclusions of law rather than material allegations of ultimate fact, the new matter is not sufficient to constitute a defense, and the petitioner is under no obligation to countervail it [Most v. First Nat. Bank of San Diego (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 425, 432, 54 Cal. Rptr. 669 (petitioner need not countervail return when it consists of irrelevant matters and conclusions of law)]. A pleading that denies affirmative allegations of an answer is called a "replication" [Lotus Car Ltd. v. Municipal Court (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 264, 268, 69 Cal. Rptr. 384] . Although a pleading is not required when proof will be offered at the hearing, a pleading obviates the need for presenting proof on every issue raised by the affirmative allegations of the answer and thus simplifies the production of evidence at the hearing.

[2] Verification

The Code of Civil Procedure contains no requirement that a replication be verified. It is prudent to verify the replication, however, since both the petition and the answer in mandate proceedings are required to be verified [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1086 (verified petition), 1089 (verified answer)].

[3] Time to File and Serve

The replication should be filed before the return date stated in the alternative writ, or the date set for the hearing on the motion for a peremptory writ if an alternative writ is not sought. If the petitioner lacks sufficient time to prepare the replication because the respondent serves the answer immediately before the hearing [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1089

(answer may be filed on date for return of alternative writ or date on which application for peremptory writ is noticed)], a continuance should be sought to permit its filing. The petitioner must serve the replication on the answering party [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1109 (Code Civ. Proc. § 307 et seq. constitute rules of practice in mandate and other special proceedings), 1011 et seq. (service of papers in civil actions)]. For further discussion and a form of replication to an answer to a petition for a writ of mandate, see § 474C.104.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Administrative Mandate

§ 474C.22 Discovery

Administrative mandate proceedings are special proceedings to which the discovery provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure apply [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 21-23 (defining actions and special proceedings); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 2016(b)(1) ("action" includes special proceeding of a civil nature), 2017(a) (unless otherwise limited by court order, discovery available regarding any relevant matter, not privil eged, in pending "action" or any motion made in "action")]. Discovery in mandate proceedings is available on a showing that it is reasonably calculated to lead to admissible evidence [Fairfield v. Superior Court (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 768, 774, 122 Cal. Rptr. 543, 537 P.2d 375 ; Mobil Oil Corp. v. Superior Court (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 293, 304, 130 Cal. Rptr. 814] . Admissible evidence in mandate review of agency decisions is limited to the evidence contained in the record of the proceedings before the agency, together with relevant evidence that could not have been produced in the exercise of reasonable diligence, or that was improperly excluded at the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e); State of California v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 257-258, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281] . A petitioner cannot obtain discovery with respect to the matters relied on by agency members in making their determinations or the reasoning process they used in making their decision [United States v. Morgan (1941) 313 U.S. 409, 422, 61 S. Ct. 999, 85 L. Ed. 1429 ; State of California v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 257-258, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281 ; Mobil Oil Corp. v. Superior Court (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 293, 308, 130 Cal. Rptr. 814] . This limitation applies even when the petitioner challenges the constitutionality of the statute or regulation under which the agency acted [Mobil Oil Corp. v. Superior Court (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 293, 307, 130 Cal. Rptr. 814] , or alleges that the agency denied him or her a fair trial [Fairfield v. Superior Court (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 768, 775-779, 122 Cal. Rptr. 543, 537 P.2d 375] . When the agency has made findings, inquiry outside the administrative record to determine what evidence the agency considered and the reasoning it employed is precluded [Fairfield v. Superior Court (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 768, 779, 122 Cal. Rptr. 543, 537 P.2d 375] . Ifthe agency did not make findings, the petitioner's remedy, depending on the circumstances of the case, is to request that the court annul the administrative action or remand the matter to the agency for findings, not to depose agency members as a substitute for findings [Fairfield v. Superior Court (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 768, 779, 122 Cal. Rptr. 543, 537 P.2d 375] .

If the trial court compels discovery and one of the parties wishes to contest the order, the party should seek a writ of prohibition in an appellate court [Fairfield v. Superior Court (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 768, 782, 122 Cal. Rptr. 543, 537

P.2d 375] . The appellate court will review the granting of the discovery order under the abuse of discretion standard of review, and will reverse the order when the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e) have not been satisfied [Pomona Valley Hospital Medical Center v. Superior Court (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 93, 109, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 743] . If the trial court denies discovery and one of the parties wishes to contest the order, the party should, depending on the circumstances of the case, seek a writ of prohibition or mandate in an appellate court [Mobil Oil Corp. v. Superior Court (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 293, 303, 130 Cal. Rptr. 814] . For discussion and forms relating to the writ of prohibition, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition .

Chapter 474C PROCEDURES IN REVIEWING AGENCY DECISIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Administrative Mandate

41A-474C California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 474C.23

§ 474C.23 Administrative Record

[1] Requirement That Record Be Filed

An administrative order or decision cannot ordinarily be challenged on evidentiary grounds unless the administrative record (or a relevant part of the record) is obtained and filed with the court [see Alford v. Pierno (1972) 27 Cal. App. 3d 682, 690, 104 Cal. Rptr. 110 (petitioner could not claim that findings were not supported by evidence, since no transcript of evidence received by agency was filed with court)], because an administrative order or decision enjoys a presumption of regularity and will not be disturbed on review unless the petitioner sustains his or her burden of showing that it is invalid [Foster v. Civil Service Com. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 444, 453, 190 Cal. Rptr. 893 ; Huntington Park Redevelopment Agency v. Duncan (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 17, 25, 190 Cal. Rptr. 744 ; see Evid. Code § 664 (presumption that official duty has been regularly performed)]. Since evidentiary review of agency decisions is limited to evidence contained in the record of proceedings before the agency, plus (1) evidence that, in the exercise of reasonable diligence, could not have been produced at the hearing, and (2) evidence that the agency improperly excluded [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e); No Oil, Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 68, 79 n.6, 118 Cal. Rptr. 34, 529 P.2d 66 ; see § 474C.24[4]], if the record is not placed before the court, it will be difficult if not impossible for the petitioner to establish what evidence the agency considered or improperly excluded. In the absence of a record, sufficiency of the evidence is not ordinarily open to question, and the court may presume that the findings were supported by substantial evidence [Weinberg v. Cedars Sinai Med. Ctr. (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 1098, 1106-1107, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 6 (principle applied to judicial review of hospital decision to terminate staff privileges of physician; physician failed to include evidence in the record on appeal); Foster v. Civil Service Com. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 444, 453, 190 Cal. Rptr. 893] .

A mandate petitioner's failure to obtain and file a copy of the administrative record with the superior court before filing its opening brief, and the subsequent failure of that petitioner to file an opening brief, provided a valid reason for the superior court to dismiss the mandate petition, particularly because the petitioner based its failure to obtain the record on its erroneous belief that it was not required to pay for the costs of preparing the record [Black Historical Society v. City of San Diego (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 670, 677-678, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 378] .

A motion to augment the administrative record to include 47 additional documents that the city agency did not include in the certified record was properly denied by the Superior Court because the because the appellants did not provide a transcript of the trial court proceedings related to their motion, nor did they include the trail court order denying their motion. In that circumstance, the Court of Appeal ruled against the appellants for failure to provide an adequate record relating to an issue challenged on appeal [Eureka Citizens for Responsible Government v. City of Eureka (2007) 147 Cal. App. 4th 357, 366-367, 54 Cal. Rptr. 3d 485] .

It was reversible error for the superior court to decide an administrative mandamus case and to deny the petition without reviewing the administrative record. In denying the petition before the administrative record had been prepared, the court was unable to weigh the evidence and to decide the sufficiency of the evidence to support the fact findings that provided the basis for the agency decision [Ocheltree v. Gourley (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 1013, 1017-1018, 126 Cal. Rptr. 2d 77] .

It was reversible error for the superior court to issue terminating sanctions dismissing a mandamus petition that challenged an environmental report under CEQA because the challenging parties failed to prepare the administrative record in a timely manner. Under the circumstances, dismissal (authorized under Code Civ. Proc. § 128) was too harsh a sanction when there were lesser sanctions available that would have ensured preparation of the administrative record. The record must be prepared within 60 days of filing the petition under the provisions of Pub. Res. Code § 21167.6) [Leavitt v. County of Madera (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 1502, 1526-1527, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 101 (residents of county who challenged county's approval of residential development project and certification of environmental impact report failed to timely prepare and file administrative record of proceedings. Dismissal was too severe a sanction, and superior court failed to make adequate finding supporting dismissal as a sanction)].

[2] Time for Filing

The record may be filed with the petition or with the respondent's points and authorities, or filed subsequently pursuant to a court order [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a)]. When the petitioner proceeds by the noticed application procedure, the Code of Civil Procedure requires that the record be filed "as expeditiously as possible" [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a); for discussion of the noticed application procedure, see § 474C.17]. In such a case, the record may be filed by the petitioner with the petition, by the respondent (after payment of the costs by the petitioner, where required), or as otherwise directed by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a)]. If the petitioner proceeds by the noticed application procedure and the record is essential to his or her case (i.e., he or she seeks an evidentiary review of the agency's decision), the respondent has 30 days after service of the petition (if the record is filed with the petition) or 30 days after receipt of a copy of the record (if the record is requested but not filed with the petition) within which to answer or otherwise respond [Code Civ. Proc. § 1089.5]. In any event, the Rules of Court require that the party intending to use a part of the administrative record in an administrative mandate case must lodge that part of the record with the court at least five days before the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1140].

[3] Request and Preparation

Administrative records are ordinarily prepared at the request of the petitioner. When the decision or order to be reviewed was made by an agency subject to Gov. Code § 11500 et seq., upon request of the petitioner the Office of Administrative Hearings or the agency is required to prepare and deliver the record (or that part of the record designated by the petition) within 30 days after the request and payment of the transcription fee [Gov. Code § 11523; see Gov. Code § 69950 (transcription fee); see also Gov. Code §§ 11500(a) ("agency" defined), 11501(a) (application of Chapter 5 of the APA, Gov. Code § 11340 et seq., to agencies as determined by statutes relating to those agencies)]. When the decision or order was made by any "local agency," other than a school district, as defined in Gov. Code § 54951, the record must be prepared by the agency or its decision makerand delivered to the petitioner within 190 days after he or she has filed a written request for it [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6(c); Watts v. Civil Service Board (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 939, 943-944, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 349 (petitioner must request that agency prepare record; transcript prepared by friend of petitioner insufficient and no error to exclude it from record); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6(a) (with the exception of school district, "local agency" defined by Gov. Code § 54951)]. A complete record will include the transcript of proceedings, all pleadings, notices, and orders, any proposed decision by a hearing officer, the final decision, all admitted exhibits, all rejected exhibits in the possession of the agency or its decision maker, all written evidence, and any other papers in the case [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.6(c) (local agency); Gov. Code § 11523 (agency subject to APA)]. When the record is preserved on electronic tape but has not been transcribed on paper, the court has discretion to order production of the tape or to grant a reasonable continuance for preparing of a written transcript [Darley v. Ward (1980) 28 Cal. 3d 257, 263, 168 Cal. Rptr. 481, 617 P.2d 1113] . The tatutes do not specify any particular form of request. A letter addressed to the agency by the petitioner or counsel for the petition will be sufficient. For an application to prepare and file the administrative record, see § 474C.98.

Appellants are not required to pay for the transcript at the time the request to prepare the transcript is submitted to extend the filing deadline under Gov. Code § 11523 [Jahangiri v. Medical Board of California (1995) 40 Cal. App. 4th 1657, 1663-1664, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 187] . However, the new Gov. Code § 11523 which becomes operative July 1, 1997, provides, in relevant part, that upon request of the petitioner for a record of the proceedings, the complete record of the proceedings, or the parts thereof as are designated by the petitioner in the request, shall be prepared by the Office of Administrative Hearings or the agency and shall be delivered to the petitioner, within 30 days after the request, which time shall be extended for good cause shown, upon payment of the fee specified in Gov. Code § 69950 for the transcript, the cost of preparation of other portions of the record, and for certification thereof [Gov. Code § 11523].

[4] Costs

The petitioner bears the initial expense of obtaining the administrative record for purposes of judicial review of the agency proceedings. On conclusion of the mandate proceedings, the costs of preparing the record are taxable as costs [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1094.5(a), 1094.6(c) (local agency); Gov. Code § 11523 (agency subject to APA)]. The agency can recover its costs for preparation of the record from the petitioner who sought administrative mandate when the agency is a prevailing party on judicial review under the provisions of Gov. Code § 11523 [Gamage v. Medical Board (1998) 60 Cal. App. 4th 936, 937-938, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 714] .

Similarly in CEQA proceedings that are reviewable under ordinary mandate [Code Civ,. Proc. § 1085] and not reviewable under administrative mandate [Code Civ,. Proc. § 1094.5], costs for the preparation of the record of the proceeding under Pub. Res. Code § 21167.7 can be awarded to the prevailing party. Allowable costs include those costs identified in Code Civ. Proc. § 1033.5 so long as the costs are reasonable as to amount and are reasonably necessary to the conduct of the litigation. The prevailing party has the responsibility to make both showings [Wagner Farms, Inc. v. Modesto Irrigation District (2006) 145 Cal. App. 4th 765, 773-775, 52 Cal. Rptr. 3d 683] .

An indigent petitioner who cannot afford to pay the costs of the transcript may proceed in forma pauperis under Gov. Code § 68511.3 and the Rules of Court implementing that section, if the transcript is necessary to a proper review of the administrative proceedings. The respondent must then pay the cost of the transcript [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a); Board of Medical Quality Assurance v. Superior Court (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 691, 696-701, 250 Cal. Rptr. 182] . The petitioner may apply to proceed in forma pauperis by using the form prescribed in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.51(a). To secure a waiver of the transcript costs, the petitioner must also file the Application for Waiver of Additional Court Fees and Costs as prescribed by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.62 [see Cal. Rules of 3.51(a)], specifically requesting waiver of the cost of the transcript in the application.

[5] Incomplete Record

In many types of administrative hearings, court reporters are not regularly employed to transcribe the proceedings, or are employed only for portions of the proceedings. Some hearings are tape-recorded, with transcription difficulties occasionally arising from inaudible portions of the tape. A petitioner who seeks review of a decision that is supported by an inadequate record faces the problem of obtaining a record sufficient for the court to exercise its review functions. When a full record of the administrative proceedings was not kept, the parties may be able to reconstruct the record for the reviewing court or produce a summary of the evidence on which the court can exercise its judgment [see Woodard v. Personnel Commission (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 552, 558-561, 152 Cal. Rptr. 658 ; Andersen v. Regents of University of California (1972) 22 Cal. App. 3d 763, 772-773, 99 Cal. Rptr. 531 (noting parties did not object to use of summaries)]. If the parties are unable to produce a sufficient record, however, the court will remand the case to the agency for a new hearing [Chavez v. Civil Service Com. (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 324, 332, 150 Cal. Rptr. 197 ; Elizabeth D. v. Zolin (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 347, 356-358, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 852] .

The Court of Appeal upheld a judgment setting aside the DMV's suspension of a motorist's driver's license after an administrative per se law suspension hearing which was challenged by the motorist in court. The judgment was set aside because the DMV failed to file with the court a complete administrative record ofthe hearing. The DMV lost a portion of the hearing record because the hearing tape containing the testimony of the motorist and his expert witness was erased. The DMV also refused to pay the cost of reconstructing the missing part of the hearing record, $1,500 for the motorist's attorney and expert witness to appear at a new hearing [Frase v. Gourley (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 762, 764-765, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 432] . The Frase case decision was distinguished in the decision in Leal v. Gourley (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 963, 970-972, 123 Cal. Rptr. 2d 220 , based on a failure of the driver to request that DMV improve the transcript or provide assistance in scheduling a new hearing [Leal v. Gourley (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 963, 970-971, 123 Cal. Rptr. 2d 220] .

The Court of Appeal reversed the County of Merced's granting of a conditional use permit, and the county's certifying of a final environmental impact report under the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), for a project approval sought by a mining company. The court held that the county failed to provide an adequate and complete administrative record for judicial review making it difficult for the appellate court to determine whether the county make the necessary findings required by CEQA before issuing the permit [Protect Our Water v. County of Merced (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 362, 372-374, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 726] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Administrative Mandate

41A-474C California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 474C.24

§ 474C.24 Hearing

[1] Preparation for Hearing

Before the scheduled date of the hearing on the petition, any necessary discovery must be completed, and any appropriate motions for disposition of the case without trial must be made [see § 474C.22 for discussion of discovery in mandate proceedings]. In addition, a trial memorandum setting forth in detail the relevant factual and legal arguments in support of the party's position, with citations to the administrative record, should be filed with the court. Although the Code of Civil Procedure contains no provisions as to the timing of these pretrial procedures, local court rules must be consulted for specific requirements.

[2] When There Is No Opposition

A peremptory writ may not be granted by default [Code Civ. Proc. § 1088]. Thus, a court must hear a petition for administrative mandate even though there is no appearance in opposition to the petition [Rodriguez v. Municipal Court (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 521, 526, 102 Cal. Rptr. 45] . When neither the respondent nor the real party in interest appears at the hearing, the court must proceed to examine the verified pleadings. If the pleadings establish the material facts, the hearing is not one to try issues of fact but to determine questions of law [Rodriguez v. Municipal Court (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 521, 526, 102 Cal. Rptr. 45 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094 (if return raises only questions of law, or puts in issue immaterial statements, court must hear argument of the case)], and the case may be resolved on the pleadings [Star Motor Imports, Inc. v. Superior Court (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 201, 205, 151 Cal. Rptr. 721] . If the pleadings raise a factual controversy, however, the court may proceed to hear other evidence. In this situation, the petitioner's right to relief will depend on the evidence adduced at the hearing [Star Motor Imports, Inc. v. Superior Court (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 201, 205, 151 Cal. Rptr. 721] . If the agency has complied with the terms of the alternative writ or taken action in accordance with the prayer of the petition (e.g., set aside its decision or order), the petition is moot and should be dismissed [Bruce v. Gregory (1967) 65 Cal. 2d 666, 671, 56 Cal. Rptr. 265, 423 P.2d 193 ; Crestlawn Memorial Park Asso. v. Sobieski (1962) 210 Cal. App. 2d 43, 47, 26 Cal. Rptr. 421 ; see Ch. 474B, Standards in Reviewing Agency Decisions , for further discussion of actions taken by agencies].

[3] Burden of Proof

The party challenging the administrative decision in the mandate proceeding has the burden of proving that the decision should be set aside, regardless of whether the petitioner or the respondent had the burden of proof in the proceedings before the agency [Huntington Park Redevelopment Agency v. Duncan (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 17, 25, 190 Cal. Rptr. 744 , cert. denied, 464 U.S. 895 ; Fair v. Fountain Valley School Dist. (1979) 90 Cal. App. 3d 180, 187, 153 Cal. Rptr. 56] , because an administrative decision enjoys a presumption of regularity when the allegations of the petition have been adequately denied [Foster v. Civil Service Com. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 444, 453, 190 Cal. Rptr. 893 ; Alford v. Pierno (1972) 27 Cal. App. 3d 682, 690-691, 104 Cal. Rptr. 110 ; see Evid. Code § 664 (presumption that official duty has been regularly performed)]. Therefore, the petitioner is responsible for demonstrating in what respect the administrative proceedings were unfair, in excess of jurisdiction, or otherwise invalid [Alford v. Pierno (1972) 27 Cal. App. 3d 682, 690-691, 104 Cal. Rptr. 110] .

[4] Evidence

The evidence admissible at the hearing on the petition for the peremptory writ is ordinarily limited to the administrative record [Eureka Teachers Assn. v. Board of Education (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 353, 366-367, 244 Cal. Rptr. 240 ; Lake v. Civil Service Commission (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 224, 227, 120 Cal. Rptr. 452] . However, the court may determine whether relevant evidence exists that was improperly excluded in the agency proceedings or that, in the exercise of reasonable diligence, could not have been produced [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e)]. If the court determines that there is such evidence, the court may take one of two actions. If the case is one to which the substantial evidence standard of evidentiary review applies, the court may set aside the agency's decision and remand the case to the agency for further consideration in light of the additional evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e), (f); Hand v. Board of Examiners (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 605, 616-617, 136 Cal. Rptr. 187] . If the case is one to which the independent judgment standard of review applies, the court may admit the evidence in the mandate proceedings and consider that evidence in addition to the administrative record [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e); Hand v. Board of Examiners (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 605, 617, 136 Cal. Rptr. 187] . For discussion of the substantial evidence test and the independent judgment test, see Ch. 474B, Standards in Reviewing Agency Decisions .

Evidence of events occurring after the date of the agency hearing may be received by a court employing the independent judgment standard of review [Windigo Mills v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 586, 596-597, 155 Cal. Rptr. 63] . The court is not obliged to admit such evidence in all cases. In keeping with the general principle that an administrative agency should have the first opportunity to decide the case on the basis of all the evidence, the court may properly decide to remand the case to the agency for redetermination in light of the new evidence, particularly when the evidence would have been crucial to the administrative decision [Windigo Mills v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 586, 597 n.4, 155 Cal. Rptr. 63] .

A foundation for the court's receipt of evidence not admitted in the agency proceedings may be laid either by oral testimony or by affidavit [Windigo Mills v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 586, 597, 155 Cal. Rptr. 63] . Affidavits are properly admissible for this purpose, provided that the opposing party is accorded the right of cross-examination and that double hearsay not be admitted [Windigo Mills v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 586, 597-598, 155 Cal. Rptr. 63] .

[1] Granting or Denying Relief

Following the trial of a mandate proceeding, the court must enter judgment either granting the petitioner relief and commanding the agency to set aside its decision or denying the requested relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(f)]. If there are no triable issues of fact or the matter is decided based solely on the administrative record, then the proper way to proceed is to move for judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094. It is not proper to move for summary adjudication under Code Civ. Proc. § 437c [Dunn v. County of Santa Barbara (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 1281, 1291-1292, 38 Cal. Rptr. 3d 316] . If the court grants relief, it will often order the agency to reconsider the case in light of the court's opinion and judgment, and it may order the agency to take other action required by law [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(f); Horwitz v. City of Los Angeles (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 1344, 1347, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 295 (neighbors of homeowner challenged owner's remodeling permit, which violated front yard setback requirements of city. Homeowner had erroneously calculated setbacks. Writ of mandate had been granted requiring that permits be revoked, and Court of Appeal affirmed judgment with revocation remedy)]. The court, however, may not limit or control in any way the discretion legally vested in the agency, such as by attempting to alter the agency's penalty determination [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(f); see Cadilla v. Board of Medical Examiners (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 961, 966-967, 103 Cal. Rptr. 455 (propriety of penalty rests in sound discretion of agency and will not be disturbed absent a manifest abuse of discretion)]. The court is also precluded from performing the agency's function; it may only order the agency to perform a duty required by its governing statutes [Sunrise Retirement Villa v. Dear (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 948, 954-955, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 416] . If the court denies the requested relief, it will typically discharge any alternative writ it has previously issued [see, e.g., Jenkins v. Knight (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 220, 226, 293 P.2d 6 (alternative writs discharged and peremptory writs denied)]. For forms of judgments granting relief, see §§ 474C.105, 474C.106. For a form of judgment denying relief, see § 474C.107.

[2] Tentative Decision

The court will announce its tentative decision at the conclusion of the hearing or, if the case is taken under submission, at some later time. When the court's decision is announced in open court, it is entered in the minutes of the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(a)]. When the decision is announced later, the clerk must send a copy of the minutes entry or of the written statement of tentative decision to all parties who appeared at the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(a)]. The tentative decision is not a judgment and is not binding on the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(a)]. If the court later modifies or changes its tentative decision, the clerk must mail a copy of the modification or change to all parties who appeared at the trial [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(a)].

[3] Statement of Decision

The former requirement that findings of fact and conclusions of law be issued "upon the trial of a question of fact by the court" was abolished in 1981. Code Civ. Proc. § 632 now permits parties appearing at the trial to request that the court issue a statement of decision explaining the factual and legal basis for its decision on each of the principal controverted issues at trial. Although, in its current form, Code Civ. Proc. § 632 does not explicitly limit the availability of the statement of decision to cases involving "the trial of a question of fact," the courts have so limited it, generally treating the former findings of fact as identical to the present statement of decision.

Before 1981, the courts had held that findings were required when issues of fact were tried by the court [Hadley v. Superior Court (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 389, 394, 105 Cal. Rptr. 500 ; Delany v. Toomey (1952) 111 Cal. App. 2d 570, 571-572, 245 P.2d 26] but not when the only issues to be determined by the court were legal issues [International Asso. of Fire Fighters v. Palo Alto (1963) 60 Cal. 2d 295, 300-301, 32 Cal. Rptr. 842, 384 P.2d 170] . Since questions of fact were clearly tried when the court reviewed the evidence under the independent judgment test, findings were required in independent judgment cases [Roccaforte v. City of San Diego (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 877, 886-887, 152 Cal. Rptr. 558 ; Whitlow v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 248 Cal. App. 2d 478, 483, 56 Cal. Rptr. 525 ; Sears, Roebuck & Co. v. Walls (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 284, 288-289, 2 Cal. Rptr. 847 ; see Ch. 474B, Standards in Reviewing Agency Decisions, for discussion of the independent judgment test]. When review was required only under the substantial evidence test, however, findings were not required, since the issue was one of law rather than fact [Friends of Lake Arrowhead v. Board of Supervisors (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 497, 518, 113 Cal. Rptr. 539 ; Cow Hollow Improvement Club v. Board of Permit Appeals (1966) 245 Cal. App. 2d 160, 171, 53 Cal. Rptr. 610 ; Savelli v. Board of Medical Examiners (1964) 229 Cal. App. 2d 124, 131, 40 Cal. Rptr. 171 ; see Ch. 474B, Standards in Reviewing Agency Decisions , for discussion of the substantial evidence test].

Since 1981, the courts have generally analyzed the new requirement of a statement of decision in the same way as they analyzed the former requirement for findings. They have held that a statement of decision is not required when the only contested issue at trial presents a question of law [Enterprise Ins. Co. v. Mulleague (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 528, 531, 539-540, 241 Cal. Rptr. 846] , and that a statement of decision is required when a court is required to exercise its independent judgment in reviewing the administrative record [Kazensky v. City of Merced (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 44, 67, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 356 ; Bevli v. Brisco (1985) 165 Cal. App. 3d 812, 822, 212 Cal. Rptr. 36] . In terms of the sufficiency of a statement of decision, one court has held that a statement was sufficient despite a lack of detailed fact findings, since the court did state that the agency's findings were supported by the weight of the evidence and thus incorporated by reference the detailed findings of the agency [Angelier v. State Board of Pharmacy (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 592, 598-599, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 213] .

In any event, a statement of decision is not required unless a timely request is made. In general, a request for a statement of decision must be made within 10 days after the court announces its tentative decision. If the trial is concluded within one calendar day, or in less than eight hours over more than one day, however, the request must be made before the case is submitted for decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 632]. The request for a statement of decision must specify the controverted issues on which the party is requesting a statement [Code Civ. Proc. § 632].

When the trial is concluded in less than one calendar day, or in less than eight hours over more than one day, the statement of decision may be made orally on the record in the presence of the parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 632]. In all other cases, the statement of decision must be in writing, unless the parties appearing at trial agree otherwise [Code Civ. Proc. § 632]. The court in its tentative decision may state whether a statement of decision will be prepared by the court or by a designated party [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(a)]. For forms and discussion relating the statement of decision, see Ch. 529, Statement of Decision .

[4] Preparation and Filing of Judgment and Notice of Entry of Judgment

After the court has announced its tentative decision, the court typically requests that the prevailing party prepare a judgment. Counsel for the prevailing party should submit the judgment to the court for signature and entry. Then counsel is required to prepare and mail a copy of the notice of entry of judgment to all parties who have appeared in the action and to file with the court the original notice of entry of judgment accompanied by the proof of service by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5(a)]. When a prevailing party is not represented by counsel, or when the court so orders, the clerk of the court is required to mail notice of entry of judgment to all parties who have appeared in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5(b), (c)]. For forms of judgment granting relief, see §§ 474C.105, 474C.106. For a form of judgment denying relief, see § 474C.107.

[5] Preparation of Judgment in Appellate Court

The Court of Appeal and the Supreme Court include the judgment in the opinion embodying the decision. Counsel need not prepare the judgment in those courts.

[6] Costs

Costs of mandate proceedings may be recovered by the prevailing party, as in civil actions generally [Code Civ. Proc. § 1032(b) (governing recovery of costs in any action or proceeding); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1109 (Code Civ. Proc. § 307 et seq. constitute rules of practice in mandate and other special proceedings)]. Thus, the following parties are entitled to recovery of costs as a matter of right [Code Civ. Proc. § 1032(a)(4)]:

- A party with a net monetary recovery.
- A defendant in whose favor a dismissal is entered.
- A defendant, when neither plaintiff nor defendant obtains any relief.
- A defendant, from those plaintiffs who do not recover any relief against that defendant.

In other situations, the identity of the prevailing party is determined by the court, which may, in its discretion, allow costs and apportion them between the parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 1032(a)(4); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1034 (authority of Judicial Council to establish rules relating to allowable costs); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1700 (prejudgment costs)]. Costs incurred in preparing the administrative record are specifically recoverable by a petitioner who has prevailed in seeking a writ of administrative mandate [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a)].

[7] Attorney's Fees and Litigation Expenses

In certain cases, attorney's fees and litigation expenses may be recoverable as part of the judgment in an administrative mandate proceeding [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1028.5 (court may award certain small businesses and licensees "reasonable litigation expenses" when agency's action was undertaken without any substantial justification); Gov. Code § 800 (attorney's fees recoverable when administrative decision resulted from arbitrary or capricious action); Santos v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 537, 551-552, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 10 ; Halaco Engineering Co. v. South Central Coast Regional Com. (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 52, 79, 227 Cal. Rptr. 667, 720 P.2d 15] . For a general consideration of the recoverability of attorney's fees and litigation expenses in mandate proceedings, see § 474C.13[6].

A. Procedures for Administrative Mandate

§ 474C.26 Peremptory Writ of Mandate

[1] Nature and Function of Peremptory Writ

If judgment is entered for the petitioner, a peremptory writ of mandate must be issued without delay [Code Civ. Proc. § 1095]. If counsel for the petitioner prepares the judgment [see § 474C.25[4]], he or she should also prepare a peremptory writ and present it to the court with the judgment. The peremptory writ must command the respondent to do the act required to be performed, either immediately after receipt of the writ or at some other specified time [Code Civ. Proc. § 1087]. If appropriate to the facts of the case, the writ may order the respondent to reconsider its order or decision in light of the court's opinion [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e), (f); Hand v. Board of Examiners (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 605, 616-617, 136 Cal. Rptr. 187] . In every case, the language of the peremptory writ must conform to that of the judgment [State Bd. of Equalization v. Superior Ct. (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 467, 475, 127 P.2d 4] . If the judgment and the writ conflict, the judgment controls [State Bd. of Equalization v. Superior Ct. (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 467, 475, 127 P.2d 4] .

[2] Enforcement

When a peremptory writ of mandate has been issued and directed to an agency, if it appears to the court that any member of the agency or a person on whom the writ was personally served has, without just excuse, refused or neglected to obey the writ, the court may, on motion, impose a fine not exceeding $1,000 [Code Civ. Proc. § 1097; Carroll v. Civil Service Commission (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 727, 733, 90 Cal. Rptr. 128 ; Carson Gardens L.L.C. v. City of Carson Mobilehome Park Rental Review Bd. (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 856, 867-868, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 768] . For a persistent refusal to obey, the court has authority to order imprisonment of the disobedient party until the writ is complied with, and may make any orders necessary and proper for the enforcement of the writ [Code Civ. Proc. § 1097]. In addition to this specific mechanism for enforcement of the writ, a refusal to obey the writ may be punished as a contempt of court [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1209(a)(5) (disobedience of any lawful judgment, order, or process of the court is contempt); Palma v. U.S. Industrial Fasteners, Inc. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 171, 181, 203 Cal. Rptr. 626, 681 P.2d 893 (dictum; once writ is issued and served, it must be obeyed on pain of fine or contempt); Housing Authority of Los Angeles v. Los Angeles (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 682, 688, 256 P.2d 4 (respondent in mandate proceedings found not to have violated writ, but court assumed that willful disobedience of writ would be punishable as contempt); Healdsburg

Police Officers Assn. v. City of Healdsburg (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 444, 457, 129 Cal. Rptr. 216 (judgment issuing writ and orders of contempt issued thereon affirmed)].

Chapter 474C PROCEDURES IN REVIEWING AGENCY DECISIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Procedures for Administrative Mandate

41A-474C California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 474C.27

§ 474C.27 Expedited Procedures Apply to Review of Permit or Entitlement Decision That Involves Constitutionally Protected Speech

[1] When Expedited Review Applies

Expedited procedures for judicial review, by either administrative or ordinary mandate, apply to certain public agency decisions implicating freedom of speech safeguards under U.S. Const., amend. I. Specifically, the procedures apply to any decision by a public agency regarding the issuance, revocation, suspension, or denial of a permit or other entitlement "for expressive conduct protected by the First Amendment" [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(a)].

The decision may be one by a city, county, city and county, a joint powers authority or similar public entity formed pursuant to Gov. Code § 65850.4, or any other public entity authorized by law to issue permits for expressive conduct protected by the First Amendment [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(b)(3) (defining "public agency" for purposes of the expedited procedure provisions)].

One example of the type of agency decision subject to expedited review is the denial by a municipal agency of a permit to operate an adult bookstore. The was the situation presented to the court of appeals in Baby Tam & Co., Inc. v. City of Las Vegas (1998) 154 F.3d 1097 , the case which prompted the enactment of expedited review procedures under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8 [see 1999 Stats., ch. 49, § 2].

A public agency may itself designate the permits or entitlements that it issues which it deems eligible for expedited review, by adopting an ordinance or resolution to that effect, specifically listing the eligible permits or entitlements [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(c)].

[2] Expedited Procedures for Judicial Hearing

When applicable, the expedited review procedures described below supersede any requirement or procedure to the contrary that is set forth in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1084-1097 that otherwise govern mandate proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(d)].

Either the public agency or the permit holder or applicant may bring an action in accordance with the procedure set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(d)(1). If the permit applicant or permit holder brings the action, it must in the form of a petition for writ of mandate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 or a petition for writ of administrative mandate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5, as appropriate [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(d)(2)].

Expedited review then has the following features:

- Within five court days after receipt of written notification from a permit applicant that the applicant will seek judicial review of a public agency's action on the permit, the public agency must prepare, certify, and make available the administrative record to the permit applicant [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(d)(1)]. "Permit applicant" includes a permit holder, and "permit" means any permit or other entitlement [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(b)(1), (2)].

- The party bringing the action must file and serve the petition on the respondent no later than 21 calendar days following the public agency's final decision on the permit [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(d)(3)].

- The title page of the petition must contain the following language in 18-point type [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(d)(3)]:

"ATTENTION: THIS MATTER IS ENTITLED TO PRIORITY AND SUBJECT TO THE EXPEDITED HEARING AND REVIEW PROCEDURES CONTAINED IN SECTION 1094.8 OF THE CODE OF CIVIL PROCEDURE."

- Moving, opposition, and reply papers are to be filed as otherwise required by the Rules of Court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(d)(4)].

- The clerk of the court must set a hearing for review of the petition no later than 25 calendar days from the date the petition is filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(d)(4)].

- The petitioner must lodge the administrative record with the court no later than 10 calendar days in advance of the hearing date [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(d)(4)].

For a form of petition for expedited mandate review under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8, see Ch. 59, Assemblies, Meetings, and Demonstrations, § 59.50A.

[3] Expedited Procedures for Judicial Decision

Following the conclusion of an expedited hearing under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8, the court is required to render its decision in an expeditious manner consistent with constitutional requirements in view of the particular facts and circumstances. In no event shall the decision be rendered later than 20 calendar days after the matter is submitted or 50 calendar days after the date the petition is filed, whichever is earlier [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(d)(5)].

If the presiding judge of the court in which the action is filed determines that, as a result of either the press of other court business or other factors, the court will be unable to meet any one or more of the deadlines provided under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8, he or she is required to request the temporary assignment of a judicial officer to hear the petition and render a decision within the requisite time limits, pursuant to Gov. Code § 68543.8. Given the short time period involved, such a request is entitled to priority [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(e)].

[4] Joint Waiver of Expedited Procedures Permitted

In any action subject to the expedited procedures of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8, the parties to the action are permitted jointly to waive the time limits provided by that section [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(e)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Ordinary Mandate

§ 474C.40 Nature of Ordinary Mandate

Ordinary mandate, or traditional mandate, is a special proceeding that results in the issuance by the court of a writ to compel an inferior tribunal, corporation, board, or person to perform an act specially enjoined by law [Code Civ. Proc. § 1085; see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 21 (actions and special proceedings), 22 ("action" defined), 23 ("special proceeding" defined)]. For this purpose, an act specially enjoined by law may be a duty associated with an office, trust, or station, such as admitting a person to the use and enjoyment of an office to which he or she is entitled and from which he or she is unlawfully precluded by the inferior tribunal, corporation, board, or person [Code Civ. Proc. § 1085; see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , for a discussion of kinds of acts enjoined by law]. Ordinary mandate may also be used to restrain an official from the unlawful performance of a duty, in which case it is referred to as "prohibitory mandate" [Planned Parenthood Affiliates v. Van de Kamp (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 245, 263, 226 Cal. Rptr. 361] . Note that this "prohibitory mandate" is not the same as the relief sought in a petition for a writ of prohibition.

The writ of mandate in ordinary mandate proceedings is available to compel a public entity or official to perform a clear, present, and usually ministerial duty when the petitioner has a clear, present, and beneficial right to the performance of that duty [City of Dinuba v. County of Tulare (2007) 41 Cal. 4th 859, 868-869, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 614, 161 P.3d 1168 (county had ministerial duty to calculate and distribute property tax revenue to city); People ex rel. Younger v. County of El Dorado (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 480, 491, 96 Cal. Rptr. 553, 487 P.2d 1193 ; Quirk v. Board of Education (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 729, 733, 244 Cal. Rptr. 924] . It is also an appropriate remedy to compel government officials to exercise their discretion [Los Angeles County Employees Assn. Local 660 v. County of Los Angeles (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 1, 8, 108 Cal. Rptr. 625] , or to control an agency's unreasonable and arbitrary action constituting abuse of discretion [see Sanders v. City of Los Angeles (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 252, 261, 90 Cal. Rptr. 169, 475 P.2d 201 (courts will interfere when action taken by agency is so palpably unreasonable and arbitrary as to indicate an abuse of discretion as a matter of law)]. It is not, however, an appropriate remedy to compel an agency to exercise its discretion in a particular manner [Lindell Co. v. Board of Permit Appeals (1943) 23 Cal. 2d 303, 315, 144 P.2d 4 ; Barrett v. Stanislaus County Employees Retirement Assn. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1593, 1613-1614, 234 Cal. Rptr. 900] . For a detailed discussion of the availability of ordinary mandate, see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions .

Before instituting ordinary mandate proceedings in any case involving an administrative decision, counsel should consider carefully whether ordinary mandate or administrative mandate is the correct review mechanism. The administrative mandate procedure of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is to be used in all writ cases challenging the validity of any final administrative order or decision made as a result of a proceeding in which by law a hearing is required, evidence must be taken, and discretion in the determination of facts is vested in the agency [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a); see § 474C.10 et seq.]. Although a division of authority exists, it has been held that (1) the parties may not waive a choice of the wrong writ procedure, and (2) the reviewing court is charged with determining whether the trial court considered the appropriate evidence and applied the appropriate standard of review based on the case facts [Eureka Teachers Assn. v. Board of Education (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 353, 361-366, 244 Cal. Rptr. 240 ; see California Teachers Assn. v. Governing Board (1977) 70 Cal. App. 3d 833, 844-845, 139 Cal. Rptr. 155 (presentation of matter as ordinary rather than administrative mandate was harmless error; sufficient evidence existed in record alone to reflect abuse of discretion and petitioner suffered no prejudice by use of wrong review standard); Mahdavi v. Fair Employment Practice Com. (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 326, 336-337, 136 Cal. Rptr. 421 (although filed as administrative mandate proceeding, appellate court reviewed matter as ordinary writ and held that the trial court had duty to issue ordinary writ if warranted by facts when administrative mandate was inapplicable)]. A detailed discussion of the availability of these two mandate procedures is presented in Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decsions .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Ordinary Mandate

41A-474C California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 474C.41

§ 474C.41 Petition for Writ of Mandate

[1] General Procedure in Ordinary Mandate Proceedings

The judicial procedures in ordinary mandate proceedings are similar to judicial procedures in administrative mandate proceedings. Thus, the rules relating to petitions for the writ, alternative writ and noticed application procedures, jurisdiction and venue, returns, intervention, replications, discovery, preparation and filing of the administrative record, hearings, the preparation and entry of judgment, and the issuance of the peremptory writ are virtually identical whether a writ of administrative mandate or a writ of ordinary mandate is sought. The allegations of the petition in ordinary mandate proceedings differ from the allegations of the petition in administrative mandate proceedings, since different rules govern availability of the writ. Similarly, the provisions of the judgment in ordinary mandate proceedings differ from the judgment in administrative mandate, since the relief that the court may grant in ordinary mandate proceedings differs from the relief that may be granted in administrative mandate proceedings [see § 474C.40 for general considerations related to the useof ordinary mandate proceedings and the relief that may be granted]. For a detailed discussion of administrative mandate proceedings, see § 474C.10 et seq.

[2] Parties

As in administrative mandate proceedings, the parties to an ordinary mandate proceeding are called the "petitioner" and the "respondent." If the petition seeks relief that, if granted, would injure or affect the interest of a third person, the third person is an indispensable party to the proceedings and should be named as the "real party in interest" [Bank of California v. Superior Court (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 516, 522, 106 P.2d 879 ; Sierra Club, Inc. v. California Coastal Com. (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 495, 501, 157 Cal. Rptr. 190 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 389 (compulsory joinder of parties)]. For a discussion of parties to mandate proceedings, including special rules relating to real parties in interest, see § 474C.13[2].

[3] Essential Allegations

The petition in ordinary mandate proceedings must contain allegations showing all of the following:

- The petitioner's legal capacity to sue.
- The identity and legal capacity of the respondent.
- The identity of the real party in interest and his or her interest in the mandate proceedings.
- That the petitioner has no plain, speedy, and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law, other than the writ sought by the petition.

If the petitioner seeks a writ to compel the respondent to perform a duty, the petition should allege facts showing that the respondent has a clear, present, and ministerial duty to carry out a particular act, and that the petitioner has a clear, present, and substantial right to the performance of that duty. If the petitioner seeks to compel the respondent to exercise discretion, the petition should allege facts showing that the respondent has discretion under a particular statute but has failed or refused to exercise that discretion. If the petitioner seeks a writ to correct an abuse of discretion, the petition should allege facts showing that the respondent has discretion under a particular statute and has abused that discretion in a particular way.

For a form of a petition for a writ of ordinary mandate that includes all of these allegations, see § 474C.109.

[4] Prayer for Relief

The prayer should request all of the relief the petitioner seeks, including the issuance of an alternative writ of mandate if the alternative writ procedure is employed [see §§ 474C.10[2], 474C.15 for discussion of thealternative writ procedure]. If an applicable statute provides for recovery of attorney's fees or litigation expenses, the petition should also include an appropriate request, with allegations in the body of the petition that demonstrate the statutory basis for the recovery of fees or expenses [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1028.5(g) (recovery of attorney's fees and other reasonable litigation expenses by small business or licensee); Gov. Code § 800 (recovery of attorney's fees in proceedings resulting from arbitrary or capricious conduct by public agency or officer); see also § 474C.13[6] for discussion relating to recovery of attorney's fees and litigation expenses]. As is the case in administrative mandate proceedings, the petition must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086; see Code Civ. Proc. § 446 (requirements of verification); see § 474C.13[8] for discussion of verification].

[5] Points and Authorities

Neither the Code of Civil Procedure nor the California Rules of Court require points and authorities when a petition for a writ of mandate is filed in the superior court. However, a petition originally filed in the Court of Appeal or the Supreme Court must be accompanied by points and authorities [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.490(b); see § 474C.14[2]]. Local rules may also require that points and authorities accompany a petition filed in superior court. Whether they are required or not, it is advisable to include points and authorities with every petition because they will strengthen the petition and may help to anticipate possible defenses. For a general consideration of points and authorities in mandate proceedings, see §§ 474C.13[9], 474C.14[2].

[6] Filing in Appellate Court

The form set forth in § 474C.109 is designed to be used when the petition is filed in the superior court. A petition for a writ of mandate may, in an extraordinary case, be filed in the Court of Appeal or the Supreme Court in the first instance. When the petition is filed in an appellate court, it must set forth the circumstances that, in the opinion of the petitioner, render it proper that the writ should originally issue from the reviewing court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.490(a)]. For form of a petition for a writ of mandate in the Court of Appeal or the Supreme Court, see § 474C.92. For a general consideration of petitions for writ of mandate (whether administrative or ordinary) in appellate courts, see § 474C.14.

[7] Service and Filing

The petition and the memorandum of points and authorities must be served on the respondent and the real party in interest, if any, by delivering a copy to each person by personal service or by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107 (Code Civ. Proc. § 1010 et seq. service of papers); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.10 (personal service), 415.30 (service of summons by mail), 1011 (service on attorney or party), 1013(a) (proof of service by mail)]. Personal service is customary and usually preferable to service by mail [see § 474C.13[10]]. Service must be made on the presiding officer, the secretary, or a majority of the members of the respondent agency [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107].

C. Appeal From Mandate Proceedings

§ 474C.50 Nature of Appealable Orders

[1] One Final Judgment Rule

Unless expressly authorized by law, an appeal lies only from a final judgment in an action or proceeding [Knodel v. Knodel (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 752, 760, 122 Cal. Rptr. 521, 537 P.2d 353 ; Gibson v. Savings & Loan Commissioner (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 269, 271, 85 Cal. Rptr. 799 ; see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 901 (review of judgment or order), 904 (appeal in civil action or proceeding), 904.1(a)(1) (appeal from superior court judgment), 1064 (judgment in special proceeding is the final determination of the rights of the parties therein)]. This rule is often called the "one final judgment" rule [Degnan v. Morrow (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 358, 362, 82 Cal. Rptr. 557] . The rule finds its basis in the principle that multiple appeals in a single action would be costly and oppressive, and that review of intermediate rulings should await final disposition of the case [Knodel v. Knodel (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 752, 760, 122 Cal. Rptr. 521, 537 P.2d 353 ; Degnan v. Morrow (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 358, 362, 82 Cal. Rptr. 557] . For purposes of the "one final judgment" rule, a judgment is final when no issue is left for the future consideration of the court except compliance or noncompliance with the judgment [Knodel v. Knodel (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 752, 760 n.11, 762, 122 Cal. Rptr. 521, 537 P.2d 353] . Conversely, a judgment is not final when further judicial action is essential to a final determination of the rights of the parties [Degnan v. Morrow (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 358, 362, 82 Cal. Rptr. 557] . The appealability of a judgment or order under the "one final judgment" rule is a jurisdictional issue and may be raised by the court sua sponte even when not raised by the parties [Elmore v. Imperial Irrigation Dist. (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 185, 190, 205 Cal. Rptr. 433 ; Degnan v. Morrow (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 358, 362, 82 Cal. Rptr. 557] .

[2] Judgments in Mandate Proceedings

A judgment granting a petition for a writ of mandate is ordinarily a final judgment and, as such, appealable under the "one final judgment" rule [Code Civ. Proc. § 1064; Palma v. U.S. Industrial Fasteners, Inc. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 171, 181-182, 203 Cal. Rptr. 626, 681 P.2d 893] . Whether a judgment (or order) denying a petition for a writ of mandate is appealable under the rule is sometimes a more difficult question. The appealability of a judgment denying a petition depends on whether further orders in the proceedings are contemplated [Covina-Azusa Fire Fighters Union v. City of Azusa (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 48, 56, 146 Cal. Rptr. 155] . If the trial court denies a writ petition and contemplates no further action or orders on the petition, an appeal may be taken from the judgment or order denying the writ order [

Bettencourt v. City and County of San Francisco (2007) 146 Cal. App. 4th 1090, 1098-1100, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 402 (order denying petition for writ of mandate was final judgment because basis for order, statute of limitations defense, applied to all claims in lawsuit including claims other than mandamus); Covina-Azusa Fire Fighters Union v. City of Azusa (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 48, 56, 146 Cal. Rptr. 155 ; see Watkins v. City of Santa Ana (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 393, 397, 234 Cal. Rptr. 406 (minute order denying petition for writ of mandate appealable; trial court found it had no jurisdiction over matter, clearly contemplating no further action)]. On the other hand, when it is clear that denial of an alternative writ of mandate does not amount to dismissal of the petition and that further action is contemplated, the order denying the writ is not appealable [Covina-Azusa Fire Fighters Union v. City of Azusa (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 48, 56, 146 Cal. Rptr. 155 ; Gibson v. Savings & Loan Commissioner (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 269, 271, 85 Cal. Rptr. 799] .

A trial court order denying a petition for a writ of administrative mandate is not an appealable order when the mandate petition is joined with other claims that have not been decided at the time of the order. Similarly, this order is not an appealable judgment, as this would not be a final determination of all of the parties rights, and allowing an appeal in this setting would result in multiple appeals and would violate the "one final judgment" rule [Griset v. Fair Political Practices Com'n (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 688, 696-697, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 149, 23 P. 3d 43] . In contrast, a trial court order that resolves all of a litigant's claims is an appealable judgment, and the order can be amended to convert it into a judgment if it is not so stated [Griset v. Fair Political Practices Com'n (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 688, 698-700, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 149, 23 P. 3d 43] . Once there is a final judgment in the action, the litigation is ended as to all claims alleged in plaintiff's complaint, and the court of appeal lacks any authority to consider a second appeal of the merits of the plaintiffs claims in that action. Neither the "intervening change in controlling law" exception to the law of the case doctrine nor the res judicata and collateral estoppel doctrine exceptions of the same type are applicable [Griset v. Fair Political Practices Com'n (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 688, 701-702, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 149, 23 P. 3d 43] .

If a statement of decision was contemplated but not made, the proper procedure is to reverse rather than to dismiss an appeal from a minute order entered below [Covina-Azusa Fire Fighters Union v. City of Azusa (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 48, 57, 146 Cal. Rptr. 155 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 632 (statement of decision in lieu of findings of fact and conclusions of law); see also § 474C.25 for discussion of judgments and statements of decision in administrative mandate proceedings].

§ 474C.51 Procedures for Initiating Appeal

[1] Notice of Appeal

Unless special provisions exist, provisions governing appeals in civil actions generally apply in mandate proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 1109; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(g), (h) (provisions for stays of agency decisions pending appeal); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 901 et seq. (appeals in civil actions)]. A party who seeks to appeal from a trial court's grant or denial of a writ of mandate must prepare and file a timely notice of appeal with the clerk of the superior court. Unless otherwise provided by law, notice of appeal is timely if it is filed (1) within 60 days of mailing notice of entry of judgment by the clerk of the court, (2) within 60 days of service of written notice of entry of judgment by any party on the party filing the notice of appeal, or (3) within 180 days after entry of judgment, whichever is earliest [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.104(a); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.108 (grounds for extending period to file notice of appeal)]. For forms and discussion relating to the notice of appeal, see Ch. 40, Appeal .

[2] Transcript and Record on Appeal

If the appellant wishes to present any points that require a consideration of the oral proceedings, he or she must serve on the respondent and file with the clerk of the superior court a notice to prepare a reporter's transcript of the oral proceedings within 10 days after filing the notice of appeal [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.130(a)]. Also within 10 days after the filing of the notice of appeal, the appellant is required to serve on the respondent and file with the clerk of the superior court a notice specifying the items he or she wishes to have included in the record on appeal or copied in the clerk's transcript [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.120(a)], unless an agreed or settled statement is to be used [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 8.134, 8.137], or unless the parties file a written stipulation specifying the items to be included [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.120(b)]. Alternatively, any party may compile an appendix in lieu of a clerk's transcript, provided he or she serves and files with the clerk of the superior court a notice of an election to do so within 10 days after filing the notice of appeal, and unless the superior court for good cause shown otherwise orders [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.124]. The notice of election and a copy of any notice to prepare a reporter's transcript must be served on the clerk of the Court of Appeal [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.124(a)]. Counsel must confer and attempt to reach agreement on a possible joint appendix [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.124(d)].

[3] Stays on Appeal

If an appeal is taken from a judgment denying a writ of mandate, any further stay of the agency's order or decision must be requested from the court to which the appeal is taken [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(g)]. If a stay is in effect at the time the notice of appeal is filed, however, it will continue by operation of law for 20 days from the filing of the notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(g)]. If an appeal is taken from a judgment granting a writ of mandate, the agency's order or decision will automatically be stayed pending determination of the appeal, unless the court to which the appeal is taken orders otherwise [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(g)]. No stay may be imposed or continued if the court is satisfied that it is against the public interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(g), (h)(1)].

§ 474C.52 Supreme Court Review of Judgment of Court of Appeal

When the Court of Appeal issues a judgment granting or denying a writ of mandate, the decision is subject to review in the Supreme Court without the necessity of filing a notice of appeal [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 12; see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1000]. Review in the Supreme Court may be effected by either (1) seeking a transfer of the cause from the Court of Appeal to the Supreme Court before the Court of Appeal has made a final decision [Cal. Const., Art. VI, § 12(a); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 8.552, 10.1000], or (2) seeking review of the Court of Appeal's decision after it has become final [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.504]. A cause will be transferred to the Supreme Court before final decision only if it presents issues of imperative public importance requiring prompt resolution by the Supreme Court and justifying a departure from normal appellate processes [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.552]. The Supreme Court will review a decision of the Court of Appeal after it has become final only in one or more of the following circumstances [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.500]:

- It appears necessary to secure uniformity of decision or the settlement of important questions of law.
- The Court of Appeal was without jurisdiction of the cause.
- The decision of the Court of Appeal lacks the concurrence of the required majority of qualified judges.

The California Rules of Court set forth rules for petitions and specify time limits within which cases may be transferred to or reviewed by the Supreme Court [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 8.532 (when decisions become final), 8.552 (transfer before final decision), 8.504 (review by Supreme Court), 8.60 (extending time), 8.68 (shortening time)]. For a detailed consideration of the review of Court of Appeal decisions by the Supreme Court, see Ch. 40, Appeal .

§ 474C.53 Standards of Appellate Review

The standard of review on appeal from the judgment of a trial court in administrative mandate proceedings depends on the standard properly used by the trial court in reviewing the agency's decision. In cases in which the independent judgment standard applies, the appellate court reviews the findings of the trial court to determine whether they are supported by substantial evidence in the whole record [Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 143 n.10, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242 ; Schmitt v. City of Rialto (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 494, 210 Cal. Rptr. 788 ; see Ch. 474B, Standards in Reviewing Agency Decisions , for discussion of independent judgment test]. In such cases, the function of the appellate court is similar to its function in ordinary civil appeals--that is, it may take cognizance only of errors of law, and a factual finding may be overturned only if the evidence received by the trial court is insufficient as a matter of law to sustain the finding [Merrill v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 907, 915, 80 Cal. Rptr. 89, 458 P.2d 33] . The appellate court must decide whether credible, competent evidence supports the trial court's judgment [Yakov v. Board of Medical Examiners (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 67, 71, 64 Cal. Rptr. 785, 435 P.2d 553 ; Arenstein v. California State Bd. of Pharmacy (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 179, 184, 71 Cal. Rptr. 357] , and it must resolve all conflicts in the evidence, drawing all legitimate and reasonable inferences in the support of the judgment [Kerrigan v. Fair Employment Practice Com. (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 43, 52, 154 Cal. Rptr. 29] .

In cases in which the substantial evidence standard applies, the same standard applies on appeal [see Ch. 474B, Standards in Reviewing Agency Decisions , for discussion of the substantial evidence test]. The appellate court reviews the entire administrative record to determine whether substantial evidence supported the determination of the agency, not that of the trial court [Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 149, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242 ; Schmitt v. City of Rialto (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 494, 501, 210 Cal. Rptr. 788] . In substantial evidence cases, the trial court itself exercises an appellate function, in that it takes cognizance only of errors of law appearing on the administrative record. The trial and appellate courts thus occupy identical positions with respect to the administrative record, the duty of both being to determine whether that record is free from legal error [Merrill v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 907, 915-916, 80 Cal. Rptr. 89, 458 P.2d 33 ; Los Alamitos Gen. Hosp., Inc. v. Lackner (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 417, 423, 149 Cal. Rptr. 98] .

As to issues of law, the standard of review on appeal is the de novo review standard [Rosenblit v. Superior Court (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1434, 1442, 282 Cal. Rptr. 819] . An appellate court can affirm a trial court judgment on an issue of law for a different reason than the rationale given by the trial court. Even though the trial court may have used an incorrect rationale, if there is any valid legal theory to support affirming the judgment of the trial court, that judgment will be upheld [Belair v. Riverside County Flood Control Dist. (1988) 47 Cal. 3d 550, 568, 253 Cal. Rptr. 693, 764 P. 2d 1070 ; Pollak v. State Personnel Board (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 1394, 1408, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 39] .

§ 474C.65 Decisions

[1] Administrative Record

Untranscribed tape recordings of administrative proceedings sometimes provides adequate means of review. Darley v. Ward (1980) 28 Cal. 3d 257, 261, 168 Cal. Rptr. 481, 617 P.2d 1113

In administrative mandate action, court reviews administrative record and receives additional evidence only if that evidence was unavailable at time of hearing or improperly excluded from record. McIntosh v. Aubry (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1576, 1592, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 680

In reviewing decision by San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission under McAteer-Petris Act [Gov. Code § 66600 et seq.], appellate court is not authorized to take judicial notice of material outside administrative record. Save San Francisco Bay Ass'n v. San Francisco Bay Conservation Etc. Com. (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 908, 929 n.7, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 117

Granting of writ of mandate is improper in absence of complete administrative record, including tapes or record of agency hearing. Buckhart v. San Francisco Residential Rent etc., Bd. (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 1032, 1035-1036, 243 Cal. Rptr. 298

Report and transcript of public hearing that was not before city council when it approved environmental impact report is not admissible in administrative mandate action to compel city to set aside its approval since appellate review is limited to issues in record at administrative level unless, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5, additional evidence was unavailable at time of administrative hearing or was improperly excluded from record. Browning-Ferris Industries v. City Council (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 852, 861, 226 Cal. Rptr. 575

Petitioner for writ of administrative mandate has responsibility to make available to trial court an adequate record of administrative proceeding. Foster v. Civil Service Com. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 444, 453, 190 Cal. Rptr. 893

Review is limited to administrative record except as to unavailable or improperly excluded evidence. No Oil, Inc. v.

Los Angeles (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 68, 79 n.6, 118 Cal. Rptr. 34, 529 P.2d 66

Request to the agency for preparation of record [Gov. Code § 11523] has effect of extending period of limitation if addressed to official reporter. Moran v. Board of Medical Examiners (1948) 32 Cal. 2d 301, 305-307, 196 P.2d 20

[2] Agency Scope of Review

In review of administrative findings regarding discipline of policeman, municipal body as properly reading entire transcript of administrative proceeding, pursuant to municipal ordinance allowing review of administrative findings and recommendations in order to affirm, revoke, or modify action taken; request for writ of mandate, on ground that reviewing body exceeded proper scope of review, was properly denied by trial court. Musquiz v. City of Huntington Park (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 876, 880-881, 225 Cal. Rptr. 817

[3] Alternative Writ of Mandate

Code Civ. Proc. § 1107 provides for respondent's points and authorities in opposition to issuance of alternative writ. Mooney v. Pickett (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 669, 683 n.16, 94 Cal. Rptr. 279, 483 P.2d 1231

Agency compliance is among acceptable responses to alternative writ of mandate and as terminating litigation. Save Oxnard Shores v. California Coastal Com. (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 140, 149, 224 Cal. Rptr. 425

Court is required to withhold issuance of alternative writ until passage of five-day period in Code Civ. Proc. § 1107 for filing respondent's points and authorities in opposition. Culver v. State Bd. of Equalization (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 404, 412, 105 Cal. Rptr. 602

Court has discretion to deny issuance of alternative writ if petition fails to allege prima facie case for relief. Kingston v. Dept. of Motor Vehicles (1969) 271 Cal. App. 2d 549, 552, 76 Cal. Rptr. 614 ; Black v. State Personnel Board (1955) 136 Cal. App. 2d 904, 909, 289 P.2d 863

Alternative writ is merely means by which court brings respondent within its jurisdiction. McPheeters v. Board of Medical Examiners (1947) 82 Cal. App. 2d 709, 716, 187 P.2d 116

[4] Answer

Allegations not expressly denied in answer are deemed admitted. Dulaney v. Municipal Court (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 77, 81, 81 n.3, 112 Cal. Rptr. 777, 520 P.2d 1

Trial court correctly found petitioner lacked clean hands, in light of petitioner's failure to either file replication or submit proof countervailing respondent agency's affirmative defense that he obtained his contractor's license fraudulently. Elliott v. Contractors' State License Board (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1048, 1054, 274 Cal. Rptr. 286

Answer filed with points and authorities in opposition to issuance of alternative writ [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107] is premature. Kim v. Chinn (1941) 46 Cal. App. 2d 854, 854, 117 P.2d 368

Answer by fewer than quorum of members of multimember agency is no answer at all. People v. Supervisors of City & County of San Francisco (1865) 27 Cal. 655, 668-670

Necessity for verification of answer by public officer. Lertora v. Riley (1936) 6 Cal. 2d 171, 176, 57 P.2d 140 (not required); City & County of San Francisco v. Itsell (1889) 80 Cal. 57, 60, 22 P. 74 (required); Seckels v. Department of Indus. Relations (1929) 98 Cal. App. 647, 648, 277 P. 497 (not required)

Lack of verification is defect correctable by amendment. Security T. & S. Bk. v. Fidelity & D. Co. (1920) 184 Cal. 173, 176, 193 P. 102 ; Board of Education v. Mulcahy (1942) 50 Cal. App. 2d 418, 423, 123 P.2d 114 ; Jenssen v. R.K.O. Studios, Inc. (1937) 20 Cal. App. 2d 705, 707, 67 P.2d 757

Objection to lack of verification is waived if not made at or before filing of responsive pleading. Greenfield v. Steamer Gunnell (1856) 6 Cal. 67, 68

Withdrawal of answer after filing is concession that facts alleged in petition are true. Western States Constr. Co. v. Municipal Court of San Francisco (1951) 38 Cal. 2d 146, 149, 238 P.2d 562

Answer denying allegations of petition puts burden on petitioner to prove right to relief. Alford v. Pierno (1972) 27 Cal. App. 3d 682, 690-691, 104 Cal. Rptr. 110

[5] Continuances

In administrative mandate proceeding, trial court did not abuse its discretion in denying plaintiff's motion for continuance, when plaintiff conceded only purpose for motion was to allow plaintiff time to properly analyze administrative record, and plaintiff had almost one week to conduct analysis prior to hearing. Foster v. Civil Service Com. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 444, 448-449, 190 Cal. Rptr. 893

[6] Costs and Attorneys Fees

Right to recover attorney's fees does not extend to further proceedings after judgment in party's favor. Le Blanc v. Swoap (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 741, 743-744, 129 Cal. Rptr. 304, 548 P.2d 704

Expense of preparing record for purpose of exhausting administrative remedies is recoverable cost. Ralph's Chrysler-Plymouth v. New Car Dealers Policy & Appeals Board (1973) 8 Cal. 3d 792, 796, 106 Cal. Rptr. 169, 505 P.2d 1009

Expense of preparing record is recoverable cost. Moran v. Board of Medical Examiners (1948) 32 Cal. 2d 301, 315, 196 P.2d 20

Necessity for costs to be awarded in judgment. Union Trust Co. v. Superior Court (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 541, 543, 90 P.2d 582 ; Gould v. Moss (1910) 158 Cal. 548, 549, 111 P. 925

Costs are recoverable by prevailing party as matter of right. Power v. May (1898) 123 Cal. 147, 152-153, 55 P. 796

Award of attorney's fees under Gov. Code § 800 was reversible error in absence of evidence that complainant was personally obligated to pay fees. Richardson v. Board of Supervisors (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 486, 496-497, 250 Cal. Rptr. 1

Erroneous interpretation of law does not suggest per se that action of public entity or officer thereof was arbitrary or capricious; attorney's fees under Gov. Code § 800 are not recoverable when nothing in record justifies conclusion that administrative board's action was arbitrary or capricious. Indian Springs, Ltd. v. Palm Desert Rent Review Bd. (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 127, 137-138, 238 Cal. Rptr. 112

City council's "eleventh hour" resolution reducing appeals board's authority in violation of meet and confer requirements, and its decision to uphold plaintiff's termination despite board's contrary recommendation, constitutes arbitrary and capricious conduct justifying award of attorney's fees under Gov. Code § 800. Cerini v. City of Cloverdale (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1471, 1481-1482, 237 Cal. Rptr. 116

"Complainant" entitled to attorney's fees within meaning of Gov. Code § 800 is person who initiates appellate review of adverse determination in administrative hearing. Stirling v. Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1305, 1310, 235 Cal. Rptr. 56 (holding that real party in interest in proceeding for extraordinary writ was not "complainant" within meaning of statute)

Proceeding for writ of mandate or prohibition initiated by General Counsel for Agricultural Labor Relations Board, to require Board to adopt standards for reviewing settlements during unfair labor practice proceedings and to apply those standards to specific settlement, was not arbitrary and capricious conduct authorizing attorney's fees under Gov. Code § 800. Stirling v. Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1305, 1313, 235 Cal. Rptr. 56

Attorney's fees under Gov. Code § 800 are not recoverable when agency's action was neither arbitrary nor capricious. Gatewood v. Board of Retirement (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 311, 324 n.5, 220 Cal. Rptr. 724

Right to recover attorney's fees under Gov. Code § 800 is applicable only if plaintiff is appealing from determination of administrative proceeding and is inapplicable when plaintiff seeks to enforce administrative determination. Los Angeles Police Protective League v. City of Los Angeles (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 55, 65, 212 Cal. Rptr. 251

In mandate proceeding in which county board of supervisors' decision to abandon county road was upheld, trial court's award to county of costs, including county staff time expended to produce documents for plaintiff at plaintiff's request and by court order, was proper and within sound discretion of trial court. Heist v. County of Colusa (1984) 163 Cal. App. 3d 841, 851, 213 Cal. Rptr. 278

Gov. Code § 800 is remedial statute designed to enable employees to seek relief in courts against arbitrary or capricious action by public entities or officers, and is to be liberally construed; Gov. Code § 800 is not limited to appeal or review from formal administrative hearing and was properly applied when employee's grievance was summarily denied in letter without any formal adminstrative hearing. Forrest v. Trustees of Cal. State University & Colleges (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 357, 366-368, 206 Cal. Rptr. 595

Trial court's finding that certain administrative findings and determinations were not supported by record does not itself consititute evidence of arbitrary and capricious conduct so as to authorize attorney's fees under Gov. Code § 800. Byrnes v. Riles (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 1170, 1182, 204 Cal. Rptr. 100

Part-time community college instructors who sought and obtained writ of mandate requiring district to grant them status as regular employees and pro rata pay equivalent to full-time instructors were not entitled to attorney's fees under Gov. Code § 800; Gov. Code § 800 is inapplicable when petitioners did not seek review of an award, finding, or other determination of an administrative proceeding. Ferris v. Los Rios Community College Dist. (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 1, 11, 194 Cal. Rptr. 16

Finding that public entity or officer engaged in "conduct not supported by fair or substantial reason" or "unsubstantiated determinations" is prerequisite to award of attorney's fees under Gov. Code § 800, and is not recoverable in case of honest legal dispute. Seghesio v. County of Napa (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 371, 377, 185 Cal. Rptr. 224

Finding in support of award of attorney's fees under Gov. Code § 800 that governmental conduct was arbitrary and capricious is sustained on appeal unless abuse of discretion shown. Ellerbroek v. Saddleback Valley Unified School

Dist. (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 348, 376-377, 177 Cal. Rptr. 910

Public assistance recipient is entitled to attorney's fees on appeal from denial of writ in mandate proceeding to compel county's compliance with fair hearing decision of Department of Benefit Payments because enforcement of appellant's rights confers important benefit on general public. Blackburn v. Sarsfield (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 143, 150-151, 178 Cal. Rptr. 15

When petitioner had borne costs of preparing trial record in administrative hearing and cost was necessary and reasonable, reimbursement was properly awarded by trial court. Marlow v. Orange County Human Serv. Agency (1980) 110 Cal. App. 3d 290, 294, 167 Cal. Rptr. 776

Attorney's fees are not recoverable under Gov. Code § 800 (public entity's or officer's arbitrary or capricious conduct) unless administrative action was arbitrary or capricious. Marlow v. Orange County Human Serv. Agency (1980) 110 Cal. App. 3d 290, 295, 167 Cal. Rptr. 776

City's denial of application for permit to relocate building, based on unconstitutional ordinance prohibiting relocation of certain buildings, was arbitrary and capricious within meaning of Gov. Code § 800 in light of all circumstances, and applicant was therefore entitled to attorney's fees under that code section. Reeves v. City of Burbank (1979) 94 Cal. App. 3d 770, 778-780, 156 Cal. Rptr. 667

Court was without subject matter jurisidiction to order reporter at administrative hearing to prepare transcript of administrative hearing and to fix price for transcript. Barwis v. Superior Court (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 239, 241, 150 Cal. Rptr. 758

Claim was unwarranted when school board's action denying back salary reflected bona fide dispute concerning interpretation of statute governing back salary. Von Durjais v. Board of Trustees (1978) 83 Cal. App. 3d 681, 688-689, 148 Cal. Rptr. 192

Recovery of attorney's fees under Gov. Code § 800 (capricious and arbitrary administrative conduct). Midstate Theatres, Inc. v. Board of Supervisors (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 204, 211, 119 Cal. Rptr. 894 ; Madonna v. County of San Luis (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 57, 61-62, 113 Cal. Rptr. 916

[7] Default Cases

Appearance without answer is concession that facts alleged in complaint are true. Western States Constr. Co. v. Municipal Court of San Francisco (1951) 38 Cal. 2d 146, 149, 238 P.2d 562 ; Pereria v. Wallace (1900) 129 Cal. 397, 400, 62 P. 61 ; Jaquith v. Justice's Court (1926) 77 Cal. App. 542, 544-547, 247 P. 224

Allegations of complaint are not deemed admitted by respondent's failure to appear. Jackson School Dist. v. Culbert (1901) 134 Cal. 508, 509-510, 66 P. 741 ; Jaquith v. Justice's Court (1926) 77 Cal. App. 542, 544-547, 247 P. 224

Respondent appears by answer, demurrer, notice of motion to strike or for change of venue, or written notice of appearance. Rodriguez v. Municipal Court (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 521, 526, 102 Cal. Rptr. 45

[8] Demurrers

Return by demurrer alone admits allegations of petition. Kennedy v. Ross (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 569, 571, 170 P.2d 904

Statutes governing demurrers in civil actions and proceedings are applicable in mandate proceeding. W.R. Grace &

Answer raising only questions of law is equivalent of demurrer. Hayward v. Pimental (1895) 107 Cal. 386, 390, 40 P. 545 ; Gayle v. Hamm (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 250, 252-253 n.3, 101 Cal. Rptr. 628

Demurrer filed with points and authorities in opposition to issuance of alternative writ [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107] is premature. Kim v. Chinn (1941) 46 Cal. App. 2d 854, 854, 117 P.2d 368

[9] Discovery

Petitioner is not entitled on discovery to probe mental processes of agency members in reaching decision. Fairfield v. Superior Court (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 768, 774-775, 777-779, 122 Cal. Rptr. 543, 537 P.2d 375 ; State of California v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 257-258, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281 ; Board of Dental Examiners v. Superior Court (1975) 55 Cal. App. 3d 811, 814, 127 Cal. Rptr. 865

Petitioner is entitled to discovery with respect to evidence unavailable at time of administrative trial or evidence improperly excluded. State of California v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 257, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281

Petitioner seeking administrative review of agency's decision rendered pursuant to Gov. Code § 11517(c) is not entitled to discover whether or not agency actually satisfied its statutory duty to review hearing officer's proposed decision; when agency renders findings in quasi-judicial proceeding, petitioner is precluded from inquiry outside administrative record. Governing Board v. Superior Court (1985) 167 Cal. App. 3d 1158, 1160-1162, 213 Cal. Rptr. 771

[10] Evidence

In mandate proceeding, trial court's denial of motion to strike respondents' evidence that was not part of administrative record is not abuse of discretion under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e) when evidence pertained to issue first raised by petitioner in mandate petition, respondents had no reason to anticipate petitioner would raise issue, and respondents consequently had no reason to offer evidence on that issue at administrative hearing. Cranston v. City of Richmond (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 755, 773, 221 Cal. Rptr. 779, 710 P.2d 845

In administrative mandate action, court reviews administrative record and receives additional evidence only if that evidence was unavailable at time of hearing or improperly excluded from record. McIntosh v. Aubry (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1576, 1592, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 680

Review of legal theories does not involve receipt of evidence that was not before administrative agency. Division of Occupational Safety & Health v. State Bd. of Control (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 794, 801, 234 Cal. Rptr. 661

Trial court is authorized under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e) to receive evidence of events which transpired after administrative hearing; better practice to remand action for agency redetermination in light of new evidence. Curtis v. Board of Retirement (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 293, 299, 223 Cal. Rptr. 123

If trial court employs independent standard of review on issue of procedural fairness of administrative hearing, then trial judge is able to admit evidence on such issue under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e) without remanding case to administrative tribunal. Tiholiz v. Northridge Hospital Foundation (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 1197, 1204-1205, 199 Cal. Rptr. 338

Court is empowered to receive evidence only where evidence unavailable at administrative trial or unlawfully

excluded. No Oil, Inc. v. Los Angeles (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 68, 79 n.6, 118 Cal. Rptr. 34, 529 P.2d 66 ; Hadley v. City of Ontario (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 121, 126-127, 117 Cal. Rptr. 513

Court is not required to receive evidence petitioner merely neglected to present at administrative trial. Wilke & Holzheiser, Inc. v. Dept. of Alcoholic Bev. Control (1966) 65 Cal. 2d 349, 377, 55 Cal. Rptr. 23, 420 P.2d 735 ; Dare v. Bd. of Medical Examiners (1943) 21 Cal. 2d 790, 799, 136 P.2d 304

Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e) as permitting court in mandate proceeding to receive evidence that could not have been produced with reasonable diligence or that was wrongfully excluded at prior administrative hearing. Curtin v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 481, 484, 176 Cal. Rptr. 690

Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e) constitutes statutory authority for use of affidavits as direct evidence at administrative mandate hearings in superior court subject to rules governing right of cross examination and to prohibition against double hearsay. Windigo Mills v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 586, 598, 155 Cal. Rptr. 63

Failure to produce expert witness's testimony is not excusable because of unavailability of expert unless there was no other reasonable source of same evidence. American Chemical Corp. v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 45, 55, 116 Cal. Rptr. 751

Trial in superior court is more like appellate review than new trial. Campbell v. Board of Dental Examiners (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 872, 875, 95 Cal. Rptr. 351

[11] Peremptory Writ of Mandate

Judgment controlls in event of conflict between terms of judgment and terms of peremptory writ. State Bd. of Equalization v. Superior Court (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 467, 475, 127 P.2d 4

Peremptory writ can be issued where justice requires, even if terms cannot conform to terms of alternative writ. Johnson v. Fontana County F.P. Dist. (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 380, 391-392, 101 P.2d 1092

Notice of motion for enforcement is required. McDonald v. Severy (1936) 6 Cal. 2d 629, 631, 59 P.2d 98

Trial court properly refused to remand matter to agency for corrective action when it remanded matter to agency with directions to issue permit without conditions imposed by agency, and further proceedings were unnecessary because agency had already considered matter carefully when it imposed conditions. Whaler's Village Club v. California Coastal Com. (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 240, 263, 220 Cal. Rptr. 2

Board's failure to make findings supporting its adjudicatory administrative decision is prejudicial and precludes meaningful judicial review; peremptory writ of mandate, which ordered board to vacate its decision subject to its right to review further existing records and make findings adequate to apprise court of reasons for its decision, is appropriate. Respers v. University of Cal. Retirement System (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 864, 870-873, 217 Cal. Rptr. 594

Enforcement of peremptory writ is matter of compliance with duties rather than punishment. King v. Martin (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 791, 796, 98 Cal. Rptr. 711

Peremptory writ can be issued before entry of judgment. Healy v. Stationers Corp. (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 601, 604, 39 Cal. Rptr. 679

Petitioner is not entitled to have errors in trial reviewed in proceeding for enforcement of writ. Gunn v. Superior

Court (1946) 76 Cal. App. 2d 203, 206-207, 173 P.2d 328

[12] Points and Authorities in Opposition

Memorandum of points and authorities allowed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1107 is in nature of brief for court's benefit. Mercer-Fraser Co. v. Industrial Acci. Com. (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 102, 129, 251 P.2d 955 ; Peter v. Board of Supervisors (1947) 78 Cal. App. 2d 515, 521, 178 P.2d 73

Memorandum of points and authorities allowed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1107 is not substitute for demurrer or answer. Wilson v. L.A. County Civil Service Com. (1951) 103 Cal. App. 2d 426, 431, 229 P.2d 406

[13] Remand to Administrative Level

Remand to agency with determinative powers is proper when court finds that hearing was denied. Johnston v. Trustees of Cal. State University & Colleges (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 1003, 1012, 199 Cal. Rptr. 175

[14] Replication

Factual allegations in answer are deemed true unless controverted by pleading (replication) or proof. California Portland Cement Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 578, 582 n.5, 63 Cal. Rptr. 5, 432 P.2d 700 ; Elliott v. Contractors' State License Bd. (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1048, 1054, 274 Cal. Rptr. 286 ; Antoine v. Department of Public Health (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 215, 221-222, 108 Cal. Rptr. 689

Right of petitioner to file replication to answer. Scott v. Superior Court (1928) 205 Cal. 525, 526-527, 271 P. 906 ; McClatchy v. Matthews (1901) 135 Cal. 274, 276, 67 P. 134 ; Kahn v. East Bay Mun. Util. Dist. (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 397, 414, 116 Cal. Rptr. 333

[15] Service of Petition

Copies of petition and supporting papers should be served before filing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107] unless prior service is excused by court order. Miller v. Hamm (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 860, 866 n.6, 88 Cal. Rptr. 538

Effect of service requirements in Code Civ. Proc. § 1107. Mercer-Fraser Co. v. Industrial Acci. Com. (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 102, 129, 251 P.2d 955 ; Peter v. Board of Supervisors of Kern County (1947) 78 Cal. App. 2d 515, 521, 178 P.2d 73

Service of copy of petition is required to give notice of pending proceeding. Ursino v. Superior Court (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 611, 617, 114 Cal. Rptr. 404

[16] Summary Disposition

Summary disposition not on merits does not preclude subsequent original proceeding in appellate court. Goddard v. Security Title Ins. & Guar. Co. (1939) 14 Cal. 2d 47, 51-53, 92 P.2d 804

Appellate court is not required to entertain subsequent original proceeding following summary disposition in superior court. People v. Municipal Court (1971) 14 Cal. App. 3d 362, 365, 92 Cal. Rptr. 248 ; Hartigan v. Pacific Gas & Electric Co. (1918) 38 Cal. App. 763, 764, 177 P. 484

[17] Venue

Plaintiff suing local agency is unable to institute action in neutral county as of right [Code Civ. Proc. § 394(a)]; county in which action arose is proper venue [Code Civ. Proc. § 393(1)(b)] Sutter Union High School Dist. v. Superior Court (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 795, 797-798, 190 Cal. Rptr. 182

Venue of mandate proceeding for review of administrative decision is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 393(1)(b). Lynch v. Superior Court (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 929, 930-931, 86 Cal. Rptr. 925

County where the cause, or some part thereof, arose [Code Civ. Proc. § 393(1)(b)] is determined by where petitioner most directly or seriously affected by administrative decision in question resides. Lynch v. Superior Court (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 929, 931-933, 86 Cal. Rptr. 925 ; Duval v. Contractors State License Bd. (1954) 125 Cal. App. 2d 532, 533-536, 271 P.2d 194 ; Cecil v. Superior Court (1943) 59 Cal. App. 2d 793, 799, 140 P.2d 125

Parties in mandate proceeding are entitled to seek change of venue. Bloom v. Oroville-Wyandotte Irrigation Dist. (1939) 34 Cal. App. 2d 102, 103, 93 P.2d 164

§ 474C.90 Petition for Administrative Writ of Mandate to Review Administrative Decision

[1] FORM Petition for Administrative Writ of Mandate to Review Administrative Decision

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Petitioner,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	PETITION FOR WRIT OF MANDATE
_____ [name],	)	Date: _____
Respondents.	)	Time: _____
	)	Location: _____

Petitioner respectfully represents:

1. _____[If petitioner is not an individual, state petitioner's identity as corporation, partnership, or other entity].

2. Respondent _____ [identify, e.g., Medical Board of the State of California] is _____ [status of respondent in state or local government, e.g., an administrative agency in the Department of Consumer Affairs, which is a department in the Agriculture and Services Agency of the state government].

3. _____ [Authority of respondent to exercise discretion in determining relevant facts, and requirement that hearing be held, e.g., Under Sections 2220 et seq. of the Business and Professions Code, the Board has discretion to determine whether a ground exists for suspension or revocation of a physician's and surgeon's certificate, and particularly whether _____ (specify facts constituting ground for action). Pursuant to Section 2230 of the Business and Professions Code and Sections 11500-11528 of the Government Code, the Board is required to hold a hearing and take evidence in its proceedings for the determination of those facts].

4. _____ [Facts regarding holding of hearing, e.g., On _____ (date), at _____ (specify meeting place) a hearing was held to receive evidence on the issue whether a ground exists for suspension or revocation of the physician's and surgeon's certificate which petitioner then held and which was then in full force and effect. Petitioner attended the hearing. On _____ (date), petitioner received the Board's decision and order _____ (effect of decision and order, e.g., revoking petitioner's physician's and surgeon's certificate) on the ground that _____ (specify, if possible). _____ (State fact of application for reconsideration, if appropriate, and adverse result)].

5. _____ [Reasons for invalidity of decision e.g., The Board's decision and order are invalid for the following reasons:

a. The hearing officer found that _____ (state all findings). The Board does not have authority to revoke a physician's and surgeon's certificate on any of those grounds.

b. At the hearing, petitioner tried to offer evidence to show that _____ (facts provable by evidence in question). This evidence was in the form of _____ (specify, e.g., the testimony of _____ (name)). The hearing officer ruled that this evidence was not admissible, and it was not received. The evidence was admissible and should have been received.

c. The hearing officer found that _____ (state specific findings). The evidence received at the hearing does not support these findings, as petitioner alleges more particularly hereinafter].

6. _____ [A verbatim transcript of the record of the hearing, containing the evidence received, is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof or The substance of the evidence received at the hearing is as follows: _____ (state substance of evidence)]. [If petitioner claims that evidence does not support findings, add: The evidence does not support the findings for the following reasons: _____ (specify).] [If petitioner claims that incompetent evidence was received, add: Petitioner objected at the hearing to the following evidence, on the grounds indicated, but in each instance petitioner's objection was not sustained, and the evidence was received: _____ (identify evidence, e.g., the testimony of _____ (name) which was offered to show _____ (specify and state ground for objection, e.g., which was objected to on the ground that _____ (specify)).]

[7. Add, if appropriate: Petitioner has the following relevant evidence which was not presented at the hearing: _____ (describe completely). This evidence could not be produced at the hearing because _____ (specify why, in the exercise of reasonable diligence, petitioner could not produce evidence and why, if appropriate, evidence could not be produced on reconsideration.) This evidence tends to show that _____ (state what evidence will prove).]

[8. If case involves denial of application for license, permit, or the like, add: Petitioner meets all of the qualifications for _____ (specify, e.g., a physician's and surgeon's certificate) established by law. Petitioner duly applied on _____ (date) for a _____ (specify, e.g., physician's and surgeon's certificate), in compliance with all statutes and administrative regulations governing the application.]

[EITHER, if attorney's fees are claimed under Gov. Code § 800]

[9. As an incident of bringing and maintaining this proceeding, petitioner has become and is obligated personally to pay to his/her counsel, _____ (name), attorney's fees _____ (exceeding $7,500 or in the sum of $_____).]

[OR, if litigation expenses are claimed under Code Civ. Proc. § 1028.5]

[9. As an incident of bringing and maintaining this proceeding, petitioner incurred the following litigation expenses in addition to other costs: _____ (list reasonable expenses, e.g.,

a. Attorney's fees in the sum of $_____;

b. Costs of the administrative proceedings in the amount of $_____;

c. Witness fees in the amount of $_____).]

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays judgment as follows:

[1. If alternative writ procedure is used: For an alternative writ of mandate directing respondent to set aside its order of _____[date], _____ (specify effect of order, e.g., revoking petitioner's physician's and surgeon's certificate), (if application for license, permit, or the like was denied, add: and to reconsider whether petitioner is entitled to receive a _____ (specify, e.g., physician's and surgeon's certificate) as applied for,) (if license, permit, or the like was suspended, revoked, or otherwise restricted, add: and to reinstate petitioner's _____ (specify, e.g., physician's and surgeon's certificate) as it existed before that order was issued,) or in the alternative to show cause why a peremptory writ of mandate to the same effect should not be issued;]

[2. If petitioner will seek stay of operation of administrative order or decision pending judgment, add: For an order restraining respondent from giving effect to its order of _____[date], _____ (specify effect of order), until further order of the court and to show cause why operation of that order should not be stayed pending the judgment in this proceeding;]

3. For a peremptory writ of mandate _____ [to the same effect as the alternative writ except for the order to show cause or set out terms at length as in Paragraph 1 of this prayer, omitting words relating to order to show cause;

[4. For reasonable attorney's fees, in addition to any other relief granted or other costs awarded;]

5. For costs of suit herein incurred [and for reasonable litigation expenses]; and

6. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

VERIFICATION

I, _____[name], am the petitioner in the above-entitled proceeding. I have read the foregoing petition and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a petition for a writ of mandate for use by the person aggrieved to obtain judicial review of an administrative decision (and resulting order, if any) that the petitioner's license application be denied or that a license be suspended or revoked, or that a penalty or probationary conditions be imposed [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5].

[3] Verification

A verification is required [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086]. The requirements for a verification are set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 446 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1109; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5 (form of declaration under penalty of perjury)]. If the petition was inadvertently not verified, the court may allow an amendment for the purpose of supplying a verification [Franchise Tax Bd. v. Municipal Court (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 377, 384, 119 Cal. Rptr. 552] .

[4] Caption and Introduction

The petition will be filed in the superior court. The caption will, therefore, reflect that fact and identify the county where the petition is filed [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 422.30 (caption of pleading), 1109]. In setting out the title of the proceeding [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 422.30 (caption of pleading), 1109], counsel should describe the respondent as an administrative agency without using any individual's name. Generally, the petition should name as respondent the decision-making authority of the agency [Elliott v. Contractors' State License Board. (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1048, 1056, 274 Cal. Rptr. 286] , particularly since the petitioner may otherwise run the risk of denial of the writ for failure to state a cause of action because the appropriate agency decision-making authority is not named as a party [see Elliott v. Contractors' State License Bd. (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1048, 1050, 1056 (declining to consider whether petitioner's failure to name appropriate decision-making authority would have been sufficient reason, standing alone, to deny writ)].

The parties are customarily called "petitioner" and "respondent" because the initial pleading is customarily called a "petition" [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1086]. The parties may be called "plaintiff" and "defendant" [Code Civ. Proc. § 1063], but this is seldom done. If there are two or more petitioners or respondents, all must be identified in the caption of the petition [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 422.40, 1109].

The character of the proceeding, which must be briefly stated in the caption [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(6)], is sufficiently described by the phrase "PETITION FOR WRIT OF MANDATE [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5]." Generally, there is no requirement that the petition expressly refer to Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5. Whether or not a local rule requires it, inclusion of a citation to Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 in the caption is advisable because it will avoid confusion [see Grimes v. Hoschler (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 305, 308 n.3, 115 Cal. Rptr. 625, 525 P.2d 65] .

It is customary to begin the petition with an introductory phrase such as "Petitioner respectfully represents" or, more simply, "Petitioner alleges."

[5] Essential Allegations

The petition must state facts tending to show the following:

1. Discretion to determine certain relevant facts is vested in the agency whose decision is the subject of the proceeding (Paragraph 3) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a)].

2. By law a hearing is required to be held for the purpose of determining those facts (Paragraph 3) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a)].

3. Evidence is required to be taken at the hearing (Paragraph 3) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a)].

4. A final administrative decision was made as a result of that hearing and the determination of those facts (Paragraph 4) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a)].

5. The decision is invalid [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a)] because of one or more of the following defects:

a. The agency proceeded without or in excess of authority (Paragraph 5) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b)].

b. The petitioner was denied a fair trial (Paragraph 5) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b)].

c. The agency abused its discretion (see the first fact above) in one of the following ways:

i. It did not proceed in the manner required by law (Paragraph 5) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b)].

ii. The decision is not supported by the findings resulting from the administrative hearing (Paragraph 5) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b)].

iii. The findings are not supported by the evidence (Paragraphs 5 and 6) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b)].

If it is contended that the findings are not supported by the evidence, the petition must allege the substance of the evidence or, if a record of the evidence is available, must be accompanied by a transcript of the evidence attached as an exhibit and incorporated by reference.

If there is relevant evidence which, in the exercise of reasonable diligence, the petitioner could not have produced at the hearing, the petition should allege the substance of that evidence and facts showing why it could not have been produced in the administrative hearing (Paragraph 7).

In addition to the foregoing, the petition must show the following:

6. The petitioner is beneficially interested in issuance of the writ--that is, he or she has standing to sue (Paragraph 4) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1086].

7. The petitioner has exhausted administrative remedies [see Abelleira v. District Court of Appeal (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 280, 291-296, 109 P.2d 942] .

8. The petitioner has no plain and speedy remedy in the ordinary course of law [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1086].

[6] Alleging Facts Subject to Judicial Notice

Ultimate facts which are provable by judicial notice [see Evid. Code § 451 (mandatory judicial notice)], such as that the agency has discretion to determine certain facts, that a hearing is required by law, and that evidence is required to be taken, should be alleged. There is some authority in decisions of the Supreme Court for the proposition that such facts will be noticed whether or not they have been alleged [see Loranger v. Nadeau (1932) 215 Cal. 362, 365, 10 P.2d 63 , overruled on different point; Reich v. Purcell (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 551, 555, 63 Cal. Rptr. 31, 432 P.2d 727 ; see also Stanton v. Dumke (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 199, 201-202, 49 Cal. Rptr. 380, 411 P.2d 108 (court as required when ruling on sufficiency of demurrer to consider facts subject to judicial notice, as though they are alleged in petition)]. However, judicial notice merely does away with the necessity for evidence as to the facts noticed [Varcoe v. Lee (1919) 180 Cal. 338, 344, 181 P. 223] . The better practice is to allege such facts.

[7] Identity of Petitioner

If the petitioner is not a natural person, the petition should allege the petitioner's identity as an existing legal entity entitled to sue (i.e., to come into court) [see Parker v. Bowron (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 344, 351, 254 P.2d 6] . This is sometimes referred to as the capacity to sue (Paragraph 1).

[8] Petitioner's Standing to Sue

A petition for writ of mandate will be granted only where it is necessary to protect a substantial right and only when it is shown that some substantial damage will be suffered by the petitioner if the petition is denied. The writ will not be issued except on the verified petition of a person beneficially interested [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1086]; it will not be issued where the petitioner fails to show that it will subserve or protect some right or interest of his or hers; it will not be issued where it is apparent that the petitioner has no direct interest in the act sought to be coerced and that no benefit can accrue to him or her from its performance. Therefore, it is necessary for the petitioner to allege facts showing that he or she has some right or interest in the act sought to be coerced. In other words, the petitioner must show in his or her petition that he or she has standing to sue. This is the nature of the requirement concerning beneficial interest [see Parker v. Bowron (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 344, 351, 254 P.2d 6 (distinguishing capacity and standing to sue)].

The requirement that the petitioner be beneficially interested in issuance of the writ has been discussed in Ch. 474, § 474.13. It is unlikely that a petition could fail to show the petitioner's beneficial interest, if his or her participation in the administrative proceeding is alleged. It is not necessary to use the words "beneficially interested" in the petition (Paragraph 4).

If necessary, the petition may be amended to show the petitioner's beneficial interest [Temescal Water Co. v. Dept. of Public Works (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 90, 107, 280 P.2d 1] .

Where the administrative decision complained of is to the effect that an application for a license was denied, it will be necessary for the petitioner to allege facts showing that he or she complied with all lawful requirements for issuance of the license and that issuance of it would be proper [see Selby Realty Co. v. City of San Buenaventura (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 110, 123-126, 109 Cal. Rptr. 799, 514 P.2d 111 ; Mann v. Board of Medical Examiners (1947) 31 Cal. 2d 30, 40, 187 P.2d 1 ; Hippen v. Ford (1900) 129 Cal. 315, 316, 61 P. 929 (petitioner seeking writ to compel issuance of liquor license as required to prove that all necessary steps to qualify were taken)]. An allegation that the petitioner qualified for the license and that he or she duly applied for it should be sufficient (Paragraph 8) [see Selby Realty Co. v. City of San Buenaventura (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 110, 123, 109 Cal. Rptr. 799, 514 P.2d 111 ; Hippen v. Ford (1900) 129 Cal. 315, 316, 61 P. 929 (conceding sufficiency of allegation that petitioner duly complied with all laws, rules, ordinances, and regulations of municipality and performed all requirements necessary under law for issuance of liquor license); Babcock v. Goodrich (1874) 47 Cal. 488, 512 (allegation in petition for writ of mandate that certain orders were duly given and made by board of supervisors as sufficient allegation of board's authority to make them)].

[9] Identity of Respondent

Insofar as a party seeks review of a final official administrative action, only the agency (and its members, if a multimember body) would be proper respondents in the mandate proceeding. Neither mere employees of the agency nor the state should be named as respondents; no relief is available against them [State of California v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 255, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281] .

In several cases decided before it became the practice to review administrative decisions in a mandate proceeding, the rule was stated that a writ of mandate will not be issued against an office but must be directed to the person holding the office and, as a corollary rule, that the successor of an officer who dies, resigns, or is removed from office must be made a party to the proceeding if the proceeding is to be continued [see George v. Beaty (1927) 85 Cal. App. 525, 532, 260 P. 386 ; see also Ex parte Tinkum (1880) 54 Cal. 201, 203] . The rules developed because historically the writ of mandate corrected a personal default by an officer consisting in his or her wrongful refusal to perform a legal duty. It was obviously unfair to pass along to a new office holder the consequences of his or her predecessor's default, such as a liability for paying costs or the possibility of being held in contempt. The use of a mandate proceeding for review of an administrative decision changes the circumstances that gave rise to those rules. If a mandate proceeding is used for that purpose, "[o]fficial and not personal action is the gravamen of the [petition]. Thus, it is the board [or other agency] as such, and not the individual members, that is the actual [respondent]" [Sperry & Hutchinson Co. v. Cal. State Bd. of Pharmacy (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 229, 236, 50 Cal. Rptr. 489 (action for declaratory relief respecting regulation prohibiting pharmacists from giving trading stamps to purchasers of prescription drugs and for injunction; on demurrer by members of Board of Pharmacy, action dismissed as to them individually; judgment for plaintiff modified accordingly and affirmed)]. This reasoning extends to proceedings against officers (e.g., the Director of Motor Vehicles) as well as those against multimember agencies. In practice a mandate proceeding for review of an administrative decision has been brought against an officer or agency sued by official title or name on many occasions, and the propriety of doing so has not been questioned.

[10] Evidentiary Hearing Required

The conditions precedent to maintaining a mandate proceeding for review of an administrative decision include a requirement in the law that a hearing be given and that evidence be taken at that hearing [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a)]. In alleging the existence of the condition, it should be sufficient to state that for the purpose of determining certain facts which the respondent agency has discretion to determine, the agency is required by certain statutes to hold a hearing and receive evidence (Paragraph 3). It should be noted that the procedural requirements imposed by statute or decision are matters for judicial notice [see Evid. Code § 451].

[11] Making of Final Administrative Decision

Since the purpose of review under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is to inquire into the validity of a final administrative decision [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a)], the petition should contain a short narrative of events showing that a final decision was made (Paragraph 4). The essential facts in such a narrative are that a hearing was held, that the purpose of the hearing was to receive evidence relevant to the determination of certain facts, and that the petitioner both attended the hearing and did whatever else was necessary to exhaust his or her administrative remedies (such as seeking a reconsideration).

[12] Invalidity of Decision

The reasons why the decision is invalid may be stated in statutory terms, for the court's convenience in understanding the basis for the petitioner's complaint, but statutory language alone is not sufficient. Facts must be alleged (Paragraph 5) [see, e.g., Ward v. County of Riverside (1969) 273 Cal. App. 2d 353, 358, 78 Cal. Rptr. 46] .

Counsel preparing a petition should take care not to make the allegations of invalidity too cryptic. The possible defects in the administrative proceeding are somewhat confusingly described in Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5, and there appears to be some overlap between several of them. If counsel is unsure whether a particular defect is, for example, a denial of a fair hearing or a failure to proceed in the manner required by law, the statutory language should not be used, and only the facts should be alleged.

Commonly alleged defects are the improper exclusion of evidence, the failure of the evidence received to support the findings, and the failure of the findings to support the order or decision. Other grounds for attack include the agency's incorrect interpretation of the law [see Bodinson Mfg. Co. v. California Employment Comm'n (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 321, 325-326, 109 P.2d 935] , the lack of credibility of the witnesses who testified at the administrative hearing [see Dare v. Bd. of Medical Examiners (1943) 21 Cal. 2d 790, 799-800, 136 P.2d 304] , the receipt of incompetent evidence over a timely and sufficient objection [see Borror v. Department of Inv. (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 531, 545, 92 Cal. Rptr. 525] , and the agency's consideration of evidence not received at the hearing [see English v. City of Long Beach (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 155, 159, 217 P.2d 22] .

Abuse of discretion is almost always alleged, both because it is a vague charge and also because most petitioners attack the receipt of evidence, consideration of it, and decision making on the basis of findings. Abuse of discretion is established if evidence was not received in the manner required by law, or if the evidence does not support the findings, or if the findings do not support the order or decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b)].

In alleging an abuse of discretion, words expressing a legal conclusion to that effect should be avoided. Such words include: arbitrary, capricious, fraudulent, wrongful, and unlawful [Faulkner v. California Toll Bridge Auth. (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 317, 329, 253 P.2d 659] . These words do not describe facts, and only facts should be alleged [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.10, 1109; Boren v. State Personnel Board (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 634, 638, 234 P.2d 981] .

[14] Evidence Not Supporting Findings

When it appears that an administrative decision is within the agency's authority and that in making the decision the agency conducted a hearing, heard the interested parties, and acted on substantial evidence, the court may not conclude that the agency abused its discretion unless a complete transcript of all the evidence on which the agency acted is attached to the petition, or, at least, the substance of all of the evidence which the agency received is alleged. The petition must also state particularly "the elements, aspects and principles wherein such evidence, considered in the light of the [petitioner's] contention, supports the conclusion that the [agency] abused the discretion vested in it. By no other means, since the averment of naked conclusions adds nothing, can the pleading show that the agency in a case such as this did in fact abuse its discretion" [Faulkner v. California Toll Bridge Auth. (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 317, 330-331, 253 P.2d 659] .

The party intending to use a part of the administrative record in a case brought under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 must lodge that part of the record at least five days before the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1140].

In the absence of the evidence, an abuse of discretion cannot be shown by mere allegations of what the agency did or did not consider. If the petitioner is to prevail, he or she must attack what the agency actually did on the basis of the evidence before it. For example, only in the light of the evidence before the agency when it acted could the agency's refusal to hear further evidence be shown to be erroneous, or could the inference be drawn that the agency abused its discretion in not doing something other than what it did [Faulkner v. California Toll Bridge Auth. (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 317, 331, 253 P.2d 659] .

See Paragraph 6 for an example of the method of pleading a failure of the evidence to support the findings.

[15] Findings Not Supporting Decision

When the decision was not supported by the findings, that will be evident if the findings are recited. Every finding must independently fail to support the decision (Paragraph 5). A failure to negate all legitimate grounds for the administrative action would probably be a ground for demurrer, at least on this one point [see Peck v. Board of Supervisors (1891) 90 Cal. 384, 385, 27 P. 301 (petition for writ to compel supervisors to repair county road; demurrer sustained when petition did not allege facts showing county did not abandon road); see also W.R. Grace & Co. v. Cal. Emp. Com. (1944) 24 Cal. 2d 720, 731, 151 P.2d 215 (fact that agency based decision on erroneous ground as not warranting issuance of writ if there was other legal justification for decision; dictum reporting rule)].

[16] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

A court of appeal has held that a petition for writ of mandate to review an administrative decision sufficiently shows the exhaustion of administrative remedies if it alleges that petitioner has exhausted his administrative remedies and has no appeal nor any plain, speedy, or adequate remedy at law [Wong v. Regents of University of California (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 823, 827, 829, 93 Cal. Rptr. 502] . This seems an extreme view, since the petition in the case at bench did not otherwise disclose that available administrative remedies had been exhausted. The statement that petitioner has exhausted his administrative remedies is unquestionably a legal conclusion, and the pleading of legal conclusions cannot be recommended as a substitute for stating the facts. The better practice is to state as facts what actually was done, such as attendance at the hearing and an application for reconsideration with an adverse result (Paragraph 4).

[17] Lack of Other Remedy

The requirement that no other plain and speedy remedy be available to the petitioner in the ordinary course of law [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1086] has been discussed in Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions, § 474.13[2].

The lack of another plain and speedy remedy should appear from the allegations of the petition taken as a whole [see Ross v. O'Brien (1934) 1 Cal. App. 2d 496, 501, 36 P.2d 1108] , and it should not be necessary to try to set out facts in a separate allegation tending to show that the condition exists. Attorneys have been accustomed to allege, in so many words, that petitioner has no plain, speedy, and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law [see, e.g., Wong v. Regents of University of California (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 823, 829, 93 Cal. Rptr. 502] , but this is unnecessary. If the petition states facts on which the writ may be issued [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1094.5], the court should have no difficulty in determining that no plain and speedy remedy exists in the ordinary course of law [see Rescue Army v. Municipal Court (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 460, 466-467, 171 P.2d 8] .

Attorney's fees might be recoverable, pursuant to a statutory provision [see Gov. Code § 800]. For a discussion of attorneys' fees, see § 474C.13[6]. In cases involving a small business or licensee (defined in Code Civ. Proc. § 1028.5(c), (d), respectively), attorney fees might be recoverable along with other reasonable litigation expenses under Code Civ. Proc. § 1028.5, in which case Gov. Code § 800 will not apply [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1028.5(g)]. For a discussion, see § 474C.13[6].

[19] Prayer for Relief

The prayer must necessarily be framed in terms of the relief which the court may give in the light of what the petitioner will prove. For a discussion of the contents of the judgment, when it is in favor of the petitioner, see § 474C.25. An alternative writ will be requested unless the notice procedure is used. The petitioner should specify what terms he or she desires in the alternative writ.

If a stay of operation of the administrative decision will be sought, the prayer should include a request for a temporary stay order and an order to show cause why the stay should not be extended until the judicial proceeding has been concluded.

A peremptory writ should be requested, of course. If the notice procedure is used instead of the alternative writ procedure, the desired terms of the peremptory writ should be recited. If an alternative writ is sought, however, it is sufficient to refer to the terms of the alternative writ (except for the language respecting the order to show cause).

Attorney's fees and reasonable litigation expenses should be requested if they can properly be sought, and a request for costs should be included.

A verification is required [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086]. The requirements for a verification are set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 446 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1109; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5 (form of declaration under penalty of perjury)]. If the petition was inadvertently not verified, the court may allow an amendment for the purpose of supplying a verification [Franchise Tax Bd. v. Municipal Court (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 377, 384, 119 Cal. Rptr. 552] .

[20] Service

When a petition for a writ of mandate is filed, it must be accompanied by proof of service of a copy of the petition on the respondent and the real party in interest named in the petition. The petition is served according to the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020 governing the service of papers generally. However, if a petition is sought pursuant to the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1088.5 (filed in a trial court and no alternative writ sought), proof of service need not be filed with the petition, and the action may be filed and served in the same manner as an ordinary action. When the real party in respondent's interest is a board or commission, the service must be made on the presiding officer, or on the secretary, or on a majority of the members, of the board or commission [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107].

The court in which the petition is filed, in its discretion and for good cause, may grant the petition ex parte without notice or service [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107].

On _____ (date), a hearing was held at _____ (location) before an administrative law judge, who rendered a proposed decision that was adopted by respondent as its own, effective _____ (date). A copy of that decision, which is now final, is attached as Exhibit A.]

6. Respondent's decision is invalid for the following reasons: [Insert one or more of the following allegations, as appropriate to the facts of the case:]

a. Respondent acted _____ [without or in excess of its] jurisdiction, as follows: _____ [specify facts].

b. Petitioner did not receive a fair trial before respondent, as follows: _____ [specify facts].

c. Respondent committed a prejudicial abuse of discretion by failing to proceed in the manner required by law, as follows: _____ [specify facts showing failure to proceed in manner required by law].

d. Respondent committed a prejudicial abuse of discretion, in that the decision is not supported by the findings, as follows: _____[specify facts showing that decision is not supported by findings].

e. Respondent committed a prejudicial abuse of discretion, in that the findings are not supported by the evidence. The administrative law judge found that _____[state particular findings not supported by evidence].

[If transcript of evidence is attached to petition, insert following:]

A verbatim transcript of the record of the hearing, containing the evidence received, is attached as Exhibit _____ and made a part of this petition.

[Or, if substance of evidence is included in petition, insert following:]

The substance of the evidence received at the hearing is as follows: _____[state substance of evidence].

[Continue as follows:]

The evidence does not support the findings, as follows: _____[specify].

f. Evidence was improperly received, over petitioner's objection, at the hearing, as follows: _____ [specify evidence received and grounds upon which objection(s) made].

g. At the hearing, petitioner offered evidence that _____ [specify]. The administrative law judge ruled this evidence inadmissible. The evidence was admissible and should have been received, as follows: _____ [specify reasons].

h. Petitioner has the following evidence that was not presented at the hearing: _____ [specify]. Petitioner was unable, in the exercise of reasonable diligence, to produce this evidence at the hearing because _____ [specify reasons]. This evidence tends to show that _____ [specify].

7. Petitioner does not have a plain, speedy, and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law.

[If stay of agency decision is sought, insert following:]

8. If respondent's decision is not stayed pending the judgment of this court, petitioner will be irreparably harmed, in that _____[specify facts showing irreparable harm].

[If petitioner seeks attorney's fees under Gov. Code § 800, include the following:]

9. As an incident of bringing and maintaining this proceeding, petitioner has become personally obligated to pay to _____[name], _____ [his/her/its] counsel, attorney's fees _____ [in the amount of $_____ or in excess of $7,500] computed at $100 per hour.

[If petitioner seeks litigation expenses under Code Civ. Proc. § 1028.5, include the following:]

10. Petitioner is a _____ ["small business" as defined in Code Civ. Proc. § 1028.5(c) or "licensee" as defined in Code Civ. Proc. § 1028.5(d)]. As an incident of bringing and maintaining this proceeding, petitioner has incurred the following litigation expenses in addition to other costs: [list expenses, e.g.:]

a. Court costs in the amount of $_____.

b. Witness fees in the amount of $_____.

c. Expenses of the administrative proceedings in the amount of $_____.

d. Attorney's fees in the amount of $_____.

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays the court for judgment as follows:

1. For an alternative writ of mandate directing respondent to set aside its decision dated _____, _____ [describe effect of order, e.g.: suspending petitioner's _____ (specify license, certificate, or permit, e.g.: collection agency license)], or to show cause why a peremptory writ of mandate to the same effect should not be issued;

[If petitioner seeks stay of agency decision, include the following:]

2. For an order restraining respondent from giving effect to its decision dated _____, _____ [describe effect of order, e.g.: suspending petitioner's _____ (specify license, certificate, or permit, e.g.: collection agency license)] until further order of the court, and to show cause why operation of that decision should not be stayed pending the court's judgment in this proceeding;

3. For a peremptory writ of mandate directing respondent to set aside its decision dated _____, _____ [describe effect of order, e.g.: suspending petitioner's _____ (specify license, certificate, or permit, e.g.: collection agency license)].

[If petitioner seeks attorney's fees or litigation expenses, include the following:]

4. For reasonable _____ [attorney's fees or litigation expenses], in addition to any other relief granted or costs awarded;

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, may be used to petition a superior court for judicial review of an administrative decision. This form is an alternative to the form in § 474C.90. It is a generic form readily adaptable to a wide variety of circumstances, whereas the § 474C.90 form is more specific. See § 474C.13 for discussion of the requirements for this form.

[3] Verification

A verification is required [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086]. The requirements for a verification are set out in Code Civ. Proc. §

446 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1109]. If the petition was inadvertently not verified, the court may allow an amendment for the purpose of supplying a verification [Franchise Tax Bd. v. Municipal Court (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 377, 384, 119 Cal. Rptr. 552] .

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is an alternative writ for use by the petitioner in a mandate proceeding for review of an administrative decision. The form does not include an order for issuance of the writ, and should be used in conjuction with the form of order set forth in § 474C.95 when local court rules require that the order be be separate. See § 474C.15 for discussion of requirements for this form.

[3] Signature on Writ

The alternative writ of mandate is a judicial order [Code Civ. Proc. § 17; Painter v. Berglund (1939) 31 Cal. App. 2d 63, 70, 87 P.2d 360 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1087] which logically may be signed by a judge. However, the practice appears to be that the court signs an order to the clerk commanding the clerk to issue the alternative writ; and the clerk signs the writ and affixes the court's seal. The order for issuance of the writ may be a simple one-line directive to the effect of "Let the writ issue." It may be appended to the petition or to the alternative writ (in which case it usually is in the form of "Let the foregoing writ issue"). Local practice and superior court rules should be consulted on this point.

_____[Facts as to petitioner's efforts to obtain transcript of record, including dates and what was done, and unsuccessful result].

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct and that this declaration was executed on _____[date], at _____[city], California.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, combining an ex parte application with supporting declaration and an order for preparation and filing of the administrative record is for use by the petitioner who has been unable to obtain the record from the agency. The court is empowered by Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a) to order the agency to prepare and file the record. For further discussion, see § 474C.23.

_____ [signature]
Petitioner

[2] Use of Form

The form of replication in [1], above, is for use by the petitioner to reply to the answer of the respondent or real party in interest, or both, to petitioner's writ petition [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1091]. As shown in this form, the replication can consist of denials, affirmative allegations, or both. Allegations in the replication are considered with the same effect as allegations in the writ petition [see English v. City of Long Beach (1952) 114 Cal. App. 2d 311, 315, 250 P.2d 298] . A replication is a pleading that denies or controverts the affirmative allegations of an answer [see Lotus Car Ltd. v. Municipal Court (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 264, 268, 69 Cal. Rptr. 384] . Factual allegations in the answer to a petition for a writ of mandate must be countervailed by proof at trial or by replication, or they are taken as true [California Portland Cement Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 578, 582 n.5, 63 Cal. Rptr. 5, 432 P.2d 700 ; Elliott v. Contractors' State License Bd. (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1048, 1054, 274 Cal. Rptr. 286] . If, however, matters alleged in the answer are not sufficient to constitute a defense, then the court is not required to accept them as true and the petitioner is not required to controvert them [Most v. First Nat. Bank of San Diego (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 425, 432, 54 Cal. Rptr. 669 ; see Miller v. Eisenhower Medical Center (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 614, 625 n.10, 166 Cal. Rptr. 826, 614 P.2d 258] . See § 474C.21 for discussion of requirements for use of this form.

[3] Verification

A verification is required [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086]. The requirements for a verification are set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 446 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1109]. If the petition was inadvertently not verified, the court may allow an amendment for the purpose of supplying a verification [Franchise Tax Bd. v. Municipal Court (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 377, 384, 119 Cal. Rptr. 552] .

[4] Filing

If an alternative writ is sought, petitioner can file the replication at any time before the return date set forth in the alternative writ. If an alternative writ is not sought, petitioner can file the replication at any time before the hearing date on the motion for a peremptory writ. If the respondent or a real party in interest does not serve an answer until at or immediately prior to the hearing [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1089], petitioner should request a continuance of the hearing to prepare and file a replication if one is deemed necessary.

[5] Service

Because a replication is not permitted in a civil action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 422.10], there is no statute that explicitly provides for service. Nevertheless, Code Civ. Proc. § 465 provides that all pleadings subsequent to the complaint be filed with the clerk or judge, together with proof of service, unless a summons needs to be issued, and copies thereof served on the adverse party or that party's attorney [see Code Civ. Proc. § 465]. Because Code Civ. Proc. § 465 is applicable to administrative mandate proceedings pursuant to the general incorporating provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1109, a replication must be served on the attorney for the adverse party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1015]. Either service by mail or personal service would be acceptable [see generally Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

[2] Use of Form

The form of judgment in [1], above, is for use by the petitioner who has successfully petitioned for administrative mandate in the superior court [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5]. For a discussion of the requirements for judgments, see § 474C.25.

[3] Contents of Judgment

If a trial was held, the law contemplates that the judicial proceeding will be terminated by a judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 577 (judgment defined), 1094.5, 1109; International Asso. of Fire Fighters v. Palo Alto (1963) 60 Cal. 2d 295, 300-301, 32 Cal. Rptr. 842, 384 P.2d 170 ; Hadley v. Superior Court (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 389, 394, 105 Cal. Rptr. 500] .

Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e) provides that "[t]he court shall enter judgment either commanding [the] respondent to set aside the ... decision, or denying [the petition for] the writ." In practice the judgment is that a writ of mandate shall issue commanding the respondent (agency) to set aside the decision, either immediately after receipt of the writ or at some other specified time [e.g., Associated Brewers Distributing Co. v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County (1967) 65 Cal. 2d 583, 589, 55 Cal. Rptr. 772, 422 P.2d 332 ("Let a peremptory writ of mandate issue requiring respondent ... to set aside its order ... "); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1087 (form of peremptory writ)]. If the judgment is against the petitioner, it is simply that the petition is denied. In such a case the judgment usually also orders that the alternative writ is discharged [e.g., Jenkins v. Knight (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 220, 226, 293 P.2d 6] . If the judgment is in favor of the petitioner, it may also order the respondent to reconsider the case in the light of the court's opinion and judgment; and it may order the respondent to take such further action as is specially enjoined on the respondent by law [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5]. These further orders may appropriately be included in the writ, which is itself nothing more than a judicial order giving effect to the judgment [see Painter v. Berglund (1939) 87 P.2d 360 (defining writ as a written order issued by a court)]. The judgment may not limit or control in any way the discretion legally vested in the respondent (agency).

In an appropriate case the judgment will simply remand the case for further administrative proceedings. The trial court has inherent authority to do this [Keeler v. Superior Court (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 596, 600, 297 P.2d 967] , but the Code of Civil Procedure also gives the court this authority [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e)]. Remand is particularly appropriate where evidence was improperly excluded or where the petitioner could not, with reasonable diligence, have produced certain relevant evidence at the administrative hearing, and the court has no authority to exercise its independent judgment on the evidence [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(d)].

Where the issue in the trial court is whether the administrative decision is supported by substantial evidence in light of the whole record or whether there has been an abuse of discretion, findings are not essential to effective appellate review of the decision of the trial court. In such cases, the issue being essentially one of law, findings are not required [Friends of Lake Arrowhead v. Board of Supervisors (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 497, 518, 113 Cal. Rptr. 539 ; Contra Beloin v. Blankenhorn (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d 662, 664, 218 P.2d 552] .

A minute order has been held to be inappropriate for disposing of a petition for a writ of mandate and not to constitute a final judgment in the proceeding. However, a minute order could constitute notice of the court's intended decision [see Code Civ. Proc. § 632; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590], with a consequence that a party wanting written findings of fact would be required to request them within 10 days after announcement of mailing of the minute order [see Code Civ. Proc. § 632; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590] lest he be held to have waived his right to have them [Hadley v. Superior Court (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 389, 395, 105 Cal. Rptr. 500] .

In 1981, the California legislature amended Code Civ. Proc. § 632, replacing findings of fact and conclusions of law in general civil actions with a statement of decision. Code Civ. Proc. § 632, as amended, provides that on request of any party appearing at trial made within 10 days after the court announces its tentative decision, the court must issue a statement of decision explaining the factual and legal basis for its decision as to each principal controverted issue. The procedures provided in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590, have been modified accordingly.

[If respondent has failed to perform ministerial duty, use the following:]

4. Pursuant to _____[cite and describe statutory source of agency's duty], respondent has a clear, present, and ministerial duty to _____[specify nature of duty].

[Or, if respondent has failed or refused to exercise its discretion, use the following:]

4. Pursuant to _____[cite and describe statute or regulation conferring discretion on respondent], respondent has discretion to _____[specify nature of discretion]. Respondent has _____ [failed or refused] to exercise its discretion, as follows: _____[specify facts showing way in which respondent has failed or refused to exercise its discretion].

[Or, if respondent has abused its discretion, use the following:]

4. Pursuant to _____[cite and describe statute or regulation conferring discretion on respondent], respondent has discretion to _____[specify nature of discretion]. Respondent has abused this discretion, as follows: _____[specify facts showing how respondent has abused discretion].

[If petitioner seeks performance of respondent's duty, include the following:]

5. Petitioner has a clear, present, and substantial right to the performance of respondent's duty, as follows: _____[specify facts showing petitioner's entitlement to performance of duty, including exhaustion of administrative remedies and the making of any required demand or facts excusing such a demand]. At all times relevant to this petition, respondent has been able to perform its duty, but has _____ [failed or refused] and continues to _____ [fail or refuse] to do so.

[Continue with the following:]

6. Petitioner has no plain, speedy, and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law, other than the writ sought by this petition, as follows: _____[specify facts showing lack of other legal remedy].

[If petitioner seeks attorney's fees under Gov. Code § 800, include the following:]

7. As an incident of bringing and maintaining this proceeding, petitioner has become personally obligated to pay to _____[name], _____ [his/her/its] counsel, attorney's fees _____ [in the amount of $_____ or in excess of $7,500] computed at $100 per hour.

[If petitioner seeks litigation expenses under Code Civ. Proc. § 1028.5, include the following:]

8. Petitioner is a _____ ["small business" as defined in Code Civ. Proc. § 1028.5(c) or "licensee" as defined in Code Civ. Proc. § 1028.5(d)]. As an incident of bringing and maintaining this proceeding, petitioner has

Chapter 480 PUBLIC UTILITIES
PART I. SCOPE

42-480 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 480.01

§ 480.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses proceedings before and involving the California Public Utilities Commission (hereafter "PUC").

The chapter contains the following forms for use before the PUC:

- Forms for use in complaint proceedings, including forms of complaint, answer, and petition to intervene [see § 480.190].

- Forms for use in application proceedings, including forms of application for certificate of public convenience and necessity, rate change approval, stock issuance, and sale of property [see § 480.191].

- Forms for use in application proceedings on shortened tariff docket, including forms of application and protest [see § 480.192].

- Forms for use in proceedings to review categorization determination, including petition for rehearing of determination [see § 480.193].

In addition, the chapter contains the following forms for use in proceedings to review PUC orders or decisions:

- Form of petition for Writ of Certiorari to Review Order or Decision [see § 480.200[1]].

- Form of application to Transfer to Single Appellate District [see § 480.200[2]].

NOTE:

Deregulation of Electricity Providers. The 1996 legislation concerning deregulation of electric utilities, which was implemented between January 1, 1998 and December 31, 2002 [see Pub. Util. Code § 330], is generally beyond the scope of this chapter. This legislation has some indirect impact, in that it establishes "deregulated" methods for ratesetting among electric utilities that differ from the general ratesetting procedures discussed in this chapter. Detailed information concerning implementation of the law concerning deregulation of electricity providers may be found at the Internet site maintained by the PUC [see www.cpuc.ca.gov].

§ 480.10 Governing Law

The law governing the PUC and public utilities in general is found in Cal. Const., art. XII, and the Public Utilities Code.

The rules and procedures governing proceedings before the Public Utilities Commission are set out in 20 Cal. Code Reg §§ 1-88, including the PUC's code of ethics, rules of practice, and illustrative forms.

The text of the Public Utilities Code and the PUC rules and procedures, together with other information relating to the PUC and PUC proceedings, are available through the Internet site maintained by the PUC [see http://www.cpuc.ca.gov].

NOTE:

Designation of PUC Rules of Practice and Procedure. The rules of practice and procedure established by the PUC are cited throughout this chapter by their "section" designation under the California Code of Regulations. The PUC frequently refers to these provisions by its own "rule" number; the number of both section and rule are the same in many, but not all, instances. Where the rule number differs from the section number, that distinction is noted in this chapter as, for example, in the following instance: 20 Cal. Code Reg., § 63.4 (Rule 63.1).

The text of the PUC rules and procedures, also noting the distinction between section and rule numbers, may be found at the Internet site maintained by the PUC [see http://www.cpuc.ca.gov]. The text of the Public Utilities Code and other information relating to the PUC may be found at this site.

§ 480.11 "Public Utility" Defined

The term "public utility" includes every common carrier, toll bridge corporation, pipeline corporation, gas corporation, electrical corporation, telephone corporation, telegraph corporation, water corporation, sewer system corporation, and heat corporation through which the service is performed for or the commodity delivered to the public or any portion thereof [Pub. Util. Code § 216(a)]. Definitions of the foregoing entities are set out in Pub. Util. Code §§ 211-242. See also § 480.12[2] for further definition of public utilities within the jurisdiction of the PUC.

Notwithstanding Pub. Util. Code § 216, "public utility" does not include a motor carrier of property [Pub. Util. Code § 216.5; see Ch. 109, Carriers]. It also does not include a holding company that is the parent corporation of a utility [PG&E Corp. v. Public Utilities Commission (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 1174, 1197, 13 Cal. Rptr. 3d 630] .

A. Regulation of Public Utilities Generally

42-480 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 480.12

§ 480.12 Public Utilities Commission

[1] PUC a Constitutional or "Independent" Agency

The PUC is created and empowered by the constitutional provisions set out in Cal. Const., art. XII. This constitutional status means, among other things, that the PUC is very much an "independent" agency empowered to establish its own procedures for adjudicatory proceedings [Cal. Const., art. XII, § 2 (procedures are "subject to statute and due process"); S. Cal. Edison Co. v. Peevey (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 781, 792, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 703, 74 P.3d 795 (determining scope of PUC authority)], and as such is not subject to the Administrative Procedures Act (Gov. Code § 11340 et seq.) that governs most other public state agencies [see also discussion in § 480.20 and in Ch. 470, Overview of Public Administrative Law , § 470.12[3]].

The rules established by the PUC under Cal. Const., art. XII, § 2, which govern its hearings and other proceedings, are set out in 20 Cal. Code Reg., §§ 1-88, "subject to statute" as set out in Pub. Util. Code § 1701 et seq.

[2] Jurisdiction of PUC Over Public Utilities

Whenever an entity as defined under Pub. Util. Code § 216(a) (discussed in § 480.11) performs a service or delivers a commodity to the public or any portion thereof for which any compensation or payment whatsoever is received, that entity is a public utility subject to the jurisdiction, control, and regulation of the PUC and Pub. Util. Code §§ 201-2115 [Pub. Util. Code § 216(b); City of Anaheim v. Pacific Bell Telephone Company (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 838, 844, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 725 (PUC has exclusive jurisdiction to resolve dispute about who must pay for relocation of telephone company's overhead facilities to underground)]. However, the PUC has no jurisdiction over municipally owned utilities unless expressly provided by statute [Santa Clara Valley Transp. Auth. v. Public Utils. Comm'n (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 346, 356, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 270 (PUC does not have exclusive railroad crossing jurisdiction over municipally owned light rail crossings pursuant to Pub. Util. Code §§ 1201, 1202)].

When any person or corporation performs any service or delivers any commodity to any person, private corporation, municipality or other political subdivision of the state that in turn either directly or indirectly, mediately or immediately, performs that service or delivers that commodity to or for the public or some portion of the public, that person or corporation is a public utility subject to the jurisdiction, control, and regulation of the PUC and Pub. Util. Code §§ 201-2115 [Pub. Util. Code § 216(c)].

Ownership or operation of a facility that employs cogeneration technology or producing power from other than a conventional power source orthe ownership or operation of a facility that employs landfill gas technology does not make a corporation or person a public utility, within the meaning of Pub. Util. Code § 216, solely because of the ownership or operation of that facility [Pub. Util. Code § 216(d); see also Pub. Util. Code §§ 218, 222, 224, 228 (defining "electrical corporation," "gas corporation," "heat corporation," and "pipeline corporation," respectively), 224.5 (defining "landfill gas technology")]. However, the PUC has limited jurisdiction over holding companies that are the parent corporations of utilities to the extent necessary to regulate the utilities [PG&E Corp. v. Public Utilities Commission (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 1174, 1201, 13 Cal. Rptr. 3d 630 (PUC had jurisdiction to enforce requirement that holding companies give first priority to capital requirements of utility subsidiaries as necessary to meet their obligation to serve)].

No corporation or person constitutes a public utility within the meaning of Pub. Util. Code § 216 solely by reason of engaging directly or indirectly in developing, producing, transmitting, distributing, delivering, or sellingany form of heat derived from geothermal or solar resources or from cogeneration technology to any privately owned or publicly owned public utility, or to the public or any portion of the public [Pub. Util. Code § 216(e)].

Ownership or operation of a facility that sells compressed natural gas at retail to the public for use only as a motor vehicle fuel, and the sale of compressed natural gas at retail from such a facility to the public for use only as a motor vehicle fuel, does not make the corporation or person a public utility within the meaning of Pub. Util. Code § 216 solely because of that ownership, operation, or sale [Pub. Util. Code § 216(f); see also Pub. Util. Code § 216(g), 218.5 (ownership or operation of exempt wholesale generator, as defined, does not make person public utility)].

A qualifying small power producer, as defined, owning or operating a small power production facility is not a public utility subject to the general jurisdiction of the PUC solely because of the ownership or operation of the facility [Pub. Util. Code § 218.5].

The PUC does not have the power to regulate publicly-owned municipal utilities in the absence of a legislative grant of authority [see Cal. Const., art. XI, § 9; Gov. Code § 39732; American Microsystems, Inc. v. City of Santa Clara (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 1037, 1042, 187 Cal. Rptr. 550] .

[3] Regulatory Power

The PUC has the general power to regulate public utilities [Pub. Util. Code § 701]. This includes regulation of the following matters:

- Rates [Pub. Util. Code §§ 727-744].
- Equipment, practices, and facilities [Pub. Util. Code § 761 et seq.].
- Books and accounts [Pub. Util. Code § 791 et seq.].
- Stocks and security transactions [Pub. Util. Code § 816 et seq.].
- Transfer or encumbrance of property [Pub. Util. Code § 851 et seq.].

Thus, for example, public utilities may not issue certain stocks, bonds, notes, or other evidence of indebtedness without PUC approval [Pub. Util. Code § 818], nor may they sell or encumber any or all of their property that is necessary or useful in the performance of their duties to the public without approval of the PUC [Pub. Util. Code § 851].

However, the PUC may, by order or rule, exempt any public utility or class of public utility from the provisions of Pub. Util. Code § 851 et seq. if it finds that the application thereof with respect to the public utility or class of public utility is not necessary in the public interest. The PUC may establish rules or impose requirements necessary to protect the interest of the customers or subscribers of the exempted public utility or class of public utility. These rules or requirements may include, but are not limited to, notification of a proposed sale or transfer of assets or stock, and provision for refunds or credits to customers or subscribers [Pub. Util. Code § 853(b)].

The PUC may petition the superior court for the appointment of a receiver to assume possession and operating control over the property of a water or sewer system corporation after notice and hearing determining that the corporation is unable or unwilling to adequately serve its ratepayers, that it has been abandoned by its owners, or that it is unresponsive to rules and orders [Pub. Util. Code § 855; see Code Civ. Proc. § 564(b)(8) (appointment of receiver at PUC request)].

The PUC also has the power to enter into binding contracts and settle lawsuits brought against it by utility companies [see Utility Consumers Action Network v. Public Utilities Com. (2004) 120 Cal. App. 4th 644, 654, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 597 (acceptance of settlement offer did not contravene Pub. Util. Code § 332.1(c) which requires PUC to track and recover shortfall, if any, between emergency rate ceiling and utility's actual electricity costs)].

In addition, one court of appeal has held that the PUC has the authority to directly impose fines on public utilities [Pacific Bell Wireless, LLC v. Public Utilities Com. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 718, 735-737, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 733] .

[4] Petition by Interested Persons to Adopt, Amend, Repeal Regulation

[a] In General

Interested persons may petition the Commission to adopt, amend, or repeal a regulation [Pub. Util. Code § 1708.5(a)]. Within a specified time, discussed under [c], below, the Commission must either deny the petition or institute a proceeding to adopt, amend, or repeal legislation [see Pub. Util. Code § 1708.5(a)].

The Commission is required to amend its rules of practice and procedure (20Cal. Code Reg § 1 et seq.) to provide specific procedures for handling these petitions. Until it does so, the Commission must implement this petition procedure under its existing rules [see Pub. Util. Code § 1708.5(e) (amendments to be made prior to July 1, 2001)].

Therefore, pending clarification by the Commission, it appears that a regulation petition would be subject to the rules relating to determination of the need for a hearing and categorization [see Pub. Util. Code § 1701.1]. For further discussion of these procedures, see § 480.23.

The petition procedure under Pub. Util. Code § 1708.5 does not prevent the Commission from conducting any proceeding to adopt, amend, or repeal a regulationusing notice and comment rulemaking procedures, without an evidentiary hearing [Pub. Util. Code § 1708.5(f); see 20 Cal. Code Reg § 14.1 et seq. (regulations governing rulemaking)]. An exception applies with regard to a regulation that was adopted after an evidentiary hearing and is subsequently being amended or repealed. In such a case the parties to the original proceeding retain any right to an evidentiaryhearing under Pub. Util. Code § 1708 [Pub. Util. Code § 1708.5(f)]. Pub. Util. Code § 1708.5(f) applies to all proceedings, not just those initiated by the petition procedure under Pub. Util. Code § 1708.5(a)-(e) [Southern California Edison Company v. Public Util. Com. (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 982, 994, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 211] .

For a form of petition to adopt, amend, or repeal a regulation, see § 480.195.

[b] Scope of Right to Petition

[i] "Interested Persons" Is Construed Broadly

"Interested persons," as used in Pub. Util. Code § 1708.5(a), is to be construed broadly, and not as a bar to standing [Pub. Util. Code § 1708(a)].

[ii] "Regulation" Limited to General Applicability and Future Effect

"Regulation," as used in Pub. Util. Code § 1708.5(a), is not to be construed to refer to all orders and decisions of the Commission. Rather, the term is to be construed as a general reference to rules of general applicability and future effect [Pub. Util. Code § 1708(a)].

The Commission has authority to more precisely define the term "regulation" for the purpose of Pub. Util. Code § 1708.5 [Pub. Util. Code § 1708(b); see Pub. Util. Code § 1708.5(e) (amendments to rules of practice and procedure providing more specific procedures to be made prior to July 1, 2001)].

[iii] Not Means of Requesting Reconsideration

Petitions under Pub. Util. Code § 1708.5 are not a vehicle for asking the Commission to reconsider any or all of its decisions, or for asking the Commission to reconsider recently decided matters when there has been no change in circumstances [Pub. Util. Code § 1708(c) (Legislature intends that Commission delegate to staff authority to deny in order to provide for efficient administration of section 1708.5)].

[c] Time to Grant or Deny Petition

[i] Six Months From Date of Receipt

Within six months from the date of receipt of the petition, the Commission must either deny the petition or institute a proceeding to adopt, amend, or repeal the regulation [Pub. Util. Code § 1708.5(b)(1)].

[ii] Extension to Allow Public Review and Comment

The Commission may extend the six month period for consideration of a petition pursuant to Pub. Util. Code § 1708.5(b)(1) to allow public review and comment pursuant to Pub. Util. Code § 311(g) [Pub. Util. Code § 1708.5(b)(2)].

[d] Statement of Reasons for Denial

If the Commission denies a petition, the order or resolution of the Commission must include a statement of the Commission's reasons for that denial [Pub. Util. Code § 1708.5(c)].

If the Commission finds that it is precluded by law from granting a petition, the statement of reasons for denial must identify the relevant provisions of law [Pub. Util. Code § 1708.5(d)].

§ 480.13 Rates Charged by Public Utility

All charges demanded or received by any public utility, or by any two or more public utilities, for any product or commodity furnished or to be furnished for any service rendered or to be rendered must be just and reasonable. Every unjust or unreasonable charge demanded or received for such product or commodity or service is unlawful. Every public utility must furnish and maintain such adequate, efficient, just, and reasonable service, instrumentalities, equipment, and facilities, including telephone facilities as defined in Civ. Code § 54.1, as are necessary to promote the safety, health, comfort, and convenience of its patrons, employees, and the public [Pub. Util. Code § 451].

Except as provided in Pub. Util. Code § 455 (hearings on filed schedules not increasing rates or resulting in rate increases), no public utility can change any rate or so alter any classification, contract, practice, or rule as to result in any new rate, except on a showing before the PUC and a finding by the PUC that the new rate is justified [see Pub. Util. Code § 454(a); S. Cal. Edison Co. v. Peevey (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 781, 804-805, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 703, 74 P.3d 795 (application, but no public hearing, required for rate change)]. In addition, every common carrier and public utility must publish schedules of its rates and make them available to the public [Pub. Util. Code §§ 486-489]. Discrimination in rates is prohibited [Pub. Util. Code § 453(a)], and common carriers are prohibited from charging less than established rates [Pub. Util. Code § 458].

One way a utility may justify a rate increase is to recover specific costs. As a condition precedent to any increase, petitioners must establish a memorandum account as a mechanism to track expenses they are attempting to recover [Cal. Pub. Util. Code § 455; Southern Cal. Edison Co. v. Public Utilities Com. (2001) 85 Cal. App. 4th 1086, 1104, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 684] . These accounts automatically become effective 40 days after filing of a non-rate advice letter with the PUC, provided the filing does not raise rates and the action is not suspended or modified by the PUC during those 40 days [Cal. Pub. Util. Comm'n. Gen. Order 96-A; Southern Cal. Edison Co. v. Public Utilities Com. (2001) 85 Cal. App. 4th 1086, 1106, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 684] .

§ 480.14 Certificates of Public Convenience and Necessity

[1] When Required

No railroad corporation whose railroad is operated primarily by electric energy, street railroad corporation, gas corporation, electrical corporation, telegraph corporation, telephone corporation, water corporation, or sewer system corporation can begin the construction of a street, railroad, or of a line, plant, or system, or any extension thereof, without obtaining from the PUC a certificate of public convenience and necessity [Pub. Util. Code § 1001].

Passenger stage corporations must also obtain a certificate before commencing operations [Pub. Util. Code § 1031].

[2] Exceptions for Extension of Existing Service

There are exceptions to the certificate requirement [see [1], above] for extensions of lawful (that is, already certificated) existing service within or to territory already served by the public utility, if the extension is necessary in the ordinary course of the public utility's business [see Pub. Util. Code § 1001].

In a case of service that cannot physically be confined to the public utility's existing service area (for example, radiotelephone service offeredby a wireline utility in the area presently served by it), an extension of service without new certification would be permissible only if service does not extend more than incidentally outside the existing service area [Industrial Communciations Systems, Inc. v. Public Utilities Com. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 572, 577-579, 150 Cal. Rptr. 13, 585 P.2d 863] .

[3] Exemptions

Unless the PUC determines that the public interest requires that the construction not be exempt from Pub. Util. Code § 1001 [see [1], above], it must exempt from the requirements of Pub. Util. Code § 1001 the construction of any line, plant, or system, or extension, located outside California if the public utility derives 75 percent or more of its operating revenues from outside the state [see Pub. Util. Code § 1001.5(a)].

The public interest determination must be made within 90 days of the date of the utility's application for exemption, or the construction is exempt [Pub. Util. Code § 1001.5(b) (subject to extension of up to 60 days on agreement of PUC and utility under Pub. Util. Code § 1001.5(c))].

B. Proceedings Before PUC
1. Prehearing Procedures

42-480 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 480.20

§ 480.20 Procedures Established by PUC

All hearings, investigations, and proceedings before the PUC are governed by Pub. Util. Code §§ 201-2115 and by rules of practice and procedure adopted by the PUC set out in 20 Cal. Code Reg., §§ 1-88. In the conduct these proceedings, the technical rules of evidence need not be applied. No informality in any hearing, investigation, or proceeding or in the manner of taking testimony may invalidate any order, decision, or rule made, approved, or confirmed by the PUC [Pub. Util. Code § 1701].

The rules and procedures of 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 4 et seq. apply to any formal proceeding, except for a complaint under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 13.2 (expedited complaint procedure) that is filed after January 1, 1998 [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 4(a)]. For a discussion distinguishing between formal and information proceedings generally, see Ch. 470A, Due Process Restrictions on Public Agencies .

The rules and procedures in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 4 et seq. also apply to formal proceedings filed before January 1, 1998 under specified circumstances [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 4(b), (e)]. Any proceeding to which the rules and procedures in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 4 et seq. do not apply will be handled under the otherwise applicable PUC rules and procedures contained in 20 Cal. Code Reg. [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 4(c)].

When the rules and procedures relating categorization determination (20 Cal. Code Reg. § 4 et seq.) apply to a proceeding by virtue of 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 4(b)(2), nothing in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 4 et seq. may be construed to render invalid, or to require repetition of, procedural steps taken prior to such applicability. However, those procedural steps taken after such applicability must comply with 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 4 et seq. whenever requiring that compliance would not invalidate or repeat procedural steps taken previously [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 4(e)].

In addition, the PUC is required to adopt, and has adopted, procedures on the disqualification of administrative law judges in its proceedings, for bias or prejudice, similar to the procedures governing other hearing officers and superior court judges [Pub. Util. Code § 309.6(a); see 20 Cal. Code Reg., § 63.1 et seq., discussed in § 480.62; for discussion of disqualification of trial court judges and hearings officers generally, see respectively Ch. 317, Judges , and Ch. 473E,

Public Administrative Law Judges].

§ 480.22 Complaints Against Public Utilities

[1] Who May File

Complaints may be made by the any of the following persons or entities by written petition or complaint setting forth any act or thing done or omitted to be done by any public utility [Pub. Util. Code § 1702]:

- PUC on its own motion.
- Corporation or person.
- Chamber of commerce.
- Board of trade.
- Labor organization.
- Civic, commercial, mercantile, traffic, agricultural, or manufacturing association or organization.
- Body politic or municipal corporation.

A complaint may include any rule or charge established or fixed by or for any public utility, in violation or claimed to be in violation of any provision of law or of any order or rule of the PUC [Pub. Util. Code § 1702].

No complaint will be entertained by the PUC, except on its own motion, as to the reasonableness of any rates or charges of any gas, electrical,water, or telephone corporation, unless it is signed by the mayor or the president or chairperson of the board of trustees or a majority of the council, PUC, or other legislative body of the city or city and county within which the alleged violation occurred, or by not less than 25 actual or prospective consumers or purchasers of the gas, electrical, water, or telephone service [Pub. Util. Code § 1702].

The PUC is not required to dismiss any complaint because of the absence of direct damage to the complainant [Pub. Util. Code § 1703].

For forms of complaint before the PUC, see § 480.190[1], [2].

[2] Service and Filing of Notice of Hearing

On the filing of a complaint, the PUC must cause a copy thereof to be served on the corporation or person complained of [Pub. Util. Code § 1704].

Service in all hearings, investigations, and proceedings pending before the PUC may be made on any person on whom a summons may be served in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure and may be made personally or by mailing in a sealed envelope, registered, with postage prepaid [Pub. Util. Code § 1704].

The PUC must fix the time when, and place where, a hearing will be had on the complaint and must serve notice thereof, not less than 10 days before the time set for hearing, unless the PUC finds that public necessity requires that the hearing be held at an earlier date [Pub. Util. Code § 1704].

For purposes of 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 4 et seq., governing formal proceedings before the PUC, a proceeding initiated by an application or complaint is filed as of the date it was tendered for filing in compliance with the rules and procedures of 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 2 et seq. (filing of documents) [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 4(d)].

A proceeding initiated by a PUC order is filed as of the date of issuance of the order [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 4(d)].

[3] Answer

Within 30 days after the date of service of the complaint, the defendant must answer the complaint. The PUC, the chief administrative law judge, or the presiding officer may require the filing of an answer within a shorter time [20 Cal. Code Reg § 13].

A request for an extension of time to answer may be made in the manner provided by 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 13. The answer must admit or deny each material allegation in the complaint and must set forth any new matter constituting a defense. Jurisdictional defects are not waived if they are not included in the answer [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 13.1].

[4] Joinder

All matters upon which complaint may be founded may be joined in one hearing, and no motion will be entertained against a complaint for misjoinder of causes of action or grievances or misjoinder or nonjoinder of parties. In any review by the courts of orders or decisions of the PUC, the same rule applies with regard to joinder of causes and parties [Pub. Util. Code § 1703].

[5] Intervention

[a] Generally

In a complaint proceeding, petitions to intervene and become a party to the proceeding must be in writing, must set forth the grounds of the proposed intervention, the position and interest of the petitioner in the proceeding, and whether petitioner's position is in support of or opposition to the relief sought. Permission to intervene will not be granted except on averments which are reasonably pertinent to the issues already presented, but does not unduly broaden them. If such permission is granted, the petitioner thereby becomes an intervenor and a party to the proceeding to the degree indicated by the order allowing intervention or by the presiding officer at the hearing [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 53].

For forms of petition for intervention in a complaint proceeding before the PUC, see § 480.190[4].

[b] Participation Without Intervention

In an investigation or application proceeding, or in such a proceeding when heard on a consolidated record with a complaint proceeding, an appearance may be entered at the hearing without filing a pleading, if no affirmative relief is sought, if there is full disclosure of the persons or entities on whose behalf the appearance is to be entered, if the interest of such persons or entities in the proceeding and the position intended to be taken are stated fairly, and if the contentions will be reasonably pertinent to the issues already presented and any right to broaden them unduly is disclaimed. A person or entity in whose behalf an appearance is entered in this manner becomes a party to and may participate in the proceeding to the degree indicated by the presiding officer [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 54].

§ 480.23 Categorization Determination by PUC

[1] Preliminary Determination of Category Generally

[a] Determination Required

The PUC is required to determine whether a proceeding requires a hearing. The determination must be consistent with due process, publicpolicy, and statutory requirements [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.1(a); for discussion of due process requirements as they apply generally to public agency proceedings, see Ch. 470A, Due Process Restrictions on Public Agencies].

If the matter requires a hearing, the PUC must also determine whether the matter requires a quasi-legislative, an adjudication, or a ratesetting hearing [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.1(a)]. The terms "category," "categorization," or "categorized" refer to this procedure [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 5(a)]. Definitions of each of these classifications are provided in Pub. Util. Code § 1701.1(c)(1)-(3), and are discussed in [b], below.

If the PUC under Pub. Util. Code § 1701.1 has determined that an adjudication case requires a hearing, the procedures prescribed by Pub. Util. Code § 1701.2 apply. These procedures are discussed in § 480.60 et seq.

[b] Categories Defined

[i] "Quasi-Legislative" Defined

Quasi-legislative cases, for purposes of statutory regulation of formal hearings before the PUC [see Pub. Util. Code § 1701 et seq.], are cases that establish policy, including, but not limited to, rulemaking and investigations which may establish rules affecting an entire industry or class of entities within the industry [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.1(c)(2); 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 5(d)].

[ii] "Adjudication" Defined

Adjudication cases, for purposes of statutory regulation of formal hearings before the PUC [see Pub. Util. Code § 1701 et seq.], are enforcement cases and complaints except those challenging the reasonableness of any rates or charges as specified in Section 1702 [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.1(c)(2)].

"Adjudicatory" proceedings are [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 5(b)]:

- Enforcement investigations into possible violations of any provision of statutory law or order or rule of the Commission, and

- Complaints against regulated entities, including those complaints that challenge the accuracy of a bill, but excluding those complaints that challenge the reasonableness of rates or charges, past, present, or future.

[iii] "Ratesetting" Defined

"Ratesetting" proceedings are proceedings in which the PUC sets or investigates rates for a specifically named utility or utilities, or establishes a mechanism that in turn sets the rates for a specifically named utility or utilities. "Ratesetting" proceedings include complaints that challenge the reasonableness of rates or charges, past, present, or future [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 5(c); see Pub. Util. Code § 1701.1(c)(3) (ratesetting cases include, but are not limited to, general rate cases, performance-based ratemaking, and other ratesetting mechanisms)].

For purposes of 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 4 et seq., governing formal proceedings before the PUC, other proceedings may be categorized as ratesetting, as described in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.1(c) [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 5(c)].

[c] Ex Parte Communication on Categorization Issues

The PUC has established regulations regarding ex parte communication on case categorization issues, as required by statute [see Pub. Util. Code § 1701.1(a)]. Those regulations are contained in 20 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 7, 7.1, and are discussed in § 450.51.

[2] Determination in Proceeding Initiated by Application

[a] Application

Any person that files an application after January 1, 1998, must state in the application all of the following [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(a)(1)]:

- The proposed category for the proceeding (see [1][b], above).

- The need for hearing.

- The issues to be considered.

- A proposed schedule (see [b], below).

As described in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.1(a), the PUC must issue a resolution that preliminarily categorizes and preliminarily determines the need for hearing in the proceeding [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(a)(1)].

A proceeding initiated by an application is filed as of the date it was tendered for filing in compliance with the rules and procedures of 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 2 et seq. [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 4(d)].

For forms of application, see § 480.191.

[b] Proposed Schedule

Any party's proposed schedule for purposes of 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6 must be consistent with the proposed or finally determined category, as appropriate [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(e)].

If the proposed or finally determined category is an adjudicatory proceeding, the proposed schedule must include a deadline for resolving the proceeding within 12 months or less [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(e)].

If the proposed or finally determined category is a ratesetting or quasi-legislative proceeding, the proposed schedule must include a deadline for resolving the proceeding within 18 months or less [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(e)].

The proposed schedule must also take into account all of the following [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(e)]:

- The number and complexity of issues to be considered.
- The number of parties expected to participate.
- The need for and expected duration of hearings.
- Any other factors that the party wants the assigned commissioner to weigh in ruling on the scoping memorandum (for further discussion relating scoping memoranda, see § 480.25A).

[c] Protest or Response

Any person protesting or responding to an application must state in the protest or response [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(a)(2)]:

- Any comments or objections regarding the applicant's statement on the proposed category.
- Need for hearing.
- Issues to be considered.
- Proposed schedule.

[d] Preliminary Determination of Category and Need for Hearing

[i] Content and Timing of Resolution

By resolution at each PUC business meeting, the PUC must preliminarily determine, for each proceeding initiated by application filed on or after the PUC's prior business meeting, the category of the proceeding and the need for hearing [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.1(a)].

The preliminary determination may be held for one PUC business meeting if the time of filing did not permit an informed determination [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.1(a)].

[ii] Multiple Category and Other Proceedings

When a proceeding may fit more than one category as defined in 20 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 5(b), 5(c), and 5(d) (discussed under [1][b], above), the PUC may determine which category appears most suitable to the proceeding, or may divide the subject matter of the proceeding into different phases or one or more new proceedings [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.1(b)].

When a proceeding does not clearly fit into any of those categories, the proceeding will be conducted under the rules that apply to the ratesetting category unless and until the PUC determines that the rules that apply to one of the other categories, or some hybrid of the rules, are best suited to the proceeding [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.1(c)].

In exercising its discretion in these situations, the PUC must so categorize a proceeding and must make such other procedural orders as best to enable the PUC to achieve a full, timely, and effective resolution of the substantive issues presented in the proceeding [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.1(d)].

[iii] Preliminary Determination Not Appealable

The preliminary determination is not appealable but must be confirmed or changed by assigned commissioner's ruling under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(a)(3), discussed under [e], below. As discussed below, the assigned commissioner's ruling under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(a)(3) regarding the category is subject to appeal under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.4 [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.1(a)].

[e] Appealable Determination of Category and Need for Hearing

The assigned commissioner must consider the application, protests, and responses, and the prehearing conference statements (if one is held) [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(a)(3)].

The assigned commissioner must rule on the category, need for hearing, and scoping memo. The ruling must also designate the principal hearing officer or presiding officer, as appropriate. The assigned commissioner has discretion to rule on any or all of these matters on the record at the prehearing conference [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(a)(3) (for further discussion relating scoping memoranda, see § 480.25A)].

The ruling, only with regard to the category, is appealable under the procedures in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.4 [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(a)(3)].

[3] Determination in Proceeding Initiated by Complaint

[a] Complaint

Any person who files a complaint after January 1, 1998, must state in the complaint the following [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(b)(1)]:

- The proposed category for the proceeding.
- The need for hearing.
- The issues to be considered.
- A proposed schedule.

A proceeding initiated by a complaint is filed as of the date it was tendered for filing in compliance with the rules and procedures of 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 2 et seq. [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 4(d)].

[b] Instructions to Answer

The Docket Office must serve instructions to answer on the defendant, with a copy to the complainant, indicating [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(b)(1)]:

- The date when the defendant's answer must be filed and served, and
- The administrative law judge assigned to the proceeding.

The instructions to answer must also indicate the category of the proceeding and the need for hearing, as determined by the chief administrativelaw judge in consultation with the President of the Commission. The determination regarding the category is appealable under the procedures in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.4 [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(b)(1)].

[c] Answer

The defendant must state in the answer any comments or objections regarding the complainant's statement on the need for hearing, issues to be considered, and proposed schedule [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(b)(2)].

[d] Ruling on Scoping Memo

The assigned commissioner must consider the complaint and answer, and the prehearing conference statements (if one is held), and must rule on the scoping memo. The ruling must also designate the principal hearing officer or presiding officer, as appropriate [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(b)(3) (for further discussion relating scoping memoranda, see § 480.25A)].

The assigned commissioner has discretion to rule on any or all of these matters on the record at the prehearing conference [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(b)(3)].

Effective January 1, 2004, in a ratesetting or quasi-legislative case, the commissioner must resolve the issues raised in the scoping memo within 18 months of the date the scoping memo is issued, unless the commission makes a written determination that the deadline cannot be met, including findings as to the reason, and issues an order extending the deadline. No single order may extend the deadline for more than 60 days [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.5(a)]. The commission may specify in a scoping memo a resolution date later than 18 months from the date the scoping memo is issued, if the scoping memo includes specific reasons for the necessity of a later date and the commissioner assigned to the case approves the date [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.5(b)].

[4] Determination in Proceeding Initiated by PUC Order Instituting Investigation

A PUC order to show cause or order instituting investigation, issued after January 1, 1998, must determine the category and need for hearing, and must attach a preliminary scoping memo. The order, only with regard to the category, is appealable under the procedures in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.4 [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(c)(1) (for further discussion relating scoping memoranda, see § 480.25A)].

A proceeding initiated by a PUC order is filed as of the date of issuance of the order 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 4(d).

Any person filing a response to an order to show cause or order instituting investigation must state in the response any objections to the order regarding the need for hearing, issues to be considered, or schedule, as set forth in the order [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(c)(1)].

At or after the prehearing conference if one is held, the assigned commissioner must rule on the scoping memo. The ruling must also designate the principal hearing officer or the presiding officer, as appropriate [20 Cal. Code Reg. §

6(c)(1)].

Effective January 1, 2004, in a ratesetting or quasi-legislative case, the commissioner must resolve the issues raised in the scoping memo within 18 months of the date the scoping memo is issued, unless the commission makes a written determination that the deadline cannot be met, including findings as to the reason, and issues an order extending the deadline. No single order may extend the deadline for more than 60 days [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.5(a)]. The commission may specify in a scoping memo a resolution date later than 18 months from the date the scoping memo is issued, if the scoping memo includes specific reasons for the necessity of a later date and the commissioner assigned to the case approves the date [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.5(b)].

[5] Determination in Proceeding Initiated by PUC Order Instituting Rulemaking

A PUC order instituting rulemaking, issued after January 1, 1998, must preliminarily determine the category and need for hearing, and must attach a preliminary scoping memo [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(c)(2) (for further discussion relating scoping memoranda, see § 480.25A)].

Any person filing a response to an order instituting rulemaking must state in the response any objections to the order regarding the category, need for hearing, and preliminary scoping memo [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(c)(2)].

At or after the prehearing conference if one is held, the assigned commissioner must rule on the category, need for hearing, and scoping memo [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(c)(2)].

If the proceeding is categorized as ratesetting, the ruling must also designate the principal hearing officer [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(c)(2)].

The ruling, only with regard to category, is appealable under the procedures in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.4 [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(c)(2)].

[6] Determination in Proceedings Filed Before January 1, 1998

When the rules and procedures of this Article apply to a proceeding by virtue of 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 4(b)(2) (relating to proceedings filed before January 1, 1998), the ruling or order that determines a hearing should be held must also preliminarily determine the category for the proceeding, and must set a prehearing conference [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(d)].

At or after the prehearing conference, the assigned commissioner must rule on the category, need for hearing, and scoping memo. The ruling must also designate the principal hearing officer or presiding officer, as appropriate. The ruling, only with regard to the category, is appealable under the procedures in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.4 [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(d)].

[7] Appeals of Categorization

[a] Appeal Is Prerequisite for Standing to Seek Judicial Review

If the PUC's decision regarding the nature of the proceeding is not appealed to the PUC within the time period stated in [a], above, the decision is not subsequently subject to judicial review [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.1(a)].

Only those parties who have requested a rehearing within the time period stated in [b], below, subsequently has standing for judicial review. The review is only available at the conclusion of the proceeding [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.1(a)].

[b] Time Limit for Request

The PUC's decision regarding the nature of the proceeding is subject to a request for rehearing within 10 days of the date of that decision [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.1(a)]. "Appeal of categorization" means a request for rehearing of the determination of the category of a proceeding 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 5(a).

More particularly, any party may file and serve an appeal to the Commission, no later than 10 days after the date of any of the following [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.4(a)]:

- An assigned commissioner's ruling on category pursuant to 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(a)(3), (c)(2), or 6(d).
- The instructions to answer pursuant to 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(b)(1).
- An order to show cause or order instituting investigation pursuant to 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(c)(1).

[c] Content of Appeal

The appeal must state why the designated category is wrong as a matter of law or policy [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.4(a)].

For a form of request for rehearing of categorization determination, see § 480.193[1].

[d] Service of Appeal

The appeal must be served on the Commission's General Counsel, the chief administrative law judge, the President of the PUC, and all persons who were served with the ruling, instructions to answer, or order [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.4(a)].

[e] Response to Appeal

Any party, no later than 15 days after the date of a categorization from which timely appeal has been taken pursuant to 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.4(a), may file and serve a response to the appeal.

The response must be served on the appellant and on all persons who were served with the ruling, instructions to answer, or order. The PUC is not obligated to withhold a decision on an appeal to allow time for responses. Replies to responses are not permitted [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.4(b)].

[f] Decision on Appeal

The PUC must render its decision regarding the appeal within 30 days [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.1(a)].

[8] Approval of Changes to Preliminary Determinations

If there is no timely appeal under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.4, but the assigned commissioner, pursuant to 20 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 6(a)(3), (c)(2), or 6(d), changes the preliminary determination on category, the assigned commissioner's ruling must be placed on the PUC's Agenda for approval of that change [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.5(a)].

If the assigned commissioner, pursuant to 20 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 6(a)(3), (c)(2), or (d), changes the preliminary determination on need for hearing, the assigned commissioner's ruling must be placed on the PUC's Consent Agenda for approval of that change [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.5(b)].

In all other respects, the rules and procedures in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 4 et seq. cease to apply to that proceeding. However, the scoping memo issued for the proceeding will continue to apply to the proceeding as to all matters covered in the memo [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.6].

§ 480.25 Prehearing Conference

The PUC on initiating a hearing must assign one or more PUC commissioners to oversee the case and an administrative law judge when appropriate. The assigned commissioner is required to schedule a prehearing conference [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.1(b)]. He or she must set the prehearing conference as soon as practicable after the PUC makes the assignment [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.2].

The ruling setting the prehearing conference may also set a date of filing and serving prehearing conference statements [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.2]. Such statements may address the schedule, the issues to be considered, any matter related to the applicability of this Article to the proceeding, and any other matter specified in the ruling setting the prehearing conference [*20 Cal. 42-480 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 480.25A

§ 480.25A Ruling on Scoping Memorandum

The assigned commissioner must prepare and issue by order or ruling a "scoping memo" that describes the issues to be considered and the applicable timetable for resolution [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.1(b)].

Specifically, at or after the prehearing conference, if one is held, the assigned commissioner must rule on the scoping memo for the proceeding, which must finally determine the schedule (with projected submission date) and issues to be addressed [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.2]. The PUC fails to proceed in the manner required by law under Pub. Util. Code § 1757.1(a) if it considers issues beyond those identified in the scoping memo [Southern California Edison Co. v. Public Utilities Com. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 1085, 1104-1106, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 485] .

If there is no prehearing conference, the assigned commissioner must rule on the scoping memo for the proceeding as soon as possible after the timely filing of the responsive pleadings. Responsive pleadings for this purpose consist of protests, responses, or answers, as appropriate [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.2].

Effective January 1, 2004, in a ratesetting or quasi-legislative case, the commissioner must resolve the issues raised in the scoping memo within 18 months of the date the scoping memo is issued, unless the commission makes a written determination that the deadline cannot be met, including findings as to the reason, and issues an order extending the deadline. No single order may extend the deadline for more than 60 days [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.5(a)]. The commission may specify in a scoping memo a resolution date later than 18 months from the date the scoping memo is issued, if the scoping memo includes specific reasons for the necessity of a later date and the commissioner assigned to the case approves the date [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.5(b)].

In an adjudicatory proceeding, the scoping memo must also designate the presiding officer [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.2].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Proceedings Before PUC
1. Prehearing Procedures

42-480 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 480.26

§ 480.26 Intervenor's Fees and Expenses

[1] Availability of Compensation

Public utility customers may be entitled to compensation for participating or intervening in PUC proceedings involving electric, gas, water, and telephone utilities [Pub. Util. Code §§ 1801, 1801.3(a)].

The PUC is required to award reasonable fees for advocates and expert witnesses together with other reasonable costs of preparing for and participating in a hearing or proceeding to any customer who complies with Pub.Util. Code § 1804 and satisfies the following requirements [Pub. Util. Code § 1803]:

- The customer's presentation makes a substantial contribution to the adoption, in whole or in part, of the PUC's order or decision; and

- Participation or intervention without an award of fees or costs imposes a significant financial hardship.

The PUC also may award compensation to a customer whose participation materially supplements, complements, or contributes to the presentation of another party, including the PUC staff, if the customer's participation makes a substantial contribution to a PUC order or decision, consistent with the legislative intent behind compensation articulated in Pub. Util. Code § 1801.3 [Pub. Util. Code § 1802.5].

Any group or association that represents the interests of small agricultural customers in a proceeding and that would otherwise be eligible for an award of compensation under the financial hardship terms of Pub. Util. Code § 1804 [discussed in [3], below] without the presence of large agricultural customers, as determined by the PUC, may not be deemed ineligible solely because that group or organization also has members that are large agricultural customers [Pub. Util. Code § 1812].

The definition of "compensation" is set out under [2], below. The definitions of "customer," "party," "proceeding," "significant financial hardship," "small commercial customer," and "substantial contribution" are set out in Pub. Util. Code § 1802.

[2] Amount of Compensation

"Compensation" means payment for all or part, as determined by the PUC, of reasonable fees for advocates and expert witnesses as well as other reasonable costs of preparing for and participating in a proceeding [Pub. Util. Code § 1802(a); see The Utility Reform Network v. Public Utilities Commission (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 522, 535, 82 Cal. Rptr. 3d 791 (substantial contribution to PUC decision does not automatically entitle intervener to compensation for all ensuing judicial proceedings without regard to changed circumstances or results achieved)]. "Other reasonable costs" means reasonable out-of-pocket expenses directly incurred by a customer that are directly related to the contentions or recommendations made by the customer that resulted in a substantial contribution [Pub. Util. Code § 1802(d)]. "Compensation" includes the fees and costs of obtaining an award and obtaining judicial review, if any [Pub. Util. Code § 1802(a)].

The computation of compensation awarded must take into consideration the market rates paid to persons of comparable training and experience who offer similar services. The compensation awarded may not, in any case, exceed the comparable market rate for services paid by the PUC or the public utility, whichever rate is greater, to persons of comparable training and experience who are offering similar services [Pub. Util. Code § 1806; see The Utility Reform Network v. Public Utilities Commission (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 522, 535-537, 82 Cal. Rptr. 3d 791 (PUC abused its discretion when it compensated outside counsel at same rate it compensated in-house counsel)].

[3] Procedure for Obtaining Compensation

[a] Notice of Intent to Claim Compensation

A customer who intends to seek an award of compensation must file and serve onall parties to the proceeding a notice of intent to claim compensation within 30 days after the prehearing conference is held [Pub. Util. Code § 1804(a)(1)].

In cases in which no prehearing conference is scheduled or where the Commission anticipates that the proceeding will take less than 30 days, the administrative law judge may establish a deadline for the filing of notices of intent [Pub. Util. Code § 1804(a)(1); 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 76.74(a)].

In cases where parties cannot reasonably identify issues within the time set by statute or by the administrative law judge's ruling under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 76.74(a) for the filing of the notice of intent, or when new issues emerge after the time set for filing, the administrative law judge may specify an appropriate procedure for accepting new or revised notices of intent [Pub. Util. Code § 1804(a)(1); 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 76.74(b)].

The notice of intent to claim compensation must contain both of the following [Pub. Util. Code § 1804(a)(2)(A)]:

- A statement of the nature and extent of the customer's planned participation in the proceeding as far as it is possible to set it out when the notice of intent is filed.

- An itemized estimate of the compensation that the customer expects to request, given the likely duration of the proceeding as it appears at the time.

The notice of intent may include a showing by the customer that participation in the hearing or proceeding would pose a significant financial hardship. Alternatively, this showing can be included in the request for award submitted under Pub. Util. Code § 1804(c) [Pub. Util. Code § 1804(a)(2)(B); see discussion in [c], below].

[b] Preliminary Ruling on Eligibility for Compensation

Within 15 days after service of the notice of intent, the administrative law judge may direct the staff, and may permit any other interested party, to file a statement responding to the notice [Pub. Util. Code § 1804(a)(2)(C)].

If the notice of intent includes a showing of significant financial hardship, the administrative law judge, in consultation with the assigned commissioner, must issue a preliminary ruling within 30 days after the notice was filed, addressing whether the customer will be eligible for an award of compensation. The ruling must address whether a showing of significant financial hardship has been made. A finding of significant financial hardship in the preliminary ruling creates a rebuttable presumption of eligibility for compensation in other PUC proceedings commencing within one year after the date of that finding [Pub. Util. Code § 1804(b)(1)].

Regardless of whether the notice of intent includes a showing of significant financial hardship, the administrative law judge may issue a ruling addressing issues raised by the notice. A finding of significant financial hardship in no way ensures compensation. Similarly, the customer's failure to identify a specific issue in the notice or to precisely estimate potential compensation will not preclude an award of reasonable compensation if a substantial contribution is made [see Pub. Util. Code § 1804(b)(2) (aspects of notice that ruling may point out)].

[c] Request for Award of Compensation

After issuance of a final order or decision by the PUC in the hearing or proceeding, a customer who has been found eligible for an award of compensation may, within 60 days, file a request for an award. The request must contain, at a minimum, a detailed description of services and expenditures and a description of the customer's substantial contribution to the hearing or proceeding. The PUC staff, and any other party, may file a response to the request within 30 days after service of the request [Pub. Util. Code § 1804(c)].

[d] Verification of Basis for Award

The PUC may audit the customer's records and books to verify the basis for the award. The PUC must preserve the confidentiality of the customer's records in making its audit. Within 20 days after completion of the audit, the PUC must direct an audit report to be prepared and filed. Any other party may file a response to the audit report within 20 days after the report is filed [Pub. Util. Code § 1804(d)].

[e] Decision to Grant or Deny Award

Within 75 days after the filing of the request for compensation [see Pub. Util. Code § 1804(c), and discussion in [c], above] or within 50 days after the filing of an audit report [see Pub. Util. Code § 1804(d), and discussion in [d], above], whichever occurs later, the PUC is required to issue a determination of whether the customer has made a substantial contribution to the final order or decision in the hearing or proceeding. If the PUC finds that the customer requesting compensation has made a substantial contribution, the PUC must describe the contribution and determine the amount of compensation to be paid in accordance with the terms of Pub. Util. Code § 1806 [Pub. Util. Code § 1804(e); see discussion in [2], above].

The PUC is required to deny any request for an award to any customer who attempts to delay or obstruct the orderly and timely fulfillment of the PUC's responsibilities [Pub. Util. Code § 1808].

[4] Payment of Compensation by Utility

Any award of compensation will be paid by the public utility that is the subject of the hearing, investigation, or proceeding, as determined by the PUC, within 30 days. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, any award paid by a public utility will be allowed by the PUC as an expense for the purpose of establishing rates of the utility [see Pub.

Util. Code § 1807].

Code. Code § 16305.3* (deposit of state money in trust) [Pub. Util. Code § 1702.1(a)].

If the amount of funds entrusted to the PUC by a person or corporation filing a complaint against a public utility exceeds $20,000, the PUC may deposit the funds in trust in an insured account with a bank or a federal or state savings and loan association, bearing interest at rates up to the maximum permitted by law. The PUC shall pay these funds, together with the interest paid thereon to the party specified in the PUC's order or decision on that complaint [Pub. Util. Code § 1702.1(b)].

[1] Commissioners or Administrative Law Judge

When evidence is to be taken in a proceeding before the PUC, one or more of the commissioners, or an administrative law judge, may preside at the hearing [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 62].

[2] Authority

The presiding officer may do any of the following [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63]:

- Set hearings and control their course.
- Administer oaths.
- Issue subpoenas.
- Receive evidence.
- Hold appropriate conferences before or during hearings.
- Rule on all objections or motions which do not involve final determination of proceedings.
- Receive offers of proof.
- Hear argument.
- Fix the time for the filing of briefs.

The presiding officer may take such other action as may be necessary and appropriate to the discharge of his or her duties, consistent with the statutory or other authorities under which the PUC functions and with the rules and policies of the PUC [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63].

In case of an action to review any order or decision of the PUC, the following constitutes the record of the PUC [Pub. Util. Code § 1706]:

- A transcript of the testimony.
- All exhibits or copies of the transcript introduced.
- A transcript of the pleadings, record, and proceedings in the cause.

However, if the petitioner and PUC stipulate that certain questions alone and a specified portion only of the evidence must be certified to the Supreme Court and court of appeal for its judgment, the stipulation, and the questions and evidence specified in the stipulation, will constitute the record on review [*Pub. The order, of its own force, takes effect and becomes operative 20 days after the service of the order except as otherwise provided by the PUC [Pub. Util. Code § 1705]. Note, however, that Pub. Util. Code § 1731(a), as amended, requires the PUC to set an effective date when issuing an order or decision, and also provides that date may be a date prior to the issuance of the order or decision.

An order of the PUC continues in force either for a period designated in the order or until changed or abrogated by the PUC [Pub. Util. Code § 1705].

If the PUC believes that an order cannot be complied with within 20 days, it may prescribe such additional time as in its judgment is reasonably necessary to comply with the order, and may on application and for good cause shown, extend the time for compliance fixed in its order. Decisions rendered in response to complaints filed and processed pursuant to *Pub. Util. § 480.50 Defined

"Ex parte communication," for purposes of statutory regulation of hearings before the PUC [see Pub. Util. Code § 1701 et seq.], means any oral or written communication between a decision maker and a person with an interest in a matter before the PUC concerning substantive, but not procedural issues, that does not occur in a public hearing, workshop, or other public proceeding, or on the official record of the proceeding on the matter [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.1(c)(4) (also defining "person with interest"); for various definitions promulgated by PUC, see 20 Cal. Code Reg., §§ 1.3, 5].

b. Ex Parte Communications

42-480 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 480.51

§ 480.51 Ex Parte Communication on Categorization Issues

[1] In General

Rules governing ex parte communication in categorization proceedings vary, depending on the following factors:

- The manner in which the proceedings are iniated (for example, by application).
- The relevant stage of the proceedings.
- What category has been determined, whether by preliminary determination or appealable determination.

Ex parte communications that occur during the period between the beginning of a proceeding and the determination of the category of that proceeding, are governed by 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(a) [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(a)]. These provisions are discussed under [2], et seq., below.

Ex parte communications concerning categorization of a given proceeding are permitted, but must be reported under pursuant to 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7.1 [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(f)]. The phrase, "ex parte communications concerning categorization," means a written or oral communication on the category of any proceeding, between an interested person and any commissioner, any commissioner's personal advisor, the chief administrative law judge, any assistant chief administrative law judge, or the assigned administrative law judge that does not occur in a public hearing, workshop, or other public setting, or on the record of the proceeding [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 5(g)].

For discussion of the rules governing ex parte communication in enforcement-related proceedings or other covered proceedings, see § 480.52.

[2] Period Between Beginning of Proceeding and Category Determination

[a] Proceeding Initiated by Application

In a proceeding initiated by application filed after January 1, 1998, the requirements of 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(c) apply during the period during the filing and the PUC's preliminary determination of category pursuant to 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(a)(1) [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(a)(1)]. Thus, oral and written ex parte communications are permitted, with specified limitations. These limitations are discussed under [3][b], below.

After the PUC makes a preliminary determination of category under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(a)(1), the requirements of 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(b), (c), or (d) apply, depending on the preliminary determination [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(a)(1)]:

- If the preliminary determination is that the matter is an adjudication case, ex parte communications are generally prohibited [see Pub. Util. Code § 1701.2(b); 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(b); discussed under [3][a], below].

- If the preliminary determination is that the matter is a ratesetting case, oral and written ex parte communications are permitted, with specified limitations [see Pub. Util. Code § 1701.3(c); 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(c); discussed under [3][b], below].

- If the preliminary determination is that the matter is a quasi-legislative case, ex parte communications are permitted without limitations [see Pub. Util. Code § 1701.4(b); 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(d); discussed under [3][c], below].

Similarly, after the assigned commissioner's appealable determination of category under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(a)(3), the applicable requirements depend on that determination unless and until it is modified by the PUC under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.4 or 6.5(a) [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(a)(1)].

[b] Proceeding Initiated by Complaint

In a proceeding initiated by complaint filed after January 1, 1998, regardless of the complainant's proposed category for the proceeding, ex parte communications are prohibited until the date of service of the instructions to answer [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(a)(2)].

After the date of service of the instructions to answer, the applicable requirements depend on the determination of category in the instructions to answer, unless and until that determination is modified by the PUC under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.4 [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(a)(2)].

For discussion related to proceedings initiated before January 1, 1998, see [e], below. For discussion relating to ex parte communication under a particular category, see [3], below.

[c] Proceeding Initiated by Order Instituting Investigation

In a proceeding initiated after January 1, 1998, by order instituting investigation or order to show cause, the requirements of 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(b), (c), or (d) apply, depending on the order's determination of category, unless and until such determination is modified by the PUC under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.4 [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(a)(3)].

For discussion related to proceedings initiated before January 1, 1998, see [e], below. For discussion relating to ex parte communication under a particular category, see [3], below.

[d] Proceeding Initiated by Order Instituting Rulemaking

In a proceeding initiated after January 1, 1998, by order instituting rulemaking, the requirements of 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(b), (c), or (d) apply, depending on the order's preliminary determination of category [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(a)(4)]. For discussion related to proceedings initiated before January 1, 1998, see [e], below. For discussion relating to ex parte communication under a particular category, see [3], below.

After the assigned commissioner's appealable determination of category, the applicable requirements shall depend on such determination unless and until it is modified by the PUC under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.4 or 6.5(a) [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(a)(4)].

[e] Formal Proceedings Filed Before January 1, 1998

In formal proceedings filed before January 1, 1998, to which the category determination rules apply by virtue of 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 4(b)(2) (see discussion in § 480.20), the requirements of 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(b), (c), or (d) apply, depending on the preliminary determination of category under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(d) [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(a)(5)]. For discussion relating to ex parte communication under a particular category, see [3], below.

After the assigned commissioner's appealable determination of category, the applicable requirements depend on the determination unless and until it is modified by the PUC under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6.4 or 6.5(a) [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(a)(5)].

[3] Period After Category Determination

[a] Adjudication Hearing

Ex parte communications are prohibited in adjudication cases [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.2(b); 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(b)].

For a discussion of the circumstances in which the prohibition against ex parte communication ceases, see [4], below. For discussion relating to adjudication proceedings generally, see § 480.60, et seq.

[b] Ratesetting Hearing

[i] Generally Prohibited

Ex parte communications are generally prohibited in ratesetting cases [see Pub. Util. Code § 1701.3(c)]. Ex parte communications are permitted, however, only if they are consistent with the restrictions stated in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(c) [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(c)]. These restrictions are discussed under [ii], et seq., below.

In addition, ex parte communications are subject to the reporting requirements of 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7.1 [see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(c), discussed in § 480.53].

For a discussion of the circumstances in which the restrictions to ex parte communication cease, see [4], below. For discussion relating to adjudication proceedings generally, see § 480.60 et seq.

[ii] Oral Ex Parte Communications

Oral ex parte communications are permitted at any time with a commissioner provided that the commissioner involved does the following [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(c)(1); see Pub. Util. Code § 1701.3(c)]:

- Invites all parties to attend the meeting or sets up a conference call in which all parties may participate.

- Gives notice of this meeting or call as soon as possible, but no less than three days before the meeting or call.

If an ex parte communication meeting or call is granted by a decisionmaker to any party individually, all other parties must be sent a notice at the time that the request is granted. The notice must be no less than three days before the meeting or call. The other parties must be offered individual meetings of a substantially equal period of time with that decisionmaker [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(c)(2); see Pub. Util. Code § 1701.3(c); see also 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 5(f) (defining "decisionmaker")].

The party requesting the initial individual meeting must notify the other parties that its request has been granted, at least three days prior to the date when the meeting is to occur. At the meeting, the party requestingthe meeting must produce a certificate of service of the notification on all other parties. If the communication is by telephone, the party requesting the call must provide the decisionmaker with the certificate of service before the start of the call. The certificate may be provided by facsimile transmission [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(c)(2); see Pub. Util. Code § 1701.3(c)].

[iii] Written Ex Parte Communications

Written ex parte communications are permitted at any time provided that the party making the communication serves copies of the communication on all other parties on the same day the communication is sent to a decisionmaker [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(c)(3); Pub. Util. Code § 1701.3(c)].

[iv] PUC May Establish Periods Without Ex Parte Communication

In any ratesetting proceeding, the PUC may establish a period during which no oral or written communications on a substantive issue in the proceeding may be permitted between an interested person and a commissioner, a commissioner's personal advisor, the chief administrative law judge, any assistant chief administrative law judge, or the assigned administrative law judge [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(c)(4); Pub. Util. Code § 1701.3(c)].

The period may begin not more than 14 days before the PUC meeting date on which the decision in the proceeding is scheduled for PUC action. If the decision is held, the PUC may permit oral or written communications on a substantive issue in the proceeding for the first half of the hold period, and may prohibit those communications for the second half of the period. In such a case, however, the period of prohibition must begin not more than 14 days before the PUC meeting date to which the decision is held [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(c)(4); Pub. Util. Code § 1701.3(c)].

In all ratesetting proceedings in which hearings have been held and a proposed decision has been filed and served, there must be a prohibition on communications as provided in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(c). The first day of the prohibition on communications will be the day of the Ratesetting Deliberative Meeting at which the proposed decision is scheduled to be discussed and will continue through the conclusion of the Business Meeting at which a vote of the proposed decision is scheduled. If a proposed decision is held at the Business Meeting, when the hold is announced the PUC will also announce whether and when there will be a further prohibition on communications, consistent with the requirements of 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(c) [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(c)(4)].

[c] Quasi-Legislative Hearing

Ex parte communications are permitted without any restrictions [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.4(b)]. In addition, ex parte communications in any quasi-legislative proceeding are allowed without a reporting requirement [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(d)].

[4] Circumstances Causing Restrictions on Ex Parte Communication to No Longer Apply

Under certain circumstances, the limitations on ex parte communications in categorization proceedings under 20 Cal.

Code Reg. §§ 7 (b) and (c), and the reporting requirements under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7.1 cease to apply [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(e)].

The restrictions on ex parte communications cease to apply, and ex parte communications must be permitted in any proceeding in which [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(e)]:

- No timely answer, response, protest, or request for hearing is filed after the pleading initiating the proceeding,
- All such responsive pleadings are withdrawn, or
- There has been a final determination that a hearing is not needed in the proceeding.

If there has been a request for hearing, however, the requirements continue to apply unless and until the request has been denied [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(e)].

§ 480.52 Ex Parte Communication in Enforcement-Related and Other Covered Proceedings

[1] Applicable Proceedings

[a] Enforcement-Related Proceeding

In any enforcement-related proceeding, no decisionmaker may have any oral or written ex parte communication with any party to the proceeding concerning any substantive issue involved in the proceeding, unless the communication is reported within three working days in accordance with the reporting requirements set forth in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 1.4, discussed in § 480.53. Communications limited to the hearing schedule, location, and format, filing dates and identity of parties are procedural inquiries that do not need to be reported [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 1.3(a); see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 5(f) (defining "decisionmaker")].

This rule applies from the commencement of the enforcement-related proceeding to its submission to the PUC. After the proceeding has been submitted to the PUC, and until the date of issuance of a final order in such proceeding, ex parte communications between parties and decisionmakers concerning any substantive issue involved in the proceeding are prohibited [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 1.3(a)].

[b] Other Covered Proceedings

In all covered proceedings, other than enforcement-related proceedings, any oral or written ex parte communication between a decisionmaker and any party to the proceeding concerning any substantive issue involved in the proceeding, must be reported within three working days, in accordance with the reporting requirements set forth in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 1.4, discussed in § 480.53. These reporting requirements apply from the commencement of the proceeding to the date of issuance of a final order in that proceeding [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 1.3(b)].

[c] Consolidated Proceedings

When enforcement-related proceedings, covered by 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 1.3(a), and other covered proceedings, covered by 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 1.3(b), are consolidated, the ALJ must by ruling prior to the date of submission determine the extent to which the prohibition provisions governing enforcement-related proceedings apply [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 1.3(c)].

[2] Augmentation of Ex Parte Communication Provisions

In augmentation of the provisions of 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 1.1 et seq., the PUC, or the assigned administrative law judge with the approval of the assigned commissioner, may issue an ex parte communications ruling tailored to the needs of any specific proceeding [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 1.6(c)].

42-480 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 480.53

§ 480.53 Written Report of Ex Parte Communication

Ex parte communications that must be reported under provisions governing categorization proceedings (see § 480.51), enforcement-related and other covered proceedings (see § 480.52[1][a],[b]), and consolidated proceedings (see § 480.52[1][c]) must be reported by the party or interested person [20 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1.4(a), 7.1(a)].

The report must be made whether the communication was initiated by the party, interested person, or the decisionmaker. They must be reported within three working days of the communication by filing (but not serving) the original and 12 copies of a "Notice of Ex Parte Communication" (Notice) with the Commission's San Francisco Docket Office [20 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1.4(a), 7.1(a); see Pub. Util. Code § 1701.1(c)(4)]. In the case of enforcement-related and other covered proceedings, the notice must be provided simultaneously to the assigned ALJ.

The notice must include the following information [20 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1.4(a), 7.1(a)]:

- The date, time and location of the communication, and whether it was oral, written or a combination.

- The identity each of the recipients or decisionmaker involved, the persons initiating the communication, as well as the identity of any persons present during such communication.

- A description of the party's or interested person's, but not the decisionmaker's, communication and its content. In the case of enforcement-related and other covered proceedings, a copy of any written material or text used during the communication must be attached (including audiovisual material, in categorization proceedings).

These reporting requirements apply to ex parte communications in ratesetting proceedings and to ex parte communications concerning categorization. In a ratesetting proceeding, communications with a commissioner's personal advisor must also be reported under the procedures specified in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7.1(a) [20 Cal. Code Reg.

The filing of a notice must be reported promptly thereafter in the PUC's Daily Calendar [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 1.4(b)]. Parties may obtain a copy of the Notice and any attachments from the PUC's Central File room or from the filing party, who must provide it to the requesting party without delay [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 1.4(c)].

§ 480.62 Challenge to Administrative Law Judge

[1] Authority for Reassignment

The provisions of 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 62 et seq. are the exclusive means available to a party to a PUC proceeding to seek reassignment of that proceeding to another Administrative Law Judge [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.1]. A party may petition for automatic reassignment (see [2], below), or under certain circumstances, may petition for reassignment for cause (see [3], below) [20 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 63.2, 63.5].

[2] Automatic Reassignment

[a] Petition

A party is entitled to petition, once only, for automatic reassignment of a proceeding to another administrative law judge, when [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(a)]:

- The proceeding is preliminarily determined to be adjudicatory by application [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(a)(1); see § 480.23[2]], or is a proceeding filed before January 1, 1998 [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(d); see § 480.23[6]].

- The proceeding is determined to be adjudicatory by complaint [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(b)(1); see § 480.23[3]], or PUC order instituting investigation [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(c)(1); see § 480.23[4]].

The petition must be in accordance with the provisions of 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(a) [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(a); see Pub. Util. Code § 1701.2(a) (parties entitled to one peremptory challenge of assignment of ALJ)].

Except as provided in 20 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 63.3 and 63.4, no party in an adjudicatory proceeding will be permitted to make more than one petition for reassignment in the proceeding. In an adjudicatory proceeding when there is more than one complainant or similar party, or more than one defendant or similar party, only one petition for automatic reassignment for each side may be made [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(a)].

The petition must be filed and served in the proceeding in which reassignment is sought, and on the chief administrative law judge and the president of the PUC [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(a)].

[b] Supporting Declaration

The petition must be supported by declaration under penalty of perjury (or affidavit by an out-of-state person) in substantially the form set forth in the statute [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(a)].

When the party seeking automatic reassignment is one of several parties aligned on the same side in the proceeding, the declaration must include a showing that either [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(a)]:

- No previous petition for automatic reassignment has been filed in the proceeding, or
- The interests of the petitioner are substantially adverse to those of any prior petitioner for automatic reassignment in the proceeding.

[c] Time Limit for Filing Petition

Any petition and supporting declaration filed under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(a), discussed under [a] and [b], above, must be filed no later than 10 days after the date of the notice of the assignment or reassignment [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(c)].

[d] Ruling on Petition

On the filing of a petition for automatic reassignment, the chief administrative law judge, subject only to the restrictions in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(d) on the number and timeliness of petitions in a given proceeding, must issue a ruling reassigning the proceeding to another administrative law judge. The chief administrative law judge, in consultation with the president of the PUC, must issue a ruling explaining the basis for denial whenever a petition for automatic reassignment is denied [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(d)].

[e] Circumstances Permitting Unlimited Peremptories

Irrespective of the limits in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2 on number of petitions for automatic reassignment, any party is entitled to file a petition for reassignment in any adjudicatory proceeding or ratesetting proceeding in which the then-assigned administrative law judge [Pub. Util. § 1701.2(a); 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.3]:

- Has served within the previous 12 months in any capacity in an advocacy position at the PUC or has been employed by a regulated public utility,
- Has served in a representative capacity in the proceeding, or
- Has been a party to the proceeding.

A petition under this subsection must be supported by declaration under penalty of perjury (or affidavit by an out-of-state person) setting forth the factual basis for the petition, and must be filed and served as provided in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(a) (discussed under [a] through [c], above [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.3].

Any petition and supporting declaration filed pursuant to this rule must be filed no later than 10 days after the date of the notice of the assignment or reassignment. The chief administrative law judge, in consultation with the president of the PUC, must issue a ruling explaining the basis for denial whenever a petition for reassignment made pursuant to this rule is denied [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.3(b)].

[3] Reassignment for Cause

[a] Grounds

[i] Financial Interest

Any party is entitled to file a petition for reassignment in any adjudicatory, ratesetting, or quasi-legislative proceeding when the administrative law judge has a financial interest in the subject matter in a proceeding or in a party to the proceeding [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.4(a)(1)].

"Financial interest" means ownership of more than a 1 percent legal or equitable interest in a party, or a legal or equitable interest in a party of a fair market value in excess of $1,500, or a relationship as director, advisor or other active participant in the affairs of a party [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.10(a)].

An administrative law judge is deemed to have a financial interest if:

- A spouse or minor child living in the administrative law judge's household has a financial interest [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.4(a)(1)(A)], or

- The administrative law judge or his or her spouse is a fiduciary who has a financial interest [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.4(a)(1)(B); see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.10(c), defining "fiduciary"].

An administrative law judge has a duty to make reasonable efforts to be informed about his or her personal and fiduciary interests and those of his or her spouse and the personal financial interests of the children living in the household [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.4(a)(1)].

Each of the following are not considered a "financial interest":

- Ownership in a mutual or common investment fund that holds securities unless the administrative law judge participates in the management of the fund [see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.10(a)(1)].

- An office in an educational, religious, charitable, fraternal, or civic organization [see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.10(a)(2)].

The proprietary interest of a policyholder in a mutual insurance company, or a depositor in a mutual savings association, or a similar proprietary interest, is a "financial interest" in the organization only if the outcome of the proceeding could substantially affect the value of the interest [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.10(a)(3)].

[ii] Bias, Prejudice, or Interest

Any party is entitled to file a petition for reassignment in any adjudicatory, ratesetting, or quasi-legislative proceeding when the administrative law judge has bias, prejudice, or interest in the proceeding [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.4(a)(2)].

[b] Circumstances Not Constituting Grounds

The following are not grounds for reassignment for cause:

- The administrative law judge is or is not a member of a racial, ethnic, religious, sexual or similar group and the proceeding involves the rights of such a group [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.5(a)].

- The administrative law judge has experience, technical competence, or specialized knowledge of or has in any capacity expressed a view on a legal, factual or policy issue presented in the proceeding, except as provided in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.3, relating to automatic reassignment, as discussed under [a], above [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.5(b)].

- The administrative law judge has, as a representative or public official participated in the drafting of laws or regulations or in the effort to pass or defeat laws or regulations, the meaning, effect, or application of which is in issue in the proceeding. The exception to this, however, is when the administrative law judge believes that the prior involvement was such as to prevent the administrative law judge from exercising unbiased and impartial judgment in the proceeding [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.5(c); see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.10(b), defining "representative"].

[c] Declaration

A petition filed pursuant to this rule must be supported by a declaration under penalty of perjury (or affidavit by an out-of-state person) setting forth the factual basis for the petition [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.4(b)].

[d] Filing and Service

A petition for reassignment based on cause must be filed and served as provided in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(a) (see [1][a], above) [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.4(b)].

A petition and supporting declaration filed pursuant to this rule must be filed at the earliest practicable opportunity and in any event no later than 10 days after the date the petitioner discovered or should have discovered facts set forth in the declaration filed pursuant to this rule. The chief administrative law judge, in consultation with the president of the PUC, and after considering any response from the assigned administrative law judge, must issue a ruling addressing a petition for reassignment filed under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.4(b) [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.4(c)].

[e] Limit on Number of Petitions

A party may file no more than one petition for reassignment of an administrative law judge under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.4 unless facts suggesting new grounds for reassignment are first learned of or arise after the petition was filed [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.4(d)].

Repetitive petitions for reassignment not alleging facts suggesting new grounds for reassignment must be denied by either the chief administrative law judge or by the administrative law judge against whom they are filed [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.4(d)].

[f] Administrative Law Judge's Ability to Request Reassignment

The administrative law judge must request reassignment and withdraw from a proceeding in which there are grounds for reassignment for cause unless the parties waive the reassignment under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.7, discussed under [g], below [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.6(a)].

[g] Waiver

An administrative law judge, after determining that there is basis for his or her reassignment for cause, must disclose the basis on the record, and may ask the parties whether they wish to waive the reassignment. A waiver of reassignment must recite the basis for reassignment and is effective only when signed by all parties, and included in the record [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.7].

The administrative law judge may not seek to induce a waiver and must avoid any effort to discover which representatives or parties favored or opposed a waiver of reassignment [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.7; see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.10(b), defining "representative"].

[4] Prior Rulings of Reassigned ALJ Not Set Aside

If an administrative law judge is reassigned, the rulings he or she has made up to that time may not be set aside in the absence of good cause [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.8].

[5] Ban on Ex Parte Communications.

Ex parte communications regarding the assignment or reassignment of particular administrative law judges are prohibited. Any written response by the assigned administrative law judge to a petition for reassignment for cause must be filed and served in the proceeding in which the reassignment was requested [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.9].

"Ex parte communication" includes all communications defined as ex parte communications elsewhere in the PUC rules of practice and procedure (see, e.g., 480.50 et seq.). The term also includes a communication between an administrative law judge and other decisionmakers about a petition for reassignment of a proceeding to which the administrative law judge is currently assigned [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.10(d)].

§ 480.64 Decision

[1] Submission for Decision

An adjudicatory proceeding stands submitted for decision by the PUC after the taking of evidence, and the filing of briefs or the presentation of oral arguments as prescribed by the PUC or the presiding officer. The PUC's Daily Calendar must include a table of submission dates listing all such dates (with the corresponding proceedings) that occurred during the two weeks preceding the date of the calendar [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.2(a)].

[2] Content

In an adjudicatory proceeding in which a hearing was held, the presiding officer must prepare a decision setting forth the findings, conclusions, and order [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.2(a); 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.2(b)].

[3] Filing and Service

The decision of the presiding officer must be filed with the PUC and served on all parties without undue delay, not later than 60 days after submission [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.2(a); 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.2(b)].

[4] When Presiding Officer's Decision Becomes PUC Decision

The decision of the presiding officer constitutes the proposed decision when one is required by law, and becomes the decision of the PUC if no appeal or request for review is filed within 30 days after the date the decision is served on the parties in the proceeding [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.2(a); 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.2(b)].

[5] Comments on Draft Decision

The comment procedure in Rules 77.1-77.6 does not apply to a presiding officer's decision. However, the presiding officer has discretion, at any time before the 30-day appeal period has begun to run, to authorize comments on a draft decision or a portion thereof [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.2(b)].

[6] Table of Decisions

The PUC's Daily Calendar must include a table that lists, for the two weeks preceding the date of the calendar, each decision of the presiding officer that has become the decision of the PUC. The table must indicatethe proceeding so decided and the date when the presiding officer's decision became the decision of the PUC [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.2(b)].

§ 480.65 Review by PUC

[1] Initiation of Review

[a] Appeal By Interested Party

The complainant, defendant, respondent, or any intervenor in an adjudicatory proceeding may file and serve an appeal of the decision of the presiding officer within 30 days of the date the decision is served on the parties in the proceeding [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.2(c); see Pub. Util. Code § 1701.2(a) ("any interested party" may appeal)].

[b] Request for Review By PUC

The PUC may itself initiate a review of the proposed decision on any grounds [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.2(a)]. Any commissioner may request review of the decision of the presiding officer in an adjudicatory proceeding by filing and serving a request for the review within 30 days of the date the decision is served on the parties in a proceeding [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.2(d)].

[c] Content of Appeal or Request for Review

Appeals and requests for review must set forth specifically the grounds on which the appellant or requestor believes the decision of the presiding officer to be unlawful or erroneous [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.2(e)].

The purpose of an appeal or request for review is to alert the PUC to a potential error, so that the error may be corrected expeditiously by the PUC [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.2(e)]. Vague assertions as to the record or the law, without citation, may be accorded little weight [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.2(e)].

[d] Service of Appeal or Request for Review

Appeals and requests for review must be served on all parties and accompanied by a certificate of service [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.2(e)].

The time for filing and serving an appeal or request for review is discussed under [a] and [b], respectively, above.

[2] Response to Appeal or Request for Review

Any party may file and serve its response no later than 15 days after the date the appeal or request for review was filed. In cases of multiple appeals or requests for review, the response may be to all such filings and may be filed 15 days after the last such appeal or request was filed. Replies to responses are not permitted [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.2(f)].

The PUC is not obligated to withhold a decision on an appeal or request for review to allow time for responses to be filed [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.2(f)].

[3] Consideration of Presiding Officer's Decision in Closed Session

In any adjudicatory proceeding in which a hearing is held, the PUC may meet in closed session to consider the decision of the presiding officer that is under appeal pursuant to 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.2(c), discussed under [1][a], above [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.2(c); 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.2(g)].

[4] PUC Decision Must Be Based on Record Developed by Presiding Officer

The PUC decision must be based on the record developed by the assigned commissioner or the administrative law judge [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.2(a); 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.2(g)].

[5] Vote in Public Meeting

The vote on the appeal or a request for review must be in a public meeting and must be accompanied by an explanation of the PUC's decision [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.2(g)].

[6] Explanation of Changes Required

A decision different from that of the presiding officer must include or be accompanied by a written explanation of each of the changes made to the presiding officer's decision [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.2(a); 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.2(g)].

§ 480.67 Determination Regarding Ability to Pay Penalties or Fines

The PUC may determine that a respondent lacks, or may lack, the ability to pay potential penalties or fines or to pay restitution that may be ordered by the PUC [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.2(e)(1)]. If so, the PUC may order the respondent to demonstrate, to the PUC's satisfaction, sufficient ability to pay. The respondent must demonstrate the ability to pay, or make other financial arrangements satisfactory to the PUC, within seven days of the PUC commencing an adjudication case. The PUC may delegate to the attorney to the PUC the determination of whether a sufficient showing has been made by the respondent of an ability to pay [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.2(e)(2)].

Within seven days of the PUC's determination of the respondent's ability to pay, the respondent is entitled to an impartial review by an administrative law judge, of the sufficiency of the showing made by the respondent of the respondent's ability to pay. The review by an administrative law judge becomes part of the record of the adjudication and is subject to the PUC's consideration in its order resolving the adjudication case. The administrative law judge may enter temporary orders modifying any financial requirement made of the respondent pending the review by theadministrative law judge [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.2(e)(3)]. A respondent that is a public utility regulated under a rate-of-return or rate-of-margin regulatory structure or that has gross annual revenues of more than $100,000,000 generated within California is presumed to be able to pay potential penalties or fines or to pay restitution that may be ordered by the PUC [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.2(e)(4)].

[1] Prehearing Designation

The assigned Commissioner must determine prior to the first hearing whether the Commissioner or the assigned administrative law judge shall be designated as the principal hearing officer [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.3(a)].

[2] Minimum Attendance Requirement

The principal hearing officer must be present for more than one-half of the hearing days [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.3(a)]. An assigned commissioner acting as the principal hearing officer is bound by this minimum attendance rule [see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8(b)].

§ 480.82 Party's Request for Presence of Commissioner

A party may request the presence of the assigned commissioner at a formal hearing or specific portion of a formal hearing [see Pub. Util. Code § 1701.3(a); 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8(b)]. The term, "formal hearing" generally refers to a hearing at which testimony is offered or comments or argument taken on the record. A workshop is not a formal hearing [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8(f)(2)]. "Present" or "presence" at a hearing or argument means physical attendance in the hearing room, sufficient to familiarize the attending commissioner with the substance of the evidence, testimony, or argument for which the commissioner's presence is required or requested [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8(f)(4)].

The request may be made in a pleading or a prehearing conference statement. Alternatively, the request may be made by filing and serving on all parties a letter to the assigned commissioner, with a copy to the assigned administrative law judge [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8(b)].

The request should be made as far as possible in advance of the formal hearing, and should specify the following [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8(b)]:

- The witnesses and/or issues for which the assigned commissioner's presence is requested.
- The party's best estimate of the dates when such witnesses and subject matter will be heard.
- The reasons why the assigned commissioner's presence is requested.

The assigned commissioner has sole discretion to grant or deny, in whole or in part, any such request. Any request that is filed five or fewer business days before the date when the subject hearing begins may be rejected as untimely [see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8(b)].

§ 480.84 Challenges to Administrative Law Judge

[1] Exclusive Means of Reassignment

The provisions of 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 62 et seq. are the exclusive means available to a party to a PUC proceeding to seek reassignment of that proceeding to another Administrative Law Judge [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.1]. A party may petition for automatic reassignment (see [2], below), or under certain circumstances, may petition for reassignment for cause (see [3], below) [20 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 63.2, 63.5].

If an administrative law judge is reassigned, the rulings he or she has made up to that time may not be set aside in the absence of good cause [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.8].

Ex parte communications regarding the assignment or reassignment of particular administrative law judges are prohibited. Any written response by the assigned administrative law judge to a petition for reassignment for cause must be filed and served in the proceeding in which the reassignment was requested [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.9].

[2] Automatic Reassignment

[a] When Available

A party to a proceeding is entitled to petition, once only, for automatic reassignment of that proceeding to another Administrative Law Judge, in the following circumstances [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(b)]:

- The proceeding is preliminarily determined to be ratesetting by application [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(a)(1); see § 480.23[2]], PUC order instituting rulemaking [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(c)(2); see § 480.23[5]]. or is a proceeding filed before January 1, 1998 [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(d); see § 480.23[6]].

- The proceeding is determined to be ratesetting by complaint [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(b)(1); see § 480.23[3]], or PUC order instituting investigation [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 6(c)(1); see § 480.23[4]].

A person or entity declaring the intention in good faith to become a party to such proceeding, is also entitled to petition, once only, for automatic reassignment of the above proceedings to another administrative law judge [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(b)].

No more than two automatic reassignments may be permitted in the same proceeding [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(b)].

There are circumstances, however, in which unlimited peremptories are permitted [see Pub. Util. § 1701.2(a); 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.3, see § 480.62[2][e]].

The petition must be in accordance with the provisions of 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(b) [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(b)]. The petition must be filed and served as provided in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(a) [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(b), discussed in § 480.62[2][a]]. The petition must be supported by a declaration similar in form and substance to that set forth in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(a), discussed in § 480.62[2][b] [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(b)].

[b] Second Automatic Reassignment on Petition by Good Faith Declarant

A party to the proceeding, or a person or entity declaring the intention in good faith to become a party to the proceeding, may petition for another automatic reassignment no later than 10 days following the date of such ruling. The petition must be filed and served as provided in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(a) [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(b), discussed in § 480.62[2][a]]. The petition must be supported by a declaration similar in form and substance to that set forth in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(a), discussed in § 480.62[2][b] [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(b)].

The second automatic reassignment of the proceeding is not be subject to further petitions under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(b) [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(b)].

[c] Time Limit for Filing Petition and Declaration

The petition and supporting declaration must be filed no later than 10 days after the date of the notice of the assignment or reassignment [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(c)].

A second petition for automatic reassignment of a ratesetting proceeding must be filed no later than 10 days following the date of the ruling on the first petition for automatic reassignment filed pursuant to 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(b) [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(c)].

[d] Ruling on Petition

Whenever a timely petition for automatic reassignment of a ratesetting proceeding is filed, the chief administrative law judge, promptly at the end of the 10-day period specified in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.2(c), discussed under [c], above, must issue a ruling reassigning the proceeding.

[3] Reassignment for Cause

Any party is entitled to file a petition for reassignment in any adjudicatory, ratesetting, or quasi-legislative proceeding when the administrative law judge has a financial interest in the subject matter in a proceeding or in a party to the proceeding [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 63.4(a)(1)]. For further discussion, see § 480.62[3].

The alternate decision must be filed with the PUC and must be served on all parties simultaneously with the proposed decision [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.3(a)].

The presentation to the full PUC must contain the following [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.3(a)]:

- A record of the number of days of the hearing.
- The number of days that each Commissioner was present.
- Whether the decision was completed on time.

§ 480.87 Final Decision of PUC

[1] Submission for Decision

A ratesetting and quasi-legislative proceeding stands submitted for decision by the PUC after the taking of evidence, and the filing of briefs or the presentation of oral arguments, as ordered in the proceeding [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.1(a)].

The PUC's Daily Calendar includes a table of submission dates listing all such dates (with the corresponding proceedings) that occurred during the two weeks preceding the date of the calendar [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.1(a)].

[2] Proposed Decision

In ratesetting and quasi-legislative proceedings, the presiding officer must prepare a proposed decision setting forth recommendations, findings, and conclusions. The proposed decision must be filed with the PUC and served on all parties without undue delay, not later than 90 days after submission [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.1(b)].

As provided in 20 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 77.1-77.6, parties may comment on the proposed decision [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.1(b)]. Applicants in matters involving buses, vessels, public utility sewer systems, or public utility pipelines may make an oral or written motion to waive the filing of comments on the proposed decision. Any party objecting to that waiver will have the burden of demonstrating that filing of comments is in the public interest [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.1(b)].

[3] Adoption, Modification, or Setting Aside of Proposed Decision

The PUC may, in issuing its decision, adopt, modify, or set aside the proposed decision or any part of the decision based on evidence in the record [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.3(e); 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.1(b)].

[4] Time Limit of Final Decision

The PUC, in issuing its decision in a ratesetting or quasi-legislative proceeding, may adopt, modify, or set aside all or part of the proposed decision, based on the evidence in the record. The decision of the PUC must be issued not later than 60 days after issuance of the proposed decision. The PUC may extend the deadline for a reasonable period under extraordinary circumstances. The 60-day deadline must be extended for 30 days if any alternate decision is proposed [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.3(e); 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.1(c)].

[5] Consideration of Decision in Closed Session

In a ratesetting proceeding in which a hearing was held, the PUC may meet in closed session to consider its decision, provided that the PUC has established a period as described in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(c)(4) (see § 480.51[3][b][iv], relating to period of no oral or written communications on substantive issue in proceeding) [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.1(d)].

In no event may the period during which the PUC may meet in closed session exceed the period described in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 7(c)(4) [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.1(d)].

§ 480.100 Applicable Procedures

If the PUC pursuant to Pub. Util. Code § 1701.1 has determined that a quasi-legislative case requires a hearing, the procedures prescribed by Pub. Util. Code § 1701.4 apply [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.4(a)].

§ 480.101 Roles of Assigned Commissioner and Administrative Law Judge

The assigned administrative law judge acts as an assistant to the assigned commissioner in quasi-legislative cases [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.4(a)].

The assigned commissioner must be present for formal hearings [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.4(a); 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8(e); see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8(f)(4) (defining "present" for purposes of this rule, discussed in § 480.81[2])].

The term "formal hearing" generally refers to hearing at which testimony is offered or comments or argument taken on record; workshop is not formal hearing. In a quasi-legislative proceeding, "formal hearing" includes a hearing at which testimony is offered on legislative facts, but does not include a hearing at which testimony is offered on adjudicative facts [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8(f)(2)].

For the purpose of commissioner attendance, "adjudicative facts" answer questions such as who did what, where, when, how, why, with what motive or intent [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8(f)(1)]. "Legislative facts" are the general facts that help the tribunal decide questions of law and policy and discretion [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8(f)(3)].

A quorum of the PUC must be present for such final oral argument. To the extent permitted by law, any commissioner who is surplus to the quorum may attend the argument from a remote location linked to the hearing room via audio, visual, and/or textual media establishing real-time, two-way communication [*20 Cal. [1] May Adopt, Modify, or Set Aside Proposed Decision

The PUC may, in issuing its rule or order, adopt, modify, or set aside the proposed decision or any part of the rule or order [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.4(d)].

For discussion of when a quasi-legislative proceeding stands submitted for decision by the PUC under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 8.1(a), see § 480.87[1]. For discussion relating to preparation, filing, service of proposed decision, and comments the proposed decision, see § 480.87[2].

[2] Time Limit for Final Decision

The final rule or order of the PUC must be issued not later than 60 days after the issuance of the proposed rule or order. Under extraordinary circumstances the PUC may extend this date for a reasonable period. The 60-day period shall be extended for 30 days if any alternate rule or order is proposed pursuant to Section 311 [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.4(d)].

§ 480.121 Conclusiveness of Orders and Decisions

In all collateral actions or proceedings, the orders and decisions of the PUC which have become final are conclusive [Pub. Util. Code § 1709].

When the PUC exercises its judicial power, its orders or decisions have the conclusive effect of res judicata as to the issues involved when they are again brought into question in subsequent proceedings between the same parties [Camp Meeker Water System, Inc. v. Public Utilities Com. (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 845, 852 n.3, 274 Cal. Rptr. 678, 799 P.2d 758 ; People v. Western Air Lines, Inc. (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 621, 630, 268 P.2d 723] .

When the PUC exercises its legislative power, such as when it fixes rates, its orders or decisions do not have the same effect [see Camp Meeker Water System, Inc. v. Public Utilities Com. (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 845, 851-852, 852 n.3, 274 Cal. Rptr. 678, 799 P.2d 758] . Therefore, its determination of, for example, property rights in a rate-making proceeding is subject to relitigation in any court of law that is asked to determine those interests [Camp Meeker Water System, Inc. v. Public Utilities Com. (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 845, 852 n.3, 274 Cal. Rptr. 678, 799 P.2d 758] .

§ 480.122 Application for Rehearings

After any order or decision has been made by the PUC, any party to the action or proceeding, or any stockholder or bondholder or other party pecuniarily interested in the public utility affected, may apply for a rehearing in respect to any matters determined in the action or proceeding and specified in the application for rehearing. The PUC may grant and hold a rehearing on those matters, if in its judgment sufficient reason is made to appear. No cause of action arising out of any order or decision of the PUC accrues in any court to any corporation or person unless the corporation or person has filed application to the PUC for a rehearing within 30 days after the date of issuance or within 10 days after the date of issuancein the case of an order issued pursuant to Pub. Util. Code § 816 et seq. or 851 et seq. (relating to security transactions and the transfer or encumbrance of utility property).

"Date of issuance" in this context means the date when the PUC mails the order or decision to the parties to the action or proceeding [Pub. Util. Code § 1731(b)]. The application for a rehearing must set forth specifically the ground or grounds on which the applicant considers the decision or order to be unlawful. No corporation or person may in any court urge or rely on any ground not so set forth in the application [Pub. Util. Code § 1732].

In the event that a rehearing of an adjudication case is granted the parties must have an opportunity for final oral argument [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.2(d)].

After conclusion of hearings, but before issuance of a decision, a party to the proceeding may serve on all other parties and file with the PUC, a petition to set aside submission and reopen the proceeding for the taking of additional evidence, or for consideration of a settlement or stipulation under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 51 et seq.

The petition must specify the facts claimed to constitute grounds in justification of the petition, including material changes of fact or of law alleged to have occurred since the conclusion of the hearing. It must contain a brief statement of proposed additional evidence and explain why that evidence was not previously adduced [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 84].

When time to petition for a rehearing has passed, a petition to reopen does not lie to serve the purpose of a petition for rehearing [Northern California Asso. to Preserve Bodega Head & Harbor, Inc. v. Public Utilities Com. (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 126, 134, 37 Cal. Rptr. 432, 390 P.2d 200] .

C. Judicial Review of PUC Decisions

42-480 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 480.141

§ 480.141 Limited Power of Trial Court in PUC Matters

A trial court is bound to follow an order of the PUC with regard to status of a public utility [Pratt v. Coast Trucking Inc. (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 139, 149-153, 39 Cal. Rptr. 332] .

An order of the PUC cannot be effectively overruled by action of a superior court [Anchor Lighting v. Southern California Edison Company (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 541, 548, 47 Cal. Rptr. 3d 780 (PUC interpretation of Public UtilitiesCode will not be disturbed even if invalid unless it fails to bear reasonable relation to statute's purposes and language); Pellandini v. Pacific Limestone Prod. Inc. (1966) 245 Cal. App. 2d 774, 777, 54 Cal. Rptr. 290] . For example, when the PUC has acted on regulation of advertising in telephone books, it has exclusive jurisdiction over a claim of discrimination in the advertising and an action does not lie in superior court [Dollar-A-Day Rent-A-Car Sys. Inc. v. Pacific Tel. & Tel. Co. (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 454, 457-462, 102 Cal. Rptr. 651] . Similarly, an injunction in superior court against a water company enjoining it from reversing a stock transfer is improper when the injunction interfered with the jurisdiction of the PUC, which had ordered the transfer [Hickey v. Roby (1969) 273 Cal. App. 2d 752, 763-769, 77 Cal. Rptr. 486] . A superior court does have authority to abate a nuisance caused by a public utility [California Oregon Power Co. v. Superior Court (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 858, 870-871, 291 P.2d 455 , cert. denied, (1956) 352 U.S. 823] . Moreover, a superior court can decide the public utility status of a mutual water company when the PUC has not determined the issue [Ventura County Waterworks Dist. v. Susana Knolls Mut. Water Co. (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 672, 678-679, 87 Cal. Rptr. 1] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Judicial Review of PUC Decisions

42-480 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 480.142

§ 480.142 Jurisdiction of Appellate Courts

No court in California, except the Supreme Court and the court of appeal, to the extent specified in Pub. Util. Code §§ 1756-1767, has jurisdiction to review, reverse, correct, or annul any order or decision of the PUC or to suspend or delay the execution or operation thereof, or to enjoin, restrain, or interfere with the PUC in the performance of its official duties, as provided by law and the rules of court [Pub. Util. Code § 1759(a)]. However, courts can hear cases where the claim does not hinder or frustrate PUC's policies or claims against unregulated providers who are not within PUC's purview [Hartwell Corp. v. Superior Court (1986) 27 Cal. 4th 256, 282, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 874, 38 P.3d 1098] . In addition, where a civil action brought by public prosecutors against a public utility does not usurp any exclusive power of the PUC and is authorized expressly by statute, the California Supreme Court has held that the superior court and the PUC possess concurrent subject matter jurisdiction [Orloff v. Pac. Bell (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 1132, 1144-1155, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 315, 80 P.3d 201 (district attorneys may prosecute civil actions for consumer fraud against public utilities regulated by PUC)].

Under Pub. Util. Code § 2106 courts may hear claims against public utilities for damages, whereas Pub. Util. Code § 1759 defines and limits the power of courts to pass judgment on, or interfere with, the PUC's decisions. Both statutes dictate which courts have jurisdiction to engage in these activities. Only appellate courts can review decisions and orders of the PUC and interfere with its actions, whereas suits for damages against utilities can be brought in the trial court [Anchor Lighting v. Southern California Edison Company (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 541, 549-550, 47 Cal. Rptr. 3d 780 ; Cundiff v. GTE California Inc. (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 1395, 1405-1406, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445] . However, a plaintiff's attempt to obtain relief under Pub. Util. Code § 2106 may have the effect of interfering with the PUC's regulation of utilities, and thus be barred [Waters v. Pacific Tel. Co. (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 1, 4 (Pub. Util. Code § 2106 "must be construed as limited to those situations in which an award of damages would not hinder or frustrate the [PUC's] declared supervisory and regulatory policies"); Koponen v. Pacific Gas & Electric Company (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 345, 350-351, 81 Cal. Rptr. 3d 22 ; Anchor Lighting v. Southern California Edison Company (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 541, 549-550, 47 Cal. Rptr. 3d 780 ; Cundiff v. GTE California Inc. (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 1395, 1405-1406, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445 (suit against telephone company for unnecessary rental charges allowed to go forward)].

For claims under PUC's purview, writ of mandate may be issued by the Supreme Court to the PUC, and, with regard to complaint enforcement or other adjudicatory proceedings, by the court of appeal to the PUC, in all proper cases as prescribed in Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 [Pub. Util. Code § 1759(b); cf. Pub. Util. Code § 1756(b) (writ of review may be made to court of appeal to review adjudicatory matters and to Supreme Court for all other matters), and discussion in § 480.144[3]].

In enacting Pub. Util. Code § 1759, the Legislature exercised its plenary power conferred by the California Constitution to confer additional authority and jurisdiction on the Commission, and establish the manner and scope of review of commission action in a court of record [see Ford v. Pacific Gas & Electric Co. (1997) 60 Cal. App. 4th 696, 707 (discussing former Pub. Util. Code § 1759)].

Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 provides in turn that a writ of mandate may be issued to an inferior tribunal, corporation, board or person, to compel performance of an act specially enjoined by law, or to compel the admission of a party to the use and enjoyment of a right or office to which that party is entitled but to which that party has been unlawfully precluded by the tribunal, corporation, board, or person. For detailed discussion and forms relating generally to extraordinary relief by writ of mandate, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition .

[1] Must Comply With Code and Rules

Any stay or suspension of an order or decision of the PUC may be granted only in accordance with Pub. Util. Code § 1756 et seq. and the rules of court [Pub. Util. Code § 1761(a); see discussion in § 480.144].

[2] Scope of Stay

A stay may be issued against any order or decision of the PUC, other than anorder or decision increasing or decreasing rates or changing a rate classification [Pub. Util. Code § 1761(b)].

[3] Notice and Hearing

No order staying or suspending an order or decision of the PUC may be made by the Supreme Court or court of appeal except on five days' notice and after hearing [Pub. Util. Code § 1762(a)]. An exception to the five day notice rule applies in the case of a temporary stay [see Pub. Util. Code § 1762(c), discussed in [5][a], below].

[4] Order Suspending Decision of PUC

If the order or decision of the PUC is stayed or suspended, the order suspending it must contain a specific finding, based on evidence submitted to the court and identified by reference [Pub. Util. Code § 1762(a)]. The specific finding made under Pub. Util. Code § 1762(a) must certify that great or irreparable damage would otherwise result to the petitioner and specify the nature of the damage [Pub. Util. Code § 1762(b)].

[5] Temporary Stay

[a] Proper Case and Time for Grant

The Supreme Court or court of appeal may grant a temporary stay restraining the operation of the PUC order or decision, other than an order or decision authorizing an increase or decrease in rates or changing a rate classification, at any time before the required hearing and determination of the application for a stay. The temporary stay may be granted when, in the opinion of the court, irreparable loss or damage would result to petitioner unless the temporary stay is granted [Pub. Util. Code § 1762(c)].

[b] Grounds Allowing Grant

No temporary stay may be granted by the Supreme Court or court of appeal unless it clearly appears from specific facts shown by the verified petition that immediate and irreparable injury, loss, or damage will result to the applicant before notice can be served and hearing had on a motion for a stay as provided in this chapter [Pub. Util. Code § 1763(a)].

[c] Duration of Temporary Stay

The temporary stay must remain in force only until the hearing determination of the application for a stay on notice [Pub. Util. Code § 1762(c)].

[d] Hearing of Application Given Precedence

The hearing of the application for a stay must be given precedence and assigned for hearing at the earliest practicable day after the expiration of the notice [Pub. Util. Code § 1762(c)].

[e] Endorsement, Filing, and Content of Temporary Stay

Every temporary stay must [Pub. Util. Code § 1763(b)]:

- Be endorsed with the date and hour of issuance.
- Be forthwith filed in the clerk's office and entered of record.
- Define the injury and state why it appears to be irreparable and why the order was granted without notice.
- By its terms expire within a time after entry not to exceed 10 days as the court may fix, unless within the time so fixed the order is extended for a like period for good cause shown and the reasons for the extension entered of record.

[f] Temporary Stay Granted Without Notice

In case a temporary stay is granted without notice, the matter of the issuance of a stay must be set down for hearing at the earliest possible time, and when it comes up for hearing the party obtaining the temporary stay must proceed with the application for a stay. If the party does not so proceed, the court shall dissolve the temporary stay [Pub. Util. Code § 1763(c)].

[6] Suspending Bond

In case the order or decision of the PUC is stayed or a temporary stay granted, the order of the Supreme Court or court of appeal may not become effective until a suspending bond is executed and filed with and approved by the court [Pub. Util. Code § 1764].

The suspending bond must be payable to the people of the State of California and sufficient in amount and security to insure the prompt payment by the party petitioning for the review, of all damages caused by the delay in the enforcement of the order or decision of the PUC. The suspending bond must also be sufficient to ensure payment for all money which any person or corporation may be compelled to pay pending the review of the proceedings for transportation, transmission, product, commodity, or service in excess of the charges fixed by the order or decision of the PUC, in case the order or decision is sustained [Pub. Util. Code § 1764]. For discussion and forms relating to bonds generally, see Ch. 538, Suretyship, Bonds, and Undertakings .

[7] Stays Relating to Decision Affecting Rate or Classification

[a] Decision Denying Increase in Rate or Classification

In case the Supreme Court or court of appeal stays any order or decisiondenying to the utility an increase in any rate or classification, the court may condition the stay or temporary stay so as to permit petitioner to charge a higher rate pending the determination of the review. The court may attach other reasonable conditions to the stay or temporary stay [Pub. Util. Code § 1765].

[b] Decision Authorizing Increase or Decrease

Under no circumstance may the Supreme Court or court of appeal stay or suspend any order or decision by the PUC authorizing an increase or decrease in rates or changing any rate classification [Pub. Util. Code § 1766(a)].

If a PUC order or decision authorizing any increase or decrease in rates, or changing any rate classification, is set aside by the Supreme Court or court of appeal, the matter must be referred back to the PUC for further action consistent with the order of the court. The PUC, in taking this further action, may not authorize refunds, and any relief ordered by the PUC that shall have the effect of increasing or decreasing rates shall be prospective only [Pub. Util. Code § 1766(b)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Judicial Review of PUC Decisions

42-480 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 480.144

§ 480.144 Petition for Writ of Review

[1] Time to Petition

Any aggrieved party may petition for a writ of review in the court of appeal or the Supreme Court for the purpose of having the lawfulness of the original order or decision or of the order or decision on rehearing inquired into and determined as follows [Pub. Util. Code § 1756(a)]:

- If the application for rehearing was denied, within 30 days after the PUC issues its decision denying the application.
- If the application for rehearing was granted, within 30 days after the PUC issues its decision on rehearing.
- If no decision on rehearing has been issued, at least 120 days after the application is granted.

For purposes of Pub. Util. Code § 1756, the issuance of a decision or the granting of an application is construed to have occurred on the date when the PUC mails the decision or grant to the parties to the action or proceeding [Pub. Util. Code § 1756(d)].

[2] Petition Must Be Verified

The petition must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 1069; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.496(a)]. For a form of petition for writ of review, see § 480.200[1].

[3] Proper Court for Petition

[a] Court of Appeal to Review Adjudicatory Proceeding

When the decision of the PUC was issued in an adjudicatory proceeding, the petition for writ of review may be filed in the court of appeal [Pub. Util. Code § 1756(b)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Construing Pub. Util. Code § 1756(b). Before the enactment of Pub. Util. Code § 1756, operative January 1, 1998, petitions for writ of review to review PUC decisions were filed only in the Supreme Court. As noted in [1], above, Pub. Util. Code § 1756(a) now provides that petitions may generally be filed in either the court of appeal or the Supreme Court. Pub. Util. Code § 1756(b) provides, in turn, that the petition "may only be filed with the Supreme Court" to review non-adjudicatory PUC matters (discussed in [b], below), whereas the petition "may be filed in the court of appeal" to review adjudicatory PUC decisions.

The clause relating to review of adjudicatory decisions, in using "may" rather than "may only" or "shall," would appear, when read with Pub. Util. Code § 1756(a), to permit petitions for review of adjudicatory decisions to be filed in either the court of appeal or the Supreme Court. Because, however, only the "court of appeal" is expressly mentioned in connection with petitions to review adjudicatory provisions, it is also arguable that this language is intended to provide that the filing of such petitions should be done only in the court of appeal. Although the language is ambiguous, the latter interpretation, under which petitions to review adjudicatory decisions are to be filed only in the court of appeal, would appear to be more consistent with the apparent intent of the provision (i.e., to lighten the Supreme Court's burden in reviewing PUC matters by sharing that burden with the court of appeal). It is also more consistent with other provisions enacted at the same time, particularly Pub. Util. Code § 1758(c), which establishes a procedure for the Supreme Court's review of court of appeal decisions rendered under Pub. Util. Code § 1756 et seq. [see discussion in § 480.147]. Finally, this interpretation is more consistent with the rule applicable to writ proceedings generally, that when more than one court has original jurisdiction [see, e.g., Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10], a petition for an extraordinary writ is ordinarily to be filed in the lowest court capable of granting relief. If petitions for review of adjudicatory decisions may be filed in either the court of appeal or the Supreme Court, the procedure under Pub. Util. Code § 1758(c) could be circumvented by filing initially in the Supreme Court, rendering that provision superfluous.

As a practical matter, the parties will usually prefer in any event to seek review, at least initially, in the court of appeal.

The venue of a petition filed in the court of appeal under Pub. Util. Code§ 1756 is the judicial district in which the petitioner resides. If the petitioner is a business, venue is in the judicial district in which the petitioner has its principal place of business in California [Pub. Util. Code § 1756(e)].

Any party may seek from the Supreme Court, pursuant to California Rules of Court, an order transferring related actions to a single appellate district [Pub. Util. Code § 1756(e); see Cal. Rules of Court, Rule 10.1000]. For a form of application to transfer related actions to a single appellate district, see § 480.200[2].

For discussion of the various court of appeal districts and the counties within each district, and discussion relating to the transfer of causes in the reviewing courts generally, see Ch. 40, Appeal: An Overview , and Ch. 51, Appeal: Hearing and Decision .

[b] Supreme Court to Review Non-adjudicatory Proceeding

In all matters other than adjudicatory proceedings, the petition for writ of review may only be filed in the Supreme Court [Pub. Util. Code § 1756(b)].

[c] Review of Decisions Pertaining Solely to Water Corporations

Generally, review of decisions pertaining solely to water corporations may only be by petition for writ of review in the Supreme Court. Review of complaint or enforcement proceedings, however, may be in the court of appeal or the Supreme Court [Pub. Util. Code § 1756(f)].

[3a] Certificate of Interested Entities or Persons

If a party files a motion, application, or opposition to a motion or application in the court of appeal before filing its principal brief, the party must serve and file its Certificate of Interested Entities or Persons at the time it files the first such motion, application, or opposition and must include a copy of this certificate in the party's principal brief. If no motion, application, or opposition to a motion or application is filed before the parties file their principal briefs, each party must include its certificate in its principal brief [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.208(d)(1)]. If the identity of any party or any entity or person subject to disclosure has not been publicly disclosed in the proceedings and a party wants to keep that identity confidential, the party may serve and file an application for permission to file its certificate under seal separately from its principal brief, motion, application, or opposition. If the application is granted, the party must file the certificate under seal and without service within 10 days of the court's order granting the application [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.208(d)(2)].

If a party is an entity, the certificate must list any other entity or person that the party knows has an ownership interest of 10 percent or more in the party [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.208(e)(1)]. All parties must also list any person or entity, other than the parties themselves, that has a financial or other interest in the outcome of the proceeding that the party reasonably believes the justices should consider in determining whether to disqualify themselves under Canon 3E of the Code of Judicial Ethics [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.208(e)(2)]. If the party knows of no entity or person that is required to be disclosed under the rule, he or she must so state in the certificate [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.208(e)(3)]. Furthermore, if a party learns of changed or additional information that must be disclosed under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.208, he or she must promptly serve and file a supplemental certificate [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.208(f)].

The petitioner's certificate must be included in the petition [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.496(c)(2)]. The certificate of the real party in interest must be included in the answer [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.496(c)(2)]. The certificate must appear after the cover and before the tables [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.496(c)(2)]. If a party fails to file a certificate, the clerk must notify the party by mail that the party must file the certificate within 10 days after the clerk's notice is mailed and that failure to comply will result in one of the following sanctions: (A) If the party is the petitioner, the court will strike the petition; (B) If the party is the respondent or the real party in interest, the court will strike the document [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.496(c)(3)].

[4] Service of Petition

The petition for review must be served upon the executive director and general counsel of the PUC either personally or by service at the office of the PUC [Pub. Util. Code § 1756(c); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.496(a)].

The petition must also be served upon any real parties in interest. A real party in interest is one who (1) was a party of record to the action or proceeding before the PUC, and (2) presented before the PUC a position adverse to that taken before the PUC by the petitioner for review [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.496(a)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Judicial Review of PUC Decisions

42-480 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 480.146

§ 480.146 Hearing and Determination

[1] Preference for Public Utilities Proceedings Over Other Civil Business

The reviewing courts must prefer over specified actions and proceedings pertaining to public utilities over other business, irrespective of position on the calendar. The following proceedings must be heard and determined in preference to all other civil business, except election clauses [Pub. Util. Code § 1767]:

- All actions and proceedings under Pub. Util. Code § 201 et seq.

- All actions or proceedings to which the PUC or the people of the State of California are parties in which any question arises under Pub. Util. Code § 201 et seq.

- All actions or proceedings to which the PUC or the people of the State of California are parties in which any question arises under or concerning any order or decision of the PUC.

- Any action or proceeding in which the attorney of the PUC is allowed to intervene, on application of the attorney of the PUC.

- The Supreme Court must grant expedited consideration to any party or PUC petition alleging that the court of appeal has assumed jurisdiction to review a PUC decision over which the court of appeal has no jurisdiction [Pub. Util. Code § 1758(d)].

[2] Scope of Review

[a] In General

No new or additional evidence may be introduced in the Supreme Court and the court of appeal, but the cause will be heard on the record of the PUC as certified to by it [Pub. Util. Code § 1757].

The findings and conclusions of the PUC on questions of fact are final and are not subject to review except as specified below. Such questions of fact include ultimate facts and the findings and conclusions of the PUC on reasonableness and discrimination [Pub. Util. Code § 1757].

In any proceeding in which the validity of an order or decision is challenged on the ground that it violates any right of petitioner under the Constitution of the United States, the Supreme Court or court of appeal exercises an independent judgment on the law and the facts, and the findings or conclusions of the PUC material to the determination of the constitutional question are not final [Pub. Util. Code § 1760].

[b] Adjudicatory Proceedings

In a complaint, enforcement, or other adjudicatory proceeding, the review by the appellate court may not extend further than to determine, on the basis of the entire record which must be certified by the PUC, whether any of the following occurred:

- The order or decision of the commission was an abuse of discretion [Pub. Util. Code § 1757.1(a)(1)].
- The commission has not proceeded in the manner required by law [Pub. Util. Code § 1757.1(a)(2)].
- The commission acted without, or in excess of, its powers or jurisdiction [Pub. Util. Code § 1757.1(a)(3)].
- The decision of the commission is not supported by the findings [Pub. Util. Code § 1757.1(a)(4)].
- The order or decision was procured by fraud [Pub. Util. Code § 1757.1(a)(5)].
- The order or decision of the commission violates any right of the petitioner under the Constitution of the United States or the California Constitution [Pub. Util. Code § 1757.1(a)(6)].

No new or additional evidence may be introduced upon review by the court. The PUC's findings and conclusions on findings of fact are final and may not be subject to review except as provided in by law. The questions of fact must include ultimate facts and findings and the PUC's conclusions on reasonableness and discrimination [Pub. Util. Code § 1757.1(c)]. However, this general rule of deference to interpretations of statutes subject to the PUC's regulatory jurisdiction does not apply when the issue is the scope of the PUC's jurisdiction [PG&E Corp. v. Public Utilities Commission (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 1174, 1194, 13 Cal. Rptr. 3d 630 (determining scope of PUC's jurisdiction with respect to utilities' holding companies)].

[c] Other Than Adjudicatory Proceedings

In a non-adjudicatory review proceeding before the Supreme Court, the review does not extend further than to determine whether the PUC has regularly pursued its authority, including a determination of whether the order or decision under review violates any right of the petitioner under the Constitution of the United States or California [see Pub. Util. Code § 1757; Southern California Edison Company v. Public Utilities Commission (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 1, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 700] .

The standard of review under Pub. Util. Code § 1757, discussed in [a] and [b], above, does not apply to ratemaking or licensing decisions of specific application addressed solely to water corporations [Pub. Util. Code § 1757(c)]. In reviewing decisions pertaining solely to water corporations, the review may not be extended further than to determine whether the PUC has regularly pursued its authority, including a determination of whether the order or decision under review violates any right of the petitioner under the Constitutions of the United States or California [Pub. Util. Code §

1757.1(b)].

[3] Appearances and Judgment

The PUC and each party to the action or proceeding before the PUC may appear in the review proceeding. Upon the hearing the Supreme Court or court of appeal must enter judgment either affirming or setting aside the order or decision of the PUC [Pub. Util. Code § 1758(a)].

[4] Writ Must Be Returnable at Specified Time and Place

If the writ issues, it must be made returnable at a time and place specified by court order and must direct the PUC to certify its record in the case to the court within the time specified [Pub. Util. Code § 1756(a)].

[5] Effect of Denial of Writ

Denial of review by the appellate court is a ruling on the merits and constitutes a holding that the PUC regularly pursued its authority [Union City v. Southern Pac. Co. (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 277, 279, 67 Cal. Rptr. 816 (petition denied by Supreme Court; decided before petitions were authorized to be heard by court of appeal as well as Supreme Court)].

§ 480.164 Decisions

[1] Regulation of Public Utilities Generally

[a] Dedication to Public Service

Bus company has property dedicated to public service of certain communities, and therefore PUC has jurisdiction to order it to extend service over certainroutes in those communities. Greyhound Lines, Inc. v. Public Utilities Com. (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 406, 410-417, 67 Cal. Rptr. 97, 438 P.2d 801

Water company is subject to PUC regulation when it had dedicated property to public use by selling water to public. Yucaipa Water Co. No. 1 v. Public Utilities Com. (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 823, 828-832, 9 Cal. Rptr. 239, 357 P.2d 295

Gas company not subject to jurisdiction of PUC unless it has dedicated its property to public service. Richfield Oil Corp. v. Public Util. Comm'n (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 419, 428-433, 6 Cal. Rptr. 548, 354 P.2d 4

Water company was found not to have dedicated its service to public use in area by entering into contract to supply subdivider with water in future and, thus, is not subject to PUC's regulation of water service in that area. Cal. Water & Tel. Co. v. Public Util. Com. (1959) 51 Cal. 2d 478, 488-500, 334 P.2d 887

Private mobile communication service of telephone company is subject to regulation by PUC. Commercial Communications v. Public Util. Comm'n (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 512, 518-526, 327 P.2d 513

[b] Nondelegable Duty

Public utility's duty to comply with rules of PUC regarding installation of utility poles is nondelegable to independent contractor. Snyder v. Southern Cal. Edison Co. (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 793, 797-803, 285 P.2d 912

[c] Limitations of Liability

PUC rate allowing telephone company to limit liability for inadequate service precludes any award of damages above the credit allowance allowed in rate. Waters v. Pacific Telephone Co. (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 1, 7-12, 114 Cal. Rptr. 753, 523 P.2d 1161

Limitations on liability are properly included in tariffs as subject clearly within the PUC's regulatory powers; thus, tariffs limited cellular telephone company's maximum exposure in negligence suit brought by victim who was assaulted after she was unable to summon help on her cellular telephone. Los Angeles Cellular Telephone Co. v. Superior Court (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 1013, 1017-1018, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894

PUC's rules with regard to gas meter testing does not preclude other methods of proving overcharge by public utility. Masonite Corp. v. Pacific Gas & Electric Co. (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 1, 6-11, 135 Cal. Rptr. 170

Limitation of liability provisions in telegraph rates limiting liability for nondelivery of telegrams is binding on public, whether or not they have notice of such limitations. Trammell v. Western Union Tel. Co. (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 538, 549-554, 129 Cal. Rptr. 361

[2] PUC Authority Generally

[a] Jurisdiction of PUC

[i] Generally

In construing deeds to ascertain existing rights of utility for purposes of exercising ratemaking power, PUC acts within its constitutional and statutory jurisdiction by ordering utility to (1) enforce utility's easement for water rights against record titleholders of specified property, and (2) record notice of intent to preserve easements pursuant to Civ. Code § 887.060, and by ordering (1) intervention in proceedings before State Water Resources Control Board to prevent record titleholders from obtaining rights inconsistent with those held by utility under easement, and (2) forwarding of copies of instant PUC decision to title insurance companies to ensure that future purchasers of burdened property would have actual notice of easement. Camp Meeker Water System, Inc. v. Public Utilities Com. (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 845, 851, 862, 274 Cal. Rptr. 678, 799 P.2d 758

PUC is not empowered under its general powers to implement mandatory program when legislature has provided express authority for permissive program. Southern Cal. Gas Co. v. Public Utilities Com. (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 653, 657-659, 156 Cal. Rptr. 733, 596 P.2d 1149 (mandatory home insulation financing program was annulled; but note that effect of decision modified by 1979 enactment of Pub. Util. Code § 2789, which authorized PUC to permit or require corporation subject to its jurisdiction to institute conservation programs including related financial assistance)

PUC has authority to directly impose fines on public utilities. Pacific Bell Wireless, LLC v. Public Utilities Com. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 718, 735-737, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 733

PUC has exclusive jurisdiction to resolve dispute about who must pay for relocation of telephone company's overhead facilities to underground because claims concern matter about which PUC authorized to make policy, over which it has assumed jurisdiction, and which it continues to regulate. City of Anaheim v. Pacific Bell Telephone Company (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 838, 844, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 725

PUC has limited jurisdiction over holding companies that are parent corporations of utilities to enforce requirement that holding companies give first priority to capital requirements of utility subsidiaries as necessary to meet their obligation to serve. PG&E Corp. v. Public Utilities Commission (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 1174, 1201, 13 Cal. Rptr. 3d 630

Despite Cal. Const., art. III, § 3.5, PUC has authority to refuse to enforce statute if the enforcement would violate inconsistent later enacted statute. The Burlington Northern and Santa Fe Railway Company v. Public Utilities Commission (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 881, 887-889, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 503

[ii] Exclusive Jurisdiction

PUC has exclusive jurisdiction over action brought by ratepayer against utility, which allegedly discriminated by charging plaintiff commercial rather than domestic rates, because gravamen of complaint was question of what rate schedule was appropriate for plaintiff's type of facility, a recreational vehicle park. Schell v. Southern Cal. Edison Co. (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 1039, 1045-1046, 251 Cal. Rptr. 667

PUC has acted on regulation of advertising in telephone books and, therefore, has exclusive jurisdiction over claim of discrimination in regulation of such advertising. Dollar-A-Day Rent-A-Car Sys. Inc. v. Pacific Tel & Tel. Co. (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 454, 457-462, 102 Cal. Rptr. 651

Order of PUC is only reviewable in Supreme Court; such order is not capable of being effectively overruled by action of superior court. Pellandini v. Pacific Limestone Prod. Inc. (1966) 245 Cal. App. 2d 774, 777, 54 Cal. Rptr. 290

Ex parte preliminary injunction against water company enjoining company from reversing stock transfer is improper when the injunction interfered with the jurisdiction of PUC which had ordered the transfer and when the PUC was not a party to proceeding in which the injunction had been issued. Hickey v. Roby (1969) 273 Cal. App. 2d 752, 763-769, 77 Cal. Rptr. 486

Trial court is bound to follow order of PUC with regard to status of public utility. Pratt v. Coast Trucking Inc. (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 139, 149-153, 39 Cal. Rptr. 332

Superior court does not have jurisdiction over declaratory relief action involving telephone billing practice matter that was within jurisdiction of PUC. Harmon v. Pacific Tel. & Tel. Co. (1960) 183 Cal. App. 2d 1, 3, 6 Cal. Rptr. 542

[iii] Concurrent Jurisdiction

Pollution control district and PUC have concurrent jurisdiction over permission to construct power plant, and both their requirements are applicable. Orange County Air Pollution Control Dist. v. Public Util. Com. (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 945, 951-954, 95 Cal. Rptr. 17, 484 P.2d 1361

Supreme Court has distinguished between situations in which PUC's authority is pitted against authority of local government involving matter of statewide concern (overwhich PUC is normally found to have paramount jurisdiction), and other situations in which PUC jurisdiction conflicts with other than local agency (over which PUC directives have not been given such controlling effect); this authority does not clearly allow for concurrent jurisdiction over utility-related activity at different levels of government, but only for concurrent regulation by equivalent agencies. San Diego Gas & Electric Co. v. City of Carlsbad (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 785, 801, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 534 (citing Orange County Air Pollution Control Dist. v. Public Util. Com. (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 945, 951, 95 Cal. Rptr. 17, 484 P.2d 1361)

[b] Limits to PUC Authority

PUC does not have authority to regulate wine train because it provides round-trip excursion, rather than picking up passengers at one location and taking them to another location. City of St. Helena v. Public Utilities Commission (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 793, 802, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 713

PUC does not have authority to determine claims alleging that telephone company violated the Unfair Business Practices Act (Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et seq.), or the False Advertising Act (Bus. & Prof. Code § 17500 et seq.) together, the Unfair Competition Law, because claims brought under those statutes must be brought in court. Greenlining Institute v. Public Util. Com. (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 1324, 1328, 1334, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 736

PUC does not have authority to regulate sightseeing boat line that does not take passengers from one place to another. Golden Gate Scenic Steamship Lines Inc. v. Public Utilities Com. (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 373, 377-380, 19 Cal. Rptr. 657, 369 P.2d 257

PUC does not have authority to condition transfer of operating authority on priority of payment to certain creditors. Hempy v. Public Utilities Com. (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 214, 217-218, 14 Cal. Rptr. 436, 363 P.2d 476

Cable television is not public utility and therefore does not have constitutional right to fair return on investment. Orange County Cable Communications Co. v. City of San Clemente (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 165, 170, 130 Cal. Rptr. 429

[c] Unconstitutional Practices

Termination of utility service without notice reasonably calculated to apprise respondents of availability of administrative procedure to consider complaint of erroneous billing and without opportunity to present complaint to designated employee empowered to review disputed bills and rectify error is deprivation of property interest without due process of law. Memphis Light, Gas & Water Div. v. Craft (1978) 436 U.S. 1, 98 S. Ct. 1554, 56 L. Ed. 2d 30, 46-47

Tariff regulation that required that subscribers who transmitted recorded telephone messages to include their names and addresses is unconstitutional violation of freedom of speech. Huntley v. Public Util. Comm'n (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 67, 71-78, 69 Cal. Rptr. 605, 442 P.2d 685

Termination of phone service based on unlawful use predicated solely on affidavit of police to that effect is unconstitutional. Sokol v. Public Utilities Com. (1966) 65 Cal. 2d 247, 251-256, 53 Cal. Rptr. 673, 418 P.2d 265

[d] Rates

In determining reasonableness of utility rates, rate of return is defined as payment for use of property of another. Hansen v. City of San Buenaventura (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 1172, 1182, 233 Cal. Rptr. 22, 729 P.2d 186

Basic principle of rate-making by PUC exists to establish a rate that will permit utility to recover its cost and expenses plus reasonable return on value of property devoted to public use. City and County of San Francisco v. Public Utilities Com. (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 119, 129, 98 Cal. Rptr. 286, 490 P.2d 798

Utility company's credit rules are valid and not violative of equal protection when they had reasonable relation to their purpose of reducing bad debt losses. Wood v. Public Utilities Com. (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 288, 293-296, 93 Cal. Rptr. 455, 481 P.2d 823

Responsibility for rate setting is with PUC and, unless its action is clearly shown to be confiscatory, courts do not interfere. Pacific Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Public Utilities Com. (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 634, 647, 44 Cal. Rptr. 1, 401 P.2d 353

Schedules of rates issued by PUC and limitations of liability therein are part of contract between public utility and customer. Hischemoeller v. National Ice & Cold Storage Co. (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 318, 325, 294 P.2d 433

Rate fixing for publicly owned municipal utility is function within exclusive province of municipality, and courts intrude only in limited cases when rates shown to be unreasonable, unfair, or fraudulently or arbitrarily established; refusal of city to pass through cost savings to rate payers is not unreasonable or arbitrary rate fixing. American Microsystems, Inc. v. City of Santa Clara (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 1037, 1042, 187 Cal. Rptr. 550

Sewer rates related to burden on system is reasonable and not discriminatory and therefore is valid. Boynton v. City of Lakeport Mun. Sewer Dist. (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 91, 93-96, 104 Cal. Rptr. 409

Airport is public utility but different charges for same services are justified by lower rates to persons who had long-term lease commitment to airport. City & County of San Francisco v. Western Air Lines, Inc. (1962) 204 Cal. App. 2d 105, 126-146, 22 Cal. Rptr. 216

Carrier is bound by published rate. Transmix Corp. v. Southern Pac. Co. (1960) 187 Cal. App. 2d 257, 262-269, 9 Cal. Rptr. 714

Public utility's refunds to customers are subject to Unclaimed Property Law (Code Civ. Proc. § 1500 et seq.). Cory v. Public Utilities Com. (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 522, 528, 189 Cal. Rptr. 386, 658 P.2d 749

Disposition of refunds received by utilities from gas suppliers. California Mfrs. Assn. v. Public Utilities Com. (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 836, 848, 157 Cal. Rptr. 676, 598 P.2d 836

[f] Relocation of Public Utility

If utilities must be moved or relocated in order to construct or operate a rapid transit system, a new and additional burden on such facilities is created and the district must pay the relocation costs. Pasadena Metro Blue Line Construction Authority v. Pacific Bell Telephone (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 658, 664-666, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 556

Relocation costs of public utility are not compensable pursuant to Gov. Code § 7262(a)(1), which provides compensation for expenses of moving business to persons displaced by written order to vacate real property for public use. Pacific Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Redevelopment Agency (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 296, 301, 151 Cal. Rptr. 68

Common law rule that franchised utilities must bear cost of relocating equipment moved at request of municipality (codified under Pub. Util. Code § 6297) does not apply to dispute between utility and private developer as to who would bear costs of relocating power poles and lines necessitated by road widening by developer that was not a governmental act but a condition imposed on developer by county in approving developer's housing development. Pacific Gas & Electric Co. v. Dame Construction Co. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 233, 236-241, 236 Cal. Rptr. 351

When private party, on its own initiative and not that of government, develops parcel of land and thereby creates or aggravates need for public improvement that requires relocation of existing utility equipment, private party is required to bear necessary relocation costs. Pacific Gas & Electric Co. v. Dame Construction Co. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 233, 241, 236 Cal. Rptr. 351

Public utility accepting franchise rights in public streets subject to implied obligation to relocate its facilities therein at its own expense when necessary to make way for proper governmental use of streets. East Bay Muni. UtilityDist. v. Richmond Redevelopment Agency (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 789, 793, 124 Cal. Rptr. 606

[g] Transfer of Public Utilities

Pub. Util. Code § 851, prohibiting public utility from selling or encumbering all of its necessary property without approval by PUC, does not contemplate private enforcement under Pub. Util. Code § 2106 (damages action for unlawful activities by public utility). Barnett v. Delta Lines, Inc. (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 674, 683-684, 187 Cal. Rptr. 219

Transfer of ownership of public utility is void without approval of PUC but executory contract to transfer is valid. Transport Clearings-- Bay Area v. Simmonds (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 405, 420, 38 Cal. Rptr. 116

Sale or transfer of assets of public utility is void unless and until approved by PUC but parties are able to enter into executory contract of sale that is enforceable by courts. Dillingham v. Schipp (1957) 154 Cal. App. 2d 553, 559, 316 P.2d 1014

[3] PUC Authority Over Particular Public Utilities

[a] Grade Crossings

Pub. Util. Code § 1202.3, relating to closure or apportionment of costs of improving publically-used railroad crossings, by PUC is constitutional and does not confer on private persons discretion as to whether crossing should be closed. Southern Pac. Transportation Co. v. Public Utilities Com. (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 308, 313-315, 134 Cal. Rptr. 189, 556 P.2d 289

Grade crossing is not legally created unless approval of PUC has been obtained. Breidert v. Southern Pac. Co. (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 398, 406, 77 Cal. Rptr. 262

PUC has exclusive jurisdiction over railroad crossings and authority to order railroad to close crossing of public road over railroad tracks. City of Union City v. Southern Pac. Co. (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 277, 279-281, 67 Cal. Rptr. 816

[b] Telephones

[i] Equipment

Use of customer-owned telephone equipment is proscribable only if it is shown that instrument would have adverse effect on telephone network as whole. Phonetele, Inc. v. Public Utilities Com. (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 125, 129, 113 Cal. Rptr. 16, 520 P.2d 400

[ii] Rates

PUC properly authorized telephone company to raise intrastate rates by $264 million to offset effect of installation costs; in offset proceeding, PUC properly determined whether significant and not reasonably foreseeable change in item of expense or revenue occurred that would seriously affect utility or ratepayers unless taken into account; all other items of expense and revenue are held constant as estimated in utility's most recent general rate proceeding; PUC properly used using more recent data in later offset proceeding to develop estimate of installation costs, without revising estimate of installation revenues in earlier general rate proceedings. City and County of San Francisco v. Public Utilities Com. (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 523, 528-534, 217 Cal. Rptr. 43, 703 P.2d 381

PUC has authority to require telephone company to implement competitive bidding practice in purchase of central office switching equipment. General Telephone Co. v. Public Utilities Com. (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 817, 822-827, 195 Cal. Rptr. 695, 670 P.2d 349

Automatic annual adjustment of telephone rates based on income taxes is valid option for PUC. City of Los Angeles v. Public Utilities Com. (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 680, 693-704, 125 Cal. Rptr. 779, 542 P.2d 1371

Telephone rate set by PUC overturned. City of Los Angeles v. Public Utilities Com. (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 331, 337-359, 102 Cal. Rptr. 313, 497 P.2d 785

Telephone rate is invalid for failure of PUC to consider imputed accounting method of computing depreciation when company's imprudent management prevented it from actually using beneficial computation of depreciation. City & County of San Francisco v. Public Util. Comm'n (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 119, 126-130, 98 Cal. Rptr. 286, 490 P.2d 798

PUC's rate for telephone service is proper. Pacific Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Public Util. Comm'n (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 634, 656-676, 44 Cal. Rptr. 1, 401 P.2d 353

[4] Municipalities

[a] Control by Municipality

Fact that nonresident users of city-owned water company are subject to higher rate than those customers residing within city limits does not alone prove rate unreasonable and hence invalid; rather, nonresidents are required to show that discrimination is not based on cost of service or some other reasonable basis. Hansen v. City of San Buenaventura (1987) 42 Cal. 3d 1172, 1181, 233 Cal. Rptr. 22, 729 P.2d 186

Publicly owned municipal utilities are not regulated by PUC or any other supervising agency in absence of legislative grant of authority, and therefore are not required under PUC rules to pass along savings in operating costs to ratepayers. American Microsystems, Inc. v. City of Santa Clara (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 1037, 1042-1043, 187 Cal. Rptr. 550

Initiative that required city, operating its own electrical distribution system, to charge its customers same rate is lifeline rate of public utility constitutes unlawful delegation of authority to PUC. Bock v. City Council (1980) 109 Cal. App. 3d 52, 55, 167 Cal. Rptr. 43

Control of municipally-owned public airport rests with city and allows it to regulate when jet aircraft may take off. Stagg v. Municipal Court (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 318, 321-323, 82 Cal. Rptr. 578

City has power to regulate location of overhead utility lines and poles. Modesto Irr. Dist. v. City Modesto (1962) 210 Cal. App. 2d 652, 655-658, 27 Cal. Rptr. 90

[b] Control by PUC

City does not have authority to regulate matters over which PUC has been granted regulatory power, specifically its authority to regulate the design or construction of gas pipelines. Southern Cal. Gas Co. v. City of Vernon (1995) 41 Cal. App. 4th 209, 217, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 661

Publicly owned municipal utilities are not regulated by PUC or any other supervising agency in absence of legislative grant of authority. American Microsystems, Inc. v. City of Santa Clara (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 1037, 1042, 187 Cal. Rptr. 550

PUC has authority over certain aspects of operations of publically-owned transit district. Los Angeles Met. Transit Authority v. Public Util. Com. (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 863, 868-870, 31 Cal. Rptr. 463, 382 P.2d 583

When PUC issued certificate of public convenience and necessity for ferry service to city, city is required to issue use permit for ferry terminal. Harbor Carriers, Inc. v. Sausalito (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 773, 775, 121 Cal. Rptr. 577

[c] Utility User's Tax

Municipally imposed utility user's tax is valid. Rivera v. City of Fresno (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 132, 137-139, 98 Cal. Rptr. 281, 490 P.2d 793

Irrigation districts functioning under state law and selling electricity are required to collect city utility user's tax. City of Modesto v. Modesto Irrigation Dist. (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 504, 506-508, 110 Cal. Rptr. 111

[5] Proceedings Before PUC

[a] Attorney-Client Privilege

Power of PUC to compel testimony is subject to statutory limitation of attorney-client privilege (Evid. Code. Code § 910) in absence of unambiguous statutory directive to contrary. Southern Cal. Gas Co. v. Public Utilities Com. (1990) 50 Cal. 3d 31, 38-39, 42, 265 Cal. Rptr. 801, 784 P.2d 1373

Utility that did nothing to place in issue its privileged attorney-client communications did not impliedly waive its attorney-client privilege. Southern Cal. Gas Co. v. Public Utilities Com. (1990) 50 Cal. 3d 31, 42, 265 Cal. Rptr. 801, 784 P.2d 1373

[b] Hearings Before PUC

PUC is required to consider anti-trust implications of contracts involved in application for certificate of public convenience and necessity. Northern California Power Agency v. Public Util. Comm'n (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 370, 377-381, 96 Cal. Rptr. 18, 486 P.2d 1218

PUC is required to separately state findings of fact and conclusions of law after hearing. Southern Pacific Co. v. Public Utilities Com. (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 243, 244, 65 Cal. Rptr. 737, 436 P.2d 889 ; Greyhound Lines, Inc. v. Public Utilities Com. (1967) 65 Cal. 2d 811, 813, 56 Cal. Rptr. 484, 423 P.2d 556

Competitor is entitled to present evidence in hearing before PUC that it could provide better service than applicant for certificate of public convenience and necessity. Ventura County Waterworks Dist. v. Public Util. Com. (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 462, 464, 39 Cal. Rptr. 8, 393 P.2d 168

Party filing complaint aggrieved by discriminatory rate has right to have PUC make order that resolves issues and fixes fair rate. Cal. Portland Cement Co. v. Public Util. Com. (1957) 49 Cal. 2d 171, 176, 315 P.2d 709

[c] Decision of PUC

Property rights determined in PUC rate-making proceeding are subject to relitigation in court, because rate-making is exercise of legislative power of PUC. Camp Meeker Water System, Inc. v. Public Utilities Com. (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 845, 852 n.3, 274 Cal. Rptr. 678, 799 P.2d 758

Although decisions of PUC are not binding on California appellate courts, appellate courts are able to look to these rulings for assistance when deciding cases involving issues that also come before PUC. Pacific Gas & Electric Co. v. Dame Construction Co. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 233, 240, 236 Cal. Rptr. 351

[d] Petition to Reopen Proceeding

When time to petition for rehearing has passed, petition to reopen proceeding does not lie to serve purpose of petition for rehearing. Northern California Asso. to Preserve Bodega Head & Harbor, Inc. v. Public Utilities Com. (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 126, 134, 37 Cal. Rptr. 432, 390 P.2d 200

[e] Costs and Fees

Nonattorney, appearing in representative capacity before PUC in quasi-judicial reparations action is entitled to award by PUC of fees and costs under common fund theory. Consumers Lobby Against Monopolies v. Public Utilities Com. (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 891, 913-915, 160 Cal. Rptr. 124, 603 P.2d 41

[6] Intervention by PUC

Pub. Util. Code § 851 (prohibiting public utility from disposing, without PUC authorization, of property necessary and useful in performance of its duties), when read together with Pub. Util. Code §§ 761 and 762 (authorizing PUC to require that utility ensure its ability to provide adequate service), permits PUC to prevent disposal of property by indirection, such as by failure to exercise or safeguard rights possessed by utility. Camp Meeker Water System, Inc. v. Public Utilities Com. (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 845, 862, 274 Cal. Rptr. 678, 799 P.2d 758 (upholding authority of PUC to, among other things, order utility to enforce easement for water rights against record titleholders and intervene in specified proceedings to prevent record titleholders from obtaining rights inconsistent with those held by utility under its easement)

PUC has right to intervene in action to overturn stipulated void judgment between parties in undercharge case. Ryerson v. Riverside Cement Co. (1968) 266 Cal. App. 2d 789, 793-796, 72 Cal. Rptr. 595

PUC has right to intervene to set aside judgment for extrinsic fraud in undercharge action when judgment is in conflict with PUC's order. People ex rel. Public Util. Comm'n v. Ryerson (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 115, 119-122, 50 Cal. Rptr. 246

[7] Judicial Review of PUC Decisions

Provision that petition for rehearing may be taken as denied within 20 days after its filing is not starting time to file petition for writ of certiorari. Sokol v. Public Util. Comm'n (1966) 65 Cal. 2d 247, 251-252, 53 Cal. Rptr. 673, 418 P.2d 265

Whether wine train is public utility is question of fact, subject to review by the substantial evidence standard. However, interpretation of Public Utilities Code is question of law subject to independent review. City of St. Helena v. Public Utilities Commission (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 793, 802, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 713

General rule of deference to PUC interpretation of statutes subject to its regulatory jurisdiction does not apply when issue is scope of PUC's jurisdiction. PG&E Corp. v. Public Utilities Commission (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 1174,

1194, 13 Cal. Rptr. 3d 630

Denial of petition for writ of certiorari (review) by Supreme Court is decision on merits that PUC had jurisdiction. City of Union City v. Southern Pac. Co. (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 277, 277-279, 67 Cal. Rptr. 816

[8] Civil Actions Involving Public Utilities

[a] Jurisdiction of Superior Court

Where civil action brought by public prosecutors against public utility does not usurp exclusive power of PUC and was authorized by statute, superior court and PUC have concurrent subject matter jurisdiction. Orloff v. Pac. Bell (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 1132, 1144-1155, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 315, 80 P.3d 201

Functions of PUC does not include determination of (1) validity of contracts, (2) whether claims may be asserted under contract, or (3) interests in or title to property, because these are questions for courts. Camp Meeker Water System, Inc. v. Public Utilities Com. (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 845, 861, 274 Cal. Rptr. 678, 799 P.2d 758

Claims alleging that telephone company violated the Unfair Business Practices Act (Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et seq.) or the False Advertising Act (Bus. & Prof. Code § 17500 et seq.), together, the Unfair Competition Law, must be brought in superior court. Greenlining Institute v. Public Util. Com. (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 1324, 1328, 1334, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 736

Jurisdiction of superior court is limited to situations in which relief sought would not hinder or frustrate PUC's declared supervisory and regulatory policies. Brian T. v. Pacific Bell (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 894, 900-901, 258 Cal. Rptr. 707

[b] Effect of PUC Approval on Pending Litigation

Existence of PUC approval as condition precedent to completion of merger of two corporations does not, as matter of law, deprive one corporation of causes of action against third corporation for tortious interference. SCEcorp v. Superior Court (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 673, 678, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 372

[c] Stay Pending Investigation by PUC

In action for damages against public utility, trial court abused its discretion by denying utility's motion for order staying action, when pending investigation by PUC encompasses practices that are central to that litigation. Pacific Bell v. Superior Court (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 137, 140, 231 Cal. Rptr. 574

[d] Particular Actions

[i] Determination of Public Utility Status

Superior court has jurisdiction to decide status as nonexempt mutual water company when PUC had not yet determined issue. Ventura County Waterworks Dist. v. Susana Knolls Mut. Water Co. (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 672, 678-679, 87 Cal. Rptr. 1

[ii] Condemnation by Public Utility

Filing of complaint with PUC does not oust superior court of jurisdiction in condemnation by public utility to acquire property for project to which complaint is directed. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. v. Parachini (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 159, 163, 105 Cal. Rptr. 477

[iii] Commencement or Disruption of Service

Superior court has jurisdiction over action to force public utility to furnish service in accordance with applicable tariff and rates. Vila v. Tahoe Southside Water Utility (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 469, 477-480, 43 Cal. Rptr. 654

Discontinuance of service by public utility pursuant to rules filed with PUC is defense to action for such discontinuance. Morse v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (1957) 152 Cal. App. 2d 854, 859, 314 P.2d 192

[iv] Unlawful Operation

Limousine service stated cause of action for damages pursuant to Pub. Util. Code § 2106, permitting damages for harm resulting from unlawful operation, when rival limousine service operated in same area without certificate of public convenience and necessity. Golden Sedan Service Inc. v. Airport Limousine Service (1981) 121 Cal. App. 3d 359, 363-367, 175 Cal. Rptr. 317 .

Cause of action is stated against PUC for failure to revoke bus company's operating authority for failure to carry required insurance when plaintiff was injured by bus company's negligence and could not collect judgment. Elson v. Public Utilities Com. (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 577, 581-589, 124 Cal. Rptr. 305

[v] Inequitable Charges

Cause of action is stated for declaratory and injunctive relief against city charging four times as much for service outside city limits as for servicewithin city limits. Elliott v. City of Pacific Grove (1975) 54 Cal. App. 3d 53, 57-60, 126 Cal. Rptr. 371

[vi] Collection of Undercharges

Nonlicensed carrier is not precluded from bringing action to collect its undercharges. Keller v. Thornton Canning Co. (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 963, 966-969, 59 Cal. Rptr. 836, 429 P.2d 156

Action to collect undercharges is capable of being brought in superior court. Gardner v. Rich Mfg. Co. (1945) 68 Cal. App. 2d 725, 729-733, 158 P.2d 23

[vii] Infringement of Public Utility's Constitutional Right

PUC impermissibly burdens private utility company's First Amendment rights when it required company to include in company's billing envelopes speech of a third party with which company disagreed. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. v. Public Utilities Comm'n (1986) 475 U.S. 1, 20-21, 106 S. Ct. 903, 89 L. Ed. 2d 1

[viii] Nuisance

Superior court has authority to abate nuisance caused by public utility. California Oregon Power Co. v. Superior

Court (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 858, 870-871, 291 P.2d 455

PUC's tariff did not restrict liability of telecommunications company engaged in fraud. Cal. Civ. Code § 2106 permits an action against a public utility that engages in an activity prohibited or declared unlawful. Additionally, "if [a] court finds that the act or omission was willful, it may, in addition to the actual damages, award exemplary damages." Pink Dot, Inc. v. Teleport Communications Group (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 407, 418, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 392 .

Action for damages against gas company for fraudulent misrepresentation as to amount of gas that development would use is not barred by law making rebates illegal. Empire West v. Southern California Gas Co. (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 805, 809-812, 117 Cal. Rptr. 423, 528 P.2d 31

[x] Exemplary Damages

Although Pub. Util. Code § 2106 authorizes exemplary damages to "persons affected," Legislature intends to limit those damages to persons (or their personal representatives or successors in interest) who are themselves direct victims of public utility's willful act or omission; award of exemplary damages to parents of child killed by speeding train is improper under Pub. Util. Code § 2106. Vander Lind v. Superior Court (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 358, 367, 194 Cal. Rptr. 209

[xi] Termination of Public Utility Franchise

Quo warranto action in superior court is proper to oust public utility of franchise for failing to supply proper water unless Public Utilities PUC has assumed jurisdiction over regulation and control of utility. Citizens Utilities Co. v. Superior Court (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 399, 403-410, 128 Cal. Rptr. 582

[b] Use of Form

The form of complaint set out in [a], above, is for use in filing a complaint before the PUC charging a violation by a public utility [Pub. Util. Code § 1702]. The complaint is based on the illustrative form of complaint for PUC matters that is set out in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 88.

For further discussion relating to complaint proceedings, see § 480.22.

[c] Who May File

A complaint about the reasonableness of rates of a gas, electrical, water, or telephone corporation must be signed by either the mayor, chairman of the board of trustees, or majority of the board of trustees of the legislative body of the city where the violation occurred or at least 25 actual or prospective customers. Other complaints can be made by any person [Pub. Util. Code § 1702].

[d] Form and Size

[i] In General

The complaint must be typewritten, printed, or reproduced on paper 81/2 inches wide and 11 inches long. The type must be no smaller than 10 points. The impression must use either one and one-half or double spacing. Footnotes and quotations in excess of a few lines, however, may be single-spaced. Both sides of the paper may be used. A document of more than one page must be bound on the left side or upper left-hand corner [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 2].

Any exhibits annexed must be legibly reduced or folded to the same size.

All documents tendered for filing must have a blank space of at least 11/2 inches tall by 21/2 inches wide in the upper right-hand corner for a docket stamp and must show on the first page [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 2.1(a)]:

- At the top, the heading "BEFORE THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA."
- In the upper left below the heading, the caption for the proceeding.
- To the right of the caption, the docket number (if one has been assigned).
- Below the caption and docket number, the title of the document and the name of or shortened designation for the party tendering the document.

The title page may extend to additional pages if these required items cannot be set forth on one page. The name, mailing address, telephone number, and, if available, facsimile transmission number of the person authorized to receive service and other communications on behalf of the party tendering the document must be set forth either on the title page of the document or following the signature at the end of the document, along with (if consenting to service by electronic mail) the signer's electronic mail address [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 2.1; see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 2.2]. Documents initiating new proceedings must leave a space to the right of the caption for the docket number [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 2.1; see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 88].

Persons and corporations regulated by the PUC must include their assigned Case Information System (CIS) Identification Number in the captions of documents initiating new proceedings and in the titles of other documents filed in existing cases [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 2.1(c)].

[ii] Transmittal Letter

If a transmittal letter is submitted, it must not be bound to the tendered document. All copies must be clear and permanently legible [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 2, see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 2.7(c) (letter transmitting documents to Docket Office for filing is not required unless acknowledgment of filing pursuant to 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 3.1 is requested)].

[iii] Separate Documents for Unrelated Subjects or Different Types of Action

Separate documents must be used to address unrelated subjects or to ask the PUC or the administrative law judge to take essentially different types of action. For example, a document entitled "Complaint and Motion for Protective Order" would be improper. The filing must be split up into two separate documents [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 2.1(b)].

[e] Joinder

All matters on which a complaint may be founded may be joined in one hearing and no motion will be entertained against a complaint for misjoinder of causes of action or grievances or misjoinder or nonjoinder of parties [Pub. Util. Code § 1703].

[f] Contents of Form

[i] General Requirements

Complaints must state the full name, address, and telephone number of each complainant and his or her attorney, if any, and of each defendant. The specific act complained of must be set forth in ordinary and concise language. The complaint must be so drawn as to completely advise the defendant and the PUC of the following [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 10]:

- The facts constituting the grounds of the complaint.
- The injury complained of.
- The exact relief which is desired.

Additional requirements must be satisfied when both the complainant and defendant are radio/telephone utilities, and the complaint alleges unlawful or improper actions or intentions by the defendant [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 10.1].

[ii] No Direct Damage Required

The PUC is not required to dismiss any complaint because of the absence of direct damage to the complainant [Pub. Util. Code § 1703].

[iii] Informal Resolution Allegation

A complaint that does not allege that the matter has first been brought to the staff for informal resolution may be referred to the staff to attempt to resolve the matter informally [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 10].

[g] Verification

Complaints or amendments to complaints must be verified by at least one complainant [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 2.4]. Alternative forms of verifications are set forth in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 88.

[h] Copies

An original plus 12 conformed copies of a complaint or amendment thereto, plus two additional copies for each named defendant, must be presented to the PUC for filing [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 11].

[i] Filing

[i] Location

Unless otherwise directed, the complaint must be tendered for filing at either of the following docket offices of the PUC [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 3(a)]:

Docket Office
California Public Utility Commission
State Building

505 Van Ness Avenue
San Francisco, California 94102-3298

Docket Office
California Public Utility Commission
320 West 4th Street, Suite 500
Los Angeles, California 90013

Docket Office
State Building
California Public Utility Commission
1350 Front Street
San Diego, CA 92101-3607

All documents sent through the mail must be addressed to the Commission's Docket Office in San Francisco.

Only hand-delivered documents will be accepted by the Los Angeles or San Diego office. First-class postage charges to San Francisco must be paid at the time documents are tendered to the Los Angeles or San Diego office. Payment of postage charges may be made by check or money order [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 3(a)].

[ii] Acceptance and Rejection of Documents Tendered for Filing

Tendered documents are not considered filed until they have been reviewed and accepted for filing by the Docket Office in San Francisco [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 3(b)].

If a document complies with the PUC rules of practice and procedure (20 Cal. Code Reg.) and is accepted for filing by the Docket Office in San Francisco, the filing will be recorded as of the date it was first tendered for filing at the Commission's San Francisco, Los Angeles, or San Diego office [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 3(c)].

Any tendered document that does not comply with applicable rules, PUC orders, or statutes may be rejected. Rejected documents will be returned with a statement of the reasons for the rejection. Documents submitted in response to a rejected document will not be filed [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 3(d)].

If a tendered document does not comply with applicable requirements, the Docket Office, with the consent of the party tendering the document, may retitle the document or strike part of the document, and the document as modified may be accepted for filing. The party tendering the document must notify all parties served with the document of the modification or striking [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 3(e)].

If a tendered document does not comply with applicable requirements, the party tendering the document may, in the body of the document, request waiver of the requirements to which the document does not conform. The request must state the reasons justifying the waiver. The assigned administrative law judge will decide whether or not to waive the requirements as requested. If the waiver is granted, the document will be filed as of the date it was tendered for filing [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 3(f)].

If a tendered document is in substantial, but not complete, compliance with 20 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2 through 2.6, the Docket Office may notify the party tendering the document of the defect. If the defect is cured within seven days of the date of this notification, the document will be filed as of the date it was tendered for filing, provided that the document was properly served as required by the PUC rules of practice and procedure on or before the date the document was tendered for filing [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 3(g)].

Acceptance of a document for filing is not a final determination that the document complies with all requirements of the PUC and is not a waiver of such requirements. The Commission, the Executive Director, or the administrative law judge may require amendments to a document, and the PUC or the administrative law judge may entertain appropriate motions concerning the document's deficiencies [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 3(h)].

[iii] Assignment of Docket Number

If a document initiates a new proceeding, the proceeding will be assigned a docket number when the document is accepted for filing. The chief administrative law judge is required to maintain a docket of all proceedings [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 3(i)].

[iv] Acknowledgement of Filing

The Docket Office will provide an acknowledgment of the filing of any document on request, provided the filing party furnishes, at the time the document is tendered, an extra copy of a letter of transmittal or of the document and a self-addressed envelope with postage fully prepaid. The extra copy of the letter of transmittal or of the document will be stamped with the filing stamp and docket number and returned by mail [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 3.1].

[j] Amended Complaint

An amendment may be filed before the hearing, provided it is served on all known interested parties, filed at least five days before the hearing, and contain a certification of service. Thereafter, an amendment may be permitted or directed by the commissioner or presiding officer [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 2.6].

[2] Allegation of Discriminatory Rate

[a] FORM Complaint Proceedings Before the PUC--Allegation of Discriminatory Rate

Defendant's published tariff for hauling_____[specify commodity] from_____[specify first place] to_____[specify second place] is $_____ per ton. Defendant's published tariff for hauling_____[specify commodity] from_____[specify third place] to_____[specify fourth place] is $_____ per ton. The distance from_____[specify first place] to_____[specify second place] is substantially the same as the distance from_____[specify third place] to_____[specify fourth place]. Defendant is thus charging substantially different rates to haul the same cargo the same distance, which discrimination injures plaintiff, who has to pay the higher rate to ship its_____[specify commodity].

[b] Use of Form

The form of allegation set out in [a], above, is for use as Paragraph 2 of the form provided in [1][a], above, when the complaint is based on a discriminatory rate.

[c] Compensation for Intervention

Pursuant to Pub. Util. Code § 1801 et seq., the PUC may award reasonable advocate's fees, reasonable expert witness fees, and other reasonable costs of participation or intervention in a hearing or proceeding to any customer who complies with Pub. Util. Code § 1804 and who satisfies the requirements set forth in Pub. Util. Code § 1803 [see Pub. Util. Code § 1803].

For discussion of the procedure and rules involved in obtaining compensation for intervention, see § 480.26.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [typed name]

[b] Use of Form

The form of answer set out in [a], above, is for use in answering a complaint before the PUC [Pub. Util. Code § 1702]. The form is based on the form of answer for PUC matters set forth in 20 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 13, 88.

For additional comments related to answers in complaint proceedings, see § 480.22[3]. For additional comments pertaining to use of this form in complaint proceedings, see [1], above.

Documents for filing are tendered to the appropriate PUC docket office under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 3. For discussion relating to acceptance and rejection of tendered documents generally, see § 480.190[1][i].

[c] Time for Answer

Within 30 days after the date of service of the complaint, the defendant must answer the complaint. The PUC, the chief administrative law judge, or the presiding officer may require the filing of an answer within a shorter time. If an amendment to a complaint is filed before receipt of the answer, the defendant's time to answer the complaint is 30 days from the date of service of the amendment, unless otherwise directed. Amendments to a complaint made subsequent to the filing of an answer need not be answered [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 13].

[d] Verification

At least one of the defendants filing an answer must verify it, but if more than one answer is filed in response to a complaint against multiple defendants, each answer must be separately verified [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 2.4].

[e] Extension of Time

Requests for an extension of time to answer must be directed to the chief administrative law judge or the presiding officer in writing and a copy served on all parties. The request must indicate complainant's acquiescence to the extension of time or the measures taken by Defendant in his or her unsuccessful effort to obtain acquiescence. The chief administrative law judge or the presiding officer must notify the parts of his or her ruling [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 13].

[f] Contents of Answers

The answer must admit or deny each material allegation in the complaint and must set forth any new matter constituting a defense. Its purpose is to fully advise the complainant and the PUC of the nature of the defense. It should also set forth any defects in the complaint which require amendment or clarification. Failure to indicate jurisdictional defects does not waive these defects and does not prevent a motion to dismiss made thereafter. Answers must comply with the format requirements of 20 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2-2.6 and include the full name, address, and telephone number of defendant and his or her attorney, if any, and indicate service on all complainants [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 13.1].

[b] Use of Form

The form of petition to intervene set out in [a], above, is for use to obtain leave to appear in a complaint proceeding.

For additional comments, see [1], above. For further discussion regarding intervention, see §§ 480.22[5], 480.26.

Documents for filing are tendered to the appropriate PUC docket office under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 3. For discussion relating to acceptance and rejection of tendered documents generally, see § 480.190[1][i].

[c] When Leave Will Be Granted

Leave will not be granted except on averments that are reasonably pertinent to the issues already presented but do not unduly broaden them [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 53].

[d] Broadening of Issues

If the petitioner seeks a broadening of the issues and shows that they would not thereby be unduly broadened, the petition must be served and filed by petitioner at least 10 days, and the parties may serve and file replies, at least five days before the matter is called for hearing [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 53].

[e] Effect of Granting of Leave

If leave is granted, the petitioner becomes an intervener and a party to the proceeding to the degree indicated by the order allowing intervention or by the presiding officer at the hearing [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 53].

[b] Use of Form

The general form of application set out in [a], above, is for use in making an application to the PUC. This application is based on the form of application for PUC matters set forth in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 88 with certain additions as required by 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 15.

For requirements related to form and size of documents filed in PUC proceedings, see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 2, discussed in § 480.190[1][d]. For a comparison between complaint proceedings and application proceedings, see § 480.21.

Documents for filing are tendered to the appropriate PUC docket office under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 3. For discussion relating to acceptance and rejection of tendered documents generally, see § 480.190[1][i].

[c] Contents of Application

All applications must state clearly and concisely the authorization or relief sought, cite by appropriate reference the statutory provision or other authority under which PUC authorization or relief is sought, and, in addition to specific requirements for particular applications set forth in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 18 et seq., state the following [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 15]:

- The exact legal name of each applicant and the location of principal place of business and, if an applicant is a corporation, trust, association, or other organized group the state under the laws of which that applicant was created or organized.

- The name, title, address,, telephone number, facsimile transmission number, and, if the applicant consents to e-mail service, the e-mail address of the person to whom correspondence or communications in regard to the application are to be addressed. Notice, order, and other papers may be served on the person so named, and such service is deemed to be service on the applicant.

- Any additional information that may be required by the PUC in a particular proceeding.

- Applications for ex parte action must set forth the basis for such request, and those seeking the granting of relief pending full hearing must set forth the necessity for that relief.

In addition to otherwise complying with the rules of practice and procedure of the PUC (20 Cal. Code Reg. § 1 et seq.), each application for authority to abandon passenger stage service, or reduce service to less than one trip per day (excluding Saturday and Sunday), must include exhibits specified in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 15(e) [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 15(e)].

[d] Attachments

[i] Organizational Documents and Authorization to Transact Business

Any applicant other than a natural person must submit with the application a copy of the entity's organizing documents and evidence of the applicant's qualification to transact business in California. If current documentation has previously been filed with the Commission, the application need only make specific reference to that filing [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 2.2].

[ii] Financial Statement

Wherever the rules provide that a financial statement must be annexed to the application, such statement, unless otherwise provided, must be prepared as of the latest available date and must show the following information [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 2.3]:

- Amount and kinds of stock authorized by articles of incorporation and amount outstanding.

- Terms of preference of preferred stock, whether cumulative or participating, or on dividends or assets, or otherwise.

- Brief description of each security agreement, mortgage and deed of trust on applicant's property, showing date of execution, debtor and secured party, mortgagor and mortgagee and trustor and beneficiary, amount of indebtedness authorized to be secured thereby and amount of indebtedness actually secured together with sinking fund provisions.

- Amount of bonds authorized and issued, giving name of public utility which issued same, describing each class separately, and giving date of issue, par value, rate of interest, date of maturity and how secured, together with amount of interest paid thereon during the last fiscal year.

- Each note outstanding, giving date of issue, amount, date of maturity, rate of interest, in whose favor, together with amount of interest paid thereon during the last fiscal year.

- Other indebtedness, giving same by classes and describing security, if any, with a brief statement of the devolution or assumption of any portion of such indebtedness on or by any person or corporation if the original liability has been transferred, together with amount of interest paid thereon during the last fiscal year.

- Rate and amount of dividends paid during the five previous fiscal years, and the amount of capital stock on which dividends were paid each year.

- A balance sheet as of the latest available date, together with an income statement covering period from close of last year for which an annual report has been filed with the PUC to the date of the balance sheet attached to the application.

[e] Copies

Any person tendering a document for filing must submit an original and seven exact copies of the document. This quantity includes attachments,but does not include the transmittal letter, if any [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 2.5; see 20 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2.7(c), 3.1 (relating to transmittal letters)].

After an official service list is established in a proceeding (see Rule 2.3(e), (f), (g)), any person tendering a document for filing in that proceeding must submit an original and four copies of the document [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 2.5].

[f] Environmental Impact Reports

The PUC has adopted extensive rules that discuss when an environmental impact report or negative declaration must be prepared and provide the procedures for the preparation thereof [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 17.1].

[g] Amendments

An amendment may be filed before the hearing, provided it is served on all known interested parties, filed at least five days before the hearing, and contains a certification of service. Thereafter, amendments may be permitted or directed by the PUC or presiding officer [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 2.6].

[2] Application For Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity to Operate and Construct or Extend Facilities

[a] FORM Application Proceedings Before the PUC--Application Proceedings Before the PUC

[Caption. See [1][a], above.]

The application of _____[state exact legal name, mailing address, and telephone number of each applicant] respectfully shows:

1. The applicant was, and is, a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of _____, and authorized to do business, and doing business in the State of California, with its principal place of business in _____ County, California. A copy of Applicant's articles of incorporation is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.

2. All communications in respect to this application are to be addressed to _____[name, title, address, and telephone number].

3. The applicant requests a certificate issued by the Public Utilities Commission under Public Utilities Code Section 1001 declaring that public convenience and necessity require, and will require, the _____ [construction or extension] of the following facilities: _____ [specify type of construction needed, e.g., and electrical plant] to be constructed at _____, for the purpose of _____ [specify, e.g., furnishing electrical power to the City or District of _____].

4. In order to provide the services mentioned above, the applicant proposes to build the following facilities:

(a) _____ [Describe fully the proposed construction, e.g., An electrical plant of the following size and specifications: _____].

(b) _____ [Describe fully any additional facilities to be constructed in order to furnish the proposed services].

5. The applicant proposes to render services authorized by the requested certificate in the following localities:_____[state fully and in detail the area proposed to be covered by applicant's utility]; the following _____[public utilities or persons other than public utilities] are likely to compete with the proposed utility of applicant: _____[specify names and addresses]. A certificate of service of this application on each of the possible future competitors of Applicant mentioned above is attached hereto as Exhibit B and made a part hereof.

6. A map showing the location of the proposed construction of applicant and its relation to all other possible future competitors is attached hereto as Exhibit C and made a part hereof.

7. The applicant has been granted a permit by the_____[specify governmental agency] to operate as _____ [specify type of service, e.g., electrical company] in _____[specify location covered by the franchise]. A copy of the permit is attached hereto as Exhibit D and made a part hereof.

8. Present and future public convenience and necessity require and will require the _____ [construction or extension] and operation of these facilities and service because _____ [state facts indicating that service is required and that public convenience and necessity will be served].

9. The costs of the construction and operation of the proposed utility are set forth in a schedule attached hereto as Exhibit E and made a part hereof.

10. Applicant has the financial means to construct and operate said proposed utility as shown in the applicant's balance sheet to _____[date] attached hereto as Exhibit F. and made a part hereof.

11. The following proposed rates to be charged for the services to be rendered by the utility are set forth in a schedule attached hereto as Exhibit G and made a part hereof.

12. _____[State any other additional data which may be necessary].

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays that a certificate be issued declaring that the present public convenience and necessity requires and will require the construction and operation of petitioner's facilities and that petitioner be granted a permit to build, operate, and maintain those facilities.

[b] Use of Form

The form set out in [a], above, is for use in applying to the PUC for a rate change or alteration of any classification, contract, practice, or rule resulting in a new rate [see Pub. Util. Code § 454(a); S. Cal. Edison Co. v. Peevey (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 781, 804-805, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 703, 74 P.3d 795 (application, but no public hearing, required for rate change)].

For additional comments, see [1], above.

For discussion related ratesetting proceedings, see § 480.80 et seq.

[c] Contents of Attachments When Rate Increase Is Sought

[i] Balance Sheet and Income Statement

The balance sheet must be of the latest available date. There must also be an income statement covering the period from the close of the last year for which an annual report was filed with the PUC to the date of the balance sheet [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 23(a)].

[ii] Current Rates

The statement of current rates need not be in tariff form [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 23(b)].

[iii] Statement of Proposed Increases or Changes

The statement need not be in tariff form but must set forth the proposed rate structure with reasonable clarity. Except as to carriers, the statement must also show the amount of proposed gross revenues together with the percentage of increase, if in excess of one percent, estimated to result from the proposed rates [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 23(c)].

In the case of carriers, when a general rate increase application is filed, the statement must include an estimate of the amount of additional annual gross revenue estimated to result from the increase, which must be based on the amount of involved traffic handled for the preceding calendar year and must indicate the percentage by which the estimate exceeds the gross revenues on the involved traffic for the preceding calendar year, if more than one percent [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 23(c)].

In the case of gas, electric, telephone, telegraph, water and heat utilities, the proposed revenue increase, if in excess of one percent, must be shown by appropriate rate classifications. If the percentage of increase in revenue is one percent or less, applicant must so state in its application [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 23(c)].

[iv] Summary of Earnings

The summary of earnings must be on a depreciated rate base for the test period or periods on which the applicant bases its justification for an increase. If adjusted or estimated results are shown for successive periods, they should be on a consistent basis. Whenever adjusted results are shown, the recorded results for the same periods should also be shown [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 23(e)].

[v] Exhibits for Specific Utilities

For requirements for additional exhibits related to specified utilities, see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 23.

[d] Verification

The application must be verified [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 2.4].

[e] Notice of Proposed Rate Change

[i] By Mail

If the applicant for an authorization to increase rates is a gas, electric, telephone, telegraph, water, or heat utility, or, with respect to passenger fares a street railroad corporation, a passenger stage corporation, a railroad corporation, a vessel common carrier or a passenger air carrier, the applicant must name in its application and, within 10 days after filing its application with the PUC, mail a notice to the following, stating in general terms the proposed increases in rates or fares [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 24]:

- The state, by mailing to the Attorney General and the Department of General Services, when the state is a customer or subscriber whose rates or fares would be affected by the proposed increase.

- Each county, by mailing to the county counsel (or district attorney if the county has no county counsel) and county clerk, and each city, by mailing to the city attorney and city clerk, listed in the current roster published by the Secretary of State within, from, to, or in which the proposed increase is to be made effective.

- Any other parties whom applicant deems appropriate. The applicant must promptly notify the PUC of the mailing.

The notice must also state that a copy of the application and related exhibits will be furnished by the applicant on written request. The applicant must also mail copies of the application and related exhibits to such parties and within such times as may be required by the PUC [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 24].

[ii] By Publication

Gas, electric, telephone, telegraph, water or heat utilities, within 10 days after the filing of the application, must publish at least once in a newspaper of general circulation in the county within, from or to which the increasesare proposed to be made effective a notice, in general terms, of the proposed increases in rates or fares [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 24].

The notice must state that a copy of the application and related exhibits may be examined at the offices of the PUC in San Francisco or Los Angeles and in such offices of the applicant as are specified in the notice, and must state the locations of those offices [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 24].

Proof of publication must be filed with the PUC at or prior to the opening of such hearing as may be had on the application [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 24].

[iii] To Customers

Whenever any electrical, gas, heat, telephone, water, or sewer system corporation files an application to change any rate, other than a change reflecting and passing through to customers only new costs to the corporation that do not result in changes in revenue allocation, for the services or commodities furnished by it, the corporation shall furnish to its customers affected by the proposed rate change notice of its application to the PUC for approval of the new rate [Pub. Util. Code § 454(a); see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 24].

The corporation may include the notice with the regular bill for charges transmitted to the customers within 45 days if the corporation operates on a 30-day billing cycle, or within 75 days if the corporation operates on a 60-day billing cycle. If more than one application to change any rate is filed within a single billing cycle, the corporation may combine the notices into a single notice if the applications are separately identified [Pub. Util. Code § 454(a); see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 24].

The notice must state the amount of the proposed rate change, expressed in both dollar and percentage terms for the entire rate change as well as for each customer classification; a brief statement of the reasons the change is required or sought; and the mailing address of the PUC to which any customer inquiries may be directed regarding how to participate in, or receive further notices regarding the date, time, or place of, any hearing on the application, and the mailing address of the corporation to which any customer inquiries relative to the proposed rate change may be directed [Pub. Util. Code § 454(a); see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 24].

This notice requirement does not apply to any rate change proposed by a corporation pursuant to an advice letter submitted to the PUC in accordance with PUC procedures for this means of submission. The procedures for advice letters may include provision for notice to customers or subscribers on a case-by-case basis, as determined by the PUC [Pub. Util. Code § 454(a)].

[f] Hearing Procedure Before the PUC

The PUC may adopt rules it considers reasonable and proper for each class of public utility providing for the nature of the showing required in support of proposed rate changes, the form and manner of the presentation of the showing, with or without a hearing, and the procedure to be followed in the consideration thereof [see Pub. Util. Code § 454(b)].

The PUC must permit individual public utility customers and subscribers affected by a proposed rate change, and organizations formed to represent their interests, to testify at any hearing on the proposed rate change [see Pub. Util. Code § 454(c)].

The application of_____[state exact legal name, mailing address, and telephone number of each applicant] respectfully shows:

1. Authorization is requested to_____[state clearly and concisely the specific authority or authorities sought, together with the current rates, fares, charges, or rules being increased].

2. This application is based on the following facts and circumstances:_____[here and in succeeding numbered paragraphs or attached exhibits, set forth the specific facts required by the applicable rules, a statement of or reference to exhibits showing present and proposed rates, fares, charges or rules and the additional facts and circumstances deemed to be material].

3. The position of the interested parties in this matter is as follows:_____[here list the position of each interested party insofar as known].

4. Applicant will furnish a copy of this application to any interested party on written request.

5. In the knowledge and belief of applicant, the increases proposed above do not require a public hearing and would not increase applicant's California intrastate gross revenue by as much as one percent. [Verification. See § 480.191[1][a].]

[b] Use of Form

The form of application set out in [a], above, is for use when the shortened-procedure tariff docket is applicable. It can be used only for applications of common carriers to increase any rate or so alter any classification, contract, practice, or rule as to result in any increase in rate [20 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 25-32]. The form in [a], above, is based on the form of application under shortened-procedure tariff docket set forth in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 88, with certain additions required by 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 25.

[c] Required Allegations

Applications may not be processed under the Shortened-Procedures Tariff Docket unless the application shows that, in the knowledge and belief of the applicant, the proposed increases do not require public hearing and the application contains a statement of the facts and circumstances on which such belief is based and would not increase applicant's California intrastate gross revenue by as much as one percent [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 25].

[d] Verification

The application must be verified [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 26].

[e] Copy of Application

The applicant must promptly furnish a copy of the application to each interested party making a written request therefor to the applicant [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 28].

[f] Application of Rules to Procedure

Applications and protests on the Shortened-Procedure Tariff Docket are subject to 20 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2, 2.1 and 2.5. They are not subject, however, to the other provisions relating to the filing of documents generally (see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 2 et seq.), to the provisions relating to applications generally (see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 15 et seq.), or to the provisions relating to applications for authority to increase rates generally (see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 23 et seq.) [see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 25 et seq. (preamble)].

[b] Use of Form

The form set out in [a], above, is for use in protesting rate increases on the shortened-procedure tariff docket. The form is based on the form of protest set forth in 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 88.

For additional comments, see [1], above, and § 480.191[1].

[c] Verification

The form of protest in [a], above, must be verified [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 30(d)].

[d] Time and Address for Mailing

The protest must reach the PUC not later than the 30th day following the listing of the application in the daily calendar [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 30(f)]. It must be mailed to the PUC at State Building, San Francisco, CA 94101.

[e] Service

One copy of each protest must simultaneously be served on each applicant or its attorney or agent. Service must be made pursuant to 20 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2.3 and 2.3.1 [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 31].

[f] Copy On Request

Protestant must promptly furnish a copy of the protest to each party making a written request therefore [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 32].

The form set out in [a], above, is for use in petitioning for a rehearing of a categorization determination before the PUC. The PUC must determine whether [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.1(a)]:

- A proceeding requires a hearing.
- The matter requires a quasi-legislative, an adjudication, or a ratesetting hearing.
- For further discussion related to categorization determinations, see § 480.23.

Documents for filing are tendered to the appropriate PUC docket office under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 3. For discussion relating to acceptance and rejection of tendered documents generally, see § 480.190[1][i].

[c] Time for Request

The PUC's decision regarding the nature of the proceeding is subject to a request for rehearing within 10 days of the date of the decision. If the decision is not appealed to the PUC within that time period it is not subsequently subject to judicial review. Only those parties who have requested a rehearing within that time period shall subsequently have standing for judicial review and that review is only be available at the conclusion of the proceeding [Pub. Util. Code § 1701.1(a)].

[b] Use of Form

The form set out in [a], above, is for use in petitioning for a rehearing before the PUC. It may be filed by any losing party or any stockholder or bondholder or other party pecuniarily interested in the public utility affected [Pub. Util. Code § 1731].

Documents for filing are tendered to the appropriate PUC docket office under 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 3 [but see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 25 et seq. (preamble; provisions do not apply to applications and protests on Shortened-Procedure Tariff Docket)]. For discussion relating to acceptance and rejection of tendered documents generally, see § 480.190[1][i].

[c] Contents

The application for a rehearing must set forth specifically the ground or grounds on which the applicant considers the decision or order to be unlawful. No corporation or person may in any court urge or rely on any ground not so set forth in the application [Pub. Util. Code § 1732]. Vague assertions as to the record or the law, without citation, may be accorded little attention [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 86.1].

[d] Time for Filing

The application for rehearing must be filed within 30 days after the date of issuance of the PUC's order or decision, or within 10 days after the date of issuance in the case of an order issued pursuant to Pub. Util. Code §§ 816-830 or 851-856 (relating to security transactions and the transfer or encumbrance of utility property). In this context, "date of issuance" means the date when the PUC mails the order or decision to the parties to the action or proceeding [Pub. Util. Code § 1731(b); see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 85].

[e] Time for Granting or Denying Application

Any application for a rehearing made 10 days or more before the effective date of the order as to which a rehearing is sought must be either granted or denied before the effective date or the order will stand suspended until the application is granted or denied. However, absent further order of the PUC, the order will not stand so suspended for more than 60 days after the date of filing of the application, at which time the suspension will lapse, the order will become effective, and the application may be taken by the party making it to be denied. Any application for a rehearing made within less than 10 days before the effective date of the order as to which a rehearing is sought and not granted within 60 days may be taken by the party making the application to be denied unless the effective date of the order is extended for the period of the pendency of the application [Pub. Util. Code § 1733].

[f] Response

A response to an application for rehearing is not necessary. Any response may be filed and served no later than 15 days after the day the application for rehearing was filed. In instances of multiple applications for rehearing, the response may be to all such applications and may be filed 15 days after the last application for rehearing was filed. The PUC is not obligated to withhold a decision on an application for rehearing to allow time for a response to be filed [20 Cal. Code Reg. § 86.2].

[g] Effect of Application

An application for rehearing does not excuse any corporation or person from complying with and obeying any order or decision or any requirement of any order or decision of the PUC theretofore made or operate in any manner to stay or postpone the enforcement thereof, except in such cases and on such terms as the PUC by order directs [Pub. Util. Code § 1735; 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 86]. An application for rehearing is a necessary prerequisite to an appeal [Pub. Util. Code §§ 1731(b), 1756].

[If petition contains factual assertions, include appropriate verification. See § 480.191[1][a].]

[b] Use of Form

The form of petition in [a], above, is for using in petitioning the Commission to adopt, amend, or repeal a regulation. For further discussion of the procedures related to this petition, see § 480.12[4].

[c] Contents

Pleadings relating to matters not specifically mentioned in the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (20 Cal. Code Reg § 1 et seq.) must comply with 20 Cal. Code Reg §§ 2 through 2.6, 15 and 16, relating to format and contents generally [20 Cal. Code Reg § 42; see Pub. Util. Code § 1708.5(e) (Commission must implement regulation petition procedure under its existing rules and amend its rules with specific procedures prior to July 1, 2001)].

The proposed regulation (or amendment or repeal of an existing regulation) must be a rule of general applicability and future effect [see Pub. Util. Code § 1708(a)] (see Paragraph 3).

A petition must concisely state the facts and law supporting the petition the specific relief or ruling requested [20 Cal. Code Reg §§ 45 and 46 (relating to motions, petitions, and other requests)] (see Paragraph 4).

[d] Verification

Pub. Util. Code §§ 1708, 1708.5 do not state whether a verification is required and specific regulations relating to this petition do not currently exist. By analogy, under the Commission's notice and comment rulemaking procedures (20 Cal. Code Reg § 14.1 et seq.), all pleadings that contain factual assertions must be verified. Unverified factual assertions are given only the weight of argument [20 Cal. Code Reg § 14.5]. Therefore, to be cautious, the petitioner should verify the petition if he or she is supporting the petition with assertions of fact.

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the petitioner in the above-entitled matter. I have read the foregoing petition and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein stated on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

[b] Use of Form

The form of petition set out in [a], above, is for use in seeking a writ of review from the Supreme Court or court of appeal to review an order ordecision of the PUC. For discussion concerning the use of this method for review, see generally §§ 480.140, 480.142.

For discussion of time for filing petition, see § 480.144[1]. For discussion of scope of review, see § 480.146[2]. Answer to the petition and reply to the answer are discussed in § 480.145. For discussion of requests to stay enforcement of a PUC order or decision pending disposition of the petition, see § 480.143.

[c] Proper Court for Filing Petition

When the decision of the PUC was issued in an adjudicatory proceeding, the petition for writ of review may be filed in the court of appeal. In all matters other than adjudicatory proceedings, the petition for writ of review may only be filed in the Supreme Court [Pub. Util. Code § 1756(b)]. For further discussion concerning the determination of the proper court for filing, see § 480.144[3].

[d] Verification

The petition must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 1069; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.496].

[e] Proof of Service

The petition must be accompanied by proof of service of copies on the PUC and on any real parties in interest. A real party in interest is one who [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.496(a)]:

- Was a party of record to the action or proceeding before the PUC, and
- Presented before the PUC a position adverse to that taken before the PUC by the petitioner for review.

[f] Certificate of Interested Entities or Persons

Each party to an appeal must serve and file a Certificate of Interested Entities or Persons at the time it files its first document in the Court of Appeal [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.208(d)] and must include a copy of the certificate in its principal brief [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.208(d)]. If a party is an entity, the certificate must list any person or entity, other than the parties themselves, that the party knows has an ownership interest of 10 percent or more in the party [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.208(e)(1)]. All parties must also list any person or entity, other than the parties themselves, that has a financial or other interest in the outcome of the proceeding that the party reasonably believes the justices should consider in determining whether to disqualify themselves under Canon 3E of the Code of Judicial Ethics [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.208(e)(2)]. If the party knows of no entity or person that is required to be disclosed under the rule, he or she must so state in the certificate [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.208(e)(3)]. Furthermore, if a party learns of changed or additional information that must be disclosed under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.208, he or she must promptly serve and file a supplemental certificate [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.208(f)].

[b] Use of Form

The form set out in [a], above, is for use in seeking an order from the Supreme Court transferring related actions to a single appellate district [Pub. Util. Code § 1756(e); see Cal. Rules of Court, Rule 10.1000].

For discussion of transfer of causes in the reviewing courts generally, see Ch. 40, Appeal: An Overview and Ch. 51, Appeal: Hearing and Decision .

[c] Any Party May Seek Order

Any party may seek from the Supreme Court, pursuant to California Rules of Court, an order transferring related actions to a single appellate district [Pub. Util. Code § 1756(e)].

[d] Transfer Order Sent to Parties by Clerk

The clerk of the court to which the cause is transferred must promptly send each party a copy of the order of transfer showing the new case number [see Cal. Rules of Court, Rule 10.1000(a)(2)].

PART I. SCOPE

§ 481.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses and contains forms for use in actions on public works contracts and the subcontracts thereunder. It includes forms of complaints for use in action by prime contractors on public works projects against a public entity [see §§ 481.310, 481.311] and against a subcontractor [see § 481.312] and a form of complaint by a subcontractor against a prime contractor on a public works project [see § 481.313]. It also includes a form of complaint by a contractor against a public entity for relief from an erroneous bid [see § 481.314] and a form of complaint by a subcontractor against a contractor [see § 481.315] for violation of the Subletting and Subcontracting Fair Practices Act [Gov. Code § 4100 et seq.].

This chapter also discusses and contains forms relating to the withholding of payment on public works contracts as well as containing a procedural checklist for enforcement of claims stated in stop notices. It includes the following:

- Forms of notice by a claimant [see §§ 481.330 -481.332].
- Forms of releases of stop notices [see §§ 481.333, 481.334].
- Forms to contest the amount withheld [see §§ 481.335 -481.341].
- Forms for enforcing rights arising from a stop notice [see §§ 481.342, 481.343].
- A form for use by a public entity for the purpose of interpleader [see § 481.344].

This chapter also discusses payment bonds and contains forms of complaint [see §§ 481.360, 481.361] for use in an action on a payment bond.

§ 481.10 Governing Law

[1] Construction of Public Contracts

Generally, there are no special rules of law governing the interpretation or effect of public contracts simply because a governmental body is a party to the contract [M.F. Kemper Constr. Co. v. Los Angeles (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 696, 704, 235 P.2d 7] . Thus, a contract between a governmental body and a private individual is ordinarily subject to the same rules of construction as is a contract between private individuals [Hawley v. Orange County Flood Control Dist. (1963) 211 Cal. App. 2d 708, 713, 27 Cal. Rptr. 478 ; Oberg v. Los Angeles (1955) 132 Cal. App. 2d 151, 158, 281 P.2d 591] . For a discussion of these rules of construction, see generally Ch. 104, Building Contracts , and Ch. 140, Contracts .

[2] Rules Governing Incorporation of Plans and Specifications

Usually, a contract between a public entity and a private individual incorporates by reference the plans and specifications for the public project to be constructed which were adopted by the public entity. In such a case, the contract will be construed with respect to the plans and specifications incorporated by reference since effect must be given to a writing incorporated into the contract by reference. However, a plan of work is subsidiary to the contract, and the latter is controlling in the case of discrepancy. Where the language of the contract permits, the specifications will be construed so as to uphold the validity of the contract [Oberg v. Los Angeles (1955) 132 Cal. App. 2d 151, 159, 281 P.2d 591] .

§ 481.11 Competitive Bidding Requirements

[1] Statutory Schemes

Although, as discussed in § 481.10[1], a contract between a governmental body and a private individual is ordinarily subject to the same rules of construction as is a contract between private individuals, the execution or letting of a public works contract is normally subject to statutory or regulatory competitive bidding requirements. A large, separate body of statutory, regulatory, and decisional law governs the application of these requirements.

There are several statutory schemes governing competitive bidding in California, depending on the particular public entity involved in letting the public works contract in question. The State Contract Act [Pub. Contract Code § 10100 et seq.] generally governs contracts let by (1) the state Department of Water Resources as to any project under the jurisdiction of that department, (2) the state Department of General Services as to any project under the jurisdiction of that department, (3) the Department of Boating and Waterways as to any project under the jurisdiction of that department pursuant to Harb. & Nav. Code §§ 65-67.3 (beach erosion control), and (4) the state Department of Transportation as to all other projects [Pub. Contract Code § 10106 et seq.].

Statutory competitive bidding requirements for county governments are governed by Pub. Contract Code § 20121 et seq. Such requirements for city governments are governed by Pub. Contract Code § 20160 et seq.

Competitive bidding requirements for contracts let by the Regents of the University of California are governed by Pub. Contract Code § 10500 et seq., while such requirements for contracts let by the trustees of the California State University are governed by Pub. Contract Code § 10700 et seq.

Contracts for the construction of certain public projects let under particular acts or under the authority of particular districts normally must comply with competitive bidding requirements [see, e.g., Pub. Contract Code §§ 20482 (contract under Municipal Improvement Act of 1913), 20601 (contracts let by county waterworks districts)].

In addition, the Small Business Procurement and Contract Act (Gov. Code § 14836 et seq.) establishes a preference for small businesses in construction work on state facilities or procurement of goods, when responsibility and quality are equal. Civil penalties are provided for specific prohibited acts including making false statements for the purpose of obtaining certification as a small business enterprise [Gov. Code §§ 14842, 14842.5]. Similarly the Department of Transportation is charged to develop a program for the awarding of highway construction contracts funded solely by state funds to minority businesses; and civil penalties are provided for specified acts including attempts to obtain certification as a minority business enterprise on the basis of false information [Sts. & Hy. Code §§ 94.3, 94.4].

Although there are a number of variations among the statutory schemes concerning the specific requirements for letting public works contracts, for the most part these schemes contain similar provisions with respect to the most important features of the competitive bidding requirements. The discussion of competitive bidding requirements, below, is an outline of the general law governing these features. When appropriate, specific reference is made to the State Contract Act for typical provisions that illustrate these features.

A request for public bids must be sufficiently detailed, definite, and precise so as to provide a basis for full and fair competitive bidding on a common standard; in addition, the request must be free of any restrictionstending to stifle competition [Konica Business Machines v. Regents of University of California (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 449, 456, 253 Cal. Rptr. 591] .

[2] Outreach Programs

Proposition 209, approved by the voters on November 5, 1996, added § 31 to article I of the California Constitution . Section 31 provides in part: "The State shall not discriminate against, or grant preferential treatment to, any individual or group on the basis of race, sex, color, ethnicity, or national origin in the operation of public employment, public education, or public contracting" [Cal. Const., art. I, § 31(a)]. It defines the "State" to include the State itself, any city, county, city and county, public university system, including the University of California, community college district, school district, special district, or any other political subdivision or governmental instrumentality of or within the state [Cal. Const., art. I, § 31(f)].

Proposition 209 was held to bar an "outreach program" that required contractors bidding on city projects to use a specified percentage of minority and women subcontractors or to document efforts to include minority and women subcontractors in their bids [Hi-Voltage Wire Works, Inc. v. City of San Jose (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 537, 562,101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 653, 12 P.3d 1068] . Because the city rejected any bid that failed to comply with these race and sex based requirements, the essential structure of the program discriminated on an impermissible basis against prime contractors that neither engaged in outreach nor met the evidentiary presumption, and it granted preferential treatment to those that did [Hi-Voltage Wire Works, Inc. v. City of San Jose (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 537, 562,101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 653, 12 P.3d 1068] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Actions on Public Works Contracts

§ 481.12 Purpose of Competitive Bidding Requirements

The competitive bidding requirement is founded on the salutary public policy declared by the Legislature to protect the taxpayers from fraud, corruption, and carelessness on the part of public officials and the waste and dissipation of public funds [Miller v. McKinnon (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 83, 88, 124 P.2d 34] . Thus, the competitive bidding statutes are intended to be for the benefit and protection of the public and not the bidders [Universal By-Products, Inc. v. City of Modesto (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 145, 152, 117 Cal. Rptr. 525] .

§ 481.13 Solicitation of Bids

A public entity must normally solicit bids for a public project in compliance with competitive bidding requirements when the total cost of the project exceeds a certain defined amount and the project itself comes within the terms of the particular statute or provision that defines those public projects subject to the competitive bidding requirements.

Under the State Contract Act, "project" includes the erection, construction, alteration, repair, or improvement of any state structure, building, road, or other state improvement of any kind the total cost of which will exceed a total cost of $250,000 for calendar year 2010, and thereafter be subject to a formula adjustment at two-year intervals [Pub. Contract Code § 10105]. If the estimated total cost of any construction project or work exceeds $25,000, the district or agency must solicit bids in writing and award the work to the lowest responsible bidder. Alternatively, work in excess of $25,000 may be carried out by day labor if it is determined that the award of a contract, acceptance of bids, or acceptance of further bids is not in the state's best interests [Pub. Contract Code § 10108].

§ 481.14 Statutory Exceptions to Bidding Requirements

[1] Interests of Public Entity Not Furthered by Bidding

A public entity usually has the statutory right or reserves the right to have a public project performed by day's labor under the public entity's supervision, or by contract on informal bids, or by a combination thereof [see Pub. Contract Code § 10122 (State Contract Act)], if compliance with the competitive bidding requirements is not deemed to be in the best interests of the public entity or the public. Although often such a right may be exercised by the public entity only after the public entity has solicited bids for the public project in question [see Pub. Contract Code § 20167 (municipalities)], under the State Contract Act, such a right may be exercised at any time after the approval of plans, specifications, and estimates of cost [see Pub. Contract Code § 10122(d)].

[2] Emergency

Work may be done on a public works project by day labor, by contract on informal bids, or by a combination of both in the case of emergency, such as an act of God (e.g., storm, flood, fire, earthquake), for immediately required work and remedial measures [see Pub. Contract Code §§ 10122, 20168; see also Los Angeles Dredging Co. v. Long Beach (1930) 210 Cal. 348, 356, 291 P. 839 (defining "emergency")].

Notwithstanding the project cost limits of Pub. Contract Code § 10105 ($250,000 in 2010 and adjusted on a formula in subsequent years), work in excess of $25,000 that would otherwise constitute a project is not permitted to be done by day labor unless the requirements of Pub. Contract Code § 10122 are met [Pub. Contract Code § 10122.6].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Actions on Public Works Contracts

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.15

§ 481.15 Judicial Exceptions to Bidding Requirements

[1] Failure Generally to Serve Purposes of Bidding Statutes

As noted by the cases in § 481.91[4], ordinarily a public agency must comply with the terms of a statute which requires the letting of certain contracts by a public agency and the advertising for bids with respect to those contracts coming within the terms of the statutes [Miller v. McKinnon (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 83, 87-88, 124 P.2d 34 ; see Killeen v. San Bruno (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 479, 483, 128 Cal. Rptr. 760] . However, even though a statute may require competitive bidding in the case of a particular contract, the public agency may make a contract without complying with the statute if there is a necessarily implied exception to the competitive bidding requirements [see Los Angeles Dredging Co. v. Long Beach (1930) 210 Cal. 348, 354-356, 291 P. 839] . These exceptions are set forth below. It should be noted that courts appear to construe strictly the right of a public agency to contract for the construction of a public work without complying with competitive bidding requirements in the absence of statutory exception. Generally, the creation of a judicial exception to a competitive bidding requirement is considered improper since it is an infringement on the prerogative of the Legislature, which has created the existing exceptions to such requirements [Killeen v. San Bruno (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 479, 483, 128 Cal. Rptr. 760] .

An exception to the competitive bidding requirement for a particular contract may arise when the purposes of the requirement are not served by such bidding. Thus, competitive bidding statutes, which are founded on a public policy designed to protect taxpayers from fraud, corruption, and carelessness on the part of public officials and from the waste and dissipation of public funds, are not to have such a construction as to defeat this purpose, to impede the usual and regular progress of the public business, or to deprive the inhabitants, even temporarily, of those things necessary and indispensable to their subsistence, their health, or the security and protection of their persons or property [Los Angeles Dredging Co. v. Long Beach (1930) 210 Cal. 348, 354, 291 P. 839] .

[2] No Exception

If to exempt a public agency from statutory competitive bidding requirements would permit possible favoritism, fraud, or corruption in the letting of other public construction contracts, even though the particular contract may appear to come within one of the judicial exceptions to the competitive bidding requirements, the public agency will be required to comply with such requirements [see Inglewood-L.A. County Civic Center Auth. v. Superior Court (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 861, 866, 103 Cal. Rptr. 689, 500 P.2d 601] . For example, a management contractor who is hired to perform services and lend his or her experience and expertise in the preparation of the final plans for a public project, and who in that respect may be likened to an engineer or an architect whose service may be procured without strict compliance with competitive bidding requirements [see § 481.91[6][b]], may still be required to be employed through the competitive bidding process if his or her duties and obligations, such as a guarantee of the outside price for the final plans based on subcontract bids, are more closely akin to the traditional lump sum general construction contracting where the contractors enter the project process on the completion of working drawings [see Inglewood-L.A. County Civic Center Auth. v. Superior Court (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 861, 866, 103 Cal. Rptr. 689, 500 P.2d 601] .

[3] Undesirability or Impossibility of Advertising for Bids

A public agency is not required to comply with competitive bidding requirements for a particular project if it is undesirable or impossible to advertise for bids for the work. This exception applies if the nature of the contracts to be let require the services of the particular person or company with whom or with which the public agency desires to contract [see Los Angeles Dredging Co. v. Long Beach (1930) 210 Cal. 348, 355, 291 P. 839 (municipality permitted to contract with general contractor without complying with ordinance requiring competitive bidding if, because of nature of work contractor was already doing, contractor was only one who could enter into agreement with city); Riverside County v. Whitlock (1972) 22 Cal. App. 3d 863, 877-878, 99 Cal. Rptr. 710 (municipality permitted to contract with utility for construction of gas distribution system without complying with competitive bidding requirements of Sts. & Hy. Code § 10501 of Municipal Improvement Act of 1913 when utility had been issued certificate to provide natural gas service to area in question)].

[4] Undeveloped State of Art

If the type of work planned by the public agency has not developed sufficiently to enable the agency to have a reasonable basis for comparison between or among the offered contracts in question, the agency is not required to comply with the competitive bidding requirements since under such circumstances advertising for bids would be unnecessary [Hodgeman v. San Diego (1942) 53 Cal. App. 2d 610, 618, 128 P.2d 412] .

[5] Employment of Skilled Professionals

A public agency may employ a person who is highly and technically skilled in his or her science or profession without complying with an otherwise applicable competitive bidding statute [City & County of San Francisco v. Boyd (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 606, 620, 110 P.2d 1036] . For example, an architect is considered an artist whose work requires taste, skill, and technical learning and ability of a rare kind, and a public agency is not required to advertise and obtain several bids in connection with contracting for theservices of an architect when the lowest bidder might be also the least capable and most inexperienced [Cobb v. Pasadena City Bd. of Educ. (1955) 134 Cal. App. 2d 93, 95, 285 P.2d 41] . This exception also applies (1) to a civil engineer who is hired to advise a municipality concerning its traffic and transit problems [see City & County of San Francisco v. Boyd (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 606, 620, 110 P.2d 1036] , (2) to a nonprofit corporation that is employed to plan, operate, and maintain a city zoo [see Hiller v. Los Angeles (1961) 197 Cal. App. 2d 685, 694, 17 Cal. Rptr. 579] , and (3) to actors and musicians who are employed to present a play in a municipal park [see Adams v. Ziegler (1937) 22 Cal. App. 2d 135, 137-138, 70 P.2d 537] .

[6] Lack of Advantage in Complying With Bidding Requirements

When the nature of the improvements to be constructed or services to be provided are such that competitive proposals would not produce an advantage, statutes requiring competitive bidding do not apply [Riverside County v. Whitlock (1972) 22 Cal. App. 3d 863, 877-878, 99 Cal. Rptr. 710 (contracts based on rates and charges for construction of natural gas service facilities governed by rate schedule approved by Public Utilities Commission do not require city to entertain competitive bids); California Motor Express, Ltd. v. Chowchilla Union High School Dist. (1962) 202 Cal. App. 2d 314, 318-319, 20 Cal. Rptr. 768 (competitive bidding requirements of Educ. Code § 18051 for school districts are not applicable to contract whose rates are fixed and made uniform by Interstate Commerce Commission)].

[7] Contracts Relating to "Municipal Affairs" of Charter Cities

When an expenditure by a general law city [see Gov. Code § 34102] for a public project, as defined in Pub. Contract Code § 20161, exceeds the amount specified in Pub. Contract Code § 20162, it must be contracted for and let to the lowest responsible bidder [Pub. Contract Code § 20162]. However, a charter city is not subject to this statute with respect to a public project which relates to a matter constituting a "municipal affair" [Smith v. Riverside (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 529, 534-535, 110 Cal. Rptr. 67] . Whatever may be the subject matter of a municipal contract, the mode in which a city chooses to contract is a municipal affair. Since there is neither a pervasive state policy regarding what contracts must be let by competitive bidding nor any substantial outside pressure with respect to a local decision on this matter, a charter city is not required to comply with competitive bidding requirements in the absence of any restrictions and limitations otherwise contained in its charter [Smith v. Riverside (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 529, 534-537, 110 Cal. Rptr. 67 (holding that whether work for extension or development of city public utilities facilities will be done by contract on competitive bidding or by city forces is municipal affair)].

§ 481.16 Failure to Comply With Competitive Bidding Requirements

[1] Contract Is Void

Generally, a contract wholly beyond the power of a public entity is void. It cannot be ratified; no estoppel to deny its validity can be invoked against the public entity; and ordinarily no recovery in quasi contract can be had for work performed under it. Moreover, generally the mode of contract for a public entity is the measure of the power to contract. A contract made in disregard of the prescribed mode is unenforceable [Miller v. McKinnon (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 83, 88, 124 P.2d 34] . Thus, ordinarily, compliance with the terms of a statute requiring the letting of certain contracts by a public agency, such as a municipal corporation or a county, by competitive bidding and the advertising for bids is mandatory with respect to those contracts coming within the terms of the statute; a contract made without compliance with the statute is void and unenforceable as being in excess of the agency's power [Miller v. McKinnon (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 83, 87-88, 124 P.2d 34] . Furthermore, persons dealing with the public agency are presumed to know the law with regard to the requirement of competitive bidding and act at their peril [Miller v. McKinnon (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 83, 89, 124 P.2d 34] .

[2] No Estoppel Is Permitted to Be Invoked Against Public Entity

Although it is true that in some exceptional cases or situations where justice and right require it, a governmental body may be bound by estoppel, neither the doctrine of estoppel nor any other equitable principle may be invoked against a governmental body where it would operate to defeat the effective operation of the competitive bidding statutes which were adopted to protect the public [Paterson v. Board of Trustees (1958) 321 P.2d 825] . Thus, a court may not, by the application of the doctrine of estoppel, abrogate a bidding statute and make a new contract between the parties where in effect the court would create and enforce an illegal contract. For example, a subsequent promise by a public entity to pay more than the contract price that was not awarded in compliance with competitive bidding requirements may not be enforced, even though the elements of estoppel may be otherwise present, since to permit enforcement of the promise would completely disregard the salutary provisions of the bidding statutes and would afford a method by which the public entity and persons dealing with it could evade the law [Paterson v. Board of Trustees (1958) 157 Cal. App. 2d 811, 820, 321 P.2d 825] .

[3] No Recovery in Quantum Meruit Is Permitted

The fact that a public district or body has received the benefit of labor and materials furnished under a contract that is void by reason of the failure of the district or body to comply with applicable competitive biddingstatutes, does not entitle a contractor who has furnished the labor and materials to recover their reasonable value in an action in quantum meruit [Reams v. Cooley (1915) 171 Cal. 150, 151-157, 152 P. 293] . Although this may work a hardship on the contractor, the contractor is bound no less than the public entity to be sure that the competitive bidding requirements are complied with. When the contractor neglects this or chooses to take the hazard, the contractor is considered to be a mere volunteer and suffers only what he or she ought to have anticipated [Reams v. Cooley (1915) 171 Cal. 150, 157, 152 P. 293] .

Moreover, not only may the contractor not recover the reasonable value of labor and materials furnished to a public entity under a void contract, but a right of action exists to recover any funds paid to the contractor for labor and materials furnished the entity in contravention of a statute requiring competitive bidding. Such an action may be prosecuted by the public entity or by a taxpayer since the taxpayer would otherwise be helpless to compel observance of the law if the public agency could have the work done and pay the charges therefor in violation of the competitive bidding requirement [Miller v. McKinnon (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 83, 89, 124 P.2d 34] .

[4] Appellate Court's Duty to Protect Public Entity

The fact that neither the public entity nor the contractor argued the propriety of the public entity having paid anything to the contractor in violation of a competitive bidding requirement does not preclude an appellate court from raising the issue on its own motion. The principle that precludes recovery for work done without compliance with the competitive bidding requirement and requires return to the public entity of payments made on an invalid contract also requires an appellate court to exercise its duty, on its own, if necessary, to protect the public entity [Greer v. Hitchcock (1969) 271 Cal. App. 2d 334, 337, 76 Cal. Rptr. 376 (requesting parties to brief right of contractor to retain payments made by public entity, but holding that such payments were made pursuant to valid contract)].

§ 481.17 Submission of Bid

The procedure for submitting bids to a public entity is usually governed by statute or regulation. Under the State Contract Act, the contractor must use a standard proposal form as his or her bid. Otherwise the bid is disregarded [Pub. Contract Code § 10166]. Most public entities require that the bid be accompanied by some form of bidder's security. Under the State Contract Act, such security may be cash, a cashier's check, a certified check, or a bidder's bond [Pub. Contract Code § 10167]. Bidder's security must also be provided for local agency projects under the Local Agency Public Construction Act [see, e.g., Pub. Contract Code §§ 20107, 20192(b), 20201.5].

The bidder is also required to submit a noncollusion affidavit with his or her bid. The affidavit, which must be in the form set forth by Pub. Contract Code § 7106, generally provides (1) that the bidder is not making the bid in the interest or on behalf of any undisclosed person; (2) that the bid is genuine and not a sham; (3) that the bidder has not induced or conspired with another person to put in a false or sham bid or that anyone would refrain from submitting a bid; (4) that the bidder has not sought with anyone to fix a bid price or to secure any advantage against the public body awarding the contract of anyone interested in the proposed contract; (5) that all statements in the bid are true; and (6) that the bidder has not submitted his or her bid to effectuate a collusive or sham bid [see Pub. Contract Code § 7106].

§ 481.18 Withdrawal of Bid

In the absence of any applicable statute or regulation, a bid may be withdrawn at any time before it is opened and declared. Once opened and declared, the contractor's bid is in the nature of an irrevocable option giving the public entity a contract right [M.F. Kemper Constr. Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 696, 700, 235 P.2d 7] . Under the State Contract Act, any bid may be withdrawn at any time before the time fixed in the public notice for the opening of bids only by written request for the withdrawal of the bid made in the manner provided in Pub. Contract Code § 10169 [see Pub. Contract Code § 10169].

§ 481.19 Consideration of Bids by Awarding Authority

[1] Rejection of Bids Not in Best Interests of Public

The competitive bidding statutes are not intended to be for the benefit of bidders, but for the benefit and protection of the public [Universal By-Products, Inc. v. City of Modesto (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 145, 152, 117 Cal. Rptr. 525 ; Rubino v. Lolli (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 1059, 1062, 89 Cal. Rptr. 320] .

Hence, the call for bids and the law confer on the awarding authority the duty of exercising its judgment as to whether it is in the best interests of the public entity to award the contract in question to the lowest bidder [Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton Corp. v. Superior Court (1962) 208 Cal. App. 2d 803, 816-817, 25 Cal. Rptr. 798 ; Judson Pac.-Murphy Corp. v. Durkee (1956) 144 Cal. App. 2d 377, 381-382, 301 P.2d 97] . In this respect, the State Contract Act provides that, if the director deems the acceptance of the lowest responsible bid or bids is not in the best interests of the state, after stating his or her reasons for rejecting the bid or bids, he or she may reject all bids and proceed by day's labor or advertise for other bids in the manner required by the Act [Pub. Contract Code § 10185].

Consequently, the lowest qualified bidder generally has no legal right to compel acceptance of his or her bid [Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton Corp. v. Superior Court (1962) 208 Cal. App. 2d 803, 816-817, 25 Cal. Rptr. 798 ; Judson Pac.-Murphy Corp. v. Durkee (1956) 144 Cal. App. 2d 377, 381-382, 301 P.2d 97] . By reserving authority to reject any and all proposals by virtue of a statute or bid proposal, the public entity's exercise of discretion is absolute. Even if it errs in the exercise of its discretion, the unsuccessful bidder has no legally cognizable cause for complaint [Old Town Dev. Corp. v. Urban Renewal Agency (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 313, 331, 57 Cal. Rptr. 426] . Stated differently, a court may not interfere with the public entity's discretionary authority by substituting its judgment for that of the public entity. The public entity is the final arbiter of the public interest and its decision, however capricious or erroneous, cannot be set aside [Stanley-Taylor Co. v. Supervisors (1902) 135 Cal. 486, 488, 67 P. 783 (holding that mandamus does not lie to force award of contract to lowest bidder for printing forms under advertisement for bids where advertisement stated that board reserved right to reject any and all bids if the public good so required)].

[2] Relief of Unsuccessful Bidder

[a] Setting Aside of Bid Award, Generally

Although generally the lowest qualified bidder has no legal right to compel the acceptance of his or her bid and the awarding authority's decision is not subject to review, when an award is made in violation of the law, such as when an award is made to a bidder who is not properly qualified or licensed, or made pursuant to specifications that are illegal and invalid and that fail to provide for full and fair competitive bidding, the public entity has abused its discretion and the bidding procedure may be set aside [Konica Business Machines v. Regents of University of California (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 449, 453-457, 253 Cal. Rptr. 591 (setting aside contract that had been awarded to bidder who did not comply with specifications in public entity's request for bids); Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton Corp. v. Superior Court (1962) 208 Cal. App. 2d 803, 823, 25 Cal. Rptr. 798 (under Gov. Code § 4303, contracts for construction of public works or purchase of materials for public use must be let to persons who use raw and manufactured products of the United States as superseded by treaty agreements with foreign governments); Judson Pac.-Murphy Corp. v. Durkee (1956) 144 Cal. App. 2d 377, 382-383, 301 P.2d 97 (not upsetting awarding authority's decision when lack of license was deemed in particular case to be technical violation)]. A court has the power to determine whether an abuse of discretion exists in such a case in a mandate proceeding. The unsuccessful bidder is entitled to apply for a writ of mandate as a party beneficially interested when, as a result of the issuance of the writ, a new bid call must be made and the unsuccessful bidder would have the opportunity to bid on the new bid invitation [Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton Corp. v. Superior Court (1962) 208 Cal. App. 2d 803, 824, 25 Cal. Rptr. 798] .

However, if the award is set aside but the unsuccessful bidder would have no greater opportunity to bid on a competitive basis than he or she had in bidding on the original proposal, mandamus will not lie to correct any abuse of discretion by the awarding authority. For example, if, when the award is set aside, the awarding authority either is under no legal compulsion to award a new contract in compliance with competitive bidding requirements or may alter its specifications in such a manner as to insure that the contract will be awarded to the original successful bidder, the unsuccessful bidder may not have the original award set aside [Old Town Dev. Corp. v. Urban Renewal Agency (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 313, 331-332, 57 Cal. Rptr. 426 ; see Universal By-Products, Inc. v. City of Modesto (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 145, 151-157, 117 Cal. Rptr. 525] .

Similarly, an unsuccessful bidder may not sue the public entity for damages either for fraud or for breach of contract arising out of an award of a contract allegedly illegally made to one other than the lowest qualified bidder when the public entity is under no compulsion to award the contract to any particular bidder. Although an unsuccessful bidder in such a case may have a cause of action for fraud if he or she alleges that the awarding authority impliedly represented in its bid invitation that it would consider the bids in good faith and not merely to gain the benefit of such bidder's research and expertise, which representation was false in that the authority never intended to consider the bids in determining whether the contract in question should be awarded, the public entity is immune from any liability since it is not liable for an injury caused by any misrepresentation by an employee of the public entity [see Gov. Code § 818.8; Universal By-Products, Inc. v. City of Modesto (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 145, 151-155, 117 Cal. Rptr. 525 (holding that under Gov. Code § 818.8, public entity is immune from liability for alleged misrepresentations by its employees)]. With respect to an action for damages arising out of breach of contract, because there is no contractural relationship between the bidder and the entity until a bid is accepted, no action may be predicated on the proposition that the arbitrary exercise of the entity's discretion breached an implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing since such a covenant exists only if there is an express contract [Universal By-Products, Inc. v. City of Modesto (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 145, 155-156, 117 Cal. Rptr. 525] . Finally, no contract action may be predicated on liability based on promissory estoppel. Although the public entity may impliedly represent an existing intent to consider the bids in good faith, this representation does not constitute a promise that thereafter it would consider the bids before rejecting them. Such a promise, necessary for any liability based on promissory estoppel, is inconsistent with the public entity's express right to reject any and all bids [Universal By-Products, Inc. v. City of Modesto (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 145, 156-157, 117 Cal. Rptr. 525] .

[b] Successful Bidder's Labor Law Violations

In certain circumstances, the second lowest qualified and responsible bidder on a public works contract (or any person that entered into a contract with the second lowest bidder before the letting of the bids on the public works contract) may have a right of action against the successful bidder, pursuant to both the Labor Code [see Lab. Code § 1750] and the Public Contract Code [see Pub. Contract Code §§ 19102, 20104.70]. If the successful bidder has been convicted of a violation of the workers' compensation law [see Lab. Code § 3200 et seq.] or the Unemployment Insurance Code, there is a rebuttable presumption that the accepted bid was lower than the second lowest bid because of such a violation [Lab. Code § 1750(a)(2); Pub. Contract Code §§ 19102(a)(2), 20104.70(a)(2)]. The second lowest bidder (or a contractor with the second lowest bidder) may bring an action for damages based on that presumption [see Lab. Code § 1750(a)(1); Pub. Contract Code §§ 19102(a)(1), 20104.70(a)(1)]. If the second lowest bidder was convicted of a violation of either or both of those laws within one year before submission of the second lowest bid, however, the second lowest bidder has no such right of action unless affirmative steps were taken to correct the violation [Lab. Code § 1750(f); Pub. Contract Code §§ 19102(d), 20104.70(d)].

The court may award costs and attorney's fees to the prevailing party in the action [Lab. Code § 1750(c); Pub. Contract Code §§ 19102(b), 20104.70(b)].

[3] Duty to Award Contract to Lowest Responsible Bidder

[a] General Rule

Although the public entity normally reserves the right to reject any and all bids if the public interest so requires, when the entity makes an award, it must normally make the award to the lowest responsible bidder [Inglewood-L.A. County Civic Center Auth. v. Superior Court (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 861, 867, 103 Cal. Rptr. 689, 500 P.2d 601 ; see Pub. Contract Code § 10180 (requiring department under State Contract Act to award contract to lowest responsible bidder)]. Thus, under a statute or other applicable provision requiring the contract to be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, the contract must be awarded to the lowest bidder unless it is found that he or she is not responsible, that is, is not qualified to do the particular work under consideration. The awarding authority does not make this finding if it determines that a bidder other than the lowest bidder was superior to the lowest bidder in its ability to perform the contract and yet does not determine whether the lowest bidder was also qualified to perform the contract. In such a case, an award to a bidder other than the lowest bidder may be set aside [Inglewood-L.A. County Civic Center Auth. v. Superior Court (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 861, 867-870, 103 Cal. Rptr. 689, 500 P.2d 601] . In making the determination of whether the lowest bidder is responsible, the awarding authority is not limited to determining whether the bidder is trustworthy. Rather, while that term "responsible" includes the attribute of trustworthiness, it also has reference to the quality, fitness, and capacity of the low bidder to perform the proposed work satisfactorily [Inglewood-L.A. County Civic Center Auth. v. Superior Court (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 861, 867, 103 Cal. Rptr. 689, 500 P.2d 601 (based on wording of former Gov. Code § 25454, now see Pub. Contract Code § 20128, requiring county board of supervisors to award contract to lowest responsible bidder); see Pub. Contract Code § 2000 (local agency may require that contract be awarded to lowest responsible bidder engaging in minority hiring)].

The duty to award a contract to the lowest responsible bidder imposed by a city charter did not conflict with a subcontractor outreach program that required prime contractors to provide minority, women's, and other business enterprises an equal opportunity to compete for and participate in the performance of city contracts. Noting that competitive bidding requirements necessarily imply equal opportunities to all whose interests or inclinations may impel them to compete at the bidding, the California Supreme Court found that, in fact, a major purpose of the subcontractor outreach program being challenged was to guard against favoritism and improvidence by prime contractors thereby advancing a primary goal of competitive bidding [Domar Electric, Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (1994) 9 Cal. 4th 161, 173-174, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 521, 885 P.2d 934] .

However, minimum bidding laws must be strictly construed, and may not be extended beyond the specific provisions enacted by the Legislature [Domar Electric, Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (1994) 9 Cal. 4th 161, 173, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 521, 885 P.2d 934] . For example, because the Legislature has not enacted an explicit requirement that public funds raised through the sale of revenue bonds under the authority of the Revenue Bond Law of 1941 [Gov. Code § 54300 et seq.], and entrusted to county water districts, are subject to a lowest bidder requirement, the courts are precluded from imposing such a requirement [Associated Builders & Contractors v. Contra Costa Water Dist. (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 466, 469-471, 43 Cal. Rptr. 2d 600] .

[b] Bid Deviating From Specifications

When a public entity's request for bids states that the requested goods or services are required to meet certain specifications, the public entity may not award the contract to a bidder whose bid deviates from the specifications if other bids do conform to the specifications [see Konica Business Machines v. Regents of University ofCalifornia (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 449, 454-457, 253 Cal. Rptr. 591 (setting aside contract that was awarded on nonconforming bid)]. A bid substantially complying with specifications, however, may be acceptable when the variance could not have affected the amount of the bid or given the bidder a benefit or advantage not allowed to other bidders [Konica Business Machines v. Regents of University ofCalifornia (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 449, 454, 253 Cal. Rptr. 591 ; see Ghilotti Construction Co. v. City of Richmond (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 897, 904-909, 53 Cal. Rptr. 2d 389] .

[c] Right to Notice of Reasons for Rejection of Local Bidder

Before awarding a public works contract to one other than the lowest bidder, a public entity must (1) notify the low monetary bidder of any evidence reflecting on his or her responsibility received from others or adduced as a result of independent investigation, (2) afford the bidder an opportunity to rebut the adverse evidence, and (3) permit him or her to present evidence that he or she is qualified to perform the contract. The lowest bidder does not, however, have a right to a full evidentiary hearing in the form of a quasi-judicial proceeding before his or her rejection as a nonresponsible bidder [Inglewood-L.A. County Civic Center Auth. v. Superior Court (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 861, 870-871, 103 Cal. Rptr. 689, 500 P.2d 601] .

[d] Damages Recoverable on Misaward by Public Entity

The misaward by a public entity of a public works contract to one other than the lowest responsible bidder does not give the latter a cause of action in tort for monetary damages against the public entity. Since the competitive bidding requirements are imposed solely for the benefit and protection of the public rather than for the benefit of the bidders, the misaward constitutes only an abuse of discretion by the awarding entity in determining the identity of the bidder, and therefore the making of the misaward comes within the discretionary immunity to tort liability established by Gov. Code §§ 815, 815.2(b), and 820.2 [Swinerton & Walberg Co. v. City of Inglewood-L.A. County Civic Center Auth. (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 98, 101, 114 Cal. Rptr. 834] .

However, the unsuccessful bidder does have a cause of action in contract based on promissory estoppel since the public entity in its solicitation of bids promises to award the contract to the lowest responsible bidder and the lowest bidder has reasonably relied on this promise by expending sums in the preparation of its bid to its detriment. The fact that the lowest bidder could not have compelled the public entity to award the contract to him or her because of a provision in the notice soliciting bids that any and all bids might be rejected does not affect the reasonableness of the bidder's reliance since otherwise the public entity's promise to award the contract to the lowest responsible bidder would be an illusory one and would render the whole competitive bidding promise nugatory [Swinerton & Walberg Co. v. City of Inglewood-L.A. County Civic Center Auth. (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 98, 104, 114 Cal. Rptr. 834] . Allowing recovery of some measure of damages once injunctive relief is no longer effectively available furthers the purposes of the competitive bidding laws by encouraging proper challenges to misawarded public contracts by the most interested parties, and deterring government misconduct [Kajima/Ray Wilson v. Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transportation Auth. (2000) 23 Cal. 4th 305, 314, 96 Cal. Rptr. 2d 747, 1 P.3d 63] .

An unsuccessful lowest responsible bidder may recover bid preparation costs under a theory of promissory estoppel but may not recover lost profits [Kajima/Ray Wilson v. Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transportation Auth. (2000) 23 Cal. 4th 305, 314, 317-318, 96 Cal. Rptr. 2d 747, 1 P.3d 63] . A bidder reasonably incurs bid preparation costs in reliance on the representation that if the contract is awarded, it will be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder. However, when a bid is submitted, the bidder does not know whether the contract will even be awarded or whether it will be the lowest responsible bidder. Furthermore, the lowest bid may be an unprofitable one. Given these uncertainties, bid preparation costs, not lost profits, are the only costs reasonably incurred [Kajima/Ray Wilson v. Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transportation Auth. (2000) 23 Cal. 4th 305, 315-316, 96 Cal. Rptr. 2d 747, 1 P.3d 63] .

§ 481.20 Classification of License When Contract Awarded

Any public entity, as defined in Pub. Contract Code § 1100, the University of California, and the California State University must specify the classification of the contractor's license that a contractor must possess at the time a contract is awarded. The specification must be included in any plans prepared for a public project and in any notice inviting bids required by the Public Contract Code. The requirement applies only to contractors who contract directly with the public entity [Pub. Contract Code § 3300(a)]. A contractor who is not awarded a public contract because of the failure of any entity to comply with Pub. Contract Code § 3300(a) may not receive damages for the loss of the contract [Pub. Contract Code § 3300(b)].

Bus. & Prof. Code § 7059(b), which provides that "in public works contracts, ... the awarding authority shall determine the license classification necessary to bid and perform the project," allows agencies to specify that only designated license categories will be permitted to bid on a project. This allows an agency to make a pre-bid determination that the public would be better served in terms of quality and economy by letting the project only to licensees with the most appropriate experience, while minimizing the need for subcontractors [M&B Construction v. Yuba County Water Agency (1999) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1353, 1361, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 231] .

Prior to awarding a contract for work to be performed by a contractor, the state entity must verify with the Contractors' State License Board that the person seeking the contract is licensed in a classification appropriate to the work to be undertaken [Pub. Contract Code § 6100(a)]. In lieu of verification, the entity may require the person seeking the contract topresent his or her pocket license or certificate of licensure and provide a signed statement that swears, under penalty of perjury, that the license or certificate of licensure presented belongs to the person seeking the contract, and is in a classification appropriate to the work to be undertaken [Pub. Contract Code § 6100(b)].

Normally, the provisions governing competitive bidding require that the public entity provide detailed and exhaustive plans and specifications of the work being bid on in the proposal for bids, in the information and instructions to bidders, in the notice inviting bids, and in the required bid forms. Although these provisions usually also require that, after an award has been made, a formal written contract must be executed and appropriate bonds furnished for faithful performance of the work and for the payment of subcontractors, laborers, and materialmen, the contract itself is a brief document referring to the writings that detail the plans and specifications for a statement of the obligation of the parties. Hence, in the letting of contracts for the doing of public works where the legislative body or the administrative officer is required by statute to call for bids and must under competitive bidding conditions let the contract to the lowest responsible bidder, the making of the award gives rise to a contract between the public body or agent and the successful bidder [City of Susanville v. Lee C. Hess Co. (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 684, 694, 290 P.2d 520 ; see Greer v. Hitchcock (1969) 271 Cal. App. 2d 334, 337, 76 Cal. Rptr. 376] .

Because a contract does arise on the making of the award, the successful contractor may not be relieved of his or her bid except either in the manner provided by statute, or if no statute is applicable, by satisfying the requirements for rescission [see M.F. Kemper Constr. Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 696, 700, 235 P.2d 7 ; A & A Elec., Inc. v. King (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 457, 463-464] . Similarly, because the public entity has exercised its discretion with respect to the time and manner of making public improvements and the purchasing of supplies, the legislative function is exhausted, its duty becomes purely ministerial, and the contract awarded in compliance with the competitive bidding requirements cannot be impaired at the option of the public entity. Hence, when a bid has been accepted by the proper authorities, such acceptance cannot be revoked [City of Susanville v. Lee C. Hess Co. (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 684, 695, 290 P.2d 520] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Actions on Public Works Contracts

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.22

§ 481.22 Relief of Bidders

[1] Governing Law

The right of a contractor to relief from a bid mistake after the bid has been opened and declared or the time prescribed by statute or regulation for withdrawal of the bid has passed is generally governed by Pub. Contract Code § 5100 et seq. in the case of any bid submitted to a public entity for a public work described in Pub. Contract Code § 5100(b) if the public entity is the state, the Regents of the University of California, a county, a city and county, a city, a district, a public authority, a public agency, or any other political subdivision or public corporation of the state [Pub. Contract Code § 5100(a); A & A Elec., Inc. v. King (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 457, 462-464, 126 Cal. Rptr. 585] .

The Legislature enacted Pub. Contract Code § 5100 et seq. in 1971 to establish a comprehensive statutory procedure in connection with public contracts to enable a contractor to claim relief from a bid mistake by following the procedures set forth in these provisions [see A & A Elec., Inc. v. King (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 457, 462, 126 Cal. Rptr. 585] . Prior to 1971, if the bid was not for a contract to be awarded under the State Contract Act or the California State University and Colleges Contract Law [Pub. Contract Code § 10700 et seq.], a contractor was entitled to relief from a bid mistake when the bid was subject to rescission on proper equitable grounds [see M.F. Kemper Constr. Co. v. Los Angeles (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 696, 700-703, 235 P.2d 7] since, once the bid is opened and declared, it is in the nature of an irrevocable option constituting a contract right of which the public entity cannot be deprived without its consent unless the requirements for rescission are satisfied. Such requirements were satisfied (1) if the public entity knew or had reason to know of the contractor's error, such as when the contractor notified the public entity of a bid mistake before the public entity attempted to accept the bid, (2) if the mistake was material to the contractor and was not the result of neglect of a legal duty, (3) if enforcement of the contract would be unconscionable, (4) if the public entity could be placed in status quo, and (5) if the contractor gave prompt notice of the election to rescind and restored or offered to restore to the other public entity everything of value received under the contract [see M.F. Kemper Constr. Co. v. Los Angeles (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 696, 700-701, 235 P.2d 7] .

However, with the enactment of Pub. Contract Code § 5100 et seq., a contractor has a statutory remedy and is not required to rely on the equitable doctrine of rescission. Pub. Contract Code § 5100 et seq. establishes the exclusive procedure for relieving a bidder from a mistake in a bid submitted to a public entity in Pub. Contract Code § 5100(a), and a failure to comply with the procedure may be deemed a waiver of the right to relief [A & A Elec., Inc. v. King (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 457, 463-464, 126 Cal. Rptr. 585] .

[2] "Bid" Defined

For the purposes of Pub. Contract Code § 5100 et seq., a bid means any proposal submitted to a public entity in competitive bidding for theconstruction, alteration, repair, or improvement of any structure, building, road, or other improvement of any kind [Pub. Contract Code § 5100(b)].

[3] Notice of Mistake Is Required for Relief From Bid

To be relieved of his or her bid, the contractor must first give five working days' notice to the public entity after the opening of the bids, specifying in the notice in detail how the mistake occurred [Pub. Contract Code § 5103(b); A & A Elec., Inc. v. King (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 457, 465, 126 Cal. Rptr. 585] . Other than the notice to the public entity, no claim is required before bringing an action for relief from the bid [Pub. Contract Code § 5104].

The notice requirement of Pub. Contract Code § 5103(b) is intended to provide the public entity with definite and specific information about the nature of the mistake so that the public entity can make an informed decision as to whether or not to consent to grant relief from the bid. Although strict compliance with Pub. Contract Code § 5103(b) is not required if the contractor has otherwise substantially complied with the section, a contractor has neither strictly nor substantially complied with Pub. Contract Code § 5103(b) if he or she merely informs the public entity that a clerical or mathematical mistake was made in filling out the bid [A & A Elec., Inc. v. King (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 457, 464, 126 Cal. Rptr. 585] .

[4] Consent by State to Relief From Bid

If an awarding authority for the state consents to relieve a bidder of a bid because of mistake, the authority must prepare a report in writing to document the facts establishing the existence of each element required by Pub. Contract Code § 5103 [see § 481.22[5]]. The report must be available for inspection as a public record. In the case of the University of California or a California State University, the report must be filed with the regents and the trustees, respectively [Pub. Contract Code § 5101(b)].

[5] Action for Recovery of Amount Forfeited

[a] Complaint

A contractor claiming relief from a bid mistake may not be relieved of the bid unless by consent of the awarding authority, nor may the contractor make any change in the bid because of the mistake [Pub. Contract Code § 5101(a)]. Instead, the contractor may bring an action against the public entity in a court of competent jurisdiction in the county in which the bids were opened for the recovery of the amount forfeited, without interest or costs [Pub. Contract Code § 5101(a)].

The complaint must be filed, and a summons served on the director of the department or chief of the division or other head of the public entity under which the work is to be performed, or an appearance made, within 90 days after the opening of the bid. Otherwise, the action must be dismissed [Pub. Contract Code § 5102].

If plaintiff fails to recover judgment, he or she must pay all costs incurred by the public entity, including reasonable attorney's fees to be fixed by the court [Pub. Contract Code § 5101(a)].

[b] Showing Required for Relief From Forfeiture

Under Pub. Contract Code § 5103, the bidder must establish the following, to the satisfaction of the court:

(1) A mistake was made;

(2) The bidder gave the public entity written notice within five working days after the opening of the bids of the mistake, specifying in the notice in detail how the mistake occurred;

(3) The mistake made the bid materially different than the bid the bidder intended [see Elsinore Union Unified School Dist. v. Kastorff (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 380, 389, 6 Cal. Rptr. 1, 353 P.2d 713 (holding, in action to rescind mistaken bid, that mistaken bid of $89,994 was materially different from bid of $96,494, which sum would have been actual bid if omitted item had been included)]; and

(4) The mistake was made in filling out the bid and not due to an error in judgment or to carelessness in inspecting the site of the work, or in reading the plans or specifications.

The distinction drawn in Pub. Contract Code § 5103(d) between a mistake made in filling out the bid and an error in judgment is similar to the distinction drawn in cases involving rescission of mistaken bids. A mistake made in a bid that would entitle a contractor to rescission was one due to clerical error, such as in mathematical computation or in the transposition of figures from work sheets to final bid forms, whereas an error in judgment involved, for example, underestimating the cost of labor or materials [see White v. Berrenda Mesa Water Dist. (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 894, 902, 87 Cal. Rptr. 338] . Similarly, a mistake in an action for the rescission of a mistaken bid was an error which did not arise out of the neglect of a legal duty. A contractor would not be considered to have made an error involving a neglect of legal duty if the error made sometimes occurred in the conduct of the reasonable and cautious business person [see M.F. Kemper Constr. Co. v. Los Angeles (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 696, 702, 235 P.2d 7] . It should also be noted that in an action to rescind a mistaken bid, if the mistake in question involved both a clerical error and an error in judgment, a court would permit rescission of the mistaken bid if to do otherwise would be grossly unjust and set a harsh and unnecessary precedent [White v. Berrenda Mesa Water Dist. (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 894, 902, 905-906, 87 Cal. Rptr. 338] .

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.23

§ 481.23 Public Entity's Remedy on Contractor's Wrongful Failure to Enter Into Contract

If a bidder has not substantially complied with the provisions governing the right to relief from a mistaken bid or the contractor has otherwise refused to enter into a contract with the public entity after being awarded the contract, the public entity, depending on the wording of the bid invitation and the executed bid, on the terms of the security deposited and on the language of any other applicable statute or contract [see Petrovich v. Arcadia (1950) 36 Cal. 2d 78, 85, 222 P.2d 231] may be (1) limited to the recovery of the amount of security deposited, either as a penalty or as liquidated damages [see A & A Elec., Inc. v. King (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 457, 466, 126 Cal. Rptr. 585] , (2) limited to the recovery of the amount of actual damages suffered by the public entity up to the amount stated in the security [see Petrovich v. Arcadia (1950) 36 Cal. 2d 78, 80-86, 222 P.2d 231] , or (3) permitted to recover both the amount of security deposited and, in addition, the amount of damages suffered for breach of contract [see A & A Elec., Inc. v. King (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 457, 466, 126 Cal. Rptr. 585] .

The general rule that forfeitures in the nature of a penalty are not favored and that language must be so construed so as to avoid a forfeiture, if that is possible, applies to the construction of the various types of security the public entity may require the bidder to deposit in submitting his or her bid for a public project. In the absence of statutory or contract language providing otherwise or words indicating that the full sum of the security is to be forfeited or treated as liquidated damages, the security may be construed as a guarantee which measures the public entity's compensatory right to the extent of the actual damage only. In such a case, the sum stated in the security, such as the liability of the surety on a bid bond, would be deemed to be established for the actual damage resulting from the bidder's breach, but limited by the sum stated in the security [see Petrovich v. Arcadia (1950) 36 Cal. 2d 78, 85, 222 P.2d 231] .

However, although provisions for forfeitures in the nature of a penalty are generally not favored, the public entity does have the right to require guarantee deposits to accompany bids, and to forfeit them in the event of the failure or refusal of the successful bidder to enter into a contract. Provisions requiring a deposit accompanying a bid for a public contract, or for forfeiture thereof, as necessary as a matter of public policy [A & A Elec., Inc. v. King (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 457, 466, 126 Cal. Rptr. 585] . Hence, the public entity has the power to enforce full recovery of the sum stated in the security, regardless of the actual damages suffered, where the statute or contract declares a forfeiture [Petrovich v. Arcadia (1950) 36 Cal. 2d 78, 83, 222 P.2d 231 ; A & A Elec., Inc. v. King (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 457, 466, 126 Cal.

Rptr. 585] . It should be noted that where, by the terms of the bid invitation or instructions, the obligation of the bidder is clearly limited to the amount of the security, the public entity is limited to recovery of the amount of the security as a penalty or liquidated damages [A & A Elec., Inc. v. King (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 457, 466, 126 Cal. Rptr. 585] .

In the absence of any provisions specifying that the amount of the security must be forfeited as liquidated damages on the failure of the successful bidder to enter into a contract with the public entity, the entity is also not precluded from seeking any additional damages for breach of contract for the difference between the contract's lowest bid and the next lowest bid [see A & A Elec., Inc. v. King (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 457, 466-467, 126 Cal. Rptr. 585] .

Chapter 481 PUBLIC WORKS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Actions on Public Works Contracts

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.24

§ 481.24 Subletting and Subcontracting Fair Practices Act

[1] Purpose of Act

The Subletting and Subcontracting Fair Practices Act [Pub. Contract Code § 4100 et seq.] is designed to prevent the practices of bid shopping and bid peddling in connection with public works projects. Bid shopping is the use of the lowest bid already received by the general or prime contractor to pressure other subcontractors into submitting even lower bids [Southern Cal. Acoustics Co. v. C.V. Holder, Inc. (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 719, 726 n.7, 79 Cal. Rptr. 319, 456 P.2d 975 ; Bay Cities Paving & Grading, Inc. v. Hensel Phelps Constr. Co. (1976) 128 Cal. Rptr. 632] .

Because the practices of bid shopping and bid peddling in connection with the construction, alteration, and repair of public improvements often result in poor quality of material and workmanship to the detriment of the public, deprive the public of the full benefits of fair competition among prime contractors and subcontractors, and lead to insolvencies and loss of wages to employees [see Pub. Contract Code § 4101], bid shopping is prohibited by the Subletting and Subcontracting Fair Practices Act after the award of the prime contract [Bay Cities Paving & Grading, Inc. v. Hensel Phelps Constr. Co. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 361, 365, 128 Cal. Rptr. 632 (interpreting former Gov. Code § 4107; now see Pub. Contract Code § 4107)]. Although bid shopping and peddling prior to the award of the prime contract foster the same evils, they are not prohibited because they have the effect of passing the reduced costs onto the public in the form of lower prime contract bids [see Southern Cal. Acoustics Co. v. C.V. Holder, Inc. (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 719, 726 n.7, 79 Cal. Rptr. 319, 456 P.2d 975] .

[2] Deadline for Submission of Bids

The bid invitation and the public notice must specify the place the bids are to be received and the date and time by which they must be received.The specified date and time must be extended by no less than 72 hours if the officer, department, board, or commission taking bids issues any material changes, additions, or deletions to the invitation later than 72 hours before the bid closing [Pub. Contract Code § 4104.5(a)]. In this context, "material change" means a change with a substantial cost impact on the total bid as determined by the awarding agency [Pub. Contract Code § 4104.5(b)]; and "bid invitation" includes any documents issued to prime contractors that contain descriptions of the work to be bid or the content, form, or manner of submission of bids to bidders [Pub. Contract Code § 4104.5(c)].

[3] Listing of Subcontractor in Bid

To protect the original subcontractor against replacement by either another subcontractor or by the prime contractor, the Act requires that any officer, department, board, or commission taking bids for the construction of any public work or improvement provide in the specifications prepared for the work or improvement, or in the general conditions under which the bid will be received for the doing of the work incident to the public work or improvement, that any person making a bid or offer to perform the work must, in his or her bid or offer, set forth the name and the location of the place of business of each subcontractor who will perform work or labor or render service to the prime contractor in or about the construction of the work or improvement, or a subcontractor licensed by the state who, under subcontract to the prime contractor, specially fabricates and installs a portion of the work or improvement according to detailed drawings contained in the plans and specifications, in an amount in excess of one-half of one percent of the prime contractor's total bid [Pub. Contract Code § 4104(a)(1)]. In the case of bids or offers for the construction of streets or highways, including bridges, the foregoing information regarding the subcontractor is required when the construction is in excess of one half of 1 percent or $10,000, whichever is greater [Pub. Contract Code § 4104(a)(1)]. At the option of a state or local agency, the prime contractor may be allowed to submit any information requested by the entity taking bids concerning a subcontractor, other than the subcontractor's name and business location, up to 24 hours after the deadline established for receipt of bids [Pub. Contract Code § 4104(a)(2)].

The bid or offer must also state the portion of the work that will be done by each subcontractor under the Subletting and Subcontracting Fair Practices Act. The prime contractor shall list only one subcontractor for each portion as is defined by the prime contractor in the bid [Pub. Contract Code § 4104(b)]. Because the Act permits the prime contractor to define the "portion" of work to be done by each subcontractor, there is no statutory requirement that the subcontractor's work be stated as a percentage of the contract. Whether the Act requires the prime contractor to express a subcontractor's portion as any more than the type of work the subcontractor will perform, for example, "paving and excavation" or "carpentry, millwork, and interior woodwork," is not clear [see Valley Crest Landscape v. City Council and City of Davis (1996) 41 Cal. App. 4th 1432, 1438-1440, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 184] .

Once the prime contractor's bid is accepted, he or she is forbidden to make any substitution for the subcontractor designated in the original bid except with the consent of the contracting agency as provided in Pub. Contract Code § 4104 [see Coast Pump Associates v. Stephen Tyler Corp. (1976) 62 Cal. App. 3d 421, 424-426, 133 Cal. Rptr. 88 (interpreting former Gov. Code § 4104, now see Pub. Contract Code § 4104)]. A general contractor who practices circumvention in bidding as a prime contractor pursuant to Pub. Contract Code § 4104 (requirement to list subcontractors) by listing another contractor who will in turn sublet portions constituting the majority of the work covered by the prime contract, violates the Subletting and Subcontracting Fair Practices Act, and is subject to the penalties set forth in Pub. Contract Code §§ 4110 and 4111 [Pub. Contract Code § 4105].

A prime contractor who fails to specify a subcontractor or who specifies more than one subcontractor for the same portion of work to be performed under the contract in excess of one-half of one percent of the prime contractor's total bid agrees that he or she is fully qualified to perform that portion himself or herself and must perform that portion. If after the contract is awarded the prime contractor subcontracts any portion of the work, the prime contractor is subject to the penalties named in Pub. Contract Code § 4111, unless he or she complies with Pub. Contract Code § 4107 or 4109 [Pub. Contract Code § 4106].

However, the prime contractor may sublet or subcontract any portion of the work in excess of one-half of one percent of the prime contractor's total bid for which no subcontractor was designated in the original bid in a case of public emergency or necessity if a finding is made, which is reduced to writing as public record of the awarding authority, setting forth the facts constituting the emergency or necessity [Pub. Contract Code § 4109]. The prime contractor may also sublet or subcontract any portion of the work in excess of one-half of one percent of the prime contractor's total bid for which his or her original bid did not designate a subcontractor if such work is done in the performance of "change orders" causing changes or deviations from the original contract [Pub. Contract Code § 4107(c)].

[4] Permitted Substitutions

To protect the original subcontractor against replacement by either another subcontractor or by the prime contractor, the right of the prime contractor to make substitution and the discretion of the awarding authority to consent to substitution is limited to those situations enumerated in Pub. Contract Code § 4107(a), all of which are keyed to the unwillingnessor inability of the listed subcontractor to perform properly [see Southern Cal. Acoustics Co. v. C.V. Holder, Inc. (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 719, 726, 79 Cal. Rptr. 319, 456 P.2d 975 (interpreting former Gov. Code § 4107(a), now see Pub. Contract Code § 4107(a)); Bay Cities Paving & Grading, Inc. v. Hensel Phelps Constr. Co. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 361, 128 Cal. Rptr. 632 (interpreting former Gov. Code § 4107(a), now see Pub. Contract Code § 4107(a))].

Pub. Contract Code § 4107(a) provides that the prime contractor whose bid is accepted may not substitute any person as subcontractor in place of the subcontractor listed in the original bid, except that the awarding authority, or its duly authorized officer, may, except as otherwise provided in Pub. Contract Code § 4107.5, consent to the substitution of another person as a subcontractor when the following apply:

- The subcontractor listed in the bid, after having had a reasonable opportunity to do so, fails or refuses to execute a written contract for the scope of work and price specified in the subcontractor's bid, when the contract, based on the general terms, conditions, plans, and specifications for the project involved or the terms of that subcontractor's written bid, is presented to him or her by the prime contractor.

- The listed subcontractor becomes insolvent or the subject of an order for relief in bankruptcy.

- The listed subcontractor fails or refuses to perform his or her subcontract.

- The listed subcontractor fails or refuses to meet the bond requirements of the prime contractor [see Pub. Contract Code § 4108].

- The prime contractor demonstrates to the awarding authority, or its duly authorized officer, subject to the further provisions of Pub. Contract Code § 4107.5, that the name of the subcontractor was listed as the result of an inadvertent clerical error.

- The listed subcontractor is not licensed pursuant to the Contractors' State License Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 7000 et seq.].

- The awarding authority, or its duly authorized officer, determines that the work performed by the listed subcontractor is substantially unsatisfactory and not in substantial accordance with the plans and specifications, or that the subcontractor is substantially delaying or disrupting the progress of the work.

- The listed subcontractor is ineligible to work on a public works project pursuant to Lab. Code § 1777.1 or 1777.7.

- The awarding authority determines that a listed subcontractor is not a responsible contractor [see Pub. Contract Code § 1103].

[5] Hearing on Requested Substitution

Before the approval of the prime contractor's request for a substitution of a listed subcontractor as provided in Pub. Contract Code § 4107(a), the awarding authority or its duly authorized officer must give written notice of the prime contractor's request and the reasons therefor to the listed subcontractor. The notice must be served by certified or registered mail to the last known address of the subcontractor. If the listed subcontractor who has been notified does not submit written objections to the awarding authority within five working days, he or she is deemed to have consented to the substitution. If written objections are filed, the awarding authority must give written notice of at least five working days to the listed subcontractor of a hearing by the awarding authority on the request for substitution [Pub. Contract Code § 4107(a)].

The agency must give the notice, and the contractor is not liable for failure to give it [W.J. Lewis v. C. Harper Constr. Co. (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d 27, 30, 171 Cal. Rptr. 806 (interpreting former Gov. Code § 4107(a); now see Pub. Contract Code § 4107(a))].

[6] Procedural Prerequisites for Substitution Based on Clerical Error

[a] Two-Day Notice Requirement

The awarding authority may authorize a substitution if the name of the subcontractor was listed as the result of an inadvertent clerical error [Pub. Contract Code § 4107(a)(5)]. Pub. Contract Code § 4107.5 specifies the procedures to be followed when a contractor asserts a claim of clerical error. A substitution that is based on inadvertent clerical error but which is not effected in compliance with Pub. Contract Code § 4107.5 may not be sustained, and the prime contractor in such a case is in violation of the Subletting and Subcontracting Fair Practices Act [see Coast Pump Associates v. Stephen Tyler Corp. (1976) 62 Cal. App. 3d 421, 427, 133 Cal. Rptr. 88 (interpreting former Gov. Code § 4107.5; now see Pub. Contract Code § 4107.5)].

Pub. Contract Code § 4107.5 requires that the prime contractor, as a condition to the assertion of a claim of inadvertent clerical error in the listing of a subcontractor, give written notice, within two working days after the time of the prime bid opening by the awarding authority, to the awarding authority and copies of the notice to both the listed subcontractor and the intended subcontractor who had bid to the prime contractor prior to the bid opening. While this two-day notice requirement is obligatory, rather than permissive, it can be satisfied through substantial compliance. For example, a prime contractor substantially complied with the notice requirement when it gave the awarding authority the required written notice but orally notified the erroneously-listed subcontractor by phone the day after prime bids were opened. The prime contractor then sent written notice to the erroneously-listed subcontractor on the fourth working day after the bid opening [see Cal-Air v. Auburn Union School Dist. (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 655, 667-671, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 703] .

Any listed subcontractor who has been notified by the prime contractor in accordance with Pub. Contract Code § 4107.5 as to an inadvertent clerical error must be allowed six working days from the time of the prime bid opening within which to submit to the awarding authority and to the prime contractor a written objection to the prime contractor's claim of inadvertent clerical error. Failure of the listed subcontractor to file the written notice within the six working days is primary evidence of his or her agreement that an inadvertent clerical error was made [Pub. Contract Code § 4107.5].

[b] Determination by Awarding Authority

If, within six working days of the time the prime bids were opened, the listed subcontractor submits a written objection, the awarding authority must investigate the claims of the parties and hold a public hearing to determine the validity of the claims [Pub. Contract Code §§ 4107, 4107.5].

The awarding authority must, after a public hearing as provided in Pub. Contract Code § 4107 and in the absence of compelling reasons to the contrary, consent to the substitution of the intended subcontractor (1) if (a) the prime contractor, (b) the subcontractor listed in error, and (c) the intended subcontractor each submit an affidavit (or declaration under penalty of perjury [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) to the awarding authority along with additional evidence as parties may wish to submit that an inadvertent clerical error was in fact made, provided that the affidavits from each of the three parties are filed within eight working days from the time of the prime bid opening; or (2) if the affidavits are filed by both the prime contractor and intended subcontractor within the specified time but the listed subcontractor does not submit within six working days, to the awarding authority and to the prime contractor, written objection to the prime contractor's claim of inadvertent clerical error as provided in Pub. Contract Code § 4107.5 [Pub. Contract Code § 4107.5].

Any determination made must be based on the facts contained in the declarations submitted under penalty of perjury by all three parties and supported by testimony under oath and subject to cross examination. The awarding authority may, on its own motion or that of any other party, admit testimony of other contractors, any bid registries or depositories, or any other party in possession of facts which may have a bearing on the decision of the awarding authority [Pub. Contract Code § 4107.5].

To justify what was clearly a proper result, one court held that the affidavit requirements of Pub. Contract Code § 4107.5 are not essential and should be construed as directory rather than mandatory. The court upheld the awarding authority's consent to substitution of subcontractors based on an inadvertent clerical error despite the facts that no party submitted an affidavit or a declaration under penalty of perjury and no testimony was taken at the noticed hearing [see Cal-Air v. Auburn Union School Dist. (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 655, 671-675, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 703] .

[7] Violation of Act

[a] Statutory Penalties

A prime contractor violating any of the provisions of the Subletting and Subcontracting Fair Practices Act violates his or her own contract and the awarding authority may exercise the option, in its own discretion, of (1) canceling the contractor or (2) assessing the prime contractor a penalty in an amount of not more than 10 percent of the amount of the subcontract involved to be deposited in the fund out of which the prime contract is awarded. The prime contractor is entitled to a public hearing and five days' notice thereof in any proceeding pursuant to Pub. Contract Code § 4110 [Pub. Contract Code § 4110].

The courts lack jurisdiction to impose penalties under the Subletting and Subcontracting Fair Practices Act [Pub. Contract Code § 4110; Thompson Pacific Construction, Inc. v. City of Sunnyvale (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 525, 539, 66 Cal. Rptr. 3d 175] . Rather, penalties may be imposed only by the awarding authority [Thompson Pacific Construction, Inc. v. City of Sunnyvale (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 525, 539, 66 Cal. Rptr. 3d 175] . Public Contract Code Section 4110 plainly gives the awarding authority discretion to impose monetary penalties for violation of the Act, but there is no provision anywhere in the Act that allows the awarding authority to pursue a civil action for monetary penalties. Although the trial courts have a range of inherent powers that they may exercise in order to accomplish complete justice between parties, a court has no power to award civil monetary penalties in the absence of explicit statutory authorization [Thompson Pacific Construction, Inc. v. City of Sunnyvale (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 525, 539, 66 Cal. Rptr. 3d 175] .

In addition, violation of the Subletting and Subcontracting Fair Practices Act by a licensee under the Contractors' State License Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 7000 et seq.] constitutes grounds for disciplinary action by the Contractors' State License Board [Pub. Contract Code § 4111].

[b] Remedy of Listed Subcontractor

The listed subcontractor who has been replaced by the prime contractor in violation of the Subletting and Subcontracting Fair Practices Act has no contractual right against the prime contractor based on the fact that he or she was listed in the prime contractor's bid. The listing by the general contractor of the subcontractor that the general contractor intends to retain is in response to statutory command under the Subletting and Subcontracting Fair Practices Act [see Pub. Contract Code § 4104] and cannot reasonably be construed as an expression of acceptance [Southern Cal. Acoustics Co. v. C.V. Holder, Inc. (1969)71 Cal. 2d 719, 723, 79 Cal. Rptr. 319, 456 P.2d 975 (interpreting former Gov. Code § 4104; now see Pub. Contract Code § 4104)]. Moreover, there is no acceptance of the subcontractor's bid by operation of law under the doctrine of promissory estoppel, since the prime contractor has made no promise or offer to the subcontractor by listing the subcontractor in compliance with the Subletting and Subcontracting Fair Practices Act, which is intended to induce action or forbearance of a definite and substantial character [see Southern Cal. Acoustics Co. v. C.V. Holder, Inc. (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 719, 723-724, 79 Cal. Rptr. 319, 456 P.2d 975 (interpreting former Gov. Code § 4104; now see Pub. Contract Code § 4104)].

However, since the purpose of the Subletting and Subcontracting Fair Practices Act is to protect both the public and subcontractors from the evils of the proscribed unfair bid shopping and bid peddling, it confers the right on the listed subcontractor to perform the subcontract unless statutory grounds for a valid substitution exist. This right may be enforced by an action for damages against the prime contractor to recover the benefit of the bargain the listed subcontractor would have realized had he or she notwrongfully been deprived of the subcontract [Southern Cal. Acoustics Co. v. C.V. Holder, Inc. (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 719, 727, 79 Cal. Rptr. 319, 456 P.2d 975 (interpreting former Gov. Code §§ 4100, 4101; now see Pub. Contract Code §§ 4100, 4101, respectively); see Bay Cities Paving & Grading, Inc. v. Hensel Phelps Constr. Co. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 361, 366-367, 128 Cal. Rptr. 632 (interpreting former Gov. Code § 4107; now see Pub. Contract Code § 4107)].

However, the listed subcontractor has no remedy against the public entity. The public entity is not liable for a violation of the Subletting and Subcontracting Fair Practices Act, since there is no statutory provision for the recovery of damages against a public entity for its consenting to a substitution of subcontractors in violation of Pub. Contract Code § 4107. Moreover, the listed subcontractor is not a third-party beneficiary of the contract between the prime contractor and the public entity that would give rise to a cause of action against the public entity for breach of contract, since the listed subcontractor is at most an incidental beneficiary, having been listed in the prime contractor's bid in response to a statutory command and not because the contracting parties' purpose was expressly to benefit the subcontractor [Southern Cal. Acoustics Co. v. C.V. Holder, Inc. (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 719, 727-728, 79 Cal. Rptr. 319, 456 P.2d 975 (interpreting former Gov. Code §§ 4100, 4101; now see Pub. Contract Code §§ 4100, 4101, respectively)].

Chapter 481 PUBLIC WORKS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Actions on Public Works Contracts

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.25

§ 481.25 Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

[1] Arbitration

If a public works contract provides for arbitration of disputes arising under it, the parties are bound by the contract to proceed with arbitration before turning to the courts. By general law, a written agreement to submit to arbitration an existing controversy or a controversy thereafter arising is valid, enforceable, and irrevocable, save on such grounds as exist for the revocation of any contract [Code Civ. Proc. § 1281]. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 32, Contractual Arbitration: Agreements and Compelling Arbitration .

It has been the practice of public agencies to provide in a public works contract for resolution by some representative of the agency of disputes arising under the contract. The courts have generally upheld the provision and enforced them against contractors [see Wiechmann Eng'rs v. California ex rel. Dep't of Public Works (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 741, 107 Cal. Rptr. 529 ; People ex rel. Dep't of Public Works v. McNamara Corp. Ltd. (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 641, 104 Cal. Rptr. 822 ; Clack v. State of California ex rel. Dept. of Public Works (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 743, 80 Cal. Rptr. 274 ; Macomber v. State (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 391, 58 Cal. Rptr. 393 . The law was changed in 1978, however, by a statute that apparently repudiated those decisions. As a result, any dispute arising from a construction contract with a public agency that contains a provision that one party to the contract, or one party's agent or employee, must decide any disputes arising under that contract, must be resolved by submitting the dispute to independent arbitration, if mutually agreeable, or by litigation in a court of competent jurisdiction [Civ. Code § 1670].

[2] Presentation of Claim to Public Entity

[a] Requirements

Presentation of a claim pursuant to Gov. Code §§ 900-935.7 is not required to commence a legal action or arbitration proceeding for money or damages on a contract with the state, but any action or proceeding must be commenced no later than six months after either of the following [Pub. Contract Code § 19100(a)]:

- The contracting agency's final written decision under claim provisions; or

- The accrual of the cause of action, if there are no contract claim provisions.

Except as provided in Gov. Code §§ 946.4 (inadequate statement concerning public agency on file with Roster of Public Agencies during 70 days following accrual of cause of action) and 946.6 (petition for relief from Gov. Code § 945.4 where public entity rejects late claim), no suit for money or damages may be brought against the public entity on a cause of action for which a claim is required to be presented until a written claim therefor has been presented to the public entity and has been acted on by the public entity, or has been deemed to have been rejected by the public entity [Gov. Code § 945.4].

[b] Pleading Compliance With Gov. Code § 945.4

Satisfaction of the procedural prerequisite of filing a claim for damages against the public entity before bringing an action on the claim is an element of a contractor's cause of action against the public entity. The absence from a complaint of any allegation of the presentation of a written claim against the public entity forecloses that complaint from setting forth a cause of action against the public entity on any theory [see Wilson v. People ex rel. Dept. of Public Works (1969) 271 Cal. App. 2d 665, 668, 76 Cal. Rptr. 906] .

[3] Resolution of Claims Between Contractor and Local Agency of $375,000 or Less

[a] Presentment to Local Agency

Public works claims between a contractor and a local agency of $375,000 or less that arise from contracts entered into on or after January 1, 1991,must first be presented to the agency in writing, along with documentation necessary to substantiate the claim, on or before the final payment date [Pub. Contract Code §§ 20104(a)(1), (d), 20104.2(a)]. This procedure should be followed before the claimant files a claim under the general claim provisions [see Pub. Contract Code § 20104.2(e); see also Gov. Code §§ 900-935.7].

For these purposes, a "claim" is a separate demand by a contractor for any of the following: (1) a time extension; (2) payment of money or damages arising from work done by, or on behalf of, the contractor pursuant to the contract and payment of which is not otherwise expressly provided for, or the claimant is not otherwise entitled to; or (3) an amount the payment of which is disputed by the local agency [Pub. Contract Code § 20104(b)(2)]. This claim procedure does not apply to tort claims [Pub. Contract Code § 20104.2(f)], or when the agency has elected to resolve disputes by arbitration [Pub. Contract Code § 20104(a)(2); see Pub. Contract Code § 10240 et seq. (arbitration statutes)].

Once the claim has been presented in writing, the local agency must respond to the claim, or may request additional documentation supporting the claim or relating to any defenses the agency may have against the contractor. The response or request must be in writing and made within a specified period of time, the length of which depends on whether the claim is greater or less than $50,000 [see Pub. Contract Code § 20104.2(b), (c)]. If the claim remains unresolved after this exchange, or if the agency fails to respond to the contractor's written claim, the contractor may notify the agency in writing to demand an informal conference to meet and confer to settle the disputed issues [Pub. Contract Code § 20104.2(d)]. If the claim, or any portion, remains in dispute after the meet and confer conference, the claimant may file a claim under the general claim provisions of the Government Code [Pub. Contract Code § 20104.2(e); see Gov. Code §§ 900-935.7].

[b] Procedure Once Suit Is Filed

If a public works claim of $375,000 or less remains unresolved and a suit is filed, the court must submit the matter to nonbinding mediation within 60 days, but no earlier than 30 days, following the filing or responsive pleadings, unless both parties mutually stipulate to waive mediation [Pub. Contract Code § 20104.4(a)]. If the dispute remains unresolved after nonbinding mediation, the case must be submitted to judicial arbitration [Pub. Contract Code §

20104.4(b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1141.10 et seq.; for complete discussion of judicial arbitration, see Ch. 36, Judicial Arbitration]. At the request of either party, the court may order any witnesses to participate in the mediation or arbitration process [Pub. Contract Code § 20104.4(c)].

Once the judicial arbitration is concluded, either party may request a trial de novo [Code Civ. Proc. § 1141.20]. However, if the requesting party does not obtain a more favorable judgment at trial, that party must pay the other party's attorney's fees arising from the trial [Pub. Contract Code § 20104.4(b)(3)] as well as costs and fees incurred after election of the trial de novo [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1141.21].

If the contractor receives an arbitration award or judgment, the local agency must also pay interest on the award or judgment at the legal rate from the date the suit was filed [Pub. Contract Code § 20104.6(b)].

§ 481.26 Contractual Waiver of Claims

Provisions in public works contracts with public entities that provide that acceptance of a payment otherwise due a contractor is a waiver of all claims against the public entity arising out of the work performed under the contract, or provisions that condition the right to payment on submission of a release by the contractor of all such claims, are against public policy, and are null and void. However, public entities are not prohibited from including and enforcing a contract provision which provides that the payment of undisputed contract amounts is contingent on the contractor furnishing the public entity with a release of all claims against the public entity arising by virtue of the public works contract related to those amounts. Disputed contract claims in stated amounts may be specifically excluded by the contractor from the operation of the release [Pub. Contract Code § 7100].

A. Actions on Public Works Contracts

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.27

§ 481.27 Liability of Public Entity for Fraudulent Concealment on Claims of Extra Work

If a contracting agency furnishes inaccurate project information, such as soil reports, as a basis for bids, it may be liable for damages on a breach of warranty theory. Generally, fraudulent concealment gives rise to an action in tort; however, such an action for misrepresentation against public agencies is barred by Gov. Code § 818.8. However, an action in contract for breach of warranty is proper. Thus, a public entity may be liable for a misrepresentation which constitutes such a breach of contract as to make the contractor unable to perform according to the contract provisions, or may be liable for furnishing misleading plans and specifications under the concept of a breach of an implied warranty of their correctness [E. H. Morrill Co. v. State of California (1967) 65 Cal. 2d 787, 793, 56 Cal. Rptr. 479, 423 P.2d 551 ; Salinas v. Souza & McCue Constr. Co. (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 217, 222, 57 Cal. Rptr. 337, 424 P.2d 921] .

Generally, a cause of action for nondisclosure of material facts arises in at least three instances: (1) the defendant makes representations but does not disclose facts that materially qualify the facts disclosed, or that render the disclosure likely to mislead; (2) the facts are known or accessible only to defendant, and defendant knows they are not known to or reasonably discoverable by the plaintiff; and (3) the defendant actively conceals discovery from the plaintiff [Warner Constr. Corp. v. City of Los Angeles (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 285, 294, 85 Cal. Rptr. 444, 466 P.2d 996] .

A public entity is not liable for an imprudent or careless investigation on the part of the contractor, and a careless contractor cannot convert his or her own lack of diligence into a case of fraudulent concealment against the entity, on the theory that it was guilty of fraudulent concealment in not furnishing him or her with information that he or she made no effort to secure for himself or herself [Weichmann Eng'rs v. California ex rel. Dep't of Public Works (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 741, 753, 107 Cal. Rptr. 529] .

Scope

NOTE:

SB 189, which was introduced in February 2009 as a two-year bill, would comprehensively revise, reorganize, and consolidate the law governing stop notices and payment bonds on public works projects in the Public Contract Code. The proposed legislation is the product of a recommendation of the California Law Revision Commission, which may be consulted at http://www.clrc.ca.gov/pub/Printed-Reports/REC-H821.pdf. The legislation would be operative January 1, 2011. If SB 189 is enacted, this chapter will be updated in a future release.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Withholding Payment on Public Works

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.40

§ 481.40 Governing Statutes

[1] In General

Stop notices for public works of improvement are governed by Civ. Code §§ 3179-3214. Definitions of terms used in these code provisions are contained in Civ. Code §§ 3082-3106. Except as otherwise provided in these provisions, the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 307 et seq. governing procedure in civil actions are applicable to, and constitute the rules of practice in, the proceedings mentioned in Civ. Code §§ 3179-3214 governing stop notices for public works. The provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 307-1062a, relative to new trials and appeals, except insofar as they are inconsistent with the provisions governing stop notices for public works or with rules adopted by the Judicial Council, apply to the proceedings mentioned in Civ. Code §§ 3179-3214 governing stop notices for public works of improvement [see Civ. Code § 3259].

Although the statutes governing mechanics' liens do not apply to any public work [see Gov. Code § 3109], the mechanics' lien law, that is, that law governing the right to a mechanics' lien or stop notice in connection with a private work of improvement and the right to a stop notice in connection with a public work of improvement, is an integrated and harmonious scheme and applicable code sections must be construed together. In the absence of a specific, contrary legislative mandate, all rules applicable to statutory provisions governing both private and public works of improvement apply with equal effect to both [Sunlight Elec. Supply Co.v. McKee (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 47, 50, 37 Cal. Rptr. 782 ; see Hendrickson v. Bertelson (1934) 1 Cal. 2d 430, 432, 35 P.2d 318] .

[2] Statutory Stop Notice Provisions Is Sole Remedy

The rights of all persons furnishing labor, services, equipment, or materials for any public work of improvement, with respect to any fund for payment of construction costs, are governed exclusively by Civ. Code §§ 3179-3214 [Civ. Code § 3264]. No person may assert any legal or equitable right with respect to such fund, other than a right created by direct written contract between such person and the person holding the fund, except pursuant to the provisions of Civ. Code §§ 3179-3214 [Civ. Code § 3264; see Boyd & Losvesee Lumber Co. v. Western Pacific Financial Corp. (1975) 44 Cal. App. 3d 460, 465, 118 Cal. Rptr. 699] .

Chapter 481 PUBLIC WORKS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Withholding Payment on Public Works

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.41

§ 481.41 Definitions

The definitions set forth below govern the construction of the stop notice provisions for public works of improvement unless the context otherwise requires a different construction [Civ. Code § 3082].

[1] Claimant

A claimant is any person entitled to record a claim of lien, to give a stop notice in connection with any work of improvement, or to recover on any payment bond, or any combination of the foregoing [Civ. Code § 3085].

[2] Public Work

A public work is any work of improvement contracted for by a public entity [Civ. Code § 3100].

[3] Public Entity

A public entity includes the state, Regents of the University of California, a county, city, district, public authority, public agency, and any other political subdivision or public corporation in the state [Civ. Code § 3099].

[4] Work of Improvement

A work of improvement includes, but is not restricted to, the construction, alteration, addition to, or repair, in whole or in part, of any building, wharf, bridge, ditch, flume, aqueduct, well, tunnel, fence, machinery, railroad, or road, the seeding, sodding, or planting of any lot or tract of land for landscaping purposes, the filling, leveling, or grading of any lot or tract of land, the demolition of buildings, and the removal of buildings. Except as otherwise provided, a work of improvement includes the entire structure or scheme of improvement as a whole [Civ. Code § 3106].

[5] Contract

A contract is an agreement between an owner (public entity) and any original contractor providing for the work of improvement or any part thereof [Civ. Code § 3088].

[6] Original Contractor

An original contractor is any contractor who has a direct contractual relationship with the owner [Civ. Code § 3095].

[7] Laborer

A laborer is any person who, acting as an employee, performs labor or bestows skill or other necessary services on any work of improvement [Civ. Code § 3089(a)].

"Laborer" also includes any person or entity, including an express trust fund [see Civ. Code § 3111], to whom a portion of the compensation of a laborer, as defined in Civ. Code § 3089(a), is paid by agreement with that laborer or the laborer's collective bargaining agent. To the extent that such a person or entity has standing to maintain a direct legal action to collect any portion of compensation owed for a laborer, that person or entity has standing to enforce any rights under the mechanics' lien law to the same extent as the laborer. The intent of this statutory provision is to give effect to the public policy in favor of protecting laborers' entire compensation on works of improvement, regardless of the form in which that compensation is to be paid [Civ. Code § 3089(b)].

[8] Materialman

A materialman is any person who furnishes materials or supplies to be used or consumed in any work of improvement [Civ. Code § 3090].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Withholding Payment on Public Works

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.42

§ 481.42 Public Stop Notice Provisions

[1] Construction

The provisions governing the mechanics' lien law, including the provisions governing stop notice for public works of improvement, are remedial in character, and are to be liberally construed in their entirety with a view to effect their objects and to promote justice [Sunlight Elec. Supply Co. v. McKee (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 47, 50, 37 Cal. Rptr. 782 ; see Hendrickson v. Bertelson (1934) 1 Cal. 2d 430, 432, 35 P.2d 318] .

[2] Purpose

There can be no mechanics' or materialmen's lien for labor or supplies on property belonging to the public and used for public purposes [SunlightElec. Supply Co. v. McKee (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 47, 50, 37 Cal. Rptr. 782 ; see Civ. Code § 3109]. That is, a claimant who would otherwise be entitled to a charge on a work of improvement to which the claimant has supplied labor or materials as security for the obligation owed to him or her by the prime or original contractor does not have such security in the case of labor or materials furnished to a public work of improvement [see Mercantile Collection Bureau v. Roach (1961) 195 Cal. App. 2d 355, 357, 15 Cal. Rptr. 710] . Accordingly, in addition to other procedures generally available for the enforcement of contracts, the Legislature has provided the special remedy of the stop notice procedure without lien rights for intercepting funds due from a public agency to a contractor both to protect the interest of those to whom the prime or original contractor may incur debts in connection with a public works project and to protect both the public and the public property from the serious, adverse effects which would result from permiting liens on such property [see Pacific Employers Ins. Co. v. California (1970) 91 Cal. Rptr. 273, 477 P.2d 129 ; Jasper Constr., Inc. v. University Casework Sys., Inc. (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 582, 584, 114 Cal. Rptr. 143 ; *Sunlight Elec. Chapter 481 PUBLIC WORKS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Withholding Payment on Public Works

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.43

§ 481.43 Nature of Remedy

Instead of being a charge on a public work of improvement, the stop notice for public works constitutes a lien on the property or earnings of the contractor held by the public agency [United States Fid. & Guar. Co. v. Oak Grove Union School Dist. (1962) 205 Cal. App. 2d 226, 231, 22 Cal. Rptr. 907] . Accordingly, on the receipt of a stop notice in connection with a public works project, the public entity must withhold from the original contractor, or from any person acting under his or her authority, money or bonds (if bonds are to be issued in payment for the work of improvement) due or to become due to the contractor in an amount sufficient to answer the claim stated in the stop notice and to provide for the entity's reasonable cost of any resulting litigation [Civ. Code § 3186]. Thus, when the notice is filed, the claimant immediately has a right against the earnings of the contractor held by the public agency, and thereby, in effect, imposes a trust obligation on the public agency [United States Fid. & Guar. Co. v. Oak Grove Union School Dist. (1962) 205 Cal. App. 2d 226, 231, 22 Cal. Rptr. 907] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Withholding Payment on Public Works

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.44

§ 481.44 Stop Notice Remedy Is Cumulative

The right of a claimant to the use of the stop notice procedure for public works is cumulative both to the remedies generally available for the enforcement of contracts and to other remedies provided by the Legislature to ensure the payment of claims of laborers and materialmen on public works projects [see Jasper Constr., Inc. v. University Casework Sys., Inc.(1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 582, 584, 114 Cal. Rptr. 143 ; George F. Kennedy, Inc. v. Miles & Sons Constr. Div. (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 516, 522, 85 Cal. Rptr. 298] . Thus, in his or her action to enforce a stop notice, the claimant may, simultaneously with or independently of the action, seek a personal judgment against the contractor or subcontractor with whom the claimant contracted for the work performed on the public project [see George F. Kennedy, Inc. v. Miles & Sons Constr. Div. (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 516, 522, 85 Cal. Rptr. 298] , and, in addition, may seek to enforce the obligation under the public works contractor's payment bond under Civ. Code §§ 3247-3252 and Pub. Contract Code § 7103 [see Consolidated Elec. Distributors, Inc. v. Kirkham, Chaon & Kirkham, Inc. (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 54, 61, 95 Cal. Rptr. 673 ; for discussion and forms for use in an action on a contractor's payment bond, see §§ 481.70 et seq., 481.360 et seq.].

§ 481.45 Person Entitled to Serve Stop Notice

[1] In General

Except for an original contractor, that is, any contractor who has a direct contractual relationship with the public agency [see Civ. Code § 3095], any person mentioned in Civ. Code § 3110 or 3112 (persons entitled to mechanics' liens), or mentioned in Pub. Contract Code § 4107.7 (hazardous waste hauler), or furnishing provisions, provender, or other supplies, may serve a stop notice on the public entity responsible for the public work in accordance with the provision of Civ. Code § 3179 et seq. governing stop notices [Civ. Code § 3181]. Statutory and decisional authority that prescribe the prerequisites for entitlement to a mechanics' lien on a private work of improvement generally govern the right to a stop notice in connection with public works of improvement [see George F. Kennedy, Inc. v. Miles & Sons Constr. Div. (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 516, 520-522, 85 Cal. Rptr. 298] . For a complete discussion of these requirements, see Ch. 361, Mechanics' Liens .

[2] Works of Improvement

Generally, the persons who may avail themselves of the stop notice procedure for public works of improvement include mechanics, materialmen, contractors, subcontractors, lessors of equipment, artisans, architects, registered engineers, licensed land surveyors, machinists, builders, teamsters, draymen, and all persons and laborers of every class performing labor or bestowing skill or other necessary services on, or furnishing materials or leasing equipment to be used or consumed in, or furnishing appliances, teams, or power contributing to the work of improvement [Civ. Code §§ 3110, 3181].

[3] Site Improvements

Any stop notice claimant who, at the instance or request of the public agency (or any person acting by the agency's authority or under the agency, as contractor or otherwise), has made any site improvement may serve a stop notice as provided in Civ. Code § 3181 [see Civ. Code §§ 3112, 3181]. A site improvement includes the demolishing or removing of improvements, trees, or other vegetation located thereon, drilling test holes, grading, filling, or otherwise improving of any lot or tract of land or the street, highway, or sidewalk in front of or adjoining any lot or tract of land, constructing or installing sewers or other public utilities therein, constructing any areas, vaults, cellars, or rooms under such sidewalks, or making any improvements thereon [Civ. Code § 3102].

[4] Union Trust Fund Liens

For purposes of the mechanics' lien law, an express trust fund to which a portion of a laborer's total compensation is to be paid pursuant to an applicable employment agreement or a collective bargaining agreement for the provision of benefits (including, but not limited to, employer payments for health and welfare, pension, vacation, travel time, subsistence pay, apprenticeship or other training programs, specified worker protection and assistance programs or committees, industry advancement and collective bargaining agreement administrative fees, and similar purposes [see Lab. Code § 1773.1]) is entitled to assert the same rights and claims as laborers performing labor on, or bestowing skill or other necessary services on, a work of improvement, to the extent of the compensation agreed to be paid to that express trust fund for labor on that improvement only [Civ. Code § 3111]. As amended in 1999 [see Stats. 1999, ch. 795, § 7], Civ. Code § 3111 is intended to reinstate the ability of laborers and employee trust funds to use mechanics' liens and creditor priorities to obtain payment of unpaid wages and fringe benefits. The amendment was drafted in an attempt to avoid having state remedies for collection of those wages and fringe benefits be preempted by the federal Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA) [24 U.S.C. § 1001 et seq.]. Prior to this amendment, the California Supreme Court held that Civ. Code § 3111 was preempted by ERISA [see Carpenters So. Cal. Admin. Corp. v. El Capitan Development Co. (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 1041, 1049-1054, 282 Cal. Rptr. 277, 811 P.2d 296] .

[5] Hazardous Waste Removal

A subcontractor registered as a hazardous waste hauler pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 25163 is entitled to serve a stop notice on a public entity as provided in Civ. Code § 3181 when the contractor who contracted with the public entity for the investigation, removal or remedial action, or disposal of hazardous waste fails to pay the subcontractor within 10 days after the investigation, removal or remedial action, or disposal is completed [Civ. Code § 3181; see Pub. Contract Code § 4107.7].

[6] Furnisher of Labor or Materials

[a] In General

A person furnishing labor or materials used in, on, or about the performance of public work may avail himself or herself of the stop notice procedure, providing the work or material is furnished at the instance of the prime or original contractor or a subcontractor having charge, in whole or in part, of the project [Theisen v. Los Angeles County (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 170, 177, 5 Cal. Rptr. 161, 352 P.2d 529 ; George F. Kennedy, Inc. v. Miles & Sons Constr. Div. (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 516, 520, 85 Cal. Rptr. 298 (relying on language contained in former Code Civ. Proc. § 1192.1, now see Civ. Code § 3110].

Thus, when materials furnished to a subcontractor become a part of the subcontractor's general equipment and are of such a nature that, in the usual course of events, they will not be entirely used and consumed on the job for which they were purchased, a claim therefor is not subject to the statutory stop notice procedure. Similarly, when only a part of the material furnished to a subcontractor is used in the performance of the latter's contract, the remainder being diverted to other uses, and it is impossible to estimate what part was used in performance of the contract, a claim therefor is not within the scope of the statutory stop notice procedure [George F. Kennedy, Inc. v. Miles & Sons Constr. Div. (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 516, 521, 85 Cal. Rptr. 298 (insufficient evidence that tires and tire services furnished by plaintiff were used up in highway project required reversal of judgment for plaintiff in action on stop notice)].

[b] Contractor and Materialman Distinguished

No stop notice rights may be conferred on a person furnishing labor or materials for a public project unless the labor or materials is furnished at the instance of a contractor or subcontractor having charge, in whole or in part, of the project. Thus, the stop notice procedure applicable to public work is not available to those whose relationship to the work is only that of vendor of materials to a materialman [Theisen v. Los Angeles County (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 170, 177, 5 Cal. Rptr. 161, 352 P.2d 529] .

The essential feature that establishes one as a subcontractor rather than as a materialman and that the materialman must show to be entitled to enforce a stop notice [see George F. Kennedy, Inc. v. Miles & Sons Constr. Div. (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 516, 520-521, 85 Cal. Rptr. 298] , is that in the course of performance of the prime or original contract the person to whom the materials were furnished constructed at the job site or elsewhere, a definite, substantial part of the work of improvement in accordance with the plans and specifications of the contract [Theisen v. Los Angeles County (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 170, 183, 5 Cal. Rptr. 161, 352 P.2d 529] . Under this definition, it is sufficient that a person perform an important or material part of the total work of improvement in order to perform a substantial part of the work [George F. Kennedy, Inc. v. Miles & Sons Constr. Div. (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 516, 520, 85 Cal. Rptr. 298 ; see Piping Specialties Co. v. Kentile, Inc. (1964) 229 Cal. App. 2d 586, 588-589, 40 Cal. Rptr. 537] .

Chapter 481 PUBLIC WORKS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Withholding Payment on Public Works

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.46

§ 481.46 Duty to Withhold Money or Bonds Due or to Become Due

[1] Duty Measured by Extent of Liability of Public Entity

On receipt of the stop notice, the public entity must withhold money or bonds, as provided in Civ. Code § 3186, either that are due or that are to become due [see Civ. Code § 3186]. The provisions governing stop notices for public works do not prohibit the payment of any money or bonds to the original contractor or to his or her assignee unless a stop notice is on file before the disbursing officer has actually surrendered possession of the warrant, check, bonds, or money [Civ. Code § 3187(a)].

Because the public entity must withhold money or bonds that are due or to become due, the extent of the public entity's liability to the stop notice claimant after a stop notice has been served is measured by the extent of the public entity's liability to the original contractor [Dorris v. Alturas School Dist. (1914) 25 Cal. App. 30, 33, 142 P. 795 (decided under former Code Civ. Proc. § 1184; now see Civ. Code § 3186)]. That liability may be measured either by the terms of the contract between the public entity and the original contractor or by the terms of the various statutes governing public works contracts [see Harsco Corp. v. Department of Public Works (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 272, 276-278, 98 Cal. Rptr. 337 ; Dorris v. Alturas School Dist. (1914) 25 Cal. App. 30, 30-33, 142 P. 795] . For example, when the original contractor abandons the project in breach of its contract with the public entity, the entity, by the terms of the contract, is obligated to pay the full contract price only on completion of the contract; and when the cost of completion is greater than the amount owing from the entity to the contractor, a stop notice claimant has no rights to those remaining funds in the hands of the public entity [see Dorris v. Alturas School Dist. (1914) 25 Cal. App. 30, 33, 142 P. 795] . Similarly, moneys withheld by a public entity pursuant to Pub. Contract Code § 1026 (mandatory retention by public entity of at least 10 percent of contract price until final acceptance and completion of project) are not subject to the claims of stop notices when the contractor has abandoned the project and the cost of completion exceeds the original contract price and consumes all of the retained funds [Harsco Corp. v. Department of Public Works (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 272, 276-280, 98 Cal. Rptr. 337] .

[2] Breach of Duty to Withhold

When a proper and timely stop notice has been served on a public entity, the entity is not permitted to exercise any discretion concerning theamount to be withheld in response to the notice. Even when the original contractor in good faith contests the validity or amount of a stop notice claim, the full amount of the claim is withheld, subject to the provisions governing the amount that must be withheld (see cases in § 481.111[1]) and pending the filing of a surety bond under Civ. Code § 3196 (see § 481.50) or the commencement of summary proceedings to determine the validity of the stop notice or the amount of claim stated in the stop notice (see § 481.51) [see Jasper Constr., Inc. v. University Casework Sys., Inc. (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 582, 585, 114 Cal. Rptr. 143] .

When the public entity ignores the stop notice, or fails to withhold the amount that is required to be withheld, an action in equity lies by stop notice claimants injured thereby against the public entity [see United States Fid. & Guar. Co. v. Oak Grove Union School Dist. (1962) 205 Cal. App. 2d 226, 231, 22 Cal. Rptr. 907] . Moreover, when the public individuals served with the stop notice willfully disregard their duty to withhold sufficient funds, they are personally liable to the stop notice claimants injured thereby [see United States Fid. & Guar. Co. v. Oak Grove Union School Dist. (1962) 205 Cal. App. 2d 226, 230, 22 Cal. Rptr. 907 ; L. W. Blinn Co. v. Pioneer Drainage Dist. (1920) 50 Cal. App. 364, 370-371, 195 P. 750 (decided under former Code Civ. Proc. § 1184, which required "owner" to withhold money in action involving drainage district)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Withholding Payment on Public Works

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.47

§ 481.47 Amount Required to Be Withheld

[1] Claim and Costs

The amount the public entity must withhold on receipt of a stop notice is an amount sufficient to answer the claim stated in the stop notice and to provide for the reasonable cost incurred by the entity in any resulting litigation [Civ. Code § 3186]. The public entity is permitted to pay the original contractor or his or her assignee any money due the contractor or assignee in excess of an amount sufficient to answer the total amount of the claims stated in stop notices on file at the time of the payment plus such interest and court costs as might be reasonably anticipated in connection with the claims [Civ. Code § 3187].

[2] Amount Permitted to Be Claimed in Stop Notice

Although no statute expressly defines the amount that may be claimed in a stop notice, that amount may be determined by analogy to Civ. Code § 3123 regulating similar protection afforded to suppliers under the mechanics' lien law [University Casework Sys., Inc. v. Superior Court (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 263, 266, 115 Cal. Rptr. 836 ; see Sunlight Elec. Supply Co. v. McKee (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 47, 50, 37 Cal. Rptr. 782] . Civ. Code § 3123 provides that the amount of lien that may be claimed by a mechanics' lien claimant may be either (1) the reasonable value of the labor, services, equipment, or materials furnished or (2) for the price agreed on by the claimant and the person with whom the claimant contracted, whichever is less. Thus, it would seem that the stop notice claimant is similarly limited to claiming in his or her stop notice either the reasonable value of the labor, services, equipment, or materials furnished or the contract price, whichever is less [see University Casework Sys., Inc. v. Superior Court (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 263, 266, 115 Cal. Rptr. 836] . When the labor, services, equipment, or materials furnished by the claimant is less than that specified in the contract, the reasonable value of the labor, service, equipment, or materials furnished is limited to a proportion of the contract price reflecting the amount of progress made toward the completion of the work [University Casework Sys., Inc. v. Superior Court (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 263, 266-267, 115 Cal. Rptr. 836] .

B. Withholding Payment on Public Works

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.48

§ 481.48 Priorities of Claims to Withheld Funds or Garnishment

[1] Assignment of Contract

No assignment by the original contractor of any of the money due or to become due to him or her under the contract, or for "extras" in connection therewith, whether made before or after the service of a stop notice, takes priority over a stop notice for public works of improvement and such assignment has no effect on the rights of the stop notice claimants [Civ. Code § 3193]. Any garnishment of the money by any creditor of the original contract pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 708.710 et seq., and any statutory liens thereon, are subordinate to the rights of all stop notice claimants [Civ. Code § 3193].

[2] Insufficient Funds to Satisfy Claims

[a] Distribution

If the money withheld pursuant to stop notices is insufficient to pay in full all of the valid claims stated in such notices, the money must be distributed among the stop notice claimants in the same ratio that their respective claims bear to the aggregate of such valid claims, without regard to the order of time in which their respective notices may have been served or their respective actions, if any have been commenced [Civ. Code § 3190].

However, the stop notice claimant may recover from the contractor or his or her sureties any deficit that may remain unpaid after the pro rata distribution in an action on the contractor's payment bond for public work as provided in Civ. Code §§ 3247-3252 [Pub. Contract Code § 7103; see Civ. Code § 3191].

[b] Forfeiture of Right to Pro Rata Distribution

Any person who willfully gives a false stop notice to the public entity or who willfully includes in his or her notice labor, services, equipment, ormaterials not furnished for the work of improvement with respect to which the notice is given, forfeits all right to participate in the pro rata distribution of money or bonds withheld [Civ. Code § 3192].

A public entity is liable for interest on the amount withheld, commencing 60 days after the notice of claim, if the entity admits that the amount is owed [Westinghouse Electric Corp. v. County of Los Angeles (1982) 129 Cal. App. 3d 771, 777-780, 181 Cal. Rptr. 332 ; see Gov. Code § 980].

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.49

§ 481.49 Enforcement of Stop Notice Rights

[1] Prerequisites to Entitlement to Enforcement

A claimant is entitled to enforce a stop notice only if he or she has complied with each of the following conditions: (1) the claimant has given the preliminary 20-day notice (public work) in accordance with Civ. Code § 3098 if required by that section (for an outline of the requirements for serving a preliminary 20-day notice (public work) and when the notice must be served, see the Procedural Checklists in §§ 481.170-481.174); and (2) the claimant has filed his or her stop notice as defined in Civ. Code § 3103 and in accordance with Civ. Code § 3184 specifying the time limit for effective service of a stop notice (for an outline of the requirements relating to the preparation and service of a stop notice, see the Procedural Checklists in §§ 481.190, 481.191) [Civ. Code § 3183].

[2] Action to Enforce Stop Notice

An action against the original contractor and the public entity to enforce payment of the claim stated in the stop notice may be commenced at any time after 10 days from the date of the service of the stop notice on the public entity and must be commenced not later than 90 days following the expiration of the period within which stop notices must be filed as provided in Civ. Code § 3184 [Civ. Code § 3210]. For an outline of the procedures that must be followed in an action to enforce a stop notice claim, see the Procedural Checklists in §§ 481.270-481.277. There is a split in authority as to whether the public agency may be estopped to rely on the statute of limitation. One court has held that a public agency could not be estopped [A.J. Setting Co. v. Trustees of Cal. State University and Colleges (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 374, 382-384, 174 Cal. Rptr. 43] . Another court has held that estoppel may be raised when the subcontractor filed a claim with the city, the city represented that it was looking into the claim, and the subcontractor could not recover from the contractor [Structural Steel Fabricators, Inc. v. City of Orange (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1206, 1211-1212, 286 Cal. Rptr. 24] . This case was remanded to the trial court, which ruled that the subcontractor failed to prove estoppel; however, the trial court held that the subcontractor's stop notice enforcement action was timely filed nonetheless because the statute of limitations was equitably tolled while the subcontractor pursued its claim against the general contractor and a bonding company. The court of appeal affirmed, holding that the doctrine of equitable tolling can be applied to defeat a statute of limitations defense [Structural Steel Fabricators, Inc. v. City of Orange (1995) 40 Cal. App. 4th 459, 464-467, 46 Cal. Rptr. 2d 867] .

§ 481.50 Bond to Release Withheld Funds

If the original contractor or subcontractor disputes the correctness, validity, or enforceability of any stop notice, the public entity may, in its discretion, permit the original contractor to file a bond, as provided in Civ. Code § 3196, with the public entity. On the filing of such a bond, the public entity may not withhold any money or bonds (if bonds are to be issued in payment for the work of improvement) from the original contractor on account of the stop notice. The surety or sureties on such bond are jointly and severally liable to the stop notice claimant with the surety or sureties on any original contractor's payment bond furnished pursuant to Civ. Code §§ 3247-3252 [Civ. Code § 3196; for a discussion of such payment bonds, see §§ 481.70 -481.76]. For an outline of the procedures and other requirements for obtaining a bond for release of withheld funds, see the Procedural Checklists in §§ 481.210-481.216.

A stop notice release bond is considered to be "given in an action or proceeding" for purposes of Code Civ. Proc § 996.440(a) (motion to enforce liability on bond without need for independent action) and thus may be enforced by the summary procedures set forth in the Bond and Undertaking Law [Grade-Way Contruction Co. v. Golden Eagle Ins. Co. (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 826, 830-835, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 649 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 995.010 et seq.]. The summary enforcement procedure provides for a motion made after entry of final judgment in the action in which the bond is given. Judgment must be entered against the surety unless the surety files affidavits showing a triable issue of fact [see Code Civ. Proc. § 996.440].

For a discussion and forms regarding the summary procedure, see Ch. 538, Suretyship, Bonds, and Undertakings .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Withholding Payment on Public Works

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.51

§ 481.51 Summary Proceedings by Original Contractor for Determination of Stop Notice Rights

[1] Commencement of Proceedings

If the original contractor asserts that (1) the claim on which the stop notice is based is not included within the types or classifications of claims referred to in Civ. Code §§ 3196-3205 (release of stop notice), (2) the claimant is not one of the persons named in Civ. Code § 3181 [see § 481.45], (3) the amount of the claim as specified in the stop notice is excessive, or (4) there is no basis in law for the claim as referred to andset out in the stop notice, he or she may have the question determined in a summary proceedings in accordance with the provisions of Civ. Code §§ 3198-3205 [Civ. Code § 3197]. The original contractor may also commence such proceedings to decrease the amount of the bond after it has filed a surety bond with the public entity, as provided in Civ. Code § 3196, and obtained the release of money withheld pursuant to the claimant's stop notice [see Jasper Constr., Inc. v. University Casework Sys., Inc. (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 582, 584, 114 Cal. Rptr. 143] .

[2] Service of Affidavit on Public Entity

To contest the validity or amount of the claim, as provided in Civ. Code § 3197, the original contractor must serve an affidavit and a copy thereof on the public entity, as provided in Civ. Code § 3198, alleging the legal grounds on which he or she bases his or her claim and the facts in support thereof, and demanding the release of all or such portion of the money or bonds as is allegedly withheld improperly or in an excessive amount [Civ. Code § 3198].

[3] Service of Affidavit on Claimant

On receipt of the general contractor's affidavit, the public entity must serve on the claimant, as provided in Civ. Code § 3199, a copy of the affidavit and the demand for release together with a written notice stating that the public entity will release such money or bonds, or such portion of either as has been demanded, unless the claimant files with the public entity a counteraffidavit on or before the time designated in the notice [Civ. Code § 3199].

[4] Counteraffidavit by Claimant

If the claimant desires to contest the original contractor's affidavit and demand for release, he or she must, within the time allowed under Civ. Code § 3198, serve on the public entity a counteraffidavit alleging the details of his or her claim and rebutting the allegations of the original contractor's affidavit as provided in Civ. Code § 3200. If no such counteraffidavit is served on the public entity within the time allowed, then the public entity must forthwith release the money or bonds, or such portion thereof as has been demanded by such affidavit, without further notice to the claimant [Civ. Code § 3200]. For a more detailed outline of the procedures an original contractor must follow to obtain a release of withheld funds under Civ. Code § 3200, see the Procedural Checklists in §§ 481.230-481.233.

The public entity is neither responsible for the validity of the affidavit or counteraffidavit nor liable in any manner for making such release [Civ. Code § 3200].

[5] Action for Declaration of Rights of Respective Parties

[a] Commencement of Action

If the claimant has served a counteraffidavit on the public entity, as provided in Civ. Code § 3200, together with proof of service, either the original contractor or the claimant may file an action in the appropriate superior court for a declaration of the respective rights of the parties [Civ. Code § 3201].

The Civil Code does not specify in what manner the action must be commenced. Although the manner in which an original contractor may dispute a stop notice under Civ. Code §§ 3197-3205 is termed a "summary proceeding" in Civ. Code § 3197 and, in addition Civ. Code § 3202 (as discussed below) provides that the affidavit and counteraffidavit constitute the pleadings for the purpose of hearing the matter after either party has moved the court for such a hearing following the filing of the action, it would appear that Civ. Code § 3201 nevertheless contemplates that the original contractor or claimant file a complaint, or perhaps a petition [see § 481.337], for a declaration of the rights of the respective parties. However, in lieu of a complaint or petition, local court practice has permitted counsel to file an order to show cause why a hearing should not be granted and why the court should not determine the respective rights of the parties to the funds withheld by the public agency pursuant to the claimant's stop notice.

An order to show cause, or even a noticed motion, is a possible alternative for counsel if an action has already been commenced by the claimant to enforce payment of the claim stated in the stop notice since, in such a case, the court would already have had jurisdiction over the parties to the summary proceeding. However, particularly if no action has been filed to enforce the claim stated in the stop notice, the filing of an order to show cause is not recommended since Civ. Code § 3201 clearly requires an action be filed by the original contractor or claimant before either party may request a hearing on the matter. In any case, counsel should determine whether there is any particular local court practice before proceeding to file an action for declaration of the rights of the respective parties under Civ. Code § 3201.

[b] Hearing to Determine Rights of Respective Parties

After filing an action for a declaration of the respective rights of the parties under Civ. Code § 3201, either the original contractor or the claimant is entitled to a hearing by the court for the purpose of determining his or her rights under the affidavit and demand for release and the counteraffidavit. Such hearing must be granted by the court within 15 days from the date of making such motion, unless continued by the court for good cause. The party making the motion for hearing must give not less than five days'notice in writing of such hearing to the public entity and to the other party [Civ. Code § 3201].

At the hearing the original contractor has the burden of proof. The affidavit and counteraffidavit are filed with the court by the public entity and constitute the pleadings, subject to the power of the court to permit an amendment in the interest of justice. The affidavit of the original contractor is deemed controverted by the counteraffidavit, and both are received in evidence [Civ. Code § 3202].

[a] Determination of Rights

Nothing contained in Civ. Code §§ 3197-3205 governing summary proceedings for a declaration of rights of the respective parties concerning a claim stated in a stop notice may be construed to deprive any party of the right to a trial by jury in any case where such right is given by the California Constitution. However, a jury trial may be waived in the same manner as in the trial of an action [Civ. Code § 3204].

When the hearing is before the court sitting without a jury and no evidence other than the affidavit and counteraffidavit is offered, if the court is satisfied that sufficient facts are shown thereby, it may make its determination thereon [Civ. Code § 3203]. However, the manner in which the court makes it determination is not restricted in the same manner as it would be at the hearing on a motion for summary judgment. That is, the court is not foreclosed from making a conclusive determination of the rights of the parties when the allegations of the counteraffidavit effectively controvert the allegations of the affidavit of the original contractor. Instead, the court may order the hearing continued for the production of other evidence, oral or documentary, or the filing of other affidavits and counteraffidavits [Civ. Code § 3203]. In addition, local court practice may permit such evidence to be produced without requiring the matter be continued.

At the conclusion of the hearing, the court must make and enter its order determining whether or not the demand for release should be allowed. No findings are required [Civ. Code § 3203]. When the original contractor's affidavit asserts that the amount of the claim specified in the stop notice is excessive, the court may enter its order releasing such portion of the money or bonds withheld pursuant to the stop notice as it determines was withheld improperly or in an excessive amount [see University Casework Sys., Inc. v. Superior Court (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 263, 265-267, 115 Cal. Rptr. 836] .

[b] Appeal From Order

The statutes governing the summary proceedings to release or decrease the amount of claim demanded in the stop notice make no provision for appellate review of an order entered in such a summary proceeding, and such review is not permitted both because the order is not a judgment and because of the delays which necessarily accompany the prosecution of such an appeal [see Jasper Constr., Inc. v. University Casework Sys., Inc. (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 582, 584, 586-587, 114 Cal. Rptr. 143] . However, a writ of review, as provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1067-1077, is an appropriate means to review such an order [University Casework Sys., Inc. v. Superior Court (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 263, 265, 115 Cal. Rptr. 836] .

[c] Effect of Order

An order determining whether or not the demand for release should be allowed, as provided in Civ. Code § 3203, also determines the right of the claimant to have the money or bonds further withheld by the public entity [Civ. Code § 3203]. However, no determination in the summary proceeding is res judicata with regard to any right of action by the claimant against either the principal or surety on any labor or material bond or with regard to any right of action against any party personally liable to the claimant [Civ. Code § 3205].

For a detailed outline of the summary proceedings to determine the rights of the parties to withheld funds, see the Procedural Checklists in §§ 481.250-481.253.

Scope

NOTE:

SB 189, which was introduced in February 2009 as a two-year bill, would comprehensively revise, reorganize, and consolidate the law governing stop notices and payment bonds on public works projects in the Public Contract Code. The proposed legislation is the product of a recommendation of the California Law Revision Commission, which may be consulted at http://www.clrc.ca.gov/pub/Printed-Reports/REC-H821.pdf. The legislation would be operative January 1, 2011. If SB 189 is enacted, this chapter will be updated in a future release.

§ 481.70 Governing Statutes

Payment bonds are defined in Civ. Code § 3096. Provisions relating to bonds in general are contained in Civ. Code §§ 3225-3228. Actions on payment bonds which are required from an original contractor on certain public works are governed by Civ. Code §§ 3247-3252 and Pub. Contract Code § 7103.

These code provisions are expressly made applicable to the Municipal Improvement Act of 1913 set forth in Sts. & Hy. Code § 10000 et seq. [see Pub. Contract Code § 20496]. However, these sections are expressly made inapplicable to the Improvement Act of 1911 set forth in Pub. Contract Code § 20457 et seq. [see Pub. Contract Code § 20461]. The provisions of the Improvement Act of 1911 for a labor and material bond are contained in the Public Contracts Code [see Pub. Contract Code §§ 20457-20464]. This chapter does not cover these bond provisions and counsel is referred to Pub. Contract Code § 20457 et seq. for the statutory provisions for a labor and material bond under the Improvement Act of 1911.

Chapter 481 PUBLIC WORKS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Payment Bonds

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.71

§ 481.71 Payment Bonds

[1] Defined

A payment bond is a bond with good and sufficient sureties that is conditioned for the payment in full of any claimant and which also by its terms is made to inure to the benefit of all such claimants so as to give these persons a right of action to recover on the bond [Civ. Code § 3096].

[2] Performance Bond Distinguished

A performance bond is an undertaking furnished by a contractor for the faithful performance of the contract by the contractor guaranteeing that the work undertaken will be done according to the terms of the contract [see Gordy v. United Pacific Ins. Group (1966) 243 Cal. App. 2d 445, 448, 52 Cal. Rptr. 438] . In contrast, the payment bond guarantees the satisfaction of the obligations of all claimants who have furnished labor or materials to a work of improvement [see Civ. Code § 3096; Gordy v. United Pacific Ins. Group (1966) 243 Cal. App. 2d 445, 448-449, 52 Cal. Rptr. 438] . If the bond by its terms guarantees performance by the contractor and payment by the contractor of all obligations for material, equipment, and labor required in the work contracted for, the bond is both a performance and a payment bond [Gordy v. United Pacific Ins. Group (1966) 243 Cal. App. 2d 445, 448-449, 52 Cal. Rptr. 438] .

[3] Construction

Any payment bond is construed most strongly against the surety and in favor of all persons for whose benefit the bond is given [Civ. Code § 3226].

[4] Sole Condition of Recovery

The sole condition of recovery on any payment bond for any claimant is that the claimant has not been paid the full amount of his or her claim [Civ. Code § 3226]. In substance, the surety on a payment bond guarantees the integrity and solvency of the contractor. The inefficiency of the claimant, such as the failure to require a contractor to authorize the claimant to retain an owner's check in payment of the contractor's indebtedness to him or her, is considered a risk incident to the surety's undertaking and does not relieve him or her of liability [Ferry v. Ohio Farmers Ins. Co. (1963) 211 Cal. App. 2d 651, 659, 27 Cal. Rptr. 471] . Under no circumstances is a surety released from liability to a claimant by reason of a breach of contract between the owner and original contractor [Civ. Code § 3226].

[5] Exoneration or Release of Sureties

The surety or sureties on any payment bond may not be exonerated or released from the obligation of the bond by any of the following: (1) changes, alterations, or modifications in or of any contract, plans, specifications, or agreement pertaining or relating to the furnishing of labor, materials, or equipment therefor; (2) changes or modifications of any terms of payment or extension of the time for any payment pertaining or relating to any scheme or work of improvement; (3) a rescission or attempted rescission of any contract, agreement, or bond; (4) conditions precedent or subsequent in the bond attempting to limit the right of recovery of claimants otherwise entitled to recover under any contract, agreement, or bond; and (5) any fraud practiced by any person other than the claimant seeking to recover on the bond where the bond is given for the benefit of the claimants [Civ. Code § 3225].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Payment Bonds

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.72

§ 481.72 When Payment Bond Required

Every original contractor to whom a public works contract in excess of $25,000 is awarded by a public entity, except as provided in Pub. Contract Code § 7103(d) (discussed below), must file a bond with the officer or public entity by whom the contract was awarded [Civ. Code § 3247(a)]. The bond must be in a sum not less than 100 percent of the total amount payable under the terms of the contract [Civ. Code § 3248(a)]. The bond must be executed by an admitted surety insurer [Code Civ. Proc. § 995.311(a)]. The public agency approving the bond has a duty to verify the admitted surety status of the party executing the bond. The agency may fulfill this duty by either [Code Civ. Proc. § 995.311(b)]:

- Printing out information from the Department of Insurance website confirming that the surety is an admitted surety insurer and attaching that information to the bond; or

- Obtaining a certificate from the county clerk confirming that the surety is an admitted insurer and attaching the certificate to the bond.

The bond must provide that if the contractor or his or her subcontractor fails to pay any of the persons named in Civ. Code § 3181 (persons entitled to serve stop notices) or amounts due under the Unemployment Insurance Code with respect to work or labor performed under the contract, the sureties will pay for the same to the extent specified in the bond and, if suit is brought on the bond, a reasonable attorney's fee to be fixed by the court [Civ. Code § 3248(b)].

Every original contractor to whom a public works contract in excess of $25,000 is awarded by a state entity is also required to file a bond with the officer or public entity by whom the contract was awarded. The bond must be in a sum not less than 100 percent of the total amount payable by the terms of the contract [Pub. Contract Code § 7103(a)]. In this context, "state entity" means every state office, department, division, bureau, board, or commission, but does not include the Legislature, the courts, any agency in the judicial branch of government, or the University of California. All other public entities are governed by Civ. Code § 3247 [Pub. Contract Code § 7103(d)].

The bond must be approved by the officer or body or state entity by whom the contract was awarded. Before approving the bond, the public entity must determine that the surety is a sufficient admitted surety insurer; a public entity that fails to investigate may be liable for breach of a mandatory duty [Walt Rankin & Associates, Inc. v. City of Murietta (2000) 84 Cal. App. 4th 605, 624, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 48 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 995.311(a)]. Additionally, the public or the state entity must state, in its call for bids for a contract, that a payment bond is required in the case of expenditures in excess of $25,000 [Civ. Code § 3247(a); Pub. Contract Code § 7103(a)]. A payment bond filed and approved in accordance with Civ. Code § 3247 or Pub. Contract Code § 7103 is sufficient to enter on the performance of work undera duly authorized contract that supplements the contract for which the bond was filed, if the requirement of a new bond is waived by the public or the state entity [Civ. Code § 3247(b); Pub. Contract Code § 7103(b)].

Approval of a payment bond must be carried out in conjunction with the provisions of the Bond and Undertaking Law [Code Civ. Proc. § 995.010 et seq.], which imposes a mandatory duty on the public entity to investigate the sufficiency of a proposed surety [see Walt Rankin & Associates, Inc. v. City of Murrieta (2000) 84 Cal. App. 4th 605-622, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 48 (city was liable to unpaid subcontractor when city failed to investigate bogus surety that defaulted on payment bond); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 995.311].

Providers of architectural, engineering, and land surveying services pursuant to a contract with a public or a state entity for any public work are not original contractors within the meaning of Civ. Code § 3247 and Pub. Contract Code § 7103, and are not required to post or file the payment bond required thereunder [Civ. Code § 3247(c); Pub. Contract Code § 7103(c)]. Public utilities are not public entities within the meaning of Civ. Code § 3247, and therefore a contractor contracting with a public utility also is not required to post a public works bond [Automatic Sprinkler Corp. v. Southern Cal. Edison (1989) 216 Cal. App. 3d 627, 631-633, 266 Cal. Rptr. 662] .

C. Payment Bonds

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.73

§ 481.73 Purpose of Requiring Payment Bond

The purpose of a public works contractor's payment bond is to give materialmen and laborers who furnish materials for and render services on public works an additional means of receiving compensation [Consolidated Elec. Distributors, Inc. v. Kirkham, Chaon & Kirkham, Inc. (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 54, 60, 95 Cal. Rptr. 673] . The provisions governing payment bonds for public works thus create a fund in lieu of the building or other work of improvement itself against which such materialmen and laborers might proceed as an additional and contemporaneous remedy to actions on their contracts or on claims stated in stop notices [Powers Regulator Co. v. Seaboard Surety Co. (1962) 204 Cal. App. 2d 338, 345,22 Cal. Rptr. 373 ; Pneucrete Corp. v. U.S. Fid. & G. Co. (1935) 7 Cal. App. 2d 733, 737, 46 P.2d 1000 ; see Civ. Code § 3250].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Payment Bonds

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.74

§ 481.74 Action on Payment Bond

[1] In General

An action against the sureties on the payment bond may be brought by any claimant, or his or her assignee, at any time after the claimant has ceased his or her performance, and before the expiration of six months after the period in which stop notices may be filed under Civ. Code § 3184 [Civ. Code § 3249]. Under Civ. Code § 3184, a stop notice must be served before the expiration of (1) 30 days after the recording of a notice of completion or notice of cessation, if such a notice is recorded, or (2) 90 days after completion or cessation, if no notice of completion or notice of cessation is recorded [Civ. Code § 3184; see W.F. Hayward Co. v. Transamerica Ins. Co. (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 1101, 1106-1110, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 468 (30-day cessation of labor on public work of improvement constituted "completion" of project under Civ. Code §§ 3086, 3184, and commenced running of 90-day stop notice period)].

It should be noted, however, that the filing of a stop notice with the public entity is not a condition precedent to the maintenance of an action against the sureties on the payment bond [Civ. Code § 3250]. Moreover, the action on the payment bond is not in any sense based on the personal liability of the contractor. The bond creates a direct obligation and affords a right of action against the principal and the surety. Hence, because the action is based on the obligation of the bond, the bond provides a separate and distinct and statutory remedy which is enforceable without reference to any contract between the contractor and materialman or laborer [Powers Regulator Co. v. Seaboard Surety Co. (1962) 204 Cal. App. 2d 338, 345, 22 Cal. Rptr. 373 ; Pneucrete Corp. v. U.S. Fid. & G. Co. (1935) 7 Cal. App. 2d 733, 738, 46 P.2d 1000] .

The prevailing party in the action on the payment bond may be awarded a reasonable attorney's fee to be taxed as costs [Civ. Code § 3250]. Costs may be awarded even if the prevailing party prevails on technical grounds, rather than on the merits [Winick Corp. v. Safeco Insurance Co. (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1502, 1507-1508, 232 Cal. Rptr. 479] .

[2] Giving of Notice Is Prerequisite

To enforce a claim on any payment bond given in connection with a public work, a claimant who is not exempted by Civ. Code § 3098(a) must give either a 20-day preliminary notice as provided in Civ. Code § 3098 or a post-completion bond notice as provided in Civ. Code § 3252(b) [Civ. Code § 3252]. For a form and outline of requirements for giving a 20-day preliminary notice, see §§ 481.170 -481.174 (checklist), 481.330 (form).For an outline of the requirements for giving a post-completion bond notice and other procedural requirements for bringing an action on a contractor's payment bond, see §§ 481.290 -481.294.

Chapter 481 PUBLIC WORKS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Payment Bonds

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.75

§ 481.75 Indemnification Agreement

When an original contractor obtains a payment bond, the bonding company generally requires him or her to sign an agreement providing that the contractor will indemnify the bonding company against any loss it might suffer. In many situations a bonding company will have to pay claims only if the original contractor is liable to the claimant. However, a material and labor bond is a primary and direct obligation to materialmen and laborers without regard to the original contract. Even though an original contractor owes nothing to suppliers of his or her subcontractor, the bonding company is obligated under the statutorily required bond to pay the claims of unpaid suppliers to a subcontractor. A release by a supplier to a subcontractor of any claims against the original contractor is not effective to release the bonding company [see Bonded Prod. Co. v. R.C. Gallyon Constr. Co., Inc. (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 186, 190-191, 39 Cal. Rptr. 347 ; Powers Regulator Co. v. Seaboard Surety Co. (1962) 204 Cal. App. 2d 338, 345-347, 22 Cal. Rptr. 373] .

For the above reasons, an original contractor will assume, in practice, the obligation of paying claims of suppliers to his or her subcontractors unless these suppliers release all obligations of the bonding company to them before progress payments are made by the original contractor to his or her subcontractors.

The original contractor may require a subcontractor to furnish a bond to indemnify the original contractor for any loss he or she might sustain as a result of a subcontractor's default under Civ. Code § 3248 [Civ. Code § 3248(b)]. If the prime contractor requests that the subcontractor furnish a bond or bonds issued by an admitted surety at the prime contractor's expense, with the prime contractor as obligee, and the subcontractor fails to do so, the prime contractor may reject the bid and substitute another subcontractor subject to Pub. Contract Code § 4107 (substitution restrictions). The subcontractor must obtain a bond at its own expense only if the prime contractor in the written or published request for subbids specifies that the subcontractor must bear the expense, and clearly specifies the amount and requirements of the bond or bonds [Pub. Contract Code § 4108].

§ 481.91 Decisions

[1] Classification of License

Bus. & Prof. Code § 7059(b) allows agencies to specify that only designated license categories will be permitted to bid on project. M&B Construction v. Yuba County Water Agency (1999) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1353, 1361, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 231

[2] Compliance With Bidding Requirements

Project stabilization agreement entered into between airports commission and union trade council for airport expansion project, under which contractors were required to use union hiring hall for any new hires needed beyond their own core workforce and to pay union wages and benefits, was consistent with state and local competitive bidding law. Associated Builders & Contractors, Inc. v. San Francisco Airports Com. (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 352, 365, 981 P.2d 499

Competitive bidding required even though cost of public work is not to be paid out of public funds but rather from funds collected by person or company with whom or which public entity contracted for work performed. East Bay Garbage Co. v. Washington Township Sanitation Co. (1959) 52 Cal. 2d 708, 713, 344 P.2d 289

Lease of public land requires compliance with bidding requirements. Boydston v. Napa Sanitation Dist. (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1362, 1366-1368, 272 Cal. Rptr. 458

Fact that no contract was involved in city public project did not permit city to avoid competitive bidding requirements when project otherwise met conditions of former Gov. Code § 37902 (now see Pub. Contract Code § 20162). Killeen v. San Bruno (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 479, 482, 128 Cal. Rptr. 760

[3] Consideration of Bids by Awarding Authority

[a] Duty to Award Contract to Lowest Responsible Bidder

Pub. Contract Code § 10115 et seq., requiring state departments to award contracts to "lowest responsible bidder meeting or making good faith efforts to meet" minority, women, and disabled business enterprise goals, is invalid as unconstitutional violation of equal protection principles. Monterey Mechanical Co. v. Wilson (9th Cir. 1997) 125 F.3d 702, 714-715 ; Barlow v. Davis (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 1258, 1267, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 752

Duty to award contract to lowest responsible bidder imposed by city charter not in conflict with subcontractor outreach program that required prime contractors to provide minority, women's, and other business enterprises equal opportunity to compete for and participate in performance of city contracts. Domar Electric, Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (1994) 9 Cal. 4th 161, 173-174, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 521, 885 P.2d 934

Contract must be awarded to lowest bidder unless it is found that he or she is not responsible, i.e., not qualified to do particular work under consideration. Inglewood-L.A. County Civic Center Auth. v. Superior Court (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 861, 867, 103 Cal. Rptr. 689, 500 P.2d 601

When public entity does not comply with requirement that contract be awarded to lowest responsible bidder, award must be set aside. Inglewood-L.A. County Civic Center Auth. v. Superior Court (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 861, 870, 103 Cal. Rptr. 689, 500 P.2d 601

Word "responsible" in context of statute requiring award to lowest responsible bidder does not refer solely to attribute of trustworthiness, but also refers to quality, fitness, and capacity of low bidder to perform proposed work satisfactorily. Inglewood-L.A. County Civic Center Auth. v. Superior Court (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 861, 867, 103 Cal. Rptr. 689, 500 P.2d 601

Although due process did require quasi-judicial proceeding prior to rejection of low monetary bidder as nonresponsible bidder, public entity was required to notify that bidder of any evidence reflecting on his or her responsibility received from others or adduced as result of independent investigation, afford him or her opportunity to rebut any adverse evidence, and permit him or her to present evidence that he or she was qualified to perform contract. City of Inglewood-L.A. County Civic Center Auth. v. Superior Court (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 861, 871, 103 Cal. Rptr. 689, 500 P.2d 601

City's subcontractor outreach program, which required evaluation of bidders' good faith in conducting outreach efforts with regard to minority and women-owned businesses, did not violate equal protection even though program referred to expected level of minority and women-owned business participation. Domar Electric, Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (1995) 41 Cal. App. 4th 810, 825-827, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 822

Failure of Legislature to enact explicit lowest bidder requirement in connection with construction projects of county water districts funded by authority of Revenue Bond Law of 1941, Gov. Code § 54300 et seq., precludes courts from imposing such requirement. Associated Builders & Contractors v. Contra Costa Water Dist. (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 466, 469-471, 43 Cal. Rptr. 2d 600

Fact that bid was not signed on signature line did not preclude award of contract when bid was signed elsewhere and bond was signed. Menefee v. County of Fresno (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 1175, 1178-1180, 210 Cal. Rptr. 99

Public entity's promise in its solicitation of bids to award contract to lowest responsible bidder and bidder's reasonable and detrimental reliance on this promise permit bidder to bring action for breach of contract based on promissory estoppel when public entity did not award contract to lowest responsible bidder. Swinerton & Walberg Co. v. City of Inglewood-L.A. County Civic Center Auth. (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 98, 104-105, 114 Cal. Rptr. 834

Misaward of public works contract to one other than lowest responsible bidder constituted only abuse of discretion by awarding entity in determining identity of such bidder and therefore making of misaward came within discretionary immunity to tort liability established by Gov. Code §§ 815, 815.2(b), and 820.2. Swinerton & Walberg Co. v. City of Inglewood-L.A. County Civic Center Auth. (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 98, 101, 114 Cal. Rptr. 834 ; Rubino v. Lolli (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 1059, 1063-1064, 89 Cal. Rptr. 320

Allegations in cause of action to effect that successful bidder and public entity conspired to make misaward of contract in question to one other than lowest responsible bidder was sufficient to constitute cause of action for conspiracy by unsuccessful bidder. Swinerton & Walberg Co. v. City of Inglewood-L.A. County Civic Center Auth. (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 98, 106, 114 Cal. Rptr. 834

[b] Rejection of Bids Not in Best Interest of Public

Mandamus was not permitted to lie to force award of contract to lowest bidder for printing form under advertisement for bids when advertisement statedthat board reserved right to reject any and all bids if public good so required. Stanley-Taylor Co. v. Supervisors (1902) 135 Cal. 486, 488, 67 P. 783

State's request for prototype did not create implied promise that it would award contract to lowest bidder because such implication would render right of rejection meaningless when prototype is found not to be in best interests of state. Pacific Architects Collaborative v. State of California (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 110, 124, 166 Cal. Rptr. 184

Competitive bidding statutes were not passed for benefit of bidders but for benefit and protection of public. Universal By-Products, Inc. v. City of Modesto (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 145, 152, 117 Cal. Rptr. 525 ; Rubino v. Lolli (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 1059, 1062, 89 Cal. Rptr. 320

Until such time as bid is accepted, no contractual relationship exists between bidder and entity. Universal By-Products, Inc. v. City of Modesto (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 145, 155, 117 Cal. Rptr. 525

Public entity's implied representation of existing intent to consider bids in good faith does not imply promise that thereafter it would consider bids before rejecting them when public entity is permitted to reject any and all bids. Universal By-Products, Inc. v. City of Modesto (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 145, 156, 117 Cal. Rptr. 525

[c] Relief of Unsuccessful Bidder

Unsuccessful lowest responsible bidder may recover bid preparation costs, but may not recover lost profits, under theory of promissory estoppel. Kajima/Ray Wilson v. Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transportation Auth. (2000) 23 Cal. 4th 305, 316, 96 Cal. Rptr. 2d 747, 1 P.3d 63

Unsuccessful bidder who seeks to compel public agency to set aside award of contract to successful bidder on ground that agency had abused its discretion in making award has no legally cognizable cause or complaint, even if agency did err in exercising its discretion, if, after setting aside award, bidders would have no necessary right to rebid on competitive basis. Old Town Dev. Corp. v. Urban Renewal Agency (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 313, 331-332, 57 Cal. Rptr. 426

Awarding of contract by public official pursuant to specifications that are illegal and invalid and that fail to provide for full and fair competitive bidding, is abuse of discretion that may be corrected by mandamus. Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton Corp. v. Superior Court (1962) 208 Cal. App. 2d 803, 823, 25 Cal. Rptr. 798

[4] Failure to Comply With Competitive Bidding Requirements

Ordinarily, compliance with terms of statute requiring letting of certain contract by public agency such as municipal corporation or county by competitive bidding and advertising for bids is mandatory with respect to those contracts coming within terms of statute; contract made without compliance with statute is void and unenforceable because it is in excess of agency's power. Miller v. Mckinnon (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 83, 87-88, 124 P.2d 34

Persons dealing with public agency are presumed to know law with respect to requirement of competitive bidding and to act at their peril. Miller v. McKinnon (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 83, 89, 124 P.2d 34

Right of action exists to recover moneys paid to contractor for work and materials furnished public agency when they were furnished in contravention of statute requiring competitive bidding. Miller v. McKinnon (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 83, 89, 124 P.2d 34

Fact that public district or body has received benefit of labor and materials furnished under contract void by reason of failure of district or body to comply with competitive bidding statutes does not entitle contractor to recover on an action in quantum meruit. Reams v. Cooley (1915) 171 Cal. 150, 151-157, 152 P. 293

Because enabling legislation was silent as to competitive bidding requirements, local service authority for freeway emergencies authorized by Sts. & Hy. Code § 2550 was not required to apply competitive bidding principles in awarding contract for emergency call box system; legislature's failure to specifically exempt service authorities from competitive bidding requirements did not indicate intent to subject them to these requirements. San Diego Service Authority for Freeway Emergencies v. Superior Court (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1466, 1468-1470, 244 Cal. Rptr. 440

Neither doctrine of estoppel nor any other equitable principle may be invoked against governmental body when it would operate to defeat effective operation of policy adopted to protect public. Paterson v. Board of Trustees (1958) 157 Cal. App. 2d 811, 819, 321 P.2d 825

[5] Fair Practices Act

Fair Practices Act (Pub. Contract Code § 4100 et seq.) as addressed to efficient and economical supervision of public works projects and is not solely, or even primarily, for protection of private interests; purpose of act is to ensure that contracting authority has opportunity to investigate and approve any subcontractor who is proposed to work on project. R.M. Sherman Co. v. W.R. Thomason, Inc. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 559, 566, 236 Cal. Rptr. 577

[6] Judicial Exceptions to Bidding Requirement

Use of own employees by municipality is not necessarily implied exception to competitive bidding requirements of former Gov. Code § 37902 (now see Pub. Contract Code § 20162) (requirement of competitive bidding by city). Killeen v. San Bruno (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 479, 483, 128 Cal. Rptr. 760

[a] Contracts Relating to "Municipal Affairs"

State general bidding procedures does not bind chartered cities when subject matter of bid constitutes municipal affair; thus, award of contract for refreshment stands in city park, which is matter of municipal concern, is controlled by local rather than state legislation. R & A Vending Services, Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 1188, 1192, 218 Cal. Rptr. 667

Contract by city for repairs is "municipal affair" and thus is not subject to state law bidding requirements. Piledrivers' Local Union v. City of Santa Monica (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 509, 512-514, 198 Cal. Rptr. 731

Decision whether work for extension or development of city public utilities must be done by contract on competitive bidding or by city forces is municipal affair. Smith v. Riverside (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 529, 537, 110 Cal. Rptr. 67

Whether work for extension or development of city public utilities must be done by contract on competitive bidding or by city forces is municipal affair when municipal activity at issue is not distribution of electricity and water but mode chosen to build and extend distribution facilities. Smith v. Riverside (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 529, 536-537, 110 Cal. Rptr. 67

[b] Employment of Skilled Professionals

Management contractor who performs services and lends his or her experience and expertise in preparation of final plans, and who in this respect may be likened to engineer or architect, is permitted to perform these services procured without strict compliance with competitive bidding requirements. Inglewood-L.A. County Civic Center Auth. v. Superior Court (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 861, 866, 103 Cal. Rptr. 689, 500 P.2d 601

Employment of person who is highly and technically skilled in his or her science or profession is one that may properly be made without competitive bidding. City & County of San Francisco v. Boyd (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 606, 620, 110 P.2d 1036 (civil engineer); Cobb v. Pasadena City Bd. of Educ. (1955) 134 Cal. App. 2d 93, 95, 285 P.2d 41 (architect)

[c] Failure Generally to Serve Purposes of Bidding Statutes

County must comply with competitive bidding requirements when obligations of management contractor, who differs from traditional contractor in fact that he or she lends his or her experience and expertise in preparation of working drawings for public project, is sufficiently similar to obligations of contractor bidding on final working drawings. Inglewood-L.A. County Civic Center Auth. v. Superior Court (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 861, 866, 103 Cal. Rptr. 689, 500 P.2d 601

[d] Undesirability or Impossibility of Advertising for Bids

Exception to requirement of competitive bidding is founded on undesirability or impossibility of advertising for bids for particular work, such as when contractor who is awarded contract is only party capable of entering into particular agreement. Kennedy v. Ross (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 569, 581, 170 P.2d 904 ; Los Angeles Dredging Co. v. Long Beach (1930) 210 Cal. 348, 354, 355, 291 P. 839 ; Riverside County v. Whitlock (1972) 22 Cal. App. 3d 863, 878, 99 Cal. Rptr. 710

[7] Law Governing Construction of Public Contracts

[a] Interpretation Generally

No special rules govern interpretation of public contract simply because governmental body is party to contract. M.F. Kemper Constr. Co. v. Los Angeles (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 696, 704, 235 P.2d 7

Contract includes implied provisions necessary to effectuate intention of parties. Tonkin Construction Co. v. County of Humboldt (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 828, 831, 233 Cal. Rptr. 587

Contract between governmental body and private individual is ordinarily subject to same rules of construction as contract between private individuals. Tonkin Construction Co. v. County of Humboldt (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 828, 831, 233 Cal. Rptr. 587 ; Trimont Land Co. v. Truckee Sanitary District (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 330, 355, 193 Cal. Rptr. 568 ; Hawley v. Orange County Flood Control Dist. (1963) 211 Cal. App. 2d 708, 713, 27 Cal. Rptr. 478 ; Oberg v. Los Angeles (1955) 132 Cal. App. 2d 151, 158, 281 P.2d 591

[b] Rules Governing Incorporation of Plans and Specifications

Absent contract provision explicitly disclaiming responsibility of public body for accuracy of contested information, general disclaimer of warranty was insufficient to absolve public body of responsibility for positive and material misrepresentations in plans, on which contractor had right to rely. Tonkin Construction Co. v. County of Humboldt (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 828, 834, 233 Cal. Rptr. 587 ; Wunderlich v. State of California (1967) 65 Cal. 2d 777, 783, 56 Cal. Rptr. 473, 423 P.2d 545

Although contract must be construed with respect to plans and specifications incorporated by reference, plan of work is subsidiary to contract and latter is controlling in case of discrepancy; when language thereof will permit, specifications are to be construed so as to uphold validity of contract. Oberg v. Los Angeles (1955) 132 Cal. App. 2d 151, 159, 281 P.2d 591

When municipal contracts are required to be let on public bidding, proposals and specifications inviting such bids must be sufficiently detailed, definite, and precise so as to provide basis for full and fair competitive bidding on common standard and, in addition, must be free of any restrictions tending to stifle competition. Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton Corp. v. Superior Court (1962) 208 Cal. App. 2d 803, 821, 25 Cal. Rptr. 798

[8] Making of Award Gives Rise to Contract

When legislative body or administrative officer is required by statute to call for bids in letting of contracts for doing of public works and must let contract to lowest responsible bidder, making of award gives rise to contract between public body or agent and successful bidder. Susanville v. Lee C. Hess Co. (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 684, 694, 290 P.2d 520 ; M.F. Kemper Constr. Co. v. Los Angeles (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 696, 700, 235 P.2d 7

Although municipal corporation has discretion as to time and manner of making corporate improvements and purchase of supplies, when this discretion has been exercised, and contract made relative thereto, legislativefunction has been exhausted, and contract so made is not permitted to be impaired at option of municipality. Susanville v. Lee C. Hess Co. (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 684, 695, 290 P.2d 520

Contract was awarded when San Francisco Public Utilities Commission approved bid and awarded contract by resolution; municipal code section requiring department head's signature on contract and instructing department head to "let" contracts for public works in excess of $50,000 to "lowest reliable and responsible bidder" did not give PUC department head discretionary authority to rescind contract. Transdyn/Cresci, JV v. City and County of San Francisco (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 746, 757, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 512

Although failure to let contract in mode prescribed by statute would not defeat claim for restitution by public entity against successful bidder for payments received under contract, where any other action is taken by entity to award contract in manner prescribed by statute, award gives rise to contract between entity and bidder. Greer v. Hitchcock (1969) 271 Cal. App. 2d 334, 337, 76 Cal. Rptr. 376

[9] Miscellaneous Contractual Provisions

General contractor could recover damages arising out of delays attributable to municipality's failure to disclose known restrictions on project performance, to obtain necessary permits, and to provide timely access to project site, notwithstanding clause in contract precluding award of delay damages. Howard Contracting, Inc. v. G.A. MacDonald Construction Co. (1999) 71 Cal. App. 4th 38, 44, 83 Cal. Rptr. 2d 590

Fact that public entity occupied unfinished building did not preclude award of liquidated damages for delay in completing construction. Vrgora v. Los Angeles Unified School Dist. (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 1178, 1186-1188, 200 Cal. Rptr. 130

Liquidated damages for delay clause in public works was valid because damage to public from delay was unascertainable. Westinghouse Electric Corp. v. County of Los Angeles (1982) 129 Cal. App. 3d 771, 780-783, 181 Cal. Rptr. 332

Former Gov. Code § 14376 (now see Pub. Contract Code § 10226), requiring state contracts to include provisions for forfeiture of specified sum to state for delays in completion, is, in effect, legislative determination that late charges imposed on construction company by state contract are valid liquidated damages; late charge is not covered by contractual property damage liability provisions of liability insurance policy. Silva & Hill Constr. Co., Inc. v. Employers Mut. Liab. Ins. Co. (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 914, 920-926, 97 Cal. Rptr. 498

School districts have power to include in construction contracts executed by them clauses usual in that industry, including arbitration clauses. Viola, Inc. v. Santa Barbara High Sch. Dist. (1969) 276 Cal. App. 2d 425, 428, 80 Cal. Rptr. 784

Highway construction contract that incorporated standard specifications of State Division of Highways, § 9(f) thereof, providing for administrative settlement of disputed contract items by state highway engineer whose determination was declared to be conclusive and binding except in case of gross error, established nonjudicial remedy for settlement of disputed contract claims that had to be pursued to completion before recourse to courts and had impact on scope of judicial inquiry. Clack v. State of California ex rel. Dept. of Public Works (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 743, 745-748, 80 Cal. Rptr. 274

Under public works contract delay attributable to the public entity did not deprive it of liquidated damages for delays occasioned by contractor when contract contained completion date provision that specified liquidated damages to be deducted from payments due contractor in event of late completion; in such a case, no apportionment or damages, but rather apportionment of the quantum of delay in terms of time. Nomellini Constr. Co. v. State of California ex rel. Dept. of Wat. Resources (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 240, 246, 96 Cal. Rptr. 682

[10] Preparation Costs

Absent intent to defraud bidder, preparation costs for bid are not recoverable because bids are normal part of cost of doing business and are considered voluntary activity of contractor designed to secure additional business. Pacific Architects Collaborative v. State of California (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 110, 125, 166 Cal. Rptr. 184

[11] Public Entity's Remedy on Contractor's Wrongful Failure to Enter Into Contract

Public entity has power to enforce full recovery when statute or contract declares forfeiture, usually as liquidated damages. Petrovich v. Arcadia (1950) 36 Cal. 2d 78, 83, 222 P.2d 231

[12] Purpose of Competitive Bidding Requirements

Manifest policy of law under former Pol. Code § 4041.18 (now see Pub. Contract Code § 20128) requires competitive bidding when county engages in construction or repair of improvements costing more than named amount in statute; and in this respect statute is not required to be given restricted meaning or be limited to places where public assembles. Miller v. McKinnon (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 83, 93-94, 124 P.2d 34 (structures and buildings attached to rock quarry as public buildings)

Competitive offers or bids have no other object but to insure economy and exclude favoritism and corruption in furnishing labor, services, property, and materials for use of public entity. Los Angeles Dredging Co. v. Long Beach (1930) 210 Cal. 348, 353, 291 P. 839 (involving competitive bidding requirement of municipal corporation)

[13] Relief of Bidders

Municipality is without power, in absence of fraud, mutual mistake, or some other ground of rescission, to rescind contract awarded to lowest responsible bidder. Susanville v. Lee C. Hess Co. (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 684, 695, 290 P.2d 520

Relief for clerical error available only for errors in general contractor's bid, not subcontractor's bid; general contractor therefore is not required to request relief from bid as condition of holding responsible subcontractor who made clerical error in bid for subcontract. Diede Constr., Inc. v. Monterey Mech. Co. (2004) 125 Cal. App. 4th 380, 387-388, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 763

School district that deliberately failed to provide contractor information as to how to properly withdraw mistaken bid and then awarded bid to contractor was estopped from enforcing contract. Emma Corp. v. Inglewood Unified School Dist. (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 1018, 1031, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 213

Bidder who made mistake was precluded from rebidding on project under Pub. Contract Code § 4205 when rebid was on substantially same construction even though certain deferments were not in rebid. Colombo Construction Co. v. Panama Union School Dist. (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 868, 875-877, 186 Cal. Rptr. 463

Former Gov. Code §§ 4200-4208 (now see Pub. Contract Code § 5100 et seq.), governing relief from bid mistakes, were enacted to establish comprehensive statutory procedure in connection with public contracts so as to enable contractor to claim relief from bid mistake by following statutory procedures. A & A Elec., Inc. v. King (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 457, 462, 126 Cal. Rptr. 585

Former Gov. Code §§ 4200-4208 (now see Pub. Contract Code § 5100 et seq.) established exclusive procedure for relieving bidder from mistake in bid submitted to public entity listed in former Gov. Code § 4200(a) (now see Pub. Contract Code § 5100(a)); failure to comply with procedure is waiver of right to relief. A & A Elec., Inc. v. King (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 457, 463-464, 126 Cal. Rptr. 585

[14] Subletting and Subcontracting Fair Practices Act

Subcontractor listed in contractor's bid on public work had right conferred by former Gov. Code § 4107 (now see Pub. Contract Code § 4107) to perform subcontract unless statutory grounds for valid substitution existed; this right was enforceable by action for damages against prime contractor to recover benefit of bargain listed subcontractor would have realized had he or she not wrongfully been deprived of subcontract. Southern Cal. Acoustics Co. v. C.V. Holder, Inc. (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 719, 727, 79 Cal. Rptr. 319, 456 P.2d 975

Public entity's consenting to substitution of subcontractors by general contractor in violation of former Gov. Code §

4107 (now see Pub. Contract Code § 4107) gave rise to no liability on part of entity to subcontractor because there was no statute authorizing recovery of damages from it in such case. Southern Cal. Acoustics Co. v. C.V. Holder, Inc. (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 719, 727, 79 Cal. Rptr. 319, 456 P.2d 975

Subcontractor had cause of action for breach of statutory duty [Pub. Contract Code § 4107] when prime contractor listed subcontractor on bid with respect to "concrete masonry units" and "glass pavers" but did not award it the "glass paver" work; although factors raised by prime contractor indicated its intention was to list second subcontractor as subcontractor for glass pavers, those factors did not appear on face of submitted bid, and prime contractor did not correct its error within statutory time limit. R.J. Land and Associates Construction Co. v. Kiewit-Shea (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 416, 426-427, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615

Legislature has power to provide for administrative sanctions with respect to licensee who violates regulation deemed to be in public interest. Merco Constr. Engineers, Inc. v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 154, 159, 79 Cal. Rptr. 23

Prime contractor is forbidden to make substitutions in place of subcontractor designated in original bid except with consent of contracting agency after contractor's bid has been accepted; when wrongful substitution is made, substituted subcontractor is entitled to recover as damages benefit of the bargain it would have realized had it not wrongfully been deprived of subcontract. Coast Pump Associates v. Stephen Tyler Corp. (1976) 62 Cal. App. 3d 421, 424-426, 133 Cal. Rptr. 88

Although act does not specifically provide for private right of action in violation of any of its provisions, injured member of public for whose benefit act was enacted may bring action. Bay Cities Paving & Grading Inc. v. Hensel Phelps Constr. Co. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 361, 366-367, 128 Cal. Rptr. 632

Action brought on ground that prime contractor on public construction project had violated Subletting and Subcontracting Fair Practices Act by refusing to honor bid submitted by plaintiff as subcontractor. Coast Pump Associates v. Stephen Tyler Corp. (1976) 62 Cal. App. 3d 421, 423-424, 133 Cal. Rptr. 88

Doctrine of substantial compliance is applicable to requirement of Pub. Contract Code § 4107.5 that prime contractor give written notice to listed subcontractor within two days of opening of prime bid that subcontractor was listed due to inadvertent clerical error. Cal-Air v. Auburn Union School Dist. (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 655, 667-671, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 703

[15] Void Contracts

Subcontract between prime contractor and subcontractor for work on public improvement project was void under both Civ. Code §§ 1598 and 1608 because subcontractor was not identified in prime bid and had been assigned work without city's consent, in violation of Pub. Contract Code §§ 4106, 4107. R.M. Sherman Co. v. W.R. Thomason Inc. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 559, 563, 236 Cal. Rptr. 577 (acknowledging that Civ. Code §§ 1598 and 1608 are not always applied literally and, in many cases, have simply been overlooked or ignored)

California law provides no basis for exempting local public works projects financed with federal funds under Title X of the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965 from statutory competitive bidding requirements that are otherwise applicable. 59 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 242, 242-252 (1976)

Construction manager who acts in nature of overall project coordinator among various prime contractors rather than as general contractor on project and who performs no contstruction work on project may be hired without public bidding. 57 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 417, 417-421 (1974)

Contractor who has failed to file labor and material bond as required by former Gov. Code § 4200 (now see Pub. Contract Code § 5100) is not permitted to recover reasonable value of labor and materials furnished for public project. 38 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 143, 143-148 (1961)

Provisions in public works contract in event of change of plans or for doing of extra work are properly included in such contract. 11 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 33, 34 (1948)

County was not permitted to pay for painting of memorial building when competitive bidding requirements were not complied with. 10 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 187, 187-189 (1947)

Cost-plus contracts for construction of school district buildings are not permitted unless bid fixes maximum cost to district. 8 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 226, 226-228 (1946)

B. Withholding Payment on Public Works

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.111

§ 481.111 Decisions

[1] Amount Required to Be Withheld

Amount that may be claimed in stop notice and that is required to be withheld may be determined by analogy to Civ. Code § 3123 regulating similar protection afforded to suppliers under mechanics' lien law. Sunlight Elec. Supply Co. v. McKee (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 47, 50, 37 Cal. Rptr. 782

When labor or materials furnished by stop notice claimant are less than that specified in contract due to fault of original contractor, reasonable value of such labor or materials is limited to proportion of contract price reflecting amount of progress made toward completion of work. University Casework Sys., Inc. v. Superior Court (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 263, 266-267, 115 Cal. Rptr. 836

[2] Construction of Public Stop Notice Provisions

Transmittal and notice requirements of Civ. Code §§ 3098 and 3091 are strictly construed. San Joaquin Blocklite, Inc. v. Willden (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 361, 366, 368, 228 Cal. Rptr. 842

Provisions governing mechanics' lien law, including provisions governing stop notices for public works of improvement, are remedial in character and must be construed with view to effect their objects and to promote justice. Sunlight Elec. Supply Co. v. McKee (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 47, 50, 37 Cal. Rptr. 782

Mechanics' lien law including stop notice provisions for public works of improvement [Civ. Code §§ 3179-3214] is integrated and harmonious scheme and applicable code sections of that law must be construed together. Sunlight Elec. Supply Co. v. McKee (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 47, 50, 37 Cal. Rptr. 782

[3] Duty to Withhold Money or Bonds Due or to Become Due

[a] In General

Once stop notices were filed, city was prohibited by Civ. Code §§ 3186 and 3193 from paying amount sufficient to satisfy stop notice claims to contractor's assignee, and contractor did not retain any interest in assigned contract that would enable contractor to recover these funds from city. Stanislaus Pump, Machinery & Construction Corp. v. City of Modesto (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 1442, 1447, 246 Cal. Rptr. 601

Extent of liability of public entity to stop notice claimant after stop notice has been served is measured by extent of liability of public entity to original contractor. Dorris v. Alturas School Dist. (1914) 25 Cal. App. 30, 33, 142 P. 795 (decided under former Code Civ. Proc. § 1184, now Civ. Code § 3186)

When (1) original contractor abandons project in breach of contract with public entity, (2) entity, by terms of contract, is obligated to pay full contract price only on completion of project, and (3) cost of completion is greater than amount owing from entity to contractor, stop notice claimant has no rights to remaining funds in hands of public entity. Dorris v. Alturas School Dist. (1914) 25 Cal. App. 30, 33, 142 P. 795

Money withheld by public entity pursuant to former Gov. Code § 14402 (now see Pub. Contract Code § 10261), requiring retention of 10 percent of contract price until acceptance and completion of project, is not subject to claims of stop notices when contractor has abandoned project and cost of completion exceeds contract price. Harsco Corp. v. Department of Public Works (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 272, 276-280, 98 Cal. Rptr. 337

[b] Breach of Duty to Withhold

Action in entity is permitted by laborers and materialmen against public entity who disregards their properly filed stop notices. United States Fid. & Guar. Co. v. Oak Grove Union School Dist. (1962) 205 Cal. App. 2d 226, 231, 22 Cal. Rptr. 907

Individuals responsible for withholding funds subject to stop notice are personally liable to claimants injured by failure to withhold such funds. L.W. Blinn Co. v. Pioneer Drainage Dist. (1920) 50 Cal. App. 364, 370-371, 195 P. 750

[4] Nature of Remedy

Filing of stop notice, in effect, imposes trust obligation on public entity by creating equitable assignment or garnishment pro tanto in favor of stop notice claimant. United States Fid. & Guar. Co. v. Oak Grove Union School Dist. (1962) 205 Cal. App. 2d 226, 231, 22 Cal. Rptr. 907

[5] Persons Entitled to Serve Stop Notice

Person furnishing labor or materials used in, on, for, or about the performance of a public work is able to avail himself or herself of stop notice procedure provided he or she furnished work or materials at instance of prime contractor or subcontractor having charge, in whole or in part, of project. George F. Kennedy, Inc. v. Miles & Sons Constr. Div. (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 516, 520, 85 Cal. Rptr. 298

Stop notice procedure is not available to person furnishing materials or services to subcontractor under a state work project unless materials and services are used in, on, for, or about the performance of the work. George F. Kennedy, Inc. v. Miles & Sons Constr. Div. (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 516, 521, 85 Cal. Rptr. 298

When materials furnished to subcontractor become part of subcontractor's general equipment and are of such a nature that, in usual course of events, they will not be entirely used or consumed on job for which they were purchased, a claim therefor is not subject to statutory stop notice procedure. George F. Kennedy, Inc. v. Miles & Sons Constr. Div. (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 516, 521, 85 Cal. Rptr. 298

When only part of material furnished to subcontractor was used in performance of latter's contract, remainder being diverted to other uses, and it is impossible to estimate what part was used in performance of contract, a claim therefor is not subject to stop notice procedure. George F. Kennedy, Inc. v. Miles & Sons Constr. Div. (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 516, 521, 85 Cal. Rptr. 298

Stop notice procedure is not available to one whose relationship to work is only that of vendor of materials to materialman rather than that of contractor or subcontractor. Theisen v. Los Angeles County (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 170, 177, 5 Cal. Rptr. 161, 352 P.2d 529

One who agrees with original contractor to perform substantial, specified portion of work of construction that is subject of original contract in accordance with plans and specifications by which original contractor is bound as subcontractor capable of conferring stop notice rights, even though he or she does not undertake to incorporate such portion of project structure into work of improvement. Theisen v. Los Angeles County (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 170, 183, 5 Cal. Rptr. 161, 352 P.2d 529

[6] Purpose of Public Stop Notice Provisions

Statutory scheme of Civ. Code §§ 3186 and 3193 gives maximum protection to stop notice claimants, whose interests statutory arrangement is designed to protect. Stanislaus Pump, Machinery & Construction Corp. v. City of Modesto (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 1442, 1447, 246 Cal. Rptr. 601

In addition to other procedures generally available for enforcement of contracts, Legislature has provided by statute special remedies to protect interests of those to whom prime contractor may incur debts in connection with public works project. Jasper Constr., Inc. v. University Casework Sys., Inc. (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 582, 584, 114 Cal. Rptr. 143

In order to give protection to materialmen and labor claimants and yet protect both public and public property, Legislature has provided stop notice procedure without lien rights for intercepting funds due from public agency to contractor on public works projects. Sunlight Elec. Supply Co. v. McKee (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 47, 50, 37 Cal. Rptr. 782

Effect of stop notice is to assure to claimant preference over general creditors of prime contractor in distribution of proceeds of contract. Jasper Constr., Inc. v. University Casework Sys., Inc. (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 582, 584, 114 Cal. Rptr. 143

[7] Release Bond

Bond and Undertaking Law (Code Civ. Proc. § 995.010 et seq.) is applicable to stop notice release bonds provided under Civ. Code § 3196. Milo Equipment Corp. v. Elsinore Valley Mun. Water Dist. (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 1282, 1288, 253 Cal. Rptr. 126

Former Code Civ. Proc. § 338(1) (three-year period for liability created by statute; now see Code Civ. Proc. § 338(a)) was applicable statute of limitations in action against surety on stop notice release bond because these bonds are essential part of statutory scheme conferring stop notice rights on subcontractors. Winick Corp. v. General Insurance Co. (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 142, 148, 231 Cal. Rptr. 606 (dictum)

Public entity that honors Civ. Code § 3196 surety bond by releasing to general contractor funds withheld by reason of dispute over stop notice filed with entity by supplier of materials to subcontractor is relieved of any liability resulting from stop notice. Cal-Pacific Materials Co. v. Redondo Beach City School Dist. (1979) 94 Cal. App. 3d 652, 654, 156 Cal. Rptr. 590

Alternative procedure for release of funds held pursuant to stop notice claim provided by former Code Civ. Proc. § 1190.1 [now see Civ. Code § 3103] is not obligatory; filing of stop notice, and filing of release bond followed by filing of action are so related that it can be said that release bond is obtained in connection with action within meaning of former Code Civ. Proc. § 1035 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 995.250), allowing premiums paid on such bonds to be recoverable costs. Acoustics, Inc. v. Trepte Constr. Co. (1971) 14 Cal. App. 3d 887, 916, 92 Cal. Rptr. 723

City was liable to subcontractor when city permitted release bond to be written by same bonding company as wrote labor and material bond. Azusa Western, Inc. v. West Covina (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 259, 263-264, 119 Cal. Rptr. 434

[8] Stop Notice Remedy as Cumulative

Stop notice remedy is cumulative to other remedies claimant might have and, thus, is not barred by fact that claimant obtains personal judgment against prime contractor. George F. Kennedy, Inc. v. Miles & Sons Constr. Div. (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 516, 522, 85 Cal. Rptr. 298

Action on stop notice is capable of being joined with action on labor and material bond, but the two actions are independent and one is cumulative to the other. Consolidated Elec. Distributors, Inc. v. Kirkham, Chaon & Kirkham, Inc. (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 54, 61, 95 Cal. Rptr. 673

[9] Summary Proceeding to Determine Rights

Trial court's order resolving a summary proceeding is not appealable. Jasper Constr., Inc. v. University Casework Sys., Inc. (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 582, 114 Cal. Rptr. 143

Trial court's order may be tested by appellate court on writ of review. University Casework Sys., Inc. v. Superior Court (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 263, 265, 115 Cal. Rptr. 836

[10] Time to File

Completion of work on contract is not "cessation of labor" referred to in Civ. Code § 3086; date of acceptance of work triggers 90-day period to file stop notice under Civ. Code § 3184. Krueger Brothers Builders, Inc. v. San Francisco Housing Authority (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1, 6-7, 243 Cal. Rptr. 585

Filing of stop notice before contractor had right to be paid was proper. Central Indus. Eng'r Co. v. Strauss Constr. Co. (1979) 98 Cal. App. 3d 460, 464-466, 159 Cal. Rptr. 564

C. Payment Bonds

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.132

§ 481.132 Decisions

[1] Attorneys' Fees

Subcontractor who is claimant on stop notice release bond entitled to recover attorneys' fees from surety based on attorneys' fee clause in subcontract, so long as total recovery against surety does not exceed penal sum of bond. National Technical Systems v. Superior Court (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 415, 424-425, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 465

When subcontractor required to arbitrate claim against contractor, subcontractor is entitled to recover attorneys' fees in arbitration in action against surety to recover on payment bond. Liton Gen. Engineering Contractor, Inc. v. United Pacific Insurance (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 577, 585-593, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 200

[2] Limitation of Actions

Resolution under facts of case of issue whether action on labor and material bond was barred by statute of limitations [Civ. Code § 3249] required consideration of provisions of Civ. Code §§ 3086 (defining "completion"), 3093 (recordation of completion of work), and 3184 (stop notices). Fidelity Sound Systems, Inc. v. American Bonding Co. (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d Supp. 13, 17-19 , 149 Cal. Rptr. 674 (holding action was not barred)

[3] Payment Bonds

[a] Actions Thereon

Subcontractor who is claimant on stop notice release bond entitled to recover attorneys' fees from surety based on attorneys' fee clause in subcontract, so long as total recovery against surety does not exceed penal sum of bond. National Technical Systems v. Superior Court (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 415, 424-425, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 465

Surety on payment bond was liable for penalties imposed on contractor pursuant to Pub. Contract Code § 10262.5 for failure to make progress payments to subcontractor. Washington Internat. Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 981, 989, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 282

Liability of surety on contractor's bond in public works contract. Bonded Prod. Co. v. R.C. Gallyon Constr. Co., Inc. (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 186, 190-191, 39 Cal. Rptr. 347

Right of surety on contractor's bond to be subrogated to right to foreclose stop notice liens after payment of claims. United States Fid. & Guar. Co. v. Oak Grove Union School Dist. (1962) 205 Cal. App. 2d 226, 231, 22 Cal. Rptr. 907

Joinder of contractor and sureties in action on bond. Sunset Lumber Co. v. Smith (1928) 95 Cal. App. 307, 312, 272 P. 1068

Action for labor or materials against surety without joining contractor and without having first filed notice of verified claim with public agency that entered into public works contract. Adams v. Christopher (1931) 119 Cal. App. 40, 45, 5 P.2d 948

[b] Purpose

Bond provisions enacted to create fund in lieu of the building or work itself against which materialmen and laborers can proceed are additional or cumulative remedy to public works stop notice procedure. Pneucrete Corp. v. U.S. Fid. & G. Co. (1935) 7 Cal. App. 2d 733, 736-737, 46 P.2d 1000

Purpose of public works contractor's bond is to give materialmen and laborers who furnish materials for and render services on public works an additional means of receiving compensation. Consolidated Elec. Distributors, Inc. v. Kirkham, Chaon & Kirkham, Inc. (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 54, 60, 95 Cal. Rptr. 673

[4] Persons Entitled to Payment

Entity that contracted to furnish its employees to contractor for work on construction project was entitled to mechanics' lien and thus to recover on payment bond, and was not required to have contractor's license. Contractors Labor Pool, Inc. v. Westway Contractors, Inc. (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 152, 163, 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 715

Person who provides personnel services and advances funds to cover payroll but does not employ workers is not entitled to recover in capacity of person who furnishes labor to project. Primo Team, Inc. v. Blake Construction Co. (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 801, 807-810, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 701

[5] Sufficiency of Notice of Claim

Partial compliance with Civ. Code § 3098 notice requirements does not bar relief under Civ. Code § 3252(b) (allowing claim when 20-day notice "was not given as provided in Section 3098) provided written notice is given to surety and bond principal within 15 days after recordation of notice of completion for amount of any claim for which § 3098 notice was not timely given. American Buildings Co. v. Bay Commercial Construction, Inc. (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 1193, 1201, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 539

Designation as "stop notice" of instrument intended as required notice under payment bond statute does not preclude instrument's consideration for other purposes. General Elec. Co. v. Central Surety & Ins. Corp. (1965) 232 Cal. App. 2d 590, 594, 43 Cal. Rptr. 48

In action on contractor's bond for public work, notice preceding action on bond and addressed to superintendent of public agency concerned, reciting copies for contractors, bonding company, and subcontractor, and mailed to contractors and received by registered or certified mail within 90 days from date on which supplier last furnished materials for which claim was made constituted substantial compliance with statute. General Elec. Co. v. Central Surety & Ins. Corp. (1965) 232 Cal. App. 2d 590, 596, 43 Cal. Rptr. 48

General contractor had sufficient notice of nature and state of debt owed plaintiff for materials supplied to subcontractor by schedule showing amounts due from subcontractor to materialmen so as to comply with statutory notice provision when schedule had been personally handed to general contractor's agent and read by president and general manager, who admitted he could correlate plaintiff's job number to his contract. California Elec. Supply Co. v. United Pac. Life Ins. Co. (1964) 227 Cal. App. 2d 138, 146, 38 Cal. Rptr. 479

NOTE:

SB 189, which was introduced in February 2009 as a two-year bill, would comprehensively revise, reorganize, and consolidate the law governing stop notices and payment bonds on public works projects in the Public Contract Code. The proposed legislation is the product of a recommendation of the California Law Revision Commission, which may be consulted at: http://www.clrc.ca.gov/pub/Printed-Reports/REC-H821.pdf. The legislation would be operative January 1, 2011. If SB 189 is enacted, this chapter will be updated in a future release.

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.150

§ 481.150 Scope of Checklist

NOTE:

The following are checklists of procedures required in enforcing stop notices for public works. These checklists are not exhaustive and other procedures may be required [see Civ. Code § 3259 (except as otherwise provided, procedures governing civil trials, new trials, and appeals therefrom under Code Civ. Proc. § 307 et seq. are applicable to mechanics' lien law provisions)]. These checklists do, however, attempt to set forth those procedures most commonly utilized.

Counsel should also note that the various steps and time requirements as to filing and service of notice are for the purpose of providing protective measures and a necessary warning to those to whom notice is being given or on whom service is being made. Strict compliance with the provisions governing the enforcement of stop notice rights is required if the failure to comply with one or more of these provisions results in injury to the public entity. However, if no right of the public entity is adversely affected by a failure to comply with a procedural requirement, such as a failure to comply with a time for service requirement, then the requirement, unless made so by specific mandate, is not a jurisdictional factor requiring the collapse of any remedy of which the procedural requirement forms a part [see Sunlight Elec. Supply Co. v. McKee (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d, 47, 50 , 37 Cal. Rptr. 782] .

1. Actual laborers for wages are not required to give a preliminary notice [Civ. Code § 3098(a)].

2. Any person having a direct contractual relationship with the original contractor is not required to give a preliminary notice [Civ. Code § 3098(a)].

3. Any person not described in Paragraphs 1-2, above, who furnishes labor or materials for a public work, who has not been paid therefor, and who intends to file a stop notice, must file a written preliminary notice with the contractor and the public agency concerned [Civ. Code § 3098(a)].

NOTE:
The failure of a subcontractor who is licensed under Bus. & Prof. Code § 7000 et seq. to give a preliminary notice constitutes grounds for disciplinary action by the Registrar of Contractors if the contract price to be paid to the subcontractor exceeds $400 [Civ. Code § 3098(b)].

NOTE:

Preliminary notice must be served not later than 20 days after first furnishing labor, services, equipment, or materials for a claimant to be entitled to enforce a stop notice for all that he or she has or will furnish to the jobsite. A notice given at any later time entitles the claimant only to enforcement of a stop notice for that labor, equipment, services, or materials furnished within 20 days before the service of the notice and at any time thereafter [*see Civ. 42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.173

§ 481.173 Place and Manner of Service

1. Personal delivery.

Personal service may be effected on the contractor and the public agency concerned [Civ. Code § 3098(a)].

NOTE:
If the public work is contracted by the Department of Transportation or the Department of General Services, personal service is to be made on the Department's disbursing officer [Civ. Code § 3098(a)].

2. Delivery by mail.

Service may be made by mail on either the original contractor or the public entity by first-class mail, registered mail, or certified mail, postage prepaid [Civ. Code § 3098(a)].

a. With regard to the original contractor, and any subcontractor contracted with, delivery may be made to any place he or she maintains an office or conducts his or her business, or to his or her residence [Civ. Code § 3098(a)].

b. In case of any public works constructed by the Department of Transportation or the Department of General Services, such notice is to be mailed to the office of the disbursing officer of the department.

NOTE:
Service by registered or certified mail is recommended since such service is complete at the time of deposit [Civ. Code § 3098(a)].

3. Affidavit of service by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a].

Neither required nor recommended.

NOTE:

A preliminary 20-day notice is not effective to serve as a basis for withholding funds under a stop notice unless the public entity, any subcontractors contracted with, and the original contractor are served. For this reason, it is recommended that the preliminary notice [see § 481.330] be addressed to all parties served, thereby indicating to each party that the other party was served. If this is done, there is no need to attach an affidavit of service on the contractor to the notice served on the public entity. An affidavit of proof of service would make the notice too formidable in appearance. When service on all parties is by registered or certified mail, sufficient proof of service would exist if the fact of service would become an issue.

Chapter 481 PUBLIC WORKS
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST
A. Withholding Payment on Public Works
2. Preliminary 20-Day Notice (Public Work)

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.174

§ 481.174 Effect of Giving Preliminary Notice

1. When required under Civ. Code § 3098.

a. Entitles claimant to enforce a stop notice [Civ. Code § 3183(a)].

NOTE:
Civ. Code § 3183* is not specifically to the effect that a preliminary notice is a necessary condition precedent to filing a stop notice but only a necessary condition precedent to its enforcement. At the same time, Civ. Code § 3098 provides that a person without a direct contractual relationship with the contractor may file such a notice, but that no payment may be withheld from any such contractor unless the preliminary notice is given.

The nature of the statutory language may have definite legal and practical consequences, depending on the meaning of the word "enforce." For example, a claimant who did not serve a preliminary notice but did serve a stop notice for which a preliminary notice is required both as a basis for the withholding of funds due the contractor by the public entity and for its enforcement by action under Civ. Code § 3210 perhaps may still qualify as a stop notice claimant under Civ. Code § 3190 if the withheld funds being distributed among claimants are insufficient to pay all the claims in full.

b. Entitles claimant to enforce a claim on a payment bond [Civ. Code § 3252(a); see Civ. Code §§ 3227, 3252(b), 3253(b) for timing and form of alternative post-completion bond notice that may be given instead of a 20-day preliminary notice to entitle claimant to enforce a claim on a payment bond; see also §§ 481.291, 481.360].

2. When not required under Civ. Code § 3098.

Even though a subcontractor who has a direct contractual relationship with the original contractor probably does not need to file a preliminary notice, it is recommended that a licensed contractor file a preliminary notice because of the uncertainty, discussed in the Note, above, of when disciplinary action is permitted for failure of a subcontractor who is a licensed contractor to file a preliminary notice.

NOTE:

Although a stop notice [Civ. Code § 3103] is similar in content to a preliminary notice [Civ. Code § 3098], the difference is that the preliminary notice need not be signed or verified and is filed within 20 days after the claimant first commenced work or furnished materials, and that a stop notice must be signed and verified and must mention the amount in value of that work already done or materials furnished and of the whole agreed to be done or furnished. Thus, if a preliminary notice is not required, a notice intended as a preliminary notice may be treated by the public entity as a legally enforceable stop notice if the notice happened to be signed and verified and to have included all data necessary for a legally enforceable stop notice. For this reason, a preliminary 20-day notice should never be verified.

§ 481.190 Preparation

1. Contents.

See § 481.331 [Civ. Code § 3103].

2. Execution.

Must be signed by the claimant or his or her agent [Civ. Code § 3103].

3. Verification.

Must be verified by the claimant or his or her agent [Civ. Code § 3103].

4. Copies.

a. One for service on the public entity [Civ. Code § 3181]; and

b. One courtesy copy to be mailed to original contractor, if desired.

NOTE:
Although the original contractor must be served with the preliminary 20-day notice to have a stop notice serve as a basis for the withholding of funds [Civ. Code § 3098], he or she need not be served with the actual stop notice. The reason for this is that the contractor has already been notified of those materialmen and suppliers to his or her subcontractors who have filed the preliminary 20-day notice.

c. If served by a materialman to a subcontractor, one courtesy copy to be mailed to subcontractor and to the subcontractor's bonding company, if desired.

d. Three or more additional copies if notice is to be used as an exhibit to an affidavit under Civ. Code § 3200 or to a complaint under Civ. Code § 3210.

NOTE:

The original contractor may require a subcontractor to furnish a bond to indemnify the original contractor for any loss he or she might sustain as a result of a subcontractor's default under Civ. Code § 3248 [Civ. Code § 3248(b)].

Funds withheld may be inadequate to meet in full the claim of the claimant, and both the bonding company of the original contractor and the original contractor could become judgment proof. By notifying both the subcontractor and his or her bonding company, the claimant could protect all possible methods of having his or her claim paid in full.

A. Withholding Payment on Public Works
3. Service of Stop Notice

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.191

§ 481.191 Service

1. Prerequisite for effective service.

A stop notice claimant must have given a preliminary 20-day notice (public work) when required by Civ. Code § 3098(a) [Civ. Code § 3183(a)]. For requirements relating to service of the preliminary notice, see procedures in §§ 481.170-481.174.

2. Place of Service.

a. For a public work for the state, notice must be filed with the director of the department which let the contract [Civ. Code § 3103].

NOTE:
Unlike service of the preliminary 20-day notice (public work), which may be served generally on the public agency with the exception of any public work constructed by the Department of Public Works or the Department of General Services of the state, in which case the preliminary 20-day notice must be served on the disbursing officer, the stop notice may only be effectively served on the state by filing the notice with the director of the department that let the contract. In the case of a stop notice served in connection with a contract let by either the Department of Transportation or the Department of Water Resources, the difference in the manner in which the preliminary 20-day notice and the stop notice is served is resolved in those two department's official forms [see § 481.332] by serving the stop notice on the directors of the departments, in care of the disbursing officer in the case of the Department of Transportation, and in care of the comptroller in the case of the Department of Water Resources. Counsel should consult counsel of other departments of the state if in doubt as to which officer on whom service of a stop notice is considered effective. It should be noted, however, that, particularly in the absence of any prejudice suffered by the state [see Sunlight Elec. Supply Co. v. McKee (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 47, 50, 37 Cal. Rptr. 782] , the code provisions governing the service of a stop notice are interpreted liberally, and actual or even constructive knowledge of the receipt of a stop notice may be effective to give the claimant a right against the earnings held by the state agency [see United States Fid. & Guar. Co. v. Oak Grove Union School Dist. (1962) 205 Cal. App. 2d 226, 236-238, 22 Cal. Rptr. 907] .

b. For any other public work, the stop notice must be filed in the office of the controller, auditor, or other public disbursing officer, whose duty is to make payments under the contract or with the commissioners, managers, trustees, officers, board of supervisors, board of trustees, common council, or other body by whom the contract was awarded [Civ. Code § 3103].

3. Manner of service.

A stop notice may be served either personally or by registered or certified mail with the same effect as personal service [Civ. Code § 3103].

NOTE:
Although service by first-class mail is permissible (but not recommended) for a preliminary 20-day notice, a stop notice, if by mail, can be only by registered or certified mail.

4. Who may file.

Any person furnishing labor or materials for a public work [Civ. Code §§ 3110, 3112], other than an original contractor or any person mentioned in Pub. Contract Code § 4107.7 (hazardous waste hauler), may file a stop notice [Civ. Code § 3181].

5. Time limit.

a. If notice of completion or cessation has been recorded: 30 days after recording of a notice of completion (sometimes referredto in public works as a notice of acceptance) or notice of cessation, if such a notice is recorded [Civ. Code § 3184(a)].

NOTE:
A notice of completion that may be recorded by a public agency is not provided for in the mechanics' lien law. Presumably, however, the contents of the notice of completion must be substantially the same as that which must be contained in a notice of completion that an owner may record for the purpose of shortening the time period in which a mechanics' lien claimant must record his or her claim of lien [see Civ. Code §§ 3093, 3115, 3116]. Thus, to be effective the notice must contain, among other things that would not be applicable to a public work, all of the following [Civ. Code § 3093]:

- The date of completion, other than a cessation of labor (see discussion later in this note of cessation) [*but see Civ. Code § 3093(a) (recital of erroneous date of completion does not affect validity of notice if true date of completion is within 10 days preceding date of recording of notice)].

- A description of the site sufficient for identification containing the street address of the site, if any [see *Civ. Code § 3093(d) (if sufficient legal description of site is given, validity of notice is not affected by fact that street address recited is erroneous or omitted)].

- The name of the original contractor.

The notice must be recorded in the office of the county recorder of the county in which the site is located, within 10 days after the completion. A notice of completion in otherwise proper form, verified and containing the information required by Civ. Code § 3093, must be accepted by the recorder for recording and must be deemed duly recorded without acknowledgment [Civ. Code § 3093].

Civ. Code § 3086* provides that in the case of any work of improvement that is subject to acceptance by any public entity (this presumably includes all public works as defined in Civ. Code § 3100, because a public work is any work of improvement contracted for by a public entity), the completion of the work of improvement is deemed to be the date of the acceptance. However, except as to contracts awarded under the State Contract Act [Pub. Contract Code § 10100 et seq.], a cessation of labor on any public work for a continuous period of 30 days is a completion thereof [Civ. Code § 3086].

A notice of cessation that may be recorded by a public agency is also not provided for in the mechanics' lien law. However, by analogy to the requirements for a notice of cessation for a private work, the notice should contain at least (1) the approximate date when the cessation of labor commenced; (2) a statement that the cessation has continued until the recording of the notice of cessation; (3) a description of the site sufficient for identification, containing the street address, if any (if a sufficient legal description of the site is given, the validity of the notice is not, however, affected by the fact that the street address is erroneous or omitted); and (4) the name of the original contractor [see Civ. Code § 3092]. The notice must be recorded in the office of the county recorder of the county in which the site is located and is effective only if there has been a continuous cessation of labor for at least 30 days prior to the recording [Civ. Code § 3092].

b. If no notice of completion (acceptance) or cessation has been recorded: 90 days after completion or cessation [Civ. Code § 3184(b)].

NOTE:

As noted above, completion of a public work is the date of the acceptance of the work or, except for contracts let pursuant to the State Contract Act [Pub. Contract Code § 10100 et seq.], a cessation of labor for a continuous period of 30 days [see Civ. Code § 3086; see also* Krueger Brothers Builders, Inc. v. San Francisco Housing Authority (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1, 6, 243 Cal. Rptr. 585 (completion of work on contract is not "cessation of labor" referred to in Civ. Code § 3086; date of acceptance of work is triggering 90-day period)]. Thus, it is unclear whether, in the case of a completion brought about by a cessation of labor for 30 days on a public work, a stop notice claimant must serve his or her stop notice within 90 days after the cessation of labor or 120 days after such cessation.

c. If contract is for investigation, removal, or remedial action, or disposal of hazardous waste: 10 days after completion, if the conditions of Pub. Contract Code § 4107.7 have been met [Civ. Code § 3181].

6. Affidavit of service by mail.

Not required or recommended.

NOTE:
Service by registered or certified mail is sufficient proof of service if the fact of service should become an issue.

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.192

§ 481.192 Effect

1. Duty to withhold imposed on public entity.

On receipt of a stop notice, the public entity must withhold from the original contractor, or any person acting under his or her authority, money or bonds due or to become due to the contractor in an amount sufficient to answer the stop notice claim and to pay the entity's reasonable costs of litigation [Civ. Code § 3186].

2. Prerequisite of duty to withhold.

Stop notice must be on file before the disbursing officer has actually surrendered possession of the warrant, check, bonds, or money [Civ. Code § 3187].

3. Extent of duty to withhold.

Amount in excess of the claim and interest and court costs to be reasonably anticipated may be released to the contractor [Civ. Code § 3187].

§ 481.210 When Bond May Be Filed

When original contractor or subcontractor disputes the validity or enforceability of a stop notice and when the public entity grants permission to file the bond [Civ. Code § 3196].

NOTE:

The term "subcontractor" in Civ. Code § 3196 probably includes subcontractors with or without a direct contractual relationship with the original contractor [see Civ. Code § 3104 defining subcontractor]. The former law (former Code Civ. Proc. § 1192.1(f)) allowed the contractor, subcontractor, or other person against whom a claim was filed to dispute its validity or enforceability. As a result of the legislative intention [1969 Stats., ch. 1362, § 10] not to change preexisting law, Civ. Code § 3196 probably will be construed consistent with the prior law.

4. Bond for Release of Withheld Funds

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.211

§ 481.211 Who May File

The original contractor [Civ. Code § 3196].

NOTE:

The bond may be filed by the original contractor and not the subcontractor because it is the original contractor who has a direct contractual relationship with the public entity. To protect itself, however, the original contractor may require its subcontractors to furnish a bond to indemnify the original contractor for any loss he or she might sustain as a result of a subcontractor's default under Civ. Code § 3248 [Civ. Code § 3248(b)]. However, the original contractor's right to require a bond of a subcontractor includes only those contractors with a direct contractual relationship with the original contractor or those required to be listed under the Subletting and Subcontracting Fair Practices Act [Pub. Contract Code § 4100 et seq.]. Thus, an original contractor may not be able to release funds withheld as a result of a breach by a sub-subcontractor without filing a bond under Civ. Code § 3196, even though he or she had no right to require the sub-subcontractor to furnish a bond to indemnify him or her for losses sustained.

To protect himself or herself, the original contractor could, in subcontracts with his or her subcontractors, require approval by him or her or, at least, notification of all sub-subcontractors by his or her subcontractors. Although the preliminary 20-day notice notifies the original contractor of potential claimants, a person performing actual labor for wages need not file a preliminary notice. By requiring approval or notification of all sub-subcontractors, the subcontractor who fails to obtain this approval or to provide this notification would breach his or her subcontract, thereby, perhaps, allowing indemnification of the original contract under a subcontractor's bond if one is required by the original contractor.

Until future legislative amendments or judicial decisions, the interplay between the merchanics' liens and stop notice code sections and the Subletting and Subcontracting Fair Practices Act [Pub. Contract Code § 4100 et seq.] will remain uncertain.

NOTE:

The payment bond must be executed by an admitted surety insurer [Code Civ. Proc. § 995.311(a)]. The public agency approving the bond has a duty to verify the admitted insurer status of the party executing the bond [Code Civ. Proc. § 995.311(b)]. The release bond, however, must be executed by a corporate surety [Civ. Code § 3196]. Although Civ. Code § 3196 provides that the surety or sureties on the release bond are jointly and severally liable to the stop notice claimant with the surety or sureties on any payment bond, it would appear that ordinarily there can be only one surety on the release bond, even though there may be several sureties on the payment bond.

Because the original contractor serves two copies on the public entity, one of these two copies is used by the public entity for service by it on the claimant.

2. Place of service.

The address of the claimant as shown on his or her stop notice claim or his or her last known address [Civ. Code § 3199].

3. Manner of service.

Either personally or by registered or certified mail [Civ. Code § 3199].

4. Papers served.

a. Affidavit and demand for release [see § 481.335]; and

b. Notice [see § 481.336] that public entity will release money or bonds withheld unless the claimant files a counteraffidavit with the public entity on or before a time designated in the notice, which must be not less than 10 days nor more than 20 days after service on the claimant of a copy of the affidavit [Civ. Code § 3199].

5. Proof of service.

By affidavit prepared by the public entity and executed by the person responsible for mailing the affidavit and notice or responsible for personal service. The affidavit should be verified [Civ. Code § 3199].

NOTE:

If the claimant files a counteraffidavit, he or she should do so on or before the time designated in the notice, alleging the details of his or her claim, and setting forth in detail the specific basis on which he or she rebuts the allegations of the original contractor's affidavit, together with proof of service of a copy of the counteraffidavit on the original contractor [*Civ. 5. Release of Withheld Funds on Affidavit by Original Contractor

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.233

§ 481.233 Release of Money or Bonds Withheld

If the claimant does not file a counteraffidavit with proof of service on the original contractor within the time allowed, the public entity must immediately release the money or bonds [Civ. Code § 3200].

NOTE:

Under Civ. Code § 3200, the public entity is not responsible for the validity of the affidavit and counteraffidavit, and under Civ. Code § 3200, is not liable for making the release.

Under Civ. Code § 3200, the money or bonds must be released if the counteraffidavit is not filed "within the time allowed." The quoted language probably refers to the time designated in the notice [see § 481.336] served on the claimant. However, the time designated could be prior in time to the maximum time that could have been allowed, which would be not more than 20 days after service of a copy of the affidavit on the claimant. To be on the safe side, the public entity would probably not release the funds until 20 days have passed from service of a copy of the affidavit on the claimant and, in so doing, would probably not be violating its obligation to release the funds.

1. Contents.

See § 481.337.

2. Execution.

By the party bringing the proceedings or by his or her attorney [Civ. Code § 3201].

NOTE:
The party bringing the proceeding may be either the original contractor or the claimant [Civ. Code § 3201]. The proceedings areinitiated by a pleading, and Code of Civil Procedure sections on pleadings, such as Code Civ. Proc. § 446, would be applicable when appropriate and not inconsistent with the procedure set forth in Civ. Code §§ 3201-3205.

3. Verification.

Recommended.

NOTE:
Civ. Code § 3201* does not require verification. Under Civ. Code § 3202, the affidavit and counteraffidavit constitute the pleadings, and, of course, the affidavit and counteraffidavit must be verified. Insofar as the complaint or petition that initiates the proceedings is also a pleading, it could also be verified. Under Civ. Code § 3203, a determination may be reached on no evidence except the affidavit and counteraffidavit. Insofar as a determination could be based on facts set forth in the complaint or petition, an additional reason would exist for its verification.

4. Copies.

a. One for service on the defendant or respondent;

b. One for service on the public entity;

c. One for filing with the appropriate superior court, together with proof of service on both the defendant or respondent and the public entity; and

d. One office copy.

NOTE:
Procedures set forth in the Code of Civil Procedure for both actions and summary proceedings are not appropriate for the actual filing of the complaint to determine rights to withheld funds. Under Civ. Code §§ 3201-3202, both the defendant or respondent and the public entity must receive notice of the filing of the complaint or petition. In addition, because the affidavit and counteraffidavit constitute the pleadings, a summons need not be served on the parties. It is recommended that service on the defendant or respondent and the public entity be either by personal service or by registered or certified mail, with an affidavit of proof of service attached to the original complaint or petition filed with the court.

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.251

§ 481.251 Filing of Complaint or Petition

1. Venue (county)

Proceedings should be filed in the appropriate superior court for a declaration of the respective rights of the parties [Civ. Code § 3201]. Proper counties for filing would be the county where the contract was to be performed, or in which the contract in fact was entered into, or the county of the proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 395].

2. Jurisdiction.

Jurisdiction to hear the proceedings is in the superior court only [Civ. Code § 3201].

NOTE:

Venue relates to the proper county for trial of an action, and jursidiction relates to the power of a court to adjudicate the matter.

If the proceedings are brought in a superior court other than one in a proper county, the action may be transferred under Code Civ. Proc. § 397 .

3. Fees.

Plaintiff pays the filing fee when the first paper is filed in the action or proceeding. The total amount required may vary from court to court, and from county to county. Generally, filing fees are fixed by statute [see Gov. Code §§ 70611-70613]. If payment of filing fees is made by check that is later returned without payment, the court will notify the party who tendered the check that (1) the check has been returned without payment; (2) an administrative charge [see Code Civ. Proc. § 411.20(g)] has been imposed to reimburse the court for the costs of processing the returned check and providing notice that the check has been returned; and (3) the party has 20 days from the date the notice was mailed to pay the filing fee and administrative charge in cash, by certified check, or by any other means specified by the court but not by traveler's or personal check. If the person who tendered the check is only acting on behalf of a party, the clerk must notify not only the person who tendered the check, but also the party or that party's attorney if the party is represented [Code Civ. Proc. § 411.20(a)]. If a trial or other hearing is scheduled to begin before the 20-day period expires, the fee must be paid before the trial or hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 411.20(e)]. The clerk will void the filing if the party who tendered a returned check or on whose behalf a returned check was tendered, or the party who paid less than the required fee or on whose behalf the fee was paid, has not paid the full amount of the fee and administrative charge within the 20-day period, or before the date set for trial or hearing, as applicable [Code Civ. Proc. § 411.20(b), (e)]. If an adverse party files a responsive pleading, together with a filing fee, in response to a pleading that is voided due to a returned check, the adverse party's filing is not required and will be voided. The court will mail to the parties or their attorneys notice that the initial paper and response have been voided. The responding party's filing fee will be refunded on request provided the request is made within 20 days from the date on which the notice was mailed. No administrative charge will be imposed on the responding party. The refund is available if the adverse party has filed only a responsive pleading, but not if he or she has also filed a cross-complaint or other first paper seeking affirmative relief for which there is a filing fee [Code Civ. Proc. § 411.20(c)]. If in doubtas to local practice, counsel should check with the local court clerk to determine theamount of fees payable before filing his or her complaint or petition.

§ 481.252 Service of Complaint or Petition

1. Persons to be served.

a. The defendant or respondent [Civ. Code § 3201]; and

b. The public entity [Civ. Code § 3201].

NOTE:
Civ. Code § 3201* does not require service of the complaint on the defendant or respondent and the public entity. However, because either the original contractor or the claimant is entitled to obtain a hearing on the complaint or petition, it is apparent that the defendant should be notified of the filing of the complaint. At the hearing, the public entity must file the affidavit and counteraffidavit with the court [Civ. Code § 3202], and for this reason should receive notice of the filing of the complaint or petition. However, even if service of the complaint on the public entity is not required by implication of law, the public entity, along with the defendant or respondent, must receive five days' notice in writing of the hearing [Civ. Code § 3202].

If counsel should decide to obtain an ex parte order for the hearing date [see § 481.338], he or she could serve the complaint and ex parte order at the same time, filing with the complaint and ex parte order an affidavit of service of both the complaint or petition and the ex parte order, which constitutes notice of the hearing on the defendant or respondent and the public entity.

2. Place of service.

The address of the defendant or respondent as shown on papers previously filed with the public entity or his or her last known address, and the address of the public entity to which previous notices and affidavits have been filed.

3. Manner of service.

Personal service or service by registered or certified mail is recommended.

NOTE:

Civ. Code § 3201* does not mention the manner of service that should be used. Service by summons [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 412.10-417.40] would not seem appropriate to proceedings under Civ. Code § 3201. A summons under Code Civ. Proc. § 412.20 must contain a direction that the defendant file with the court a written pleading in response to the complaint within 30 days after the summons is served on him or her. However, a responsive pleading is not necessary to a complaint or petition for a declaration of rights to withheld funds, because, under Civ. Code § 3202, the affidavit and counteraffidavit constitute the pleadings, and, under Civ. Code § 3201, only notice of the hearing on the complaint is legally required. Although service of the complaint or petition on both the public entity and defendant or respondent is recommended, this service is thus apparently not legally required. Because the complaint or petition, if verified, can be used as evidence at the hearing, it should be served on the parties who may appear at the hearing.

4. Affidavit of service by mail [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013, 1013a].

To the extent appropriate, proof of service by affidavit is recommended.

NOTE:

Civ. Code § 3201* does not specify the method of service. Service by first-class mail is not recommended, but, instead, should be either personal service or service by registered or certified mail. Thus, proof of service could be shown by either the records of certification or registration or by the affidavit.

5. Time limits.

The hearing must be within 15 days from the making of motion for a hearing and five days' notice must be given of the hearing [Civ. Code § 3201].

NOTE:

No time limit is specified for the service of the complaint or petition, partly for the reason that service of the complaint or petition, independent of service of a notice for a hearing, is probably not legally required.

Although Civ. Code § 3201 is not clear on this point, notice of a motion for a hearing is apparently not legally required and only a written notice of the hearing is required. Thus, an ex parte application for the granting of a hearing date would seem appropriate [see § 481.338 for ex parte order]. However, where an ex parte order is not obtained, the written notice could be of the hearing [see § 481.339]. If counsel desires to give a written notice of the motion for a hearing, he or she should use § 481.340, which is for use when the court would go through the formality of granting the motion on the date set for the hearing and then proceed to conduct the hearing itself. In any event, counsel should check local court practice before deciding which of §§ 481.338-481.340 he or she should use.

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.253

§ 481.253 Hearing

1. Burden of proof.

The original contractor has the burden of proof at the hearing [Civ. Code § 3202].

NOTE:
Civ. Code § 3197* gives the following four grounds for the original contractor's affidavit:

- Claim is not of the type or classification for which a stop notice can be filed;
- The claimant is not qualified to file a stop notice;
- The amount of the claim is excessive; and
- There is no basis in law for the claim set out in the stop notice.

Civ. Code § 3202*, which provides that at the hearing the original contractor has the burden of proof, is based on statutory language in former Code Civ. Proc. § 1190.1(c) enacted before the Evidence Code, which was effective January 1, 1967. Under Evid. Code § 502, a party with the burden of proof is required to meet one of the following burdens: (1) to raise a reasonable doubt as to the existence or nonexistence of a fact; (2) to establish the existence or nonexistence of a fact by a preponderance of the evidence; (3) to establish the existence or nonexistence of a fact by clear and convincing proof; or (4) to establish the existence of a fact beyond a reasonable doubt.

The legislative intent was probably to impose on the original contractor the burden of proving the nonexistence of a factual ground for a stop notice by a preponderance of the evidence.

2. Nature of presumption established.

The presumption established by Civ. Code § 3202 is probably a presumption affecting the burden of producing evidence [see Evid. Code §§ 550(b), 601, 603-604] and not a presumption affecting the burden of proof [see Evid. Code §§ 605, 606].

NOTE:

To state that a party has the burden of proof as to the nonexistence of a fact is another way of stating that the other party is entitled to either a presumption affecting the burden of producing evidence or a presumption affecting the burden of proof as to the existence of a particular fact. A presumption affecting the burden of producing evidence is established to facilitate the determination of an action [Evid. Code § 603], while a presumption affecting the burden of proof is established to implement some public policy other than to facilitate the determination of an action [Evid. Code § 605].

The legislative intent was probably to impose on the original contractor the burden of producing evidence. Once this burden is met, the claimant clearly would not be entitled to a presumption in his or her favor. Under Evid. Code § 550(b), the burden of producing evidence as to a particular fact is initially on the party with the burden of proof as to that fact. The legislative intent was most likely to impose on the original contractor such a burden and not to entitle the claimant to a presumption affecting the burden of proof. Thus, even though the original contractor must establish his or her defense to the stop notice claim by a preponderance of the evidence, once the burden of producing evidence has been met, the claimant would not be entitled to a presumption as to the existence of a particular fact. Because at the hearing both the affidavit and counteraffidavit may be treated as evidence [Civ. Code § 3203], both parties would have introduced evidence and no presumption would operate unless the original contractor's affidavit did not fulfill the burden of producing evidence that resulted from the filing of a stop notice by the claimant.

3. Jury trial.

The stop notice procedure is not to be construed as to deprive any party of the right to a jury trial when this right is given by the California Constitution [Civ. Code § 3204].

NOTE:

Ordinarily, a demand for a jury trial is made in the Case Management Statement (Judicial Council Form CM-110) [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.725, 3.727(13)]. However, a case management statement is not the appropriate way to obtain a hearing date on the complaint or petition to determine the rights of the parties. It would seem that if the claimant desires a jury trial, he or she should demand a jury trial prior to or at the start of the hearing. If a motion for a hearing is heard before the actual start of the hearing, a demand for a jury trial would not seem appropriate until the court has granted the motion.

4. When hearing is ordered continued.

a. Demand for jury trial: If a demand for a jury trial is made at the time and place set for a hearing, the court should apparently order the hearing continued for the production of other evidence.

b. Hearing before court sitting without a jury: If no evidence other than the affidavit and counteraffidavit is offered, and the court is dissatisfied with the sufficiency of the facts shown thereby, it must order the hearing continued for the production of other evidence, oral or documentary, or the filing of other affidavits and counteraffidavits [Civ. Code § 3203].

5. Court order.

a. Contents.

See § 481.341.

b. Findings.

Not required [Civ. Code § 3203].

c. Nature of order.

A determination of whether or not the demand for release of money or bonds will be allowed.

d. Service.

The original contractor must serve a copy of the order on the public entity [Civ. Code § 3203].

§ 481.271 Expiration of Time to File Action to Enforce

An action cannot be commenced more than 90 days following the expiration of the period within which stop notices must be filed as provided in Civ. Code § 3184 [see § 481.191, Paragraph 5]. No such action may be brought to trial and no judgment may be entered until the expiration of the 90-day period. No money or bond can be withheld by reason of any such notice longer than the expiration of the 90-day period unless proceedings are commenced by the claimant in a proper court within that time to enforce his or her claim. If the proceedings have not been commenced, the stop notice ceases to be effective and the moneys or bonds withheld are required to be paid or delivered to the contractor or other person to whom they are due [Civ. Code § 3210].

NOTE:

To give notice to a stop notice claimant of the commencement of the time period in which an action to enforce payment of the claim stated in the stop notice must be brought, Civ. Code § 3185 provides that no later than 10 days after the filing of a notice of completion or after the cessation of labor has been deemed a completion of the public work or after the acceptance of completion, whichever is later, the public entity must give notice of the expiration of that period to each stop notice claimant by personal service, or registered or certified mail, if the claimant has paid to the public entity the sum of $2 at the time of filing the stop notice. When service is by registered or certified mail, service is complete at the time of the deposit of the registered or certified mail in the United States post office, addressed to the claimant at the address shown on the stop notice claim [Civ. Code § 3185]. If the public agency fails to give the notice of expiration, it may be estopped to rely on the statute of limitation. If the amount withheld is paid to the contractor because an action was not filed within the limitation period, the contractor also may be estopped to rely on the statute of limitation [J. H. Thompson Corp. v. DC Construction (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 1355, 1359-1361 ,] . Under appropriate circumstances, the statute of limitations may also be equitably tolled [see Structural Steel Fabricators, Inc. v. City of Orange (1995) 40 Cal. App. 4th 459, 464-467 , 46 Cal. Rptr. 2d 871] . For further discussion of estoppel and equitable tolling, see § 481.49[2].

§ 481.272 Jurisdiction

In the absence of a contrary, specific legislative mandate, the jurisdictional rules that apply under the mechanics' lien law also apply to an action to enforce a stop notice claim [Sunlight Elec. Supply Co. v. McKee (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 47, 50 37 Cal. Rptr. 782] .

Thus, the superior court has jurisdiction of a stop notice enforcement action, which will be classified as an unlimited civil case unless it is a limited civil case [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(6)]. An action to enforce and foreclose a mechanics' lien (and, presumably an action to enforce a stop notice claim) is a limited civil action if the amount of the lien, exclusive of interest, is $25,000 or less [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(6)]. When an action to enforce the lien affects property that is also affected by a similar pending action that is not a limited civil case, or when the total amount of the liens sought to be foreclosed against the same property exceeds $25,000, the action is not a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. § 86(a)(6)].

The law is unclear as to whether a party can qualify as a stop notice claimant under Civ. Code § 3214 when he or she has served a stop notice but has not served a required preliminary 20-day notice. Since the preliminary notice is intended to notify the original contractor and the public entity of the potential claim, the better rule would be that a stop notice claimant who has not filed a valid preliminary 20-day notice should be treated as a claimant for purposes of Civ. Code § 3214. Neither the original contractor nor public entity would be prejudiced by such treatment.

A claimant may have filed an unenforceable stop notice. A stop notice might be effective as a notice in the sense that the requirements of Civ. Code § 3184 have been fulfilled, but the notice might not be enforceable under Civ. Code § 3183 for failure to give a required preliminary 20-day notice. The law is unclear as to whether the claimant under an unenforceable stop notice can qualify as a claimant under Civ. Code § 3214. Under Civ. Code § 3214, such a claimant would not be enforcing the stop notice in the sense of requiring the public entity to withhold funds, and he or she would only be sharing in funds withheld as a result of enforceable stop notices filed by other claimants. The claimant would also be sharing in the funds not because he or she is enforcing the stop notice but only because the public entity has requested the court to implead him or her in an action involving the respective rights of claimants to funds withheld by a public entity.

Scope

NOTE:

SB 189, which was introduced in February 2009 as a two-year bill, would comprehensively revise, reorganize, and consolidate the law governing stop notices and payment bonds on public works projects in the Public Contract Code. The proposed legislation is the product of a recommendation of the California Law Revision Commission, which may be consulted at http://www.clrc.ca.gov/pub/Printed-Reports/REC-H821.pdf. The legislation would be operative January 1, 2011. If SB 189 is enacted, this chapter will be updated in a future release.

§ 481.291 Service of Post-Completion Bond Notice (Public Works)

NOTE:

Service of either a 20-day preliminary notice (public work) or a post-completion bond notice will allow a claimant to enforce a claim against a payment bond [Civ. Code § 3252]. Claimants not required to serve a 20-day preliminary bond notice are also not required to serve a post-completion bond notice [see Civ. Code §§ 3098(a), 3252(a)]. For a form and outline of requirements for giving a 20-day preliminary notice, see §§ 481.170 -481.174, and see § 481.330.

The post-completion notice requirement, which is seemingly inconsistent with the 20-day preliminary notice alternative, was enacted, effective January 1, 1995 [see 1994 Stats., ch 974 § 7], to protect the rights of "unsophisticated" laborers and materialmen who may not be aware of the 20-day preliminary notice requirement.

1. Contents of notice.

See § 481.360.

2. Manner of service.

The post-completion bond notice may be served by personal delivery, or by depositing the notice in the mail, postage prepaid, certified or registered, and addressed in accordance with any of the following that may be applicable [Civ. Code § 3227(a)]:

a. If to an individual surety, at his or her residence or place of business, if known. If to an individual surety whose residence is unknown, then in care of the clerk of the county in which the bond has been recorded.

b. If to a corporate surety, at the office of or in care of the agent designated by the surety in the bond as the address to which notice must be sent.

c. At the office of or in care of any officer of the surety in California.

d. At the office of or in care of the statutory agent of the surety in California.

e. To the bond principal at the last known address.

f. By service in the manner provided by law for the service of a summons in a civil action.

The preliminary bond notice must be served by mailing the same by registered or certified mail, postage prepaid, in an envelope addressed to the original contractor at any place he or she maintains an office, or

3. Time limitation.

The post-completion bond notice must be given within 15 days after recording of a notice of completion. If no notice of completion has been recorded, the time for giving written notice to the surety is extended to 75 days after completing the work of improvement [Civ. Code § 3252(b)].

§ 481.292 Time Limitations

1. Commencement of period within which suit may be brought.

Suit against surety on payment bond may be brought after the claimant has furnished the last of the labor or materials, or both [Civ. Code § 3249].

2. Expiration of period within which suit may be brought.

Suit must be commenced before the expiration of six months after the period in which stop notices may be filed as provided in Civ. Code § 3184 [Civ. Code § 3249].

NOTE:

However, the filing of a stop notice is not a condition precedent to the maintenance of an action against the surety on the payment bond [Civ. Code § 3250].

If the suit on the payment bond is going to be combined with enforcement of the stop notice action, which must be commenced within 90 days after the period for filing stop notices has expired [Civ. Code § 3210], then an action joining these two causes of action should be instituted during such 90-day period.

For a discussion of the above code sections and the determination of the commencement of various periods involved, see Fidelity Sound Systems, Inc. v. American Bonding Co. (1978) 149 Cal. Rptr. 674 .

42-481 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 481.293

§ 481.293 Preparation of Complaint

The essential allegations for a complaint for recovery on a contractor's payment bond are:

1. Capacity or residence of plaintiff (generally optional unless plaintiff is suing in a representative capacity or it is necessary to establish plaintiff's right to maintain the action);

2. Name and capacity (and residence, where venue is to be based thereon) of defendant or each defendant if there is more than one;

3. Agency allegations, if appropriate. See Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used ; and

4. Facts establishing the right of plaintiff to bring an action on a contractor's payment bond. See § 481.361, Paragraphs 6-12 of the Second Cause of Action:

a. If plaintiff is a contractor, that he or she is licensed as such;

b. That the plaintiff performed labor or furnished materials for and actually used in or consumed in a public work;

c. That the labor performed or materials furnished were at the instance of the original contractor;

d. Dates on which labor or materials were furnished;

e. Full performance of the contract (or, if not entirely performed, the excuse therefor accorded in the contract);

f. Amount due plaintiff on contract; and

g. That the original contractor, as principal, and a surety or sureties executed a bond which, by its terms was made to inure to the benefit of the plaintiff, as a claimant, and gave him or her right to recover on the bond.

§ 481.310 Complaint by Contractor Against Public Entity for Damages for Breach of Contract on Public Work

[1] FORM Complaint by Contractor Against Public Entity for Damages for Breach of Contract on Public Work

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name], Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES (Breach of Con-
_____ [names], Defendants.	)	tract)
	)	[Amount demanded _____
	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
		[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a duly licensed _____ [general or painting or specify other type of contractor] contractor under the laws of the State of California and engaged in business as such in the _____ [City or City and County] of _____, [County of _____,] California.

[2. Plaintiff is ignorant of the true names and capacities of defendants sued herein as DOES I-_____, inclusive, and therefore sues these defendants by such fictitious names. Plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained.]

3. At all times herein mentioned, defendant _____ [name of public entity] was, and now is, a _____ [specify capacity of defendant public entity, e.g., municipal corporation, duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California, and situated in the County of _____ or a chartered city, existing as such under the laws of the State of California, and situated in the County of _____].

4. On or about _____ [date], defendant _____ [name of public entity] acting through _____ [specify public department, board, or agency, e.g., the Board of Public Works], and by virtue of the authority granted _____ [specify statute, charter, e.g., by the charter of the defendant city], entered into a contract in writing with plaintiff for the construction of _____ [describe construction project]. A true and correct copy of the contract is attached to this complaint as Exhibit A and made a part of this complaint.

5. By the terms of the contract, all of the work was to be performed in accordance with the plans and the specifications _____ [more fully described in the contract or which are attached to this complaint as Exhibit B and made a part of this complaint].

6. Thereafter, plaintiff in all respects complied with the conditions and provisions of the contract, and all of the work was performed by plaintiff in the presence of inspectors of defendant in accordance with the plans and specifications _____ [contained in or attached to and forming a part of] the contract; all of the work was accepted by the inspectors as having been performed in accordance with the plans and specifications.

7. On _____ [date], plaintiff notified defendant _____ [name of public entity] that plaintiff had completed all of the work to be performed by him/her under the provisions of the contract, and plaintiff requested final inspection of the work so that plaintiff could receive payment therefor.

8. On _____ [date], defendant _____ [name of public entity] notified plaintiff that the work would not be accepted until certain additional work had been performed, namely: _____ [describe additional work]. Plaintiff refused to perform such additional work [unless additional compensation was paid] on the ground that plaintiff had fulfilled all of his/her contractual obligations with defendant. By reason of the refusal of defendant to accept the work performed by plaintiff or to pay plaintiff therefor, [or to recognize plaintiff's right to additional compensation,] plaintiff, pursuant to a reserved right to claim additional compensation for such additional work [, as specified in a notice delivered to defendant on _____ (date), a copy of which is attached to this complaint as Exhibit C and made a part of this complaint], completed all of the [required] additional work. All of the construction work performed by plaintiff was accepted by the defendant on _____ [date].

9. All of the additional work directed by defendant was performed by plaintiff at a cost of $_____, all to the damage of plaintiff in this amount, and work and services performed and materials supplied by plaintiff were reasonably worth this amount.

10. Under the provisions of the contract between plaintiff and defendant, plaintiff could not receive compensation for the work performed by him/her until such time as the project had been accepted as complete by defendant.

11. Prior to the commencement of this action, and on or about _____ [date], plaintiff presented to defendant _____ [name of public entity] a claim for damages in the sum of $_____ for breach of contract whichare sought in this action. A true and correct copy of the claim is attached to this complaint as Exhibit D and made a part of this complaint.

12. On or about _____ [date], defendant _____ [name of public entity] _____ [rejected this claim in its entirety or allowed this claim in the amount of $_____ and rejected it as to the remainder].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment [against defendants, and each of them,] as follows:

1. For compensatory damages in the sum of $_____;

2. For interest on the sum of $_____ from and after _____ [date];

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the plaintiff in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint for damages for breach of contract is for use by a general contractor against a public entity that wrongfully refused to accept the work performed by the contractor and required the contractor to perform certain additional work that the contractor did perform but for which he or she was not fully compensated under the terms of the general contract.

[3] Verifications

A public entity need not verify its answer even though the complaint is verified [see Code Civ. Proc. § 446]. The verification of a complaint against a public entity does, however, preclude a general denial except in a limited civil case, and will preclude a general denial even in a limited civil case when the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)].

[4] Jurisdiction

Superior courts have original jurisdiction in all cases except those given by statute to other trial courts [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10]. If the demand, exclusive of interest, or the value of the property amounts to $25,000 or less, except in certain cases (not relevant here), the case will be classified as a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(1)].

In limited civil cases the first page of the first paper filed must state whether the demand exceeds or does not exceed $10,000. The first page of the first paper filed must also identify the case as a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. § 422.30(b); Gov. Code § 72055; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(9), (10)].

[5] Venue

In a breach of contract action, proper venue is in the county where the defendant resides, where the contract was to be performed, or where the contract was entered into. The county in which the obligation was incurred will be deemed to be the county in which it is to be performed unless there is a special contract in writing to the contrary [see Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a)]. If the defendant in the contract action is a corporation, the action may also be brought in the county in which the corporation has its principal place of business [see Code Civ. Proc. § 395.5].

[6] Pleading Presentation of Claim to Public Entity

A claim for compensation arising out of a contract between a contractor and a public entity must be presented to the public entity in accordance with the provisions of Gov. Code §§ 900-915.4 [see Gov. Code § 905 (local public entities), Gov. Code § 905.2 (state)]. The claim must be presented to the public entity as provided in Gov. Code §§ 915-915.4 not later than one year after the accrual of the cause of action [see Gov. Code § 911.2(a)], which is the date on which the cause of action would be deemed to have accrued within the meaning of the statute of limitations which would be applicable thereto if there were no requirement that a claim be presented to and be acted on by the public entity before an action could be commenced thereon [Gov. Code § 901].

Except as provided in Gov. Code §§ 946.4 (inadequate statement concerning public agency on file with Roster of Public Agencies during 70 days following accrual of cause of action) and 946.6 (petition for relief from Gov. Code § 945.4 where public entity rejects late claim), no suit for money or damages may bebrought against the public entity on a cause of action for which a claim is required to be presented until a written claim therefor has been presented to the public entity and has been acted on by the board, or has been deemed to have been rejected by the board [Gov. Code § 945.4]. Satisfaction of this procedural prerequisite is an element of a contractor's cause of action against a public entity. A complaint must allege thepresentation of a written claim against the public entity (see Paragraph 11); otherwise, it does not set forth a cause of action against the public entity on any theory [see Wilson v. People ex rel. Dept. of Public Works (1969) 271 Cal. App. 2d 665, 668, 76 Cal. Rptr. 906] .

[7] Statute of Limitations

Except as provided in Gov. Code §§ 946.4 (inadequate statement concerning public agency on file with Roster of Public Agencies during 70 days following accrual of cause of action) and 946.6 (relief from requirement of Gov. Code § 945.4), any suit brought against a public entity on a cause of action for which a claim is required to be presented must be commenced: (1) if written notice is given in accordance with Gov. Code § 913 by the public entity, not later than six months after the date such notice is personally delivered or deposited in the mail, or (2) if such written notice is not given by the public entity, within two years after the accrual of the cause of action [Gov. Code § 945.6(a)]. This two-year period may be extended if the claimant and the board extend the period within which the board is required to act on the claim presented by the claimant [see Gov. Code §§ 912.4(b), 945.6(a)(2)].

[1] FORM Complaint by Contractor Against Public Entity for Damages for Breach of Contract for Construction of Retaining Wall--Breach of Warranty and Fraudulent Concealment

[Caption. See § 481.310.]

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of California.

[2. Allegation of plaintiff's contractor's license. See § 481.310, Paragraph 1.]

[3. Allegation of capacity of defendant as public entity. See § 481.310, Paragraph 3.]

4. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff and defendant entered into a written contract for the construction of _____ [describe work to be performed under contract, e.g., a retaining wall of a type known as a sidehill bridge], which contract consisted of the following documents: (1) contract dated _____; (2) plans and specifications; (3) instructions to bidders; (4) bid proposal, and (5) standard specification No. _____ of the Department of Public Works, City of _____.

5. The contract, in part, provides as follows: _____ [set forth contract provisions, e.g., a. Contractor agrees to furnish all material, equipment, and labor necessary for the construction of and to construct the retaining wall for the lump sum of $_____.

b. Contractor agrees to furnish said material, equipment, and labor, and to perform said work strictly in accordance with the plans, and any specifications therefor, and instructions to bidders and bid proposal therefor, which were duly approved and adopted by the _____ (name of public agency, e.g., Board of Public Works) of _____ (name of public entity) at its meeting of _____ [date].

c. It is expressly understood and agreed that the instructions to bidders, the notice inviting bids, the contractor's proposal, and said plans and specifications, all of which are on file in the office of _____ (name of public agency, e.g., Board of Public Works) constitute a part of this contract, and each of the parties hereto does hereby expressly convenant and agree to carry out and fully perform each and all of the provisions of the documents on his/her/its part to be performed.

d. That in constructing _____ (specify work to be done under contract, e.g., the retaining wall), plaintiff was to _____ (describe work to be done leading to unforeseen condition, e.g., install anchorcaissons and soldier beams detailed in the plans and specifications, through the specified procedure of drilling unsupported holes in the ground of some 12 to 34 feet in depth, which drilling procedure did not contemplate use of rotary mud).

e. Contractor agrees to begin work within _____ (number) days after execution of the contract, to complete the work within _____ (number) calendar days, and to pay a penalty of $_____ for each unexcused calendar day over these _____ (number) days as liquidated damages.

f. The _____ (name of public entity) agrees to pay the contractor for the performance of this work, as mentioned above, the sum hereinabove set forth, at the time and in the manner provided in the specifications, namely, the lump sum of $_____, to be paid within _____ (number) days after job acceptance by defendant _____ (name of public entity).]

6. Standard specification No. _____, forming a part of the contract, provides in part as follows: _____ [set forth pertinent specifications, e.g.,

2-1. These specifications, the plans, the project specifications, the instructions to bidders, and the notice inviting bids are all essential parts of the contract.

No deviations from the plans and specifications will be permitted except such as are authorized by the engineer to meet exigencies of construction. Section 2-1 is set forth in full in Exhibit A, which is attached hereto and made a part hereof.

2-8. CHANGED OR UNFORESEEN CONDITIONS. During the progress of the work, if the contractor should encounter subsurface or latent conditions materially different from those shown on the plans or indicated in the project specifications, or unknown conditions of a nature differing materially from those ordinarily encountered and generally recognized as being inherent in work of the character being performed, he/she must, before proceeding further with work affecting or affected by such conditions, immediately notify the engineer who will promptly make an investigation. If conditions do materially differ and the contractor could not reasonably have been expected to ascertain, in advance, the true nature of the existing conditions, a change order will be issued to provide for any increase or decrease in cost and difference in contract time resulting from any such condition. Section 2-8 is set forth in full in Exhibit B, which is attached hereto and made a part hereof.

3-3. BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS. The Board of Public Works of _____ (name of public entity) has the final authority in all matters affecting the work covered by these specifications.

THE ENGINEER. Within the scope of the contract, the engineer is authorized to decide matters with respect to the interpretation of the plans and specifications, to approve necessary changes in plans up to $_____ in cost, and to initiate changes in plans or the scope of the work, irrespective of cost, for submission to the board for final action.

THE INSPECTOR. Within the scope of the contract, the inspector is authorized to enforce compliance with plans and specifications, to determine the acceptability of materials and workmanship, and to prepare and process progress payment estimates on cash contracts. In the event of dispute between the contractor and the inspector, the latter is authorized to reject materials or suspend the work until any questions at issue can be referred to and decided by the board, or, in cases affecting the engineering features of the work, the engineer. Section 3-3 is set forth in full in Exhibit C, which is attached hereto and made a part hereof.

3-6. METHODS AND APPLIANCES. The methods, labor, equipment, and other facilities used by the contractor must be such as will assure performance of the work in accordance with the plans and specifications, within the time specified for completion.

5-1. TIME FOR STARTING WORK. Unless otherwise provided, the contractor must begin work within _____ (number) calendar days of the date of execution of the contract by the board. After commencement of the work, the contractor must prosecute the work diligently to completion within the prescribed time limit. Section 5-1 is set forth in full in Exhibit D, which attached hereto and made a part hereof.

5-2. If, through the fault of the city, the contractor must suspend operations and incurs expenses or sustains losses which could not have been avoided by the judicious handling of forces and equipment, and if by a diligent prosecution of the work he/she could not have completed the work before such suspension, the contractor will be paid such amounts as may be agreed on between the contractor and the board to be a fair and reasonable comprehension and a commensurate extension of contract time will be granted. Section 5-2 is set forth in full in Exhibits E and F, which are attached hereto and made a part hereof.

6-7. PROTECTION AND RESTORATION OF PROPERTY. The contractor will protect all public and private prop erty insofar as it may be endangered by his/her operations and he/she will take every reasonable precaution to avoid damage to such property. Section 6-7 is set forth in part in Exhibit G, which is attached hereto and made a part hereof.

7-3. PAYMENT SCHEDULES FOR LUMP SUM BIDS OR BID ITEMS. When required by the project specifications, the contractor will submit to the Bureau of Contract Administration within _____ (number) days after award of contract, a detailed schedule, in triplicate, to be used as the basis for determining progress payments on a lump sum bid or any designated lump sum bid item. Such a schedule will equal in total the lump sum price and will be in such form and detail and supported byevidence sufficient to satisfy the Bureau of Contract Administration that it correctly represents a reasonable apportionment of the lump sum, and will further be of a form and nature that will readily enable the inspector to determine the amounts of progress payments. Section 7-3 is set forth in full in Exhibit H, which is attached hereto and made a part hereof.

7-5. PAYMENTS ON CASH CONTRACTS. At the expiration of _____ (number) days from the date of acceptance of the work by the board, the amount deducted from the final estimate and retained by the city will be paid to the contractor, with the exception of such amounts as are required by law to be further retained. Section 7-5 is set forth in part in Exhibit I, which is attached hereto and made a part hereof.

110-1.4. CAST-IN-PLACE CONCRETE PILES. Cast-in-place concrete piles must have steel casings or shells driven to the required bearing, the shells being left permanently in place and filled with concrete. Section 110-1.4 is set forth in part in Exhibit J, which is attached hereto and made a part hereof.]

7. _____ [Set forth other pertinent provisions of plans and specifications, e.g., the plans and specifications contain 16 general notes. Note 7 provides that holes for the soldier beams and anchor caissons must be made by boring and/or drilling. Note 8 states that soldier beams and anchor caissons must be cast in place within unsupported holes, except that where, in the opinion of the engineer, the holes are subject to caving or sloughing, or are in any way unstable, the walls must be temporarily supported by steel casings or shells. Before placing the steel casing or shells, as much of the loose soil as is practical must be removed from the holes. The general notes are set forth in Exhibit K, which is attached hereto and made a part hereof].

8. Defendant issued these plans and specifications to plaintiff for the purpose and with the intention that plaintiff (1) believe the recitals contained therein; (2) rely on them; and (3) act on them, including _____ [specify any particular plans, specifications, or test reports on which plaintiff detrimentally relied, e.g., the log of test borings, included therein, which reported that the soil was coarse sand with clay binder.]

9. Defendant represented and impliedly warranted to plaintiff that these plans and specifications were engineeringly possible to execute, that it was engineeringly possible to construct _____ [describe work to be performed under contract, e.g., the retaining wall] according to the terms of the contract, and, in particular _____ [specify particular item either represented on which plaintiff relied or warranted which defendant breached, e.g., that the wall depicted on the plans would actually reach the ground level, and that it was engineeringly possible to drill the caisson and soldier beam holes without support, except for casing, as specified in the contract].

10. Defendant further represented and warranted that defendant had made full disclosure to plaintiff of all information and knowledge in its possession as to the _____ [describe, e.g., subsoil conditions prevailing at the construction site essential to the proper bidding of the contract by plaintiff; and, in addition, defendant represented and warranted to plaintiff that defendant had not misrepresented or concealed any pertinent knowledge relating to the subsurface soil conditions prevailing at the job site, and that, instead, defendant had made a full disclosure of such conditions].

11. The plans and specifications were incorrect and misleading in that: _____ [specify, e.g., a. The wall as depicted did not extend to the actual ground level;

b. Contrary to the implied representations and warranties therein, it was engineeringly impossible to drill the holes for the caissons and soldier beams by the unsupported and casing drilling procedures therein specified because of the unstable soil conditions;

c. Contrary to the requirements of the contract, it was engineeringly impossible to drill the holes and at the same time cast the caissons in place in unsupported holes or in holes supported by steel casings;

d. Defendant misrepresented soil conditions in the test holes as being coarse sand with clay binder when in fact it was coarse sand with minute binder; and

e. Defendant concealed the fact that two preliminary test holes made by defendant at the job site had in fact caved in at eight feet and 21 feet, that these tests holes had indicated cohesionless and flowing sand, and that subsurface caving would likely occur if holes were bored in the area for piles or caissons].

12. Defendant, at all times herein mentioned, had full knowledge and information in its possession of the true _____ [specify, e.g., subsoil] conditions at the job site and intentionally concealed and withheld the knowledge and information from plaintiff, who was ignorant thereof at all times prior to, and at the time of, entering into the contract.

13. Plaintiff believed and reasonably relied on the plans and specifications and on defendant's implied representations and warranties as herein alleged in making its bid in the amount of $_____, and entered into the contract by reason of this belief and reliance.

14. By reason of its misrepresentations and concealment, as herein alleged, defendant breached its implied warranty that the plans and specifications were correct and plaintiff, as a result, was unable to perform according to the contract provisions.

15. _____ [Describe detriment incurred as a result of defendant's misrepresentation and concealment, e.g., After commencement of work under the contract, plaintiff, for the first time, learned the true condition of the subsoil and, after experiencing continual caving in of the unsupported holes, requested a change order from defendant to permit it to drillthe holes with rotary mud and for a concomitant increase in the contract price. On or about _____ [date], defendant, in breach of Section 2-8 of the standard specification No. _____, set forth hereinabove, refused to issue a change order on the ground that the plans required only the drilling of the holes, leaving the method to plaintiff's discretion, and hence no change order was needed. Defendant directed plaintiff to continue with the work. To avoid collapse of the entire work area and the concomitant costs of repair and potential liability to third persons who might have been injured in such collapse, and to avoid possible imposition of penalties imposed by the contract for failure to timely complete construction, plaintiff, as directed by defendant, proceeded with the project using rotary mud].

16. Had the plans and specifications correctly set forth the true conditions of the _____ [specify, e.g., subsoil], plaintiff's bid for the job would have been in the sum of $_____, instead of the sum of $_____ which it bid.

17. As a result of defendant's breach of warranty and concealment and its failure to issue a change order as herein alleged, plaintiff has been damaged in the sum of $_____, as the additional cost of construction attributable to defendant's misrepresentations, plus the sum of $_____ as a reasonable profit on the additional work.

[18. As a further result of defendant's breach of warranty and concealment and its failure to issue the change order as herein alleged, plaintiff was compelled to bear the additional cost of construction out of its own resources, which in turn forced a curtailment in its construction operations, damaging plaintiff in the sum of $_____, and a curtailment of its research, damaging plaintiff in the sum of $_____, which in turn led to a reduction of bonding capacity, damaging plaintiff in the sum of $_____, and destroyed plaintiff's former advantageous competitive position in the industry, thereby damaging plaintiff in the sum of $_____.]

19. On _____ [date], plaintiff presented to defendant a claim for damages for breach of contract in the amount of $_____. A copy of this claim is attached hereto as Exhibit I and made a part hereof.

20. On _____ [date], defendant rejected the claim in its entirety. A copy of said rejection is attached hereto as Exhibit J and made a part hereof.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For the sum of $_____ as additional costs of construction;

2. For the sum of $_____ as a reasonable profit on the additional work;

3. For the sum of $_____ for loss of profits resulting from the impairment of plaintiff's capital;

4. For the sum of $_____ for losses resulting from curtailment by plaintiff of its research;

5. For the sum of $_____ for reduction of plaintiff's bonding capacity;

6. For the sum of $_____ for destruction of plaintiff's former advantageous competitive position;

7. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

8. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint for damages for breach of contract is for use by a contractor against a public entity when the public entity, by the terms of the contract or in its plans and specifications, has misrepresented the conditions that defendant would encounter in performing the required work under the contract [see Warner Constr. Corp. v. City of Los Angeles (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 285, 293-294, 85 Cal. Rptr. 444, 466 P.2d 996] .

The illustrative fact situation set forth in this form is adapted from the third and fourth causes of action set forth in plaintiff's complaint in Warner Constr. Corp. v. City of Los Angeles (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 285, 289-290, 293, 85 Cal. Rptr. 444, 466 P.2d 996 , in which the Supreme Court reversed judgment for plaintiff on the issue of damages only.

[3] Contract Liability for Fraudulent Concealment

Although fraudulent concealment often composes the basis for an action in tort, tort actions for misrepresentation aganst public agencies are barred by Gov. Code § 818.8. However, the contractor retains a cause of action in contract against the public entity based on the theory that the furnishing of misleading plans and specifications by the public body constitutes a breach of an implied warranty of their correctness. The fact that the breach was fraudulent or misleading does not make the rule inapplicable [see Warner Constr. Corp. v. City of Los Angeles (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 285, 293-294, 85 Cal. Rptr. 444, 466 P.2d 996] .

A contractor's cause of action for breach of contract based on the nondisclosure of material facts may arise in at least three instances: (1) the defendant makes representations but does not disclose facts that materially qualify the facts disclosed, or that render his or her disclosure likely to mislead (see Paragraphs 8, 9); (2) the facts are known or accessible only to the defendant, and the defendant knows they are not known to or reasonably discoverable by the plaintiff (see Paragraph 10); and (3) the defendant actively conceals discovery from the plaintiff (see Paragraph 12) [Warner Constr. Corp. v. City of Los Angeles (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 285, 294, 85 Cal. Rptr. 444, 466 P.2d 996] .

[4] Decisions

Availability of dredge was implied term of contract for construction of seawall based on explicit provisions regarding time within which work had to be performed and requirement that contractor coordinate with contractor hired by Army Corps of Engineers, who was to provide dredge necessary for backfill; contractor was entitled to recover costs of protecting and repairing wall during seven months prior to arrival of dredge. Tonkin Construction Co. v. County of Humboldt (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 828, 832-834, 233 Cal. Rptr. 587

State was liable for failure to inform contractor of tidal difficulties on prior repair of identical part of bridge 200 feet from part being bid. Welch v. State of California (1983) 139 Cal. App. 3d 546, 555-556, 188 Cal. Rptr. 726

[3. Fictitious name allegation. See § 481.310, Paragraph 2.]

4. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff was engaged in his/her business as a general contractor and submitted a bid for a construction job known as _____ [name of construction] in _____ [city], California, for _____ [name of public agency, e.g., the Department of Public Works of the State of California]. In accordance with bidding instructions, the bid had to be submitted in writing to the _____ [specify, e.g., Department of Public Works] in _____ [city], California, not later than _____ [time], on _____ [date].

5. Prior to the submission of plaintiff's bid for the construction of the _____ [state the particular improvement subject of the plaintiff's bid], plaintiff received from defendant at his/her office at _____ [street address], _____ [city], California, a verbal promise that defendant would perform, furnish, and install all of the _____ [specify portion of improvement, e.g., chalk, tack, and bulletin boards] in accordance with the plans and specifications for the _____ [name of construction] for the sum of $_____.

6. Plaintiff relied on the verbal promise of defendant and used the bid of defendant in computing his/her bid for submission to the _____ [name of public agency, e.g., Department of Public Works of the State of California] for the _____ [state improvement].

7. In reliance on defendant's promise as stated above, plaintiff, in submitting his/her final bid for the construction of the _____ [state improvement], did name defendant as a subcontractor to be employed to furnish and install the _____ [specify work to be performed by the subcontractor] on the _____ [state improvement] at the sum of $_____ agreed by defendant.

8. Plaintiff's bid for the general construction of the _____ [state improvement] was accepted and approved by the _____ [name of public agency, e.g., Department of Public Works of the State of California] on _____ [date].

9. Although plaintiff has made repeated requests and demands on defendant to perform the work as he/she agreed, defendant has failed, neglected, and refused to perform, furnish, and install the _____ [specify work to be performed by the subcontractor] in accordance with his/her promise, and continues to refuse and neglect to perform this work.

10. To fulfill his/her commitment pursuant to his/her contract with _____ [name of public agency, e.g., the Department of Public Works] for the construction of _____ [state improvement], plaintiff was compelled to, and did, obtain and install the _____ [specify work to be performed by the subcontractor] at a cost to plaintiff of $_____.

11. By reason of the foregoing, plaintiff has been damaged in the sum of $_____, the difference between the cost to plaintiff of obtaining the _____ [specify work to be performed by the subcontractor] in the amount of $_____ and the promise and bid of defendant to furnish and install the _____ [specify work to be performed by the subcontractor] in the amount of $_____; although plaintiff has demanded payment of these damages, defendant has failed, refused, and neglected, and continues to fail, refuse, and neglect, to pay this sum, or any other sum.

4. On or about _____ [date], defendant called for competitive bidding for the _____ [construction or performance] of a public project consisting of _____ [set forth nature of project].

5. Plaintiff submitted its bid of $_____ to defendant pursuant to defendant's solicitation for competitive bidding, accompanying its bid with a bidder's bond, executed by an admitted surety insurer, made payable to the _____ [director or specify other head of public agency] of the _____ [name of public agency, e.g., Department of Transportation of the State of California] under which the above-described project was to be performed. This bond was in an amount equal to _____ percent of the amount bid. A copy of this bond is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.

6. On or about _____ [date], the bids were opened and plaintiff's bid was approximately $_____ lower than the next bid.

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use by a subcontractor against the prime contractor on a public works contract when the prime contractor had listed the subcontractor in its bid or offer to perform the prime contract, but following the award of the contract substituted another subcontractor for the listed subcontractor without the lawful consent of the public entity [see Pub. Contract Code §§ 4104, 4107].

[3] Action for Damages Against Prime Contractor

Although the Subletting and Subcontracting Fair Practices Act [Pub. Contract Code § 4100 et seq.] does not specifically provide a remedy for the subcontractor who has been unlawfully denied the right to perform the subcontract for which he or she was listed in the prime contractor's bid to the public entity, since the purpose of the Act is to protect both the public and subcontractors from the evils of the proscribed unfair bid shopping and bid peddling, the Act confers the right on the listed subcontractor to perform the subcontract unless statutory grounds for a valid substitution exist. That right may be enforced by an action for damages against the prime contractor to recover the benefit of the bargain the listed subcontractor would have realized had he or she not been wrongfully deprived of the subcontract. Such a cause of action is based on the prime contractor's breach of the obligation contained in Pub. Contract Code § 4107 not to substitute any person as subcontractor in place of the listed subcontractor except with the consent of the awarding authority when a statutory ground for this consent exists as enumerated in Pub. Contract Code § 4107(a) [Southern Cal. Acoustics Co. v. C.V. Holder, Inc. (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 719, 727, 79 Cal. Rptr. 319, 456 P.2d 975 (interpreting former Gov. Code § 4107; now see Pub. Contract Code § 4107)].

[4] Decisions

Contractor was not liable for substitution of contractor on bid when there was substitution hearing at which public entity determined that there were adequate grounds for substitution and subcontractor did not seek review of that decision but commenced separate action. Interior Systems, Inc. v. Del W. Webb Corp. (1981) 121 Cal. App. 3d 312, 316-320, 175 Cal. Rptr. 301

To foster purpose of preventing practices of bid shopping and bid peddling, the Subletting and Subcontracting Fair Practices Act [former Gov. Code §§ 4100-4113 (now see Pub. Contract Code § 4100 et seq.)] requires any prime contractor bidding on public works to designate what portion of work will be done by each subcontractor and to list only one subcontractor for each portion as defined by prime contractor in his or her bid. Bay Cities Paving & Grading, Inc. v. Hensel Phelps Constr. Co. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 361, 365, 128 Cal. Rptr. 632

NOTE:

SB 189, which was introduced in February 2009 as a two-year bill, would comprehensively revise, reorganize, and consolidate the law governing stop notices and payment bonds on public works projects in the Public Contract Code. The proposed legislation is the product of a recommendation of the California Law Revision Commission, which may be consulted at http://www.clrc.ca.gov/pub/Printed-Reports/REC-H821.pdf. The legislation would be operative January 1, 2011. If SB 189 is enacted, this chapter will be updated in a future release.

§ 481.330 Preliminary 20-Day Notice (Public Work) [Civ. Code § 3098]

[1] FORM Preliminary 20-Day Notice (Public Work) [Civ. Code § 3098]

To _____ [public agency], _____ [address] and to _____ [original contractor], _____ [address]:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the undersigned [has performed (and will perform) or has furnished (and will furnish)] _____ [labor or services or equipment or materials] to the construction project located at _____ [describe job site sufficiently for identification].

The following information is given as required by Civil Code Section 3098:

1. The _____ [labor or services or equipment or materials] _____ [performed (and to be performed) or furnished (and to be furnished)] _____ [is or are] _____;

2. _____ [Labor or Services or Equipment or Materials] _____ [was or were] _____ [performed or furnished] _____ [on _____ (date), or from _____ (date), or from _____ (date), to _____ (date), or to date]; and

The _____ [labor or services or equipment or materials] _____ [was or were] [and will be] _____ [performed or furnished] to _____ [name of party who contracted for their purchase].
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature of claimant]

[2] Use of Form

This form of preliminary 20-day notice (public work) must be given when required by Civ. Code § 3098 before a claimant is entitled to enforce a stop notice [see Civ. Code § 3183(a)]. In addition, no payment in connection with a public work project may be withheld from the original contractor unless a claimant who is required to serve this notice has caused the notice to be given to the contractor and the public agency concerned [see Civ. Code § 3098(a)]. The above notice also may be given when required by Civ. Code § 3098 before a claimant asserts a claim against a payment bond [Civ. Code § 3252(a); see Civ. Code §§ 3227, 3252(b) setting forth form and timing of alternative post-completion bond notice that may be given instead of a 20-day preliminary notice before asserting a claim against a payment bond; see also § 481.360].

For a complete outline describing when this notice must be given, by and to whom the notice is served, and the place and manner of service, see § 481.170 et seq.

[3] Contents of Notice

A preliminary 20-day notice (public work) is a written notice from a claimant that is given before the filing of a stop notice or the assertion of a claim against a payment bond on public work and must state with substantial accuracy a general description of labor, service, equipment, or materials furnished or to be furnished and the name of the party to whom the same was furnished [Civ. Code § 3098].

[4] Disciplinary Action Against Licensed Contractor Failing to Give Notice

When the contract price to be paid to any subcontractor on a particular work of improvement exceeds $400, the failure of that contractor, who is licensed pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 7000 et seq., to give the preliminary 20-day notice (public work) constitutes grounds for disciplinary action by the Registrar of Contractors [Civ. Code § 3098(b)].

[5] State Statutes

Service of notice personally or by first-class, registered, or certified mail. Civ. Code § 3098(a)

Who must give and be given preliminary notice. Civ. Code § 3098(a)

Disciplinary action by Registrar of Contractors for failure of subcontractor to serve a preliminary notice when contract is over $400. Civ. Code § 3098(b)

[6] Decisions

Transmittal and notice requirements of Civ. Code § 3098 are strictly construed; compliance with transmittal and notice requirements of statute is required even when general contractor has actual notice of existence and identity of material supplier. San Joaquin Blocklite, Inc. v. Willden (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 361, 364-366, 228 Cal. Rptr. 842

§ 481.331 Stop Notice [Civ. Code §§ 3103, 3181-3187]

[1] FORM Stop Notice [Civ. Code §§ 3103, 3181-3187]

To _____ [name and address of public entity; specify subdivision thereof, if appropriate]:

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that _____ [name of claimant], the undersigned, whose address is _____ [specify], _____ [performed or agreed to perform or furnished or agreed to furnish] _____ [labor or materials or services or equipment] _____ [for or to] _____ [name of contractor or subcontractor for or to whom the labor, materials, services, or equipment was performed or furnished] _____ [to be used in or used in] the public work of improvement consisting of the _____ [performance or construction] of _____ [give location and general description of public work]. This public work is being _____ [performed or constructed] pursuant to the original contract entered into between you and _____ [name], the original contractor for the work of improvement.

The following _____ [labor or materials or services or equipment] has/have been _____ [performed or furnished] _____ [on _____ (date), or between the dates of _____, and _____]: _____ [state in general terms].

The _____ [contract price or reasonable value] of the _____ [labor or services or equipment or materials], being the whole of the amount in value agreed to be _____ [performed or furnished], is $_____, of which sum $_____ plus interest at the rate of _____ percent per year from _____ [date], has not been paid after deduction of all just credits and offsets. The amount of the _____ [labor or materials or services or equipment] already _____ [performed or furnished] is $_____.

Therefore, the undersigned hereby requests and demands that you withhold sufficient funds to satisfy this claim as required under Civil Code Section 3186 relating to stop notices for public works.

Dated: _____.

_____ [signature of claimant]

I, _____ [name], declare that:

I am the person named as claimant in the foregoing stop notice.

I have read it and know the contents thereof. It is true and contains, among other things, a correct statement of my demand. I declare under the penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct and that this declaration was executed on _____ [date], at _____ [city], California.

_____ [signature of claimant]

[2] Use of Form

This form must be given by a stop notice claimant to a public entity responsible for the public work for which the claim is made. On receipt of the stop notice, it is the duty of the public entity to withhold from the original contractor, or from any person acting under his or her authority, money or bonds (when bonds are to be issued in payment for the work of improvement) due or to become due to the contractor in an amount sufficient to answer the claim stated in the stop notice and to provide for the entity's reasonable cost of any litigation incurred [Civ. Code § 3186]. For a form of a stop notice used by the Department of Transportation, see § 481.332[1]. For an outline relating to service of the stop notice, see §§ 481.170 -481.174.

[3] Contents of Notice

Under Civ. Code § 3103, a stop notice is a written notice, signed and verified by the claimant. It must state in general terms the following:

- The kind of labor, materials, services, or equipment furnished or agreed to be furnished by such claimant;

- The name of the person for or to whom the same was done or furnished; and

- The amount in value, as near as may be, of that already done or furnished and of the whole agreed to be done or furnished.

[4] Claims Covered

A stop notice on a public job clearly covers labor or materials agreed to be furnished by the claimant. The duty of the public entity to withhold from the original contractor money or bonds sufficient to answer the claim stated in the stop notice would apparently also cover the claim for labor, materials, services, or equipment that had not been furnished at the time of service of the stop notice. Thus, even though stop notice claimants share in funds withheld without regard to the order of time in which their respective notices may have been served [Civ. Code § 3190], a potential stop notice claimant would have an advantage in filing his or her notice before furnishing labor, materials, services, or equipment.

When the public entity is making progress payments to the original contractor, the public entity is probably required to withhold from the first money that becomes due to the contractor sufficient money to cover the claim of a stop notice claimant who files his or her notice before furnishing labor or materials [see Diamond Match Co. v. Silberstein (1913) 165 Cal. 282, 286, 131 P. 874 (holding that owner has duty to withhold funds from first money that may become due to contractor)]. When the funds withheld are not in an amount sufficient to meet the demands of all stop notice claimants, the stop notice claimant who filed before furnishing labor, materials, services, or equipment could recover from the public entity the whole amount of his or her claim if the public entity did not honor the stop notice by withholding from the amount of the first money to become due to the original contractor money sufficient to cover the claim [see United States Fid. & Guar. Co. v. Oak Grove Union School Dist. (1962) 205 Cal. App. 2d 226, 231, 22 Cal. Rptr. 907 (stating that laborer or materialman has cause of action in equity against public entity who disregards properly filed stop notice)]. Usually, the claimant would recover from the bonding company and the bonding company would, in turn, be subrogated to the claimant's cause of action against the public entity [see United States Fid. & Guar. Co. v. Oak Grove Union School Dist. (1962) 205 Cal. App. 2d 226, 231, 22 Cal. Rptr. 907] .

[1] FORM Release of Stop Notice

To _____ [name and address of public entity; specify subdivision thereof, if appropriate]:

The undersigned hereby withdraws and releases the stop notice filed on _____ [date], with the above-named public entity against _____ [name of original contractor] in the amount of $_____ for _____ [labor or services or equipment or materials] _____ [performed or furnished] in connection with the original contract [, numbered _____], for the _____ [performance or construction] of the public work of improvement consisting of _____ [give location and general description of public work].

The undersigned also hereby releases _____ [name of public entity], and its subdivisions and agents, from any further duty under Section 3186 of the Civil Code to withhold money or bonds in response to the stop notice, and waives any right of action against them that might accrue thereunder.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature of notice claimant]

_____ [name of firm, if appropriate]

_____ [address]

[2] Use of Form

This form of release of stop notice should be supplied by the original contractor or subcontractor to a stop notice claimant after the claimant has been paid the sum claimed in the stop notice. The original contractor should be certain that the claimant prepares this form and files it with the appropriate public entity so that the amount withheld can be released to the original contractor. For a form of release of stop notice used by the Department of Transportation, see § 481.334.

[1] FORM Declaration [or Certificate] Under Penalty of Perjury by Original Contractor That Amount Withheld Under Stop Notice Is Improperly Withheld--And Demand for Release[Civ. Code § 3198]

To _____ [name and address of public entity, and subdivision thereof, if appropriate]:

I, _____, the undersigned, _____ [declare or certify] that:

I am a general contractor duly authorized and licensed to do business as such in _____ County, California.

As such licensed contractor, I am engaged in the construction of a _____ [name of public work project, e.g., bridge] at _____ [location of project] under a contract entered into with _____ [name of public entity] on _____ [date].

On or about _____ [date], _____ [name of stop notice claimant] filed with _____ [name of public entity] a stop notice demanding a withholding of $_____ from the funds due to the undersigned by _____ [name of public entity], on the ground that _____ [name of claimant] has a right to the amount so requested to be withheld for labor and materials furnished to the undersigned during the construction of the above-described project.

The undersigned is rightfully entitled to the amount of $_____ which is improperly withheld by _____ [name of public entity] in that _____ [specify grounds, e.g., the claimant is not within the group of persons authorized by Sections 3110-3112 and 3181 of the Civil Code].

WHEREFORE, the undersigned demands the release of the _____ [sum of $_____ or bonds] withheld by _____ [name of public entity].

The address of the undersigned, for purposes of service, is _____ [street], _____ [city], California.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

This form of declaration or certificate is for use by an original contractor to obtain the release of a stop notice that the contractor asserts is not valid or enforceable because (1) the claim on which the notice is based is not included within the types or classifications of claims referred to in the provisions governing stop notices, (2) the claimant is not a person named in Civ. Code §§ 3110-3112 and 3181, (3) the amount of the claim is excessive, or (4) there is no basis in law for the claim referred to [see Civ. Code § 3197].

The public entity must be served with the above declaration or certificate and one copy thereof. Although Civ. Code § 3198 does not so specify, it is recommended that both copies be signed originals because the public entity would want a signed original; and if the public entity later files a copy with the court under Civ. Code § 3202, that copy should be a signed original. For a discussion relating to the service of and actions on a stop notice, see §§ 481.190 -481.192, 481.270 -481.277.

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint or petition is for use by an original contractor in an action for a declaration of the respective rights of a stop notice claimant and original contractor to the funds which had been withheld by the public entity pursuant to the claimant's stop notice. The form may be used either as a petition or complaint. Although either form (petition or complaint) should be sufficient to satisfy the statutory requirement for commencing an "action" under Civ. Code § 3201, neither form is recommended as the better or more appropriate means for commencing the action since, insofar as the procedure by which the original contractor may contest the validity or enforceability of, or amount of claim in, the stop notice, is termed a "summary proceeding," a petition would seem more appropriate, while, insofar as the means by which the claimant or original contractor may have a hearing on the affidavit and counteraffidavit is termed "action," a complaint would seem more appropriate. In any case, counsel should determine whether there is a local court practice before commencing an action for a declaration of the respective rights of the parties. For an outline of the procedures and other requirements involved in an action for a declaration of rights to withheld funds, see §§ 481.250 -481.253.

[3] State Statutes

When counteraffidavit by claimant has been filed as provided in Civ. Code § 3200, either claimant or original contractor is permitted to file action in appropriate superior court for declaration of respective rights of parties to funds withheld pursuant to claimant's stop notice. Civ. Code § 3201

Attorney for _____ [party's status]

[2] Use of Form

This form of notice must be given to the public entity and to the opposing party by the party making the motion, which may be either the claimant or the original contractor, for a hearing for the purpose of determining his or her rights under the affidavit and demand for release and the counteraffidavit [Civ. Code § 3201].

[3] Motion for Hearing

Although the procedure of obtaining a hearing for a determination of the rights to funds being withheld is not clearly set forth under Civ. Code § 3201, the section does not require a written notice of the motion for a hearing. Specifically, Civ. Code § 3201 provides that the hearing must be granted by the court. Thus, an ex parte application or motion would seem to be an appropriate way of obtaining a hearing date to determine the rights of the parties. Civ. Code § 3201 does require a notice in writing of the hearing, which must be given not less than five days before the hearing. Therefore, a written notice of the hearing on determining the rights of the parties to the funds would fulfill statutory requirements. The motion for a hearing apparently can be made and granted before notice is given on the hearing.

However, two other procedures are also possible. First, counsel can give notice of the hearing, without previously having obtained a court order for a hearing, and then move at the time set for the hearing that the court should order the hearing; immediately thereafter the court would proceed to hear the matter [see § 481.339]. Secondly, it would be possible to treat the notice as a notice of motion to be made at the time and place designated without actually giving notice of the hearing determining the rights of the parties [see § 481.340].

Nevertheless, the better practice would be to file the complaint or petition, immediately thereafter making an ex parte application for the hearing. The complaint or petition and the court order would then be served on the claimant and the public entity, along with proof of service made under Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a. A summons need not be served because an answer by the party served is not required. Civ. Code § 3202 (formerly Code Civ. Proc. § 1090.1(c)) specifically provides that the affidavit and counteraffidavitconstitute the pleadings and that the affidavit of the original contractor is deemed controverted by the counteraffidavit.

Because of the alternative procedures allowable under Civ. Code § 3201, counsel should check local court practice before preparing the complaint or petition, or any application for a court order for a hearing, or the notice of the motion or the hearing.

When counsel believes that his or her client is constitutionally entitled to a trial by jury and has decided to demand one, he or she should probably present to the court a written demand for jury trial along with the application for an ex parte order for a hearing. If he or she decides against a jury trial, but believes that a constitutional right to a jury trial does exist, the opposing party should be notified of his or her right to a jury trial in the notice that is served on him or her.

[2] Use of Form

This form of notice may be used when an ex parte application has not previously been granted by the court. At the time of the hearing, counsel for the party setting the matter for hearing should move that the court grant the hearing, and after the application is granted, the hearing would then be conducted. No written notice is given of the actual application or motion for the hearing under the above form since Civ. Code § 3201 does not require a written notice of motion. However, if one is desired, see § 481.340.

_____ [name], Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	ORDER
_____ [name], Defendant.	)	DETERMINING RIGHTS TO )	WITHHELD FUNDS

The motion of _____ [name of moving party] for an order for a hearing on the complaint for _____ [a declaration of rights or an order declaring that he/she/it is entitled to the sum of $_____ withheld by _____ (name of public entity) pursuant to a stop notice filed by _____ [name] on _____ [date], and for an order to have this sum of $_____ released to him/her/it] came on regularly for hearing by this court this date on notice duly and regularly served. _____ [Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ (name) and defendant appeared by counsel _____ (name) or No appearance was made on behalf of _____ (plaintiff or defendant)].

The matter having been fully submitted and argued and proof having been made to the satisfaction of this court, and good cause appearing therefor,

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that plaintiff is [not] entitled to have released to him/her/it the sum of $_____ withheld by _____ [name of public entity] [and that this sum of money be released by the _____ (name of public entity) to the _____ (plaintiff or petitioner or original contractor)].

Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]

Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

This form of order is for use in a summary proceeding to determine whether or not a demand for release will be allowed.

At the hearing, the original contractor has the burden of proof [Civ. Code § 3202]. The purpose of the hearing is to determine whether the funds withheld should be further withheld or released to the contractor. The actual payment of the claim would be by action filed under Civ. Code § 3210-3214.

[3] Right to Jury Trial

When the right to a jury trial is given by the state constitution [Cal. Const., art. I, § 7], the procedure on release of a stop notice is not to be construed as depriving any party of the right to a jury trial [Civ. Code § 3204]. Whether a jury trial is constitutionally required would depend, in part, on the grounds given in the affidavit filed by the contractor for the release of withheld funds to him or her. If the ground given is that there is no basis in law for the claim set forth in the stop notice, a jury trial would not ordinarily be constitutionally required. However, if the ground given is that the amount of the claim as set forth in the stop notice is excessive, a question of fact requiring a jury trial might constitutionally be present.

When the hearing is before the court sitting without a jury, the court may make its determination on the affidavit and counteraffidavit if they contain sufficient facts. However, the court may order the hearing continued from the production of other evidence [Civ. Code § 3203].

[4] Res Judicata

The court determination resulting from the proceedings is not res judicata as to any right of action that the claimant has against either the principal or surety on or under the payment bond coming under Civ. Code § 3247 et seq. or Pub. Contract Code § 7103 or as to any right of action against any party personally liable to the claimant [Civ. Code § 3205]. The effect of this provision is that the court determination is not res judicata as to any action brought by the claimant for breach of contract or under the payment bond. However, the court determination would apparently be res judicata as to an action brought by the claimant under Civ. Code §§ 3210-3214 against the public agency to enforce payment of his or her claim.

[5] Service of Order on Public Entity

The original contractor is required by statute [Civ. Code § 3203] to serve a copy of the court order on the public entity.

6. On or about _____ [date], defendant _____ [name of public entity] acting through _____ [specify, e.g., the Board of Public Works], and by virtue of the authority granted _____ [describe source of authority, e.g., by the charter of the defendant city], entered into a contract with defendant _____ [name of original contractor] for the construction of a certain public work of improvement consisting of _____ [describe construction project].

[EITHER]

[7. If plaintiff is subcontractor, allege: On or about _____ (date), plaintiff entered into a contract with defendant _____ (name of original contractor) as original contractor, whereby plaintiff agreed to perform a certain, specified portion of the original contract, namely _____ (specify work agreed to be performed). Defendant _____ (name of original contractor) agreed to pay plaintiff the contract price of $_____ on the completion of the contract. Pursuant thereto, on or about _____ (date), plaintiff performed all conditions, covenants, and promises under the contract which he/she agreed to perform and furnished all necessary services, materials, and equipment to be used, and which were actually used, on or in the construction of the public work.]

[OR]

[7. If plaintiff is materialman, allege: Between _____ (date), and _____ (date), inclusive, at the special instance and request of defendant _____ (name of original contractor), plaintiff furnished certain _____ (labor or services or materials or equipment) to be used, and which were actually used, on or in the public works construction project identified above.]

8. The _____ [total contract price or reasonable value] of the _____ [labor or services or materials or equipment] so _____ [performed or furnished and used as mentioned above] [, which price was the reasonable value of the same], amounts to the sum of $_____; although demand therefor has been made, no part of this sum has been paid, except the sum of $_____, and the sum of $_____ remains due, owing, and unpaid over and above all credit and offsets.

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
(Enforcement of Stop Notice)

9. Plaintiff refers to and incorporates, as though fully set forth herein, Paragraphs 1-8, inclusive, of the First Cause of Action.

[10. If plaintiff was required to serve preliminary 20-day notice (public work) under Civ. Code § 3098, allege: Plaintiff filed his/her/its preliminary 20-day notice (public work), a true and correct copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit

11. On _____ [date], plaintiff filed his/her/its stop notice, a true and correct copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit B and made a part hereof, with defendant _____ [name of public entity] pursuant to Sections 3103 and 3181 through 3184 of the Civil Code.

12. In this stop notice plaintiff demanded that defendant _____ [name of public entity] withhold sufficient funds to answer the plaintiff'sclaim contained in the stop notice, which claim was for the sum of $_____, the sum that remains unpaid _____ [by or under plaintiff's contract with] defendant _____ [name of original contractor], as alleged above.

13. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that on the date that defendant _____ [name of public entity] received the stop notice as alleged above, it had in its possession sufficient funds due or to become due to defendant _____ [name of original contractor] to answer the plaintiff's claim stated in such stop notice.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For the sum of $_____ as principal, together with interest at the rate of _____ percent per day from _____ [date], to the date of judgment against defendant _____ [name of original contractor];

2. That the funds withheld by defendant _____ [name of public entity] in accordance with the demand made in the stop notice be paid to the plaintiff on account of this judgment;

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use in an action to enforce the payment of the claim stated in a stop notice that has been timely filed when the public entity or original contractor has not paid the claim.

[3] Time of Commencement

The action must be filed no sooner than 10 days after the stop notice has been served on the public entity and no later than 90 days following the expiration of the period within which stop notices must be filed [Civ. Code § 3210].

[4] Notice of Action

The plaintiff must give notice to the public entity of the action within five days after commencement of the action by registered or certified mail [Civ. Code § 3211; see § 481.343].

[5] Joinder With Other Actions

The different causes of action arising out of a public works construction project are often united. Thus, a cause of action on the contract [see § 481.313] and/or an action on the payment bond [see § 481.361] may be joined with an action to enforce the payment of the claim stated on a stop notice.

[6] Prior Claims Against Public Entity Not Required

Because the action is against the funds withheld and the public entity is a mere custodian of the funds, the claimant is not required to comply with the claims procedure of Gov. Code § 900 et seq. [Civ. Code § 3265].

[7] State Statutes

Service of notice. Civ. Code § 3103

Enforcement of rights arising from stop notice. Civ. Code §§ 3210-3214

[8] Decisions

If action to enforce stop notice is not timely filed, action to enforce stop notice against public entity is barred. A. J. Setting Co. v. Trustees of Cal. State Univ. & Colleges (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 374, 380-385, 174 Cal. Rptr. 43

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use by a public entity in an action to interplead the claims of stop notice claimants who have served valid stop notices. The form may be used either before any actions have been filed by the stop notice claimants to enforce payment of their claims or after such actions have been filed [see Code Civ. Proc. § 386(a), (b)]. With appropriate modifications, the form may also be used by the public entity in a cross action [see Ch. 314, Interpleader].

Accompanying this complaint, the public entity should serve on the defendants notice of motions for a court order consolidating actions already filed, if appropriate, and for an interlocutory order in interpleader and for an injunction, together with supporting memoranda of points and authorities and affidavits.

Scope

NOTE:

SB 189, which was introduced in February 2009 as a two-year bill, would comprehensively revise, reorganize, and consolidate the law governing stop notices and payment bonds on public works projects in the Public Contract Code. The proposed legislation is the product of a recommendation of the California Law Revision Commission, which may be consulted at http://www.clrc.ca.gov/pub/Printed-Reports/REC-H821.pdf. The legislation would be operative January 1, 2011. If SB 189 is enacted, this chapter will be updated in a future release.

Plaintiff alleges:

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION
(Breach of Contract)

[1. Allegation of license if plaintiff is a subcontractor. See § 481.310, Paragraph 1.]

[2. Capacity and residence of plaintiff. See § 481.311, Paragraph 1.]

[3. Capacity and residence of defendant original contractor. See § 481.312, Paragraph 2.]

4. On or about _____ [date], _____ [name of public entity], hereinafter referred to as the "public entity," made and entered into a contract in writing with defendant, _____ [name of original contractor], under the terms of which this defendant covenanted and agreed to do all of the work and furnish all of the materials necessary to _____ [perform or construct] a work of improvement consisting of _____ [describe work of improvement], in _____ County, California, and described specifically as follows: _____ [give legal description]. [A copy of this contract is attached to this complaint as Exhibit A and made a part of this complaint.]

5. Between _____ [date] and _____ [date], plaintiff _____ [performed for or furnished to] defendant _____ [name of original contractor] the following _____ [state and describe labor, materials, services, or equipment performed or furnished; if materials, services, or equipment were furnished, add : to be used, and which were actually used, in the _____ (performance or construction) of the work of improvement contracted to be done as mentioned above]. The total contract value of the _____ [labor or materials or services or equipment] so _____ [performed or furnished] [and used], which sum is the reasonable value of the _____ [labor or materials or services or equipment], amounts to the sum of $_____. No part of this sum has been paid and the whole amount remains due, owing, and unpaid, over and above all just credits and offsets.

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
(On Public Works Payment Bond)

6. Plaintiff refers to and incorporates, as though fully set forth herein, Paragraphs 1-5, inclusive, of the First Cause of Action.

7. At all times herein mentioned, defendant _____ [name of surety], hereinafter referred to as the "surety," was, and now is, an admitted surety insurer, as that term is defined in Code of Civil Procedure Section 995.120.

8. Contemporaneously with the execution of the aforesaid contract, defendant original contractor, as principal, and defendant surety executed a payment bond for the purpose of complying with Sections 3096 and 3247 through 3252 of the Civil Code, which was thereafter, on _____ [date], filed with and approved by the public entity. This bond was in the sum of $_____, was conditioned, and provided that if the original contractor or any of his/her subcontractors failed to pay for any materials, provisions, provender, or other supplies, used in, on, for, or about the _____ [construction or performance] of the work of improvement, or for any work or labor done thereon of any kind, that the surety on the bond would pay the same. [A copy of the payment bond is attached to this complaint as Exhibit B and made a part of this complaint.]

[If materials were furnished by one not under direct contractual relationship with original contractor allege:]

[EITHER]

9. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff gave to defendant _____ [name of surety] and _____ [name of bond principal] _____ [in person or by United States certified (registered) mail, postage prepaid, addressed to this defendant at _____ (address) and bond principal at _____ (address)] as provided in Civil Code Section 3227(a), the written notice as required by Civil

Code Section 3252(b), in the form prescribed by Civil Code Section 3227(b). [A copy of this notice is attached to this complaint as Exhibit _____ and made a part of this complaint.]

[OR]

9. On or about _____ [date], within 20 days after plaintiff first furnished _____ [labor or materials or services or equipment or combination thereof], plaintiff served a preliminary 20-day notice (public work) ondefendant _____ [contractor] and on _____ [the public agency concerned] in accordance with the provisions of Civil Code Section 3098. [A copy of this notice is attached to this complaint, marked as Exhibit _____, and made a part of this complaint.]

[10. As a further condition of the payment bond, the principal and surety promised and agreed to pay reasonable attorney's fees to be fixed by the court in case suit was brought on the bond and undertaking. The sum of $_____ constitutes reasonable attorney's fees to be allowed for plaintiff's attorney's fees herein.]

11. A balance of the amount claimed, in the sum of $_____, is past due, owing, and unpaid. Plaintiff has made demand on defendant _____ [name of surety] for payment of the balance, but it has failed and refused, and continues to fail and refuse, to pay the same, or any part thereof.

12. The statutory provisions, incorporated into the attached payment bond, require the payment by defendants, and each of them, of reasonable attorney's fees, to be fixed by the court.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendants, and each of them, as follows:

1. For the sum of $_____, together with interest at the rate of _____ percent from _____ [date], until paid;

2. For reasonable attorney's fees [in the sum of $_____];

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use in an action brought by a subcontractor, materialman, or laborer against the original contractor on a public works project and the surety on a payment bond in situations where the original contractor, as principal, and the surety have made and executed a payment bond pursuant to Civ. Code § 3247.

[3] Joinder of Contractor and Surety

A claimant may maintain a direct suit against the surety without having to first bring a suit against the principal, the original contractor [Civ. Code § 3248]. The obligation of the surety is primary and direct and is enforceable without relation to the original contract. Moreover, it would appear under Code Civ. Proc. § 389 not to be compulsory to join the contractor as a party in an action against the surety. Nevertheless, it is a matter of common practice to include a separate action on the contract against the contractor with the suit against the surety on the payment bond. When the claimant is in privity of contract with the contractor, the action is on the contract. When there is no such privity, the general contractor owes the claimant nothing and the surety is directly liable along with the subcontractor who does have contractual privity with the claimant [see Powers Regulator Co. v. Seaboard Surety Co. (1962) 204 Cal. App. 2d 338, 345, 22 Cal. Rptr. 373] .

[4] Joinder of Stop Notice Action

The suit on the payment bond is a separate remedy distinct from any stop notice rights that the claimant might have. The filing of a stop notice is not a condition precedent to the maintenance of a payment bond action. There is no requirement that the public entity be brought into the suit in order for the plaintiff to enforce his or her rights under the payment bond [Civ. Code § 3250]. However, in the event that a stop notice has been filed, the actions on the payment bond and the stop notice may be combined into one lawsuit. Counsel need only combine the above complaint with the allegations set forth in § 481.342 and by including the public entity as a defendant.

§ 482.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses the resolution of conflicting claims of ownership to property through use of an action to quiet title. It includes a procedural checklist and the following forms:

- A complaint in general form [see § 482.80].
- A complaint for use by a purchaser of tax-deeded property [see § 482.81].
- An answer disclaiming any interest in the subject property [see § 482.82].
- An answer asserting the defendant's interest [see § 482.83].
- A notice of motion [see § 482.84] for an order [see § 482.85] permitting a party to make a survey of real property.
- A judgment in general form for use by the plaintiff and adaptable for use by the defendant [see § 482.86].
- A complaint in general form for use in a federal court action to quiet title to real property against the United States [see § 482.87].

The action discussed in this chapter is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 760.010 et seq. (state court action) and by 28 U.S.C. §§ 1346(f), 2409a (federal court action against United States involving title to real property). The state statute was enacted in 1980, effective January 1, 1981. It made the quiet title judgment in rem, that is, effective against both named and unknown defendants [Code Civ. Proc. § 764.030; see § 482.42]. Prior to its enactment, ordinary quiet title actions were only effective against named defendants [former Code Civ. Proc. § 738]. The state statutes and rules governing practice in civil actions in general apply to quiet title actions except where they are inconsistent with the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 760.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.060].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

42-482 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 482.11

§ 482.11 Gist of Quiet Title Action

If one person claims to be the owner of an interest in property, and another person claims to be the owner of an interest in the same property, and the two claims conflict, either may sue the other for a judgment resolving that conflict. The judgment will declare who owns what interest and may give other specific or preventive relief to the extent required under the circumstances. The cause of action is explicitly authorized by Code Civ. Proc. § 760.010, which provides that an action may be brought to establish title against adverse claims to real or personal property or any interest therein. "Claim" is defined as including a legal or equitable right, title, estate, lien, or interest in property or cloud on title [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.010(a)]. "Property," to use the term in its broadest possible sense [15 Calif. L. Rev. Comm'n 1194 (1979)], is defined as including real property and, to the extent applicable, personal property [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.010(b)].

These provisions do not limit the interests that may be determined or the persons against whom they may be quieted; they are intended to provide the broadest possible forum for clearing title to the fee or any other interest in property [15 Calif. L. Rev. Comm'n 1194 (1979)].

The action is called an action to quiet title because the effect of the judgment is to quiet adverse claimants to the rightful owner's title (claim of ownership). By the doctrine of res judicata, the judgment precludes further litigation and thereby tends to make the rightful owner's title secure.

The action is, in effect, a foreclosure action not unlike that which a secured lender might bring to collect the debt by foreclosing the borrower's interest in the security (property) [see Jones v. Sacramento Sav. & L. Ass'n (1967) 248 Cal. App. 2d 522, 530, 56 Cal. Rptr. 741] .

Chapter 482 QUIETING TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

42-482 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 482.12

§ 482.12 Objectives of Action; Related Actions

Most quiet title actions involve ownership of some interest in real property, and they usually are brought for the purpose of foreclosing adverse claims of the sort that show up as exceptions on title reports. The plaintiff's objective, generally, is to make his or her title marketable, although he or she may not contemplate transferring it in the near future. A quiet title action is also appropriate to establish that the plaintiff has acquired title by adverse possession [see Ch. 13, Adverse Possession]. An action for this purpose, which merely declares who owns what interests in the property, is the kind of action that commonly is called a quiet title action, and the kind that is the subject of this chapter. If in any action or proceeding, establishing or quieting title to property is at issue, the court in its discretion may, upon motion of any party, require that the issue be resolved pursuant to the provisions of the quiet title statute to the extent practicable [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.030(b)].

The remedy provided by the quiet title statute is cumulative and not exclusive of any other remedy, form, or right of action or proceeding provided by law for establishing or quieting title to property [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.030(a)].

When a mere declaration of ownership will not suffice to make the plaintiff's title whole (subject to legitimate and unobjectionable interests such as utility company easements), plaintiff may desire to pursue various forms of additional relief. This additional relief might include reforming the plaintiff's deed [see Ch. 488, Reformation of Instruments], establishing a boundary [see Ch. 101, Boundaries , and Ch. 266, Fences], cancelling another deed, a deed of trust, or a mortgage [see Ch. 107, Cancellation of Instruments , Ch. 184, Deeds , and Ch. 555, Trust Deeds and Real Property Mortgages], and restoring the public record of the plaintiff's title after it has been lost or destroyed [see Ch. 356, Lost Papers].

In some cases the plaintiff will not have record or legal title but will have an equitable claim to that title. The type of action discussed in this article is not appropriate in such a case [see § 482.14]. If the claim is based on the defendant's acquisition of title through fraud, through acting as the plaintiff's agent, or through some other manner not entitling the defendant to keep it, the plaintiff may sue to establish a resulting or constructive trust [see Ch. 561, Trusts: Constructive Trusts and Ch. 562, Trusts: Resulting Trusts].

When the plaintiff wants to establish title for the purpose of enjoying some right of ownership, the issue of title is secondary. The ultimate purpose of the lawsuit determines the character of the action. Usually that purpose is to recover possession of the property [see Ch. 93, Bailments , Ch. 119, Claim and Delivery , Ch. 241, Ejectment , and Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions].

There is a special proceeding for use in the case where the plaintiff's title is rendered doubtful because a predecessor took title by one name and conveyed by another [see Ch. 299, Identity, Establishment of].

If no specific action is appropriate, an action for declaratory relief may be the proper method of proceeding [see Ch. 182, Declaratory Relief].

Chapter 482 QUIETING TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

42-482 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 482.14

§ 482.14 Asserting Equitable Interest Against Legal Title

When a dispute arises as to ownership of the present interest, and one claimant (usually the defendant) has, while the other claimant (usually the plaintiff) lacks, record title, a quiet title action is inappropriate. The outcome is ordained by the simple fact that one party has record title and is, therefore, the owner. Assuming, as is the usual case, that the plaintiff asserts an equitable interest against the holder of the legal title, the gist of his or her complaint is that while the defendant admittedly owns the present interest, he or she ought not to own it, but, instead, ought to transfer ownership to the plaintiff for whatever reason (e.g., the defendant took title as the plaintiff's agent, for convenience). The plaintiff should sue for a judgment declaring the defendant to be the owner as a resulting or a constructive trustee only, and directing the defendant to transfer ownership to the plaintiff [see, e.g., Nevarez v. Nevarez (1962) 202 Cal. App. 2d 596, 21 Cal. Rptr. 70] .

Although such an action may be described generally as a quiet title action, it is not the sort of action that courts commonly have in mind when they use that label. Therefore, it has been held that the owner of an equitable interest may not maintain a quiet title action against the holder of legal title [see Santoro v. Carbone (1972) 22 Cal. App. 3d 721, 732, 99 Cal. Rptr. 488] . One of the reasons for this rule is that if the plaintiff were allowed to prove some basis for an equitable interest (e.g., fraud) under a general allegation of ownership, the defendant might be taken by surprise unfairly [O'Keefe v. Aptos Land & Water Co. (1955) 134 Cal. App. 2d 772, 781, 286 P.2d 417] .

When the plaintiff asserts an equitable interest against the holder of legal title, the complaint is demurrable if it alleges merely that the plaintiff owns the present interest in the property. What the plaintiff contends is that he or she has a right to own it, but that the defendant actually owns it; thus, the plaintiff's allegation of ownership is improper. It is necessary that the complaint show the basis for the claim that the plaintiff has a right to own the present interest. For instance, if the defendant induced the plaintiff to convey the present interest by a fraudulent agreement, the complaint must so allege. Moreover, if the plaintiff's right depends on his or her having taken some preliminary step (e.g., rescinding a fraudulent agreement),the complaint must show that he or she has taken it or that there is an excuse for his or her not having taken it [see Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 195, 214-217, 1 Cal. Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12] .

Thus, there may be two fundamentally different cases. In the one that is the subject of this chapter the plaintiff appropriately may allege, prove, and have a judgment that he or she is the owner of a specified interest in particular property. In the other case, the plaintiff can only allege, prove, and have a judgment that the defendant is the owner, but wrongly, and must transfer ownership to the plaintiff. Forms appropriate for use in the latter case are included in Ch. 560, Trusts.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

42-482 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 482.15

§ 482.15 Action as Equitable Remedy; Jury Trial

[1] When Jury Trial is Available

A declaration of the nature and extent of the parties' interests in particular property is equitable relief as distinguished from legal relief; therefore, the action is governed by equitable principles [see Santoro v. Carbone (1972) 22 Cal. App. 3d 721, 731, 99 Cal. Rptr. 488] . This means, among other consequences, that trial by jury is not a matter of right [see Code Civ. Proc. § 592; Hartman v. Burford (1966) 242 Cal. App. 2d 268, 270, 51 Cal. Rptr. 309 (reporting rule)].

Nothing in the quiet title statute limits any authority the court may have to grant such equitable relief as may be proper under the circumstances of the case [Code Civ. Pro. § 760.040(c)].

When the plaintiff seeks not only a declaration of his or her rights but also recovery of possession, the rule is different because Code Civ. Proc. § 592 provides: "In actions for the recovery of specific, real, or personal property, with or without damages, ... an issue of fact must be tried by a jury, unless a jury trial is waived, or a reference is ordered, as provided in this code." An action for the recovery of property is regarded as a legal, as distinguished from an equitable, remedy. Therefore, when the plaintiff seeks both a declaration of rights and recovery of possession, the action is partly equitable and partly legal. In such a case, trial by jury is a matter of right with respect to the legal issues (i.e., the right to recover possession) but not with respect to the equitable issues (i.e., ownership) [see, e.g., Robinson v. Puls (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 664, 665-666, 171 P.2d 430 (reporting rule)].

Regarding the question of a jury trial, the courts have distinguished three kinds of quiet title actions:

- When the plaintiff is out of possession and seeks to establish his or her title primarily for the purpose of recovering possession, the action is regarded as a legal action for the recovery of property, and a jury trial is a matter of right [see, e.g., Medeiros v. Medeiros (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 69, 73, 1 Cal. Rptr. 696] .

- When the plaintiff is in possession and the defendant seeks to recover possession, the action is partly equitable (on the plaintiff's side) and partly legal (on the defendant's side), and a jury trial is a matter of right for the defendant if he or she alleges that he or she was recently dispossessed [see, e.g., Donahue v. Meister (1891) 88 Cal. 121, 128-129, 25 P. 1096] .

- When the plaintiff is in possession and the defendant does not seek to recover possession, the action is purely equitable, and a jury trial is not a matter of right, even if the plaintiff alleges a right to possession. If the defendant does seek to recover possession but cannot allege that he or she was recently dispossessed, the action remains equitable, and there is no right to a jury trial unless the equitable issues (ownership) are resolved against the plaintiff [Thomson v. Thomson (1936) 7 Cal. 2d 671, 681-683, 62 P.2d 358] .

Whether the action is equitable, legal, or partly legal and partly equitable, determines not only the question of a jury trial, but other matters as well. For example, when there are equitable issues, equitable defenses such as laches, unclean hands, and fraud are available.

[2] Necessity to "Do Equity"

"He who seeks equity must do equity" is a well-recognized principle in equity jurisprudence. It means that a court will not give equitable relief to a party unless he or she has acknowledged or conceded, or will admit and provide for, all the equitable rights, claims, and demands justly belonging to the adverse party and growing out of, or necessarily involved in, the subject matter of the controversy. This principle of equity is applicable to an action to quiet title. A familiar instance of its application is when the court precludes a mortgagor from quieting his or her title against an outlawed mortgage payment of the mortgage debt. In such a case, when the debt is not paid or not required to be paid, the court does not decree that the plaintiff has no interest in the property, but dismisses the action for want of equity in the plaintiff's cause [O'Brien v. O'Brien (1925) 197 Cal. 577, 584-585, 241 P. 861] .

A person does not have to be a bona fide purchaser to quiet title. Therefore, a purchaser of land with knowledge of mortgages barred by the statute of limitations can quiet title to the land [Mix v. Sodd (1981) 126 Cal. App. 3d 386, 389-392, 178 Cal. Rptr. 736] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

42-482 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 482.16

§ 482.16 Action Respecting Tax-Defaulted Property

[1] Status of Property

Property on which property taxes are delinquent becomes "tax-defaulted," by operation of law and declaration of the tax collector [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 126, 3436].

[2] Right of Redemption

The property remains subject to the original owner's redemption rights until those rights are terminated [Rev. & Tax. Code § 4101; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 3707]. If not redeemed within five years (or three years if the property is nonresidential commercial property, or is not an owner-occupied residence and would be suitable as low-income housing, or is subject to a nuisance-abatement lien) after it becomes tax-defaulted, the property is subject to sale by the tax collector [Rev. & Tax. Code § 3691(a)(1)(A), (b)(1)(A)]. Redemption may be made until the close of business on the last day prior to the date the sale begins and requires payment of all taxes, penalties, and costs due [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 3707(a)(1), 4101, 4102]. The right of redemption revives if the property is not sold [Rev. & Tax. Code § 3707(d)]. If the tax collector approves a sale as a deferred-payment transaction and does not receive full payment on or before the date the tax collector requires payment pursuant to Rev. & Tax. Code § 3693.1, the right of redemption is revived on the next business day following that date [Rev. & Tax. Code § 3707(a)(2)]. On redemption of property subject to a power of sale, the tax collector must execute and record a rescission of any notice of power of sale [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 3691.4, 4112(c)]. After redemption, the redemptioner or any person claiming through the redemptioner may bring a quiet title action [Rev. & Tax. Code § 4113]. Tax-defaulted property that remains unredeemed may be sold [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 3691, 3692(a)]. The purchaser or anyone claiming through him or her may bring a quiet title action [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 3727, 3950; see § 482.81 and its Comments].

[3] Notice That Property is Subject to Sale for Nonpayment of Taxes

The tax collector must execute a notice whenever a parcel becomes subject to the power of sale, and the county clerk must take acknowledgment of the notice without charge [Rev. & Tax. Code § 3691.1]. The notice must specify [Rev. & Tax. Code § 3691.2]:

- That five years or more have elapsed since the taxes or assessments on the parcel were declared in default.

- That the property was duly assessed for taxation and the tax legally levied.

- That the property is subject to sale for nonpayment of taxes.

- The amount of taxes originally declared to be in default, unless there has been a partial cancellation of taxes, a redemption from a portion of taxes, or a correction under Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 4831.5 and 4876.5, in which case the amount must be the balance remaining.

- A metes and bounds or lot-block-tract description of the property.

The notice must be recorded with the county recorder, who may not charge for the recording. After recordation, the notice must be forwarded to the tax collector [Rev. & Tax. Code § 3691.4]. The tax collector must file the notice in his or her office and keep a record to show the subsequent disposition of the property [Rev. & Tax. Code § 3691.5]. On request of the Controller, the tax collector must report the disposition of all tax-defaulted parcels subject to tax collections power to sell in his or her county [Rev. & Tax. Code § 3691.6].

[4] Sale of Tax Certificates

A county may sell tax certificates if the sale is approved by the board of supervisors and authorized in writing by the controller [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 3691, 3694, 4511; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 4505 (definition); see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 4501 et seq.].

A certificate represents an intangible property right to receive all amounts due with respect to a delinquency in connection with secured roll property or property on the supplemental roll. A certificate may be issued for a separately assessed parcel, or for multiple parcels with separate assessments, that is delinquent or defaulted at the time of the offer of sale of the certificate. A certificate may not be issued for any subsequent year taxes or assessments [Rev. & Tax. Code § 4505(a)].

The certificate must contain information specified by statute [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 4505(a)], and may be in the form of a physical certificate or in book-entry form, including an electronic medium, in the discretion of the county [Rev. & Tax. Code § 4505(b)].

§ 482.19 Action Respecting Tidelands and Navigable Waters

A person claiming an interest in real property that the state claims is situated in the former bed of a navigable river or stream may bring a quiettitle action against the state to determine the adverse claims [Pub. Res. Code § 6461; see Pub. Res. Code §§ 6462, 6465]. The state is the owner of all land below the water of a navigable stream [Civ. Code § 670]. Except when the grant under which the land is held indicates a different intent, the owner of land bordering on a navigable stream takes to the edge of the stream at low-water mark [Civ. Code § 830]. When, from natural causes, land forms by imperceptible degrees on the bank of a river or stream, navigable or not navigable, either by accumulation of material or by recession of the stream, the land belongs to the owner of the bank, subject to any existing right-of-way over the bank [Civ. Code § 1014].

A person claiming title to tideland under a state patent may bring a quiet title action against the state, or against the state and other persons, to determine the validity of the patent or establish the boundaries of the land granted by it [Pub. Res. Code § 6463; see Pub. Res. Code §§ 6462, 6465]. The state is the owner of all land below tidewater and below the ordinary high-water mark bordering on tidewater within the state [Civ. Code § 670]. Except when the grant under which the land is held indicates a different intent, the owner of land bordering on tidewater takes to the ordinary high-water mark [Civ. Code § 830].

A person claiming title to land adjoining tideland or submerged land under a patent issued by the United States or by the state may bring an action against the state, or against the state and other persons, to fix and determine the boundary between the adjoining land and the tideland or the submerged land that it adjoins [Pub. Res. Code § 6464; see Pub. Res. Code §§ 6462, 6465].

The State Lands Commission has power to bring a quiet title action for the purpose of establishing the ordinary high-water mark or the ordinary low-water mark of any of the swamp, overflowed, marsh, tide, or submerged lands of the state, whenever it is deemed expedient or necessary [Pub. Res. Code § 6357].

The grantee of any interest in land that the State Lands Commission conveyed in an exchange for filled or reclaimed tideland or submerged land or the bed of a navigable waterway pursuant to Pub. Res. Code § 6307 may bring a quiet title action [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.020(b); Pub. Res. Code § 6307(e)] to obtain a judgment pursuant to Code Civ. Proc.

§ 764.080 [see § 482.20 for discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 764.080].

An action to quiet title may be brought to confirm the validity of a boundary line agreement entered into between the state and the owner of shoreline property pursuant to Pub. Res. Code § 6357 [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.020(b)]. In such an action, the court must receive evidence on the nature of the agreement. After receiving the evidence, the court must render a statement of decision, including a recitation of the facts and a determination that the agreement meets the statutory criteria. If the court finds the agreement to be valid, the judgment must quiet title in the parties named in the agreement in accordance with the agreement. All such actions must be set on the trial calendar within one year from the filing of the memorandum to set, unless the court extends the time for good cause. No such action may be brought until the State Lands Commission has approved the agreement following a public hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 764.080(a)]. Chapter 482 QUIETING TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

42-482 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 482.23

§ 482.23 Hearing and Proof

The court must examine into and determine the plaintiff's title against the claims of all the defendants. The court must not enter judgment by default but must in all cases require evidence of plaintiff's title and hear such evidence as may be offered respecting the claims of any of the defendants, other than claims the validity of which is admitted by the plaintiff in the complaint. The court must render judgment in accordance with the evidence and the law [Code Civ. Proc. § 764.010].

Although Code Civ. Proc. § 764.010 has been referred to as a prohibition against default judgments, it does not preclude entry of a defendant's default. Rather, it simply provides that a plaintiff does not have a right to entry of judgment in his or her favor as a matter of course following entry of the defendant's default in a quiet title action. Thus, a judgment may be entered in a quiet title action following default, provided the evidentiary requirements of § 764.010, including a hearing, live testimony, and authentication of the underlying real property records, are met [Yeung v. Soos (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th576, 580-581, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 502 ; Winter v. Rice (1986) 176 Cal. App. 3d 679, 683, 222 Cal. Rptr. 340] .

The plaintiff will prevail, if at all, only by proving that he or she owns the interest claimed or at least some interest. He or she cannot prevail merely by showing that the defendant does not own the interest the defendant claims, or appears to have, or by showing that the defendantowns no interest. The usual expression of this rule is that the plaintiff can prevail only on the strength of his or her own title and not on the weakness of his or her adversary's [see, e.g., Gerhard v. Stephens (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 864, 918, 69 Cal. Rptr. 612, 442 P.2d 692 ; Kunza v. Gaskell (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 201, 207, 154 Cal. Rptr. 101 ; Valle v. Ingram (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 761, 767, 117 P.2d 869] . The rule also applies to the defendant when he or she claims an interest and seeks affirmative relief. It is possible, therefore, that neither party will be able to prevail [see, e.g., Harmon Enterprises, Inc. v. Vroman (1959) 167 Cal. App. 2d 517, 334 P.2d 628 (relief sought, on opposing claims, by both plaintiff and defendant; judgment against each party on his claim affirmed)].

In making his or her proof, the plaintiff may rely on any presumptions in his or her favor [see, e.g., Pilkington v. Fausone (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 349, 351-352, 90 Cal. Rptr. 38] . Since documentary evidence will often be involved, one of the more important presumptions is that facts recited in a written instrument (except a recital of consideration) are conclusively presumed to be true as between the parties to the instrument and their successors in interest [Evid.

Code § 622]. This presumption, being conclusive, can be a powerful aid [see, e.g., Carpenter v. Smallpage (1934) 220 Cal. 129, 133, 29 P.2d 841 (presumption relied on in finding evidence sufficient to support judgment)].

A person is presumed to own property which he or she possesses or over which he or she exercises acts of ownership [Evid. Code §§ 637, 638]. If the plaintiff proves possession, he or she has made a prima facie case, but the presumption of ownership based on possession may be rebutted [Evid. Code § 630; see, e.g., Bond v. Aickley (1914) 168 Cal. 161, 163, 141 P. 1188] . Mere possession is not sufficient when real property is involved, however. The plaintiff also must meet the test for adverse possession [see Civ. Code §§ 1006, 1007].

A plaintiff not in possession must establish that he or she has record or paper title by tracing the chain of title to any of four sources [Ernie v. Trinity Lutheran Church (1959) 51 Cal. 2d 702, 706, 336 P.2d 525 ; San Diego Improvement Co. v. Brodie (1932) 215 Cal. 97, 100-101, 8 P.2d 1027] :

- The government;
- A grantor in possession;
- A grantor common to both plaintiff and defendant; or
- A grantor who himself or herself obtained a quiet title judgment.

If the plaintiff claims title as an heir or as a legatee or devisee, he or she must trace his or her decedent's title in this manner, since the probate court's decree of distribution establishes only that the plaintiff takes whatever title his or her decedent had [Rockey v. Vieux (1919) 179 Cal. 681, 682-683, 178 P. 712] . The only exception to this rule requiring the tracing of title is that when the defendant rests his or her claim on title derived from the plaintiff, it is unnecessary for the plaintiff to trace his or her title [Thiele v. Security Trust & Sav. Bank (1927) 202 Cal. 758, 760, 262 P. 308] .

A judgment in a quiet title action establishing a party's ownership is no less a document of title than is a deed or a bill of sale. This means, among other consequences, that the party in whose favor the judgment was given may offer the judgment in evidence in any subsequent lawsuit concerning that title, without having referred to it in his or her pleading [see, e.g., Kipp v. Reed (1920) 183 Cal. 49, 51, 190 P. 363] .

When in an action to quiet title, or to determine adverse claims, to real or personal property, the validity or interpretation of any gift, devise, bequest, or trust, under any will or instrument purporting to be a will, whether or not it has been admitted to probate, is involved, the will or instrument purporting to be a will is admissible in evidence. All questions concerning the validity of any gift, devise, bequest, or trust must be finally determined in the action. However, if the will has been admitted to probate and the gift, devise, bequest, or trust has been interpreted by a final decree of the probate court, the interpretation is conclusive as to the proper construction thereof. Nothing set forth in this paragraph deprives a party of the right to a jury trial in any case in which by law, the right is given [Code Civ. Proc. § 764.020].

[1] Presumptions

Among the various presumptions established by statutes, the following will often be helpful in quiet title actions (two others--that recitals in written instruments, except as to consideration, are presumptively true as between the parties [Evid. Code § 622], and that a person presumptively owns the property he or she possesses or over which he or she exercises acts of ownership [Evid. Code §§ 637, 638]--have already been discussed):

- Landlord's Title. A tenant is not permitted to deny the title of his or her landlord at the time of the commencement of the relationship [Evid. Code § 624].

- Date of Writing. A writing is presumed to have been truly dated [Evid. Code § 640].

- Performance of Duty to Convey. A trustee or any other person, whose duty it was to convey real property to a particular person, is presumed to have actually conveyed to him or her when such presumption is necessary to perfect the title of such person or his or her successor in interest [Evid. Code § 642].

- Authenticity of Ancient Document. A deed, a will, or any other writing purporting to create, terminate, or affect an interest in real or personal property is presumed to be authentic if (a) it is at least 30 years old, (b) it is in such condition as to create no suspicion concerning its authenticity, (c) it was kept or (if found) was found in a placewhere such writing, if authentic, would be likely to be kept or found, and (d) it has been generally acted on as authentic by persons having an interest in the matter [Evid. Code § 643].

- Ownership of Beneficial Title. The owner of the legal title to property is presumed to be the owner of the full beneficial title. This presumption may be rebutted only by clear and convincing proof [Evid. Code § 662].

- Acknowledgment. A certificate of the acknowledgment of a writing other than a will, or a certificate of the proof of such a writing, is prima facie evidence of the facts recited in the certificate and the genuineness of the signature of each person by whom the writing purports to have been signed if the certificate meets the requirements of Civ. Code §§ 1180-1207 [Evid. Code § 1451].

- Official or Notary Signature. A signature is presumed to be genuine and authorized if it purports to be the signature, affixed in his or her official capacity, of (a) a public employee of the United States, (b) a public employee of any public entity in the United States, or (c) a notary public within any state of the United States [Evid. Code § 1453; see Evid. Code § 1454 (signature of foreign official)].

- Recorded Documents. The record of an instrument or any other document purporting to establish or affect an interest in property is prima facie evidence of the existence and content of the original recorded document and its execution and delivery by each person by whom it purports to have been executed if (a) the record is in fact a record of an office of a public entity and (b) a statute authorized such a document to be recorded in that office [Evid. Code § 1600; see Evid. Code § 1601 (lost or destroyed public records); see also Evid. Code §§ 1603 (deeds executed pursuant to legal process), 1604 (certificate of purchase or location of lands), 1605 (copies of Spanish title papers)].

- Nonacceptance of Dedication for Public Improvement. If a proposal is heretofore or hereafter made to dedicate real property for public improvement, there is a conclusive presumption that the proposed dedication was not accepted if all of the following conditions are satisfied [Code Civ. Proc. § 771.010]:

  - The proposal was made by filing a map only;

  - No acceptance of the dedication was made and recorded within 25 years after the map was filed;

  - The real property was not used for the purpose for which the dedication was proposed within 25 years after the map was filed; and

- The real property was sold to a third person after the map was filed.

An action is authorized to clear title of a proposal to dedicate property for public improvement if there is such a conclusive presumption. The action must be pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 760.010-764.070, as described in this article. The public entity to which the dedication was proposed must be named as a defendant and the judgment in the action clears the title of the proposed dedication and removes the cloud created by the proposed dedication [Code Civ. Proc. § 771.020].

[2] Overcoming Ancient Gaps in Title

A plaintiff who relies on record title might be confronted with an ancient gap in his or her chain of title which he or she cannot close. For example, he or she might trace his or her title back to an early date when an unrecorded transfer was made, the deed being now lost and all witnesses being dead. In such a case, when it is impossible to close the gap in the chain of title, the only practical means of foreclosing the interests which might be claimed by the successors of the title holder on the far side of the gap is to proceed on a theory of adverse possession. Success in that case will depend on proving all of the various elements prescribed by statute [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 332-335]. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 13, Adverse Possession .

Chapter 482 QUIETING TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

42-482 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 482.24

§ 482.24 Effect of Judgment

The judgment in a quiet title action entered in a proceeding commenced after January 1, 1981 is in rem. It is binding and conclusive on all of the following persons, regardless of any legal disability [Code Civ. Proc. § 764.030]:

(1) All persons known and unknown who were parties to the action and who have any claim to the property, whether present or future, vested or contingent, legal or equitable, several or undivided; and

(2) Except as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 764.045, all persons who were not parties to the action and who have any claim to the property which was not of record at the time the lis pendens was filed or, if none was filed, at the time the judgment was recorded.

Except to the extent provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1908(a)(2), the judgment does not affect a claim in the property or a part of the property of any person who was not a party to the action if either of the following conditions is satisfied [Code Civ. Proc. § 764.045]:

(1) The claim was of record at the time the lis pendens was filed or, if none was filed, at the time the judgment was recorded; or

(2) The claim was actually known to the plaintiff or would have been reasonably apparent from an inspection of the property at the time the lis pendens was filed, or, if none was filed, at the time the judgment was entered.

However, a claimant may be bound by the proceeding if the claim was acquired from a party after commencement of the proceeding and withactual knowledge of the proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 764.045 and Law Revision Commission Comments, 1908(a)(2)].

Nothing in *Code Civ. Proc. § 764.045(b)*shall be construed to impair the rights of a bona fide purchaser or encumbrancer for value dealing with the plaintiff or the plaintiff's successors in interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 764.045(b)].

The relief granted in an action or proceeding directly or collaterally attacking the judgment in the action, whether based on lack of actual notice to a party or otherwise, shall not impair the rights of a purchaser or encumbrancer for value of the property acting in reliance on the judgment without knowledge of any defects or irregularities in the judgment or proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 764.060]. This provision is intended to enhance the marketability of property as to which an in rem quiet title decree has been rendered. When the rights of such a bona fide purchaser have intervened, the person who successfully collaterally attacks the quiet title judgment will only have a cause of action for damages [15 Cal. L. Rev. Comm. 1208 (1979)].

Notwithstanding the above, the judgment in the action is not binding or conclusive on the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 764.070]: (1) the state, unless individually joined as a party to the action; and (2) the United States, unless the United States is individually joined as a party to the action, and federal law authorizes judgment in the action to be binding or conclusive as to its interests. 28 U.S.C. § 2410 authorizes an action against the United States in state court to quiet title to real or personal property on which the United States has or claims a mortgage or other lien. Thus, this type of judgment against the United States would be conclusive.

Chapter 482 QUIETING TITLE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

42-482 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 482.41

§ 482.41 Decisions

[1] Actions to Quiet Title (Examples)

To establish leasehold. German-American Sav. Bank v. Gollmer (1909) 155 Cal. 683, 102 P. 932

To establish right of reentry for breach of condition. Thornton v. Middletown Educ. Corp. (1937) 21 Cal. App. 2d 707, 70 P.2d 234

To clear adverse claims. Castro v. Barry (1889) 79 Cal. 443, 21 P. 946 ; Akley v. Bassett (1924) 68 Cal. App. 270, 228 P. 1057

By vendor against defaulting purchaser. Keele v. Clouser (1928) 92 Cal. App. 526, 268 P. 682

To establish equitable interest. Bacon v. Bacon (1937) 21 Cal. App. 2d 540, 69 P.2d 884

To clear record of tenant's interest. Black v. Arnold Best Co. (1954) 124 Cal. App. 2d 378, 268 P.2d 513

To invalidate zoning ordinance clouding title by illegally restricting use, thus depreciating value. Bank of America v. Atherton (1943) 60 Cal. App. 2d 268, 140 P.2d 678

[2] Costs

Plaintiff is not allowed to recover costs in quiet title action when defendant allows default judgment to be taken against defendant. Thorson v. Western Development Corp. (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 206, 212, 59 Cal. Rptr. 299

[3] Defenses

Statute of limitations does not commence to run against plaintiff seeking to quiet title to real property while plaintiff is in possession of property. Muktarian v. Barmby (1965) 63 Cal. 2d 558, 560-561, 47 Cal. Rptr. 483, 407 P.2d 659

Action by former husband to quiet title in family residence previously awarded to now deceased former wife in dissolution proceeding was estopped by default divorce judgment because residence had been listed in former wife's petition for dissolution, and husband failed to appeal disposition of property. Badillo v. Badillo (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 1009, 1010-1012, 177 Cal. Rptr. 56

When evidence supports findings of agreed boundary line with prior uncertainty as to its location, doctrine of estoppel may apply. Roman v. Ries (1968) 259 Cal. App. 2d 65, 68, 66 Cal. Rptr. 120

No statute of limitations runs against plaintiff seeking to quiet title while plaintiff is in possession of property. Oates v. Nelson (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 18, 22, 74 Cal. Rptr. 475

Fraud, even if properly pleaded, does not constitute a defense or counterclaim to action to quiet title; counterclaim for damages is properly subject to demurrer when prayer would not tend to diminish or defeat plaintiff's recovery, that is, to quiet title. California Trust Co. v. Gustason (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 268, 273, 101 P.2d 74

Judgment in a prior quiet title action will bind representative of same real party in interest in subsequent action. Walker v. Hansen (1933) 218 Cal. 619, 621, 24 P.2d 764

When prior quiet title action is pending between same parties to determine title to same property, defendant may move for dismissal on that ground. Chapman v. Moore (1907) 151 Cal. 509, 511, 91 P. 324

[4] Effect of Judgment

Judgment against one or more of several defendants in quiet title action is proper whenever severable judgment is proper. Thorson v. Western Development Corp. (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 206, 215, 59 Cal. Rptr. 299

Applied to judgments, rule is that description in judgment affecting real property should be certain and specific, and that an impossible, wrong, or uncertain description, or no description at all, renders judgment erroneous and void. Newman v. Cornelius (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 279, 284, 83 Cal. Rptr. 435

[5] Effect of Taxes on Void Conveyance

Payment of taxes pursuant to county assessment does not breath life into void conveyance. People ex rel. Cal. v. Drinkhouse (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 931, 939, 84 Cal. Rptr. 773

[6] Asserting Equitable Interest Against Legal Title

Person claiming only equitable interest is not allowed to bring "quiet title" action against holder of legal title. Santoro v. Carbone (1972) 22 Cal. App. 3d 721, 732, 99 Cal. Rptr. 488 (overruled on other grounds in Tenzer v. Superscope, Inc. (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 18, 30, 216 Cal. Rptr. 130, 702 P. 2d 212); O'Keefe v. Aptos Land & Water Co. (1955) 134 Cal. App. 2d 772, 781, 286 P.2d 417 (giving reason for rule)

Claimant of equitable interest is entitled to sue holder of legal title to establish resulting or constructive trust. Nevarez v. Nevarez (1962) 202 Cal. App. 2d 596, 600, 21 Cal. Rptr. 70

Plaintiff asserting equitable interest is required to allege specific facts supporting claim and to show in complaint that any preliminary steps (e.g., rescission of fraudulent transaction) have been taken. Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 195, 214-217, 1 Cal. Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12

[7] Evidence and Proof

Tracing title to government, grantor in possession at the time of the conveyance to the plaintiff, or to source common to chains of title of plaintiff and defendant. Hohn v. Riverside County Flood Control etc. Dist. (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 605, 610, 39 Cal. Rptr. 647

Type of evidence admissible in action to quiet title. Holloman v. Richmond (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 501, 502-505, 39 Cal. Rptr. 614

Evidence tracing title to source from which all parties to action claim to derive title is sufficient in action for quiet title. Walley v. P.M.C. Inv. Co. (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 218, 219-220, 68 Cal. Rptr. 711

Burden is on plaintiff in quiet title action to show superior title in plaintiff; action must prevail on strength of plaintiff's title and not on weakness of defendant. Potter v. Los Angeles County (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 280, 284, 285, 59 Cal. Rptr. 335

Weight and sufficiency of evidence in quiet title action. Devereaux v. Frazier Mountain Park & Fisheries Co. (1967) 248 Cal. App. 2d 323, 331-333, 56 Cal. Rptr. 345

In action to quiet title based on adverse possession burden is on claimant to prove every necessary element: (1) possession must be by actual occupation under such circumstances as to constitute reasonable notice to the owner; (2) it must be hostile to the owner's title; (3) holder must claim the property as his or her own, under either color of title or claim of right; (4) possession must be continuous and uninterrupted for five years; and (5) holder must pay all taxes levied and assessed upon property during period. Dimmick v. Dimmick (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 417, 421, 24 Cal. Rptr. 856, 374 P.2d 824

Presumption of ownership based on possession [see Evid. Code §§ 637, 638] is rebuttable. Bond v. Aickley (1914) 168 Cal. 161, 163, 141 P. 1188

Plaintiff relying on record or "paper" title is required to trace title to government, or to grantor in possession, or to common grantor, or to grantor who obtained quiet title judgment. Ernie v. Trinity Lutheran Church (1959) 51 Cal. 2d 702, 706, 336 P.2d 525 ; San Diego Improvement Co. v. Brodie (1932) 215 Cal. 97, 100-101, 8 P.2d 1027

Plaintiff claiming title as heir or as legatee or devisee is required to trace decedent's title; probate court's decree of distribution does not establish more than plaintiff's right to whatever title decedent had. Rockey v. Vieux (1919) 179 Cal. 681, 682-683, 178 P. 712

Plaintiff is not required to trace plaintiff's title when defendant's claim rests on title derived from plaintiff. Thiele v. Security Trust & Sav. Bank (1927) 202 Cal. 758, 760, 262 P. 308

Judgment quieting title is document of title and admissible as such without reference to it in offering party's pleading. Kipp v. Reed (1920) 183 Cal. 49, 51, 190 P. 363

Plaintiff, in quiet title action, is required to prove title in himself or herself superior to that of defendant, rather than prevailing only by establishing plaintiff's own title and not by relying on weakness in defendant's title. Gerhard v. Stephens (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 864, 918, 69 Cal. Rptr. 612, 442 P.2d 692 ; Valle v. Ingram (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 761, 767, 117 P.2d 869

Plaintiff in quiet title action is required to prevail on strength of his or her own title and not on weakness of defendant's title. Millyard v. Faus (1968) 268 Cal. App. 2d 76, 82, 73 Cal. Rptr. 697

Defense of laches does not bar the quieting of title when party asserting defense fails to demonstrate that he or she was in adverse possession of contested property during period of delay. Gerhard v. Stephens (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 864, 904-905, 69 Cal. Rptr. 612, 442 P.2d 692

In action to quiet title to certain tidelands in San Diego County, trial court's holding that property in question constituted sovereign tide and submerged lands of state held in trust for public uses and purposes of commerce, navigation, and fisheries by district, affirmed. Dillon v. San Diego Unified Port Dist. (1972) 27 Cal. App. 3d 296, 299-300, 103 Cal. Rptr. 765

Mistaken belief of ownership and payment of taxes does not prove adverse possession when there was no substantial enclosure and no usual cultivation or improvement. Safwenberg v. Marquez (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 301, 310, 123 Cal. Rptr. 405

[8] Invalid Tax Deeds

Conveyance of property under tax sale in which tax collector is financially interested is void. People ex rel. Cal. v. Drinkhouse (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 931, 935, 84 Cal. Rptr. 773 (summary judgment for state against grantee in action to quiet title affirmed)

Although deed made in violation of Gov. Code § 1090, forbidding county officers to be financially interested in any contract made by them in their official capacity or to be purchasers at any sale made by them in such capacity ab initio carries no title, judicial decision is required to effectuate nullification against nominal title. People ex rel. Cal. v. Drinkhouse (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 931, 936, 84 Cal. Rptr. 773

[9] Joinder of Causes of Action

Demands for relief by way of ejectment and for damages arising out of withholding of property is incident to cause of action to quiet title and properly joined with it. South Shore Land Co. v. Petersen (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 725, 741, 38 Cal. Rptr. 392

When relief sought in cross complaint was for decree quieting defendant's title and damages, award of damages sought was being incidental and ancillary to prayer for decree reforming written contract and declaring plaintiff to hold property in trust for defendant, and was proper. California Trust Co. v. Cohn (1932) 214 Cal. 619, 628-629, 7 P.2d 297

[10] Jury Trial

Action is governed by equitable principles. Santoro v. Carbone (1972) 22 Cal. App. 3d 721, 731, 99 Cal. Rptr. 488 (overruled on other grounds in Tenzer v. Superscope, Inc. (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 18, 30, 216 Cal. Rptr. 130, 702 P. 2d 212)

Jury trial is not matter of right in equitable action. Hartman v. Burford (1966) 242 Cal. App. 2d 268, 270, 51 Cal. Rptr. 309 (reporting rule)

In action involving recovery of possession, jury trial is matter of right on legal issue (possession) but not on equitable issue (ownership). Robinson v. Puls (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 664, 665-666, 171 P.2d 430 (reporting rule); Donahue v. Meister (1891) 88 Cal. 121, 128-129, 25 P. 1096

Jury trial is matter of right in legal action for recovery of property. Medeiros v. Medeiros (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 69, 73, 1 Cal. Rptr. 696

In action where defendant seeks recovery of possession after long-standing ouster, jury trial on legal issue (possession) is not matter of right unless equitable issue (ownership) resolved against plaintiff. Thomson v. Thomson (1936) 7 Cal. 2d 671, 681-683, 62 P.2d 358

[11] Other Actions Compared

Distinctions between modern statutory form and old equitable proceeding to quiet title. Castro v. Barry (1889) 79 Cal. 443, 446, 21 P. 946 ; Donahue v. Meister (1891) 88 Cal. 121, 124-125, 25 P. 1096

Ejectment and quiet title distinguished. Medeiros v. Medeiros (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 69, 73, 1 Cal. Rptr. 696 ; Landregan v. Peppin (1892) 94 Cal. 465, 469-470, 29 P. 771 ; Keele v. Clouser (1928) 92 Cal. App. 526, 531, 268 P. 682

Dedication, easement, and quiet title discussed. Burlingame v. Norberg (1930) 210 Cal. 105, 107-108, 290 P. 587

Action to remove cloud on title and quiet title distinguished. Castro v. Barry (1889) 79 Cal. 443, 445, 21 P. 946 ; Hughes v. Beekley (1927) 85 Cal. App. 313, 316, 259 P. 337 ; Kroeker v. Hurlbert (1940) 38 Cal. App. 2d 261, 265, 101 P.2d 101

Declaratory relief and quiet title discussed. Marra v. Aetna Constr. Co. (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 375, 377, 101 P.2d 490 ; Ephraim v. Metropolitan Trust Co. (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 824, 833, 172 P.2d 501

In action to quiet title and to enjoin sale under deed of trust by debtor's (trustor's) buyer against creditor (beneficiary), when there was single debt secured by both real and personal property and creditor elected to judicially foreclose only on personal property, creditor thereby lost its security interest in real property as against all parties even though debtor did not raise one-form-of-action rule [Code Civ. Proc. § 726] as affirmative defense in judicial foreclosure proceedings. Walker v. Community Bank (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 729, 741, 111 Cal. Rptr. 897, 518 P.2d 329

[12] Parties

Heirs are represented in gross by administrator-plaintiff, and in quiet title action, such heirs, although they may be joined as parties, are neither necessary nor indispensable parties. Jay v. Dollarhide (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 1001, 1031, 84 Cal. Rptr. 538

In quiet title action, executor or administrator in an undistributed estate is party against whom action required to be brought. Jay v. Dollarhide (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 1001, 1031, 84 Cal. Rptr. 538

[13] Plaintiff's Right to Bring Action

Third party grantee who took property by quitclaim deed from bankruptcy trustee had no standing to bring quiet title action to attack tax conveyance or sale on ground that it was null and void because it was made in violation of bankruptcy automatic stay when neither debtor nor trustee took any action to discharge tax lien, redeem property, or set aside conveyance to state or subsequent sale. Campbell v. Lauigan (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 651, 659, 248 Cal. Rptr. 747

Holder of equitable interest in real property is not entitled to maintain quiet title action against owner of legal title. Stafford v. Ballinger (1962) 199 Cal. App. 2d 289, 294-295, 18 Cal. Rptr. 568

Court may not quiet vendor's title when vendor has accepted part payment of the purchase price unless vendor refunds the excess of the part payments over the damage caused by vendee's breach; rule is applicable when vendee has willfully defaulted. Behrendt v. Abraham (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 182, 187, 49 Cal. Rptr. 292, 410 P.2d 828

Owner of fee interest in real property subject to servitude is entitled to have extent and burdens of servitude defined and determined; complaint in quiet title action does not need to specifically allege nature of defendant's claim, nor attack its validity. Warren v. Atchison, Topeka, & Santa Fe Ry. Co. (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 24, 32-33, 96 Cal. Rptr. 317

Private person is entitled to assert public claim, as member of public. Marks v. Whitney (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 251, 261-262, 98 Cal. Rptr. 790, 491 P.2d 374

[14] Pleading

Defendant in quiet title action claiming fraudulent conduct on part of plaintiff is required to allege specific facts constituting fraud, not rely on general allegations asserting defendant's ownership and denying that of plaintiff. Moss Estate Co. v. Adler (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 581, 584, 261 P.2d 732 ; Strong v. Strong (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 540, 545-546, 140 P.2d 386

Defendant was not entitled to amend answer so as to allege fraud of plaintiff, when such answer was sought to be filed on the eve of trial, and defendant was aware of facts at the time original answer was filed. Moss Estate Co. v. Adler (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 581, 586, 261 P.2d 732

In quiet title action, answer denying plaintiff's title and right to possession is sufficient to permit defendant to raise issues of estoppel and agreed boundary. Roman v. Ries (1968) 259 Cal. App. 2d 65, 69, 66 Cal. Rptr. 120

Defendant claiming title in himself or herself to the property described in plaintiff's complaint pleads defendant's own title in the answer, and, without filing counterclaim or cross complaint, is asking for affirmative relief quieting own title against plaintiff. Furnivall v. Groves (1957) 154 Cal. App. 2d 846, 847-848, 317 P.2d 117

When cross complaint in quiet title action is unnecessary since full relief may be granted defendant pursuant to his or her answer, omission of plaintiff to answer cross complaint filed by defendant does not confer on clerk of court authority to enter plaintiff's default. Furnivall v. Groves (1957) 154 Cal. App. 2d 846, 848, 317 P.2d 117

Pleading in quiet title action is sufficient against general demurrer if it contains allegations essential to statement of one cause of action, even though unsuccessful attempt is made to state facts calling for other or different relief. South Shore Land Co. v. Petersen (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 725, 740, 38 Cal. Rptr. 392

Fact that facts pleaded in complaint might also show a cause of action in unlawful detainer or quiet title is of no significance when relief granted is in ejectment, and averments of complaint are sufficient to state a cause of action in ejectment, and prayer is for relief that can be granted in the action. Chinese Hosp. Foundation Fund v. Patterson (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 627, 632, 81 Cal. Rptr. 795

Under title peculiar to quiet title actions, defendant is required to seek affirmative relief in cross complaint; if plaintiff fails to establish title, defendant is entitled to affirmative judgment declaring rights asserted in answer. Jay v. Dollarhide (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 1001, 1031, 84 Cal. Rptr. 538

[15] Purpose of Action

Purpose of quiet title action is being to finally settle and determine, as between parties, all conflicting claims to property in controversy and to decree to each interest or estate therein as the parties may be entitled to. Yuba Inv. Co.

v. Yuba Consol. Gold Fields (1926) 199 Cal. 203, 209, 248 P. 672 ; Newman v. Cornelius (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 279, 284, 83 Cal. Rptr. 435

Action is type of foreclosure action. Jones v. Sacramento Sav. & L. Ass'n (1967) 248 Cal. App. 2d 522, 530, 56 Cal. Rptr. 741

Action embraces every type of claim whereby plaintiff might be deprived of property or have title clouded or value depreciated. Castro v. Barry (1889) 79 Cal. 443, 447, 21 P. 946 ("to determine any adverse claim whatever"); Head v. Fordyce (1860) 17 Cal. 149, 151

[16] Restitution

State is not bound to make or to offer reimbursement to grantees of consideration given by them for void deed pursuant to tax sale in which tax collector was interested as condition to maintaining action to quiet title to property. People ex rel. Cal. v. Drinkhouse (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 931, 939, 84 Cal. Rptr. 773

[17] Statute of Limitations

Quiet title action by homeowners' association with respect to parking spaces that property management company transferred to its president rather than association in violation of CC&Rs was timely; statute of limitations for action to quiet title did not begin to run until adverse claim was asserted against person holding the property, and homeowners' association had exclusive and undisputed possession of spaces. Crestmar Owners Assn. v. Stapakis (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 1223, 1228-1230, 69 Cal. Rptr. 3d 231

Conveyance to railroad in 1901 providing that right-of-way would revert to grantors or their assigns if railroad operations ceased for six months conveyed fee interest subject to condition subsequent; successor in interest's failure to record intent to preserve future interest as required by Marketable Record Title Act [Civ. Code § 880.020 et seq.] barred owner's quiet title action. Severns v. Union Pacific Railroad (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 1209, 1220-1221, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 100

Application of statute of limitations in quiet title action depends on underlying theory of relief; when theory is based on fraud or mistake, Code Civ. Proc. § 338(d) is applicable, with period beginning when plaintiff discovered or should have discovered facts constituting fraud or mistake. Ankoanda v. Walker-Smith (1996) 44 Cal. App. 4th 610, 612, 615, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 39

Since there is no statute of limitations governing quiet title actions as such, reference is ordinarily made to underlying theory of relief to determine which statute applies. Oates v. Nelson (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 18, 21, 74 Cal. Rptr. 475

Party in possession of property runs risk that doctrine of laches will bar party's action to quiet title if his or her delay in bringing action prejudices claimant. Oates v. Nelson (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 18, 22, 74 Cal. Rptr. 475

Action to quiet title that is dependent on cancellation or reformation of written contract or deed on ground of fraud or mistake is subject to three-year statute of limitations. Welsher v. Glickman (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 134, 140-141, 77 Cal. Rptr. 141 (decided under former Code Civ. Proc. § 338(4); now see Code Civ. Proc. § 338(d))

[18] Unclean Hands

Undisputable equitable principle is that those who seek aid of equity must sue in good faith, and any unconscionable conduct that relates to transaction may give rise to defense of unclean hands and bar relief. Samuelson v. Ingraham (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 804, 806, 77 Cal. Rptr. 750

Rule that person who comes into equity must come with clean hands is not applied when to do so would create an injustice, it being neither proper nor necessary to sacrifice justice in order to vindicate honor of court. Hill v. Younkin (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 880, 883, 79 Cal. Rptr. 509

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST

42-482 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 482.60

§ 482.60 Plaintiff's Checklist

NOTE:
The following checklist is illustrative only of the basic points which counsel for a plaintiff in a quiet title action should cover.

[1] Facts to Be Ascertained

NOTE:
Not all of the following facts will be ascertainable from the client in the initial interview. Subsequent interviews may be required, or it may be necessary to ascertain the facts from other persons, including the potential defendant(s), by use of discovery proceedings.

1. Facts relating to plaintiff:

a. Name, address, and telephone number of plaintiff.

b. Capacity of plaintiff (such as minor, adult, corporation, unincorporated association, partner in partnership, public employee, etc.)

c. Additional facts, as desired, relating to plaintiff's stability and financial solvency (such as employ ment status, prior residences, credit, bank, and personal references).

2. Facts relating to defendant(s):

a. Name and address of each potential defendant.

NOTE:
In a quiet title action, potential defendants are (1) all persons having a record interest in the property, whether or not in possession, (2) all persons in possession of the property, whether or not they have record title, (3) all persons having a claim on the property whose names can be ascertained by plaintiff through the exercise of reasonable diligence, and (4) other persons unknown to plaintiff claiming any right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the property adverse to plaintiff's ownership. If real property is involved, a preliminary title report from a title insurance company will be helpful in discovering potential defendants.

b. Capacity of each potential defendant (such as corporation, unincorporated association, agent, employee, or public entity).

3. Facts relating to potential cause of action.

a. Nature of plaintiff's title.

b. If tax-deeded property is involved, the following:

(1) Date property was deeded by county tax collector to state.

(2) Date state, through county tax collector, sold property to plaintiff.

(3) Date plaintiff's deed was recorded, and book-and-page reference to recording.

(4) Whether or not plaintiff has paid all taxes after the date of his or her purchase of the property.

c. Whether or not plaintiff is in possession of the property, and the duration of plaintiff's possession.

d. If plaintiff claims title by virtue of an instrument, the nature of the instrument, its date of execution, and the date of recordation (if recorded).

e. Facts available relating to plaintiff's predecessor in interest.

f. If plaintiff's title depends on the validity or interpretation of a gift, bequest, or trust under a will, or an instrument purporting to be a will, facts on whether or not the will has been probated; if probated, the date of the final decree of distribution and the construction given in that decree to the gift, bequest, or trust.

[2] Documents to Be Obtained

NOTE:
Not all of the following documents will be obtainable from the client in the initial interview. Subsequent interviews may be required, or, when circumstances will permit it, they may be mailed to the attorney. It may, however, be necessary to obtain documents from someone other than the client. Notes following the documents listed indicate sources from which such documents may be obtained. If the contents of any such document must be proved at trial, the document itself must be presented [Evid. Code § 1520] unless secondary evidence is admissible [see Evid. Code §§ 1521-1523].

1. When real property is involved, a preliminary title report, which will show matters of record pertaining to the property, but not matters outside the record, such as possession.

NOTE:
A preliminary title report is obtainable from a title insurance company that issues policies for properties in the area where the subject property is situated. Counsel may want to consider getting a litigation guarantee instead of a title report.

2. When adverse claims to the property involve the boundary between it and adjacent property, a surveyor's report giving a metes and bounds description of the property may be necessary.

NOTE:
When the property is legally described in a subdivision map that has been recorded, a metes and bounds description of the property will not be necessary. Its lot and block number of a subdivision map of record ordinarily will be a sufficient description. When the property is not described in a subdivision map, a grant deed to the property ordinarily will give a metes and bounds description. However, when the action will be on a parcel of property that has not been previously legally described by metes and bounds or as a part of a subdivision map, a surveyor's report probably will be necessary to obtain a legally sufficient description of the property. In some situations, a title insurance company may be willing to write up a legal description of the property as an incidental service during the preparation of a preliminary title report or a litigation guarantee.

3. The original of the deed, instrument, or other document by which plaintiff claims title to the property.

NOTE:
If the original is unavailable, and the document is a matter of record, a certified copy of the document should be obtained from the recorder of the county where the property is situated.

4. If tax-deeded property is involved, tax receipts showing the payment of all taxes levied after plaintiff's purchase of the property.

NOTE:
The client will either have a tax receipt showing of taxes or, in some counties, his or her cancelled check will serve as proof of payment.

[3] Preliminary Investigation and Determinations

1. Investigation and interviews.
If the facts or documents obtained indicate that a possible cause of action exists, counsel will want to interview witnesses and conduct whatever preliminary investigation the facts require.

2. Actions and relief (among others):

a. Quiet title action to determine adverse claims [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.010 et seq.; see § 482.80].

b. Action for declaratory relief to determine adverse claims [Civ. Code § 3367; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1060-1062a].

c. Action to determine adverse claims to tax-deeded property [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 3950; see § 482.81].

d. Action for cancellation of an instrument [see Civ. Code § 3412; see also Ch. 107, Cancellation of Instruments].

e. Action to recover possession of real property [see Civ. Code § 3375] or for ejectment [see Ch. 241, Ejectment].

f. Action to reestablish destroyed land records [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 751.01-751.28; see also Ch. 356, Lost Papers].

g. Action to reform a deed [see Civ. Code § 3399; see also Ch. 488, Reformation of Instruments].

h. Proceeding to determine grantor's identity [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 771.010-771.020; see also Ch. 299, Identity, Establishment of].

i. Action by creditor [see Civ. Code § 3439.01(c)] to set aside a fraudulent conveyance [see Civ. Code § 3439.07; see also Ch. 270, Fraudulent Conveyances].

j. Action to determine adverse claims when a lien for taxes has been cancelled [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 4990.3; see also Ch. 540, Taxes and Assessments].

k. Action to determine adverse claims to the former bed of a navigable river or stream [see Pub. Res. Code §§ 6461-6462].

l. Intervention in condemnation proceeding [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 387, 1250.230; see also Ch. 247, Eminent Domain].

m. Third-party claim to property under levy of execution [see Code Civ. Proc. § 720.110, 720.210; see also Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments, § 254.310 et seq.].

[4] Essential Allegations of Complaint

1. A description of the property that is the subject of the action. In the case of tangible personal property, the description must include its usual location. In the case of real property, the description must include both its legal description and its street address or common designation, if any.

2. The title of the plaintiff as to which a determination is sought and the basis of the title. If the title is based on adverse possession, the complaint must allege the specific facts constituting the adverse possession.

3. The adverse claims to the title of the plaintiff against which a determination is sought.

4. The date as of which the determination is sought. If the determination is sought as of a date other than the date the complaint is filed, the complaint must include a statement of the reasons why a determination as of that date is sought.

5. A prayer for the determination of the title of the plaintiff against the adverse claims [Code Civ. Proc. §

761.020].

For form, see § 482.20.

[5] Lis Pendens

Immediately on the commencement of the action, the plaintiff must file a lis pendens in each county in which any real property described in the complaint is located [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.010(b); see Ch. 348, Lis Pendens].

[6] Service of Summons

1. Serve all the named defendants [see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

2. Obtain an order for service of process on unknown defendants and serve them by publication [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 763.010-763.030; see § 482.80].

Counsel should advise the client not to discuss the case with any other person without counsel's approval.

a. Allegations of complaint.

Ascertain which of the facts alleged in the complaint are true, which are false, and which the defendant can neither confirm nor deny.

NOTE:
If the defendant disclaims all interest in the property, or suffers judgment to be had against him or her without an answer, the plaintiff cannot recover costs [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.030(b)].

b. Defenses.

(1) Bar of limitation or laches [see §§ 482.80 and 482.83; see also Ch. 345, Limitation of Actions].

(2) Res judicata [see Ch. 491, Res Judicata].

(3) Pendency of prior action [see Ch. 3, Abatement of Actions].

(4) Estoppel [see, e.g., Burrow v. Carley (1930) 210 Cal. 95, 104, 290 P. 577 ; Baillarge v. Clark (1904) 145 Cal. 589, 593, 79 P. 268 ; but see Dooley's Hardware Mart v. Trigg (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 337, 339, 75 Cal. Rptr. 745] .

[2] Documents to Be Obtained

Obtain the same documents as when representing plaintiff [see § 482.60].

[3] Essential Allegations of Answer and Cross Complaint

1. Any claim the defendant has;

2. Any facts tending to controvert such material allegations of the complaint as the defendant does not wish to be taken as true;

3. A statement of any new matter constituting a defense; and

4. If defendant seeks affirmative relief such as quieting title in himself or herself, allegations in a cross complaint seeking suchrelief similar to those in a complaint to quiet title [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 761.020, 761.040; see § 482.60[4]].

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name(s)], Plaintiff(s),	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name(s) of known defendant(s)], [if person required to be named as defendant is dead, and plaintiff knows identity of personal representative, add:; _____ (name), as _____ (description, e.g., Executor or Administrator (With Will Annexed)) of the Estate of _____ (name), Deceased(, and as devisee)] [if person required to be named as defendant is believed by plaintiff to be dead but plaintiff does not know identity of personal representative, and/or if plaintiff wishes to include unknown successors of known decedent, add:; the testate and intestate successors of _____ (name of decedent), _____ (deceased or believed to be deceased), and all persons claiming by, through, or under such _____ (decedent or person)] [if unknown defendants are included, add:; all persons unknown, claiming any legal or equitable right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the property described in the complaint adverse to Plaintiff's title, or any cloud on Plaintiff's title thereto] [; and DOES I-_____, inclusive],	)	COMPLAINT TO QUIET TITLE

Plaintiff(s) alleges/allege:

[1. Allege each plaintiff's identity and capacity, if necessary.]

[2. Allege each known defendant's identity and capacity, if necessary, including, if known to plaintiff(s), the personal representative of a deceasedperson required to be named as a defendant (see Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(a)), and/or a person required to be named as a defendant who plaintiff(s) believe(s) to be deceased (see Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(b)(3)).]

[3. If heirs and devisees of a defendant who is deceased, or believed to be deceased, are sued as defendants but their names are not known to plaintiff(s), allege: (Plaintiff(s) is/are informed and believe(s) and thereon allege(s) that) _____ (name) is deceased; plaintiff(s) does/do not know the names of decedent's heirs and devisees(, except for _____ (state names of any known heirs and devisees, who should be included above as named defendant(s))),) and therefore denominate(s) these defendants herein as "the testate and intestate successors of _____ (name of deceased person), (believed to be) deceased, and all persons claiming by, through, or under such _____ (decedent or person)" (hereinafter sometimes referred to as "the successor defendants"). These successor defendants, and each of them, claim some right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the hereinafter-described property adverse to plaintiff's/plaintiffs' title; and their claims, and each of them, constitute a cloud on plaintiff's/plaintiffs' title to that property.]

[4. If "all persons unknown" are named as defendants, allege: The defendants herein named as "all persons unknown, claiming any legal or equitable right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the property described in the complaint adverse to plaintiff's title, or any cloud on plaintiff's title thereto" (hereinafter sometimes referred to as "the unknown defendants") are unknown to plaintiff(s). These unknown defendants, and each of them, claim some right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the hereinafter-described property adverse to plaintiff's/plaintiffs' title; and their claims, and each of them, constitute a cloud on plaintiff's/plaintiffs' title to that property.]

[5. Plaintiff(s) is/are ignorant of the true names and capacities of defendants sued herein as DOES I through _____, and therefore sue(s) these defendants by such fictitious names. Plaintiff(s) will amend this complaint to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained. Plaintiff(s) is/are informed and believe(s) and thereon allege(s) that each of these fictitiously named defendants claim some right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the hereinafter-described property adverse to plaintiff's/plaintiffs' title and their claims, and each of them, constitute a cloud on plaintiff's/plaintiffs' title to that property.]

6. _____ [Plaintiff is the sole owner or Plaintiffs are the owners concurrently, as _____ (joint tenants or tenants in common or partners or husband and wife), of _____ (specify interest, e.g., the fee simple title) _____ (of or in or to) certain _____ (real or personal) property, namely _____ (set forth particular description; in the case of personal property, description must include usual location; in the case of real property, description must include both legal description and street address or common designation, if any].

7. The basis of plaintiff's/plaintiffs' title is _____ [describe basis of plaintiff's/plaintiffs' title, e.g., a deed from _____ (name of grantor) granting the above-described property in fee simple to plaintiff(s) dated _____, and recorded in the Official Records of the County of _____, Book/Reel _____, page/image _____].

[8. If any of the plaintiff's claim ownership of the present interest in real property, allege: Plaintiff(s) was/were _____ (seized or possessed) of the above-described property within five years of the commencement of this action.]

[Unless there are few enough adverse claims against title that they can all be described in Paragraph 10, continue with as many separate paragraphs as are necessary, describing one known adverse claim per paragraph, e.g.:]

9. [Plaintiff(s) is/are informed and believe(s) and on such information and belief allege(s) that] [D]efendant _____ [name] claims an interest adverse to plaintiff(s) in the above-described property as _____[describe adverse interest, e.g., the holder of a lien representing an unsatisfied judgment against _____ (name of judgment debtor), a former owner of the property that is the subject of this action. The abstract of judgment was recorded on _____ (date), in the Official Records of the County of _____, Book/Reel _____, page/image _____ (and appears as exception number _____ on the title report issued by _____ (name of title insurance company or abstractor) on _____ (date), a copy of which is attached hereto marked Exhibit "A" and made a part hereof)]. Some of the unknown defendants[, specifically those additionally designated as DOES _____ through _____,] claim interests in the property adverse to plaintiff's/plaintiffs' as assignees and successors of defendant _____ [name].

[CONTINUE]

10. Plaintiff(s) is/are seeking to quiet title against the claims of defendant(s) as follows: _____ [describe claim held by each named defendant, e.g., a quitclaim deed from _____ (name of grantor) granting the above-described property to _____ (name of defendant) dated _____ (date), and recorded in the Official Records of the County of _____, Book/Reel _____, page/image _____ (continue with whichever are applicable:; the claims of the successor defendants described in Paragraph 3; the claims of all unknown defendants described in Paragraph 4, whether or not the claim or cloud is known to plaintiff(s); and the unknown, uncertain, or contingent claim, if any, of _____ (name) more fully described in Paragraph 11)]. The claims of defendant(s) are without any right whatever and such defendant(s) _____ [has or have] no right, title, estate, lien, or interest whatever in the above-described property or any part thereof [except the following: _____ (set forth any adverse claims of which plaintiff(s) admits/admit the validity, e.g., the utility easement held by Pacific Gas and Electric Company)].

[11. If the claim of a named defendant is unknown, uncertain, or contingent, allege: The claim of _____ (name of defendant) is _____ (unknown or uncertain or contingent). (If the lack of knowledge, uncertainty, or contingency is caused by a transfer to an unborn or unascertained person or class member, or by a transfer in the form of a contingent remainder, vested remainder subject to defeasance, executory interest, or similar disposition, allege: _____ (Name), age _____, is the person who would be entitled to an adverse claim if _____ (describe contingency) had occurred prior to the commencement of this action.) (If such person is subject to a legal disability, allege: Such person is subject to _____ (specify legal disability).)]

12. Plaintiff(s) seek(s) to quiet title as of _____ [date]. [If the date is a date other than the date the complaint is filed, allege why a determination as of that date is sought.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff(s) prays/pray as follows:

1. For a judgment that plaintiff(s) is/are _____ [specify interest claimed, e.g., the owner(s) in fee simple] of the property and that defendant(s) has/have no interest in the property adverse to the plaintiff(s);

2. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

Attorney for Plaintiff(s)

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am [one of] the plaintiff(s) in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein stated on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

CAUTION:
If a person required to be named as a defendant is dead, or is believed by plaintiff to be dead, and the plaintiff knows of no personal representative, plaintiff must file an affidavit with the complaint stating these facts [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(b)(1); see generally Ch. 15, Affidavits, Certificates, and Declarations see also §§ 482.80[7][e], [f]].

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing form of complaint is a general form for use by a person claiming ownership of an interest in real or personal property who wishes to quiet title to that interest, thereby invalidating any adverse claims alleged in the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 760.020(a), 761.020; see §§ 482.11, 482.12].

Plaintiff may wish to obtain a title report before commencing the action. If plaintiff intends to add unknown persons as defendants, an examination of the record title and an inspection of the property will be necessary [see Code Civ. Proc. § 762.060(b)]. Also, the court may order plaintiff to obtain a title report and keep it available for inspection and copying by the parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.040(b)].

For an appropriate form to use when the plaintiff asserts title to property as a purchaser of tax-defaulted property, see § 482.81.

Forms appropriate to use in a variety of factual situations are included in other chapters in this set. For a list of these chapters, see § 482.02.

[3] Limitation of Action

If the plaintiff is in possession of the property, his or her right of action is not subject to limitation, but if he or she is out of possession, there is a limitation period, depending on the theory of relief [see Muktarian v. Barmby (1965) 63 Cal. 2d 558, 560-561, 47 Cal. Rptr. 483, 407 P.2d 659 , and § 482.83].

The rule of nonlimitation when the plaintiff is in possession does not apply, however, when the plaintiff sues to clear his or her title of the cloud cast by a tax collector's deed to the state because of tax delinquency. In such a case, there is a special statutory limitation of one year [Rev. & Tax. Code § 175], and the general rule does not apply [Sears v. County of Calaveras (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 518, 521, 289 P.2d 425 ; see also Ch. 540, Taxes and Assessments].

[4] Jurisdiction and Venue

The superior court has jurisdiction of a quiet title action [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.040(a)], and the action is not a limited civil case [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(b), 580(b)(3)]. When title or right to possession is to be tried, or permanent injunctive relief is sought, the case will be classified as an unlimited civil case [see Code Civ. Proc. § 88]. The court has complete jurisdiction over the parties to the action and the property described in the complaint and is deemed to have obtained possession and control of the property for the purposes of the action with complete jurisdiction to render the quiet title judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.040(b)].

Subject to the power of the court to transfer actions, the proper county for the trial of a quiet title action is one of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.050]:

- When the subject of the actions is real property or real and personal property, the county in which the real property, or some part thereof, is located; or

- When the subject of the action is personal property, the county in which the personal property is principally located at the commencement of the action or in which the defendants, or any of them, reside at the commencement of the action.

[5] Caption

The caption must include the names of all parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 422.40]. Plaintiff must name as defendants the persons having adverse claims to the title of plaintiff against which a determination is sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.010], including a person required to be named as a defendant who plaintiff believes is deceased [see Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(b)(3) (§ 482.80[7][f]); see also § 482.81], or, if known to plaintiff, the personal representative of a decedent [see Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(a) (§ 482.80[7][e])].

Three categories of defendants that may be necessary or appropriate in a particular case are denominated by specific language set forth in the statutes: (1) unknown defendants [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 762.020(a), 762.060(a); see discussion under § 482.80[7][g]]; (2) unknown heirs and devisees of a deceased adverse claimant [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(b)(2); see discussion under§ 482.80[7][e]]; and (3) unknown heirs and devisees of a person required to be named as a defendant and whom plaintiff believes is deceased [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(b)(3); see discussion under§ 482.80[7][f]]. Some people also additionally designate testate and intestate successors and "all persons unknown" as DOES. That is not recommended because it differs from the statutory language of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 762.030(b)(2), (3), 762.060, by which those defendants are to be designated, and because it may limit the in rem effect of the judgment by limiting the number of adverse claimants in those classes [see Code Civ. Proc. § 763.030(b) (discussed under Process, below); Cal. L. Rev. Comm. Comment to Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(c) (see § 482.80[7][a])].

The caption may also include fictitious defendants pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 474 because the rules governing civil actions generally are applicable in quiet title actions unless they are inconsistent with quiet title provisions [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.060; see also discussion § 482.80[7][h]].

[6] Plaintiff

[a] Identity and Capacity

If the plaintiff is not a natural person, the complaint should allege the plaintiff's identity as an existing legal entity entitled to come into court; if the plaintiff sues in a special capacity, the complaint should allege this capacity to show that the plaintiff is entitled to relief, if other facts alleged are true (Paragraph 1) [see Parker v. Bowron (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 344, 351, 254 P.2d 6 (distinguishing standing and capacity to sue)].

[b] When Property Belongs to Decedent's Estate

Ordinarily, an action with respect to property belonging to a decedent's estate will be brought by the personal representative. Prob. Code § 9654 provides, however, that the heirs or devisees may themselves, or jointly with the personal representative, maintain an action for possession of property or to quiet title to property against any person except the personal representative. Unlike former Prob. Code § 581 (repealed operative July 1, 1988), Prob. Code § 9654 applies to real as well as personal property [see Cal. L. Rev. Comm. Comment to 1987 repeal of Prob. Code § 581].

It appears that an action may be maintained by any one or more of the heirs or devisees; it is not required that they all join as plaintiffs [see Bank of America v. Atherton (1943) 60 Cal. App. 2d 268, 274, 140 P.2d 678] .

[7] Defendants

[a] Defendants Determine Scope of Action

The plaintiff must name as defendants the persons having adverse claims to the title of the plaintiff against which a determination is sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.010]. If the name of a person required to be named as a defendant is not known to plaintiff, the plaintiff must so state in the complaint and must name as parties all persons unknown in the manner described in § 482.80[7][g] [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.020(a)]. By naming unknown defendants in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 762.060, plaintiff essentially gives the action an in rem effect [see Cal. L. Rev. Comm. Comment to Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(c)].

[b] Particular Capacity of Defendant

If the defendant is not a natural person, the complaint should allege the defendant's identity as an existing entity against which the court's judgment will operate, such as a corporation (Paragraph 2) [see Tanner v. Best (1940) 40 Cal. App. 2d 442, 445, 104 P.2d 1084] .

If the defendant is sued in a particular capacity (e.g., as executor of a will, as trustee, and so forth), the complaint should allege that capacity (Paragraph 2) [see, e.g., Katleman v. First Nat'l Bank (1963) 212 Cal. App. 2d 520, 524, 28 Cal. Rptr. 135 (discharged executor as not subject to suit in representative capacity); see also discussion § 482.80[5]].

[c] Dissolved Corporation

When a corporation has been dissolved, the former shareholders may be sued in the corporate name on any cause of action arising against thecorporation before dissolution [Corp. Code § 2011(a)]. In particular, a quiet title action may be brought against the former shareholders in the corporate name. Any judgment in such an action will bind each and all of the former shareholders or other persons having any equity or other interest in the dissolved corporation, to the extent of their interests, and will have the same force and effect as a judgment in an action governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 410.50 (jurisdiction over party as extending from service of summons through subsequent proceedings) and Code Civ. Proc. § 410.60 (jurisdiction over trustees and shareholders of corporation that forfeited charter as existing from service of summons on any trustee) [Corp. Code § 2011(c); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 413.10-417.40, Corp. Code § 2011(b) (service of summons)].

[d] State or State Agency

The state may be joined as a party to a quiet title action [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.090(a)]. With respect to a quiet title action, it appears that the state or a state agency is subject to suit except when a statute specially gives immunity [see Tehachapi-Cummings County Water Dist. v. Armstrong (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 992, 999-1000, 122 Cal. Rptr. 918 (action to quiet title to water rights)].

[e] Heirs; Representative of Decedent's Estate; Affidavit

If a person required to be named as a defendant is dead and the plaintiff knows of a personal representative, the plaintiff must join the personal representative [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(a)]. If a person required to be named as a defendant is dead, or is believed by the plaintiff to be dead, and the plaintiff knows of no personal representative, the plaintiff must state these facts in an affidavit filed with the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(b)(1)]. For discussion of the formalities required in an affidavit and a general form of affidavit, see Ch. 15, Affidavits, Certificates, and Declarations .

When it is stated in the affidavit that such person is dead, the plaintiff may join as defendants "the testate and intestate successors of _____ (name of deceased person), deceased, and all persons claiming by, through, or under such decedent," naming them in that manner [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(b)]. A judgment rendered against the personal representative is binding on all of the heirs even if they are not parties, and a judgment in favor of the heirs' claims should be rendered in the name of the personal representative, not in the names of the heirs (Paragraph 3) [Jay v. Dollarhide (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 1001, 1031, 84 Cal. Rptr. 538 ; see Prob. Code § 573(a) (cause of action as not lost by death but maintainable by, or against, personal representative)].

Since the personal representative of a decedent's estate represents all of the heirs, he or she may not maintain a quiet title action against some of them [Jay v. Dollarhide (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 1001, 1031, 84 Cal. Rptr. 538] .

[f] When Required Defendant Is Believed to Be Deceased

If a person required to be named as a defendant is believed by plaintiff to be deceased, plaintiff knows of no personal representative, and plaintiff so states in the affidavit required to be filed with the complaint in such a case [see Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(b)(1) (requirement of affidavit); see generally Ch. 15, Affidavits, Certificates, and Declarations], the person believed to be deceased may still be named as a defendant. Plaintiff may also join that person's successors by naming them in the complaint as "the testate and intestate successors of _____ (name of person believed to be deceased), believed to be deceased, and all persons claiming by, through, or under such person" (Paragraph 3) [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(b)(3)].

[g] Unknown Defendants

In addition to the persons required to be named as defendants in the action, the plaintiff may name as defendants "all person unknown, claiming any legal or equitable right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the property described in the complaint adverse to plaintiff's title, or any cloud upon plaintiff's title thereto," naming them in that manner (Paragraph 4) [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.060(a)]. For discussion of whether or not to additionally designate the unknown defendants as DOES, see discussion § 482.80[5].

If unknown defendants are named, the plaintiff must name as defendants the persons having adverse claims that are of record or known to the plaintiff or reasonably apparent from an inspection of the property (Paragraphs 2, 4, 9, 10) [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.060(b)]. Apparently the holder of a claim of record is required to be a named, or "known" defendant, though he or she may still be served by publication if his or her location and identity cannot be determined after reasonable diligence [see Cal. L. Rev. Comm. Comments to Code Civ. Proc. § 763.010(a), (b)].

Naming unknown defendants and serving them by publication [see discussion under§ 482.81[7])] will entitle plaintiff to a judgment that is essentially an in rem judgment against the whole world [see Cal. L. Rev. Comm. Comment to Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(c); see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 764.030, 764.045 (discussed in the Introduction § 482.41[4])]. A person who is in open and actual possession of the property cannot be named as an unknown defendant [see Code Civ. Proc. § 763.010(c) (discussed § 482.81[7])].

[h] Fictitious Defendants

The plaintiff may also name unknown defendants as DOES pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 474 (Paragraph 5) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 760.060 (rulesgoverning civil actions generally as applicable in quiet title actions unless they are inconsistent with quiet title provisions)]. For discussion of whether or not to additionally designate the unknown defendants as DOES, see discussion under Caption, above. For additional examples of DOE allegations, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used .

[i] Defendants Required by Court to Be Joined

The court on its own motion may, and on the motion of any party must, make such orders as appear appropriate for joinder of such additional parties as are necessary or proper [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.040(a)]. For discussion and forms relating to joinder of parties generally, see Ch. 395, Parties .

[8] Appointment of Guardian ad Litem

The court on its own motion may, and on motion of any party must, make such orders for appointment of guardians ad litem as appear necessary to protect the interest of any party [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.080]. Appointment of guardians ad litem is discussed in Ch. 291, Guardians ad Litem .

[9] Required Allegations

[a] Property and Adverse Claims

By statute, the complaint must include the following allegations:

(1) A description of the property that is the subject of the action. In the case of tangible personal property, the description must include its usual location. In the case of real property, the description must include both its legal description and its street address or common designation, if any (Paragraph 6) [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(a)]. This requirement does not preclude the joinder of several properties or of real and personal property, if appropriate [15 Cal. L. Rev. Comm. 1198 (1979)].

(2) The title of the plaintiff as to which a determination is sought and the basis of the title. If the title is based on adverse possession, the complaint must allege the specific facts constituting the adverse possession (Paragraphs 6, 7) [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(b); see generally Ch. 13, Adverse Possession].

(3) The adverse claims to the title of the plaintiff against which a determination is sought (Paragraphs 9-11) [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(c)]. If the plaintiff admits the validity of any adverse claim, the complaint must so state (Paragraph 10) [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.060(c)]. If the claim or the share or quantity of the claim of a person required to be named as a defendant is unknown, uncertain, or contingent, the plaintiff must so state in the complaint. If the lack of knowledge, uncertainty, or contingency is caused by a transfer to an unborn or unascertained person or class member, or by a transfer in the form of a contingent remainder, vested remainder subject to defeasance, executory interest, or similar disposition, the plaintiff must also state in the complaint, so far as is known to the plaintiff, the name, age, and legal disability, if any, of the person in being who would be entitled to the claim had the contingency on which the claim depends occurred prior to the commencement of the action (Paragraph 11) [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.020(b)].

(4) The date as of which the determination is sought. If the determination is sought as of a date other than the date the complaint is filed, the complaint must include a statement of reasons why a determination as of that date is sought (Paragraph 12) [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(d)].

(5) A prayer for the determination of the title of the plaintiff against the adverse claims [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(d)].

[b] Plaintiff's Seisin or Possession Within Five Years

When the plaintiff claims a present interest in real property (i.e., the interest entitling the owner to immediate possession [Civ. Code § 689]), whether or not he or she actually seeks to recover possession, he or she is deemed to sue for the recovery of real property within the meaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 318, a statute of limitations implicitly requiring the plaintiff to prove (and, therefore, allege) that "the plaintiff, his/her ancestor, predecessor, or grantor, was seised or possessed of the [real] property in question, within five years before the commencement of the action" (Paragraph 8) [see Safwenberg v. Marquez (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 301, 311, 123 Cal. Rptr. 405] .

The statute requires either seisin--that is, the right of possession--or actual possession. If the plaintiff shows that he or she has legal title, he or she shows seisin, even when someone else is in actual possession [Tobin v. Stevens (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 945, 949-951, 251 Cal. Rptr. 587 ; Schoenfeld v. Pritzker (1967) 257 Cal. App. 2d 117, 121, 64 Cal. Rptr. 592] . Moreover, it is apparent that if the plaintiff relies on possession (because someone else holds legal title), he or she must meet the test of adverse possession.

Obviously, when the plaintiff claims a future interest, Code Civ. Proc. § 318 does not apply. One reason is that the plaintiff's action cannot be characterized as one for the recovery of the property, but a more compelling reason is that in many cases it would be impossible to show seisin or possession in himself or herself or a predecessor within five years before commencement of the action.

[c] Water Rights

Water rights are deemed to be real property, and a quiet title action may be maintained to determine adverse claims to water rights [see Tehachapi-Cummings County Water Dist. v. Armstrong (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 992, 999 n.5, 122 Cal. Rptr. 918] .

There are special pleading rules when the plaintiff claims ownership of a riparian right [see Hudson v. West (1957) 47 Cal. 2d 823, 828-829, 306 P.2d 807 ; for discussion and appropriate forms, see Ch. 575, Waters, § 565.10 et seq.].
