- The buyer did not rely on that affirmation of fact or promise when deciding to buy [Hauter v. Zogarts (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 104, 114, 120 Cal. Rptr. 681, 534 P.2d 377 (Com. Code § 2313 embodies change from pre-U.C.C. law on reliance issue); Weinstat v. Dentsply Int'l, Inc. (2010) 180 Cal. App. 4th 1213, 1227, 103 Cal. Rptr. 3d 614 (reliance is not required); U.C.C. Comment 3 to Com. Code § 2313 ("In actual practice affirmations of fact made by the seller about the goods during a bargain are regarded as part of the description of those goods; hence no particular reliance on such statements need be shown in order to weave them into the fabric of the agreement.")].

- The seller purported to disclaim "all warranties, expressed or implied" in such or similar general terms [U.C.C. Comment 4 to Com. Code § 2313; see § 502.23[6]].

The buyer's inspection of the goods before purchase does not necessarily waive the express warranties. For instance, warranties based on statements in advertising brochures that a boat was "a picture of sure-footed seaworthiness" and "a carefully equipped and very seaworthy vessel" were not waived by the buyer's, and buyer's expert's, inspection of the boat before it was placed in the water [Keith v. Buchanan (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 13, 23-24, 220 Cal. Rptr. 392] .

Whether a seller has created an express warranty or merely made nonactionable statements of opinion is for the trier of fact to determine from all of the circumstances of the transaction [Schauer v. Mandarin Gems of California, Inc. (2005) 125 Cal. App. 4th 949, 959, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 233] .

Com. Code § 2313 applies only to the sale of goods. Thus, a representation made in connection with the sale of a business, regarding the volume of gross and net profits, is not governed by Com. Code § 2313 [Kazerouni v. De Satnick (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 871, 873-874, 279 Cal. Rptr. 74] .

[2] By Description

A description need not be by words. Technical specifications, blueprints, and the like can afford more exact description than mere language; if these descriptions are made part of the basis of the bargain, goods must conform with them. Past deliveries may set the description of quality, either expressly, impliedly, or by course of dealing. All descriptions by merchants must be read against applicable trade usages, with the general rules as to merchantability resolving any doubts [U.C.C. Comment 5 to Com. Code § 2313].

[3] By Sample

Samples include both those drawn from the bulk of goods that is the subject matter of the sale, and from models that are offered for inspection when the subject matter is not available and which has not been drawn from the bulk of the goods. There may be a question of fact, however, as to when something has been shown merely as illustrative, that is, demonstrated only to suggest, rather than as constituting the character of the subject matter of the contract. A sample drawn from the bulk should be regarded as describing values of the goods contracted for unless accompanied by an unmistakable denial of that responsibility. A model of merchandise not on hand is not as strong an indicator that it is a literal description of the sales subject matter, particularly if the buyer's modification of the model impairs any feature of the model [U.C.C. Comment 6 to Com. Code § 2313].

[4] Puffery Excluded

An affirmation merely of the value of goods, or a statement purporting to be merely the seller's opinion or commendation of the goods, does not create a warranty [Com. Code § 2313(2)]. Statements in advertising brochures that a boat was "a picture of sure-footed seaworthiness" and "a carefully equipped and very seaworthy vessel" were specific and unequivocal enough to create express warranties under Com. Code § 2313 [Keith v. Buchanan (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 13, 20-22, 220 Cal. Rptr. 392 (but no express warranties were created under Civ. Code § 1791.2(a)(1) because there was no undertaking by seller to preserve or maintain utility or performance of vessel)].

[5] Elimination of Privity

Privity is not required for an action based on express warranty [Rodrigues v. Campbell Industries (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 494, 500-501, 151 Cal. Rptr. 90 ; see Hauter v. Zogarts (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 104, 114 n.8, 120 Cal. Rptr. 681, 534 P.2d 377 ; Schauer v. Mandarin Gems of California, Inc. (2005) 125 Cal. App. 4th 949, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 233 (third-party beneficiary plaintiff)].

Words or conduct relevant to the creation of an express warranty and words or conduct tending to negate or limit a warranty are construed whenever reasonable as consistent with each other. Negation or limitation is inoperative, however, to the extent that a limited construction is unreasonable, subject to the provisions of Division 2 of the Commercial Code on parol or extrinsic evidence [Com. Code § 2316(1); see Com. Code § 2202].

Because a disclaimer or modification is inconsistent with an express warranty, words of disclaimer or modification give way to words of warranty unless some clear agreement between the parties dictates the contrary [Hauter v. Zogarts (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 104, 119, 120 Cal. Rptr. 681, 534 P.2d 377 ; see also U.C.C. Comment 1 to Com. Code § 2313]. For example, the scope of an express warranty that a golfer training device is completely safe has been held to be not limited by reference to a picture in an instruction manual showing the correct use of the device or the general understanding that golf is a dangerous game [see Hauter v. Zogarts (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 104, 118, 120, 120 Cal. Rptr. 681, 534 P.2d 377] .

A purchaser cannot claim the benefit of an express warranty of which it had no knowledge at the time of contracting. Thus, a disclaimer in the primary contract is effective to bar a claim by the purchaser based on an express warranty in a contract between the seller and one of the seller's subcontractors that the purchaser discovers after the primary contract is executed [Appalachian Ins. Co. v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 1, 34, 262 Cal. Rptr. 716 (purchaser claimed to be third-party beneficiary of contract between seller and subcontractor)].

When an express warranty is limited to a specified period (for example, the typical time-or-miles warranty on a new car), generally the warranty does not cover repairs made after the warranty period has expired. Furthermore, a latent defect discovered after expiration of the warranty period does not form the basis for a valid claim under the warranty, even if the warrantor knew of the defect at the time of sale. To hold that all latent defects are covered under a limited-period express warranty, whether they become apparent to the customer before or after expiration of the warranty period, would place an undue burden on the warrantor, who under such a rule would, in effect, be obliged to ensure that the product is defect free for its entire life [Daugherty v. American Honda Motor Co. (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 824, 830-831, 51 Cal. Rptr. 3d 118] .

Chapter 502 SALES: WARRANTIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Warranties Under Division 2 of Commercial Code

44-502 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 502.24

§ 502.24 Implied Warranties

[1] Origin in Law

The implied warranty, unlike the basically contractual express warranty, arises by operation of law. The defendant's liability therefor does not depend on his or her specific conduct or promises. It turns instead on whether defendant's product is merchantable or fit as required under the Commercial Code [Hauter v. Zogarts (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 104, 117, 120 Cal. Rptr. 681, 534 P.2d 377] .

[2] Merchantability

A warranty that the goods are merchantable is implied in a contract for their sale if (1) the seller is a merchant of goods of that kind, and (2) the warranty has not otherwise been excluded or modified. The serving for value of food or drink to the consumer, either on the premises or elsewhere, is a sale for warranty purposes. To be merchantable, goods must do at least all of the following [Com. Code § 2314(1), (2)]:

- Pass without objection in the trade under the contract description.

- Be of fair average quality within the description, if fungible goods [see U.C.C. Comment to Com. Code § 2314].

- Be fit for the ordinary purposes for which such goods are used [Burr v. Sherwin Williams Co. (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 682, 694, 268 P.2d 1041 (if goods contain impurity of such nature as to render them unusable, and therefore unsalable, for general uses and purposes of goods of that kind, those goods are not merchantable); see, e.g., Garlock Sealing Techs., LLC v. NAK Sealing Techs. Corp. (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 937, 953-954, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 177 (substantial evidence supported trial court's conclusion that seller breached implied warranty of merchantability because goods contained impurity)].

- Run of even kind, quality, and quantity (within the variations permitted by the agreement) within each unit and among all units involved.

- Be adequately contained, packaged, and labeled as the agreement may require.
- Conform to the promises or affirmations of fact made on the container or label, if any.

[3] Merchant Defined

A person making an isolated sale of goods is not a "merchant" within the meaning of the full scope of the implied warranty of merchantability provision. Thus, no warranty of merchantability applies. In keeping with the underlying reason for the implied warranty and the provision on good faith, a person who is not a merchant but who knows of defects that were not apparent on inspection fully must disclose any known material but hidden defects, even in the absence of an express agreement. If a seller states generally that the goods are "guaranteed," the implied warranty provisions may furnish a guide to the content of the resulting express warranty. This consequence has particular significance in the case of secondhand sales, and has further significance in limiting the effect of fine print disclaimer clauses if their effect would be inconsistent with large print assertions of guarantee [U.C.C. Comments 3, 4 to Com. Code § 2314].

[4] Fitness for Particular Purpose

A sale carries an implied warranty that the goods will be fit for a particular purpose if the seller at the time of contracting has reason to know any particular purpose for which the goods are required and the buyer is relying on the seller's skill or judgment to select or furnish suitable goods. This warranty may be excluded or modified [Com. Code § 2315; see Keith v. Buchanan (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 13, 25-26, 220 Cal. Rptr. 392 (no implied warranty because buyer made own selection rather than relying on seller's skill or judgment to select or furnish suitable goods)].

A "particular" purpose differs from an "ordinary" one in that it envisages a specific use by the buyer which is peculiar to the nature of his or her needs. The ordinary purposes of the uses of goods are those encompassed by the concept of merchantability and serve uses that are customarily made of the goods. The ordinary purpose of shoes is walking on ordinary surfaces, but the seller may know that a particular pair is being selected for use in mountain climbing [U.C.C. Comment 2 to Com. Code § 2315].

It is basically a question of fact as to whether the warranty of special fitness arises in any individual case. The seller need not have actual knowledge of the particular purpose or of the buyer's reliance if the circumstances are such that the seller should realize either of these. The buyer's reliance must be actual. For example, a buyer who insists on a particular brand or trade name is not relying on the seller's skill and judgment and there is no warranty of particular fitness. However, the mere fact that the article purchased has a special patent or trade name is not sufficient to indicate nonreliance [U.C.C. Comments 1, 5 to Com. Code § 2315].

[5] When "Fitness" Controls Over Other Warranties

Any question of fact as to which warranty was intended by the parties to apply is resolved in favor of the warranty of fitness for a particular purpose as against all other warranties. If, however, the purpose for which the goods are to be used combines the buyer's requirements as to quality of the goods as well as compliance with certain laws or regulations, the provisions of Division 2 of the Commercial Code [see Com. Code §§ 2509, 2510] on allocation or division of risks may apply. Division of the risks may be handled by express agreement or by surrounding circumstances or matters of custom [see U.C.C. Comments 2, 3 to Com. Code § 2315; see also discussion in § 502.27].

[6] Other Implied Warranties

Implied warranties, other than merchantability, may arise from course of dealing or usage of trade unless excluded or modified [Com. Code § 2314(3); see Com. Code § 1303(b), (c) ("course of dealing" and "usage of trade" defined)], such as in the sale of an animal in which the seller must deliver certification of the animal's pedigree or blooded character [U.C.C. Comment 12 to Com. Code § 2314].

[7] Requirement of Privity

Privity between the plaintiff and defendant is a requirement for actions based on the implied warranty of merchantability or the implied warranty of fitness [Burr v. Sherwin Williams Co. (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 682, 695-696, 268 P.2d 1041 ; All-West Electronics, Inc. v. M-B-W, Inc. (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 717, 725-727, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 509 ; U.S. Roofing, Inc. v. Credit Alliance Corp. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1431, 1441, 279 Cal. Rptr. 533 ; Osborne v. Subaru of America, Inc. (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 646, 656, 243 Cal. Rptr. 815]. A buyer and a seller stand in privity if they are in adjoining links of the distribution chain; therefore, a consumer who buys from a retailer is not in privity with the manufacturer, for example [Osborne v. Subaru of America, Inc. (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 646, 656 n.6, 243 Cal. Rptr. 815]. The Ninth Circuit has noted that the privity requirement may be an archaism in the modern consumer marketplace [Clemens v. Daimlerchrysler Corp. (9th Cir. 2008) 530 F.3d 852, 858].

Some exceptions to the normal privity rule have been developed. One can arise when the plaintiff relies on written labels or advertisements of the manufacturer [see Burr v. Sherwin Williams Co. (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 682, 696, 268 P.2d 1041]. Other exceptions can arise in special cases involving foodstuffs, pesticides, and pharmaceuticals, or where the plaintiff is an employee of the buyer [see Burr v. Sherwin Williams Co. (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 682, 695, 268 P.2d 1041 ; Windham at Carmel Mountain Ranch Assn. v. Superior Court (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1162, 1169, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 834 ; Fieldstone Co. v. Briggs Plumbing Prods. (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 357, 369, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 701 ; Gottsdanker v. Cutter Labs. (1960) 182 Cal. App. 2d 602, 608, 6 Cal. Rptr. 320] . An exception also may exist when the plaintiff is a member of the buyer's family [Rodrigues v. Campbell Industries (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 494, 500, 151 Cal. Rptr. 90 ; see Hauter v. Zogarts (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 104, 114 n.8, 120 Cal. Rptr. 681, 534 P.2d 377] .

If the manufacturer or supplier of goods affirmatively engages in conduct directly with the ultimate buyer, so that functionally the manufacturer or supplier is in the position of the direct seller, then it is fair and appropriate to hold that manufacturer or supplier to an implied warranty that the goods will be fit for the buyer's purposes, if all other elements of the buyer's claim have been established [Cardinal Health 301, Inc. v. Tyco Electronics Corp. (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 116, 144, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 5 ; see, e.g., U.S. Roofing, Inc. v. Credit Alliance Corp. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1431, 1441-1442, 1445, 279 Cal. Rptr. 533 (roofing contractor negotiated with equipment supplier for specific item at agreed price; unrelated finance lessor then bought that item from supplier and leased it to contractor, because lease was financially advantageous for contractor; court held that implied warranty of fitness ran from supplier to contractor, in spite of lack of actual privity between them, because of their direct dealings; participation of finance lessor as accommodation party was disregarded)].

[8] Exclusion Generally

All implied warranties are excluded by expressions such as "as is," "with all faults," or other language which in common understanding calls the buyer's attention to the exclusion of warranties and makes plain that there is no implied warranty. However, the exclusion does not operate if the circumstances indicate otherwise [Com. Code § 2316(3)(a)].

When the buyer, before entering into the contract, has examined the goods, or the sample or model, as fully as he or she desired, or has refused to examine them, there is no implied warranty with regard to defects which an examination ought in the circumstances to have revealed [Com. Code § 2316(3)(b); see, e.g., Garlock Sealing Techs., LLC v. NAK Sealing Techs. Corp. (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 937, 953-954, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 177 (substantial evidence supported trial court's finding that abrasiveness of oil seal lips was not defect that buyer ought to have discovered)]. Examination by the buyer is not synonymous with inspection before acceptance or at any other time after the contract has been made. Rather, examination signifies the nature of the responsibility assumed by the seller at the time of making the contract. Thus, if the buyer discovers the defect and uses the goods anyway, or if such person unreasonably fails to examine the goods before using them, any injuries that occur may be found to result from the buyer's own action rather than proximately from a breach of warranty [UCC Comment 8 to Com. Code § 2316]. A buyer is deemed to have refused to examine goods only if the seller demands that the buyer examine the goods fully, thereby putting the buyer on notice that he or she assumes the risk of defects which the examination ought to reveal [UCC Comment 8 to Com. Code § 2316].

The particular buyer's skill and the normal method of examining goods under the circumstances determine which defects are excluded by the examination. A failure to notice defects that are obvious cannot excuse the buyer. However, an examination under circumstances that do not permit chemical or other testing of the goods would not exclude defects which could be ascertained only by that testing. Latent defects are not excluded by a simple examination. A professional buyer examining a product in his or her field of expertise is held to have assumed the risk as to all defects that a professional ought to observe. A nonprofessional buyer is held only to the standard of what a layperson might have found to be defects [UCC Comment 8 to Com. Code § 2316].

If the offer of examination by the seller is accompanied by words concerning the merchantability of specific attributes of the goods, and the buyer clearly indicates reliance on those words rather than on the examination, the words give rise to an "express" warranty. The question then is whether or not a warranty of merchantability has been expressly incorporated in the agreement [UCC Comment 8 to Com. Code § 2316].

An implied warranty also can be excluded or modified by course of dealing or course of performance or by usage of trade. These rules take precedence over the special provisions for exclusion of the individual types of implied warranties [Com. Code § 2316(3)(c)].

[9] Exclusion or Modification of Warranty of Merchantability

To exclude or modify the implied warranty of merchantability, or any part thereof (apart from the general rules for altering implied warranties) [see § 502.24[8]], the language must mention merchantability. In the case of a writing, that language must be conspicuous [Com. Code § 2316(2)]. Thus, for example, a contract for the sale of secondhand goods involves only the obligation that is appropriate to secondhand goods, because that is their contract description [U.C.C. Comment 3 to Com. Code § 2314]. However, even if the word "merchantability" is not used, a seller apparently may limit the scope of the implied warranty by specifying that the product should b e used with caution or in a certain prescribed manner. For example, there was no breach of the implied warranty of merchantability when a customer developed a skin irritation after the application of a product which advertised itself as appropriate for use on the skin but cautioned that certain skin might be sensitive to the product and that sample testing should be tried and its use discontinued if any irritation developed [see Harris v. Belton (1968) 258 Cal. App. 2d 595, 605-607, 65 Cal. Rptr. 808] .

If the buyer gives precise and complete specifications to the seller, the warranty of merchantability must be considered in connection with the provisions governing the cumulation and conflict of warranties and would be expected to be displaced by the express warranty that the goods will comply with the specifications [UCC Comment 9 to Com. Code § 2316; see § 502.27].

[10] Exclusion of Warranty of Fitness

Other than as discussed in analysis of general exclusions [see § 502.24[8]], an implied warranty of fitness may be excluded only by a writing in a conspicuous fashion. Language to exclude all implied warranties of fitness is sufficient if it states, for example, that "there are no warranties which extend beyond the description on the face hereof" [Com. Code § 2316(2)].

The warranty of fitness for a particular purpose normally would not arise in a situation in which the buyer gives precise and complete specifications to the seller, because the buyer in that case is not usually relying on the seller [UCC Comment 9 to Com. Code § 2316].

Any warranty of quality or condition of goods on their arrival on shipment places on the seller the risk of ordinary deterioration, shrinkage, and the like in transportation. It has no effect, however, on the place or time of identification to the contract for sale or delivery or on the passing of the risk of loss [*Com. § 502.26 Restrictions on Disclaimers

No warranty, express or implied, can be modified or disclaimed, according to the purpose of Com. Code § 2316, unless a seller clearly limits his or her liability. At the very least, the statute allows limitation on warranties only through words that clearly communicate that a particular risk falls on the buyer. Furthermore, any disclaimer or modification must be strictly construed against the seller. The purchaser must be placed on fair notice of any disclaimer or modification of a warranty and must freely agree to the seller's terms [Hauter v. Zogarts (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 104, 119-120, 120 Cal. Rptr. 681, 534 P.2d 377] . The disclaimer should be in clear and distinct language prominently set forth in large, bold print in such a position as to compel notice [Dorman v. International Harvester Co. (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 11, 18-19, 120 Cal. Rptr. 516 (disclaimer provision was unenforceable which only slightly contrasted with rest of contract, failed to have a heading, was not accompanied by the express warranty provided by the seller, and emphasized words which implied that the excluded, implied warranties might actually be available)].

If a contract has been completed containing a warranty, a unilateral nonwarranty cannot thereafter be given [Hauter v. Zogarts (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 104, 119-120, 120 Cal. Rptr. 681, 534 P.2d 377 ; see Dorman v. International Harvester Co. (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 11, 19-20, 120 Cal. Rptr. 516 (disclaimer of consequential damages, not specifically bargained for, given to buyer after signing contract as not binding)].

§ 502.27 Rules for Determining Compatibility Among Warranties

Warranties, whether express or implied, are construed as consistent with each other and as cumulative. However, if this construction is unreasonable, the parties' intention determines which warranty is dominant. Certain rules are applicable in ascertaining that intention [Com. Code § 2317]:

- Exact or technical specifications displace an inconsistent sample or model or general language of description.

- A sample from an existing bulk displaces inconsistent general language of description.

- Express warranties displace inconsistent implied warranties other than an implied warranty of fitness for a particular purpose [see Garlock Sealing Techs., LLC v. NAK Sealing Techs. Corp. (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 937, 950 n.7, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 177 (when buyer specifies standard component with no knowledge of its ingredients and no reason to know of any potential flaws in those ingredients, its specification of standard component is not inconsistent with implied warranty of merchantability by seller of that component)].

The foregoing rules are not absolute and may be changed by evidence showing that the conditions which existed during the contractual period make those rules of construction inconsistent or unreasonable. For example, a seller who has led the buyer to believe that all warranties can be performed is estopped from setting up any essential inconsistency as a defense [UCC Comments 2, 3 to Com. Code § 2317; see § 502.24[5]].

[1] Elements

In an action for breach of warranty it is necessary to show not only the existence of the warranty but the fact that it was broken and that its breach was the proximate cause of the loss sustained. An affirmative showing by the seller that the loss resulted from some action or event following the seller's delivery of the goods can operate as a defense. Evidence indicating that the seller exercised care in the manufacture, processing, or selection of the goods is relevant to the issue of whether or not the warranty was in fact broken. Action by the buyer following an examination of the goods which ought to have indicated the defect complained of can be shown as a matter bearing on whether or not the breach itself was the cause of the injury [UCC Comment 13 to Com. Code § 2314].

To establish causation on a warranty claim, the evidence need only afford a reasonable basis for the conclusion that it is more likely than not that the defect caused the harm [Cardinal Health 301, Inc. v. Tyco Electronics Corp. (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 116, 146, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 5] .

[2] Damages

The measure of damages for breach of warranty is the difference, at the time and place of acceptance, between the value of the goods accepted and the value they would have had if they had been as warranted, unless special circumstances show proximate damages of a different amount [Com. Code § 2714(2)]. This measure is not exclusive. If the nonconformity of the goods would have justified revocation of acceptance, the time and place of acceptance is determined as of the buyer's decision not to revoke [UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 2714].

Consequential damages resulting from the seller's breach include injury to person or property proximately resulting from any breach of warranty [Com. Code § 2715(2)(b)]. If the injury involved follows the use of goods without discovery of the defect causing the damage, liability arises only if it was reasonable for the buyer to use the goods without an inspection which would have revealed the defects [UCC Comment 5 to Com. Code § 2715].

Remedies for breach of warranty can be limited in accordance with the provisions of Division 2 of the Commercial

Code on liquidation or limitation of damages, and on contractual modification of remedy [Com. Code § 2316(4); see Com. Code §§ 2718, 2719; see also Ch. 500, Sales: Sales Under the Commercial Code, § 500.72].

[3] Recovery for Personal Injuries or Property Damage

A plaintiff who is seeking damages for personal injuries or injuries to property based on a defective product has the possible, alternative remedies of a cause of action for breach of warranty and one for strict liability in tort. However, the doctrine of strict products liability has virtually displaced the law of warranty. Proof of a contractual relationship or of particular representations, such as those found in an accompanying brochure or made by the seller to the buyer or based on the product's appearance of excellence is not required [Hauter v. Zogarts (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 104, 114-115, 117-118, 120-121, 120 Cal. Rptr. 681, 534 P.2d 377] . Thus, with the introduction of the doctrine of strict liability in tort for injuries resulting from defective products in the Supreme Court case of Greenman v. Yuba Power Products, Inc. (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 57, 63, 27 Cal. Rptr. 697, 377 P.2d 897 , warranty law was relegated to governing the consensual economic relationship between the parties while strict liability governs both personal injury and physical injury to property based on duties imposed by law [see Seely v. White Motor Co. (1965) 63 Cal. 2d 9, 15-16, 18-19, 45 Cal. Rptr. 17, 403 P.2d 145 ; see generally Ch. 460, Products Liability].

[4] Notification of Breach of Warranty

[a] In General

The Commercial Code requires generally that if a tender has been accepted, the buyer must, within a reasonable time after he or she discovers or should have discovered any breach, notify the seller of the breach or be barred from any remedy [Com. Code § 2607(3)(A)]. Prior to bringing an action for breach of warranty under a sale of goods, notification of the breach of warranty must be given.

The time of notification is to be determined by applying commercial standards to a merchant buyer. A reasonable time for notification from a retail consumer is to be judged by different standards, and may be extended. The rule of requiring notification is designed to defeat commercial bad faith, not to deprive a good-faith consumer of a remedy. The content of the notification of breach of warranty need merely be sufficient to let the seller know that the transaction is still troublesome and must be watched. There appears to be no reason to require that the notification saving the buyer's rights must include a clear statement of all the objections that will be relied on by the buyer; nor should it be a claim for damages or of any threatened litigation or other resort to remedy. It must merely inform the seller that the transaction is claimed to involve a breach, thus opening the way for normal settlement through negotiation [UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 2607].

The buyer has the burden of proving reasonable notice. The question whether notice was properly given must be determined from the particular circumstances, and when but one inference can be drawn from undisputed facts, the issue may be determined as a matter of law [Cardinal Health 301, Inc. v. Tyco Electronics Corp. (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 116, 135-136, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 5] .

If, after tender of the goods has been accepted, the buyer develops a claim of breach of warranty against infringement or the like through being sued by a third party as a result of the breach, the buyer must notify the seller of that suit within a reasonable time after receiving notice of the litigation. Otherwise, the buyer is barred from any remedy over for liability established thereby [Com. Code § 2607(3)(B)]. The seller then has the right to demand in writing that the buyer turn over control of the litigation, including settlement, or else be barred from any remedy. If the seller also agrees to bear all expenses and to satisfy adverse judgment, the buyer is barred unless he or she turns over control after seasonable receipt of the demand [Com. Code § 2607(5)(B); see also § 502.28[5]].

These provisions also apply if a buyer has supplied the seller with specifications for the goods being sold. The seller who then has furnished the goods in compliance with those specifications, and who is thereby entitled to be held harmless by the buyer in the event of any infringement, must give the buyer the same kind of notices as above. The buyer has the same right to demand control of the defense in any infringement suit [Com. Code § 2607(6)].

[5] "Vouching in" Seller by Buyer

If the buyer is sued for breach of a warranty for which the buyer's seller is answerable over, the buyer may give the seller written notice of the litigation. The notice may state that the seller may come in and defend and that, if the seller does not do so, the seller will be bound in any action brought against the seller by the buyer by any determination of fact common to the two litigations. Then, unless the seller after seasonable receipt of the notice does come in and defend, the seller is so bound [Com. Code § 2607(5)(A); for further discussion of "vouching in," see Ch. 500, Sales: Sales Under the Commercial Code, § 500.60[2][b]].

[6] Statute of Limitations

[a] Parties May Reduce Four-Year Period to One Year

An action for breach of any contract for sale governed by Division 2 of the Commercial Code must be commenced within four years after the cause of action has accrued, although by their original agreement the parties may reduce the period to as little as one year [Com. Code § 2725(1); see Therma-Coustics Manufacturing, Inc. v. Borden, Inc. (1985) 167 Cal. App. 3d 282, 296, 213 Cal. Rptr. 611 (upholding one-year limitation under Com. Code § 2207)]. A breach of warranty occurs when tender of delivery is made; however, when a warranty explicitly extends to future performance of the goods, and discovery of the breach must await the time of that performance, the cause of action accrues when the breach is, or should have been, discovered [Com. Code § 2725(2); see Krieger v. Nick Alexander Imports, Inc. (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 205, 215-219, 285 Cal. Rptr. 717 (cause of action for breach of express warranty under Song-Beverly Act)]. Generalized assertions in advertisements and literature, however, do not rise to the level of a warranty explicitly extending to "future performance" [Carrau v. Marvin Lumber and Cedar Co. (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 281, 290-292, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 869 (plaintiff who failed to file suit within four years of delivery of allegedly defective windows did not meet exception to limitation period based on generalized assertions made in seller's advertisements)]. Furthermore, a seller's promise expressed merely in terms of a product's durability (such as that the product will work for "50,000 cycles") does not fall within the future performance exception because it does not specify a date or time in the future, nor does it pertain to a time period that can be determined by reference to an external source, and the buyer would not necessarily have to wait for the durability promise to fail before having opportunities to discover defects [Cardinal Health 301, Inc. v. Tyco Electronics Corp. (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 116, 131-133, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 5 (additionally in this case, both parties were large and sophisticated companies and could have drafted their agreement to explicitly state duration of warranty so as to ensure that limitation period would extend beyond four years, if that had been their intent)].

The future performance exception in Com. Code § 2725(2) cannot apply with respect to an implied warranty. Because an implied warranty is one that arises by operation of law rather than by an express agreement of the parties, it is not a warranty that "explicitly" extends to future performance of the goods, as that code section requires [Cardinal Health 301, Inc. v. Tyco Electronics Corp. (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 116, 134, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 5] .

The limitation period of Com. Code § 2725 applies only when a contract of sale exists between a disgruntled buyer and the one he or she seeks to hold liable. It does not apply to actions brought by the buyer against the manufacturer of the unsatisfactory product [Fundin v. Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co. (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 951, 960, 199 Cal. Rptr. 789] .

[b] Tolling for Repairs

The statute of limitations adopted for sales contracts and breaches of warranty does not alter the law on the tolling of the statute [Com. Code § 2725(4)]. Whenever one who has breached a warranty claims that the defect can be repaired, then the limitation period is tolled while he or she attempts to make repairs [Aced v. Hobbs-Sesack Plumbing Co. (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 573, 585, 12 Cal. Rptr. 257, 360 P.2d 897 ; see Krieger v. Nick Alexander Imports, Inc. (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 205, 218-219, 285 Cal. Rptr. 717 (accrual after last of several repair attempts)].

C. Warranties Under Song-Beverly Act

44-502 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 502.40

§ 502.40 Song-Beverly Act Definitions

[1] Buyer

The "buyer" or "retail buyer" is an individual who buys consumer goods from a person engaged in the business of manufacturing, distributing, or selling consumer goods at retail. This person may be an individual, partnership, corporation, limited liability company, association, or other legal entity which engages in any of these businesses [Civ. Code § 1791(b)].

[2] Consumer Goods; Exclusions

"Consumer goods" means any new product or part of a product that is used or bought or leased for use primarily for personal, family, or household purposes. The term includes new and used "assistive devices," but does not include "clothing" or "consumables" [Civ. Code § 1791(a); see Atkinson v. Elk Corporation (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 739, 757, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 433 (analyzing statutory definition of "consumer goods" under Civ. Code § 1794(a) and holding that roof shingles are not consumer goods under the Act)].

An "assistive device" is any instrument, apparatus, or contrivance (including any component, part, or accessory) used or intended to be used to assist an individual with a disability in the mitigation or treatment of an injury or disease, or to assist, affect, or replace the structure or any function of that person's body [Civ. Code § 1791(p)]. An "assistive device" does not, however, include prescriptive lenses and other ophthalmic goods unless they are sold or dispensed to a blind person, as defined in Welf. & Inst. Code § 19153, and unless they are intended to assist the limited vision of the person so disabled [Civ. Code § 1791(p)].

"Clothing" consists of any wearing apparel, worn for any purpose. It includes under and outer garments, shoes, and accessories composed primarily of woven material, natural or synthetic yarn, fiber, leather, or similar fabric [Civ. Code § 1791(c)]. "Consumables" refers to any product intended for consumption by individuals or use by individuals for purposes of personal care or in the performance of services ordinarily rendered within the household and which usually is consumed or expended in the course of that consumption or use [Civ. Code § 1791(d)].

The Song-Beverly Act applies to any equipment or mechanical, electrical, or thermal component of a system designed to heat, cool, or otherwise condition air. However, it is inapplicable to the system as a whole if the latter becomes a fixed part of a structure [Civ. Code § 1795.1].

[3] Leasing

"Lease" means any contract for the lease, or for the bailment for use, of consumer goods by an individual, for a term exceeding four months, primarily for personal, family, or household purposes, whether or not it is agreed that the lessee bears the risk of the consumer goods' depreciation [Civ. Code § 1791(g)]. "Lessee" means an individual who leases consumer goods under a lease [Civ. Code § 1791(h)]. "Lessor"means a person who regularly leases consumer goods under a lease [Civ. Code § 1791(i)].

[4] Mercantile Parties

The chain of mercantile participants under consumer warranty legislation may consist of the following individuals, partnerships, corporations, associations, or other legal entities:

- The "manufacturer" manufactures, assembles, or produces consumer goods [Civ. Code § 1791(j)].

- The "distributor" stands between the manufacturer and the retail seller in purchases, consignments, or contracts for sale of consumer goods [Civ. Code § 1791(e)].

- The "retail seller," also known as the "seller" or the "retailer," engages in the business of selling consumer goods to retail buyers [Civ. Code § 1791(l)].

[5] Sales

A "sale" means either of the following [Civ. Code § 1791(n)]:

- The passing of title from the seller to the buyer for a price.

- A consignment for sale.

A "catalog or similar sale" is one in which neither the seller nor any employee or agent of the seller, nor anyone related to any such person, nor anyone with a financial interest in the sale, participates in the diagnosis of the buyer's condition or in the selection or fitting of the device [Civ. Code § 1791(q)]. The "place of business," for the purposes of any retail seller that sells consumer goods by catalog or mail order, is the distribution point for those goods [Civ. Code § 1791(k)]. A "return to the retail seller" in that context refers to that place of business [Civ. Code § 1791(m)].

[6] Service Factors

A "service contract" is a contract in writing to perform, over a fixed period of time or for a specified duration, services relating to the maintenance, replacement, or repair of a consumer product, except that the term does not include a policy of automobile insurance as defined in Ins. Code § 116 [Civ. Code § 1791(o)].

An "independent repair or service facility" or "independent service dealer" is an individual or legal entity that engages in the business of servicing and repairing consumer goods. Neither phrase includes an employee or subsidiary of a manufacturer or distributor [Civ. Code § 1791(f)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Warranties Under Song-Beverly Act

§ 502.41 Effect on Other State Law

The provisions of the Song-Beverly Act (Civ. Code § 1790 et seq.) do not affect the rights and obligations of parties determined by reference to the Commercial Code [see Krieger v. Nick Alexander Imports, Inc. (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 205, 212-215, 285 Cal. Rptr. 717 (adopting limitation of Com. Code § 2725 for actions under Song-Beverly Act, which was intended to supplement existing remedies)]. However, if the provisions of the Commercial Code conflict with the rights guaranteed to buyers of consumer goods under the Song-Beverly Act, the provisions of the latter prevail [Civ. Code § 1790.3].

The remedies provided by the Song-Beverly Act are cumulative and are not to be construed as restricting any remedy that is otherwise available. In particular, the act does not supplant the provisions of the Unfair Practices Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17000 et seq.], which is designed to assure competition among merchants by prohibiting unjustifiably low prices [Civ. Code § 1790.4; for discussion of unfair trade practices, see Ch. 565, Unfair Competition].

An "express warranty" is either of the following [Civ. Code § 1791.2(a)(2)]:

- A written statement arising out of a sale to the "consumer" of a consumer good, pursuant to which the manufacturer, distributor, or retailer undertakes to preserve or maintain the utility or performance of the consumer good or provide compensation if there is a failure in utility or performance (the act uses the word "consumer" here although the word is not defined in the act, the closest related technical term being "buyer" or "retail buyer" [see § 502.40[1]]).

- In the case of any sample or model, that the whole of the good conforms to this sample or model.

The act compares with the general law of sales in that the act's express warranty is confined to a single type of representation, that in which the appropriate utility or performance of the good is guaranteed [Civ. Code § 1791.2(a)(1)]. The act's definition does not support every kind of relevant promise, affirmation, or description [cf. Com. Code § 2313(1)(a), (b); see Keith v. Buchanan (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 13, 20-22, 220 Cal. Rptr. 392 (express warranties under Com. Code § 2313 but none under Civ. Code § 1791.2(a)(1) because no undertaking by seller to preserve or maintain utility or performance)]. However, if a sample or model is used in selling, the act's definition applies to all representations made thereby [Civ. Code § 1791.2(a)(2)], as does that of the sales law [Com. Code § 2313(1)(c)]. The act is broader in protection than the sales law by not requiring that the express warranty be made the "basis of the bargain" between the parties [cf. Com. Code § 2313(1)] and by providing that the warranty may be made by the manufacturer or distributor and not just by the seller [Civ. Code § 1791.2(a); cf. Com. Code § 2313].

[2] By Particular Words

It is not necessary to the creation of an express warranty that formal words such as "warrant" or "guarantee" be used. If those words are used, however, then an express warranty is created [Civ. Code § 1791.2(b)]. Thus, unlike the general sales law, which simply states that no formal words are required for warranty [see Com. Code § 2313(2)], the Song-Beverly Act assures that those words will create an express warranty [see Civ. Code § 1791.2(a)].

[3] Puffery Excluded

A mere affirmation of the value of the consumer goods or a statement purporting to be a mere opinion or commendation of the goods does not create a warranty, nor do statements or representations such as expressions of general policy concerning customer satisfaction that are not subject to any limitation [Civ. Code § 1791.2(b), (c)]. In this respect the act conforms to the sales law but adds the category of policy of satisfaction [see Com. Code § 2313(2)].

[4] Requirements of Marketing Parties

Nothing in the Song-Beverly Act affects the right of the manufacturer, distributor, or retailer to make express warranties with respect to consumer goods, except for special provisions affecting the sale of assistive devices [Civ. Code § 1793; see Civ. Code § 1793.02]. Every marketing party making express warranties with respect to consumer goods must set forth fully the warranties in simple and readily understood language, must clearly identify the party making the warranties, and must conform to the federal standards for disclosure of warranty terms and conditions set forth in the federal Magnuson-Moss Warranty-Federal Trade Commission Improvement Act (15 U.S.C. § 2301 et seq.), and in the regulations of the Federal Trade Commission adopted pursuant to the provisions of that act [Civ. Code § 1793.1(a)(1); see also § 502.60 et seq. (discussion of warranties under Magnuson-Moss Act)]. The act does not preclude a manufacturer making express warranties from suggesting methods of effecting service and repair, in accordance with the terms and conditions of these warranties, other than those the act requires [Civ. Code § 1794.5]. If express warranties are made by anyone other than the manufacturer of the goods, the obligation of that person becomes the same as that imposed on the manufacturer under the act [Civ. Code § 1795].

After 2003, if the manufacturer, distributor, or retailer provides a warranty or product registration card or form, or an electronic online warranty or product registration form, to be completed and returned by the consumer, the card or form must contain statements, each displayed in a clear and conspicuous manner, that inform the consumer that the card or form is for product registration and that failure to complete and return the card or form does not diminish his or her warranty rights [Civ. Code § 1793.1(a)(1), (c); but see Civ. Code § 1793.1(d) (requirement not applicable to any warranty or product registration card or form that was printed before January 1, 2004, and was shipped or included with product that was placed in stream of commerce before January 1, 2004)].

No warranty or product registration card or form, nor any electronic online warranty or product registration form, may be labeled as a warranty registration or a warranty confirmation [Civ. Code § 1793.1(b)].

[5] Duty to Supply Appliance Parts

Every manufacturer making an express warranty with respect to an electronic or appliance product described in Bus. & Prof. Code § 9801(h)-(k) (listed below) with a wholesale price to the retailer of between $50.00 and $99.99 has to make available to service and repair facilities sufficient service literature and functional parts to effect repairs of the product for at least three years after the date a product model or type was manufactured, regardless of whether the three-year period exceeds the warranty period for the product [Civ. Code § 1793.03(a)]. Similarly, every manufacturer making an express warranty with respect to a product described in Bus. & Prof. Code § 9801(h)-(k) with a wholesale price to the retailer of $100.00 or more has to make available to service and repair facilities sufficient service literature and functional parts to effect repairs of the product for at least seven years after the date a product model or type was manufactured, regardless of whether the seven-year period exceeds the warranty period for the product [Civ. Code § 1793.03(b)].

The listed products are:

- Antennae [Bus. & Prof. Code § 9801(j)].
- Appliances and major home appliances [Bus. & Prof. Code § 9801(i)].
- Electronic sets [Bus. & Prof. Code § 9801(h)].
- Rotators [Bus. & Prof. Code § 9801(k)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Warranties Under Song-Beverly Act

44-502 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 502.43

§ 502.43 Manufacturer Must Provide Service and Repair Facilities in California

[1] In General

Every manufacturer of consumer goods sold in California, and for which it has made an express warranty, must maintain in California sufficient service and repair facilities, reasonably close to all areas where its consumer goods are sold, to carry out the terms of those warranties. Alternatively, it may designate and authorize in California as service and repair facilities independent repair or service facilities reasonably close to those areas for the same purposes. It may enter into warranty service contracts with these facilities at rates in conformity with the requirements of the act fixing liability amounts and limits [see Civ. Code § 1793.3(c)].

The warranty service contracts may not be executed to cover a period of time longer than one year, renewable only by a separate, new contract or letter of agreement. In the event of noncompliance with the obligation to assure service and repair facilities, the manufacturer is specially liable under the act [see Civ. Code § 1793.5] to retail sellers [Civ. Code § 1793.2(a); but see California State Electronics Assn. v. Zeos Int'l (1996) 41 Cal. App. 4th 1270, 1276-1277, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 127 (personal computers sold by Minnesota manufacturer by mail order to California residents were not "sold in this state" for purposes of Act's local repair facilities requirement)].

[2] Informing Buyer of Location of Service and Repair Facilities

The marketing party making express warranties who elects to maintain service and repair facilities in California under provisions of the act must select one of three prescribed methods of informing the buyer of the facilities. At the time of sale, the marketing party may provide the buyer with the name and address of each service and repair facility within California. Alternatively, at the time of sale, the marketing party may provide the buyer with the name, address, and telephone number of a service and repair facility central directory within the state, or the toll-free telephone number of a facility directory outside the state. In the latter instance, the central directory is to provide, on inquiry, the name and address of the authorized service and repair facility nearest the buyer. As a last choice, the marketing party may maintain at the premises of retail sellers of the warrantor's consumer goods a current listing of the warrantor's authorized service and repair facilities, or retail sellers to whom the consumer goods are to be returned for service and repair, whichever is applicable, within the state. In this last case, it is the duty of every retail seller provided with a listing to provide, on inquiry, the name, address, and telephone number of the nearest authorized service and repair facility, or the retail seller to whom the consumer goods are to be returned for service and repair, whichever is applicable [Civ. Code § 1793.1(e)].

[3] Duty of Timely Service or Repair

When service and repair facilities are maintained in California and service or repair of the goods is necessary because they do not conform to the applicable express warranties, service and repair must be commenced within a reasonable time by the manufacturer or its representative in the state. The goods must be serviced or repaired to conform to the applicable warranties within 30 days unless the buyer agrees in writing to the contrary. Delay caused by conditions beyond the control of the manufacturer or its representatives serve to extend the time requirement, in which case conforming goods are to be tendered as soon as possible following termination of the delaying condition [Civ. Code § 1793.2(b)].

[4] Buyer's Obligation to Deliver Goods or Give Notification

The buyer has the duty to deliver nonconforming goods to the manufacturer's service and repair facility in California unless, because of size and weight, method of attachment or installation, or nature of the nonconformity, delivery cannot be reasonably accomplished. If the buyer is unable to effect return of the goods for these reasons, the party is to notify the manufacturer or its nearest service and repair facility within the state. Written notice of nonconformity to the manufacturer or the facility constitutes return of the goods. On receipt of the notice, the manufacturer may, at its option, service or repair the goods at the buyer's residence, pick up the goods for service and repair, or arrange for transporting them to its service and repair facility. All reasonable costs of transporting the goods in such an instance are at the manufacturer's expense, as are the costs after delivery of the goods to the service and repair facility until their return to the buyer [Civ. Code § 1793.2(c)].

The buyer's delivery requirement is satisfied when the manufacturer or its authorized repair facility voluntarily makes a service call to the consumer's residence and thereby obtains from the buyer a reasonable opportunity to repair the product [Robertson v. Fleetwood Travel Trailers of Cal., Inc. (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 785, 809-810, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 731] .

[5] Procedure on Failure of Service or Repair

[a] Other Than New Motor Vehicles

If the manufacturer or its representative in California is unable to service or repair the goods, other than new motor vehicles, to conform to the applicable express warranties after a reasonable number of attempts, the manufacturer must either replace the goods or reimburse the buyer. Reimbursement is in an amount equal to the purchase price paid by the buyer, less an amount directly attributable to use by the buyer prior to the discovery of the nonconformity [Civ. Code § 1793.2(d)(1)]. For purposes of the reimbursement remedy under Civ. Code § 1793.2(d)(1), the term "purchase price paid" includes finance charges incurred in conjunction with the purchase [Robertson v. Fleetwood Travel Trailers of Cal., Inc. (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 785, 814, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 731] .

Civ. Code § 1793.2(d)(1) does not appear to require the manufacturer to offer to reimburse the buyer within a specified time. In addition, when the buyer demands reimbursement or replacement after some not-unreasonable number of failed attempts to have the problem fixed, and the manufacturer responds that it has been unable to replicate the alleged problem and requests the consumer to submit the item to an authorized dealer to have a technical service manager inspect and repair it, that response does not amount to a refusal to comply with the Song-Beverly Act [Dominguez v. American Suzuki Motor Corp. (2008) 160 Cal. App. 4th 53, 59-60, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 354].

If the goods cannot practicably be serviced or repaired by the manufacturer or its representative to conform to the applicable express warranties because of the method of installation or because the goods have become so affixed to real property as to become a part of the real property, the manufacturer must either replace and install the goods or reimburse the buyer in an amount equal to the purchase price paid by the buyer, including installation costs, less the amount directly attributable to use by the buyer before the discovery of the nonconformity [Civ. Code § 1793.2(e)(1)]. However, with respect to claims arising out of deficiencies in the construction of a new residential dwelling, this requirement does not apply to either (1) a product that is not a manufactured product, as defined in Civ. Code § 896(g) (concerning standards for determining when post-2002 construction is defective) [see Ch. 104, Building Contracts, § 104.40 et seq.], or (2) a claim against a person or entity that is not the manufacturer that originally made the express warranty for that manufactured product [Civ. Code § 1793.2(e)(2)].

Although Civ. Code § 1793.2(d)(1) does not provide a definition of the term "nonconformity," in light of the remedial nature of the statute the term is broad enough to encompass the entirety of a problem, such as a plumbing leak in a travel trailer and ensuing water damage. Accordingly, a jury could appropriately find that a manufacturer's merely repairing the proximate cause (the plumbing leak) did not cure the entirety of the nonconformity (if the resulting water damage still remained) [Robertson v. Fleetwood Travel Trailers of Cal., Inc. (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 785, 801, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 731] . In a related provision applicable to new motor vehicles, a "nonconformity" is defined broadly as "a nonconformity which substantially impairs the use, value, or safety of the new motor vehicle" [Civ. Code § 1793.22(e)(1); see Ch. 91, Automobiles: Actions Involving Defects and Repairs, § 91.12[2]]. This definition generally is synonymous with what the average person would understand to be a defect [Ibrahim v. Ford Motor Co. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 878, 887, 263 Cal. Rptr. 64] . In view of the latitude inherent in these provisions, there is no reason that a "nonconformity" may not include an entire complex of related conditions (such as a cracked pipe and resulting water damage) [Robertson v. Fleetwood Travel Trailers of Cal., Inc. (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 785, 801, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 731] .

[b] New Motor Vehicles

Special rules and presumptions apply to express warranties regarding new motor vehicles and to the manufacturer's inability to service or repair them to conform to the express warranties after a reasonable number of attempts [see Civ. Code §§ 1793.2(d)(2), 1793.22, 1794(e); see also Silvio v. Ford Motor Company (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1205, 1207-1208, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 846 (because phrase "reasonable number of attempts" in Civ. Code § 1793.2(d)(2) is written in plural, statute does not require manufacturer to make restitution or replacement after only one opportunity to repair)]. These provisions are discussed Ch. 91, Automobiles: Actions Involving Defects and Repairs . Forms for complaints under the Song-Beverly Act [see §§ 502.160, 502.161] also may be used by a buyer of a new motor vehicle to seek restitution or replacement of the nonconforming vehicle.

Insofar as the Song-Beverly Act applies to new motor vehicles [see Civ. Code §§ 1793.2(d)(2), 1793.22], the Act is limited in application to vehicles that were bought in California [Cummins, Inc. v. Superior Court (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 478, 483, 493, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 823, 115 P.3d 98 (Act did not apply to new vehicle that California resident had bought in Idaho and that could not be repaired after repeated attempts at manufacturer's authorized repair facility in California)].

In addition, any person in the business of selling used motor vehicles in California who knows or should know that a vehicle was required by law to be replaced or accepted for restitution due to the inability of the manufacturer to conform the vehicle to the applicable warranties pursuant to Civ. Code § 1793.2(d) or pursuant to warranties required by any other applicable law of California, any other state, or federal law must disclose that fact to the buyer in writing prior to the purchase [Civ. Code § 1793.23(c); see Veh. Code § 4453(b)(7) (similar notice on vehicle registration card)]. For more discussion, Ch. 91, Automobiles: Actions Involving Defects and Repairs .

For purposes of Civ. Code §§ 1793.2(d), 1793.22(e)(2), and 1794(e), "new motor vehicle" means a new motor vehicle that is bought or used primarily for personal, family, or household purposes. New motor vehicle includes the chassis, chassis cab, and that portion of a motorhome devoted to its propulsion, but does not include any portion designed, used, or maintained primarily for human habitation. New motor vehicle includes a dealer-owned vehicle and a demonstrator or other motor vehicle sold with a manufacturer's new car warranty, but does not include a motorcycle or motor vehicle that is not registered under the Vehicle Code because it is to be operated or used exclusively off the highways. A "demonstrator" is a vehicle assigned by a dealer for the purpose of demonstrating the qualities and characteristics common to vehicles of the same or similar model and type [Civ. Code § 1793.22(e)(2)]. "New motor vehicle" also includes a new motor vehicle with a gross vehicle weight under 10,000 pounds that is bought or used primarily for business purposes by a person,including a partnership, limited liability company, corporation, association, or any other legal entity, to which not more than five motor vehicles are registered in California [Civ. Code § 1793.22(e)(2)], provided that at least one motor vehicle must be registered to that person in California [Park City Services, Inc. v. Ford Motor Co. (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 295, 306-309, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 373] .

[6] Buyer's Recourse If State Service and Repair Facilities Are Not Maintained

If the manufacturer of consumer goods sold in California, for which the manufacturer has made an express warranty, does not provide service and repair facilities within the state pursuant to the act, or does maintain the required facilities but fails to supply them with adequate replacement parts and service literature [see Civ. Code § 1793.2], the buyer of nonconforming goods may follow either of two courses of action. The buyer may return the goods to their retail seller, who then must do one of the following [Civ. Code § 1793.3(a)]:

- Service or repair them to conform to the applicable warranty;
- Direct the buyer to a reasonably close independent repair or service facility willing to accept service or repair as prescribed by the act;
- Replace the goods with those identical or reasonably equivalent to the warranted goods; or
- Refund to the buyer the original purchase price less an amount directly attributable to use by the buyer prior to discovery of the nonconformity.

The buyer instead may choose to return the goods to some other retail seller of like goods of the same manufacturer in the state who, if willing to accommodate the buyer, has the same options described above as the original retail seller [Civ. Code § 1793.3(b)].

If the retailer decides to handle the service and repair of the nonconforming goods presented by the buyer, that work must be commenced and tendered within 30 days unless otherwise agreed in writing, and may be delayed for the permissible period, in the same manner as when the manufacturer maintains service and repair facilities in the state [see Civ. Code § 1793.2(b)] and receives nonconforming goods [Civ. Code § 1793.4; see also [3], above]. If the retailer instead chooses to direct the buyer to a nearby cooperative repair or service facility, the manufacturer is liable for the reasonable cost of repair services in the same manner as when the buyer separately seeks out the facility as a follow-up remedy if a retailer offered no relief [Civ. Code § 1793.3(c), (d)].

If the buyer is unable to return nonconforming goods to the retailer because of size and weight, method of attachment or installation, or nature of the nonconformity, the buyer may give notice of nonconformity to the retailer. On receipt of the notice, the retailer has the same options available to the manufacturer in that situation when the latter maintains service and repair facilities in this state [see Civ. Code § 1793.2(c); see also [4], above]. The retailer is likewise responsible for the reasonable costs of transporting the goods but is entitled to recover all such costs from the manufacturer under the statutory liability of the latter to the retailer for failing to maintain service or repair facilities [see Civ. Code § 1793.5]. If the retailer incurs costs of transporting the goods after their receipt and until their return to the buyer, the seller may recover the reasonable costs from the manufacturer on the same basis of liability. Written notice of nonconformity to the retailer constitutes return of the goods with respect to the buyer's obligation of delivery [Civ. Code § 1793.3(e)].

[7] Manufacturer's Duty to Inform Buyer of Right to Recourse

The manufacturer of consumer goods with a wholesale price to the retailer of at least $50, for which the manufacturer has made express warranties, must provide written notice to the buyer of the course of action available to the buyer for nonconforming goods if the manufacturer does not maintain service or repair facilities in California [Civ. Code § 1793.3(f)].

[8] Liability of Manufacturer to Retailer

The manufacturer who makes express warranties but does not provide service and repair facilities in California under the act [see Civ. Code § 1793.2] is liable to every retail seller of the manufacturer's consumer goods who incurs obligations in giving effect to the warranties which accompany the goods. In the event of replacement, liability is in an amount equal to the actual cost to the retailer of the replaced goods and any cost of transporting them, plus a reasonable handling charge. If there has been service and repair, liability is an amount equal to that which would be received by the retailer for like service rendered to retail consumers who are not entitled to warranty protection, including actual and reasonable costs of the work and any cost of transporting the goods, plus a reasonable profit. If reimbursement was made [see Civ. Code § 1793.3], liability is an amount equal to the buyer's reimbursement plus a reasonable handling charge [Civ. Code § 1793.5(c)].

[9] Buyers' Recourse If Manufacturer or Retailer Fail to Remedy

If (and only if) the buyer has pursued any of the above courses and it has not provided appropriate relief, the buyer may secure the services of an independent repair or service facility for the service or repair of the nonconforming consumer goods, when the work can be economically accomplished. In that event, the manufacturer is liable to the buyer, or to the facility on an assignment of the buyer's rights, for the actual and reasonable cost of service and repair, including costs for parts and reasonable costs of transporting the goods or parts, plus a reasonable profit. The amount charged by the independent service dealer for like services or repairs rendered to service or repair customers not entitled to warranty protection is presumed to be the reasonable cost for the purposes of producing evidence, though that factor may be rebutted. Any waiver of the manufacturer's liability is void and unenforceable. This follow-up remedy is unavailable if the goods involved have a wholesale price to the retailer of under $50. In no event, however, is the buyer responsible or liable for service or repair costs charged by the independent facility. Only the latter party is authorized to hold the manufacturer liable for such costs [Civ. Code § 1793.3(c)].

§ 502.44 Liability of Manufacturer to Service and Repair Facilities

If the manufacturer maintains service and repair facilities in California and has entered into a warranty service contract with an independent service and repair facility, that contract may list rates for warranty work [see Civ. Code § 1793.2(a)]. Otherwise, any manufacturer making express warranties whose consumer goods are sold in the state is liable, as prescribed by the act, to every independent service person who performs services or incurs obligations in giving effect to the warranties accompanying the manufacturer's goods. This applies whether or not the service person is acting as an authorized service and repair facility designated by the manufacturer or as an independent facility [see Civ. Code § 1793.3(c), (d)].

Liability is in an amount equal to the actual and reasonable costs of the service and repair, including any cost for parts and reasonable cost of transporting the goods, plus a reasonable profit. The reasonable cost of service or repair is presumed to be an amount equal to that charged by the independent service person for like services or repairs rendered to service or repair customers not entitled to warranty protection, a rebuttable presumption affecting the burden of producing evidence. Any waiver of the manufacturer's liability is void and unenforceable [Civ. Code § 1793.6].

[1] In General

Nothing in the Song-Beverly Act prevents the sale of a service contract to the buyer in addition to or in lieu of an express warranty if that contract fully and conspicuously discloses, in simple and readily understood language, the terms, conditions, and exclusions of that contract [Civ. Code § 1794.4(a)], and if other legal requirements are met [see Civ. Code § 1794.4(b)-(e); § 502.45[2]]. A retailer that sells such a service contract must, as long as the service contract is in effect, either (1) maintain contract information that includes a description of the terms and conditions of the service contract, and provide that information to the buyer of the service contract or other beneficiary on request, or (2) on request from the buyer of the service contract or other beneficiary, obtain a copy of the service contract, and provide that copy to the requester within 10 business days after receiving the request [Civ. Code § 1794.45(a)].

Civ. Code § 1794.4 does not apply, and therefore Civ. Code § 1794.45 also does not apply [see Civ. Code § 1794.45(a)], to a home protection contract issued by a home protection company [Civ. Code § 1794.4(a); see Ins. Code § 12740 et seq. (regulation of home protection contracts)]. Although a vehicle service contract [see Ins. Code § 12800 et seq. (regulation of vehicle service contracts)] must comply with Civ. Code § 1794.4 [Ins. Code § 12820(b)(3)(c)], a retailer that sells such a vehicle service contract is not required to comply with Civ. Code § 1794.45 [Civ. Code § 1794.45(b)].

Civ. Code § 1794.41 specially governs any service contract covering a motor vehicle, a home appliance, or a home electronic product, if it is bought for use in California. Such service contracts covering motor vehicles are discussed in Ch. 91, Automobiles: Actions Involving Defects and Repairs, § 91.14, and such service contracts covering home appliances or electronic products are discussed in § 502.45[2].

[2] Service Contracts for Home Appliances and Home Electric Products

[a] Definitions

As used in the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act (Civ. Code § 1790 et seq.), "home appliance" means any refrigerator, freezer, range, microwave oven, washer, dryer, dishwasher, garbage disposal, trash compactor, or room air conditioner, normally used or sold for personal, family, or household purposes [Civ. Code § 1791(r)].

"Home electronic product" means any television, radio, antenna rotator, audio or video recorder or playback equipment, video camera, video game, video monitor, computer equipment, telephone, telecommunications equipment, electronic alarm system, electronic appliance control system, or other kind of electronic product, if it is normally used or sold for personal, family, or household purposes. The term includes any electronic accessory that is normally used or sold with a home electronic product for one of those purposes. The term excludes any single product with a wholesale price to the retail seller of less than $50 [Civ. Code § 1791(s)].

[b] Provisions Required in Appliance Service Contracts

Except as otherwise expressly provided in the service contract, every service contract must obligate the service contractor to provide to the buyer of the product all of the services and functional parts that may be necessary to maintain proper operation of the entire product under normal operation and service for the duration of the service contract and without additional charge [Civ. Code § 1794.4(b)]. A service contract on a home appliance or home electronic product must contain all of the following items of information [Civ. Code § 1794.4(c)]:

- A clear description and identification of the covered product [Civ. Code § 1794.4(c)(1)].

- The point in time or event when the term of the service contract commences, and its duration measured by elapsed time or an objective measure of use [Civ. Code § 1794.4(c)(2)].

- If the enforceability of the service contract is limited to the original buyer or is limited to persons other than every consumer owner of the covered product during the term of the service contract, a description of the limits on transfer or assignment of the service contract [Civ. Code § 1794.4(c)(3)].

- A statement of the general obligation of the service contractor in the same language set forth in Civ. Code § 1794.4(b), with equally clear and conspicuous statements of the following [Civ. Code § 1794.4(c)(4)]:

  - Any services, parts, characteristics, components, properties, defects, malfunctions, causes, conditions, repairs or remedies that are excluded from the scope of the service contract [Civ. Code § 1794.4(c)(4)(A)].

  - Any other limits on the application of the language in Civ. Code § 1794.4(b), such as a limit on the total number of service calls [Civ. Code § 1794.4(c)(4)(B)].

  - Any additional services that the service contractor will provide [Civ. Code § 1794.4(c)(4)(C)].

  - Whether the obligation of the service contractor includes preventive maintenance and, if so, the nature and frequency of the preventive maintenance that the service contractor will provide [Civ. Code § 1794.4(c)(4)(D)].

  - Whether the buyer has an obligation to provide preventive maintenance or perform any other obligations and, if so, the nature and frequency of the preventive maintenance and of any other obligations, and the consequences of any noncompliance [Civ. Code § 1794.4(c)(4)(E)].

- A step-by-step explanation of the procedure that the buyer should follow in order to obtain performance of any obligation under the service contract including the following [Civ. Code § 1794.4(c)(5)]:

  - The full legal and business name of the service contractor [Civ. Code § 1794.4(c)(5)(A)].

  - The mailing address of the service contractor [Civ. Code § 1794.4(c)(5)(B)].

  - The persons or class of persons that are authorized to perform service [Civ. Code § 1794.4(c)(5)(C)].

  - The name or title and address of any agent, employee, or department of the service contractor that is responsible for the performance of any obligations [Civ. Code § 1794.4(c)(5)(D)].

  - The method of giving notice to the service contractor of the need for service [Civ. Code § 1794.4(c)(5)(E)].

  - Whether in-home service is provided and, if not, whether the costs of transporting the product, for service or repairs will be paid by the service contractor [Civ. Code § 1794.4(c)(5)(F)].

  - If the product must be transported to the service contractor, either the place where the product may be delivered for service or repairs or a toll-free telephone number that the buyer may call to obtain that information [Civ. Code § 1794.4(c)(5)(G)].

  - All other steps that the buyer must take to obtain service [Civ. Code § 1794.4(c)(5)(H)].

  - All fees, charges, and other costs that the buyer must pay to obtain service [Civ. Code § 1794.4(c)(5)(I)].

- An explanation of the steps that the service contractor will take to carry out its obligations under the service contract [Civ. Code § 1794.4(c)(6)].

- A description of any right to cancel the contract if the buyer returns the product or the product is sold, lost, stolen, or destroyed, or if there is no right to cancel or the right to cancel is limited, a statement of that fact [Civ. Code § 1794.4(c)(7)].

- Information respecting the availability of any informal dispute settlement process [Civ. Code § 1794.4(c)(8)].

[c] Disclosures Required Before Sale of Service Contract

A service contract covering any home appliance or home electronic product purchased for use in California may not be offered for sale or sold unless all of the following elements exist [Civ. Code § 1794.41]:

- The contract must contain the disclosures specified in Civ. Code § 1794.4 and must disclose in the manner described in that section the buyer's cancellation and refund rights.

- The contract must be available for inspection by the buyer prior to purchase and either the contract, or a brochure that specifically describes the terms, conditions, and exclusions of the contract, and the provisions of this section relating to contract delivery, cancellation, and refund, must be delivered to the buyer at or before the time of purchase of the contract. Within 60 days after the date of purchase, the contract itself must be delivered to the buyer. If a service contract for a home appliance or a home electronic product is sold by means of a telephone solicitation, the seller may elect to satisfy the requirements of this paragraph by mailing or delivering the contract to the buyer not later than 30 days after the date of the sale of the contract.

- The contract is applicable only to items, costs, and time periods not covered by the express warranty. However, a service contract may run concurrently with or overlap an express warranty if the contract covers items or costs not covered by the express warranty or provides relief to the purchaser not available under the express warranty, such as an automatic replacement of a product when the express warranty provides for repair.

- The purchaser must be entitled to cancel the contract on the following conditions:

  - Unless the contract provides for a longer period, within the first 60 days after receipt of the contract, or within the first 30 days after receipt of a contract covering a home appliance or a home electronic product, the full amount paid must be refunded by the seller to the purchaser if the purchaser provides a written notice of cancellation to the person specified in the contract, and if no claims have been made against the contract. If a claim has been made against the contract within the first 60 days after receipt of the contract, or within the first 30 days after receipt of the contract with respect to a home appliance or home electronic product, a pro rata refund based on either elapsed time or an objective measure of use, such as the retail value of any service performed, at the seller's option as indicated in the contract, must be made by the seller to the purchaser if the purchaser provides a written notice of cancellation to the person specified in the contract.

  - Unless the contract provides for a longer period for obtaining a full refund, after the first 60 days after receipt of the contract, or after the first 30 days after receipt of a contract covering a home appliance or a home electronic product, a pro rata refund based on either elapsed time or an objective measure of use, such as the retail value of any service performed, at the seller's option as indicated in the contract, must be made by the seller to the purchaser if the purchaser provides a written notice of cancellation to the person specified in the contract. In addition, the seller may assess a cancellation or administrative fee, not to exceed 10 percent of the price of the service contract or $25, whichever is less.

  - If the purchase of the service contract was financed, the seller may make the refund payable to the purchaser, the assignee, or lender of record, or both.

Nothing in Civ. Code § 1794.41 applies to a home protection plan that is issued by a home protection company that is subject to Ins. Code § 12740 et seq. [Civ. Code § 1794.41(b)].

If any provision of Civ. Code § 1794.41 conflicts with any provision of Ins. Code § 12800 et seq. (concerning vehicle service contracts), the Insurance Code provision applies [Civ. Code § 1794.41(d)].

When the retail sale of clothing or consumables is accompanied by an express warranty but the items do not conform with the terms of that warranty, the buyer may return them within 30 days of purchase or any longer period specified in the warranty. The manufacturer, within the warranty, may direct the purchaser to return nonconforming goods to a retail seller of like goods of the same manufacturer for replacement. In the latter instance, the retailer must replace the goods. If the manufacturer has not so directed their replacement in this manner, the retailer may either replace the nonconforming goods or reimburse the buyer in an amount equal to the purchase price paid thereby for the goods. Costs of reimbursement or replacement may be recovered by the retailer from the manufacturer in the same manner as when a manufacturer not having service or repair facilities in California [see Civ. Code § 1793.5] is liable to the retailer [Civ. Code § 1793.35(a), (b); see also § 502.43[8]].

Because the act's enforcement provisions apply only to "consumer goods," which are not defined to include clothing and consumables [see § 502.40[2]], there does not appear to be any particular remedy provided in the act for enforcing a breach of an express warranty relating to clothing or consumables. For further discussion, see § 502.53[1][f].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Warranties Under Song-Beverly Act

§ 502.47 Express Warranties as to Used Goods

Although consumer goods are defined to mean "new" products or parts [see Civ. Code § 1791(a)], the obligation of a distributor or retail seller of used consumer goods is the same as that imposed on manufacturers in a sale in which an express warranty is given, with certain exceptions. The distributor or retailer making an express warranty on used consumer goods is obliged to maintain sufficient service and repair facilities within California to carry out the terms of the warranty [Civ. Code § 1795.5(a)]. The original manufacturer, as well as distributors and retail sellers who made express warranties with respect to the goods when new, are specifically exempted from this requirement [Civ. Code § 1795.5(a)]. Moreover, Civ. Code § 1793.5, which imposes liability on every manufacturer who makes express warranties and does not provide service and repair facilities in California, is inapplicable to the sale of used consumer goods in California [Civ. Code § 1795.5(b)]. However, the obligation of the distributor or retail seller who makes express warranties with respect to used goods sold in California extends to the sale of all used goods, regardless of when they may have been manufactured [Civ. Code § 1795.5(d)]. It has been held that a written service contract covering a used vehicle, under which the dealer "undertakes to preserve or maintain the utility or performance" of the vehicle, is an express warranty under Civ. Code § 1795.5, even though the consumer is required to pay additional consideration for the promised services [Reveles v. Toyota By the Bay (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1155-1158, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 543 (overruled on other grounds in Snukal v. Flightways Manufacturing, Inc. (2000) 23 Cal. 4th 754, 3 P.3d 286); see Ch. 91, Automobiles: Actions Involving Defects and Repairs].

The Song-Beverly Act does expressly state whether or not its provisions governing used consumer goods apply to clothing and consumables. However, these two categories are expressly excluded from the act's basic definition of "consumer goods" [see Civ. Code § 1791(a), (c), (d); see also § 502.40[2]], and there is nothing to suggest an intention to expand that definition to classify these two categories as "consumer goods" when the goods in question are used rather than new [see Civ. Code § 1795.5 (statutory obligations are the same with respect to new and used goods except as otherwise stated in that section)]. On the other hand, the separate statutory definitions of "clothing" [see Civ. Code § 1791(c)] and "consumables" [see Civ. Code § 1791(d)], unlike the definition of "consumer goods" [see Civ. Code § 1791(a)], are not expressly limited to new goods, and therefore the special statutory provisions governing the return and replacement of clothing and consumables [see Civ. Code § 1793.35; see also § 502.46, above] appear to apply to used as well as new items in these categories.

The Song-Beverly Consumer Protection Act (Civ. Code § 1790 et seq.) defines "assistive device" as any instrument, apparatus, or contrivance, including any component, part, or accessory, that is used or intended to be used to assist an individual with a disability in the mitigation or treatment of an injury or disease or to assist or affect or replace the structure or any function of the body of a physically disabled person. The term "assistive device" does not include prescription lenses and other ophthalmic goods, unless they are sold or dispensed to a blind person, as defined in Welf. & Inst. Code § 19153 and unless they are intended to assist the limited vision of the person so disabled [Civ. Code § 1791(p)].

All new and used assistive devices sold at retail in California must be accompanied by a specified form of retail seller's express warranty [see Civ. Code § 1793.02(a), (b)] that informs the buyer of his or her right to return the device if it does not specifically fit the buyer's needs [see Civ. Code § 1793.02(a)]. When the retail sale of an assistive device is made to an individual, organization, or agency known by the seller to be purchasing for the ultimate user of the device, the provisions governing express warranties of assistive devices are construed to require that the device be specifically fit for the particular needs of the ultimate user [Civ. Code § 1793.02(d)]. These provisions, however, do not apply to the following [Civ. Code § 1793.02(e)]:

- A catalog or similar sale as defined in Civ. Code § 1791(q), except a sale of a hearing aid. A "catalog or similar sale" is a sale in which neither the seller, nor any employee or agent of the seller, nor any person related to the seller, nor any person with a financial interest in the sale, participates in the diagnosis of the buyer's condition or in the selection or fitting of the device.

- A sale that involves a retail sale price of less than $15.

- A surgical implant performed by a physician and surgeon, or a restoration or dental prosthesis provided by a dentist.

If the buyer does return the device within the period specified in Civ. Code § 1793.02(a), the seller, without charge and within a reasonable time, must adjust the device or replace it, if appropriate, with a device that is specifically fit for the buyer's particular needs. Doing neither of these, the seller must instead promptly refund to the buyer the total amount paid, the transaction is deemed rescinded, and the seller is promptly to return to the buyer all payments and any assistive device or other consideration exchanged as part of the transaction. The seller then must also promptly cancel, or cause to be canceled, all contracts, instruments, and security agreements executed by the buyer in connection with the sale. On rescission, no charge, penalty, or other fee may be imposed in connection with the purchase, fitting, financing, or return of the device [Civ. Code § 1793.02(c)].

The express warranty of fitness on assistive devices does not impose on manufacturers the obligations imposed on service facilities [see Civ. Code §§ 1793.2, 1793.3] applicable to consumer goods [see Civ. Code § 1793.02(h)].

[2] Used Assistive Devices

The buyer of a used assistive device has the same rights and remedies as does the buyer of a new one. The provisions of the act as to obligations of sellers with respect to express warranties on used consumer goods [see Civ. Code § 1795.5] do not apply to sales of assistive devices [Civ. Code § 1793.02(g)].

[3] Remedy Is Cumulative and Not Waivable

The rights and remedies of buyers of new and used assistive devices are not subject to waiver under the act on the basis of "as is" or "with all faults" disclaimers. These rights and remedies are cumulative and are not construed to affect the obligations of the retail seller or any other party, or to supplant the rights and remedies under any other provision of the act or under any other law or instrument [Civ. Code § 1793.02(f)].

§ 502.49 Express Warranties on Motorized Wheelchairs

All new and used wheelchairs, including but not limited to wheelchairs that are motorized or have been otherwise customized to suit the needs of the user, must be accompanied by the manufacturer's or lessor's written express warranty that the wheelchair is free of defects [Civ. Code § 1793.025(a)]. The warranty must be at least one year from the date of the first delivery of a new wheelchair to the consumer, or at least 60 days from the date of the first delivery of a used, refurbished, or reconditioned wheelchair to the consumer. If the written express warranty is not furnished to the consumer, the wheelchair nevertheless will be deemed to be covered by the express warranty [Civ. Code § 1793.025(a)]. These rules do not apply to wheelchairs manufactured specifically for athletic, competitive, or off-road use [Civ. Code § 1793.025(a)].

The provisions in Civ. Code §§ 1790-1795.8 for express warranties govern the express warranty described above, whether or not those provisions only apply to the sale, and not the lease, of goods [Civ. Code § 1793.025(b)]. In addition, a manufacturer or lessor of a motorized wheelchair may not sell or lease a chair that has been returned by the consumer for failure to repair a nonconformity after a reasonable number of attempts unless the reasons for the return are fully disclosed to the prospective buyer or lessee [Civ. Code § 1793.025(d)].

C. Warranties Under Song-Beverly Act

44-502 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 502.51

§ 502.51 Implied Warranties

[1] Warranty of Merchantability Is Required

An "implied warranty of merchantability," or "implied warranty that goods are merchantable," means that the consumer goods meet the following criteria [Civ. Code § 1791.1(a); see Mocek v. Alfa Leisure, Inc. (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 402, 406-408, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 546 (giving overview of implied warranty of merchantability and holding that buyer is not required to give seller opportunity to repair before rescinding when implied warranty is breached)]:

- Pass without objection in the trade under the contract description.
- Are fit for the ordinary purposes for which such goods are used.
- Are adequately contained, packaged, and labeled.
- Conform to the promises or affirmations of fact made on the container or label.

Every sale of consumer goods sold at retail in California is accompanied by the manufacturer's and the retail seller's implied warranty that the goods are merchantable, unless the warranty has been disclaimed as provided in the act. The retail seller has a right of indemnity against the manufacturer in the amount of any liability under this requirement [Civ. Code § 1792].

The Song-Beverly Act compares with the general sales law under Division 2 of the Commercial Code as follows:

- The Song-Beverly Act does not describe the case of fungible goods or that of permissible variations within runs, both of which are usually identified with mercantile rather than consumer agreements [cf. Com. Code § 2314(2)(b), (d)].
- The Song-Beverly Act requires adequate containering and labeling rather than merely permitting it in fact or by agreement [Civ. Code § 1791.1(a)(3); cf. Com. Code § 2314(2)(e)].

- It extends the warranty to the manufacturer as well as to the seller [Civ. Code § 1792], whereas Com. Code § 2314(1) makes only the seller a party to the warranty.

- The Song-Beverly Act does not limit the seller to one who is a merchant in goods of the particular kind as is the case under the general sales law [see Com. Code § 2314(1)].

- The Song-Beverly Act indemnifies the seller against the manufacturer [Civ. Code § 1792] (although the Commercial Code recognizes situations in which the seller's seller may be "answerable over" [see Com. Code § 2607(5)]).

- The Song-Beverly Act does not include sales of food or drink specifically in an implied warranty and then thus could be excluded thereunder, since the warranty here applies to "consumer goods," which does not encompass "consumables," [see Civ. Code § 1791(a), (d)], whereas the sales law does specifically extend merchantability to food and drink [see Com. Code § 2314(1), (2)].

- For the same reason, the Song-Beverly Act may exclude clothing from an implied warranty, since, while clothing automatically is absorbed into the meaning of goods under the general sales law [Com. Code § 2105(1)], it is excluded from "consumer goods" under the Song-Beverly Act [see Civ. Code § 1791(a), (c)].

[2] Fitness for Particular Purposes

The "implied warranty of fitness," in its more general application, means that if the retailer, distributor, or manufacturer has reason to know any particular purpose for which the consumer goods are required--and further, that the buyer is relying on the skill and judgment of the seller to select and furnish suitable goods--there is an implied warranty that the goods are fit for that purpose [Civ. Code § 1791.1(b)(1)]. Every sale of consumer goods sold at retail in California by a manufacturer who has reason to know at the time of the retail sale that the goods are required for a particular purpose and that the buyer is relying on the manufacturer's skill or judgment to select or furnish suitable goods, is accompanied by the manufacturer's implied warranty of fitness [Civ. Code § 1792.1]. The same warranty occurs in a sale by a retailer or distributor knowing both the buyer's purpose at the time and that the buyer is so relying on the retailer's or distributor's skill or judgment [Civ. Code § 1792.2(a); see Keith v. Buchanan (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 13, 25-26, 220 Cal. Rptr. 392 (no implied warranty because buyer made own selection rather than relying on seller's skill or judgment to select or furnish suitable goods)].

There is a slight discrepancy between the definition and the requirement of the warranty discussed above, in that the former refers to "skill and judgment" and "select and furnish" in the conjunctive, while the latter refers to "skill or judgment" and "select or furnish" in the disjunctive. In addition, the definition requires that the defendant's awareness be of the buyer's reliance on the seller's skill and judgment only, whereas in the provision for the requirement of the implied warranty, liability apparently may arise against the manufacturer or distributor, in addition to the retailer, whenever any one of these parties is aware of the buyer's reliance on the skill and judgment of that party.

The act compares with the general sales law in that under the act the requisite awareness of the buyer's reliance may apply to the manufacturer or distributor [see Civ. Code §§ 1792.1, 1792.2(a)], not just the seller. The warranty also is not conditioned by the possibility of disclaimer [see Com. Code § 2315]. In addition, both clothing and consumables may be excepted from the implied warranty of fitness under the act since the warranty applies to "consumer goods," which excepts those two commodities from its definition [see Civ. Code § 1791(a), (c), (d); see also § 502.40[1]].

[3] Fitness as to Assistive Devices

The definition of "implied warranty of fitness" also applies to a sale of an assistive device sold at retail in California; there is an implied warranty by the retailer that the device is specifically fit for the particular needs of the buyer [Civ. Code § 1791.1(b)]. A sale of an assistive device must be accompanied by this warranty [Civ. Code § 1792.2(b)]. There is no requirement either that the retailer know the buyer's purpose or of the buyer's reliance, since the presence of these elements is presumed. Because assistive devices are also included in the term "consumer goods" [see Civ. Code § 1791(a); see also § 502.40[2]], the more general requirements of the implied warranty of fitness discussed below which pertain to consumer goods still apply to the manufacturer or distributor of assistive devices [see Civ. Code §§ 1792.1, 1792.2(a)].

[4] Fitness as to Used Goods

Because, with certain exceptions, the obligation of a distributor or retail seller of used consumer goods is the same as that imposed on manufacturers in a sale in which an express warranty is given [Civ. Code § 1795.5(a); see § 502.47], the obligations a manufacturer has under the act with respect to implied warranties of fitness for particular purposes apply equally to the distributor or retail seller of used consumer goods as well when an express warranty is being made in connection with the sale.

[5] Duration as to New Goods

The duration of the implied warranty of merchantability, and, if present, the implied warranty of fitness, is coextensive with an express warranty that accompanies the consumer goods, provided the duration of the latter is reasonable. In no event, however, may the implied warranty have a duration of less than 60 days nor more than one year following the sale of new consumer goods to a retail buyer. If no duration for an express warranty is stated with respect to consumer goods, or parts of those goods, the duration of the implied warranty is the maximum period of one year [Civ. Code § 1791.1(c); see Mexia v. Rinker Boat Co. (2009) 174 Cal. App. 4th 1297, 1310, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 285 (statute merely provides that implied warranty has limited prospective existence beyond date of delivery; it does not impose any requirement for buyer to discover latent defect and report it to seller within specified period of warranty duration)].

[6] Duration as to Used Goods

The duration of an implied warranty on used goods is calculated exactly as is that for an implied warranty on new goods [see Civ. Code § 1791.1(c)]. However, the minimum time is 30 days and the maximum is three months following the sale of used goods to a retail buyer [Civ. Code § 1795.5(c)].

[7] General Prohibition Against Waiver and Disclaimer

No implied warranty of merchantability and, if applicable, no implied warranty of fitness may be waived, except in the case of a sale of consumer goods on an "as is" or "with all faults" basis, when the provisions of the Song-Beverly Act affecting these disclaimers are strictly complied with [Civ. Code § 1792.3; see § 502.51[8]]. Thus, neither the manufacturer, distributor, nor retailer, in transacting a sale in which express warranties are given, may limit, modify, or disclaim the implied warranties guaranteed by the Song-Beverly Act in the sale of consumer goods [Civ. Code § 1793].

In any case, the rights and remedies of the buyer of an assistive device are not subject to waiver, even by the proper employment of the terms "as is" or "with all faults" [Civ. Code § 1793.02(f)].

[8] Exception for Sale Made "As Is" or "With All Faults"

A sale made "as is" or "with all faults" means that the manufacturer, distributor, and retailer disclaim all implied warranties that would otherwise attach to the sale of consumer goods under the provisions of the act [Civ. Code § 1791.3].

A sale of goods made on an "as is" or "with all faults" basis, in order to be effective, must be made with a conspicuous writing attached to the goods clearly informing the buyer, prior to the sale, in simple and concise language, of each of the following [Civ. Code § 1792.4]:

- The goods are being sold on an "as is" or "with all faults" basis.
- The entire risk as to the quality and performance of the goods is with the buyer.
- Should the goods prove defective following their purchase, the buyer and not the manufacturer, distributor, or retailer assumes the entire cost of all necessary servicing or repair.

If the sale is by mail order catalog, the catalog offering the goods must contain the required writing as to each item so offered in lieu of the requirement of notification prior to the sale [Civ. Code § 1792.4].

A sale of goods on an "as is" or "with all faults" basis, made in compliance with the act, constitutes a waiver by the buyer of the implied warranty of merchantability and, if applicable, of the implied warranty of fitness [Civ. Code § 1792.5].

[9] Disclaimer as to Drapery Fabrics

When the retail sale of draperies is not accompanied by an express warranty and the sale is accompanied by a conspicuous writing disclaiming the retailer's implied warranty of merchantability on the fabric, the retailer's implied warranty of merchantability does not apply to the fabric [Civ. Code § 1793.35(c)].

[1] Tolling of Period

Every warranty period relating to an implied or express warranty accompanying a sale or consignment for sale of consumer goods selling for at least $50 is automatically tolled in particular instances. The tolling period begins with the date on which the buyer does either of the following [Civ. Code § 1795.6(a)]:

- Delivers nonconforming goods to the manufacturer or seller for warranty repairs or services.
- Notifies the manufacturer or seller, in accordance with Civ. Code § 1793.2(c) or 1793.22, of the nonconformity.

The limitation period remains tolled up to and including the date on which one of the following occurs [Civ. Code § 1795.6(a)]:

- The repaired or serviced goods are delivered to the buyer.
- The buyer is notified the goods are repaired or serviced and are available for the buyer's possession.
- The buyer is notified that repairs or service is completed, if the work is done at the buyer's residence.

For purposes of the above, the term "manufacturer" includes the manufacturer's service or repair facility [Civ. Code § 1795.6(c)].

[2] Extension of Period

Notwithstanding the date or conditions set for the expiration of the warranty period, the period is not deemed expired if the buyer has satisfied the requirements of delivery or notification as to nonconforming goods [see Civ. Code § 1795.6(a); see also § 502.52[1]] and the warranty repairs or service has not been performed owing to delays caused by circumstances beyond the buyer's control. The period alternatively or additionally is not deemed expired if the repairs or service did not remedy the nonconformity and the buyer has notified the manufacturer or seller of the failure within 60 days after completion of the work. When the warranty work has been performed so as to remedy the nonconformity, the warranty period does expire in accordance with its terms, including any extension of the period for warranty repairs or service [Civ. Code § 1795.6(b)].

[3] Notifying Buyer of Extension When Repairs Are Ordered

Every work order or repair invoice for warranty repairs or service must clearly and conspicuously incorporate, in prescribed type size, a statutory statement on the face of the work order or repair invoice, or on the reverse side or on an attachment. The statement informs the buyer of extensions of the warranty period for times connected with the existing defect and for processing repair work, as provided under the act. If the required notice is placed on the reverse side of the work order or repair invoice, the face of the work order or repair invoice must include the following notice in 10-point boldface type: "Notice to Consumer: Please read important information on back." A copy of the work order or repair invoice and any attachment must be presented to the buyer at the time the warranty service is rendered or repairs are made [Civ. Code § 1793.1(a)(2)].

[4] Duty to Provide Purchase and Service Date Documentation to Consumer

Every manufacturer or seller of consumer goods selling for at least $50 must provide a receipt to the buyer showing the date of purchase. The marketing party, when performing warranty repairs or service on the goods, also must furnish the buyer with a work order or receipt with the date of return and either the date the buyer was notified that the goods were repaired or serviced, or, if applicable, the date the goods were shipped or delivered to the buyer [Civ. Code § 1795.6(d)].

[5] Tolling of Period of Manufacturer's Liability

Whenever a warranty is tolled as a result of repairs or service [see Civ. Code § 1795.6] performed by any retail seller, the warranty is also extended with regard to the liability of the manufacturer to a retail seller pursuant to law. In that event, the manufacturer is liable, under the liability provisions pertinent to manufacturers who do not maintain service and repair facilities in California [see Civ. Code § 1793.5], for the period that an express warranty has been extended [see Civ. Code § 1795.6], to every retailer who incurs obligations in giving effect to the express warranty. The manufacturer's liability for implied warranty is similarly extended for the retailer's benefit. If, however, a manufacturer provides for warranty repairs and service through its own service and repair facilities and, through independent repair facilities in California, its exclusive liability under the extension provisions is to those facilities [Civ. Code § 1795.7].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Warranties Under Song-Beverly Act

44-502 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 502.53

§ 502.53 Actions Under the Song-Beverly Act

[1] Consumer Remedy of Special Recovery

[a] Damages and Other Relief Available

Any buyer of consumer goods who is damaged by a failure to comply with any obligation under the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act, or under an implied or express warranty or service contract, may bring an action for the recovery of damages and other legal and equitable relief [Civ. Code § 1794(a); see Atkinson v. Elk Corporation (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 739, 757, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 433 (analyzing statutory definition of "consumer goods" and holding that roof shingles are not consumer goods under the Act)].

The measure of the buyer's damages in an action under Civ. Code § 1794 includes the rights of replacement or reimbursement as set forth in Civ. Code § 1793.2(d) [Civ. Code § 1794(b); see § 502.43[5]]. When a buyer has rightfully rejected or justifiably revoked acceptance of the goods, or has exercised any right to cancel the sale, the measure of the buyer's damages are the same as those available under Com. Code §§ 2711-2713 (discussed in Ch. 500, Sales: Sales Under the Commercial Code). If the buyer has accepted the goods, the buyer's measure of damages is the one applicable under Com. Code §§ 2714 and 2715 [see § 502.28[2]; Ch. 500, Sales: Sales Under the Commercial Code] and includes the cost of repairs necessary to make the goods conform [Civ. Code § 1794(b)].

Nothing in the Song Beverly Consumer Warranty Act bars recovery of prejudgment interest under Civ. Code § 3287 [Doppes v. Bentley Motors, Inc. (2009) 174 Cal. App. 4th 1004, 1010-1011, 94 Cal. Rptr. 3d 797 ; see Civ. Code § 1790.4 (remedies under Act "are cumulative and shall not be construed as restricting any remedy that is otherwise available")]. For discussion of Civ. Code § 3287, see Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.80[2].

[b] Civil Penalty

If the buyer establishes that the failure to comply was willful, the judgment may include, in addition to the amounts recovered under Civ. Code § 1794(a), a civil penalty that may not exceed twice the amount of actual damages [Civ. Code § 1794(c)]. "Willful" within meaning of Civ. Code § 1794(c) requires only that an illegal act or omission occur intentionally without regard to motive or ignorance of the act's prohibited character, and does not include a moral component. Thus, jury instructions using words such as "blameworthy" and "reckless disregard of consumer's rights" are error [Schreidel v. American Honda Motor Co. (1995) 34 Cal. App. 4th 1242, 40 Cal. Rptr. 2d 576 ; Ibrahim v. Ford Motor Co. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 878, 894, 263 Cal. Rptr. 64] . A manufacturer's failure to refund or replace a defective automobile has been held not to be "willful" under Civ. Code § 1794(c) when the manufacturer reasonably and in good faith believed the facts did not call for a refund or replacement [Kwan v. Mercedes Benz of North America, Inc. (1994) 23 Cal. App. 4th 174, 186, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 371]. Evidence regarding the manufacturer's belief that it could readily repair the defective item, including the nature and details of the prospective repairs, would be relevant to the question of the manufacturer's good faith. For example, the evidence could be relevant to the manufacturer's belief that it had not yet been given a reasonable number of repair attempts [Robertson v. Fleetwood Travel Trailers of Cal., Inc. (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 785, 815, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 731] .

A successful plaintiff may not recover both the civil penalty of Civ. Code § 1794(c) and punitive damages under Civ. Code § 3294 because that would amount to double recovery [Troensegaard v. Silvercrest Industries, Inc. (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 218, 221, 226-228, 220 Cal. Rptr. 712 (mobilehome)]. Similarly, the fact that there is a specific statutory remedy provided by Civ. Code § 1794(c) precludes extension of the tort of bad faith breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing to provide a cause of action on account of seller's wrongful refusal to make repairs or provide replacement under an express warranty [Gomez v. Volkswagen of America, Inc. (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 921, 925-929, 215 Cal. Rptr. 507] .

Civ. Code § 1794(e), governing attorney's fees, interest, and penalties in the case of a manufacturer's failure to comply with Civ. Code § 1793.2(d)(2) (restitution or replacement of new motor vehicle that cannot be made to conform to express warranties), provides for the civil penalty, without need to show willfulness, for manufacturer's failure to comply with new motor vehicle warranty obligation [Suman v. BMW of North America, Inc. (1994) 23 Cal. App. 4th 1, 10-11, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 133] and is discussed in Ch. 91, Automobiles: Actions Involving Defects and Repairs .

[c] Limitation Period

The four-year specific limitation period of Com. Code § 2725, rather than the general three-year provision of Code Civ. Proc. § 338(a) for liabilities created by statute, governs actions under the Song-Beverly Act. The Act was intended to supplement the provisions of the Uniform Commercial Code, rather than to supersede the rights and obligations created by that statutory scheme [see Civ. Code § 1790.3; Krieger v. Nick Alexander Imports, Inc. (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 205, 215, 285 Cal. Rptr. 717] . Under Com. Code § 2725(2), when a warranty explicitly extends to future performance of the goods, the discovery rule applies to accrual of the cause of action and commencement of the limitation period [Krieger v. Nick Alexander Imports, Inc. (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 205, 215-219, 285 Cal. Rptr. 717 ; see Carrau v. Marvin Lumber and Cedar Co. (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 281, 290-292, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 869 (generalized assertions in advertisements and literature do not rise to the level of a warranty explicitly extending to "future performance"; plaintiff thus did not meet exception to four-year limitations period)].

For discussion of Com. Code § 2725, see § 502.28[6].

[d] Costs and Attorney's Fees

A buyer who prevails in any action for recovery of damages under the Song-Beverly Act must be allowed by the court to recover, as part of the judgment, a sum equal to the aggregate amount of costs and expenses (including attorney's fees based on actual time expended) determined by the court to have been reasonably incurred by the plaintiff for, or in connection with, the commencement and prosecution of the action, unless the court in its discretion determines that an award of attorney's fees would be inappropriate [Civ. Code § 1794(d)]. If the seller made a settlement offer to which Code Civ. Proc. § 998 applies [see Ch. 520, Settlement and Release, § 520.14], and the buyer did not accept it but then failed to obtain a more favorable judgment or award, the buyer may not recover post-offer costs and must pay the seller's costs from the time of the offer [Code Civ. Proc. § 998(c)(1); Duale v. Mercedes-Benz USA, LLC (2007) 147 Cal. App. 4th 880, 889, 54 Cal. Rptr. 3d 711] .

The California Supreme Court has held that defendant sellers who are prevailing parties are also entitled to recover their costs and expert witness fees under the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act. Although Civ. Code § 1794(d) refers only to "prevailing buyers," it may be reconciled with Civ. Code § 1032(b) under which prevailing defendants are entitled to costs [Murillo v. Fleetwood Enterprises (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 985, 999, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 682, 953 P. 2d 858] .

The lodestar adjustment method is the prevailing rule for statutory attorney's fee awards. It is to be applied in the absence of clear legislative intent to the contrary [Ketchum v. Moses (2001) 24 Cal. 4th 1122, 1135-1136, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 377, 17 P.3d 735] and is applicable to attorney's fee awards under Civ. Code § 1794(d). The statute provides that fees must be based on "actual time expended" and must be "determined by the court to have been reasonably incurred." The legislative intent was to ensure that attorney's fee awards would be based on actual time expended, rather than a percentage of the recovery, so that pursuit of consumer warranty cases would be economically feasible. Since the lodestar adjustment method is based on actual, reasonable attorney time expended as the objective starting point of the analysis, it is compatible with this statutory provision. That method can include application of a multiplier, provided the multiplier is based on factors different from those used in determining the lodestar amount [Robertson v. Fleetwood Travel Trailers of Cal., Inc. (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 785, 819-823, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 731 ; see Levy v. Toyota Motor Sales U.S.A., Inc. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 807, 813-816, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 770 (court is not required to use multiplier, and use of multiplier could be inappropriate when case does not involve contingent fee)]. For further discussion of the lodestar adjustment method for determining statutory attorney's fees, see Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees, §§ 174.54[14][b], 174.56[12].

Further, for purposes of awarding attorney's fees under the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act (Civ. Code § 1790 et seq.), the plain language of the statute allows for recovery of attorney's fees that have been "reasonably incurred by the buyer" [see Civ. Code § 1794(d)]. Attorney's fees were not "incurred" by the prevailing buyer at rates that increased over the years since the case was begun, and, thus, could not be awarded at higher rates, when the buyer was billed and liable only for fees at the hourly rate set at the beginning of the litigation [Nightingale v. Hyundai Motor America (1994) 31 Cal. App. 4th 99, 104-105] .

The buyer's right to recover treble damages does not apply to any cause of action commenced or maintained as a class or representative action, either generally [see Code Civ. Proc. § 382] or under the Consumers Legal Remedies Act [Civ. Code § 1794(c); see Civ. Code § 1781].

[f] Clothing and Consumables Not Expressly Included

An action under the Song-Beverly Act may be brought by "any buyer of consumer goods" injured as described by the Song-Beverly Act [see Civ. Code § 1794(a)]. Apparently, because neither clothing nor consumables is included within the definition of "consumer goods" [see Civ. Code § 1791(a), (c), (d); see also § 502.40[2]], neither the provision for treble damages nor the authorization of an attorney's fees award applies to either of these commodities, although this would leave consumers without the ability under the act to enforce its special provisions with regard to return or replacement of clothing and consumables [see Civ. Code § 1793.35].

[2] Recovery for Breach of Implied Warranty Only

Civ. Code § 1794 authorizes recovery of damages and other legal and equitable relief as well as attorney's fees even when a claim is based solely on a breach of an implied warranty [see Civ. Code § 1794(a), (b), (d); see also Mocek v.

Alfa Leisure, Inc. (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 402, 406-408, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 546 (holding that buyer is not required to give seller opportunity to repair before rescinding when implied warranty of merchantability is breached, and affirming judgment in amount of purchase price plus interest upon return of defective travel trailer)]. However, the civil penalty for a willful breach provided for in Civ. Code § 1794(c) for breach of warranty does not apply in an action based solely on a breach of an implied warranty [Civ. Code § 1794(c)].

Additionally Civ. Code § 1791.1(d) states that any buyer of consumer goods injured by a breach of either the implied warranty of merchantability, or if present, the implied warranty of fitness has the remedies provided in Com. Code §§ 2601 et seq., 2701 et seq. [Civ. Code § 1791.1(d)]. Civ. Code § 1791.1(d) provides that in any action brought under the Commercial Code for breach of an implied warranty under the Song-Beverly Act, Civ. Code § 1794 applies. This reference to Civ. Code § 1794 apparently does not refer to an award of a civil penalty when the buyer establishes a willful failure to comply with the act under Civ. Code § 1794(c), because that subsection specifies that it does not apply in an action based solely on a breach of an implied warranty. Rather, it appears to refer to the right to costs and attorney's fees set out in Civ. Code § 1794(d), thereby giving the buyer the right to recover such fees and costs in any action under the Commercial Code authorized by Civ. Code § 1791.1(a). This analysis is confirmed by the fact that originally the reference in Civ. Code § 1791.1(d) to Civ. Code § 1794 was to Civ. Code § 1794(b), which provided for the recovery of attorney's fees [see Stats. 1971, ch. 1523]. Stats. 1978, ch. 991, deleted the subdivisions of Civ. Code § 1794, but the legislative intent apparently was not to limit the recovery permitted in an action for breach of an implied warranty under Civ. Code § 1791.1(d). Thus, it appears that the wider scope of the implied warranties under the Song-Beverly Act (with the greater number of persons responsible for these warranties under the act, that is, the manufacturer and distributor, as well as the seller) governs in an action under the Commercial Code when the transaction sued on is otherwise subject to the provisions of the Song-Beverly Act. Likewise, the notice provisions of Com. Code § 2607, which a buyer must comply with prior to commencing an action for breach of a warranty under the Commercial Code, also appear to apply, even though the Song-Beverly Act otherwise does not require that notice be given prior to commencing an action for a violation of an express or implied warranty.

[3] Special Remedy for Seller or Independent Service Person

A retail seller of consumer goods injured by the willful or repeated violation of the provisions of the act may bring an action for the recovery of damages. Judgment may be entered for three times the amount at which the actual damages are assessed plus reasonable attorney's fees [Civ. Code § 1794.1(d)]. An independent service person also has this identical cause of action and remedy under the act [Civ. Code § 1794.1(b)].

[4] Defenses

The act does not apply to any defect or nonconformity in consumer goods caused by the unauthorized or unreasonable use of the goods following sale [Civ. Code § 1794.3].

Any waiver of the provisions of the act by the buyer of consumer goods, except as the act expressly provides, is deemed contrary to public policy and remains unenforceable and void [Civ. Code § 1790.1].

D. Warranties Under Magnuson-Moss Act

44-502 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 502.60

§ 502.60 Magnuson-Moss Act Definitions

[1] Consumer

A "consumer" is a buyer (other than for purposes of resale or use in the ordinary course of the buyer's business) of any consumer product, any person to whom the product is transferred during the duration of an implied or written warranty (or service contract) applicable to the product, and anyone else who is entitled by the terms of the warranty (or service contract) or under applicable state law to enforce the obligations of the warranty (or service contract) against the warrantor (or service contractor) [15 U.S.C. § 2301(3); 16 C.F.R. § 701.l(h); but see Najran Co. v. Fleetwood Enterprises, Inc. (S.D. Ga. 1986) 659 F. Supp. 1081, 1101 (commercial volume purchaser for resale may invoke protection of Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act; criteria for invocation; determination is made on case-by-case basis)].

[2] Consumer Product

A "consumer product" is any tangible personal property which is distributed in commerce and normally used for personal, family, or household purposes (including that intended to be attached to or installed in any real property, whether or not so attached or installed) [15 U.S.C. § 2301(1)]. Ambiguity of purpose is resolved in favor of coverage. Products like automobiles and typewriters that are used for both personal and commercial purposes are covered, while products purchased solely for commercial or industrial use are excluded. Agricultural products used in the occupation of farming are not covered when their use for the listed consumer purposes is uncommon; however, gardening tools used for personal consumption purposes would be covered. The federal definition may include many kinds of appliances and equipment that would be considered fixtures under California law (but not those items which are integral component parts of the structure, like wiring and plumbing). Typically, building materials originally comprising the structure are not consumer products unless they are sold over the counter as hardware and building products [16 C.F.R. § 700.1(a)-(f); see 16 C.F.R. §§ 701.1(b), 702.1(b); see, e.g., Atkinson v. Elk Corp. (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 212, 226, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 247 (roofing shingles, bought by contractor that installed them pursuant to contract to replace homeowner's roof, were consumer products, and homeowner had cause of action for breach of warranty under Magnuson-Moss Act)].

[3] Marketing Parties

A "supplier" is anyone engaged in the business of making a consumer product directly or indirectly available to consumers [15 U.S.C. § 2301(4)].

The "warrantor" is any supplier or other person who gives, or offers to give, a written warranty, or who is or may be obligated under an implied warranty [15 U.S.C. § 2301(5)].

Additionally, a "seller" is any person who sells or offers for sale, for purposes other than resale or use in the ordinary course of the buyer's business, any consumer product [16 C.F.R. § 702.1(e)].

[4] Remedies

A "remedy" refers to whichever corrections or adjustments the warrantor elects to make on a claim under a written warranty, from among the prescribed alternatives of (1) repair, (2) replacement, or (3) refund. The warrantor may not elect refund, however, unless either [15 U.S.C. § 2301(10)]:

- The warrantor is unable to provide replacement and repair is not commercially practicable or cannot be timely made; or

- The consumer is willing to accept the refund.

"Replacement" means furnishing a new consumer product which is identical or reasonably equivalent to the warranted consumer product [15 U.S.C. § 2301(11)].

"Refund" means refunding the actual purchase price (less reasonable depreciation based on actual use when permitted by implementing regulations) [15 U.S.C. § 2301(12)].

[5] Service Contact

A "service contract" is one in writing to perform, over a fixed period of time or for a specified duration, services relating to the maintenance or repair (or both) of a consumer product [15 U.S.C. § 2301(8)].

D. Warranties Under Magnuson-Moss Act

§ 502.61 Jurisdiction, Preemptive Effects, and Federal Trade Commission Regulation

The federal Magnuson-Moss Act applies to consumer products "distributed in commerce." This means to be sold in commerce, introduced or delivered for introduction into commerce, or held for sale or distribution after introduction into commerce [15 U.S.C. § 2301(13)]. "Commerce" itself means trade, traffic, commerce, or transportation between a place in a state and anywhere outside, or that which affects such movement [15 U.S.C. § 2301(14)]. "State" includes all states and other specified United States jurisdictions [15 U.S.C. § 2301(15)]. The Federal Trade Commission (hereinafter referred to as the "FTC") is charged with implementation of the act by regulations and enforcement thereof [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 2301(2), 2309].

The Magnuson-Moss Act does not invalidate or restrict any right of remedy a consumer has under state law or any other federal law. It does not adversely affect the Federal Trade Commission Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 41] or any antitrust statute therein. In like manner it does not impinge on the Federal Seed Act [see 7 U.S.C. § 1551], nor does anything in the Magnuson-Moss Act apply to seed for planting. The act is inapplicable to any written warranty, the making or content of which is otherwise governed by federal law; if only a portion is so governed, however, the remaining portion is subject to the Magnuson-Moss Act [15 U.S.C. § 2311(a), (b)(1), (d)].

Any state law relating to labeling or disclosure affecting written warranties or performance thereunder that conflicts with the requirements of the Magnuson-Moss Act as to warranty disclosures, full and limited warranty requirements, and federal minimum standards [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 2302-2304] is preempted by the federal law. Nevertheless, the FTC can approve state requirements, on a submission by an appropriate state agency, which afford protection to consumers greater than the federal law and which do not unduly burden interstate commerce. Approval may be for a specified time, as long as the state requirements are effectively enforced [15 U.S.C. § 2311(c)]. On application by California authority, the FTC has determined that nothing in the Song-Beverly Act was preempted by the provisions of the Magnuson-Moss Act [42 Fed. Reg. 54004 et seq.].

The Magnuson Moss Act calls for the application of state warranty law. It does not create additional federal warranty law except in specific instances in which it expressly prescribes a regulating rule. Therefore, generally, a plaintiff's failure to allege facts constituting a warranty claim under state law necessarily leads to a failure to state a claim under the Magnuson Moss Act, if the plaintiff relies on the same set of facts to support each claim [Daugherty v. American Honda Motor Co. (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 824, 833, 51 Cal. Rptr. 3d 118] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Warranties Under Magnuson-Moss Act

44-502 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 502.62

§ 502.62 Written Warranty Generally

A "written warranty" refers in the first instance to a written affirmation of fact or written promise made in connection with the sale of a consumer product by a supplier to a "buyer" (a term not defined but used to define "consumer") [see 15 U.S.C. § 2301(3)]. It relates to the nature of the "material or workmanship" and affirms or promises that the material or workmanship is defect-free or will meet a specified level of performance over a specified period of time. In the second instance a "written warranty" refers to an undertaking in writing in connection with the sale by a supplier of a consumer product to refund, repair, replace, or take other remedial action with respect to the product in the event it fails to meet the specifications set forth in the undertaking. In either case the written affirmation, promise, or undertaking also must become part of the basis of the bargain between a supplier and a buyer for purposes other than resale of the product [15 U.S.C. § 2301(6)].

It is recognized under the Magnuson-Moss Act that certain representations--such as energy efficiency ratings for electrical appliances, or care labeling for wearing apparel--may be express warranties under the Uniform Commercial Code. However, they are not written warranties under the federal law because they do not relate to a specified period of time as required under the federal law. Nevertheless, the FTC encourages practices that disclose product information so long as it is not deceptive and which is of benefit to customers. Suppliers should avoid characterization of other kinds of benefits as warranties, however, such as the right to revoke within a certain period or the ability to return goods for credit [16 C.F.R. § 700.3(a), (b)].

The Magnuson-Moss Act compares with the Song-Beverly Act and the general sales law under Division 2 of the Commercial Code as follows:

- A federal written warranty may be made by a "supplier," which term includes anyone in the business of making the goods available to consumers [see 15 U.S.C. § 2301(4)], and is a term at least as comprehensive as the group of marketing parties listed under the Song-Beverly Act [see Civ. Code § 1791(e), (j), (l)], while the general sales law is confined to the acts of sellers [see Com. Code §

2103(1)(d)].

- The federal act's provisions extend to a "written" warranty only [see 15 U.S.C. § 2301(6)] which is similar to the main warranty regulated under the Song-Beverly Act and contained in a written statement arising in a sale [see Civ. Code § 1791.2(a)(1); see also § 502.42].

- Although the federal law refers to affirmations of fact and promises as giving rise to one type of warranty subject to the law's provisions, similar to the sales law [see Com. Code § 2313(1)(a)] but not the Song-Beverly Act, the law restricts covered affirmations to those without inherent faults or which meet a specified level of performance for a specified duration [see 15 U.S.C. § 2301(6)(A)]--neither of which is directly designated under the state consumer warranty law.

- The type of warranty subject to the provision of the federal law when an undertaking is made to carry out some remedial action (including recompense) if the product does not live up to its specifications therein [see 15 U.S.C. § 2301(6)(B)] is similar to, but broader than, the type of warranty under the Song-Beverly Act consisting of an undertaking to keep up utility or performance, or to make payment otherwise.

- The federal law requires that the warranty be part of the basis of the bargain, an element present under the general sales law [see Com. Code § 2313(1)] but absent from the Song-Beverly Act [see Civ. Code § 1791.2(a)].

[2] Meaning of "Basis of the Bargain" Requirement

Being part of "the basis of the bargain" means that a written warranty must be conveyed at the time of sale of the consumer product. The consumer must not give any consideration beyond the purchase price in order to benefit from the agreement. The Magnuson-Moss Act does not require that the agreement obligate a supplier of a consumer product to a written warranty, but simply that it be part of the basis of the bargain between a supplier and a consumer. This also contemplates written warranties by third-party nonsuppliers [16 C.F.R. § 700.11(b)].

[3] Disclosure Requirements of Warranties

[a] Purpose of Warranty Disclosures

A primary purpose of the Magnuson-Moss Act is to require any warrantor (one who warrants a consumer product to a consumer by means of a written warranty) to fully and conspicuously disclose in simple and readily understood language the terms and conditions of the warranty. This purpose is designed to improve the adequacy of information available to consumers, to prevent deception, and to improve competition in the marketing of consumer products. The FTC is charged to various degrees with effectuating these Congressional purposes through rulemaking. The enabling law specifies that consumer products covered must cost more than $5 [15 U.S.C. § 2302(e)], but the FTC has raised the basis for the requirements to $15 [16 C.F.R. § 701.2].

A written warranty must disclose in a single document all of the following [16 C.F.R. § 701.3(a)(1)-(9)]:

- The identity of the party or parties to whom the written warranty is extended, if enforceability is limited to the original consumer-purchaser or otherwise limited to persons other than every consumer-owner during the warranty term.

- A clear description and identification of products, parts, characteristics, or components or properties covered by--and, when necessary for clarification, excluded from--the warranty.

- A statement of what the warrantor will do in the event of a defect, malfunction, or failure to conform with the written warranty, including the items or services the warrantor will pay for or provide, and, where necessary for clarification, those which the warrantor will not pay for or provide.

- The time or event on which the warranty term commences, if different from the purchase date, and the time period or other measurement of warranty duration.

- A step-by-step explanation of the procedure the consumer should follow to obtain performance of any warranty obligation, including the persons or class thereof authorized to perform warranty obligations- including names, addresses, parties to be reached, and toll-free information numbers.

- Information respecting the availability of any informal dispute settlement mechanism elected by the warrantor under the law.

- Any limitations on the duration of implied warranties, to be disclosed on the face of the warranty [see 16 C.F.R. § 701.1(i)].

- Any exclusions of or limitations on relief, such as incidental or consequential damages.

- A statement concerning the availability of rights under both federal and state law.

These requirements are made less extensive in the case of general policy statements of third parties on seals, emblems, and insignias which promise replacement or refund for defective products if they do not otherwise give assurance as to quality or performance [see 16 C.F.R. § 701.3(a)(7)-(9), (b)].

The federal legislation proposes a comprehensive scheme of disclosure. The Song-Beverly Act prescribes a special content for warranties only in the case of most assistive devices [see Civ. Code § 1793.02]. Otherwise, the state consumer law generally insists on warranties being in readily understood language, clearly identifying the warranting parties. State law also requires informing buyers in particular ways of the availability of service facilities [see Civ. Code § 1793.1].

[c] Applicability to Components and Replacements

While warranties on replacement parts and components used for repair are covered, warranties on services are not. If a written agreement warrants both repair parts and repair work, the warranty must comply with the Magnuson-Moss Act and with FTC regulations [16 C.F.R. § 700.1(h)]. In most instances the act does not cover warranties of component parts of consumer products. Warranties on parts are typically given by the component manufacturer to the maker of the assembled product (who, in turn, may directly warrant them to the consumer). The component warranty does not become part of the basis of the bargain of the consumer sale and thus is not covered by the act. However, in some instances a component supplier's warranty is intended to be and is given directly to the consumer, as in the case of a refrigerator installed directly into a recreational vehicle. In such case the written warranty falls under the act [16 C.F.R. § 700.3(c)].

[4] Designation as Full or Limited Warranty

The warrantor in the written warranty must clearly and conspicuously designate it either a "full _____ warranty," a statement of duration to be placed in the blank space, or a "limited warranty." The former designation is appropriate if the written warranty meets the "federal minimum standards" for warranty [see 15 U.S.C. § 2304]; otherwise, the limited label must be used. The FTC may exempt a written warranty from this requirement. These provisions apply only to warranties pertaining to consumer products actually costing the consumer more than $10 and that are not formally designated as a full warranty [15 U.S.C. § 2308(d)]. However, warrantors may include a statement of duration in a limited warranty designation as well. All designations should appear clearly and conspicuously in the form of a caption or prominent title clearly separated from the warranty test. No other designation should be used unless permitted by FTC rule [16 C.F.R. § 700.6(a)]. A consumer product may be sold with both types of warranties if they are clearly and conspicuously differentiated [15 U.S.C. § 2305].

[5] Minimum Standards on Full Warranty

[a] In General

To meet federal minimum standards under the Magnuson-Moss Act, a warrantor must abide by the following requirements [15 U.S.C. § 2304]:

- Remedy the consumer product within a reasonable time and without charge in the case of a defect, malfunction, or failure to conform with the written warranty.

- Not impose any limitation on the duration of an implied warranty on the product (despite the fact that a limitation is permitted in certain other circumstances under the act [see 15 U.S.C. § 2308(b)].

- Not exclude or limit consequential damages for breach of any written or implied warranty on the product unless the exclusion or limitation conspicuously appears on the face of the warranty.

- Allow the consumer to elect either a refund for, or replacement without charge of, product, or part if the product, or a component part of the product, contains a defect or malfunction after a reasonable number of attempts (as the FTC may prescribe) by the warrantor to remedy the defect or malfunction.

Replacement of a part includes installation without charge [15 U.S.C. § 2304(a)]. The FTC may further define duties under these standards [15 U.S.C. § 2304(b)(3)].

A warranty designated by a supplier as a full warranty is deemed to incorporate at least the federal minimum requirements for warranty, as amplified by any FTC regulations in any action brought under the Magnuson-Moss Act or under any state law [15 U.S.C. § 2304(e)].

[b] When Service Is "Without Charge"

Under the minimum standard, the phrase "without charge" means not to assess the consumer for any costs the warrantor or its representatives incur in connection with the required remedy of a warranted product [15 U.S.C. § 2304(d); see 15 U.S.C. §§ 2302(c), 2304(a)(1)]. Remedy without charge does not necessarily require the warrantor to compensate the consumer for incidental expenses. However, if any expenses are incurred because the remedy is not made within a reasonable time or because the warrantor imposed an unreasonable duty on the consumer as a condition of securing remedy, then the consumer is entitled to recover the expenses so incurred in any action against the warrantor [15 U.S.C. § 2304(d); see 15 U.S.C. § 2304(a)(1)].

[c] Imposition of Other Duties on Consumer

If a warranted product may only be utilized when installed, a full warranty must provide the installation without charge, regardless of whether or not the consumer originally paid therefor. Nevertheless, the warrantor may still impose on the consumer a duty to remove, return, or reinstall if the duty can be demonstrated to be reasonable in some relevant official proceeding [16 C.F.R. § 700.9; see 15 U.S.C. § 2304(b)(1)].

[d] Full Duties Owed to Transferees

The minimum standard duties extend from the warrantor to anyone who is a consumer with respect to the product involved [15 U.S.C. § 2304(b)(4)]. Because a consumer includes transferees [see 15 U.S.C. § 2301(3)], a full warranty may not expressly restrict the warranty rights of a transferee during its stated duration. However, when the duration of a full warranty is defined solely in terms of first purchaser ownership, there can be no violation as to transferees because the warranty duration expires by definition at the time of transfer. The FTC points out that a "first purchaser" type of warranty often is worded in a way to lead the consumer to believe that no proof of purchase is needed. Therefore, it concludes that requirement of documentary proof may not be reasonably imposed on a consumer under that warranty, and the burden of proof that the consumer is not the original purchaser or owner is on the warrantor. Warrantors or their designated agents may nevertheless properly ask consumers to state or affirm that they are the true first purchasers [16 C.F.R. § 700.6(b)].

[e] Duties Are Not Required on Showing of Consumer's Abuse

The minimum duties are not required of a warrantor who can show that the defect, malfunction, or failure of any warranted consumer product to conform with a written warranty was caused by damage while in the possession of the consumer. The damage, however, cannot result from the defect or malfunction. The usage exception includes the consumer's failure to provide "reasonable and necessary maintenance" [15 U.S.C. § 2304(c)]. This latter requirement consists of operations that the consumer reasonably can be expected to perform or have performed and that are necessary to keep any consumer product performing its intended function and operating at a reasonable level of performance [15 U.S.C. § 2301(9)].

[f] Prohibition Against Unreasonable Duties to Secure Remedy

In fulfilling the requirements of the federal minimum standards, the warrantor may not impose any duty on the consumer other than notification as a condition of securing a remedy because of a malfunction or defect of the product or because it does not conform to the written warranty. However, the warrantor may be excepted if he or she is able to demonstrate to the FTC or a court that the duty is reasonable. In any case, a warrantor may require, as a condition to replacement or refund, that the consumer product be made available free and clear of liens and encumbrances, unless the FTC declares that requirement to be unreasonable in the circumstances [15 U.S.C. § 2304(b)(1), (2)].

The FTC has concluded that requiring consumers to return "warranty registration cards" after purchase to assure warranty protection is an unreasonable duty under a full warranty; therefore, providing that the warranty is void without return of a card is impermissible, nor may the condition even be implied. The warrantor still may suggest use of the card as one means of showing proof of purchase; but in doing so, the warrantor must give notice that failure to return the card does not affect warranty rights [16 C.F.R. § 700.7]. In a somewhat contradictory rule, the FTC provides that if a warranty registration card is made a condition precedent to warranty coverage, that fact must be disclosed in the warranty. If return of the card reasonably appears to be a condition to coverage and performance, but is not, that fact also must be so disclosed [16 C.F.R. § 701.4].

[6] Meaning of Minimum Price Requirements

The minimum price restrictions of the Magnuson-Moss Act, whether $10, $15, or otherwise, is exclusive of tax. The minimum also applies to multiple-packaged items that may individually sell for less but which have been packaged to sell only as an ensemble at the minimum or higher price [16 C.F.R. § 700.1(g)].

[7] Puffery Excluded

Requirements pertaining to written warranties, full warranties and the federal minimum standards, and limited warranties are inapplicable in the case of statements or representations that are similar to expressions of general policy concerning customer satisfaction, and that are not subject to any specific limitations [15 U.S.C. § 2303(b)]. This exception to warranty law requirements applies only to general policies, not to those that are limited to specific consumer products manufactured or sold by the supplier, nor may a policy be general while at the same time being subject to any specific limitations. Policies that have an express limitation of duration or of amount to be refunded, for instance, are not general and thus are not excepted from warranty law requirements. However, reasonable limitations applied in individual consumer's circumstances will not necessarily remove a policy from the general to the specific context. A warrantor's refusing to honor expression of general policy with reasonable limitations when a consumer has been using the product for a decade without complaint does not amount to imposing a specific limitation and thus invoking the warranty law [16 C.F.R. § 700.5].

This limitation is similar to that in the Song-Beverly Act [see Civ. Code § 1791.2(c)], but the exception is not as broad in the federal law because the federal law covers a greater area of representations which give rise to express warranties. The federal law's exception in turn is also not as great as that under the sales law because the latter allows the greatest area of what might constitute an express warranty [see Com. Code § 2313(2)].

[8] Service Contract Distinguished

An agreement that would meet the definition of a written warranty but for its failure to satisfy the basis of the bargain test is a service contract--that is, one which requires consideration beyond the purchase price or is entered into after purchase of the product. Agreements that relate only to performance of maintenance or inspection services and that do not otherwise meet the requirements of a written warranty are also service contracts--that is, an agreement to perform periodic cleaning and inspection over a definite time period, even when the agreement is offered at time of sale and for no extra charge [16 C.F.R. § 700.11(c)].

A supplier is not prevented from entering into a service contract with the consumer, whether in addition to or in lieu of a written warranty. However, the contract must fully, clearly, and conspicuously disclose (as may be interpreted by the FTC) its terms and conditions in simple and readily understood language [15 U.S.C. § 2306]. The right to enter into, and the requirements respecting, service contracts are similar to those with respect to express warranties under the Song-Beverly Act [see Civ. Code § 1794.4; see also § 502.45].

§ 502.63 Written Warranty Presale Availability Requirements

[1] Seller's Responsibilities

The FTC has promulgated regulations with respect to sellers and warrantors that require that the terms of any written warranty on a consumer product be made available to the consumer prior to sale. These regulations apply to products actually costing the consumer more than $15 [16 C.F.R. §§ 702.2, 702.3].

Except as provided in 16 C.F.R. § 702.3(c), (d), the seller of a consumer product with a written warranty must make the text of the warranty available for examination by the prospective buyer by doing either of the following [16 C.F.R. § 702.3(c), (d)]:

- Displaying it in close proximity to the warranted product.

- Furnishing it on request prior to sale and placing signs reasonably calculated to elicit the prospective buyer's attention in prominent locations in the store or department advising prospective buyers of the availability of the warranties on request.

The seller's responsibilities do not apply to statements of general policy on emblems, seals, or insignias issued by third parties promising replacement or refund for defects. Those statements cannot represent or assure the quality or performance characteristics of the products. However, the required disclosures of a written warranty must be published by the marketing parties in each issue of a publication with a general circulation, to be provided free to any consumer on written request [16 C.F.R. § 702.3(b)(2)].

[2] Warrantor's Responsibilities

A warrantor as such also has particular obligations attached to making a written warranty on consumer products retailing in fact for more than $15. Sellers must be provided with warranty materials necessary to enable them to comply with their own warranty requirements. The warrantor may accomplish this by furnishing a copy of the warranty with every such product. Instead, or additionally, a tag, sign, sticker, label, decal, or other attachment may be put on the product containing the full text of the written warranty. In like manner the warranty may be printed on or attached to the package, carton, or other container of the product if normally used for display purposes. Under this option a copy of the warranty must also accompany the product. Another alternative is that the warrantor may provide a notice, sign, or poster disclosing the warranty text if a copy of the warranty accompanies the product [16 C.F.R. § 702.3(b)(1)(i)].

If a sale is door-to-door by catalog or mail order, the warrantor must disclose in a catalog or solicitation or in a reference to an information section clearly and conspicuously placed in close conjunction with the description of the warranted product, either the full text of the written warranty or a statement that the complete text can be obtained free on specific written request at a particular address. The catalog, mail order, or door-to-door seller then must promptly provide a copy on consumer request. In door-to-door sales the seller must disclose the fact that the sales representative has copies of the warranties for warranted products being offered, which may be inspected by the prospective buyer at any time during the sales presentation. The disclosure must be made orally and also must be included in any written materials to be shown [16 C.F.R. § 703.1(d), (c)].

§ 502.64 Implied Warranty

[1] Reference to State Law

The term "implied warranty" means an implied warranty that arises under state law in connection with the sale by a supplier of a consumer product [15 U.S.C. § 2301(7)]. However, implied warranties arising from state law may be affected by federal provisions [see [2], below], concerning their limitation, disclaimer, or modification [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 2304(a), 2308], and accompanied by written warranties or service contracts in certain instances.

The federal implied warranty appears to refer to any warranty implied under California law. Thus, to the extent it applies to a retail sale of consumer goods, the implied warranties of the general sales law and the Song-Beverly Act (that is, merchantability and fitness) appear to be incorporated into the federal provisions.

[2] Disclaimer or Modification

A supplier may not disclaim or modify any implied warranty to a consumer with respect to a consumer product if making any written warranty to the consumer thereon or, either at the time of sale or within 90 days thereafter, entering into a service contract with the consumer applicable to the product. However, the duration of an implied warranty may be limited to that of the duration of a written warranty of reasonable duration, if the limitation is conscionable and is set forth in clear and unmistakable language and is prominently displayed on the face of the warranty. This exception does not apply to a supplier meeting the federal minimum standards [see 15 U.S.C. § 2304(a)(2)]. Any disclaimer, modification, or limitation in violation of this provision is ineffective for purposes of the Magnuson-Moss Act or state law [15 U.S.C. § 2308].

The Magnuson-Moss Act compares with the Song-Beverly Act as follows:

- It reinforces the state provision that no modification or disclaimer of an implied warranty may take place in the presence of an express one [see Civ. Code § 1793], but adds similar protection in the case of a service contract [see 15 U.S.C. § 2308(a)].

- The federal limitation of the duration of an implied warranty to any reasonable duration of the written warranty differs from the state law that requires coextensive durations of express and implied warranties with outside limits [see Civ. Code § 1791.1(c); Atkinson v. Elk Corp. (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 212, 231, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 247 (Civ. Code § 1791.1 "controls the length of the implied warranty of merchantability under Magnuson-Moss"); see also § 502.51[5]].

- The federal law adds that the limitation must be conscionable and provides certain disclosure requirements [see 15 U.S.C. § 2308(b)].

It should be noted that the FTC has ruled there is no preemption of the state law [see § 502.61]. Notwithstanding the above, a full warranty (that is, one meeting the minimum federal standards) may not limit the duration of implied warranties [15 U.S.C. § 2304(a)(2)].

D. Warranties Under Magnuson-Moss Act

§ 502.65 Prohibited Terms in Warranties and Service Contracts

A warrantor is not allowed to indicate in any written warranty or service contract, directly or indirectly, that the decision of itself, a service contractor, or any designated third party is final or binding in any dispute, nor may the warrantor or service contractor state that it alone may determine what is a defect under the agreement. The foregoing statements are deceptive because the Magnuson-Moss Act gives state and federal courts jurisdiction over breach of warranty and service contract controversies [16 C.F.R. § 700.8].

A warrantor may not condition any written or implied warranty of a product on the consumer's using, in connection therewith, any article or service identified by brand, trade, or corporate name. Articles or services provided without charge under the terms of the warranty are excepted. The FTC may waive the requirements in instances in which it finds the product will function only with the required article or service and that the requirement serves the public interest [15 U.S.C. § 2302(c)].

Thus, under a limited warranty providing only for replacement of defective parts but no labor, the consumer cannot be required to use only designated labor, nor may the warrantor or representative thereof provide parts under the warranty in a manner which impedes or precludes the consumer's choice of person or business to perform the necessary labor. The continued validity of a warranty may not be conditioned on the use of only authorized repair service or replacement parts for nonwarranty service and maintenance, for it violates both the ban on "tying arrangements" and the liability of the warrantor under a written warranty for defects unrelated to consumer use [see 15 U.S.C. § 2310(d)]. Of course, the warrantor still can expressly exclude liability for defects or damages from "unauthorized" articles or service or can deny liability when able to prove the defect or damage was caused thereby [16 C.F.R. § 700.10].

A warrantor may designate representatives to perform duties under the written or implied warranty. § 502.67 True Insurance Contracts Are Unregulated Certain agreements marketed under state law as insurance contracts may, in certain instances, meet the statutory definitions of warranties under the Magnuson-Moss Act. The McCarran-Ferguson Act (15 U.S.C. § 1011 et seq.) precludes federal jurisdiction over the business of insurance to the extent it is regulated by state law. Thus, any insurance agreements that are warranties would fall under coverage of the Magnuson-Moss Act only to the extent they are not regulated in the state as insurance. One example is the automobile breakdown insurance policy sold in many jurisdictions and regulated by the state as a form of casualty insurance [16 C.F.R. § 700.11].

§ 502.68 Actions Under the Magnuson-Moss Act

[1] Provision for Informal Dispute Settlements

The Magnuson-Moss Act attempts to encourage fair and expeditious private settlements of consumer disputes by allowing warrantors to set up informal dispute settlement procedures that meet FTC requirements and are then incorporated into written warranties as a prerequisite to bringing suit under the act (except in a class action, to any extent necessary to establish the class as under federal rules) [see Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 23]) [15 U.S.C. § 2310(a), (d)(1)]. The FTC has set up elaborate guidelines for warrantors to institute fair and independent informal dispute settlement "mechanisms" and to inform consumers of the existence of these mechanisms [see 16 C.F.R. §§ 703.1-703.8]. Although some manufacturers or retailers have devised more complex complaint processing procedures, these do not operate to postpone legal action under the act in the absence of compliance with FTC guidelines [see 15 U.S.C. § 2310(a)(3)].

[2] Alternative Requirement for Affording Opportunity to Correct

In the absence of availability of an informal dispute settlement mechanism, no action may be brought under the Magnuson-Moss Act for failure to comply with any obligation thereunder or under any written or implied warranty or service contract unless the person obligated under the warranty or service contract is afforded a reasonable opportunity to cure the failure to comply. A class action may be entertained only to the point of establishing the class (such as in a United States District Court where the procedure of Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 23 is employed), in which case reasonable opportunity must be afforded by the named plaintiff to notify the defendant that the plaintiff is acting on behalf of the class [15 U.S.C. § 2310(e)].

[3] Consumer Remedy

A consumer damaged by the failure of a supplier, warrantor, or service contractor to comply with any obligation of the Magnuson-Moss Act, or under a written warranty, implied warranty, or service contract, may bring suit for damages and other legal and equitable relief. The plaintiff must have complied first with the requirements of any available informal dispute settlement mechanism [15 U.S.C. § 2310(d)(1); see [1], above] or else have afforded a reasonable opportunity for curing the failure [15 U.S.C. § 2310(e); see [2], above].

The Magnuson-Moss Act differs from the Song-Beverly Act in that an action under the federal act is available to buyers, transferees, and others who may be entitled (or not limited) under the warranty or state law [see 15 U.S.C. § 2301(3)], whereas the state action is open only to the retail buyer. The range of possible defendants and the types of warranties or service contracts involved (to the extent they conform to the requirements of the laws in question) are generally equivalent under the federal and state laws. However, the federal law does not provide for treble damages, as does the state law, and requires as a condition to bringing suit the utilization of any available informal dispute settlement mechanism or other opportunity for the defendants to cure the defect [see Civ. Code § 1794(c)].

It should also be pointed out that the definitions of the federal act appear to provide broader protection in certain cases that those provided under the Song-Beverly Act. For example, federal law does not exclude clothing and consumables from its definition of consumer products [see 15 U.S.C. § 2301(1)], while the state consumer warranty law does exclude them from its description of "consumer goods" [see Civ. Code § 1791(a), (c), (d)]. Thus, a federal cause of action may be available for these commodities (in conjunction with Division 2 of the Commercial Code) while the state action under the Song-Beverly Act may not be [see § 502.60[2]]. Likewise, the federal definition of consumer products refers to products that are "normally" used for personal, family, or household purposes, which includes products (such as automobiles and typewriters) that are commonly used for consumer purposes [see 16 C.F.R. § 700.1(a)], whereas the Song-Beverly Act describes consumer goods as "used or bought for use primarily" for consumer purposes without other qualification. The federal law also specifically includes personal property attached to real property [see 16 C.F.R. § 700.1(e), (f)], while the state law expressly excludes heating or air conditioning equipment when installed [see Civ. Code § 1795.1].

[4] Recovery of Costs and Attorney's Fees

The court may allow a consumer who finally prevails in an action under the Magnuson-Moss Act to recover, as part of the judgment, a sum equal to the aggregate amount of cost and expenses reasonably incurred for, or in connection with, the commencement and prosecution of the action. This includes attorney's fees based on actual time expended unless the court in its discretion determines that such an award would be inappropriate [15 U.S.C. § 2310(d)(2); Milicevic v. Fetcher Jones Imports, Ltd. (2004) 402 F.3d 912, 919-920 (district court did not abuse its discretion when concluding that attorneys' hourly rate was not reasonable and eliminating hours it considered to be unnecessarily duplicative); Drouin v. Fleetwood Enterprises (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 486, 492-493, 209 Cal. Rptr. 623 (attorney fee award need not be apportioned among causes of action when some do not provide for recovery of attorney's fees)]. Under the Song-Beverly Act, an award of costs and attorney's fees to a prevailing buyer is mandatory [Civ. Code § 1794(d)].

[5] Available Forums

Suit may be brought in any court of competent jurisdiction in any state or the District of Columbia, or in a appropriate United States District Court. To be brought in the latter forum, the amount in controversy of any individual claim cannot be less than the sum or value of $25; the total claim cannot be less than the sum of $50,000 (exclusive of interest and costs) computed on the basis of any or all claims to be determined in the suit; and if the proceeding is a class action, the number of named plaintiffs cannot be less than 100 [15 U.S.C. § 2310(d)(1), (3)]. It thus appears that the Magnuson-Moss Act intends suit thereunder to be commenced in state court on most occasions because it seems to require a $50,000 minimum amount in issue in all instances, regardless of whether the action is commenced by an individual plaintiff or is a class action.

[6] Defendants

For purposes of dispute settlements and actions on consumer grievances under the Magnuson-Moss Act, only the warrantor actually making a written affirmation of fact, promise, or undertaking is deemed to have created a written warranty. Any rights arising under the warranty may be enforced under the act only against that warrantor and no one else [15 U.S.C. § 2310(f)]. A supplier who does no more than sell or distribute a consumer product covered by a written warranty offered and identified as being offered by another is not liable for failure of the warranty to comply with the act or rules thereunder. However, other actions and written or oral representations of a supplier in connection with the offer or sale of a warranted product may make the supplier a warrantor under the act and liable for its own breach of warranty or contract. In addition, if under state law the supplier is deemed to have "adopted" the written affirmation of fact, promise, or undertaking, the supplier is also liable under the act [see 16 C.F.R. § 700.4].

[7] Effect on Other Kinds of Recovery

The Magnuson-Moss Act does not affect the liability of, or impose liability on, any person for personal injury; nor does it supersede state law regarding consequential damages for injury to the person or other injury [15 U.S.C. § 2311(b)(2)].

[8] Punishable Offenses Under the Act

A violation of the Magnuson-Moss Act also constitutes engaging in unfair and deceptive trade practices, subject to enforcement by the FTC [15 U.S.C. § 2310(c); see 15 U.S.C. § 45(a)(1)]. Either that agency or the Attorney General may seek injunctive relief with respect to warrantors failing to comply with or violating prohibitions of the act or for the making of a "deceptive warranty." The latter is a written warranty which does any of the following [15 U.S.C. § 2310(c)]:

- Contains an affirmation, promise, description, or representation which is either false or fraudulent, or which, in light of all the circumstances, would mislead a reasonable individual exercising due care.

- Fails to contain information necessary in light of all of the circumstances, to make the warranty not misleading to a reasonable individual exercising due care.

- Created by the use of such terms as "guaranty" or "warranty" if the terms and conditions thereof so limit its scope and application as to deceive a reasonable individual [15 U.S.C. § 2310(c)].

[1] Actions for Breach of Warranty

[a] Attorney's Fees

For purposes of awarding attorney's fees under Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act (Civ. Code § 1790 et seq.), plain language of statute allows for recovery of attorney's fees that have been "reasonably incurred by buyer" [see Civ. Code § 1794(d)]; attorney's fees were not "incurred" by prevailing buyer at rates that increased over the years since case began, and thus could not be awarded at higher rates, when buyer was billed and liable only for fees at hourly rate set at beginning of litigation. Nightingale v. Hyundai Motor America (1994) 31 Cal. App. 4th 99, 104-105, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 149

[b] Costs

Defendant sellers are entitled to recover their costs and expert witness fees as prevailing parties under Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act; although Civ. Code § 1794(d) mentions only "prevailing buyers," it may be reconciled with Civ. Code § 1032(b) under which prevailing defendants are entitled to costs. Murillo v. Fleetwood Enterprises (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 985, 999, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 682, 953 P.2d 858

Defendant is responsible only for costs reasonably incurred by plaintiff in commencing and prosecuting suit against them, and cannot be charged for service of process on another defendant that settled. Levy v. Toyota Motor Sales U.S.A., Inc. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 807, 813, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 770

[c] Damages

Emotional distress damages and loss of use damages for period when buyer did not have replacement vehicle are not recoverable under Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act. Bishop v. Hyundai Motor Co. (1996) 44 Cal. App. 4th 750, 757-758, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 134

Award of lost profits and restitution of sums paid for trucks in breach of warranty action was not per se inconsistent because California Commercial Code has not adopted rule of election of remedies. Berge v. International Harvester Co. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 152, 163, 190 Cal. Rptr. 815

[d] Penalty

"Willful" within meaning of Civ. Code § 1794(c) requires only that illegal act or omission occur intentionally without regard to motive or ignorance of act's prohibited character, and does not include moral component; jury instructions using words such as "blameworthy" and "reckless disregard of consumer's rights" are error. Schreidel v. American Honda Motor Co. (1995) 34 Cal. App. 4th 1242, 1249-1250, 40 Cal. Rptr. 2d 576 ; Ibrahim v. Ford Motor Co. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 878, 894, 263 Cal. Rptr. 64

Manufacturer's failure to refund or replace defective automobile is not "willful" under Civ. Code § 1794(c) if it reasonably and in good faith believed facts did not call for refund or replacement. Kwan v. Mercedes Benz of North America, Inc. (1994) 23 Cal. App. 4th 174, 186, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 371

Plaintiff is not entitled to recover both civil penalty of Civ. Code § 1794(c) and punitive damages under Civ. Code § 3294 because that would amount to double recovery. Troensegaard v. Silvercrest Industries, Inc. (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 218, 221, 226-228, 220 Cal. Rptr. 712

Existence of specific statutory remedy provided by Civ. Code § 1794(c) precludes cause of action for tort of bad faith breach of covenant of good faith and fair dealing on account of seller's wrongful refusal to make repairs or provide replacement under an express warranty. Gomez v. Volkswagen of America, Inc. (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 921, 925-929, 215 Cal. Rptr. 507

[2] Express Warranty

[a] Labels

Failure of goods to conform to label was breach of express warranty. Nunes Turfgrass, Inc. v. Vaughan-Jacklin Seed Co., Inc. (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 1518, 1532, 246 Cal. Rptr. 823

Food & Agric. Code § 52252(e) was construed to conform to Federal Seed Act and related regulations; thus, apparent 5-percent tolerance in California provision was overridden; labels "0.00 other crop; 0.00 weed" on perennial ryegrass seed shipments containing 1 percent and 4.25 percent, respectively, of annual or Italian ryegrass, were in violation of California and federal law. Nunes Turfgrass, Inc. v. Vaughan-Jacklin Seed Co., Inc. (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 1518, 1527-1532, 246 Cal. Rptr. 823

[b] Particular Promise

Section 5(b) of Public Health Cigarette Smoking Act of 1969 (15 U.S.C. § 1334(b)) does not preempt state law damage claims against cigarette manufacturers and sellers for breach of express warranty, even if warranties were made in advertising. Cipollone v. Liggett Group, Inc. (1992) 505 U.S. 504, 526-527, 112 S. Ct. 2608, 120 L. Ed. 2d 407, 428-429, 432, 440

Evidence did not show that manufacturer of motors used to propel satellites from space shuttle breached its express warranty under Com. Code § 2313(1)(a) to supply motors that were free from defects in labor, material, or manufacture.

McDonnell-Douglas Corp. v. Thiokol Corp. (9th Cir. 1997) 124 F.3d 1173, 1176-1178

Statements in brochure advertising rental bikes and stating that particular trail was safe cycling area amounted to express warranty that bikes were safe and became part of bargain. Pau v. Yosemite Park and Curry Co. (9th Cir. 1991) 928 F.2d 880, 887

Defendant manufacturer's and seller's representation on shipping carton and instruction book cover for its golfer training device which plaintiff read and relied on constituted express warranty of safety of product resulted in liability for injuries resulting from breach thereof after defendant failed to present any evidence which could remove those assurances of safety from basis of bargain. Hauter v. Zogarts (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 104, 117, 120 Cal. Rptr. 681, 534 P.2d 377

Sales brochure disseminated to public and buyer stating that drill rig would drill to certain depth under particular circumstances was express warranty as to rig's capacity. Fundin v. Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co. (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 951, 957, 199 Cal. Rptr. 789

Promise of time of delivery was not warranty and therefore delay in delivery was not breach of warranty. A.A. Baxter Corp. v. Colt Indus., Inc. (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 144, 153, 88 Cal. Rptr. 842

Representation through advertisements, labels, and pamphlets that product is appropriate for purchaser's skin, but which cautions that some skin may be sensitive to and react against application thereof and advises patch test before full application, which instruction plaintiff purchaser has followed, was not express warranty that product is good for all skin, even though plaintiff performed patch test before application. Harris v. Belton (1968) 258 Cal. App. 2d 595, 605-606, 65 Cal. Rptr. 808 (evidence also introduced in action of prior skin irritation and that plaintiff had treated herself with other products when irritation developed after use of seller's product, even though instructions cautioned against mixing)

Disclaimer of warranties by financing lessor was not per se unconscionable, but was to be tested under Com. Code § 2316; when financing lessor validly disclaimed all warranties and goods conformed to lease, lessee could not revoke acceptance as to lessor, but could look to manufacturer or supplier for its remedy. U.S. Roofing, Inc. v. Credit Alliance Corp. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1431, 1450-1453, 279 Cal. Rptr. 533

Commercial entities were entitled to contract to limit liability of one to the other, or otherwise allocate risk of doing business; requirements of agreements excluding liability for one's negligence. Philippine Airlines, Inc. v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 234, 237-238, 234 Cal. Rptr. 423 (citing Com. Code §§ 2316(2), (4), 2719)

When product was expressly described by manufacturer as having certain detailed capacities under certain conditions, language in brochure disclaiming warranty of product's suitability for any particular purpose did not negate express warranty. Fundin v. Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co. (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 951, 958, 199 Cal. Rptr. 789

[d] Privity

When consumer relied on representations made by manufacturer in labels or advertising material, recovery was allowed on theory of express warranty without showing of privity. Fundin v. Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co. (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 951, 957, 199 Cal. Rptr. 789

[e] Single Cause of Action

Breach of express warranty did not give rise to two separate causes of action when both injury to person and to property resulted; warranty is essentially contractual in character, created by parties' agreement rather than operation of law, and subject to negotiation and modification at time of agreement; thus, all damages for single breach must be recovered in one action. Holmes v. David H. Bricker, Inc. (1969) 70 Cal. 2d 786, 789-790, 76 Cal. Rptr. 431, 452 P.2d 647

[3] Implied Warranty

[a] Fitness for Particular Purpose

Class action cannot be predicated on breach of implied warranty for particular purpose because breach consists of elements that could be established only by testimony as to each purchaser's intended purpose and reliance, and defendant seller's awareness of these elements, testimony which could be expected to vary greatly with no common method of proof available to large group of purchasers. Metowski v. Traid Corp. (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 332, 341-342, 104 Cal. Rptr. 599

[b] Merchantability

In action for breach of implied warranty of merchantability under Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act against automobile manufacturer, trial court properly instructed jury by defining fitness-for-ordinary-purpose requirement in terms of vehicle that is "in safe condition and substantially free of defects"; defendant requested instruction that vehicle was unfit only if it did not provide transportation, but that would have been unjustified dilution of implied warranty of merchantability: merely because vehicle provides transportation from point A to point B, it does not necessarily conform to fitness-for-ordinary-purpose requirement of implied warranty of merchantability. Isip v. Mercedes-Benz USA, LLC (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 19, 27, 65 Cal. Rptr. 3d 695 ("[a] vehicle that smells, lurches, clanks, and emits smoke over an extended period of time is not fit for its intended purpose")

Golfer training device, by being conducive to, and actually resulting in, injury to plaintiff, breaches implied warranty of merchantability in two respects: (1) failing to conform to promise or affirmation of fact made on container, which promised completely safe mechanism; and (2) failing to be fit for ordinary purposes for which goods are used. Hauter v. Zogarts (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 104, 117-118, 120 Cal. Rptr. 681, 534 P.2d 377

Although different rule may apply when express warranty is breached, under Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act there is no requirement that seller be given opportunity to repair when implied warranty of merchantability is breached. Mocek v. Alfa Leisure, Inc. (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 402, 406-408, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 546

[c] Privity

In owners association's construction defect action against developer, trial court erred in concluding that association did not have requisite privity of contract to state cause of action for breach of implied warranty; Civ. Code § 383 provided requisite privity. Windham at Carmel Mountain Ranch Association v. Superior Court (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1162, 1166, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 834

[4] Jury Instructions

When manufacturer admits existence of warranties, even slight evidence of their breach entitles plaintiff to jury instruction covering warranty. Bernal v. Richard Wolf Medical Instruments Corp. (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 1326,

1337-1338, 272 Cal. Rptr. 41

[5] Notice to Seller

Question of what constitutes reasonable time under Com. Code § 2607(3)(A) for giving of notice is usually question of fact for jury. Los Angeles Nut House v. Holiday Hardware Corp. (9th Cir. 1987) 825 F.2d 1351, 1354 ; but see Davidson v. Herring-Hall-Marvin Safe Co. (1954) 131 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 874, 280 P.2d 549 (question of law)

Required proof of notice by buyer to seller of breach of warranty within reasonable time, under Com. Code § 2607, is not sufficient to defeat class action under claim that timely notice must be separately litigated by each plaintiff when: (1) a number of dissatisfied customers have sued within reasonable time, which might satisfy notice requirement particularly when seller knew or should have discovered failure of merchandise to conform to express warranties; (2) issues otherwise which may be jointly tried, when compared with those requiring separate adjudication, are so numerous or substantial that class action would be advantageous to judicial process and litigants involved; and (3) individual damages sought would make separate recoveries economically infeasible. Metowski v. Traid Corp. (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 332, 339-341, 104 Cal. Rptr. 599 (suggesting that element of timely notice by each plaintiff could be considered after liability is established in order to assess individual's own collectible damages)

[6] Rescission; Revocation of Acceptance

Under both Commercial Code and Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act, reasonable continued use of motorized vehicle that does not conform to express warranty did not, as matter of law, prevent buyer from asserting rescission or revocation of acceptance. Ibrahim v. Ford Motor Co. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 878, 897-898, 263 Cal. Rptr. 64

[7] Restrictions on Disclaimers

Total disclaimer of all warranties and requirement that buyer purchase insurance to cover all losses and hold seller and all seller's contractors and subcontractors harmless was reasonable allocation of risk between large sophisticated commercial entities in specially manufactured, specialized high technology, high-risk product. Appalachian Ins. Co. v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 1, 27, 262 Cal. Rptr. 716

Fact that manufacturer is better able than buyer to detect defects was not relevant in evaluating claimed unconscionability of warranty disclaimer and hold-harmless clauses when item was not mass produced but was specialized high technology, high-risk product and contract was not preprinted but was negotiated by parties. Appalachian Ins. Co. v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 1, 25-26, 262 Cal. Rptr. 716

Purchaser that drafted one of two exculpatory clauses in contract and had dealt with similar provisions in previous contracts between parties was unable to claim surprise at scope of provisions claimed to be unconscionable. Appalachian Ins. Co. v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 1, 24-25, 262 Cal. Rptr. 716

Between large sophisticated companies no procedural element of unconscionability was established with respect to warranty disclaimer and hold-harmless provisions by alleged total monopoly on manufacture of upper-stage rockets used to launch communications satellites when French company, with which purchaser had originally contracted, provided alternative launch capability. Appalachian Ins. Co. v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 1, 23, 262 Cal. Rptr. 716

When warranty disclaimer and hold-harmless provisions are clear and unambiguous in precluding suit by purchaser against manufacturer's subcontractors, intent of drafters of related service contract between different parties and covering different subject matter is not relevant. Appalachian Ins. Co. v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 1, 18, 262 Cal. Rptr. 716

Unconscionable disclaimer of warranty was unenforceable despite technical compliance with requirements of Com. Code § 2316 because policing provisions of Com. Code § 2316 are limited to problems involving visibility of disclaimers and conflicts with express warranties; oppression and unfair surprise are principal targets of unconscionability doctrine, resulting from other types of questionable commercial practices. A & M Produce Co v. FMC Corp. (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 473, 484, 186 Cal. Rptr. 114

[8] Strict Liability

Strict liability is not applicable to defective product in commercial setting when only business loss is involved; thus, disclaimer of strict liability in commercial transaction was effective. Appalachian Ins. Co. v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 1, 33, 262 Cal. Rptr. 716

[9] Waiver of Warranty

Waiver of warranty must be pleaded to make it available as defense. Southern Pac. Co. v. Unarco Industries, Inc. (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 142, 151, 116 Cal. Rptr. 847

Warranty is not waived by mere acceptance of defective goods with knowledge of their defects; buyer's participation in seller's program of replacement and upgrading of product components did not cut off buyer's right of action for breach of express warranty as matter of law. Southern Pac. Co. v. Unarco Industries, Inc. (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 142, 150-151, 116 Cal. Rptr. 847

[10] Warranty of Title

Seller is liable for buyer's attorney's fees in action for breach of warranty of title involving gun which, unknown to seller and buyer, had been stolen at time of sale, when parties could reasonably foresee that possession of gun could result in plaintiff buyer's arrest and resulting need to engage attorney. De La Hoya v. Slim's Gun Shop (1978) 80 Cal. App. 3d Supp. 6, 146 Cal. Rptr. 68

§ 502.100 Notice of Breach of Warranty [Com. Code § 2607(3)(A)]

[1] FORM Notice of Breach of Warranty [Com. Code § 2607(3)(A)]

TO: _____ [seller at business address]

YOU ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED that you have breached the _____ [express or implied if applicable] warranty _____ [of _____ (describe type, e.g., title or that _____ (describe, e.g., the material is defect-free) or against infringement] _____ [made or arising] in connection with your sale to _____ [name and other identifying data of buyer, such as address] on or about _____ [date], at _____ [location] of goods consisting of _____ [describe quantity and nature of goods].

[Please contact the undersigned at your earliest convenience with regard to resolution of this matter.]

[Sincerely yours,]

_____ [firm name, if any]

By:_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for _____ [name of buyer]

Dated: _____.

[2] Use of Form

The notice in [1], above, is for use by a buyer to notify a seller of a claim for breach of warranty. Notice must be given by a buyer who, after acceptance of goods, discovers that a particular warranty arising under Division 2 of the Commercial Code has been breached by the seller and seeks a remedy for the breach [see Com. Code § 2607(3)(A)]. Notice of breach of warranty is required in order to prevent stale claims [see Metowski v. Traid Corp. (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 332, 339, 104 Cal. Rptr. 599 (allowing class action on express warranty to proceed despite need to establish notice of breach in each individual plaintiff's instance)].

[3] Requirement of Notification of Breach of Warranty

A buyer who has accepted a tender of goods must, within a reasonable time after he or she discovers or should have discovered any breach, including breach of warranty, notify the seller of the breach or else be barred from any remedy for the breach [Com. Code § 2607(3)(A)]. This type of notice should be given with respect to any breach of warranty arising under the provisions of Division 2 of the Commercial Code, the general law of sales. Better practice suggests that the notice be written and given separately and in addition to any other form of notification required, even when the discovery and need for notification arise concurrently.

The buyer has the burden of proving reasonable notice. The question whether notice was properly given must be determined from the particular circumstances, and when but one inference can be drawn from undisputed facts, the issue may be determined as a matter of law [Cardinal Health 301, Inc. v. Tyco Electronics Corp. (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 116, 135-136, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 5] .

When a buyer is suing for a breach of an implied warranty under the Song-Beverly Act, which incorporates the "remedies" under those portions of the Commercial Code which include Com. Code § 2607, it would appear that this notice should also be served before the commencement of the action [see Civ. Code § 1791.1(d)].

§ 502.101 Notice to Warrantor Affording Opportunity to Cure Failure to Comply With Warranty or Provisions of Magnuson-Moss Warranty-Federal Trade Commission Improvement Act [15 U.S.C. § 2310(e)]

[1] FORM Notice to Warrantor Affording Opportunity to Cure Failure to Comply With Warranty or Provisions of Magnuson-Moss Warranty-Federal Trade Commission Improvement Act [15 U.S.C. § 2310(e)]

TO: _____ [name of warrantor at business address]

YOU ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED that the undersigned, a [transferee of a] purchaser of your _____ [describe consumer product], which carried your written warranty, is hereby affording you a reasonable opportunity to cure your failure to comply with the provisions of [the Magnuson-Moss Act with respect to] the warranty. The product fails to _____ [_____ (be free of defect or meet the specified level of performance over the specified period of time) as _____ (affirmed or promised) with regard to the material or workmanship therein or meet the specifications set forth in the undertaking] and you have failed to take any remedial action with regard thereto although requested to do so by the undersigned. [This matter has been sufficiently brought to your attention for correction heretofore, and] [T]he undersigned intends to file an action against you on or about _____ [date], unless you take curative action prior thereto. This notification is provided in lieu of any informal dispute settlement mechanism, which has not been incorporated into the above-mentioned warranty.

[Attorney for] _____ [name of consumer]

Dated: _____.

[2] Use of Form

The notice in [1], above, is for use by a consumer purchaser, or transferee, who contemplates bringing an action under the Magnuson-Moss Act against a warrantor of a defective product when the warranty does not provide for resort to an informal dispute settlement mechanism as a necessary prelude to instituting the action [see 15 U.S.C. § 2310(d)(1), (e); § 502.68[2] and [3]].

[3] Notice Requirements Under Magnuson-Moss Act

A consumer (including a transferee [see 15 U.S.C. § 2301(3)]) who is damaged by the failure of a supplier, warrantor, or service contractor to comply with any obligation under the Magnuson-Moss Act or under a written warranty, implied warranty, or service contract may bring suit for damages and other legal and equitable relief. However, the damaged party must first resort to any informal dispute settlement mechanism incorporated into the warranty and set up by the manufacturer (alone or with others) according to requirements of the FTC [see 15 U.S.C. § 2310(a), (d)(1); 16 C.F.R. § 703.1 et seq.]. In the absence of an informal dispute resolution mechanism, the consumer must afford the person obligated under the warranty or service contract a reasonable opportunity to cure the failure to comply with any obligation under the written or implied warranty or service contract before bringing suit [15 U.S.C. § 2310(e); as to class actions, see § 502.181 (form of allegations)]. Because this latter requirement does not expressly apply to a failure to comply with an obligation of the act (as opposed to a warranty or service contract obligation), it is conceivable that an action may be brought for damages for the failure without giving prior notice.

[2] Use of Form

The notice in [1], above, is for use by a buyer who has been sued by a customer for breach of warranty with respect to goods sold to the buyer by a third-party seller, and for which breach that seller is answerable over to the buyer when the buyer's rights are protected through this notification [see Com. Code § 2607(5)(A)].

[3] Notification to Seller of Suit Against Buyer

A buyer who has been sued for a breach of a warranty for which the seller is answerable may gain important rights against the seller by giving the seller written notice of the litigation in accordance with Com. Code § 2607(5)(A). Under that section, if the notice states that the seller may defend and that if the seller does not do so, the seller will be bound in any action by the buyer against the seller by any determination of fact common to the two lawsuits, then unless the seller after seasonable receipt of the notice does defend, the seller is so bound [Com. Code § 2607(5)(A)]. An ordinary demand for indemnity and that the seller come in and assume the defense is not sufficient to bind the seller. The notice must specifically state that unless the seller assumes the defense (of the action against the buyer) the seller will be bound by any determination of the facts common to the two litigations (the one against the buyer and the buyer's action over against the seller) [Bendix-Westinghouse Automotive Air Brake Co. v. Swan Rubber Co. (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 256, 260-262, 127 Cal. Rptr. 571] .

[2] Use of Form

The complaint in [1], above, is for use by a buyer who is suing a seller for remedy over after the buyer has been sued by a customer and found liable for breach of warranty concerning goods the buyer procured from the seller [see Com. Code § 2607(5)(A)]. In the unlikely event this form is used in connection with a consumer transaction that is subject to the Unruh Retail Installment Sales Act (RISA; Civ. Code § 1801 et seq.) or the Rees-Levering Motor Vehicles Sales and Finance Act (Rees-Levering Act; Civ. Code § 2981 et seq.), the plaintiff must, concurrently with the filing of the complaint, file the affidavit of proper venue [see § 502.160[7]].

[3] Allegations

The complaint in [1], above, alleges the following:

- The residence and capacity of the defendant (Paragraph 1).

- Fictitious names of defendants, if any (Paragraph 2).

- The applicable sale and warranty involved in the original sale of the goods from defendant to plaintiff (Paragraphs 3, 4).

- Plaintiff's resale of the goods, discovery of the breach through the customer therein, and separate notice of breach to defendant (Paragraph 5) [Com. Code § 2607(3)(A)].

- Suit against plaintiff by the customer, and notice given by plaintiff to defendant (of any claim for infringement, and, separately [see § 502.280[3]) of that suit and request for defendant to come in and defend or be bound thereby (Paragraph 6) [see Com. Code § 2607(3)(B), (5)(A)].

- Establishment of plaintiff's liability in that suit by facts common to present suit, proximately resulting in damages in the amount of that liability (Paragraph 7) [Com. Code §§ 2607(5)(A), 2714(2)].

- Consequential damages consisting of attorney's fees for defending the suit by the customer, and other incidental or consequential damages (Paragraph 8) [Com. Code §§ 2714(3), 2715; see § 502.283[4]].

[4] Claims Payable in Foreign Currency

If the claim is payable in a foreign currency, or payment requires conversion to or from a foreign currency, additional allegations should be added setting forth that fact. Otherwise, the claim is made in United States dollars [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.6(a)]. For discussion of and a form for judgment applicable to the Uniform Foreign-Money Claims Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 676 et seq.], see Ch. 177, Damages , and Ch. 318, Judgments .

[5] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)], verification will require any answer to be verified in an unlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude the defendant from using a general denial in an unlimited civil case, and will preclude a general denial in a limited civil case if the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[6] Attorney's Fees

In an action on a contract, when the contract specifically provides that attorney's fees and costs incurred to enforce the contract will be awarded to one of the parties, reasonable attorney's fees may be recovered by the prevailing party, but as an element of the costs of suit, not as damages [Civ. Code § 1717]. However, the court must award costs and attorney's fees to a prevailing plaintiff in litigation governed by to Civ. Code § 1780 (consumer suffering damage from any practice deemed unlawful under Civ. Code § 1770) [Civ. Code § 1780(d)]. Reasonable attorney's fees may be awarded to a prevailing defendant on a finding by the court that the plaintiff's prosecution of the action was not in good faith [Civ. Code § 1780(d)]. In addition, the seller may be liable for attorney's fees as a natural and usual consequence of breach of warranty of title [see De La Hoya v. Slim's Gun Shop (1978) 80 Cal. App. 3d Supp. 6, 146 Cal. Rptr. 68 (sale of stolen gun in which parties should have reasonably foreseen buyer's arrest and resulting need to engage attorney); see also § 502.283[4]]. For discussion and forms relating to recovery of attorney's fees, see Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees, § 174.50 et seq. For discussion of attorney's fees under Civ. Code § 1717.5 in certain contract actions based on a book account as defined in Code Civ. Proc. § 337a, see Ch. 8, Accounts Stated and Open Accounts .

As a further natural and consequential result of defendant's breach of the warranty herein, plaintiff suffered injuries to person and property, in that _____ [specify, e.g., when these goods exploded they caused grave trauma to the body of plaintiff for which injuries plaintiff was hospitalized for a considerable amount of time and required serious medical attention, in _____ (an amount to be determined by this court or the amount of $_____); and the explosion caused serious damage to plaintiff's business premises where the explosion occurred, doing injury to the walls, roof, floors, and equipment thereof in the amount of $_____].

The allegation in [1], above, may be added to a complaint, specifically to the paragraph alleging incidental and consequential damages, or may form a new paragraph, in a complaint for any type of breach of warranty, express or implied, which may have naturally resulted in consequential personal injuries or property damage [see Com. Code §§ 2714(3), 2715(2)(b)]. The Magnuson-Moss Act does not affect liability of, or impose liability on, persons for personal injury, nor does it supersede state law regarding consequential damages for injury to person or other injury [15 U.S.C. § 2311(b)(2)].

§ 502.120 Affirmative Defense to Complaint for Breach of Warranty Under the Commercial Code Based on Agreement to Limit Remedies for Breach of Warranty [Com. Code § 2316(4)]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense to Complaint for Breach of Warranty Under the Commercial Code Based on Agreement to Limit Remedies for Breach of Warranty [Com. Code § 2316(4)]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state: TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges:

The contract of sale between plaintiff and defendant limits the remedies that may be obtained by plaintiff for any alleged breach of warranty, in that plaintiff thereunder is entitled to seek only _____ [describe, e.g., liquidated damages in the amount of $_____, which amount is reasonable in the light of the anticipated and alleged actual harm caused by the alleged breach, the difficulties of proof of loss, and the inconvenience or nonfeasibility of otherwise obtaining an adequate remedy or the return of the goods and repayment of the price or the repayment and replacement of nonconforming goods or parts].

[2] Use of Form

The affirmative defense in [1], above, is for use in defending against a claim of breach of warranty of any kind by virtue of an agreement between the parties limiting the available remedies in event of a breach [see Com. Code § 2316(4); see also Com. Code § 2718(1) (liquidated damages in contracts for sale of goods); Com. Code § 2719 (contractual modification or limitation of remedies in sale of goods)].

For additional discussion of affirmative defenses and answers in general, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[3] When Usable in Consumer Litigation

The affirmative defense in [1], above, may not be used in an action for breach of the implied warranties of merchantability or fitness under the provisions of the Song-Beverly Act because any waiver of remedy of that act by the buyer is unenforceable and void [see Civ. Code § 1790.1; see also Civ. Code §§ 1791.1(d), 1794]. Under the federal Magnuson-Moss Act any warranty that is not designated a full warranty must be designated a limited warranty [see 15 U.S.C. § 2303(a)]. If the warranty is a full one and thereby meets the federal minimum standards, it still may limit or exclude consequential damages for breach of written or implied warranty on the product if it does so conspicuously on the face of the warranty [15 U.S.C. § 2304(a)(3)]. A limited warranty is not otherwise defined under the federal legislation and presumably is allowed to limit remedies in any way not otherwise in conflict with the provisions of the act.

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges:

Any defect or noncomformity of which the plaintiff complains in this matter was proximately caused by the unauthorized or unreasonable use of the goods by the plaintiff following sale and delivery of those goods by defendant to plaintiff.

[2] Use of Form

The affirmative defense in [1], above, may be used in any action for breach of an express or implied warranty arising under the Song-Beverly Act when the defect or nonconformity complained of was proximately caused by the unauthorized or unreasonable use of the product [see Civ. Code § 1794.3, § 502.53[4]].

[3] Applicability of Defense to Federal Actions

Under the Magnuson-Moss Act, a warrantor offering a full warranty must comply with certain federal minimum standards. However, a warrantor is excused from performance of any duties required by these standards if the warrantor shows that the defect, malfunction, or failure of the consumer product to conform with a written warranty was caused by damage (not resulting from a defect or malfunction) while in the possession of the consumer or by unreasonable use (including the failure to provide reasonable and necessary maintenance) [15 U.S.C. § 2304(c); see § 502.62[5][e]].

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 502.103[1], Paragraph 1.]

2. [Fictitious defendants. See § 502.103[1], Paragraph 2.]

3. On or about _____ [date], at _____ [city], California, plaintiff negotiated with defendant for the purchase of certain goods consisting of _____ [describe quantity and nature of goods]. In the course of the negotiations, defendant _____ [affirmed the fact or promised] _____ [orally or in writing] that _____ [describe representation relating to the goods, e.g., they were the original of that type of product on the market and not a later imitation thereof]. That _____ [affirmation or promise] became part of the basis of the bargain between the parties and thus constituted an express warranty. [A true copy of the writing is attached as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference.]

4. _____ [Thereon or Thereafter, on or about _____ [date], at _____ (the locale stated in Paragraph 3 of this complaint or _____ (city), California)] defendant sold the goods to plaintiff, and plaintiff bought the goods from defendant for the amount of $_____ [or describe other consideration]. 5. However, defendant breached the express warranty in that _____ [describe breach, e.g., the goods were not manufactured by their original producer as _____ (affirmed or promised) but were made by another manufacturer who imitated the style of the original]. As a result of this breach plaintiff in fact did not receive goods as warranted by defendant.

6. Plaintiff discovered the breach of warranty on or about _____ [date]. Thereafter, and on or about _____ [date], plaintiff notified defendant of this breach by _____ [writing, in the form of a _____ (letter or telegram or other), a true copy of which is attached to this complaint as Exhibit B and made a part of it or personal visit and communication or telephone call or other].

[OR]

7. As a proximate result of this breach of warranty by defendant, plaintiff has been damaged [in the amount of $_____] as a result of special circumstances in which _____ [describe circumstances, e.g., plaintiff transferred a portion of the goods to third-party buyers, who received them in the belief that plaintiff was capable of conveying good title to the goods, and who were commercially embarrassed as a result]. [These damages are not all assessable at this time, but this complaint will be amended to state the damages when plaintiff becomes able to determine them.]

8. Plaintiff has been further damaged as a result of this breach in that _____ [describe incidental or consequential damages, e.g., plaintiff was required to transport the goods to _____ (the true owner or a new market) for the amount of $_____. Defendant also knew that plaintiff needed the goods as demonstration wares, and plaintiff was forced to arrange to procure replacement goods for these purposes through travel and negotiations, in the total amount of $_____].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

1. For damages in the sum of $_____;

2. For damages for _____ [specify incidental or consequential damages, e.g., transportation of goods, and travel expenses] in the sum of $_____;

3. For costs of suit herein incurred, including attorney's fees, if appropriate; and

[2] Use of Form

The complaint in [1], above, is for use by a buyer in an action against a seller for breach of express warranty consisting of an affirmation of fact or a promise [see Com. Code § 2313(1)(a); §§ 502.11[2], 502.23, 502.28].

[3] When Form May Be Used in Consumer Litigation

The complaint in [1], above, may be used in a suit by a consumer, but its use normally is limited to those situations not covered by special consumer warranty legislation. Thus, the form would be most appropriate when the warranty was made orally; or when a written warranty was not directed to maintenance or preservation of utility of performance of the product, or to its freedom from defect or specifications as to performance level, or to some form of recompense or replacement on failure of its warranted character [see Civ. Code § 1791.2(a)(1); 15 U.S.C. § 2301(6); see also §§ 502.160, 502.180 (complaints under Song-Beverly Act and Magnuson-Moss Act, respectively)]. However, even if consumer warranty legislation might otherwise be applicable, certain requirements might not be present in the individual case, so that this form may still be used. If this form is used in connection with a consumer transaction that is subject to the Unruh Retail Installment Sales Act (RISA; Civ. Code § 1801 et seq.) or the Rees-Levering Motor Vehicles Sales and Finance Act (Rees-Levering Act; Civ. Code § 2981 et seq.), the plaintiff must, concurrently with the filing of the complaint, file the affidavit of proper venue discussed at § 502.160[7].

The complaint in [1], above, alleges the following in pertinent part:

- The seller's affirmation of fact or promise which became a part of the basis of the bargain (Paragraph 3) [Com. Code § 2313(1)(a)]. To be a basis of the bargain, a statement constituting an express warranty need be only one factor or consideration in inducing the buyer to enter bargain. A statement constituting an express warranty is presumptively part of the basis of a bargain, and the burden of proof is on the seller to show the bargain does not rest at all on that representation [Keith v. Buchanan (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 13, 23, 220 Cal. Rptr. 392 ; see also Hauter v. Zogarts (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 104, 117, 120 Cal. Rptr. 681, 534 P.2d 377 (representation relied on by plaintiff consisting of assurance of safety was express warranty of safety because defendant could present no evidence removing it from basis of bargain)].

- The sale of goods to which the warranty refers (Paragraph 4) [Com. Code § 2204].

- The breach of the express warranty (Paragraph 5).

- Plaintiff's notification of the breach (Paragraph 6) [Com. Code § 2607(3)(A)].

- Damages from the breach (Paragraph 7) [Com. Code § 2714(2)].

- Incidental and consequential damages (Paragraph 8) [Com. Code §§ 2714(3), 2715].

If the claim is payable in a foreign currency, or payment requires conversion to or from a foreign currency, additional allegations should be added setting forth that fact. Otherwise, the claim is made in United States dollars [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.6(a)]. For discussion of and a form for judgment applicable to the Uniform Foreign-Money Claims Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 676 et seq.], see Ch. 177, Damages , and Ch. 318, Judgments .

[1] FORM Allegation for Use in Complaint for Breach of Express Warranty Based on Description of Goods [Com. Code § 2313(1)(b)]

On or about _____ [date], at _____ [city], California, plaintiff negotiated with defendant for the purchase of certain goods consisting of _____ [describe quantity and nature of goods]. In the course of the negotiations, a particular description of the goods was made part of the basis of the bargain between the parties as a result of _____ [explain how description was incorporated, e.g., plaintiff and defendant examining and reading a statement of the manufacturer available on the defendant's premises or a statement printed on the _____ (carton or container or label or package or brochure or instructions or technical specifications or other) that accompanied the goods or the defendant's verbal response to plaintiff's inquiry of what the goods consisted of or other] and, thus, constituted an express warranty. _____ [The description stated _____ (in effect or exactly) as follows: _____ or A true copy of the description is attached as Exhibit _____ and incorporated by reference].

The allegation in [1], above, may be substituted for Paragraph 3 of the preceding form (§ 502.140) for use in an action against a seller for breach of express warranty consisting of a description of the goods [see Com. Code § 2313(1)(b); *Nunes Turfgrass, Inc. v. Vaughan-Jacklin Seed Co., Inc. (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 1518, 1532, 246 Cal. § 502.142 Allegation for Use in Complaint for Breach of Express Warranty Based on Sample or Model [Com. Code § 2313(1)(c)]

[1] FORM Allegation for Use in Complaint for Breach of Express Warranty Based on Sample or Model [Com. Code § 2313(1)(c)]

On or about _____ [date], at _____ [city], California, plaintiff negotiated with defendant for the purchase of certain goods consisting of _____ [describe quantity and nature of goods]. In the course of the negotiations, a particular _____ [sample or model] of the goods was made part of the basis of the bargain between the parties as a result of _____ [explain how the example was so incorporated, e.g., defendant's showing the sample to plaintiff as an example of exactly what plaintiff was purchasing or a model of the goods, advertised to be the exact product plaintiff was attempting to buy, being available on the premises, which plaintiff freely consulted or other], and thus constituted an express warranty that the whole of the goods plaintiff purchased would conform to the _____ [sample or model].

[2] Use of Form

The allegation in [1], above, may be substituted for Paragraph 3 of the form at § 502.140[1] in an action against a seller for breach of express warranty consisting of a sample or model of the goods [see Com. Code § 2313(1)(c), § 502.23[3]].

[3] Use in Action Under Song-Beverly Act

The Song-Beverly Act defines one type of express warranty, consisting of a sample or model, in a manner virtually identical to that of the general sales law [compare Com. Code § 2313(1)(c) with Civ. Code § 1791.2(a)(2)]. Therefore, if the conditions for maintaining an action under the Song-Beverly Act do apply (including the facts that the goods were consumer goods and the breach was willful), plaintiff should include a cause of action under the Song-Beverly Act [see form at § 502.160].

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense to Complaint for Breach of Express Warranty Based on Negation or Limitation of Express Warranty [Com. Code § 2316(1)]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges:

At the time of sale, defendant expressly _____ [negated or limited] any express warranty on the goods sold to plaintiff in that _____ [describe, e.g., defendant explained that if plaintiff purchased the particular item involved in this case, the express warranty printed on the carton could not apply because a previous customer had returned the item after having used it, but that defendant would, and did, charge plaintiff a lesser price than for other items of the same kind or defendant stated that the express warranties which defendant was orally making would only apply for 90 days, after which time the product no longer could be so warranted or defendant took a large black marker and drew a large "X" through all visible express warranties that appeared on the carton and label of the goods sold to plaintiff. Defendant believed those were the only written warranties accompanying the goods and explained to plaintiff that the goods were a special shipment and the defendant could make no representations regarding them].

[2] Use of Form

The affirmative defense in [1], above, is for use in defending against a claim of breach of express warranty when defendant negated or limited any express warranty by words or conduct [see Com. Code § 2316(1), § 502.23[6]].

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use by a retail buyer of consumer goods who has been injured by a violation of the provisions of the Song-Beverly Act and the breach of express warranty of the manufacturer [see Civ. Code § 1794(a)-(d); Com. Code §§ 2711-2715; see §§ 502.43 and 503.53, and, in Ch. 500, Sales: Sales Under the Commercial Code, §§ 500.60 and 500.76].

[3] Failure to Supply Parts and Repair Literature

The duty to maintain service and repair facilities in California includes the duty to supply them with adequate replacement parts and service literature [Civ. Code § 1793.2(a)]. By making appropriate changes to Paragraphs 6 and 7, this complaint can be modified for use when repair and service facilities are maintained in California but not supplied with adequate replacement parts and service literature.

[4] Allegations

This complaint alleges the following:

- The manufacture of the goods by defendant and the making of an express warranty in connection therewith (Paragraph 3) [Civ. Code § 1791.2(a)].

- The purchase of the goods by plaintiff at retail (Paragraph 4) [Civ. Code § 1791(a), (b), (l); see California State Electronics Assn. v. Zeos Int'l (1996) 41 Cal. App. 4th 1270, 1276-1277, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 127 (consumer goods are not "sold in this state" for purposes of Song-Beverly Consumer Warrant Act's local repair facilities requirement when goods are shipped from another state pursuant to mail order; title passes on shipment, pursuant to Com. Code § 2401)].

- The receipt of the warranty during the sale (Paragraph 5). The warranty may be in the form of a service contract [see Reveles v. Toyota by the Bay (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1158, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 543 , overruled on other grounds in Snukal v. Flightways Manufacturing, Inc. (2000) 23 Cal. 4th 754, 3 P.3d 286 (service contract sold for additional fee in conjunction with sale of used vehicle held to be "express warranty" under Civ. Code § 1795.5 of Song Beverly Consumer Warranty Act)].

- Breach of the warranty through violation of the requirements of the Song-Beverly Act (Paragraphs 6, 7) [Civ. Code § 1794(a)].

- Two alternatives with regard to actual damages based whether or not the buyer retains the goods. If the plaintiff's rightfully rejected or justifiably revoked acceptance of the goods or otherwise rescinded the sale, use the first alternative Paragraphs 8-10 [see Civ. Code § 1794(b)(1); Com. Code §§ 2711-2713; Krotin v. Porsche Cars, North America, Inc. (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 294, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 10 (to establish breach of warranty obligations under Beverly-Song Consumer Warranty Act, buyer need not reject or revoke acceptance of vehicle at any time; buyer need only provide manufacturer with reasonable opportunity to fix vehicle)]. Note that under both the Commercial Code and the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act, reasonable continued use of a motor vehicle that does not conform to the express warranty does not, as matter of law, prevent the buyer from asserting rescission or revocation of acceptance [Ibrahim v. Ford Motor Co. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 878, 897-898, 263 Cal. Rptr. 64] . If plaintiff's retains the goods, actual damages are based on the difference in value and costs to obtain conformance from some entity other than the manufacturer or its repair facility (second alternative Paragraphs 8-10) [see Civ. Code § 1794(b)(2); Com. Code §§ 2714-2715].

- Entitlement to other damages or relief (Paragraph 11) [Civ. Code § 1794(a), (b); Com. Code §§ 2711(1), (3), 2712, 2714(2), (3), 2715].

- Attorney's fees (Paragraph 12) [Civ. Code § 1794(d)], and if appropriate, that defendant's breach was willful, thus entitling plaintiff to the penalty under Civ. Code § 1794(c) (Paragraph 12).

[5] Remedies Under Song-Beverly Act

The buyer injured by a violation of the provisions of the Song-Beverly Act, or of an express or implied warranty or of a service contract, may bring an action for the recovery of actual damages, other legal and equitable relief, and reasonable attorney's fees [Civ. Code § 1794(a), (b), (d)]. Prejudgment interest [see Civ. Code § 3287] may be recovered in an appropriate case [Doppes v. Bentley Motors, Inc. (2009) 174 Cal. App. 4th 1004, 1010-1011, 94 Cal. Rptr. 3d 797 ; see § 502.53[1][a]]. If the violation was willful and the claim is not based solely on a breach of an implied warranty, the buyer may also recover a civil penalty of up to two times the amount of actual damages [Civ. Code § 1794(c)].

The four-year limitation period of Com. Code § 2725 governs actions under the Song-Beverly Act. Under Com. Code § 2725(2), when a warranty explicitly extends to future performance of the goods, the discovery rule applies to accrual of the cause of action and commencement of the limitation period [see Krieger v. Nick Alexander Imports, Inc. (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 205, 215-219, 285 Cal. Rptr. 717 ; see also Carrau v. Marvin Lumber and Cedar Co. (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 281, 290-292, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 869 (generalized assertions in advertisements and literature do not rise to the level of a warranty explicitly extending to "future performance"; plaintiff thus did not meet exception to four-year limitations period)]. For discussion of Com. Code § 2725, see § 502.28[6].

An express warranty as defined in the Song-Beverly Act may be made by a distributor or retail seller, as well a by a manufacturer [Civ. Code § 1791.2(a)]. If the express warranty is made by anyone other than the manufacturer, that person becomes subject to the same obligations that are imposed on a manufacturer under the Song-Beverly Act [Civ. Code § 1795]. Thus, the foregoing form may be modified for use against a retailer or distributor by naming the retailer or distributor as the defendant, by modifying Paragraphs 3 and 4 to allege the retailer's or distributor's business and the manner in which the sale occurred, and by changing the term "defendant manufacturer" to "defendant" in the other paragraphs. However, the plaintiff may wish to join the retail seller otherwise by joining a separate cause of action against the seller for breach of express warranty under Division 2 of the Commercial Code [see form in § 502.140].

[6] Alternative Remedy Under Magnuson-Moss Act

The federal Magnuson-Moss Act also provides for enforcement of any written warranty by which a warrantor undertakes, in connection with the sale by a supplier of a consumer product, to refund, repair, replace, or take other remedial action as to the product if it fails to meet the specifications in the undertaking [15 U.S.C. § 2301(6)(B); see § 502.180]. In this instance, a consumer plaintiff may include any transferee of a buyer during the warranty period who is not limited by the warranty [15 U.S.C. § 2301(3)]. However, it must be shown that the undertaking was part of the basis of the bargain between the supplier and buyer for purposes other than resale [15 U.S.C. § 2301(6)]. The plaintiff must first exhaust any available informal dispute settlement mechanism or, in its absence, give the defendant an opportunity to cure the defect [15 U.S.C. § 2310(a)(3), (d)(1), (e)]. The federal law makes available only actual damages and other legal and equitable relief, but does afford reasonable attorney's fees [15 U.S.C. § 2310(d)].

[7] Installment or Auto Sales Actions

[a] Filing of Affidavit or Declaration of Proper Venue Required

In any action subject to the Unruh Retail Installment Sales Act (RISA; Civ. Code § 1801 et seq.) or the Rees-Levering Motor Vehicles Sales and Finance Act (Rees-Levering Act; Civ. Code § 2981 et seq.), the plaintiff must, concurrently with the filing of the complaint, file an affidavit (or declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) stating facts showing that the action has been commenced in a proper place for the trial of the action under Civ. Code § 1812.10 or Civ. Code § 2984.4. In lieu of filing a separate affidavit or declaration, the plaintiff may allege these facts in a verified complaint, but not on information and belief [Civ. Code §§ 1812.10(c), 2984.4(c)]. If an affidavit or declaration is filed with the complaint, a copy of the affidavit or declaration must be served with the summons [Civ. Code §§ 1812.10(c), 2984.4(c); Code Civ. Proc. § 396a(a)].

[b] Consequences of Failure to File Affidavit or Declaration

If a plaintiff fails to file the affidavit or declaration or state facts showing proper venue in a verified complaint as required in Civ. Code § 1810.10 or Civ. Code § 2984.4, no further proceedings may occur, and the court must, on its own motion or the motion of any party, dismiss the action without prejudice [Civ. Code §§ 1812.10(c), 2984.4(c); Code Civ. Proc. § 396a(a)]. The court, however, on terms that may be just, may permit the affidavit or declaration to be filed after the filing of the complaint. In this case, a copy of the affidavit or declaration must be served on the defendant, and the time to answer or otherwise plead begins at the time of that service [Civ. Code §§ 1812.10(c), 2984.4(c); Code Civ. Proc. § 396a(a)].

[OR, if product is a new motor vehicle]

3. After the unsuccessful attempts at repair, plaintiff demanded that defendant manufacturer _____ [replace the vehicle in accordance with Civil Code Section 1793.2(d)(2)(A) or make restitution to plaintiff in accordance with Civil Code Section 1793.2(d)(2)(B)]. Defendant manufacturer has failed and refused, and continues to fail and refuse, to make _____[replacement or restitution]. As a result of defendant manufacturer's violation of Civil Code Section 1793.2(d)(2), plaintiff has been damaged in the amount of $_____.

[2] Use of Form

The allegations in [1], above, are for use in a buyer's action against a manufacturer when the manufacturer's breach of its obligations under the Song-Beverly Act consists of a failure to make replacement or reimbursement (restitution) after having failed for a reasonable number of attempts to conform the product to its express warranties [see Civ. Code § 1793.2(b)-(d); for products other than new motor vehicles, see discussion at § 502.43[3] and [5]; for discussion relating to new motor vehicles, see Ch. 91, Automobiles: Actions Involving Defects and Repairs ; see also Civ. Code § 1793.22(e)(2) (defining new motor vehicle)].

The allegations in [1], above, may be substituted for Paragraphs 7-10 of the form of complaint at § 502.160[1].

[3] Allegations

Paragraph 1 need only be used when the product is a new motor vehicle [see Civ. Code § 1793.22(e)(2) (defining new motor vehicle)]. The plaintiff should allege that the vehicle was bought in California, inasmuch as application of the Song-Beverly Act to new motor vehicles is limited to vehicles bought in California [see Cummins, Inc. v. Superior Court (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 478, 483, 493, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 823, 115 P.3d 98 (Song-Beverly Act did not apply to new vehicle that California resident had bought in Idaho and that could not be repaired after repeated attempts at manufacturer's authorized repair facility in California)].

Paragraph 2 should be used in place of Paragraph 7 of the complaint in § 502.160[1] and describes the reasonable attempts at repair [see Silvio v. Ford Motor Company (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1205, 1207-1208, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 846 (because phrase "reasonable number of attempts" in Civ. Code § 1793.2(d)(2) is written in plural, statute does not require manufacturer to make restitution or replacement after only one opportunity to repair)]. For products other than new motor vehicles, there is no definition of or presumption relating to reasonable attempts at repair, although Civ. Code § 1793.2(b) (discussed in § 502.43[3]) provides that repair must be made within 30 days. For new motor vehicles, there is a presumption regarding when reasonable attempts have been made [see Civ. Code § 1793.22(b)], but, if the manufacturer has made timely notification to the buyer that it maintains a qualified third-party dispute resolution process as defined in Civ. Code § 1793.22(d), the buyer cannot assert the presumption until he or she has first resorted to the qualified third-party dispute resolution process [Civ. Code § 1793.22(c)]. For a discussion of the provisions relating to new vehicles, see Ch. 91, Automobiles: Actions Involving Defects and Repairs. In the context of motor vehicles, it has been held that the manufacturer at its representative are entitled to separate attempts to repair; the repair attempts of the manufacturer's agent (retail dealer) are attributed to manufacturer; and the attempts of both must be considered in establishing reasonableness [Ibrahim v. Ford Motor Co. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 878, 890, 263 Cal. Rptr. 64] .

Alternative Paragraphs 3 are for use in place of Paragraphs 8-10 of the form of complaint in § 502.160[1]. In the case of products other than new motor vehicles, the election of whether to replace or to reimburse is the manufacturer's [Civ. Code § 1793.2(d)(1)], whereas in the case of new motor vehicles, the election is the buyer's [Civ. Code § 1793.2(d)(2)].

Additional incidental and consequential damages in both situations should be alleged as set forth in Paragraph 11 of the form of complaint at § 502.160[1]. In the case of products other than new motor vehicles, those damages are governed by Civ. Code § 1794(b) and Com. Code §§ 2711-2715 (discussed at § 502.53[1], and in Ch. 500, Sales: Sales under the Commerical Code, § 500.70 et seq.). In the case of new motor vehicles, those damages are specified in Civ. Code § 1793.2(d)(2)(A)-(C) (discussed in Ch. 91, Automobiles: Actions Involving Defects and Repairs) and include repair, towing, and rental costs. Civ. Code § 1793.2(d)(2)(C) contains a formula for determining the value of the use of the vehicle by the buyer prior to discovery of the nonconformity.

Code §§ 1793.2(d)(2), 1793.22, 1794(e)*), see Ch. 91, Automobiles: Actions Involving Defects and Repairs .

4. On or about _____ [date], at _____ [city], California, _____ [plaintiff, a _____ (specify type of seller), _____ (name)] sold _____ [quantity] of _____ [describe goods] to a consumer, _____ [name], hereinafter referred to as the "consumer," and the consumer bought those goods from plaintiff for the amount of $_____ [or other consideration].

5. In connection with that sale, the consumer received the express warranty of defendant manufacturer in that _____ [the written statement of the defendant described above _____ (accompanied the product or was separately delivered to the consumer) or the consumer had occasion to examine the above-described _____ (sample or model) of the goods at _____ (if seller is plaintiff, plaintiff's or otherwise, the seller's) premises].

6. On or about _____ [date], the consumer discovered that those goods _____ [exhibited a failure in utility or performance or failed to conform to the _____ (sample or model)] in that [describe defective character, e.g., it had a nonfunctioning engine]. Plaintiff is entitled to treble damages for defendant's violation in this matter because defendant's violation has been _____ willful, in that _____ [describe, e.g., defendant expressly has refused to make any arrangements for repair or services here although plaintiff and retail sellers and service repair facilities in the lines of business carrying or servicing defendant's products have made themselves available to help defendant set up a repair and service system, but defendant has refused to establish a repair and service system or to take advantage of the offers of plaintiff and others although they have demonstrated that defendant's products would have a frequent repair needs experience that would be difficult to accommodate without defendant's cooperation].

[EITHER, if plaintiff is original or other seller]

8. As a result of defendant's acts in this instance, plaintiff has been damaged in fulfilling the requirements and purposes of the Song-Beverly Act and accommodating the needs of the consumer in this matter _____ [if replacement: in an amount equal to the actual cost to plaintiff of the replaced goods of $_____, (and cost of transporting the goods of $_____,) plus a reasonable handling charge of $_____ or, if service or repair: in an amount equal to that which would be received by plaintiff for like service rendered to retail consumers who are not entitled to warranty protection, including actual and reasonable costs of the service and repair, of $_____, (and the cost of transporting the goods of $_____,) plus a reasonable profit of $_____ or, if reimbursement, and if plaintiff is original seller (other sellers may not be restricted to the following [see Civ. Code § 1793.3(a), 1793.5(c)]): in an amount equal to that reimbursed to the buyer of $_____, plus a reasonable handling charge of $_____].

[OR, if plaintiff is independent servicer and repairer]

8. As a result of defendant's acts in this instance, plaintiff has been damaged in fulfilling the requirements and purposes of such legislation and accommodating the needs of the consumer in this matter in an amount equal to the actual and reasonable costs of the service and repair, including any cost for parts, of $_____, [and reasonable costs of transporting the goods and parts of $_____,] plus a reasonable profit of $_____.

9. Plaintiff has incurred reasonable attorney's fees herein in the amount of $_____.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For treble the amount of actual damages herein, or $_____;

[2] Use of Form

The complaint in [1], above, is for use by a retail seller or independent service facility that has provided services to a buyer of retail goods as a result of the failure of the goods to conform with the terms of a manufacturer's express warranty when the manufacturer has willfully or repeatedly violated requirements of the Song-Beverly Act by failing to provide service and repair facilities in the state or to compensate the retail seller or independent service facility [see Civ. Code § 1794.1; § 502.53[3] and at [4], below].

Because express warranties may be made by a person other than the manufacturer of the goods and the obligation of that person is the same as that imposed on the manufacturer under the Song-Beverly Act [see Civ. Code § 1795; § 502.42[4]], the form in [1], above, may be used with appropriate modifications in an action against a person other than the manufacturer who made the warranty.

[3] Allegations

The complaint in [1], above, alleges the following:

- The defendant's identity as manufacturer and express warrantor of the goods (Paragraph 3).
- The purchase of the goods by the consumer (Paragraph 4).
- The extension of the express warranty to the purchaser (Paragraph 5).
- The consumer's discovery of the defect and return of the goods to the plaintiff, if a retailer, or to a retailer and then to the plaintiff if a service and repair business, and plaintiff's appropriate accommodation of the consumer to make good under the warranty (Paragraph 6) [Civ. Code § 1793.3; see § 502.43[1], [6], [8]].
- Defendant's willful or repeated violation of the Song-Beverly Act by failing to maintain or provide for adequate local service and repair facilities (Paragraph 7); detriment and damages of plaintiffs in various alternatives (Paragraph 8) [Civ. Code § 1794.1; see Civ. Code §§ 1793.4, 1793.6].
- Reasonable attorney's fees (Paragraph 9) [Civ. Code § 1794.1].

[4] Bases of Remedies for Retail Sellers or Service Facilities Against Manufacturer's Violation of Song-Beverly Act

A retail seller of consumer goods or an independent servicer of consumer goods who is injured by the willful or repeated violation of the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act may bring an action for the recovery of three times the amount at which the actual damages are assessed plus reasonable attorney's fees [Civ. Code § 1794.1]. Every manufacturer of consumer goods sold in California and for which the manufacturer has made an express warranty must maintain or designate and authorize local facilities to service or repair goods under their accompanying express warranties. The retail seller must, and any other retail seller of like goods of the manufacturer may, accommodate consumers who need service or repair under such warranties when the manufacturer has failed to meet the requirement for those facilities as provided in Civ. Code § 1793.3. The manufacturer is subject in that instance to liability for the efforts of the seller or retailer of the manufacturer's goods [Civ. Code §§ 1793.2(a)(2), 1793.5, 1793.6].

[5] Failure to Supply Parts and Repair Literature

The duty to maintain service and repair facilities in California includes the duty to supply them with adequate replacement parts and service literature [Civ. Code §§ 1793.2(a)(3), 1793.3]. A manufacturer that fails to supply its authorized facilities with adequate replacement parts and service literature is liable to the buyer, or to the independent repair facility whose services were obtained by the retail seller to which the buyer returned the item, for the actual and reasonable cost of service or repair, including the cost of replacement parts, their reasonable transportation costs, and a reasonable profit [Civ. Code § 1793.3(c)].

[1] FORM Complaint by Consumer Against Warrantor Manufacturer for Failure to Comply With Warranty or Provisions of Magnuson-Moss Warranty-Federal Trade Commission Improvement Act [15 U.S.C. § 2310(d)]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____ [names], Defendants.	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)	[Amount demanded _____
	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 502.103[1], Paragraph 1.]

2. [Fictitious defendants. See § 502.103[1], Paragraph 2.]

3. On or about _____ [date], at _____ [city], California, _____ [plaintiff or a particular consumer, _____ (name of buyer), (purchaser)] negotiated with a particular supplier, _____ [name of seller], (supplier) for the purchase of a certain consumer product consisting of _____ [describe quantity and nature of product] manufactured by defendant. In the course of negotiations and to the time of sale alleged in this complaint, the product was disclosed to be accompanied by a writing appended by defendant which contained _____ [describe, e.g., the designation "FULL THREE-YEAR WARRANTY," or _____ (an affirmation of fact or a promise) that the material and workmanship of the product were free of any defect or other]. This writing became part of the basis of the bargain between the parties and thus constituted a written warranty made and given by defendant. A true copy of the warranty is attached as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference.

4. _____ [Thereon or Thereafter, on or about _____ (date), at _____ (that locale or _____ (city), California)] the supplier sold the goods to _____ [plaintiff or purchaser], who bought the goods from supplier for the amount of $_____ [or describe other consideration]. [_____ (Either The contract between the parties was oral (if sale price was $500 or more, add:, a true copy of a memorandum of which is attached as Exhibit B and incorporated by reference) or A true copy of the contract of sale between the parties is attached as Exhibit B and incorporated by reference).] [On or about _____ (date), plaintiff received transfer of the product from the purchaser thereof and has been the true owner of the product ever since.]

5. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff discovered the product was defective in that _____ [describe, e.g., its casing did not bear up under temperatures of 100 degrees or more, which a product of the type, in keeping with its ordinary performance, would be required to do]. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff brought this defect to the attention of defendant and demanded the product be remedied within a reasonable time and without charge, but defendant then, and has ever since, failed and refused to correct those defects, replace the product, or refund any amount to plaintiff, or to take any other remedial action with respect thereto.

[EITHER, if no informal dispute settlement mechanism exists]

6. The written warranty does not contain references to any informal dispute settlement mechanism. However, on or about _____ [date], plaintiff formally notified defendant that this suit would be commenced unless, within a reasonable period of time [and up to and including _____ (date),] defendant cured its failure to comply with the provisions of its written warranty to remedy the defect of its product. A true copy of this notice is attached as Exhibit "C" and incorporated by reference. Defendant, from that time to the present, has failed and refused to remedy the product.

[OR, if informal dispute settlement mechanism exists]

6. Plaintiff has resorted initially in this matter to the informal dispute settlement procedure established by defendant by notification thereto on or about _____ [date], _____ [either and a decision was rendered on _____ (date), a true copy of which is attached as Exhibit C and incorporated by reference. However, plaintiff is dissatisfied with _____ (the decision or defendant's intended actions thereunder or defendant's performance thereunder) or and all parties to this procedure have completed all their duties thereunder or if a period of at least 40 days has passed since notification: but the procedure has not been completed although there is and will be no permissible period of delay in the completion of those duties].

[CONTINUE]

7. As a proximate result of defendant's failure to remedy the defective product and to comply with the provisions of its written warranty, plaintiff has been damaged, in that _____ [describe, e.g., plaintiff has been unable to have the benefit of the product and of equipment dependent on the proper functioning of the defective product], in the amount of $_____.

8. _____ [Plead any allegation of further legal or equitable relief appropriate in the circumstances. For consequential and incidental damages, see § 502.103[1], Paragraph 8.]

9. Plaintiff has incurred reasonable attorney's fees herein in the amount of $_____.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For damages in the amount of $_____;

2. For incidental and consequential damages in the amount of $_____;

3. For reasonable attorney's fees in the amount of $_____;

4. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

[Verification, if desired. See § 502.103[1].]

[2] Use of Form

The complaint in [1], above, is for use by a plaintiff whether the original purchaser, or a transferee from the original purchaser, of a consumer product for which the manufacturer-warrantor thereof fails to provide any remedy for the defective condition of the product [see 15 U.S.C. § 2310(d)(a)(3)(d)-(f); § 502.68[3]-[7]]. If this form is used in connection with a consumer transaction that is subject to the Unruh Retail Installment Sales Act (RISA; Civ. Code § 1801 et seq.) or the Rees-Levering Motor Vehicles Sales and Finance Act (Rees-Levering Act; Civ. Code § 2981 et seq.), the plaintiff, concurrently with the filing of the complaint, must file the affidavit of proper venue [see § 502.160[7]].

[3] Allegations

The complaint in [1], above, alleges the following:

- The purchase of the consumer product with a written warranty being part of the basis of the bargain (Paragraph 3) [15 U.S.C. § 2301(6)].

- The sale of the product (with any subsequent transfer to plaintiff) (Paragraph 4) [15 U.S.C. § 2301(3)].

- Plaintiff's discovery of the defect and his or her attempt to have defendant remedy it (Paragraph 5).

- Exhaustion of any available informal dispute settlement mechanism, or, in its absence, defendant's reasonable opportunity to cure its failure to comply with the warranty terms (Paragraph 6) [15 U.S.C. § 2310(a)(3), (d)(1), (e)].

- The damages which resulted from defendant's failure to comply (Paragraph 7); any incidental or consequential damages (Paragraph 8).

- Reasonable attorney's fees as provided by law (Paragraph 9) [15 U.S.C. § 2310(d)(2)].

An attorney's fee award need not be apportioned among causes of action when some do not provide for recovery of attorney's fees. An attorney's fee award under 15 U.S.C. § 2310(d)(2) need not be based on the amount recovered but should be based on time spent [Drouin v. Fleetwood Enterprises (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 486, 492-493, 209 Cal. Rptr. 623] .

[4] Remedies Under Magnuson-Moss Act for Consumers and Transferees

The federal Magnuson-Moss Act makes available the possibility for consumers and transferees from original purchasers of consumer products to obtain relief for defects in the products, for failure of warrantors to comply with the provisions of the written warranties or the act (and regulations thereunder), or for noncompliance by others obligated under the act [see 15 U.S.C. § 2301(3) ("consumer" is defined to include transferee); 15 U.S.C. § 2301(6) ("written warranty" defined)]. Damages are awardable (although not necessarily bound by the measure prescribed under Division 2 of the Commercial Code [see Com. Code § 2714(2)]), and reasonable attorney's fees are possible [15 U.S.C. § 2310(d)(1), (2); see, e.g., Milicevic v. Fetcher Jones Imports, Ltd. (2004) 402 F.3d 912, 919-920 (district court did not abuse its discretion when concluding that attorneys' hourly rate was not reasonable and eliminating hours it considered to be unnecessarily duplicative); see also § 502.68[3] -[7]]. The action normally must be brought in a state forum because there are restrictions as to minimum amount in controversy or numbers of plaintiffs in any class prosecution if a federal court is utilized [see 15 U.S.C. § 2310(d)(3); § 502.68[5]]. In addition, the act applies to a particular definition of a "written warranty," one which must have become part of the basis of the original buyer's bargain [15 U.S.C. § 2301(6); § 502.62[2]]. Prior to bringing suit, the plaintiff must first take advantage of any informal dispute settlement mechanism incorporated into the warranty, or, in its absence, afford the defendant a reasonable opportunity to cure the failure to comply with the warranty's provisions or those of the Magnuson-Moss Act otherwise [15 U.S.C. § 2310(a)(3), (d)(1), (e); see § 502.101 (form of notice affording opportunity to comply)].

[1] FORM Allegations for Use in Class or Representative Action Complaint for Violation of Magnuson-Moss Warranty-Federal Trade Commission Improvement Act Based on Failure to Comply with Written Warranty [15 U.S.C. § 2310(d)]

1. This action is brought on behalf of plaintiff and of all other persons similarly situated. The class which plaintiff represents is composed of all consumers who presently own one or more of the consumer products consisting of _____ [describe product], manufactured by defendant and accompanied by a written warranty thereof. This class of consumers is still holding this/these product(s) during its/their stated warranty period, and are either the original purchasers thereof or are proper first or subsequent transferees therefrom. The persons in the class are so numerous[, consisting of approximately _____ individuals,] that the joinder of all of them is impracticable and the disposition of their claims in a class action is a benefit to the parties and to the court.

2. There is a well-defined community of interest in the questions of law and fact involved affecting the parties to be represented:

a. Each product as above-described was purchased originally from suppliers at various locations in California and elsewhere on various dates, beginning on or about _____ [date], and continuing to the present time.

b. Each product was purchased by a consumer who still owns the product or who has transferred it directly or through one or more intermediate transfers to the transferee consumer who presently owns it, and each and every consumer who still or presently owns that product is a plaintiff in this case.

c. Each product was purchased from a supplier for various prices, ranging from approximately $_____ to $_____, and was sold by that supplier with a writing accompanying the product and containing _____ [an affirmation of fact or a promise] that the material and workmanship of the product were entirely free from defects for a period of _____ [specify warranty period] from purchases, which writing became part of the basis of the bargain between the purchasing consumer and the supplier and thus constituted a written warranty. This warranty was made and given in each sale by defendant. The sale contract was oral [in various instances, and written in other instances, as may be established with respect to any individual transaction herein]. A true copy of the written warranty is attached as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference.

d. Each product is equally and inherently defective in the same manner, and remains so without regard to the type of us age or maintenance performed by any plaintiff, whether or not as authorized by defendant; each plaintiff will be damaged in the same manner, to a greater or lesser degree, as may be established with respect to any individual circumstances.

[3. There is no plain, speedy, or adequate remedy other than by maintenance of this class action since plaintiff is informed and believes that the damage to each plaintiff is relatively small (in that _____ (specify damage, e.g., the price of each individual product sold was likely no more than $_____ in any circumstance)), making it economically unfeasible to pursue remedies other than a class action. Consequently there would be a failure of justice but for the maintenance of the present class action.]

4. The written warranty does not contain reference to, nor has defendant established a procedure for, any informal dispute settlement mechanism. However, by this complaint and through this paragraph, plaintiff hereby affords defendant a reasonable opportunity to cure its failure to comply with the provisions of the warranty and to make each product defect-free. Defendant, by virtue of this notice within this complaint, is notified that plaintiff is acting on behalf of the class herein-described. If defendant fails and refuses to so cure its failure to comply, plaintiff will continue in the prosecution of this suit.

[2] Use of Form

The allegations in [1], above, are for use in a class action under the federal Magnuson-Moss Act for failure to comply with provisions of the written warranty under that Act or other provisions of that law [see 15 U.S.C. § 2310(d)]. Allegations 1-3 of the form may be inserted in the form of complaint at § 502.180[1], modifying that form appropriately, after the introductory paragraphs which set forth actual and fictitious parties (Paragraphs 1 and 2). Allegation 4 of this form also may be substituted for Paragraph 6 of the form of complaint in § 502.180[1].

[3] Class Actions Under the Magnuson-Moss Act

The federal Magnuson-Moss Act recognizes that its provisions may be utilized for class action purposes [see 15 U.S.C. § 2310]. The prerequisite of compliance with any existing informal dispute settlement mechanism or, in its absence, of giving defendant reasonable opportunity to cure its failure to comply [15 U.S.C. § 2310(a)(3), (d)(1), (e)], does not apply in a class action, which may be commenced prior to resort to an informal dispute mechanism. However, the class may not proceed in that action except to the extent the court determines necessary to establish the representative capacity of the named plaintiffs, unless the named plaintiffs (on notifying the defendant that they are named plaintiffs in a class action with respect to a warranty obligation) initially resort to that procedure. If the informal dispute settlement mechanism is not available, the reasonable opportunity to be afforded the defendant is to be by the named plaintiffs, who at that time must notify the defendant they are acting on behalf of the class [15 U.S.C. § 2310(e); see § 502.68[1]].

It appears that in the absence of an informal dispute settlement mechanism, compliance with the notification requirement after a class action has commenced in a state court may be by including the final allegation in this form (Paragraph 4). Service on the defendant of a copy of the complaint containing this allegation would thus constitute transmission of the noticed opportunity to cure noncompliance. The defendant would still have an opportunity to contest the representative capacity of the named plaintiff in the time for response to the complaint although prior to the period for reasonable opportunity to cure [see § 502.68[2]].

[4] Compliance With Certain Class Action Requirements

Particular precedents for the bringing of a class action in the state court under the Magnuson-Moss Act that may comply with the procedural requirements of a class suit under California law may be found in the case of Metowski v. Traid Corp. (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 332, 104 Cal. Rptr. 599 , a case arising under the Commercial Code sales law and containing two topics of significant concern: (1) the nature of the class, and (2) the requirement for giving notice.

[2] Use of Form

The complaint in [1], above, is for use in an action against a seller for breach of implied warranty of merchantability [see Com. Code § 2314(1), (2); § 502.24[2]]. The measure of damages is governed by Com. Code § 2714(2), (3), discussed in § 502.28[2]. There must be privity between the plaintiff/buyer and defendant/seller showing on the face of a complaint for breach of implied warranty; otherwise a demurrer to the complaint should be sustained [Anthony v.

Kelsey-Hayes Co. (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 442, 448, 102 Cal. Rptr. 113 ; see also § 502.24[7]].

[3] When Usable in Consumer Litigation

The complaint in [1], above, is available for use in a suit by a consumer, but its use normally would be limited to any situation not covered by the Song-Beverly Act. That act applies the implied warranty of merchantability to every retail sale of "consumer goods" [see Civ. Code § 1792, discussed at § 502.51[1]], but it is not clear that this reference includes clothing and consumables, which are expressly excepted from the definition of consumer goods under the act [see Civ. Code § 1791(a), (c), (d)]. The act's definition of merchantability also does not expressly include the elements of fungible goods' fair average quality or the run of even kind among units, which in any case are usually references to commercial standards absent from retail sales [see Civ. Code § 1791.1(a)]. An action under the Song-Beverly Act otherwise may be preferred because the nature of the consumer protective coverage is broader and the range of possible defenses narrower [see § 502.51[1]; see also § 502.202 (Complaint for Breach of Implied Warranty of Merchantability Under Song-Beverly Act)].

[4] Allegations

The complaint in [1], above, alleges the following:

- That the buyer was a merchant in the kind of goods sold, and that the implied warranty of merchantability arose out of the sale (Paragraph 4) [Com. Code § 2314(1)].
- The breach of the implied warranty (Paragraph 5) [see Com. Code § 2314(2)].
- Notification of the breach (Paragraph 6) [Com. Code § 2607(3)(A)].
- Damages (Paragraphs 7, 8) [Com. Code §§ 2714(2), (3), 2715].

§ 502.201 Allegations for Use in Complaint for Breach of Implied Warranty of Merchantability of Food or Drink Served for Consumption [Com. Code § 2314(1), (2)]

[1] FORM Allegations for Use in Complaint for Breach of Implied Warranty of Merchantability of Food or Drink Served for Consumption [Com. Code § 2314(1), (2)]

1. On or about _____ [date], in _____ [city], California, defendant sold and served to plaintiff for consumption _____ [on the premises or specify other location] _____ [food or drink or both] consisting of _____ [describe quantity of servings and nature of food or drink], and plaintiff purchased that _____ [food or drink or both] from defendant for the amount of $_____ [or describe other consideration]. [The contract of sale between the parties was oral (if sale price was $500 or more, add:, a true copy of a memorandum of which is attached as Exhibit _____ and incorporated by reference).]

2. Defendant was a merchant with respect to the kind of _____ [food or drink or both] served and sold to plaintiff, and there was in the sale and service to plaintiff an implied warranty that the _____ [food or drink or both] was/were merchantable.

3. However, defendant breached that warranty implied in the contract for sale and service of the _____ [food or drink or both] in that _____ [describe breach, e.g., the food could not pass without objection in the trade under the contract description (in that it was _____ (specify, e.g., deleterious and inedible)) or the food and drink were not fit for the ordinary purposes of human consumption (in that _____ (specify, e.g., plaintiff and others of plaintiff's party could not ingest, swallow, or digest any of the ingredients)) or the food was not adequately contained or packaged as the agreement between the parties required (in that _____ (specify, e.g., plaintiff had to transport the food for several miles in an automobile, but the food immediately overran its wrappings, spilled, and became totally inedible and unserviceable)) or the drink did not conform to the _____ (promises or affirmation of fact) made on the _____ (containers or labels) (in that _____ (specify, e.g., the descriptions read "sausages," but the ingredients were purely vegetable compounds)) or other].

[2] Use of Form

The allegations in [1], above, may be substituted for Paragraphs 3-5, respectively, of the form at § 502.200[1] for use in an action against a seller of food or drink for consumption on the premises or elsewhere for damages for breach of the implied warranty of merchantability [see Com. Code § 2314(1), (2)].

[3] Use in Consumer Litigation

Apparently, these allegations should be used only in a suit under the Commercial Code because the Song-Beverly Act does not cover "consumables" within its definition of "consumer goods" [see Civ. Code § 1791(a), (d)]; see also § 502.53[1][f] (definition of implied warranty only covers consumer goods [Civ. Code § 1791.1(a), (b)]). The Magnuson-Moss Act does not contain special provisions as to the nature of implied warranties [see 15 U.S.C. § 2301(7)].

[2] Use of Form

The complaint in [1], above, is for use in action by a retail buyer against a manufacturer, any distributor who has made an express warranty as to the goods, and the retail seller for breach of their respective implied warranties of merchantability [see Civ. Code § 1791.1(d) (measure of damages for implied warranty, discussed at § 502.53[2]); Civ. Code § 1792 (implied warranty of manufacturer and retail seller accompanies all sales unless disclaimed, discussed at § 502.51[1]); Civ. Code § 1795 (liability of person other than manufacture for express warranty, discussed at § 502.42[4]); see also discussion at § 502.160[2] -[6]].

[3] Allegations

The complaint in [1], above, alleges the following:

- The manufacture of the consumer goods (Paragraph 3) [Civ. Code § 1791(a), (j)].

- The evidence of any distributor who made an express warranty for consumer goods purposes (Paragraph 4) [Civ. Code § 1791(e)].

- Sale of the goods to plaintiff by seller (Paragraph 5) [Civ. Code § 1791(l), (n)].

- Accompaniment of the sale by the implied warranty of merchantability of each defendant (Paragraph 6) [Civ. Code § 1792; see Civ. Code § 1795; discussions at §§ 502.42[4], 502.51[1]].

- Breach of the consumer warranty (Paragraph 7).

- Notification of breach by plaintiff to each defendant (Paragraph 8) [see Civ. Code § 1791.1(d), Com. Code § 2607(3)(A); see also [4], below].

- Damages (Paragraphs 9, 10) [Civ. Code § 1791.1(d); Com. Code §§ 2714(2), (3), 2715]. Com. Code §§ 2714(2), (3), 2715 express the measure of damages for accepted goods and are discussed at §§ 502.28[2] and 502.53[1][a], [2]. The buyer also has the option of rejecting noncomforming goods, in which case the measure of damages would be that set forth in Com. Code §§ 2711-2713, the primary discussion of which is in Ch. 500, Sales: Sales Under the Commercial Code .

- Attorney's fees (Paragraph 11) [Civ. Code § 1791.1(d), 1794(d)].

[4] Rights Under Implied Warranty of Merchantability

[a] Song-Beverly Act

Under the Song-Beverly Act the manufacturer's and retail seller's implied warranty of merchantability [see Civ. Code § 1791.1(a)] must accompany every sale of consumer goods as defined in Civ. Code § 1791(a) [Civ. Code § 1792].

Although a different rule may apply when an express warranty is breached, under the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act there is no requirement that the seller be given an opportunity to repair when the implied warranty of merchantability is breached [Mocek v. Alfa Leisure, Inc. (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 402, 406-408, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 546 (affirming judgment in amount of purchase price plus interest upon return of defective travel trailer)]. In addition, if express warranties [see Civ. Code § 1791.2(a)] are made by anyone other than the manufacturer of the goods, the obligation of that person is the same as that imposed on the manufacturer by the act [Civ. Code § 1795]. A buyer of consumer goods injured by a breach of warranty has the remedies provided under Division 2 of the Commercial Code [Civ. Code § 1791.1(d)]. Although it is not clear, this presumably includes the preliminary duty of notifying the defendant of breach of warranty after acceptance of a tender and within a reasonable time of discovery [see Com. Code § 2607(3)(A)]; it also includes both proximate and incidental or consequential damages [Com. Code § 2714(2), (3)]. However, the Song-Beverly Act allows a consumer who prevails in an action for breach of implied warranty to recover reasonable attorney's fees based on actual time expended [Civ. Code §§ 1791.1(d), 1794(d)].

[b] Magnuson-Moss Act

A consumer who is damaged by the failure of a supplier, warrantor, or service contractor [see 15 U.S.C. § 2301(3), (4), (5), (8)] to comply with any obligation under an implied warranty may bring suit under the federal Magnuson-Moss Act [15 U.S.C. § 2310(d)(1)]. However, under that Act an implied warranty means one arising under state law, with certain modifications in requirements as to duration of the warranty if a written warranty exists [15 U.S.C. §§ 2301(7), 2304(a), 2308(a), (b)]. No greater damages are afforded under the federal legislation; however, reasonable attorney's fees are provided for thereunder [15 U.S.C. § 2310(d)(2)] as they are under the Song-Beverly Act [see Civ. Code §§ 1791.1(d), 1794]. Under federal law it is necessary to have recourse first to any informal dispute settlement mechanism applicable in the case or, in its absence, to afford the defendants a reasonable opportunity to cure their failure to comply [15 U.S.C. § 2310(a)(3), (d)(1), (e)].

However, unlike the Song-Beverly Act, the federal remedy may be available to transferees of consumers who are allowed to bring suit under the Magnuson-Moss Act [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 2301(3), 2310(d)(1)]. Should it also be the case that the Song-Beverly Act does not cover clothing and consumables by implied warranty [see Civ. Code §§ 1791(a), (c), (d), 1791.1(a); see also discussion in § 502.53[1][f]], the federal law may be employed with respect to those commodities through the implied warranty of the general sales law [see Com. Code § 2314].

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense to Complaint for Breach of Implied Warranty of Merchantability Based on Exclusion or Modification of Warranty [Com. Code § 2316(2)]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges:

Defendant in the sale to plaintiff _____ [excluded or modified] any implied warranty of merchantability by _____ [expressly stating to plaintiff or delivering to plaintiff a writing, a true copy of which is attached as Exhibit _____ and incorporated by reference, containing a conspicuous statement] that _____ [recite or summarize statement, e.g., "THERE IS NO IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY ON THESE GOODS," or the implied warranty of merchantability was limited only to the fact that the goods would conform to the promises or affirmations of fact made on their container].

[2] Use of Form

The affirmative defense in [1], above, is for use in defending against a claim of breach of implied warranty of merchantability when defendant has directly excluded or has modified the warranty [see Com. Code § 2316(2)]. If the defense appears on the face of the complaint, a demurrer based on this defense may be filed [see Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(e)]. The defense is available only when the exclusion or modification used the word "merchantable" and was conspicuous [see Com. Code § 2316; § 502.24[9]; see also discussion at § 502.200[2] -[4]].

[3] When Useable in Consumer Litigation

This defense is not available in any action prosecuted under the Song-Beverly Act, which invalidates exclusion or modification of an implied warranty of merchantability except as provided in Civ. Code § 1792.3 [see § 502.51[7]]. Nor may it be utilized if defendant had given either a written warranty covered by the Magnuson-Moss Act or a service contract subject to that act at the time of sale or within 90 days thereafter, because in either case an implied warranty may not be excluded or modified [see 15 U.S.C. § 2308(a), (c)].

§ 502.211 Affirmative Defense to Complaint for Breach of Implied Warranty of Merchantability Under Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act Based on Consumer's Waiver of Implied Warranties [Civ. Code § 1792.5]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense to Complaint for Breach of Implied Warranty of Merchantability Under Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act Based on Consumer's Waiver of Implied Warranties [Civ. Code § 1792.5]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges:

Prior to and at the time of sale herein, there was attached to the goods a conspicuous writing, a true copy of which is attached as Exhibit _____ and incorporated by reference, which clearly informs the buyer, and did so inform the plaintiff, in simple and concise language that the goods were being sold on a[n] _____ ["as is" or "with all faults"] basis; that the entire risk as to the quality and performance of the goods were with the buyer; and that should the goods prove defective following their purchase, the buyer and not the manufacturer, distributor, or retailer assumed the entire cost of all necessary servicing or repair. As a result, defendant effectively disclaimed any implied warranty of _____ [merchantability or fitness or both], and by that sale plaintiff effectively waived any that warranty.

[2] Use of Form

The affirmative defense in [1], above, is for use by a manufacturer, distributor, or retail seller defending an action by a retail buyer suing under the Song-Beverly Act for breach of an implied warranty of merchantability or [see § 502.202 (form of complaint)], if applicable, of fitness for consumer goods [see Civ. Code § 1792.5, discussed at § 502.51[8] and at [4][a], below; see also §§ 502.200[2] -[4] and 502.202[2] -[4]].

[3] Demurrer to Answer

The affirmative defense set forth in [1], above, may be subject to demurrer as failing to state facts sufficient to constitute a defense [see Code Civ. Proc. § 430.20(a)] if the answer otherwise reveals on its face that the defendant, in transacting the sale, also gave express warranties [see Civ. Code § 1793].

[4] Disclaimer or Waiver of Implied Warranties

[a] Song-Beverly Act

Under the Song-Beverly Act, no implied warranty of merchantability or fitness may be waived except in the case of a sale of consumer goods on an "as is" or "with all faults" basis when the provisions of the act are complied with [Civ. Code §§ 1792.3, 1792.5]. The act requires particular language of conspicuous warning and disclosure [see Civ. Code § 1792.4]. If present, a sale "as is" or "with all faults" constitutes the buyer's waiver of the warranties of merchantability, and if applicable, fitness [Civ. Code § 1792.5], unless an express warranty also was given [Civ. Code § 1793].

[b] Magnuson-Moss Act

No supplier, under the Magnuson-Moss Act, may disclaim or modify any implied warranty to a consumer as to the consumer product if the supplier makes any written warranty to the consumer person regarding that product. The same is true as to a service contract given at the time of sale or within 90 days thereafter. Implied warranties otherwise may be limited as to duration in compliance with provisions of the act [15 U.S.C. § 2308].

[2] Use of Form

The form affirmative defense in [1], above, is for use in defending against a claim of breach of any implied warranty arising under Division 2 of the Commercial Code when the warranty has been excluded by specific language excluding all implied warranties [see Com. Code § 2316(3)(a)].

[3] When Usable in Consumer Litigation

The defense in [1], above, is not available in the case of implied warranties of merchantability or fitness under the Song-Beverly Act, which requires a written, conspicuous disclaimer that, in addition to stating that the goods are being sold on an "as is" basis, must also state that the entire risk as to quality and performance is on the buyer and that the buyer assumes all cost of repair [see Civ. Code § 1792.4]. For an affirmative defense for use when implied warranties have been properly excluded under the Song-Beverly Act, see § 502.211[1]. In addition, if an express warranty was given which was subject to that act, the implied warranties may not be disclaimed [see Civ. Code § 1793]. Likewise, the form of defense in [1], above, may not be utilized with regard to any type of implied warranty if a written warranty has been covered by the Magnuson-Moss Act or if a service contract subject to that act was given at the time of sale or within 90 days thereafter [see 15 U.S.C. § 2308(a), (c)].

[2] Use of Form

The complaint in [1], above, is for use in an action against a seller for breach of the implied warranty of fitness under either the Commercial Code [see Com. Code § 2315; §§ 502.24[4] and 502.28] or the Song-Beverly Act [see Civ. Code §§ 1792.1, 1792.2, discussed in §§ 502.51[2] and 502.53[2]; see also discussion in [4], below].

[3] Allegations

The complaint in [1], above, alleges the following:

- Plaintiff's need for product with special properties and reliance on defendant to select or furnish a product with those properties at time of sale (Paragraph 3) [Civ. Code § 1791.1(b)(1); Com. Code §§ 2204, 2315].

- Defendant's awareness of plaintiff's need and reliance, giving rise to the implied warranty of fitness (Paragraph 4) [Civ. Code § 1792.2(a); Com. Code § 2315].

- Breach of the implied warranty (Paragraph 5).

- Notification of breach (Paragraph 6) [Com. Code § 2607(3)(A)].

- The damages (Paragraphs 7, 8) [Civ. Code §§ 1791.1(d), 1794(b); Com. Code §§ 2714(2), (3), 2715].

- Any attorney's fees, if applicable (Paragraph 9) [see Civ. Code § 1794(d)].

[4] Distinctions Between Implied Warranty of Fitness in Consumer Cases and in Commercial Cases

A retail buyer of consumer goods from either a manufacturer [see Civ. Code § 1792.1] or a distributor or retailer [see Civ. Code § 1792.2(a)] subject to the Song-Beverly Act receives an implied warranty of fitness if the marketing party has reason to know at the time of the sale that the goods are required for a particular purpose and that the buyer is relying on the marketing party's skill or judgment to select or furnish suitable goods. Although the same remedy from any kind of seller exists under Division 2 of the Commercial Code [see Com. Code § 2315], the retail buyer has two advantages in bringing the action under the Song-Beverly Act:

- The defendant's ability to disclaim or waive the warranty is very limited [see Civ. Code §§ 1792.5, 1793].

- The plaintiff may recover reasonable attorney's fees even in the absence of a contractual provision for attorney's fees [see Civ. Code §§ 1791.1(d), 1794(d)].

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages for Breach of Warranty of Title Based on Seller's Failure to Give Good Title [Com. Code § 2312(1)(a)]

vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR BREACH OF WARRANTY OF _____ [names], Defendants.	)	TITLE
	)	(Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act)
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)	[Amount demanded _____
		(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 502.103[1], Paragraph 1.]

2. [Fictitious defendants. See § 502.103[1], Paragraph 2.]

3. [Sale of goods by defendant to plaintiff. See § 502.200[1], Paragraph 3.]

4. At the time of that sale defendant warranted to plaintiff that defendant was conveying to plaintiff good title to the goods and making rightful transfer of that title to plaintiff.

5. Defendant breached the warranty in that _____ [describe breach, e.g., a certain _____ (name of third party) was actually the true and lawful owner of the goods at the time of their sale to plaintiff, and at the time of the sale the goods were not a lawful part of defendant's inventory for sale and defendant had no true or lawful title to them to rightfully transfer to plaintiff]. As a result, plaintiff in fact did not receive good title to these goods from defendant nor a rightful transfer of title.

6. Plaintiff discovered the breach of warranty on or about _____ [date]. Thereafter, and on or about _____ [date], plaintiff notified defendant of this breach by _____ [writing, in the form of a _____ (letter or telegram or other), a true copy of which is attached to this complaint as Exhibit B and made a part of it or personal visit and communication or telephone call or other].

[EITHER]

7. As a proximate result of this breach of warranty by defendant, plaintiff has been damaged in the amount of $_____ [, the difference at the time and place plaintiff accepted the goods between their value then and that which they would have had if they had been as warranted].

[OR]

7. As a proximate result of this breach of warranty by defendant, plaintiff has been damaged [in the amount of $_____] as a result of special circumstances in which _____ [describe circumstances, e.g., plaintiff transferred a portion of the goods to third-party buyers, who received them in the belief that plaintiff was capable of conveying good title to the goods, and who were commercially embarrassed as a result]. [These damages are not all assessable at this time, but this complaint will be amended to state the damages when plaintiff becomes able to determine them.]

[CONTINUE]

8. Plaintiff has been further damaged as a result of this breach in that _____ [describe incidental or consequential damages, e.g., plaintiff was required to transport the goods to _____ (the true owner or a new market) for the amount of $_____. Defendant also knew that plaintiff needed the goods as demonstration wares, and plaintiff was forced to arrange to procure replacement goods for these purposes through travel and negotiations, in the total amount of $_____].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

1. For damages in the sum of $_____;

2. For damages for _____ [specify incidental or consequential damages, e.g., transportation of goods, and travel expenses] in the sum of $_____;

3. For costs of suit herein incurred, including attorney's fees, if appropriate; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[1] FORM Allegations for Use in Complaint for Damages for Breach of Warranty of Title Based on Seller's Lack of Authority to Transfer Third Person's Title [Com. Code § 2312(1)(a)]

1. At the time of sale alleged in this complaint, defendant modified the warranty of title imposed by law by conveying to plaintiff goods to which a certain _____ [name of third person] held good title and by making rightful transfer thereof to plaintiff.

2. However, defendant breached the modified warranty in that, while _____ [name of third person] was in fact the true owner of those goods, defendant did not have that person's authority to transfer those goods to plaintiff by sale. As a result, plaintiff did not receive a rightful transfer of the title to the goods.

[2] Use of Form

The allegations in [1], above, may be substituted for Paragraphs 4 and 5, respectively, of the form of complaint in § 502.260[1] for use in an action by a buyer against a seller of goods for breach of warranty of making a rightful transfer of the good title of a third person [see Com. Code § 2312(1)(a), discussed in § 502.21[1]].

[1] FORM Allegations for Use in Complaint for Damages for Breach of Warranty of Title Based on Seller's Failure to Deliver Free From Encumbrances [Com. Code § 2312(1)(b)]

1. At the time of the sale alleged in this complaint, defendant warranted to plaintiff, by imposition of law, that defendant was delivering the goods to plaintiff free from any security interest or other lien or encumbrance of which plaintiff at the time of contracting had no knowledge.

2. However, defendant breached that warranty in that _____ [describe breach, e.g., a certain _____ (name of third party) had a security interest in the goods at the time of their sale to plaintiff, representing a debt still outstanding at that time of $_____ owed by defendant to that party, of which encumbrance plaintiff at the time of contracting had no knowledge]. As a result, plaintiff in fact did not receive delivery of the goods free from encumbrance of which plaintiff at time of contracting had no knowledge.

§ 502.270 Affirmative Defense to Complaint for Breach of Warranty of Title Based on Exclusion or Modification of Warranty by Specific Language [Com. Code § 2312(2)]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense to Complaint for Breach of Warranty of Title Based on Exclusion or Modification of Warranty by Specific Language [Com. Code § 2312(2)]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state: TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges that:

At the time of the sale alleged in the complaint, defendant expressly and by specific language _____ [excluded or modified] any warranty of title in the goods by _____ [describe, e.g., expressly stating to plaintiff that defendant could guarantee good title to the goods only as of _____ [date] or handing plaintiff a printed statement at the time of closing, a true copy of which is attached as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference, explaining that defendant only passed on the title that may have attached to the goods prior to their coming into defendant's possession or calling plaintiff's attention to certain signs posted at defendant's closings counter explaining the lack of a warranty of title in these goods, which signs all proclaim as follows: "NO WARRANTY OF TITLE IS CONTAINED IN ANY CONTRACT OF SALE FOR GOODS AT THIS ESTABLISHMENT"].

[2] Use of Form

The affirmative defense in [1], above, may be used by a seller defending against a claim for breach of warranty of title on the ground that the warranty was excluded or modified by specific language [see Com. Code § 2312(2); § 502.21[2]]. Com. Code § 2312(2) also provides that the warranty of title may be excluded or modified by circumstances that give the buyer reason to know that the person selling does not claim title in himself or herself in that the seller is purported to sell only that right or title the seller or a third person may have [see § 502.271].

[3] Demurrer in Lieu of Answer

If the warranty alleged to have been breached is contained in a written contract of sale that has been appended to the complaint and that contains specific language excluding or modifying the warranty of title, defendant may demur on the ground that the complaint fails to state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(e)].

[4] Warranty of Title Is Not Excluded Necessarily With Other Warranties

The warranty of title is not designated by law as an "implied warranty." Thus, it is not excluded in the manner described specifically for implied warranties [UCC Code Comment 6 to Com. Code § 2312; see Com. Code § 2316]. As a result, it is doubtful that a contract of sale that excludes "all warranties, express or implied" necessarily excludes the warranty of title as well.

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state: TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges that:

The circumstances existing at the time of sale gave plaintiff reason to know that defendant _____ [did not claim title personally to or was purporting to sell only what right or title defendant or any third person might have in] the goods, in that _____ [describe circumstances, e.g., defendant informed plaintiff that he/she was selling the goods in a private sale in order to foreclose his/her security interest in the goods and collect on an obligation that a third-party debtor owed to defendant].

The affirmative defense in [1], above, is for use by a seller who is defending against a claim for breach of warranty of title on the ground that the circumstances gave the buyer reason to know that the seller did not claim title in himself or herself or was purporting to sell only the title the seller or a third person might have [*see Com. The notice in [1], above, is for use by a buyer who has been sued by a customer as a result of the seller's breach of the warranty against infringement in a sale of goods to the buyer. [3] Requirement of Notification

If a buyer has a claim for breach of warranty against infringement or the like against the seller, and the buyer is sued as a result of this breach, the buyer must notify the seller of the action within a reasonable time after buyer receives notice of the litigation or be barred from any remedy over for liability established by the litigation [*see Com. [1] FORM Notice to Buyer to Hold Seller Harmless Against Claim Arising Out of Compliance With Specifications of Goods Sold [Com. Code § 2607]

TO: _____ [name of buyer at business address]

YOU ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED that there is a claim of infringement [consisting of _____ (specify claim and name of claimant). This claim is] [as] a result of the compliance of _____ [name of seller and identification, such as address] with specifications furnished thereto by you in connection with your purchase from _____ [name of seller] on or about _____ [date], at _____ [location], of goods consisting of _____ [describe quantity and nature of goods]. You are obligated to hold _____ [name of seller] harmless against this claim.

[Very truly yours,]

_____ [firm name, if any]

By:_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for _____ [name of seller]

Dated: _____.

[2] Use of Form

The notice in [1], above, is for use by a seller who, after furnishing goods to the buyer in compliance with the latter's specifications, discovers that an infringement has resulted and wishes to notify the buyer of that person's obligation to hold the seller harmless [see Com. Code § 2607(3), (6), discussed in § 502.28[4][b] and in [3], below].

[3] Seller's Notice of Infringement When Buyer Furnished Specifications for Goods

The requirements applicable to a buyer to protect the buyer's ability to sue the seller for breach of warranty all apply to a seller whom a buyer must hold harmless against claims for infringement if the buyer has furnished the specifications for the goods sold and the claim arises out of the seller's compliance with those specifications [Com. Code § 2607(6); see Com. Code § 2312(3)]. Because a buyer who seeks to preserve his or her remedy for a claim of infringement after accepting tender of the goods must notify the seller of any breach within a reasonable time after discovery was or should have been made [Com. Code § 2607(3)(A)], a seller who seeks to preserve his or her remedy against the buyer after having delivered goods to the buyer, and having become aware that an infringement may have resulted by complying with specifications for the goods furnished by the buyer, must notify the buyer of the possible claim. The forms dealing with the other applicable requirements of the buyer-notice of being sued for infringement [see § 502.280[1]], and notice to come in and defend [see § 502.102[1]], may be adapted for purposes of the seller desiring to be held harmless [see Com. Code § 2607(3)(B), (5)(A), (6)], with reference to the form in [1], above, for any special language.

[4] Ability of Buyer to Demand Control Over Litigation

In the same manner as a seller who has been notified or informed that the buyer has been sued as a result of the seller's breach of warranty, a buyer who is obligated to hold a seller harmless for infringement arising out of the seller's compliance with specifications furnished by the buyer may make a demand for control of the action [see Com. Code § 2607(5)(B), (6)]. The form in § 502.282[1] (seller's demand for control of litigation commenced against buyer) may be adapted for this purpose.

Code § 2607(5)(B)*, discussed in § 502.28[4][b] and in [3], below].

[3] Seller's Right to Demand Control

If the buyer has a claim against the seller for breach of the warranty against infringement or the like, for which the buyer has been sued, the seller may demand in writing that the buyer turn over to the seller control of the litigation, including settlement, or else be barred from any remedy over [Com. Code § 2607(5)(B); see Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]. If the seller also agrees to bear all expense and to satisfy any adverse judgment, the buyer is so barred unless he or she turns over control after seasonable receipt of the demand [*Com. 3. [Sale of goods by defendant to plaintiff. See § 502.200[1], Paragraph 3.]

4. Defendant was a merchant regularly dealing in goods of the kind which were sold to plaintiff and, at the time of that sale, warranted to plaintiff, by imposition of law, that the goods would be delivered free of the rightful claim of any third person by way of infringement or the like.

5. However, defendant breached that warranty in that each of the goods sold actually infringed on a _____ [patent or trademark] _____ [owned by or licensed to or assigned to] _____ [name of third party]. Plaintiff has been further damaged as a result of this breach in that _____ [describe incidental and consequential damages, e.g., defendant had to retain the legal services of a patent attorney to negotiate a settlement in lieu of full prosecution by the owner of the _____ (patent or trademark), resulting in reasonable legal expenses in the amount of $_____. Plaintiff incurred additional expenses in traveling and negotiating for substitute goods in the amount of $_____, as a proximate result of plaintiff's inability to deliver those goods which it was required to turn over to _____ (name of third-party owner, licensee, or assignee) as alleged in Paragraph 7, and in purchasing replacement goods in the amount of $_____ over what those goods had cost from defendant].

The complaint in [1], above, is for use in an action by any buyer against a seller of goods for breach of warranty against infringement [see Com. Code § 2312(3), discussed in § 502.22].

[3] Allegations

The complaint in [1], above, alleges the following:

- That defendant was a merchant regularly dealing in the goods sold and thereby warranting their freedom from infringement on delivery (Paragraph 4) [Com. Code § 2312(3)].

- Breach of the warranty against infringement (Paragraph 5).

- Notification of the breach to defendant by plaintiff (Paragraph 6) [Com. Code § 2607(3)(A)].

- Additional notification to defendant of any suit against plaintiff for infringement which resulted in liability therefor (Paragraph 7) [Com. Code § 2607(3)(B)].

- Proximate damages for breach of the warranty of infringement (Paragraph 8) [Com. Code § 2714(2)].

- Incidental and consequential damages (Paragraph 9) [Com. Code §§ 2714(3), 2715].

[4] Attorney's Fees as Consequential Damages

The allegation of consequential damages in Paragraph 9 of the form in [1], above, includes an example of a claim for attorneys' fees incurred in litigation commenced by the third party as a result of the seller's infringement. These fees are fees that are a reasonably foreseeable consequence of the seller's breach. Although no California decision has held that attorney's fees in another action may be recovered in a buyer's action for breach of the warranty against infringement, in an analogous action for damages for breach of the warranty of title in the sale of a gun, it was held that attorney's fees incurred in defending against criminal charges brought against the buyer for possessing the gun to which the seller did not have title were reasonably foreseeable damages [see De La Hoya v. Slim's Gun Shop (1970) 80 Cal. App. 3d Supp. 6, 146 Cal. Rptr. 68] . For discussion of when attorney's fees may be recovered in an action on a contract, see § 502.103[6].

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges:

At the time of sale and as part of their agreement, defendant and plaintiff agreed that defendant did not guarantee that the goods would be delivered free of the rightful claim of any third person under any _____ [trademark or patent] licenses, assignments, or agreements to the contrary because _____ [describe, e.g., defendant was not the manufacturer or designated dealer in the goods and was not aware of the circumstances of their production or distribution].

[2] Use of Form

The affirmative defense in [1], above, is for use in defending against a claim of breach of warranty against infringement by a merchant otherwise regularly dealing in goods of the kind in question, when an agreement between the parties precluded a warranty against infringement from arising in the sale [*see Com. AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges:

Chapter 503 SALES: SECURED TRANSACTIONS
PART I. SCOPE

§ 503.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter covers litigation arising out of transactions (usually sales or loans) secured by (or representing security interests in) personal property or fixtures. The Legal Background is divided into three parts:

- Part A [see § 503.10 et seq.] gives relevant definitions and discusses the transition provisions applicable to revised Division 9 of the Commercial Code, which becomes operative on July 1, 2001.

- Part B [see § 503.20 et seq.] discusses the general features of a secured transaction, including creation, perfection, and priorities of security interests.

- Part C [see § 503.40 et seq.] adds information relative to transactions involving specific classes of collateral.

The chapter includes the following forms for use by debtors [Part IV. A.], secured parties [Part IV. B.], and other persons claiming interests in the collateral [Part IV. C.]:

- Complaints for use by debtors relating to enforcement of duties owed by the secured party to the debtor: to provide information to the debtor [see § 503.100]; to preserve collateral in the secured party's possession [see § 503.101]; to prevent disposition of the collateral in derogation of the debtor's right of redemption [see § 503.102]; to require disposition of the collateral after the debtor's rejection of a proposal that the secured party retain the collateral in full satisfaction of the secured obligation [see § 503.103]; for conversion based on the secured party's failure to make timely disposition of collateral that consists of consumer goods [see § 503.104]; and for accounting and payment of surplus remaining after the secured party's disposition of the collateral [see § 503.105].

- Affirmative defense forms for use by debtors based on debtor's rights to trade fixtures, which did not become collateral [see § 503.110]; on the secured party's failure to dispose of the collateral in a commercially reasonable manner, which will prevent the secured party from obtaining a deficiency judgment [see § 503.111]; on the fact that a disposition to the secured party or an affiliate or related entity did not realize an much as disposition to an unrelated party would have realized [see § 503.112]; and an application (motion) for a stay of a proceeding to enforce a security interest on the ground that the defendant is on active military service [see § 503.113].

- A form for use by a secured party to comply with its obligations under Com. Code § 9616 by explaining how the secured party calculated any deficiency or surplus [see § 503.122].

- Complaints for use by secured parties against debtors for damages and foreclosure or possession of collateral when the debtor has defaulted [see § 503.120]; for an accounting and payment of proceeds from the disposition of the collateral to the secured party when the debtor has failed to do so [see § 503.121]; and for a deficiency judgment after foreclosure [see § 503.123; see also § 503.124 (optional allegation for use when deficiency remains after collection of collateral that is accounts or instruments)].

- Complaints for use by secured parties against other secured parties for judicial declaration of the order of priorities of competing security interests [see § 503.130]; for possession of collateral, asserting the priority of a nonpurchase money security interest perfected by filing first over the nonpurchase money security interest of a secured party in possession of collateral [see § 503.131]; for possession of collateral, asserting the priority a purchase money security interest in inventory over the nonpurchase money security interest of a secured party in possession of collateral [see § 503.132]; in intervention, for use by a consignor to assert priority to the consigned goods [see § 503.133]; and for use by a purchaser of chattel paper to quiet title to competing security interests in that chattel paper [see § 503.134].

- An affirmative defense for use by a secured party to raise the debtor's renunciation or modification of rights after default [see § 503.150].

- A complaint in intervention asserting the intervenor's rights in fixtures prior to the rights of either the secured party or the debtor [see § 503.160].

- A complaint for declaratory relief to determine the priority of a buyer in the ordinary course of business over the interest of a party claiming a security interest in inventory [see § 503.161].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Introduction and Definitions

44-503 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 503.10

§ 503.10 Governing Statutes

[1] In General

The law governing all transactions secured by personal property (including fixtures and some agricultural liens, but excluding some investment securities to the extent that security interest in those securities are governed by Division 8) and disputes arising from these transactions is almost exclusively contained in Division 9 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 9101 et seq.; see Com. Code § 9701 et seq. (for certain transitional provisions, discussed in [2], below)], known as the "Uniform Commercial Code-Secured Transactions" [Com. Code § 9101]. The former version of Division 9 was repealed effective July 1, 2001, and a new, extensively revised version of Division 9 took effect on that date [see Stats. 1999, ch. 991, and discussion of transition provisions in [2], below]. In this chapter, the term "revised Division 9" refers to the version of Division 9 that took effect on July 1, 2001. The version of Division 9 that was effective prior to that date is referred to as "former Division 9."

Unless governed by the particular provisions authorizing the issuance of bonds, notes, commercial paper, leases, or other evidences of indebtedness by a public body, Gov. Code § 5450 et seq. govern a pledge of collateral by a public body to secure the evidence of indebtedness.

If the buyer or borrower entered military service after the obligation was incurred, the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act [50 U.S.C. App. § 501 et seq.] will limit the fees charged and the creditor's rights to enforce the obligation [see 50 U.S.C. App. §§ 511, 514, 516 (definitions and persons protected)]. California law similarly provides temporary protection from creditors for eligible military service members during qualifying periods of military service [see Mil. & Vet. Code § 400 et seq.; Stats. 2002, Ch. 60]. For discussion of both the federal act (applicable to members of the regular armed forces) and the California law (applicable to members of the national guard on active service and members of the military reserve on active duty), see Ch. 501, Sales: Retail Installment Sales, §§ 501.60 et seq, 501.300. For an application under these statutes to stay a proceeding to enforce a security interest while the defendant is on active military service, see § 503.113.

There are special liens in favor of suppliers of perishable agricultural commodities and inventories and proceeds derived from them [7 U.S.C. §§ 499a, 499e(c)].

So-called finance leases first effective between the parties after 1989 may be governed by Division 10 [Com. Code § 10101 et seq.], which is discussed in Ch. 413, Personal Property Leases . Whether a transaction creates a lease or a security interest is determined by the facts of each case in accordance with the criteria set forth in Com. Code § 1203, discussed in § 503.11[22]. Division 9 governs aspects of security interests created under Com. Code § 10508(e) [see Com. Code §§ 9109(a)(5), 9110, and discussions in §§ 503.12[1] and 503.40[1]].

[2] Transition Provisions Relative to Revised Division 9 Effective July 1, 2000

[a] Application to Pre-effective Date Transactions and Liens

As noted in [1], above, a revised version of Division 9 became effective on July 1, 2001 [see Stats. 1999, ch. 991]. Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code §§ 9701-9709, revised Division 9 applies to a transaction or lien within its scope, even if the transaction or lien was entered into or created before July 1, 2001 [Com. Code § 9702(a)]. With respect to transactions and liens that were validly entered into or created before July 1, 2001, and that were not governed by former Division 9, but that would be subject to revised Division 9 if they had been entered into or created after July 1, 2001, the rights, duties, and interests flowing from those transactions and liens remain valid after July 1, 2001, except as otherwise provided with respect to actions, cases, or proceedings commenced before July 2, 2001 [see Com. Code § 9702(c), below], and except as provided in Com. Code §§ 9703-9709 [Com. Code § 9702(b)(1)]. Subject to the same exceptions, those transactions and liens may be terminated, completed, consummated, and enforced as required or permitted by revised Division or by the law that otherwise would apply if revised Division 9 had not taken effect [Com. Code § 9702(b)(2)].

Revised Division 9 does not affect an action, case, or proceeding commenced before July 1, 2001 [Com. Code § 9702(c)].

[b] Security Interests Perfected Before Effective Date

A security interest that is enforceable immediately before July 1, 2001, and would have priority over the rights of a person that becomes a lien creditor at that time, is a perfected security interest under revised Division 9 if, on July 1, 2001, the applicable requirements for enforceability and perfection under revised Division 9 are satisfied without further action [Com. Code § 9703(a)]. Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9705 (discussed in [d][3], below), if, immediately before July 1, 2001, a security interest is enforceable and would have priority over the rights of a person that becomes a lien creditor at that time, but the applicable requirements for enforceability or perfection under revised Division 9 are not satisfied on July 1, 2001, the security interest is a perfected security interest until July 1, 2002. Such a security interest remains enforceable after July 1, 2002, only if the security interest becomes enforceable under Com. Code § 9203 (discussed in § 503.21[2]) before July 1, 2002, and remains perfected after July 1, 2002, only if the applicable requirements for perfection under revised Division 9 are satisfied before July 1, 2002 [Com. Code § 9703(b)].

ILLUSTRATION:

Action Required Within One Year for Interest to Remain Perfected. A pre-effective date possessory security interest in instruments was perfected by bailee's receipt of notification under former Com. Code § 9305. The bailee did not, however, acknowledge that it holds for the security party's benefit as required by revised Com. Code § 9313(c). Will the security interest remain perfected after July 1, 2002? No. In order for the security interest to remain perfected, the bailee will have to authenticate a record acknowledging that it holds for the secured party (or appropriate steps must be taken to perfect the interest by some other method) within the one-year period following the effective date. Otherwise, the security interest becomes unperfected at the end of that period [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9703].

[c] Security Interest That Was Enforceable But Not Perfected Before Effective Date

A security interest that is enforceable immediately before July 1, 2001, but which would be subordinate to the rights of a person that becomes a lien creditor at that time, remains an enforceable security interest until July 1, 2002 [Com. Code § 9704(1)] and remains enforceable thereafter if the security interest becomes enforceable under Com. Code § 9203 (discussed in § 503.21[2]) on July 1, 2001, or on July 1, 2002 [Com. Code § 9704(2)]. That security interest becomes perfected either (1) without further action, on July 1, 2001, if the applicable requirements for perfection under revised Division 9 are satisfied on or before that time, or (2) when the applicable requirements for perfection are satisfied if the requirements are satisfied after that time [Com. Code § 9704(3)].

[i] Action Other Than Filing That Perfects Security Interest

Com. Code § 9705 primarily addresses situations in which a perfection step is taken under former Division 9 or other applicable law before July 1, 2001, but the security interest does not attach until after that date [see UCC Comment 1 to Com. Code § 9705]. If action, other than the filing of a financing statement, is taken before July 1, 2001, and the action would have resulted in priority of a security interest over the rights of a person that becomes a lien creditor had the security interest become enforceable before July 1, 2001, the action is effective to perfect a security interest that attaches under revised Division 9 on or before July 1, 2002. An attached security interest becomes unperfected on July 1, 2002, unless the security interest becomes a perfected security interest under revised Division 9 before that date [Com. Code § 9705(a)].

[ii] Financing Statement Filed Before July 1, 2001

The filing of a financing statement before July 1, 2001, is effective to perfect a security interest to the extent the filing would satisfy the applicable requirements for perfection under revised Division 9 [Com. Code § 9705(b)]. Com. Code § 9705(b) deals with financing statements that were not effective under former Division 9, but would perfect a security interest under revised Division 9. Examples include financing statements that do not accurately describe the collateral or were filed in the wrong place [see UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9705; but see Com. Code § 9706, which determines whether financing statement filed before effective date operates to continue effectiveness of financing statement filed in another officer before effective date].

[iii] Filing in Jurisdiction or Office Applicable Under Prior Law

Revised Division 9 does not render ineffective an effective financing statement that, before July 1, 2001, is filed and satisfies the applicable requirements for perfection under the law of the jurisdiction governing perfection as provided in former Com. Code § 9103. However, with limited exceptions [see Com. Code §§ 9705(d), (e), 9706], the financing statement ceases to be effective at the earlier of (1) the time the financing statement would have ceased to be effective under the law of the jurisdiction in which it is filed, or (2) June 30, 2006 [Com. Code § 9705(c)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The effect of Com. Code § 9705(c) is that during the early years of revised Division 9, it may be necessary to search not only in the filing office of the jurisdiction whose law governs perfection under revised Division 9, but also (if different) in the jurisdiction and filing office(s) designated by former Division 9. Further, a financing statement filed before July 1, 2001, may remain effective beyond July 1, 2006 if Com. Code § 9705(d) (concerning continuation statements), Com. Code § 9705(e) (concerning transmitting utilities), or Com. Code § 9706 (initial financing statements that operate to continue pre-effective-date financing statements) applies [see UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9705].

Com. Code § 9705(c)(2) applies to a financing statement that, before July 1, 2001, is filed against a transmitting utility and satisfies the applicable requirements for perfection under the law of the jurisdiction governing perfection as provided in former Com. Code § 9103 only to the extent that revised Com. Code §§ 9301-9342 provide that the law of a jurisdiction other than the jurisdiction in which the financing statement is filed governs perfection of a security interest in collateral covered by the financing statement [Com. Code § 9705(e)].

Com. Code § 9705(c) is an exception to Com. Code § 9703(b). Under the general rule in Com. Code § 9703(b) (discussed in [b], above), a security interest that is enforceable and perfected on July 1, 2001, remains perfected for a year after that even if the security interest is not enforceable under revised Division 9 and the applicable requirements for perfection under revised Division 9 have not been met. However, in some cases, Com. Code § 9705(c) may shorten the one-year period of perfection; in others, if the security interest is enforceable under Com. Code § 9203, it may extend the period of perfection [UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9705].

[iv] Effect of Continuation Statements

A financing statement filed before July 1, 2001, may be continued only by filing in the state and office designated by revised Division 9 [UCC Comment 5 to Com. Code § 9705]. The filing of a continuation statement after July 1, 2001, does not continue the effectiveness of the financing statement filed before July 1, 200 [Com. Code § 9705(d)]. Instead, an initial financing statement must be filed under Com. Code § 9706 [UCC Comment 5 to Com. Code § 9705]. However, on the timely filing of a continuation statement after July 1, 2001, and in accordance with the law of the jurisdiction governing perfection as provided in Com. Code §§ 9301-9342, the effectiveness of a financing statement filed in the same office in that jurisdiction before July 1, 2001, continues for the period provided by the law of that jurisdiction [Com. Code § 9705(d)].

A financing statement that includes a financing statement filed before July 1, 2001, and a continuation statement filed after July 1, 2001, is effective only to the extent that it satisfies the requirements of Com. Code §§ 9501-9528 for an initial financing statement [Com. Code § 9705(f)].

[e] When Initial Financing Statement Suffices to Continue Effectiveness of Financing Statement

The filing of an initial financing statement in the office specified in Com. Code § 9501 continues the effectiveness of a financing statement filed before July 1, 2001, if all of the following conditions are satisfied [Com. Code § 9706(a)]:

- The filing of an initial financing statement in that office would be effective to perfect a security interest under revised Division 9.

- The pre-effective-date financing statement was filed in an office in another state or another office in California.

- The initial financing statement satisfies Com. Code § 9706(c), which requires that the initial financing statement do all of the following:

  - Satisfy the requirements of Com. Code §§ 9501-9528 for an initial financing statement.

  - Identify the pre-effective-date financing statement by indicating the office in which the financing statement was filed and providing the dates of filing and file numbers, if any, of the financing statement and of the most recent continuation statement filed with respect to the financing statement.

  - Indicate that the pre-effective-date financing statement remains effective.

The filing of an initial financing statement under Com. Code § 9706(a) before July 1, 2001, continues the effectiveness of the pre-effective-date financing statement for five years [Com. Code § 9706(b)(1) (adopting period provided in former Com. Code § 9403 with respect to financing statement)]. If the initial financing statement under Com. Code § 9706(a) is filed after July 1, 2001, the effectiveness of the pre-effective-date financing statement continues for the period provided in Com. Code § 9515 with respect to an initial financing statement [Com. Code § 9706(b)(2)].

[f] Amendment of Pre-Effective Date Financing Statement

A "pre-effective-date financing statement" means a financing statement filed before July 1, 2001 [Com. Code § 9707(a)]. After that date, a person may add or delete collateral covered by, continue or terminate the effectiveness of, or otherwise amend the information provided in, a pre-effective-date financing statement only in accordance with the law of the jurisdiction governing perfection as provided in Com. Code §§ 9301-9342. However, the effectiveness of a pre-effective-date financing statement also may be terminated in accordance with the law of the jurisdiction in which the financing statement is filed [Com. Code § 9707(b)].

Except as otherwise provided by Com. Code § 9706(d), if California law governs perfection of a security interest, the information in a pre-effective-date financing statement may be amended after the date this section becomes operative only if any of the following occur [Com. Code § 9707(c)]:

- The pre-effective-date financing statement and an amendment are filed in the office specified in Com. Code § 9501.

- An amendment is filed in the office specified in Com. Code § 9501 concurrently with, or after the filing in that office of, an initial financing statement that satisfies Com. Code § 9706(c).

- An initial financing statement that provides the information as amended and satisfies Com. Code § 9706(c) is filed in the office specified in Com. Code § 9501.

If California law governs perfection of a security interest, the effectiveness of a pre-effective-date financing statement may be continued only under Com. Code § 9705(d) and (f) or Com. Code § 9706 [Com. Code § 9707(d)]. Whether or not California law governs the perfection of a security interest, the effectiveness of a pre-effective-date financing statement filed in California may be terminated after the date that this section becomes operative by filing a termination statement in the office in which the pre-effective-date financing statement is filed, unless an initial filing statement that satisfies Com. Code § 9706(c) has been filed in the office specified by the law of the jurisdiction governing perfection as provided in Com. Code §§ 9301-9342 as the office in which to file a financing statement [Com. Code § 9707(e)].

[g] Persons Entitled to File Initial Financing Statements or Continuation Statements

A person may file an initial financing statement or a continuation statement under Com. Code §§ 9701-9709 if the secured party of record authorizes the filing and the filing is necessary under Com. Code §§ 9701-9709 either (1) to continue the effectiveness of a financing statement filed before July 1, 2001, or (2) to perfect or continue the perfection of a security interest [Com. Code § 9708].

[h] Priority

Revised Division 9 determines priority of conflicting claims to collateral. However, if the relative priorities of the claims were established before July 1, 2001, former Division 9 determines priority [Com. Code § 9709(a)]. For purposes of Com. Code § 9322(a), the priority of a security interest that becomes enforceable under Com. Code § 9203 dates from July 1, 2001, if the security interest is perfected under revised Division 9 by the filing of a financing statement before July 1, 2001, which would not have been effective to perfect the security interest under former Division 9. The foregoing does not apply to conflicting security interests each of which is perfected by the filing of such a financing statement [Com. Code § 9709(b)].

§ 503.11 Definitions

[1] "Account"

[a] Transactions Out of Which Account May Arise

"Account," except as used in "account for," means a right to payment of a monetary obligation, whether or not earned by performance, for any of the following [Com. Code § 9102(a)(2)]:

- Property that has been or is to be sold, leased, licensed, assigned, or otherwise disposed of.
- Services rendered or to be rendered.
- A policy of insurance issued or to be issued.
- A secondary obligation incurred or to be incurred.
- Energy provided or to be provided.
- The use or hire of a vessel under a charter or other contract.
- Arising out of the use of a credit or charge card or information contained on or for use with the card.
- As winnings in a lottery or other game of chance operated or sponsored by a state, governmental unit of a state, or person licensed or authorized to operate the game by a state or governmental unit of a state.

"Account" includes health care insurance receivables [Com. Code § 9102(a)(2)].

[b] Exclusions

"Account" does not include the following [Com. Code § 9102(a)(2)]:

- Rights to payment evidenced by chattel paper or an instrument.
- Commercial tort claims.
- Deposit accounts.
- Investment property.
- Letter-of-credit rights or letters of credit.
- Rights to payment for money or funds advanced or sold, other than rights arising out of the use of a credit or charge card or information contained on or for use with the card.

[2] "Account Debtor"

"Account debtor" means a person obligated on an account, chattel paper, or general intangible. The term does not include persons obligated to pay a negotiable instrument, even if the instrument constitutes part of chattel paper [Com. Code § 9102(a)(3)].

[3] "Agricultural Lien"

"Agricultural lien" means an interest in farm products that has all of the following characteristics [Com. Code § 9102(a)(5)]:

- It secures payment or performance of an obligation for either goods or services furnished in connection with a debtor's farming operation or rent on property leased by a debtor in connection with its farming operation.
- It is created by statute in favor of a person that either in the ordinary course of its business furnished goods or services to a debtor in connection with a debtor's farming operation or leased real property to a debtor in connection with the debtor's farming operation.
- Its effectiveness does not depend on the person's possession of the personal property.

[4] "Authenticate"

"Authenticate" means to do either of the following [Com. Code § 9102(a)(7)]:

- To sign.
- To execute or otherwise adopt a symbol, or encrypt or similarly process a record in whole or in part, with the present intent of the authenticating person to identify the person and adopt or accept a record.

[5] "Chattel Paper;" "Electronic Chattel Paper"

"Chattel paper" means a record or records that evidence both a monetary obligation and a security interest in specific goods, a security interest in specific goods and software used in the goods, a security interest in specific goods and license of software used in the goods, a lease of specific goods, or a lease of specific goods and license of software used in the goods. For this purpose, "monetary obligation" means a monetary obligation secured by the goods or owed under a lease of the goods and includes a monetary obligation with respect to software used in the goods. The term does not include either of the following [Com. Code § 9102(a)(11)]:

- Charters or other contracts involving the use or hire of a vessel

- Records that evidence a right to payment arising out of the use of a credit or charge card or information contained on or for use with the card.

If a transaction is evidenced by records that include an instrument or series of instruments, the group of records taken together constitutes chattel paper [Com. Code § 9102(a)(11)].

"Electronic chattel paper" is chattel paper evidenced by a record or records consisting of information stored in an electronic medium [Com. Code § 9102(a)(31)].

[6] "Collateral"

"Collateral" means the property subject to a security interest or agricultural lien. The term includes all of the following [Com. Code § 9102(a)(12)]:

- Proceeds to which a security interest attaches.

- Accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, and promissory notes that have been sold.

- Goods that are the subject of a consignment.

[7] "Consignment"

For purposes of revised Division 9 [Com. Code § 9109(a)(4)], "consignment" means a transaction, regardless of its form, in which a person delivers goods, other than goods that were consumer goods immediately before delivery, to a merchant who is not an auctioneer for the purpose of sale and all of the following conditions are satisfied [Com. Code § 9102(a)(20); see Com. Code § 2326 (consignment of consumer goods)]:

- The merchant deals in goods of that kind under a name other than the name of the person making delivery.

- The merchant is not generally known by its creditors to be substantially engaged in selling the goods of others.

- With respect to each delivery, the aggregate value of the goods is $1,000 or more at the time of delivery.

- The transaction does not create a security interest that secures an obligation.

[8] "Consumer Transaction;" "Consumer--goods Transaction"

"Consumer transaction" means a transaction in which [Com. Code § 9102(a)(26)]:

- An individual incurs an obligation primarily for personal, family, or household purposes;

- A security interest secures the obligation; and

- The collateral is held or acquired primarily for personal, family, or household purposes.

The term "consumer transaction" includes consumer-goods transactions [Com. Code § 9102(a)(26)]. "Consumer-goods transaction" means a consumer transaction in which both of the following conditions are satisfied [Com. Code § 9102(a)(24)]:

- An individual incurs an obligation primarily for personal, family, or household purposes.

- A security interest in consumer goods secures the obligation [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(23) (defining "consumer goods," set forth in [14][d], below].

[9] Debtors and Other Obligors

[a] "Debtor;" "New Debtor;" "Original Debtor"

"Debtor" means any of the following [Com. Code § 9102(a)(28)]:

- A person having an interest, other than a security interest or other lien, in the collateral, whether or not the person is an obligor.

- A seller of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes.

- A consignee.

By including in the definition of "debtor" all persons with a property interest (other than a security interest or other lien on collateral), the definition includes transferees of collateral, whether or not the secured party knows of the transfer or the transferee's identity. Exculpatory provisions [see Com. Code §§ 9605, 9628] protect the secured party in that circumstance [U.C.C. Comment 2.a. to Com. Code § 9102].

"New debtor" means a person that becomes bound as debtor under Com. Code § 9203(d), discussed in § 503.21[2][b], by a security agreement previously entered into by another person [Com. Code § 9102(a)(56)]. "Original debtor," except as used in Com. Code § 9310(c), means a person that, as debtor, entered into a security agreement to which a new debtor has become bound under Com. Code § 9203(d) [Com. Code § 9102(a)(60)].

[b] "Consumer Debtor;" "Consumer Obligor"

"Consumer debtor" means a debtor in a consumer transaction [Com. Code § 9102(a)(22); see Com. Code § 9102(a)(26) (consumer transaction, set forth in [8], above); Com. Code § 9102(a)(24) (consumer goods transaction, set forth in [8], above)]. "Consumer obligor" means an obligor who is an individual and who incurred the obligation as part of a transaction entered into primarily for personal, family, or household purposes [Com. Code § 9102(a)(25)].

[c] "Obligor;" "Secondary Obligor"

"Obligor" means a person that, with respect to an obligation secured by a security interest in or an agricultural lien on the collateral [Com. Code § 9102(a)(59)]:

- Owes payment or other performance of the obligation;

- Has provided property other than the collateral to secure payment or other performance of the obligation; or

- Is otherwise accountable in whole or in part for payment or other performance of the obligation.

The term "obligor" does not include issuers or nominated persons under a letter of credit [Com. Code § 9102(a)(59)].

A "secondary obligor" is an obligor to the extent that either of the following conditions are satisfied [Com. Code § 9102(a)(71)]:

- The obligor's obligation is secondary [see U.C.C. Comment 2.a. to Com. Code § 9102 (one must consult the law of suretyship to determine whether an obligation is secondary)].

- The obligor has a right of recourse with respect to an obligation secured by collateral against the debtor, another obligor, or property of either.

[d] Classes and Distinctions

The definitions of "debtor," "obligor," and "secondary obligor" in revised Division 9 distinguish, mostly for purposes of default and enforcement, among three classes of persons [U.C.C. Comment 2.a. to Com. Code § 9102]:

- Persons who may have a stake in the proper enforcement of the security interest by virtue of their non-lien property interest (typically ownership interest). These persons are debtors.

- Persons who may have a stake in the proper enforcement of the security interest because of their obligation to pay the secured debt. These persons are secondary obligors if any portion of the obligation is secondary or if the obligor has a right to recourse against the debtor or another obligor with respect to an obligation secured by the collateral.

- Persons who have an obligation to pay the secured debt but have no stake in proper enforcement of the security interest. These persons are neither debtors nor secondary obligors. With one exception (Com. Code § 9616, as it relates to consumer obligations), the rights and duties provided by Com. Code § 9601 et seq. (default), affect non-debtors only if they are "secondary obligors."

[10] "Deposit Account"

"Deposit account" means a demand, time, savings, passbook, or similar account maintained with a bank (or other organization that is engaged in the business of banking, including a savings bank, savings and loan association, credit unions, or trust company). The term does not include investment property or accounts evidenced by an instrument [Com. Code § 9102(a)(29); see Com. Code § 9102(a)(8) (defining "bank"].

[11] "Document;" "Document of Title"

"Document" means a document of title or a receipt of the type described in Com. Code § 7201(b) (receipt for goods stored under a statute requiring a bond against withdrawal or a license for the issuance of receipts in the nature of warehouse receipts) [Com. Code § 9102(a)(30)].

"Document of title" includes a bill of lading, dock warrant, dock receipt, warehouse receipt, gin ticket, or compress receipt, and any other document that, in the regular course of business or financing, is treated as adequately evidencing that the person entitled under the document [see Com. Code § 7102(a)(9)] has the right to receive, hold, and dispose of the document and the goods it covers. To be a document of title, a document must purport to be issued by a bailee and purport to cover goods in the bailee's possession that either are identified as or are fungible portions of an identified mass [Com. Code § 1201(b)(16)].

[12] "General Intangible;" "Payment Intangible"

"General intangible" means any personal property, including things in action, other than accounts, chattel paper, commercial tort claims, deposit accounts, documents, goods, instruments, investment property, letter-of-credit rights, letters of credit, money, and oil, gas, or other minerals before extraction. The term includes payment intangibles and software [Com. Code § 9102(a)(42)]. "General intangible" is the residual category of personal property, including things in action, that is not included in the other defined types of collateral. Examples are various categories of intellectual property and the right to payment of a loan of funds that is not evidenced by chattel paper or an instrument [UCC Comment 5d to Com. Code § 9102]. "Software" is a general intangible for purposes of Division 9. Thus, except as otherwise provided, statutory provisions applicable to general intangibles apply to payment intangibles and software [UCC Comment 5d to Com. Code § 9102]. "Things in action" includes rights that arise under a license of intellectual property, such as the right to exploit the property without liability for infringement.

The definition in revised Division 9 excludes commercial tort claims, deposit accounts, and letter of credit rights. Each of the foregoing is a separate type of collateral. One important consequence of this exclusion is that tortfeasors (commercial tort claims), banks (deposit accounts), and persons obligated under letters of credit (letters of credit) are not "account debtors" having the rights and obligations set forth in Com. Code §§ 9104, 9105, and 9106. In particular, tortfeasors, banks, and persons obligated under letters of credit are not obligated to pay an assignee (secured party) on receipt of the notification described in Com. Code § 9404(a). Another important consequence relates to the adequacy of the description in the security agreement [see Com. Code § 9108; UCC Comment 5d to Com. Code § 9102].

A right to payment of money is often buttressed by ancillary covenants, such as covenants in a purchase agreement or note or mortgage requiring insurance on the collateral or forbidding removal of the collateral, or covenants to preserve the creditworthiness of the promisor, such as covenants restricting dividends and the like. Division 9 does not treat these ancillary rights separately from the rights to payment to which they related. For example, attachment and perfection of an assignment of a right to payment of a monetary obligation, whether it be an account or a payment intangible, also carries these ancillary rights [UCC Comment 5d to Com. Code § 9102].

"Payment intangible" means a general intangible under which the account debtor's principal obligation is a monetary obligation [Com. Code § 9102(a)(61)]. Every payment intangible is also a general intangible [UCC Comment 5d to Com. Code § 9102]. The term "payment intangible" embraces only those intangibles "under which the account debtor's principal obligation is to pay money [UCC Comment 5d to Com. Code § 9102].

[13] "Good Faith"

In "Good faith" means honesty in fact and the observance of reasonable commercial standards of fair dealing [Com. Code § 1201(b)(20)].The same concept applies in the context of Division 9 for purposes of the obligation of good faith imposed by Com. Code § 1304 (every contract or duty within the Commercial Code imposes an obligation of good faith in its performance or enforcement) [UCC Comment 19 to Com. Code § 9102].

[14] "Goods"

[a] Items Included in Definition of "Goods"

"Goods" means all things that are movable when a security interest attaches. The term includes the following [Com. Code § 9102(a)(44)]:

- Fixtures.

- Standing timber that is to be cut and removed under a conveyance or contract for sale.
- The unborn young of animals.
- Crops grown, growing, or to be grown, even if the crops are produced on trees, vines, or bushes.
- Manufactured homes.

[b] When Software May Be "Goods"

"Goods" includes a computer program embedded in goods and any supporting information provided in connection with a transaction relating to the program if either [Com. Code § 9102(a)(44)]:

- The program is associated with the goods in such a manner that it customarily is considered part of the goods; or
- By becoming the owner of the goods, a person acquires a right to use the program in connection with the goods.

"Goods" does not include a computer program embedded in goods that consist solely of the medium in which the program is embedded [Com. Code § 9102(a)(44)].

[c] Items Excluded from Definition of "Goods"

"Goods" does not include any of the following [Com. Code § 9102(a)(44)]:

- Accounts.
- Chattel paper.
- Commercial tort claims.
- Deposit accounts.
- Documents.
- General intangibles.
- Instruments.
- Investment property.
- Letter-of-credit rights.
- Letters of credit.
- Money [see Com. Code § 1201(b)(24) (money defined)].
- Oil, gas, or other minerals before extraction.

In addition, Division 9 does not govern--rather, Veh. Code § 6300 exclusively governs--perfecting a security interest in a vehicle that is not classified as inventory. With respect to determining the rights of competing parties when a security interest is claimed in a non-inventory vehicle, the provisions of Division 9 do not come into play until the security interest is perfected under the Vehicle Code [Quartz of S. Cal., Inc. v. Mullen Bros., Inc. (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 901, 908, 61 Cal. Rptr. 3d 54].

[d] Classes of Goods

There are four mutually exclusive classes of goods [U.C.C. Comment 4.a. to Com. Code § 9102]:

(1) "Consumer goods," defined as goods that are used or bought for use primarily for personal, family, or household purposes [Com. Code § 9102(a)(23)].

(2) "Equipment," defined as goods other than inventory, farm products, or consumer goods [Com. Code § 9102(a)(33)].

(3) "Farm products," defined as goods, other than standing timber, with respect to which the debtor is engaged in a farming operation and which are any of the following [Com. Code § 9102(a)(34)]:

- Crops grown, growing, or to be grown, including both of the following:
- Crops produced on trees, vines, and bushes.
- Aquatic goods produced in aquacultural operations.
- Livestock, born or unborn, including aquatic goods produced in aquacultural operations.
- Supplies used or produced in a farming operation.
- Products of crops or livestock in their unmanufactured states.

(4) "Inventory," defined as goods, other than farm products, which are any of the following [Com. Code § 9102(a)(48)]:

- Leased by a person as lessor.
- Held by a person for sale or lease or to be furnished under a contract of service.
- Furnished by a person under a contract of service.
- Raw materials, work in process, or materials used or consumed in a business.

[15] "Instrument"

"Instrument" means a negotiable instrument or any other writing that evidences a right to the payment of a monetary obligation, is not itself a security agreement or lease, and is of a type that in ordinary course of business is transferred by delivery with any necessary indorsement or assignment [Com. Code § 9102(a)(47)]. A promissory note is an instrument, specifically an instrument that evidences a promise to pay a monetary obligation, does not evidence an order to pay, and does not contain an acknowledgment by a bank that the bank has received for deposit a sumof money or funds [Com. Code § 9102(a)(65)]. A check may also be an instrument [see UCC Comment 7 to Com. Code § 9330(d)].

"Instrument" does not include (1) investment property, (2) letters of credit, or (3) writings that evidence a right to payment arising out of the use of a credit or charge card or information contained on or for use with the card [Com. Code § 9102(a)(47)].

[16] "Investment Property;" "Commodity Account;" "Commodity Contract"

"Investment property" means a security, whether certificated or uncertificated, security entitlement, securities account, commodity contract, or commodity account [Com. Code § 9102(a)(49)].

"Commodity account" means an account maintained by a commodity intermediary in which a commodity contract is carried for a commodity customer [Com. Code § 9102(a)(14); see Com. Code § 9102(a)(16) (commodity customer defined); Com. Code § 9102(a)(17) (commodity intermediary defined)].

"Commodity contract" means a commodity futures contract, an option on a commodity futures contract, a commodity option, or another contract if the contract or option is either of the following [Com. Code § 9102(a)(15)]:

- Traded on or subject to the rules of a board of trade that has been designated as a contract market for such a contract pursuant to federal commodities laws.

- Traded on a foreign commodity board of trade, exchange, or market, and is carried on the books of a commodity intermediary for a commodity customer [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(16) (commodity customer defined); Com. Code § 9102(a)(17) (commodity intermediary defined)].

[17] "Lien Creditor"

"Lien creditor" means any of the following [Com. Code § 9102(a)(52)(A)]:

- A creditor that has acquired a lien on the property involved by attachment, levy, or the like.

- An assignee for benefit of creditors from the time of assignment.

- A trustee in bankruptcy from the date of the filing of the petition.

- A receiver in equity from the time of appointment.

"Lien creditor" does not include a creditor who by filing a notice with the Secretary of State has acquired only an attachment or judgment lien on personal property, or both [Com. Code § 9102(a)(52)(B)].

[18] "Proceeds;" "Cash Proceeds;" "Noncash Proceeds"

"Proceeds," except as used in Com. Code § 9609(b) (secured party's rights after default), means any of the following property [Com. Code § 9102(a)(64)]:

- Whatever is acquired on the sale, lease, license, exchange, or other disposition of collateral.

- Whatever is collected on, or distributed on account of, collateral [see UCC Comment 13a and b to Com. Code § 9102 (this includes cash or stock dividends distributed on account of securities or other investment property that is original collateral as well as distributions on "supporting obligations"); see also Com. Code § 9102(a)(77) (defining "supporting obligation," discussed in § 503.24[2][b]), Com. Code § 9203(f) (discussed in § 503.21[2]].

- Rights arising out of collateral.

- To the extent of the value of collateral, claims arising out of the loss, nonconformity, or interference with the use of, defects or infringement of rights in, or damage to, the collateral.

- To the extent of the value of collateral and to the extent payable to the debtor or the secured party, insurance payable by reason of the loss or nonconformity of, defects or infringement of rights in, or damage to, the collateral.

"Cash proceeds" are proceeds that are money, checks, deposit accounts, or the like [Com. Code § 9102(a)(9)]. The phrase "or the like" covers property that is the functional equivalent of money, checks, or deposit accounts, such as some money market accounts that are securities or part of securities entitlements [see UCC Comment 13e to Com. Code § 9102]. Cash proceeds retain their character as cash proceeds while in the possession of a levying officer pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 481.010 et seq. (Attachment Law) or Code Civ. Proc. § 680.010 et seq. (Enforcement of Judgments Law) [Com. Code § 9315(f)]. All other types of proceeds are "noncash proceeds" [Com. Code § 9102(a)(58)].

The definition of "proceeds" no longer provides that proceeds of proceeds are themselves proceeds. That idea is expressed in the revised Division 9 definition of collateral [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(12), discussed in [6], above]. No change in meaning from former Com. Code § 9306 is intended [see UCC Comment 13c to Com. Code § 9102; see also discussion and examples, at § 503.22[7][b]]. As in California cases decided under former Division 9 [see, e.g., American National Bank v. Cloud (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 766, 775-776, 247 Cal. Rptr. 325 ; Producers Cotton Oil Co. v. Amstar Corp. (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 638, 651, 242 Cal. Rptr. 914] , revised Division 9 contains no requirement that property be received by the debtor for the property to qualify as proceeds. It is necessary only that the property be traceable, directly or indirectly, to the original obligation [see UCC Comment 13d to Com. Code § 9102].

ILLUSTRATION:

Examples of Proceeds Never Taken Into Debtor's Possession. Under a security agreement and financing statement, secured party perfected a security interest in debtor's crops and their proceeds. Buyer had notice of that interest, but because of a fraud perpetrated by the debtor and his sons, buyer mistakenly paid crop proceeds to the sons. Secured party sued the buyer for conversion. Were the sums paid to the sons proceeds? Yes. When buyer wrongfully disposed of proceeds to which secured party was entitled, it became liable for conversion [American National Bank v. Cloud (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 766, 775-776, 247 Cal. Rptr. 325] .

Under a security agreement and financing statement, secured party perfected a security interest in debtor's crops and their proceeds. Secured party sent notice to a crop buyer informing it of secured party's interests and stating that no setoff or deductions were to be made. Buyer applied $53,336.35, of the purchase price, including $43,336.35 for harvesting the 1981 crop and $10,000 still owing for the 1980 harvest, to payment of a bill submitted to it by the harvester. Was that $53,336.35 proceeds? Yes [Producers Cotton Oil Co. v. Amstar Corp. (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 638, 651, 242 Cal. Rptr. 914] . However, applying principles of unjust enrichment, because secured party knew of and acquiesced in the expenditure, which was necessary to the development of the crop, and ultimately benefited from that expenditure, secured party was not entitled to retain the $43,336.35 of proceeds expended with regard to the 1981 crop [Producers Cotton Oil Co. v. Amstar Corp. (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 638, 658-660, 242 Cal. Rptr. 914] .

[19] "Purchase Money Security Interest;" "Purchase Money Collateral;" "Purchase Money Obligation"

[a] In Goods

A security interest in goods is a purchase money security interest as follows [Com. Code § 9103(b)]:

- To the extent that the goods are purchase money collateral with respect to that security interest.

- If the security interest is in inventory [see [14][d], above] that is or was purchase money collateral, also to the extent that the security interest secures a purchase money obligation incurred with respect to other inventory in which the secured party holds or held a purchase money security interest.

- Also to the extent that the security interest secures a purchase money obligation incurred with respect to software in which the secured party holds or held a purchase money security interest.

The security interest of a consignor in goods that are the subject of a consignment is a purchase money security interest in inventory [Com. Code § 9103(d)].

"Purchase money collateral" means goods or software that secures a purchase money obligation incurred with respect to that collateral [Com. Code § 9103(a)(1)]. "Purchase money obligation" is an obligation of an obligor incurred as all or part of the price of the collateral or for value given to enable the debtor to acquire rights in or the use of the collateral if the value is in fact so used [Com. Code § 9103(a)(2)].

In a transaction other than a consumer goods transaction, a purchase money security interest does not lose its status as such, even if (1) the purchase money collateral also secures an obligation that is not a purchase money obligation, (2) collateral that is not purchase money collateral also secures the purchase money obligation, or (3) the purchase money obligation has been renewed, refinanced, consolidated, or restructured [Com. Code § 9103(f)].

[b] In Software

A security interest in software is a purchase money security interest to the extent that the security interest also secures a purchase money obligation incurred with respect to goods in which the secured party holds or held a purchase money security interest if both of the following conditions are satisfied see also Com. Code § 9103(b)(3), set forth in [a], above]:

- The debtor acquired its interest in the software in an integrated transaction in which it acquired an interest in the goods.

- The debtor acquired its interest in the software for the principal purpose of using the software in the goods.

[c] Dual Status Rule

In a transaction other than a consumer goods transaction, if the extent to which a security interest is a purchase money security interest depends on the application of a payment to a particular obligation, the payment must be applied as follows [Com. Code § 9103(e)]:

- First, in accordance with any reasonable method of application to which the parties agree.

- Second, in the absence of the parties' agreement to a reasonable method, in accordance with any intention of the obligor manifested at or before the time of payment.

- Third, in the absence of an agreement to a reasonable method and a timely manifestation of the obligor's intention, first, to obligations that are not secured, and if more than one obligation is secured, to obligations secured by purchase money security interests in the order in which those obligations were incurred.

In a transaction other than a consumer goods transaction, a secured party claiming a purchase money security interest has the burden of establishing the extent to which the security interest is a purchase money security interest [Com. Code § 9103(g)].

In consumer goods transactions, the court determines the proper rules for establishing the extent to which a security interest is a purchase money security interest. The court may not infer from the limitations in Com. Code § 9103(e)-(g) the nature of the proper rule in consumer-goods transactions and may continue to apply established approaches [Com. Code § 9103(h)].

[20] "Secured Party"

"Secured party" means any of the following [Com. Code § 9102(a)(72)]:

- A person in whose favor a security interest is created or provided for under a security agreement, whether or not any obligation to be secured is outstanding.
- A person that holds an agricultural lien.
- A consignor.
- A person to which accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes have been sold.
- A trustee, indenture trustee, agent, collateral agent, or other representative in whose favor a security interest or agricultural lien is created or provided for.
- A person that holds a security interest arising under Com. Code § 2401, 2505, 2711(3), 4210, 5118, or 10508(e).

[21] "Security Agreement"

A "security agreement" is an agreement that creates or provides for a security interest [Com. Code § 9102(a)(73)].

[22] "Security Interest"

A "security interest" is an interest in personal property or fixtures which secures payment or performance of an obligation. The term includes any interest of a consignor and a buyer of accounts, chattel paper, a payment intangible, or a promissory note in a transaction that is subject to Division 9 [Com. Code § 1201(b)(35)].

The retention or reservation of title by a seller of goods notwithstanding shipment or delivery to the buyer [see Com. Code § 2401] is limited in effect to a reservation of a "security interest" [Com. Code § 1201(b)(35); see Com. Code § 2505]. The special property interest of a buyer of goods on identification of those goods to a contract for sale under Com. Code § 2401 is not a "security interest," but a buyer may acquire a "security interest" by complying with Division 9 [Com. Code § 1201(b)(35)]. Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 2505, the right of a seller or lessor of goods under Division 2 (Com. Code § 2101 et seq.) or Division 10 (Com. Code § 10101 et seq.) to retain or acquire possession of the goods is not a "security interest," but a seller or lessor may acquire a"security interest" by complying with Division 9 [Com. Code § 1201(b)(35)].

Whether a transaction creates a lease or a security interest is determined by the facts of each case [Com. Code § 1203(a); see, e.g., Addison v. Burnett (1996) 41 Cal. App. 4th 1288, 1299, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 132 (finding that parties entered into lease rather than security agreement)]. However, the transaction creates a security interest if the consideration that the lessee is to pay the lessor for the right to possession and use of the goods is an obligation for the term of the lease not subject to termination by the lessee and any one of the following conditions is satisfied [Com. Code § 1203(b)]:

- The original term of the lease is equal to or greater than the remaining economic life of the goods.

- The lessee is bound to renew the lease for the remaining economic life of the goods or is bound to become the owner of the goods.

- The lessee has an option to renew the lease for the remaining economic life of the goods for no, or nominal, additional consideration on compliance with the lease agreement.

- The lessee has an option to become the owner of the goods for no, or nominal, additional consideration on compliance with the lease agreement.

A transaction does not create a security interest, however, merely because any of the following conditions is satisfied [Com. Code § 1203(c)]:

- The present value of the consideration that the lessee must pay the lessor for the right to possession and use of the goods is substantially equal to or greater than the fair market value of the goods at the time the lease is entered into.

- The lessee assumes the risk of loss of the goods, or agrees to pay taxes, insurance, filing, recording, or registration fees, or service or maintenance costs, with respect to the goods.

- The lessee has an option to renew the lease or to become the owner of the goods.

- The lessee has an option to renew the lease for a fixed rent that is equal to or greater than the reasonably predictable fair market rent for the use of the goods for the term of the renewal at the time the option is to be performed.

- The lessee has an option to become the owner of the goods for a fixed price that is equal to or greater than the reasonably predictable fair market value of the goods at the time the option is to be performed.

- In the case of a motor vehicle [see Veh. Code § 415 (definition)] or a trailer [see Veh. Code § 630 (definition)] that is not used primarily for personal, family, or household purposes, the amount of rental payments may be increased or decreased by reference to the amount realized by the lessor on sale or disposition of the vehicle or trailer. However, nothing in this subparagraph affects the application or administration of the Sales and Use Tax Law [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6001 et seq.].

[23] "Software"

"Software" means a computer program and any supporting information provided in connection with a transaction relating to the program. "Software" does not include a computer program that is included in the definition of goods, as discussed in [14][b], above [Com. Code § 9102(a)(75)].

[24] "Value," "New Value"

Except as otherwise provided with respect to negotiable instruments and bank collections (Com. Code §§ 3303, 4210, and 4211), a person gives "value" for rights if he or she acquires them in any of the following ways [Com. Code § 1204]:

- In return for a binding commitment to extend credit or for the extension of immediately available credit whether or not drawn upon and whether or not a chargeback is provided for in the event of difficulties in collection.
- As security for, or in total or partial satisfaction of, a preexisting claim.
- By accepting delivery pursuant to a preexisting contract for purchase.
- Generally, in return for any consideration sufficient to support a simple contract.

"New value" means (1) money, (2) money's worth in property, services, or new credit, or (3) release by a transferee of an interest in property previously transferred to the transferee. The term does not include an obligation substituted for another obligation [Com. Code § 9102(a)(57)].

§ 503.12 Applicability of Division 9 of the Commercial Code

[1] In General

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9109(c) and (d), discussed in § 503.13, Division 9 of the Commercial Code applies to each of the following [Com. Code § 9109(a)]:

- A transaction, regardless of its form, that creates a security interest in personal property or fixtures by contract.
- An agricultural lien.
- A sale of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes.
- A consignment.
- A security interest arising under Com. Code § 2401 (identification of goods), Com. Code § 2505, Com. Code § 2711(3), or Com. Code § 10508(e) (personal property lease), as provided in Com. Code § 9110.
- A security interest arising under Com. Code § 4210 (collecting bank's security interest in items being collected) or Com. Code § 5118 (issuer's security interest in document presented under letter of credit).

With respect to security interest arising under Division 2 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 9110], see discussion in § 503.40[1].

Application of Division 9 to a security interest in a secured obligation is not affected by the fact that the obligation is itself secured by a transaction or interest to which Division 9 does not apply [Com. Code § 9109(b)]. For instance, one who holds a promissory note secured by a deed of trust to real property may sell that note or give a security interest in that not to secure his or her own obligation to another person. The security interest thus created in the note will be subject to Division 9 of the Commercial Code even though the original obligation under the deed of trust is not [see U.C.C. Comment 7. to Com. Code § 9109].

Division 9 does not extend the application of any the rule of law, statute, or regulation to a transaction not otherwise subject to it [Com. Code § 9201(d)(2)].

[2] When Transaction Is Subject to Consumer-protection Legislation

Division 9 does not validate any rate, charge, agreement, or practice that violates a rule of law, statute, or regulation described Com. Code § 9201(b), set forth below [Com. Code § 9201(d); see UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9201 (transaction is subject to both Division 9 and other law)].

A transaction that is subject to Division 9 is subject to any applicable rule of law which establishes a different rule for consumers, to any applicable consumer protection statute, regulation, or law, and to the following [Com. Code § 9201(b)]:

- Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et seq. (Chapter 5 of Part 2 of Division 7), relating to unfair competition.
- Bus. & Prof. Code § 17500 et seq. (Chapter 1 of Part 3 of Division 7), relating to advertising.
- The Unruh Retail Installment Sales Act [Civ. Code § 1801 et seq.; see Ch. 501, Sales: Installment Sales];
- The Rees-Levering Motor Vehicle Sales and Finance Act [Civ. Code § 2981 et seq.; see e.g., Bank of America v. Lallana (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 203, 209, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 910, 960 P.2d 1133 (discussed in § 503.27[5][b][v], if collateral is consumer motor vehicle, secured party must give notice of disposition that complies with both Division 9 and Rees-Levering)].
- Obligations arising from the following particular transactions:
  - Consignment of fine arts [Civ. Code § 1738 et seq.].
  - Credit cards [Civ. Code § 1747 et seq.].
  - Layaway practices [Civ. Code § 1749 et seq.].
  - Commercial credit reports [Civ. Code § 1785.41 et seq.].
  - Check cashing [Civ. Code § 1789.30 et seq.].
  - Precomputed interest [Civ. Code § 1799.5 et seq.].
  - Precomputed finance charges [Civ. Code § 1799.8 et seq.].
  - Consumer credit contracts [Civ. Code § 1799.90 et seq.].
  - Contracts for discount buying services [Civ. Code § 1812.100 et seq.].
  - Contracts for seller assisted marketing plans [Civ. Code § 1812.200 et seq.].

- Membership camping contracts [Civ. Code § 1812.300 et seq.].
- Creditor's remedies relating to credit disability insurance [Civ. Code § 1812.400 et seq.].
- Auctions and auctioneers [Civ. Code § 1812.600 et seq.].
- Deposits (bailments) [Civ. Code § 1813 et seq.].
- Loans for use or bailments [Civ. Code § 1884 et seq.].
- Liens [Civ. Code § 2872 et seq.].

- The California Finance Lenders Law [Fin. Code § 22000 et seq.].

- The Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.].

In case of conflict between Division 9 and a rule of law, statute, or regulation listed above, the rule of law, statute, or regulation controls, although the failure to comply with the applicable statute or regulation has only the effect the statute or regulation specifies [Com. Code § 9201(c)]. However, a case decided under former Division 9 held that Division 9 should apply in a case in which the applicable consumer-protection law provides a consumer less protection than is afforded under Division 9 [see Vasquez v. Superior Court (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 800, 823, 824, 94 Cal Rptr. 796, 484 P.2d 964] .

A. Introduction and Definitions

44-503 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 503.13

§ 503.13 When Division 9 Is Inapplicable

[1] In General

Division 9 does not apply to the extent that any of the following conditions is satisfied [Com. Code § 9109(c)]:

- A statute, regulation, or treaty of the United States preempts Division 9.

- Another California statute state expressly governs the creation, perfection, priority, or enforcement of a security interest created by California state or a governmental unit of California. These statutes include statutes that provide for pledges, liens, or security interests to secure bonds or other obligations (including, without limitation, leases) of this state or a governmental unit, whether the statute is of general application like Gov. Code §§ 5450 and 5451 or is specific to particular types of obligations of the state of California or of governmental units or to particular governmental units.

- A statute of another state, a foreign country, or a governmental unit of another state or a foreign country, other than a statute generally applicable to security interests, expressly governs creation, perfection, priority, or enforcement of a security interest created by the state, country, or governmental unit.

- The rights of a transferee beneficiary or nominated person under a letter of credit are independent and superior under Com. Code § 5114.

[2] Specific Transactions to Which Division 9 Does Not Apply

Division 9 does not apply to any of the following [Com. Code § 9109(d)]:

- A landlord's lien, other than an agricultural lien.

- A lien, other than an agricultural lien, given by statute or other rule of law for services or materials, but Com. Code § 9333 applies with respect to priority of the lien.

- A sale of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes as part of a sale of the business out of which they arose.

- An assignment of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes which is for the purpose of collection only.

- An assignment of a right to payment under a contract to an assignee that is also obligated to perform under the contract.

- An assignment of a single account, payment intangible, or promissory note to an assignee in full or partial satisfaction of a preexisting indebtedness.

- Any loan made by an insurance company pursuant to the provisions of a policy or contract issued by it and on the sole security of the policy or contract.

- An assignment of a right represented by a judgment, other than a judgment taken on a right to payment that was collateral.

- A right of recoupment or setoff, provided that both Com. Code § 9340, with respect to the effectiveness of rights of recoupment or setoff against deposit accounts, and Com. Code § 9404, with respect to defenses or claims of an account debtor, apply.

- The creation or transfer of an interest in or lien on real property, including a lease or rents thereunder, except to the extent that provision is made for each of the following:

    - Liens on real property in Com. Code §§ 9203 and 9308.

    - Fixtures in Com. Code § 9334.

    - Fixture filings in Com. Code §§ 9501, 9502, 9512, 9516, and 9519.

    - Security agreements covering personal and real property in Com. Code § 9604.

- An assignment of a claim arising in tort, other than a commercial tort claim, but Com. Code §§ 9315 and 9322 apply with respect to proceeds and priorities in proceeds.

- An assignment of a deposit account in a consumer transaction, but Com. Code §§ 9315 and 9322 apply with respect to proceeds and priorities in proceeds.

- Any security interest created by the assignment of the benefits of any public construction contract under the Improvement Act of 1911 (Streets & Highways Code § 5000 et seq.).

- Transition property, as defined in Pub. Util. Code § 840, except to the extent that the provisions of Division 9 are referred to in Pub. Util. Code § 840 et seq., and recovery property, as defined in Pub. Util. Code § 848, except to the extent that the provisions of Division 9 are referred to in Pub. Util. Code § 848 et seq.

- A claim or right of an employee or employee's dependents to receive workers' compensation under Division 1 or Division 4 of the Labor Code (Lab. Code §§ 50 et seq., 3200 et seq.).

B. Creation, Perfection, and Priorities of Security Interests Generally

44-503 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 503.20

§ 503.20 Security Agreement

[1] Formalities

No special form is necessary for a security agreement to exist and thus to create or provide for a security interest [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(73) (definition)]. Whether an agreement creates a security interest depends not on whether the parties intend that the law characterize the transaction as a security interest, but rather on whether the transaction falls within the definition of "security interest" inCom. Code § 1201(b)(35) (set forth in § 503.11[22]). Thus, an agreement that the parties characterize as a "lease" of goods may be a "security agreement" notwithstanding the parties' stated intention that the law treat the transaction as a lease and not as a secured transaction [see UCC Comment 3b to Com. Code § 9102; Triple C Leasing, Inc. v. All-American Mobile Wash (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 244, 248, 249, 134 Cal. Rptr. 328] . The essential terms of a security agreement need not be contained in a single document. For example, even without a separate formal agreement, a financing statement, loan application, promissory note, and other documents, taken together, would be able to establish a security agreement [New West Fruit Corp. v. Coastal Berry Corp. (1991) 1 Cal. App. 4th 92, 97-98, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 664 ; Komas v. Future Systems, Inc. (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 809, 816, 139 Cal. Rptr. 669] .

The description of the collateral in a security agreement must reasonably identify what it describes. Except as provided in Com. Code § 9108(c)-(e), a description need not be specific to be sufficient [Com. Code § 9108(a)]. Except with respect to investment property [see Com. Code § 9108(d), discussed in § 503.56[1][a]], a description of collateral reasonably identifies the collateral if it identifies the collateral by any of the following [Com. Code § 9108(b)]:

- Specific listing.
- Category.
- Except for commercial tort claims, or in a consumer transaction, consumer goods, a security entitlement, a securities account, or a commodity account [Com. Code § 9108(e)], a type of collateral defined in the Commercial Code.

- Quantity.
- Computational or allocational formula or procedure.
- Any other method, if the identity of the collateral is objectively determinable, except that a supergeneric description is not permitted in a security agreement [see Com. Code § 9108(c)].

A description of collateral as "all the debtor's assets" or "all the debtor's personal property" or using words of similar import does not reasonably identify the collateral in a security agreement [Com. Code § 9108(c)]; however, it is sufficient in a financing statement [see Com. Code § 9504(2), discussed in § 503.22[6][b]]. A description only by a type of collateral defined in the Commercial Code is an insufficient description of either (1) a commercial tort claim, or, (2) in a consumer transaction, consumer goods, a security entitlement, a securities account, or a commodity account [Com. Code § 9108(e)]. Descriptions of investment property collateral and consumer good collateral also must meet the applicable requirements of Civ. Code § 1799.103 (investment property) or 1799.100 (consumer goods), respectively [Com. Code § 9108(f)]. For discussion of Civ. Code § 1799.100, see Ch. 127, Consumer Contracts and Loans .

[2] Scope and Effect

A security agreement [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(73) (definition)] is effective according to its terms between the parties, against purchasers of the collateral, and against creditors, unless particular exception is made by the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 9201(a); see Pearl v. General Motors Acceptance Corp. (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 1023, 1033, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 805 (Civ. Code § 2815 also applies to security agreement that secures continuing guaranty)]. The agreement gives the secured party the rights to proceeds [see Com. Code §§ 9203(f), 9315] unless the parties have otherwise agreed.

Except with respect to collateral consisting of commercial tort claims or certain consumer goods (as discussed in § 503.21[5]), a security agreement may create or provide for a security interest in after-acquired collateral [Com. Code § 9204(a), (b)]. A security agreement may provide that collateral secures, or that accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes are sold in connection with, future advances or other value, whether or not the advances or value are given pursuant to commitment [Com. Code § 9204(c); see Com. Code § 9102(a)(68) ("pursuant to commitment")]. Revised Division 9 rejects cases under former Division 9 that tested security interests based on future advances by whether the future advance of other obligation was of the same or a similar type or class as earlier advances [UCC Comment 5 to Com. Code § 9204].

The fact that a security agreement secures a continuing guaranty does not preclude the guarantor's exercise of his or her right to revoke the guaranty as to future transactions under Civ. Code § 2815 [Pearl v. General Motors Acceptance Corp. (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 1023, 1032-1033, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 805] .

[3] Statute of Frauds Exception

The Commercial Code provision that requires a written agreement for enforcement of any contract for the sale of personal property beyond $5,000 [see Civ. Code § 1624.5(a)] does not apply to security agreements, nor to the sale of goods [Civ. Code § 1624.5(b)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Creation, Perfection, and Priorities of Security Interests Generally

44-503 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 503.21

§ 503.21 Security Interest in Collateral

[1] Nature

A security interest is created or provided for by a security agreement [Com. Code § 9102(a)(73)]. It attaches when it becomes enforceable against the debtor with respect to the collateral, that is, as soon as certain events specified by the governing law occur, unless an agreement expressly postpones the time of attachment [Com. Code § 9203(a); see discussion in*§ 503.21[2]*]. Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9308 [see discussion in § 503.22[1]] and in Com. Code § 9309 (perfection on attachment), a security interest is perfected for purposes of obtaining priority over claims of other creditors in the collateral [see Com. Code § 9317] when it has attached and all the applicable requirements for perfection in Com. Code §§ 9310-9316 have been satisfied [Com. Code § 9308(a); see discussion in § 503.22]. A security interest is perfected when it attaches if the applicable requirements are satisfied before the security interest attaches [Com. Code § 9308(a)].

[2] Attachment for Enforceability

[a] In General

A security interest attaches to collateral when it becomes enforceable against the debtor with respect to the collateral, unless an agreement expressly postpones the time of attachment [Com. Code § 9203(a)]. Generally, a security interest does not become enforceable against the debtor and third parties with respect to the collateral until (1) value has been given [see Com. Code § 1204 (defining "value," discussed in § 503.11[24])], (2) the debtor has rights in the collateral or the power to transfer rights in the collateral to a secured party, and (3) one of the following conditions has been met [Com. Code § 9203(b); see also Com. Code § 9203(c)-(i) (exceptions)]:

- The debtor has authenticated a security agreement that provides a description of the collateral and, if the security interest covers timber to be cut, a description of the land concerned.

- The collateral is not a certificated security and is in the possession of the secured party under Com. Code § 9313 pursuant to the debtor's security agreement.

- The collateral is a certificated security in registered form and the security certificate has been delivered to the secured party under Com. Code § 8301 pursuant to the debtor's security agreement.

- The collateral is deposit accounts, electronic chattel paper, investment property, letter-of-credit rights, or electronic documents, and the secured party has control under Com. Code § 7106, 9104, 9105, 9106, or 9107, respectively, pursuant to the debtor's security agreement.

All of the foregoing are subject to the following [Com. Code § 9203(c)]:

- Com. Code § 4210 in the case of the security interest of a collecting bank.

- Com. Code § 5118 in the case of the security interest of a letter-of-credit issuer or nominated person.

- Com. Code § 9110 (discussed in § 503.40[1]) in the case of security interests arising under Com. Code § 2101 et seq. (sale of goods) or Com. Code § 10101 et seq. (personal property leases).

- Com. Code § 9206 in the case of security interests in investment property.

[b] When New Debtor Becomes Bound

A person becomes bound as debtor by a security agreement entered into by another person if, by operation of law other than Division 9 or by contract, either the security agreement becomes effective to create a security interest in the person's property, or the person becomes generally obligated for the obligations of the other person, including the obligation secured under the security agreement, and acquires or succeeds to all or substantially all of the assets of the other person [Com. Code § 9203(d)]. If a new debtor becomes bound as debtor by a security agreement entered into by another person both of the following apply [Com. Code § 9203(e)]:

- The agreement satisfies Com. Code § 9203(b)(3) with respect to existing or after-acquired property of the new debtor to the extent the property is described in the agreement.

- Another agreement is not necessary to make a security interest in the property enforceable.

[c] In Proceeds, Supporting Obligations, Security Interests or Liens

The attachment of a security interest in collateral gives the secured party the rights to proceeds provided by Com. Code § 9315 (discussed in*§ 503.21[4], below* and § 503.21[7]) and is also attachment of a security interest in a supporting obligation for the collateral [Com. Code § 9203(f); see Com. Code § 9102(a)(77), supporting obligation defined, discussed in § 503.24[2][b]]. The attachment of a security interest in a right to payment or performance secured by a security interest or other lien on personal or real property is also attachment of a security interest in the security interest, mortgage, or other lien [Com. Code § 9203(g)].

[d] Security Accounts and Commodity Accounts

The attachment of a security interest in a securities account is also attachment of a security interest in the security entitlements carried in the securities account [Com. Code § 9203(h)]. Similarly, the attachment of a security interest in a commodity account is also attachment of a security interest in the commodity contracts carried in the commodity account [Com. Code § 9203(i)].

[3] Interest Unaffected by Debtor's Right to Use Collateral

A security interest is not invalid or fraudulent against creditors solely because the debtor has the right or ability to use, commingle, or dispose of all or part of the collateral, including returned or repossessed goods, to collect, compromise, enforce, or otherwise deal with collateral, to accept the return of collateral or make repossessions, to use, commingle, or dispose of proceeds, or because the secured party fails to require the debtor to account for proceeds or replace collateral [Com. Code § 9205(a)]. However, the foregoing rule does not relax the requirements of possession if attachment, perfection, or enforcement of a security interest depends on possession of the collateral by the secured party [Com. Code § 9205(b)].

The existence of a security interest, agricultural lien, or authority given to a debtor to dispose of or use collateral, without more, does not subject a secured party to liability in contract or tort for the debtor's acts or omissions [Com. Code § 9402].

[4] Effect of Transfer of Collateral

[a] General Rule on Unauthorized Disposition

Except as otherwise provided in Division 9 and Com. Code § 2403(2):

- A security interest or agricultural lien continues in collateral notwithstanding sale, lease, license, exchange, or other disposition thereof unless the secured party authorized the disposition free of the security interest or agricultural lien [Com. Code § 9315(a)(1)].

- A security interest attaches to any identifiable proceeds of the collateral [Com. Code § 9315(a)(2); see Com. Code § 9315(b) (set forth below, defining "identifiable proceeds")], including collections on account of the collateral [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(64)(B) ("proceeds," set forth in § 503.11[18], include collections); American National Bank v. Cloud (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 766, 774-776, 247 Cal. Rptr. 325 (buyer who paid proceeds to third parties who, with debtor, misrepresented to buyer that they owned crop, was liable to creditor with perfected security interest in crop and proceeds)].

Even if a disposition was authorized, a security interest in or agricultural lien on proceeds may exist as a perfected security interest [see Com. Code § 9315(c) discussed in § 503.22[7]] by virtue of the security agreement and financing statement or by virtue of the statute creating the agricultural lien [see UCC Comment 9 to Com. Code § 9315, discussed in*§ 503.21[4][b]*].

The exception noted in Com. Code § 2403 refers to a situation in which the secured party entrusts goods collateral to a merchant who deals in goods of that kind and the merchant sells the collateral to a buyer in the ordinary course of business. Even if wrongful as against the secured party, the buyer takes free of the security interest [see UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9315; compare Gordon v. Hamm (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1324, 1330-1332, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 631 (decided under former Com. Code § 9306(2), debtor/owners' entrustment of used motor home to dealer did not constitute "disposition"; dealer's buyers therefore took motor home subject to original owners' lenders' perfected security interest)].

Division 9 contains several provisions under which a transferee takes free of an unperfected security interest or agricultural lien [see Com. Code § 9317] or takes free of a perfected security interest on acquiring goods, general intangibles, chattel paper and instruments, negotiable instruments, negotiable documents, or securities [see Com. Code §§ 9320, 9321, 9330, 9331]. Most transferees (including non-purchasers) of funds from a deposit account, and most transferees of money, take free of a perfected security interest in the deposit account or money [see Com. Code § 9332]. Com. Code § 9315(b) (see below), which had no counterpart in former Division 9 and defines "identifiable proceeds," a security interest could attach in proceeds placed in a deposit account [see UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9315; ITT Commercial Fin. Corp. v. Tech. Power Inc. (1996) 43 Cal. App. 4th 1551, 1556-1557, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 344 (perfected security interest in inventory and proceeds applies to proceeds of sale, including deposit account to extent that funds are identifiable as sale proceeds)].

Proceeds that are commingled with other property are identifiable proceeds as follows Com. Code § 9315(b)]:

- If the proceeds are goods, to the extent provided by Com. Code § 9336, discussed in § 503.40[4].

- If the proceeds are not goods, to the extent that the secured party identifies the proceeds by a method of tracing, including application of equitable principles, that is permitted under law other than Division 9 with respect to commingled property of the type involved.

Among the equitable principles whose use other law may permit for tracing is the "lowest intermediate balance rule" of Restatement 2d, Trusts § 202 [see UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9315; see also ITT Commercial Fin. Corp. v. Tech. Power Inc. (1996) 43 Cal. App. 4th 1551, 1558-1559, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 344 (description and application of "lowest intermediate balance rule")].

[b] Proceeds of Collateral Subject to Agricultural Lien

Division 9 [see Com. Code § 9315(a)(2), set forth in [a], above] does not determine whether a lien extends to proceeds of farm products encumbered by an agricultural lien. If the proceeds are themselves farm products on which an "agricultural lien" arises under other law, then the agricultural lien provisions of Division 9 apply to the agricultural lien on the proceeds in the same way in which they would apply had the farm products not been proceeds [UCC Comment 9 to Com. Code § 9315].

[c] Determining Whether Disposition Was Authorized

Com. Code § 9315(a)(1) (set forth in [a], above) adopts the view and makes explicit that the authorized disposition to which it refers is an authorized disposition "free of" the security interest or agricultural lien. The secured party's right to proceeds under the express terms of an agreement does not in itself constitute an authorization of disposition. This change in language from former Com. Code § 9306(2) is not intended to address the frequently litigated situation in which the effectiveness of the secured party's consent to a disposition is conditioned on the secured party's receipt of the proceeds. In that situation, as in former Division 9, the court makes the determination of whether the disposition was authorized [see UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9315].

Cases decided under former Division 9 hold that in the face of a security agreement that prohibits sale of the collateral without written consent, evidence sufficient to sustain a finding of implied consent must be clear and convincing. Mere acquiescence to disposition is not enough; however, a prior course of dealing permitting sale may support a finding of implied authorization of sale [Producers Cotton Oil Co. v. Amstar Corp. (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 638, 646-647, 242 Cal. Rptr. 914 (third year crop was sold without secured party's express consent); Central Cal. Equip. Co. v. Dolk Tractor Co. (1978) 78 Cal. App. 3d 855, 862, 144 Cal. Rptr. 367] . If the sale is authorized by prior conduct, the secured party no longer has a lien on the collateral after completion of the sale but may have a lien on the proceeds [Producers Cotton Oil Co. v. Amstar Corp. (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 638, 647, 652-653, 242 Cal. Rptr. 914] . When acquiescence and prior conduct are found to have authorized a sale of the collateral conditioned on continuance of the secured party's interest in the proceeds, the buyer takes the collateral free of the security interest but must pay the price (to the extent of the lien on the proceeds) to the secured party [Producers Cotton Oil Co. v. Amstar Corp. (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 638, 652-653, 242 Cal. Rptr. 914 ; but see Bank of Stockton v. Diamond Walnut Growers, Inc. (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 144, 156-160, 244 Cal. Rptr. 744 (turned on interpretation of agreement between secured parties with competing claims to proceeds); see also Com. Code §§ 9320, 9323; discussion in § 503.24[3]].

[d] Provision Prohibiting Transfer

The debtor's rights in collateral may be voluntarily or involuntarily transferred, such as by way of sale, creation of a security interest, attachment, levy, garnishment, or other judicial process. This can occur notwithstanding a provision in the security agreement prohibiting any transfer. Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code §§ 9401(b) and in Com. Code §§ 9406, 9407, 9408, and 9409, whether a debtor's rights in collateral maybe voluntarily or involuntarily transferred is governed by law other than Division 9 [Com. Code § 9401(a)]. An agreement between the debtor and secured party which prohibits a transfer of the debtor's rights in collateral or makes the transfer a default does not prevent the transfer from taking effect [Com. Code § 9401(b)], but the transfer may create a default [see UCC Comment 5 to Com. Code § 9401].

[5] After-Acquired Collateral

Except as provided below [Com. Code § 9204(b)], a security agreement may create or provide for a security interest in after-acquired collateral [Com. Code § 9204(a)]. However, a security interest does not attach under a term constituting an after-acquired property clause to either (1) consumer goods (other than an accession when given as additional security), unless the debtor acquires rights in them within 10 days after the secured party gives value, or (2) a commercial tort claim [Com. Code § 9204(b)]. A security interest in after-acquired property is not merely an equitable interest: no further action by the secured party is required. Com. Code § 9204 adopts the principle of the "continuing general lien" or "floating lien." It validates a security interest in the debtor's existing and (on acquisition) future assets, even though the debtor has liberty to dispose of collateral without being required to account to proceeds or substitute new collateral [see Com. Code § 9205, discussed in [3], above]. Com. Code § 9204(a) and (c) together also validate "cross-collateral" clauses under which collateral acquired at any time secures advances whenever made [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9204; Com. Code § 9204(c) is discussed in § 503.20[2]].

In order for a security interest in a commercia tort claim to attach, the claim must be in existence when the security agreement is authenticated [Waltrip v. Kimberlin (2008) 164 Cal. App. 4th 517, 528-529, 79 Cal. Rptr. 3d 460 (since security interest in commercial tort claim cannot attach unless claim is in existence when security agreement is authenticated, after-acquired property clause in agreement antedating claim cannot create such a security interest except by modification of agreement once claim exists)]. In addition, the security agreement must describe the tort claim with greater specificity than just "all tort claims" [UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9204; see Com. Code § 9108(e), discussed in § 503.20[1]].

The effect of after-acquired property and future advance clauses as components of a security agreement should not be confused with the requirements applicable to financing statements. The references to after-acquired property clauses and future advance clauses in Com. Code § 9204 are limited to security agreements. There is no need to refer to after acquired property or future advances in a financing statement [UCC Comment 7 to Com. Code § 9204; see UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9502].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Creation, Perfection, and Priorities of Security Interests Generally

44-503 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 503.22

§ 503.22 When Perfection Occurs

[1] In General

The general rule, except with respect to security interests that are automatically perfected on attachment [see Com. Code § 9309, discussed in § 503.22[2]], is that a security interest is perfected when it has attached and when all of the applicable requirements for perfection [see Com. Code §§ 9310-9316] have been satisfied. If all applicable requirements are satisfied before the security interest attaches, it is perfected when it attaches [Com. Code § 9308(a); see Com. Code § 9308(b), regarding perfection of agricultural lien, discussed in § 503.45[1]; discussion in § 503.21[2], regarding attachment of security interest]. A security interest or agricultural lien is perfected continuously if it is originally perfected by one method under Division 9 and is later perfected by another method under Division 9, without an intermediate period when it was unperfected [Com. Code § 9308(c)].

Perfection of a security interest in collateral also perfects a security interest in a supporting obligation for the collateral [Com. Code § 9308(d); see Com. Code § 9102(a)(77), supporting obligation defined, discussed in § 503.24[2][b]; Com. Code § 9308(f), (g), regarding perfection of certain interests in investment property, discussed in § 503.56[1][d]]. Perfection of a security interest in a right to payment or performance also perfects a security interest in a security interest, mortgage, or other lien on personal or real property securing the right [Com. Code § 9308(e)].

The same collateral can be different things to different secured parties. For example, when a bank had a security interest in a crop and the proceeds and a marketing cooperative had a security interest in "member proceeds" derived from sale of the crop, the cooperative's interest was in an "account" under former Com. Code § 9106 [see now Com. Code § 9102(a)(2)], and filing with the Secretary of State perfected that interest [Bank of Stockton v. Diamond Walnut Growers, Inc. (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 144, 151-152, 244 Cal. Rptr. 744] . The bank's interest in the proceeds amounted to "proceeds" under former Com. Code § 9306(1) [see now Com. Code § 9315], and its security interest was perfected by filing with the county recorder in the county in which the crop was grown [Bank of Stockton v. Diamond Walnut Growers, Inc. (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 144, 154, 244 Cal. Rptr. 744 ; but see Com. Code §§ 9501, 9502 (interest in crops is now filed with Secretary of State); see also UCC Comment 4a to Com. Code § 9102].

[2] Perfection on Attachment

The following security interests are perfected when they attach [Com. Code § 9309]:

- A purchase money security interest in consumer goods, except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9311(b) with respect to consumer goods that are subject to a certificate of title statute or treaty described in Com. Code § 9311(a).

- An assignment of accounts or payment intangibles which does not by itself or in conjunction with other assignments to the same assigneetransfer a significant part of the assignor's outstanding accounts or payment intangibles.

- A sale of a payment intangible.

- A sale of a promissory note.

- A security interest created by the assignment of a health care insurance receivable to the provider of the health care goods or services.

- A security interest arising under Com. Code § 2401 or 2505, a buyer's security interest under Com. Code § 2711(3), or a lessee's security interest under Com. Code § 10508(e), until the debtor obtains possession of the collateral.

- A security interest of a collecting bank arising under Com. Code § 4210.

- A security interest of an issuer or nominated person arising under Com. Code § 5118.

- A security interest arising in the delivery of a financial asset under Com. Code § 9206(c).

- A security interest in investment property created by a broker or securities intermediary.

- A security interest in a commodity contract or a commodity account created by a commodity intermediary.

- An assignment for the benefit of all creditors of the transferor and subsequent transfers by the assignee thereunder.

- A security interest created by an assignment of a beneficial interest in a decedent's estate.

- A sale by an individual of an account that is a right to payment of winnings in a lottery or other game of chance.

[3] Perfection by Possession

Except as otherwise provided with regard to goods covered by a certificate of title [see Com. Code § 9313(b), discussed in § 503.23[3][b]], a secured party may perfect a security interest in tangible negotiable documents, goods, instruments, money, or tangible chattel paper by taking possession of the collateral [Com. Code § 9313(a)]. In fact, as to money, except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9315(c) and (d) for proceeds, the only way a security interest in money may be perfected is by the secured party's taking possession under Com. Code § 9313 [Com. Code § 9312(b)(3)]. A secured party may perfect a security interest in certificated securities by taking delivery of the certificated securities under Com. Code § 8301 [Com. Code § 9313(a); for further discussion of perfection of security interests in certificated securities, see § 503.56[1][b], [c]]. If perfection of a security interest depends on possession of the collateral by a secured party, perfection occurs no earlier than the time the secured party takes possession and continues only while the secured party retains possession [Com. Code § 9313(d); but see Com. Code § 9313(h), (i)].

With respect to collateral other than certificated securities and goods covered by a document, a secured party takes possession of collateral in the possession of a person other than the debtor, the secured party, or a lessee of the collateral from the debtor in the ordinary course of the debtor's business, when either of the following conditions is satisfied [Com. Code § 9313(c)]:

- The person in possession authenticates a record acknowledging that it holds possession of the collateral for the secured party's benefit.

- The person takes possession of the collateral after having authenticated a record acknowledging that it will hold possession of collateral for the secured party's benefit.

A person in possession of collateral is not required to acknowledge that it holds possession for a secured party's benefit [Com. Code § 9313(f)]. If a person acknowledges that it holds possession for the secured party's benefit both of the following apply [Com. Code § 9313(g)]:

- The acknowledgment is effective under Com. Code § 9313(c) or under Com. Code § 8301(a), even if the acknowledgment violates the rights of a debtor.

- Unless the person otherwise agrees or law other than Division 9 otherwise provides, the person does not owe any duty to the secured party and is not required to confirm the acknowledgment to another person.

A secured party having possession of collateral does not relinquish possession by delivering the collateral to a person other than the debtor or a lessee of the collateral from the debtor in the ordinary course of the debtor's business if the person was instructed before the delivery or is instructed contemporaneously with the delivery either to hold possession of the collateral for the secured party's benefit, or to redeliver the collateral to the secured party to do either of the following [Com. Code § 9313(h)]. A secured party does not relinquish possession, even if a delivery under Com. Code § 9313(h) violates the rights of a debtor. A person to which collateral is delivered under Com. Code § 9313(h) does not owe any duty to the secured party and is not required to confirm the delivery to another person unless the person otherwise agrees or law other than Division 9 otherwise provides [Com. Code § 9313(i)].

[4] Perfection by Control

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9315(c) and (d) for proceeds [see [7], below], security interests in deposit accounts and letter-of-credit rights (except when the letter-of-credit right is a supporting obligation), may be perfected only by control under Com. Code § 9314 [Com. Code § 9312(b)(1), (2); see Com. Code § 9308(d), discussed in § 503.22[1], perfection of security interest in collateral also perfects security interest in a supporting obligation for the collateral)]. "Control" in regard to deposit accounts is defined in Com. Code § 9104 [Com. Code § 9314(a)] and discussed in § 503.58[1]. "Control" in the case of letter-of-credit rights is defined in Com. Code § 9107 [Com. Code § 9314(a)] and discussed in § 503.59[1].

Security interests in investment property, electronic chattel paper, or electronic documents also may be perfected by control of the collateral [Com. Code § 9314(a)]. "Control" in regard to electronic chattel paper is defined in Com. Code § 9105 [Com. Code § 9314(a)] and discussed in § 503.50[1][b]. In the case of investment property, "control" is defined in Com. Code § 9106 [Com. Code § 9314(a)] and discussed in § 503.56[1][b].

A security interest in deposit accounts, electronic chattel paper, electronic documents, or letter-of-credit rights is perfected by control under Com. Code § 9104, 9105, or 9107 when the secured party obtains control and remains perfected by control only while the secured party retains control [Com. Code § 9314(b); see Com. Code § 9314(c), as to investment property, discussed in § 503.56[1][b]].

[5] Property Requiring Registration or Certificate of Title

Although the filing of a financing statement might otherwise be required, filing is not necessary or effective to perfect a security interest in certain types of property calling for registration or certificate of title. One such exception to filing requirements is a vehicle or boat which must be registered under the Vehicle Code [Com. Code § 9311(a)(2)(A)]. Excepted also are interests in approved air contaminant emission reduction required to be registered elsewhere [Com. Code § 9311(a)(2)(C); see Health & Safety Code §§ 40709-40713] and interests in mobilehomes and commercial coaches required to be registered by the Health & Safety Code, except that during any period in which the mobilehome or commercial coach is inventory, the filing provisions of Com. Code § 9501 et seq. apply to a security interest in that collateral [Com. Code § 9311(a)(2)(B)]. Similarly, during any period in which any of the previously mentioned types of collateral is inventory held for sale or lease by a person or leased by that person as lessor and that person is in the business of selling goods of that kind, the Division 9 filing provisions do apply to a security interest in that collateral [Com. Code § 9311(d); Louis & Daturic, Inc. v. Cambridge European Imports, Inc. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1574, 1585-1586, 234 Cal. Rptr. 889 (Commercial Code governed perfection of interest in dealer's inventory)]. Property subject to either of the following is also excepted:

- A certificate of title statute of another jurisdiction which provides for a security interest to be indicated on the certificate as a condition or result of the security interest's obtaining priority over the rights of a lien creditor with respect to the property [Com. Code § 9311(a)(3)].

- A federal statute, regulation, or treaty whose requirements for a security interest's obtaining priority over the rights of a lien creditor with respect to the property preempt Com. Code § 9310 [Com. Code § 9311(a)(1); but see Moldo v. Matsco, Inc. (In re Cybernetic Servs.) (9th Cir. 2001) 252 F.3d 1039, 1059, decided under version of Division 9 in effect prior to July 1, 2001 (holder of security interest in patent is not required to record that interest with federal Patent and Trademark Office in order to perfect interest as against subsequent lien creditor; Patent Act does not preempt filing requirements of Article 9)].

Compliance with the requirements of a statute, regulation, or treaty mentioned in the previous paragraph for obtaining priority over the rights of a lien creditor is equivalent to the filing of a financing statement under Division 9. Except as otherwise provided with respect to collateral that is inventory in Com. Code § 9313 [see § 503.22[3]], and in Com. Code § 9316(d) and (e) for goods covered by a certificate of title [see § 503.22[6][a][i]], a security interest in property subject to one of those statutes, regulations, or treaties may be perfected only by compliance with those requirements. A security interest so perfected remains perfected notwithstanding a change in the use or transfer of possession of the collateral [Com. Code § 9311(b)]. Similarly, except as otherwise provided with respect to collateral that is inventory [see § 503.22[3]], and in Com. Code § 9316(d) and (e) [see § 503.22[6][a][i]], duration and renewal of perfection of a security interest perfected by compliance with one of those, statutes, regulations, or treaties are governed by the statute, regulation, or treaty. In other respects, the security interest is subject to Division 9 [Com. Code § 9311(c)].

For discussion of choice of law rules governing goods covered by certificates of title and changes in perfection when that law changes, see § 503.23[3].

[6] Perfection by Filing of Financing Statement

[a] When Filing Is Permitted or Required

[i] Interests for Which Filing Is Permitted or Required

Perfection is typically accomplished by filing a financing statement (or a fixture filing) [see discussion in § 503.47[4]] so as to give third parties notice of the existence of security interests in the collateral [K.N.C. Wholesale, Inc. v. AWMCO, Inc. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 315, 319, 128 Cal. Rptr. 345] . The filing of the statement serves the same purpose as the recordation of traditional liens by giving the secured party the same rights of priority as the holders of liens [see People ex rel. Franchise Tax Bd. v. Credit Managers Assn. (1977) 76 Cal. App. 3d 344, 351, 142 Cal. Rptr. 777] .

A security interest in chattel paper, negotiable documents, instruments, or investment property may be perfected by filing [Com. Code § 9312(a)].

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9312(b), discussed in § 503.22[4], a financing statement must be filed to perfect all security interests and agricultural liens, except the following [Com. Code § 9310(a), (b)]:

- Those that are perfected under Com. Code § 9308(e)-(g) [Com. Code § 9310(b)(1); see § 503.22[1] regarding perfection under Com. Code § 9308(e)-(g); § 503.56[1][d] regarding perfection under Com. Code § 9308(f), (g) of certain interests in investment property].

- Those perfected under Com. Code § 9309 when they attach [Com. Code § 9310(b)(2); see § 503.22[2]].

- A security interest in property subject to a certificate of title statute, regulation, or treaty described in Com. Code § 9311(a) [Com. Code § 9310(b)(3); see § 503.22[5]].

- A security interest in goods in possession of a bailee which is perfected under Com. Code § 9312(d)(1) or (2) [Com. Code § 9310(b)(4); see § 503.40[2][b]].

- Security interests in certificated securities, documents, goods, or instruments which are temporarily perfected without filing or possession under Com. Code § 9312(e), (f), or (g) [Com. Code § 9310(b)(5); see §§ 503.40[2][b] (goods), 503.48[1][b] (documents), 503.49[1] (instruments), § 503.56[1][c] (certificated security)].

- A security interest in collateral in the secured party's possession under Com. Code § 9313 [Com. Code § 9310(b)(6); see § 503.22[3]].

- A security interest in a certificated security which is perfected by delivery of the security certificate to the secured party under Com. Code § 9313 [Com. Code § 9310(b)(7); see § 503.56[1][b]].

- Security interests in deposit accounts, electronic chattel paper, electronic documents, investment property, or letter-of-credit rights which are perfected by control under Com. Code § 9314 [Com. Code § 9310(b)(8); see §§ 503.58[1] (deposit accounts), 503.50[1][b] (electronic chattel paper), 503.48[1] (documents), 503.56[1][b] (investment property), 503.59[1] (letter-of-credit rights)].

- A security interest in proceeds which is perfected under Com. Code § 9315 [Com. Code § 9310(b)(9); see § 503.22[7]].

- A security interest perfected under Com. Code § 9316 [Com. Code § 9310(b)(10); see § 503.23].

- A security interest in, or claim in or under, any policy of insurance including unearned premiums which is perfected by written notice to the insurer under Com. Code § 9312(b)(4) [Com. Code §

9310(b)(11); see § 503.53[2]].

If a secured party assigns a perfected security interest or agricultural lien, a filing under Division 9 is not required to continue the perfected status of the security interest against creditors of and transferees from the original debtor [Com. Code § 9310(c); see discussion in [m], below; see also Com. Code § 9521(a) (UCC-1 initial financing statement with space to indicate assignee as secured party)].

[ii] Who Is Entitled to File

A person may file an initial financing statement, an amendment that adds collateral covered by a financing statement, or an amendment that adds a debtor to a financing statement, only if the debtor authorizes the filing in an authenticated record or pursuant to Com. Code § 9509(b) or (c), or if the person holds an agricultural lien that has become effective at the time of filing and the financing statement covers only collateral in which the person holds an agricultural lien [Com. Code § 9509(a)]. By authenticating or becoming bound as debtor by a security agreement, a debtor or new debtor authorizes the filing of an initial financing statement, and an amendment, covering both the collateral described in the security agreement and any property that becomes collateral by virtue of being proceeds of an unauthorized disposition of the original collateral [see Com. Code § 9315(a)(2), discussed in § 503.21[4]], whether or not the security agreement expressly covers proceeds [Com. Code § 9509(b)]. By acquiring collateral in which a security interest or agricultural lien continues after an unauthorized disposition of that collateral [see Com. Code § 9315(a)(1), discussed in § 503.21[4]], a debtor authorizes the filing of an initial financing statement, and an amendment, covering the collateral and proceeds of that collateral [Com. Code § 9509(c); see Com. Code § 9315(a)(2)].

A filed record is effective only to the extent that it was filed by a person that may file it under Com. Code § 9509(c) [Com. Code § 9510(a); see also Com. Code § 9625 (imposing liability for unauthorized filings); UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9502].

[b] Contents

[i] In General

A financing statement (except one that covers as-extracted collateral or timber to be cut, or which is filed as a fixture filing and covers goods that are or are to become fixtures) is sufficient if it gives the names of the debtor and the secured party, and indicates the collateral covered by the financing statement [Com. Code § 9502(a); see Com. Code § 9502(b), (c) (financing statement that covers as-extracted collateral or timber to be cut, or which is filed as a fixture filing, discussed in § 503.44[3]; Com. Code § 9505 (acceptable terminology for describing parties in financing statement, discussed in § 503.46[4]]. A financing statement may provide the name of more than one debtor and the name of more than one secured party [Com. Code § 9503(e)]. The requirement that the debtor's signature or other authorization appear on the financing statement has been dropped to facilitate electronic filing. Instead, Com. Code § 9509, discussed in [a][ii], above, specifies who is authorized to file a financing statement, and Com. Code § 9625 imposes liability for unauthorized filings [UCC Comment 3 h to Com. Code § 9101; UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9502]. The standardized universal form of written financing statement is set forth in Com. Code § 9521(a). This form is known as Form UCC-1. A California version of this form has been prepared by the Secretary of State and is illustrated in California Legal Forms, Ch. 42, Secured Transactions, § 542.211 (Matthew Bender). The form must be accepted for filing whether it has or lacks a space identified for the disclosure of the social security number of an individual [Com. Code § 9521(a); but see Com. Code § 9526.5 (requirement for truncation of social security numbers in publicly accessible filed documents)].

[ii] Debtor's Name

A financing statement sufficiently provides the name of the debtor only if it does so in accordance with the following rules [Com. Code § 9503(a); see also Com. Code § 9506(c), discussed in [iv], below]:

- If the debtor is a registered organization, only if the financing statement provides the name of the debtor indicated on the public record of the debtor's jurisdiction of organization which shows the debtor to have been organized.

- If the debtor is a decedent's estate, only if the financing statement provides the name of the decedent and indicates that the debtor is an estate.

- If the debtor is a trust or a trustee acting with respect to property held in trust, only if the financing statement both (1) provides the name specified for the trust in its organic documents or, if no name is specified, provides the name of the settlor and additional information sufficient to distinguish the debtor from other trusts having one or more of the same settlors and (2) indicates, in the debtor's name or otherwise, that the debtor is a trust or is a trustee acting with respect to property held in trust.

- In other cases, if the debtor has a name, only if it provides the individual or organizational name of the debtor, or, if the debtor does not have a name, only if it provides the names of the partners, members, associates, or other persons comprising the debtor.

A financing statement that provides the name of the debtor in accordance with Com. Code § 9503(a) is not rendered ineffective by the absence of either a trade name or other name of the debtor, or, unless otherwise required in the case of a debtor that does not have a name [see Com. Code § 9503(a)(4)(B), last item listed above], names of partners, members, associates, or other persons comprising the debtor [Com. Code § 9503(b)]. However, a financing statement that provides only the debtor's trade name does not sufficiently provide the name of the debtor [Com. Code § 9503(c)]. Failure to indicate the representative capacity of a secured party or representative of a secured party does not affect the sufficiency of a financing statement [Com. Code § 9503(d)].

[iii] Description of Collateral

A financing statement sufficiently describes the collateral that it covers if it describes the collateral pursuant to Com. Code § 9108 (discussed in § 503.20[2]) or indicates that it covers all assets or all personal property [Com. Code § 9504]. The sufficiency of the "all assets" or "all personal property" description is an exception applicable only to financing statements. It will not suffice in the security agreement [see Com. Code § 9108(c); UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9108; UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9504].

[iv] Mistakes Allowed Unless Misleading

A financing statement substantially satisfying the requirements of Com. Code §§ 9501-9528 is effective, even if it has minor errors or omissions, unless the errors or omissions make the financing statement seriously misleading [Com. Code § 9506(a)]. A financing statement that fails sufficiently to provide the name of the debtor in accordance with Com. Code § 9503(a) is seriously misleading [Com. Code § 9506(b); see, e.g., Corona Fruits & Veggies, Inc. v. Frozsun Foods, Inc. (2006) 143 Cal. App. 4th 319, 323-325, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 868 (debtor's true name was Armando Munoz Juarez, and UCC-1 financing statement was seriously misleading because it showed his name as Armando Munoz; other creditor's subsequently filed UCC-1 statement, showing Juarez name, had priority)], except that if a search of the records of the filing office under the debtor's correct name, using the filing office's standard search logic, if any, fails sufficiently to provide the name of the debtor in accordance with Com. Code § 9503(a), the name provided does not make the financing statement misleading [Com. Code § 9506(c)]. For purposes of Com. Code § 9508(b) [see § 503.22[6][i]], the "debtor's correct name" in Com. Code § 9506(c) means the correct name of the new debtor [Com. Code § 9506(d)].

The failure of the filing office to index a record correctly does not affect the effectiveness of the filed record [Com.

Code § 9517].

[c] Place of Filing

The proper place for filing in order to perfect a security interest in collateral, including a case in which the collateral is goods that are or are to become fixtures and the financing statement is not filed as a fixture filing, or agricultural lien on collateral is the office of the Secretary of State, except in the case of collateral consisting of (1) goods that are or are to become fixtures and the financing statement is filed as a fixture filing [see discussion in § 503.47[3]]; (2) timber to be cut or minerals (including oil and gas), to be extracted [Com. Code § 9501(a)]; see discussion in § 503.44[3]; and (3) collateral of a transmitting utility, as discussed in § 503.57[2][a] [Com. Code § 9501(b)].

[d] Time of Filing

A financing statement may be filed before a security agreement is made or a security interest otherwise attaches [Com. Code § 9502(d)]. Any financing statement also remains effective with respect to collateral sold, exchanged, leased, licensed, or otherwise disposed of by the debtor and in which a security interest or agricultural lien continues, even though the secured party knows of or consents to the disposition [Com. Code § 9507(a)]. Normally, a security interest does continue after disposition of the collateral [see Com. Code § 9315(a)]. Law other than Division 9 determines whether an agricultural lien survives disposition of the collateral.

As a consequence of the disposition, the collateral may be owned by a person other than the debtor against whom the financing statement was filed. Under Com. Code § 9507(a), the secured party remains perfected even if it does not correct the public record. For this reason, any person seeking to determine whether a debtor owns collateral free of security interest must inquire as to the debtor's source of title, and, if circumstances seem to require it, search in the name of a former owner. Com. Code § 9507(a) addresses only the sufficiency of the information contained in the financing statement. A disposition of collateral may result in loss of perfection for other reasons, see, e.g., Com. Code § 9316 [UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9508].

[e] Completion of Filing

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9516(b), (1) communication of a record to a filing office and (2) tender of the filing fee or acceptance of the record by the filing office constitutes filing [Com. Code § 9516(a)]. A record that is communicated to the filing office with tender of the filing fee, but which the filing office refuses to accept for a reason other than one set forth in Com. Code § 9516(b), is effective as a filed record except as against a purchaser of the collateral which gives value in reasonable reliance upon the absence of the record from the files [Com. Code § 9516(d); see Com. Code §§ 9519-9523 (duties of filing office)].

Filing does not occur with respect to a record that a filing office refuses to accept because of any of the following [Com. Code § 9516(b)]:

- The record is not communicated by a method or medium of communication authorized by the filing office.
- An amount equal to or greater than the applicable filing fee is not tendered.
- The filing office is unable to index the record because of any of the following:
  - In the case of an initial financing statement, the record does not provide a name for the debtor.

- In the case of an amendment or correction statement, either (1) the record does not identify the initial financing statement as required by Com. Code § 9512 or 9518, as applicable, or (2) the record identifies an initial financing statement whose effectiveness has lapsed under Com. Code § 9515.

- In the case of an initial financing statement that provides the name of a debtor identified as an individual or an amendment that provides a name of a debtor identified as an individual which was not previously provided in the financing statement to which the record relates, the record does not identify the debtor's last name.

- In the case of a record filed or recorded in the filing office described in Com. Code § 9501(a)(1), the record does not provide a sufficient description of the real property to which it relates.

- In the case of an initial financing statement or an amendment that adds a secured party of record, the record does not provide a name and mailing address for the secured party of record.

- In the case of an initial financing statement or an amendment that provides a name of a debtor which was not previously provided in the financing statement to which the amendment relates, the record does not (1) provide a mailing address for the debtor, (2) indicate whether the debtor is an individual or an organization, or (3) if the financing statement indicates that the debtor is an organization, provide either a type of organization for the debtor, a jurisdiction of organization for the debtor, or an organizational identification number for the debtor or indicate that the debtor has none.

- In the case of an assignment reflected in an initial financing statement under Com. Code § 9514(a) or an amendment filed under Com. Code § 9514(b), the record does not provide a name and mailing address for the assignee.

- In the case of a continuation statement, the record is not filed within the six-month period prescribed by Com. Code § 9515(c).

For purposes of the foregoing rules [Com. Code § 9516(b)], a record does not provide information if the filing office is unable to read or decipher the information and a record that does not indicate that it is an amendment or identify an initial financing statement to which it relates, as required by Com. Code § 9512, 9514, or 9518, is an initial financing statement.

[f] Duration of Effectiveness

Generally, a filed financing statement is effective for a period of five years after the date of filing [Com. Code § 9515(a); but see Com. Code § 9515(b), (e), (f) (transmitting utility), and (g) (mortgage as fixture filing)]. An initial financing statement filed in connection with a public finance transaction or manufactured home transaction is effective for a period of 30 years after the date of filing if it indicates that it is filed in connection with a public finance transaction or manufactured home transaction Com. Code § 9515(b); but see Com. Code § 9515(e), (f), and (g)].

The effectiveness of a filed financing statement lapses on the expiration of the period of its effectiveness unless before the lapse a continuation statement is filed pursuant to Com. Code § 9515(d), discussed in [j], below [Com. Code § 9515(c)]. On lapse, a financing statement ceases to be effective and any security interest or agricultural lien that was perfected by the financing statement becomes unperfected, unless the security interest is perfected otherwise. If the security interest or agricultural lien becomes unperfected on lapse, it is deemed never to have been perfected as against a purchaser of the collateral for value [Com. Code § 9515(c)].

A filed financing statement remains effective with respect to collateral that is sold, exchanged, leased, licensed, or otherwise disposed of and in which a security interest or agricultural lien continues, even if the secured party knows of or consents to the disposition [Com. Code § 9507(a)]. Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9507(c) and in Com. Code § 9508 [see [i], below], a financing statement is not rendered ineffective if, after the financing statement is filed, the information provided in the financing statement becomes seriously misleading under Com. Code § 9506, discussed in [b][iv], above [Com. Code § 9507(b)]. If a debtor so changes its name that a filed financing statement becomes seriously misleading under Com. Code § 9506, the following rules apply [Com. Code § 9507(c)]:

- The financing statement is effective to perfect a security interest in collateral acquired by the debtor before, or within four months after, the change.

- The financing statement is not effective to perfect a security interest in collateral acquired by the debtor more than four months after the change, unless an amendment to the financing statement which renders the financing statement not seriously misleading is filed within four months after the change.

[g] Amendment

[i] Authority to File Amendment

For general discussion of who may file an amendment, see Com. Code § 9509(a)-(c), discussed in [a][ii], above. A person may file an amendment other than an amendment that adds collateral covered by a financing statement or an amendment that adds a debtor to a financing statement only if the secured party of record authorizes the filing or the amendment is a termination statement for a financing statement as to which the secured party of record has failed to file or send a termination statement as required by Com. Code § 9513(a) or (c), the debtor authorizes the filing, and the termination statement indicates that the debtor authorized it to be filed [Com. Code § 9509(d)]. If there is more than one secured party of record for a financing statement, each secured party of record may authorize the filing of an amendment under Com. Code § 9509(d)[Com. Code § 9509(e)].

Except with respect to an assignment of record of a security interest in a fixture covered by a fixture filing [see Com. Code § 9514(c), discussed in § 503.47[4]], an initial financing statement may reflect an assignment of all of the secured party's power to authorize an amendment to the financing statement by providing the name and mailing address of the assignee as the name and address of the secured party [Com. Code § 9514(a)]. Except with respect to an assignment of record of a security interest in a fixture covered by a fixture filing [Com. Code § 9514(c)], a secured party of record may assign all or part of its power to authorize an amendment to a financing statement by filing in the filing office an amendment of the financing statement which (1) identifies the initial financing statement to which it relates by its file number, (2) provides the name of the assignor, and (3) provides the name and mailing address of the assignee [Com. Code § 9514(b)].

[ii] Types of Amendments That May Be Filed

Subject to Com. Code § 9509 (authority to file amendment), a person may add or delete collateral covered by, continue or terminate the effectiveness of, or, subject to Com. Code § 9512(e), otherwise amend the information provided in, a financing statement by filing an amendment that both (1) identifies, by its file number, the initial financing statement to which the amendment relates, and (2) if the amendment relates to an initial financing statement filed or recorded in the real estate records [see Com. Code § 9501(a)(1)], provides the date that the initial financing statement was filed or recorded and the information specified in Com. Code § 9502(b), discussed in § 503.44[3] [Com. Code § 9512(a); see also Com. Code § 9707(b), (c) (amendment of pre-effective date financing statements), discussed in § 503.10[2][f]].

[iii] When Amendment Becomes Effective

Except as otherwise provided with regard to a continuation statement [see Com. Code § 9515, discussed in [j], below] the filing of an amendment does not extend the period of effectiveness of the financing statement [Com. Code § 9512(b)]. A financing statement that is amended by an amendment that adds collateral is effective as to the added collateral only from the date of the filing of the amendment [Com. Code § 9512(c)]. A financing statement that is amended by an amendment that adds a debtor is effective as to the added debtor only from the date of the filing of the amendment [Com. Code § 9512(d)]. An amendment is ineffective to the extent that it purports to delete either all debtors or all secured parties of record and fails to provide the name of a debtor to be covered by the financing statement or the name of a new secured party of record, as applicable [Com. Code § 9512(e)].

[h] Correction Statement

If the person believes that a filed record indexed under his or her name is inaccurate or was wrongfully filed, that person may file in the filing office a correction statement with respect to the record [Com. Code § 9518(a)]. A correction statement must do all of the following [Com. Code § 9518(b)]:

- Identify the record to which it relates, by both the file number assigned to the initial financing statement to which the record relates, and, if the correction statement relates to a record filed or recorded in a filing office for real estate records [see Com. Code § 9501(a)(1)], the date that the initial financing statement was filed or recorded and the information specified in Com. Code § 9502(b)].

- Indicate that it is a correction statement.

- Provide the basis for the person's belief that the record is inaccurate and indicate the manner in which the person believes the record should be amended to cure any inaccuracy or provide the basis for the person's belief that the record was wrongfully filed.

The filing of a correction statement does not affect the effectiveness of an initial financing statement or other filed record [Com. Code § 9518(c)].

Com. Code § 9518 was added in revised Division 9 and affords a debtor a nonjudicial means to correct a financing statement or other record that was inaccurate or wrongfully filed. Com. Code § 9518 does not permit the aggrieved person to change the legal effect of the public record, but the filed correction statement becomes part of the "financing statement" as defined in Com. Code § 9102(a)(39) ("financing statement" means a record or records composed of an initial financing statement and any filed record relating to the initial financing statement). Com. Code § 9518 does not displace other provisions in Division 9 that impose liability for making unauthorized filings or failing to file or send a termination statement [see Com. Code § 9625(e)], nor does it displace any available judicial remedy [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9518].

[i] Debtor's Name Change or Reorganization; New Debtor

Except with respect to collateral as to which a filed financing statement remains effective against the new debtor [see Com. Code § 9508(c); see also Com. Code § 9507(a), discussed in [d], above], a financing statement is not rendered ineffective if, after the financing statement is filed, the information provided in the financing statement becomes seriously misleading under Com. Code § 9506, discussed in [b][ii] and [iv], above [Com. Code § 9507(b)]. If a debtor so changes its name that a filed financing statement becomes seriously misleading under Com. Code § 9506, the financing statement is effective to perfect a security interest in collateral acquired by the debtor before, or within four months after, the change, but is not effective to perfect a security interest in collateral acquired by the debtor more than four months after the change, unless an appropriate amendment is filed within four months after the change Com. Code § 9507(c)]. As a general matter, post-filing changes that render a financing statement seriously misleading have no effect on the financing statement. There are two exceptions: a change that involves a new debtor who becomes bound by the original security agreement [see Com. Code § 9508] and a "pure" change, that is one that does not implicate a new debtor but causes the financing statement to become seriously misleading [UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9507].

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9508, a filed financing statement naming an original debtor is effective to perfect a security interest in collateral in which a new debtor has or acquires rights to the extent that the financing statement would have been effective had the original debtor acquired rights in the collateral [Com. Code § 9508(a)]. If the difference between the name of the original debtor and that of the new debtor causes a filed financing statement that is effective under Com. Code § 9508(a) to be seriously misleading under Com. Code § 9506, the financing statement is effective to perfect a security interest in collateral acquired by the new debtor before, and within four months after, the new debtor becomes bound under Com. Code § 9203(d) [see § 503.21[2][b]], but the financing statement is not effective to perfect a security interest in collateral acquired by the new debtor more than four months after the new debtor becomes bound under Com. Code § 9203(d) unless an initial financing statement providing the name of the new debtor is filed before the expiration of that time [Com. Code § 9508(b)]. Com. Code § 9508 does not apply to collateral as to which a filed financing statement remains effective against the new debtor under Com. Code § 9507(a) [Com. Code § 9508(c)], that is to say Com. Code § 9508 does not apply to collateral transferred by the original debtor to the new debtor. Under those circumstances, the filing against the original debtor continues to be effective until it lapses or perfection is lost for another reason [UCC Comment 5 to Com. Code § 9508; see Com. Code §§ 9316, 9507(a)].

Com. Code § 9203(d), (e) and Com. Code § 9508 deal with situations in which a new debtor becomes bound by a security agreement entered into by another person (the original debtor). These situations often arise as a consequence of changes in business structure. For example, the original debtor may be an individual who operates a sole proprietorship and then incorporates. Under both former Division 9 and revised Division 9, collateral that is transferred in the course of an incorporation or merger would normally remain subject to a perfected security interest [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9508; see Com. Code §§ 9315(a), 9507(a)]. Com. Code § 9203(d),(e) create exceptions to the general rule of Com. Code § 9203(b) by setting forth ways, other than authenticating the security agreement, that a new debtor becomes bound by a security agreement entered into by another person. Under Com. Code § 9203(d) 1) a new debtor becomes bound if, by contract or operation of other law, the security agreement becomes effective to create a security interest in the new debtor's property. Applicable corporate law may provide that following a merger, the survivor becomes bound. Even if applicable corporate law does not so provide, Com. Code § 9203(d)(2) may cause the new debtor to become bound if, by contract or operation of other law, if becomes obligated not only for the secured obligation but also generally for the obligations of the original debtor and acquires or succeeds to substantially all the assets of the original debtor. The "substantially all of the assets" requirement of Com. Code § 9203(d)(2) excludes sureties and other secondary obligors as well as person whom becomes obligated through piercing the corporate veil and other non-successor doctrines. In most cases, it will exclude successors to the assets and liabilities of a division of a debtor [UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9508]. If the original debtor and the new debtor are located in different jurisdictions, a filing against the original debtor will not be effective to perfect a security interest in collateral that the new debtor acquires, or has acquired from a person other than the original debtor [UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9508].

[j] Continuation Statement

A continuation statement may be filed only within six months before the expiration of the five-year period specified in Com. Code § 9515(a) [see [f], above] or the 30-year period specified in Com. Code § 9515(b) [see [f], above], whichever is applicable [Com. Code § 9515(d)]. Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9510, on timely filing of a continuation statement, the effectiveness of the initial financing statement continues for a period of five years commencing on the day on which the financing statement would have become ineffective in the absence of the filing. On the expiration of the five-year period, the financing statement lapses in the same manner as provided in Com. Code § 9515(c) [see [f], above], unless, before the lapse, another continuation statement is filed pursuant to Com. Code § 9515(d)[Com. Code § 9515(e)]. Succeeding continuation statements may be filed in the same manner to continue the effectiveness of the initial financing statement [Com. Code § 9515(e)]. Continuation statements need not be filed if the debtor is a transmitting utility [see Com. Code § 9515(f), discussed in § 503.57[2][b]] or for a mortgage filed as a fixture filing [see Com. Code § 9515(g), discussed in § 503.47[4]].

A continuation statement that is not filed within the six-month period prescribed by Com. Code § 9515(d) is ineffective [Com. Code § 9510(c); see SCT (U.S.A.), Inc. v. Mitsui Manufacturers Bank (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 1059, 1061, 1066, 202 Cal. Rptr. 547 (decided under former Division 9; continuation statement may be filed at any time on the final day of effectiveness of the financing statement or prior continuation statement)].

[k] Termination Statement

Because most financing statements expire in five years, no compulsion is placed on the secured party to file a termination statement unless demanded by the debtor, except in the case of consumer goods [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9513]. If a financing statement covers consumer goods and either (1) there is no obligation secured by the collateral covered by the financing statement and no commitment to make an advance, incur an obligation, or otherwise give value, or (2) the debtor did not authorize the filing of the initial financing statement, a secured party must cause the secured party of record for a financing statement to file a termination statement for that financing statement [Com. Code § 9513(a)]. To comply with Com. Code § 9513(a), a secured party must cause the secured party of record to file the termination statement either within one month after there is no obligation secured by the collateral covered by the financing statement and no commitment to make an advance, incur an obligation, or otherwise give value, or, if earlier, within 20 days after the secured party receives an authenticated demand from a debtor [Com. Code § 9513(b)]. A secured party of record with respect to a financing statement is a person whose name is provided as the name of the secured party, or a representative of the secured party, in an initial financing statement that has been filed. If an initial financing statement is filed to reflect an assignment of all of the secured party's power to authorize an amendment to the financing statement [see Com. Code § 9514(a), discussed in [m], below], the assignee named in the initial financing statement is the secured party of record with respect to the financing statement [Com. Code § 9511(a); see also Com. Code § 9511(b), (c), discussed in [m], below].

Because Com. Code § 9311(b) provides that compliance with a certificate of title statute is "equivalent to the filing of a financing statement," Com. Code § 9513 applies to certificates of title unless the particular certificate of title statute contains a specific superseding rule that addresses a secured party's duty to cause a notation of a security interest to be removed from a certificate of title. In the context of a certificate of title, the secured party could comply with Com. Code § 9513 by causing the removal of the notation of security interest or by providing the debtor with documentation sufficient to enable the debtor to effect the removal [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9513].

If a financing statement covers collateral other than consumer goods, within 20 days after a secured party receives an authenticated demand from a debtor, the secured party must cause the secured party of record for a financing statement to send to the debtor a termination statement for the financing statement or file the termination statement in the filing office if any of the following conditions is satisfied [Com. Code § 9513(c)]:

- Except in the case of a financing statement covering accounts or chattel paper that has been sold or goods that are the subject of a consignment, there is no obligation secured by the collateral covered by the financing statement and no commitment to make an advance, incur an obligation, or otherwise give value.

- The financing statement covers accounts or chattel paper that has been sold but as to which the account debtor or other person obligated has discharged its obligation.

- The financing statement covers goods that were the subject of a consignment to the debtor but are not in the debtor's possession.

- The debtor did not authorize the filing of the initial financing statement.

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9510 when only one of several secured parties files the termination statement, on the filing of a termination statement with the filing office, the financing statement to which the termination statement relates ceases to be effective [Com. Code § 9513(d)]. A record authorized by one secured party of record does not affect the financing statement with respect to another secured party of record [Com. Code § 9510(b)].

[l] Statement of Release

A secured party may release its security interest in all or a part of the collateral covered by a filed financing statement by filing an amendment that deletes collateral. The amendment must identify the initial financing statement by its file number [see Com. Code § 9512(a), discussed in [g][ii], above].

[m] Assignment of, or Reflected in, Financing Statement

Com. Code § 9514 provides a permissive device whereby a secured party of record may assign its power to affect a financing statement. It may also be useful for a secured party who has assigned all or part if its security interest or agricultural lien and wishes to have that fact noted of record so that inquiries concerning the transaction would be addressed to the assignee. On the filing of the assignment, the assignee becomes the "secured party of record" [see Com. Code § 9511(a), discussed in [k], above] and may authorize the filing of a continuation statement, termination statement, or other amendment. Under Com. Code § 9310(c), discussed in [a][i], above, it is not necessary to file an assignment to continue the perfected status of a security interest against creditors and transferees of the original debtor. However, if an assignment is not filed, the assignor remains the secured party of record with the power (even if not the right) to authorize the filing of effective amendments [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9514].

Except as otherwise provided with respect to fixture fillings [see Com. Code § 9514(c), discussed in § 503.47[4]], an initial financing statement may reflect an assignment of all of the secured party's power to authorize an amendment to the financing statement by providing the name and mailing address of the assignee as the name and address of the secured party [Com. Code § 9514(a); see Com. Code § 9521(a) (universal form of initial financing statement with space to indicate assignee as secured party)].

Except as otherwise provided with respect to fixture fillings [see Com. Code § 9514(c), discussed in § 503.47[4]], a secured party of record may assign all or part of its power to authorize an amendment to a financing statement by filing in the filing office an amendment of the financing statement which does all of the following [Com. Code § 9514(b)]:

- Identifies, by its file number, the initial financing statement to which it relates.
- Provides the name of the assignor.
- Provides the name and mailing address of the assignee.

If an amendment of a financing statement which provides the name of a person as a secured party or a representative of a secured party is filed, the person named in the amendment is a secured party of record. If an amendment is filed under Com. Code § 9514(b), the assignee named in the amendment is a secured party of record [Com. Code § 9511(b)]. A person remains a secured party of record until the filing of an amendment of the financing statement which deletes the person [Com. Code § 9511(c)].

An assignment of only some of the secured party's power to affect a financing statement, for example, the power to affect the financing statement as it relates to particular items of collateral or as it relates to an undivided interest in a security interest in all the collateral, cannot be done in an initial financing statement; it must be done by an amendment adding the assignee as a secured party of record [UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9514].

[n] Request for Financing Statement Information

Any person who requests the following information may receive it from the filing office [Com. Code § 9523(c)]:

- Whether there is on file on a date and time specified by the filing office, but not a date earlier than three business days before the filing office receives the request, any financing statement that (1) designates a particular debtor or, if the request so states, designates a particular debtor at the address specified in the request, (2) has not lapsed under Com. Code § 9515 with respect to all secured parties of record, and (3) if the request so states, it has lapsed under Com. Code § 9515 and a record of which is maintained by the filing office for one year after lapse in accordance the Com. Code § 9522(a).

- The date and time of filing of each financing statement.

- The information provided in each financing statement.

The filing office may communicate the foregoing information in any medium. However, if requested, the filing office must communicate the information by issuing its written certificate [Com. Code § 9523(d)]. If requested, the Secretary of State must issue a combined certificate showing the information as to financing statements as specified in Com. Code § 9523, the information as to state tax liens as specified in Gov. Code § 7226, the information as to attachment liens as specified in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 488.375 and 488.405, the information as to judgment liens as specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 697.580, and the information as to federal liens as specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 2103 [Com. Code § 9528].

[7] Perfection in Proceeds

[a] When Perfection Occurs and Ceases

A security interest in proceeds is a perfected security interest if the security interest in the original collateral was perfected [Com. Code § 9315(c); see Com. Code §§ 9203(f), 9315(a)(2) (discussed in § 503.21[2] and [4], respectively, when security interest attaches to proceeds); see also Com. Code § 9102(a)(64) (definition of "proceeds," discussed in § 503.11[18])].

A perfected security interest in proceeds becomes unperfected on the 21st day after the security interest attaches to the proceeds unless any of the following conditions is satisfied [see UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9315 (period of automatic perfection extended form 10 days under former Division 9; loss of perfected status is prospective only, as opposed to retroactive unperfected status under Com. Code § 9515(c))]:

- A filed financing statement covers the original collateral, the proceeds are collateral in which a security interest may be perfected by a filing in the same office where that financing statement has been filed, and the proceeds are not acquired with cash proceeds [Com. Code § 9315(d)(1); but see, UCC Comment 5 to Com. Code § 9315, at [b], below].

- The proceeds are identifiable cash proceeds [Com. Code § 9315(d)(2); see Com. Code § 9315(b) (discussed in § 503.21[4], identifiable proceeds)].

- The security interest in the proceeds is perfected other than under Com. Code § 9315(c) (above) when the security interest attaches to the proceeds or within 20 days thereafter [Com. Code § 9315(d)(3)].

If a filed financing statement covers the original collateral, a security interest in proceeds which remains perfected under Com. Code § 9315(d)(1) becomes unperfected either (1) when the effectiveness of the filed financing statement lapses under Com. Code § 9515 (lapse) or is terminated under Com. Code § 9513 (termination statement), or (2) the 21st day after the security interest attaches to the proceeds, whichever is later [Com. Code § 9315(e)].

Revised Division 9 deletes the provision of former Com. Code § 9306(4), regarding restrictions on a secured party's interest in proceeds if insolvency proceedings are instituted by or against a debtor. Except as provided in the Bankruptcy Code, the debtor's act of entering into bankruptcy does not affect a secured party's right to proceeds [see UCC Comment 8 to Com. Code § 9315].

[b] Perfection of Security Interest in Proceeds Acquired With Cash Proceeds

Com. Code § 9315(d)(1) and (3) reach the same result as former Com. Code § 9306(3)(a) with respect to proceeds acquired with cash proceeds--namely, that a security interest in proceeds acquired with cash proceeds remains perfected only if the description of the collateral in the original filed financing statement included the type of property acquired with cash proceeds--but take a different approach. Com. Code § 9315(d)(1) makes the general rule of continued perfection inapplicable to proceeds acquired with cash proceeds, leaving perfection of a security interest in those proceeds to the generally applicable perfection rule under Com. Code § 9315(d)(3) [see, UCC Comment 5 to Com. Code § 9315].

ILLUSTRATIONS:

Perfection of Security Interest in Proceeds Acquired With Cash Proceeds. Lender perfects a security interest in Debtor's inventory by filing a financing statement covering "inventory." Debtor sells the inventory and deposits the buyer's check in its deposit account. Debtor draws a check on that account and uses it to pay for equipment. Under the "lowest intermediate balance rule," the funds used to pay for the equipment are identifiable cash proceeds of the inventory. Does Lender's security interest remain perfected in the equipment? No. Because the equipment was purchased with cash proceeds, Com. Code § 9315(d)(1) does not extend perfection beyond the 20-day automatic period [see UCC Comment 5, Example 1, to Com. Code § 9315].

Lender perfects a security interest in Debtor's inventory by filing a financing statement covering "all debtor's property." As in the previous example, debtor sells the inventory, deposit buyer's check in its deposit account, and draws a check on that account to pay for equipment. Under the "lowest intermediate balance rule," the funds used to pay for the equipment are identifiable cash proceeds of the inventory. Does Lender's security interest in the equipment remain perfected beyond the 20-day automatic period ? Yes. Because the financing statement was sufficient to perfect a security interest in debtor's equipment, under Com. Code § 9315(d)(3), lender's security interest in the equipment proceeds remains perfected [see UCC Comment 5, Example 2, to Com. Code § 9315].

[c] Continuation of Perfection in Cash Proceeds

Com. Code § 9315(d)(2) extends the benefits for former Com Code § 9306(3)(b) and (c) to identifiable cash proceeds of all types of collateral in which a security interest is perfected by any method. Under Com. Code § 9315(d)(2), if the security interest in the original collateral was perfected, a security interest in identifiable cash proceeds will remain perfect indefinitely, regardless of whether the security interest in the original collateral remains perfected. In many cases, however, such as those governed by Com. Code §§ 9330(d) (purchaser of instrument), 9331 (holder in due course of check), 9332 (transferee of money or funds from deposit account), a purchaser or other transferee of the cash proceeds will take free of the perfected security interest [see UCC Comment 7 to Com. Code § 9315].

§ 503.23 Conflict of Laws as to Perfection and Priority of Security Interests

[1] General Rules

[a] Nonpossessory Security Interests

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code §§ 9303-9306, inclusive, with respect to the specific types of property mentioned in those sections, and except as otherwise provided in this section, while a debtor is located in a jurisdiction, the local law of that jurisdiction governs perfection, the effect of perfection or nonperfection, and the priority of a security interest in collateral [Com. Code § 9301(1)]. Com. Code § 9301(1) is intended to simplify prior law and governs both tangible and intangible collateral [UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9301; but see Com. Code §§ 9705, 9706 (discussed in § 503.10[2], transition provisions may require refiling)].

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9301(4) [see § 503.23[1][c]], while negotiable tangible documents, goods, instruments, money, or tangible chattel paper is located in a jurisdiction, the local law of that jurisdiction governs all of the following [Com. Code § 9301(3)]:

- Perfection of a security interest in the goods by filing a fixture filing.
- Perfection of a security interest in timber to be cut.
- The effect of perfection or nonperfection and the priority of a nonpossessory security interest in the collateral.

Com. Code § 9301(3)(B) governs only timber to be cut, not timber that has been cut. Once the timber is cut, the general rule of Com. Code § 9301(1) applies. However, to ensure continued perfection, the secured party should file in both the jurisdiction in which the timber to be cut is located (in the office in which a real property mortgage would be filed) and in the state where the debtor is located (a central filing) [UCC Comment 5c to Com. Code § 9301; see Com. Code § 9501 (filing)].

Com. Code §§ 9303-9306 govern the following types of collateral and are discussed as follows:

- Com. Code § 9303 governs goods covered by certificates of title and is discussed in*§ 503.23[2]*.
- Com. Code § 9304 governs deposit accounts and is discussed in § 503.58[2].
- Com. Code § 9305 governs investment property and is discussed in § 503.56[2].
- Com. Code § 9306 governs letter-of-credit rights and is discussed in § 503.59[2].

[b] Possessory Security Interests

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code §§ 9303-9306, inclusive, with respect to the specific types of property mentioned in those sections [see § 503.23[1][a]], while collateral is located in a jurisdiction, the local law of that jurisdiction governs perfection, the effect of perfection or nonperfection, and the priority of a possessory security interest in that collateral [Com. Code § 9301(2)]. Com. Code § 9301(2) eliminates the troublesome "last event" test of former law [UCC Comment 5a to Com. Code § 9301].

A possessory security interest in collateral, other than goods covered by a certificate of title and as-extracted collateral consisting of goods, remains continuously perfected if all of the following conditions are satisfied [Com. Code § 9316(c)]:

- The collateral is located in one jurisdiction and subject to a security interest perfected under the law of that jurisdiction.
- Thereafter the collateral is brought into another jurisdiction.
- On entry into the other jurisdiction, the security interest is perfected under the law of the other jurisdiction.

[c] Minerals [As-Extracted Collateral]

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code §§ 9303-9306, inclusive, with respect to the specific types of property mentioned in those sections [see [a], above], the local law of the jurisdiction in which the wellhead or minehead is located governs perfection, the effect of perfection or nonperfection, and the priority of a security interest in as-extracted collateral [Com. Code § 9301(4)]. A filing with respect to minerals that are as-extracted collateral should be made in the office in which a real property mortgage would be filed [UCC Comment 5 d to Com. Code § 9301; see Com. Code § 9501 (filing)].

[d] Farm Products

While farm products are located in a jurisdiction, the local law of that jurisdiction governs perfection, the effect of perfection or nonperfection, and the priority of an agricultural lien on the farm products [Com. Code § 9302].

[2] Rules Regarding Debtor's Location

[a] In General

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9307, the following rules determine a debtor's location [Com. Code § 9307(b); see Com. Code § 9307(k) (Com. Code § 9307 applies only for purposes of Com. Code §§ 9301-9342)]:

- A debtor who is an individual is located at the individual's principal residence.

- A debtor that is an organization and has only one place of business is located at its place of business [see Com. Code § 9307(a) ("place of business" means a place where a debtor conducts its affairs)].

- A debtor that is an organization and has more than one place of business is located at its chief executive office.

However, the foregoing rules of Com. Code § 9307(b) apply only if a debtor's residence, place of business, or chief executive office, as applicable, is located in a jurisdiction whose law generally requires information concerning the existence of a nonpossessory security interest to be made generally available in a filing, recording, or registration system as a condition or result of the security interest's obtaining priority over the rights of a lien creditor with respect to the collateral. If Com. Code § 9307(b) does not apply, the debtor is located in the District of Columbia [Com. Code § 9307(c)].

A person that ceases to exist, have a residence, or have a place of business continues to be located in the jurisdiction specified by Com. Code § 9307(b) and (c) [Com. Code § 9307(d)].

[b] Registered Organizations

"Registered organization" means an organization organized solely under the law of a single state or the United States and as to which the state or the United States must maintain a public record showing the organization to have been organized [Com. Code § 9102(a)(70)]. A registered organization that is organized under the law of a state is located in that state [Com. Code § 9307(e); see Com. Code § 9307(k) (Com. Code § 9307 applies only for purposes of this Com. Code §§ 9301-9342)]. Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9307(i), a registered organization that is organized under the law of the United States and a branch or agency of a bank that is not organized under the law of the United States or a state are located in any of the following jurisdictions [Com. Code § 9307(f)]:

- In the state that the law of the United States designates, if the law designates a state of location.

- In the state that the registered organization, branch, or agency designates, if the law of the United States authorizes the registered organization, branch, or agency to designate its state of location.

- In the District of Columbia, if neither of the two preceding rules applies.

A registered organization continues to be located in the jurisdiction specified by Com. Code § 9307(e) or (f) notwithstanding either (1) the suspension, revocation, forfeiture, or lapse of the registered organization's status as such in its jurisdiction of organ, or (2) the dissolution, winding up, or cancellation of the existence of the registered organization [Com. Code § 9307(g)].

[c] Federal Government, Banks, and Foreign Air Carriers

The United States is located in the District of Columbia [Com. Code § 9307(h); see Com. Code § 9307(k) (Com. Code § 9307 applies only for purposes of this Com. Code §§ 9301-9342)].

A branch or agency of a bank that is not organized under the law of the United States or a state is located in the state in which the branch or agency is licensed, if all branches and agencies of the bank are licensed in only one state [Com. Code § 9307(i)].

A foreign air carrier under the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, as amended, is located at the designated office of the agent on which service of process may be made on behalf of the carrier [Com. Code § 9307(j)].

[3] Goods Covered by Certificate of Title

[a] General Rule

The local law of the jurisdiction under whose certificate of title the goods are covered governs perfection, the effect of perfection or nonperfection, and the priority of a security interest in goods covered by a certificate of title from the time the goods become covered by the certificate of title until the goods cease to be covered by the certificate of title [Com. Code § 9303(c)]. Com. Code § 9303applies to goods covered by a certificate of title, even if there is no other relationship between the jurisdiction under whose certificate of title the goods are covered and the goods or the debtor [Com. Code § 9303(a)]. Goods become covered by a certificate of title when a valid application for the certificate of title and the applicable fee are delivered to the appropriate authority. Goods cease to be covered by a certificate of title at the earlier of the time the certificate of title ceases to be effective under the law of the issuing jurisdiction or the time the goods become covered subsequently by a certificate of title issued by another jurisdiction [Com. Code § 9303(b)].

[b] Perfection When Governing Law Changes

With respect to goods covered by a certificate of title issued by California, a secured party may perfect a security interest in those goods by taking possession of the goods only in the circumstances described in Com. Code § 9316(d) [Com. Code § 9313(b)]. Com. Code § 9313(b) is necessary to effect changes to the choice of law rules governing goods covered by certificates of title. It indicates the circumstances under which the secured party's act of taking possession of goods covered by a certificate of title is effective to perfect a security interest in the goods: the goods become covered by a certificate of title issued by California at a time when the security interest is perfected by any method under the law of another jurisdiction [UCC Comment 7 to Com. Code § 9313].

A security interest in goods covered by a certificate of title which is perfected by any method under the law of another jurisdiction remains perfected until the security interest would have become unperfected under the law of the other jurisdiction had the goods not become covered by the certificate of title from California [Com. Code § 9316(d)]. A security interest described in Com. Code § 9316(d) becomes unperfected as against a purchaser of the goods for value and is deemed never to have been perfected as against a purchaser of the goods for value if the applicable requirements for perfection under the relevant certificate of title law, regulation, or treaty [see Com. Code § 9311 (b)] or under Com. Code § 9313 (possession) are not satisfied before the earlier of either of the following [Com. Code § 9316(e]:

- The time the security interest would have become unperfected under the law of the other jurisdiction had the goods not become covered by a certificate of title from California.

- The expiration of four months after the goods had become covered by a certificate of title from California.

[c] Interest Omitted From Certificate of Title

If, while a security interest in goods is perfected by any method under the law of another jurisdiction, California state issues a certificate of title that does not show that the goods are subject to the security interest or contain a statement that they may be subject to security interests not shown on the certificate, a buyer of the goods, other than a person in the business of selling goods of that kind, takes free of the security interest if the buyer gives value and receives delivery of the goods after issuance of the certificate and without knowledge of the security interest [Com. Code § 9337(1)]. In that situation, the omitted security interest also is subordinate to a conflicting security interest in the goods that attaches, and is perfected by compliance with the applicable certificate of title statute [see Com. Code § 9311(b)], after issuance of the certificate and without the conflicting secured party's knowledge of the security interest [Com. Code § 9337(2)].

[4] When Perfection of Security Interest Lapses Following Change in Governing Law

A security interest perfected pursuant to the law of the jurisdiction designated in Com. Code § 9301(1) (discussed in § 503.23[1][a]) or in Com. Code § 9305(c) (discussed in § 503.56[2][a]) remains perfected until the earliest of any of the following [Com. Code § 9316(a)]:

- The time perfection would have ceased under the law of that jurisdiction.
- The expiration of four months after a change of the debtor's location to another jurisdiction.
- The expiration of one year after a transfer of collateral to a person that thereby becomes a debtor and is located in another jurisdiction.

If a security interest described in Com. Code § 9316(a) becomes perfected under the law of the other jurisdiction before the earliest time or event described in that subdivision, it remains perfected thereafter. If the security interest does not become perfected under the law of the other jurisdiction before the earliest time or event, it becomes unperfected and is deemed never to have been perfected as against a purchaser of the collateral for value [Com. Code § 9316(b)].

Other rules concerning changes in law governing perfection and priority of security interests are Com. Code § 9316(c), governing possessory security interests, discussed in § 503.23[1][b], Com. Code § 9316(d), (e), governing goods covered by certificates of title, discussed in § 503.23[3][b], and Com. Code § 9316(f), (g), governing security interest in deposit accounts, letter-of-credit rights, or investment property, which is discussed in § 503.58[2][b].

B. Creation, Perfection, and Priorities of Security Interests Generally

44-503 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 503.24

§ 503.24 Determination of Priorities

[1] Unperfected Interests

An unperfected security interest or agricultural lien normally is subordinate to the rights of persons specifically given priority under Com. Code § 9322 (discussed at § 503.24[2]) [see Com. Code § 9317(a)(1)] and of persons who become lien creditors before the earlier of the following times [Com. Code § 9317(a)(2); but see Com. Code §§ 9317(e), 9323(b), below; see also, e.g., Full Throttle Films, Inc. v. National Mobile Television, Inc. (2009) 180 Cal. App. 4th 1438, 1442-1445, 103 Cal. Rptr. 3d 560 (creditor's lien was prior to third-party claim on attached property because evidence failed to prove that claimant had priority under either statutory test)]:

- The time the security interest or agricultural lien is perfected, or

- The time one of the conditions specified in Com. Code § 9203(b)(3) (requirements for security interest to become enforceable, discussed in § 503.21[2]) is met and a financing statement covering the collateral is filed.

Additionally, in the case of goods, instruments, tangible documents, and tangible chattel paper, or a security certificate, a buyer takes free of an unperfected security interest or agricultural lien if that buyer is not a secured party, gives value, and receives delivery of the collateral without knowledge of the security interest or agricultural lien before it is perfected [Com. Code § 9317(b); see Louis & Diederich, Inc. v. Cambridge European Imports, Inc. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1574, 1586-1587, 234 Cal. Rptr. 889 (under former Com. Code § 9301(1)(c), knowledge of transferee is actual knowledge, not what reasonable person should have known from circumstances; because California motor vehicle registration system is "full title system," transferee who had no knowledge of defect in title was entitled to rely on information in registration and ownership certificates without further inquiry)]. Similarly, a licensee of a general intangible or a buyer, other than a secured party, of accounts, electronic chattel paper, general intangibles, or investment property other than a certificated security takes free of a security interest if the licensee or buyer gives value without knowledge of the security interest and before it is perfected [Com. Code § 9317(c)]. Both of the foregoing (Com. Code § 9317(b), (c)) and Com. Code § 9317(a)(2), are subject to Com. Code § 9317(e), which, except with respect to certain persons taking goods in the ordinary course of business [see Com. Code §§ 9320, 9321, discussed in § 503.24[3]], gives priority to a person who files a financing statement with respect to a purchase money security interest before or within 20 days after the debtor receives delivery of the collateral. That purchase money security interest takes priority over the rights of a buyer, lessee, or lien creditor which arose between the time the security interest attached and the time of filing [Com. Code § 9317(e)].

Except with respect to a security interest held by a secured party that is a buyer of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes or a consignor [Com. Code § 9323(c)], a security interest is subordinate to the rights of a person who becomes a lien creditor to the extent that the security interest secures an advance made more than 45 days after the person becomes a lien creditor unless (1) the advance was made without knowledge of the lien or (2) the advance was made pursuant to a commitment entered into without knowledge of the lien [Com. Code § 9323(b)]. The foregoing does not elevate the priority of a security interest that is subordinate to the rights of a lien creditor under Com. Code § 9317(a)(2); it only subordinates [UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9323]. A secured party's knowledge does not cut short the 45-day period during which future advances can achieve priority over an intervening line creditor's interest. Rather, because of the impact of Com. Code § 9323(b) on the question whether a security interest in future advances is "protected" under I.R.C. § 6323(c)(2) and (d), the priority of the security interest for future advances over a lien creditor is made absolute for 45 days regardless of the knowledge of the secured party concerning the lien. However, if the advance is made after the 45 days, the advance will not have priority unless it was made or committed without knowledge of the lien [UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9323].

[2] Perfected Interests

[a] General Priority Rules

Generally, conflicting security interests and agricultural liens rank in priority according to time of filing or perfection. Priority dates from the time a filing covering the collateral is first made, or from the time the security interest or agricultural lien is first perfected, whichever is earlier, if there is no period thereafter when there is neither filing nor perfection [Com. Code § 9322(a)(1)]. A perfected security interest or agricultural lien has priority over a conflicting unperfected security interest or agricultural lien [Com. Code § 9322(a)(2)]. If conflicting security interests and agricultural liens are unperfected, the first to attach or become effective has priority [Com. Code § 9322(a)(3)]. The foregoing may be affected by Com. Code § 9709(b) (discussed in § 503.10[2][h]) if a filing that occurred before the effective date of revised Division 9 was ineffective to perfect a security interest under former Division 9, but is effective under revised Division 9 [see U.C.C. Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9322].

When there is more than one perfected security interest, the security interests rank according to priority in time of filing or perfection. "Filing" of course refers to the filing of a financing statement. "Perfect" refers to the acquisition of a perfected security interest, that is one that has attached and as to which any required perfection step has been taken [see U.C.C. Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9322; Com. Code §§ 9308, 9309]. The rule in Com. Code § 9322(a)(1) applies to security interests that are perfected by any method, including temporarily (Com. Code § 9312) or on attachment (Com. Code § 9309) even though there may be no notice to creditors or subsequent purchasers and notwithstanding any common-law rule to the contrary. The form of the claim to priority--filing or perfection--may shift from time to time, and the rank will be based on the first filing or perfection as long as there is no intervening period without filing or perfection [U.C.C. Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9322; see Com. Code § 9308(c)]

ILLUSTRATION:

First to File Has Priority. On February 1, A files a financing statement covering a certain item of Debtor's equipment. On March 1, B files a financing statement covering the same equipment. On April 1, B makes a loan to Debtor and obtains a security interest in the equipment. On May 1, A makes a loan to Debtor and obtains a security interest in the same collateral. Who has priority? A has priority even though B's loan was made earlier and was perfected when made. It makes no difference whether A knew > of B's security interest when A made its advance. The foregoing problem is particular to a notice-filing system under which filing may occur before the security interest attaches [see Com. Code § 9502]. The justification for determining priority by order of filing lies in the necessity of protecting the filing system--that is of allowing the first secured party who has filed to make subsequent advances without each time having to check for subsequent filings as a condition of protection. However, this first-to-file protection is not absolute. For example Com. Code § 9324 affords priority to certain purchase money security interests, even if a competing secured party was the first to file or perfect [see U.C.C. Comment 4, Example 1, to Com. Code § 9322].

A perfected agricultural lien on collateral has priority over a conflicting security interest in or agricultural lien on the same collateral if the statute creating the agricultural lien so provides [Com. Code § 9322(g)]. If the statute creating the agricultural lien does not grant it priority, Com. Code § 9322(a) applies the same priority rules to an agricultural line as to a security interest, regardless of whether the agricultural line conflicts with another agricultural lien or with a security interest [UCC Comment 12 to Com. Code § 9322].

Com. Code § 9322 states the general priority rules, which are subject to other rules in Com. Code 9301 et seq. and the following exceptions [Com. Code § 9322(f)]:

- A perfected agricultural lien on collateral [Com. Code § 9322(f)(1), (g)].
- A security interest of a collecting bank [Com. Code § 9322(f)(2); see Com. Code § 4210].
- A security interest of an issuer or nominated person [Com. Code § 9322(f)(3); see Com. Code § 5118].
- A security interest arising under Division 2 (Com. Code § 2101 et seq.) or Division 10 (Com. Code § 10101) [Com. Code § 9322(f)(4); see Com. Code § 9110].

Some of the other rules in Com. Code 9301 et seq. that override the general rules of Com. Code § 9322 are those governing purchase money interests [Com. Code § 9324; see § 503.24[2][c]] and those allowing special priority in particular types of collateral, such as Com. Code § 9327 (deposit accounts, discussed in § 503.58[3]), Com. Code § 9328 (investment property, discussed in § 503.56[3]), Com. Code § 9329 (letter of credit rights, discussed in § 503.59[3]), Com. Code § 9330 (chattel paper and instruments, discussed in §§ 503.49[3], 503.50[2], and 503.52[8]), and Com. Code § 9334 (fixtures, discussed in §§ 503.24[2][e] and 503.47[6]) [see U.C.C. Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9322].

[b] Priorities in Supporting Obligations and Proceeds

For purposes of Com. Code § 9322(a)(1) [see § 503.24[2][a]], the time of filing or perfection as to a security interest in collateral is also the time of filing or perfection as to a security interest in proceeds of the collateral [Com. Code § 9322(b)(1); see Com. Code § 9315, discussed in §§ 503.21[4], 503.22[7]]. Similarly, for purposes of Com. Code § 9322(a)(1), the time of filing or perfection as to a security interest supported by a supporting obligation is also the time of filing or perfection as to a security interest in the supporting obligation [Com. Code § 9322(b)(2)]. A "supporting obligation" is a letter-of-credit right or secondary obligation that supports the payment or performance of an account, chattel paper, document, general intangible, instrument, or investment property [Com. Code § 9102(a)(77)]. Inasmuch as no agricultural lien on proceeds arise under Division 9, Com. Code § 9322(b)-(e) do not apply to proceeds of agricultural liens. However, if an agricultural lien has priority under Com. Code § 9322(g) (discussed in § 503.24[2][a]), and the statute creating the agricultural lien gives the secured party a line on proceeds of the collateral subject to the lien, a court should apply the principle of Com. Code § 9322(g) and award priority in the proceeds to the holder of the perfected agricultural lien [UCC Comment 12 to Com. Code § 9322].

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9322(f) [see § 503.24[2][a]], a security interest in collateral which qualifies for priority over a conflicting security interest under Com. Code § 9327 (deposit accounts, discussed in § 503.58[3]), Com. Code § 9328 (investment property, discussed in § 503.56[3]), Com. Code § 9329 (letter-of-credit rights, discussed in § 503.59[3]), Com. Code § 9330 (chattel paper and instruments, discussed in §§ 503.49[3], 503.50[2], 503.52[9]), or Com. Code § 9331 (purchasers of instrument, documents, or securities, discussed in § 503.24[3]), also has priority over a conflicting security interest in both of the following [Com. Code § 9322(c)]:

- Any supporting obligation for the collateral.

- Proceeds of the collateral if (1) the security interest in proceeds is perfected, (2) the proceeds are cash proceeds or of the same type as the collateral, and (3) in the case of proceeds that are proceeds of proceeds, all intervening proceeds are cash proceeds, proceeds of the same type as the collateral, or an account relating to the collateral.

Com. Code § 9322(c)(2) provides the baseline priority rule for proceeds of "non-filing" collateral, which applies if the secured party has taken steps required for a non-temporal priority over a conflicting security interest in "non-filing" collateral, such as control in the case of a deposit account. Com. Code § 9322(c)(2) determines the priority of proceeds of non-filing collateral whether or not there exists an actual conflicting security interest in the original non-filing collateral. Under Com. Code § 9322(c)(2), the priority in the original collateral continues in proceeds, if the security interest in proceeds is perfected and the proceeds are cash-proceeds or non-filing proceeds of the same type as the original collateral. "Type of collateral" means a type of collateral defined in the Uniform Commercial Code and should be read broadly. For example, a security is "of the same type" as a security entitlement (i.e., investment property) and a promissory note is "of the same type" as a draft (i.e., instrument) [UCC Comment 8 to Com. Code § 9322].

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9322(f) [see 503.24[2][a]], if the proceeds of the collateral are not cash proceeds, chattel paper, negotiable documents, instruments, investment property, or letter-of-credit rights, and a security interest was perfected in collateral that is chattel paper, deposit accounts, negotiable documents, instruments, investment property, or letter-of-credit rights by a method other than filing, conflicting perfected security interests in proceeds of the collateral rank according to priority in time of filing [Com. Code § 9322(d), (e)].

[c] Purchase Money Security Interests

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9324(g), a perfected purchase money security interest [see Com. Code § 9103 (defining "purchase money security interest," discussed in § 503.11[19])], in goods other than inventory or livestock [see discussions in §§ 503.40[5] (purchase money security interests in goods, livestock, and software), 503.41[2] (purchase money security interest in inventory)] has priority over a conflicting security interest in the same goods, and, except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9327 [see discussion in § 503.58[3]], a perfected security interest in its identifiable proceeds also has priority, if the purchase money security interest is perfected when the debtor receives possession of the collateral or within 20 days thereafter [Com. Code § 9324(a)]. The rationale for giving purchase money security interests priority is in part to counteract the fact creditors may tie up all of debtor's assets through after-acquired property clauses [see T.M. Cobb Co. v. County of Los Angeles (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 606, 621, 128 Cal. Rptr. 655, 547 P.2d 431 (discussing former Com. Code §§ 9312(3) and (4))].

The secured party may file with respect to a purchase money security interest before or within 20 days after the debtor receives possession of the collateral. In that case, except as otherwise provided in Com. Code §§ 9320, 9321 (discussed in § 503.24[3]), the purchase money security takes priority over the rights of a buyer, lessee, or lien creditor which arise between the time the security interest attaches and the time of filing [Com. Code § 9317(e)].

If more than one security interest qualifies for priority in the same collateral under Com. Code § 9324(a), (b), (d), or (f)

[see discussions in §§ 503.40[5], 503.41[2]], the following rules apply [Com. Code § 9324(g)]:

- A security interest securing an obligation incurred as all or part of the price of the collateral has priority over a security interest securing an obligation incurred for value given to enable the debtor to acquire rights in, or the use of, collateral.

- In all other cases, Com. Code § 9322(a) (discussed in § 503.24[2][a]) applies to the qualifying security interests.

[d] Future Advances

A security agreement may provide that collateral secures futures advances [see Com. Code § 9204(c) (discussed in § 503.21[5])]. Generally, the rule in Code § 9322(a)(l) [see § 503.24[2][a]] does not distinguish among various advances made by a secured party. The priority of every advance dates from the earlier of filing or perfection. However, in rare instances, the priority of an advance dates from the time the new advance is made [UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9322]. Com. Code § 9323 collects all the special rules dealing with the priority of advances made by a secured party after a third party acquires an intervening security interest in the collateral [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9323]:

- Com. Code § 9323(b) (when lien creditor takes subject to advance) is discussed in [1], above.

- Com. Code § 9323(d), (e) (when buyer, other than in ordinary course of business, takes free of interest securing advance) is discussed in § 503.40[5][a].

- Com. Code § 9323(f), (g) (when lessee, other than in ordinary course of business, takes free of interest securing advance) is discussed in § 503.40[5][b].

Except with respect to a security interest held by a secured party who is a buyer of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes or a consignor [Com. Code § 9323(c)], for purposes of determining the priority of a perfected security interest under Com. Code § 9322(a)(1), perfection of the security interest dates from the time an advance is made to the extent that the security interest secures an advance that satisfies both of the following conditions [Com. Code § 9323(a)]:

- It is made while the security interest is perfected only under Com. Code § 9309 when it attaches, or temporarily under Com. Code § 9312 (e), (f), or (g).

- It is not made pursuant to a commitment entered into before or while the security interest is perfected by a method other than under Com. Code § 9309 or under Com. Code § 9312 (e), (f), or (g).

The only time the first-to-file-or-perfect rule of Com. Code § 9322(a)(1) does not determine priority is when a financing statement was not filed and the advance is the giving of value, which constitutes the last step for attachment of perfection. Com. Code § 9323(a) states the only other instance when the time of an advance figures in the priority scheme in Com. Code § 9322: when the (other) security interest is perfected only automatically under Com. Code § 9309, or temporarily under Com. Code § 9312 (e), (f), or (g), and the advance was not made pursuant to a commitment entered into while the security interest was perfected by another method [UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9323].

[e] Priority of Perfected Security Interest in Crops Over Real Estate Encumbrance

A perfected security interest in crops growing on real property has priority over a conflicting interest of an encumbrancer or owner of the real property if the debtor has an interest of record in, or is in possession of, the real property [Com. Code § 9334(i)].

[f] Possessory Liens

A person in the ordinary course of business may furnish services or materials with respect to goods subject to a security interest. A lien on goods that depends on that person's possession, and is given by statute or rule of law for the materials, takes priority over a security interest unless the lien is statutory and the statute expressly provides otherwise [Com. Code § 9333]. If the statute creating the possessory lien is silent as to its priority relative to security interests, Com. Code § 9333 provides a rule of interpretation that the possessory lien takes priority, even if the statue has been construed judicially to make the possessory lien subordinate [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9333].

[3] Favored Position of Certain Buyers and Holders

[a] Buyers in Ordinary Course of Business

Although, under the Commercial Code generally, a buyer in the ordinary course of business is one who buys in good faith and without knowledge that the sale is in violation of a security interest [see Com. Code § 1201(b)(9), discussed in § 503.161[4]], Com. Code § 9320(a) specifically provides that, except when the goods are in the possession of the secured party under Com. Code § 9313 [Com. Code § 9320(e)], a buyer in the ordinary course of business takes free of a security interest created by the buyer's seller even if the security interest is perfected and the buyer knows of its existence [Com. Code § 9320(a)]. Read together, the general definition of buyer in the ordinary course of business and Com. Code § 9320(a) provide that the buyer takes free of the security interest if he or she merely knows there is a security interest that covers the goods, but takes subject to the security interest if he or she knows the sale violates a term in an agreement with the secured party [see U.C.C. Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9320; Producers Cotton Oil Co. v Amstar Corp (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 638, 653-654, 242 Cal. Rptr. 914 (decided under former Com. Code § 9307(1))]. Com. Code § 9320(b), which relates to consumer goods, is discussed in § 503.42[3]. For a complaint for use by a buyer in the ordinary course of business to seek a declaration that he or she takes free of another interest, see § 503.161.

The limitations of Com. Code § 9320(a) and (b) on persons who may take free of a security interest apply only to unauthorized sales by the debtor. If the secured party authorized the sale, in an express agreement or otherwise, the buyer takes free under Com. Code § 9315(a) without regard to the limitations of Com. Code § 9320 [see U.C.C. Comment 6 to Com. Code § 9320].

Other requirements for maintenance of a buyer's favored position vis-a-vis the holder of a perfected security interest are inherent in the definition of "buyer in the ordinary course of business," namely, that the sale was made by a person in the business of selling goods of the same kind as the collateral [American National Bank v. Cloud (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 766, 772-774, 247 Cal. Rptr. 325 ; see Com. Code § 1201(b)(9), discussed in § 503.161[4]], and that bulk sales, distress sales at an obvious loss price, or liquidation sales will not qualify as in the ordinary course of business [American National Bank v. Cloud (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 766, 772, 247 Cal. Rptr. 325 (dicta)].

[b] Licensees in Ordinary Course of Business

Until January 1, 2013 [Com. Code § 9321(d)], a licensee in ordinary course of business takes its rights under a nonexclusive license free of a security interest in the general intangible created by the licensor, even if the security interest is perfected and the licensee knows of its existence [Com. Code § 9321(b)].

A "licensee in ordinary course of business" is a person that becomes a licensee of a general intangible in good faith, without knowledge that the license violates the rights of another person in the general intangible, and in the ordinary course from a person in the business of licensing general intangibles of that kind. A person becomes a licensee in the ordinary course if the license to the person comports with the usual or customary practices in the kind of business in which the licensor is engaged or with the licensor's own usual or customary practices [Com. Code § 9321(a)].

[c] Lessees in Ordinary Course of Business

A lessee in ordinary course of business takes its leasehold interest free of a security interest in the goods created by the lessor, even if the security interest is perfected and the lessee knows of its existence [Com. Code § 9321(c)].

[d] Holders, Holders in Due Course, and Protected Purchasers

Nothing in Division 9 limits the rights of a holder in due course of a negotiable instrument [see Com. Code § 3302], a holder to which a negotiable document of title has been duly negotiated [see Com. Code § 7501], or a protected purchaser of a security [see Com. Code § 8303]. These holders or purchasers take priority over an earlier security interest, even if perfected, to the extent provided in Division 3 (Com. Code § 3101 et seq., Division 7 (Com. Code § 7101 et seq.), and Division 8 (Com. Code § 8101 et seq.) [Com. Code § 9331(a)]. Division 9 does not limit the rights of or impose liability on a person to the extent that the person is protected against the assertion of a claim under Division 8 [Com. Code § 9331(b)], nor does filing under Division 9 constitute notice of a claim or defense to the holders, or purchasers, or persons described in Com. Code § 9331(a) and (b) [Com. Code § 9331(c)].

[4] Interest or Lien Perfected by Filing Statement Containing Incorrect Information

If a security interest or agricultural lien is perfected by a filed financing statement providing information described in Com. Code § 9516(b)(5) which is incorrect at the time the financing statement is filed, the security interest or agricultural lien is subordinate to a conflicting perfected security interest in the collateral to the extent that the holder of the conflicting security interest gives value in reasonable reliance on the incorrect information [Com. Code § 9338(1)]. In addition, in that situation a purchaser of the collateral, other than a secured party, takes free of the security interest or agricultural lien to the extent that, in reasonable reliance on the incorrect information, the purchaser gives value and, in the case of tangible chattel paper, tangible documents, goods, instruments, or a security certificate, receives delivery of the collateral [Com. Code § 9338(2)]. A secured party or purchaser who has not made itself aware of the information in the filing office with respect to the debtor cannot act in "reasonable reliance" on the information [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9338].

Com. Code § 9338 applies to financing statements that contain information that is incorrect at the time of filing and imposes a small risk of subordination on the filer. Com. Code § 9507 deals with financing statements containing information that is correct at the time of filing but become incorrect later. Except as provided by Com. Code § 9507(c) with respect to changes in the debtor's name, an otherwise effective financing statement does not become ineffective if the information contained in it becomes inaccurate [UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9338].

The information described in Com. Code § 9516(b)(5) is:

- The debtor's mailing address.
- An indicate whether the debtor is an individual or an organization.
- If the financing statement indicates that the debtor is an organization, one of the following: (1) a type of organization for the debtor, (2) a jurisdiction of organization for the debtor, or (3) an organizational identification number for the debtor or an indication that the debtor has none.

For analogous rules applicable in the case of a certificate of title that omits a security interest, see Com. Code § 9337, discussed in § 503.23[3][c].

[5] Between Transferor's Secured Party and Transferee's Secured Party

[a] Security Interests in Transferred Collateral

Com. Code § 9325 is new in revised Division 9 and addresses the "double debtor" problem that arises when a debtor acquires property that is subject to a security interest created by another debtor [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9325]. Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9325(b), a security interest created by a debtor is subordinate to a security interest in the same collateral created by another person if the acquired the collateral subject to the security interest created by the other person, the security interest created by the other person was perfected when the debtor acquired the collateral, and there is no period thereafter when the security interest is unperfected [Com. Code § 9325(a)]. Com. Code § 9325(a) subordinates a security interest only if the security interest otherwise would have priority solely under the basic priority rules of Com. Code § 9322(a) (discussed in*§ 503.24[2][a]*) or under the purchase money priority rules of Com. Code § 9324, or the security interest arose solely under Com. Code § 2711(3) (buyer) or Com. Code § 10508(e) (lessee) [Com. Code § 9325(b)].

The appropriateness of the rule in Com. Code § 9325(a) is most apparent when it works to subordinate security interests having priority under the basic priority rules of Com. Code § 9322(a) (discussed in [2][a], above) or under the purchase money priority rules of Com. Code § 9324. The rule also works properly when applied to the security interest of a buyer under Com. Code § 2711(3) or a lessee under Com. Code § 10508(e). However, Com. Code § 9325(a) may provides an inappropriate resolution of the "double debtor" problem in some of the wide variety of other contexts in which the problem may arise. Although Com. Code § 9325(b) limits application of Com. Code § 9325(a) to those case in which Com. Code § 9325(a) is known to be appropriate, courts should apply the rule in other settings, if necessary to promote underlying purposes and policies of the Uniform Commercial Code [UCC Comment 6 to Com. Code § 9325].

[b] New Debtors

Com. Code § 9326 is new in revised Division 9 and addresses the priority contests that may arise when a new debtor becomes bound by the security agreement of an original debtor and each debtor has a secured creditor [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9326]. Subject to Com. Code § 9326(b), a security interest created by a new debtor [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(56) (defining "new debtor," at § 503.11[9][a]] which is perfected by a filed financing statement that is effective solely under Com. Code § 9508 (discussed in § 503.22[5][i]) in collateral in which a new debtor has or acquires rights is subordinate to a security interest in the same collateral which is perfected other than by a filed financing statement that is effective solely under Com. Code § 9508[Com. Code § 9326(a)]. "A filed financing statement that is effective solely under Com. Code § 9508" refers to a financing statement filing against the original debtor that continues to be effective under Com. Code § 9508. It does not encompass a new initial financing statement providing the name of the new debtor even if the initial financing statement is filed to maintain the effectiveness of a financing statement under circumstances described in Com. Code § 9508. Nor does it encompass a financing statement filed against the original debtor which remains effective against collateral transferred by the original debtor to a new debtor [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9326].

The other provisions relating to perfection and priority (Com. Code § 9301 et seq.) determine the priority among conflicting security interests in the same collateral perfected by filed financing statements that are effective solely under Com. Code § 9508. However, if the security agreements to which a new debtor became bound as debtor were not entered into by the same original debtor, the conflicting security interests rank according to priority in time of the new debtor's having become bound [Com. Code § 9326(b); see discussion in § 503.22[5][i]].

§ 503.25 Debtor's Statement of Indebtedness or List of Collateral

[1] Permitted Types of Requests

A debtor, by an authenticated record, may request information from the secured party (other than a buyer of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes or a consignor) regarding the collateral or the obligation. The request can be in any of the following three forms [Com. Code § 9210(a); see Com. Code § 9210(b) (exceptions to types of secured parties required to respond)]:

- A "request for an accounting," by which a debtor requests the recipient to provide an accounting of the unpaid obligations secured by collateral and reasonably identifies the transaction or relationship that is the subject of the request.

- A "request regarding a list of collateral," by which a debtor requests the recipient to approve or to correct a list of what the debtor believes to be the collateral securing an obligation and reasonably identifies the transaction or relationship that is the subject of the request.

- A "request regarding a statement of account," by which a debtor requests the recipient to approve or to correct a statement indicating what the debtor believes to be the aggregate amount of unpaid obligations secured by collateral as of a specified date and reasonably identifies the transaction or relationship that is the subject of the request.

A debtor is entitled to one response to a request under this section without charge during any six-month period. The secured party may require payment of a charge not exceeding $25 for each additional response [Com. Code § 9210(f)].

For a complaint for damages caused by the secured party's failure to respond to a request for accounting or correction or approval of statement, see § 503.100.

[2] Required Responses

A secured party, other than a buyer of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes or a consignor, must comply with a request within 14 days after receipt. In the case of a request for an accounting, the secured party must authenticate an accounting and send it to the debtor [Com. Code § 9210(b)(1)]. In the case of a request regarding a list of collateral or a request regarding a statement of account, the secured party must approve or correct the list or statement, authenticate it, and send the debtor the approval or correction [Com. Code § 9210(b)(2)].

Alternatively, with respect to a request regarding a list of collateral, if a secured party claims a security interest in all of a particular type of collateral owned by the debtor, that secured party may comply with by sending the debtor an authenticated record including a statement to the effect that it claims an interest in all of that particular type of collateral within 14 days after receipt [Com. Code § 9210(c)].

A secured party who fails to comply with a request regarding a list of collateral or a statement of account under Com. Code § 9210, may claim a security interest only as shown in the list or statement included in the request as against a person that is reasonably misled by the failure [Com. Code § 9625(g)]. A secured party who fails to comply with the request is also liable for actual and statutory damages ($500), as discussed in §§ 503.29 and 503.100[4].

[3] Procedure if Recipient Claims No Interest In Collateral or Obligation

If the person that receives a request regarding a list of collateral, a request for an accounting, or a request regarding a statement of account, claims no interest in the collateral or in the obligations (depending on which type of request is involved) when it receives the request, but claimed an interest in the collateral or in the obligations at an earlier time must comply with the request within 14 days after receipt by sending to the debtor an authenticated record that disclaims any interest in the collateral or the obligations (depending on the type of request involved) and, if known to the recipient, provides the name and mailing address of any assignee of or successor to the recipient's interest in the collateral or in the obligations [Com. Code § 9210(d) (collateral), (e) (obligations)].

§ 503.26 Rights and Duties of Parties in Possession

[1] Secured Party

A secured party must use reasonable care in the custody and preservation of collateral in that party's possession, as well as follow various other requirements and procedures discussed below. In the case of chattel paper or an instrument, reasonable care includes taking necessary steps to preserve rights against prior parties unless otherwise agreed [Com. Code § 9207(a)]. Except when the secured party in possession is a buyer of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes or a consignor [see Com. Code § 9207(d)], reasonable expenses (including the cost of any insurance and payment of taxes or other charges) incurred in the custody, preservation, use, or operation of the collateral are chargeable to the debtor and are secured by the collateral. The debtor bears the risk of accidental loss or damage to the extent of any deficiency in any effective insurance coverage [Com. Code § 9207(b)(1), (2)]. The secured party must keep the collateral identifiable, but fungible collateral may be commingled [Com. Code § 9207(b)(3)]. Except when the secured party in possession is a buyer of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes or a consignor [see Com. Code § 9207(d)], a secured party having possession of collateral, or control of collateral that is an electronic document of title, a deposit account, electronic chattel paper, investment property or a financial asset, or letter-of-credit rights [see generally Com. Code §§ 7106, 9104-9107] (1) may hold as additional security any proceeds, except money or funds, received from the collateral, (2) must apply money or funds received from the collateral to reduce the secured obligation, unless remitted to the debtor, and (3) may create a security interest in the collateral [Com. Code § 9207(c)]. Com. Code § 9207(d), applicable when the secured party is a buyer of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes or a consignor, is discussed in § 503.46[5].

A secured party is liable for any loss caused by his or her failure to meet any obligation imposed above [Com. Code § 9625(b)-(c); see §§ 503.29, 503.101]. The secured party may use or operate the collateral (1) for the purpose of preserving it or its value, (2) as permitted by an order of a court having competent, or (3) except in the case of consumer goods, in the manner and to the extent agreed by the debtor [Com. Code § 9207(b)(4)].

[2] Debtor in Possession

Because the debtor, as the owner of the collateral, is the one originally and normally entitled to its possession, a typical security agreement expressly provides for the rights and responsibilities of the debtor as to the collateral while it remains subject to the creditor's security interest.

A security agreement that expressly prohibits the debtor's disposition of the collateral without the written consent of the secured party in effect requires an actual prior or subsequent consent in writing by the secured creditor that manifests the creditor's intent to authorize disposition free of the security interest. Mere acquiescence of the creditor is insufficient, and any allowable exception of an implied agreement is limited to the situation of a prior course of dealing with the debtor that would permit such a disposition [Central Cal. Equip. Co. v. Dolk Tractor Co. (1978) 78 Cal. App. 3d 855, 862, 144 Cal. Rptr. 367 ; see Com. Code § 9315(a)(2); see also Gordon v. Hamm (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1324, 1330-1332, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 631 (owners' entrustment of used motor home to dealer did not constitute "disposition" for purposes of former Com. Code § 9306(2); buyers took motor home subject to original owners' lenders' perfected security interest)].

A secured party may also sue for impairment of the collateral or security interest by the alleged wrongful acts of third parties. The amount of damages for impairment is limited to a sum not greater than the balance due on the indebtedness plus collection costs [Baldwin v. Marina City Properties, Inc. (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 393, 414, 145 Cal. Rptr. 406 (secured party holding limited partnership interest as collateral, however, is not able to sue generally for breach of partnership agreement or breach of fiduciary duty arising out of the impairment)].

§ 503.27 Secured Party's Rights and Duties on Default

[1] Generally

After default, a secured party has the rights provided in Com. Code § 9601 et seq and, except to the extent that certain waivers by debtors and obligors are prohibited by Com. Code § 9602 [see discussion in § 503.28[2][a]], those rights provided by agreement of the parties [Com. Code § 9601(a)]. A secured party in possession of collateral or control of collateral under Com. Code § 7106 (electronic document of title), 9104 (deposit account), 9105 (electronic chattel paper), 9106 (investment property), or 9107 (letter-of-credit right) has the rights and duties provided in Com. Code § 9207, discussed in § 503.26[1] [Com. Code § 9601(b)]. The secured party may reduce a claim to judgment, foreclose, or otherwise enforce the claim, security interest, or agricultural lien by any available judicial procedure. If the collateral is documents, the secured party may proceed either as to the documents or as to the goods they cover [Com. Code § 9601(a)(2)]. The foregoing rights and remedies are cumulative and may be exercised simultaneously [Com. Code § 9601(c)]. The secured party may take possession of the collateral, as discussed in [2], below [Com. Code § 9609(1)(a); see KMAP, Inc. v. Town & Country Broadcasters, Inc. (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 544, 546-548, 122 Cal. Rptr. 420 (suit for deficiency after sale of collateral, which collateral was obtained by earlier suit for possession after default of debtor, does not constitute splitting of single cause of action barring subsequent deficiency suit, because two different causes of action are involved: right to improve security on default, and right to satisfaction of remaining debt after exhaustion of collateral)] and may dispose of the collateral, as discussed in [4], below [Com. Code § 9610]. The secured party may pursue alternative remedies until the obligation is satisfied [Brunzell Construction Co., Inc. v. Smith (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 617, 622-623, 246 Cal. Rptr. 182] .

Com. Code § 9601 et seq impose no duties on a secured party that is a consignor or is a buyer of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes except, as provided by Com. Code § 9607(c), discussed in [3][a], below [Com. Code § 9601(g)]. As discussed in § 503.29[4], a secured party owes no duties to debtors or obligors of whom it does not know or who it does know how to contact [see Com. Code §§ 9605, 9628].

[2] Taking Possession of Collateral

After default, a secured party has the right to take possession of the collateral unless otherwise agreed [Com. Code §

9609(a)(1)]. The secured party may proceed pursuant to judicial process in taking possession of the collateral or without judicial process, if it does so without breach of the peace [Com. Code § 9609(b)]. For a form for use to obtain possession by judicial process, see § 503.120. If so agreed, and in any event after default, the secured party may require the debtor to assemble the collateral and make it available at a place to be designated by the secured party which is reasonably convenient to both parties [Com. Code § 9609(c)]. The provision for self-help repossession has been held constitutional in that, although it allows for the taking of property without prior notice and opportunity for hearing, it is a procedure traditionally recognized at common law and it may be executed without state action [Kipp v. Cozens (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 709, 713-716, 115 Cal. Rptr. 423 ; see also Adams v. Southern Cal. First Nat'l Bank (1973) 492 F.2d 324, 329 , cert. denied, 419 U.S. 1006 (1974)] .

[3] Collection or Enforcement After Default

[a] In General

If so agreed, and in any event after default, a secured party may do all of the following [Com. Code § 9607(a), (b)]:

- Notify an account debtor or other person obligated on collateral to make payment or otherwise render performance to or for the benefit of the secured party.

- Take any proceeds to which the secured party is entitled under Com. Code § 9315.

- Enforce the obligations of an account debtor or other person obligated on collateral and exercise the rights of the debtor with respect to the obligation of the account debtor or other person obligated on collateral to make payment or otherwise render performance to the debtor, and with respect to any property that secures the obligations of the account debtor or other person obligated on the collateral. If necessary to enable a secured party to exercise the right of a debtor to enforce a mortgage nonjudicially, the secured party may record in the office in which a record of the mortgage is recorded both (1) a copy of the security agreement that creates or provides for a security interest in the obligation secured by the mortgage, and (2) the secured party's sworn affidavit in recordable form stating that a default has occurred and that the secured party is entitled to enforce the mortgage nonjudicially.

- If it holds a security interest in a deposit account perfected by control under paragraph Com. Code § 9104(a)(1) (bank at which deposit is maintained is secured party, as discussed in § 503.58[1]), apply the balance of the deposit account to the obligation secured by the deposit account.

- If it holds a security interest in a deposit account perfected by control under Com. Code § 9104(a)(2) or (3) (discussed in § 503.58[1]), instruct the bank to pay the balance of the deposit account to or for the benefit of the secured party.

A secured party must proceed in a commercially reasonable manner if the secured party undertakes to collect from or enforce an obligation of an account debtor or other person obligated on collateral and the secured party is entitled to charge back uncollected collateral or otherwise to full or limited recourse against the debtor or a secondary obligor [Com. Code § 9607(c)]. The fact that a greater amount could have been obtained by a collection or enforcement, disposition, or acceptance at a different time or in a different method from that selected by the secured party is not of itself sufficient to preclude the secured party from establishing that the collection, enforcement, disposition, or acceptance was made in a commercially reasonable manner [Com. Code § 9627(a)]. A collection, enforcement, disposition, or acceptance is commercially reasonable if it has been approved in or by (1) a judicial proceeding, (2) a bona fide creditors' committee, (3) a representative of creditors, or (4) an assignee for the benefit of creditors [Com. Code § 9627(c)], but approval in one of those ways need not be obtained; and lack of approval does not mean that the collection, enforcement, disposition, or acceptance is not commercially reasonable [Com. Code § 9627(d)]. A secured party may deduct from the collections made reasonable expenses of collection and enforcement, including reasonable attorney's fees and legal expenses incurred by the secured party [Com. Code § 9607(d)]. Com. Code § 9607(c) does not determine whether an account debtor, bank, or other person obligated on collateral owes a duty to a secured party [Com. Code § 9607(e)].

After application of the proceeds of collection in the order described in [b], below, the secured party must account to and pay a debtor for any surplus, and except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9626(b) (consumer goods transactions), the obligor is liable for any deficiency [Com. Code § 9608(a)(4)]. However, if the underlying transaction is a sale of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes, the debtor is not entitled to any surplus, and the obligor is not liable for any deficiency. Code Civ. Proc. § 701.040(b) relating to the payment of proceeds applies only if the security agreement provides that the debtor is entitled to any surplus [Com. Code § 9608(b)].

[b] Application of Proceeds of Collection or Enforcement

If a security interest or agricultural lien secures payment or performance of an obligation, a secured party must apply or pay over for application the cash proceeds of collection or enforcement under Com. Code § 9607 in the following order to [Com. Code § 9608(a)(1), (2)]:

- First, the reasonable expenses of collection and enforcement and, to the extent provided for by agreement and not prohibited by law, reasonable attorney's fees and legal expenses incurred by the secured party.

- Second, the satisfaction of obligations secured by the security interest or agricultural lien under which the collection or enforcement is made.

- Third, the satisfaction of obligations secured by any subordinate security interest in or other lien on the collateral subject to the security interest or agricultural lien under which the collection or enforcement is made if the secured party receives an authenticated demand for proceeds before distribution of the proceeds is completed. If requested by a secured party, a holder of a subordinate security interest or other lien must furnish reasonable proof of the interest or lien within a reasonable time. Unless the holder complies, the secured party need not comply with the holder's demand.

A secured party need not apply or pay over for application noncash proceeds of collection and enforcement under Com. Code § 9607 unless the failure to do so would be commercially unreasonable. A secured party that applies or pays over for application noncash proceeds must do so in a commercially reasonable manner [Com. Code § 9608(a)(3)].

[4] Acceptance of Collateral in Satisfaction of Debt (Strict Foreclosure)

[a] Requirements and Proposal

The secured party may accept the collateral in full or partial satisfaction of the obligation it secures, except when the collateral is consumer goods and the debtor has made a 60 percent payment, in which case the collateral must be disposed of unless the debtor waives the right to require disposition [Com. Code § 9620(a), (e); see § 503.42[5][a] (rules applicable to consumer goods collateral)]. The secured party's acceptance of the collateral in satisfaction of the debt is called "strict foreclosure" [see UCC Comment 2. to Com. Code § 9620]. An additional requirement when the collateral is consumer goods is that the collateral is not in the possession of the debtor when the debtor consents to the acceptance [Com. Code § 9620(a)(3)]. Other requirements, applicable in all cases, are that the debtor consent to the acceptance under Com. Code § 9620(c) and that the secured party not receive, within the time set forth in Com. Code § 9620(d) (generally 20 days after notification), discussed in [d], below, a notification of objection to the proposal authenticated by either (1) a person to which the secured party was required to send the proposal under Com. Code §

9621, or (2) any other person, other than the debtor, holding an interest in the collateral subordinate to the security interest that is the subject of the proposal [Com. Code § 9620(a)(1), (2); see also Com. Code § 9627 (indicia of commercially reasonable acceptance, discussed in [3][a], above and [5][a] below].

In addition to all of the foregoing, for a purported or apparent acceptance of collateral to be effective, the secured party must consent to the acceptance in an authenticated record or send a proposal to the debtor [Com. Code § 9620(b)]. This last requirement expands prior law by allowing the debtor to be the one to propose the acceptance of the collateral in satisfaction of the obligation [see UCC Comment 2. to Com. Code § 9620]. Further, it makes clear that mere delay in collection or disposition of collateral does not constitute a "constructive" strict foreclosure and that a debtor's voluntary surrender of collateral to a secured party and the secured party's acceptance of possession of the collateral does not, of itself, raise the implication that the secured party intends or is proposing to accept the collateral in satisfaction of the secured obligation [see UCC Comment 5. to Com. Code § 9620].

"Proposal" means a record authenticated by a secured party that includes the terms on which the secured party is willing to accept collateral in full or partial satisfaction of the obligation it secures pursuant to Com. Code §§ 9620, 9621, and 9622 [Com. Code § 9102(a)(66)]. A proposal need not take any particular form as long as it sets forth the terms on which the secured party is willing to accept the collateral in satisfaction. A proposal to accept collateral should specify that amount of the secured obligation to be satisfied or a means of calculating the amount, such as by including a per diem accrual figure. A proposal should include any conditions under which it may be revoked and describe any other applicable conditions. A conditional proposal generally requires the debtor's agreement under Com. Code § 9620(c)[see UCC Comment 4. to Com. Code § 9620]. For a notice of intention to accept collateral in satisfaction of the obligation it secures, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 42, Secured Transactions, § 42.246 (Matthew Bender).

[b] Debtor's Consent

A debtor consents to an acceptance of collateral in partial satisfaction of the obligation it secures only if the debtor agrees to the terms of the acceptance in a record authenticated after default [Com. Code § 9620(c)(1); see Com. Code § 9620(g); (partial satisfaction not permitted in consumer transactions)].

There are two ways in which a debtor can consent to acceptance of collateral in full satisfaction of the obligation it secures. A debtor can consent to an acceptance of collateral in full satisfaction of the obligation it secures (1) by agreeing to the terms of the acceptance in a record authenticated after default, or (2) by failing to object to a proposal by the secured party to accept the collateral in full satisfaction of the debt within the time allowed for objection, which requires the secured party to receive notification of the objection, authenticated by the debtor, within 20 days after the secured party sent the proposal [Com. Code § 9620(c)(2)]. The alternative of acceptance by silence is only available for unconditional proposals sent by the secured party after default or for proposals that are subject only to a condition that collateral not in the possession of the secured party be preserved or maintained [Com. Code § 9620(c)(2)(A)]. As noted in [a], above, if the collateral is consumer goods, the collateral cannot be in the debtor's possession when the debtor consents to the acceptance [Com. Code § 9620(a)(3)].

[c] Who Is Entitled to Notification of Proposal

A secured party that desires to accept collateral in full or partial satisfaction of the obligation it secures must send its proposal to all of the following persons [Com. Code § 9621(a)]:

- Any person from which the secured party has received, before the debtor consented to the acceptance, an authenticated notification of a claim of an interest in the collateral.

- Any other secured party or lienholder that, 10 days before the debtor consented to the acceptance, held a security interest in or other lien on the collateral perfected by the filing of a financing statement that (1) identified the collateral, (2) was indexed under the debtor's name as of that date, and (3) was filed in the office or offices in which to file a financing statement against the debtor covering the collateral as of that date.

- Any other secured party that, 10 days before the debtor consented to the acceptance, held a security interest in the collateral perfected by compliance with a registration or certificate of title statute, regulation, or treaty described in Com. Code § 9311(a).

An additional requirement in the case of a secured party that desires to accept collateral in partial satisfaction of the obligation it secures is to send the proposal to any secondary obligor [Com. Code § 9621(b)].

The foregoing notification requirements are expanded from those under prior law, in part because, unlike the effect under prior law, acceptance of the collateral by the secured party will cut off subordinate liens. The holder of a security interest who is entitled to notification and does not receive it has the right to recover any loss from the enforcing secured party under Com. Code § 9625(b), discussed in § 503.29 [see UCC Comment 2. to Com. Code § 9621; discussion in [e], below].

[d] Notification of Objection to Proposal

To be effective under Com. Code § 9620(a)(2), a notification of objection by a person to which the proposal was sent pursuant to Com. Code § 9621 must be received by the secured party within 20 days after notification (of the proposal) was sent to that person [Com. Code § 9620(d)(1)]. In other cases, to be effective under Com. Code § 9620(a)(2), a notification of objection must be received by the secured party within 20 days after the last notification was sent pursuant to Com. Code § 9621, or, if a notification was not sent, before the debtor consents to the acceptance in accordance with Com. Code § 9620(c)[Com. Code § 9620(d)(2)].

[e] Effect of Secured Party's Acceptance of Collateral

A secured party's acceptance of collateral in full or partial satisfaction of the obligation it secures does all of the following [Com. Code § 9622(a)]:

- Discharges the obligation to the extent consented to by the debtor.

- Transfers all of a debtor's rights in the collateral to the secured party.

- Discharges the security interest or agricultural lien that is the subject of the debtor's consent and any subordinate security interest or other subordinate lien.

- Terminates any other subordinate interest.

A subordinate interest is discharged or terminated under Com. Code § 9622(a), even if the secured party fails to comply with Division 9 [Com. Code § 9622(b)]. Thus, subordinate interests are discharged regardless of whether a proposal was required to be sent, or, if required, was sent. However, a secured party's failure to send a proposal or otherwise comply with Division 9 may subject the secured party to liability under Com. Code § 9625, discussed in § 503.29 [see UCC Comment 2. to Com. Code § 9622].

[5] Disposition of Collateral

[a] Commercially Reasonable Conduct

After default, a secured party may sell, lease, license, or otherwise dispose of any or all of the collateral in its present condition or following any commercially reasonable preparation or processing [Com. Code § 9610(a)]. This includes the right of a secured party, without removal, to render equipment unusable and dispose of collateral on the debtor's premises [Com. Code § 9609(a)(2); see also Com. Code § 9609(c), discussed in [2], above].

Every aspect of a disposition of collateral, including the method, manner, time, place, and other terms, must be commercially reasonable. If commercially reasonable, a secured party may dispose of collateral by public or private proceedings, by one or more contracts, as a unit or in parcels, and at any time and place and on any terms [Com. Code § 9610(b)]. A secured party may purchase collateral at a public disposition [Com. Code § 9610(c)(1)], but a secured party may purchase at a private disposition only if the collateral is of a kind that is customarily sold on a recognized market or the subject of widely distributed standard price quotations [Com. Code § 9610(c)(2); see Aspen Enterprises, Inc. v. Bodge (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 1811, 1825 (decided under prior law, indicia of "recognized market")]. The fact that a greater amount could have been obtained by a collection, enforcement, disposition, or acceptance at a different time or in a different method from that selected by the secured party is not of itself sufficient to preclude the secured party from establishing that the collection, enforcement, disposition, or acceptance was made in a commercially reasonable manner [Com. Code § 9627(a)]. A collection, enforcement, disposition, or acceptance is commercially reasonable if it has been approved in or by (1) a judicial proceeding, (2) a bona fide creditors' committee, (3) a representative of creditors, or (4) an assignee for the benefit of creditors [Com. Code § 9627(c)], but approval in one of those ways need not be obtained; and lack of approval does not mean that the collection, enforcement, disposition, or acceptance is not commercially reasonable [Com. Code § 9627(d)]. A disposition of collateral is made in a commercially reasonable manner if the disposition satisfies any of the following conditions [Com. Code § 9627(b)]:

- It is made in the usual manner on any recognized market.
- It is made at the price current in any recognized market at the time of the disposition.
- It is made otherwise in conformity with reasonable commercial practices among dealers in the type of property that was the subject of the disposition.

Division 9 does not define the term "public disposition," but it is one at which the price is determined after the public has had a meaningful opportunity for competitive bidding. "Meaningful opportunity" is meant to imply that some form of advertisement or public notice must precede the sale (or other disposition) and that the public must have access to the sale (disposition) [see UCC Comment 7. to Com. Code § 9610].

A contract for sale, lease, license, or other disposition includes the warranties relating to title, possession, quiet enjoyment, and the like which by operation of law accompany a voluntary disposition of property of the kind subject to the contract [Com. Code § 9610(d)]. However, a secured party may disclaim or modify those warranties in a manner that would be effective to disclaim or modify the warranties in a voluntary disposition of property of the kind subject to the contract of disposition or by communicating to the purchaser a record evidencing the contract for disposition and including an express disclaimer or modification of the warranties [Com. Code § 9610(e)]. A record is sufficient to disclaim warranties under Com. Code § 9610(e) if it indicates "There is no warranty relating to title, possession, quiet enjoyment, or the like in this disposition" or uses words of similar import [Com. Code § 9610(f); see Com. Code § 9103 (defining "purchase money security interest", discussed in § 503.11[19])].

[b] Notice of Disposition

[i] Who Must Be Notified

Except when the collateral is perishable or threatens to decline speedily in value or is of a type customarily sold on a recognized market [Com. Code § 9611(d); see Aspen Enterprises, Inc. v. Bodge (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 1811, 1825 (decided under former Division 9, indicia of "recognized market"; existence of recognized market is usually question of fact)], a secured party that disposes of collateral under Com. Code § 9610 must send a reasonable authenticated notification of disposition to all of the following persons Com. Code § 9611(b), (c)]:

- The debtor.

- Any secondary obligor [In re Kirkland (9th Cir. 1990) 915 F.2d 1236, 1239-1242 ; Hollander v. Cal. Manufacturing Ent., Inc. (1996) 44 Cal. App. 4th 561, 566-567, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 694 ; Canadian Commercial Bank v. Ascher Findley Co. (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 1139, 1153-1157, 1161, 280 Cal. Rptr. 521 ; C.I.T. Corp. v. Anwright Corp. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1420, 1425-1427, 237 Cal. Rptr. 108 ; Connolly v. Bank of Sonoma County (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 1119, 1123-1125, 229 Cal. Rptr. 396 (guarantor's waiver of right to notification before default is ineffective; all discussed and declined to follow Rutan v. Summit Sports, Inc. (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 965, 973, 219 Cal. Rptr. 381 , which held otherwise); see also Com. Code § 9624(a) (permitted waivers)].

- If the collateral is other than consumer goods, to the following persons:

  - Any other person from which the secured party has received, before the notification date, an authenticated notification of a claim of an interest in the collateral.

  - Any other secured party or lienholder that, 10 days before the notification date, held a security interest in or other lien on the collateral perfected by the filing of a financing statement which (1) identified the collateral, (2) was indexed under the debtor's name as of that date, and (3) was filed in the office in which to file a financing statement against the debtor covering the collateral as of that date.

  - Any other secured party that, 10 days before the notification date, held a security interest in the collateral perfected by compliance with a registration or certificate of title statute, regulation, or treaty described in Com. Code § 9311(a).

"Send," in connection with a notification, means either (1) to deposit in the mail, deliver for transmission, or transmit by any other usual means of communication, with postage or cost of transmission provided for, addressed to any address reasonable under the circumstances, or (2) to cause the notification to be received within the time that it would have been received if properly sent under (1) [Com. Code § 9102(a)(74)]. "Notification date" means the earlier of the date on which (1) a secured party sends to the debtor and any secondary obligor an authenticated notification of disposition or (2) the debtor and any secondary obligor waive the right to notification [Com. Code § 9611(a); see Com. Code § 9624(a) (discussed in § 503.28[2][b], notification may be waived only after default)]. Although revised Division 9 does not retain the requirement found in former Com. Code § 9504(3) for advertisement of public sales, and the term "public disposition" is not defined in revised Division 9, the term implies that some sort of advertisement is made to attract the public to bid [see UCC Comment 7. to Com. Code § 9610, discussed in [a], above].

The exception for collateral that threatens to decline speedily in value does not apply when the threat of rapid decline is caused by the secured party's procrastination. For instance, in a situation involving restaurant equipment collateral, which was worth much more if it could be sold in place to someone who intended to operate a restaurant than it would be if it were removed from the premises, the secured party took no action during two months of default, although the landlord had by then acquired the right to regain possession of the premises. The threatened speedy decline in value that occurred when a new tenant was found to take possession immediately did not excuse notice [Backes v. Village Corner, Inc. (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 209, 213-215, 242 Cal. Rptr. 716] .

A secured party complies with the requirement for notification of lienholders who held perfected interests in the collateral 10 days before the notification date [Com. Code § 9611(c)(3)(B)], if the secured party satisfies both of the following conditions [Com. Code § 9611(e)]:

- Not later than 20 days or earlier than 30 days before the notification date, the secured party requests, in a commercially reasonable manner, information concerning financing statements indexed under the debtor's name in the office indicated in Com. Code § 9611(c)(3)(B).

- Before the notification date, the secured party either (1) did not receive a response to the request for information, or (2) received a response to the request for information and sent an authenticated notification of disposition to each secured party or other lienholder named in that response whose financing statement covered the collateral.

[ii] Time for Notification

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9612(b), whether a notification is sent within a reasonable time is a question of fact [Com. Code § 9612(a)]. In a transaction other than a consumer transaction, a notification of disposition sent after default and 10 days or more before the earliest time of disposition set forth in the notification is sent within a reasonable time before the disposition [Com. Code § 9612(b)].

Nothing in Division 9 prevents a secured party from electing not to conduct a disposition after sending notification. Nor does Division 9 prevent a secured party from electing to send a revised notification if its plans for disposition change. This assumes, however, that the secured party acts in good faith, the revised notification is reasonable, and the revised plan for disposition and any attendant delay are commercially reasonable [see UCC Comment 8 to Com. Code § 9611].

[iii] Contents of Notification in Transaction Other Than Consumer-Goods Transaction

Except in a consumer-goods transaction, the contents of a notification of disposition are sufficient if the notification does all of the following [Com. Code § 9613(1)]:

- Describes the debtor and the secured party.

- Describes the collateral that is the subject of the intended disposition.

- States the method of intended disposition.

- States that the debtor is entitled to an accounting of the unpaid indebtedness and states the charge, if any, for an accounting [see Com. Code § 9210, discussed in § 503.25].

- States the time and place of a public disposition or the time after which any other disposition is to be made.

A particular phrasing of the notification is not required [Com. Code § 9613(4)]. The notification set forth in Com. Code § 9613(5), when completed, provides sufficient information [Com. Code § 9613(5)]. For an illustration of that form, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 42, Secured Transactions, § 42.240 (Matthew Bender).

Whether the contents of a notification that lacks any of the information specified in Com. Code § 9613(1) are nevertheless sufficient is a question of fact [Com. Code § 9613(2)]. The contents of a notification providing substantially the information specified in Com. Code § 9613(1) are sufficient, even if the notification includes information not specified by that paragraph or minor errors that are not seriously misleading [Com. Code § 9613(3)].

[iv] Contents of Notification in Consumer-Goods Transaction

In a consumer-goods transaction, the notification of disposition must provide the information specified Com. Code § 9613(1), set forth in [iii], above, as well as all of the following information [Com. Code § 9614(1)]:

- A description of any liability for a deficiency of the person to which the notification is sent.

- A telephone number from which the amount that must be paid to the secured party to redeem the collateral under Com. Code § 9623 is available.

- A telephone number or mailing address from which additional information concerning the disposition and the obligation secured is available.

A particular phrasing of the notification is not required [Com. Code § 9614(2)]. The form of notification set forth in Com. Code § 9614(3), when completed, each provides sufficient information [Com. Code § 9614(3)]. That form of notification is set forth in California Legal Forms, Ch. 42, Secured Transactions, § 42.241 (Matthew Bender).

A notification in the form of Com. Code § 9614(3) is sufficient even if additional information appears at the end of the form [Com. Code § 9614(4)]. A notification in the form of Com. Code § 9614(3) is sufficient even if includes errors in information not required by Com. Code § 9614(1), unless the error is misleading with respect to rights arising under Division 9 [Com. Code § 9614(5)]. If a notification under Com. Code § 9614 is not in the form of Com. Code § 9614(3), law other than Division 9 determines the effect of including information not required by Com. Code § 9614(1) [Com. Code § 9614(6)]. Nothing in Com. Code § 9614 will be construed to alter or disturb any right to inspect a consumer good prior to sale under existing law [Com. Code § 9614(9)].

[v] Additional Requirements on Disposition of Motor Vehicle in Consumer-Goods Transaction

If the collateral in a consumer-goods transaction is a motor vehicle, a public disposition includes, but is not limited to, the following defined categories [Com. Code § 9614(7)]:

- Retail disposition by a retail seller of motor vehicles who offers the collateral for sale or lease to the general public in the same manner as goods that the seller disposes of on the seller's own behalf.

- Retail disposition made subsequent to advertising in a publication with a recognized ability to attract retail motor vehicle buyers and lessees and in a manner designed to reach the retail buying and leasing public for vehicles of that type and condition.

For dispositions of the types set forth in Com. Code § 9614(7)(A) and (B), the secured creditor must ensure that the consumer has reasonable access to the motor vehicle in question in order to be able to exercise the right to inspect the motor vehicle [Com. Code § 9614(8)].

It had been held under prior law that when the collateral is consumer motor vehicle, to obtain a deficiency judgment, a secured creditor who sells a defaulting debtor's repossessed car must comply with all the provisions of the Rees-Levering Motor Vehicle Sales and Finance Act [Civ. Code § 2981 et seq.; see California Legal Forms, Ch. 47, Automotive Financing and Vehicle Leasing (Matthew Bender)], as well as with any relevant provisions in Division 9 of the Commercial Code [Bank of America v. Lallana (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 203, 209, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 910, 960 P.2d 1133 ; see Civ. Code §§ 2983.2(a), 2983.8(b); see also Ch. 89, Automobiles: Sales and Financing Under the Rees-Levering Act , Form 89.80]. That holding is consistent with Com. Code § 9201(b), discussed in § 503.12[3]. Further, Legislation enacting part of revised Division 9 specifies that nothing will be construed to alter or disturb the holding in Bank of America v. Lallana (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 203 . The new law does not define "public" and "private" sales and dispositions in general, but describes a limited subset of "public" sales and dispositions when the consumer goods collateral is a motor vehicle and provides a specific form of notice solely for those sales [see Com. Code § 9614(3) (form of notice)]. Nothing will be construed to alter or disturb any applicable requirements contained in the Rees-Levering Automobile Sales Finance Act (Civ. Code § 2981 et seq.) [Stats 2000, ch. 188, § 2].

ILLUSTRATION:

Notice Must Comply With Both Division 9 and Rees-Levering. Secured party repossessed debtor's motor vehicle in a consumer transaction, and gave notice of disposition (public auction) that complied with provisions of Rees-Levering Motor Vehicle Sales and Finance Act [Civ. Code § 2981 et seq.; see Ch. 89, Automobiles: Sales and Financing Under the Rees-Levering Act] but failed to give debtor proper notice of public sale, including both time and place of sale pursuant to former Com. Code § 9504(3). Was that notice sufficient? No. Secured party's failure to comply with Division 9 precluded it from recovering a deficiency judgment [Bank of America v. Lallana (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 203, 209, 214-215, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 910, 960 P.2d 1133] .

[c] Allocation of Proceeds

After default, a secured party, may sell, lease, license, or otherwise dispose of any or all of the collateral in its present condition or following any commercially reasonable preparation or processing [Com. Code § 9610(a)]. The secured party must apply or pay over the cash proceeds of disposition under Com. Code § 9610 in the following order to each of the following [Com. Code § 9615(a), (b)]:

- The reasonable expenses of retaking, holding, preparing for disposition, processing, and disposing, and, to the extent provided for by agreement and not prohibited by law, reasonable attorney's fees and legal expenses incurred by the secured party.

- The satisfaction of obligations secured by the security interest or agricultural lien under which the disposition is made.

- The satisfaction of obligations secured by any subordinate security interest in or other subordinate lien on the collateral and to the satisfaction of any subordinate attachment or execution lien pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 701.040(b) if the secured party receives an authenticated demand for proceeds or notice of levy of attachment or execution from the holder of the subordinate security interest or other lien before distribution of the proceeds is completed, and, in a case in which a consignor has an interest in the collateral, the subordinate security interest or other lien is senior to the interest of the consignor. If requested by the secured party, a holder of a subordinate security interest or other lien must furnish reasonable proof of the interest or lien within a reasonable time, and unless the holder does so the secured party need not comply with the holder's demand.

- A secured party that is a consignor of the collateral if the secured party receives from the consignor an authenticated demand for proceeds before distribution of the proceeds is completed.

A secured party need not apply or pay over for application noncash proceeds of disposition under Com. Code § 9610 unless the failure to do so would be commercially unreasonable. A secured party that applies or pays over for application noncash proceeds must do so in a commercially reasonable manner [Com. Code § 9615(c)].

[d] Calculation of Proceeds on Disposition to Secured Party, Related Entity, or Secondary Obligor

If the transferee in the disposition is the secured party, a person related to the secured party, or a secondary obligor and the amount of proceeds of the disposition is significantly below the range of proceeds that a complying disposition to a person other than the secured party, a person related to the secured party, or a secondary obligor would have brought, any surplus or deficiency following that disposition is calculated based on the amount of proceeds that would have been realized in a disposition complying with Com. Code §§ 9601-9629(c) to a transferee other than the secured party, a person related to the secured party, or a secondary obligor [Com. Code § 9615(f)].

If the security interest under which a disposition is made secures payment or performance of an obligation, after making the payments and applications required by Com. Code § 9615(a), discussed in [c], above, and permitted by Com. Code § 9615(c), also discussed in [c], above, unless Com. Code § 9615(a)(4) requires the secured party to apply or pay over cash proceeds to a consignor, the secured party must account to, and pay a debtor, for any surplus except as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 701.040 (payments to judgment lien creditors) [Com. Code § 9615(d)(1)]. In a consumer goods transaction, at the time the secured party pays any surplus, or within 14 days of receipt of a request for an explanation, the secured party must provide an explanation of how that surplus was calculated [Com. Code § 9616(b)]. For a form illustrating such an explanation and discussion of liability for failure to provide the explanation, see § 503.122.

If the underlying transaction is a sale of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes, the debtor is not entitled to any surplus, and Code Civ. Proc. § 701.040(b) relating to the payment of proceeds and the liability of the secured party applies, only if the security agreement provides that the debtor is entitled to any surplus [Com. Code § 9615(e)(1)(A), (2)].

[f] Creditor's Right to Deficiency

If the security interest under which a disposition is made secures payment or performance of an obligation, after making the payments and applications required by Com. Code § 9615(a), discussed in [c], above, and permitted by Com. Code § 9615(c), also discussed in [c], above, subject to Com. Code § 9626(b) (consumer transactions), the obligor is liable for any deficiency [Com. Code § 9615(d)(2)]. In a consumer goods transaction, at the time the secured party first makes written demand on the obligor for payment of the deficiency, or within 14 days of a request for an explanation, the secured party must provide an explanation of how the deficiency was calculated [Com. Code § 9616(b)]. For a form of explanation and discussion of liability for failure to provide the explanation, see § 503.122.

If the underlying transaction is a sale of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes, the obligor is not liable for any deficiency [Com. Code § 9615(e)(1)(B)].

[g] Junior Secured Party's Immunity on Good Faith Retention of Proceeds in Derogation of Another Lien or Secured Interest

A secured party that receives cash proceeds of a disposition in good faith and without knowledge that the receipt violates the rights of the holder of a security interest or other lien that is not subordinate to the security interest or agricultural lien under which the disposition is made [Com. Code § 9615(g)]:

- Takes the cash proceeds free of the security interest or other lien.

- Is not obligated to apply the proceeds of the disposition to the satisfaction of obligations secured by the security interest or other lien.

- Is not obligated to account to or pay the holder of the security interest or other lien for any surplus.

[h] Effect of Disposition; Purchaser's Rights

A secured party's disposition of collateral after default (1) transfers to a transferee for value all of the debtor's rights in the collateral; (2) discharges the security interest under which the disposition is made; and (3) discharges any subordinate security interest or other subordinate lien [Com. Code § 9617(a)].

A transferee that acts in good faith takes free of the debtor's rights and interests in the collateral, the security interest under which the disposition was made, and any subordinate security interest or other subordinate lien in the collateral, even if the secured party fails to comply with Division 9 or the requirements of any judicial proceeding [Com. Code § 9617(b)]. If the secured party fails to comply with Division 9, the aggrieved person (for example the holder of a subordinate security interest to whom notification required by Com. Code § 9611 was not sent) has a right to recover for any loss under Com. Code § 9625(b) [UCC Comment 2. to Com. Code § 9617]. If a transferee does not take free of the above rights and interests, the transferee takes the collateral subject to all of the following [Com. Code § 9617(c)]:

- The debtor's rights in the collateral.
- The security interest or agricultural lien under which the disposition was made.
- Any other security interest or other lien.

[i] Transfer Statement

Potential buyers of collateral that is covered by a certificate of title or subject to a registration system typically require as a condition of their purchase that the certificate or registry reflect their ownership. In many cases, this condition can only be met with the consent of the record owner. If the record owner is the debtor and the debtor refuses to cooperate, the secured party may have great difficulty disposing of the collateral [UCC Comment 2. to Com. Code § 9619]. To facilitate transfer, the secured party may give the purchaser a transfer statement, which is a record authenticated by the secured party stating the following [Com. Code § 9619(a)]:

- That the debtor has defaulted in connection with an obligation secured by specified collateral.
- That the secured party has exercised its postdefault remedies with respect to the collateral.
- That, by reason of the exercise, a transferee has acquired the rights of the debtor in the collateral.
- The name and mailing address of the secured party, debtor, and transferee.

A transfer statement entitles the transferee to the transfer of record of all rights of the debtor in the collateral specified in the statement in any official filing, recording, registration, or certificate of title system covering the collateral. If a transfer statement is presented with the applicable fee and request form to the official or office responsible for maintaining the system, the official or office must (1) accept the transfer statement; (2) promptly amend its records to reflect the transfer; and (3) if applicable, issue a new appropriate certificate of title in the name of the transferee [Com. Code § 9619(b)]. Com. Code § 9619(b) contemplates both a transfer of record title to a third party following a secured party's exercise of its disposition or acceptance remedies under Com. Code §§ 9601-9620 as well as a transfer by the debtor to a secured party prior to the secured party's exercise of those rights. Com. Code § 9619(c) specifies that when the transfer is to the secured party prior to the exercise of its remedies, the secured party retains its duties with respect to enforcement of its security interest, and the debtor retains its rights as well [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9619]. A transfer of the record or legal title to collateral to a secured party under Com. Code § 9619(b) or otherwise is not of itself a disposition of collateral under Division 9 and does not of itself relieve the secured party of its duties under Division 9 [Com. Code § 9619(c)].

[6] Sale Pursuant to Execution; Priority of Execution Lien

If a secured party has reduced its claim to judgment, the lien of any levy that may be made on the collateral by virtue of an execution based on the judgment relates back to the earliest of any of the following [Com. Code § 9601(e)]:

- The date of perfection of the security interest or agricultural lien in the collateral.
- The date of filing a financing statement covering the collateral.
- Any date specified in a statute under which the agricultural lien was created.

A sale pursuant to an execution is a foreclosure of the security interest or agricultural lien by judicial procedure within the meaning of Com. Code § 9601. A secured party may purchase at the sale and thereafter hold the collateral free of any other requirements of Division 9 [Com. Code § 9601(f)].

[7] Action for Deficiency or Surplus

[a] Transaction Other than Consumer Transaction

[i] When Secured Party Must Prove Compliance

In an action arising from a transaction, other than a consumer transaction, in which the amount of a deficiency or surplus is in issue, the secured party need not prove compliance with the provisions of Com. Code §§ 9601-9629 (default) relating to collection, enforcement, disposition, or acceptance unless the debtor or a secondary obligor places the secured party's compliance in issue [Com. Code § 9626(a)(1)]. If the secured party's compliance is placed in issue, the secured party has the burden of establishing that the collection, enforcement, disposition, or acceptance was conducted in accordance with Com. Code §§ 9601-9629 [Com. Code § 9626(a)(2)]. Compliance therefore includes the requirements of Com. Code §§ 9610 and 9627, discussed in [5][a], above, that every aspect of a disposition of collateral, including the method, manner, time, place, and other terms, must be commercially reasonable [see Com. Code § 9610(a)]. For an affirmative defense for use by a debtor to impose this burden of proof on the secured party, see § 503.111.

[ii] Limited Deficiency if Secured Party Fails to Prove Compliance

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9628 (discussed in § 503.29[4]), in a transaction other than a consumer transaction, if the debtor or a secondary obligor has placed the secured party's compliance in issue and the secured party fails to prove that the collection, enforcement, disposition, or acceptance was conducted in accordance with the provisions of Com. Code §§ 9601-9629 (default) relating to collection, enforcement, disposition, or acceptance, the liability of a debtor or a secondary obligor for a deficiency is limited to an amount by which the sum of the secured obligation, expenses, and attorney's fees exceeds the greater of either of the following [Com. Code § 9626(a)(3)]:

- The proceeds of the collection, enforcement, disposition, or acceptance, or
- The amount of proceeds that would have been realized had the noncomplying secured party proceeded in accordance with the provisions of Com. Code §§ 9601-9629 relating to collection, enforcement, disposition, or acceptance.

For purposes of determining the amount that would have been realized had the secured party proceeded in accordance with the provisions of Com. Code §§ 9601-9629, the amount of proceeds that would have been realized is equal to the sum of the secured obligation, expenses, and attorney's fees unless the secured party proves that the amount is less than that sum [Com. Code § 9626(a)(4)].

[iii] Debtor's Burden of Proof After Disposition to Secured (or Related) Party

In a transaction other than a consumer transaction, if a deficiency or surplus is calculated under Com. Code § 9615(f) (disposition to secured party, party related to secured party, or secondary obligor, discussed in [5][d], above), the debtor or obligor has the burden of establishing that the amount of proceeds of the disposition is significantly below the range of prices that a complying disposition to a person other than the secured party, a person related to the secured party, or a secondary obligor would have brought [Com. Code § 9626(a)(5)].

[b] In Consumer Transaction

[i] Secured Party's Burden of Proof

In a consumer transaction, in an action in which a deficiency or a surplus is an issue, the secured party has the burden of proving compliance with the provisions of Com. Code §§ 9601-9629 (default) relating to collection, enforcement, disposition, and acceptance whether or not the debtor or a secondary obligor places the secured party's compliance in issue Com. Code § 9626(b)(1)(A)]. Compliance includes the requirements of Com. Code §§ 9610 and 9627, discussed in [5][a], above, that every aspect of a disposition of collateral, including the method, manner, time, place, and other terms, must be commercially reasonable [see Com. Code § 9610(a)]. In addition, if a deficiency or surplus is calculated under Com. Code § 9615(f) (disposition to secured party, party related to secured party, or secondary obligor, discussed in [5][d], above), the secured party has the burden of establishing that the amount of proceeds of the disposition is not significantly below the range of prices that a complying disposition to a person other than the secured party, a person related to the secured party, or a secondary obligor would have brought [Com. Code § 9626(b)(1)(B)].

[ii] Other Conditions for Obtaining Deficiency

In an action arising out of a consumer transaction, the debtor, or any secondary obligor, is liable for any deficiency only if all of the following condition as are met [Com. Code § 9626(b)(2)]:

- It is not otherwise agreed or otherwise provided in the Unruh Retail Installment Sales Act (Civ. Code § 1801 et seq.), and in particular Civ. Code § 1812.5 or any other statute.

- The debtor and obligor were given notice, in accordance with Com. Code §§ 9611, 9612 and Com. Code § 9613 or 6414, as applicable (discussed in [5][b], above), of the disposition of the collateral.

- The collection, enforcement, disposition, and acceptance by the secured party were conducted in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner [see also discussion in [5][a], above].

[iii] Effect of Judgment That Creditor Is Not Entitled to Deficiency

In a action arising out of a consumer transaction, on entry of a final judgment that the debtor or obligor is not liable for a deficiency by reason of Com. Code § 9626(b)(2) (discussed in [ii], above) or Com. Code § 9615(f) (disposition to secured party, party related to secured party, or secondary obligor, discussed in [5][d], above), the secured party may neither obtain a deficiency judgment nor retain a security interest in any other collateral of the debtor or obligor that secured the indebtedness for which the debtor or obligor is no longer liable Com. Code § 9626(b)(3)].

[iv] Debtor's Right to Damages or Proceeds of Subsequent Dispositions

In a consumer transaction, if, subsequent to a disposition that does not satisfy any one or more of the conditions set forth in Com. Code § 9626(b)(2) (discussed in [ii], above), or subsequent to a disposition that is subject to Com. Code § 9615(f) (proceeds calculated as if disposition were complying disposition to unrelated party, discussed in [4][d], above), the secured party disposes of other collateral securing the same indebtedness, the debtor or obligor may, to the extent he or she is no longer liable for a deficiency judgment by reason of Com. Code § 9626(b)(2) or Com. Code § 9615(f), recover the proceeds realized from the subsequent dispositions, as well as any damages to which the debtor may be entitled if the subsequent disposition is itself noncomplying or otherwise wrongful [Com. Code § 9626(b)(4)].

Nothing in Com. Code § 9626 deprives the debtor of any right to recover damages from the secured party under Com. Code § 9625(b), or to offset any damages against any claim by the secured party for a deficiency, or of any right or remedy to which the debtor may be entitled under any other law. A debtor or obligor in a consumer transaction will not have any damages owed to it reduced by the amount of any deficiency that would have resulted had the disposition of the collateral by the secured party been conducted in conformity with Division 9 [Com. Code § 9626(b)(5)].

[v] Secured Party Must Account for Surplus

In a consumer transaction, the secured party must account to the debtor for any surplus, except as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 701.040 (payments to judgment lien creditors) [Com. Code § 9626(b)(6)]. This requirement appears redundant to the requirement of Com. Code § 9615(d)(1), discussed in [5][e], above.

[8] Alternative Rights to Foreclose Mixed Security

[a] Creditor's Options

If an obligation secured by personal property or fixtures is also secured by an interest in real property or an estate therein, the secured party may do any of the following [Com. Code § 9604(a)(1); see also Com. Code § 9102(a)(41) (defining fixtures)]:

- Proceed, in any sequence, (1) in accordance with the secured party's rights and remedies in respect of real property as to the real property security, and (2) in accordance with Com. Code §§ 9601-9629 as to the personal property or fixtures.

- Proceed, in any sequence, as to both some or all of the real property and some or all of the personal property or fixtures in accordance with the secured party's rights and remedies in respect of the real property, by including the portion of the personal property or fixtures selected by the secured party in the judicial or nonjudicial foreclosure of the real property in accordance with the procedures applicable to the real property. In such a proceeding [Com. Code § 9604(a)(1)(B)]:

  - No provision of Com. Code §§ 9601-9629 other than this subparagraph, Com. Code § 9604(a)(4)(C) (discussed in [c], below), Com. Code § 9604(a)(7) (discussed in [e], below), and Com. Code § 9604(a)(8) (discussed in [b], below) will apply to any aspect of the foreclosure.

  - A power of sale under a deed of trust or mortgage will be exercisable with respect to both the real property and the personal property or fixtures being sold.

  - The sale may be conducted by the mortgagee under the mortgage or by the trustee under the deed of trust.

  - The secured party will not be deemed to have elected irrevocably to proceed as to both real property and personal property or fixtures as with respect to any particular property, unless and until that particular property has been actually disposed of pursuant to a unified sale (judicial or nonjudicial) conducted in accordance with the procedures applicable to real property, and then only as to the property so sold.

- Proceed, in any sequence, as to part of the personal property or fixtures as provided in Com. Code §

9604(a)(1)(A), and as to other of the personal property or fixtures as provided in Com. Code § 9604(a)(1)(B).

[b] Limited Application of One Action Rule and Antideficiency Legislation

If an obligation secured by an interest in personal property or fixtures [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(41)] is also secured by an interest in real property or an estate therein, except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9604(a)(3) (discussed below), provisions and limitations of any law respecting real property and obligations secured by an interest in real property or an estate therein, including but not limited to Code Civ. Proc. § 726, provisions regarding acceleration or reinstatement of obligations secured by an interest in real property or an estate therein, prohibitions against deficiency judgments, limitations on deficiency judgments based on the value of the collateral, limitations on the right to proceed as to collateral, and requirements that a creditor resort either first or at all to its security, do not in any way apply to either of the following [Com. Code § 9604(a)(1)(A)]:

- Any personal property or fixtures other than personal property or fixtures as to which the secured party has proceeded or is proceeding under Com. Code § 9604(a)(1)(B) (unified sale); or

- The obligation.

In the event that an obligation secured by personal property or fixtures would otherwise become unenforceable by reason of Code Civ. Proc. § 726 or of any requirement that a creditor resort first to its security, then, notwithstanding that section or any similar requirement, the obligation nevertheless remains enforceable to the full extent necessary to permit a secured party to proceed against personal property or fixtures securing the obligation in accordance with the secured party's rights and remedies as permitted under Com. Code §§ 9601-9629[Com. Code § 9604(a)(2)(B); see also Com. Code § 9604(a)(3)(G) (discussed in last subparagraph of list, below)].

The three-month time limit for seeking a deficiency judgment after a real property judicial foreclosure sale set forth in Code of Civ. Proc. § 726(b) does not apply to a mixed collateral obligation, when the real property is sold in a nonunified sale [Florio v. Lau (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 637, 653, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 409 (deciding, in case of first impression, that Code of Civ. Proc. § 726(b) cannot be applied in its entirety to mixed collateral situation without running afoul of Legislature's stated purpose in enacting mixed collateral statutes)].

The exceptions in which Code Civ. Proc. § 726 or the antideficiency statutes do apply are as follows [Com. Code § 9604(a)(3)]:

- Com. Code § 9604(a)(2) does not limit the application of Code Civ. Proc. § 580b (no deficiency on purchase money mortgage, deed of trust, or chattel mortgage on residential property).

- If the secured party commences an action, as defined in Code Civ. Proc. § 22, and the action seeks a monetary judgment on the debt [see Com. Code § 9604(a)(6) (discussed in [d], below)], Com. Code § 9604(a)(2) does not prevent the debtor's assertion of any right to require the inclusion in the action of any interest in real property or an estate therein securing the debt. If a monetary judgment on the debt is entered in the action, Com. Code § 9604(a)(2) does not prevent the debtor's assertion of the subsequent unenforceability of the encumbrance on any interest in real property or an estate therein securing the debt and not included in the action.

- Nothing in Com. Code § 9604(a)(2) may be construed to excuse compliance with Civ. Code § 2924c as a prerequisite to the sale of real property, but Civ. Code § 2924c has no application to the right of a secured party to proceed as to personal property or fixtures except, and then only to the extent that, the secured party is proceeding as to personal property or fixtures in a unified sale as provided in Com. Code § 9604(a)(1)(B).

- Com. Code § 9604(a)(2) does not deprive the debtor of the protection of Code Civ. Proc. § 580d against a deficiency judgment following a sale of real property collateral pursuant to a power of sale in a deed of trust or mortgage.

- Com. Code § 9604(a)(2) does not affect, nor will it determine the applicability or inapplicability of, any law respecting real property or obligations secured in whole or in part by real property with respect to a loan or a sale made to any individual primarily for personal, family, or household purposes.

- Com. Code § 9604(a)(2) does not deprive the debtor of the protection of Code Civ. Proc. § 580a (procedure of obtaining money judgment) following a sale of real property collateral.

- If the secured party violates any statute or rule of law that requires a creditor who holds an obligation secured by an interest in real property or an estate therein to resort first to its security before resorting to any property of the debtor that does not secure the obligation, Com. Code § 9604(a)(2) does not prevent the debtor's assertion of any right to require correction of the violation, any right of the secured party to correct the violation, the debtor's assertion of the subsequent unenforceability of the encumbrance on any interest in real property or an estate therein securing the obligation, or the debtor's assertion of the subsequent unenforceability of the obligation except to the extent that the obligation is preserved by Com. Code § 9604(a)(2)(B) (discussed above).

The foregoing rules of real property law are discussed in Ch. 555, Trust Deeds and Real Property Mortgages .

When a secured party proceeds by unified sale as to both real and personal property [see Com. Code § 9604(a)(1)(B) (discussed under [1], above)], then, for purposes of applying Code Civ. Proc. § 580a or 726(b) to the unified sale, the personal property or fixtures included in the unified sale are deemed to be included in the "real property or other interest sold," as that term is used in Code Civ. Proc. § 580a or 726(b) [Com. Code § 9604(a)(8)].

[c] When Application of Proceeds of Disposition of Personal Property Collateral Does Not Cure of Default

When an obligation is secured by both an interest in personal property or fixtures [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(41)] and an interest in real property or an estate therein, if the secured party realizes proceeds from the disposition of collateral that is personal property or fixtures, then the disposition of the collateral, the realization of the proceeds, the application of the proceeds, or any one or more of the foregoing does not operate to cure any nonmonetary default [Com. Code § 9604(a)(4)(A)]. Similarly, disposition of collateral that is personal property or fixtures, the realization of the proceeds, the application of the proceeds, or any one or more of the foregoing does not operate to cure any monetary default (although the application of the proceeds will, to the extent of those proceeds, satisfy the secured obligation) so as to affect in any way the secured party's rights and remedies under Com. Code §§ 9601-9629 with respect to any remaining personal property or fixtures collateral [Com. Code § 9604(a)(4)(B); see Com. Code § 9604(a)(5),(6) (discussed in [d], below)].

All proceeds realized from the disposition of collateral that is personal property or fixtures must be applied by the secured party to the secured obligation in accordance with the agreement of the parties and applicable law [Com. Code § 9604(a)(4)(C)].

[d] Definition of Monetary Judgment on Debt

As used in Com. Code § 9604(a), "monetary judgment on the debt" means a judgment for the recovery from the debtor of all or part of the principal amount of the secured obligation, including contractual interest on it. Monetary judgment on the debt does not include a judgment that provides only for other relief (whether or not that other relief is secured by the collateral), such as one or more forms of nonmonetary relief, and monetary relief ancillary to any of the foregoing, such as attorney's fees and costs incurred in seeking the relief [Com. Code § 9604(a)(6)].

An action by the secured party using any available judicial procedure, as provided in Com. Code § 9601(a)(1), is in no way affected by the omission of a prayer for monetary judgment on the debt. Notwithstanding Code Civ. Proc. § 726, any prohibition against splitting causes of action, or any other statute or rule of law, a judicial action that neither seeks nor results in a monetary judgment on the debt does not preclude a subsequent action seeking a monetary judgment on the debt [Com. Code § 9604(a)(5)].

[e] Effect of Secured Party's Noncompliance on Purchaser

When an obligation is secured by both an interest in personal property or fixtures [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(41)] and an interest in real property or an estate therein, and the secured party, in proceeding with a unified sale as to both real and personal property [see Com. Code § 9604(a)(1)(B) (discussed in [a], above)], fails to comply with the procedures applicable to real property, a purchaser for value of any interest in the real property at a judicial or nonjudicial foreclosure proceeding conducted pursuant to Com. Code § 9604(a)(1)(B) takes that interest free from any claim or interest of another person, or any defect in title, based on that noncompliance unless one of the following conditions applies [Com. Code § 9604(a)(7)]:

- The purchaser is the secured party and the failure to comply with Com. Code § 9601 et seq. occurred other than in good faith; or

- The purchaser is other than the secured party and at the time of the sale of the real property at that foreclosure the purchaser had knowledge of the failure to comply with Com. Code § 9601 et seq. and that the noncompliance occurred other than in good faith.

Even if the purchaser at the foreclosure sale does not take his or her interest free of claims, interests, or title defects based on that noncompliance with Com. Code § 9601 et seq., a subsequent purchaser for value who acquires an interest in that real property from the purchaser at that foreclosure takes that interest free from any claim or interest of another person, or any defect in title, based on that noncompliance, unless at the time of acquiring the interest the subsequent purchaser has knowledge of the failure to comply with Com. Code § 9601 et seq. and that the noncompliance occurred other than in good faith [Com. Code § 9604(a)(7)].

[9] Rights and Duties of Secondary Obligors

[a] After Assignment of Secured Obligation or Collateral or Subrogation

Secondary obligors are defined in Com. Code § 9102(a)(71), discussed in § 503.11 [9][c] and [d], and include guarantors and persons with a right of recourse against the debtor or another obligor with respect to the collateral. A secondary obligor acquires the rights and becomes obligated to perform the duties of the secured party after any of the following occurs [Com. Code § 9618(a)]:

- The secondary obligor receives an assignment of a secured obligation from the secured party.

- The secondary obligor receives a transfer of collateral from the secured party and agrees to accept the rights and assume the duties of the secured party.

- The secondary obligor is subrogated to the rights of a secured party with respect to collateral.

An assignment, transfer, or subrogation described in Com. Code § 9618(a) is not a disposition of collateral under Com. Code § 9610 and it relieves the secured party of further duties under Division 9 [Com. Code § 9618(b)]. When a secondary obligor becomes assignee, transferee, or subrogee, it does not assume any liability for the earlier actions or inactions of the secured party whom it has succeeded unless it agrees to do so. Once the successor becomes obligated, it is responsible for complying with the secured party's duties. The assignment or transfer relieves the original secured party of any further duties under Division 9 but does not excuse the assignor from duties that arose before the event or impose liability on the assignee for the assignor's failure to comply [UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9618].

Application of Com. Code § 9618 may require an investigation into the agreement of the parties. Com. Code § 9618 does not constitute a comprehensive or general rule for allocating rights and duties on assignment of a secured obligation, but is limited to the situations involving a secondary obligor described in Com. Code § 9618(a). In other contexts, the agreement of the parties and applicable law other than Division 9 determine whether the assignment imposes on the assignee any duties to the debtor and whether the assignor retains its duties to the debtor after the assignment [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9618].

Secondary obligors are entitled to the same notification of disposition as the debtor [Com. Code § 9611(c)], and they are entitled to purchase the collateral at a disposition under Com. Code § 9610 [see Com. Code § 9615(f) (discussed in*§ 503.27[5][d]*, special rule for calculation of surplus or deficiency on disposition to secondary obligor)]. If the secondary obligor acquires the collateral at a disposition and simultaneously or subsequently discharges any unsecured deficiency obligation, Com. Code § 9618(a)(1) is not implicated [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9618]. Similarly, a secondary obligor who takes the collateral on disposition in exchange for payment that is applied against the secured obligation may or may not be subrogated to the rights of the secured party as contemplated by Com. Code § 9618(a)(3). The secondary obligor becomes subrogated only to the extent that it makes a payment in satisfaction of its secondary obligation. To the extent its payment constitutes the price of the collateral at a Com. Code § 9610 disposition by the (original) secured party, the secondary obligor would not be subrogated [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9618].

[b] Before Succeeding to Secured Party's Position

A secondary obligor has rights based on that status before it succeeds to the secured party's position or if it never does. Those rights, in addition to the right to notification of any disposition [Com. Code § 9611(c)] and the right to purchase the collateral at a disposition under Com. Code § 9610 [see UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9618; Com. Code § 9615(f)], discussed in*§ 503.27[9][a]*, include the following:

- If the secured party is a buyer of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes or a consignor and has recourse against the secondary obligor based on the nonpayment or other default of an account debtor or other obligor on the collateral, the secondary obligor has the right to require a secured party in possession of the collateral to use reasonable care in the custody and preservation of collateral in the secured party's possession. In the case of chattel paper or an instrument, reasonable care includes taking necessary steps to preserve rights against prior parties unless otherwise agreed [Com. Code § 9207(a), (d)(1)(B)].

- A secondary obligor may require the secured party to proceed in a commercially reasonable manner if the secured party undertakes to collect from or enforce an obligation of an account debtor or other person obligated on collateral when that secured party is entitled to charge back uncollected collateral or otherwise to full or limited recourse against the debtor or a secondary obligor [Com. Code § 9607(c)].

- A secondary obligor's approval is required to allow a secured party to delay, beyond 90 days from the date it takes possession, disposition of consumer goods in the situations covered by Com. Code § 9620(e) [Com. Code § 9620(f)(2)].

- A secondary obligor is entitled to receive notice of, and may object to, a secured party's proposal to accept collateral in partial satisfaction of the secured obligation [Com. Code § 9621(b)].

- A secondary obligor may redeem collateral by an appropriate time under Com. Code § 9623 [Com. Code § 9623(a)].

- A secondary obligor may waive the right to notification of disposition of collateral under Com. Code § 9611, or except in a consumer-goods transaction, the right to redeem collateral under Com. Code § 9623, only by an agreement to that effect entered into and authenticated after default [Com. Code § 9624(a), (c)].

- A secondary obligor may sue for injunctive relief and damages if the secured party fails to comply with Division 9 [Com. Code § 9625].

- A secondary obligor may require the secured party to prove, in an action for surplus or deficiency, arising other than from a consumer transaction, that the secured party acted in compliance with Com. Code § 9601 et seq. and if the secured party does not so prove, to have its liability for deficiency limited as provided by Com. Code § 9626(a)(3)-(5) or its surplus calculated in accordance with Com. Code § 9615(f)[Com. Code § 9626(a)(1), (5)].

- In an action for surplus or deficiency arising from a consumer transaction, a secondary obligor may have the benefit of Com. Code § 9626(b).

[10] Rights of Owners of Collateral Other Than Primary Obligors

"Debtor" is defined in revised Division 9 to include anyone who has an interest (other than a security interest) in the collateral, whether or not that person is an obligor [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(28)(A); compare Com. Code § 9102(a)(59)(ii) (obligor is someone who has provided property other than the collateral to secure payment or other performance of the obligation)]. Therefore, in revised Division 9, there is no counterpart to former Com. Code § 9112, and a person who owns any interest in the collateral (other than a security interest) is entitled to all the rights expressed in revised Division 9 as rights of debtors.

§ 503.28 Debtor's Rights on Default

[1] In General

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9601(g) and in Com. Code § 9605 (discussed in § 503.29[4]), after default, a debtor and an obligor have the rights provided in Com. Code § 9601 et seq. and by agreement of the parties [Com. Code § 9601(d)]. Com. Code § 9601 et seq. impose no duties on a secured party that is a consignor or is a buyer of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes except, as provided by Com. Code § 9607(c), to require that a secured party proceed in a commercially reasonable manner if the secured party undertakes to collect from or enforce an obligation of an account debtor or other person obligated on collateral and the secured party is entitled to charge back uncollected collateral or otherwise to full or limited recourse against the debtor or a secondary obligor [Com. Code § 9601(g)].

[2] Waiver, Renunciation, and Modification of Rights

[a] Prohibited Waivers

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9624 (discussed in*§ 503.20[2][b]*, to the extent that they give rights to a debtor or obligor and impose duties on a secured party, the debtor or obligor may not waive or vary the rules stated in the following listed sections [Com. Code § 9602]:

- Com. Code § 9207(b)(4)(C), which deals with use and operation of the collateral by the secured party.

- Com. Code § 9210, which deals with requests for an accounting and requests concerning a list of collateral and statement of account.

- Com. Code § 9607(c), which deals with collection and enforcement of collateral.

- Com. Code § 9608(a) and Com. Code § 9615(c) to the extent that they deal with application or payment of noncash proceeds of collection, enforcement, or disposition.

- Com. Code § 9608(a) and Com. Code § 9615(d) to the extent that they require accounting for or payment of surplus proceeds of collateral.

- Com. Code § 9609 to the extent that it imposes on a secured party that takes possession of collateral without judicial process the duty to do so without breach of the peace.

- Com. Code § 9610(b), and Com. Code §§ 9611, 9613, and 9614, which deal with disposition of collateral.

- Com. Code § 9615(f), which deals with calculation of a deficiency or surplus when a disposition is made to the secured party, a person related to the secured party, or a secondary obligor.

- Com. Code § 9616, which deals with explanation of the calculation of a surplus or deficiency.

- Com. Code §§ 9620, 9621, and 9622, which deal with acceptance of collateral in satisfaction of obligation.

- Com. Code § 9623, which deals with redemption of collateral.

- Com. Code § 9624, which deals with permissible waivers.

- Com. Code §§ 9625 and 9626, which deal with the existence of a deficiency and with the secured party's liability for failure to comply with Division 9.

The parties may determine by agreement the standards measuring the fulfillment of the rights of a debtor or obligor and the duties of a secured party under a rule stated in Com. Code § 9602 if the standards are not manifestly unreasonable [Com. Code § 9603(a)]. However, that right does not apply to the duty under Com. Code § 9609 to refrain from breaching the peace [Com. Code § 9603(b)].

Provisions that are not specified in Com. Code § 9602 are subject to the general rules in Com. Code § 1302(a), (b) [see UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9602]. Further, Com. Code § 9602 does not restrict the ability of the parties to agree, settle, compromise, or renounce claims for past conduct that may have constituted a violation or breach of the rights and duties listed in Com. Code § 9602, even if the settlement involves an express waiver [see UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9602]. The restrictions on waiver contained in Com. Code § 9602 apply to obligors as well as debtors. This resolves questions under former Division 9 as to whether secondary obligors were permitted, under the law of suretyship, to waive rights and duties under the filing provisions [Com. Code § 9501 et seq.], assuming that secondary obligors were "debtors" for purposes of the filing provisions [see UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9602].

[b] Permitted Waivers

A debtor or secondary obligor may waive the right to notification of disposition of collateral under Com. Code § 9611 (discussed in § 503.27[5][b]) only by an agreement to that effect entered into and authenticated after default [Com. Code § 9624(a)].

A debtor may waive the right to require disposition of collateral under Com. Code § 9620(e) (discussed in § 503.42[5][a]) only by an agreement to that effect entered into and authenticated after default Com. Code § 9624(b)].

Except in a consumer goods transaction, a debtor or secondary obligor may waive the right to redeem collateral under

Com. Code § 9623 (discussed in [4], below) only by an agreement to that effect entered into and authenticated after default [Com. Code § 9624(c)].

No renunciation or modification by the debtor of any of his or her rights under Com. Code § 9601 et seq. as to consumer goods is valid or enforceable unless the renunciation or modification is in consideration of a waiver by the secured party of any right to a deficiency on the debt [Com. Code § 9629]. California's Com. Code § 9629 is a nonuniform provision. Waivers made in accordance with Com. Code § 9624 must be made in authenticated agreements. Under Com. Code § 1201(b)(3), an "agreement" means a bargain of the parties in fact." In considering waivers under Com. Code § 9624 and analogous agreements in other contexts, courts should carefully scrutinized putative agreements that appear in records that also address many additional or unrelated matters [see UCC Comment 5 to Com. Code § 9602].

[3] Defense Against Assignee

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9403, an agreement between an account debtor and an assignor not to assert against an assignee any claim or defense that the account debtor may have against the assignor is enforceable by an assignee that takes an assignment for value, in good faith, without notice of a claim of a property or possessory right to the property assigned, and without notice of a defense or claim in recoupment of the type that may be asserted against a person entitled to enforce a negotiable instrument under Com. Code § 3305(a), discussed in Ch. 385, Negotiable Instruments [Com. Code § 9403(b); see Com. Code § 9403(a) (in Com. Code § 9403, "value" has the meaning provided in Com. Code § 3303(a), discussed in Ch. 385, Negotiable Instruments)]. Com. Code § 9403(b) does not apply to defenses of a type that may be asserted against a holder in due course of a negotiable instrument under Com. Code § 3305(b), the so-called "real defenses," discussed in Ch. 385, Negotiable Instruments [Com. Code § 9403(c); UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9403]. Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9403(d), Com. Code § 9403 does not displace law other than Division 9 which gives effect to an agreement by an account debtor not to assert a claim or defense against an assignee [Com. Code § 9403(f)].

In a consumer transaction, if a record evidences the account debtor's obligation, law other than Division 9 requires that the record include a statement to the effect that the rights of an assignee are subject to claims or defenses that the account debtor could assert against the original obligee, and the record does not include such a statement, then the record has the same effect as if the record included such a statement and the account debtor may assert against an assignee those claims and defenses that would have been available if the record included such a statement [Com. Code § 9403(d)]. Com. Code § 9403 is subject to law other than Division 9 which establishes a different rule for an account debtor who is an individual and who incurred the obligation primarily for personal, family, or household purposes [Com. Code § 9403(e)]. Com. Code § 9403(d) is new in revised Division 9 and applies to rights evidenced by a record that is required to contain the notice set out in Federal Trade Commission Rule 433 [see 16 C.F.R. § 433.1 et seq., discussed in Ch. 385, Negotiable Instruments]. Thus, Com. Code § 9403(d) effectively renders waiver-of-defense clauses ineffective in the transactions with consumers to which it applies [UCC Comment 5 to Com. Code § 9403].

A debtor, any secondary obligor, or any other secured party or lienholder may redeem collateral [Com. Code § 9623(a)]. Redemption may occur at any time before a secured party has (1) collected the collateral [see Com. Code § 9607]; (2) disposed of the collateral or entered into a contract for its disposition [see Com. Code § 9610]; or (3) accepted the collateral in full or partial satisfaction of the obligation it secures under Com. Code § 9622 [Com. Code § 9623(c)].

To redeem collateral, a person must tender both fulfillment of all obligations secured by the collateral and the secured party's reasonable expenses for retaking and holding the collateral, preparing it for disposition, processing, and disposing of the collateral, and, to the extent provided for by agreement and not prohibited by law, reasonable attorney's fees and legal expenses incurred by the secured party [Com. Code § 9623(b); see Com. Code § 9614(1)(C) (notice of disposition in consumer transaction must give phone number from which amount that must be paid to secured party to redeem collateral is available) Com. Code § 9615(a)(1) (expenses required to be paid on redemption)].

[5] Bringing Secured Party Into Compliance With Law

If it is established that a secured party is not proceeding in accordance with Division 9, a court may order or restrain collection, enforcement, or disposition of collateral on appropriate terms and conditions [Com. Code § 9625(a); see §§ 503.102, 503.103 (forms)]. As an alternative, the debtor or obligor may recover damages for the secured party's noncompliance, as discussed in § 503.29 [Com. Code § 9625(b)-(g)].

§ 503.29 Secured Party's Liability for Noncompliance

[1] In General

In addition to obtaining injunctive relief to restrain noncompliance or to bring a secured party into compliance [see Com. Code § 9625(a), discussed in § 503.29[5]], a debtor or obligor may recover damages in the amount of any loss caused by a person's failure to comply with Division 9. Recovery is subject to Com. Code § 9625(c), (d), and (f), discussed in [2], below and in § 503.100[4], respectively. Loss caused by a failure to comply may include loss resulting from the debtor's inability to obtain, or increased costs of, alternative financing [Com. Code § 9625(b)]. For a complaint that can be adapted to seek damages for any type of noncompliance, see § 503.101[1].

[2] Parties Who May Recover Damages

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9628, discussed in [4], below, a person that, at the time of the failure, was a debtor or an obligor, or held a security interest in or other lien on the collateral, may recover damages under Com. Code § 9625(b) for its loss [Com. Code § 9625(c)]. In this regard, Com. Code § 9628(d) contains what appears to be a drafting error; it provides that a secured party is not liable under Com. Code § 9625(c)(2) more than once with respect to any one secured obligation. However, the California version of the Uniform Commercial Code has no provision numbered 9625(c)(2). In the national version of the UCC, Section 9-625(c)(2) refers to consumer transaction and establishes a "floor" for damages equal to a credit service charge plus 10% of the obligation. However, the latter provision does not appear in the California version of Section 9-625(c).

A debtor whose deficiency is eliminated under Com. Code § 9626, discussed in § 503.27[7][b], may recover damages for the loss of any surplus. However, in a transaction other than a consumer transaction, a debtor or secondary obligor whose deficiency is eliminated or reduced under Com. Code § 9626 may not otherwise recover under Com. Code § 9625(b) for noncompliance with the provisions of Com. Code §§ 9601-9629 relating to collection, enforcement, disposition, or acceptance [Com. Code § 9625(d)].

[3] Statutory Damages

In addition to any damages recoverable under Com. Code § 9625(b), the debtor, consumer obligor, or person named as a debtor in a filed record, as applicable, may recover $500 in each case from any of the following persons [Com. Code § 9625(e); see also Com. Code § 9625(f) (statutory damages for failure to reply to request or statement under Com. Code § 9210, discussed in § 503.100[4])]:

- A person that fails to comply with Com. Code § 9208 (after obligation secured by deposit account, electronic chattel paper, investment property, or letter of credit right is satisfied).

- A person that fails to comply with Com. Code § 9209 (release after assignment).

- A person that files a record that the person is not entitled to file under Com. Code § 9509(a).

- A person that fails to cause the secured party of record to file or send a termination statement as required by Com. Code § 9513(a) or (c).

- A person that fails to comply with Com. Code § 9616(b)(1) (explanation of calculation of surplus or deficiency in a consumer goods transaction) and whose failure is part of a pattern, or consistent with a practice, of noncompliance.

- A person that fails to comply with Com. Code § 9616(b)(2) (explanation of calculation of deficiency in a consumer goods transaction).

[4] Secured Party Must Know of, and How to Communicate With, Debtor or Obligor

Unless a secured party knows that a person is a debtor or obligor, knows the identity of the person, and knows how to communicate with the person, the secured party is not liable to the person, or to a secured party or lienholder that has filed a financing statement against the person, for failure to comply with Division 9, nor does the secured party's failure to comply with Division 9 affect the liability of the person for a deficiency [Com. Code § 9628(a)].

A secured party does not owe and duty based on its status as a secured party and is not liable because of its status as secured party to a person that is a debtor or obligor, unless the secured party knows all of the following [Com. Code §§ 9605(1) (duty), 9628(b)(1) (liability)]:

- That the person is a debtor or obligor.

- The identity of the person.

- How to communicate with the person.

Further, a secured party does not owe any duty because of its status as a secured party and is liable because of its status as a secured party to a secured party or lienholder that has filed a financing statement against a person, unless the secured party knows both that (1) the person is a debtor and (1) the identity of the person [Com. Code §§ 9605(2) (duty), 9628(b)(2) (liability)].

A secured party may also be free from liability based on its reasonable belief that a transaction is not a consumer transaction [see Com. Code § 9628(c), discussed in § 503.42[6]].

§ 503.40 Goods

[1] Security Interests in Goods Arising Under Sales Law

A security interest arising under Com. Code § 2401, 2505, 2711(3), or 10508(e), is subject to Division 9. However, until the debtor obtains possession of the goods, all of the following apply [Com. Code § 9110]:

- The security interest is enforceable, even if Com. Code § 9203(b)(3) has not been satisfied.
- Filing is not required to perfect the security interest.
- The rights of the secured party after default by the debtor are governed by Division 2 (Com. Code § 2101 et seq.) or Division 10 (Com. Code § 10101 et seq.).
- The security interest has priority over a conflicting security interest created by the debtor.

Security interests arising under Com. Code § 2401 or 2505, a buyer's security interest under Com. Code § 2711(3), or a lessee's security interest under Com. Code § 10508(e), until the debtor obtains possession of the collateral, are perfected when they attach [Com. Code § 9309(6)].

The general rule [Com. Code § 9322(a)-(e)] governing priority of security interests is subject to Com. Code § 9110 with respect to a security interest arising under Division 2 (Com. Code § 2101 et seq.) or Division 10 (Com. Code § 10101) [Com. Code § 9322(f)(4)].

[2] Perfection of Interest in Goods

[a] Generally

A security interest in goods may be perfected by filing [Com. Code §§ 9310(a), 9501(a)-(b)], or by the secured party taking possession of the goods [Com. Code § 9310(b)(6), 9313(a)]. See § 503.23 for discussion of choice of law rules.

Perfection of a security interest in goods by compliance with a certificate of title statute, see § 503.22[5]. Com. Code § 9303, discussed in § 503.23[3], sets forth the choice of law rules regarding goods covered by certificates of title.

[b] Goods in Possession of Bailee Issuing Nonnegotiable Document

While goods are in the possession of a bailee that has issued a nonnegotiable document covering the goods, a security interest in the goods may be perfected by any of the following methods [Com. Code § 9312(d)]:

- Issuance of a document may in the name of the secured party.
- The bailee's receipt of notification of the secured party's interest.
- Filing as to the goods.

Once perfected, a security interest in goods in the possession of a bailee, other than one that has issued a negotiable documents for the goods, remains perfected for 20 days without filing if the secured party makes available to the debtor the goods or documents representing the goods for the purpose of ultimate sale or exchange, or for the purpose of loading, unloading, storing, shipping, transshipping, manufacturing, processing, or otherwise dealing with them in a manner preliminary to their sale or exchange [Com. Code § 9312(f)]. After the expiration of the 20-day period, perfection depends on compliance with Division 9 [Com. Code § 9312(h)].

Priority between conflicting security interests in the goods is subject to provisions governing priority of purchase money security interests [see Com. Code § 9324(a), (b)], discussed in [5][c], below, in the case of goods other than inventory, and at § 503.41[2], in the case of inventory.

Perfection of a security interest in goods in the possession of a bailee that has issued a negotiable document covering the goods is discussed in § 503.48[1][b].

[3] Accessions

[a] Security Interest In Accessions

"Accession" means goods that are physically united with other goods in such a manner that the identity of the original goods is not lost [Com. Code § 9102(a)(1)], for example tires placed on an automobile [see UCC Comment 7 to Com. Code § 9335]. A security interest may be created in an accession and continues in collateral that becomes an accession [Com. Code § 9335(a)]. If a security interest is perfected when the collateral becomes an accession, the security interest remains perfected in the collateral [Com. Code § 9335(b)]. Com. Code § 9335 does not address whether a secured party acquires a security interest in the whole if its collateral becomes an accession. Normally, that will turn on the description of the collateral in the security agreement. Similarly, Com. Code § 9335 does not address whether perfection against collateral that becomes an accession is effective to perfect a security interest in the whole. Other provisions of Division 9, including the requirements for indicating the collateral covered by a security agreement resolve that question [see UCC Comment 5 to Com. Code § 9335].

A security interest in an accession is subordinate to a security interest in the whole which is perfected by compliance with the requirements of a certificate of title statute under Com. Code § 9311(b) [Com. Code § 9335(d)]. Except for the foregoing, the priority of a security interest in an accession is determined by the other provisions governing perfection and priorities (Com. Code § 9301 et seq.) [Com. Code § 9335(c); see UCC Comment 6 to Com. Code § 9335].

[b] Remedies on Default Involving Accessions

After default and subject to the provisions governing default generally (Com. Code § 9601 et seq.), a secured party with a security interest in an accession which has priority over the claims of every person having an interest in the whole may remove the accession from other goods [Com. Code § 9335(e)]. The secured party must promptly reimburse any holder of a security interest or other lien on, or owner of, the whole or of the other goods, other than the debtor, for the cost of repair of any physical injury to the whole or the other goods. The secured party need not reimburse the holder or owner for any diminution in value of the whole or the other goods caused by the absence of the accession removed or by any necessity for replacing it. A person entitled to reimbursement may refuse permission to remove until the secured party gives adequate assurance for the performance of this obligation [Com. Code § 9335(f)].

[4] Commingled Goods

In Com. Code § 9336, "commingled goods" means goods that are physically united with other goods in such a manner that their identity is lost in a product or mass [Com. Code § 9336(a)]. No security interest exists in commingled goods as such. However, a security interest may attach to a product or mass that results when goods become commingled goods [Com. Code § 9336(b)]. If collateral becomes commingled goods, a security interest attaches to the product or mass [Com. Code § 9336(c)]. If a security interest in collateral is perfected before the collateral becomes commingled goods, the security interest that attaches to the product or mass under Com. Code § 9336(c) is perfected [Com. Code § 9336(d)]. Except as discussed below, when two or more security interests attach to the same product or mass under Com. Code § 9336(c), the other provisions of the general rules governing priority determine the priority of a security interest that attaches to the product or mass under Com. Code § 9336(c) [Com. Code § 9336(e); see, e.g., Com. Code § 9315(b) (secured party's rights in proceeds, discusses at § 503.21[4][a])].

If more than one security interest attaches to the product or mass under Com. Code § 9336(c), a security interest that is perfected under Com. Code § 9336(d) has priority over a security interest that is unperfected at the time the collateral becomes commingled goods [Com. Code § 9336(f)(1)]. If more than one security interest is perfected under Com. Code § 9336(d), the security interests rank equally in proportion to the value of the collateral at the time it became commingled goods [Com. Code § 9336(f)(2)].

ILLUSTRATION:

Multiple Security Interests in Final Product. SP-1A has a perfected first priority security interest in Debtor's eggs. SP-1B has a perfected second priority security interest in the same collateral. The eggs have a value of $300. Debtor owes SP-1A $200 and $200 to SP-1B. SP-2 has a security interest in Debtor's flour, which has a value of $500 and secures a debt of $600. Debtor uses the eggs and flour to make cakes, which have a value of $1,000. Do all three security interests in the cakes rank equally and what amount of the cakes' value is reachable by each? For purposes of Com. Code § 9336(f)(2), SP-1A and SP-1B are treated like a single secured party; and the secured parties share in the ratio of 3 (for SP-1A and SP-1B combined) to 5 (for SP-2). Applying this ratio to the entire product, SP-1A and SP-1B would be entitled in the aggregate to 3/8 x $1,000 or $375; and SP-2 would be entitled to 5/8 x $1,000 or $625 (except SP-2 is only entitled to $600, the amount it is owed). SP-1A and SP-1B would share the $375 in accordance with their priority as established other than under Com. Code § 9336: because SP-1A has first priority, it would receive $200 and SP-1B would receive $175 [see UCC Comments 4 and 6 to Com. Code § 9336].

[5] Priority of Security Interests in Goods

[a] When Buyer of Goods Takes Free of Interest That Secures Advance

A buyer of goods, other than a buyer in ordinary course of business, takes free of a security interest to the extent that it secures advances made after the earlier the time the secured party acquires knowledge of the buyer's purchase or 45 days after the purchase [Com. Code § 9323(d)], unless the advance was made pursuant to a commitment entered into without knowledge of the buyer's purchase and before the expiration of the 45-day period [Com. Code § 9323(e)]. A buyer in the ordinary course of business who takes free of a security interest under Com. Code § 9320 (discussed in § 503.24[3]) is not subject to any future advance [UCC Comment 6 to Com. Code § 9323].

[b] When Lessee of Goods Takes Free of Interest That Secures Advance

A lessee of goods, other than a lessee in ordinary course of business, takes the leasehold free of a security interest to the extent that it secures advances made after the earlier the time the secured party acquires knowledge of the lease or 45 days after the lease contract becomes enforceable [Com. Code § 9323(f)], unless the advance was made pursuant to a commitment entered into without knowledge of the lease and before the expiration of the 45-day period [Com. Code § 9323(g)]. A lessee in the ordinary course of business who takes free of a security interest under Com. Code § 9321 (discussed in § 503.24[3]) is not subject to any future advance [UCC Comment 6 to Com. Code § 9323].

[c] Purchase Money Security Interest in Good Other than Inventory

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9324(g) (conflicting purchase money security interests, discussed in § 503.24[2][c]), a perfected purchase money security interest [see Com. Code § 9103 (defining "purchase money security interest," discussed in § 503.11[19])] in goods other than inventory or livestock [see discussions in § 503.41[2] and at [d], below] has priority over a conflicting security interest in the same goods, and, except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9327 [see discussion in § 503.58[3]], a perfected security interest in its identifiable proceeds also has priority, if the purchase money security interest is perfected when the debtor receives possession of the collateral or within 20 days thereafter [Com. Code § 9324(a); see also Com. Code § 9317(e), discussed in § 503.24[2][c]].

[d] Purchase Money Interest in Livestock

Subject to Com. Code § 9324(e), and except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9324(g) (conflicting purchase money security interests, discussed in § 503.24[2][c]), a perfected purchase money security [see Com. Code § 9103 (defining "purchase money security interest," discussed in § 503.11[19])] in livestock that are farm products [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(34)(B)-(D), discussed in § 503.11[14][d]] has priority over a conflicting security interest in the same livestock, and, except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9327 [see discussion in § 503.58[3]], a perfected security interest in their identifiable proceeds and identifiable products in their unmanufactured states also has priority, if all of the following conditions are satisfied [Com. Code § 9324(d); see also Com. Code § 9317(e), discussed in § 503.24[2][c]]:

- The purchase money security interest is perfected when the debtor receives possession of the livestock.
- The purchase money secured party sends an authenticated notification to the holder of the conflicting security interest.
- The holder of the conflicting security interest receives the notification within six months before the debtor receives possession of the livestock.
- The notification states that the person sending the notification has or expects to acquire a purchase money security interest in livestock of the debtor and describes the livestock.

Com. Code § 9324(d)(2)-(4), inclusive, apply only if the holder of the conflicting security interest had filed a financing statement covering the same types of livestock before the date of the filing, if the purchase money security interest is perfected by filing, or if the purchase money security interest is temporarily perfected without filing or possession under Com. Code § 9312(f), before the beginning of the 20-day period thereunder [Com. Code § 9324(e)].

[e] Purchase Money Security Interest in Software

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9324(g) (conflicting purchase money security interests, discussed in § 503.24[2][c]), a perfected purchase money security [see Com. Code § 9103 (defining "purchase money security interest," discussed in § 503.11[19])] in software has priority over a conflicting security interest in the same collateral, and, except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9327 (discussed in § 503.58[3]), a perfected security interest in its identifiable proceeds also has priority, to the extent that the purchase money security interest in the goods in which the software was acquired for use has priority in the goods and proceeds of the goods under Com. Code § 9324 [Com. Code § 9324(f); see also Com. Code § 9317(e), discussed in § 503.24[2][c]; Com. Code § 9102(a)(44) (when software is goods, discussed in § 503.11[14][b])].

[6] Rules for Disposition of Goods on Default

In proceeding to dispose of collateral after the debtor's default, the secured party, without removal, may render equipment unusable and dispose of it on the debtor's premises in the regularly prescribed manner [Com. Code § 9609(a)(2); see Com. Code § 9610 (conditions for disposal)]. When the collateral is documents, the secured party may proceed either as to the documents or as to the goods covered thereby [Com. Code § 9601(a)(2)].

A secured party generally has all the options discussed in § 503.27, except for limitations and requirements specific to collateral that is consumer goods, such as the requirement that the goods be disposed of (see Com. Code § 9620(e), (f), discussed in § 503.42[5][a]) and the fact that in a consumer transaction, a secured party may not accept collateral in partial satisfaction of the obligation it secures [see Com. Code § 9620(g), discussed in § 503.27[4][b]; see also Com. Code § 9624 (waivers permitted and prohibited, discussed in § 503.28[2])].

§ 503.41 Inventory

[1] Exception to Certificate of Title Statute

During any period in which goods that are collateral are inventory held for sale or lease by a person or leased by that person as lessor and that person is in the business of selling goods of that kind, the Division 9 filing provisions, not the certificate of title statute, apply to a security interest in that collateral [Com. Code § 9311(d); Louis & Diederich, Inc. v. Cambridge European Imports, Inc. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1574, 1585-1586, 234 Cal. Rptr. 889 (Commercial Code governed perfection of interest in dealer's inventory)].

Perfection of security interests under certificate of title statutes is discussed in §§ 503.22[5] and 503.23[3], [4]. The perfection of purchase money security interests in goods that are inventory are discussed in [2], below. Priority of security interests in goods generally is discusses at § 503.40[5].

[2] Priority of Purchase Money Security Interest in Inventory

Subject to Com. Code § 9324(c) and except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9324(g) (conflicting purchase money security interests, discussed in § 503.24[2][c]), a perfected purchase money security interest [see Com. Code § 9103 (defining "purchase money security interest," discussed in § 503.11[19])] in inventory has priority over a conflicting security interest in the same inventory, has priority over a conflicting security interest in chattel paper or an instrument constituting proceeds of the inventory and in proceeds of the chattel paper, if so provided in Com. Code § 9330 (discussed in § 503.24[3]), and, except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9327 (discussed in § 503.28[3]), also has priority in identifiable cash proceeds of the inventory to the extent the identifiable cash proceeds are received on or before the delivery of the inventory to a buyer, if all of the following conditions are satisfied [Com. Code § 9324(b)]:

- The purchase money security interest is perfected when the debtor receives possession of the inventory.

- The purchase money secured party sends an authenticated notification to the holder of the conflicting security interest.

- The holder of the conflicting security interest receives the notification within five years before the debtor receives possession of the inventory.

- The notification states that the person sending the notification has or expects to acquire a purchase money security interest in inventory of the debtor and describes the inventory.

Com. Code § 9324(b)(2)-(4), inclusive, apply only if the holder of the conflicting security interest had filed a financing statement covering the same types of inventory as follows [Com. Code § 9324(c)]:

- If the purchase money security interest is perfected by filing, before the date of the filing.

- If the purchase money security interest is temporarily perfected without filing or possession under Com. Code § 9312(f), before the beginning of the 20-day period thereunder.

For purposes of the Com. Code § 9330(a) and (b), discussed in § 503.50[3] the holder of a purchase money security interest in inventory gives new value for chattel paper constituting proceeds of the inventory [Com. Code § 9330(e)]. A purchase money priority in inventory carries over to proceeds consisting of chattel paper and its proceeds (and also to instruments) to the extent provided by Com. Code § 9330. Taken together Com. Code § 9334(b) and Com. Code § 9330(e) enable a purchase money inventory secured party to obtain priority in chattel paper consisting of proceeds of inventory, even if the secured party does not actually give new value for the chattel paper, provided the purchase money secured party satisfies the other conditions for achieving priority [UCC Comment 8 to Com. Code § 9324].

44-503 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 503.42

§ 503.42 Consumer Goods

[1] Definitions and Issues Discussed Elsewhere

Consumer goods are goods that are used or bought for use primarily for personal, family, or household purposes [Com. Code § 9102(a)(23); see also § 503.11[8], [9][b], [14][d] (related definitions)]. By definition, a consignment that is subject to Division 9 does not occur with respect to consumer goods [Com. Code § 9102(a)(20)(C); see § 503.11[7]].

No special rule governs the creation or attachment of a security interest in consumer goods except that, as discussed in § 503.21[5], a security interest does not attach to after-acquired consumer goods, other than accessions given as additional security, unless the debtor acquires rights in them within 10 days after the secured party gives value [Com. Code § 9204(b)(1)]. With respect to notices in consumer transaction documents addressing assertion of defenses against assignees [Com. Code § 9403(d)], see § 503.28[3].

After a consumer's default, the requirements for the notice of disposition are governed by Com. Code § 9614, discussed in § 503.27[5][b][iv] and [v]. Waivers by consumer debtors and obligors are governed by Com. Code §§ 9602, 9603, 9624, 9629 and discussed in § 503.28[2]. A secured party must provide a consumer obligor with an explanation that meets the requirements of Com. Code § 9616 of how the secured party calculated the surplus or deficiency after disposition [see Com. Code § 9616(b), form and discussion in § 503.122]. Limitations on a secured party's liability for failure to comply with requirements of Division 9 specifically applicable to consumer transactions are governed by Com. Code § 9628(c) (reasonable belief that transaction was not consumer transaction), and discussed in [6], below. Other limitations and procedural requirements regarding deficiency judgments in consumer transactions are governed by Com. Code § 9626 and discussed in § 503.27[7][b]. When and whether a secured party must file a termination statement with respect to a consumer transaction is governed by Com. Code § 9513, discussed in § 503.22[6][k].

[2] Perfection by Filing of Financing Statement; Purchase Money Security Interest

Generally, the filing of a financing statement is necessary to perfect a security interest in consumer goods [Com. Code § 9310(a), (b)(2), (3); see Com. Code § 9501(a)(2) (place of filing)], except that a purchase money security interest [see Com. Code § 9103, discussed in § 503.11[19]] in consumer goods (other than goods subject to a certificate of title or other statue mentioned in Com. Code § 9311(a)) is perfected on attachment [Com. Code § 9309(1)]. Com. Code § 9309(1) represents a change from former Com. Code § 9302(1)(d) to allow perfection of a purchase money security interest in consumer goods, other than goods such as automobiles, that are subject to a statute or treaty described in Com. Code § 9311(a), without filing or any other step. However, filing is required to perfect a non-purchase-money security interest in consumer goods and is necessary to prevent a buyer of consumer goods from taking free of a security interest under Com. Code § 9320(b), discussed in [3], below [UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9309]. A fixture filing is required for priority over conflicting interests in fixtures to the extent provided by Com. Code § 9334 [UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9309; see Com. Code § 9334(d), discussed in § 503.47[6][b]]. Priority of purchase money security interests is discussed in § 503.24[2][c].

Com. Code § 9108(e) establishes the degree of specificity required into describe the consumer goods in which a security agreement grants a security interest [see discussion in § 503.20[1]]. Descriptions of consumer good collateral also must meet the applicable requirements of Civ. Code § 1799.100 [Com. Code § 9108(f)]. For discussion of Civ. Code § 1799.100, see Ch. 127, Consumer Contracts and Loans .

[3] Buyer May Take Free Before Financing Statement Is Filed

Except when the goods are in the possession of the secured party under Com. Code § 9313 [Com. Code § 9320(e)], a buyer of goods from a person who used or bought the goods for use primarily for personal, family, or household purposes takes free of a security interest, even if perfected, if the buyer buys for value, without knowledge of the security interest, primarily for the buyer's personal, family, or household purposes, and before the filing of a financing statement covering the goods [Com. Code § 9320(b)]. To the extent that it affects the priority of a security interest over a buyer of goods under Com. Code § 9320(b), the period of effectiveness of a filing made in the jurisdiction in which the seller is located is governed by Com. Code § 9316(a) and (b), discussed in § 503.23[4] [Com. Code § 9320(c); see also discussion in § 503.24[3][a]].

Com. Code § 9320(b) deals with buyers of collateral that the debtor-seller holds as "consumer goods." As to purchase money security interests that are perfected without filing under Com. Code § 9309(1) (discussed in [2], above), a secured party may file a financing statement, although filing is not required for perfection. If the secured party does file, all buyers take subject to the security interest. If the buyer secured party does not file, a buyer who meets the qualifications of Com. Code § 9320(b) takes free of the security interest [UCC Comment 5 to Com. Code § 9320].

As to security interests for which a perfection step is required--namely non-purchase-money security interests and all security interests, whether purchase money or not, in goods subject to a certificate-of-title statute or treaty described in Com. Code § 9311(a), such as automobiles--as long as the required perfection step has not been taken, and the security interest remains unperfected, not only the buyers described in Com. Code § 9320(b), but also the purchasers described in Com. Code § 9317 (unperfected interests, discussed in § 503.24[1]) will take free of the security interest [UCC Comment 5 to Com. Code § 9320]. After a financing statement has been filed or the perfection requirements of any applicable certificate-of-title statute or treaty have been complies with [see Com. Code § 9311(b) (compliance is the equivalent of filing)], all subsequent buyers, under the rule of Com. Code § 9320(b), are subject to the security interest [UCC Comment 5 to Com. Code § 9320].

The rights of a buyer under Com. Code § 9320(b) turn on whether a financing statement has been filed against consumer goods. Occasionally, a debtor changes his or her location after a filing is made. Com. Code § 9320(c), above, deals with the continued effectiveness of the filing under the circumstances interest [UCC Comment 5 to Com. Code § 9320]. For a form of complaint for use by a buyer in the ordinary course of business to seek a declaration that he or she takes free of another interest, see § 503.161.

[4] Secured Party in Possession of Consumer Goods

A secured party in possession of collateral that is consumer goods is not necessarily entitled to use or operate that collateral in the manner and to the extent agreed by the debtor [Com. Code § 9207(b)(4)(C)], but may use or operate the collateral for the purpose of preserving the collateral or its value and as permitted by an order of a court having competent jurisdiction [Com. Code § 9207(b)(4)(A), (B)]. For detailed discussion of the rights of a secured party in possession of collateral, see § 503.26[1].

[5] Secured Party's Duty to Dispose of Consumer Goods in Possession After Default

[a] When Disposition Is Required

Unless the debtor has waived the right to require disposition of collateral under Com. Code § 9620(e) by an agreement to that effect entered into and authenticated after default, a secured party who has taken possession of collateral consisting of consumer goods must dispose of it on default pursuant to Com. Code § 9610 if there is (1) a purchase money security interest in the collateral, and the debtor has paid 60 percent of the cash price, or (2) a nonpurchase money security interest in the collateral, and the debtor has paid 60 percent of the secured obligation [Com. Code § 9620(e); see Com. Code §§ 9602(10), 9624(b) (waiver)]. If the secured party fails to dispose of the consumer goods within 90 days after taking possession, or within any longer period to which the debtor and all secondary obligors have agreed in an agreement to that effect entered into and authenticated after default [Com. Code § 9620(f)], the debtor has the option to recover either in conversion [see discussion [b], below] or under Com. Code § 9625(b)-(d), discussed in § 503.29.

For a form for waiver of debtor's right to require disposition of collateral under Com. Code § 9620(e), see California Legal Forms, Ch. 42, Secured Transactions, § 42.242 (Matthew Bender). For a complaint for damages under Com. Code § 9625(a)-(d) that can be modified for use in this situation see § 503.102. As a third alternative, the debtor or obligor may request the court to arrange for disposition of the collateral pursuant to Com. Code § 9625(a), discussed in § 503.28[5]. For a complaint that can be modified to use to seek an order for disposition, see § 503.103.

[b] Enforcement by Suit for Conversion of Consumer Goods

Former Division 9 [see former Com. Code § 9505(1)] specified that the debtor was allowed to sue in conversion if, after default, the secured party took possession collateral that was consumer goods and failed to dispose of them in a prescribed time period when 60 percent of the cash price or secured obligation had been paid [see Com. Code § 9620(e), (f), discussed in [a], above]. Current Com. Code § 9620(e) has eliminated the superfluous reference to conversion; but remedies available under other law, including conversion, remain available [see UCC Comment 12. to Com. Code § 9620, see also Com. Code §§ 1302, 1305 (general principles and remedies available unless specifically displaced, but consequential, special, or penal damages may not be had except as specifically provided in the Commercial Code or by other rule of law)]. For a complaint for conversion for use in this situation, see § 503.104.

[6] Secured Party's Immunity Based on Reasonable Belief That Transaction Is Not Consumer Goods Transaction

A secured party is not liable to any person, and a person's liability for a deficiency is not affected, because of any act or omission arising out of the secured party's reasonable belief that a transaction is not a consumer goods transaction or a consumer transaction [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(24), (26) (definitions, discussed in § 503.11[8])] [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(23) (definition, discussed in § 503.11[14][d])], if the secured party's belief is based on its reasonable reliance on either (1) a debtor's representation concerning the purpose for which collateral was to be used, acquired, or held, or (2) an obligor's representation concerning the purpose for which a secured obligation was incurred [Com. Code § 9628(c)]. Of course, if the secured party's belief is not reasonable or, even if reasonable, is not based on reasonable reliance on the debtor's representation, the limitation on liability is not applicable [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9628].

§ 503.43 Perishable Agricultural Commodities

Perishable agricultural commodities [7 U.S.C. § 499a(b)(4)] received by a commission merchant, broker, or dealer [7 U.S.C. § 499a(b)(5)-(7)] in interstate or foreign commerce [7 U.S.C. § 499a(b)(8)], inventories of food or other products derived from perishable agricultural commodities, and any receivables or proceeds from the sale of perishable agricultural commodities or products are held by the commission merchant, broker, or dealer in trust for the benefit of all unpaid sellers, suppliers, or agents [7 U.S.C. § 499e(c)(2)]. The unpaid seller, supplier, or agent loses the benefit of the trust unless it gives notice of intent to preserve the trust to the commission merchant, broker, or dealer within 30 days after (1) payment was due, either in accordance with regulations promulgated by the Secretary of Agriculture [see 7 C.F.R. § 46.2(aa)] or in accordance with the parties' written agreement entered into before the transaction; or (2) the seller, supplier, or agent received notice of dishonor of a promptly presented payment instrument [7 U.S.C. § 499e(c)(3)]. The written notice to the commission merchant, dealer, or broker must set forth information in sufficient detail to identify the transaction subject to the trust [7 U.S.C. § 499e(c)(3)].

When the parties agree to a payment period different from that established by the Secretary, each party must have a copy of the agreement, and those payment terms must be disclosed on invoices, accountings, and other documents relating to the transaction [7 U.S.C. § 499e(c)(3); see In re San Joaquin Food Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 1992) 958 F.2d 938, 940-941 (produce seller's interest in trust nullified by its failure to include payment terms on invoices; fact that buyer had actual knowledge of payment terms did not provide defense)].

Notice of intent to preserve the trust must be given directly to the commission merchant, dealer, or broker in order to preserve the benefits of the trust as against a competing secured party [In re Marvin Properties, Inc. (9th Cir. 1988) 854 F.2d 1183, 1186 (receipt of copy of USDA's letter acknowledging receipt of notice of intent held insufficient)].

Federal district courts have jurisdiction over actions by trust beneficiaries to enforce payment from the trust [7 U.S.C. § 499e(c)(5)(i)].

§ 503.44 Timber and Minerals

[1] Extent of Division 9 Applicability to Timber to Be Cut and As Extracted Collateral

The filing system in revised Division 9 is oriented more towards personal property and less towards real property than the former Division 9 [see UCC Comment 4c to Com. Code § 9102]. Crops, for instance, are goods [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(34)(A), (44) ("farm products" means goods, other than standing timber, with respect to which the debtor is engaged in a farming operation and includes crops grown, growing, or to be grown, even if the crops are produced on trees, vines, or bushes)], and a security interest in growing crops is perfected by filing in the Secretary of State's office [Com. Code §§ 9310(a), 9501(a)], or by the secured party taking possession of the crops [Com. Code § 9310(b)(6), 9313(a)]. See §§ 503.23, 503.40[2][a] for discussions of choice of law rules and general rules for perfecting security interests in goods. The priority of a security interest in crops as against an owner or encumbrancer of the land is established in accordance with Com. Code § 9334(i), discussed in § 503.24[2][e]. In Revised Division 9, there is a distinction between crops and standing timber [UCC Comment 4a to Com. Code § 9102].

"Goods" includes standing timber that is to be cut and removed under a conveyance or contract for sale [Com. Code § 9102(a)(44)(ii)]. A security interest in timber to be cut is perfected by filing in the office designated for the filing or recording of a record of a mortgage on the related real property [see Com. Code § 9501(a)(1)(A)]. Com. Code § 9501(a)(1)(A) is also applicable to filing to perfect interest in as-extracted collateral, which is defined as either of the following [Com. Code § 9102(a)(6)]:

- Oil, gas, or other minerals that are subject to a security interest that both (1) is created by a debtor having an interest in the minerals before extraction and (2) attaches to the minerals as extracted.

- Accounts arising out of the sale at the wellhead or minehead of oil, gas, or other minerals in which the debtor had an interest before extraction.

Under Revised Division 9, oil, gas, and other minerals that have not been extracted from the ground are treated as real property to which Division 9 does not apply [see Com. Code § 9109(d)(11)]. On extraction, minerals become personal property (goods) eligible to be collateral under Division 9 [UCC Comment 4c to Com. Code § 9102]. The definition of "goods" excludes oil, gas, or other minerals before extraction [Com. Code § 9102(a)(44)].

ILLUSTRATIONS:

Elements of Definition of "As-Extracted Collateral." Debtor owns an interest in oil that is to be extracted and contracts to sell the oil to Buyer at the wellhead. In an authenticated agreement, Debtor agrees to sell to Lender the right to payment from Buyer (carved out production payment). This right to payment is an account that constitutes "as-extracted collateral." If Lender then resells the right to payment to Financier, Financier acquires a security interest. Is Financier's security interest "as-extracted collateral?" No. The Debtor-seller in that transaction (Lender) had no interest in the oil before extraction, thus, Financier's collateral (the account it owns) is not "as-extracted collateral" [UCC Comment 4c to Com. Code § 9102, Example 6].

Under the same facts, before extraction, Buyer grants a security interest in the oil to Bank. Is Bank's security interest in as-extracted collateral?" No. Although Bank's security interest attaches when the oil is extracted, Buyer did not have an interest in the oil before extraction, so Bank's collateral is not "as-extracted collateral" [UCC Comment 4c to Com. Code § 9102, Example 7].

[2] Security Agreement as to Timber to Be Cut

A security agreement that grants a security interest in timber to be cut must include a description of the land concerned Com. Code § 9203(b)(3)(A); see also Com. Code § 9502(b)(3) (real property description in financing statement, discussed in*§ 503.44[3]*]. For general discussion of the requirements of a security agreements, see § 503.21[2][a].

[3] Perfecting a Security Interest in Timber to Be Cut or As Extracted Collateral

Security interests in minerals attach on extraction and in accounts resulting from the sale of minerals at the wellhead or minehead [see Com. Code § 9301(4) (choice of law, discussed in § 503.23[1][c])]. The term "at the wellhead" encompasses arrangements based on a sale of the product from the moment that it passes from the ground, and is measured without technical distinctions as to whether title passes "at the Christmas tree" of a well, the far side of a gathering tank, or at some other point. The term "at the minehead" is comparable [UCC Comment 4c to Com. Code § 9102]. A security interest as extracted collateral is perfected by filing in the office designated for the filing or recording of a record of a mortgage on the related real property [see Com. Code § 9501(a)(1)(A)].

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9501(b), to be sufficient, a financing statement that covers as-extracted collateral or timber to be cut (, or which is filed as a fixture filing and covers goods that are or are to become fixtures), must satisfy Com. Code § 9502(a), discussed in § 503.22[6][b], and also satisfy all of the following conditions [Com. Code § 9502(b)]:

- Indicate that it covers this type of collateral.
- Indicate that it is to be recorded in the real property records.
- Provide a description of the real property to which the collateral is related sufficient to give constructive notice of a mortgage under the law of this state if the description were contained in a record of the mortgage of the real property.
- If the debtor does not have an interest of record in the real property, provide the name of a record owner.

A record of a mortgage is effective, from the date of recording, as a financing statement filed as a fixture filing or as a financing statement covering as-extracted collateral or timber to be cut only if all of the following conditions are satisfied [Com. Code § 9502(c)]:

- The record indicates the goods or accounts that it covers.

- The goods are or are to become fixtures related to the real property described in the record or the collateral is related to the real property described in the record and is as-extracted collateral or timber to be cut.

- The record satisfies the requirements for a financing statement in Com. Code § 9502 [see at § 503.22[6][b]] other than an indication that it is to be filed in the real property records.

- The record is duly recorded.

Financing statements covering as-extracted collateral (or timber to be cut) must be recorded and the filing office must index them in accordance with Com. Code § 9519(d), discussed in § 503.47[5] [see Com. Code § 9519(e) (indexing of assignment of financing statement that covers as-extracted collateral or timber to be cut)].

[4] Buyer in Ordinary Course of Minerals Takes Free of Encumbrance

A buyer in ordinary course of business buying oil, gas, or other minerals at the wellhead or minehead or after extraction takes free of an interest arising out of an encumbrance [Com. Code § 9320(d)]. For general discussion of priority accorded buyers in the ordinary course of business, see §§ 503.24[3], 503.42[3]]. For a complaint for use by a buyer in the ordinary course of business to seek a declaration that he or she takes free of another interest, see § 503.161.

§ 503.45 Agricultural Liens

[1] Perfection of Agricultural Liens

Agricultural liens, defined by Com. Code § 9102(a)(5), which is set forth in § 503.11[3], are perfected by the filing of a financing statement [Com. Code § 9310(a); see Com. Code § 9302 (choice of law regarding agricultural liens, discussed in § 503.23[1][d])]. An agricultural lien is perfected if the lien has become effective and the financing statement has been filed. An agricultural lien is perfected when it becomes effective if the applicable requirements are satisfied before the agricultural lien becomes effective [Com. Code § 9308(b)]. An agricultural lien is perfected continuously if it is originally perfected by one method under Division 9 and is later perfected by another method under Division 9, without an intermediate period when it was unperfected [Com. Code § 9308(c)].

If a secured party assigns a perfected agricultural lien, it is not necessary to make an additional filing to continue the perfected status of the lien against creditors of and transferees from the original debtor [Com. Code § 9310(c)].

A person is authorized to file an initial financing statement (or an amendment that adds collateral covered by a financing statement, or an amendment that adds a debtor to a financing statement) with respect to an agricultural lien if that person holds an agricultural lien that has become effective at the time of filing and the financing statement covers only collateral in which the person holds an agricultural lien [Com. Code § 9509(a)(2)].

[2] Statute Creating Agricultural Lien May Give It Priority

A perfected agricultural lien on collateral has priority over a conflicting security interest in or agricultural lien on the same collateral if the statute creating the agricultural lien so provides [Com. Code § 9322(g)]. If the statute creating the agricultural lien does not grant it priority, Com. Code § 9322(a) applies the same priority rules to an agricultural line as to a security interest, regardless of whether the agricultural line conflicts with another agricultural lien or with a security interest [UCC Comment 12 to Com. Code § 9322]. For general discussion of priority, see § 503.24[2].

[3] Statute Creating Agricultural Lien Determines Time of Default

For purposes of Com. Code § 9601 et seq., a default occurs in connection with an agricultural lien at the time the secured party becomes entitled to enforce the lien in accordance with the statute under which it was created [Com. Code § 9606]. For general discussion of a secured party's options on debtor's default, see § 503.27.

§ 503.46 Goods on Consignment

[1] Definitions and Parties

The term "consignment" does not imply a sale, but rather imports an agency and that the title remains in the consignor. The consignor entrusts property to the consignee as agent for the purposes of sale. There may be any kind of sale arrangement, such as that the consignee may sell for any price but remit to the consignor only a fixed price. It may also be that at the time of sale the consignee will be considered the purchaser. Prior to the contemplated sale, however, the goods are the property of the consignor [see Cass v. Rochester (1917) 174 Cal. 358, 361, 362, 163 P. 212 ; see also § 503.133 (complaint in intervention by consignor, who complied with filing and notification procedure, to protect ownership in consigned goods); Fariba v. Dealer Servs. Corp. (2009) 178 Cal. App. 4th 156, 172-173, 100 Cal. Rptr. 3d 219 (trial court properly instructed jury that possession as between competing claimants to goods in inventory at premises of consignment merchant is accomplished when one with right to possess accomplishes actual custody and control of those goods under all circumstances demonstrated by evidence; wholesaler that had consigned used vehicles to dealer was entitled to possession of them after dealer went out of business, and consignor had actual custody and control of those vehicles because of having keys to them in hand, even after vehicles were taken from dealer's premises by creditor that had security interest in dealer's inventory)].

The consignments governed by revised Division 9 [Com. Code § 9109(a)(4)], are defined in Com. Code § 9102(a)(20), set forth in § 503.11[7] to exclude consignments of goods that were consumer goods immediately before delivery to the consignee. Consignments of consumer goods are governed in California by Com. Code § 2326, which is discussed in Ch. 500, Sales: UCC Sales . A consignment that is subject to Division 9 creates a security interest in the consignor [Com. Code § 1201(b)(35], who, under Division 9 is a secured party [Com. Code § 9102(a)(72)(C); see Com. Code § 9102(a)(12)(C), (28)(C) (consigned goods are collateral; consignee is debtor)]. The security interest of the consignor is a purchase money security interest in inventory [Com. Code § 9103(d)], and it must be perfected as such [see Com. Code § 9324(b), (c); see also §§ 503.46[2], [3], 503.42[1]].

[2] Consignor's Goods Subject to Claims of Consignee's Creditors

Under Division 2 of the Commercial Code, governing sales, when goods are delivered to a person primarily for resale, the goods are deemed to be on "sale or return" [Com. Code § 2326(1)(b)]. Goods held on "sale or return" are subject to the claims of creditors of the "buyer" or consignee while they are in the "buyer's" or consignee's possession [Com. Code § 2326(2)]. Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9319(b), for purposes of determining the rights of creditors of, and purchasers for value of goods from, a consignee, while the goods are in the possession of the consignee, the consignee is deemed to have rights and title to the goods identical to those the consignor had or had power to transfer [Com. Code § 9319(a)]. For purposes of determining the rights of a creditor of a consignee, law other than Division 9 determines the rights and title of a consignee while goods are in the consignee's possession if, under the priority rules of Division 9, a perfected security interest held by the consignor would have priority [Com. Code § 9319(b)]. over the rights of the creditor.

ILLUSTRATION:

Consignor Does Not Perfect Security Interest. SP-1 delivers goods to Debtor in a consignment transaction as defined in Com. Code § 9102(a)(20). SP-1 does not file a financing statement. Debtor then grants a security interest in the goods to SP-2, SP-2 files a financing statement. Whose interest is senior: SP-1's or SP-2's? Under Com. Code § 9322(a)(2), SP-2's interest is senior. Even though, under a "true" consignment, Debtor is a mere bailee and would not have any rights, beyond those of a bailee, in the consigned goods to which SP-2's security interest could attach, under Com. Code § 9319(a), for purposes of determining the rights of Debtor's creditors, Debtor is deemed to have SP-1's rights [see UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9319].

ILLUSTRATION: Consignor Does Perfect Security Interest. SP-1 delivers goods to Debtor in a consignment transaction as defined in Com. Code § 9102(a)(20). SP-1 files a proper financing statement. Debtor then grants a security interest in the goods to SP-2. Whose interest is senior: SP-1's or SP-2's? Under Com. Code § 9322(a), SP-1's interest is senior. Further, under Com. Code § 9319(b), Debtor acquired only the special interest of a bailee in the consigned goods; thus, SP-2's security interest would attach only to that special interest [see UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9319].

[3] Filing and Notification Procedure for Protection of Consignments

In order to enjoy the priority of its security interest as a purchase money security interest in inventory [Com. Code § 9103(d)], a consignor must perfect that interest as it would perfect a security interest in inventory; that is, in accordance with Com. Code § 9324(b) and (c), discussed in § 503.41[2] [see UCC Comment 7 to Com. Code § 9324]. The consignor must file a financing statement before the consignee receives possession of the goods [Com. Code § 9324(b)(1)]. If the holder of a competing security interest has filed a financing statement covering the same types of inventory/goods before the date of the consignor's filing, the consignor must give that secured party authenticated notification that the consignor expectsto acquire a security interest in the goods on consignment and describes the goods [Com. Code § 9324(b)(2), (4), (c)(1)]. This notice must be received within five years before the consignee receives possession of the goods [Com. Code § 9324(b)(3); see § 503.133].

[4] Form of Financing Statement for Consignments

A consignor (as well as a lessor or other bailor of goods, a licensor, or a buyer of a payment intangible or promissory note) may file a financing statement, or may comply with a registration or certificate of title statue [see Com. Code § 9311(a)], using the terms "consignor," "consignee," (or "lessor," "lessee," "bailor," "bailee," "licensor," "licensee," "owner," "registered owner," "buyer," "seller,") or words of similar import, instead of the terms "secured party" and "debtor" [Com. Code § 9505(a)]. The filing of a financing statement or compliance that is equivalent to filing a financing statement under a registration or certificate of title statue [see Com. Code § 9311(b)] is not of itself a factor in determining whether the collateral secures an obligation. If it is determined for another reason that the collateral secures an obligation, a security interest held by the consignor (or lessor, bailor, licensor, owner, or buyer) which attaches to the collateral is perfected by the filing or compliance [Com. Code § 9505(b)].

[5] Ordinary Duties of Secured Party in Possession Do Not Apply to Consignor

The ordinary duties of a secured party in possession of collateral [see Com. Code § 9207(a), discussed in § 503.26[1]], do not apply to a consignor (or to a buyer of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes) unless the secured party is entitled under an agreement either to charge back uncollected collateral or otherwise to full or limited recourse against the debtor or a secondary obligor based on the nonpayment or other default of an account debtor or other obligor on the collateral [Com. Code § 9207(d)(1)]. Com. Code § 9207(b), discussed in § 503.26[1], and Com. Code § 9207(c), discussed in § 503.50[4], do not apply at all to a secured party who is a consignor or a buyer of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes [Com. Code § 9207(d)(2)].

[6] Actual Knowledge That Consignee Sells Goods on Consignment

When a consignor of goods does not have the superior security interest in the goods that arises from filing a financing statement [see § 503.46[3]], it is possible for the consignor to have a superior interest, relative to a creditor with a perfected security interest in the inventory of the consignee, based on proof that, when the creditor's security interest in the consignee's inventory was perfected, either (1) the consignee's creditors generally knew that the consignee was substantially engaged in selling the goods of others [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(20)(A)(iii)], or (2) the particular creditor in question actually knew that the consignee was substantially engaged in selling the goods of others [Fariba v. Dealer Servs. Corp. (2009) 178 Cal. App. 4th 156, 166, 100 Cal. Rptr. 3d 219] .

Jury instructions in the following forms would be proper on the crucial issues of fact [Fariba v. Dealer Servs. Corp. (2009) 178 Cal. App. 4th 156, 160, 163-164, 100 Cal. Rptr. 3d 219] :

- The consignor holds a superior interest in the consigned goods if the consignor proves, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the secured party had actual knowledge, at the date of perfection of the security interest, that the debtor was substantially engaged in selling of the goods of others.

- The debtor is considered to be substantially engaged in selling goods that belong to others if 20 percent or more of the debtor's inventory belonged to others.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Transactions in Particular Collateral

44-503 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 503.47

§ 503.47 Fixtures

[1] Relation to Goods for Security Interest Purposes

Division 9 applies to a transaction, regardless of its form, that creates a security interest in fixtures by contract [Com. Code § 9109(a)(1); see Com. Code § 1201(b)(35) (defining "security interest" to include interest in fixtures)] and defines goods to include fixtures [Com. Code § 9102(a)(44)].

Fixtures are an exception to the general rule that Division 9 does not apply to creation or transfer of an interest in or lien on real property, including a lease or rents thereunder. Division 9 applies to fixtures to the extent provided in Com. Code § 9334 and to fixture filings as provided in Com. Code §§ 9501, 9502, 9512, 9516, and 9519 [Com. Code § 9109(d)(11)(B), (C)].

[2] "Fixtures" and "Trade Fixtures" Defined

"Real property" consists not only of land, but also that which is affixed to it, or incidental or appurtenant to it, and that which is immovable by law (except for certain land products to be sold) [Civ. Code § 658]. Things are "affixed to land" when attached to it by roots, imbedded in it, permanently resting on it, or permanently attached to what is thus permanent--such as by means of cement, plaster, nails, bolts, or screws [Civ. Code § 660]. Division 9 defines "fixtures" as goods that have become so related to particular real property that an interest in them arises under real property law [Com. Code § 9102(a)(41)].

A tenant is entitled to remove during the lease any "trade fixtures," that is, anything affixed for trade, manufacture, ornament, or domestic use purposes, if removal will not injure the premises, and unless the manner of fixation has caused it to become an integral part of the premises [Civ. Code § 1019]. While "trade fixtures" are ordinarily removable by the tenant on termination of the lease, the lease may effectively provide that on termination for breach by the tenant the trade fixtures will belong to the landlords. In effect, a trade fixture is not formally considered a fixture at all under California law; nor is "fixture" a factual description of an object, but only a statement of a legal conclusion as to whether it constitutes, in the circumstances, a part of the real property [Goldie v. Bauchet Properties (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 307, 313, 316, 124 Cal. Rptr. 161, 540 P.2d 1 ; see § 503.110].

[3] Creation of Security Interest in Fixtures

A security interest under Division 9 may be created in goods that are fixtures or may continue in goods that become fixtures. However, no security interest exists under Division 9 in ordinary building materials incorporated into an improvement on land [Com. Code § 9334(a)]. Division 9 does not prevent creation of an encumbrance on fixtures under real property law [Com. Code § 9334(b)].

[4] Procedure and Effectiveness of Fixture Filing

A fixture filing, which is a financing statement recorded in the real property records and covering goods which are, or are to become fixtures [Com. Code §§ 9102(a)(40), 9501(a)(1)(B), 9502(b)], may be recorded at the county recorder's office without acknowledgment, certificate of acknowledgment, or further proof [Gov. Code § 27282(a)(7)]. A filing office may refuse to accept a financing statement tendered to be filed or recorded under Com. Code § 9501(a)(1) if the statement does not provide a sufficient description of the real property to which it relates [Com. Code § 9516(b)(3)(D)]. A mortgage with certain additions prescribed by law may be effective as a financing statement [Com. Code § 9502(c); see § 503.44[3]]. A financing statement filed as a fixture filing to perfect a security interest in fixtures of a transmitting utility must be filed in the office of the Secretary of State [Com. Code § 9501(b)].

A financing statement filed as a fixture filing, if the debtor is not a transmitting utility, must contain certain statutorily required statements in order to be effective [see Com. Code § 9502(a), (b), discussed in §§ 503.22[6][b] and 503.44[3], respectively]. Financing statements substantially complying with statutory requirements of Com. Code § 9502 are effective even though containing minor errors that are not seriously misleading [Com. Code § 9506]. A fixture filing is effective for five years from the date of filing [Com. Code § 9515(a); but see Com. Code § 9515(b) (financing statement filed in connection with manufactured home transaction is effective for 30 years after date of filing if it indicates that it is filed in connection with a manufactured home transaction)]. The effectiveness of the filed financing statement lapses on the expiration of the five-year period unless a continuation statement is filed within six months before the expiration of the five-year period [Com. Code § 9515(c), (d)]. A real estate mortgage effective as a financing statement filed as a fixture filing [see Com. Code § 9502(c)] remains effective as a financing statement filed as a fixture filing until the mortgage is released or satisfied of record or its effectiveness otherwise terminates as to the real property [Com. Code § 9515(g)].

An assignment of record of a security interest in a fixture covered by a record of a mortgage which is effective as a financing statement filed as a fixture filing under Com. Code § 9502(c) can be made only by an assignment of record of the mortgage in the manner provided by California law other than the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 9514(c)].

[5] Notice to Real Estate Interest

If a financing statement is filed as a fixture filing (or covers as-extracted collateral or timber to be cut), it must be recorded and the filing office must index it both (1) under the names of the debtor and of each owner of record shown on the financing statement as if they were the mortgagors under a mortgage of the real property described, and (2) to the extent that California law provides for indexing records of mortgages under the name of the mortgagee, under the name of the secured party as if the secured party were the mortgagee thereunder, or, if indexing is by description, as if the financing statement were a record of a mortgage of the real property described [Com. Code § 9519(d)]. When properly containing the description of the real property affected thereby [see Com. Code § 9502(b)(3)], the fixture filing constitutes constructive notice of its contents to subsequent purchasers and mortgagees, from the time it is filed with the recorder for record [Gov. Code § 27282(b)].

[6] Priorities as to Fixtures

[a] Residual Rule

In cases not governed by Com. Code § 9334(d)-(h), inclusive, discussed in*§ 503.47[6][b] -[h]*, a security interest in fixtures is subordinate to a conflicting interest of an encumbrancer or owner of the related real property other than the debtor [Com. Code § 9334(c)].

[b] Perfected Interests in Fixtures

A perfected security interest in fixtures has priority over a conflicting interest of an encumbrancer or owner of the real property in the following cases:

- First, except as discussed in*§ 503.47[6][d]* with respect to construction mortgages [see Com. Code § 9334(h)], a perfected purchase money security interest in fixtures has priority over a conflicting interest of an encumbrancer or owner of the real property if the debtor has an interest of record in or is in possession of the real property, the interest of the encumbrancer or owner arises before the goods become fixtures, and the security interest is perfected by a fixture filing before the goods become fixtures or within 20 days thereafter [Com. Code § 9334(d)].

- Second, a perfected security interest in fixtures has priority over a conflicting interest of an encumbrancer or owner of the real property if the debtor has an interest of record in the real property or is in possession of the real property, the security interest is perfected by a fixture filing before the interest of the encumbrancer or owner is of record, and the security interest has priority over any conflicting interest of a predecessor in title of the encumbrancer or owner [Com. Code § 9334(e)(1); see also UCC Comment 6 to Com. Code § 9334].

- Third, a perfected security interest in fixtures has priority over a conflicting interest of an encumbrancer or owner of the real property if the fixtures are readily removable factory or office machines or readily removable replacements of domestic appliances that are consumer goods [Com. Code § 9334(e)(2)].

- Fourth, a perfected security interest in fixtures has priority over a conflicting interest of an encumbrancer or owner of the real property if the conflicting interest is a lien on the real property obtained by legal or equitable proceedings after the security interest was perfected by any method permitted by Division 9 [Com. Code § 9334(e)(3)].

- Finally, a perfected security interest in fixtures has priority over a conflicting interest of an encumbrancer or owner of the real property if the security interest is created in a manufactured home in a manufactured home transaction and is perfected pursuant to a certificate of title statute described in Com. Code § 9311(a)(2)[Com. Code § 9334(e)(4); see Com. Code § 9102(a)(53), (54) (defining "manufactured home" and "manufactured home transaction")]. Com. Code § 9334(e)(4) is only one of the priority rules applicable to security interests in a manufactured home that becomes a fixture. Thus, a security interest in a manufactured home that does not qualify under Com. Code § 9334(e)(4) may qualify under another provision [see UCC Comment 10 to Com. Code § 9334].

[c] Unperfected Interests in Fixtures

Whether or not it has been perfected, a security interest in fixtures has priority over a conflicting interest of an encumbrancer or owner of the real property if either (1) the encumbrancer or owner has consented, in an authenticated record, to the security interest or disclaimed an interest in the goods as fixtures; or (2) the debtor has a right to remove the goods as against the encumbrancer or owner [Com. Code § 9334(f)]. In the latter instance, if the debtor's right to remove the goods as against the encumbrancer or owner terminates, the priority of the security interest continues for a reasonable time [Com. Code § 9334(g)].

[d] Construction Mortgage

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9334(e) and (f), discussed in*§ 503.47[6][b]* and [c], a security interest in fixtures is subordinate to a construction mortgage if a record of the mortgage is recorded before the goods become fixtures and the goods become fixtures before the completion of the construction. A mortgage is a construction mortgage to the extent that it secures an obligation incurred for the construction of an improvement on land, including the acquisition cost of the land, if the recorded record of the mortgage so indicates [Com. Code § 9334(h)]. A mortgage has this priority to the same extent as a construction mortgage to the extent that it is given to refinance a construction mortgage [Com. Code § 9334(h)].

[7] Governing Law When Foreign Goods Affixed to California Property

If goods are or become fixtures in relation to real estate located in California, the both perfection of a security interest in the goods by filing a fixture filing and the effect of perfection or nonperfection and the priority of a nonpossessory security interest in the collateral are governed by California law, specifically, Division 9 [Com. Code § 9301(3)(A), (C)].

§ 503.48 Documents

[1] Perfection of Interests in Negotiable Documents

[a] Negotiation

A negotiable tangible document of title is negotiated as follows [Com. Code § 7501(a)(1)-(4)]:

- If the document's original terms run to the order of a named person, the document is negotiated by the named person's indorsement and delivery. After the named person's indorsement in blank or to bearer, any person may negotiate the document by delivery alone.

- If the document's original terms run to bearer, it is negotiated by delivery alone.

- If the document's original terms run to the order of a named person and it is delivered to the named person, the effect is the same as if the document had been negotiated.

- Negotiation of the document after it has been indorsed to a named person requires indorsement by the named person and delivery.

A negotiable electronic document of title is negotiable as follows [Com. Code § 7501(b)(1), (2)]:

- If the document's original terms run to the order of a named person or to bearer, the document is negotiated by delivery of the document to another person. Indorsement by the named person is not required to negotiate the document.

- If the document's original terms run to the order of a named person and the named person has control of the document, the effect is the same as if the document had been negotiated.

A negotiable tangible or electronic document or title is "duly negotiated" if it is negotiated in the appropriate manner stated above to a holder that purchases it in good faith, without notice of any defense against or claim to it on the part of any person, and for value, unless it is established that the negotiation is not in the regular course of business or financing or involves receiving (in the case of a tangible document) or taking delivery of (in the case of an electronic document) the document in settlement or payment of a monetary obligation [Com. Code § 7501(a)(5) (tangible documents), (b)(3) (electronic documents)]. The holder acquires title to the document, title to the goods covered thereby, and specified rights against the issuer and certain agents of the issuer [Com. Code § 7502(a); see also Com. Code § 9331]. However, such a document confers no right in goods against one who before its issuance had a legal interest or a perfected security interest in them and who neither delivered nor entrusted them or any document covering them to the bailor, or a nominee of the bailor, with actual or apparent authority to ship, store, or sell, or with power to obtain delivery [see Com. Code § 7403] or with power of disposition under any statute or rule of law, nor acquiesced in the procurement by the bailor or a nominee of the bailor of any document of title [Com. Code § 7503(a)].

[b] Perfection

A security interest in tangible negotiable documents may be perfected by the secured party's act of taking possession of the documents [Com. Code § 9313(a)]. It also may be perfected by filing [Com. Code § 9312(a)]. However, it may be perfected without filing or taking possession or control for a period of 20 days from the time it attaches to the extent that it arises for new value given under an authenticated security agreement [Com. Code § 9312(e)].

While goods are in the possession of a bailee that has issued a negotiable document covering the goods, a security interest in the goods is perfected by perfecting a security interest in the document [Com. Code § 9312(c)(1)]. A security interest perfected in the document has priority over any security interest that becomes perfected in the goods by another method during that time [Com. Code § 9312(c)(2)]. A perfected security interest in a negotiable document can remain perfected for 20 days without filing if the document representing the goods is made available to the debtor by the secured party for certain purposes, in the same manner as that described for goods in possession of a bailee not issuing a negotiable document for those goods [Com. Code § 9312(f); see discussion in § 503.40[2][b]].

After the expiration of the 20-day period in either Com. Code § 9312(e) or (f), perfection depends on compliance with Division 9 [Com. Code § 9312(h)].

[2] Conflict of Laws as to Security Interests in Documents

The question as to which jurisdiction's law governs the perfection or nonperfection of and the priority of a security interest in documents is resolved in the same manner as that applicable generally, discussed in § 503.23[1] [Com. Code § 9301]. However, the distinction between possessory and nonpossessory interests [Com. Code § 9301(1), (2)] creates the potential for the same jurisdiction to apply two different choice of law rules to determine perfection in the same collateral. For example, if a secured party was in possession of an instrument or document to relinquish possession in reliance on temporary perfection, the applicable law immediately would change from that of the location of the collateral to that of the location of the debtor. The application of two different choice-of-law rules for perfection is unlikely to lead to any material practical problems because the perfection rules of one Division 9 jurisdiction are likely to be identical to those of another. Moreover, under Com. Code § 9301(3)(C), the relative priority of competing security interests in tangible collateral is resolved by reference to the law of the jurisdiction in which the collateral is located, regardless of how the security interests are perfected [UCC Comment 5a to Com. Code § 9301].

Com. Code § 9301 takes a bifurcated approach with respect to collateral mentioned in Com. Code § 9301(3) (negotiable tangible documents, goods, instruments, money, or tangible chattel paper): Com. Code § 9301(1) and (2) govern perfection, while under Com. Code § 9301(3) (C), the law of the jurisdiction where the collateral is located determines "the effect of perfection or nonperfection and priority," including for example, the effect of an execution lien on priority [see UCC Comment 7 to Com. Code § 9301].

[3] Secured Party's Rights on Default Involving Documents

If the collateral consists of documents, on the default of the debtor the secured party may proceed either as to the documents or as to the goods they cover [Com. Code § 9601(a)(2)].

[4] Secured Party's Duties When Electronic Document of Title No Longer Secures Any Obligation

If there is no outstanding secured obligation and the secured party is not committed to make advances, incur obligations, or otherwise give value, a secured party having control of an electronic document of title under Com. Code § 7106 must give control of the electronic document to the debtor or its designated custodian. If the debtor designates a custodian that is the designated custodian with which the authoritative copy of the electronic document is maintained for the secured party, then the secured party must communicate to the custodian an authenticated record releasing the designated custodian from any further obligation to comply with instructions originated by the secured party and instructing the custodian to comply with instructions originated by the debtor. The secured party must take appropriate action to enable the debtor or its designated custodian to make copies of or revisions to the authoritative copy which add or change an identified assignee of the authoritative copy without the consent of the secured party. All of the above must be done within 10 days after the secured party receives an authenticated demand by the debtor [Com. Code § 9208(a), (b)(6)].

§ 503.49 Instruments

[1] Perfection of Security Interest in Instruments

The term "instruments" is defined by Com. Code § 9102(a)(47), and includes promissory notes, as defined by Com. Code § 9102(a)(65). Both definitions are set forth in § 503.11[15]. A security interest in an instrument may be perfected by filing [Com. Code § 9312(a)], which is a change from prior law, or by the secured party taking possession of the instrument [Com. Code § 9313(a)]. If perfection of a security interest depends on possession of the instrument by the secured party, perfection occurs no earlier than the time the secured party takes possession and continues only while the secured party retains possession [Com. Code § 9313(d)].

A security interest in an instrument is perfected without filing or the taking of possession or control for a period of 20 days from the time it attaches to the extent that it arises for new value given under an authenticated security agreement [Com. Code § 9312(e); see Com. Code § 9102(a)(57) ("new value," discussed in § 503.11[24])]. After the 20-day period expires, perfection depends on compliance with Division 9 [Com. Code § 9312(h)].

Subject to Com. Code § 9312(h), above, a perfected security interest in an instrument remains perfected for 20 days without filing if the secured party delivers the instrument to the debtor for the purpose of ultimate sale or exchange, presentation, collection, enforcement, renewal, or registration of transfer [Com. Code § 9312(g)].

It is not necessary to file a financing statement to perfect a security interest in an instrument which is perfected without filing, control, or possession under Com. Code § 9312(e)-(g) [Com. Code § 9310(b)(5)].

The buyer's security interest created by the sale of a promissory note is perfected when it attaches [Com. Code § 9309(4)].

With respect to perfection of a security interest in proceeds of an instrument, see § 503.21[7] [see Com. Code § 9315(c),(d); see also Com. Code § 9315(a) (b) (security interest in proceeds of unauthorized disposition of collateral, discussed in § 503.21[4])].

Attachment of a security interest in any supporting obligation for the instrument [Com. Code § 9203(f); see Com. Code § 9102(a)(77) (supporting obligation defined, discussed in § 503.24[2][b])], and in any security interest, mortgage, or other lien that secures the instrument [Com. Code § 9203(g)], is discussed in § 503.21[2][c].

[2] Conflict of Laws as to Security Interests in Instruments

The question as to which jurisdiction's law governs the perfection or nonperfection of, and the priority of a security interest in, instruments is resolved in the same manner as that applicable generally, discussed in § 503.23[1] [Com. Code § 9301]. However, the application of Com. Code § 9301 to instruments is subject to the same complications as those applicable in the case of documents, discussed in § 503.48[2].

[3] Priorities Among Interests in Instruments

Instruments are governed by the general priority rules of Com. Code § 9322, discussed in § 503.24. Because instruments may be proceeds of other collateral, Com. Code § 9322(d) and (e), discussed in § 503.24[2][b], may be applicable.

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9331(a) (holders in due course, discussed in § 503.21[3]), a purchaser of an instrument has priority over a security interest in the instrument perfected by a method other than possession if the purchaser gives value and takes possession of the instrument in good faith and without knowledge that the purchase violates the rights of the secured party [Com. Code § 9330(d); see Com. Code § 1204, defining "value," discussed in § 503.11[24]]. Com. Code § 9330(d), applies to checks as well as notes [UCC Comment 7 to Com. Code § 9330]. For purposes of Com. Code § 9330(d), if an instrument indicates that it has been assigned to an identified secured party other than the purchaser, a purchaser of instrument has knowledge that the purchase violates the rights of the secured party [Com. Code § 9330(f)].

[4] Secured Party's Rights and Duties as to Instruments

In addition to the ordinary duties of a secured party in possession of collateral [see Com. Code § 9207, discussed in § 503.26[1]], in the case of an instrument, the secured party's duty of reasonable care includes taking necessary steps to preserve rights against prior parties unless otherwise agreed [Com. Code § 9207(a)].

[5] Right to Make Collection

When so agreed, and in any event after default, a secured party is entitled to notify the obligor on an instrument to make payment to or for the benefit of the secured party and to otherwise exercise the rights of the debtor with respect to the obligations represented by the collateral and with respect to any property that secures the obligations on the collateral, including for example, the right to foreclose a mortgage that secures an instrument. The secured party also is entitled to take control of any proceeds to which he or she is entitled under Com. Code § 9315 [Com. Code § 9607(a)(1)-(3); see Com. Code § 9608 (application of proceeds of collection); § 503.27[1], [3]].

§ 503.50 Chattel Paper

[1] Perfection of Security Interest in Chattel Paper

[a] Tangible Chattel Paper

"Chattel paper" is defined by Com. Code § 9102(a)(11), which is set forth in § 503.11[5]. A security interest in chattel paper may be perfected by the secured party's taking possession of it [Com. Code § 9313(a)] or filing a financing statement [Com. Code § 9312(a)]. If perfection of a security interest depends on possession of the instrument by the secured party, perfection occurs no earlier than the time the secured party takes possession and continues only while the secured party retains possession [Com. Code § 9313(d)].

[b] Electronic Chattel Paper

"Electronic chattel paper" is defined by Com. Code § 9102(a)(31), which is set forth in § 503.11[5]. A security interest in electronic chattel paper may be perfected by the secured party's taking by control of the collateral under Com. Code § 9105 [Com. Code § 9314(a)] or filing a financing statement [Com. Code § 9312(a)].

A security interest in electronic chattel paper is perfected by control under Com. Code § 9105 when the secured party obtains control and remains perfected by control only while the secured party retains control [Com. Code § 9314(b)]. A secured party has control of electronic chattel paper if the record or records comprising the chattel paper are created, stored, and assigned in such a manner that each of the following conditions is satisfied [Com. Code § 9105]:

(1) A single authoritative copy of the record or records exists which is unique, identifiable, and, except as otherwise provided in (4), (5), and (6), below, unalterable.

(2) The authoritative copy identifies the secured party as the assignee of the record or records.

(3) The authoritative copy is communicated to and maintained by the secured party or its designated custodian.

(4) Copies or revisions that add or change an identified assignee of the authoritative copy can be made only with the participation of the secured party.

(5) Each copy of the authoritative copy and any copy of a copy is readily identifiable as a copy that is not the authoritative copy.

(6) Any revision of the authoritative copy is readily identifiable as an authorized or unauthorized revision.

[2] Conflict of Laws as to Security Interests in Chattel Paper

The question as to which jurisdiction's law governs the perfection or nonperfection of, and the priority of a security interest in, chattel paper is resolved in the same manner as that applicable generally, discussed in § 503.23[1] [Com. Code § 9301]. However, the application of Com. Code § 9301 to tangible chattel paper is subject to the same complications as those applicable in the case of documents, discussed in § 503.48[2].

[3] Priority of Purchaser of Chattel Paper

[a] Over Claim of Interest in Chattel Paper as Proceeds of Inventory

A purchaser of chattel paper has priority over a security interest in the chattel paper which is claimed merely as proceeds of inventory subject to a security interest if, in good faith and in the ordinary course of the purchaser's business, the purchaser gives new value and takes possession of the chattel paper or obtains control of the chattel paper under Com. Code § 9105 and the chattel paper does not indicate that it has been assigned to an identified assignee other than the purchaser [Com. Code § 9330(a); see Com. Code § 9102(a)(57), defining "new value," discussed in § 503.11[24]; Com. Code § 9342(b), regarding conflicting purchase money interest in inventory, discussed in § 503.41[2]]. For purposes of the foregoing, the holder of a purchase money security interest in inventory gives new value for chattel paper constituting proceeds of the inventory [Com. Code § 9330(e); see discussion in § 503.41[2]].

Com. Code § 9330(a) revises the rule in former Com. Code § 9308(b) to eliminate reference to what the purchaser knows. Instead, a purchaser who meets the possession or control, ordinary course, and new value requirements takes priority over a competing security interest unless the chattel paper itself indicates that it has been assigned to an identified assignee other than the purchaser. This recognized the common practice of placing a "legend" on chattel paper to indicate that it has been assigned. This approach, allowing the purchaser who gives new value to rely on the lack of a legend, without concern for other facts that it may know, comports with the expectations of both inventory and chattel paper financers [UCC Comment 5 to Com. Code § 9330].

If a possessory security interest in chattel paper does not qualify for priority under Com. Code § 9330, it may be subordinate, under Com. Code § 9322(a)(1) to a security interest that was perfected by filing [UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9330].

[b] Over Interest Claimed Other than as Proceeds

A purchaser of chattel paper has priority over a security interest in the chattel paper which is claimed other than merely as proceeds of inventory subject to a security interest if the purchaser gives new value and takes possession of the chattel paper or obtains control of the chattel paper under Com. Code § 9105 in good faith, in the ordinary course of the purchaser's business, and without knowledge that the purchase violates the rights of the secured party [Com. Code § 9330(b); see Com. Code § 9102(a)(57) (defining "new value" discussed in § 503.11[24]); Com. Code § 9342(b) (regarding conflicting purchase money interest in inventory, discussed in § 503.41[2])]. For purposes of the foregoing, the holder of a purchase money security interest in inventory gives new value for chattel paper constituting proceeds of the inventory [Com. Code § 9330(e); see also discussion in § 503.41[2]]. In addition, for purposes of Com. Code § 9330(b), if chattel paper indicates that it has been assigned to an identified secured party other than the purchaser, a purchaser of the chattel paper has knowledge that the purchase violates the rights of the secured party [Com. Code § 9330(f)].

Com. Code § 9330(b) eliminates the former requirement that the purchaser take without knowledge that the "specific paper" is subject to the security interest and substitutes for it the requirement that the purchaser take "without knowledge that the purchase violates the rights of the secured party." The current standard derives from the definition of "buyer in the ordinary course of business" in Com. Code § 1201(b)(9). The source of the purchaser's knowledge is irrelevant. "Knowledge" means "actual knowledge" as defined inCom. Code § 1202(b) [UCC Comment 6 to Com. Code § 9330].

If a possessory security interest in chattel paper does not qualify for priority under Com. Code § 9330, it may be subordinate, under Com. Code § 9322(a)(1) to a security interest that was perfected by filing [UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9330].

[c] Competing Priorities in Proceeds

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9327 (discussed in § 503.58[3]), a purchaser having priority in chattel paper under Com. Code § 9330(a) or (b) also has priority in proceeds of the chattel paper to the extent that either Com. Code § 9322 provides for priority in the proceeds, or the proceeds consist of the specific goods covered by the chattel paper or cash proceeds of the specific goods, even if the purchaser's security interest in the proceeds is unperfected [Com. Code § 9330(c)]. Returned and repossessed goods may constitute proceeds of chattel paper [UCC Comment 9 to Com. Code § 9330].

ILLUSTRATIONS:

Chattel Paper Purchaser's Rights in Returned or Repossessed Goods. SP-1 has a security interest in all inventory of a dealer in goods. SP-1's security interest is perfected by filing. Dealer sells some of its inventory to a buyer in the ordinary course of business (BIOCOB) under a conditional sales contract (chattel paper) that does nod indicate that it has been assigned to SP-1. SP-2 purchases the chattel paper from Dealer and takes possession of the paper in good, faith, in the ordinary course of business, and without knowledge that the purchase violates the rights of SP-1. Subsequently, BIOCOB returns the goods to Dealer because they are defective. Who has the superior security interest in the returned goods? SP-2 does, under Com. Code § 9330(c)(2). Dealer is merely a bailee and acquires no interest to which SP-1's security interst could attach. SP-2 enjoys priority regardless of whether or when SP-2 filed a financing statement covering the chattel paper.

If Dealer acquires the goods under circumstances in which it once again becomes the owner (BIOCOB's revocation or rejection), whose security interest is superior? Again, under Com. Code § 9330(c)(2), SP-2. SP-1's security interest would reattach because the goods would be proceeds of chattel paper [see Com. Code § 9315(d)]. Because Dealers's newly reacquired interest in the goods is also proceeds of the chattel paper, SP-2's security interest also attaches to the goods as proceeds collection.

If Dealer, SP-1, or SP-2 repossesses, who has the superior interest? Again, under Com. Code § 9330(c)(2), SP-2. BIOCOB remains owner of the goods. Dealer's interest is in the chattel paper, not the goods. SP-1's interest in the goods does not reattach until Dealer reacquires an interest beyond bare possession, for instance, if Dealer purchases at a foreclosure sale the goods [UCC Comments 9 and 10 to Com. Code § 9330].

[d] While Buyer's Security Interest is Unperfected

A debtor that has sold chattel paper does not retain a legal or equitable interest in the collateral sold [Com. Code § 9318(a)]. For purposes of determining the rights of creditors of, and purchasers for value of chattel paper from, a debtor that has sold chattel paper, while the buyer's security interest is unperfected, the debtor is deemed to have rights and title to the chattel paper identical to those the debtor sold [Com. Code § 9318(b)]. If the purchaser of chattel paper does not perfect it's interset, it is vulnerable: seller/debtor can transfer, and the creditors of the seller can reach, the chattel paper as if it had not been sold [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9318].

[4] Secured Party in Possession of Chattel Paper

In addition to the ordinary duties of a secured party in possession of collateral [see Com. Code § 9207, discussed in § 503.26[1]], in the case of chattel paper, the secured party's duty of reasonable care includes taking necessary steps to preserve rights against prior parties unless otherwise agreed [Com. Code § 9207(a)]. Com. Code § 9601 et seq. impose no duties on a secured party that is buyer of chattel paper except, as provided by Com. Code § 9607(c) (when secured party who undertakes to make collections on collateral must do so in commercially reasonable manner), discussed in § 503.27[3][a] [Com. Code § 9601(g)].

[5] Right to Make Collection

When so agreed, and in any event after default, a secured party is entitled to notify the obligor on chattel paper to make payment to or for the benefit of the secured party and to otherwise exercise the rights of the debtor with respect to the obligations represented by the collateral and with respect to any property that secures the obligations on the collateral. The secured party is also entitled to take control of any proceeds to which he or she is entitled under Com. Code § 9315 [Com. Code § 9607(a)(1)-(3); see Com. Code § 9608 (application of proceeds of collection); § 503.27[1] and [3]].

[6] Secured Party's Duties When Electronic Chattel Paper No Longer Secures Any Obligation

If there is no outstanding secured obligation and the secured party is not committed to make advances, incur obligations, or otherwise give value, a secured party, other than a buyer, having control of a chattel paperaccount under Com. Code § 9105 must do all of the following within 10 days after receiving an authenticated demand by the debtor [Com. Code § 9208(a), (b)(3)]:

- Communicate the authoritative copy of the electronic chattel paper to the debtor or its designated custodian.

- If the debtor designates a custodian that is the designated custodian with which the authoritative copy of the electronic chattel paper is maintained for the secured party, communicate to the custodian an authenticated record releasing the designated custodian from any further obligation to comply with instructions originated by the secured party and instructing the custodian to comply with instructions originated by the debtor.

- Take appropriate action to enable the debtor or its designated custodian to make copies of or revisions to the authoritative copy which add or change an identified assignee of the authoritative copy without the consent of the secured party.

§ 503.51 Accounts

[1] Expanded Definition Under Revised Division 9

"Account" is defined in revised Division 9 by Com. Code § 9102(a)(2), set forth in § 503.11[1]. The new definition of account is broader than the definition in former Division 9 and includes things that were general intangibles under the former law [UCC Comment 5 a to Com. Code § 9102]. "Account" is no longer limited to rights to payment relating to goods or services. Many categories of rights to payment that were classified as general intangibles under former law are accounts under revised Division 9. Thus, if they are sold, a financing statement must be filed to protect the buyer's in them. Among the types of property that are expressly excluded from the definition of account in revised Division 9 (they are still general intangibles) are rights to payment of money or funds advanced or sold. Money is limited essentially to currency [see Com. Code § 1201(b)(24)]. As used in the exclusion from the definition of account, "funds" is a broader concept (although the term is not defined). For example, when a bank-creditor credits a deposit account with the amount of a loan, the bank's advance of funds is not a transaction giving rise to an account [UCC Comment 5a to Com. Code § 9102; see UCC Comment 5d to Com. Code § 9102 (deposit account is separate type of collateral)].

The definition of "health care insurance receivable" was new in revised Division 9. "Health care insurance receivables" are a subset of "account." However, the rules generally applicable to debtors on accounts [see, e.g., Com. Code §§ 9404(e), 9405(d), 9406(i), discussed in §§ 503.54[2], 503.60] do not apply to insurers obligated on health care insurance receivables [UCC Comment 5a to Com. Code § 9102; see discussion in § 503.54].

Certain accounts are also "as-extracted" collateral [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(6); discussion in § 503.44[1]].

[2] Conflict of Laws as to Interests in Accounts

Accounts may be governed by the general choice of law rule of Com. Code § 9301(1), that while a debtor is located in a jurisdiction, the local law of that jurisdiction governs perfection, the effect of perfection or nonperfection, and the priority of a security interest in collateral [see also Com. Code § 9301(2) (choice of law governing possessory security interests, discussed in § 503.23[1])]. If the debtor moves, Com. Code § 9316(a)(2), discussed in § 503.23[4], will generally continue perfection until the expiration of four months after a change of the debtor's location to another jurisdiction [see also Com. Code § 9307 (defining "debtor's location," discussed in § 503.23[2])].

[3] Perfection of Security Interest in Account

Although a security interest represented by an assignment of accounts or payment intangibles which does not by itself or in conjunction with other assignments to the same assignee transfer a significant part of the assignor's outstanding accounts or payment intangibles is perfected when it attaches [see Com. Code § 9309(2)], any person who regularly takes assignments of any debtor's accounts or payment intangibles should file. Note also that Com. Code § 9109(d)(4)-(7) (discussed in § 503.13[2]) exclude specified transfers of accounts, chattel paper, and payment intangibles from Division 9 [see UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9309]. Because of the expansion of the definition of "account" in revised Division 9 [see [1], above], an interest perfected as a general intangible under former law may need to be reperfected as an interest in an "account" after July 1, 2001 [see UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9703, Example 3].

§ 503.52 Sales of Accounts or Chattel Paper, Payment Intangibles, or Promissory Notes

[1] Terminology: "Assignment" and "Transfer"

In numerous provisions, Division 9 refers to the "assignment" or "transfer" of property interest, but these terms are not defined. Division 9 generally follows common usage by using the terms "assignment" and "assign" to refer to transfers of rights to payment, claims, and lines and other security interests. Division 9 generally uses the term "transfer" to refer to other transfers of interests in property. Except when used in connection with a letter-of-credit transaction [see UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9107], no significance should be placed on the use of one term or the other. Depending on the context, each term may refer to the assignment or transfer of an outright ownership interest or the assignment or transfer of a limited interest, such as a security interest [UCC Comment 26 to Com. Code § 9102]. Thus, the provisions discussed in § 503.60 also may need to be considered in connection with the sale of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, and promissory notes.

A sale of an account, chattel paper, payment intangible, or promissory note includes any right in the receivable, such as the sale of a participation interest. The term also includes the sale of an enforcement right, for example, a person "entitled to enforce a negotiable promissory note" [see Com. Code § 3301], may sell its ownership rights in the instrument [UCC Comment 5 to Com. Code § 9109; see UCC Comment 1 to Com. Code § 3203]. The right under Com. Code § 3309 to enforce a lost, destroyed, or stolen negotiable promissory note also may be sold to a purchaser who could enforce that right by requiring the seller to provide the proof required under that section. Article 9 rejects cases reaching a contrary result, such as Dennis Joslin Co. v. Robinson Broadcasting (D.D.C. 1997) 977 F. Supp. 491 [UCC Comment 5 to Com. Code § 9109].

Nothing in Com. Code § 9109 prevents the transfer of a full and complete ownership of an account, chattel paper, instrument, or payment intangible. However, as mentioned in UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9109 neither Division 9 nor the definition of security interest [Com. Code § 1201(b)(35)] provide rules for distinguishing sales transactions from those that create a security interest securing an obligation. Division 9 applies to both types of transactions. The principle effect of this coverage is to apply Division 9's perfection and priority rules to these sales transactions. Use of terminology such as "security interest," "debtor," and "collateral" is merely a drafting convention adopted to reach this end, and its use has no relevance to distinguishing sales form other transactions [UCC Comment 5 to Com. Code § 9109].

[2] Extent to Which Division 9 Is Applicable

[a] Those Covered by Division 9

The term "security interest" includes any interest of a buyer of accounts, chattel paper, a payment intangible, or a promissory note in a transaction that is subject to Division 9 [Com. Code § 1201(b)(35)]. Those include most sales of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes [see Com. Code § 9109(a)(3)], except the single assignments listed in Com. Code § 9109(d)(4)-(7), below. Division 9 will not govern if another California statute expressly governs the creation, perfection, priority, or enforcement of a security interest created by California or a governmental unit of California. These statutes include statutes that provide for pledges, liens, or security interests to secure bonds or other obligations (including, without limitation, leases) of California or a governmental unit of California, whether the statute is of general application like Gov. Code §§ 5450 and 5451, or is specific to particular types of obligations of the state of California or of governmental units or to particular governmental units [Com. Code § 9109(c)(1), (2)]. The following sales of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes also are outside the scope of Division 9 [Com. Code § 9109(d)(4)-(7)]:

- A sale of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes as part of a sale of the business out of which they arose.

- An assignment of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes which is for the purpose of collection only.

- An assignment of a right to payment under a contract to an assignee that is also obligated to perform under the contract.

- An assignment of a single account, payment intangible, or promissory note to an assignee in full or partial satisfaction of a preexisting indebtedness.

Certain "accounts," namely health care insurance receivables and "as-extracted collateral" (accounts arising at wellhead), are subject to particular rules of their own, which are discussed in §§ 503.53 and 503.44, respectively. Priority afforded to purchasers of chattel paper is governed in part by Com. Code § 9330, discussed in § 503.50[3].

[b] Expansion in Revised Division 9 to Include Payment Intangibles and Promissory Notes

Under Com. Code § 9109(a)(3), as under former Com. Code § 9102, Division 9 applies to sales of accounts and chattel paper. This approach generally has been successful in avoiding problems of distinguishing between transactions in which a receivable secures an obligation and those in which the receivable has been sold outright. In many commercial financing transactions, the distinction is blurred [UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9109]. Although Division 9 occasionally distinguishes between outright sales of receivables and sales that secure an obligation, neither Division 9 nor the definition of security interest [Com. Code § 1201(b)(35)] delineates how a particular transaction is to be classified. That issue is left to the courts [UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9109].

Com. Code § 9109(a)(3) expands the scope of Division 9 by including the sale of a payment intangible (defined as a general intangible under which the account debtor's principal obligation is to pay money) [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(61), as discussed in § 503.11 [12]] and the sale of a promissory note (defined as an instrument, specifically an instrument that evidences a promise to pay a monetary obligation, does not evidence an order to pay, and does not contain an acknowledgment by a bank that the bank has received for deposit a sum of money or funds) [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(65); § 503.11[15]]. To a considerable extent, Division 9 treats those transactions as identical to a sale of accounts or chattel paper. In some respects, however, sales of payment intangibles and promissory notes are treated differently [UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9109; see, e.g., Com. Code§ 9309 (automatic attachment on perfection, discussed in [6], below); Com. Code § 9408 (effect of restrictions on assignment, discussed in [5], below)].

By virtue of the expanded definition of "account," Division 9 now covers sales of and other interests in health care insurance receivables [UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9109], which are discussed in § 503.54.

[3] Conflict of Laws as to Sales of Receivables

Conflict of laws governing security interests in chattel paper, accounts, promissory notes, and general intangibles is governed by the general choice of law rule of Com. Code § 9301, discussed in § 503.23[1]. Under Com. Code § 9301(3)(C) the effect of perfection or nonprefection and the priority of a nonpossessory security interest in tangible chattel paper [see § 503.50[2]] and instruments, which includes promissory notes [Com. Code § 9102(a)(47), (65); see § 503.48[2]], is governed by the local law of the jurisdiction where the collateral is located. For discussion of the complications that may arise in applying Com. Code § 9301(1), (2), and (3)(C) to promissory notes and tangible chattel paper, see discussion in § 503.48[2]. If the debtor moves, Com. Code § 9316(a)(2), discussed in § 503.23[4], will generally continue perfection until the expiration of four months after a change of the debtor's location to another jurisdiction [see also Com. Code § 9307 (defining "debtor's location," discussed in § 503.23[2])].

[4] Buyer as Secured Party; Seller as Debtor

A seller of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes is a debtor [Com. Code § 9102(a)(28)(B)]. A person to which accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes have been sold is a "secured party" [Com. Code § 9102(a)(72)(D)].

[5] Ineffectiveness of Terms Against Transfer or Assignment

A term in a promissory note or in an agreement between an account debtor and a debtor which relates to a health care insurance receivable or a general intangible, including a contract, permit, license, or franchise, and which term prohibits, restricts, or requires the consent of the person obligated on the promissory note or the account debtor to, the assignment or transfer of, or the creation, attachment, or perfection of a security interest in, the promissory note, health care insurance receivable, or general intangible, is ineffective to the extent that the term does, or would either (1) impair the creation, attachment, or perfection of a security interest, or (2) provide that the assignment or transfer or the creation, attachment, or perfection of the security interest may give rise to a default, breach, right of recoupment, claim, defense, termination, right of termination, or remedy under the promissory note, health care insurance receivable, or general intangible [Com. Code § 9408(a)]. The foregoing rule applies to a security interest in a payment intangible or promissory note only if the security interest arises out of a sale of the payment intangible or promissory note [Com. Code § 9408(b)].

Similarly, any rule of law, statute, or regulation, that prohibits, restricts, or requires the consent of a government, governmental body or official, person obligated on a promissory note, or account debtor to the assignment or transfer of, or the creation of a security interest in, a promissory note, health care insurance receivable, or general intangible, including a contract, permit, license, or franchise between an account debtor and a debtor, is ineffective to the extent that the rule of law, statute, or regulation does, or would, either (1) impair the creation, attachment, or perfection of a security interest, or (2) provide that the assignment or transfer or the creation, attachment, or perfection of the security interest may give rise to a default, breach, right of recoupment, claim, defense, termination, right of termination, or remedy under the promissory note, health care insurance receivable, or general intangible [Com. Code § 9408(c)]. Com. Code § 9408(c) does not apply to an assignment or transfer of, or the creation, attachment, perfection, or enforcement of a security interest in, a claim or right to receive compensation for injuries or sickness as described in 26 U.S.C. §

104(a)(1) or (2), as amended, or a claim or right to receive benefits under a special needs trust as described in 42 U.S.C. § 1396p(d)(4), as amended, to the extent that it is inconsistent with those laws [Com. Code § 9408(e)].

To the extent that a term in a promissory note or in an agreement between an account debtor and a debtor which relates to a health care insurance receivable or general intangible or a rule of law, statute, or regulation described in Com. Code § 9408(c) would be effective under law other than Division 9 but is ineffective under Com. Code § 9408(a) or (c), all of the following rules apply with respect to the creation, attachment, or perfection of a security interest in the promissory note, health care insurance receivable, or general intangible [Com. Code § 9408(d)]:

- It is not enforceable against the person obligated on the promissory note or the account debtor.

- It does not impose a duty or obligation on the person obligated on the promissory note or the account debtor.

- It does not require the person obligated on the promissory note or the account debtor to recognize the security interest, pay or render performance to the secured party, or accept payment or performance from the secured party.

- It does not entitle the secured party to use or assign the debtor's rights under the promissory note, health care insurance receivable, or general intangible, including any related information or materials furnished to the debtor in the transaction giving rise to the promissory note, health care insurance receivable, or general intangible.

- It does not entitle the secured party to use, assign, possess, or have access to any trade secrets or confidential information of the person obligated on the promissory note or the account debtor.

- It does not entitle the secured party to enforce the security interest in the promissory note, health care insurance receivable, or general intangible.

[6] Interest of Buyer of Promissory Note or Payment Intangible Is Perfected on Attachment

An assignment of accounts or payment intangibles which does not by itself or in conjunction with other assignments to the same assignee transfer a significant part of the assignor's outstanding accounts or payment intangibles also is perfected on attachment without further action [Com. Code § 9309(2)]. Com. Code § 9309(2) is an expansion of former Com. Code § 9302(1)(e) by affording automatic perfection to certain assignments of payment intangibles as well as accounts. The purpose of Com. Code § 9309(2) is to save from ex post facto invalidation casual or isolated assignments--assignments which no one would think of filing. Any person who regularly takes assignments of debtor's accounts or payment intangibles should file [UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9309].

A security interest arising from the sale of a promissory note or payment intangible is perfected on attachment without further action [Com. Code § 9309(3), (4)]. Com. Code § 9309(3), (4) are new in revised Division 9 and reflect practice under former Division 9. Under former Division 9, filing a financing statement did not affect the rights of a buyer of payment intangibles or promissory notes because the former Division 9 did not cover those sales. To the extent that the exception on Com. Code § 9309(2) covers outright sales of payment intangibles, which are automatically perfected under Com. Code § 9309(3), the exception is redundant [UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9309].

[7] Seller's Interest

Following a debtor's outright sale and transfer of ownership of a receivable [Com. Code § 9102(a)(28)(B) (seller as debtor)], the debtor-seller retains no legal or equitable rights in the receivable that has been sold [Com. Code § 9318(a);

UCC Comment 5 to Com. Code § 9109]. This is so whether the buyer's security interest is perfected. A security interest arising from the sale of a promissory note or payment intangible is perfected on attachment without further action [see Com. Code § 9309(3), (4); UCC Comment 5 to Com. Code § 9109]. However, if the buyer's interest in accounts or chattel paper is unperfected, a subsequent lien creditor, perfected secured party, or qualified buyer can reach the sold receivable and take priority over (or take free of) the buyer's unperfected security interest under Com. Code § 9317 (discussed in § 503.24[1]). This is so not because the seller of a receivable retains any rights in the property sold; it does not. Nor is this so because the seller of a receivable is a "debtor" and the buyer of a receivable is a "secured party" under Division 9 (they are). It is so for the simple reason that Com. Code § 9317, 9318(b), and 9322 make it so, as did former Com. Code §§ 9301, 9312. Because the buyer's security interest is unperfected, for purposes of determining the rights of creditors of and purchasers for value from the debtor-seller under Com. Code § 9318(b), the debtor-seller is deemed to have the rights and title it sold. Com. Code § 9317 subjects the buyer's unperfected interest in accounts and chattel paper to that of the debtor-seller's lien creditors and other persons who qualify under that section [UCC Comment 5 to Com. Code § 9109].

[8] Priority Accorded Buyer

Except against a perfected purchase money security interest which has been the subject of a filing [see Com. Code § 9317(e)], a buyer, other than a secured party, of tangible chattel paper takes free of security interest or agricultural lien if that buyer gives value and receives delivery of the collateral without knowledge of the security interest or agricultural lien and before it is perfected [Com. Code § 9317(b)]. Buyers of chattel paper are also accorded priorities by Com. Code § 9330, which is discussed in § 503.50[3].

The priority rules of Com. Code § 9323(a) and (b), with respect to future advances (discussed in § 503.24[1], [2][d]) do not apply to a security interest held by a secured party that is a buyer of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes or a consignor [Com. Code § 9323(c)]. The priority of the security interest of a buyer of accounts is governed by the general rule of Com. Code § 9322(a)(1), discussed in § 503.24[2][a].

[9] Special Rules Regarding Surplus and Deficiency

If the underlying transaction is a sale of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes, and the secured party has made collections on those receivables [see Com. Code § 9607(a)(1)-(3), discussed in § 503.27[3][a]], the debtor is not entitled to any surplus, and the obligor is not liable for any deficiency. Code Civ. Proc. § 701.040(b), relating to the payment of proceeds applies only if the security agreement provides that the debtor is entitled to any surplus [Com. Code § 9608(b)].

Similarly, when the underlying transaction is a sale of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes, and the secured party has disposed of the collateral [see Com. Code § 9610, discussed in § 503.27[5]], the debtor is not entitled to any surplus, the obligor is not liable for any deficiency, and Code Civ. Proc. § 701.040(b), relating to the payment of proceeds applies only if the security agreement provides that the debtor is entitled to any surplus [Com. Code § 9615(e)].

§ 503.53 Insurance Policies

[1] Policy Loans Not Covered by Division 9

California's provisions with regard to insurance policies are not uniform. Although, consistent with the uniform provisions, California's Division 9 does not apply to any loan made by an insurance company pursuant to the provisions of a policy or contract issued by it and on the sole security of the policy or contract [Com. Code § 9109(d)(8)], California's Division 9 applies to other security interests in and claims under insurance policies. Like the uniform provisions, California's Division 9 applies to and has specific provisions governing assignment of health care insurance receivables, discussed in § 503.54, below.

[2] Perfection of Security Interest in Insurance Policy

A financing statement is not necessary to perfect a security interest in an insurance policy. Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9315(c) and (d), with respect to proceeds, a security interest in, or claim in or under, any policy of insurance, including unearned premiums, may be perfected only by giving written notice of the security interest or claim to the insurer. This provision does not apply to a health care insurance receivable [Com. Code §§ 9310(b)(11), 9312(b)(4)].

§ 503.54 Health Care Insurance Receivables

[1] Defined

"Health care insurance receivable" means an interest in or claim under a policy of insurance which is a right to payment of a monetary obligation for health care goods or services provided or to be provided [Com. Code § 9102(a)(46)]. The term "account" includes health care insurance receivables [Com. Code § 9102(a)(2)].

[2] Assignment of Health Care Insurance Receivable

No financing statement is necessary to perfect a security interest in a health care insurance receivable. A security interest created by the assignment of a health care insurance receivable to the provider of the health care goods or services is perfected when it attaches [Com. Code § 9309(5)]. Assignments of health care insurance receivables are not subject to the ordinary rules regarding debtor's assertion of claims and defenses against the assignee [Com. Code § 9404(e)], making a modification of the original contract effective as against the assignee [Com. Code § 9405(d)], discharge by payment to assignor [Com. Code § 9406(i)]. See also Com. Code § 9408, discussed in § 503.52[5], which renders ineffective any prohibition (in an agreement between an account debtor and a debtor which relates to a health care insurance receivable) on the assignment or transfer of, or the creation, attachment, or perfection of a security interest in, the health care insurance receivable.

§ 503.55 Financial Assets

[1] Defined

"Financial asset," except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 8103, means any of the following [Com. Code § 8102(a)(9); see Com. Code § 8103(f) (excludes from definition of financial asset, a commodity contract, as defined in Com. Code § 9102(a)(15))]:

- A security.

- An obligation of a person or a share, participation, or other interest in a person or in property or an enterprise of a person, that is, or is of a type, dealt in or traded on financial markets, or that is recognized in any area in which it is issued or dealt in as a medium for investment.

- Any property that is held by a securities intermediary for another person in a securities account if the securities intermediary has expressly agreed with the other person that the property is to be treated as a financial asset under this division. As context requires, the term means either the interest itself or the means by which a person's claim to it is evidenced, including a certificated or uncertificated security, a security certificate, or a security entitlement.

[2] Security Interest of Unpaid Financial Intermediary

If a person buys a financial asset [see Com. Code § 8102(a)(9) (definition)] through a securities intermediary [see Com. Code § 8102(a)(14) (definition)] in a transaction in which the buyer is obligated to pay the purchase price to the securities intermediary at the time of the purchase, and the securities intermediary credits the financial asset to the buyer's securities account [see Com. Code § 8501(a) (definition)] before the buyer pays the securities intermediary, a security interest in favor of the securities intermediary attaches to the buyer's security entitlement [Com. Code § 9206(a); see Com. Code § 8102(a)(17) (defining "securities entitlement")] securing the buyer's obligation to pay for the financial asset [Com. Code § 9206(b)]. A security agreement is not required for attachment or enforceability of that security interest [Com. Code § 9203(c)], and the security interest is automatically perfected by control [Com. Code §

9314(a); see Com. Code §§ 8106(d), 9106(a),(c) (defining "control" of security entitlements and securities accounts)].

If a certificated security [see Com. Code § 8102(a)(4) (definition)], or other financial asset [see Com. Code § 8102(a)(9) (definition)] represented by a writing that in the ordinary course of business is transferred by delivery with any necessary endorsement or assignment is delivered under an agreement between persons in the business of dealing with those securities or financial assets and the agreement calls for delivery against payment, a security interest in favor of the person who delivers the certificate or other financial asset attaches to the security or other financial asset securing the obligation to make payment for the delivery [Com. Code § 9206(c)]. A security agreement is not required for attachment or enforceability of the security interest [Com. Code § 9203(c)]; and the security interest is automatically perfected [Com. Code § 9309(9)].

§ 503.56 Investment Property

[1] Perfection of Security Interests in Investment Property

[a] Definitions and Descriptions

"Investment property" means a security, whether certificated or uncertificated, security entitlement, securities account, commodity contract, or commodity account [Com. Code § 9102(a)(49); see also related definitions, discussed in § 503.11[16]].

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9108(e), in a security agreement or financing statement, a description of a security entitlement, securities account, or commodity account is sufficient if it describes either the collateral by those terms or as investment property or if it describes the underlying financial asset or commodity contract [Com. Code § 9108(d)]. In a consumer transaction, a description only by type of collateral defined in the Commercial Code is an insufficient description of a security entitlement, a securities account, or a commodity account [Com. Code § 9108(d)(2)]. Further, a description of investment property collateral also must meet the applicable requirements of Civ. Code § 1799.103 [Com. Code § 9108(f)]. For discussion of sufficiency of description of collateral generally, see § 503.20[1].

[b] By Control or Filing

A security interest in investment property may be perfected by filing [Com. Code § 9312(a)], or by the secured party taking control of the collateral under Com. Code § 9106[Com. Code § 9314(a); see also Com. Code §§ 9203(b)(3)(D) (when security interest in investment property becomes enforceable, discussed in § 503.21[2][a]), 9310(b)(8) (filing not necessary to perfect security interest in investment property perfected by control)].

A person has control of a certificated security, uncertificated security, or security entitlement as provided in Com. Code § 8106 [Com. Code § 9106(a)].

A secured party who is the commodity intermediary with which a commodity contract is carried has control of that commodity contract [Com. Code § 9106(b)(1)]. A secured party also has control of a commodity contract if the commodity customer, secured party, and commodity intermediary have agreed that the commodity intermediary will apply any value distributed on account of the commodity contract as directed by the secured party without further consent by the commodity customer [Com. Code § 9106(b)(2)].

A secured party having control of all security entitlements or commodity contracts carried in a securities account or commodity account has control over the securities account or commodity account [Com. Code § 9106(c)].

A security interest in investment property is perfected by control under Com. Code § 9106 from the time the secured party obtains control and remains perfected by control until both the secured party does not have control and one of the following occurs [Com. Code § 9314(c)(2)]:

- If the collateral is a certificated security, the debtor has or acquires possession of the security certificate.

- If the collateral is an uncertificated security, the issuer has registered or registers the debtor as the registered owner.

- If the collateral is a security entitlement, the debtor is or becomes the entitlement holder.

PRACTICE TIP:

Interest Perfected by Control Is Superior to Interest Perfected by Filing. A security interest in investment property, including certificated securities, uncertificated securities, security entitlements, and securities accounts, may be perfected by filing. However, security interests created by brokers, securities intermediaries, or commodity intermediaries are automatically perfected [Com. Code § 9309(10), (11), discussed in [d], below]; filing is of no effect. A security interest in all kinds of investment property may also be perfected by control [Com. Code §§ 9106, 9314(a)]; and a security interest in a certificated security also may be perfected by the secured party taking delivery under Com. Code § 8301 [see [c], below] A security interest perfected only by filing is subordinate to a conflicting security interest perfected by control or delivery [Com. Code § 9328(1), (5), discussed in [3], below]. Thus, although filing is a permissible method of perfection, a secured party who perfects by filing takes the risk that the debtor has granted or will grant a security interest in the same collateral to another party who obtains control. In addition, perfection by filing would not give the secured party protection against other types of adverse claims, because Division 8's adverse claim cut-off rules [Com. Code § 8510] require control [UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9312].

[c] By Possession of Certificated Security

A secured party may perfect a security interest in certificated securities by taking delivery of the certificated securities under Com. Code § 8301 [Com. Code § 9313(a); see Com. Code § 9310(b)(7) (filing not necessary)]. A security interest in a certificated security in registered form is perfected by delivery when delivery of the certificated security occurs under Com. Code § 8301 and remains perfected by delivery until the debtor obtains possession of the security certificate [Com. Code § 9313(e); see also Com. Code § 9203(b)(3)(C) (when security interest in certificated security in registered form becomes enforceable, discussed in § 503.21[2][a])]. A person in possession of collateral is not required to acknowledge that it holds possession for a secured party's benefit [Com. Code § 9313(f)], but if a person acknowledges that it holds possession for the secured party's benefit, the acknowledgment is effective under Com. Code § 8301(a), even if the acknowledgment violates the rights of a debtor [Com. Code § 9313(g)(1)]. For delivery to occur when a person other than the secured party holds possession for the secured party, the person may not be a securities intermediary [UCC Comment 6 to Com. Code § 9313].

A security interest in a certificated security is perfected without filing or the taking of possession or control for a period of 20 days from the time it attaches to the extent that it arises for new value given under an authenticated security agreement [Com. Code § 9312(e); see Com. Code § 9102(a)(57) ("new value," discussed in § 503.11[24]); Com. Code § 9310(b)(5)]. A perfected security interest in a certificated security remains perfected for 20 days without filing if the secured party delivers the security certificate to the debtor for the purpose of ultimate sale or exchange, presentation, collection, enforcement, renewal, or registration of transfer [Com. Code § 9312(g); see Com. Code § 9310(b)(5)]. After either of those 20-day periods expires, perfection depends on compliance with Division 9 [Com. Code § 9312(h)].

Perfection of a securities intermediary's security interest in the buyer's certificated security or other financial asset [Com. Code § 9206(c)], which is perfected on attachment [Com. Code § 9309(9)], is discussed in § 503.55[2].

[d] Perfection of Security Interests Created by Broker or Intermediary on Attachment

A security interest in investment property created by a broker or securities intermediary is perfected on attachment [Com. Code § 9309(10)], as is a security interest in a commodity contract or a commodity account created by a commodity intermediary [Com. Code § 9309(11)]. Perfection of a securities intermediary's security interest in the buyer's certificated security or other financial asset [Com. Code § 9206(c)], which is perfected on attachment [Com. Code § 9309(9)], is discussed in § 503.55[2].

Com. Code § 9309(10) and (11) replace former Com. Code § 9115(4)(c) and (d) concerning secured financing of securities and commodity firms and clearing corporations. The former sections indicated that with respect to security interests created by a securities intermediary or a commodity intermediary, "[t]he filing of a financing statement ... has no effect for purposes of perfection or priority with respect to that security interest." No change in meaning is intended by deletion of the quoted phrase [UCC Comment 6 to Com. Code § 9309].

Secured financing arrangements for securities firms are currently implemented in various ways. In some circumstances, lender may require that the transactions be structured as "hard pledges," in which the securities are transferred on the books of the clearing corporation from the debtor's account to the lender's account or to a special pledge account for the lender from which they cannot be disposed of without the specific consent of the lender. In other circumstances, lenders are content with so-called "agreement to pledge" or "agreement to deliver" arrangements, in which the debtor retains the positions in its own account, but reflects on its books that the positions have been hypothecated and promises that the securities will be transferred to the secured party's account on demand [UCC Comment 6 to Com. Code § 9309]. The perfection and priority rules of Division 9 are designed to facilitate current secured financing arrangements for securities firms as well as to provide sufficient flexibility to accommodate new arrangements that develop in the future. Hard pledge arrangement are covered by the concept of control [see Com. Code §§ 8106, 9106, 9314(a)]. Non-control secured financing arrangements for securities firms are covered by the automatic perfection rule of Com. Code § 9309(10). Before the 1994 revision of Divisions 8 and 9, agreement to pledge arrangements could be implemented under a provision that a security interest in securities given for new value under a written security agreement was perfected without filing or possession for 21 days. Although those security interests were temporary in legal theory, the financing arrangements, in practice, could be continued indefinitely by rolling over the loans at least every 21 days. Accordingly, a knowledgeable creditor of a securities firm realizes that the firms' securities may be subject to security interests that are not discoverable from the public records. The automatic perfection rule of Com. Code § 9309(10) makes it unnecessary to engage in the purely formal practice of rolling over these arrangements every 21 days [UCC Comment 6 to Com. Code § 9309].

In some circumstances, a clearing corporation may be the debtor in a secured financing arrangement. For example, a clearing corporation that settles delivery-versus-payment transactions among its participants on a net, same-day basis relies on timely payment from all participants with net obligations due to the system. If a participant that was a net debtor were to default on its payment obligation, the clearing corporation would not receive some of the funds necessary to settle with participants that are net creditors to the system. To complete end-of-day settlement after a payment default by a participant, a clearing corporation that settles on a net, same-day basis may need to draw on credit lines and pledge securities of the defaulting participant or other securities pledged by participants in the clearing corporation to secure those drawings. The clearing corporation may be the top-tier securities intermediary for the securities pledged, so that it would not be practical for the lender to obtain control. Even when the clearing corporation holds some types o securities through other intermediaries, however, the clearing corporation is unlikely to be able to complete the arrangements necessary to convey "control" over the securities to be pledged in time to complete settlement in a timely manner. However, the term "securities intermediary" is defined in Com. Code § 8102(a)(14) to include clearing corporations. Thus, the perfection rule of Com. Code § 9309(10) applies to security interests in investment property granted by clearing corporations [UCC Comment 6 to Com. Code § 9309].

[e] Perfection Includes Perfection in Entitlements and Commodity Contracts

Perfection of a security interest in a securities account also perfects a security interest in the security entitlements carried in the securities account [Com. Code § 9308(f)]. Perfection of a security interest in a commodity account also perfects a security interest in the commodity contracts carried in the commodity account [Com. Code § 9308(g)].

[2] Choice of Law Governing Perfection and Priority of Security Interests in Investment Property

[a] Perfection Under Law Where Debtor Is Located

The local law of the jurisdiction in which the debtor is located governs all of the following [Com. Code § 9305(c)]:

- Perfection of a security interest in investment property by filing.
- Automatic perfection of a security interest in investment property created by a broker or securities intermediary.
- Automatic perfection of a security interest in a commodity contract or commodity account created by a commodity intermediary.

[b] Certificated Securities

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9305(c), (discussed in [a], above), while a security certificate is located in a jurisdiction, the local law of that jurisdiction governs perfection, the effect of perfection or nonperfection, and the priority of a security interest in the certificated security represented thereby [Com. Code § 9305(a)(1)].

[c] Uncertificated Securities

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9305(c), (discussed in [a], above), the local law of the issuer's jurisdiction as specified in Com. Code § 8110(d) governs perfection, the effect of perfection or nonperfection, and the priority of a security interest in an uncertificated security [Com. Code § 9305(a)(2)]. "Issuer's jurisdiction" means the jurisdiction under which the issuer of the security is organized or, if permitted by the law of that jurisdiction, the law of another jurisdiction specified by the issuer. An issuer organized under California law may specify the law of another jurisdiction as the law governing the following matters [Com. Code § 8110(a)(2)-(5), (d)]:

- The rights and duties of the issuer with respect to registration of transfer.
- The effectiveness of registration of transfer by the issuer.
- Whether the issuer owes any duties to an adverse claimant to a security.

- Whether an adverse claim can be asserted against a person to whom transfer of a certificated or uncertificated security is registered or a person who obtains control of an uncertificated security.

[d] Securities Entitlements and Securities Accounts

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9305(c), (discussed in [a], above), the local law of the securities intermediary's jurisdiction as specified in Com. Code § 8110(e) governs perfection, the effect of perfection or nonperfection, and the priority of a security interest in a security entitlement or securities account [Com. Code § 9305(a)(3)]. The following rules determine a "securities intermediary's jurisdiction" for purposes of Com. Code § 8110 [Com. Code § 8110(e)]:

(1) If an agreement between the securities intermediary and its entitlement holder governing the securities account expressly provides that a particular jurisdiction is the security intermediary' s jurisdiction for purposes of this code, that jurisdiction is the securities intermediary's jurisdiction.

(2) If (1) does not apply and an agreement between the securities intermediary and its entitlement holder governing the securities account expressly provides that the agreement is governed by the law of a particular jurisdiction, that jurisdiction is the securities intermediary's jurisdiction.

(3) If neither (1) nor (2) applies and an agreement between the securities intermediary and its entitlement holder governing the securities account expressly provides that the securities account is maintained at an office in a particular jurisdiction, that jurisdiction is the securities intermediary's jurisdiction.

(4) If neither (1), (2), or (3) applies, the securities intermediary's jurisdiction is the jurisdiction in which the office identified in an account statement as the office serving the entitlement holder's account is located.

(5) If none of the preceding rules applies, the securities intermediary's jurisdiction is the jurisdiction in which the chief executive office of the securities intermediary is located.

[e] Commodity Contract or Commodity Account

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9305(c), (discussed in [a], above), the local law of the commodity intermediary's jurisdiction governs perfection, the effect of perfection or nonperfection, and the priority of a security interest in a commodity contract or commodity account [Com. Code § 9305(a)(4)]. The following rules determine a commodity intermediary's jurisdiction for purposes of Com. Code §§ 9301-9342 [Com. Code § 9305(b)]:

(1) If an agreement between the commodity intermediary and commodity customer governing the commodity account expressly provides that a particular jurisdiction is the commodity intermediary's jurisdiction for purposes of Com. Code §§ 9301-9342, Division 9, or the Commercial Code, that jurisdiction is the commodity intermediary's jurisdiction.

(2) If (1) does not apply and an agreement between the commodity intermediary and commodity customer governing the commodity account expressly provides that the agreement is governed by the law of a particular jurisdiction, that jurisdiction is the commodity intermediary's jurisdiction.

(3) If neither (1) nor (2) applies and an agreement between the commodity intermediary and commodity customer governing the commodity account expressly provides that the commodity account is maintained at an office in a particular jurisdiction, that jurisdiction is the commodity intermediary's jurisdiction.

(4) If neither (1), (2), or (3) applies, the commodity intermediary's jurisdiction is the jurisdiction in which the office identified in an account statement as the office serving the commodity customer's account is located.

(5) If none of the preceding rules applies, the commodity intermediary's jurisdiction is the jurisdiction in which the chief executive office of the commodity intermediary is located.

[3] Priority of Security Interests in Investment Property

A security interest of a secured party who has control of investment property under Com. Code § 9106 (discussed in [1][b], above) has priority over a security interest held by a secured party who does not have control of the investment property [Com. Code § 9328(1)].

When conflicting security interests are held by secured parties each of which has control under Com. Code § 9106, except as otherwise provided with respect to security interests held by a securities intermediary or a commodity intermediary [see Com. Code § 9328(3) and (4), below], the security interests rank according to priority in time of one of the following [Com. Code § 9328(2)]:

- If the collateral is a security, obtaining control.

- If the collateral is a security entitlement carried in a securities account and if the secured party obtained control under Com. Code § 8106(d)(1), the secured party's becoming the person for which the securities account is maintained.

- If the collateral is a security entitlement carried in a securities account and if the secured party obtained control under Com. Code § 8106(d)(2), the securities intermediary's agreement to comply with the secured party's entitlement orders with respect to security entitlements carried, or to be carried, in the securities account.

- If the collateral is a security entitlement carried in a securities account and if the secured party obtained control through another person under Com. Code § 8106(d)(3), the time on which priority would be based under this paragraph if the other person were the secured party.

- If the collateral is a commodity contract carried with a commodity intermediary, the satisfaction of the requirement for control specified in Com. Code § 9106(b)(2) (discussed in [1][b], above) with respect to commodity contracts carried, or to be carried, with the commodity intermediary.

A security interest held by a securities intermediary in a security entitlement or a securities account maintained with the securities intermediary has priority over a conflicting security interest held by another secured party [Com. Code § 9328(3)]; and a security interest held by a commodity intermediary in a commodity contract or a commodity account maintained with the commodity intermediary has priority over a conflicting security interest held by another secured party [Com. Code § 9328(4)]. A security interest in a certificated security in registered form which is perfected by taking delivery under Com. Code § 9313(a) and not by control under Com. Code § 9314 has priority over a conflicting security interest perfected by a method other than control [Com. Code § 9328(5)]. Conflicting security interests created by a broker, securities intermediary, or commodity intermediary which are perfected without control under Com. Code § 9106 rank equally [Com. Code § 9328(6)].

In all other cases, priority among conflicting security interests in investment property is governed by Com. Code §§ 9322 and 9323, discussed in §§ 503.24[1], [2][a], [b], [d], 503.40[5][a], [b] [Com. Code § 9328(7); see also Com.

Code § 9331, discussed in § 503.24[3][d]].

[4] Secured Party's Duty When Investment Property No Longer Secures Any Obligation

If there is no outstanding secured obligation and the secured party is not committed to make advances, incur obligations, or otherwise give value, a secured party having control of investment property under Com. Code § 8106(d)(2) or under Com. Code § 9106(b) must send to the securities intermediary or commodity intermediary with which the security entitlement or commodity contract is maintained an authenticated record that releases the securities intermediary or commodity intermediary from any further obligation to comply with entitlement orders or directions originated by the secured party. This must be done within 10 days after the secured party receives an authenticated demand by the debtor [Com. Code § 9208(a), (b)(4)].

§ 503.57 Collateral of Transmitting Utilities

[1] "Transmitting Utility" Defined

"Transmitting utility" means a person primarily engaged in the business of any of the following [Com. Code § 9102(a)(80)]:

- Operating a railroad, subway, street railway, or trolley bus.
- Transmitting communications electrically, electromagnetically, or by light.
- Transmitting goods by pipeline or sewer.
- Transmitting or producing and transmitting electricity, steam, gas, or water.

[2] Financing Statement for Utility's Collateral

[a] Place of Filing

The proper place to file in order to perfect a security interest in collateral, including fixtures, of a transmitting utility, is the office of the Secretary of State. The financing statement also constitutes a fixture filing as to the collateral indicated in the financing statement which is or is to become fixtures [Com. Code § 9501(b)].

[b] May Be Effective Until Termination Statement Filed

If the debtor is a transmitting utility, and the filed financing statement so indicates, the financing statement is effective until a termination statement is filed [Com. Code § 9515(f)]. Except that a record authorized by one secured party of record does not affect the financing statement with respect to another secured party of record [see Com. Code § 9510(b)], the filing with the filing office of a termination statement relating to a financing statement that indicates that the debtor is a transmitting utility also causes the effectiveness of the financing statement to lapse for the following purposes [Com. Code § 9513(d)]:

- The time when filing office may remove debtor's name from the index [see Com. Code § 9519(g)].

- The time the filing office is required to retain retrievable information with regard to financing statements [see Com. Code § 9522(a)].

- Providing acknowledgments of filings [see Com. Code § 9523(c)].

§ 503.58 Bank Deposits

[1] Perfection of Security Interest in Deposit Account

"Deposit account" means a demand, time, savings, passbook, or similar account maintained with a bank, but does not include investment property or accounts evidenced by an instrument [Com. Code § 9102(a)(29)]. Division 9 does not apply to an assignment of a deposit account in a consumer transaction, except to the extent that Com. Code §§ 9315 and 9322 apply with respect to proceeds and priorities in proceeds [Com. Code § 9109(d)(13), set forth in § 503.13[2]]. Because a "deposit account" is a separate type of collateral, a security agreement covering general intangibles will not adequately describe deposit accounts. A security agreement must reasonably identify the deposit accounts that are the subject to the security interest, e.g., by using the term "deposit accounts" [see UCC Comment 16 to Com. Code § 9109].

Except with respect to perfection of security interests in proceeds [see Com. Code § 9315(c), (d), discussed in § 503.22[7]], a security interest in a deposit account may be perfected only by control under Com. Code § 9314 [Com. Code § 9312(b)(1)]. A security interest in a deposit account is perfected by control under Com. Code § 9104 when the secured party obtains control and remains perfected by control only while the secured party retains control [Com. Code § 9314(a), (b)]. A secured party has control of a deposit account if any of the following conditions is satisfied [Com. Code § 9104(a)]:

- The secured party is the bank with which the deposit account is maintained [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(8) ("bank" means an organization that is engaged in the business of banking, including savings banks, savings and loan associations, credit unions, and trust companies)].

- The debtor, secured party, and bank have agreed in an authenticated record that the bank will comply with instructions originated by the secured party directing disposition of the funds in the account without further consent by the debtor. Division 9 does not require a bank to enter into an agreement of this kind, even if its customer so requests or directs. A bank that has entered into such an agreement is not required to confirm the existence of the agreement to another person unless requested to do so by its customer [Com. Code § 9342].

- The secured party becomes the bank's customer with respect to the deposit account.

A secured party that has satisfied Com. Code § 9104(a) has control, even if the debtor retains the right to direct the disposition of funds from the deposit account [Com. Code § 9104(b)].

For discussion of a secured party's right to require payment of the balance of a deposit account to it on default as provided by Com. Code § 9607(a)(4) and (5), see § 503.27[3][a].

[2] Choice of Law Governing Interests in Deposit Accounts

[a] Originally

The local law of a bank's jurisdiction, specifically, the jurisdiction in which the office identified in an account statement as the office serving the customer's account is located, governs perfection the effect of perfection or nonperfection, and the priority of a security interest in a deposit account maintained with that bank [Com. Code § 9304(a), (b)(4)]. If no office is identified in the account statement as the office serving the customer's account, the bank's jurisdiction is the jurisdiction in which the chief executive office of the bank is located [Com. Code § 9304(b)(5)]. However, the parties may agree otherwise, as follows:

- If an agreement between the bank and its customer governing the deposit account expressly provides that a particular jurisdiction is the bank's jurisdiction for purposes of Com. Code §§ 9301-9342, Division 9, or the Commercial Code, that jurisdiction is the bank's jurisdiction [Com. Code § 9304(b)(1)].

- If an agreement between the bank and its customer governing the deposit account expressly provides that the agreement is governed by the law of a particular jurisdiction, that jurisdiction is the bank's jurisdiction [Com. Code § 9304(b)(2)].

- If an agreement between the bank and its customer governing the deposit account expressly provides that the deposit account is maintained at an office in a particular jurisdiction, that jurisdiction is the bank's jurisdiction [Com. Code § 9304(b)(3)].

[b] Change Due to Change of Bank's Jurisdiction

A security interest in deposit accounts, letter-of-credit rights, or investment property, which is perfected under the law of the bank's jurisdiction, the issuer's jurisdiction, a nominated person's jurisdiction, the securities intermediary's jurisdiction, or the commodity intermediary's jurisdiction, as applicable, remains perfected until the earlier of (1) the time the security interest would have become unperfected under the law of that jurisdiction, or (2) the expiration of four months after a change of the applicable jurisdiction to another jurisdiction [Com. Code § 9316(f)]. This four-month period is deemed long enough for a secured party to discover in most cases that the law of a different jurisdiction governs perfection and to reperfect under the law of that jurisdiction. If the secured party properly reperfects before its interest becomes unperfected, the security interest remains perfect continuously thereafter [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9316]. If a security interest described in Com. Code § 9316(f) becomes perfected under the law of the other jurisdiction before the earlier of the time or the end of the period described in that subdivision, it remains perfected thereafter. If the security interest does not become perfected under the law of the other jurisdiction before the earlier of that time or the end of that period, it becomes unperfected and is deemed never to have been perfected as against a purchaser of the collateral for value [Com. Code § 9316(g)].

[3] Priorities of Security Interests in Deposit Accounts

A security interest held by a secured party having control of the deposit account under Com. Code § 9104 has priority over a conflicting security interest held by a secured party that does not have control [Com. Code § 9327(1)], such as a security interest in identifiable cash proceeds under Com. Code § 9315, discussed in §§ 503.21[4] and 503.22[7] [see UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9327]. Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9327(3) and (4), security interests perfected by control under Com. Code § 9314 rank according to priority in time of obtaining control [Com. Code § 9327(2)].

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9327(4), a security interest held by the bank with which the deposit account is maintained has priority over conflicting security interest held by another secured party [Com. Code § 9327(3)]. A security interest perfected by the secured party's becoming the bank's customer with respect to the deposit account [see Com. Code § 9104(a)(3)] has priority over a security interest held by the bank with which the deposit account is maintained [Com. Code § 9327(4)]. A secured party who claims a deposit account as proceeds of other collateral can reduce the risk of becoming junior by obtaining (1) the debtor's agreement to deposit proceeds into a specific cash-collateral account and (2) the bank's agreement to subordinate all its claims to those of the secured party [see UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9327].

Com. Code § 9327 overrides conflicting priority rules, such as Com. Code §§ 9322(f)(1) (agricultural liens), 9324(a),(b), (d), (f) (purchase money security interests) [see UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9327]. The priority afforded by Com. Code § 9327 does not extend to proceeds of a deposit account. Rather, Com. Code § 9322(c)-(e) and the provisions referred to in Com. Code § 9322(f) govern priorities in proceeds of a deposit account [see discussion in § 503.24[2][b]]. Com. Code § 9315(d), discussed in § 503.22[7], addresses continuation of perfection in proceeds of deposit accounts. For discussion of funds transferred from deposit accounts that constitute collateral, see Com. Code § 9332, discussed in [4], below [UCC Comment 5 to Com. Code § 9327].

[4] Transferee of Money From Deposit Account Takes Free of Security Interest

A transferee of funds from a deposit account takes the funds free of a security interest in the deposit account unless the transferee acts in collusion with the debtor in violating the rights of the secured party [Com. Code § 9332(b)]. For discussion of rights and remedies in a case of collusion between the debtor and a transferee, see Ch. 270, Fraudulent Conveyances .

An unsecured judgment creditor of the owner of a deposit account becomes a "transferee" under Com. Code § 9332(b) on obtaining funds from the account pursuant to a writ of execution [Orix Financial Services, Inc. v. Kovacs (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 242, 245-246, 83 Cal. Rptr. 3d 900].

[5] Bank's Right to Recoupment or Set-off

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9340(c), a bank with which a deposit account is maintained may exercise any right of recoupment or setoff against a secured party that holds a security interest in the deposit account [Com. Code § 9340(a)]. Similarly, except as otherwise provided Com. Code § 9340(c), the application of Division 9 to a security interest in a deposit account does not affect a right of recoupment or setoff of the secured party as to a deposit account maintained with the secured party [Com. Code § 9340(b)]. However, a bank's exercise of a setoff against a deposit account is ineffective against a secured party that holds a security interest in the deposit account which was perfected by the secured party's becoming the bank's customer with respect to the deposit account [see Com. Code § 9104(a)(3)], if the setoff is based on a claim against the debtor [Com. Code § 9340(c); see UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9340 (bank's right of set-off for debt owed to it by secured party is preserved)].

Com. Code § 9340 deals with rights of set-off and recoupment that a bank may have under other law. It does not create a right of set-off or recoupment, nor is it intended to override any limitations or restrictions that other law imposes on the exercise of those rights [see UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9340].

[6] Bank's Rights and Duties With Respect to Deposit Account

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9340(c), discussed in [5], above, and unless the bank otherwise agrees in an authenticated record, a bank's rights and duties with respect to a deposit account maintained with the bank are not terminated, suspended, or modified by (1) the creation, attachment, or perfection of a security interest in the deposit account, (2) the bank's knowledge of the security interest, or (3) the bank's receipt of instructions from the secured party [Com. Code § 9341].

Com. Code § 9341 does not address the obligations of banks that issue instruments evidencing deposits, such as certain certificates of deposit [UCC Comment 5 to Com. Code § 9341; see Com. Code § 9102(a)(29) (defining "deposit account" to exclude investment property or accounts evidenced by an instrument)]. Com. Code § 9341 is designed to prevent security interests from impeding the free flow of funds. A secured party who wishes to deprive the debtor of access to the funds on deposit or to appropriate those funds for itself needs to obtain the agreement of the bank, utilize the judicial process, or comply with the procedures set forth in other law [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9341].

Division 9 does not determine whether a bank that pays out funds from an encumbered deposit is liable to the holder of a security interest. Although the fact that a secured party has control over the deposit account and the manner by which control was achieved may be relevant to the imposition of liability, whatever rule applies generally when a bank pays out funds in which a third party has an interest would determine liability to a secured party. That rule is usually found in a non-UCC adverse claim statute [UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9341].

[7] Secured Party's Duties When Deposit No Longer Secures Any Obligation

If there is no outstanding secured obligation and the secured party is not committed to make advances, incur obligations, or otherwise give value, a secured party having control of a deposit account under Com. Code § 9104(a)(2) (agreement between bank, debtor, and secured party, discussed in [1], above) must send to the bank with which the deposit account is maintained, within 10 days after receiving an authenticated demand by the debtor, an authenticated statement that releases the bank from any further obligation to comply with instructions originated by the secured party [Com. Code § 9208(a), (b)(1)].

In the case of a secured party having control of a deposit account under Com. Code § 9104(a)(3) (secured party is bank's customer with respect to the deposit account, discussed in [1], above), if there is no outstanding secured obligation and the secured party is not committed to make advances, incur obligations, or otherwise give value, a secured party must, within 10 days after receiving an authenticated demand by the debtor, either pay the debtor the balance on deposit in the deposit account or transfer the balance on deposit into a deposit account in the debtor's name [Com. Code § 9208(a), (b)(2)].

44-503 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 503.59

§ 503.59 Letter-of-Credit Rights

[1] Perfection of Security Interest in Letter-of-Credit Rights

[a] In General

"Letter-of-credit right" means a right to payment or performance under a letter of credit, whether or not the beneficiary has demanded or is at the time entitled to demand payment or performance, but does not include the right of a beneficiary to demand payment or performance under a letter of credit [Com. Code § 9102(a)(51); see Com. Code § 5102 (defining letter of credit)]. Transfer of a beneficiary's right to demand payment or performance is governed by Division 5 [UCC Comment 5 e to Com. Code § 9102]. The Division 9 definition of letter-of-credit right is consistent with Com. Code § 9109(c)(4), which provides that Division 9 does not apply to the extent that the rights of a transferee beneficiary or nominated person under a letter of credit are independent and superior under Com. Code § 5114. For discussion, procedural guides and forms relating to letters of credit, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 56, Letters of Credit and Electronic Fund Transfers (Matthew Bender).

Except with respect to perfection of security interests in proceeds [see Com. Code § 9315(c), (d), discussed in § 503.22[7]], and as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9308(d) (perfection of a security interest in collateral also perfects a security interest in a supporting obligation for that collateral, discussed in § 503.22[1]), a security interest in a letter-of-credit right may be perfected only by control under Com. Code § 9314[Com. Code § 9312(b)(2)]. A security interest in a letter-of-credit right is perfected by control under Com. Code § 9107 when the secured party obtains control and remains perfected by control only while the secured party retains control [Com. Code § 9314(b)]. A secured party has control of a letter-of-credit right to the extent of any right to payment or performance by the issuer or any nominated person if the issuer or nominated person has consented to an assignment of proceeds of the letter of credit under Com. Code § 5114(c) or otherwise applicable law or practice [Com. Code § 9107]. To obtain control under Com. Code § 9107, the secured party will have to obtain consent from anyone who is obligated to give value under the letter of credit. In many cases the person or persons (issuer or nominated person) who will give value under a letter of credit will be clear from the terms of the letter of credit. In other cases, prudence may suggest obtaining consent from more than one person [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9107].

Com. Code § 5114(c) follows traditional banking terminology by referring to a letter of credit beneficiary's assignment of its right to receive payment under the letter of credit as an assignment of the "proceeds of a letter of credit." As the seller of goods can assign its right to receive payment (an "account") before it has been earned by delivering the goods to the buyer, so the beneficiary of a letter of credit can assign its contingent right to payment before the letter of credit has been honored. If the assignment creates a security interest, the security interest can be perfected at the time it is created. An assignment of, including creation of a security interest in, a letter-of-credit right is an assignment of a present interest [UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9107]. Letter of credit law and practice distinguish between transfers and assignment. Under an transfer, the transferee itself becomes the beneficiary and acquires the right to draw. Whether a new, substitute credit is issued or the issuer advises the transferee of its status as such, the transfer constitutes a novation under which the transferee is the new, substituted beneficiary, to the extent of the transfer. Com. Code § 5114(e) provides that the rights of a transferee beneficiary or nominated person are independent of the beneficiary's assignment of the proceeds [UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9107].

[b] As Supporting Obligation

A letter-of-credit right is a supporting obligation as defined in Com. Code § 9102(a)(77). Under Com. Code § 9203 and Com. Code § 9308(d) [see discussion in § 503.22[1]], a security interest in a letter-of-credit right automatically attaches and is automatically perfected if the security interest in the supported obligation is a perfected security interest. However, unless the secured party has control of the letter-of-credit right or itself becomes a transferee beneficiary, it cannot obtain any rights against the issuer or nominated person under Division 5. Thus, as a practical matter, the secured party's rights would be limited to its ability to locate and identify proceeds distributed by the issuer of nominated person under the letter of credit [UCC Comment 5 to Com. Code § 9107].

[2] Choice of Law Governing Interests in Letter-of-Credit Rights

Subject to Com. Code § 9306(c), the local law of the issuer's jurisdiction or a nominated person's jurisdiction governs perfection, the effect of perfection or nonperfection, and the priority of a security interest in a letter-of-credit right if the issuer's jurisdiction or nominated person's jurisdiction is a state Com. Code § 9306(a)]. For purposes of Com. Code §§ 9301-9342, an issuer's jurisdiction or nominated person's jurisdiction is the jurisdiction whose law governs the liability of the issuer or nominated person with respect to the letter-of-credit right as provided in Com. Code § 5116 [Com. Code § 9306(b)]. Com. Code § 9306 does not apply to a security interest that is perfected only under Com. Code § 9308(d) (perfection of security interest in collateral also perfects security interest in supporting obligation for the collateral) [Com. Code § 9306(c)].

If the jurisdiction whose law governs security interest in a letter-of-credit right changes, due to a change in the issuer's jurisdiction, the security interest will remain perfected or require to be reperfected in accordance with Com. Code § 9316(f) and (g), discussed in § 503.58[2].

[3] Priority of Security Interests in Letter-of-Credit Rights

A security interest held by a secured party having control of the letter-of-credit right under Com. Code § 9107 has priority to the extent of its control over a conflicting security interest held by a secured party that does not have control [Com. Code § 9329(1)], such as one that is perfected automatically under Com. Code § 9308(d). This is consistent with international letter-of-credit practice and provides finality to payments made to recognized assignees of letter-of-credit proceeds [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9329].

Security interests perfected by control under Com. Code § 9314 rank according to priority in time of obtaining control [Com. Code § 9329(2)]. If the issuer or nominated person recognizes multiple security interests in the letter-of-credit proceeds, resulting in multiple parties having control, the security interests rank according to time of obtaining control [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9329].

[4] Secured Party's Duties When Letter-of-Credit Right No Longer Secures Any Obligation

If there is no outstanding secured obligation and the secured party is not committed to make advances, incur obligations, or otherwise give value, a secured party having control of a letter-of-credit right under Com. Code § 9107 must send to each person having an unfulfilled obligation to pay or deliver proceeds of the letter of credit to the secured party an authenticated release from any further obligation to pay or deliver proceeds of the letter of credit to the secured party. The release must be sent within 10 days after the secured party receives an authenticated demand for it from the debtor [Com. Code § 9208(a), (b)(5)].

[5] Ineffectiveness of Term Against Assignment of Letter-of-Credit Right

A term in a letter of credit or a rule of law, statute, regulation, custom, or practice applicable to the letter of credit which prohibits, restricts, or requires the consent of an applicant, issuer, or nominated person to a beneficiary's assignment of or creation of a security interest in a letter-of-credit right is ineffective to the extent that the term or rule of law, statute, regulation, custom, or practice does, or would (1) impair the creation, attachment, or perfection of a security interest in the letter-of-credit right, or (2) provide that the assignment or the creation, attachment, or perfection of the security interest may give rise to a default, breach, right of recoupment, claim, defense, termination, right of termination, or remedy under the letter-of-credit right [Com. Code § 9409(a)]. The automatic attachment and perfection of a security interest in a letter-of-credit right under Com. Code § 9203 and Com. Code § 9308(d) (see discussion in § 503.22[1]) would anomalous or misleading if, under other law, such as Division 5, a restriction on transfer or assignment were effective to block attachment and perfection [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9409].

To the extent that a term in a letter of credit is ineffective under Com. Code § 9409(a), but would be effective under law other than Division 9 or a custom or practice applicable to the letter of credit, to the transfer of a right to draw or otherwise demand performance under the letter of credit, or to the assignment of a right to proceeds of the letter of credit, all of the following rules apply with respect to the creation, attachment, or perfection of a security interest in the letter-of-credit right [Com. Code § 9409(b); see Com. Code §§ 5112, 5114; UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9409]:

- It is not enforceable against the applicant, issuer, nominated person, or transferee beneficiary.

- It imposes no duties or obligations on the applicant, issuer, nominated person, or transferee beneficiary.

- It does not require the applicant, issuer, nominated person, or transferee beneficiary to recognize the security interest, pay or render performance to the secured party, or accept payment or other performance from the secured party.

44-503 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 503.60

§ 503.60 Assignments of Accounts, Chattel Paper, General Intangibles, and Promissory Notes

[1] Ineffectiveness of Agreement Against Assignment

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9406(e) with respect to sales of payment intangibles or promissory notes, and in Com. Code §§ 9407 and 10303 with respect to leases, and subject to Com. Code § 9406(h), a term in an agreement between an account debtor and an assignor or in a promissory note is ineffective to the extent that it either [Com. Code § 9406(d); but see Com. Code § 9406(e) (Com. Code § 9406(d) does not apply to sale of payment intangible or promissory note, discussed in § 503.52)]:

- Prohibits, restricts, or requires the consent of the account debtor or person obligated on the promissory note to the assignment or transfer of, or the creation, attachment, perfection, or enforcement of a security interest in, the account, chattel paper, payment intangible, or promissory note; or

- Provides that the assignment or transfer or the creation, attachment, perfection, or enforcement of the security interest may give rise to a default, breach, right of recoupment, claim, defense, termination, right of termination, or remedy under the account, chattel paper, payment intangible, or promissory note.

Similarly, except as otherwise provided in Com. Code §§ 9407 and 10303 with respect to leases, and subject to Com. Code § 9406(h) and (i) [see Com. Code § 9406(h) (Com. Code § 9406 is subject to law other than Division 9 which establishes a different rule for an account debtor who is an individual and who incurred the obligation primarily for personal, family, or household purposes); Com. Code § 9406(i) (Com. Code § 9406 does not apply to an assignment of a health care insurance receivable)], a rule of law, statute, or regulation, that prohibits, restricts, or requires the consent of a government, governmental body or official, or account debtor to the assignment or transfer of, or creation of a security interest in, an account or chattel paper is ineffective to the extent that the rule of law, statute, or regulation either [Com. Code § 9406(f); see Com. Code § 9406(j)]:

- Prohibits, restricts, or requires the consent of the government, governmental body or official, or account debtor to the assignment or transfer of, or the creation, attachment, perfection, or enforcement of a security interest in, the account or chattel paper; or

- Provides that the assignment or transfer or the creation, attachment, perfection, or enforcement of the security interest may give rise to a default, breach, right of recoupment, claim, defense, termination, right of termination, or remedy under the account or chattel paper.

Com. Code § 9406(f) is not applicable to an assignment or transfer of, or the creation, attachment, perfection, or enforcement of a security interest in, a right to receive workers' compensation benefits or personal injury awards as described in 26 U.S.C. § 1049a)(1) and (2), or a claim or right to receive benefits under a special needs trust as described in 42 U.S.C. § 1396p(d)(4) to the extent that Com. Code § 9406(f) is inconsistent with those laws [Com. Code § 9406(j)].

Subject to Com. Code § 9406(h) (account debtor in consumer transaction), an account debtor may not waive or vary its option under Com. Code § 9406(b)(3), discussed in [5], below, to make partial payments to the assignee [Com. Code § 9406(g)].

[2] Security Interest Perfected on Attachment

An assignment of accounts or payment intangibles which does not by itself or in conjunction with other assignments to the same assignee transfer a significant part of the assignor's outstanding accounts or payment intangibles is perfected when it attaches [Com. Code § 9309(2)].

[3] Assignee's Position Against Account Debtor

Except with respect to assignments of health care insurance receivables [Com. Code § 9404(e)], unless an account debtor has made an enforceable agreement not to assert defenses or claims, and subject to Com. Code § 9404(b)-(d), inclusive, the rights of an assignee are subject to (1) all terms of the agreement between the account debtor and assignor and any defense or claim in recoupment arising from the transaction that gave rise to the contract, and (2) any other defense or claim of the account debtor against the assignor which accrues before the account debtor receives a notification of the assignment authenticated by the assignor or the assignee [Com. Code § 9404(a)]. For discussion of why tortfeasors, banks, and persons obligated under letters of credit are not "account debtors" for purposes of Com. Code § 9404(a), see UCC Comment 5 d to Com. Code § 9102, discussed in § 503.11[12].

Subject to Com. Code § 9404(c) (consumer transactions) and except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9404(d), the claim of an account debtor against an assignor may be asserted against an assignee under Com. Code § 9404(a) only to reduce the amount the account debtor owes [Com. Code § 9404(b)].

Com. Code § 9404 is subject to law other than Division 9 which establishes a different rule for an account debtor who is an individual and who incurred the obligation primarily for personal, family, or household purposes [Com. Code § 9404(c)]. In a consumer transaction, if a record evidences the account debtor's obligation, law other than Division 9 requires that the record include a statement to the effect that the account debtor's recovery against an assignee with respect to claims and defenses against the assignor may not exceed amounts paid by the account debtor under the record, and the record does not include such a statement, the extent to which a claim of an account debtor against the assignor may be asserted against an assignee is determined as if the record included such a statement [Com. Code § 9404(d)]. Com. Code § 9404(d) applies to rights evidenced by a record that is required to contain the notice set out in Federal Trade Commission Rule 433 [see 16 C.F.R. § 433.1 et seq., discussed in Ch. 385, Negotiable Instruments]. Thus, Com. Code § 9404(d) a consumer account debtor has the same right to an affirmative recovery from an assignee of such a record as the consumer would have had against the assignee has the record contained the required notice [UCC Comment 4 to Com. Code § 9404].

[4] Modifications by Original Parties After Assignment

Except with respect to assignments of health care insurance receivables [Com. Code § 9405(d)], and subject to Com. Code § 9405(b), (c), a modification of or substitution for an assigned contract is effective against an assignee if made in good faith. The assignee acquires corresponding rights under the modified or substituted contract. The assignment may provide that the modification or substitution is a breach of contract by the assignor [Com. Code § 9405(a)].

The preceding rule applies to the extent that the right to all or part of a payment under an assigned contract has not been fully earned by performance, or the right to all or part of a payment has been fully earned by performance and the account debtor has not received notification of the assignment under Com. Code § 9406(a) [Com. Code § 9405(b)]. Com. Code § 9405 is subject to law other than Division 9 which establishes a different rule for an account debtor who is an individual and who incurred the obligation primarily for personal, family, or household purposes [Com. Code § 9405(c)].

[5] Account Debtor's Payments on Assignment

Subject to Com. Code § 9406(b)-(i), inclusive, an account debtor on an account, chattel paper, or a payment intangible may discharge its obligation by paying the assignor until, but not after, the account debtor receives a notification, authenticated by the assignor or the assignee, that the amount due or to become due has been assigned and that payment is to be made to the assignee. After receipt of the notification, the account debtor may discharge its obligation by paying the assignee and may not discharge the obligation by paying the assignor [Com. Code § 9406(a)]. The preceding rule is subject to law other than Division 9 which establishes a different rule for an account debtor who is an individual and who incurred the obligation primarily for personal, family, or household purposes [Com. Code § 9406(h)].

Except in the case of an assignment of a health care insurance receivable [see Com. Code § 9406(i); § 503.54[2]], notification is ineffective under Com. Code § 9406(a) as follows [Com. Code § 9406(b)]:

- If it does not reasonably identify the rights assigned.

- To the extent that an agreement between an account debtor and a seller of a payment intangible limits the account debtor's duty to pay a person other than the seller and the limitation is effective under law other than Division 9.

- At the option of an account debtor, if the notification notifies the account debtor to make less than the full amount of any installment or other periodic payment to the assignee, even if (1) only a portion of the account, chattel paper, or payment intangible has been assigned to that assignee, (2) a portion has been assigned to another assignee, or (3) the account debtor knows that the assignment to that assignee is limited.

Subject to law other than Division 9 which establishes a different rule for an account debtor who is an individual and who incurred the obligation primarily for personal, family, or household purposes [Com. Code § 9406(h)], if requested by the account debtor, an assignee must seasonably furnish reasonable proof that the assignment has been made. Unless the assignee complies, the account debtor may discharge its obligation by paying the assignor, even if the account debtor has received a notification under Com. Code § 9406(a) [Com. Code § 9406(c)].

If an account debtor uses a payment agent, the agent does not have the same obligations as the account debtor under Com. Code § 9406 (or under principles of agency law) [Nationwide Transp. Fin. v. Cass Info. Sys. (9th Cir. 2008) 523 F.3d 1051, 1065].

[6] Secured Party's Right to Collect on Default Under Accounts Collateral

When so agreed, and in any event on default, the secured party is entitled to notify an account debtor to make payment to the secured party whether or not the assignor was then making collections on the collateral, and also to take control of any proceeds to which the secured party is entitled under Com. Code § 9608 [Com. Code § 9607(a)].

[7] Secured Party's Duty to Release Debtor After Assignment When Obligation Has Been Satisfied

If there is no outstanding secured obligation and the secured party is not committed to make further advances, incur obligations, or otherwise give value, within 10 days after receiving an authenticated demand by the debtor, a secured party must send to an account debtor that has received notification of an assignment to that secured party as assignee under Com. Code § 9406(a), an authenticated record that releases the account debtor from any further obligation to the secured party [Com. Code § 9209(a), (b)]. The preceding rule does not apply to an assignment constituting the sale of an account, chattel paper, or payment intangible [Com. Code § 9209(c)].

§ 503.73 Decisions

[1] Buyer in Ordinary Course of Business

Allowing buyers in ordinary course of business to take free of security interest facilitates sales of inventory even if buyer knows goods are subject to security interest, as long as buyer does not have actual knowledge that sale violates terms of security agreement. United States v. Handy & Harman (9th Cir. [Cal] 1984) 750 F.2d 777, 781-782 ; Dowell v. Beech Acceptance Corp., Inc. (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 544, 548, 91 Cal. Rptr. 1, 476 P.2d 401 (decided under former Com. Code § 9307(1))

System of recordation of title to aircraft under former 49 U.S.C. § 1403 [see now 49 U.S.C. §§ 44107, 44108, 44110] preempted priorities under former Com. Code § 9307(1) [see now Com. Code § 9320(a)] between prior security holders and subsequent buyers in ordinary course of business, so that holder of prior, recorded security interest in new airplane prevailed over subsequent buyer in ordinary course of business who neither recorded own title nor searched Federal Aviation Agency records to discover security holder's prior claim. Dowell v. Beech Acceptance Corp., Inc. (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 544, 546, 91 Cal. Rptr. 1, 476 P.2d 401

Only way to construe Com. Code § 1201(b)(9) (formerly Com. Code § 1201(9)) and former Com. Code § 9307(1) [see now Com. Code § 9320(a)] together is to allow buyer who merely knows of security interest covering goods to take free of that interest, but to hold buyer who knows of security interest, and knows that sale is in violation of some term of security agreement not waived by secured party, subject to secured party's interest. Producers Cotton Oil Co. v. Amstar Corp. (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 638, 653-654, 242 Cal. Rptr. 914

Debtor's financer, by advancing flooring money to debtor, was not buyer in ordinary course of business when, as financing agency only, it was excluded from protection for ordinary course buyers in former Com. Code § 9307(1) [see now Com. Code § 9320(a)], and when debtor had no rights in collateral to give to financer. Mother Lode Bank v. General Motors Acceptance Corp. (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 807, 815, 120 Cal. Rptr. 429 Buyers of boat were not buyers in ordinary course of business under Com. Code § 1201(b)(9) (formerly Com. Code § 1201(9)) and did not take property free of security interest under former Com. Code § 9307(1) [see now Com. Code § 9320(a)] when security interest was created not by their seller but by earlier owner, who was not in business of selling boats. Security Pacific

Nat. Bank v. Goodman (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 131, 135-136, 100 Cal. Rptr. 763

Buyers were not buyers in ordinary course of business under Com. Code § 1201(b)(9) (formerly Com. Code § 1201(9)) and former Com. Code § 9307(1) [see now Com. Code § 9320(a)] when purported sale was not in good faith and not in ordinary course of either debtor's or buyer's business, as purpose of transaction was to finance and provide means for buyers to acquire control of floundering debtor, and when transaction was not sale but security transaction expressly excluded from Com. Code § 1201(b)(9). Sierra Financial Corp. v. Brooks-Farrer Co. (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 698, 702-703, 93 Cal. Rptr. 422

[2] Duties of Secured Parties

Financing assignment, in which note and real estate deed of trust were assigned from debtor who was lender and mortgagee thereunder to debtor's own creditor as security only for separate obligation, did not impose duties on creditor but only assigned rights thereto, so that creditor had no duty to provide debtor's mortgagor with beneficiary statement of unpaid balance [see Civ. Code § 2943] on demand of latter, nor was creditor liable for damages resulting from failure to provide statement [see now Com. Code §§ 9109(b), 9402; see also Com. Code § 2210(4)]. Black v. Sullivan (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 557, 564, 565, 122 Cal. Rptr. 119

[3] Equitable Principles

Although equitable principles may be applied to require secured creditor who would otherwise be unjustly enriched to make restitution to third party [see Com. Code § 1103(b)], application of doctrine is limited to situations in which secured party instigated or acquiesced in third party's benefit to or preservation of collateral; mere enhancement of collateral by third party's efforts is not enough to require secured party to compensate third party who knew of secured party's interest, or could easily have learned of it, and took no steps to protect its position. Atascadero Factory Outlets, Inc. v. Augustini & Wheeler, LLP (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 717, 721-722, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 911 ; Knox v. Phoenix Leasing, Inc. (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 1357, 1366-1368, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 141

Applying principles of unjust enrichment, because secured party knew of and acquiesced in third party's expenditure, which was necessary to development of crop (collateral), and ultimately benefited from that expenditure, amount expended by third party to harvest crop was deducted from amount of proceeds to which secured party was entitled. Producers Cotton Oil Co. v. Amstar Corp. (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 638, 658-660, 242 Cal. Rptr. 914

[4] Pledges

Pledge is bailment for security; it is perfected by delivery of possession of pledged property, although title remains in pledgor; secured party or bailee owes fiduciary duty of care to preserve and protect pledged property and may be liable for conversion if pledged property is wrongfully sold or transferred without authority. Hartford v. State Bar (1990) 50 Cal. 3d 1139, 1153 n.11, 270 Cal. Rptr. 12, 791 P.2d 598 ; see also former Com. Code §§ 8313, 8320-8321 (pledge of securities); now see Com. Code § 8101 et seq.

[5] Priorities

When federal government sought, pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3713, to assert priority of federal tax lien over judgment lien that had been perfected under Pennsylvania law, federal Tax Lien Act rather than federal priority statute was governing statute; therefore, under I.R.C. § 6323(a), unrecorded federal tax lien did not have priority over perfected judgment lien. United States v. Estate of Romani (1998) 523 U.S. 517, 118 S. Ct. 1478, 1488, 140 L. Ed. 2d 710

Because California motor vehicle registration system is "full title system," transferee who has no knowledge of defect in title is entitled to rely on information in registration and ownership certificates without further inquiry. T & O Mobile Homes, Inc. v. United California Bank (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 441, 454, 454-455, 220 Cal. Rptr. 627, 709 P.2d 430 (transferee prevails over technically perfected security interest mistakenly not disclosed in certificate); Louis & Diederich, Inc. v. Cambridge European Imports, Inc. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1574, 1587, 234 Cal. Rptr. 889 (transferee prevails over unperfected interest)

When consideration for subordination agreement was plaintiff's continued extension of credit to debtor, but agreement did not specify duration of continued financing, reasonable time was implied; whether four months was reasonable length of time was question of fact, which should not have been resolved by summary judgment. Walter E. Heller Western, Inc. v. Tecrim Corp. (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 149, 159-160, 241 Cal. Rptr. 677

Owners of cattle which they put out to feed at cattle ranch did not have interest prior to security interest of bank which had filed financing statement covering all cattle owned or acquired by ranch owner, in that either cattle owner's interest did not arise until receiving cattle from rancher, in which case cattle were subject of bank's interest already covering ranch cattle, or ownership interest preceded delivery of cattle to ranch but owners failed to record cattle feeding contract in order to avoid priority security interest of bank as bona fide encumbrancer of cattle. Calva Prod. v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 409, 416-417, 168 Cal. Rptr. 582 (holding former Civ. Code § 2980.5 constitutional in its requirement of recording cattle feeding contract in order to retain priority over subsequent bona fide encumbrancer)

Federal tax lien took priority over perfected security interest in accounts receivable when security did not exist, as defined by I.R.C. § 6323(h) prior to tax lien filing and when accounts receivable were not acquired within requisite time period for security interest to take priority over tax lien. Gold Coast Leasing Co. v. California Carrots, Inc. (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 274, 279-280, 155 Cal. Rptr. 511

Assignment of right to payment for services rendered did not create security interest until those services had been rendered, for purposes of calculating whether interest amounted to one in existence as "commercial transactions financing agreement" sufficiently before federal tax lien was filed in order to have priority over federal tax lien [see I.R.C. § 6323(d)]. Gold Coast Leasing Co. v. California Carrots, Inc. (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 274, 278-280, 155 Cal. Rptr. 511

Person surrendering taxpayer's property pursuant to federal tax lien, being thereby discharged under federal law from any obligation to taxpayer (see I.R.C. § 6323(d)), is also discharged from liability to holder of security interest in that property when that interest is subordinate to federal tax lien under federal law. Gold Coast Leasing Co. v. California Carrots, Inc. (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 274, 280, 281, 155 Cal. Rptr. 511

[6] Proceeds

[a] Examples of Proceeds

Given flexible and broad definition of "proceeds" under former Com. Code § 9306(1), federal farm subsidy payments are proceeds of sugar beet farmer-debtor's collateral when security agreement is drafted with awareness of importance of subsidy payments to sugar beet farm financing and when interested third party examining financing statement could be expected to know that crops described in financing statement were sugar beets. In the Matter of Munger (9th Cir. [Cal] 1974) 495 F.2d 511, 513

Flooring agreement that described collateral as "sales and service of new and used automobiles" created security interest in inventory consisting of newand used automobiles and proceeds thereof, including proceeds of disposition of automobiles under conditional sales agreements. Biggins v. Southwest Bank (9th Cir. [Cal] 1973) 490 F.2d 1304, 1308, 1311

Security interest in inventory applies equally to proceeds of sale and attaches to deposit account to extent that funds are identifiable as sale proceeds. ITT Commercial Fin. Corp. v. Tech. Power Inc. (1996) 43 Cal. App. 4th 1551, 1556-1557, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 344 .

Security interest in debtor's inventory and proceeds includes debtor's accounts receivable, given broad definition of "proceeds" in former Com. Code § 9306(1) and given absence of expression in security agreement of narrower interpretation of "proceeds." Western Decor & Furnishings Industries, Inc. v. Bank of America (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 293, 302, 154 Cal. Rptr. 287

[b] Need Not Come Into Debtor's Possession

Debtor is not required to take possession of whatever is received in exchange for collateral in order for it to be "proceeds;" thus, secured party was entitled to recover from buyer proceeds paid to third parties who, with debtor, misrepresented to buyer that they owned crop. American National Bank v. Cloud (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 766, 775-776, 247 Cal. Rptr. 325 ; Producers Cotton Oil Co. v. Amstar Corp. (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 638, 652-653, 242 Cal. Rptr. 914

Although "account" in hands of marketing cooperative to which crop was sold was "proceeds," secured party that had perfected interest in crop and proceeds waived its interest in proceeds by allowing crop to be delivered to marketing cooperative with competing claim to proceeds, even though agreement between competing claimants specified that delivery of crop would not change rights of either; court interpreted agreement in favor of cooperative based on its first-perfected interest in proceeds. Bank of Stockton v. Diamond Walnut Growers, Inc. (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 144, 151-153, 156-159, 244 Cal. Rptr. 744

When buyer of collateral paid seed, harvesting, and other standard costs and paid remainder of purchase price to secured party, entire purchase price was proceeds even though none of it ever came into debtor's possession; however, under equitable principles, because secured party knew of and acquiesced in expenditures necessary for development of crop and ultimately benefited from those expenditures, buyer was entitled to recover those costs from crop proceeds. Producers Cotton Oil Co. v. Amstar Corp. (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 638, 651, 658-660, 242 Cal. Rptr. 914

Proceeds in which creditors' security interest was perfected included payment of transportation charges advanced by unsecured creditor. Johanson Transportation Service v. Jimmy Grizzard Sales, Inc. (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 583, 592, 210 Cal. Rptr. 433 Secured party's interest in proceeds of debtor's hay crop does not extend to advances made by buyer to debtor before buyer knew of secured party's lien, but on delivery of hay to buyer, account payable became proceeds of sale of hay crop and buyer was not entitled to apply proceeds to reduction of its outstanding advances to debtor. Imperial NH3 v. Central Valley Feed Yards, Inc. (1977) 70 Cal. App. 3d 513, 520, 139 Cal. Rptr. 8

[c] Secured Party's Interest in Proceeds of Disposition

Even though no Commercial Code provision permitted purchaser of collateral who knew of secured party's interest and that sale was in violation of security agreement to pay harvesting costs from proceeds, equitable considerations supported payment to prevent secured party's unjust enrichment. Producers Cotton Oil Co. v. Amstar Corp. (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 638, 658-660, 242 Cal. Rptr. 914

Secured party that authorized sale of collateral by prior conduct, loses its lien on collateral on completion of sale, but does not necessarily lose its lien on the proceeds. Producers Cotton Oil Co. v. Amstar Corp. (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 638, 647, 652-653, 242 Cal. Rptr. 914

[7] Secured Party in Possession

Fuel tax charges assessed against collateral in possession of secured party were chargeable to debtor and secured by collateral; on sale of collateral by secured party, taxes were required to be paid from proceeds before being applied to satisfaction of underlying indebtedness. J.T. Jenkins Co. v. Kennedy (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 474, 480, 119 Cal. Rptr. 578

Requirement that secured party in possession of collateral use reasonable care in custody and preservation thereof [see Com. Code § 9207(a)], when applied to securities being held, does not require secured party to sell call options on debtor's advice when secured party then would have been obligated to hold securities for additional length of time and to have realized on that sale far less than amount of debtor's obligation outstanding, and which would also conflict with secured party's right to hold collateral until principal obligation has been satisfied or to sell on default in good faith and commercially reasonable manner as prescribed by governing law [see Com. Code § 9610]. Hutchison v. Southern California First Nat. Bank (1972) 27 Cal. App. 3d 572, 582, 583, 103 Cal. Rptr. 816

[8] Secured Party's Remedies

[a] In General

Court order that debtor must convey collateral to secured party was reversible error when security agreement did not contain any promise to convey but contained only assignment of property as collateral; secured party was limited to remedies specified in Division 9 of Commercial Code. Resolution Trust Corp. v. Winslow (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 1799, 1813-1814, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 510

Equipment lease for carwash coupled with note was not itself collateral, such that on termination of lease and repossession of abandoned equipment note proper could be called "unsecured" and sued on for unpaid balance without first disposing of equipment and showing of deficiency thereafter. Grossman v. Lippson (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 554, 559-562, 146 Cal. Rptr. 741

[b] Commercially Reasonable Collection or Disposition

Requirements of notice and of commercial reasonableness of former Com. Code § 9504(3) [see now Com. Code §§ 9610(a), (b), 9611], including reasonable advertising, are distinct. Ford & Vlahos v. ITT Commercial Financial Corp. (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 1220, 1231, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 464, 885 P.2d 877

Secured party's organization of active collection program in attempting to realize on debtor's accounts receivables (only inactive when it had agreed to let cocreditor have responsibility for collecting on its own share of interests), coupled with fact that value of accounts was probably inflated and that debtor had failed to provide secured party with supporting records, was substantial evidence that secured party acted in commercially reasonable manner in collecting from account debtors. Western Decor & Furnishings Industries, Inc. v. Bank of America (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 293, 303-305, 154 Cal. Rptr. 287

[c] Notice of Disposition

Notice of sale sent to debtor, on default of whom collateral was being disposed of under security interest, by certified mail, return receipt requested, addressed to debtor at residence thereof, but which was returned unclaimed before sale, after which no further attempt was made to notify debtor by secured party although its officers knew debtor's whereabouts and had business dealings with debtor through branch office, created rebuttable presumption that notice was given, which could be overcome by uncontradicted evidence of debtor that notice was never received. In re Carter (1975) 511 F.2d 1203, 1204 ; see UCC Comment 6 to Com. Code § 9611 (Division 9 leaves to judicial resolution, based on facts of each case, whether second try or attempt to locate debtor is necessary when secured party learns debtor did not receive first notification).

To obtain deficiency judgment, secured creditor who sells defaulting debtor's repossessed car must comply with Rees-Levering Motor Vehicle Sales and Finance Act [Civ. Code § 2981 et seq.] as well as with any relevant provisions in Commercial Code Division 9; failure to give debtor proper notice of public sale pursuant to former Com. Code § 9504(3) [see now Com. Code § 9614(3) (form of notice)], including notice of both time and place of sale, precluded deficiency judgment. Bank of America v. Lallana (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 203, 210, 213-214, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 910, 918, 960 P.2d 1133

"Recognized market" within meaning of former Com. Code § 9504(3) [see now Com. Code 9611(d) (notice of sale or disposition of collateral need not be given to debtor if collateral is type customarily sold on recognized market)] is one in which sales involve many items so similar that individual differences are nonexistent or immaterial, in which haggling and competitive bidding are not primary factors in each sale, and in which prices paid are currently available by quotation. Aspen Enterprises, Inc. v. Bodge (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 1811, 1825

Whether there is recognized market within meaning of former Com. Code § 9504(3) [see now Com. Code 9611(d) (notice of disposition of collateral need not be given to debtor if collateral is type customarily sold on recognized market)] is generally question of fact. Aspen Enterprises, Inc. v. Bodge (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 1811, 1825

Creditor who mistakenly conducted sale one day before the date announced in notification was allowed to collect deficiency judgment after properly renoticing and conducting second sale because debtor was not prejudiced; factors influencing court included creditor's admission of its mistake and reasonableness in doing what it could to rectify matters and fact that debtor could raise good faith and commercial reasonableness on retrial. PWS, Inc. v. Ban (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 223, 226-230, 285 Cal. Rptr. 598

Purposes of notice are to allow debtor to discharge debt and redeem collateral, to produce another purchaser, and/or to ensure that sale is held in commercially reasonable manner. Brunzell Construction Co., Inc. v. Smith (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 617, 621, 246 Cal. Rptr. 182

Secured party is exempted from requirement of giving notice of sale [former Com. Code § 9504(3); see now Com. Code 9611(d)] if sale of collateral is conducted by court-appointed receiver because receiver, not secured party, controls time and place of sale; creditor is required to account to debtor for any proceeds of sale received by it after discharge of receiver. Security Pacific National Bank v. Geernaert (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1425, 1431, 1431, 245 Cal. Rptr. 712 (stating as dicta that same reasoning and result would apply to sale by trustee in bankruptcy)

Threatened speedy decline in value of collateral that results from secured party's procrastination is not within exception; notice is still required; failure to give notice barred deficiency. Backes v. Village Corner, Inc. (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 209, 213-215, 242 Cal. Rptr. 716

"Retroactive" notice given after private sale is invalid. Backes v. Village Corner, Inc. (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 209, 212 n. 3, 242 Cal. Rptr. 716 (dicta)

Doctrine of substantial compliance is not applicable to notice required by former Com. Code § 9504(3) [see now Com. Code 9611(d)]; thus, creditor was barred from recovering deficiency judgment when notice gave incorrect street address, even though creditor's employees were allegedly posted at address given in notice to direct bidders to true location of sale. C.I.T. Corp. v. Anwright Corp. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1420, 1422-1424, 237 Cal. Rptr. 108 ; but see PWS, Inc. v. Ban (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 223, 226-230, 285 Cal. Rptr. 598

Guarantor was entitled to notice of sale; guarantor's waiver, prior to default, of right to receive notice was ineffective. C.I.T. Corp. v. Anwright Corp. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1420, 1425-1427, 237 Cal. Rptr. 108 ; Connolly v. Bank of Sonoma County (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 1119, 1123-1125, 229 Cal. Rptr. 396 (both discussed and declined to follow Rutan v. Summit Sports, Inc. (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 965, 973, 219 Cal. Rptr. 381 , which held otherwise)

[d] Repossession

Secured party retaining possession of equipment, after debtor had delivered it for repair, because of debtor's default in payments, was not liable in conversion because it also demanded payment of former debt not covered under present security agreement before releasing equipment, if debtor was still in default under present agreement. Clark Equipment Co. v. Mastelotto, Inc. (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 88, 92-94, 150 Cal. Rptr. 797

Principal who authorized agent to repossess collateral, when taking of possession was otherwise lawful, was not liable in punitive damages for wrongful method of taking on part of agent if principal itself was not shown to have had malice attended by outrageous conduct, requiring principal to have participated personally in wrongful acts, previously authorized them, or subsequently ratified them with full knowledge of facts. Henderson v. Security Nat. Bank (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 764, 772, 773, 140 Cal. Rptr. 388

Repossession of collateral by means of unlawful entry, such as breaking lock of garage door to obtain automobile, even though taking of possession is otherwise lawful, constitutes conversion for which principal who ordered repossession by agent may be liable based on unwarranted interference with debtor's dominion over property without regard to principal's good or bad faith, care or negligence, knowledge or ignorance of method of repossession. Henderson v. Security Nat. Bank (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 764, 770, 771, 140 Cal. Rptr. 388

Delivery to buyer of goods without taking of some form of security agreement did not entitle unpaid seller to repossess goods but rather rendered seller liable for conversion thereon. English v. Ralph Williams Ford (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 1038, 1046-1049, 95 Cal. Rptr. 501

Repossession of vehicle by secured party after debtor's default without removing other property contained therein and returning it to debtor on demand constituted conversion of other property. Varela v. Wells Fargo Bank (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 741, 749, 750, 93 Cal. Rptr. 428

[9] Security Interests

[a] Continuing Effectiveness

Security agreement giving creditor security interest in accounts receivable that was executed by proprietorship continued to be effective as to accounts receivable generated by corporation that was successor entity to proprietorship because debtor could not evade obligation of validly executed security agreement by altering its business structure. In re West Coast Food Sales (9th Cir. 1981) 637 F.2d 707, 709-710

[b] Creation of Security Interest

Bank can obtain valid security interest in one of its own deposit accounts under former Com. Code § 9203(1)(c) [see now Com. Code § 9203(b)(3)(D)]; bank's interest attaches to personal property of depositor, not bank's own property. Bakersfield Westar Ambulance, Inc. v. Parker (9th Cir. 1997) 123 F.3d 1243, 1246-1247

Arrangement characterized as "negative pickup" deal did not provide appellants with superior security interest in tangible film materials; failure to show all elements required by former Com. Code § 9203(1) [see now Com. Code § 9203(b)]. LeFlore v. Grass Harp Productions Inc. (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 824, 835, 840, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 340

Stipulation in civil action fulfilled all requirements for security agreement and creation of security interest. Louis & Diederich, Inc. v. Cambridge European Imports, Inc. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1574, 1586, 234 Cal. Rptr. 889

Assignment of accounts which constituted consideration for consenting creditors, granting to debtor corporations under contemporaneous agreement limited moratorium on enforcement of their claims and limited extension of time within which corporations might pay, was not mere assignment of accounts for purpose of collection only which would be excluded from Division 9 of Commercial Code [see former Com. Code § 9104(f), now Com. Code § 9109(d)(5)], but was transaction intended to create security interest with security agreement. People ex rel. Franchise Tax Bd. v. Credit Managers Assn., (1977) 76 Cal. App. 3d 344, 349, 350, 142 Cal. Rptr. 777

Sale in which demonstrated purpose was to enable seller to obtain financing for foundering enterprise and provide means to acquire control of another business, and in which price for goods--coupled with contemporaneous agreement for resale at close to market price--evidenced transaction for security, did not amount to sale to buyers in ordinary course of business which would take free of security interest created by seller [see Com. Code §§ 1201(b)(9), 9320(a)]. Sierra Financial Corp. v. Brooks-Farrer Co. (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 698, 702, 703, 93 Cal. Rptr. 422

[c] Description of Collateral

Security agreement describing collateral by type and stating it is located at particular address in particular city, when actually collateral was never located there but only in other cities, did not give adequate description of collateral for purposes of creating valid security agreement versus claim of bankruptcy trustee; and description was not permissibly able to be corrected by parol evidence although reference to other documents containing fuller description, or coupling with fuller description in financing statement, would be capable of rendering complete description. Matter of Cal. Pump & Mfg. Co., Inc. (1978) 588 F.2d 717, 719, 720

Security agreement covering inventory and proceeds thereof included right to payment of debtor on latter's sale of inventory without having to specify in agreement that it covered accounts receivable. Western Decor & Furnishings Industries, Inc. v. Bank of America (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 293, 301, 302, 154 Cal. Rptr. 287

[d] Disguised as Lease

Lease and charter party were security interests when their purpose was to allow lessee to borrow money and to provide lessor greater security than it would have under ship mortgage; when lease is actually security interest, lessor has no reversionary ownership interest in subject of "lease"; thus, cancellation of charter party prior to attachment of vessel would not deprive "lessee" of attachable interest. Interpool Ltd. v. Char Yigh Marine (Panama) S.A. (9th Cir. 1989) 890 F.2d 1453, 1459-1461 (applying California law)

[e] Perfection of Security Interests

Creditor could obtain security interest in proceeds of sale of FCC license; interest constituted "general intangible" that could be perfected before sale of license. MLQ Investors LP v. Pacific Quadracasting, Inc. (9th Cir. 1998) 146 F.3d

746, 749

Former Com. Code § 9402(8) [see now Com. Code § 9506(a)], providing that financing statement containing minor errors that are not seriously misleading may be effective, is displacement of principles of equity and law otherwise applicable; minor error is seriously misleading when it does not indicate to interested third party possible existence of prior encumbrance on collateral; reformation due to mistake was not available when error was seriously misleading. In re Pacific Trencher & Equipment, Inc. (9th Cir. 1984) 735 F.2d 362, 364-365

Secured party attempting to perfect security interest in instruments by taking possession thereof through having debtor make notations thereon that they were held as security but otherwise remaining in possession of those instruments, does not accomplish perfection under former Com. Code §§ 9304(1), 9305 [see now Com. Code §§ 9312, 9313] because only secured party, agent, or bailee may perfect interest through possession, and debtor cannot qualify as agent [see U.C.C. Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9313]. Matter of Staff Mortgage & Inv. Corp. (1977) 550 F.2d 1228, 1230

Security interest in account in which the debtor has rights can be perfected before debtor earns right to payment under terms of account by performance. Bank of Stockton v. Diamond Walnut Growers, Inc. (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 144, 152-153, 244 Cal. Rptr. 744

Perfection of security interest in vehicle that was part of dealer's inventory was governed by Commercial Code, not Vehicle Code, and required filing of financing statement or possession. Louis & Diederich, Inc. v. Cambridge European Imports, Inc. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1574, 1585-1586, 234 Cal. Rptr. 889

Secured party's failure to file continuation statement of security interest in collateral when original financing statement lapsed after five years precluded action for conversion and impairment of security interest when collateral was transferred by debtor. Growth Properties v. Lempert (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 983, 989, 193 Cal. Rptr. 102

[10] Waiver or Modification of Debtor's Rights

Former Com. Code §§ 9501(3), 9504, and 9505 [see now Com. Code §§ 9602, 9603, and 9624] did not prohibit individual debtor, guarantor of business obligation, after default, from consenting to entry of deficiency judgment; after entry of deficiency judgment in favor of secured party, execution and levy on debtor's property, including any collateral, were no longer governed by Division 9 of the Commercial Code. Brunzell Construction Co., Inc. v. Smith (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 617, 622-623, 246 Cal. Rptr. 182 ; but see Com. Code § 9629 (waiver by debtor of rights after default as to consumer goods is not valid or enforceable unless it is in consideration of secured party's waiver of any right to deficiency)

7. Defendant failed and refused to return a written _____ [accounting or correction or approval of the statement] within 14 days after receiving plaintiff's request therefor or _____ [at any other time since or within a reasonable time], and without reasonable excuse.

8. Plaintiff requested the _____ [accounting or statement] from defendant in order to _____[describe purpose leading to loss by defendant's action, e.g., obtain additional financing from one or more sources which indicated that if plaintiff's obligations to defendant were below a stated amount, as was expected to be indicated on the statement sent defendant, they would lend the amount needed and secure it on the collateral subordinate to the defendant's security interest]. As a result of defendant's failure to respond to plaintiff's request for a statement, plaintiff has been injured in the amount of $_____, representing _____ [describe, e.g., the difference in the cost of financing and in interest which plaintiff could have obtained at the time by using the collateral as security, as against the cost plaintiff did pay for the financing obtained, without being able to rely on the collateral].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

1. For damages in the amount of $_____;

[2. For additional damages, as provided by Commercial Code Section 9625, of $500;]

3. For costs of suit herein incurred, including attorney's fees, if appropriate; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], declare:

I am the plaintiff in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

[2] Use of Form

The complaint in [1], above, is for use by a debtor who has sent a secured party a request for accounting [Com. Code § 9210(a)(2)] or a statement regarding the remaining indebtedness or list of collateral for approval or correction [Com. Code § 9210(a)(3), (4)], and who has been injured in a particular fashion by failure of the secured party to return the statement [see Com. Code §§ 9210, 9625(b), (f), (g); see also discussion in §§ 503.25, 503.29].

[3] Allegations

The complaint in [1], above, alleges:

- The capacity and residence of defendant (Paragraph 1).

- Fictitious names of defendants later to be discovered and joined, if any (Paragraph 2).

- Whether the action involves a retail installment agreement or motor vehicle conditional sales contract or arises from an offer or provision of goods, services, loans or extensions of credit intended primarily for personal, family or household use, or from a transaction consummated as the result of either an unsolicited telephone call made by a seller or a telephone call or electronic transmission made by the buyer or lessee in response to a solicitation by the seller [see Code Civ. Proc. § 395(b)], thereby requiring the plaintiff to comply with the provisions of Civ. Code §§ 1812.10 or 2984.4 or Code Civ. Proc. § 395(b) (Paragraph 3) [Code Civ. Proc. § 396a(a); see discussion in [6], below].

- Identification and execution of a security agreement and any financing statement, in the case of a security interest, or, a description of the transaction(s) that provide the basis for an agricultural lien (alternative Paragraphs 4).

- The key provisions of the security agreement, or the statute granting the agricultural lien, including the security interest or agricultural lien given in particular collateral (alternative Paragraphs 5).

- The sending of the request for accounting or the statement or collateral or outstanding indebtedness for approval or correction (Paragraph 6).

- Defendant's failure to return an accounting or the statement (Paragraph 7).

- The resulting injury to plaintiff (Paragraph 8). Com. Code § 9625(b) specifies that a person is liable for damages in the amount of any loss caused by a failure to comply with Division 9 and specifically provides that loss may include loss resulting from the debtor's inability to obtain, or increased costs of, alternative financing. This form uses as an example a loss relating to additional financing rather than alternative financing.

[4] Statutory Damages

Com. Code § 9625(f) provides that in addition to damages under Com. Code § 9625(b), a debtor or consumer obligor may recover $500 in each case from a person that, without reasonable cause, fails to comply with a request under Com. Code § 9210. A recipient of a request under Com. Code § 9210 which never claimed an interest in the collateral or obligations that are the subject of a request has a reasonable excuse for failure to comply with the request within the meaning of this subdivision [Com. Code § 9625(f); see also Com. Code §§ 9210(d), (e), 9625(g), discussed in § 503.25[2]].

[5] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)], verification will require any answer to be verified in an unlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude the defendant from using a general denial in an unlimited civil case, and will preclude a general denial in a limited civil case if the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[6] Installment or Auto Sales Actions

[a] Filing of Affidavit or Declaration of Proper Venue Required

In any action subject to the Unruh Retail Installment Sales Act (RISA) [Civ. Code § 1801 et seq.] or the Rees-Levering Motor Vehicles Sales and Finance Act (Rees-Levering Act) [Civ. Code § 2981 et seq.], or that arises from an offer or provision of goods, services, loans or extensions of credit intended primarily for personal, family or household use, or from a transaction consummated as the result of either an unsolicited telephone call made by a seller or a telephone call or electronic transmission made by the buyer or lessee in response to a solicitation by the seller [see Code Civ. Proc. § 395(b)], the plaintiff, concurrently with the filing of the complaint, must file an affidavit (or declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) stating facts showing that the action has been commenced in a proper place for the trial of the action under Civ. Code § 1812.10 or Civ. Code § 2984.4. In lieu of filing a separate affidavit or declaration, the plaintiff may allege these facts in a verified complaint, but not on information and belief. If an affidavit or declaration is filed with the complaint, a copy of the affidavit or declaration must be served with the summons [Civ. Code §§ 1812.10(c), 2984.4(c); Code Civ. Proc. § 396a(a)].

[b] Consequences of Failure to File Affidavit or Declaration

If the plaintiff fails to file the affidavit or declaration or state facts showing proper venue in a verified complaint as required in Civ. Code § 1810.10, Civ. Code § 2984.4, or Code Civ. Proc. § 396a, no further proceedings may occur, and the court, on its own motion or the motion of any party, must dismiss the action without prejudice. The court, however, on terms that may be just, may permit the affidavit or declaration to be filed after the filing of the complaint. In this case, a copy of the affidavit or declaration must be served on the defendant, and the time to answer or otherwise plead begins at the time of that service [Civ. Code §§ 1812.10(c), 2984.4(c); Code Civ. Proc. § 396a(a)].

For further discussion of venue requirements for RISA, and a form for a declaration of proper venue, see Ch. 501, Sales: Retail Installment Sales, § 501.102 . For further discussion of venue requirements for the Rees-Levering Act, and related forms, see Ch. 89, Automobiles: Sales and Financing Under the Rees-Levering Act . For venue allegations, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used .

[7] Attorney's Fees

In an action on a contract, when the contract specifically provides that attorney's fees and costs incurred to enforce the provisions of the contract will be awarded to one of the parties, reasonable attorney's fees may be recovered by the prevailing party, but as an element of the costs of suit, not as damages [Civ. Code § 1717].

The court must award costs and attorney's fees to a prevailing plaintiff in litigation governed by Civ. Code § 1780 (consumer suffering damage from any practice deemed unlawful under Civ. Code § 1770) [Civ. Code § 1780(d)]. Reasonable attorney's fees may be awarded to a prevailing defendant on a finding by the court that the plaintiff's prosecution of the action was not in good faith [Civ. Code § 1780(d)]. For discussion and forms relating to recovery of attorney's fees, see Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees, § 174.50 et seq.

For discussion of attorney's fees under Civ. Code § 1717.5 in certain contract actions based on a book account as defined in Code Civ. Proc. § 337a, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used .

5. [Key provisions of security agreement or statute that grants agricultural lien, and filing of any financing statement. See § 503.100[1], alternative Paragraphs 5.]

6. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff defaulted _____ [under the security agreement or in his/her/its obligation to defendant] in that _____ [describe default]. Defendant _____ [had remained in or thereupon took] possession of the collateral. [Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that] [D]efendant then prepared, and is now ready and about, to dispose of the collateral. [Defendant _____ (delivered or sent) to plaintiff a notice of sale on or about _____ (date), a true copy of which is attached as Exhibit B and incorporated by this reference.]

7. Defendant is not proceeding in accordance with the provisions of Division 9 of the Commercial Code, for the following reasons:

(a) On or about _____[date], plaintiff made demand on defendant to redeem the collateral and tendered fulfillment of all obligations secured thereby, as well as for the expenses reasonably incurred by defendant in [retaking,] holding, preparing and processing for disposition, and for reasonable attorney's fees and legal expenses as provided for in the security agreement.

(b) This was accomplished by _____ [describe process, e.g., plaintiff first calculated that the entire sum of the above could be no more than $_____ and subsequently deposited such sum in escrow with _____ (name of escrow holder). The escrow holder then mailed and telephoned plaintiff's demand for redemption along with plaintiff's demand, made in good faith, for a statement from defendant of the aggregate amount of unpaid indebtedness as of _____ (date), containing plaintiff's statement that the obligation amounted to a total of $_____. _____ (name of escrow holder) explained in his/her/its cover letter that the funds were deposited to plaintiff's account and would be delivered as soon as the amount of the obligation was settled. A true copy of that correspondence is attached as Exhibit C and incorporated by reference].

(c) Defendant refused, and still refuses, to honor plaintiff's demand for redemption and has refused to accept any tender from plaintiff therefor.

8. By virtue of defendant's failure to proceed in accordance with the provisions of Division 9 of the Commercial Code, plaintiff is entitled to seek that disposition of the collateral be restrained on the appropriate terms and conditions as provided in Section 9625(a) of the Commercial Code.

[9. Add if seeking temporary restraining order: Furthermore, defendant's threatened disposition of the collateral, unless and until enjoined and restrained by order of this court, will cause great and irreparable injury to plaintiff in that _____ (specify, e.g., equipment that is virtually irreplaceable in the recent market will not be returned to plaintiff's manufacturing establishment, effectively crippling plaintiff's enterprise in the manufacture of _____ [describe]).]

10. [As a proximate result of defendant's wrongful conduct, plaintiff has been damaged in the amount of $_____ for _____ (describe basis, e.g., inability to properly operate a manufacturing plant). Plaintiff will be further damaged in like manner so long as defendant continues its conduct.] [Further,] [I]f defendant proceeds in noncompliance with the provisions of the Commercial Code referred to above, and disposes of the collateral, plaintiff will be injured in an amount not now known or calculable and will [seek leave to] amend this complaint to state that amount when it becomes known to plaintiff, or on proof thereof.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

[1. For an order requiring defendant to show cause, if any, why defendant should not be enjoined as hereinafter set forth, during the pendency of this action;]

2. For a [temporary restraining order,] preliminary injunction[,] and a permanent injunction[, each] enjoining defendant and any agent, servant, or employee of defendant, and all persons in concert with any such persons, or on behalf of any such persons:

a. From disposing of the collateral by sale, lease, or in any other manner;

b. To honor plaintiff's right to redeem the collateral as tendered heretofore and by this action on terms provided by court order and to return the collateral;

3. For [damages in the sum of $_____, plus] damages in any sums that may be sustained and are ascertained before final judgment;

4. For costs of suit herein incurred, including reasonable attorney's fees as authorized by Civil Code Section 1717; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 503.100[1].]

The complaint in [1], above, is for use by a debtor who desires to restrain the secured party from disposing of the collateral after default when the secured party has failed to honor the debtor's offer and tender to redeem the collateral [see Com. Code §§ 9623, 9625(a); see also discussions at § 503.28[4] and [5]; Englert v. IVAC Corp. (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 178, 184, 154 Cal. Rptr. 804 (alternative of action for possession when collateral is wrongfully withheld after attempt to redeem)].

The special allowance of injunctive relief in Com. Code § 9625(a) is of particular importance when sought prospectively, before the unreasonable disposition of the collateral has been concluded. Com. Code § 9625(a) will apparently be applied even though plaintiff has not alleged additional facts which are ordinarily required to entitle him or her to injunctive relief under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 527.

[3] Allegations

The complaint in [1], above, alleges in pertinent part:

- Plaintiff's default under the security agreement, and defendant's preparation to dispose of the collateral (Paragraph 6).

- Defendant's refusal to honor plaintiff's offer and tender to redeem the collateral [Com. Code § 9623] (Paragraph 7).

- The right to restrain disposition of collateral when a secured party is proceeding in violation of Division 9 of the Commercial Code (Paragraph 8) [Com. Code § 9625(a)].

- Additional facts entitling plaintiff to a temporary restraining order (Paragraph 9) [Com. Code § 9625(a)].

[4] Special Requirements for Injunctive Relief

A complaint seeking injunctive relief, particularly where accompanied by application for a temporary restraining order, requires the filing of additional certificates, affidavits, or declarations accompanying the complaint or the pleading of specific evidentiary facts in a verified complaint [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527]. For discussion of the procedure for injunctive relief, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

[2] Use of Form

The complaint in [1], above, is for use when the collateral is any type other than consumer goods, at least 60 percent of which had been paid for, and the secured party, after default, has failed to dispose of the collateral after the debtor rejected the secured party's proposal to retain the collateral in satisfaction of the obligation [*see Com. [3] Allegations

The complaint in [1], above, alleges:

- After default, defendant, being in possession of the collateral, made an authenticated proposal to retain the collateral in satisfaction of the obligation, and plaintiff's or other person's rejection of that proposal (Paragraph 6)

- The failure of defendant to comply with statute requiring disposition of the collateral (Paragraph 7) [see Com. Code §§ 9610, 9620].

Code § 9620(e)(1), (f)*; see also discussion in § 503.42[5]].

The complaint could be modified for use in a situation governed by Com. Code § 9620(e)(2), (f), by modifying Paragraph 4 to describe a nonpurchase money transaction in consumer goods and by deleting from Paragraph 5 the reference to payment of 60 percent [or more] of the cash price and substituting instead an allegation of payment of 60 percent [or more] of the principal amount of the obligation. [see Com. Code § 9620(e)(2)].

[3] Allegations

The complaint in [1], above, alleges

- Defendant's repossession of collateral on default after plaintiff had repaid 60 percent of the cash price (Paragraph 6) [Com. Code § 9620(e)(1)].

- The failure of defendant to properly dispose of the goods by the required time, and the value of the goods on that date (Paragraph 7) [Com. Code § 9620(f)].

- Punitive damages, if desired (Paragraph 8) [see Civ. Code § 3294].

[2] Use of Form

The complaint in [1], above is for use by a debtor who, after collection or disposition of the collateral by the secured party for default of the debtor, demands an accounting of the amount realized thereon, in excess of amounts owed the secured party, to be returned as surplus to the debtor [see Com. Code §§ 9608 (collection), 9615 (disposition); see also discussions in §§ 503.27[3], [5][c] and [e]]. If the underlying transaction is a sale of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes, the debtor is not entitled to any surplus [see Com. Code §§ 9608(b), 9615(e)(1)(A)], unless the parties have varied the statutory rule by their agreement [see UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9608].

[3] Allegations

The complaint in [1], above, alleges in pertinent part [see Com. Code § 9608 or 9615]:

- The disposition of or collection on the collateral for an amount greater than that due the secured party (Paragraph 6).

- An unknown amount realized on the disposition (Paragraph 7).

- The failure of secured party to provide the debtor with an accounting of the disposition (Paragraph 8).

Counsel may wish to include allegations from Paragraphs 6 through 8 of the form in § 503.100[1], because if plaintiff's request for accounting took the form required by Com. Code § 9210, discussed in § 503.25[1], and defendant delayed more than 14 days without providing the accounting, plaintiff will be entitled to any actual damages caused by defendant's failure to provide the accounting and to statutory damages of $500 [Com. Code § 9625(b)-(f), discussed in §§ 503.29 and 503.100[4]]. The bracketed items [2] and [3] in the prayer are for use when these additional allegations regarding failure to provide the accounting as required by Com. Code § 9210 and resultant damages are used.

The form in [1], above, also does not include any allegation putting in issue whether defendant's conduct in collecting or disposing of the collateral was commercially reasonable [see Com. Code §§ 9607(c), (d), 9610(a)-(c), 9627, discussed in § 503.27[3][a] and [5][a]]. Except in a consumer transaction, a secured party need not prove that its conduct was commercially reasonable unless the debtor puts the matter in issue [see Com. Code §§ 9626(a)(1), (b)(1)(A), discussed in § 503.27[7]]. If counsel wishes to put the question of commercial reasonableness in issue, counsel can incorporate the affirmative defense at § 503.111 or 503.112 as an allegation into complaint. Although the fact that a low price was received does not establish that a collection or disposition was not commercially reasonable [see Com. Code § 9627(a), discussed in § 503.27[3][a] and [5][a]], counsel may wish to put commercial reasonableness in issue if a low price was received, especially if the disposition was made to the secured party or an entity related to the secured party [see Com. Code § 9615(f), discussed in § 503.27[5][d]].

§ 503.110 Affirmative Defense to Complaint for Priority in Fixtures--Trade Fixtures Did Not Become Interest in Real Estate and Were Intended to Remain Free Thereof [Civ. Code § 1019]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense to Complaint for Priority in Fixtures--Trade Fixtures Did Not Become Interest in Real Estate and Were Intended to Remain Free Thereof [Civ. Code § 1019]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state: TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges:

The fixtures constituting the collateral in this action did not become and are not now part of or permanently attached to the premises. They were all affixed to the real property described herein for the purposes of _____ [trade or manufacture or ornamental or domestic] use. The removal thereof can be effected without injury to the premises. The manner in which those items have been affixed has not rendered them an integral part of the premises. _____ [Name of debtor] installed them on the premises for the specified purposes and without intending that they should become part of the real property [and _____ (name of lessor of premises or holder of lien of deed of trust) so understood at the time of their procurement and installation that they were temporary only and not intended to form part of the real property or of his/her/its interest therein].

[2] Use of Form

The affirmative defense in [1], above, is for use in an answer to a complaint based on priority in fixtures, such as § 503.160. It contests the fact that trade fixtures, which constituted collateral under a security agreement, ever became permanently installed on or a part of the real property to which they were affixed, and thus ever passed to a third-party holder of some interest in the real property [see Civ. Code § 1019; see also Com. Code § 9334(e)(2) (priority); discussions in § 503.47[2] and [6][b]].

A tenant may remove from the demised premises, any time during the continuance of his term, anything affixed to those premises for purposes of trade, manufacture, ornament, or domestic use, if the removal can be effected without injury to the premises, unless the thing, by the manner in which it is affixed, has become an integral part of the premises [Civ.

Code § 1019].

[2] Use of Form

The affirmative defense in [1], above, is for use by a debtor, in a transaction that is not a consumer transaction, in an answer to a secured party's complaint for deficiency to place the burden on the secured party to prove that its collection, enforcement, disposition, or acceptance of the collateral was in compliance with Com. Code §§ 9601-9629 [Com. Code § 9626(a)(2)]. Except when the underlying transaction was a consumer transaction [compare Com. Code § 9626(b)(1)(A)], the secured party need not prove that its actions were in compliance with Com. Code §§ 9601-9629, unless the debtor or a secondary obligor places the secured party's compliance in issue [Com. Code § 9626(a)(1)]. If the secured party fails to prove that its collection, enforcement, disposition, or acceptance was conducted in accordance with Com. Code §§ 9601-9629, the liability of a debtor or a secondary obligor for a deficiency is limited as provided by Com. Code § 9626(a)(3), discussed in § 503.27[7][a][ii]].

[2] Use of Form

The affirmative defense in [1], above, is for use by a debtor, in a transaction that is not a consumer transaction, in an answer to a secured party's complaint for deficiency to place in issue the amount to be used to calculate the deficiency when the disposition was to the secured party, a person related to the secured party, or a secondary obligor [*see Com. [2] Use of Form

This form is an application by a defendant, or a person acting on the defendant's behalf, for an order granting a stay in an action to enforce a security interest in real or personal property due to the defendant's alleged nonpayment of any sum due on the underlying obligation, or other breach of any term of that obligation. The application seeks the stay on the ground that the nonpayment or breach occurred while the defendant was in military service [50 U.S.C. App. § 533; Mil. & Vet. Code § 408].

As explained in the discussion below, under the circumstances this application functions in effect as a temporary defense to the underlying action.

[3] Governing Law

The Servicemembers Civil Relief Act [50 U.S.C. App. § 501 et seq.] provides for the temporary suspension of various legal proceedings, obligations, and liabilities for persons in military service [see 50 U.S.C. App. § 502 (purpose of statute)]. The statute is applicable to all members of the uniformed services [see 10 U.S.C. § 101(a)(5) (definition)] during periods of military service [see 50 U.S.C. § 511(1)-(3)] and, in many cases, for 90 days after termination of a member's period of military service. The California counterpart to the federal legislation [Mil. & Vet. Code § 400 et seq.] is designed to fill certain gaps in the federal law in the wake of the events of September 11, 2001. The California statute, many provisions of which are virtually identical to their federal counterparts, is designed to apply to military reservists and National Guard members who are called to active military service under specified circumstances and, in many cases, for limited periods of time [see Mil. & Vet. Code § 400]. For detailed discussion of the relief available under these statutes, the manner in which such relief can be requested, and the persons who qualify for this relief, see Ch. 501, Sales: Retail Installment Sales, §§ 501.60 et seq., 501.300.

[4] Enforcement of Security Interests

The protections afforded to military personnel in the area of security instruments under both the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act and the comparable California law provisions are available only with respect to an obligation on real or personal property owned by a service member (1) that originated before the period of the service member's military service; (2) for which the service member is still obligated; and (3) that is secured by a mortgage, trust deed, or other security in the nature of a mortgage [50 U.S.C. App. § 533(a); see Mil. & Vet. Code § 408(a)]. Security agreements covering goods (such as motor vehicles) under Division 9 of the Commercial Code evidently would be "in the nature of a mortgage" in this context.

A sale, foreclosure, or seizure of property for a breach of an obligation described above is not valid if made during, or within 90 days after, the period of the service member's military service, except if made either on a court order granted before the sale, foreclosure, or seizure, with a return made and approved by the court, or pursuant to an enforceable waiver agreement [50 U.S.C. App. § 533(c); see Mil. & Vet. Code § 408(c) ("pursuant to an agreement between the parties"); see also 50 U.S.C. § 517 (waiver agreement)]. There are penalties for repossessing or attempting to repossess property in violation of these requirements. Violators are guilty of a misdemeanor [50 U.S.C. App. § 533(d)(1); Mil. & Vet. Code § 408(d)].

[5] Stay of Proceeding

In an action filed during, or within 90 days after, a service member's period of military service to enforce an obligation described in [4], above, the court may, after a hearing and on its own motion, or must, on application by a service member, when the service member's ability to comply with the obligation is materially affected by military service, either stay the proceedings for a period of time as justice and equity require or adjust the obligation to preserve the interests of all parties [50 U.S.C. App. § 533(b); see Mil. & Vet. Code § 408(b)].

The governing statutes do not specify the length of time for which a stay of the proceeding may be granted. Rather, it is simply left to the discretion of the court [see 50 U.S.C. App. § 533(b); Mil. & Vet. Code § 408(b)]. This raises some interesting practical issues regarding the time period of the stay. If the stay is granted for a period of indefinite duration, such as the period of the defendant's military service or a specified amount of time (for example, six months) thereafter, it may be difficult for the plaintiff to determine when the action can resume, as it might be expected that in the ordinary case the plaintiff would not know, and could not determine without difficulty, when the defendant's period of military service is over. On the other hand, if the stay is set for a finite period of time, such as six months, and the defendant either (1) is released from active military service earlier than the time period specified in the stay, or (2) conversely, is still on active military service when the period of the stay ends, the defendant presumably would have to seek an additional stay at that point. It appears that the court would have discretion to grant either type of stay under its general authority to order a stay for a period of time as justice and equity require [see 50 U.S.C. App. § 533(b); Mil. & Vet. Code § 408(b) ("for any period as the court deems just")]. This form does not request a specific length of time for the stay, but the party filing the application may wish to consider whether inclusion of such language is desirable or whether the length of the stay would be better left to the discretion of the court. The form may be modified to add a specific length of time for the stay if desired.

Additional relief of a more general nature also may be available under 50 U.S.C. App. § 591 or Mil. & Vet. Code § 409.3, the general relief provisions of the federal and California statutes. These statutes basically grant an extension of the underlying installment obligation for a period equal to the period of military service or, in the case of installment obligations for the purchase of real property or secured by a real property mortgage or similar instrument, for a period equal to the period of the military service plus a period equal to the remaining installments, or any part of that combined period [see 50 U.S.C. App. § 590(1); Mil. & Vet. Code § 409.3(a)]. For more detailed discussion of these provisions, see Ch. 501, Sales: Retail Installment Sales, § 501.300.

[6] Who May Request Stay

Under federal law, the stay may be requested by the service member, or an attorney acting on the behalf of the service member, or an individual possessing a power of attorney from the service member [see 50 U.S.C. App. § 519; see also 50 U.S.C. § 592 (automatic extension of power of attorney while service member is missing)]. Under California law, application for a stay may be made by the person in military service or by "some person on the service member's behalf" [Mil. & Vet. Code § 408(b)]. There are no statutory restrictions on who that "some person" may be. Presumably in many cases the service member will be absent due to the military service, and the request will have to be made by someone else on the service member's behalf.

[7] Procedure and Accompanying Papers

The statute states that a request for a stay of the type discussed in this statute is to be made by "application" to the court [see 50 U.S.C. App. § 533(b); Mil. & Vet. Code § 408(b)]. For purposes of the applicable procedural requirements, an application in this context is deemed a motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 1003 (any application for order is deemed a motion)]. Accordingly, the application in this form is in the form of a motion, although the term "application" is retained in deference to the statutory language.

A notice of motion normally is accompanied by one or more affidavits or declarations under penalty of perjury setting forth the evidentiary facts required to establish the grounds of the motion [see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders, §§ 372.21[5][b], [17], 372.61[2] et seq.; see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1306(a) (evidence received at a law and motion hearing must be by declaration and affidavit); Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2003 (affidavit defined), 2009, (use of affidavit in support of motion), 2015.5].

A memorandum of points and authorities must be filed and a copy served with this notice of motion [Cal Rules of Ct, Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010].

[2] Use of Form

The complaint in [1], above, is for use by a secured party, after default under a security agreement or under a lease or agreement that is the basis for an agricultural lien, to a reduce its claim to judgment, and for the remedy of foreclosure or possession of the collateral [Com. Code §§ 9601(a)(2), 9609; see also Bank of California v. Leone (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 444, 446, 447, 112 Cal. Rptr. 394 (secured party may sue for default on obligation without first having recourse to security)]. The usual remedy is to seek damages and to request either possession of the collateral (if not already in the secured party's possession) or judicial foreclosure. Plaintiff may request damages only and retain the option of executing on the collateral with the same priority as under private or judicial foreclosure. It is also possible for the secured party to request both possession (if not in possession already) of the collateral and judicial foreclosure, or to later request execution. Foreclosure and execution both work in the same manner, and the sheriff, as the appropriate judicial officer for foreclosure sale, can just as easily take custody of the property from the secured party as from the debtor [see discussions in § 503.29[1], [2], [6], [9], [10]].

[3] Allegations

The complaint in [1], above, alleges [see also § 503.100 [6]]:

- The material bargain under the agreement, consisting of (1) the benefit that plaintiff gave to defendant in return for defendant's promise to pay or perform an obligation, and (2) the collateral which defendant agreed, or, in the case of an agricultural lien, which statute provided, would secure the obligation to plaintiff (alternative Paragraphs 4 and 5).

- Plaintiff's full performance and defendant's default, leading to acceleration of the obligation in full and the fact that it is still unsatisfied (Paragraph 6) [see Com. Code § 9601(a)].

- Either (1) plaintiff's demand for possession of the collateral, which defendant has wrongfully refused or failed to transfer on demand after default [see Com. Code § 9609], or (2) plaintiff's entitlement and desire to enforce the security interest by way of judicial foreclosure (Paragraph 7) [see Com. Code § 9601(a)(1)].

If the claim is payable in a foreign currency, or calculable by conversion to or from a foreign currency, additional allegations should be added setting forth that fact. Otherwise, the claim is made in United States dollars [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.6(a); for discussion and a form of judgment applicable to the Uniform Foreign-Money Claims Act (Code Civ. Proc. § 676 et seq.), see Ch. 177, Damages , and Ch. 318, Judgments].

[4] Alternative Methods of Judicial Foreclosure

When a judgment requires the sale of property, it may be enforced by a writ of sale reciting the judgment, or the material parts of it, and directing the proper officer to execute on it by making the sale and applying the proceeds in conformity with the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 716.010, 716.020; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 712.040(a), discussed in [5], below].

Alternatively, if the secured party has merely reduced the claim to judgment, it may then obtain issuance of a writ of execution, directing the proper officer to levy on the debtor's property serving as collateral under the security agreement [see Code Civ. Proc. § 699.530]. If a secured party has reduced its claim to judgment, the lien of any levy that may be made on the collateral by virtue of an execution based on the judgment relates back to the earliest of any of the following [Com. Code § 9601(e)]:

- The date of perfection of the security interest or agricultural lien in the collateral.

- The date of filing a financing statement covering the collateral.

- Any date specified in a statute under which the agricultural lien was created.

A sale pursuant to an execution is a foreclosure of the security interest or agricultural lien by judicial procedure within the meaning of Com. Code § 9601. A secured party may purchase at the sale and thereafter hold the collateral free of any other requirements of Division 9 [Com. Code § 9601(f)].

[5] Methods of Enforcing Possession on Judgment

If the plaintiff does not resort to claim and delivery pending trial, the judgment for possession of personal property may be enforced by a writ of possession. The writ will be directed to the levying officer in the county where the judgment is to be enforced. Separate writs are issued for each county in which the judgment is to be enforced and may be issued successively until the judgment is satisfied [Code Civ. Proc. § 714.010]. A writ of possession requires the levying officer to whom it is directed to search for the property specified in the writ and, if it is in the possession of the judgment debtor or an agent of the judgment debtor, take custody of the property in the same manner as a levy under a writ of execution. The property taken into custody by the levying officer must be delivered to the judgment creditor in satisfaction of the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 714.020(a)]. If the property specified in the writ cannot be taken into custody, the levying officer must demand the property from the judgment debtor if the judgment debtor can be located. If custody is not then obtained, the levying officer must state so in the return. Thereafter the judgment for possession may be enforced in the same manner as a money judgment for the value of the property as specified in the judgment or a supplemental order [Code Civ. Proc. § 714.020(b)]. Under the circumstances described by Code Civ. Proc. § 714.020(b), the writ of possession may be treated as a writ of execution [Code Civ. Proc. § 714.020(c)].

After entry of a judgment for possession of personal property, and whether or not a writ of possession has been issued, the judgment creditor may apply to the court for an order directing the judgment debtor to transfer possession of the property or documentary evidence of title to the property or both to the judgment creditor. The application must be by noticed motion if required by the court or a court rule; otherwise, it may be ex parte [Code Civ. Proc. § 714.030(a)].

A writ of possession (or sale) may be enforced as a writ of execution to satisfy any money judgment included in the judgment for possession (or sale). If amounts due under the money judgment are not satisfied pursuant to the writ of possession (or sale), the judgment creditor may use a writ of execution to satisfy the money judgment after the writ of possession has been returned or 180 days after its issuance, whichever is earlier. If the judgment creditor does not want a writ of possession (or sale) to issue, as for example, when possession of property has been voluntarily surrendered, he or she is entitled to a writ of execution instead to satisfy the money judgment portion of the judgment for possession [Code Civ. Proc. § 712.040(a)].

[Verification, if desired. See § 503.100[1].]

The complaint in [1], above, is for use by a secured party to bring an action to obtain an accounting for the proceeds of collateral when the debtor has disposed of the collateral and has failed to pay the proceeds to the secured party in breach of the security agreement or agreement, lease, or statute that is the basis for an agricultural lien [see Com. Code §§ 9315 (security interest in proceeds), 9601(a)(1) (remedies)].

For further discussion proceeds and security interests in proceeds, see §§ 503.11[18], 503.21[4], and 503.22[7].

[3] Allegations

The complaint in [1], above, alleges:

- The parties' agreement, or the requirement in any statute creating plaintiff's agricultural lien, that defendant pay to plaintiff the proceeds of any disposition of the collateral (Paragraph 6) [see Com. Code §§ 9201(a), 9203(f), 9315(a)].

- Plaintiff's full performance (Paragraph 7).

- Defendant's default (Paragraph 8) [see Com. Code § 9601(a)(1); Guild Wineries & Distilleries v. Land Dynamics (1980) 103 Cal. App. 3d 966, 972, 163 Cal. Rptr. 348 (default under security agreement occurs when collateral is transferred without secured party's consent and proceeds from sale of collateral are not immediately delivered to secured party)].

- Plaintiff's damages (Paragraph 9) [see Civ. Code § 3300].

[4] Rights of Secured Party on Disposition of Collateral

[a] Pursuit of Collateral

In most cases, when a debtor makes an unauthorized disposition of collateral, the security interest or agricultural lien continues in the original collateral in the hands of the purchaser or other transferee [see Com. Code § 9315(a)(1); for discussion regarding whether a disposition was authorized, see § 503.21[4][c]]. Because the transferee takes subject to the security interest or agricultural lien, the secured party may repossess the collateral from him or her or, in an appropriate case, maintain an action for conversion. In cases in which the secured party may claim both proceeds and collateral, it may have only one satisfaction [see U.C.C. Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9315].

[b] Pursuit of Proceeds

In many cases, a purchaser or other transferee of collateral will take free of a security interest. In those cases, the secured party's only right will be to proceeds. The transferee will take free of the secured party's interest in the original collateral whenever the disposition is authorized [see § 503.21[4][c], regarding whether a disposition was authorized]. The authorization may be contained in the security agreement or otherwise given. The secured party's right to proceeds, either under Com. Code § 9315 or under the express terms of an agreement does not, in itself, constitute an authorization of disposition [see U.C.C. Comment 2 to Com. Code § 9315].

When cash proceeds are paid into the debtor's deposit account and paid out in the operation of the debtor's business, recipients of the funds take free of any claim that the secured party may have in them as proceeds unless they acted in collusion with the debtor in violating the rights of the secured party [Com. Code § 9332(b)].

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use by a secured party to comply with its obligation under Com. Code § 9616 to provide an explanation to a debtor or consumer obligor of how the secured party calculated the surplus or deficiency after disposition. This explanation is required only in consumer goods transactions [see Com. Code § 9616(b) at [4], below]. No particular phrasing of the explanation is required. An explanation complying substantially with the requirements of Com. Code § 9616(a) and (c) is sufficient, even if it includes minor errors that are not seriously misleading [Com. Code § 9616(d)].

[3] Contents

The form in [1], above includes the following:

- The amount of proceeds of the disposition [Com. Code § 9616(c)(2)].

- The amount (these may be presented in the aggregate or by type) and types of expenses, including expenses of retaking, holding, preparing for disposition, processing, and disposing of the collateral, and attorney's fees secured by the collateral which are known to the secured party and relate to the current disposition [Com. Code § 9616(c)(4)].

- The aggregate amount of obligations secured by the security interest under which the disposition was made, and, if the amount reflects a rebate of unearned interest or credit service charge, an indication of that fact [Com. Code § 9616(c)(1)].

- If the amount applied in satisfaction of the secured obligation reflects a rebate of unearned interest or credit service charge, the date as of which that amount is calculated depends on whether the secured party took possession of the collateral or not, and if so when. If the secured party did not take possession of the collateral or took or received possession of the collateral before default, the rebate must be calculated as of a date not more than 35 days before the disposition [Com. Code § 9616(c)(1)(B)]. If the secured party takes or receives possession of the collateral after default, the rebate must be calculated as of a date not more than 35 days before the secured party took or received possession [Com. Code § 9616(c)(1)(B)].

- The amount (this may be presented in the aggregate or by type) and types of credits, including rebates of interest or credit service charges, to which the obligor is known to be entitled and which are not reflected in the amount in Com. Code § 9616(c)(1) [Com. Code § 9616(c)(5)]. Rebates of interest or credit service charge may be included in the aggregate amount of obligations secured under Com. Code § 9616(c)(1) or with other types of rebates and credits under Com. Code § 9616(c)(5). Rebates of interest and credit service charges are the only type of rebates for which this discretion is provided. If the secured party provides and explanation that includes rebates of pre-computed interest, its explanation must so indicate [see UCC Comment 3. to Com. Code § 9616].

- The aggregate amount of the obligations after deducting the amount of proceeds [Com. Code § 9616(c)(3)].

- The amount of the surplus or deficiency [Com. Code § 9616(c)(6)].

- If applicable, a statement that future debits, credits, charges, including additional credit service charges or interest, rebates, and expenses may affect the amount of the surplus or deficiency [Com. Code § 9616(a)(1)(C)].

- A telephone number or mailing address from which additional information concerning the transaction is available [Com. Code § 9616(a)(1)(D)].

[4] When Explanation Must Be Sent

In a consumer-goods transaction in which the debtor is entitled to a surplus or a consumer obligor is liable for a deficiency under Com. Code § 9615, the secured party must send an explanation to the debtor or consumer obligor, as applicable, after the disposition and either (1) before or when the secured party accounts to the debtor and pays any surplus or first makes written demand on the consumer obligor after the disposition for payment of the deficiency [Com. Code § 9616(b)(1)(A)], or (2) within 14 days after receipt of a request [Com. Code § 9616(b)(1)(B)].

The secured party need not send an explanation to a consumer obligor who is liable for a deficiency if the secured party instead sends the consumer obligor a record waiving the secured party's right to a deficiency. The waiver must be sent within 14 days after the secured party receives a request for an explanation [Com. Code § 9616(b)(2)].

"Request" means a record that is authenticated by a debtor or consumer obligor, requesting that the recipient provide an explanation, and is sent after collateral is disposed of under Com. Code § 9610 [Com. Code § 9616(a)(2)].

[5] Charge for Explanation

A debtor or consumer obligor is entitled without charge to one response to a request under Com. Code § 9616 during any six-month period in which the secured party did not send to the debtor or consumer obligor an explanation pursuant to Com. Code § 9616(b)(1). The secured party may require payment of a charge not exceeding $25 for each additional response [Com. Code § 9616(e)].

[6] Liability for Failure to Provide Explanation

A secured party who fails to provide the explanation is liable for damages for noncompliance under Com. Code § 9625(b)-(d), discussed in § 503.29. In addition, a secured party whose failure to comply with Com. Code § 9616(b)(1) is part of a pattern, or consistent with a practice, of noncompliance is liable for an additional $500 in statutory damages [Com. Code § 9625(e)(5)], as is a secured party who fails to comply with Com. Code § 9616(b)(2) [Com. Code § 9625(e)(6)].

[2] Use of Form

The complaint in [1], above, is for use by a secured party who, after default of the debtor, has disposed of the collateral, but has not realized sufficient amounts to satisfy the underlying obligation plus expenses, to obtain a deficiency judgment against the debtor or a secondary obligor [see Com. Code §§ 9615(d)(2), (e)(1)(B), 9626; see discussions in § 503.27[5], [7], and [10]].

Use of this form is only appropriate if the secured party has given notice of sale as required by Com. Code §§ 9611-9614 [see Com. Code § 9626(b)(2)(B); discussion in § 503.27[5][b]]. Although Com. Code § 9610(b) requires every aspect of a disposition of collateral, including the method, manner, time, place, and other terms, to be commercially reasonable and to be conducted in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner [see Com. Code § 9627 (indicia of commercial reasonableness); discussion in § 503.27[5][a]], the secured party has to prove that it acted in compliance with the provisions of Com. Code §§ 9601-9629 (default) only if the underlying transaction is a consumer transaction [Com. Code § 9626(b)(1)(A), (2)(C); see discussion in § 503.27[7][b][i]], or if the debtor or a secondary obligor has placed the secured party's compliance in issue [Com. Code § 9626(a)(1); see discussion in § 503.27[7][a][i]]. Hence, Paragraph 8 need only be used in a consumer transaction or to anticipate debtor's response.

If the underlying transaction is a consumer transaction, a deficiency may be prohibited by the security agreement or the Retail Installment Sales Act (Civ. Code § 1801 et seq.), particularly Civ. Code § 1812.5, or any other statute [see Com. Code § 9626(b)(2)(A) (discussed in § 503.27[7][b][ii])], such as the Rees-Levering Motor Vehicle Sales and Finance Act (Civ. Code § 2981 et seq.), discussed in [4], below. If the underlying transaction is a consumer transaction and the secured party does not prove that the debtor and any secondary obligor were given notice, in accordance with Com. Code §§ 9611-9612, 9614, and that the disposition of the collateral was conducted in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner, the secured party cannot recover a deficiency [Com. Code § 9626(b)(2)(B)-(C); see discussion in § 503.27[7][b][ii]].

In a transaction other than a consumer transaction, if the debtor or obligor has placed the secured party's compliance in issue and the secured party fails to prove that the disposition of the collateral was conducted in accordance with the provisions of Com. Code §§ 9601-9629, the liability of a debtor or a secondary obligor for a deficiency is limited to an amount by which the secured party is undercollateralized, that is, the amount by which the sum of the secured obligation, expenses, and attorney's fees exceeds the greater of either (1) the proceeds of the collection, enforcement, disposition, or acceptance, or (2) the amount of proceeds that would have been realized had the noncomplying secured party proceeded in accordance with the provisions of Com. Code §§ 9601-9629 [Com. Code § 9626(a)(3); see also Com. Code § 9626(a)(4); discussion in § 503.27[7][a][ii]].

An additional limitation in the calculation of the amount of any deficiency may be imposed if the secured party, a person related to the secured party, or a secondary obligor purchased the collateral at the disposition. In a consumer transaction, the secured party has to prove that the amount of proceeds of the disposition is not significantly below the range of prices that a complying disposition to a person other than the secured party, a person related to the secured party, or a secondary obligor would have brought [Com. Code § 9626(b)(3)].

In a transaction other than a consumer transaction, if the debtor or obligor proves that the amount of proceeds of a disposition to the secured party, a person related to the secured party, or a secondary obligor, is significantly below the range of prices that a complying disposition to a person other than the secured party, a person related to the secured party, or a secondary obligor would have brought [Com. Code § 9626(a)(5)], the deficiency will be calculated based on the amount of proceeds that would have been realized in a complying disposition complying to a transferee other than the secured party, a person related to the secured party, or a secondary obligor [Com. Code § 9615(f)].

[3] Allegations

The complaint in [1], above, alleges that:

- All requirements for notice of sale were properly observed (Paragraph 7) [Com. Code §§ 9611-9614; see discussion in § 503.27[5][b]]. Although the California Commercial Code no longer requires that notice of public disposition be published, UCC Comment 7. to Com. Code § 9610, discussed in § 503.27[5][a] suggests that advertisement is one indication that there was a meaningful opportunity for competitive bidding.

- The sale was conducted in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner, giving the principal details, and was held as legally prescribed (Paragraphs 8, 9) [Com. Code §§ 9610(b), 9627, discussed in § 503.27[5][a]]. As noted at [2], above, and further discussed in § 503.27[7][a][i] and [b][i], [ii], the secured party has the burden of proving that it acted in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner, only if the underlying transaction is a consumer transaction [Com. Code § 9626(b)(1)(A), (2)(C)], or if the debtor or a secondary obligor has placed the secured party's compliance in issue [Com. Code § 9626(a)(1)]. Thus, counsel may wish not to include allegations regarding that issue. Whether the purchaser was the secured party, a person related to the secured party, or a secondary obligor may effect how the deficiency is calculated [see Com. Code §§ 9615(f), 9626(a)(5), (b)(3), discussed in [2], above, and at § 503.27[5][d], [7][a][iii], [b][i], [iii], [iv]; see also Clark v. EZN, Inc. (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 852, 857-859, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 403 (under former Com. Code § 9504(2)(c) trial court correctly imputed fair sales price on sale to secured party that was publicized without notice to distributors who were most likely bidders)].

- The amounts realized were allocated according to law, leaving a deficiency still to be collected (Paragraph 10) [Com. Code § 9615, discussed in § 503.27[5][c] -[g]; see also U.S. Roofing, Inc. v. Credit Alliance Corp. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1431, 1453, 279 Cal. Rptr. 533 (once secured party has repossessed collateral, debtor is no longer obligated to make payments under security agreement; imposition of late charges and inclusion of late charges in deficiency for period after repossession is error)]. If the underlying transaction was a consumer goods transaction, at the time the secured party demands the amount of the deficiency from the debtor or any secondary obligor, it must provide an explanation in accordance with Com. Code § 9616 of how that deficiency was calculated. For a form for such an explanation, see § 503.122.

[4] Disposition Pursuant to Rees-Levering Act

The California Supreme Court has held that to obtain a deficiency judgment, a secured creditor who sells a defaulting debtor's repossessed car must comply the provisions of the Rees-Levering Motor Vehicle Sales and Finance Act [Civ. Code § 2981 et seq.; see Ch. 89, Automobiles: Sales and Financing Under the Rees-Levering Act] as well as any relevant provisions in Division 9 of the Commercial Code [Bank of America v. Lallana (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 203, 210, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 910, 960 P.2d 1133] . The legislation enacting revised Division 9 specifies that the holding in Bank of America v. Lallana will remain undisturbed [see Stats 2000, ch. 188, § 2, discussed in § 503.27[5][b][v]]. Civ. Code § 2983.2(a) requires a creditor to give the debtor written notice of its intent to dispose of a repossessed car. That section specifies that except as otherwise provided in Civ. Code § 2983.8, the debtor will be liable for any deficiency after disposition of the repossessed motor vehicle if the creditor gives the debtor requisite timely notice and provides information specified by the statute. Civ. Code § 2983.8 provides that no deficiency judgment will lie after any sale or other disposition of a motor vehicle unless the court has determined that the sale or other disposition was in conformity with the provisions of both the Rees-Levering Act and the relevant provisions of Division 9, including Com. Code §§ 9610, 9611, 9612, 9613, 9614, 9615, and 9626. In Bank of America v. Lallana, the debtor's car was sold at a public auction, which the Court concluded was a public sale [Bank of America v. Lallana (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 203, 212-213, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 910, 960 P.2d 1133] . The court determined that the secured creditor gave proper notice pursuant to the Rees-Levering Act but because it failed to give the debtor proper notice of a public sale pursuant to former Com. Code §

9504(3) (notice of both the time and place of sale), it was precluded from obtaining a deficiency judgment [Bank of America v. Lallana (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 203, 214-215, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 910, 960 P.2d 1133] . For a complaint for deficiency judgment alleging compliance with the notice provisions of both the Rees-Levering Act and Division 9, see Ch. 89, Automobiles: Sales and Financing Under the Rees-Levering Act , Form 89.80.

[5] Statute of Limitations

Suit for deficiency after sale of repossessed collateral is barred if brought more than four years after breach of the underlying agreement [Massey-Ferguson Credit Corp. v. Casaulong (1976) 62 Cal. App. 3d 1024, 1027, 133 Cal. Rptr. 497 ; see also KMAP, Inc. v. Town & Country Broadcasters, Inc. (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 544, 546-548, 122 Cal. Rptr. 420 (suit for deficiency after sale of collateral, which collateral was obtained by earlier suit for possession after default of debtor, does not constitute splitting of single cause of action barring subsequent deficiency suit, because two different causes of action are involved: right to improve security on default, and right to satisfaction of remaining debt after exhaustion of collateral)].

[1] FORM Allegations for Use in Complaint for Deficiency Remaining After Collection by Secured Party of Accounts or Payment Obligations [Com. Code §§ 9607, 9608, 9626]

[EITHER, if collateral is account, chattel paper, payment intangible, promissory note, or other payment obligation]

1. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff notified the _____ [account debtor(s) on the account(s) or obligor(s) under the _____ (specify type of payment obligation, e.g, promissory note(s)], assigned by defendant to plaintiff as collateral, to make payment to plaintiff until further notice. A true copy of this notice is attached as Exhibit _____ and incorporated by reference. [At all times in undertaking to collect these _____ (accounts or specify type of payment obligation, e.g, promissory note(s)), plaintiff has proceeded in a commercially reasonable manner, namely: _____ (describe collection process, e.g., plaintiff telephoned each account debtor to follow up on the notice, arranged a time for and manner of collection as to each account debtor, and proceeded to enforce collection as arranged, by mail or by personal appearance of plaintiff at the account debtor's premises.] Plaintiff to date has fully collected on certain _____ [specify, e.g., accounts], has only realized partial collections on others, and has received nothing on still others, all as described in the schedule of notices and collections attached as Exhibit _____ and incorporated by this reference]. The total amount thus collected was $_____. On or about _____ [date], pursuant to the (security) agreement under which plaintiff _____ [may charge back collateral to or has _____ (full or limited) recourse against] defendant, plaintiff reassigned the remaining _____ [accounts or specify other obligation, e.g, note(s)], to the extent uncollected, to defendant and notified all parties obligated thereunder to thereafter pay defendant, which notice is attached as Exhibit _____ and incorporated by reference.

[OR, if collateral is deposit account]

1. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff notified _____ [name], the bank at which the deposit account which is collateral is maintained, to pay the balance of that account _____ [to or for the benefit of] plaintiff. A true copy of that notice is attached as Exhibit _____ and incorporated by reference.

[CONTINUE]

[2. Although plaintiff's collection of the collateral was not conducted in a commercially reasonable manner, the amount realized by plaintiff on the collection of the collateral was equal to the amount that would have been realized had the collection been conducted in a commercially reasonable manner.]

[3. Defendant did not enter into the secured transaction described in this complaint primarily for personal, family, or household purposes and/or the collateral was not held or acquired by defendant primarily for personal, family, or household purposes (continue if known, e.g., but to carry on its business as a shoe manufacturer).]

4. The amount realized on the collection [and/or enforcement] of the collateral was applied by plaintiff as follows [list as appropriate]:

(a) $_____ for expenses of collection [and/or enforcement];

(b) $_____ for attorney's fees and related legal expenses, as provided for under the (security) agreement and not prohibited by law;

(c) $_____ toward satisfaction of the obligation(s) secured by the security interest or agricultural lien under which collection [and/or enforcement] was made. Thus, there remains, as a deficiency after collection [and/or enforcement] of the collateral, the amount of $_____ for [expenses and] satisfaction of the obligation which is still due, owing, and unpaid [add if underlying transaction was other than sale of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangible(s), or promissory note(s) (unless agreement provides for interest) together with interest thereon, from and after _____ (date), to date of judgment, at the rate of _____ percent per annum]. No part of that amount has been paid although plaintiff has demanded it from the defendant. [If transaction was a consumer goods transaction, add: At the time plaintiff made that demand of defendant, plaintiff provided defendant an explanation of how that deficiency was calculated. A true copy of that explanation is attached as Exhibit _____ and incorporated by this reference.]

[2] Use of Form

The allegations in [1], above, are for use by a secured party instead of Paragraphs 7-11 of the form in § 503.123[1] to obtain a deficiency judgment [see Com. Code § 9626, discussed in § 503.27[7]] when the collateral involved was accounts or other payment obligations that were collected or enforced by the secured party after the debtor's default [see Com. Code §§ 9607, 9608, discussed in § 503.27[3]], rather than collateral that was disposed of in accordance with Com. Code § 9610. If the underlying transaction was a sale of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes, rather than an assignment or other arrangement for security, the secured party is not entitled to any deficiency [Com. Code § 9608(b)]. Alternative Paragraphs 1 provide for only the most common types of collateral that may be collected in accordance with Com. Code § 9608.

As with other collateral, although Com. Code § 9607(c) requires a secured party who undertakes to collect from or enforce an obligation of an account debtor or other person obligated on collateral to proceed in a commercially reasonable manner if it is entitled to charge back uncollected collateral or otherwise to full or limited recourse against the debtor or a secondary obligor [see Western Decor & Furnishings Industries, Inc. v. Bank of America (1979) 91

Cal. App. 3d 293, 303-305, 154 Cal. Rptr. 287 (example of commercially reasonable collection under prior law)], the secured party has to prove that it acted in a commercially reasonable manner in collecting and enforcing the collateral only if the underlying transaction is a consumer transaction [Com. Code § 9626(b)(1)(A), (2)(C); see discussion in § 503.27[7][b][i]], or if the debtor or a secondary obligor has placed the secured party's compliance in issue [Com. Code § 9626(a)(1); see discussion in § 503.27[7][a][i]]. Hence, the bracketed allegations in Paragraph 1 of this form with respect to commercial reasonableness need only be used in a consumer transaction or to anticipate the debtor's response.

In a transaction other than a consumer transaction (optional Paragraph 3), if the debtor or obligor has placed commercial reasonableness in issue and the secured party fails to prove that its collection or enforcement of the collateral was conducted in accordance with the provisions of Com. Code §§ 9601-9629 (optional Paragraph 2), the liability of a debtor or a secondary obligor for a deficiency is limited to an amount by which the secured party is undercollateralized, that is, the amount by which the sum of the secured obligation, expenses, and attorney's fees exceeds the greater of either (1) the proceeds of the collection or enforcement or (2) the amount of proceeds that would have been realized had the noncomplying secured party proceeded in accordance with Com. Code §§ 9601-9629 [Com. Code § 9626(a)(3); see also Com. Code § 9626(a)(4); discussion in § 503.27[7][a][ii]].

The cash proceeds of collection are to be applied as set forth in Paragraph 4 [see Com. Code § 9608, set forth in § 503.27[3]].

The complaint in [1], above, alleges:

- Plaintiff's or cross complainant's security or other agreement (or lease) with the defendant or cross defendant debtor giving a security interest in or agricultural lien on particular collateral (Paragraph 3).
- Defendant's or cross defendant's claim to some type of competing interest therein (Paragraph 4).
- The actual controversy as to which interest is superior (Paragraph 5).

[4] Availability of Declaratory Relief

Anyone who is interested under a contract or who desires a declaration of his or her rights or duties with respect to another or in respect to, in, over, or on property, in cases of actual controversy relating to the legal rights and duties of the respective parties, may bring an original action in the superior court or, along with an answer to a complaint, file a cross complaint in a pending action in a court for a declaration of those rights and duties in the premises, including a determination of any question of construction or validity arising under the instrument or contract. The pleading may ask for a declaration of rights or duties, either alone or with other relief; and the court may make a binding declaration of those rights or duties, whether or not further relief is or could be claimed at the time. The declaration may be had before there has been any breach of the obligation in respect to which the declaration is sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060].

For discussion and forms for applying for declaratory relief with respect to controversy among parties, see Ch. 182, Declaratory Relief .

[2] Use of Form

The complaint in [1], above, is for use by a secured party with a perfected nonpurchase money security interest in, or agricultural lien on, collateral to bring an action to obtain possession of the collateral, or its value, from another secured party with a perfected non-purchase money security interest in, or agricultural lien on, the same collateral of their mutual debtor. Because plaintiff filed its financing statement covering the collateral before defendant filed [see Com. Code § 9509(a)-(c) (when financing statement may be filed; in case of agricultural lien that is not yet effective, debtor must authorize filing)], plaintiff's interest in or lien on the collateral takes priority over defendant's interest or lien, even though defendant's security interest or agricultural lien was the first to attach to the collateral [see Com. Code §§ 9203, 9322(a)(1); Borg-Warner Acceptance Corp. v. Bank of Marin (1973) 36 Cal. App. 3d 286, 287-289, 111 Cal. Rptr. 361 (security interest of secured party who filed financing statement first took priority over that of party who filed subsequently, when party filing subsequently had opportunity to inform itself of earlier security interest and when listing of debtor's business name on earlier financing statement was not so different from its later corporate name as to seriously mislead party filing subsequently); for further discussion of priorities, see § 503.24[2]].

This form is loosely based on based on U.C.C. Comment 4, Example 1, to Com. Code § 9322, which is set forth in § 503.24[2][a]. The form may be modified for use in other situations in which the interest of the secured party who is the first to file will take priority over that of the secured party whose interest is the first to attach but who is the last to file [see Com. Code § 9322(a)(1)].

If the security interest of the party who files later is a purchase money security interest, that party has priority under Com. Code § 9324(a) if the collateral is not inventory, and priority under Com. Code § 9324(b) if the collateral is inventory and the party has properly notified the party who filed first [see discussions in §§ 503.40[5][c] -[e] (goods other than inventory), 503.41[2] (inventory)]. For a complaint for possession of inventory collateral by a purchase money secured party, see § 503.132.

[3] Allegations

The complaint in [1], above, alleges:

- The filing of plaintiff's financing statement (Paragraph 4) [see Com. Code §§ 9309, 9322(a)(1), 9509].

- Plaintiff's and debtor's material obligations under plaintiff's security or other agreement with debtor

- Debtor's default by granting defendant a security interest or agricultural line and defendant's filing to perfect that interest or lien (Paragraphs 8, 9) [see Com. Code § 9509].

- Plaintiff's full performance of its obligations under the agreement (Paragraph 10) [see Com. Code §§ 9201, 9203].

- Defendant's possession to the collateral, plaintiff's demand for possession of the collateral, and defendant's refusal or failure to transfer it (Paragraph 11).

- The reasonable value of the collateral in defendant's possession (Paragraph 12).

[4] Information Concerning and Copies of Current Filings

Interested parties may obtain information concerning, and certified copies of, existing financing statements and related documents on file from the office of the California Secretary of State [see Com. Code § 9523(c)-(f)]. The Secretary of State has adopted a standard form for submission of these requests, known as "Uniform Commercial Code Form-UCC-11" (known generally as "UCC-11"). The form is available from the office of the Secretary of State and may be downloaded from the Secretary of State's website at http://www.sos.ca.gov/business/ucc/information-request.htm or purchased at many office supply stores. [2] Use of Form

The complaint in [1], above, is for use by a secured party with a perfected purchase money security interest in inventory collateral to bring an action to obtain possession of the collateral, or its value, from a secured party with a perfected nonpurchase money security interest in the same inventory collateral of their mutual debtor. Because plaintiff has a purchase money security interest in the debtor's inventory, plaintiff's security interest takes priority over defendant's conflicting security interest in the same inventory if plaintiff meets all of the requirements of Com. Code § 9324(b), (c) [see Com. Code § 9324(b), (c), discussed in § 503.41[2]; see also discussion in § 503.24[2][c]].

In this form, plaintiff/secured party's purchase money security interest is based on a tripartite transaction between a secured party, a seller, and a debtor; in which plaintiff, the purchase money secured party, pays the purchase price of its debtor's inventory to a seller and takes, in return,negotiable bills of lading (Paragraphs 4-6). Plaintiff then delivers the bills of lading to its debtor (Paragraph 9). Having obtained possession of the bills of lading or the inventory, the debtor then violates its security agreement with plaintiff by entering into a security agreement with defendant secured party, granting defendant an interest in inventory in which plaintiff already has a security interest (Paragraph 11).

In this transaction, plaintiff obtains temporary perfection of its interest through possession of the tangible negotiable documents [Com. Code § 9313(a)] (Paragraph 9), and then has 20 days after delivery of the bills of lading to the debtor in which it must file a financing statement in order to continue its perfection [Com. Code § 9312(c), (f); see § 503.48[1][b]] (Paragraph 13). Even though defendant may have filed a financing statement before plaintiff, and even though defendant had no notice of plaintiff's security interest, record or otherwise, plaintiff will have a prior perfected interest if it complies with the requirements of Com. Code § 9324(b) [Com. Code § 9324(b), (c); see § 503.41[2]].

The form may be modified for use in other situations in which purchase money security interests in inventory are created.

[3] Allegations

The complaint in [1], above, alleges:

- The existence and execution of both plaintiff's and defendant's security agreements, and the existence and filing of both plaintiff's and defendant's financing statements (Paragraphs 5, 11, 12, and 13) [see Com. Code §§ 9308(a),(c), 9312, 9324(b), (c)].

- Either that prior secured parties did not exist or that plaintiff notified the prior secured party of plaintiff's purchase money security interest within five years before debtor received possession of the inventory (alternative Paragraphs 10) [see Com. Code § 9324(b)(2)-(4), (c); see also discussion in § 503.131[4]].

- Plaintiff's and debtor's material obligations under plaintiff's security agreement (Paragraphs 6 and 7).

- Plaintiff's full performance (Paragraphs 8, 9, and 10).

- The debtor's default (Paragraph 11).

- Plaintiff's demand for possession of the collateral and defendant's refusal or failure to transfer it (Paragraph 14).

- The reasonable value of the collateral in defendant's possession (Paragraph 15).

The complaint includes an optional allegation of the existence of a contract between the seller and debtor to establish the debtor's rights in the collateral before he or she takes delivery from plaintiff secured party (optional Paragraph 4) [see Com. Code § 9203(a), (b)(2) (security interest does not attach and is not enforceable against debtor or third parties, unless debtor has rights in collateral and other specified conditions are met)].

5. Thereafter, and on or about _____ [date; if notification was required to have been sent to secured party, set forth a date within five years after delivery of it], intervenor delivered the goods, which are not consumer goods, to _____ [name of debtor] at his/her/its place of business, called _____ [name of business], at _____ [address], under a consignment, for sale of the goods to _____ [specify, e.g., the retail public or wholesalers or others]. _____ [name of debtor] deals in goods of that kind, is not an auctioneer, and is not generally known by its creditors to be substantially engaged in selling the goods of others. The goods delivered by intervenor had an aggregate value of $_____. The proceeds of this sale were to be remitted to intervenor less an agreed commission. This consignment was not a security interest.

6. The other parties claim an interest adverse to intervenor's rights in these goods by the terms of their security agreement and threaten to deliver the goods to _____ [secured party] or to otherwise dispose of the goods. Each has refused and failed to deliver the goods to intervenor although demand has been made therefor, and threaten intervenor with loss of the goods or proceeds thereof by virtue of _____'s [secured party] attempt to possess or foreclose on the goods. The present value of these goods is approximately $_____.

WHEREFORE, intervenor prays judgment against _____[secured party] and _____ [debtor] as follows:

1. For an order determining that the ownership interest in the goods of intervenor is superior to that of either of the other parties in this action, by virtue of a valid consignment and to the extent of the terms thereof;

2. For damages in the amount of $_____ on any disposition of such goods by the other parties, or either of them;

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

The complaint in [1], above, is for use by a consignor of goods who has properly complied with the filing and, if relevant, notification, procedure relating to consignments, to protect his or her right to the goods or their proceeds over those of a secured creditor of the consignee [see Com. Code §§ 9102(a)(20), 2326(2), 9324(b), (c); see also discussions in §§ 503.11[7], 503.46; Fariba v. Dealer Servs. Corp. (2009) 178 Cal. App. 4th 156, 172-173, 100 Cal. Rptr. 3d 219 (trial court properly instructed jury that possession as between competing claimants to goods in inventory at premises of consignment merchant is accomplished when one with right to possess accomplishes actual custody and control of those goods under all circumstances demonstrated by evidence; wholesaler that had consigned used vehicles to dealer was entitled to possession of them after dealer went out of business, and consignor had actual custody and control of those vehicles by virtue of having keys to them in hand, even after vehicles were taken from dealer's premises by creditor that had security interest in dealer's inventory)].

[3] Application or Motion to Intervene Must Be Filed

Before filing a complaint for intervention, it is necessary to file an application to intervene or notice of motion to do so. Normally, the grounds of the application or motion may be referred to as being those set forth in the proposed complaint. The intervenor may choose to join the debtor as plaintiff or defendant in the main action in resisting the claims of the secured party, or may file adversely to both of them [see Code Civ. Proc. § 387]. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 395, Parties .

If the person seeking intervention claims an interest relating to the property which is the subject of the action, and that person is so situated that the disposition of the action may as a practical matter impair or impede that person's ability to protect that interest, unless that person's interest is adequately represented by existing parties, the court must, on timely application, permit that person to intervene [Code Civ. Proc. § 387]. Thus, if the consignor claiming an ownership interest in the goods superior to that of the consignee or a secured party of the consignee is aware of the fact that the secured party is attempting to possess or foreclose on the goods, the consignor may wish to intervene in an action for possession or foreclosure in order to best protect the consignor's interest under the consignment.

[4] Allegations

The complaint in [1], above, alleges in pertinent part:

- That the consignor filed a financing statement (Paragraph 3) [see Com. Code § 9505].

- That the consignor sent notification of the intended consignment to any secured party having previously filed a financing statement covering the type of goods consigned (Paragraph 4) [see Com. Code § 9324(b)(2), (4), (c)].

- The subsequent consignment by consignor to consignee and description of the parties and transaction as one that is governed by Division 9 (Paragraph 5) [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(20)].

- The threatened loss of goods or proceeds (Paragraph 6) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 387].

[5] Alternative Remedy of Third-Party Claim

Once tangible or intangible personal property has been levied on in an action by a secured party against the debtor under a particular security agreement, whether or not it is then in the actual possession of the levying officer, a third party who claims a superior interest in the collateral under that security agreement may lodge a third-party claim. The third party, such as one who claims to be the owner or to have a priority perfected security interest, may claim the property by a written claim verified personally or by agent, setting out the reasonable value of the property and the claimant's title and right to possession. On delivery of the claim, the levying officer will release the property unless the person ordering the levy puts up an undertaking to continue execution. A hearing procedure is available for the parties to prosecute their claims to the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.310 et seq.].

[2] Use of Form

The complaint in [1], above, is for use by a purchaser of chattel paper [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(11), defining chattel paper, set forth in § 503.11[5]] to obtain damages and to quiet its title to the chattel paper, as against a secured party with a prior perfected security interest in the paper as either inventory or proceeds [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 760.010-764.080; Com. Code § 9330; see Com. Code § 9102(a)(72)(D) (purchaser of chattel paper is secured party); discussions in §§ 503.50, 503.52]. The allegations related to tangible chattel paper, but the form can be modified for use with electronic chattel paper [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(31), defining electronic chattel paper, set forth in § 503.11[5]] by changing the allegations in Paragraphs 8 and second alternative Paragraph 12 to refer to taking plaintiff's taking control of the chattel paper [see Com. Code § 9105, discussed in § 503.50[1][b]], rather than taking possession of it, and to there being no indication on the authoritative copy of the electronic record of anyone other than plaintiff as secured party (first alternative Paragraph 12).

This form may be used, for example, when a dealer enters into a security agreement with an inventory financer (usually a bank or financing agency) in which the dealer grants the inventory financer a security interest in the dealer's inventory and all the proceeds on sale of the inventory. The transaction may be tripartite (the inventory financer takes a purchase money security interest, and the transaction involves the dealer's seller as the third party) or bipartite (the inventory financer takes a nonpurchase money security interest, and the transaction involves only the dealer and the inventory financer). The dealer then sells an item from its inventory to a purchaser in the ordinary course of business, retaining a security interest, in the form of a conditional sales contract, in the goods sold to assure payment of the credit obligation. The dealer then assigns this conditional sales contract, together with the security agreement and promissory note (these documents are known collectively as chattel paper), to a third party (usually a bank or financing agency). Often, the sale of the goods and assignment of chattel paper are contemporaneous, with the assignee ordinarily checking and approving the purchaser's credit beforehand.

If plaintiff intends to name unknown persons as defendants, before commencing the action it is recommended that plaintiff have searches done for other filings, assignments, or security interests regarding the chattel paper and the property on which that paper imposes a security interest, because in such an action, all persons having adverse claims that are of record or known to plaintiff or reasonably apparent from an inspection of the property must be named as defendants [see Code Civ. Proc. § 762.060(b)].

[3] Allegations

[a] Priority of Purchaser of Chattel Paper

The complaint in [1], above, alleges:

- The existence and identification of the chattel paper (Paragraphs 5, 9) [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(11)].

- Plaintiff's purchase of the chattel paper for new value and plaintiff's possession of the chattel paper in the ordinary course of its business (Paragraphs 6-8) [see Com. Code § 9330(a), (b)].

- Defendant secured party's perfected security interest in the chattel paper (Paragraphs 10, 11) [see Com. Code § 9330].

- Either the lack of any indication on the chattel paper that it had been assigned to anyone other than plaintiff [Com. Code § 9330(a)] (first alternative Paragraph 12), or plaintiff's lack of knowledge that the purchase/assignment violated the secured party's rights (second alternative Paragraph 12) [see Com. Code § 9330(b), (f)].

- The market value of the chattel paper (Paragraph 14).

- Plaintiff's damages (Paragraph 15).

[b] Quiet Title Action

A complaint in an action to quiet title in tangible personal property must allege the following:

- Defendants who have adverse claims to the title of the plaintiff against which a determination is sought (Paragraph 1) [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.010; for discussion of special requirements for naming parties in quiet title actions, see Ch. 482, Quieting Title].

- The adverse claims of unknown defendants if these defendants have been so named (Paragraph 3) [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 762.020(a), 762.060].

- A description of the property which is the subject of the action and its usual location (Paragraphs 5, 9) [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(a)].

- The title of plaintiff as to which a determination is sought, together with the basis of the title (Paragraphs 6, 16) [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(b)].

- The adverse claims to plaintiff's title against which a determination is sought (Paragraph 16) [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 761.020(c)].

- That the claim (or part of it) of a person required to be named as a defendant is unknown, uncertain, or contingent, if this is so (optional Paragraph 13) [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.020(b)].

- That the uncertainty, contingency, or lack of knowledge is caused by a transfer to an unborn or unascertained person or class member; or by a transfer in the form of a contingent remainder, vested remainder subject to defeasance, executory interest, or similar disposition, if this is so; and, if so, the name, age, and legal disability (if any) of the person who would be entitled to the claim had the contingency on which the claim depends occurred prior to the commencement of the action (optional Paragraph 13) [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.020(b)].

- The date as of which the determination is sought, and if the determination is sought as of a date other than the date the complaint is filed, a statement of the reasons why a determination as of that date is sought (Paragraph 17) [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(d)].

- A prayer for the determination of plaintiff's title against the adverse claims (Paragraph 1 of prayer) [Civ. Code § 761.020(e)].

If plaintiff admits the validity of any adverse claim, the complaint must so state (Paragraph 16) [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.060(c)].

The complaint in [1], above, does not contain any allegations regarding defendants who are personal representatives [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(a)] or heirs and intestate or testate successors [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(b)] of persons known or believed by the plaintiff to be deceased. If those defendants are necessary in your particular situation, use the appropriate allegations from Ch. 482, Quieting Title , Form 1.

Optional Paragraph 4 names fictitious defendants pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 474 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 760.060 (rules governing civil actions generally as applicable in quiet title actions unless they are inconsistent with quiet title provisions)].

For discussion, a procedural checklist, and additional forms for use in bringing quiet title actions, see Ch. 482, Quieting Title .

[4] Verification Necessary

A complaint for an action to quiet title must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020].

[5] Priority of Purchaser of Chattel Paper

Although perfection by filing is permitted as to chattel paper, certain purchasers of chattel paper who take possession of the chattel paper take free of other security interests in the chattel paper, even those that have been perfected by filing [see Com. Code § 9330; § 503.50[3]; Chrysler Credit Corp. v. Superior Court (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 1303, 1313, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 37 (one who takes chattel mortgage is protected against prior equities, such as third party's ownership of collateral, only if he or she takes mortgage for valuable consideration and without notice)].

[6] Quiet Title Action

[a] Jurisdiction and Venue

The superior court has jurisdiction in quiet title actions as an unlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 580(b)(3), 760.040(a)]. Subject to the power of the court to transfer actions, the proper county for trial of an action to quiet title to personal property is the county in which, at the commencement of the action, the personal property is principally located or the defendants, or any of them, reside [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.050(b)].

[b] Service of Summons

The form, content, and manner of service of summons is the same as in civil actions generally [Code Civ. Proc. § 763.010(a)]. If unknown defendants are named, they must be served by publication and posting [Code Civ. Proc. § 763.010(b)]. For discussion of the requirements for service by publication and posting, see Ch. 482, Quieting Title . For discussion of the procedure for service of summons, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

(If modification, describe, e.g., In this modification agreement, plaintiff agreed that if defendant had not sold the goods by _____ (date), defendant could retain them in satisfaction of the entire obligation.)]

[OR]

[to redeem the collateral herein (if modification, describe, e.g., agreeing that the right to redeem could be exercised only by _____ (date)).]

[2] Use of Form

The affirmative defense in [1], above, is for use by a secured party in an answer to a complaint that alleges that it is not proceeding, or did not proceed, properly under the default law (Com. Code §§ 9601-9629). The defense is based on the fact that the secured party, after default, obtained an authenticated waiver or modification from the debtor or a secondary obligor waiving or varying in some manner the debtor's rights on default. There are only three situations in which waiver is permitted [see Com. Code § 9624 (discussed in § 503.28[2]]:

- A debtor or secondary obligor may waive the right to notification of disposition of collateral under Com. Code § 9611 [see discussion in § 503.27[5][b].

- A debtor may waive the right to require disposition of collateral under Com. Code § 9620(e) [see discussion in § 503.42[5][a]].

- Except in a consumer-goods transaction, a debtor or secondary obligor may waive the right to redeem collateral under Com. Code § 9623 [see discussion in § 503.28[4]].

As to consumer goods, no waiver or modification is valid or enforceable unless it is in consideration of a waiver by the secured party of any right to a deficiency on the debt [Com. Code § 9629; compare Brunzell Construction Co., Inc. v. Smith (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 617, 622-623, 246 Cal. Rptr. 182 (neither former Com. Code § 9501(3), 9504, or 9505 prohibited individual guarantor of business obligation, after default, from consenting to entry of deficiency judgment against him or her)].

[2] Use of Form

The complaint in intervention in [1], above, is for use by the holder of an interest in the real property who claims a right in any fixtures therein senior to that of a secured party under a security agreement who is attempting to possess or foreclose on them [see Com. Code § 9334(a), (d), (e); see also discussions in §§ 503.47[6][a] and [b] (priorities as to fixtures), 503.133[3] and [5] (procedural aspects of, and alternative to, intervention); Civ. Code §§ 660, 1013.5, 1019; Com. Code § 9102(a)(41) (defining fixtures, discussed in § 503.47[2];]. Generally, Division 9 does not govern the creation or transfer of an interest in or lien on real property, including a lease or rents thereunder. However, exceptions exist to the extent that provision is made for fixtures by Com. Code § 9334 and for fixture filings by Com. Code §§ 9501, 9502, 9512, 9516, and 9519 [Com. Code § 9109(d)(11)].

[3] Allegations

The form in [1], above, alleges:

- Allowance of intervention in the main action by the court (Paragraph 1) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 387].
- Identification of the security arrangement between the main parties to the action (Paragraph 2).
- Intervenor's interest in the real estate and in all fixtures therein (Paragraphs 3, 4).
- Installation of the fixtures on the real property and intervenor's superior rights therein as against the threat of the secured party to possess or foreclose on them (Paragraphs 5, 6) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 387].

[2] Use of Form

The complaint in [1], above, is for use as either a complaint or cross complaint by a buyer in the ordinary course of business [see Com. Code § 1201(b)(9) (definition, dismissed in § 503.161[4])] to obtain a judicial declaration of his or her ownership of goods free of a security interest in the goods created by the seller [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060; Com. Code § 9320(a); see discussion in § 503.24[3]; see also Com. Code § 9323(d), (e) (priority of person buying other than in ordinary course of business, discussed in § 503.40[5][a])]. In conjunction with the action for declaratory relief, the complaint also seeks damages for the secured party's interference with the buyer's ownership interest in the goods. For discussion of jurisdiction of actions for declaratory relief, see § 503.130[5] [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(7), 580(b)(4), 1060].

The limitations of Com. Code § 9320(a) on persons who may take free of a security interest apply only to unauthorized sales by the debtor. If the secured party authorized the sale, in an express agreement or otherwise, the buyer takes free Com. Code § 9315(a) without regard to the limitations of Com. Code § 9320 [see U.C.C. Comment 6 to Com. Code § 9320].

[3] Allegations

The complaint in [1], above, alleges:

- Sale and delivery of goods to plaintiff (Paragraph 5).

- Plaintiff's status as a buyer in the ordinary course of business (Paragraphs 4, 5, 6, and 8) [see Com. Code § 1201(b)(9) (definition, at [4], below); see also Producers Cotton Oil Co. v Amstar Corp (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 638, 653-654, 242 Cal. Rptr. 914 ; U.C.C. Comment 3 to Com. Code § 9320 (read together, definition of buyer in the ordinary course of business and Com. Code § 9320(a) provide that buyer takes free of the security interest if he or she merely knows there is a security interest that covers the goods, but takes subject to the security interest if he or she knows the sale is in violation of some term of that security agreement)].

- Defendant secured party's claim of a security interest in and threatened interference with the goods (Paragraph 7).

- The actual controversy as to which interest is superior, together with the requirement of a judicial determination of the issues and the urgency of a judicial declaration to determine the status of plaintiff's interest (Paragraphs 9, 10, and 11) [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1060, 1061].

- Plaintiff's inability to deal in the goods because of defendant secured party's adverse claims against them (Paragraph 12).

- The market value of the goods (Paragraph 13).

[4] Buyer in Ordinary Course of Business Defined

"Buyer in ordinary course of business" means a person that buys goods in good faith, without knowledge that the sale violates the rights of another person in the goods, and in the ordinary course from a person, other than a pawnbroker, in the business of selling goods of that kind. A person buys goods in the ordinary course if the sale to the person comports with the usual or customary practices in the kind of business in which the seller is engaged or with the seller's own usual or customary practices. A person that sells oil, gas, or other minerals at the wellhead or minehead is a person in the business of selling goods of that kind. A buyer in the ordinary course of business may buy for cash, by exchange of other property, or on secured or unsecured credit, and may acquire goods or documents of title under a preexisting contract for sale. Only a buyer that takes possession of the goods or has a right to recover the goods from the seller under Division 2 [Com. Code § 2101 et seq.] may be a buyer in ordinary course of business. A person that acquires goods in a transfer in bulk or as security for or in total or partial satisfaction of a money debt is not a buyer in ordinary course of business [Com. Code § 1201(b)(9)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

44-504 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 504.10

§ 504.10 Definitions

[1] "Consumer"

The term "consumer" within the meaning of the Consumers Legal Remedies Act refers to an individual who seeks or acquires, by purchase or lease, any goods or services for personal, family, or household purposes [Civ. Code § 1761(d)]. A third-party beneficiary of a contract for such goods or services is not a "consumer" within the meaning of the Act [Schauer v. Mandarin Gems of California, Inc. (2005) 125 Cal. App. 4th 949, 960, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 233] .

To be covered by the Consumers Legal Remedies Act, acts alleged as a cause of action must have been undertaken by the defendant in a consumer transaction "intended to result or which results in the sale or lease of goods or services" [Civ. Code § 1770(a)]. The Consumers Legal Remedies Act is not applicable if a defendant's acts were undertaken in a consumer transaction intended to result in the sale of real property. For example, a demurrer to a cause of action under the act was properly sustained without leave to amend when the consumers alleged that lenders overcharged them for underwriting, tax services, and wire transfer fees in conjunction with home loans [McKell v. Washington Mutual, Inc. (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 1457, 1488, 49 Cal. Rptr. 3d 227] .

[2] "Disabled Person"

The term "disabled person," as used in the act, means any person who has a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits one or more major life activities [Civ. Code § 1761(g)]. The term "major life activities" means functions such as caring for one's self, performing manual tasks, walking, seeing, hearing, speaking, breathing, learning, and working [Civ. Code § 1761(g)(2)]. "Physical or mental impairment" means any of the following [Civ. Code § 1761(g)(1)]:

- Any physiological disorder or condition, cosmetic disfigurement, or anatomical loss substantially affecting one or more of the following body systems: neurological; musculoskeletal; special sense organs; respiratory, including speech organs; cardiovascular; reproductive; digestive; genitourinary; hemic and lymphatic; skin; or endocrine.

- Any mental or psychological disorder, such as mental retardation, organic brain syndrome, emotional or mental illness, and specific learning disabilities.

The term "physical or mental impairment" includes, but is not limited to, such diseases and conditions as orthopedic, visual, speech and hearing impairment, cerebral palsy, epilepsy, muscular dystrophy, multiple sclerosis, cancer, heart disease, diabetes, mental retardation, and emotional illness [Civ. Code § 1761(g)(1)].

[3] "Goods"

The term "goods," as used in the act, means tangible chattels bought for use primarily for personal, family, or household purposes, including certificates or coupons exchangeable for those goods, and including goods that, at the time of the sale or subsequently, are to be so affixed to real property as to become a part of this real property, whether or not severable from it [Civ. Code § 1761(a)].

[4] "Home Solicitation"

The term "home solicitation," as used in the act, means any transaction made at the consumer's primary residence, except those transactions initiated by the consumer [Civ. Code § 1761(h)]. However, a consumer response to an advertisement is not a home solicitation [Civ. Code § 1761(h)].

[5] "Person"

The term "person" means an individual, partnership, corporation, limited liability company, association, or other group, however organized [Civ. Code § 1761(c)].

[6] "Senior Citizen"

The term "senior citizen," as used in the act, means a person who is 65 years of age or older [Civ. Code § 1761(f)].

[7] "Services"

The term "services," as used in the act, means work, labor, and services for other than a commercial or business use, including services furnished in connection with the sale or repair of goods [Civ. Code § 1761(b); see Fairbanks v. Superior Court (2009) 46 Cal. 4th 56, 61, 92 Cal. Rptr. 3d 279, 205 P.3d 201 (insurer's contractual obligation to pay money under life insurance policy is not work or labor, nor is it related to sale or repair of any tangible chattel; therefore, life insurance policies are not services as defined in Consumers Legal Remedies Act)].

[8] "Transaction"

The term "transaction," as used in the act, means an agreement between a consumer and any other person, whether or not the agreement is a contract enforceable by action, and includes the making of, and the performance pursuant to, that agreement [Civ. Code § 1761(e)].

However, the act does not apply to a transaction on the construction, sale, or construction and sale of an entire residence or all or part of a structure designed for commercial or industrial occupancy, with or without a parcel of real property, including any site preparation incidental to that sale [Civ. Code § 1754].

Volume 44: Sales thru Sanitation and Sewerage Districts-Chs. 500-511
Chapter 504 SALES: CONSUMERS LEGAL REMEDIES ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

44-504 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 504.11

§ 504.11 Purposes of Act

[1] In General

The purpose of the Consumers Legal Remedies Act is to protect consumers against unfair and deceptive business practices, insulate responsible businesses from spurious or vexatious lawsuits, and to provide efficient and economical procedures to secure that protection [Pollard v. Ericsson, Inc. (2004) 125 Cal. App. 4th 214, 220, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 496 ; Kramer v. Intuit Inc. (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 574, 579, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 412] . The act is to be liberally construed and applied to promote its purposes [Civ. Code § 1760].

[2] Provisions Not Exclusive

The provisions of the Consumers Legal Remedies Act are not exclusive. The remedies provided in the act for violation of any section of the act or for conduct proscribed by any section of the act are in addition to any other procedures or remedies for any violation or conduct provided for in any other law [Civ. Code § 1752].

Because of the breadth of the unfair or deceptive acts or practices specified in Civ. Code § 1770 [see § 504.12, below], several possible remedies exist under other consumer legislation that should be considered in addition to the remedies provided under the act, including the following:

- The Dance and Health Studio Acts [Civ. Code § 1812.50 et seq. and Civ. Code § 1812.80 et seq., respectively], which are discussed in Ch. 128, Consumer Contracts: Statutes Regulating Specific Types of Contracts .

- Provisions regulating home solicitation contracts [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17500.3, 17533.8; Civ. Code § 1689.5 et seq.], unsolicited goods or services [Civ. Code §§ 1584.5, 1584.6, 1616], and discount buying services [*Civ. - The Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act [Civ. Code § 1790 et seq.] and the federal Magnuson-Moss Warranty-Federal Trade Commission Improvement Act [15 U.S.C. § 2301 et seq.] discussed in Ch. 502, Sales: Warranties .

[3] Waiver by Consumer Unenforceable and Void

A waiver by a consumer of the provisions of the act is contrary to public policy and is unenforceable and void [Civ. Code § 1751]. For example, in a case in which a forum selection clause designated Virginia as the jurisdiction in which all disputes arising out of the relationship would be litigated, the court held that because one of the causes of action sought class action relief under the Consumers Legal Remedies Act which voids any waiver of rights under the Act as contrary to public policy, enforcement of the clause would be the functional equivalent of a contractual waiver of the Act's statutory remedies and thus was prohibited under California law [America Online, Inc. v. Superior Court (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 1, 14-15, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 699 (also concluding that because Virginia law does not allow consumer lawsuits to be brought as class actions, rights of California class members would be diminished if they were required to litigate in Virginia); *accord Doe 1 v. AOL LLC (9th Cir. 2009) 552 F.3d 1077, 2009 U.S. App. LEXIS 875, at *15-19].

[4] Federal Preemption Issues

Federal law mandates that any state law or regulation "on disclosure of fuel economy or fuel operating costs for an automobile" may impose only the same disclosure requirements as federal law imposes, with respect to any automobile covered by federal disclosure requirements [49 U.S.C. § 32919(b)]. The Consumers Legal Remedies Act, insofar as it prohibits the use of "unfair or deceptive acts or practices" in sales of goods [Civ. Code § 1770(a); see § 504.12], is not a law "on disclosure of fuel economy or fuel operating costs for an automobile"; therefore, that federal preemptive mandate does not preclude application of the state law to a buyer's claim that an automobile manufacturer's statements, in a promotional brochure, relating to the fuel economy of a particular model were deceptive or misleading [Paduano v. American Honda Motor Co., Inc. (2009) 169 Cal. App. 4th 1453, 1478, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 90 (express preemption provisions in 49 U.S.C. § 32919 do not purport to take away state's power to regulate advertising of new vehicles, even when that advertising includes EPA mileage estimates, as long as state's regulation does not require manufacturer to provide fuel estimate different from EPA fuel economy estimate, or to make claims that go beyond, or are contrary to, what federal scheme requires)].

§ 504.12 Unlawful Practices

The following unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices, undertaken by any person in a transaction intended to result, or that results, in the sale or lease of goods to any consumer, are unlawful:

- Passing off goods or services as those of another [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(1)].

- Misrepresenting the source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods or services [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(2)].

- Misrepresenting the affiliation, connection, or association with, or certification by, another [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(3)].

(9th Cir. 2008) 523 F.3d 934, 940* (reasonable consumers buying boxed snack food for children should not be expected to look beyond misleading representations on front of box in order to discover truth from ingredients list in small print on side of box); Consumer Advocates v. Echostar Satellite Corp. (2003) 113 Cal. App. 4th 1351, 1353-1354, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 22 (finding triable issues on whether provider of satellite TV service violated Civ. Code § 1770(a)(5) with representations concerning number of channels and program schedule)].

- Representing that goods are original or new if they have deteriorated unreasonably or are altered, reconditioned, reclaimed, used, or secondhand [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(6)].

- Representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(7); see, e.g., Williams v. Gerber Prods. Co. (9th Cir. 2008) 523 F.3d 934, 940 (reasonable consumers buying boxed snack food for children should not be expected to look beyond misleading representations on front of box in order to discover truth from ingredients list in small print on side of box); Consumer Advocates v. Echostar Satellite Corp. (2003) 113 Cal. App. 4th 1351, 1353-1354, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 22 (finding triable issues of fact on whether provider of satellite TV service violated Civ. Code § 1770(a)(7) with representations concerning number of channels and program schedule)].

- Disparaging the goods, services, or business of another by false or misleading representation of fact [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(8)].

- Advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(9); see, e.g., Consumer Advocates v. Echostar Satellite Corp. (2003) 113 Cal. App. 4th 1351, 1353-1354, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 22 (finding triable issues of fact on whether provider of satellite TV service violated Civ. Code 1770(a)(9) with representations concerning number of channels and program schedule)].

- Advertising goods or services with intent not to supply reasonably expectable demand, unless the advertisement discloses a limitation of quantity [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(10)].

- Advertising furniture without clearly indicating that it is unassembled if that is the case [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(11)].

- Advertising the price of unassembled furniture without clearly indicating the assembled price of that furniture if the same furniture is available assembled from the seller [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(12)].

- Making false or misleading statements of fact concerning reasons for, existence of, or amounts of price reductions [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(13)].

- Representing that a transaction confers or involves rights, remedies, or obligations that it does not have or involve, or that are prohibited by law [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(14); see Wang v. Massey Chevrolet (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 856, 870, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 770 (parol evidence rule does not constitute defense or bar to claim based on Civ. Code § 1770(a)(14))].

- Representing that a part, replacement, or repair service is needed when it is not [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(15)].

- Representing that the subject of a transaction has been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when it has not [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(16)].

- Representing that the consumer will receive a rebate, discount, or other economic benefit, if the earning of the benefit is contingent on an event to occur subsequent to the consummation of the transaction [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(17); Pollard v. Ericsson, Inc. (2004) 125 Cal. App. 4th 214, 220, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 496 (cell phone rebate conditioned on certain acts that could be accomplished before or at time of cell phone purchase did not violate this section)].

- Misrepresenting the authority of a salesperson, representative, or agent to negotiate the final terms of a transaction with a consumer [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(18)].

- Inserting an unconscionable provision in the contract [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(19); see Dean Witter Reynolds, Inc. v. Superior Court (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 758, 766, 767-768, 259 Cal. Rptr. 789

(plaintiff who has reasonably available alternative sources of supply from which to obtain desired goods or services free of terms claimed to be unconscionable cannot establish unconscionability); see also Belton v. Comcast Cable Holdings, LLC (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 1224, 1245-1247, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 631 (cable service provider's requirement that all customers must buy basic tier of cable service was not unconscionable when applied to visually impaired customers wanting only music or FM service without having to take television service as well); Freeman v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 660, 667-670, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 860 (clearly marked provision imposing service fee on shopping card after 24 months of nonuse was not unconscionable term under Civ. Code § 1770(a)(19))].

- Advertising that a product is being offered at a specific price plus a specific percentage of that price unless (1) the total price is set forth in the advertisement, which may include, but is not limited to, shelf tags, displays, and media advertising, in a size larger than any other price in that advertisement, and (2) the specific price plus a specific percentage of that price represents a markup from the seller's costs or from the wholesale price of the product; this does not apply to in-store advertising by businesses that are open only to members or cooperative organizations organized pursuant to Corp. Code § 12000 et seq. when more than 50 percent of purchases are made at the specific price set forth in the advertisement [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(20)].

- Selling or leasing goods in violation of Civ. Code § 1797.8 et seq. (required advertising disclosures regarding trademark consumer goods normally accompanied by manufacturer's warranty that are imported into this country through unauthorized channels and do not have manufacturer's express warranty) [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(21); see Ch. 14, Advertising].

- Disseminating an unsolicited prerecorded message by telephone without an unrecorded, natural voice first informing the person answering the telephone of the name of the caller or the organization being represented, and either the address or the telephone number of the caller, and without obtaining the consent of that person to listen to the prerecorded message [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(22)(A)]. The prohibition does not apply, however, to a message disseminated to a business associate, customer, or other person having an established relationship with the person or organization making the call, to a call for the purpose of collecting an existing obligation, or to any call generated at the request of the recipient [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(22)(B)].

- The home solicitation [see Civ. Code § 1761(h) (definition)] of a consumer who is a senior citizen when a loan is made encumbering his or her primary residence for the purpose of paying for home improvements and when the transaction is part of a pattern or practice in violation of 15 U.S.C. § 1639(h) or (i) [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(23)]. A third party, however, will not be liable under this subdivision unless (1) there was an agency relationship between the party who engaged in the home solicitation and the third party, or (2) the third party had actual knowledge of, or participated in, the unfair or deceptive transaction [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(23)]. A third party who is a holder in due course under a home solicitation contract will not be liable under this subdivision [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(23)].

- Charging or receiving an unreasonable fee to prepare, aid, or advise any prospective applicant, applicant, or recipient in the procurement, maintenance, or securing of public social services [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(24); see Civ. Code § 1780(c) (treble damages); see also Civ. Code §§ 1770(a)(24)(c), 1780(c) (not applicable to attorneys licensed to practice law in California, who are subject to California Rules of Professional Conduct and to mandatory fee arbitration provisions of Bus. & Prof. Code § 6200 et seq., when fees charged or received are for providing representation in administrative agency appeal proceedings or court proceedings for purposes of procuring, maintaining, or securing public social services on behalf of person or group of persons)].

- A mortgage broker or lender's direct or indirect use of a home improvement contractor to negotiate the terms of any loan that is secured, whether in whole or in part, by the residence of the borrower and which is used to finance all or any part of a home improvement contract [Civ. Code § 1770(b)(1)]. A "mortgage broker or lender" includes a licensed finance dealer [see Fin. Code § 22000 et seq.], a license residential mortgage lender [see Fin. Code § 50000 et seq.], or a license real estate broker [Civ. Code § 1770(b)(1); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10000 et seq.].

In addition, other statutes may provide that a violation of their provisions constitutes an unlawful practice within the meaning of Civ. Code § 1770 [see, e.g., Civ. Code §§ 1723 (posting of retailer's refund policy), 1797.86 ("grey market goods")].

Civ. Code § 1770(a) proscribes specified acts or practices "in a transaction intended to result or which results in the sale or lease of goods or services to any consumer." An extension of credit, such as by issuing a credit card, if separate and apart from the sale or lease of any specific goods or services, does not fall within the scope of the Act [Berry v. American Express Publishing, Inc. (2007) 147 Cal. App. 4th 224, 232-233, 54 Cal. Rptr. 3d 91] .

Chapter 504 SALES: CONSUMERS LEGAL REMEDIES ACT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

44-504 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 504.13

§ 504.13 Remedies and Procedures

[1] Damages and Other Relief

The act provides that any consumer who suffers any damage as a result of the use or employment by any person of an unlawful act, method, or practice [see Civ. Code § 1770, set out in § 504.12] may bring an action against that person for restitution of property, or to recover damages, punitive damages, injunctive relief, and any other relief that the court deems proper [Civ. Code § 1780(a)]. The phrase "any damage" in Civ. Code § 1780(a) is not synonymous with "actual damages." The breadth of the phrase "any damage" indicates a category that includes, but is greater than, "actual damages"; that is, those who are eligible for the remedy of "actual damages" compose a subset of those who have suffered "any damage" [Meyer v. Sprint Spectrum L.P. (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 634, 640, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 859, 200 P.3d 295]. In order to bring an action, not only must a consumer be exposed to an unlawful practice, but also some kind of damage must result [Meyer v. Sprint Spectrum L.P. (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 634, 641, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 859, 200 P.3d 295].

Incurring transaction costs--for instance, expending time and money in threatening a lawsuit--in order to avoid the consequences of a deceptive practice falls within the broad meaning of suffering "any damage as a result of the use or employment" of an unlawful practice, whether or not those transaction costs are cognizable as actual damages [Meyer v. Sprint Spectrum L.P. (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 634, 641, 643, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 859, 200 P.3d 295]. As another example, a consumer could have incurred "opportunity costs" if a merchant's use of an unlawful practice "diverted" the consumer from dealing with another merchant on acceptable terms [Meyer v. Sprint Spectrum L.P. (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 634, 640, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 859, 200 P.3d 295]. On the other hand, a consumer has not suffered any damage as a result of an unlawful practice if unconscionable terms in a consumer contract have not yet actually been enforced so as to impose "some kind of tangible increased cost or burden" on the consumer. In that situation, the consumer has no standing under Civ. Code § 1780(a) to sue for injunctive relief aimed at precluding the future use of an unlawful practice [Meyer v. Sprint Spectrum L.P. (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 634, 643, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 859, 200 P.3d 295].

For a complaint for damages for violation of the Act, see § 504.31.

[2] Damage Claims Are Arbitrable

When there is an arbitration agreement between the consumer and the defendant, claims for damages under the Consumers Legal Remedies Act are arbitrable, at least to the extent those claims are governed by the Federal Arbitration Act. However, claims for injunctive relief in which the plaintiff is acting as private attorney general (a claim seeking to enjoin deceptive business practices), for example, are not arbitrable, even though hearing the damage claims and the claim for injunctive relief in separate forums is inefficient [Broughton v. Cigna Healthplans of California (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 1066, 1072, 1079-1080, 1088, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 334, 988 P.2d 67 ; see Cruz v. Pacificare Health Systems, Inc. (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 303, 307, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 58, 66 P.3d 1157 (finding that Broughton's holding on non-arbitrability of CLRA public injunctions should be extended to include claims to enjoin unfair competition under Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et seq. and misleading advertising under Bus. & Prof. Code § 17500 et seq.)]. Broughton was based in part on the strong policy of the Federal Arbitration Act favoring arbitration, but California's policy favoring arbitration is also strong. Therefore, claims that were not governed by the Federal Arbitration Act probably also would be arbitrable.

For discussion and forms for initiating or resisting arbitration pursuant to an arbitration agreement between the parties, see Ch. 32, Contractual Arbitration: Agreements and Compelling Arbitration .

[3] Attorney's Fees

The court will award court costs and attorney's fees to a prevailing plaintiff in litigation filed pursuant to Civ. Code § 1780 [Civ. Code § 1780(e); see, e.g., Graciano v. Robinson Ford Sales, Inc. (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 140, 149-164, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 273 (how to determine whether plaintiff has prevailed, and how to compute amount of fees to which plaintiff is entitled); Hayward v. Ventura Volvo (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 509, 513, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 514 (prevailing plaintiff is entitled to "reasonable" fees, although word is omitted from statute; court was not limited in awarding fees to those incurred under contingency fee contract); Reveles v. Toyota By the Bay (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1154, 67 Cal. Rptr.2d 543 (entitlement to attorney's fees for net recovery on violations of Civ. Code § 1770(a)(5)-(7))]. Reasonable attorney's fees may be awarded to a prevailing defendant on a finding by the court that the plaintiff's prosecution of the action was not in good faith [Civ. Code § 1780(e)].

If the plaintiff moves for attorney's fees pursuant to Civ. Code § 1780(d), generally the court is required to determine whether the plaintiff is the prevailing party and, if so, what amount is to be awarded to the plaintiff. The court must do this even if the action is concluded by a settlement. However, if the parties have agreed that attorney's fees are not to be awarded pursuant to Civ. Code § 1780(d), then the court must give effect to that agreement [Kim v. Euromotors West/The Auto Gallery (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 170, 178-181, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 780 (stating guidelines for determining whether plaintiff is prevailing party)].

[4] Additional Awards to Senior Citizen or Disabled Person

In an action under Civ. Code § 1780(a), any consumer who is a senior citizen or a disabled person, as defined in Civ. Code § 1761(f) and (g), respectively [see definitions in § 504.10[2] and [6]], may seek and be awarded, in addition to the remedies provided in Civ. Code § 1780(a), up to $5,000 [Civ. Code § 1780(b)]. Before making that award, the trier of fact must do all of the following [Civ. Code § 1780(b)(1)]:

- Find that the consumer has suffered substantial physical, emotional, or economic damages resulting from the defendant's conduct;

- Make an affirmative finding in regard to one or more of the factors set forth in Civ. Code § 3345(b) (discussed below); and

- Find that an additional award is appropriate.

In addition, Civ. Code § 3345 provides for increasing any applicable fine, penalty, or other remedy up to three times the amount authorized or to be imposed in actions brought by, on behalf of, or for the benefit of senior citizens or disabled persons (as defined in Civ. Code § 1761(f) and (g), respectively), to redress unfair or deceptive acts or practices or unfair methods of competition [see Civ. Code § 3345(a)]. If a trier of fact is authorized by a statute in an action to impose either a fine or a civil penalty or other penalty, or any remedy the purpose or effect of which is to punish or deter, and the amount of the fine, penalty, or other remedy is subject to the trier of fact's discretion, the trier of fact must consider all of the factors listed below, in addition to other appropriate factors, in determining the amount of the fine, civil penalty or other penalty, or other remedy to impose. If the trier of fact makes an affirmative finding in regard to one or more of the factors listed below, it may impose a fine, civil penalty or other penalty, or other remedy in an amount up to three times greater than authorized by the statute, or, when the statute does not authorize a specific amount, up to three times greater than the amount the trier of fact would impose in the absence of that affirmative finding [Civ. Code § 3345(b)]. The following are the factors to be considered [Civ. Code § 3345(b)]:

- Whether the defendant knew or should have known that his or her conduct was directed to one or more senior citizens or disabled persons.

- Whether the defendant's conduct caused one or more senior citizens or disabled persons to suffer loss or encumbrance of a primary residence, principal employment, or source of income; substantial loss of property set aside for retirement, or for personal or family care and maintenance; or substantial loss of payments received under a pension or retirement plan or a government benefits program, or assets essential to the health or welfare of the senior citizen or disabled person.

- Whether one or more senior citizens or disabled persons are substantially more vulnerable than other members of the public to the defendant's conduct because of age, poor health or infirmity, impaired understanding, restricted mobility, or disability, and actually suffered substantial physical, emotional, or economic damages resulting from the defendant's conduct.

For a form with allegations to be used in a complaint by senior or disabled plaintiffs to redress unfair or deceptive acts or practices or unfair methods of competition, see § 504.33.

[5] Advertising Medium Excluded

An action under the act may not be brought against an owner or employee of any advertising medium, including, but not limited to, newspapers, magazines, broadcast stations, billboard and transit ads, who publishes or disseminates an advertisement in violation of the act, unless plaintiff establishes that the owner or employee had knowledge of deceptive methods, acts, or practices declared to be unlawful by Civ. Code § 1770 [Civ. Code § 1755]. For a form for an allegation of the advertiser's guilty knowledge, see § 504.34. For an affirmative defense for use by an advertiser who does not know of the deceptive practice, see Ch. 14, Advertising .

[6] Precomplaint Notice and Demand

At least 30 days prior to the commencement of any action for damages, the consumer must notify the potential defendant of the particular alleged violations, and demand correction, repair, replacement, or other rectification of the goods or services allegedly in violation of the act. The notice must be in writing and sent by certified or registered mail, return receipt requested, to the place where the transaction occurred or to the person's principal place of business within California [Civ. Code § 1782(a)]. The notice may concern an individual grievance or a grievance that affects a class of consumers [see Kagan v. Gibraltar Sav. & Loan Assn. (1984) 35 Cal. 3d 582, 591, 200 Cal. Rptr. 38, 676 P.2d 1060 , disapproved on other grounds, Meyer v. Sprint Spectrum L.P. (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 634, 643, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 859, 200 P.3d 295]. For a form for notice and demand, see § 504.30.

An action for injunctive relief under the act can be commenced without compliance with these precomplaint notice provisions. The plaintiff may amend his or her complaint for injunctive relief, without leave of court, to include a request for damages not less than 30 days after the commencement of the action for injunctive relief and after compliance with the precomplaint notice provisions. When the complaint is so amended, the defendant must be given an opportunity to remedy the violation, as discussed in § 504.13[7] [see Civ. Code § 1782(d)].

When a consumer commences an action for injunctive relief and then amends the complaint to add a claim for damages, without having given the prescribed notice, and the defendant asserts that the claim for damages is procedurally unviable because of noncompliance with the notice requirement, the court's response to the defendant's assertion may not foreclose the plaintiff from giving the required notice, then waiting for 30 days for sufficient remedial measures by the defendant, and, if an action for damages then can be maintained [see Civ. Code § 1782(b); § 504.13[7]], filing another amended complaint in which the plaintiff alleges compliance with the notice requirement [Morgan v. AT&T Wireless Servs. (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 1235, 1260-1261, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 768 (trial court erred in sustaining demurrer to amended complaint without leave to amend, based on plaintiff's inability to allege that required notice was given before commencement of action)].

[7] Corrective Steps by Potential Defendant as Defense

Except for class actions under Civ. Code § 1781 [see discussion in § 504.13[9][g]], an action for damages may not be maintained under the provisions of Civ. Code § 1780 if an appropriate correction, repair, replacement, or other remedy is given, or agreed to be given within a reasonable time, to the consumer within 30 days after receipt of the notice required by Civ. Code § 1782(a) [Civ. Code § 1782(b); see [6], § 504.13[6]]. This provision only applies, however, if the notice given to the potential defendant concerned an individual grievance. If the notice concerned a grievance that affects a class of consumers, a prospective defendant can avert a subsequent class action only by remedying the contested practices as to all affected consumers [Kagan v. Gibraltar Sav. & Loan Assn. (1984) 35 Cal. 3d 582, 591, 200 Cal. Rptr. 38, 676 P.2d 1060 , disapproved on other grounds, Meyer v. Sprint Spectrum L.P. (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 634, 643, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 859, 200 P.3d 295].

Attempts by the potential defendant to comply with the precomplaint notice provisions of Civ. Code § 1782 are construed as an offer to compromise and are inadmissible as evidence pursuant to Evid. Code § 1152; furthermore, attempts to comply with a demand are not considered an admission of engaging in an act or practice declared unlawful by the act. Evidence of compliance or attempts to comply with the provisions of Civ. Code § 1782 may be introduced by a defendant for the purpose of establishing good faith or to show compliance [Civ. Code § 1782(e)].

[8] Declaration of Proper Court

In any action subject to Civ. Code § 1780, concurrently with the filing of the complaint, the plaintiff is required to file an affidavit (or declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) stating facts showing that the action has been commenced in a county described in Civ. Code § 1780(d) as a proper place for the trial of the action. If the plaintiff fails to file the required affidavit or declaration, the court, either on its own motion or on the motion of any party, must dismiss the action without prejudice [Civ. Code § 1780(d); see discussion in § 504.31[6]]. For a form for this declaration, see § 504.32.

[9] Class Actions

[a] Requirements

If an unlawful method, act, or practice has caused damage to other consumers similarly situated, a consumer entitled to bring an action under Civ. Code § 1780 may bring an action on behalf of himself or herself and the other consumers to recover damages or obtain other relief as provided in Civ. Code § 1780 [Civ. Code § 1781(a)]. Civ. Code § 1780(a)(1) provides that the total award of actual damages in a class action may not be less than $1,000 [Civ. Code § 1780(a)(1)].

An individual consumer may bring a class action under Civ. Code § 1781(a) if, pursuant to Civ. Code § 1782(a), he or she has put the prospective defendant on notice that the alleged violations of Civ. Code § 1770 affect a class of consumers, and the prospective defendant has failed to correct or to seek to correct the violations as to all similarly situated consumers pursuant to the conditions set forth in Civ. Code § 1782(c) [Kagan v. Gibraltar Sav. & Loan Assn. (1984) 35 Cal. 3d 582, 595, 200 Cal. Rptr. 38, 676 P.2d 1060 , disapproved on other grounds, Meyer v. Sprint Spectrum L.P. (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 634, 643, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 859, 200 P.3d 295].

Civ. Code § 1781(b) establishes the exclusive criteria for class certification of suits brought under the Consumers Legal Remedies Act [Hogya v. Superior Court (1977) 75 Cal. App. 3d 122, 140, 142 Cal. Rptr. 325] . The fact that damages are not even a necessary objective of a consumer class-suit under the Consumers Legal Remedies Act casts doubt that the Legislature intended the certification of a class action could be denied on the ground that individual monetary recovery will be slight [see Hogya v. Superior Court (1977) 75 Cal. App. 3d 122, 138, 142 Cal. Rptr. 325] .

[b] Class Action by Senior Citizens or Disabled Persons

Judgment in a class action under Civ. Code § 1781 brought by senior citizens or disabled persons (as defined in Civ. Code § 1761(f) and (g), respectively) may award each class member the additional award if the trier of fact has made the findings discussed under [4], above [Civ. Code § 1780(b)(2)].

[c] Necessary Conditions

The court must permit the suit to be maintained on behalf of all members of the represented class if all of the following conditions exist [Civ. Code § 1781(b)]:

- It is impracticable to bring all members of the class before the court;
- The questions of law or fact common to the class are substantially similar and predominate over the questions affecting the individual members;
- The claims or defenses of the representative plaintiffs are typical of the claims or defenses of the class; and
- The representative plaintiffs will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the class.

If these conditions are met, the trial court must certify the class. It has no discretion to deny certification based on other considerations [Hogya v. Superior Court (1977) 75 Cal. App. 3d 122, 140, 142 Cal. Rptr. 325] .

[d] Determinations at Hearing

If notice of the time and place of the hearing is served on the other parties at least 10 days prior to the date of the hearing (or any longer period provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 if the notice is served by mail), the court must hold a hearing, on motion of any party to the action that is supported by affidavit (or declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) of anyone having knowledge of the facts, to determine if any of the following apply to the action [Civ. Code § 1781(c)]:

- A class action pursuant to Civ. Code § 1781(b) [see discussion in [c], above] is proper;
- Published notice pursuant to Civ. Code § 1781(d) [see discussion in [e], below] is necessary to adjudicate the claims of the class; or

- The action is without merit or there is no defense to the action.

This provision is in lieu of a motion for summary judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 437c], which may not be granted by the court in any action commenced as a class action pursuant to Civ. Code § 1781(a) [Civ. Code § 1781(c)(3); Olsen v. Breeze, Inc. (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 608, 623-624, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 818 ; see also [a], above]. For notices of motion that may be adopted for the determination of these issues, see Ch. 120, Class Actions .

[e] Notification of Class Members

If the action is permitted as a class action, the court may direct either party to notify each member of the class of the action. If personal notification is unreasonably expensive or it appears that all members of the class cannot be notified personally, the party directed to serve notice may, with the court's consent, give notice by publication, in accordance with Gov. Code § 6064, in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the transaction occurred [Civ. Code § 1781(d)].

The notice must include the following information [Civ. Code § 1781(f)]:

- That the court will exclude the member notified from the class if he or she so requests by a specified date;

- That the judgment, whether favorable or not, will include all members who do not request exclusion; and

- That any member who does not request exclusion may enter an appearance through counsel if he or she desires.

The trial court, under its general authority, may impose notice costs pursuant to Civ. Code § 1781(d) on either party in the class action [Civil Serv. Employees Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 362, 376, 149 Cal. Rptr. 360, 584 P.2d 497] .

[f] Dismissal Procedures

A class action may not be dismissed, settled, or compromised without court approval, and notice of the proposed dismissal, settlement, or compromise must be given in any manner the court directs to each member who was given notice pursuant to Civ. Code § 1781(d) [see discussion in [e], above] and did not request exclusion [Civ. Code § 1781(f)]. The foregoing procedures are intended to prevent class members in future litigation from reviving the matters compromised [Marcarelli v. Cabell (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 51, 57, 129 Cal. Rptr. 509] .

[g] Statutory Defense to Class Action

Even though the conditions exist for a class action as provided in Civ. Code § 1781(b), a class action may not be maintained if the potential defendant shows that all of the following exist [Civ. Code § 1782(c); see Kagan v. Gibraltar Sav.& Loan Assn. (1984) 35 Cal. 3d 582, 591, 595, 200 Cal. Rptr. 38, 676 P.2d 1060 , disapproved on other grounds, Meyer v. Sprint Spectrum L.P. (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 634, 643, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 859, 200 P.3d 295]:

- All consumers similarly situated have been identified, or a reasonable effort to identify those other consumers has been made;

- All consumers so identified have been notified that on their request the potential defendant will make the appropriate correction, repair, replacement, or other remedy of the goods and services;

- The correction, repair, replacement, or other remedy requested by those consumers has been, or in a reasonable time will be, given; and

- The potential defendant has ceased from engaging, or if immediate cessation is impossible or unreasonably expensive under the circumstances, he or she will, within a reasonable time, cease to engage, in those methods, acts, or practices.

[h] Judgment in Class Action

The judgment in a class action describes those to whom the notice was directed and who have not requested exclusion and those the court finds to be members of the class. The best possible notice of the judgment must be given in the manner the court directs to each member who was personally served with notice pursuant to Civ. Code § 1781(d) [see discussion in [e], above] and did not request exclusion [Civ. Code § 1781(g)].

[i] Recovery of Attorney's Fees

Recovery of attorney's fees in a class action is authorized by Civ. Code § 1780(e), discussed in [3], above. Attorney's fees in class actions have been awarded under other theories, including the substantial benefit theory, the common fund principle, and the private attorney general theory, which may be relevant to calculation of the amount of attorney's fees provided for by Civ. Code § 1780(e). Those theories are discussed in Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees, § 174.50 et seq.

[j] Payment of Damages to Class Members

Neither the act nor other statutory provision specifies a procedure for the payment of damages to consumers represented in a class action under Civ. Code § 1781. In the absence of a local court rule or practice specifying a particular procedure, a receiver may be appointed to carry the judgment into effect and after the judgment to dispose of the property according to the judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 564(b)(3), (4); see also Ch. 486, Receivers].

[k] Act's Class Action Remedy Not Exclusive

Nothing in the act limits any other statutory or any common law rights of the Attorney General or any other person to bring class actions. Class actions by consumers brought under the act are governed exclusively by the provisions of the act. However, the consumer is not deprived of any statutory or common law right to bring a class action without resort to the act. If any act or practice proscribed under the act also constitutes a cause of action in common law or a violation of another statute, the consumer can assert that common law or statutory cause of action under the procedures and with the remedies provided for in that law [Civ. Code § 1752].

A consumer contract, especially the usual kind of contract of adhesion (such as a credit card agreement), commonly contains a provision specifying that the parties' rights and obligations will be governed, not by California law, but by the law of another state. That law often will have rules that are not in the consumer's interest, since the choice of governing law is dictated by the other party, and naturally the law selected tends to favor that party. Under Delaware law (which is chosen in many cases), one such rule holds that a class action waiver, if clearly stated in the contract, is enforceable. When the waiver is found in a consumer contract of adhesion in a setting in which disputes between the contracting parties predictably involve small amounts of damages, and when it is alleged that the party with the superior bargaining power has carried out a scheme to deliberately cheat large numbers of consumers out of individually small sums of money, then, at least to the extent that the obligation at issue is governed by California law, the waiver becomes in practice what is prohibited by statute: the exemption of the stronger party from responsibility for its own fraud, or willful injury to the person or property of another [see Civ. Code § 1668]. Under these circumstances, those waivers are unconscionable under California law and should not be enforced [Discover Bank v. Superior Court (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 148, 162-163, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 76, 113 P.3d 1100 ; Szetela v. Discover Bank (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 1094, 1099-1102, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 862] . This is a "fundamental policy" of California, in the context of resolving a choice of law issue [Klussman v. Cross Country Bank (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 1283, 1294, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 728] . For discussion of how courts resolve choice of law issues and the significance of a state's fundamental policy in that context, see Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.30.

In a case brought under the Consumers Legal Remedies Act, if the plaintiff pursues a class action the court might have to determine whether to give effect to a foreign law rule under which a class action waiver would be enforceable, when under California's fundamental policy the waiver would not be enforceable. Since the plaintiff would be asserting claims under California law, the court might well conclude that California's interest in enforcing its fundamental policy is greater than the other state's interest in enforcing its contrary law [Klussman v. Cross Country Bank (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 1283, 1298-1300, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 728 (trial court correctly ruled that class action waiver in consumer contract of adhesion governed by Delaware law could not be enforced in action under Consumers Legal Remedies Act and California's unfair competition law)].

[10] Defense of Bona Fide Error

No award of damages may be given in an action based on violation of the act if the alleged violator proves that the violation was not intentional and was the result of a bona fide error, notwithstanding the use of reasonable procedures adopted to avoid any such error, and he or she takes appropriate corrective measures of Civ. Code § 1782(b), (c) discussed in § 504.13[7] and [9][g] [Civ. Code § 1784]. Moreover, evidence of compliance or attempts to comply with the corrective measures set out in Civ. Code § 1782(b), (c) may be introduced by a defendant for the purpose of establishing good faith or showing compliance with the provisions of Civ. Code § 1782(b), (c) [Civ. Code § 1782(e)]. For an affirmative defense alleging bona fide error, see § 504.40. (Although Civ. Code § 1784 does not explicitly remove mistakes of law from the scope of the "bona fide error" defense--whereas some other statutes allowing the same defense do exclude mistakes of law--the defense probably does not cover a violation that arose from the defendant's mistaken interpretation of statutory requirements [cf. *Jerman v. Carlisle, McNellie, Rini, Kramer & Ulrich LPA (2010) -- U.S. --, 130 S. Ct. 1605, 176 L. Ed. 2d 519, 2010 U.S. LEXIS 3480, at *15-59 (such defense allowed by Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1692k(c), in same language as Civ. Code § 1784, did not cover debt-collecting attorney's mistake of law as to Act's requirements)].)

[11] Statute of Limitation

Any action under the act for unlawful practice must be commenced not more than three years from the date of commission of that unlawful practice [Civ. Code § 1783].

[12] Consumer Product Bought Through Web Site--Personal Jurisdiction of Seller

While it is possible that Internet activity alone could create the necessary minimum contacts to expose a nonresident defendant to personal jurisdiction in California courts, that issue must be determined by examining the level of interactivity and commercial nature of the exchange of information that occurs on the defendant's web site [Pavlovich v. Superior Court (2002) 29 Cal. 4th 262, 274, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 329, 58 P.3d 2 ; see Ch. 323, Jurisdiction: Personal Jurisdiction, Inconvenient Forum, and Appearances, § 323.14[4][b]]. A disgruntled California consumer will not necessarily be able to sue a nonresident seller in a California court. In one case, for instance, a Florida seller's web site merely advertised a consumer product (a car) for sale, which a California resident bought after initiating contact with the seller. There was no evidence that files were exchanged through the web site or that any business was actually conducted through the web site, nor any evidence that anything about the web site specifically targeted California residents, and the seller had none of the traditionally sufficient ties with California to establish minimum contact. Therefore, the seller's maintenance of the web site alone was insufficient to establish personal jurisdiction when the California consumer sued the seller in a California court for rescission or damages [Shisler v. Sanfer Sports Cars, Inc. (2007) 146 Cal. App. 4th 1254, 1260-1262, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 335] .

[1] Class Actions

[a] In General

[i] Attorney's Fees

Plaintiff successfully protecting, preserving, or increasing fund for benefit of himself and others is entitled to compensation from fund for services of attorney. Estate of Reade (1948) 31 Cal. 2d 669, 671-672, 191 P.2d 745

Attorney's fees in class action payable out of moneys recovered for joint benefit of class members for which plaintiff has prosecuted action. Farmers etc. Nat'l Bank v. Peterson (1936) 5 Cal. 2d 601, 607, 55 P.2d 867

[ii] Effect of Judgment

Class action judgment is res judicata as to claims of members represented. Daar v. Yellow Cab Co. (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 695, 704, 63 Cal. Rptr. 724, 433 P.2d 732

[b] Class Actions Under Consumers Legal Remedies Act

[i] Imposition of Notice Costs

California trial courts clearly possess general authority to impose notice costs pursuant to Civ. Code § 1781(d) on either party in class action. Civil Serv. Employees Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 362, 376, 149 Cal. Rptr. 360, 584 P.2d 497

[ii] Procedural Matters

Procedural devices of Federal Rules of Civil Procedure may be used when provisions of Civ. Code § 1781 of Consumers Legal Remedies Act are inadequate to encompass all procedural problems facing trial court in class actions. Vasquez v. Superior Court (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 800, 821, 94 Cal. Rptr. 796, 484 P.2d 964

Civ. Code § 1781(f), dealing with dismissals and compromises in class action suits, is intended to prevent class members in future litigation from reviving the matters compromised. Marcarelli v. Cabell (1967) 58 Cal. App. 3d 51, 57, 129 Cal. Rptr. 509

[iii] Requisites of Action

Conditions precedent to class action; plaintiff must put prospective defendant on notice that alleged violations of Civ. Code § 1770 affect class of consumers, and prospective defendant has failed to correct or to seek to correct violations as to all similarly situated consumers pursuant to conditions set forth in Civ. Code § 1782(c). Kagan v. Gibraltar Sav. & Loan Assn. (1984) 35 Cal. 3d 582, 595, 200 Cal. Rptr. 38, 676 P.2d 1060 , disapproved on other grounds, Meyer v. Sprint Spectrum L.P. (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 634, 643, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 859, 200 P.3d 295

To obtain relief in class action, both named plaintiff and class members must have suffered some damage caused by practice deemed unlawful under Civ. Code § 1770; that damage is "any damage," which is not synonymous with "actual damages" and may encompass harms other than pecuniary damages; putative class plaintiff was entitled to show that defendant's alleged deceptive conduct--namely, selling drug product over-the-counter without disclosing that product was unlawful to buy or possess without prescription--caused same damage to all members of class, by showing that alleged misrepresentation was material, even if defendant might be able to show that some class members would have bought its product even if they had known that product was unlawful to buy or possess without prescription; on showing that material misrepresentations were made to class members, putative class plaintiff would at least raise inference of reliance and therefore damage as to entire class; and that showing could be made because any reasonable person would find it important to know, when determining whether to buy particular product, that it is unlawful to buy or possess that product without prescription, since no reasonable person would knowingly commit criminal act. Steroid Hormone Prod. Cases (2010) 181 Cal. App. 4th 145, 155-157, 104 Cal. Rptr. 3d 329

Evidence supported trial court's conclusion that whether drug manufacturer's misrepresentations were material, and therefore induced reliance, was matter on which individual issues prevailed over common issues, justifying denial of class certification with respect to claim under Consumers Legal Remedies Act. In re Vioxx Class Cases (2009) 180 Cal. App. 4th 116, 134, 103 Cal. Rptr. 3d 83

Civ. Code § 1781(b) establishes exclusive criteria for class certification suits brought under Consumers Legal Remedies Act. Hogya v. Superior Court (1977) 75 Cal. App. 3d 122, 140, 142 Cal. Rptr. 325

Fact that damages are not necessary in consumer class suit under Consumers Legal Remedies Act casts doubt that Legislature intended certification of class action could be denied on ground that individual monetary recovery will be slight. Hogya v. Superior Court (1977) 75 Cal. App. 3d 122, 138, 142 Cal. Rptr. 325

[2] Consumers Legal Remedies Act

[a] Arbitrability of Damage Claims

When there is an arbitration agreement between consumer and defendant, claims for damages under CLRA are arbitrable, at least to extent those claims are governed by Federal Arbitration Act; however, claims for injunctive relief in which plaintiff is acting as private attorney general are not arbitrable. Broughton v. Cigna Healthplans of California (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 1066, 1072, 1079-1080, 1088, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 334, 988 P. 2d 67 ; see Cruz v. Pacificare Health Systems, Inc. (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 303, 307, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 58, 66 P.3d 1157 (finding that Broughton's holding on inarbitrability of CLRA public injunctions should be extended to include claims to enjoin unfair competition under Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et seq. and misleading advertising under Bus. & Prof. Code § 17500 et seq.)

[b] Attorney's Fees

Prevailing plaintiff is entitled to attorney's fees for net recovery for violations of Civ. Code § 1770(a)(5), (6) & (7). Reveles v. Toyota By the Bay (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1154, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 543

[c] Requisites of Action

In action in U.S. district court, claim based on violation of CLRA is subject to Fed. R. Civ. P. 9(b), which mandates that allegations of fraud must be pleaded with particularity; failure to plead with required particularity warrants dismissal. Kearns v. Ford Motor Co. (9th Cir. 2009) 567 F.3d 1120, 1127

In order to bring action, not only must consumer be exposed to unlawful practice, but also some kind of damage must result; consumer has not suffered any damage as result of unlawful practice if unconscionable terms in consumer services contract have not yet actually been enforced so as to impose transaction costs on consumer; in that situation, consumer has no standing under Civ. Code § 1780(a) to sue for injunctive relief aimed at precluding future use of unlawful practice. Meyer v. Sprint Spectrum L.P. (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 634, 643, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 859, 200 P.3d 295

[d] Unlawful Practices

Manufacturer's limited-period express warranty could not be construed as implicit representation that product had any characteristic it did not have or was of particular standard or quality when it was not [see Civ. Code § 1770(a)(5), (7)], even if, at time of making warranty, manufacturer knew of, and did not disclose, latent defect that could result in valid claim if it became manifest during warranty period. Daugherty v. American Honda Motor Co. (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 824, 833-837, 51 Cal. Rptr. 3d 118

Plaintiffs' claim for violation of CLRA failed because complaint neither alleged facts showing defendant was bound to disclose its use of inferior tubular steel exhaust manifolds (in lieu of superior cast iron manifolds), nor alleged facts showing defendant gave any information of other facts which could have likely effect of misleading public for want of communication of fact it used tubular steel exhaust manifolds, nor alleged any affirmative representation by defendant regarding exhaust manifolds. Bardin v. DaimlerChrysler Corp. (2006) 136 Cal. App. 4th 1255, 1276, 39 Cal. Rptr. 3d 634

Triable issues of fact existed on whether provider of satellite TV service violated Civ. Code § 1770(a)(5), (7), (9) with representations concerning number of channels and program schedule. Consumer Advocates v. Echostar Satellite Corp. (2003) 113 Cal. App. 4th 1351, 1353-1354, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 22

Clearly marked provision imposing service fee on shopping card after 24 months of nonuse was not unconscionable term under Civ. Code § 1770(a)(19); take-it-or-leave-it situation without any reasonable alternative but to accept shopping card terms did not exist, as plaintiff could use card before imposition of fee or simply decline to purchase shopping card and make purchases by other means. Freeman v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 660, 667-670, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 860

Claim based on former Civ. Code § 1770(s) (now see Civ. Code § 1770(a)(19); unconscionable provision in contract) required plaintiff to show (1) oppression, which refers to inequality of bargaining power resulting in no real negotiation and the absence of meaningful choice, and (2) surprise, which occurs when supposedly agreed-on terms of bargain are hidden in prolix printed form drafted by a party seeking to enforce disputed terms; element of oppression was absent when plaintiff had reasonably available alternative sources of supply from which to obtain desired goods or services free of terms claimed to be unconscionable. Dean Witter Reynolds, Inc. v. Superior Court (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 758, 766, 767-768, 259 Cal. Rptr. 789 (plaintiff challenging $50 IRA termination fee could have gone to competing financial service that did not charge fee)

[e] Venue

Venue provisions of the CLRA (place of transaction) do not override general venue provisions, i.e., Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a) placing venue in county where defendant resides. Gallin v. Superior Court (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 541, 543, 545, 281 Cal. Rptr. 304

[f] Waiver is Void

When forum selection clause designated Virginia as jurisdiction in which all disputes arising out of relationship would be litigated, and one of causes of action sought class action relief under Consumers Legal Remedies Act, enforcement of clause would be functional equivalent of contractual waiver of statutory remedies and thus was prohibited under California law. America Online, Inc. v. Superior Court (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 1, 14-15, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 699

[3] Receivers

Appointment of receiver is proper in action not prosecuted by plaintiff for his or her own right or for his or her own benefit but prosecuted by plaintiff in behalf of corporation to recover funds in which others were equally interested. Fox v. Hale & Norcross S. M. Co. (1895) 108 Cal. 475, 477, 41 P. 328

Court has power to appoint receiver to carry its judgment into effect. Fox v. Hale & Norcross S. M. Co. (1895) 108 Cal. 475, 477, 41 P. 328

[2] Use of Form

A notice [see Civ. Code § 1782(a)(1)] and demand [see Civ. Code § 1782(a)(2)] must be sent by certified or registered mail, return receipt requested [see § 504.31[3][b]], 30 days or more prior to the commencement of an action for damages pursuant to the provisions of the act. The notice is sent to the place where the transaction which resulted in a violation of the Consumers Legal Remedies Act occurred or to the alleged violator's principal place of business in California [see Civ. Code § 1782(a); see also discussions at § 504.13[6] and [9][a]].

This notice is not required to be sent before the commencement of an action for injunctive relief. However, the plaintiff must serve the notice before amending the complaint to include a request for damages [see Civ. Code § 1782(d)].

[3] Compliance with Demand Provides Defense

[2] Use of Form

The complaint in [1], above, is for use when filing an action under the Consumers Legal Remedies Act. The act provides that any consumer who suffers damage as a result of the use or employment by any person of a method, act, or practice declared to be unlawful by the act [*see Meyer v. Sprint Spectrum L.P. (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 634, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 859, 200 P.3d 295, 2009 Cal. LEXIS 337, at *7-9 ; see also § 504.13[1]] may bring an action against that person to recover or obtain any of the following [Civ. Code § 1780(a)]:

- Actual damages, but in no case is the total award of damages in a class action to be less than $1,000.
- An order enjoining the prohibited methods, acts, or practices.

- Restitution of property.
- Punitive damages.
- Any other relief which the court deems proper.

Any consumer entitled to bring an action under the Act, if the unlawful method, act, or practice has caused damage to other consumers similarly situated, may bring a class action on behalf of himself or herself and the other consumers to recover damages or obtain other relief as provided for in Civ. Code § 1780 [Civ. Code § 1781(a)].

For allegations supporting an additional award to senior and disabled plaintiffs pursuant to Civ. Code §§ 1780(b) and 3345(b), see § 504.33.

[3] Allegations

[a] In General

The complaint in [1], above, alleges:

- The plaintiff's name (Paragraph 1).
- If the action is filed as a class action [see Civ. Code § 1781(b)]:
  - That the plaintiff is a class member (Paragraph 2).
  - The impracticability of bringing all class members before the court and the reasons why it would be impracticable (Paragraph 3).
  - A common question of law or fact (Paragraph 4).
  - That the plaintiff's claims or defenses are typical of the claims or defenses of the class (Paragraph 5).
  - That the plaintiff will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the class (Paragraph 6).
  - The defendant's name and status (Paragraph 7).
  - The type of business in which the defendant is engaged (Paragraph 7).
  - Fictitious defendants (Paragraph 8).
  - Facts regarding the plaintiff's purchase or lease of goods or services (Paragraph 9).
  - The purpose for which the goods or services were purchased or leased (Paragraph 10) [see Civ. Code § 1761(a), (b)].
  - Acts of the defendant in violation of the Consumers Legal Remedies Act (Paragraph 11) [see Civ. Code § 1770].

- That the sale or lease of the goods or services was intended to result or did result in the alleged violations (Paragraph 12) [see Civ. Code § 1770].

- The plaintiff's compliance with precomplaint notice requirements (Paragraph 13) [see Civ. Code § 1782(a)].

- The defendant's failure to take corrective measures (Paragraph 14), which is an essential element only if the action is not a class action [see Civ. Code § 1782(b)].

- Damages suffered by the plaintiff and, if a class action is filed, damages suffered by each class and the basis for determining class damages (Paragraph 15) [see Civ. Code § 1780(a)(1); see also § 504.13[1]].

- Continued acts in violation of the Consumers Legal Remedies Act (Paragraph 16) [see Civ. Code § 1780(a)(2)]; see also § 504.31[3][c]].

- Entitlement to exemplary damages (Paragraph 17) [see Civ. Code § 1780(a)(4); see also § 504.31[3][d]].

Allegations in a complaint based on the Consumers Legal Remedies Act are not required to be confined to specific language of the Act [Outboard Marine Corp. v. Superior Court (1975) 52 Cal. App. 3d 30, 36, 124 Cal. Rptr. 852] .

A plaintiff asserting a CLRA claim sounding in fraud [see, e.g., Civ. Code § 1770(a)(5), (7)] must establish actual reliance on the relevant representations or omissions, because under Civ. Code § 1780(a), the plaintiff must show that the defendant's deception caused harm to the plaintiff [Buckland v. Threshold Enters. (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 798, 809-810, 66 Cal. Rptr. 3d 543 ; accord, Princess Cruise Lines, Ltd. v. Superior Court (Wang) (2009) 179 Cal. App. 4th 36, 46, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 323].

[b] Excuse From Pleading Precomplaint Notice Compliance

Substantial compliance with the provisions of Civ. Code § 1782(a), requiring the sending of a notice of violation and a demand for remedy 30 days before the filing of a complaint under the Consumers Legal Remedies Act, is not sufficient. The fact that the defendant had notice of the violation does not excuse the sending of the notice because the 30-day period provided in Civ. Code § 1782(b) is designed to give the violator a chance to settle the matter before the filing of an action. However, the defendant can waive the right to a precomplaint notice by showing an actual intention to relinquish it or by conduct so inconsistent with the intent to enforce the notice requirement as to induce a reasonable belief that it has been relinquished. That conduct can take place even after the complaint has been filed, such as when the defendant expressly treats a letter of demand for correction, sent after the complaint was filed, as a notice under Civ. Code § 1782(a) [see Outboard Marine Corp. v. Superior Court (1975) 52 Cal. App. 3d 30, 41, 124 Cal. Rptr. 852] .

An action for injunctive relief under the act can be commenced without first sending a precomplaint demand and notice. However, if the plaintiff amends his or her complaint for injunctive relief to include a claim for damages, the demand and notice must be given, as discussed in § 504.13[6] [see Civ. Code § 1782(d)].

[c] Pleading Injunctive Relief

The plaintiff may plead for relief from unlawful methods, acts, or practices by way of injunction [Civ. Code § 1780(a)(2)]. If a specific statute provides for injunctive relief, allegations showing a violation of that statute are sufficient cause for the issuance of an injunction [see Paul v. Wadler (1962) 209 Cal. App. 2d 615, 625, 26 Cal. Rptr. 341 (when injunctive relief was authorized by statute, allegation of irreparable injury was unnecessary if specific statutory violation was alleged)]. Therefore, it appears that specific allegations of irreparable injury, inadequacy of legal remedy, or multiplicity of judicial proceedings [see Code Civ. Proc. § 526(a)(2), (4), (6)] are not necessary or intended by the Legislature to be required in pleading an action for injunctive relief under the Consumers Legal Remedies Act.

[d] Punitive Damages

No claim for punitive damages may state an amount sought regardless of the nature of the case or whether it is a limited civil case [Civ. Code § 3295(e)].

For discussion and forms for reserving the right to punitive damages when seeking a default judgment, see Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.40 et seq., and Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.115].

[e] Combining With Claims Under Related Acts

The provisions of the Consumers Legal Remedies Act are not exclusive [Civ. Code § 1752] and a single unfair or deceptive act or practice may provide the basis for additional remedies under other consumer legislation, including the following acts [see also discussion in § 504.11[2]]:

- Cartwright Act on combinations in restraint of trade. Bus. & Prof. Code § 16750
- Unfair Practices Act. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17000 et seq.
- Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act. Civ. Code § 1790 et seq.
- Unruh Retail Installment Sales Act. Civ. Code § 1801 et seq.
- Rees-Levering Motor Vehicle Sales and Finance Act. Civ. Code § 2981 et seq.

[4] Recovery of Attorney's Fees

The court must award court costs and attorney's fee to a prevailing plaintiff in litigation filed pursuant to Civ. Code § 1780 [Civ. Code § 1780(e); see Hayward v. Ventura Volvo (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 509, 513, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 514 (prevailing plaintiff is entitled to "reasonable" fees, although word is omitted from statute; court was not limited in awarding fees to those incurred under contingency fee contract); Reveles v. Toyota By the Bay (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1154, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 543 (entitlement to attorney's fees for net recovery)]. Reasonable attorney's fees may be awarded to a prevailing defendant on a finding by the court that the plaintiff's prosecution of the action was not in good faith [Civ. Code § 1780(e)].

If the plaintiff moves for attorney's fees pursuant to Civ. Code § 1780(e), generally the court is required to determine whether the plaintiff is the prevailing party and, if so, what amount is to be awarded to the plaintiff. The court must do this even if the action is concluded by a settlement. However, if the parties have agreed that attorney's fees are not to be awarded pursuant to Civ. Code § 1780(e), then the court must give effect to that agreement [Kim v. Euromotors West/The Auto Gallery (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 170, 178-181, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 780 (stating guidelines for determining whether plaintiff is prevailing party)].

For discussion and forms for motions relating to recovery of attorney's fees, see Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees, § 174.50 et seq.

[5] Jurisdiction

The superior court has jurisdiction of the action, which will be classified as an unlimited civil case unless the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest, is $25,000 or less, in which case it will be classified as a limited civil case [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(1)]. However, if the optional language seeking permanent injunctive relief is included, the action may not be a limited civil case except as otherwise authorized by statute [see Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(8), 580(b)(2)].

In limited civil cases, the caption must identify the case as a limited civil case and must state whether the demand exceeds or does not exceed $10,000 [Code Civ. Proc. § 422.30(b); Gov. Code § 70613(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(9), (10)].

For further discussion, see Ch. 324, Jurisdiction: Subject Matter .

[6] Venue

Venue is proper in the county in which the defendant resides, has his or her principal place of business, or is doing business, or in the county in which the transaction or any substantial portion of it occurred [Civ. Code § 1780(c)].

Any court in the county having jurisdiction of the subject matter is the proper court for trial [Civ. Code § 1780(c)].

The venue provisions of the CLRA do not override the general venue provisions, i.e., Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a) placing venue in the county where defendant resides [Gallin v. Superior Court (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 541, 543, 545, 281 Cal. Rptr. 304] .

In Gallin, which arose out of the great Milli Vanilli 'lip-synching' fraud, plaintiff sought to base venue on a single retail transaction in San Diego County although none of the multiple defendants resided there. Leaving open the question of whether a single retail transaction is enough on which to base venue, the court of appeal ordered a change of venue to Los Angeles County after distinguishing the CLRA from another act with special venue provisions on the basis that the interests protected by the CLRA in this case could just as easily be vindicated in the county where defendants resided [Gallin v. Superior Court (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 541, 545, 281 Cal. Rptr. 304] .

For further discussion, see Ch. 571, Venue .

[7] Installment or Automotive Sales Actions; Certain Limited Civil Cases

In any action or proceeding subject to the provisions of the Unruh Retail Installment Sales Act [Civ. Code § 1801 et seq.] or the Rees-Levering Motor Vehicle Sales and Finance Act [Civ. Code § 2981 et seq.], the plaintiff must state facts in the complaint, verified by his or her oath or the oath of his or her attorney, or in an affidavit (or declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) of the plaintiff or the plaintiff's attorney filed with the complaint, showing that the action has been commenced in the proper court for trial and that the action or proceeding is subject to the provisions of Civ. Code § 1812.10 or 2984.4 (proper courts for commencing actions under the Unruh Retail Installment Sales Act and the Rees-Levering Motor Vehicle Sales and Finance Act). When the affidavit or declaration is filed with the complaint, a copy must be served with the summons. If a proper complaint or affidavit or declaration is not filed, then unless the court, on any terms that may be just, permits the affidavit or declaration to be filed after the complaint is filed, the action must be dismissed without prejudice [Code Civ. Proc. § 396a(a); see Civ. Code §§ 1812.10(c), 2984.4(c)]. For a declaration for use under the Unruh Retail Installment Sales Act, see Ch. 501, Sales: Retail Installment Sales, § 501.102. These verification and affidavit requirements also apply in any case that arises from an offer or provision of goods, services, loans or extensions of credit intended primarily for personal, family or household use, or from a transaction consummated as the result of either an unsolicited telephone call made by a seller or a telephone call or electronic transmission made by the buyer or lessee in response to a solicitation by the seller [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 395(b), 396a(a)].

[8] Limitation of Action

An action brought under the Consumers Legal Remedies Act based on unlawful methods of competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices [Civ. Code § 1770] must be commenced not more than three years after the date of the commission of the method, act, or practice [Civ. Code § 1783].

[9] Declaration

In any action filed under the Consumers Legal Remedies Act for relief other than injunctive relief, concurrently the plaintiff must file an affidavit, or declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5], showing that the action has been commenced in the proper county [Civ. Code § 1780(d); see § 504.32].

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

The declaration in [1], above, is for use in an action under the Consumers Legal Remedies Act to set forth facts showing that the action is commenced in the proper court [see § 504.31[5] -[7]]. These facts may also be set forth in an affidavit, as opposed to a declaration under penalty of perjury [Civ. Code § 1780(d); Code Civ. Proc. § 396a(a)]. For a form for an affidavit, see Ch. 15, Affidavits, Certificates, and Declarations .

Civ. Code § 1780(d) in part provides that concurrently with the filing of the complaint the plaintiff must file an affidavit (or declaration under penalty of perjury executed in California [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) stating facts showing that the action has been commenced in a county described in the section as a proper place for the trial of the action. The section further provides that, if plaintiff fails to file the affidavit, the court must on its own motion or on the motion of any party dismiss the action without prejudice.

This form also may be used to comply with the requirements of Civ. Code § 1812.10 or 2984.4 when the action is subject to the requirements of Civ. Code § 1801 et seq., the Retail Installment Sales Act, or Civ. Code § 2891 et seq., the Rees-Levering Motor Vehicle Sales and Finance Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 396a(a)]. For further discussion of these requirements, see Ch. 501, Sales: Retail Installment Sales .

[2] Use of Form

The allegations in [1], above, are for use in an action under Civ. Code § 1780(a) by or on behalf of one or more senior citizens or disabled persons against a defendant who engaged in a practice declared unlawful under Civ. Code § 1770 [Civ. Code §§ 1780(b), 3345(a)]. Those allegations provide the basis for the findings necessary under Civ. Code §§ 1780(b) and 3345(b) to support an additional award of up to $5,000 for each senior or disabled plaintiff [Civ. Code §§ 1780(b), 3345(b); see discussions at § 504.12 and § 504.13[4]].

Paragraphs 1 and/or 2 of this form may be inserted between Paragraphs 1 and 2 of the form of complaint in § 504.31[1]. The remaining paragraphs from this form may be inserted after Paragraph 16 of the complaint in § 504.31.

[3] Allegations

Either Paragraph 1 or Paragraph 2 of this form is necessary to establish plaintiff's status as a person who may seek the benefit of Civ. Code §§ 1780(b) and 3345(b) [see Civ. Code §§ 1780(b), 3345(b) (discussed in § 504.13[4]); see also Civ. Code § 1761(f) (senior citizen defined); Civ. Code § 1761(g) (disabled person defined)]. Paragraph 3, alleging substantial emotional, physical, or economic loss, is also necessary [Civ. Code § 1780(b)(1)(A)]. Then, one or more of Paragraphs 4, 5, or 7 is necessary [Civ. Code § 1780(b)(1)(B); see Civ. Code § 3345]. Paragraph 6 is optional for use with Paragraph 5 [see Civ. Code § 3345(b)(2)].

No allegation is made that the additional award is appropriate, but a finding to that effect must be made to support any additional award [Civ. Code § 1780(b)(1)(C)]. For discussion and forms for regarding findings and requests for findings, see Ch. 529, Statement of Decision .

[4] Modification for Use in Unfair Competition or Deceptive Practices Action

The allegations in [1], above, may be adapted for use in an action under Bus. & Prof. Code § 17206.1, or in an action based on any statute imposing a civil penalty for unfair or deceptive acts or practices or unfair methods of competition brought by or on behalf of one or more senior citizens or disabled persons [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17206.1(a), (c) (discussed in Ch. 565, Unfair Competition, § 565.10 et seq.; Civ. Code § 3345 (discussed in Ch. 14, Advertising)]. In those situations, either Paragraph 1 or Paragraph 2 of the foregoing form is necessary to establish plaintiff's status as a person who may seek the benefit of Bus. & Prof. Code § 17206.1 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17206.1(b)(1) (senior citizen defined); Bus. & Prof. Code § 17206.1(b)(2) (disabled person defined); Civ. Code § 3345(a)].

Paragraphs 3 and 5 may be used together to describe the loss sustained, but neither alone is sufficient to establish the findings required by Bus. & Prof. Code § 17206.1(c)(3) or Civ. Code § 3345(b)(3) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17206.1(c)(3); Civ. Code § 3345(b)(3)]. In addition, pursuant to the passage of Proposition 64 in 2004, a private person may bring an action under Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et seq. only upon having suffered injury in fact and having lost money or property as a result of unfair competition [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17204]. A private plaintiff may file a representative action on behalf of others only if the plaintiff meets both this actual injury requirement and the requirements for class actions under Code Civ. Proc. § 382 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17203]. Thus, any action seeking recovery under Bus. & Prof. Code § 17206.1 must include allegations that the plaintiffs have suffered actual financial or property loss as a result of the defendant's conduct, and if a representative action is pursued, the requirements for a class action will have to be met.

Paragraph 4 relates to the factors referred to in Bus. & Prof. Code § 17206.1(c)(1) and Civ. Code § 3345(b)(1). Paragraphs 5 and 6 allege the existence of the facts addressed by Bus. & Prof. Code § 17206.1(c)(2) and Civ. Code § 3345(b)(2). One or more of the factors set forth in Civ. Code § 3345(b) must be established to support a trebled penalty pursuant to that section [Civ. Code § 3345(b)]. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17206.1(c) requires only that the trier of fact consider those factors, in addition to any other appropriate factors, in determining whether to impose the civil penalty authorized by Bus. & Prof. Code § 17206.1(a) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17206.1(c)].

[2] Use of Form

The allegation in [1], above, may be inserted after Paragraph 12 of the complaint in § 504.31[1], which is a general complaint for damages and other relief for violation of the Consumers Legal Remedies Act, when an owner or employee of any advertising medium published or disseminated an advertisement in violation of the act knowing of the deceptive methods, acts, or practices alleged to be unlawful. Without proof of such knowledge, no owner or employee of any advertising medium can be liable under the act [see Civ. Code § 1755, discussed in § 504.13[5]]. [1] FORM Affirmative Defense in Action Under Consumers Legal Remedies Act That Violation Was Result of Bona Fide Error [Civ. Code § 1784]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state: TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges that:

The violation of the Consumers Legal Remedies Act alleged in plaintiff's complaint was not intentional but resulted from a bona fide error notwithstanding the use of reasonable procedures that defendant adopted to avoid any violation of the act. Defendant has also made an appropriate _____ [correction or repair or replacement or specify other remedy] of the _____ [goods or services] plaintiff purchased from defendant, namely _____ [specify remedy].

[2] Use of Form

The affirmative defense in [1], above, may be included in a defendant's answer to a complaint brought under the Consumers Legal Remedies Act when defendant [Civ. Code § 1784; see discussion in § 504.13[10]]:

- Can prove that the alleged violation of the act was not intentional and resulted from a bona fide error, notwithstanding the use of reasonable procedures adopted to avoid any such error, and

- Has made an appropriate correction, repair, or replacement or other remedy of the goods and services as provided in Civ. Code § 1782(b) or (c)

Under Civ. Code § 1782(b) and (c), it is a complete defense to an individual action under the act if defendant has remedied, or agreed to remedy, the alleged violation within 30 days after receiving plaintiff's notice of the violation. Therefore, it appears that the foregoing defense would be used in any class action or in an individual action when defendant has failed to remedy, or to agree to remedy, the violation within 30 days after receiving the notice of violation.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

44-505 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 505.11

§ 505.11 Purpose of Act

The Independent Wholesale Sales Representatives Contractual Relations Act of 1990 (Civ. Code § 1738.10 et seq.; hereinafter referred to as the "Wholesale Sales Representatives Act") contains a statement of legislative intent to protect independent sales representatives from unjust termination of territorial market areas. It was the intent of the Legislature in enacting the Wholesale Sales Representatives Act to provide security and clarify the contractual relations between manufacturers and their nonemployee sales representatives, who the Legislature recognizes are a key ingredient in the California economy and who spend many hours developing their territories in order to properly market their products [Civ. Code § 1738.10].

[2] Use of Form

The complaint in [1], above, is for use by an independent wholesale representative to collect treble the amount of damages he or she sustained as a result of a manufacturer's, jobber's, or distributor's willful failure to pay commissions provided for in their written contract, or willful failure to enter into a written contract as required by Civ. Code § 1738.13; [Civ. Code § 1738.15; see also discussion at § 505.13 (definitions)].

[3] Allegations

The complaint in [1], above, alleges:

- The capacity and residence of defendant (Paragraph 1) [see Civ. Code § 1738.14, discussed at § 505.16].

- Fictitious defendant (Paragraph 2) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 474].

- The existence of an agency relationship between the defendants (Paragraph 3).

- That plaintiff is an independent wholesale representative as that term is defined by Civ. Code § 1738.12(e) (Paragraph 4).

- That defendant is a manufacturer, jobber, or distributor, as defined by Civ. Code § 1738.12(a), (b), or (c), respectively (Paragraph 5).

- The formation of a contract between the parties, whether the contract was written or oral, and its relevant terms (Paragraph 6) [Civ. Code § 1738.13(a),(b)].

- Plaintiff's performance of the relevant contract terms (Paragraph 7).

- Defendant's breach of the contract or other actions that caused damage to plaintiff (Paragraph 8).

- The resultant damage to plaintiff (Paragraph 9).

- That defendant's acts violate the Independent Wholesale Sales Representatives Contractual Relations Act, thereby entitling plaintiff to treble damages (Paragraph 10) under Civ. Code § 1738.15.

[4] Verification

Verification of a complaint is not required, but verification of a complaint requires the defendant to file a verified answer in a superior court action other than a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446] and precludes a general denial except in limited civil cases. Even in limited civil cases, if the cause of action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection, verification of the complaint will preclude general denial [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion of the effect that verifying a complaint has on the answer, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[5] Statute of Limitations

An action on liability created by statute, other than a penalty or forfeiture, is subject to a three-year limitation period [Code Civ. Proc. § 338(a)].

Sanctions applicable only to particular procedures are discussed in connection with those procedures. [See § 510.02].

§ 510.10 Determining Basis for Sanctions

Sanctions may be based on a number of statutes or rules, which are discussed in this chapter. The sanctions available and procedure for imposing them varies.

The general sanctions statute is Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7. Sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 apply to a "complaint or petition filed on or after January 1, 1995, and any other pleading, written notice of motion, or other similar paper filed in such a matter" [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(i); see § 510.12].

If sanctions are sought for violation of a court order, Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5 is the basis for the sanctions [see § 510.13].

If sanctions are sought for violation of a local court rule, Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2 and Gov. Code § 68608 are the basis for the sanctions [see §§ 510.14, 510.15].

If defense costs are sought against a plaintiff, Code Civ. Proc. § 1038 is the basis for a sanction available in limited circumstances [see § 510.19].

§ 510.11 Power of Court to Award Sanctions Generally

A court cannot order the payment of attorney's fees or other expenses as monetary sanctions absent express statutory authority [Bauguess v. Paine (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 626, 635-639, 150 Cal. Rptr. 461, 586 P.2d 942 ; Vidrio v. Hernandez (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 1443, 1454-1455 ; Andrews v. Superior Court (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 779, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 426]. A court has no inherent power to do so [Bauguess v. Paine (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 626, 635-639, 150 Cal. Rptr. 461, 586 P.2d 942 ; Lind v. Medevac, Inc. (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 516, 522-523, 268 Cal. Rptr. 359] .

Thus, for example, a court may not impose monetary sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128. Although that section provides the court with statutory powers to control proceedings before it, the court has no inherent power pursuant to that statute to impose monetary sanctions, whether as attorney's fees or as a penalty [Bauguess v. Paine (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 626, 635-639, 150 Cal. Rptr. 461, 586 P.2d 942 ; Andrews v. Superior Court (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 779, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 426]. However, when a party's deliberate and egregious misconduct makes any sanction other than a terminating sanction inadequate, the trial court has inherent power to impose a terminating sanction [Stephen Slesinger, Inc. v. Walt Disney Co. (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 736, 757-776, 66 Cal. Rptr. 3d 268] . In addition, although attorney's fees may not be awarded as a sanction under the trial court's supervisory power, they may be awarded under the court's equitable power [Rudnick v. Rudnick (2009) 179 Cal. App. 4th 1328, 1333, 102 Cal. Rptr. 3d 493 (trust case)].

§ 510.12 Sanctions Under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7

[1] Effective Dates

Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 became effective January 1, 1995. The section applies to a complaint or petition filed on or after that date and to any other pleading, written notice of motion, or similar paper filed in the matter [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(i); see § 510.10].

[2] Patterned on Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 11

Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 closely tracks Fed. R. Civ. P. 11, although there are some significant differences. Federal cases construing Rule 11 may frequently be persuasive, though not controlling, in construing Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7. The legislature has stated its intent for the courts to be guided (but not bound) by the Advisory Committee Notes to the 1993 amendments to Rule 11 when interpreting Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7. For further discussion of Rule 11 and cases applying it, see Moore's Federal Practice, Ch. 11, Signing of Pleadings, Motions, and Other Papers; Representations to Court; Sanctions (3d ed. Matthew Bender).

[3] Application to Judicial Arbitration

Because Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 sanctions require certification of papers presented to the court, the question may arise whether sanctions are available in the context of judicial arbitration proceedings [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1141.10 et seq.; see also § 510.12[11]]. Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 is silent on the matter.

[3A] Applicability to Juvenile Court Proceedings

Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 on its face applies to all civil courts and civil proceedings, and therefore applies to juvenile court proceedings. For example, a juvenile court hearing a dependency case [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 300, discussed in Ch. 328, Juvenile Courts: Dependency Proceedings] may lawfully impose sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 [In re Mark B. (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 61, 74-80, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 697] . Further, a juvenile court referee in dependency proceedings may lawfully impose sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7, because a juvenile court referee in dependency proceedings has essentially the same powers as a judge, and any differences are not material to this issue [In re Mark B. (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 61, 80-81, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 697] .

[4] Showing Sanctionable Conduct Under Section 128.7

Under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7, sanctions may be imposed if it is "primarily" presented to the court for an improper purpose. Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7, does not provide for a subjective bad faith standard.

[5] Types of Sanctions

Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 allows sanctions to be awarded in favor of a party, and expressly provides for the imposition of nonmonetary directives, and for the payment of penalties to the court.

[6] Amount of Sanctions

By "limiting" sanctions to an amount sufficient to deter repetition of the conduct or comparable conduct by others similarly situated, Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 may allow larger sanctions than former Section 128.5 which authorized only reasonable expenses, including attorney's fees, as sanctions [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(d)].

[7] Law Firms Subject to Derivative Liability

Law firms may be derivatively liable for acts of partners, attorneys, and employees under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(c)(1)]. For discussion, see § 510.12[12].

[8] Safe Harbor Provisons

Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 expressly provides the offending attorney or party with 21 days from receipt of a notice of motion or order to show cause re sanctions to withdraw or appropriately correct the challenged matter [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(c)(1),(2)]. The purpose of the safe harbor provisions is to permit an offending party to avoid sanctions by withdrawing the improper pleading during the statutory safe harbor period without penalty, saving the court and the parties time and money litigating the pleading as well as the sanctions request [Galleria Plus v. Hanmi Bank (2009) 179 Cal. App. 4th 535, 538, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 803 ; Li v. Majestic Industrial Hills LLC (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 585, 591, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 334 (safe harbor period indicates Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 is remedial, not punitive); Liberty Mutual Fire Ins. Co. v. McKenzie (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 681, 692, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 910 ; Malovec v. Hamrell (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 434, 441, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 712] . To avoid the award of sanctions, however, the offending party must not only take action to correct or withdraw the challenged pleading, it must also give notice to the moving party that it has taken the step. Absent that notice, the moving party has no knowledge that the problem has been resolved and will proceed with filing the sanctions motion with the court [Liberty Mutual Fire Ins. Co. v. McKenzie (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 681, 692, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 910] .

Specifically, once the motion has been served, it may not thereafter be filed until 21 days from service have elapsed without a withdrawal or correction of the of the paper, claim, defense, contention, allegation, or denial that is challenged by the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(c)(1)].

If a motion for sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 is served at a time when it is no longer possible for the opposing party to taken the necessary corrective action, the motion violates the safe harbor provision and must be denied, even if the moving party otherwise waited the requisite 21 days before filing the motion. Thus, for example, it is improper to award sanctions based on a motion claiming that the complaint is without merit, when the motion is not served until after judgment has been entered in the action, and the plaintiff accordingly has lost the ability to correct or withdraw the challenged pleading. A motion for sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 claiming that a case is without merit must, at the very least, be served before the conclusion of that case [Barnes v. Department of Corrections (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 126, 128, 135-136, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 594 (reversing award of sanctions)]. In addition, a ruling on the challenged motion during the safe harbor period precludes recovery of sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 [Li v. Majestic Industrial Hills LLC (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 585, 595, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 334 (party seeking sanctions must move to continue challenged motion or shorten safe harbor period)].

On the other hand, an order sustaining a demurrer without leave to amend does not bar a motion for § 128.7 sanctions unless the order is reduced to judgment before the sanctions motion is served and filed [Banks v. Hathaway, Perrett, Webster, Powers & Chrisman (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 949, 954, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 803] .

When the party that is the subject of the sanctions does not take corrective action until after the safe harbor period has ended, such as by dismissing the complaint, the belated action does not fulfill the object of the safe harbor provision, and policies favoring allowing sanctions remain notwithstanding the corrective action [see Eichenbaum v. Alon (2003) 106 Cal. App. 4th 967, 974-976, 131 Cal. Rptr. 2d 296 (dismissal of complaint with prejudice after safe harbor period expired did not preclude award of sanctions)].

[9] Section 128.7 Sanctions Inapplicable to Discovery Matters

Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 does not apply to disclosures and discovery requests, responses, objections, and motions [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(g)]. Thus, in actions initiated on or after January 1, 1995, discovery sanctions may only be available through the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure applicable to discovery [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq.]. One purpose of eliminating discovery from the ambit of Section 128.7 was to reduce "satellite" litigation that could be generated if the general sanctions statute continued to be applicable to discovery [Senate Committee on Judiciary Analysis of AB 3594 at 4 (Aug. 16, 1994)]. For discussion of sanctions under the discovery act, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Abuse .

[10] Signature and Address Requirement for Pleadings, Petitions, Written Notice of Motions, or Other Similar Papers

Under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a), every pleading, petition, written notice of motion, or other similar paper must be signed by at least one attorney of record in the attorney's individual name. If, however, a party is not represented by an attorney, the party must sign the papers. Each paper must state the signer's address and telephone number, if any [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)]. An unsigned paper must be stricken unless the omission of the signature is corrected promptly after being called to the attorney's or party's attention [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)].

Except when otherwise provided by law, a pleading need not be verified or accompanied by an affidavit [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 446 (verification requirements generally); for discussion of verification, see Ch. 572, Verification].

[11] Conditions Certified to by Attorney or Unrepresented Party Presenting Papers to Court

Section 128.7 ties sanctions to the certification of pleadings, petitions, notices of motion and similar papers presented to the court. Certification is not in the nature of a verification, but is implied by law in every pleading. By presenting to the court a pleading, petition, written notice of motion, or other similar paper, an attorney or unrepresented party certifies under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b) that to the best of the person's knowledge, information, and belief, formed after an inquiry reasonable under the circumstances, all of the following conditions are met:

- It is not being presented primarily for an improper purpose, such as to harass or to cause unnecessary delay or needless increase in litigation cost.

PRACTICE TIP:

Primarily for an Improper Purpose. The "primarily for an improper purpose" standard is different from the Fed. R. Civ. P. 11 standard which allows sanctions when a paper is filed for any improper purpose. The Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 primarily standard is higher. By Evelio M. Grillo.

- The claims, defenses, and other legal contentions set forth in the papers are warranted by existing law or by a nonfrivolous argument for the extension, modification, or reversal of existing law or the establishment of new law.

- There is evidentiary support for the allegations and other factual contentions or, if specifically so identified, the allegations and other factual contentions are likely to have evidentiary support after a reasonable opportunity for further investigation or discovery.

- The denials of factual contentions are warranted on the evidence, or if specifically so identified, are reasonably based on a lack of information or belief.

A paper is presented to the court by any of the following actions [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b)]:

- Signing.

- Filing.

- Submitting.

- Later advocating.

Although the meaning of signing, filing, and submitting a paper to the court is relatively clear, the concept of "later advocating" a pleading is not. On the basis of the similarity of Section 128.7 to Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 11, it could be argued that the later advocacy requirement of Section 128.7(b) is intended to create the same duty of candor in superior courts as is present in federal courts. Under Rule 11, attorneys and parties may not continue to insist on or argue a position to the court after the factual or legal basis for the position becomes untenable. The litigants' obligation to be candid regarding the contents of papers filed with the court is measured as of the time the papers are submitted to the court and also as of the time a pleading or paper is advocated to the court, that is, argued or supported by motions or other papers. Counsel and the parties who are not candid with the court by advocating positions contained in a motion or other pleading after learning that the position has no merit may be sanctioned under Rule 11. Thus, "later advocacy" may tip an originally meritorious pleading over the line and allow the imposition of sanctions if a pleading has been presented for an improper purpose (such as delay or harassment) or is found to be lacking a sound evidentiary basis [Fed. R. Civ. P. 11 advisory committee's note]. This interpretation of Section 128.7 is consistent with both the Notes of Advisory Committee to the 1993 Amendments of Rule 11 as well as California cases decided under Section 128.5 which took into consideration counsel's candor when imposing sanctions [Fed. R. Civ. P. 11 advisory committee's note; cf. Luke v. Baldwin-United Corp. (1985) 167 Cal. App. 3d 664 (counsel filing motion later determined through discovery to be unmeritorious exonerated from sanctions where motion was timely withdrawn) with Park Magnolia v. Fields (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d Supp. 1, 4-5 (pursuit of obviously invalid writ of possession and requiring opposing counsel to vacate writ through motion and hearing totally and completely without merit would support imposition of sanctions)].

The certification is more than a simple prophylactic measure designed to make litigants "stop and think" prior to filing pleadings with the court, although that is certainly one of the purposes [Senate Committee on Judiciary Analysis of AB 3594 at 3 (Aug. 16, 1994)]. Under Section 128.7, actual sanctions may flow from a violation of any one of the four certifications. The certifications required by Section 128.7 are broad enough to embrace all of the grounds for sanctions under former Section 128.5, and more.

For discussion of the impact of the implied certification on pleading, see Ch. 26, Answers , and Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints .

Although Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a) is explicit concerning the requirement of a signature and the consequences of failing to sign a pleading, it does not address technical issues related to the signature requirement. These include the following:

- Not defining what constitutes signing in an attorney's "individual name" for the purposes of certification.

- Not addressing whether an attorney's partner or an associate may sign the complaint if the attorney handling the case is unavailable.

- Omitting to define who is liable if a partner, associate or employee who is unfamiliar with the case, signs for the attorney who has primary responsibility, in the event that any of the Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b)(2) certifications are untrue.

Although there is no California authority on point, federal cases decided under analogous provisions of Rule 11 have held the requirement of the signing of a pleading in the individual attorney's name will not be satisfied by a typewritten name on a pleading [Giebelhaus v. Spindrift Yachts (9th Cir. 1991) 938 F.2d 962, 965-966] . Certification should require the actual signature of the certifying attorney, in the individual attorney's name. Thus, a pleading signed in the name of the firm "by (name of attorney)" would be sufficient, but a pleading signed "The XYZ Law Firm" without an individual attorney's signature would not be [Giebelhaus v. Spindrift Yachts (9th Cir. 1991) 938 F.2d 962, 965-966] .

The second issue, whether an attorney may delegate the signing of a pleading to another attorney, is intertwined with the third issue, liability for a Rule 11 violation. Prior to 1993, an attorney could not delegate his or her obligations under Rule 11 [Pavelic & Le Flore v. Marvel Entertainment Group (1989) 493 U.S. 120, 125-127, 110 S. Ct. 456, 107 L. Ed. 2d 438 (1983 version of Rule 11 did not permit sanctions of law firm signing groundless complaint)]. However, the 1993 amendments to Rule 11, the model for Section 128.7, incorporated provisions that allow an attorney, law firm, or employee to be sanctioned for a violation of the rule [Fed. R. Civ. P. 11 advisory committee's note]. The purpose of the 1993 amendments was, absent exceptional circumstances, also to hold the law firm responsible when a partner, employee, or associate violated Rule 11. The federal rule allows the court to make additional inquiry in order to determine whether the sanctions should be imposed on additional persons, or the law firm, instead of the person actually making the presentation to the court [Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 11 advisory committee's note].

The court may impose appropriate sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(c),(d) for violation of Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b). For sanctions that may be imposed, see discussion § 510.12[18].

[12] Who Is Subject to Sanctions

Sanctions for violation of Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b) may be awarded against attorneys, law firms, or parties that violated the section or that are responsible for the violation [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(c)]. Moreover, in the absence of exceptional circumstances, a law firm is required to be held jointly responsible for violations that are committed by its partners, associates and employees [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(c)(1)].

Monetary sanctions may not be awarded against a represented party for a violation of Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b)(2) (certification) [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(d)(1)]. Alternatively, it may be argued that monetary sanctions are authorized against a represented party for violation of Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b)(1) (improper purpose, harassment, unnecessary delay or needless cost), (b)(3) (no evidentiary support), and (b)(4) (denials unwarranted by evidence) [see Laborde v. Aronson (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 459, 466, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 119 , overruled on other grounds, Musaelian v. Adams (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 512, 520, 87 Cal. Rtpr. 3d 475, 198 P.3d 560].

[12A] Who May Recover Sanctions

An attorney or any other party who chooses to represent himself or herself in an action does not "incur" or become liable for attorney's fees and therefore is not entitled to an award of such fees under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 [Musaelian v. Adams (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 512, 520, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 475, 198 P.3d 560]. In Musaelian v. Adams, an attorney acted in propria persona to defend an action on the grounds that the claims were subject to the litigation privilege of Civ. Code § 47. The attorney defendant also moved under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 for sanctions including attorney's fees against the plaintiff. The California Supreme Court held that the attorney could not recover attorney's fees under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 as compensation for the time and effort expended on his own behalf to address the plaintiff's violation of Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7. The Court held that the inclusion of the words "incur" and "attorney's fees" in Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 implies an agency relationship under which the client and the party are not one and the same, and out of which the attorney expects remuneration [Musaelian v. Adams (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 512, 520, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 475, 198 P.3d 560].

The Court's holding disapproved, to the extent inconsistent, of two court of appeal decisions that had previously allowed recovery of attorney's fees by pro se attorney litigants [Musaelian v. Adams (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 512, 520, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 475, 198 P.3d 560 (disapproving, to the extent inconsistent, decisions in Abandonato v. Coldren (1995) 41 Cal. App. 4th 264, 269, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 429 and Laborde v. Aronson (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 459, 469, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 119)].

[13] Liability for Sanctions Under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b)(1)

[a] Burden of Proof

Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b) imposes liability for sanctions when a paper or pleading is presented "primarily for an improper purpose" such as harassment or delay [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b)(1)], and also for inadequate investigation, that is, when factual and legal assertions and contentions are not "warranted by existing law," or "likely to have evidentiary support," or are not "reasonably based on lack of information and belief" [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b)(2), (3), (4)]. Each of these terms, in turn, relates to the burden of proof to be applied under each subsection of the statute.

[b] Primarily for Improper Purpose

Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 generally required an action or tactic to be taken in bad faith, or to be "frivolous," which was defined as "totally and completely without merit" or for the "for sole purpose of harassing" an opposing party [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5(b)(2)]. Section 128.7 does not require such a high level of improper conduct, but rather specifies that if any pleading or paper is filed primarily for an improper purpose, the proponent of the paper will be subject to sanctions. These improper purposes are defined in Section 128.7(b) to include "causing unnecessary delay," "harassment," or "needless increase in the cost of litigation."

The burden of establishing the filing of a pleading primarily for an improper purpose under Section 128.7 is clearly higher than under Fed. R. Civ. Proc. 11, which allows sanctions to be imposed if a pleading is filed for any improper purpose.

[c] Objective Standard Established

Based on the legislative history, Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 appears to establish an objective standard for the imposition of sanctions if a pleading is more likely than not to have been submitted to the court for an improper purpose. This is similar to California's preponderance of evidence standard. Borrowing from Fed. R. Civ. Proc. 11 and California case law construing Section 128.5, the determination of whether a pleading or paper "more likely than not" has been presented for an improper purpose should be made from the standpoint of the reasonable attorney: If a reasonable attorney would agree that it is more likely than not that a pleading or other paper has been filed for an improper purpose, the proponent of that pleading may be sanctioned [compare Derechin v. State University of New York (2d Cir. 1992) 963 F.2d 513, 520] (sanctions may be imposed under Rule 11 when after reasonable inquiry competent attorney could not form reasonable belief that pleading is well grounded) with Abbett Electric Corp. v. Sullwold (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 708, 713-714, 238 Cal. Rptr. 496 (objective determinations under Section 128.5 to be made from standpoint of "reasonable attorney").

[14] Duty of Reasonable Inquiry Under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b)(2)-(4)

An alternative basis for awarding sanctions under Section 128.7 is contained in Subsections (b)(2), (b)(3), and (b)(4), which provide that by signing a paper or other pleading, the signatory is certifying that the claims, defenses, and legal contentions contained in a pleading are warranted by existing law, or a non-frivolous argument for extension, modification, reversal, or establishment of new law; that allegations and factual contentions have an evidentiary basis, or may reasonably be expected to have such support after further investigation and discovery; and that denials are reasonably based on a lack of information and belief [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b)(2)-(4)]. In effect, these subsections impose a duty of reasonable inquiry on counsel to determine the legal and factual bases of all contentions asserted in a pleading.

The extent of the reasonable inquiry required of counsel and unrepresented parties is undefined by Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b). However, under analogous provisions of Fed. R. Civ. Proc. 11, reasonable inquiry depends on a number of factors such as [Fed. R. Civ. P. 11 advisory committee's note]:

- The time available to the signatory.
- Whether the attorney has had to rely on the client for information contained in the pleading.
- Whether the view of the law expounded in the pleading is plausible.

This view comports also with California cases, which require the court to consider timing considerations, such as potential statute of limitations problems, when considering imposing sanctions under Section 128.5 [see Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Ry. Co. v. Stockton Port Dist. (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 111, 115, 117, 189 Cal. Rptr. 208] .

Although the burden of proof for awarding sanctions for a violation of subsections (b)(2), (b)(3), and (b)(4) is not specified, based on Rule 11 and California authority construing Section 128.5, and the legislative history, two generalizations are possible. First, under Section 128.7, as under Rule 11, the obligation to conduct inquiry and research of legal theories and factual contentions is that which would be conducted by a reasonable attorney under the circumstances. [Business Guides v. Chromatic Com. Enterprises (1991) 498 U.S. 533, 550-551, 111 S. Ct. 922, 112 L. Ed. 2d 1140] . Second, creative "objective" legal arguments will still be permissible under Section 128.7, but "empty head, pure heart arguments" are prohibited, and will subject the proponent of a pleading to sanctions [Fed. R. Civ. P. 11 advisory committee's note; Letter from Assemblyman T. Weggeland to Senator B. Lockyer (Aug. 17, 1994) (discussing legislative intent)].

[15] Pleadings On Information and Belief

Current pleading practice allows allegations and denials of material facts in both verified and unverified complaints to be made on information and belief [Horacek v. Smith (1948) 33 Cal. 2d 186, 191, 199 P.2d 929 ; Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d), (e)-(f)]. Prior to January 1, 1995, the effect of an allegation or denial on information and belief was to raise and to place into issue a material allegation or allegations of the complaint [see FPI Development v. Nakashima (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 367, 383, 282 Cal. Rptr. 508] . Pleadings filed after that date continue to have the same effect, but also implicitly certify that such allegations meet the criteria of Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b)(2)-(4), that is, that the allegations have or will have evidentiary support after the opportunity for reasonable discovery or investigation [see § 510.12[14][a]].

PRACTICE TIP:

Paraphrase Section 128.7 in Pleading. To remove all doubt as to the scope of the certification as to matters pleaded on information and belief, counsel should add a paragraph at the beginning of the body of a pleading which paraphrases Section 128.7, such as, for example, "The allegations of this complaint stated on information and belief have evidentiary support or are likely to have evidentiary support after a reasonable opportunity for further investigation or discovery." This should protect counsel from sanctions under Section 128.7 and, provided counsel has conducted adequate investigation of the factual contentions which are not asserted on information and belief, make it more difficult for a prevailing party in litigation from establishing the elements of malicious prosecution in a later action.

[16] General Denials

A litigant responding to an unverified complaint filed by a private party may file a general denial that serves to place at issue all material allegations of the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. In contrast to the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, which expressly subject general denials to the provisions of Fed. R. Civ. Proc. 11, Code Civ. Proc. §§ 128.7 and 431.30 do not expressly contemplate the application of Section 128.7(b) certifications to general denials [compare Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(b) with Code Civ. Proc. §§ 431.30, 446]. California case authorities on this point antedate both Sections 128.5 and 128.7, but suggest that litigants could be subjected to sanctions under 128.7 for failing to investigate the underlying factual basis of a general denial [see Burke v. Superior Court (1968) 71 Cal. 2d 276, 282, 78 Cal. Rptr. 481, 455 P.2d 409 (general denials not distinguishing between allegations that are unquestionably true and thosethat are at issue in good faith are to be justly condemned); Williamson v. Clapper (1948) 88 Cal. App. 2d 645, 648, 199 P.2d 337 (loose practice of pleading resulting in incorporation in answer of known false denials is to be condemned)]. By the plain language of Section 128.7, the court could clearly could impose sanctions for a litigant's general denial to an unquestionably true allegation of a complaint. Nevertheless, given the entrenched practice of interposing general denials to all unverified complaints, it is uncertain whether the courts will view the general denial as an exception to Section 128.7 or subject to the statute's certification and reasonable investigation requirements.

[17] Court's Consideration of Due Diligence of Party Seeking Sanctions

A court in determining what sanction, if any, to impose must consider whether the party seeking sanctions has exercised due diligence [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(c)].

The due diligence requirement of Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 has no counterpart in Fed. R. Civ. Proc. 11. The purpose of including the due diligence requirement appears to have been to preclude counsel from intentionally delaying the filing of a motion for sanctions under Section 128.7 in order to maximize a potential award of attorney's fees relating to conduct or tactics that occurred earlier in the litigation, and could have been remedied [Senate Committee on Judiciary Analysis of AB 3594 at 6 (Aug. 16, 1994)]. This is consistent with Code. Civ. Proc. § 128.7(h), which allows sanctions to be imposed if a motion for sanctions has been brought for an improper purpose, as well as California case law disfavoring the dilatory use of procedural motions to obtain a tactical advantage, when conduct underlying the motion or the motion is motivated by bad faith [see M.E. Gray Co. v. Gray (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 1025, 1034-1036, 210 Cal. Rptr. 285 (affirming sanctions imposed on counsel who sought dismissal on technicality after having obtained extension of five-year statute); for discussion of Section 128.7(h), see § 510.12[22]].

[18] Sanctions Authorized Under Section 128.7 When Attorney's or Party's Certification Violated

[a] Types of Sanctions

A court imposing sanctions for violation of Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b) is required to limit the sanction to that which is sufficient to deter repetition of the conduct or comparable conduct by others similarly situated [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(d)]. Subject to Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(d)(1) and (2), sanctions that a court can impose may consist of, or include [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(d)]:

- Directives of a nonmonetary nature,
- An order to pay a penalty into court, or
- If imposed on motion and warranted for effective deterrence, an order directing payment to the movant of some or all of the reasonable attorney's fees and other expenses incurred as a direct result of the violation.

[b] Directives of a Nonmonetary Nature

"Directives of a nonmonetary nature" authorized by Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(d) are not defined by the statute, but could include the full panoply of nonmonetary sanctions available under Fed. R. Civ. P. 11. These sanctions might include, in the appropriate case, injunctive relief, disqualifying counsel from further participation in the litigation, and perhaps even referral to the appropriate bar disciplinary authorities [see Total Television Entertainment Corp. v. Chestnut Hill Village Associates (E.D. Pa. 1992) 145 F.R.D. 375 ; Merrigan v. Affiliated Bankshares of Colorado, Inc. (D. Colo. 1991) 775 F. Supp. 1408 (injunctive sanctions appropriate where monetary are not effective)]. For discussion of when the State Bar must be notified of the imposition of sanctions, see § 510.22.

[c] Expenses and Attorney's Fees for Prevailing Party on Sanctions Motion

If a noticed motion for sanctions has been brought, the court may award to the prevailing party on the motion, if warranted, the reasonable expenses and attorney's fees incurred in presenting or opposing the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(c)(1); for discussion of the notice of motion procedure, see § 510.12[20]].

An attorney may not recover sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 if the attorney represents himself or herself in the action and does not pay or "incur" any liability for attorney's fees [Musaelian v. Adams (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 512, 520, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 475, 198 P.3d 560 , see § 510.12[12A]].

[d] Limit on Sanctions Against Party Based on Unwarranted Legal Contentions

Money sanctions may not be awarded against a represented party for a violation of Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b)(2), that is, for violation of the condition that the claims, defenses, and other legal contentions set forth in the papers are warranted by existing law or by a nonfrivolous argument for the extension, modification, or reversal of existing law or the establishment of new law [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(d)(1)].

[e] Procedural Prerequisite to Award of Money Sanctions on Court's Own Motion

When the court proceeds on its own motion to impose sanctions, monetary sanctions may not be awarded unless the court issues its order to show cause before a voluntary dismissal or settlement of the claims made by or against the party that is, or whose attorneys are, to be sanctioned [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(d)(2))]. For order to show cause procedure, see discussion in § 510.12[20][d].

[19] Availability of Punitive Damages in Action by Felon

In addition to any award of sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 for conduct described in Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b), the court may assess punitive damages against the plaintiff if the court determines that the following four requirements are met [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(f)]:

- The plaintiff has been convicted of a felony;
- The action is brought against the plaintiff's victim, or the victim's heirs, relatives, or estate, or personal representative;
- The action is an action for injuries arising from the acts for which the plaintiff was convicted; and
- The plaintiff is guilty of fraud, oppression, or malice in maintaining the action.

[20] Procedure

[a] Notice and Reasonable Opportunity to Respond

For a court to award sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 for a violation of Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b) notice and a reasonable opportunity to respond is required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(c)].

[b] Notice of Motion

A party may seek sanctions by way of noticed motion. The motion for sanctions must be made separately from other motions or requests. It must describe the specific conduct alleged to violate Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b) [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(c)(1)].

[c] Service of Notice; Opportunity to Withdraw Challenged Paper, Claim, Defense, Contention, Allegation, or Denial

The notice of motion must be served as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1010. It cannot, however, be filed with or presented to the court unless, within 21 days after service of the motion, or such other period as prescribed by the court, the challenged paper, claim, defense, contention, allegation, or denial is not appropriately corrected or withdrawn [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(c)(1); see, e.g., Galleria Plus v. Hanmi Bank (2009) 179 Cal. App. 4th 535, 538, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 803 (motion that did not provide 21-day notice was defective)].

[d] Court's Order to Show Cause

The court, on its own motion may enter an order describing the specific conduct that appears to violate Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b) and directing an attorney, law firm, or party to show cause why it has not violated Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b) unless, within 21 days of service of the order to show cause, the challenged paper, claim, defense, contention, allegation, or denial is appropriately corrected or withdrawn [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(c)(2)].

[21] Requirement Concerning Sanction Order

The court when imposing sanctions must describe the conduct determined to constitute a violation of Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 and must explain the basis for the sanctions imposed [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(e)]. Due process requires that any order imposing sanctions state with particularity the basis for finding a violation of the section [see Caldwell v. Samuels Jewelers (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 970, 977-978, 272 Cal. Rptr. 126 (construing former Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 227; now see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.30)].

[22] Improper Sanction Motion Is Sanctionable

A motion for sanctions is itself subject to a motion for sanctions if it is brought by a party or a party's attorney primarily for an improper purpose, for example, to harass or to cause unnecessary delay or needless increase in the cost of litigation [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(h)]. It is the Legislature's intent that the courts vigorously use its sanctions authority to deter such improper conduct or comparable conduct by others similarly situated [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(h)].

Under Fed. R. Civ. Proc. 11, and presumably under Section 128.7, improper conduct may include using sanctions motions as a discovery device or as a tool for exacting an unjust settlement, or to intimidate one's adversary into withdrawing contentions that are debatable [Fed. R. Civ. P. 11].

§ 510.13 Sanctions Under Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5 for Violation of Lawful Court Order

[1] Basic Rule

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, a judicial officer has the power to impose reasonable money sanctions not to exceed $1500 payable to the county in which the judicial officer is located if a person violates any lawful court order without good cause or substantial justification [Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5]. This power does not apply, however, to advocacy before the court by counsel [Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5].

Imposition of sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5 is within the court's discretion, which must be exercised in a reasonable manner with the statutorily authorized purposes in mind and guided by existing legal standards as adapted to current circumstances [In re Woodham (2001) 95 Cal. App. 4th 438, 443, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 431 ; Moyal v. Lanphear (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 491, 501, 256 Cal. Rptr. 296] .

Imposition of sanctions under Section 177.5 requires a knowing violation of a valid court order without good cause or substantial justification [In re Woodham (2001) 95 Cal. App. 4th 438, 442, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 431 ; Winikow v. Superior Court (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 719, 726, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 413 ; see People v. Muhammad (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 313, 323-326, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 308 (§ 177.5 has no application without court order)].

For the purposes of Section 177.5, the term "person" is defined to include a witness, a party, a party's attorney, or both [Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5].

Unlike Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7, Section 177.5 is by its terms limited to a violation of a lawful court order, there is a $1500 limitation, and the sanction is payable to the county, not to the opposing party [Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5]. Moreover, Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5, applies to both civil and criminal matters [People v. Tabb (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1300, 1310, 279 Cal. Rptr. 480] . Furthermore, a magistrate presiding over a criminal matter qualifies as a "judicial officer" within the meaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5 [People v. Tabb (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1300, 1306 n.5, 279 Cal. Rptr. 480] .

The apparent purpose of Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5 is to compensate public agencies, such as a court, for the costs of an unnecessary hearing [Moyal v. Lanphear (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 491, 499, 256 Cal. Rptr. 296 ; see In re Woodham (2001) 95 Cal. App. 4th 438, 443, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 431 (court properly imposed sanctions on Board of Prison Terms for unnecessary litigation)]. The section was enacted, according to its author, "to insure that all parties are present and prepared for court appearances" and "to help eliminate unnecessary delays in civil court proceedings" [Seykora v. Superior Court (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1075, 1080, 283 Cal. Rptr. 857] . Section 177.5 requires only that a person violate any lawful court order without good cause or substantial justification for sanctions to be awarded [Seykora v. Superior Court (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1075, 1080, 283 Cal. Rptr. 857] .

Thus, for example, sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5 have been upheld when counsel failed to file a joint at-issue memorandum as required by a fast track local rule and thereafter failed to comply with a court order to appear [Moyal v. Lanphear (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 491, 501, 256 Cal. Rptr. 296] . Similarly, sanctions were upheld when counsel walked out of a courtroom after being ordered to remain [Seykora v. Superior Court (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1075, 1083-1084, 283 Cal. Rptr. 857] . A second sanction imposed for failure to pay the original Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5 was upheld for the purpose of penalizing the attorney's ignoring lawful orders of the court [20th Century Ins. Co. v. Choong (2000) 79 Cal.App. 4th 1274, 1277-1279, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 753 (first sanction imposed for failure to prepare mandatory settlement conference statement pursuant to local rule)]. Rules of Professional Conduct are not normally regarded as court orders of the type referred to in Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5 [Conservatorship of Becerra (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 1474, 1482-1484, 96 Cal. Rptr. 3d 910 (violation of Rules of Professional Conduct, Rule 2-100(A) not properly pursued under Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5)].

[2] Notice and Hearing Required to Obtain Section 177.5 Sanctions

A judicial officer cannot impose monetary sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5 except on notice contained in a party's moving papers or responding papers, or on the court's own motion, after notice and an opportunity to be heard [Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5; for a form of notice of motion, see § 510.62]. Adequate notice and an opportunity to be heard is mandated not only by statute, but also by the due process clauses of both the state and federal constitutions [Caldwell v. Samuels Jewelers (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 970, 976-977, 272 Cal. Rptr. 126 (notice held adequate when counsel had requested sanctions under the discovery act but learned at hearing that court was considering Section 177.5 sanctions based on same facts as those relevant to discovery act sanctions motion)].

The scope of the hearing under Section 177.5, is in the trial court's discretion [see Seykora v. Superior Court (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1075, 1081-1083, 283 Cal. Rptr. 857 (no abuse of discretion in denying request to call witnesses)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Supporting and Opposing Evidence. Put all evidence in support of and in opposition to Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5 motions for sanctions in declarations, authenticated documents, and requests for judicial notice filed with the moving or opposing papers. By Commissioner Anita Rae Shapiro.

[3] Order Imposing Section 177.5 Sanctions Required to Be in Writing and Specify Reasons

An order imposing sanctions must be in writing and must recite in detail the conduct or circumstances justifying the order [Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5; for a form of order, see § 510.63]. The language of Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5 is similar to that in Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 and presumably the same rules apply [Caldwell v. Samuels Jewelers (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 970, 977-978, 272 Cal. Rptr. 126] . Thus, for example, an order that set forth no facts justifying the imposition of sanctions but merely stated "good cause appearing" to impose sanctions was held insufficient [Caldwell v. Samuels Jewelers (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 970, 977-978, 272 Cal. Rptr. 126 ; see also Conservatorship of Becerra (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 1474, 1484-1485, 96 Cal. Rptr. 3d 910 (order referring to "good cause for issuance of" sanctions insufficient)]. Due process requires that any order imposing sanctions state with particularity the basis for finding a violation of the section [Caldwell v. Samuels Jewelers (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 970, 977-978, 272 Cal. Rptr. 126] . For further discussion, see § 510.13[2].

PRACTICE TIP:

Preparing Order. When a Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5 motion for sanctions is granted, the prevailing party should volunteer to prepare an attorney order if not ordered to do so by the court. By Commissioner Anita Rae Shapiro.

§ 510.14 Sanctions Under Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2 for Violation of Local Court Rule

[1] Basic Rule

Superior courts may promulgate local rules under Code Civ. Proc. § 575.1 for the supervision and management of actions [Code Civ. Proc. § 575.1(a)]. These rules may provide that if counsel, a party represented by counsel, or a pro se party fails to comply with any of their requirements, the court on a party's motion, or on the court's own motion may do any of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2(a); see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rules 7.13 and 8.0 (providing for sanctions)]:

- Strike out all or any part of that party's pleadings,
- Dismiss the action or proceeding or any part of it,
- Enter a default judgment against that party, or
- Impose other penalties of a lesser nature as otherwise provided by law.

The court may also order that the party or party's counsel pay to the moving party the reasonable expenses, including reasonable attorney fees, in making the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2(a); see e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.0; see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.30 (discussed in § 510.17)].

A court may not impose sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2 for conduct that, although objectionable, does not constitute a violation of local rules. For example, under Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 7.12, a lawyer should avoid ex parte communication on the substance of a pending case with a judge (or the judge's law clerk) before whom the case is pending. It is not a violation of this rule for an attorney simply to call the court clerk to request that status conference be scheduled without having first conferred with other counsel, as the ex parte prohibitions were not intended to preclude simple communications between attorneys and court clerks on purely administrative matters having nothing to with the substance of the case [Blum v. Republic Bank (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 245, 248-249, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 226] .

[2] Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2 Sanction Not to Affect Party if Counsel Is Responsible

Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2(b) limits the imposition of sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2(a). If a failure to comply with local rules is the responsibility of counsel and not of the party, sanctions can only be imposed on counsel and the sanction cannot adversely affect the party's cause of action or defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2(b)]. Section 575.2(b) is thus an exception to the general rule that an attorney's negligence is imputed to the client [State of California ex rel. Public Works Bd. v. Bragg (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 1018, 1026, 228 Cal. Rptr. 576 ; see Tliche v. Van Quathem (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 1054, 1059-1064, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 458 (holding that it was error to dismiss action for attorney's failure to serve summons and complaint within 60 days under fast-track rules when there was no evidence that plaintiff, rather than attorney, caused the delay, and no less severe sanctions were imposed)]. Moreover, if negligent counsel does not invoke Section 575.2(b) to protect the client against sanctions the court must move sua sponte to do so to guarantee protection of an innocent party [State of California ex rel. Public Works Bd. v. Bragg (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 1018, 1028-1029, 228 Cal. Rptr. 576] .

Thus, under Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2(b), a trial court's order denying a jury trial in a personal injury case because of defense counsel's failure to submit proposed jury instructions within the local fast-track rule deadline has been held to be error [Cooks v. Superior Court (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 723, 726-727, 274 Cal. Rptr. 113] . Similarly, it has been held error for a trial court not to have relieved a plaintiff from a jury waiver based on the plaintiff's counsel's failure to post jury fees as required under a local rule, when nothing suggested that the plaintiff was responsible for counsel's failure [Massie v. AAR Western Skyways, Inc. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 405, 409-412, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654] . Sanctions that effectively deny a party a trial on the merits because of counsel's actions are also improper under Section 575.2(b) [see State of California ex rel. Public Works Bd. v. Bragg (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 1018, 1029-1030, 228 Cal. Rptr. 576 (error to grant motion in limine based solely on deputy attorney general's mistake in not timely filing a complete appraisal report as required by local rule that had practical effect of preventing the introduction of any evidence on the valuation of property when only issue was the property's fair market value; court could have devised other penalty and remedial action); In re Marriage of Colombo (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 572, 578-580, 242 Cal. Rptr. 100 (error to rule that objections and disputes regarding matters in pretrial statement had been waived by attorney's failure to file responsive pretrial statement in accordance with applicable local rules when ruling precluded party from offering any evidence on those issues)].

Gov. Code § 68608(b), authorizing sanctions to enforce Trial Court Delay Reduction Act (Gov. Code § 68600 et seq.), does not include comparable protection for parties. For discussion of whether Section 68608(b) takes precedence over Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2, see § 510.16.

[3] Notice, Hearing, and Order Requirements

The court may not impose a sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2 for violation of a local court rule without prior notice to the party against whom the sanction is sought to be imposed and providing the party an opportunity to be heard [Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2(a); see Annex British Cars, Inc. v. Parker-Rhodes (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 788, 792, 244 Cal. Rptr. 48 (due process requires notice and hearing before sanctions can be imposed under § 575.2(a)); for a form of notice of motion, see § 510.64]. Similarly, due process requires that the sanction order state with particularity the basis for finding a violation of the statute [Caldwell v. Samuels Jewelers (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 970, 978, 272 Cal. Rptr. 126 (construing former Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 227 [now see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.30]); for a form of order, see § 510.65]. For further discussion of notice, hearing and order requirements, see § 510.14[3].

§ 510.15 Sanctions Under Gov. Code § 68608(b) for Violation of Fast Track Rules

[1] Basic Rules

The Trial Court Delay Reduction Act is contained in Gov. Code § 68600 et seq. The Judicial Council is required to adopt standards of timely disposition for the processing and disposition of civil and criminal actions [Gov. Code § 68603(a)]. The courts are given power under the act to enact local court rules to carry out the mandate of the act [Gov. Code §§ 68607, 68612; see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rules 7.0 et seq.]. The judges have all the powers authorized by law to impose sanctions under the act, including the power to strike pleadings or dismiss actions, if less severe sanctions would appear not to be effective after taking into account the effect of any previous sanctions or previous lack of compliance in the case [Gov. Code § 68608(b); see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rules 7.7(c), 7.13 (sanctions; imposition on party and/or, if appropriate, counsel)]. Moreover, judges are encouraged to impose sanctions to achieve the purposes of the act [Gov. Code § 68608(b); but see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 7.13 (court allowed to impose sanctions for specified conduct, but urged to do so sparingly and only when clearly warranted)]. The ultimate sanction, however, is rarely if ever proper in the first instance [Sigala v. Anaheim City School Dist. (1993) 15 Cal. App. 4th 661, 673-674, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 38 (striking a request for a trial de novo after judicial arbitration held improper when there were no earlier refusals to comply with court orders or prior imposed sanctions)].

It is a drastic measure to prevent parties from presenting their cases on the merits. Terminating sanctions should only be ordered when there has been previous noncompliance with an order or rule and it appears that a less severe sanction would not be effective. Terminating sanctions should not be ordered as a first response when noncompliance is through no fault of the party [Wantuch v. Davis (1995) 32 Cal. App. 4th 786, 795, 39 Cal. Rptr. 2d 47 (in propria persona litigant; striking pleadings and entry of judgment for failure to appear at status conference held improper when nonappearance not wilful but solely result of imprisonment of which trial court was aware throughout proceedings)].

Unlike Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2, Gov. Code § 68608(b) does not include protection for the party when the sanction is based on the attorney's actions. For discussion of whether Section 68608(b) takes precedence over Code Civ. Proc. §

575.2, see § 510.16.

[2] Procedural Requirements

Before sanctions can be imposed under Gov. Code § 68608(b) the procedural due process requirements of a fair warning and an opportunity to be heard must be met [Youngworth v. Stark (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 395, 406, 283 Cal. Rptr. 668 (decided under former Gov. Code § 68609(d) (now Gov. Code § 68608(b))); see Sigala v. Anaheim City School Dist. (1993) 15 Cal. App. 4th 661, 673, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 38 (striking defendant's request for trial de novo when defendant told sanction hearing would be heard under Cal. Rules of Ct. Rules 3.1380 and 2.30, Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 and local rules, but no mention made of striking the request for trial de novo); for a form of notice of motion, see § 510.64]. The adequacy of notice to satisfy basic due process requirements will be determined on a case by case basis rather than on an arbitrary number of days' notice [Youngworth v. Stark (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 395, 407, 283 Cal. Rptr. 668] . Similarly, due process requires that the sanction order state with particularity the basis for finding a violation of the statute [Caldwell v. Samuels Jewelers (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 970, 978, 272 Cal. Rptr. 126 (construing Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.30); for a form of order, see § 510.65]. For further discussion of notice, hearing and order requirements, see § 510.14[3].

PRACTICE TIP:

Responding to Potential Dismissal. If the court issues an Order to Show Cause re Dismissal, be sure to file and serve an opposition. Failure to timely file and serve an opposition may preclude oral opposition at the court hearing. By Commissioner Anita Rae Shapiro.

§ 510.16 Relationship of Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2 and Gov. Code § 68608 Sanctions for Violation of Local Court Rules

Code Civ. Proc. §§ 177.5, 575.1, 575.2, together with Gov. Code § 68608(b), provide a comprehensive statewide scheme of regulation concerning fast track matters, and local rules supplement the statewide scheme [see Moyal v. Lanphear (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 491, 500, 256 Cal. Rptr. 296] . It is unclear, however, whether Gov. Code § 68608(b) supersedes Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2(b) so as to allow fast track courts to dismiss actions or otherwise impose sanctions on parties for their counsel's failure to comply with local court rules [see Youngworth v. Stark (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 395, 404-405, 283 Cal. Rptr. 668] .

There is authority that has held that Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2(b) applies to fast track rules and that when a party is in no way personally responsible for counsel's failure to comply with a local fast track rule, sanctions must only be imposed on counsel, not the innocent party [Cooks v. Superior Court (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 723, 725-727, 274 Cal. Rptr. 113 ; for discussion of the protection of the party under Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2(b), see § 510.14[2]].

On the other hand, there is authority that has held that former Gov. Code § 68609(d), now Gov. Code § 68608(b), controls concerning the imposition of sanctions for violation of local delay reduction rules and therefore the standards set forth in that section take precedence over Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2(b) [Laguna Auto Body v. Farmers Ins. Exchange (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 481, 490 n.8, 282 Cal. Rptr. 530 (Fourth Dist., Div. Three) ; Intel Corp. v. USAIR Inc. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1559, 1565-1568, 279 Cal. Rptr. 569 (Second Dist., Div. Four)] . Under this view, trial courts have discretionary authority to impose the sanction of dismissal based on counsel's failure to comply with local fast track rules, if the standards set forth in Gov. Code § 68608(b) are satisfied [Intel Corp. v. USAIR Inc. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1559, 1565-1566, 279 Cal. Rptr. 569] . Thus, a dismissal sanction has been upheld under former Section § 68609(d), now Gov. Code § 68608(b), based on plaintiffs' counsel's repeated failure to proceed in accordance with local fast track rules [Intel Corp. v. USAIR Inc. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1559, 1566-1568, 279 Cal. Rptr. 569] . Note that in Intel the court referred to Cooks v. Superior Court, discussed above, which was decided in the same appellate district and division, and stated that the Cooks opinion should not be understood to contradict the holding reached in Intel [Intel Corp. v. USAIR Inc. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1559, 1566 n.6, 279 Cal. Rptr. 569] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Familiarity With Local Rules. Learn and comply with local fast track rules so you will not have to argue that the court does not have the authority to dismiss an action based on counsel's failure to comply with fast track rules, and you will not have to defend a subsequent legal malpractice lawsuit. By Commissioner Anita Rae Shapiro.

AUTHOR: Hon. Anita Rae Shapiro Editorial Consultant

§ 510.17 Sanctions Under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.30 for Violation of California Rules of Court

[1] Application

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.30 prescribes sanctions for violations of California Rules of Court relating to general civil cases [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1 et seq.], unlawful detainer cases, probate proceedings [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1 et seq.], civil proceedings in the appellate division of the superior court [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.700 et seq.], and small claims cases [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.30(a); Vidrio v. Hernandez (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 1443, 1456-1458 (upholding constitutionality of rule); for rules relating to small claims cases, see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.2100 et seq.].

Former Rule 227 provided for sanctions for unlawful interference with the proceedings of the court by failure to comply with the California Rules of Court, local rules, or court orders, unless good cause was shown, or failure to participate in good faith in a conference the California Rules of Court or a court order required. Effective July 1, 2001, former Rule 227 was amended to authorize monetary sanctions for failure to comply with the civil pretrial and trial rules of the California Rules of Court [former Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 222, Drafter's Note]. Effective January 1, 2004, former Rule 227 was amended to provide sanctions for failure to comply with the California Rules of Court specified above. Effective January 1, 2007, former Rule 227 was renumbered as part of the reorganization of the California Rules of Court to be Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.30. The renumbering made no substantive changes.

[2] Sanctions Available

In addition to any other sanctions permitted by law, the court may order a person to pay reasonable monetary sanctions to the court, to an aggrieved person, or both, for failure without good cause to comply with the California Rules of Court relating to general civil cases, unlawful detainer cases, probate proceedings, civil proceedings in the appellate division of the superior court, and small claims cases, after written notice and an opportunity to be heard. For these purposes, "person" means a party, a party's attorney, a witness and an insurer or any other individual or entity whose consent is necessary for the disposition of the case [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.30(b)]. If the failure to comply with an applicable rule is counsel's responsibility, not the party's responsibility, the court must impose the penalty on counsel. The penalty must not adversely affect the party's cause of action or defense [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.30(b)].

Effective July 1, 2001, former Rule 227 appeared to provide independent authority for the court to impose sanctions for violations of the Rules of Court. It no longer provided that the court could impose sanctions authorized under statutes, including Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2 and Gov. Code § 68608(b), or for violations of local rules or court orders. Cases decided under previous versions of Rule 227 that referred to the court's authority in relation to statutory authority or to violations of local rules or court orders no longer appeared to be relevant [see, e.g., Blum v. Republic Bank (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 245, 248-249, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 226 (improper to impose sanctions under Rule 227 for conduct that does not actually constitute violation of local rule); Trans-Action Commercial Investors, Ltd. v. Jelinek (1997) 60 Cal. App. 4th 352, 362-365, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 449 (while court's authority to sanction under former Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 227 appeared broad, it was limited to situations in which there was statutory authority for sanctions because Rule 227 was intended only to consolidate authority found in statutes and did not provide independent authority to impose sanctions); Caldwell v. Samuels Jewelers (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 970, 979, 272 Cal. Rptr. 126 (when court awards sanctions to county pursuant to Rule 227 as penalty for violating court order, maximum permissible sanction is $1,500, amount set in Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5 as maximum sanction payable to county for violating court order)]. Cases interpreting former Rule 227 with regard to violations of the Rules of Court, however, are probably still good law [see, e.g., Caldwell v. Samuels Jewelers (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 970, 979, 272 Cal. Rptr. 126 (if sanction award pursuant to Rule 227 is based on violation of state rule, limitation to $1,500 imposed by Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5 does not apply)].

[3] Notice and Procedure

The court may not impose sanctions under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.30 except on noticed motion by the party seeking sanctions or on the court's own motion after the court provides notice and an opportunity to be heard [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.30(c)]. A party's motion for sanctions must do each of the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.30(c)]:

- State the applicable Rule of Court that was violated.
- Describe the specific conduct that allegedly violated the rule.
- Identify the attorney, law firm, party, witness or other person against whom the party seeks sanctions.

The court on its own motion may issue an order to show cause that does each of the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.30(c)]:

- Sets forth the applicable Rule of Court that was violated.
- Describes the specific conduct that appears to have violated the Rule.
- Directs the attorney, law firm, party, witness or other person to show cause why the court should not impose sanctions against them for violation of the Rule.

The court must provide adequate notice and an opportunity to be heard to satisfy procedural due process requirements before imposing sanctions [Bergman v. Rifkind & Sterling, Inc. (1991) 227 Cal. App. 3d 1380, 1387, 278 Cal. Rptr. 583 ; Caldwell v. Samuels Jewelers (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 970, 976, 272 Cal. Rptr. 126 (both decided under pre-2001 versions of Rule 227)]. The court must provide notice before deciding whether, in fact, to impose sanctions and before making findings [Bergman v. Rifkind & Stirling, Inc. (1991) 227 Cal. App. 3d 1380, 1387, 278 Cal. Rptr. 583] .

An order imposing sanctions must be in writing. It must recite in detail the conduct or circumstances justifying the order [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.30(e); see also Caldwell v. Samuels Jewelers (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 970, 978, 272 Cal.

Rptr. 126 (due process required that order imposing sanctions under former Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 227 state with particularity basis for finding violation of rule; construing former Rule 527)].

[4] Award of Expenses

In addition to the sanctions awardable under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.30(b)], the court may order the person who violated an applicable rule [see discussion under § 510.17[1]] to pay to the party aggrieved by the violation that party's reasonable expenses, including reasonable attorney's fees and costs, incurred in connection with the motion for sanctions or the order to show cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.30(d)].

§ 510.18 Effect of Bankruptcy Laws on Sanctions

Federal bankruptcy laws may not be invoked to obstruct the imposition of sanctions by California courts against an attorney for frivolous or abusive litigation tactics [Papadakis v. Zelis (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1385, 1389, 282 Cal. Rptr. 18] . Thus, the filing of a petition in bankruptcy by an attorney who has engaged in such tactics has been held not to invoke the automatic bankruptcy stay and a state court could thereafter consider and impose sanctions against the attorney [see Papadakis v. Zelis (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1385, 1389-1390, 282 Cal. Rptr. 18 (upholding sanctions against attorney for frivolous appeal)]. For general discussion of bankruptcy, see Ch. 94, Bankruptcy .

§ 510.19 Defense Costs Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1038 if Court Determines That Proceeding Not Brought in Good Faith and With Reasonable Cause

[1] Basic Rules

Code Civ. Proc. § 1038 authorizes an award of defense costs, in addition to those costs normally awarded to a prevailing party, in certain types of actions not brought in good faith and with reasonable cause. The actions Section 1038 applies to are [Code Civ. Proc. § 1038(a)]:

- Civil proceedings under the California Tort Claims Act (Gov. Code § 810 et seq.).
- Civil proceedings for express or implied indemnity or for contribution in a civil action.

For defense costs to be awardable under Section 1038 in these proceedings one of the following motions must be brought by a defendant or cross defendant and must be granted [Code Civ. Proc. § 1038(d)]:

- Summary judgment.
- Judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8.
- Nonsuit.
- Directed verdict.

If the court finds that the proceeding was not brought in good faith and with reasonable cause, the defendant or cross defendant may recover all reasonable and necessary defense costs, in addition to costs normally awarded to the prevailing party [Code Civ. Proc. § 1038(a)].

Defense costs for the purpose of Code Civ. Proc. § 1038 include reasonable attorney's fees, expert witness fees, the expense of services of experts, advisors and consultants in defending the proceeding, and where reasonably and necessarily incurred in defending the proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 1038(b)].

Code Civ. Proc. § 1038 authorizes the trial court to make a supplemental assessment for costs incurred in connection with an unsuccessful, but not frivolous, appeal [Gonzales v. ABC Happy Realty (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 391, 392-393, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 566 (proceeding for indemnity or contribution)].

[2] Procedure Under Section 1038

The court, on the motion of the defendant or cross defendant must at the time of granting any summary judgment, motion for directed verdict, motion for judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8, or any nonsuit dismissing the moving party other than the plaintiff, petitioner, cross-complainant, or intervenor, or at a later time set by a Judicial Council rule adopted under Code Civ. Proc. § 1034, determine whether or not the plaintiff, petitioner, cross-complainant, or intervenor brought the proceeding with reasonable cause and in the good faith belief that under the facts and law there was a justifiable controversy that warranted filing of the complaint, petition, cross-complaint, or complaint in intervention. If the court determines that the proceeding was not brought in good faith and with reasonable cause, the court is required to decide an additional issue as to the defense costs reasonably and necessarily incurred by the party or parties opposing the proceeding. The court is required to render judgment in favor of that party in the amount of all reasonable and necessary defense costs, in addition to those costs normally awarded to the prevailing party [Code Civ. Proc. § 1038(a)].

Notice contained in a party's papers and an opportunity to be heard are, however, required before defense costs under Code Civ. Proc. § 1038 can be awarded [Code Civ. Proc. § 1038(a)]. Moreover Section 1038 is applicable only on motion made before the jury is discharged or judgment entered [Code Civ. Proc. § 1038(c)].

Any party that requests relief under Section 1038 waives the right to seek damages for malicious prosecution [Code Civ. Proc. § 1038(c)]. Failure to make the motion, however, is not deemed a waiver of the right to bring a malicious prosecution action [Code Civ. Proc. § 1038(c)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Obtain Client's Decision. When preparing written motions for summary judgment, directed verdict, judgment under. Code Civ. Proc § 631.8 or nonsuit, for a client defendant that is not a public entity, determine whether your client wishes to request Code Civ. Proc. § 1038 defense costs as part of the motion, or not to request these defense costs to preserve the right to pursue a later malicious prosecution lawsuit [see City of Long Beach v. Bozek (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 527, 538 n.9, 538-539, 183 Cal. Rptr. 86, 645 P. 2d 137 (holding that public entity cannot maintain malicious prosecution action and indicating in dicta that public employee acting through private counsel might be able to do so)]. By Commissioner Anita Rae Shapiro.

[3] Lack of Either Good Faith or Reasonable Cause as Sufficient Showing

Application of Code Civ. Proc. § 1038 is not limited to the initiation of an action. The section also applies to steps to pursue it after the action has been filed [Kobzoff v. Los Angeles County Harbor/UCLA Medical Center (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 851, 853 n.1, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 803, 968 P.2d 514 ; Knight v. City of Capitola (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 918, 931-932, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 874 ; Carroll v. State of California (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 134, 140, 265 Cal. Rptr. 753] . A plaintiff must have filed and pursued the action in good faith and with reasonable cause to avoid an order to pay defense costs under Section 1038 [Kobzoff v. Los Angeles County Harbor/UCLA Medical Center (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 851, 861-862, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 803, 968 P.2d 514 ; Knight v. City of Capitola (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 918, 931, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 874] . Thus, a defendant, assuming the procedural criteria of Code Civ. Proc. § 1038 is satisfied, need only show either that the plaintiff (1) did not act in good faith, or (2) lacked a reasonable cause for the action [Kobzoff v. Los Angeles County Harbor/UCLA Medical Center (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 851, 861-862, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 803, 968 P.2d 514 ; Knight v. City of Capitola (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 918, 931-932, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 874] . Good faith or its absence involves a factual inquiry into plaintiff's subjective state of mind. A subjective state of mind is rarely susceptible of direct proof and will usually be inferred from circumstantial evidence. Reasonable cause is determined objectively, as a matter of law, on the basis of facts known to the plaintiff when the plaintiff filed or maintained the action. Once it is determined what the plaintiff or plaintiff's counsel knew, the court decides whether any reasonable attorney would have thought the claim tenable [Kobzoff v. Los Angeles County Harbor/UCLA Medical Center (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 851, 861-862, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 803, 968 P.2d 514 ; Knight v. City of Capitola (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 918, 932, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 874] .

Thus, it has been noted that under Section 1038 "[i]f a legislative purpose to protect public entities from meritless claims is to be served, a plaintiff must bear a burden of investigation sufficient to establish at least a basis for reasonable belief that all elements [of the cause of action] exist" [Knight v. City of Capitola (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 918, 933, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 874] .

§ 510.20 Appellate Review

[1] Time for Review of Ruling Granting of Monetary Sanctions

An immediate appeal may be taken from a superior court order or interlocutory judgment in an unlimited civil case directing the payment of monetary sanctions by a party or a party's attorney if the amount exceeds $5,000 [Code Civ. Proc. § 904.1(a)(11), (12)]. The Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.104, time limits for filing a notice of appeal apply to a interlocutory judgment or order in an unlimited civil case directing the payment of money sanctions in excess of $5,000 that is immediately appealable under Code Civ. Proc. § 904.1(a)(11)-(12) [see Imuta v. Nakano (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 1570, 1578-1579, 285 Cal. Rptr. 681] . Therefore, if the sanction is to be appealed, it is essential that the appeal be taken timely [see Chong v. Fremont Indemnity Co. (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1097, 1102-1103, 249 Cal. Rptr. 264 (appeal dismissed as untimely when notice of appeal not filed within period specified in Rule 8.104 after entry of order imposing sanctions, but rather filed after determination of main issue in action)].

A sanction order or judgment against a party or party's attorney for $5,000 or less may be reviewed on an appeal by the sanctioned party after entry of final judgment in the main action [Code Civ. Proc. § 904.1(b); Calhoun v. Vallejo City Unified School Dist. (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 39, 45 n.1, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 337]. Alternatively, at the court of appeal's discretion, a sanction order or judgment for less than $5,000 may be reviewed on a petition for an extraordinary writ [Code Civ. Proc. § 904.1(b); see Rao v. Campo (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 1557, 1566-1567, 285 Cal. Rptr. 691 (extraordinary writ review under former Code Civ. Proc. § 904.1(a), now Code Civ. Proc. § 904.1(a)(1), available regardless of dollar amount of sanctions)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Cost Considerations. It may not be cost effective to request appellate review of a sanction order or judgment for $5,000 or less in a writ petition. Petitions for extraordinary writs are discretionary and are rarely heard on the merits. By Commissioner Anita Rae Shapiro.

On appeal challenging sanctions imposed under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7, argument based on oral findings or statements made by the judge at the time the sanctions were imposed is inappropriate. The appellate court will review the trial court's sanction order based on the written order [see 580 Folsom Associates v. Prometheus Development Co. (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1, 22-23, 272 Cal. Rptr. 227 (construing Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5)].

[2] Aggregation of Sanctions to Meet Appealable Amount

Separate sanctions involving separate acts and payable to separate persons cannot be aggregated to meet the $5000 appealability threshold amount contained in Code Civ. Proc. § 904.1(a)(11), (12) [Imuta v. Nakano (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 1570, 1585 n.20, 285 Cal. Rptr. 681 (refusing to aggregate three contemporaneous orders to meet the former $750 threshold)]. Whether multiple monetary sanctions involving the same conduct may be aggregated is less clear. One case has suggested in dicta that aggregation would be proper if the sanctions all involved the same conduct [Champion/L.B.S. Associates Development Co. v. E-Z Serve Petroleum Marketing, Inc. (1993) 15 Cal. App. 4th 56, 59-60, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 726 (Fourth Dist; declining to aggregate to meet the $750 threshold in the case before it)]. However, in a case involving sanctions ordered in favor of two different parties but based on the same conduct, it was held that aggregation is never appropriate [Calhoun v. Vallejo City Unified School Dist. (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 39, 42-45, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 337 (First Dist., rejecting the Champion/L.B.S. Associates Development Co. dicta)].

[3] In Limited Civil Case

Code Civ. Proc. § 904.2 contains no provision on the right to appeal from a prejudgment order or interlocutory judgment for monetary sanctions in a limited civil case, and it has been held that such an order is not appealable [Lim v. Silverton (1997) 61 Cal. App. 4th Supp. 1, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 408 (recognizing that order may be reviewed on appeal from the judgment in the action and that a post judgment sanction order would be subject to appeal under Code. Civ. Proc. § 904.2(b)]. In some cases, review by extraordinary writ might be appropriate.

[4] Standing

Assuming the monetary threshold of Code Civ. Proc. § 904.1(a)(11), (12) is met, if a superior court order is directed against a party's attorney, the attorney has the right and standing to appeal [Code Civ. Proc. § 904.1(a)(11), (12); Imuta v. Nakano (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 1570, 1580-1581, 285 Cal. Rptr. 681 ; Moyal v. Lanphear (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 491, 497, 256 Cal. Rptr. 296 ; see Calhoun v. Vallejo City Unified School Dist. (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 39, 42, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 337] . If the sanctioned attorney does not file a separate notice of appeal, however, but only names an unsanctioned party in the notice of appeal, it has been held that the appellate court lacks jurisdiction to review the sanction ruling, and the purported appeal will be dismissed [Calhoun v. Vallejo City Unified School Dist. (1993) 20 Cal.App. 4th 39, 42, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 337 (party, who was not sanctioned, appealed from order sanctioning attorney); see Huenergardt v. Huenergardt (1963) 218 Cal. App. 2d 455, 459, 32 Cal. Rptr. 714 ; but see Ellis v. Roshei Corp. (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 642, 645 n.3, 192 Cal. Rptr. 57 (court reviewed sanction order although appeal brought in name of unsanctioned party, not sanctioned attorney)]. Under such circumstances it would be better practice for the sanctioned attorney to file a separate notice of appeal although, if the notice of appeal includes as an additional appellant the unsanctioned party, the notice may be liberally construed in favor of its sufficiency [Calhoun v. Vallejo City Unified School Dist. (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 39, 42, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 337 ; Moyal v. Lanphear (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 491, 497, 256 Cal. Rptr. 296] .

[5] Denial of Sanctions

Denial of a motion for sanctions is not appealable under Code Civ. Proc. § 904.1(a)(11), (12) [Wells Properties v. Popkin (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 1053, 1055, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 845 (decided under former Code Civ. Proc. § 904.1(k); appeal from order denying motion for sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 dismissed)]. In unusual and compelling circumstances an appellate court may treat a purported appeal from a nonappealable order as a petition for a writ of mandate. A denial of a motion for sanctions has been held, however, not to present such circumstances [Wells Properties v. Popkin (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 1053, 1056, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 845 (dissenting opinion would have treated appeal from nonappealable order as a petition for extraordinary relief)]. It appears that review of denial of such an order may be had in connection with an appeal from an appealable order or final judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 906; Wells Properties v. Popkin (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 1053, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 845 (dissenting opinion)]. Presumably, within the meaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 906 dealing with the scope of appellate review, the denial of such a motion would be construed as involving the merits or necessarily affecting the judgment, or substantially affecting the rights of a party. Similarly, in some instances review by extraordinary writ may be appropriate.

[6] Standard of Review

[a] Abuse of Discretion

A trial court is vested with broad discretionary power to award sanctions. The test on appeal is whether there has been an abuse of discretion [Olson Partnership v. Gaylord Plating Lab, Inc. (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 235, 240, 276 Cal. Rptr. 493 ; Winick Corp. v. County Sanitation Dist. No. 2 (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 1170, 1176, 230 Cal. Rptr. 289] . An appellate court will not reverse a trial court's imposition of sanctions unless the court finds that there has been an abuse of discretion [Tenderloin Housing Clinic, Inc. v. Sparks (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 299, 304, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 371 (sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5); Intel Corp. v. USAIR, Inc. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1559, 1565-1566, 279 Cal. Rptr. 569 (sanctions under former Gov. Code § 68609(d), now Gov. Code § 68608(b)); see Caldwell v. Samuels Jewelers (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 970, 977, 272 Cal. Rptr. 126 (sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5; former Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 227, now Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.30)].

To be entitled to appellate relief, it must clearly appear that the injury resulting from the abuse of discretion in the imposition of sanctions is sufficient to amount to a miscarriage of justice. A showing is insufficient to reverse the trial court if it merely affords an opportunity for different opinions [Winick Corp. v. County Sanitation Dist. No. 2 (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 1170, 1175-1176, 230 Cal. Rptr. 289] . An appellate court is neither authorized to nor warranted in substituting its judgment for the trial court's judgment [Winick Corp. v. County Sanitation Dist. No. 2 (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 1170, 1176, 230 Cal. Rptr. 289] . The trial court's judgment or order is presumed correct. All intendments and presumptions are indulged in to support it. An affirmative showing of error must be made [Brewster v. Southern Pacific Transportation Co. (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 701, 713, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 89] . The appellate court will not disturb the trial court's findings when the evidence is in conflict [Brewster v. Southern Pacific Transportation Co. (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 701, 713, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 89] .

When it is claimed that the evidence is insufficient to justify sanctions, several appellate courts in determining whether there was an abuse of discretion have applied the substantial evidence rule to see if substantial evidence supported the trial court's findings [see, e.g., West Coast Development v. Reed (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 693, 697-698, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 790 ; Brewster v. Southern Pacific Transportation Co. (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 701, 712, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 89 ; Caldwell v. Samuels Jewelers (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 970, 977, 272 Cal. Rptr. 126] .

[b] Failure to Specify Conduct or Circumstances in Order

The harmless error doctrine does not apply on appellate review of an order that fails to set forth in detail the conduct or circumstances justifying sanctions. Therefore, when faced with a statutorily insufficient order, a reviewing court is required to remand the case to the trial court for the fashioning of a proper order. Remand is required even when sanctions follow a detailed motion by opposing counsel that was fully argued and considered in an open hearing. Remand is also required even though the reviewing court has combed the record and determined it sufficient to sustain a finding in support of the imposition of sanctions [West Coast Development v. Reed (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 693, 705-706, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 790 (order under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5].

PRACTICE TIP:

Thoroughness of Order. When preparing an attorney order for the court's signature, set forth all of the conduct or circumstances that justify the sanctions imposed to avoid the delay of a remand of the case by the appellate court for the entry of a proper order. By Commissioner Anita Rae Shapiro.

[7] Staying Execution Pending Appeal

Although an award of attorney's fees authorized by contract, statute, or law is statutorily defined as costs [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1033.5(a)(10)], and a bond is not required to stay execution of a judgment solely for costs [see Code Civ. Proc. § 917.1(d)], an award of attorney's fees as sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 has been held to be more analogous to a judgment for money damages than a judgment for costs, so that it must be bonded to stay execution pending appeal [Banks v. Manos (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 123, 128-129, 283 Cal. Rptr. 318 (holding Code Civ. Proc. § 1033.5(a)(10) reference to attorney's fees authorized by statute to be inapplicable because Section 128.5 does not "routinely" authorize attorney's fees; decided before Section 1033.5(a)(10); was amended to include attorney's fees when authorized by "law" as costs)]. If part of a judgment must be bonded, the judgment must be bonded in its entirety to stay execution pending appeal [Banks v. Manos (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 123, 128-129, 283 Cal. Rptr. 318 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 917.1]. Presumably, this rule applies to the award of sanctions under the other statutes or rules of court.

§ 510.21 Ethical Pitfalls Concerning Sanctions

It is an attorney's duty to maintain inviolate the confidence, and at every peril to the attorney preserve the secrets, of the client [Bus. and Prof. Code § 6068(e)]. In certain instances a court's decision whether to impose sanctions on the attorney, on the client, or both, may give rise to ethical, privilege, or conflict problems. Counsel may not be able to exonerate himself or herself without breaching the attorney-client privilege or his or her ethical obligation to the client [see generally Wong v. Davidian (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 264, 271-272, 253 Cal. Rptr. 675 ; Luke v. Baldwin-United Corp. (1985) 167 Cal. App. 3d 664, 668-670, 213 Cal. Rptr. 654] . Recognizing this, it has been noted that to avoid placing counsel in an impossible conflict situation the better practice in most cases is for the court to sanction the client party and leave it up to the client and the attorney to thereafter work out between themselves the ultimate responsibility for the sanctions [Wong v. Davidian (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 264, 272, 253 Cal. Rptr. 675] .

When, however, the misconduct is solely that of the attorney, for example, failure to appear at a hearing, it has been noted that it is proper to sanction the attorney alone [Wong v. Davidian (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 264, 272, 253 Cal. Rptr. 675] .

A sanction award against counsel alone for filing a motion to quash, which was not utterly without merit when filed but was thereafter withdrawn, has been reversed when the court had no way to determine whether counsel or the client was to blame for filing the motion without invading the attorney-client privilege and the privilege prevented counsel from exonerating themselves [Luke v. Baldwin-United Corp. (1985) 167 Cal. App. 3d 664, 668-670, 213 Cal. Rptr. 654 ; compare Manzetti v. Superior Court (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 373, 381, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 857 (sanctions in Court of Appeal; attorney constrained by ethical obligation not to disclose communications with client accepted full responsibility for sanctions)].

On the other hand, an attorney does not have an ethical obligation to his or her client to commit perjury or to file knowingly frivolous or bad faith motions (or to otherwise engage in tactics that the attorney concludes are frivolous or breach the attorney's obligation to the legal system). If a client demands that an attorney engage in such conduct, the attorney has an obligation to withdraw from the case [Young v. Rosenthal (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 96, 127-128, 260

Cal. Rptr. 369 , cert. denied, 494 U.S. 1080 (1990) ; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6068(c), (d); Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rules 3-700, 5-200]. Under such circumstances, if the attorney does not withdraw the attorney does not face an ethical dilemma in that the attorney's obligation is to withdraw and an award of sanctions against the attorney is appropriate [Young v. Rosenthal (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 96, 127-128, 260 Cal. Rptr. 369 , cert. denied, 494 U.S. 1080 (1990)] .

§ 510.22 Duty to Notify State Bar of Imposition of Sanctions

An attorney against whom judicial sanctions are imposed, except sanctions for failure to make discovery or monetary sanctions of less than $1,000, must report this to the agency charged with attorney discipline. The report must be made in writing within 30 days of the time the attorney has knowledge of the imposition of the sanctions Bus. and Prof. Code § 6068(o)(3)].

Similarly, the court is required to notify the State Bar of the imposition of judicial sanctions, except sanctions for failure to make discovery or monetary sanctions for less than $1,000 [Bus. and Prof. Code § 6086.7(a)(3)]. The court must also notify the sanctioned attorney that the matter has been referred to the State Bar [Bus. and Prof. Code § 6086.7(b)]. The State Bar must investigate the matter to determine if initiating disciplinary proceedings against the attorney is appropriate [Bus. and Prof. Code § 6086.7(c)].

For further discussion of the attorney's duty to maintain confidences, see Ch. 72, Attorney Practice and Ethics, § 72.30 et seq. For discussion of actions by an attorney exceeding the attorney's duty to zealously represent the client, see Ch. 72, Attorney Practice and Ethics, § 72.270 et seq._____

§ 510.43 Decisions

[1] Amount of Award

Sanctions of large amount may be assessed when necessary to discourage party and party's attorney from pursuing totally baseless claims. Simonian v. Patterson (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 773, 787, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 722

Award of compensation for airfare and reimbursement for lost vacation is, under appropriate circumstances, item of reasonable expenses within meaning of Cal. Civ. Proc. § 128.5. Tenderloin Housing Clinic, Inc. v. Sparks (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 299, 307-308, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 371

Term "expenses" in Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5(a) is not limited to costs and attorney's fees; sanctions award as capable of including other expenses, such as compensation for time spent by party's nonlegal employees in defending against action brought in bad faith. 580 Folsom Associates v. Prometheus Development Co. (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1, 27-28, 272 Cal. Rptr. 227

In awarding attorney's fees under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5, court is not bound in its determination by such traditional factors as hours consumed, statements mailed, results attained, and the like; court does not need expert testimony to make determination of reasonable fees award. Dwyer v. Crocker National Bank (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 1418, 1438, 240 Cal. Rptr. 297

Code § 1502*, when although case law had not determined that suspension under Corp. Code § 1502 for failure to file statement, rather than under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23301 for nonpayment of taxes, disqualified corporation from exercising any powers including right to resort to courts in litigation, any reasonable attorney reviewing relevant statutes would entertain strong suspicion that client was disqualified from pursuing litigation activities and law firm chose to conceal its knowledge of suspension and probable disability of client from both court and opposing counsel; when firm's failure to recommend to client to file required statement supported inference that firm made no investigation at time it discovered client's suspended status and likely believed client was suspended for failure to pay taxes and willful concealment of suspension militated toward finding of bad faith; and when record supported conclusion that firm suspected client was disabled from litigation but deliberately concealed this fact from court and other parties and continued to litigate vigorously, even seeking summary proceedings to terminate case before client's suspended status was discovered, serving only to delay and avoid otherwise inevitable default judgment in absence of any acts by client to cure suspended status. Palm Valley Homeowners Assn., Inc. v. Design MTC (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 553, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 350

Party's failure to object to trial court's proposed sanctions award at trial constitutes waiver of objection and party may not later claim on appeal that order was deficient. Andrus v. Estrada (1995) 39 Cal. App. 4th 1030, 1043, 46 Cal. Rptr. 2d 300

Order denying motion for sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 is not appealable. Wells Properties v. Popkin (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 1053, 1055, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 845

Judgment including sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 must be bonded pending appeal. Banks v. Manos (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 123, 128-129, 283 Cal. Rptr. 318

Postjudgment order declining to award sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 is not appealable if it presents same issues as prior appeal from judgment or does not affect prior judgment. Lubetzky v. Friedman (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 35, 45, 278 Cal. Rptr. 706

[3] Change of Venue Motion

Sanction was proper under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 against party for frivolously moving for change of venue. Lieppman v. Lieber (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 914, 919, 225 Cal. Rptr. 845

[4] Discretion of Trial Court

Trial court did not abuse its discretion in dismissing plaintiff's complaint as terminating sanction for deliberate and egregious misconduct after plaintiff (1) employed investigator who improperly entered areas of defendant's properties not accessible to public and trespassed onto document destruction firm's secure facility, and improperly took documents at those locations; (2) knew of investigator's illegal conduct or acted with deliberate indifference to whether investigator's conduct was legal; and (3) altered stolen documents with intent to mislead by creating false impression that documents were not confidential or that defendant had created confidential and nonconfidential sets of documents. Stephen Slesinger, Inc. v. Walt Disney Co. (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 736, 757-776, 66 Cal. Rptr. 3d 268

Trial court did not abuse its discretion in awarding monetary sanctions, including attorney's fees to defendant, against plaintiff and plaintiff's counsel for filing fourth amended complaint, when first-time assertion of fraud cause of action against decedent was precluded by previous orders striking all references to him from prior declaratory relief causes of action and failed to account for frivolousness of claim against deceased individual; when complaint contained misleading allegations regarding plaintiff's knowledge that decedent intended to withdraw his disclaimer of his transfer of partnership interest to plaintiff; and when, although plaintiff and plaintiff's counsel were assessed penalties under Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5, more than half of sanctions at issue were awarded under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(c)(1), which specifically authorizes award of attorney's fees for sanctions motion itself, and rest of attorney fee sanctions were admittedly authorized by Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(d) and carefully limited by court, in relation to defendant's request for more than twice as much. Eichenbaum v. Alon (2003) 106 Cal. App. 4th 967, 976-977, 131 Cal. Rptr. 2d 296

Sanctions against party under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 in conjunction with summary denial of party's motion was abuse of discretion when party's motion was absolutely meritorious as matter of law. Optical Surplus, Inc. v. Superior Court (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 776, 785, 279 Cal. Rptr. 194

Trial court's refusal to award sanctions against plaintiff under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 was abuse of discretion when plaintiff engaged in trial tactics which any reasonable attorney would agree were totally devoid of merit, including the use of a void default judgment to obtain a writ of possession against defendant. Park Magnolia v. Fields (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d Supp 1, 4-5, 236 Cal. Rptr. 900

[5] Frivolous Defined

Action not frivolous due to lack of uniformity in case law. Betz v. Pankow (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 931, 941, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 841

Mere absence of judicial construction does not by itself make all challenges arguably meritorious. Bach v. McNelis (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 852, 878, 255 Cal. Rptr. 232

[6] Interveners

Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 sanctions are properly imposed when intervener files pleadings in action after intervener's right to appear in action has been terminated and intervener provides no discussion in pleadings of standing issue. McFarland v. City of Sausalito (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 909, 911-912, 267 Cal. Rptr. 412

[7] Nonappearance at Hearing

Bad faith failure of attorney to appear was adequate ground for imposition of sanctions against attorney under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5. Wong v. Davidian (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 264, 271-272, 253 Cal. Rptr. 675

[8] Notice and Reasons for Order Required

Procedural due process requires notice and opportunity to be heard before ordering award of fees as sanctions for frivolous action, and requires written statement of reasons in order imposing sanctions. In re Marriage of Flaherty (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 637, 651-654, 183 Cal. Rptr. 508, 646 P.2d 179

Notice and opportunity to be heard as requirements before sanctions can be imposed under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5. Eby v. Chaskin (1996) 47 Cal. App. 4th 1045, 1049, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 517

Trial court's award of sanctions against attorneys, in unreported status conference held in the judge's chambers, based on attorneys' alleged bickering, was improper when attorneys were not given notice of court's intent to impose sanctions and opportunity to be heard; indirect allusion by judge, made to only one of two attorneys, of possibility of sanctions award did not satisfy notice requirement; attorneys should have been provided with opportunity to explain, on record, their conduct before the court made its decision. Barrientos v. City of Los Angeles (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 63, 71-72, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 520

Trial court's offer to strike order imposing sanctions on condition that parties settle constitutes an improper attempt to coerce settlement. Barrientos v. City of Los Angeles (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 63, 71-72, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 520

Notice of motion or intent to dismiss and an opportunity to be heard are requirements before action can be dismissed under Gov. Code § 68608(b). Reid v. Balter (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1186, 1193, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 287

Summary in minute order of court's reasons for imposing sanctions met requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5. Olson Partnership v. Gaylord Plating Lab, Inc. (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 235, 240-241, 276 Cal. Rptr. 493

Court was not required to provide a strict accounting of expenses when imposing sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5. On v. Cow Hollow Properties (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1568, 1577, 272 Cal. Rptr. 535

Imposition of sanction, whether imposed under Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5, which requires notice and opportunity to respond, or under former Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 227 [now see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.30], which was silent on the issue, always requires procedural due process, i.e., notice, an opportunity to be heard and that order imposing sanctions state with particularity the basis for finding a violation of the rule. Caldwell v. Samuels Jewelers (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 970, 976-977, 272 Cal. Rptr. 126

Failure to raise issue of inadequate notice in trial court is waiver of any objection based on that ground; formal written signed order is requirement for imposition of sanctions; order making no direct reference to conduct of attorney was insufficient to justify imposition of sanctions against attorney. Jansen Associates, Inc. v. Codercard, Inc. (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 1166, 1170-1171, 267 Cal. Rptr. 516

Order imposing sanctions on attorney under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 based on grounds not asserted before its rendition constituted denial of due process when attorney had no adequate notice of or opportunity to respond to threat of sanctions. In re Marriage of Quinlan (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1417, 1419, 1421-1422, 257 Cal. Rptr. 850

Fair warning and an opportunity to be heard are required before sanctions may be imposed under local rule pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 572.2. Annex British Cars, Inc. v. Parker-Rhodes (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 788, 792, 244 Cal. Rptr. 48

Adequate notice is provided when sanctioned parties had knowledge for extended period of time that sanctions hearing was upcoming, knew that relevant subjects and categories of bad faith conduct would be examined at the hearing, and had ample opportunity to prepare for hearing. Dwyer v. Crocker National Bank (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 1418, 1437, 240 Cal. Rptr. 297

Trial court's order imposing sanctions against plaintiff's counsel is reversible when defendant's written request for sanctions asked only for sanctions against plaintiffs; person against whom sanctions sought is entitled to actual notice of potential liability. Staples v. Hoefke (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1397, 1418-1419, 235 Cal. Rptr. 165

Order imposing sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 must include factual recital, with reasonable specificity, of circumstances that led court to impose sanctions; case remanded to trial court with order to draft new factual recital to replace conclusionary order. Lieppman v. Lieber (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 914, 920-921, 225 Cal. Rptr. 845 ; Lavine v. Hospital of the Good Samaritan (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 1019, 1028-1030, 215 Cal. Rptr. 708

Notice under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 is insufficient when expenses in defense were substantial and one or two days notice afforded plaintiff did not give him time to prepare declarations in support of his position. Lesser v. Huntington Harbor Corp. (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 922, 930-935, 219 Cal. Rptr. 562

Order imposing sanctions is erroneous when attorney against whom sanctions were imposed was not given sufficient notice that motion was directed against him and order failed to detail reasons for sanctions as required by former Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 (now Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5(c)). Corralejo v. Quiroga (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 871, 873-874, 199 Cal. Rptr. 733

Award of sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 did not satisfy statutory requirements or due process when notice was telephonic, rather than written, hearing was ex parte, and order did not recite detailed justification for imposition of sanctions. O'Brien v. Cseh (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 957, 962, 196 Cal. Rptr. 409

[9] Persons Who May Seek Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 Sanctions

Pro se litigant does not "incur" attorney's fees and therefore may not recover Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 sanctions in form of attorney's fees. Musaelian v. Adams (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 512, 520, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 475, 198 P.3d 560

[10] Refusing Settlement

Defendant's decision to insist on its constitutional right to jury trial rather than to settle case, even if failure to settle was motivated by ulterior and allegedly improper purposes, is not sanctionable under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5. Triplett v. Farmers Ins. Exchange (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 1415, 1421-1422, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 741

[11] Safe Harbor Provision of § 128.7

A ruling on the challenged motion during the safe harbor period precludes recovery of sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7. Accordingly, the party seeking sanctions must move to continue the challenged motion or shorten the safe harbor period. Li v. Majestic Industrial Hills LLC (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 585, 595, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 334

Trial court did not lose authority to impose sanctions on plaintiff and plaintiff's counsel under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 after plaintiff dismissed action with prejudice after defendant moved for sanctions, when plaintiff and plaintiff's counsel were given full latitude of the safe harbor period, which they ignored, and did not withdraw complaint, by dismissal, until after sanctions motion had been filed, argued, and submitted for decision. Eichenbaum v. Alon (2003) 106 Cal. App. 4th 967, 974-976, 131 Cal. Rptr. 2d 296

Trial court erred in vacating sanctions order and ruling that sustaining of demurrer eviscerated defendant's right to seek sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 because trial court no longer had jurisdiction, when defendant served motion to dismiss action as frivolous and for monetary sanctions and demurred to complaint, trial court sustained demurrer without leave to amend, defendant filed and again served motion for sanctions two days after ruling on demurrer, trial court granted motion, dismissed complaint and ordered sanctions against plaintiff's attorney, so that defendant had timely served motion for sanctions and waited until safe harbor period passed, and plaintiff's counsel's action in requesting extension, filing amended complaint, opposing demurrer and moving for relief from default and new trial after trial court sustained demurrer was completely unjustified, and when order sustaining demurrer without leave to amend does not bar motion for Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 sanctions unless order is reduced to judgment before sanctions motion is served and filed. Banks v. Hathaway, Perrett, Webster, Powers & Chrisman (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 949, 954, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 803

In action by former husband against former wife for abuse of process and intentional and negligent infliction of emotional distress, alleging wife had falsely reported she was not receiving child support payments, trial court erred in awarding sanctions to wife under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7, when wife's sanctions motion violated safe harbor provision of Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(c)(1), since wife's motion filed in November 1998, which court granted, was not same motion as she had served in December 1997, since it was based on new evidence and different legal theories, and by

November 1998, husband had dismissed case. Hart v. Avetoom (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 410, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 511

Trial court properly imposed sanctions on insured for naming insurer's employee as cross defendant as cross defendant, when insured did not dispute that insurance employee cannot be sued for either breach of contract or breach of implied covenant of good faith, and where although insured dismissed employee less than 30 days after being served with insurer's motion to dismiss, insured did not serve insurer with notice of dismissal and insurer did not learn of dismissal until more than 30 days after insurer had served insured with motion requesting dismissal, which was four days after insurer had served court with sanctions motion and one day before hearing. Liberty Mutual Fire Ins. Co. v. McKenzie (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 681, 689-692, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 910

[12] Violation of Court Order

Rules of Professional Conduct are not normally regarded as court orders of the type referred to in Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5. Conservatorship of Becerra (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 1474, 1482-1484, 96 Cal. Rptr. 3d 910

Trial court erroneously sanctioned prosecutor under Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5 for discriminatory exercise of peremptory challenges to jurors, resulting in mistrial, because trial court did not order prosecutor not to violate constitution so that there was no court order on which to base sanction. People v. Muhammad (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 313, 323-326, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 308

Trial court exercised its discretion in reasonable manner in imposing sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5 against Board of Prison Terms in habeas corpus proceedings brought by life-term inmate to compensate county for unnecessary litigation, based on Board's violation of earlier court order requiring it to respond in timely manner to administrative appeals filed by life-term inmates, when inmate's petition for habeas corpus focused on Board's alleged violation of his due process rights by not answering his appeal, not on merits of his contention that he had right to be present at review hearing denying him parole, and asked court to set guidelines and time limits for Board to respond to life-term inmate appeals, and where hearing on petition was not inevitable and necessary, since if Board had timely responded to administrative appeal, it was by no means certain that inmate would have filed habeas corpus petition based solely on issue of whether he had legal right to be present at review hearing denying him parole or that court would have issued order to show cause requiring hearing to consider only that legal issue; further, even if hearing had been held solely on that issue, counsel and court would not have been required to consider factual circumstances surrounding Board's violation of underlying order. Further, on record, trial court could reasonably conclude Board violated underlying order without valid excuse, because Board's excuses of administrative error and backlog of appeals did not establish that Board had good cause or substantial justification for violating order. In re Woodham (2001) 95 Cal. App. 4th 438, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 431

Trial court erroneously imposed sanctions on counsel under Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5 for violation of court order to give notice to opposing counsel of status conference, at which opposing counsel did not appear, by giving notice by mail instead of by personal service, when opposing counsel was personally served with summons and first amended complaint two days before status conference, which did not require appearance until 30 days after that service, so that even if opposing counsel had been personally served with notice of status conference, opposing counsel would not have been required to attend so that there was no proximate causation between failure to serve personally and opposing counsel's lack of attendance; and when notice of status conference required counsel to give notice to counsel of record or parties in pro per, and as of date of status conference, opposing counsel had not yet made formal appearance in action, so that counsel was under no duty to give notice of status conference. Winikow v. Superior Court (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 719, 726-727, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 413

[13] Violation of Local Rule

Trial court properly imposed monetary sanction on counsel under Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2 for violation of Sacramento County Superior Court Rule 12.04 for failure to participate meaningfully in judicial arbitration, when counsel arrived 25 minutes late for arbitration, clients were not available, counsel failed to provide copies of complaint and answer and short arbitration brief to arbitrator as ordered by trial court, and counsel failed to produce evidence at arbitration, violating parts of local rule requiring attendance of those necessary to proceed to meaningful conclusion and production of evidence. Rietveld v. Rosebud Storage Partners (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 250, 254-257, 16 Cal. Rptr. 3d 791

[14] Writ Proceedings

Respondent against whom peremptory writ has issued as subject to sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 for knowingly taking action that is contrary to intent of writ. Union Pacific R.R. Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 138, 157-158, 260 Cal. Rptr. 565, 776 P.2d 267

[2] Use of Form

This notice of motion and supporting declaration is for use to move for the imposition of sanctions for violation of Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b). Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 authorizes the court to award monetary or other sanctions against the attorneys, law firms or parties that have violated Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b) subject to the conditions specified in that section. Section 128.7 applies to a complaint or petition filed on or after January 1, 1995, and any other pleading, written notice of motion, or any other similar paper filed is such a matter [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(i)]. For discussion of the types of sanctions that the court may award, see § 510.12[18]. For discussion of grounds and requirements for sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7, see § 510.12.

With appropriate modifications, this notice of motion and supporting declaration may be used when the facts are such that other statutes or rules of court providing for monetary or other sanctions also apply. For examples of such other provisions, see §§ 510.41, 510.42. For notices of motion for sanctions based on other authorities, see §§ 510.62 and 510.64.

[3] Punitive Damages

The notice of motion includes optional language for use when the moving party seeks to recover punitive damages under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(f), in addition to an award of sanctions for conduct violating Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b). For discussion of when punitive damages are recoverable, see § 510.12[19]. For general discussion of punitive damages, see Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.40 et seq.

[4] Notice Requirements

A noticed motion for sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 must be made separately from other motions or requests and must describe the specific conduct alleged to have violated Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b) [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(c)(1)]. Local court rules and policies should be checked beforehand to ascertain if there are any local requirements.

Notice of motion must be served as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1010. It cannot, however, be filed with or presented to the court unless within 21 days after service of the motion, or such other period as prescribed by the court, the challenged paper, claim, defense, contention, allegation, or denial is not withdrawn or appropriately corrected [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(c)(1); see, e.g., Galleria Plus v. Hanmi Bank (2009) 179 Cal. App. 4th 535, 538, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d. 803 (motion that did not provide 21-day notice was defective)]. For further discussion, see § 510.12[20].

[5] Declaration

The supporting declaration must show facts within the personal knowledge of the declarant supporting the motion [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5 (use of declaration in lieu of affidavit)]. The declaration should make an evidentiary showing of a violation of Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b) and why the specific sanction sought is warranted. If a monetary sanction based on the movant's expenses and attorney's fees is sought, the declaration should state detailed facts showing the calculation.

[6] Supporting Memorandum

A memorandum is required to be served and filed with the notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010]. For discussion of memorandum of points and authorities and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

MEMORANDUM

[Add memorandum supporting motion]

[2] Use of Form

This notice of motion is for use by a party who seeks to have the court impose monetary sanctions on a witness, party, or attorney who has violated a court order [see Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5]. The sanction is not available in regard to counsel's advocacy before the court. The maximum amount of the sanction is $1500, and it is payable to the county [Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5].

With appropriate modifications, this notice of motion and supporting declaration may be used when other statutes or rules of court providing for monetary or other sanctions also apply. For examples of such other provisions, see §§ 510.41, 510.42. See also §§ 510.60 and 510.64.

A separate noticed motion for sanctions is not required so long as notice is contained in the party's moving or responding papers [see Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5]. Consequently, this form may be modified for inclusion in such other papers. Local court rules and policies should be checked beforehand, however, to ascertain if there are any local requirements in this or any other regard.

A memorandum is required to be served and filed with the notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010]. For discussion of memoranda and forms, see Ch. 417, PoInts and Authorities .

For discussion of grounds and procedural requirements for sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5, see § 510.13.

[3] Judicial Notice

The form includes a request that the court take judicial notice of the order claimed to have been violated. Check local rules for any special requirements regarding how to bring a court file to the court's notice [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 9.2(b) (requiring separate document requesting clerk to order delivery of the file for the hearing)].

[2] Use of Form

This notice of motion is for use by a party who seeks to to have the court impose sanctions on a party or attorney who has violated local court rules [see Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2; Gov. Code § 68608(b)].

Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2 provides general authority for the court to enforce local rules with sanctions [for discussion, see § 510.14]; Gov. Code § 68608(b) specifically authorizes sanctions to enforce local trial court delay reduction (fast track) rules [for discussion, see § 510.15]. For discussion of the relationship of these statutes and potential conflict between them as to what sanctions may be appropriate, see § 510.16 .

With appropriate modifications, this notice of motion and supporting declaration may be used when other statutes or rules of court providing for monetary or other sanctions also apply. For examples of such other provisions, see § 510.41 .

Local court rules and policies should be checked beforehand to ascertain if there are any local requirements concerning the motion.

[3] Declaration

If a monetary sanction based on the movant's expenses and attorney's fees is sought, the declaration should state detailed facts showing the calculation. If more severe sanctions, such as dismissal, are sought, the declaration should state facts showing repeated lack of compliance with local rule requirements and the ineffectiveness of lesser sanctions previously imposed in the case [Sigala v. Anaheim City School Dist. (1993) 15 Cal. App. 4th 661, 673-674, 19 Cal Rptr. 2d 38 ;

Chapter 511 SANITATION AND SEWERAGE DISTRICTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

44-511 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 511.10

§ 511.10 Governing Statutes

The Health and Safety and Public Contract Codes contain provisions for the organization of garbage disposal districts [Health & Safety Code § 49000 et seq.], community facilities improvement districts [Health & Safety Code § 4600 et seq.], county sanitation districts [Health & Safety Code § 4700 et seq.], sewer maintenance districts [Health & Safety Code § 4860 et seq.], sanitary districts [Health & Safety Code § 6400 et seq.; Pub. Contract Code § 20800 et seq.], garbage and refuse disposal districts [Health & Safety Code § 49100 et seq.], rural sewer districts [former Health & Safety Code § 5500 et seq.], joint municipal sewage disposal districts [former Health & Safety Code § 5700 et seq.], and regional sewage disposal districts [former Health & Safety Code § 5900 et seq.]. The foregoing provisions cited as "former" Health and Safety Code sections continue to govern the entities created or organized by those statutes [see Stats. 1959, ch. 1309; see also § 511.16].

Additionally, the Government and Public Contract Codes provide for the creation and regulation of joint sanitation projects [Gov. Code § 55000 et seq.], joint projects for sanitation and electrical lines [Gov. Code § 55300 et seq.], and community services districts [Gov. Code § 61000 et seq.; Pub. Contract Code § 20680 et seq.]. Procedure for the organization, operation, and government of districts is set forth in Gov. Code § 58000 et seq. Authority and procedure for changes of organization of districts appears in the Cortese Local Government Reorganization Act of 1985 (Gov. Code § 56000 et seq.).

Counties and cities are also empowered to make and enforce within their limits all sanitary ordinances and regulations not in conflict with general laws [Cal. Const., art. XI, § 7]. A city's legislative body may construct, establish, and maintain drains and sewers [Gov. Code § 38900], and, whenever the public interest or convenience requires, the legislative body of any municipality may acquire or install certain sanitary and sewerage works or improvements [Sts. & Hy. Code § 10102]. However, if the jurisdictions of a district and a municipality overlap, the operations of sanitation and sewerage districts, which are created by state law, are a matter of state rather than municipal concern, and provisions of state law control over municipal charters [Jarvis v. Los Angeles (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 834, 837, 136 Cal. Rptr. 843 ; see also Home Gardens Sanitary Dist. v. City of Corona (2001) 96 Cal. App. 4th 87, 91, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 638] .

§ 511.11 Garbage Disposal Districts

A garbage disposal district may be formed by election of the voters registered in the proposed district after the board of supervisors has determined that a portion of the county is in need of facilities for the disposal of garbage and that a district should be formed for that purpose [Health & Safety Code §§ 49006, 49010]. The district is given certain powers [Health & Safety Code § 4121 et seq.], including the right to enter into contracts for the disposal of garbage and other refuse matter [Health & Safety Code § 49019] and to levy and collect taxes [Health & Safety Code § 49030].

§ 511.12 Community Facilities Improvement Districts

[1] Formation

Community facilities improvement districts are governed by the Community Facilities Law [Health & Safety Code § 4601 et seq.]. Such districts may be formed by the governing body of any city whenever in its judgment, after public hearing, the district is necessary or convenient for any improvement authorized by such law [Health & Safety Code §§ 4605, 4609(d)]. Improvements include, but are not limited to, the acquisition or construction of sanitary sewers of all types, the acquisition or construction of sewage treatment plants, works, or systems, and other related projects [see Health & Safety Code § 4602.4].

[2] Powers

The districts are given the power to levy and collect taxes and to issue bonds [Health & Safety Code § 4614.13]. A city may enter into contracts for the construction of any improvement for the district, including the acquisition of any property which the improvement includes, or a city may itself construct or complete the improvement [Health & Safety Code §§ 4627, 4634]. In addition, a city may require the owners of property within a district to pay a reasonable fee for connecting to any sanitary sewer improvement acquired or constructed pursuant to the Community Facilities Law [Health & Safety Code § 4640.6].

§ 511.13 County Sanitation Districts

County sanitation districts are governed by the County Sanitation District Act [Health & Safety Code § 4700 et seq.]. The district may employ persons needed to effect its powers, to acquire property, to enter into contracts, to issue bonds, and to levy and collect taxes, among other things [Health & Safety Code §§ 4739, 4740, 4742.1, 4742.3, 4742.5, 4746, 4747].

Under Health & Safety Code § 4744, which gives a county sanitation district the right to sell or otherwise dispose of any water, sewage effluent, or fertilizer resulting from the operations of the sewage system, a sanitation district has a right to sell sewage effluent without the consent of a water district to private persons, firms, or corporations for treatment and processing with the resulting product of purified water to be used in steam-flooding operations [Taft v. West Kern County Water Dist. (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 291, 297-298, 68 Cal. Rptr. 675] .

The Local Agency Public Construction Act [see Pub. Contract Code § 20100 et seq.] governs construction contracts of county sanitation districts [Pub. Contract Code § 20780]. Specific provisions of the Act apply to construction contracts of county sanitation districts [Pub. Contract Code § 20780]. Under the applicable provision requiring award of bids to the highest qualified bidder [see Pub. Contract Code § 20783], a lease of pasture owned by a sanitation district for purposes of dispose of reclaimed municipal water in a fashion which, absent the agreement, the district would perform, constitutes a public work subject to the bid requirements [Boydston v. Napa Sanitation Dist. (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1362, 1369, 272 Cal. Rptr. 458] . The term "responsible" refers not only to the attribute of trustworthiness, but also to the quality, fitness and capacity of the bidder to perform the proposed agreement satisfactorily [Boydston v. Napa Sanitation Dist. (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1362, 1368, 272 Cal. Rptr. 458 (ordering district to determine whether highest bidder was qualified)].

The district must make the initial determination whether a bidder is qualified [Boydston v. Napa Sanitation Dist. (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1362, 1369, 1370, 272 Cal. Rptr. 458] . Before a contract may be awarded to one other than the lowest (or highest) bidder, the public body must [Boydston v. Napa Sanitation Dist. (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1362, 1369, 272 Cal. Rptr. 458] :

- Notify that bidder of any evidence reflecting upon the bidder's responsibility received from others or adduced as a result of independent investigation,

- Afford the bidder an opportunity to rebut such adverse evidence, and
- Permit the bidder to present evidence of qualification.

A mere statement that the district suggested that the bidder may have been qualified to operate the property is insufficient to satisfy the requirement that the bidder be found qualified [Boydston v. Napa Sanitation Dist. (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1362, 1370, 272 Cal. Rptr. 458] .

§ 511.14 Sewer Maintenance Districts

Any portion of the territory of a county, whether incorporated or unincorporated, in which lateral or collecting sanitary sewers have been installed and in which no provisions have been made to maintain or repair such sewers, may be formed into a sewer maintenance district on the determination of the board of supervisors of a county after a public hearing [Health & Safety Code §§ 4870-4872]. Such a district may become a part of a county sanitation district if the board of supervisors determines that it is in the best interests of the district [Health & Safety Code § 4879]. Sewer maintenance districts may acquire and dispose of property, enter into contracts for the purpose of carrying out certain of their purposes, issue bonds, and levy and collect taxes [Health & Safety Code §§ 4886, 4887, 4888, 4891, 5002]. A sewer maintenance district may also contract with other governmental entities for the joint construction or operation of facilities [Pub. Contract Code § 20790 et seq.]. The Local Agency Public Construction Act [see Pub. Contract Code § 20100 et seq.] governs construction contracts of sewer maintenance districts [Pub. Contract Code § 20101].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

44-511 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 511.15

§ 511.15 Sanitary Districts

[1] Formation

A sanitary district may be formed on the petition of 25 persons in the county or counties involved who are residents and freeholders in the proposed district [Health & Safety Code §§ 6420, 6422]. The petition is presented to the board of supervisors, which holds a public hearing and schedules an election on the issue of formation [Health & Safety Code §§ 6420, 6440, 6446(b); Stumpf v. Board of Supervisors (1901) 131 Cal 364, 368, 63 P 663 (failure to adhere to requirements for notice of election to create district renders election void); Andresen v. Board of Supervisors (1965) 235 Cal. App. 2d 436, 442, 45 Cal. Rptr. 306 (sanitary district is not formed until it is favorably acted on by electors of proposed district)]. If a majority of the votes cast in each county are in favor of formation, the board of supervisors orders that a district of the name and with the boundaries stated in the order calling the election has been established [see Health & Safety Code § 6465]. A vote in favor of formation entails an election of the persons who will comprise the governing board of the district [see Health & Safety Code §§ 6463, 6464]. The supervisors' order establishing the district is conclusive evidence of, among other things, the existence and validity of the district [see Health & Safety Code § 6465].

[2] Powers

The full range of the sanitary district's powers is set forth in Health and Safety Code § 6510 et seq. These powers include the district's ability to acquire, to construct, to operate, and otherwise to become involved with garbage dump sites, garbage collection and disposal systems, sewers, drains, septic tanks, and other sanitary and water systems, as the board deems necessary and proper [see Health & Safety Code § 6512(a)]. Additionally, the district may acquire, lease, and dispose of property, and make and accept contracts [see Health & Safety Code §§ 6514, 6514.1, 6515]. The district is also empowered to collect charges for its services and facilities [see Health & Safety Code § 6520.5], and to certify to the county board of supervisors and the county auditor a statement of any delinquent and unpaid charges for services requested by a property owner. The amount of these charges that remains delinquent and unpaid for a period of 60 days or more becomes a part of the annual taxes next levied on the property and becomes a lien on the property in the same manner as a tax lien [see Health & Safety Code § 6520.10; see also Health & Safety Code §§ 6520.11-6520.12].

A sanitary district is a "similar public corporation" for purposes of Cal. Const., art. I, § 14, which gives those entities the power to take the immediate possession and use of an easement or right of way sought to be condemned for purposes for which the district is empowered to undertake by Health & Safety Code § 6512 [Central Contra Costa Sanitary Dist. v. Superior Court (1950) 34 Cal. 2d 845, 849, 215 P.2d 462 ; for discussion of condemnation generally, see Ch. 247, Eminent Domain].

A sanitary district is allowed not only to construct its sewers in any public street [Health & Safety Code § 6518], but also to compel all residents and property owners in the district to connect their houses and habitations and structures requiring sewerage disposal service with the sewers [Health & Safety Code § 6520; Galeb v. Cupertino Sanitary Dist. (1964) 227 Cal. App. 2d 294, 304-305, 38 Cal. Rptr. 580 (dedicator of right of way to which sanitary district had access was not entitled to compensation upon compulsory connection to sanitary district's service); see Home Gardens Sanitary District v. City of Corona (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 87, 94, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 638] . Where a sanitary district decides to exercise exclusive jurisdiction, the district's jurisdiction to provide sanitary services to the territory of its district is exclusive [Home Gardens Sanitary Dist. v. City of Corona (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 87, 95, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 638 (sanitary district exercised its jurisdiction exclusively); Rodeo Sanitary Dist. v. Board of Supervisors (1999) 71 Cal. App. 4th 1443, 1447, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 601] .

By the same token, a sanitary district may reserve to itself the exclusive right, through its own agents or employees, to collect garbage within its limits [Health & Safety Code § 6518.5; In re Sozzi (1942) 54 Cal. App. 2d 304, 306, 129 P.2d 40 (private party had to right to engage in business of garbage collection where sanitary district had exercised exclusive right to collect garbage)].

A city has the power to require a sanitation district to obtain a permit before excavating city streets and that City has the power to impose reasonable restrictions upon the excavation. However, a city may not attempt to require a sanitary district to amend its regulations to provide for a new procedure for the issuance of wastewater discharge permits, because such an attempt constitutes a usurpation of power that the Legislature vested exclusively in the board of the district [West Bay Sanitary Dist. v. City of East Palo Alto (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1507, 1511, 237 Cal. Rptr. 245] . In fact, a city may not use its general police power to override a district's authority to provide sewer service [Home Gardens Sanitary District v. City of Corona (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 87, 91, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 638 (court enjoined city from annexing land within sanitary district and imposing restrictions on property owners' ability to connect to district's sewers)]. The same rule applies to counties [Rodeo Sanitary Dist. v. Board of Supervisors (1999) 71 Cal. App. 4th 1443, 1447, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 601 (Pub. Res. Code § 40059 does not mandate otherwise)].

An improvement district may be formed within a sanitary district to undertake any project for the sanitary district that is of special benefit to the area of the improvement district projects [Health & Safety Code §§ 6550.1, 6550.10, 6550.12, 6550.13].

A sanitary district may become a part of a county sanitation district if the board of supervisors determines, after a hearing, that it is in the best interests of the district [Health & Safety Code § 6524]. A sanitary district may also issue bonds and assess, levy, and collect taxes for a variety of purposes [Health & Safety Code §§ 6640, 6697].

A sanitary district may also contract with other governmental entities for the joint construction or operation of facilities [Health & Safety Code § 6823]. Under this statutory authorization, a sanitary district does not have the contractual power to grant a preference in limited disposal capacity to entities outside the district who are not ready to use the capacity when such preference inhibits service to members of the district who have a current need for such service [Trimont Land Co. v. Truckee Sanitary Dist. (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 330, 350-351, 193 Cal. Rptr. 568 (clause in contract between sanitary district and outside resort developer was ultra vires and void to the extent it purported to grant perpetual guarantee of disposal capacity to outside development during shortage)].

[3] Construction Contracts

The Local Agency Public Construction Act [see Pub. Contract Code § 20100 et seq.] governs construction contracts of sanitary districts [Pub. Contract Code § 20101]. Specific provisions of the Act apply to construction contracts of sanitary districts [Pub. Contract Code § 20800]. They apply to any construction, reconstruction, alteration, enlargement, renewal, or replacement of sewer facilities which the district is authorized to do, including, but not limited to, the furnishing of supplies or materials for any such work [Pub. Contract Code § 20801]. When the expenditure required for a subject project exceeds fifteen thousand dollars, it must be contracted for and let to the lowest responsible bidder after notice [Pub. Contract Code § 20803]. The "lowest responsible bidder" requirements must be followed even if the expenditure for a public work is not made from the district's treasury [East Bay Garbage Co. v. Washington Township Sanitation Co. (1959) 52 Cal. 2d 708, 713, 344 P.2d 289 (contract calling for direct payments from customers to contractor was subject to bidding requirements)].

The request for bids must constitute proper notice [see Pub. Contract Code § 20804]. A contract with a sanitary district may be adjudged null and void because the bidding process did not comply with the notice requirements, such as for the failure to advertise the notice at least twice [East Bay Garbage Co. v. Washington Township Sanitation Co. (1959) 52 Cal. 2d 708, 714, 344 P.2d 289 (contract awarded after only one publication of notice was void under prior similar statute requiring at least two publications of notice)].

Bids must be accompanied by proper security [Pub. Contract Code § 20804.5]. The district board has discretion to reject any bids presented and readvertise. If two or more bids are the same and the lowest, the district board may accept the one it chooses. If no bids are received, the district board may have the project done without further complying with this article [Pub. Contract Code § 2080]. Likewise, if the original contractor's contract is terminated, the district does not have to re-notice the contract for the completion of the original contract [Shore v. Central Contra Costa Sanitary Dist. (1962) 208 Cal. App. 2d 465, 469, 25 Cal. Rptr. 419 (decided under prior similar statute)].

For discussion of public works contracts, see Ch. 481, Public Works, § 481.10 et seq.

[4] Liability for Damages

A sanitary district is liable for creating and maintaining a nuisance [Mulloy v. Sharp Park Sanitary Dist. (1958) 164 Cal. App. 2d 438, 441, 330 P.2d 441 ; Ambrosini v. Alisal Sanitary Dist. (1957) 154 Cal. App. 2d 720, 728-729, 317 P.2d 33] and negligence [Mulloy v. Sharp Park Sanitary Dist. (1958) 164 Cal. App. 2d 438, 441, 330 P.2d 441 (failure to inspect sewer pipes)].

As a municipal corporation, a sanitary district may be liable for inverse condemnation arising from damage caused by the district's acts in pursuit of a public purpose, such as overflow from an outflow pipe [Ambrosini v. Alisal Sanitary Dist. (1957) 154 Cal. App. 2d 720, 728-731, 317 P.2d 33 (damage award affirmed)]. However, the sanitary district may seek indemnity from a contractor responsible for defective construction of an outflow pipe causing damage to a third party's property where the district reasonably relied upon representations by the contractor that it adhered to the construction standards set forth n the contract [Alisal Sanitary Dist. v. Kennedy (1960) 180 Cal. App. 2d 69, 82, 4 Cal. Rptr. 379] .

For discussion of inverse condemnation generally, see Ch. 247, Eminent Domain . For discussion of inverse condemnation generally, see Ch. 247, Eminent Domain .

§ 511.16 Garbage and Refuse Disposal, Rural Sewer, County Sewerage and Water, Joint Municipal Sewage Disposal, and Regional Sewage Disposal Districts

The formation of garbage and refuse disposal districts, as the site for disposal of garbage and refuse, has not been authorized since October 1, 1961 [Health & Safety Code §§ 49111, 49118]. However, the statutes governing the powers, duties, and other aspects of existing garbage and refuse disposal districts [Health & Safety Code § 49120 et seq.] remain in effect.

The statutes authorizing creation and organization of rural sewer districts [former Health & Safety Code § 4659 et seq.], county sewerage and water districts [former Health & Safety Code § 5500 et seq.], joint municipal sewage disposal districts [former Health & Safety Code § 5700 et seq.], and regional sewage disposal districts [former Health & Safety Code § 5900 et seq.] were repealed effective September 18, 1959 [Stats. 1959, ch. 1309]. Notwithstanding the repeal, however, the existence, organization, and powers of any district created by or organized pursuant to those statutes remains unaffected and continues to be governed by those statutes [Stats. 1959, ch. 1309].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

§ 511.17 Actions Against Sanitation and Sewerage Districts

[1] Actions to Determine Validity of Bonds

Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860-870 authorize any public agency or interested person to bring an action to determine the validity of any matter which under any other law is authorized to be determined pursuant to these sections [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860, 863]. The Health and Safety Code specifically authorizes such validating actions to determine the validity of any bonds issued by community facilities improvement districts [Health & Safety Code § 4624], county sanitation districts [Health & Safety Code § 4803; see § 511.52], sewer maintenance districts [Health & Safety Code § 4996; see § 511.53], and sanitary districts [Health & Safety Code § 6653; see § 511.51]. Additionally, the Health and Safety Code specifically authorizes actions to determine the validity of bonds issued by county sewerage and water districts [former Health & Safety Code § 5587; see § 511.52], joint municipal disposal districts [former Health & Safety Code § 5830], and regional sewage disposal districts [former Health & Safety Code § 6071]. It is not clear, however, if Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860-870 apply to such actions, since these Health and Safety Code provisions, all of which still apply to districts formed prior to 1960 [see Stats. 1959, ch. 1309], were repealed prior to the enactment of Code Civ. Proc. § 860 et seq. in 1961. Similarly, Health & Safety Code § 49167, authorizing validating proceedings against garbage and refuse disposal districts, the formation of which has not been authorized since October 1961 [Health & Safety Code § 49118], does not refer to Code Civ. Proc. § 860 et seq. Therefore, the procedures set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 860 et seq. may not apply to an action under Health & Safety Code § 49167. For further discussion of the applicability of Code Civ. Proc. § 860 et seq., see §§ 511.51 -511.53.

There is no statutory authority for validating proceedings against garbage disposal districts [Health & Safety Code § 49000], although such districts are empowered to issue bonds and levy taxes in the same manner as garbage and refuse disposal districts [Health & Safety Code § 49017]. Nor are validating proceedings authorized against rural sewer districts [former Health & Safety Code § 4659], which are empowered to levy and collect taxes [former Health & Safety Code § 4665], but not to issue bonds.

Validating proceedings may also be brought to determine the legality of the existence of a district governed by the District Organization Law (Gov. Code § 58000 et seq.) [Gov. Code § 58200].

The aforementioned general laws may not apply to a sewer district created by special law, where the general law is permissive and the special law is mandatory [Fairfield-Suisun Sewer Dist. v. Hutcheon (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 502, 507-508, 294 P.2d 102 (approval of bond election under terms of special law affirmed)].

Mandate is a proper remedy to require a district clerk to publish and mail a notice of sale of sewer district bonds [Fairfield-Suisun Sewer Dist. v. Hutcheon (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 502, 504, 294 P.2d 102] .

[2] Actions to Determine Validity of Fees and Charges for Sewer or Water Connection

Fees charged by a local agency for a sewer or water connection must not exceed the estimated reasonable cost of providing the service for which the fee is charged, unless a question regarding the amount of the fee charged in excess of the estimated reasonable cost of providing the services or materials is submitted to, and approved by, a popular vote of two thirds of those electors voting on the issue [Gov. Code § 66013(a)]. A local agency must hold a public meeting according to specified procedures prior to levying a new fee or service charge, or prior to approving an increase in an existing fee or service charge [see Gov. Code § 66016(a)], and can levy or approve the fees or charges only by ordinance or resolution [see Gov. Code § 66016(b)]. The term "local agency" means a county, general law or charter city, city and county, school district, special district, authority, agency, any other municipal public corporation or district, or other political subdivision of California [Gov. Code §§ 66000(c), 66013(b)(4)].

Any person may request an audit to determine whether the fees levied by a local agency exceed the amount reasonably necessary to cover the cost of any product or service provided by the local agency. If a request is made, the legislative body of the local agency may retain an independent auditor to determine whether the fees are reasonable, and the costs of the audit may be recovered from the person who made the request [Gov. Code § 66023(a),(b)].

A local agency or interested person may bring a judicial action or proceeding to attack, review, set aside, void, or annul an ordinance, resolution, or motion adopting a new fee or service charge or modifying or amending an existing fee or service charge for a sewer or water connection. An action may also be brought to attack an ordinance, resolution, or motion providing for an automatic adjustment in a fee or service charge for a sewer or water connection that results in an increase in the fee or charge [see Gov. Code §§ 66013, 66016, 66022]. These actions by a local agency or interested person must be brought pursuant to the provisions governing validating proceedings contained in Code Civ. Proc. § 860 et seq. [Gov. Code § 66022(b); see Barratt Am., Inc. v. City of Rancho Cucamonga (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 685, 704, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 149, 124 P. 3d 719 ; § 511.54; Barratt American, Inc. v. City of Rancho Cucamonga (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 685, 704-705, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 149, 124 P. 3d 719] .

Rates fixed by a lawful local agency for sewer or water service are presumed to be reasonable, fair, and lawful, and the burden of overcoming this presumption is on the party challenging the rates [see Winnaman v. Cambria Community Services Dist. (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 49, 54, 256 Cal. Rptr. 40] .

[3] Proceedings to Compel Performance of Ministerial Duty

A writ of mandate may be sought to compel a sanitation or sewerage district or its officers to perform a ministerial duty [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1085; Rogers v. Detrich (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 90, 104, 128 Cal. Rptr. 261] . For example, such proceedings may be brought to compel the publication of notice of the sale of improvement bonds [Solvang Mun. Improvement Dist. v. Jensen (1952) 111 Cal. App. 2d 237, 238, 244 P.2d 492] , to compel a county auditor to pay a valid judgment against a county sanitation district for bond interest [Mitchell v. County Sanitation Dist. (1957)150 Cal. App. 2d 366, 370, 309 P.2d 930] , or to compel a district to levy assessments to pay its bonds and interest thereon [May v. Board of Directors (1949) 34 Cal. 2d 125, 129-136, 208 P.2d 661 ; see Health & Safety Code §§ 5042, 5055]. Mandate is not proper, however, to restrain the levy and collection of assessments, because it conflicts with the principle of withholding judicial restraints on tax levies when adequate remedies at law, such as validating proceedings, are available to test the validity of bonds and assessments [Water Users Assn. v. Board of Directors (1973) 34 Cal.

App. 3d 131, 135, 109 Cal. Rptr. 592] . For further discussion and forms for use in mandate proceedings, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition .

[4] Liability for Torts

A sanitary or sewerage district is considered a public entity under Gov. Code § 811.2. As such, it is liable for torts committed by it or its officers, within the limitations set forth in the Government Code concerning the liability of public entities [see Gov. Code § 815 et seq.; see also Ch. 464, Public Entities and Officers: California Tort Claims Act].

[5] Liability for Contracts

A contract between a district and a private individual, such as the original contractor [Civ. Code § 3095], is generally subject to the same rules of construction as a contract between private parties [Hawley v. Orange County Flood Control Dist. (1963) 211 Cal. App. 2d 708, 713, 27 Cal. Rptr. 478] .

The remedies of subcontractors on public works contracts are cumulative. The rights of all persons furnishing labor, services, equipment, or materials for any public improvement work, with respect to any fund for payment of construction costs, except those rights created by direct written contract between such persons and the fundholder, such as the district, are governed exclusively by Civ. Code § 3179 et seq. (stop notices) [Civ. Code § 3264]. The claimant [Civ. Code § 3085] on the stop notice may also have a cause of action on his or her contract with the original contractor [see George F. Kennedy, Inc. v. Miles & Sons Constr. Div. (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 516, 522, 85 Cal. Rptr. 298] . For further discussion and forms for use in actions on public works contracts, see Ch. 481, Public Works .

[6] Claims Statutes

All claims for money or damages against sanitation and sewerage districts are governed by Gov. Code § 900 et seq., except as provided therein or by other applicable statutes [see Health & Safety Code §§ 4817, 5745, 6096, 6805, 49040, 49150]. Prior timely presentation of a claim for money or damages in compliance with Gov. Code § 905 is a prerequisite to maintaining an action against a sanitation or sewerage district. For procedure in preparation and presentation of claims, see Ch. 464, Public Entities and Officers: California Tort Claims Act .

[7] Venue of Actions Against Sanitation and Sewerage Districts

The venue of validating proceedings, which must be brought in the superior court, is in the county in which the principal office of the district is located [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860, 863]. The venue of an action for damages against a sanitary district is in the county or city and county in which the district is situated; if the action is brought in a county other than that in which the district is situated, it must be transferred to a neutral county on motion of the defendant district [Code Civ. Proc. § 394(a)]. Since actions against sanitary districts are governed by the venue provisions for suits against local agencies [Code Civ. Proc. § 394(a)], Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a), which authorizes venue in the county in which the defendants reside, is inapplicable [Central Contra Costa Sanitary Dist. v. Superior Court (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 702, 705-706, 148 Cal. Rptr. 801] .

[8] Statute of Limitations on Actions Against Sanitation and Sewerage Districts

Validation proceedings brought pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 860 et seq. must be initiated within 60 days of the existence of the matter that is to be determined thereby, such as the validity of district bonds [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860, 863]. Challenges to intermediate or later steps of an approval process must also be filed within the initial 60-day time limit [Embarcadero Mun. Improvement Dist. v. County of Santa Barbara (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 781, 790-791, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 6] . This limitation period may be considered substantive (jurisdictional) rather than procedural, since it is contained in the statute that creates the validation cause of action [see Adams v. Albany (1954) 124 Cal. App. 2d 639, 643, 269 P.2d 142] . For further discussion of the statute of limitations applicable to validating proceedings against specific districts, see §§ 511.51 and 511.53.

A claim against a public entity under the Government Code relating to a cause of action for death or for injury to person, personal property, or growing crops must be presented not later than six months after the accrual of the cause of action; a claim relating to any other cause of action must be presented not later than one year after the accrual of the cause of action [Gov. Code § 911.2(a); see Gov. Code § 901; see also Ch. 464, Public Entities and Officers: California Tort Claims Act].

An action on a stop notice claim may be commenced at any time after 10 days from the date of the service of the stop notice on the public entity, but not later than 90 days following the expiration of the period within which stop notices must be filed as provided in Civ. Code § 3184 [Civ. Code § 3210].

A judicial action or proceeding to attack, review, set aside, void, or annul an ordinance, resolution, or motion adopting a new fee or service charge or modifying or amending an existing fee or service charge for a sewer or water connection must be commenced within 120 days of the effective date of the ordinance, resolution, or motion. If an ordinance, resolution, or motion provides for an automatic adjustment in a fee or service charge that results in an increase in the fee or charge, the action or proceeding must be commenced within 120 days of the effective date of the increase [Gov. Code § 66022(a)].

The statute of limitations governing actions against districts, other than validating proceedings, is determined by the nature of the underlying cause of action. See generally Ch. 345, Limitation of Actions .

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use in an action to determine the validity of improvement bonds issued by a sanitary district and for a temporary restraining order, preliminary injunction and permanent injunction against the collection of unpaid assessments on plaintiff's land pursuant to the invalid bonds [Civ. Code § 3422; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 527; Health & Safety Code § 6653]. The complaint also prays for judgment that the allegedly void bonds are not a lien on any of the plaintiff's property.

This form of complaint may also be adapted for use in proceedings for invalidation of improvement bonds issued by sewer maintenance districts [Health & Safety Code § 4996; see § 511.53], community facilities improvement districts (formerly, municipal sewer and water districts) [Health & Safety Code § 4624], county sanitation districts [Health & Safety Code § 4803; see § 511.53], county sewerage and water districts [former Health & Safety Code § 5587; see § 511.52], joint municipal disposal districts [former Health & Safety Code § 5830], regional sewage disposal districts [former Health & Safety Code § 6071], and garbage and refuse disposal districts [Health & Safety Code § 49167; see § 511.52].

[3] Allegations

The complaint alleges (1) plaintiff's capacity to sue (Paragraph 1). This need not be alleged if plaintiff is a natural person, but if plaintiff is a legal entity, failure to allege capacity to sue may be grounds for demurrer to the complaint under Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(b). It alleges (2) defendant's capacity to be sued (Paragraph 2) [for discussion and form of allegations of capacity, see § 511.50], (3) facts showing that plaintiff is an interested person as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 863 (Paragraph 3) [for discussion of who are interested parties under Code Civ. Proc. § 863, see Empire W. Side Irrigation Dist. v. Lovelace (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 911, 913-914, 85 Cal. Rptr. 552 (validating proceeding on irrigation proceeding contract) and Regus v. Baldwin Park (1977) 70 Cal. App. 3d 968, 971, 972, 139 Cal. Rptr. 196 (validation and taxpayers' action on redevelopment project), and (4) facts showing that the defendant conducted the challenged bond election and purported to sell the authorized bonds (Paragraph 4).

The holding of the election and resulting issuance of bonds should be alleged (Paragraph 4), since a validating proceeding on sanitary district improvement bonds may only be brought on the ground that certain irregularities or informalities in the bond election resulted in the election being unfairly conducted and rendered the bonds void [Health & Safety Code § 6550.11; see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860, 864 (validating proceedings as permitted only if bonds have come into existence); Health & Safety Code § 6550.10 (sanitary improvement bonds issued only if approved by election)].

Note that although validating proceedings are the sole remedy of a plaintiff, other than a public agency, officer, or agent, to challenge the issuance of bonds after the election is held [Code Civ. Proc. § 869; Health & Safety Code §

6550.11; see also Millbrae School Dist. v. Superior Court (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1494, 1499, 261 Cal. Rptr. 409 (third party public agencies as required to comply with validating procedures)], mandate [Code Civ. Proc. § 1085] may be available to any interested party to challenge alleged irregularities in the proceedings leading up to the election [see Miller v. Greiner (1964) 60 Cal. 2d 827, 830, 36 Cal. Rptr. 737, 389 P.2d 129] . For example, mandate appears to lie to prevent further district proceedings if the board schedules a bond election even though the requisite number of property holders protest against the proposed project which the bonds are intended to finance [Health & Safety Code § 6550.7].

The complaint must also allege (5) facts showing irregularities or informalities in the bond election resulting in it being unfairly conducted (Paragraphs 6, 7) [Health & Safety Code § 6550.11]. Any error, irregularity, or omission which does not affect the substantial rights of the interested parties will be disregarded by the court and thus, will not serve to invalidate the bonds (Paragraph 7) [Code Civ. Proc. § 866; cf De Jong v. Pasadena Unified School Dist. (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 877, 881, 70 Cal. Rptr. 913 (issuance of bonds as not invalidated under former Educ. Code § 21708, which provided that school district bonds would not be invalidated absent actual fraud in the proceedings leading to their issuance, when election officials failed to deface unused ballots in compliance with the Election Code)].

In addition, the complaint alleges (6) that the action has been brought within the statutory time limitation for validating proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860-870 (Paragraph 8) [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860, 863; see also discussion § 511.51[8]].

The complaint alleges facts supporting the prayer for injunctive relief, including facts showing why defendant's conduct will constitute great and irreparable injury (Paragraph 9) [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526(a)(2), 527; E.H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1] . It also alleges the inadequacy of any legal remedy which plaintiff might pursue (Paragraph 10) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 526(a)(4),(5); Helms Bakeries v. St. Bd. Equalization (1942) 53 Cal. App. 2d 417, 425, 128 P.2d 167 , and Ch. 303, Injunctions, see § 511.50, Comments].

[4] Verification

If a complaint is verified it precludes a general denial in the answer [see Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. Verification of the complaint [see Code Civ. Proc. § 446] is required if plaintiff is seeking a temporary restraining order and/or preliminary injunction on a complaint without the use of affidavits (or declarations under penalty of perjury [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) [Code Civ. Proc. § 527]. Otherwise, verification of the complaint is not required. The answer of a district or officer sued in his or her official capacity need not be verified whether or not the complaint is verified [see Code Civ. Proc. § 446]. Since the purpose of verifying the complaint is to require a verified answer [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 431.30(d)-(f), 446], there would be no purpose served by verifying the foregoing complaint if plaintiff is not seeking a temporary restraining order and/or preliminary injunction on a complaint without the use of affidavits (or declarations under penalty of perjury).

[5] Certification re Notice

When a temporary restraining order is sought without formal notice, the applicant or the applicant's attorney is required to certify to the court under oath that either (1) within a reasonable time prior to the application he or she informed the opposing party (or his or her attorney, if any) at what time and where the application would be made, (2) he or she in good faith attempted to inform the opposing party (or attorney) but was unable to do so, specifying the efforts made to do so, or (3) for reasons specified he or she should not be required to inform the opposing party (or attorney) [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(c)].

[6] Jurisdiction and Venue

A validation action must be brought in the superior court of the county in which the principal office of the district is located [see Code Civ. Proc. § 860]. Because the action is in the nature of a proceeding in rem, the jurisdiction of the superior court is complete after the date specified in the summons [Code Civ. Proc. § 862] if the statutory conditions for service of summons have been complied with [Arnold v. Newhall County Water Dist. (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 794, 799-801, 89 Cal. Rptr. 450] .

The form of the summons and its manner of service are governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 861, 861.1, and 863. The Judicial Council form of summons may be used if it is modified to be directed to "all persons interested in the matter of _____ [specifying the matter]," and to contain a notice to all persons interested in the matter to appear and answer the complaint not later than the date specified in the summons, which should be 10 or more days after the completion of publication [Code Civ. Proc. § 861.1].

[7] Parties

If no validation action has been brought by a public agency, as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 860, any interested person may bring the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 863; see Code Civ. Proc. § 17 ("person" as including corporation)]. In an action by an interested person, the public agency must be named as a defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 863]. In addition, since the action is an in rem proceeding, any interested party may appear and contest the legality or validity of the matter to be determined within the time specified in the summons [Code Civ. Proc. § 862].

[8] Statute of Limitations

The action may be brought on the date of coming into existence of any matter which is authorized to be determined pursuant to these proceedings and for 60 days thereafter [Code Civ. Proc. § 860]. Bonds are deemed to be in existence upon their authorization, and they are deemed to be authorized as of the date of adoption by the governing body of the public agency of a resolution or ordinance authorizing their issuance [Code Civ. Proc. § 864]. Since the 60-day limitations period may be considered jurisdictional [see discussion in § 511.17[8]], the complaint should allege compliance with the 60-day period.

In addition to the foregoing general statute of limitations on all validating proceedings brought pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860-870, a provision enacted subsequent to Code Civ. Proc. § 860 provides that any action or proceedings contesting the validity of the formation of a sanitary improvement district or of any bonds issued for it must be commenced within three months from the date of the election authorizing the formation of the district or the issuance of the bonds; otherwise, the bonds and all proceedings relating to them, including the formation of the district, will be held valid and in every respect legal and incontestable [Health & Safety Code § 6550.11]. This longer statute of limitations may apply to actions brought under provisions other than Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860-870, since Health & Safety Code § 6653 provides only that validating actions "may" be brought under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860-870; it does not require that such actions be brought pursuant to those procedures [see Health & Safety Code § 6653].

[9] Consolidation

If more than one action is pending concerning similar contests, they must be consolidated for trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 865].

[10] Preference

Validating proceedings have preference over all other civil actions in the matter of setting for hearing or trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 867].

[11] Costs

Costs of a validating proceeding may be allowed and apportioned between the parties or taxed to the losing party in the discretion of the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 868].

[12] Judgment; Inapplicability of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 473, 473.5

Judgments in validating proceedings are binding and conclusive as to all matters adjudicated or which could have been adjudicated notwithstanding Code Civ. Proc. § 473 (relief from mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect) or 473.5 (relief from default); the judgment must permanently enjoin any action or proceeding by any person raising any issue as to which the judgment is binding and conclusive [Code Civ. Proc. § 870].

[13] Dismissal

If the interested person bringing the action fails to complete publication pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 861 and file proof thereof within 60 days from the filing of the complaint, the action must be dismissed on motion of the public agency unless good cause for such failure is shown by the interested person [Code Civ. Proc. § 863]. Without a showing of good cause, failure to comply with the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 863 with respect to the publication of a proper summons within the fixed time imposes a mandatory duty on the court to dismiss the action in its entirety [Arnold v. Newhall County Water Dist. (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 794, 89 Cal. Rptr. 450 ; see also Millbrae School Dist. v. Superior Court (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1494, 1500, 261 Cal. Rptr. 409 (mistaken but reasonable belief that Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860-870 does not apply as good cause for trial court to permit belated compliance with Code Civ. Proc. § 863)].

[14] Appeal

Notwithstanding any other provision of law including, without limitation, Code Civ. Proc. § 901 (authorizing review of judgments and orders in civil actions and proceedings) and any rule of court, no appeal shall be allowed from any judgment entered in validation actions or proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860-870 unless a notice of appeal is filed within 30 days after the notice of entry of the judgment, or, within 30 days after the entry of the judgment if there is no answering party. If there is no answering party, only issues related to the jurisdiction of the court to render a judgment pursuant to this chapter may be raised on appeal [Code Civ. Proc. § 870(b)].

PART IV. FORMS

44-511 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 511.52

§ 511.52 Allegations [Health & Safety Code § 49167] for Use in Complaint for Validating Proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860-870] Against County Sanitation District [Health & Safety Code § 4701], County Sewerage and Water District [former Health & Safety Code § 5501] or Garbage and Refuse Disposal District [Health & Safety Code § 49100]

[1] FORM Allegations [Health & Safety Code § 49167] for Use in Complaint for Validating Proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860-870] Against County Sanitation District [Health & Safety Code § 4701], County Sewerage and Water District [former Health & Safety Code § 5501] or Garbage and Refuse Disposal District [Health & Safety Code § 49100]

1. _____ [Allege facts showing that the provisions of the Health and Safety Code which authorize the issuance of bonds by county sanitation, county sewerage and water, or garbage and refuse disposal districts are unconstitutional or that the required hearing formation of the district was not regularly held or that proper notice of the hearing was not given].

2. The hereinabove described _____ [unconstitutional statutes or irregularities or failure to give proper notice] substantially affect[s] the rights of plaintiff in that _____ [show substantial rights of plaintiff adversely affected by defendant's irregularities as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 866]. For these reasons the bonds are not a valid or lawful lien on the real property of plaintiff hereinabove described, and any attempt by defendant to collect unpaid assessments thereon from plaintiff would be unlawful and improper.

[2] Use of Form

This form of allegations is for use in a proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860-870 to test the validity of county sanitation or county sewerage and water, or garbage and refuse disposal district bonds (see § 511.52[2][c]) [former Health & Safety Code § 5546]. With appropriate modification in the caption to see § 511.51, these allegations may be substituted for Paragraphs 5 and 6 of that form to state a cause of action to invalidate the proceedings of a county sanitation district, county sewerage and water district, or garbage and refuse disposal district.

[a] In Action Against County Sanitation District

Validating proceedings against a county sanitation district are authorized to be brought pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860-870 [Health & Safety Code § 4809.2]. It should be noted that Health & Safety Code § 4809.2 also authorizes separate proceedings to test the validity of bonds issued for improvement of a portion of a county sanitation district. The allegations in Paragraphs 5 and 6 of § 511.51, which allege such irregularities or informalities, are sufficient for a validating action under Health & Safety Code § 4809.2, although the caption of the complaint should be modified accordingly. The statute of limitations for an action under Health & Safety Code § 4809.2 is three months from the date of the special bond election [Health & Safety Code § 4809.2], which appears to conflict with the 60-day limitation of Code Civ. Proc. § 860. However, compliance with the 60-day limitation period for bringing a validating proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860-870 should be alleged since it appears to be a substantive rather than a procedural requirement [see discussion in § 511.17[8]; see also § 511.51]

[b] In Action Against County Sewerage and Water District

While the statutes authorizing the creation and organization of county sewerage and water districts [former Health & Safety Code §§ 5500-5656] were repealed effective September 18, 1959 [Stats. 1959, ch. 1309], the existence, organization, and powers of any district created by or organized pursuant to those statutes continues to be governed by their provisions [Stats. 1959, ch. 1309]. While former Health & Safety Code § 5587 authorizes an action to test the validity of county sewerage and water district bonds on the grounds that the provisions authorizing their issuance [former Health & Safety Code §§ 5580-5603] are unconstitutional or that the required hearing regarding the formation of the district [former Health & Safety Code § 5514] was not regularly held or proper notice of it not given [former Health & Safety Code §§ 5511, 5513], it is not specifically provided that the validating proceedings should be brought pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860-870. However, former Health & Safety Code § 5603 provides that the governing board of the district may commence validating proceedings to superior court similar to the proceeding in relation to irrigation bonds and that the judgment shall have the same effect as a judgment in relation to irrigation bonds [former Health & Safety Code § 5603]. Since validating proceedings in regard to irrigation district bonds may be brought pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860-870 [Water Code § 22670], it may be assumed that the same procedures govern validating proceedings in regard to county sewerage and water district bonds.

[c] In Action Against Garbage and Refuse Disposal District

While Health & Safety Code § 49167 authorizes an action to test the validity of garbage and refuse disposal district bonds on the grounds that the provisions authorizing their issuance [Health & Safety Code § 49160 et seq.] are unconstitutional or that the required hearing regarding the formation of the district [Health & Safety Code § 49111] was not regularly held or proper notice of it not given [Health & Safety Code §§ 49111-49113], there is no specific provision that such proceedings should be brought pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860-870, a requirement under Code Civ. Proc. § 860 for invoking the jurisdiction of the court under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860-870. This absence of a specific reference may be inadvertent, however, since former Health & Safety Code § 4186.07, the predecessor statute of Health & Safety Code § 49167, was enacted prior to the enactment of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860-870 in 1961, and the formation of garbage and refuse disposal districts has not been authorized since October 1961.

§ 511.53 Allegations [Health & Safety Code § 4994] for Use in Complaint for Validating Proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860-870] Against Sewer Maintenance District [Health & Safety Code § 4951]

[1] FORM Allegations [Health & Safety Code § 4994] for Use in Complaint for Validating Proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860-870] Against Sewer Maintenance District [Health & Safety Code § 4951]
1. _____ [Allege facts showing errors, defects, irregularities, informalities, neglect, or omissions of any officer of the district in any proceeding relating to the bonds which affect the jurisdiction of the governing body to order the proposed acts, e.g., to issue the bonds].
2. The hereinabove described _____ [errors (defects, irregularities, informalities, and neglect) and/or omissions] committed by defendant substantially affect the rights of plaintiff in that _____ [show substantial rights of plaintiff adversely affected by defendant's errors as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 866]. For these reasons the bonds are not a valid or lawful lien on the real property of plaintiff hereinabove described, and any attempt by defendant to collect unpaid assessments thereon from plaintiff would be unlawful and improper.
3. _____ [Allege facts showing that plaintiff has exhausted any administrative remedies available to contest the bond proceedings prior to the special bond election, e.g., At the hearing held by defendant on _____, 20 _____, pursuant to Resolution No. _____, a resolution of intention to construct improvements in the special assessment district, plaintiff appeared and filed a protest, objection, appeal, and notice of irregularity in proceedings, a true copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A, and made a part hereof. Following a hearing of plaintiff's protests, defendant overruled and denied plaintiff's protest, objection, appeal, and notice of irregularity in proceedings and called a special election to submit the proposition of acquiring or constructing the proposed works].

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing form of allegations is for use in a proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860-870 to test the validity of sewer revenue bonds [Health & Safety Code § 4986]. With appropriate modifications in the caption and paragraph numbers of § 511.51, Paragraphs 1 and 2 of the foregoing form may be substituted for Paragraphs 5 and 6 of § 511.51, and Paragraph 3 inserted after Paragraph 7 of § 511.51, to state a cause of action to invalidate the proceedings of a sewer maintenance district.

These proceedings are authorized to be brought pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860-870 [Health & Safety Code § 4996] on the ground that an error, defect, irregularity, informality, neglect, or omission of any district officer in any proceedings under Health & Safety Code §§ 4950-5072 which affects the jurisdiction of the governing body to issue the bonds invalidates those bonds [Health & Safety Code § 4994; see also Health & Safety Code § 4979]. However, the authorization of validating proceedings under Health & Safety Code § 4996 conflicts with Health & Safety Code § 4994, which provides that the exclusive remedy of any person affected or aggrieved by such error, defect, irregularity, informality, neglect, or omission is to the governing body involved [Health & Safety Code § 4994]. Nevertheless, it would appear that the legislative intent in enacting Health & Safety Code § 4996 in 1961 was to provide the additional remedy of judicial recourse under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 860-870, and that the failure to amend Health & Safety Code § 4994, which was enacted in 1939, was thus an oversight.

The validity of sewer revenue bonds may be challenged on the basis of irregularities in any proceeding leading to the issuance of the bonds, not merely on the basis of errors in the bond election or in the hearing on the formation of the district [Health & Safety Code § 4994]. The district is required, in its resolution of intention to acquire or construct sewer works, to notice a hearing where interested persons may appear before the governing body and voice any protests or objections they may have against the acquisition or construction and the issuance and sale of bonds before the special bond election takes place [Health & Safety Code §§ 4966(g), 4975]. Failure to appear at that hearing and raise any objections which exist at that time and to allege in the complaint for validating proceedings that plaintiff has done so, may result in the dismissal of plaintiff's action for lack of jurisdiction [Environmental Law Fund, Inc. v. Town of Corte Madera (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 105, 111-112, 122 Cal. Rptr. 282] .

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing form of complaint is for use in an action by an interested person to determine the validity of an ordinance, resolution, or motion adopting a new fee or service charge, or modifying or amending an existing fee or service charge, adopted by a local agency for a sewer or water connection [*see Code Civ. The complaint alleges (1) plaintiff's capacity to sue (Paragraph 1) [*see Code Civ. § 512.01 Scope of Chapter

This part discusses and contains forms for use in actions involving certificated employees of public elementary and secondary school districts (i.e., employees holding positions that require certification qualifications [see Educ. Code §§ 44001, 44006]). This part does not cover actions involving classified school district employees (i.e., those holding positions not requiring certification qualifications [see Educ. Code § 45104]). Classified employees are governed by separate provisions set forth in Educ. Code § 45100 et seq.

Included are forms of petitions for writs of mandate to review the denial, suspension, or revocation of a teaching credential [see § 512.160], to review the dismissal of a permanent employee of a school district [see §§ 512.161 -512.164], to review the failure to reemploy a probationary employee for the following school year [see § 512.166], to compel the governing board of a school district to recognize a teacher's permanent status [see § 512.169], to compel a governing board to reemploy a substitute or temporary teacher and reclassify him or her as a probationary employee [see § 512.170], and to compel a school district to pay a teacher's salary in accordance with law [see § 512.171].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

45-512 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 512.11

§ 512.11 Certificated Employees

A position requiring certification qualifications is a position for which certification qualifications are established pursuant to Educ. Code §§ 44000-44012, 44065, and 44200 et seq. [Educ. Code § 44001]. Besides classroom teachers and counselors, such positions include principals [see Educ. Code § 44860], home teachers [see Educ. Code §§ 44864, 44865], librarians [see Educ. Code §§ 44868, 44869], teaching supervisors [see Educ. Code § 44870], and school health personnel [see Educ. Code §§ 44871-44879]. The governing board of a school district may employ for such positions only those persons who possess the qualifications prescribed therefor by law, including the requisite certificate or credential [Educ. Code § 44830(a); see Holbrook v. Board of Educ. (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 316, 329, 231 P.2d 853] .

Any certificated employee who is required by an administrative superior to accept an assignment for which he or she has no legal authorization must, after exhausting any existing local remedies, notify the county superintendent of schools in writing of the illegal assignment. Adverse action against a certificated person who files such a notification of misassignment is prohibited. During the period of misassignment, the certificated person who filed a notification is exempt from Educ. Code § 45034, which prohibits payment of salary to any person employed in a position without proper certification. In addition, any performance evaluation of the employee in a subject to which he or she was misassigned must be nullified [Educ. Code § 44258.9(e)(2)].

A certificate is a document issued by a county board of education to license the holder to perform the service specified in the certificate [Educ. Code § 44004]. For this purpose, a "credential" includes a credential, certificate, life document, life diploma, permit, certificate of clearance, or waiver issued by the Commission on Teacher Credentialing (referred to in this part as "CTC") [Educ. Code § 44002; see Educ. Code § 44210 et seq. (CTC)]. A life diploma is a document issued on the basis of a credential on completion by the applicant of specified requirements [Educ. Code § 44003].

A certificated person is one who holds one or more certification documents which singly or in combination license the holder to engage in the school service designated in the document or documents [Educ. Code § 44006].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

45-512 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 512.15

§ 512.15 Denial of Issuance or Renewal of Credential

[1] Grounds

The CTC may deny any application for the issuance or renewal of a credential made by any applicant under the following conditions [Educ. Code § 44345]:

(a) Lacks the qualifications that are prescribed by law or by regulations adopted by the commission pursuant thereto;

(b) Is physically or mentally so disabled as to be rendered unfit to perform the duties authorized by the credential for which he or she applies; provided, however, that the mere fact that an applicant has sought or received psychiatric treatment may not be considered preliminary evidence of mental disability and may not provoke special scrutiny of the applicant's qualifications for a credential;

(c) Is addicted to the use of intoxicating beverages to excess;

(d) Is addicted to the use of narcotics or habit-forming drugs;

(e) Has committed any act involving moral turpitude;

(f) Has had a certification document revoked;

(g) Has intentionally practiced or attempted to practice any material deception or fraud in his or her application;

(h) Fails or refuses to furnish reasonable evidence of identification or good moral character; or

(i) Has been convicted of any offense defined in Penal Code § 314(1) (indecent exposure) prior to September 7, 1955.

Any denial of an application pursuant to (a) through (e), above, must be based on reasons related to the applicant's fitness to teach or fitness to perform other duties for which that applicant is certificated, or his or her competence to perform the duties which the credential would authorize the applicant to perform [Educ. Code § 44345; see, e.g., Watson v. State Bd. of Educ. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 559, 563-565, 99 Cal. Rptr. 468] .

The CTC may take an adverse action on an existing credential, on the ground that an applicant or licensee subverted or attempted to subvert a licensing examination or its administration [Educ. Code § 44439 (listing examples of conduct constituting such subversion)].

Furthermore, the CTC must deny any application for the issuance or renewal of a credential made by any applicant under the following conditions [Educ. Code § 44346(a)]:

(1) Has been determined to be a sexual psychopath under the provisions of Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 6300-6330 or under similar provisions of law of any other state;

(2) Has been convicted of any sex offense as defined in Educ. Code § 44010;

(3) Has been convicted of any controlled substance offense as defined in Educ. Code § 44011; or

(4) Has been found to be insane through a criminal proceeding by a federal court or a court in this or any other state.

Note that Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 6300-6330, which are referred to in Educ. Code § 44346(a)(1), were repealed by the Legislature in 1981 [see Stats. 1981, ch. 928, § 2].

Notwithstanding Educ. Code § 44346(a)(2), (3) (discussed above), ordinarily no person may be denied a credential solely because he or she has been convicted of a crime specified therein if he or she has obtained a certificate of rehabilitation under Penal Code §§ 4852.01-4852.21 and if his or her probation has been terminated and the information or accusation has been dismissed pursuant to Penal Code § 1203.4 [Educ. Code § 44346(b)(1)]. However, the CTC must deny a credential to any applicant who is required to register as a sex offender pursuant to the Sex Offender Registration Act [Penal Code § 290 et seq.] or a similar law of another state or of the United States [Educ. Code § 44346(b)(2)].

Notwithstanding Educ. Code § 44346(a)(3), (b) (discussed above), the CTC may issue a credential to a person convicted of a controlled substance offense as defined in Educ. Code § 44011 if the CTC determines from the evidence presented that the person has been rehabilitated for at least five years, or has received a certificate or rehabilitation and pardon pursuant to Penal Code § 4852.01, or if the accusation or information against the person has been dismissed and he or she has been released from all disabilities and penalties resulting from the offense pursuant to Penal Code § 1203.4 [Educ. Code § 44346(c)].

Notwithstanding Educ. Code § 44346(a)(4), the CTC may issue a credential to a person found to be insane through a criminal proceeding by a federal court or a court in this or any other state if the commission determines from the evidence presented that the person has been rehabilitated for at least 5 years [Educ. Code § 44346(d)].

Whenever the holder of a credential is adjudged insane, the commission must immediately revoke all credentials held by that person [Educ. Code § 44425.5].

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, revocation of a credential shall be final without possibility of reinstatement if the holder is charged with a felony sex offense, a felony controlled substance offense involving a minor, or murder, and in response to the charge, the holder of the credential is found to be insane through a criminal proceeding by a federal court or a court in this or any other state [Educ. Code § 44425.5].

[2] Hearing

The CTC's duty to deny an application for issuance or renewal of a credential made by persons convicted of designated sex or controlled substance offenses under Educ. Code § 44346 [see § 512.15[1]] is mandatory, and the CTC is not required to hold a hearing prior to denying such an application. Automatic denial of credentials pursuant to Educ. Code § 44346 has been upheld as not violating equal protection or due process [Vogulkin v. State Board of Education (1961) 194 Cal. App. 2d 424, 429-433, 15 Cal. Rptr. 335] . By contrast, a hearing must be held prior to denial of issuance or renewal of a credential under Educ. Code § 44345 [see Educ. Code § 44242.5; Matteson v. State Board of Education (1943) 57 Cal. App. 2d 991, 995, 998, 999-1000, 136 P.2d 120 ; see also discussion in § 512.15[1]].

Each allegation of an act or omission by an applicant for, or holder of, a credential for which he or she may be subject to an adverse action shall be presented to the Committee of Credentials [Educ. Code § 44242.5(a)]. An "adverse action" in this context means the denial of an application for a credential, a private admonition or public reproval of a credential holder, or the suspension or revocation of a credential [Educ. Code § 44000.5]. It is the committee's duty to investigate each allegation and, if it is determined that probable cause for denial of the application exists, to initiate an adjudicatory hearing before the CTC in accordance with Gov. Code §§ 11500-11528 if requested by the applicant or credential holder [see Educ. Code §§ 44242.5(c), 44246]. The procedures of the CTC and the Committee of Credentials relating to the denial of applications are the same as those for the suspension or revocation of credentials, and are further discussed in § 512.16[5].

[3] Judicial Review of Credential Denial

A person who has been improperly denied issuance or renewal of a certification document may seek judicial review of the denial by petition for writ of mandate; however, the aggrieved party must first exhaust all administrative remedies [see Pete v. State Bd. of Educ. (1956) 144 Cal. App. 2d 38, 39-42, 300 P.2d 147 ; see also Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions]. For a form of petition for a writ of mandate to review a decision of the commission denying a credential, see § 512.160.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

45-512 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 512.16

§ 512.16 Revocation or Suspension of Credential by Commission on Teacher Credentialing

[1] At Request of Holder

Whenever the holder of any credential issued by the CTC requests in writing that the credential held by him or her be revoked, the CTC must revoke the credential [Educ. Code § 44423(a)]. However, a revocation pursuant to this procedure does not deprive the CTC of its authority to [Educ. Code §§ 44423(b), 44440(b)]:

- Institute or continue a disciplinary proceeding against the credential holder on any ground provided by law;
- Enter an order suspending or revoking the credential; or
- Issue a public reproval or private admonition to the credential holder.

When the CTC revokes a credential at the request of the holder pursuant to Educ. Code § 44423, no vestige of the credential remains, and any subsequent application to reinstate the credential must be treated as an original application for issuance of a credential [Vogulkin v. State Board of Education (1961) 194 Cal. App. 2d 424, 427, 15 Cal. Rptr. 335] .

[2] Failure to Fulfill Contract Duties

Whenever any person employed by a school district in a position requiring certification qualifications refuses, without good cause, to fulfill a valid contract of employment with the district or leaves the service of the district without the consent of the superintendent, if there is one, or the governing board of the district, except in the manner provided by law, the CTC must, after proof of the fact is made, take an adverse action on the credential holder but may not suspend the credential for more than one year or revoke the credential [Educ. Code § 44420(a)]. An "adverse action" in this context includes a private admonition, a public reproval of the credential holder, or the suspension of a credential [Educ. Code § 44000.5]. If a person's credentials become subject to suspension under the above provision for a second or subsequent time, the CTC may suspend his or her credentials for not more than two years [Educ. Code § 44420(b)].

[3] Other Grounds for Revocation or Suspension

[a] In General

The CTC must revoke or suspend any credential issued by it, or privately admonish or publicly reprove the holder, for (1) immoral or unprofessional conduct, (2) persistent defiance of, and refusal to obey, the laws regulating the duties of persons serving in the public school system, (3) evident unfitness for service, or (4) any cause that would have warranted the denial of an application for a credential or the renewal of the credential [Educ. Code § 44421; see discussion in § 512.15[1]]. The CTC may also take an adverse action on the ground that an applicant or credential holder has subverted or attempted to subvert any licensing examination or the administration of an examination [Educ. Code § 44439 (examples of conduct constituting such subversion)].

An action by the local school board to dismiss a teacher pursuant to Educ. Code §§ 44932-44949 [see discussions in §§ 512.64[4] and [5]] is not a prerequisite to the revocation of his or her teaching credential by the CTC pursuant to Educ. Code § 44421 [Alford v. Department of Educ. (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 884, 890-891, 91 Cal. Rptr. 843] .

Notwithstanding Educ. Code § 44421, the CTC must take an appropriate adverse action on any credential holder who knowingly and willfully reports false fiscal expenditure data relative to the conduct of any educational program [Educ. Code § 44421.5].

The CTC must also suspend a credential when it receives notice that (1) another state has taken final action to revoke a credential or license authorizing the holder of the credential to perform any duty in the public schools of the other state [Educ. Code § 44423.5]; (2) the ability of the holder of the credential to associate with minors has been limited as a term or condition of probation or sentencing resulting from a criminal conviction in California, another state, or the United States [Educ. Code § 44423.6(a)(1); see Educ. Code § 44423.6(a)(2) (suspension not required when conviction is based solely on violation of domestic-violence protective order as set forth in Penal Code § 273.6(a)]; or (3) the holder of the credential has been ordered to surrender a credential or certification document as a term or condition of probation or sentencing resulting from a criminal conviction in California, another state, or the United States [Educ. Code § 44423.6(b)].

[b] Immoral or Unprofessional Conduct

Certification documents may not properly be revoked pursuant to Educ. Code § 44421 for immoral or unprofessional conduct, or acts involving moral turpitude, unless the teacher's conduct demonstrates unfitness to teach. In determining whether a teacher's conduct indicates unfitness to teach, the CTC and courts may consider such factors as (1) the likelihood that such conduct may have adversely affected students or fellow teachers; (2) the degree of such adversity anticipated; (3) the proximity or remoteness in time of the conduct; (4) the type of teaching certificate held by the party involved; (5) the extenuating or aggravating circumstances, if any, surrounding the conduct; (6) the praiseworthiness or blameworthiness of the motives resulting in the conduct; (7) the likelihood of the recurrence of the questioned conduct; and (8) the extent to which disciplinary action may inflict an adverse impact or chilling effect on the constitutional rights of other teachers [Morrison v. State Board of Education (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 214, 225, 229, 82 Cal. Rptr. 175, 461 P.2d 375] .

Generally, the mere fact that a teacher has engaged in homosexual conduct or has been convicted of possession of marijuana is not in itself sufficient to justify revocation of a credential on grounds of immoral conduct [see Morrison v. State Board of Education (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 214, 235-238, 82 Cal. Rptr. 175, 461 P.2d 375 ; Comings v. State Bd. of Educ. (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 94, 104-105, 100 Cal. Rptr. 73 (revocation held improper)]. However, revocation may be proper if the record contains additional evidence of unfitness to teach [see Pettit v. State Bd. of Education (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 29, 34-36, 109 Cal. Rptr. 665, 513 P.2d 889 ; Moser v. State Bd. of Educ. (1972) 22 Cal. App. 3d 988, 988-992, 101 Cal. Rptr. 86 (revocation upheld)].

[4] Right to Hearing

Although the Education Code does not explicitly require a hearing prior to the suspension or revocation of a credential pursuant to Educ. Code § 44421, it has been held that a teacher has a right to such a hearing [see Matteson v. State Bd. of Educ. (1943) 57 Cal. App. 2d 991, 998, 136 P.2d 120 (interpreting similarly worded provisions of former School Code); see also Educ. Code §§ 44242.5(c)(3)(B), 44246]. Moreover, such a hearing would appear to be mandatory because of the rule that a teacher may not be deprived of his or her teaching credential for immoral or unprofessional conduct absent evidence that he or she is unfit to teach [see Morrison v. State Board of Education (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 214, 218 n.4, 225, 82 Cal. Rptr. 175, 461 P.2d 375 ; cf. Purifoy v. State Bd. of Educ. (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 187, 194, 106 Cal. Rptr. 201 (distinguishing automatic revocation provisions of former Educ. Code § 13207 (now see Educ. Code § 44425) under which no hearing is required)].

[5] Committee of Credentials Procedure--Investigation

The CTC may assign to the Committee of Credentials administrative duties as it may see fit relating to adverse actions concerning applicants and credential holders [Educ. Code § 44243(a); see Educ. Code § 44243(b) (CTC to supervise committee and provide statements of policy relative to committee operation and procedures as it deems appropriate)]. Each allegation of an act or omission by an applicant for, or holder of, a credential for which he or she may be subject to an adverse action shall be presented to the Committee of Credentials [Educ. Code § 44242.5(a)]. An "adverse action" in this context means the denial of an application for a credential, a private admonition, a public reproval of a credential holder, or the suspension or revocation of a credential [Educ. Code § 44000.5].

The committee has jurisdiction to commence an investigation on receipt of any of the following [Educ. Code § 44242.5(b)]:

(1) Official records of the Department of Justice, of any law enforcement agency, of any state or federal court, and of any other agency of California [see Gov. Code § 11000].

(2) An affidavit or declaration signed by person or persons with personal knowledge of the acts alleged to constitute misconduct.

(3) A statement from an employer notifying the CTC that, as a result of, or while an allegation of misconduct is pending, a credential holder has been dismissed, nonreelected, suspended for more than 10 days, or placed pursuant to a final adverse employment action on unpaid administrative leave for more than 10 days, or has resigned or otherwise left employment [see Educ. Code § 44242.5(b)(3)(B) (employer must provide such notice to CTC not later than 30 days after employee's dismissal, nonreelection, suspension, placement on unpaid administrative leave, resignation, or departure from employment)].

(4) A notice from an employer that a complaint was filed with the school district alleging sexual misconduct by a credential holder. Results of an investigation by the committee based on this paragraph shall not be considered for action by the committee unless there is evidence presented to the committee in the form of a written or oral declaration under penalty of perjury that confirms the personal knowledge of the declarant regarding the acts alleged to constitute misconduct.

(5) A notice from a school district, employer, public agency, or testing administrator of a violation of Educ. Code §§ 44420, 44421.1, 44421.5, or 44439.

(6) An affirmative response, or failure to disclose information that would constitute an affirmative response, on any application submitted to the CTC as to any conviction, adverse action on, or denial of, any license, or pending investigation into any criminal allegation or pending investigation of any noncriminal allegation of misconduct by a governmental licensing entity.

[6] Formal Review

No later than six months after the commencement of the committee's initial review, the committee ordinarily must conduct the formal review [Educ. Code § 44244(b)(1)]. However, the chair of the CTC may grant the committee an extension of time, not exceeding six months, if the committee demonstrates that additional time is necessary to complete its investigation or determination, as described in subdivision (b) [Educ. Code § 44244(c)]. The formal review must determine either that no adverse action will be taken or that the allegations are sufficient to cause the application or credential to be subject to adverse action [Educ. Code § 44244(b)(1)].

The committee has jurisdiction to commence a formal review on receipt of any of the following [Educ. Code § 44242.5(d)]:

(1) Official records of any state or federal court that reflect a conviction or plea, including a plea of nolo contendere, to any criminal offense, or official records of any state court that adjudge a juvenile to be a dependent of the court [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 300] due to allegations of sexual misconduct or physical abuse by a credential holder or applicant. However, the committee's authority to conduct a formal review of these allegations does not relieve the CTC from the confidentiality provisions, notice, and due process requirements applicable to such judicial records [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 827].

(2) An affidavit or declaration signed by a person or persons with personal knowledge of the acts alleged to constitute misconduct.

(3) A statement from an employer notifying the CTC that, as a result of, or while an allegation of misconduct is pending, a credential holder has been dismissed, nonreelected, suspended for more than 10 days, or placed pursuant to a final adverse employment action on unpaid administrative leave for more than 10 days, or has resigned or otherwise left employment [see Educ. Code § 44242.5(b)(3)(A); see also Educ. Code § 44242.5(b)(3)(B); (employer must provide such notice to CTC not later than 30 days after employee's dismissal, nonreelection, suspension, placement on unpaid administrative leave, resignation, or departure from employment)].

(4) Official records of any governmental licensing entity that reflect an administrative proceeding or investigation, otherwise authorized by law or regulation, that has become final.

(5) A notice from a school district, employer, public agency, or testing administrator of a violation of Educ. Code §§ 44420, 44421.1, 44421.5, or 44439 [see Educ. Code § 44242.5(b)(5)].

(6) An affirmative response, or failure to disclose information that would constitute an affirmative response, on any application submitted to the CTC as to any conviction, adverse action on, or denial of, any license, or pending investigation into any criminal allegation or pending investigation of any noncriminal allegation of misconduct by a governmental licensing entity [see Educ. Code § 44242.5(b)(6)].

On the commencement of the formal review, the committee must investigate all alleged misconduct and the circumstances in mitigation and aggravation. The investigation must include, but is not limited to, all of the following [Educ. Code § 44242.5(a)]:

(1) Investigation of the fitness and competence of the applicant or credential holder to perform the duties authorized by the credential for which he or she has applied or that he or she presently holds.

(2) Preparation of a summary of the applicable law, a summary of the facts, contested and uncontested, and a summary of any circumstances in aggravation or mitigation of the allegation.

(3) Determination of probable cause for an adverse action on the credential. If the allegation is for unprofessional or immoral conduct, the committee must permit the employer of the credential holder to be present while testimony is taken. If the allegation of unprofessional or immoral conduct involves sexual abuse, the employer must be examined for any relevant evidence relating to the sexual abuse.

All testimony before the committee must be verified under penalty of perjury by oath or affirmation. The chair of the committee may administer the oath or affirmation. The chair may designate staff to administer the oath or affirmation for statements taken during the investigation of allegations of misconduct [Educ. Code § 44244(b)(2)].

[7] Notice to Applicant or Certificate Holder

At least 30 days prior to any formal review, the committee must notify the applicant or certificate holder of the specific allegations of misconduct that make the application or credential subject to adverse action. The notification must be in ordinary and concise language and must set forth the acts or omissions charged and the statutes or rules violated. Supplemental allegations of misconduct must be sent to the holder or applicant at least 30 days prior to the formal review. The portions of the investigation of the original or supplemental allegations that constitute the basis for the allegations must be open to inspection and copying by the holder or applicant and his or her attorney. The statement of the allegations must inform the applicant or holder that the allegations, if true, are sufficient to cause his or her application or credential to be subject to adverse action [Educ. Code § 44244(a)].

[8] Decision

If the committee determines that probable cause for an adverse action does not exist, the committee must terminate the investigation [Educ. Code § 44242.5(c)(3)(A)]. If the committee determines that probable cause for an adverse action on the credential exists, on receipt of a request from the applicant or credential holder [see Educ. Code § 44244.1], the CTC must initiate an adjudicatory hearing [see Gov. Code § 11500 et seq.] by filing an accusation or statement of issues [Educ. Code § 44242.5(c)(3)(B)]. For a discussion and forms relating to administrative hearings conducted pursuant to Gov. Code § 11500 et seq. , see Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication , through Ch. 473H, Alternative Procedures for Agency Decisions .

On completion of its investigation, the committee must report its actions and recommendations to the CTC, including its findings as to probable cause, and if probable cause exists, its recommendations as to the appropriate adverse action [Educ. Code § 44242.5(e)(1)]. The findings may not contain any information that reveals the identity of persons other than the person who is the subject of the investigation [Educ. Code § 44242.5(e)(3)]. The findings must be available, on request, to the employing or last known employing school district [Educ. Code § 44242.5(e)(2)]. Also, if adverse action is recommended by the committee and the credential holder has not filed a timely appeal of the recommendation [see Educ. Code § 44244.1], the committee's findings must be available, on a request made within five years of the date of the committee's recommendations, to a school district providing verification that the credential holder has applied for employment in the district [Educ. Code § 44242.5(e)(2)]. The findings must, for all purposes, remain confidential and limited to school district personnel in a direct supervisory capacity in relation to the person investigated. Any person who otherwise releases findings received from the committee or the CTC, absent a verified release signed by the person who is the subject of the investigation, is guilty of a misdemeanor [Educ. Code § 44242.5(e)(2)].

A copy of the written recommendation of the committee must be delivered to the credential holder or applicant personally or sent to him or her by certified mail within 14 days after the formal review, together with specific information relative to any appeal rights to which the credential holder or applicant is entitled [Educ. Code § 44244(d)].

[9] Hearing by County Board of Education

Whenever the holder of a credential issued by the State Bd. of Educ. or the Commission is charged with immoral or unprofessional conduct, evident unfitness for service, or persistent defiance of and refusal to obey the laws regulating the duties of his or her position, the Commission, in its discretion, after notifying the person charged of its intention to do so, may require the county board of education of the county in which the person charged is serving or last served to give notice of and conduct a hearing of the charges. The hearing must be conducted in the manner prescribed by law for the hearing of charges for private admonition, or for the revocation or suspension of a certificate by a county board of education [Educ. Code § 44422; see § 512.17[2]]. It is not clear whether such a hearing by the county board of education is in addition to or in lieu of a hearing by the Commission conducted in accordance with Gov. Code §§ 11500-11528 [see Educ. Code §§ 44242.5(c), 44246].

After the hearing, the county board of education must report to the Commission its findings and a summary of the evidence, and make a definite recommendation concerning the revocation or suspension of the credential. On receipt of a copy of the findings, summary of evidence, and recommendation, the Commission may suspend or revoke the credential for the causes stated, or order the charges dismissed [Educ. Code § 44422].

[10] Judicial Review of Revocation or Suspension

A decision to suspend or revoke a teaching credential is reviewable in a mandate proceeding [see Educ. Code § 44246; Gov. Code § 11523]. In such a proceeding, the trial court must exercise its independent judgment on the evidence, and the appellate court must sustain the decision of the trial court if there is any credible, competent evidence to support its findings [see Tringham v. State Board of Education (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 507, 508, 326 P.2d 850] .

For discussion and forms relating to judicial review of administrative decisions made pursuant to an adjudicatory hearing, see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , through Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions . For a form of petition for writ of mandate to review a decision of the commission to revoke or suspend a credential, see § 512.160.

45-512 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 512.17

§ 512.17 Revocation or Suspension of Certificate by County Board of Education

[1] Grounds

County boards of education may revoke or suspend the certificates granted by them for immoral or unprofessional conduct [see discussion in § 512.16[3][b]], evident unfitness for teaching, or persistent defiance of and refusal to obey the laws regulating the duties of teachers [Educ. Code § 44427].

[2] Notice and Hearing

No certificate may be revoked or suspended, except on written request of its holder, until after a hearing before the county board of education, and then only on the affirmative vote of at least four members of the board [Educ. Code § 44428]. All charges of immoral or unprofessional conduct, evident unfitness for teaching, or persistent defiance of and refusal to obey the laws relating to the duties of teachers must be presented to the board in writing and verified under oath [Educ. Code § 44429].

Notice of the time of hearing and a full and complete copy of the charges must be furnished to the accused at least 10 days before the hearing [Educ. Code § 44430]. The accused must be given a fair and impartial hearing and must have the right to be represented by counsel [Educ. Code § 44431]. The hearing is governed and conducted by the rules of the board [Educ. Code § 44432].

[3] Unauthorized Departure From Service

Any teacher employed by a school board of trustees for a specified time who leaves school before expiration of the time without the written consent of the trustees is guilty of unprofessional conduct. The county board of education may, on receiving notice of the fact, suspend the certificate of the teacher for a period of one year [Educ. Code § 44433].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

45-512 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 512.18

§ 512.18 Mandatory Revocation of Certification Documents

[1] Conviction of Crime

On final conviction of the holder of any credential issued by the State Bd. of Educ. or the CTC, or the holder of any certificate issued by a county board of education, of a violation, or attempted violation, of certain designated Penal Code sections, the CTC or county board of education must forthwith revoke the credential or certificate [Educ. Code §§ 44424(a), 44435; see Educ. Code § 44346.1; see also Educ. Code § 44424(b) (plea of nolo contendere to listed crimes results in suspension pending CTC's final disposition regarding credential); but see Educ. Code § 44424(d) (credential not to be revoked solely on basis of conviction of violent or serious felony if holder has obtained certificate of rehabilitation and pardon under Penal Code § 4852.01 et seq.); Gebremicael v. California Comm'n on Teacher Credentialing (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 1477, 1481-1489, 13 Cal. Rptr. 3d 777 (felony conviction that has been reduced to misdemeanor under Penal Code § 17(b)(3) becomes misdemeanor for all purposes and therefore is not ground for denial of credential under Educ. Code § 44346.1)].

Furthermore, whenever the holder of a certification document issued by the State Board of Education, the CTC, or a county board of education is convicted of a sex offense (as defined in Educ. Code § 44010) or a controlled substance offense (as defined in Educ. Code § 44011), the CTC or county board of education must forthwith suspend the document. If the conviction is reversed and the holder is acquitted of the offense in a new trial or the charges against him or her are dismissed, the CTC or board must forthwith terminate the suspension of the document. When the conviction becomes final or when imposition of sentence is suspended, the CTC or board must forthwith revoke the document [Educ. Code §§ 44425, 44436].

Revocation of certification documents on conviction of designated sex or narcotics offenses pursuant to Educ. Code § 44425 is automatic and mandatory and the CTC is not required to hold a hearing prior to such revocation [see DiGenova v. State Board of Education (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 255, 259-260, 288 P.2d 862] . The mandatory revocation provisions of Educ. Code § 44425 do not violate equal protection or due process [Purifoy v. State Bd. of Educ. (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 187, 190-198, 106 Cal. Rptr. 201] .

[2] Sexual Psychopaths

Whenever the holder of a certification document issued by the State Board of Education, the CTC, or a county board of education has been determined to be a sexual psychopath under the provisions of Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 6300-6330 or under similar provisions of law of any other state, the CTC or county board of education must forthwith suspend the certification document. If the determination is reversed and the holder is determined in a new proceeding not to be a sexual psychopath or the proceeding to determine whether he or she is a sexual psychopath is dismissed, the CTC or board must forthwith terminate the suspension of the document. When the determination becomes final, the CTC or board must forthwith revoke the document [Educ. Code §§ 44426, 44437].

Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 6300-6330 were repealed by the legislature in 1981 [see Stats. 1981, ch. 828, § 2]. Because the references in Educ. Code §§ 44426 and 44437 are specific to these repealed provisions, the continuing validity of the mandatory revocation requirements is questionable.

§ 512.19 Classification of Certificated Employees

The Education Code classifies certificated employees into four types: permanent, probationary, substitute, and temporary. An employee's rights with respect to termination of employment depend on his or her classification. Under the statutory classification system, permanent and probationary teachers have positions of a settled and continuing nature, and are protected against arbitrary dismissal by the requirement of notice and a hearing before termination. By contrast, substitute and temporary teachers fill the short range needs of the school district and may be summarily released absent an infringement of constitutional or contractual rights [Balen v. Peralta Junior College Dist. (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 821, 826, 114 Cal. Rptr. 589, 523 P.2d 629 ; see discussions in § 512.64[4], § 512.64[5], and § 512.32].

The classification of a certificated employee depends on the position he or she occupies, and a school district may not determine a teacher's classification based on the type of credential or certification he or she has. For example, if a certificated employee occupies a position the Education Code defines as tempo rary, he or she is a temporary employee; if it is not a position that requires temporary classification (or permanent or substitute), he or she is a probationary employee [California Teachers Assn. v. Vallejo City Unified School Dist. (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 135, 150, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 712 (Educ. Code § 44915 mandates that teachers be classified as probationary employees if they are not permanent and do not fall within one of narrowly defined classes of temporary employees); Bakersfield Elementary Teachers Assn. v. Bakersfield City School Dist. (2006) 145 Cal. App. 4th 1260, 1299, 52 Cal. Rptr. 3d 486 (Educ. Code grants school districts no discretion to deviate from statutory classification scheme)].

§ 512.20 Permanent (Tenured) Employees

[1] Attainment of Tenure

[a] Large School District

Every employee of a school district of any type or class that has an average daily attendance of 250 pupils or more who, after having been employed by the district for two complete consecutive school years in a position or positions requiring certification qualifications, is reelected for the next school year to a position requiring certification qualifications, must be classified as and become a permanent employee of the district at the commencement of the succeeding school year [Educ. Code § 44929.21(b) (applicable to probationary employees whose probationary period commenced during 1983-1984 fiscal year or thereafter); see Vasquez v. Happy Valley Union Sch. Dist. (2008)159 Cal. App. 4th 969, 985-986, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 15 (timely notice of non-reelection for third school year prevents teacher from attaining permanent status, even if teacher ultimately works for district during portion of third year)]. The decision to grant tenure lies within the discretion of the governing board, and it may be denied for any lawful reason regardless of the sufficiency of the cause [McFarland Unified School Dist. v. Public Employment Relations Bd. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 166, 169, 279 Cal. Rptr. 26, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 405 (but holding that PERB may order reinstatement of probationary teacher dismissed for engaging in protected labor activities, even if reinstatement results in teacher receiving tenure)]. No statement of reasons or hearing is required [Grimsley v. Board of Trustees (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1440, 1444-1448, 235 Cal. Rptr. 85 ; see Bellflower Education Assn. v. Bellflower Unified School Dist. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 805, 279 Cal. Rptr. 179] .

The governing board must notify the employee, on or before March 15 of the employee's second complete consecutive school year of employment by the district in a position or positions requiring certification qualifications, of the decision to reelect or not reelect him or her to such a position for the next succeeding school year [Educ. Code § 44929.21(b)]. The notice must be given by personal service or some other method that imparts actual notice [Hoschler v. Sacramento City Unified Sch. Dist. (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 258, 263-264, 269, 57 Cal. Rptr. 3d 115 (because Educ. Code § 44929.21(b) does not prescribe method of service and previous versions of the statute allowing service by mail were omitted in subsequent versions, personal service is contemplated)]. If the governing board does not give this notice on or before March 15, the employee is deemed reelected for the next succeeding school year [Educ. Code § 44929.21(b) (applicable to probationary employees whose probationary period commenced during 1983-1984 fiscal year or thereafter)]. However, the March 15 notice need not be given if the governing board has elected to proceed with termination for cause [Zhigulina v. Board of Education (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 159, 161-162, 254 Cal. Rptr. 728 ; see Educ. Code § 44948.3 (dismissal of probationary employee for cause); see also § 512.29].

For the purpose of calculating the two-year probationary period, the employee's status as a probationary employee begins not on the teaching credential validity date, but on the date stated in probationary contract with the employing school district. Thus, if a teacher serving under an emergency permit accepts a new contract as a probationary teacher during the school year, the teacher's probationary status begins on execution of the new contract, even if the validity date of the teacher's credential preceded the beginning of the school year [Fine v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (2004) 116 Cal. App. 4th 1070, 1076-1080, 10 Cal. Rptr. 3d 876 (teacher serving under emergency permit continues to serve under that permit, and under agreed contract, until teacher is issued credential and registers it with school district)].

The probationary period is mandatory. A district may not waive it and grant tenure before the teacher has completed the period [Fleice v. Chualar Union Elementary School Dist. (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 886, 889-893, 254 Cal. Rptr. 54] .

Procedures relating to the evaluation of probationary teachers preparatory to the granting of tenure may be the proper subject of a collective bargaining agreement under Gov. Code § 3543.2. However, the tenure decision remains within the unfettered discretion of the school board. An arbitrator under the collective bargaining agreement may not order reinstatement of a probationary teacher, either to extended probationary status or to tenured status, as a remedy for any violation of the established procedures [Bellflower Education Assn. v. Bellflower Unified School Dist. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 805, 808-813, 279 Cal. Rptr. 179 (limiting arbitrator's remedy to "cease and desist" order); Fontana Teachers Assn. v. Fontana Unified School Dist. (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 1517, 1524-1526, 247 Cal. Rptr. 761 (calling arbitration of dismissal of probationary teacher "pointless")].

A full-time employee holding a position in which some or all of the assigned duties require certification qualifications for the statutory period is entitled to full-time permanent status in the certificated position, notwithstanding that some of the assigned duties do not require certification qualifications [see Holbrook v. Board of Educ. (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 316, 319-321, 333, 231 P.2d 853] .

[b] Small School District

Every employee of a school district of any type or class that has an average daily attendance of less than 250 pupils, who, after having been employed by the district for three complete consecutive school years in a position or positions requiring certification qualifications, is reelected for the next succeeding school year to a position requiring certification qualifications, may be classified by the governing board of the district as a permanent employee of the district. If the board does not so classify him or her, the employee does not attain permanent status and may be reelected thereafter, from year to year, without becoming a permanent employee until the classification is made [Educ. Code § 44929.23(a)].

A governing board that elects to dismiss probationary employees under Educ. Code § 44948.2 (see § 512.30[1]) must classify as a permanent employee any probationary employee who, after being employed for two complete school years in a position requiring certification qualifications, is reelected for the next succeeding school year to such a position. Any probationary employee who has been employed by the district for two or more consecutive years on the date of that election in a position requiring certification qualifications must be classified as a permanent employee [Educ. Code § 44929.23(b)]. If the election is made, Educ. Code § 44929.21 [see § 512.20[1][a]], including its notice requirements, applies to the district [Educ. Code § 44929.23(b)].

The governing board of a school district that employs in a position requiring certification qualifications any person who has become a permanent certificated employee in any other school district, may employ the person as a permanent certificated employee [Educ. Code § 44929.28].

[2] Computation of Service Time

For purposes of computing the service time required for the attainment of permanent status, a probationary employee who, in any one school year, has served for at least 75 percent of the number of days during which the regular schools of the district in which he or she is employed are maintained is deemed to have served a complete school year. With respect to evening schools, 75 percent of the number of days during which the evening schools of the district are in session is deemed to be a complete school year [Educ. Code § 44908]. This provision has also been construed as applying to a teacher who has taught at least 75 percent of the hours required of a full-time teacher during the school year, even though he or she has not taught 75 percent of the days of the school year [see Vittal v. Long Beach Unified School Dist. (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 112, 119-121, 87 Cal. Rptr. 319] . However, an approved leave of absence during the probationary period shall not be construed as a break in the continuity of service required for classification of the employee as permanent under Educ. Code § 44975 [Griego v. Los Angeles Unified School District (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 515, 519-521, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 556] .

Not included in computing the service time required for attainment of permanent status are:

- Service as an instructor at a regional occupation center, unless the employee is a regularly credentialed teacher who has been employed to teach in the regular educational programs of the school district and subsequently assigned as an instructor in a regional occupational center or program [Educ. Code § 44910; see Reis v. Biggs Unified Sch. Dist. (2005) 126 Cal. App. 4th 809, 816-821, 24 Cal. Rptr. 3d 393 (teacher who retains part-time regular teaching position, and is assigned additional part-time regional occupation center teaching position, is not "subsequently assigned" to regional occupation center for purposes of Educ. Code § 44910); Sullivan v. Calistoga Joint Unified School Dist. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1313, 1318, 279 Cal. Rptr. 529] ;

- Service under a provisional credential [Educ. Code § 44911; see California Teachers Assn. v. Vallejo City Unified School Dist. (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 135, 155, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 712 (unless matters of tenure are involved, Educ. Code does not restrict provisionally credentialed teachers from enjoying rights afforded to their fully credentialed colleagues of same classification)];

- Service under a credential authorizing service only as a teacher of basic military drill [Educ. Code § 44912]; and

- Summer school employment [Educ. Code § 44913].

Also, time spent teaching under an emergency teaching credential may not be counted in computing an employee's progress toward permanent status, unless the employee is credentialed in another state and demonstrates adequate basic skills proficiency pending successful completion of the California Basic Educational Skills Test (CBEST) [Culbertson v. San Gabriel Unified Sch. Dist. (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 1392, 1397-1399, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 234 (service under "Emergency Long Term Single Subject Teaching Permit" may not be included in computing service required for classification as permanent employee); Smith v. Governing Bd. of Elk Grove Unified Sch. Dist. (2004) 120 Cal. App. 4th 563, 567-569, 16 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1 (service under "Emergency Education Specialist Instruction Permit" may not be included in computing service required for classification as permanent employee); Summerfield v. Windsor Unified Sch. Dist. (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 1026, 1030-1035, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 233 (emergency teaching credential issued under Educ. Code § 44300 is "provisional teaching credential" for purposes of Educ. Code § 44911, which excludes time spent teaching under provisional credential in computation of service time required for attainment of permanent status); see Educ. Code § 44252 (CBEST requirement)].

An employee's service in a position requiring certification in a program or project conducted under contract with a public or private agency, or in a categorically funded project that is not required by federal or state statutes, generally is not included in computing the service time for attainment of permanent status. However, one year of such service may be counted if (1) the employee has served in that position (pursuant to Educ. Code § 44909) for at least 75 percent of the number of days the regular schools of the district are maintained, and (2) the employee is subsequently employed as a probationary employee in a position requiring certification qualifications [Educ. Code § 44909; Schnee v. Alameda Unified School Dist. (2004) 125 Cal. App. 4th 555, 560-565, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 800] .

If an employee of a school district has served as a probationary employee of the district in a position requiring certification qualifications for one complete school year, and in the year immediately preceding the probationary service has served as a substitute employee, or as a substitute and probationary employee, for at least 75 percent of the number of days the regular schools of the district were maintained, the governing board of the district may count the year the teacher served as a substitute, or served as a substitute and probationary employee, as one year of the probationary period that the employee is required by law to serve as a condition to being classified as a permanent employee of the district [Educ. Code § 44914].

Under certain conditions, a probationary year served under a university internship credential [see Educ. Code § 44450 et seq. (Teacher Education Internship Act of 1967)] may count toward the attainment of tenure. Specifically, if a person has completed a university teaching internship program and obtained a clear credential, the last year of teaching under the university internship credential counts toward tenure if the person is employed for the next complete school year under the clear credential by the same school district that employed him or her in the last year of internship [Educ. Code § 44466]. Thus, at the completion of the first year under the clear credential, the person will attain tenure unless the school district gives timely notice of its decision not to reelect him or her [Peoples v. San Diego Unified Sch. Dist. (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 463, 468-472, 41 Cal. Rptr. 3d 383 ; see Educ. Code § 44929.21(b)].

[3] Scope of Tenure

[a] In General

A tenured school teacher (that is, one who has attained permanent status) has a vested right to permanent employment within the scope of the certification document under which tenure was acquired. Tenure does not, however, bestow on a school teacher any vested right to teach at a specific school or to teach a specific grade level of students within a school. The school district may assign a teacher to any position within the scope of his or her certificate according to the needs of the district, subject only to a requirement of reasonableness [Adelt v. Richmond School Dist. (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 149, 152, 58 Cal. Rptr. 151] .

[b] Multiple Credentials

If an employee is authorized to render service in more than one type of position for which certification qualifications are required, either by virtue of his or her possession of one certification document authorizing service in two or more certificated positions, or by virtue of his or her possession of separate certification documents authorizing service in two or more positions, or any combination thereof, then, on satisfying all other requirements prescribed by law, the employee acquires permanent status as follows [Educ. Code § 44894(b)]:

(1) If the employee is authorized to render service as a classroom teacher, he or she acquires permanent status as a classroom teacher; or

(2) If the employee is not authorized to render service as a classroom teacher, he or she acquires permanent status below the administrative or supervisory level as a staff employee with multiple qualifications. The employee's right to serve in one or more of the positions for which he or she is qualified to serve is subject to the power of assignment of the school district governing board.

Thus, for example, an employee who holds both teaching and counseling certificates acquires permanent status as a classroom teacher only, regardless of the length of time served as a counselor and regardless of which position was held by the employee at the completion of the probationary period. Such an employee may be reassigned from a counseling position to a teaching position without notice or hearing, subject only to the requirement of reasonableness [Thompson v. Modesto City High School Dist. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 620, 626, 139 Cal. Rptr. 603, 566 P.2d 237 ; Netwig v. Huntington Beach Union High School Dist. (1975) 52 Cal. App. 3d 529, 532, 125 Cal. Rptr. 170] .

[c] Administrative or Supervisory Positions

A person employed in an administrative or supervisory position requiring certification qualifications in a school district having an average daily attendance of 250 pupils or more attains permanent status as a classroom teacher on completing the probationary period, including any time served as a classroom teacher. Classification as a permanent employee is discretionary in a district having an average daily attendance of less than 250 pupils [Educ. Code § 44897]. A permanent employee who is advanced from a teaching position to an administrative or supervisory position, or who is assigned any special or other type of work, or who is given a special classification or designation requiring certification qualifications, retains his or her permanent classification as a classroom teacher [Educ. Code § 44893; see Educ. Code § 44895].

In general, school administrators attain no tenure in their status as administrators [Jefferson v. Compton Unified School Dist. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 32, 38, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 474 ; Hentschke v. Sink (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 19, 22, 109 Cal. Rptr. 549] . Administrative and supervisory personnel may be removed from their positions and reassigned to other positions within the scope of the certificate under which tenure was attained for any reason satisfactory to the school board, without a hearing [Jefferson v. Compton Unified School Dist. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 32, 38-39, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 474 ; Whisman v. San Francisco Unified Sch. Dist. (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 782, 791-792, 150 Cal. Rptr. 548 ; Hentschke v. Sink (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 19, 22, 109 Cal. Rptr. 549 ; see McFall v. Madera Unified School Dist. (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1228, 1234-1235, 272 Cal. Rptr. 345] .

If, however, a person employed in an administrative or supervisory position requiring certification qualifications is transferred to a teaching position, the governing board of the school district must, on request, furnish him or her with a written statement of the reasons for the transfer. If the reasons include incompetence, a performance evaluation of the person must have been completed not more than 60 days prior to the giving of the notice of transfer [Educ. Code § 44896; see Educ. Code §§ 44660-44665 (employee performance evaluations)].

Incompetence is not defined in the statute, and it is unclear to what extent the district's dissatisfaction with the employee's performance as an administrator is a charge of incompetence. One court has found the term neither vague nor uncertain and refused to treat a district's dissatisfaction with certain aspects of job performance as a charge of incompetence [see Quirk v. Board of Education (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 729, 734, 244 Cal. Rptr. 924 (board thought that principal, although "competent" administrator, did not possess type of leadership style necessary to deal with problems at particular school)]. Another court accepted without elaborate analysis that a list of 30 reasons for transfer, apparently involving numerous instances of dissatisfaction with job performance, constituted a charge of incompetence despite the fact that the term was not expressly used in the list [Hahn v. Board of Education (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 744, 747, 750, 252 Cal. Rptr. 471 (board thought that administrator lacked willingness to maintain professional demeanor with teachers, parents, and staff involved in special education program)].

The remedy for a failure to properly evaluate before transfer is not, however, reinstatement in the administrative position. The employee is only entitled to a proper evaluation and to compensation for any diminution in salary suffered as a result of the transfer, up to the time when the evaluation is completed [Jefferson v. Compton Unified School Dist. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 32, 40, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 474 ; Hahn v. Board of Education (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 744, 750-752, 754, 252 Cal. Rptr. 471] . Moreover, the failure to perform the evaluation does not prevent the school district from reassigning an employee for reasons other than incompetency [Jefferson v. Compton Unified School Dist. (1993)

14 Cal. App. 4th 32, 40, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 474] .

A governing board may, by local regulation, expand the rights of administrators to retain their positions beyond those provided in the Education Code. If these regulations are incorporated by reference into the administrator's contract, the administrator is entitled to the protection of the regulations during the term of the contract [see Jones v. Palm Springs Unified School Dist. (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 518, 527-528, 216 Cal. Rptr. 75] . However, the protections may not apply to nonrenewal of the contract at the end of its term unless they expressly so provide [see McFall v. Madera Unified School Dist. (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1228, 1235-1236, 272 Cal. Rptr. 345] . Moreover, unless incorporated in an administrator's contract, a governing board's past practice of recognizing such expanded rights does not give the administrator a constitutionally protected property right to continue in the administrative position [see Bernstein v. Lopez (9th Cir. 2003) 321 F.3d 903, 905-907] .

With certain statutory exceptions, if an administrative or supervisory employee is to be released or transferred from his or her position for the next school year, notice must be given by March 15. Notice must be by registered mail, or must be actually signed by the employee prior to the determinative date [Educ. Code § 44951; see Ellerbroek v. Saddleback Valley Unified School Dist. (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 348, 366-367, 177 Cal. Rptr. 910] . This notice requirement is jurisdictional, and strict compliance is required [Hahn v. Board of Education (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 744, 751-752, 252 Cal. Rptr. 471 ; Hoyme v. Board of Education (1980) 107 Cal. App. 3d 449, 452, 165 Cal. Rptr. 737 ; but see Gilliam v. Moreno Valley Unified School District (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 518, 520-521, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 695 (notice requirements of Educ. Code § 44951 do not apply to transfer of administrator within same classification)]. However, at least one court of appeal has held that the March notice requirement of Educ. Code § 44951 does not apply when an administrative or supervisory employee is reassigned for cause [see Jefferson v. Compton Unified School Dist. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 32, 39, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 474] .

If notice is not timely given or properly served, the governing board is no longer free to change the employee's assignment at its pleasure [Barton v. Governing Board (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 476, 479, 131 Cal. Rptr. 455] . Reassignment is ineffective, and the employee is entitled to reinstatement [Hahn v. Board of Education (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 744, 751, 252 Cal. Rptr. 471] . However, a change in assignment may be effected after the notice date has passed on a showing of cause [see Ellerbroek v. Saddleback Valley Unified School Dist. (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 348, 365, 177 Cal. Rptr. 910] .

§ 512.21 Probationary Employees

[1] In General

The governing board of a school district must classify as probationary employees those persons who have been employed for the school year in positions requiring certification qualifications but who have not been classified as permanent employees or as substitute employees [Educ. Code § 44915]. In districts having an average daily attendance of more than 250 pupils, probationary status lasts for two years, after which time the teacher obtains tenure (permanent employee status) if reemployed for a third year [see Educ. Code § 44929.21(b), discussed in § 512.20[1][a]].

First and second-year probationary employees may be dismissed during the school year only for unsatisfactory performance or for cause [see Educ. Code § 44948.3, discussed in § 512.29]. However, probationary teachers have no statutory or due process right to reemployment for the succeeding school year [Grimsley v. Board of Trustees (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1440, 1444-1452, 235 Cal. Rptr. 85] . The final determination about rehiring probationary teachers lies within the discretion of the governing board, and reemployment may be denied for any lawful reason regardless of the sufficiency of the cause [McFarland Unified School Dist. v. Public Employment Relations Bd. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 166, 169, 279 Cal. Rptr. 26, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 405 (but holding that dismissal for engaging in protected labor activities is not for lawful reason)].

Furthermore, the California Supreme Court has held that Educ. Code § 44929.21(b) preempts any collective bargaining agreement provision purporting to give probationary teachers greater procedural protections (for example, 30 days' notice of decision not to reelect or right to hearing on non-reelection) than those specified by the statute [Board of Education v. Round Valley Teachers Assn. (1996) 13 Cal. 4th 269, 284-287, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 115, 914 P.2d 193] . Rather, Educ. Code § 44949.21(b) vests the school district with exclusive authority over whether to rehire probationary teachers at the end of their second year of employment [Board of Education v. Round Valley Teachers Assn. (1996) 13 Cal. 4th 269, 287, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 115, 914 P.2d 193 ; Sunnyvale Unified Sch. Dist. v. Jacobs (2009) 171 Cal. App. 4th 168, 179-183, 89 Cal. Rptr. 3d 546 (school district's allegedly retaliatory decision not to reelect probationary teacher may not be made subject to collectively bargained arbitration procedures)].

The governing board must give notice of its decision not to reemploy a second-year probationary teacher on or before

March 15 of the second year [Educ. Code § 44929.21(b), discussed in § 512.20[1][a]]. Notice of a decision not to reemploy a first-year probationary teacher for a second year may be given at any reasonable time before the end of the first year [see Grimsley v. Board of Trustees (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1440, 1447-1448, 235 Cal. Rptr. 85 (noting that late notice might be deemed unreasonable if employee relied on satisfactory performance evaluations in not seeking other employment)].

[2] Reclassification of Temporary and Substitute Employees to Probationary Status

Except in districts with an average daily attendance of over 400,000 [see Educ. Code § 44918(f)], any employee classified as a substitute or temporary employee who serves during one school year for at least 75 percent of the number of days during which the regular schools of the district were maintained in that school year and who has performed the duties normally required of a certificated employee of the school district is deemed to have served a complete school year as a probationary employee if he or she is employed as a probationary employee for the following school year [Educ. Code § 44918(a)]. Any such employee must be reemployed for the following school year to fill any vacant positions in the school district for which he or she is certified and qualified to serve unless the teacher is given notice of nonreelection for the next succeeding year before the end of the school year [Educ. Code § 44918(b); see Educ. Code § 44954(b), discussed in § 512.32]. This provision also applies to temporary employees who were hired under Educ. Code § 44920 and who have fulfilled the 75-percent requirement of Educ. Code § 44918 [Taylor v. Board of Trustees (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 500, 502, 204 Cal. Rptr. 711, 683 P.2d 710 ; Royster v. Cushman (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 65, 69, 261 Cal. Rptr. 458] . If the number of substitute and temporary teachers qualified to be reemployed as probationary teachers for the subsequent school year under Educ. Code § 44918 exceeds the number of vacant positions, the school district is not required to fill the vacant positions on the basis of seniority [Fair v. Fountain Valley School Dist. (1979) 90 Cal. App. 3d 180, 187-188, 153 Cal. Rptr. 56] .

A temporary employee who is given notice of nonreelection after serving 75 percent of the school year, but who nevertheless has served as a temporary or substitute certificated employee in the district for 75 percent of the year for two consecutive years, must receive first priority if the district fills a vacant position at the grade level at which the employee served during either year. In the case of a departmentalized program, the employee must have taught in the subject matter in which the vacant position occurs [Educ. Code § 44918(c)].

Educ. Code § 44918 requires only actual performance of the duties of a certificated employee, not satisfactory performance. A temporary or substitute employee who is performing unsatisfactorily should be dismissed before he or she completes 75 percent of the instructional school year of a second consecutive year [see Kalamaras v. Albany Unified School Dist. (1991) 226 Cal. App. 3d 1571, 1575-1580, 277 Cal. Rptr. 577 ; see also § 512.32].

Those employees classified as substitutes who are employed to serve in an on-call status to replace absent regular employees on a day-to-day basis are not entitled to reemployment rights under Educ. Code § 44918 [Educ. Code § 44918(d)].

Permanent and probationary employees dismissed under Educ. Code § 44955 (reduction in number of employees due to decline in average daily attendance, decline in attendance due to termination of interdistrict tuition agreement, modification of curriculum required by state law, or reduction of a particular service) have, during the period of preferred right to reemployment, prior rights to any vacant position in which they are qualified to serve that are superior to those rights afforded under Educ. Code § 44918 to temporary and substitute personnel who have become probationary employees [Educ. Code § 44918(e)].

Any person employed for one complete school year as a temporary employee must be classified as a probationary employee if he or she is reemployed for the following school year in a vacant position requiring certification qualifications, and the previous year's employment as a temporary employee must be deemed one year's employment as a probationary employee for purposes of acquiring permanent status [Educ. Code §§ 44917, 44920; see Fine v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (2004) 116 Cal. App. 4th 1070, 1080-1082, 10 Cal. Rptr. 3d 876 (teacher serving under emergency permit does not qualify as temporary employee for this purpose)].

A "vacant position" means a position in which the employee is qualified to serve and which is not filled by a permanent or probationary employee. The term does not include a position that would be filled by a permanent or probationary employee except for the fact that such employee is on leave [Educ. Code § 44920].

If a school district hires a certificated person as a temporary employee, the employee must receive, at the time of initial employment during each academic year, a written statement clearly indicating the temporary nature of the employment and the length of time for which the person is being employed [see Educ. Code § 44916]. For this purpose, "the time of initial employment" is the certificated employee's first day of paid service for the school district [Kavanaugh v. West Sonoma County High Sch. Dist. (2003) 29 Cal. 4th 911, 924-926, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 811, 62 P.3d 54 (rejecting argument that "time of initial employment" refers to time when school district's governing board formally approves employee's hiring)]. If a statement indicating the temporary nature of the employment is not received on or before that day, the certificated employee shall be deemed to be a probationary employee of the school district, unless employed with permanent status [Educ. Code § 44916; see California Teachers Assn. v. Governing Board (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 285, 292-293, 240 Cal. Rptr. 549 (teacher hired under "Contract of Temporary Employment" for less than semester in one year, and then rehired for entire following school year, as entitled to probationary classification in absence of written statement)].

§ 512.22 Substitute Employees

Educ. Code § 44917 provides that except as provided in Educ. Code §§ 44888 and 44920 (reclassification of substitute employees as probationary employees), governing boards of school districts must classify as substitute employees those persons employed in positions requiring certification qualifications to fill positions of regularly employed persons absent from service. After September 1 of any school year, the governing board of a school district may employ for the remainder of the school year in substitute status any otherwise qualified person who consents to be employed in a position for which no regular employee is available, including persons retired from service under the State Teacher's Retirement System. However, the governing board must demonstrate inability to acquire the services of a qualified regular employee to the satisfaction of the Commission on Teacher Credentialing. Counsel should note that the cross reference to Educ. Code § 44888 in Educ. Code § 44917 is apparently erroneous as there is presently no section numbered 44888 in the Education Code.

§ 512.23 Temporary Employees

[1] Generally

The governing board of a school district must classify the following persons as temporary employees:

(1) Persons requiring certification qualifications, other than substitute employees, who are employed to serve from day to day during the first three school months of any school term to teach temporary classes that will not exist after the first three school months of any school term, or to perform any other duties that do not last longer than the first three school months of a school term, or to teach in special day and evening classes for adults or in schools of migratory population for not more than four school months of any school term. If the classes or duties continue beyond this period, the certificated employee, unless a permanent employee, must be classified as a probationary employee. The school year may be divided into not more than two terms for purposes of this provision [Educ. Code § 44919(a)].

(2) Persons, other than substitute employees, who are employed to serve in a limited assignment supervising student athletic activities. Such an assignment must first, however, be made available to teachers presently employed by the district. Such service is not included in computing the service required to attain classification as a permanent employee [Educ. Code § 44919(b)].

In any district, the governing board may, to prevent the stoppage of school district business when an actual emergency arises and persons are not immediately available for probationary classification, make an appointment to a position on a temporary basis for a period not to exceed 20 working days. The person so appointed is deemed to be a temporary employee who is employed to serve from day to day. Service by a person in such an appointment on a temporary basis is not included in computing the service required to attain classification as a permanent employee [Educ. Code § 44919(c)].

[2] Limited Hiring Preference for Credentialed Teachers Employed by District

Education Code § 44919(b) requires a governing board to give a limited employment preference to credentialed teachers presently employed by the school district when filling limited-duty assignments of athletic coach [California Teachers Assn. v. Governing Bd. of Rialto Unified School Dist. (1997) 14 Cal. 4th 627, 652-653, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 671,

927 P.2d 1175] . The statutory language directing that such positions "first be made available to teachers presently employed by the district" evinces a legislative intent that such teachers "have some tangible advantage in the hiring process not shared by walk-on candidates" [California Teachers Assn. v. Governing Bd. of Rialto Unified School Dist. (1997) 14 Cal. 4th 627, 633-635, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 671, 927 P.2d 1175] . However, the Legislature's policy decision that governing boards of individual districts have power over matters of interscholastic athletics means that presently employed credentialed teachers do not have a right of first refusal of limited-duty athletic coach assignments. Rather, individual districts retain discretion over the hiring of athletic coaches; they may establish specific qualifications and evaluate whether candidates meet those qualifications [California Teachers Assn. v. Governing Bd. of Rialto Unified School Dist. (1997) 14 Cal. 4th 627, 639-640, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 671, 927 P.2d 1175] . Accordingly, if a credentialed teacher presently employed the district meets the established local qualifications, he or she is entitled to the hiring preference, not a guarantee [California Teachers Assn. v. Governing Bd. of Rialto Unified School Dist. (1997) 14 Cal. 4th 627, 643-644, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 671, 927 P.2d 1175] .

[3] Employment of Temporary Employees to Fill Vacancies Caused by Leaves of Absence or Illnesses

Notwithstanding the provisions of Educ. Code §§ 44917 and 44919, the governing board of a school district may employ as a teacher for a complete school year, but for not less than one semester unless the date of rendering first paid service occurs during the second semester and prior to March 15, any person holding appropriate certification documents, and may classify the person as a temporary employee. The employment of such a person must be based on the need for additional certificated employees during a particular semester or year because a certificated employee has been granted leave for a semester or year, or is experiencing long-term illness, and must be limited to the number of persons necessary to fill that need, as determined by the governing board [Educ. Code § 44920].

The governing board need not assign an employee hired pursuant to Educ. Code § 44920 to the classroom of a particular permanent or probationary teacher whose absence (due to leave or illness) necessitated the hiring, in order to classify the teacher hired as a temporary employee. All that is required is that the number of temporary teachers so hired not exceed the total number of permanent and probationary employees on leave at any one time [see Santa Barbara Fed'n of Teachers v. Santa Barbara High School Dist. (1977) 76 Cal. App. 3d 223, 229, 231-233, 142 Cal. Rptr. 749 ; Paulus v. Bd. of Trustees (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 59, 62-63, 134 Cal. Rptr. 220] .

[4] Employment of Temporary Employees for First Semester Only

Notwithstanding Educ. Code § 44919, the governing board of a unified or high school district may employ, and classify as temporary employees, persons requiring certification qualifications for the first semester only, whenever the district expects a reduction in student enrollment during the second semester due to students completing graduation requirements at midyear. The number of persons so employed must be limited to requirements based on the anticipated reduced enrollment as determined by the governing board. Persons so employed who are continued in employment beyond the first semester are deemed probationary employees for the entire school year [Educ. Code § 44921].

Any such employee must be reemployed for the following semester or school year to fill any vacant position in the school district for which the employee is certified, in accordance with Educ. Code §§ 44845 and 44846 (general provisions governing priority of reemployment). A "vacant position" is one in which the employee is qualified to serve and which is not filled by a permanent or probationary employee. The term does not include a position that would be filled by a permanent or probationary employee except for the fact that such employee is on leave [Educ. Code § 44921; see also discussion in § 512.21[2]].

The division, uniting, unionization, or consolidation of any school district, or any change in the school district boundaries or organization, does not affect the classification of certificated employees already employed by any school district affected. Such employees retain the same status, including time served as probationary employees, that they had prior to the reorganization [see Educ. Code § 44902].

If a school district that has an average daily attendance of less than 250 pupils is unionized, unified, united, or consolidated with another district in which the average daily attendance was, or as a result of the unionization, unification, uniting, or consolidation becomes, 250 or more pupils, then the regular three-year probationary period [see discussion in § 512.20] is deemed to have commenced at the beginning of the employee's first complete year of consecutive employment by the school district having an average daily attendance of less than 250 pupils. Every certificated employee who has been employed for three or more complete consecutive school years by a district having an average daily attendance of less than 250 pupils must, immediately on employment in a certificated position following unionization, unification, uniting, or consolidation with the larger school district, be classified as a permanent employee [Educ. Code § 44903].

§ 512.25 Mandate Proceeding to Compel Reclassification

Mandate is an appropriate remedy for an employee seeking reclassification as a permanent or probationary employee [see, e.g., Campbell v. Graham-Armstrong (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 482, 485-486, 107 Cal. Rptr. 777, 509 P.2d 689 ; Middaugh v. Board of Trustees (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 776, 781, 119 Cal. Rptr. 826] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

45-512 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 512.26

§ 512.26 General Principles Applicable to Dismissal or Suspension

Under the Education Code, permanent and probationary teachers are entitled to certain procedural protections against arbitrary dismissal or suspension [see Educ. Code §§ 44932-44948.5; Balen v. Peralta Junior College Dist. (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 821, 826, 114 Cal. Rptr. 589, 523 P.2d 629] . A school district's unilateral termination of a permanent or probationary teacher's employment is governed by these statutory provisions, rather than by general contract law [see Pennel v. Pond Union School Dist. (1973) 29 Cal. App. 3d 832, 838, 105 Cal. Rptr. 817] . Furthermore, an employee who is subject to dismissal only for cause has a property interest in continued employment that is entitled to constitutional protection [Shields v. Poway Unified School Dist. (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 955, 959, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 391 ; Mendoza v. Regents of University of California (1978) 78 Cal. App. 3d 168, 174-175, 144 Cal. Rptr. 117] . Statutes that have as their object the termination of a permanent employee's right of continued employment must be strictly construed [Shields v. Poway Unified School Dist. (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 955, 959, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 391 ; Tuffli v. Governing Board (1995) 30 Cal. App. 4th 1398, 1404, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 433] . Thus, unless the school district follows the statutory procedures for dismissal or suspension, its action in dismissing or suspending a permanent or probationary employee is illegal, and the employee is entitled to be reinstated in his or her position with full salary from the date of dismissal or suspension [see Mass v. Board of Education (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 612, 617-618, 630, 39 Cal. Rptr. 739, 394 P.2d 579 ; Pennel v. Pond Union School Dist. (1973) 29 Cal. App. 3d 832, 839, 105 Cal. Rptr. 817 ; Matteson v. State Bd. of Educ. (1943) 57 Cal. App. 2d 991, 1000, 136 P.2d 120 ; see also discussion in § 512.28[9]].

Suspension of a teaching credential, voluntary or otherwise, does not automatically deprive an individual of the right to continued public employment, nor does it relieve a school district from complying with the due process requirements of notice and the opportunity for a hearing prior to dismissal embodied in Educ. Code § 44934 et seq. During the period of suspension, the tenured employee's status as a permanent employee remains unaffected. Therefore, cause for dismissal of a suspended permanent employee must be established after adequate notice and opportunity for a hearing [Educ. Code §§ 44934, 44935, 44936, 44937, 44944; Shields v. Poway Unified School Dist. (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 955, 958-962, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 391] .

However, the California Supreme Court has held that probationary teachers do not possess the same due process rights as permanent teachers, and pursuant to Educ. Code § 44929.21(b), school districts may simply decline to "reelect" (as opposed to "dismiss") probationary teachers without showing grounds for cause or following the procedures required for a dismissal of permanent teachers [Board of Education v. Round Valley Teachers Assn. (1996) 13 Cal. 4th 269, 284-287, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 115, 914 P.2d 193] . The court also held that Educ. Code § 44929.21(b) preempts any collective bargaining agreement purporting to provide greater due process rights to probationary teachers than those afforded by the code [Board of Education v. Round Valley Teachers Assn. (1996) 13 Cal. 4th 269, 287, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 115, 914 P.2d 193 ; see Sunnyvale Unified Sch. Dist. v. Jacobs (2009) 171 Cal. App. 4th 168, 179-183, 89 Cal. Rptr. 3d 546 (school district's allegedly retaliatory decision not to reelect probationary teacher may not be made subject to collectively bargained arbitration procedures)]. Similarly, statutory provisions for the preferential rehiring of teachers who have been laid off for economic reasons [see Educ. Code §§ 44955, 44957] do not prevent a school district from validly determining not to reelect a probationary teacher under Educ. Code § 44929.21(b) [California Teachers Assn. v. Mendocino Unified Sch. Dist. (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 522, 526-528, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 879] . Thus, although a school district must follow the layoff statutes when it releases a probationary employee for economic reasons, it may thereafter choose not to reelect that employee for other reasons, such as his or her lack of a full or clear teaching credential [California Teachers Assn. v. Vallejo City Unified School Dist. (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 135, 157 & n11, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 712] .

§ 512.27 Constitutional Restraints on Dismissal

A public school teacher may not be dismissed from employment for the exercise of constitutional rights absent a showing that the restraints imposed on those rights are justified by a compelling public interest [Bekiaris v. Board of Education (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 575, 585-586, 100 Cal. Rptr. 16, 493 P.2d 480] . Generally, a teacher's right to speak is constitutionally protected as long as it does not result in any disruption or impairment of discipline or materially interfere with school activities [Adcock v. Board of Educ. (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 60, 65, 109 Cal. Rptr. 676, 513 P.2d 900] . In the absence of actual disruption, disciplinary action is improper when a teacher espouses his or her unpopular views in a polite but forceful manner, in an appropriate forum for the airing of different views on controversial issues [see Adcock v. Board of Educ. (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 60, 68-69, 109 Cal. Rptr. 676, 513 P.2d 900] . However, a school which reprimands a science teacher for protesting a requirement that he teach evolution does not violate the teacher's rights under the establishment clause of the First Amendment. The school district may also restrict a teacher's conversations with students on religious matters during the school day and on school property [Peloza v. Capistrano Unified School District (9th Cir. 1994) 37 F. 3d 517, 521-522] .

The refusal by a hearing officer and school board to consider evidence that a teacher was dismissed for the exercise of constitutional rights whose limitation was not justified by a compelling public interest constitutes legal error that invalidates a dismissal [Bekiaris v. Board of Education (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 575, 587-588, 100 Cal. Rptr. 16, 493 P.2d 480] . When reviewing the dismissal of a teacher in a mandate proceeding, the trial court must make an independent assessment of the evidence on the question of whether the true reason for the dismissal was the teacher's exercise of constitutional rights [Bekiaris v. Board of Educ. (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 575, 593, 100 Cal. Rptr. 16, 493 P.2d 480] .

§ 512.28 Dismissal or Suspension of Permanent Employees

[1] Grounds

A permanent employee may be dismissed only for one or more of the following causes [Educ. Code § 44932(a)]:

(1) Immoral or unprofessional conduct (discussed below);

(2) Commission, or aiding or advocating the commission, of acts of criminal syndicalism, as prohibited by Stats. 1919, ch. 188 or any amendment thereof;

(3) Dishonesty (discussed below);

(4) Unsatisfactory performance (discussed below);

(5) Evident unfitness for service (discussed in § 512.28[2]);

(6) Physical or mental condition rendering the employee unfit to instruct or associate with children;

(7) Persistent violation of or refusal to obey the school laws of the state or reasonable regulations prescribed for the government of the public schools by the State Board of Education or by the governing board of the employing school district (discussed below);

(8) Conviction of a felony or of any crime involving moral turpitude (discussed below);

(9) Violation of Educ. Code § 51530 (prohibition against teaching or advocation of communism in public schools for purpose of indoctrinating students) or any conduct specified in Gov. Code § 1028 (knowing membership in Communist Party or any organization advocating forceful overthrow of government as sufficient cause for dismissal of public employee) (discussed below);

(10) Violation of any provision in former Educ. Code §§ 7001-7007 (relating to knowing membership of public school employees in Communist Party) (discussed below);

(11) Knowing membership by the employee in the Communist Party (discussed below);

(12) Alcoholism or other drug abuse that makes the employee unfit to instruct or associate with children.

A permanent employee may be dismissed or suspended on grounds of unprofessional conduct consisting of acts or omissions other than those specified in Educ. Code § 44932. However any such charge must specify instances of behavior deemed to constitute unprofessional conduct [Educ. Code § 44933]. A dismissal for unprofessional conduct under Educ. Code § 44933 must be based on acts or omissions other than those supporting dismissal under Educ. Code § 44932(a) [Perez v Commission on Professional Competence (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 1167, 1172, 197 Cal. Rptr. 390] .

Counsel should note that Educ. Code §§ 7001-7007, which are referred to in Educ. Code § 44932(a)(10), were repealed by the Legislature in 1981 [see Stats. 1981, ch. 470, § 11].

A particular act or omission of a teacher may constitute several different causes for dismissal under Educ. Code § 44932(a), such as unprofessional conduct, evident unfitness for service, and persistent violation of school rules [see Board of Education v. Swan (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 546, 550-551, 261 P.2d 261] .

The governing board of a school district may suspend a permanent certificated employee or, in a school district with an average daily attendance of less than 250 pupils, a probationary employee, without pay for a specific period of time on grounds of unprofessional conduct pursuant to the procedures specified in Educ. Code §§ 44933-44937, 44943, and 44944. This authorization is not applicable to any school district that has adopted a collective bargaining agreement pursuant to Gov. Code § 3543.2 [Educ. Code § 44932(b)].

[2] Immoral or Unprofessional Conduct; Unfitness to Teach

[a] In General

A permanent teacher may not be dismissed on grounds of immoral or unprofessional conduct unless his or her conduct indicates unfitness to teach [Board of Educ. v. Jack M. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 691, 696-697, 139 Cal. Rptr. 700, 566 P.2d 602 ; see Morrison v. State Board of Education (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 214, 225, 82 Cal. Rptr. 175, 461 P.2d 375 ; West Valley-Mission Community College Dist. v. Concepcion (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 1766, 1773-1774, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 5 ; see also discussion in §§ 512.16 and 512.16[3][b]]. Unfitness to teach is evaluated under the so-called Morrison standards [see Morrison v. State Board of Education (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 214, 82 Cal. Rptr. 175, 461 P.2d 375] . In Morrison, the California Supreme Court held that an individual may be removed from the teaching profession only on a showing that retention poses a significant danger of harm to either students, school employees, or others who might be affected by his or her actions as a teacher [Morrison v. State Board of Education (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 214, 235, 82 Cal. Rptr. 175, 461 P.2d 375] . In determining whether a teacher's conduct indicates unfitness to teach, the governing body may consider such matters as the likelihood that the conduct may have adversely affected students or fellow teachers, the degree of adversity anticipated, the proximity or remoteness in time of the conduct, the type of teaching certificate held by the party involved, the extenuating or aggravating circumstances, if any, surrounding the conduct, the praiseworthiness or blameworthiness of the motives resulting in the conduct, the likelihood of a recurrence, and the extent to which disciplinary action may inflict an adverse impact or chilling effect on the constitutional rights of the teacher involved or other teachers [Morrison v. State Board of Education (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 214, 229, 82 Cal. Rptr. 175, 461 P.2d 375 ; Governing Board v. Haar (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 369, 383-385, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 744 ; West Valley-Mission Community College Dist. v. Concepcion (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 1766, 1774, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 5 ; see Perez v Commission on Professional Competence (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 1167, 1173, 197 Cal. Rptr. 390] . The ultimate inquiry is whether the teacher's future classroom performance and overall impact on his or her students is likely to meet the standards of the school district employing the teacher [Oakland Unified Sch. Dist. v. Olicker (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 1098, 1109, 102 Cal. Rptr. 421] .

Other courts have recently recast the Morrison factors to include the following: (1) the likelihood of recurrence of the questioned conduct; (2) the extenuating or aggravating circumstances, if any; (3) the effect of notoriety and publicity; (4) any impairment of teacher-student relationships; (5) any disruption of educational process; (6) motive; and (7) the proximity or remoteness in time of the conduct [Bevli v. Brisco (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 986, 991, 260 Cal. Rptr. 57 ; Bassett Unified School Dist. v. Commission on Professional Competence (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 1444, 1453, 247 Cal. Rptr. 865] . This fitness-to-teach standard makes specific the kind of conduct required of teachers in this regard and clarifies the term "unprofessional conduct," so that the term is not unconstitutionally vague [Perez v Commission on Professional Competence (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 1167, 1174, 197 Cal. Rptr. 390] .

Commission of a sex offense does not demonstrate unfitness to teach as a matter of law [see Board of Educ. v. Jack M. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 691, 700-704, 139 Cal. Rptr. 700, 566 P.2d 602] . However, sexual misconduct may justify dismissal on grounds of immoral conduct under the facts of a particular case [see, e.g., Governing Board v. Metcalf (1974) 36 Cal. App. 3d 546, 550-551, 111 Cal. Rptr. 724 ; Bd. of Trustees v. Stubblefield (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 820, 824-827, 94 Cal. Rptr. 318] . Acquittal of a teacher in criminal proceedings for commission of a sex offense does not preclude a subsequent dismissal of the teacher for immoral conduct pursuant to Educ. Code § 44932(a)(1) based on the same act [Board of Educ. v. Calderon (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 490, 493-496, 110 Cal. Rptr. 916] .

Possession of marijuana or other narcotics does not by itself, constitute immoral conduct as a matter of law justifying dismissal of a permanent teacher. The question of whether or not an offense relating to the possession of prohibited substances constitutes immoral conduct presents an issue of fact to be determined in light of all of the surrounding facts and circumstances [Von Durjais v. Bd. of Trustees (1978) 83 Cal. App. 3d 681, 688, 148 Cal. Rptr. 192 ; see, e.g., West Valley-Mission Community College Dist. v. Concepcion (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 1766, 1775-1778, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 5 (interpreting similarly worded provisions of Educ. Code § 87732 governing dismissal of community college instructors; under facts of case, substantial evidence supported trial court's finding that teacher's participation in cocaine dealing demonstrated unfitness to teach); Comings v. State Bd. of Educ. (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 94, 105-106, 100 Cal. Rptr. 73] . It should be noted, however, that alcoholism or other drug abuse that makes the employee unfit to instruct or associate with children is a separate cause for dismissal under Educ. Code § 44932(a) [see Educ. Code § 44932(a)(12)].

Immoral conduct is not necessarily limited to conduct involving sex or narcotics offenses. For example, the falsification of student attendance records by a teacher has been held to constitute immoral conduct justifying the teacher's dismissal [Board of Educ. v. Weiland (1960) 179 Cal. App. 2d 808, 811-812, 4 Cal. Rptr. 286] .

[b] Evident Unfitness for Service

Evident unfitness for service is a separate ground for dismissal, apart from immoral or unprofessional conduct [see Educ. Code § 44932(a)(1), (5)]. Because immoral or unprofessional conduct requires a showing of unfitness to teach, the two grounds substantially overlap, at the least, and, in the view of some courts, may have merged into a single ground [see Bevli v. Brisco (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 986, 991, 260 Cal. Rptr. 57 ; Oakland Unified Sch. Dist. v. Olicker (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 1098, 1108, 102 Cal. Rptr. 421] .

Nevertheless, other courts have found evident unfitness for service still to be a separate and unique ground for dismissal. Under this view, evident unfitness for service means clearly not fit, not adapted to, or unsuitable for teaching, ordinarily because of temperamental defects or inadequacies. Unlike unprofessional conduct, evident unfitness for service connotes a fixed character trait, presumably not remediable merely on receipt of notice that one's conduct fails to meet the expectations of the employing school district [see Woodland Joint Unified School Dist. v. Commission on Professional Competence (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 1429, 1442-1445, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 227 (and cases cited therein); see also § 512.25[2][c]].

Under both views, the Morrison factors [see § 512.28[2]] must be analyzed [Woodland Joint Unified School Dist. v. Commission on Professional Competence (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 1429, 1445, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 227 ; Bevli v. Brisco (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 986, 991, 260 Cal. Rptr. 57] . Nevertheless, under the view that unprofessional conduct and evident unfitness for service are distinct, the conclusion that a teacher is unfit under the Morrison criteria is only the threshold point of inquiry. The next step is to determine whether the unfitness is "evident," that is, whether the offensive conduct is caused by a defect in temperament [Woodland Joint Unified School Dist. v. Commission on Professional Competence (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 1429, 1445, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 227] .

[c] Unprofessional Conduct; Notice Requirement

The governing board of a school district may not act on any charges of unprofessional conduct [see Educ. Code § 48932(a)(1)] unless, at least 45 calendar days prior to the date of the filing, the board or its authorized representative has given the employee against whom the charge is filed written notice of the unprofessional conduct, specifying the nature the conduct alleged to constitute unprofessional conduct with specific instances of behavior and with sufficient particularity to furnish the employee an opportunity to correct his or her faults and overcome the grounds for the charge. The notice must include the evaluation made pursuant to Educ. Code § 44660 et seq. (employee performance evaluations), if applicable to the employee [Educ. Code § 44938(a)]. The term "unprofessional conduct" as used in Educ. Code § 44938 refers to and means the unprofessional conduct particularly specified as a cause for dismissal or suspension in Educ. Code §§ 44932 and 44933 and does not include any other cause for dismissal specified in Educ. Code § 44932 [Educ. Code § 44938(c)]. A district "acts on" a charge of unprofessional conduct by suspending a teacher from employment, as well as by dismissing the teacher [Crowl v. Commission on Professional Competence (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 334, 342-347, 275 Cal. Rptr. 86] .

The same conduct may constitute both unprofessional conduct and another ground for dismissal [Board of Education v. Swan (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 546, 551, 261 P.2d 261 , overruled on other grounds in Bekiaris v. Board of Education (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 575, 100 Cal. Rptr. 16, 493 P.2d 480 ; Woodland Joint Unified School Dist. v. Commission on Professional Competence (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 1429, 1444-1445, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 227] . In these cases, there is some uncertainty as to whether the notice need be given. Apparently, in the majority's view, the notice is not required to dismiss if the district elects to proceed under a ground set forth in Educ. Code § 44932 other than unprofessional conduct [Woodland Joint Unified School Dist. v. Commission on Professional Competence (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 1429, 1446-1448, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 227 (unprofessional conduct is lesser-included form of evident unfitness for service; no notice required to proceed solely on latter ground because, under court's definition of evident unfitness, teacher is incapable of correcting behavior); see also Pittsburg Unified School Dist. v. Commission on Professional Competence (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 964, 974, 194 Cal. Rptr. 672] . Nevertheless, there is some authority for the proposition that the district ought not to be able to avoid the notice requirement by means of the particular label chosen if the essence of the charge is unprofessional conduct [see Livermore Valley Joint Unified Sch. Dist. v. Feinberg (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 920, 922, 112 Cal. Rptr. 923 ; see also Woodland Joint Unified School Dist. v. Commission on Professional Competence (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 1429, 1461, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 227 (opinion of Blease, Acting P.J., dissenting)].

The notice requirement of Educ. Code § 44938(a) is jurisdictional, and any action taken without notice is invalid [Woodland Joint Unified School Dist. v. Commission on Professional Competence (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 1429, 1446, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 227] . In contrast, the portion of the statute that pertains to the opportunity to correct behavior is not jurisdictional, but merely an evidentiary consideration [Crowl v. Commission on Professional Competence (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 334, 348-349, 275 Cal. Rptr. 86 ; Blake v. Commission of Professional Competence (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 513, 517, 260 Cal. Rptr. 690] . Thus, the teacher's inability to take advantage of the opportunity because of illness or disability does not deprive the Commission on Judicial Competence of jurisdiction to proceed on the charge. Nevertheless, the failure to provide the teacher with the opportunity to correct his or her deficiencies may constitute a defect in due process [Blake v. Commission of Professional Competence (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 513, 517-518, 260

Cal. Rptr. 690 ; see Tarquin v. Commission on Professional Competence (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 251, 148 Cal. Rptr. 522 (teacher transferred to nonclassroom position immediately after given notice)]. Further, if the evidence establishes that the teacher has remedied the conduct during the 45-day period, the teacher may not be suspended based on prior acts of unprofessional conduct [Crowl v. Commission on Professional Competence (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 334, 349-352, 275 Cal. Rptr. 86 (not reaching issue of whether teacher may demonstrate remediation simply by refraining from unprofessional conduct for 45 days, because district had stipulated that teacher had remedied his conduct)].

For a form of allegation of failure to comply with Educ. Code § 44938(a) to be included in a petition for writ of mandate to review dismissal of a permanent teacher, see § 512.165.

[d] Dishonesty

Not every falsehood constitutes dishonesty as a ground for discipline [Fontana Unified School Dist. v. Burman (1988) 45 Cal. 3d 208, 220 n.12, 246 Cal. Rptr. 733, 753 P.2d 689] . A permanent teacher may not be dismissed on grounds of dishonesty [see Educ. Code § 44932(a)(3)] unless his or her conduct indicates unfitness to teach [Bassett Unified School Dist. v. Commission on Professional Competence (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 1444, 1453-1454, 247 Cal. Rptr. 865] . For discussion of unfitness to teach, see § 512.28[2].

[e] Unsatisfactory Performance; Notice Requirement

The governing board of a school district may not act on any charges of unsatisfactory performance [see Educ. Code § 44932(a)(4)] unless, at least 90 calendar days prior to the date of the filing, the board or its authorized representative has given the employee against whom the charge is filed written notice of the unsatisfactory performance. The governing board may, however, act during the time period composed of the last one fourth of the school days it has scheduled for purposes of computing apportionments in any fiscal year if, prior to the beginning of that time period, the board or its authorized representative has given the employee against whom the charge is filed, written notice of the unsatisfactory performance. In any case, the notice must specify the nature of the conduct alleged to constitute unsatisfactory performance and must specify instances of behavior with sufficient particularity to furnish the employee an opportunity to correct his or her faults and overcome the grounds for the charge. The notice must include an evaluation made pursuant to Educ. Code §§ 44660-44665 (employee performance evaluations), if applicable to the employee [Educ. Code § 44938(b)]. However, the failure of a district to adopt the uniform written guidelines called for by Educ. Code § 44660 does not deprive a district of jurisdiction to dismiss a teacher for incompetency under Educ. Code § 44938 [California Teachers Assn. v. Governing Board (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 27, 33-36, 192 Cal. Rptr. 358 , decided prior to 1995 legislation, which amended Educ. Code § 44932(a)(4) by changing "incompetency" to "unsatisfactory performance"].

The term "incompetency," as used in Educ. Code § 44938, refers only to the unsatisfactory performance particularly specified as a cause for dismissal in Educ. Code § 44932(a)(4), and does not include any other cause for dismissal specified in Educ. Code § 44932 [Educ. Code § 44938(c)]. Thus, the failure by a school board to comply with the provisions of Educ. Code § 44938 does not preclude the board from seeking dismissal of a teacher on grounds other than unsatisfactory performance (for example, evident unfitness for service) [Tarquin v. Commission on Professional Competence (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 251, 260, 148 Cal. Rptr. 522] .

The purpose of former Educ. Code § 44938 (now see Educ. Code § 44938(b)(1)) is to give a permanent teacher 90 days to correct the deficiencies alleged to constitute unsatisfactory performance. If the school district deprives the teacher of this opportunity by transferring him or her to a nonteaching position prior to the expiration of 90 days after service of notice under former Educ. Code § 44938 (now see Educ. Code § 44938(b)(1)), the district lacks jurisdiction to proceed against the teacher on charges of unsatisfactory performance [Tarquin v. Commission on Professional Competence (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 251, 257-259, 148 Cal. Rptr. 522] .

For a form of allegation of failure to comply with Educ. Code § 44938(b) to be included in a petition for writ of mandate to review dismissal of a permanent teacher, see § 512.164.

[f] Physical or Mental Condition; Contagious Diseases

A permanent employee may be dismissed on the ground of a physical or mental disability that renders him or her unfit to instruct or associate with children [Educ. Code § 44932(a)(6); see also Educ. Code § 44942 (suspension or transfer of certificated employee on ground of mental illness), discussed in § 512.35]. However, disabled persons are protected from employment discrimination by the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (Act) [see 29 U.S.C.S. § 794]. Under this Act, recipients of federal funds are prohibited from discriminating against otherwise qualified persons in employment solely on the basis of handicap [29 U.S.C.S. § 794]. Disabled individuals are also protected from employment discrimination by the Americans With Disabilities Act (42 U.S.C.S. § 12101 et seq.) and by the California Fair Employment and Housing Act [see Gov. Code §§ 12926(i), (k), 12940(a); 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7293.6].

In the employment context, an otherwise qualified person under the Rehabilitation Act is one who, with reasonable accommodation, can perform the essential functions of the job in question [45 C.F.R. § 84.3(l)(1)]. Accommodation is not reasonable if it either imposes undue financial and administrative burdens or requires a fundamental alteration in the nature of the program [Southeastern Community College v. Davis (1979) 442 U.S. 397, 410-413, 99 S. Ct. 2361, 60 L. Ed. 2d 980] .

Persons with contagious diseases are disabled within the meaning of the Rehabilitation Act and, therefore, afforded its protections [School Board of Nassau County v. Arline (1987) 480 U.S. 273, 280-286, 107 S. Ct. 1123, 94 L. Ed. 2d 307 (tuberculosis)]. However, a person who poses a significant risk of communicating an infectious disease to others in the workplace is not otherwise qualified for the job if reasonable accommodation will not eliminate the risk [School Board of Nassau County v. Arline (1987) 480 U.S. 273, 280-286 n.16, 107 S. Ct. 1123, 94 L. Ed. 2d 307] . Inquiry is required based on reasonable medical judgment, given the state of medical knowledge, about (1) the nature of the risk, that is, how the disease is transmitted; (2) the duration of the risk, that is, how long the carrier is infectious; (3) the severity of the risk, that is, the potential harm to third parties; and (4) the probabilities that the disease will be transmitted. In making these findings, the court ordinarily should defer to the reasonable medical judgment of public health officials [School Board of Nassau County v. Arline (1987) 480 U.S. 273, 280-286, 107 S. Ct. 1123, 94 L. Ed. 2d 307] .

A person who has tested positive for Acquired Immunity Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS) is a disabled person under the Act [Chalk v. U.S. Dist. Court Cent. Dist. of California (9th Cir. 1988) 840 F.2d 701, 705 n.6 ; accord, Raytheon Co. v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1242, 1250, 1252, 261 Cal. Rptr. 197 (decided under Fair Employment and Housing Act)]. The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has noted that the overwhelming consensus of medical opinion is that there is no evidence that demonstrates any appreciable risk of transmitting the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV), the viral agent that causes AIDS, under circumstances likely to occur in the ordinary school setting. Therefore, the court held that a teacher with AIDS who was reassigned to nonclassroom duty amply demonstrated a strong possibility of success on the merits in proving that his rights under the Rehabilitation Act had been violated [Chalk v. U.S. Dist. Court Cent. Dist. of California (9th Cir. 1988) 840 F.2d 701, 704-709 (reversing denial of preliminary injunction and ordering teacher returned to classroom pending trial)].

For discussion and forms relating to employment discrimination, see Ch. 115, Civil Rights: Employment Discrimination . For comprehensive discussion of equal employment opportunity laws, including prohibitions on discrimination against disabled individuals, see K. Wilcox, ed., California Employment Law, chs. 40-44 (Matthew Bender).

If a school district applies to the State Teachers' Retirement System (STRS) for a disability benefit for a teacher, and the STRS finds the teacher not to be disabled, the teacher must be reinstated to his or her former position [Educ. Code § 44986.1]. If the teacher applies and is denied, the finding is a prima facie statement of recovery, giving rise to the district's duty either to reinstate him or her or to hold a competency or dismissal hearing [Raven v. Oakland Unified School Dist. (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 1347, 1358, 262 Cal. Rptr. 354] .

[g] Persistent Violation of School Laws or Rules

A permanent teacher may not be dismissed for violating school laws or rules unless the violations are persistent [see Educ. Code § 44932(a)(7); Governing Bd. of the Oakdale Union School Dist. v. Seaman (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 77, 81-82, 104 Cal. Rptr. 64, 66]. Thus, a single violation of a school board regulation prohibiting absence without leave does not justify dismissal of a permanent teacher, at least if the violation is not accompanied by an attitude of continuous insubordination, even though the single violation results in an absence of several days [Governing Bd. of the Oakdale Union School Dist. v. Seaman (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 77, 82-83, 104 Cal. Rptr. 64] .

A permanent teacher may not be dismissed for refusal to obey an order that is invalid. Insubordination as a ground for dismissal may be rightfully predicated only on refusal to obey an order that a superior officer is entitled to give and to have obeyed [see Pasadena Unified School Dist. v. Commission on Professional Competence (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 309, 314, 314 n.7, 142 Cal. Rptr. 439, 572 P.2d 53] .

[h] Conviction of Crime

A permanent teacher may not be dismissed under Educ. Code § 44932(a)(8) for conviction of a felony or other crime unless the felony or other crime involves moral turpitude [Bd. of Trustees v. Judge (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 920, 925-926, 123 Cal. Rptr. 830 (also holding that cultivation of marijuana is not offense involving moral turpitude as matter of law)]. Conviction of certain crimes, however, results in automatic revocation of certification documents, regardless of whether or not the particular offense involved moral turpitude [see Educ. Code §§ 44424, 44425, 44435, 44436; see also discussion in § 512.18[1]].

[i] Communist or Subversive Affiliations

No teacher giving instruction in any school, or on any property belonging to any agencies included in the public school system, may advocate or teach communism with the intent to indoctrinate or to inculcate in the mind of any pupil a preference for communism [Educ. Code § 51530]. For purposes of Educ. Code § 51530, communism is a political theory that states that the presently existing government of the United States or of California should be changed by force, violence, or other unconstitutional means to a totalitarian dictatorship that is based on the principles of communism as expounded by Marx, Lenin, and Stalin [Educ. Code § 51530]. A violation of Educ. Code § 51530 is grounds for dismissal of a permanent employee [see Educ. Code § 44932(a)(9)]. Furthermore, Educ. Code § 44932(a)(11) provides that knowing membership in the Communist Party is grounds for dismissal.

Counsel representing the school district should exercise caution in using these provisions as bases for instituting dismissal proceedings because they may be held unconstitutional in light of the opinions of the United States Supreme Court in Keyishian v. Bd. of Regents (1967) 385 U.S. 589, 606-610, 87 S. Ct. 675, 17 L. Ed. 2d 629 and the California Supreme Court in Vogel v. County of Los Angeles (1967) 68 Cal. 2d 18, 22-24, 64 Cal. Rptr. 409, 434 P.2d 961 , holding that public employment may not constitutionally be denied for mere membership in a subversive organization, absent a showing of intent by the member to further its unlawful aims. For a further discussion of the constitutional limits on discipline of public school teachers, see § 512.27.

[3] Notice of Charges

On filing with the governing board of a school district of written charges, duly signed and verified by the person filing them, or on a written statement of charges formulated by the governing board, charging that there exists cause, as specified in Educ. Code § 44932 or 44933, for the dismissal or suspension of a permanent employee of the district, the board may, on majority vote, give notice to the employee of its intention to dismiss or suspend him or her within 30 days from the date of service of the notice unless the employee demands a hearing [Educ. Code § 44934]. Suspension proceedings may be initiated pursuant to Educ. Code § 44934 only if the governing board has not adopted a collective bargaining agreement pursuant to Gov. Code § 3543.2 [Educ. Code § 44934].

Any written statement of charges of unprofessional conduct or unsatisfactory performance must specify instances of behavior and the acts or omissions constituting the charge so that the teacher will be able to prepare his or her defense. If applicable, the statement must state the statutes and rules that the teacher is alleged to have violated, but it must also set forth the facts relevant to each occasion of alleged unprofessional conduct or incompetency.

The notice given pursuant to Educ. Code § 44934 must not be given between May 15 and September 15 in any year. It must be in writing and served on the employee personally or by United States registered mail addressed to his or her last known address. A copy of the charges filed, containing the information required by Gov. Code § 11503 (requiring specification of any statutes and rules allegedly violated and statement of charges setting forth alleged acts and omissions in ordinary and concise language), together with a copy of the provisions of Educ. Code §§ 44930-44988, must be attached to the notice [Educ. Code § 44936].

[4] Time Limit on Demand for Hearing; Governing Board's Response

If the employee does not demand a hearing by filing a written request for hearing with the governing board, he or she may be dismissed or suspended without pay for a specific period of time at the expiration of the 30-day period [Educ. Code § 44937]. When any employee who has been served with notice of the governing board's intention to dismiss or suspend him or her demands a hearing, the governing board has the option of either rescinding its action or scheduling a hearing on the matter [Educ. Code § 44943].

If the employee makes a timely demand for a hearing, the governing board cannot terminate the employee without conducting the hearing, even if the termination is based on the long-term suspension of the employee's teaching credential. For example, in a case in which a permanent, tenured teacher's credential had been suspended for 10 years due to allegations of sexual misconduct, and the employing school district had notified the teacher of its intention to terminate the teacher's employment, the district could not refuse the teacher's request for a pretermination hearing [Shields v. Poway Unified School Dist. (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 955, 958-962, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 391 (permanent, tenured teacher has property interest in continued employment that is entitled to constitutional protection through procedural due process)].

Because the governing board of a school district is a "legislative body" of a "local agency" subject to the Ralph M. Brown Act [Gov. Code §§ 54951, 54952; see Gov. Code § 54950 et seq.], the employee will be entitled to demand an open hearing on the charges [Bell v. Vista Unified Sch. Dist. (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 672, 682, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 263] . The Brown Act's general requirement of open meetings is subject to a "personnel exception," under which the board may hold closed meetings to consider the appointment, employment, evaluation of performance, discipline, or dismissal of a public employee [Gov. Code § 54957(b); Kolter v. Commission on Prof'l Competence of L.A. Unified Sch. Dist. (2009) 170 Cal. App. 4th 1346, 1352, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 620 (personnel exception applies, and governing board may hold closed session, when governing board will consider or deliberate whether charges justify dismissal or disciplinary action, but will not conduct evidentiary hearing); Duval v. Board of Trs. (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 902, 909-910, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 517 ("evaluation of performance" may include preliminary matters such as selection of criteria and establishment of process for evaluation, and post-evaluation action finding it satisfactory)]. However, the personnel exception is inapplicable when the board is conducting an evidentiary hearing on specific complaints or charges against an employee with potential disciplinary consequences [Bell v. Vista Unified Sch. Dist. (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 672, 682-684, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 263] .

[5] Immediate Suspension for Certain Charges

[a] Charges

If a permanent employee has been charged in writing with (1) immoral conduct, (2) conviction of a felony or of any crime involving moral turpitude, (3) incompetency due to mental disability, (4) willful refusal to perform regular assignments, as prescribed by reasonable rules and regulations of the employing school district, (5) violation of Educ. Code § 51530, (6) knowing membership in the Communist Party, or (7) violation of any of the provisions of Educ. Code §§ 7001-7007, the governing board may, if it deems the action necessary, immediately suspend the employee from his or her duties, and give the employee notice of the suspension and of its intention to dismiss him or her within 30 days after service of the notice, unless he or she demands a hearing [Educ. Code § 44939]. Educ. Code § 44939 applies only to certificated or credentialed employees. Thus, an employee whose credential has lapsed must be suspended immediately without regard to the procedures in this section [Stewart v. Acalanes Union High Sch. Dist. (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1142, 1147-1148, 257 Cal. Rptr. 692 ; see Educ. Code § 45034 (prohibiting drawing pay warrant to uncredentialed person employed in position requiring credential)].

Counsel should note that Educ. Code §§ 7001-7007, which are referred to in Educ. Code § 44939, were repealed by the Legislature in 1981 [see Stats. 1981, ch. 470, § 11].

[b] Time for Giving Notice of Suspension

The notice of suspension and intention to dismiss given pursuant to Educ. Code § 44939 must be in writing and served on the employee personally or by United States registered mail addressed to the employee's last known address. A copy of the charges filed, containing the information required by Gov. Code § 11503 (requiring specification of any statutes and rules allegedly violated and statement of charges setting forth alleged acts and omissions in ordinary and concise language), together with a copy of the provisions of Educ. Code §§ 44930-44988 must be attached to the notice. If the employee does not demand a hearing with the 30-day period, he or she may be dismissed at the expiration of 30 days after service of the notice [Educ. Code § 44941].

Unlike notice given pursuant to Educ. Code §§ 44934 and 44936 [see § 512.28[3]], notice given pursuant to Educ. Code § 44939 may be given between May 15 and September 15, or at any other time during the school year [compare Educ. Code § 44936 with Educ. Code § 44941]. However, a school board may not dismiss a permanent teacher on grounds contained only in Educ. Code § 44932 by giving notice after the May 15 deadline prescribed in Educ. Code § 44936, notwithstanding that the teacher is, at the same time, given notice of immediate suspension and intention to dismiss for grounds specified in Educ. Code § 44939 [Board of Educ. v. Commission on Professional Competence (1976) 61 Cal. App. 3d 664, 668, 132 Cal. Rptr. 516] .

[c] Payment of Salary During Suspension

If the permanent employee is suspended on charges of knowing membership in the Communist Party or for any violation of Educ. Code § 7001, 7002, 7003, 7006, 7007, or 51530, he or she may, within 10 days after service on him or her of notice of such suspension, file a written, verified denial of the charges. In such event, if the employee demands a hearing within the 30-day period, he or she will continue to be paid his or her regular salary during the period of the suspension until the entry of the decision of the Commission on Professional Competence, provided that the employee furnishes to the school district a suitable bond or other security acceptable to the governing board, as a guarantee that the employee will repay to the district the amount of salary paid to him or her during the suspension in case the decision of the Commission on Professional Competence is to dismiss the employee. If it is determined that the employee may not be dismissed, the school board must reimburse the employee for the cost of the bond [Educ. Code § 44939].

Counsel should note that Educ. Code §§ 7001-7003, 7006, and 7007, which are referred to in the second paragraph of Educ. Code § 44939, were repealed by the Legislature in 1981 [see Stats. 1981, ch. 470, § 11].

[6] Hearing Procedure

[a] Time for Hearing

In the event a hearing is requested by the employee, the hearing must be commenced within 60 days from the date of the employee's demand for a hearing. If any continuance is granted pursuant to Gov. Code § 11524, the time limitation for commencement of the hearing must be extended for a period of time equal to such continuance. The extension may not, however, include any period of time attributable to an unlawful refusal by either party to allow the discovery provided for in Educ. Code §§ 44944 [Educ. Code § 44944(a); see discussion in § 512.28[6][d]]. The parties may stipulate that the hearing will commence merely as a ceremonial formality within the 60-day limit, with no evidence being presented until the hearing reconvenes beyond the 60-day limit [Wilmot v. Commission on Professional Competence (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 1130, 1139-1148, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 656 ("the parties may 'stipulate that the necessary ceremonial has been observed' and may thereby satisfy the 60-day requirement")].

[b] Conduct of Hearing Before Commission on Professional Competence

The hearing must be initiated and conducted, and a decision must be made, in accordance with Gov. Code § 11500-11528; the Commission on Professional Competence has all the power granted to an agency under those sections [Educ. Code § 44944(a); see discussion in § 512.28[6][e]]. For a discussion and forms relating to administrative hearings conducted pursuant to Gov. Code §§ 11500-11528, see Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication , through Ch. 473H, Alternative Procedures for Agency Decisions .

[c] Right to Counsel

The governing board and the employee have the right to be represented by counsel at the hearing [Educ. Code § 44944(c)].

[d] Discovery Rights

The right of discovery of the parties in a hearing conducted pursuant to Educ. Code § 44944 is not limited to matters set forth in Gov. Code § 11507.6 (scope of discovery in administrative proceedings), but includes the rights and duties of any party to a civil action brought in a superior court. Notwithstanding any provision to the contrary, and except for the taking of oral depositions, no discovery may occur later than 30 calendar days after the employee is served with a copy of the accusation pursuant to Gov. Code § 11505. In all cases, discovery must be completed prior to seven calendar days before the date on which the hearing commences [Educ. Code § 44944(a)].

If the right of discovery is denied by either the employee or the governing board, all the remedies in Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. are available to the party seeking discovery [Educ. Code § 44944(a)]. The court of proper jurisdiction to entertain a motion to compel discovery is the superior court of the county in which the hearing will be held [Educ. Code § 44944(a)].

The time periods in Educ. Code § 44944, Gov. Code § 11500 et seq., and Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq. must not be applied so as to deny discovery in a hearing conducted pursuant to Educ. Code § 44944. The superior court of the county in which the hearing will be held may, on motion of the party seeking discovery, suspend the hearing so as to comply with this requirement [Educ. Code § 44944(a)].

For a discussion and forms relating to discovery in civil actions, see Chs. 190- 200, Discovery .

[e] Commission on Professional Competence

The hearing provided for in Educ. Code § 44944 must be conducted by a Commission on Professional Competence (hereinafter referred to as the "CPC"). One member of the CPC is selected by the employee, one member is selected by the governing board, and one member must be an administrative law judge of the Office of Administrative Hearings who must be the chairman and a voting member of the CPC. The administrative law judge is responsible for assuring that the legal rights of the parties are protected at the hearing [Educ. Code § 44944(b)].

If either the governing board or the employee fails for any reason to select a CPC member at least seven calendar days prior to the date of the hearing, the failure constitutes a waiver of the right to selection, and the county board of education or its specific designee must immediately make the selection. If, however, the county board of education is also the governing board of the school district or has been granted the powers of a governing board by statute, the selection must be made by the Superintendent of Public Instruction who must be reimbursed by the school district for all costs incident to the selection [Educ. Code § 44944(b)].

The member selected by the governing board and the member selected by the employee must not be related to the employee and must not be employees of the district initiating the dismissal. Each member must hold a currently valid credential and have at least five years experience within the past ten years in the employee's discipline [Educ. Code § 44944(b)].

[f] Place of Hearing

The hearing provided for in Educ. Code § 44944 must be conducted in a place selected by agreement among the members of the CPC. In the absence of such agreement, the place must be selected by the administrative law judge [Educ. Code § 44944(f)].

[g] Evidence Admissible

No witness may be permitted to testify at the hearing except on oath or affirmation. No testimony may be given or evidence introduced relating to matters that occurred more than four years prior to the date of the filing of the notice of intention to dismiss. Evidence of records regularly kept by the governing board may be introduced, but no decision relating to the dismissal or suspension of any employee may be made based on charges or evidence of any nature relating to matters occurring more than four years prior to the filing of the notice [Educ. Code § 44944(a)]. This four-year limit is subject to equitable exceptions, however. For example, an employee may be equitably estopped from asserting the four-year limit if the employee's own conduct induced the school district or governing board to delay the filing of the notice of intent to dismiss or suspend the employee [Atwater Elementary Sch. Dist. v. California Dep't of Gen. Servs. (2007) 41 Cal. 4th 227, 235-238, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 233, 158 P.3d 794] .

Evidence of criminal misconduct seized by law enforcement officers in violation of the constitutional prohibition against unreasonable searches and seizure is admissible at the hearing [see Governing Bd. v. Metcalf (1974) 36 Cal. App. 3d 546, 551, 111 Cal. Rptr. 724] .

The employee is entitled to present any defense to termination, including constitutional and civil rights defenses, at the hearing [Takahashi v. Board of Education (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1464, 1484-1485, 249 Cal. Rptr. 578 ; see Bekiaris v. Board of Education (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 575, 592, 100 Cal. Rptr. 16, 493 P.2d 480 ; see also Gov. Code § 11506]. Furthermore, if the employee fails to present all possible defenses, he or she may be precluded from doing so in a later civil action by principles of res judicata and collateral estoppel [see Takahashi v. Board of Education (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1464, 1481-1485, 249 Cal. Rptr. 578] . For further discussion, see § 512.28[8].

[h] Decision of Commission on Professional Competence

The decision of the CPC must be made by a majority vote and the CPC must prepare a written decision containing findings of fact, determinations of issues, and a disposition, which must be, solely, (1) that the employee should be dismissed, (2) that the employee should be suspended for a specific period of time without pay, or (3) that the employee should not be dismissed or suspended [Educ. Code § 44944(c)]. The CPC may base its decision on the preponderance-of-the-evidence standard of proof [Gardner v. Commission on Professional Competence (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 1035, 1039-1040, 210 Cal. Rptr. 795] .

The CPC has no power to dispose of the charge of dismissal by imposing probation, or other alternative sanctions. The imposition of suspension pursuant to (2) above is available only in a suspension proceeding authorized pursuant to Educ. Code § 44932(b) or 44933 [Educ. Code § 44944(c)]. However, if the district seeks only dismissal and not suspension, the CPC has the discretion to find that cause for discipline exists without approving dismissal if it is not persuaded that the offense is serious enough to warrant dismissal. The school district may avoid the all-or-nothing result by seeking suspension instead of or in addition to dismissal [Fontana Unified School Dist. v. Burman (1988) 45 Cal. 3d 208, 220, 221-222, 246 Cal. Rptr. 733, 753 P.2d 689] .

The decision of the CPC that the employee should not be dismissed or suspended may not be based on nonsubstantive procedural errors committed by the school district or governing board unless the errors are prejudicial. The decision of the CPC is deemed to be the final decision of the governing board [Educ. Code § 44944(c)].

[i] Expenses of Hearing Before Commission on Professional Competence

Educ. Code § 44944(e) provides that if the CPC determines that the employee should not be dismissed or suspended, the governing board must pay the expenses of the hearing, including the cost of the administrative law judge, any compensation of CPC members for service during summer recess or vacation periods [see Educ. Code § 44944(d)(2)] the reasonable expenses (as determined by the administrative law judge) of the CPC member selected by the governing board and the member selected by the employee (including, but not limited to, payments or obligations incurred for travel, meals, and lodging), the cost of any substitute members, and reasonable attorney fees incurred by the employee.

The Supreme Court has held a cost-sharing provision of Educ. Code § 44944(e) unconstitutional on its face. That provision required a teacher who requested a hearing on his or her threatened suspension or dismissal, but who did not ultimately prevail (either at the administrative level or after judicial review), to pay half the cost of the administrative law judge. The Court explained that, since the provision's application was not limited to frivolous hearing requests, it impermissibly chilled teachers' constitutional right to a pretermination opportunity to be heard. Any legitimate interest the state may have in conserving administrative resources or discouraging hearings that result in an administrative or judicial decision against a teacher is outweighed by the teacher's strong interest in presenting his or her side of the case and in invoking the discretion of an adjudicator [California Teachers Assn. v. State (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 327, 345-357, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 425, 975 P.2d 622] .

[7] Judicial Review of Commission on Professional Competence Decision

The decision of the CPC may, on petition of either the governing board or the employee, be reviewed by a court of competent jurisdiction in the same manner as a decision made by a hearing officer under Gov. Code §§ 11500-11528, that is, by petition for a writ of mandate [see Gov. Code § 11523; Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; see also Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , through Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions . The court, on review, must exercise its independent judgment on the evidence. The proceeding must be set for hearing at the earliest possible date and must take precedence over all other cases, except older matters of the same character and matters to which special precedence is given by law [Educ. Code § 44945].

For a form of petition for writ of mandate to review the decision of a CPC dismissing a permanent employee, see § 512.161. For examples of allegations to be included in such a petition, see §§ 512.162 -512.165

[8] Effect of Judgment in Mandate Proceeding on Future Civil Action

A terminated employee must succeed in having the administrative determination set aside on mandate as a condition precedent to bringing a tort action based on the termination [City of Fresno v. Superior Court (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 1484, 1488-1493, 234 Cal. Rptr. 136 ; see Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 469, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410 ; see also § 512.28[7]]. However, a contractual right to employment is a single primary right, and a wrongful termination of that employment gives rise to a single cause of action [Takahashi v. Board of Education (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1464, 1474-1475, 249 Cal. Rptr. 578 ; see Takahashi v. Bd. of Trustees of Livingston (9th Cir. 1986) 783 F.2d 848, 851] . Therefore, principles of res judicata and collateral estoppel prohibit the raising of any defense to termination for the first time in a subsequent civil action. All legal theories on which it is alleged that the termination was unlawful must be asserted at the administrative hearing and on review by mandate, including violations of procedures set forth in the Education Code, civil rights violations, other constitutional violations, and contract and tort theories [Takahashi v. Board of Education (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1464, 1481-1485, 249 Cal. Rptr. 578] .

The interaction of these rules essentially means that the question of liability for wrongful termination under any theory of law is to be decided pursuant to a petition for a writ of mandate [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1090 (disputed issues of fact may be tried by jury)]. If on mandate it is determined that the termination was contrary to law, the employee may then bring a civil action for damages [Takahashi v. Board of Education (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1464, 1476-1477, 249 Cal. Rptr. 578 ; City of Fresno v. Superior Court (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 1484, 1489-1490, 234 Cal. Rptr. 136] . The statute of limitations for this action is tolled during the period that the employee-plaintiff is exhausting administrative remedies by seeking mandate [see Campbell v. Graham-Armstrong (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 482, 490, 107 Cal. Rptr. 777, 509 P.2d 689] . Presumably, the school district would be precluded by principles of res judicata and collateral estoppel from relitigating the lawfulness of the termination in the second action.

Other conditions precedent to the bringing of a civil action for damages should be satisfied in a timely manner when the employee first becomes aware of the potential right of action. For example, a claim against the school district should be filed within the applicable time periods as required by the Government Claims Act [see Gov. Code § 911.2; *see also City of Stockton v. Superior Court (Dec. 3, 2007) 42 Cal. 4th 730, 2007 Cal. LEXIS 13743, at *19-20 ("Henceforth, we will refer to [Gov. Code § 810 et seq.] as the Government Claims Act," rather than "Tort Claims Act," because it applies to contract claims as well as tort claims)]. Also, an administrative complaint alleging civil rights violations must be filed with the Department of Fair Employment and Housing within the applicable time period as required by the Fair Employment and Housing Act [Takahashi v. Board of Education (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1464, 1478-1481, 249 Cal. Rptr. 578 ; see Gov. Code § 12960].

For further discussion of these matters, see Ch. 474, Availability of Review of Agency Decisions , through Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions , Ch. 115, Civil Rights: Employment Discrimination , Ch. 249, Employment Law: Termination and Discipline , Ch. 345, Limitation of Actions , Ch. 464, Public Entities and Officers: California Tort Claims Act , and Ch. 491, Res Judicata .

[9] Reinstatement and Back Salary

If the employee has been suspended pending the hearing in the dismissal proceeding, he or she must be reinstated within five days after a decision in his or her favor and must be paid his or her full salary by the governing board for the period of suspension [Educ. Code § 44946], including retirement benefits [Mass v. Board of Education (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 612, 623, 39 Cal. Rptr. 739, 394 P.2d 579 ; see Raven v. Oakland Unified School Dist. (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 1347, 1367, 262 Cal. Rptr. 354 (in case of refusal to reinstate after disability leave, back pay awarded from date of formal denial of request for reinstatement)]. In addition, the prevailing employee is entitled to prejudgment interest on each salary payment from the date of accrual to the entry of judgment [Mass v. Board of Educ. (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 612, 624, 39 Cal. Rptr. 739, 394 P.2d 579 ; see Civ. Code § 3287(a)].

The measure of recovery of a wrongfully discharged employee is the amount of salary that he or she would have earned, plus other benefits, less the amount that the employer proves the employee has earned or might have earned from other employment [Bevli v. Brisco (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 986, 994, 260 Cal. Rptr. 57 ; see Mass v. Board of Educ. (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 612, 627-628, 39 Cal. Rptr. 739, 394 P.2d 579] . The governing board is not entitled to deduct any amounts from backpay owed for periods during which the teacher was unable to return to work; however, workers' compensation benefits received because of an inability to return to the classroom setting as a teacher may be taken into account. Earnings from night or weekend work that are not inconsistent with school employment are not to be set off against any back pay award [Bevli v. Brisco (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 986, 994, 260 Cal. Rptr. 57 ; Raven v. Oakland Unified School Dist. (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 1347, 1367-1368, 262 Cal. Rptr. 354] .

If a permanent employee is suspended without pay pursuant to Educ. Code § 44939 [see discussion in § 512.28[5]] and later cleared of the charges that were the basis of the suspension, the employee is entitled to recover back salary for the period of the suspension, notwithstanding that he or she is ultimately dismissed on other grounds [Von Durjais v. Bd. of Trustees (1978) 83 Cal. App. 3d 681, 686-687, 148 Cal. Rptr. 192 ; Board of Educ. v. Commission on Professional Competence (1976) 61 Cal. App. 3d 664, 669-670, 132 Cal. Rptr. 516] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

45-512 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 512.29

§ 512.29 Dismissal or Suspension of Probationary Employees in Large School District

[1] Grounds

First and second year probationary employees may be dismissed during the school year for unsatisfactory performance determined pursuant to Educ. Code §§ 44660-44665 (performance evaluations), or for cause pursuant to Educ. Code § 44932 [Educ. Code § 44948.3(a)]. The governing board may suspend a probationary employee for a specified period of time without pay as an alternative to dismissal pursuant to Educ. Code § 44948.3 [Educ. Code § 44948.3(b)].

Educ. Code § 44948.3 applies only to dismissal or suspension during the school year. It does not provide any rights with regard to reemployment for the succeeding school year [Grimsley v. Board of Trustees (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1440, 1446, 235 Cal. Rptr. 85 ; see § 512.21].

Educ. Code § 44948.3 applies only to employees whose probationary period commenced during the 1983-1984 fiscal year or any fiscal year thereafter, and does not apply to probationary employees in a school district having an average daily attendance of less than 250 pupils [Educ. Code § 44948.3(c); but see Educ. Code § 44948.2 (small school district may elect to dismiss under Educ. Code § 44948.3)]. For discussion of the procedures applicable to dismissal of probationary employees in districts with less than 250 pupils, see § 512.30.

[2] Notice Required

The superintendent of the school district or the superintendent's designee must give the employee written notice of dismissal 30 days prior to the dismissal, and, in the case of second-year probationary employees, the notice must be given not later than March 15. The notice must include a statement of the reasons for the dismissal and notice of the opportunity to appeal. If the dismissal is for unsatisfactory performance, a copy of the evaluation conducted pursuant to Educ. Code § 44664 must accompany the written notice [Educ. Code § 44948.3(a)(1); see Achene v. Pierce Joint Unified Sch. Dist. (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 757, 769-771, 97 Cal. Rptr. 3d 899 (classroom observation report stating that employee needed to "refine" her performance, and lacking any indication that employee's performance was unsatisfactory or that she would be dismissed if she did not make the recommended refinements, did not constitute sufficient notice of unsatisfactory performance under Educ. Code § 44664(b))].

If the cause for dismissal is unprofessional conduct or unsatisfactory performance [see Educ. Code §§ 44932(a)(1), (4), 44938(c)], the school district must also have sent the employee a previous written notice specifying the nature of the unprofessional conduct or unsatisfactory performance, with such specific instances of behavior and with such particularity as to furnish the employee an opportunity to correct his or her faults and overcome the grounds for the charge. This previous notice must include a copy of the evaluation conducted pursuant to Educ. Code § 44664 [Educ. Code § 44938(a),(b)]. If the cause for dismissal is unprofessional conduct, this previous notice must have been given at least 45 calendar days before the notice of dismissal described in the preceding paragraph [Educ. Code § 44938(a)]. If the cause is unsatisfactory performance, this previous notice ordinarily must have been given at least 90 calendar days before the notice of dismissal described in the preceding paragraph [Educ. Code § 44938(b); see Achene v. Pierce Joint Unified Sch. Dist. (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 757, 766-768, 97 Cal. Rptr. 3d 899 (because Educ. Code § 44938 specifies procedure for dismissal for cause under Educ. Code § 44932, it also applies to dismissal for unsatisfactory performance of probationary teacher under Educ. Code § 44948.3(a), which incorporates procedures applicable to dismissal for cause under Educ. Code § 44932)].

[3] Hearing Procedure

Within 15 days of receipt of the notice of dismissal, the employee may submit a written request for a hearing to the governing board. The failure of an employee to request a hearing this time period constitutes a waiver of the right to a hearing. The governing board may establish procedures for the appointment of an administrative law judge to conduct the hearing and submit a recommended decision to the board [Educ. Code § 44948.3(a)(2)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

45-512 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 512.30

§ 512.30 Dismissal or Suspension of Probationary Employees in Small School District

[1] During School Year

Probationary employees who are employed in a school district having an average daily attendance of less than 250 pupils (hereinafter referred to as a "small school district") may be dismissed during the school year for cause only, as in the case of permanent employees [Educ. Code § 44948(a)]. Educ. Code § 44948 has been interpreted by the courts as giving probationary employees dismissed during the school year the same procedural protections applicable to the dismissal of permanent employees [Pennel v. Pond Union School Dist. (1973) 29 Cal. App. 3d 832, 839, 105 Cal. Rptr. 817 ; see discussion in § 512.28]. A probationary employee is dismissed during the school year, within the meaning of Educ. Code § 44948, if he or she is prohibited from meeting with his or her classes or performing any other professional services for the rest of the school year, notwithstanding that the school district pays his or her salary for the rest of the year [Lunderville v. Emery Unified School Dist. (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 459, 462-464, 68 Cal. Rptr. 768] .

The governing board of a small school district may elect to dismiss probationary employees during the school year for cause under Educ. Code § 44948.3 (otherwise applicable only to larger school districts; see § 512.29). Once a district has made such an election, it may only dismiss probationary certificated employees during the school year under Educ. Code § 44948.2 [Educ. Code § 44948.2].

A probationary employee in a small school district may also be dismissed or suspended on grounds of unprofessional conduct consisting of acts or omissions other than those specified in Educ. Code § 44932, but any such charge must specify instances of behavior deemed to constitute unprofessional conduct [see Educ. Code § 44933]. Such an employee may also be suspended without pay by the governing board of a school district for a specific period of time on grounds of unprofessional conduct pursuant to the procedures specified in Educ. Code §§ 44933-44937, 44943, 44944. This authorization does not, however, apply to any school district that has adopted a collective bargaining agreement pursuant to Gov. Code § 3543.2(b) [Educ. Code § 44932(b)].

[2] At End of School Year for Reasons Other Than Those Specified in Educ. Code § 44955

[a] Initial Notice

A probationary employee who is employed by a small school district must be notified in writing by the superintendent of the school district or his or her designee (or the clerk or secretary of the governing board if the district has no superintendent) if it has been recommended that the employee not be reemployed for the ensuing school year for reasons other than those specified in Educ. Code § 44955 (pertaining to reduction of number of permanent and probationary employees for fiscal reasons). The notice must state the reasons for the recommendation that the employee not be reemployed. It must be given to both the employee and the governing board no later than March 15, and before final notice by the governing board that the employee's services will not be required for the following year. If, however, the employee has been employed by the district for less than 45 days on March 15, the giving of such notice may be deferred until the 45th day of employment, and all other time periods and deadline dates prescribed by Educ. Code § 44948.5 must be coextensively extended [Educ. Code § 44948.5(b)].

Until the employee has requested a hearing as provided in Educ. Code § 44948.5(c) [see discussion in § 512.33[3][b]] or has waived his or her right to a hearing, the notice and the reasons therefor are confidential and must not be divulged by any person except as necessary in the performance of duties. Violation of the requirement of confidentiality does not, however, of itself affect the validity of any hearing conducted pursuant to Educ. Code § 44948.5 [Educ. Code § 44948.5(b)].

[b] Grounds for Refusal to Rehire

The governing board's determination not to reemploy a probationary employee pursuant to Educ. Code § 44948.5 for the ensuing school year must be for cause only. The determination of the governing board as to the sufficiency of the cause is conclusive, but the cause must relate solely to the welfare of the schools and the pupils thereof [Educ. Code § 44948.5(e)]. The question of whether or not a particular cause relates solely to the welfare of the school and its pupils is a question of law for the reviewing court, not the school board, to decide [Lindros v. Governing Bd. of The Torrance Unified School Dist. (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 524, 533-534, 108 Cal. Rptr. 185, 510 P.2d 361 , cert. denied, 414 U.S. 1112, 94 S. Ct. 842, 38 L. Ed. 2d 739 ; Bekiaris v. Board of Education (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 575, 587, 589, 100 Cal. Rptr. 16, 493 P.2d 480 (decided under former Educ. Code § 44949(d))].

Age and obesity, by themselves, have been held not to constitute causes that relate solely to the welfare of the school and its pupils justifying dismissal of a probationary employee [see Blodgett v. Board of Trustees (1971) 20 Cal. App. 3d 183, 190-193, 97 Cal. Rptr. 406 ; Thornton v. Board of Trustees (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 761, 765-766, 68 Cal. Rptr. 842] . By contrast, failure to satisfactorily perform classroom duties, and lack of self-restraint and tact in dealing with coworkers, pupils, and parents have been held to be matters that clearly relate to the welfare of the school and its pupils [see Turner v. Board of Trustees (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 818, 827-828, 129 Cal. Rptr. 443, 548 P.2d 1115 ; Griggs v. Board of Trustees (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 93, 97, 37 Cal. Rptr. 194, 389 P.2d 722] . The failure to pass a competency examination in the field in which the probationary teacher was employed, when passing the examination was a condition of the employment contract, has also been held to be sufficient cause for not reemploying probationary teachers under former Educ. Code § 44949(d) (now see Educ. Code § 44948.5(e)) [Alba v. Los Angeles Unified School Dist. (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 997, 1009, 189 Cal. Rptr. 897] .

[c] Request for Hearing

The employee may request a hearing to determine if there is cause for not reemploying him or her for the ensuing school year. Failure to do so constitutes a waiver of the right to a hearing [Educ. Code § 44948.5(c)]. The hearing request procedures of Educ. Code § 44948.5(c) are substantially the same as those provided in Educ. Code § 44949(b) for refusal to rehire for reasons specified in Educ. Code § 44955 [see discussion in § 512.3[3][b]].

[d] Conduct of Hearing and Decision by Administrative Law Judge and Governing Board

The provisions of Educ. Code § 44948.5(d) governing the conduct of the hearing and the decision by the administrative law judge and governing board are the same as those provided in Educ. Code § 44949(c) [see Educ. Code § 44948.5(d); see also discussion in §§ 512.33[3][c] and [d]].

[e] Expenses of Hearing

All expenses of the hearing, including the cost of the administrative law judge, must be paid by the governing board from the district funds [Educ. Code § 44948.5(d)].

[f] Final Notice of Dismissal

The governing board must give final notice to the probationary employee that his or her services will not be required for the ensuing year no later than May 15 [Educ. Code § 44948.5(f)]. If the board fails to do so, the employee must be deemed reemployed for the ensuing school year [Educ. Code § 44948.5(i); see Rutherford v. Bd. of Trustees (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 775, 779-781, 112 Cal. Rptr. 560 ; Stewart v. San Mateo Junior College Dist. (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 345, 347-348, 112 Cal. Rptr. 272] . The purpose of the May 15 deadline is to give a teacher whose employment will be ended at the end of the school year timely notice of the fact so that he or she will have a fair opportunity to seek other employment in his or her profession during the coming school year [Stewart v. San Mateo Junior College Dist. (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 345, 348, 112 Cal. Rptr. 272 (decided under former Educ. Code § 44949(c)]. If, however, the school board notifies the employee of its decision not to reemploy him or her prior to May 15, but the decision is reversed because of a legal error in the hearing proceeding, the employee's remedy is a new hearing rather than automatic reinstatement, notwithstanding that a new hearing would make final notice of the board's decision before May 15 impossible [see Lucas v. Board of Education (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 674, 681-683, 119 Cal. Rptr. 462, 532 P.2d 110] .

If the governing board notifies a probationary employee that his or her services will not be required for the ensuing year, the board must, within 10 days after delivery to it of the employee's written request, provide the employee with a statement of its reasons for not reemploying him or her for the ensuing school year [Educ. Code § 44948.5(g)]. Any notice or request is deemed sufficient if it is delivered in person to the employee to whom it is directed or if it is deposited in the United States registered mail, postage prepaid, and addressed to the last known address of the employee [Educ. Code § 44948.5(h)].

[g] Effect of Continuance

If, after a request for hearing made pursuant to Educ. Code § 44948.5(c), any continuance is granted pursuant to Gov. Code § 11524, the dates prescribed in Educ. Code § 44948.5(d) (deadline for submission of proposed decision), (e) (effective date of final decision), (f), and (i) (deadline for giving final notice of decision not to reemploy) that occur on or after the date of the granting of the continuance are extended for a period of time equal to the length of the continuance [Educ. Code § 44948.5(j)]. Thus, for example, if the employee procures a continuance for discovery purposes, the deadline for giving the employee final notice that he or she will not be rehired is extended beyond May 15 for a period equal to the length of the continuance [see Grzeskowiak v. Bd. of Trustees (1976) 62 Cal. App. 3d 131, 135-136, 132 Cal. Rptr. 918] .

§ 512.31 Judicial Review of Governing Board Decisions Regarding Dismissal of Probationary Employees

The decision of a governing board not to reemploy a probationary employee is reviewable in a mandate proceeding [see Blodgett v. Board of Trustees (1971) 20 Cal. App. 3d 183, 190, 97 Cal. Rptr. 406 ; Thornton v. Board of Trustees (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 761, 763, 68 Cal. Rptr. 842] . However, in Board of Education v. Round Valley Teachers Assn. (1996) 13 Cal. 4th 269, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 115, 914 P.2d 193 , the California Supreme Court distinguished between a "dismissal for cause" pursuant to Educ. Code §§ 44932 et seq., 44941 et seq., and 44948 et seq., and a "decision against reelection" pursuant to Educ. Code § 44929.21(b). Accordingly, Section 44929.21(b) permits a school district to decline reelection of a probationary teacher at the end of the second year without showing grounds for cause or otherwise allowing any procedural redress. Furthermore, Section 44929.21(b) grants the district exclusive discretion over reelection and preempts any collective bargaining agreement purporting to provide greater due process rights to probationary teachers [Board of Education v. Round Valley Teachers Assn. (1996) 13 Cal. 4th 269, 284-287, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 115, 914 P.2d 193 ; see Sunnyvale Unified Sch. Dist. v. Jacobs (2009) 171 Cal. App. 4th 168, 179-183, 89 Cal. Rptr. 3d 546 (school district's allegedly retaliatory decision not to reelect probationary teacher may not be made subject to collectively bargained arbitration procedures)].

For a discussion and forms relating to judicial review of administrative hearings by writ of mandate, see Ch. 474, Availability of Review of Agency Decisions , through Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions . For a form of petition for writ of mandate to review the decision of a governing board not to reemploy a probationary employee, see § 512.166.

Unlike permanent teachers, probationary teachers have no vested right to be rehired for the succeeding school year. Thus, in a mandate proceeding to review the decision of a school board not to rehire a probationary teacher, the reviewing court must accept the school board's findings of fact if supported by substantial evidence and may not exercise its independent judgment on the evidence [Turner v. Board of Trustees (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 818, 824-827, 129 Cal. Rptr. 443, 548 P.2d 1115 (disapproving Young v. Governing Bd. (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 769, 115 Cal. Rptr. 456 , to the extent it is inconsistent)].

§ 512.32 Dismissal of Temporary and Substitute Employees

The governing board of a school district may dismiss substitute employees at any time at the pleasure of the board [Educ. Code § 44953]. The board may release temporary certificated employees at its pleasure until the employee has served 75 percent of the number of days during which the regular schools of the district are maintained [Educ. Code § 44954(a)]. After that time, the employee may be dismissed only on notification before the end of the school year of the district's decision not to reelect the employee for the next succeeding year [Educ. Code § 44954(b); but see Educ. Code § 44920 (certain employees as permitted to be classified as temporary for an entire school year or semester) and discussion in § 512.23]. If the notice is not given, the employee must be reemployed for the following school year to fill any vacant positions in the district [Educ. Code § 44918(b); see § 512.21[2]].

45-512 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 512.33

§ 512.33 Reduction of Number of Employees

[1] When Authorized

The governing board of a school district may, if it deems such action necessary, reduce the number of permanent and probationary employees whenever any of the following apply [Educ. Code § 44955(a)]:

(1) The average daily attendance in all of the schools of the district for the first six months in which school is in session declines below the corresponding period of either of the previous two school years;

(2) A particular kind of service is to be reduced or discontinued not later than the beginning of the following school year;

(3) The governing board determines that attendance in the district will decline in the following year as a result of the termination of an interdistrict tuition agreement as defined in Educ. Code § 46304; or

(4) The amendment of state law requires the modification of curriculum.

In any of these situations, the governing board may terminate the services of not more than a corresponding percentage of the certificated employees, permanent as well as probationary, at the close of the school year [Educ. Code § 44955(b)]. In determining the number of certificated employees who may be terminated pursuant to Educ. Code § 44955(b), the board must consider attrition in the form of retirements, resignations, and deaths occurring within the computation period, but not the number of employees who are merely on leaves of absence for the subsequent school year [Campbell Elementary Teachers Assn. v. Abbott (1978) 76 Cal. App. 3d 796, 809-810, 143 Cal. Rptr. 281] .

In addition, Educ. Code § 44955.5 permits a governing board to terminate the services of any permanent or probationary certificated employees of the district (including employees holding a position that requires an administrative or supervisory credential) if, during the time period between five days after enactment of the Budget Act and August 15 of the fiscal year to which the Budget Act applies, the governing board determines that its total revenue limit per unit of average daily attendance for the fiscal year of that Budget Act has not increased by at least 2 percent and if, in the opinion of the governing board, it is therefore necessary to decrease the number of permanent employees in the district. In that case, the termination must follow the procedures in Educ. Code §§ 44951 and 44955 [see §§ 512.20[3][c] and 512.33 et seq.]. However, notwithstanding those sections, the terminations will follow a schedule of notice and hearing adopted by the governing board [Educ. Code § 44955.5(a); see Educ. Code § 44955.5(b) (statute inoperative from July 1, 2002, through July 1, 2003)].

[2] Seniority Rights

Except as otherwise provided by statute, a permanent employee's services may not be terminated under the provisions of Educ. Code § 44955(b) while any probationary employee, or any other employee with less seniority, is retained to render a service that the permanent employee is certificated and competent to render [Educ. Code § 44955(b)]. However, a full-time employee may not be displaced by a part-time employee with greater seniority [Hildebrandt v. St. Helena Unified Sch. Dist. (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 334, 339-346, 90 Cal. Rptr. 3d 855] .

As between employees who first rendered paid service to the district on the same date, the governing board must determine the order of termination solely on the basis of the needs of the district and its students. On request of any employee whose order of termination is so determined, the governing board must furnish a written statement of the specific criteria used in determining the order of termination and the application of the criteria in ranking each employee relative to other employees in the group no later than five days before the commencement of the hearing held pursuant to Educ. Code § 44949. The requirement that the board provide such a written statement must not be interpreted to give the employee any other legal right or interest that would not exist without such a requirement [Educ. Code § 44955(b)].

The governing board shall make assignments and reassignments in such a manner that the employees shall be retained to render any service that their seniority and qualifications entitle them to render. However, prior to assigning or reassigning any certificated employee to teach a subject that he or she has not previously taught and for which he or she does not have a teaching credential or that is not within the employee's major area of postsecondary study or the equivalent thereof, the governing board shall require the employee to pass a subject matter competency test in the appropriate subject [Educ. Code § 44955(c)].

Notwithstanding Educ. Code § 44955(b), a school district may deviate from terminating a certificated employee in order of seniority for either of the following reasons [Educ. Code § 44955(d)]:

(1) The district demonstrates a specific need for personnel to teach a specific course or course of study or to provide services authorized by a services credential with a specialization in either pupil personnel services or health for a school nurse, and the certificated employee has special training and experience necessary to teach that course or course of study or to provide those services that others with more seniority do not possess [see Bledsoe v. Biggs Unified Sch. Dist. (2008) 170 Cal. App. 4th 127, 138, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 13 (district's demonstration of its specific "needs" is not required to be evidenced by formal, written policies, course or job descriptions, or program requirements); or

(2) For purposes of maintaining or achieving compliance with constitutional requirements related to equal protection of the laws.

[3] Procedure

[a] Initial Notice

An employee must be notified in writing by the superintendent of the school district or his or her designee (or the clerk or secretary of the governing board if the district has no superintendent) if it has been recommended that the employee not be reemployed for the ensuing school year for the reasons specified in Educ. Code § 44955. The notice must state the reasons for the recommendation that the employee not be reemployed. It must be given to both the employee and the governing board no later than March 15 and before final notice by the governing board that the employee's services will not be required for the following year [Educ. Code § 44949(a)].

Until the employee has requested a hearing as provided in Educ. Code § 44949(b) [see discussion in § 512.33[3][b]] or has waived his or her right to a hearing, the notice and the reasons for it are confidential and must not be divulged by any person except as necessary in the performance of duties. Violation of the requirement of confidentiality does not, however, of itself affect the validity of any hearing conducted pursuant to Educ. Code § 44949 [Educ. Code § 44949(a)].

[b] Request for Hearing

The employee may request a hearing to determine if there is cause for not reemploying him or her for the ensuing year. A request for a hearing must be in writing and must be delivered to the person who sent the notice pursuant to Educ. Code § 44949(a) [see discussion in § 512.33[3][a]] on or before a date specified in the notice, which must not be less than seven days after the date on which notice is served on the employee. Failure to request a hearing on or before the date specified in the notice constitutes a waiver by the employee of his or her right to a hearing. The notice provided for in Educ. Code § 44949(a) must advise the employee of all of this information [Educ. Code § 44949(b)].

[c] Conduct of Hearing

In the event a hearing is requested by the employee, the proceeding must be conducted and a decision made in accordance with Gov. Code §§ 11500-11528, and the governing board has all the power granted to an agency therein, except for the following [Educ. Code § 44949(c)].

(1) The employee must file his or her notice of defense, if any, within five days after service on him or her of the accusation and the accusation must notify the employee of the five-day period;

(2) The discovery authorized by Gov. Code § 11507.6 is available only if it is requested within 15 days after service of the accusation, and the notice required by Gov. Code § 11505 must so indicate; and

(3) The hearing must be conducted by a an administrative law judge who must prepare a proposed decision, containing findings of fact and a determination as to whether or not the charges sustained by the evidence are related to the welfare of the schools and the pupils thereof.

For a discussion and forms relating to administrative hearings conducted pursuant to Gov. Code §§ 11500-11528, see Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication , through Ch. 473H, Alternative Procedures for Agency Decisions .

[d] Decisions of Administrative Law Judge and Governing Board

The proposed decision of the administrative law judge must be prepared for the governing board and must contain a determination as to the sufficiency of the cause for nonreemployment and a recommendation as to disposition; however, the governing board must make the final determination as to sufficiency of the cause and disposition. None of the findings, recommendations, or determinations contained in the proposed decision are binding on the governing board. Nonsubstantive procedural errors committed by the school district or governing board of the school district do not constitute cause for dismissing the charges unless the errors are prejudicial [Educ. Code § 44949(c)].

Copies of the proposed decision must be submitted to the governing board and to the employee on or before May 7 of the year in which the proceeding is commenced [Educ. Code § 44949(c)]. If the governing board decides not to adopt the proposed decision of the administrative law judge, its own decision to dismiss the employee must be in writing and contain findings of fact and a determination of the issues [see Lucas v. Board of Education (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 674, 678, 119 Cal. Rptr. 462, 532 P.2d 110] .

[e] Expenses of Hearing

All expenses of the hearing conducted under Educ. Code § 44949, including the cost of the administrative law judge, must be paid by the governing board from the district funds [Educ. Code § 44949(c)].

[f] Effect of Continuance

If, after request for hearing pursuant to Educ. Code § 44949(b), any continuance is granted under Gov. Code § 11524, the dates prescribed in Educ. Code § 44949(c) (final date for submitting copy of proposed decision) that occur on or after the date of granting the continuance and the date prescribed in Educ. Code § 44955(c) that occurs after the date of granting the continuance shall be extended for a period of time equal to the continuance [Educ. Code § 44949(e)].

[g] Final Notice of Termination of Services; Effect of Failure to Give Notice and Hearing

Notice of termination of employment pursuant to Educ. Code § 44955(b) must be given before May 15 in the manner prescribed by Educ. Code § 44949 [see discussion in § 512.33[3][h]]. The services of these employees must be terminated in the inverse order in which they were employed, as determined by the board in accordance with the provisions of Educ. Code §§ 44844 and 44845 [Educ. Code § 44955(c); but see discussion in § 512.33[2]]. In the event that a permanent or probationary employee is not given the notices and a right to a hearing as provided for in Educ. Code § 44949, he or she must be deemed reemployed for the ensuing school year [Educ. Code § 44955(c)].

[h] Sufficiency of Notice

Any notice shall be deemed sufficient when it is delivered in person to the employee to whom it is directed, or when it is deposited in the United States registered mail, postage prepaid and addressed to the last known address of the employee [Educ. Code § 44949(d)].

[4] Reemployment Rights

Permanent and probationary employees who are terminated pursuant to Educ. Code § 44955 have certain preferred rights to reemployment which are set forth in Educ. Code §§ 44956-44958. Notwithstanding these preferences, however, the school district may validly determine not to reelect a probationary employee under Educ. Code § 44929.21(b) [California Teachers Assn. v. Mendocino Unified Sch. Dist. (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 522, 526-528, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 879 ; see § 512.26].

§ 512.34 Compulsory Leaves of Absence for Employees Charged With Criminal Offenses

Compulsory leaves of absence for certificated employees charged with specified criminal offenses are governed by Educ. Code §§ 44940 and 44940.5. Offenses for which compulsory leaves of absence may be imposed are divided into "mandatory leave of absence offenses" and "optional leave of absence offenses" [see Educ. Code § 44940(a), (b)]. A mandatory leave of absence offense means (1) any sex offense as defined in Educ. Code § 44010; or (2) any offense involving aiding or abetting the unlawful sale, use, or exchange to minors of controlled substances listed in Schedule I, II, or III, as contained in Health & Safety Code §§ 11054, 11055, and 11056, with the exception of marijuana, mescaline, peyote, or tetrahydrocannabinols [Educ. Code § 44940(a)]. An optional leave of absence offense means (1) any controlled substance offense as defined in Educ. Code §§ 44011 or 87011; (2) a violation or attempted violation of Penal Code § 187 (murder); or (3) a violation or attempted violation of Health & Safety Code §§ 11357-11361, 11363, 11364, or 11370.1, insofar as those sections relate to any controlled substances except marijuana, mescaline, peyote, or tetrahydrocannabinols [Educ. Code § 44940(b)]. An employee is deemed to be "charged with" one of these offenses if he or she is charged with the specified offense by complaint, information, or indictment filed in a court of competent jurisdiction [see Educ. Code § 44940(a), (b)]. If an employee is charged with an offense deemed to fall into both the mandatory and optional leave of absence categories, as defined in Educ. Code § 44940(a) and (b), the offense is treated as a mandatory leave of absence offense for purposes of Educ. Code § 44940 [Educ. Code § 44940(e)(1)].

Whenever any certificated employee is charged with a mandatory leave of absence offense, as defined in Educ. Code § 44940(a), the governing board of the school district must immediately place the employee on compulsory leave of absence for not more than 10 days after the date of entry of judgment in the proceedings. The employee's teaching or service credential will automatically be suspended for the same period of time [Educ. Code § 44940(d), (e)(2) (school district to forward copy of complaint, information, or indictment to Commission on Teacher Credentialing)]. Whenever a certificated employee is charged with an optional leave of absence offense, as defined in Educ. Code § 44940(b), the governing board of the school district may immediately place the employee on compulsory leave of absence in accordance with the procedures in Educ. Code §§ 44940 and 44940.5 [Educ. Code § 44940(e)(1)].

The governing board may extend the compulsory leave of absence of the employee beyond the initial period specified in Educ. Code § 44940 by giving notice to the employee within 10 days after the entry of judgment in the criminal proceedings that the employee will be dismissed at the expiration of 30 days from the date of service of the notice unless he or she demands a hearing as provided in Educ. Code §§ 44930-44988 [Educ. Code § 44940.5(a)].

Any employee placed on compulsory leave of absence pursuant to Educ. Code §§ 44940 and 44940.5 must be paid his or her regular salary during the period of the compulsory leave of absence if he or she furnishes to the school district a suitable bond, or other security acceptable to the governing board, as a guarantee that the employee will repay to the school district the amount of salary so paid to him or her during the compulsory leave of absence in case the employee is convicted of the charges, or fails or refuses to return to service following an acquittal of the offense or dismissal of the charges. If the employee is acquitted of the offense, or the charges against the employee are dismissed, the school district must reimburse the employee for the cost of the bond on his or her return to service in the school district [Educ. Code § 44940.5(b)]. If the employee does not elect to furnish the bond or other security, and if the employee is acquitted of the offense, or the charges against him or her are dismissed without his or her guilt being established, the school board must pay the employee his or her full compensation for the period of the compulsory leave of absence on his or her return to service in the school district [Educ. Code § 44940.5(c)]. If the charges against the employee are dismissed as a result of the employee's successful completion of a drug diversion program, on the employee's return to service in the school district the employee may elect to have the district pay the employee any accrued leave, and differential pay [see Educ. Code §§ 44977, 45195, 45196], for up to the length of the employee's compulsory leave of absence [Educ. Code § 44940.5(c)]. Back pay is to be reduced by the amount of any other compensation that the teacher earned during the period of compulsory leave [Unzueta v. Ocean View School Dist. (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1689, 1693-1700, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 614] .

Any action taken by a governing board pursuant to Educ. Code § 44940.5 must be reported immediately to the Commission on Teacher Credentialing. The Commission must give priority to the investigation and resolution of such cases [Educ. Code § 44940.5(d)].

45-512 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 512.35

§ 512.35 Suspension or Transfer for Mental Illness

Any certificated employee may be suspended or transferred to other duties by the governing board if the board has reasonable cause to believe that the employee is suffering from mental illness of such a degree as to render him or her incompetent to perform his or her duties [Educ. Code § 44942(a)]. The refusal to reinstate a teacher following voluntary leave for mental illness constitutes a suspension triggering the rights provided by Educ. Code § 44942 if the teacher presents medical evidence that he or she is capable of returning to employment [see Raven v. Oakland Unified School Dist. (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 1347, 1356, 262 Cal. Rptr. 354] . The district has the burden of proving the employee's mental incompetence [Raven v. Oakland Unified School Dist. (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 1347, 1359, 262 Cal. Rptr. 354] .

The governing board must immediately give to the employee suspended or transferred a written statement of the facts giving rise to the board's belief and an opportunity to appear before the board within 10 days to explain or refute the charges [Educ. Code § 44942(b)]. If, after the employee's appearance or refusal to appear, the board decides to continue the suspension or transfer, it must offer the employee, in writing, the opportunity to be examined by a panel of three persons who are either psychiatrists or psychologists (but at least one of whom must be a psychiatrist), in accordance with Educ. Code § 44942(c). The examination and report of the panel must be conducted in accordance with Educ. Code § 44942(d).

If a majority of the panel concludes that the employee should be permitted to return to his or her duties, no written record of the suspension or of the determination of the panel may be retained, and any written record concerning the employee must appear in all respects as it did before the suspension was made [Educ. Code § 44942(e)]. If a majority of the panel finds in its report that the employee is suffering from mental illness of such a degree as to render him or her incompetent to perform his or her duties, the governing board may, on receipt of the report, place the employee on mandatory leave of absence for sickness for a period not to exceed two years, during which period the employee is entitled to sick leave, hospital, and medical benefits that accrued to him or her during his or her employment by the governing board [Educ. Code § 44942(f)].

The governing board may not require the employee to submit to a program of psychological tests or to submit to additional examinations by the panel once the first examination has been completed. If the panel fails after its first examination to make an express finding that the employee is suffering from a mental illness of such a degree as to render him or her incapable of performing his or her duties, the governing board must treat this failure as a finding that no such incapacitating mental illness exists, and must reinstate the employee to his or her position, with full salary and benefits. Because Educ. Code § 44942 does not contemplate any other ground for suspension other than incapacitating mental illness, the panel need not make a separate determination as to whether or not the employee should be returned to work once it has determined whether the existence of an incapacitating mental illness can be established [Buchan v. Las Virgenes Unified School Dist. (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 1088, 1096-1099, 177 Cal. Rptr. 788] .

An employee who is placed on mandatory sick leave for mental disability may demand a hearing in superior court pursuant to Educ. Code § 44942(g). If the court finds that the employee was not, at the time of the suspension, incompetent to perform his or her assigned duties and should not have been placed on mandatory sick leave, the employee must immediately be reinstated to the same or a substantially similar position with full back salary, and any written record of the suspension or transfer or any report of the panel must be destroyed [Educ. Code § 44942(h)].

If the court confirms the placing of the employee on mandatory sick leave, or if the employee does not request a hearing, the governing board must, on written request of the employee made not earlier than six months nor later than two years after the date the employee was placed on mandatory sick leave, convene a new panel of three persons who are either psychiatrists or psychologists (but at least one of whom must be a psychiatrist) to review the original conclusion of the board. If the original conclusion is not changed by the new panel as a result of the review, the employee must be continued on the mandatory sick leave. When the employee's total period of absence exceeds two years, the governing board must either rescind its action and reinstate the employee to the same or a substantially similar position, or serve the employee with a notice of intention to dismiss him or her [Educ. Code § 44942(i)]. If a majority of the new panel concludes in its report, or any subsequent review thereof, that the suspended employee or employee on mandatory sick leave should be permitted to return to his or her duties, or if the court so concludes, the governing board must take immediate action to restore the employee to the position from which he or she was suspended or transferred, or to a substantially similar position [Educ. Code § 44942(j)].

Every hearing and action by or before the governing board under Educ. Code § 44942 must be conducted in executive session. No decision, action, or occurrence involved in the proceeding may be made public unless the employee so requests in writing [Educ. Code § 44942(k)].

An employee who is suspended or refused reinstatement without the required procedures is entitled to back pay from the time that the hearing rights are triggered either by suspension or denial of reinstatement. Setoff of retirement system or workers' compensation permanent disability benefits is proper if the benefits were awarded on a finding that the employee could not return to work [see Bevli v. Brisco (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 986, 994, 260 Cal. Rptr. 57 (termination on other grounds); Kalinowski v. Board of Education (1979) 90 Cal. App. 3d 245, 250-251, 153 Cal. Rptr. 178 (suspension)]. For further discussion of the right to back pay and the computation of the amount, see § 512.28[9].

§ 512.36 Notice of Intent to Return to Teaching Position

A teacher in a school district having an average daily attendance of less than 2,500 must, by May 15 of each year, inform the district whether he or she intends to return to a teaching position for the following school year [Educ. Code § 44832(a), (c)]. This requirement does not apply to employees who are notified pursuant to Educ. Code § 44955 (see § 512.33[1]) [Educ. Code § 44832(a)]. The district and the exclusive bargaining representative may agree to include provisions regarding the required notice in any collective bargaining agreement applying to classroom teachers [Educ. Code § 44832(b)].

§ 512.37 Resignations

The governing board of a school district must accept the resignation of any employee and fix the time when the resignation takes effect, which generally must be no later than the close of the school year in which the resignation has been received by the board [Educ. Code § 44930(a)]. However, the employee and the governing board may agree that the resignation will be accepted as a mutually agreed date not later than two years beyond the close of the school year during which board receivers the resignation [Educ. Code § 44930(b)]. In any event, resignations that are required of school teachers for the purpose of evading the tenure statutes are without effect [Mitchell v. Board of Trustees (1935) 5 Cal. App. 2d 64, 67-68, 42 P.2d 397] , and resignations procured by the board through the exercise of undue influence may be rescinded [*see Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal. § 512.38 Reemployment After Resignation

If a permanent certificated employee resigns and then is reemployed within 39 months by the same district, the governing board must, disregarding the break in service, classify him or her as, and restore to him or her all of the rights, benefits, and burdens of, a permanent employee [Educ. Code § 44931]. This statute requires that the district give a reemployed teacher salary-schedule credit for all years of service with the district prior to resignation [Dixon v. Board of Trustees (1989) 216 Cal. App. 3d 1269, 1281-1286, 265 Cal. Rptr. 511 ; see § 512.39[2]]. However, the teacher does not regain his or her original hiring date for seniority purposes [Educ. Code § 44848; *see San Jose Teachers Assn. v. Allen (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 627, 641, 192 Cal. PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

§ 512.39 Salaries of Certificated Employees

[1] Generally

The governing board of a school district must fix and order paid the compensation of persons employed by the board in public school service requiring certification qualifications unless otherwise prescribed by law [Educ. Code § 45022].

[2] Salary Schedules

[a] Uniformity Requirement

The governing board of each school district must adopt and cause to be printed and made available to each certificated employee a schedule of salaries to be paid [Educ. Code § 45023]. Each person employed by a district in a position requiring certification qualifications, except a person employed in a position requiring an administrative or supervisory credential, must be classified on the salary schedule on the basis of uniform allowance for years of training and years of experience, except if the school district and the employees' exclusive representative negotiate and mutually agree to a salary schedule based on other criteria [Educ. Code § 45028(a); see Educ. Code § 45028(e) (public school employers and teachers' exclusive representatives are encouraged to recognize teacher contributions to improving pupil achievement, provide incentives to teachers to accept teaching assignments in areas of highest need, and recognize relevant professional experience on the salary schedule in lieu of units and degrees or in lieu of teaching experience)]. Employees must not be placed in different classifications on the schedule, or paid different salaries, solely on the basis of the respective grade levels in which the employees serve [Educ. Code § 45028(a)].

All certificated employees, regardless of their date of hire, must be classified for salary purposes, and the classification must proceed wholly on a uniform basis for years of training and experience, except if the school district and the employees' exclusive representative negotiate and mutually agree to a salary schedule based on other criteria. Disparate treatment of teachers hired before and after the effective date of Educ. Code § 45028 is not permitted [California Teachers Assn. v. Governing Board (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 695, 701, 280 Cal. Rptr. 286] .

Under the requirement of Educ. Code § 45028 that employees be classified on the salary schedule on the basis of a uniform allowance for years of training and experience, a school district must make a credit allowance for teaching experience outside the district available to all employees on a uniform basis, and may not make the availability of the credit contingent on the teacher's seniority within the system [see Palos Verdes Faculty Assn. v. Palos Verdes Peninsula Unified School Dist. (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 650, 660-661, 147 Cal. Rptr. 359, 580 P.2d 1155] . Educ. Code § 45028 does not, however, preclude a school district from adopting a pay incentive program that conditions advancement to the next salary step on the satisfactoriness of the previous year's service, provided that such a program is uniformly applied to all teachers in the district [Mayer v. Bd. of Trustees (1980) 106 Cal. App. 3d 476, 487-496, 165 Cal. Rptr. 655 ; see Palos Verdes Faculty Assn. v. Palos Verdes Peninsula Unified School Dist. (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 650, 661 n.6, 147 Cal. Rptr. 359, 580 P.2d 1155 (dictum)].

A district may not establish a system that considers years of training as a salary factor to the exclusion of years of experience. A district may not penalize teachers who fail to acquire additional training by freezing future salary increases despite acquisition of additional years of experience [California Teachers Assn. v. Governing Board (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 695, 702-703, 280 Cal. Rptr. 286 ; Wygant v. Victor Valley Joint Union High School Dist. (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 319, 329, 214 Cal. Rptr. 205] . Nor may a district limit the number of classification advances for training that a teacher may obtain to one per year. Such a limitation creates a lack of uniformity among teachers with the same training and experience based on the amount of time it takes a teacher to achieve the level of training [California Teachers Assn. v. Governing Board (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 695, 703-704, 280 Cal. Rptr. 286] .

In no case may the governing board of a school district draw orders for the salary of any teacher in violation of Educ. Code § 45028, nor may any superintendent draw any requisition for the salary of any teacher in violation thereof. Educ. Code § 45028 does not apply to teachers of special day and evening classes in elementary schools, teachers of special classes for elementary pupils, teachers of special day and evening high school classes, and substitute teachers [Educ. Code § 45028]. It is not a violation of the uniformity requirement for a school district, with the agreement of the certificated employees' exclusive representative, if any, to grant any employee who is hired after a locally specified date differential credit for prior years of experience or prior units of credit for purposes of initial placement on the district's salary schedule [Educ. Code § 45028(b)].

[b] Effect of Collective Bargaining Agreement

A district and the exclusive bargaining representative of its certificated employees must, on the request of either, meet and negotiate regarding the payment of additional compensation based on criteria other than training and years of experience [Educ. Code § 45028(a); see Educ. Code § 45028(e) (public school employers and teachers' exclusive representatives are encouraged to recognize teacher contributions to improving pupil achievement, provide incentives to teachers to accept teaching assignments in areas of highest need, and recognize relevant professional experience on the salary schedule in lieu of units and degrees or in lieu of teaching experience)]. If the parties do not reach mutual agreement, then the training and experience criteria of § 45028(a) apply [Gov. Code § 3543.2(e)]. However, Gov. Code § 3543.2(e) does not provide blanket authority for the parties to a collective bargaining agreement to deviate from Educ. Code § 45028 in any manner they choose. Years of training and years of experience are the only criteria allowable in setting base salaries. Gov. Code § 3543.2(d), (e) then allows for collective bargaining on additional compensation. However, there must be some particularized bargained-for criteria, other than years of training and years of experience, to support disparate pay between teachers with like training and experience [California Teachers' Assn. v. Livingston Union School Dist. (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 1503, 1522-1523, 269 Cal. Rptr. 160 ; San Francisco Classroom Teachers Assn. v. San Francisco Unified School Dist. (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 627, 635, 242 Cal. Rptr. 352 ; see California Teachers Assn. v. Governing Board (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 695, 704-705, 280 Cal. Rptr. 286 ; see also § 512.39[4][b]]. Thus, if teacher salary schedules are based solely on education and experience, with no other criteria established by the applicable collective bargaining agreement, the salary schedules must be wholly uniform, and teachers with the same education and experience must receive the same salary [Adair v. Stockton Unified Sch. Dist. (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1436, 1444-1447, 77 Cal. Rptr. 3d 62].

Under Gov. Code § 3543.2(d), a negotiated one-time payment to teachers does not violate the uniform pay requirement of Educ. Code § 45028 if at least one criterion on which the payment is based is neither years of training nor years of experience. For example, a school district may make a one-time payment of 3 percent of base salary limited to teachers who returned to work for a specified school year or retired at the end of the preceding school year [California Teachers Assn. v. Governing Bd. of Hilmar Unified Sch. Dist. (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 183, 189-197, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 323 (exclusion of teachers who left district's employment without retiring constituted criterion other than years of training or years of experience)].

[3] Increase or Decrease in Salary

The governing board of a school district may, at any time during the school year, increase the salaries of persons employed by the district in positions requiring certification qualification, and such an increase is effective on any date ordered by the governing board [Educ. Code § 45032]. A governing board may reduce the salary of a teacher with whom it has contracted in previous years to teach at a higher salary, if it does so in the exercise of reasonable discretion and before the beginning of the school year [Brown v. Hanford Elementary School Bd. (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 170, 174, 69 Cal. Rptr. 154] . The board may not, however, lower salaries fixed by the salary schedule after the beginning of the school year [A.B.C. Federation of Teachers v. A.B.C. Unified Sch Dist. (1977) 75 Cal. App. 3d 332, 337-338, 142 Cal. Rptr. 111] . Also, the governing board may not decrease the annual salary of any certificated employee for failure to meet any requirement of the district that the person complete additional educational units, courses of study, or work in any college or university or any equivalent thereof [Educ. Code § 45033].

[4] Mandate Proceeding for Recovery of Salary

[a] Generally

A petition for a writ of mandate is the appropriate remedy for a teacher to recover salary due from a school district [A.B.C. Fed'n of Teachers v. A.B.C. Unified School Dist. (1977) 75 Cal. App. 3d 332, 340-342, 142 Cal. Rptr. 111] .

[b] PERB Jurisdiction

If a teacher's claim for salary is based on the criteria established under Educ. Code § 45028 and the district's defense is that disparity was collectively bargained for as authorized by Gov. Code § 3543.2(d), (e) (district and employees' representative may agree on additional compensation based on other criteria [see discussion in § 512.39[2]]), one court has held that an arguable unfair labor practice is alleged that may violate the Educational Employment Relations Act (EERA) [see Gov. Code § 3540 et seq.]. In such a case, the teacher must exhaust appropriate administrative remedies before the Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) [McCammon v. Los Angeles Unified School Dist. (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 661, 664-665, 241 Cal. Rptr. 1 ; see Gov. Code § 3541.5]. However, other courts have rejected, questioned, and limited any such rule.

It has been held that exclusive PERB jurisdiction does not lie if the collective bargaining agreement predates July 28, 1983, the effective date of Gov. Code § 3543.2(d), because prior to that date, there was no authority for agreements that varied from Educ. Code § 45028 [United Teachers of Ukiah v. Board of Education (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 632, 639, 251 Cal. Rptr. 499 ; see Educ. Code § 44924 (discussed in § 512.40); see also Dixon v. Board of Trustees (1989) 216 Cal. App. 3d 1269, 1280, 265 Cal. Rptr. 511] . As for collective bargaining agreements negotiated on or after July 28, 1983, it has been held that PERB does not have exclusive jurisdiction over salary schedule placement disputes if the collective bargaining agreement and Educ. Code § 45028 are not in conflict over where the teacher should be placed on the salary schedule. Further, a placement on the salary schedule that violates any provision of the Education Code other than Educ. Code § 45028 is not within the exclusive jurisdiction of PERB by reason of being included in a collective bargaining agreement because the authority to collectively bargain over salary criteria under Gov. Code § 3543.2(d) does not include the right to violate any other provision of the Education Code [Dixon v. Board of Trustees (1989) 216 Cal. App. 3d 1269, 1280-1281, 265 Cal. Rptr. 511] .

A third court has rejected PERB jurisdiction entirely, even if compensation policies that deviate from Educ. Code § 45028 are contained in a post-July 28, 1983 collective bargaining agreement. In the view of this court, Gov. Code § 3543.2(d) permits parties to collectively bargain for such a deviation only under limited circumstances [see § 512.39[2][b]]. Whether a particular collective bargaining agreement provides appropriate criteria to deviate is not a labor-practice issue within the jurisdiction of PERB, but simply a question of whether the Education Code has been violated [California Teachers' Assn. v. Livingston Union School Dist. (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 1503, 1510-1526, 269 Cal. Rptr. 160 (noting that a failure to meet and confer on additional criteria, as required by Gov. Code § 3543.2(d), might be an unfair labor practice)].

§ 512.40 Waiver of Employment Rights as Void

Except as provided in Educ. Code § 44937 (relating to the waiver of a hearing in dismissal or suspension proceedings initiated under Educ. Code § 44934) and Educ. Code § 44956 (waiver of reemployment rights by terminated permanent employee), any contract or agreement, express or implied, made by any employee to waive the benefits of Educ. Code § 44800 et seq. (setting forth employment rights), or any part thereof, is null and void [Educ. Code § 44924]. This nonwaiver provision applies to collective bargaining agreements [see California Teachers Assn. v. Governing Board (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 695, 704-705, 280 Cal. Rptr. 286 ; *Raven v. § 512.64 Decisions

[1] Certification Documents; Denial, Revocation, Suspension

[a] Grounds

Revocation of married woman's life diploma as justified on grounds of unfitness to teach where evidence showed that she had engaged in oral copulation with three men, none of whom were her husband, in presence of strangers in semi-public atmosphere of club party and where there was expert testimony that she was unfit to teach. Pettit v. State Bd. of Education (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 29, 34-36, 109 Cal. Rptr. 665, 513 P.2d 889

Revocation of certification documents for "immoral or unprofessional conduct" or "acts involving moral turpitude" as improper under former Educ. Code § 13202 (now Educ. Code § 44421) unless such conduct indicates unfitness to teach; statute as not unconstitutional when so interpreted. Morrison v. State Board of Education (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 214, 225-235, 82 Cal. Rptr. 175, 461 P.2d 375

Record showing bare fact of teacher's arrest and conviction for possession of marijuana, without any further evidence of teacher's unfitness to teach, as insufficient to justify revocation of certification documents. Comings v. State Bd. of Educ. (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 94, 104-105, 100 Cal. Rptr. 73

Revocation of teaching credential as proper where teacher engaged in homosexual conduct in public view in public rest-room. Moser v. State Bd. of Educ. (1972) 22 Cal. App. 3d 988, 989-992, 101 Cal. Rptr. 86

Revocation of teaching credential and denial of new credential as proper where substantial evidence in form of medical testimony demonstrated appellant was unfit to teach because of her mental illness. Alford v. Department of Educ. (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 884, 888-889, 91 Cal. Rptr. 843

[b] Procedure

Standard of review in mandate proceeding to review revocation of credential. Tringham v. State Board of Education (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 507, 508, 326 P.2d 850

State Board of Education as not required to hold hearing prior to revoking credentials under former Educ. Code § 12756 (later Educ. Code § 13207, now Educ. Code § 44425) for conviction of certain sex offenses; such provision as not violating due process or equal protection. DiGenova v. State Board of Education (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 255, 259-260, 262, 288 P.2d 862 ; Purifoy v. State Bd. of Educ. (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 187, 190-198, 106 Cal. Rptr. 201

State Board of Education as under mandatory duty under former Educ. Code § 13130 (now Educ. Code § 44346) to deny application for issuance of credential by any applicant who has been convicted of certain designated sex offenses, without holding a hearing; such provision as not violating equal protection or due process. Vogulkin v. State Board of Education (1961) 194 Cal. App. 2d 424, 429-433, 15 Cal. Rptr. 335

[2] Classification

[a] Permanent Employees

School principals as not securing tenure in that capacity; failure of principal to accept assignment as classroom teacher as constituting insubordination which justifies dismissal. Board of Education v. Swan (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 546, 555-556, 261 P.2d 261

School superintendent, contract employee, is not entitled to constitutional or statutory due process rights to position as superintendent, but is entitled to due process rights granted to contract employees by school board in its rules and regulations, including predemotion rights. Jones v. Palm Springs Unified School Dist. (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 518, 523-529, 216 Cal. Rptr. 75

Supervisory personnel reassigned to other positions within scope of certificate under which tenure acquired as not entitled to notice and hearing; procedural protections of Educ. Code § 44955 as applicable only to dismissals, not reassignments. Whisman v. San Francisco Unified Sch. Dist. (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 782, 791-792, 150 Cal. Rptr. 548

Unlike classroom teachers, school administrators attain no tenure in status as administrators; school board as permitted to remove administrator for any reason satisfactory to it, without hearing, subject to requirement that administrator be furnished, on request, with statement of reasons for reassignment to different status. Hentschke v. Sink (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 19, 22, 109 Cal. Rptr. 549

Probationary teacher's right to be classified as permanent teacher as automatically renewed each year in which teacher is in position of having taught complete school year for previous three years; three-year statute of limitations of Code Civ. Proc. § 338(a) as applicable to mandamus proceeding by teacher seeking classification as permanent employee. Vittal v. Long Beach Unified School Dist. (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 112, 121-122, 87 Cal. Rptr. 319

[b] Probationary Employees

Unless statutory mandate compels otherwise, position of teacher as created and fixed by terms of employment contract; where contract between teacher and district classifies teacher as substitute, teacher as not attaining probationary status merely because she is subsequently assigned to teach classes of teacher who resigned from her position for remainder of school year. Rutley v. Belmont Elementary School Dist. (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 702, 705-706, 107 Cal. Rptr. 671

[c] Temporary Employees

Community college teacher hired on temporary basis pursuant to Educ. Code § 87482.5 but assigned to work in excess of 60 percent of full-time hours for more than two semesters or three quarters in three-year period is entitled to automatic reclassification as contract employee. Stryker v. Antelope Valley Community College Dist. (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 324, 329-338

Community college district employee hired on temporary basis pursuant to Educ. Code § 87482.5 to teach not more than 60 percent of full-time hours is not entitled to automatic reclassification to contract employee status, and such reclassification is prohibited when employee's service as substitute is on day-to-day basis. Balasubramanian v. San Diego Community College Dist. (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 977, 982-985, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 837

Temporary bilingual teacher teaching under waiver of bilingual credential requirement pursuant to Educ. Code § 52178 is not entitled to reemployment under Educ. Code § 44918 over newly hired credentialed bilingual teacher if temporary teacher has not complied with progress requirements required for waiver. Royster v. Cushman (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 65, 69-71, 261 Cal. Rptr. 458

[3] Constitutional Rights

[a] First Amendment Rights

School that reprimands science teacher for protesting requirement that he teach evolution does not violate teacher's rights under establishment clause of First Amendment; school district may also restrict teacher's conversations with students on religious matters during school day and on school property. Peloza v. Capistrano Unified School District (9th Cir. 1994) 37 F. 3d 517, 521-522

Nature of teacher's constitutional right to speak. Adcock v. Board of Educ. (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 60, 65, 68-69, 109 Cal. Rptr. 676, 513 P.2d 900

Refusal by hearing officer and school board to consider evidence that teacher was dismissed for exercise of constitutional rights whose limitation was not justified by compelling public interest as constituting legal error. Bekiaris v. Board of Education (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 575, 587-588, 100 Cal. Rptr. 16, 493 P.2d 480

When reviewing dismissal of a teacher by way of petition for writ of mandate, trial court as required to make independent assessment of evidence on question whether true reason for dismissal was teacher's exercise of constitutional rights. Bekiaris v. Board of Education (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 575, 593, 100 Cal. Rptr. 16, 493 P.2d 480

Public employer is prohibited from disciplining or discharging public employee for expressive conduct protected by U.S. Const., amends. I, XIV; however, whether employee's conduct is deemed protected speech depends on balancing of interests of employer and employee, and therefore antiwar demonstration speech by college professor that resulted in disruption, materially interfered with school activities, and impaired discipline was not protected by constitutional prohibition. Franklin v. Leland Stan. Junior University (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 322, 336, 342, 218 Cal. Rptr. 228

Trial court's refusal to order teacher reinstated was not erroneous even though there was testimony that letter written by teacher, which was partially protected by U.S. Const., amend. I, was factor in decision to deny teacher's reassignment because judge could have found that nonprotected areas of letter were only areas affecting decision, and judge could accept testimony that same decision would have been made despite existence of letter. Shimoyama v. Board of Education (1981) 120 Cal. App. 3d 517, 524-527, 174 Cal. Rptr. 748

[b] Due Process

Teacher does not have constitutionally protected liberty interest in additional assignment as baseball coach and, therefore, district's failure to renew one-year coaching contract was not actionable under 42 U.S.C.S. § 1983 (deprivation of civil rights); nonrenewal was also permissible under Educ. Code § 44923 (additional assignment given to tenured full-time employee is terminable at any time). Lagos v. Modesto City Schools Dist. (9th Cir. 1988) 843 F.2d 347, 348, 349-350

Teacher's denial of reassignment as football coach by principal who was given sole discretion by school district to make decision on hiring or firing coach was not denial of due process because those in state executive and administrative positions routinely have responsibility of appointment and dismissal, subject to review only by electorate or their administrative superiors, and there is no authority to indicate that coaches are in different category. Shimoyama v. Board of Education (1981) 120 Cal. App. 3d 517, 527-529, 174 Cal. Rptr. 748

[4] Dismissal of Permanent Employees

[a] Generally

Equitable exceptions may limit application of Educ. Code § 44944(a), which provides that school district may not dismiss or suspend permanent, certificated employee based on charges or evidence relating to matters occurring more than four years prior to filing of notice of intent to dismiss or suspend employee; thus, employee may be equitably estopped from asserting four-year limit if employee's own conduct induced school district to delay filing of notice of intent to dismiss or suspend employee. Atwater Elementary Sch. Dist. v. California Dep't of Gen. Servs. (2007) 41 Cal. 4th 227, 235-238, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 233, 158 P.3d 794

School board as not permitted to dismiss permanent teacher unless it complies with statutory procedures for dismissal; teacher failing to renew credential as not automatically forfeiting permanent status. Mass v. Board of Educ. (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 612, 617-620, 39 Cal. Rptr. 739, 394 P.2d 579

School district's substantial compliance with former Educ. Code § 44938 (now see Educ. Code § 44938(a)) and Stull Act (Educ. Code §§ 44660-44665) satisfies statutory requirements for notice of intent to dismiss certificated teacher. Governing Board v. Commission on Professional Competence (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 324, 333-334, 217 Cal. Rptr.

457

School board's unilateral termination of a teacher's contract by reason of teacher's behavior during school year as governed by Education Code provisions relating to dismissal of teachers, rather than by general contract law. Pennel v. Pond Union School Dist. (1973) 29 Cal. App. 3d 832, 838, 105 Cal. Rptr. 817

[b] Attorney's Fees

Attorney's fees in certificated employee dismissal proceedings by school district are governed by Educ. Code § 44944(e) rather than by Gov. Code § 800. Fontana Unified School Dist. v. Burman (1988) 45 Cal. 3d 208, 225, 246 Cal. Rptr. 733, 753 P.2d 689 ; Forker v. Board of Trustees (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 13, 21, 206 Cal. Rptr. 303

Employee who prevails in judicial review of commission decision is entitled to attorney's fees, as well as to costs under Code Civ. Proc. § 1032(b). Fontana Unified School Dist. v. Burman (1988) 45 Cal. 3d 208, 225, 246 Cal. Rptr. 733, 753 P.2d 689

Teacher who successfully defends against dismissal action is entitled to attorney's fees under Educ. Code § 44944(e), even though teacher's legal fees were paid under group legal plan provided by teachers association. Forker v. Board of Trustees (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 13, 21, 206 Cal. Rptr. 303 ; Russell v. Thermalito Union School Dist. (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 880, 883-884, 176 Cal. Rptr. 1

[c] Discovery

Teacher in dismissal proceeding under Educ. Code § 44944 does not have privilege accorded criminal defendant to refuse to appear as witness and testify; thus, trial court abuses discretion in refusing to grant school district's petition for order compelling teacher to appear at deposition and to produce certain documents. San Francisco Unified School Dist. v. Superior Court (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d 231, 234-236, 172 Cal. Rptr. 42

[d] Grounds

[i] Conviction of Crime

Health & Safety Code § 11361.7(b) as depriving school board of authority to dismiss permanent teacher because of arrest for, or conviction of, possession of marijuana occurring prior to January 1, 1976. Governing Board v. Mann (1977) 18 Cal. 3d 819, 826-828, 135 Cal. Rptr. 526, 558 P.2d 1

Offense of cultivation of marijuana as not involving moral turpitude as matter of law. Board of Trustees v. Judge (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 920, 923-925, 123 Cal. Rptr. 830

[ii] Evident Unfitness for Service

Finding of trial court that permanent teacher's use of supplementary reading and discussion materials containing obscene words did not justify dismissal on grounds of immoral conduct and evident unfitness for service as supported by substantial evidence. Board of Trustees v. Metzger (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 206, 210-212, 104 Cal. Rptr. 452, 501 P.2d 1172

Frequency and duration of teacher's absences are not sole criteria in determining evident unfitness to teach pursuant to former Educ. Code § 44932(e) (now see Educ. Code § 44932(a)(5)), and trial court finding that teacher was unfit was not supported by evidence that consisted of stipulation that absences were for reasons considered legitimate under school district policy. San Dieguito Union High School Dist. v. Commission on Professional Competence (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 278, 286-287, 185 Cal. Rptr. 203

Teacher's distribution of materials written by students containing obscene and vulgar language, without more, as not constituting evident unfitness for service justifying her dismissal as matter of law. Oakland Unified School Dist. v. Olicker (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 1098, 1109-1111, 102 Cal. Rptr. 421

Trial court finding that teacher's dismissal was justified on grounds of evident unfitness for service as supported by substantial evidence where record showed that teacher had repeatedly used vulgar language and gestures during classes and had torn out a loudspeaker in the classroom. Palo Verde etc. School Dist. v. Hensey (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 967, 969-976, 88 Cal. Rptr. 570

[iii] Immoral Conduct

Commission of a public sex offense as not demonstrating unfitness to teach per se and as not justifying dismissal of permanent teacher on grounds of immoral conduct. Board of Educ. v Jack M. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 691, 700-704, 139 Cal. Rptr. 700, 566 P.2d 602

Employee who has been summarily dismissed for conviction of sex offense has right to due process review of dismissal when conviction has been reversed and charges dismissed. Tuffli v. Governing Board (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 1398, 1408-1409, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 433

Viewed in its entirety, teacher's conduct of (1) while dressed as Santa Claus, inducing students to sit on his lap so that he might hug and kiss them, (2) rubbing student's thigh, (3) tightly hugging a student, and (4) holding student's hand until she pushed away constitutes immoral conducting warranting immediate suspension and dismissal without written notice of specific charges under Educ. Code § 44939. Governing Board v. Haar (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 369, 379-385, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 744

Trial court finding that probationary teacher's dismissal justified on grounds of immoral conduct as supported by substantial evidence where evidence showed that teacher had filed affidavit, later made public, admitting that she used marijuana with beneficial effects, claiming that laws prohibiting its use were unconstitutional, and advocating their change, and where there was testimony concerning her unfitness to teach. Governing Bd. v. Brennan (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 396, 401-402, 95 Cal. Rptr. 712

Dismissal of permanent teacher on grounds of immoral conduct and evident unfitness as justified where teacher discovered in compromising position with female student in his car while parked on public street and, when discovered, verbally and physically assaulted peace officer and fled from scene at high speed. Board of Trustees v. Stubblefield (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 820, 824-827, 94 Cal. Rptr. 318

[iv] Unsatisfactory Performance

Concept of incompetency does not invoke subjective analysis of individual conduct; absence in record of dismissal proceedings of empirical standards for measuring competency did not defeat educational commission's decision to dismiss teacher when decision was based on specific facts, such as teacher's failure to teach basis skills or maintain classroom discipline. Perez v. Commission on Professional Competence (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 1167, 1176, 197 Cal. Rptr. 390 (incompetency construed under Educ. Code § 48917, which was amended in 1995 to change "incompetency" to "unsatisfactory performance")

Failure of district to adopt uniform written guidelines as required by Educ. Code § 44660 does not deprive district of jurisdiction to dismiss teacher for incompetency under Educ. Code § 44938. California Teachers Assn. v. Governing Board (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 27, 33-36, 192 Cal. Rptr. 358 (incompetency construed under Educ. Code § 48917, which was amended in 1995 to change "incompetency" to "unsatisfactory performance")

[v] Persistent Violation of or Refusal to Obey School Laws or Rules

Failure to supply lesson plans for substitute teachers during numerous intermittent absences totaling 21 percent of all work days over four-year period constituted substantial evidence of violations that were stubborn and continuing, and therefore persistent. San Dieguito Union High School Dist. v. Commission on Professional Competence (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 1176, 1183, 220 Cal. Rptr. 351

In determining whether or not violations were persistent, trial court correctly considers (1) likelihood of recurrence of questioned conduct, (2) extenuating or aggravating circumstances, (3) effect of notoriety and publicity, (4) impairment of teacher-student relationships, (5) disruption of education process, (6) motive, and (7) proximity or remoteness in time of conduct. San Dieguito Union High School Dist. v. Commission on Professional Competence (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 1176, 1183, 220 Cal. Rptr. 351 (applying seven criteria outlined in Morrison v. State Board of Education (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 214, 229, 82 Cal. Rptr. 175, 461 P.2d 375)

Board improperly dismissed teacher under Educ. Code § 44932(a)(7) for repeatedly refusing to admit agreement with principal's assertion that teacher needed improvement in two areas, because difference of opinion and continual debate between teacher and principal cannot reasonably be transformed into "persistent" violation of rules. Bourland v. Commission on Professional Competence (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 317, 320-321, 219 Cal. Rptr. 906

Teacher's failure to obey school district rules by not preparing adequate and timely lesson plans for substitutes in two of 16 instances did not demonstrate willfulness as matter of law. San Dieguito Union High School Dist. v. Commission on Professional Competence (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 278, 287-288, 185 Cal. Rptr. 203

[vi] Physical or Mental Disability

Exclusive-remedy principle of workers' compensation law do not deprive employee receiving workers' compensation benefits for mental disability of due process rights provided in Education Code regarding reinstatement. Raven v. Oakland Unified School Dist. (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 1347, 1363-1366, 262 Cal. Rptr. 354

[e] Notice of Unprofessional Conduct

Plaintiff had no cause to complain of violation of 90-day notice requirement for filing charges of unprofessional conduct under former Educ. Code § 44938 (now see Educ. Code § 44938(a), 45 days notice for charges of unprofessional conduct and Educ. Code § 44938(b), 90 days notice for charges of incompetency) when charge of unprofessional conduct was dismissed at hearing. Pittsburg Unified School Dist. v. Commission on Professional Competence (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 964, 974, 194 Cal. Rptr. 672

[f] Pretermination Hearing

Cost-sharing provision of Educ. Code § 44944(e) (requiring teacher who requested hearing on threatened suspension or dismissal, but who did not ultimately prevail, to pay half of cost of administrative law judge) is unconstitutional on its face. California Teachers Assn. v. State (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 327, 345-357, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 425, 975 P.2d 622

Governing board of school district is required by Ralph M. Brown Act, Gov. Code § 54950 et seq. , to conduct open proceedings when it hears specific complaints or charges against the employee with potential disciplinary consequences. Bell v. Vista Unified Sch. Dist. (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 672, 682-684, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 263

Permanent, tenured teacher has constitutional right to procedural due process before termination of employment for cause; thus, even if permanent, tenured teacher's credential has been suspended for 10 years due to allegations of sexual misconduct, and employing school district has notified teacher of its intention to terminate teacher's employment, district cannot refuse teacher's timely request for pretermination hearing under Educ. Code § 44934 et seq.. Shields v. Poway Unified School Dist. (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 955, 958-962, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 391

[g] Judicial Review

CPC is not indispensable party, within meaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 389(a), to administrative mandamus proceeding brought by school district to challenge commission's decision that employee's dismissal was unwarranted. Fontana Unified School Dist. v. Burman (1988) 45 Cal. 3d 208, 224, 246 Cal. Rptr. 733, 753 P.2d 689

Factual finding of Commission on Professional Competence, which is professional body with experience and expertise in area of determining fitness to teach, made after extensive factual hearing with opportunity to see, hear, and evaluate veracity of witnesses, that cause was not established to discharge teacher for unfitness to teach and persistent refusal to obey district rules, was entitled to substantial weight in "independent judgment" hearing before superior court. San Dieguito Union High School Dist. v. Commission on Professional Competence (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 278, 288, 185 Cal. Rptr. 203

[5] Dismissal of Probationary Employees

[a] During School Year

Former Educ. Code § 13442 (now Educ. Code § 44948) as giving probationary teachers, employed prior to 1983-1984 fiscal year or in small school district, during school year same procedural protections applicable to dismissal of permanent teachers; where school board failed to follow required statutory procedure for terminating teacher's employment during school year, its action in dismissing teacher as nullity. Pennel v. Pond Union School Dist. (1973) 29 Cal. App. 3d 832, 839, 105 Cal. Rptr. 817

[b] End of School Year

[i] Generally

School district governing board may hold closed session on matters of performance evaluation and dismissal of probationary teacher; teacher's right to request open session under Gov. Code § 54957 applies only if board is hearing specific complaints or charges against teacher. Fischer v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 87, 95-98, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 452

Educ. Code § 44882(b), allowing dismissal without cause, without notice, and without any redress by hearing or appeal, applies to first-year probationary teachers notified of nonreelection for second school year without statement of reasons. Grimsley v. Board of Trustees (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1440, 1447-1448, 235 Cal. Rptr. 85

Probationary teacher wrongfully denied employment for particular year as entitled to recover back pay for that year, but not reinstatement for subsequent year. Tarquino v. Franklin-McKinley School Dist. (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 832, 836, 152 Cal. Rptr. 108

[ii] Grounds

Teacher's reading to class of short story containing a vulgar expression as part of lesson as not constituting cause for refusal to reemploy which relates solely to welfare of school and its pupils under facts of case. Lindros v. Governing Bd. of The Torrance Unified School Dist. (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 524, 535-538, 108 Cal. Rptr. 185, 510 P.2d 361 , cert. denied, 414 U.S. 1112, 94 S Ct 842, 38 L Ed2d 739

Failure to pass competency examination in subject as required by employment contract was sufficient grounds for failure to rehire probationary teacher. Alba v. Los Angeles Unified School Dist. (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 997, 1009, 189 Cal. Rptr. 897

[iii] Judicial Reviews

Right of probationary teacher to be rehired for succeeding year as not vested; in mandate proceeding to review decision of school board not to rehire probationary teacher, court as required to accept fact findings of school board if supported by substantial evidence. Turner v. Board of Trustees (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 818, 824-827, 129 Cal. Rptr. 443, 548 P.2d 1115 (disapproving Young v. Governing Bd. (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 769, 115 Cal. Rptr. 456 to the extent it is inconsistent)

[iv] Notice

Where school board fails to follow procedure for dismissing probationary teacher under former Educ. Code § 13443 (now Educ. Code § 44948.5), remedy as being new hearing rather than automatic reinstatement, notwithstanding that new hearing would make final notice of board's decision not to reemploy teacher before May 15 impossible. Lucas v. Board of Education (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 674, 681-683, 119 Cal. Rptr. 462, 532 P.2d 110

Under former Educ. Code § 13447(h) (now Educ. Code §§ 44948.5(i), 44955(c)), probationary teacher as deemed reemployed for subsequent year unless final notice of board's decision not to reemploy given on or before May 15 of preceding year; notice provision as mandatory. Rutherford v. Board of Trustees (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 775, 779-781, 112 Cal. Rptr. 560 ; Stewart v. San Mateo Junior College Dist. (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 345, 347-348, 112 Cal. Rptr. 272

[6] Layoffs

[a] In General

When exercising its discretion under Educ. Code § 44956 with regard to rehiring tenured employees on layoff status, school district is not permitted to impose hiring requirements on laid-off employees that are different from those imposed on continuing status employees in filling open job position. Martin v. Kentfield School District (1983) 35 Cal. 3d 294, 300-301, 197 Cal. Rptr. 570, 673 P.2d 240

Educ. Code § 44956 is intended to provide terminated school employees with same rights they would have had they been retained by school district; terminated teacher is entitled to new position over retained teacher with less seniority. Poppers v. Tamalpais Union High School Dist. (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 399, 404-407, 229 Cal. Rptr. 77

Validly laid off employee retain same employment rights as if no lay off had intervened; employee's reinstatement is not subject to requirement not imposed on other employees who continued in service. Forker v. Board of Trustees (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 13, 18-20, 206 Cal. Rptr. 303

In deciding whether to reduce or discontinue particular kind of service pursuant to Educ. Code § 44955, school district is entitled to consider its financial circumstances, and has discretion to determine necessary and proper extent to which a particular kind of service may be reduced, subject to minimum level required by law. San Jose Teachers Assn. v. Allen (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 627, 636, 638, 192 Cal. Rptr. 710

In making decision not to rehire certified employees due to reduction of particular kinds of services, school district is not required to consider positively assured attrition occurring between date of preliminary notice not to rehire and final notice in determining number of employees to be terminated. San Jose Teachers Assn. v. Allen (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 627, 630, 192 Cal. Rptr. 710

Educ. Code § 44955 does not permit monolingual teachers to be discharged in favor of junior bilingual teachers when the latter are not employed to teach classes in formal bilingual program; bilingual ability of teachers is not a criterion for evaluation of competency. Alexander v. Board of Trustees (1983) 139 Cal. App. 3d 567, 575-576, 188 Cal. Rptr. 705

Pursuant to former Educ. Code § 44955 (now see Educ. Code § 44955(b)), school district is permitted to retain certificated administrators while dismissing certificated employees with more seniority since, under that section, an administrator may be retained just as any other employee holding a special credential or needed skill, if those credentials and competency are not shared by more senior employee. Santa Clara Federation of Teachers v. Governing Board (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d 831, 842-843, 172 Cal. Rptr. 312 ; Moreland Teachers Assn. v. Kurze (1980) 109 Cal. App. 3d 648, 655, 167 Cal. Rptr. 343

March 15 notice specifying both statutory grounds for termination of employment pursuant to Educ. Code § 44955 (providing for reduction of number of certificated employees due to decline in average daily attendance or reduction in particular service) was sufficiently specific. Santa Clara Federation of Teachers v. Governing Board (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d 831, 841, 172 Cal. Rptr. 312 ; Moreland Teachers Assn. v. Kurze (1980) 109 Cal. App. 3d 648, 653, 167 Cal. Rptr. 343

In determining number of teachers to be dismissed by reason of decline in average daily attendance, school board as required to consider number of teachers who had departed system during the computation period. Burgess v. Board of Education (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 571, 578-579, 116 Cal. Rptr. 183

Where school board acts to reduce number of employees pursuant to former Educ. Code § 13447 (now Educ. Code § 44955(b)), board as without power to terminate teachers for any reason not specified in initial March 15 notice of intention to terminate. Karbach v. Board of Educ. (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 355, 363, 114 Cal. Rptr. 84

[b] Notice

Preliminary notice pursuant to Educ. Code §§ 44949(a) and 44955 recommending termination of certain certified employees because of reduction in particular kinds of services is sufficiently specific if it designates categories of services to be reduced or discontinued even though specific positions to be eliminated are not specified. San Jose Teachers Assn. v. Allen (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 627, 630, 192 Cal. Rptr. 710

[7] Mental Illness

Governing board must treat lack of express finding by psychiatric panel after examination pursuant to Educ. Code §

44942(c) that employee is suffering from mental illness of such degree as to render him or her incompetent to perform duties as finding that employee is not suffering from such mental illness; governing board is not permitted to require psychological testing or additional examinations after one examination has been conducted. Buchan v. Las Virgenes Unified School Dist. (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 1088, 1096, 1098, 177 Cal. Rptr. 788

[8] Preferential Hiring

Preferential reemployment rights granted to certain substitute and temporary teachers under Educ. Code § 44918 apply to teachers hired as temporaries under the provisions of Educ. Code § 44920. Taylor v. Board of Trustees (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 500, 502, 507, 204 Cal. Rptr. 711, 683 P.2d 710

[9] Resignations

Former Educ. Code § 13260 (renumbered Educ. Code § 44842) as giving governing board discretionary authority to determine whether failure by permanent teacher to notify board of intention to remain by statutory deadline should constitute declining of employment; school district as abusing discretion where board had taken no action to employ a replacement teacher prior to teacher's notice that he intended to continue and where district did not suffer any other prejudice, detriment, harm, or injury whatsoever as a result of teacher's inadvertent failure to return contract by deadline date. California Teachers Ass'n v. Governing Bd. (1977) 70 Cal. App. 3d 833, 842-843, 139 Cal. Rptr. 155

Resignations required of school teachers and accepted as subterfuge in attempt to evade tenure statutes as without effect. Mitchell v. Board of Trustees (1935) 5 Cal. App. 2d 64, 67-68, 42 P.2d 397

[10] Salaries

Proper remedy for Educ. Code § 45028 violation is reclassification of all affected teachers to afford them full credit for all prior teaching experience, rather than mere backpay for period of violation or downward reclassification of favorably treated teachers who already had vested rights to their salaries. United Teachers of Ukiah v. Board of Education (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 632, 644, 644 n.10, 251 Cal. Rptr. 499

Salary schedule that subclassifies top "experience" classification violated Educ. Code § 45028 when it distinguished among equally highly trained teachers with equal seniority, who had served district equal number of years, solely on basis of order in which years of training and years of service accrued. San Francisco Classroom Teachers Assn. v. San Francisco Unified School Dist. (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 627, 633-634, 242 Cal. Rptr. 352

Statute of limitations barring claim for earned but unpaid salary does not bar teacher from receiving retirement service credits under State Teachers' Retirement System. California Teachers Assn. v. Governing Board (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 35, 41-45, 214 Cal. Rptr. 777

School district's professional growth policy, which denied credit for years of experience as teacher based on failure to obtain certain number of specified professional growth units, violated Educ. Code § 45028, which requires salary classification of employees to be based on uniform allowance for years of training and years of experience. Wygant v. Victor Valley Joint Union High School Dist. (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 319, 326, 330, 214 Cal. Rptr. 205 (construing Educ. Code § 45028 prior to effective date of Gov. Code § 3543.2(d), which allows school and representative to negotiate regarding payment of additional compensation based on criteria other than years of training and experience)

School district rule governing salary advancement of certificated teachers, which limited teacher who advanced on salary schedule from one column to next on attainment of higher educational level to a one-step increase for experience, even though teacher had additional years of experience and new column had steps for those additional years of experience, violated Educ. Code § 45028, which requires that each person employed by district in position requiring certification qualifications be classified on salary schedule on basis of uniform allowance for years of training and years of experience. California Teachers Assn. v. Board of Education (1982) 129 Cal. App. 3d 826, 828, 181 Cal. Rptr. 432

Teacher's application for and receipt of disability benefits as not by itself effecting retirement or termination of previous employment status or of right to reinstatement. Kalinowski v. Board of Education (1979) 90 Cal. App. 3d 245 249-250, 153 Cal. Rptr. 178

2. Notice of Dismissal.

NOTE:
If the cause for dismissal is unprofessional conduct or unsatisfactory performance [*see Educ. This previous notice must include a copy of the evaluation conducted pursuant to Educ. Code § 44664 [Educ. Code § 44938(a), (b)]. If the cause for dismissal is unprofessional conduct, this previous notice must have been given at least 45 calendar days before the notice of dismissal described below [Educ. Code § 44938(a)]. If the cause is unsatisfactory performance, this previous notice ordinarily must have been given at least 90 calendar days before the notice of dismissal described below [Educ. Code § 44938(b)].

(1) For grounds specified in Educ. Code § 44932 may not be given between May 15 and September 15 [Educ. Code § 44936].

g. Expenses of hearing: if Commission on Professional Competence determines that employee should not be dismissed or suspended, governing board must pay expenses of hearing, including following [Educ. Code § 44944(e)]:

NOTE:

The Supreme Court has held a cost-sharing provision of Educ. Code § 44944(e) unconstitutional on its face. That provision required a teacher who requested a hearing on his or her threatened suspension or dismissal, but who did not ultimately prevail (either at the administrative level or after judicial review), to pay half the cost of the administrative law judge [California Teachers Assn. v. State (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 327, 345-357, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 425, 975 P.2d 622] . See discussion in § 512.28[6][i].

1. Petitioner is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a resident of _____ County, California.

[EITHER, if petitioner seeks review of revocation or suspension of credential]

2. Petitioner is now, and at all times herein mentioned was, the holder of a valid _____ [identify type of credential or life diploma held, e.g., teaching credential], authorizing him/her to _____ [describe services authorized by credential or life diploma, e.g., teach mathematics in all public secondary schools in the State of California], duly issued by the _____ [State Board of Education or respondent Commission on Teacher Credentialing].

[OR, if petitioner seeks review of denial of credential]

On or about _____, [date], petitioner applied to respondent Commission on Teacher Credentialing for a _____ [describe type of certification document applied for, as above] in compliance with all statutes and administrative regulations governing such an application.

3. Respondent Commission on Teacher Credentialing is an administrative agency of the State of California charged by law with the duty of implementing the provisions of Sections 44200 through 44354 of the Education Code, of establishing and promulgating standards and procedures for certifying educational personnel as qualified for a license to practice in the public schools of California, and of supporting, facilitating, and delineating functions and programs of preparation for the teaching profession. Pursuant to Sections 44242.5 and 44246 of the Education Code, Sections 11500 through 11528 of the Government Code, and the decisional law of this state, respondent Commission on Teacher Credentialing is required to hold a hearing and take evidence in its proceedings for the determination of those facts.

5. 6. On _____ [date], petitioner received respondent commission's decision and order _____ [denying petitioner's application for a _____ (credential or life diploma) or _____ (suspending or revoking) petitioner's _____ (credential or life diploma)] on the ground that _____ [specify ground for action, e.g., petitioner had committed an act involving moral turpitude]. 8. Respondent commission's decision and order are invalid for the following reasons: _____ [in subparagraphs which follow, state reasons why decision is invalid, e.g.,

a. The administrative law judge found that _____ (state all findings). Respondent commission does not have authority to _____ (deny petitioner's application or _____ (revoke or suspend) petitioner's _____ (credential or life diploma)) based on any of these findings in that such findings do not constitute _____ (specify statutory ground for action taken, e.g., an act involving moral turpitude) or any other ground for _____ (denial or suspension or revocation) of a _____ (credential or life diploma).

b. The evidence received at the hearing does not support the findings for the following reasons: _____ (specify).

c. _____ (In this and following subparagraphs, allege any other reasons for invalidity of decision under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5, such as action by respondent without or in excess of authority, denial of a fair hearing, or abuse of discretion as established by a failure to proceed as required by law or failure of the findings to support the decisions. For examples of such allegations, see the petition for writ of mandate to review an administrative decision in the Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions, §§ 474C.90, 474C.91)].

[9. If appropriate, add: Petitioner has the following relevant evidence that was not produced at the hearing: _____ (describe evidence completely). This evidence could not be produced at the hearing because _____ (specify reason why, in the exercise of reasonable diligence, petitioner could not produce evidence and why, if appropriate, evidence could not be produced on reconsideration). This evidence tends to show that _____ (state what evidence will prove).]

11. Petitioner has exhausted all his/her administrative remedies, as alleged above, and the decision of respondent has become final insofar as respondent is presently concerned.

12. Petitioner has no plain, speedy, or adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law in that the law provides no other means whereby petitioner can require respondent to set aside its decision.

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays judgment as follows:

[1. If alternative writ procedure is used: For an alternative writ of mandate directing respondent to set aside its decision and order of _____(date), _____ (denying petitioner's application for issuance of a _____ (specify nature of certification document applied for, e.g., teaching credential) and to _____ (reconsider whether petitioner is entitled to receive a _____ (specify nature of document applied for, as above), as applied for, or issue petitioner a _____ (specify nature of document applied for, as above), as applied for, or _____ (revoking or suspending) petitioner's _____ (specify type of certification document held by petitioner, e.g., teaching credential) and to reinstate petitioner's _____ (specify type of document held by petitioner, as above) as it existed before that order was issued), or in the alternative to show cause why a peremptory writ of mandate to the same effect should not be issued;]

[2. If petitioner seeks a stay of operation of administrative order or decision pending judgment, state: For an order restraining respondent from giving effect to its order of _____ (date), _____ (specify effect of order, e.g., revoking petitioner's teaching credential) until further order of the court and to show cause why operation of that order should not be stayed pending judgment in this proceeding;]

[4. For reasonable attorney's fees, in addition to any other relief granted or other costs awarded;]

5. For costs of suit herein incurred [add, if appropriate:, including $_____ for preparation of the administrative record]; and

6. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the petitioner in the above-entitled proceeding. I have read the foregoing petition and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [signature]

CAUTION:

This petition must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086]. Proof of service of a copy of the petition on each respondent and real party in interest must accompany the petition when it is offered for filing (except when, in its discretion and for good cause, the court has granted the application for the writ ex parte) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107]. However, in a trial court, if no alternative writ is sought, proof of service of a copy of the petition need not accompany the application for the writ at the time of filing, but proof of service of a copy of the filed petition must be lodged with the court prior to a hearing or any action by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1088.5]. Points and authorities also customarily accompany a petition for writ of mandate filed in superior court, although they do not appear to be expressly required by statute.

[2] Use of Form

[a] In General

This form is a petition for a writ of mandate for use by an aggrieved applicant for, or holder of, a credential or life diploma to obtain judicial review of an administrative decision by the Commission on Teacher Credentialing to deny, suspend, or revoke the credential or life diploma. This petition is to be used where the decision to deny, suspend, or revoke the document is the result of an evidentiary hearing required by law [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; see also discussion in § 516.160[4]]. For a complete discussion of petitions for writs of mandate to review administrative decisions, see Ch. 474, Availability of Review of Agency Decisions , through Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions .

The petitioner may proceed by either the alternative writ procedure or the noticed application procedure, as described below.

[b] Alternative Writ Procedure

If petitioner proceeds by the alternative writ procedure, he or she should prepare a petition, an order for issuance of an alternative writ (if local rules or practice so require), and an alternative writ of mandate. He or she must serve a copy of the petition on each respondent and real party in interest, and file the petition along with proof of service [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1107]. At the time of filing the petition, the alternative writ is deposited, but not filed, with the clerk of the court. Five days after the filing of the petition, the court must examine the papers on file and either issue or decline to issue the alternative writ. During the five-day period, the respondent or real party in interest may file a memorandum of points and authorities in opposition to the issuance of the writ, and serve a copy of the memorandum on the petitioner [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1107]. If the court decides to issue the alternative writ, the judge either signs the order for issuance or signs the writ itself. A copy of the writ is then served on respondent and real party in interest in the same manner as a summons [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1096]. The alternative writ commands the respondent to either do the specified act or to appear at a time and place specified in the writ and show cause why a peremptory writ of mandate ordering respondent to do the act should not be issued [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1087].

For a form of alternative writ of mandate, see Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions .

[c] Noticed Application Procedure

If petitioner follows the noticed application procedure, he or she should prepare a petition and a notice fixing a time (at least 10 days after the notice) and place for hearing the petition [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1088]. Copies of these papers are then served on the respondent and real party in interest and the petition and notice are then filed along with proof of service [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1107]. However, if proof of service is not filed with the petition pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1088.5, copies of these papers may be filed and served in the same manner as in an ordinary civil action [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1088.5]. Respondent or real party in interest may file points and authorities in opposition to the petition within five days after the filing of the petition [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1107]. If the petition is filed in the trial court pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1088.5, the respondent has 30 days to answer or otherwise respond after service of the petition when a record of the proceeding to be reviewed has been filed with the petition or when no record is required, or has 30 days to answer or otherwise respond following receipt of a copy of the record if a record has been requested pursuant to Gov. Code § 11523 or otherwise, and the record has not been filed with the petition [Code Civ. Proc. § 1089.5]. No alternative writ is issued under the noticed application procedure. Instead, the court hears the petition and respondent's answer, if any, on the date fixed by the notice for the hearing. If the court determines that issuance of a writ of mandate is proper, it issues, or orders issued, the peremptory writ [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1086, 1088, 1089, 1094].

For a form of notice of application for a writ of mandate, see Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions .

[3] Allegations

The petition alleges:

- Petitioner's capacity and residence (Paragraph 1).

- Petitioner's beneficial interest in the respondent's decision to deny, suspend, or revoke his or her credential or life diploma, and thus in the issuance of the writ [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086] (Paragraph 2).

- Capacity of respondents (Paragraph 3).

- The discretionary authority of respondents Commission on Teacher Credentialing and Committee of Credentials to determine whether grounds exist to deny, suspend, or revoke a credential or life diploma [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a); see Educ. Code §§ 44242.5, 44243, 44244, 44246] (Paragraph 4).

- That a hearing is required to be held and evidence taken [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a); see Educ. Code §§ 44242.5, 44246; Gov. Code §§ 11500-11528; Matteson v. State Bd. of Educ. (1943) 57 Cal. App. 2d 991, 998, 136 P.2d 120] (Paragraph 4) .

- Facts regarding the holding of the hearing (Paragraphs 5-7).

- Reasons for the invalidity of the decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b); see discussion in § 512.160[5]] (Paragraph 8).

- Where appropriate, the nature of any additional, relevant evidence that could not, in the exercise of reasonable diligence, have been produced at the administrative hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e)] (Paragraph 9).

- Where appropriate, the amount of attorney's fees claimed under Gov. Code § 800 [see discussion in § 512.160[6]] (Paragraph 10).

- Exhaustion of administrative remedies [see Abelleira v. District Court of Appeal (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 280, 291-296, 109 P.2d 942] (Paragraph 11) .

- Petitioner's lack of a plain, speedy, or adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086] (Paragraph 12).

For a complete discussion of the essential allegations of a petition for writ of mandate to review an administrative decision, see Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions, § 474C.90[5].

[4] Evidentiary Hearing Required

This petition is for review of an administrative decision pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5. One of the prerequisites to the maintenance of a mandate proceeding under that section is that there be a requirement in law that a hearing be held and that evidence be taken by the administrative agency [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a); see Paragraph 4]. Thus, this procedure may not be used to review the denial of an application for a credential pursuant to Educ. Code § 44346 (mandatory denial of credential on conviction of certain crimes) or the revocation of a credential pursuant to Educ. Code § 44424 or 44425 (mandatory revocation of credential on conviction of certain crimes), for which no hearing is required by law [see DiGenova v. State Board of Education (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 255, 259-260, 288 P.2d 862 ; Vogulkin v. State Board of Education (1961) 194 Cal. App. 2d 424, 428-429, 15 Cal. Rptr. 335] . However, a decision to deny a credential pursuant to Educ. Code § 44345 (discretionary denial of credential for certain grounds) or to revoke or suspend a credential under Educ. Code § 44422 (discretionary revocation or suspension of credential for certain grounds) is reviewable under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 because an evidentiary hearing is required in such cases [see Educ. Code §§ 44242.5(b), 44246, 44422; Matteson v. State Bd. of Educ. (1943) 57 Cal. App. 2d 991, 998, 136 P.2d 120 ; see also discussions in §§ 512.15[2] and 512.16[4]].

[5] Invalidity of Decision

The decision of an administrative agency made as a result of an evidentiary hearing required by law may be invalid under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 for any of the following reasons [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b); see Paragraph 8]:

(1) The agency proceeded without, or in excess of, jurisdiction, as, for example, when respondent denies, suspends, or revokes petitioner's credential for reasons other than those prescribed by law;

(2) Petitioner was denied a fair trial; or

(3) The agency abused its discretion in one of the following ways: (a) it did not proceed in the manner required by law; (b) the decision is not supported by the findings resulting from the administrative hearing; or (c) the findings are not supported by the evidence received at the hearing.

[6] Attorney's Fees

In any civil action to appeal or review the award, finding, or other determination of any administrative proceedings under the Government Code or under any other provision of state law, except actions by the State Board of Control, if it is shown that the award, finding, or other determination of the proceeding was the result of arbitrary or capricious action or conduct by a public entity or an officer thereof in his or her official capacity, the prevailing complainant may collect reasonable attorney's fees, computed at $100 per hour but not to exceed $7,500, from the public entity, if he or she is personally obligated to pay such fees, in addition to any other relief granted or other costs awarded [Gov. Code § 800; see Paragraph 10].

[7] Venue

Venue in a mandate proceeding brought under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 393(b) [Lynch v. Superior Court (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 929, 930-931, 86 Cal. Rptr. 925] . Code Civ. Proc. § 393(b) provides that the county in which the cause of action, or some part thereof, arose is the proper county for the trial of an action against a public officer or person especially appointed to execute his or her duties for an act done by him or her by virtue of the public office, or against a person who does anything touching the duties of the public officer by the officer's command or in his or her aid.

[8] Time for Filing Petition

Where judicial review pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is sought of a decision made pursuant to a proceeding conducted under Gov. Code §§ 11500-11528 (governing administrative hearings), the petition for writ of mandate must be filed within 30 days after the last day on which reconsideration can be ordered [Gov. Code § 11523; see Gov. Code § 11521]. The limitation period does not begin to run until a copy of the administrative decision has been delivered or mailed to the petitioner [Koons v. Placer Hills Union Sch. Dist. (1976) 61 Cal. App. 3d 484, 490, 132 Cal. Rptr. 243] .

[9] Verification

A petition for writ of mandate must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086].

[Verification. See § 512.160.]

CAUTION:

This petition must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086]. Proof of service of a copy of the petition on each respondent and real party in interest must accompany the petition when it is offered for filing (except when, in its discretion and for good cause, the court has granted the application for the writ ex parte) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107]. However, in a trial court, if no alternative writ is sought, proof of service of a copy of the petition need not accompany the application for the writ at the time of filing, but proof of service of a copy of the filed petition must be lodged with the court prior to a hearing or any action by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1088.5]. Points and authorities also customarily accompany a petition for writ of mandate filed in superior court, although they do not appear to be expressly required by statute.

[2] Use of Form

[a] In General

This form is a petition for a writ of mandate for use by a certificated permanent employee of a public school district to obtain judicial review of an administrative decision by a Commission on Professional Competence that the employee should be dismissed. The employee may proceed by either the alternative writ procedure or the noticed application procedure, as discussed in § 512.160[2][b] and [c]. For a complete discussion of petitions for writs of mandate to review administrative decisions, see Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions .

[b] Related Uses

In an appropriate case, this form may be adapted for use when a permanent certificated employee has been suspended without pay for a specific period of time [see Educ. Code §§ 44932(b), 44933].

[3] Allegations

The petition alleges:

- Petitioner's status as a permanent employee, and thus his or her beneficial interest in the issuance of the writ [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1086] (Paragraph 2).

- Capacity of respondents and real parties in interest (Paragraphs 3, 4).

- Respondent's discretion to determine whether or not cause exists for dismissal, and requirement in law that an evidentiary hearing be held [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a); see Educ. Code § 44944] (Paragraph 5).

- Notice of intention to dismiss by governing board and demand for hearing by petitioner [Educ. Code §§ 44934, 44937, 44943] (Paragraph 6).

- Facts regarding holding of the hearing (Paragraphs 7-9).

- Reasons for invalidity of the decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b)] (Paragraph 10).

The allegations in this petition which consist of cross references to allegations contained in other forms are set forth in the Comments to those forms in §§ 512.160[3], 512.161[3], 512.166[3], 512.167[3], 512.168[3], 512.169[3], and 512.170[3].

[4] Attorney's Fees

Gov. Code § 800 (providing that complainant who prevails in civil action to review determination of administrative proceeding may recover reasonable attorney's fees, computed at $100 per hour, but not exceeding $7,500, if determination is found to be arbitrary or capricious) does not apply to proceedings to dismiss a permanent certificated employee under Educ. Code § 44944. Attorney's fees in such proceedings are governed instead by Educ. Code § 44944(e) which provides, in part, that if the Commission on Professional Competence determines that the employee should not be dismissed, the governing board of the school district must pay the expenses of the hearing, including reasonable attorney's fees incurred by the employee [Board of Educ. v. Commission on Professional Competence (1980) 102 Cal. App. 3d 555, 562-563, 162 Cal. Rptr. 590 ; see California Teachers Assn. v. State (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 327, 345-357, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 425, 975 P.2d 622 (invalidating portion of Educ. Code § 44944(e) that would have required teacher who did not ultimately prevail (either at the administrative level or after judicial review), to share cost of hearing)]. Although Educ. Code § 44944(e) does not specifically refer to attorney's fees in a mandate proceeding to judicially review the dismissal of a permanent employee, the courts have held that a permanent employee who prevails in such a mandate proceeding is entitled to reasonable attorney's fees [see Board of Educ. v. Commission on Professional Competence (1980) 102 Cal. App. 3d 555, 565-566, 162 Cal. Rptr. 590 ; De Groat v. Newark Unified School Dist. (1976) 62 Cal. App. 3d 538, 542, 133 Cal. Rptr. 225] .

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use in a petition for writ of mandate to review the administrative decision of a Commission on Professional Competence to dismiss a permanent certificated employee. It may be inserted as a subparagraph of Paragraph 10 in see § 512.161. With appropriate modifications, this allegation may also be included in a petition for writ of mandate to review the determination of the governing board of a school district not to reemploy a probationary teacher for the ensuing school year [see § 512.166].

For forms of allegations that the school district dismissed petitioner for unsatisfactory performance or unprofessional conduct without giving petitioner previous notice and an opportunity to correct his or her deficiencies as required by Educ. Code § 44938, see §§ 512.164 and 512.165.

[3] Failure to Follow Statutory Procedure

This allegation alleges that respondent failed to proceed as required by law. Failure by an administrative agency to proceed in the manner required by law establishes abuse of discretion which may invalidate an administrative decision [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a)]. When the governing board of a school district fails to follow the statutory procedures required by law for dismissal of a teacher, any subsequent dismissal is invalid [*see Mass v. Board of Educ. This allegation is for use in a petition for writ of mandate to review the administrative decision of a Commission on Professional Competence to dismiss a permanent certificated employee. It may be inserted as a subparagraph of Paragraph 10 in see § 512.161. It alleges that respondent was without authority to dismiss petitioner for immoral or unprofessional conduct because of the failure to show that petitioner is unfit to teach. A permanent teacher may not be dismissed on grounds of immoral or unprofessional conduct unless his or her conduct indicates unfitness to teach [*Board of Educ. v. Jack M. CAUTION:

This petition must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086]. Proof of service of a copy of the petition on each respondent and real party in interest must accompany the petition when it is offered for filing (except when, in its discretion and for good cause, the court has granted the application for the writ ex parte) [*Code Civ. However, in a trial court, if no alternative writ is sought, proof of service of a copy of the petition need not accompany the application for the writ at the time of filing, but proof of service of a copy of the filed petition must be lodged with the court prior to a hearing or any action by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1088.5]. Points and authorities also customarily accompany a petition for writ of mandate filed in superior court, although they do not appear to be expressly required by statute.
